AT THE Movies

NORTH TO ALASKA, starring John Wayne, Stewart Granger, Ernie Kovacs and Capucine. Amid strike-it-rich excitement that sparks the atmosphere at Nome, Alaska, in the year 1900, two brash partners come to a parting of the ways as they set out on a man-hunt for the confidence men who have cross-filed on their hard-won stake.

INVASION QUARTET, starring Bill Travers and Spike Milligan. Unwilling to sit out the remainder of World War II in an English military hospital, four convalescing British officers overcome extraordinary odds and howlingly funny complications in staging their own private invasion of German-occupied France.

BLOOD AND ROSES, starring Mel Ferrer and Elsa Martinelli. A story of a beautiful young woman, driven by a strange mystery shrouding her past that is terribly shocking.

BOOKS in REVIEW

TO THE REAR, MARCH by Joseph Coogan. (Doubleday, 1961)

This novel is an outrageously comic, swift-moving story of a non-regulation GI who, in chasing an absurd dream of glory, creates hell for himself and hilarity for the reader. There is the fake Nazi plot bogus British "leftenant" from an equally bogus Royal Research Center — all conceived by Private Leary.

SPORTS ANNUAL by Red Smith. (Crown, 1961)

Sports writer extraordinary, Red Smith covers the major events of the year, Casey Stengel was fired, Patterson knocked out Johansson, and the Olympics took place in Rome. Going from coast to coast, as well as to Europe, and following the sports with seasons, Red Smith packs his writing with a vividness that novelists may envy and humor that makes each page a pleasure. Unlike most compilations of this kind, the whole is even superior to the sum of its parts.

THE HEART OF THE FOREST by Adrian Cowell. (Knopf, 1961)

Three years ago Adrian Cowell, a young Englishman in search of adventure, joined the Villas Boas brother's expedition to the Geographical Center of Brazil. Like the climbing of Everest and the crossing of Antarctica, this journey to the heart of Amazonia symbolized man's conquest of one of the untamed regions of the earth — the Xingu River Basin.

TIMBERLINE BONANZA by Allan V. Elston. (Lippincott, 1961)

This double-barreled thriller is one of Allan V. Elstin's best, loaded with action and suspense, gunplay and violence, and based on thorough research of contemporary news files and interviews with old-timers who remember the heyday of "Leadville Fever."

THE FUTURE OF OUR CITIES by Robert A. Futterman. (Doubleday, 1961)

An analysis of the forces — economic, geographic, and human — which influences the development of urban America, by a young man who has built a real-estate empire on his ability to predict the future of our cities.

RATHER HEAR

Most people would say that their eyesight is more valuable than their hearing. But most people who are both deaf and blind, according to Dr. Norton Canfield, Yale University School of Medicine, would prefer having their hearing to their eyesight.

It Used to be Ants That Enjoyed Picnics Most

What's your choice — a saber-toothed tiger or a few ants?

Both of these creatures have one thing in common — picnics. The tiger was an occasional visitor at the first picnics, 50,000 or so years ago, when the cavemen huddled around a fire and roasted fresh-killed meat. The tiger was attracted, of course, by the smell.

And ants? Well, they do show up now and then at modern picnics. But not enough to spoil the fun, for we know how to take care of them.

Nowadays, picnics are more fun than they used to be. For one thing, portable grills and coolers; disposable plastic knives, spoons and forks; colorful paper plates, handy cups and other things take the work out of outdoor eating. The food is more imaginative and varied. The clean-up is a snap. You do the dishes, when they're paper, with a match!

The Greeks had picnics 2,500 years ago. Naturally, they had a word for them — "contributor feasts." In London, in 1802, some fashionable people organized a picnic society. Before any outing, they would decide on a menu. They would draw lots to decide what each member would provide. But there was some dissatisfaction, probably disputes over who would furnish the expensive entree as opposed to the inexpensive items. Anyway, the Society was disbanded after only a year.

But the picnic idea caught on. Within 50 years, picnics were common. Some were large enough to feed a hungry small-sized army. Following is a typical menu for a picnic-for-40 given by an English woman:

"A joint of cold roast beef, a joint of cold boiled beef, 2 ribs of lamb, 2 shoulders of lamb, 4 roast fowls, 2 roast ducks, 1 ham, 1 tongue, 2 veal and ham pies, 2 pigeon pies, 6 medium-size lobsters, 1 piece of collared calves head, 18 lettuces, 6 baskets of salad, 6 cucumbers."

Beverages included soda, ale and wine. As for utensils, you were advised to bring along good china and your very best sterling silverware.

This was status seeking — 1861 vintage.

Meanwhile, Americans were coming up with their own kinds of picnics. The Pilgrims learned from the Indians and held clambakes. The Virginians learned from West Indian tribes and held barbecues with an entire ox as the bill of fare.

According to anthropologists, the clambake, the barbecue and the Hawaiian luau really date back to the superstitions of the primitive Israelites. They invited the entire tribe to share their kill — not from generosity, but because they were afraid uninvited guests would hex their feast!

What did your grandparents eat on their picnics? Some dishes were rather uninspired — like chicken sandwiches, stuffed eggs, and baked beans in relish. But a recipe book of 1915 also suggests sandwiches of cottage cheese and whole peanuts; cheese-sauce sandwiches; and something called "Ham sandwiches tartare" — minced ham, mayonnaise, tarragon, vinegar, mustard, what do they do? On a cold day, some of them take a rifle or fishing rod and march into the woods. After hunting or fishing, they light a fire and huddle around it cooking their fresh-killed meat, just like those cavemen of 50,000 years ago.

Recommended hot dishes included oysters a la king, lobster, and eggs Newburgh — made at home and "turned into the hot thermos vacuum jar."

Patented in 1907, the vacuum jar was the first in a long line of modern conveniences. There came also inflatable plastic cushions to sit on, straw roll-warmers, oak barrels holding four gallons of liquid, and paper cups, invented in 1908. Now you can even buy trays attached with spikes that are tapped into the ground to convert the tray into a little table.

All of which leads some people to the conclusion that picnics are getting too fancy. So

Masquers--Unmasked

By Pvt. Chuck Pariso

The Masquers little theater group has almost completed casting for its latest production, "Tea and Sympathy," to be presented in mid-October.

Peter Tatischeff has been chosen for the lead role of Tom Lee, the persecuted and lonely individual who is frowned upon because of his artistic abilities. This role was originally created in the broadway production by John Kerr.

Margo Carter plays Laura Reynolds, a woman who can see only the good in man, and is considered to be a little out of the ordinary human frame of mind. Deborah Kerr played the original role in the broadway production.

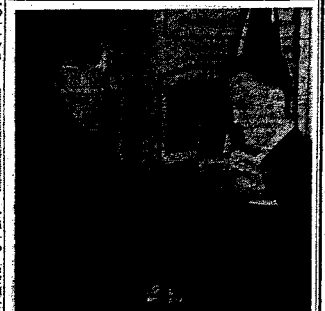
The "regular guy," Bill Reynolds, the husband, will be played by Vince DeDario. Herb Lee, Tom's father, will be characterized by Don Baird.

Other parts in this latest production include Lilly Sears, to be played by a vivacious new-comer to the group, Barbara Kelly. Mike Stearns will play Ralph. Al will be played by Elliot Paul. Jim Dyer will portray Steve. Phil will be characterized by myself. Don Fury is currently handling the part of Harris, the controversial schoolmaster.

Phyllis Tritsch will direct the play and Elliot Paul will handle production.

Stage Manager is Doug Moir.

Local Pastor To Address Woman's Group



Dr. Sidney A. Gates, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Columbus, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Women-of-the-Chapels on post Wednesday, August 23, at 9:30 a.m. in the Religious Education Center, Building 2005.

Dr. Gates will speak on "The Holy Spirit."

The devotional will be led by Mrs. Grace Woolf.

All Protestant women of the post have been invited to attend the meeting.

AER Total Stands At $17,240

Infantry Center personnel volunteered $17,240 during the annual fund drive for the Army Emergency Relief and Army Relief Society.

This amount has been reported to the Personal Affairs Branch of the Infantry Center Adjutant General Section.

Drive officials hope to reach the goal of $18,732 with donations during the rest of August and from units not yet reporting results of their canvas.

Infantry Center units exceeding their goals are Lawson Army Aviation Command, 121 per cent, 151st Engineer Group, 112 per cent, 1st Infantry Brigade, 111 per cent, 428th Medical Battalion, 109 per cent and The Student Brigade, 108 per cent.

Most of The Infantry Center Staff Sections and The Infantry School's departments have also topped their goals.

At Sertoma Meet

Club Told Civilians' Post Role

Tillman A. Barefoot, civilian personnel officer of The Infantry Center, addressed the Columbus Sertoma Club Wednesday.

The luncheon session was held at the Columbus Country Club.

"Utilization of Civilian Employees at Fort Benning" was Barefoot's topic.

Barefoot has headed the Civil Service section at the post for 14 years. He has worked in the personnel management field at The Infantry Center since October, 1940.

He received a two-year diploma from Troy (Ala.) State College in 1936. He is married, and the father of two sons.

FOREIGN DUTY PAY

When enlisted members are on duty outside the continental limits of the United States, elsewhere than in a territory or possession of the United States of which they are residents, they are entitled to foreign duty pay.

New Insect Repellent is Issued to Army

A new insect repellent called "deet" is being issued to Army personnel in the field.

Deet is the entomologist's nickname for the meta isomer of diethyltoluamide, which comprises 75 per cent of the new repellent. It replaces the Army's previous standard repellent, M-2020.

Recommended for standard use for the services by the Armed Forces Pest Control Board and officially adopted by the Army Quartermaster Corps Technical Committee recently, deet is now being issued by general depots in the U.S. and Pacific areas.

The greaseless substance will repel most insects, including mosquitoes, fleas, chiggers, ticks, deer flies, and biting gnats. It is effective under conditions of heavy rainfall and extreme heat.

Deet, which has a faint and relatively pleasant odor, was developed several years ago by the Department of Agriculture with Army medical research funds. It has been tested extensively by the Army Environmental Hygiene Agency of the Army Medical Service.

Field tests of deet by the Army Medical Research and Development Command found it gave excellent protection against land leeches that inhabit the jungles of Southeast Asia and against hordes of mosquitoes in mangrove swamps.

Reserve Training Cycle Ends With 2 Weeks Here

Over 650 reserve officers attending summer camp here with the Raleigh USAR School found intensive training on the schedule for the last week of the school, which ended August 12.

Subjects dealt with in the last week of training were: familiarization firing of the 106 mm recoilless rifle, maintenance and inspection of communications equipment, communications systems of the Infantry and Airborne rifle company, and techniques of rifle fire.

Approximately 80 individual reserve school classes were represented by the 650 officer students and more than 100 staff and faculty officers in attendance.

The schools represented were primarily from the Third and Fourth Army areas. Schools from Atlanta, Columbus, Macon, Athens, Augusta and Savannah, all from Georgia; Durham, Chapel Hill, Henderson, Charlotte, Winston Salem, Raleigh, Warsaw, and Rocky Mount, all from North Carolina; Sumter, Greenville, Clemson, Spartanburg, all from South Carolina; Nashville, Knoxville, Memphis, all from Tennessee, are the reserve schools from the XII Army Corps.

Schools from Miami, West Palm Beach, Tampa, Fort Lauderdale, all from Florida; Jackson, Gulfport, West Point, all from Mississippi; and Birmingham, Alabama, constitute the IV Army Corps schools.

Dallas, Fort Worth, Longview, Waco, Houston, Beaumont, Austin, San Antonio, Lubbock, Midland, and El Paso, all from Texas, make up the schools from the VIII Army Corps.

The schools from Little Rock and Camden, Arkansas; McAlister, Clinton, Norman, Lawton, Durant, Tulsa and Muskogee, all from Oklahoma; Baton Rouge, Lake Charles, Lafayette, Shreveport, Alexandria, Monroe, New Orleans and Houma, all from Louisiana, are from the XIX Army Corps.

2nd Army Deputy CG Visits Post

Major Gen. Rinaldo Van Brunt, deputy commanding general of the Second Army at Fort Meade, observed the Pittsburgh Army Reserve School summer training on post in range firing of the M-1 and Browning automatic rifle Tuesday.

The unit's membership includes Reserve schools of the Second Army area.

Gen. Van Brunt also saw a problem in fundamentals and theory of terrain association being studied by the Reservists and an electronic warefare problem. An office call on Gen. Harrell, commanding general of The Infantry Center, preceded conferences with officials of the Pittsburgh USAR School.

Gen. Van Brunt departed Lawson Army Airfield Wednesday morning.

Main Post Football

Division Trio Singled Out As 'Outstanding' Doughboys

BY CHUCK FOSTER

With the first game of the 1961 football season less than a month away, a number of 2id Infantry Division men are among the Fort Benning Doughboys currently in the process of flattening bulging midsections, working out charley horses and ironing the kinks out of both offensive and defensive formations.

Almost half of the 34-man squad is made up of personnel from the 2nd Infantry Division. A total of 13 men from the Indianhead Division have survived squad cuts and are making determined bids for a starting position.

Two 9th Infantry officers, Lt. Lindell L. Lovelette of Company D and Lt. Alvin S. Aucoin of Company B, and Lt. Frank Farella of Company B, 122nd Signal Battalion appear well on their way toward nailing down starting posts in the line.

The two 9th Infantry officers, both tackles and Lt. Farella, a guard, have been cited by Capt. Leston Cofield, Doughboy coach, as doing "outstanding jobs."

Capt. Cofield says he is "really happy" with the squad but at the same time gets out the crying towel in typical coaching fashion. He says he is short of ends and backs.

"We have an average football team right now but with additional talent in the backfield and at the end positions we could have a good football team," Capt. Cofield says.

The Doughboy coach has been putting his charges through the paces for almost four weeks and at present there's a lot of "serious headknocking" going on at the scrimmage field on Main Post behind building 1353.

During this period a number of football hopefuls have been given tryouts but only 34 men have survived the cuts. Capt. Cofield has what he calls his "best players" making preparations for what he hopes to be a successful season.

The team's first game will be on the road with Camp Lejeune, N. C., on September 16. Ft. Benning will not see the 1961 edition of their football team until the Doughboys host Ft. Eustis, Va., October 8 at Doughboy Stadium on Main Post.

Personnel from the 2nd Infantry Division on the team at present include:

Lt. Farella, PFC Isaac McClanahan and Pvt. Bobby D. Roberts, all of Company B, 122nd Signal Battalion and PFC Cliff Farier of Company A, 122nd Signal Battalion.

PFC James Crabbe of Headquarters Battery, 38th Artillery; Sp4 R. M. Thurmon, Headquarters Troop, 7th Calvary; Lt. Claude J. Roberts of Company C, 32nd Infantry; Lt. George Whitton and Lt. Gerard Griggs, both of Company D, 32rd Infantry.

Lt. Lovelleite of Company D, 9th Infantry; Lt. Aucoin and Sgt. N. C. Brown, both of Company B, 9th Infantry; and Sp4 Raymond Brown of Headquarters Company, 11th Infantry.

Of the 13, six are holdovers from the 1960 team. These include Lieutenants Farella, Whitton, Griggs and Aucoin, Specialists Fourth Class Thurmon and Brown.

Unusual Evening of Fun Held at Service Club 1

By Sp4 Harold S. Kitching

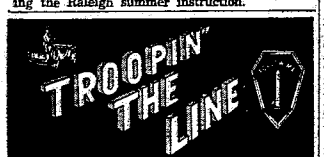
This is the story of how a Nevada casino came to the Main Post Service Club last week.

It all began when Miss Glenda James, club director, received a box—a big box—from a casino in Reno, Nev. In that box was enough miniature gaming equipment and posters to finance a small casino. And that's just what the club became — all in fun, of course.

Featured inside the club was a dice table, a blackjack table, solitaire tables and enough bouncers and vice squad men to make any law enforcement agency green with envy.

Spotted on the walls were such signs as "Old crap shooters never die. They just fade and fade and fade and fade and fade" and "In case of raid use your banker's name." Or how about "Complaint department two blocks down the street — right next to the slaughter house!"

As each person entered the club he was given $250 in "bogus bills" which could be used at the gaming tables or for refreshments.



At the blackjack table was Miss James and Sgt Fred Phillips. Dealing poker were Sgts George Haskins and Jafus Rogers and Pfc Bobby Smith. Spinning the roulette wheel was Sp4 Donald Bush and chief croupier was Pvt Ray Tolbert.

BSA Camp To Close Tomorrow

A Court of Honor tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the camp site, will mark the close of the summer camping season for 70 members of seven post Boy Scout troops at Camp Pine Knot.

Awards earned by the Scouts during the two-week camp will be presented by Capt. Thomas J. Ward, camp director.

The boys, representing Troops 10, 27, 37, 39, 51, 127 and 139, have been at Camp Pine Knot since August 6. The camp officially closes Sunday.

During the summer outing, the boys received training in almost every aspect of Scouting from camping in general up to and including cooking and marksmanship.

11,200 Soldiers Wanted Pay!

Paying more than 11,000 summer troops is an important part of a program of civilian - soldier training each year, according to Capt. Truman A. Todd.

As an agent for The Infantry Center Finance and Accounting Office, Capt. Todd is responsible for paying ROTC cadets, National Guardsmen and Reservists who come to Benning by the hundreds and thousands during June, July and August.

These summer soldiers require food, shelter, weapons, ammunition and pay.

The pay is Capt. Todd's job.

With no up-to-date machines to prepare mechanized pay vouchers, Capt. Todd, a staff sergeant and six enlisted men set up an office in Harmony Church two weeks before the first men arrived for training.

Starting from scratch, on-the-job training has been conducted, qualifying the enlisted men for a finance MOS (military occupational specialty).

"Although these men had no previous training, they are now experts at the job," Capt. Todd said.

"By the end of the summer, they will have handled the pay of 11,200 men," he continued.

The enlisted men in the office include Pfc's Donald E. Dehmer, Jr., Callixtro M. Imka, William R. Ford, Jr., John H. Schupanitz, Erwin J. Stevens and Alfred A. Young.

CASUALTY FACT

During World War II, there were 63 battle injuries and wounds per thousand personnel overseas. In contrast, there were 113 nonbattle injuries per thousand.

VOL. 19, NO. 50 | FRIDAY, AUG. 25, 1961 | FORT BENNING, GA. | 32 PAGES | 5 CENTS

Col. Paulick Is Airborne Dept. Head

COL. PAULICK

Col. Michael Paulick has been named director of The Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department.

He succeeds Lt. Col. Harold E. Greer, who has retired.

For the past three years, Col. Paulick has commanded the 10th Special Forces Group (Airborne), 1st Special Forces, in Germany. He concurrently served as commandant of the Seventh Army NCO Academy and station commander of Bad Tolz.

At TIS Before

A 1940 graduate of the Military Academy at West Point, he attended The Infantry School's basic officer course that year. He served successively as an instructor and executive officer of the Attack Committee of The Infantry School's Tactical Department (now the Command and Staff Department) from March, 1946, to July, 1948.

Col. Paulick helped organize the 601st Tank Destroyer Battalion in 1941 and went overseas as a company commander in the unit with the 1st Infantry Division in August, 1942.

North Africa-Italy

He participated in the landing in North Africa in the Oran Sector, the North African campaign as a reconnaissance company commander working with U.S., British and French Foreign Legion forces, and the invasions of Sicily and Salerno.

Attached to the 3rd Infantry Division for the Salerno operation, Col. Paulick remained with the division until the crossing of the Volturno River in Italy in the fall of 1943 when he assumed command of the 1st Battalion, 15th Infantry Regiment, 3rd Division. He commanded the unit through the Southern France landing to March, 1945, when he was wounded in Germany and subsequently evacuated to the U.S.

Among his decorations are the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star with two Oak Leaf Clusters, Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster and French Croix de Guerre with Palm and Gold Star. He wears nine of the 10 campaign stars authorized for Europe in World War II.

C-GS Instructor

Following his tour at Fort Benning, Col. Paulick attended the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, in 1948-1949, then remained there three years as an instructor. He next went to JUSMAT (Joint U.S. Military Advisers, Turkey) for a year.

Col. Paulick was graduated from the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., in 1954, then was technical adviser in Hollywood for seven weeks on "To Hell and Back," having been movie star Audie Murphy's battalion commander in Europe.

A master parachutist, Col. Paulick took Airborne training at Fort Bragg in August, 1954, before commanding the 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment, 82nd Airborne Division for a year.

He then served three years as airborne adviser to the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group

22 From Area Will Attend AUSA Meet in Washington

Twenty-two members of the Columbus-Phenix City - Fort Benning Chapter, Association of the U. S. Army, will depart for Washington, D. C., Tuesday, September 5, where they will attend AUSA's 19th annual meeting at the Sheraton Park Hotel September 6 to 8.

HONORED . . . Lt. Col. Ralph J. Rashid has been named to the Infantry Officer Candidate School's Hall of Fame. He departed from his assignment as deputy commander of the 1st Infantry Brigade recently for duty as professor of military science at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh. Col. Rashid is a 1942 graduate of OCS.

The program for the convention will be highlighted by addresses by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Army Elvis J. Stahr, Jr., and Gen. George H. Decker, Army chief of staff.

They will head a list of distinguished speakers who will underscore the "Army's Global Frontiers," the theme of this year's meeting.

The local group is scheduled to attend special events, including a reception honoring the secretary of the Army and chief of staff Wednesday evening, September 6; AUSA's annual luncheon at noon Thursday, September 7, and the Gen. George Catlett Marshall Memorial Dinner Friday evening, September 8.

Exhibits covering 23,000 square feet of floor space will illustrate the latest industrial and scientific developments in the military field for the delegates. They will be exhibited by 155 agencies.

The group also will see presentations of the Army role in Europe, the Middle East, South and Southeast Asia and Latin America, as well as that of the back-up forces in the continental U.S.

Chapter president William J. Schloth will head the delegation comprised of members of The Infantry Center Troop Command, Student Brigade, 1st Infantry Brigade, 2nd Infantry Division and the civilian communities.

55,000 Acres Sought For Training Area

Permits for temporary use of approximately 55,000 acres of land adjoining the reservation as an additional training area will be sought by the Army from land owners and tenants.

Representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers, Savannah District, will contact residents concerned in the near future.

The area will be used by units of the post and particularly the 2nd Infantry Division as an additional area for training and maneuvers.

The area will include the land from the post boundary east to state Highway 41 and from Highways 103 and 26, north to Highway 80.

It extends approximately five miles east and west, and stretches about 18 miles south from Geneva to a point approximately three miles north of Buena Vista.

Representatives of the Corps of Engineers have established an office in Buena Vista on Courthouse Square and Highway 26, above the Marion Drug Company.

Secretary Stahr Explains Buildup

Editor's note: The following are some major excerpts from Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr's Washington press conference last Wednesday. Full text can be found on unit bulletin boards.

"As you know, the FY 1962 budget of the Department of Defense was acted on by Congress less than a week ago. A week or so earlier certain special legislation was also enacted which will make possible a more rapid build-up of conventional power than would otherwise have been possible, by authorizing greater use of already trained manpower, through extending enlistments and tours and calling up reserves."

"It is our intention, however, and the Congress advised us to use these emergency powers selectively and temporarily, then continue looking toward the development of appropriate sustaining levels in non-prior service personnel."

The Secretary then went on to say that these actions are based on the President's address to the Nation July 25th. He also added that some aspects of this program are classified, but he was releasing all that could be told within common sense limits of security.

"We have endeavored to spread the load as fairly as possible and to reduce this impact in so far as we are able," he stated.

Extensions Temporary

Directly concerning the extension of 84,000 enlisted men, Secretary Stahr emphasized, "These men will be progressively phased out of the Army as soon as trained replacements become available. Exceptions will be made in hardship cases."

Begins October 1

October 1 has been set as the effective date for extension in order to coincide with Army plans for a progressive, orderly build-up. The four month period will give the Army the stability needed during the buildup.

(Thank You For Continuing)

Buildup

"It will take approximately four months for the training centers to graduate soldiers in sufficient numbers to fill new requirements and to replace those involuntarily retained," he said. "By allowing releases to commence as soon as possible, and by replacing these losses with new enlistees and inductees, the Army will insure that an unacceptably large percentage of its strength is not held on short tenure."

OFFICER RETIREMENTS

Secretary Stahr announced the Army does not contemplate stopping retirement of officers and warrent officers, however, the Army will be much more selective in its approval of voluntary retirements requested by Regular Army officers and warrent officers with more than 20 years active Federal service.

EM RETIREMENTS

The Army also does not plan stopping retirement of enlisted personnel.

"However," the secretary said, "the retirement of some enlisted personnel whose abilities are required to give stability during the initial phases of the build-up will be delayed. Deferrment of retirements is in accordance with long existing law which permits the secretaries of the various military departments to deny retirements when good reasons exist. This is a temporary suspension. The action will help maintain combat readiness, decrease personnel turbulence and enable the Army to place maximum emphasis on training new personnel."

Similar action has already been taken by the Air Force and the Navy. The Air Force announced an extension of 28,000 men and the Navy is retaining 26,800 men.

15 Medics Get 60-Day Cadre Job

The 428th Medical Battalion will augment training cadre going to Fort Jackson with technicians operating dispensaries and aid stations for the stepped up training program there, Lt. Col. Raymond J. Caldbeck, battalion commander, announced this week.

These men have operated similar installations in all corners of the world under varied conditions.

The 630th Medical Company furnished the following soldiers for the temporary assignment: MSgt. Luther Spivey; Sfc's John Beatty and John Helt; Sgts George Cronin, John Cox, and Fred Hohns; Sp4 Cottrell Howell. Sergeants Jerry Sauls and Eugene Benner of the 3rd Field Hospital are also included in this 60-day assignment.

A second group of younger soldiers listed as aidmen for the training companies include Sp4c Harry Hughes and Harry Oliver; Pfcs Santos Martinez, Bruce Hobbs, Jack Rittenhouse and Pvt. Clarence Thomas. These men are from 50th Medical Company.

New EPO Chief Is Appointed

Col. Lawrence S. Reynolds is the new chief of the Editorial and Pictorial Office of The Infantry School.

He succeeds Lt. Col. Harold K. Slater, who will serve as executive officer.

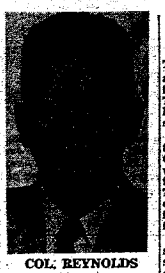
From 1956 to 1960, he served with the Department of the Army in Washington, D. C., in successive assignments as action officer, Organization and Training Division; deputy chief of staff for operations; military assistant to the assistant secretary of the Army for manpower and Reserve Forces, and military assistant to the under secretary of the Army.

In Korea, Col. Reynolds served from 1954 to 1955 as G-4 of the 25th Division. He commanded the division's 3rd Battalion, 14th Infantry from 1953 to 1954.



Col. Reynolds was professor of military science and tactics at Sewanee (Tenn.) Military Academy from 1951 to 1953.

A 1936 graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg, Col. Reynolds was commissioned upon graduation. He entered active service in 1940.

During World War II, he served with the 43rd Division and XI Corps in the Pacific Theater. He has served overseas 69 months.

Col. Reynolds attended The Infantry School in 1943, returning in 1960 for a refresher course. In 1946, he attended the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth.

COL. REYNOLDS

'I'll Be a Hostage'

El Paso, Tex. (AFPS) — The old Army line goes that a wise soldier never volunteers for anything, but Pfc Truman H. Cleveland evidently hasn't heard it or doesn't subscribe to it.

Cleveland, 19, was one of the 67 passengers aboard the Continental Airlines Boeing 707 which a father and son tried to hijack for a flight to Cuba. The Los Angeles-Houston run ended here when the pilot was forced to bring the plane down for refueling.

The Beardens, father and son, permitted most of the passengers to get off at El Paso on condition that four volunteer to stay aboard with the crew of six.

Cleveland, en route to Fort Bliss, Tex., for assignment after 18 months on Okinawa, told the hijackers he'd stay — on one condition. He wanted to swap his uniform for civilian clothes. Havana's no place for a Army uniform these days, so one of the passengers made the swap.

In all, the hijacking pair was in control of the plane for nine hours. FBI men finally captured them after shooting up the plane's tires when the pilot was forced to attempt a take-off.

'Pops' Concert Set at Werecoba

The Columbus Symphony will present another in a popular series of "Pops" concerts, at Werecoba Park next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Some of the selections scheduled are Carmen Suite 1, a solo rendition of Night and Day by Joan Holt, Buglers Holiday, Showboat Medley, Tara — theme from "Gone With The Wind," Gold and Silver Waltz and Group singing.

All who enjoy music have been invited by the Columbus Symphony Orchestra. The concerts are free.

Management Improvement Saves $6,992 At Infantry School

A continuous survey for methods of improving operations and conserving available resources under the management improvement program has been adopted by The Infantry School's Communication Department.

An example of the positive approach was a project of Sfc William T. Napier, supply sergeant of the Radio Maintenance Committee. Sergeant Napier consolidated two separate supply activities—the Fundamentals Subcommittee and the Sets Subcommittee — into one central supply room with an annex supporting the Fundamentals Subcommittee.

This consolidation reduced the administrative workload by 50 per cent and resulted in the turn-in of about 65 line items and expendables valued at $10,104, which were duplicated in the two supply sections.

It also allowed the Communication Department to recommend the deletion of one signal supply specialist which will be an annual savings of $4,513 in manpower when approved by higher headquarters.

In another project the laboratory benches in the Radio Maintenance Committee were consolidated into one area which gives the students ample space for note-taking, display of individual schematic diagrams and space for audio sets. In addition, the instructor platforms were enlarged to provide the students with an unobstructed view.

Prior to this consolidation each classroom consisted of two areas; the center portion containing student arm chair desks and the sides and rear containing individual laboratory benches.

The work benches were rearranged in parallel rows directly in front of the instructors platform, permitting the instructor to oversee and maintain eye contact at all times. The movement to and from student desk to laboratory benches and back was eliminated and the time saved used for more instruction.

The re-arranging of benches, re-wiring overhead lights and re-routing power facilities to each laboratory bench was accomplished by assigned personnel between scheduled classes.

This project resulted in a savings of $2,479 worth of equipment. The monetary value of increased efficiency of instruction cannot be determined, but should be apparent in the graduate's future work.

As Labor Day Nears

Post Drivers Asked To Maintain Record

The American soldier as a driver has few peer anywhere according to the post safety director, Norman L. Evans.

As a qualification of his statement made in 15-minute "refresher courses" presented to Infantry Center and 2nd Infantry Division troop units, the post's safety director points out that better than 90 per cent of Benning's drivers have never been cited for any traffic violation.

The short Safety talks which are now underscoring the highway hazards during the 1961 Labor Day week-end, are assigned as part of the post's continuing campaign of troop orientation in the direction of safety of soldiers and their dependents.

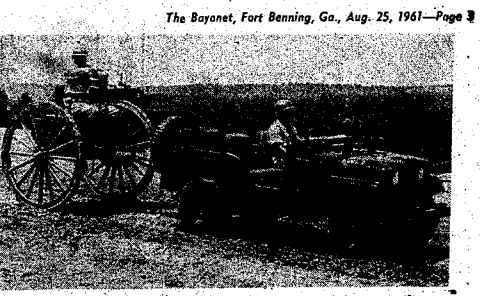
"All command responsibility is being exercised and every effort used to prevent Fort Benning contribution to Labor Day death toll statistics," Evans said and added that the post was preparing against all type of accident possibilities normal to holiday periods.

"Our orientations and counsellings also deal with potential hazards encumbent in water and other sports, particularly to children and even in the home, he said.

Fort Benning has been conspicuously absent from the list of military installations experiencing traffic fatalities during holiday periods for the past two years, he said, because of increasing driver awareness of terrible consequences of single driving errors.

"The really smart driver is following the idea that driving should be restricted to family emergencies during peak danger periods and, in short, is staying off the highways," Evans said.

According to Georgia state statistics, he said, the post driver enjoys an accident rate of 1.2 percent under the Georgia state average for each 100,000,000 miles driven.



He added that Georgia state figures also show that the Benning motorist covers an average of 15,000 miles per year, one third again as much as the average Georgia civilian driver.

In his talks, Evans is pointing out that post personnel are now credited with an accident rate which stands at one half that of normal three-day rates. He also discloses that out of some 400 traffic fatalities in the country last year, not one victim was wearing a seat belt, the use of which could have prevented 62 per cent of those deaths.

In addition to warnings issued against the bugaboos of the highway, speed, drink, and fatigue, the safety director said, highway patrol and police will be at a maximum during the coming three-day period, life guard protection at post swimming pools will be increased and post recreational activities planned for the holiday.

USAR

Pittsburgh School Unit Has Big Job

By Pfc Bruce N. Yaffee

The Pittsburgh Reserve School is the host for the summer camp Infantry training for reserve officers. Roughly 600 officer reservists attend from some 65 USAR schools of the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Armies.

The Pittsburgh Reserve School differs from most other reserve schools in the Second Army for the past 10 years has always selected the Pittsburgh School to conduct the annual active duty training for its infantry students.

The last 5 years this training has been conducted at Fort Benning. Fifth Army for the past three years has also attached its Infantry officer students to the Pittsburgh School for their two week Infantry training.

The reserve schools across the nation conduct 24 training meetings from 1 September to 1 May, and a number of supplemental drills. Problems that cannot be handled during this period are accomplished when they receive their two week active duty training.

806th Engineers Build Parking Lot

The earthmoving platoon of Company B, 806th Engineer Battalion, 151st Engineer Group, under the supervision of 1st Lt. Jerry A. Sedlacek and Sfc Julian Beaman, recently finished work of the base course for a new 806th Engineer Battalion parking lot.

The placing of a bituminous surface course will be a training project for Engineer reserve units to be on Post for their annual summer training. When completed the parking lot will accommodate 300 cars.

Snakes Alive

The Ranger Department wants live snakes — large, small, poisonous or non-poisonous. An appeal has gone out for anyone having these strange pets and wanting to get ride of them to call Capt. Thomas M. Henry, 5-6765 (office) or 4-3326 (home); or call Capt. Harry N. Ball after duty hours at MU 9-3592. Arrangements will be made to pick the reptiles up.

Speaking of Collecting Things

The Bayonet is interested in running stories on interesting, unusual hobbies. It won't be long now before the outdoor summer off-duty activity slows down and hobbies will again offer inside interests.

Those who have extensive collections or odd or profitable hobbies, let us know about it. Letting others know of your solution to long evening hours may help them solve their own restlessness by bringing to mind something they'd enjoy doing too.

Of course this one's really off-beat, but we remember in passing the little old lady recluse who saved EVERYTHING. When she passed away it took a good sized team several weeks to even catalogue all her things. Each item was neatly labeled, boxed and stored. The box which caused the most head scratching was labeled "string too short to use", and that's just what was in it.

Anyone For A Home Loan?

The Veterans Administration has received another three million dollars for direct veterans' home loans in Georgia, Georgia veterans director Pete Wheeler announced last week.

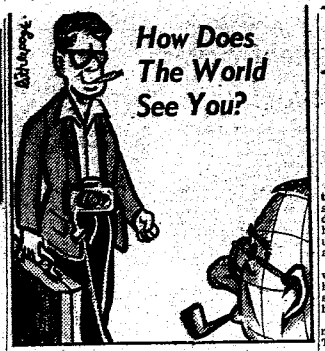
The appropriation brings to $7,675,000 the amount received for this purpose within the past 30 days, he said.

A. W. Tate, manager of the VA Regional Office in Atlanta, has advised the Department of Veterans Service that all veterans who had sought direct VA home loans prior to Thursday of last week will receive formal application forms by mail within the next seven days.

Not all of the veterans now on the waiting list will receive loans immediately. About thirty-five per cent of them are expected to turn down the loans either because they have already bought a home on some other financing plan, because they no longer desire to buy a home, or because they cannot pass the credit requirements.

The VA is receiving some 20 requests a day for direct home loans in Georgia, and a substantial waiting list has resulted in recent months because funds were not available. The three million dollars received this week together with the $4,675,000 received earlier should mean Georgia veterans will get fast service on such applications in the future.

Direct VA loans are made only to veterans residing in counties where VA-guaranteed loans are not available from regular lenders.



MSgt Charlie Quinn Says:

Labor Day Weekend—1961—is on the near horizon, the second most deadly period of the American motorist's year.

At one time this 85-hour stretch between Friday evening and Tuesday morning enjoyed the dubious distinction of marking more deaths, crippling injuries, and accidents of lesser result than any period of equal length on the calendar.

Today the terrible toll ticked off on our nation's highways during this holiday session is exceeded only by that during Christmas-New Year's. Labor Day is the traditional closing date of the East Coast's vacation season—when thousands of motorists jam the roads and highways on the way back home. Add to these the other thousands who take the road just for that "off-duty" period—and the National Safety Council can predict with ghastly certainty the number of deaths which will result. The Council can even forecast the number of deaths from other causes with almost the same exactness.

You can be a contributing factor in such statistics—if you challenge the Grim Reaper—and lose.

When Boors Are Abroad They Do Us All Damage

Danny Kaye, the gifted comedian, blew up in a Washington restaurant the other day, snapping to the waiter: "What's the matter with this place? Can't a fellow get a decent steak here? Don't you people know anything about standard American cooking?"

Boorish behavior on the part of one of America's greatest clowns? Certainly. Kaye was trying to prove a point to a fellow diner. The unbelieving eyes of every patron in the restaurant were trained on him. "See what I mean?" said Danny. "I didn't even raise my voice and they were ready to hate me. One American behaving that way when he goes overseas as a tourist can undo all the good done by a government program."

Danny Kaye should know. He is one of our best ambassadors of good will abroad; in fact, he has been proposed for the Medal of Merit, the highest award a civilian can receive. In his work abroad for the United Nations in behalf of children, Kaye has been exposed to the behavior of his fellow countrymen and he knows the harm that an indiscreet, tactless few can do to our public image as a people.

Kaye was speaking of tourists, but how applicable his words are to every one of us who goes abroad in uniform —even more applicable, perhaps, than to the American who breezes through the "Grand Tour" and returns to his native habitat.

We remain, usually for years. We are America's military, under the constant curious scrutiny of peoples measuring us against the members of their own armed forces. Most of us come off creditably in this process of comparisons and evaluations — but the very fact that our bearing is exemplary means that we don't call attention to ourselves; we are relatively inconspicuous.

But, as Danny Kaye put it, "It's the fellow who behaves badly who draws attention to himself, and when he does he discredits not only himself but those with whom he is identified." There never was a time in Americans' relations with other peoples when it was more necessary to be cognizant of this and make it a living credo for our deportment abroad.

The Four Reasons Why We Shouldn't Attend Church

By Chaplain (1st Lt.) George Beswik

We have all been told many times in many ways that we should go to church every Sunday. Apparently these pleas have gone in vain since most of us are content with staying away from God's house.

For this reason, let us see why it is better that we stay home on Sunday morning instead of worshipping God as He has asked us to do.

In the first place there are many hypocrites in church. The people who go to church are not perfect. They are sinful just like everybody else. In fact, there are those who go to church who do worse things than we would ever think of doing. It does not make sense that we should associate with such individuals if we are sure that we are superior to them.

Secondly, we know that we can worship God in our own home. We do not have to go to church to worship, Him. Because God has instituted the church and His people have been worshipping Him for centuries in such a setting is no reason why we should have to conform to this practice. If we feel that God was wrong when He established the church, then it is obvious that there is no need for us to do what we think is a waste of time.

Thirdly, it is known that there are preachers who are inadequate. In fact, I know of a preacher who doesn't even know how to repair a broken wrist-watch. Since preachers don't have a great deal of knowledge in all fields of study, it might be difficult to trust them in the area of religion which involves all of existence. The fact that they are college graduates and have attended seminary for three years is no proof that they are qualified to preach and teach God's word. With our background, we might be able to teach them something about theology.

Fourthly, Sunday is a busy day and there really isn't time to go to church. Although we are breaking the Third Commandment by not attending church that shouldn't matter. And, even though the church is concerned with eternal things and we bother ourselves with temporal things that shouldn't make too much of a difference.

So let's stay home on Sunday, after all, everybody won't go to heaven. There will be plenty of company in HELL!!!

The Judge Says . . .

Your Wife's Debts Are They Yours? Part 1 of a Series

By Capt. Robert S. Peydasheff

Indebtedness is a major concern of this command. Grave hardships, embarrassments and ruined Army careers have resulted from improperly used credit.

Upon close scrutiny, it has been found that many of the ramifications of improperly used credit have been caused by the wife, who insists upon a standard of living above the means of her soldier husband.

She often makes purchases on credit, which may not be under the law, lawful debts of the husband, and at some later date, the husband is notified of the debt and a demand is made upon him to pay the debt.

Through his own ignorance, he agrees to pay or is advised to pay, and thereafter makes payments which upset his budget to such a degree that he cannot take care of current bills which accumulate into delinquent accounts.

This article will attempt to answer the question: "When is a husband liable for the debts created by a wife?"

As Agent

In theory, the husband is liable for the debts of his wife only when she is his agent. The law of agency is much too complex to be covered in detail here, but suffice it to say agency is of three types: expressed agency, implied agency and agency imposed by a law or statute. The relation of principal and agent arises wherever one person authorizes another to act for him, or subsequently ratifies the acts of another in his behalf.

An expressly created agency may be an oral or written contract of the parties. An implied agency is also an actual agency; it is a fact which is to be proved from deductions and inferences and from other facts and circumstances.

For example, an agency may be implied from prior habits or from a course of dealings of a similar nature between the parties especially where the agent has repeatedly been permitted to perform similar acts in the past; but when the agency is implied, it must be determined from all facts and circumstances. The question in the above - mentioned agencies is always to determine whether a party represents another, or is acting for another, and not what the parties may have designated their relations to be.

Once the agency exists, it will be an agency whether parties understood the exact nature of the relation or not. Therefore, unless the husband can be said to have made his wife either his express or implied agent, he should not promise to pay or be advised to pay a debt created by his wife.

LESSON MATERIAL FOR SHIPMENT
Sorted by Pvts James Lane, Ray Miller

As September approaches and "back to school" becomes the order of the day, more than 900 agencies and 43,000 individual addresses in the U. S., Puerto Rico, and Europe await the thousands of envelopes and cartons that bring them instructional material from The Infantry School.

Ton after ton of material — representing approximately 45 per cent of Fort Benning's Army Field Printing Plant output — is packaged annually and shipped by the Department of Non-Resident Instruction. This task is performed by the Department's Logistical Section, headed by Captain John W. Terhune.

The support of some 45,000 extension course students is but one of this agency's important missions. In addition, instructional material is furnished to support both college and high school ROTC programs, the Army Reserve Schools program, and National Guard State Officer Candidate Schools.

In all, approximately 300,000 students and instructors, involved in the four programs listed, benefit annually from Infantry School material prepared by DNRI. This is big business by any comparison — an operation unequalled in magnitude elsewhere in the Army.

Four detailed extension courses are prepared and administered by the department: the Army - wide Pre - Commission, Infantry Officer Career, Infantry Officer Refresher, and the Non-Commissioned Officers' Courses. Each closely parallels courses of instruction presented from the Infantry School platforms to resident students.

Extension course administration requires the grading of lessons and examinations (40,000 to 50,000 monthly), individual replies to specific student questions, and the awarding of retention and retirement points to Reserve and National Guard officers who further their military education by Army extension courses.

The most important link in the administrative chain is to insure that the students receive the necessary instructional and administrative items on time. To accomplish this task, a miniature "post office" has been established by the Logistical Section, Mr. John Kissell, chief of the Mailing Branch, supervises the daily postal activities which include the filing and disposition of mailbags earmarked for nearly every state and APO.

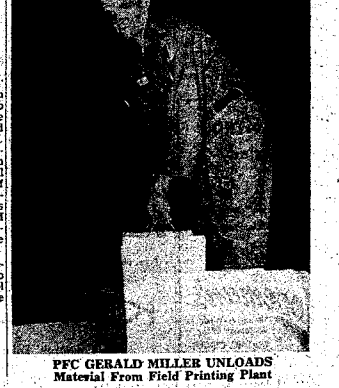
The department provides detailed instructional material to support college and high school level ROTC training, Reserve schools, the NGOCS program.

Although other service schools prepare material to support their respective branch USAR schools, the Department of Non-Resident Instruction is the USAIS agency which prepares all NGSOCS and approximately 90 per cent of the ROTC material.

Extensive writing effort is expanded to support these programs. However, the students and instructors involved in these programs must receive the instructional material on a timely basis. To insure that they do, Mr. Ray Clark, chief of the Reserve Components warehouses, operates literally a mobile post office.

Thousands of boxes of instructional material are dispatched weekly via a post office truck directly from DNRI warehouses. Over 2,500,000 items will be shipped to support ROTC training in the current school year.

Lt. Col. Francis H. Gregg, department director and Infantry ROTC advisor to the commandant, provides the latest Infantry School curriculum to some 300,000 students annually—students who, in the light of the President's recent message, may be called soon to serve on active duty.



Big business activities, particularly in the Logistics field of the Department of Non-Resident Instruction, are designed and function to insure that the "One Army Concept" has meaning.

Etiquette

DEAR JENNI:

Would you remind people that men in uniform never carry packages, hold umbrellas or push baby carriages.

PET PEEVE

DEAR PEEVE:

Strictly speaking you are correct. Nancy Shea's "Army Wife" book confirms your statement, however she also writes, "Come, come, Colonel, the war is still on as far as extra delivery boys are concerned and it won't hurt your prestige to carry home the groceries for the little woman".

First let's examine the reason why servicemen in uniform should have their hands free. It is certainly not to draw a sword to protect you or themselves, but because of the customary military greeting . . . the SALUTE.

Not too long ago the military greeting was like that which the civilians use when greeting a lady . . . the actual tipping or lifting of the hat. But with strapped on headgear this became a real mixup. So the salute developed, carrying of the hand to the hat as if to take it off.

And so we ladies should take a uniformed man's left arm then we will not be entangled in his salute even tho it may mean walking on the street side of the sidewalk. For this same reason the umbrella creates a problem of seeing the salute as well as giving and returning the greeting. And carrying packages creates the same problem.

"Salutes are not exchanged when carrying things in both hands", according to the Officer's Guide which implies that such situations are unavoidable.

Now, here at Fort Benning we have the good fortune of ample help at the commissary and the commissary aniles with carry-out of purchases so that the uniformed men can and should have hands free there. However at the PX's this is not possible.

I know my husband has had to pick up one of our reluctant youngsters and carry her on occasion, and I personally do not feel it was beneath his dignity and bless him for his help.

Situations of this sort should be avoided when he is in uniform of course. And no thinking person in uniform would salute another who could not return the greeting.

Meeting Held At Mrs. Barry's

By Ladies Group 1-18 Metro

Mrs. Charles E. Barry, Jr. and Mrs. Thaddeus F. Blackstock entertained the ladies of the 39th Transportation Battalion, Infantry Center Troop Command, at a coffee held recently in the Barry home.

Mrs. Louis J. Maricle presided at a short business meeting. Farewells were said to Mrs. Victor Medina, Mrs. John W. Thornhill and Mrs. Charles E. Barry.

Orientation Coffee Given TSB Student Officers' Ladies

An orientation coffee was held recently for the ladies of Associate Career Course 1 students, Detachment 2, 2nd Student Battalion, The Student Brigade.

Lt. Col. Vern L. Joseph, commander of the battalion, Capt. Donald E. Novak, Chaplain (1st Lt.) James F. Dolan, and Mrs. Richard I. Lewis gave short welcoming talks.

Mrs. Vern L. Joseph, Mrs. J. L. Gibbs, and Mrs. R. I. Lewis were hostesses for the occasion.

'OCS Alma Mater' Sung At Gold Bar Club Party

The "OCS Alma Mater", written by an officer candidate, was sung at the 52nd Officer Candidate Company's 18th week party at the Gold Bar Club recently.

During the entertainment Mrs. Tom Sellars, Mrs. Gordon Dupree, Mrs. Al Sellars, Mrs. Fred Seferth, and Mrs. Paul Merlin, representing the wives club, sang two old favorites. Several candidates also sang a few numbers about the theme of the party. The "OCS Alma Mater" was dedicated to Capt. Luthultz who left recently for a new assignment.

Special guests for the occasion were Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Surles, Col. Koch, Lt. Col. and Mrs. McClain, Capt. and Mrs. Luthultz, Capt. and Mrs. William Hadley, and Capt. and Mrs. Robert Sage. Also represented were the tactical officers and their wives.

Fashion Show Features 'Back to School' Note

The Corregidor Room of the Main Officers' Open Mess was turned into a little school house recently by the ladies of the Infantry Board for a brunch and children's "back to school" fashion show.

"Back to school" cutouts of rulers, pencils and other school supplies were used for the background for the fashion show.

Two life-size toddler dolls, dressed in school fashions, added realism to the school room environment. A large cut-out, holding books, crayons and a lunch box created an effective backdrop for the children's fall fashions.

A miniature carousel holding dressed up dolls on the top tier and pennies spilling over the base, centered the head table. Dunce hats carried out the school decor on the individual tables. Football dressed autograph dolls, propped against "back to school" cutouts, complemented an arrangement of mums on the buffet table.

The fall fashions as well as the children's accessories used on the tables were provided by a Columbus children's shop.

The youthful models, from toddlers to teens, showed fashions which ranged from sleep and sports wear to "back to school" and more sophisticated attire.

Miss Deirdre Proctor and Miss Lisa Mathews set the pace for the grammar school miss. Diana Tominac and Selene Mahaffey modeled their pre-kindergarten sleep, play and school outfits. Little two-year-old Mary Lou Stephens showed the mothers how the toddler set can be fashion conscious also.

DUSA Honors JADA

The Daughters of the U. S. Army held a tea August 16 in the Corregidor Room at the Main Officers Club in honor of the Junior Army Daughters of America.

Punch, sandwiches and cookies were served to 70 members of both organizations.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. John Arthur and Mrs. Thomas Ware.

Any eligible Army Daughters interested in being a member of DUSA may contact Mrs. A. J. Francisco, 5-3497, and those who wish to join JADA may call Mrs. M. Cornwell, MU 9-8560.

Not to be forgotten in the world of fashion were the boys new school and dress fashions, Master Reg Gunton modeled what the young grammar school boys will be sporting this fall, and Master Bill Bricker dispayed much enthusiasm over his pre-kindergarten school and dress outfits.

Mrs. Gilbert Proctor Jr., gave the commentary for the fashion parade.

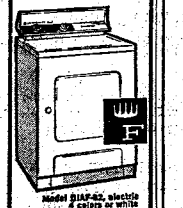
Mrs. William M. Summers introduced and welcomed as new arrivals Mesdames Roy L. Inman, George E. Hudson, Charles H. Costigan, James A. Sadderlz, John Swearinger, George M. Johnson and David C. Smith.

Welcomed as guests were Mrs. Warren Pomerance and Mrs. J. G. Mcdager, mother of Mrs. Robert Sine. Also included on the guest list were Mrs. Donald Turner, guest of Mrs. Fred K. Mahaffey, and Miss Karen Sheridan, guest of Miss Merritt.



Mrs. Summers extended best wishes and a good new assignment to Mrs. Richard C. Wittman. Col. and Mrs. Wittmann will leave soon for their new assignment in Alaska.

Good-bys were also said to Mrs. Robert Sine. Lt. Col. Sine, who until his assignment at Fort Leavenworth and Korea was assigned to the Infantry Board, is due home and will be assigned to Fort Monroe, Va.

Hostesses for the brunch and "back to school" children's fashion show were Mrs. Proctor, Mrs. John Tominac and Mrs. James W. Bricker.

Secular Concert Season Opens Sunday Evening at Post Chapel

By EDA C. EVANS

Fort Benning's 1961-62 series of secular concerts will open August 27 under the direction of Mrs. Harold W. Roeder.

The concerts will be staged at 7:30 p.m. the last Sunday in each month, with the exception of December, in The Infantry center Chapel.

The Programs will consist of a variety of music, both secular and sacred. They will feature vocalists and instrumental performers, according to Mrs. Roeder.

Artists

Artists for the concerts include Patricia McVay, pianist, of Columbus; Sp4 Daniel Caruso, basso; MSgt Frank G. Hardin, organist; Sgt Murray Collins, tenor, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Minyon, vocal duo of Columbus.

Mrs. Wallace L. Lancaster, mezzo soprano, Joanne Crowder, soprano, of Columbus; Mrs. David L. Buckner, soprano, and Donald Carr, Columbus, organist.

Groups to appear in the series include The Infantry Chorus, The Recorders, composed of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Schley and Dr. and Mrs. Walker P. Rivers, all of Columbus, and ensembles from the post.

Several of the artists appeared in the 1960-1961 concerts directed by Mrs. Roeder.

The Recorders bring to the program an element of historical interest since they perform an minstrel instruments of the Middle Ages, Mrs. Roeder said.

There will be selections from opera, light opera, folksongs and sacred music, including spirituals on the vocal programs while the instrumental concerts will run the gamut from classical to music in a light vein, she added.

Mrs. Roeder received her musical education at Baldwin-Wallace Conservatory of Music in Berea, Ohio, and at Ohio State University in Athens.

She studied piano under Rena Wills in Akron and Clarence Lightdtitz, head of the Piano Department of Firestone Conservatory, Akron University. She majored in voice under the instruction of Glenn Schmittle of Berea.

"U. S. Lady"

Mrs. Roeder was honored by U. S. Lady Magazine in October, 1960, when she was named "U. S. Lady" for the month.

"I was totally surprised," Mrs. Roeder said.

"Just before we left Germany, I heard that the magazine was trying to get in touch with me. I had no idea what they wanted. When we arrived in the States, I saw it in print. I was thrilled, flattered and most of all deeply grateful," she said.

Mrs. Roeder was selected for the honor as a result of her extensive charity and concert work in Europe, particularly among the people along the East-West border in Germany.

"It was a wonderful opportunity to work with the German people," Mrs. Roeder said. "I owe my selection as U. S. Lady to their warm reception of me and my work."

"I was the first American ever permitted to sing with the Stantschor (state choir) in Fulda, Germany, the first American to sing in the Staatshalle, a concert hall in Fulda that dates back to the Crusades," Mrs. Roeder added.

She also appeared as guest soloist with the Voldschor (peoples choir) in a 700-year-old abbey in Rudlghelm, Germany.

Mrs. Roeder's work in Europe was recognized by the President's People-to-People Program. She received a certificate and letter of appreciation for her outstanding contribution to the program.

Mrs. Roeder is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. K. H. Harrington of (8355 Lakeview Blvd.) Stow, Ohio. She received her early education in the public schools of Stow.

Barbara Hare's Report Card...

Guess what? Less than two weeks and school begins! I can hear the moans and groans now. Also, many of us are making ourselves and others promises that we are going to have a blast and keep our grades up to par. Good Luck!

Never Fear

I know that the Freshmen are looking forward to a new experience, their first year of high school. Some are afraid of that first day, all the classes, a new schedule, and mass confusion. You can be assured that it is nothing to be afraid of and furthermore that one day is the beginning of four years that are very important as well as fun.

Take Your Choice

Pep-meetings, clubs, and extra-curricula activities are next on the agenda. Each club offers you fun, achievements, and an opportunity to meet new people.

There are Hi-Y's and Tri-Hi-Y's, Junior Red Cross, Speech, Debators', Dramatic, Library, Science, Art, and Language Clubs. Most of these meet after school. If your ambition is to write, the yearbook and newspaper staffs are open to Journalism students.

Grades and Grids

Hey, hey, What do you say? How 'bout taking that ball away! That is right. Football season is almost here! The school teams are practicing for those big games, so let's support them.

Here on Post, there are many activities open to all high school students. The Youth Activities Club (YAC) has organized programs in basketball, fencing, baseball, and swimming. "Brat Barracks", the teen club, is always busy. It features dances, hayrides, and parties.

Follow-Me-Club on Sunday evenings is the Protestant Fellowship Club. Nurses' Aide, Girl Scouts, and Boy Scouts are enjoyable and serviceable. Benning also has facilities for horseback riding (Hunt Club), bowling, golf, tennis, and movies.

Thinking of school and classmates, I want to welcome the new Benningites and say that I hope you soon feel "at home."

REPORT CARD extends its best wishes and hopes that each high school student will have a wonderful year!

FLYING PAY

The Army initiated flying pay for airmen in 1912. At that time it was 35 per cent of base pay.

Rome Boys Choir Presents Special Program on Post

The Boys Choir of Rome, Ga., appeared at Theater I last Thursday, August 24, in a special 90-minute program sponsored by The Infantry Center Special Services Section.

Fifty trained boys between the ages of eight and 14 form the choir, under the auspices of the Boys Club of Rome. The group was organized in 1955.

The program consisted of 15th Century motets, sacred choral compositions, and an arrangement of modern and popular hits and musical comedies. Numerous duets and solos were also included in the show.

Library Concert

Kick-Off For CAA Conducted

A kick-off meeting for the 1962 Community Activities Association Fund Drive, whose goal is $115,000, was scheduled for the Main Theater this morning at 8:30.

Expected to attend the kick-off ceremonies, in addition to the drive captains and team men, were Major Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander, and Major Gen. Charles H. Chase, commanding general of the 2nd Infantry Division.

Martelle Layfield, executive secretary of United Givers, Inc., James W. Blanchard, United Givers chairman for Columbus-Phenix City, and Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Reuben Jenkins, all of Columbus, also were set to attend.

An organization meeting of drive captains will be held next Thursday at 10 a.m. with the project officer to plan details of the drive, which will end November 9.

The CAA supports all post welfare activities and contributes to youth activities, the Chaplains Religous Education, Visiting Nurses and Preventive Dental Health Programs.

It also makes an annual contribution to the United Givers Fund of the local civilian community.

Chairman of the campaign is Col. William R. Birdsong, Jr., director of instruction at The Infantry School.

Lt. Col. Howard F. Mumford, commander of the Army Reception Station, is project officer.

WAC OF MONTH . . . Sp4 Anne Dee Davis was recently selected as the WAC of the Month for July, at The Infantry Center Troop Command WAC Detachment. Local Retired Officers Hold Installation

Chapter officials installed for the year 1961-1962 are: CWO Robert L. Helle, president; Major Henry R. Hartman, first vice president; Major J. T. Furay, second vice president; Navy Capt. Ernest S. Thorpe, third vice president; CWO Gerald L. Britt, secretary - treasurer, and Major Joe W. Mariman, assistant secretary - treasurer.

Helle, in his acceptance of the chapter's gavel, expressed the group's appreciation for the work done by outgoing president Col. William H. Shaffer and his staff and encouraged all members of the chapter to attend the Georgia state convention at Fort Gordon, Saturday, October 28.

Past president Lt. Col. James E. Mears conducted the installation ceremony.

'Largest in South'

Training Ends Tomorrow For USAR Hospital Unit

The largest hospital unit of its kind in the South is a distinction claimed by the 324th General Hospital, a Reserve unit from Miami in summer training on post. The unit's active tour ends tomorrow

The Miami unit consists of 48 officers, 21 nurses and 114 enlisted personnel in their present authorization. They can expand to a 1,000-bed hospital in case of mobilization.

The professional services or departments which comprise the Reserve hospital are medical, surgical, dental, neuropsychiatric, laboratory and pharmacy.

The close cooperation in coordinating the work of Martin Army Hospital and the 324th is an example of the One Army concept in practical application.

Children Wonder

What School to Go To? Here's Tentative Answer

Tentative grade assignments for the post Children's Schools have been announced.

Attendance plans are subject to change according to enrollment figures so class sections may be equalized and transportation kept at a minimum.

All children eligible for kindergarten regardless of where they live on the military reservation and pupils in grades one through four residing on Main Post, Benning Park Homes and Harmony Church will attend either Patch School (Baltzell Ave. and Lumpkin Rd.) or the Hospital Area School (Baltzell Ave.).

Students in grades one through five living in Custer Terrace, Battle Park and Upatoi Terrace will go to Wilbur School, off Custer Rd. in the Wherry Housing area.

Children in grades one through six residing in Officer and Enlisted Capehart areas will attend Loyd School on Santa Fe Rd., near Victory Highway.

Attending Faith School, which is on Main Post off Lumpkin Rd., will be students in grade five and six living on Main Post, Benning Park Homes and Harmony Church, pupils in grade six residing in Custer Terrace, Battle Park and Upatoi Terrace, and all students in grades seven and eight, regardless of where they live on the post.

NEW SIGNAL C-O
Major Coburn

New Signal CO Takes Command

Major Herbert W. Coburn has assumed duties as commander of the 122nd Signal Battalion, succeeding Major Charles F. Nietman, who now is serving as executive officer of the battalion.

Major Coburn comes to the battalion from a tour of duty in Korea, where he was Senior Signal Advisor to the Second Republic of Korea Army.

Korea

Preceding his Khrean tour, he attended the Senior Advanced Signal Officers Course at Fort Monmouth, N. J. He previously served as assistant professor of Military Science and Tactics at Cornell University.

In addition to his tours of duty in Korea and at Cornell University, Major Coburn has served as chief of the shops branch, maintenance division, Yokohama Signal Depot and as officer-in-charge of operations for the establishment of a teletype repair school at Fort Gordon, Georgia.

Major Coburn attended the University of Vermont, where he majored in mathematics and minored in physics. He

Overseas Reassignments Frozen By DA

Officers Urged to Extend To Boost Army Buildup

By Peter Tatistcheff

Newly-received information concerning people due for overseas tours and officers due for retirement in the near future has a direct effect on some members of the 2nd Infantry Division.

Reflecting the increase in overall Army strength, the information received Monday from Department of Army has the general purpose of encouraging officers and warrant officers to voluntarily extend their terms of active duty.

It also is intended to "stop rotation between Conus (Continental United States) and overseas."

Freeze

Officers and enlisted men due for reassignment from the 2nd Infantry Division to overseas Army stations will be subjected to a "finite" freeze.

The freeze effected by Department of Army will cover a period long enough to review the increasing needs of Army units both in the United States and abroad. Therefore, those affected will await formal confirmation or cancellation of their existing orders.

It is estimated by the division adjutant general's office that 11 division officers have been affected by this freeze serving in that capacity since July 27, 1959. The Assistant S-3, Captain Don P. Hancock, comes to the 27th Artillery from Fort Sill, Okla., where he attended the Artillery Officers Career Course Two.

The S-2 slot, officially vacant, is filled temporarily by Lieutenant Ollie F. Askew, a former member of 15th Artillery.

The new artillery battalion bears the same basic structure as other artillery units assigned to Division Artillery. It is composed of three basic batteries: Headquarters Battery, Captain Gerald R. Carter, commanding; Battery A, Lieutenant Donald H. Shumake, commanding, and Battery B, Lieutenant Robert G. Slaughter, commanding.

Capt. Carter, Headquarters Battery commander, comes from 38th Artillery, where he was assistant S-3. Prior to his assignment to the 38th Artillery, he attended the Artillery Officers Career Course Four at Fort Sill.

Lt. Shumake is the former executive officer of Battery B, 29th Artillery, Lieutenant Slaughter, Battery B commander, was assigned previously to the 17th Artillery as personnel officer.

The top non-commissioned officer for the 27th Artillery is Sergeant Major Fred A. Lee. Prior to his assignment to the 27th Artillery, Sergeant Major was first sergeant with Battery B, 38th Artillery.

History

The 27th Field Artillery Battalion was constituted as the 27th Field Artillery Regiment, a National Guard Unit, on July 5, 1918 and assigned to the 8th Division. It was actually organized on August 5, 1918 at Camp McClellan, Alabama, but was demobilized at the end of World War I.

On the 15th day of July, 1940, with the threatening turmoil of war extending to the United States, the battalion, redesignated the 27th Field Artillery Battalion (armored), was activated with the 1st Armored Division at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Its present status as the 27th Armored Field Artillery Battalion came about in January 1942.

Following its training with the 1st Armored Division, the Battalion sailed to North Africa and entered combat at Oran in November of 1942. It was during the December fighting that the 27th won the first and perhaps most illustrious battle honors.

The battalion aided in capturing a sector straddling the Medjez-Tebourba road. After several days of tank duels, the Germans landed a full scale land and air attack down the road. Fighting in rain with disabled machinery, Battery C of the 27th earned a Presidential citation for their heroic stand against the enemy.

In 1955 the 27th was a participant in what was at that time called the "largest peacetime maneuver ever attempted — Exercise Sagebrush." In 1957, the battalion participated in two Continential Army Command directed field training exercises: — "King Cole" and "Sledge Hammer."

In the summer of 1957, the 27th received a mission of trainee instruction, including basic combat, advanced, individual, and basic unit training cycles. It was inactivated in December of that year.

With its assignment to the 2nd Division, this battalion becomes the sixth unit assigned to Division Artillery. It joins the 12th, 15th, 17th, 97th and 38th Artilleries.

It comes to the division carrying battle credits including Tunisia, Naples - Foggia, Rome-Arno, North Appenines and Po Valley.

Division Approaches Red Cross Blood Drive Goal of 3,000 Pints

Second Infantry Division men who rolled up their sleeves recently to donate to the Red Cross blood drive are helping the Indianhead division edge its way toward its yearly goal of 3,000 pints.

Sergeant Henry Kile, division safety NCO, reported that some 575 pints were donated at the recent visit by the Red Cross, bringing the total collected thus far to 2,519 pints.

SH Christian Fellowship Plans First Meeting Sun.

The Sand Hill Christian Fellowship will meet for the first time at 6 p.m. Sunday at Sand Hill Chapel Three.

The Rev. Frank Beall, associate pastor of the First Baptist Church, Columbus, will be guest speaker. Special music will be provided for the occasion. Homemade refreshments will be served by the chaplains' wives.

First of Series

This will be the first of a continuing series of programs to be held every Sunday evening at 6 p.m. at Chapel Three. The Sand Hill Christian Fellowship will offer an opportunity for informal worship, inspiration and fellowship. Programs will be centered around guest speakers, special film, visiting choirs, group participation in hymn singing and discussion.

Local civilian and military talent will participate in the services.

The Fellowship will be a major addition to the chapel program for the men and families of the Sand Hill area. Everyone in the Fort Benning - Columbus area is invited to take part.

Private's Yell Saves Lieutenant From Possible Injury in Woods

By 87th Inf PIO

A shout of warning by an 87th Infantry private has been credited with saving his lieutoon leader from possible serious injury.

While in training in the northwestern part of the reservation recently during a severe thunder and rain storm, Private Earl T. Morgan heard a large branch snap in a tree high above. He then noticed his platoon leader, Lieutenant Alexander P. Slusarchuk, standing directly beneath the branch.

Morgan called to his platoon leader, who jumped aside. He was narrowly missed by the crashing tree limb.

"If it hadn't been for Private Morgan's alertness," said Lieutenant Slusarchuk, "I probably would have been seriously injured."

Ancient Ancestors

According to a recent find by Louis Leakey, a British anthropologist, the modern day man had relatives on earth some 1,750,000 years ago. Leakey named his ancient man, Zinjanthropus.

11th Inf Trainees Given Leave Time

Trainees of the 11th Infantry are currently enjoying two weeks of leave.

Upon completion of the parade and earth-moving simplifying completion of the Advanced Individual Training cycle August 12th, trainees scattered to points throughout the United States.

The recruits will return Sunday and the Basic Unit Training phase will commence Monday.

Concert Set Sun. At Service Club By Division Band

The 2nd Infantry Division Band, under the direction of Chief Warrant Officer Mariano Morales, is to present a concert Sunday at Service Club Number Two, Sand Hill.

The concert is to begin at 1 p.m.

Included in the program is a medley of songs from World Wars I and II.

Also to be presented are a selection of Cole Porter songs, El Matador, selections from Flower Drum Song, a tribute to Benny Goodman and "Five Mellow Winds" in memory of Glenn Miller.

The band will also feature the Rock and Roll Combo of Ric Cartey.

Service Club Talent Show Draws Crowd of 600, 15 Entries Sun.

Winners Display Their Varied Talents In Instrumental and Vocal Renditions

By George Hord

FIDDLER
Bob Alley

Some 600 people gathered at Sand Hill's Service Club Two Sunday to watch 15 entries vie in five categories and show their stuff in a Talent Contest.

The five categories drew entrants from a number of 2nd Infantry Division units as well as other organizations on post.

"Bahalu"

Winning the vocal solo segment of the show was Bill Murphy of the Infantry Board with a rendition of "Bahalu," performed in costume with a guitar.

A string quartet — the Country Gentleman — placed first in the instrumental group division, presenting "Arkansas Traveler" and "Motivation". The group was composed of Gene Kinney, 69th Armor, on the bass fiddle; Ron Lalokia, 2nd Engineer Battalion; Paul Thibodou, 2nd Administration Company, and Danny James, U.S. Infantry Board, all of whom played guitars.

An interpretative dance, "What I Say," by Alfred L. Dearing, of the 2nd Engineer Battalion, was the first place entry in the individual specialties division.

A vocal group of 2nd Division men known as the Cavaliers won the honors in that category. Their selections included "Peace of Mind" and "That's When I Fell in Love."

Quintet

Composing the quintet were James Bailey, Alvin Hawkins and Henry M. Hammond, of the 9th Infantry, and Dennis Ware and Harry C. Stewart, of the 23rd Infantry.

Master of Ceremonies for the Service Club Talent Contest was Lieutenant William H. Mc-Goudel, of Company E, 23rd Infantry.

Judges were Lieutenant Arthur Brooke, U.S. Army Infantry Center Special Services officer - in - charge of entertainment; Master Sergeant Lewis Gray, of the 2nd Infantry Division Special Services Office, and Corporal William Nichols, of the Expert Infantryman's Badge Testing Committee, USAIC.

By Eugene Breeskin

Three officers and an enlisted man at the 87th Infantry are active participants in a sport usually reserved for daredevils and birds — sky-diving.

Lieutenant Jesse D. Dumas, who along with Lieutenants Jarles G. Gritz and Walter L. Swain and Sergeant Robert D. Hunkapiller are members of Main Post's Sport and Parachute Club, says he has made 56 sky jumps.

Definition

He defines the sport as "the art of exiting an aircraft from about 10,000 feet and falling to 2,000 feet before pulling the cord."

Oxygen masks, he points out, are used for jumps above 13,500 feet.

The difference between conventional jumps and sky-diving, Lieutenant Dumas says, is that the sky-diver chutes are not attached to the aircraft with static lines. The chutes are opened manually instead of by air pressure; sometimes up to a full minute after leaving the plane.

Sky dives at the club are usually made from H-34 helicopters or "Otter" fixed-wing aircraft. Almost all the equipment, including the altimeter, stopwatch and reserve chute, are supplied by the club. Training includes the use of the jump towers and is similar to an airborne course.

Control Flight

The most fascinating part of sky-diving, he says, is that the diver can control his flight through the air. By controlling speed and direction, divers usually aim for a specific target.

When the body reaches a falling speed of about 120 miles-per-hour, gravity and air resistance stabilize each other and the diver feels suspended in air. This is what sky-divers call TV (terminal velocity). By moving his hands and feet, the sky-diver can change direction in flight with ease. Sometimes four or five divers pass a baton to each other during the descent.

Divers also can glide almost horizontally with the earth in a more difficult maneuver called "tracking." Even after the chute is opened, the diver can control his descent, thus avoiding dangerous landing areas.

Actually, Lieutenant Dumas feels that sky diving is safer than many other risky sports like mountain climbing, skin diving or racing. He concluded by saying that "Sky diving has provided me with the most thrilling and exhilarating experiences of my life."

BCT Ends at Cav With Graduation

By 7th Cav PIO

The 3rd Reconnaissance Squadron, 7th Cavalry recently concluded its mission of conducting Basic Combat Training with the graduation ceremonies of Troops A and C.

The last cycles of trainees were put through an accelerated training program to make these men available to the division for its new mission.

High Fliers

Each of the two troops conducted an informal ceremony where Privates William B. Nance, Troop A, and John E. Long, Troop C, were honored for attaining the highest scores in their units on the Trainfire course.

Assistant Div CG Reynolds Tours Tankers' Positions During Exercise

By 69th Armor PIO

Twenty aggressor helicopters vicinity 165883 heading southwest," reported the voice on the radio, "Aggressor tank column vicinity 376914, heading southwest. Approximately 35 tanks," reported another voice.

These were just some of the simulated situations confronted by members of the 69th Armor during their pre-lay Command Post Exercise last week.

Field

The battalion staff and company commanders of the 69th Armor moved to a field location Friday. The CPX was designed to encompass staff and troop leading procedures for newly-assigned officers and men.

Lieutenant Colonel Harry H. Riesland, commanding officer of the 69th Armor and his staff issued the orders and the company commanders prepared the solutions. After the pressing the CPX.

Brigadier General Royal Reynolds, assistant division commander of the 2nd Infantry Division, visited the CPX location and inspected the training. Each of the company commanders briefed General Reynolds as to their solution to the problem. General Reynolds was also briefed by each of the staff sections.

Captain Johnnie J. Wright of the 69th Armor S-3 Section acted as controller and introduced different situations dur-

Cain Captures 87th Infantry's S-O-M Honors

By 87th Inf PIO

Combat Support Company has provided the battle group with its second consecutive 87th Infantry "Soldier of the Month."

The winner for the month of July is Sergeant James H. Cain, a squad leader with the weapons platoon. In a brief ceremony at battle group headquarters, Sergeant Cain was presented with a small check, a three day pass and a special citation by the commanding officer, Colonel Robert E. Connor.

Best Display

The award is given to that man who best displays outstanding qualities as a Soldier, such as military bearing, neatness and a knowledge of basic military subjects.

Sergeant Cain, who has seen prior service with the Navy and Air Force will represent the 87th in the coming competition for the Infantry Soldier of the Month.

Entries by 2nd Infantry Division personnel in pencil, ink, oils, water color, tempera, pastels and charcoal are expected to be placed in competition along with sculptured objects, ceramic pieces, photographs and cartoons.

Prizes in the various categories are to be awarded during the intermission of a dance to be held at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Major Farrell Named S-4 For 1st Inf.

Succeeded as S-2 By Major Gyzen

By 1st Inf. PIO

Major Erwin D. Farrell, former S-2 (Intelligence) of the 1st Infantry, is taking over the duties of battle group S-4 (Supply and Logistics) from Major Harlie M. Goss, who leaves later this month for duty with the Army Advisory Group in Korea.

Major Farrell's duties as S-2 will be taken over by Major Kless Gyzen, recently assigned from Bremerhaven, Germany.

Division Tour

Major Goss, a veteran of seven years' service with the division, joined the 145th Infantry at Camp Polk, La., in 1954 and participated in the ceremonies changing that unit to the 10th Infantry Division in 1955. After going to Europe with the 10th, Major Goss served during the redesignation of that unit to the 2nd Infantry Division at Fort Benning in 1958. He joined the 1st Infantry from the 23rd Infantry in 1960.

Major Farrell came to the 1st Infantry with the original cadre for the eighth OVERSEAS unit (Overseas Unit Replacement) in July 1961 from Division Trains where he was S-3 (Training and Operations). A graduate of Officer Candidate School in 1943, Major Farrell also graduated from the University of Maryland.

2 Get Leafs At 2nd Engrs Ceremonies

In recent separate ceremonies, Lieutenant Colonel Albro L. Parsons Jr., commander of the 2nd Engineer Battalion, pinned gold leafs on Major James B. Rogers and Major Ruddie E. Irizarry.

Major Rogers has previously served in Alaska as commanding officer of the 48th Engineer Company and maintenance officer of the Engineer Supply Company. He is presently the S-4 officer of the battalion.

Caribbean

Major Irizarry, engineer (jeep) maintenance officer, has previously served in the Caribbean area with the 65th and 33rd Infantries and, prior to joining the 2nd Engineers, served in Europe.

Major Irizarry has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal and the Bravery Gold Medal of Greece. Major Rogers has been awarded the Silver Star among his many other decorations.

Want to Be an Individualist? Try Archery, Recommends 9th Infantry Bow 'n' Arrow Fan

By 9th Inf PIO

One of the oldest weapons known to man is the bow and arrow.

While present world conditions afford an ever-increasing demand for more modern and better armaments, a number of people, particularly those in the major cities, are becoming interested in the weapon made more famous, perhaps, by the American Indian than the ancient Roman.

One such archery advocate is Private James M.Gruschin, an 18-year-old soldier currently taking training with Company A, 9th Infantry.

Father

Gruschin was introduced to the sport of archery by his father, a well-known archer from East Detroit, Michigan. Young Gruschin says his father has accumulated "more than 250 medals, 20 trophies and 50 ribbons" in 15 years of tournament competition.

The 9th Infantry Soldier has not fared badly, although he has competed for only three years. During this time he has won seven medals and 19 ribbons. Medals are given tournament winners, and ribbons are awarded runners-up, Gruschin explains.

Archery tournaments are organized much in the same manner as golf tourneys. Four partners compete throughout the 28-target course and the archer with the highest score wins the tournament. Possible score in the 28-target course is 560 points, — 20 points per target with four arrows being shot at each target.

The target course itself is laid out much like a golf course. The archers walk along the course until they sight the target down range. They then shoot from a stake which corresponds to the target number.

The targets, made of hay covered with paper faces, are at ranges from 10 to 80 yards and the archer is allowed to shoot only four arrows at each. The course is laid out in most instances on farmland, and natural vegetation provides obstacles which make target shooting slightly more complicated.

Summer Sport

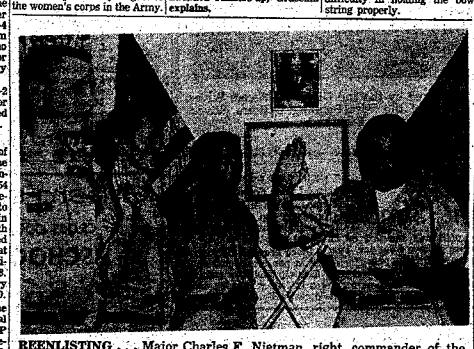
Archery is a summer sport. Young Gruschin gives a number of reasons why the sport is inactive during the winter months. Among these are heavy snow making it difficult to retrieve errant arrows and difficulty in holding the bow string properly.

The sport, becoming increasingly popular but not yet widespread, is organized almost solely at club level. These clubs sponsor tournaments in which mostly its own members compete. A member of another club is allowed to compete for individual honors but he may not win laurels for his club.

Gruschin said that in most cases archers belong to a number of clubs and, therefore, get the opportunity to gain more honors than in one particular club.

Gruschin says that archery is for the individual. One's own skill determines his success in the sport. A city champion gains that honor by beating the top archer in each of the clubs within the city.

A few archers have become professionals and compete in tournaments which have purses rather than trophies, medals and ribbons. The 9th Infantry soldier says that this type of competition is still on a very small scale, although it is fairly common for archers to compete in tournaments held in cities and states other than their own.



Family Fun, Too

Gruschin says that he and his father, who has also bagged a deer, mountain goat, pheasant and a number of small game, are not the only members of the family interested in archery.

"My mother shoots about the same as I do, in the 300s, and my three brothers and sisters also shoot but not as regularly as Dad and I," Gruschin says.

Like father, like son? Not quite.

Young Gruschin shoots by instinct while the elder Gruschin shoots with a sighting device mounted on his bow.

New Surgeon Named to KH Battle Group

By 87th Inf PIO

One of the latest additions to the 87th Infantry is Captain Thomas M. Glushein, who succeeds Captain Henry Fuller as the battle group surgeon.

A graduate of Rutgers University and the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, Captain Glushien's last assignment was as an intern at Brooke Army Hospital at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

He commented that he was "honored" to be a member of the 87th. Aside from his duties as a Soldier and doctor, his primary responsibility would be to attend to the physical and mental well-being of the men in the battle group.

Majoring in mathematics and biological sciences in college, Captain Glushien had time to win the National Collegiate Athletic Association handball championship. He also has won numerous awards for photography.

All on One Day!

Arty Wives Have Coffee Cascade

The ladies of four Artillery units recently held their monthly coffees on the same day.

Mrs. William A. Lowe was hostess for Artillery Headquarters at her home on Arrowhead Road.

An arrangement of red roses graced the table where Mrs. James P. Clark poured. Mrs. William A. Becker, wife of Col. Becker, was welcomed by the group. Farewells were said to Mrs. Donald B. Roof whose husband, Lieutenant Colonel Roof, is retiring, and Mrs. Roy C. Place. Mrs. Gordon H. Williams was the guest of Mrs. Lowe.

38th Artillery

The Gault Court home of Mrs. Edmund D. Rozecki was the scene of the 38th Artillery's coffee.

Mrs. Rozecki poured at a table centered with an arrangement of fresh flowers. Mrs. Merlyn F. Miner and Mrs. H. T. Hannon were introduced as new members.

17th Artillery

Mrs. James Harris, 911-A O'Brien Circle, entertained the ladies of the 17th Artillery.

Crepe myrtle and zinnias were arranged in a silver bowl on the serving table. Mrs. William Wilson poured.

The ladies of the 12th Artillery gathered at the Arrowhead Road home of Mrs. Roy L. Sherard.

Mrs. Kenneth Schultz poured at a table decorated with a centerpiece of zinnias and fresh fruit. Mrs. Robert M. Crawford was bidden farewell.

Mrs. Clifford P. Hannum, wife of the 9th Infantry's commanding officer, was guest of honor. Also as a guest of honor was Mrs. Robert L. Brown, wife of the 2nd Infantry Division sergeant major.

The serving table at which Mrs. Brown poured was covered with a damask cloth centered by a bowl of red and white carnations.

Guests in addition to Mrs. Hannum and Mrs. Brown were Mesdames Lesco G. Loper, J. Coody and C. R. Reynolds.

Cook of the Week

Ideal: Elegant, Simple

If you are looking for an elegant and easy main course for that dinner party you are planning, this week's recipe is ideal.

This is submitted by Mrs. Laurence Bishoff who says it is simplicity itself.

POULET CHAUMIERE

2 frying chickens, cut up (about 2½ lbs. each)
1 envelope garlic salad dressing mix
½ c. 4 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup sliced mushrooms
1 can (1 lb.) whole tomatoes
2 teaspoons dried tarragon leaves
¼ cup sherry

Wipe chicken parts with damp paper towels; pat dry. Sprinkle with 2 teaspoons salad dressing mix. Heat oil in large electric skillet or Dutch oven. Saute chicken parts slowly until well browned on all sides; remove from pan. Pour excess fat from pan.

Melt butter in pan and cook onions and mushrooms over low heat until onions are lightly browned and mushrooms are tender. Sprinkle with flour, mixing well. Add tomatoes, tarragon, 1 cup sauterne and the remaining salad dressing mix. Blend well.

Place browned chicken pieces in pan, cover and simmer 35 to 45 minutes, or until chicken is tender, turning chicken occasionally. Serves 6.

Ladies Welcome Mrs. R. Reynolds

Mrs. Royal Reynolds, Jr., wife of the division's assistant commander, Brigadier General Royal Reynolds, Jr., was welcomed by the executive board of the 2nd Division Officers Wives Club Tuesday at the home of club president Mrs. Louis Kunzig.

Pink carnations and white snapdragons in a silver bowl made up the centerpiece at the afternoon tea. The table was also decorated with pink candles in silver candlesticks.

Mrs. Ralph H. Hughett, first vice president, and Mrs. Charles F. Austin, second vice president, poured.

They were later relieved by Mrs. Stephen Solomon, secretary of the club, and Mrs. Richard Sharp, treasurer.

Mrs. Kunzig's mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Cassidy, was a guest at the tea. She is visiting from Tyler, Texas.

During the social hour, Mrs. Reynolds was introduced to the wives club elective and advisory officers.

A Current Trend: Plastic Blossoms

Lack of a green thumb need no longer hold you back from enjoying the beauty of flowers in your home.

Although florists deny that artificial flowers are cutting seriously into fresh-flower sales, they do admit that current trends in restaurant, store, office, and home decorations are leaning heavily toward the bogus side.

Permanent

The bulk of plastic flowers, or permanent blossoms as their manufacturers prefer to call them, come from Italy and Hong Kong (a $30 million-a-year business which has jumped more than twenty times since 1955.)

In contrast to the gaudy paper and wax creations of yesteryear, today's fakes are so cleverly executed that often one must feel them to determine whether or not they are real.

I, for one, am a hearty supporter of the current trend. Although my thumb is green enough with outdoor and non-blooming indoor plants, I do not seem to have the touch with cut flowers nor flower-producing house plants. I carefully follow the florists' instructions — aspirin, cutting stems, vitamin pills — cut flowers are shabby the next day and blooming plants have shed their petals in a day or two.

Last Christmas, for instance, I bought three big, bright red plastic poinsettias, intending to arrange them on a door in the manner so artfully displayed in a woman's magazine. For one reason or another my poinsettias (or I) did not adapt themselves to the arrangement and, in desperation, I thrust them into a large pot of philodendron.

There they were so effective that there they have stayed ever since. I often thought of changing the blooms with the seasons but such a suggestion brings so many protests from my family, my neighbors, and my friends that as yet I haven't attempted the transition.

I have since learned, however, that my discovery wasn't as original as I thought at the time. Closer inspection of the gardens of a famed wayside restaurant, blooming too profusely for belief on a damp February day, revealed plastics cleverly combined with the shrubbery.

From Go-Kart to Rolls Royce, Sgt. Horton Drove Them All

By 87th Inf PIO

The question as to whether a soldier can combine two careers while in the service can be answered affirmatively by Sergeant First Class Lavern H. Horton.

Throughout his 16 years in the Army, Sergeant Horton has had the distinction of being a highly-successful American racing car driver, competing in events all over the world.

Company C

Presently, he is assigned to Company C, 87th Infantry, and is also the non-commissioned officer in charge of training aids for the battle group. Before coming here, he served as the senior enlisted advisor to the 94th Infantry Division, a reserve unit near Milwaukee, his home town. From 1951 to 1957 he was a major in the Army Reserve and commanded transportation units in the United States and in Europe.

Sergeant Horton has been around cars a long time. When he was 15, his father built a track and since then he has driven about everything from a go-kart to a Rolls Royce. He has driven in auto races in about every state and in almost every conceivable class ranging from stock cars to championship cars. In many of these events he built his own engines. In 1945 he competed in the Indianapolis "500," the "granddaddy" of all racing events in this country.

It was in Europe however, that Sergeant Horton proved himself.

Driving cars like the English Cooper-Norton and Jaguar, Italian Ferraris and the German Mercedes, he entered all the big European races. At the Nurbergring Races in Germany, in the touring car class (15 miles long and 186 curves in every lap), Sergeant Horton holds the record for being the only American driving an American car to take first place in the event.

He won driving a 1951 Ford Custom. Overall, Sergeant Horton brought home 27 gold medals for first place and nine silver medals for second.

Name Drivers

Racing drivers ordinarily don't like to reminisce, and Sergeant Horton is no exception, but he can never forget the thrill of racing against drivers like Fangio, Phil Hill or Sterling Moss. He remembers how Europeans worship their racing heroes, and recalls how close they used to stand to the road in cross-country events that took the cars through dozens of small towns.

Sergeant Horton doesn't plan on retiring from the field yet to admire his abundant collection of trophies. The only reason he doesn't race now is that there isn't that much racing that goes on in the vicinity.

1st Inf Private Picked to Attend USMC Academy

By 1st Inf PIO

Private William D. Welch Jr., of Combat Support Company, 1st Infantry, received an appointment to King's Point, the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, from Representative Carl Elliott of Alabama.

Father

Welch's father is a veteran of 17-years' Reguar Army service, and Welch says he is interested in making the Navy a career. He became interested in the sea as a Sea Scout at the United States Army Chemical Center, Maryland, where his father was stationed from 1956 to 1959.

Welch was one of 2,400 applicants for the 200 vacancies at King's Point.

Training at King's Point is divided into four segments. Sky-Diving Private, 32, Has Penchant for Pets

By 9th Inf PIO

A diminutive Englishman who wants to go Special Forces, sky-dives as a sport, loves cats and grows gladiolas—that's Private First Class Alfred G. Davis of Company E, 9th Infantry.

Born in Southampton, England, 32 years ago, Davis came to the United States in 1960. After traveling throughout the States, he entered the Army in March and says he may make the Army a career.

Demolitions

Davis, who stands five feet, four inches short and weighs 135 pounds, says he wants to get into demolitions. At present he is awaiting orders for assignment to Special Forces.

Reared with the Atlantic Ocean at his backyard, Davis first went to sea at the age of 14. His first voyage took him to Spain for supplies and equipment for hard - pressed British troops fighting the Germans in World War II.

He joined the British Army in 1944 and was sent to Palestine. In two and one-half years with the British Airborne, Davis made 58 jumps and was introduced to the sport of sky-diving.

After the war he joined the British Merchant Marine and in a six-year span went around the world "about seven times."

Tiring of the sea, Davis then went to New Zealand, where he worked for an oil company for seven years.

While in New Zealand, Davis joined a sky-diving club and made a number of dives. He didn't keep any records and said he doesn't recall just how many dives he did make.

He does remember one dive, however. He bailed out of the plane at an altitude of 14,000 feet and planned to free fall to 5,000 feet before opening his chute.

'Chickened Out'

"I 'chickened out' and opened my chute at about 6,000 feet," Davis said. "I thought my altimeter wasn't working correctly. The ground looked like it was rushing up faster than it was supposed to."

Asked about the differences between the British and American armies, Davis said he thought British discipline was more strictly enforced than U. S. Army discipline. However, he gave the U. S. Army a slight edge in training over the British troops.

Besides growing flowers and making wood cravings, Davis also likes cats. He had two in New Zealand, a black one and another red and white one.

Puts Aggressor Togs in Mothballs

Troop B, 7th Cavalry has ended its role as the aggressor force for the 2nd Infantry Division.

For the past week elements of this Troop have been opposing units of the 9th Infantry on the field of battle. The troopers, highly-camouflaged in their forest green aggressor uniforms manning vehicles flying the aggressor and "trigon" insignia have been busily engaged in representing the "enemy" in the post year in support of the OVUREP program. With the new training mission underway, the troopers now are turning in their two sets of issued aggressor uniforms to be placed in mothballs.

A special citation commends Major Rush for his "prompt and vigorous action as well as his knowledge and skill, and reflected great credit upon himself and the United States Army."

International Competition

1st Infantry Diver in Greece Meet

By 1st Inf PIO

Sergeant First Class Paul A. Bridgewater, Company D, 1st Infantry was picked to participate in the 25th annual Council of International Sports Swimming Championships in Athens, Greece, next month.

Sgt. Bridgewater, a veteran of 15 years' Army service, first competed in 1956, when he won the Far East Eighth Army one-meter and three-meter championships in Japan. He placed 12th later that same year in the All-Army Meet in Chicago.

Despite his accomplishment, Sgt. Bridgewater has had only 20 days of actual diving instruction in his life.

The first meet he won was not only the first he ever entered, but he entered only as an experiment, having never done any competition-type diving and having had no prior instruction.

In 1958 he was reassigned to Fort Benning, where he has been the Post Pools Supervisor and Water Safety Instructor until his reassignment to the 1st Infantry in July 1961.

He was unable to participate in any competition from 1956 until 1959, when he won the Third United States Army Championships and also placed 16th in the United States Pan American Game Trials in the 10-meter platform competition.

Learns From Others

Sgt. Bridgewater has never had any instruction in the 10-meter platform, which is approximately 54 feet high. All instruction has come from watching others dive and from books and magazines on the subject.

No facilities for training in the 10-meter board are available at Fort Benning or Columbus. The only boards nearby are in Atlanta, where he has spent about two days in practicing for the forthcoming international competition.

Sgt. Bridgewater originally enlisted in the Army in 1946, spent eight years with the 82nd Airborne Division and is the holder of the Senior Parachutist Badge with over 70 jumps completed.

In 1956 he was assigned to Japan with the 506th Airborne. He also was a swimming and weightlifting instructor in Japan.

WE'RE SLOW . . . BUT SURE

The Bayonet is in a pickle.

The first and second rounds of the 2nd Division Volleyball Tournament, scheduled last night and today, will not be reported in today's edition because one happened too late and the other hasn't happened yet.

The same will be true concerning the semi-finals and finals of the tournament to be held Thursday and Friday of next week.

However, in between, we'll give you a roundup of what happened in the first two rounds and maybe you'll get a picture of what's going to happen in the last two rounds.

Also last night's boxing card at Briant Wells Field House will not be reported until next week's edition of the Bayonet.

Read your Bayonet. It may be a little late but you'll be informed.

Headquarters Co Sets Pace In 87th Inf League

By 87th Inf PIO

Aggressive play and favorable weather have placed Headquarters Company on top in the 87th's Volleyball League.

Headquarters Company (2-0) is being hard pressed by Company E and Company B (2-1), followed by Company D, Company C, Combat Support Company and Company A, in that order.

Headquarters Company won their first game with ease. In winning their second game, they showed their strength by sweeping the first two sets 15-4 and 15-5.

With better than half a season to go, Headquarters Company should remain on top. When they meet Company E next Monday, the clash should determine the strongest team in the battle group.

Along with leading company level competition, Headquarters Company also provides five players for the battle group team which competes in the 2nd Division Volleyball Tournament, now underway.

Longest Home Run

The longest home run on record was hit by Babe Ruth in 1919 in a game between the Boston Red Sox and the New York Giants in Tampa, Fla. The ball traveled 587 feet.

SOFTBALL TOURNEY LACKS 2ND DIV REPRESENTATIVE

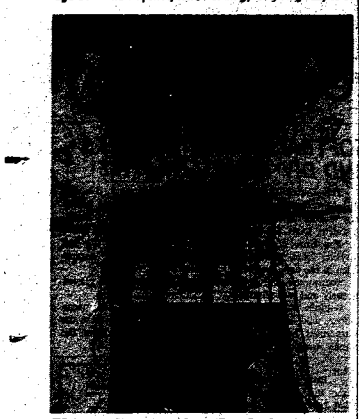
The United States Army Infantry Command (USAIC) 1961 Company Level Softball Tournament which got underway earlier this week does not, nor will have, a representative from the 2nd Infantry Division.

The time of day is the culprit which bars the 2nd Division from furnishing its allotted 18 teams for competition in the double-elimination tournament.

Tournament regulations call for all games to be played in early and mid-afternoon.

Captain Milton Lewis, 2nd Division Special Services officer, said 2nd Division teams planned to compete in the tournament but were unsuccessful in a bid to have the games scheduled at night.

Ruth's Records



Babe Ruth holds 29 major league records and has been tied for five others. He owns 25 World Series records of which six have been tied.

1st Cites Capt., Career Course Honor Graduate

By 1st Infantry PIO

The honor graduate of Infantry Officer Career Course One, Captain George N. Tronsrue Jr., assistant S-3 for the 1st Infantry, recently was presented a Letter of Academic Achievement.

Captain Tronsrue, a former enlisted man and West Point graduate, was honored for an overall score of 93.7. He recorded perfect scores on 17 out of 29 tests given by the school. Brigadier General L. A. Walsh, Jr., then assistant commandant of the U. S. Army Infantry School, complimented Capt. Tronsrue on his work during the nine month course.

West Point

Captain Tronsrue, a 1952 graduate of West Point, served with the 8th Infantry Division in 1952 and 1953 before joining the 8th Cavlary Regiment of the 1st Cavalry Division in Japan. In 1956 he was a student at Institution Brasil - Estado Unidos in Brazil and graduated from the Brazilian Parachutists' Course in 1957. His last assignment before attendance at the Advanced Course was as an assistant instructor at West Point in Portuguese from 1957 to 1960.

To Armor School

By 7th Cav PIO

Captain Richard H. Schuessler, Headquarters Troop executive officer and Captain Norman D. Kelley, squadron motor officer, 7th Cavalry, have received orders to attend the Armored Officers Career Course at Fort Knox, Ky.

These persons were to have departed after October 1. People who have already completed clearing will proceed as scheduled. However, all others will be detained indefinitely until word is received by the division on their redefined status.

The second message received by the division states that "commanders will encourage a maximum number of reserve officers who complete obligated tours of service during the remainder of fiscal year 1962 to volunteer for extended active duty in an indefinite service category."

Emphasizing "voluntary" extensions, the Department of Army note states that "already-approved requests for early release . . . for six months officers and other than Regular Army officers are valid."

Retention

Voluntary retention will be offered to officers and warrant officers who have applied for retirement effective September 1. Also those officers being released from active duty effective August 31 will be screened and voluntary retentions will be offered persons chosen by this screening.

As voluntary extensions are still being received by division it is unknown how many 2nd Division officers will be affected by this second message.

Should an officer be chosen for retention, it is stated that under this program persons will be retained for "at least one year."

It is hoped that there will be enough voluntary extentions to meet the growing needs. However, should the requirements not be reached, Department of Army may be forced to extend reserve officers who complete obligated tours during the remainder of fiscal year 1962.

"If the number of volunteers is insufficient to meet minimum requirements, some or all of these officers may be extended for periods up to one year on a selective basis."

Parker Setting Blistering Pace In 2nd Division Golf Tournament

By DIV PIO

Lieutenant T. W. Parker of Combat Support Company, 23rd Infantry, blistered the greens of the Fort Benning Officers Open Mess Golf Course this week with three sub-par rounds to open a commanding lead in Flight C of the 2nd Infantry Division Golf Tournament.

Lt. Parker posted a one-over-par 73 in the first round, then fired consecutive circuits of 68-68-70 for a four-round total of 279. His nine-under - par score is odds-on favorite to withstand the onslaught by other Flight C participants.

Sergeant First Class J. D. Speer, with 294, is the only other tournament player to complete the course.

After three rounds of play, Major Charles M. Boles of Headquarters Company, 9th Infantry, has a seven-under-par score of 209 to lead the Flight B Division. His closest competitor is Captain A. C. Mitchell of 2nd Division Headquarters who, after two rounds, has a one-over-par total of 145.

Leader in the Open Division is Captain J. D. Crowley of Headquarters Company, 23rd Infantry with a score of 178. The only other two scores posted in the division are 187s turned in by Captain R. H. Millward of Company D, 2nd Engineer Battalion, and Lieutenant W. L. Anderson of Headquarters Company, 87th Infantry.

Lieutenant Colonel Byrd Sergent of 2nd Division Headquarters leads the Senior Division with a two-round total of 170. Major H. T. Hannon of Headquarters, 38th Artillery shot 185 in two rounds to post the only other score to date in the division.

Other scores as of this week are:

Flight B after two rounds — Major J. W. Roush of 2nd Aviation Company, 147; Major E. C. Miller of 7th Cavalry Headquarters, 151; Major J.A. Burns of 2nd Division Headquarters, 151; Captain K. D. Johnson of 2nd Division Headquarters, 151; Captain A. Dryer of 2nd Division Headquarters, 161; Captain R. K. Gunn of Headquarters, 9th Infantry, 162; Lieutenant Colonel H. H. Hiestand of Headquarters, 69th Armor, 163; Lieutenant F. Bauer of 2nd Administration Company, 164; Captain Ismael Pack of 2nd Division Headquarters, 168.

After one round — Lieutenant Colonel C. G. Collins of Headquarters, 13th Transportation Battalion, 72; Chief Warrant Officer J. R. Geram of Headquarters, 17th Artillery, 77; Captain J. McCool of Battery A, 38th Artillery, 78; Master Sergeant G. T. Burke of Company D, 23rd Infantry, 79; Captain T. W. Valentines of Headquarters, 37th Artillery, 81; Captain E. D. Rzecki of Headquarters, 39th Artillery, 135; Master Sergeant T. J. Tobin of Company A, 11th Infantry, 85; and Specialist Four H. Hall of Headquarters Company, 9th Infantry, 82.

Flight C after two rounds — Lieutenant Colonel J. T. Durham of Headquarters, Division Trains, 142; Major D. W. Alberti of Headquarters, 13th Transportation Battalion, 151; Lieutenant R. H. Cranford of Battery A, 12th Artillery, 153; Captain A. Rouchon of Headquarters Battery, 38th Artillery, 156; Major S. J. Carrig of 2nd Division Headquarters, 166; Captain S. H. Epps of Headquarters, 7th Cavalry, 167; Lieutenant G. L. Coulbourn of Battery A, 12th Artillery, 175; and Captain C. A. Griffin Jr., of Headquarters, 7th Cavalry, 179.

Movie Stars, Bowling Balls, Kegler's Future

By Chuck Foster

Bowling balls and movie stars. How's that for a winning combination?

Don Cattalani of the 2nd Administration Company has seen plenty of both, but the bowling ball is his specialty. Only a few days ago, Don rolled a three-game series of 727 at the Baker Village Bowling Center to post one of the highest scores made at the Columbus lanes.

Posts 787

It wasn't the first time he'd rolled a 700 series. He has scores of 729 and 730 and a sanctioned series high of 737 in his native New York. His all-time series high is 787 posted in 1957.

Don will go to Atlanta later this month where he will compete in the 700 Club of the South Tournament to be held at the famous Triangle Lanes in East Point, Georgia, a suburb of Atlanta. He will be bowling against some of the South's top keglers.

The 24-year-old New Yorker first became acquainted with bowling balls when he set pins in a Rochester, N. Y., alley to help pay his high school expenses. But the movie stars came along a few years, and a lot of strikes, later.

An employee of Hollywood Legion Lanes in Hollywood, California, the home of the nationally televised "Jackpot Bowling" series, Don watched a number of the screen's biggest names perform on the alleys.

Mansfield Bowls?

Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh, Milton Berle, Jerry Lewis and many others were regular participants in the Movie Star League competition every Thursday night. "She throws a pretty good ball," was all Don had to say about Jayne Mansfield's alley action.

A clerk in the finance section of the 2nd Division's Adjutant General Trainee Division, Don says his plans for the future do not include bowling as a career. He says there's "more security" in managing lanes than playing on them.

He has helped construct and manage bowling establishments for two of the nation's top firms, the Bowling Corporation of America and American International Bowling Corporation, and has first-hand knowledge in the operation and maintenance of alleys.

Don has this to say to bowling fans who may not have realized the success they would like to experience:

Tip to Bowlers

"Too many people worry about what the ball is going to do after it leaves the hand. The key to good bowling is what you do before releasing the ball."

Try that tip and if it doesn't work you can always become a movie star.

Softball Champs

Private Leonard Goodwin, 87th Infantry, pitched his Company C team to victory last week to capture the battle group softball championship with a decisive 7-2 win over Headquarters Company.

The game was a pitchers' duel. Sergeant Burl J. Withers, pitching for Headquarters Company, was plagued by some faulty fielding.

The game was decided in the bottom half of the third inning, when Private Charles Ziegler socked a three-run homer.

Post Softball Tourney Starts With 13 Teams

The Infantry Center company level softball tourney got underway Monday with 13 teams in the running to determine who will represent the post in the Third Army Softball Tournament scheduled for September 11-15 at Fort Jackson.

Monday's action included five games, in the afternoon at WAC field, Company B, Infantry School Battalion, The Student Brigade, tripped the 151st Engineer's team 1, 6-2. Richard Duvvall hurled the victory while Bob Kelly was charged with the loss.

That night Warren Paulk of Company A, 1st Battalion, Infantry Center Troop Command, hurled a two-hit shutout over the 41st Company, 4th Student Battalion. The Student Brigade, 4-0. Ed Proffitt was rapped for six hits and the loss. Ken McCoy paced the winners with a double and a single. John Ford's double and Leonard Valdez' single accounted for the 41st Company's two hits.

Trophies Awarded

Col. Otis R. Koch, Jr., commanding officer of The Student Brigade, presented Softball League Championship unit and individual trophies last Friday night.

1st Sgt. Terrell A. Means accepted the unit trophy for Company B, Infantry School Battalion, champions, and Sfc Arthur Roberts, coach for the 4th Student Battalion, accepted the runner-up trophy. Individual trophies were presented to each player by Col. Koch.

With 19 Wins

Baseball Championship Captured By TSB Nine

The Student Brigade collected the post Major Unit Baseball League championship Monday night, whipping the 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 10th Artillery, 1st Infantry Brigade by an 8-3 margin at Gowdy Field.

The victors chalked up its 19th win of the season with only five setbacks. It was the 10th win in the all-important second half of play. The win boosted TSB to a two-game margin over the Artillerymen, who had a chance to throw the first place position into a deadlock.

Second place for the season will be decided by the best two games out of three play-offs which started Tuesday at 7:00 between the 151st Engineer Group and the 10th Artillery.

The second game of the play-off was scheduled for Wednesday, also at 7:30 p.m.

The 151st Engineers finished in a tie with the season champions but were dropped to second place in a first round title play-off.

In gaining the post crown, The Student Brigade, coached by Sfc Robert Kinard, also earned the right to represent Fort Benning in the Third Army Baseball Tournament September 4 to 8 at Fort Bragg.

Over seven teams from the Third Army area will collide, seeking area command laurels. Fort McPherson won the championship in last year's Third Army tourney, which was held at Fort Benning's Gowdy Field.

Perry Results

Harold A. Greve of Fort Benning fired the highest score among the Georgia competitors at the North American Clay Target Championships Wednesday in Vandalia, Ohio, with a total of 96-96—192. William S. Golden of Columbus had the second high score of 97-94—191. Dr. T. N. Alford of Atlanta fired a 93-95—188, and David R. Dunsmoor of Fort Benning shot out a 95-91—186.

On the Engineer's softball field, Headquarters Company, 151st Engineers team 2, edged the 220 Ordnance Company 7-6. The Engineers scored in frames 2, 3 and 4, holding off a late rally by the 220th. The Ordnance nine picked up two runs in the third, one in the fifth. They rapped the Engineers for three hits and three runs in the sixth, but were unable to push across a run in the seventh.

John Harris was credited with the win, while Don Peterson was tagged with the setback. Harris chalked up nine strikeouts and Bobby Watson led the Engineers at the plate with two singles. Pitcher Don with two singles. Pitcher Don Peterson fanned six and had a double and single in a losing effort.

Headquarters Company, 58th Infantry, 1st Infantry Brigade, and Headquarters Company, The Student Brigade, picked up their wins on forfeit.

12th Armed Forces Benefit Grid Game Set for Chicago

CHICAGO (AFPS— It will be the Chicago Bears pitted against the Pittsburgh Steelers for the second consecutive year in the 12th annual Armed Forces Benefit football game at Soldier Field, September 8.

For the seventh straight time, the game will be sponsored by Chicago's four metropolitan daily newspapers which are members of the Chicago Newspaper Publishers Assn. Sharing in the proceeds are Army Emergency Relief, the Navy Relief Society and the Air Force Aid Society.

Fifteen previous Armored Forces games have netted $629,242.15.

Last year's result was the first tie in the series. The spectacular climax saw Pittsburgh take a 21-14 lead with less than a minute to go, only to have the Bears roar back as rookie Angelo Cola grabbed a 31-yard scoring pass with 17 seconds remaining.

Another unusual tie was recorded during the benefit tilt. For the first time in the series, there was a tie in the voting by sports writers for the Eisenhower Most Valuable Player Award. Rich Casares, who gained 135 yards on 14 carries, and Zeke Bratkowski, who threw the winning touchdown pass, shared the honor.

The Armed Forces game invariably is contested at a competitive level close to the regular form. Both teams open their regulation seasons just a few days after the service benefit tilt and have attained the timing and the play execution so vital in the major league of football.

Armed Forces series record:
1945—Bears, 19; N. Y. Giants, 0
1947—Bears, 28; Wash. Redskins, 7
1948—Bears, 42; Boston Yanks, 7
1949—Bears, 30; Giants, 17
1950—Bears, 10; Phila. Eagles, 3
1951—Cleve. Browns, 32; Bears, 21
1952—Bears, 75; Giants, 7

The Columbus, Ga., heavyweight, who was stopped by George Logan at Boise, Idaho, in the second round of their 12-round fight last week, denied today he had announced his intention to quit the ring.

"I have a bout in Finland in prospect," the former Olympic gold medal winner said, "and also there is a possibility I might meet old Archie Moore. I can't quit with prospects like that.

Duvvall Pitches Winner In Softball Exhibition

Company B, Infantry School Battalion, the champions of The Student Brigade's Intramural Softball League, staged an eighth inning rally to nip the 4th Student Battalion, The Student Brigade, 5-4, in an exhibition game Friday night.

Going into the eighth inning with the score tied 4-4, lead off batter Edward Alexander for Company B, reached first on an error by short stop Leonard Valdez, of the 4th Student Battalion.

Marlin Peters, next up, banged a line drive over second, good for two bases, which advanced Alexander to third.

On deck was Lloyd Dobson who came to the plate and smashed a hard grounder to short, stop Valdez which was just too hot to handle, allowing Alexander and Peters to score for the winning runs of the game.

John Temple Hurls 9-6 TSB Victory

John Temple, Headquarters Company's strong right-hander held Company A, Infantry School Battalion, to six runs enroute to a 9-6 victory over them during a recent game in The Student Brigade's intra-unit softball league.

Company A started the scoring in the fourth inning with a home run by Ted Wolfovich.

Headquarters scored seven runs in the bottom of the fourth as lead batter George Taylor started out with a home run. Harold Helms walked and Mike West got on with a single to third. Helms then stole third on a wild pitch by Al Hill, Co. A pitcher.

Don Koosman hit a double to right field scoring Helms and West. Tom Pruitt was out on a grounder to short. John Temple walked and John Down connected for a double to center field scoring Koosman. Larry Estell walked. Cecil McCullough hit a double scoring Temple. Down, trying to score on the play, was out at home. Taylor, his second time up, walked. Helms then scored Estell and McCullough on a single. West flew out.

Company A was scoreless in the fifth while Headquarters Co. brought in one more run as Temple scored on a single by Estell.

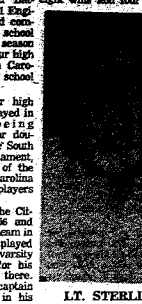
In the sixth, Frank Jenkins, Company A, hit a home run on the back of his hand as the ball hit low on the bat. This scored Richard Baker, Leonard Muldoon, and Jenkins. In the bottom of this inning, McCullough scored on a single by West for Headquarters Co.

A home run by Ted Wonkovich and a later score by Arthur Doyle failed to put them in the lead as Headquarters won 9-6.

Hill pitched the entire game for Company A, while Temple went the distance for Headquarters Co.

Concerning the home run hit on the back of the batter's hand, Temple said, "I've been pitching for a long time, but I've never had a guy hit a home run on the back of his hand."

WEST POINT GAME



One of the top grid attractions in the East next fall will be the West Point - University of Oklahoma tilt slated for New York City on November 18.

Today's Sportrait

Second Lieutenant John M. Sterling, 577th Engineer Battalion (Construction,) 151 Engineer Group, first played competitive tennis as a high school player in 1956. In that season he finished in the top four high school players in South Carolina and won the high school doubles championship.

In the summer after high school graduation he played in several tournaments, being runner up in the Junior doubles division of both the South Carolina closed tournament, open only to residents of the state, and the South Carolina Open which is open to players from numerous states.

LT. Sterling entered The Citadel in the fall of 1956 and began playing on their team in the spring of 1957. He played number one on the varsity team that spring and for his entire four year stay there. He served as team captain and number one man in his senior year posting a record of eight wins and four losses individually on a team with a 12 and 9 record. In the Southern Conference which is composed of eight colleges he was both singles and doubles runner-up.

LT. STERLING

In the summer after his sophomore year at The Citadel, Lt. Sterling teamed with a fellow college player to win the men's doubles championship of South Carolina.

Since graduation from college in June, 1960, he has played in the Fort Benning Officer's Club tournament, Third Army qualification tournament, and the Third Army tournament, all in the spring of 1961. In these he qualified as the third ranking player at Fort Benning.

In his latest effort, the Columbus City Championships, Lt. Sterling was the winner after beating the first and third ranked players in successive matches.

Designed for career service men or women who have completed three years of college, Operation Bootstrap permits an officer to complete his college education at the school of his choice.

Capts. Peterson, Potter and Vaughn will receive a bachelor of military science degree, requiring nine months of resident study. The other officers will be awarded the degree of bachelor of general education, which requires six months of residence.

Major P. E. Nottage Assigned to Combat Developments Slot

Major Paul E. Nottage is newly assigned to The Infantry School's Combat Developments Office.

He is a June graduate of the Command and General Staff College's regular course. He completed The Infantry School's motor maintenance course in May, 1943, and associate officer advanced course in May, 1957. A veteran of 16 years' active duty, Major Nottage is a September, 1942, graduate of Fort Benning's Officer Candidate School.

Announcing A New

Hunting And Fishing Column

By Pfc Don Girton

(Our old standby MSgt 'Charlie' Quinn keeps realizing that he almost has his 30 years behind him. If he can't figure out a good way not to retire, someone else will have to keep us posted on hunting and fishing regulations, post policies and goals, and conservation projects. So here's Pfc Don Girton of the Fish and Game Maintenance Association with his first column, assisted by Sgt Quinn. It'll be a regular feature from now on.—Editor)

The 1961-62 hunting season isn't far off and it appears that the dove season again will be a split affair. Seventy half-days will be split into two periods because past experience has shown that such a split in Georgia state allows equal chance of good shooting in the northern and southern sections.

Dove populations reach their peak in September and October in the northern part of the state but the birds don't reach top numbers in southern counties until later.

No word from either Georgia or Alabama as to exact dove dates but it's expected momentarily. Hunting on post will be permitted in any authorized area—there'll be no special fields set up. Right now the dove situation looks promising since there seems to be a good resident population.

Fish and Game Maintenance Association directors recently approved the association's budget for fiscal year 1962 and authorized expenditures of nearly $14,000 which will be equally split between operating expenses and a fast expanding program of operations.

The F and G budget is based upon an annual membership of some 4,000 members while our present roster stands at but 2,400 names.

It is expected, however, that hundreds of hunters among the post's newcomers will head for the association to pick up licenses and membership before the hunting season opens and these additions will bring the roster back up to a good working level.

Major William Brophy of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit has run up his score at water moccasins to 31 at last count. His 31st was a mean-looking rascal which Major Brophy brought into the Fish and Game office —chalk-white mouth, triangular head and all.

By the way, although the major knows his way around the woods, a snake-bite kit is always in his pocket. According to him there's little chance of getting struck if you remain alert to the possibility and use common sense when in snake country. "Little chance" means "some chance," he says, and therefore the snake kit.

GET POWER INTO SWING
BY SAM SWING

Good footwork finds the left knee pointed behind the ball on the backswing and the right knee in front of the ball on the downswing. You are in a natural position from address to impact.

Slicing is caused by hitting from the waist up without benefit of the feet. This throws the club outside the line of flight, cutting across the ball at impact. Correct footwork will prevent this.

The Surgeon Says

Don't Touch! That's Poison

Death Takes Child; 18 More Treated

By Capt. Glen C. Griffin, MC
MAH Staff Pediatrician

Within the last few weeks at Martin Army Hospital one child has died of aspirin poisoning — and four others have been treated for the same, but recovered; three have been treated for poisoning with charcoal lighter-fluid (one of which was almost fatal); one has been treated for poisoning with moth-balls; two children have had accidental lye ingestion; one has been treated for chlorox poisoning; two have ingested a toxic amount of unknown medications; one child had a serious overdose of iron tablets; three were hospitalized with kerosene poisoning and one child was poisoned with a common household insecticide.

The seriousness of poisoning in childhood is not generally recognized or the following would not be true: In every home on the Reservation and in Columbus there is enough poisonous material within the grasp of little children to cause death—either sudden or protracted.

Modern science and industry are constantly adding chemical aids to "better living". The number of these now in our homes should cause reflection on the danger that lies in almost every bottle, can or box.

Inquisitive lips and tongues taste that which may or may not be marked "Poison".

Such items as insecticides that with "one squirt kills an army of flying invaders" can often kill an innocent infant with a single squirt. Home permanent solutions (or their neutralizing solution) may do wonders for hair, but the same solutions can kill by breaking down blood or blocking kidney action.

Hydrocarbons can run our lawn - mower engines, spot clean our clothes or light charcoal fires — but they can also kill by causing sudden respiratory depression or by a slower process of chemical pneumonia.

Other dangerous chemicals common in the home are furniture polishes, waxes, solvents, detergents, paints, varnishes, alcohol, turpentine, anti-freeze, fingernail polish and many others. Every chemical used in home or industry can be considered a killer in the hands of a little child.

A wise professor stated that every medicine is strong enough to be effective is strong enough to be lethal if enough is consumed. This is especially true of the most widely used medicine in the world, also the one responsible for the most deaths due to poisoning in childhood — ASPIRIN.

Aspirin poisoning can occur by a well-meaning individual giving an over-dose or by a child "consuming" a box or bottle.

Flavored aspirin may be a convenience on occasions, but its appeal to little children makes it a real menace. Both over-dosage and accidental ingestion must be guarded against in every home, by every adult.

Aspirin Facts

Aspirin should be considered an effective but dangerous drug.

It must not be used indiscriminately.

The dosage of aspirin and other salicylates must be regulated. Unless directed otherwise by a physician:

Aspirin should not be given children unless the fever is greater than 102 degrees. (Such low grade fever is actually beneficial in the body's defense in fighting infection).

When aspirin is given to children it should never be in excess of one grain per year of age, at one time, with a maximum of five grains. This dose should never be repeated under four hours and only then when absolutely necessary. (Most "adult" aspirin contain five grains and most "baby" aspirins contain one and one-fourth grains. READ THE LABEL AND CHECK).

If a child accidentally takes aspirins, it is important to induce vomiting at once. This can be done by holding the child over the toilet and tickling the back of his throat with one's finger. A glass or two of warm water may speed up the process. Of course a doctor should be contacted early in every case of poisoning.

Familiarity Breeds Contempt

Often the least concern is given the most common medications. Since they are so commonplace, their danger is seldom considered. Even iron tablets in over-dose can cause death.

Other dangerous drugs include barbiturates, cough syrups, "reducing" pills, thyroid tablets, tranquilizers, heart medicines, asthma pills, antibiotics, anti-nausea, vitamins, as well as countless others.

All "extra" medicines should be discarded after treatment is completed. Under-the-sink cabinets, broom closets, and utility room floors are poor "homes" for cleaning solutions, insecticides, and other chemicals.

All drugs and household chemicals should be kept in high cabinets with secure latches or locks. Don't be among those who say: "These things are fine, but are not necessary for us. Our guns and ammunition are locked up which is enough safety for one house — and anyway, none of our youngsters have ever . . ."

For those without time to work out a better place to keep these toxic items, it is possible that YOUR CHILD MAY BE NEXT. Someone's child will be.

POWERFUL FAITH

Four bootleggers closed up shop after they heard a Meridian, Miss., minister say that he felt that there should be no more illegal liquor sold in the town. The minister is also the county sheriff.

Profile of a Man Doing a Man's Job

Private John J. Waziak, a 20-year old soldier from Baltimore, Md., is this week's profile of a man doing a man's job.

After a "rough, but interesting" basic training he entered AIT at Fort Jackson where he was a squad leader.

Coming to Fort Benning in May of this year, Pvt. Waziak entered Expert Infantryman's Badge Class 6, which was recently completed.

"The instructors were well abreast of the subjects. Everybody looked forward to the 12-mile hikes," he said, even though they knew it would cause a few blisters, tired legs, sore backs and other effects." This march ended EIB training and he was authorized to wear the "Mark of a Man."

Because of certain enrollment regulations he is ineligible to enter West Point. But this had not deterred him from his main objective.

The next OCS class gets underway in October and he has already submitted his application and is waiting to be interviewed by the OCS board. After OCS he intends to take Airborne, Ranger, Aviation, Language School, and Army Intelligence School, to eventually become an Intelligence Officer.

Will he make the Army a career? Definitely.

"It's a challenge which I welcome—something completely new and different happens every day."

ROTC Rifle Clinic Slated

ROTC members of college and high school rifle teams throughout the Third Army area will benefit by a Small-bore Rifle Marksmanship Clinic to be conducted at The Infantry Center next Monday through Thursday.

"The clinic has been specifically designed to acquaint the ROTC rifle coach with Army objectives and methods of training in the field of international - type marksmanship competition," 1st Lt. Bruce D. Silvey said.

Lt. Silvey, who will head the clinic's teaching staff, will be assisted by five crack marksmen of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit in presenting the four-day course to be attended by 74 advisers and instructors from universities, colleges and high schools directly connected with school marksmanship activities.

The Army's latest training methods will be described during the course, Lt. Silvey said, and will include team organization and conduct.

Second Lt. Victor L. Polansky will present classes on sighting, aiming, shooting psychology and trigger control, while precision firing from prescribed positions will be taught by 2nd Lt. Donald L. Harcourt, MSgt William B. Krilling, 2nd Lt. Lones W. Wigger and 2nd Lt. Thurston E. Banks.

"Extreme interest has been evinced throughout Third Army in this program of instruction," Lt. Co. Burton C. Boatright, Army match executive at the post, said, "and response has been beyond original expectations."

According to Col. Boatright, co-ordinator for the course of instruction, original plans called for some 60 Active Army personnel assigned to these schools to attend. A quick revision was necessary when 14 additional applications were received.

All members of the clinic's staff are assigned to the AAMU's International Section, which also plans to conduct clinic presentations in the Fourth and Fifth Armies in late October.

Registration For Girl Scouts Set Next Week

Girls interested in the Girl Scout program will be able to register for post scouting organizations at the same time that they register for school — next Monday and Tuesday, from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m.

An appeal has gone out for volunteer help from parents to assist in the Girl Scout work on post. Mothers and other women interested in working with girls have been asked to contact Mrs. H. W. Wilder at 5-4809 for additional information.

Know Your Senior NCOs

First Sergeant (E-8) Clifton G. Hobbs, recently promoted and assigned to Company A, Infantry School Battalion, The Student Brigade, enlisted in the Army on August 19, 1941, with the 39th Infantry Training Battalion at Camp Croft, S. C.

After basic he was assigned to the 5th Infantry Regiment at the Panama Canal. This unit was performing guard duty for the canal. Later in 1942, he joined the "Bushmasters." After jungle training with this outfit they were assigned as Gen. MacArthur's special troops in the South Pacific, taking part in campaigns from New Guina to Yokohama, Japan.

In 1945, he returned to the 6th Infantry, 4th Division, at Camp Butner, N. C. Then, in 1948, he was transfered to Fort Benning's Infantry School for duty with the Academic Department (now Command and Staff.)

E-8 HOBBS

In September, 1946, he helped activate the Drill and Command Section of The Infantry School. It's primary duty is to teach drill and command to OCS and NCO classes.

A short tour in Germany with the 43rd Infantry Division came in 1952. In 1953, he was again assigned to The Infantry School.

Since 1953, Sgt. Hobbs attained the status of Senior Drill Master of the entire Army, a title he gave up when transferred out of Drill and Command. He has helped write each 22-5 Field Manual since 1946, thus gaining the nickname "22-5 Hobbs." Sgt Hobbs also has received letters from Major Generals on down concerning particular parts of FM 22-5.

He was promoted and assigned as "Top Kick" of Company A on July 28.

BOOKS in REVIEW

HOURS TO KILL by Ursula Curtiss. (Dodd, 1961)

Here is the story of a death trap—of a girl who knows there is to be a killer and a victim but cannot identify them in time to prevent the murder. Margaret could not forget how easily Philip had jilted her to marry her sister Cornelia.

THE EMPTY ROBE by Stella Crater. (Doubleday, 1961)

A great deal has been written on the subject of Judge Crater's disappearance. The Empty Robe, however, is the first complete account of the strange case; Stella Crater, the judge's widow, has written her own personal story of the tragedy which has haunted her more than thirty years.

HIDDEN ISLAND by Elizabeth Corbett. (Crofts, 1961)

Edith Sewell was a golden girl who had too much too soon. The belle of her social crowd in the prohibition year of 1930, she spent her winters in New York and her summers at the magnificent Sewell place on an island off the coast of Maine. At her coming-out ball she was considered the loveliest and the most capricious debutant of the season.

When John Mannering undertook to help Delia Gill, whose brother had become involved with a vicious killer, he sensed that behind her story of thieves falling out there was a more deadly and powerful force. Mannering was caught between crooks who had killed once and would kill again, and the police who mistrusted his motives in taking the law into his own hands.

THE BIG FAMILY by Vina Delmar. (Harcourt, 1961)

The Slidells and their descendants' story is America's story, too. Its locales range through New York, New Orleans, Washington, Paris, Japan, and the sea. It opens during the Revolutionary War and ends in our own time. John Slidell, candle-maker of colonial New York, climbs from poverty to a position of wealth and social eminence.

At Columbus Center

Registration Starts For Ga. University Courses

Post personnel planning to enroll in University of Georgia off-campus courses at the Columbus Center are requested to consult advisors on the post concerning military educational programs and to secure partial payment permits for tuition.

Main Post personnel should report to The Infantry Center's Educational Development Section, Building 2512, while 2nd Infantry Division personnel are requested to consult the division Educational Development Section in Building 9010 at Kelly Hill. The Armed Forces will pay three-fourths of the tuition fee for military personnel.

Application for admission to the university courses must be filed by September 5 with Mrs. Eleanor C. Meadow, Columbus Center, University of Georgia, 1338 Talbotton Rd. A certificate of residence and transcript of credit from the last school attended should accompany the application.

Registration will be conducted today from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 5 to 8 p.m. in room 101 of Columbus College.

Classes are conducted Monday and Wednesday evenings. There are two periods each class night, permitting a student to earn 10 hours credit each quarter.

Gen. Adams Here For Brief Stay

Lt. Gen. Paul D. Adams, commanding general of the Third Army, arrived at Lawson Army Airfield Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. to visit Reserve training activities on the post.

The training of the 412th Engineer Brigade units, comprised of 2,900 troops from 31 units representing eight southern states, occupied the general's attention during his brief stay.

Types of engineer projects which were available for inspection consisted of road construction, bituminous surface treatment of roads, bridge construction, concrete work projects, tank trail construction, reconditioning and rehabilitation projects on ranges and other established areas, and timber construction.

Gen. Adams visited the commanding general of the 2nd infantry Division following an inspection of the Reserve units in summer training. He departed the post from Lawson Wednesday afternoon.

Individual Crown Captured By The AAMU's Sfc Falcon

Literally every major trophy for which some 2,700 marksmen fired over the closing week of competition was won by an Army rifleman or team.

who fired a score of 640 out of a possible 650 points in six matches. Sgt Davis, from Army Europe, was followed by six Army riflemen who clinched the seven top places in the individual championship.

Highlight of the championship was the winning of the 1961 National Womens' Service Rifle championship by the unit's Sp5 Barbara J. Hile, the first member of the Womens' Army Corps ever to win a place on the Army team.

The National Trophy Individual Rifle Match was won by the unit's Sfc Alfred Falcon, who accounted for the first of the national trophies wins by Benning riflemen, with 248 out of 250.

With an average resident population at the post of 41,000 in Fiscal Years 1961 and 1962, 3.4 per cent more was allocated for utilities at Fort Benning in FY 1961 than the current fiscal year.

"Almost $2 million was spent for gas, water, electricity and fuel during the last fiscal year," Lt. Col. Joseph C. Weln, chief of the Installations Division of The Infantry Center G-4 Section, stated.

"The per capita cost for utilities was $46.56, or $3.88 per month, for each man, woman and child living on the post," he added.

Col. Wein explained that with the funds allocated jointly for utilities and maintenance being expended on utilities, necessary maintenance cannot be performed. Approximately 21 per cent of the money allocated to The Infantry Center engineer for the last fiscal year was used for utilities.

Every Effort Made on Post To Assure Safe Labor Day

Post personnel will be granted a holiday Monday. Tomorrow will be a non-work day when considered appropriate by major subordinate commanders. Commanders may excuse from duty those personnel not required for necessary guard, fatigue or other essential military requirements.

The closing of the traditional vacation season on Labor Day, in addition to the weekend holiday traffic, will jam the roads and highways with vacationers beyond that of any similar period except the Christmas season. Safety agencies of the country are waging an intensive campaign to reduce the number of casualties.

A heavy exodus of post per-

A radio listenership survey will be conducted at the post by C. E. Hooper, Inc., during one-week periods in September, October, and November. The surveys will be held September 11-15, October 16-20, and November 1-7.

The Information and Civilian Personnel Sections have coordinated in the project. Regulations do not prohibit residents of Fort Benning from participating in the project.

Eight Units Coming Here

Preparations are now underway on post for the arrival of some eight National Guard and Army Reserve units for active duty sometime in early October.

The activated units, totaling approximately 950 men, are sonnel to homes, beaches and other holiday sites is anticipated.

Officials have been campaigning through every available agency to bring the safety message to all post personnel. Results of their campaign in the past have been successful as is evidenced by the fact that the number of deaths and injuries per day of Benning personnel during holidays has been less than during the average non-holiday.

Troops of the post have been indoctrinated in safe practices in highway travel as well as water sports.

Points that have been stressed are: stay off the highways during the period of heavy traffic; if possible, seek recreation and entertainment on the post; if a person must drive, avoid excessive speed, obey all traffic conditions, keep eyes on the road, avoid night driving; if drinking do not drive, and in case of doubt yield right of way.

Utilities Utilization Program, which was reorganized in 1955 to improve the utilities used at the installation.

The drive stresses that every user of utilities on the reservation can personally assist in saving these important resources.

Troops can conserve electricity by turning off lights inside and outside when not in use and showing care in the use of heavy users of electricity such as griddles. Leaking faucets should be reported immediately to repair sections.

Post families are urged to turn off window-type air conditioners not needed at night, such as those located on the lower floor of two-story quarters. They are also asked not to allow water to run into the gutters when watering lawns, since water costs are boosted by the expense of electrically pumping the water.

The official mission of the troops to be assigned is not yet determined.

The units presently ordered to Fort Benning are: the 129th Medical Clearing Company, Alabama National Guard; 172d Engineer Maintenance Company, Arkansas National Guard; 216th Medical Clearing Company, Arkansas National Guard; 414th Transportation Aircraft Direct Support Company, South Carolina Reserve; and the 916th Mobile Surgical Hospital, Arkansas Reserve.

The 674th Transportation Medium Truck Company, Florida Reserve; 413th Ordnance General Support Company, Kentucky National Guard; and the 322d Ordnance Direct Auto Support Company, New Jersey Reserve, are also to be stationed at Benning.

Trophies

Sgt Falcon will be custodian of the Daniel Boone Trophy for the next year while the Army Blue Team will guard its famous "Dogs of War" trophy until the 1962 competition.

In a clean sweep of the National Trophies, an Army Eastern team pulled out all stops to blast out a score of 1,234 points to take the Infantry Trophy Team Match and establish a new national record for the match.

The Infantry Trophy winners compiled a score 127 full points over the old national record and 41 points over the second place Army team total. According to Col. Robin G. Montgomery, AAMU commander, the Infantry Trophy victory was highlighted by the shooting of MSgt Charles J. Summerfield, who accounted for 32 hits out of 32 shots fired on a silhouette target at 500 yards range in 50 seconds. The team was composed of six firing members.

Col. Decker Appointed Fort Benning Chaplain

Chaplain (Col.) Silas E. Decker is the new Infantry Center Chaplain. He succeeds Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Edward A. Curran.

He served as chairman of the Budget Committee of the Canal Zone United Fund, was a member of the Executive Committee of the Canal Zone Chapter of the American Red Cross and of the Committee of Management of the YMCA.

During that time he was honored by National Headquarters, Military Chaplains Association in Washington, D. C. for outstanding service to the Army chaplaincy. He received the association's Citizenship Award, which had been awarded to less than a dozen men.

Chaplain Decker served as Third Army chaplain at Fort McPherson from 1951 to 1953. He initiated the Third Army chaplain's "Letter to the Churches" to be sent to selected clergymen in the southeastern area.

From Fort McPherson, Chaplain Decker went to Korea, where he served as chaplain of I Corps from 1953 to 1954. There were 135 United Nations Forces chaplains in the corps.

He has served overseas 118 months.

COL. DECKER

Chaplain Decker was commissioned May 14, 1936, and has served in the Regular Army since that date.

At Indiana Central College in Indianapolis, the chaplain received a bachelor of science and a doctor of divinity degree. He holds four degrees from Burton College and Seminary at Colorado Springs, Colo., including master of arts, master of theology, doctor of sacred theology and doctor of philosophy.

At Webster University in Atlanta, he was awarded a doctor of science degree. He has also attended Oakland City (Ind.) College and De Pauw University at Greencastle, Ind.

Service schools Chaplain Decker has attended include the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and Chaplains School at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., and Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

Awards

Among his awards and decorations are the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal and an Army Commendation Medal.

Chaplain Decker is a Knight Templar, a member of the Chaplains Military Association and is active in the work of the YMCA.

Marines and Airborne Make History Together

The Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department and the Marine Corps' 1st Air Delivery Reserve Company of San Jose, Calif., are scoring a joint "first" here.

Twenty-eight members of the Marine unit are adding to their corps' history by being the first Marine Reservists assigned to take basic Airborne training.

Four officers and 24 enlisted men, headed by the unit's commander, Capt. F. F. Marshall, are attending the three-week course.

Scheduled to receive the silver insignc of qualified parachutists at the close of the course September 1, the men of the 1st Air Delivery Company are making a series of five qualifying jumps from an altitude of 1,250 feet over the Fryar Field drop zone.

At the end of the course, the Airborne-Air Mobility Department will record this "first" in a history of Airborne training, which extends over the past 21 years and has produced thousands of skilled parachutists for the U. S. Armed Forces and Allied countries.

Planning, Par Excellence

At a time when campaigns have been found necessary to remind us of the hazards of installment buying, overextending ourselves financially, and counting eggs before they're even laid, it's refreshing to note that every last member of The Infantry Center G-2 Section is signed up for either the allotment or payroll deduction plan for purchasing U. S. Savings Bonds. All enlisted men in the section have also authorized deductions for the Soldiers Deposit savings plan.

The post overall objective remains at 65 per cent of both military and civilian personnel, in the constant effort to encourage savings through bonds.

Another Responsibility Met

Armed Forces voting reached a new high, according to the Armed Forces Press Service, which reports Department of Defense figures showing that 39.4 per cent of all eligible voters in the Armed Forces cast their ballots last year. The past high was 35 per cent in the 1956 elections. In actual numbers, the report says 735,019 of 1,866,597 eligible voted. The Army's percentage was 32.36, lowest among the services.

14,000 EM Promotions Authorized

September will be a good month for enlisted promotions, with 14,000 released to the field. Boosts to E-7 and E-8 get their highest quotas since April, and all other grades get sizable increases.

By grade, the authorized September quotas are: to E-9, 207; to E-8, 547; to E-7, 638; to E-6, 1,099; to E-5, 1,535, and to E-4, 10,242.

The MOS freeze wasn't changed much, except for the following E-8 positions which have reached authorized levels and are now frozen: 049, 075, 194, 312, 321, 333, 464, 467, 547, 677, 725, 774, 848, 931 and 933.

To Stay in First Place

A vigorous campaign this fall will be conducted by the local chapter of the Association of the U. S. Army, in an effort to make no mistake about holding first place in membership. The chapter reached first place just this year, after a series of concerted drives. The local organization has always been a guiding light in the AUSA.

Col. Ernest Higgins, first vice president, has been named by chapter president William J. Schloth to head the fall drive.

"You Can See More of 'em . . . On The Highways Each Year"

Editorial

Will This Labor Day Be a Day of Mourning?

Here it comes — D-Day. Disaster Day. Death Day. Labor Day. The day when millions of Americans will hit the road for a last summertime fling. And some of them will hit one another on the highways. For them it will be the last fling of their lives.

In advance of the long, lethal weekend, statisticians will predict the casualty figure. By Friday evening the graph will have begun its upward climb. The nation will have enacted its annual national tragedy for another year.

The 1960 Labor Day death toll on the highways was 55. This year there will be more ways was 550. This year will there be more deaths? Need there be?

The answer can only be found in every one of us who drives. We cannot control the other fellow's car except by such devices as using our horn and blinking our lights. But we can control ourselves. We can be moderate — we can take it easy by adhering vigilantly to the common-sense rules that safety officials try to keep uppermost in our minds.

So it becomes a personal thing. The safety people, the insurance companies, the big organizations will have issued their annual warnings. This year, for example, the American Trucking Associations, Inc., is calling on all truck drivers to keep their lights on from four p.m. Friday until eight a.m. Tuesday. "Our efforts" it says "are directed at reminding our people and everyone else who sees a truck with its lights on that safe, careful driving is the only solution."

Will each of us see the light? Will we keep it flashing in our minds? Labor Day for most of us means the end of summer. It needn't mean the end of us. (AFPS)

The Judge Says . . .

(Last of Two Parts)
By Capt. Robert S. Poydasheff

We now mention the third type of agency between individuals, an agency created by law or statute. Such laws or statutes often express the agency as created in the following: "The husband shall be bound to support and maintain his wife, and his consent shall be presumed in all purchases of necessaries suitable to her condition and habits of life, made for the use of herself and the family."

Notice the law presumes the agency of the wife. The law lets the agency be rebutted by proof.

The law is further qualified by other laws, which are in effect: If the wife is living in adultery with another man the husband is not liable for her support or if she voluntarily abandons him without provocation, notice by the husband shall relieve him of this liability.

This is true even though a court order has specified a certain amount for temporary alimony pending a divorce action or during a bona fide separation by virtue of the said order.

In defining necessities suitable to her condition and habits of life, we find the term to mean food, shelter and clothing and things incidental to reasonable enjoyment thereof which are within the purchase power of the husbands income or estate.

A house renting for $200 per month is not a necessity for the wife of a husband with a rental allowance of $75 per month and no other separate estate.

One trip a month to the beauty parlor may be a necessity suitable to the wife's condition and habits of life, but once a week would not be.

The husband is not always liable for rent simply because it constitutes a necessity of life. Where it appears that the wife contracted with the landlord to pay rent for the dwelling of the family and the credit is extended to the wife solely and with no intent to hold the husband liable, the husband cannot be held liable for this debt.

Further, if the seller has knowledge that the husband has furnished ample allowance to the wife for her needs, as is often the case of soldiers' wives, the husband cannot be held liable for debts created by the wife.

The chattels purchased by the wife must be used by the wife and the family. A purchase of a hat to give to a friend does not bind the husband.

Unless the husband has made the wife his express or implied agent to make or create a debt, he is not liable for that debt, providing that the debt was not created for necessities suitable to the wife's condition and habits of life.

TOP NCO . . . Sgt William C. Quattlebaum, Headquarters Company, 577th Engineer Battalion, was selected Non-commissioned Officer of the Month in the 151st Engineer Group's August competition.

Chaplain's Corner

She Only Needed A Garage, Not A Home, She Said

By Chaplain (Capt.) Robert C. Yeong

A real estate agent was trying to sell a home to a young woman. She replied: "A home? Why do I need a home? I was born in a hospital, educated in a college, courted in an automobile, and married in a church.

I get my food at restaurants and delicatessens. I spend my mornings at golf, my afternoons at bridge, and my evenings dancing or at the movies. And when I die I will be buried by the undertaker. All I need is a garage!"

This may be an indication of our rootlessness in a day which brings so many different pressures to bear on life that we daily become the victims of the latest "pull" of some organization or group.

Consequently the matter of choice becomes highly important. If our lives are to escape the pitfall of fragmentation, we must choose where we shall live with great care and concern. Otherwise, we shall most assuredly surrender the God-given right of self-determination.

When this comes to pass we are no better off than a cork floating on the waves.

Long ago a man named Joshua spoke to the children of Israel and said: "And if it seem evil unto you to serve Jehovah, choose you this day whom you will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were beyond the River or the gods of the Amorites, in whose landyou dwell; but as for me and my house, we will serve Jehovah."

Whew — We're being jolted back into the reality of school. We must pick up where we left off three months ago and continue our quest for knowledge. It's going to be hard to settle down and get into the old routine, but once we do the going will be as easy as we make it.

What we learn today makes us wise tomorrow. However, the amount and quality of our wisdom depends entirely upon us. What do you plan to fill your treasure chest of knowledge with? Gold pieces, copper pieces or wooden nickels?

We interviewed several of our Benningites and found some interesting high school opinions. They were asked these questions: What is your dominant impression of high school? Is it what you expected? Is it worth while? Are you satisfied? Their answers follow:

Mary Beth Williams feels sure that the two most wonderful years of her life have been spent in high school.

To Annette Petorock the clubs make it bearable. She says, "It's harder than I expected, but I enjoy meeting all the kids."

Georgeanne Dillon replied, "I love to walk down the halls between and during classes meeting people. It's more fun than I thought it would be, especially the football games."

When Roger Wein was called we found that he had solved his problems and gone fishin'

"I reached high school and it wasn't like I thought it would be. I had to make a lot of changes in my daily life. I had to teach myself to study and to get along with everyone." That was Lynn Kennedy's answer.

Tilda Todd believes school is "a good place to meet people and to develop skills."

Jeff Scott's remark was, "It's great, especially if you know the teachers."

"I just love school," says Lynn Craddock, "and I can't wait until it starts."

A smaller school appeals to Jack Jackson: He believes "it allows for more self-expression."

Bonnie Male says that she realizes too late that she should have studied harder and learned more. She regrets this and wishes to encourage freshmen to study more thoroughly.

School is merely a good pastime between nine and three-thirty for Dallas Patterson. So he says.

Walter Todd's opinion is that high school is necessary preparation for college and later life.

"It's been a jumping off or half way point like the twilight zone between childhood and adulthood" for Steve Hall.

These are their thoughts. How about you? What do you sincerely believe? Have you ever thought about school as a duty, a privilege and a pleasure. It can be.

With school so close, some of us will be parting. Within a few weeks colleges throughout the country will dorm our '61 seniors. Where will they go from there? What does the future hold? Only time will tell. The Doughboy and its Benningites proudly salute you '61 seniors making way for the new seniors-to-be.

Arts Of Speaking Told At Toastmistress Meet

Speech planning, preparation, delivery, visual aids, and gestures were discussed at the August 24 meeting of the Fort Benning - Columbus Toastmistress Club at the Post's Religious Education Center.

Toastmistress Mrs. Dion Johnson introduced Mrs. Grace Wolf, Mrs. John Passarella, Mrs. Abraham Muscari and Mrs. Wilfred Tosee, panel members.

Mrs. Tosee called on four members to give an extemporaneous speech on "Should Parents Give an Allowance to Children for Chores Done at Home?"

After the panel presented the program members were invited to offer their suggestions and questions. Mrs. Wolf was voted best panelist and awarded a silver goblet.

Mrs. Elwood Coates and Miss Nadine Beach were introduced as new members. A guest, Mrs. Gary Wise, from Wichita, Kans., was also welcomed.

Mrs. Richard Evens and Mrs. Passarella appeared on Chattahoochee Classroom last Monday. They discussed the duties and performances of a toastmistress.

The club is presently preparing an annual President's Tea to be held on Post September 9, at 3 p.m. for all club presidents in the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning area. Mrs. Dion Johnson (MU 9-4456) is taking reservations.

'Brunch' Planned By Medical Wives

The September meeting of the Fort Benning Medical Wives Club will be a brunch in honor of Mrs. William A. Todd, Jr.

The brunch will be held at the Custer Terrace Officers' Club at 10 a.m. on September 8. Bridge will be arranged for those desiring to play after the brunch.

CID Agents Lead Dangerous, But Often Rewarding Lives

The life of a Criminal Investigation Division investigator isn't an easy one but it is a life in the shadowy cross-section of the globe that knows a common language-crime.

Files of CID headquarters spill stories that make TV thrillers look like Sunday school picnics. But they are connected by long, routine checking, foot-wearying surveillance, day and night, weeks and even months at a time.

But for all these hardships many CID men will readily agree theirs is the choicest assignment because of its variety, the absorption of unraveling human drama, the spice of ever present danger and sheer pleasure of writing on the cover of the file: Case Closed.

Seldom do the CID exploits reach the public press. Such cases as the solving of the Kronberg jewel robbery right after WW II and the crackdown on black marketing in Europe in the late days of the war brought the CID some publicity, but by the very nature of their work, CID men shun rather than seek publicity.

There was the case of the Blousing Trousers which began outside a small German town when an American civilian who managed a PX branch was found along the roadside, his head bashed in so that until he died a few hours later, he was a babbling idiot.

What would bring a man out into a lonely area at midnight? A woman; they figured. And they were correct. PX employees remembered the manager talking on the phone to a woman named "Gerta."

The German name Gerta is like Mary in the United States and looking for this particular one meant knocking on 5,000 doors and screening 270 Gertas, but CID patience paid off. They found the right Gerta.

She wasn't much help. She had gone out with the manager that night, but she couldn't remember much of what happened except for one thing. Just before the attack on her boy friend, she had seen two men silhouetted against the skyline. They wore what appeared to be American uniforms except that the trousers were not bloused.

A negative bit of information? Not at all for the American commander in that area was very strict on the blousing of trousers. The CID then remembered that in the vicinity was a Displaced Persons guard unit whose members wore American-type uniforms, but didn't blouse their trousers.

Questioning narrowed the list of suspects to two toughies in the DP guard. In the wallet of one was found the blood-soaked PX card of the murdered man. Both guards confessed to one of the most brutal assaults on CID records.

They did it "for thrills."

Much CID work involves internal Army misdeeds. Like any cross section of people, bad ones show up in the Army. Those attempting to defraud the government, shoplifters and bad check artists.

Like the soldier in Germany who was apprehended for writing a string of bad checks. He hired a defense counsel and then worsened his crime by paying the lawyer's retaining fee with another bad check.

Prospective CID investigators are drawn from Army MP ranks. These meeting qualifications set forth in AR 195-11 are sent to the Provost Marshal General's School at Fort Gordon for nine weeks of intensive training in subjects ranging from surveillance techniques to the use of informants and employment of scientific equipment.

Students get instruction in all types of crimes, how to interrogate and interview. They become versed in the psychology of human behavior and how these principles may be applied to practical crime solution.

At the end of this course awaits the investigator's badge, the title of Army criminal investigator and the opportunity for promotions leading to the rank of warrant officer.

But beyond all is the reward of belonging to an Army unit that can stand tall with any comparable law enforcement agency in the world.

New Telephone Directory Shows Big Improvement

The Fort Benning telephone directory has had a face lifting in color and contents.

The director, covering the new seven-digit telephone numbers, is being distributed this week to coincide with the inauguration of seven-digit dialing at the post September 3.

In addition to a change in color, the contents have been streamlined into five major sections. They include alphabetized listings of the command and staff activities formerly divided among 13 sections of the old directory.

Complete instructions for dialing under the new system are included on the first page, and also an area code map to assist post subscribers in making faster long distance calls.

To complete the renovation of the new directory, the personnel listings section has been printed in a contrasting color.

The new directory will be more convenient and easier for the users of the telephone system, Major H. E. Welch, signal wire officer, stated.

The installation of the seven-digit dialing system, which made a more up-to-date directory necessary, is another step forward in the continuing effort to keep abreast of the changes in equipment being made through the country, officials said.

For the past six months, a Signal Engineering Agency team, composed of military and civilian technicians, aided by the Wire Division personnel, have added 2,000 automatic switches too the post telephone system.

Coming to the post to witness the change-over to new equipment are Col. Robert B. Tomlinson, new signal officer, Third Army, and Major Arthur Gravlin of the Signal Engineering Agency, Arlington Hall, Va.

As Drive Opens

Benefits Of CAA Explained

Canvassing of military and civilian personnel by team men in efforts to reach the $115,000 goal in the 1962 Community Drive began yesterday, the first military payday of the drive, and will continue until November 9.

The CAA supports all post welfare activities and also makes an annual contribution to the United Givers Fund of the local civilian community.

Major Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander, and Major Gen. Charles H. Chase, commanding general of the 2nd Infantry Division, at kick-off ceremonies recently urged post personnel to support the drive.

Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Reuben Jenkins explained the work of United Givers to the fund drive workers. He said military personnel at the post receive benefits from many organizations supported by the United Givers Fund, such as the USO and Travelers Aid. He added that last year over $160,000 worth of service from these organizations went to post personnel.

Also attending the opening ceremonies were Martelle Leyfield, executive secretary of United Givers, Inc., and James W. Blanchard, United Givers chairman for Columbus, and Phenix City.

Col. Birdsong Assumes Job As 1st Infantry Brigade CO

Col. William H. Birdsong, Jr., assumed duties as 1st Infantry Brigade commander last week, following the departure early last month of Col. Charles T. Horner, Jr. Col. Birdsong's last assignment was Director of Instruction at The Infantry School.

The combat veteran of World War II is a native Mississippian. He was born in Mayersville, and currently lists his home town as Greenville. He received his Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from Mississippi State College in 1939, where he received his original commission.

Col. Birdsong served with the 11th Infantry Regiment, 5th Infantry Division, during World War II and rose to the grade of lieutenant colonel while serving as commander of the 3d Battalion. He commanded the battalion continuously throughout the five major campaigns in which it participated: Normandy, Northern France, Ardennes, Central Europe, and Rhineland.

His actions during these campaigns earned him the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, Purple Heart, and French Croix de Guerre. In addition, he wears the Combat Infantryman's Badge and the Army Commendation Ribbon with one Oak Leaf Cluster.

The new brigade commander has graduated from the Command and General Staff College (1950), the Armed Forces Staff College (1954), and the National War College (1958).

Prior to his arrival at Fort Benning on his current tour, he had served as G-3, 1st Infantry Division; chief of the Troop Program Branch, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel, Department of the Army; and chief of the Analysis Branch, J-2 Division, with Headquarters, United Nations Command, Seoul, Korea.

He served as deputy director of the Command and Staff Department of the Infantry School before becoming Director of Instruction in 1960.

New Program Designed for Second Division Military Policemen Serves Dual Purpose

By Clay Lacy

The Military Police Detachment of the 2nd Infantry Division finished the first phase of its intensive combat training program this week with each of its two platoons completing familiarization and qualification in the .45 caliber pistol and the .30 caliber M-1 rifle.

The new program, designed to train the military policemen in all phases of MP duty as well as qualify them for combat, has brought a keen sense of "unit integrity" to the platoons, according to Lieutenant William L. Patrick, Jr., platoon leader for the first MP platoon.

Integrity

Says Lieutenant Patrick, "This new program has given us a strong unit purpose and emphasizes the integrity of the platoon." Part of this is due to the fact that all instruction under the intensified combat training program is given by members of the platoons.

The two platoons alternate on duty assignments, with onemanding officer of the division's 122nd Signal Battalion. Also Mrs. Edward W. Minnick, wife of 11th Infantry Sergeant Major, presented Miss Madeline J. Parks, director of Service Club Two, with a stained ceramic pheasant she made. It now hangs over the fire place in the club lounge.

platoon taking all duty assignments during one week while the other platoon serves the training program outlined by the new course. Last week the first platoon trained and this week the second platoon underwent its training program.

Duty assignments for the MP detachment call for the manning of Outpost Four, the main entrance into Sand Hill; operation of three roving patrols throughout the 2nd Division area, maintaining an MP desk around-the-clock, and supporting the town patrols in Columbus in conjunction with Main Post military police.

In addition, the military policemen are called on for miniature reviews at the 2nd Division Headquarters, escorts for convoys and providing traffic control personnel for special division functions.

Basic Subjects

The training program being utilized by the MP Detachment covers basic military subjects in weapons qualification as well as instruction in methods of military police work.

Division Receives New Deputy CO for Brigade

BY PETER TATISTCHEFF

Colonel Maurice C. Holden, a recent graduate of the Canadian National Defense College, has joined the 2nd Infantry Division as Deputy Brigade Commander.

He succeeds Lieutenant Colonel Byrd Sergent who has become Brigade Executive Officer.

Third Tour

Colonel Holden's assignment, which took effect Monday, marks the third time he has seen duty with the 2nd Division.

He first joined the 2nd in 1940 as a lieutenant with the 9th Infantry Regiment at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

In 1945 he was again assigned to the 2nd — this time to Assistant Chief of Staff G-3 — at Fort Lewis, Washington. He remained with the division when it moved to Korea in 1950.

His 21-year military career includes six years in Latin American posts, duty in World War II and Korea, and various assignments connected with Latin American affairs.

Born in Cherryvale, Kansas, Colonel Holden graduated from the University of Kansas in 1940 with a degree in journalism. Having taken ROTC training while at college he served a few years as a reserve officer. He was commissioned as a Regular Army officer on February 1, 1942.

In 1942, following duty with the 2nd Division, he joined the Corps of Engineers and proceeded to New Guinea with the MUSCLES ACHING?

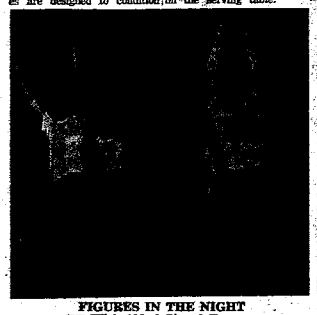
By Div PIO



The new intensified combat training program of the 2nd Infantry Division reached out and touched all Indianheads this past week in the area of physical conditioning.

As the result of a training directive earlier this month, the first 30 minutes following reveille each morning will be devoted to physical training. The conditioning program is designed to bring the over-all level of fitness of the 2nd Division to a combat-ready peak.

Exercises currently in use are the famed "daily dozen," starting with the high jump and running the gauntlet from the eight-count pushup to the bend-and-reach. These exercises are designed to condition all the muscles of the body and do not concentrate on any particular group of muscles.

For many in the division, assigned to clerical positions, the new course of training means an initial set of "aching bones." However, the constant exercising of idle muscles will soon bring back a former pliability and will serve as an excellent body tonic.

Mess sergeants from around the division report another reaction to the morning workouts — mainly, an increase in appetites at breakfast. Said one mess sergeant, "There were some in the mess line this morning with an eager look in their eye as they scanned the steaming stack of hotcakes on the serving table."

3rd Engineers Special Brigade. In 1944 he was transferred in New Guinea to the 32nd Infantry Division as Assistant G-3. He subsequently commanded the 2nd Battalion of the 128th Infantry Regiment.

He was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel in June, 1945.

In 1945 Colonel Holden returned to the U. S. to attend the Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

Mexico

Colonel Holden's next assignment took him to Mexico City, Mexico, where he was the Assistant Military Attache until 1949.

Following his second year with the 2nd Division he returned from Korea to join the 6th Infantry Division at Fort Ord, California, commanding the 20th Infantry Regiment from September 1951 to September 1952.

From September 1952 to May 1953 Colonel Holden was a student at the Marine Corps Senior School at Quantico, Virginia. From there he went to the Pentagon to spend almost two years in the Latin American Branch of the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Military Operations.

It was while a member of this office that he served as military negotiator for the Panama Treaty, and military advisor to the U. S. Member in the Organization of American States (OAS) during the 1954 Guatemala Incident.

He was promoted to the rank of Colonel in 1956.

Canada

From Costa Rica, Colonel Holden was appointed to attend the Canadian National Defense College at Fort Frontenac in Kingston, Ontario. The college, attended by 22 students each year, is the Canadian equivalent of the U.S. Army War College at Ft. Lesley J. McNair, Washington, where studies are made of International Affairs, Economics, Communism and International Organizations.

His decorations include the Combat Infantryman's Badge, Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star with two oak leaf clusters, Army Commendation Medal, Purple Heart, and various combat decorations including six campaign stars for action in World War II and Korea.

Special Forces

To augment the Active Army's capability for conducting special warfare operations, Special Forces Units have been organized within the Army Reserve and National Guard.

Argentine Officer Visits 702nd Ord.

By 702D ORD Bn PIO

The 702nd Ordnance Battalion was visited recently by Major Juan Z. Frelier, a member of the Argentinian Army. The purpose of his 18-day visit was to observe the operations of an ordnance battalion organic to an Infantry Division.

Upon his arrival, Major Frelier was greeted by the battalion commander Lieutenant Colonel William P. Holland, and his staff. Warrant Officer Herman D. Gaho, Headquarters and Company B, was assigned as escort officer and accompanied Major Frelier during the remainder of his visit.

Orientation

He was given a complete and comprehensive orientation of all aspects of ordnance facilities and operations in this command. In addition to division ordnance activities, a visit to USAIC ordnance maintenance shops and USAIC Ground Mobility was accomplished.

Major Frelier said he was impressed with the extensive technical supply support mission of the 702nd Ordnance Battalion and desired a longer period of observation to enable a more detailed study of each specific operation.

His departure was climaxed with the presentation of a 702nd Ordnance Battalion crest by Colonel Holland, as a memento of his visit to the "Second to None" division. Major Frelier commented that his visit was rewarding from a military and personal viewpoint.

Two Forced Landings Were Part of Job As Member of Women's Air Service Pilots

Club's Program Director 'Feathered' Engines as Oil Congealed, Gas Dripped

BY GEORGE HORD

Occupying the program director's office at Sand Hill's Service Club Two is a woman who at one time occupied the pilot's seat of a Martin Marauder, towing targets for gunnery practice in the skies of Texas during World War II.

Mrs. Eleanor Sabota first became interested in flying from her father and brother who both were pilots.

Her father flew the first air ambulance in the United States, transporting a cancer patient from their hometown of Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, to Philadelphia in a plane especially constructed for that purpose. The patient, a woman, lived.

To become a member of the WASPs — Women's Air Service Pilots — the prospective target tower and test pilot had to have a private license.

Mrs. Sabota received hers while a student at Bloomsburg State College, where she enrolled in the first class to be held in the Civilian Pilot Training Program along with nine men.

Although Mrs. Sabota and other WASPs were paid by civil service, they took their orders from the military as they were attached to the Army Air Force.

The WASPs were trained in operational flying at a school at Sweetwater, Texas, where they were taught navigation and instrument flying among other things, Mrs. Sabota said.

Military Aspects

From there the WASPs were required to attend school in Florida to receive instruction on the military aspects of flying.

During her one-and-a-half year tour with the Women's Air Service Pilots, Mrs. Sabota had on two occasions to make forced landings in her B-26 twin-engined aircraft.

She said that, on one occasion the airplane's oil began to congeal, forcing her to "feather" one engine and land the plane.

The second such incident, she relates, occurred when the ground crew failed to replace the cap on the B-6's gas tank, causing her plane "to stream" gasoline as it took off.

This, she says, also necessitated feathering one engine and a forced landing.

In addition to towing targets that were fired upon by new type electrically-operated aircraft guns, Mrs. Sabota's mission also involved flying engineering "Hops" — testing maintenance and engine changes on planes before they were released for operations.

When Mrs. Sabota left the WASPs, she became employed by the Red Cross and was assigned to the Roosevelt Club, Manilla, Phillipine Islands. She no longer finds time for flying.

Sgt. J. Crumbliss Retires at 9th, Presented ACM

By 9th In PIO

Master Sergeant Joseph P. Crumbliss of Battle Group Headquarters, 9th Infantry, last week retired with the rank of a reserve major and received the Army Commendation Medal from the battle group commanding officer, Colonel C. P. Hannum.

Sergeant Crumbliss was the assistant S-3 training operations sergeant at Headquarters for the past year. Prior to this assignment, he was in Korea as a Korean military advisor. He also spent three different tours of duty in Korea, and a tour of Alaska. During World War II he served as an officer and reverted to enlisted status in peacetime under the new Army organization plan. He has earned the second award of the Combat Infantryman's Badge and the Bronze Star for this action in Korea and Normandy.

Florida

Upon his retirement, Sergeant Crumbliss and his wife, Jane, will take an extensive tour of the country. They plan to settle in Florida. Sergeant and Mrs. Crumbliss have one son, Gene, who is married and lives in Georgia.

Co. E Wins 87th's Rifle Platoon Test

By 87th Inf PIO

Company E of the 87th Infantry, commanded by Captain Charles M. Rapp, recently took first place in the battle group by achieving the highest score in the rifle platoon tests conducted by the 2nd Division.

The company average was 94.3 with individual platoon scores of 97.9, 94.9 and 90.1. The first platoon, led by Lieutenant Charles H. O'Dell took high honors.

The tests are given after an extensive and comprehensive training period and are designed to show the platoon's combat efficiency under simulated combat conditions.

Second place was won by Company B, achieving a score of 93.7, giving Company E some keen competition in the race for the Battle Group Commander's Trophy.

KELLEY HILL CHOIR DIRECTOR
Specialist Gibbs, Chaplain's Assistant

Gibbs to Direct Choir At Chapel Dedication

A familiar face to many individuals within the division is that of Specialist Four Lester B. Gibbs, choir director, and presently the chaplain's assistant in the 11th Infantry.

Specialist Gibbs has been directing chapel choirs within the division during the past year and is now directing a mixed choir of 30 voices that will sing at the dedication service for the new Kelley Hill Chapel. This choir consists mainly of Kelley Hill personnel and dependents with members of the 9th and 23rd Infantry Chapel choirs taking part.

While being assigned to the division, Gibbs has directed choir in the 9th, 11th, 23rd and 87th infantries. He also has directed the Division Chorus, made up of members of the Division Band. Specialist Gibbs also has filled in an organist in some of the chapels throughout Fort Benning.

During his three years in the Army, Specialist Gibbs has directed choirs at Fort Dix, New Jersey; Taegu, Korea and Fort Benning, Georgia. His choir in Korea consisted of 20 English speaking Korean college students who sang at the military chapel where Gibbs served as chaplain's assistant. Just before leaving Korea he helped form a choral group of American dependents.

Along with choral directing, Gibbs plays the piano, organ and clarinet.

MP Assignment

By 87th Inf PIO

A former member of Company B, 87th Infantry, has been selected to receive training with the division's Military Police Detachment.

Private Raymond Polacco, Jr., whose home is in Los Angles, California, reenlisted for one extra year of active service to receive his new assignment.

Private Polacco entered the Army in February at Fort Ord, California, and received his basic training at Fort Benning.

He graduated from Huntington Park High School in 1960 and attended Los Angeles City College for one semester.

Infantry S-O-M Honors Go to 23rd's Hartford

By 23rd Inf PIO

Corporal Roy Hartford, Combat Support Company, 23rd Infantry was recently selected as the 2nd Division Infantry Soldier-of-the-Month for August.

Corporal Hartford won the honor over representatives of all five of the Infantry battle groups in the division. Corporal Hartford had previously won the 23rd Infantry Soldier-of-the-Month title.

The selection board was comprised of senior non-commissioned officers representing all 2nd Division Infantry battle groups. Principal factors considered by the board in selecting the top Infantry soldier for August were knowledge of job, general military knowledge and appearance.

Corporal Hartford appeared later this week in the division-wide contest to select the Division Soldier-of-the-Month for August.

23RD INF'S 'WE SERVERS' SERVE BY SPONSORING BOY SCOUT TROOP 139

BY 23RD INFANTRY PIO

The 23rd Infantry is living up to its motto of "We Serve" these days by sponsoring a Boy Scout Troop.

Sergeant Major Lory Bell of the 23rd — a scouting veteran of six years — took over as scoutmaster of Troop 139 in January. The Scouts needed a sponsor, the 2nd Division agreed to a unit sponsoring them, and the 23rd was chosen for the job.

Serving Unofficially

Although the 23rd became official sponsor on August 25, it had been serving in the same capacity unofficially since a recent two-week Scout campout. The outing was held at Camp Pineknot, located on the Fort Benning Reservation, where for 14 days the Scouts practiced the art of living outdoors. During this time they studied Indian lore, archery, woodcarving, marksmanship, went swimming and fishing.

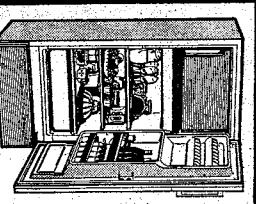
Several Scout troops attended the campout, but it was Troop 139 that walked off with the Honor Troop Trophy for the second straight year. The award is based on such things as best-kept living area, tidiest banks, equipment and clothes. Also, a total of 63 merit badges and 10 advancements in Scout rank were achieved by the troop.

Not the least of their accomplishments, however, is Troop 139's year-round fund raising campaign. The Scouts deliver pamphlets weekly for the 2nd Division NCO Open Mess. Revenue earned from this project pays for the Scouts' annual two-week campout as well as for trophies and other expenses.

Transportation

As for the 23rd Infantry's role as sponsor of Troop 139, the "We Servers" primarily supply the Scouts transportation to and from faraway camp sites, support and supervise the troop in its many activities.

During the recently - concluded campout, Scoutmaster Bell was assisted by Pvt. Francis Pruitt of the 23rd's Bravo Company and by three men from the 2nd Engineer Battalion — Sergeant First Class John Melvin and Privates Donald Blizzard and William Vanes. Scoutmaster Bell commended the men for their aid and their interest in scouting.



Troop 139 is approximately 20 Scouts strong. They meet with Scoutmaster Bell and his assistants every Friday evening at the Scout house in the Custer Terrace area. Almost all the Scouts are dependents of enlisted personnel living in the Capehart residential section.

At Kelley Hill

Construction Completed, Chapel Nears Dedication

BY CLAY LACY

Construction of the new chapel for Kelley Hill was completed this week and turned over to the Main Post Chaplain Section by the Savannah District Corps of Engineers on Tuesday. The L-shaped building still lacks some interior decorating work which is expected to be completed shortly.

Dedication for the new chapel is presently scheduled for September 10, with the first Sunday services set for the following Sunday.

Supervisor

Brandon Kneller, assigned for the last 14 years at Fort Benning as a member of the Savannah District Corps of Engineers, has served as overall supervisor on the construction of the building.

Mr. Kneller said he has been well pleased with the construction work performed by a Columbus contracting firm and "especially pleased" with the progress on the building. He said the building was completed some 30 days ahead of the original schedule set last November when construction started.

The main section of the church will hold 300 people plus a good-sized choir. Some 4,600 square feet of floorspace constitute the nave, chancel, narthex and sanctuary of the building. High ceilings, set off by laminated wood trusses, give the chapel a lofty, spacious attitude. Interior design strikes one as elegant through simplicity of lines.

In addition to the nave section, the chapel has office space for two chaplains and their assistants, a choir room, a blessed sacrament room, a sacristy, a confessional and bathroom facilities.

Game Room

A large game room with some 828 square feet of floorspace will have a hidden kitchenette with stove and refrigerator. The hidden term comes from the feature of a closing door which will seal off the kitchen when not in use.

The entire building is air conditioned for summer heat and equipped for winter's cold by heating from the central heating plant at Kelley Hill. The structure features asphalt tile floors over a concrete floor slab and concrete blocks for wall construction.

Present plans for the new chapel are not complete as to services scheduling. It has been constructed as a benefit to the Kelley Hill area which has currently three chapels to serve the three battle groups stationed there.

The present chapels are converted from squad bays and a classroom in the Kelley Hill buildings housing the battle groups. Seven chaplains are assigned to the Kelley Hill area.

Dedication services for the new chapel on September 10 will be attended by high division officials as well as members of the chaplain's section of Fort Benning and the 2nd Infantry Division.

Sgt., 28-Year Veteran, Signs For Three More

By 122nd Signal PIO

Sergeant First Class William Wessner of the 122nd Signal Battalion, a veteran of 28 years, seven months and nine days, recently reenlisted for an additional three years.

This reenlistment bringing Sergeant Wessner's reenlistments to a total of ten, was presided over by Major Herbert W. Coburn, battalion commander.

Sergeant Wessner, mess steward in Company B, has served with the 15th Infantry Regiment in Tientsen, China; 12th Cavalry, Fort Brown, Texas; 596th Signal Battalion, Fort Benning, and with the 63rd Infantry, Fort Ord, California, to name a few.

Sergeant Wessner resides with his wife, Mary Patricia, and five children at 1318 Baker Street in Columbus.

Army and its elements, branches and components.

The three-day meeting at the Sheraton-Park Hotel will include a series of presentations designed to "emphasize the forward strategy of the United States and the role of the Army in providing global support of our national aims throughout the world."

A star-studded slate of speakers will include Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr., and Army Chief of Staff General George H. Decker.

Other speakers scheduled to address the delegation are General Bruce C. Clarke, commander-in-chief, U. S. Army, Europe; George James F. Collins, commander-in-chief, U. S. Army, Pacific; Lieutenant General Barksdale Hamlett, deputy chief of staff for Military Operations, DA; Lieutenant General Robert W. Colglazier, deputy chief of staff for Logistics, DA; Lieutenant General Arthur G. Trudeau, chief of research and development, DA, and senior general officers from six allied armies.

Delegates Roster

The delegates' roster will include top civilian and military officials of the Department of the Army; major field commanders, Army school commandants, officers and enlisted men of the active Army, the Army reserve and the National Guard, DA civilian employes, industrial and business leaders, members of the press, educators, members of Congress and other government officials and professional men and ROTC cadets.

More than 3,000 have registered for the annual meeting.

A special event of the conclave will be the $12.50-per-plate General George Catlett Marshall Memorial Dinner at 8 p.m. Friday.

Some 155 booths covering 23,000 square feet of floor space will illustrate the latest industrial and scientific developments in the military field.

Lieutenant Woodson, in receiving the Mershon Award, will be cited for attaining the highest composite score among the nation's ROTC Distinguished Military Graduates. The score is based on evaluation reports received from professors of military science and summer camp commanders.

The Tullahoma, Tennessee, native, a 1960 graduate of Auburn University, will be awarded a check for $250 and a certificate signed by Secretary Stahr.

Holiday Slate at Service Club 2: Coffee, Pinochle, Longer Hours

A full-slate of activities for Labor Day has been planned for 2nd Division men at Service Club Two, Sand Hill, Mrs. Eleanor Sabota, program director, announced.

The club will open at 10 a.m., three hours earlier than usual, and remain open until 10 p.m.

First event of the day will be a coffee call when the service club opens, to be followed by a cake baking contest at 1 p.m.

A game tournament of pool, ping pong, chess and pinochle is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Winding up the day's activities will be a Soldier's Show at 7 p.m. along with refreshments being served. Participating in the Soldier's Show will be men from various division units.

Division Subject Letter Warns of Labor Day Weekend Hazards

By Div PIO

The upcoming Labor Day weekend and its past record of costly traffic and recreational activity tolls of death and injury has prompted a subject letter from 2nd Infantry Division headquarters urging members of the Division to exercise particular caution during the weekend.

The letter, dated August 26 and containing a lesson plan designed to inform Division members of hazards and prevention of them, has been distributed to all units of the Division.

Six Killed

During the fiscal year of 1961, a total of 66 Second Division soldiers were injured, six fatally, in traffic accidents. Another Division member drowned.

The letter urged that common sense be utilized and the following rules be strictly adhered to:

In regards to traffic safety — Maintain a safe speed as dictated by road and traffic conditions; do not drive while under the influence of alcohol; and do not attempt to drive long distances without proper rest.

Water safety — Do not dive into strange waters; watch for undertows and big waves in large bodies of water; do not overestimate your endurance in distance swimming; always come out of the water when tired or chilly; and carry life preserver when boating or skiing.

Facilities

The letter also called attention to facilities on post and in nearby communities and emphasized that military personnel should consider these facilities before deciding to attempt an extended trip which might end in tragedy.

The letter recommended three methods for avoiding accidents which might be caused by speed. It suggested that the driver allow sufficient time to make the trip safely, drive no more than 300 miles per day or longer than eight hours and attempt to avoid driving at night "when most of us are susceptible to nodding."

Several hints were offered to delay or prevent drowsiness. Among these were keeping plenty of fresh air in the car, engaging in light conversation with fellow passengers, pulling off the road to catch a quick nap when threatened with sleep, drinking coffee or strong tea, resting frequently by stopping the car and taking a short walk around it, and allowing a fellow passenger, whom you can trust, to drive when you become tired.

Second Division personnel were also reminded that not only possible injury awaits them when proper safeguards are not exercised but that also disciplinary action may be taken because of their misconduct or disregard for rules of safety.

Serious injuries to military personnel require line of duty investigations and if the injury is found to be due to misconduct, or to have been incurred outside the pass mileage limitations, serious consequences can result.

Determination of non-line-of-duty can cause such unpleasant results as time spent in hospital having to be made up; no pay during time in hospital and possible disciplinary action, the letter cautioned.

And one last good hint: regardless of where you may choose to spend your holiday, it is still necessary to observe common sense precautions.

Maj. Rozecki, 38th S-3, Gets Leaves

By Div Arty PIO

Major Edmund Rozecki, S-3 (training) of the 38th Artillery, recently was promoted to his present grade.

The major joined Division Artillery August 22, 1959 at which time he was assigned as assistant S-3. Upon the activation of the 5th Howitzer Battalion, 38th Artillery, Major Rozecki has been assigned as S-3 of that unit. He has been awarded the Good Conduct Medal and other service medals for duty in Europe, the Far East and Korea.

By 122nd Signal Battalion

The 122nd Signal Battalion has begun training classes in each of the primary Military Occupational Specialties as part of its newly-launched Intensified Training Program.

The daily schedule, until the advent of field training, will include classes in radio, wire, telephone, message center, radio terminal and carrier and photographic techniques.

Radio

The radio committee, with Lieutenant Arnold L. Ross as officer-in-charge, is conducting classes on erection of antennae; selection of sites for radio equipment, communication security, frequency modulated voice radio procedures and installation, operation and maintenance of FM voice radio procedures and installation, operation and maintenance of FM voice radio equipment, to list a few.

The message center section of training, under the guidance of Warrant Officer Charles E. Burns, is conducting instruction in phonetic alphabet, military abbreviations, terminology, prowords, prosigns, classification of messages, message construction and message processing.

The radio terminal and carrier committee, headed by Lieutenant Francis Kowalski, is instructing in basic electricity, use of radio in communications, frequency to channel conversion and operation under unusual conditions, and carrier techniques.

The wire committee, Lieutenant Raoul H. Piche, officer-in-charge, is instructing in switchboard phases, types of field wire and cable, field wire tying and splicing; field telephone sets; patching panel operations; cable construction; telephone traffic diagrams, and familiarization with pole climbing equipment.

Chaplain Sams Joins 9th Inf., Succeeds Chaplain Stannard

This Sunday the 9th Infantry welcomes Chaplain (Captain) Horace Sams to Chapel Four. He will succeed Chaplain (Captain) John S. Stannard, who will be going to Main Post this week.

Captain Sams, his wife and five children come to the 9th from the 3rd Field Hospital, 429th Medical Battalion on Main Post. He attended Bob Jones University, the University of Alabama, New York University, and the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, Texas.

He served as a missionary in Palestine from 1946 to 1948 and was evacuated on the outbreak of the Jewish and Arabian War. Prior to entering the active Army in 1959, he served three years in the Florida National Guard at St. Petersburg, serving a pastorate.

Also replacing Lieutenant Duane Russell at the organ will be Lieutenant John Robinson of Company E, 9th Infantry. Lieutenant Robinson was a mathematics major and is a graduate of University of Maine. He will be the regular organist for choir practice on Friday evenings and Sunday services.

$35,000 Set As Division's CAA Goal

A goal of $35,000 has been set as the contribution of the 2nd Infantry Division in the current Community Activities Association fund drive which began last Friday, according to Captain Daniel J. Tobin, division project officer.

The division's share represents nearly one-third of the Fort Benning's goal of $115,000 by military personnel and civilian employees

Among the principal activities supported by Community Activities Association fund are the Visiting Nurses Program, the Preventive Dental Health Program, the United States Army Infantry Center Chaplain's Program; and the Youth Activities Club in addition to those activities supported by the United Givers Fund in Columbus.

The drive, which began August 25, will continue through November 9.

Program

Included classes in unarmed defense, authority and jurisprudence, chemical, biological and radiological training, protective mask drill, military police records and forms, detention facilities, handling military prisoners, and operations at a prisoner-of-war collection point.

Weapons training included the familiarization and qualification in pistol and M-1 rifle. Upcoming weeks will include training with the rocket launcher and extensive field training in guerilla warfare, field fortifications and convoy escorts in the field.

Four of the six weeks' scheduled training will be given in the field under bivouac conditions. Present plans call for the platoons to alternate, with each spending a week at a time on bivouac.

Each platoon has a platoon sergeant, assistant platoon sergeant and three squad leaders. This core of non-commissioned officers forms the nucleus of the instructor group for the new training program. Each NCO is called on to give certain phases of the training.

'Fast, Furious'

Of this aspect, Lieutenant Stawiany commented, "The program is fast and furious but it helps our men become proficient in their jobs. For the NCO, it is an opportunity to brush up on his knowledge and proficiency."

Two veteran non-coms head the two platoons. For the first platoon, Sergeant First Class Ernest Meeks is the platoon sergeant while Sergeant First Class Mark Copa heads the second platoon. Sergeant Meeks is a veteran of over 18 years' Army service while Sergeant Copa has over 10 years service with six-and-a-half years of military police work to his credit.

Some of the classes being taught by the MPs are by necessity a classroom type, but the emphasis for the intensified combat training program is on participation and field duty. Particularly rugged is the unarmed defense course which teaches a man how to defend himself against an adversary armed with a variety of weapons.

Resolution Praises Division Members

(The following resolution was presented by the Resolutions Committee of the Second Indian Head Division Association and adopted unanimously by the delegation at their 40th National Reunion at Kansas City, Missouri, July 22, 1961.)

WHEREAS, the Active Second Division, stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia, has during the past year contributed more than $15,000 to the fund for the enlargement of the 2nd Division monument at Washington, D.C., in order to honor the 2nd Division veterans of World War II and the Korean War, along with those of World War I; now therefore, be it

RESOLVED, that we give a rising vote of thanks to the Commanding General, all officers and enlisted personnel of the Active 2nd Division and that a copy of this Resolution, certified by the President and the Secretary of this Association, be forwarded to the Commanding General of the 2nd Division at Fort Benning.

NCO Wives Tea, Fashions

A tea and fashion show sponsored by the Ladies of the Big Indianhead is to be held at Sand Hill's Service Club Two at 1:30 p.m. September 21.

Members of the NCO Wives Club and wives of 2nd Division non-commissioned officers are cordially invited to attend.

The event featuring an accent on fall fashions is being planned by Mrs. Robert L. Brown, wife of the division sergeant major. She is assisted by Mrs. Lawdy Douglas, Mrs. Charlie E. Cranford, Mrs. Walter Edge, Mrs. Bilbo Nowell and Mrs. George Funyak.

Dinner Dance, Coffee

2nd Eng. Leader And Wife Feted

The main dining room was decorated in the Engineer colors. Red and white glads and red candles formed a centerpiece on the main table. Music was furnished by the Music Men for dancing after dinner.

Col. Parsons, who is leaving the unit, was presented with a memory book put together by the battalion's officers. Major General Charles H. Chase, division commanding general, was a special guest.

Also honored at this time were Captain Robert R. Farr, Captain Robert H. Millward, Lieutenant Charles R. Kesterson and Lieutenant Paul L. Miles, Jr., all of whom are departing. Lt. Miles will attend Oxford University on a Rhodes Scholarship.

Mrs. Parsons was also the guest of honor at a farewell coffee held on Tuesday.

Mrs. John R. Marcello and Mrs. Paul E. Hiatt were hostesses at Mrs. Marcello's Mahaffey Drive home in Columbus. Attending were the ladies of the 2nd Engineer Battalion.

Mrs. Marcello and Mrs. Hiatt poured coffee and tea at a serving table centered with a rock garden.

Farewells were also said to Mrs. Robert H. Millward.

Cook of the Week

Let Them Eat Frosting

(That Something Extra)

Captain John E. Terrill has a recipe to make that ordinary cake a little extra special.

Although he is kept busy as company commander of Company A, 702nd Ordnance Battalion, he occasionally ventures into the kitchen and creates. His hobbies include gardening, woodworking and photography.

Capt. Terrill and his wife, Dot, live at 2106 Milano Drive with their two daughters, Kathy and Karen.

There will be unanimous calls for seconds when you serve this.

FUDGE FROSTING

2 cups sugar
¼ cup corn syrup
½ cup milk
¼ cup shortening or margarine
2 squares chocolate, cut up
¾ teaspoon salt

Mix together all ingredients. Stir over low heat in saucepan until chocolate and shortening melt. Bring to full rolling boil and stir constantly. Boil one minute at 220 degrees. Remove from heat until mixture is lukewarm (120 degrees).

Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla and continue to beat until it is of spreading consistency.

Mrs. W. Becker Is Welcomed By Div Ladies

A welcoming coffee was given by Mrs. Ralph K. Jones for Mrs. William A. Becker, wife of Colonel William A. Becker, Division Artillery executive officer.

Colonel and Mrs. Becker have just returned with their four children from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, where he served as Army Attache for two years. Having arrived August 1, this is their first tour of duty at Fort Benning.

At the coffee held recently in the Rainbow Avenue home of Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Royal Reynolds, Jr., wife of the assistant division commanding general, poured. A corsage of white carnations was presented to Mrs. Becker.

Special guests at the coffee included Mrs. Gustav M. Bachrach, wife of the division chief of staff, Mrs. Terence W. Finck, wife of the Division Artillery S-3, Mrs. Donald B. Roof, wife of the assistant S-6, and the wives of battalion commanders and executive officers.

Unit Ladies Continue August Get-Togethers

The ladies of the G-1 Section gathered recently for their bi-monthly coffee.

Mrs. Robert J. Kirk was the hostess for the group at her home on Yeager Avenue. Mrs. Alfred P. Lam was welcomed into the group.

9th Infantry

Mrs. George Z. Armstrong poured.

A ring of pink and white snapdragons and carnations decorated the serving table. They were surrounded by porcelain figures, giving the appearance of a garden concert.

Mrs. Hannum conducted a business meeting after a social hour. At this time, final plans were made for the unit's cake sale to be held September 2. Mrs. Hannum took this opportunity to welcome Mrs. Jonas Weissman, Mrs. Alan T. Horwedel, and Mrs. Henry R. Thomas, Jr. She bade farewell to Mrs. William T. Wade and Mrs. Jerry R. Keebaugh.

Division Trains

The ladies of the Medical and Quartermaster Battalions were hostesses at the monthly Division Trains coffee held at the Main Officer Open Mess on Friday.

A centerpiece of orange pyracantha graced the serving table where Mrs. Harris E. Cathey poured. Breakfast rolls, hot filled biscuits, and donuts were served.

Mrs. James T. Durham conducted a short business meeting. Plans were made for future get - togethers. Mrs. George W. Skladal asked for volunteers for the Thrift Shop.

Mrs. Juan Freiler, wife of Major Juan Freiler, of the Argentine Army, was a special guest. Major Freiler has been observing operations at the 702nd Ordnance Battalion and has now returned to Washington, D.C.

23rd Infantry

The wives of Companies B and C, 23rd Infantry, were hostesses recently at the 23rd's monthly coffee.

Mrs. David K. Williams poured.

Mrs. Louis A. Kunzig, Jr. presided at a business meeting. Mrs. Richard A. Perkins gave the report from the Board meeting, Mrs. Charles M. Bolen presented the Thrift Shop report, and Mrs. John V. Swango gave the bowling report.

Farewells were said to Mesdames Michael J. Horan, Edward D. Lockwood, Otis Nunnally, Dawson B. Luke, and Robert B. Treat.

Newcomers were Mesdames Jackie D. Fannon, Raul Villaronga, Israel Nezvesky, and Jon M. Hansen.

Special guests were Mrs. Charles Harris of Skistook, Oklahoma, and Mrs. Kunzig's mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Cassidy of Tyler, Texas.

Big Indianhead Ladies Kick Off Social Plans

The Ladies of the Big Indianhead started off their social season with a dinner dance for members and their husbands at the Sand Hill NCO Club on Saturday.

The dinner dance is the first of a series of social events planned by the club under the capable leadership of Mrs. Robert K. Harrison, president.

At present the club is conducting an all-out drive for new members. The wives of all non-commissioned officers of the Second Infantry Division are urged to join and to take part in the club's expanding program of activities, both social and welfare.

Anyone wishing to do so, may join by contacting Mrs. Wesley Cason at Liberty 4-2846.

Reservations for the September 14 luncheon may be made through Mrs. Wayne Cliff at FA 4-3819.

The club sincerely welcomes Mrs. Robert L. Brown, the wife of the Second Infantry Division Sergeant Major, as Honorary Member, in addition to the Mesdames: Charles Bernatovitz, Robert J. Benoit, Pelham Breaud, Lory Bell, Eugene C. Crawford, Charles S. Cranford, Robert O. Craig, Vernon Clackley, Lawdy Douglas, Walter Edge, Howard W. Flora, Howard Gregory, J. C. Separate Battalions Set To Defend Championship

By Div PIO

Undefeated Separate Battalions issued the challenge this week to the 87th Infantry and Division Trains that they are prepared to defend their title of last year's champions in the 2nd Infantry Division Volleyball Tournament which was scheduled to go into its final stages last night.

Separate Battalions captained by Lt. Erwin Turner, has a clean slate with victories over the 87th Infantry, Division Artillery and Division Trains.

Not Home Yet

It's certain that they'll have to beat 87th Infantry or Division Trains again before they can claim this year's title. The 87th Infantry and Division Trains were scheduled to play in the semi-finals Thursday night and the winner of that game will meet Separate Battalions in the finals scheduled Friday night.

In first round action, Division Artillery defeated the 23rd Infantry, Division Trains downed the 9th Infantry, Separate Battalions outscored the 87th Infantry and the 11th Infantry succumbed to the 1st Infantry.

Since that time, Separate Battalions defeated Division Artillery and Division Trains topped the 1st Infantry. The 9th Infantry eliminated the 1st Infantry by handing them their second defeat in the double elimination tournament but were later bounced from the tourney when the Manchus were beaten by the 87th Infantry.

Not Home Yet

It's certain that they'll have to beat 87th Infantry or Division Trains again before they can claim this year's title. The 87th Infantry and Division Trains were scheduled to play in the semi-finals Thursday night and the winner of that game will meet Separate Battalions in the finals scheduled Friday night.

DivArty Bumped

The 87th Infantry then proceeded to knock Division Artillery from the tournament with a Monday night defeat while Separate Battalions handed Division Trains their first defeat Tuesday night.

Lt. Romie Mills, 2nd Division Sports Officer, said trophies for this year's champion and runnerup will be presented, but no date for the presentation has yet been set.

Col. Harding, Sgt. Patterson Duel In Senior; Three Bunched in Open

By Chuck Foster

Several interesting battles are being waged for low scoring honors in the 2nd Infantry Division Golf Tournament as it moves into its final stages. Action is expected to be hectic this weekend as tournament participants attempt to post scores before the tournament ends Tuesday.

Colonel S. L. Harding of Divarty Headquarters and Master Sergeant K. B. Patterson of Division Trains Headquarters were deadlocked with identical scores of 257 at the end of the third round but in the final round Sgt. Patterson stroked an 85 while Col. Harding posted an 88.

Three Stroke Lead

Sgt. Patterson's four round total of 342 is tops in the Senior Division and Col. Harding's 345 is second best at the present. The only other four round total in the Senior Division is a 359 score held by Lieutenant Colonel B. Sergeant of 2nd Infantry Division Headquarters.

Major H. T. Hanson of 38th Artillery Headquarters owns a three round total of 278 and Master Sergeant E. E. Petit of 9th Infantry Headquarters fired a 197 in his opening round. That rounds out the scoring in the Senior Division.

In the Open Division only two points separate three players vying for the low score in that division.

Major J. J. Sokolowski of 37th Artillery Headquarters is the current leader with a two round total of 153. In a dead heat behind Maj. Sokolowski are Sergeant First Class W. H. Morrow of Headquarters Company, 122nd Signal Battalion and Sergeant First Class G. R. Heider of Headquarters Company, 69th Armor, both with two round totals of 155. Sgt. Heider fired a 77-78 and Sgt. Morrow fired a 78-77 to knot the score.

Remains Leader

Major Charles M. Bolen of Headquarters Company, 23rd Infantry, is still the leader in Flight "B" with a three round total of 226 and First Lieutenant T. W. Parker of Combat Support Company, 23rd Infantry has a 229 four round total to hold the lead in Flight "C".

No one has finished the course in Flight "B" and, beside Lt. Parker's four round score, only Sergeant First Class J. D. Spear of the 2nd Administration Company has finished the circuit in Flight "C". Sgt. Speer has a four round total of 231.

Other tournaments scores are as follows:

Open Division after three rounds — Captain J. D. Crowley of Headquarters Company, 23rd Infantry, 258; and Lt. W. L. Anderson of Headquarters Company, 87th Infantry, 281. After two rounds — Captain R. H. Millward of Company D, 2nd Engineer Battalion, 187.

Flight "B" after three rounds —Major J. A. Burus of 2nd Division Headquarters, 233; Major E. C. Miller of 7th Cavalry Headquarters, 226; Captain T. W. Valenteen of 37th Artillery Headquarters, 226; Captain A. Dryer of 2nd Infantry Division Headquarters, 237; Captain E. D. Rozecki of 38th Artillery Headquarters 241; Captain R. K. Gunn of Headquarters Company, 9th Infantry, 244, Captain J. McCool of Battery A, 38th Artillery, 244; and Chief Warrant Officer J. R. Gorum of 17th Artillery Headquarters, 248.

More Scores

After two rounds — Captain A. C. Mitchell of 2nd Infantry Division Headquarters, 145; Lieutenant Colonel C. G. Collins of 13th Transportation Battalion Headquarters, 146; Major J. W. Roush of 2nd Aviation Company, 147; Captain K. D. Johnson of 2nd Infantry Division Headquarters, 151; Lieutenant Colonel H. H. Hiestand of the 69th Armor, 152; 1st Lieutenant F. Bauer of 2nd Administration Company, 154; and Captain Ismael Pack of 2nd Infantry Headquarters, 155.

After one round — Master Sergeant G. T. Burke of Company D, 22nd Infantry, 79; 2nd Lieutenant W. Bake of Company E, 13th Transportation Battalion, 81; 2nd Lieutenant W. C. Boyers of Company D, 13th Transportation Battalion, 83; 2nd Lieutenant G. G. Biggar Jr. of 11th Infantry Headquarters,

OUTSTANDING RUNNER
Loyola Star Shows Starting Stance

Has Competed with Best

Track Star Now Running Tanks

By Div PIO

The Army's famous "double time" doesn't bother Bill Kehoe, a tank driver in Company D of the 69th Armor. He's been running for eight years and has competed with some of the nation's top performers in track and field events.

The 2nd Division tanker started his track career while attending Archbishop Stepinac High School in White Plains, New York. His efforts during these years were rewarded with school records in the 660-yard run and the 440-yard run as well as a number of medals.

Sets School Mark

He ran the 660 in 1:15.0 and the 440 event in :50.2, both for school records. His track exploits in his first three years made him the choice for team captain in his senior year.

The young tanker was lead off man on the four-man team which captured first in the 440 event of the Penn Relays his senior year.

His track ability was quickly recognized by scouts from major colleges and universities from both the New England states and the South.

Bill was wooed and received offers of athletic grants from the University of North Carolina, University of Maryland, Fordham, Iona College and Loyola University of Chicago.

He chose Loyola and made the school's varsity track team as a freshman. He traveled with the team as it made its circuit throughout the mid-west in intercollegiate competition and was a member of the school's team which competed in the famous Drake Relays.

Lead-Off Man

Once again he was assigned the lead-off position on the four-man mile relay team and the team placed first in the Chicago Daily News Relays, one of the top track events in the nation.

The Chicago meet was televised but it was not the first time the 69th Armor man had performed before a television audience. A number of the meets in which he participated at New York's famous Madison Square Garden were telecast.

After his sophomore year at Loyola, the young athlete was unable to return to school. His mother became ill and he stayed home to help her. It did not end his athletic career, however.

He contacted the coach of the New York Athletic Club, one of the largest track and field clubs in the nation, and asked for a tryout. Bill was told to report to the next meet and run unattached. He was promised a berth on the team if he won.

The young runner did win and became a member of the club, often times called "the Yankees of the track world."

A number of Olympic stars were also members of the team. Among these were 440 runner Tom Murphy, 880 star Tom Courtney and Val Magusa, Hungarian-born athlete who is one of the few men to break the four-minute mile.

Bill traveled with the New York club throughout the states with most of the meets being in the New York area and the New England states. He took time off from the tour, however, to run in his home town track meet in Yonkers, N.Y.

He whisked through the 220 event and established a town record of :21. His time eclipsed the old town mark which had been standing for 10 years and was only one second short of the world record.

But neither this accomplishment, nor the 50 medals he had won, nor his membership in the New York Athletic Club gives him his "greatest thrill."

Bill says his most outstanding achievement, as far as he is concerned, was his being picked to run in the National Relay Championships in Buffalo, N. Y. At this meet, in which some of the nation's best runners participated, Bill was a member of the four-man team which placed first in the 220 event.

He became a national champion and, in his words, realized "a dream that put me on top of the world."

2nd Inf Div to Supply Fighters on Labor Day

By Div PIO

The 2nd Infantry Division will be well represented at the special 15-bout boxing card scheduled Labor Day at Briant Wells Field House. The 29th Infantry will send 10 pugilists and Division Trains will furnish eight for the card which will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

After Monday night's fights, only two more cards will be staged before the USAIC Major Unit Boxing Tournament gels underway September 27-29. These bouts will be held at Briant Wells Field House on September 14 and September 21.

Featherweight

Lightweight

Chesley Lockett of Division Trains vs James Harris of 151st Engineers; and Richard Woodley of 29th Infantry vs Douglas Johnson of Division Trains;

Light Welterweight

Robert Richter of Division Trains vs John Allen of 29th Infantry; James Johnson of Division Trains vs Charles Colbert of 29th Infantry; Amos Waters of 29th Infantry vs Tibor Goodocs of 58th Infantry; Leon Middleton of 10th Artillery vs Eugene Bass of 29th Infantry; and Robert Walker of 10th Artillery vs William Scrouse of 29th Infantry.

Welterweight

Light Middleweight

Elmer Spencer of 58th Infantry vs Joe Smith of 29th Infantry; and Oscar Hardman of Division Trains vs Charles White of 29th Infantry.

Middleweight

Light Heavyweight

Heavyweight

Jimmy Berry of 29th Infantry vs Amos Crumbley of Division Trains.

A large crowd estimated at better than 1,500 persons jammed every nook and corner of Briant Wells Field House last week to witness a 14-bout card which ended in two knockouts and 12 decisions.

Middleweight Joe Huntley of the 10th Artillery dropped Steven Palmer of the 2nd Division Trains in 1:45 of the second round and Eugene Bass of the 29th Infantry put Ramon Ortiz of Division Trains on the canvass for the count in 1:45 of the first round.

In lightweight bouts, Ernest Valdez of the 29th Infantry decisioned James Milton of the 10th Artillery while Richard Woodley of the 29th Infantry banged out a victory against Chesley Lockett of Division Trains.

Robert Walker of 10th Artillery defeated James Johnson of Division Trains and Robert Richter, also of Division Trains was beaten by Amos Waters of the 29th Infantry.

Division Trains' Fred Rutherford was the winner in his bout with Don Burke of the 58th Infantry and Robert Fields of the 10th Artillery outscored Elmer Spencer of the 58th Infantry.

Two light middleweight bouts saw Oscar Hardman of Division Trains beat Charles White of the 29th Infantry and Joe Smith of the 29th Infantry punch out a win over Patrick Carrow of the 58th Infantry.

In a lone light heavyweight bout, Robert Simmons of the 29th Infantry defeated Melvin Lonas of Division Trains and in a single heavyweight fight, Amos Crumbley of Division Trains was victorious over Milton Gaines of the 29th Infantry.

NEW KELLEY HILL GYM
Almost Ready for Occupation

New Kelley Hill Gym To Open in Mid-Sept.

BY EUGENE BREESKIN

Kelley Hill will be getting its new gym on schedule. Rapidly nearing completion, the regimental post gym is expected to open on September 15th. At present, no official opening ceremony has been announced.

The new gym will have a great deal to offer Fort Benning sports fans and will be available to all men in the 87th, 1st and 11th Infantries.

Basketball Court

The main feature is a large modern basketball court, equipped with overhead lighting, glass backboards, and electrical scoreboard, three large glass block windows and a set of collapsible stands that will seat over 1,200 spectators. Conforming to collegiate AAU standards, the court measures 50 by 94 feet.

A large exercise room is located in a separate wing of the building, and will offer a regulation size boxing ring which can be converted for wrestling, plus punching bags, ropes, horizontal bars, flying rings and body-building equipment. Nearby are two regulation four-wall handball courts. In addition there is a lounge, two locker rooms and a first aid room.

The building itself, which is 214 feet long and 94 feet wide, was planned by the U.S. Army District Corps of Engineers, Savannah.

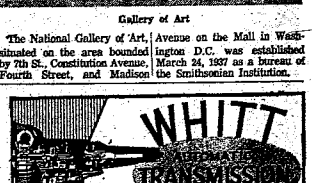
New Kegler League Set

By 87th Inf PIO

A Friday night bowling league for the men in the 87th Infantry was organized last week.



The league, which will be self-sponsored, is scheduled to begin today and will end sometime in December. The Conquerors will bowl at the Sand Hill alleys.

So far, eight teams have signed up, including two officer teams — one consisting of lieutenants and another of field-grade officers.

Sergeant James Patterson of Company C, who recently was elected as president of the league, said that trophies will be awarded to the best teams and best individual performers.

23rd Honors 2 Retirees

By 23rd Inf PIO

Ceremonies marking the retirement of Chief Warrant Officer Otis Nunnally and Sergeant First Class Arthur Riebel, of the 23rd Infantry were conducted Tuesday morning at Knight Field.

The colorful retirement ceremonies consisted of a review, which was comprised of troops of the 23rd Infantry. The ceremonies marked the ending of over 42 years' service for the retirees.

Mr. Nunnally, retiring after more than 20 years' service in the U. S. Army, was last assigned as the 23rd Infantry's maintenance officer. He was presented the Army Commendation Medal by the 23rd Infantry's Commanding Officer, Lieutenant Colonel R. G. Holton, Jr. Mr. Nunnally plans to reside in the Columbus area.

Sergeant Biebel also was honored on his retirement from active service after more than 22 years' service with the U.S. Army. Sgt. Riebel was last assigned as assistant supply sergeant in the 23rd Infantry's Company D. Col. Holton presented Sgt. Riebel with the 2nd Infantry Division Certificate of Achievement.

Johnson and Henson Boost Power on Doughboy Squad

By SP4 Joe Kuchera

With just a little over two weeks until the first game of the 1961 campaign, the Doughboy football team has been rapidly shaping up for the long and hard grind.

The addition of Pvt. William J. Johnson and 2nd Lt. Thomas J. Henson has boosted the team in the end and guard positions.

Johnson, who attended Florida A and M at Tallahassee, is under contract with the world champion Philadelphia Eagles team. He signed with them earlier this year and will report to the squad in 1962.

Henson is a 1960 graduate of Arkansas Polytechnic College in Russellville, and was named to the All-Conference second team at guard. Last season, the Arkansas Tech team rolled to an undefeated 10-0 season and constructed an undefeated 9-0 Arkansas Inter-College Conference record.

The two linemen hit over the 200-pound mark while towering over six feet. Johnson tips the scales at 220 pounds and is six feet, three and one-half inches tall while Henson is 212 pounds and six feet, one inch tall.

Although the Doughboys open the season within three weeks, the first game at Doughboy Stadium will not be featured until October. The first two games to be played in September will carry the post eleven to Camp LeJeune, N. C., September 16, and Quantico, Va., September 30.

The local squad opens October 8 at the post field against the Fort Eustis, Va., gridders. The team, for the rest of the season, will play six games at home and three on the road after the first two contests against the Marines.

Games are played either Saturday or Sunday afternoon. There is no admission charge.

The Doughboys will hold a scrimmage against the Tuskegee Institute gridiron squad Saturday, September 9, at the Doughboy Stadium. The controlled scrimmage will get under way at 1 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Packers' Group To Hold Clinic For Daughboys

The Green Bay Packers will conduct a football clinic for the Doughboys football team next Friday at 3 p.m. at Doughboy Stadium, according to Infantry Center Special Services officials.

The Packers, who will collide with the Washington Redskins in a National Football League exhibition game at Memorial Stadium in Columbus September 9, will give the post team advice, pointers and rules interpretations at the hour long clinic.

Beware of Deer

I have heard many oldtimers say that a good indication of the rabbit hunting you can expect in the fall is the number of rabbits killed by cars on the road. Well, if this holds true for deer, we may have a pretty good deer population on post as within the last week there were two deer reported killed by autos on post.

One was reported killed at Hourglass and Jamestown Roads while the other was found on 1st Division Road at Patton Range. This was the second deer killed at the curve in 1st Division Road near Patton Range in less than a year.

Hitting a deer while driving can be a serious situation. A collision with this animal which generally weighs well over 100 pounds can do considerable damage to a car and there have been instances where drivers have lost control of their car as a result of hitting a deer. So if you are driving at night and see a deer along the shoulder of the road, ease up, and see which way it's headed so you have a better chance to avoid hitting it.

Bag Limit Changes

According to Mr. Roy Johnston, post wildlife coordinator, this year's post hunting seasons and bag limits are being formulated through consultation with both Federal and State game agencies.

It appears that there will be several significant changes in the bag limits while the duration of seasons will be about the same as last year.

It is proposed that the total bag limit for deer be one buck (with at least 4 inch antlers) per day in both Georgia and Alabama and a limit of two per hunting season for the entire reservation. Last year the limit for the reservation was one buck.

During the fall turkey season in Georgia there will probably be the limit of one turkey but it has been recommended that there be no restrictions on sex taken.

However, during the spring season, only gobblers can be taken and the limit for that portion of the season is one, or a limit of two birds per hunting season, which includes both the spring and fall season, for the entire reservation.

On the Alabama portion of the Reservation, it appears that it will be gobblers only during both the spring and fall season.

A possible additional regulation change will provide that firearms for hunting deer on the reservation will not be limited to shotguns with rifled slugs but will provide for the use of buckshot, No. 1 or larger.

TSB Goes to Third Army; 10th Artillery Runner-Up

BY SFC BISMARCK STITH

The Student Brigade, managed by Bob Kinard, will represent the post in the Third Army Baseball Tournament to be held at Fort Bragg, September 4-8.

Sparking the pitching staff will be Carroll Emery, with a 14-1 record; Martin Leicht, 12-4; Bob Cress, 3-0; Robert Shehield, 1-1; and Max Lopez with a 1-0 record. John Orsini, 3-11, will also appear on the pitcher record.

Dave Brewer heads the batting department with a .398 average, followed by Wilbur Green, .396; Raymond Young, .321; Thomas Monza, .308; Charles Nelson, 318; Rex Pendergraft, .300; Lawrence Ondecker, .297; Elmer Smoot, .267; Russell Taylor, .262; James Brown, .265; Dave Lynn, .166.

The team will depart Fort Benning by bus at 7 a.m., September 2 for Fort Bragg.

10th Whips 151st

The 10th Artillery Redlegs defeated the 151st Engineers 5-0, for the second place in the Major Unit Baseball League. Joe Winchester hurled a four-hitter for the Redleg's victory. Winchester fanned 12 batters allowing only four scattered hits.

Martin Leicht was charged with the setback. The Engineers held the Redlegs scoreless until the seventh inning. In the seventh, Filbert Penaflor got on on an overthrow by Bobby O'Neil the third baseman. Ray Young drew an intentional walk, stealing second on the next pitch. Larry Covey blasted a double to deep center field scoring Penaflor and Young.

In the three game series playoff the 10th Artillerymen won a 9-1, and a 5-0 victory making their season record 15-3.

Many of we "younger generation" baseball fans thrill to the seemingly great catches made by today's major league players, but we probably don't remember Bob Lemon's "diving catch" at Chicago's Comiskey Park in 1946.

It was warm that April day and the game promised to be a great one.

This was the first baseball season after WW II and most of the players were back.

The White Sox' Bill Dietrich and Cleveland's Bob Feller were facing each other. Six years before Feller had made baseball history with an Opening Day no-hitter. They were almost as good today—Dietrich's no-hitter was nine years behind him.

Chicago was hitless against Feller until Taft Wright hit a single with two out in the fourth. Cleveland nicked Dietrich for only two in the first five innings.

The Sox couldn't get a run off Feller although it almost came in the eighth when Don Kolloway singled, went to third on Thurman Tucker's infield out and then was thrown out at the plate while trying to score on Ralph Hodgin's pinch single.

It was still 1-0 when the Sox went to bat in the last of the ninth. Bob Kennedy walked and then Wally Moses laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt sending Kennedy to second with the tying run. Murrell Jones (later known as Jake Jones) caught hold of Feller's first pitch and sent a Texas Leaguer toward right center.

It was a base hit—all were sure of it. Kennedy dug for third and then went all the way.

Edwards' couldn't get the ball. Neither could Bob Lemon—it seemed. But in he streaked, his head and shoulders hunched so far forward he looked as if he would lose his balance.

Kennedy, rounding third, was on his way home with the tying run when Lemon, only a few dozen feet from the edge of the infield, launched himself on a long, low dive and stretched out his hand as he crashed to the grass.

Ball, glove and center fielder rolled along the ground. Kennedy had crossed home before Lemon threw the ball to second.

For a few seconds many thought the game was tied. Even some of the Indians seemed hesitant. It wasn't until they started in toward the Indian dugout that those in the bleachers were certain Lemon had caught the ball and Kennedy was doubled off second base.

So that's the way it was in Comiskey Park on April 16, 1946, as the White Sox lost, 1-0 — all because of a surprise "diving catch."

Foreign Students Enrolled Here Benefit TIS and Their Nations

Attending various courses of instruction at The Infantry School are representatives from many foreign countries. These representatives, both officers and enlisted personnel, are afforded the opportunity of receiving instruction in the many complex subjects necessary to train personnel for duties in Infantry units.

These foreign students also provide us an opportunity to learn more about their ideas, methods of operation and social customs.

In a great many interviews, we gain knowledge which could only be obtained by hearing about their individual and collective experiences. This information is helpful in planning our future operations and included in our own future courses of instruction.

According to Major Robert G. Miller, chief of the Allied Liaison Section of The Infantry School, Associate Infantry Officer Course Class 1 has 24 allied officer students from eight foreign countries. This class is typical in that foreign students comprise approximately ten per cent of most associated career classes. Overall there are currently 107 foreign students from 30 countries enrolled in 11 different courses at Fort Benning.

Upon return to their native country, these students apply the lessons they have learned at The Infantry School. Their training assists immeasurably in strengthening our Allied forces. The attendance of these students at The Infantry School is a significant means of bringing us closer in every way to our allies. Their stay here is beneficial both to The Infantry School and the country they represent.

Chart Shows at a Glance— Status of Civilian Workers

At one glance a person visiting the Post's Civilian Personnel Section can see how the post's 3,031 civilian employees are graded.

William A. Burbee, chief of the Salary and Wage Division, keeps an accurate picture of the category and grade levels of the jobs, number of personnel in each grade and the reason for any change on a large chart in his office.

By consulting the chart he can at any time report accurately on upward or downward trends in post grade levels. The report not only tells him how many and what changes have occured but the reason for the change as revealed by a color key. Burebee finds the chart useful when giving advisory assistance to the local commander or chiefs of technical services.

Measuring five by 10 feet, the chart is marked in squares. Activities using civilians are listed horizontally, while positions and grades are listed vertically.

At the beginning of each six months the number of civilians in each grade is entered on the chart. Day by day gains and losses are posted in color according to the reason for each change. At the end of the period, the current balance in each grade is added to the chart.

The Army is becoming more complex and requires the services of highly trained civilians in many fields, according to Burbee.

Technological advances tend to increase the skills and responsibilities connected with some jobs already existing, requiring adjustment of grade level to adequately compensate employees for their work.

Abuses to the grading system could cost the government and the taxpayer large sums of money and decrease the efficiency of a military installation, Burbee said.

Inflationary up-grading can be prevented by sound management practices, limiting supervisory positions to an absolute minimum and centralizing high grade duties, he added.

Keeping a close check on all changes in grades is part of the responsibility of Burbee and his staff. They are concerned not only with the change but the reason for it.

Last USAR Units Arrive For Training

The last group of Army Reservists to train at Fort Benning this summer arrived last Sunday for two weeks active duty.

On post to learn the latest methods, doctrine and equipment of the modern Army are approximately 360 men of the 4th Howitzer Battalion, 82nd Artillery, with headquarters in Tuscaloosa, Ala., and the 695th Quartermaster Company of Opelika.

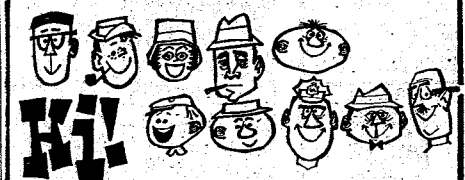
Headquarters and Headquarters Battery of Tuscaloosa, with 83 personnel; Battery A of Mobile, 81; Battery B of Livingston, 43; Battery C of Opelika, 53, and Service Battery of Alexander City, 38.

The artillery unit is commanded by Lt. Col. John R. Bealle of Tuscaloosa. It will be supported by the 1st Infantry Brigade and the Reserve Components Section of The Infantry Center.

The 695th is commanded by Capt. Edward D. Taylor of Auburn, Ala. It will be supported by The Infantry Center Troop Command, Quartermaster and Reserve Components Sections.

The schedule of the howitzer battalion will include preliminary training, followed by the firing of the 8-inch howitzer, small arms range firing and familiarization firing of the crew served weapons, the .50 caliber machine gun and the 3.5-inch rocket launcher.



The last week will be devoted largely to field tactical exercises, followed by critiques of all training. Night problems will be prominent throughout the training.

The 695th troops will work on the job, receiving training in operational techniques and sales procedures.

BY 2nd Lt. Leon P. Alexander

Exercise Swift Strike, the massive Army-Air Force maneuver recently concluded in the Carolinas, pointed up the ready state the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC) and Tactical Air Command (TAC) have assumed. More than 25,000 Army and 10,000 Air Force personnel were involved in this mock war, latest in the series of training exercises used to keep our combat forces in fighting trim.

This operation, conducted over civilian terrain in North and South Carolina, pitted the "Aggressor" 101st Airborne Division of Fort Campbell, against the "friendly" forces of Fort Bragg's 82nd Airborne Division. These two divisions, together with the 4th Infantry Division stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington, and various support elements compose the STRAC battle - ready forces.

Unique features incorporated into this maneuver, the largest over civilian terrain since the 1941 Louisiana Maneuvers, were the use of a realistic aggressor and the "free-play" aspect during actual conduct of the problem.

The latter enabled small unit commanders to tactically employ their forces as the situation developed. Umpires were on hand to attest to the success or failure of the tactics. Also written into the exercise were the simulated use of nuclear weapons, adding to the realism.

The Air Force employed a new "flying command post," a C-135 Jet, the military counterpart of a Boeing 707. The self-sufficient airborne center enables a commander and his staff to control air and ground operations while enroute to the maneuver area.

Equipment on the plane even includes a maintenance crew and repair parts to sustain extended action.

Tactical Air Command showed off its Composite Air Strike Force (CASF), employing aerial tankers, reconnaissance and fighter-carrier aircraft in addition to fighters. Such CASF forces were deployed during the Lebanon and Taiwan crises.

Served as Test

Aside from the training aspect of the exercise, Swift Strike was used as a testing board. The results of STRAC forces operating with TAC fighter support; air ambulance support of an Airborne corps; and the tactical use of the AC-1 Caribou were graded throughout the exercise.

Air Force participation was not limited to TAC forces alone. Troop Carrier squadrons of the Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve were called upon to share in the support role. C-119s and C-123s airlifted the Airborne units to the drop zone.

C-124s and C-130s were used for airlifting the many tons of supplies which must accompany fighting units. All air units were used in the simultaneous support of both Airborne divisions.

Joint Command

Under the joint command of Lt. Gen. Paul D. Adams, Third Army commander, and Maj. Gen. Maurice A. Preston, Nineteenth Air Force commander, Swift Strike began early in the morning of August 8 as 5,000 82nd Division troopers hit the silk north of Camden, S.C.

Initial aggressor forces were provided by the "Jacksonian Guard," a provisional battle group from Fort Jackson, S. C.

The paradrop was preceded by "softening up" air strikes by TAC fighters and fighter-bombers. Spectators lined the road near the drop zones to watch a spectacular show.

On hand to observe the operation were Secretary of the Army, Elvis J. Stahr, Jr., Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert, and Gen. Herbert B. Powell, CONARC Commander.

Following the initial paradrop of men and equipment, the return of units to home resupply operations commenced, with the Caribous of this post's 1st Aviation Company, Lawson Army Aviation Command. The same occurred when the 101st Division, which had been airlifted to four staging bases in the Carolinas by MATS (Military Air Transport Service) C-124 Globemasters, dropped its men and equipment into the exercise area on August 11-12.

The action on the ground in the "free-play" phase of Swift Strike ended last week with the return of units to home stations. The "Jacksonian Guard" had been relieved after the 101st successfully consolidated its forces.

More than 850 sorties were flown in returning the "Screaming Eagles" to Fort Campbell, while the "All American" division made a 3-day road march to its home at Fort Bragg.

SECTION OF AN HONEST JOHN ROCKET IS LOADED ABOARD A 'CARIBOU'
One of Two Lawson Based Ships Which Transported The Rocket During Operation

Here's What LAAC Units Did

During the "Swift Strike" maneuvers the 3d Transportation Battalion of Lawson, commanded by Lt. Col. Donate N. Vincent, hauled over 10,000 troops, 600 tons of supplies and flew over 1300 hours.

Major Garmon O. Aure, commanding officer of the 19th Transportation Company, stated that this was the first opportunity his H-37 helicopters have had to fully show their abilities.

The AC-1 Caribou, STOL (Short take-off and landing) twin engine tactical transports flew tons of supplies and hundreds of troops into unimproved areas where no fixed-wing aircraft had ever landed.

H-34s of the 31st and elements of the 94th Transportation Companies joined the larger aircraft in every major phase of the operations which were conducted around the clock for nearly three weeks.

Aircraft availability rates remained above 70 per cent during the maneuver and were limited not by maintenance as much as by pilots and crews. The crewmen were taxed to the limit of their endurance, yet there were no accidents involving Lawson aircraft.

This is a tribute to the men who fly and maintain Lawson's Aircraft. Outstanding support came from the 138th 593rd and 507th Maintenance Detachments. The 507th, commanded by Capt. Billy Farout, proved its flexibility by supporting the Caribou aircraft for the first time. Its regular mission is to provide 3rd Echelon support for the 94th Company, a cargo helicopter unit.

Slots For Mechanics Announced

Positions are open at the post for helicopter mechanics and combat vehicle mechanics, the Board of Civil Service Examiners on the post has announced.

The salary for helicopter mechanics ranges from $1.86 per hour for Grade 8 to $2.15 per hour for Grade 10.

To qualify as a junior helicopter mechanic (Grade 8) requires at least 18 months' experience in aircraft mechanic work, including or supplemented by at least six months of experience on rotary wing aircraft.

An applicant for journeyman helicopter mechanic (Grade 10) must have had four years of experience in maintenance, overhaul and repair of aircraft, which may include apprenticeship, and must include or be supplemented by at least one year of experience on rotary wing aircraft.

Salaries for combat vehicle mechanics range from $2.01 per hour for Grade 9 to $2.31 per hour for Grade 11.

Requirements for junior combat vehicle mechanic (Grade 9) are one and one-half years of experience as an automotive mechanic performing maintenance, repair and overhaul of a variety of passenger cars, trucks or heavier automotive equipment.

An applicant for journeyman combat vehicle mechanic is required to have three years of experience. This must include two and one-half years of general automotive mechanic work and six months experience in the maintenance, repair and overhaul of heavy duty gasoline and-or diesel powered vehicles, such as light and medium tanks, motor carriages, tank retrievers, high-speed tractors, self-propelled artillery or other types of combat vehicles.

Qualified personnel interested in the position may contact the Board of Civil Service Examiners, Building 1630.

E-8 JENKINS

Top enlisted man in Headquarters Battery, 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 10th Artillery, 1st Infantry Brigade, is 1st Sgt (E-8) George Jenkins, a two-time brigade member and veteran of nearly 20 years service.

Sergeant Jenkins entered the Army at Fort Benning in 1942 where he underwent initial training. Later in 1942, he was assigned to the 776th Medical Sanitation Company in the New Orleans, La., area.

He remained with that unit through movements to Camp Maxey, Tex., in 1943 and Fort Warren, Wyoming, in 1944. While stationed at Camp Maxey, he attended the Medical Sanitation School.

Entering combat in Italy during World War II with the 332nd Quartermaster Truck Company, he participated in the Rome-Arno and Po Valley Campaigns. While enroute to the Pacific Theatre, the war ended and he was again assigned to Fort Warren, Wyoming. Subsequently he drew assignments to Saipan in 1946 and Guam in 1948.

He returned to Korea in June, 1960, after an assignment with Company C, 29th Infantry, 1st Infantry Brigade. It was while assigned to Battery A, 5th Howitzer Battalion, 21st Artillery, in Korea last September 15 that he was promoted to E-8. His current assignment followed on August 21, 1961.

Sergeant Jenkins is the graduate of two non-commissioned officers academies, Fort Warren and Fort Benning; two senior NCO courses, Fort Meade, Md., and Benning; and the Commander's CBR Course here.

586th Engineers Help 'Save' Division

Army Engineers seldom perform routine missions.

They are rather executors of the difficult, oftentimes impossible assignment. In a sense . . . miracle workers.

A few hours before midnight, the division was ordered to withdraw. Attacking units were pressuring all the way across the battlefront. This had to be an orderly withdrawal and a quick one. Between the division's present position and their new line of defense lay a swamp and, beyond that, the river.

Before noon of the next day, the commander had to make his withdrawal good. Every man and piece of equipment had to be beyond the opposite banks of that river. If they made the crossing, they had a good chance of stopping the enemy in his tracks. If they failed, the division faced possible annihilation.

The fate of this tremendous military organization rested, for a few hours, in the hands of those who could take the division across the river. Army Engineers were once again placed in the role they know so well—that of miracle workers.

For five days, around the clock, Engineer units including the 586th Float Bridge Company had been working in a remote area northwest of Cheraw, S. C. They had been making roads where once there had been cowpaths: They made helicopter landing sites in the midst of the swamp: They had hastily bridged the streams. The area was then alive with vehicles, aircraft, and Soldiers.

But these were not the conventional Soldiers . . . these were Engineers, trailblazers who find themselves confronted with the same obstacles which faced the pioneers centuries ago. With no less zeal than their forefathers, these 20th century pioneers went about their work.

THE BRIDGE

The order came a few minutes before midnight: BRIDGE THE RIVER!

At two minutes after midnight, Engineers of the 70th Engineer Battalion and the 586th Float Bridge company swung into action.

Huge compressors began to fill the rubber float compartments. One by one, the saddle assemblies were bracketed in place and a giant crane swung the pontoons from land into the water. As small boats pushed the floats into position, the soldiers carried the 25 lb. "bales" or deck sections into place. More than six hundred of those heavy sections were moved by hand. All through the night they were carried, one by one, until finally at 11:15 a.m. the first vehicles rolled from shore to shore. In eleven hours the river had been bridged.

Five hundred feet of olive drab steel lay between the banks of the Pee-Dee. The withdrawal would now be successful and the division could once more prepare to defend.

While this huge bridge was being laid, (50 ton load-limit, incidentally) another bridge was completed a few hundred yards upstream. This was a foot bridge for troops. It took eight hours to finish this one, and every man in the division could cross it in a matter of a few hours.

Engineers don't just go to the banks of a river and build a bridge.

There are multitudes of delicate computations which must be figured such as tides, stream velocity, width, depths, flood possibilities and many others. Once allowances have been made for these natural phenomena, the actual construction job begins.

Throughout history, bridges have played an important role in the military actions involved around them. Grant's Engineers bridged the James river contributing to the success of the Union armies in the Peninsula Campaign.

The fact the Remagen bridge remained intact across the Rhine gave our armies an inestimable advantage in their final drive across the Rhineland. The Han River bridges in Korea, some of the longest ever constructed, were great feats of engineering.

Maneuvers such as "Swift Strike" are purely exercises—no bullets whistled overhead, nor artillery shells exploding while the Engineers worked. But as far as these Soldiers were concerned, the lives of each man in that withdrawing division depended upon the bridge.

Data Specialists Complete Course At Finance School

Three machine accounting specialists, members of the Data Processing Division of The Infantry Center Finance and Accounting Office, returned Monday from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., after attending an eight-week course on data processing equipment.

Miracle Drug Authority Heads MAH's Department of Medicine

The Department of Medicine at Martin Army Hospital is headed by a doctor who has engaged in extensive research in the field of chest disease and miracle drugs. He is Lt. Col. Forest W. Pitts.

As a member of the team of Tempel and Pitts, Col. Pitts collaborated with Major Gen. Carl W. Tempel, then a colonel, in writing many professional articles for medical journals based upon their research at Fitzsimons Army Hospital in Denver, from 1950 to 1953.

"Most of my experience in the Army has been in research, teaching and training of interns and residents," Col. Pitts said. "All of my previous assignments have been to Army general hospitals. I am happy to be here where so much training is going on."

"My family is as enthusiastic about the post as I am," "We are looking forward to observing Airborne and Ranger training."

"The hospital, itself, is very impressive. The physical set-up is magnificent, the personnel excellent and among the patients, morale is high," he continued.

"It is easy to see that Martin Army Hospital has a high standard of excellence for it is revealed in patient care and morale," the doctor added.

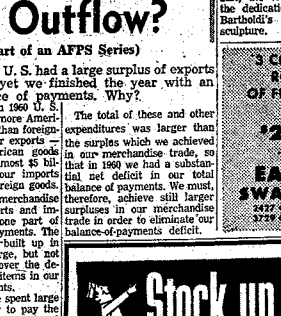
Col. Pitts was born in Roanoke, Va., in 1924.

In 1947, he was graduated from the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond.

The officer was commissioned in 1949 in Philadelphia. He participated in a Civilian Residency Training Program at Philadelphia General Hospital before his assignment to Fitzsimons Army Hospital in 1950, as assistant section chief of the Chest Service which Gen. Tempel then headed.

From 1953 to 1956, Col. Pitts served as chief of the Chest and General Service at Tripler Army Hospital in Honolulu.

He came to Fort Benning the first week in August from Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco, where he had served since 1956 as chief of the Chest, Communicable Disease and Women's General Medical Service.



Col. Pitts is a Fellow of the American College of Physicians and a member of the American Thoracic Society and the American Medical Association.

He has been certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine with a subspecialty of pulmonary diseases.

Throughout his Army career, Col. Pitts has found recreation in fishing.

"I am looking forward to learning the fishing waters in this area and in finding some fishing buddies," he said.

Col. and Mrs. Pitts, the former Patricia Miller of Richmond, have two sons, Stephen, 10, and Forrest, 7.

Army to Hold Jungle Exercise in Panama

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The Army will pit its troops and vehicles against the dense jungles of Panama next month.

The maneuver, dubbed Project Swamp Fox, will be a 60-day-long scientific expedition aimed at improving military transportation and communication techniques in the tropics.

Some 30 officers and men from the Army Transportation Board, Fort Eustis, Va., will be accompanied on the maneuver by specialist teams from the Ordnance Corps, Signal Corps, Quartermaster Corps, Chemical Corps, Medical Corps, the Infantry Board and Corps of Engineers.

The Army said permission to conduct the expedition was given by the government of Panama which has in the past cooperated with similar requests by the U.S. government.

The group will rely largely on their own resources. Members of the expedition will attempt to penetrate the thick jungle from Chepo to El Real, through the Darien Gap, with various types of Army and commercial vehicular and communications equipment.

The group will be resupplied from the air by two H-34 helicopters assigned to the transportation board and one U-1A Otter aircraft.

Also to be tested will be additional means and ways for helping aircraft locate surface elements beneath the jungle canopy.

The Army said the use of radio homing devices and visual signal flares are under consideration.

Army equipment to be tested and evaluated during the expedition includes the M-1, 1,000-gallon-capacity fluid transporter, the M-113 armored personnel carrier, the T-116 tracked amphibious cargo carrier and several standard Army trucks.

12 Compete In Military Chess Event

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The top 12 military chess players will be invited to vie for $2,700 in prizes in the second annual Armed Forces Chess Competition September 23 through October 1.

The tourney will be conducted and sponsored by the U.S. Chess Federation, the American Chess Foundation and the USO, Inc. Representatives from the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps and the Coast Guard will be invited.

Tourney play will be under international chess rules and consist of 11 rounds, round robin. The time limit imposed on players will be 50 moves in two and one-half hours. Thereafter, the players will be permitted 20 moves per hour.

Individual services will select the best qualified individuals as their representatives on the basis of their records as chess players.

Cash prizes, donated by Mr. Thomas Emery, a former Marine, are as follows: First place $1,000; second, $500; third, $250; fourth, $150, and fifth through 12th, a $100 U. S. Savings Bond.

TOP SOLDIER . . . Sp4 James T. Beck, Company A, 806th Engineer Battalion, was named Engineer Soldier of the Month in August competition within the 151st Engineer Group.

Pilot of the Month

Capt. Richard B. Schaefer, a flight platoon leader in the 1st Aviation Company, Lawson Army Aviation Command, recently completed the fixed-wing instrument flight examiners course at the Army Aviation School, Fort Rucker. He was selected as company "Pilot-of-the Month" upon completion of the course.

What About The Gold Outflow?

(Part of an AFPS Series)

In 1960 the U. S. had a large surplus of exports over imports; yet we finished the year with an adverse balance of payments. Why?

It is true that in 1960 U. S. businessmen sold more American goods abroad than foreigners sold to us. Our exports — or sales of American goods abroad — were almost $5 billion larger than our imports — purchases of foreign goods.

However, this merchandise trade — our exports and imports — is only one part of our balance of payments. The surplus which we built up in this trade was large, but not large enough to cover the deficits in the other items in our balance of payments.

For example, we spent large amounts of money to pay the costs of our troops stationed in other countries to help defend ourselves and our free-world allies. In addition, we provided aid to underdeveloped nations in Latin America, Asia and Africa. Further, our businessmen invested sizable amounts of money in other countries in order to develop raw materials and to build up markets. All of these expenditures are important to us and must be continued.

Discus Milestone

Army Lt. Jay Silvester threw the discus 198 feet, 8 and one half inches — more than two feet beyond the listed world record of 196 feet, 6 inches. He thus became the first man to break the 60 meter barrier in the discus throw, a feat akin to breaking the 4-minute barrier for the mile run.

BOOKS in REVIEW

SATURDAY TO MONDAY by Ruth Rehnann (Viking, 1961)

The window cleaner on the ledge outside of office EA-39 knew more than anyone about the man and the three women who worked there. Merry and detached, he had observed from his numerous vantage points crises of loudness and the revelation of private lives. Thus he knew, at 1:15 on Saturday afternoon, that a whole world was about to collapse.

THE ICE IN THE BEDROOM by P. G. Wodehouse. (Schuster, 1961)

This novel takes you to the brooks, the rabbit warrens and country cots of a London suburb known as Valley Fields, there to be swiftly swept up in the struggles of a young man at loggerheads with fortune.

I AM ANTHONY by Peg Stokes (Prentice Hall, 1961)

When Anthony K. Andrews is granted a leave - of - absence from Heaven to help the Newcome family in Indiana, there are grave misgivings. Anthony is a new arrival, fresh from a sinful mortal life. But with old Hank, his guaradian angel, to counsel him, the odds are in favor of Heaven that it will be a job well done.

A PASSION FOR LIFE by Diana Chang. (Random House, 1961)

The day the stranger came to the door, Barbara Owens was alone in the house except for her small son who was sleeping upstairs. Geoffrey, her husband, was away and was not expected to return for several more weeks. In small New England towns, manners and mores differ from those in large cities, a fact which was to affect the Owenses' lives irrevocably from that day on. A stranger in the back yard was ordinarily no cause for alarm. But this stranger raped Barbara, and within a few weeks she discovered she was pregnant with a child she despised.

ASSIGNMENT: SUSPENSE by Helen MacInnes. (World 1961.

Miss MacInnes' novels deal with contemporary history, and these three stories are set in the period of Nazi terror. Assignment of Brittany, concerns the capture of a British intelligence agent operating in occupied France."

Masquers—Unmasked

Pfc Henry Gladstone, scenic designer for the Masquer's "Tea and Sympathy", has decided upon a refreshing and original abstract set for the theater group's latest production. Faced with the small playhouse stage and the limited depth available, Gladstone discarded the original Broadway concept of a realistic tri-sectioned stage.

By revolving the set slightly, it will be possible to bring to center stage the warm study of a small New England preparatory school, the predominant setting in which the intense conflicts of "Tea and Sympathy" unfold.

Demonstrating a flair for the unusual, he has removed ninety per cent of the solid and opaque surfaces in the setting, allowing the audience a clairvoyant vision "through walls and doors".

The effect of solid walls is gained through the use of thread and fine string, woven into wall-paper patterns large enough for unobstructed view to all areas of the stage.

In addition, the delicate use of lighting tones — warm reds and orange for the study, cold impersonal blues for the hallway, and rather eerie greens and off-whites for Tom Lee's bedroom—help to achieve a dramatic separation between the three basic areas of "Tea and Sympathy's" set.

Infantry Magazine Offers Christmas Gift Subscriptions

The plan, the first such offer in the 40-year history of the magazine, is explained in the September issue. The offer ends November 10.

Established in the early 1920s by George C. Marshall, then a lieutenant colonel serving as assistant commandant of the Infantry School, Infantry Magazine has grown steadily through the years.

An early list of authors includes such names as Capt. Walter Bedell Smith, Lt. Roy E. Lindquist and Pvt. Henry McLemore, men who have become well-known in their field.

Infantry subscribers may not only read of the latest developments in doctrine, but are given an opportunity to help develop it through a feature called Forum. Infantrymen are urged to write for Forum, expressing their ideas, no matter how controversial. The Infantry School values the opinion of men in the field who use doctrine and are in a position to evaluate it.

Articles and features not only provide informative reading material, but are being used by instructors all over the world, including subscribers among Infantrymen of all 50 Allied nations.

The content of the magazine is geared to the level of interest of the rifle squad, platoon company and battle group.

Subscribers are not confined to the Infantry. The Marines, artillery, armor and engineer personnel are among Infantry readers, one of whom describes the magazine as "the only publication for the foot soldier."

The magazine depends financially on paid subscriptions since it does not accept advertising. It is supported by no organization other than fraternal-minded Infantrymen.

Infantry Magazine depends on its subscribers and readers in still another way, for they contribute ideas and most of the material for articles and features used in each issue.

NEWEST CHURCH

The Guildford Cathedral, begun in 1936, is the first Anglican cathedral to be built on a new site in the Surrey area of England since the Middle Ages.

The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m.

A high school education is the minimum requirement for admission.

The class will be limited to 50 students. Enrollments will be accepted at the Education Center until 7 p.m. September 11.

The course will include spoken Russian and meet the requirements of the USAFI (U. S. Armed Forces Institute) three semester hours college credit course B-581, Beginning Russian I.

There is no charge for the course, textbooks or study guides.

Mrs. Donato N. Vincent will teach the course.

Mrs. Vincent is one of the best qualified teachers of Russian in the U. S. according to Leonard S. Oxley, education officer.

She studied at the University of California in Berkeley and was an honor student in Russian at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Mrs. Vincent taught beginning Russian at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., in 1959.

The Surgeon Says

Don't Wait 'Til You're Retired

By Capt. Jack H. Scott, MSC

Today, rather than seeking out the challenges in life that still abound, we all too frequently hear "When I retire, . . ." as the exclamation from an individual whose life has become a rather dreary, monotonous, humdrum existence.

Certainly for many, retirement will mean the opportunity to engage in activities which, due to certain limitations of their military assignment, have heretofore been difficult or impossible.

It frequently happens, however, that individuals have focused so intently on their retirement goal that they have blinded themselves to numerous opportunities to get more pleasure and satisfaction from their day-to-day existence.

Individuals with this type of orientation frequently become so rigid and such slaves to habit and conformity that their zest, spontaneity and optimism are smothered and hamstrung. Unfortunately, they often look with suspicion and wonder upon those who "dare to be different."

If individuals could, however, periodically back away from their day-to-day worries and concerns and try to get a better perspective, they might well see that what is needed is an injection of something new and different to give their life new interest, enthusiasm, and greater meaning.

One such approach, for example, might be to ask the question: "How long has it been since I started a new hobby, read a book from a once held area of interest, sought out new and interesting friends, took up a new sport, or took time to see and act upon the needs of others about me?"

The purpose of a vacation is to break up the routine and to present a new challenge and stimuli to the individual with the hope that he will return to his job more refreshed and enthusiastic.

Vacations, unfortunately, come only infrequently and for too short a period of time. For this reason, it is important to look more carefully at our own day-to-day existence to see wherein we can "dare to break the pattern" and inject into our lives a greater measure of interest, enthusiasm and satisfaction.

Ranger Trophy Awarded at USMA By Gen. Surles

Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles, Jr., assistant commandant of The Infantry School, presented the Infantry Ranger Trophy at the U. S. Military Academy's Camp Buckner awards ceremony last Saturday.

The trophy was given to the member of the Class of 1964 who placed highest in time and accuracy in a variety of qualification tests at Camp Buckner, N. Y., where the third classmen are undergoing summer training.

Gen. Surles departed for West Point last Friday morning and returned Saturday.

OCS Scores High In PT Testing

The 50th (OCS) Company, 5th Student Battalion, The Student Brigade, recently showed the results of their physical training program as every member ran the Ranger confidence course which has many obstacles. The course record is one minute and 47 seconds. OC Peter Abrahams led the candidates with one minute and 50 seconds.

The next day the company moved to Airborne field for their first physical fitness test where 12 members of the class scored over 400 points. High man was OC John W. Tanner, Jr., with 422. The class average was 315.

This physical training took place after 7 weeks of training.

COL. DRISSEL

Col. Drissel Is New SJA For The Post

Col. V. Homer Drissel is the new staff judge advocate of The Infantry Center.

He succeeds Lt. Col. Daniel A. Lennon, Jr., who will serve as deputy SJA.

Col. Drissel was graduated from the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, where he was awarded a bachelor of science degree in economics. He received a bachelor of laws degree from Georgetown University in Washington.

He comes to the post from Fort Carson, Colo., where he was staff judge advocate from July, 1959, to July, 1961.

The colonel served as legal counsel for the Physical Evaluation Board of Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington from November, 1957, to June, 1959.

From October, 1952, to January, 1957, he was chief of the Military Justice Division, Judge Advocate Section, Headquarters, Sixth Army at The Presidio of San Francisco.

Col. Drissel is a member of the American Bar Association.

Gen. Griffing Visits Post

Major Gen. Lewis S. Griffing, commandant of the Army Artillery and Missile School, Fort Sill, visited The Infantry School Tuesday and Wednesday.

He was welcomed with honor guard ceremonies Tuesday morning on Chapel Field. Major Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander, was the local commander.

The two-star visitor was accompanied by heads of departments of the Artillery and Missile School; representatives of Fort Sill and the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Huntsville.

In addition to conferring with Gen. Harrell, Gen. Griffing was briefed on new organization and tactics, Infantry School Combat Developments Office activities, history and organization of The Infantry Center and the organization, mission, scheduling of classes and instructional facilities of The Infantry School.

Lt. Col. James E. Echols, Jr., chairman of The Infantry School Command and Staff Department's Artillery Committee, was the project officer.

Music Soothes—Now It Helps In Motor Park

Newly initiated at the 1st Armored Rifle Battalion, 58th Infantry motor pool and tank park is a program of continuous background music heard over public address facilities during daily maintenance periods.

The program, adapted over a week ago on a trial basis, is thought to create a more pleasant atmosphere for work and is now under consideration for permanent institution.

180 Expected Here For International Matches

Approximately 180 of America's top marksmen will compete in U. S. International Shooting Championships here October 22 to November 6, the first time in the history of American marksmanship that full-scale national matches have been scheduled on regulation International-type ranges.

Nine championships will be decided during the competition to be hosted by The Infantry Center. The matches are sponsored by the National Rifle Association through the cooperation of the Department of the Army and the Continental Army Command.

Events Named

According to Lt. Col. Burton C. Boatright, match executive, the marksmen will shoot for national crowns on the 300 and 50-meter free rifle ranges, 50-meter free pistol course, International rapid fire and center fire courses, the 100-meter Running Deer range and on the International Skeet and International Trap ranges.

On the Running Deer Range shooters will compete for "silver" and "doubles' laurels.

The only other national level competition over International-type courses has been held in conjunction with the National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, Col. Boatright said. Camp Perry facilities could not support championship competition under the rigid requirements of the International Shooting Union, he added.

Only Complete Ranges

The only complete complex of International-type ranges, he said, is at The Infantry Center, home of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit. The unit has used the system to produce world champion marksmen since its entry into world competition in 1956.

Concerning on the level of marksmanship skill to be seen during the coming championships, Major Michael Tipa, head of the AAMU's International Section, said the NRA has imposed restrictions upon match entry which would permit only the most seasoned veterans of world competition and ranking American matches to shoot in the competition.

"It is expected that the National Matches now established at Fort Benning will be the source of future U. S. Shooting Teams to compete in world competition," he said.

Busy Planning

Although the Fort Benning ranges are complete, Col. Boatright said, his operational staff is busy planning for the two-week session.

Parking and statistical facilities are being expanded, range communications rechecked and covered firing points renovated to accommodate shooters.

Public Invited

Col. Boatright and Major Tipa expressed the hope the championships would draw large numbers of spectators to the matches which will be open to the public.

"The International skeet and trap events have great spectator appeal since even the first-time visitor can easily follow shooter standings," the major said, "by watching the smashing of the flying clay targets."

The Rapid Fire Pistol Match, in which marksmen actually fire a stage of five shots in four seconds at turning silhouette targets, also holds appeal for those on the sidelines, he said.

Competitors are expected to arrive from all the Armed Services and from police departments and civilian shooting circles throughout the country.

Entries for the matches will close October 12, the last day the NRA will honor acceptances to the invitational meet.

Teenagers Want to be Rangers — Col. Teeters Gives Them Advice

Two Batesville, Ohio, teenagers are embarking on a program of physical fitness on the personal advice of the director of the Ranger Department of The Infantry School.

Thirteen-year-olds Greg West and Merrill (Butch) Conard, after seeing Rangers in action during a recent telecast of the Army program, "The Big Picture," wrote The Infantry School that they had selected the Rangers as a career and requested details on the famous corps.

The answer not only included "details," pamphlets describing the history of the Rangers, their training methods and objectives, but also a personal letter from Col. Bernard G. Teeters, department director.

"If you are interested in becoming a Ranger," Col. Teeters wrote, "you can start preparing yourself now by developing strong bodies and alert minds."

Col. Teeters pointed out to the youngsters that they had set high standards for themselves, but with a strong desire and a willingness to prepare for such a career they could well measure up to Ranger requirements "when the time comes."

The Ranger director addressed his letter to Greg who credits his hobby, "Butch," for sparking his decision to join the elite of the world's fighting men.

Human Research Unit Picks Up 3 Members

Three new members have been added to the research staff of the Army Infantry Human Research Unit.

DR. BROWN

DR. OLMSTEAD

They are Dr. Joseph A. Olmstead Jr., Dr. Ronald L. Brown and Clay E. George.

HRU is maintained by the Human Resources Research Office of George Washington University in Washington, D.C., under contract to the Army to conduct research pertaining to training methods.

Dr. Olmstead was formerly associated with a firm in Indianapolis, where he was chief of the training program.

He was graduated from the University of Texas in Austin where he was awarded degrees of bachelor of arts, master of arts and doctor of philosophy. He is a member of the American and Indiana Psychological Associations.

Dr. Brown was graduated from the University of Kentucky in Lexington, receiving a bachelor of science degree in psychology. He was presented a master's degree in 1958 and a doctor of philosophy degree in 1960 at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale.

The doctor came to the post from the Knoxville Mental Health Clinic where he served as a clinical research psychologist.

George received a master of arts degree in psychology at the University of Arizona in Tucson. He took his undergraduate training in engineering and psychology at Phoenix College, and has done graduate work at the University of Houston, Texas.

Before coming to the research unit, George was engaged in teaching and clinical work at Arizona State University. He is the author and co-author of professional articles which have appeared in psychological journals.

ADVISOR . . . Major Betty T. McCormack has succeeded Lt. Col. Kathleen Burns as WAC advisor and action officer of The Infantry Center G-1 Section. She comes to the post following a three year tour in Germany. Col. Burns has been reassigned to Fort McClellan, Ala.

Top Intelligence Agency Posts Are Announced

Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell Gilpatric made the following appointments to the defense Intelligence Agency on August 29:

Rear Adm. Samuel B. Frankel to be chief of staff.

Gen. Quinn's appointment begins Oct. 1, and will run the three years. Adm. Frankel's term is for two years, also beginning Oct. 1.

Gen. Quinn presently is assigned as chief of public information, Department of the Army. Adm. Frankel is deputy director of Naval Intelligence.

Jewish '61 Holy Day Season Observances Begin Sunday

Fort Benning Jewish personnel will celebrate the High Holy Day Season during September.

Rosh Hashanah, the New Year, will be observed from sunset this Sunday through sunset Tuesday.

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, will be observed from sunset Tuesday, September 19, through sunset Wednesday, September 20.

Special services have been arranged through The Infantry Center Chaplains Section and the National Jewish Welfare Board.

Services will be conducted by Chaplain (1st Lt.) Naftali Friedman who was recently named Jewish chaplain for the post. He has been attending Chaplains School at Fort Slocum, N. Y., and is expected to arrive at Fort Benning today.

Assisting Chaplain Friedman will be Pvt. Stanley Stone.

All services of the High Holy Day Season will be conducted at The Infantry Center Chapel.

The schedule includes Rosh Hashanah services at 6 p.m. Sunday, 9 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Monday and 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Yom Kippur services are scheduled for 6:30 p.m. September 19 and 9 a.m. September 20.

Observance of the High Holy Days has special significance to Jewish families.

The period from Rosh Hashanah to Yom Kippur is known as the Ten Days of Repentance. The time is devoted to self-examination, confession of wrong doing and attempts by the worshipper to establish a close communion with God and his fellow man.

The Jewish Welfare Board Armed Services Committee has arranged for Jewish military personnel of the post to be guests of families in Columbus and Atlanta during the Holy Days. Heading the Columbus committee is Dr. Dave Berman. Leon Goldberg is in charge of arrangements in Atlanta.

Unit commanders are encouraged to grant leave and passes to Jewish personnel desiring to participate in the observance of the Holy Days.

Scouts Honored

Honor Camper Awards were presented to Boy Scouts Paul Achey and Robert Kolb at Camp Pine Knot. The boys, from the Post's Troop 10, were chosen as the top Boy Scout campers for the post.

Capt. R. B. Cook Is Assigned to Communications

Capt. Robert B. Cook has been assigned to The Infantry School's Communication Department.

He will serve as chairman of the Fundamentals Subcommittee of the Radio Maintenance Committee.

Capt. Cook came to the post from an assignment in Europe.

More than 1,650 students will have begun or completed courses at The Infantry School in a 25-day period by the end of September.

Tuesday 73-man Airborne class 8 and 54-member Mechanics Class 4 started. Ranger Class 3 with 155 men will begin next Monday. Two days later, 200 second lieutenants will enter Officer Orientation Class 5.

Beginning September 18 will be 73-man Airborne Class 9, 54-man Radio Maintenance Class 3 and Mechanics Class 5 with 54 students. Airborne class 10 totaling 73 members will open September 25.

Graduation exercises were held Wednesday for Officer Orientation Class 1 with 210 students. On September 14, final ceremonies will be staged at 11 a.m. for 50-man Mechanics Class 1 in Ground Mobility Building E-1 and 101-student Ranger Class 1 on French Field. The following day (next Friday) 65-man Associate Officer Career Class 5 will receive certificates at 11 a.m. in Ground Mobility Building E-1.

Heavy Mortar Class 1 with 27 members will end September 16 at 11 a.m. in Classroom 3. Graduation ceremonies slated for September 20 at 11 a.m. are 22-member Radio Maintenance Class 14 in a location to be announced and Officer Orientation Class 2 with 210 lieutenants in the Main Theater.

The gold bars of a second lieutenant will be given to approximately 113 candidates in OCS Class 4 September 21 at 11 a.m. on Eubanks Field. The closing programs for 44-student Communications Class 1 and 50-man Mechanics Class 2 will be held September 28 at 11 a.m. in the Main Theater and Ground Mobility Building E-1, respectively.

LOST HORIZON

Three French campers pitched their big yellow tent in the hills of England and left for a nearby town. When they returned, they found that someone had made off with their tent and equipment. After two days of searching, police found their entire camp right where they had left it. It was they who had been lost.

AMU Holds Rifle Clinic For ROTC Team Coaches

Seventy-four ROTC instructors and rifle team coaches from schools and colleges throughout the South were graduated from the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit's Smallbore Rifle Clinic here last week.

"The first of six such clinics we plan to conduct," said Major Michael Tipa, head of the AAMU's International Section, "the four-day session proved far more successful than we had anticipated."

According to Major Tipa, the clinic's teaching staff reported extreme enthusiasm among those attending the course, specifically designed to teach principles of International-type firing in world competition.

Generally, he said, although each member of the class was accomplished in American-style gallery shooting, little was known about the ultra-precise International mode.

The clinic proved, he added, the American rifleman will take to this extremely advanced shooting if given the opportunity to learn it.

The background provided by AAMU experts is expected to influence college competitive programs throughout the South.

"The ROTC marksmanship has been a primary source of riflemen for the AAMU's International Section," he said. "And we plan to assist as many schools as we can through the series of clinics planned for presentation in the next six months."

First Lt. Bruce Silvey was in charge of the instruction, which included firing over the 50-meter International free rifle course.

More Students Attending College

A University of Michigan study shows that the top state today in terms of college enrolment is California, with 36 youths attending college for every 100 in the 18-through-24 age bracket. Nationally, the proportion of students seeking degrees has risen in the past decade from 14.6 to 23.1 per cent of the college-age group.

4th Division Display Arrives; Installed in Infantry Museum

A new addition to the Infantry Museum is a display from the 4th Infantry Division at Fort Lewis, Wash., the only ground Infantry division designated Strategic Army Corps (STRAC).

The display depicts the history of the unit from its founding in 1798 to the present.

Gen. Surles Presents 5 Awards

Five units in The Student Brigade, The Infantry School, have been presented awards for outstanding achievement in the Army Savings Bond Program.

They are the 2nd Student Battalion, 93.6 per cent participation; 4th Student Battalion, 66.9 per cent; 41st Company, 85.6 per cent; 44th Company, 72 per cent, and the 15th Finance Disbursing Section, 100 per cent.

Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles, Jr., assistant commandant of The Infantry School made the presentations.

Minute Man Awards were presented to Lt. Col. Vern L. Joseph, commander of 2nd Battalion; Lt. Col. John H. Ramsburg, commander of the 4th Battalion; Capt. John E. Rogers, commander of 41st Company, and Capt. Chumley W. Waldrop, commander of 44th Company.

The exhibit consists of a large case 15 feet wide, 7 feet high and 6 feet deep made of blood Philippine mahogany, which is constructed in five sections.

In each section is a realistic display, in authentic color and to scale, of a small body of troops deployed in combat formation of the period. The soldiers, about two inches high, and their surroundings are in great detail.

Five wars are depicted, the War of 1812, Civil War, Philippine Insurrection, World War I and World War II. The troop displays are under glass.

Above the five war troop displays, historical facts concerning the division are recorded. The battle streamers of World War I, the original streamers in this case, and those of World War II are also shown.

The present plan of the museum board is to have displays from all active Infantry divisions, the 1st Cavalry Division and the 1st and 2nd Infantry Brigades to be exhibited at the museum.

Displays from the 25th Infantry Division in Hawaii and the 1st Cavalry Division in Korea, in addition to the 4th Division, are now on display in the museum.

The 4th Division took the display to Miami in August and assembled it there for its national convention. The assembling crew then brought it to Benning and installed it permanently in the Infantry Museum.

Major E. C. West Is New Engineer Advisor at TIS

He has served as a company commander and S-3 of the 588th Engineer Battalion at Fort Belvoir, Va., for the past year after graduating from the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

A 1950 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, Major West served with the 8th Engineer Battalion, 1st Cavalry Division in Korea from August, 1950, to October, 1951.

Major McCormack Named Assistant Inspector General

Major Wilbur McCormack has been named assistant inspector general of The Infantry Center.

He came to the post from Headquarters, Army Europe where he served from July, 1958, to July, 1961, in successive assignments as secretary of the General Staff and G-1.

Major J. Hall Assigned to TIC G-3 Section

Major Joseph Hall is newly assigned as unit training officer in The Infantry Center G-3 Section.

He was stationed in Germany for three years, two with the 10th Special Forces Group (Airborne), 1st Special Forces, in Bad Tolz and one with Southern Area Command in Munich, before attending the associate course at the Command and General Staff College from January to July of this year.

Major Hall was at Fort Benning as an instructor in the U. S. Army Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department from July, 1946, to November, 1947, and with the 508th Airborne Infantry Regiment from August through December, 1951. He is a 1957 graduate of The Infantry School's associate officer advanced course.

Want to Earn Extra Money?

If you do, watch out you don't wind up obligating yourself to spend it rather than earn it. So says a warning issued by the Columbus Better Business Bureau on behalf of soldiers on the post.

Though the vast majority of help wanted ads are reliable, sincere and honest, a few have misled the reader.

"Make up to $100 part time," one might proclaim, aimed at E-4s and up, "Between the ages of 34 and 45." The ad doesn't say so, but the firm is engaged in selling something, and would be happy to have 2,000 men answer each ad, even if only one of the applicants ever sold anything.

The "gimmick" is this. To sell the object, you first need a "demonstrator" which you are "permitted" to sign up for at a "reduced" price. It is pointed out that three or four sales will reimburse you the cost of this demonstrator, and then the gravy starts rolling in.

For some few natural or experienced salesmen, this may be true, for too many, however, the purchase of the demonstrator is the end of the line, except for the monthly payments.

Because most ads are on the level, and it's hard to tell the good from the bad, don't jump to conclusions if you are honestly seeking a means of raising extra cash. Check with the Better Business Bureau, which is happy to provide information on the advertiser.

"Build-Up" Units Due Here

By state, here is a repeat list of the One Army units scheduled to arrive here in early October as part of the Army build-up. The eight units are to be stationed here.

New Jersey — the 322nd Ordnance Direct Auto Support Company from Dover, USAR.

Lost in the Shuffle?

To too many of us, the vital importance of music to the military has been sidelined. Doing away with the regimental band had a lot to do with it, probably, and the increase in readily available professional entertainment at the twist of a knob.

Anyway, the decline in interest in this traditional part of military life is hurting the Infantry Chorus, a selfless group which should be ready to perform at both official and unofficial events at a moment's notice. We should have the best darn chorus in the Army, yet Lt. Brooks at Special Services reports that interested people just aren't showing up for rehearsals. Let's do something about it. Know someone with a good voice in your outfit? Send him around on Tuesday or Thursday—especially if he's a tenor.

Rifle And Pistol Club Election Set

Members of the Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club will hold their annual election of officers on the club's grounds Sunday, September 17.

The elections will follow a barbecue dinner at 1 p.m. Club president, Major Fremont R. Burdick, Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, will preside.

The day's activities, which begin with a pistol match at 10 a.m., will be open only to club members and their dependents.

The match will be fired on the National Match course with .22 caliber, center fire and .45 caliber pistols. Awards will go to high shooters in the Master, Expert, Sharpshooter, Marksman and Tyro classes.

Reservations for the barbecue and pistol competition must be made by tomorrow.

Editorial

'Coexistence' to Reds Is a Gradual Takeover

"Peaceful coexistence of the socialist and capitalist countries is an objective necessity for the development of human society."

These bland words, keynote the Communist party's "Third Soviet Program," drafted to guide the Soviet Union and her satellite nations in coming decades. They are soothing words to many men of political and intellectual stature in the free world who see a nuclear war as the end of civilization.

And they were meant to soothe, especially at a time of international tensions over Berlin. But they were not really words of a peaceful power, for this whole new Communist Manifesto is based upon Soviet Premier Khrushchev's fanatical certainty that the future belongs to Communism — that it will take over the world without a war of almost unimaginable destructive fury.

To this end the Soviet state will wage another kind of war on many fronts, and wage it with merciless intensity. It will, as in Africa, try to entice new and inexperienced nations into its orbit. It will exploit nationalism, as in Cuba, and attempt to install its puppets as heads of state. It will preach disarmament — but only in sanctimonious words, not by reduction of its own armed strength.

It will play on the anxieties that decent free men feel about a third world war. It will plot to provoke quarrels among the nations of the free world and sabotage their defensive alliances. It will claim to champion the interests of international labor while keeping its own workers in bondage. It will bluster and threaten on the world stage of the United Nations and it will play the sweet-singing dove on that same stage.

Above all, we the United States are its target and it is at us that it will direct its main battery of vituperation. For unless it can isolate us, unless it can make suspicious neutrals of our former friends, unless it can wreck NATO and SEATO and OAS, its compulsive drive to gorge the world down its gullet in mouthfuls great and small is forever blocked.

Personal Problem? Face The Facts— Then Take Action

By Chaplain (Major) James B. Black

In Philippians 4:13, the apostle Paul said, "I can do all things through Him who strengtheneth me." Knowing Christ—His ideals and teachings, His mind and attitude—Paul had discovered the secret of managing problems successfully.

If you are among those who have problems, how can you manage them successfully?

First, you would say to yourself in facing the facts, that for every problem there is a solution. The apostle Paul managed successfully because he faced the fact of available strength in knowing Christ.

It is not enough to say, "these are the facts" unless we go on to ask, "What do they mean?" It is at this point that prayer becomes important. The successful management of our problems depends upon interpreting them by the mind, the ideals, the principles of Jesus Christ.

After interpreting the facts, we need to remain poised under pressure. We need to externalize the problem from ourselves, and remember that we cannot solve our problem if we simply become

The Judge Says . . .

Play it Cool If You Plan To Sign a Lease

By 1st Lt. Lawrence D. Sledge

Do you live off-post and apply your quarters allowance to rent payments? If you do, or plan to, then you should be aware of your legal rights and powers in getting favorable terms into your contract.

When you find a location you will probably enter into a simple rental agreement or a written lease with your landlord. The terms of this agreement or lease will depend on your success in bargaining. Following are some of the points to look for, and negotiate upon, when you rent:

There is a great deal of difference between a oral agreement and a lease. The oral agreement applies to a short term running from month to month terminating at the end of any certain month, if no termination date is stated. The law requires that the tenant give 30 days written notice previous to abandoning the premises.

If no such notice is given, the agreement runs for another month. If less notice is given, the landlord is entitled to payment for that portion of the 30 days the premises are unoccupied.

Also, according to Georgia law, the landlord must give 60 days written notice before expelling from the premises, in the absence of another justifiable cause.

A lease contemplates a longer, more definite period. This provides security to the landlord, protection to the tenant and usually results in lower rental. This agreement, as in any contract, is subject to conditions and other provisions for the benefit of either party.

When negotiating a lease, remember you have the power to take or leave the property if the terms aren't suitable for your purpose. So bargain for provisions and have them written into the contract.

As a rule you should be aware of two types of provisions. The first is the TERMINATION CLAUSE. This provides for the conditions upon which the contract may come to an end.

Also, the tenant may bargain for a clause providing for PCS orders requiring unexpected departure, or for such provisions as on-post housing becoming available.

Often off-post housing is accepted pending on-post quarters and the tenant finds himself with the problem of having to move on post within two or three days, or forfeit the on-post housing. Thus the 30 day notice can't be satisfied, and moving out would justify the landlord in collecting the month's rent when the tenant won't be receiving his quarters allowance. Consider this when entering into a lease.

Another important provision is the ASSUMPTION OF RISK CLAUSE. This means that you would absorb damages to any person or property resulting from defects of the rented property.

This is often inserted for the protection of the landlord. It would mean that if a drain became plogged, or a roof leaked, doing damage to your carpet or your furniture, then you, not the landlord, would suffer the loss.

The same rule would hold true if a hot water heater exploded injuring a member of your family, or a visitor on your property.

Consider this when leasing, and possibly you can bargain for advantage.

The majority of tenants entering agreements of lease are unaware that they should bargain for provisions. This awareness usually comes after the tenant finds himself caught by the "small print" or some provision hidden within the lease.

A signature on a document usually means that it has been read and understood and in the absence of fraud no other conclusion may be assumed. Thus, when in doubt as to a provision of a lease, seek professional advice.

If you would like to see a lease with some provisions in favor of the tenant, you can check the Off-Post Housing Section, Billeting Office, Building 5, for a sample lease. Knowledge of your rights in this area can mean more benefits to you.

As well, it may be advisable as a prospective tenant to check by billeting to see if your future landlord is on the list of approved agents established by the section.

How Good is The Best? It Can Always Be Better

Gen. Surles'. Infantry School Report

13,000 Visitors Each Year Come to Farsighted School

The Infantry School is proud of its world-wide reputation for superior instruction and realistic demonstrations. This reputation has not been gained recently but has become traditional over more than 40 years of constant improvement.

The School continues to stay on top and enjoy its reputation for excellence because successive commandants and their staffs have not been satisfied with having service school instruction "equal to any" in the world. Rather, they have insisted on answers to such questions as: "How good is the best"? and "How can it be improved"?

The reputation of any educational institution is gained from its instructors, administrators and supervisors and in the case of The Infantry School it results from the efforts of highly selected and dedicated officers, enlisted men and civilian technicians.

To provide answers to such questions as how good is the instruction and how can it be improved requires constant review and self-analysis of each of its nineteen resident courses of instruction.

Approximately 13,700 officers and enlisted men graduate from its resident courses annually, in addition to non resident instruction counterparts which enroll approximately 300,000 additional Infantry students throughout the world.

The director of instruction, who is charged with the responsibility of programming the instruction for all resident courses, has in his office an Analysis and Review Section headed by Mr. John R. Thode.

It is the mission of this small and little known section to know the background and military experience of the students and to evaluate all resident instruction in the light of student experience and the established purpose of each course. This section evaluates both School instruction and the School product.

A precourse survey test is given all students enrolled in the leader type courses including the Officer Candidate, Orientation, Career and Associate Career Courses. This was designed and developed by the Review and Analysis Section to measure general military knowledge.

A similar end-of-course examination is also provided these same classes. In combination, these tests become a basic measuring instrument for evaluating School instruction.

Another device used in course evaluation seeks ideas of the students to improve instruction. Students in residence complete questionnaires at various points during their course and again at the end.

These comments are reviewed by all the instructors and instructional supervisors and are used to improve both what is taught and the method of teaching it.

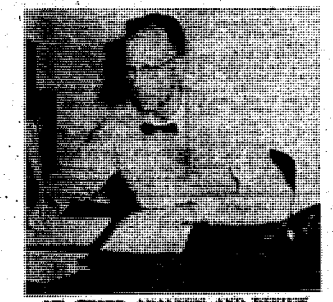
After students graduate and after they have worked in their next job from four to six months, they are again asked to comment on how well The School prepared them for their new assignment and what changes could be made in the program to prepare them better to do the job.

This student questionnaire program has proved to be valuable in the overall improvement of instruction.

While this section is primarily concerned with handling the questionnaires, preparing and giving tests, and developing new or better techniques of evaluation, it also acts as coordinating agency for the Office of the Director of Instruction in connection with data processing activities, MOS Proficiency Tests, and DA experimental studies conducted at the post.

MSgt Roy M. Griffin is the chief administrator for the section and supervises the preparation of statistical data and information for use by Mr. Thode and all instructional departments of The School. Sp4 William Morris assists in compiling statistical data by making graphic displays.

In its programs during FY '62, this section will prepare the equivalent of about 45 one-hour examinations from materials submitted by instructional departments, review the results of more than 1300 examinations, obtain written comments from approximately 4,000 resident students, and administer tests.



Sfc Leonard W. Blauvelt schedules and reviews reports of some 500 interdepartmental inspections of instruction throughout The School. In addition he processes the examination results prior to review by the chief of the section.

To efficiently use the data accumulated, this section makes constant use of the Univac Compiler at The Infantry School Data Processing Unit in compiling and analyzing its information. Pfc Walter M. Scott has the technical job of preparing computer programs which perform complex sorting and compiling of the data for the Analysis and Review Section.

The Analysis and Review Section was established in the Office of the Director of Instruction during 1953 with Lt. Col. Thomas Colkitt as its first chief.

Basic policies for the present examination program were set up under his guidance.

A civilian educational specialist, Mr. John R. Thode, was employed to fill this position in 1955. Under his supervisim the original policies and programs have been continued and further developed.

Jeani Johnson on Etiquette

DEAR JENNI: Exactly what is a tea? I thought I knew, but it seems any afternoon affair is a tea. Teas do not start before 4 p.m. do they? How can I tell what to wear and what to do at an affair that is held at the wrong time of day by the wrong name?

MRS. T.

DEAR MRS. T.,

A tea . . . I had to do some research on this one myself. First I read a recognized authority on civilian society do's and dont's — Emily Post.

She says afternoon teas without dancing start at 4 o'clock. A tea takes place during the cocktail hour and serves the same purpose of introducing newcomers or a special guest and is frequently for ladies only.

A casual tea may have a menu of punch and cookies served on trays or help yourself style.

At the formal tea the hostess actually makes the tea and pours it at the table laid with her best silver service, lighted candlelabra (which by the way are never used before 4 p.m.), and other beverages either hot or cold. There are all the variations between casual and formal of course.

Now for the military approach to tea. The Army Wife book echoes the above and adds some interesting notes on dress. Wear dressiest afternoon, (NOT cocktail) dress, a gay large or small hat, gloves, and carry a card case or small purse.

Move about and converse freely. Do not hesitate to introduce yourself to those standing near you. A half hour or at the most forty-five minutes is long enough to stay at a tea of this sort. Thank your hostess and say good-by to the guest of honor.

One calling card should be left for your hostess and one for the guest of honor on the appropriate card tray.

None of the above sounds like the large teas one is so often invited to at club facilities instead of the home. The so called teas may start as early as one o'clock, and no calling cards should be left. Otherwise the gathering appears to be a tea. There may even be a program.

My only suggestion is to forgive the ladies the misnomer, the affair is closer to a tea than anything else. If you are ever in charge of such an affair perhaps you could suggest it be called a sherry party, a coffee (which does not have to be in the morning), or a punch party.

But if a tea more nearly describes the gathering then call it a tea. Protocol is very relaxed from what it once was.

There are hatless ladies at parades, cocktail dresses at formal dinners, as well as teas at one o'clock. At least YOU know what is correct when the occasion demands it.

Farewells Said To Mrs. Haman At MOOM Coffee

Approximately 15 members of the 94th Transportation Company ladies group, Lawson Army Aviation Command, gathered at the Main Officers' Open Mess recently to bid farewell to Mrs. Jean Haman.

Hostesses for the coffee were Mrs. Ann Lane and Fay Nix.

Mrs. Haman was presented a silver platter as a going away present from the ladies.

Freudendorf Luncheon Honors Barbara Surles

Miss Surles will become the bride of Capt. John Francis Moran Jr., September 23.

The house was decorated with an arrangement of gladiolas and Chinese lamps on the mantle. On the bride's table, embroidered Swiss organdy place mats were used with an arrangement of white snapdragons, mums, and stock, centered with a silver ring motif.

Small white nosegays and Chinese linen clothes were used on the individual tables.

The hostess' gift to Miss Surles was an Army-Navy linen luncheon set. She was presented a white lily corsage.

Orientation Course Students Give Reception

A class reception to demonstrate proper arrangement and conduct of an official reception and to familiarize wives on official functions was given last week by Detachment 23, 2nd Student Battalion, The Student Brigade.

Col. Richard W. Keyes, deputy assistant commandant of The Infantry School; Col. Otho R. Koch Jr., brigade commander; and Lt. Col. Vern L. Joseph, 2nd battalion commander were guests.

Planned and organized by students, the reception provided a change of pace after five weeks of practical exercises and examinations.

Barbara Hare's Report Card...

As the middle of September approaches, the Class of 61, the new college freshmen, are leaving for colleges of their choice all over America. There they plan to continue their education and work toward their goals in life.

I hope that each person will have a safe trip and a good start in college life, REPORT CARD salutes them this week!

Future Nurses

Following their ambition in life to become a nurse, several girls are going to nursing schools. Among these are Mike Brickhouse, Kathy King, and Virginia Albert who are going to Saint Francis School of Nursing here in Columbus. Codi Sinclair has already gone to Newport News, Va., to Riverside Nursing School. Good luck girls as the nursing field needs you!

All Points

Going North! This is a familiar cry by two Benningites. Margaret McGraw and Jayne Ritchie are going to the University of Maryland.

The "Sunny South" also claims some for their college education. Sandra Taylor and Kathy Durham are heading for the University of Florida at Gainesville. Art Weinrich has already gone to West Palm Beach Junior College for his orientation.

Loyola University, located in New Orleans, is Judy Harrison's choice. John Swearingen, a newcomer from Germany, is going to The Citadel in Charleston. Clemson College also in South Carolina is Sam McDowell's choice. "Knoxville, here I come," says Cindy Brackett who is going to the University of Tennessee.

To Travel Far

Sue Bacharach, Jeanne Elstad, Mike Rozecki, and John Hassig have a long trip ahead of them. Susie is joining her friends in Pullman for a year at Washington State University. Jeanne is heading for cold weather and an education at North Dakota State University while Mike's idea is Muskingum College in Ohio. John, who is a transfer from Germany, is going to Millard's Military Academy in Oregon.

Georgia, home of Benning and many fine colleges and universities, was chosen by a number of our College Freshmen.

Attending the University of Georgia for their first year are Jerry Fiser and Mary Luckett. Marsha Heidt is calling Georgia State College for Women "home" this year. Jim Small is packed and ready to go to Georgia Tech in Atlanta. Mickey Bennett and Gary Engen are enrolled in North Georgia. Tracy Harrison, Maureen O'Connell, and Jerry Sonich are attending Columbus College.

Best Wishes

angry, hostile, or filled with self-pity because of it.

In the fourth place we can choose appropriate action. The man who is failing in his studies or his work needs to turn not to novels but to textbooks, not to the movie but to the library. Paul had the problem of extending the Church from Jerusalem to Rome. He succeeded because, knowing Christ, His ideals and principles, His mind and attitude—Paul took appropriate action and mapped out his campaign.

To take the fifth step we have to keep life simple enough to be able to manage it. We do this by eliminating the trivial and by keeping in mind our primary purpose and values.

Worth Repeating

"Our enemy would like us to think the blood has run so thin in our veins that we can no longer produce men who are willing to fight for freedom—but you and I know better than to believe it."—General Bruce C. Clark.

Infantry Magazine Out Today

The September October issue of Infantry Magazine, professional journal for Infantrymen published by The Infantry School, is scheduled to appear today.

Implementation of the new organization is expected to begin sometime after the first of calendar year 1962, officials said.

A new weapon, the portable, shoulder-fired anti-aircraft missile "Redeye," is described in the magazine.

Mobile task forces, battle group withdrawals, nuclear target analysis, passage of Infantry through Infantry, and simple means of avoiding radio-telephone violations are among the topics presented in the current edition of the magazine.

E-8 WEBB

He entered the service in 1944 at Fort McClellan, Ala., and received his basic training at Camp Blanding, Fla. After basic training he was immediately assigned to the 22nd Corps in Europe and remained with this unit until the War's end.

He was then reassigned to the 1st Medical Battalion of the 1st Infantry Division and remained there until July, 1946, when he returned to the States and Fort Bragg for discharge.

Upon discharge Sgt. Webb served in the Reserve until June, 1948, at which time he returned to active duty and was assigned to the 2nd Mobile Army Surgical Hospital at Fort Bragg.

His unit was ordered to Korea in December 1950, and remained through January, 1952. He returned to the United States on rotation and was reassigned to the station hospital at Fort Bragg.

Again in 1957 he was shipped overseas, this time with the 34th General Hospital. He was assigned to Martin Army Hospital in May 1960.

Sgt Webb lives on post with his wife, and three children.

65 Million Dollars For One Skyscraper

The world's tallest skyscraper, the 102-story Empire State Building was recently sold for 65 million dollars—24 million more than it cost to build 30 years ago. The building houses 20,000 workers. Each year, 1.5 million visitors go to its roof-top observatory, which commands a 50-mile view.

High School and College Classes to Begin Monday

High school and college level courses will be offered by the Infantry Center Education-al Development Section during the fall term which begins next Monday and ends Wednesday, November 15.

Off-duty classes will meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

High school English, general mathematics and beginning algebra are scheduled from 6:45 to 7:50 p.m. Electronics I class will be held from 6:30 to 7:50 p.m.

General science and second classes of English and general mathematics will meet from 8 to 9 p.m. Electronics II class will meet from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

College courses offered are American Government I, starting at 8 p.m., and Beginning Russian I which meets at 6:45 p.m.

High school courses offered during duty hours Tuesdays and Thursdays from September 12 to October 12 are general mathematics from 1 to 2:50 p.m. and English from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

College algebra will be taught from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. on the same days and dates.

Textbooks and materials are furnished by the Armed Forces Institute. There is no charge to the students, education officials stated.

Enrollments will be accepted up to the starting time of the first class, officials said.

Profile of a Man Doing a Man's Job

"Being Airborne has done more to make me a man than anything I could ever have done," says MSgt Hoson O. Webb, presently the senior parachutist on jump status at Fort Benning.

A member of The Infantry School's Airborne Air Mobility Department, Sgt Webb enlisted in the Army in 1937 at Roanoke, Va., and was sent directly to Carregidor in the Philippines for basic training. He stayed there until his return to the States in 1940.

When the request went out for volunteers to attend the first Airborne class at Fort Benning in 1940, he literally "jumped" at the chance and qualified in March, 1941.

During WW II, he saw action with the 501st Battalion, later re-named 2nd Battalion, 503rd Airborne Regiment, in Panama, Australia and New Guinea. He made a combat jump at Markham Valley, Nadzab, New Guinea.

Most of his service time has been spent at Fort Benning as Instructor in the Airborne Department; tactical NCO at the Advanced NCO course; and with the drill section of 1st Infantry Brigade.

In his present job as platoon sergeant of the Jump Subcommittee of the Airborne Department, he is responsible for harnessing up students prior to jumps, providing jumpmasters and safety NCO's for planes plus other details.

His advice to young Soldiers? "Go Airborne!"

TV Fans Overseas Can Learn English

Cpl. Hartford Named S-O-M For August

23rd Man Keeps Honor in His Unit

By 23rd Inf PIO

Corporal Roy L. Hartford of Combat Support Company, 23rd Infantry, was recently named the 2nd Infantry Division's "Soldier-of-the-Month" for August.

It made the third consecutive month that a 23rd Infantry man has won the title. Those before Cpl. Hartford were Sergeants Joseph Kinzer and Wilmer Nelson.

The 23rd Infantry Soldier first entered the Army from his home state of Virginia in 1949, received his basic training at Fort Knox, Kentucky and shortly thereafter entered the Korean fighting with the 1st Cavalry Division. Cpl. Hartford remained in Korea through December, 1961, at which time he returned to the United States and was discharged.

He enlisted in the Army a second time in February, 1961, and stated he intended to "remain for a career."

Actors Guild Organized For Division Thespians

By Div PIO

A new organization for budding thespians has been formed within the 2nd Infantry Division for Indianhead members and their dependents interested in any phase of theater work. The new group, called the Sand Hill Actors Guild, is sponsored by Service Club Two and is under the direction of Miss Madeline J. Parks, Club Director.

Chairman of the Guild and director for the next production is Specialist Four John J. Wasinda, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 2nd Infantry Division.

Specialist Wasinda, a native of Wilkes-Barre, Penna., has many show credits to his experience with three theater groups. These are the Wilkes-Barre Little Theatre, the King's Players and the Pocono Play House.

The Guild had its first meeting last week and the objectives of the unit were spelled out by Miss Parks. The main objective will be to present plays to division audiences.

Other goals of the Guild include a Theatre Workshop which will handle sessions in all phases of theater production such as lighting, prop construction, scene design, directing and acting.

Present plans call for a play to be selected in the near future with production dates set for the latter part of October. The Guild is open to all 2nd Division members, their dependents and civilians working at Fort Benning.

Regular meetings of the Guild have been set for each Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Service Club Two. Meetings will start at 7:30 p.m. for each session.

Past successes for Service Club Two in the world of theater include "Standing Room Only" performances of "My Three Angels," "Three Men on a Horse," "The Gambler's Deal or Love Was in the Cards," "The Tender Trap," "Hatful of Rain" and "At War With the Army."

Division Tankers Will Return To Fort Stewart For Bn. Firing

By 69th Armor PIO

The officers and men of the 2nd Medium Tank Battalion, 69th Armor, will soon make their second journey within three months to Fort Stewart, Georgia, to utilize the tank firing facilities located there.

The battalion made its annual trip to Fort Stewart in June of this year to qualify the recently reorganized tank crews of the unit.

The trip in June was the most successful gunnery program for the battalion. Through coordination and team work the battalion fired in record time and qualified the maximum number of people.

The highlight of the firing was the record of a perfect score on Table VIII B, the last night firing course, by Staff Sergeant Clement Palko and his crew of Company D.

The smoothness of operation of the 69th won the praise of range control personnel at Fort Stewart and the Fort Stewart Headquarters.

The division tankers will leave by motor convoy during the latter part of September and will return to Fort Benning in early October.

Service Clubs have been known by countless Soldiers around the world as isolated posts and at stateside installations as just the place to go for peace and quiet after the strain of duty hours.

But, last Saturday, the patrons of Service Club Two in Sand Hill were indeed shocked by such non-peaceful sounds as grunts and groans coupled with the thump-bump of falling bodies.

Third Army Chaplain Speaker at Dedication

By Dave Harrell

Chaplain (Colonel) Harold H. Schulz, Third Army Chaplain from Fort McPherson in Atlanta, Georgia, will be the guest speaker at dedication ceremonies of the new Chapel at Kelley Hill.

A reception will follow the ceremonies which are scheduled to get underway at 3 p.m. September 10.

Chaplain (Captain) Robert C. Young, 87th Infantry chaplain, said members of all faiths would participate in the dedication exercises. Expected to attend the services will be Major General Charles H. Chase, commander of the 2nd Infantry Division, other 2nd Division officers, and members of the chaplains section of Fort Benning and the 2nd Infantry Division.

A combined choir from Kelley Hill Chapels will furnish music for the event with the special music being "Now Thank We All Our God."

The chapel, recently completed, will seat 300 persons and has facilities for a large choir. It consists of a nave section, office space for two Chaplains and their assistants, a choir room, a Sacrament room, a sacristy, a confessional and restroom facilities.

The entire building is air conditioned against summer heat and has a central heating system for the winter months.

First services in the new sanctuary will be held September 17. Catholic Masses will be held at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. and Protestant services are scheduled for 9 and 11 a.m. each Sunday.

Col. Kunzig Back; Heads 23rd Infantry

Ceremony Held At Theater Six

The 23rd Infantry observed a change of command ceremony Tuesday. The colorful event — slated for Knight Field — was held in Theater Number Six due to inclement weather. In the ceremony, unit commander Lieutenant Colonel R. G. Holton Jr. relinquished his command to Colonel Lollis A. Kunzig.

Col. Kunzig, who previously commanded the 23rd, returned to Fort Benning recently after a five-month temporary duty assignment in Washington, D.C.

Col. Holton has been named deputy commanding officer of the 1st Infantry at Kelley Hill.

In his farewell address, Col. Holton said he would always remember his assignment with the 23rd as one of the finest in his career. Col. Kunzig said he was glad to be back with the "We Serve" unit and pointed out that the 23rd's new responsibility to the country, since it is now a TOSE outfit.

He added that under its intensified training program the 23rd will soon be ready for any assignment.

Units Submit AER Total: $13,252

The 2nd Division realized 91 per cent of its allotted goal in the Army Emergency Relief fund drive which ended recently.

As the drive ended, eight units exceeded their allotted goals. These were the 9th Infantry, 87th Infantry, 69th Armor, 7th Cavalry, 2nd Engineer Battalion, 122nd Signal Battalion, 2nd Aviation Company, and Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Division.

The 11th Infantry contributed $1,244.25. The 23rd Infantry turned in $1,539.65. Division Artillery accounted for $2,184.11 and Division Trains contributed $1,281.45.

Money collected by the division is being forwarded directly to Army Emergency Relief headquarters at Department of the Army, Washington.

The local funds for Army Emergency Relief are maintained at a certain set amount. Should funds run short, headquarters of the AER re-supplies out of the money collected in such drives as the one that has just terminated.

The $13,252.62 donated by members of the 2nd Division will be contributed throughout the world wherever Army personnel are in need of emergency funds.

15-Day Leave Becomes Trek For Chaplain

By 11th Inf. PIO

Chaplain Frank E. Deese, 11th Infantry Protestant Chaplain, recently returned from a 15-day leave during which he attended the Southern Baptist Chaplains Conference at Ridgecrest, North Carolina.

In all, Chaplain Deese traveled throughout the entire state of North Carolina covering nearly 2,000 miles during his leave, visiting Ellerby and Wingate, N. C.

At Ellerby, Chaplain Deese married a young couple in the First Baptist Church, a former pastorate, and Sunday, August 27, he delivered a sermon at Wingate where he once was a college student.

Although his schedule was a busy one, Chaplain Deese took the time to enjoy plenty of good home cooking and brought back a few additional pounds to prove it.

9 Men Honored At First Infantry

By 1st Inf PIO

One officer and eight enlisted men were honored at an awards ceremony during a battle group parade held by the 1st Infantry recently.

The awards, seven Army Commendation Medals and two Certificates of Achievement, were presented by Colonel Walter B. Todd, commanding officer of the 1st Infantry.

Commander of Troops

Commander of Troops for the event was Lieutenant Colonel Charles F. Austin, deputy battle group commander.

Colonel Todd, addressing the officers and men of the 1st Infantry, said, "I'd like to take this opportunity to express my congratulations to those who are being decorated today. It is a personal pleasure to make this presentation. It is a great honor to receive persons of their caliber in this battle group."

Men receiving Army Commendation Medals and Oak Leaf Clusters included:

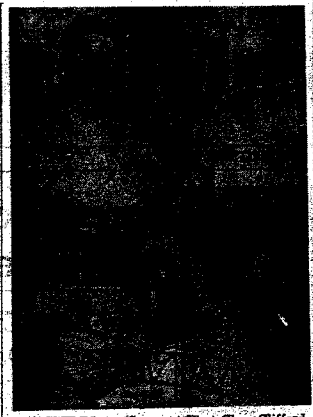
Lieutenant Richard B. Caravana, Army Commendation Medal, for performance of meritorious service as an instructor, Mechanical Training Committee, Ground Mobility Department, United States Army Infantry School.

First Sergeant Joseph N. Volker Jr., Army Commendation Medal, for service with Company C, of the division's 23rd Infantry.

First Sergeant Wilson R. Mosier, first Oak Leaf Cluster, for meritorious service as First Sergeant, Combat Support Company, 2nd Battle Group, 13th Infantry, Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

Master Sergeant Alfred Williams, Army Commendation Medal, for his ability as First Sergeant, First Enlisted Student Company, United States Army Aviation School Regiment, Fort Rucker, Alabama.

Master Sergeant John E. Meeker, Army Commendation Medal, for meritorious service as an instructor and Combat Construction Foreman, Engineer Committee, Command and Staff Department, United States Army Infantry School.



Sergeant First Class William D. Simpson, first Oak Leaf Cluster, for meritorious service while assigned as Chief, Classification and Assignment Unit and as Chief Clerk, Enlisted Branch, Reserve, Personnel Division, XII United States Army Corps, Atlanta, Georgia.

Sergeant First Class Otis Nantz, Army Commendation Medal, for his service as Operations NCO, Officer Student Detachment, United States Army Aviation School Regiment, U. S. Army Aviation School, Fort Rucker, Alabama.

Receiving Certificates of Achievement were:

Master Sergeant Rafael M. Chavez, for his service as Battalion Maintenance Inspector with the 7th Transportation (Truck) Battalion, 101st Airborne Division, Fort Campbell, Kentucky.

Specialist Four Harmon C. Garrett for performance of exemplary service while assigned as a teletype operator, at Headquarters, XII United States Army Corps, Atlanta, Georgia

Top Div NCOs Attend Greeting for Chiefs

By Div PIO

Over 100 senior non-commissioned officers and their wives welcomed the new commanding general of the 2nd Infantry Division Monday evening at the 2nd Division Non-Commissioned Officers Open Mess with a reception and social hour.

Commencing with a receiving line at 7:00 p.m. in the main ballroom of the NCO Club, Sergeant Major Robert L. Brown, the division sergeant major, introduced each of the senior non-coms and their wives to Major General Charles H. Chase, division commanding general.

Also in the receiving line were the Assistant Division Commander, Brigadier General Royal Reynolds, Jr., and Mrs. Reynolds.

Sergeant majors and first sergeants from all division units then walked through the line extending a welcome to the division's chiefs. Although many of the non-coms were attired in tropical worsted uniforms, some attended the function in the summer white uniform, colorful with its brilliant yellow markings denoting rank and time in service hash marks.

Sergeant Brown, speaking for all the non-commissioned officers of the division, officially extended the welcome to General Chase and General Reynolds.

Engineer Battalion Honors Commander Upon Departure For Post Assignment

By 2nd Engr. PIO

The 2nd Engineer Battalion passed in review Tuesday, to honor the departure of Lieutenant Colonel A. L. Parsons Jr. Major James B. Rogers, Commander of Troops, accompanied the departing officer as they trooped the line during the farewell ceremonies.

Reassigned Here

Lt. Col. Parsons has been reassigned to the Engineer Committee, United States Army Infantry Center, here.

Lt. Col. Parsons spoke briefly to the assembled troops saying, "This has been a great outfit for 100 years," and expressing the pleasure he has known to have served with the men of his command.

Captain Robert R. Farr, formerly battalion S-2 intelligence officer, received the Army Commendation Medal (with First Oak Leaf Cluster), and Lieutenant Charles R. Kesterson, Company B, was commended on his outstanding efforts while serving with the 2nd Engineer Battalion.

In awarding the Army Commendation Medal to Captain Farr, the assembled troops and guests of the battalion were informed that ". . . his display of professional knowledge, initiative, and competence earned the respect and admiration of all with whom he served." Captain Farr departs for a new assignment in Korea.

There were many guests in attendance at the ceremonies. The 2nd Division Band concluded the program with a rendition of "Auld Lang Syne."

Re-assignment

Captain Johnnie J. Wright of the S-3 (Training and Operations) 2nd Medium Tank Battalion, 69th Armor has completed his prescribed ground duty, and has been reassigned to 2nd Infantry Division, 2nd Aviation Company.

Captain Wright joined the 69th Armor in August 1960 following a tour of duty in Korea.

By 122nd Signal Bn

Major John J. Petorock was promoted to his present rank on August 30 in ceremonies held by the Battalion Commander, Major Herbert W. Coburn.

Major Petorock will assume the duties of S-3 (Training and Operations) effective with his promotion. Previous to his promotion, Major Petorock functioned as Assistant Division Signal Officer.

Prior to his coming to the Battalion, Major Petorock served as S-3 with the 304th Signal Battalion in Korea. Assistant Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of Tennessee, and the 97th Signal Battalion, Buebling, Germany.

Major Petorock was graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Tennessee where he majored in Latin and Greek.

Major Petorock resides with his wife, Betty, and children, Janice, Annette, and Michael at 304 Austin Loop, Fort Benning, Georgia.

Bozard Gets S-Maj. Post At Eng. Bn.

By 2nd Engineer Bn

Sergeant Major Johnny R. Bozard has assumed duties as Sergeant Major of the 2nd Engineer Battalion succeeding Sergeant Major Eugene C. Crawford who departed early in August for a new assignment in Germany.

Sergeant Major Bozard comes to the Battalion from a tour of duty in Korea, where he served as Chief Clerk of the Engineer Section, Headquarters I Corps (Group), from July of 1960 until August of this year.

Preceeding his Korean tour, Sergeant Major Bozard, in April of 1955, was assigned to the 151st Engineer Group as Operations NCO at Fort Benning.

Capt. Weissman Reports to 9th As Medic Leader

By 9th Inf PIO

Two members of the 9th Infantry met an old friend, or at least a past acquaintance, last week when Captain Joynas Weissman reported to the 9th's Personnel Section as part of his check-in process.

Privates First Class James Bowers and Exley O. Heath, assigned to the Personnel Section with the 9th, recalled Captain Weissman as the medical officer who examined them when they first entered the Army.

The soldiers reported to the Army Recruiting Office in their home town of Jacksonville, Florida, for medical examination prior to their Army service. The doctor passed them both as physically qualified for the Army.

Captain Weissman reported to the 9th Infantry last week to succeed Captain Samuel J. Segal as the medical platoon leader for the 9th.

Generals Attend Gala Reception

Officers, ladies and special guests of 69th Armor were entertained recently at a Battalion Organization Day party held at the Main Officers Open Mess.

Guests arriving for the reception at 7 p.m. were greeted by honored guests, Major General Charles H. Chase, division commander, Brigadier General Royal Reynolds Jr., assistant division commander, Mrs. Reynolds, Lieutenant Colonel Harry H. Hiestand, battalion commander, and Mrs. Hiestand.

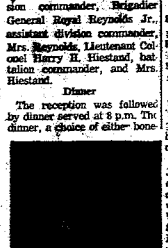
Dinner

The reception was followed by dinner served at 8 p.m. The dinner, a choice of either boneless chicken or lobster, was accompanied by music provided by Master Sergeant Frank Hardin on the club organ.

The division's first lady, Mrs. Reynolds, wore a flowing bell gown of turquoise chiffon. Mrs. Hiestand received her guests in a black lace evening gown. Both ladies received lavender orchid corsages.

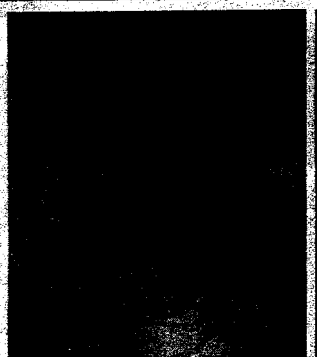
Decorations at the club included a tank replica and tables were set in yellow with gladioli and carnations at the head table offset with yellow candles.

Following the dinner Mrs. J. J. Wright and Mrs. M. D. Baker were presented with scrolls commemorating their tour with the battalion. Captain Wright has been assigned to the 2nd Aviation Company and Lieutenant Baker will soon depart for an overseas tour. Both ladies were presented lavender orchid corsages. Carnation corsages were given to each battalion lady.



New Members

New members of 69th Armor acknowledged were Lieutenant and Mrs. Julian C. Simerly Jr., and Warrant Officer and Mrs. James V. Burns. Mr. Burns was assigned to the 1st Infantry but joined 69th Armor this week as the new personnel officer.



Former members of the battalion who attended were Captain and Mrs. Walter D. Hall and Captain and Mrs. Abraham Moscari.

Lieutenant Colonel Hiestand made the presentation of scrolls to the Mesdames Wright and Baker, after which he introduced and welcomed new members of the battalion. He went on to review the history of the battalion for the benefit of the new arrivals.

Also invited to the reception and dinner but unable to attend were Colonel and Mrs. Gustav M. Bacharach.

Col. Kunzig, Lt. Col. Holton Both Honored by 23rd

A joint Welcome Home—Farewell party was held Sunday night on the East Porch of the Main Officers Open Mess for the officers and ladies of the 23rd Infantry.

Honored that evening were Colonel Louis A. Kunzig Jr., returning from Washington, D. C. to resume command of the 23rd, and Lieutenant Colonel R. G. Holton Jr., who commanded the 23rd during Col. Kunzig's absence.

Col. Holton leaves soon for duty as deputy commander of the 1st Infantry.

Guests

Special guests were Major General Charles H. Chase, division commander, Brigadier General Royal Reynolds Jr., assistant division commander, and Mrs. Reynolds.

Officers and ladies of the 23rd Infantry were introduced to Mrs. Reynolds who wore a light blue sheath with square neck.

Mrs. Kunzig's gown, also a sheath, was of fan linen with scoop neck and white re-embroidered lace flowers appliqued down the left side.

The evening included a reception and buffet. Table settings were in pink and gladioli with matching pink tapers enhanced the buffet table.

Highlighting the evening were two presentations to Colonel Holton. A picture scrapbook featuring activities in the 23rd during his command was given by the unit's officers and men. A scroll signed by all the officers also was given, stating their appreciation for his leadership in the 23rd.

Tea Welcomes Mrs. H. Coburn

Mrs. Herbert W. Coburn, wife of Major Herbert W. Coburn, new commanding officer of the 122nd Signal Battalion, was welcomed recently by the ladies of the battalion at a tea on the South Porch of the Main Officers Open Mess.

Mrs. Charles F. Nietman was hostess and Mrs. John J. Petorock poured the coffee.

The serving table was centered with an arrangement of gladi, snapdragons, and mums.

HONORED
Mrs. H. Coburn

Officers Wives Extend a Greeting

The 2nd Division is fortunate to have a gracious "first lady" who follows the "Second To None" tradition.

Mrs. Royal Reynolds Jr., wife of Brigadier General Royal Reynolds Jr., assistant division commander, is an active, vital woman with a wide range of interests and experiences.

England

Born and educated in London, England, she remained there throughout World War II working in tele-communications. During the evening, she was a volunteer fire-fighter and received the George Medal for her efforts.

ACTIVE, VITAL
Mrs. R. Reynolds Jr.

After the war, she traveled to Washington, D. C. and was naturalized as a citizen in Virginia. It was in Washington that she met and married General Reynolds. She remained there while her husband completed a four of duty in Korea and in his absence was active in the Army Intelligence Club.

Later, while in Madrid, Spain, where General Reynolds served for more than two years, Mrs. Reynolds served as vice-president of the American Woman's Club.

Her interests include needlework, dress designing, and tennis.

With this varied background, Mrs. Reynolds will be a wonderful addition to our post. We welcome her and hope that her stay here will prove to be a happy one.

WO, Mrs. Nunnally Honored at Close Of Army Career

Captain and Mrs. George E. Hill recently entertained the staff and S-4 section officers and wives of the 23rd Infantry.

The informal get-together was held in honor of Warrant Officer and Mrs. Otis Nunnally.

Punch was served from a table covered by a green cloth. Green candles in silver candlestick holders graced the table.

Mr. Nunnally retired this week after twenty year's service. He was with the S-4 section of the 23rd Infantry.

Trainfire Course Fired By Engineers

By GEORGE HORD

Sure you can hit that little black circle while propped on your elbows in a prone position with a tight loop sling. But can you KO your opponent on the battlefield while kneeling behind a small stump being used for cover?

This problem was answered last week by Headquarters Company of the 2nd Engineer Battalion as it fired the trainfire course on Malone Range Number 12.

Some 125 men fired the course in eight 16-man orders, beginning with the task of knocking down pop-up targets fired upon from foxhole positions.

As the Engineers fired four full clips of ammunition, the time the target was before them increased with an increase in range.

Next, they moved out from their dug-in positions and fired three more clips from such unsupported positions as standing, kneeling and squatting.

Each man fired the course twice, once in the morning and again later that afternoon, to acquire his final record score.

While waiting for their turn on the points, the men of the engineer company were given concurrent training in the care and cleaning of their weapon, rifle positions, and proper trigger squeeze.

Behind each firer was an assistant instructor whose main respinsibility was to keep the firer's score and to check his weapon. The AI also had the additional duty of informing the range control tower if his point was safe for firing by the order.

This was done by waving a white paddle for "safe" or a red paddle for "unsafe."

Firing the trainfire course requires that the men go through three areas associated with marksmanship.

First, is the orientation area where they are briefed on points, the targets they are to fire upon and target detection.

Next they proceed to a ready area as the next order to fire. Here a check is made to determine if the sight of the rifle is blackened and if the gas cylinder locking screw is tight.

After firing the course, they proceed to a retired area, where they turn in score cards and run patches down the barrels of the M-1's.

Supervising the activities in these areas is a non-commissioned officer.

Other supervisory and tactical personnel required for the operation of the trainfire course include a range officer, a tower control officer, three safety officers or NCO's, a target control operator and such ordnance personnel as two target repairmen, two ammunition NCO's and an armorer.

Career

will be 14.

Competition on division level will be extremely keen with written examinations slated for military courtesy, intelligence, code of conduct, first aid, interior guard, military justice, dismounted drill, map reading, communications and field sanitation.

As part of the testing each candidate will be assigned a subject and be required to prepare and present a 30-minute period of classroom instruction.

Other testing will include appearances before the Division Selection Board for an overall evaluation. Here only current events subjects will be discussed with the candidate and he is expected to have a well-rounded information knowledge of the current news topics.

Further announcements on times of testing, place and uniform for these tests will be announced by the Division Selection Board. Last year's winner of the stiff competitive program was Sergeant First Class Richard B. Alford of the 9th Infantry.

Gets Top Honors In Comm. Course

Private John A. Slaughter, assigned as a fire control computer with Company B, recently finished the battle group communications course with top honors.

Refresher Course Set On Commo

A subject letter to all major unit commands from 2nd Infantry Headquarters last week announced a refresher training course for communications personnel which is scheduled to get underway September 11.

The 122nd Signal Battalion will conduct the course which will consist of training in CW (Morse Code) Code, teletype operation and cryptography.

The course is scheduled to continue through October 6 and will be conducted in facilities made available to the Division by the Communications Department, United States Army Infantry School.

The letter said noon meals will be furnished by the 2nd Aviation Company but personnel not on separate rations must have a valid meal card.

Instructors for the course will be furnished by the 122nd Signal Battalion and will consist of selected individuals from other units of the Division.

Classes

serenity turned out to be the first session of a new program schedulled for Saturday afternoons at the Club. What it was was Judo, the manly art of self-defense. It was!

Some 35 novices turned out for the initial session and learned some of the Judo basics under the watchful eye of mentor Captain M. G. Stafford of the 69th Armor.

Captain Stafford gave an exhibition last month at the Club and the response for more of the same from Indianhead members was so great that Miss Madeline J. Parks, Club Director, arranged for regular sessions.

Aids furnished by Special Services of the U. S. Army Infantry Center keep the self-defense enthusiasts from sustaining injuries.

Meeting each Saturday afternoon from two to four, Captain Stafford will instruct on the basics of Judo with the assistance of Mr. Marcel Caries of Columbus. Mr. Caries holds a second degree of the famed Black Belt in Judo.

Div Golf Play Ended

By Chuck Foster

A major, first lieutenant, sergeant major and a private were the four winners in the 2nd Infantry Division Golf Tournament which ended Tuesday. Although the scores in most instances were bunched, only one tie resulted and a playoff will be held at a later date.

Major Charles M. Bolen of Headquarters Company, 23rd Infantry fired a four-round total of 286 to take scoring honors in Flight B of the tourney. He covered the 18-hole Pine Side of the Main Officers Open Mess Golf Course with rounds of 70-69-71-76 for his two-under-par total.

Score Knotted

Major J. A. Burns of Division Headquarters and Major J. W. Roush of the 2nd Aviation Company ended in a dead heat and are tied for runnerup honors in Flight B. Both fired a four-over-par 292.

After three rounds Maj. Roush had a six-stroke advantage. In the fourth round he fired a three-over-par 75 while Maj. Burns was shooting a three-under-par 69 and the four round total ended in a tie.

First Lieutenant T. W. Parker of Combat Support Company, 23rd Infantry shot a nine-under-par 279 in posting the best score of the tournament and winning in Flight C competition.

1Lt. Parker blistered the greens with rounds of 73-68-68-70 which was easily good enough to take low-scoring honors. First Lieutenant A. Roschon of Headquarters Battery, 38th Artillery, was the runnerup in Flight C with a four-round total of 300.

Sergeant Major Ralph B. Patterson of Division Trains Headquarters took scoring honors in the Senior Division. He nudged out Colonel S. L. Harding of Division Artillery Headquarters by only three strokes.

Wins on Fourth

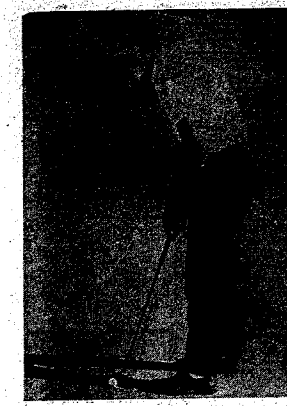
At the end of the third round, Col. Harding and Sgt. Patterson owned identical scores of 257. In the final rounds, however, Sgt. Patterson turned in an 85 while Col. Harding posted an 88. The final score was Sgt. Patterson, 342, and Col. Harding, the runnerup, 345.

Private Donald A. Morano of Company D, 87th Infantry, just beat the tournament deadline as well as fellow competitors in the Open Division to be the winner in that division.

He shot his final two rounds on the last day of the tournament and his four round total of 307 was good enough to win against his closest competitors.

The 87th Infantry soldier posted rounds of 73-79-76-79 in beating out Major J. J. Sokolowski of 37th Artillery Headquarters. Maj. Sokolowski turned in a final score of 314 to take runnerup honors.

Other tournament score totals are:



Senior Division — Lieutenant Colonel B. Sergent of Division Headquarters, 359, and Major H. T. Hannon of 38th Artillery Headquarters, 371.

Open Division — Sergeant First Class W. H. Morrow of Headquarters Company, 122nd Signal Battalion, 317; Captain J. J. Smith of Division Headquarters, 319; Private J. A. Slaughter of Company B, 87th Infantry, 335; and Captain J. D. Crowley of Headquarters Company, 23rd Infantry, 336.

Flight B

Flight B—Major E. C. Miller of 7th Cavalry Headquarters, 298; Captain T. W. Valenteen of 37th Artillery Headquarters, 299; Captain E. D. Rozecki of 38th Artillery Headquarters, 322; and Chief Warrant Officer J. R. Gorum of 17th Artillery Headquarters, 330.

Busby Finishes Ninth at 3rd Army Tourney

By Div PIO

A 25-year-old 9th Infantry golfer placed ninth and helped the Fort Benning golf team to a fourth place finish in the Third Army Golf Tournament held last week at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Brice Busby, a clerk typist at Sand Hill Infirmary No. 3 in the 9th Infantry area, shot a 72-hole total of 309 to take ninth place in the tournament which featured the Third Army's top golfers.

The local post team, made up of Lieutenant Colonel George Hardgrove, career course director at the Infantry School; Major Robert Himes, instructor in logistics at the Infantry School; Captain Richard Reish, operations officer of the Combat Development Office on Main Post; and Busby, placed fourth. The Fort Campbell, Ky. team took first place.

Scores soared during the four-day tournament which got underway July 28. Busby said the scores were definitely higher than last year's tourney scores.

He attributed the difficulty in putting the ball in the cup to the greens. The young golfer said the ball broke sharply and during the course of the tournament he had to three-putt several times. He described the greens as the toughest he'd ever played on.

Busby shot rounds of 82-72-75-80 in posting his 309 total over the 18-hole course whose holes are named after generals of the War Between the States.

Prominent among these names are Generals Robert E. Lee (12), Stonewall Jackson (3), Jeb Stuart (5), Ulysses S. Grant (1), Phil Sheridan (2) and William T. Sherman (17).

The tournament was conducted on both individual and team levels. The golfer's entire four rounds gave him his individual score and his first three rounds were added to the three rounds of each of the other team members' to determine the team score.

Lt. Col. Hardgrove, Maj. Himes, Capt. Reish and PFC Busby won the right to represent Fort Benning in the Fort Jackson tournament by being the four top finishers in the Fort Benning Open Golf Tournement held here in early July.

Cross Country Team Tryouts Slated Saturday

By 97th Inf PIO

Approximately 50 determined men from the 97th Infantry will wait for the gun which will trigger competition to determine who will represent the 97th Infantry in the Division Cross Country Championships.

Tryouts for this unit team will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow. About 15 (??) minutes and three miles after the report of the gun is heard, a six-man team will be formed to represent the 97th Infantry in the Division Run scheduled September 20.

Cross country is considered one of the most thankless sports in existence. The only requirement is a set of strong legs and lots of determination and stamina. Not much of a spectator sport, the only compensation is a personal satisfaction in running longer and faster than the next man.

Battle group teams must be submitted to Division Special Services no later than September 15. The final division run will be held on Sept. 20. Awards will be given.

Division Trains Fighters Take Five On Labor Day Boxing Card

By Div PIO

Division Trains boxers were winners in five of seven bouts on a special Labor Day boxing card held at Briant Wells Field House Monday night.

One Trains fighter won by a TKO and another lost by the same medium in a nine-bout exhibition which saw the rest of the bouts go the distance.

Light heavyweight Melvin Lonas of Division Trains defeated 29th Infantry's Robert Simmons in 1:20 of the third round on a technical knockout. James Harris of the 151st Engineers won on a TKO over lightweight Chesley Lockett of Division Trains in 1:25 of the first round. The remainder of the fights ended in decisions.

The results in other bouts were:

Light Welterweight — James Middleton of 10th Artillery, defeated Eugene Bass of the 29th Infantry; Tibor Gondocs of the 58th ARB beat Amos Waters of the 29th Infantry; James Johnson of Division Trains outfought Charles Colbert of the 29th Infantry; and Robert Richter of Division Trains was victorious over Charles Allen of the 29th Infantry.

Heavyweight — Amos Crumbley of Division Trains defeated Jimmy Berry of the 29th Infantry.

Sergeant Larry Jones, boxing instructor at Roland Wells Field House, said the next boxing card will feature nine bouts and will be held at Briant Wells Field House on Main Post September 14.

On the card will be:

Lightweights — James Johnson of Division Trains vs Eugene Bass of the 29th Infantry and Chesley Lockett of Division Trains vs James Harris of 151st Engineers.

Light Welterweights—Charles Zewling of 10th Artillery vs Oscard Hardman of Division Trains.

Welterweights — Amos Waters of the 29th Infantry vs Bobby Rose of 151st Engineers; Tibor Gondocs of 58th ARB vs Frank Wingate of Division Trains; Elmer Spencer of 58th ARB vs Joe Smith of the 29th Infantry; Fred Rutherford of Division Trains vs Charles Allen of the 29th Infantry; and Booker T. Anderson of Division Trains vs Howard Fields of 10th Artillery.

Good Experience, Says Bowler of Tournament

By Div PIO

Don Cattalani of the 2nd Administration Company returned to his unit this week after participating in the 700 Club of the South Tournament in Atlanta. He summed up the occasion by saying it was "good experience."

The young 2nd Division bowler rolled 10 games for an average of 191 but that score, higher than some amateur bowlers ever reach, wasn't good enough to qualify him for the finals.

More than 100 of the finest and most experienced bowlers in the South and Southwest were on hand for the tournament which is one of the largest bowling attractions in this portion of the country.

Only eight of these, however, reached the finals and their 10-game qualifying averages were well over 200. The three-day tournament, held at the famous Triangle Lanes in East Point, Ga., a suburb of Atlanta, had two women entrants.

Both were Floridians. Evelyn Teal of Miami and Judy Murray, a 17-year-old bowling sensation, of West Palm Beach both failed to qualify for the finals.

However, Cattalani said both bowled well and posted better scores than some of the men.

In order to qualify for the tournament, a bowler had to have a sanctioned 700 series. A 700 series is a three-game set whose total scores add up to 700 or more.

Don has rolled a number of 700 series but his most recent came only a few weeks ago in Columbus. He turned in a three-game total of 727 at the Baker Village Bowling Center to post one of the highest scores ever made at the Columbus lanes.

Mr. Johnson Is 1st Inf Loop Head

By 1st Inf PIO

Warrant Officer William B. Johnson of 1st Infantry Headquarters last week was named president of the unit's bowling league.

The announcement was made following an organizational meeting of the league. The league will be composed of seven company teams and an officers' team.

Other officers chosen at the meeting were Sergeant First Class Harmon O. Crouch of Combat Support Company, vice president; and Sergeant Marion W. Adcock, also of Combat Support Company, secretary - treasurer.

League competition will be divided into two sessions. The first half of play began yesterday and will end December 14. One game will be played each week for 15 weeks. The dates for the second session have not been decided as yet.

The games will be rolled at the Sand Hill Bowling Alley each Thursday at 6 p.m. Trophies will be presented to the two top teams at the end of league competition and to individuals with high game and high series.

Div Trains In League's Second Slot

About 1,000 fans watched the 2nd Infantry Division Trains capture second place in the Major Unit Boxing program from the 58th Infantry during an eight bout card Labor Day at Briant Wells Field House.

Leading the units with 126 points is 29th Infantry. 2nd Division Trains has 93 and 58th Infantry has 74.

10th Artillery, 51, 151st Engineers, 42, and The Student Brigade and CTC each have one point.

Fights are held in three classes of competition. Class one for more experienced fighters, class two for less experienced and class three for men with little or no boxing experience.

CTC Wins Post Level; Goes To Third Army

By Sgt Joe Kechera

Company A, Infantry Center Troop Command, won the post softball crown last Wednesday with a doubleheader victory over Headquarters Co., The Student Brigade, by scores of 2-0 and 8-1 at WAC field.

Warren A. Paulk received credit for both victories. The first game of the night was the most outstanding for the CTC hurler, as he tossed a neat one-hit shutout. Paulk also turned in a fine performance in the second game, going the route, holding the opposition to one run. John Temple lost both games.

In the seventh inning of the first game, Jim Ritchea led off for CTC with a home run. Ken McCoy next rapped a single. Paulk connected for a two-base hit to drive in the second run.

The first game win for CTC evened out the loss record at one game, each and forced them into a second game playoff.

In the nightcap, CTC notched the championship.

They jumped into the lead in the second when, with two outs, Paulk cracked out a single with bases loaded for two runs. TSB managed to push one run across in the second.

Temple reached first on an error and George Taylor bunted, arriving at first safe on a wild throw while Temple went to third. Don Kreeman fanned. Taylor attempted to steal second with Temple scoring in the steal. Taylor was out at second.

In the third, Bill Mallory, CTC, rapped out a single, Bob Gallagher reached first on a walk and Ritchea hit into a fielder's choice but got to first safely on an error, with Mallory moving to third and Gallagher to second.

Ray Shrump hit into a fielder's choice and an error allowed two runs to cross. Emery Wise flew out to deep center field. Ritchea came home and Monty Smith clubbed a single to bring Shrump across with the sixth run of the game.

In the seventh, Smith led off with a walk followed by Mark Nile's single and an error which brought Smith all the way around to score. Paulk struck out, McCoy doubled and Mallory grounded out to second with McCoy going to third and later scoring on an error.

These two wins gave CTC the right to represent the post in the Third Army Softball Tournament at Fort Jackson, September 11 to 15.

This Amazing World

Is the present day baseball livelier than that used ten years ago?

This is an interesting question and one upon which no one seems to agree.

Recently a Bayonet staff writer questioned a local sports authority about this. The man thought there was no great difference. And he was not alone in his thinking for many people believe the same thing.

But scientific tests made by Joseph S. Ward and Associates, using 1952, 1953 and 1961 baseballs, and reported in Sports Illustrated magazine, showed that the average 1961 Spalding made baseball bounces higher, is firmer and weighs more — even more than baseball rules allow.

MORE 'BOUNCE'

In a resiliency test the balls were dropped from a 26 foot eight inch high platform onto a concrete imbedded steel plate.

The 1952 baseball averaged a rebound of eight feet. The 1953 baseball averaged eight feet seven and one half inches. The 1961 baseball average for 33 drops was eight feet nine and one half inches, or nine and one half inches more than the 1952 ball.

The average rebound this year is two per cent greater than in 1953 and 10 per cent more than 1952.

Two per cent may seem small, but in baseball it is a major distance. It adds about six feet to a drive over 300 feet so many balls caught in 1953 would fall into the stands this year.

As an example, a 300 foot drive in 1952, under the same impact force, would be 324 feet in 1953 and 330 feet in 1961.

The testing company ran exactly the same test in 1953 using the 1952 and the 1953 baseball, so there should be no argument over whether the 1952 and 1953 baseballs tested have lost their bounce from just setting around since 1952.

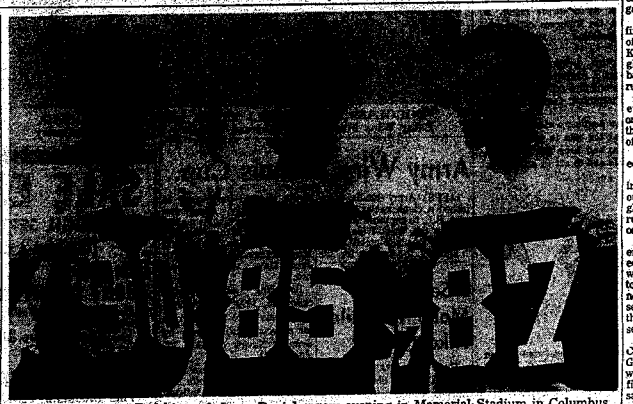
BALLS OVERWEIGHT

The average 1961 ball weighed 5.29 ounces — more than the 5.25 limit allowed in rule 1.09 of the Official Baseball Rules. One ball actually weighed 5.42 ounces.

1,338 COMPRESSIBLE

The 1961 ball is eight per cent less compressible than in 1953 and 15 per cent less than 1952. This further substantiates the rebound characteristics over the same period of time.

Average compression for 1952 was 0.190 inches. The 1953 ball was 0.176 inches, or seven per cent less compressible.



Smaller compression under the same static loading will yield a baseball with more resilience and therefore a potential to travel a greater distance.

On the tests made in 1953 on the 1952 and 1953 ball, the engineers report termed the 1953 ball "a jack rabbit."

1953 was a great year for home runs. Joe Adcock hit the first ball ever to reach the center field bleachers at the 1953 and 330 feet in 1961.

So, by the tests made this year, the 1961 baseball is heavier, firmer and bouncier.

'Working Western' Contest At Sunday Hunt Club Show

The delicate foot work of the Western cow pony will be a highlight of the Hunt Club's horse show at the post Sunday at 2 p.m.

Riders 18 years old and under will guide their mounts through the show's Class Seven, the "Working Western" contest, which calls for a high degree of riding skill.

One of 10 classes, the Working Western, will require the opening and closing of a gate, crossing a bridge and a fallen log, and weaving in and out of an obstacle course while at a canter. Contestants will be permitted to guide their mounts with one hand only.

The afternoon's program will include Western and English Open and Junior riding competition, the Western Working event, the pole bending and rescue races.

In three classes contestants will demonstrate skills over the Hunt Club's jumping courses.

In the Equitation Over Jumps Class, riders will be judged as they jump their mounts over eight obstacles three feet high. Intermediate jumping obstacles will be the same heights but obstacles will be raised in the event of ties.

Horsemen riding in the Open Jumping contest will have to clear jumps set at three and a half feet which also will be raised in event of a tie. If the second round still ends in a tie, time will be the deciding factor in the third round.

Awards will be presented to the first four riders in each event if more than four entries are received for individual contests.

Judging Western Class riding will be Capt. Durward D. Gosney, Army Infantry Board, Major Edward C. Miller, 3rd Reconnaissance Squadron, 7th Cavalry, 2nd Infantry Division, will judge hunter classes.

Outdoor Outlook

Did you ever see an old tom-cat come sneaking home at dawn after a night on the town? That's me Charlie Quinn, And — now I know how Mark Twain felt before proclaiming that "reports of his death were greatly exaggerated."

All in good faith and with the best interests of the service, the Infantry Center, the Bayonet, and this column in mind, one editor advertised the note that Quinn was going to retire after 30 years. As a direct result, a battle group was sent to Berlin, the Reserves called up, tours extended and retirements curtailed . . . and that last apparently includes me!.

My successor, Don Girton, permitted me to sneak back like that tom-cat I mentioned and, in turn, I'm turning the balance of the column over to Sfc Carl Stevens of TIC Inspector General's Section:

Ninety per cent of shotgunner beginners close one eye when they shoot, he says. Bring the gun to your cheek, the cheek doesn't drop the gun, and keep the left hand forward enough to be comfortable and to act as a fulcrum.

Keep your head up, both eyes on the target and not on the sights. Both eyes will provide the binocular vision which is needed to closely estimate range.

If you stop the muzzle when you get on target, you'll usually miss a right-angle chance by 40 miles. Complete follow-through is required just as it is in golf, bowling, pitching, batting, tennis or any other sport.

Carl still talking: Some coaches tell their beginners that a charge of shot should be considered as a big "hoop" with which the target should be "ringed."

Most beginners also shoot too quickly at quail — their guns are empty before the bird gets out to the 30-40 yard range where he may best be dropped. If a bird is hit at extremely short range all your dog would find might be a puff of feathers.

If your gun shoots an evenly dispersed charge (called a pattern) you'll find that a smooth, take-your-time swing and follow-through will fill your roasting pan.

At about 35 yards you'll have something like a 30-inch circle of shot and it is this "hoop" with which you should "ring" your birds.

Although doves travel at much higher speeds and zip, zoom and dart, the principle remains the same — your problem is that of how much to lead your bird — but that's what makes dove shooting the game it is.

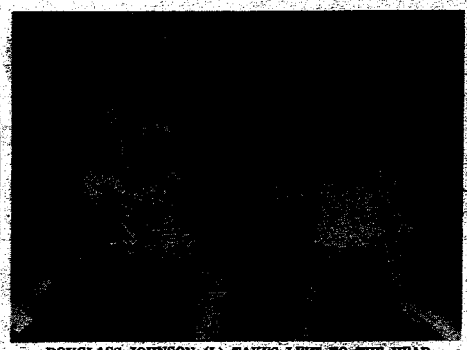
September 15 is the dove date—so get your gaspipes out . . for they're really flying.

Bowling Leagues Start Fall Play

Several of the ten bowling leagues scheduled for the fall and winter season, opened this week. The remainder will start next week.

The first meeting of the Woman's Club group opened yesterday at the Woman's Club House to form the winter season league. It begins next Thursday.

The Officer's Nine League began Tuesday. Sixteen teams have been registered.



First Infantry Brigade's Officer' League kicked off Wednesday with eight teams. The Soldier's League began yesterday with 16 teams in the running.

The Student Brigade Bowling League and NCO Wives League begin today. Each team will have eight registered.

The Woman's Army Corps Bowling League starts tomorrow with four teams.

Sunday begins the Mixed Doubles League and the Division Officers' Wives team. Also beginning Sunday is the Officers' Crimson League.

Army Wins Tennis Cup

(AFPS) Army tennis stars lashed a clean sweep at Newport, R.I., to capture the Leech Cup in the World-Wide inter-Service Tennis Matches.

Winning the trophy for the eighth time in the history of Leech Cup play, Army won three out of four singles matches and two out of three doubles.

Defending senior singles champion, MSgt Bill Millikan proved his right to the crown for a second straight year by downing Navy's Lt. Cdr. Elston Wyatt.

3 Sea Scouts Make 102-Mile Hike to Post

Three members of the Sea Scout Explorer Ship 49, Fort Rucker, completed a 102-mile hike Wednesday night (August 30) from Fort Rucker to Fort Benning in 29 hours.

The group was led by MSgt Abram Van Dover, shipmaster.

Scouts completing the hike were Carl Patton, Jr., 16, Jim Johnson, 13, and Alan Liggett, 14. Nine began the trip.

The youths were congratulated by their parents, who had accompanied the group in automobiles, when the hikers reached the pontoon bridge on the Fort Benning reservation.

At The Movies

THE SERGEANT WAS A LADY with Martin West, Venetia Stevenson and Bill Williams. An all-woman missile base outfit gets rocked to its launching pads when one young handsome Soldier joins their lonely Pacific Island.

THE TRUNK, starring Phil Carey and Julia Arnell is a pulse quickening mystery drama. A young married couple, their best friend and a beautiful blonde troublemaker gradually become aware of a fiendish deception that is being practiced. By who, and on whom, is the secret of—The Trunk.

TWENTY PLUS TWO features David Janssen, Dina Merrill and Jeanne Crain. When a movie star's pretty secretary is slain in his Hollywood bungalow, an aggressive private detective becomes personally involved upon recalling that he had met and fallen in love with the movie star's fiancee while recuperating from a Korean battle wound.

Fellowship Suppers To Resume

Sunday evening Fellowship Suppers will be resumed at the Armed Services YMCA this Sunday.

Sponsored by churches and civic groups in Columbus and Phenix City, the services are held every Sunday evening from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.

East Highlands Assembly of God will sponsor the supper this Sunday and inaugurate the fall and winter program.

All servicemen are welcome to the supper and invited to remain for the inspirational program which features group singing and a devotional talk by a layman.

Wynnton Methodist Church of Columbus and Summerville Methodist Church of Phenix City will sponsor the suppers at the YMCA on September 17 and 24 respectively.

BOOKS in REVIEW

NOT TO THE SWIFT by Tristram Coffin. (Norton, 1961)

The central figure in this novel is a President of the United States. His portrait is not flattering. His story is one of drama, human frailty, and of shattering events. It will not be received with approval in all political quarters. There is comedy, satire, and tragedy here, and overwhelming narrative drive.

THE NEW ENGLISH BIBLE by Biblical Scholars. (Oxford Univ., 1961)

This New Testament is the first part of what is to be the New English Bible. It is not a revision of previous English versions, but a translation of the whole Bible from the original languages into the English we use today.

90 MILES FROM HOME by Warren Miller. (Little, 1961)

In the past two years one small island, ninety miles from Florida's coast, has created more headlines, more talk and more trouble than all the rest of Latin America together. Until now no one has tried to find out what the average man in the street feels about the Revolution, about the Castro regime, and about the future of Cuba. In 90 Miles From Home, Warren Miller takes you through the back stairs of revolution into the streets, cafes and homes of Cuba—and asks the questions you would like to ask.

THE LIVING HOUSE by George Ordish. (Lippincott, 1960)

This unique book, which traces the history of human, animals and insect life in an imaginary but typical Tudor house, dramatizes in fascinating miniature the eternal struggle of all living things to adapt and survive.

MAN & SEX by Joseph J. Kaufman. (Simon, 1961)

Man & Sex is not merely 'another doctor book' it discusses male anatomy and physiology in full detail, but it also probes wide areas of sexual and social behavior.

20 Waiters to Graduate After 100-Hour Course

Graduation exercises will be held at the Supper Club Monday at 8 p.m. for a class of 20 waiters from the Main Officers' Open Mess.

Among those attending the ceremony will be Miss Mildred Jackson, state supervisor of the Distributive Education Branch of the State Department of Education, from Atlanta; Edward P. England, executive secretary of the Georgia Restaurant Association, and Carl Espy, president of the Columbus Restaurant Association.

Diplomas from the State Department of Education will be presented by Miss Jackson.

MSgt James W. McCain, personnel supervisor of employees of the mess, in cooperation with the Muscogee County School District Adult Vocational Department, an agency of the Vocation Education Division of the State Department of Education, arranged for the waiters' school.

James A. Barnes, a retired Army warrant officer, was instructor.

The 100-hour study is one of the distributive courses conducted by the State Department of Education and for which an official certificate of proficiency in food service and supervision is awarded upon successful completion.

The course covers the following 10 subjects: sanitary food service, menu information, table setting and etiquette, job attitudes and responsibilities, grooming for the job, tell it well (speech training), nutrition and diet, use and care of equipment, and human relations on the job and restaurant table service.

Columbus Little Theater Needs Tryouts For 'Time of Your Life'

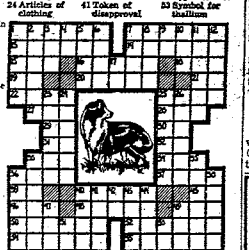
Are you a male and a dancer, a piano player or a harmonica player?

If the answer is yes, the Columbus Theater needs you for a part in William Saroyan's, "The Time of Your Life."

Auditions are being held tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts on Wynnton Road.

Twenty-seven actors are needed, prodseer Mrs. T. M. Kennedy, Jr., said. There are seven female and 20 male parts ranging in age between 18 and 60.

"Those auditioning are almost sure to get a part; we need so many," she said.



The producer urged persons interested in acting and backstage work as well to come to auditions.

The Surgeon Says

Feel Nervous? Join The Herd

The Ten Steps Of Psychological First Aid

Major Fergus T. Monahan, MSC, Chief Social Worker

"I have a terrible cough," squeaked Sergeant Bright.

"Why don't you see a doc?" retorted Sergeant Bright.

"I've felt jumpy all week," said Mrs. Clock to her spouse. "You get you some pills," offered her husband.

By now you get the idea that physical symptoms are readily seen as requiring expert care, but emotional symptoms are suppressed rather than handled.

It should not be this way. Mental health authorities encourage people to seek early attention for their emotional problems. We learned through our efforts in World War II and the Korean conflict that early treatment meant quicker recovery and improved efficiency.

There is no need to feel you have failed when you cannot overcome a challenging problem by yourself. The very fact that a person seeks outside help is a mark of intelligence. It indicates he has strength to face up to his shortcomings.

Just as a person with a sniffle doesn't run to the doctor every time he blows his nose, a person who is nervous also needs to practice first aid.

Here are some first aid suggestions for handling your emotions:

1. Avoid overestimating the uneasy feeling you have at a given moment. Make certain it is not out of proportion to the event that brought it into focus.

2. Look at your "blues." Everyone has a bad day now and then. Try to see what it is that frustrates you. Then consider steps to handle the matter.

3. Unnecessary arguments create tensions. Stop to think why you need to argue. Perhaps a step back may provide you with sufficient objectivity to avoid unnecessary arguments.

4. Seek friends who tend to make you feel comfortable and secure. Otherwise, you will add to your uneasiness.

5. Find constructive leisure time interests. They will provide outlets for your pent up feelings.

6. Try to recognize the other guy's shortcomings and accept them. Thus, you will avoid being upset when he fails to do things the way you think he should.

7. Be consistent in your dealings with others, but allow for some flexibility. Otherwise, frustration will be the end result.

8. Keep in mind when you feel inferior to another person that no individual is perfect. This should help you feel more comfortable, giving you strength to overcome your inferiority for the moment.

9. Conquer challenging situations by seeking out positive features rather than looking at the dark side.

10. Stop running long enough to see where you're going! More energy is wasted trying to keep busy in an effort to avoid facing troublesome issues.

Remember, these are first aid guidelines and are not cure alls. When symptoms of nervousness persist, you should seek expert help in removing the irritants that make life miserable for you.

On this post you may obtain help from either the post (545-6054) or 2d Division (544-7617) Mental Hygiene Clinics and the Psychiatric Outpatient Clinic 544-2402) of Martin Army Hospital.

Courses In CBR Begin

The 1961-1962 term of the Chemical - Biological - Radiological (CBR) School, conducted by The Infantry Center Chemical Section, will begin with the first of 16 two-week courses next Monday.

The final session is scheduled to end June 8, 1962.

Sixty-five students are slated to attend each class. Five of the 16 are officer classes.

Attendance at the school is mandatory for company commanders or executive officers, platoon leaders, first sergeants, platoon sergeants and members of unit CBR defense teams unless they have attended similar or more advanced CBR instruction.

Personnel from The Infantry Center, 2nd Infantry Division and Reserve and Army Air Defese Command units will attend the School.

Students Addressed By Gen. Jablonsky

Brig. Gen. Harvey J. Jablonsky, chief of the Army's Infantry Officers' Division, Directorate of Officer Assignments, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel, addressed The Infantry School's Officer Career Classes 1 and 2 Wednesday.

Gen. Jablonsky oriented the students on the officer assignment policies in the Main Theater. The session was open to all officers at The Infantry School and Infantry Center.

The talk included information on career planning and civil and military schooling.

The general is a 1930 graduate of Washington University of St. Louis, Mo. He was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point four years later. Commissioned in the Coast Artillery Corps, he was transferred to the Infantry in 1946.

Gen. Jablonsky was accompanied by Lt. Col. Charles L. Crain and Lt. Col. John S. Mace, both of the Infantry Branch.

The one-star visitor was welcomed Tuesday at Lawson Field by Major Gen. Ben Harrell, commandant of The Infantry School and post commander. He had lunch with Major Gen. Charles H. Chase, commander of the 2nd Infantry Division.

During its stay, the party was oriented on the organization, mission, facilities and scheduling of classes at The Infantry School and conferred with Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles Jr., assistant commandant of The School, and officials of the Airborne-Air Mobility Department and Infantry Center G-1 Section.

The visitors left the post Wednesday.

Capt. John L. Bagley, who is assigned to The Infantry School's Office of the Director of Instruction, was the project officer for the visit.

Harvey M. Allen Retires After 24 Years on Post

Harvey M. Allen retired from Civil Service Thursday (August 31), after serving as printing and reproduction foreman at the Army Field Printing Plant for 24 years, first as a member of the military and later as a civilian.

Succeeding Allen will be Collis D. Lehmer pf Columbus.

Allen's career at Benning began in May 1923, when he was a member of Company A, 29th Infantry.

Except for a year of service at the Far East Printing Plant in Japan and a few months of relaxation after retirement from the Army in 1933, Allen has held his position as foreman since 1936.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen, the former Bertie Mae Coppedge of Griffin, Ga., plan to live in Homestead, Fla.

New Deputy Post G-4 Is Named

Lt. Col. John W. Williams has been named deputy G-4 of The Infantry Center.

He succeeds Lt. Col. J. E. Boothe, Jr., who has gone to Second Army, Fort Meade, Md.

Col. Williams served the last three years with the 24th Infantry Division in Augsburg, Germany, the latter two and one-half as division G-4. From 1954 to 1958, he was senior Infantry instructor at the Army Ordnance School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

He is a 1939 graduate of Gordon Military College in Barnesville, Ga., and received his commission through that school's ROTC program. He later attended the University of Florida.

Col. Williams was stationed at Benning with the 29th Infantry from July to October, 1940. He attended The Infantry School's associate officer advanced course in 1943 and officer advanced course in 1948-1949.

He served with the 71st Infantry Division here from June to December 1944.

Ideas Come Easy; The Follow-Through Is What's Hardest But Counts The Most

You don't have to be a "brain" to come up with a worthwhile idea, one which can save the Army and this post a great deal of money and time, and improve methods.

An idea, even a small one—and there have been many of them at The Infantry Center recently—can often be followed up into a big thing.

Take, for instance, James Hargreave. It was in the year 1769 and the machine age was far in the dim future. The housewife's spinning wheel still produced most of England's fabrics.

By Accident

One day Hargreave's two sons upset his wife's spinning wheel and the new angle of the wheel on the floor gave him his big idea: a method of spinning eight threads at a time instead of one. He followed it up and produced the spinning jenny, which revolutionized England's textile industry.

We still might have "tall" seven story buildings if a housewife, in 1888, hadn't dropped her book on a bird cage when jumping up to greet her husband. The husband, William LeBaron Jenney, began to think. "If a fragile bird cage could support a heavy book, why couldn't a steel framework support a tall building?"

The Proof

At that time architects thought that a building's weight had to be supported by its walls. Jenney amazed them by building the first steel - frame curtain-wall "skyscraper," a 12-story building in Chicago.

One of the simplest ideas was also one of the most strikingly successful. The steel pen and inkwell were good, but American businessmen wanted a more efficient pen with which to sign business documents. One was developed which required a medicine dropper to fill its hollow barrel. But, what happened if no dropper were available?

Improvements

Eventually, someone put the dropper inside the barrel of a pen and made a slit in the barrel. When a coin was pressed in and released, the sac filled with ink. But, again, what happened when no coin was available?

That same question occurred to an Iowa jeweler back in 1913. What he finally did was to put a lever on the barrel to take the place of a coin.

A self-filling fountain pen! It was better than diamonds, the jeweler thought. And so Mr. Sheaffer closed up his jewelry shop. And you know the rest of the story.

Now what's your idea?

Army Finally Is Winning Marmot War

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. (AFPS) — The Army calls them igloos, but they're not-invaded by Eskimos. They're earth-covered, concrete bunkers which in WWII were used for ammo storage and now contain rocket components.

Also, until recently, woodchucks.

The bunkers have a special attraction for the marmots. They like to burrow in the soft soil covering, and its grass and clover surface makes for good eating. So the woodchuck population has been building up, with disastrous wear and tear on the igloos.

The small beasts honeycombed the earth with tunnels. Rain poured into the holes and washed away the soil. More soil thrown up by the rooting woodchucks blocked ventilation shafts at the top of the bunkers.

Redstone's pest control crew at first fought back by filling in the holes. That didn't work; the woodchucks simply dug new ones. Efforts were made to scare them away. They only dug deeper. Was it feasible to smoke them out? No—and with rocket materials inside the igloos.

The winning solution to this woodchuck war finally turned out to be the old reliable workhorse of WWII—the jeep. Army men attached hoses to the vehicle exhausts, thrust the nozzles into the holes and raced the engines.

Result: Exodus. The average hole yielded, in this order, the following tenants: several wood rats, a number of lizards, a bevy of grasshoppers, and at long last Mr. Chuck himself, gasping for air and glad to quit his igloo hideaway.

Post Storm Warning to Be Tested

A test of the post's storm warning plan under condition "GREEN" will be held Tuesday, September 19, at 2 p.m. It will be a test, not an actual emergency.

A condition "GREEN" means that the post is predicted to be in the path of severe weather. Wind will be in excess of 55 miles per hour, and will arrive within 1½-6 hours.

The audible signal for condition "GREEN" is two steady, two-minute blasts of the siren, interrupted by one minute of silence. The telephone warning system and mobile public address system will also be used to notify personnel of the test.

During the test, military and civilian personnel will simulate going into shelters. Neither the nurseries nor the schools will be evacuated during the test.

The Infantry School will not evacuate students from field problems or release students. However, classes will be interrupted briefly to announce actions to be taken during an actual warning.

In an actual emergency, military and civilian personnel

Three Cited At LAAC For Suggestions

Three members of Lawson Army Aviation Command have been cited for job improvement and safety suggestions.

They were Capt. Thomas McGregor, Sfc Ralph V. Seale and Sfc Benjamin F. Meeker.

Presenting Suggestion Award Certificates and a monetary award to them was Col. Curtis L. Hankins, LAAC commander.

Capt. McGregor proposed that a parking area strip be painted at the south side of the 10th Transportation Company hangar area and that a safety lane be painted around the hangar. He also suggested that speed signs be posted in the ramp area.

Sgt. Seale proposed that the 1st Aviation Company be issued a tractor to tow aircraft in and out of the hangar.

Sgt. Meeker was presented a Letter of Commendation and a $10 incentive award, in ad-

1st Infantry Brigade Pfc Gives Bloodmobile Half-Millionth Pint

PFC Bobby R. Silverthorne made the donation during the bloodmobile's visit to his unit, the 1st Infantry Brigade.

The Blood Center was organized February 17, 1948, and services 35 counties in Georgia. In the region, there are 65 civilian, Veterans Administration and military hospitals, one of which is in Florida.

The Blood Bank benefits one and one-half million people living in the area. Residents are entitled to draw on the region's supply of blood no matter where they may be at the time of an emergency calling for a transfusion.

The bloodmobile visits the post two days each month, alternating between Infantry Center and 2nd Infantry Division units.

CAA Total Passes $24,835; Some Turn-Ins Outdo Goal

The 1962 Fort Benning Community Activities Association Fund Drive is progressing very well according to Col. William H. Birdsong, Jr., post chairman of the annual campaign.

The first battalion-size unit or larger to reach its "fair share" goal was the 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 10th Artillery, 1st Infantry Brigade, commanded by Lt. Col. Edgar M. Sinclair.

The battalion made a turn-in of its money just five days after the drive began, and surpassed its original goal in achieving 104 per cent.

The Infantry Center G-1 and G-2 Sections surpassed 100 per cent.

Latest post-wide figures show a total of $24,835 has been turned in to CAA Drive headquarters as of yesterday. These are the first returns of the drive which is expected to net $115,000 during the course of three military paydays. CAA officials expect the turn-in figure to swell as key men turn in their money to team captains.

The CAA contributions serve a two-fold purpose. Post-sponsored welfare and youth activities, such as YAC and the Visiting Nurse Program, are materially aided by the "fair share" contributions of military and civilian personnel.

In addition, a substantial contribution is made to the local United Givers Fund Campaign. A concurrent drive is being conducted by UG in the Columbus area to support similar welfare and recreational activities within the Columbus area.

Last year the Columbus United Givers Fund Campaign received over $64,000 as a result of the post-wide CAA drive.

Top Award In AUSA Given Area

The Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army was presented three awards for outstanding achievements in different fields of attainment at the 1961 annual meeting in Washington DC.

Maynard R. Ashworth, Ledger-Enquirer and Bayonet publisher and a member of the board of directors and past president of the chapter, received a certificate of achievement from the Association.

William J. Schloth, Columbus attorney, president of the chapter, received the "best chapter" award for being the largest unit in the AUSA.

Second Lieutenant William B. Woodson, a member of the 2d Infantry Division, received the fourth annual Dr. Ralph Mershon award given to the most outstanding military graduate of the senior division of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps who has accepted a commission in the Regular Army. He was selected from a list of 1,687 Army ROTC distinguished military graduates who applied for RA commissions.

Twenty one members from the local chapter of the Association attended the meeting held at the Sheraton - Park hotel.

Those from The Infantry Center and the civilian communities were: William J. Schloth; Maynard R. Ashworth; Col. (Ret.) Charles A. Ritchie, and Col. (Ret.) Henry E. Kelly.

From The Infantry Center the following members attended: Dr. Harold S. Tate, Capt. Donald R. Kennedy, SMaj William H. Mathis, MSgt Peter Bolkan, 1st Sgt. John F. Adams, Jr., MSgt Frank G. Hardin, MSgt Otis G. Montgomery, Sfc Ira S. Thompson, Sfc William S. Spears, and Sfc Clarence W. Blount.

Several high ranking government and military officials were guest speakers at the September 6-7-8 gathering of the AUSA. Secretary of State Dean Rusk headed the list of guest speakers along with Paul H. Nitze, assistant Secretary of Defense, and Secretary of the Army, Elvis J. Stahr, Jr.

Nearly 4,000 persons were in attendance.

Bayonet is 19 Tomorrow, Has Grown Steadily

Tomorrow will end the 19th year of service to the personnel of Fort Benning by the Bayonet.

Launched in 1942 as a civilian enterprise publication of the Ledger-Enquirer Newspapers of Columbus, in the interest of the military community, the Bayonet has seen a steady growth and increased local importance each year.

The military editorial staffs of the Main Post and 2nd Infantry Division sections join in expressing appreciation to the L-E for making this newspaper possible.

At the same time, the editors rededicate themselves to making every effort to improve the weekly publication, and to further assist in its expansion. (Ed.)

Key AUSA Speech Excerpts

In his keynote address, Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr, Jr., said that since the Korean War "our Army has been under - manned under-equipped, and undernsed. This trend toward underplay of Army potentialities has been halted. When President Kennedy promised that we would 'pay any price, bear any burden, and oppose any foe' to assure the survival of liberty, the trend was reversed."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, speaking at the Gen. George C. Marshall Memorial Dinner, warned the Soviet Union that any unilateral action against the West's vital interests in West Berlin "could only court disaster".

He also cautioned the Russians against considering American desires for peace as "a willingness to yield".

Other excerpts will appear in next week's Bayonet.

Personnel in their quarters during an actual emergency are directed to fasten movable awnings, doors, and shutters to the building; place all items which could be blown about by high winds inside the buildings; keep one or more windows open on the side of the building opposite from the direction the wind is blowing to equalize pressure and prevent wind damage, and prepare emergency lighting in case of power failure.

These funds were used to support the local USO, Boys' and Girls', Family Service Bureau, Scouting activities, and many other community welfare and recreational programs in which military personnel and their dependents participate.

The Red Cross, Salvation Army and certain research organizations, (including Cerebal Palsy, Cancer, Heart Association and Muscular Dystrophy) benefitted from these monies. The balance of the $108,000 collected in last year's drive was used to sponsor post welfare and recreation programs.

Army Calls For 500 Critically Needed Nurses

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The Army Medical Service has announced an "immediate critical need" for 500 additional nurses as a vital part in sustaining its medical care program.

Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, Army Surgeon General, said the increase is necessary to keep Nurse Corps strength in line with the expansion of the Army and stepped-up training.

The Army hopes to meet the requirement through young men and women volunteers who have not served in the Armed Forces. This method would avoid a disruption of civilian and government hospitals where many reservists subject to recall hold key positions.

General duty nurses are most needed, Gen. Heaton said.

A hostess planning a party can find place cards, bridge tallies, prizes and favors to suit any taste.

Greeting cards for all occasions, stationary, records, pictures, picture frames, souvenirs, crests, rank insigne, cookbooks, identification tags, desk name plates, swagger sticks and even fatigue uniforms are some of the items available at the store.

The Book Store is primarily concerned with providing material military students need in connection with their studies.

There are notebooks, pens, paper, pencils, templates, and plotting boards, in addition to Infantry School publications, reference books, the complete suggested military reading list volumes and other new military books.

Of special interest to post housewives is The Infantry Center Cook Book, published by the Woman's Club.

Officers and non-coms can find the Officers Guide, Non-Com's Guide and Company Administration among the many books on sale at the store.

Wives of military men of all ranks are buying the Army Lady, a book on customs and courtesy of the Army.

A sign by the cash register reads, "If you don't find what you want, ask for it. We may be able to order it for you."

In addition to the "special order" service, the book store will print or engrave calling cards, engrave the silver trays, baby cups and trophys and make personalized desk name plates with name, rank and insignia of arm of service against the appropriate color background. Swagger sticks will be crested and engraved as ordered by the customer.

Military personnel not assigned to the post can order from the Book Store by mail. A price list is available upon request.

The store is located on Morrison Ave., between the Main Officers' Open Mess and the Army field Printing Plant.

The store is open from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday. The first Saturday after payday, it stays open until 4 p.m.

A branch book store is maintained in Building 2754B and is open from 4 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Major Jessie A. Hotchkiss is Book Department officer, and the general manager of the two stores is Amos T. Kemp.

Marksmanship Schedule Set For '61-62; Lists Changes

By MSgt Charles A. Quinn

Rifles had scarcely cooled after a crushing Army victory in national championship competition which ended last week at Camp Perry, Ohio, when the Infantry Center published its competitive small arms program for 1961-62.

The directive, which will help govern Infantry Center participation in the Army's annual cycle of marksmanship qualification and competition, was marked by several changes.

In addition to the normal forming of company teams to fire the service rifle and pistol, Infantry Center marksmen also will find the .22 caliber pistol integrated into the coming year's competitive training and match program.

The directive noted that Infantry Center marksmen with outstanding shooting achievements should have equal opportunities for career advancement and promotion as other personnel.

A recommendation was included that challenged matches between unit and organization should be fired over the Infantry Trophy course, over which an Army team established the record score of 1,234 points at Camp Perry August 30.

Dates for the Third Army Firing School are November 13 to 17 at The Infantry Center. Unit competition will begin January 4 and continue until February 15.

Post championships in which The Infantry Center's major commands will vie for rifle, pistol and automatic rifle range supremacy for 1962 will be fired March 5 to 10.

The directive describes the major objectives of the marksmanship program to be the advancement of combat proficiency. It also pointed out that scheduled training and competitive sessions, also would uncover many individual marksmen who possess potentialities for further development in the competitive field.

Special Forces Relax Entry Requirements

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Two major changes in requirements for enlistment or reenlistment for Army Special Forces have opened the way for many who previously were not eligible.

Formerly Special Forces volunteers had to have successfully completed airborne training before airborne qualified and have a minimum of 12 months prior active military service.

Now only four months prior service and a willingness to undergo airborne training are required. Successful completion of this training is necessary before assignment to a Special Forces unit.

Travel to Europe Cut For Dependents

Transportation of dependents to Europe will be suspended effective October 9, due to supply requirements involved in a decision to send an additional 40,000 troops to Europe. Defense Secretary McNamara, with the approval of the president, announced the build-up of European defenses last Saturday. Word as to which units will be involved has not been released.

The curtailment of transportation for dependents will be "until further notice", according to the release.

Countries in Western Europe included in the suspension are Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Turkey and the United Kingdom. The suspension is not applicable to West Berlin.

Complete information will be distributed to all sponsors and dependents affected as soon as possible.

More on Units to Europe

Purpose of the 40,000 man increase in Europe is to bring the Seventh Army and other units committed to NATO to full combat strength, and allow additional combat, combat-support and logistical units for the Army force there.

Civilian Strength to Rise

More than 4,000 civilian employees will be added to the Army's nation-wide establishment, according to an Army News Service release.

The release lists Benning as being allotted 40 more slots for civilians. Total slots added within the six continental Armies is listed at 2,263, with the remainder slated for the technical services and induction and examination stations throughout the U.S.

Keep Tabs on Infantry Museum

Changes are taking place so fast at the Infantry Museum that if you don't visit it about once a month you can't keep track of the place.

Already a museum for every Infantryman to be proud of, and to interest every other Army member and civilian, long range plans call for a truly impressive increase in exhibits. But if you wait until the overall goal is reached before seeing the museum, you'll need a couple of days to take it all in.

Better see what's there, if you haven't dropped in lately.

Fort Gordon Will Expand

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The Army plans to more than double facilities at Fort Gordon, in order to provide basic combat and infantry advanced individual training.

The current average training load at Fort Gordon is 3,400, but with the expanded facilities it will be capable of handling 8,000, the Army said.

The post is currently a training center for Military Police and this activity will continue.

The Army said basic combat training will get underway Sept. 7 when the first increment of 660 trainees arrive, and that by December the center will be operating at full capacity.

There are currently some 6,700 military personnel and 2,100 civilians permanently station on post.

The new training mission, the Army said, will call for an increase in the military training complement of about 2,000 and an increase in civilian personnel by about 300.

Fort Gordon was first opened in December 1941, and became a permanent Army installation on March 21, 1956.

In The 'Age of Anxiety' A Cool View's The Best

Almost every commentator on the situation in Berlin has made the point that the people of West Berlin accept the crisis as part of routine living. For them, 16 years after the end of WWII, the threat posed by Communist imperialism is an accepted factor in the age they live in.

We too, as Americans, have grown up in an age of social and political cataclysms. Only people well past middle age can remember the relative serenity of the years before WWI, and a man born the year that war erupted is now 47. He was 20, just entering manhood, when the country was only beginning to emerge from the worst depression in its history.

In other words, most of us have lived through what W. H. Auden has called the Age of Anxiety. And in the past decade the anxiety has become acute with the knowledge of the horror, the mass extermination, a nuclear war would bring.

Have we learned anything from this? Perhaps — it is to live with crisis without giving way to panic; to remain calm without being complacent. There is no better proof of this than the mood in which Americans greeted the President's televised report on the Berlin situation. It was not national indifference, nor was it the numbness of shock. It was an acceptance of reality, an agreement on what needed to be done, a sober unity of feeling.

This was particularly true of the people in the Armed Forces, whether regulars or reservists. One way or another, they were the first to be affected. But there has never been a time in the nation's history when the mood of its military was more resolute or more confident of its ability to carry out any task it is given. This must come as an unpleasant surprise to Communist observers who cling tenaciously to the misbelief that we and our fellow citizens out of uniform are doubt-riddled and confused.

Anxious? — that we are. Any sentient human being would be anxious about his future and his family's future in these times. But fearful — that we are not. "Fear," a noted editor once wrote, "means destruction. It makes the hand tremble and the mind waver." We aren't trembling and we aren't wavering. (AFPS)

Your Civil Rights Are Protected In 1940 Relief Act

PART 1 OF 2 PARTS

By 1st Lt. Bernard E. Bark

"In order to provide for, strengthen, and expedite the national defense under the emergent conditions which are threatening the peace and security of the U. S. and to enable the U. S. the more successfully to fulfill the requirements of the national defense, provision is made to suspend enforcement of civil liberties, in certain cases, of persons in the military service. . . In order to enable such persons to devote their entire energy to the defense needs of the nation, and to this end the following provisions are made for the temporary suspension of legal proceedings and transactions in which may prejudice the civil rights of persons in such service during the period herein specified. . ."

The above is the purpose and scope of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, but on reading this paragraph many questions arise. For instance, who are considered "person in military service" so as to come under the Act?

Any member of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, and all officers of the Public Health Service detailed for duty with the Army or the Navy are covered by the Act. Retired military personnel are not included.

"Military service" signifies active duty, as well as training or education under the supervision of the U.S. prior to induction into the military.

The terms "active service" or "active duty" include the period during which a person in service is absent on account of sickness, leave, or other lawful cause.

There are many areas in which this Act gives aid to the serviceman on active duty. However, the areas that will be discussed are: default judgments and installment contracts.

Section 200 of the Act states:

"In any action or proceeding. . . in any court, if there shall be a default of any appearance by the defendant, the plaintiff, before entering judgment shall file. . . an affidavit setting forth facts showing (1) that the defendant is not in military service If unable to file such affidavit plaintiff shall in lieu thereof file an affidavit setting forth either (2) that the defendant is in the military service or (3) that plaintiff is not able to determine whether or not defendant is in such service."

If no affidavit is filed showing that the defendant is not in the military service, no judgement can be entered without first an order of court directing such, and no order will be made if the defendant is in service until after the court has appointed an attorney to represent him and protect his interest.

The court will on application make such appointment. Unless it appears that the defendant is not in service the court may require, as a condition before judgement, that the plaintiff file a bond to indemnify the serviceman against any loss or damage that he may suffer by reason of any judgment should it be set aside.

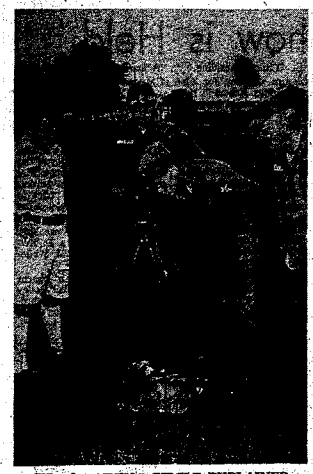
In any legal proceeding in which a serviceman is a party; and, if he does not personally appear or is not represented by an attorney, the court may appoint an attorney to represent him. In such event a bond may be required to protect the rights of the serviceman.

No attorney appointed to protect a person in service has power to waive any right of the person for whom he is appointed or bind him.

If any judgment is rendered in a legal proceeding governed by Section 200 against any person in military service or within thirty days thereafter, and it appears that the serviceman was prejudiced because of his service in making his defense, such judgment may (upon application not later than ninety days after ETS) be opened by the court, and the serviceman may be able to defend his cause.

It must appear that the defendant has a meritorious defense to the action before the original judgment will be opened.

The Pay Line Slowed Them Down



Although a three month period is set aside to reach the Community Activities Association's fund drive goal at the post each year, it only took the 586th Engineer Company, 151st Engineer Group, one hour.

The official kick-off was August 25, but collections began within units in earnest on payday, and during the hour it took to pay the unit, the 586th shot to 113 per cent of its "fair share."

Keymen in the company were 1st Sgt Donald L. Norris and the five platoon sergeants, who gave the men a thorough briefing on the many activities supported by the annual CAA fund drive.

The company is commanded by Capt. Richard T. Robertson.

Guesswork is Gone in Locating 'Enemy' Weapons

USE OF AIMING CIRCLE EXPLAINED
Pvt. W. G. Fitzpatrick Observed By (L to R) Lt. Col. Benge, Sgt Mearon Johnson, and Sgt James M. Harper.

"Follow Me" patches mingle with "Indian-head" patches as members of The Infantry School's Communication Department give counterfire training to 22 soldiers from the 2nd Infantry Division.

The students are learning to use electronic equipment to detect and identify simulated mortar and artillery fire and to determine the location of "enemy" weapons.

The devastating fires of artillery and mortars have accounted for most of our casualties in past conflicts. Mortar fires alone caused almost 35 per cent of our combat casualties in Korea. Today, mortar and artillery weapons are even more powerful. We must, therefore, have counterfire equipment of the most modern types to counter the effect of this enemy fire power.

Before the electronic sound locating set became available, a soldier in the field seeing a flash and hearing a blast had to estimate the time interval between flash and blast to determine the distance to the enemy weapon. He had to be able to recognize the type of fire.

He then notified the fire direction center (FDC) of the azimuth, the range, and the kind of weapon the enemy was firing. This was a shell-rep, or shell report.

In the fire direction center, shell reports from many observers were plotted on a map. The intersection of lines representing observer reports of similar blasts pinpointed the enemy weapon. After this, the data was furnished to weapons who placed concentrated fire on the suspected area. Normally, this was an efficient method but it took time.

The new method of electronic detection is faster and more accurate. Augmenting the old "shell-rep" method, the electronic sound location equipment was extensively used in Korea by 17 platoons trained here at Fort Benning, according to Col. Hubert Emmett Strange, director of the Communications Department.

The students being trained in this new method work in teams of 3 men to a sound set, and in pairs of right and left teams. Before each set, in a triangle on the ground, are 3 microphones.

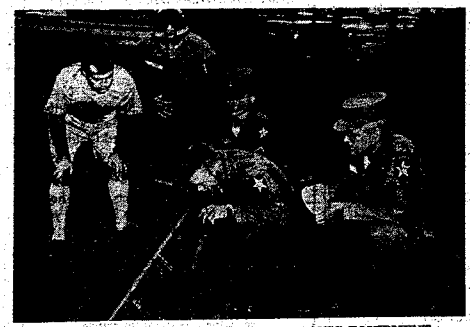
When an instructor fires an M-80 fire cracker to simulate a "burst", the sound picked up by each mike is recorded on a tape in the sound locating set. The student plays the sound back and determines the time interval between reception by each of the 3 microphones.

He then computes a magnetic azimuth for each mike, and plots in on an M-16 plotting board to determine location and range to the firing weapon.

As a check on student computation, an instructor has determined the range and location at the moment of firing the simulator, using an aiming circle. Right and left teams work together, communicating by sound powered telephones.

In actual combat, the range and location of the enemy weapon would be passed on to the operations sergeant at fire direction center for relay to weapons crews.

During the past 6 weeks the Communications Department has conducted classes in counterfire; and also classes in radio teletype, code practice, and battle group radio procedure for the 2nd Division.



A total of 44 hours of instruction were administered by the Applied Communications Committee of the Communications Department headed by Lt. Col. James S. Miles, chairman of the committee.

Freedoms Foundation Contest Will Award $9,000 in Prizes

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Cash awards totaling $9,000 will be given to winners in the 1961 Freedom Foundation Letter Awards Program for members of the Armed Forces on active duty.

Each entrant should write a letter no longer than 500 words on the subject: "What Can I Do For Freedom?"

Entries should be sent to Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa., and should be postmarked no later than November 1.

One approach to this year's subject is through President Kennedy's declaration in his Inaugural Address, "Ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country."

Officials of the Freedoms Foundation pointed out that opportunities for members of the Armed Forces to serve their country are not limited to military activities.

For example, they can demonstrate America's desire for peace by their friendly attitude when coming in contact with people of other nations, and by the appreciation they show of other people's cultures.

By their words and deeds, U.S. service personnel can uphold our free way of life which is under constant Communist attack all over the world.

All military personnel on active duty are eligible to participate in the letter writing program. Dependents and civilian employees, however, are not eligible.

The top award is $1,000. Second place winner will receive $500. There are 50 third place awards of $100 and 50 fourth place awards of $50. Each winner will also receive a George Washington Honor Medal.

All entries should carry the participant's full name, rank or rating, serial number, branch of service, unit, and home address. Letters need not be typewritten but they should be written legibly.

Gen. Kelly Greets 950 At First P-TA Meeting

Brig. Gen. John E. Kelly, deputy post commander, welcomed approximately 950 parents and teachers at the opening meeting of the Fort Benning Parent-Teacher Association Tuesday night at Faith School.

"I'm delighted to see so many parents here tonight. This is an indication of the interest you have in the Fort Benning school system," he said.

"And to the teachers, especially to the teachers new to our schools, I hope you have a successful year both professionally and socially," the speaker stated.

"The P-TA is a union of the resources of the teacher and parent for the betterment of the children in the community. It's always been a great pleasure for me to work with and participate in the activities of the P-TA at my various stations," Gen. Kelly, father of seven, added.

Col. S. Y. Coker, president of the organizaton, spoke on the organization of the post school system and the role of the parent in his child's education.

"In 1950 the Children's Schools had 500 students and 12 teachers. Now the post schools have 3,100 students and 106 teachers. This enterprise costs in excess of $1 million annually," he pointed out.

"Our classrooms are not crowded, there is no shortage of teachers and there are no double sessions," Col. Coker told the group.

He noted the opportunities for worthwhile relationships between parents and teachers afforded by the P-TA.

"Cooperation between parent and teacher is of prime importance in the education of the child," he emphasized.

Mrs. Hazel J. Scudder, superintendent of schools, introduced the members of her administrative staff, Dr. Joseph T. Conforti, director of instruction; Miss Ruth Massey, director of guidance; M. Todd Yates, principal of Loyd School; Rupert C. Nimally, principal of Wilbur School; Mrs. Mary H. Sherrick, principal of Patch School; Mrs. Pearl M. Brakonecke, principal of Hospital Area School; J. James Shiver Jr., principal of Faith School, and Mrs. Mildred H. Carter, assistant principal of Faith School.

Col. John M. King, president of the Post Dependents School Council, also was introduced.

Following the business session, refreshments were served and the teachers were stationed by schools on the ramps so that parents could meet them individually.

Mrs. Sacerdote's Coffee Stresses Coffee Theme

Mrs. Sydney E. Sacerdote entertained the ladies of the Associate Arms Group, Command and Staff Department, with an opening fall coffee held in her home September 7.

The serving table in the dining room was overlaid with a Madeira cloth, centered with an arrangement tracing the evolution of coffee from bean to cup. Included in the centerpiece was an authentic reprlica of a coffee bean plant, miniature coffee grinder, the ultimate cup of coffee, and a copy of the musical score "Let's Have Another Cop of Coffee".

Tiny sandwiches, pastries, melon balls, and Mrs. Sacerdote's Norwegian "leffa" were served. Mrs. James E. Bagley and Mrs. James H. Phillips presided at the coffee services placed at each end of the table.

Guests for the affair were Mesdames Richard W. Keyes, Willard E. Harriane, John M. King, Theodore Leonard, Woodrow Laws, Everett V. Mead, Jean K. Woodyard, George E. Albert, John L. Blackwell, Victor A. Kleber, Forest W. Pitts, Eb W. Smith, Charles A. Kilbourne, Harry H. Hiestand, Charles C. Robertson, Jr., Edgar Sinclair, Wallis E. McClain, Neol Messerly, Jr., and Frank Armstrong.

Two new members of the group, Mrs. Edgar S. McFarlan and Mrs. Elton E. Buchanan were introduced.

Weapons Department Ladies

Mrs. Marlin Welcomed; Fashion Show is Held

At a luncheon last Friday in the main ballroom of the Main Officers' Open Mess, Mrs. Raymond B. Marlin, wife of the new director of the Weapons Department, was welcomed by the ladies of the department. Hostesses for the occasion were the ladies of the Anti-Tank Missile Committee with Mrs. Lester E. O'Riley presiding.

Program director for the event was Mrs. Robert B. Haller. The program a pre-school children's fashion show, was presented through the courtesy of a local department store with the assistance of Mrs. Jeanette Wiechutla, manager of the children's department.

The youngsters modeled a variety of new fall fashions and accessories, including sports wear and dress fashions. Mrs. Mabel Bailey, of the Mabel Bailey School of Charm was commentator for the show.

The young models participating were Melissa Ann and Pamela Jane Allen; Cynthia Baggett; Jim Bartlett; Craig W. and Diane M. Best; Ronnie Davis; James C. Gilbertson; Theresa and Jimmie Green; Susie Guenthner; David Lee Hudson; Steven and Lisa Moore; Kellie K. Schultz; Mary Beth Scofield; Doug W. Seeley; Rhonda and Ramona Stronach.

Mrs. Billy G. Davis was in charge of the decorations, assisted by Mrs. Earl H. Hale Jr., and Mrs. Carey G. Tomlinson. A "back to school" theme predominated. A life-size doll dressed appropriately with dunce cap added a humorous note to the occasion.

The tables were decorated with blue and white streamers; school supplies of books, scissors, and crayons; and centered with a pyramid of polished apples combined with fall leaves and daisies.

A lovely floral arrangement of mums, daisies, grapes, and assorted dried flowers centered the head table. A blackboard and large pre-primer book added to the classroom effect.

Through the courtesy of Mr. John T. Reay, decorator of the Post Exchanges, cutouts of life-size children, autumn leaves, artificial apples, and "back to school" banners completed the decor.

Guests introduced were Mrs. Ronald Stronach, Mrs. D. Kelly, and Mrs. Robert J. Whitehead.

The door prize, a charm course from the Mabel Bailey School of Charm, was awarded Mrs. Robert L. Saxon and a gift certificate went to Mrs. Earl H. Hale, Jr.

Medical Wives Hail Mrs. Todd

At the Medical Wives Club brunch held at the Custer Terrace branch of the Officers' Open Mess Friday, September 8, Mrs. William A. Todd, Jr. and daughter, Miss Anne L. Todd, were introduced by Mrs. George B. Skipworth, president.

Miss Todd left the evening of September 8 by plane for her third year at the University of Washington, Seattle. Col. Todd is the new commanding officer of Martin Army Hospital.

Mrs. and Miss Todd were presented with ceramic leaf ashtrays made by Mrs. Albert C. Hunt, as momentos of the occasion.

Other new members welcomed were Mesdames Frederick F. Krauskopf, Richard F. Cape, Charles S. Decker, William D. McMonagle, John L. Hassig, Robert W. Holbrook, Charles J. Zerzan, Jr., Sayers J. Boyd and Edwin L. Adair.

Goodbyes were said to Mrs. Orvis J. Trude, who, with her husband, leaves for Fort Polk, Louisiana before October 1.

Guests were Mrs. John R. Jeter, Jr., guest of Mrs. Todd, and Mrs. Benjamin F. Copeland from Beaufort, North Carolina, guest and mother-in-law of Mrs. Gary B. Copeland.

Hostesses for the brunch were Mesdames Harry W. McCurdy, Albert C. Hunt, Frederick W. Hindley, Edward W. Kwedar, Bernard A. Applebaum and Joseph Katz.

Decorations were colorful autumn flowers and leaves, with two large centerpieces, one a floral arrangement on the head table between candelabra with green candles, and the other a fruit arrangement centered with a pineapple "turkey", on the buffet table.

The floral arrangement was the door prize and was won by Mrs. Benjamin W. Kilpatrick.

Four tables of bridge were in play after the brunch.

NCOs

Distaff Doings

BY MARIANNE KELLY

The Noncommissioned Officers' Wives Club, like most other clubs on Army posts, is a well established institution. Ours is primarily a social group, of course, and we get together for business meetings, diet defying luncheons, ceramics classes, gabfests, cards, etc. In addition to the social bit, however, welfare work is included in our program.

As everyone knows, charity takes money. Our dues alone permitting only limited activity, so some time ago the members decided to look for other good sources of income. The management at Crain Hall, Main NCO Open Mess, graciously agreed to let us conduct bingo every Monday night. From the beginning, the whole project was a huge success.

Thanks to this activity the NCO Wives Club has been very active in various charitable fields.

We have bought food for needy families, helped a deserving medical student with a steady fund, donated money to the Infantry Museum for a new display case, given cigarettes to the blood bank and last but not least bought tons of lollipops for the clinics.

This may sound incredible but during the month of June, $82.50 was spent for lollipops! They do keep the kiddies happy when they have to take their shots, thus allowing some relief to frustrated mothers and overworked nurses.

So, when you go out to Crain Hall on Monday nights you know there is not only an enjoyable evening in store for you but that you are also contributing to a worthy cause.

Don't forget our social get-together on Wednesday, September 20th, at the club House, Building 1127, in the old hospital area. The children are back in school, so celebrate by treating yourself to an afternoon of fun. The Tot Town Nursery, by the way, is only a stone's throw from the club house.

Bridge addicts take note that we are looking forward to seeing many of you girls join our Tuesday sessions, 1:30 a.m. at the club house. Even if you are not a member of our club yet you will be most welcome!

DUSA Luncheon Guests Hear Tot Town Report

The Daughters of the U. S. Army held their monthly luncheon at the Officers' Club last week. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. A. J. Francisco, Mrs. J. B. Starker, and Mrs. J. R. Fitzpatrick, Jr.

A chicken lunch was served to the 22 ladies present, after which Mrs. H. H. Hiestand, DUSA president, introduced two new members: Mrs. W. A. Todd, Jr., and Mrs. D. H. Hawn, both recent arrivals at the post.

Mrs. Todd brought as a guest her daughter, Anne, who will leave soon to continue college at the University of Washington.

During the business meeting following the luncheon, Mrs. L. J. Kunzig gave a report on the recent $1,500 donation to the Tot Town Nursery, which furnished five new air-conditioning units and some new playground equipment.

The low fee of both Tot Town Nursery and the Commissary Nursery is made possible by the local chapter of Army Daughters, who donate $3,000 yearly for equipment, up-keep, improvement and operating expenses. Mrs. Kunzig is the president and custodian of the nurseries.

Any newly-arrived "Army Daughters" are cordially urged to attend the next luncheon on October 3, at 12:30 in the Main Officers' Open Mess.

ATIO Committee Ladies Hold First Coffee

The first coffee of the season for the Advanced Tactics, Intelligence and Operations Committee, Command and Staff Department ladies group, was held recently at the home of Mrs. Ralph Whitt.

A world globe, pencils, erasers and other back to school items decorated the coffee table. The food fare consisted of chocolate brownies, date nut bread and little spice cakes.

At the business meeting Mrs. Whitt asked for volunteers for Thrift Shop work. A roster of hostesses for future ATIO coffees was drawn up. Mrs. Thomas S. Mclean was welcomed to the group and a farewell was bid to Mrs. Eugene Fisk whose husband has been transferred.

A new chapter in the book of knowledge has been opened, high school. What is in this chapter and the ones that follow depend on you and your self-determination. Perhaps the best way to learn the secrets of success in high school is by actual experiences.

We believe the most thorough method of gaining this success is by looking into the past and summing up what is held.

During a "pool-side chat" with lifeguard Jim Healy, a graduate of Baker High School, we gazed backward for awhile talking about high school and what a person should accomplish as a student.

Jim's ideas run along these lines. "Sometime in life a person must set a goal for himself. When a person makes that goal he should make it high and spend the rest of his life working toward the goal. Once the goal is made it should never be changed because it is too hard. A person could change his ideals, but not the basic goal.

"A person is in school for one reason, to learn. The most important thing is to learn to study. If you can't study, you won't be able to do anything in life. It doesn't matter what you do, but if you have a job set for yourself you should do it to the best of your ability."

We asked Jim, "What is the most essential thing a student does in his quest for knowledge?" Jim's emphatic reply was "homework".

"Each night when you put off homework it makes it that much harder. Not because it piles up, but because it's that much harder to sit down and start. If it's done every night, it's that much easier. A person should educate himself in schools as much as he is mentally and financially able.

"The diploma itself means nothing; its the work put in to achieve the diploma that really counts."

To this question, "How much should a person study?" Jim replied "Don't just stay home and study all the time. High school is an enjoyable part of life. So have fun. It's my opinion that every person should participate in some sport and extracurricular activity.

"Basically the most important thing in a person's life is that he be as completely honest as possible with himself and with others. He should form his own opinions and if he knows he is right, stick to them. No matter what other people may think.

"A person who has made a million dollars in life and has not been honest, in my opinion is a failure as a man. If you are honest you may not make a million dollars, but at least you'll be able to live with yourself."

Jim believes that the people who should take notice and heed these ideas won't because they think they are different. "I used to believe this was the case, but I know differently now. Sooner or later it comes to everyone."

What About The Gold Outflow?

What caused our balance of payments to become alarmingly lopsided in 1960? In the last half of that year both foreign and American investors transferred large sums of capital from the U.S. to European banks. A dip in our economy, accompanied by lowered interest rates, and the European economic boom with its expected higher interest rates were the primary causes for the sizeable shift in capital.

"Transferring capital doesn't necessarily involve transporting coins and paper money from the U.S. to Europe. Usually it is carried out by transferring money from one account to another one.

The reason for the lower interest rates here was to encourage borrowing and stimulate business expansion at a time of economic decline.

Conversely, Europeans raised their interest rates to discourage borrowing and control inflation. As a result, it became more profitable for investors to transfer capital to an area of higher return.

In addition, many speculators were influenced to place funds in European markets when it was thought that the gold value of the dollar might be changed. Such speculation subsided after President Kennedy made it clear that the price of gold would remain stable at $35 per ounce.

At the end of the year a deficit of $1.5 billion was seen, aside from the additional imbalance caused by interest and gold speculating. Although this deficit is sizeable, it showed an improvement over conditions in 1958 and 1959.

KELLEY HILL'S MODERN NEW CHAPEL
Dedicated Sunday, Will Serve Area's Three Battle Groups

Kelley Hill Chapel Dedicated Sun.; Third Army Chaplain is Speaker

By Div PIO

The new chapel in Kelley Hill was officially opened at 3 p.m. Sunday afternoon with dedication ceremonies featuring an address by Third Army Chaplain (Colonel) Harold H. Schulz.

Accepting the keys to the recently completed building was the Commanding General of the 2nd Infantry Division, Major General Charles H. Chase. The Post Engineer, Colonel Riel S. Crandall, presented the keys to General Chase.

'Most Important'

Speaking before a capacity congregation, General Chase said, "Our religious freedom is indeed one of the most important of all our freedoms here in America. We are most grateful for this new chapel with its fidelity to the religious motif."

The acoustics in the new edifice are excellent. The voices of a combined choir, led by Specialist Four Lester B. Gibbs of the 11th Infantry, swelled to full crescendos and muted to hushed tones throughout the nave section. At the organ was the 87th Infantry's Private Maurice W. Harne.

Lining the walkway into the chapel were the guidons from the companies of the three battle groups stationed at Kelley Hill. These are the 1st, 11th and 87th Infantries.

Invocation for the dedication was given by Chaplain (Captain) Hugh C. McKeown, Catholic Chaplain for Kelley Hill. A Jewish Chaplain from the Infantry Center, Chaplain (Lieutenant) Natafli Friedman, read the 84th Psalm. Final acceptance of the chapel keys was taken by the 11th Infantry Chaplain, Chaplain (Captain) Frank E. Deese.

Keys

Taking the keys from General Chase and presenting them to Chaplain Deese was the Area Co-ordinator for Kelley Hill, Colonel Robert E. Connor. Colonel Connor is the commanding officer of the division's 87th Infantry.

The top chaplain for the 2nd Division, Chaplain (Lieutenant Colonel) James H. Fiser, rendered the vocal prayer for the ceremony. Benediction was given by Chaplain (Colonel) Silas E. Decker, the Post Chaplain for Fort Benning.

Chaplain Schulz, giving the dedication address, used as his central theme the slogan "In God We Trust." He traced the history of the United States from its early birth through the present day, emphasizing the desire of Americans to rely

Pakistani General To Visit Division

Corps Commander Cited For Cassino Gallantry

Lieutenant General Pakhtiar Rana, Corps Commander and Martial Law Administrator, Zone "B," Pakistan Army, is to visit the 2nd Infantry Division, September 22 while on a tour of Fort Benning.

During World War II, Gen. Pakhtiar Rana served in the Middle East and Italy. He was wounded twice, once in Cassino in 1944 and then at Gothac Line later that year.

Military Cross

For his gallantry at Cassino, he was awarded the Military Cross. His battalion was part of the 8th Indian Division.

Following assignment as commander of a battalion in Italy, he was assigned to the Royal Gharwal Rifles.

After the partition of the subcontinent, Gen. Pakhtiar Rana took command of the 6th Royal Battalion, the Frontier Force Rifles (now the 1st Frontier Force Regiment).

Immediately upon resumption of command of the battalion, it took part in the defense of Pakistan.

He took command of the 103rd Brigade in 1949 after being promoted to Brigadier General and was appointed Inspector General Frontier Force from 1953 to 1955.

"Golden Arrow"

After being promoted to Major General in 1955, he took command of the 8th Division to be followed by command of the 7th "Golden Arrow" Division. He left the 7th Division in 1958 upon promotion to Lieutenant General and appointment as 1st Corps Commander.

Gen. Pakhtiar Rana's awards and decorations include the Sitara - i - Quaid - i Azam, Military Cross, Border Defense Medal, Republic Medal, Pakistan Medal, North West Frontier Operations Medal, Waziristan Operations Medal, World War II Star, Italian Star, Defense Medal, War Medal and the Coronation Medal.

The Pakistani general is a hockey, soccer and tennis fan and lately has taken up golf. His hobbies include shooting and photography, and he is a student of history.

Drone Reported AWOL From 2nd Aviation Co.

Anybody seen a drone?

If you have, then the 2nd Aviation Company would like to hear from you. They lost radar track of an SD-1 Drone about 10 days ago while it was flying some 2,000 feet over a training area. It has not been found.

Not a Weapon!

The ground - controlled, pilotless aircraft primarily is used for aerial photography and survey, and is not a weapon, aviation officials stressed. It was in no way armed. With a 15-foot wing span and a length of 15 feet, the ship weighs 430 pounds and is painted red and white.

However, if the parachute failed to open — or was late in opening — it is believed to have landed in a sparsely - populated area outside the reservation.

Anyone who may know the whereabouts of the AWOL drone should notify the 2nd Division Public Information Office (544-7501 or 544-7522).

9th Inf. Regt. Around the Campfire

Reenlistments

Sergeant First Class William Bowman with 19 years to his credit, last week took the oath to fill his own vacancy for another three years. Sergeant Bowman is assigned to Headquarters Company, 9th Infantry and resides on post with his wife and children.

Assignments

The new liaison officer of Battle Group Headquarters, 9th Infantry, Captain Alan T. Herwedel, a West Point graduate with a bachelor's degree in Military Science, holds the Expert Infantryman Badge, Master Parachutist Badge and the Airborne Ranger Tab.

He came to the 9th from the 87th Infantry and lives on post with his wife and three children.

Lieutenant Richard E. Caravana was recently assigned to Company E, Second Battle Group, 47th Infantry as Executive Officer. Lt. Caravana previously served in this unit from June 1958 to July 1960 as a rifle platoon leader.

Lt. Caravana enlisted in the Army in October 1956 and served over two years with the 504th Airborne Infantry Regiment. While an enlisted man, he attended the Basic Airborne school, the Advanced NCO Academy, Air Transportability, and Air Delivery School.

Arrivals

Major George M. Wallace II recently took charge of Battle Group S-3 (Training and Operations) in the 9th Infantry. The Major, a 1945 graduate of West Point, holds a bachelor's degree in Military Science.

Prior to his last assignment, in Hawaii, Major Wallace was Aide-de-Camp to General I. D. White while he was Commander-in-Chief in the Pacific from May 1959 to March 1961. Major Wallace has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal with the second Oak Leaf Cluster and the Parachutist Badge. He is also an expert glidermen.

The Major, his wife and three children reside here at Fort Benning.

Captain Henry E. Thomas Jr., having just completed a course at the 2nd Infantry Division Officer School has joined forces with the 9th Infantry as the assistant S-4 (Supply) at Battle Group Headquarters.

Captain Thomas, a graduate of Lincoln University, holds a bachelor's degree in physical education and displays the Expert Infantry Badge.

Departures

Captain Samuel H. Epps will depart the 3rd Reconnaissance Squadron, 7th Cavalry after more than two and a half years service in that unit.

Captain Epps has received orders to proceed to Fort Hood, Texas for assignment in the Third Corps Headquarters.

Captain Epps has served in many capacities in the squadron: Troop Commander and Personnel and Squadron Maintenance Officer. He is currently Squadron Motor Officer.

23rd Inf. Experiences 'Living in the Field'

The 23rd Infantry left its Sand Hill barracks Monday for four days of tenting and training in the field.

Purpose of the bivouac was to give the battle group a "shakedown" to determine what problems would arise when the unit took to the field. Also, it provided the troops with experience in living under tactical field conditions. The campout area was located on the Fort Benning Reservation.

Company commanders and other officers marched their troops to the bivouac site. Essential elements of Headquarters Company followed to set up the required administrative and logistical support needed to maintain a battle group in the field.

During the week great emphasis was placed on small unit training. Each company was assigned a specific area in which to carry out rifle squad drills, day and night patrols and communications training. The companies were instructed to take full advantage of their area's terrain features for training purposes.

Maintaining control and coordinating activities was Colonel Louis A. Kunzig, battle group commander. He set up headquarters in the bivouac area and remained in the field during the training.

This week's bivouac marked the first time the entire battle group had gone to the field since the 2nd Division began training for its new combat-ready mission. Once the men have been trained sufficiently in small unit tactics, the companies will take part in battle group field problems.

While on their four - day campout the 23rd was supplied completely with its own Table of Organization and Equipment.

Four in 9th Inf Top Graduates

By 9th Inf PIO

Sergeant John Raess of the 9th Infantry Personnel section was rated last week as an exceptional student when he graduated from a three-week Military Pay Procedure Course at Main Post.

Also with high honors were Privates First Class Elsey Heath, Alan Eider and Glen Summers all of whom are personnel clerks in Headquarters Company, 9th Infantry.

The graduation exercise was at Patrick Hall on Main Post. Col. Milton G. Schneider, The Infantry Center Adjutant General, spoke to the class and presented the Certificates of Training.

Engineer Bn. Receives New Commander

By 2nd Engr. Bn. PIO

Lieutenant Colonel Edwin T. O'Donnell assumed command of the division's 2nd Engineer Battalion recently in ceremonies held in the unit's headquarters.

Col. O'Donnell comes to the division from an assignment in Korea.

He is a graduate of the United States Military Academy and has attended both the Engineer Officers' Advanced Course and the Command and General Staff College.

His assignments during his years of service include the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project, Military Operations Division, Office of the Chief of Engineers, Headquarters United States Army Europe, and Plans Division, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics, Department of the Army.

Col. O'Donnell lives on post with his wife, Patricia, and four children, Kathleen, Thomas, Terrie, and Kevin.

Speaking briefly to the group, Lt. Col. Alvro L. Parsons stated his pleasure of having served with the 2nd Engineer Battalion and its members.

Col. Parson's last official act was to pin a first lieutenant's bar on Lieutenant Denton Pearsall, executive officer of Company D.

The former engineer battalion commander has departed for assignment with the Engineer Committee, United States Army Infantry Center.

11th Infantry Holds Four-Day Bivouac

By 11th Inf PIO

The 11th Infantry, commanded by Colonel John E. Arthur, this week held the first four-day bivouac in its new training phase.

Having previously completed Advanced Individual Training, the battle group now is undergoing a rigorous schedule of unit training.

Men Hear CO As They Get New Div Jobs

By 11th Inf PIO

The 11th Infantry recently had 193 of its men reassigned to various units in the 2nd Infantry Division.

Colonel John E. Arthur, battle group commander, spoke to the departing personnel at the headquarters building. He explained that their selections were based on Military Occupational Specialties and they would occupy key positions in their new units and be expected to train and supervise other troops.

'Fine Job'

Colonel Arthur thanked the men for the "fine job they had done" for the 11th Infantry and wished them "good luck" in their new assignments.

One hundred and thirty-one will join the 9th Infantry and 37 of the reassigned personnel will go to the 23rd Infantry.

Kelley Hill's 1st Infantry will be the new home of 25 of the reassigned men.

Div Trainee Guarded Ike

A former Palm Springs, California, patrolman who was assigned to guard ex-President Eisenhower when he visited that city is in training with the 2nd Division.

Private David M. Winkler was assigned along with four other patrolmen and four secret service men to guard Mr. Eisenhower while on a vacation in California.

Winkler, presently assigned to the division's MP unit, was a deputy sheriff with Riverside County, California. He was assigned to the Indio Station and was responsible for patrolling the City of Palm Springs.

LA College

Private Winkler attended Los Angeles City College for two years, obtaining a degree in Police Administration. He then went to Los Angeles State College for an additional year, majoring in the same field.

Private Winkler joined the sheriff's department during February 1960, and remained there until he was inducted in February 1961.

He now is taking non-resident courses in Police Administration to stay abreast of his work.

Security Platoon Physically Activated, Undergoes Revised Training Program

By Dave Harrell

The very important mission of protecting the Division Command Post falls to the Security Platoon of Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the 2nd Infantry Division.

Due to the new mission of the 2nd Division, the Security Platoon was physically re-activated on August 14.

Accomplishments

To date they have accomplished familiarization firing of the .30 caliber machine gun and the .45 caliber pistol on Gill and Arkman Ranges. Also fired was the 3.5 inch rocket launcher on RL-1 Range.

Last week the platoon fired the first phase of two parts using the Browning Automatic Rifle. The second phase was completed on Tuesday of this week.

Future subjects to be presented include: patrolling, map reading, land mine warfare, hand to hand combat, squad and platoon tactics and demolition operations.

Commanding the platoon is Lieutenant Perry J. Owens. He hails from Atlanta, Ga. and is a graduate of the Officer Candidate School here. He has served three years in the Army with one year in the enlisted ranks. He graduated from the Officer Candidate School on April 11, 1960 and became Security Platoon Leader on August 7 of this year.

Lt. Owens prepares all training schedules and lesson plans which will be followed during the combat training period. Subjects were selected from the Army Training Program.

All subjects are taught completely by the non-commissioned officers assigned to the platoon. According to Lt. Owens, "the ultimate goal of the training is to assure that the platoon becomes completely combat ready by the end of the program."

Second in command is Sergeant First Class Wilburn N. Clark. He has 13 years in the Army, during which he served with the 1st Cavalry and the 24th Division in Korea during 1950. He was then assigned to General Headquarters, Far East, as part of a Military Advisory Group.

NCO Acts to Save Lives with Blood

By 9th Inf PIO

Calls for blood get a quick answer at the 9th Infantry.

Sergeant Ethan C. Robbins of the 9th Infantry Aid Station has received two calls in recent months requesting emergency blood donations.

Quick action resulted in two lives saved from possible death.

Last May, Sgt. Robbins received a call from a friend in Eufaula, Alabama asking for blood after a search throughout the Eufaula area had failed to locate the rare blood type.

Sgt. Robbins asked for blood donors and two 9th Infantry men responded. The trio sped to Eufaula in Sgt. Robbins' private car and hours later a young boy, who had suffered a ruptured spleen, was saved from permanent injury and possible death. Sgt. Robbins said he had received word recently that the youth has almost completely recovered from his injury.

Recently, Sgt. Robbins received a similar call from a friend in Phenix City. Blood was needed for a Phenix City woman and an immediate transfusion was necessary.

Three 9th Infantry enlisted men answered Sgt. Robbins' call for donations and once again a life was rescued from possible death.

Sgt. Robbins, giving assurance that future calls will not go unanswered, said he "is always ready to help."

87th NCOs Hold Review

By 87th PIO

The 87th Infantry, the senior battle group on Kelley Hill, held an NCO parade and review at Essenbagger Field last Saturday morning.

The review was held in recognition of the non-prior service personnel of the battle group and signified the completion of the final phase of training. To symbolize this achievement, members of the 87th wore their blue infantry cords for the first time.

Commander

The battle group was led by Sergeant Major Harry Hopkins, who acted in the capacity of commander-of-troops.

Major General Charles H. Chase, division commander and guest speaker for the occasion, stated that the job of the 87th was to "get ready and to get ready fast." The most important single factor is to work together as a team, he said. "We must train for an emergency," he declared, adding that a new program of training would go into effect soon.

Two men received awards in recognition of outstanding achievements during the month of August. Sergeant First Class Howard Lawson, mess sergeant of Combat Support Company was presented with the best mess plaque.

Sergeant James H. Cain, also from Combat Support Company was presented with the "Soldier-of-the-Month" award.

Company C was chosen to carry the battle group colors. Music was provided by the 2nd Infantry Division Band.

He Gets Promotion, ACM All in 2 Days

A brief span of two days proved quite eventful for Master Sergeant George D. Pitts at the 11th Infantry's Headquarters Company.

Sgt. Pitts, S-3 operations sergeant, was promoted to the pay grade of E-8 on September 1 in ceremonies at Division Headquarters.

The next day, he was awarded the Army Commendation Medal (First Oak Leaf Cluster) by Colonel John E. Arthur, 11th commander.

Sgt. Pitts was cited for "meritorious service during the period of 6 July 1959 to 10 May 1961 as operations sergeant of the Ranger Department."

122nd Signal Battalion Ranks Boosted by Eight

By 122nd Signal Bn

Four officers and four non-commissioned officers reported for duty to the 122nd Signal Battalion during the last week of August.

Major Joe T. Ely comes to the battalion from the 1st Infantry Brigade, where he served as Signal Officer. He has assumed the duties of Assistant Division Signal Officer with the 122nd.

Other Duties

In addition to his tour of duty with the 1st Infantry Brigade, Maj. Ely has served as Signal Advisor to the Turkish Signal School in the Replacement Training Center; Chief, Plans and Requirements Branch, Southeastern Signal School, Fort Gordon, Georgia; and the Fourth Signal Battalion where he served as company commander, executive officer and S-3 (Training and Operations).

Maj. Ely is married and resides with his wife, Mary C., and three children, Joe T. Jr., Cheryl and Jennifer, at 229 Austin Lane, Fort Benning.

Lt. Mooney will assume duties as Headquarters Company Commander succeeding Captain Harry E. Duensing, who is leaving the battalion for duty with the 2nd Aviation Company.

Finishes Course

Lieutenant Anthony Bastiani reported into the battalion for duty following completion of the Basic Signal Officers' Course at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey. Lt. Bastiani is assigned to Company A as rear platoon leader.

Lieutenant David E. Spangler comes to the battalion following completion of the Basic Course at Fort Monmouth and is assigned as a platoon leader in Company B.

Non-commissioned officers reporting into the battalion were Sergeants Robert A. Martorella, Paul G. Branson, William G. Mullis and Corporal Melvin J. Whitehead. All four have been assigned to duty in Company A in the Radio Terminal and Carrier Sections of the company.

9th Infantry Goodie Sale A Success

By 9th Inf PIO

The 9th Infantry's Labor Day "Goodie Sale" last week was deemed a "hue sucess."

Credit for this gathering of "gourmets" goes out to the wives of the 9th's offiers and Non commissioned Officers. The ladies contributed cakes, cookies and many other culinary masterpieces prepared for the most particular palate.

Proceeds from the sale went into unit funds and the "Manchu" fund to benefit the entire battle group.

Captain Fuller Named Surgeon At 11th Infantry

By 11th Inf PIO

Captain Henry Fuller Jr. recently became battle group surgeon of the 11th Infantry.

Captain Fuller joined the 11th Infantry after serving one year as battle group surgeon with the 87th Infantry and acting as surgeon for the 1st Infantry and the 11th Infantry at the Kelley Hill dispensary. The 1st and the 87th now each have battle group surgeons, marking the first time all three units on Kelley Hill have had their own surgeons.

A graduate of the medical school at the University of Miami in Miami, Florida, Captain Fuller received his commission there in 1959 and was sent to Fort Benning where he interned at Martin Army Hospital for one year before joining the 87th Infantry.

A native of Lakeland, Florida, Captain Fuller is married and has one son.

Div Marksmanship Detachment Disbanded

By Div PIO

The 2nd Infantry Division's Marksmanship Detachment has been temporarily disbanded. Due to the current combat-readiness program of the division, and under the present Table of Organization and Equipment, the Marksmanship Detachment is not authorized, therefore the demobilization.

Contrary to popular conception, the Marksmanship Detachment is not just a group of the division's better marksmen, travelling from match to match in competition. True, the detachment participates in many rifle and pistol matches yearly, and in each case brings the name of the 2nd Infantry Division to the attention of people all over the country. Many men of the division's detachment are assigned to higher teams, such as the Advanced Marksmanship Unit at the Infantry Center, and even the All-Army teams.

Primary Mission

The primary mission of the marksmanship detachment, however, is to make better riflemen within the division. Members of the detachment have, during the training mission of the 2nd Division, given demonstrations of the use of the service rifle, anti-fear demonstrations, and the proper procedures in firing the M-1 rifle.

In the case of individuals who seem to have trouble mastering the use of the rifle, members of the detachment give separate instruction and aid.

In match participation the 2nd Division Marksmanship Detachment has consistently made good showings. Each of these showings is a direct reflection on the division as a whole, and the high scores and trophies won by detachment members have added to the prestige of the division throughout the country.

In the recent Camp Perry, Ohio, rifle and pistol championships, the top firing competition in the United States, the 2nd Division Marksmanship Detachment came home with three awards in the Grand Aggregate Pistol Contests, and three other awards in separate pistol aggregate contests. In addition, the detachment brought home 19 individual awards in the pistol contests alone.

Official sources have said that the marksmanship detachment may be mobilized again in the near future.

Club Birthday Celebrated Tuesday at Supper Club

The members of the 2nd Division Officers Wives Club and their honored guests gathered at the Supper Club on Tuesday to celebrate the club's third birthday anniversary.

Hostesses for the occasion were the ladies of the 87th Infantry, under the joint general chairmanship of Mrs. Robert E. Connor and Mrs. Douglas W. Syverson.

Committees

Mrs. James M. Halpin was in charge of the decorations. She was assisted by Mrs. Howard Steele, Mrs. Carl W. Warren and Mrs. Robert C. Young.

Mrs. John H. Woodyard headed the sherry committee. Major General Charles H. Chase, 2nd Infantry Division commanding general, was a special guest speaker.

The birthday theme was carried out with balloons of varied colors on stands on the tables and bellium - filled balloons bunched behind the headtable.

Colored hats, nosegays and birthday cakes were on each table. The cakes, baked by the ladies of the 87th Infantry, were decorated by Lieutenant James E. Bopp. A number was placed at one setting on each table. The persons receiving the numbers won the cakes.

Speaker

General Chase, special guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Ralph H. Hughett, first vice president of the 2nd Division Officers Wives Club.

Speaking to the ladies, General Chase reminded them of the importance of the division's new mission, commending them for the work they were doing in boosting the overall morale. He wished the club the "best of luck" on its third birthday and on the work to come.

General Chase and Mrs. Louis A. Kunzig Jr., president of the club, joined together in cutting a large birthday cake in honor of the occasion.

Among the other honored guests were Brigadier General Royal Reynolds Jr., assistant division commander, Colonel Gustav M. Bachanach, chief of staff, and the Generals' aides.

Battalion CO and Wife Welcomed with Dinner

The officers and their wives of the 122nd Signal Battalion held a welcoming dinner recently for the new Battalion Commander, Major Herbert W. Coburn, and Mrs. Coburn in the Anzio Room of the Main Officers' Open Mess.

WELCOMED
Major Coburn

Guests were greeted on the South Porch of the club where a social hour was enjoyed followed by dinner in the Anzio Room.

Color Scheme

In accordance with the Signal Corps colors, a color scheme of orange and white was used in the decoration of the room with a floral arrangement of orange gladioli in the room.

Following the dinner hour, Captain Arnold E. Sanderlin, adjutant, introduced Major and Mrs. Coburn.

Major Coburn then introduced new officers to the group.

Cook of the Week

Hors d'Oeuvre, Ma'am?

This week's recipe, submitted by Marie Kenney, will be a perfect hors d'oeuvre for the next gathering you have. Marie and her husband, Captain John S. Kenney, commanding officer of Headquarters Company, 1st Infantry, live at 127 Arrowhead Road with their five-year-old daughter, Cathy. Marie's main interests are ceramics and sewing.

Chestant Meatballs

Soak 2 cups breadcrumbs in ½ cup milk. Add to ½ lb. ground chuck and ½ lb. bulk sausage. Season with ½ teaspoon onion powder, 1 teaspoon garlic salt, 1 tablespoon soy sauce, ½ teaspoon hot pepper sauce, ½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate. Add 1 small can Chinese water chestnuts, chopped fine.

Mix and shape into four dozen small meatballs. Roll in cracker crumbs and fry in deep fat at 375 degrees for about 5 minutes.

87th Infantry Society Notes

Captain and Mrs. W. Bacon entertained several couples at a supper party in their home.

The Bacons very recently moved from Terry Dr. to First Division Rd. Among the guests were Major and Mrs. H. Steele, Major and Mrs. R. Rush, Capt. and Mrs. Dion Johnson, and Capt. and Mrs. C. Warren.

Captain and Mrs. Alan Horwedel were honored with a farewell dinner at the Supper Club by the officers and their ladies of Company A, 87th Infantry. Capt. Horwedel has been transferred to the 9th Infantry.

Fall Atlanta Trip

Mrs. Bilbo Nowell was hostess recently for the monthly meeting of the 2nd Division Sergeant Majors' wives held at the NCO Open Mess.

Plans were discussed for a trip to Atlanta in late September or October for shopping and pleasure.

Those attending were Mrs. Lory Bell, Mrs. Basil Plumley, Mrs. Lloyd A. Pincanline, Mrs. Wattie St. John Jr., Mrs. E. A. Owens, Mrs. J. L. Runyon, Mrs. R. B. Patterson, Mrs. Stephen Regan, Mrs. Howard Gregory, Mrs. Eubert Linticum Jr. and Mrs. Robert L. Brown.

The session will be held at 7 p.m. in the Main Officers' Open Mess. Reservations may be made with Lt. Col. Frederick W. Hindley, Martin Army Hospital Clinical Laboratory, at telephone 544-3002.

"Management's Self - Inflicted Wounds — A Formula for Executive Self Analysis" will be Col. Austin's subject. He has served as executive officer of the 2nd Battle Group, 1st Infantry, 2nd Infantry Division since June and the previous five months was executive officer of the division's 1st Battle Group, 11th Infantry.

Col. Austin received a master's degree in business administration "with high distinction" from Harvard University in 1955 and is working toward a doctorate in business administration at that institution. Three years later (1958) he received a bachelor of science degree in military science from the University of Maryland.

The Three R's

School Bells Call

By CLAY LACY

"School days, school days, "Dear old Golden Rule days—"

Gone from the American scene is the once heralded clarion call of a crystal toned school bell that beckoned the youth into the red brick schoolhouse for skull sessions in readin', 'rite' and 'rithmetic.

But with or without this bit of nostalgia, Indianhead members of the 2nd Infantry Division sent their youngsters off to another school year this past week.

Various Schools

Children of 2nd Division personnel are attending schools, elementary, junior high and high, both here at Fort Benning and in the schools of the surrounding area.

For high school students there was a choice of Baker High School, home of the Lions; Columbus High, the Blue Devils; Jordan High, the Red Jackets, and Pacelli High, the Vikings. All these schools are located in Columbus. In addition there is Central High School in Phenix City, the Imps.

At Fort Benning, the younger Indianhead dependents will attend Patch, Hospital Area, Lloyd, Wilbur or Faith Schools. Post facilities handle children from kindergarten through the eighth grade.

Transportation to the various schools will be furnished by Fort Benning to include dependents attending high schools in the Columbus area such as Baker and Columbus High.

For youngsters attending school at Fort Benning, there will be many additional activities throughout the school year, supported by organizations such as the Youth Activities Council. Also on slate will be activities for parents of school children since the post Parent-Teachers Association is quite active with regular monthly programs on tap.

So, though some drag their feet while other skip lightly, some tote scads of textbooks while some tuck a single edition under their arm; all will be heading for the unheard but not forgotten clarion call of the "little red schoolhouse."

The speaker is the author of several articles on leadership and management which have appeared in "Army" and "Armed Forces Management" and have been reprinted in business and industrial publications and foreign military journals.

1st Infantry Sergeant Survived Death March

BY 1ST INF PIO

First Sergeant Wilson R. Mouser of Headquarters Company, 1st Infantry is this week's selection as "A Man Doing A Man's Job."

All of Sergeant Mouser's 18½ years of service have been with combat troops, beginning with his original enlistment at Ft. Hayes, Ohio, in 1941.

He was assigned to the 1st Armored Division at Ft. Knox, Kentucky, and in September, 1941, was sent to the Philippine Islands where he was captured with other American troops in the Fall of Bataan. He survived the "Bataan Death March," which took the lives of many fellow prisoners, American and Philippine. They were forced to march for five days and nights without food, water or rest, with the exception of rest periods at noon, when the Japanese troops were fed. Failure to keep pace with the march meant instant death.

Sergeant Mouser was imprisoned for 34 months in three different Concentration Camps, and experienced many brutalities until he was liberated by the 37th Infantry Division in 1945.

He became a civilian later that year, but returned to Army service because, "I felt that the world was passing me by in civilian life, even though I had a good job and security. Something was missing, and I have found that something these last 14 years in the Infantry."

2nd Armored

Upon Sergeant Mouser's return to service, he was assigned to the 51st Infantry at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, which became a part of the 2nd Armored Division. The 2nd Armored Division went to Germany in 1951. Upon Sergeant Mouser's return to CONUS in 1954, he was assigned to Ft. Gordon, Georgia. He remained at Ft. Gordon until 1955 when he was transferred to the 3rd Armored Division at Fort Riley, Kansas. He was "gyroscoped" with the division to Germany in 1956.

Sergeant Mouser returned to the states in 1959 and was assigned to the 30th Infantry at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, until June, when he was assigned to his present duty at Headquarters Company.

on God for moral and spiritual strength.

"... there is a common agreement that 'In God We Trust' is a fitting slogan to challenge us and to remind us again and again that over and above our Government and nation there is the Supreme Ruler of the universe, God our Creator," he pointed out.

In closing, Chaplain Schulz urged the congregation, "Let this symbol of our faith ever remind us and strengthen in us the conviction 'In God We Trust.' Let us make real in our own lives the words, 'Faith of our Fathers, holy faith, we will be true to thee till death.'"

Division Trains Units Qualify at Darby Range

Medics, ordnance repairmen, drivers, cooks, bandsmen, supply and administrative clerks of Division Trains were at Darby Range last week familiarizing and qualifying in the primary job of every Soldier—being an effective infantryman.

The various technically-skilled troops had a common interest in learning to mold a better partnership with the M-1 Rifle, to become a more lethal combatant.

The course fired was the standard Combat Course for the known distance ranges. Personnel of the Division Trains Headquarters conducted the course for all the sub-units of Division Trains, in keeping with the policy that every Soldier is a member of a fighting team.

Separate Battalions Spikes 87th Inf To Grab Volleyball Championship

POINT FOR TANKERS
Sgt. Lee Spikes For Point, Victory

By Div PIO

Undefeated Separate Battalions overwhelmed once-beaten 87th Infantry on the latter's home court at Kelley Hill last week to capture the 2nd Infantry Division Volleyball Championship. The scores of the two games were 15-2, 15-4.

Sparked by hard-spiking Sgt. Alton Lee of Company D, the team, made up entirely of men from 69th Armor, started out rough and never let up.

Take Both Games

Separate Battalions, coming into the finals of the double elimination tournament without a defeat, won both games from the 87th on its home court, 15-2 and 15-4. Both games were played well within the eight-minute time limit.

The 87th Infantry got off on a winning note by winning the flip of the coin for the serve and promptly proceeded to take the first game point. However, from that point on, Separate Battalions took command for the rest of the route.

The 69th Armor team, coordinating both its offense and defense with precision, won the next 11 points in succession, allowed the 87th a single point, then closed out the game and also to the runner up 87th, but the individual units have not established dates as yet.

Team Rosters

The members of the championship team, all from 69th Armor, are 2nd Lieutenant Erwin Turner (team captain) of Company D; First Sergeant Oliver Garner of Company B; Master Sergeant Charles Beck (team manager) of Headquarters Company; Sergeant First Class Floncell Christian of Headquarters Company.

Sergeant Murray Pledger of Company B; Sergeant Alton Lee of Headquarters Company; Specialist Five Carrie Fleming of Company A; Specialist Five Jay R. Riffle of Company E; Private First Class Ramos Sanchez of Company D; and Private Jose Castro of Company D.

Making up the 87th Infantry team are Lieutenant Vincent V. Elequin of Headquarters Company; Lieutenant George A. Krajack of Company E; Sergeant Burl J. Withers (team captain) of Headquarters Company; Specialist Four Ronald L. Guy of Headquarters Company; Privates Billy J. Sloops and Marvin S. King, both of Headquarters Company; Private Michael Stearns of Company B; Private Raymond E. Ross of Company C; Private Chester Berroud of Company E; and Private Robert E. Grimes of Company A.

DEFENDING CHAMPS FOURTH

87th, Sep Bns Eye CG's Trophy

By Chuck Foster

The 87th Infantry holds a narrow four-point advantage over Separate Battalions in the July-December season of competition for the Commanding General's Sports Trophy... but both lead the rest of the pack by substantial margins.

With four of the eight events in which points are given toward the coveted award already in the past, the 87th Infantry and Separate Battalions have made it known they are the teams to beat.

Two other teams have good chances of overtaking the current leaders, and two more teams stand outside chances to win the prize which symbolizes excellence in athletic competition in division and higher-level competition.

Division Artillery is currently in third place and Division Trains, winner in both the July-December and December - July seasons of last year, is sitting in fourth place.

The teams with outside chances are the 1st Infantry and 9th Infantry but both have a long way to go before knocking down the current leaders.

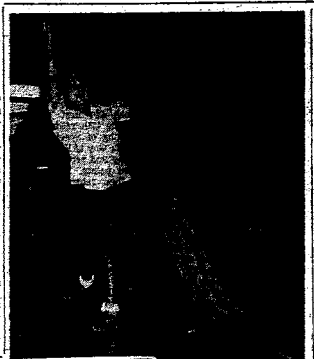
Teams from the 87th Infantry have amassed 126 points toward the trophy but Separate Battalions is right behind with 122.

Holding down the third spot is Division Artillery with 98 and in fourth place is Division Trains with 93 points. The other point breakdown is 1st Infantry, 76; 9th Infantry, 67; 22nd Infantry, 3; and 11th Infantry has yet to make a point.

Events already having been conducted are the Division tennis tournament, Division golf tournament, company - level volleyball, and the Division volleyball tournament.

The four events yet to take place are the Division Cross Country Run, scheduled September 22, company - level flag football which gets underway next month, Division flag football tournament and company - level basketball. The Division basketball tournament will be conducted in the December-July season.

Defending champs Division Trains got off to a good start in the competition for this season's trophy by compiling 35 points in the Division tennis tournament. Division Artillery was right on their backs, however, with 32 points.



Separate Battalions, now in second place, failed to score a single point in the Division tennis tourney and had only two points in the Division golf tournament.

However, they had a field day in volleyball and scored heavily in both company - level and division level competition. They captured 25 points in company-level play and received a whopping 95 points en route to winning the Division volleyball tournament championship last week.

The 87th Infantry, the current leaders, have scored in every event, as has Division Artillery, in third place. The Conquerors took four points in the Division tennis tournament, 22 in the Division golf tournament, 25 in company - level volleyball and 30 in the Division volleyball tournament.

Division Artillery gathered in 32 points in the Division tennis tournament, 11 in the Division golf tournament, 25 in company-level volleyball and 30 in the Division volleyball tournament.

Ladies Form Bowling Loop

Mrs. Muriel Swango was elected president of the new 2nd Division Officers' Wives Bowling League, which was organized at the Main Post Bowling Center this week.

The other officers for the league, which is sponsored by the 2nd Division Officers' Wives Club, are Mrs. Vertie Crooks, vice president; Mrs. Marguerite Bolen, secretary; Mrs. Pauline Keebaugh, treasurer; and Mrs. Doris Hughett, sergeant-at-arms.

Immediately following the election of officers, the women bowled three games for average on which a team assignment will be made.

87th's Company E Grabs First Place

By 87th Inf PIO

Company E apparently is the team to beat in the newly-formed Conquerors bowling league.

Sporting an undefeated streak of eight games, Echo bowlers have knocked over a total of 4,349 pins. Second place is being held down by Company C with a record of 6-2. Company A, the league leader last week, fell to third place.

OUTDOOR OUTLOOK

BY PFC DICK GIRTON

Turkey Shoot

The Fish and Game Maintenance Association is planning for the annual Turkey Shoot again this fall. The planning is still in the early stages and the date for the shoot has not been set but it appears that it will probably be held in early December.

The annual occasion includes prizes. There will undoubtedly be a fine selection of prizes again which usually include numerous items of hunting equipment such as shotguns and pistols along with fishing and outdoor picnic equipment.

Top item this year is expected to be a boat complete with motor and trailer. The shooting portion of the event consists of contest firing at small targets with shotguns. Winners have taken home nice turkies at the past shoots.

Fishing Imporves

With the cooler weather and recent rains there has been an increase in fishing activity on post. There have been reports that the bass and bream activity is picking up. Bass seem to be on the upswing and if you prefer the lunkers, Harps Pond is one of the more popular spots while Kings Pond is quite reliable for the one and two pound variety bass and nice sized bream.

Assistance With Program

During the past week the post Wildlife Coordinator and several members of the Wildlife Management Section met at the Regional Office of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service to begin formulating a long range wildlife management program for the military reservation.

Among the major considerations discussed was the significant part that control burning plays in maintaining favorable game habitat and management techniques to be used on permanent wildlife openings that are currently being developed through the reservation.

Deer On Increase

Wildlife aids report that the deer population on post continues to increase and from all indications they are spreading throughout the entire Reservation. It has been only within the past several years that the deer have ranged out to the northern portions of the post.

The larger concentrations still remain in the southern portions of the post bordering the Chattahoochee River and the adjoining Alabama area of the reservation.

Third Army Baseball Tournament

TSB Pockets Second In Contest at Bragg

BY SFC BISMARK STITH

The Student Brigade won second place in the Third Army baseball tourney at Fort Bragg, winning two and dropping two.

In the first game they edged Fort Gordon, 5-3, in a 12 inning game. Gordon scored a run in the third to take the lead when Chico Millan singled to short center, and Bates rapped a one-run single to left sending Millan across for the first tally.

Fort Benning struck back in the fourth to even the score when Doc Green drew a base on balls and Dave Brewer smacked a line drive to center scoring Green.

Gordon scored again in the fifth and Benning tied it in the seventh at 2-2. Both teams went scoreless until the top of the 12th when Benning scored three runs on two hits. Russ Taylor hit a single to right center, went to second on a balk, stole third on the next pitch and scored on a wild pitch. Earnest Landford got on on a fielder's choice. Elmer Smoot walked and Tom Monza cracked a two-run single to center to give his teammates a 5-2 victory.

John Orsini, Benning's fireball right-hander, started but was lifted in the sixth and replaced by Carroll Emery, who was credited with the win while Bill Pingle was tagged with the setback. The winners rapped nine hits with Monza and Dave Lynn leading the attack with two singles each.

Fort Benning dropped its first loss when the Screaming Eagles of Fort Campbell edged them in a 1-0 shutout. It was Campbell's third straight victory in the tourney.

The win came on an unearned run in the fourth inning when Campbell's shortstop Gerald Dupree reached first on an error, took second on an infield out, stole third and scored on a long fly to center by first baseman Larry Parker. Larry Dorsey pitched a three-hitter while Benning's southpaw Marty Leicht, who allowed only two hits, suffered the loss. Ray Young's two singles and Doc Green's blast to left field accounted for the Doughboy's three runs.

Win Evening Game

The Fort Benning team came back that evening and clipped Fort McPherson, 5-5, to go into the finals against Fort Campbell. The big blow for Benning was Doc Green's inside park solo home run in the second. Other leading hitters for Benning included Earnest Landford's two doubles and a single; Elmer Smoot got three hits, all singles, for four trips; and Dave Lynn had a two-run single and a double.

McPherson rallied in the bottom of the ninth for two hits and two runs, but was unable to bring across the winning tally. Wayne Sheffield went three innings for the Benning team giving up one hit and one run before John Orsini came in and went the distance to post the win for Sheffield.

Fort Campbell walloped Fort Benning 12-1 in the final game to clinch the title.

Dave Harris hurled three hit ball while his teammates were collecting 11 hits off the offerings of three Benning pitchers. Starting pitcher Carroll Emery, held the Eagles in check in the first inning but in the second the Eagles launched an attack that netted them five runs on four hits.

Rightfielder David Piemaz started off the uprising with a single, followed by a single by Larry Parker, a walk to Bob Jones, another single by Ed Crowley and a passed ball that accounted for two runs.

Harris reached first on a throwing error by the catcher and then he and Crowley came home on a fourth single by centerfielder Ray Robinson.

Campbell scored two more in the fourth when Benning catcher Dave Lynn missed a third strike thrown past Kim Arnold. Harris drew a walk advancing Arnold to second and singles by Robinson and Glenn Ricker brought them around.

Fort Benning scored its lone tally in the fifth, a single by Elmer Smoot, second baseman, a walk to Ernest Landford, a single by Tom Monza and an error.

The Eagles came back in the sixth with one run and two singles and an error. They added their final four runs in the seventh on two singles, a force out, fielder's choice and an error.

Crowley led the Eagles' batting attack with three singles in four times at bat and Parker went two for four.

Harris fanned nine Brigade players and walked one. Three Benning hurlers, Emery, Marty Leicht, and Monza, gave up

Post 'Doughboys' Open In Away Game Tomorrow

By Pfc Del Berghoefer

The Fort Benning Doughboys will open their 1961 footbal season this weekend when they journey to Camp Lejeune, N.C., to battle the Marine eleven.

The game, scheduled for 10 a.m. tomorrow, is the first contest of the season for both teams.

"We're still plagued by injuries," said Capt. Leaton C. Cofield, Doughboy head coach, "but if we can get through this first game in good shape, we'll do alright the rest of the season."

The team was strengthened at the end position with the addition of Henry M. Derleth who played college ball with the Wisconsin Badgers and was named to the scholastic All-American team.

Other new players who joined the Doughboys recently are Darrel D. Pursell, halfback; and Jefferson Sterling, fullback.

Tentative starters for the Camp Lejeune game include:

The backfield averages slightly more than 185 pounds and the linemen 225.

The Doughboys will play their first home game on October 7 when they meet the Fort Eustis team at the post's Doughboy Stadium.

10th Artillery Baseball Nine Get Trophies

Lt. Col. Edgar Sinclair, commanding officer of 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 10th Artillery, presented individual trophies to members of the 10th Artillery baseball team, the runner-up in The Infantry Center's baseball league.

The second place team trophy is slated to be awarded by Brig. General John E. Kelly, deputy post commander, at a later date.

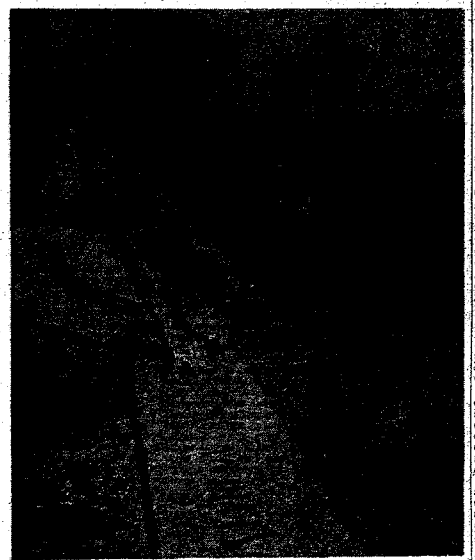
Special guest at the dinner was Mr. Vernon Lamp. Also attending were members of the staff, battery commanders, and 1st Sgts.

Outdoor Boxing Held Last Night

The first outdoor card of The Infantry Center's boxing session was scheduled to be held last night at Gowdy Field.

During the ten bouts card, the 29th Infantry was to try to increase its lead over the other teams entered.

Prior to last night the 29th led with 126 points scored in previous bouts. The 2nd Infantry Division Trains followed with 93 points and the 1st Armored Rifle Battalion, 58th Infantry, had 74 points.



The 10th Artillery and 151st Engineers had 51 and 42 points respectively. The Student Brigade and Center Troop Command had one point each.

ALMOST MADE IT . . . Col. Paul T. Clifford, director of The Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department, receives second place award in the senior division of the Third Army golf tournament at Fort Jackson. Col. Clifford finished second in the contest with a 72-hole score of 310, one stroke behind the winner.

LINDA SPURLIN (R) LEARNS KICK FROM INSTRUCTOR Buzz Healy (L) Helped Teach 600 Dependents During The Course

This Summer

600 Post Children Taught Swimming

Four water safety instructors and six senior life guards at the Main Officers' Open Mess swimming pool taught over 600 dependents in swimming classes this summer.

Students, ranging in age from 6 to 15 years, learned the many strokes and conditioning in basic, intermediate and swimmers classes which were conducted six days a week for a month.

Head instructor this year was Jerry Harrison. He led nine other dependents, who ranged in age from 17 to 22, in teaching the classes.

The third class in the 1961 program closed recently with an enrollment of nearly 200 students. The first class was held in June and the second class was held last month.

In the beginners or basic class, the new swimmer is instructed in six phases. At the end of each phase, which includes floating, breathing and other fundamentals, the swimmer is tested and advanced according to his ability.

Swimmers get into the basic strokes when in the intermediate class. The student is schooled on the breaststroke, sidestroke and the elementary backstroke.

In the final swimmers class the student goes through a refresher course of the three basic strokes and on to further achievements with the back crawl, both Australian and American.

Another important factor learned in the swimmers class is the gaining of stamina and endurance while in the water.

Also included in the swimming program this year were junior and senior lifesaving classes. Ten were qualified as junior lifesavers while six received the seniors rating.

The thoroughness of the swimming classes is proved in the excellent safety record at the Officers' Mess pool. During the summer there has been no serious injury.

All-Army Golf

The All-Army Golf Championship Tournament will be played at Fort Jackson between September 18 and 22.

The course, opened in 1949, is laid out over rolling hills spotted with sand traps and water hazards. Eighteen holes it is 7,002 yards long and par is 72.

TSB

11 hits struck out five and walked four.

A presentation was held at Fort Bragg's Bowley Field after the contest between Campbell and Benning. Robert Kinard, Benning's manager and coach, and Captain Herbert Powell, commanding officer, Headquarters Company, The Student Brigade, received the team trophy and the following players received electric razors for runner-up in the tourney:

Touch Football Opens Today At 1st Infantry Brigade

By Sfc Bismarck Stith

The 1st Infantry Brigade 1961 Touch Football season will get underway today with three leagues representing the major subordinate units.

Each major unit may have a league consisting of a team from each company or battery size unit.

The three leagues will be named "Two-Niners," for 1st Battle Group, 29th Infantry; "Redlegs," of 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 10th Artillery and the "RB" from 1st Armored Rifle Battalion, 58th Infantry.

The 72nd Engineer Company, of the Two-Niners league won the 1960 brigade championship by defeating Headquarters Battery of the Redlegs league, 6-0.

Donald Malpass, head coach of last year's champions will be looking forward for another championship berth this season.

Headquarters Battery, of the Redlegs league, last year's runner-up will be hard to take this year with most of last year's players returning this season.

In the ARB league, Headquarters Company, coached by James Gregory, lost out in the brigade playoffs but came back strong in the post tourney and tripped The Student Brigade in the finals to cop the 1960 Infantry Center Touch Football Championship.

At Third Army

Post Teams Defeated In Tourney Opener

The Third Army Softball Tournament officially opened Monday at Fort Jackson's Darby Field.

Fourteen teams are playing with the final games scheduled for today.

WAC DIVISION

In the opening games the Fort McClellan WACs overpowered the girls from Fort Benning by a 20-1 score.

Heavy hitting by McClellan and multiple errors by Benning enabled McClellan to chalk up the large score. They went ahead in the first inning by 2-0, and in the third went to 11-0. Benning's only run was forced in on a walk with the bases loaded.

MEN'S DIVISION

Fort Stewart defeated Fort Benning 3-0 behind the one hit pitching of Jimmy Tanner in the first afternoon game of the men's division.

The lone hit off Tanner, a single by losing pitcher Waren Paulk, just over the outstretched glove of first baseman Hal Morris, came with one gone in the seventh inning.

In winning Taner struck out four and allowed only three Benning players to reach third.

Stewart rallied two runs in the fifth frame. A single to left by Hal Halloris scored Robert Beatty who had walked and reached second on Tanner's sacrifice bunt, for the first score.

After being sacrificed down to third Halloris crossed home on Jack Brian's bounder over second base. The final Stewart run was scored by Joe Medley, who tripled off the left field fence and raced home on Angel Perez' long fly to left.

Mrs. Stafford Fires Solo Ace

Mrs. Cecile Stafford was presented a hole-in-one trophy last week at the Post Country Club by Paul Bumann, golf pro.

She scored the hole-in-one on the 128-yard fourth hole, lakeside, using a No. 3 wood.

Although she was playing alone at the time, the shot was witnessed by a club employee who was mowing the green.

According to Bumann, it is the first ace scored on the post course during his eight years as pro.

AT THE Movies

EXODUS stars Paul Newman, Eva Marie Saint, Sal Mineo, Peter Lewford and Lee J. Cobb. During the period when the Israeli underground was battling both the British and the Arabs in a struggle for independence, a group of heroic men, women and children fight their way to freedom by following a courageous underground leader. In color and Cinemascope.

EVERYTHING'S DUCKY, starring Mickey Rooney and Buddy Hackett, sees sanity fly the coop when two goofy gobs give the chicks the go-by to net a buck with an intellectual duck. Jackie Cooper stars as the psychologist.

THE LADIES MAN, starring Jerry Lewis with Helen Traubel, is a comedy wherein you see Jerry as a girl-shy upstairs man-of-all-work in a Hollywood hotel for girls only. It's one of the most hilarious ideas since the invention of the belly-laugh, say the producers.

Housewife Wins $729

A Fort Benning housewife watching one of her favorite television programs recently won $729.90.

With her family, Mrs. Bertha Mingey, still wearing her apron, watched breathlessly as a grocery clerk on the CBS program "Your Surprise Package," Columbus Station WRBL-TV, competed for her in a race against a ticking stop watch.

Mrs. Mingey's proxy had to correctly refold a road map. The time clock was set at $900, the amount of the prize to be reduced at the rate of $30 per second.

By the time the map was folded, Mrs. Mingey was trembling. It had been a long 8.67 seconds for her.

As the flashing clock stopped at $729.90, she exclaimed, "And all I did was send in a post card. I can't even remember when I sent it."

Mrs. Mingey is the wife of Sgt Major Thomas A. Mingey, assigned to the Infantry Board.

Congratulating his wife on her prize money, the sergeant reminded her that he was a winner once. In a contest at an appliance store in West Point, N.Y., Sgt Mingey won a trip to Bermuda for the entire family.

Yom Kippur Services Set at Post

Jewish personnel will attend Yom Kippur services at The Infantry Center Chapel at 6:30 p.m. next Tuesday and 9 a.m. Wednesday.

The services will be conducted by Chaplain (1st Lt.) Naftali Friedman, post Jewish chaplain, assisted by Pvt. Stanley Stone, chaplains assistant.

Arrangements for the special services were made by The Infantry Center Chaplain Section and the National Jewish Welfare Board.

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, is the last of the Ten Days of Repentance which began with Rosh Hashanah, the New Year, September 10.

According to Jewish tradition, the ten-day period is a time for repentence, prayer and charity in preparation for Yom Kippur, the holiest day of the year.

Red Cross Recruitment Program Said to be 'Inspiring' by Girls

"My experience at Martin Army Hospital this summer has inspired me to continue in this line of work after I graduate next May."

This is how Miss Dixie Lee Couch sums up her opinion of the Red Cross recruitment program taking place at three hospitals in the Third Army area.

This summer placement program for college students provides an opportunity to see day by day activities of a Red Cross hospital staff.

Miss Couch has found work with patients in the wards the most interesting phase.

"Each patient is different with different interests," she said. "Ward activities must be geared to suit the interests of these patients."

By living in a military setting the students are acquainted with policies, procedures and the function of the Red Cross in a hospital.

"Regardless of what I may finally choose as my vocation," said Miss Brenna Willis, "I believe the experiences I have had this summer will be beneficial to me."

Under guidance and supervision of trained social service and recreation workers, the students have a variety of assignments during the summer months, including assisting in recreation projects for patients and in case ward services.

"I think one of the most interesting parts of the job for me was working with a particular psychiatric patient," Miss Willis continued. "In trying to establish a relationship with the patient and others, I have been able to apply principles and techniques of social case ward."

The summer work at Martin Army Hospital is Miss Willis' first experience with the Red Cross after becoming interested in the program through the head of the Sociology department at her school.

Miss Mary Jo Mayton, another student at the hospital is a graduate student of the University of Georgia and has studied a year of the University of Tennessee.

"The most interesting phase of my work has been with the doctors, using the team approach of giving service to the patients. It has broadened my understanding of the meaning of illness to them.

"The wonderful cooperation of the hospital staff," she continued, "has certainly made to making this summer both the job easier and contributed profitable and pleasant."

Future Officer Assignments Are Outlined To TIS Career Classes by Gen. Jablonsky

New Army personnel requirements necessitated by the changing world situation were discussed last week by Brig. Gen. Harvey J. Jablonsky, chief of the Infantry Officers Division, the Army's Directorate of Officer Assignments.

Gen. Jablonsky spoke to the 400 students attending The Infantry School's officer career classes on what they may expect in the way of future assignments, promotions and schooling.

"We are increasing our Army in Europe, increasing the STRAC (Strategic Army Corps) divisions in the U.S. from three to six, broadening our training base at such centers as Fort Carson, Fort Jackson and Fort Dix and expanding Special Forces," the speaker explained.

"You know the interest of the administration in Special Forces. The Fifth Special Forces Group (Airborne) is being activated at Fort Bragg this month. We have almost doubled Special Forces within the tenure of the present administration.

"There is the 1st Special Forces Group on Okinawa, the 5th and 7th at Fort Bragg and the 10th in Europe. All are being brought up to full strength," he continued.

Gen. Jablonsky pointed out that his division handles 19,000 officers.

"We are the heart of all actions pertaining to Infantry officers. Visit us in the Pentagon, on the first floor, E Ring, just off Corridor Five. We will be happy to talk with you or answer your correspondence relative to your career," he said.

"We make recommendations on such personnel actions as Regular Army integration, retirement, elimination from the service. We do not make recommendations on promotions. However, we do have people who can help study your record and analyze your weaknesses if you have been nonselected for promotion," the speaker added.

The one-star general pointed out that the Infantry Officers Division deals with world-wide assignments, a logical career development plan and mobilization assignments continuously being planned in the event of national emergency.

"We consider the needs of the service and your desires. Naturally the needs of the service have to have priority," he stated.

Gen. Jablonsky said that 75 per cent of the 1961 graduates of the career course was assigned in the U. S. and that perhaps 80 per cent of the present group would be assigned in this country.

"If you have been stationed in the U. S. for at least two years before entering this course, you are eligible for a tour overseas. For your grade, the most likely area you will go to for a short tour is Korea," he told the two classes.

"In the U. S., your assignments will include ROTC duty, the six STRAC divisions, the expanding training base and instructing at the service schools. Undoubtedly a large number of you will be selected to remain at Fort Benning as instructors at The Infantry School or with school troops," he said.

"Some will be given the opportunity to complete requirements for a degree. In these two classes, 84 per cent are college graduates. Our goal in the Army is that every commissioned officer have a college degree," the speaker emphasized.

Gen. Jablonsky will return to The Infantry School in February to announce assignments for career course students. They began classes last week and will graduate May 24.

New Special Forces Unit Planned For Fort Bragg

A fourth Special Forces group will be activated at Fort Bragg this month, Department of the Army announced this week.

About 200 military personnel will be initially assigned to the unit, which will be designated the Fifth Special Forces Group. These men are now at Fort Bragg taking Special Forces training.

The group will reach a strength of about 850 by the end of 1962 as additional personnel are phased in.

The Seventh Special Forces Group has now been assigned to Fort Bragg. The Fifth will join them at the Army Special Warfare Center there.

The First Special Forces Group is on Okinawa and the Tenth is at Bad Tolz, Germany.

Basic operation units of Special Forces are about squad size, 12 men, and members are specialists in such fields as weapons, demolitions, basic medical skills, intelligence and communications.

Gen. Rich to Address Students In Career Class This Morning

Major Gen. Charles W. G. Rich, commanding general of the 101st Airborne Division, Fort Campbell, will speak at graduation ceremonies for The Infantry School's Associate Officer Career Class 5 today.

The program is scheduled at 11 a.m. in Ground Mobility Building E-1.

Gen. Rich assumed his present duties in July after serving as commandant of cadets at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point for two years.

Hawaii Duty

The two-star general commanded the 2nd Battalion, 19th Infantry Regiment at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, from September, 1942, to March, 1943, when he entered the basic Airborne course at The Infantry School. On receiving his paratrooper badge, he commanded the 2nd Parachute Training Battalion at Benning until October, 1944.

Europe

He served in the European Theater from October, 1944, to July, 1947, in successive assignments as Airborne adviser, G-3 Section, Sixth Army Group; deputy chief of staff of XXI Corps; G-1 and chief of staff of the Southeastern Base Section; chief of staff of the Western Base Section, and assistant to the deputy chief of staff of EUCOM (European Command).

School Then Bragg

Gen. Rich was stationed at the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va., for the next three years as a student and a member of the staff and faculty. In July, 1950, he was assigned to the 82nd Airborne Division, Fort Bragg. He served as executive officer of the 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment, and G-3 and chief of staff of the division.

He attended the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., in 1952-1953. The general then was in Korea for a year as commander of the 15th Infantry Regiment, 3rd Infantry Division, and deputy chief of staff of IX Corps.

DA Tour

For the following five years, Gen. Rich was in the Army's Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel as chief of the Procurement and Distribution Division, chief of the Military Personnel Management Division and director of military personnel operations.

Among his decorations are the Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Star Medal, French Legion of Honor and Croix de Guerre with Palm, Polish Order of Polonia Restituta, Fourth Class, and the Belgian Croix Militaire with Oak Leaf Cluster, Bronze Lion, and Croix de Guerre, pre-Classe.

Major Schofield Assigned to TIS

Major Frank C. Schofield is newly assigned as an instructor on the Advanced Tactics, Personnel and Logistics Committee of The Infantry School's Command and Staff Department.

He attended the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth in 1960-1961. The officer served the previous two years with the 2nd Infantry Brigade at Fort Devens, Mass.

Beat 'em? Well, Not Quite

By Msgt Charles A. Quinn

The Army's elite International pistol marksmen of the Advanced Marksmanship Unit are being pressured, and by no less than men from their own unit.

Shooting highly specialized weapons over special ranges under rules governing world and Olympic pistol competition, the group was finding little opportunity for earnest competition. The shooters are headed by Major Fremont R. Burdick.

"Because of the comparatively little International-type competition scheduled within the U.S., our people have had to depend upon pistol matches with other combines," said Major Michael Tipa.

Head of the AAMU's International Section, Major Tipa added that the terrifically exacting mode of shooting done on The Infantry Center's Parks Range was reaching a point where the seven crack marksmen of the pistol group were required to shoot against themselves.

Until Last Week

Last week, however, the International hand-gunners found plenty of competition when Major William S. Brophy and his service pistol squad decided to go up the hill from their standard ranges and see what they could offer.

As a result, the atmosphere of Parks Range changed considerably.

The International shooters found that the completely different style of shooting didn't stump their challenger in the least.

Disregarding the free-type weapons, the 25-man service squad began to get scores with their American target .22 pistols nearly equal to creditable world match totals.

Same With .38, .45

The same results occurred when the service squad moved over onto the International rapid fire and center fire ranges. It began to bore holes where they counted most, in the target 10-rings.

"All credit goes to the shooters of the service squad who are demonstrating their basic abilities to shoot," Major Tipa said.

He added that he doubted whether any other group of pistol shooters could make such a definite change and get the same results.

"Just as in any sport," he said, "competition is the great seasoner in the marksmanship world and now we've found plenty right in our own back yard."

IZZAT SO?

According to Ralph Houk, manager of the Yankees, Jesse Arroyo would be the happiest pitcher in the world "if we'd let him chew on his cigar while he's working."

Five Iranian Officers See TIS in Action

Brig. Gen. Farhanz Khosropanah and four other Iranian Army officers witnessed demonstrations of Infantry School instruction late last week.

Gen. Khosropanah, chief of the Training Section, J-3, was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Talat Pasha Bayatmakoo, deputy chief, G-3; Col. Mahmood Nabipoor, chief of office, J-3; Mahmood Maghsoudi, mathematics professor, Iranian Military Academy, and Col. Aladin Nazem, regimental commander, Military Academy. Lt. Col. Estel Elkins was the U.S. Department of the Army tour director.

The Allied party conferred with Major Gen. Ben Harrell, commandant of The Infantry School and commanding general of The Infantry Center, Thursday morning and were honored at an official luncheon hosted by Gen. Harrell that day in the Main Officers' Mess.

The Iranian officers observed instruction in recoilless weapons, light anti-tank and tank weapons, tactical employment of explosives and officer candidate activities.

They also were oriented on Infantry School organization and facilities, training literature and Ranger, Airborne, ground mobility, non-resident and communications training.

Saturday morning the group toured Ida Cason Callaway Gardens at Pine Mountain, and the Little White House, vacation home of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt at Warm Springs.

First Lt. Roxie Hart was the project officer for the visit.

Gen. Howze Heads Party On Post Visit

Lt. Gen. Hamilton H. Howze, deputy commanding general for developments designate of Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, was briefed on combat developments at the post Tuesday and Wednesday.

He was accompanied by Major Gen. Louis T. Heath, deputy chief of staff for materiel development, Major Gen. Thomas F. Van Natta, deputy chief of staff for combat developments, and Major Thomas E. Sidebothan Jr., aide-de-camp to Gen. Howze, all of CONARC.

Major Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander, welcomed the visitors at Lawson Field Tuesday morning.

The party conferred with Gen. Harrell and combat developments officials preceding an official luncheon in the Main Officers' Open Mess hosted by Gen. Harrell.

During their stay, the visitors were briefed by the Army Infantry Board and viewed static displays at Sandy Patch Test Area, radar testing on Fiske Range and demonstration-developmental and newly standardized weapons on Farnsworth Range.

Lt. Col. Clinton E. Male, who is assigned to The Infantry School's Special Subjects Department, was the project officer for the visit.

FIDDLIN' AROUND . . . led Sfc James Moran to find this guitar in the amusement corner of the post Thrift Shop recently. Operated by the Woman's Club of Fort Benning, the facility is a clearing house for useful items. Located in Building 1304, the shop is open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday.

Post Surpasses Education Goal

Wins Third Army Award As 'Superior'

This post won the Third Army Award of Honor in recognition of a superior Educational Development of Military Personnel Program for fiscal year 1961.

The award was the result of the achievement by The Infantry Center and the 2nd Infantry Division in exceeding the Third Army's educational goals, and was presented to education officials by Col. William A. McKee, Infantry Center chief of staff.

Mr. Leonard S. Ozley, Infantry Center education supervisor, attributes the success of the program to command support, the extra effort of major units of The Infantry Center and the sustained high participation by the 2nd Division.

Eligibility for the award is based on meeting the programmed objectives of 45 per cent of commissioned officers who have not attained a baccalaureate degree, 45 per cent of warrant officers not having attained a two year college level and 45 per cent of all non-commissioned officers and specialists who have not attained a high school education level.

Fort Benning exceeded the goals in attaining rates of participation of 62 per cent, 52 per cent and 58 per cent respectively in the above categories.

In addition to the regular education program the 2nd Division has held Korean language classes for the men of a battle group before the unit rotated to that country.

Capt. Eugene F. Smallwood is the division education officer.

To Ozley and (Not Shown) Capt. Smallwood

Col. Huppert Named Director of DNRI

Col. G. Harry Huppert has been named director of the Department of Non-Resident Instruction of The Infantry School.

Before assuming his present position, Col. Huppert served as deputy chief of The Infantry School's Combat Developments Office. He was previously at Benning while attending The Infantry School in 1941.

Commissioned in 1939

Col. Huppert received his commission as a second lieutenant in the Infantry in 1939 and entered active military service in 1940 with the 802nd Tank Destroyer Battalion at Camp Shelby, Miss.

After attending The Infantry School in 1941 he was assigned as an instructor in the Tank Destroyer School, Camp Hood, Texas. In 1943, he attended the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth.

Europe in WW II

From 1943 to 1945, he served in the European Theater of Operations successively in the G-3 Section of the XXI Corps, as a battalion executive officer in the 84th Infantry Division and as commanding officer of the 553rd Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battalion.

He then went to Korea as G-3 Officer of the 7th Infantry Division. On his return to the U.S. in 1948, he was an instructor at the Command and General Staff College.

In 1951, Col. Huppert returned to Europe serving as a battalion commander, G-3 Officer of the 28th Infantry Division

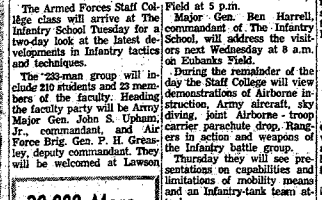
Staff College

Group To Visit Post



The Armed Forces Staff College class will arrive at The Infantry School Tuesday for a two-day look at the latest developments in Infantry tactics and techniques.

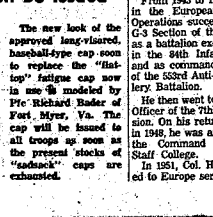
The 233-man group will include 210 students and 23 members of the faculty. Heading the faculty party will be Army Major Gen. John S. Upham, Jr., commandant, and Air Force Brig. Gen. P. H. Greasley, deputy commandant. They will be welcomed at Lawson Field at 5 p.m.

Major Gen. Ben Harrell, commandant of The Infantry School, will address the visitors next Wednesday at 8 a.m. on Eubanks Field.

During the remainder of the day the Staff College will view demonstrations of Airborne instruction, Army aircraft, sky diving, joint Airborne - troop carrier parachute drop, Rangers in action and weapons of the Infantry battle group.

Thursday they will see presentations on capabilities and limitations of mobility means and an Infantry-tank team attack.

ASSIGNED . . . Capt. William E. King has been recently named as chemical officer of The Infantry Center. Prior to this assignment he was assistant division chemical officer of the 3rd Infantry Division in Germany. Capt. King includes among his decorations the Bronze Star, Silver Star and the Purple Heart.



20,000 More Called For In October Draft

The Department of Defense has requested the Selective Service System to provide 20,000 men during October for the Army.

This figure is based on needs after allowances have been made for enlistments and re-enlistments.

The Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force do not intend to place calls with Selective Service during October.

New Cap Will Soon Be Issued

The new look of the approved long-visored, baseball-type cap soon to replace the "flat-top" fatigue cap now in use is modeled by Pfc Richard Bader of Fort Myer, Va. The cap will be issued to all troops as soon as the present stocks of "sadsack" caps are exhausted.

and with the Foreign Military Base Rights Division, Headquarters, U. S. European Command in Paris before returning to the U. S. in 1954 to attend the Armed Forces Staff College.

And AWC

Col. Huppert then served as deputy commander, 74th Regiment Combat Team at Fort Devens, Mass., from 1955 to 1956 before attending the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

From 1957 to 1958, he was in the Field Maneuver Division G-3 Section, Fourth Army, Fort Sam Houston.

As a member of the Joint U. S. Military Advisory Group, Thailand, Col. Huppert served as commanding officer of Detachment III and senior advisor to the 3rd Royal Thai Army before coming to Benning in September 1959.

Decorations

Among Col. Huppert's decorations are the Bronze Star Medal, the Combat Infantryman's Badge, the Army Commendation Ribbon with three Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart.

Major Grogan Is Montezuma Kiwanis Guest

Major Owen R. Grogan, chief of the Doctrines and Requirements Subcommittee of The Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department, addressed the Montezuma (Ga.) Kiwanis Club last week.

The luncheon meeting was held in the Woman's Club House in Montezuma.

"Air Mobility in the Modern Army" was Major Grogan's subject. Color slides augmented his talk.

A veteran of 18 years' active duty, the speaker was assigned to Fort Benning in June, 1959. He is a 1943 graduate of Officer Candidate School at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Concerted Prayers for Peace Held at Noon in Post Chapel

Many post personnel are spending a portion of the noon hour each day in prayers for peace at The Infantry Center Chapel.

The daily prayer hour was established by Chaplain (Col.) Silas E. Decker, post chaplain, and will continue indefinitely.

There is no program nor order of service during the hour.

Individuals participating in the united prayers for peace may enter and leave the chapel at will.

Background organ music is played during the noon hour by MSgt Frank Hardin.

"God has promised that he will listen to his children as they pray," Chaplain Decker said.

"Prayer offered by a congregation of people, even two or three, has greater effect than when we pray alone. The promise is where two or three are gathered together in my name, 'I am in their midst,'" he continued.

Closer Tie-In Planned Between Driver-Vehicle

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — "Please fasten your seat belts" will be the word in Army vehicles in the near future.

Army field commanders and heads of technical services have been directed by a letter from the Office of The Adjutant General to install seat belts in motor vehicles and begin an educational program to impress military drivers with the value of the safety device.

The instructions stated that the belts would be installed in all sedans, station wagons, pickup trucks and ambulances, with a few exceptions.

The exceptions included tactical type vehicles unless DA technical publications provided for such installation on a specific vehicle. The instruction allows local commanders to determine the need for belts on vehicles which make only short trips wholly within military installations.

The education program will include showing of a film "Safety Through Seat Belts" which is being placed in all Army Film Libraries and a special seat belt information kit which will soon be distributed by DA.

The letter stated that, as much as possible under existing laws and procurement policies, specifications for the development of new passenger carrying vehicles will incorporate design features adapted to seat belt installation.

Observes Exercise

Major James V. Christ has been attending exercise "SEA WALL" at Fort Lewis.

He observed infantry battle group communications during the exercise, conducted from September 10 to 16.

Major Christ is assistant operations officer of The Infantry School's Communication Department.

Pakistani Visitor Is Briefed

Pakistan Army Corps commander Lt. Gen. Bakhtiar Rana is viewing Infantry School activities today. He arrived yesterday and will depart tomorrow.

Yesterday the Allied general conferred with Major Gen. Ben Harrell, commander of The Infantry School, and was guest of honor at an official luncheon given by Gen. Harrell in the Main Officers' Open Mess.

Gen. Rana observed demonstrations of hand-to-hand combat and ground mobility, communications and non-resident instruction. He also was oriented on training literature, instructor training and Infantry School organization and toured the 1st Battle Group, 29th Infantry, 1st Infantry Brigade and the 2nd Infantry Division.

Capt. James R. Whitley, who is assigned to The Infantry School's Special Subjects Department, is the project officer for the visit. Cpl. Raymond B. Green is the U. S. Department of the Army tour director for the Pakistani officer.

CAA SIGN . . . Pfc Henry Gladstone, Jr., 1st Infantry Brigade, puts finishing touches on the CAA sign he designed and painted. The sign is located across from the main theater. During the first month of the CAA drive at total of $29,809.19 has been turned in by team captains. CAA supports post community activities including Visiting Nurses', Preventive Dental Health, Chaplain's Religious Education Programs and YAC. It also makes an annual contribution to the local civilian United Givers Fund which supports 34 agencies benefiting post personnel.

Civil Service Examination Date is Near

Military personnel planning to enter Civil Service after separation from active duty and college students approaching graduation should file an application now to take the Federal Service Entrance Examination, according to T. A. Barefoot, chief of The Infantry Center Civilian Personnel Section.

Deadline

Deadline for filing application for the next test is September 28. The examination will be given October 14 and repeated at intervals, to be announced, through April 26, 1962.

Examinations for Management Internships also will be given at intervals through January 25, 1962.

The entrance examination is designed primarily for personnel entering Civil Service. However, civilian employees who have not taken the examination are advised to take it as a means of qualifying for possible advancement to higher level positions, Barefoot added.

Personnel passing the examinations will be placed on a register of eligibles in the Regional Office of the Fifth Civil Service Region in Atlanta, for hiring in the Southeast. The new register will supercede the list established by the last examination.

Individuals who passed the previous examination and who are still interested in being considered for appointment from this register should apply for the new examination, Barefoot said.

For further information contact the Civil Service Board, Civilian Personnel Section, Building 1620, or telephone 545-2513.

20 Nurses Will Visit Post Today

Twenty student nurses from St. Francis in Columbus will visit The Infantry Center today.

The group will hear an introduction to escape and evasion tactics in Mechanicsville Hall at 1:15 p.m. followed by a film entitled "Code of the American Fighting Man."

The visitors will review a demonstration of canine dismounted drill and obedience performed by the 26th Infantry Scout Dog Platoon, 1st Infantry Brigade, at 2:45 p.m. at the Old Stockade. Then they will tour the stockade, observing reception and interrogation of "prisoners."

The girls will leave the post at 5 p.m. after taking buddy seat rides, simulated parachute jumps from a 250-foot airborne training tower, at Eubanks Field.

Post Commander Accepts Honorary Club Presidency

Major Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander, has been named honorary president of the Fort Benning Sport Parachute Club.

Gen. Harrell was notified in a letter presented by 2nd Lt. Charles L. Mullins, president of the organization. Lt. Mullins is assigned to the 197th Pathfinder Team of The Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department.

The Sport Parachute Club meets the second Friday night of each month in Building 2067.

'Ve Don't Say Nothing'

The Berlin situation is so mixed up that a Portland, Ore., man, fed up with all he had read, decided to call Premier Khrushchev personally and ask him what he intends to do about the mess, according to a story Spt Harold Kiteking dug up somewhere.

This man dialed long distance but the operator refused to put through the call unless there was a specific message for the Premier. "No special message," he said, "I just want to know what's happening."

So he finally decided to call the Russian Embassy in Germany. There, at least, he got someone on the line.

"Vat you Vant?" asked the voice at the other end.

When the Oregon man said he wanted to know the situation in Berlin, the voice replied, "We don't say nothing."

He still doesn't know what's happening.

The Old Pyramid Game

Once again, the wide-awake Columbus Better Business Bureau has prepared a warning against a proposition which seldom lives up to its promise. There's a local surge of interest in "referral plan" selling, which reportedly can earn as much as $50,000 a year for the participant.

It's the same old pyramid game, mathematically completely unsound. If the plan worked as presented to the prospect, one person would get six enrolled, they in turn would get six more each, and after just 10 such steps there would be 10,077,696 people working to the financial advantage of the first seller. These plans just don't work out.

Since there are legitimate firms offering rewards for recommending products and assisting in sales, the safe thing to do is contact the BBB if interested in a proposition, and in doubt. The local bureau could have saved area residents thousands of dollars on various ventures if they had just been asked for a free report. Files are very much up-to-date, and available to us all.

Hang on to Your ID Card

If you were caught in the involuntary extension, and your Identification Card expires, don't worry about replacing it. Such cards will be honored for an additional four month maximum period after they normally expire. These cards will also be sufficient to obtain dependent medical care cards.

Officers' Missile Schooling

Officers from all branches may now attend the most advanced course in the Army School System on missiles and missile science at the Fort Bliss Air Defense Center.

An officer course lasting 39 weeks includes mathematics, physics, aerodynamics, engineering electronics, guidance, propulsion, atomics and space technology as well as theory and operation of all systems. Plans are being made for a second course during FY '62, starting in February, and openings exist. How to apply? Use Army Form 254, forwarded through personnel.

Keeping Slim and Trim; A Duty Responsibility

Whenever the services — or even local commanders — launch a campaign to encourage overweight men to slough off excess fat by dieting and exercise, you're sure to hear aggrieved voices chorusing that it's an invasion of the serviceman's personal rights.

Understandably, people with a weight problem are sensitive about it and inclined to be resentful of any suggestion that they are a special group singled out for corrective counsel. The services fully appreciate this. But they also see beyond the personal problem.

Corpulence impairs a man's duty performance. The overweight individual, physically sluggish, is likely to be just as dull mentally, lacking in the initiative that marks the superior serviceman. If excessive eating and lack of exercise are at the root of his disability, it's plainly in the best interest of the military to fight a fire under him for the good of the service and for his own good.

Keeping in shape — physically and mentally — has always been intrinsic to service life. Now President Kennedy's physical fitness program for the nation highlights the problem as it affects those of us in uniform. We are expected to set an example — in appearance, in behavior, in deed — for others to follow. So emphasis on the matter of proper weight has never been more opportune.

Take the case of a career man at a western military installation. Always given to stoutness, he had hit a high of 343 when he voluntarily went to the base hospital for help. He was admitted as a patient and, in a two-month period of supervised dieting, shed 60 pounds.

But could he continue this abstinence once discharged from the hospital and on his own? He could and did, although it was far from easy. In the next six months he got himself down to 208 — not excessive for a man of his husky build. His advice to others? "Will power and fortitude are the main ingredients — anyone can do it if he's willing to forego the pleasures of the so-called fattening foods."

Will power and fortitude — in other words, self-discipline it's as elementary as that. No serviceman suffering from overweight should require the prodding of his superiors to lick the problem.

Chaplain's Corner

Security

By Chaplain (Capt.) Hugh C. McKeown

"Unless the Lord build the house, they labor in vain who build it. Unless the Lord guard the city, he watches in vain who guards it" (Psalm 126).

This text taken from the psalms of David should give every American pause to reflect. In these days of urgency and confusion, an anxious future offers little hope to men.

We have heard so much platitudinous talk about democracy, freedom, and human dignity that it tends to become old shop. Like unthinking children, we put away from our thoughts what our rights as a free people could ever be lost or destroyed.

Naively confident in our natural sense of self-sufficiency, we rely almost totally upon our material strength and resources. Yet, history records the almost overnight collapse of great nations who trusting to their human powers and arms forgot this most fundamental truth of all human rights.

"Unless the Lord build the house, they labor in vain who build it. Unless the Lord guard the city, he watches in vain who guards it."

For many Americans, the psalm texts are deserving of serious personal consideration. The rights we enjoy as Americans come from God.

The Declaration of Independence proclaimed this truth at the very beginning of our nation's history; the Constitution confirmed it and spelled out the safeguards to protect those rights. But, frankly speaking, how many Americans remember this?

How many Americans are actually grateful to Almighty God Who is the source of these national blessings? There is a strong temptation to answer, "Comparatively few."

Poorly attended chapel services on Sunday and other days of worship seem to support this pessimistic answer. Are we so foolish as to think that we are always going to be prosperous and victorious just because we are Americans?

This might well be our fatal mistake. The citadel of our rights as free Americans may not so much be overthrown by our enemies, as undermined by those Americans who neglect their God and the practices of their religious beliefs.

It is only in constant and continuing communion with Our God that we are going to find the necessary light, strength, and courage to guide us in the days ahead.

The Judge Says . . .

Contract May Not Bind You While On Active Duty

(End of a 2 Part Series)

By 1Lt Bernard E. Burk

As stated in last week's article, the serviceman on active duty has certain rights and protections under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act.

For instance, this Act will help the serviceman who, while a civilian, entered into an installment contract wherein he agreed to pay, let's say, $60.00 per month for car payments.

He later entered the service and cannot now afford to make the agreed payment.

The Act states that no person who has received, under a contract for the purchase of property, a deposit or installment of the purchase price from a person who has entered the military service after such payment, will be able to exercise any right or option under the contract or resume possession of the property for nonpayment of any installment or for any breach of the terms thereof occuring prior to or during the period of such military service, except by action in a court of competent jurisdiction.

Any person who shall knowingly resume possession of property, or attempts to do so, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This means, in effect, that the seller cannot repossess the goods without a court order.

Upon hearing of such action the court may order the repayment of prior installments or deposits or any part thereof to the serviceman as a condition for terminating the contract and resuming possession of the property.

It may, in its discretion, on its own motion, and shall, on application to it by such person in military service or some person on his behalf, order a stay of proceedings unless, in the opinion of the court, the ability of the defendant to comply with the terms of the contract is not materially affected by reason of such service. Or it may make such other disposition of the case as may be equitable.

Congress has recognized that in some situations a person serving in the Armed Forces could incur, by being on active duty, financial or other problems. It has tried, by passing the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1919, to relieve some of these problems.

For further information on this Act, contact the Legal Assistance Officer.

Australia's Armored Corps Director Visits

Lt. Col. C. J. Miles, director of the Royal Australian Armored Corps, was briefed on Infantry School activities Monday.

The Allied officer conferred with Major Gen. Ben Harrell, commandant of The Infantry School and commanding general of The Infantry Center, and participated in an informal technical discussion and demonstration of armored personnel carriers at Victory Pond.

He also was oriented on the latest trends in armor within the Infantry division and The Infantry School's organization, mission, scheduling of classes and instructional facilities.

Col. Miles arrived at the post last Saturday and departed Monday night.

AC-1 CARIBOU HAS CAPACITY OF 32 PARATROOPERS OR 22 CASUALTIES
And It Can Also Clear a 50 Foot Obstacle in 500 Feet or Land in 600 Feet

C-123 DATA CHIEF CHECKS CHUTES
Parachute Maintenance Branch Plays Safe

The Infantryman's Aerial Friend--The Caribou

There are thousands of parachutists in the Army today, but only a relative few who have jumped from the Army's new AC-1 Caribou.

Tests recently conducted by the Airborne-Air Mobility Department have revealed many interesting features of the plane that are of interest to both the parachutist and the Infantryman.

The plane will carry 6000 pounds of cargo for 200 nautical miles. Without cargo, it will carry 32 combat-equipped Infantrymen or 24 fully geared parachutists.

To the combat Infantryman, these facts and figures are most gratifying. Cut off from his own lines, the doughboy knows there is the Caribou able to drop supplies or troops to assist him and to even land on a small field in order to evacuate him.

Those veteran combat Infantrymen who have found themselves in such a situation in the past realize the importance of such ag aircraft.

Let's take a look at the Caribou and see what the plane has to offer. First, it requires no elaborate runway to take off and land. It is a short take-off and landing (STOL) vehicle, and can clear a 50 foot obstacle in 1000 feet or less with no wind — considerably less with the aid of wind. It can land in 600 to 600 feet.

From the jumper's point of view, the Caribou is tailor-made for his purpose.

Let's take a look at a plane-load of jumpers from the marshaling area to the drop zone. The paratroopers, fully equipped, have their gear checked several times prior to boarding by use of a ramp at the rear of the plane. The ramp resembles that on the C-123 but does not reach the ground.

The interior is similar to the old C-47, where there were two rows of seats, one on each side of the plane.

Gen. Surles' Infantry School Report

The ceiling is much lower. The Caribou is wide enough to carry a jeep, and the inside resembles a shell.

The jumpmaster, Sfc Daniel E. Johnson, of the Pathfinder School, begins his briefing. "Essentially, Caribou jump procedures are the same as those used in jumping from Air Force aircraft. Note that all static lines are over your left shoulder. Leave them there. The anchor line cable is located near the wall on the right side of the plane; all of you will use the same cable.

"On exiting from the plane at the 15 degree ramp in the rear, take two normal steps down the ramp, and on the third step you should clear the plane. Don't close up on the man in front of you. Wait until he clears the ramp before taking your three steps. From there on, you are on your own."

Soon, the Caribou is taxiing down the runway for take-off. The jumpers are surprised as the plane is airborne in about 300 meters and rapidly gains altitude. In a matter of seconds it is at 1250 feet (jump altitude) and steady.

The red light goes on, and two officers, in this case Capts. Tony Labrozzi and John Rogers, 4th Student Battalion, The Student Brigade, are to jump on the first pass over the drop zone in order to test the wind speed and direction.

Soon, the green light goes on and the two take their three steps and disappear. Sgt. Johnson, with the aid of the crew chief, Sp5 James D. Smith, 1st Aviation Company, uses the static line retriever to bring in the static lines of the departed captains.

As the Caribou begins its circle of the drop zone, the jumpmaster shouts, "Get Ready." Unlike Air Force aircraft, the jumpers can hear the commands.

Soon the planeload of men are standing at the top of the ramp, all equipment has again been checked, and the drop zone is approaching. The jumpmaster commands, "Go." The stick, in rapid and orderly manner, moves to the rear of the Caribou and exits.

To each jumper there is a new sensation. There is not the blast experienced in a jump from the C-119, the C-123, or even the U-1A. There are no rotary blade effects as when jumping from the H-34. Down, down, down . . ., and suddenly the 'chute gently blossoms.

From the jumper's point of view, the Caribou is the only plane for him. From the Infantryman's viewpoint, the unlimited possibilities give him the feeling that he won't be quite so alone out in the boondocks cut off from friendly lines. Help, in the form of the new AC-1 Caribou, is only minutes away.

Reserve Engineers Improve Post Areas

Annual One-Army summer Reserve training at Fort Benning is a two-way function. Besides receiving training the units contribute to permanent improvements on post.

The work of the 31 engineer units trained this summer gave the post more than eight miles of resurfaced road, and several dirt roads were reconditioned.

Trails were constructed in several areas; several thousand square feet of asphalt surfacing, mostly parking areas, were completed; five range towers were built and permanent bleachers were made.

Fourteen standard latrines were finished; some concrete work was done including retaining walls, steps, drainage ditches and culverts. Timber work in the form of retaining walls, culverts and a bridge spanning 40 feet were constructed.

Woman's Club Diary

Watching Agnes Phillips wield a hammer at the Woman's Club Workshop, I wondered why they call us the "weaker sex".

No man ever approached a project with more enthusiasm or determination than the members of the Decorations Committee herd at work preparing to transform the Main Club into a three-ring circus October 4 for the opening tea.

The hours are 2-5 p.m. and all officers' wives, both active and retired, are invited.

The activity chairmen still be present at the tea to take enrollments in a variety of classes. Fifteen different classes are scheduled this year, from beginners bridge to slim 'n trim.

Mrs. Norvin Smith, chairman, will be taking reservations for the annual trip to Atlanta to "spend the day at Rich's", which is scheduled for early November.

Mrs. John Bohen, chairman of the school of dance, announces that an adult ballet class will be offered if enough ladies are interested. Ladies who participated last year were very enthusiastic. If you are interested, please call her at MU 9-7452. There are still openings in the children's classes, in both ballet, tap, and toe.

Scotchfoursome

A scotchfoursome will be held at the post Country Club this Sunday. Tee-off time will be 12 noon. The event is described as a best ball twosome.

At Troop Command

Fashion Show Opens Season

The Ladies of The Infantry Center Troop Command held their first luncheon of the season at the Supper Club recently.

Hostesses for the affair were the ladies of Headquarters, including Mrs. Glen A. Soderstrom, Mrs. Kenneth R. Cartwright, Mrs. Michael M. Downes, Mrs. Daniel W. Raschal, Mrs. Robert J. Archibald, Jr., Mrs. Edward L. Whitehead, Mrs. Mitchell C. Johnson and Mrs. Russell J. Wack.

Special guest at the affair was Mrs. Ben Harrell. Other guests included Mrs. James Durham, Mrs. Dallas Patterson, Mrs. Mabel Bailey and Allen Nickse.

A fashion show was presented with styles from a local shop. A football motif provided the background and the models passed through a red and white goalpost as they presented their fashions.

Models were Mrs. Michael M. Downes, Mrs. John A. Osborn, Mrs. Floyd D. Hoefler, Mrs. Paul L. Scholl, Mrs. Willie Sherrill Lee, Mrs. Jack Sherwood and Mrs. Don S. Payne.

As a finale the models reappeared on the ramp together and Mrs. Downes sang a selection from the Broadway musical "Carousel."

Farewell was bid Mrs. Primo Acosta, who will depart for Hawaii with her husband shortly.

Newcomers to the group include Mrs. Francis L. Franklin, Mrs. Grover G. Johnson and Mrs. Martin J. Kelley.

School Bell Does Double Duty, Opens Club Coffee

A ringing school bell welcomed ladies of the Command and Staff Department to their first fall coffee. In keeping with a "Back to School" theme, the approved curriculum for the day consisted of classes in "Coffee and Group Study."

Hostessed by wives of the Advanced Tactics, Personnel and Logistics Committee, this opening affair was held in the Corregidor Room, Main Officers' Open Mess, on September 14.

Mrs. Willard E. Harrison introduced Mrs. Everett V. Mead acting schoolmarm for the occasion. Mrs. Mead announced that instruction would consist of chatting with old friends and meeting new ones.

At the sound of the school bell, the ladies were encouraged to disperse and join different groups for the next "class" session.

New members of the Command & Staff Department introduced were Mesdames A. L. Parson, Jr., Sinclair L. Meiner, H. C. Harrison, John C. Rogers, Richard A. Kupau, Andrew H. Weisenfeld, and Edgar S. McFarlan. Goodbyes were said to Mrs. Robert L. Phillips, Mrs. Carl A. Forslund, and Mrs. Donald B. Carmichael.

The serving table was overlaid with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of pyracantha in milk glass epergne. Mrs. H. C. Harrison presided at the coffee service.

JADA Coke Party At Country Club

The Junior Army Daughters of America will hold a Coke Party tomorrow from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Country Club.

All members are urged to come and bring guests. This party is to introduce new members and to renew old friendships.

This Week's

Social Notes

Commo Luncheon

Mrs. Skaggs and Mrs. Gardner were hostesses at a recent luncheon held for the Ladies of the Communication Department. An arrangement of green ivy and miniature red school houses decorated the tables. Mrs. Charles Skaggs welcomed the new arrivals, Mrs. Miles, Mrs. Skaggs and Mrs. Woodland and bid farewell to Mrs. Atkins. Mrs. Torro, wife of a Chilean Officer attending a course at Fort Benning, was guest of Mrs. Skaggs. Entertainment was a piano recital by Mrs. Rodera.

Youth Art Teacher

Correct methods of observation and sketching from life will be taught to children of the post every Saturday morning starting October 7, from 10 a.m. 'til noon by Mrs. Carl Lange. Mrs. Lange, who was presented in a one-artist show at Carmel-by-the-Sea in California by her teacher, Lolo Caidero Boyer, in 1957, will later give water color instruction to the children.

Protestant Ladies

The Student Brigade Protestant Women of the Chapel held their monthly meeting recently at the Religious Education Center. Mrs. Barbara Powell, president, welcomed 8 new member, Mrs. Robert A. Salemme. Title of the program was "Peace of Heart and Mind" and was conducted by Mrs. Marion Rogers. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jeane Estes, hostess.

My G-2 must have been asleep on the job, because corrections are necessary on two items. There will be no business meeting on Thursday, September 28, but just a little party.

Since most of your built-in baby sitters will be home in the evening, come on to the clubhouse and enjoy yourself.

Adult Art Teacher

Mrs. Milton Lewis will teach an adult art class every Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 3 p.m. beginning October 10. She received her training at the Maryland Institute of Fine Art. Charcoal portraiture and ink resist will be among subjects taught.

NCO's

Distaff Doings

By Marianne Kelly

The kick-off for our new season, a luncheon held at the clubhouse went right through the uprights! In other words, we scored.

First of all we would like to thank our guest speakers, Mrs. G. Woolf and Mrs. W. Losel, members of the Toastmistress Club, for their most informative talk on the functions of the Red Cross in general and the duties of volunteer workers like Gray Ladies, Staff Aids, etc. in particular.

Delighted to have those two and also several other charming ladies as our guests. Unfortunately all their names are not available but we hope to see the Mesdames Lopez, Moore, Oliver and all the others often and as regular members.

The food was delicious! Many of us — myself for one — started out with good intentions about just taking a few polite bites but wound up stuffing ourselves with Mrs. Raymond R. Faust's irresistible fried chicken, salad, vegetables and rolls.

The last little thought about waistlines was wiped out when we started helping ourselves to the wonderful home made cakes donated by the officers of the club.

A great time was had by all, the conversation was lively and a crazy confusing but hilarious game called "Eye Bingo" helped all of us to forget the sinister state of the world for the afternoon.

Guests will be most welcome, as always.

The bridge sessions have been moved permanently from the clubhouse to Crain Hall. We would like to thank the management for putting up with us every Tuesday — and we enjoy the coffee and lunches there immensely! Time, as usual, will be 9:30 a.m. Watch this column next week for a preview of coming events.

Toastmistress Members Meet For September

Mrs. James Petran, public relations director for the Girl Scouts in this area, was the guest speaker at a recent Toastmistress Club meeting held for the month of September.

Toastmistress Mrs. A. Muscari introduced the guest speaker, who spoke on the theme, "Girls on our Hands," Mrs. Petran spoke of Girl Scout camping plans and Camp Cooeharty located at Pine Mountain.

Slides were shown of young girls participating in various outdoor activities. She asked Toastmistress for suggestions to improve her presentation and a round table discussion followed the speech. Mrs. Carolyn G. Miner and Mrs. Gerald Kent accompanied Mrs. Petran and took notes throughout the discussion.

Guests were Mrs. Fred R. Koerber, Mrs. Michael J. Bardis, Mrs. Edna Hoyle, Miss Marion Holland, Mrs. John M. Milton and Mrs. Monica Rush.

SEASON OPENER . . . Mrs. Ben Harrell (L) receives her invitation to the Opening Tea of the season, planned by the Woman's Club of Fort Benning at the Main Officers' Open Mess October 4 at 2 p.m. The invitation, one of some 3,000 sent out, is presented by Mrs. Joseph Starker, corresponding secretary of the club.

Orientation For Ladies Explains TIS Functions

An orientation coffee for the wives of students attending Infantry Officers Career Course Class 1, Detachment 1, 2nd Student Battalion, The Student Brigade, was held earlier this month in the detachment lounge.

Lt. Col. Vern L. Joseph, commanding officer of the battalion, Lt. Col. Arthur Estes, Student Brigade protestant chaplain, Capt. Lawrence Lovato, detachment commander, and Mrs. Lawrence Lovato welcomed the ladies and gave short talks on the career course purposes and functions.

Guests at the occasion were Mrs. Ben Harrell, Mrs. Richard W. Keyes, Mrs. Otto R. Koch, Jr., and Mrs. James C. Donaghey.

Mrs. Vern L. Joseph, Mrs. Carl Kasemeier, and Mrs. Lawrence Lovato were the cadre hostesses.

Centering the refreshment table was an attractive arrangement of mums and daisies. Coffee, tea, and cookies were served the 100 ladies attending.

In order that the ladies could become better acquainted, a follow-up coffee was held later. Mrs. Lawrence Lovato introduced Mrs. R. W. Keyes and Mrs. J. C. Donaghey who were attending as guests.

Cadre hostesses were Mrs. Vern Joseph and Mrs. Carl Kasemeier.

Protestant Women Slate of Officers

Fort Benning's Women-of-the-Chapels will install new officers at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday (Sept. 27 at the monthly meeting in the Religious Education Center, Building 2605.

Chaplain (Col.) Silas E. Decker, Infantry Center Chaplain, will speak on "The Importance of Christian Visitation."

Hostesses for the coffee hour will be Mrs. Lewis R. Buckner, and Mrs. Burr M. Willey.

10 Best Dressed Local Women Will Be Announced October 6

The 10 best dressed women of the Fort Benning - Columbus area will be announced October 6 at a Fashionscope at the Ralston Hotel.

The annual fashion show will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the Mirror Room with a showing of American and other designs, sponsored by the Chattahoochee Valley Business and Professional Women Club.

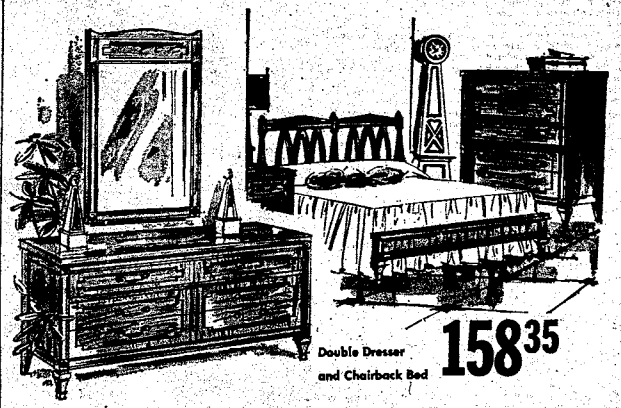
Nomtnations for the Ten Best Dressed Women are made in personal letters to Mrs. Johnnie Gresham, Green Island Hills, Columbus, naming the woman thought to be always well-dressed no matter what the occasion.

Nominees will be judged by an impartial committee of three men and three women.

The 10 best dressed will be announced at the close of the fashion show.

There will be a reception at 9:30 p.m. in the hotel's Civic Room in honor of the 10 selected women.

Attendance at the Fashionscope will be limited to 400.



Tickets are available at The Infantry Center Information Section.

Further information and reservations may be obtained by telephoning MSgt Lillian McCabe or Mrs. Ida C. Evans at 545-7925 or 545-4625.

Military Police Corps Observes 20th Anniversary

The Infantry Center's Military Policemen will join other MP's throughout the Army in observing the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Military Police Corps, next Tuesday, September 26.

They will hold a party Sunday at the USAIC recreation area to celebrate the date.

Commenting on the 20th Anniversary, Lt. Col. James E. Farmer, Infantry Center provost marshal, said, "The 25th of September marks the twentieth year that Military Police have served the Army as an organized, professionally trained Corps. This Corps is justified only so long as service is rendered to the Army, and through such service aids the commanders in fulfilling their missions."

All efforts in criminal investigations, crime prevention, traffic control and regulation, town and post patrolling, and the hundred and one tasks performed daily by Military Policemen are directed to this end.

"In carrying out their mission," Col. Farmer continued, "it is vital that cooperation with, and from, all military personnel be assured. Likewise, close working relations with civil police agencies is necessary. In this respect, we at Fort Benning are fortunate in having city, county, state and Federal agencies who are completely co-operative.

"As for the Military Police here. . .," he added, "they deserve a happy birthday salute. Their ability, demeanor, performance of duty, and willingness to work long hours is unparalleled in my experience."

Although the Corps of Military Police was established in 1941 to meet the needs of a swiftly expanding Army, the Corps did not become a permanent branch of the service until June, 1950.

Since the Continental Army days, the office of Provost Marshal was activated only when the need arose and it wasn't until World War I that a strong effort was made on behalf of a permanent military police force.

In 1941 the Corps found standardized military police doctrine and procedures almost non - existent. Training programs had been based upon civil police methods which were not completely adequate within the military sphere.

To fulfill its far-flung responsibilities, the Provost Marshal General's School and the Military Police Training Center at Fort Gordon were established.

In a comparatively short time men of the Regular Army watched the MP's change from a semi-organized, over-worked, under-rated, much maligned group to a crack Corps now found on duty at points all over the world wherever the Army is stationed.

Today's MP's proudly serve under their motto: "Of the Troops and For The Troops," and are skilled in many different fields from processing prisoners of war to escorting distinguished guests.

Redeye Rocket May Soon Go To Field Units

The Infantryman may soon be supplied with a shoulder weapons that will be capable of bringing down an enemy plane.

The job could be done with the Redeye, a bazooka-like weapon that wil be supplied to the Army and Marines. Weighing only 18.2 pounds, Redeye shoots a rocket that seeks out the hot exhaust of a plane, flies into its tailpipe and explodes. With Redeye, troops could defend themselves against strafing or low-level bombing from the skies.

To begin production the Defense Department is asking Congress for 25 million dollars. This would provide about 3,000 Redeyes.

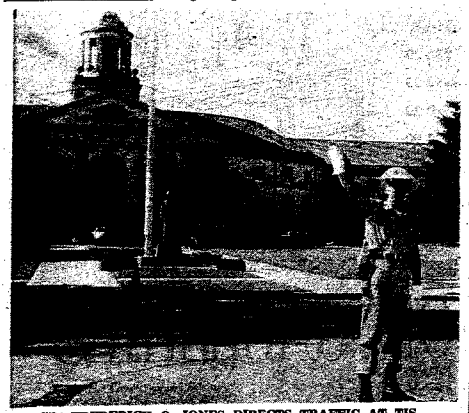
Museum Has New Display On Exhibit

. Clothing, equipment and other objects of historical interest, many of which have not been previously shown, are being exhibited this week in the upper floor of the new wing of the Infantry Museum, according to 1st Lt. Robert Archibald, museum custodian.

The display contains mostly objects captured from the enemy in both Pacific and European Theaters in World War II as well as some recovered on the battlefields of Korea.

Included is a Soviet Army 82 mm mortar, their counterpart of our 81 mm weapon, and an interesting collection of native knives from the Philippine Islands.

The new display room was opened to permit the showing of many items which, for lack of space have not been placed on exhibit before.



All persons are encouraged by Lt. Archibald to visit the museum and bring dependents and friends.

Arrangements for group tours may be made by calling 545-5413. Although official opening hours during the week are from 3 to 5 p.m., special group tours may be conducted from 9 a.m. daily.

Week ends and holidays, the museum is open to the public between 1 and 5 p.m. The Infantry Museum is located on Ingersoll Street near Crain Hall.

Advanced Class Graduates; Capt. Watkins First of 93

Urging The Infantry School's Associate Officer Advanced Class 5 to keep abreast of the myriad changes affecting the military, Major Gen. Charles W. G. Rich spoke at graduation ceremonies for the group last Friday.

"The military business is constantly changing. It is your duty to pass on your newly acquired knowledge to increase the competence of your units and its individuals, Gen. Rich, commander of the 101st Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky., emphasized.

The speaker pointed out that the 101st Division is dealing with many interesting new concepts, noting in particular the "use of Army aviation to revolutionize the battlefield from a strategic point of view."

Honor graduate of the class was Capt. Walter L. Watkins. He has been assigned to The Infantry School.

A veteran of 10 years' active duty, Capt. Watkins is a 1951 graduate of the University of Maryland and completed Infantry Officer Candidate School here in June, 1952.

The 93-man class included 14 Allied officers from the Republic of China, Greece, Indonesia, Libya, Norway, Switzerland and Turkey.

"There is a constant challenge for you by your leadership and knowledge which you've gained here at The Infantry School to materially improve the professional competence of the unit to which you've been assigned. The demand for you as Infantry School products is greater than we will be able to furnish," Gen. Rich told the class.

"You must meet the challenge by utilizing the knowledge you've gained, spreading the gospel and continuing to keep up," he stressed.

Vocalist, Pianist and Instrumental Group Win Service Club Two's Talent Contest

A vocalist, a piano player and an instrumental group were judged the best in an all 2nd Infantry Division talent contest held at Sand Hill's Service Club Two Sunday night.

An audience of some 300 watched as Private Hector Pujol of the 9th Infantry gave his piano rendition of Chopin's "Nocturne No. 2" and "The Breeze and I."

The vocalist was Private Ronnie Morris, 11th Infantry, who sang "The Best of Everything." Accompanying Pvt. Morris was Private Joseph Lybrand, also of the 11th Infantry.

The instrumental group, known as The Clods, rendered two selections, "Lot of Nothing" and "Hard Times." Composing the group were Private First Class Ray Goelin, 9th Infantry, on the saxaphone; Private Warren T. Wagner, 69th Armor, drums; Private Ted Davis, 87th Artillery, electric guitar, and Private Frank Kell, 9th Infantry, on the bass.

Gold pen knives and key rings were awarded to the winners. Two other vocal groups and a vocalist participated in the contest also.

A duo of Privates Lybrand and Howard Kerr, on the electric guitar, played "I Walked On You," "In the Mood," and "Patricia."

"Honkie Tonk," "Foot Pattern," and Reveille Rock," were rendered by a trio composed of Privates Billey D. Alberton, 11th Infantry, on the drubs; Richard Leclerie, 11th Infantry, and James Moultoe, 87th Infantry, both on electric guitars.

The vocalist, Private Allan Reese, 23rd Infantry, sang "Because of You." He, too, was accompanied by Pvt. Lybrand.

Re-Enlistments

Sergeant First Class Thomas Schumann and Sergeant First Class Marvin M. Wickers were sworn in at a reenlistment ceremony at the 69th Armor.

Captain Harold W. Roeder, Company Commander of Company C, did the honors. Both men reenlisted for a six-year period to fill their own vacancies.

Sergeant Henry Goodman of Company C, 5th Infantry took the oath to fill his own vacancy for another four years recently.

The sergeant, a professional judo instructor and amateur boxer, has 15 years of Army life to his credit.

Battery A, 17th Artillery, lost one and gained one when Sgt. John L. Carter reenlisted to fill his own vacancy recently.

The last assignment was with Battery B, 8th Artillery in Korea.

He has filled the positions of platoon sgt., chief of section, troop information NCO, education NCO and many others.

Sgt. Carter's home is Tacoma, Washington.

Assignments

Three lieutenants joined the 69th Armor and were assigned as platoon leaders.

Lieutenants Peter Budd, Charles Lenzi and Dennis Smith were assigned to Companies B, D, and E, respectively.

Warrant Officer (W-1) Joseph L. P. Desjardins, recently commissioned and a former member of the Atomic Support Agency, Personnel Division, is now under orders to report to the 2nd Infantry Division.

Mr. Desjardins is a native of Brunswick, Maine.

He and his family reside presently at Fort Myer, Virginia.

Arrivals

New arrivals in the 9th Infantry include two newly-commissioned officers.

Lt. Jack Crosby, new assigned to Company A as a platoon leader, recently graduated from Officers' Candidate School. Prior to this, he was an honor graduate of Non-Commissioned Officers' School.

He holds the parachutists badge and hails from East St. Louis, Illinois.

Lt. Robert Sipp, a graduate of the University of Tennessee is a Platoon Leader at Company D.

Sergeant Roger B. Slater reported for duty with the 122nd Signal Battalion and has assumed the duties of Division Signal Supply Sergeant in the Division Supply and Maintenance Section.

Sgt. Slater comes to the Battalion from the 4th Armored Division in Germany.

Sgt. Slater resides with his wife Julia at 1016 Second Avenue, Columbus.

Specialist Four Wallace K. Merryman has been assigned to Battery B, 7th Howitzer Battalion, 17th Artillery. He came to this unit from the 2nd Armored Cavalry Regiment in Bindlach, Germany, where he was a driver-gunner.

Departures

Four officers from the 69th Armor left this week for various schools at Fort Knox, Kentucky, and Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

Captain Robert A. Plant of the S-3 (training and operations) section will attend the Armor Officer's Advanced Course at Fort Knox. It is a nine months' course.

Lieutenants Douglas Smith and Edward Saxton of Company A, respectively, are attending the Armor Officers' Maintenance Course at Fort Knox for approximately eight weeks.

Lieutenant Vernon A. Corea goes to Fort Sill, where he will attend the Communication Course.

Caruso: Mrs. Roeder Sing Sunday Night In Fort Benning 1961-62 Concert Series

Two vocalists will be featured in the second of Fort Benning's 1961-1962 series of secular concerts at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at The U.S. Army Infantry Center Chapel.

The artists are Mrs. Harold W. Roeder, soprano, wife of a 69th Armor captain, and Specialist Four Daniel Carino Jr., a member of the 2nd Division Band.

Mrs. Roeder will be accompanied by Mrs. John S. McCord, whose husband is a captain with the division's 11th Infantry. Carino's accompanist will be Don Carr, 1850 Third Aveme, Columbus, organist at the chapel.

SINGS SUNDAY
Caruso

Program

Cerino's program includes numbers from Carissimi, Durante, Mazzniferrata, Lully Franz, Schumann, Duparc, Mozart and arangements by Burleigh.

Mrs. Roeder's program will include songs by Mozart, Brahms, Sieczynski, Sullivan, Grobe, Ward, O'Hara, Sibelius and Shostakovich.

Caruso will sing "Vittoro Mio Core" (Victorious My Heart) by Carissimi; "Vergin Tutto Amor," a prayer to the Virgin Mary, by Durante; "Presto Presto Io M'immamore," a song of love by Mazzaferrata; "Air de Caron" from "Alceste" by Lully, and "Whims," a lyrical love song by Franz.

The Burleigh arrangements are the spirituals "By An' By," "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," "De Gospel Train," and "De Blin Man Stood on de Road an Cried."

Carrise's closing number will be "Aprite inpo Quegli Occhi" (Open Your Eyes a Little) from the opera "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart.

Mrs. Roeder will follow Caruso with two numbers from the same opera, "Voi Che Sapete" and "Non So Piu."

Brahms' "Wiegenlied" (Cradle Song) and the nostalgic "Wien, Du Stadt Meiner Traume" (Vienna, My City of Dreams) by Sieczynski follow the opera numbers.

Mrs. Roeder will continue her work in Europe was recognized by the President's People-to-People Program. She received a certificate and letter of appreciation for her outstanding contribution to the program.

Caruso is a distant relative of Enrico Caruso, world-famous Italian tenor. He studied voice at Mannes College of Music, Manhattan, New York City.

He made his official debut at Carnegie Hall in Nurman Seaman's "Twilight Concert Concert Series."

He co-starred with Roberta Stevens in a program of duets at the Metropolitan Opera.

Touring the U.S. and Canada with Gian Carlo Menotti's Christmas opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," Caruso sang the part of one of the Three Kings.

Since coming to Fort Benning, Caruso has participated in many local concerts in the community. He was base soloist in the 1960 production of Handel's Messiah on the post, guest soloist with the Atlanta, Ga., Pops Symphony, and with the Columbus Symphony.

He was featured in a concert of the Fort Benning 1960-1961 series.

12 Complete AO Training At 2nd Avn Co

Twelve officers will graduate tomorrow from the Aerial Observer Course conducted by the 2nd Aviation Company.

Upon completion of the course, these officers will be awarded the Aerial Observer designation.

Ground School

Preceding the training conducted by the 2nd Aviation Company, the AO students were given 49 hours of ground school instruction by Division Artillery. The remainder of the ground school was conducted by members of the direct support platoon under the supervision of Lieutenant Thomas M. Wilson, platoon leader.

Each individual involved in the AO course received 24 hours of actual flight subjects. During this period, the officers were introduced to basic flight characteristics of the L-19.

After graduation, the majority of the officers will go to a battalion in Division Artillery. Each battalion is authorized two trained observers.

To qualify for the AO course, an officer must pass a class three physical and successfully complete the prescribed ground school.

15th Fires 1st Service Practice

The 1st Howitzer Battalion, 15th Artillery, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Ralph E. Jones, has completed its first service practice since its mission was changed from a training unit to a TO&E battalion.

Both Alpha and Bravo batteries, commanded by Captains Joseph P. Mordente and Ray J. Jones went into action at 8 a.m. and fired until 4:30 p.m. Each battery fired over 100 rounds of ammunition.

Forward Observer

Since this was a training problem, NCO's and other key personnel acted as forward observers. The men were rotated from their sections to the observation post. This rotation system insured that the key personnel within the battalion were oriented on observer procedure—a necessity for all Artillerymen.

The Artillery mission to move, shoot, and communicate, was new to many of the personnel within the battalion, but the work of each section made the service practice successful.

69th Armor Officer Promoted to Major

By 69th Armor PIO

Major Edwin S. McClure, 69th Armor, was recently promoted to his present rank.

Major McClure was assigned as Company D commander prior to his promotion. He was assigned to the battalion upon graduation from the Armor Officers Career Course at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Speech on Red Cross Given at Ladies' Lunch

The Ladies of the Big Indianhead held their monthly luncheon recently at the 2nd Division Non-Commissioned Officers Club.

Mrs. Robert Harrison, president, introduced the guest speakers, Mrs. Wilford Losee, staff aid for the Red Cross, and Mrs. Grace Woolf, from the Fort Benning - Columbus Toastmistress Club.

Mrs. Woolf spoke on behalf of the American Red Cross. She urged the ladies to "open their hearts" and give some of their time to the volunteer work done by the Red Cross. She also reminded them of the different fields they could select to work in — staff aid, gray lady, welfare worker, nurse's aid.

Mrs. Losee related her experiences as a staff aid for the Red Cross both here and overseas.

New members welcomed to the club were Mrs. Fred Hammond, Mrs. Frank Bisaldo, Mrs. Ralph Kell, Mrs. James Pierce, Mrs. Curtis Cowthon and Mrs. Warren Freeman.

Guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Edelstead Mitchell, Mrs. Janie Mailliet, Mrs. Luther Scarbough and Mrs. Miles Baity.

Back to school was the luncheon theme. A little red school house with a banner flying high reading "Happy Days Are Here Again" was centered on the main table.

Mrs. Harrison thanked the committee for their hard work to make the luncheon a success. The committee consisted of Mrs. Samuel Clash, Mrs. Howard Flora, Mrs. Robert Hawkins, Mrs. Eddie Daniels and was under the direction of the Hospitality Chairman, Mrs. Wayne Cliff.

After the luncheon, Bingo was enjoyed by all attending.

'Ist' Wives Bring Punch and Games To Hospital Ward

A ward party was given recently by the Hospital Committee of the wives of the 1st Infantry officers.

The chairman, Mrs. John McKelvey, and her assistants, Mrs. George Tronsrue, Mrs. Clay Mobley, and Mrs. Richard Caravana, brought punch and cookies for the male orthopedic patients at Martin Army Hospital.

The Red Cross lent a hand by providing games.

Major Arlene R. Saddaby, commander of the 2nd Aviation Company, was host Friday at a promotion party in the Corregidor Room of the Main Officers Open Mess.

Returning To School

Miss Sue McGraw has left Fort Benning to attend the University of South Carolina. Sue will enter her second year there. Miss Margaret McGraw will attend the University of Maryland as a freshman. They are the daughters of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Robert E. McGraw.

Daughter

Lieutenant and Mrs. Joseph Royere, 702nd Ordnance Battalion, announce the birth of their second daughter, Jacqueline Michele, on September 12. Mrs. Edward L. Dougherty, mother of Mrs. Royere, is visiting from Arcadia, California.

Div. Protestants Plan Meeting

The Protestant Women of the Chapel will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at Chapel Three, Sand Hill.

Protestant ladies of the 23rd Infantry, 69th Armor and 7th Cavalry are urged to attend this first meeting to help organize and to elect officers. All meetings after this will be held the fourth Wednesday morning of each month.

A nursery will be provided at the Sunday School, near the Chapel.

For further information, call Mrs. Robert C. Harlee, MU 9-5396 or Mrs. Bob E. Murdock, MU 9-1912.

Ladies Attend Fashion Parade

The Ladies of the Big Indianhead began their season with the "Fallarama Parade of Fashions" Thursday at Sand Hill Service Club Two.

Program director for the fashion show was Mrs. Robert L. Brown, wife of the division sergeant major.

The fashions, collections of fall clothing, were provided by a local dress shop. Modeling the clothing were some of the members of the Ladies of the Big Indianhead: Mesdames Lawdy Douglas, Walter Edge, George Funyak, Basil L. Plumley, Charles E. Smith, Wattie I. St. John, James J. Tighe, Eubert Linthicum and Robert L. Brown.

Honored Guest

Honored guests who attended the "Fallarama Parade of Fashions" were: Mrs. Royal Reynolds Jr., wife of the assistant division commander, Mrs. Gustav M. Bacharach, wife of the division chief of staff, Mrs. Louis A. Kunzig Jr., president of the Officers Wives Club and Mrs. Maurice C. Holden, wife of the deputy brigade commander.

Other honored guests were Mrs. Byrd Sergent, Mrs. Stanley L. Harding, Mrs. John B. Wise, Mrs. Ralph H. Highett and Mrs. James C. Larson.

Special guests from Main Post were Mrs. Cyril D. Sterner, president of the Main Post Officers Wives Club and Mrs. Raymond R. Faust, NCO Wives Club president.

Mrs. Robert L. Brown was assisted by Mrs. Bilbo Nowell and Mrs. Madeline J. Parks, director of Service Club Two.

FOR THE BOWLING LEAGUE . . . Mrs. Robert K. Harrison, president of the Ladies of the Big Indianhead presents a check to Mrs. Oral J. Annis, left, president of the Squaws' bowling league, kicking off their bowling season. The ladies will be bowling at the Sand Hill alleys on Monday nights at 7 p.m. Team assignments will be made after bowling on Monday. For information, members of the Ladies of the Big Indianhead may call the league officers, Mrs. Robert L. Brown, vice president, Mrs. James A. Scott, secretary-treasurer or Mrs. Henry D. Baker, Sergeant-at-arms.

Cook of the Week

Chow, Chow, Bambina!

Now that the hot weather seems to have played itself out, the kitchen is a challenge, not a torture chamber.

Mrs. Donald Modica, wife of Captain Donald Modica, commander of Company E, 69th Armor, has a recipe for us that will make anyone sit up and take notice when you serve it.

Veal Scallopini

Shake 1 lb. veal round steak cutlet, ½ inch thick, in a bag containing ½ cup flour, three-quarter teaspoon monosodium glutamate, ½ teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Slice into 1 inch strips.

In large, heavy skillet heat one clove garlic in ¼ cup olive oil. Have the garlic sliced thin. Saute until garlic is slightly brown. Add veal and slowly brown on both sides.

While veal is browning, combine 1¼ cup canned tomatoes, stirred, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon chopped parsley, ¼ teaspoon oregano, and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Slowly add this tomato mixture to browned veal. Cover and simmer 25 minutes, or until veal is tender. If sauce thickens too much while cooking, add water. Serves 3 to 4.

Bridge

A Timid Player Case

BY JENNI JOHNSON

The 87th Infantry couples bridge party resulted in the hand below.

Two important bridge rules are brought out by this hand as Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Laughlin points out in his critique of the bidding and play.

Colonel Laughlin is chairman of the Fort Benning Duplicate Bridge evening session at the post Country Club. Every Tuesday evening he may be found there vying for masters points along with many other couples of this area. He is a Senior Master — which denotes his accumulation of at least 100 accredited points.

Opening lead by East, ♣ 4.

G. U. B., as they say, Grossly Under Bid!

South has let his partner down.

North opened in second position with a major suit and guarantees a rebid. South has six high card points and three of his partner's suit. He can and should respond one-no-trump after East passed. North knows South has six to ten points and adding the minimum of six to his own 20 points for 26 points gives to game. He must take the initiative and go to game since South's one-no-trump is a limit or sign-off and indicates a minimum hand.

Lead is the four of spades, a reasonable lead considering East's hand. West must duck and play a little spade, for unless West holds that king over the spades on the board, North can make all his spades good. West realizes East's lead of four spades must be a singleton or doubleton at the most, for he can see there are only three spades out that are higher than the four.

North does not know how uneven the distribution is of the spades and hearts. North lacks transportation to the board and so will certainly try to finesse for the king of spades having taken the first trick with the dummy's queen. West ducks again and now East will trump. East leads back a club and regardless of which club is led by East, even if it is the king, West must take the trick with his ace of clubs.

If East is allowed to take the trick North will trump the next club trick, pull the trump, play his ace of spades, lead his one remaining spade and trump it on the board. The rest of the tricks are his — making five hearts.

West's defensive playing prevents the over trick if he saves his king of spades, and insists on taking the club trick, and then leads a little spade for East to trump.

Two points can be noted from this hand. One, in the bidding, concerns responding to an opening bid when opener is in the first or second position. Opener guarantees opening count and a rebid and may have a lot more. His partner, with a minimum hand, should make a limit bid when opponent has passed.

Second is in the defensive play. The opening lead must be considered carefully, for it is a valuable clue to the defender's hand as well as the declarer's hand. Why let them have an over trick to add to their game score?

Lieutenant and Mrs. Richard Sharp were second high and first in score at the 87th couples bridge party at the home of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. C. Syverson.

Active Wife also Director-Actress

BLITHE SPIRIT . . .

. . . AT WORK

"No reflection on my beauty," declared Phyllis Tritsch, "but I was a witch at 13—on radio."

"You see," continued the wife of Captain Arthur A. Tritsch Jr., 7th Cavalry's S-2, "one of my first jaunts into acting was with Neila Mack's radio show "Let's Pretend" giving dramatizations of children's fairy stories. I played a witch."

Ever since her teens, Phyllis, a sibling of New York City, has brought with her all the bustle and activity of her native metropolis — never seeing to it that her first role as wife and mother was supplimented whenever possible with the magic of the entertainment world.

Her present extra-family activity, directing the forthcoming Masquers' production of "Tea and Sympathy," finds her not only forfeiting leaf evening hours, but fighting the onslaught of the autumn flu and supervising the top-to-bottom repainting of the Tritsch home on 1st Division Road. "That's about par for the course, she laughed.

Phyllis began her attachment to theatrics in "the usual way—school plays." Then at 13 it was radio, with Neila Mack's "Let's Pretend," where she played a witch. At 15, before her college years, she went to Iverton, Connecticut, to the Iverton Playhouse to work in summer stock.

"I remember a talented actress, Celeste Holm. That was the year before she became so famous with Oklahoma.' We did plays including 'Poor Nut,' which starred Buddy Epson, a dancer who later became known as Davy Crockett's side-kick on TV. Arlene Francis made a guest appearance that year. I did what everyone does in stock, some acting and mostly back-stage grind."

Hunter

Phyllis attended Hunter College in New York City, but married before graduating. She ended her college work with the Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science.

While at Kansas she worked back-stage. "My New York accent just didn't fit in with the mid-Western speech."

When the Tritsch children were born, Phyllis bade a temporary good-bye to theater and didn't take it up again until they were school age.

Then, six years ago, at Fort Hood, Texas, with both children at school, she went to work with the newly-formed Ft. Hood Little Theatre, acting and doing properties.

While there, Phyllis worked with a TV progrom sponsored by the Army as a weekly service. That was in Temple, Texas. She acted the lead in Noel Coward's "Hands Across the Sea." She also did the role of a shop-lifter in Sidney Kinley's "Detective Story."

In 1957, Phyllis had her first experience with directing. The Tritsches were in Germany and she found herself directing Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" with the Downs Barracks Little Theater in Fulda, Germany.

"I became interested in theater - in - the - round and we toured service clubs in the area doing plays like 'Janice' and 'All My Sons' in the round."

While at Fort Benning, she acted the lead in the Masquers' production of "Girls in 509." She also has continued with radio, on WMAH Wednesday mornings doing "American Red Cross on the Air."

Her two children, Leslie and Geoffrey are both in school here. Leslie, 15, attends Columbus High School and Geoffrey, 12, attends Faith School on post.

Tea and Sympathy

Speaking about her work as director of the Masquers' new play, "Tea and Sympathy," she feels that it is the greatest effort she ever undertook.

Asked if she thought there might be any comparison to the original smash-hit Broadway production starring Deborah Kerr and John Kerr, she said: "Definitely not. It is so magnificently written — so much so that it can stand very well on its own merits."

About working with the Masquers' facilities: "There are all kinds of problems with little theaters but mostly — having to scrounge — that's the real challenge. But there is no doubt in my mind that a smaller atmosphere creates a much more tremendously powerful scene."

"Phyllis projects her experiences with the theater and her vitality into everything she does," testified one of the actors in "Tea and Sympathy."

"Like the other day, we were moping around and she raced into the playhouse in a blue print dress with a white cardigan tossed about her shoulders, saying: Really, I feel great! I've still got my cold and I may not look so good or sound like anything, but I feel great. Lets go! And the rehearsal began."

23rd Inf Vet Pays Return Visit to Unit

By Max Cauvan

A 23rd Infantry veteran of three wars ago paid a visit to the "We Serve" unit last week.

George L. Johnson — now a retired clerk — joined the 23rd Infantry Regiment in France in 1917 and remained with the outfit until his discharge in 1919.

Then-Private Johnson saw action at Chateau Thierry, Mont Blanc and The Argonne, where he served as a runner for a machinegun company. It was at this last battle site that he said he heard the final enemy shell fired at his position the day World War I ended. "It came over about 20 minutes before the ceasefire," Mr. Johnson recalled. He added that up until the last round "normal" fighting had continued throughout the day.

9th Inf Has Four-Day Field Week

The 9th Infantry Monday will begin phase two of the field maneuvers now in progress since the words "combat ready" spread through the 2nd Division.

Phase one, consisting of squad tactics under simulated combat conditions, ended this week and progressed into platoon tactical training. The training schedule, starting with small groups, is aimed to teach and experience the men in whole company and battle group movements.

In the Field

The 9th Infantry lives in the field four days of each week and is completely self-supporting with its own field kitchens, communications platoon and medical personnel.

An inspection was made last week by the Battle Group Commander, Colonel C. P. Hannum, and his staff members in regard to how quickly they have adapted themselves to becoming a TO&E outfit.

Within hours after the truck convoy arrived at the bivouac site, communications and training were in full operation.

Judo Exhibition Set At SH Service Club

Second Infantry Division personnel will have an opportunity Sunday to see an exhibition in Shihai Judo at Sand Hill's Service Club Two.

According to Mrs. Eleanor Sahota, the club's program director, the demonstration, which begins at noon, will be given by Marine Sergeant Richard L. Tyner and three of his fellow instructors from Camp LeJeune, North Carolina.

Sgt. Tyner is a holder of a 2nd degree black belt.

Also to be featured on Sunday's card is Marcel Carles, a native of France, and a former non-commissioned officer who at one time was stationed here with the Ranger Department.

Now a civilian, Mr. Carles holds the 2nd degree black belt in judo and was the Southeastern United States Champion. He also holds a 2nd degree black belt in jujitsu.

Captain M. G. Stafford, 66th Armor, 1st Infantry Brigade, who gives judo lessons at the Service Club, stated Sunday's demonstration "should be an outstanding one."

Captain Stafford, who holds a 2nd degree brown belt and who studied the art from Chinese and Vietnamese instructors, conducts classes in judo at the Service Club each Saturday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m.

The first hour of class is that of instruction while matches are conducted during the second hour.

Officers

(Con't. from P. 9)

H. Myers has been assigned as commander of the 702nd Ordnance Battalion. His former assignment was that of ordnance advisor at the United States Army Infantry Board on post.

Col. Myers graduated from Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College with a degree in petroleum engineering and was commissioned through that college's Reserve Officer Training Corps program.

Before coming to Fort Benning, Col. Myers served as Assistant for Material, Ordnance Division, Headquarters United States Army Communications Zone, Europe.

Conquerors Host Iranian

The 87th Infantry recently hosted Lieutenant Amir Masoud Tajvar of the Iranian Army. Lieutenant Tajvar was welcomed to the 87th by Col. Robert E. Connor, battle group commander, who presented him with a battle group crest.

A guest of Captain George E. McKenna of Company D, Lieutenant Tajvar witnessed 81 millimeter mortar training, machine gun instruction and classroom presentations by the company officers. Captain McKenna, fluent in Persian as a result of instruction at the Army Language School and a three year tour of duty in Iran, oriented Lieutenant Tajvar on the organization and mission of the company.

New Airborne Trooper Statue Has 2nd Div Non-Com as Model

BY CLAY LACY

Dedication ceremonies tomorrow at Fort Bragg, N. C., will unveil the statue commemorating the Airborne Trooper everywhere.

The 16-foot bronze fiberglass figure will show a Trooper following his drop as he makes an initial reconnaissance of the terrain, according to one of the live models used during the construction of the statue.

The live model is now on duty with the 2nd Infantry Division. He is Sergeant Major James L. Runyon, the sergeant major of the division's 9th Infantry.

Sergeant Runyon, a World War II veteran with over 18 years' Army service, was selected by the-then personnel officer (G-1) of the XVIII Corps, Colonel Edward Whelems. This selection was confirmed by the commander of the XVIII Corps at that time, Lieutenant General Robert F. Sink.

From June until August of 1960, Sergeant Runyon spent approximately four hours a day posing for the sculptress, Mrs. Samuel Hiebert. Each sitting, said Sergeant Runyon, was a "real experience" in how to maintain a motionless pose.

Sergeant Runyon has spent all but 18 months of his Army service in Airborne units. In World War II, he participated in the Normandy landings with the 501st Parachute Infantry Regiment and stayed with the unit in the march across Europe.

A native of Coraopolis, Pa., he attended high school in Leetsdale, Pa. The 38-year-old non-com came to the 2nd Division in October of last year and became the sergeant major of the 9th Infantry in June of this year.

With one tour of a year with an Infantry unit in Korea in addition to his service with the 2nd Division, Sergeant Runyon compares the non-commissioned officer of the Airborne to the Infantry NCO as follows: "I find that the non-com in an Infantry line unit is generally older and tends therefore to be more mature than the Airborne NCO, who is usually younger-in-age than his Infantry counterpart."

Barker New 1st Sergeant At 23rd Hq.

Headquarters Company, 23rd Infantry, has a new first sergeant — Wilmer R. Barker, a native of Battle Creek, Michigan.

Recently, Sgt. Barker completed a tour of duty in Bromberg, Germany. He has been fulfilling first sergeant and sergeant major duties since 1943. He has served in the Caribbean area, Japan and Europe, as well as in the United States.

Sgt. Barker has had two previous assignments at Fort Benning, serving in 1954 with the 135th Infantry and in 1955 with the 15th Infantry. His hobbies include hunting and fishing.

Sgt. Walter Whitener at Warner Range.

69TH ARMOR AT STEWART FOR TANK-FIRING SESSION

The 69th Armor departed yesterday for a session of tank firing at Fort Stewart, Georgia . . . but not before getting in some practice at Warner Range.

The purpose of the trip is to fire the individual tank crews on Stewart's tank firing ranges. For some of the newer members of the 69th, it will be their first experience in firing the 90 millimeter guns.

Maximum Participation

Maximum participation is the order of the day for the tankers, with only a skeleton force of necessary personnel being left as the rear detachment. The advance party arrived at Fort Stewart last week.

In preparation for the trip, the tankers have been seeing plenty of range firing. The battalion has successfully fired tables I, II, and III at Warner Range. These tables consist of subcaliber firing, a prerequisite to 90 millimeter firing. In addition, the battalion has been firing a modified Table VI day-and-night course in the Harmony Church area.

ALESSANDRO?

"Alessandro" is the Italian form of the name "Alexander," which means "defender of men."

Retires at Six

Citation, first horse to win more than a million dollars for its owners, was retired at the age of six on July 19, 1951.

Legs Stretch at 7 A.M.

Cross Country Run Set Sat.

BY DAVE HARRELL

Approximately 35 runners will scratch off in the 2nd Infantry Division Cross Country Championship Race tomorrow at 7 a.m. when the starting gun sounds.

Cross country running is considered one of the most thankless sports in existence in which a set of strong legs, stamina and plenty of determination are the winning factors. And on this particular course, the team members will need all these attributes and more.

It winds over hill and dale, through thickly wooded areas, through drainage ditches, deep sand and slick muddy hillsides. The very difficult course is approximately three miles in length.

Each major command will enter a team of five athletes in the event for which the winning unit will receive 25 points towards the Commanding General's Trophy. Trophies will be presented to the teams winning first, second and third place.

In addition, individual trophies will be awarded the first five winners. Even though a team might not win a trophy as a whole, there is still a possibility that a team member might win an individual trophy.

Scoring is accomplished by adding up positions placed, and the team with the least number of points is the winner.

Seven teams are tentatively entering the competition.

Those entering rosters as of Tuesday include:

87th Infantry: Privates Edward Bevell, Fred Daniels, Dale Vaughn, John Wedlow, Joseph Westry, Hamel Rose and Howard Grimes.

23rd Infantry: Lieutenants Robert Hardlee and Walter Swain. Sergeant Thomas Burns, Specialist Four Joseph Matyjevich, and Private First Class John Moore.

Bevell Sets Fast Pace in 87th's Cross Country

By 87th Inf PIO

In the 87th Infantry cross country eliminations held last week Private Edward Bevell of Company C established himself as a first rate track star.

Leading the seven-man team, Private Bevell also won the battle group trophy turning in a fast 18:24 for the three-mile run.

Coach Burl Withers said that the team had practiced last week and had a run-off last Saturday to determine the five to run in the Division meet September 22.

Other team members are Privates Daniels, Wedlow, Grimes, Rose, Vaughn and Westry. . . finishing in that order. Winner Bevell said that this race was his first since competition for his high school in Claredon, Arkansas.

2nd Inf Div Trains Team Ready for Flag Season

Several seasoned hold-overs from last year's team will be in the lineup when Coach Lou Prolago's Division Trains Flag Football team takes to the field on October 2.

Heading the list of veterans are quarterback Gilbert Edmiston, 702nd Ordnance, halfbacks Rocco Siravo and Vincent Bujan, 2nd Administration Company, and 1929 Transportation's Lee R. Burchfield, who has traded his fullback slot for the center post.

New faces on the Trains practice field will include guard William L. Patrick and end William D. Stawiany, both of the 2nd Military Police Detachment, along with guard Erwin Dykstra, end Edmund C. Leavanworth and fullback William D. Cobb, all of Trains' Headquarters Detachment.

Newcomer Paul Vincent 702nd Ordnance, hopes to brighten Coach Prolago's face from his left tackle post. Ditto for his running mate, Headquarters Detachment's Wayne F. Lasater, also new blood.

Hq Co Leading In 1st Infantry Bowling League

By 1st Inf PIO

The "Always First" Bowling League of the 1st Infantry finished its second week of bowling at the Sand Hill Bowling Lanes last week. Headquarters Company took the lead with an impressive 8-0 record.

Individual winners of the week were: Major Erwin Farrell, high three game series with a total of 563 pins; Major John McKelvey, high single game with 222, and Captain George Robinson, 230 with handicap.

Rags-to-Riches Story — Dodgers

The Los Angeles Dodgers gained perhaps their greatest popularity during their losing years between pennant victories in 1920 and 1941, when the cry of affectionate fans of "Dem Bums" was "Wait until next year."

But following the drought, the Dodgers, since 1946, have captured six of 12 National League pennants. Their first world championship came in 1955 when they defeated the New York Yankees in a seven-game World Series.

Defeated Once, 87th's Co. C In First Place

By 87th Inf PIO

The 87th Infantry Bowling League, now about one-month old, is progressing smoothly.

Company E is still holding down first place. Undefeated up until last Friday night, their record stands at 9 - 3, only one point ahead of Company C. Company A is third.

Sergeant First Class James Patterson of Company C has been the best individual performer so far, having high game and high series under his belt. High average (174) belongs to Sergeant Burl Withers, battle group athletic and recreation NCO, attached to Headquarters Company.

This Amazing World

By Sp4 Harold Kitching

Since the American Bowling Congress was established in 1895 to build and guide the development of bowling it has taken the sport out of the "pot-grower" stage and put it on the road to improvement.

Those "good old days" of 1895 were pretty mixed up. There were no standards, there were no laws, there was no protection.

You might accept a challenge from some club in town and find they used loaded balls, tall, skinny pins and had lanes six feet longer than yours.

The ABC is a service to bowling, a membership organization of American bowlers, non-profit, non-commercial, devoted only to the interest of bowling itself.

Last year more than 600,000 members were recognized for their performance through ABC's $250,000 award program. Nearly 100,000 received the most improved bowler award.

"ABC Sanctioned" is a term meaning: A situation conforming with the rules, regulations and specifications set forth in the ABC rule book, a pocket sized volume of human effort distilled from the experience and wisdom of bowlers over nearly 70 years.

It is the bowlers who write the rule book. Through their cooperation the service station operator in Butler, Pa., the lawyer in Owosso, Mich., the newspaperman in Estacada, Ore., and the Soldier at Fort Benning have an opportunity through ABC to help improve the game.

About four and one fourth million men now bowl on millions of teams in 110,000 sanctioned leagues. Just a few dimes of their expenditures support ABC sanction services.

DUES PROVIDE MUCH

This is what a member's 50 cent ABC dues help provide:

His opponent's ball is fairly balanced and weighs no more than 16 pounds. . .every lane he bowls on is no more than 60 feet from foul line to headpin, not less than 41 or more than 42 inches wide. . .gutters are of uniform width and depth. . .pin spots are in the same locations and standing in unvarying distances apart on each lane. . .pin weights, sizes and balance meet meticulous standards.

RULES ENFORCED

The word sanction would lose its meaning if there were no realistic enforcement procedures.

The ultimate punishment ABC delivers is expulsion. Each year a small percentage of ABC members are expelled for things from misusing league funds to cheating on averages.

ABC TOURNAMENTS

An "ABC Sanctioned" tournament means:

Fair competition, whether handicap, classified or open . . .equitable prize distribution so bowlers aren't misled by tapheavy prize lists. . .limits on fees and the uses of entry money. . .standardized, legal pin weights and conditions. . .high score awards. . .protection against cheaters and those who falsify or misrepresent averages.

Today's bowler can enjoy his game while ABC works for the stability, progress and protection of bowling.

Benning Doughboys Drop Game To Lejeune Marines, By 27-7

The post Doughboys were dealt a 27-7 setback by the Camp Lejeune Marines in the opening game of the 1961 football season at the Marine base last Saturday.

Highlight of the inter-service contest was a 94-yard punt return by Doughboy halfback Northern Brown.

He took the punt on his own six-yard line and went all the way behind the blocking of his teammates for the only Benning touchdown.

The run, longest offensive play of the game came in the third quarter with the Marines leading, 13-0.

William Johnson, a Doughboy end, suffered a chipped leg bone in the game and is expected to be out of action for at least five weeks.

Chief contendors for the starting end position held by Johnson are Henry M. Derleth and Jim Daniels.

Derleth, a 6'3", 210-pounder, played college ball at the University of Wisconsin, while Daniels, 6'4" and 205 pounds, played for Clemson.

"We've got a lot of work to do," stated Doughboy coach Leaton Cofield. "Our backfield didn't come up to my expectation and our defense was pretty ragged at times."

"Our own mistakes hurt us a lot, too," he added. "We were penalized something like 200 yards, which stopped many of our drives."

Alvin Aucoin, Doughboy tackle, was singled out as one of the outstanding Benning players.

Many of the players are still nursing minor injuries sustained early in season practices.

However, because of an open date this weekend the team is expected to be in good shape for their next scheduled opponent, the Quantico Marines on September 30.

The Doughboys will play their first home game on October 7 when they meet the Fort Eustis eleven.

YAC Wants Support

Youth Activities Club To Begin Swimming Team

The Youth Activities Swim Team will start tryouts and practice tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the Briant Wells Field House pool.

These practices will continue until November when the team will begin practicing after school from 4 to 6 p.m.

All former team members and other interested dependents can attend.

"The team needs all interested military dependents, both boys and girls, regardless of whether or not they live on or off-post," coach George Watkins said.

"Last year we had a five and three record and I feel that if we get the same kind of support this year we'll do even better. We also anticipate more meets this year," he added.

Swimming competition is broken down into five classes: eight and under, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14, and 15 years old and up.

This year a new system will be put into effect. There will be a first team and a second team. Also, if enough persons turn out, a third team will begin.

"In addition, to regular scheduled meets through the winter months, starting in May the team will be attending the AAU meets which are held virtually every weekend for the remainder of the summer," coach Watkins explained.

"If you'd like to swim and enjoy competition this is your opportunity to participate," he said.

Lt. Col. H. W. Hoffman is the swimming chairman.

Junior Rifle Sign-up Time

Junior rifle marksmen of Fort Benning's younger set will open their 1961-62 season of practice and competition today, Capt. William W. Gray has announced.

Officer-in-charge, Capt. Gray said that membership in the group is open to boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 19 years of age, and that he expected a large number of youngsters to participate in the program.

Firing sessions are to be slated on Saturday mornings on the small-bore ranges of the hosting post Rifle and Pistol Club and will be conducted by crack instructors from The Infantry School and the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit.

Capt. Gray, who is assigned to the Small Arms Committee of the Infantry School's Weapons Department, said that many of the "old-timers" of the group will show up with their own rifles but that top-flight weapons will be available for those 'teen-agers who have none of their own.

The first day of the group's activity will entail registration at the Rifle and Pistol Club office at the post pistol club range, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

Clark Captures Highest Award

BY MSGT CHARLIE QUINN

Thirty-three members of the post's Sport Parachute Club held a crowd of thousands seemingly spellbound Saturday afternoon and Sunday as they engaged in probably the nation's most hair-raising competition — "sky-diving."

Sergeant First Class David L. Clark, Airborne-Air Mobility Department, out-scored all competitors in the Class C event to take the intra-club competition's highest award.

A Master Parachutist, Sgt Clark has racked up 185 sports parachute jumps in addition to over 150 military parachute drops.

His trophy winning leaps were made from altitudes of 7,000 feet in which opening of his parachutes were delayed for 30 seconds while he sailed through a number of expertly executed turns as he fell at a rate of some 120 miles an hour.

In Class B events calling for free-fall jumps from 4,300 feet with 15 seconds delay, 2nd Lt. Walter L. Swain, 2nd Infantry Division, captured first honors.

The Class A trophy was taken by Sgt. John D. Fulone, 187th Pathfinder Team, who led all competitors in the 2,800 foot altitude contest.

On Sunday afternoon the club presented a spectacular feat by five of its members who jumped from the top altitude of 7,000 feet.

Leaping at the same instant from the aircraft all five parachutists held hands and streaked down a full 5,000 feet before reaching the point where regulations say all skydivers must open their parachutes. The five man contact was never broken in the fall of little less than a full mile.

Heading the team was the Sports Parachutist Club's president, 2nd Lt. Charles Mullins, 187th Pathfinder Team; Sfc Clark, and Sgt. Howard Stevens, 187th Pathfinders; Sfc Joe D. Veal and Sp5 Carl Bryan of the Airborne Department.

According to Lt. Mullins, the Sports Parachute Club has its full quota of 50 members and now has 15 names on the waiting list.

He said the membership had to be restricted in number of active members because of aircraft usage limitations but that the waiting list continues to grow.

Military Academy Team To Use Run-Pass Onset

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AFPS)—With the exception of the past two gridiron campaigns, the Black Knights of the Hudson have relied strictly on ground attacks as an offensive weapon. After a temporary two-year switch to a passing game, coach Dale Hall has indicated the '61 eleven will use a razzle-dazzle, run-pass option type of offense.

Basis for the revival is the presence of Dick Eckert and Joe Blaskgrove, a pair of elusive, break-away runners at quarterback. To best use their ball-toting techniques, Hall claims he has devised several run-pass option plays to baffle opponents.

Returning Army lettermen include four at end, and two front line operatives at fullback. The picture loses some of its sheen, Hall said, as a long look at the roster attests.

At fullback the one-two punch combination of Al Rushatz and George Pappas provides a line-battering team that is hard to stop. Rushatz led the cadets in both rushing and scoring last fall and is expected to improve on both counts. What he lacks in straight ahead speed, Pappas more than makes up for in pure power.

As for the interior line, Hall said he has his problems cut out. Dale Kuhns, 220-pound vet tackle, and Mike Casp, guard, will be the only two seasoned linemen. The remainder of the interior wall will have to be molded from tackles Bill Whitehead, Bill Hawkins, Chet Kempinski and Ed Schiller; guards John Dwyer, Barry Butzer and Pete Buckley, and centers Alan Scott, Marty Ryan and Mike Miller.

Of this group only Butzer and Whitehead, at guard and tackle respectively, have earned varsity letters. Whitehead has two letters to his credit, but played as a center last fall.

Unable to produce a run last season of more than 21 yards, the halfback corps is, as Hall points out, "in trouble." George Kirschenbauer, returning starter at left halfback, is safely ensconced at that post. Pete King has the inside track for right half with his latent speed. Paul Stanley, a letterman in '60, is a good punter and provides adequate security at left half behind Kirschenbauer.

Overall, 13 lettermen were lost and a similar number returned.

Two Men TKO'd In Boxing Tilt

By Sfc Bismarck Stith

Over 700 boxing fans from Fort Benning and Columbus gathered into Gowdy Field last Thursday evening to witness the first outdoor boxing matches of the season.

Lightweight James Harris, 151st Engineers, stopped Doug Johnson of the 2nd Division Trains, in 2:30 of the first round with a TKO.

Also in the lightweight division, Jimmy Berry of the 29th Infantry, won over James Smith 10th Artillery, with a TKO in 1:45 of the second round.

All other bouts were won by decision.

Officials for the bout were: Milt Lewis and Sid Bryant, referees; Larry Flanagan and Wesley Cason, judges; Al Niemiec, timekeeper; Eugene Roach, knockdown timekeeper; William Edens, announcer.

Complete results are as follows:

FEATHERWEIGHT: Earl McKnight, 151st Engineers, dec. Joe Aguilera, 29th Infantry. LIGHTWEIGHT: James Harris, 151st Engineers, TKO 2, James Johnson, 2nd Div. Trains, 2:30 (1). LIGHT WELTERWEIGHT: Charles Hardman, 2nd Div. Trains, dec. Thomas Keeling, 10th Artillery. WELTERWEIGHT: Jesse Walker, 29th Infantry, dec. Roy Ross, 151st Engineers. LIGHT MIDDLEWEIGHT: Oscar Hardman, 2nd Div. Trains, dec. Thomas Keeling, 10th Artillery. LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT: Amos Crumbley, Div. Trains, dec. John Sorrells, 10th Artillery; Jimmy Berry, 29th Infantry, TKO 1 James Smith, 10th Artillery, 1:45 (2). HEAVYWEIGHT: Gene Gaston, Div. Trains, dec. Charles Dawson, 29th Infantry.

The 29th Infantry leads the Major unit Boxing Program with 150 points. Division Trains has 111, 59th Infantry, 78, 10th Artillery, 61, 151st Engineers, 52, and tied for sixth place with one point each are The Student Brigade and Troop Command.

The post championships will be held September 27-28.

YAC Barracks Awards Dinner

A team and individual champions award dinner for the summer Youth Activities Club bowling leagues will be held at Brat Barracks from 7 to 9 p.m., Tuesday, September 26.

Forty-six junior bowlers will receive trophies won in the three separate junior leagues and there will be consolation gifts for all junior bowlers who failed to qualify for an award.

Dependent children aged eight through 18 and parents interested in forming a winter league can attend. New bowlers will receive free bowling instructions before starting in the league.

OUTDOOR OUTLOOK

By MSgt Charlie Quinn

There was a shotgun sticking out of every bush along the Buena-Vista-Cussete boundary last weekend as post hunters took opening cracks at doves.

The cold blast that hit Fort Benning was just right to get the birds flying and few shotgunners failed to get off at least two or three shots.

Reports have it that some gunners bagged their limits. This is usually the case with men who know doves and know and can really use their weapons.

However, most reports dealt with the frustration of new-comers to the field of dove shooting — how they ended the day standing knee-deep in empty shells without so much as having scratched a feather.

Fit of your gun, the pattern it throws, swing, follow-through, the shot used are all factors which dictate success or failure . . . hut there's one more. This is one which has stopped even crack quail and pheasant men — the fact that they just will not believe the lead distance necessary to down a dove speeding at right angles — say at 40 yards. The best I can say here is that you should estimate the length of lead — then triple it.

MSgt Jim Forester of G3 clued me in this way: "Crawl over that pile of shells and next time shoot where you think he'll be next week." I did and when the dove tumbled, I just would not believe it.

Doves should be plentiful and, if the chill continues, northern flights should be moving in long before the first session of shooting ends in about a month.

Our Wid Life Aides report the finding of a freshly-cut leg on the reservation — results of what they believe to be the work of a poacher. They tell me that heavy pressures are going to be exerted in the direction of putting an end to all such activity on the reservation — that regulations are going to be rigidly enforced.

GOOD GOLF

By SAM SWING
Good belt for trap shot

When executing a trap shot, try to hit the sand with the back of the club head.

This permits flange of the wedge to slide through the sand rather than dig into it.

Backspin is inevitable when the ball is struck in this manner.

Since you strike the sand at least two inches behind the ball, swing with a good deal more force than normal. A trap shot of 40 feet has to be swung at as hard as a pitch of 40 yards.

To maintain a firm stance, wiggle your feet into the sand.

All trap shots should be played with the same basic action.

Gun Club Elects Officer Slate

The Fort Benning Rifle and Pistol Club recently held its annual elections with nearly 50 members casting ballots voting for officers for the coming club year.

Major James O. Duke, 2nd Infantry Division, was elected president and will have Major George C. Walsh, range control officer for The Infantry Center, as his vice-president.

Capt. Clyde Metts, Advanced Marksmanship Unit, was elected as executive officer, while the Third Army's Advanced Marksmanship Unit commander, Capt. Donald M. Blauvelt, was elected treasurer.

Sfc Aubrey Wells, also of the Third Army AMU, was chosen secretary for the coming year.

A barbecue, attended by some 200 people, preceded the elections.

Touch Football Clinic Staged At 1st Brigade

The major subordinate units of 1st Infantry Brigade held a three-day officials clinic within the brigade on touch football.

Each company or battery size unit was represented. The meeting was setup by the brigade sports section in order to have qualified officials in the brigade during touch football season.

Sergeant George Brown was clinic instructor and also named head official of the 1st Brigade Officials Association.

Top Honors in Ranger Class 1 Go to Marine, Bragg Sergeant

Eighty-seven students in The Infantry School's Ranger Class 1 received the coveted Ranger tab in ceremonies late last week on French Field.

Honor graduates of the rugged eight-week course at Benning, the Ranger Mountain Camp at Dahlonega, and Florida Camp near Eglin Air Force Base, are Marine Corps 1st Lt. Patrick G. Collins and Sgt. Donald T. Hayakawa. Lt. Collins is assigned to the 2nd Force Reconnaissance Battalion, Camp LeJeune, N. C., and Sgt Hayakawa to Company D, 1st Airborne Battle Group, 325th Infantry, 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg.

Sgt Hayakawa was presented a plaque by the Association of the U. S. Army as outstanding enlisted graduate of the class.

In addition to Army and Marine Corps personnel, the group included officers from Norway and India.

Col. Bernard G. Teeters, director of the Ranger Department, was the speaker for the event.

"This graduation ceremony marks a commencement for you, the beginning of your wearing the Ranger tab and accepting the challenge that goes with it," he told the class.

"The spark that makes a soldier a good soldier and a Ranger a good Ranger is within you before you take the course. Ranger instruction helps you turn that spark into a fire and assists you to discover that you can do more than you thought possible; that you have initiative, drive and determination and that you can think for yourself and operate under difficult conditions," Col. Teeters emphasized.

"You have just completed the most difficult course of instruction in the Army. More will now be expected of you," he stated.

Among the spectators was Major Gen. Ben Harrell, commandant of The Infantry School and commanding general of The Infantry Center. The Infantry Center Band played for the occasion.

Writers League Dinner Speaker Is Geo. Gingell

Pen and Sword Chapter of the Armed Forces Writers League held a dinner meeting late last week in Crain Hall.

George A. Gingell, director of public affairs for WRBL-TV in Columbus, spoke on "Radio and Television Writing" and Mrs. Peg Teeters discussed "How I Got My Agent."

Newly elected officers of the organization are Mrs. A. T. Stafford, president, and Major Rolfe L. Hillman, vice president. Re-elected were Chaplain (Cmdr., Ret.) Roy E. LeMoine, secretary and Mrs. Frank H. Armstrong, treasurer.

Profile of a Man Doing a Man's Job

Sfc William B. Blankenship, Jr., winner of the National Pistol Championship for the second consecutive year, is a member of the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit at Benning.

A Distinguished Marksman with both the rifle and pistol, a feat rarely accomplished, Blankenship is also the current holder of the national record for the three-gun individual championship with a score of 2636-158X out of a possible 2700 points which he fired in 1960.

He has fired as high as 2659. This score was fired in the 1960 Pre - Perry warm up matches at South Bend, Ind.

A native of Richlands, Va., where his father, William B. Blankenship, still resides, the professional soldier has amassed an outstanding impressive list of pistol competitive titles.

His interest in shooting in competition was stimulated by an Army officer with whom he was associated, Lt. Col. Elgin G. Radcliff.

He is the present All-Service and All-Army Pistol Champion and holds the .22 caliber pistol timed fire match event and the center fire aggregate match record.

He is married and has two children, and makes his home in Columbus.

The Civilians You Work With

Derby J. Newman is a clerk stenographer with the Reserve Components Committee, Department of Non-Resident Instruction, The Infantry School, and has been in this position for two and a half years.

Mrs. Newman began with the Civil Service in 1955 and has worked with DNRI all but seven months, when she worked with the Anti-tank Guided Missile Section, the Weapons Department.

In her present capacity, Mrs. Newman handles correspondence with the various ROTC units throughout the Continental U. S., Puerto Rico, Alaska and Hawaii. She also handles ROTC requests for instructional material and support funds.

A native of Memphis, Tenn., she is a graduate of Central High School in her home town.

The Surgeon Says

Army Families' Health Program

Gets Home Assist By Visiting Nurses

The Army Health Nursing Program has been an active part of the overall Preventive Medicine Services on Post since 1956.

The aim of this particular type of nursing service is to promote health, prevent disease and reduce illness through a health education service to the military community and to individual family members.

The Army Health Nursing Program is to the military community what the Public Health Nursing Agency is to the civilian community. It is designed to help solve health problems which arise within families of the military population.

Although the service is primarily preventive in nature, direct nursing supervision and nursing care may be rendered to any case by a doctor's special referral and order.

Two Army health nurses and two civilian nurses are assigned to this program and work under the direction of the Chief of Preventive Medicine.

The office is in the same building with other Preventive Medicine Activities, third floor of the Old Hospital Building 236. The services include home visits, clinics and classroom instruction.

Home Visits

The home visiting service is primarily to mothers and their babies. At least one visit is made to the first-time mother after she is discharged from the hospital and other follow-up visits are made as indicated by the health needs in the home.

Premature infants are closely followed in the home for several months or longer. The nurse discusses growth and development, diet and feeding schedules and emphasizes the importance of early immunization.

When there is a need or request, the nurse may give a demonstration bath and help the mother prepare a formula.

More than 200 home visits are made monthly under this program. Other home visits are made in cases of certain communicable diseases, pediatric cases, and medical cases upon referral of a doctor.

Health education services are offered in the classroom, the clinics and on the wards. All expectant mothers are invited to attend a series of parental classes held periodically in the classroom on the first floor of the Old Hospital. These classes are taught by a doctor and an Army health nurse.

They offer an excellent opportunity for the expectant mother to learn more about the reproductive system, growth and development of the unborn baby, hygiene and diet, the harmfulness of childbirth and what to expect of the newborn baby.

First-time mothers and fathers are particularly encouraged to attend a series of these classes.

An Army health nurse conducts classes three times weekly on the obstetrical Ward at Martin Army Hospital. She meets with mothers after delivery to discuss the essentials of post partum and infant hygiene.

She encourages all mothers to telephone this service, 545-2334, when they have questions concerning formula changes, addition of solid foods and other related subjects.

An Army health nurse also supervises the Dependent's Immunization Clinic, from 8 to 11 a.m. and from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Here approximately 16,000 shots are given each month.

She stresses the importance of complete immunizations for all members of the family and emphasizes the particular need for polio immunizations for young children and their parents.

Barbara Hare's Report Card...

An active Bennington with a versatile personality is the subject of today's Report Card. Jerry Vassar, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. E. F. Vassar, steps into the student spotlight this week.

Jerry was born in Plattsburgh, New York, on February 14, 1945, and calls this her "home".

Pacelli Senior

Although she attended Columbus High School for three years, Jerry is now a Senior at Pacelli High. During her first three years of high school, she was a member of Tri-Hi-Y, Spanish Club, and Junior Classical League. This year, Jerry is a member of Junior Achievement and hopes to work on the school paper, The Pacellian.

JADA Officer

Here on Post, she is a very active teenager. Having been in JADA for the past three years, she is our new membership chairman.

Also she has served as chairman of many committees. Among these are the Turkey Raffle, Spring Fashion Show, Layette Drive and several dances.

She was recently re-elected president of the Sigma Delta Beta Sorority. She has participated in the Youth Activities Club (YAC) organized sports program for the past three years. Jerry enjoyed basketball, baseball, and swimming.

Nurses Aide

A graduate of the Nurses Aide Program of Martin Army Hospital, she works on the Pediatric Ward. Last summer Jerry helped at the Cerebral Palsy Camp as Counselor. This summer she earned her Senior Life-Saving Badge.

In her spare time, Jerry is interested in many hobbies. Besides being an avid reader, she enjoys tennis, swimming, and riding.

She has lived in many places and feels that traveling is educational. The Vassars were stationed in Europe for three years and during that time visited in many European countries, saw interesting places, and met people from all walks of life.

Here in the U. S., Jerry has seen some of the more famous historical points.

When asked what her ambition in life is, Jerry said, "My destination at the present time is getting into a good college, preferably William and Mary in Virginia, where I plan to major in Math or Psycholoy."

Report Card proudly salutes this popular teenager who is really a versatile senior and hopes that her ambition in life will be fulfilled.

YOUR HOMETOWN NEWSPAPER

Your BAYONET is a "Civilian enterprise" post newspaper, written and edited by G. I. personnel, assisted and advised by newsroom officials of The Ledger-Enquirer Newspapers. Your BAYONET is published each Friday by The Ledger-Enquirer Newspapers and is 100 per cent free to the military establishment.

Its publication and free distribution is made possible by the advertising merchants of Columbus and Phenix City, and the BAYONET staff sincerely appreciates your first consideration of these firms when you shop in the civilian community.

AT THE Movies

THE GUNS OF NAVARONE, featuring Gregory Peck, Anthony Quinn, David Niven and James Darren. Chosen by British Military Intelligence during World War II, a brave and courageous Commando team embarks on a desperate mission to land on the German-held Greek island of Navarone to destroy the huge guns that threatened an allied force with total annihilation.

A WEEKEND WITH LULU stars Bob Monkhouse and Shirley Eaton. A pair of bungling ice-cream salesmen, a blonde peach and her formidable Ma, arrive, by accident, in France where they run into hilarious adventures and encounter gag-laden difficulties with the French police.

ON THE DOUBLE features Danny Kaye, Dana Wynter and Diana Dors. Danny Kaye is doubly funny as he plays a dual role in this wild and wooly comedy about an American soldier stationed in London who is called upon by British Intelligence to impersonate an English general during the closing days of World War II.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS by Evan Hunter. (Schuster, 1961)

Spanning twenty crucial years of American life, Mothers and Daughters is the story of four women of different ages and very different temperaments, whose lives are linked closely by the threads of love. Mothers and Daughters is a deep and moving insight into the lives of these women and into the lives of the men who love them. But more than this, it is a work of massive and enormous scope — a panorama of American life in our times.

RECIPES FROM THE OLD SOUTH by Martha Meade. (Holt, 1961)

Recipes from Dixie — is bursting with mouth-watering dishes to suit every mood and every occasion. There are favorites, beaten biscuits, oven-fried chicken, and peach cobbler; colorful concoctions such as ham pipe, tipsy cake, texas toast, and dulcet cream and for patriotic holidays, scores of ingenious ideas for "historical" meals, including Mrs. George Washington's.

SOME PEOPLE PLACES AND THINGS by John Cheever. (Harper, 1961)

A beautiful duchess, a lush, a pretty girl at the Princeton-Dartmouth rugby game, a cowboy, a hill town, and a mountain pass are a few of the people, places and things that Mr. Cheever hopes to exercise from his subsequent work by describing their lives, their triumphs and shortcomings.

Head Damage Takes Nose-Dive

Helmets Reduce Cycle, Scooter Injuries

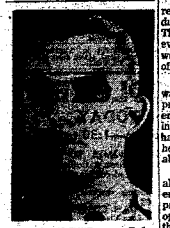
Will protective headgear, worn by motorcycle and scooter operators, prevent head injuries? The answer, as proven by the record over the past 20 months, is emphatically "Yes."

As a matter of fact, over 600 registered operators have reduced injuries by 57 per cent. This figure would have been even larger had operators worn their helmets at all times off-post.

Prior to January, 1960, there was no directive calling for protective headgear. On the average there were 24 disabling injuries per year, a little over half involving injury to the head, with death cases invariably due to head injuries.

Beginning in January, 1960, all motorcycle and scooter operators were required to wear protective headgear for on-post operation and urged to wear them off post.

In the 20 months since this requirement was imposed, there have been 18 disabling injuries, or a little less than one injury a month as compared with two injuries per month previously. The number of registered machines also increased slightly.



There have been several cases of operators walking away from an accident with a dented helmet. In at least two cases, the operator said that the helmet undoubtedly saved their lives.

The greatest benefit is, of course, to the operator, but the Army also benefited. Based on the injury record before the helmet requirement, there would have been 41 disabling injuries instead of the 18 that did occur; 23 injuries prevented by using protective headgear in 20 months.

It is estimated by the Department of the Army that an average injury case is hospitalized for 22 days at a cost to the government of $1,800 per case.

Based on these figures the 23 injuries that did not occur represent a savings of 506 man-days and $41,400 in injury cost.

Helmets obviously will not prevent broken legs and arms, nor painful concrete burns, but they will prevent or reduce head injuries.

CTC'S BEST . . . Soldier of the Month for September in the Infantry Center Troop Command is Pfc Donald E. Webb, of Company A, 1st Battalion. Pfc Webb has applied for Officer Candidate School.

Special Delivery

When a Portland, Ore., man answered the door a telegram boy said he had a message. "Well, deliver it," said the wife, whereupon the boy smashed a fresh egg on the husband's head. Police are now looking for the phony telegraph boy. It seems they have a message for him, too.

Store Opening Set Tomorrow

Post Exchange Toyland will open tomorrow at 10 a.m. with a wide selection of toys. The location is the same as last season, Building 2181, Bellis Street, Lawson Field Area (next to Lawson Field Branch Officers Mess).

Hours of operation will be same as Main PX Hours — 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday; 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. A convenient Lay-A-Way Plan will be available.

SCHOOL GROUPS GET ACQUAINTED

Armed Forces Staff College Arrives; Views Demonstrations by Infantry Units

The 30th class of the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va., arrived on post Wednesday to view demonstrations of the Infantry School's training and capabilities.

The 240 students and 21 faculty members arrived at the Infantry School at 5 p.m.

They were welcomed by Maj. Gen. Ben Harrell, Post commander, and Brig. Gen. A. P. Clark, assistant commandant of the Infantry School.

The visitors witnessed presentations by Col. Edwin D. Sayles, Jr., assistant commandant, and Col. Howard W. Blakeley, Jr., assistant commandant, Army aircraft, sky diving, airborne-troop carrier operations with the 82nd Airborne Division, and the Army's mobility means and an infantry-tank team attack.

The commandant's closing remarks were made Thursday at the post last afternoon.

Gen. Herbert B. Powell, CONARC commander observed the 30th class of the Armed Forces Staff College during visits to Fort Benning, Ga., Wednesday and Thursday.

Gen. Powell, accompanied by Maj. Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander, was the guest of honor at a luncheon in the Main Officers' Open Mess hosted by Gen. Harrell.

Wednesday afternoon Gen. Powell visited the Infantry School Combat Developments Office and witnessed a 31st Air Assault Division test.

Gen. Powell addressed the Armed Forces Staff College Thursday morning in the Infantry School auditorium.

The visitors attended a luncheon in the Main Officers' Open Mess hosted by Gen. Harrell.

Gen. Powell was guest of honor at a buffet dinner presented by Gen. and Mrs. Harrell at their quarters on Chapel Field.

Approximately 25 Armor officers attended the dinner.

The commandant's closing remarks were made Thursday at the post last afternoon.

General Powell, Staff Make Two Day Post Visit

Gen. Herbert B. Powell, CONARC Commander, arrived on post Wednesday for a two day visit.

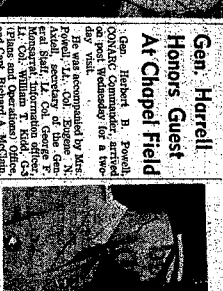
He was accompanied by Mrs. Powell, Lt. Col. Eugene N. Axtell, secretary of the General Staff; Lt. Col. Geoffrey L. Cole, Deputy Chief of Staff (Plans and Operations) Office, and Capt. Richard A. McCabe, aide-de-camp to Gen. Powell.

The four-star general was the division's Second Battle Group Commander.

Gen. Powell conducted the ceremonies on Chapel Field.

The battle group headquarters welcomed the commander; Gen. Powell to the division.

Gen. Powell then presented the awards which were won by the battle group.



The party departed Thursday morning following ceremonies on Lawson Field.

The Preventive dental Health Program provides free cleaning and floridation of teeth for dependent children through age 18. This treatment sharply decreases future dental needs of the youngsters, according to post dentists. Last year 5,000 children received this service.

The Chaplains Religious Education Program conducts training for children and adults in the various post Sunday Schools. This service reached 317,000 persons last year.

The Youth Activities Club provides an agency for coordination of activities such as Boy Scouts; Girl Scouts; Brat Barracks, athletic programs, Junior National Rifle Association, playgrounds and other recreational facilities for dependent children. Approximately 1,200 boys and girls participated in YAC's recreation and entertainment last year.

A portion of the CAA campaign fund is donated to the Muscogee and Russell County United Givers Fund Drive. Included among the many agencies supported by the UG are the Armed Forces YMCA, the USO-YMCA and the USO Club.

Col. King Assigned As School's New DI

Col. John M. King became director of instruction at The Infantry School Monday. He succeeds Col. William H. Birdsong, Jr., who has assumed command of the 1st Infantry Brigade.

Col. King came to the post in January, 1960, and has served as deputy director of The Infantry School's Command and Staff Department. He has been department director for the last three months in the absence of Col. Willard E. Harrison.

He also is president of the Post Dependents School Council.

Col. King enlisted in the Maryland National Guard in January, 1932, and was commissioned four years later. He entered active duty with the Guard's 29th Division in February, 1941.

World War II

From November, 1944, to November, 1945, he was a battalion and regimental commander in the 100th Division in Europe.

Col. King served in the G-3 Section of Army Field Forces (now Continental Army Command), Fort Monroe, from November, 1948, to August, 1951. He was graduated from the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, in December, 1951.

He was assigned in Korea from January, 1952, to March, 1953, serving successively in the G-3 Section of Eighth Army and as a battalion commander and G-3 of the 45th Division.

His decorations include the Silver Star, Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster, Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, Combat Infantryman Badge (Second Award) and the French Croix de Guerre.

The following 46 months Col. King was chief of the Army Reserve Branch of the G-3 Section, Second Army, Fort Meade, Md. He attended the special weapons course at the Command and General Staff College in November, 1956.

In January, 1957, Col. King went to Germany as deputy commander of the Frankfort Sub-Area. Eighteen months later he was named G-1 of V Corps in Frankfort.

Col. King attended Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Six Austrian Officers Tour Post Last Week

Six Austrian Army officers visited the Infantry School Monday to Wednesday to observe instructional activities.

The Allied party included Lt. Col. Josef Hyza, Infantry commander, First Army Group Command; Lt. Col. Hermann R. Lochmann, commandant of the Artillery School; Major Franz Patzer, commander of the Austrian Honor Guard Battalion; Major Lorenz Knoll, commander of the 35th Artillery Battalion; Major Herbert Staudigl, commander of the 10th Armored Battalion, and Major Heinrich Wundsit, deputy commander of the Army tour director.

The visitors conferred with Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles, Jr., assistant commandant of The Infantry School, Tuesday morning and were honored at an official luncheon that noon in the Main Officers' Mess hosted by Col. Milton G. Schneider, Infantry Center adjutant general.

The Austrian officers' itinerary was headed by demonstrations of Ranger and airborne training, mortar instruction, and training aids. They also were oriented on the organization, mission, instructional facilities and scheduling of classes at The Infantry School and toured the 2nd Infantry Division.

Tuesday afternoon they visited Ida Cason Callaway Gardens at Pine Mountain and the Little White House, vacation home of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt at Warm Springs.

Capt. James H. Bremer, who is assigned to The Infantry School's Special Subjects Department, was project officer for the Austrians' stay at the post.

The Second Army

On January 1, 1941, the change over from "Tri" to "Second Army" was made, and finally took effect on March 1 of that year. The unit consisted of only 9,176 men in the Army. At this point Washington was set to force the British out of Boston.

Population

The 13 states at the time the Declaration of Independence was adopted contained a total population of approximately 2,500,000 people.

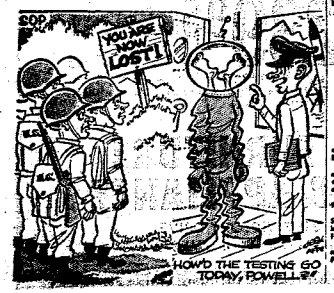
Sense The Upward Trend?

It takes some objective hard looking, but in general, things seem to be following an upward trend at Benning. Of course the one biggest item of improvement is approval of funds for the new Infantry School Academic Building —which overshadows everything else with its something like 10 million dollars worth.

The new building, in centralizing instruction at The School, will once again increase TIS ability to prepare officers and Soldiers of all free nations to resist the insidious attempt at infiltration by Communist Bloc heads.

Even the basic importance of The Infantry School as an institution — aside from current international crisis — has attained a new high. Its importance as a Free World academic bulwark has grown with the greater interest by Allied nations which send students here to study.

But look around at other post activities which are too little heard from or about, and the direction is clear — up and up.



Really important advances for the Infantryman have come out of the study by the Human Research Unit on the post, and that unit is busy digging its teeth into other instructional and training problems earmarked to help assure better and better years ahead. The organization is rising toward its peak. Name some of the things it has done? OK, Trainfire, and some of the most advanced principles now used in officer candidate and officer training and leadership instruction.

Also galloping toward a fabulous mark in military history, and only an infant as history is gauged, is the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit. Each time shooting authorities see a new record set and say "it'll be years before anyone breaks that one," an AMU shooter — often the same one who set the record — almost immediately breaks it again.

The clean sweep at the National Matches last month, and creditable appearance by Americans at international competitions recently can be in large part credited to the AMU shooters, coaches, clinics and support.

Long a guiding power in the Association of the U. S. Army, the local chapter captured first place in membership this year, for the first time. This we can all be proud of — member or not — as it shows the gathering strength of the post and points up the upswing we're looking at.

Now, let's see what the Doughboys will do this year. They, too, should be headed for a peak year. Excellent coaching, the advantage of a clinic with the Green Bay Packers last week, and necessary determination are there— and these mean a lot. Incidentally, a report on the Doughboys appears in the sports section the Doughboys will appear in the sports section next week, written by SP4 Harold Ritchie, Bayonet Sports Editor, after recent interviews. Headway is also being made in increasing the size and scope of the Bayonet sports section.

1961 Overseas Campaign Reflects Nation's Ideals

It's worth noting that last year the annual Federal Service Overseas Fund Campaign raised almost $345,000 — a $30,000 increase over the contributions made in 1959. Americans everywhere, in general, are increasingly responsive to the fine work being done by the eight agencies that benefit from this generosity.

This year the sixth FSOFC is called the American Overseas Campaign. But its purpose is the same — to support agencies which, in the words of Air Force Secretary Zuckert, the 1961 Campaign Chairman, "express the American desire to see that all men have a better chance and a fuller life."

What we, back home, can do is drive with our dollars we're helping the American-Korean Foundation to erase the scars of fear, destruction and suffering in which Americans fought and died. We're helping CARE alleviate hunger among peoples who have never enjoyed our material blessings. We're helping Radio Free Europe keep alive the hopes of millions behind freedom's curtain, the Iron Curtain.

And we're doing much more. The other five agencies— the United Seamen's Service, the USO, the International Social Service, the American Social Health Assn. and the National Recreation Assn.— provide services and information for Americans wherever they go overseas.

Take only one of them — we in the Armed Forces know better than anyone else how much the USO's activities mean to troops abroad, especially in remote areas. Even if we turned in selfishness from the work of the other agencies — and in past years we haven't — the record of this group of organizations dedicated to the serviceman's well-being would compel us to help keep it in business for our own welfare.

But as Americans who have seen at first hand the havoc wrought by WWII and the Korean conflict, we have a higher motive in responding to President Kennedy's request that we "help provide the funds these organizations urgently need to carry on their important activities." From September 30 to October 31 the American Overseas Campaign gives us the chance to share our own good fortune with fellow human beings who need it.

Free World Mourns Hammarskjold's Death

The United Nations General Assembly has opened its 16th session in the shadow of a great and tragic loss. When the plane carrying Dag Hammarskjold crashed in Northern Rhodesia it took from the world organization a Secretary General of rare qualities, both as a diplomat and a man.

It is too early to assess the effect of Mr. Hammarskjold's death within the United Nations. That it will be severe in a session which already had promised to be the most critical in U. N. history is certain. Never has there been a time for greater show of patience, rational deliberation and devotion to the principles of international morality by the 99 member nations.

For this would be the best of all memorials to a man who for eight years as Secretary General dedicated his formidable abilities to the cause of peace and ended by giving his life for it. His quiet but firm leadership steered the United Nations through stresses and strains that might have shattered it if a man of lesser ability had held the office. He was not a visionary but he had always before him the vision of the peaceful world society governed by justice and reason that the U. N. Charter was designed to create.

Chaplain's Corner

A very interesting short-story is credited to ancient China.

In one of the small villages lived a very wise man. To him came the people from far and near, bearing their problems of famine, pestilence, drought, sickness and death. Each person left the village believing they were a bit wiser and a little stronger to endure the eternal struggle of existence.

One day the village prank tried to trap the ancient elder in his logic. He approached and said, "Grandfather, in my hand behind me I hold a small bird. Is it dead or is it alive?"

He had decided if the reply were, "It is dead", he would open his hand and the bird would fly away. If the reply were, "It is alive", he would crush it in his hand. The elder smiled and said, "My Son, it is up to you."

Frequently opportunities come our way providing for self-improvement physically, mentally and spiritually. If they are grasped and used contentment and success are more likely attained. "It is up to you."

On this post are several chapels in which religious services are conducted daily. Religious liberty is one of our priceless heritages.

Upon the security of religious liberty rests all others, such as freedom of the press, of speech, and assembly. We can lose religious liberty by default and losing it we lose the others, "My Son, It Is Up To You!"

The Surgeon Says

Is Your Auto A Death Trap?

By Capt. Leonard F. Greenberg, MC

Carbon monoxide, the colorless and odorless killer, is responsible for many deaths each year.

It is formed by the incomplete burning of carbon. Stove, furnace and automobile exhaust fumes are common sources of this lethal gas. It is dangerous to leave children in a parked car with the newer type heaters turned on which draw in exhaust from cars in front.

Carbon monoxide, on combining with hemoglobin, leaves insufficient amounts oxygen in the blood stream traveling to all parts of the body. When this happens, the skin takes on a bluish hue, drowsiness, nausea and weakness sets in, finally ending in death.

Lethal as this gas is, it need not cause death providing preventive measures are adhered to. Your automobile can be a death trap regardless of its age so it should be checked periodically and kept in good condition.

Exhaust builds up more under the hood when the engine is idling; however, don't think that it can't happen when you are driving on an open highway. Monoxide gas seeps through the slightest openings in the firewall, floor boards, and heating and cooling system.

In cold weather, the heating system draws in outside air, which is mixed with monoxide gas, warms it and passes it through to the inside of your car. The same applies to summer-time driving. Cool air passing through your cooling system into the car carries with it the deadly monoxide gas.

In winter, with the heater running, windows closed tight, and you and other occupants giving off carbon dioxide as you breath, you can become asphyxiated.

Whenever the motor of your car is running, make sure that you have a window slightly open in order to assure continued circulation of air. This will also cause stale air and any carbon monoxide that has been built up to escape out the open window.

Monoxide poisoning can occur in your home as well as your car. Gas heaters, oil heaters, stoves, furnaces and other fuel burning apparatus are common sources of monoxide gas.

Never have a home or room "sealed tight." A window or windows should be slightly opened to allow fresh air to circulate in the rooms. A so called "air-tight" home will provide an excellent opportunity for monoxide gas to build up.

To insure the lives of your loved ones, check and make necessary repairs to your automobile, furnace, stove, heaters and any other fuel burning equipment and appliances that you may own. Remember — the life you save may be your own.

There Are Times When Two Feet Are Not Enough

The Use of Vehicles Is Always A Must To Infantry Support

Just as did the Roman Legionnaire of Caesar's day, the modern Infantryman must still move on foot to "close with and destroy or capture the enemy." However, with today's weapons and widely extended battlefield, the Infantryman's two feet are not enough to get him there.

The doughboy needs fast transportation to get him there.

But having the transportation is not enough. He must know what his modern equipment can do and what it can't do, or he will bog down on the battlefield, fail to reach his objective, and become a target for an enemy nuclear weapon.

Here at Benning, Students witness a dramatic but realistic demonstration of what can be expected of the trucks, tanks, and armored personnel carriers that provide the decisive speed factor until the Infantry gets off the ground in vehicles that operate in the air.

The demonstration is staged at Bleacher 390 by the Vehicle Capabilities Section, of The Infantry School's Ground Mobility Department, and by support troops from the 1st Infantry Brigade. Major William F. Brustman is chief of the section.

It isn't necessary to be a mechanic to know what to expect of a vehicle. It is necessary, however, to know the vehicle's abilities and limitations, in order to keep the pace of modern warfare without losing the Infantryman's extra margin of mobility.

Over a man-made, but typical, obstacle course, a parade of Infantry vehicles is run.

A self-propelled, full-tracked 90-mm gun, M56, climbs a vertical wall 30 inches high.

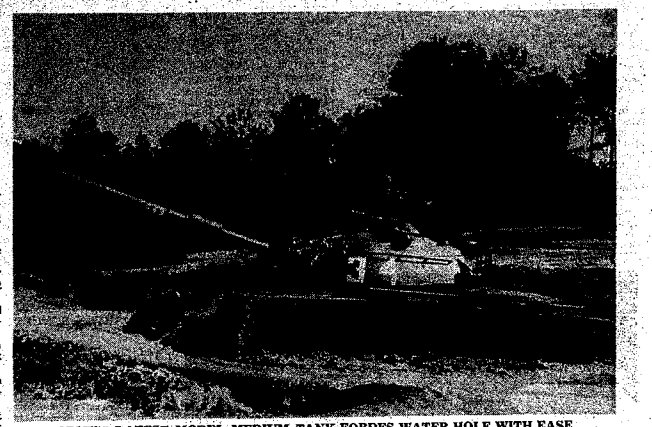
A "Jeep" eases over 12-inch logs, displaying its body rack and suspension system.

Full-tracked vehicles take a series of dirt mounds like waves lapping over sandbars.

The demonstration is not limited to what the vehicles can do. A truck trying to ford a 44-inch deep water hole may wind up stuck — passengers and cargo out of action. Sometimes, in rainy weather, a vehicle fails to take a 60-degree slope.

If a vehicle fails, it fails, and the instructor points out the reason why, for this is no "canned" show. Although the obstacles are man-made to concentrate a variety of terrain features in a small area, the problem is realistic in every detail.

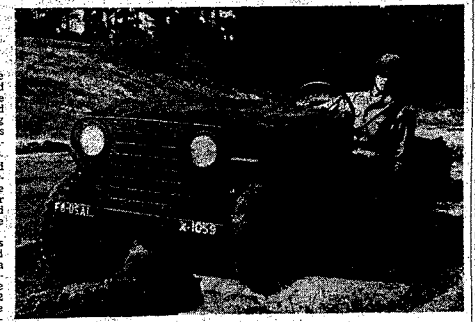
The interdependence of the foot soldier and modern ground mobility vehicles climaxes the demonstration. An armored personnel carrier, transporting a combat-ready rifle squad, is fired on by an "aggressor" machine-gun nidden in the woods.



The squad dismounts and moves forward on foot in skirmish formation, firing on the "enemy," while the carrier moves into full defilade to add its .50 caliber machine-gun fire to the assault.

The brief interlude illustrates the 29 and a half miles added to the Infantryman's two and a half mile-per-hour "foot-mobility" as he moves over the battlefield in a carrier at 32 miles an hour. He reaches the objective, overcomes the enemy, and moves on by strides his predecessors would have envied.

Although they narrate the demonstration approximately once a week, it is never the same. The fact that the course is predetermined gives no assurance that a vehicle will or will not negotiate each obstacle. As in real life, weather, driver training, and vehicular maintenance all play a part.



To the admonition "Know what the vehicle can do and what it can't do," add, "and under what conditions."

Army Announces Hawk Contract

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (ANS)— The Army has announced award of three contracts totaling over $37 million for further production of the HAWK missile system.

HAWK is an Army air defense killer missile designed specially for use against planes flying as low as tree-top level.

It was developed under technical supervision of the Army Rocket and Guided Missile Agency at Redstone Arsenal, Ala.

The missile has demonstrated a capability against small missiles and rockets of the type likely to be encountered on the battlefield, as well as aircraft.

It can be operated both in fixed installations and with fast moving troops of the field Army.

Mrs. L. Reynolds Welcomed at Party

A coffee party to welcome Mrs. Lawrence S. Reynolds, new first lady of Editorial-Pictorial Office was held at the Manse of Mrs. Donald C. Shannon last week.

A short business meeting to make plans for the coming year was held and corsages were presented to newcomers during the social get-together.

Hostesses were Mrs. Shannon and Mrs. Harold K. Slatter.

Infantry Board Ladies Club Holds Luncheon

The ladies of the Small Arms Division recently hostessed a luncheon, with the theme "Thoughts Turned to Hair and Complexion Care", held by the Infantry Board Ladies in the Corrigidor Room of the Main Officers Open Mess.

Painted doll heads, fashioned from paper plates and centered on long strips of foil gave a mirrored effect of a dressing table to the luncheon tables. A primping ballerina doll, surrounded by miniature pink dressing table mirrors, centered the head table. An arrangement of snap dragons, lilies and red roses added to the effective decor used by the hostesses.

Mr. Brouillette briefed the ladies on complexion care and with Mrs. Charles H. Costigan acting as model, showed the ladies the correct and most effective way to apply make-up. Mrs. Robert C. Williams and Mrs. Gordon Gunton were the models for the newest in hair styles.

Mrs. John C. Cougill, a newcomer to the group, was included and welcomed by Mrs. William M. Summers. The guest list included Mrs. J. D. Mitchell, guest of Mrs. Jack B. Mathews and Mrs. R. W. Thatcher, mother of Mrs. Warren B. Walters.

Officers' Wives Hold Luncheon

The officers' wives of the 1st Infantry Brigade held their monthly luncheon recently in the Custer Terrace Branch of the Main Officers Open Mess. Featured at the luncheon was a "Krazy Hat" show. Each unit of the Brigade entered a hat which was judged by wives of former commanders in the 1st Infantry Brigade. The judges were Mrs. Harley T. Marsh, Mrs. Norvin E. Smith, Mrs. James E. Echols Jr., and Mrs. James C. Donaghey. The winning hat was from the 1st Armored Rifle Battalion, 58th Infantry, modeled by Mrs. Darwin L. Schuett. It was styled on the theme of "the old Lady in a shoe" and featured a jump boot with a fence around it and children in the yard.

Mrs. Samuel W. Koster presided at the affair which was sponsored by ladies of the 10th Artillery. Featured on the organ was Pvt. Jan Durbin of the Chaplain's Section. The tables were also decorated in a "Krazy Hat" motif.

Post Dental Wives Attend Meeting

The Dental Wives of Fort Benning met Thursday morning, September 21 at the home of Mrs. Stuart M. Mitchell.

Mrs. Thomas K. Goodman was chairman of the coffee committee assisted by: Mrs. Robert M. Bernstein and Mrs. William W. Rose.

Four new members were welcomed: Mrs. Russell A. Giordano, Mrs. Raymond K. Morrow, Mrs. John T. Isaacs, and Mrs. Charles W. Amer. Farewel was said to Mrs. Nathan R. Walley.

One guest was present, Mrs. Pollick, mother of Mrs. Edward G. Austin.

Plans were made for next month's fashion show.

Don Carr Entertains at Luncheon For Airborne Department Ladies

The ladies of the Airborne-Air Mobility Department held their monthly luncheon at the Main Officers' Open Mess last week.

Hostesses were Mrs. E. A. Doerfler, Mrs. R. A. Hippler, Mrs. P. A. Milantani, Mrs. G. R. Thomas, Jr., and Mrs. C. L. Mullins.

Entertainment was provided by Don Carr who played a medley of classical and popular tunes covering an era from the early 1600's to the present time.

A short business meeting followed lunch after which Mrs. L. A. Williams, substituting for Mrs. M. Pavlich, introduced three newcomers to the department: Mrs. W. T. Manderson, Mrs. A. E. McClure, and Mrs. C. H. Fry. Also presented was Mrs. G. R. Thomas, Sr., who is visiting her son and daughter-in-law on post.

The luncheon concluded with the award of door prizes to Mrs. A. E. McClure, Mrs. E. W. Smith and Mrs. H. R. Henry.

Welcomed At Coffee

Mrs. Herbert Strange, wife of Col. Strange, director of the Communications Department, was recently welcomed at a coffee given by the wives of the Communications Department. Mrs. Henry Edwards and Mrs. Fay Privette were hostesses for the occasion.

Mrs. Charles Benge introduced the new arrivals, Mrs. Sidney Wolfeld, Mrs. James Miles and Mrs. Walter Watkins. The ladies bid farewell to Mrs. John Atkins, Capt. and Mrs. Atkins are leaving the service after 24 years.

NCO's Distaff Doings

Social Etiquette

A blue note was struck at the beginning of our last get-together on September 13 when the announcement was made that the long-time budget balancer and second vice-president of the NCO Wives Club, Mrs. James R. Walton, is moving away. We are truly sorry to lose you, Ethel. We all wish you the best of luck.

Things were looking up again as we welcomed two new members, Mrs. Edward Daniels and Mrs. Eugene Spencer. Glad to have you with us.

Mrs. Spencer is no stranger to the bridge group. On the contrary, she is our champion and is probably the only person who can bid and make three No Trump with just nine points in her hand and after everyone has passed.

Now more than ever we will get great satisfaction out of beating you Juanita. (I would rather beat that girl at bridge than eat a square meal — she is that good.)

Speaking of bridge, if you would like to play but have a transportation problem, please call our bridge chairman Mrs. David Sassner at 545-5410 or in the Capehart area call me at 544-2247.

That talented "Firing Squad", the members of the ceramics club, demonstrated last Wednesday how they pour, clean, paint, glaze and fire all those lovely pieces of ceramics we have admired so long. Wow, what talent and perseverence!

Not having any artistic vein at all I was simply awestruck. And they make it look so easy! It was all most interesting, girls.

Many beautiful ceramics are on display and for sale in the clubhouse. The ladies are trying to raise funds for a rewiring job on their building, which has been ordered. To help that cause they will give a luncheon in the clubhouse on Wednesday, October 11 at 1 p.m.

Everything will be furnished and prepared by the ceramics club members. The menu is still a secret but it promises to be a real treat. The price is only 50c so how can you miss? Come out and enjoy yourself.

A business meeting will take place on Wednesday, October 4 at 1 p.m. and a bingo game, everyone's favorite, is to be conducted afterwards.

A hat show is being talked about for the near future. The date has not been set but be prepared to drool over some of the fabulous new styles, which will undoubtedly knock a big hole in all the budgets.

Watch this column for details on a Halloween party for the club members and their husbands.

- Is it proper for a lieutenant's wife to invite a captain's wife to her home?

MRS. RANK CONSCIOUS

DEAR MRS. RANK CONSCIOUS:

Do not be... is my first reaction to your pseudonym.

As for your question I will assume you refer to an invitation that would be extended to this one captain's wife alone... say for coffee and casual chitchat.

I am positive that if your purpose is to welcome her to this area; talk about a mutual interest or hobby which you both have; or to reminisce over a place you have both been; you not only CAN invite her but it is the neighborly thing you SHOULD do.

However you must examine your motives for extending this invitation honestly. Do you wish to impress her? Is her husband your husband's CO, and could your invitation in any way give the appearance of polishing-the-apple?

If your husband does work for this lady's husband and you like her very much and just want to give her your vote of confidence over a cup of coffee, then invite her; but do it out of earshot of others and make it very casual.

Perhaps not even definite at first, as, "I know you pass our quarters on the way to the commissary, please stop for a minute sometime." Next time you talk to her remind her of your invitation and ask her for a definite day and time.

Remember she, has been a lieutenant's wife longer than she has a captain's wife more than likely, and not too long ago either.

How would you feel if any lieutenant's wife whose husband's date of rank was behind that of your husband's called you Ma'am and was afraid to ask you for coffee. When your husband has a command and is promoted how will you want to be treated?

Courteousness and thoughtfulness are the only true guides be you a private's wife or a general's wife.

OCS

Benning in all these branches except artillery, which is available at the Artillery OC course at Fort Sill, and the Women's Army Corps, which holds OC classes at Fort McClellan.

Between September, 1941, and June, 1947, Fort Benning commissioned 67,856 second lieutenants. In the last 10 years and nine months, 10,596 men have successfully completed the OC course here.

The officer candidate program at the "Home of the Infantry" is administered by the Fifth Student Battalion of The Student Brigade (formerly the Student Training Regiment), commanded by Lt. Col. John W. McClain.

Its four 24-week classes annually provide 2,600 officers. Each year-two Reserve Components classes of 30 weeks are held. The curriculum of the latter are tailored to benefit the individual needs of the states.

Mission of the course is to develop selected personnel to be second lieutenants in the Army who will be capable of performing duties appropriate to their grade in Infantry units and who, with a minimum of additional training, will be prepared to serve in other branches of the Army.

Its secondary mission is to serve as a basis for mobilization as the needs of the service require.

The OC program is designed to turn out well qualified officers who are thoroughly indoctrinated with the spirit of aggressive, enthusiastic leadership which has long been the mark of Infantry officers.

Gen. Marshall 20 years ago addressed the OC graduates on leadership. His statements are equally applicable today.

"You are about to assume the most important duty that our officers are called upon to perform — the direct command of combat units of American soldiers," he told the group.

"To succeed requires two fundamental qualifications — thorough professional knowledge and a capacity for leadership. The schools have done all that can be done in the limited time available to equip you professionally, and your technique of weapons and tactics should rapidly improve with further study and actual practice. However, they cannot provide you with qualities of leadership. For these you are entirely on your own. You command the respect and loyalty of American soldiers by your character.

"You were selected as officer candidates because you gave evidence of possessing leadership qualifications. Whether or not you develop into truly capable leaders depends almost entirely upon you personally."

"Warfare today is a thing of swift movement, of rapid concentration. It requires flexibility of command. The power of most successive objectives with breathtaking speed. It is not a game for the unimaginative leader," Gen. Marshall stated.

He challenged the class in saying:

"Modern battles are fought by platoon leaders. The carefully prepared plans of higher commanders can do no more than protect you to the line of departure at the proper time and place, in proper formation and start you off in the right direction. Thereafter the responsibility for results is almost entirely yours."

They are middlesmen from the seventh through the 14th weeks. For the final 10 weeks they are upperclassmen, with greater responsibilities and privileges.

A significant part of the heritage at Fort Benning's Officer Candidate School is its Hall of Fame in Wigle Hal.

have insured the complete confidence and loyalty of your men. Above all, be real examples of the kind of leader you expect.

Instruction of the Infantry OC today centers around the squad as the basic unit. This is necessary because this graduate, he must be able to lead a platoon in combat without further training.

Candidates receive an intensive course in the theory of leadership plus considerable practical work in this field. Each class is organized as a company with the OC's rotated in command positions. In addition, they are required to instruct in military subjects such as dismounted drill, guard, field training and troop information.

Tactical officers assigned to each platoon continually observe the performance of candidates. OC's are advised of their deficiencies and ways to overcome them. Emphasis also is placed on physical fitness, particularly upon coordination and stamina.

The OC also undergoes a concentrated program of military subjects. These deal with weapons, tactics and general subjects.

Weapons instruction includes all weapons found in the Infantry battle group from the pistol to the 90-mm gun on a tank. Each candidate fires the M-1 rifle, Browning automatic rifle and machine gun for record.

In tactics, instruction is given OC's at the platoon and company level with platoon offensive tactics stressed. General subjects training covers atomic warfare, communications, vehicles, map reading and similar topics.

During the first six weeks of training, OC's are considered underclassmen. At that time they are required to follow rigorous underclass discipline.

Woman's Club Diary

Plans are complete, the invitations are out and it's less than a week until the big event of the fall 1961 season: The opening tea of the Fort Benning Women's Club.

Scheduled from 2 until 5 p.m. at the Main Officer's Club on October 4, the tea will provide an introduction to many fine new classes and activities of the club's 1961-62 season.

Classes include adult and children's art, charm, modeling, ceramics, flower arranging, bridge, dance instruction, sewing and piano.

Mrs. Brooks E. Small, first vice president in activities chairman, has been working long hours to get the finest instructors for each class.

In addition to the classes, the club sponsors such varied activities as the annual trip to Rich's in Atlanta, a bowling league for club members, the pre-kindergarten school, a coffee hour for the patients at Martin Army Hospital, a woman's choral group, the great books program and a weekly session of duplicate bridge.

Mrs. Warren Walters, membership chairman, will have representatives at the tea and the chairmen of each activity will be present to provide information and registration details to interested women.

All wives of officers, both active and retired, are invited. May we see you all there on October 4th?

Mrs. Ellsworth Cundiff, allied liaison chairman of the Women's Club will entertain Allied Officers' wives and their sponsors at a coffee in her home this morning.

Wives invited come from Argentina, Chile, Columbia, Canada, Ecuador, France, Great Britain, India and Guatemala.

The Woman's Club greets new allied wives and their families as they arrive on post and helps to acquaint them with shopping, housing and medical facilities available on post.

Other guests expected to be present include Mrs. Ben Harrell, Mrs. A. D. Surles, Mrs. John Kelly, Mrs. Royal Reynolds, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. Cyril Sterner, president of the Woman's Club, and the members of the club's executive board.

Fort Benning Gains From Use of Physically Handicapped Personnel

By Ida C. Evans

The Civilian Personnel Section of The Infantry Center has received a copy of a message from President John F. Kennedy to all government agencies reaffirming the policy of leading the way in selective placement of physically handicapped persons.

Mr. Kennedy's message strengthens a year-round program of utilization of physically impaired personnel in Federal agencies and focuses attention on "National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" to be observed October 1 to 7, officials said.

"Utilization of physically handicapped persons in productive employment is sound and necessary," the President said, "both for the contribution handicapped citizens can make to our national productivity and for the sense of independence and well - being which they can derive from doing a job."

Fort Benning employs more than 100 individuals with physical impairment.

Due to the careful policy governing the placement of civilian personnel on the post, these 100 or more individuals are not in any sense handicapped in their work, officials of the Civilian Personnel Section said.

Impairments among post civilian employees range from minor heart ailments to partial deafness, amputations, loss of one eye, rigid joints and impaired speech. There is one deaf-mute employed on the post.

Mrs. Susie S. Whitehead has been a seamstress at the post since 1942. She was one of 16 deaf-mutes employed on the post during World War II and has remained to make a career of civil service.

The mother of a Navy man, she has a granddaughter almost a year old.

Mrs. Whitehead is considered an expert at sewing Army insignia on clothing in the Maintenance Branch of the post's Quartermaster Section, Supply and Maintenance Division. Her average time for attaching insignia, name tapes and insigne is two minutes.

"She knows her work so well and is so interested in her job that communication is no problem at all," her supervisor, Mrs. Lula B. Holloman, said.

Another career woman is Mrs. Bernard L. Ashley, the former Betty Ivey of Columbus. She was married recently to Pvt Ashley, who will soon go to an assignment overseas.

Betty had polio at the age of six. She had just entered the first grade. Two years later, she returned to school in braces. Five years later, surgery made it possible for her to discard the braces and use one light-weight Canadian cane.

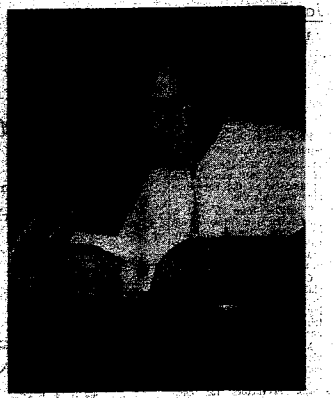
Mrs. Ashley is a graduate of Jordan High School and Perry Business School in Columbus.

For the past 4½ years, Betty has worked at Benning. She is local purchasing agent for the Signal Section of The Infantry Center.

A veteran of the Korean Conflict who lost a limb under artillery fire on Heartbreak Ridge is a budget clerk in The Infantry Center's Transportation Section.

Wilbur D. Bur was born in Fair Haven, Vt. He served at Benning from 1948 to 1952 with the 3440th Military Police Company. He was wounded in Korea November 4, 1952.

After a long hospitalization, Bur returned to the post in 1953 as a civilian employee.

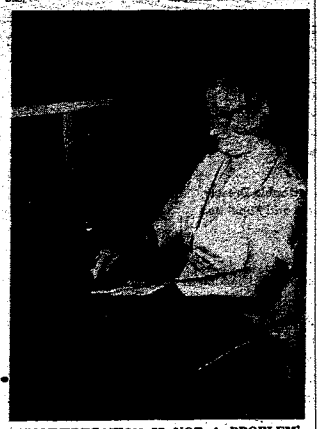


The U. S. Civil Service Commission has established realistic policies to govern the employment of handicapped individuals. These policies are followed here.

The particular job for which the person will be considered is carefully analyzed to determine the physical requirement and the applicant's qualifications for the job are given a fair appraisal.

Physical abilities — not disabilities — of the applicant are compared with the physical requirements of the job.

Employees who become disabled as the result of work injuries, off-the-job accidents or illness are given full opportunity for reemployment or transfer to other more suitable jobs.



Disability retirement of an employee is considered only as a last resort after every feasible effort at reassignment has been made, officials said.

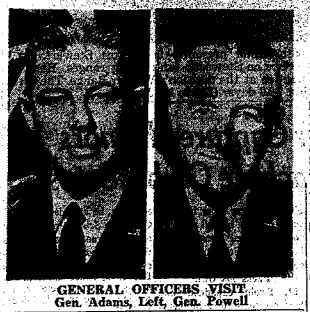
Powell, Adams Visit 2nd Division

Third Army CO Arrives For Briefing

Lieutenant General Paul D. Adams, Third United States Army commanding general, is scheduled to visit the 2nd Infantry Division today as part of his planned visit to Fort Benning.

Arriving at Lawson Army Air Field at 9:15 today, General Adams is to be greeted at the division parade field with an Honors Ceremony made up of Troops and honor guards from the 87th Infantry.

The Third Army commander, who is slated by the Department of Defense to assume command of the Army's Strategic Army Corps and Tactical Air Command in the near future, will be briefed by Major General Charles H. Chase, division commanding general.



Training

He is scheduled to observe field fortification training at the 9th Infantry's training area ten as demonstrated by the 9th's Company C.

Escorted by the division commanding general, General Adams will be driven to Kelley Hill, where he will inspect the modern Kelley Hill Chapel, which was dedicated there recently.

General Adams' schedule will then take him to the United States Army Infantry Center.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced September 20 that the Army's Strategic Army Corps and Tactical Air Command were being combined under command of General Adams, who has been Third U. S. Army Commander since October 17, 1960.

CONARC Commander Welcomed Yesterday

BY PETER TATISTEHEFF

With an Honors Ceremony held yesterday at the 2nd Division Parade Field, the 2nd Infantry Division welcomed General Herbert B. Powell, commanding general, United States Continental Army Command.

Here for a three-hour visit, General Powell attended briefings and witnessed unit squad training demonstrated by the 9th Infantry.

Command Post

Before leaving General Powell flew by helicopter to observe the 2nd Infantry Division command post in the field.

He departed from Lawson Army Air Field at 11:30 a.m.

The CONARC commander was greeted at 8:45 a.m. with a 17-gun salute and an honors ceremony in which two platoons of the 87th Infantry's Company B participated. The commander of Troops was Captain Ronald R. Berkey, Company B commander. The same company provided honor guards.

Following the ceremony, General Powell attended a briefing by Major General Charles H. Chase, division commanding general, in the division conference room.

General Powell then attended a briefing by the 9th Infantry Commanding Officer, Colonel Clifford P. Hannum, followed by demonstrations of training.

Squad in attack training was demonstrated by Company B, 9th Infantry. General Powell then was driven to the Company D, 9th Infantry post in the field, where he saw squad in defense training.

Following the 9th Infantry demonstrations, the visiting general observed the division command post, which has been in the field since Monday.

CG Hails MPs On Birthday

Major General Charles H. Chase has praised the 2nd Infantry Division Military Police Detachment as "a select group chosen for strength of character, professional competence, and devotion to duty."

During a celebration on Tuesday, held in the Headquarters Company mess hall, General Chase cut the first piece of a gigantic cake and delivered his "heartiest congratulations and best wishes" to the Military Policemen attending.

General Chase stated recently, in a letter to the Military Police Detachment, that "Your motto 'Of the Troops and for the Troops' appropriately defines your mission and your service to the United States Army." He further said, "You have brought distinction to the

Major Miller Named IO; Ex-Asst. G-2

Major Succeeds Capt A C Mitchell

Major Darwin C. Miller, former assistant G-2 (Intelligence), has assumed duties as division information officer.

He succeeds Captain Arthur C. Mitchell.

Texan

Major Miller, 36, is a Texas native who has been a member of the "Second to None" since October 1959. Until assuming his present duties, he served since March 1960 as the assistant division G-2 and as G-2 air officer. He formerly was S-4 (supplies and logistics) at the 11th Infantry.

Entering the Army in May 1943, Major Miller served 25 months as an enlisted man before being commissioned in 1945 at the Officers Candidate School, Fontainbleau, France. He returned to the United States in 1947 after 33 months in Europe, and was assigned to School Troop Infantry Battalion at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He received his Regular Army commission there in 1948 after a year's competitive tour.

In October 1950, Major Miller began a 14-month tour in Korea, participating in five campaigns while serving at various times as a platoon leader, company commander and 3rd Battalion S-4 of the 38th Infantry Division's 19th Infantry.

Returning to this country in 1952, he commanded an Infantry officer candidate company at Harmony Church before entering the Infantry Advanced Officers Course. He later served as professor of military science and tactics at Brown Military

Sgt. McCoy

SGT. McCOY NEW S-MAJ. AT SIGNAL

Joins 2nd Division From First Army Hqs., Ft. Jay, N. Y.

Sergeant Major Richard J. McCoy reported for duty with the 122nd Signal Battalion and will assume duties as sergeant major of the battalion.

Before coming to his new assignment, Sergeant McCoy served as chief signal NCO at Headquarters, First Army, Fort Jay, New York.

Prior to this tour of duty, Sergeant McCoy was sergeant major of the 102nd Signal Battalion in Mannheim, Germany.

Military Police

Sergeant McCoy also has served in the Military Police branch of the Army. During this time, he was sergeant major of the Military Police Battalion in Mannheim, Germany, and later was first sergeant of the Military Police Detachment at West Point.

It was during this tour of duty at the Military Academy that Sergeant McCoy encountered some of his most unusual experiences of his Army career.

He was NCOIC of security arrangements for visiting dignitaries and in this capacity he furnished guards during several visits by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Decorations

Sergeant McCoy is the recipient of several ribbons for campaigns during World War II. Among these are: Asiatic Pacific Campaign ribbon, Marshall and Gilbert Campaign Ribbons and the Marianas Campaign Ribbon. In addition to his campaign ribbons, he has received his fifth Good Conduct Medal.

Iron Soldier Campfire

Reenlistments

James C. Davis, Second Battle Group, First Infantry, recently took the oath for an additional three years to fill his own vacancy as First Sergeant of Company D.

Sergeant Davis entered the service during November 1942 and saw action in the Pacific during World War II and in Korea. For this service he was awarded the Combat Infantryman's Badge (second award), Korean Service Medal with two Bronze Service Stars, and the Bronze Star with two Oak Leaf Clusters.

Sergeant Davis resides at 2247 Lois Avenue in Columbus with his wife Joann and son James.

With 15 years in the Army, Master Sergeant Roy F. Sloan, sergeant major of the 122nd Signal Battalion reenlisted for six years recently in ceremonies conducted by Major Herbert H. Osborn, Battalion Commander.

Sgt. Sloan, before coming to the battalion, served with the 172nd Signal Battalion in Wurtsburg, Germany, as first sergeant and operations sergeant.

Sgt. Sloan resides with his wife Rotraud, at 3913 Calhoun Drive, in Columbus.

Promotions

First Lieutenant Judson H. Douglas III of the 69th Armor was recently promoted to his present rank. The promotion ceremony was performed by Lieutenant Colonel Harry H. Hiestand, commanding officer of the 69th following the regular morning physical training.

Lt. Douglas is the assistant battalion S-4, (supply and logistics).

Six men of the 1st Infantry were recently promoted to the temporary pay grade of E-5. David L. Miller, William C. Ricks, Thomas O. Allen, John Harrington Jr., Robert C. Matthews were promoted to sergeant while Frank Onate was promoted to Specialist Five.

James L. Mc Neil, Ree A. Barrell, Marion L. Lawson, Edward L. Simmons, and John M. Allen were promoted to Specialist Four.

Assignments

Captain Harold P. Austin has been assigned liaison officer and assistant S-3 (operations and training) in the 23rd Infantry.

Lt. William H. McGoodel moved to Company C. Lt. John E. Carroll moved to Company A, and Lts. Richard F. Flan and Henry B. Gillespie have been transferred to the 23rd from the 87th Infantry.

Other assignments to the 23rd Infantry include Lts. Billy J. Cane, Clyde K. Cleveland, William B. Wissard Jr. and William B. Johnston to Combat Support Company.

Lts. Allen C. Ross, Joseph W. Murray and Henry F. Wenz have gone to Company C.

In other moves, Lts. John H. Moss moved to Company D; Larry W. Crandall and Frank C. Thayer transferred to Company A; Jon M. Hansen has been reassigned to Company B; and Lts. John G. Lyfound, Walter L. Swale and Rand G. Villarenga have arrived from the 87th Infantry and are unassigned.

Arrivals

Warrant Officer (W-1) Robert L. Pendry has arrived in the 23rd Infantry to take duties as maintenance officer.

Also in the 23rd, WO (W-1) Richard L. Wright will succeed CWO (W-4) Edward N. Robinson as personnel officer. Mr. Robinson will retire October 31 after more than 20 years' service.

Mr. Wright is assuming his first duty after being promoted to Warrent Officer recently. During his eleven years' service he has done extensive work in the personnel field, beginning in 1947 with the Marine Corps, then transferring to the Army.

Lieutenant Maynard A. Nagelhout reported into the 122nd Signal Battalion for duty following completion of the Basic Signal Officers Course at Fort Monmouth.

Lt. Nagelhout will serve as wire officer for the battalion.

He received his B.S. degree in electrical engineering from South Dakota State College.

Reassignments

Lts. Roger E. Woods and Kurt S. Peterson have been transferred from Company D and Headquarters Company, respectively, and assigned to Combat Support Company within the 23rd Infantry. Lt. Roland R. Parr has been moved to Company D, and Lts. Ronald E. Brooks, George W. Nelson and David S. Reed have gone to the 87th Infantry.

Warrent Officer (W-1) Clarence Young Jr. has been reassigned to Hawaii.

23rd Officer Captures Honors In Sport Parachute Club Contest

A 23rd Infantry officer with 38 parachute jumps to his credit has won his first major honor as a sport parachutist.

Lieutenant Walter L. Swain, a platoon leader in Company B, won first place in the Class B competition in the Fort Benning Sport Parachute Club's recent intra-club sky-diving contest.

This involved racking a total of 127 points in four free falls. Class B competition calls for the sky-diver to leave his plane at 4,500 feet, delay activating his main chute for 15 seconds and then land as close to the target as possible.

Target

The target is a parachute canopy spread on the ground. To hit dead center gives the sky diver 100 points, and each foot away from the center is deducted from 100. Should a participant hit more than 100 feet from the bullseye, he receives no points.

The recent contest was held over a two-day period at Frying Pan Flat, Robert C. Mathews Jr. Parr, Most of the Fort Benning club's 50 members took part. There were two other types of jumps Class A, a five-second delayed chute opening or use of a static line, and the Class C jump, a 20-second or more delayed chute opening.

During the contest, Lt. Swain had more than fellow club members to compete with. As he left the plane he was buffeted by 40-knot winds, and, as he neared the target, ground winds of up to 15 m.p.h. threatened his accuracy.

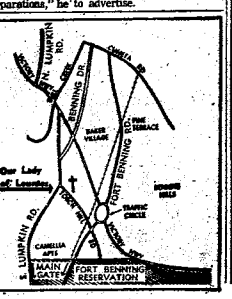
Lt. Swain credited his special parachute with providing excellent control. "It was a double-T with five gore separations," he said. This type chute has two panels missing as well as small blocks removed along part of the chute's skirt. The pattern looks like two inverted Ts.

'Facks his Own'

Lt. Swain explained that there are some 20 variations of chutes used by sky-divers. In a contest each participant usually chooses his favorite type of canopy and packs his own parachute. Sky divers carry both their main chute and a smaller reserve chute.

As enthusiastic member of the Sports Parachute Club, Lt. Swain says the membership is open for all, both men and women, experienced parachutist or novices. "Most of our members now are master jumpers," he said, "although we do have some who had never jumped before joining us."

The club meets every Friday night near Lawson Field. Members participate in inter-club as well as all-Army contests and give demonstrations at special events. Normally, they practice sky diving every Sunday from heights of 14,000 feet down. Seven varieties of aircraft, both fixed and rotary winged, are used for the jumps.



Lt. Swain had never made a parachute jump before he entered the Army in 1959. A car-

Gen. Chase Visits 9th's Bivouac Site

Arriving via the H34 Army helicopter, Major General Charles H. Chase visited the 9th Infantry bivouac area last Tuesday.

The General was received by Colonel C. P. Hannum, the commander of the 9th Infantry, who briefed the Commander on the training activities in progress. The two high ranking officers then departed by vehicle to Company E, commanded by Captain Frank G. Whitely, who escorted them around the company and into the field to observe the training.

Squads

Training consisted of squad tactics and the use of squads for security elements; flank guards; outpost procedures, and advance party tactics. General Chase was especially interested in squad tactics and observed the training closely with a keen interest in the happenings.

Captain Rinedollar Is Recipient of DRB

By 1st Lt PIO

The Distinguished Rifleman Badge denotes a man who has demonstrated superior ability in using the service rifle and Captain John R. Rinedollar, Combat Support Company, First Infantry, is a wearer of this badge, the highest award to an individual in service rifle competition.

Prior to joining the United States Army Rifle Team, Captain Rinedollar served with the 101st Airborne Division. A graduate of the University of Illinois and a more recent graduate of the Infantry Officer's Career Course, Captain Rinedollar now commands the Mortar Platoon of Combat Support Company.

In Many Matches

As a member of the rifle team for over three years, Captain Rinedollar competed in many matches. Merely winning a match or a series of matches did not entitle him to wear the badge.

In order to attain the badge, it was necessary to win in three major competitions. Of these, one must be a critical or prerequisite match (leg); that is, either as an individual or team member of a medal winning team in the National Trophy Team Matches.

Perhaps the most interesting match won by Captain Rinedollar was the "President's Hundred." This match is held annually at Camp Perry, Ohio. He is entitled to wear a distinctive brassard above the Division patch. The brassard has the title of the match (President's Hundred) in green letters set on a yellow background.

It is awarded annually to the top 100 firers with the service rifle, and winning this award eliminates a man from competing for it again.

Key to Success

Often asked how he became a member of the Army Rifle Team, Captain Rinedollar states, "It takes long hours of hard work and consistent practice. Training starts the day a man first enters basic training and is handed the M-1 rifle.

Those who, through consistent work, demonstrate an ability to handle the service rifle in competition are selected to compete in Army area matches.

"The goal of every Soldier is to make himself an effective part of his team." Captain Rinedollar further states. "It is the responsibility of every Soldier, not only to himself but to his fellow riflemen, to familiarize himself thoroughly with the service rifle so that he may be an effective part of his team.

Book Published By Ex-23rd Inf. Company C-O

A book written by a former 23rd Infantry officer is being issued by Ballantine Books in a paperback editon.

Titled "Company Commander," the book is the story of the author, Charles B. MacDonald, who commanded Company I, 23rd Infantry, 2nd Infantry Division, during the war in Europe.

The book has been called the Infantry classic of World War II. It was originally published in 1947 by the Infantry Journal Press, Washington, D. C.

Ex-Millionaire's Cook Now Serves 23rd Unit

BY JOHN F. PHILLIPS

If a Texas millionaire can be used for qualified reference, the men of Company B, 23rd Infantry, have a top notch cook and baker in their mess hall.

Prior to coming in the service, Private 1/c A. Johannessen, a slim six-footer from Norway, worked as a first mate on the well-known racing yacht, Curliwo III, which is owned by a Texas millionaire. The yacht's name, incidentally, is taken from that of an African bird. Pvt. Johannessen also had experience as a cook on several Norwegian ships on which he worked as he sailed to almost every point on the globe.

Expert

The 23-year old "Jo," as he is known in Bravo Company, is valuable to the Army for reasons other than his culinary abilities, however. During basic training and AIT he fired "expert" on the trainfire range and with all small arms weapons. He was a squad leader in training.

"Jo" has displayed a definite interest in the Army. The day after he was inducted he re-upped for Europe. Also, he chose a post chapel for his wedding ceremony, which was held in July.

Pvt. Johannessen now lists his home as in Palm Beach, Florida.

11th Inf's Bruscas Promoted to Capt.

Capt. Lawrence C. Bruscas, 11th Infantry, was prompted to his present grade in the office of Colonel John E. Arthur, battle group commander.

Capt. Bruscas, who joined the 11th Infantry in January, served as platoon leader of Combat Support Company, commanding officer of Company B and is now battle group assistant S-3.

9th's Baxter Gets Captain's Bars

Captain Albert B. Baxter, the assistant motor officer of the 9th Infantry, was recently promoted to his present rank. The new captain's bars were pinned on by Colonel C. P. Hannum, the commander of the 9th Infantry.

Captain Baxter came to the 9th after an extended tour in Germany to be executive officer of Company D. He then was assigned as assistant motor officer to Headquarters Company.

He attended Pennsylvania State University for a year before entering the service. He wears the Expert Infantryman's Badge and the Expert Parachutist Badge.

Captain Baxter and his wife Karin have one daughter, Cindy Ann.

Drone Answer to Surveillance Without Risk to Men

In combat situations there always exists a need for current intelligence information. There are various means of obtaining this information such as patrols, line-crossers, prisoners and aerial photos. However, good intelligence information must be timely and accurate.

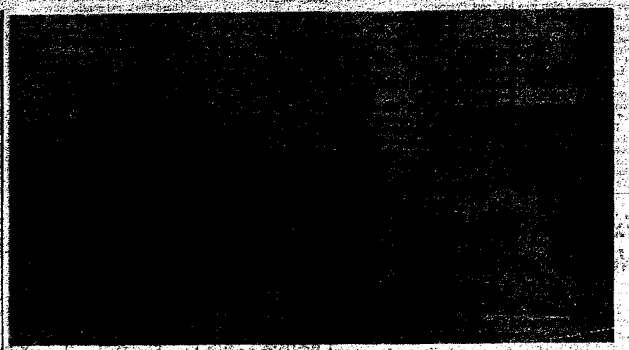
With this realization, CONARC in 1954 proposed that a system be developed that would supply immediate accurate surveillance data of an area without risk to valuable, highly trained personnel and expensive, complex, manned aircraft. Thus, the Aerial Surveillance Drone was born.

Two Sections

There are two Drone sections in the Third U. S. Army area. According to the Army Table Of Organization and Equipment, each section is authorized 12 Drones.

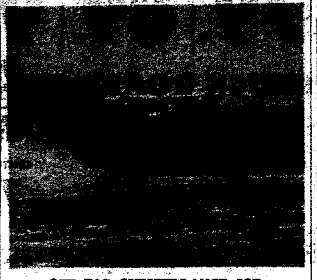
The Aerial Drone is capable of performing missions without exposing a pilot or observer. Because of its small size, speed, maneuverability and the element of surprise, the Drone is a difficult target. It has a wing span of 11½ feet and it is 13½ feet long.

Its time in flight is governed by its fuel capacity of 8.6 gallons and the altitude at which the Drone flies. At zero feet the Drone burns 10.8 gallons per hour.



The primary mission of the system is to perform aerial photographic reconnaissance and surveillance. Upon completion of the mission, the drone is recovered by an electronic device.

The Drone requires two support elements: a mobile radio tracker for out-of-sight missions; and a photographic unit, which prepares and processes all film exposed during the flight.



Supported by a photographic unit, wet negatives can be available 15 minutes after receipt of the exposed film. Thus in a short period of time available information on a target is available for immediate action to be used tactically without any dangerous threat to personnel.

The Aerial section of Ft. Benning is headed by the Aerial Surveillance Platoon of the 2nd Aviation Company, 2nd Infantry Division.

Lieutenant Bruce Sawyer is the section commander, and Sergeant Charles Faulkner is the section chief. The launching of the Drone is performed by the launcher chief, Specialist Five Octavio Carnero. After it is launched, the Drone is controlled by Sergeant Herbert Alley by visual and radar observation.

WAY OUT . . . Indianhead non-commissioned officers, their wives and guests will have an opportunity to roar with laughter Sunday evening at the 2nd Division NCO Open Mess when the zany "Krazy Kats" of Ray Spivey's dance band cut loose with their unpredictable antics. In between hilarious skits, the band promises to play in a more adequate manner for easy dancing.

Div Reenlistment Officer Finds Plenty Time on Hand for Hobby

Major Sidney J. Roche, the 2nd Infantry Division's green-listment officer, has gone on his hands — in over 40 clocks.

His collection is the result of an interest acquired while on a tour of duty in France. He said the clocks were "something I could bring back without being too restricted by a weight problem."

Louis XVI Period

Most of his collection is of the Louis XVI period with some of the clocks dating back 150 years.

His collection consists of clocks made of brass and bronze and some of black and white marble. Most of the clocks are popular in the period of 1750 to 1850. They are made of rosewood and mahogany.

One of his collection is of the Napoleon I period. He explained that clocks of this era are distinguishable by the presence of griffes on the clocks.

All of the clocks in Major Roche's collection are being repaired and refurbished to working order.

To refinish a brass clock, he explained, the old finish must be removed and then the brass is cleaned with nitric acid. The acid is then washed off with water and the case is then polished and shellacked to prevent further tarnishing.

Working Order

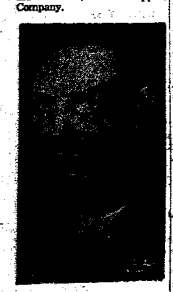
He said that most of the clocks of this type were constructed so that very little work is required to get them back in working order.

However, he added, sometimes he has to remake the heads of some clocks.

Some of his most unusual clocks are of the specialty type, which run on specially-filled petroliums.

Major Roche said he did not know the value of his collection.

In addition to collecting clocks, he also collects antique furniture. He has repaired and restored an original Louis XVI mirror.



Sgt. Ruth S-O-M At 1st Infantry

Sergeant Jimmy Ruth, a veteran of three years' service with the "Second to None" Division, was recently chosen as the 1st Infantry's "Soldier-of-the-Month" in battle group competition.

Sergeant Ruth is assigned to Combat Support Company.

Sgt. R. L. Green, 'Career Soldier'

The 87th Infantry's candidate for "Career Soldier - of - the-Year" is Platoon Sergeant Ronald L. Green, Combat Support Company.

87TH S-O-Y
Sgt. R. L. Green

Sergeant Green, platoon sergeant with the weapons platoon, will represent the 87th in the coming competition for the Division "Soldier-of-the-Year."

Sergeant Green was selected after a series of tests conducted along the lines of the division eliminations. Some of the criteria considered included military record, appearance, knowledge of military subjects, physical fitness and instructional ability.

Sergeant Green will begin the first phase of testing at division along with ten other contestants this week. First on the agenda is a physical training test. Exams on military subjects will run through the month and will include an interview devoted entirely to a discussion of current events.

This is Sergeant Green's sixth year with the 87th Infantry, following the unit to Germany and Korea. Combat decorations include the Silver Star and the Purple Heart. He is a graduate of the 2nd Division NCO Academy and the USAFC CBR School.

9TH PRESENTED REENLISTMENT AWARD
General Chase (L), Colonel Hannum

9th Tops In Re-Ups For Aug.

Colonel C. P. Hannum, commanding officer of the 9th Infantry, last Saturday morning accepted a reenlistment award for August from Major General C. H. Chase, division commander.

The 9th Infantry, with a 100 per cent reenlistment rate, received the enscribed plaque from the Division Reenlistment Office.

Sergeant Lloyd Cornwall, the 9th Infantry Reenlistment noncommissioned officer, then accepted the award from Colonel Hannum. It will be displayed at battle group headquarters along with other trophies won by the 9th Infantry.

Attending the award ceremony were all company commanding officers and first sergeants. General Chase spoke on the importance of reenlistment and commended the 9th Infantry for its efforts.

Major-Caliber

5 Weapons Platoons To Fire at Stewart

The assault weapons platoon of Combat Support Company, 87th Infantry, will have a new job next week.

As the senior platoon in the division, men from the 87th will organize and conduct a one-week firing qualification exercise at Fort Stewart, Ga., with the M-56 assault gun. Involved in the maneuver are weapons platoons from the four other battle groups in the division, the 11th, the 9th, the 1st and the 23rd.

Major-Caliber

The entire operation is under the command of Lieutenant John H. Cavender, the platoon leader of the Combat Support unit. Already having completed sub-caliber record firing last week, the mission of the trip is to qualify for the major-caliber fire with the 90-millimeter assault gun. Firing will begin October 2nd.

While at Fort Stewart, the five assault gun platoons will form a provisional company, commanded by Lieutenant Cavender. NCO-in-charge will be Sergeant Ronald L. Green. An advance party has already left to set up the area.

1st Inf. Selects SFC Olen Nantz Soldier-of-Year

Sergeant First Class Olen Nantz was recently the 1st Infantry's choice to represent the battle group in Division competition for the "Soldier-of-the-Year."

Sergeant Nantz reported to Company B from Fort Rucker, Alabama, wher he received the Army Commendation Medal for his service as operations non-commissioned officer.

The Korean Service Medal with two Bronze Service Stars and the Combat Infantryman's Badge are among the other awards Sergeant Nantz has received.

Sergeant Nantz resides with his wife Rosa and daughter Connie at 240 Cusseta Place Apartments, Columbus.

MSgt R B Alford Represents 9th In S-O-Y Contest

Master Sergeant Richard B. Alford, Company D, 9th Infantry, has been selected as the "Soldier-of-the-Year" to represent the 9th Infantry in division competition.

Sergeant Alford won the Division "Soldier-of-the-Year" in October 1958 and feels "justly honored and proud" to represent the 9th Infantry for a second time. New Chaplain's Assistant Played in Western Band

A former member of a musical group at Knott's Berry Farm, Buena Park, California — the "Melody Rangers" — recently was assigned to the 1st Infantry as the Chaplain's Assistant.

Private James R. Brown has been a musician since he was nine years old, beginning with the clarinet.

When Brown began his sophomore year in 1954 at Excelsior High School, Norwalk, California, he changed to the saxophone. While in high school, he joined the "Melody Rangers," a group of Western-type players, who played at Knott's Berry Farm. The farm is a nationally known multi-million dollar frontier town in Buena Park, California.

Eddie Cochran, who sang and played the guitar with this band, was discovered by Paramount Studios and was given his first acting role in the motion picture, "The Girl Can't Help It." He has since made numerous recordings for the Coral Recording Company.

During 1955, Brown appeared with the Jimmy Boyd Show, a well-known program throughout the West.

When Brown entered Cerritos College, Norwalk, California, band, the Five Star Quintet. The jazz band played for private parties, fraternity, and sorority dances. He is a member of Thi Rho fraternity.

Private Brown also plays the bass, piano, vibes, organ, and accordian.

Traffic Quiz

Wait 72 Hours Before Registering Your Car?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This traffic quiz, prepared by the 2nd Division Provost Marshal's Office, is designed to acquaint division personnel with the safe and legal methods of operating a motor vehicle. All information was extracted from Fort Benning pamphlet FB-P-385-3, Vehicle Registration and Traffic Regulations.)

1. Military personnel may operate their privately-owned vehicle on post for 72 hours before it becomes necessary to register it.

2. In unusual circumstances, you may obtain a temporary registration or pass which will entitle you to drive on post for a period of 10 days.

3. The Provost Marshal may suspend or revoke the registration privileges of the owner:

a. Whenever a vehicle fails to meet the mechanical standards, such vehicle shall not be returned to the reservation until all deficiencies have been corrected.

b. Upon the expiration of required liability insurance covering such vehicle.

c. When excluded from the post.

4. The owner of a vehicle has 48 hours to report, to the Provost Marshal, any changes concerning the registered vehicle.

PROMOTED . . . Master Sergeant Frank B. Hastie Jr., 12th Artillery, recently was promoted to the Army pay grade of E-8 in ceremonies in the office of Major General Charles H. Chase, division commanding general.

Answers

1. False. No privately-owned vehicle, except one operated by a bona fide visitor, will be operated on the post unless being registered with the Provost Marshal. (See 2-A).

2. False. Should circumstances prevent registration without delay, a temporary registration will be issued on the Provost Marshal's desk in Room 3, Building 4 (See 2-A).

3. a. True. All charges covering repairs to be made by authorized civilian agencies. (See 2-b).

b. True. (a), (b) and (c) are correct. (See 2-a, b and c)

4. True. All charges concerning registered owner, change of address, motor vehicle operator's permit number, state car number or disposal of vehicle. (See 3-a)

Sand Hill Buildings In Roofing Program

23rd Infantry Buildings Now Sporting Bright, White Tops

By 23rd Infantry PIO

An autumn sun will be shining down soon on 785 newly-topped buildings at Fort Benning. The massive re-roofing project is the result of a $381,250 contract awarded by the Army's Purchasing and Contract office in the L. F. Still Company of Atlanta.

The contract calls for exterior work only and includes the removal of all old shingles and the replacement with new roofing.

Approximately 300 buildings in the Sand Hill area will be reroofed, the others being located at Harmony Church and Main Post. At present most of the 23rd Infantry's barracks, supply and office buildings are sporting bright, white tops.

According to H. M. Robertson, an estimator and acting foreman for the Still Company, two old roofs are being removed and are being replaced with white shingles instead of the previously green-colored ones. "White reflects heat better than green," he said. "The Army is now painting white roofs on many of its buildings."

Robinson added that his company began work at Fort Benning some five weeks ago and has until November 18 to complete the 120-day job, according to terms in the contract. The Still Company is no stranger to this line of work, having done reroofing at other Army posts throughout the South.

A 150-man crew has been moving swiftly at their task, ripping off old shingles, laying new tarpaper, hammering on new roofing and cleaning up the rubble. Work is measured in the number of "squares" completed, a square being an area 10 feet by 10 feet.

Thus far the work crew has been averaging 200 to 250 squares a day, and as of this week more than 120 buildings in the Sand Hill area had been completed. Most of the buildings being reroofed in the 23rd Infantry area are barracks and require 45 squares of shingles.

According to the contracters, the 23rd Infantry buildings were last roofed 10 years ago. The original roofing was done in 1941, when the Sand Hill area was constructed to house the 2nd Armored Division.

This division, then commanded by General George S. Patton Jr., trained here for more than a year. It then proceeded to Europe, where it earned its reputation as the "Hell on Wheels" Division of World War II.

EXHIBIT, SHOW SET AT SERVICE CLUB 2

An art exhibit and talent show have been scheduled next month at Sand Hill's Service Club Two, Mrs. Eleanor Sabota, the club's program director announced.

Entrants in the art exhibit are asked to turn in their work October 23, 24 and 25 for judging the evening of October 26. At that time, a coffee is to be held for those entering the exhibit to discuss their work with the contest judges.

Awards

Awards are to be presented at 6:45 p.m., October 28.

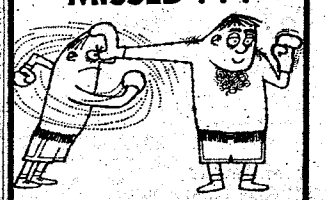
1ST BEGINS 7TH WEEK IN FIELD

The 1st Infantry began its seventh week of training Monday, staying in the field for three nights and four days, in operation "Combat Readiness".



With six weeks behind the battle group, night patrols, platoon in defense, platoon in attack, minefield laying and marking and infantry tactics were concentrated on.

An inspection was made by the Battle Group Commander, Colonel Walter D. Todd. Colonel Todd said he was "pleased with the speed in which the battle group set up operations and how readily they became adjusted to life in the field.

Five Far East Officers Observe Artillery Drill

By 15th Arty PIO

Battery B, 15th Artillery, played host to a group of five Vietnamese officers recently at Hartell Field, showing the visitors a practical demonstration of the cannoneers duties on 105mm and 155mm howitzers.

The five officers, Lieutenant Colonel Nguyen Zuan Trinh, Major Hien Viem, Major Dai Dut An, Major Tain Dinh Soan, and Major Lam Quang Thi just recently completed the Associated Artillery Course at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and are now seeing practical work with artillery weapons before returning to their native land.

Colonial William A. Becker, then Div Arty commander, and Lieutenant Colonel Donald B. Roof, assistant DivArty executive officer, escorted the officers to Hartell Field. They were accompanied by Major Binnie Nichols, Department of the Army Tour Director, and Capt. Robert B. Gingrich, United States Army Infantry School Project Officer.

Lieutenant Colonel Ralph K. Jones and Captain Ray J. Rogers, Battery B commander, greeted the officers at the field and escorted them while the firing battery practiced cannoneer drill under the supervision of Lieutenant Clement T. Fitzpatrick, Jr., the battery's executive officer.

ORIENTATION . . . Lieutenant John H. Cavender, 87th Infantry, conducts an orientation for Lieutenant General Pakhtiar Rana, Pakistani Army, when he stopped at Warner Range to witness sub-caliber firing by assault weapons platoons of the division's battle groups during his tour of the 2nd Infantry Division. Chinese Rifle in 9th Inf Museum Was Fired But Every Two Days

By 9th Inf. PIO

During its long and glorious history as a fighting Infantry regiment, the 9th Infantry has gathered and been presented with trophies and mementos of every sort. The 1st Battle Group of the 9th Infantry, stationed in Alaska, has the distinction of displaying all of these treasures.

In the first battle group's "Museum" Museum," the topmost trophy on display is the famed Liscum Bowl valued at $50,000. It stands as a monument to Colonel Emerson H. Liscum former regimental commander, killed in the Boxer Rebellion.

An even larger prize than the huge Liscum Bowl is the Bell of Balangiga. This huge bell was captured by the 9th Infantry during the Philippine Insurrection in 1901 during the battle of Samar in the Philippine Islands.

10-Foot-Long

Other unique features on display in the 1st Battle Group's museum are the Chinese two man muzzle-loading guns. These 10-foot long rifles used by the Nosu Warriors of Western China, could be fired only once every two days because it took them two days to recover from the tremendous recoil. These guns were hand made by the Chinese for over 300 years.

Other objects in the 9th Infantry museum include weapons captured from the enemy in World War I and II, the Washington Territory campaign against the Indians, and an elaborate Chinese robe with threads of 24 carat gold.

Driver Please?

Two hours before Barney Oldfield's first race in 1902, he did not know how to drive. He had his partner, a man called Cooper, give him a few lessons when they couldn't find a driver for their racer then Oldfield drove in the race and won it at the then unheard of speed of 60 miles per hour.

1ST INFANTRY CREST COLLECTOR
Captain Fred A. Darden

Collecting Unit Crests Interesting Hobby Says First Infantry's Captain Fred Darden

Fellow Society Members Send Many; Owns Almost 2,000 in All

By Riley L. Lovvorn

One of the oldest and most popular hobbies known to man is the art of collecting.

One of these collectors, Capt. Fred A. Darden, Company B, 1st Infantry, deals in the collection of unit crests. Capt. Darden has been collecting these crests since 1950 and has collected almost 2,000. Of these, he has gathered approximately 400 crests from infantry battalions, regiments, and divisions.

Capt. Darden, when asked where he received these crests, stated that he had recently joined the American Society of Military Insignia Collectors, which consists of approximately 300 members, and receives many of them from the society through the mail. He also trades with other collectors on post.

Capt. Darden states that he started collecting the crests because, "I am interested in the military history of our country." He finds this interesting because the reflection in the history of the unit is in the unit's crest.

He gives as an example, the crest of the 1st Infantry. The crest representing the 1st Infantry has 14 notches on the diagonal band across the shield which represents the regiment's campaigns or wars. The crest with the Arabic numeral "One" within the wreath of victory and the motto, Semper Primus (Always First), long in use by the regiment are self-explanatory.

Capt. Darden enlisted in the Army in July 1952. He completed basic training and leadership school at Fort Ord, California. The following year, he graduated from Officer Candidate School and the Airborne School here.

Barely one year prior to receiving his paratroop wings, Capt. Darden was scraping the ocean's floor in a Navy submarine. He joined an organized submarine division of the Naval Reserve at Los Angeles as a seaman recruit in March 1950.

the 506th "Red Devil" Air- coveted distinction "qualified in submarines."

Ordinarily, to obtain this designation in a reserve submarine component, a minimum of 24 months is required. Capt. Darden accomplished this feat in less than half this time by hard work and considerable amount of additional duty.

In September 1954 Captain Darden was assigned to the Second Infantry Regiment and served as a machinegun platoon leader, rifle platoon leader, and commander of Company H. He returned to the United States in January 1956 with the 5th Infantry Division to Fort Ord, California. At Fort Ord, he served as tactical officer, assistant commandant and commandant of the Non-Commissioned Officer Academy, and assistant S-3 of the School Brigade.

He returned in August 1958 to Fort Benning to attend the Advance Career Course. Upon completion in May 1959, Capt. Darden served as Executive Officer Company A 9th Infantry; as commander of Company E, 9th Infantry; and as Assistant Adjutant of the 9th Infantry.

Last year Capt. Darden went west to Omaha on "Boot Strap" status and obtained an A. B. in general education. Since then he has been assigned as commander of Company B, 1st Infantry.

Three Winners

23rd Inf. Company Top-Soldier Center

By 23rd Infantry PIO

The 23rd Infantry's Combat Support Company is fast becoming the battle group's center for outstanding Soldiers.

First to take the honor was Sgt. Joseph W. Kinzer, who captured the June contest. Corporal Roy L. Hartford won for August, and just recently PFC Joseph E. Higgins took the title for September.

Division Contest

Two additional feathers in Combat Support's hat are that both Sgt. Kinzer and Cpl. Hartford went on to win the 2nd Division's "Soldier - of - the - Month" Contest.

Saturday, Cpl. Hartford went before Major General Charles H. Chase, commander of the 2nd Division, who presented him with a certificate of merit. These awards are given to all winners of the Division "SOM" competition.

Tankers Win

In the 1st Infantry Brigade's ARB Touch football league, Company D, 69th Armor nipped a Company D, 58th Infantry team, 1-0, in a play-off after the game ended in a 0-0 tie.

The ball was placed at midfield and each team was allowed a series of four downs to determine the winner of the contest.

After the 58th Infantry Team failed to score, the tankers from the 69th Armor scored with a pass combination from quarterback, John Water, to Bo Culpper for the victory.

Runner-Up in Berlin Bouts Now at 23rd Infantry

By 23rd Inf. PIO

There's at least one tough sergeant in the 23rd Infantry's Company B.

He is Sergeant John B. Campbell, 21, who has some welterweight boxing championships under his belt.

A native of Birmingham, Ala., Campbell held the Golden Gloves Championship title for Montgomery, Ala., prior to his entering the Army in 1957.

Sgt. Campbell began his service boxing career at Fort Riley, Kan., while stationed there for Advanced Individual Training. His powerful fists earned him the post championship.

Shortly afterwards he was transferred to the 24th Division in Augsburg, Germany. He joined the Division team and soon became Division champ in the light welterweight category. While in Germany he also chalked up the title for Swedish - American champ and was runner-up for the Berlin championship.

Sgt. Campbell's ring record is impressive. Out of a total of 38 fights he has won 34, with 18 of these being knockouts. He has been featured in Ring Magazine and has been coached by former lightweight champion of the world Lew Jenkins.

The fighting sergeant returned to the United States recently and was assigned to the 23rd Infantry, but he didn't leave his boxing ambitions overseas.

Sgt. Campbell says he is looking forward to boxing at Fort Benning and is ready to match his skill against fellow Army pugilists.

23rd Hero Passes Away

By 23rd Infantry PIO

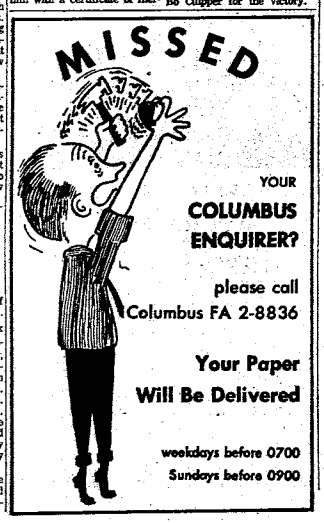
According to the latest issue of the 2nd Division Association newspaper, a distinguished member of the 23rd Infantry died recently. He was Sgt. Hercules Dorgis of Detroit.

Sgt. Dorgis was known as the "One Man Army" of World War I. It was while he was serving in the 23rd that he set up the capture of 256 Germans.

The sergeant was taken prisoner himself, but they let the gruntled, anti-American Greek Sgt. Dorgis tell a German officer of a "weak spot" in the American lines. The officer fell for the story and led his men into the trap.

After the war, Sgt. Dorgis left the Army and ran a grocery store in Detroit until his death in August.

Fourteen Promotions Announced at 23rd Inf



By 23rd Inf PIO

A total of 14 members of the 23rd Infantry moved up the promotion ladder recently in a brief ceremony held at the 23rd's headquarters. Twelve of the promotions were to non-commissioned officer rank of Sergeant (E-5) and two were to Specialist Five (E-5).

Addressing the newly promoted "We Servers", Lieutenant Colonel R. G. Holton, Jr., then commander of the 23rd, said, "I want you to be aware of the tremendous demands and responsibilities faced by leaders in the modern Army of today, and to take the obligations and responsibilities of your new grade seriously."

Promoted to Sergeant's rank were Cecil A. Stewart, Laszlo L. Nagy, John Griggs, Jr., and Anthony A. Francis, Headquarters Company; Melvin Baggette, Company A; John R. Campbell and Ronald G. Knight, Company B; Joseph D. Jones, Company C; Claude E. Meade, Willis H. Davis and James Bryson, Jr., Company D, and Joseph Davis, Company E.

Promoted to Specialist Five were Paul A. Cortright and James L. Taylor, Combat Support Company.

Best Mess Plaques Awarded

2nd Engineer Battalion Welcomes Eight New Officers to Its Ranks

The 2nd Engineer Battalion has recently welcomed eight new officers to its staff.

Taking over the reins of Headquarters Company will be Captain James A. Dale who leaves his last assignment with the 169th Engineer Battalion at Fort Stewart, Ga. He will replace Lieutenant Donald R. Lucas.

Captain John J. McOscar comes to the 2nd Engineer Battalion from the 83rd Engineer Battalion in France via the Advanced Course in the Engineer School at Fort Belvoir, Va. He succeeds Lieutenant Denton Pearsall.

Company C's new commanding officer, Captain Carry Simmons, recently finished the Engineer Officers' Career Course in the Engineer School at Fort Belvoir, after his last assignment as commanding officer of the 272nd Engineer Company at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Captain Kenneth E. Halleran has recently been assigned as assistant division engineer and Lieutenant Elmo A. Richardson Jr., has succeeded him as commanding officer of Company B. Lieutenant Richardson was formally a reconnaissance officer with the Battalion's S-2 Section.

Filling the gap that was made with the reassignment of Lieutenant Richardson are Lieutenant Samuel L. Gay, a recent graduate of Tuskegee Institute and winner of the John Saxon award, and Lieutenant Otis O. Ferguson. Both officers were re-routed from assignments to Korea and Alaska in order to join the 2nd Engineers. Lieutenant Ferguson is a graduate of Louisiana State University and holds a degree in petroleum engineering. This is the first assignment for both officers.

Warrant Officers

Two warrant officers joined the battalion. Chief Warrant Officer Henry T. McFarland came to the battalion from Martin Army Hospital, where he had just finished conducting an intensive study of equipment and mobilization techniques. Warrant officer Riley E. Lane Jr., assistant personnel officer previously has served with the Pennsylvania National Guard Advisory Group. This is his first assignment as a warrant officer.

Filling out a full roster of new personnel is Chaplain (Captain) William W. Rivers, new chaplain of the Battalion. Chaplain Rivers is a graduate of Candler School of Theology, Emory University, and has previously served with the 178th Engineer Battalion of the National Guard of Georgia.

'Coon Winds Up on Arty A. M. Report

During a recent field training exercise, Captain William F. Doherty, commanding officer of Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, Division Artillery, was requested by Captain Edward P. McDaniel, Jr., S-4, to pick up two additional members for rations and quarters on the morning report.

While returning to the command post of the Division Artillery Headquarters, Captain McDaniel and his driver spotted three raccoons on the road. It was decided the three raccoons might be utilized as mascots; however, a plan must be devised to capture them. The raccoons realized the motives of Captain McDaniel and proceeded to run up a tree, with Captain McDaniel in hot pursuit. After the capture, the new members were brought to the command post. However, one decided Army life was not for him and escaped before being picked up on the morning report. He therefore, could not be counted as absent without leave.

Captain Doherty advised Captain McDaniel it would be necessary to charge him for meals consumed at prevailing rates. An objection was raised to this suggestion. Captain McDaniel decided to ration the raccoons at his quarters, but information has it that another is absent without official leave at this writing.

Gen. Powell

throughout his visit here by General Chase.

His visit to the "Second to None" division ended at 11:30 a.m. with his departure from Lawson Army Air Field.

General Powell, who was promoted to his present rank on October, 1, 1960, has been CONARC commander since that date. He was formerly the Commanding General of the Third United States Army. His assignments include Commanding General, The Infantry Center, and Commandant, The Infantry School at Fort Benning from August 1956 to April 1958.

During the Korean Conflict he commanded the famous 17th Infantry Regiment when it was the only United States unit to reach the Yalu River on the Manchurian border.

General Powell was born in Monmouth, Oregon and is descended from a colonial Virginia family. His grandfather and grandmother followed the Oregon trail in a covered wagon and founded his hometown in 1850. Members of his family have worn the Army uniform in all of our country's wars since Colonial days.

Coffee

Coffee, Coffee!

The ladies of five of the 2nd Division Artillery units held their monthly coffees on September 19.

Mrs. William A. Becker, wife of the Artillery executive officer, was hostess at her home for the wives of Artillery Headquarters. Mrs. Stanley L. Harding poured.

15th Artillery

Mrs. Donald A. Gray and Mrs. Richard L. Boone entertained the ladies of the 15th Howitzer Battalion at Mrs. Gray's Willis Street home in Columbus. Mrs. Gray poured the coffee.

Farewells were said to Mrs. Ralph K. Jones, whose husband has been transferred to Division Headquarters. Mrs. George S. Greene and Mrs. Donald R. Roof, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Donald R. Roof, new commanding officer of the battalion, were welcomed.

17th Artillery

The 17th Artillery ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. William H. Wilson on Walker Street in Columbus for their coffee. Mrs. Thomas Villestreet poured. A hat demonstration was presented for those present.

New arrivals were Mrs. Robert Morrison and Mrs. Willie Phillips.

37th Artillery

The ladies of the 37th Artillery exchanged favorite recipes at their coffee at the home of Mrs. Joseph L. Sokolowski, hostess for the group.

Mrs. Sokolowski poured at a table decorated with a fall arrangement of flowers.

38th Artillery

Mrs. Maurice H. Schrepel was hostess for the ladies of the 38th Artillery.

Arrangements of marigolds and asters centered the table.

Mrs. Charles L. Cauther was introduced as a new member.

'Ist' Wives Entertain

The monthly coffee for the ladies of the 1st Infantry was held recently in the Corregidor Room of the Main Officers' Open Mess.

Hostesses this month were Mrs. George Tronsrue, Mrs. John McKelvey, Mrs. Charles Allen, and Mrs. Erwin Farrell.

The decorative scheme was a fall one carried out by a cornucopia centerpiece filled with autumn flowers and flanked with yellow candles.

A welcome was extended to newcomers including Mrs. Byron Powers, Mrs. Edison Scholes, Mrs. Ralph Dunn, Mrs. Carroll Thompson, Mrs. John Shannon, and Mrs. Patrick Beal.

The ladies said farewell to Mrs. Mace Jett, whose husband, Chaplain Jett, is leaving for Germany.

Honored guests were Mrs. Gustav M. Bacharach and Mrs. E. Manning, mother of Mrs. William Hazen.

Project as Usual

This year, one of the 2nd Division Officers Wives Club projects to be continued is the sponsorship of a monthly Staff-Patient Coffee Hour held in the Recreation Hall at Martin Army Hospital.

These coffees are held on one Friday morning each month from 10 to 11 a.m.

The other women's clubs on the post take turns with the coffees on the other Fridays of the month.

This month, the ladies of Division Trains were hostesses. Mrs. Harry A. Clark, Jr., Mrs. James T. Durham, Mrs. Donald W. Alberti, and Mrs. Lawrence H. Bishoff represented the group. The ladies were assisted by Miss Sarah Thomas, a member of the Red Cross staff at the Martin Army hospital.

The Wives Club supplied funds for the coffee and doughnuts, and hostesses to greet and serve the guests. Entertainment was provided by various groups from Fort Benning. Tables were set up so that the staff and patients could relax and enjoy a pleasant break in the day's routine.

Indianhead Ladies Give Ward Party

A monthly coffee sponsored by the Ladies of the Big Indianhead was held recently at the Martin Army Hospital.

Hostesses were Mrs. Lawrence Smith, chairman, Mrs. Bilbo Nowell, Mrs. Walter Hutchko and Mrs. Pelham Bread.

Club Asks Associate Members

Mrs. Curtis F. Livingston, speaking for the 2nd Division Officers Wives Club, recently urged increased associate membership with the club.

"All officers wives whose husbands are presently serving an overseas tour and who were formerly with the 2nd Division were "urged to become associate members of the Division Officers Wives Club," said Mrs. Livingston.

For further information, Mrs. Livingston directed all interested to call her at 545-3709.

23rd Inf Ladies Have Get-Together

Mrs. Louis A. Kunzig Jr. was hostess at her home on Lumpkin Road recently for the ladies of the 23rd Infantry. Also serving as hostess for the occasion was Mrs. Richard A. Perkins.

Mrs. John V. Swango poured the coffee at a table centered with an arrangement of pink mums and white glads. Pink candles carried out the color scheme.

Mesdames John E. Carroll, William B. Willard Jr., Clyde J. Cleveland, Henry B. Gillespi Jr., William B. Johnston, William Wright, Hughery Wright, Robert L. Pender, and James O. Duke were welcomed.

Farewells were said to Mrs. Howard F. Leavitt Jr.

SAUDI ARABIAN OFFICERS POSE WITH DIV ARTY COMMANDER Gen. Youssef (Kneeling) and Junior Officers Served With Col Harding Infantry Regiment.

DivArty Guests See 9th Infantry Sergeant Reports on 'Divided City' 'Old Face'

BY RICHARD J. HUSSAR

—The last stronghold used by the Russians in World War II was Templehof Airport in West Berlin. Ironically, it now operates as a main depense point of the American, British and French armies now garrisoned there.

Six officers of the Royal Saudi Arabian Army recently paid a visit to an old friend—Major General E. L. Harding, Division Artillery commander.

The Saudi Arabian officers once served with Colonel Hardin when he was chief of the U.S. Army Training Mission in the Middle East.

The group, currently on a 3-day orientation and familiarization tour of Army installations and activities in the Continental United States, is observing how the Army of the Secretary of the Army, Gen. Creighton Abrams, Chief of Staff, U.S. Army, Europe, Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations, Department of the Army, Major General Ralph Ingersoll, Director of Civil Affairs, Department of the Army, Major General Robert Frank, now in a key assignment in Berlin, and Colonel Mohammed Ali Salaam, Chief of Staff, Royal Saudi Arabian Army.

Also accompanying the group is Colonel Mohammed Ali Sakran, commander, 4th Saudi Arabian Infantry Regiment.

The group included Brigadier General Taher Youssef, Judge Advocate General, Royal Saudi Arabian Army; Colonel Mohammed Ali Salaam, Chief of Staff, Royal Saudi Arabian Army; Colonel Mohammed Ali Sakran, Commander, 4th Saudi Arabian Infantry Regiment; Lieutenant Colonel Abdullah Dhahrani, Director of Civil Affairs, Royal Saudi Arabian Army; Major Ahmed Ali Al Jifri, Aide-de-Camp to Brigadier General Youssef; Major Abdullah Al Sudairy, Director of Athletics, Royal Saudi Arabian Army; Captain Abdullah Al Sharif, Aide-de-Camp to Colonel Mohammed Ali Salaam; and Captain Abdullah Al Sabhan, Aide-de-Camp to Colonel Mohammed Ali Sakran.

Lieutenant Colonel Dhahrani was a member of the class of 1961 at the Command and General Staff College.

Battle by battle, it has been a 9-day orientation and familiarization tour of Army installations and activities in the Continental United States for the group.

Sgt. Green noted that U. S. troops in West Berlin "talk tough" to the Russians, but the majority of the people of West Berlin were constantly bombarded with the noise of the East Germans' propaganda broadcasts.

"Their loudspeakers are so powerful that they can be heard clearly on the other side of the city," Sgt. Green said. "All we can do is sit and listen to them."

Sgt. Green, who has been assigned to Company B, recently returned from the Berlin Brigade where he was stationed with the 2nd Battle Group, 6th Infantry at Templehof — the world's largest airport.

Sgt. Green found merchant prices in the U.S. Army Training Mission in the East Berlin sector about the same.

"Prices are about the same as in the United States," he said. "The civilian authorities, said Sgt. Green, have given the multi-story apartment buildings a "face-lifting" and condition have been continuing but orderly. Small rioting and demonstrations have been quickly and the majority of the people have maintained a passive attitude.

CAR TROUBLES

A Volkswagen bug belonging to Sgt. Green was stolen while it was parked in front of the apartment building where he lived. The car was recovered with the best wishes from the thieves.

"It had been driven a lot by the thieves," Sgt. Green said, "and was out of gas. But it was in good condition otherwise."

Sgt. Green said he was unable to sell his car on the open market for $80 but couldn't get it out of Berlin because his car wouldn't pass the inspection.

Flag Football Season Opens Oct. 5

Four Games Scheduled As First Round Begins

BY DAVE HARRELL

The Division Flag Football Tournament gets underway on Thursday with games at Kelley Hill and Bond Hill.

Separate Battalions takes on the 1st Infantry nine in a contest at Kelley Hill while the 2nd Battalion, 39th Infantry tangles with the 4th Battalion, 47th Infantry at Bond Hill.

Division Trains meets the 2nd Battalion, 47th Infantry at Kelley Hill and the 1st Battalion, 39th Infantry squares off against the 87th at 8 p.m.

This year's football season will be a double round-robin tournament with the best won-lost record in the division winning the championship.

In the event of a tie for first, second or third place, a one-game playoff will be held immediately following the regular season.

This event is an integral part of the Commanding General's Trophy program.

The major commands and separate unit conferences have to select their teams to be entered in the tournament. One team consists of individuals, including the coach or manager, who will represent the unit in the Division Special Services Officer no later than 11th Inf vs 23rd Inf vs All Stars Bennett Field, KH — Kelley Hill games to be played at Isbell-Sagger Field.

Any requests must be submitted to the Division Special Services Officer no later than 5 days before the scheduled date of game. Requests received after this deadline will not be honored.

Play and conduct of this tournament will be governed by the rules of the Division Special Services Officer including all game rules. Each game consists of four-10 minutes periods which will be stopped only for time-outs, touchdowns, etc.

Washington Run Breaks Old Record

By Riley L. Lovgren

Robert Washington of Headquarters Company, 1st Infantry, says that records are made to be broken, even by beginners.

Washington broke the record of the "Second To None" Division Cross Country Run in his first racing competition by one minute and four seconds.

Old Record

The old record was set in 1960 by Private Marro L. Perrucci, Jr. of the 17th Artillery with a time of 16:34.

Washington made the run over hill and dale through woods, and soft sand with the record breaking time of 15:30.

Washington can remember competing in organized athletics only once before. When he attended Harper High School, Jackson, Ala., in 1958, he made the highest jump of the year in high jump competition by jumping five feet and eight inches.

Washington proved that he is still capable of jumping by leaping over the finish line in the cross country race.

He made the rough three-mile run only twice in preparing for the division race. His second try was 16:48.

Difference

Washington stated that the difference in time was credited to Private Gene A. Brown of Company B, 1st Infantry, setting the fast pace behind him. Private Brown also broke the old record by finishing only seven seconds behind Washington for second place.

Placing fifth was Private John Beaudry, also of the 1st Infantry.

87th's Marley Finishes Course

By 87th Inf PIO

Lieutenant Ronald W. Marley, Headquarters Company, 87th Infantry, recently completed the 12-week Officers Supervisory Communications Course at The Infantry School.

Lieutenant Marley is the platoon leader of the communication platoon.

The Officers Communications Course is designed to prepare the officer to assume the duties of communication platoon leader or battle group communications officer, and stresses the supervision and maintenance of battle group communications.

Lieutenant Marley joined the 87th Infantry in December 1960 after a tour with the 187th Infantry at Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

87th, 1st Split Honors In Cross Country Race

Conquerors Take Team Title; 1st-Men Win Spots

The 1st Infantry's Robert Washington hurdled the finish line tape Saturday to take first place in the 2nd Infantry Division Cross Country Championship Race — but only to see his team receive second place laurels behind the 87th Infantry.

Washington, who has only run four times in his life and who his teammates say "never learned to lose," negotiated the gruelling three-mile course in 15:30.

Second Place

He was trailed by a scant seven seconds by Gene A. Brown, also of the 1st Infantry. Brown broke the tape left intact by Washington's hurdle.

Scoring for the cross country race was affected by adding up the positions placed, and the team with the least number of points — the 87th Infantry — was the winner.

The 87th amassed 37 points while the 1st accumulated 38.

The first "Conqueror" to cross the finish line was Dale Vaughn in third place with a time of 16:30.

Next was Robert Bourne of the 2nd Engineer Battalion and representing Separate Battalions in 16:45.

Fifth

First Infantryman John Beaudry capped the list of the first five placing in 16:50.

The third place spot in the team line-up was nabbed by the 5th Infantry with 72 points which was followed by the Separate Battalions' team with 80 points.

The fifth place team was the 11th Infantry with 104 points while the 22nd Infantry finished last with 125 points.

For placing first, the 87th Infantry is to receive 25 points in competition for the Commanding General's trophy. Team trophies are to be presented to those placing in the first three positions while individual trophies will be awarded to the first five individual winners.

Second to None' First At Post Semi-Finals

By Dave Harrell

The "Second to None" has lived up to its name in the Post Semi-Final Championship fights at Brient Wells field house on the 27th.

Action was fast and the thrills were many as men of the 2nd Infantry Division pitted their boxing skills against experienced pugilists from the main post.

Split Decision

The action got under way on September 21 as the 2nd's Robert Battle won a close split decision over Charlie Allen of the 29th Infantry. Charley Lockett of the 11th Infantry defeated Amos Waters, 58th Infantry unanimously.

Action continued at an accelerated pace when Booker T. Andersen, 37th Artillery lost to Howard Fields, 151st Engineers, by a one point split decision. Oscar Hardman originally scheduled to fight Robert Simmons actually defeated unanimously Olaf Zweling, another victory for the men of the 2nd.

In a rousing bout, Amos Crumbly of the 23rd Infantry knocked out Jimmy Berry of the 29th.

Another fight scheduled between Robert Richter of Division Artillery and James Harris of the 51st Engineers was called off because of medical reasons, and Dave Johnson of the 9th Infantry won by forfeit over Richard Woodley of the 29th Infantry.

Manager Coins Name for Team

Once called the New York Club (1883) when they played at 110th Street, the San Francisco Giants are said to have received their name from an early manager, James Mutrie, when he cried in triumph, "My big fellows . . . my Giants."

The team, also known for a time as the Nationals, entered the National League in 1883 and called the Polo Grounds in New York their home from 1911 to 1958 when they moved their franchise to California.

YAC ARCHERY

Registration forms for Youth Activities Club Archery may now be picked up at the YAC club house, building 1054. Class times and dates will be announced pending registration.

U. of Ky. Track Star Leo Zani Set Long Distance Record in '56

11th Infantryman Lost 14 Pounds And Spent Seven Days in Hospital

By 11th Inf PIO

Private Leo Zani, Company B, 11th Infantry, has acquired a scrapbook of track achievements which reads like a record book.

A 1958 graduate of the University of Kentucky, he ran the mile in four minutes, 14 seconds and the half mile in one minute, 52 seconds while in College.

His time for the half mile run was four seconds less than the world's record for that distance.

HE RUNS
Zani

In 1955, besides finishing third in the annual Boston Marathon, Private Zani established a United States marathon record by completing a 53-mile run from Portsmouth, N. H., to Boston, Mass. While competing in the Pan-American Games in Mexico, he bettered this by covering a remarkable distance of 83 miles.

This did not constitute a U.S. record, however, as it was run on foreign soil but Private Zani was far from through with his assault on the long distance record.

In 1956, he set out from Kittery, Me., at 6 a.m. in his bid to break his own long distance record of 53 miles and arrived in Rivera, Mass., 63 miles away, at 4:30 p.m. to set a new United States long distance record which stands today in track annals.

During this grueling test of endurance, he made only three stops, although, officially, he was allowed to come to a complete stop for three minutes and could walk for five minutes. In the process of setting the new record, Private Zani wore out three pairs of Russian track shoes, which he wore because of the three ounce difference in weight as compared to the heavier American style shoes, and three pairs of American socks.

He also lost 14 pounds and spent seven days in the hospital as a result of the 53-mile grind.

Major Meets

While in college, Private Zani competed in every major track meet including the Texas Relays, Drake Relays, Penn Relays, Compton Relays, Southeastern Conference Relays, the Big 10 Relays, the Big 7 Relays, and the Pan-American Games in both Chicago and Mexico.

Company C Leads 87th's Pin League

By 87th Inf PIO

In the Sand Hill Bowling League competition last week the 87th Infantry's Company C just managed to capture first place by defeating Company E by the slim margin of one pin.

This puts Company C in first place for the first time, however, only one point separates them from both Companies E and A.

Sergeant Glenn E. McCammon of Company A took most of the individual honors from Sergeant James Patterson of Company C by rolling a high game of 222 and taking high series with Company A also holds most of the team records so far with a total pin score of 2,822 and a high single match team score of 977. Sergeant Burl Withers of Headquarters Company is still holding down high average with 173.

First Infantry Flag Football Going Strong

By 1st Inf PIO

Companies A and C of the Second Battle Group, First Infantry will meet tomorrow for the battle group Flag Football Championship in the single elimination tournament.

Company A easily downed Headquarters Company, 32-13, in competition recently, while Company C nosed out Company D, 13-7. Companies C and D were deadlocked at the end of the game, 7-7. Company D took to the air in an attempt to win the game in the extra period, but the pigskin was intercepted by Company C and returned for the winning touchdown.

29th Infantry Pockets Major Unit Boxing Title

BY SFC BISMARCK SMITH

The 29th Infantry, 1st Infantry Brigade, won the post boxing title for the fifth consecutive year last week in Briant Wells Field House.

This was MSgt John Rivolta's fifth victory since becoming head of the 29th boxing squad. Sfc Leon Hall, 3rd Army and USAIC 1960 Light Middleweight champion, was the trainer of this year's team.

The finals saw the 29th Infantry emerge on top with a total of 169 points, Second Divisions Trains was second with 136; 58th Infantry had 91 points; 10th Artillery 73 points, and 151st Engineer Group was fifth with 69.

In the finals of the Major Unit Boxing Program card, Amos Crumbley of Division Trains kayoed Jimmy Berry of the 29th Infantry, in 1:59 of the second round in a light heavyweight bout.

Hary Marine, 58th Infantry, scored a TKO over Pedro Rodriquez, 10th Artillery, in 1:17 of the second round. This was a light welterweight bout.

Final elimination matches were held this week at Gowdy Field on September 27 and 28 to determine the members of the post boxing team.

Oscar Hardman, Division Trains, decisioned Charles Dowling, 10th Artillery.

HEAVYWEIGHT
Thomas Dawson, 29th Infantry, decisioned Leon Clark, 10th Artillery.

Benning Doughboys Lose Three Players

The post Doughboy football team was jarred last week by the loss of three starters due to reassignment overseas.

The loss left gaps at quarterback, center and one guard slot which must be filled in time for the encounter with the Quantico Marines which will be played at the Virginia base September 30.

COACH COFIELD

Lost by transfer were Harold L. Shankles, quarterback; Claude J. Roberts Jr., center, and Thomas J. Henson, guard.

"Losing these starters is quite a blow," said Doughboy head coach Leaton C. Cofield. "You can't lose three regulars without feeling it."

"The spirit of the team is high," continued Cofield, "and injured players are steadily improving."

The loss of the three starters was off-set somewhat by the addition of three players who joined the squad recently, two guards and a fullback, the coach added.

Newcomers are Glenn F. Gill, Linford R. Pitts and Wayne A. Pavel.

Gill, a 185-pound guard, received All-State recognition in high school and lettered at Syracuse University.

Pitts, another guard candidate, weighs 220. He was a member of the Oklahoma State University football team before entering service.

Pavel, a 190-pound fullback, played college ball at Indiana University and Louisiana State University.

After the Quantico contest, the Doughboys will play at home October 7 against Fort Eustis and October 14 when they meet Fort Lee.

Catcher Moves

The first catcher to move in close behind the batter was Frank Bowerman of the old-Baltimore Orioles back in 1899. Prior to that the catcher caught the ball on the first bounce and also allowed batters to bunt and steal almost at will.

First Forward Pass

The first official record of a forward pass is mentioned in a game between Wesleyan and Yale in 1906. Knute Rockne and Gus Dorias of Notre Dame just improved on it in their game against Army in 1913.

Golf Course Is Reopened

The Special Services golf course at Sand Hill re-opened for play last Sunday.

The nine-hole course was closed last year for major reconstruction.

Because the redevelopment is not fully completed, the course is not in top playing condition. It is open for play and all effort is being made to bring it up to top shape as soon as possible, according to officials.

The course is open to all military personnel and their dependents. For those who do not own their own equipment, golf clubs and carts may be rented.

First Brigade's Battery 'D' Cops Bowling Honors

The bowling team of Battery "D", 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 10th Artillery, 1st Infantry Brigade, became bowling champs in the 10th Artillery Redleg Bowling League.

They defeated one Headquarters Battery Team in the semi-finals and another in the finals for the championship.

Kelley B. Sawyer rolled a 182 high average and a 608 for high series. Harold McElwaney rolled a 212 for high game honors. Other members of the team were Thomas Carnes, Donald F. Turner, Frederick Knapp, Jesse Evans, John C. Malarkey, and Richard L. Berry. Berry was a replacement for Malarkey who was unable to complete the season.

MOOM Tennis Tourney Slated

The annual Main Officers' Open Mess Fall Tennis Tournament will be held Oct. 13 through 2.

There will be seven categories of competition in this year's tournament, according to Lt. Col. Robert F. Galer, chairman of the mess tennis committee, to permit the greatest possible participation among club members and their dependents.

Champions will be determined in the following classes: Men's Open Singles, Class A Men's Open Singles (a consolation bracket to be formed by losers in the first two rounds of play in the Open Singles); Men's Open Singles, Class A Men's Open Doubles (also a consolation bracket), Women's Open Singles and Men's Senior Singles and Senior Doubles for members over 40 years of age.

Senior play participants also will be eligible to enter the Men's Open Singles and Doubles events.

Deadline for entries is noon Oct. 11. Entry blanks are available at the Newgarden Courts pro shop.

Drawings will be made and announced Oct. 12. Prizes will be awarded the winner and runner-up in each class.

Col. Galer also announced the appointment of Major Joseph Hall, Infantry Center G-3 Training Section, to supervise the drawings and scheduling of matches, and Major George C. Walsh, Infantry Center range control officer, to handle publicity.

Conduct of the tournament will be under the supervision of Victor Ponce, club tennis professional.

Will Basketball Survive New Gambling Scandal?

(Editor's Note: Basketball game fixing is a serious blow to this nation's intercollegiate sports program. And avid fans of this game may have to wait a long time before basketball returns to the realm of its past glories. Private First Class Dick Milner, sportswriter for the 1st Cavalry Division's CAVALIER, has some interesting views on the subject. We pass them on to you in the column below.)

Not New

Gambling scandals in sports have never been nor will never be uncommon. Large crowds at sporting events breed gamblers. This is a fact that authorities must live with.

In the short space of a decade the sports' world was shocked twice by the discovery of huge gambling syndicates that were involved in the fixing of college basketball games.

Public indignation was greatly aroused because it was the first time that the college students were tampered with to any great degree. The professional sports scene had long been the haunt to the leech who makes his living corrupting people.

In the first scandal most of the schools hit were big names. The action taken by the authorities was rash, young lives were at stake, and hasty decisions were rendered which ruined these lives. The real culprit, the gambler, was given a small fine and a small jail sentence.

The most recent scandal was much bigger than the first. At the present time it is estimated that more than 130 players will be involved.

OUTDOOR OUTLOOK

BY MSGT CHARLIE QUINN

Post shotgunners are more than happy over this year's dove flights.

Some shooting was had east of Box Springs Road but guests of civilian farm owners east and south of the post said they had excellent chances to fill their limits.

The cooler weather came just in time and should keep birds coming until the first closing date, October 14. Dove shooting will then end but will open again December 7 and run until January 15.

Of course, all the above applies to the Georgia side of the river. . . Alabama doves don't become fair game until tomorrow and will continue so until October 28. The second half of Alabama's split dove season is slated for the period December 4 to January 13.

All told you'll have some two months in which to try for doves this season. Twelve birds constitute the daily bag limit in both states.

By the way — dove shooting starts at 12 Noon and continues until sunset daily.

About an hour or so before sunset the birds head for water and experienced dove men will take advantage of this point. In the middle of the day the flocks will rest up and soon take to the fields for chow, then head for favorite watering spots before hitting the sack again.

Fast and furious shooting may also be had if the birds are prevented from feeding by heavy rains. Right after a heavy rainfall they'll swarm into a field—and that's the time when you have to watch your step.

Excitement may make a man forget that No. 7 and a half or 8 shot fired on the horizontal can carry better than 200 yards under certain conditions...so smart hunters will space themselves accordingly and shoot at targets well above the skyline.

Doves are really delicious if prepared correctly—and preparation should start with cleaning as soon as they're downed.

Georgia deer on post will take cover November 1 and sweat things out until January 5. Alabama deer won't have to start worying until November 10 and will relax only after the Alabama closing date, January 1.

You may take a total of two deer this year. Bucks only and these with visible antlers. You may not shoot two on the same day — one deer per day is the limit — and the total bag limit for the season is two bucks regardless of which side of the river they were bagged on.

FENCING ARTS . . . Mr. Antonio Mani, holder of many fencing medals, instructs Miss Kim Johnson in the art of proper fencing form. Looking on is Robert Byrom, Georgia's foil champion who helps in YAC fencing instruction. Regular fencing instruction is available to dependents Saturdays at 2 p.m. at Brat Barracks. All necessary equipment is furnished.

SPORTS SHORTS

BY SP4 HAROLD KITCHING

Yowza, yowza!

From Owosso to Estacada people are still "moaning the blues" because Roger Maris didn't quite crack Ruth's home run record.

But not me, man. No sir!

Some sports columnists and writers claim that records are made to be broken. There are those who even shout it!

I'll go along with this — if all things are equal.

Let's face it, baseball players have it much easier these days than Ruth did in 1927.

It is my opinion that today's baseball is livelier, bats are of a better quality and, of course, many parks are much shorter.

Ruth, I'm willing to bet, could have hit way over 60 home runs were he playing today.

To add more to the argument I heartily agree with Ford Frick for limiting Maris to 154 games — the number played by Ruth.

After all, it wouldn't look too good for Maris to claim, "I broke Ruth's record. Of course, I played in nine or 10 more games but I still broke it."

Clair Ruth, the Babe's widow, thinks highly of both Mantle and Maris and she says, as the Babe said, if anyone must break the record, she hopes it will be a Yankee.

She also added, "I wouldn't be honest, I wouldn't be human, if I didn't say that truthfully I hope the Babe's record is never broken.

"I know they say records are made to be broken and I suppose someone will come along and do it. Deep down in my heart I hope they won't."

Then, Mrs. Ruth said, and I'm happy to quote this:

"They say this record is a legend. I hope it stays that way."

Today's Sportrait

This week's sportrait is SMaj Norman D. Mekkelsen, of 1st Battle Group, 29th Infantry, 1st Infantry Brigade.

A confirmed sports enthusiast from Miami Springs, Fla., his interest is not limited to football (his favorite) but also includes baseball, basketball, boxing and golf.

Sgt Mekkelsen entered the Army in August, 1942, and saw combat duty with the 503rd Infantry.

Between wars he managed, coached and played football, baseball and basketball with various Army teams.

It was during a tour of duty at Fort Benning that Sgt Mekkelsen saw his dreams materialize, a sports program organized for the dependents children which now is better known as the YAC (Youth Activities Club).

He was elected football coach for one of the two teams, the first of its kind at Benning. Sgt Mekkelsen went on to enjoy tremendous successes as a YAC head football coach from 1955 to 1957, as his team won several trophies.

MEKKELSON

During the same time as a YAC coach, he also coached his company to the Infantry Center Touch Football Champions in 1955, and in 1956 led the same company to a basketball championship. It also was under his tutelage that Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry, went on to cop the post Volleyball Championship in 1957.

While in Germany he was active in the community sports program. He was head coach of the AYA (American Youth Association) teenagers football team in 1958-59.

He is currently League Commissioner of sixteen YAC football teams for 1961 football season.

Teams include eight Biddy league teams, four Doughboy's teams and four Teenagers teams.

Wedge Proves Effective

The wedge is the most effective club for the short pitch. The ball must be smashed against the turf with a downward blow, with a definite pause at the top of the backswing.

Part of the backspin is imparted by the high loft, the rest by the flanged sole of the wedge.

Technicaly, the only difference between the properly executed pitch and the chip is the length of the backswing. Ability to pitch comes only with practice. It's the yardstick of a golfer's over-all proficiency.

Major Paul Siebert

Ex-Enlisted Man, Nazi Hunter, Is Hospital's Radiology Chief

Unveiling the mysteries hidden in the human anatomy by reading X-rays can be as interesting as hunting down Nazi war criminals hiding in the high Alps, according to a doctor at Martin Army Hospital.

Major Paul E. Siebert can speak with authority on both subjects.

The Army doctor, chief of the hospital's Radiology Service, spent two months after World War II scouring the mountains around Innsbruk, Austria, for top Nazis who had fled to villages and chalets in the area.

"We caught them, too," Major Siebert said. "I was an enlisted man at the time and got the assignment because I spoke German. I had studied the language in college and got a lot of practice using it while serving in Europe with the 98th Chemical Mortar Battalion," he added.

BEST MESS . . . Acting mess stewart Sfc Thomas J. Houchin (L), 39th Transportation Battalion, Infantry Center Troop Command, receives the CTC Best Mess Award from Col Cecil H. Bolton, CTC commander. The 39th competed against eight other mess halls in the command for the monthly award.

Major Siebert entered the service in January, 1943, and was sent to Dugway Proving Grounds, Utah, to assist in tests of chemical agents by the Chemical Warfare Service.

From Dugway, Major Siebert went to Camp Rucker, where the 98th Chemical Mortar Battalion was activated. It was with this outfit that he served in Europe from 1944 to 1945.

Commissioned

After 28 months as an enlisted man, he was separated from the service and attended Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. He received an A. B. degree in 1948 and an M. D. degree in 1952. He was commissioned in the Medical Corps upon graduation.

Major Siebert interned at Valley Forge Army Hospital in Valley Forge, Pa.

While studying at the Medical Field Service School at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, the major was one of two doctors assigned to take a clearing company on maneuvers. Taking care of sick or injured men during the exercise was quite a challenge for both doctors. Major Siebert was a radiologist and the other doctor was a pediatrician, but the 5,000 troops fared well under their care.

Residency

From 1954 to 1957, Major Siebert took residency training in radiology at Brooke Army Hospital in San Antonio, Texas.

He came to Fort Benning from Honolulu where he served from 1957 to 1960 as chief of Radiology Service and chief of the Diagnostic Section at Tripler Army Hospital.

Job Is Diagnosis

A radiologist is a physician's physician, according to Major Siebert. He has very little contact with patients.

The radiologist's job is diagnosis, one of the hardest parts of medicine, he continued.

Any physician can read an X-ray, up to a point, but to the trained and experienced radiologist, the picture tells a more complete story, the major said.

Five Children

Major Siebert's main outside interest is concentrated in rearing his children. During spare time, he continues to study, taking courses in varied fields that will further enrich his store of knowledge and human experience.

Major and Mrs. Siebert, the former Marie Gillespie of St. Louis, have five children, Ann, Mary, Barbara, John and Theresa. The four older children attend Our Lady of Lourdes School in Columbus.

Army-Air Force Combine STRAC and TAC Units

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—The Strategic Army Corps and the Tactical Air Command are being combined to form a new unified command, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has announced.

Commanding the STRAC-TAC combination will be Lt. Gen. Paul D. Adams, now Third Army commander.

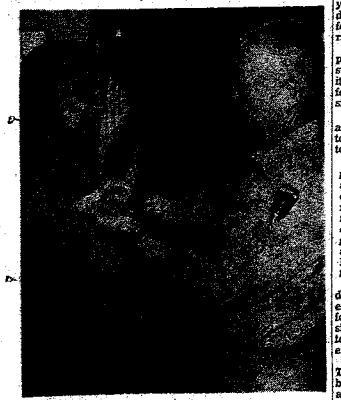
The decision to establish this new unified command was made by the President, in accordance with the National Security Act of 1947, as amended, and was based on studies conducted by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the recommendations of the Secretary of Defense.

It is expected that the command will be formally established before the end of the year, after completion of studies by the JCS on detailed force structure and other arrangements.

Mr. McNamara said he expects the new command to substantially increase the flexibility, readiness and combat effectiveness of the forces assigned.

Current strength of STRAC is about 115,000 men, while TAC totals some 50,000, according to Mr. McNamara.

The new command will provide combat-ready land and tactical air forces which can be rapidly moved when required to augment U. S. forces already deployed or to carry out such other contingency missions as may be assigned by the Secretary of Defense or the Joint Chiefs of Staff.



The command will develop doctrines for the integrated employment of its assigned forces as well as being responsible for the training necessary to weld these forces into an efficient land-air team.

The forces of STRAC and TAC now include the U. S. based, combat - ready, land and tactical air forces of the Army and the Air Force.

The Strategic Army Corps, commanded by Lt. Gen. Thomas J. H. Trapnell, consists of Hqs., XVIII Abn. Corps and the 82nd Abn. Div., Ft. Bragg, N.C.; the 101st Abn. Div., Ft. Campbell, Ky.; the 4th Inf. Div., Ft. Lewis, Wash.; and a large number of combat, combat support and logistical units not assigned to divisions.

The Tactical Air Command is now commanded by Gen. Frank F. Everest who will retire Sept. 30, 1961 and be succeeded by Lt. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney Jr., now Commander, Eighth Air Force, SAC.

TAC is a major Air Force command with headquarters at Langley AFB, Va. It includes tactical fighters, tactical reconnaissance, troop carrier and air refueling wings, along with training, air base and other supporting units.

Why Sleep? No One Knows

(ANS) — Why men sleep, an age-old mystery, still puzzles modern-day scientists, but the Walter Reed Institute of Research, Washington, has come up with some observations and suggestions for soldiers who fail to get their quota.

Army research on the basic nature of sleep shows that of all the body's organs the brain is the most sensitive to the stresses of sleeplessness.

Under prolonged sleep loss, Walter Reed scientists assert, the nervous system begins to behave something like a motor in need of a tune-up. It alternately misfires, runs normaly for awhile, and falters again.

These misfirings include lapses in attention and fleeting floors seem to tilt at a dan- visual illusions which make gerous angle or roll like a wave.

Studies showed the body has a built-in cycle with a low period between 1 a.m. and 6 a.m., and a high period in late afternoon or early evening. A person awake during the low period will be less alert no matter how well he rests beforehand.

Short rests and frequent changes of routine to improve performance were suggested.

Army Develops New 'Sit Still' Survival Gadget

(ANS) — The Army has developed a handy new gadget that will make enough water to keep survivors of sea disasters from dying of thirst.

The new gadget, called a "sit still," was developed by Army Corps of Engineers at Fort Belvoir. It operates using heat from the sun's rays or from the body of an individual sitting on it.

The "do it yourself" kit consists of a stead of five sheets about the size of standard typewriter paper. A sponge to collect the fresh water completes the kit.

Heat penetrates to the aluminum foil which is then cooled by the bottom salt-water soaked cloth. In the cooling process, a condensation of fresh water forms on the foil.

The survivor uses the sponge to soak up the water, which may be only a few drops, but enough to keep him alive.

Chaplain Foshee At 58th Infantry

Chaplain (Capt.) George W. Foshee who served at Fort Benning with the 3rd Infantry Division from 1957 to 1959, has returned as chaplain of the 58th Infantry, 1st Armored Rifle Battalion, 1st Infantry Brigade.

He will conduct services at Harmony Church Chapel No. 1, Bldg. 4632.

Chaplain Foshee has been in Germany since March, 1958, serving with the 3rd Division in Wurzburg and later with the 15th Ordnance Battalion in Kreigsfeld.

A B.S. graduate of Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, Chaplain Foshee received a bachelor of divinity degree from the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary in 1955.

He was commissioned in 1956 at Memphis.

During World War II, Chaplain Foshee served in the Pacific Theater with the 22nd Marine Regiment.

He was awarded a Navy Commendation Medal for service under fire on an island of the Eniwetok Atoll.

Wounded in action during the retaking of Guam, he received a Purple Heart.

Chaplain and Mrs. Foshee have a daughter, Denise Annette, 8, and a son, Andrew, 7.

Major McCarthy Talks on Missiles At Van Line Meet

Major John F. McCarthy, an instructor on the Artillery Committee of The Infantry School's Command and Staff Department, spoke on missiles last week at the Georgia state convention of United Van Lines, Inc., in Columbus.

The session was held in a local motor hotel. Price McCarles of Columbus arranged the program.

Major McCarthy's talk was augmented by models of missiles and a short color film.

He was assigned to his present position in March, 1960.

Col. McMonagle New Post Veterinarian

Lt. Col. William DeForrest McMonagle was recently assigned as the post veterinarian. He will assume the responsibilities of the animal clinic, communicable disease control and food inspection for the post.

Col. McMonagle will also be veterinarian to the canines of the 29th Infantry Scout Dog Platoon and the 100 goats that crop the grass in the post's ammunition supply area.

Col. McMonagle came to the post from headquarters of the New York Region of the Military Subsistance Supply Agency where he served as staff veterinary officer since 1957.

From 1955 to '57, he was in Japan as veterinarian at the Army Port in Yokohama and later as veterinary staff officer at the Army Quartermaster Center in Tokyo.

A 1946 graduate of Washington State College and a holder of a bachelor of science and a doctor of veterinary medicine degree, he received his commission at Fort Worth, Tex., in 1942.

First Lt. John R. Anderson is the assistant post veterinarian.

New Adder Figures Pay Faster Now

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Signal Corps soldiers at Fort Huachuca still line up for pay call, but the total pay due 2,100 of them is no longer figured manually by pay clerks. Instead, a high speed digital computer turns out the pay roll in a fraction of the time needed by the clerks.

All financial data pertaining to each soldier is furnished to the Computer Center which translates "into" "machine language" the "base pay," quarters and ration allowances, insurance premiums, allotments, taxes and other such information and stores it in the computer's memory core. When payrolls are made up the exact amount due each soldier is computed in a matter of seconds.

The use of the computer at the Army's Electronic Proving Grounds is the first test of a special military Pay Project in which the Finance Corps and the Signal Corps have been involved since 1958.

Each month the test at Fort Huachuca will be expanded so that by February 1962 nearly all the military personnel on the post will be paid by the computer.

Automation is expected to reduce materially the number of man hours and volume of paperwork involved in calculating the monthly pay of Army personnel.

SOM . . . Sp4 John Hughes, Jr., 586th Engineer Company (Float Bridge), has been selected as soldier of the month for September at the 151st Engineer Group (Combat).

WANT ADS are for EVERYBODY

When my Daddy said I could have a puppy of my very own, I asked "Where will we get him?" Daddy went and got a copy of The Bayonet and opened it up to the classified ad pages, and he helped me find the column where pets are advertised. He told me to read every ad to see if there were any puppies that I might like. It was easy. We went and got my little poodle that very evening. Daddy taught me how useful the Want Ads can be. As I grow up I know I'll find lots of ways to use them again and again, just as Daddy and Mommy do.

Reserve Officers Schedule Meet

Representatives of twenty-two chapters of the Reserve Officers Association in Georgia have been invited to attend an Executive Council meeting of the Georgia Department at Macon October 7.

According to Lt. Col. Louis C. Hinson of Macon, department president, the agenda will include plans for the National Mid-Winter Conference of National and Department officers at Washington, D.C., next February. Also on the program are reports pertaining to organization of new chapters in Georgia, membership drives, and other plans for the year.

A special report is expected on progress of the fund drive for construction of the new National Headquarters Building in Washington, D.C.

The meeting will be held at American Legion Post 3, 202 Riverside Drive, in Macon.

'Calculator'—The School's 'Dog of All Dogs'—A Real Pal

By Sgt Harold Kitching

"CALCULATOR born? died, August 29, 1923, he made better dogs of us all."

Who was Calculator and what does this mean?

Calculator was a mongrel dog since honored by a statue behind Infantry School headquarters.

In the early 1920's, the pup came out on the wrong end of a collision with an automobile, severely injuring one of his legs. Although the leg seemed healed he adopted the habit of putting down three and take one—thus the name "Calculator."

He endeared himself to everyone in The School from the commandant on down to the lowest private. He also owed his allegiance to no one. He seemed to belong to the whole command, it seemed.

The crippled dog went from house to house, barracks to barracks and fort to city. There are many stories of how he wangled transportation from Columbus to Fort Benning.

This canine had a unique system of "hitching" rides. After making his "routine inspection" of the city, he would plant himself at the door of a hotel used by many officers as temporary quarters. Few officers would ever pass the hotel without seeing if Calculator needed a lift back to the fort.

Sometimes, he took the initiative himself. When a car came by that suited his tastes he planted himself in the middle of the road and refused to budge until the car stopped. Then he would board the car with the utmost of dignity.

Sometimes, he would honor his traveling companion by staying for dinner, but once the meal was over, he was on his wandering way again.

Legend has it that Calculator attended, at one time or another, every demonstration and problem given by the School. To attend all these classes, he made countless spectacular leaps aboard the moving "Chattahoochee Choo-Choo."

When the beloved wanderer died of poisoning, the "Infantry School News" said "there is not one who has not felt indignant at the guilty vandal who would feed strychnine to a harmless, dumb animal."

The News then sponsored the monument to stand as a "testimonial to the love and affection on with which The Infantry School regards dear old 'Calc' — and as a pointing finger of warning to those inhuman morons who threw all the dictates of love and affection to the winds and killed one of the best friends a man has, a real pal."

The quarters poured in from post personnel and from officers and men who had served at Benning. These contributions totaled $1,800.

"Calculator" will always be a tradition at The Infantry School to the doughboys love of "man's best friend."

Pastor Sends Bill to British For Old Debt

PHILADELPHIA (AFPS) — In the bitter winter of 1777-78, George Washington's ragged troops, defeated at Philadelphia and Germantown, shivered around their campfires at Valley Forge.

Meanwhile the British in occupied Philadelphia were living it up. Or were they?

Not all of them, it seems. For the rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church is asking the British government to pay for a board fence which the Redcoats tore down to build a fire 183 years ago.

The Rev. Joseph Kecl Jr., whose church is celebrating its bicentennial this year, has produced minutes of the vestry dated February 1, 1778, which show that a Maj. Edward Williams of the Royal artillery promised that a "reasonable allowance" would be paid for the fence his soldiers destroyed.

"They never paid, though," says the rector, who has written to the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Selwyn Lloyd, that "in view of the length of the fence . . . I should judge that a reasonable allowance in 1778 would have been approximately $18."

That sounds like a modest compensation — but there's a catch. The Rev. Mr. Kock adds that "183 years is an unconscionably long time for an indebtedness of this nature to remain unpaid. As a consequence, we in turn would consider it reasonable to ask for payment of interest at the rate of six per cent, compounded annually, in addition to the principal sum of $18."

And what would that total? Well, one bank, using a compound interest table, said the interest would be $789,555.20. Another bank is a wee bit easier on the Brits; it comes up with a figure of $767,866.93.

"We won't dispute the difference," says the rector with tongue-in-cheek solemnity.

Servicemen See Film On Communism

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Service personnel are now being shown a new, 18-minute documentary film, entitled "Communist Europe," on the Iron Curtain countries and Yugoslavia.

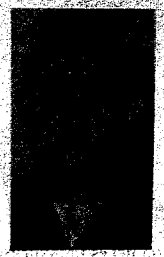
The movie, produced by the Department of Defense, acquaints viewers with the Communist countries of Europe — Albania, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, Rumania and Yugoslavia. All are Soviet satellites except Yugoslavia, which follows its own independent line of communism.

The film examines the important differences which exist between the countries despite certain unifying features and their geographical unity.

Special attention is given to the geography, history, economy, social influences and Soviet methods of control in each country.

Unknown Soldier

The Tomb of The Unknown Soldier of World War I is situated on the east front of the Arlington Memorial Amphitheater facing Washington across the Potomac.



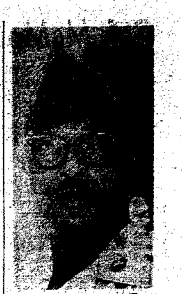
Know Your Senior NCOs

Senior Non-Com of Battery "B", 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 10th Artillery, 1st Infantry Brigade, is 1st Sgt (E-8) Lorenzo Colon, a veteran of more than 23 years service which began at San Juan, Puerto Rico, in 1938.

During WW II, Sgt Colon saw action in North Africa, Italy, Sicily, Southern France, Germany and the Maritime Alps.

Following the war he attended the 18-week Infantry Communications Chief Course at Fort Benning. This was the first course offered enlisted personnel at The Infantry Center after World War II.

He arrived in Korea in 1950 and participated in three major United Nations campaigns. These were the UN Offensive to Hoa Yan River, the Chinese Offensive, and the UN Counter Offensive, better known as "Operation Killer."



E-8 COLON

Upon his return to the States, Sgt Colon was assigned to the University of Puerto Rico at Mayaguez as an ROTC instructor.

A years assignment followed as Communications Chief of the 3rd Infantry Regiment Honor Guard at Fort Myer. A four year tour of duty in Hanau, Germany, preceded his current assignment. Two of those four years were served as 1st Sgt of Headquarters Battery, 4th Howitzer Battalion, 18th Artillery.

Included in Sgt Colon's decorations are the Bronze Star Medal for valor with two clusters, the American Defense Medal with star and the Combat Infantryman's Badge with Silver Star.

428TH SOM . . . For the second month in succession, Sp4 William H. Allen has been selected as Soldier of the Month in the 428th Medical Battalion. Sp4 Allen is a member of the 50th Medical Company. He recently completed a tour with the 1st Cavalry Division in Korea.

Post Building New Pond

By Pfc Don Girton

Have you noticed the bulldozers and shovels working in the area above Russ Pond? If so, maybe you have been wondering if it's going to be a new swimming pool or just what. Well, the swampy hole is being cleared of brush and water weeds, banks are being cleaned and improved and eventually refilled with water, resulting in an ideal pond of about an acre.

The pond is fed by several clear cold springs which had aroused some interest in the possibilities of stocking the pond. The matter was discussed with U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service fishery biologist who felt that this would be an excellent pond for stocking trout. The pond not only has the proper water conditions but is readily accessable to a greater number of fishermen than the other pond or pool where trout had been stocked.

The pond improvement work is under the direction of the Post Engineers while the Post Wildlife Coordinator states that the pond will be filled early this winter and trout will probably be stocked sometime in January. In order to utilize the pond more fully, it is hoped that catfish can be stocked after the trout have been removed, hence providing additional fishing.

Undoubtedly this will be a popular fishing spot, especially for personnel on the Main Post who do not always have the opportunity to fish in other outlying ponds on the Reservation.

FISH DYING AT HARPS

During the past several weeks there have been reports of dead fish being found in Harps Pond. This condition shows indication of being serious as the situation appears to continue. Fortunately most of the dead fish that have been found have been catfish and shiners and not too many bream or bass have been affected.

Training in the areas has prevented a detailed investigation but several fish and water samples were obtained for analysis. Anyone who has noticed any unusual conditions at or around Harps Pond is asked to call Fish and Game office at 545-3535.

FISHING HOT SPOT

There have been several reports at the Fish and Game Office that there have been some nice catches made at Kings Pond during the past couple weeks. Several anglers reported landing some bass in the 4 pound class while one report has it that one of well over 5 pounds was taken.

Although the stocked bass in Kings Pond are just a little over a year old, undoubtedly there are some native fish that were not removed when the pond was drained or have since moved in from adjoining beaver ponds.

AT THE Movies

MAN-TRAP starring Jeffrey Hunter, David Janssen and Stella Stevens tells what happens when an unhappy husband's plodding existence erupts into a nightmare when a long - forgotten war buddy reappears out of the past and they become involved in a plot to steal $3,500,000 from a gangster syndicate.

LOVE IN A GOLDFISH BOWL featuring Fabian, Toby Michaels and Tommy Sands begins when a college junior and his towhead teenage sweetheart decide to spend a school holiday together rather than with their respective parents. But then a handsome Coast Guardsman enters the picture and what started out as a glorious vacation for two winds up something else again.

SUSAN SLADE stars Troy Donahue, Dorothy McGuire and Connie Stevens in a tale that takes place when an embittered youth whose father had died in prison while serving a term for embezzlement, attempts to vindicate the family name by achieving success as an author.

A THUNDER OF DRUMS, featuring George Hamilton, Luana Patten and Richard Boone in the story of a young West Pointer newly assigned to a remote cavalry post where his lack of experience brings him into conflict with the battle-scarred commander of the undermanned garrison.

Eight o'clock every week day morning numerous school busses jolt us into the hustle and bustle of the sphere of schools and crowded halls. Tumbling books and tossing hairdos characterize the dawning of another school day. We do our best to fill these days with the three R's—reading, 'riting, and Romance.

Friday, September, 15, a large number of high school students had the opportunity of attending the Chattahoochee Valley Seminar on American Strategy. Since we, the youth, are repeatedly told that solving the problem of the fairest of Communism lies solely in our hands, this seminar gave us a better understanding of the task ahead. We were enlightened on Communist theory, strength and propaganda. We who attended sincerely believe that every American teenager should have the opportunity of attending this type of educational program.

Have you had a fist thrust into your face recently? If so, you will recognize a Baker or Pacelli senior ring. These rings signify the end of twelve years and a phase of life. Sons of Columbus are still looking forward to our emblem of superiority.

From all reports Herb Roberts is doing an excellent job as Baker's Student Council president. He and his colleagues have revised Baker's constitution. Keep up the good work, Herb.

Sparkling performances specializing in lively music have been the spotlight of this season's football games. The bands are the hub of the wheel of school spirit and cheerleaders are the main factors in keeping the wheel revolving.

Rivalry is keen in the Bi-City rifle teams. So far this year there have been several matches. Fort Benning is well represented on the teams.

Attempting something new the Fort Benning Hunt Club held its first Open Horse Show. Silver trays engraved with the club emblem and date were given for first prize along with a blue ribbon. The out-door atmosphere with the dust and the sun provided an enjoyable afternoon.

Fourteen Eames Drive budgeted at the seams September 22 as pizzas heated in the oven and cokes chilled in the refrigerator. Fourteen girls decked out in shorty P.J.'s kept the neighborhood rocking way past curfew. Liz Reynolds was the hostess of this gay affair.

The last rays of summer shone dimly as the lifeguards thanked Jerry Harrison for his leadership in the capacity of head lifeguard. This was expressed in a highly successful party. Since then the lifeguards can be found at many points on the United States map.

The Junior Army Daughters of America is striving for new members gave a coke party in honor of the new freshmen and Benningites. A clarnity occurred when an old member accidentally initiated a freshman by drenching her with coke.

The first luncheon for new members will be October 7 at the Main Officers Open Mess. The attraction of the hour will be a classic fashion show, modeled by JADA members. If you are a freshman girl and have not been contacted for this event you can call Mary Beth Williams at 545-1286, before October 4.

In the coming weeks all eyes will remain glued to the gridiron and all fingers crossed as we watch the teams at work. Who'll come out on top? What does the future hold? All we can do is support our favorite team.

PTERODACTYL?

The pterodactyl of prehistoric times was a flying reptile with wings that looked like those of a bat.

Masquers—Unmasked

By Pfc Elliot Paul

Rehearsals continued this week as the Masquers prepared for the October 7, 13 and 14 presentation of TEA & SYMPATHY.

The recent addition of guest player Elinor Brodie, cast in the provocative role of LILY, has provided Fort Benning's Little Theater Group with a most talented and competent actress. Adding spice and lit to an otherwise intense drama, Elinor creates a LILY worthy of any prep school boy's adoration.

Reveling in the knowledge that she is the heroine in 150 boys' constant daydreams, our LILY bounces merrily through the Saturday evening dances and Sunday afternoon teas of a small New England preparatory school. Perhaps her greatest contribution to this poignant production is the contrast she provides for the feminine lead, LAURA, played by Margo Carter.

Through the lightness, frivolity, and shallowness of LILY, the audience is able to experience the depth, warmth, and enduring womanly qualities of TEA & SYMPATHY'S LAURA.

Currently the Dramatics Teacher at Baker High School, Miss Brodie brings to the Masquers the ultimate in theatrical experience and professional zeal. A graduate of the University of Alabama, where she majored in Speech, Elinor was president of "The University Players", 'Bama's thriving dramatic society.

She was also Secretary and Treasurer of Alpha Psi Omega, and the National Honorary Dramatics Fraternity.

Her many credits include THE TEMPEST, THE MAN WHO MARRIED A DUMB WIFE, THE GAZEBO, HORN IN THE WEST, ENEMY OF THE PEOPLE, AND I RISE IN FLAME CRIED THE PHOENIX.

Miss Brodie's stage presence and dramatic technique contribute heavily toward TEA & SYMPATHY'S impact.

BOOKS in REVIEW

THE EDGE OF SADNESS by Edwin O'Connor. (Little, 1961)

In this story of love and loss, told through the narration of Father Hugh Kennedy, the ordinary, day-to-day life of a priest is portrayed with thoroughness, sympathy, and truth. And what emerges is not merely the history of one man, but a rich cross section of secular and religious life.

A SHOOTING STAR by Wallace Stegner. (Viking, 1961)

The story is about Sabrina Castro, a wealthy and attractive California wife with a strong New England heritage, married to a society physicism who no longer offers fulfillment for her dreams. An almost accidental misstep leads her down the slow descent of moral disintegration, until there is no place for her to go but out or up.

THE MAN WHO SAVED LONDON by George Martelli (Doubleday, c1961)

The true story of Michel Hollard, leader of a network of French underground agents who risked—and often sacrificed—their lives to harass the German occupation forces through the last four years of World War II. Eventually through a tip-off by an agent that a surprise-test project was under way near Bruges — the war was won and the lives who saved London.

SKETCHES FROM LIFE OF MEN I HAVE KNOWN by D. Acheson (Harper, 1961)

In this book we meet certain famous men whom Mr. Acheson had known and — for the most part — cherished. We see these personages at eye level, among their own kind, going about their business of state. Some are men whose public image we know well—Churchill, Eden, Gen. Marshall, Senator Vandeberg, Ernest Bevin, Robert Schuman, Vyshinsky, Adenauer. Here we will see them as, indeed, we see Mr. Acheson himself, off-stage, off-guard.

BOOK OF THE ESKIMOS by Peter Freuchen's (World, 1961)

This book is a lively and exciting introduction to the mysterious people who live at the top of the world — the Eskimos of Greenland, Northern Canada, and Alaska. Crammed with information about one of the strangest societies in the entire world, understood largely through myth and half-truths.

What About The Gold Outflow?

(Part of an AFPS series)

Would more foreign tourism in the U. S. help reduce our payments problem?

Yes. President Kennedy has noted that such travel "constitutes a large potential market hitherto virtually untapped."

American travelers spend about $2 billion overseas annually. In return, foreign travelers spend half that amount annually in the U.S.

Pointing this out, the President stated that economic conditions in many foreign countries have improved to the point where an extensive American travel promotion program could yield noteworthy results.

This program will include new advertising campaigns, the establishment of travel offices in foreign countries, simplified visa and entry regulations for foreign travelers and efforts to relax restrictions on them.

Would cutting our economic foreign aid program benefit the balance of payments situation?

No. There is little reason to think that reducing or redirecting foreign aid payments would help cut our balance of payments problem to any sizeable degree.

Our economic aid payments have less effect on our balance of payments than is commonly thought. Actually about three-fourths of the monies spent on foreign aid programs in recent years returns to our pockets when it is used to buy and ship American goods and services abroad.

Furthermore, during the past two years, more emphasis has been placed in these aid programs on buying from the U.S. sources. This trend is expected to increase.

In a message to Congress last March 22, President Kennedy said, "In deciding on this program, I have also carefully considered its impact on our balance of payments. We are now putting maximum emphasis, in both our development lending and grant aid programs, on the procurement of goods and services of U.S. origin.

At present, he said, "not more than 20 per cent of foreign economic aid expenditures will affect our balance of payments."

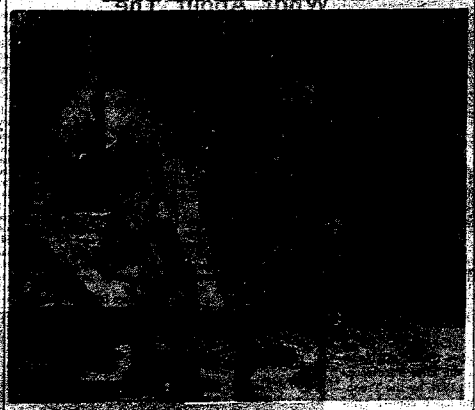
Profile of a Man Doing a Man's Job

Sergeant Ralph Ingle, sports coordinator of the Special Services Athletic Department, became a qualified flight instructor recently as he graduated with honors from a four-week Federal Aviation Instructor course at Fort Worth.

SGT. INGLE

Entering the Army in 1952, he completed basic at Fort Ord, attended jump school at Fort Benning, and was then assigned to the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team in Korea where he saw 18 months action.

It was there that he earned the Combat Infantryman's Badge and made 45 of his more than 100 jumps.



Presently a member of the Fort Benning Flying Club as a flight instructor, Sgt. Ingle also belongs to the Aircraft Owner's Pilot Association of Washington, D. C.

He has piloted planes ranging from the Piper Cub to the DC-3 during his seven years of flying.

Prior to his present tour at Benning he served with the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Campbell.

Besides the CIB, Sgt. Ingle has the Bronze Star Medal and Good Conduct Medal with two loops.

Historical Item

On March 4, 1776, his Army numbering some 14,000, Washington occupied Dorchester Heights from which his guns could dominate Boston. While the British planned an attack, the Americans occupied Nook's Hill, thereby threatening position to the city. The British evacuated the city on Mar 17, 1776 leaving vast quantities of military supplies behind.

LOOK AT PLYMOUTH NOW!
at Alison-Hutton Co.

Come in and take a good look at the car that makes the beautiful difference in the low-price field!

This year, beyond any doubt, the real luxury car of the low-priced field is '62 Plymouth. Beautifully different outside, with crisp, action-inclined lines—richly '62 inside, with bright, color-harmonized fabrics.

BEAUTIFUL—AND BUILT TO LAST

Most satisfying of all, however, is the lasting character of Plymouth's '62 beauty. Built in by Chrysler Corporation's quality engineering, it is evident in Plymouth's Unibody construction, Torsion-Aire suspension, and battery-saving alternator. It is further apparent in '62 Plymouth's, pre-lubrication system, that permits 32,000 miles between "lube jobs" on major chassis points—its twice-as-long oil change interval—and many more quality-engineered refinements.

Fort Benning AAMU Shooting Teams Hold Classes Throughout Army Areas

By M-Sgt. Charles A. Quinn

Literally thousands of Army personnel, active and Reserve, are soon to learn the secrets and tricks of competitive marksmanship through a series of clinics to be presented by the Army Advanced Marksmanship Unit, Fort Benning.

Under the AAMU's program of instruction, four teams of coach instructors will fan out all over the country to conduct courses at selected Army posts in the six U. S. Army areas.

One instructor team, headed by Major William S. Brophy, Jr., departed Fort Benning Tuesday on a 22-day tour which will include Fort Riley and Fort Ord. The seven instructors will teach advanced techniques of pistol firing.

A second group will go to the Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., and to Fort Meade. Forty-hour courses will be presented on rifle and pistol coaching and team operation.

Major William Pullam will head the 15 rifle instructors. The six-man pistol group will be under supervision of Capt. Clyde Metts.

Fort Lewis and Fort Carson will be visited by 14 AAMU riflemen under the supervision of Capt. Richard G. Hinkle. The group is scheduled to spend 22 days conducting intensive instruction at the two posts.

According to Capt. Hinkle, the clinics are co-ordinated with each Army area so that some 60 active, Reserve, police and civilian students may be accommodated.

"We ask that the classes be held to about 60 students because we've found that figure to be the maximum at which an extremely close instructor-student relationship may be maintained," Capt. Hinkle added.

Through the disclosure of methods of instruction, techniques of training and coaching which have made the AAMU famous in the shooting world, its instructor teams provide detailed plans upon which students may base their own programs of marksmanship instruction in their own units and organizations.

Commenting on the objectives of the clinics, Col. Robin G. Montgomery, AAMU commander, said the Army's annual domination of national marksmanship competition was no "accident."

"The amassing of victories on rifle and pistol ranges establishes a hallmark and is a means to an end," he added.

Army supremacy on competitive ranges is not based only upon the application of natural skills of its shooters but also upon a carefully planned program of weapons research, analyses of advanced coaching and the psychology of competitive marksmanship, the colonel said.

"Through our clinics which wil continue until the beginning of the 1962 competitive season, we hope to reach as many key marksmanship coaches and instructors throughout the Army as time and conditions will permit."

NO KIDDING

An Oneida Indian appeared before the court of Green Bay, Wis., for threatening his wife with a bow and arrow. When the judge sentenced him to 30 days, the Indian asked why. "Wives are out of season," said the judge.

GEN. SURLES PRESENTS MINUTE MAN TROPHIES
(L to R) Gen. Surles, Cols. Joseph and Ramsburg, Capts. Rogers, Waldrop and McGuire, at The Infantry School's Student Brigade

Prior Service Members Given Re-Up Options

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—Re-enlistment in grade held at time of separation is possible for many former members of the Regular Army even though they may have remained out of service up to two years.

The exception to regulations which limit "in grade" re-enlistments to periods within 90 days of separation was announced in a recent DA message.

The message also provided a more liberal grade determination for those who reenlist within 24 to 36 months after discharge.

Those who were separated from the Regular Army in pay grades E-5 through E-7, otherwise qualified for reenlistment and not members of a Reserve component, who reenlist after 90 days and within 24 months, may come back in grade if they possess an MOS which is listed as a shortage in Appendix III, DA Circular 611-15.

Former members, who were separated in grades E-3 or E-4, who meet the same requirements and possess an MOS which is not listed as a overage in the long range projection in Appendix I of the same circular, also are allowed to reenlist in their separation grade.

Reenlistment one grade lower than that held at separation is offered to former E-4s and E-7s who reenlist within 24 to 36 months after their discharge date providing their MOS is listed in Appendix III as a shortage for the next lower grade than that held at discharge.

Included in the one grade lower reenlistments are former E-5s and below who re-up within 24 to 36 months and possess an MOS which is not listed as an overage in the long range projection in Appendix I.

All reenlistments covered in the DA Message (No.571221) are subject to approval by the Department of the Army.

FIRST SHOWING! THE NEW 1962 MERCURYS (COMPACT AND BIG)

HIGHLIGHTS: COMPACT MERCURY COMET. Talk value and you're talking Mercury COMET. It's the compact with the extras that make the difference. Take beauty. This is the only compact with fine-car styling. You get extra room plus a smoother ride (up to 7.5-inch longer wheelbase than other compacts). Extra trunk space for as many as six extra suiteases. Extra savings on oil and upkeep. This year you can drive 6,000 miles between oil changes. A new type anti-freeze, anti-rust coolant lasts two years or 30,000 miles. Extra resale value, too (best record of any compact). The price? With or below most compacts.

HIGHLIGHTS: BIG, LUXURIOUS MERCURY MONTEREY. This is Mercury's finest car. The very top of the line. It is specially built for the big-car man—with those big extra values a man likes. More room than other cars near its price—for long legs and big families. An extra-long wheelbase (120") for that solid, luxury-car "feel." A smoother, quieter ride—the result of exclusive Cushion-Link Suspension. A wide engine choice—"6" or three V-8's. Plus the kind of savings that really cut upkeep. Routine service is needed only twice a year (at 6,000- to 30,000-mile intervals)! The price? Well within the popular-price range.

WIN A 1962 MERCURY AT OUR ANNOUNCEMENT SHOWING. 18 CARS GIVEN AWAY. 12,680 PRIZES IN ALL!

Gen. Eddy Is Honored By AUSA

The Association of the United States Army held a special luncheon in the Main Officers Open Mess last Friday for Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Manton S. Eddy, who retired as a member of its council of trustees.

On behalf of the national association, Maynard Ashworth, who presided at the luncheon, presented Gen. Eddy with a plaque bearing his name and dates of his tenure in office.

Gen. Eddy has been a member of the council since the local chapter's beginning in 1957.

Gen. Paul D. Adams, then Third Army commander, presented the retiring officer with a pen set as a token of appreciation from the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning chapter, largest in the association.

Gen. Adams and Ashworth commended Gen. Eddy for his outstanding service with the local chapter.

In addition to conveying the appreciation of the national organization, Ashworth also reviewed the highlights of Gen. Eddy's Army career and pointed out his many contributions as a citizen of the community and nation.

Gen. Adams recalled his personal experiences in the Army with Gen. Eddy. He praised him for outstanding qualities as an officer and expressed his regard for Gen. Eddy's friendship through the years.

William J. Scholtz, president of the local AUSA, introduced Gen. Adams. He also commended Col. William A. McKee, Infantry Center chief of staff, for his outstanding work in the chapter since the colonel's arrival on post.

Others attending the luncheon were Major Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander; Major Gen. Charles Chase, 2nd Division commander; Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Reuben Jenkins; J. W. Woodruff Jr., Henry B. Pease

GEN. EDDY (L) ACCEPTS AUSA GIFT From Maynard Ashworth On AUSA Retirement

First Reserve Units Arrive On Post for Active Duty

The first of approximately 2,500 officers and men of 12 Army Reserve and National Guard units recently called to active duty began arriving at Fort Benning this week.

The 138th Transportation Company Light Truck Florida National Guard, came in yesterday and will be attached to the Infantry Center Troop Command.

Commanded by Capt. Henry E. McDonald, the unit was billeted in the third quartel (Bldg. 75) on Wold Avenue after a musical greeting by the Infantry Center Band.

Scheduled to arrive late this afternoon is the 129th Medical Company, Alabama National Guard, from Fairhope, Ala. The Ambulance unit, under command of Capt. E. F. Machlan, will be attached to the 428th Medical Battalion and billeted in Bldg. 1100, in the old hospital area.

The balance of the units slated for duty at The Infantry Center will continue to arrive periodically for the next 10 days.

The 129th Medical Company (Clearing) Ala. NG, commanded by Capt. M. V. McLaughlin, and Arkansas' NG unit, the 216th Medical Company (Clearing) Alabama NG, comby Lt. Col. A. G. Talbot, will also be attached to the 428th Medical Battalion.

First Lieutenant Eual D. Cain will be in command of the Alabama Guard's 131st Ordnance Company and the Army Reserve's 674th Transportation Company (Medium Truck) from Orlando, Fla., will arrive under command of Capt. Edward L. McLeod.

Two South Carolina units now headed for The Infantry Center are 111th Signal Company, SCNG, under Capt. B. J. Terry and the Army Reserve

2100 Students Start or End Classes at TIS This Month

More than 2,100 students have begun or will complete courses at the Infantry School this month.

Monday marked beginning sessions for 73-man airborne class No. 11, 54-member radio maintenance class No. 4, mechanics class No. 6 with 58 students and 39-man Davy Crockett training class No. 1.

Tuesday, 158-member officer candidate class No. 2, 43-man communications supervisors class No. 1 and pathfinder class No. 2 with 27 parachutists began.

Approximately 192 lieutenants entered officer orientation class No. 6 Wednesday. A particularly large airborne class, 173-man No. 8 will open October 12. Ranger class No. 4 with 184 men and 58-student mechanics class No. 7 will start October 16.

Opening ceremonies for officer orientation class No. 7 with 192 lieutenants are scheduled for October 18. Eighty officers will begin refresher class No. 2 Oct. 23 and 170 will enter associate officer career class No. 2 the following day.

Final exercises will be held for the 248 students in officer orientation classes No. 3 and 4 October 11 at 10 a.m. in the Main Theater. Forty-man mechanics class No. 3 will graduate at 1 a.m. that day in Ground Mobility Bldg. E-1.

Tabs will be awarded to some 73 members of Ranger class No. 2 at 11 a.m. October 12 on French Field. On October 18 radio maintenance class No. 1 with 33 students will hold final ceremonies at 11 a.m. in a location to be announced.

Graduations are scheduled October 26 at 11 a.m. for 115-man associate officer career class No. 6 in the Main Theater and Davy Crockett class No. 1 at a location to be announced.

Gen. Trapnell Assumes Third Army Command

Lt. Gen. Thomas J. H. Trapnell assumed command of Third Army October 3.

Former commander of the Strategic Army Corps, Gen. Trapnell succeeds Gen. Paul D. Adams who received his fourth star Tuesday and will command the new STRAC-Tactical Air Command combination recently announced by the Secretary of Defense.

A graduate of the U.S. Military Academy's Class of '27, Gen. Trapnell was commissioned as a second lieutenant of cavalry in June of that year.

Following 12 years of cavalry troop duty, he joined the 26th Cavalry (Philippine Scouts) and as its commanding officer was captured by the Japanese in April, 1942. He survived the Bataan Death March, two sinkings of POW ships, and subsequent imprisonment in Manchuria where he was released in August, 1945.

A graduate of the Cavalry School, Gen. Trapnell entered the Command and Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, and after graduation, entered the Infantry School to take the basic airborne course. In October 1947, he assumed command of the 505th Airborne Regt. of the 82d Airborne Division at Fort

Staff College Group Leaves After Tour

The Armed Forces Staff College class departed Fort Benning last Thursday after viewing a two day demonstration of the Army's heightened flexibility and combat potential.

The 231-member group returning to Norfolk, Va., included 210 students and 21 officers of the faculty and staff.

Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles, Jr., assistant commandant of The Infantry School, bade the visitors farewell at Lawson Field.

During their stay the Staff College members witnessed presentations on capabilities and limitations of mobility means and an Infantry-tank team in the attack.

They also saw demonstrations of airborne instruction, Army aircraft capabilities, sky diving, a joint airborne-troop carrier parachute drop, Ranger training and weapons of the battle group.

Bragg which he commanded for three years.

He entered the Army War College at Fort Leavenworth in September 1950 and graduated in June, 1951.

In July, 1951, he assumed command of the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team in Korea and the following year became Chief, Military Assistant Advisory Group in Saigon, Indo-China. He held this post for two years and in 1954 returned to the United States to command the Fourth Armored Division at Fort Hood. A year later he became commanding general, 82d Airborne Division.

From 1956 to 1958, Gen. Trapnell served as Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Military Assistance Affairs.

His promotion to Lieutenant General in 1958 saw assignment as commander of the I U.S. Corps (Group) in Korea and a following assignment in 1959 as Deputy Commander-In-Chief, United States Army, Pacific. Gen. Trapnell became commander of the XVIII Airborne Corps STRAC and Fort Bragg in August 1960.

Capt. Little Post Protocol Division Chief

Capt. Roger M. Little II has been named chief of the Infantry Center Protocol Division at Fort Benning.

He succeeds Major Edgar W. Duskin who is on an assignment in Laos.

Capt. Little has served in the Protocol Division since completing a year's tour with the First Battle Group, Eighth Cavalry, 1st Cavalry Division in Korea in February, 1960.

A 1951 graduate of Virginia Military Institute, he attended the Infantry School's associate company officer course in 1951, its Ranger course in 1953 and airborne course in 1959.

He was a student in The Infantry School's officer advanced course from January to August, 1957, then was an instructor in the School's Weapons Department for 15 months.

From December, 1951, to December, 1954, he was assigned to the 28th Division in Germany followed by three years with Haedquarters, Nebraska Military District in Omaha as assistant G-2 and assistant G-3.

Uniform Change Due This Month

Post military personnel will change from summer to winter uniforms October 16.

The third Monday in October is announced as the changeover date by Major Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander.

A change announced by CONARC this month is that combat and-or fatigue uniform will be the habitual uniform for all TO&E (table of organization and equipment) units. This will include office and orderly room personnel.

The Army green uniform is the prescribed duty uniform for officers and warrant officers, except when performing duty in the field where conditions require the wearing of the work uniform.

British Combat Development Director Visits Post Tuesday Through Thursday

Major Gen. Herbert J. Mogg, director of combat development, British War Office, observed Infantry School activities Tuesday through Thursday.

The two-star general was greeted on his arrival at Lawson Field Tuesday by Major Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander and Lt. Col. John Stuart McLaren, British liaison officer on post.

Col. and Mrs. McLaren entertained Gen. Mogg at a buffet supper at their home at 7:30 that evening.

Honor guard ceremonies Wednesday on Chapel Field saluted the visitor. Gen. Harrell was the local commander for the occasion.

Gen. Harrell hosted an official luncheon for Gen. Mogg Wednesday in the Main Officers' Open Mess. The visitor dined that evening at "Riverside," the commandant's quarters.

The Allied officer last visited Fort Benning in 1953 when he was chief instructor at the British School of Infantry at Warminster.

During his stay at the post, he witnessed demonstrations of Ranger training, airborne instruction and conduct of fire by a heavy mortar platoon. He also was briefed on combat developments at The Infantry School, U. S. Army Infantry Board activities, new organization and tactics and Infantry use of aviation and armored personnel carriers.

He departed Muscogee Airport Thursday.

Major Paul E. Nottage who is assigned to the school's Combat Development Office, was project officer for the visit.

Gen. Mogg was commissioned in the Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry in 1937. He commanded the Ninth Battalion of the Durham Light Infantry in Northwestern Europe in 1944-1945. The following two years he served on the General Staff of the Seventh Armored Division in Germany.

The two-star general was an instructor at the British Staff College at Camberly in 1948-49. The next three years he commanded the 10th Battalion of the Parachute Regiment.

After serving as chief instructor at the School of Infantry, Gen. Mogg was a student and then an instructor at the Imperial Defense College in London. He was assigned to the War Office in 1956-1958, then commanded the Commonwealth Brigade in Malaya until assuming his present duties this year.

Service Club 1 Happenings

Service Club 1 is holding a western square dance next Tuesday night at 8:30 p.m. Gene Jackson and his "Rhythm Ranchers" will be the featured band. Dress western style for this one.

Next Saturday Dick Weiss, one of the DJs from WGBA in Columbus will be guest for a Bandstand DJ Dance featuring popular records of the day. Dress is informal for this party.

Sunday, October 15, there will be an art show with prizes for the best painting. Interested artists should bring their pictures to the service club during coffee call that Sunday. The show will be at 3 p.m.

One of the biggest attractions will be the Roaring Twenties Show; minus, of course, gangsters and machine guns. It will feature a floor show and refreshments. Put on your Roaring Twenties style clothes and be there at 8 p.m. on October 28.

The Issues In Berlin

Striking Contrast Seen Between Two Sectors

Nowhere else in the world are the material and spiritual differences between a free and a captive people so obvious as in the divided city of Berlin. In no other place can so many Communist subjects observe at first hand the benefits of freedom.

The two halves of the city lie along a 45-kilometer armed border, each covering about 425 square kilometers. In the West Zone, protected by the forces of Britain, France and the United States, live some 2.5 million people. East Berlin's population is less than half that.

The division between free and Communist Berlin is visible at once to the visitor approaching by air. Busy automobile traffic and modern buildings mark the Western side; East Berlin has little traffic of any kind, and its skyline is studded by ruins of WWII.

At night the contrast is spectacular. West Berlin glitters with well-lighted streets, homes, Stalinallee, communism's showpiece, East Berlin lies dim and silent.

It isn't long before spiritual as well as material differences become apparent to the visitor. West Berlin radiates life, energy, prosperity and tangible comforts, contrasted with the emptiness of the East Zone, reflect the atmosphere of free, unconstrained life and thought.

Despite the nearness of communism, West Berliners are rebuilding and restoring every city block as well as constructing new residential districts.

On the other hand, rebuilding in East Berlin is dominated by the Stalinallee, some of which is only two rooms deep. Behind its artificial facade lie miles of war-crushed apartments and buildings. Any new construction has been for Communist and government buildings and some workers' housing.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

SAFETY POLICY FOR THE FEDERAL SERVICE

In accord with our national concern for human life and the well being of all citizens, it is the policy of the Federal Government to safeguard from injury all those who work for it.

To carry out this policy, I charge the heads of Executive departments and agencies and, through them, their supervisory staffs to exert leadership in the establishment of vigorous accident prevention programs to achieve safe conditions of employment, and to promote safe practices by civilian and military personnel on and off duty. Safety programs of the Federal Government should also assure the fullest protection to all who visit our Federal buildings, installations, parks, forests, and other public areas. Similarly, these programs should extend to the safety of the public and Government driver alike, in their use of our public highways.

In order that these programs meet current needs and reflect the rapid changes in both technology and character of the working force, the Federal Government will cooperate with management, labor, State and local governments, and safety organizations in developing and applying modern safety standards.

The Government will take all appropriate means to foster the safety of all of those engaged directly or indirectly in the world-wide activities of the Government. To this end, I have directed the Secretary of Labor to provide assistance to all agencies through the Federal Safety Council and its field affiliates.

The Surgeon Says

Health Problems Bother All Of Us

How to Care For the Worst

BY CAPTAIN LEONARD F. GREENBERG, MC

At present personnel of Fort Benning and the adjacent area are experiencing typical seasonal health problems such as head colds, gastro-enteritis and influenza. In order to assist in the care of these diseases, prevent exposure of others and reduce the number of hospital visits, the following information is provided:

This condition with associated nasal congestion and coughing appears to be longer in duration than is usually the case and frequently develops into "head colds."

Experience has shown that this condition is best treated by bed rest in a moderately warm, ventilated room. Aspirin or APC (tablets or capsules dependent on age of patient) should be taken as required for control of temperature and general relief of symptoms.

Cough syrup in moderate amounts should be taken if coughing is bothersome and disturbs rest. The patient should drink large amounts of liquids (water, fruit juice, etc.).

The duration of the acute stage of this condition is usually three to five days if bed rest and above treatment is followed.

However, some nasal discharge and coughing may persist up to four weeks.

GASTRO-ENTERITIS

This disease now prevailing is caused by a virus and the usual symptoms are nausea and diarrhea.

The disease does not respond to antibiotics (wonder drugs) and should be treated by bed rest and by following the directions indicated for "head colds" with substitution of diarrhea mixture for cough medicine.

In addition, the diet should consist of soft foods without roughage. This disease lasts from one to three days if the treatment indicated above is followed.

INFLUENZA

This disease is characterized by fever which may range from 100 - 104 degrees, generalized weakness and muscular aching; a cough is often present and there may be a moderate sore throat.

Influenza is also caused by a virus which does not respond to antibiotics (wonder drugs), sulfa drugs or other specific medications.

Vaccination against influenza is advised only before epidemics, not during epidemics. The treatment for this condition is again bed rest and other treatment indicated for "head colds."

This disease lasts from two to five days if the treatment indicated above is followed.

GENERAL ADVICE

Dependents are requested to refrain from going to the hospital clinic for treatment of the above conditions because of the following:

The conditions indicated (unless complications develop) can be adequately treated at home.

There is danger of passing the diseases to others by crowding the hospital clinic waiting rooms.

Additional patients prolong the waiting time for patients whose illness may be helped by visits to the hospital clinic.

The visit to the hospital normally will not result in any advantage to you since the course of the disease is ordinarily self-limited by following the treatment indicated at home.

Exposure to the cold, damp air is inadvisable.

NOTE—If the disease does not appear to respond to the treatment prescribed, as shown by a rise in temperature, profuse diarrhea or other alarming symptoms, individuals should report to the hospital clinic.

MEDICATION

Medicines referred to above (aspirin, APC's, cough medicine, or diarrhea mixture) which will make the patient more comfortable by lessening symptoms, may be obtained at the hospital pharmacy by an adult member of the family, without prescription, for the period of duration of these seasonal diseases.

Credit Buying Is Fine; If You Plan Carefully

We Americans have come a long way in our social attitudes from the days when a man in debt was looked at askance as being something of a failure. To be solvent, to have no creditors, was the hallmark of the respectable citizen.

But today credit is accepted as part of our way of life. In fact, a man applying for a loan often is more favorably regarded by his bank if he can show that he has debts—and is paying them off in regular installments.

The very availability of credit today — from personal loans to car financing, from a home mortgage to credit-card charges — has its pitfalls, however, and service people who are fully cognizant of them before signing contracts can save themselves future financial headaches by looking before they leap.

For example, take the personal loan — a popular recourse for the serviceman needing cash. In this area of credit the magazine Coronet lists some questions a man might ask himself before a loan company asks them, either directly or through people he deals with:

Will your income stay at a steady level while you are repaying the loan. Will you be able to handle all regular expenses in that period? Will you be able to meet payments completely and on time? If you have any installment purchases, did you make a substantial down payment on them, rather than covering the whole cost by installments?

Are your monthly mortgage payments, or rent, a quarter of your income or less? Do you have an organized household budget, on paper, currently up to date? Does your wife agree that the loan is necessary and will fit into the budget? Does your planning for the future include emergency hospitalization? Are your bills paid up or to be paid up within 10 days? Finally, if your family income was suddenly stopped, could you get by on reserve funds or help from relatives for six months?

All sound questions, these, although it's true that some of them may not be too applicable to the career serviceman. But simply by thinking along these lines we can reconsider just how essential that personal loan is to us. For it needn't be true that, as some wit put it, "In the midst of life we are in debt."

TSB Is Proud of Hard Working Legal Section

Provides Free Legal Aid To TSB Soldiers in Need

The Student Brigade is proud of the reputation that its legal section has established over the passing years.

In his awareness of this reputation, Lt. Robert J. Cleveland, TSB Legal Officer, attends to the many problems which are submitted for solution to his office daily.

Essentially, The Student Brigade's legal office has four main missions: military justice; elimination boards; claims; and legal assistance to military personnel.

In an average year, the section processes summary and special court-martial cases, Article 32 investigations, elimination boards, and claims against the United States.

The typical court - martial case begins in the company unit where the accused's commanding officer prefers charges against him. The commander also gathers available supporting evidence, which, together with the Charge Sheet, is forwarded to the legal office.

Charged with the administrative responsibility regarding such cases is CWO Arthur W. Garzone, who assists Lt. Cleveland in this phase of his duties. Mr. Garzone screens each case to insure inclusion of adequate information and proper format, assemblage, and composition of supporting papers.

Lt Cleveland reviews these charges to make certain that the evidence is sufficient to warrant the trial recommended by the accusing officer. After this review, the case is then forwarded for approval to The Student Brigade's Commanding Officer with appropriate recommendation as to disposition.

Related correspondence, filing, and drafting is the responsibility of SP4 Wilfred N. Bastille, TSB Legal Clerk. For him, accuracy, neatness, and energetic application to his work are imperative. All cases have a time limit, and must be complete and void of errors which might seriously affect the ultimate outcome of the action.

When charges recommending a special court are finally approved by the convening authority, orders are published by Mr. Garzone. These contain the names of the members of the court, the date, and where the court will convene.

Upon completion of the case, The Record of Trial is reviewed by Lt. Cleveland and Mr. Garzone for accuracy and to insure that the findings are supported by the evidence produced during the trial. These records are again forwarded to the Brigade CO, who, in effect, serves as an appelate reviewer (first line of appeal). If the Record of Trial and the findings of the court are approved, orders will be published to that effect. A sentence may be modified or reduced by the reviewing authority, but never increased.

At all times, during the preparation of the charges and the actual trial, it is of prime concern to the legal officer that the rights of the accused are upheld.

Inefficient soldiers, or those found to be guilty of repeated misdemeanors, may soon find themselves being considered for elimination from the service. The legal section, as in trials by courts-martial, must weight all factors in elimination board requests.

Investigating officers in such cases write their recommendations after interviewing the enlisted man involved, his associates, his commanding officer, and any other persons who might either be able to offer evidence to support the man's elimination or retention in the Army.

Claims against the government usually arise from actions which result in personal loss, theft, or damage of private property of a service member, his dependents, or private citizens.

Adjudication of such claims is the responsibility of The Student Brigade Legal Section. Lt. Cleveland, as claims officer, must, within the scope of pertinent regulations, protect the United States Government against either fraudulent or groundless claims, as well as ensure the justification of such claims by an individual claimant.

The doors of the legal office are always open to service members and their dependents seeking legal assistance. Since there are no charges for this service, it may be regarded as one of the important benefits available to American soldiers.

According to Lt. Cleveland, "the legal officer must not only know military legal procedure but, in this regard, have a general knowledge of the unit's military mission, activities, and procedures. He must have available information concerning civil codes — both Federal and State — since legal matters frequently involve civil authorities.

"Moreover, he must maintain close liaison with certain neighboring commands to include the Staff Judge Advocate's Office, USAIC, and the Provost Marshal.

"Finally, he must maintain a working association with local civil authorities and attorneys. In effect, he must be a 'jack of all trades.'"

Woman's Club Diary

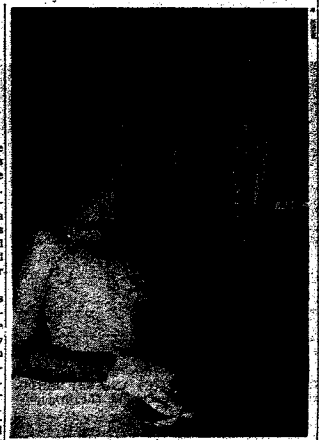
Well, the first event of the 1961-62 season of the Women's Club is over now, and we are all relaxing a bit after the Tea.

Entering the Main Club Wednesday afternoon, as over a thousand ladies did, one was transported into a wonderful circus world designed and built by Agnes Phillips and her decorating committee.

The beautiful paper figures were done by Mrs. Milton Lewis, the Adult Art instructor. The tea tables were a lovely three-ring circus in the main ballroom and pours were handled by Mrs. Sydney Sacerdote.

In charge of menu arrangements was Mrs. Everett Mead. Mrs. Cyril D. Sterner, president of the club, introduced Mrs. Ben Harrell, honorary president, and Mesdames Willard Harrison, John King, and Theodore Leonard, chairmen of the Tea sponsored by the ladies of the Command and Staff Department. Mrs. Kanemitsu Ito entertained with organ music.

Highlight of the Tea was the activity booth section where members were able to sign up for more than 20 activities to be sponsored by the club this fall. If you were unable to register at the Tea, you may still call the chairman for details.



New this season are Party Bridge, Sewing, and Fencing. Mrs. Dale Sweetwood, MU 9-3393, is chairman of Party Bridge at the Women's Club every Friday. Mrs. Thomas Scoville, 545-1006, will conduct Sewing, while Mrs. Orville Bellsfiner, MU 9-3016, is fencing chairman.

Openings are still available in the School of Dance and the Pre-Kindergarten School for your children.

TSB Coffee

The Student Brigade Headquarters wives's group held its monthly coffee recently at the home of Mrs. James C. Donaghey. The wives of the battalion commanders were also present.

A crescent arrangement of ivy decorated the serving table. Mrs. Donaghey introduced several newcomers to the group, including Mrs. D. J. Orlando, Mrs. E. A. Salemme and Mrs. R. K. Delaune.

Fashion Tickets On Sale

Fashion-minded ladies of Fort Benning are reminded that this is the last day to buy tickets to the Fashionscope to be held tonight at 8:30 in the Ralston Hotel.

The 10 best-dressed ladies of the Fort Benning-Columbus area will be announced immediately following a fashion show.

For tickets telephone MSgt Lillian McCabe at 545-3301.

Medical Wives Hold Luncheon

The "Fashion Treasures" discovered by the Fort Benning Medical Wives Club will be modeled by club members at the group's first luncheon of the season at the Supper Club, Friday, October 13, at 12:30 p.m.

Baker High PTA

A Scholarship Fund barbecue will be served at the Baker High School cafeteria Saturday, October 7, from 10:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. by the School's PTA. Tickets may be obtained from members of the School PTA or receive information on the barbecue by calling 545-2749 or 545-2538.

Toastmistress' Hold Meeting

The Fort Benning Chapter Toastmistress Club met recently at the Bronze Star, Fifth Columbus. The theme of the year, given as the "goals and rewards of developing effective personality traits."

Toastmistress is an international organization that is devoted to improve its members speech and to train them for efficient performance of duties of a club officer.

Mrs. Fred R. Koerber was inducted into the club and Miss May Johnson and Mrs. John M. Milton were proposed for membership. Guests were Mrs. Hazel Scudder, superintendent of schools at Benning, Miss Mittie Woodham, Miss Wynell McDurmot, Miss Marion Holland, Mrs. Ruth Andrew, Mrs. William D. McMonagle, Mrs. Ernest A. Skelton and Mrs. Evelyn C. Southwood.

DNRI Coffee

The ladies of the Department of Non-Resident Instruction recently met for their monthly coffee at the home of Mrs. T. H. Huppert, wife of the department director on Rainbow Avenue. An arrangement of autumn flowers centered the table which was overlaid with a white linen cloth. Mrs. M. R. Dome, wife of the deputy director, poured.

Danish Girl Scout Guide Guest at Woman's Club

Miss Signe Birch - Rasmussen, a Girl Scout Guide from Denmark will spend October visiting the Concharty Council of Girl Scouts of Columbus and Fort Benning as an international visitor and observer.

Miss Birch - Rasmussen was the honored guest at a tea given by the Woman's Club of Fort Benning Wednesday at the Main Officers' Open Mess and a tea at the Fort Benning Girl Scout House yesterday.

Later in October she will tour the post as a guest of the members of the Concharty Council from Fort Benning.

She is a volunteer worker and leader of older Scouts similar to the senior Girl Scouts in this country. Miss Birch-Rasmussen is a teacher in Denmark.

The Girl Scouts have a worldwide exchange program in which scouting leaders visit Girl Scouts in other countries.

PTA Open House At Post Schools On October 10

The Fort Benning Parent - Teacher Association will hold an open house at the post Children's Schools October 10 for parents of all students in grades kindergarten through third.

Primary grade teachers will be in their classrooms at Patch, Wilbur, Loyd and Hospital Area Schools from 7 to 9 p.m. to meet parents.

A similar open house will be sponsored by the PTA in November for the upper grades. The event was divided to permit parents with several children in school to visit all their homerooms and to alleviate parking problems.

Jean Johnson on Etiquette

DEAR JENNIE: My husband very recently became a company commander, he is a lieutenant. I'm not acquainted with Army life and we have been married less than a year. For most of that time, we were overseas. What leadership, if any, of the other officers' wives in his company is expected of me?

MRS. I'M INEXPERIENCED

DEAR MRS. INEXPERIENCED:

This is a bit out of the realm of etiquette, but perhaps I can make some suggestions. You of course have an obligation to your husband to be a good homemaker and the outstanding Army wife will look for ways to be a good neighbor and share her experiences with those who can profit from them.

How to do this diplomatically without being dictatorial is the challenge of all leadership positions.

Some gals would prefer to be forgotten leaving no impression for fear of being remembered as a dictator.

Select a good military etiquette book, your husband's officers guide is a good start. Don't try to memorize it but reread the chapters on dependents activities when in doubt.

Get to know the other officers wives in your husband's company. Invite them over for coffee. They might enjoy bringing etiquette books too and you could discuss military etiquette.

I know one battalion commander's wife who had sessions once a month for her girls and they brought knitting and handy work to do while chatting. It was casual and fun. They kept the meetings up even after they finished the etiquette discussions.

She made a point of remembering their first names, hometowns, and inquiring about illness, birthdays, etc. Wouldn't you be pleased if your husband's CO's wife called and wished you a happy wedding anniversary? Expensive cards come from far away friends but your phone call is just as thoughtful.

If your husband has the typical rifle company there will be at the most six of you ladies. This is small enough so that such courtesies as phone calls for best wishes can be practical.

And in your eagerness to get to know them check to be sure that you do not entangle them in social obligations they may not be able to afford. Weiner roasts are still lots of fun.

The battle group may have as many as 60 ladies so it would be almost impossible for the commanders wife to provide the personal touch for everyone. You are the big-sister in between.

But remember, too, you must consider her in your plans. Don't make conflicting engagements, invite her to your company coffees if you have any and support the activities for which she seeks support. She should not have to volunteer herself to fill a roster for some battle group obligation after she has asked others to volunteer.

Encourage your six ladies to do their part in community service, and set the example yourself.

Consideration for other's circumstances and sincere praise for other's efforts will help you be a leader they will want to emulate.

'Chute Team Wins Praise

Washington (AFPS) — Gen. Herbert B. Powell, Commanding General United States Army Continental Command, has expressed congratulations to the U. S. Parachute team that won the recent International Parachuting Contest.

In a letter addressed to the team leader the Commanding General XVIII Airborne Corps, Gen. Powell said:

"Please convey my personal congratulations to the members of the United States team for winning the International Parachuting Contest which was held in Paris, France, August 12-20.

"It is with pleasure that I note the United States team was first in each of the three events, to include the overall individual champion and individual and team accuracy."

SJA Officer Is Guest Speaker At Sorosis Club

Capt. Robert S. Poydasheff, chief of the Military Affairs, Claims and Legal Assistance Branch of Infantry Center Staff Judge Advocate Section addressed the Columbus Sorosis Club Wednesday.

"The United Nations" was Captain Poydasheff's subject at the 12:30 p.m. luncheon meeting in the Woman's Club House in Columbus.

The speaker has served at Fort Benning since June, 1957. He is a 1954 graduate of The Citadel. Capt. Poydasheff received a bachelor of laws degree from Tulane University in 1957.

Ladies Golf Group Has First Coffee

The Fort Benning Ladies' Golf Association held its opening Fall Coffee Wednesday, September 27, at the Country Club. During the coffee a farewell gift was presented to Paul Bumann, departing club pro, in appreciation for his cooperation with the association.

After a social hour of getting acquainted with newcomers, a short business meeting was called to discuss coming tournaments.

The Elebash tournament will be conducted at the post Country Club October 24 to 26. All who are interested in entering the tournament can sign up at the Club's Pro-Shop before October 20. The Entrance fee is $3.00.

The Association's officers for 1961 - 1962 have scheduled the next Coffee at the Country Club October 27, at 9:00 a.m.

Chairman Betty H. Dellinger, assistant chairman, Sis Vassar; second assistant chairman, Molly Ross, and Eva Nell Heliker, sec.-treasurer, will conduct the affair.

Floral Class Set At Woman's Club

The Woman's Club flower arranging class will commence next Wednesday and continue each Wednesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

These classes will be held in the Woman's Club building directly behind the Pizzaria. The instructor will be Gerry Gran from Betty Bass Flowers.

The cost will be $2.50. Equipments kits will be available at the opening class for $1.50. Persons attending will need their own containers and scissors later in the course.

Questions concerning the course will be answered by Mrs. Mickey Huppert, 545-2210 or Mrs. Mary Jene Joseph, 545-4030.

NCO's Distaff Doings

By Marianne Kelly

Delightful entertainment was offered at the social gathering on Thursday, September 28, by the junior students of Mrs. Chamber's class, who is a very fine and qualified dancing instructor.

Showing very amazing poise and knowledge of intricate dance steps were Jerry Walding and his sister Patti in a waltz and tango — a very charming teen-aged couple. Keith Faust and Debra Brumley in a cute cha-cha and evidently the darling of the group, Carolyn Earley, together with Jerry Walding in a very swinging swing! What rhythm!

Mrs. Chambers was unable to be with us that night as her son had to be rushed to the hospital. We all hope he will recover from his illness speedily. Mrs. Walter Earley filled in as a very capable pinch-hitter.

Again we are happy to greet several guests and possible new members, the mesdames Norman Brown, Warren Robbins, Manuel Lopez and Miss Donnetta Payne. Here is to seeing you often!

Refreshments were served after the dance recital and the announcement was made that Mrs. G. M. Jarvis is now our new second vice-president and custodian. Let's all give her a big hand.

Mrs. Faust again came up with a laugh producing game, "Statistical Treasure Hunt." For some of us it wasn't too easy to be honest about jotting down exact weight, shoe size and so on. In the end it was proven for once that it pays to eat well. All the best waistline watchers wound up with booby prizes!

It was decided at the board meeting to throw a Halloween Party for the kiddies instead of husbands and wives since most of our better halves seem to be somewhat reluctant to dress up in costumes. Guess their egos suffer too much or something.

Anyway, the children will be jumping with joy to hear about the exact date.

Don't forget the luncheon given by the Ceramics Club members on Wednesday, October 11 at 1 p.m. in the clubhouse.

More news about future doings next week.

Nine Guatemalan Officers Make Infantry School Tour

Nine officers of the Guatemalan Army observed activities of the Infantry School last week.

They were Col. M. Antonio Soto, commandant of the Military Zone; Col. Rafael Arreaga, chief of Military Reserves; Col. Enrique Ortega, executive officer of the First Military Zone, Coban, Guatemala; and Lt. Col. Hector Cruz Granajo, commandant of the First Infantry Battalion, Guardia de Honor Brigade.

Lt. Col. Luis Alberto Gonzalez, chief of the Administration Section, Guatemalan Ministry of National Defense; Lt. instructor, General Manuel Arriz Service School; Major Manuel Molina and Major Chester Reyes Carrera, assistants, Guatemalan Presidential Staff, and Major Marco Tubio Bocaro, assistant chief, Minister of Defense Staff.

Capt. Jose A. Esteras - Fortuno is the U.S. Department of the Army tour director.

The Allied officers conferred with Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles Jr., assistant commandant of The Infantry School Thursday.

They were honored at an official luncheon Friday hosted by Col. Richard W. Keyes, deputy assistant commandant of the School, in the Main Officers' Open Mess.

The visitors viewed demonstrations of hand-to-hand combat, training aids and grounds mobility and communication instruction and will be briefed on training literature, non-resident instruction and Infantry organization and tactics. They also toured the First Infantry Brigade.

Friday afternoon, the party visited Ida Cason Callaway Gardens at Pine Mountain and the Little White House, vacation home of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt at Warm Springs.

Capt. Ernie C. Synder of Albertville, Ala., who is assigned to The Infantry School's Special Subjects Department, was the project officer for their stay at the post.

Army Claims Engineer Kin Casey Jones

KOREA (AFPS)—Folk song enthusiasts are no doubt familiar with the ditty about Casey Jones, the engineer who "died with his hand on the throttle."

Now, however any misconception that the dedicated trainman was the product of a song writer's imagination, can be safely put to rest. The immortalized Casey has a great-great - great - grandnephew stationed with the 1st Cav. Div here.

Pvt. John "Casey" Jones states, "Many people have the idea that Casey Jones never existed. He most certainly did, although the song has twisted a few small facts around."

Trains C-O Is Promoted To Colonel

Col. H.A. Clark, Former G-4, IG, In 'Second to None'

Colonel Harry A Clark Jr., commanding officer of 2nd Infantry Division Trains, recently was promoted to his present rank.

He had assumed command of Trains 15 days previously, coming from his job as assistant chief of staff G-4 (supplies and logistics) at Division Headquarters.

The 44-year old colonel from North Andover, Massachusetts, entered the officers' corps of the Army as a second lieutenant in February 1939, advancing to first lieutenant in June 1941, to captain in June 1942, to major in April 1943, and to lieutenant colonel in June 1951.

Campaigns

Colonel Clark served 83 months overseas, participating in the campaigns of Normandy, Northern France, Rhineland, Korea Summer-Fall 1952 and the third Korean Winter.

Colonel Clark also has served as the division's Inspector General.

Among his decorations are the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster, Combat Infantryman's Badge, Parachutist Badge, Glider Badge, World War II Victory Medal, American Defense Service Medal, American Campaign Medal, European, African and Middle Eastern Campaign Medal, Korean Service Medal, United Nations Service Medal, National Defense Service Medal and four Overseas Bars.

Colonel Clark, his wife Frances and their seven children live at 403 Running Avenue, Fort Benning.

Division Tank Crews Fire at Fort Stewart

Tankers, Riflemen Team for Qualification

Thirty-three tank crews have completed an extensive tank gunnery program at Fort Stewart.

Participating in the three - week program were 23 tank crews from the 7th Cavalry and two crews from each of the battle groups.

Unique

Unique in this program was the fact that 132 tankers switched from their familiar M-41 tanks to the M-48 medium tanks and fired the completed tank gunnery Tables I through VIII. The first three tables were sub-calibre firing, designed to acquaint the tankers with manipulation of turret controls in preparation for firing the main guns.

Table IV and V were the actual firing of the main gun—a 90 millimeter weapon. In this phase, each crew acts as the gunner.

The running tables are crew exercises. Each member of the crew fills his assigned position and carries out his specific duties. These exercises included the firing of all the tank weapons — the 30 calibre machine gun, 50 calibre machine gun and the main armament, the 90 millimeter gun. All were fired from both a stationary and a moving tank.

Alibi

In addition, the weapons were fired at the stationary and moving targets during the day and night. A searchlight tank was employed at night to accompany the firing tank throughout this particular course. Most gunnery programs have a provision for an "alibi" wherein should a weapon fail to fire during qualifications the gunner may re-fire the weapon.

Tank gunnery programs have no such provision.

The reason: the operation of the tank and its weapons are the responsibilities of the crew. If the weapon fails to fire, it is considered that the crew has failed to make its check and performed proper maintenance.

When this occurs, the crew loses points toward qualification.

The top crew of the cavalry was led by Master Sergeant Ronald W. Marcum, with a total of 1,845. The top crew of the battle groups was Specialist Four Edward V. Eilers of the 9th Infantry's Combat Support Company crew, which achieved 1,825 points.

New Gymnasium Now Open at KH

By 87th Inf PIO

The Kelley Hill gymnasium is open.

At an official opening ceremony Monday morning, Brigadier General John Kelly, deputy commanding general of The Infantry Center, cut the tape, while Brigadier General Royal Reynolds Jr., assistant division commander, and Colonel Robert E. Connor, Kelley Hill area coordinator, looked on.

The new gym is available for all members of the post. It will be open for business each day from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m.

The main feature is a regulation basketball court with glass backboards and a set of collapsible stands that seat 1,200 spectators. Sneakers are available for hire.

In addition, there are two four-walled handball courts and a large exercise room that is equipped with a boxing ring, wrestling mat and body-building equipment.

Completing the picture are locker rooms, a first aid room and a lounge. The building is 214 feet long and 94 feet wide. It was planned by the U.S. Army District Corps of Engineers, Savannah.

General Visits Div Elements

Second Division elements undergoing qualification at Fort Stewart were visited this week by Major General Charles H. Chase, division commander.

His visit Tuesday included observation of elements of the 69th Armor and assault weapons platoons from five division battle groups. He was escorted by Lieutenant Colonel Harry H. Hiestand, 69th commander, and officer-in-charge of division elements at Stewart.

Qualification

Training witnessed included qualification by assault weapons platoons of the 87th, 11th, 9th, 1st and 23rd infantries and night and day tank gunnery firing-for-record by the 69th.

While at the southeast Georgia installation, the general visited Colonel Arthur W. Tyson, chief of staff of Stewart's U. S. Army Armor and Artillery Firing Center, a West Point classmate.

The 2nd Division elements are scheduled to return via convoy to Fort Benning today.

17-GUN SALUTE FOR GENERAL POWELL
Battery A, 17th Artillery at Parade Honoring CONARC Commander

Gen. Powell Honored at Parade

A brief honors ceremony for General Herbert B. Powell, commanding general, United States Continental Army Command, Fort Monroe, Virginia, was held at the 2nd Infantry Division Parade Field last Thursday.

A six-gun battery greeted Gen. Powell and Major General Charles H. Chase, division commander, with a 17-gun salute as the ceremony got underway at 8:45 a.m.

Honor Guard

Captain Ronald R. Berkey, commanding officer of Company B, 87th Infantry, was the honor guard commander and accompanied Generals Powell and Chase on an inspection of the troops comprising the honor guard.

On occasion, Gen. Powell stopped during the inspection to chat with the men in ranks.

Personnel from the 87th Infantry made up the honor guard, which consisted of two platoons of one officer and 28 enlisted men each, the 2nd Infantry Division Band and the salute battery from Battery A, 17th Artillery under the command of Captain James T. Harris Jr.

The ceremony ended with the presentation of the National Army, Third Army and Division colors as the Division Band played the National Anthem.

Briefed

After the ceremony, Gen. Powell was briefed on the Division's training status at Division Headquarters and then departed by helicopter to inspect the 2nd Battle Group, 9th Infantry, which is conducting field training in the northern sector of the reservation.

Gen. Powell was then flown to Lawson Field where he departed for Fort Monroe at noon.

Norwegian Sees Trng. At 11th Inf.

Captain Sigmund Amundsen, of the Norwegian Army, recently went into the field with the 1st Battle Group, 11th Infantry to observe rifle platoon tactics.

The 11th Infantry is currently undergoing rigorous training in platoon tactics, and Captain Amundsen was afforded the opportunity to observe the different aspects and methods of field training.

During his three days in the field, the Norwegian officer observed both day and night tactical exercises in defense, attack, delay and retrograde movements.

Captain Amundsen recently completed the Associate Officers' Course at the United States Army Infantry Center.

PX, Library, Clubs Relocate for Space

By 87th Inf PIO

In order to accommodate new troops on Kelley Hill, the Post Exchanges, library and service clubs must find new homes.

One of the first of these units to accomplish this move is the library.

Moving into the old personnel section of the 87th Infantry, the library is already in operation, continuing to serve the 87th, 1st and the 11th Infantries.

Open Every Day

Miss Jo Zinceau, chief librarian, states that the library will be open every day of the year from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. In addition, there is a new stereo room with a collection of about 300 classical records.

The newly-redecorated library is well-stocked with reading matter which includes 85,000 volumes, 70 up to date magazines, 408 reference books, seven sets of foreign language records and a complete set of the Great Books series. The library is supplied monthly with all the latest books.

The other staff members, Sergeant Earl Carlson and Specialist Four William Day, are preparing a special feature which will make back - date books and magazines available to the troops for indefinite periods of time.

Traffic Quiz

Drive on Post Without State Driver's License?

True or False?

1. Personnel selling or otherwise disposing of their registered vehicles must have the stickers removed prior to the time of sale or disposal.

2. If you have no state driver's license you may operate your privately-owned vehicle on post, providing you have a government operator's license, since you are driving on a Federal Reservation and state laws do not apply.

3. All privately-owned motor vehicles operated on the Fort Benning reservation must be insured in the amount of $10,000 - $20,000 public liability and $5,000 property damage.

4. If your insurance policy is cancelled by the insured or insurer for any reason you should contact the Provost Marshal's Office within three days and advise them of the change.

Answers

1. True. Officers and enlisted personnel of grades E-9, E-8, E-7 and E-6 may certify that they have removed their decals personally, or caused them to be removed, or may present their vehicle at the Provost Marshal Inspection Lane where the decals will be removed. All other personnel must either present their vehicles at the Provost Marshal Inspection Lane for removal of decals or present a notarized statement to the effect that decals have been removed or destroyed. (Sec 5-a)

2. False. No person will be permitted to register or drive a privately-owned vehicle on the Fort Benning reservation without possession of a valid state driver's license. Owners of vehicles are responsible for insuring that other persons operating their vehicles are properly licensed and carry valid licenses on their person while operating the vehicle. (Sec 6)

3. True. Documentary proof of the name of the insurance company, policy number and expiration date must be furnished the Provost Marshal at the time of registration. The policy must be written for a term of at least six months from the date of issue to date of expiration. (Sec 7-b)

4. False. If policy is cancelled by the insurance or insurer for any reason, notice of such cancellation will be immediately given to the Provost Marshal Registration Branch by the said insured or his agent. (Sec 7-b)

To Play 3 Nights

Masquers' 'Tea and Sympathy' Opens at 8:30 Tomorrow Night

The Fort Benning Masquers' production of Robert Anderson's "Tea and Sympathy" is in final rehearsals for production tomorrow night and on Oct. 13 and 14.

The cast of this latest Masquers' production combines the talents of actors from Columbus, Fort Benning's Main Post and the 2nd Infantry Division.

Male Lead

The lead role of Tom Lee, the lonely boy caught in a net of persecution, is played by Peter Tsiklauri, a member of the 2nd Infantry Division and a graduate of Yale University.

Cast in the role of Tom's father is John Hofues from Columbus who has been active in theatrical work at Fort Benning and with The Columbus Little Theater. His work with the Little Theater has included appearances in "Solid Gold Cadillac" and "Wonderful Town." Columbus last saw him in the centennial pageant, "Gallant City."

Lily, the boisterous schoolmaster's wife, is played by guest actress Eleanor Brodie, who is the dramatics teacher at Baker High School in Columbus. She is currently preparing a production of "Rashomon" to be given by the Baker High School players this fall.

The Infantry School Brigade is represented by Vincent DeDario, who plays Bill Reynolds. He has appeared with the Colorado Julie Harris Theater, Pasadena Playhouse, Elkhart Indiana Barn Summer Stock and Steamboat Springs Theater in such productions as "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "El Camino Real," "The Shrike" and "Philadelphia Story."

Female Lead

The female lead in "Tea and Sympathy" is played by Margo Carter, whose husband is with the 2nd Infantry Division. Before joining the Masquers she worked with the Park Players, Arlington, Mass., The Belfrey Players, Lexington, Mass., and the Kennebunkport Players Kennebunkport, Maine.

Other members of the cast include Eliot Paul, Doug Moir, Don Baird, Jan Durbin, and James Dyer.

Opening night for "Tea and Sympathy" is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. October 7, with final productions on October 13 and 14 at the Masquers' Playhouse at Fort Benning.

The Imaginative Touch

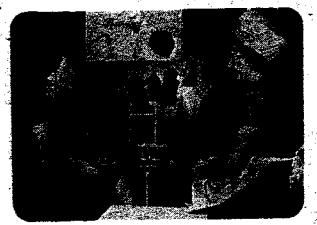
'Clean Sweep' is Theme Of Headquarters Coffee

The ladies of the G-3 Section, headed by Mrs. Ralph H. Hughett, were hostesses recently at the bi-monthly coffee for the ladies of 2nd Division Headquarters at the Supper Club.

Mrs. Edward B. Blackman and Mrs. Abraham F. Muscari poured at a table centered with an arrangement of cattails and feather dusters, carrying out a fall housecleaning theme.

A private room at the Supper Club was turned into a display of fall housecleaning items. There were feather dusters, toy brooms and sweepers, paint splatters and posters denoting time for "a clean sweep."

Name tags were pinned on paper paintbrushes. The hostesses were dressed for cleaning chores, wearing dust caps, aprons, and even smudges on their otherwise clean faces. This coffee — it was said — was typical of Mrs. Hughett's creative talent and the turn-out was the largest to date.



Feather dusters were won as doorprizes by Mesdames W. P. Kowalek, Hilary A. Smentek, J. C. Larson, Charles C. Clark, James R. Shelnut, M. C. Holden, and Royal Reynolds, Jr. A ceramic ashtray in the form of a painter-boy made by Mrs. Hughett was won by Mrs. James W. Phillips.

New arrivals were Mrs. Royal Reynolds Jr., Mrs. M. C. Holden, Mrs. W. T. Gordon, Mrs. Ishmael Pack, R. K. Jones, Mrs. T. W. Parker, Mrs. W. P. Kowalek, Mrs. J. W. Wheeler, Mrs. J. C. Larson, Mrs. E. Mrs. Louis A. Kunzig, Jr., was the guest of Mrs. Hughett.

Cook of the Week

A Touch of the Scotch

Joanne Burns, wife of Major John A. Burns, G-3 Section, Division Headquarters, has a recipe that will be good to use at the next coffee you give.

If the dough is made the night before, a minimum of preparation is involved the day of the coffee.

Joanne is a native of Altoona, Pennsylvania. She and her husband have two children, Christopher, 7, and Pamela, 4.

You might think that this family would keep her more than busy but she also manages to teach English and physical education at Richards Junior High School in Hilton Heights.

Her hobbies are dramatics and all kinds of sports.

Butterscotch Rolls

Step I.

Add ½ cup sugar and ¼ lb. butter to 2 cups scalded milk in a large bowl. Put aside. Dissolve 2 pkg. dry yeast in ¼ cup warm water. Mix well and add to mixture in large bowl. Sift 2 cups flour, add 2 teaspoons salt, and sift these together into above mixture. Beat 2 eggs and add to mixture. Gradually add 4 cups sifted flour to mixture until dough pulls away from sides of bowl. Sift thin layer of flour over mixture. Cover with dry towel and refrigerate 3 to 4 hours, or overnight.

Step II.

Roll out dough in long roll one-half at a time. Spread with ¼ lb. melted butter, cinnamon, and chopped nuts. Roll in long roll lengthwise. Cut in ¼" slices.

Step III.

Boil ¼ lb. butter with 2 cups light brown sugar for three minutes. Grease muffin tins. Place 1 teaspoon sauce in each compartment of tin and top with slice of dough. Let rise 2 hours minimum before baking. Bake at 400 degrees for fifteen minutes. Upon removing from oven, turn upside down on plate immediately and let sauce drizzle down sides. Makes 60.

Mrs. Steele Hosts 87th Sept. Party

The 87th Infantry Monthly Coffee was hosted by Mrs. Howard Steele this month.

She was assisted by the ladies of the 87th's S-3 section, Mrs. Dion Johnson, Mrs. Carl Warren and Mrs. Edward Lockwood.

Mrs. Robert Cothor, the battle group commander's wife, made announcements to the group and welcomed newcomers, both adult and infant. The battle group has two new "Conquerors," a girl born to Captain and Mrs. George McKenna and a son born to Captain and Mrs. Kenneth Sweeney.

A Gala Third Birthday

A gala Third Birthday Luncheon for the Ladies of the Big Indianhead is scheduled at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Non-Commissioned Officers Open Mess.

The event will celebrate the third anniversary of the organization of the Ladies of the Big Indianhead.

Mrs. Stanley L. Harding Given Welcoming Tea

Mrs. Stanley L. Harding, wife of Colonel Stanley L. Harding, Division Artillery commander, was welcomed recently by the ladies of Division Artillery at a tea at the Custer Terrace Officers Club.

A fall arrangement of Fuji mums, yellow glads, and yellow mums with red centers decorated the serving table. The arrangement was flanked by candles in silver holders.

Mrs. William C. Becker was general chairman for the event, assisted by Mrs. Ralph K. Jones, Mrs. Terence Huck, Mrs. Francis P. Sheridan, Mrs. John B. Finnegan and Mrs. Joseph J. Sokolowski.

Mrs. William A. Lowe introduced the ladies to Mrs. Harding, who was presented with a corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Gustav M. Bacharach was a special guest.

Div. Artillery Units Mass Fires For the First Time Since 1958

By Div Arty PIO

During the field training exercise being conducted by the 2nd Division Artillery last week the phrase "TOT" (time on target) or "massed fires" was heard over the command net of the radios in units of the Division for the first time since returning from Germany during March 1958.

While observing the firing of one of the Division Artillery units at Concord Observation Post, Lieutenant Colonel Terrence W. Huck, S-3 of Division Artillery, asked Colonel S. L. Harding, Artillery Commander, to command TOT in 15 minutes. The command then went over the air waves by the fire direction center to all units under the Division Artillery.

Massing

At this point the machinery of all elements of the Division Artillery began to be put in motion to mass the fires of the Artillery. Fire direction personnel computed the data, gun crews readied their pieces, safety officers checked each gun and then the count down of each second just prior to firing.

The significant aspect of this first massed firing of the Division Artillery in the relative short time that units have been in training for the purpose of becoming a combat ready unit to meet any crisis that may occur.

On August 25 the word was received that trainees currently assigned would become cadre personnel to meet the needs for another combat ready Division as required by the Department of the Army. Some of the enlisted men who fired the TOT were in their fourth week of basic combat training at this time, others had completed only eight weeks of basic training and few had completed sixteen weeks to include advanced individual training with Infantry units.

The result of this massed firing is an indication of the progress made within the 2nd Infantry Division Artillery since being designated a full strength table of organization and equipment unit.

It is planned to give the order for additional "time on target" during subsequent field training exercises with emphasis being placed on accuracy and speed.

'Commanders' Coffee' Held Friday

By Div PIO

The monthly 'Commanders' Coffee was held last Friday by Service Club Two at the club with representatives of 2nd Division units stationed at Sand Hill on hand for a resume briefing on the club program and special events.

Miss Madeline J. Parks, club director, and Mrs. Eleanor Sebota, program director, conducted the briefing and coffee, assisted by Mrs. Robert F. Galer, librarian for the Sand Hill Library.

Attending the coffee were Colonel Clifford P. Hannum, 9th Infantry commander; Lieutenant Colonel Woodrow H. Myers, 702nd Ordnance commander; Lieutenant Colonel Edwin T. O'Donnell, 2nd Engineer commander; Lieutenant Colonel Harvey Scott, 7th Cavalry commander;

Lieutenant Colonel James D. Clark, 27th Artillery commander; Major Charles F. Nietman, 122nd Signal executive officer; Major Darwin C. Miller, division information officer; Chaplains (Majors) Alfred Lam and Clement P. J. Krug; Captain Thomas W. Valentoen, 12th Artillery; Captain Milton Lewis, division special services officer; Captain A. C. Mitchell, former division information officer; Sergeant Major Robert L. Brown, division sergeant major, and Sergeant Major Lory Bell, sergeant major of the 23rd Infantry.

'I'm Proud of Division's Progress'--Gen. Adams

Lieutenant General Paul D. Adams, commanding general of the Third United States Army, was honored Friday morning at the Division Headquarters parade field by the 2nd Infantry Division with an honors ceremony. Comprising the troops for the brief ceremony was Company B of the Division's 87th Infantry.

A 15-gun salute roared across the field to welcome General Adams as he arrived at the field, accompanied by the 2nd's Commanding General, Major General Charles H. Chase. The salute was rendered by Battery A of the 17th Artillery.

Immaculate

The two generals trooped the line of troops, which stood immaculate in khaki uniforms and armed with rifles. General Adams spoke briefly to the group and commented on their "fine appearance."

General Adams also said he was "particularly proud of the progress made by the 2nd Division in the past few weeks" and added that "no one is happier than I to see this fine old 2nd Division returning to a combat configuration."

Providing the martial music for the ceremony was the 2nd Infantry Division Band under the direction of Chief Warrant Officer Mariano Morales.

General Adams was promoted to full general, four-star rank Wednesday of this week.

Lost Records

Despite the fact that Navy halfback Joe Bellino scored 198 points during three years of football, no one knows if this is a Navy record or not. During World War II, the Middle grid records were thrown out by a housekeeping official.

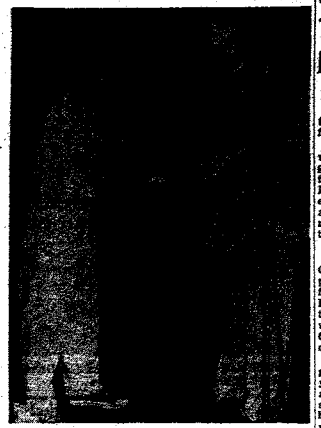
Pvt. Paul Suding Rolls 648 Series In 87th League

By 87th Inf PIO

Private Paul F. Suding, the company clerk from Company E, bowled his team into first place last Friday night in the 87th Infantry Bowling League.



Private Suding, who holds a league average of 145, put on a spectacular bowling performance by rolling games of 279, 170 and 199 for a 648 series.

Added Handicap

With an added handicap, his high game went on the records as a 296 and his high series zoomed to 699 for a phenomenal average of 233. Because of this sudden assault on the pins, Private Suding raised his average to 170, only one point behind Charlie Company's Sergeant McCammon.

Looking at the rest of the league, Company A moved into second place defeating Company C, the team that has been setting the pace for the past few weeks. Headquarters Company also moved up the ladder, now in a tie for third place with Company C.

Two Division Men Win USAIC Boxing Titles

Two 2nd Infantry Division men won post titles in the U.S. Army Infantry Center's 1961 boxing championships concluded last week at Fort Benning's Gowdy Field while four others lost decisions.

The third kayo of the championships occurred in the light welterweight bout when Specialist Five Fred Rutherford of Division Trains sent 29th Infantry's Private First Class Amos Walters to the canvas in two minutes, 20 seconds of the first round.

Decisioned

The light heavyweight crown was taken by Private First Class Amos Crumbly of Trains as he decisioned the 10th Artillery's PFC John Burroughs.

PFC James Harris of the 15st Engineers captured the lightweight crown by decisioning PFC Robert Richter of Trains.

The welterweight title was won by Sergeant Howard Fields of the 10th Artillery as he decisioned Sgt. Booker T. Anderson of Trains.

PFC Robert Simmons of the 29th Infantry, a member of last year's USAIC team, won a decision over Specialist Four Melvin Lonas of Division Trains in a middleweight battle.

The heavyweight bout was won by PFC Leon Clark of the 10th Artillery by a decision over Sgt. Gene Garlington of Division Trains.

Co. C Wins 1st Infantry Flag Title

By 1st Inf PIO

Company C of the 1st Infantry is the new battle group flag football champion.

For the second consecutive week, Company C won their game in the extra period after the game ended in a deadlock. Last week, Company C defeated Company D by intercepting a pass in the extra period and returned it for the winning touchdown.

0-0 Score

Saturday, Company C battled Company A to a 0-0 score. The pigskin was placed on the midfield line. According to the 2nd Division rules, each team was to have four plays, with the winner being the team with the largest gain from the line of scrimmage.

Company A had the first opportunity and ran for five yards. Company C took charge and ran for six yards. Not satisfied by evidently winning by yardage, Company C's Private Clarence Stewart threw a pass to his end, Private J. Q. Jenkins as he ran untouched to triumph.

Championship Matches Decide 61's Top Boxers To Represent Benning

Whoa!

And that's just about how long it took Leon Hall to KO Patrick Carrow during the finals of the Infantry Center boxing Championships last Thursday.

The knockout came in 11 seconds of the first round with a looping left hook to the head.

The two hardly had time to square off before the blow landed.

Hall, winner of the post's light middleweight title for the seventh consecutive year, was all-Army champion in 1959.

The 29th Infantry's Richard Woodley, 1959 Third Army featherweight champ, floored Earl McKnight of the 151st Engineers for the 10-count. The knockout was scored in 1 minute, 17 seconds of the first round.

The third kayo of the championships was in the light welterweight bout when Fred Rutherford of the 2nd Infantry Division Trains sent 29th Infantry's Amos Walters to the canvas in 2 minutes, 20 seconds of the first round.

James Harris of the 151st Engineers captured the lightweight crown by decisioning Robert Richter of Division Trains.

The welterweight title was won by Howard Fields of the 10th Artillery as he decisioned Booker T. Anderson of Division Trains.

Fields is the 1960 Fourth Army welterweight champion.

Robert Simmons of the 29th Infantry, a member of last year's USAIC team, won a decision over Melvin Lonas of Division Trains in a middleweight battle.

The light heavyweight crown was taken by Amos Crumbly of Division Trains as he decisioned the 10th Artillery's John Burroughs.

The heavyweight bout, which was fought the preceding night, was won by Leon Clark of the 10th Artillery by a decision over Gene Garlington of Division Trains.

Two fighters were declared winners because they were the only ones in their weight class. They were Derzo Pelofi in the 112-pound class and Douglass Johnson in the 119-pound bracket.

Doughboys in First Home Game Tomorrow; Dropped Last Game to Marines By 33-2

By Pfc Del Bergboefer

The post Doughboys will play their first home game of the season tomorrow night when they meet the Fort Eustis eleven at Doughboy Stadium. Kick-off time will be 8 p.m.

The Infantry Center Band will present a half-hour pre-game concert. Half-time entertainment will feature two Youth Activities Club Biddy League football teams.

The team dropped their first two starts of the season while playing on the road against two Marine teams, Camp Lejeune, N.C. and Quantico, Va.

The Doughboy first and second teams have been running heavy scrimmages this week with the second unit running patterns against the first defensive team.

Leaton Cofield, head coach, is concentrating on pass defense and is experimenting with different combinations of defensive backgrounds in an effort to find the best unit. Offensively the backfield also poses a problem.

"I still don't know who our starting backs will be," said Cofield. "One of our fullbacks, Clifford Eddy, will probably miss the game due to a neck injury suffered at Quantico."

The hefty forward wall, one of the Doughboys bright spots in the opening games, has been bolstered with the addition of Dave Lynn. He played guard at Clemson University and was named to the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team last year.

Barring last minute changes, the starting line will be the same as in last week's game at Quantico.

It includes:

Left End—Cliff Manning, 6 feet 3 inches, 217 pounds. Earned all-state honors in high school, went on to play at Hardin-Simmons University where he was named a member of the All - Border Conference team. He has 11 years experience.

Left Tackle—Donald Cooksey, 5 feet 10 inches, 230 pounds. He has three years experience playing Army football, and was a member of last year's team.

Left Guard — Linford Pitts, 6 feet 2 inches, 220 pounds. Played college ball at Oklahoma State University. He has played football for nine years.

Center — George D. Burt, 6 feet, 220 pounds. He played college ball at Northwestern State College in Louisiana and has nine years experience.

Right Guard — Frank Farella, 5 feet 11 inches, 230 pounds. Named to Little All-America team in 1957 and earned honorable mention in last year's All-Army team when he played for the Doughboys. He has seven years experience including one as semi-pro.

Right Tackle — Alvin Aucoin, 6 feet 2 inches, 230 pounds. Another of last year's Doughboys, he played college ball at Louisiana State University. He has played football for 12 years.

Right End—Henry Derleth, 6 feet 3 inches, 210 pounds. Played at the University of Wisconsin and has eight years experience.

Other linemen expected to see plenty of action in Saturday's game are Cleston Savoie and Dave Lynn, guards, and Jim Crabbe and Jim Daniels, ends.

Possible quarterback starters are Kenneth Ivers, Clifton Farrier and Alvin Davis. Ivers has six years experience and played for Boston University. Farrier has five years experience and was named to the all-state team in high school. Davis has eight years football experience, including two years of Army ball.

Halfbacks who will see action Saturday are Bruce Woods, high school all-stater who played for Colorado University, Cleveland Brown, Jr., a member of the Doughboys last year, Emmett Eddy who played college ball at Northwestern State College in Louisiana and Northern Brown who has played Army ball for three years.

Fullback chores will be handled by Gerald Wilson, Eugene Holland and Wayne Pavel.

The team suffered its second setback of the season last Saturday (Sept. 30) at the hands of the Quantico Marines, 33-2, in a game played at the Marine base.

They scored their lone two points on a safety when a pass from the Quantico center sailed over the quarterback's head into the Fort Benning end zone.

"Our pass defense was poor," stated Coach Cofield, "We had our hands on seven of their passes but couldn't hang on to them for interpretations."

The backfield situation, one of the team's weak points, was further dimmed by the injury of starting fullback, Clifford R. Eddy.

He sustained a neck injury during the game and was taken to a Quantico hospital by ambulance. He will be out of action about 10 days to two weeks, according to team officials.

Cofield emphasized the need for more good backs, saying "if the team can pick up some good halfbacks, we will have a good club."

He urged anyone with backfield experience to try out for the team.

"Our interior linemen are playing good ball," the Doughboy coach added. With the exception of Eddy, who was injured, he thinks the team will be in good shape for the Fort Eustis game.

Redlegs On Top In Bowling

Plenty of action was on tap last week in 1st Infantry Brigade's Officers' Bowling League.

The Red Legs won four of four games from the Brigadeers. The Cannoneers split 2 and 2 with the Slow Rollers and the Two-Niners edged the Untouchables by winning three out of four games.

High series and high games was topped by John Lamp of the Red Legs league with a 559 and 212. Others in the high series were Allen Junko of the Two-Niners, 487; Richard Spelman, Red Legs, 478; Edward Armstrong, Brigadeers, 471; James Creig, Brigadeers, 465; Darell W. Truitt, Slow Rollers, 471.

High games were Lamp, 212, 181; Spelman, 196; Armstrong, 184; Junko, 183, 181, and Truitt with 175.

League Standings:

Red Legs	11	781
Untouchables	8	687
Cannoneers	8	679
Brigadeers	8	723
Two-Niners	8	676
Slow Rollers	4	676

He gives his thoughts on a sports situation, what are yours?)

BY LT. JOSEPH TOMKO

As the school day ends, the donning of football helmets and pads by the young boys of the post is a common sight.

Daily about five hundred boys practice in one of the Youth Activities Club's three leagues designated by age groups; the biddy, daughboy and the intermediate league.

As the coach of one of these teams I inquired about the equipment and physical conditions of these boys. I found that YAC provides the finest equipment available and also a well organized program.

Under the directional guidance of Col. Samuel Kester, YAC provides a continuous year around program for all age groups on post.

Chairman of the football committee, Col. Herbert Strange, with the help of Major Joseph Farrell and SMaj Norman Mekkelsen, administers, coordinates and regulates the rules governing football competition on post.

In an interview Sgt. Mekkelsen said the main problem facing this year's competition is the lack of coaches.

There is little renumeration for these coaches except the knowledge that they are helping to develop youngsters both physically and mentally.

We have the facilities but what we need are qualified men to help these youngsters.

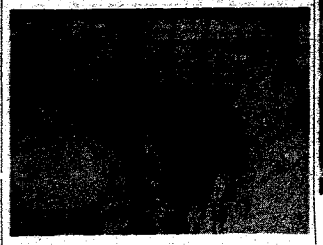
As a coach you would find the equipment exceptional. Mr. John Szymanski, civilian administrator of supply for YAC, said; "Through the efforts of the Community Activities Association, funds are provided to purchase top flight protective equipment. Helmets, pads, and uniforms are the best available."

This holds true whatever sport is being played.

Commenting on the physical condition of the boys, Mr. Mac Spurlin, YAC athletic director stated, "I find that most of the boys are in the best of physical condition. This is a tribute not only to their parents, but to the school system which provides adequate physical exercise."

These potential gridiron giants of the future who converge daily upon the football fields are well organized by YAC.

The ability of these boys will not only amaze you but will provide constant thrills in their proficiency.



A coach derives pleasure by helping to develop these youngsters in agility, coordination and conditioning.

Any qualified individual anxious to work with these youngsters, as I said before, will find equipment, area to work with, and the YAC organization willing and able to provide him with the best of facilities.

If you feel qualified, see YAC.

THAT'S A LOT

More Accidents On Off Duty

If you think you're safe during off-duty time. . just consider these figures: of each 100 people who suffer fatal injuries in the United States, 37 are killed by motor vehicles; 30 die through accidents in the home; 15 lose their lives while away from home; but only 15 are killed on the job.

SPORTS SHORTS

By Spt Harold Klicking

It was a calm day, the Bayonet had just gone to press and the editor looked very pleased with things in general.

"Hit him up now," advised a fellow staff writer. "He ate in a restaurant today and that always puts him in a good mood."

Yes, this was the ideal opportunity

"Say, Chief," I said, looking as intelligent as possible, "got a minute?"

"Sure," he answered a bit hesitantly. "What can I help you with?"

"Third Army," I said, bringing him a cold soft drink, "is having a boxing tournament soon and I think they'll probably need some sports coverage."

"Great," he said, still smiling, "I suppose you want to go?"

"As a matter of fact, you're absolutely right," I said, finishing the shine on his left shoe and starting on the right one. "Can I go?"

"When is it?"

"Well, I'd like to go on a Thursday."

"Oh," said the Chief, "That's right at press time."

"Well," I said again, "I think you could get along without me for one week, couldn't you?"

"No one," said the Chief, "leaves at press time."

"Gosh, Chief, I'll even pay my own expenses up there," I pleaded.

"No one leaves at press time," he said, still smiling. "All other Third Army newspapers will be there," I argued.

"No one leaves at press time," he said, glancing at his feet. "Work on that left shoe a little more, will you? It's not as bright as the other."

"Do you mean I can't go," I said, starting to cry.

"No one leaves. . ."he started, then smiled brightly. "Yes, that's what I'm telling you."

The tears started getting bigger and bigger.

"There, there, now," he consoled me. "Tell you what I'm going to do."

"What?"

"I'm going to let you be Sports Editor this week. How's that?"

"I'm no sports editor," I said. "I don't even know when Bob Cousy made his first touchdown at Yankee Stadium. Can I have some time to research this thing, Chief?"

"Just as long as you make each deadline," he smiled broadly, calling the restaurant to tell them to save him some good morning grits.

"Okay," said I, hating the day I joined the staff, "you're the boss."

So the readers won't misunderstand, it should be stated that the boss is a heck of a nice guy. It's just that I like to give him a bad time.

Youth Activities Bowling Season Ends; Some Win Trophies, Others Crying Towels

Fort Benning's young Bowlers are now getting scores comparable with adult leagues and are probably better than the grown ups when it comes to having a party.

About 100 happy bowlers gathered at Brat Barracks recently to receive awards and celebrate the close of the summer season.

Refreshments were served, trophies presented to the champions, bowler's crying towels given to the losers, and dancing and games made an exciting evening for the enthusiastic young bowlers.

Center of attraction was a cake donated to the party by 1st Battalion USAIC TC mess personnel. Decorated on top by 6 bowling lanes, complete in every detail, to include 10 pins on each alley, gutters, approaches, and a bowler making a delivery on each lane.

The cake was also labeled FORT BENNING SUMMER JUNIOR BOWLING LEAGUES, 1961. A local soft drink Company contributed the sodas to complete the refreshments.

Happiest of the crowd were the recipients of 45 bowling trophies presented by YAC, many team and individual shoulder patch awards, and achievement certificates from The American Junior Bowling Congress. Following is a list of the winners:

All bowlers seemed well pleased with the past summer season and are anxious to start the winter season, which begins Saturday, October 7.

Many additional bowlers have registered for this season, and registrations are still being taken at the Main Post Bowling Center.

New bowlers are welcome, and instructions will be given to the beginners.

Unit Conducts Rifle Clinic

CONUS Schools Visitors Tour The Infantry School This Week

Fourteen officers, including two generals, from six Allied nations are visiting the Infantry School this week as participants in the CONUS (Continental U. S.) Schools '62 tour.

The visitors are Lt. Col. Henri Charles Giese, executive officer for the inspector of Infantry; Paris, France; Col. Sourdarto, chief of Army engineers, and Lt. Col. Sudarmono, G-1 (personnel officer), both of the Indonesian Army; Col. Kane Insixiengmany, chief of staff of surface defense and commander of auto-defense, and Major Latanabanlang Choumlamountri, secretary of the General Staff and G - 3 (plans and operations officer), National Army, both of Laos.

Brigadier Mohammad Rafi Khan, commandant of the Pakistani Military Academy, and Lt. Col. Hamid Ullah Kahan of the Staff Duties Directorate, Headquarters, both of Pakistan, and Col. Filemon C. Reodica, commandant of cadets, Philippine Military Academy.

Brig. Gen. Enrique de Inclan Bolado, deputy chief for Army instruction and training, Central General Staff. Col. Francisco Casalsbero Martin, instructor, Coast Artillery Section, Artillery School of Application, Lt. Col. Sergio Gomez Alba, chief of the Administrative Section, General Staff School, Lt. Col. Teofilo Alvarez Laja, instructions Department and airborne instructor, Infantry School of Application, Major Salvador Bardavio Mora, instructor, Cavalry School of Application, and Major Gaspar Abraham Segui, instructor, Engineer Academy, all of Spain.

Accompanying the group as U. S. Department of the Army tour directors are Major William Nelson III, Capt. Thaddeo Moreau and 1st Lt. Hector R. Ponton.

The Allied party arrived at Muscogee Airport Wednesday. They were welcomed by Major Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander, Thursday.

The visitors will view demonstrations of the M-60 machine gun, M-14 rifle and 106-mm recoilless rifle on Hook Range, river crossing techniques at Eisler Hall, communications in the Infantry battle group at The Infantry School's Communications Department and instruction on Eubanks Field.

They also will tour the First Infantry Brigade and will be briefed on Infantry School resident and non-resident instruction, Infantry organization and tactics, training aids and utilization of the military reservation in support of training.

Gen. Harrell hosted an official luncheon for the Allied officers Thursday in the Sapper Club Annex of the Main Officers' Open Mess. They will be honored at an official dinner hosted by Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles, Jr., assistant commandant of The Infantry School, tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Main Officers' Open Mess.

This afternoon the group will visit Ida Cason Callaway Gardens at Pine Mountain and the Little White House, vacation home of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, at Warm Springs.

Post Personnel Observe Day of Prayer

Post personnel observed Wednesday as National Day of Prayer as proclaimed by President John F. Kennedy.

All chapels on the post were opened for private prayer throughout the day.

Military and civilian personnel and their dependents were invited to visit the chapels between 12 noon and 1 p.m. by Chaplain (Col.) Silas E. Decker, Infantry Center chaplain.

The President in his proclamation urged all people, all according to his custom and faith, to join in prayer "for our nation and for all peoples everywhere and most especially for divine guidance in our efforts to lead our children in the ways of truth, that they may have the best opportunities we can provide as an environment in which to grow in body, mind and spirit, and to the end that they may be at their best in their day as the responsible trustees of the great heritage which has come to use from those who went before us."

Continuing the proclamation, the President called upon the people to pray "for a spirit of wisdom and understanding. . . for willing hands and a spirit of dedication, that, in awareness that this nation has achieved its great service to mankind through the toil and sacrifices and subordination of personal desires to common welfare, we may move forward in the unconquerable spirit of a free people, making whatever sacrifices that need be made to neutralize the evil designs of evil men, and to work for goals of human betterment that lie beyond our span of years."

The President's call to pray-er asked the people to pray "for peace in our time, with freedom, justice and dignity for all mankind."

At the Movies

THE PLEASURE OF HIS COMPANY is a comedy featuring Debbie Reynolds, Fred Astaire, Tab Hunter and Lilli Palmer. A globetrotting playboy touches home base for the first time in fifteen years as he arrives to attend his daughter's wedding. The playboy is so charming and worldly-wise that he puts his daughter's business-minded fiance in a bad light and the result is a sharp-witted tug-of-war for the young girl's affection.

THE PIRATES OF TORTUGA is a swashbuckling adventure and features Ken Scott and Leticia Roman. A daring privateer is commissioned by Charles of England to capture the notorious pirate, Henry Morgan. Stowed away aboard his vessel is a fiery gypsy who goes from rags to riches and back again, stealing the hearts of men as well as their purses.

Books in Review

ANGELIQUE IN BARBARY by Sergeanne Golon. (Lippincott, 1961)

What woman would give up a position of great power to the brilliant court of Versailles to risk her life in the ruthless world of the Mediterranean? Only such a woman as Angelique, once a queen of the Paris underworld and later a favorite of Louis XIV.

THE CUP, THE BLADE OR THE GUN by Mignon Eberhart. (Random, 1961)

A novel of romance and murder on a beleaguered plantation in Civil War times. Sarah, a Northern belle, impulsively married Lucien Hugot, a Confederate officer, and was torn from him at once by war's demands.

THE BEST SHALL DIE by Eric Roman. (Prentice Hall, 1961)

The monstrous tanks of the Red Army thundered into Parliament Square, the heart of Budapest, and grimly opened fire. Hundreds of nameless Hungarian youths armed only with rifles, homemade gasoline bombs, bricks and stones, fought back. It was the story of David and Goliath retold. But the odds were too great. The spark of freedom that was crushed with death of these people still haunts those responsible.

MRS. MEEKER'S MONEY by Doris Miles Disney. (Tribune, 1961)

Mrs. Meeker was not a Mrs. Meeker but she Mrs. Meeker, seventy-nine and worth about $30,000,000. She'd managed to hold onto most of it, too, until she hired a private detective to trace the grandson of a former lover. Several months and some $50,000 later, she realized she was being swindled and called on Postal Inspector David Madden for help.

THE FROG POND by Joyce MacIver. (Brazziller, 1961)

The intimate and astonishingly frank autobiography of a young woman in search of her identity—her strange and dangerous compulsion, the psychoanalysts she went to for help, the women she knew and the men in their lives.

Army Civil Affairs Chief Makes Two Day Post Visit

Major Gen. J. E. Theimer, chief of civil affairs, Department of the Army, arrived on post Monday for a two-day visit.

He was accompanied by Col. Frederic W. Oseth, chief of the Plans and Doctrine Division, Office of the Chief of Civil Affairs.

Col. Oseth is the brother of Mrs. John E. Kelly, wife of Brig. Gen. Kelly, deputy post commander.

The visitors conferred with Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles, Jr., assistant commandant of The Infantry School, and were briefed on civil affairs instruction at The Infantry School. They also were oriented on the mission, organization, scheduling of classes, and instructional facilities at The School.

Their itinerary included an office call on Major Gen. Charles H. Chase, commanding general of the 2nd Infantry Division.

Gen. Theimer and Col. Oseth departed Lawson Field Wednesday.

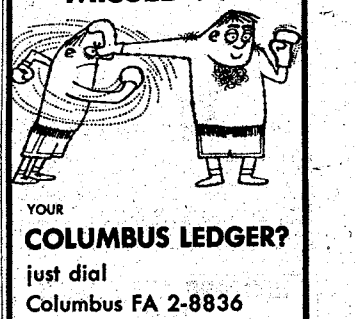
Christmas Mail Deadline Nov. 20

WASHINGTON (ANS) — The Secretary of Defense and the Postmaster General have announced that Christmas parcels for members of the Army overseas (regular mail) should be mailed before November 20. Air mail parcels should be mailed prior to December 10.

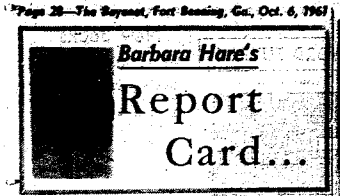
Christmas delivery of packages mailed after these dates cannot be guaranteed.

Articles to be mailed should be tightly packed in double-faced corrugated cardboard, wood, metal or fiberboard boxes securely wrapped in heavy wrapping paper, and well tied.

Both mailing and return address should be clearly and correctly printed.



In addition, it is advisable to print an extra set of addresses on a small card and put it inside the parcel.



Packages addressed to an APO or FPO must not weigh more than 50 pounds each if going to England or Scotland, or more than 70 pounds to other points.

Barbara Hare's Report Card...

"Judge a man by what he does-not by what he says he can do."

When I asked the subject of today's REPORT CARD what his philosophy of life was, that was his reply.

Herb Roberts, son of MSgt. and Mrs. Herbert Roberts, steps into the spotlight as student personality of the week.

Although Herb was born in Charleston, W. Va., in 1944, "home" to the Roberts family is Sunbright, Tenn.

Herb has been very lucky on being able to attend the same high school for all four years. Now a senior at Baker, he has participated in many curricular and extra-curricular activities.

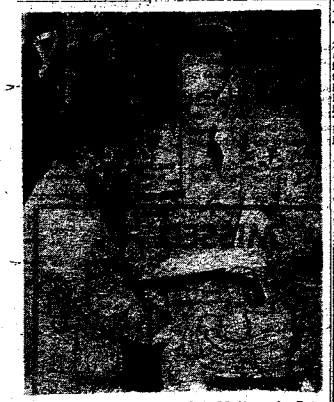
He is an outstanding member of the Junior Civitan Club and has held the position of secretary and treasurer. Last year he was captain of the Baker ROTC rifle team. This year Herb is a captain in the battle group. He was inducted into the National Honor Society in his junior year.

Herb also holds one of the most important positions in the student body. Student Council president.

The Student Council is the voice of the students and works very closely with the faculty of the school. He has demonstrated that he is capable of this high leadership responsibility.

Herb has received many honors and awards.

First he is one of our National Merit Scholarship Semi-finalists from Baker. This summer he went to Emory University in Atlanta on a scholarship to study mathematics and found it rewarding and enjoyable.



He was selected as the superior junior ROTC cadet and is a distinguished rifleman.

In addition to the above, Herb has been an honor student for the past two years.

With all his activities, Herb finds time for hobbies. He enjoys judo and shooting. In judo he is a San-Kyu and is a member of the post Judo Club.

Herb has a definite ambition in life. He hopes to enter West Point and become a career officer in the Army.

He has one sister, Barbara Ann, who is a sophmore at Baker. The Roberts live on Vogel Avenue. Herb's father is with the Advanced Marksmanship Unit.

FOLLOW ME PIN . . . Col. M. Antonio Soto (L), commandant of the Military Zone, Guatemala, is presented an Honorary Doughboy Certificate and "Follow Me" pin by Col. Richard Keyes, deputy assistant commandant of The Infantry School. Col. Soto headed a delegation of nine officers from Guatemala who toured School facilities and observed training demonstrations last week.

TV Star Takes A New Role

FT. DIX, N.J. (AFPS)—The man with the close-cropped hair being put through the paces of rifle drill by the Army lieutenant looked a bit overage to be taking basic training. He also looked tough as nails—and should the durable private eye Mike Hammer look anything else?

Actor Darren McGavin is, in fact, 38, and he was brushing up on the manual of arms all for his art. Under the practiced eye of 1st Lt. Wade T. Nixdorf he was rehearsing for his role of a Regular Army officer in a new comedy, "Blood, Sweat and Stanley Poole" which is slated for a Broadway opening this month.

McGavin, who makes the Mickey Spillane character one of TV's more convincing gumshoes, paid credit to Lt. Nixdorf's drill technique.

"He's okay about it. He's not too chicken, but this is very important. I have to drill Peter-perfect at 345-2833 may be contacted for additional information.

Cantor Says

"Not until the time arrives when we have respect for the most important of all motorcycle cops, our own conscience, can we hope for relief from the thousands of tragedies that happen annually through reckless driving." — Eddie Cantor

Army Will Increase APC Fleet

Armored Personnel Carriers available to Infantry and Armor units will be substantially increased in the near future, according to a report from the Office of Public Affairs, Department of Defense.

Competitive negotiations to obtain a quantity of the "M-113's" have already been initiated by the Army through requests for submission of proposals by all interested qualified producers.

The competitive procurement will result in two awards for production at two dispersed locations.

Two Reserve Companies Arrive Here

Two more Reserve units arrived on post Monday afternoon in answer to the call-up to active duty.

The 674th Transportation Company from Orlando, Fla., came in after a 385-mile trip by a nine-truck convoy.

Also arriving was the 322nd Ordnance Company from Dover, N. J.

Commanded by Capt. Edward McLeon, the 674th was billeted in the Harmony Church area and is assigned to the 39th Transportation Battalion.

Lt. Col. Louis Maricle, battalion commander, greeted them saying the battalion was happy to have them and that they were serving at one of the finest Army posts.

Major Gen. Ben Harrell, post commander, visited the area that afternoon and welcomed the unit to the fort.

The 674th was activated in March, 1955, as the 768th Service Battery of a field artillery battalion. It was redesignated the 674th Transportation Company in 1958.

Most of the present personnel are original members of the unit.

Commanded by 1st Lt. Claude Dickerson, the 322nd Ordnance Company was also welcomed by Major Gen. Ben Harrell. They are assigned to the 7th Ordnance Battalion.

Units arriving last week were the 128th Transportation Company (Light Truck), Florida National Guard and the 128th Medical Company, Alabama National Guard.

The 128th was attached to the Infantry Center Troop Command while the 128th joined the 428th Medical Battalion.

CAA Drive Exceeds $53,170

The post 1961 Community Activities Association Fund Drive is still short of the halfway mark with less than a month remaining to reach the $115,000 goal.

A total of $53,170.39 has been turned in to date by the drive team captains, according to CAA officials.

The captains, from each command, all staff sections of The Infantry Center and all departments of The Infantry School, will have until November 9 to complete canvassing of their personnel.

The CAA Fund supports all post welfare activities, including the Youth Activities Club, Visiting Nurses' Program, Preventive Dental Health and the Infantry Center Chaplain's Program.

It also makes a contribution to the Muscogee and Russell counties United Giver's Fund Drive. The UG fund supports 34 local and national health, welfare and character building agencies including the YMCA and USO clubs in Columbus, which provide recreation and entertainment for servicemen.

Staff sections and units which have reached or exceeded their goals are The Infantry Center's G-2 division and Inspector General section, The Infantry School's Combat Developments Office, the 428th American Red Cross section.

At Infantry Center

SMaj Welborne Callahan New TIC Sergeant Major

Sergeant Major Welborne A. Callahan has succeeded SMaj Warren A. Faulk as Infantry Center sergeant major.

Sgt. Callahan enlisted in the Army in 1934 at Fort Benning and in the intervening 27 years has risen from private to ranking E-9 on the post.

He remained at Fort Benning his first 10 years of service principally in the Quartermaster Detachment, Second Student Training Regiment.

From July, 1944, to September, 1945, he served with the 24th Division in the Pacific.

Returning to Fort Benning he was assigned to the 37th Infantry. From August, 1948, to March, 1952, he was with the Infantry School Detachment (now battalion).

Following a three-year tour at Saumur Signal Depot in France, Sgt. Callahan again came to Fort Benning.

He was sergeant major of The Student Brigade before assuming his present duties.

Sergeant Faulk left Tuesday for an assignment in the Inspector General Section of Seventh Army, Stuttgart, Germany.

At Fort Bragg

TIS Teams Have Top Billing During President's Orientation

Elements of The Infantry School have star billing in demonstrations planned at Fort Bragg during the visit of President Kennedy and a party of high ranking government and Defense Department officials who arrived yesterday.

It was officially announced last Thursday that Kennedy would visit Fort Bragg following his talk to a convocation at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

A Ranger demonstration team that has performed before some of the world's most famous personalities, including former President Eisenhower is at the McKellar's Lodge site at Fort Bragg and has set up equipment for their demonstration.

The Ranger contingent is headed by Col. Bernard Teeters, Director of The Infantry School's Ranger Department.

The Ranger portion is the last scheduled demonstration President Kennedy is slated to observe. It will consist primarily of the suspension traverse slide, repelling, and hand-to-hand combat teams in operation.

Personnel from the Weapons Department and the Infantry Board will lead off one of the longest demonstrations of the day—a weapons and artillery show that will put on display some of the Army's most modern weapons.

Capt. Raymond Spinks, a member of The Infantry School's Machine Gun Committee is the narrator for The School's portion of the demonstration.

It will include an expert pistol firing demonstration by Sfc Charles Elledge who splits a .45 caliber slug on an axe blade at eight paces and cracks two clay pigeons with a single shot.

According to Sgt. Elledge, he hasn't missed "more than two or three times" in over 150 such firing demonstrations.

One of the highlights of the small weapons demonstration is the feat performed by Sfc Leon Breeland, who fires 40 rounds from the new M-14 rifle in less than 50 seconds into an area not much larger than a quarter.

About 45 Weapons Department and Infantry Board personnel are involved in this portion of the weapons demonstration. The group is headed by Col. Raymond B. Marlin, Weapons Department director.

President Kennedy is having a full schedule during his brief inspection of Fort Bragg and the XVIII Airborne Corps headquarters.

Events slated during his visit include a parachute assault by an airborne rifle company, a parachute drop of selected heavy equipment, a weapons and firing demonstration and a drive-by of selected amphibious and land vehicles.

Also, there will be demonstrations of special warfare techniques and Ranger training, an airborne division equipment display and a training exercise by a unit from a STRAC Immediate Ready Element.

Weapons Department Featured

"Weapons of the Infantry" is the first portion of a 58-minute firing demonstration scheduled at Fort Bragg when President Kennedy, Secretary Stahr, and other high government and Department of Defense officials arrive.

This portion of the demonstration is conducted and narrated by members of the Weapons Department of The Infantry School.

Here is what individual Weapons Department people will do in the "Weapons of the Infantry" phase:

Capt. Raymond F. Spinks will narrate.

Sfc Charles S. Elledge will demonstrate the accuracy of the .45 caliber pistol.

Sfc Lee O. Breeland will demonstrate the accuracy, versatility, and firing rapidity of the Army's new M-14 rifle.

Sfcs Carl Pierce and Gideon Grushkowski will demonstrate the new M-60 lightweight machinegun.

Sp4 Julius C. Andrews and Sgt. Wayne O. Knowles will demonstrate the M-79 grenade

Deadlines Must Be Observed

A "deadline", according to the dictionary, is a "bounding line, as within a military prison, a crossing of which by a prisoner incurs the penalty of being fired upon by a guard."

A secondary definition reads: 'A fixed limit beyond which death or disaster may be imminent."

Identity of the first newspaperman to apply the term to the last possible minute for acceptance of copy is unknown to the BAYONET staff but we're heartily in accord with his choice of descriptive terminology.

We're also sure that the unknown editor had the secondary definition in mind when he made his

Last Rites Held For Gen. Pence

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Fort Benning post cemetery for Brig. Gen. Charles W. Pence (ret.) who died Sunday evening following a heart attack.

President of the National Bank of Fort Benning since 1952, Gen. Pence was a veteran of 35 years of active military service which began in 1917 and ended with retirement in 1952.

Pallbearers included Lt. Gen. Maton S. Eddy, Lt. Gen. Reuben E. Jenkins, Major Gen. Phillip E. Gallagher, Major Gen. Carl T. Sutherland, Major Gen. Edward W. Smith, Major Gen. George E. Lynch, Brig. Gen. Winfred G. Skelton, Brig. Gen. Marcus B. Bell, and Brig. Gen. James V. Thompson, all retired.

Graveside services were conducted by Infantry Center Chaplain (Capt.) Robert H. Hawn.

Post Personnel Observe Annual Fire Safety Week

Fort Benning will observe National Fire Prevention Week beginning Oct. 9, the anniversary date of the great Chicago fire in 1871.

Col. Riel S. Cranhall, post fire marshal, Gilbert A. Ward, Jr., fire chief, and their respective staffs have planned a program of fire prevention indoctrination designed to promote maximum fire prevention consciousness.

"Our goal next week," said chief Ward, "is to re-emphasize to every person, military or civilian, the importance of stopping fires before they start."

Fort Benning's fire chief said that lectures and demonstrations have been scheduled for the school children of the post.

Special National Fire Protection Association booklets and potters have been procured for distribution to all schools and to Boy Scout and Girl Scout organizations.

In addition, the members of Fort Benning's fire department will hold open house at each of its fire stations where all visitors will be welcomed throughout the week. The latest fire-fighting equipment will be on display and station personnel will be on hand to explain use of each piece of apparatus.

Preparations are now under way at the post Fire Museum to receive thousands of visitors during the week including 1,000 school children who will see concrete evidence of what happens when fires occur.

Even the post's theaters have been brought into the program, according to chief Ward who said that theater personnel have offered to flash especially prepared slides on the subject of Fire Prevention across theater screens before each movie showing.

"Fire prevention is not just a one-week affair," chief Ward said and added that the Fort Benning program was a year-round affair with periodic highlights.

National Fire Prevention Week was a major highlight, he said, and the demonstrations, lectures and other presentations listed during Fort Benning observation had the one objective of stopping fires before they start.

Antiaircraft Incidents Date Back to 1861

In the air age we have just passed and the space age we have entered, we look back to the battles of the 19th century as being ground wars. But it's a fact that the first antiaircraft incident in U. S. military history occured a full century ago.

The scene: Arlington, Va., where Confederate artillery was deployed on Munson's Hill. The date: August 30, 1861.

Less than two miles away Union forces sent up one of their observation balloon which were being used for reconnaissance. These balloons, anchored by lines to their launching sites, operated at 200 to 1,000 feet.

Manning the Union balloons was a professor, Dr. T. S. C. Lowe. He had no sooner gone aloft than the Confederates opened fir on him from a three-inch rifle gun using a six-pound projectile.

They didn't hit him, but Dr. Lowe reported later that several of the projectiles passed by him "and struck the ground beyond."

The Confederates also noted the incident. "The enemy sent up a large balloon, and our boys fired at it with a rifle gun," reported 1st Lt. T. L. Rosser of the 141st FA, Louisiana National Guard.

Soccer is so underplayed in the military services that it isn't even listed in the Armed Forces Almanac, which is supposed to be the most extensive collection of service sports records ever published.

Deadlines

selection — for we know that "death or disaster" will be surely imminent if the BAYONET doesn't hit the street on scheduled Friday mornings.

Right now we're incurring the penalty of being fired upon by the guards, in the persons of the Information Officer, the Public Information Officer, the managing editor, and the whole composing room, for not holding our contributors to deadlines as established.

Add to this crossfire complaints from contributors who don't see their stories in print — even when we received them a whole day after the deadline—and the BAYONET office takes on the appearance of a Command and Staff problem at Ruth Range.

Commencing this week the Staff has ceased any retrograde action and has prepared a defense with a main line of resistance established on the military crest of Policy Ridge.

The deadline for all news copy — editorial page, sports, and society, is 5 p.m. on Monday for that Friday's BAYONET. Any copy received after this deadline will be held until the next week's issue. There can be no exceptions.

Post Quartermaster Section Wins 'Infantryman' Plaque

The Commanding General's award, "The Infantryman" plaque, for outstanding achievement in the field of Management Emportment, was presented to the Infantry Center's Quartermaster, Col. E. M. Foxworth, by Major Gen. Ben Harrell in recent informal ceremonies.

The Quartermaster Section won custody of the coveted plaque for total dollar benefits derived from its improvements and per cent of participation in the Management Improvement program for Fiscal Year 1961. Dollar benefits, and participation rates based upon the numbers of people involved and improvements submitted, gave the Section the over-all winning rating.

Monetary benefits of over $46,000 were realized during the period and the Quartermaster Section achieved a participation rate of 7.9 per cent.

Management Improvement Award Certificates were presented to Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles, Jr., assistant commandant, The Infantry School, and to T. A. Barefoot, Civilian Personnel Section, for outstanding achievement during the Fourth Quarter, FY 9161.

The Infantry School derived $170,300 from its improvements during the Quarter to win "highest monetary benefit" honors while the Civilian Personel Section received its certificate for the highest particiapation rate, 11.1 percent.

Total benefits realized by The Infantry Center through the Management Improvement program during the FY 61 period approximated $1,300,000. Seven hundred and forty-seven individual improvements were recorded.

At Infantry Board

Col. Hudson Is New Chief Of Mortar and Surveillance

Col. George E. Hudson has assumed the position of chief of the Mortar and Surveillance Division of the Infantry Board.

Col. Hudson came to the post from Germany where he was commander of the Hohenfels Training Area since 1958, and commander of the 30th Armored Rifle Battalion from 1957 to 1958.

He previously was at Fort Benning as a student in the basic class in 1942, officers advanced class in 1943 and the officers advanced regular course in 1949 and 1950 at the Infantry School.

He entered active military service in 1942. During World War II, he served with the 311th Regiment, 78th Infantry Division in Europe until 1946.

From 1952 to 1953, Col. Hudson was with the 223rd Regiment, 40th Infantry Division in Korea.

After his Korean tour he attended the senior course at the Marine Corps School from 1953 to 1954.

Col. Hudson was then assigned to the Army War Plans Division, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Military Operations, Department of the Army in Washington until he went to Germany.

Among his decorations are the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters and Combat Infantryman Badge.

The Issues in Berlin

4 Million Fled to West Before Border Closing

Current statistics show that the four-millionth refugee from Communist East Germany fled during the summer of 1961. That total had climbed even higher by Aug. 13, when all means of escape were suddenly sealed off by Communist tanks and troops.

It is probable that number four million, along with thousands before and after him, made his escape through West Berlin. During the 16-year "march to freedom," about 75 per cent of all refugees used this route.

The extent of this exodus must be approximate—no records were kept from 1946 through 1949, and the average does not include many persons who bypassed official registration procedures. It is believed these would increase the annual average of 200,000 by up to 25 per cent.

Strict Communist control measures along the border with West Germany made the divided city the favorite escape route, yet flight from East Germany anywhere was a dangerous undertaking. Long prison terms, punishment of friends and relatives, even the death sentence often resulted for those who got caught.

For some, escape came only after months of planning and careful preparation. A professor left East Berlin for good only after numerous preparatory trips over a period of years—until he had moved his entire library, a few books at a time, into West Berlin. One of the most daring escapees was a sheepherder, who, grazing his flock on the outskirts of Berlin, idly wandered into the West Zone with all his 400 sheep.

The greatest increase in the exodus followed the Soviet Zone's campaign to collectivize all East German farmland and much of its industry.

For East Germany, left with the only declining population in Europe, the refugee flow was a drastic drain on manpower resources—60 per cent of the refugees were under 50 years old, with 50 per cent under 25. The drain was a prime cause of serious economic problems facing the Communist regime.

In 1957, the regime was forced to abandon altogether its struggling aircraft industry since too many skilled workers and engineers had fled the country. The outflow of doctors and dentists contributed to a growing health problem.

East Germany's intellectual ranks were increasingly depleted as significant numbers of writers, artists, scientists, teachers and students turned up in each month's refugee tally.

While the refugee tide fluctuated widely over the years—often in reaction to political developments, sometimes for no obvious reason—one indicator consistently proved valid. Each time a particular population group was selected for "correction" through political or ideological measures, the people's reaction was shown by a rise in refugee statistics.

Awareness of Peril No Cause for Jitters

There's a school of thought that blames most of the personality disorders in today's world on the conflict of ideologies that keeps the international scene simmering. Do people drink more than they used to? It's the crisis. Are there more broken homes than ever before? Crisis. Are the divorce rate, the suicide rate, the mental illness rate, higher? Crisis. And look at the disturbing rise in juvenile delinquency—surely its caused by the insecurity today's youth feels in the threatening shadow of war.

Well, to use Tom Paine's deathless words, these are indeed the times that try men's souls. But let's consider that word try. One of Webster's many definitions is "to purify and refine, as in metals"—and if we make it applicable to each of us as Americans living in the year 1961 we may come up with another view of how we can be tried by today's international tensions.

In the service, for example, we can face the future resolutely, relegating our personal pursuits — of advancement, of plushier living for ourselves and our families—to the suspense file of our lives. We can look beyond the lure of material things to see in full clarity the magnitude of the crisis that confronts us as individuals and as members of a free society.

Doing this we may find ourself revitalized, recharged with energy, like a swimmer who comes up through warm, turgid water into the tingling air of a mountain morning. Because we may have fallen into set patterns of behavior, into monotonous routines, doesn't mean we must be life captives of them. "Man," Norman Cousins has written, "is not imprisoned by habit. Great changes in him can be wrought by crisis—once that crisis can be recognized and understood."

The so-called "war jitters" you hear about today are a fatal impediment to such recognition and understanding. When we know in our hearts that, while we are aware of the peril of war, we have no fear of it—then we may have done more to prevent it than any number of people crying, "Better red than dead!"—(AFPS)

Chaplain's Corner

CHAPLAIN (MAJ.) ALFRED P. LAM

Somehow we Americans find it easy to imagine that we are special beneficiaries of divine providence. We are lot like the German Kaiser who, in the early days of World War I, often spoke in terms of "I and God."

Be this as it may, bona fide historians are of the unanimous opinion that America has a place of its own in the history of Nations. We came into being in response to a clear and definite purpose. Here in this land was born a new theory of life and government.

In a peculiar sense our America, this "land of the free and the home of the brave", is one of God's miracles. Peoples of every race and color and creed have come to this country, to live in a somewhat practical manner the democratic way of life.

From almost the very first it has been the refuge of those who were persecuted for their religious beliefs. Therefore, when our government was established, the opening article of the Bill of Rights guaranteed that there should be separation of Church and State and religious freedom for all - "Congress shall make no Laws respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof . . ."

But freedom of religion does not mean freedom from religion, as so many are inclined to think.

When Congress convened for the first time, someone moved that it be opened with a prayer. Others opposed the idea as being an act of worship in which they could not join with their fellow Congressmen.

Samuel Adams rose to his feet and declared that this was religious bigotry and that he could hear the prayer of any gentleman of piety and virtue who at the same time was a friend of his country.

According to historical accounts the next morning an Episcopalian clergyman appeared in his robes and read several prayers of the established form and also the Psalter for September 7 which was Psalm 35 in which David pleads for safety and prays to do God's right.

Religion has been the source of our democracy, and the United States of America, despite her errors and mistakes, is a great nation today because we have tried to "render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's."

In turn our democracy has given and continues to give each one of us, Roman Catholic, Protestant, and Jew the right, even the encouragement, to worship at our own altars, that the light from all of them may bring the fullest possible glory to our Society.

"For what great nation is there that has a god so near to it as the Lord our God is to us, whenever we call upon Him?"

At this post religious worship is provided for most religious denominations. Ordained clergy serve as Chaplains for all personnel. Practice your faith: don't lose it by default.

"Give 'Em The Gun"

Tucked between Daily Bulletin paragraphs concerning "Officers' Call" and "Lost Government Property" October 4 was a single printed statement — ten mere words — which should carry more weight with the troops than a Christmas Menu . . .

The subject was "Immunization of Personnel" and the statement? . . . "The new automatic Jet Injector Hypodermic 'gun' will be used."

No invention since the breech - loader has met with more approval than the Jet Injector and influenza "shots" sessions now being planned by Unit Commanders should see once needle-wary Infantrymen fight for immunization rather than against it. Incidentally, the Post Surgeon included the phrase "insofar as possible" —so it may well become a case of "late-comers get the needle."

Warrant Openings

Personnel presently serving in MOS 971 or 974 are now being offered the opportunity to apply for appointment as Warrant Officer, MOS 9666 and concurrent call to active duty. A number of requirements normal to such application have been waived in this particular case . . . providing a wide-open chance of advancement for eligible enlisted men.

Army expansion is making necessary a number of changes in personnel policy each of which will have its own effect. For example, officer and warrant applicants for assignment to Special Forces had to have at least three years of service behind them. This prerequisite has now been suspended. Selections will now be based on best qualified volunteers meeting grade and other requirements according to the Military Personnel Division of our AG Section.

Yet another change in policy effects those enlisted personnel with more than 19 but less than 20 years service who are levied for overseas service. Submission of retirement papers no longer cancels out overseas orders. Details on this change are being published by AG.

"Watch That Poison!!"

This column tries to be informative in that service highlights are selected from every possible source as items which are of the greatest general interest—and here's one which will really shock you.

An average of FIFTY, not five, but FIFTY children are treated for accidental poisoning at Martin Army Hospital each month. Our hospital officials, who have been running a continuous campaign against this type of thing, are now beginning to express gravest concern over the whole matter. Despite anything they have done, the shocking average of child poisonings stands steady and even threatens to rise . . . so, to borrow a familiar phrase, your immediate attention is invited to this fact and this column asks your active participation in the MAH program wherever possible.

Editorial-Pictorial Produces Imaginative Materials

Helps Support Infantry School By Turning Out Training Aids

The word "artist," to many of us, conjures up the thought of an emaciated beatnik in beret, paint-spattered smock, open-toed sandals, and an unkept beard.

In New York's Greenwich Village this may be true, but such is not the case among Soldier-artists assigned to The Infantry School's Vu-Graph and Special Projects Art Units of the Visual Aid Section, Editorial and Pictorial Office, headed by Colonel Lawrence S. Reynolds.

This rather small branch supports the Infantry School by making all the overhead projection transparencies (Vu-Graphs) and slides for the Cellomatic Animation Projector used for instructional purposes.

It also produces nearly all art work necessary for Infantry magazine and covers for many brochures produced here each year.

Posters used by the Department of Non-Resident Instruction in connection with extension courses for the Reserve Officers Training Corps, Army Reserve, and National Guard are also designed and produced by these Soldier artists.

As average month's output reveals a staggering amount of art work produced by this small unit. Vu-Graph transparencies and Special Projects — an example of which is Infantry magazine and posters required by The Infantry school — total approximately 1000 pieces.

Work requests come in bunches, according to Alan C. Ramsay, unit supervisor.

He says, "Our work orders vary in quantity from one piece of art work consisting of a few lines, to our largest order that called for 239 pieces for an Army Field Manual. There's no rest for the artists when we get orders of such magnitude."

Never satisfied with the quality of work turned out, the entire unit continually experiments with new methods for perfecting their product.

One of their recent purchases made to assist them in attaining this goal is Technamation. It is a new and simple technique developed to add an impression of motion to any ordinary still transparency—motion in any direction, at any speed, and any combination of directions and speeds.

Using Technamation, liquids appear to flow, fires to burn, gears to rotate, and current to flow through electrical systems. It doesn't take much imagination to think of the possibilities for training aids the Infantry instructor has at his beck and call.

Some of the artists who perform this mass output are self-taught, while others are art institute graduates. A prime example of the former is Sp6 John T. Corwin, ranking enlisted artist of the branch. A hobby of oil portraiture, begun when he was five years old, culminated in his using his artistic accomplishments as a full-time Soldier-artist beginning several years ago.

Two members of the artistic team are graduates of Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y. They are Pfcs Theodore Woitovich and Seymour G. Blitzer. They both earned Bachelor Science degrees in Industrial Design.

In addition, Woitovich studied for two years at Edinboro Penn. State College working towards a degree in Art Education. While a student at Pratt, he was selected a member of Who's Who in Colleges and Universities, in 1959.

A senior draftsman, as well as artist, is Sp4 Donald L. Merideth, who has three years of high school drafting to his credit and one year at Draughton's Drafting College at Louisville, Ky.

Another of the artists is illustrator Sp4 Clifford R. Hatcher who learned art fundamentals from books, and then perfected his technique with studies at the Fleischer Art Memorial at Philadelphia, Penn.

Other members of the Graphics Branch are Sp4s Thomas Schweitzer, Vincent Pinti, Victor Herbert and Pfc John Martisek.

Supervisor is Alan C. Ramsay, assisted by James A. Longshore. The branch is a part of EPO's Visual Aids Section, which is headed by Capt. Romeo J. Larochelle.

Artists all, but a far cry from what some of us think of when the word "artist" is bandied about. Their heads may be in the clouds, but their feet are certainly on the ground.

Someday, some of them may rock the art world, but there won't be a beatnik among this crew.

Soldiers first, artists second.

Religious Education Center Christian Leadership Class Listed By Post Chaplain

A Christian Leadership School will be conducted on post October 23 and 26, Chaplain (Col.) Silas E. Decker, post chaplain, has announced.

Sunday School teachers, prospective teachers and interested adults are invited to attend.

The first session will be held from 6:30 to 9:15 p.m. Monday, October 23, at the Religious Education Center, Building 2606.

The program will begin with a pot-luck supper. After the fellowship hour, Chaplain Decker will deliver an inspirational address.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 24, through 26, the school will open at 7:30 p.m. There will be two sessions each evening with a coffee break.

The school will be divided into five classes according to teaching interests.

The class for teachers of the nursery age will be led by Mrs. Robert P. Peacock Jr., of Columbus.

A graduate of the Presbyterian School of Christian Education, Richmond, Va., Mrs. Peacock is children's worker at Edgewood Presbyterian Church in Columbus.

The leader of the kindergarten and beginner group will be Mrs. W. J. Erwin of Columbus. She is the wife of the superintendent of the Columbus District of the Methodist Church and is a certified children's worker for the South Georgia Conference.

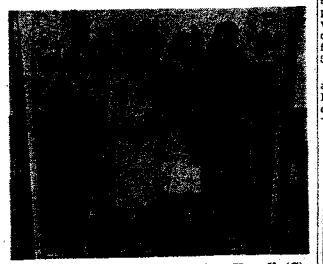
Mrs. W. B. Clemmons of Columbus, will lead the primary teachers. She is a graduate of Christian Education and is a certified primary worker for the Presbyterian Church.

Junior teachers and workers will be taught by Mrs. J. J. Heard. She was an approved junior worker for the Georgia Baptist Convention for 25 years before her retirement.

The class for junior and senior high school teachers will be conducted by Dr. Charles J. Granade, pastor of Wynnton Baptist Church in Columbus. He received his doctor's degree in education at Auburn University.

The Christian Leadership School is sponsored by the Chaplains Section for the Protestant Sunday Schools in the Main Post, Sand Hill and Harmony Church areas. Teachers and workers of the Lutheran and Episcopal Sunday Schools and other interested personnel are invited to attend.

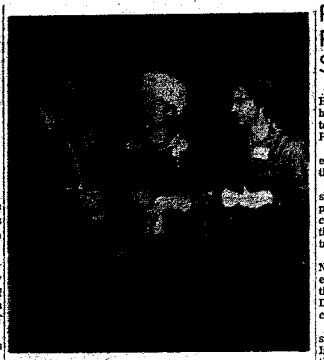
Mrs. Marguerite Waldrop, director of Christian Education on the post, will direct the school. She has requested that personnel who are not already working in the Main Post Sunday School make reservations for the school by telephoning 545-4334.



Each night during the course a nursery will be provided in Building 2620 for the children of those attending the classes.

Alpha Chi Omega Meet

Alumnae of the Alpha Chi Omega group will meet Tuesday, October 24, at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Wilfred Wittekind, 2459 Blan Street in Columbus.



The meeting will be an effort to organize all Alpha Chi Omega alumnae in the Columbus area.

For further information telephone Mrs. Wittekind at MU 9-1150.

Jan Rose's Woman's Club Diary

A variety of new activities will get underway this week for members of the Woman's Club. "Party Bridge", which is offered to ladies who enjoy playing, but are not ready to tackle Duplicate, will meet each Friday afternoon at the Woman's Club, next to the Pizeria in the Old Hospital area, beginning at 1 p.m. Mrs. Dale Sweetwood, chairman, announces that all Woman's Club members are invited to bring a partner and play with this informal gathering. Coffee will be served. If you feel that you are not yet ready to play in a group, may I suggest a beginning or brush-up course with the Beginning Bridge Class? These ladies meet Thursday mornings and Mrs. Harris Cathay can give you information.

Sewing, Tailoring and Slipcovering classes will be offered this fall. So whether you want to redo your furniture or your family's wardrobe, now is the time to begin. What better Christmas gift for hubby than something you've made yourself. Call Mrs. Thomas Scovill, 545-1006, for starting dates.

Mrs. Orville Bolhofner, fencing chairman, is still accepting a few registrations for the fencing classes. Please call her at MU 9-2916.

Both Charm and Modelling classes will begin next week under the direction of Ann Roberts. Both classes meet Tuesday mornings, and a charm class will meet on Wednesday evenings. A tea-time charm and modeling class will be offered on Saturdays.

Don't forget the Rich's Trip on November 7. And plan now to save November 18th for the Annual Distaff Dinner-Dance. More details later.

The Woman's Club of Fort Benning will sponsor their annual trip to Rich's Department Store in Atlanta. Busses will leave post at 7 a.m. and return that evening. Special arrangements have been made with Tot Town Nursery to accommodate children of women going on the trip. All Fort Benning wives are invited. To register for the trip, please call Mrs. Norvin E. Smith, 545-2496. The nominal fee includes transportation, luncheon at Rich's, a fashion show and tea. It is not necessary to be a member of the club to attend. The deadline for reservations is October 20th.

Three Guest Speakers At Toastmistress Meet

The Fort Benning - Columbus Toastmistress Club heard speeches on October 1, concerning, "Democracy As Opposed to Communism, A Bit of Old World Charm, and What America Means to Me," at their meeting held at the Brownie Hut, on post.

Mrs. William Collins gave the research speech on Democracy, Mrs. Abraham Muscari presented the Icebreaker speech on Old World Charm, and Mrs. John S. McCord delivered the enthusiasm speech, What America Means to Me.

Mrs. McCord won the Speaker of the Evening trophy, a silver goblet, for her speech.

Several one minute speeches were given by members of the club. The impromptu speeches were based on the topic, The Opening Words of a Book.

Miss Mae Johnson and Mrs. John Milton were inducted into the club. Guests were Mrs. Ernest A. Shelton, Mrs. William D. McMonagle, Miss Marion Holland and Mrs. Richard M. Hollinger.

Plans are in progress for a Speak Off to be held in December, at which time the winner will be awarded a trophy designating her the Speaker for the Year 1961. All members may participate.

Mrs. Cundiff Hosts Allied Wives' 'Get Acquainted' Party In Home

Student's Wives Hold OCS Coffee

Officer Candiate wives of the 50th Officer Candidate Company of the Fifth Battalion, Student Brigade, held a coffee in the Gold bar Club on Oct. 3.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Joseph Medley and Capt. William J. Webster, Commanding Officer, gave a talk on budgeting. Capt. Webster has only recently taken over as commanding officer of the 50th company. He was formerly with the 52nd Company as Tactical Officer and later as Executive Officer. Mrs. Richard Klim gave a talk on Calling Cards.

Wagon Real--Marine Not Seeing Things

Camp Pendleton, Calif. (AFPS) —

Was it a mirage?

The Southern California sun gets pretty torrid in midsummer. The Marine sentry at Pendleton's San Luis Rey gate rubbed his eyes.

But, sure enough, it was a covered wagon of the type that carried pioneers westward a century ago. And after it came a second, and then a third.

What the sentry was seeing was a mail train nearing the end of a journey from Knoxville, Tenn., to Los Angeles to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the Overland Mail.

Crawling toward the Pacific at the rate of four miles an hour, the three canvas-covered wagons carried mail pouches marked "First Class Mail, Not to Be Delayed." The letters in them, marked with a special cachet, were of interest chiefly to stamp collectors.

Arrival of the picturesque caravan at the Pendleton gate brought an escort of 10 horsemen, all members of Lt. Col. "Ace" Bowen's Rodeo Riding Club which stages the camp's annual rodeo.

At the Pendleton post office the wagons picked up and cancelled mail while philatelists from miles around swarmed to use its service.

TIS DISPLAY . . . An exhibit depicting past events in The Infantry School's history is now on display at The School's book store. The display includes a mannequin dressed in the uniform of the School troops around 1920, championship trophies, pictures and items showing early Airborne training. Also displayed is one of the first Airborne helmets. The exhibit is sponsored by The Student Brigade.

News Deadline

Deadline for general news copy is 5 p.m. on Monday for that Friday's Bayonet.

Material coming in after the deadline will be held until the next week's paper.

Taxi Services Being Reduced

Military taxi service has been curtailed by some two-thirds of normal operating strength because of a critical shortage of assigned driver personnel.

Maximum use of organic vehicles is requested wherever possible and the Transportation Motor Pool asks that all unnecessary trips be eliminated.

JOURNEY ENDS AS 69TH ROLLS INTO AREA
Underwent Tank-Firing Qualifications At Stewart

Organization Day Set By Division

BY PETER TATISTCHEFF

The largest review of 2nd Infantry Division forces ever staged at Fort Benning will take place October 28 on Sightseeing Field as the "Second to None" division celebrates its 44th birthday anniversary.

The division's 1961 Organization Day, scheduled October 28, will be kicked off at 9:30 a.m. by a review including over 80 per cent of the division's Troop strength and representative vehicles and weapons from major units.

Games, Dances

Throughout the day, games and dances set in Clubs, USOs and in the Columbus Armed Services YMCA are being scheduled as part of the festivities as the 2nd Division enters its 44th year.

During the morning's review announcement will be made of the 1962 Division "Career Soldier of the Year." This coveted award, won last year by the 1st Infantry's Sergeant First Class Paul M. Poteat, is presented each year by the division's commanding general for characteristics including record of service, education, decorations and awards, appearance and military bearing, instructional ability and a knowledge of customs and traditions of the Army, general military subjects and the history of the 2nd Infantry Division.

Brigadier General Royal Reynolds Jr., the assistant division commander, will act as commander of troops for the Organization Day review, with a staff including the division's G-1, Lieutenant Colonel Ralph K. Jones, G-2, Lieutenant Colonel John B. Wine, G-3, Lieutenant Colonel Ralph H. Hughett and G-4, Lieutenant Colonel James C. Larson.

The parade will consist of two brigades. The first, made up of all infantry units, will be commanded by the Deputy Brigade Commander, Colonel Maurice C. Holden. The second brigade, including all units other than infantry, will be commanded by the Division Artillery commander.

Rolling Stock

Quarter-ton trucks, armored personnel carriers, ambulances, and weapons including M-48 tanks, 105 millimeter Howitzers, 155 millimeter Howitzers, a 762 millimeter "Honest John" Rocket and one aerial reconnaissance drone will complement the Troops strength displayed in the review.

A fly-by of division helicopters and fixed wing aircraft will follow the parade. Fixed wing aircraft will fly over in "V" formation followed by helicopters carrying special birthday greetings.

Throughout Organization Day members of the 2nd Infantry Division and their guests will be entertained with games, dances and entertainment being coordinated by the 2nd Division Special Services Office.

Col. Tolocka 9th Infantry Deputy C-O

By 9th Inf PIO

Headquarters of the 9th Infantry last Saturday welcomed Lieutenant Colonel Frank J. Tolocka to the "Keep Up The Fire" unit.

Colonel C. P. Hannum pinned the Infantry crossed rifles on the new deputy commander and introduced him to the members of the battle group staff. Colonel Tolocka arrived at the 9th from Headquarters 1st Infantry, where he was adjutant.

Awards

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., Colonel Tolocka was awarded the Purple Heart and the second award of the Combat Infantryman's Badge. He saw action in the Rhineland in 1945 and was in Korea in 1953.

The Colonel is married and the father of three children.

69th Back From Firing

The 69th Armor returned last Friday from a range-firing session at Fort Stewart, Ga., termed "most successful."

The battalion fired tables IV, V, VI, VII and VIII for tank crew qualifications. Table VIII is the tank crew proficiency course, day-and-night phase, where the entire crew is tested on its ability to function as a crew. Seventy of the 75 firing crews scored "sharpshooters" or better on Table VIII.

While there, the tankers were visited by Major General Charles H. Chase, division commanding general, and Brigadier General Royal Reynolds Jr., assistant commanding general.

Col. Roof To Lead 15th Arty

Lieutenant Colonel Donald B. Roof has been assigned to the 15th Artillery as the new battalion commander, replacing Lieutenant Colonel Ralph K. Jones, who has been reassigned as the 2nd Infantry Division G-1 (Personnel). Col. Jones had served with the 15th Artillery since July.

Col. Roof joined the division in November 1953 when he served with the 134th Field Artillery Battalion at Camp Polk, Louisiana, part of the "old" 10th Division Artillery. The 10th Division was redesignated the 2nd Infantry Division in 1958.

Kansan

A native of Hutchinson, Kansas, Col. Roof attended junior college for two years, studying pre-law, before entering the service on July 7, 1941. He attended the Field Artillery Of-

CG Visits 1st Infantry In the Field

Major General Charles H. Chase, division commander, visited the 1st Infantry in the field last Thursday and Friday.

Colonel Walter B. Todd, commander of the "Always First" organization, greeted the General and immediately briefed him on "CPX Field Two," which had been completed that day.

After taking the evening meal with the officers of battle group headquarters, General Chase was escorted to Company A, commanded by Captain William R. Colvin. While there he accompanied Lieutenant Clay N. Mobley's third platoon through a night attack, from the line of departure to the objective, where he attended the platoon leader's critique of the attack.

General Chase then visited Company B, commanded by Captain Fred A. Darden, where he inspected the forward edge of the battle area positions of a platoon in a night defensive formation. The division and battle group commanders then returned to the general's tent for cake and coffee.

Tuskegee Hosts Division Band Sunday Night

The 2nd Infantry Division Band will perform in concert Sunday night at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Led by Chief Warrant Officer Mariano Morales, the division's musicians will play for an expected 2,000 students at the college's regular vespers services. They will be the guests of Tuskegee's Reserve Officers Training Corps department.

Program

Selections will include the march "Dunlap Commandery," "Toccata for Band," selections from "Mos' Happy Fella," the Spanish march "El Caballero," "Five Mellow Winds," "Two Moods" and "Sea Portrait." The finale will be "A Tribute to Sousa."

The program begins at 6:30 p.m.

Training Goes Forward; Specialists Bivouacking

BY CLAY LACY

I was reminded of a recent Broadway hit, "The Sound of Music," this week as the training program for the 2nd Infantry Division moved into more advanced phases and all sections of the division took to the woods. A line in the lead song of that production says, "The hills are alive with the sound of music."

Standing on a high, pine-covered knoll overlooking the Sand Hill area during the early evening darkness, I marveled at the myriad woodland sounds that chirped, twitted, whistled and resounded from the murky undergrowth. The woods were literally alive with the sound of life.

'Brilliant Sparklers'

Overhead, a firmament with brilliant sparklers twinkling defied man to fret about his minute worries. The Big Dipper hung in the richly-hued carpet of the night sky as a beacon and reassuring guide. Around me were situated men, equipment and tents: the necessary ingredients for a fighting machine.

No man-made lights were visible in the tactical positions, but occasionally a light flared on the distant horizon as members of The Infantry School proceded in one of their regular night problems. A dim bulb cut through the darkness near me and I recognized one of the men assigned to the Information Section.

It was Specialist Four Don Baird, a young Soldier from Atlanta, Georgia, who serves as editor of the 2nd Division section of the Bayonet. Tonight,

Avn.'s Myers Commended; Given A-C-M

Captain Jasper Lee Myers, Jr., recently received the Army Commendation Medal for meritorious service while serving as assistant aviation officer at Headquarters, 2nd Artillery Group (Air Defense), Lockport, New York, during the period July 7, 1958, to August 22.

Throughout this period, Capt. Myers "consistently demonstrated exceptional leadership ability, outstanding professional qualifications and competence, and unselfish devotion to duty," the citation said. During the entire period the aviation supply, operation and maintenance activities under the direct supervision and control of Capt. Myers achieved superior ratings on all first Region Command and Command Maintenance Inspections.

Great Distance

The superior ratings were accomplished despite a great distance that existed from supporting field maintenance, a lack of trained mechanics, and supply personnel. To add to the difficulties, the unit flew many hours beyond the programmed schedule. During this period Capt. Myers maintained an accident-free flying record while flying over 1,500 hours. He actively participated in and assisted in civil defense activities and community relations.

Capt. Myers was instrumental in organizing, training, and supervising helicopter search and rescue activities within the command. During his assignment, 42 search-and-rescue missions were flown, resulting in the rescue of numerous lost and stranded persons in the area.

Capt. Myers is presently serving as utility section leader of the general support platoon, 2nd Aviation Company. The medal was presented at the Division Aviation Office by Lieutenant Colonel Robert McGraw, division aviation officer. Major Arlen Suddaby, 2nd Aviation Company commander, read a citation commending Capt. Myers.

Apruzzese Led Convoy

By 11th Inf PIO

Lieutenant Vincent A. Apruzzese, Combat Support Company, 11th Infantry, acted as convoy commander when the assault weapons platoons from the five battle groups of the division traveled to Fort Stewart, for a nine-day firing qualification exercise.

The platoon completed AIT with the 69th Armor and the fact that no M-56 assault guns were available for training purposes necessitated training with the M-48 tank.

Scorpion

At Fort Stewart, the weapons platoon underwent training with the 90 millimeter self-propelled anti-tank M-56 Scorpion (SPAT), to qualify for the major-caliber fire. The platoon completed its sub-caliber firing on Wenner Range.

Lieutenant Apruzzese, who is platoon leader of the assault weapons platoon of Combat Support Company, graduated from Niagara University in 1958 and received his commission as a second lieutenant. He integrated into the Regular Army as a first lieutenant with the Military Police Corps and served with the 528th Military Police Company at Fort Meade, Maryland, before joining the 11th Infantry at Fort Benning in February 1961.

23rd Inf CO Praises Unit's Work in Field

By 22nd Infantry PIO

Men of the 22nd Infantry underwent extensive field testing this week.

According to Colonel Louis A. Kunzig Jr., commander of the 22nd, all rifle platoons were given platoon training tests to determine how well the men have blended their individual skills into well-drilled fighting teams.

Testing

Weapons platoons of rifle companies will be tested October 16-18.

Col. Kunzig praised the work done thus far by 22nd Infantry personnel. "Your efforts during the past weeks of field training are beginning to show results," he said. "We still need more practice, and we need to learn more advanced skills, but we know that we are headed in the right direction."

Officers Wives Preview Fashions at Supper Club

A preview of what the well-dressed woman in Columbus will wear this winter was viewed by the members of the 2nd Division Officers Wives Club and their guests at the Supper Club on Tuesday.

The fashions were modeled by representatives from each unit within the Division. Mrs. Hope Tbeeringer was the commentator.

Hostesses

The ladies of Division Artillery were hostesses for the occasion with Mrs. William A. Becker acting as overall chairman. She was assisted by Mrs. James D. Clark, decorations; Mrs. Travis P. Sherridan, sherry, and Mrs. Ralph H. Hughett, program.

A fall arrangement of yellow glads and bronze chrysanthemums centered the head table. The other tables were strewn with autumn leaves and lanterns decorated with fashion figures. Background organ music was provided by Master Sergeant Robert E. Boden.

Models from each unit included Mesdames P. B. Harris, Division Headquarters; Gerald R. Ristau, Division Artillery; Charles F. Austin, 1st Infantry; Albert B. Baxter, 9th Infantry; Michael J. Bardis, 11th Infantry; Charles H. Bolen, 23rd Infantry; Richard H. Sharp, 87th Infantry; William R. Mahrt, 2nd Aviation; Anthony J. Alfano, 7th Cavalry; Kossie C. Akins, 2nd Engineers; Harold W. Aviation Ladies' Birthday Coffee

The first anniversary of the 2nd Aviation Company ward parties served as the theme as the Aviation ladies met recently for their monthly coffee.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Robert Messer, Mrs. John Jenks and Mrs. Edgar N. Kelley. Mrs. Messer poured.

Decorations

Decorations on the South Porch of the Main Officers Open Mess consisted of an arrangement of fall flowers on the main serving table and a miniature hospital scene showing a typical ward party. The doll scene showed an incapacitated patient being served refreshments by visiting ladies.

Eight newcomers to the 2nd Aviation Company were welcomed: Mrs. Michael Horan, Mrs. William Ledgerwood, Mrs. Jasper Myers, Mrs. Richard L'Hommedieu, Mrs. Norman Carter, Mrs. Jack Laurance, Mrs. Jerry Keebaugh, and Mrs. Charles Gibson.

Farewells were said to Mrs. Louis Jacquay who will soon be leaving the company.

The floral centerpiece was won by Mrs. Donald Masters. Mrs. Keebaugh won the first anniversary cake. A floral colander arrangement was won by Mrs. Horan.

Bivouac

the editor was not checking copy or writing headlines. He was taking his place as a member of the sentry force guarding our emplacement.

A short distance away could be heard the faint clacking of a typewriter as a member of the Adjutant General's section cut some late orders. The whine of a "deuce-and-a-half" echoed from the dismount point of our position as fresh water was delivered for the coming day.

It had been a busy Tuesday for all of us in the Command Post Exercise. For some, it was the first excursion to the field with all equipment, plus toting the individual tools of the combat soldier: his rifle, belt and protective mask. For many of us, it was the first trip to the field in many months.

Tentage was placed in positions, poles driven and guy lines tightened. Drainage ditches were etched in the hard, Georgia red clay with brush and pine needles spread generously around for camouflage.

Security

Security must always be maintained in the tactical situation and plans for local protection were drawn up and implemented. Sentinels would be posted; light and noise discipline would be enforced.

At meal times, we made our way to the mess area in shifts; 50 per cent of the men at a time. There we spread out with at least five yards distance between men and went through the chow line. It was typical Army chow, hot and plenty of it. Weapons were carried everywhere.

There had been mistakes but they were the errors of getting settled and adjusting to the field way of life.

702nd Ord. Operating Direct Support Detachment

In support of field activities for the past two weeks, the 702nd Ordnance has been operating a direct support detachment in the Trains Replenishment Area.

Activities included the establishment of a direct exchange supply point and the performance of limited third-echelon maintenance.

Changing Engine

Work carried out by the detachment ranged from changing an engine in a two-and-a-half ton truck for 39th Artillery to replacing a rear axle assembly for an 87th Infantry three-quarter ton vehicle.

In addition, the men replaced a clutch release bearing on a quarter-ton truck for 7th Cavalry, changed a quarter-ton engine for 12th Transportation Corps and replaced a clutch release bearing on a two-and-a-half ton truck for 2nd Quartermaster Corps.

The detachment also operated a wrecker service and performed engine tune-ups.

COOKING HINT

To give plain cooked spinach savory flavor, add a little minced onion and some lemon juice along with a dollop of butter.

'Go-to-Chapel Sunday' Slated for October 22

October 22 will be observed as "2nd Infantry Division Go-to-Chapel Sunday," according to Chaplain (Major) Alfred P. Lam.

This is the third in a series of semi-annual religious services observed within the 2nd Infantry Division as a chapel attendance stimulant.

This function, formerly called "Religious Emphasis Sunday," was last held on March 19 and is in keeping with the policies of Headquarters, Third United States Army.

Leadership

All cadre and their families are urged to attend a service on that day as this will expedite religious leadership within the division, said Chaplain Lam.

Nursery service will be provided for all children at Kelley Hill and Sand Hill chapels.

Signal Bn Gets New Warrant

122nd Signal Bn PIO

Warrant Officer Atlee J. Troyer Jr. recently reported into the 122nd Signal Battalion for duty and will assume the duties of personnel officer for the battalion.

Before coming to the battalion, Mr. Troyer served at Davidson Airfield in Belvoir, Va., as career counselor. It was during this tour of duty that Mr. Troyer received his warrant.

In Virginia

Mr. Troyer has also served as personnel sergeant with the Army Security Agency at Arlington Hall Station, Va. Other tours of duty include one with the Army Security Agency in Hawaii.

He is the recipient of several decorations and letters of commendation. He was awarded the Purple Heart during the Korean conflict, received letters of commendation for his work with the Security Agency both at Arlington Hall and Hawaii. In addition, he has received three Good Conduct Medals.

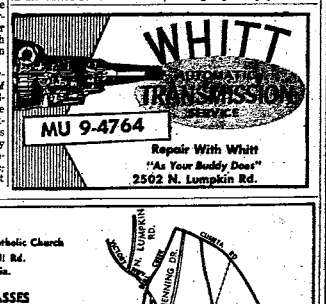
Diamondback Killed; May be Largest Ever Seen at Ft. Benning

A reconnaissance team from the 1st Infantry's Company D last week came upon an unexpected "aggressor" while on patrol — a diamondback rattlesnake.

In fact, the snake — whose skin is now the 1st's — is believed to be the largest ever encountered on the reservation.

Sergeant Charles Morrison encountered the reptile, coiled in striking position, while leading the patrol. He froze, then eased a fallen tree branch from the ground and moved into position. After five minutes of continuous beating, the snake was killed.

15 Rattlers



The rattler measured five feet-seven inches in length, had a circumference of nine inches, and had 15 rattlers.

The Post Game and Fish Association said records showed that none larger had ever been reported.

The 1st Infantry is making arrangements to have the skin mounted on a plaque for the battle group's trophy case.

Amos Crumbly, 23rd Inf.

Post's Light-Heavyweight Champ Continues 11-Bout Winning Streak

BY JOHN F. PHILLIPS

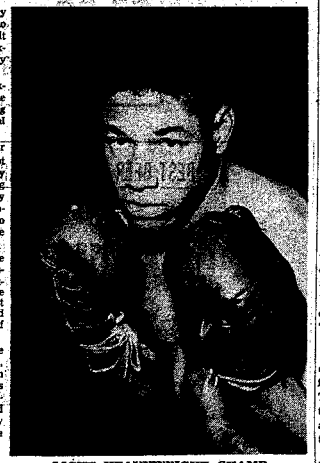
Amos L. Crumbly, a native of Erie, Pennsylvania, decisioned former Post champ John Burroughs of the 10th Artillery in last week's bouts.

Six-Footer

Crumbly's latest victory boosted his winning score to 11 in a row. The solidly built six-footer has never lost a boxing bout, either in the Army or in civilian life.

He feels that with the experience of Army boxing he will gain valuable training needed for a later professional boxing career.

Crumbly's background prior to entering the Army was not one that would immediately identify him with the boxing game. He was employed by two private investigation companies in Chicago, and he also worked for a department store in Erie, Penn.



After finishing AIT with the 23rd's Bravo Company, Crumbly tried out for the 2nd's boxing team. He had no trouble in qualifying and in his first match in August he defeated heavyweight Milton Gains of the 29th Infantry.

Crumbly went on to gain the Division heavyweight crown, but he decided to drop down to the light heavyweight class —the 165 to 178 pound category. He soon commemorated the switch by kayoing Jimmy Bean of the 9th Infantry in a bout September 21.

Third Army Tourney

The 171 pound slugger is not going to rest on his laurels, however. Crumbly and the other members of the Fort Benning boxing team soon will be taking on their opposite numbers on area military teams. Also on the horizon will be the Third Army Boxing Tournament, which will be held at a time and place to be announced later.

Crumbly is full of confidence and is looking forward to both the team matches and a crack at the Third Army crown. And eventually — a long and colorful career in professional boxing.

Conquerors' Defeat 23rd, 9th in Flag Tilts

By 87th Inf PIO

The 87th Infantry flag football team won two decisive football games in division-level competition last week.

The Conqueror team showed real strength in defeating the 23rd Infantry 39-0, followed by a 27-0 win over the 9th Infantry.

The outstanding player so far has been Private Leonard Goodwin, who quarterbacks the team. Private Goodwin, from Company C, is leading the scoring parade running or passing on almost every scoring play.

87th Leads

This is the last event in the semi-annual competition for the Commanding General's Sports Trophy. The 87th is currently in the lead with 201 points, 54 ahead of Separate Battalions. However, flag football competition both on company and division-level, is worth a net total of 170 points.

Two games are on the schedule this week, both at Kelley Hill's Essenbagger Field. The 87th plays Division Artillery Thursday and the 1st Infantry on Saturday. Company - level football competition is expected to begin at the end of the week.

11th Infantry Posts Pair Of Victories

By 11th Inf PIO

The 11th Infantry's flag football team kicked off the season last week by trouncing the Division Trains squad, 26-0.

The Kelley Hill gridders, behind the quarterbacking of Bill Lochow and the running and pass catching of Jim Gordon and Dick Holmes in the backfield, pushed across three touchdowns in the first half while the defense with Vince Casale, Cliff Johns, Leo Zani, George Antonopulas, Melvin Rice and Joe Johnson up front completely throttled the Trains' attack.

6-0 Lead

The winners jumped to an early 6-0 lead when Lochow flipped a pass to Gordon for a TD in the first quarter and then scored two more to take a commanding 19-0 lead at the half.

In the third quarter, the 11th's attack bogged down as they failed to score but in the final stanza, they sailed down the win with a TD pass from Lochow to Gordon. The Trains team, who were only scored upon once during last year's campaign, are defending champs of the league.

In their second outing of the season, the 11th Infantry remained unscored upon by downing the 23rd Infantry, 40-0.

While their defense stopped the 23rd's passing attack cold, the 11th pushed across one tally after another with Gordon and Holmes picking up long yardage on the ground and pulling in passes from Lochow.

1st Inf. Records Wins Over Sep. Bn., DivArty

By 1st Inf PIO

The 1st Infantry boasts a 2-0 record in Division Flag Football after their 27-0 conquest of Separate Battalions last week. Saturday, the "Always First" nine won by forfeit over Division Artillery.

The 1st looked good as they opened the Division season with Separate Battalions. Long passes and runs were featured during the game.

The first touchdown of the season came on a long run by John Pittman. The 1st Infantrymen received the opening kick-off and returned the pigskin to their 30 yard line. Three plays later, with no gain, the 1st offense made a daring attempt to pass.

Pittman flanked to the right from his halfback position and took a pitch out from signal caller, William Taliaferro. Pittman avoided a trap set by the rushing Separate Battalions defenders when Willis Stansberry set up interference for Pittman. Pittman made his way to the sideline and scampered 56 yards to score the first touchdown of the season.

The 1st's other scores came when William Taliaferro threw a 35-yard scoring pass to Albin Taylor in the third quarter. In the fourth period, two touchdowns were made with Jesse Madden intercepting a pass and returning it 40 yards for six points. The other score was made on a 45 yard pass from Jesse Madden to John Pittman.

Maj. Duke, LaGrange Native, S-4 at 23rd

BY 23RD INFANTRY PIO

The 23rd Infantry's new S-4 (logistics) officer has served in both the Far East and Europe, has earned several outstanding military awards and is a master parachutist.

Major James O. Duke, a native of LaGrange, Ga., took over S-4 duties recently from Major John V. Swango, who is now the 22rd's executive officer.

Commission

Major Duke entered the Army in 1943 as an enlisted man, later applied for Officers Candidate School and received his commission in 1944. He was then shipped to the Far East and served in the Philippine Islands.

After returning to the United States in 1946, Major Duke was sent to Europe, where he was assigned to the 1st Division, 26th Infantry. He came to Fort Benning in 1951 and left in 1952 for Fort Bragg, N. C., to take over as a company commander and a G-3 officer.

In 1953, Major Duke was off to Korea and the 35th Infantry. As commander of Company A, 35th Infantry, he was at one time in charge of some 400 men spread along an eight-mile front. While in Korea, Major Duke was awarded the Bronze Star.

It was back to Fort Benning for Major Duke in 1954. Here, he was an instructor at The Infantry School, until his re-assignment to the 82nd Airborne Division in 1956. He was with the 1st Airborne, 504th Infantry, when the unit left for Germany in 1957.

Back to U. S.

Major Duke returned to the United States this year and was assigned to the 23rd Infantry.

Among Major Duke's most prized military awards are his Bronze Star, the Commendation Ribbon and the Distinguished Pistol Shot Badge, which was given him in 1955 by the Department of the Army.

An avid hunter and fisherman, Major Duke often uses his farm near LaGrange as his base of operations for the pursuit of his favorite hobbies.

Major Duke's wife Dorothy is also a native of LaGrange.

The Duke and their children reside at 3037 Grenada Drive, Columbus.

'New' KH Service Club Now In New Spot--'Old' NCO Club

By 57th Inf PIO

The Kelley Hill Service Club will be ready just in time to greet the Troops coming in from the field this week.

Workmen are just putting the finishing touches on the new location. Previously occupying the entire second floor, they are now confined to the area of the old NCO club on the first floor.

Due to this lack of space, many activities have been curtailed, however. Miss Elizabeth Shanks, the service club director, promises to "make up for it" by initiating an enlarged program.

Bingo, Coffee

Miss Shanks has announced bingo games every Saturday night, Sunday morning coffee calls and a Tuesday night program of sport films. Special events include a Halloween Dance on October 26th and a "Soldier Show" on the 29th.

The entire service club building will be used to house the 2nd Medical Battalion, former-ly from Sand Hill. The cleaners, barber shop and post office will continue to operate as usual.

Lose Third Game

Doughboys Bow To Fort Eustis, 15-7; Will Meet Fort Lee Tomorrow Night

By Pfc Del Berghoefer

The Doughboys lost their third game of the season, bowing to an unbeaten Fort Eustis eleven 15-7 in a game played last Saturday at Fort Benning.

The Doughboys opened the first minutes of the second period, marching 71 yards in 10 plays. The longest gainer in the series was a 34-yard pass from quarterback Al Davis to Jim Daniel, which moved the ball to the Eustis 14-yard stripe.

Four plays later Davis scored from two yards out on a quarterback sneak. Henry Derleth booted the extra point to give Fort Benning a 7-0 lead.

After receiving the kick-off, the Fort Eustis Wheels rolled 77 yards to score their first touchdown.

Fullback Harry Stelzhauser capped the drive with a two-yard scoring jaunt through the center of the Doughboy line.

In an attempt to take the lead, quarterback Norwell Chambers ran the ball around right end for the two-point conversion which proved to be the game's winning point.

The Doughboys, attempting to score once more in the first half, lost the ball twice on interceptions and at half-time the score stood 8-7.

The home team dominated the second half, picking up 117 yards rushing, while holding the Wheels to only 58 yards.

The Eustis eleven capitalized on the Doughboys' mistakes, recovering two fumbles and reaching three serials to halt the Doughboys' drives before they penetrated too far into enemy territory.

The Wheels, who could not move against the strong Doughboy line, tried to add insurance points early in the fourth quarter with a field goal attempt. Cyril Hawkins, Fort Eustis halfback, stole a Doughboy pass and returned it 28 yards to the Benning 26-yard line. Four plays later they attempted a field goal which was wide of the goal posts.

Shortly afterward the Wheels recovered a fumble on the Doughboy six-yard line but failed to score. They picked up two yards in two rushing attempts, then tried two passes.

The first was completed but the receiver was outside of the end zone so it was nullified. The second pass was knocked down by Doughboy defenders and they took possession of the ball on their own four-yard line with about four minutes remaining in the game.

They moved the ball to their own 35-yard line when quarterback Al Davis was thrown for an 11-yard loss attempting a desperate fourth down pass.

The Wheels took over on the Benning 24-yard stripe and were assessed a five-yard penalty for delay of the game. Chambers then rambled around right end for 27 yards.

Halfback Francis Walton lugged the ball over the goal for the final Eustis tally with only 18 seconds left in the game. Steve Lomato booted the extra point making it 15-7, the final score.

The Doughboys led the Wheels in statistics, picking up 13 first downs to the visitors nine and gained approximately 100 more total yards.

The story of the game, however, was told in the Doughboys' inability to keep possession of the ball, losing it five times by pass interceptions and three times by fumbles. Benning didn't punt once during the game.

Benning will try to get into the win column tomorrow when it plays Fort Lee in another home game.

Game time will be 8 p.m. at Doughboy Stadium.

Sports Deadline

Deadline for sports news is 5 p.m. Monday for news appearing in that Friday's Bayonet.

Material coming in after the deadline will be held until the following week's paper.

Hunting and Fishing Regulations Available

By Pfc Don Girton

The revised hunting and fishing regulations are off the press and available at the Fish and Game office. These latest Fort Benning regulations have again been printed in the handy sized pocket pamphlet. The pamphlet (No. 210-2) sets forth regulations pertaining to hunting and fishing and includes open seasons, bag limits, licenses and permits, and boundaries and restricted areas.

Like all new regulations, there are questions, points which are not clear and often there are portions which are not understood.

Already there have been many calls at the Fish and Game office about the new regulations, several points in particular. One of these points is one that is not clearly understood, and that is paragraph 15b which states quail hunting without a dog is prohibited.

Well, a real quail hunter wouldn't any more think of going hunting without a dog as he would going out without his gun. However, the hunter who goes out just to see what he can stir up undoubtedly feels that he is being penalized by this regulation. But let's go along with one of these hunters and see how it's done.

With shotgun over shoulder he is tramping across an open field or along an old fence row. Up goes a covey of quail; half startled by the sudden flutter, he wheels his shotgun around for a long shot. Being a good shot, the feathers flew and down came a bird but it was only winged. So our dogless hunter ran to the spot where the bird fell.

However, the bird only being winged ran off. Trying to locate the singles our hunter is now ready for a shot. Up goes a bird, the shot and another hit. But this time the bird fell in the center of a dense thicket and after a futile search the downed bird could not be found. These well camouflaged small birds are simply hard to find unless you happen to have a sniffer like our canine companions.

So you can see that this requirement of having a dog for quail hunting is not intended to put a hardship on any hunter but rather put a halt to a wasteful practice that has been plaguing our game resources.

FALL TURKEY SHOOT

The date for the Annual Fall Turkey Shoot sponsored by the Fish and Game Maintenance Association has been tentatively set for Sunday, December 17. The list of 34 attendance awards has a 14 foot boat, with trailer and 45 hp Johnson Motor on top. Other awards include Winchester 12 and 20 gauge shotguns. Others include rifles, pistols, fishing rods and reels, shotgun shells and hunting coats.

With only a little over a week of dove season remaining in Georgia, the activity has slowed up and most dove hunters are finding it harder to get their limit than earlier in the season. The second portion of the dove season which opens December 7 on the Georgia portion of the reservation should bring a new supply of doves to this area with the colder weather bringing them to the southern part of the state.

Hunting License

Any resident of the State of Georgia 16 years of age or older is required to have a hunting license when hunting.

OUTDOOR OUTLOOK

Post Wild Life Aides and officials of the Fort Benning Fish and Game Maintenance Association are keeping sharp eyes on Harp's Pond. A leading fishing spot, Harp's has produced a mystery which has a lot of us old-timers worried.. a fish kill by causes unknown.

In the past several weeks post anglers have noted quite a number of dead fish, largely shiners and cats, floating on the surface and have been quick to report the fact.

Until now just what has caused the kill is a question which apparently won't be answered until state ichthyologist respond to a hurried call.

One happy angle about this mystery is that bass do not seem to be affected by whatever the blight may be. No bass were reported — or rather — but few were killed and these of very small size.

All kinds of answers have been offered by our fishing brores in efforts to figure the mystery out. Some claim a wandering shell bounced from Buma Hill while others have dark notions that poachers may have been at work.. but nothing points out in justification of either guess.

So far as can be discerned Harp's is the only post pond affected by whatever it is—a something which we hope the state scientists will find through their usually thorough investigations and testings.

Now that the weather is cooling fishermen are connecting with big fellas at the last pond you'd expect — King's.

One five- and a couple of four-pounders were taken one evening recently — and argue that out over your coffee cups! Were those big lunkers "holdovers" from the draining of the pond, did they come in by way of Upper King's — or they the result of expert pond management?

To my mind the answer could be a combination of the last two points. Healthy fish came into King's during a heavy overflow and waxed fat in the fertilized waters — or at least that's my version.

At any rate, there's fine fishing to be had at King's. Cool, clear evenings with little breeze ought to be right up the fly fisherman's alley.

OC Gets Rabbit During Training

The 50th Officer Candidate Company, 5th Student Battalion, The Student Brigade, recently completed its twelfth week of training. The week featured patrolling activities that included heli-borne simulated combat patrolling.

The Escape and Evasion Course was highlighted, when during the Survival Training Technique class, Candidate Allen M. Goss, a trained psychotherapist, demonstrated his gentle touch by subduing a wild rabbit.

The rodent was then cooked and eaten in the true "rough-it" style. Goss has since won the nickname, "The Gentle Rabbit Killer."

Flying Grandma at 73 'Trains' as Astronaut

LANGLEY AFB, Va. (AFPS) — "I don't think I'd make a good astronaut," said Mrs. Zaddie Bunker after spending 43 minutes in the "Alpha trainer" used to teach the astronauts of Project Mercury how to control their space vehicles.

Mrs. Bunker at 73 is America's "Flying Grandmother." She didn't take to the air until she was 65, but since then she has flown just about every type of aircraft from a single-engine light plane to a supersonic Air Force jet.

Proud wearer of the Mach Buster pin which denotes that she once broke the sound barrier, the spry septuagenarian makes hops around the country from her Palm Springs, Calif. home in a Navion single-engine light plane. Visiting the headquarters of the Tactical Air Command here, she had hoped to meet the astronauts, but they were in Texas for their annual physical check up.

Invited by their public affairs director, Lt. Col. John A. Powers, to take a whirl in the training machine, Mrs. Bunker enthusiastically wriggled into an oversize flying suit and climbed aboard at the manual controls. Before her eyes was a huge depiction of the world as it would be seen by a space man from 100 miles up, flying at 18,000 miles an hour.

"In outer space you can't just establish a bank and neutralize your controls like you do in an airplane," Col. Powers told her. "To maintain your position you have to use opposite controls."

When he cut the machine's restrainers loose it promptly went into a tilt that became a dizzying spin — not exactly a welcome sensation to a lady of 73. Try as she might — and she tried gallantly — Mrs. Bunker couldn't right the trainer and stabilize it. She did manage to settle it down somewhat, but she never achieved complete control.

"Once," she laughed, "I even lost sight of the world."

Would she like to take a trip to the moon? The amazing aviatrix, in high good humor, shook her head. "I think I'd like to see more of the world itself before I get out of it."

BOND REVIEW .... Brig. Gen. John E. Kelly, deputy post commander, (L) and Col. Sears Coker, 151st Engineer Group commander, review the unit at ceremonies last Saturday honoring the 577th Engineer Battalion for its outstanding achievement in the Army Savings Program. Gen. Kelly presented the Third Army Savings Award to the battalion and an Army Minute Man Award to each of the companies in the battalion during the ceremonies.

'Key With CQ' -- Note Inside Locked Door

First Lt. Ted Ponfil of The Infantry Center's SJA section used to tell of the letter he received saying the sender "would've sent an owed $10.00 but had 'sealed the envelope before he thought to include it — but today, he has another.

It seems that in working over the last week-end the SJA officer had to have access to a certain room in Building 5 and searched high and low for the key.

Finally, he procured a master key from the Building CQ and opened the door to be confronted with a neatly printed sign:

"Lt. Ponfil, if you want to get into this room, you may get a key from the CQ," it read.

The element of doubt did not exist — there it was in black and white, and duly authenticated by signature.

Bringing long years of legal training to bear the lieutenant swiftly rendered a decision—picking up a pencil he added a single line to the sign:

"Because I didn't get your note, I couldn't get in."

At this writing there's a slightly dazed clerk in the SJA Section.

Late Start

In the first two years of the War - Between - the - States, the only victories won by the Union Forces were spearheaded by the 1st Infantry under General U. S. Grant.

Capt. Bramblet Assigned To Post Protocol Division

Captain William B. Bramblet has been assigned to The Infantry Center Protocol Division in charge of arrangements for U. S. visitors.

A 1954 graduate of Indiana University, he attended The Infantry School's basic officer and Ranger courses in 1954-1955.

He began a tour with the 371st Armored Infantry Battalion at Nuremberg, Germany, in April, 1955, then joined the Second Armored Infantry Battalion of the 38th Infantry, 2nd Armored Division at Baumholder, Germany, in September, 1957. In January of the following year, he gyroscoped with the unit to Fort Hood.

Capt. Bramblet was a student in The Infantry School's officer career course in 1960-1961. He served in The School's Combat Developments Office from May until assuming his present duties.

Correction

Time and place of the Fort Benning-Columbus Citadel Club meeting has been changed.

New time is 7 to 9 p.m. tomorrow at the post's Country Club.

Major Joseph Greene at 545-1363 or Capt. Robert Poydasheff at 545-2632 may be contacted for additional information.

Fire Cause

Smokers again lead in contributing to the largest percentage of fires throughout the United States. Many fires are caused at Fort Benning as results of careless disposal of lighted smoking material and smoking in bed.

The Civilians You Work With

Angalea P. Jenkins is a clerk typist with the Advanced Tactics, Personnel and Logistics Committee of The Infantry School's Command and Staff Department, and has been in this postion since 1958.

Typing problems that are presented to the students attending The Infantry School officer efficiency reports and general correspondence for her section are her main responsibilities.

The ATP&L Committee is concerned with the instruction of OCS, Career, Associate Career and National Guard classes at The School.

Mrs. Jenkins worked at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Dublin, Ga., as a correspondence and record clerk from 1948 to 1954.

Sandra C. Foster is presently employed as a clerk stenographer with the Infantry School's Fundamentals, Review and Doctrine Section, of the Command and Staff Department.

Mrs. Foster's main responsibilities as a clerk stenographer with this section deals with typing training literature for students at The School. The literature consists mostly of field manuals. Typing general correspondence for the section is also one of her duties.

Mrs. Foster is a native of Columbus and a graduate of Jordan High School. She has been employed by the Civil Service since July of 1960.

JENKINS

BRIEFED . . . Major Gen. John Theimer (R), Army chief of civil affairs, is briefed by Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles, Infantry School assistant commandant, on civil affairs instruction at The School. Gen. Theimer made a two day visit to the post recently.

Rifle Production To Be Increased

A third commercial production source has been selected by the Army for the M-14 rifle according to a release from Army News Service.

Thompson - Ramo - Woolridge, Inc., of Cleveland, Ohio, has been awarded a contract amounting to $15,076,234 for production of 100,000 M-14 rifles and is scheduled to begin initial deliveries of the weapons in 13 months.

The M-14, capable of both automatic and semi-automatic fire, presently is being produced by the Winchester-Western Division of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., New Haven, Conn., and Harrington and Richardson, Inc., Worcester, Mass.

Forest Fire Dangers Told

Danger of forest fires on post is increasing hourly, post Forestry officials report.

As the Bayonet goes to press, the Burning Index stands at Four on a five-point scale and, if humidity remains low, the Index is sure to jump to Five . . . to indicate that extreme danger exists.

At this stage all foresters go on an emergency stand-by basis, the post Fire Department stays on its toes, and troop units are alerted to their possible use in fighting forest or brush fires.

Extreme conditions will exist until now tinder-dry grass and leaves receive a thorough soaking by heavy rains. The Foresters ask co-operation of everyone on post to do everything possible to keep down chances of fire during the critical conditions which are so swiftly building.

Health Benefits Forms Are Soon Due for Return

Civilian employees who plan to enroll in the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program should submit completed registration forms by October 16, according to officials of the Infantry Center Civilian Personnel Section.

Open season for the health benefit plan began October 1 and will continue through October 16.

During the open season, new enrollments will be accepted and members will be permitted to make changes in their enrollment.

Eligible employees have been furnished a pamphlet giving information on a government - wide service benefit plan and indemnity plan provided for in the Federal Employee's Health Benefits Act of 1959.

Brochures on the plans included in the program are also available through supervisors or at the Civilian Personnel Section, Building 1620.

Is Your Child Safe?

Killers On The Loose! Watch That Poison!

Poison Danger Warning Issued By Post's Martin Army Hospital

BY IDA C. EVANS

Tragic death or crippling of your child is an ever-present threat in your home—ironically, even in the cleanest of homes—for many of the ordinary cleaning products are responsible for accidental poisoning, long hospitalization, or death, according to Martin Army Hospital officials.

Simple medications from aspirin to vitamin pills are among offenders that can cause a frantic rush to the hospital with a limp or lifeless child or one in frightening convulsions.

Insect spray, washing bleach or bowl cleansers are such ordinary items in the home that parents do not think of them as killers—and leave them within reach of tiny, inquiring fingers.

No parent would hand a child a bottle or package marked with skull and crossbones, yet within easy reach under the kitchen sink or in open cabinets, there may be roach tablets, lighter fluid, lye, rat poison, household cleansers or spot removers, all of which can be fatal to a child.

The bathroom medicine cabinet is the most convenient but not the safest place to keep rubbing alcohol, deodorant, styptic pencil, sleeping pills, nose drops, aspirin, pain killers or even shampoo. Little children are being poisoned by such common products as these more frequently than by adult prescriptions left carelessly on bedside tables.

Keeping medicine and cleansers out of reach is not enough. They should be stored under lock and key.

The kitchen and bathroom are not the only danger areas for the child in your home.

That bottle of ink in the den, the moth crystals in the clothes closet, the turpentine used to clean a paint brush and left on the back porch—any of these may start you on that race with death which a parent can never forget, even if the child recovers.

Death for your child may lurk in your trash can or that of your neighbor. An old medicine bottle, a pill box with a few remaining pills in it—so old you couldn't remember what they were for—or an almost empty household cleanser container thrown into the trash can may take the life of your own or a neighbor's child.

To be absolutely safe, completely destroy all old pills, medications and dangerous liquids.

That little children should have a proper place in which to grow up was in the heart and mind of President Kennedy as he wrote his proclamation of National Day of Prayer, October 4. In that Proclamation, the President asked prayers that ". . . they may have the best opportunities we can provide in which to grow in body, mind, and spirit. . ."

Prayer without action is not enough, however. Parents are responsible for and can largely control the environment their children have to grow up in during their early years.

To make the home the safe place your child requires, keep all medications, lotions, cleansers, hair preparations, insecticides, inks, dyes and detergents under lock and key, is the advice of Major Anna A. Turek, post health nurse.

Never leave any of these items lying around when the house even for a few minutes and, if you have to answer the door or telephone, take the cleanser you are using with you, Major Turek said.

As soon as you get home from the commissary or grocery store, unload and properly store your purchases. You may buy many poisonous, killing agents right along with the cookies and tid-bits so tempting to a child.

If your child eats, drinks or inhales something combustible, take him immediately to the Emergency Room, Martin Army Hospital, to the Poison Control Center at the Medical Center in Columbus, or to a doctor, whichever is nearer, the Army Nurse advises.

Col. William A. Todd, Martin Army Hospital commander, is deeply concerned about accidental poisoning among children and is emphasizing strict precautionary measures by parents to prevent such tragedies.

The most vulnerable age for accidental poisoning in the home is from one to three

Chaplain Robert Hawn New Episcopal Mission Priest

The new priest of St. Michael's Episcopal Mission Chapel 3 on post is Chaplain (Capt.) Robert H. Hawn.

Chaplain Hawn comes to the post from Fort Slocum, N.Y., where he attended the Chaplain's School.

A B.S. graduate of the University of Utah in Logan, Chaplain Hawn received his theological training at Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley, Calif., where he was awarded a bachelor of divinity degree.

The priest received his original commission at Fort Benning in 1946 when he was graduated from Officer Candidate School.

During the Korean conflict, he was assigned to the 72nd Tank Battalion, 2nd Infantry Division, and later with the division's 38th Infantry Regiment.

He has served 89 months overseas.

Among his awards and decorations are a Purple Heart and a Combat Infantryman Badge.

Loyalty

The Nashville police recently arrested a man for stealing the keys from the barred door of a police prisoner's van. A prisoner inside saw him take the keys and told police.
