COMING?

Don't raise the white flag. Call us. We've got what it takes to feed on army. Tender and tasty Kentucky Fried Chicken, made with Calonel Sanders' original recipe so it's finger lickin' ood. We do the cooking. All you have to do is bring it home and serve it Up to the troops. And don't be surprised if they salute.

Children can pick up diseases from pets Pet owners with small children should take particular pains to see that their pets are free of and help to maintain natural appearance and facial expression.

warns an editorial in the current issue of the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical As-

The editorial explains that the microscopic eggs of a common worm (Toxocara Canis) found in pups and kittens can be transferred to children, afflicting them with a disease known as visceral larva migrans. The disease results from visceral larva migrans. Ine disease results from migration of worm larvae through various body tissues. The infection is easily acquired by pre-school children because of their propensity for sucking toys or fingers which have become contaminated with these eggs.

The enforcement of hygienic practices in the home, keeping young children from over-ly intimate association with young dogs and cats, and the elimination of worm-caused infections in pups and kittens is the surest way of preventing the spread of this disorder to children,

Veterinarians have long urged pet owners to have their dogs and cats dewormed for the pet's own well-being. Now, it is pointed out by the editorial, deworming is even more important because of the danger of worm infection ant because of the danger of worm infection in children. Even if the presence of internal parasites is not readily apparent, periodic examination of dogs and other pets by a veterinarian should be made, the editorial writer admon

"Recent estimates indicate that there are 18,000,000 dog-owning families in the United States today and that as many as 90 per cent of young pups are infected with these worms," the editorial states.

Especially serious is the lodging of larvae the childrens' eye structures, a condition which may cause visual disturbance.

Periodic exams assure proper fit of dentures

Most scientists agree that permanent teeth should last throughout one's lifetime. Unfortunateone's literime. Unfortunately, however, far too many of these teeth are lost prematurely because of disease, abuse, neglect or excessive wear. Should the unfortunate likelihood come to pass wherein all the teeth are lost, they should be replaced as soon

All denture wearers should have their mouths samined at frequent inter-vals, by a dentist, to as-sure proper fit. The pro-cess of aging causes un-derlying gums and bony structures to shrink and change shape. This shrink-do age in turn causes the den-ture to become loose, ir-ritate the tissues, impair ful.

chewing of food and change the Iacial expression. Pro-longed irritation from an ill-fitting denture may be dangerous.

Improperly fitting den-tures should be rebuilt or replaced. Under no cir-cumstances should they be expected to last indefinite-ly.

The road hogs and inconsiderate drivers, given that extra few yards between two carsywill quickly pass and then swerve in between you and the car in front. This of course is extremely dangerous since you have to brake in order to avoid hitting the intruder.

For example, on the way to Fort Benning in the mornings, the Lumpkin Road traffic is very heavy and congested—bumper to bumper. Being a safety conscious driver: I try to stay a

Suggestion Awards Given For Ideas

A Fort Benning enlisted man, Sp5 James S. Fountain, who figured out a way to save the government $6,000 per year, received a $75 In-centive Award in a ceremony

Thursday at Stryker Hall.

A member of the Airborne
Department's Pathfinder
Committee, Fountain proposed the use of discarded ammunition boxes to simulate vehicles in heavy drop train-ing, rather than non-servic-able vehicles. Commanding General's Armed Forces Day Message

Armed Forces Day 1966 finds the Infantryman with bayonet fixed, face to face with a ruthless Communist enemy. On him rests the awesome responsibility of determining the ultimate fate of freedom throughout the world.

The "Power for Peace" theme for this day takes on a vivid meaning when we relate it to this combat soldier. It is to him that we dedicate Armed Force Day and reaffirm our faith in his professional excellence and the cause for which he fights and dies. We shall be reminded of our own commitments and responsibilities on Satur-day, 21 May, when we commemorate Armed Forces Day with a special open cians in the Army is not sufficent to meet the demand.

Illya Kuryakin (The Man From U.N.-C.L.E.) is a good guy who always wins, some-how. His unrealistic, "way-out" methods lead us to believe that the business of espionage and counterespionage is exciting, roman-tic . . and honorable.

But what about the losers? U.N.C.L.E.'s enemies who have sold out country, family and friends? The guys people like Kuryakin chase through sex and fantasies?

The two sides of the picture are shown in a recent analysis of the cases of espionage, subversive activity, and defection by U.S. Army personnel, civilians and dependents since WW II. One side is the glamor epitomized by Kuryakin and the "image" of the good guy. The other is the bleak facts about WHY the losers choose the hopeless path of the traitor.

Why do people become traitors? Who be-comes a traitor? Why type of man will sell out his country and military associates?

Surprisingly enough, the analysis revealed that the greatest security threat to the U.S. Army is the man with the good record and not the man who has political conviction or who has been converted to communism.

He starts with a lack, or temporary slippage, of individual control. This easily leads and sometimes cancer page, of individual control. This easily leads to specific problems — illicit sexual relationships, gambling, or drunkeness. These factors, lead in turn, to disciplinary problems and actions by commanders. This may spawn initial pressures on, and resentment by, the subject.

. The resulting attitude may lead to the in-. The resulting attitude may lead to the individual's search for solace and sympathy. He compounds the original problems of conduct with a few extra drinks, a soft ferminne should be a solated as the search of th with a lew extra grims, a soft feminine shoul-der, or gambling. The ensuing drunkeness, loss of pay, the marital problems and indebt-edness all-make him an easy prey for subtle, or even direct, approach by our enemies.

The facts are plain. The man hostile in-telligence services most likely can use is the man they can most easily recruit through exploitation of his personal weaknesses,

In all cases, spies and defectors alike, the In an cases, spies and derectors anke, the following factors have been found to pre-dominate, either singly or in combination: (1) Excessive indebtedness or recurring financial difficulties

(2) Homosexual, criminal, or immoral con-

(3) Excessivé drinking or use of narcotics.(4) Unexplainable affluence.

(5) Questionable or unauthorized contact with representatives of foreign governments or

(6) Repetitive absence without leave.

(7) Mental or emotional instability.

In practically all cases, after-the-fact in-In practically all cases, after the ract investigation revealed that these indicators were known to someone prior to the individual's defection or detection of his involvement in espionage. In many cases they were a matter of official record.

Consistent observation by competent leadership at all levels will provide the continuing evaluation to overcome character weaknesses which are the greatest threat to our security. Further, discussion of personal and official problems by individuals with supervisors and commanders can avoid their magnification in the mind of the individual concerned and hopefully the ill-conceived, personal decision which can only lead to tragedy.

ARMED FORCES DAY is . et aside each year to honor set aside each year to honor America's men and women in uniform. Their sacrifices protect our way of life and safeguard our nation's proud heritage of liberty for future generations. (ANF)

Visiting unnecessary during today's short hospital stays

When a patient was admitted to an American hospital 25 years ago, he could anticipate a long confinement — frequently more

Doctors at that time, without the knowledge and confidence that were later to be instilled in them by the growth of modern medicine, thought it wise to keep patients hos-pitalized until their recovery was almost com-

Hospitals, in effect, were both medical centers and hotels for convalescents. Daily routines were leisurely. Patients had little to do. As a means of alleviating restlessness and boredom, which at that time were constant and serious problems, visitors were urged to stay long and come often.

Today the situation is different. Hospitals no longer serve a secondary function as hotels for the convalescent. When a patient is headed toward a safe recuperation, he is quickly released and sent home. He can usually heal there just as rapidly as anywhere else - and, of course, at less cost than in a hospital room,

The length of the average hospital confinement has thus been reduced to barely a

But during that week, today's average patient is genuinely sick — too sick to appreciate an abundance of callers—and when not too sick, too busy. The complex procedures of present-day medicine—which visitors can easily upset, by the way — leave little opportunity for

Therefore, many doctors now encourage the public to delay any visits until their sick friends go home where they can meet in relaxed surroundings. While the patient is still in a hospital bed, greeting cards, gifts, or short telephone calls are more appropriate ihort telephone calls are more appropriate than personal visits.

Nor are doctors alone in these views. Most atients themselves, when not encumbered by act, show similar preferences. They would rather endure their discomfort in private especially if it lasts no longer than a week than be forced to play host to a long string of callers when they neither feel nor look

Playing host can be exhausting, particularly in a hospital. Doctors often notice on their Monday morning rounds that a patient's condition has deteriorated after a weekend crammed

If hospital visits are no longer encouraged If hospital visits are no longer encouraged, how can people show their concern for sick friends? In addition to cards and dephone calls, there are dezens of practical techniques of the cards and the cook. If so, her family would welcome cook. If so, her family would welcome invitation, or even a hot dish delivered to the door. There may also be children who need someone to watch them while their fathers is at work or out shooning. ther is at work or out shopping.

Small favors, and their number is limit-less, may take even less time and less in convenience than would otherwise be spent on a trip to the hospital. But the patient, when he learns of your helpfulness, will appreciate your effort substantially more than if you'd physically come to his sickbed.

Driving Test Showing Set For Tuesday

Infantry Center personnel are being encouraged to participate in "The New National Driver's Test," which will be televised in color over the CBS network (Channel 3) Tuesday at 10 p.m.

The test is the second in a series of safety specials which won wide acclaim about a year ago. The new test will cover key areas of traffic fatalities not included in the first broadcast.

Viewers will again have a chance to match their scores against a pre-select-ed sample representing a cross - section of drivers across the nation. Their resulfs will be flashed to the viewer along with the cor rect answers following each question.

This year's test will in clude more questions and will cover a broader range of driving experiences.

"With what we learned from last year's test," said Norman M. Evans, USAIC Safety Director, "this year's program should give each of us who drive a real insight to our capabilities behind the wheel of

In endorsing the drivers' test. Evans urged everyone to actively support the pro-gram. He said that each civilian employee and military member will be sup-plied with a test form and urged to take the test with their families.

The program is pro-duced by CBS News in cooperation with the National Safety Council and International Business Ma chines.

For additional information about the drivers' test, contact the USAIC test, contact Safety Branch.

On this Armed Forces Day, all Americans can take great pride in the magnificent man-ner in which our Army and our other military services are meeting the challenge to freedom throughout the world.

During the past year the Army bas successfully accomplished many important and difficult tasks. More than 200,000 men have been added to the active Army. We have increased the number of trainees in our training centers by 60 per cent. Most importantly over 140,000 soldiers have been deployed 10,000 miles to South Viet Nam. The performance of hese Americans on the battlefields of Viet Nam is an inspiration to us all.

I am extremely proud of the way the men and women of the US Army have responded to the demands of the past year. Their dedi-cated efforts and willing sacrifices are worthy of our highest praise and admiration.

Trainees Given Vivid Lesson in Intelligence

Capt. Joseph B. Planche, a believer in realistic training, gave the men of Company B, 3rd Battalion, 1st Brigade, ATC, a lesson in combast intelligence they will not soon forget.

In order to bring home the point that effective com-bat intelligence begins with the individual soldier, he interspaced his lecture with attention-getting skits.

Planche, a Viet Nam veteran, heightend the real-ism of his skits by using a number of unusual training number of unusual training aids. Trainees were treated to the sight of coole hatted "Viet Cong" guerrillas dressed in authentic Vietnamese peasant black pajamas. Armed with deadly looking tommy guns, demolition charges, and an all mm morter the trainer. 81 mm mortar, the "Viet Cong" were bent on de-stroying a nearby bridge. Unfortunately for the "Viet Cong," they were captured by a squad of soldiers led by Sgt. Axel H. Lenz.

When asked his objective in teaching the class, Planche answered, "I be-lieve it is my duty to teach

Memorial Day 1966 is time of fresh loss and memories

Memorial Day is a somber occasion for Americans, It is a time to awaken memories of friends. relatives, and thousands of young men who have died in the service of the nation. This year, it is also a time to learn to live with the fresh loss of those who have given their lives in the Republic of Viet Nam.

For the men and women of the armed forces, Memorial Day women or the armed forces, Memorial Day is all these things and more. John McRae, in his poem, In Flanders, Fields, wrote, "If ye break faith with us who die — We shall not sleep, though poppies grow - In Flanders fields."

The first line of the triplet, "If ye break faith with us who die," echoing from the bat-tlefields of World War I, should ring through the thoughts of every man and woman in uni-

Those who died, not just in World Wars I and II, but through all our nation's strug-gles, including the Cold War, have left behind a trust that their sacrifices be given meaning by the continuation and growth of the American nation in a free world.

The serviceman and woman of today carthe serviceman and woman or toway carries a heavy part of this trust. It is only through faith, through courage and stead-fastness, that those who lie in Flanders fields, in Hawaii, at Arlington, Valley Forge and Get-tysburg, and those who have died in the tysburg, and those who nave comes in sweating jungles of Viet Nam, may sleep.

Accidents cost dollars and thousands of lives

Many bright ideas and money-saving suggestions have been contributed in the Depart-ment of Defense drive for cost reduction. Tens of thousands of servicemen and women all over the world daily make a real effort to cut where the biggest waste of all occurs - ac-

Accidents can cost grief and loss of life.

Others may involve personal injuries. They all cost dollars — millions of dollars annually. They also deter military readiness, the product of defense dollars.

Accidents are caused for the most part either by human or mechanical failure. Often mechanical failure can be traced back to human oversight.

No one will ever devise a system to eliminate accidents completely, but everyone can contribute toward reducing them. The effort will often save lives. It will always save dol-

Every man and woman in uniform and every civilian working for the services is armed with the primary weapon in this war against accidents. That weapon is forethought. A little time and a little care can make the difference

Is the electric toothbrush luxury or is it preferred?

QUESTION: How good is the electric toothbrush? Is it just a luxury item or is it preferable to the regular toothbrush?

ANSWER: Suppose you were asked, "How good is the automatic transmission in your car? Is it just a luxury item or is preferable to the regular transmission. Obviously, both types of transmissions perform the same function—that of im-parting movement to the vehicle. In the case of the automatic, however, a good deal of manual manipula-tion has been elminated.

Both types of toothbrushes accomplish similar re-sults. Were you to brush your teeth for 3 minutes after each meal or snack, with conscientious care and thoroughness, you probably wouldn't need an electric you take the time neces-sary to maintain proper oral health with the type of brush you have. Chances are that you don't. If you are willing to set aside a reasonable amount of brushing time, the electric toothbrush will prove to be an invaluable aid in the maintenance of that whole-some smile and superior dental health.

The answer to the origin-il question therefore de-

Arctic and Antarctic

Americans still explore last surface frontiers of earth

The Vikings, in their pagan religion, had a vision of Hell as being a place where ige and cold stretched into eternity. To those who have dared the frozen wastes of the arctic, and more recently the antarctic, this picture is perhaps understandable.

Yet, despite hardship, cold and danger, men have and continue to dare. April 6, 1908, Robert E. Perry, an American naval officer, reached the north pole. Roughly 20 years later another naval officer, Richard E. Byrd, flew an aircraft over the south pole.

The search and exploration of earth's last

In search and exploration of earth's last surface frontiers has not been limited to the United States or military men. But the United States frequently acting through its military arm, has been among the leaders in this exploration. Always, the primary goal of such efforts has been the advancement of man's knowledge. knowledge.

This search for knowledge at the top and bottom of the world continues today with members of each of the armed services contributing a share.

Nightmares 'antasıes BY STEPHEN FLEMING

Spread across the nar-row width and shallow depth of average Ameri-can cultural life, dotting the map with look-alike plays in towns fast growing into look-alike cities, the little theatres exist.

And in many cases that's all they do - squat on their haunches like beggars feeding from themselves and the generosity of businessmen hoping to "up-grade" (the IN word for last year, folks) their im-present aging Broadway successes, some-times good — though rarely picked because of that --and almost always dated years ago. The theory be-hind most little theatre productions demands little concern for quality and maximum care in putting the most people in the most lavish costumes in front of the most massive sets.

Our Exception But there are exceptions. And our own Fort Benning Little Theatre seems to be judge the concern of the group's people by Wes Carr, director of FBLT's "Glass Menagerie," open-ing Wednesday for a four night run at the Playhouse behind the Infantry Muse

Now he's taking on Tenessee Williams, one of the best and, of course, most difficult of American play-difficult or American play-wrights.

Talking to the writer-ed-itor for the Infantry Agen-cy, you get the feeling he has lived with "Menagerie" a long time, exploring its possible interpretations, researching its productions.

Familiar People

He talks about Williams' four characters — Tom, Amanda, Laura and the Gentleman Caller — like they were people he met daily for lunch. "Tom is bonest. He remembers the others fancifully, but you can see in his impatience with Amanda and Laura that he remem-

And Tom is the play's center. He must put across the fact that is essential to Carr's interpretation of e play. Les Muchmore, the role, must establish the fact "that the play is actually Tom's memory."

They have the most seats, because they have the most jets!"

Come to where the seats are--United

When you have someone mighty important waiting, a thousand miles away and when you have just 48 hours to catch up on six months of living . . .

. . . then, friend, you need a friend. Come to where you'll find one. United Air Lines. We fly more jets with more seats to more U.S. cities than any other airline. We've probably saved more romances and kept more servicemen from being AWOL, than any other airline, too.

Men and women in uniform, with authorized military leave or furlough papers, fly (stand-by) at 50% off regular Coach fare. (This rate also applies within 7 days after discharge.) They can sit wherever the seats are, even in First Class when the other seats are filled.

So next time you want to get the most mileage out of your pass or leave, see your Joint Airline Office, Travel Agent, or us, United Air Lines.

WASHINGTON - Defens has asked Congress to pass a modified version of last year's law which authorizes the government to take privately-owned houses off the hands of owners at closed military bases, according to Arm;

Last year's law permits the Secretary of Defense to buy houses of servicemen and civil servants when the local housing market collapses be-cause the military base is closed. But the law was nev-er put into effect, because Defense never asked for the necessary money, and Con-gress never appropriated any.

Deputy Assistant Defense Secretary John Reed this week spelled out some of the details of the Pentagon's new — and less expensive — pro-posal to help these home-owders. He told the Senate Banking and Currency Committee that the new proposal, if enacted, would help about 13,000 military families and about 31,000 civil servant who are stuck with home they cannot sell.

The new Defense proposal now getting clearance through the Budget Bureau, carrier a deductible feature such as is found in casualty insurance policies. It would offer the stuck homeowner three choices:

90 Per Cent

Ninety per cent of fair market value before the base closing announcement was made, less 25 per cent of the decline in value after the an-

The amount of the outstanding mortgage in the case of FHA - insured or VA- guar-anteed mortgages, or the amount of the outstanding conventional mortgage up to 90 per cent of prior market

In addition, Reed explain ed, the formula would contain an incentive to sell the house privately, in the form of a eash payment to cover par the selling costs.

Cover Bases The proposal would cover all hases where the housing market has collapses as a result of base - closing an-nouncements made since November 1964 Reed told the committee that Defense held up on the house - huying law last year hecause "we do not feel it would be in the government's interest . . . as now written." He said Defense objected to ese features of the exist-

It is based entirely on the concept of government ac-quisition and there is no provision made for cases where the home is sold privately, the home is some privatery, with the government perhaps making up some of the loss. The law's wording on "Average prices" would lead to protracted disputes.

SUMMER ENJOYMENT

With warmer weather definitely on the way, thoughts start to wander to the beaches and shores of inland and coastal resort areas. A three day pass can get you anywhere from the Florida coast (Atlantic or Gulf) to the Carolina seashore. Resort areas for fishing, surfing, sunning and a host of other sports await "those who think young" and, who knows, while you are roaming the sands of the different cases you just might run into a sweet young Miss such as pretty Morisa Mell (left) who is just dying to meet the local populace. It'll be fun time this summer wherever you go along the beaches

During the early runnings of the Indianap-olis '500', racing enthusiasts could build, finance and drive their own cars and quite frequently did. In one instance a young driver quently did. In one instance a young driver plad $10 for an old DeSoto engine, installed it in his home made machine and came close to qualifying for that year's 500? Another paid $2,000 out of his own pocket for a stock automobile and finished with the first 10 places stick. The best of the field two years in a row. Since the first few years when can call.

A competitor can't loose too many times and stay above the rising tide of production costs. Is it worth it? It can't be for the loser, but the driving obsession of the men who build and pilot these Indianapolis racers — and chance that long shot at the most coveted prize of auto racing-says yes. Power Struggle

Minutes after last year's 49th Annual In-dianapolis Race thundered to a close, a tremendous power struggle took place and produced some of the most exotic racing machines ever to compete for a position on the brickyard circuit.

A new stock Chevy powered racer was developed, Novi submitted a new V8 with a whopping 780 H.P. and a new supercharged version of the Offenhauser engine was introduced with an output rated above Ford's 500

most varied field in the 50 year history of the (Brickyard Bonanza) the final list of qualifiers shows only two names. The only serious threat to the new comer Fords will come from the new Offenhauser entries-the only other man ufacturer to qualify cars for this year's Me-morial Day Spectacular. All but one of the 33 racers running in the 66 indy are styled in the Grand Prix rear engine design.

Drivers starting this year's '500' in Ford powered cars include: last year winner, Jimmy Clarke; National USAC Champion Mario Andreti (winner of this year's pole position with a record lan average of 165.98 MPH) and A. J. Foyt, the winningest driver in the business and former Offv supporter.

Nine of the first 10 qualifiers are Ford powered and 23 out of a field of 33 qualifiers are powered by Ford, making them a unani-mous choice to run away with the 50th Anniversary of the Indianapolis '500'.

Monday's Memorial Day Race will be tele-cant live ever closed circuit television at the Bradley Theater starting at 12:30 p.m., Menday, May 36th.

Thirteen easy steps to help foul common barracks thief

A few simple precautions can greatly re-A few sunpe precautons can greatly restrict the success of the common barrack's thiet, according to the Provost Marshal. Unfortunately, the honest person seldom thinks that his property will be taken, and fails to take these precautions.

The thief has the advantage in that, like the Viet Cong, he can pick his time and place.

He may carefully plan his theft, or he may be given an opportunity hy a careless person to commit an easy crime. In either case, the careful soldier can take definite precautions to head him off

According to the Provost Marshal, the following precautions are effective safeguards:

1. Remember that you are responsible for your personal property.

2. Check on personal property regularly so that you will be able to notify the Military Police immediately if it is missing.

3. Mark your initials on valuables not having serial numbers, to include the wheels and hub caps of your privately owned vehi-

4. Make it a habit on pay day to record the serial numbers of the larger bills you re-ceive. Do not keep the list of serial numbers with the money,
5. Open a bank account or buy bonds.

6. Do not carry more money than you can afford to lose.

7. Do not loan money or property to personnel with whom you are not well acquainted. Career tips 8. Do not leave keys to lockers and automobiles in locks, boots, under towels, in pockets of unsecured clothing, or any other obvious

9. Do not protect a thief by not reporting him. You could be his next victim. 10. Do not accept rides with strangers, particularly at night.

11. Do not leave keys to vehicles in the ignition switch, glove compartment, over sun visor, under floor mats, at in ash trays.

12. Do not leave property where if may be observed in parked vehicles.

Increased aircraft use opens field for mechanics

The modern Army is moving more and more toward the use of helicopters and fixed wing aircraft in combat operations of all types. To keep Army aircraft flying, the U.S. Army Transportation School conducts highly important course in the repair of aircraft rotors and propellers.

Upon successful completion of the 15 week course, a student is well qualified for the MOS of Aircraft Rotor and Propellor Repairman. Men awarded this MOS will be in an occupational field classified as critical. an occupatonal nead classified as critical. This means that graduates of this course are in an excellent position for rapid promotion and are eligible for $50 per month proficiency pay. The MOS is listed in the Variable Re-cy pay. The MOOS is listed in the Variable Re-enlistment Bonus program under state num-ber 4, the highest bonus paid. Prerequisites for the course include good near vision and eye-hand coordination with normal color perception, standard score of 100 or higher in the aptitude area MM and 13 months or more of active duty service replaces to be during a thun-maining after completion of the course.

ACROSS FROM BAKER HIGH SCHOOL ON BENNING DRIVE

This office is the center of South Columbus—just a few blocks from Ft. Benning's Main Entrance.

Because of its size, length of stay and "All the Way" reputation, the 173rd Air-borne Brigade was chosen by the people of Rochester in January, 1966, to be that city's channel of support for the fighting men in Viet Nam.

Throught the leadership of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the people of Roches ter wrote to Gen. Westmore land in late January stating Brigade and if it could be ar-ranged for a representative to attend a week of celebrations held in honor of the 173rd Airborne Brigade. The letter was forwarded to Gen. Wil. liamson, who took action to see that the city's request was answered

Over-exposure to sun Extremely dangerous

The sun is beneficial to all living things. The sun is our friend and like any friend, it should be treated with proper respect. It is never the sun's fault if you allow a severe sunburn or other solar injuries to spoil your vacation, keep you from work, or put you under a

A sunburn is similar to a heat or fire burn. A sunburn is similar to a neat or nre ourn, it is commonly classified as first or second de-gree burns. Damage may vary from a mild, uncomfortable redness to a painful, extensive skin eruption of blisters and in severe circumstances, fever, chills, pain, and swelling, even advancing to shock and delirium.

For the average adult, 15 or 20 minutes on the first day is the maximum limit of safety. This period should be much less for children since they can stand only about half the ultra violet light exosure of an adult. In the United States, there is more skin cancer in the Southern states where there is also more sunshine.

Sun tan preparations vary a great deal in composition and effectiveness and the ultimate test is that of actual use. For best results, the preparations should be reapplied at least every two hours particularly to exposed areas of the nose, shoulders and V of the neck and more often if swimming removes it.

It is pretty much a matter of trial and error to determine the most effective sun tan preparation. This conclusion is drawn from a preparation. Ims conclusion is grawn from a study of 56 commercial sun tan creams, lotions, and oils. More than one-half did not list active ingredents on the label.

In any event, the technical names of ingredients and their qualities as light absorbers would be meaningful only to the especially informed. would be meaningful only to the especially in-formed. It is generally best to schedule your exposure to the sun gradually. Treat your friend the sun with deep respect, or the sun can treat you with a deep and painful burn or

Kolomoki State Park Is Versatile Facility

By Nathan Grace Bayonet Correspondent

KOLOMOKI MOUNDS STATE PARK, located approximately 90 miles due south of Fort Benning just off route 27, at Blakely, Georgia, has been officially designated as one of the 96 most important historical sites in the United States.

The park is named for an Indian tribe that inhabited this area during the 12th and 13th centuries and constructed a series of burial mounds of various sizes. Various arti-facts, exhumed from these mounds, are on display at a small museum on the park grounds.

Recreational facilities are plentiful and include a spacious picnic area with grills, tables and benches, some of which are sheltered. A nearby camping area is equipped with leveled sites, tables and benches, running water, eleteric outlets and clean modern comfort stations with hot showers. The 24 comfort stations with hot showers. The 24 hour camping fee is $2.00 per family. A separate group camp site is available for 100 persons or less.

For the water-skiing and fishing enthusiasts, an attractive 75 acre lake features a boat ramp, dock and beach area. Rental boats may be obtained at reasonable raties. Water-skiing is permitted on Wethunday. boats may be ontained at reasonable rates, Water-sking is permitted on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday only. A new outdoor swimming pool and concession stand round out the facilities at Kolomoki.

TEMPORARY CHANGE IN TRAFFIC PATTERN

TEMPORARY CHANGE... As part of the continuing Provost Marshall Traffic Engineering Program to expedite the safe and orderly flow of traffic on the installation, a proposed revision in traffic flow on Indianhead Road and Anthropolic and the continuation of the contin derson Street will be tested today through next Friday. Traffic lights at the intersection of Wold and Anderson will be placed on flash operation during the hours of 7 to 8 a.m. and from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. to give top priority of movement to North and Southbound traffic along Indianhead Road and Anderson Street, expediting vehicular movement for personnel going to and from places of work. As soon as results of this test are evaluated, announcement will be made as to whether this change in traffic pattern will be permanently adopted. This proposed revision in the traffic flow is intended to relieve the con-gestion throughout the Main Post and to expegestion throughout the Main Post and to expedite the safe flow of traffic.—Provost Marshall.

For some odd reason people are less thoughtful of others during the summertime than at any other time of the year. This is es-pecially true when it comes to participating in sports or just being a casual observer at a sporting event.

Take for example the poor fellow who is at the beach. Relaxing in the sun with his favorite female companion he is suddenly jarred by the fact that a beachball has just knocked him on the back of his head. No one ever gets hurt this way but what a shock it is. Then, to add this way out what a snock it is, then, to such insult to injury, as you turn over to see what is going on, the culprit who hit you with the ball, kicks and in your face as be runs over to retrieve it. In return all he says is, Thm sortium to the property of the says in the same than the says is. The sortium that the says is the same that th ry, it was just an accident. Certainly it was lets not let it happen again.

All along the East Coast from Kennebunkport, Maine to Miami, Florida, you, as a bare-foot beachwalker are found at least once this summer to step on a lit cigarette that has been carelessly discarded. That smarts.

Getting away from the beach for a minute, tennis matches at Forest Hills or Longwood usually have something in store for the un-suspecting spectator. Have you ever sat right behind a woman who is wearing an enormous sun hat? You don't see a thing plus the possibility of getting poked in the eye by loose piece of straw.

Race Week in Marblebead will provide unwanted happenings Imagine sailing along with a good 10 knot easterly wind in your jib when a speed boat passes within six feet of your craft. This could give you a few hair-raising moments. If luck is really against you, and your craft capsizes you will stay in the water for a few minutes while others pass you by, staring, of course, before some one will stop to help you right your boat again.

Water skiing can also be dangerous. For one reason or another when a skier loses his balance and falls, he is like a magnet to the other boats in the area. One could lose his head this way,

General Washington forged lasting force from patriots

General George Washington, wearing the buff and blue uniform of the Virginia militia, rode past the ragged groups of men clutch-ing their handmade muskets. These were the men of the first United States Army. Only a few days before on June 14, 1775, the Continental Congress had created the Army and named General Washington as its first commander. Yet Washington, riding among his troops, saw little outward evidence in these men of saw attile outward evidence in these men of an Army which could defeat the imperial might of Britain. In his diary, he wrote, "I found a mixed mulitude of people here, under very little discipline, order or government. Confusion and disorder reigned in every department".

ington had forged the patriotism of these de-termined men into a force which secured bold success at Trenton, valiant triumph at Saratoga and final victory, at Yorktown. Born 10 months before the United States itself was created, the Army purchased with blood and iron the freedom of the new nation.

In years to come, the Army's might and men grew as the United States expanded westward and became the bulwark of liberty around the world At Chateau-Thierry, Normandy and Pork Chop Hill, the Army made the world safer for Democracy.

This year, as the Army marked its 191st anniversary Tuesday, new soldiers in a new land had added the names Plei Me and la Drang Valley to the American lexicon of freedom. From a helicopter in Viet Nam, a patrol in Germany, an outpost in Korea, the Army celebrates its birthday. Its mission is unchanged since the days of Washington — to preserve and defend the United States and its allies from aggression.

Provost Marshal tips

Don't make a car thief's job easy; lock your car

Amid all the publicity given to the rising crime rates around the country, people con-tinue to make it easy for one of the most common types of criminals—the auto thief.

Granted, the lock on the average car door poses little problem to a skilled auto thief, but an unlocked car poses no problem at all for the skilled or unskilled criminal.

Everyone should protect himself from auto thieves by locking the ignition and all doors, and closing all windows, whenever he leaves

Thieves are tempted by packages left on the seats. Someone who had no intention of the seats. Someone who had no intention of committing a crime until he reached your car might be tempted to break in by the sight of packages or clothes on the seat.

Keys left in the ash tray or behind the sun shields are not really hidden. Every poten-tial car thief will look there as a matter of course. Credit cards or auto registration in the glove compartment aid the escape of a thief Don't leave keys, credit cards or registration certificates anywhere in your car.

Picking up hitchhikers can be a very dangerous practice, the Provost Marshal advises.

Police records list numerous cases where a helpful driver ended up the victim of assault, robbery or even murder. Don't add to Force Academy cadets, Class of 1969, will visit Fort Ben-ning from June 28 through July 2.

Every summer, Air Force cadets visit Army and Air Force installations from Cali-

The cadets are scheduled to arrive on Tuesday afternoon, June 28. Departure will be on Saturday morning.

July 2. The aim of the operation the Field Study of Armed Forces, is to give the cadets a thorough indoctrination on the major operational com mands of the Defense De partment.

While here the cadets will be schooled in the role of the Infantry in warfare and

Army weapons and tactics.

The itinerary will include a demonstration of the weapons of the infantry, Rangers in action, and training with the M14 rifle and the M60 machine gun. Training with hand grenades and in Air-borne will also be included. Special demonstrations will include the "Combined Arms Team in Attack" and the "Night Defense of Plei Ben.

"Night Defense of Plei Ben."
A reception and hop will also be held for the cadets.
Upon completion of their tour, the class will return to

When the merger of the National and American Football League was announced, the news was indeed astonishing to many.

Something was bound to happen. But I can't quite say that what happened was in-evitable. Something less was expected. It looks as if the American League has given in. According to present plans the two leagues will be playing a combined schedule leagues will be playing a combined schedule by 1970. Even as soon as next season there could be championship game between the two leagues. When things happen they really hap-

Certain questions have been raised in my certain questions nave noen raised in my mind. Will the present franchies continue to operate under the new setup? One city has its problems and that is Boston. Their problem is centered around a stadium that doesn't exist. On the other hand New Orleans has been clamoring for a franchise. They have a stadium which could seat a typical NFL

The whole situation is still confusing. Just where does Al Davis, president of the AFL sit, or will he be unseated.

Did things come to a head when the New York Giants signed Pete Gogalak who had played out his option with the Buffalo Bills? layed out his option with the Buffalo Bills? There have been many denials to this thought. Teams from both leagues had been negotiating with each others players.

A real war could have developed. The end result of this war could have been the demise of both leagues. I think that all of the ownersor both leagues. I think that all of the to stay realized this. The AFL sacrificed pride to stay in existence and the NFL recognized the harm that could have been done.

With this new absorption it should be in-teresting to see just how the bonuses paid to college stars will fluctuate. In fact the day conlege stars will incurate in the the any of the $10,000 bonus should be past. Inter-city rivalries should flourish. The Giants against the Jets would be fantastic. The teams on the west coast would also pack

In the end the good of pro football will be served and none too soon.

With one-third of the baseball season gone Hank Aaron is in a position to get some records this year. He already has 20 home runs and this year. He already has 20 nome runs and is way out in front in the RBI lead. He could conceivably win the Triple Crown.

What has happened to Willie Mays?

It's a good thing that Don Drysdale held it's a good thing that Don Drysdaie neid out for the big money last year. The way be's pitching this year, next winter he'll be holding out to show his dislike for the cut in salary that he'll get.

YOU OWE $35,000.00

Statistics show each person eats $10.00 in food weekly. If averaged for a lifetime, with life expectancy of 66 years, this amounts to approximatery $35,000,000.

This is by for the largest single expense to be met by any individual. It is especially difficult for the head of the family. If your average food expenditure is $25.00 per week, in 15 years it will amount to $20,000,00.

Why settle for less than a TRIPLE ACTION toothpaste?

Colgate with Gardol

- unsurpassed in reducing new cavities!
- · tastes fresh and clean!
- helps stop bad breath!

Colgate is the largest selling anti-cavity toothpaste in the world. And for good reason. When dental scientists compared it with the well known fluoride brand, their published findings in the official Journal of the American Society of Dentistry for Children confirmed: Colgate unsurpassed in reducing new cavities!

And of course, everybody enjoys the Colgate taste. So fresh and clean, it encourages brushing as your dentist recommends. It helps stop bad breath too. So why settle for less. Get Colgate, the TRIPLE ACTION toothpaste. Colgate, the one that does it all!

Be a "one toothpaste family" with Colgate even if you are the whole family!

Think hard first; then buy a house

The purchase of a house is a significant event in anyone's life. The house will become an important part of the family's life and the focal point of each individual's memories in

However, purchase of a house should be considered from another - and less romantic considered from another — and less romanue — angle. When a house is purchased, the buy-er usually is obligating himself to pay a large sum of money over a long period of time. When one signs the papers necessary to transfer the house to his name, he has agreed to pay the full amount of the mortgage in monthly installments.

If the payments are not made promptly, house is sold for less than what is owed, the purchaser must pay the deficiency — that is, the difference between the total amount owed on the house and the price for which it is sold.

This debt is not avoided by getting someone to take over the payments or assume the mortgage. If the person who assumed the loan fails to make his monthly payments, the person who originally borrowed the money will be responsible for paying the deficiency.

Of course, he can then attempt to recover or course, ne can then attempt to recover his money from the person who assumed the loan and whose fault it was there was a foreclosure in the first place. Nevertheless, he has had the trouble and expense of having paid the

Many people seek to avoid the responsibili-ties and obligations that go with purchasing a new home by merely assuming another per-son's loan. It should be observed that the oblison's loan. It should be observed that the obligations are just as great But the effect might be postponed long enough for the person primarily liable to be affected before the person who assumed the loan is held responsible.

Regardless of whether one purchases a house directly or assumes another's loan, he house directly or assumes another's loan, he should make certain that he knows the legal Cavities are a problem effect of all documents he signs and that the documents are completely filled out prior to

Be certain that every term of any agreement or guarantee is in writing and signed by those making it. Never sign any document unless it is completed and unless you understand it. If you have any doubts, make an appointment to see the Legal Assistance Officer or Soldiers Advocate so that he may examine the documents and explain their effect to you.

To me this is kind of absurd at the moment. There is still, a pitcher who is active whose record over the years makes the exploits of Koufax and Marichal seem petty. His name is Robin Roberts, and he's still throwing the ball for the Houston Astros at the age of forty.

Looking at each of these players records for the best consecutive five year span the re-

In this same period Marichal won 99 games, vorked 1333 innings, struck out 971 hitters and walked 297 batters.

From 1951 through 1955 Roberts won 118 mes, worked 1634 innings, struck out 818 hitgames, worked 1054 inlings, scruck out 518 nu-ters and walked 279. For six consecutive years Roberts worked over 300 innings. In eleven years in the league Koufax has done this only twice. Marichal on the other hand has gone this once in his six years.

Roberts for six years in a row won twenty games, Koufax has won twenty twice and Marichal three times. In 1952 Roberts won 28 games, something that Koufax or Marichal hasn't done

Keep one thing in mind. That is, Roberts played for the lowly Phillies. Day in and day out, keeping this great revelation in mind wouldn't a manager rather have Roberts, in prime, on the team than either Marichal or arten fe facilità del 30 februarie

Fifteen years from now our present type of baseball may well be looked back upon as the day of the pitcher.

Batting averages are suffering and the home run is even starting to decline. The present strategy is good pitching, tight fielding and swifties on the basepaths.

Stories have been appearing all over stating that Sandy Koufax is the best pitcher in the majors. Others say that this honor belongs to Juan Marichal.

Actually any comparison of these two play-Actually any comparison of these two players in my point of view is ridiculous. On what basis can they be compared? One is a lefty. The other is a righty. They play on different teams whose method of winning is as different as night and day. A lot of times Marichal coasts to a win on the power of Willie Mays or Willie McCovey. At the same time the Dodgers have to scrounge for runs depending on the feet of Willie Davis and Maury Wills. This could go on and on. But I think I've made my point.

By looking at the cold statistics, which sometimes lie, the only conclusion is that Kout fax is the best lefty in the majors and Marichal is the best righty.

In a comparison of this type no real absolute solution can ever be reached because there are, like stated before, too many variables that can enter into the picture.

Unlike an experiment that is conducted in a chemistry lab or in experimental psychology the so-called laboratory conditions are never present in a baseball game. Constant flux is always attributable to the sport. This same reaction is never achieved a second time like it is

Allusions have been made that these two pitchers should he talked about in the same breath with such greats as Walter Johnson

The signing of the Declaration of Independence, 190 years ago, constituted the most important event in the history of our country. This historical document heralded the release from unjust taxation and cruel oppression and the birth of a freedom for this nation which was destined to endure. It fostered and which was destined to endure. A Assertion handed down a sacred heritage of bravery, loyalty and self-sacrifice by the colonists and a freedom for yet unborn generations—a her-itage to be safeguarded and defended at any

Since that memorable day of July 4, 1776, Independence Day has been celebrated by the Independence Lay has been celebrated by the citizens of this country as a national holiday—and a family holiday—a time for the family to lay down its usual tasks in commemoration of this important day.

Originally, Independence Day featured Originally, Independence Day featured public meetings where families would assemble and listen intently to a patriotic address by a prominent statesman or they would watch patriotic parades or be entertained by home-town band concerts, followed by picnics and games.

WITH THE PASSING of years, the observation of Independence Day changed conservation of Independence Day changed considerably, Gradually it becomes less and less of a patriotic holiday and more of a day for fun and recreation. On the other hand, however, one commendable feature was that the holiday continued to attract the entire family. Perhaps no other national holiday has ever been or ever will be more anxiously anticipated, by young and old alike, than the Fourth of July, as it has come to be called.

Today in the year 1966, it is still universally celebrated as a family holiday. Granted there is not so much of an outward display of patriotism, but it still serves as an incentive for the family to be together.

Even if we are lax in displaying our patriotism, we still take pride in the achievements of our country and are thankful that we have the privilege of being an American

BEING A CITIZEN, however, is not enough — we must be a practicing citizen and be convinced that our citizenship rights are a sacred privilege.

There is a close relationship between good citizenship in a democracy and safety; in fact, they are all but inseparable.

One of the gravest threats to this or any democracy is the fear that the individual citizen will fail to develop a sense of responsibility for the consequences of his own conduct — or that he may lack self-discipline or the willingness or the capacity to cooperate with other citizens and maintain the proper regard and respect for their welfare andor their rights.

Such failure is frequently detected in nor-Such tantre is frequently detected in normally good citizens, particularly when they sit behind the wheel of their car. If any driver is not considerate of other people, he is sorely lacking in some of the essential qualities which identify him as a really good citizen.

The driver who exercises the qualifications of good citizenship in a democracy, because he prides himself upon being a good citizen, is more apt to be a safer driver than one who confines his thinking about safety as a separate and distinct entity and does not feel that it is a prerequisite to his duties as a citizen.

The good citizen always makes it a practice to know and obey all laws; therefore, he will obey traffic laws - because he is a good

Also, if the husband runs into a severe financial setback, his creditors cannot take the home because it is not his alone, but belongs jointly to

As for the family car, it is a safe practice to have ownership in the name of the person with the fewest assets—usually the wife. If the car is involved in an accident, the owner the car is involved in an accurent, the owner may be held liable for any excess damages not covered by automobile insurance. If the wife is sole owner and she has few other assets, little could be collected in such a suit. If the car is jointly owned by husband and wife, the assets of both would be subject to such a

Even toys give some poison ivy

Fort Benning hosts that jezebel species of the plant kingdom, the Rhus family (poison ity, oak and sumae) which is the most com-mon cause of allergic contact dermatitis in the United States.

To recognize a plant of this family is not enough. A sensitive person to the Rhus family may also cross react to mango rind, cashew may also cross react to mango rind, casnew nut shell oil — toys, india marking ink — laundry, Japanese lacquer — furniture, various copying papers and other interesting possibil-

The world is not big enough for a really sensitive person. He must be careful what he eats, handles, wears, breathes, leans on and

Contact usually occurs one to two days be-fore symptoms are noticed. The result is a red, itchy, blister eruption which usually requires two to three weeks to run its course, barring complications or re-exposure to the source of contact. The most common complication is adverse reactions from verious commercial rem-edies advertised as "cures" for poison ivy.

No cure exists. Treatment is aimed at making oneself comfortable while the dermatitis resolves spontaneously.

If the eruption is not too severe, use cool face towel soaks (one level tablespoon of table salt to one quart of cool water), or collidal baths (Aveeno or corn starch - 1 cup to 8 inches of lukewarm water) several times daily. If the symptoms are too uncomfortable check with your medical facility for stronger medi-

Severely complicated dermatitis is best severely complicated derinating is been treated by the physician with various anti-ited tablets and shots which reduce the swelling and redness. Avoid salves and ointments until the swelling and blisters have dried

All members of the Rhus family and their latives contain an allergic oleoresin (nonvolatile oil which evaporates very slowly). Reexposure most commonly accounts for a pronged siege of dermatitis.

The contents of the hlisters do not contain the oils. Thorough washing within the hour after exposure does not prevent a severe dermatitis in highly sensitive persons. It may, however, reduce the reactions in those who are less sensitive. Harsh soaps, organic solare less sensitive. Harsh soaps, organic solvents (turpentine, kerosene, etc.) and vigorous scrubbing offer no advantage over simple soaking in cool water. But over here in Viet Nam. where TVs are few but there's danger aplenty, the term "F Troop" means something vastly different. From the main supply points in the rear to the bitter jungles of the forward areas. "F Troop" means the familiar, welcome sight of the 135th Aviation Company's buff-colored Caribous bring ing in a steady flow of food ammunition and replaceme

With profound respect as with protound respect and admiration for the skill and guts of the "F Troop" crews, front line troopers have watched the heavily - loaded Caribous battle their way through poor weather and deadly ground fire to land at airstrips so small and at airstrips so s mail and rough that the Air Force has often refused to land on them. Battle weary troopers of the 1st Air Cav, 101st Screaming Eagles, the 25th Inf. Div., the Special Forces men of the Green Berets, the ROK Ma rines and ARVN troops have heaved a sigh of grateful troop" Caribous bring thei "F Troop" is no laughing matter; to these fighting men up front, "F Troop" means the best Caribou outfit in the world.

The school, headed by Capt. James E. Vetter, who bad five years of air traffic control work with the Federal Aviation Authority (Feral Aviation Authority (F. AA) prior to coming on active duty, is divided into here phases. Filty-two hours are first spent on tactics, communications and flight following systems. During the second phase students work in a simulated flight operations center and final sessions with reads instrusessions with radar instruments qualify them for en route control of air traffic.

The school has ten full time military instructors with SFC Ryln Pitt, the NCOIG. Most of these men have at-tended the FAA Academy air controller courses at Okla-homa City, Okla.

The Ast

By Mike Frederick

A very, very interesting move was made this past weekend by the Atlanta Braves. On Saturday afternoon the club announced that they had hired Paul Richards to help with their

This move could have far reaching consequences especially where Bobby Bragan is con-cerned. The Brayes rate an Alfor effort in trying to improve their organization. Paul Rich ards will probably be their next manager, may-be not next week nor the following week but by the winter meetings he should have taken over the reins for Bragan.

As far as I'm concerned this won't happen any too soon. Bragan has been a failure with the Braves. He just couldn't get the tremendous amount of baseball talent on the club to jell He has this problem when he managed the Pittsburgh Pirates. As soon as Danny Murtaugh took over as pilot of the club the Pirates start-ed to climb in the standings until they won the pennant in 1960. The important fact to remem-ber is that Murtaugh had the same players that Bragan had

Followed by Success

Success seems to follow Paul Richards around. In the managerial aspect of success he first garnered it when he took over the Chicago White Sox in 1951. He took over a club that had players on it that no one else wanted. They had perennially been in the second division. Through trades, the most famous of which was his steal of Nellie Fox from Connie Mack, he built up the White Sox until they were pennant contend-ers. He had stars like Minnie Minoso, Billy Pierce, Shem Lollar and of course Fox.

Then he moved on to Baltimore to take over the floundering club that had just moved over the foundering cuto that had just moved in from St. Louis. He started rebuilding that club by acquiring established veterans like Vern Stephens. Eddie Waitkus, Joe Coleman and Bob Kennedy. The Baltimore organization became active in the bonus-baby mart. Some of their signings included Billy O'Dell and Milt

After Richards builds up a club, for some reason he never sticks around long enough to watch it win a pennant. In 1959 the White Sox won the pennant and it looks as if Baltimore will do it this year.

Moved to Houston

When expansion came to baseball Richards moved into Houston. Unlike the New York Mets who drafted vets who were over the hill, Houston went after vouth. Bob Aspromonte was selected from the Dodgers and has developed into a fine thirdhaseman.

This year the Astros have come to be reckoned with Players like Dave Guisti, Rusty Staub and Jimmy Wynn, who were signed in the early days of the club have blossomed into capable big league performers. With the addition of one or two more players Houston could win all the marbles next season

But now Richards is with the Braves, not as a manager, but the fact that he is with the organization points to him being named their manager in the future. With the Braves he won't face the problem that he faced with the other clubs. The Braves have quite a few real good ballnlayers. Their weakest attribute pitching, is the one facet of the game that Rich ards seems really able to develop,

The naming of Richards as manager won't come any too soon for myself and other fans

Servicemen must prepare families

Every serviceman's family should be pre-pared for the fact that it may, on short no-tice be separated from him for long periods of

The family is often left without adequate support because the serviceman has not ta-ken time to consider what his family needs to live on in his absence,

Also, it is not uncommon for the husband to be transferred to the far reaches of the world, leaving his wife to sell the house or world, leaving ins wife to seit the house or car, move or store household goods, or make any number of legal transactions without giv-ing her the requisite authority to do it. Often the husband either takes his insurance policies or other legal documents with him, or leaves them where his wife cannot find them.

Many situations arise in which the wife needs birth certificates or her marriage cer-tificate on short notice; for example, in connection with getting a passport. The result is several days wait, which can mean missing a port call

THE SERVICEMAN, because of his military duty, will very likely be separated from his wife and for many reasons, the wife may become separated from the children. There is no complete assurance that this separation would not exist for a considerable period of time. If however, the family will make proper preparations, the problems will be minimized. Military people should be sure that legal documents are readily accessible to the fami-ly. Such documents include insurance policies, contracts, mortgages, automobile title, deeds, receipts, stock certificates, powers of attorney, wills, certified copies of marriage certificates, divorce decrees if any, and birth cer-

It is also advisable that the family main-tain a sufficient amount of money for use during an emergency. Cash, of course, is easier to spend, but traverler's checks are safer.

Each family should carefully consider what type of emergency kit they should have, collect the items to be included, and keep them readily available to the extent practi-

PM tips

People who stay uninvolved and cold more readily than normal tooth structure. The frequently experienced sometimes lose their wallets

Much has been printed in the press con-cerning people who "don't want to get involved," the Provost Marshal points out, adding that the subject merits the attention of the miliary as

A PM criminal investigator relates the story of a soldier awakened during the night a man rifling trouser pockets on the other side of the bay.

Since the man, dressed in civilian clothing, posed no immediate threat to the soldier, he went back to sleep. He didn't want to get in-

The next morning, the investigator continued, our soldier discovered to his dismay that the thief had lifted his billfold just before he was observed picking pockets across the room.

Many people refuse to become involved unless their own property is being stolen. But what thief will limit his pocket-picking to one side of a bay? The investigator's story is not an uncommon occurrence.

Recently an officer observed a young man leaving a room where student officers are billeted. Assuming the young man to be a news-boy or a shoeshine boy, the officer ignored him. Later one of the student officers found that his watch was missing.

Is sensitivity normal no complete assurance that this separation would not exist for a considerable period of in a newly filled tooth?

for a recently filled tooth to bother me when I drink cold liquids?

Answer: In order to understand the reason for this discomfort, try this simple experiment at home. In a container of boiling water hold an all-metal teaspoon. The metal teaspoon will quickly become so hot that you must let go of it while the plas-tic spoon can he held for some time. The reason for this is quite simple; the metal is a better con-ductor than the plastic.

Similarly, a metallic filling is a far better con-ductor and transmits hot reaction, of a recently fill-ed tooth to cold liquids, is-only temporary in nature and the tooth will general-ly undergo internal adjust-ments after a short period

NATHAN PRE MPRESSIONS At that time, temperature changes will no longer trouble you when drinking cold liquids. Teeth are rarely bothered by drinking excessively hot liquids since our lips and mouth will be burned and we stop before the teeth are affected.

DENTAL

RID

If the sensitivity of a re-cently filled tooth persists beyond a reasonable period of time, or if very warm liquids bother a tooth, this is not normal and should be checked and corrected

Last week the selections for the All-Star game which will be played July 12 (Tuesday) were released by the league officers. A few notable things have happened as a result of First of all, Frank Robinson, who has been tearing the American League pitching apart was voted onto the team. He is only the third player in the history of the game to be named to the All-Star team in both leagues. He made the National League All-Star team while the other players who have accomplished this feat are Jim Bunning, Philadelphia Phillies and Detroit Tigers, and "Scoolboy" Rowe who also played for the rillines and algers.

Actually Robby was the first player to make it who had not come from the Tigers to the Phillies. Both Rowe and Bunning started out in the AL and moved onto the NL. Bunning should be one of the pitchers on the

A Third Time

President Johnson has ex-tended the appointment of Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton as Surgeon General of the Army to December 1, 1968.

This marks the third time Gen. Heaton's tour as The Surgeon General has been ex-tended since he assumed of-

Gen. Heaton will reach the mandatory retirement age of 64 in November 1966. He will therefore be retired at the vanced to grade of Lieuten-ant General on the retired list, and be called to active duty on December 1, 1966 to

He was first appointed The Surgeon General by Presi-dent Eisenhower in 1959. At dent Eisenhower in 1859, Att the end of this statutory four-year tour in May 1963, the late President Kennedy ex-tended his appointment an additional two years. This was the first time an Army Surgeon General had receiv-ed an extension beyond the usual fourwayer period in usual four-year period in more than 30 years. Then, in March 1965, President Johnson further extended his tenure to December 1966.

Gen. Heaton's military medical career has been marked by numerous outstanding accomplishments.

He was awarded the Legion of Marit for his contribution of Merit for his contribution to the care of the sick and wounded at Pearl Harbor in December 1941. To this deco-ration were later added two Oak Leaf Clusters for his wartime service as Com-mander of the 160th General Hospital and the 802nd Hospital Center in Europe.

During his entire military career, he has maintained his professional skill as an active surgeon by personally performing many major sur-gical operations. Because of the national and international respect for his diagnostic acumen, surgical judgment, and technical skill as well as s intense personal interest the welfare of his patients, he has been entrusted with performing major and extremely delicate surgical operations on many distinguished individuals, including Dwight D. Eisenhower, Pres-ident of the United States, John Foster Dulles, Secre-tary of State, and General of the Army, Douglas Mac

Gen. Heaton's performance has evidenced in every way his delicate balance of combining the finest qualities of an accomplished physician with those of an outstanding soldier and military leader. Two Presidents have recognized his exceptionally merit-orious service in positions of great responsibility by award service Medal and the Dis-tinguished Service Medal (First Oak Leaf Cluster), the highest noncombat award in the Army.

A pative of Parkersburg, A native of Parkersburg, W. Va., Gen. Heaton attend-ed Denison University at Granville, Ohio, and receiv-ed his Doctor of Medicine dee from the University of Louisville, Ky.

Fainting is simple and it's harmless

Fainting may occur in a healthy person if the blood supply to the brain is sufficiently reduced, but consciousness returns immediately if the person lies down, for then the blood supply is replenished.

Fainting may occur upon witnessing accident and injury, upon receiving bad news, when anticipating a disturbing procedure such as vaccination or in some persons merely as vaccination or in some persons merely arising quickly from a lying-down position. Fatigue, hunger, and inactivity in a stuffy room can cause simple fainting. Simple fainting should be distinguished from loss of consciousness due to serious illness or injury. These conditions usually give other evidence besides the fainting and some-times consciousness does not return quickly. They include concussion of the brain, poisoning stroke certain heart ailments overdocade of insulin and many diseases. Medical attenif he is sitting, he may control the giddiness by lowering his head between his knees.

b.) In case fainting does occur, the person should remain recumbent for a time, arising only with caution because fainting can recur. Smelling salts or other ammonia inhalants have little if any real value and, in case of serious ailments, may be mildly harmful.

c.) If the person does not recover consciousness at once when he is recumbent or if there is evidence of underlying illness or in-jury, obtain medical consultation promptly.

Check-writing mistakes Can be avoided by care

How can you guard against check-writing mistakes which can lead to a great deal of embarrassment or being placed on the Post Bad Check Roster? Here are a few suggestions, which if followed, should keep your account in order.

Always double check the arithmetic in your stubs and take a second look at the final balance too make certain you don't overdraw

Don't follow the practice of writing checks with future dates. They may be inadvertently presented before the date indicated and at a time when you don't have sufficient funds in your account to take care of them.

Since it's generally easy to change things written in pencil, write your checks only in ink. Never sign a blank check; if it is lost, anyone who found it could fill it in and cash it.

Make checks out to "order," "cash," or

"bearer" only when necessary; because if such checks were lost or got into the wrong hands, the holder would have no trouble cashing them. Make certain that the amount in words is the same as the amount in figures; when they're different, the spelled-out amount is considered correct. Also, to guard against alteration, put the figure right next to the dollar sign; and start the written amount as close as possible to the left margin, filling the unused space with a

Let us presume that one of your parents had a ra-ther small mouth and jaws, whereas the other had ab whereas the other had ab-normally large teeth. It is entirely possible for you to have inherited the small jaw structure of one and the larger teeth of the other and there you are with more teeth than your mouth can handle.

In the past, straightening of these crowded, malpos-ed teeth was a long, drawn-out process. With present techniques and knowledge; this treatment period can be markedly reduced. Orthadontists will often recommend the immediate extraction of one or more teeth so that the mouth can com-fortably accommodate the remainder.

The Dales speak of past good times with Toro, birth-day parties for him with cakes made from horsement and cottage cheese, weekly romps in the woods and plentry of good-natured horse-play around their California

ome. One can't help but wonder if the couple would recognize the change in Toro. Outwardly the same impressive ani-mal the Dale's shipped to Lackland Air Base in Texas to take the scout dog qualify-ing test, Toro's sparkling eyes and upright ears give a hint to this current devotion to alertness. For like-most of Uncle Sam's soldiers,

Toro has grown up.

After 12 strenuous weeks of training, in which Toro and Dobbins strained in an effort to react like one in hand ling such difficult situations as ambushes, river crossings escape and evasion tactics, and patrolling, it is not dif-ficult to see why the shepard

"I want to write you a birthday letter as this is the first birthday you will spend away from home and it will be a very lonely one," so begins a touching note received recently by a young soldier of the 197th Infantry Brigade

The letter, which rings : tone familiar to States servicemen across the globe is unique for exactly that reason. For the youthful recipient was none other than a male Ger man Shepard named Toro currently assigned to the 39th Infantry Scout Dog Platoon of the 29th Infantry while its author is the dog's former owner, Mrs. Judy Dale of Sherman Oaks, Calif.

Mrs. Dale and her husband donated the black and white States Army almost six months ago and decided to drop bim the note in honor of his fourth birthday coming up on July 24th.

The message was actually received by Toro's bandler and constant companion during the past 14 weeks, PFC Carl E. Dobbins of Henrietta,

Accompanying the lengthy letter was a scrapbook of pic tures "from bome," a birth-day card for Toro, and a note addressed to "Toro's Handler" in which the Dale expressed their bopes for

How good a scout dog bas Toro become? His handler thinks he is one In their letter, the Dales express concern for Toro's ability to adjust to his new of the best. "He took to the woods like a wolf. He doesn't life, "We worry because the Air Force and Army are have any bad habits, doesn't strict with rules about diel bark, plays a little but not excessively, takes commands say, he is just a good dog," says the youthful handler. Unusual Factor Probably the most up factor concerning Toro is the silence he maintains, "It's amazing. In the past 14 weeks he has yet to bark. He just doesn't bark at anything. A low, growl is about all he will muster," says Dobbins.

In scout dogging, quiet is a quality that becomes the most important element in the success of many military operations. Dobbins is natur-ally elated to find himself working with a dog who pos-sesses a built-in silencer.

The Dales were also con-cerned about the affection generated by Toro's handler.

The California family needn't worry, for the compan ionship that exists between dogging is second to none.

Inner-Feeling Dobbins dropped his busi-ness-like approach to scouting long enough to hare this inner-feeling, "When there are just the two of you, your dog sure breaks up the mon-otony. He can provide a great deal of companionship and when you get lonely you al-ways have your dog to talk

With Uncle Sam's worldwide committments what they are, it is difficult to predict and his handler. However, an excerpt from the Dale's letexcept from the Dale's let-ter might offer the best sum-mary, "We are very, very proud of you and bope all of your buddies will love you as we do. I know you will do your very best to protect them and serve your country well. You are performing a greater service than most German Shepards ever get

Highway 13 Leaves Bad Taste in 'Charlie's' Mouth

In less than four hours the main force VC battalions that had set out to overwhelm a single cavalry unit were bat-tered and on the run. They-lost 206 dead, countless wounded and numerous veapons captured or destroy-

At a later encounter "Charlie" again took up posi-tion along Highway 13 only this time they came in regimental size and confident th victory would be theirs.

Sadly enough for them they again made contact with the same cavalry unit that had so thoroughly thrashed them in the earlier battle.

The encounter occurred at the "Golden Gate" Bridge some seven miles North of An Loc and about 70 miles North of Saigon.

Again the VC struck out in full force and again the troop commander reacted immed ately as he called in air strikes and issued orders ca ling up reserves as he and his men took the initial brun of the attack

181st Company Wins Mess Award

The 10th Aviation Group's Best Mess Award for June was presented to the 181st Aviation Company (AM)

Col. J. Elmore Swenson commanding officer of the 10th Aviation Group present-ed the award to Mess Sgt, SFC Raymond H. Scarbo winning the Best Mess Award is not a new thing to SFC Scarborough, a veteran of 22 years of food service in troop units. Besides winning the award numerous times in other units at Fort Benning, he won the award four out of the last six times it actributes his notable success in operating an outstanding mess hall to the diligence and hard work of the 16 people he has working for him. Scarborough's job is a difficult one as he deals with many transients on a daily basis. Scarborough, however, looks forward to winning the Best Mess Award many more times in the future.

About sixteen million American adults have heart disease and nearly one million citizens die each year as a result of this ailment.

Arteriosclerotic or coronary heart disease accounts for about two-thirds of all heart disease. This disease results from narrowing of the blood vessels that supply blood containing oxygen and nutrients to the heart muscle itself. The narrowing occurs as plaques containing a high concentration of cholesterol (fat) are deposited within the vessel wall and the flow and available blood supply to the heart muscle.

Coronary heart disease becomes dramatically apparent in three ways: sudden unexpected death, myocardian infraction (heart attack with death of a portion of the heart muscle), or intermittent, usually disabling, chest pains.

In some diseases all that is necessary to obtain a cure is the physician's making the diagnosis and instituting appropriate treatment. However, in coronary heart 'disease a preventive approach is necessary because of the high incidence (34 per cent) of immediate death from this condition occurring without fore-

Almost all men over 30 years of age and Almost all men over 30 years of age and women who have passed menopause can expect some degree of narrowing of the blood peer some uegree or narrowing of the plood vessels supplying their heart muscle. Although this is present, they may live their natural lives without developing systems of heart disease. Studies of large groups of people have been made to determine those factors which play a role in the development of coronary heart disease. The most highly susceptible in-dividual seems to be heavy smokers, middleaged, obese males who are under emotional stress and do not exercise enough and have high blood pressure and blood fat levels. Individuals in their fifties run four times the risk of having coronary beart disease than those in their thirties. Those that smoke over one pack of cigarettes daily have a threefold increase in incidents of the type of heart disease over those who are non-smokers or who smoke over those who are non-smokers or who smoke a pipe or cigars.

A high blood fat (cholesterol) level produces a three to five-fold increase in risk High blood pressure gives a four-fold increase. Being overweight produces a two-fold increase. Obesity by itself is less a risk than when accompanied by high blood pressure and high blood fat levels. high blood pressure and high blood fat levels. The three usually go hand in hand.

The outstanding factors seem to be: (1) high blood pressure, (2) high blood fats and (3) excessive smoking. The average individual has one of these factors already. The presence of all three factors quadruples the risk of heart disease and makes this individual ten times the risk of the person who has none of the factors.

New law offers key to the future

There's a new law on the books that provides qualified present-day servicemen and veterans with a "golden key" to the future. This particular "key" unlocks many doors.

It opens new avenues of educational assistance, medical care, and permits the purchase of a home or farm.

It is the same "key" that helped millions of servicemen and veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict.

Specifically, it is called the Cold War GI Benefits Program, but to the U. S. Congress, which enacted it into law, it is Public Law 89-358: — The Veterans' Readustment Bene-fits Act of 1966. The Act was signed into law by President Johnson on March 3, 1966.

Some four million veterans who have served during the past nine years and nearly three ed during the past mine years and nearly three million men and women now on active duty-are or will be eligible for the benefits pro-vided under this Cold War GI Bill, along with 60,000 additional veterans who will be return-ing to civilian life each year.

Referring to veterans of World War II and Korea (who had similar benefits), President Johnson said they returned home to find 'not just gratitude, but concrete help in getting a fresh start with educational assistance, with medical care, with guarantees that permitted them to buy homes to live in."

The thought of starting a lawsuit may cross your mind, and you have only the slightest idea of when to sue and how to In a nutshell the new Act expresses the an number the new Act expresses the nation's appreciation for your service and assures you the opportunity for a higher education if you choose, and home or farm ownership if you aspire to it. There are also proersanp it you aspire to it. There are also pro-visions outlining Federal employment benefits as it concerns veterans as well as conditions under which medical aid can be obtained through the Veterans Administration.

So, the "golden key" is yours. Whether you take advantage of the Act, either on active he owes us, or smashes into our parked car and refuses to pay the garage bills. like they say, "records are made to be brok-en". Nowadays no records are safe and secure from one's competitor.

It has been quite a few years since the United States has held the World's Record for the mile run. The last to recapture the record the mile run. Ine last to recapture the record for this country was another Kansan, Glenn Cunningham. Way back in 1934 he set the re-cord with a then blistering pace of 4:06.8. He held this record until 1937 when another American, Sydney Wooderson topped it by a fraction

The record finally fell into foreign hands when Gunder Haegg from Sweden, in 1942, bested that record by two seconds.

Earlier this week Steve Whitaker was promoted in the Yankees organization to their Triple-A international League farm club, the Toledo Mud Hens. He had a real fine season here in Columbus. He finished up with a 310 batting average, hit 20 home runs and drove in 69 runs. The chances are that he will re-ceive a trial with the parent club in September when the roster limits are increased,

The Yankees sure could use his big bat if he is able to solve Triple-A pitching the way he figured out Double-A pitching earlier this year.

With the retirement of Jimmy Brown the With the retirement of Jimmy Brown the Cleveland Browns are for the first time in many years facing problems. I don't know of any way for the Browns to make up for his loss. When a team looses the services of the greatest football player of all time it's about time to sit down and cry.

Brown was the best runner that the league has ever known. When it was third down and two to go Brown received the hand-off and picked up more than the necessary yardage for the first down.

He could also catch passes and go all the

he could also caten passes and go an one way for the touchdown. He somehow flipped the opposition away from him.

In addition to his great running ability he was also one of the best blocking backs in the

But in 1990 the Browns will no longer be able to rely on his great playing.

Most of the ground game burden will likely fall on Ernie Green, who in his own right, is a fine runner but who was always in the background because of Brown's exploits. But the fact remains that Green is not in the same class with Brown,
For the first time the Brown's will not have a contending team. They must rebuild their whole team. In prior years their offense their whole team. In prior years their offense featured the running game. But without the runner they will have to do an about face. At quarterback are Frank Ryan and Jin Ninowski. They will both need the best of luck this season. Let's hope that Ryan is a good a passer as everybody claims he is.

The story is told on Dr.
Oliver Wendell Holmes, famous American physician, that once when he visited a patient who had previously been quite ill, he found him sitting up, reading a weighty medical book. With a straight face and with a twinkle in his eyes, Dr. Holmes said: "Be careful my friend." 1 wouldn't want to see you get worse or die because of a misprint."

of a sisprint. It is the beginner of a sisprint. It is true that Dr. Holmes had a point, although it is very doubtful whether anybody, were been killed by a typographical tits true that a large number of people do become ill from what may be termed a commarable situation. a comparable situation such as a misinterpretation his reactions, his facial expressions or his diagnostic anguage.

There are illnesses stemming from such trivial causes and they have been given the technical name of introgenic ailments. It comes from the Greek word "iatro" meaning physician, and "genic" denoting "produced by Induced by Physician Thus the word "iatrogenic" may be translated liter-ally as "induced by the words or actions of a physician." A good example is the after-effects of a medication or drug given for a specific ailment and re-sulting in another illness. Although the word "iatron-genic" originally specifical-ly referred to such illnesses, it has, by common us-age, acquired a much broader and more inclusive meaning. For example it caused by a patient's misunderstanding diagnostic terminology. This is a type of illness about which a warning word is given.

Just how can a person be made quite ill by mis-understanding his doctor? Let's examine a hypothetical case that illustrates what could easily happen.

Several hours later Jones appeared at his doctor's office. By this time his chest pain seemed worse, and bis imagination began to run wild. He dreaded the run wild. He dreaded the examination for he had already anticipated the doc few months to live.

When Jones went in to see the doctor, he imme-diately voiced his worst fears. The doctor merely smiled and said. "It may not be your heart at all, but we'll find out." Unfortunately, the busy doctor hadn't had sufficient

Naturally he thought that the doctor's apprehension was caused hy what he observed in ones' heartbeat and as he studied the doctor's face, his fears soared. "I know it!" Jones thought, "The doctor is deeply worried about me. I must be in worse shape than I first Completely Normal Thus, when the doctor finished his examination and optimistically announced, "Your blood pressure and your heart seem completely normal," Jones was not at all reassured. "The doctor just doesn't want to scare me by telling me the truth," he thought. "And he's protecting himself by saying I seem all right instead of definitely telling

The term "gingivities" refers to inflammation of the "gingiva" or gum tissue. Normally, in a healthly mouth, there is maxi-mum resistance to the development of this condition. However, occasional-ly irritation develops and the gingival tissue becomes swollen, stands away from the teeth, changes in color and tone and bleeds eas-ily. Bleeding of the gums is unfortunately rather commonplace for many persons and easily ignored. Dentists warn however that chronic bleeding is a serious symptom that re-

Judge Says

Client can confide in lawyer whether military or civilian

Under the law, military and civilian, what you as a client tell your lawyer in confidence may not be divulged by your attorney without your consent. Nor can a judge order him or his employes to reveal such communications in court.

Why have such privileges? Chiefly, to do justice; it encourages clients to tell their attorneys what they must know to help and advise them, i.e., things about their family and private affairs, their hopes, fears and ambitions. No lawyer may speak of certain things, even after a client dies. For a client may well have to give his lawyer details, which, if revealed, might harm those he most wanted to

What constitutes confidential communica-tions? Anything a client tells his lawyer when he seeks advice about his personal, business or legal affairs, talks and letters, photographs, charts and other documents and records.

Confidential communications protect you as the client, not your attorney. If you break the confidence, the lawyer may also have to speak, for the communication is no longer confidential. No lawyer may keep quiet about a crime or fraud a client has told him he a trime or trau a chent has told him he plans to commit. But afterwards, an accused person may talk fréely to his attorney. Even if guilty, he has a right to have his side of the story presented to the court as it may affect his punishment. A person in trouble needs to talk to someone without a fear that what he says will become public.

This privilege applies when you consult your Legal Assistance Officer or Soldiers Advocate. He may not and will not divulge your communications to anyone without your perA Much Easier and More Convenient Way Is To Send an ALLOTMENT or your FULL PAY To The NATIONAL BANK of FORT BENNING!

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara has announced that September 28 will be observed throughout the Defense Department as "Armed Forces Voters Day".

He termed it a special occasion on which all commanders are expected to place special emphasis on all aspects of the absentee vot-

It has also been revealed that discrimination is occurring against Army personnel pertaining to absentee voting.

Many instances of voting discrimination many-instances of voting discrimination against military voters and dependents are included in a report forwarded by the Department of Defense to the Department of Justice for joint submission to Congress.

The report is based on the findings of a urvey conducted earlier this year in all 50 States by the military Services.

Most of the instances of voting discrimination cited in the report appeared to have resulted from failure either of voting offi-cials to follow their own laws and procedures or of the individuals to comply with absentee pallot voting requirements.

In addition, a number of instances were reported in which a prospective voter, either a Service member or his wife, was denied the opportunity to vote solely because he or she was living on a Federal installation. Only California and Hawaii have amended their laws to permit members of the Armed Forces and their dependents living on a Federal installation to qualify to vote.

About 1 million Service members and their dependents are living on military in-stallations in the 48 States that apparently prohibit such persons to vote. The majority of these prospective voters may not as of now qualify to vote as residents of the states in which they are located. The report concluded that this constitutes a discriminatory re-striction on these citizens based solely on the fact that they are living on a Federal instal lation to which they are assigned by higher

Any old soldier will tell you there are three ways to get things accomplished— the right way, the wrong way and the Army way. The Army way, when you have a problem or a complaint is through your Chain

In the case of a man with a personal problem, be must let someone in a about it know what the circumstances are. There's another adage which says "The hinge that squeaks the loudest is the one that gets the oil."

When a problem arises, the Army way for the soldier to move is through his Chain of Command to his orderly room and his first sergeant. First sergeants and unit commanders are not psychic. They cannot be aware a problem exists until they are informed. Their interests, however are di rectly related to the wel-fare and well-being of in-dividuals within their units.

Why? The Army knows a soldier in good spirit is more receptive to training, able and willing to perform his individual mission. proud of his unit and ready to do any task given to him in peace and war.

The reference prepared for this subject states, "The morale and welfare of the individual soldier has long been stressed by the Department of the Army as paramount to a succeedul and efficient organization."

At the outbreak of the Second World War. he volunteered for active duty in the Army. But he was turned down. He kept trying and finally he succeeded in persuading the Army to enroll him as a Special Service officer at

He was given the rank of captain and then was promoted to major. At the end of the war he returned to the major leagues as a coach for the Reds.

In his honor the baseball diamond on main post was named Gowdy Field.

IN THE "FOR what it's worth" department, did you notice how the Green Bay Packers contained the running of both Jim Grabowski and Donnie Anderson during the College All-Star game last Friday night.

The irony of the situation is that the Packers signed both these players for large bonuses last winter. Its hard to tell in one game how they will stand up in the pros but it's still worth thinking about.

LAST FALL the Boston Red Sox management decided that pitching and defense were more important to winning hall games than hitting was.

Last season they were second to the pen-nant winning Minnesota Twins in hitting but for some reason they couldn't escape a ninth

Perhaps you think cancer or heart disease is the chief cause of death among children. Or maybe one of the other three deadliest child dismayor one or the other three deadnest child dis-eases—meningitis, pneumonia or intestinal dis-orders. None of these is correct. Today's number one child killers are those homo-sapiens who manipulate locomobile machines along the public thoroughfares — they are better known as drivers.

For children 1 to 14 years of age, accidents of all types claim more lives than the five leading diseases combined. The major contributor to the accidental deaths is the motor vehicle driver, accidental deaths is the motor vehicle driver, with cancer ranking second as the taker of lives. In 1965 there were more than 12,000 children under 15 years of age kilder in traffic secidents under varying circumstances. To help alleviate the traffic safety problem as pertains to children, a problem which has become more significant at Fort Benning within recent weeks due to children playing in the streets, Mr. Norman Evans, the USAIC Safety briects, Mr. norman evans, the Oblic Salety Director, urges parents to equip their children to protect themselves to the maximum extent possible.

To further insure the safety of children, Mr. Eyans urges motorists to always keep a sharp lookout for children, especially around school zones, playgrounds, residential areas and other places where children congregate. Be alert to the piaces where enjuren congregate. He aiert to the fact that children are highly unpredictable in their behavior—motorists must think for them. Always expect the unexpected where children are concerned. The best precaution is to drive are coherence. The nest precaution is to anye slowly and keep your eyes peeled for the "small fry," — such action could prevent you from becoming one of the infamous group that are to-day's Number One Child Killers.

The elimination of bacteria isn't best way to stop decay

It would seem that the simplest method for controlling tooth decay would be the elimination of all bacteria or germs from the mouth. Unfortunately however the human would be no weet the human would be not the seement the s ever, the human mouth con-tains such extremely large numbers of acid - produc-ing bacteria that it is vir-tually impossible by any known means to kill sufficient numbers of these bac-teria to effect a significant reduction of acid produc-tion. Plaque differs greatly, from person to person, in its effect on mouth acids sometimes neutralizing it but more often supporting its formation. One factor is significant however. It is constantly forming and available information indicates that it forms more rapidly in caries susceptible people then in those re-sistent to tooth decay.

For many years, attempts have been made to reduce tooth decay by eliminating or modifying plaque. This is a promising avenue of research.

The best defense against

Many doctors refuse to mention such discoveries to avoid alarm, but others feel obligated to describe all test results, qualifying the minor ones by saying the minor ones by saying "It's not important" or "it will never cause you any trouble." If your doctor gives you such an explanation, believe him. Never let your mind magnify "an innocent murmur," for ex-ample, into "a bad heart leakage."

Be sure you understand the test results. Unless you are on guard, it's easy to misinterpret medical state-ments. "The problem of the patient's misinterpretation is common to every phase of medicine," says Dr. Weinberg. "An earnest of medicine," cay Dr. Weinberg, "An expect practitioner may say to a patient that his heart rate is slow, his heart is small, or his blood pressure is low, in each case knowing that the finding is a favorable one. King's Pond Is Site for 'Picnicking'

Fort Benning's King's Pond picnic area got a brisk workout last Saturday when the men and families of HHC of the 197th Infantry Brigade invaded the park for the annual company outing.

Hosted by CPT Lynn Stev and ISG George Vachon, the party was planned by Operations NCO John Loomis and his staff.

While youngsters tackled a wide variety of games, adults dug into charcoal broiled steaks and hamhurgers

Casualty List Reaches 5500 Through June

More than 5,500 American military have lost their lives in Viet. Nam. according to the Army Times. Through July 1, U. S. forces had lost 4.569 men in combat. Another 979 men have been killed in Viet Nam accidents, the Defense Department says.

The Army, with the most men in Viet Nam, has suf-fered 2,901 combat deaths. The Marine Corps, suffering relatively heavy losses in re-cent weeks, has 1,300 men on its Viet Nam death list.

In addition the latest official casualty figures indicated that next week's casualty list would show that more than 25,000 U. S. military in Viet Nam had sustained non-fatal wounds. On July 30, the fig-ure stood at 24,917.

Army figures show 2,421 killed in comhat, 240 dead of wounds, 236 who died while wounds, 236 who died while enemy prisoners and 260 sol-diers who died as the result of combat aviation incidents

Summers, who was guest speaker, told the audi-ence, "I like to look upon these bonds as a share in freedom because, in a big county like ours, government can become impersonal. That bond you buy or that someone else buys, adds the preserve personal. adds the necessary person-al touch. Your purchase makes it quite clear that you do have a share in the car of this nation, not only your vote, not only your citizenship, but you have put your money on the line and, in so doing, have made that extra pledge of fidelity and loyalty to this republic. "A share in freedom and in investment in the fuan investment in the re-ture. . we know of course, that these bonds will act as an anti - inflationary force, but we know even more importantly that they represent our participation in our com-mitments, in our involvement all over the world.

Add up the bills you're now paying, month after month . . . and pay them off with cash from GAC. Then you make only one payment each month...and chances are it will be considerably lower than the total you are now paying. That one budget-fitted monthly payment lets you plan ahead... put aside a little extra spending money every pay period. Stop in or call for prompt, personal service. Get a cash advance from GAC to pay bills...or for any good reason.

whether or not society will be safer if it is not allowed to possess firearms. In recent weeks, eight young women were murdered in Chicago, some with a knife. Shouldn't we, therefore, have a law passed requiring all knife purchasers to be fingerprinted and registered? Would a practice of this nature have kept the nurses from being murdered?

A few weeks ago, a man in Connecticut allegedly killed his daughters with a safety razor. Or maybe we should stop selling autobiles. The sale of mail order guns should he regulated and maybe even stopped altogether. Anyone who can sign his name to a false steroment that, says he is over 21 and not a criminal can obtain a rifle or pistol through the mail.

There are thousands of hunters, sports-men and gun collectors in this country. They are respectable citizens, most of them with families like yourself. They should not be treated like common criminals metely be cause they wish to purchase a gun to add to their collection or to hunt with.

These are not the people who will use the gun they buy to commit a crime, If a man deems that a gun is necessary to use in the process of committing a crime, all he has to do is go out and steal one. He does not have to buy it.

New York City has its Sullivan Law which virtually disarms its honest citizens. By reading the respectable with the continuity of the

If legislation is passed, it should be aimed at exacting a very harsh penalty for the use of a gun in connection with a crime. In essence, the point here would be something like the unwritten code in London that lawbreakers don't usually arm themselves. This makes more sense than trying to disarm the citizenry of the whole country.

THE MEDAL OF HONOR

PRINTED IN U.S.A. 13

In late December, 1917, Lieutenant Commander Emil Stoltz led a flotilla of U-boats through the Kiel Canal on their way to take up individually assigned positions in the North Sea and the Skagerak.

Stolls was a seasoned submarine captain. During the past three years, he had risen from a duty officer to a Flotilla Commander, gathering about all the media the Kaiser could award, including the much coveted Order Pour le Mérite, Germany's bighest. His decorations were well earned; 40,000 tons of shipping and two light warships had been sent to watery graves by his torpedoes. He had done his share to try to bring England to her knees through starvation and lack of ammunition and supplies.

Upon reaching the open sea, the Commander signalled the flotilla to disperse and to proceed indepen-dently to their assigned positions. Setting course to the NNE, to a position astride the Newcastle-Denmark shipping lane, he went below

Stoltz was worried. On the last three cruises, he had encountered surprising opposition from the Royal Navy. They seemed to be everywhere, keeping him submerged most of the time with no chance to attack shipping. Was his luck running out?

At the first light on the horizon, Stoltz ordered the boat to submerge to periscope depth. They were mearing the sea lane and hoped to intercept a freighter or two or, if good luck was with them, a convoy.

They reached their position about mid-day and, with motors stopped, waited in ambush. Ten minutes later, smoke appeared in the distance. It did not take long for Stoltz to identify it as coming from a destroyer racing on a collision course with them.

With a curse, he ordered the boat to crash-dive to 100 feet. He felt relatively certain that the destroyer could not have sighted his periscope from such a

Suddenly, there was an explosion which shook the boat from stern to stern. Then another and another. The depth charges tossed the sub about, gear was shaken loose and the lighting system damaged. It was time to move. At a speed of four knots, Stoltz began evasive action. This was to continue until nearly dark before the sound of thrashing propellers and depth charges ceased.

Bringing the sub to periscope depth, Stoltz cautiously scanned the area for 360 degrees. All clear.

Upon surfacing be called for a damage report. It was disheartening. The starboard diving plane was jammed and several leaks were reported. The leaks were temporarily plugged, but the plane damage was beyond any at sea repairs. It was a Navy Yard job, and Stolts reluctantly called for a course to their base.

Discussion in the wardroom centered upon the sudden and untimely appearance of the destroyer. "The British are getting incky," vestured the Second Officer, "This is the third time we have been chased home." "It's just our bad luck," replied Stoltz.

"Well, if that's what it is, we are having a run of it. But how do you account for the large number of our boats which have been reported missing lately? It must be

"Enough!" ordered the Commander. "It is a coincidence."

He, too, was concerned about the extraordinary losses, but did not want an open discussion on the Morale was low enough, both at sea and at

The German Naval Staff was as concerned as Stolts about the losses. If the rate were to be maintained, the submarine blockade against England would have to be greatly curtailed, possibly abandoned.

The submarine commanders who were fortunate enough to evade the anti-submarine patrols were at a loss to explain the sudden, uncanny efficiency of the Royal Navy. From fragmentary reports, the Naval Staff gleaned but one thing: the British Navy knew where to look for the U-boats and was out for the kill.

Could it be that they had developed some secret device for detecting the presence of the underwater craft? The German Intelligence Service had not reported even a suspicion of one. This caused great concern at Naval Headquarters. There were too many interceptions to be chalked up to coincidence.

Nasty rumors had been circulating among the submariners. They suspected treachery in high places, while the Naval Staff accused the submarine commanders of carelessness and inefficiency bordering on cowardice. It was a serious situation. Morale was very low. No longer were there more volunteers for arine duty than needed.

If the German Grand Admiral had had the knowledge possesed by a certain Intelligence Officer at General Pershing's headquarters, his worries would have been over. He could easily have taken corrective measures which would have reduced the losses.

Strangely enough, the losses were directly traceable to their own much-vaunted, but militarily impotent,

The L-51, disabled and helpless, bumped over the ground until her gondolas were wrenched free, and then sailed into the air like a free balloon and was lost in the Mediterranean.

Pilots of Escadrille 152 forced the L-49 to the ground near the small provincial town of Bourbonnees Bains, not far from the American Expeditionary Forces headquarters at Chaumont,

This incident, which brought fleeting fame to the little town, was unprecedented in history, never to be duplicated: the capture of a German zeppelin intact, together with its crew, by a veteran of the Franco-Prussian war of 1870. Armed with a shotgun and a grim determination to contribute his share to the war effort, he held the crew at bay, preventing them from setting the ship afire.

As the French are a talkative race, having a high disregard for security measures, the story of the capture of the zeppelin was soon being repeated over all of France and, no doubt, Berlin. The French, lovers of the unusual and romantic, had something to exploit, and did so to the greatest extent.

Unknown, and unsuspected to either the Allies or the Germans, was the far-reaching effect this capture was to have on the raging Battle of the Atlantic, where the U-Boats were taking a terrific toll of shipping, slowly strangling Britain's lifeline with Canada and the United

As soon as the news of the captured zeppelin reached Chaumont, Captain R. H. Williams, an Intelligence Officer, G-2, hastened to the scene, only to learn that no documents or maps had been found aboard the L-49. Discouraged, but far from giving up, Captain Williams suggested that he and a British colleague, who had accompanied bim, follow the clear trail left by the damaged airahip.

Although the trail ended in a swamp, Williams was not deterred. Wading through the muck and water, he was rewarded by finding fragments of German maps which be carefully collected,

The significance of the find was not lost on these trained officers. They pieced together what turned out to be a cross-section code map of the North Sea, Irish Sea, the Skagerak and Kattegat. It was obvious that it related in some way to the enemy's U-Boat operations, but it was indecipherable.

While laboriously working over the scraps of maps he had found, Captain Williams learned that a fellow officer bad mentioned having seen some very interesting war souvenirs which were in the possession of some officers stationed near Bourbonne. They consisted of many photographs of all types of German naval vessels, airships and planes.

Williams guessted correctly that these "souvenirs" were connected with the maps be had, and be ordered the souvenir bunters to report immediately to head-quarters with their find. Upon their arrival at Chaumont, they were taken to the Colonel and interrogated. They told of climbing into the cab of the L-49 before the arrival of the Intelligence Officers, and of finding the pictures and a book, which they took as mementos of the event. One glance at the book was enough for Williams to realize that he had the key for which be had been searching. The dressing-down be gave the officers is said to have been classic

After careful study of what turned out to be a code book, Williams knew that his wading through the swamps had not been in vain. In his hand he held the current operational code of the German U-Boat Fleet!

Eliminating all red tape, Williams rushed the code book, together with the map fragments which had been patched up, to Admiral Sims' headquarters in London. Noting the immediate importance of the find, Admiral Sims at once brought the British Intelligence Service into the picture.

By careful monitoring of signals coming from the German submarine headquarters, the British were able to follow all undersea movements and to provide reception committees at points of rendezvous. The décoding of the German radio messages was continued until, in the normal course of events, the Germans changed their code.

It was not until after the war that they learned the answer to the mystery of the lost submarines. It may have added to their chagrin when they realized that the man who broke their code was, a few years previously, United States Military Attache to Berlin, Captain R. H. Williams.
