Co. A, 197th Supt., finds this is so

Appealing dayroom keeps soldiers at 'home'

By Bob Wise

When soldiers have a dayroom of which they can be proud, they seem to enjoy sticking around the company more during off-duty time. This seems to be the case in Co. A, 197th Sup. Bn., the "administrative" unit of the 197th Infantry Brigade.

Recent official inspection teams felt Co. A's dayroom was one of the finest dayrooms they had ever seen on post. It wasn't because the dayroom was unusually fancy, but because it was one of the most comfortable in the company.

Irwin speaks from personal experience. When he arrived in the company more than a year ago, the dayroom consisted of two broken chairs, two unserviceable pool tables and a vast amount of unused space.

Then Capt. Noelio Montero took command of the company and whipping the dayroom into shape became one of his first projects. "Having a nice dayroom is a very important factor for troop morale," says Co. A's commander.

"When I arrived here," continues Montero, "the first thing we did was make a 'chaplain's corner.' I then requested a color tv and stereo. We had new covers put on the pool tables . . . got some pool balls and cues, repaired the chairs and put on a fresh coat of paint."

"We found enough drapes in the supply room to decorate about half of the dayroom and scrounged around for the rest. We put in flower boxes, put pictures on the wall, got a ping-pong table and took out subscriptions to 25 different magazines for which we bought protective coverings."

What could not be acquired through channels has had to be bought out of the unit fund. Around $400 has been spent in making Co. A's dayroom the excellent lounge and recreation parlor that it is today, Montero says.

There is nothing "half-way" about Co. A's dayroom. Everything is kept in top shape and usable. The troops realize that their dayroom is part of their home. For this reason, they constantly keep it clean and liveable. Such things as pool cue tips and ping-pong balls have to be replaced often.

Constant improvements are being made in the dayroom. In order to preserve the stereo system, Montero put the console in his office and wired it into two speakers in the dayroom. His latest plans are to set up more speakers throughout the company.

The newest addition to Co. A's dayroom is a payphone. Montero also plans to add a shuffleboard table to the room's game activities. The commander says his main project for the near future, however, is to keep the dayroom in its present condition.

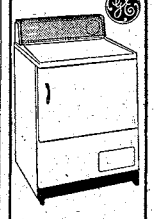
Post retirees to learn of civilian privileges

Fort Benning's annual open house for retired personnel will be held today in Marshall Auditorium.

The retired military personnel will receive a briefing on changes in their rights, benefits and privileges following a welcome of the Infantry School. The open house will begin at 9 a.m.

Also included on the program are briefings on the retirement services program, the Modern Volunteer Army and the planned Community Center.

After the events in Marshall Auditorium the retirees and wives will move to classrooms for seminars on membership and operation of the officer and NCO open messes.



Plebe gets top spot at Point

WEST POINT, N. Y. ANF) — First-year West Point Cadet Keith B. Holmes served as temporary brigade commander, the top command position open to cadets, from April 8 through 12 when the three upper classes were on spring leave from the Academy.

Cadet Holmes, of Gallup, N. M., was responsible for the administration of the cadet Class of '74 and the cadet activities involved with Plebe Parent Weekend. Normally a first classman (senior) holds the position of brigade commander.

For his top overall performance in new cadet training earlier this year, Cadet Holmes won the "Best New Cadet" award in his 1,375-man plebe class.

'Digest' to change name to 'Soldiers'

CAMERON STATION, Va. — Dig this, troops. Beginning in June its a new name for Army Digest magazine. It's Soldiers. Our new title was chosen for you in mind. Your magazine, soldier, is Soldiers — and that's official.

Now for May's nitty gritty. If you haven't heard of "TH" tune in on Army Digest for May and learn what it's all about. As "TH — Something New in Sports" explains, it spells team handball.

A companion feature, "Army Champs," tells how the Army is pioneering efforts to make the United States an Olympic team handball power in future years and how this fast-paced sport is catching on with GIs.

Looking for even faster action? Don't miss "How I Survived," Maj. James R. Rowe telling what it was like as a prisoner of the Viet Cong for more than five years.

He provides insights into enemy thinking about and treatment of U. S. prisoners. He also makes a dynamic appeal for greater understanding of the POW issue. It's up to all of us to remind the enemy we haven't forgotten the 444 Army personnel now listed as captured or missing in Southeast Asia.

Another feature talks about other brave men. They're the 1-A-O's, the conscientious objectors who have earned the respect of their fellow soldiers in Vietnam combat by displaying "A Different Kind of Courage."

They travel without weapons, many are medics, men who brave enemy fire to help their buddies. Their story will clear up many myths about this group of men who have elected to serve and are fighting this war in their own very personal way.

The ecology-minded will dig "By a Damsite." Would you believe that the Army engineers are going all out to save threatened steelhead fish in Northern Idaho?

Little Kami Kadivar, seven year old son of Dr. (Lt. Col.) and Mrs. Hoshang Kadivar, is a determined and self disciplined judo competitor and a champion in his own right.

The young stalwart, along with five other Fort Benning sons, accompanied their coach, Lt. Col. Charles Keaton of the U. S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit (USMTU) to the Northern Florida Invitational Judo Tournament, April 17, and when it was all over, Kami was recognized with the presentation of a Bronze Medal for winning 3rd place in the eight-year old heavyweight class.

The young athlete and martial arts amateur finished off all his competitors quickly prior to the finals and was defeated in the championship and final matches only by two heavier eight year olds.

In the finals, the championship match was not determined during the time limit, with no decisive throw made by either opponent. The hotly contested decision was then left to the referee and judges following the expiration of the official time limit.

In one of Kami's matches, only three seconds was required for him to place his subdued opponent in an immobilization hold to win.

Kami's success is all the more significant in that he is only seven years old and required to compete in the eight year old class because he was one pound overweight for the seven year weight class. He was about ten pounds lighter than his average opponents in all his matches.

Sponsored by the Florida State University, the nationally recognized AAU tourney had over 180 entrants competing for honors in the martial arts. The six members from the Fort Benning YAC Club including Kami were Donald and Ronald Hale, sons of SFC and Mrs. Robert Pyle; Jonathan Dean, son of Sgt. and Mrs. Frank Dean; Marion Lawhorn, son of SFC (Ret.) and Mrs. Marion Lawhorn and Charles Rogers, son of SFC and Mrs. Charles Rogers.

Keaton has been working with the young Black Belt aspirants since late February in the YAC gym. Their four hour weekly lessons work each student toward the required 80 practice sessions established for each promotion plus the required tests and throws. In addition, each contestant is required to master a 380 word Japanese vocabulary since their competitive instructions are given in that language.

At the start of each match, the contestants come to the center of the mat and acknowledge each other. They are told to Rei or bow and then the order Hajime or start given by the referee. Following a successful throw or immobilization hold, the winner is directed to Matte or stop as we would say in English.

With the successful completion of the necessary practice sessions, all Junior tests and vocabulary, the Junior students are advanced to Fourth Class student or White Belt holder at age 17. From this lowly beginning, the judo student advances into the three classes of Brown Belt, still in the student or Kyu class as the Japanese term it. It is only when the individual successfully climbs into the Black Belt category — and that is an extensive and arduous task — that he is no longer considered a student.

It is possible for selected, highly skilled junior students to attain senior Brown Belt or Black Belt status at age 15, however this requires personal dedication and concentration on the sport the year around.

USAMTU to be host to 2 major tourneys

The seventh annual "Champion of Champions" for International Rifle competitors will be fired at Fort Benning May 1 and 2.

The U. S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit (USAMTU), the two-day meet is expected to attract some of the nation's best service competitors as the contest is limited to master shooters or top notch competitors. Tournament officials expect approximately 30 Marines, Reserve, Navy and Civilian shooters from the southeastern areas.

The nation's best service marksmen from all the services will converge on Fort Benning the first week of May to participate in the 11th Annual Interservice International Shooting Championship.

Sponsored by the Continental Army Command, the week long match will commence May 3 and run through May 9 with competitors from the Navy, Marines Air Force, Army and Reserve forces advancing to the firing line in pistol, shotgun and rifle contests.

Competitors in each event will be given the opportunity of practicing their speciality before the actual firing for record is scheduled. May 3, the entire day will be spent in practice sessions for shooters of the Smallbore Free Rifle, Free Pistol, Clay Pigeon (Trap) and Running Boar. These events will all be fired for record the next day except for Smallbore Free Rifle which is fired on May 5. The initial event fired for record on the first day of competition will be Free Pistol.

ROD AND GUN CLUB Notes

Marksmen participate in clinic

By Bill Kloeb

Sunday is the big Family Day for Rod and Gun Club members and dependents. All the food has been ordered, all the exhibitis lined up and the experts who are going to be giving demonstrations are ready to go. All that is needed to make the day a success is a large crowd.

The action starts at noon and will continue until the winner of the grand prize claims his loot.

The front desk will start selling bait and fishing accessories at the usual time for the convenience of the members who want to fish in the morning. It will close at 11 a.m. so the attendatns can help in the administration of Family Day.

"Gates" Open At Noon

The "gates" to the club grounds open at noon. At 1 p.m. the first award of sporting equipment will take place, and from then on until the winner of grand prize is announced at 5:30 p.m., several sporting goods prizes will be awarded each half hour.

In addition to the free food and drinks there will be displays and demonstrations all afternoon. The Infantry Museum will have a display of Infantry equipment, the archery group of the Rod and Gun Club will display archery equipment and a local boat dealer will display his pleaseure boats throughout the day.

Demonstrations include several sky diving exhibitions by the Fort Benning Parachute Club from 4 p.m. until 6 p.m. At 4 p.m. there will be a skeet demonstration during which shooters from the Rod and Gun Club will challenge a team of top shooters from the United States Army Marksmanship Training Unit.

There will be free pony rides for children and just before the award of the grand prize a girls bike and a boys bike will be awarded to a lucky boy and girl.

The grand prize is a bassmaster fishing boat. This rig has just about everything a fisherman could want on a boat. It comes with a trailer, has a 50-horsepower gas motor and an electric motor for trolling and close maneuvering. Other items include winch operated anchors fore and aft, an electronic fish finder, seats, paddles and all the other accessories required by Coast Guard regulations.

Children must be registered at the entrance to the club grounds to be eligible to win the bicycles, but there is no registration required for the other prizes. The number on each member's membership card will be used to select the wineers.

The prizes will be under control of the Rod and Gun Club Board of Governors. They will have final say on all matters concerning winners, exchange of prizes and any controverseries that may arise concerning the prizes.

Eligibility For Membership

All members and qualified dependents will have an opportunity to win. WINNERS MUST BE ON THE GROUNDS and claim prizes within ten minutes after announcements are made. Active and retired military and civilians employed by Department of the Army or a Department of the Army Activity at Fort Benning are eligible for Membership in the Rod and Gun Club.

Individuals who do not obtain a membership today may obtain one at the Rod and Gun headquarters tomorrow or at the gates to the club grounds after 11 a.m. Sunday.

The Rod and Gun Club is located on First Division Road about one-quarter mile south of Highway 27.

All Post Shuttle Busses make a stop at the entrance to the club grounds.

Ball Season launched by 931st

Opening games for the 931st Engr. Gp's softball league are scheduled for May 4, officially launching a slow pitch league involving 17 teams and 136 games.

Regular season play will continue until July 20 when the league's two most successful teams will prepare for the Fort Benning slow pitch tournament.

All 931st games will be played on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at Bennett Field and the 931st Engr. Gp. field.

Defending the group championship this year is the Headquarters and Headquarters Company team which lost only one game last year. HHC is hoping to duplicate it's winning streak this season under the leadership of coach SSgt. Carol Holmes.

At the season's end, trophies will be awarded first and second place teams and individual trophies will go to players on the championship team.

Rod, Gun picnic offers entertainment, prizes

The Fort Benning Rod and Gun Club, located on First Division Road about one-quarter mile south of Highway 27 will be the place to be this Sunday afternoon.

There will be free food and drinks for members and their families. No one should go away hungry. The club will have 8,000 hotdogs and hamburgers for sandwiches, peanuts, potato chips to nibble and soft drinks and draft beer to drink.

The gates to the club grounds open at noon, and at 1 p.m. the first of membership prizes will be awarded. From 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. numerous items of fishing, hunting and camping gear will be given away at half hour intervals. Some of the prizes include an electric motor, an electronic fish finder, rods and reels, sleeping bags, gas lanterns, shotgun shells and fishing lures.

There will be demonstrations, exhibits and displays to occupy persons on the grounds while they wait to see if they are gong to get some of the prizes.

The Infantry Museum will have a display of infantry equipment, a local merchant will have a pleasure boat display, there will be a skeet shoot between members of the Rod and Gun Club Skeet Team and members of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit.

Children will get free pony rides and a boys bike and a girls bike will be given away just prior to the grand prize award at 5:30 p.m.

Sky divers from the Fort Benning Parachute Club will demonstrate sky diving techniques between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. Members of the Rod and Gun Archery Group will have a display of archery equipment and present shooting demonstration throughout the day.

At 5:30 p.m. the grand prize, a 17-foot bassmaster fishing rig will be awarded. This rig includes a trailer, a 50-horsepower gas motor to get to the fishing area in record time and an electric motor for trolling and moving short distances. An electronic fish finder, winch operated anchors, swivel seats and all required Coast Guard safety equipment are some of the accessories that are included.

A Rod and Gun Club membership costs $5. Memberships may be obtained at the Rod and Gun Club, Infantry Hall, Building 35 or at post exchanges and commissaries today. Memberships may also be obtained at the Rod and Gun Club grounds on Sunday afternoon.

48th Co. emerges as 1971 volleyball champs

A new post sports king was crowned Friday. 48th Co., The School Brigade (TSB) emerged as the 1971 volleyball champion.

Participating in the exciting week of double-elimination play held at the Harmony Church Field House, the 48th Co. rolled over all opponents. Each win consisted of a best two-of-three set series. The 48th Co., showing a great amount of teamwork and agility, never needed to play three sets.

Perhaps the most exciting contest of the tournament involved the Cougars and Co. D, 43rd Engr. Bn. It was the only time in sixteen tournament games that any team played the full three sets to determine a game winner.

The Cougars suffered their first defeat of the tournament to the 48th Co. in the semi-finals. Playing with their backs to the wall, the 197th Inf. Bde champions maintained their their poise to come back and haunt the TSB team for the championship.

It was all for naught as the 48th Co. easily defeated the Cougars for the coveted title.

The other teams vying for the USAIC title were HHC, 5th Bn., 31st Inf.; HHC, TSB; Co. A, 43rd Engr. Bn.; Headquarters Detachment, Hq. Cmd.; 609th Transportation Co.; Center Aviation Command; and the 546th Medical Co.

Soccer team rips South-Western

By Ed Eibe

The Fort Benning Soccer Team, after a two week break, traveled to Americus, Ga., to play against Georgia Southwestern College.

The game began slowly with both teams sparing for openings, and Benning becoming accustomed to a shorter-than-normal field.

The first goal came after 25 minutes in the first half when a Benning Fullback, being pressed, passed the ball back to the goal keeper who, due to the ball lagging from a bad spin, was unable to save the situation and Georgia South went ahead.

Within 45 seconds, Eduardo Plata, the Benning outside-right slammed the ball into the net to tie the score. With 15 seconds remaining in the half Benning scored four more goals, one more by Plata, two by Graham Hughes, the inside-left and one by Jose Leon.

The second half began slowly and it was not until 29 minutes into the half that the Benning team managed to slip in a sixth goal, scored by Leon. This was followed by two goals by Denny Lane, the outside-left, a third by Leon and finally the tenth goal on a penalty, giving Benning a 10-1 victory.

The Fort Benning Soccer team will play two games this weekend, May 1 and 2. They will play Columbus College on Saturday and Abraham Baldwin College on Sunday. Both games will start at 1 p.m. on Stillwell Field, behind The National Bank of Fort Benning.

8 new records established

Top 3rd Army shooters compete

By Bill Kloeb

Eight individual and team rifle and pistol records were established here last week when the top Active Army, National Guard and Army Reserve shooters in the 3rd U.S. Army Area fired for team and individual honors in the 3rd Army Rifle and Pistol Championships.

SSgt. Daniel L. Karnammes, 18th Airborne Corps, Ft. Bragg, N.C., set a new record for the rifle slow fire aggregate match then went on to win the Army Individual Rifle Championship with a record score of 1901-52X.

SSgt. Elmer V. Myers, 82nd Airborn Division, Ft. Bragg also set two new records while winning the Army Individual Pistol Championship. Myers set a new record in the .22 caliber pistol aggregate with a score of 589-40X and a new record in grand aggregate match with 2614-102X.

Novice championships were won by 2nd Lt. James Van Cleve of te Tennessee National Guard and Sp4 David McMillian, 2nd Psychological Warfare Group, Fort Bragg. Van Cleve won he rifle championship with a score of 1866-36X while McMillan fired 2553-71X to lead the movie pistol shooters.

The Ft. Bragg Dragons won the Commanding General's Rifle Team Match and the Infantry Center Gold Team won the Commanding General's Infantry Trophy Rifle Match. The Tennessee National Guard Team placed second in the Rifle Team Match and the Trophy Match.

The Tennessee National Guard Pistol Team won the 18th Airborne Corps Commanding General's Center Fire Pistol Match while the Ft. Bragg Pistol Team placed first in the Commanding General's .45 Caliber Pistol Match and won second place in the Center Fire Match. The Infantry Center Blue Team place second in the .45 Caliber Match.

In small bore competition, Maj. Donald L. Meredith, USAR Control Group, St. Louis, Mo. was high individual firer with the rifle. Major David L. Jolly Jr., 306th Reserve Field Hospital, Memphis, Tenn. established a new record with a score of 287-7X to win the individual pistol matches.

The Smallbore Rifle Team Trophy went to the 121st ARCOM, Chattanooga, Tenn. and the 306th Hospital Team won the pistol team matches.

Fund committee to aid Olympiad aspirants

The United States Olympic Fund Raising Committee is now in full swing in its campaign to raise the necessary funds to send our athletes to the 1972 Olympic Games.

This includes the XX Olympiad in Munich Germany Aug. 26 to Sept. 10 and the XI Olympic Winter Games in Sapporo, Japan Feb. 3-13, 1972.

Bumper stickers and other fund raising material will be available in the Columbus-Fort Benning area in the near future.

A number of fund raising events are being held in Atlanta and other parts of Georgia in the coming months.

The USOC is very interested in locating any former Olympic Medal Winners and any individuals who plan to participate in the 1972 games.

If you are, or know somone in the above categories, please contact Capt. Emmett Mahle at 298-1754 or the Fort Benning Information Office at 545-4622 or 545-4792.

Army cites promotion outlook

E9: The names of 400 individuals selected for advancement to sergeant major by the Department of the Army E9 Board which adjourned Dec. 15, 1970, are given in DA Circular 624-2. Promotions to commence this summer and to run for about one year. The next E9 Board tentatively is planned for the late fall of this year.

E8: Promotions form DA Circular 624-96, which lists 1,601 E7's recommended for master sergeant, should begin late this summer. The earliest possibility for the next DA E8 board is late this year or early next year.

E7: A less-than-anticipated E7 loss rate is causing a slowdown in promotions for the 3,250 E6s chosen for advancement last summer by DA's first E7 Centralized Selection Board. As a result, the next E7 Board could be delayed. It was originally planned for late this summer.

E6: Promotions to pay grade E6 under new semi-centralized procedures numbered 621 in January, 415 in February and 636 in March. About 300 E6 promotions per month are forecast for the remainder of this fiscal year. Proposed refinements to the semi-centralized system are now under study.

E5 and E4: The number of monthly promotions to E5 and E4 is expected to remain at a level of about 12,000 and 22,000 respectively, for the next several months. Additionally, DA plans to continue to authorize exceptions to the position vacancy rule for advancement to these pay grades on a fairly liberal basis. Further, the feasibility of extending semi-centralized procedures to grade E5 is now being examined and a decision is expected sometime this year.

Six bowlers to play in 3rd Army tourney

Six of the top bowlers from Fort Benning will be at Ft. Rucker, Ala., next week to represent the host in the 3rd U. S. Army Bowling Championships.

SSgt. Otto Urban, Medical Company, SSgt. Leroy F. Kohner, 598th Light Maintenance Company, CWO Luther M. Russell, 609th Transportation Company; 1st Sgt. Ray Burton, HHC, 2d Cmd., and Capt. James G. Housden, 72nd Co., TSB, earned places on the post team in a playoff held at the Main Post Bowling Alleys last week.

60 teams to compete at ROTC tournament

The Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army will sponsor an invitational Junior Division ROTC Rifle Team-Drill Team competition at Fort Benning May 6-8.

Sixty rifle and drill teams—694 cadets in all—are expected for the event, according to Maj. (ret.) William G. Newbold, cbairman of the AUSA ROTC committee.

The cadets will represent more than 30 high schools in five states of the 3rd Army area as well as two dependents' schools in the Panama Canal Zone.

Newbold termed the response to invitations for this year's fourth annual event "very good. This thing has snowballed and gained impetus each year," he added.

After their arrival at Fort Benning Thursday, cadets will be welcomed by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, and they will observe training at the Infantry School Friday.

Saturday, the rifle competition is scheduled at Hibbs Range. Riflemen will fire 10 rounds each in the following positions: prone, kneeling and standstanding in that order. A total of 29 rifle teams are expected to compete, Newbold said.

Three scorers and one referee for the rifle competition will be furnished by USAIC Rifle Marksmanship Committee.

At the same time the rifle competition is going on, drill teams will be performing at York Field. In the first part of that competition, teams will execute movements as prescribed by the Army Drill and Ceremonies manual, and in the second part, the teams will perform precision drills.

Newbold explained 31 drill teams are expected to compete. The six judges will be furnished by the Conditioning, Combatives and Drill Committee of the Leadership Department.

In addition to the drill team competition, two cadets from each team may compete in individual competition.

Gen. Westmoreland congratulates Reserves

On behalf of the United States Army, it is a great pleasure to extend greetings on the 62nd anniversary of the United States Army Reserve.

Battle-tested and proved in two World Wars, Korea, Vietnam, and a formidable augmentation to our Active Forces in the Berlin Crisis of 1961, you have written many illustrious chapters in our Nation's history. In peacetime, both in organized units and as individual reinforcements, you have served as a deterrent to potential agressors.

Historically, the defense of our Nation has been based on having highly trained and professional Active Forces backed by citizen-soldiers. Today, as the Active Army is decreasing in numbers, we must rely to an even greater extent on the United States Army Reserve as an integral part of the Army team. I know you will meet this challenge with the same enthusiasm and dedication that have marked your achievements to date.

On this anniversary, 23 April 1971, I salute the past, present and future United States Army Reserve.

(Signed) W. C. WESTMORELAND
General, United States Army

Also scuba diver, deputy sheriff

Disarming bombs not enough for him

By Keith Harmon

To most men a four of duty with an Explosive Ordanance Disposal (EOD) squad would be enough challenge and adventure to last a lifetime, but to SFC. Ken Castleberry, 35, the nerve-wrecking tension of EOD work is but a single cog in a giant adventure wheel that has spun thrill and excitement everywhere he's been.

In addition to disarming bombs as a military occupation, Castleberry is known in many circles for his exploits as an international racing driver, a parachutist and a professional underwater diver, and as if that's not enough, the Vietnam veteran spends many of his off-duty hours as a deputy sheriff for Harris County, Ga.

Currently with the 931st Engineer Group, Castleberry is the first sergeant of the 89th Ord. Det. (EOD), a crack 10-man squad responsible for the demolition and disposal of dangerous explosives.

Before coming to Fort Benning, Castleberry received invaluable experience as a member of the only EOD unit in Vietnam that rappelled from helicopters. He's been staring down misfired rounds and "duid" explosives since 1961.

No doubt Castleberry has one of the most dramatic and potentially dangerous jobs in the U.S. Army, but that's not enough for the tough-as-nails father of two. In his off-duty hours he can be found bobbing in and out of the chilly streams of Georgia and Alabama as well as the briny deep of the Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico.

As a deputy sheriff he's searched murky rivers for missing persons and stolen cars. As a sportsman he's spearfished at depths of 110 feet, coming up one time with a 65-pound trophy.

An advanced diver with the Professional Association of Diving Instructors, Castleberry also instructs novice divers two nights a week at the Fort Benning Susiba Club and has taught members of a local Explorer Scout post to dive (he's the first mate of the unit).

His interest in scuba diving developed a little over two years ago in the style of a true adventurist.

"The National Wildlife Refuge at Eufaula, Ala., had an underwater obstruction that was tearing the bottom out of boats," the ordanance expert began. "They called the EOD unit here and wanted us to blow it out with explosives. I got digging around and came up with a scuba instructor assigned here at the time," Castleberry added.

"I told him, 'Captain, I need to learn to scuba dive to do a job with explosives tomorrow.' He thought I was kidding," the Army sergeant grinned. "But I wasn't."

After a morning instruction period in a Fort Benning swimming pool, Castleberry and the EOD detachment commanding officer made the dive into the wintry-cold lake, set the charges and blasted out the underwater obstacle—an old, forgotten railroad bridge. He's had his feet wet ever since. "I found out that it was so much fun that I just kept at it," he said.

Because of Army regulations, any diving the SFC does in an official capacity must be done in his spare time. However, with interests and hobbies like his, spare time is a valuable commodity.

Tinkering with explosives in dangerous waters would be challange enough for most men, out not this one. While stationed in Europe SFC Castleberry distinguished himself as a race car driver, winning three international races on Nuremburg ring. His stint as a driver lasted three years beginning in 1958 and ended just a year after a near tragedy. "In 1959 it took rescue crews 1½ hours to pull me free from a wrecked Volvo. I was lucky."

The Army stirred Castleberry's interest in parachuting and in 1953 he completed Airborne training at Fort Benning. While stationed in Germany he chalked up more than 130 jumps before trading his silk chutes for oxygen tanks.

"I seldom ever think of the risk involved. I just enjoy doing it," he said of his many pursuits. "I see things like diving in sporting magazines and say, 'wow, that looks like fun.' So I go try it. And believe me, it's a lot better than sitting in front of a television set on Saturday afternoons watching football games."

What's going on with those new Army commercials?

Does today's Army want to join you?

Today's Army wants to join you. For the location of your nearest Army representative call 800-243-6000 toll-free."

"What do you mean today's Army wants to join me? I'm already in the Army. What's with this 'Today's Army' stuff?"

By now a good many of us have heard or read one or more of the Army's new recruiting ads. If your reaction has been one of "What goes on here?," don't feel alone. A lot of soldiers are curious about the new ads.

To help answer some of the questions that have been asked, information has been furnished by people on the Department of the Army staff who are connected with the campaign and some of the men from the advertising agency which the Army has hired to design and place the ads.

What's been happening since March 1 when the new ad campaign began is a recruiting test. The main purpose of the test is to see if designing and running contemporary, "hip" ads which reflect the professional challenges and career opportunities in the Army today will increase the flow of young men 17 to 21 years old into Army recruiting offices.

Today the Army has a challenging new mission to enlist more volunteers and to keep more of its good men in the Army in order to reduce reliance on the draft. Accordingly, many changes have been introduced of late, some on a test basis under Project VOLAR — Volunteer Army.

These changes are designed to produce an Army which is more modern and more highly skilled, while maintaining the standards of discipline and leadership which are the cornerstone of an effective military force.

All of this, put together, is aimed toward showing that the Army is an attractive place to make a career.

Because of the importance of this task, the Army has been authorized by Department of Defense to test for three months the use of prime advertising time as an aid to the recruiting effort.

Advertising for recruits is nothing new. It's been done before. But those ads were run as a public service, meaning the page pace and broadcast time were donated to the Army, as with most public service time donated to organizations, the ads were usually run on radio and tv during light listening and viewing hours.

The current advertising campaign is designed to appeal to potential Army enlistees. But it is also indirectly designed to say something to those of us who are already in the Army.

The message the Army is sending to both groups is that the Army is changing — and changing to become a better Army. As Lt. Gen. George I. Forsythe, special assistant to the chief of staff for the Modern Volunteer Army, told the admen, "We in the Army are working to put our policies and our practices where our rhetoric has been."

The way the Army ads are announcing this message is with the slogan "Today's Army wants to join you." The slogan and information accompanying it tell potential enlistees and today's soldiers alike that the Army has recognized that young America as changed and that individuality and personal freedom — as well as skill and devotion to duty — are important.

For example, one magazine ad tells its readers that today's Army knows you'd like to better yourself in many ways and that the Army can help you do just that. But, the ad goes on to say, "We also know you put a price on these things. The price is your individuality. And you question the Army's willingness to pay this price. Today's Army is willing to pay this price."

Many men already in the Army are in a pretty good position to see that the Army is working to join them — not just at the VOLAR test sites where much attention has focused on new practices being tested, but all across the Army.

Again, the current Army ad blitz is a test. From it the answers to many questions should emerge.

Among the question are: What messages and mass media will produce more inquiries at the recruiting stations and help increase the number of enlistments? What are we doing now or not doing with our recruiting advertising that is effective and ineffective? What are the best ways to get the intended message across to the target audience and a secondary audience of people who influence men 17 to 21 years old?

Once the answers to these questions are known, the Army should be able to do a better job of recruiting volunteers and in turn rely less on the draft. And doing a better job in all its activities is much of what today's changing Army is all about. (ANF)

Unit Readiness tapping specialist's computer talent

By Frank Webb

It is no longer unusual to find an Army specialist four with a master's degree. And many still would think it unusual to find him working in a job where his education and skills are used.

But Spc Mike Dougherty of Minneapolis, Minn., a physics and math major, is proof that professionals are recognized and used in the Army.

Dougherty, who received his master's degree in physics at Stoneybrook College, State University of New York, has been developing almost all his time recently to a computer program he began in June 1970 and expects to complete next month.

The program currently being used by the unit readiness section's computer was found by the section to have several "internal flaws," says Capt. William F. Daughterty, the unit readiness officer. So Mike, with an extensive background in computer programming, elected to rewrite and correct the flawed program.

Capt. Daughterty says Mike is authoring "a program which will improve our program here substantially."

"He has been working real hard on this program," the captain continues. "Too hard probably. I'd like to see him get more rest."

Such concern reflects the captain's opinion of Spc Dougherty, who took his undergraduate degree in mathematics and who helped develop the program of computer assisted instruction at the University of Minnesota, where he received his bachelor's degree in math.

Dougherty became interested in math when he attended De LaSalle High School in Minneapolis. The school offered a new advanced math course, and Dougherty decided to take it. He credits the course and his "enthusiastic" teacher, Brother Daniel, with helping him to later place fourth in the Minnesota division of the national math contest in 1964. To date he has the highest score of anyone who completed from his high school, he says.

The program he is working on now, a master file of "command and control systems," details aspects of unit readiness on all TO and E (combat ready) units at Fort Benning. This includes such data as troop strength, training and overall readiness as well as related items such as logistical readiness. The Department of the Army sets standards for these program, used by all Army posts in the U. S.

"The program I'm working on," he says, "could reduce our work by at least 50 per cent."

Also the time for updating reports, which currently involves several repetitions of the program to complete the data, and for printing, will be reduced, he claims.

These repetitions mean time, and the reduction of time means a reduction of cost now about $90 to $100 an hour — to run the computer.

Dougherty's program is not just designed to replace the older program. "The type of program I'm working on now can be used in other areas also. I'm making general changes so that the guy who comes in after me won't have to start all over again."

Dougherty expects to separate from the Army July 27. Before he entered the service, he planned to go into the aerospace industry as an atomic physicist, but now Dougherty has decided to go into computer programming instead, partly because of his Army experience.

A little more there

Several events planned

Week to honor military

Next week Fort Benning will join other military installations and towns and cities across the country in celebrating Armed Forces Week.

The events here will culminate with Armed Forces Day on Saturday, May 15.

In his proclamation for the celebration of that day, President Nixon said, "Today our nation pauses to honor the men and women of the Armed Forces.

"This Armed Forces Day 1971 provides an opportunity for all of us to extend to them our appreciation, not only for their sacrifices but for their constant guardianship of freedom and justice throughout the world.

"I join with the American people in saluting all members of the Armed Forces and expressing to them our continuing admiration and respect."

The celebration on post during the week will include:

—An open house May 15 at Martin Army Hospital to mark National Hospital Week, which coincides with Armed Forces Week. The open house will be conducted from 9:30 to noon. Guided tours will be provided to show the public the various facilities of the hospital. The event also features a display of field equipment, including a field operating room, a medivac helicopter and a field ambulance. Refreshments also will be served.

— An Airborne 3000 demonstration. The public is invited to this demonstration of Airborne training techniques and capabilities at 1 p.m. Monday at Eubanks Field.

— Visits to the Infantry Museum. The museum is open Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and on Saturday and Sunday from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. There is no admission charge.

—A celebration of Aviation Command Activation Day which coincides with Armed Forces Day, May 15. Activities at Lawson Field are scheduled from 1 to 4 p.m., and scheduled events there include a fly-by of air-

50 make 100 mile march to show scout support

By Bob Wise

About 50 soldiers from the 197th Infantry Brigade should arrive in Atlanta today after a four-day, 100-mile walk from Columbus. The soldiers are marching as expression of the brigade's support of the Boy Scouts of America.

The on-foot excursion is in conjunction with the regional Boy Scout Jamboree going on this weekend in Georgia's capitol city. The delegation plans to present a scroll on which is inscribed the purpose of the mission to Lt. Gen. Albert O. Connor, commanding general of the 3rd U. S. Army and chairman of the Atlanta area Boy Scouts.

The scroll is from Col. Willard Latham, brigade commander. The presentation will be made in Atlanta Stadium, site of the jamboree.

The trip, which began Tuesday morning, was kicked off by a ceremony near Columbus' northern limits. During the ceremony, Col. Latham presented the scroll to the marching officer in charge, and the 282nd Army Band got everybody off on the right foot with marching music. A complete organic display from the 197th also was viewed during the

The Columbus-Phenix City- Fort Benning Chapter of the Association of the U. S. Army (AUSA) is sponsoring an invitational Junior Division ROTC Rifle Team-Drill Team competition tomorrow at Fort Benning.

The rifle teams — 29 in all — will compete at Biggs Range starting at 8 a.m. Drill team competition for 31 teams is scheduled at York Field, also at 8 a.m.

After the competition the top three drill teams will give a demonstration at the field from 4:30 to 5 p.m.

Post tops in 3rd Army for reenlistments

Fort Benning has been awarded the 3rd Army Reenlistment Award for the third quarter (January-March) of Fiscal Year 71. The award, honoring the post in the 3rd Army area with the best reenlistment rate, was accepted by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, at last week's monthly commanders conference in his office.

For the third quarter the post had a total of 931 reenlistments, representing 113.4 per cent of the goal for that period.

In recognition of the best achievement in reenlistments by a post command, Gen. Talbott presented the commanding general's four foot reenlistment trophy to The School Brigade at the meeting. Accepting the award were Col. Frank L. Garrison, TSB commanding officer, and career counselor MSgt. Aubrey Johnson, whose 526 reenlistments represented 155.8 per cent of the unit's goal of 151 for the quarter.

All major commands on post, in fact, had exceeded their reenlistment goals for the quarter. The unit that had the second best reenlistment rate was the Medical Department Ac-

A radio-teletype team chief in HHC, 197th Inf. Bde., received $10,000 and a kiss from his wife April 21, when he reenlisted for six years. Sgt. William R. McKnight, 21, was sworn in by Col. Willard Latham, 197th Inf. Bde. commander and was slated to leave this month for assignment in Germany.

McKnight said he reenlisted because he wanted "to see more of the world and take his wife" (Deborah) with him. The Columbia, S.C., native said he planned to save the bonus to buy a house.

Prior to his coming to the 197th in August, McKnight was assigned to HHC, 31st Engr. Bn., 20th Engr. Bde., in Vietnam. He holds the Army Commendation Medal and Vietnam Service and Campaign medals.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Bill King

One clove of garlic press equals about three cloves minced by hand. The press releases that much more flavorful oils.

Georgians (of the Soviet variety) use their fresh, rather soft mushrooms for this dish, but you can use canned mushrooms just as well; mix them into some sour cream thinned with oil and lemon juice, sprinkle with tarragon and serve chilled as an appetizer.

Family members on a low-sodium diet need not pass up pasta. Just omit salt and substitute a tablespoon of lemon juice and some grated peel in the cooking water.

To avoid damage to your blender, be sure the motor has stopped completely before you remove the container from the base.

Cordials were invented by monks centuries ago as medicines for the poor in monastery hospitals. The name comes from the Latin word "cordialis", meaning from the heart.

School honors top correspondence students

The United States Army Infantry School has announced the winners of the 3rd Quarter School Year 1971, special recognition program for correspondence course students who excel academically while carrying a heavy course schedule.

Nearly 30,000 students are enrolled in the program, studying a wide variety of subjects ranging from drill and command, weapons, to leadership and brigade tactics.

Sgt. James C. Westerman, 14th Co., 1st Bn. TSB, was named the distinguished correspondence course student during the 3rd quarter. The period spans from Jan. 1 to March 31.

Westerman will receive a letter of congratulations from Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, commandant of the Infantry School. He also will receive a citation announcing his selection as distinguished correspondence student for the 3rd quarter.

Ten other students were selected as outstanding correspondence students for the 3rd quarter. The group was cited for an average rating of excellent or higher in order of number of hours completed.

Brig. Gen. John T. Carley, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, will send a letter of congratulations to the ten outstanding students.

In addition to the 10 outstanding students, 132 additional students were entered on the United States Army Infantry School Correspondence Course Honor Roll for the 3rd quarter. This honor is limited to students who complete 100 or more credit hours in each quarter with an average rating of excellent or higher.

Each honor roll student is to receive a personal letter of commendation from Col. William R. Guthrie, director of the Nonresident Instruction ROTC Affairs Department. They will also receive a United States Army Infantry School Honor Roll Certificate.

Receiving certificates of academic excellence for earning 50 or more credit hours with an average of excellent or higher during the 3rd quarter were 554 students in the program.

Byline Bayonet

(Byline Bayonet welcomes questions of general interest about Fort Benning and the Army. Within space limitations all reasonable questions will be answered. Questions of a purely military nature which obviously could be answered more properly by commanders or supervisors within the chain of command will not be accepted. Questions must be signed with current unit of assignment indicated. Send questions to The Bayonet, Room 602, Infantry Hall, or telephone 545-2791.)

Q — My ETS is in July of this year. Will I be assigned to a reserve unit upon my discharge?

A — Under a Department of Defense statement in June 1967, no enlisted person who has served at least two years on active duty will be involuntarily assigned to a Ready Reserve unit for drill purposes unless a vacancy for which he is qualified cannot be filled otherwise. No enlisted person who has served in Vietnam will be involuntarily assigned for drill purposes under current policy. Persons in these categories, however, may be required to serve 15 days of active duty for training.

Q — Upon completion of my active duty do I have to register with the Draft Board?

A — If you registered with Selective Service before entering active duty, you must advise it of your new status and your new address within 10 days after separation. You can do this in person or by mail. Take with you or mail a copy of your DD Form 214. You will get a new registration certificate and notice of classification.

If for some reason you never registered with Selective Service, you must do so within 30 days after separation from active duty. Report to the nearest local board to do this. Take with you a copy of your DD Form 214.

Q — Are Commissioned Officers who are OBV types and who are qualified Army Aviators eligible for the two month early out program?

A — Yes, provided they are on their initial tour and are not part of the Chaplin, JAG, DC, ANC, AMSC Corps. You should contact your personnel officer for further information relative to the program.

Q — I am scheduled to go on TDY in the near future and plan to use commercial transportation, do I have to process through the Transportation Office prior to my departure?

A — Yes, unit commanders and activities authorized to issue travel orders must comply with the provisions of USAIC Regulation 310-3 dated 24 October 1968; Temporary Duty travel of Military and Civilian Personnel, when requesting commercial transportation for official travel. Members desiring transportation requests for TDY travel on official business must furnish the transportation officer with two copies of travel orders, specifying reporting time and date at least five working days prior to departure date. The transportation officer will determine the mode of travel, unless mode is directed in orders, and make the necessary reservations and travel arrangements.

The judge says

Be careful with Uncle's property

USAIC LEGAL ASSISTANCE OFFICE — From time to time the attitude is found in the military that because items of supply and equipment are designated as public property anyone can take and use them as his personal property. One often hears the statement that "it is permissible to steal from Uncle Sam if you can get away with it." Of course nothing could be further from the truth.

A failure to deal with government property economically involves not only a hindrance to the effectiveness of the Army, but may have grave consequences for the individual as well.

When Congress enacted the Uniform Code of Military Justice, it characterized certain conduct with respect to government property as constituting criminal acts. For example, the willful or negligent failure to deal with government property economically and efficiently may constitute dereliction of duty, which is made a crime under Article 92 of the Code.

Likewise, the taking of government property for one's own personal use, even temporarily, constitutes the offense of wrongful appropriation. Of course, where the taking is coupled with an intent to permanently deprive the government of its property, the crime of larceny has been perpetrated.

Inasmuch as the crimes of wrongful appropriation and larceny are recognized as crimes involving moral turpitude, the Code provides that if an individual is convicted of such a crime by a general court martial he may be sentenced to a dishonorable discharge from the Army. This is, of course, in addition to a possible prison sentence.

The Uniform Code of Military Justice also lists as offenses the unlawful selling or otherwise disposing of military property and damaging, destroying or losing military property through neglect. The Code provides for punishment up to a dishonorable discharge and confinement at hard labor for five years and one year respectively for these offenses.

Lightning may be shocking handicap

It's about that time of year again when grown men, armed with a variety of weapon-like clubs, pit their wits against a tiny white ball. Although defenseless and unable to strike back, the ball frequently is the victor.

Some golfers this year could lose, not only a match, but also their lives.

Did you know that lightning kills up to 500 U.S. golfers a year? Last year in one city three golfers had just taken refuge under a tree when lightning struck. One was merely stunned, but two were knocked unconscious. Fortunately, a Red Cross nurse and her husband were near the scene of the accident and immediately gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to the stricken men. Their lives were saved, but only because of the couple's quick thinking and knowledge of how to give this form of artificial respiration.

Lightning will strike the highest point in an area, and on a wide-open golf course, a golfer might be the highest point.

However, the majority of victims are not killed from the bolt itself but from side flashes or ground charges. Immediate action can mean the difference between life and death. The reason for giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is that an electrical shock interrupts breathing because it affects nerves and muscles.

The next time you're on a golf course during an electrical storm, remember these simple Red Cross rules:

1. Don't raise an umbrella.
2. Avoid small sheds and shelters in an exposed area.
3. Don't stand under an isolated tree or small clump of trees.
4. Seek shelter in dense woods, a frame building protected against lightning, or any natural protection.

To continue to play while lightning crackles around you, could net you a lot worse than a seven-stroke hole. (AFPS).

Social concern requires awareness

Social concern is not a new thing in the United States. We can take pride in the number of individual Americans who have given their time, money and their lives to help less fortunate people. Since the Great Depression, our Government has engaged in extensive programs of health, education, and welfare. But social concern requires a continuing awareness of community problems on the part of the individual citizen. With this in mind let us discuss some ways to make our feelings of concern more effective.

First, we must learn to understand the problems of our society rather than overreacting to the symptoms of these problems. We are living in a time when neither symptoms nor problems can be ignored. Both need to be recognized and dealt with. For instance, hunger is a problem, anger is a symptom; inadequate schools are a problem, protest is a symptom; unemployment is a problem, job demands are a symptom. Unfortunately having treated the symptoms of these problems, we find that the basic problem will not go away but simply produces the same symptoms all over again. We must find more effective ways of dealing with the social ills of modern society.

Second, we must have the maturity not to allow our fears and hostilities to block our sense of concern. When we reject people who are different from ourselves we are taking the first step into the blind alley of prejudice and bigotry. Such rejection contributes to the agonizing problems of our day. When we broaden our horizons, we enrich our own lives. How we relate to people who are different from us is one of the truest indicators of our level of social concern. The only alternative to hate is love. Love translated into human relations is social concern.

VOLAR changes 'drive on' into Florida Ranger camp

By Wendell Cochran

EGLIN AFB, Fla. — It is 235 miles from Fort Benning to the Florida Ranger Camp here. Some of the roads are narrow and windy. Communications with Ranger headquarters at Fort Benning are often poor.

But none of those problems has prevented the Ranger camp and the 1st Ranger Co., TSB, from "driving on" with the Modern Volunteer Army program currently underway at Fort Benning.

The Ranger camp has some built-in problems for the men who are assigned here. Not the least of these is that it is farther from the Palmetto and Scrubcock — covered camp to the nearest town than it is across Fort Benning at its widest point.

Because of these problems, MVA has won wide acceptance here. Indeed, a quick tour of the facilities reveals that despite the Ranger camp's isolation, it is actively implementing MVA. There is a bit of irony in that efforts for a volunteer Army are being carried out on an Air Force base.

The most important project under way at the camp is a $2,500 renovation of a Soldiers Club. When it is finished the club will feature a sophisticated sound system, color television, pool tables and beer and soft drink machines.

Temporary barracks partitions are being constructed in the barracks, although about 50 per cent of the 75 men living in barracks here are living in individual rooms constructed when the camp was a federal prison.

Dayrooms in cadre barracks are being improved under MVA and a laundry room also is being built. The camp has also instituted other MVA programs adopted at Fort Benning. Pass restrictions have been removed; free soft drinks are available in the mess hall, and beer is permitted in the barracks.

Some MVA-type actions were instituted here before the MVA program came along, said Capt. James Fraser, who has commanded the 1st Ranger Co. and is now camp adjudant.

One of those is the Soldiers Council; seven soldiers, E-4 and below, who meet twice a month with Lt. Col. James M. Tucker, camp commander.

The council is overseeing renovation of the soldiers club and has become involved in several other projects.

One of its members, PFC Edward Tyska, said he likes the opportunity to meet frequently with the camp commander to discuss problems.

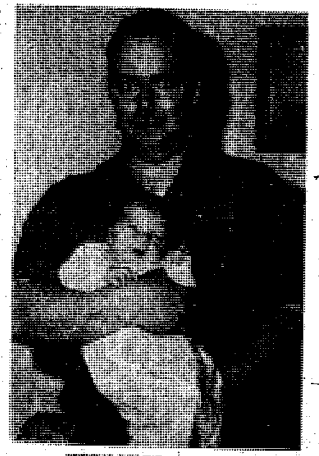
Tucker himself is a staunch supporter of the MVA ideas and goals. "I think VOLAR has allowed us to take a second look at what we are doing," he said. "It also gives us the feeling that if we want to change something we will have support."

The colonel strongly believes the frequent meetings with the soldier's council are beneficial.

Sgt. William V. Webb is the camp sergeant major. He has more than two decades of service and says he can see the difference between young soldiers today and those who came into the Army with him.

Webb particularly likes the additional individual freedoms that have come about through MVA. "I'm a big enough man to put on a uniform, then I think I am old enough to stay out all night if I want, as long as I am ready for duty the next day."

Tucker and Webb agree that leadership at the lowest levels is the essential ingredient for MVA success. Webb points out that NCOs and officers of small units need the support of their superiors if they are to succeed in their all-important task.



The Florida Ranger Camp has not placed emphasis in its MVA program on professionalism, primarily because of the professional attitude that already prevails here.

The detachment is small and "very few people are working out of MOS," according to Fraser. That makes every day a training day and nearly every task an MOS-related task.

Professionalism is also the ingredient that makes the camp's officers and soldiers "go 'round." Their mission is to train Ranger students, from whom they demand only the most outstanding performance in the most difficult situations.

Daughter comes 'special delivery'

SPECIAL DELIVERY DAUGHTER
Sgt. Russel Carmen Displays Daughter Whom He Helped Deliver

April 19 started out as a quiet, ordinary day for Sgt. Russel D. Carmen. But the day ended with a rather exciting surprise.

After the safe, though eventful, delivery, Carmen immediately called an ambulance which took mother and baby to Martin Army Hospital. Both Mrs. Carmen and young Miss Analisa Denise Carmen are doing fine and are back home again.

Contributions lag in Benning's drive for health fund

By Don Bryan

Fort Benning's International Service and National Health Agencies Fund Drive ends today but James Schoonover, campaign chairman, says it will be another week before collections will be completed.

Contributions this year are running far behind last year's campaign. Schnoover said the campaign earlier this week had obtained only 25 per cent participation compared to 60 per cent last year. Of the 26 reporting and collecting agencies, the project chairman said only four have reached 100 per cent participation. This compares to 39 of 63 elements that had obtained 100 per cent at this time last year.

Only 10 of the 26 elements have reached 50 per cent or higher, Schoover said, compared to almost all of the elements in last year's campaign.

Schnoover urged all project chairman to complete their collections this week and to have the donations turned in by May 14.

Contributions received through the fund drive will benefit 11 voluntary associations forming the National Health Agencies and organizations comprising the International Service Agencies. Those agencies include the American - Korean Foundation, the Planned Parenthood World Population, CARE and Project HOPE.

These organizations, Schnoover said, depend entirely on contributions from the general public and federal employes for their work and research.

4,000 picnicers feast at Gun Club outing

By Bill Kloeb

More than 4,000 people attended the Rod and Gun Club Family Day held on the club grounds last Sunday afternoon.

Club members and their families consumed 7,000 hamburgers and 6,000 hot-dogs, enjoyed 35 kegs of beer and more than 7,000 cans of soft drinks during the five hour affair.

The large crowd wandered through the club grounds observing displays, watching demonstrations, and at the same time listening for their name to be called as the winner of one of the many sporting goods prizes given away throughout the afternoon.

The most populated place during the whole day was the food line, but the pleasure boat, Infantry Museum and archery displays drew large groups which had numerous exhibitions for the experts at each exhibit.

The free pony rides were the objective of the small-fry until the sky diving demonstrations were announced, at which time there was a large surge to the open area adjacent to the club skeet ranges — the target of the sky divers. Despite high winds members of the Fort Benning Parachute Club were able to land in the small area with extreme accuracy.

The club skeet ranges came in for more attention when a team of skeet shooters from the Rod and Gun Club fired a challenge match against a team of shooters from the U. S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit. The club shooters fired well enough to beat the experts from the Training Unit by six points. Some of the Marksmanship shooters have reperesented this country in International competition.

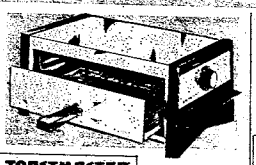
Soldier re-ups to train for nuclear plant post

Reenlistment ceremonies were held recently for the first Fort Benning soldier to be selected for training as a nuclear power plant operator.

Sp5 Peter C. Hahn, 26, was sworn in for a five year hitch by Lt. Col. Garrett V. Sidler, executive officer of the 931st Engineer Group.



The training specialist will begin a 54-week course of nuclear power study Aug. 31 at Ft. Belvoir, Va. Sidler was formerly the chief of the Academic Training Branch at the Army nuclear power school and formerly the officer-in-charge of the school's nuclear power plant.

A former University of Buffalo student, Hahn will receive intensive academic training beginning with four months of study in algebra, trigonometry, modern physics, health physics, and electrical, mechanical and nuclear engineering.

Tennis-study group to be ready for summer fun

Warm weather is returning and tennis courts will soon be in constant use and the officers' wives of the 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf. "Patriots," will be more than ready for the summer fun.

They have been receiving instructions from Mrs. Stephen R. Pawlik, wife of the battalion commander, at her free tennis clinic. The classes are held each Monday at 1 p.m. on the Main Officers Open Mess Club courts, weather permitting.

At the clinic, the wives are instructed on an individual basis, with Mrs. Pawlik serving as teacher, encourager and helpful opponent. Basic knowledge such as good racquet grip, body stance, court position and follow-through, is given special attention. Each girl is given solo attention to her problems and the chance to work on them.

After the individual instruction, the ladies divide into singles or doubles groups to put into practice what they have learned and to enjoy a warm day of tennis.

The clinic was visited by 12th - seeded U.S. tennis player, Howard Turner, who treated the ladies to an exhibition game, and later gave pointers on good playing techniques.

197th Infantry Brigade holds spring dance

The 197th Infantry Brigade held its Spring Formal on the evening of May 1, at the Main Officers Club Ballroom. The 5th Bn., 31st Inf. ("Polar Bears") sponsored the yearly event.

After the cocktail hour, an offering of grace was given by Brigade Chaplain (Maj.) David W. Hoh. Dinner was then served to the 350 people present at the affair.

Immediately after dining, those present heard a short speech delivered by the host, Brigade Commander Col. Willard Latham.

Joining Col. Latham at the head table were Mrs. Latham; Lt. Col. Johnny Johnston, former commander of the 1st Bn., 29th Inf.; Mrs. Johnston; Lt. Col. John Nixon, Jr., former commander of the 5th Bn., 31st Inf.; Mrs. Nixon; Deputy Brigade Commander Lt. Col. Charles V. Yarborough and Mrs. Yarborough; Deputy Brigade Commander Lt. Col. Richard W. McKee, and Mrs. McKee; Sponsoring Unit Chairmen Maj. and Mrs. Oliver W. Dillon, and Chaplain and Mrs. Hoh.

For entertainment the battalions sponsored singing groups, four to six in number, to compete against each other. All groups were of such fine quality that Col. Latham was forced to judge the event as a draw.

After the singing competition, the remainder of the evening was spent in good conversation and dancing to the tunes of the Buddy Bair Orohestra.

Shampoo Co. seeks portrait subjects

John H. Breck Inc., is again searching for the wife and daughter of Armed Forces personnel to be the subjects of a Breck pastel.

If you have a daughter you would like to show off, or if you know of a mother and daughter with the fresh, natural look and beautiful hair typical of Breck girls, Breck wants to know about them.

The winners of the world wide search will receive an original pastel portrait by the famous artist, Ralph William Williams, valued at $1,000 as well as a Hamilton Beach hair dryer and a supply of Breck products. Five runners-up will receive Hamilton Beach beauty aids and a supply of Breck products.

In 1970, Mrs. Tequin Westover and her daughter, Tiffany, shared the spotlight as winners in the Breck military mother-daughter search. The Westovers, from Offut Air Force Base, were chosen because of their lovely shining hair, and their radiant, fresh look. Runners up were Mrs. David Mott and Andrea of Big Springs, Tex.; Mrs. George Bailey and Dawn Marie of Maple Shade, N.J.; Mrs. Kent Williams and Mole of Sacramento, Calif. and Mrs. Myrna Gerrand and both Tanya and Kristen of Edwards, Calif.

All wives and daughters of military personnel on active duty are eligible, and may be entered by themselves or relatives and friends. There are no age restrictions for either mother or daughter.

The contest will be judged on color snapshots of mother and daughter, photographed either together or separately. The search ends Dec. 31, and winners will be announced early in 1972.

To enter Breck's military mother-daughter contest, mail your color photo or photos to: Public Relations Department, John H. Breck Inc., Wayne, N. J. 07470. On the back of each picture print your name, address and installation clearly in ink. All photos become the property of John Breck Inc., and will not be returned.

The Fort Benning Officers Open Mess Supper Club was the scene for a spring tea given by the ladies of the Infantry Officer Advanced Course Class 2-71.

The date was April 22 and the spring theme was carried throughout the decorations. The focal point of the affair was a table covered with leis of flowers and greenery which depicted a garden scene.

Tea tables were decorated with birds, nests made of flowers and papier-mache.

Mrs. Charlie R. Williams was the official hostess for the tea. Honored guests were Mrs. Orwin C. Talbott, Mrs. Lawrence L. Mowery, Mrs. Frank L. Garrison, Mrs. Jules C. Trepagnier, Mrs. Raymond Gunderson, Mrs. Edwin J. Rowan III, Mrs. James Cochran, Mrs. Aguila Stripe, Mrs. Allan Mathews, Mrs. Stuart A. Miller, Mrs. Donald R. Damaisen, and Mrs. Russell Miller.

Scouting's top honor

Two brothers get Eagle Awards

The Boy Scouts have recognized two brothers — sons of a retired Army officer and Columbus resident — with scouting's highest honor in a single ceremony.

John and William Scott were presented with Eagle Awards by Georgia State Senator Floyd Hudgins, highlighting the Court of Honor at the Main Post Chapel Annex.

Eleven other advancement awards were also presented at the Court of Honor. They were: Life Scout — Mark Lippman, son of Col. and Mrs. Foy Rice; Star Scout — Scott Foster, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harvey Foster; 1st Class Scout — Richard, Mark and William, sons of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Beverly McGruder; 2nd Class Scout — David Millwood, son of SFC and Mrs. Robert H. Millwood and Robert Tomlinson, son of Maj. and Mrs. Leon Tomlinson; Tenderfoot — William Cargo, son of Maj. and Mrs. William P. Cargo, Donald Parnell, son of Capt. and Mrs. Donald Parnell, John Cleckner, son of Capt. and Mrs. John E. Cleckner, and Raymond Villalobos, son of Maj. and Mrs. Raymond Villalobos.

Merit Badges — Scott Latham, son of Col. and Mrs. Willard Latham, Mark Lippman, son of Col. and Mrs. Foy Rice, Scott Foster, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harvey W. Foster, Stuart Loberg, son of Maj. and Mrs. John Loberg, William, Mark and Richard McGruder, sons of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Beverly McGruder, and Tim Sagul, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. John Sagul.

Top NCO wife

Ladies of the NCO Wives Club met April 22 to present Mrs. John P. Bittorie (R) the "Mrs. NCO" award. Mrs. Orwin C. Talbott (L), wife of the post commander, presented an engraved silver bowl at a tea to honor Mrs. Bittorie in the NCO Wives clubhouse. Mrs. Bittorie, wife of CSM Bittorie of the Infantry School, has been active in the Fort Benning NCO Wives Club for many years and has served in almost every area of club work. The award was designed to honor the lady who best depicted the all-rounded, dedicated and involved life of the NCO wife. The recipient was selected by secret ballot at the April Business meeting.....

Chapel youth group holds retreat

The Protestant Youth of the Chapel held a spring retreat at Three Lakes Lodge April 23-25.

The theme of the retreat was "Confronated by Christ."

The officers of the group who were responsible for the success of the retreat were: Joe Henry, president, Nancie Piper, vice president; Karen Kitchen, sec-treasure; and Sheldon Tyndall, refreshmen chairman.

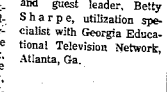
The retreat team consisted of Marguerite Waldrop, director of Religious Education for Fort Benning; Chaplin and Mrs. Loren D. Pugh; Carolyn Beckett; Sp4 Joel Elrod; and guest leader, Betty Sharpe, utilization specialist with Georgia Educational Television Network, Atlanta, Ga.

Polar Bears hold picnic



The 5th Bn., 31st Inf. ("Polar Bears"), played host at a picnic for the wives and children of battalion personnel April 29, at Polar Bear Field.

Maj. Oliver W. Dillon, acting battalion commander, greeted the participants. He discussed in particular the VOLAR prgram and the many changes it has brought to the soldiers' families.

Dillon also discussed Kelley Hill's many facilities available for use by both husbands and wives and the contributions made to the battalion by the performance of the soldier in his various positions. Dillon closed by expressing his gratitude for a job well done.

After the picnic, the wives were given a bus tour of Kelley Hill, where the various facilities were pointed out by Maj. Shelton E. Wood, battalion S-3 (operations) officer.

During the tour the physical training program was explained with the aid of demonstrators at Essebagger Field. The bus returned to the picnic area and the guests returned home with their husbands who were awarded the rest of the day off.

YOUNG LADY WITH BALLOON AT SOCIAL

'World's strongest man' shows strength, gives talk at retreat

By Bob Wise

A one-day retreat was held April 28 by the 197th Infantry Brigade at Kelley Hill. The top features of the interdenominational day-long program were a talk and demonstration by Paul Anderson, the "world's strongest man," and a concert by the Tuskegee Institute Concert Choir.

Theme of the program, sponsored by the 197th Inf. Bde. Men of the Chapel, was "Practical Religion in Everyday Life," or "How to be a Chrisian Without Being a Fanatic."

Anderson's show of strength was made before an audience of more than 2,000 soldiers and dependents at the Kelley Hill Field House. Founder and director of the Paul Anderson Youth Home, Vidalia, Ga., he holds the world record for weightlifting—6,270 pounds.

Anderson, who frequently speaks at Billy Graham Crusades, began his demonstration by driving a nail through a two-by-four board with bare hands protected only by a handkerchief.

To show that a 375-pound he-man can still maintain his agility, Anderson performed gracefully with a skip rope. He then "side-pressed" 225 pounds with one hand.

Anderson wrapped up his demonstration by lifting off the floor a table on which eight men were sitting—in the neighborhood of 1,400 pounds.

Anderson's talk was concerned with his own records and "what God has done for him." He concluded by telling the crowd, "you're either playing on God's team or you're playing on Satan's team. If you're playing on Satan's team, you'll not win in the final analysis. Be a winner. You can't be a winner if you're not on the winning team—the team of Jesus Christ."

The soldiers then broke down into four separate discussion groups. The groups were "Applied Religion," "Vocation for Life," "Sex and Your Life," and "What Does It Take to Turn You On"?

All groups had outside speakers. The "Vocation for Life" discussion was led by Father John P. Donahue, national director of "Project Vocation." Assisting Father Donahue in the discussions was Rev. Fred Lofton, pastor of the First African Baptist Church, Columbus, Ga.

"Project Vocation," located in Washington, D.C., is an organization which encourages young men, primarily Catholics, to come into the ministry. Father Donahue and three other priests travel around to U.S. military posts and counsel soldiers who are soon-to-be civilians. All of the "Project Vocation" priests are former soldiers.

The day's activities concluded with a rousing concert of Negro Spirituals by the Tuskegee Institute Concert Choir in the Kelley Hill Field House. Under the direction of Dr. C. Edouard Ward, the black choir sang 13 songs, including an encore. All songs are written by black composers. All but one of the pieces were sung without accompaniment.

BENEFITS FROM YOUR STATE & BONUSES

Veterans from the State of Wisconsin are entitled to preference in state civil service employment. They may be eligible for loans for the purchase or improvement of a business, or as a second mortgage on a home. Wisconsin veterans have preference for admission to the University Hospitals and may be reimbursed for fees and textbooks needed to take certain courses on a part time or correspondence basis.

The state has not passed a bonus act, but does provide a complete counseling service to veterans who need assistance in determining claims against the Veterans Administration.

Further information may be obtained from:

Department of Veteran Affairs, 1 West Wilson Street, Madison, Wis. 53702.

Veterans who were residents of Maine when they entered the service are eligible for veterans' preference in state employment. Children of war veterans who died in service, or veterans who are totally disabled as the result of service, are eligible for free tuition at state-supported educational institutions.

Radiation law may hold up entry of items

WASHINGTON (AFPS) —A law which makes it mandatory for electronic devices purchased overseas to meet U.S. standards of radiation emission may hold up your household goods.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare pointed out recently that an electronic product imported for sale or use in the United States for which there is a radiation performance standard must bear a certification label. The label must state that the product meets the standards set by HEW.

If such a label is not attached to a television set, for instance, the item may be held up by Customs when your household goods are returned to the States.

HEW authorities pointed out, for instance, that the performance standards covering television receivers became effective mid-January 1970. Other products for which standards either have been issued or are being developed include microwave ovens, x-ray equipment, lasers, and cold-cathode demonstration tubes.

If you are planning to purchase a television set or a microwave oven which has been manufactured in a foreign country, make sure that an appropriate declaration is attached to the set. Most of the manufacturers from overseas who sell in the American market are aware of this requirement. But, it is up to you, the buyer, to make certain that your set or oven has such a label.

Questions concerning the standards required for electronic devices may be addressed to: Bureau of Radiological Health, Division of Electronic Products, 12720 Twinbrook Parkway, Rockville, Maryland, 20852.

Catholics hold Harmony picnic

On April 25 Harmony Church Chapel held a Catholic Church Social for members of the 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf. "Patriots" and the 4th Bn., 69th Arm.

The picnic under the pines began at noon, immediately after the Mass was said. The sunny, warm weather could not have been better for an outdoor cookout.

On the barbecue grill were sizzling hot dogs and hamburgers. Another table was filled with homemade delights such as ham, roast beef, baked beans, potato and macaroni salads and cold slaw. Iced tea and fruit drinks were served and a special treat of homemade ice cream was the dessert.

Taped music played while everyone enjoyed the good food and soft breezes. The children had an opportunity to talk to each other over PRC-25 radios. But the helium-filled balloons provided the most fun for the youngsters who enjoyed their own improvised games.

'Patriot' unit repeats honor

For the second consecutive month, Co. C has been named "Patriot" honor company of the 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf., 197th Inf. Bde. For the honor Co. C was awarded an engraved plaque, a yellow streamer for its guidon and a training holiday for the whole company.

This month, "Chargin' Charlie Company" also was named best rifle company in the 197th Inf. Bde.

Aquarian Age to be theme of formal

The night of May 14 has been reserved for a gala evening out for the officers and ladies of Brigade and Battalion Operations Department. The annual Spring formal will be held at the Main Officers' Open Mess in the Fountain Room and Main Ballroom from 7 p.m. until 1 a.m. This year's theme is, "The Age of Aquarius," which was chosen because the present era is one of enlightment through knowledge and consciousness.

Decorations generally will depict all of the signs of the Zodiac and special music by the Infantry Chorus and the Buddy Bair Orchestra will climax the evening.

Pearl duty rate depends on how they are strung

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The Bureau of Customs has issued a handy guide on how not to get strung up on pearls — the imported kind, that is.

Duty on pearls brought into the United States may vary from one-half of one per cent to as high as 33 per cent. The two major factors deciding the rate of duty are whether or not a clasp is present and whether or not the pearls are permanently strung.

Pearls loose or temporarily strung and without a clasp (the words "without a clasp" make all the difference), are dutiable at only one-half of one per cent if they are natural pearls, or three per cent if they are cultured pearls.

However, if they are permanently strung, or if the clasp is with them, or both, the duty can jump to anywhere from 14 to 33 per cent.

Americans who buy pearls (natural or cultured) overseas and want to bring them into the country at the lowest rate should make sure the pearls are either loose or temporarily strung and are not accompanied by a clasp.

If the clasp is there, either attached or separate, or if there is no clasp but the pearls are separated by knotting, the higher duty rate will apply, the Bureau of Customs said.

In the case of imitation pearls, even if they are loose or temporarily strung and without a clasp, they take a 20 per cent duty rate.

The Bureau of Customs also advises buyers to obtain a sales slip or invoice that accurately states the value and cost of the pearls. A false valuation could result in a fine, officials said.

The schedule for Camp Hideway, Fort Benning's Girl Scout Day Camp, has been announced by Mrs. Doris Bates, camp director.

This year's day camp will meet for two sessions, the first session running June 21-25. The second session will be held June 28-July 2.

Fort Benning Girl Scouts from Brownies through senior scouts are eligible to attend. Camp capacity is 90 girls per session with registration on a first come, first served basis.

Non-scouts will be accepted if there is space available.

Cost per session is $5 per child. Registration forms are available at the Concharty Girl Scout Council, 1807 17th St. Columbus, or by phoning 327-2646. Registration closes June 1.

Day Camp activities include hand-crafts, singing and nature lore. Transportation is available to those girls who live on post.

Adults interested in helping with the day camp program can receive more information by calling Mrs. Bates, 545-4028 or Mrs. Dee Dickensheet, 545-3937.

Take 'Buddy Ride'

STAR students see activities at Post

Mozelle Christian, manager of the Education Department, and Roger Wade, both from the state Chamber of Commerce, escorted the group of students as they visited various points of interest on the base.

The students, who were selected under the Chamber's Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition program, were given a close look at several of the Amry's helicopters while visiting Lawson airfield. From there they moved to the Airborne training area where they were greeted by Col. Lamar Welch, director of the Airborne Department. Each member of the group was given the opportunity to ride in the "Buddy Ride" seat which simulates a parachute landing.

The OCS Hall of Fame was the next stop for the students. Here they were given a brief tour and were told of the history behind the foundation of the hall.

The tour was concluded after the students had dinner with officer candidate students of the 50th Co., Bn, 5th Sta. Bn., TSB.

WHAT IS A DRUG?

A drug is a substance that has an effect upon the body or mind. This column deals only with those drugs that have a potential for abuse because of their mind-altering capability.

WHAT IS DRUG DEPENDENCE?

Drug dependence is a state of psychological or physical dependence, or both, which results from chronic, periodic, or continuous use. Many kinds of drug dependence exist; they all have specific problems associated with them.

Not everyone who uses a mind-altering chemical becomes dependent upon it. Alcohol is one common example of this point. The majority of persons who drink do not harm themselves or those around them. However, more than five million Americans are dependent upon alcohol.

WHAT IS HABITUATION?

Habituation is the psychological desire to repeat the use of a drug intermittently or continuously because of emotional reasons. Escape from tension, dulling of reality, euphoria (being "high") are some of the reasons why drugs come to be used habitually.

Mail rates to be raised this month

WASHINGTON (APPS) — Postmaster General Winton M. Blount has announced that when new postal rates go into effect—probably about May 16—the demand for stamps in the new denominations will be promptly met.

Bount said steps now being taken by the Postal Service should insure a smooth changeover to the new rates, with a minimum of inconvenience to the public.

In anticipation of a new 8-cent per ounce rate for first class letters, th Postal Service will issue 8-cent versions of the American Flag and Dwight D. Eisenhower postage stamps.

Announcements concerning airmail stamps, stamped envelopes and other stamp stocks in new denominations will be forthcoming within the next few weeks, he said.

Both the Flag stamp and the Eisenhower stamp will be issued in Washington, D. C. The Eisenhower stamp will be issued on May 10. The date of the Flag stamp will be announced in the near future. Collectors must specify on first day requests what stamps are to be affixed, as combinations will be honored.

The designs of the existing 8-cent stamps will be virtually duplicated. Both issues will be phosphor tagged.

Pet Talk

How do you tell if an animal is sick?

It is not too uncommon to have clients tell a veterinarian about an erroneous report or tale having been heard. There is as much misinformation about veterinary medicine today as there is fact. Here are a few of the most frequent questions posed to veterinarians in hopes they will clear up some misconceptions concerning veterinary medicine.

Q — How do you know when an animal has worms?

A — Turn in a fecal sample to your veterinarian and he will test it for intestinal parasites or see parasites passed. Some of the symptoms of intestinal parasites are diarrhea (Sometimes bloody), vomiting, pale gums, bloated stomach and loss of appetite and condition. These are not the only symptoms of worms and other disease conditions can cause similar symptoms. If the pet has any of these symptoms, a veterinarian should examine the animal.

Q — How often should a dog be fed?

A — Generally, a good schedule to follow would be: 6 - 12 weeks, feed four times a day; 12 - 24 weeks, feed three times a day; 6 - 10 months, feed two times a day, and 10 months on, feed one time a day.

Q— How often should you bathe an animal?

A — Not more than once every three weeks unless prescribed by a veterinarian. Frequent or daily grooming is recommended.

Q — What type of shampoo should be used?

A — A human shampoo or soap should NOT be used at any time. These products are too harsh for the animal's skin, and they can cause drying and flaking. Use a good pet shampoo. Also, do not use flea shampoos on pets unless on the advice of a veterinarian.

Q— When should a puppy begin its distemper shots?

A — Generally, puppies should receive their first distemper shot as soon as they have been weaned from the mother. The number of shots and the times they are due vary according to the age of the dog. We, at the Fort Benning Veterinary Clinic, give four distemper shots beginning at around 6 weeks of age. The second is given at 8 weeks, a third injection at 11 weeks and the last vaccination is given at 15 weeks of age. Most veterinarians differ on their schedules, so you should consult your favorite doctor when shots are due.

Q — When should a pup get its rabies shot?

A — In Georgia a rabies shot is required at 3 months of age. The Army also requires a rabies shot for all privately owned dogs more than 3 months of age. Check with your local health department for ages in other states.

Q — When do kittens need shots and what shots are needed?

A — All cats should be vaccinated against feline distemper at 9 weeks of age or older. Kittens, known or suspected of being less than 9 weeks of age, should be vaccinated and revaccinated at 12 weeks of age. Rabies vaccination, as in dogs, is required at 3 months of age.

Recital to debut organ at St. Paul Methodist

The first recital on the new pipe organ at St. Paul United Methodist Church in Columbus will be presented at 8 p.m. May 9.

The new organ, the largest in the Columbus area, was built by Schantz Organ Co. of Orrville, Ohio. It contains 2,955 pipes arranged in 44 ranks, plus a set of chimes. It has 4 divisions — great, choir, swell and pedal. On the console there are four separate keyboards — three manual keyboards and one pedal keyboard. The organ was custom designed and built for St. Paul Church. The tonal finishing was performed in the church by John Schantz, one of three grandsons of the founder of the company, who now manages it.

The organist for this recital will be Dr. H. Max Smith, noted organ recitalist and associate professor of music and director of University Honors Program at Appalachian State University, Boone, N. C. A native of Fayetteville, Ark., Dr. Smith received degrees in music from the Universities of Missouri and Oklahoma, and received his doctor of sacred music degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York. He also has studied organ with Carl Weinrich at Princeton University.

The program will include a balanced selection of pieces from the standard organ repertory which will have broad appeal to musicians and non-musicians alike. It includes selections by Buxtehude, Sweelinck, Bach and Franck.

The public is cordially invited to attend the recital. There is no admission charge. St. Paul United Methodist Church is located at the corner of Wildwood and Forest Avenues in Columbus.

Women's Army Corps to mark 29th anniversary

The Women's Army Corps will celebrate its 29th anniversary as a part of the U.S. Army next Friday.

The WACs at Fort Benning will celebrate the occasion with an open house and tour of the WAC Co. headquarters, Building 243, located behind the Martin Army Hospital Annex outpatient clinic.

Authorized by an act of Congress on May 14, 1942, the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps (WAAC), as it was then known, actually got it's start two months later.

When the first US Army Training Center for Women opened at Ft. Des Moines, Iowa, on July 20, 1942, newspaper and radio reporters almost outnumbered the women in uniform as well.

The acceptance of women into the Army was considered a startling development, not only by the public but, by the men in uniform as well.

The Ft. Des Moines training center opened to 440 officer candidates and 330 enlisted women. By March 1943, four other training centers for WACs had been established; including one at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., which got its start in January 1943.

Originally limited by law to a maximum of 25,000 women, the WAAC became an integral part of the Army on July 1, 1943, when new legislation shortened the designation to WAC and gave the women full equality with the men in pay, promotion standards, training and privileges.

The first WACs to arrive at Fort Benning were requested by Gen. Eisenhower for service in North Africa shortly after the Allied invasion there. These five WAC officers led the way for the more than 100 women who arrived for duty at Allied Headquarters in Algiers in January 1943.

Women continued to go overseas, and in July 1943, a large group arrived in England for duty with the 8th Air Force of the Army Air Corps. While in England the WACs achieved several distinctions.

The Army Air Corps was the first branch of the Army to promote a WAC to the rank of lieutenant colonel, first to request the employment of WAC officers in non-WAC operational-type duties, and the first to allow its insignia to be worn by members of the WAC.

Before the end of the war in Europe, more than 16,000 women were serving in North Africa, England, India, China, Egypt, Australia and the tropical islands in the South Pacific.

The corps numbered more than 100,000 when the war ended.

Between January 1945 and May 1953, the WACs underwent five reorganizations and changes in designation at Fort Benning. Finally, on Feb. 10, 1958, they were given the name WAC Company, U.S. Army Infantry Center Headquarters Command, their present title.

Although WACs no longer serve as parachute riggers with the Airborne Department, the diversity of their roles is almost as wide as those of the units assigned to this 3rd Army post.

Photographers, air traffic controllers, finance specialists, physical therapists, dental technicians and data processing personnel perform the soldier's full range of noncombat duties in support of the post's varied missions.

These women, who are indicative of the range of technical skills brought to the WACs in recent years, are complemented by clerk-typists and administraitve specialists assigned to many post units.

The 12 Girls—Nicknamed "The Dirty Dozen" — of the Junior ROTC Sponsor Corps Drill Team of Science Hill High School Will Give A Drill Demonstration At 4:30 p.m. tomorrow at York Field.

Serviceman under G.I.Bill

School attendance card time here

"It's about that time again," the Veterans Administration has reminded 692,000 veterans, servicemen and dependents attending college under the G. I. Bill.

That reminder was designed to induce veterans to return their certification of attendance cards to VA during the last full month of their current enrollment period. For most schools, this means the months of May or June.

And there are two very good reasons for jogging their memories:

(1) VA cannot prepare a final check for the spring 1970-71 school year until the agency has received the certification of attendance card from the student involved.

(2) If the card is not returned at the end of the current semester, the student cannot automatically be enrolled under the G. I. Bill for the upcoming summer or fall semesters.

Trainees attending school below college level also must return their certification of attendance cards, but they must do so every month, Va explained.

Failure to complete and return the cards on the part of both college level and below college level trainees will automatically stop payments.

VA further pointed out that it is the responsibility of students attending school under VA programs to keep the agency informed on changes in their number of dependents, or their education programs.

VA also reminded college registrars of their role — by promptly return students' re - enrollment certification so students may start receiving their checks on schedule the next semester they are in school.

The agency urged eligible persons interested in entering training or desiring further information to contact their nearest VA office or their local veterans service organization representative.

WASHINGTON (ANF) — Wondering if you need a new I. D. card?

New identification cards (DD Form 2A—green) must be issued to enlisted men promoted from E5 to E6. Officers get a new card whenever they're promoted. For all other EM and officers, a new card is issued only when the man's current card is at least three years old.

However, when soldiers or their dependents are enroute to Berlin by land, their I. D. cards must be updated to reflect their current status.

And, new cards are always issued immediately in demotions from any grade.

Dishonorable way out won't ease civilian life

HEADQUARTERS, 3rd US ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga. — It has been the subject of many Command Information meetings at both the post and company levels — yet all to often many soldiers tend to overlook what an honorable discharge can do for them.

One such incident occurred recently when a former soldier, out with an AR 635-212 undersirable discharge, tried to apply for a job that required a check of his past through the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

The report showed this young man's prospective employer that he had a file in Ft. Holabird, Md. The file listed him with two charges of Absent Without Official Leave (AWOL) while in the Army.

Maj. W. R. Dixon, chief of the apprehension, correction and validation bureau of the 3rd Army, handled the soldier's call for help.

Dixon informed the soldier that his military record, when it contained such violations of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, such as AWOL, would follow him through his civilian life.

"I also informed the young man that any time he sought employment that required a check with the FBI, this file would be brought into light," said Dixon.

From the course of the conversation Dixon found out that the young man wanted out of the military so badly he thought that if he had enough AWOL charges brought against him they would release him. He did not know these offenses would carry over into his life as a civilian.

"The former soldier was confused about the FBI check for he was never at Ft. Holabird," Dixon commented. "I informed him that Ft. Holabird was the repository for all offense reports and investigations and that these records remain there for an indefinite period of time."

The young soldier was put into the stockade at Ft. McPherson and fingerprinted. When he was released he did not know such military action was made a record in civilian life.

"If a man is court martialed and is found guilty by a court he is guilty of a federal offfense, not a military offense. They are violating a law passed by Congress," Dixon emphasized.

This soldier was under the assumption that an undesirable discharge could easily be changed to an honorable discharge.

"It is very difficult to change an undesirable discharge to an honorable," said Dixon. "I told the young man that he could contact the Veterans's Administration and discuss the matter with them," he continued.

Still with the help of the VA, Dixon thinks the young man's chances are slim.

"I assured him that this would not be au easy task and that it would take a long time and still probably be unsuccessful. I also informed him that it could be quite expensive," he said.

"This soldier signed a waiver saying he didn't want to contest the charges and therefore didn't wish to appear before a board to argue his. In other words he admitted his guilt."

"I sure wish I had it to do over," he told Dixon. "I would have done things differently," he concluded.

Many times a soldier has contemplated the thought of AWOL. Some do it out of hatred for the Army, such as this young man, while others are faced with problems they feel can be solved by "taking off."

No problem can be solved by going AWOL.

Corporal honored posthumously

A Bronze Star Medal with "V" device, the Air Medal, the Purple Heart with first Oak Leaf Cluster, and the Good Conduct Medal were awarded posthumously to Cpl. Cleatis L. Burgess in recent ceremonies here.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleatis T. Burgess of Meigs, Ga. His decorations were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Burgess. Cpl. Burgess's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy J. Burgess, also were present.

Col. Malcolm R. Baer, adjutant general USAIC, presented the awards.

Cpl. Burgess was killed Oct. 19, while serving with Co. B, 1st. Bn., (Airmobile), 7th Cav. 1st Cav. Div. (Airmobile), in the Republic of Vietnam.

Prior to his death, Cpl. Burgess has been awarded the Purple Heart, National Defense Service Medal, Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Medal, Combat Infantryman Badge, Expert Badge with machine gun bar, Sharpshooter Badge with automatic rifle bar, and the Marksman Badge with rifle bar.

The citation which accompanied the Bronze Star Medal read in part, that "When his unit became engaged with a determined enemy force, with complete disregard for his own safety, he exposed himself to the intense hostile fire as he moved forward to the point of heaviest contact and began placing a heavy volume of suppressive fire upon the insurgent forces.

"His actions were an inspiration to the other members of his unit and were instrumental in the successful completion of the mission. His display of personal bravery and devotion to duty is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service, and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit and the United States Army."

The citation which accompanied the Air Medal read in part, that, "Cpl. Burgess distinguished himself by meritorious achievement while participating in sustained aerial flight in support of combat ground forces of the Republic of Vietnam during the period of June 1970 to September 1970.

"During this time he actively participated in more than twenty-five aerial missions over hostile territory in support of counter insurgency operations. During all these missions he displayed the highest order of air discipline and acted in accordance with the best traditions of the service."

Historian visits post to see VOLAR story

Brig. Gen. (ret.) S.L.A. Marshall, noted author and historian, visited Fort Benning this week on a three-day orientation and briefing tour.

Marshall, who is a special consultant to the Department of the Army for the Modern Volunteer Army (VOLAR) concept, received breifings in Infantry Hall on the U. S. Army Infantry School and VOLAR.

Also the author of 26 books toured the 197th Infantry Brigade area for a fact-finding mission on how the VOLAR concept implementaton is proceeding here.

Marshall, who is a syndicated columnist for the Washington Post and Los Angeles Times, is a veteran newspaper reporter and Foreign correspondent. He was born July 18, 1900, in Catskill, N.Y., and attended Texas College of Mines in El Paso, Tex., prior to enlisting in the Army in 1917. Marshall retired from the Army in 1960.

Modern Trojan Horse interrupts training exercise

By John Box

The appearance of a modern day Trojan Horse highlighted the field training exercise and operational readiness test conducted in the field at Fort Benning by soldiers from HHD, 67th Maint. Bn., and 598th Lt. Maint. Co., both of the 931st Engr. Gp.

The incident occurred the morning of April 28 with the appearance of a frantic woman in a red car at the perimeter of the base camp. She claimed she was molested while picking berries in the area.

The commander of the 67th Maint. Bn., Lt. Col. Ellis O. Atkinson Jr. was summoned and along with his training officer, Maj. Robert F. Hoffman, talked with the woman. She was entirely believable as she described what had happened to her but Atkinson, suspecting a hoax, wouldn't let the woman out of her car until the vehicle had been searched.

She then appeared to be faint and started to get out of the car holding on to a large hand bag. Atkinson then seized her hand bag and let her out of the car.

Inside the hand bag? You guessed it. . a smoke grenade which was supposed to "blow up" the colonel and his staff. It was all part of the field problem with a great piece of acting on the part of Nancy Stover, the wife of Capt. Lynn Stover, Company Operations Department, USAIC.

She was coached for two nights prior to the attempt by the head of the field aggressor force, Capt. Albert T. Warner, HHD, 67th Maint. Bn. Everyone got a good laugh out of the incident and Atkinson received a "well done" from chief umpire, Col. Woodrow Myers, post maintenance officer.

Other field problems faced during the exercise consisted of the usual aggressor attacks, gas attacks and atomic blast attacks.

On the final day of the exercise a report of an "atomic attack" created a real problem for the soldiers. The report of the attack was handed to Atkinson at 7:15 a.m. It was determined that the entire base camp area would be contaminated with deadly fallout by 9 a.m. so the area had to be cleared in a hurry.

The tentage, including several large maintenance tents had to be taken down and all the trucks in the 598th Lt. Maint. Co. being repaired had to be towed away. The evacuation was completed at 9:17 a.m. with the first contingent leaving at 9:45 a.m.

Atkinson was pleased with the work done by the 598th while in the field. Despite the field problems it was work as usual for the maintenance company with their heavy vehicle work being brought to the field from main post. Large vans were used to haul out needed parts and tools.

"Their over all efficiency actually increased in the field despite all the extra duties and simulated attacks," Atkinson declared.

The soldiers were in the field near Headley's Pond from April 26 through April 29.

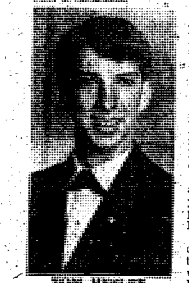
New cover for foxhole



WASHINGTON (ANF)— A new foxhole cover designed to help protect the soldier from the effects of weapon blasts is now ready for the Army's supply system.

The cover is a five-by-six-foot dacron sheet which is laminated to a thin polyester film. When stretched over a one- or two-man foxhole it will support 18 inches of protective soil.

To provide a firm anchor, tubular pockets sewn into two sides of the sheet are filled with soil and laid into shallow trenches on two sides of the rectangular foxhole. A thick blanket of soil is then piled on the cover. Several sheets can be snap-fastened together.

The cover was tested in arctic, desert and tropic service, and while supporting 18 inches of soil over a two-man foxhole it withstood a peak blast pressure of 13 pounds per square inch.

3-time CO swears in specialist

A driver in Co. A, 5th Bn., 31st Inf., was sworn in for six more years by the man who had been his company commander for three times in less than two years.

Sp4 Michael Slaick, who received a $4,408 variable reenlistment bonus, first ran into his present CO, Capt. Lacy J. Tyler, in July 1969 when Tyler was commander of Co. A, 8th Bn., 2nd BCT Bde., Fort Benning. After graduation from basic at Co. A, Slaick attended AIT at Ft. Knox, Ky.

After a year with the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment in Vietnam, Slaick arrived at HHC, 5th Bn., 31st Inf., and was greeted by his basic training CO.

In November 1970 Tyler was sent to Vietnam but was returned after a few months due to an illness in the family. Meanwhile, Slaick had been transferred to Co. A, 5th Bn., 31st Inf., and who should show up in April as the Co. A commander? You guessed it — Capt. Tyler.

981 high schoolers to get scholarships

WASHINGTON (ANF) — Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor has announced that 981 high school seniors have been selected to receive four-year ROTC scholarships.

The scholarships, valid at any of the 286 college and university campuses offering the four-year Army ROTC program, pay for the students' tuition, textbooks and lab fees, and provide $50 per month subsistence allowance. At the six-week advanced summer camp the student receives one-half of a second lieutenant's pay.

The Army also awards two- and three-year scholarships to outstanding college students already in the ROTC program.

High school seniors desiring the four-year scholarship should write the Army headquarters in their area for application forms. Application period for the next school year 1972-73 begins in September 1971.

Officers take management training here

Students of Infantry Officer Advanced Courses S-71 recently participated in a management seminar as a part of their management subjects instruction.

The purpose of the seminar is to give the students practice in using the functions of management and of the manager which they have been taught during the preceding 37 hours of instruction by the Management Committee, Leadership Department, USAIS.

5 get top civilian jump license

The men qualified for the class "D" license by making a water parachute jump into Victory Pond April 22.

One of the men, who already had obtained the class "D" license, SFC Richard E. Gibbs, recently received his gold wings from Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, signifying completion of more than 1,000 free full parachute jumps.

Other members of the team who made the jump were Capt. Bruce J. Wicks, chief of the tower training committee; SSgt. Raymond C. Kinser; SSgt. David E. Millhorn; and SSgt. James W. Kraft.

Europe now open to first-term men

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The Army is now offering a 16-month minimum tour in Europe to first-time enlistees who complete training in one of the following Army Career Groups (ACGP): ACGP11, Infantry; ACGP 13, armor; and ACGP 13, artillery.

Applicants also may choose one of seven units stationed in Europe, on a limited basis and subject to existing vacancies.

Units offered by the new enlistment option are the 3rd Armored Division, the 4th Armored Division, the 3rd Infantry Division (Mechanized), the 8th Infantry Division (Mechanized), the 2nd Armored Cavalry Regiment, the 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment, and the 3rd Bde., 1st Inf. Div. (Mechanized).

The option is available to qualified male applicants who have had no prior service and enlist for a period of from three to six years.

Week

craft organic to the aviation command, a pathfinder demonstration by the 187th Pathfinder Detachment (Airborne) and a skydiving exhibition staged by the Fort Benning Sport Parachute Club.

A static display of aircraft is also scheduled, and a 750-gallon pumper from the Main Post fire station will be on hand to provide rides for the children.

Other on-post events during Armed Forces week include an official dinner on May 14 for the Civilian and Military Council, a group of 53 leading citizens from Columbus and Phenix City and their counterparts in the military at Fort Benning. Members include the mayors of the two cities and their counterpart on post, the commanding general.

In addition to the celebrations here, Fort Benning personnel also will be on hand for other observances during the week:

— Maj. Brigham S. Schuler, operations officer for the 1st Bn., 29th Inf., will be the guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Columbus Kiwanis Club Wednesday.

The following day, Maj. Schuler will be the guest speaker at the noon meeting of the Columbus Exchange Club. His subject will be the Army's new "Unit-of-Choice" plan and the program for a Modern Volunteer Army.

—Capt. Harold A. Fritz, a recipient of the Medal of Honor, will be a guest for the Armed Forces Day celebration in Milwaukee, Wis.

— The 283rd Army Band is scheduled to march in the Armed Forces Day parade in Albany, Ga.

'Singing Sergeants' to stop here tonight for concert

The "Singing Sergeants," the official chorus of the United States Air Force, is the most versatile and travelled choral organization in the world.

In addition to choral concert appearances throughout the world, the "Singing Sergeants" provide a highlight for each concert presented by the United States Air Force Band, Col. Arnold D. Gabriel, conductor of the U. S. Air Force Band, is also director of its equally famous chorus.

Both the "Singing Sergeants" and the Air Force Band will give a free concert tonight at 8 o'clock at the Three Arts Theatre in Columbus. Tickets may be obtained from the Columbus Chamber of Commerce or any of the offices of the Columbus Bank and Trust Company.

Included in the repertoire of the "Singing Sergeants" are selections ranging from opera and oration to folk songs, standards, jazz — and even comedy. The "Singing Sergeants" have appeared before Presidents Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon. They have performed at special White House functions, at the New York World's Fair, in Carnegie Hall and in hundreds of communities in 49 states.

Originally formed from within the ranks of the United States Air Force Band, the chorus is now composed entirely of vocal majors representing colleges, universities and music conservatories throughout the United States. Included in its membership have been outstanding vocalists formerly with the choruses of Robert Shaw, Fred Waring and Roger Wagner.

More than 50 countries have acclaimed this outstanding unit of the United States Air Force Band as one of today's leading choral groups. In bringing the music of America to the people of the world the "Singing Sergeants" have flown in excess of 1.5 million miles, and they have appeared before more than 20 million people in live performances.

In the United States the "Singing Sergeants" have performed at the Tri-State Music Festival in Oklahoma, the Mid-West National Band Clinic in Chicago, the Texas Choral Directors convention and the Mid-East Music Clinic in Pittsburgh. Until his death the chorus appeared each year at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's annual birthday gathering in the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City.

In addition to 12 international goodwill tours with the United States Air Force Band, the "Singing Sergeants" have appeared with the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia, Cleveland and National Symphony Orchestras. The "Singing Sergeant's" rendition of "The Lord's Prayer" is used daily as a station sign-off by many radio stations.

Preparing for blast

Sp4 Leon Reed (L) and Sp4 John Tolbert, both from 89th Ord. Det. (EOD), 931st Engr. Gp., set charges for blowing stumps at Molnar Range. Both distinguished themselves at the U.S. Navy Explosive Ordnance Disposal School at Indian Head, Md., where Tolbert placed second in his class while Reed placed sixth. The Navy school is an all-service school with officers and enlisted men taking instruction.

Emergency procedures tightened

WASHINGTON (AFPS) —Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has approved procedures designed to prevent a recurrence of the accidental activation of the nation's Civil Defense Emergency Broadcast System.

The procedures, recommended by Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor, provide that:

—Warning centers will be manned by two operators at all times.

—Periodic "rigorous" inspections will be made of all National Warning Centers by the Director of Civil Defense.

—The Army Strategic Communications Command will continue to provide the people for warning center operations, and the Office of Civil Defense will regulate policies and specific warning center procedures.

Other corrective actions were made shortly after a Civil Defense operator erroneously sent out a message that the nation was in a state of emergency.

They included:

—Sealing tapes of emergency messages in envelopes and keeping them in storage cabinets, as opposed to hanging them on hooks above the Emergency Action teletype transmitters.

—Recording test messages on tape of one color and actual emergency messages on tape of another color.

FM station to air program on POW issue

WHYD-FM (107.3 on your FM dial) is airing a five minute "Prisoner of War Report" from Mutual Broadcasting System.

This program will be aired every Sunday afternoon at 4:58 through July 25. It will be presented in cooperation with the National League of Families of American Prisoners Missing in Southeast Asia.

This program will present the problems and specific difficulties of the POWs, presenting interviews with POW families, recently returned POWs and others engaged in the POW-MIA problem.

Synopsis

LITTLE BIG MAN (Rated GP). — Jack Crabb (Dustin Hoffman), a crusty old codger of 121 years claiming to be the sole survivor of Custer's Last Stand, tells his incredible, tragi-comic tale to historian William Hickey.

In the story Hoffman undergoes an incredible screen aging process (appearing alternately as a young man and as a prune-faced 121-year - old survivor of the calamities of the West), and also is seen in a series of deft characterizations as Jack Crabb, a vagabond of the West who lives more than a lifetime of lifetimes.

Faye Dunaway makes a special appearance as an amorous preacher's wife while Chief Dan George is seen as the adopted "grandfather" of Dustin Hoffman — a role that earned him, the best supporting actor award of the New York movie critics.

MRS. POLLIFAX—SPY (Rated G). — Emily Pollifax (Rosalind Russell), a widow with grown children, joins the Central Intelligence Agency and is sent on a mysterious mission to Mexico City. Something goes wrong, she is given a drugged cup of coffee, which knocks her unconscious.

Mrs. Pollifax awakens on a plane, shackled to Johnny Farrell (Darren McGavin), a C.I.A. agent, who blames her for their plight. They land in Albania, where they are questioned about missing microfilm by Gen. Berisha and Red Chinese Gen. Perido.

Farrell attempts to escape and is wounded. Mrs. Pollifax, using charm and guile, deceives their captors and manages to escape with Farrell across the Adriatic with the vital microfilm hidden in a deck of playing cards.

BREWSTER McCLOUD (Rated R). — Brewster McCloud (Bud Cort), is a young man who takes up residence in Houston's Astrodome while inventing "wings" that will enable him to fly.

Brewster lives in a small, crazy world of his own, which includes strangling people who annoy him. Louise (Sally Kellerman) helps Brewster elude the police and provides plenty of excitement in a wild car chase.

Suzanne (Shelly Duvall), an Astrodome tour guide, introduces love to Brewster and drives the car in which he is riding during the wild car chase. Brewster finally realizes his dreams to fly but soon finds out it's only for the birds

THE WILD COUNTRY (Rated G). — The Tanner family (Steve Forrest, Vera Miles, Ronny Howard and Clint Howard), comes from Pennsylvania to begin a new life in the Grand Teton region of Wyoming. Their only friends are Thompson (Jack Elam), a mountain man, and his Shoshone Indian companion, Two Dog (Frank De Kova), along with his pet wolf.

Lover returns

Diana Muldaur, the wife of a reformed train robber, attempts to hide her feelings for former lover George Peppard, just out of prison in Universal's fast-moving western adventure drama in Technicolor, "One More Train To Rob." Andrew V. McLaglen directed and Robert Arthur produced, the third time this team has worked together. The film opens next week at a downtown theater.

WHO'S GOT THE CHAIR?
Ron Moody (L), Dom DeLuise In Comedy

Ron really isn't 'Moody'

"Moody" isn't the right word to describe Ron Moody, star of the new Mel Brooks film "The Twelve Chairs," which is playing at a Columbus Theater.

The English comedian is too taken up with life to consider his surname seriously. To twist things around, most great comedians are introspective artists who think seriously about their calling as funny men, and Ron Moody highly qualifies as one of them.

The ultimate for Moody, is to be a clown, not by the circus meaning of the word alone, but by what he describes as a man who can play everything from tragedy to a stand-up comedy act.

He cites his current motion picture as an example of what he is striving for. "There are so many different aspects to my character in "The Twelve Chairs." In it I have a chance to play the mad sort of comedy that I started out doing and, yet, combine it with the truth of acting. I think it's a true 'clown' film."

A good index to the deeper side of Ron Moody is the university degree in sociology and two years of graduate work that he took before starting out in the theater. Oddly enough, it was those university days that turned his attention from an academic mortarboard to stage boards. He was always the school comic and used to write and act in the university revues. The response of an audience exhilerated him in a way that any successful research in the field of learning couldn't.

Moody surfaced in his chosen career at the Windmill, which was a London starting place for young comics. In six years of appearing in revues and cabarets, a good training ground for the aspiring comedian, he was able to formulate the "Ron Moody" style of laugh-getting. By 1953 he was ready to take on the film world and TV, ultimately starring on the later medium in two series, "Who's Moody?" and "Moody in Teleland."

In 1960 "Oliver" opened at the New Theatre in London with Ron Moody as Fagin. His whimsical handling of the controversial character brought new success and fame to him. When he repeated the performance in the screen version of the musical, he was nominated for an Academy Award.

Significantly, between the stage and movie versions of "Oliver," Ron Moody wrote a musical of his own which had Grimaldi, the famous clown, as its central character. Entitled "Joey, Joey," the critics and audience said, "NOey, NOey," but this didn't depress him.

It was an experience that didn't work out, but the experience will come in helpful the next time around.

Speed limits emphasized at junior officers council

At a recent meeting of the Company Grade Officers Council, guest speaker Robert P. Hatcher, assistant post commander, emphasized the importance of residents driving within the posted speed limits.

He told the council that within a recent four day period the military police issued more than 100 citations for speeding, of which 75 per cent of the tickets were to residents of the Arrowhead Road area.

In other council matters it was noted that the Motor Vehicle Traffic Regulations will be amended to read "Boats and camping trailers will be parked in areas other than those areas that are paved and designated as vehicle parking areas (i.e., lawns, open fields etc.)"

To prove the wetness of Rise, this man shaved without using any water.

And he actually got a smooth, clean shave.

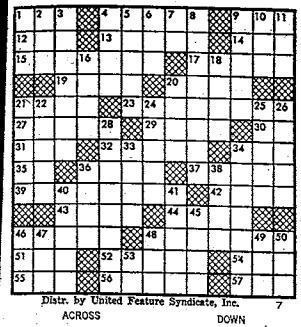
A lather needs moisture, needs wetness, so your beard won't dry out beneath it.

And you can't buy a lather that's wetter than Rise.



Slowly it seeps moisture into your beard and holds it there for as long as it takes you to shave.

If our man can get a smooth, clean shave using Rise with no water, imagine what you can do using Rise with water.

Interservice photography contest starts

HEADQUARTERS, 3RD U.S. ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga.—Get out your cameras, guys and gals, this is the year for it

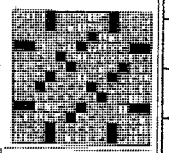
Every two years, the U.S. Armed Forces conduct an interservice photography contest designed to give both amateur and experienced photographers in service a chance to compete for service awards—and to get "hung" in the Pentagon. The 14th such contest is being held during 1971, with the interservice finals to be held in December.

Meanwhile — back at the installation — Special Service Officers are getting ready for what they hope will be a deluge of entries in the event.

Competition will be held in three groups: Monochrome prints, color prints and color transparencies. Entries in each group may be submitted in any one of eight categories: People, children, animals, action, scenic, military life, still life and experimental. The prospects are endless.

Judging will be done on the basis of impact, freshness of approach, story telling, technical skill and quality.

Each service, e.g., Army, Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Army-Navy, will judge its own entries for the interservice competition, with the winning service receiving the Perpetual Interservice Contest trophy based on the number of points it achieves. Winning entries will be exhibited in the Pentagon during the spring of 1972.



The 3rd U.S. Army Phase of the All-Army competition will be implemented at the installation level, and the winning entries selected at each post (16 in each group, per post) entered in the 3rd U.S. Army Photography Contest to be sponsored by this headquarters. Appropriate 3rd U.S. Army awards will be made for first and second place winners in each category in all three groups, some time in November.

Think of it—48 chances for an award at the 3rd U.S. Army level alone

Review features 'Safeguard' story

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan. — "Operational Testing," "Military Professionalism: A Conceptual Approach" and "Safeguard, Sufficiency, and SALT" are the featured articles in the May issue of the Military Review, the Army's professional journal.

In "Operational Testing," Dr. Jacob A. Stockfisch, senior research associate and member of the Research Council, Institute for Defense Analyses, Arlington, Va., discusses areas in the military establishment which are poorly treated in contemporary research, development, testing and evaluation. Dr. Stockfisch is an advocate of operational testing.

Col. Donald F. Bletz is a fellow at the Harvard University Center for International Affairs. In the article on military professionalism, he develops the implications of developing such professionalism on an officer's career pattern.

"Safeguard, Sufficiency, and SALT" was written by Mark B. Schneider, a doctoral student at the University of Southern California. He proposes a reorganization of Safeguard and pushing now for the four planned Safeguard sites in the Minuteman fields.

He suggests that a third phase, some form of national anti-ballistic missile, should be delayed until we have a more firm indication of the Soviet willingness to come to terms in SALT (Strategic Arms Limitations Talks).

Five other original articles appear in the magazine — "Military Creativity" by Roger A. Beaumont, "Direct Support Logistics" by Army Lt. Col. Morris C. Cannon, "The Soldier, the Battlefield, and Leadership" by Lt. Col. Ijaz Ahmad of the Pakistan Army, "The Role of the Military Attache" by Raymond J. Barrett, and "The Army Evicts the Bonus Marchers" by Army Reserve Lt. Col. John W. Price.

Property Disposal Branch gets new building for sales offices

Col. Robert E. Hall, Director of Industrial Operations (DIO), recently cut the ribbon marking the opening of a new building for the Property Disposal Branch.

Shortly after the ceremony the facilities were opened to a spot bid sale attended by 100 buyers. The new building is to be used as an office and as an auction house for the branch. Property Disposal Branch currently holds spot bid sales of used government property once each month on an auction basis.

Many who are unfamiliar with the branch question the operation of the sales, and perhaps the most frequently asked is, "Who can buy surplus property?"

James F. Rhodes property disposal officer, answers, "Currently all military and civilian buyers may participate in all competitive sales except for the following: Military and civilians of the Department of Defense whose duties include any functional or supervisory responsibilities for or within the Defense Property Disposal Program, their agents, employes and immediate members of their households."

Other frequently asked questions are: "Do you sell Jeeps?" Rhodes replies, "No, not at the present time. The post's surplus Jeeps are stripped for parts and only the bodies and frames are sold."

"Are all items sold in lots?" "No," says Rhodes, "lots are offered only when necessary because it is more economical to offer them than as individual items. For example, all vehicles are offered individually. Disposal cost of items offered determines whether the item will be offered individually or by the lot."

"Do you make retail sales," "No again," Rhodes admits. "Retail sales are not feasible or economical based on current standards of retail sales."

Rhodes asks that queries concerning sales be directed to the branch at 545-5631.

The next spot bid sale will be held in the new facility May 19. Items offered for sale will be available for inspection May 12.

Reservists dominate 'Champion of Champions' shootout

Capt. John Writer, La-Grange, Illinois, and the U.S. Army Reserve, swept the boards clean and took both the Iron Sight and Any Sight Aggregates of the International Rifle "Champion of Champions" Tournament held at Fort Benning May 1 and 2.

Clear skies and good shooting conditions combined to give 43 contestants representing the National Guard, Civilian Shooters, Army Reserve, U.S. Army Europe and U.S. Army marksmen an ideal situation when they fired in the highly competitive matches which saw the best smallbore rifle shooters in the nation swap shots. Four new records were established and nine old ones equaled.

Writer failed to place in the initial event, a prone match of the three position Iron Sight matches, but surged ahead and captured the standing event with a commanding 10 point margin over the nearest contender, M-Sgt. William Krilling who fired a 364. Both Writer and Krilling are former members of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit (USAMTU) at Fort Benning.

Writer continued to set a fast pace and totaled up the highest aggregate in the Iron Sight (Metallic) events with his winning total of 1,151. Maj. Tommy Pool, shooting for the U.S. Army Europe, placed second with his 1,144 while Army Reserve 1st Lt. Dean Bahrman of Atlanta earned the third berth. Krilling was a close fourth with 1,142.

Capt. John Watkins set new records in the Reserve by firing a 395 and a 391 in the kneeling events.

In the Any Sight matches in which Writer again won the aggregate with 1,162, two new records were made and three old records tied. The three new record co-holders for the prone Any Sight matches joined the record club when they turned in perfect 400 scores to tie previous established records. The marksmen were Capt. Larry L. Sampson of Columbus, and the U.S. Army Reserve who tied the Open and Reserve records, 1st Lt. Alan Anderson of Lexington, Neb., and the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit joined the Service and Open holders and Ray Carter of Alexandria, Va. who equalled the Civilian and Open title holders.

A new record was established in the English Match Any Sight when 1st Lt. Paul Collins of Carthage, Tenn. and the Tennessee National Guard fired a blistering 599 of a possible 600 to set a new Reserve mark.

The other new record in the prone Any Sight Match was established in the team event when the Oaks Rifle Club team of Arlington, Va. fired a composite of 1587, bettering the old mark by nine. The team composed of Ray Carter, Janet Hays of Alexandria, Va., Mary Keys, Springfield, Va., and William Krilling, Columbus, grabbed the title and established the new civilian record with the remarkable sharp-shooting of the two young ladies, both high school seniors who gave no quarter and marked 396 and 395 each.

Mary Keys, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Keys, became a new co-holder of the women's record when she tied the old established record of 365 in the standing Any Sight event.

Runner-up to Writer in the Any Sight Aggregate was Maj. Bruce Meredith of Spartanburg, S.C. with Capt. Robert Bach of USAMTU placing third, also with 1,149.

In team competition, the U.S. Army Reserve team outperformed the Army "Red" team and took three of five events. The reserve team included such national champion shooters, as Writer, Meredith, 1st Lt. John Watkins of Fairfax, Va. and Bahrman. The Reserves won the Standing Any Sight with 1,454 and the Kneeling with 1,547, setting new Reserve records in both events and took the three position aggregate, with 4,590.

Nurses to hold meet at MAH

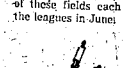
YAC CORNER

The Youth Activities baseball season opened last Friday evening but the event was marred by some of the most inclement weather this area has seen in a long time.

Col. Robert Richmond, director of leagues was on hand to throw out the ball which signaled the start of a summer-long season.



An element of the 283rd Army Band played baseball and other summer tunes while spectators sat on the edge of their seats ready to make a break for automobiles when the rains began.

The rain held off during the opening ceremonies, but wasn't as considerate of the young players who had been looking forward to the day for a long time. The Cubs of the Doughboy league were just coming to bat for the third time in their first league game against the Astros when the black clouds let go. While the players took cover in their dugouts, parents and other relatives and friends who had turned out for the event scurried for the protection of automobiles.

There was no hesitation on the part of game officials. It was evident even to a blind umpire that the wind and rain had come to stay for more than a few minutes. Since the game had not gone a complete four innings it was declared no contest. The two teams will play their opener at a date to be decided by league officials.

Monday evening the first games of the season were completed with games played on Green Field, Faith Field and Morton Court Field at the Main post and Twin Fields in the Custer Terrace Area.

Weather permitting, games will be played on each of these fields each week day evening until the close of the leagues in June.

ROD AND GUN CLUB NOTES

By Bill Kloeb

If you want to use the size of the crowd as a yardstick for judging, the Rod and Gun Club Family Day was a big success. More than 4,000 men, women and children came through the entrance gates to the club, and I would estimate another few hundred entered by the woods on either side of the entrance.

Everyone seemed to enjoy the afternoon, but there were complaints about the length of the food lines. The lines were long, but during the course of the afternoon the cooks turned out 15,000 hamburgers and hotdog sandwiches. The club wasn't holding back the food.

The crowd did all right in the beverage department too. Thirty-five kegs of beer and 7,000 cans of soft drinks went to satisfy the thirst of those present.

Skeet Shooting Under Lights

The Rod and Gun Club has equipped one of the four club skeet ranges for night firing. New hours of operation for the ranges are: Wednesday and Thursday 2 until 10 p.m., Friday 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Saturday noon until 10 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. The ranges are closed on Monday and Tuesday.

Predator Control Program

Personnel of the Post Fish and Game Unit are conducting a predator control program. This program involves setting of mechanical traps and chemicals to reduce the population of rabies carriers and animals who prey on game animals and birds. The program will be in effect throughout the entire reservation until Sept. 1.

During this period it is dangerous to allow dogs to run loose during excursions to the field. Special control must be exercised over small children.

This program does create a certain amount of inconvenience for personnel taking advantage of the recreation offered by nature, but it is necessary to reduce the population of fox skunk, bobcat and raccoon. These animals along with the dogs and cats that have been dumped in the boondocks of the reservation are rabies carriers.

Dogs and domestic cats running wild are just about the biggest problem the Fish and Game Unit has in this program. It's hard to understand how people can lavish loving care on these animals as pets then, when they have no more use for them, dump them in an isolated area to fend for themselves in a strange environment.

Wild dog packs are the prime menace to the post deer population, and the cats take a heavy toll of quail, rabbits and squirrel each year.

More than 50 wild dogs have been killed on the reservation this year. It would have been much more humane to turn them over to the Post Veterinarian for disposal.

April Fishing Derby Winners

Sgt. David Brady, Headquarters Command, was the winner of the Rod and Gun Club monthly bream contest. His entry tipped the scales at 1-pound. He caught it using a red worm at King's Pond.

SSgt. Jiminy R. Ford, Headquarters Command, won the bass contest with a 7-pound entry he took from Patterson Pond. He was using a black plastic worm.

The largest catfish was caugh tby MSgt. (ret.) Leonard S. Dill, 3054 Hendrix St. His prize fish weighed 8 pounds, 10-ounces and came from Weems Pond.

Brady, Ford and Dill each received a merchandise order worth $15 at the Rod and Gun Club sales outlet.

The May contest got off to a slow start. Family Day probably had a lot to do with that, but there should be plenty of fishing action throughout the month. Bass, bream and shellcracker are constantly going on and coming off the spawning beds. While they are on the beds they will hit just about anything that looks to be a menace to the eggs. When they come off they are lean, mean and hungry.

First Orienteering meet to have four classes

The Fort Benning Orienteering Championships — the first to be held here — are scheduled for May 15 at Kelly Hill.

The competition will begin at 1 p.m. with an orienteering clinic at the intersection of 1st Division and Ivy roads near the entrance to the 197th Infantry Brigade area. An awards presentation is scheduled after all orienteers have returned from the course.

Deadline for entries is May 12. Individuals and teams may register by calling Capt. Larry R. Walker of the Patrolling Committee of the Ranger Department at 545-6021 or 687-7522. That committee, with support from Special Services, is sponsoring the championships.

Walker said competitors will be divided into four groups.

Course "A" competition is open to men who are experienced land navigators; Course "B" for women over age 18; Course "C" for inexperienced orienteers under age 18; and Course "D" for novices 12-years-old or younger.

Walker said that trophies will be awarded to the championship team and the first and second place winners in each course.

Competitors will run each course individually, he added, but they may also register as a team which will consist of at least three but not more than five orienteers. The three fastest times of each team member will be added to determine the team championship.

Maps and compasses will be provided for competitors, Walker said. Suggested equipment for the competition is running shoes, long trousers or sweat pants and long sleeve shirts or windbreakers.

Practice courses may be run each Wednesday and Saturday, Walker said. The times and locations will be announced in the Daily Bulletin.

What should you do when tornadoes threaten?

Have you ever seen a tornado?

Most people haven't and never will.

Still, there are more than 600 tornadoes almost every year in the United States, so it's wise to know what they are and what you can do to protect ourself from them.

The average tornado stays on the ground about 10 minutes. In that time it moves 5 miles. The highest winds in a tornado have never been measured exactly, but experts think that they are probably between 175 and 250 miles per hour.

These winds are strong enough to destroy solid buildings, pull down large trees, and throw people and animals hundreds of yards through the air. One tornado picked up an 83-ton railroad car with 117 people in it, and carried it through the air for 80 feet before dropping it in a ditch.

It's the job of the National Weather Service — it used to be called the Weather Bureau — to watch for tornadoes and give people warning.

At the Weather Service's National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., weathermen are always alert for conditions that favor tornado formations anywhere in the United States. When these weathermen think a tornado might form in a certain area, they post a TORNADO WATCH. If the TORDNADO WATCH includes the area where you live, your local radio or television station will announce it.

—TORNADO WATCH means tornadoes may develop. Keep on with your regular activities, but be sure to be ready to protect yourself if a tornado does strike.

— A TORDNADO WARNING is issued by the local office of your National Weather Service when a tornado funnel has been detected. The warning broadcast on radio and TV will say where the tornado is and which way it is moving.

When you hear a warning, there is a tornado, and if you are near its path, you must act fast to save your life.

What can you do?

At home — If you do not have a tornado cellar, go to the basement and crawl under a heavy workbench or table. If there is no basement, take shelter in a small room or closet in the center of the house on the lowest floor, under a heavy piece of furniture, if possible.

Outside — If you can get home or to another house quickly, take shelter there. But if you are a long way from any indoor shelter, lie down in a ditch or hollow in the ground, and put your hands over the back of your head for protection. On a school bus, if there is no safe building nearby, the bus driver should stop and lead everyone to cover in a ditch or ravine. (AFPS) opening ceremonies.

The marchers made it near Manchester the first night and bivoaced in the Manchester High School gym. In Manchester, as in the other stops, complete displays of brigade Artillery, Armor, and Infantry weapons and vehicles were set up.

In conjunction with the arrival of the marching delegation, the Infantry Chorus and Band gave a concert in the high school auditorium. The 5th Bn., 31st Inf., karate team gave a demonstration and the 31st Infantry Platoon Scout Dogs put on a show.

The marchers made Warm Springs Wednesday night and Fayetteville last night. Again, at each place, a display was set up for viewing by local residents. The Scout Dogs and karate team demonstrated at Warm Springs. They were joined by the 283rd Band and the Infantry Chorus yesterday at Fayetteville High School.

The band and chorus were accompanied by Col. Latham, Lt. Col. Charles V. Yarborough, brigade deputy commander, and Chaplain (Maj.) David W. Hohn, brigade chaplain.

Awards

tivity. Col. H. Haskel Ziperman, MEDDAC commander, and MSgt. James Hatley, career counselor, accepted a reenlistment certificate of achievement for the department's 116.7 per cent record of 63 reenlistments out of a goal of 54.

Certificates of achievement also were awarded to three other post commanders, each of which exceeded 100 per cent of their individual goals.

Third place went to the 197th Infantry Brigade with 108.2 per cent (317 reenlistments). Accepting the certificate for the 197th were Col. Willard Latham, brigade commander, ad coreer counselor MSgt. Harold J. Woodward.

Fourth was the 93ist Engineer Group with 103.3 per cent (190 reenlistments). Col. Robert J. Standley, group commander, and career counselor SFC John Boeck accepted the certificate.

Accepting the certificate for Headquarters Command were Col. Robert T. Richmond, commander, and career counselor SFC Marvin Lewis. With 81 reenlistments the command had a 101.3 per cent record.

Maj. (ret.) William G. Newbold, chairman of the ARMA 80/81 committee, said 694 cadets are here for the event. They represent more than 30 high schools in five states of the 3rd Army area as well as two dependents' schools in the Panama Canal Zone.

The cadets were welcomed Thursday by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander. While here the cadets observed various phases of training at the Infantry School.

Hospital reroutes patient's grocery list

Ordering some groceries at a hospital may seem out of place but at Martin Amy Hospital it is all taken in stride as part of their "We Care" program.

One morning last week Mrs. Frances Jackson, the supervisor of the central appointment desk, received a letter from an out-of-town patient that stated, "Please grind 10 to 15 pounds of lean chuck for me, and I will appreciate it very much; I will be in the Commissary on May 3 and will pick it up then."

Mrs. Jackson called the commissary to relay the message and was told the commissary had received a letter from the same individual intended for the central appointment desk, requesting an appointment for one of the clinics; but they did not know how to reach Mrs. Jackson, so they were glad that she called.

Hopefully when the patient arrived Monday she went to the commissary for the chuck and the hospital for the medical appointment.

Reduced VA rates make homes easier to purchase

A series of reductions in interest rates is enabling veterans and servicemen to realize substantial savings on interest on VA home loans. As a result of the most recent reduction, the current interest rate is 7 per cent.

Georgia Veterans Service Director Pete Wilcoxler said that the monthly payments on a typical loan would be about $21 less than they were before reduction from the peak 8.5 per cent interest rate last December. During the life of the loan, savings would amount to approximately $7,500.

"These savings are based on the average $24,000 loan on new homes, and the average $20,000 loan on existing homes over a 30-year period," said Wheeler.

Mortgage interest rates were reduced from 8.5 per cent to 8 per cent last December. In January the rates were reduced to 7.5 per cent, and the reduction to the present 7 per cent occurred in February.

Wheeler said, "The interest rate reductions caused an immediate response from veterans who want to own their own homes. And the current 7 per cent interest rate, hopefully, will serve as a stimulus to home ownership, builders and the construction labor market."

Tops in 4 years

VA calls February high loan month

February 1971, with 61,000 requests from veterans, was the Veterans Administration's biggest G. I. home loan month in nearly four years.

The 61,000 requests, processed by VA, from veterans seeking to establish eligibility for G. I. home loans was an 83 per cent jump over February 1970 and the most for any month since July 1967.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson noted there was also a large increase in the number of applications for guaranteed loans — 18,500 or a 55 per cent increase over February last year.

Johnson said factors which seem to be stimulating greater activity in VA's home loan program are the Veterans Housing Act of 1970, and the recent lowering of mortgage interest rates.

He pointed out the Veterans Housing Act has liberal provisions, including one which restored unused, expired home loan benefits to 8.9 million World War II and Korean Conflict veterans, and another which authorized VA to guarantee mobile home loans for veterans and servicemen.

DoD eases rules on transport for next-of-kin

WASHINGTON (AFPS) —The Department of Defense has eased the rules covering use of government transportation for next of kin and a member of the immediate family to travel overseas to visit a seriously ill or injured serviceman or civilian employe.

Travel overseas is now authorized when the attending physician or surgeon determines that the presence of the next of kin is "medically warranted" and if the next of kin lives in the continental U. S., Hawaii, Alaska, or a U.S. possession.

If the next of kin lives overseas and the serviceman is hospitalized in the U.S. or another overseas area, then similar transportation is authorized.

Previous regulations, which authorized travel only if presence was "necessary to the recovery of the patient," did not take into account cases where individuals were terminally sick or injured.

Fast, fast, fast relief

WASHINGTON (ANF)—Enlistees who are suffering from pains of possible broken enlistment commitments can get rapid relief by writing directly to: Special Actions Branch, U. S. Army Recruiting Command, Hampton, Va. 23369.

Soldiers with legitimate complaints will get help there. Those with symptoms but no real malady will get an accurate—and fast— diagnosis of their individual cases.

Either way, a letter to USAREC is the fastest way to relief.

Course info to be offered

The Army Education Center announced that it will be offering various educational opportunities every Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Martin Army Hospital.

The Education Center will provide United States Armed Forces Institute Correspondence courses; independent study in high school, college or vocational technical courses; participating college and university correspondence courses; and V.A. education benefits information.

These educational opportunities will be provided in Wards A and B6, A7 and 8, and B9 at Martin Army Hospital.

For additional information concerning this program call Sam Harmon, education advisor, 545-7768 or 545-4532.

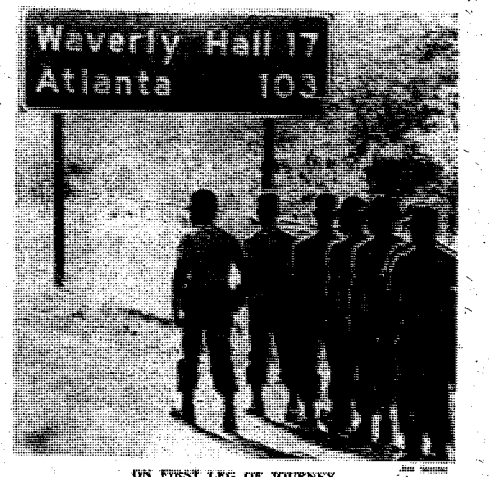
Pathfinder show part of 'service day' events

Fort Benning's celebration of Armed Forces Week will culminate with Armed Forces Day tomorrow.



Tomorrow's post activities will include a pathfinder demonstration by the 187th Pathfinder Detachment (Airborne), a skydiving exhibition staged by the Fort Benning Parachute Club and a fly-by of aircraft organic to the Aviation Command. The events are scheduled from 1 to 4 p.m. at Lawson Field and coincide with the celebration of Aviation Command Activities Day.

Martin Army Hospital also will participate and mark National Hospital Week with an open house. Guided tours, conducted from 9:30 a.m. to noon, will be provided to show the various facilities of the hospital. In addition there will be a display of hospital field equipment to include a field operating room, a medivac helicopter and a field ambulance. Refreshments also will be served.

The Infantry Museum will be open Saturday and Sunday from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.

There will be a static display of aircraft at Lawson Field and for the children, a 750-gallon pumper from the main post fire station will be on hand to provide free rides.

Tonight an official dinner will be held for the Civilian and Military Council to mark Armed Forces Week. The group is composed of 53 leading citizens from Columbus and Phenix City and their military counterparts at Fort Benning. Both cities' mayors and Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, will attend.

ON FIRST LEG OF JOURNEY
Sign Show Soldiers Still Had Far To Go On Boy Scout March

Present scroll in Atlanta

48 complete scout march

By Bob Wise

Last Saturday night Capt. Lacy J. Tyler traversed the infield of Atlanta Stadium, strolled up to Ivan Allen III, former Atlanta mayor, and presented him with a scroll hand-carried more than 100 miles from Columbus.

Tyler, Co. A, 5th Bn., 31st Inf., command.r, was the officer-in-charge of 48 marchers from the 197th Infantry Brigade who had made the 100-mile journey last week in appreciation and support of the Boy Scouts of America.

The scroll, addressed to Allen, president of the Atlanta Area Council of Boy Scouts, was read aloud to the thousands present for the Boy Scout Jamboree in the spacious stadium:

"In order to demonstrate our whole-hearted support of the Boy Scouts of America," began the scroll's inscription, "representatives from the 197th Inf. Bde., the Army's largest, have marched from Columbus to Atlanta.

"In the time-honored role of the Boy Scouts of America in developing leadership among the youth of our nation, it is appropriate that all citizens join together pledging continuing sup-

WACs, Medical Service Corps mark anniversaries with picnics

Two Army corps will be marking anniversaries with activities today on post.

The Fort Benning WAC Company will celebrate the 29th anniversary of the Women's Army Corps today with an open house followed by a picnic at Victory Lodge.

Another picnic today will be held in observance of the founding of the Medical Service Corps, which will become 54 years old Tuesday. The MSC picnic will start at 5 p.m. at the USAIC recreation area.

Guests of the WAC Company at the picnic, scheduled to start at 1 p.m., will include commanding officers of other units on post.

The WAC open house will be held from 10 a.m. until noon at the WAC Company headquarters in Building 243, located behind the Martin Army Hospital out-patient annex.

Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland, in taking note of the WAC anniversary, has pointed out in a message that the Army "takes pride in saluting the Women's Army Corps. . . ."

He wrote:

"The loyal and dedicated service of our women in uniform is respected and admired throughout the world. Their exemplary efforts have added new luster to the image of the Army while reflecting their traditional love of country.

197th Bde. to hold AUSA outing next Friday

Food and fun should be plentiful next Friday. That's the date for the 197th Infantry Brigade's annual AUSA picnic for brigade soldiers and their families. Starting at 11 a.m. the festivities will be held at the intersections of Ivy and 1st Division Roads in the 2nd Bn., 10th Arty., and 5th Bn., 31st Inf., picnic area.

Kicking off the event will be "The Reflections," a rock group from Columbus, complete with go-go dancers.

Numerous exhibitions and displays are scheduled for the afternoon's enjoyment. A skydiving show by the Army parachute team "The Golden

43rd Engrs. help rebuild camp's bridge

By Keith Harmon

In a joint community project the Army is rebuilding a bridge and dam destroyed recently by floods at the McKenzie Boy Scout Camp near Columbus.

The Army was quick to come to the aid of the Boy Scouts, promising the engineers and equipment necessary to restore the structures in time for scouting activities this summer.

The concrete dam and lumber bridge was washed away in March during the worst flood in 12 years, according to local observers.

Assigned to the construction task is a platoon of Co. C, 43rd Engr. Bn. (Const.), 93ist Engr. Gp, commanded by Capt. George B. Moon.

Presently material is being purchased by the scouting organization through donations made by interested

Col. H. Haskell Ziperman, Martin Army Hospital commander, looks on as Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, signs a proclamation designating the week of May 9-15 as "National Hospital Week."

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — A U. S. Postal Service film on stamps and stamp production is now available in May for distribution on loan to stamp clubs, schools and other interested groups.

Titled: "Stamps: A Nation's Calling Cards," the 16mm color film has a running time of 19 minutes.

Requests should be directed to the Sales Division, National Audiovisual Center (GSA), Washington, D. C. 20409. Date desired for showing should be included in the request, and it is suggested that this should be at least 30 days following the request.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Bill King

When teenagers drop in for snacks and soda, they'll like this dip: mince or blend frankfurters with mayonnaise and pickle relish and serve with potato chips.

It was once the custom among hunting peoples to reserve for the chief and warriors the liver, kidney and heart of each animal because these parts were believed to impart physical strength and courage.

Next time you broil fish, try grating a bit of fresh or dried ginger root on top just before serving.

When buying iceberg lettuce, choose for crisp but springy head. A too firm one means it has been over-ripened and may be tasteless or bitter.

If you haven't yet traveled through England or Ireland, be prepared to be served coarse crystals of brown sugar (called Demerara sugar) with your after-dinner coffee. Worth trying at home.

CHAMPUS clarifies deductible charge

DENVER— CHAMPUS officials have responded to numerous queries from beneficiaries of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) with a clarification of the deductible charge payable under the outpatient portion of the program.

The CHAMPUS deductible, which is similar to the deductibles in auto, health and other insurance, is an initial amount the individual is responsible for without assistance from the cost-sharing provisions.

Under CHAMPUS the deductible has to be met each fiscal year July 1-June 30). The amount is $50 when only one authorized beneficiary uses the program and $100 if two or more members of the family are receiving civilian health care under CHAMPUS.

As soon as these charges are incurred, the beneficiary completes his portion of the claim form, then sends the form with his itemized bills or receipts to the state fiscal administrator, who issues the deductible certificate. When authorized adjunctive dental care is used to satisfy the deductible the claim form must be sent to OCHAMPUS, Denver, Colo. 80204.

Physicians' or dentists' bills or receipts must show the patient's name, diagnosis or nature of illness or injury, the care or service provided, the dates of care and the charges. Drug bills or receipts must show the name of the pharmacy, name of the patient, prescription number is refilled and the charges. In the case of insulin, no prescription number is required but the bill must show "insulin."

Outpatient expenses incurred in states and countries other than where the beneficiary resides also may be used to satisfy the deductible. All charges to satisfy the deductible should be sent to the fiscal administrator in the state of residence.

After the deductible has been satisfied, out-of-state charges up to $25 still may be sent to the fiscal administrator in the state of residence, but charges exceeding $25 must be sent to the fiscal administrator in the state where the charges were incurred with a copy of the deductible certificate.

Byline Bayonet

(Byline Bayonet welcomes questions of general interest about Fort Benning and the Army. Within space limitations all reasonable questions will be answered. Questions of a purely military nature which obviously could be answered more properly by commanders or supervisors within the chain of command will not be accepted. Questions must be signed with current unit of assignment indicated. Send questions to The Bayonet, Room 602, Infantry Hall, or telephone 545-2791.)

Q—Recently I have seen many soldiers wearing fatigues with conventional items of insignia on them, is this now authorized?

A—No it is not, there has been no change to the regulations pertaining to the wearing of the fatigue uniform. Items such as the solid brass belt buckle, conventional insignia and mixtures of such are not authorized for wear. All items of insignia worn on the fatigue uniform must be of the subdued design (Ref AR670-5, chapters 13 and 15).

Q—Are retiring soldiers who have been awarded the Soldier's Medal entitled to the 10 per cent increase in retired pay.

A—For personnel who have been awarded either the Distinguished Flying Cross or the Soldier's Medal the 10 per cent increase in retired pay may be authorized by the secretary of the Army on an individual basis provided that the medal was awarded for extraordinary heroism and the amount of the retired pay does not exceed 75 per cent of active service pay.

Q — What is the current rate of U.S. Army replacements for Vietnam and what per cent are draftees?

A — Replacements run about 19,000 per month. Statistics on the percentage of this number representing draftees are not maintained, but the figure in Vietnam has been holding fairly steady at around 37 per cent. This would be about 7,000 out of the 19,000 monthly replacement.

Q — Does the Boat and Camper Rental Office plan on extending their hours of operation during the summer months?

A — Yes, the Boats and Camper Rental Office is now operational from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, 8 to 11 a.m. Saturdays and 9 to 11 a.m. Sundays and holidays. Personnel returning equipment on weekends and holidays should do so prior to 10 a.m. to afford others use of the equipment. Fees for rental equipment are charged for the day equipment is checked out and each day equipment is out. No charge is made for the day equipment is returned.

The judge says

Dog's bite may nip your finances

USAIC LEGAL ASSISTANCE OFFICE—At one time or another most everyone who owned a pet animal. It may have been a dog, a cat or even a porcupine. Many pets, especially dogs, have the ability to injure human beings. It is wise for every pet owner to know where he stands legally if his pet should injure a neighbor.

Dogs are the most common family pet. Many years ago, if Rover had anti-social tendencies, he was allowed one liability-free bite under the "first bite rule." This is not the case today. Most states impose liability on Rover's owner where the animal has "vicious propensities toward the possibility of injuring a person who is not provoking him."

A few states place absolute liability on the owner for personal injuries caused by his dog. There need be no knowledge by the owner of his dog's pugnacious tendencies. All that is required is that the dog cause the injury. So if you have a dog back home, check out your state's laws.

Georgia is a little more lenient in its outlook. Georgia requires that negligence on the part of the owner be shown before any liability attaches. Negligence is established upon showing that the owner did not take steps to prevent injury or damage after he became aware of the dog's vicious nature.

The Georgia Code provides that the owner of a vicious or dangerous animal is liable for injuries caused by the animal if the injuries were a result of careless management by the owner. What amounts to negligence? This may depend on the type of animal you own. Surely actual knowledge of viciousness would be required before you could be sued for an attack by your 2-month-old beagle.

The amount of knowledge required changes for the owner of a 150-pound bull mastiff. Courts often find that ownership of such an animal amounts to prior knowledge of his vicious nature. So if you own a doberman pinscher, German shepherd, or bull mastiff, keep him under control at all times. ALL guard dogs should be kept in confinement. The "burglar" you turn them loose on may actually be a $200,000 law suit coming through the window.

Do you own a wild animal such as raccon or a fox? Be extra careful. The negligence of the owner is presumed when your harmless looking coyote bites a chunk out of a neighbor's leg. Animals "ferae nature" (wild) are automatically considered to be vicious.

What defenses are open to the pet owner when his pet injures someone? The best defense is that of provocation. The man who sticks his head into a lion's mouth has only himself to blame. If your neighbor kicks your dog and gets bitten for it, you probably have a good defense against any suit brought against you. Bear in mind that this defense is not foolproof. If your pet overreacts, you may still be liable when the pet's attack is out of proportion to the injury done to it.

The City of Columbus also has city ordinances which apply to your dog. All dogs within the city limits must wear a collar with the name and address of the owner printed on it. A "vicious" dog cannot be allowed on the streets unless it is muzzled so that it cannot bite.

Be very careful with your female dogs. An old Columbus law makes it unlawful to allow a female dog "when in breeding season to go upon or have access to the streets of the city."

The basic guideline for avoiding being sued for your animal's misconduct is to use common sense. If your pet likes to bite or scratch, keep him away from potential victims. You can then enjoy both your pet and the money you might have lost in a lawsuit.

Veterans Ask

Q — Will the VA tell me which is the best option to select when preparing a beneficiary and option for my GI insurance?

A — No. The tables of installments are cited among the policy provisions. This is intended not only as a provision of the contract, but as a reference from which the insured must make a judgment.

Q — I have a rather large dividend accumulation on deposit with the Veterans Administration on my insurance. May I withdraw only a part of the total amount?

A — Yes. You may withdraw all, or any part of your accumulated dividends.

Armed Forces Day messages

White House

Today our nation pauses to honor the men and women of the Armed Forces.

For nearly 200 years, our fellow citizens have valiantly answered the call to arms, defending the precious heritage of our civilization and giving a brotherly hand to other peoples of the world. As they have served us so well, it is fitting that as a nation we are now engaged in a determined effort to serve them equally well; to raise their standard of living; to provide better homes and schools for their families; to ensure that their assignments offer challenge and satisfaction; and to reemphasize the proud place which they hold in our national life.

This Armed Forces Day 1971 provides an opportunity for all of us to extend to them our appreciation, not only for their sacrifices but for thier constant guardianship of freedom and justice throughout the world.

I join with the American people in saluting all members of the Armed Forces and expressing to them our continuing admiration and respect.

(Signed) Richard Nixon

Defense Department

The Armed Forces of the United States serve as a unified team, at home and at outposts throughout the world, insuring our nation's freedom and security. These dedicated men and women also help our allies and friends abroad to maintain their freedom and security under the President's willingness to negotiate.

Americans are proud of our Armed Forces. Without the dedication and the preparedness of the men and women who wear the uniform, our country would have neither security nor freedom.

On this Armed Forces Day, let us reaffirm our faith in this freedom and rededicate ourselves to the goal of world peace, mindful of the great sacrifice so many men and women have made in serving this cause.

(Signed) Melvin R. Laird

In spite of 4 'attacks,' 931st unit fulfills mission

By Keith Harmon

While operating in the field last week in a simulated combat situation, Co. C, 56th S and S Bn., 931st Engr. Gp., continued to provide transportation support to Fort Benniog units.

In the early morning hours of May 5 the support unit scrambled onto trucks after a simulated alert and established a base camp in the fields of Fort Benning. But, as is often the case in combat, the day did not pass without incident.

56th S and S convoys were "attacked" four times that morning on their way to a predetermined camp site. The first "attack" was an ambush aimed at halting the convoy as it passed through Wadsworth Hill, but Capt. Orby Brumfield, company commander, said his men suffered only "light casualties and no loss of equipment."

Still enroute to the camp site, the supply and support company was attacked a second and a third time by "enemy aircraft." During the first air raid the transportation aces were credited with "downing" a helicopter, and during both attacks they were lauded for keeping their convoy moving successfully.

However, a simulated land mine set up a tragic incident just 800 yards from the site of the last air attack. The company commander and all occupants in the commander's vehicle were "victims" of the simulated blast and the burdens of guilding the convoy safely to he camp site fell to executive officer 1st Lt. Kent R. Smith.

convoy safely to the camp exercise, designed to test the unit's ability to operate in a combat situation, the enemy aggressors were supplied by the 523rd Transportation Company, a sister unit to the 56th S and S.

Brumfield, a relative newcomer to Fort Benning after a tour with the Military Assistance Command-Vietnam, said his men were conducting all regular transportation commitments at Fort Benning throughout their four-day field exercise.

Completion of transportation commitments in addition to defense of the 56th base camp and equipment, he added, was evidence of his unit's combat readiness.

931st man becomes AUSA life member

The 931st Engineeer Group has its first life membership in the Association of United States Army (AUSA).

In paying the $150 life membership fee, 1st Lt. Robert N. Jannarone, training officer of the engineer unit, became the fourth such member inthe Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter. Jannarone joins a group of 20 life members in the 94,000-member strong national organization.

Jannarone arrived at Fort Benning May 3 after a tour with the 25th Infantry Division at Cu Chi and Xuan Loc. He was graduated from West Point in June 1969.

This is the training officer's second stint at Fort Benning. His first tour was for Airborne-Ranger training.

The local chapter of AUSA presently is involved in its spring membership drive in an effort to retain the prestige it gained when recognized as the world's largest and best chapter at the National Convention held in Washington last year.

The award, sponsored by Time magazine, represents the top radio section in the Department of Defense. The winning program was titled "Salute to American Veterans."

Fort Benning's PTA elects next school year's officers

A new slate of officers was elected during the final PTA meeting of this school year in the Faith School auditorium.

Elected to the executive body which will head the post school's PTA organization during the coming school year were Col. Jack Conn, Weapons Department, president and Col. Jere O. Whittington, Management and Budget Department, first vice president.

Other elected officers are SFC Gerald Syas, Office of Comptroller, second vice president; Lt. Col. George Chapin, 34th Medical Battalion commander, third vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth Ireland, McBride School teacher, secretary; Mrs. Evelyn Hodges, Faith School teacher, assistant secretary and SFC John O. Dyer and SFC George Law, both of Finance and Accounting, treasurer and assistant treasurer respectively.

After the elections and a rush of other wrap-up activities, the children's choruses of McBride and Wilson elementary schools entertained.

The McBride School chorus, directed by Mrs. Parker Davis, music teacher, presented a program of folk and international songs with soloists on autoharp and other classroom instruments.

Mrs. Davis, who has a bachelor's degree in music education from East Tennessee State University, says that her chorus of 56 students practiced 30 to 40 minutes a day for eight weeks for this program. The children range in age from nine through 11 and represent grades four through six.

The Wilson chorus, directed by Miss Martha T. Hoskins, music teacher, presented a program of patriotic and early American songs. The Wilson School chorus is composed of nearly 75 students in grades three through six.

Miss Hoskins, who holds a bachelor's degree in piano and organ and a master's degree in music education from the University of Kentucky, commented that her students seem to have an advantage over students from other schools because military children have a more "cosmopolitan" background. Their worldwide travels, she says, give them a working knowledge of other countries and cultures.

This program is one of the many of the very popular presenations by the PTA this year, claims Dr. Joseph Conforti, superintendant of schools. Other programs have presented discussions of drug abuse among school age children, as well as a special presentation by former safety director James Blount, "How To Survive in the Modern World."

Attendance by parents has been heavy this past year said Conforti. The participation has been due partly to the popularity of the many programs of the PTA such as the recent circulum week held at all schools on post. During the week the students displayed some of their projects used as part of classwork.

Dr. Conforti says he feels such programs help establish interest in the PTA. He added, "We've always had fine support from the PTA, especially in such matters as getting funds to bring in experts on particular types of problems."

PX, concessions begin renovating campaign

The first big step in a $157,350 renovation campaign of exchange and concession facilities at Fort Benning was recently completed when the cafeteria in the Lawson Army Airfield terminal was reopened.

Other steps in the project include renovation of 58 exchange facilities here, according to Jesse Owens, equipment facilities manager for the Fort Benning Exchange system.

Refurbishing of the LAAF cafeteria included wall paneling, new flooring, and drapery.

Owens said the project, called the "accelerated improvement program" will bring all exchange facilities up to high standards. The work is being done by Brasington Contracting Co. of Columbus under a contract awarded April 7.

Other improvements scheduled include installation of new lighting, modern aluminum glass doors, flooring, wall panelling, as well as air conditioning and heating for one facility.

Some of the major projects include renovation of the main retail store the main post area, as well as the garden shop, the main post cafeteria, and all concessions in the "community center" area of the main post.

The post-wide renovation project will also include all retail branches in the Harmony Church, Sand Hill, Custer Terrace, and other areas of the post.

'Best sale yet' marks PX founding

The Army and Air Force Exchange Service is 76 years old this month, and to celebrate the occasion the Fort Benning Exchange will hold a sale on many items starting tomorrow through June 2.

The anniversary celebration, dubbed the "Spirit of 76," will feature sales held worldwide in exchanges with $8 million in specially purchased merchandise.

Mr. G. J. O'Brian, general manager of the post exchange, commented, "In the past our anniversary sales have been the most popular events of the year in the exchange. This year's sale," he said, "should be the best yet."

O'Brian also states that sale items will be marked down at least 15 per cent, and some, he says, will be offered at one-third off regular price.

Items offered will include clothing, household goods, watches and jewelry, toiletries and sporting goods.

Many sale items are highlighted in a 12-page color brochure available in exchanges. These brochures were mailed to customers who answered special request cards sent by the exchanges.

CONARC training adopts Benning's fitness tests

All training cycles in CONUS Army Training Centers which begin after May 3 will incorporate two subtests of the new test series as a part of their training. Included will be the Basic Physical Fitness Test and the Inclement Weather Test.

The new "P.T. test" was developed by the Conditioning, Combatives and Drill Committee of the Infantry School's Leadership Department.

The APFE is designed to minimize grader judgment in scoring, to compensate for age and for category of job assignment.

Seven subtests make up the total APFE system. The entire Army will have converted to the new system within 12 to 15 months, when the APFE will be incorporated into the revised FM 21-20, "Physical Readiness Training."

Limbs lost in Vietnam

3 amputees visit post, promote Ranger training

By Martin McWilliams

The Infantry School's Ranger Department is playing host this week to three recent graduates of the Ranger Course who have lost limbs during fighting in Vietnam.

One of the chief reasons for he visit was the desire of the three to interest others in the importance of Ranger training.

The three first lieutenants — Charles O'Brian, John Brennan, and Jame Baird, a former instructor for the Patrolling Committee of the Ranger Department—each lost a leg as a result of wounds suffered in Vietnam. The three have been fitted with artificial limbs at Valley Forge General Hospital, Pa., and are now awaiting discharge from active duty.

Last March Lt. O'Brian wrote to Ranger Department Director Col. John P. Geraci, mentioning that "it is to our deep regret that we will be unable to return to the home of the Infantry . . . and the Ranger Department."

The letter went on to say that the three young officers were especially interested in contacting "officer candidates or officer basic students, about the importance of Ranger Training."

As a result, the group was invited to visit Fort Benning as guests of the Infantry School and the Ranger Department.

Arriving Wednesday, the three officers were taken to their quarters at Olsen Hall. Yesterday they viewed a Ranger demonstration at Victory Pond, were briefed on Ranger activities, observed Ranger training and attended the graduation party of Ranger Class 11-71. Today they will observe more training and attend a Ranger graduation.

"Apparently their Ranger Training meant a lot to these young men," commented Capt. Robert Primmer of the Patrolling Committee, who coordinated the visit. "Their continuing professionalism and enthusiasm sets an example for (all) of us at Fort Benning," he added.

Troop 51 gets top camporee honors

Boy Scout Troop 51 captured first place in the recent Fort Benning District Spring Camporee. The troop is sponsored by the Sojourners and Youth Activity Council (YAC).

Troop 54, sponsored by The School Brigade (TSB), was second in terms of overall points in the competition and Troop 127, sponsored by 1st Bn., TSB, was third. Fourth and Fifth places went respectively to Troop 237, sponsored by 5th Bn., 31st Inf., and Troop 120, sponsored by the St. Mary's Road PTA.

Individual patrols also received recognition for outstanding performances. The top patrol was the Wolf Patrol of Troop 237. Second- place went to the Mohawk Patrol of Troop 127, third to the Apache Patrol of Troop 120, fourth to the Rattlesnake Patrol of Troop 54, fifth to the Paladins of Troop 51, and sixth to the Antelopes of Troop 134, sponsored by South Columbus United Methodist Church.

The spring camporee was held at Camp McKenzie Boy Scout Reservation. More than 50 adult leaders and 278 boys attended the camporee.

Each patrol's "performance as a unit" was the basis for evaluation and awards. Points were awarded for attendance, proper uniform, equipment, organization, health, safety and sanitation.

One important area of evaluation was in campsite location and construction. There were no prepared campsites, so each patrol leader was requred to select the location for his unit. Patrols were then responsible for the construction of their campsites.

Adult supervisors noted that troops of the Fort Benning District performed at a very high level and that the competition between troops was quite keen. Eleven of the 13 troops participating completed the Camporee with between 250 and 300 points.

Lt. Col. William Walker, deputy commanding officer, TSB, was director of the camporee. The staff consisted of Lt. Col. John Walker, commanding officer, 1st Bn., TSB; Maj. Woody Woodson Brigade and Battalion Operations Department; MSgt. Hank Guilbeault, Command Maintenance Department; Sp5 Bob C. Kerr, Signal Corps Photo Lab; and PFC Lon Penny, 93ist Engineer Group.

Scout members of the Order of the Arrow chose in honor several of the adult supervisors with invitations to membership in the order. The district chairman, Col. Foy Rice, commanding officer, Aviation Command, USAIC, was tapped for membership along with Woodson, who is assistant training chairman, and Guilbeault, assistant service chairman. Several scoutmasters here were honored with memberships in the order.

Wheel safety

Motorcyclists urged to drive as if 'invisible'

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Drive as if you were the "Invisible Man." That's the advice from safety officials to servicemen who ride some motorcycles.

The advice is based on the statement most heard from auto drivers who have collided with a motorcycle: "I didn't see him." Bike riders, the safety people say, always should assume that automobile drivers cannot see them.

Motorcycling, at best, is statistically more hazardous than many other forms of travel. Nine out of 19 accidents involving motorcycles result in injury or death. They have more accidents per mile.

Not unnaturally, considering the little protection offered by a bike, head injuries account for about 70 per cent of the fatal injuries in cycle crashes where the operator was not wearing a helmet.

Motorcycle enthusiasts might consider these safety tips:

—Know your machine. The increased maneuverability and acceleration of a motorcycle must be controlled at all times.

—Scan the roadway for water, chuckholes, oil, rocks and other obstacles that can be dangerous to a cyclist.

—Wear protective headgear at all times. Eye protection, along with gloves, boots and a jacket, also should be considered essential.

'Dining out,' hot pants highlights OC social events

Weekly Wednesday evening wive's visitation has become "dinner out" for the wives of officer candidates in 51st Co., 5th Stu. Bn., TSB.

Capt. Frank R. Vavrek, company commander, has given approval for families and candidates to eat dinner together in the company mess hall, dependents paying a nominal fee.

This privilege depends upon the company's training schedule and upon the wives' continued participation, but so far the response has been enthusiastic with approximately 70 dependents served each Wednesday evening for the past five weeks. Of the 197 men in 51st Co., nearly half are married although not all wives have joined their husbands in the Columbus area.

The wives say the food is good, and the husbands seem to agree with Capt. Vavrek's feeling that the practice is "good for morale."

And for the single candidates? Perhaps the wives' club will sponsor a pot luck supper as they did in March and treat the candidates to another "home-cooked" meal.

Hot-Pants were the high point of a fashion show presented at the May luncheon, for the officer wives of The School Brigade.

The latest in feminine attire, supplied by a local ladies' shop, were modeled by Mrs. Gilbert Wainwright, Mrs. James Sparks, Mrs. Charlie Welch, Mrs. William Principio, Mrs. John Zerba and Mrs. John Collingsworth.

The theme of "Frills and Flowers" was carried out with decorations of brightly colored, hand made nose-gays on the tables. Large bouquets of paper flowers decorated stage area.

Chairmen for the luncheon were Mrs. Robert Kenyon, Mrs. Roland Parr, Mrs. James Yarborough, Mrs. Gilbert Wainwright and Mrs. Charles Welch.

Personnel course developed

The Educational Development Section, USAIC, in close coordination with the Adjutant General's Section, USAIC, has developed a new five-week program of instructions designed to provide base training in personnel administration to assist in alleviating the personnel specialist shortages which exist Army-wide.

The course includes instruction and practical application on personnel management techniques and the initiation, maintenance and disposition of personnel records. An additional objective of the course is to improve the data accuracy of the personnel data base stored at the Data Processing Activity, 3rd Army and Headquarters, Department of the Army.

Recently 27 enlisted personnel and three civilian clerks completed the first five-week course. PFC Harold A. Bencic, Co. D, Hq. Cmd., was named honor student of the first class.

The next scheduled five-week course will be held from July 12 to Aug. 13. Major commanders have been encouraged to make maximum use of this course for training personnel whose assignement, actual or anticipated, is in the personnel specialist field.

Students who attend the course and do not already possess as primary or secondary the military occupational speciality of personnel specialist (MOS 71D) will have an opportunity to complete the MOS Evaluation Test (MOS 71H) for the purpose of reclassification.

Rainy weather forces street dance indoors

Neither wind nor rain nor dark of night could stop the "Patriot" Street Dance of the 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf. from happening. The original dance, scheduled in the battalion area April 23, was postponed because of stormy weather.

The rescheduled date of April 29 also proved to be too much — weather-wise — for an outdoor dance, due to another storm. The whole dance was transferred instead to the Harmony Church Field House, where it became a sock hop. A spotlight provided a welcoming beacon and even brightened up the rainy night.

The "Patriots" began to fill the hall decorated with crepe paper and balloons at 6:30 p.m. Many ladies from the WAC Co. came, adding a feminine touch to the dance.

Couples soon began to fill the dance floor and tables.

A covering was spread across the gym floor to protect it from wear, and the band started playing as the "street" dance got into full swing.

The dance was conceived by Lt. Col. Stephen R. Pawlik, the battalion commander, as another social event under his battalion family program. More than 600 soldiers attended, with many bringing their wives, families of girlfriends, assuring a successful evening of fun.

OWC seeks activity chairmen

The Officers' Wives' Club is in need of chairmen for all OWC activities. Some of the many activities include knitting, dancing, modeling, painting, candle making and charm.

8 to represent Benning at spring school talks

Eight persons will represent the Fort Benning Children's Schools at the Spring conference of the Georgia Elementary Committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

The conference will be held at the Center for Continuing Education at the University of Georgia in Athens May 13 through May 15.

The eight are: Dr. Joseph T. Conforti, superintendent of schools Mrs. Evelyn Southwood, instructional supervisor; William G. Abrahamson, school counselor; Mrs. Mildred Carter, principal of Herbert J. Dexter School; Mrs. Marge Pemberton librarian of Richard G. Wilson School; Mrs. William E. (Carla) Lorfing, teacher at Alexander M. Patch School; Miss Joan Howton, teacher at Frank R. Loyd School; Mrs. Carol Jordan, teacher at Don C. Faith School.

The theme of the conference is "Accountability: Its Relevance to the Elementary School." The keynote speaker will be Paul F. Cole, chairman of the Council of Classroom Teachers of the New York State Teachers Association.

Dr. Leon M. Lessinger, Callaway professor of education and urban life at Georgia State University, will address the conference on "Accountability as a Professional Growth Policy."

The Fort Benning Children's Schools System is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The members of the system attending the conference will participate in group sessions on the school's function and relationship to the Association.

Two other phases in which the members will participate are discussions concerning accountability and evaluating music education in the elementary school.

Preparing To Leave For 3-day Retreat Are Joe Henry, Karen Kitchens (C) And Nancie Piper.

OWC dance school slates annual public recital

The Fort Benning Officer's Wives Club School of Dance will present its annual recital at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, in the auditorium of Dexter School. The public is invited and there will be no admission charge.

The OWC School of Dance is under the direction of Terrell Paulk and Mrs. Ralph Manzi. Paulk is the Director of the Springer Ballet Theatre of Columbus and a principal dancer with the Atlanta Ballet. Mrs. Manzi is assistant director of the Springer Ballet Theater.

The School of Dance is open to all dependents on active or retired military personnel and offers classes in Ballet, Tap and Modern Jazz for children and teens, and in Ballet for adults.

Anyone interested in dancing classes, which will begin again in September may contact Mrs. E. P. Sodnor 545-1900 for further information.

2nd Lt. James W. Gleisberg, Tuscaloosa, Ala., was the distinguished graduate of the Infantry Officer Basic Course (IOBC) Class 18-71 which graduated in ceremonies May 4 at Marshall Auditorium, Infantry Hall.

Gleisberg is a graduate of the University of Alabama with a bachelor of science degree in history

Party honors post fire chief

A retirement party was held for Gilbert A. Ward, Fort Benning fire chief, who retired recently after 30 years in the fire service.

Ward, a native of Waynesboro, Ga., will live in Columbus.

Henry M. Montgomery, who was fire chief for two years at Warner Robins AFB, Ga., succeeds Ward.

Youths attend Protestant retreat

The Protestant Youth of the Chapel held a Spring Retreat at Three Lakes Lodge — April 23-25.

The theme of the retreat was "Confronted Christ."

The officers of the group who contributed to the success of the retreat were: Joe Henry, president; Nancie Piper, vice president; Karen Kitchen, sec-treasurer; and Sheldon Tyndall, refreshment chairman.

The retreat team consisted of: Mrs. Marguerite Waldrop, Director of Religious Education for Fort Benning; Chaplin and Mrs. Loren D. Pugh; Carolyn Beckett; Spt Joel Elrod; and guest leader, Betty Sharpe, utilization specialist with Georgia Educational Television Network, Atlanta.

Is there a need to check America's birth rate?

By Capt. James R. McNair, M.D.

In 1970 the U.S. census revealed a population level of 206 million people. We are projected to be at 228 million strength by 1975 and 361 million by the year 2000. At the current rate of increase, the U.S. population will be at a level of one billion people by the year 2050.

Is there a need to check this birth rate? Before answering this question, we should first address ourselves to the query, "Is the U.S. population at the proper level now?" Many population biologists and other experts in this field feel that the answer is "No".

These experts point out that right now the United States, representing 6 per cent of the world's population, consume 40 per cent of the world's resources. It is quite clear that many, if not all, of these resources are becoming scarce and nonreplacable. If our population increases, the future of these natural resources is obviously jeopardized.

This depletion of resources is just the beginning. As we expand and "improve" our standard of living, we create more and more waste products which lead to air, water and earth pollution.

Not the least of our concerns with the present level of population is feeding the populus. World-wide, approximately 12,000 people die daily of hunger. In America, we are having deaths from starvation, too.

Possibly even more significant is the number of people who are malnourished in the United States. The results of a three year federal survey conducted under the auspices of Sen. Ernest F. Hallings of North Carolina recently revealed that one-third of the 70,000 children surveyed demonstrated growth retardation, anemia and other evidence of malnutrition.

Of course, there was a relation between the families' income and the malnutrition cases. However, this clearly indicates that there is not a surplus of food and it certainly is not being properly distributed.

Also, at the present, the U.S. is already utilizing most of its fertile ground for food production offering little hope for increased food production in the future.

Thus, for at least three reasons, the depletion of natural resources, the environmental deterioration due to pollution, and the lack of food to feed the people, it is apparent that the United States population is already too large.

With this guidance, answering the question, "Is there a need to check the United States (and the world's) birth rate?" becomes quite easy to answer: "Yes."

But these are not the only reasons for population control. The advantages of family planning are obvious. The ability to determine the size of the family and when to have the children is important.

Avoiding an unwanted or unplanned pregnancy may prevent emotional and financial family disasters. Education of both parents in the choice of birth control and family planning helps to foster a better understanding and closer more open relationships between husband and wife.

Fort Benning's Army Health Nurse Activities is attempting to determine the need for an expanded family planning program at this post. To determine this need, a questionnaire will be distributed to a representative sample of families on the post, soliciting their opinions as to the need for birth control education.

Presently, women may obtain guidance from the Obstetrics-Gynecology Service of Martin Army Hospital. This clinic provides most presently available birth control devices. Physicians and nurses in that clinic can answer all questions which might arise and will fit devides and provide information in regard to dosage of contraceptive medications. Our goal, then, is to determine if this is an adequate family planning program or if more is needed.

All comments are welcomed and should be directed to the Army Health Nurse Activities, (phone 545-4019—5431).

10-city network checks on air

WASHINGTON (AFPS)—Weather stations at ten U. S. cities have been designated "regional air pollution monitoring stations" in a network that eventually will keep tabs on worldwide air quality.

The National Weather Service and the Air Pollution Control Office of the Environmental Protection Agency will cooperate in the measurement and analysis of particles in the air and impurities in rain or snow. NOAA's Environmental Data Service will store the information and disseminate it in this country and abroad.

The stations in the project are in or near Caribou, Me.; Atlantic City, N. J.; Raleigh, N. C.; Salem, Ill.; Meridian, Miss.; Huron, S. D.; Alamosa, Colo.; Victoria, Tex.; Pendleton, Ore. and Bishop, Calif.

Post to hire 307 youths for summer employment

Fort Benning this year again will participate in a program to provide gainful summer employment for youths in the Columbus-Phenix City area.

Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, has announced that 307 youths will be hired for jobs at Fort Benning under the summer employment testing and summer aids program.

At the same time, Mrs. Virginia Barfield, director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) in Columbus said that 150 people will be employed at Fort Benning through the Office of Economic Opportunity and will be paid with Neighborhood Youth Corps funds. If additional funds are made available to the Neighborhood Youth Corps, another 150 youths will be employed for jobs at Fort Benning this summer, she said.

"Many of our young people want to spend the summer months in a productive and useful manner, and we here at Fort Benning realize that we share the responsibility in making jobs available for them," Gen. Talbott said.

Gene Medlock, chief of Civilian Personnel at Fort Benning said, "We plan to hire 93 persons who have qualified through our summer employment testing program for positions ranging up to grade GS-4."

4 GREAT STORES TO SERVE YOU!

Main commissary open Sundays;

In an effort to improve commissary service to customers, the main store now is open on Sundays plus additional hours during the week.

However, this has necessitated the closing of the Custer Terrace and Milk Bar facilities on Sunday in order to make these additional hours available to the main store.

The addition of extra hours to the main store and the elimintion of Sunday hours in the other facilities was done because the main store has the resources which are best suited to customers' needs, commissary officials said.

Officials claim that this is a logical step since the main post exchange, theater and cafeteria, which also operate on Sundays, are in the proximity of the main commissary store.

The new hours for the commissary are Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This new schedule will mean that the main post store will be open a total of 71 hours per week as compared to the present schedule of 60 hours.

Among other innovations at the commissary that have come about recently, are stockage of health and beauty aids, acceptance of food stamps and acceptance of merchandise coupons.

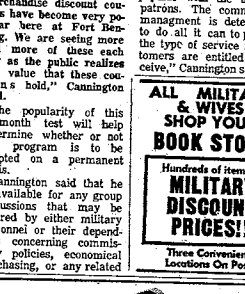
"All commissary outlets in the U.S. now accept Department of Agriculture food stamps, as good as cash in purchasing commissary food items, C. L. Cannington, commissary officer, said. "We have not had a large amount of food stamps coming into our stores, but this is due to the fact that Muscogee County does not come under the food stamp program."

The only restriction on the use of food stamps is that they may not be used for household items (such as soap), tobacco products and imported goods other than tea, coffee, bananas and cocoa.

The food stamp program is designed to help provide a better diet for low income families. Military members who feel they may qualify for this assistance should contact the Department of Family and Children Services, 1718 8th Ave., Columbus, Ga. (telephone 324-6381).

Food stamps now account for less than 1 per cent of total Army commissary sales and less than that here at Fort Benning. However, this figure is expected to increase as more families take advantage of the program. Military personnel who have questions pertaining to food stamps and their use can contact Cannington at 545-3417 or 545-3817.

A six-month feasibility test of the acceptance of merchandise discount coupons began in most stateside Army commissary stores Jan. 1 and in the remaining U. S. outlets one month later. "The merchandise discount coupons have become very popular here at Fort Benning. We are seeing more and more of these each day as the public realizes the value that these coupons hold," Cannington said.



The popularity of this six-month test will help determine whether or not this program is to be adopted on a permanent basis.

Cannington said that he is available for any group discussions that may be desired by either military personnel or their dependents concerning commissary policies, economical purchasing, or any related items of interest.

"The commissary stores are working hard to stay popular with the military patrons. The commissary managment is determined to do all it can to provide the type of service its customers are entitled to receive," Cannington said.

Project Transition offers over 40 ways to a better life

By Dennis Hayashi

At a time when unemployment is rising the soldier with "short time" is faced with a real problem.

To help alleviate some of the pressures of seeking civilian employment Project Transition is available.

The program, initiated in January 1968 by the U. S. Continental Army Command, is intended to provide the soldier with the opportunity of in-service training and additional education.

The Fort Benning project, started in March 1968, began the program by offering a postal clerk-carrier course. Since then the number of courses have increased to more than 40. In addition one-fourth of the program is on-the-job training within the Army or private industry.

Recent statistics have shown that 92 per cent of the servicemen participating in the program on post are either employed or attending school full time two months after separation. To date 2,344 have been employed through the project. Of these 1,019 were employed in the training they received.

Since the start of Project Transition on post 40,051 servicemen have completed the program questionnaires and 31,119 of these did not plan to reenlist. Of those not planning to re-enlist, 25,800 (83 per cent) wanted vocational or educational transition training.

Of those desiring training, 12,576, (50 per cent) have been enrolled in transition classes or on-the-job training. Of those enrolled 10,653 (85 per cent) have completed training. On April 21, there were 428 men attending classes and 83 men taking on-the-job training.

Courses offered in the staggered six-week programs include automatic data processing-auto mechanics, air conditioning and refrigerator, radio and tv repair, offset pressman and welding. The most recent addition is law enforcement.

Priorities for participating in the program are:

—Personnel with service-connected disabilities that prevent their return to duty. Officers and warrant officers are included.

—Personnel ineligible for re-enlistment who do not possess a civilian or service required skill that will enable them to obtain gainful employment after separation.

—Enlisted personnel who desire additional training to improve civilian employment opportunities.

Within the above priorities, unit commanders are directed to encourage service-connected disabled individuals, eligible minority group members, Project 100,000 soldiers, and individuals with low aptitude area scores to improve their future employment prospects through participation in the program.

Currently all courses are now conducted on post in the Harmony Church area.

The City of Columbus and the Columbus Chamber of Commerce have issued a joint proclamation in recognition of Armed Forces Day, Saturday, May 15.

The proclamation highlights the need for continued understanding between the citizens of Columbus and members of the Armed Forces and reads as follows:

"Whereas, May 15 has been designated as Armed Forces Day in honor of all members of the Armed Forces of the United States, and

Whereas, we hereby affirm a need for maintining our National Defense at a strong posture capable of meeting threats to our national security, and

"Whereas, Columbus, Ga., and all her citizens hold the military profession in the highest esteem and have a warm spot in their hearts for members of the military because of the close daily association with military personnel and their families, particularly those of Fort Benning, and

"Whereas, this is an especially appropriate time for each Columbus citizen to re-appraise his attitude and actions toward members of our Armed Forces to insure that we are friendly, courteous hospitable, and fair and that we constantly strive to demonstrate a personal interest in the well-being of each military member whom we may contact, to make him and his family feel more welcome as temporary residents of our community.

"Now therefore, We J. R. Allen, mayor of the City of Columbus, and Joe J. Flowers Jr., president of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, do hereby proclaim May 15, 1971, as Armed Forces Day in our city and call on all our citizens to renew their efforts to be better hosts and neighbors to all members of the Armed Forces from this day forward."

The proclamation was signed by Allen and Flowers.

Guard director visits Benning

Maj. Gen. Francis S. Greenlife, director, U. S. Army National Guard Washington, D. C. visited Fort Benning Monday and Tuesday.

After an airmobile command and control simulator briefing, Gen. Greenlief addressed the graduating candidates of Officer Candidate (Reserve Component) Nourse I-71.

Also traveling with the general was Lt. Col. Charles Jones, Lt. Col. Herbert Williams, and CSM Wilber Jones all of the Army National Guard, Washington, D. C.

OCS men no longer need AIT

WASHINGTON (ANF)—College graduates enlisting for Officer Candidate School (OCS) are no longer required to attend Advanced Individual Training (AIT).

In the past, college graduates enlisting for OCS spent approximately 10 months in training before undertaking a two-year obligation for active duty commissioned service. The training consisted of two months of Basic Combat Training (BCT), two months of AIT and six months of OCS.

Now candidates will go directly to OCS upon completion of BCT.

March

"Members of the 197th Inf. Bde. takes this opportunity to wish the Boy Scouts of America outstanding success and salute 'Scouting, Georgia-Style.'"

The day before the proclamation was handed to Allen, the 48 marchers arrived on the outskirts of Georgia's largest city, ending their four-day march. Smiling and sunburned, with sore and blistered feet, the delegation was bussed to a downtown Atlanta motor hotel.

Lt. Gen. Albert O. Connor, commander of the 3rd U.S. Army, was the chairman of Saturday night's scout show. The jamboree theme was "Scouting, Georgia-Style."

The karate team from the 5th Bn., 21st Inf., and the 51st Inf. Pit. Scout Dogs performed in the stadium before the main show started.

The marchers returned Monday afternoon and were given a hardy welcome-back on Kelly Hill.

The excursion, which began May 4, was kicked off by a ceremony near Columbus's northern limits.

The marchers made it near Manchester the first night and bivouaced in the Manchester High School gym. In Manchester, as in the other stops, complete displays of brigade Artillery, Armor and Infantry weapons and vehicles were set up.

In conjunction with the arrival of the marching delegation, the Infantry Chorus and Band gave a concert in the high school auditorium. The karate team gave a demonstration and the Scout Dogs put on a show.

The marchers made Warm Springs the second night and Fayetteville the third night.

Outing

Knights" and a boxing exhibition will highlight the festive affair.

Sports enthusiasts can get their full later in the afternoon. Each unit of the brigade will have two representatives in each event of track and field competition. Volleyball games and other athletic events also are scheduled. Trophies will be presented to the best battalion team in each event. An individual over-all champion will be selected at the end of the day's competition and will be given a trophy.

A soldier's dance will conclude the day's activities. Starting at 8 p.m., the dance will be held in the Kelley Hill Service Club.

persons. However, Russell P. McLean, scout executive, said only $500 has been donated to date, leaving a "great financial burden" on the organization. McLean said the estimated cost of the building materials is between $3,000 and $5,000.

McKenzie Camp site ranger, Gene Durga, is soliciting material and funds to purchase material for the damaged structures and may be contacted by telephone at 323-1458.

1st Lt. Robert E. Tillman of the 43rd said 100 yards of concrete and 40 lumber piles will be needed to restore the camp site. Weather permitting, work is scheduled to be completed by June 5, the date scouting activities are to begin there, Tillman added.

To date, the platoon of Co. C has cleared ground and hauled timber to the construction site in preparation of full-scale restoration work. Co. C will have about 25 engineers on the job under the direction of construction officer 2nd Lt. Larry W. Jeffords.

During the camping season some 200 scouts will visit the reservation at one time, with more than 1,000 youngsters camping throughout the summer.

Camp McKenzie is part of the 650-acre Chattahoochee Council Scout Reservation, which also includes Camp Callaway.

The damaged bridge is a link between the main camp site and the water sport area.

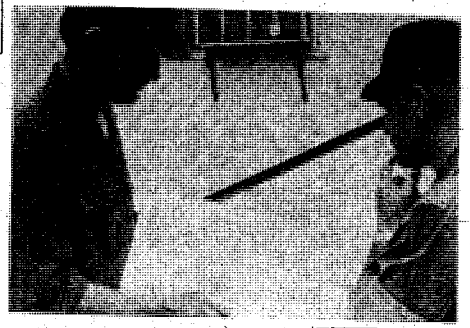
The mission of the Medical Service Corps is to provide scientific, technical, and administrative support to the Army Medical Department. More than 70 specialities within the Medical Service Corps make it the most specialized and largest of the six corps of the Medical Department.

Brig. Gen. Manley G. Morrison is the present chief of the corps and the second chief to hold the rank of brigadier general.

Col. James H. Snelling, executive officer of Martin Army Hospital, is the ranking MSC officer within the Medical Department Activity Command at Fort Benning.

Beason honored grad



Sgt. James T. Beason, Gadsden, Ala., was the distinguished honor graduate and the distinguished academic graduate of the Noncommissioned Officer Candidate Course Class 504-71 (11B) which graduated in ceremonies May 4 at Marshall Auditorium Infantry Hall. Sgt. Thomas T. Yokooji, Brighton, Colo., was the leadership graduate.

1st Sgt. Charles V. Irwin, 48th Co., 4th Stu. Bn., TSB, delivered the commencement address to the 172 graduates.

For his achievement Sgt. Beason received a letter of commendation signed by Brig. Gen. John T. Carley, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, an engraved "Follow Me" plaque, an engraved "Follow Me" statuette, and an engraved Association of the United States Army plaque.

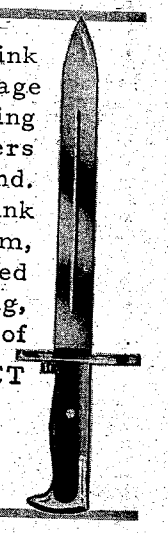
Marrieds get more pay

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Veterans in training under the G.I. Bill are entitled to more money when they get married or have children.



For example, a full-time student in school will have his $175 a month increased to $205 when he gets married and to $230 if he becomes a father.

Veterans taking cooperative apprenticeship, on-the-job or farm cooperative training also have their Veterans Administration payments increased when they get married and have children. Apprenticeship trainees get additional payments for only 2 dependents.

931st engineers help Bragg unit with bridges

The airborne engineers at Ft. Bragg, N. C., now know their way around an M4T6 floating bridge after a recent trip to Bragg by the 5th Platoon of the 586th Engr. Co. (FB), 931st Engr. Gp.

The company provided technical support in reacquainting the airborne engineers with the floating bridge.

During the final days of the exercise a competition began between the various airborne units to see which could build the bridge the fastest. The total time separation between the best and the worst was only 16 minutes.

In fact, the enthusiasm of the airborne units caused some cleaning problems for the 586th when they returned to Fort Benning. Several hours had to be spent cleaning chalk scribbled "AIRBORNE" off the assault boats and bridge parts.

Pictures of the Year

Army specialist wins top photography honor

WASHINGTON (ANF)—An Army man has been named military photographer of the year (1970) in the eighth annual Military Pictures of the Year Competition, jointly sponsored by the Department of Defense, the National Press Photographers Association (NPPA), the University of Missouri and the Universal Science News Service.

Sp5 Steve Groer, from Silver Springs, Md., will share national honors with NPPA's newspaper photographer of the year and magazine photographer of the year.

Groer won first place in the portfolio competition from a field of 29 entries.

Of the eight winners since the competition began, five have been Army photographers. Groer has now returned to civilian life.

This year's contest, which runs through the 1971 calendar year, is open to all active duty military personnel. Contest rules will be mailed in July to all service information chiefs, commanders of unified and specified commands, and to interested individuals on request.

For more information on the 1971 Military Pictures of the Year Competition contact your information office or write to: Audio Visual News Branch, Directorate for Defense Information, Office of Assistant Secretary of Defense (Public Affairs), Washington, D.C. 20301.

Draft call rate down; now 10,000 per month

WASHINGTON (ANF)—The Department of Defense has requested a total of 20,000 inductees from the Selective Service System for the months of May and June.

All of these inductees will be assigned to the Army.

The draft call for May was previously announced at 15,000.

According to DOD, "Progress in Vietnamization and the Vietnam redeployment plan, announced by the President on April 7, have made it possible to combine the May and June calls into one for a total of 20,000."

Draft calls for January through April 1971 have been 17,000 each month.

Calls for the first six months of calendar year 1971 will total 88,000 compared with 99,500 for the first six months of calendar year 1970.

Calls for fiscal year 1971 will total 152,000 compared with 209,300 for fiscal year 1970.

Peppard stars in 'One More Train'

George Peppard is the fast-moving star of Universal's action-packed outdoor adventure set in California's colorful gold-mining country of the 1880's in "One More Train To Rob," now playing at a downtown theater. Co-starring in the rugged story which was photographed in Technicolor, are Diana Muldaur, John Vernon and France Nuyen.

In one of the most unusual performances of his career, Peppard, as an anti-hero, is teamed with an equally unusual cast and script by Don Tait and Dick Nelson with the story by William Roberts, all brought together under the experienced hands of producer Robert Arthur and director Andrew V. McLaglen. This is the third teaming of the producer with the director; previously they made the very successful "Shenandoah" and "The Hellfighters."

Starring as the attractive wife of the former badman turned into a leading citizen (Vernon) who isn't above carrying on an affair with a handsome robber is Miss Muldaur. She received unusual acclaim for her role of Ralph Bellamy's secretary in the TV series "The Survivors." Before starring opposite Charlton Heston in "Number One," she achieved recognition on the New York stage. Vernon played the Cuban leader in Alfred Hitchcock's "Topaz."

The role of the young Chinese girl held in bondage and freed by Peppard is portrayed by Eurasian beauty Miss Nuyen who returns to the screen in this film after an absence of ten years, last seen in "South Pacific."

"One More Train To Rob" breaks with the traditional western format by having its anti-hero not only kill the protagonist, but wind up with his beautiful widow and all of the dead husband's estate and money.

The motion picture is rated "GP — All ages admitted. Parental guidance suggested."

Army to issue black frames on eyeglasses

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — After the first of the year, Army and Air Force men and women will be sporting black-framed glasses in place of the standard gray frames used since 1961.

An Army survey found that 68 per cent of the servicemen preferred the black plastic frames.

The Army, which makes glasses for Army and Air Force personnel, last year turned out 1.7 million pairs at a cost of $5 million.

Synopsis

WHERE EAGLES DARE (Rated GP). In the deepest heart of Germany, standing between mountain and sky, stands the impregnable Castle of the Eagles, nerve center of the Gestapo. Imprisoned behind the massive stone walls is the Allied general who knows more about the coming D-Day invasion than any man alive.

RED SKY AT MORNING (Rated GP). How do you talk man-to-man to a kid who's grown up too fast? What happens when a wife has a "kind friend" to help her forget? When temptation beckons, is the pleasure worth the punishment? What happens when teenagers suddenly find their fun and games aren't child's play any more?

A GUN FIGHT (Rated GP). Two men, who by greed alone and the lust for blood by a town full of people, shoot it out for money. Kirk Douglas plays Will Tenneray, a former gunfighter, now married with a son, who finds life has no challenges, no opportunities and who desperately longs for recognition by his fellow man.

Johnny Cash, plays Abe Cross, also a gunfighter, tired and willing to let bygones be bygones. But Abe, unlike his former adversary, Will, no longer has any stomach for fighting, but when goaded by the townsfolk and by Will, finally agrees to one last shootout.

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL GUNFIGHTER (Rated G). Our hero, Itinerant con-man and smooth-talking ladies' man Latigo Smith (James Garner), is on his way by train to post-Civil War Denver to get married. His bride-to-be, blonde and voluptuous Goldie (Marie Winter), is with him. However, Latigo is not enthusiastic about the forthcoming nuptials and he jumps the train at a mining town called Purgatory.

There, Latigo is mistaken for the dreaded gunfighter Swifty Morgan. Patience (Suzanne Pleshette), spritied daugahter of a local mine owner and who's aim in life is to escape Purgatory by going to New York City, wants to take care of "swifty" in her own way by shooting him on sight.

Latigo tries desperately to have the incriminating "I Love Goldie" tattoo removed from his chest in order to make Patience his new bride-to-be. Goldie shows up unexpectedly and things really get hot in Purgatory.

THEY CALL ME MISTER TIBBS. (Rated GP). Cool, calculating and dedicated police detective Virgil Tibbs, in the person of Sidney Poitier, solves a murder in San Francisco.

N.C. organist plans recital at area church

Dr. H. Max Smith, associate professor of music and director of University Honors Program, Appalachian State University, Boone, N.C., will be presented in an organ recital at St. Paul United Methodist Church in Columbus May 25, at 8 p.m.

A native of Fayetteville, Ark., Smith received degrees in music from the Universities of Missouri and Oklahoma. At Oklahoma he studied organ with Mildred Andrews. He received his doctor of sacred music degree from Union Tehological Seminary in New York. Smith also has studied organ with Carl Weinrich of Princeton University and composition with Norman Coke-Jephcott and Joseph Goodman of New York.

Smith has served as organist of the First Baptist Church of Oklahoma City, Organist-chairmaster of St. Paul's Methodist Church, New York City, and organist of St. James Presbyterian Church in New York. He has served as a member of the faculty of the University of Oklahoma and as associate professor of music and artist in residence at Southeastern Theological Seminary, Wake Forest, N.C., before joining Appalachian State University.

Smith is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, American Guild of Organists, American Musicological Society, College Music Society, Music Library Association and the North Carolina Music Teachers Association. He has served as organist for National and International Church conferences and has participated in music workshops and clinics and presented organ recitals throughout the nation. His publications include articles in "Church Musician" magazine and choral and organ compositions and arrangements.

Smith's recital will be the premiere recital on the new 44-rank Schantz pipe organ which was recently installed at St. Paul Church and dedicated Feb. 28.

Backwardly speaking

During one of the ritual scenes in Merrick International Films release, "Guess What Happened To Count Dracula," now playing at a Columbus Theater, Des Roberts, who plays Dracula, was chanting incantations. Because they didn't sound weird enough, Director-Laurence Merrick reversed the sound track to create the special effect he wanted.

The property master, a Rumanian, familiar with the language used in old Transylvania, informed Mr. Merrick that in reality the words meant, "Burn the Witches," in Transylvanian.

National Guard, Reserve units given awards

WASHINGTON (ANF) — Eleven Army National Guard and Reserve units have received Department of Defense (DOD) awards in recognition of their continuing efforts in support of community projects and domestic actions.

It was the first time such awards have been given.

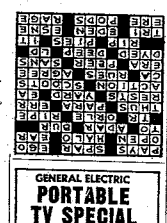
A plaque was presented to the outstanding unit of each component; certificates were given to other units whose activities were considered exceptionally noteworthy.

A special award was given to Maj. Gen. William J. Sutton, chief of Army Reserve, for his leadership in support of the DOD Domestic Action Program.

Receiving the top award among Army National Guard units was:

Utah National Guard — For establishing, organizing and managing the Utah Boys of 11 to 13 tain Basketball Programn a state-wide non-profit endeavor which has filled a void in physical fitness for Utah boys of 11 to 13 years of age. Juvenile delinquency has been significantly reduced in those communities where the program was conducted."

The top award among Army Reserve units went to personel of the 369th Station Hospital, Ft. Brooks, Puerto Rico — "For their efforts toward improving public health in an area of high unemployment and large numbers of poor; for their emergency action in response to a major flood and for support of a drug rehabilitation center operated solely from donations of goods and services."



Army National Guard units receiving citations were the Rhode Island ARNG; the 50th Armored Division Support Command, Newark, N. J.; the District of Columbia National Guard; and the West Virginia National Guard.

Army Reserve units receiving citations were the 405th Military Intelligence Detchment, Denver, Colo.; the 328th General Hospita, Ft. Douglas, Utah; the 939th Transportation Co., Philadelphia, Pa., jointly with the 851st Transportation Co., Pedricktown, N. J.; and the 489th Engineer Battalion, Hot Springs, Ark.

What's in a name?

VA checks 34 million

Whatever your name is, when you write the Veterans Administration, be sure to include your full name, address and claim number, if you have one. It will speed up VA's response to your inquiry.

And there's good reason for this advice from the VA because VA's master index file of 34 million names contains many duplicates.

If you're a racing fan try these—Christopher Runs Above, Clarence Everett Runs After and Gene Runs Close.

A "normal" name is spoken in about three seconds. If you have 10 seconds, the VA's computers flash this one—Samuel Kanion aleinaniok ana kukalahale Kupihea. And, if you want another challenge, try "Leniussznieusszszes Hurrizzisteizzii."

With Christmas bearing down on us in about seven months, you may want to get into the spirit of it as VA's file includes the "Clause Family" 980 times and the "Noel Family" 2,300 times. Also in this massive index are such names as Choice Christmas, G.I. Christmas, Nick Christmas and Saint Christmas.

Still the most popular of all names is Smith—315,400 of them. Johnson appears 215,440 times; Williams 159,160; Jones 150,320 and Brown 149,000.

And, there are many other notable names in the file system. There are 1,860 named Robert E. Lee; 47 named Ulysses S. Grant, and 500 named George Washington.

Which all goes to prove that the VA, like most other Federal agencies, needs as much identifying information as possible to help speed the answers to inquiries.

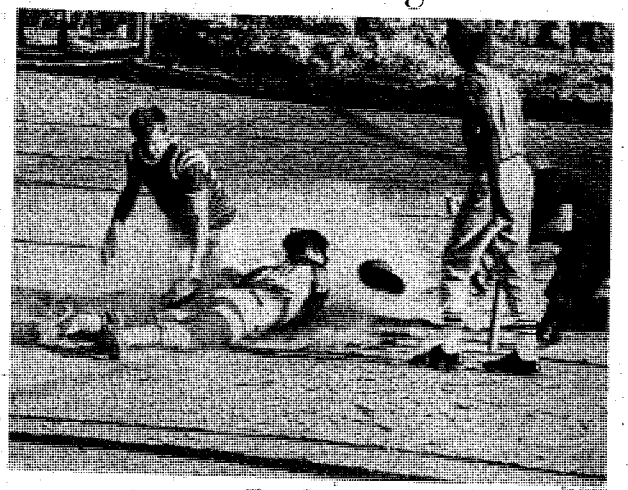
Infantrymen capture 3 of first 4 softball games

The 197th Inf. Bde. took three of four games in the first week of brigade-level fast-pitch softball competition. Highlighting the four-game series was a no-hitter by Sterling "Chief" Whitehorse.

The 197th opened its season May 4, with a double-header victory; 8-2 and 11-0, over a scrappy but outclassed Medical Department Activities (MEDDAC) team.



MEDDAC jumped to a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning of the twinbill. Starting pitcher Gordon "Nick" Nixon, a fireballing lefthander, could not put it together as MEDDAC socked him for two quick runs on two walks and two hits.

With two outs in the top of the first, "Nick" was replaced by Theodore "Lefty" Furnish, who quelled the short MEDDAC explosion.

The 197th rallied for three runs in the bottom of the third. With one out, Furnish walked. First-baseman Gerald Freyberger, on his way to a seven-for-ten night, doubled to deep right center moving "Lefty" to third. Larry Ardito swatted a hot grounder to the third-base side and the ball was bobbled. Furnish, attempting to score, got caught in a rundown; but, the nimble - footed pitcher scooted safely back to third.

MEDDAC's third-sacker threw wildly to first in a belated attempt to throw out the hustling Ardito, allowing "Lefty" to race home with the 197th's first run of the young softball season. Freyberger moved to third on the play. Clean-up batter Leonard Gibson punched a single through the middle pushing across two more runs.

In the second game of the twinbill, MEDDAC encountered a super "Chief." Whitehorse, called the "Chief" by his teammates, pitched a spectacular game, allowing no hits while striking out eleven.

Close, but...

197th Player Gerald Freyberger Upends The MEDDAC Catcher In a Thwarted Theft Of Home Plate.

Throwing a variety of pitches, Whitehorse, constantly fooled the MEDDAC hitters. A steady stream of batters flowed from home back to the bench.

The 197th struck early scoring three runs in the first inning, adding another in the second. Four runs crossed the plate in the third inning.

Leading off the fourth, clean-up hitter Gibson slammed an inside-the-park homerun. His teammates added three more to make the final tally 11-0.

The fleet-footed Brigade ran into trouble May 5. Playing against a determined team from the 931st Engineer Group, the "Big Red Bullet" split the two-game series, losing the first game 5-2, while taking the second, 12-9.

After four scoreless innings, the 931st took a 1-0 lead in the fifth. With one out, third baseman Thurman Ford tripled. An error at the hot corner by Macon Beamon brought Ford home with the first run of the game.

Leading off the fifth inning, Freyberger slugged an inside-the-park homer. Two walks, an infield hit, and one out later, the 197th threatened with the bases loaded. Whitehorse, batting for starting catcher Charles Humphries, drew a run-scoring walk; but, that was all as John Farrington struck out David "Bad Man" Brown to end the inning.

The 931st added another in the sixth inning and took command with a two-run outburst in the top of the seventh. With the bases loaded and two outs, first-sacker Dennis Moore lofted a high fly ball to left-center. Left-fielder Oscar Corn and Center-fielder Gibson, in their anxiety to end the inning, collided. Two runs crossed the plate as the ball bounced free of Corn's glove.

In the most exciting game of the series, the 197th pulled out a squeaker, 12-9. The "Chief" got the call again. His teammates responded with seven big ones in the top of the first. Pitching a hitless game through the second inning, he appeared to be on his way to a repeat performance.

Lightning struck in the 3rd. The 931st struck for five big runs—the big blow coming on an Oscar Delapaz grand-slam homerun. Fireman Furnish replaced Whitehorse and cooled off the side.

The determined Engineers added two in the fourth inning to tie the game at seven. With the score knotted, the battling 197th got another run in the fifth as Tom Sumner doubled scoring Gibson from first base.

Battling back, the Engineers took the lead in the fifth inning as Steven Dostal and David Wilson touched home. Playing heads-up ball, the "big Red Bullet" grabbed the lead in the sixth.

Brown singled to open the inning. Two sacrifices later and he was at third. Ardito delivered with an infield single to drive Brown home.

Tied at nine, the 197th erupted in the top of the seventh. Three runs came across on no hits. Corn and Gibson were hit by wildpitches and advanced to first and second base. Corn stole third base with Gibson going to second on the throw.

Slick-fielding shortstop, Sumner, popped a hard grounder to his contemporary. A costly error allowed Corn and Gibson to cross the plate with the tie-breaking runs. Another rup hit the plate as Sumner scored from third on a wild pitch allowing Furnish to nail down the victory for the 197th.

100 golfers to tee off in 18th annual tourney

Nearly one hundred golfers are competing in the 18th Annual Spring Men's Golf Championship which began Monday at the Fort Benning Country Club Golf Course.

Each player has been placed in one of six flights. Flights have been prepared so that players in each flight have a similar handicap.

Winners of each match will be determined by match play. Each player will be required to complete one match a week until eliminated.

First round play must be completed by Sunday, when winners of that round will be paired off for second round matches must be finished by May 30 and the flight final matches will be June 6.

The winners of each flight will draw to determine their opponents in the flight play-offs. After match play has eliminated all but two of the flight winners, there will be a 36-hole match to determine the club handicap champion.

New team handball gets 3rd Army kickoff in May

By Bill Kloeb

The United States Army Infantry Center Team Handball Program will begin May 20 and be completed in October.

The first part of the program will be a brigade level league played at Fort Benning recreational sites. During this phase, outstanding players will be selected to play on the post team which will compete in the 3rd U. S. Army Handball Championships.

Team handball is a fast growing internationally organized international sport. In 1936 the game was accepted as one of the Olympic competition events.

It may be played indoors or outdoors on a playing area approximately the size of a basketball court. The game is played very much like baseball except that the goals are similar to those used in ice hockey.

The objective of the game is to maneuver an inflated leather ball approximately five inches in diameter into the goal defended by the opposing team. The ball may be moved by throwing, hitting kicking, butting or passing it from one player to another. One point is scored each time a team penetrates the goal of the opposition.

The Brigade League will be made up of six teams. Each team may have twelve playing members and one non-playing coach. The six teams making up the league are: The 197th Infantry Brigade, The School Brigade, 931st Engineer Group, Center Aviation Command, Medical Department Activity and Headquarters Command.

Games will be played each Monday and Thursday on Presidential Field, Kelly Hill; Bennet Field, South Harmony Church and Doughboy Stadium, Main Post. In the event of inclement weather the games will be played in Harmony Church Field House.

The 3rd Army League Championship starting Aug. 6 will be a home and away-from - home series of league games between posts located in the Army area ending with an elimination tournament held here during the perind Oct. 15 through 17.

The 3rd Army League has been divided into an Eastern and Western Division. Fort Benning along with Fort Rucker, Ala., Fort McPherson, Ga., Fort McClellan, Ala., Fort Campbell, Ky., and Redstone Arsenal, Ala., will play in the Western League.

Fort Jackson, S. C., Fort Gordon, Ga., Fort Bragg, N. C., Fort Stewart, Ga., Hunter Army Airfield, Ala., Atlanta Army Depot and Homestead Air Force Base, Ala., will play in the Eastern Division.

Each team will play two games at home and two games away from home with all other teams in their division.

Upon completion of league play the two top teams of each division will play in a double elimination tournament here to determine the 3rd Army Champions.

Qualifying deadline nears for 'Ike' tourney

Fort Benning golfers have six more days to qualify for the Tribute to Ike Golf Tournament to be held at the Fort Benning County Club May 20.

The golf tournament will be the closing event of a post fund drive to help finance the operation and expansion of two institutions whose endeavors were dear to the heart of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Men or women who contribute $10 or more will receive a color portrait of the late president and a plastic golf bag tag with a drawing of Ike the golfer. Possession and display of the bag tag is the only qualification for entry in the tournament.

Donations to the fund drive are being accepted at the Country Club Pro Shop and the pro shop at the Sand Hill Golf Course.

A golfer does not have to be a member of either post golf course to be eligible to play. All active and retired military personnel and their dependents, Department of Defense civilians and civilians working at Department of Defense activities on post may qualify to enter the tournament.

The commanding general has authorized military participants to be excused from duty and students to be excused from Infantry School classes. Supervisors have been encouraged to grant leave to civilian personnel who want to play.

The tournament will be a dog-fight competition with a shotgun start at 10 a.m. Details on the tournament may be obtained at the County Club Pro Shop. Prizes will be presented to tournament winners during a free social hour to be held in the Country Club Ballroom upon completion of play.

The Fort Benning fund drive is part of a national drive sponsored by the U. S. Golf Association and the Professional Golfers Association to provide financing for Eisenhower College at Seneca Falls, N. Y. and the Eisenhower Medical Center, Palm Center, Calif.

The late president, affectionately known to the world as "Ike," left many enduring gifts to his fellow-man, in many fields, including golf. His residence at the Little White House at Augusta, Ga., and his personal interest in the Masters Tournament played there each year gave the game public interest shared by few sports.

Probably one of the best VOLAR benefits, many soldiers feel, are the soda drink dispensers which have been installed in post mess halls. Sp5 Robert B. Thomasgard, a legal clerk with Hqs., 931st Engr. Gp., demonstrates his method of filling up several glasses at the dispenser.

Track Vehicle Class 501 graduates

Sp4 Wayne A. Brown, Sioux City, Iowa, was the distinguished honor graduate and Sp4 Eddie R. Byard was the distinguished academic graduate of the Track Vehicle Mechanic Course Class 501-71 which graduated in ceremonies May 6 at Infantry Hall.

The 41 students had been assigned to the 15th Co., 1st Bn., TSB.

CW2 James R. Thompson, Command Maintenance Department, was the guest speaker at the graduation.

The seven-week mechanics course provides personnel with a working knowledge to perform organizational maintenance and recovery of tracked vehicles.

Included in the course of instruction are engine principles, valve adjustments, cooling and lubricating systems, carburation and fuel injection.

ROD AND GUN CLUB Notes

By Bill Kloeb

Fishermen who are new to Fort Benning have a lot of trouble determining where to fish on the post. There are more than 20 named ponds located on the post map, and at least that many more that are not shown at all because of size or because they are located in little known areas of the reservation.

Fishing at all of the ponds shown on the map is good because of stocking and maintenance done by the post Fish and Game unit. All areas of a pond are not likely to produce fish. It takes some time even in the smaller ponds to locate the areas that the fish prefer.

Close Ponds Are Popular

The most popular ponds are the ones located close in to the main post or housing areas. These are all good fish producers because they receive a big share of the fish that are stocked each year. They also come in for some special care in the way of weed control and fertilization. Another reason for the popularity is that they are equipped for family use with latrine and picnic tables.

King's, Victory, Weems and Twilight Ponds are four of the more popular ponds. King's Pond is the largest on the reservation. It has been well stocked with catfish, bass, bream and shellcracker. Its located just a few hundred yards off Hourglass Road and can be reached in just about any kind of weather. It was last drained for a thorough cleaning about ten years ago and now contains some really large fish of all species. A good percentage of the winning catches in the Rod and Gun Club Monthly Fishing Derby come from this pond.

Weem's pond is one of the larger ponds on the reservation. It's located along the Johnston Road so it's no problem to drive right up to the banks. Weem's has also produced some lunker, bass, some as heavy as nine pounds.

Victory and Twilight Ponds are catfish ponds. Victory Pond is located along Eighth Division Road and Twilight is just off the First Division Road. Both ponds have been stocked extensively and both ponds have produced some really big catfish. The largest to date came from Victory. It tipped the scales at more than 18 pounds. There are larger ones than that in the pond. About two years ago the Wildlife Unit put more than twenty flathead catfish in the pond to help reduce the number of bullhead catfish. Each of these fish weighed more than 25 pounds.

Twilight Pond is only about one year old but heavy stocking has made it a popular place. The first day it was open fishermen took home hundreds of pounds of catfish. All of the fish put into this pond were not small. Some nine-and ten-pounders have been taken here.

The only trouble with these ponds is that their popularity makes them pretty crowded on weekends. Some fishermen demand some privacy and a feeling of being close to nature. There are quite a few spots on the reservation that will fill this requirement and produce fish in the bargain.

Beaver Ponds For Seclusion

The Box Springs Beaver Pond is one of these places. It's out of the way enough to discourage most fishermen, but is worth the trouble it takes to get there. The pond was formed by a colony of beavers who had some reason to dam up one of the small streams feeding into Upatoi Creek. It's only a few acres of water but there are plenty of bass, bream and pickerel. The beavers are still there and plenty of snakes too.

To get to the pond from the Main Post, take First Division Road to Eighth Division Road, Eight Division to Hourglass Road and Hourglass to Buena Vista Road. Turn right on the Buena Vista Road and go to Box Springs Road. Go on the Box Springs Road until you reach the pond. It will take at least thirty minutes of travel on the Box Springs Road. It's an all dirt road so it will probably seem a lot longer than that.

The last mile is probably the roughest, and you will think the road is going to run out at any time. Don't give up. You can drive up to about 30 yards from the pond.

The best fishing has been found along the dam. As you move along the dam you will come to some old railroad ties partially submerged. There is a particulary deep spot here. There are some big bass in this hole. In the past they have shown a definite preference for large minnows.

ROTC rifle, drill winners named

Cristobal High School ROTC Cadets and their pretty sponsor make last minute preparations before drill competition at the AUSA Rifle and Drill Competition. Cristobal placed first in the competition with a total score of 574.

Robert E. Lee High School, Thomaston, Ga., and Cristobal High School, Canal Zone, won top honors in the 4th Annual Association of the United States Army Rifle and Drill Team competition Saturday at Fort Benning.

In the rifle team competition Robert E. Lee High finished first with Baker High, Columbus, and Hardaway High, Columbus, finishing second and third respectively.

The individual winner in the rifle competition was Robert Walsh of Baker High School. The remaining top five awards went to David Culverhouse, Robert E. Lee High; Robert Aultman, Baker High; Ralph Ghent, Hardaway High, and John Slater, Groves High, Groves, Ala.

In drill competition, Cristobal High won the meet by a 10 point margin. The second and third teams, the Blue Knights, Enterprise Ala., and the Golden Boots, Central High, Macon Ga., came within one point of trading places. The Blue Knights finished with a score of 564 and the Golden Boots 563.

James Chipman, Central High, won first place in the individual drill category. The remaining honors went to Michael Anderson, Savannah High, Savannah, Ga.; William Muecke, Central High; George Pate, Plant High, Tampa, Fla., and Curtis Edwards, Enterprise, Ala.

Representing 30 high schools from five states in the 3rd Army area and one from the Panama Canal Zone, 650 cadets participated. This made the invitational meet, in which 29 rifle and 31 drill teams competed, the largest AUSA Rifle and Drill meet held.

Cadets arrived Friday morning and were officially welcomed by post commander Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott. The remainder of the day the cadets were free to observe training at the Infantry School or prepare for the meet.

Following the meet an awards ceremony was held in Marshall Auditorium. There AUSA chapter president, Joe J. Flowers Jr., and Gen. Talbott presented the awards.

America's best-selling imported sports car line. And why.

MGB
It brings back the fun of driving.

MGB/GT
As practical as it is beautiful.

MG MIDGET
Lowest-priced of the true sports cars.

Here's the sports car line that has become No. 1 by offering precision engineering instead of frills. And impressive performance instead of impressive price tags. Why be pedestrian when it comes to driving? Pick an MG and pick yourself a winner.

It's little on the outside. Not on the inside.

On the outside the Austin America is 146 inches small. Which makes it about a foot shorter than a Volkswagen. Yet it's bigger on the inside than some big expensive cars. So you can stretch out while you get little parking spaces that even other little cars have to pass up. But don't just take our word for it. Come in and stretch out for yourself. Austin America. Orienteering meet to draw widely varied sport buffs

By Bill Kloeb

Soldiers, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, housewives and a beauty queen will compete at Kelly Hill tomorrow to determine the Fort Benning championships in four categories of orienteering competition.

The soldiers and scouts will come from Fort Benning and the surrounding area; the housewives are primarily wives of men who have been bitten by the orienteering bug. The beauty queen is Debby Snelling, Miss Columbus for 1971.

The championships—the first held here—have gained national interest. Elston F. Larson, general manager of the American Orienteering Service, La Porte, Ind. will be on hand to present trophies to winning competitors.

Orienteering is a sport in which participants use land navigation techniques to move from the starting point of a course to a series of accurately located check-point positions located in an area containing varied terrain. Competitors are graded on the speed and accuracy in which the course is completed.

The sport of orienteering began with a small group in Sweden. Interest in the sport increased within the country, then spread throughout Europe and finally to this continent. The sport has been accepted as an Olympic individual and team competition and world championships are held in non-Olympic years.

All individuals interested in orienteering are invited to compete in the Fort Benning Championships. An individual need not be a member of an orienteering club to qualify. Entries will be accepted until noon tomorrow.

The 197th Brigade Picnic Area, located at the junction of First Division and Ivey Roads will be the starting point for the meet. The competition will begin with an orienteering clinic at 1 p.m. and will end with an awards ceremony to be held after all competitors have returned to the starting point.

Army gives fellowships to 55 ROTC graduates

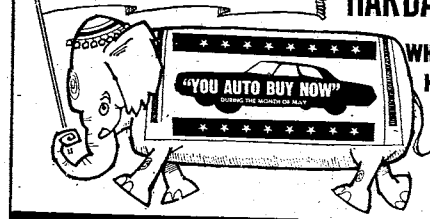
Each fellowship is valued from $20,000 to $25,000.

Since the fellowships are intended to provide the Army with managers in an increasing number of specialized activities, they are awarded to ROTC graduates who are accepted for Regular Army commissions and plan to make the Army a career.



Fellowship winners may pursue graduate studies for a master's degree in a field for which the Army has a requirement.

The cadets, graduating this year or early next year, will be commissioned as second lieutenants upon graduation.

Those selected for the fellowship may attend graduate school immediately after coming on active duty following their graduation, or defer their studies until they have completed one to five years of troop duty.

In lieu of regular summer camp

240 cadets to take Ranger training

By Wendell Cochran

A different kind of Ranger class will take to the fields beginning June 11.

The 240 students will be Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets attending ROTC Ranger Camp, a substitute for the regular ROTC summer camp.

Cadets who complete six weeks will be given credit for summer camp attendance and those who successfully complete the nine-week course will be awarded the Ranger tab.

Col. John P. Geraci, Ranger Department director, said the camp is "keeping in line with Gen. Westmoreland's VOLAR principle of realistic and challenging training."

The Ranger course will be modified for the cadets, to add four days of training that is taught at summer camp but is not given in the regular Ranger Instruction. Included are two days of weapons training.

No other changes are contemplated, Col. Geraci said. "The award of the Ranger tab will be consistent with long-established Ranger standards," the colonel added. "Those that receive the award are Rangers in every sense of the word."

The Ranger camp option was offered to cadets on a volunteer basis earlier this year. More than 1,200 volunteered for the option.

Enrollment in the class was limited to only 240 students selected by Continental Army Command from among the volunteers.

Some selection of volunteers took place at each ROTC detachment, according to this CONARC guideline: "Cadets potential for successfully completing the Ranger course must be carefully evaluated and only those most likely to complete the course permitted to attend."

Quotas for students were established by CONARC for each Army area. First Army will have the largest delegation with 86 students. Other quotas are 3rd Army 39, 4th Army 80, 6th Army 32, U. S. Army Hawaii 2.

Col. Geraci believes the stringent selection process will insure a high quality Ranger class. "I do not expect as much attrition as normal because I expect these students to be highly motivated and well-qualified," he said.

Col. Geraci and Lt. Col. Karl V. Hurdle, who is Ranger Department project officer for the ROTC Ranger Camp, both said they believe Ranger training will be beneficial to the cadet no matter what branch he chooses.

"The Ranger course will instill in the cadet leadership qualities such as confidence and discipline that will allow him to be extremely successful in any other army or service of the Army and throughout his lifetime," Col. Geraci remarked.

"This is an excellent opportunity to exploit the leadership potential of the cadets," Hurdle added.

Students will report for the class June 11. The class will be officially opened by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, June 14, the 196th birthday of the Army.

Graduation for the course is set Aug. 12, with Gen. Ralph Haines, CONARC commander, as the speaker.

Some of the cadets also are expected to take Airborne training after they complete the Ranger course.

Gen. Talbott thanks soldiers

Saturday, 15 May, has been designated by Presidential Proclamation as Armed Forces Day. It is a day set aside to honor the men and women who serve their country as members of the Armed Services.

Seldom in 195 years of service has the Army been faced with the variety of challenges faced this past year. We have met head-on such contemporary problems as drug abuse, racial tensions, and demands for modernization which enhance service attractiveness and give real meaning to our goals of a Modern Volunteer Army.

I am particularly proud of the positive and efficient response of Fort Benning personnel to these challenges. I accept with very real gratitude the continuing support of our civilian employes and the citizens of Columbus and Phenix City.

As we observe Armed Forces Day 1971, we are reminded that Fort Benning is the "Home of the Infantry," where people are clearly the most important product. I welcome this opportunity to thank each officer, soldier, and civilian of this command for his contribution to the Army and the Nation.

BBB helps to protect consumers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of three articles dealing with agencies established to aid consumers.)

By Charles McEwen

As a consumer, where do you turn for help when you need it?

There are several agencies — on post and off — that can supply information before you buy or help afterwards if you feel you've been gypped.

One of these agencies is the Better Business Bureau.

The Better Business Bureau of Columbus (BBB) is located at 1310 Broadway in Suite 308 of the Martin Building. The bureau has a membership of more than 800 businesses in the Columbus area and is run by a board of 35 businessmen, who serve without pay, and a paid administrative staff.

Membership fees, paid by member companies according to their size and use of BBB services, provide operating funds for the bureau.

The work of the BBB is two-fold: it offers both information and protection for the consumer.

The bureau's informative function is perhaps its least publicized service, but the BBB stocks a number of information pamphlets, ranging from tips on buying lumber to warnings about "bait" advertising. The bureau also publishes an informative monthly bulletin.

In addition, the bureau has an extensive information file, and can supply factual information on local and national companies number is 327-2671.

In most cases, the bureau will furnish this sort of information: The address of the company, the names of its officers, whether it's licensed, how many years it's been in business, the services or products it offers, whether any complaints lodged against it and if so, how many complaints and their disposition.

The bureau handles anywhere from 80 to 100 questions a day and 50 to 70 complaints monthly, says Marsha Holland, customer relations director.

The bureau, Mrs. Holland emphasizes, "doesn't advise and doesn't recommend." What it does offer is factual information—the consumer must then decide for himself whether to deal with the company in question.

The second aspect of the bureau's operation is that of consumer protection.

If a customer feels that he has a legitimate complaint, he should first talk with a company official, Mrs. Holland recommends.

If the complaint isn't resolved, the customer can call the BBB. He then is asked to fill our a "customer experience record," giving the particulars of the complaint.

The company is then contacted by the BBB to give its side of the story. In most cases the firm usually cooperates and some adjustment is made, Mrs. Holland says.

In any case, the bureau makes a record of the complaint and its disposition — whether the complaint is adjusted by the company, unadjusted, not justifiable or controversial.

In other areas of consumer protection, the bureau monitors advertisements, looking for those which appear to be in violation of Federal Trade Commission regulations, and, when necessary, informs the media of such violations and any other fraudulent selling practices.

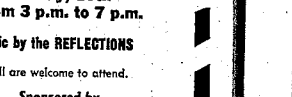
Engineer sees center project



Maj. Gen. Richard H. Free, division engineer, South Atlantic Division, Atlanta Ga., will end his visit today at Fort Benning.

Gen. Free, who arrived Thursday, spent the day inspecting construction sights and discussing the community center project.

Western bridge

The oldest covered birdge in the American West — the Bridgeport bridge over the South Yuba River in Nevada City, Calif. — has 108 years of continuous service. The structure, built in 1862 as part of a 14-mile tool road, is the longest single span wooden bridge in the country, extending 243 feet.

BUYING?
SELLING?
RELOCATING?
We can help you. As exclusive representative in this area for RECOA, we offer extra service at no extra cost. Homeowners list their "Free Sale" terms with us because we are in contact with more homeowners before they arrive here. This assures total exposure. Our staff always comes on because we have over a wide variety of listed. RECOA, Inc. is a professional organization of Realtors helping to relocate families nationally . . . no charge whatsoever for this extra service . statistics show that over 33 per cent of the families who move each year will relocate within their original home area. If you are moving to another city, we will furnish you with desirable information about homes in your new location. Buying, Selling or relocating, be sure to call 324-5161.

Gen. Carley up for second star

Brig. Gen. John T. Carley, assistant commandant of the U.S. Army Infantry School at Fort Benning, has been nominated by the President for promotion to major general.

Former assistant commandant Brig. Gen. Sidney B. Berry also was named for promotion on the same list, published by the Department of the Army earlier this week. Gen. Berry is currently serving as assistant division commander of the 101st Airborne Division.

Gen. Carley was nominated for his first star one year ago this month. At that time he was serving as director of Instruction for the Infantry School. He assumed duties as the 30th assistant commandant in June of last year.

Gen. Carley, a Richton, Miss., native, is a 1945 graduate of the Military Academy at West Point. He has attended the Command and General

Nature's whim?

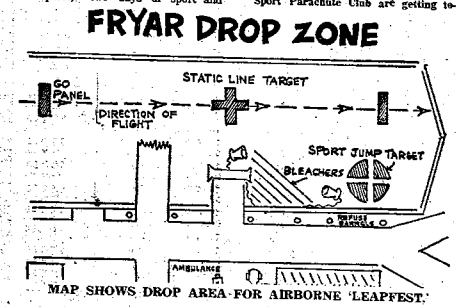
The Wright Brothers may have thought they conquered the air when they invented the airplane but Nature sometimes proves otherwise. During a thunderstorm May 12 at Lawson Airfield a 40 m.p.h. gust of wind flipped a T-41B observation plane on its back as it was being taxied to a hangar. SFC Bobby E. Moring, maintenance supervisor, Aviation Command, said that as he was taxiing the plane, "a gust picked up the tail. The airplane was nearly vertical when I managed to jump clear." Moring suffered a cut chin and several bruises but Lawson officials called the plane a total loss. Also damaged at the field during the storm were one CH-47 with a broken blade, another with a bent blade, and seven others with structural damage.

Airborne Department schedules two-day 'Leapfest'

By Martin McWilliams

Like to watch sky-diving? Precision team parachuting events?

Like picnics? Weekends out-of-doors with friendly people?



Then you'll enjoy Fort Benning's "Leapfest," two days of sport and military parachuting competition with emphasis on fun for spectators and participants alike.

The Infantry School's Airborne Department, the Fort Benning Chapter of the Airborne Association, and the Sport Parachute Club are getting together to fill the skies over Fryar Drop Zone with parachutes May 28 and 29. Everyone in the Columbus-Fort Benning area is invited to attend, free of charge.

Competition will be of two types: Military team events, and sport team and individual events.

Military team events will pit three-man teams from Fort Benning Airborne and airborne-related units against one another. Making static-line jumps, (meaning that the jumper's 'chute is automatically opened as he leaves the airplane), the three team members join up on the ground and get themselves and their equipment to the judges' stand in the shor-

Army's haircut policy grows slightly in new DA directive

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The Department of the Army has announced a new haircut policy.

Under the revised standards many hair styles are acceptable if the soldier's hair is kept in a neat manner and conforms to the following standards:

"The hair on top of the head will be neatly groomed. The length and-or bulk of the hair, will not be excessive or present a ragged, unkempt or extreme appearance. Hair will present a tapered appearance and, when combed, it will not fall over the ears or eyebrows or touch the collar except for the closely cut hair at the back of the neck. The so-called "block-cut" fullness in the back is permitted in moderate degree. In all cases, the bulk or length of hair will not interfere with the normal wear of all standard military headgear.

"If the individual desires to wear sideburns, they will be neatly trimmed. The base will be clean shaven horizontal line. Sideburns will not extend downward beyond the lowest part of the exterior ear opening.

"The face will be clean shaven except that mustaches are permitted. If a mustache is worn, it will be kept neatly trimmed and tidy. No portion extending beyond the corners of the mouth will fall below a line parallel with the bottom of the lower lip. Goatees and beards are not authorized.

"The wear of a wig or hairpiece by male personnel while in uniform or on duty is prohibited except to cover natural baldness or physical disfiguration caused by accident or medical procedure. When worn it will conform to the standard haircut criteria as stat-

848 Military Academy cadets to train here in June

Fort Benning will welcome 848 members of the U. S. Military Academy Class of 1972 June 9 for three days of orientations and training and of observing the environment of an infantry officer.

The visit to the U. S. Army Infantry Center and School will begin two weeks of training at four Army installations for the cadets. They also will visit Forts Knox, Sill, and Bliss.

The cadets will arrive June 9 at Lawson Army Airfield.

After a welcoming address June 10 by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, the cadets will be divided into four groups. Each group will, in rotation, complete the same activities.

Among the visitors will be three cadets from the Columbus-Fort Benning area. Robert Harlan Strong, Clarence Ladon Miller and Steve A. Hicks.

Strong is the son of Col. and Mrs. William C. Strong of 609 Lumpkin Road, Fort Benning. Col. Strong is deputy post dental surgeon. The cadet's brother, 2nd. Lt. William C. Strong Jr. is assigned to the 197th Infantry Brigade, and his sister-in-law 1st Lt. Quana Strong (Mrs. William C. Strong Jr.) is a nurse at Martin Army Hospital.

Miller is the son of MSgt. and Mrs. Leon McGee 4013 Rosemont Blvd., Columbus. Sgt. McGee is an ROTC instructor at Georgia Military Academy, Barnesville, Ga.

Hicks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen Hicks Jr., 246 Warm Springs Road, Columbus. His father is

Owens And Family Determine Bonus

Specialist $9,387 richer

A 93ist Engineer Group man is $9,387 richer after re-enlisting in the Army for six years.

He's Sp4 Thomas A. Owens, 20, a radio teletype operator with the 67th Maintenance Battalion. Owens, of Aransas Pass, Tex., was sworn in for another term by Lt. Col. Ellis O. Atkinson Jr., commanding officer of the 67th.

The radio teletype operator received the highest re-enlistment bonus possible for a soldier with less than three years in the Army.

Owens returned in February from a tour of duty with the 171st Infantry Brigade in Alaska.

He and his wife, Beverly, have two sons and a daughter.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
by Bill King

A spoonful or so of herb-seasoned packaged stuffing mix adds crunch and flavor when tossed on soup or Caesar salad.

Sprinkle some sugar on a London broil just before cooking. This gives an unusual, but not sweet, flavor to the meat and juices.

Scotch eggs, a British specialty, contain no Scotch but do go well as an hors d'oeuvre with cocktails. Coat hard-cooked eggs with sausage meat, and roll in flour, eggs and crumbs in that order. Chill, then fry in deep fat.

When reheating leftover rice, add one tablespoon of liquid (water, broth, wine or juice) for each cup. Simmer about ten minutes or until fluffy.

Despite a famous rumor to the contrary, once bananas have ripened, they should be kept in the refrigerator. But use them within a few days.

The big rumor out this way says

Consumer agency hears complaints

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of three articles dealing with agencies established to aid consumers.)

By Charles McEwen

The Georgia Consumer Services Program branch in Columbus is located at 813 Second Avenue in office space donated by the Social Service Bureau.

The state-wide program has been funded by a Federal grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The program has been administered by the state Comptroller General's Office, and planning is now under way for the program's third year when it will become an adjunct of the state Department of Family and Children's Services.

The Columbus office of the program is run by volunteers from the community who provide consumer information, pamphlets, advice and aid in solving problems or complaints. The local phone number is 324-HELP.

In addition to the local office, the consumer also may call the Atlanta office for help. The toll-free number is 800-282-8900.

Legal Assistance Division, Staff Judge Advocate's Office.

The post Legal Assistance Division is located in Building 2610 on Lumsky Street in the Religious Education area just off Dixie Road. The phone number there is 545-1311, 4893, 5441.

The legal assistance office offers a variety of consumer-oriented services including advice on contracts, warranties on automobiles, adjustments on credit accounts and answers to questions on buying or selling a home.

In the area of consumer affairs, the Legal Assistnce Division can act as a mediator for complaints, said Capt. Stephen A. Lenske, chief of the division. The office will offer all assistance it can just short of taking the case to court, he added.

In addition, the office coordinates visits by member-volunteers from the Columbus Lawyers' Club who come to Fort Benning for counseling sessions one afternoon a week.

The division also maintains a list of local attorneys to whom it can refer post personnel who are contemplating bringing suit in civilian courts.

Byline Bayonet

(Byline Bayonet welcomes questions of general interest about Fort Benning and the Army. Within space limitations all reasonable questions will be answered. Questions of a purely military nature which obviously could be answered more properly by commanders or supervisors within the chain of command will not be accepted. Questions must be signed with current unit of assignment indicated. Send questions to The Bayonet, Room 602, Infantry Hall, or telephone 545-2791.)

Q—May I fire my own rifle on the Fort Benning Military Reservation if I have it properly registered with the provost marshal?

A—The firing of any caliber rifle on the Fort Benning Military Reservation is authorized only under the following conditions:

a. On established rifle ranges after permission has been granted by the proper authority.

b. By military police and wildlife officials in conjunction with predatory animal control.

c. By military police and soldiers on post interior guard duty in the execution of their official duties.

Although hunting in certain areas of the reservation is authorized, hunting with a rifle is not authorized. Accordingly, individuals observed with a rifle in an area where hunting is authorized are presumed to be hunting and are subject to apprehension.

Q—I am scheduled for Vietnam duty in the near future, I understand that I can accrue over 60 days leave while on overseas duty. Is this true?

A—You may accumulate up to 60 days in your leave account. Any leave in excess of 60 days which remains in your account on June 30 of each year must be forfeited. Should you be sent overseas to a hostile fire area, you would be allowed to accrue up to 90 days, but you would have to use the extra 30 days PLUS the 30 days you earn during the Fiscal Year immediately following the year of your transfer from the hostile fire area or lose them since you cannot be paid for leave in excess of 60 days).

Q — If a proposal submitted to the Army Suggestions Program is adopted after the individual has been separated from active duty, will the cash award, if any, be forwarded to the individual?

A. — Yes, in the event an individual is discharged prior to receipt of an Army Suggestion Award the award will be forwarded to his new address.

The judge says

State laws for oral agreements vary

USAIC LEGAL ASSISTANCE OFFICE — At some time during his career, a married soldier probably will have to rent housing in a civilian community for himself and his dependents. The renting from a civilian landlord is a possible trouble spot if the soldier does not understand his rights and obligations under the tenancy agreement.

There are two types of tenancy agreements — written and unwritten. The written agreement rental agreement or lease, spells out the specific rights and obligations of the parties, both landlord and tenant. This type of agreement is generally advisable if your move is a semi-permanent one. This agrement is binding on both parties. If one breaches the agreement, he subjects himself to a possible suit for damages

The unwritten or oral agreement is equally binding by law; but, being oral, it is sometimes subject to misinterpretation by the parties. The laws governing rentals by oral agreement vary from state to state, but the general principles are the same in most states.

The most common tenancy under an oral agreement is from month to month. If you pay your rent once every month and do not have a written lease, you probably are renting under this type of tenancy. Generally, you must give your landlord 30 days notice of a pending move. The landlord, if he desires to terminate your tenancy, must also give you 30 days notice. However, Georgia law requires the landlord to give the tenant 60 days notice on a month to month tenancy.

Should you fail to give 30 days notice, you are liable for the rent for the 30-day period even though you may have ceased to live in the rented premises. However, a landlord under such circumstances has duty to mitigate damages; therefore, if the premises are rented during the 30-day period, you would be obligated to pay only for the period during which the premises were unoccupied.

It is most advisable to insist upon a waiver of the 30-day notice period if you are transferred by official orders or assigned housing on post.

Since a rental agreement, oral or written, creates many rights and obligations of which the tenant may be unaware, it is advised that an attorney or legal assitance officer be contacted before entering any such agreement.

TIME WAS WHEN THE POST BARBER DIDN'T HAVE TO BE AN AUTHORITY ON ARMY REGS!

Veterans Ask

Q—My father has a service-connected gastritis condition which, for several years, VA rated him at 60 per cent disabled. Since the condition prevents him from being employable, am I eligible for an educational allowance as a child of a disabled veteran?

A—No. The veteran must be rated by the VA as permanently and totally disabled. However, since you indicated that your father may be unemployable, he should submit proof of this fact and request his claim be reopened. If he should be rated 100 per cent disabled based on an individual unemployability because of his disability, you might then become eligible.

Some sage advice from old veterans

"I sure wish I had stayed in," is a typical reaction by the middle-aged man who hears that his son, his nephew or the "neighbor boy" is planning to leave his service career for one reason or another.

The old veteran usually follows up with, "Why, I'd be retired by now and could stop worrying." Of course his remarks will fall on deaf ears and that's too bad. His experience is important and, if heeded, could save those men and women of the armed forces, now considering discharge, from a serious career mistake.

The old vet, who got out after WWII, knows how fast 26 years can shoot by. He's probably still on the job and sweating out a pension plan. The young service member rarely cousiders the security end of it, especially if he or she is single.

The Institute of Life Insurance has reported that pensions are a very important consideration to Americans. 46.2 per cent are participating in some type of retirement plan other than Social Security.

If a worker has stayed on the job with the same company over the years he probably will be getting the money that was held out of his pay (back when he really needed it for all those incidentals like medical bills).

But what seemed like such a large amount each payday back then will seem a very small amount as the economy rises.

His problems may be compounded if he changed jobs more than once. For many, it will mean changing programs and loss of premiums.

The Institute of Life Insurance says that 39.9 million active workers — representing almost half of the nation's civilian labor force — are enrolled in some sort of pension plan. But how many will reap the benefits? How old must they be before they can draw on the payments and how long must they be employed?

"I sure wish I'd stayed in," dreams the old vet, thinking of the new horizons he'd still have before him today (and enough vigor left to pursue them) if he had finished his military career. But, as it is, he'll never have that chance. He has to continue on now in order to cash in on his investment.

But, his experience and advice is ignored. The old vet shakes his head and chuckles when he imagines the day when the young serviceman becomes the old vet without any horizons left to explore. (AFPS editorial).

Deduction coming up for Soldiers' Home

WASHINGTON (ANF) — Regular Army warrant officers and enlisted men and women will be paid as much as $1.20 less in June and it won't be a mistake.

Instead, it will represent the annual deduction from their pay for support of the U.S. Soldiers' Home.

Congress established the Soldiers' Home in 1851. Today its modern facilities in Washington D. C., house some 2,600 former members of the Army and Air Force.

Income to support the home comes from designated courts-martial fines and from a 10-cent monthly deduction from the pay of those who later will be eligible for admission, namely Regular Army and Air Force warrant officers and enlisted personnel.

The pay deducation is collected each June 30 or, in the interior, at the time of discharge or retirement of eligible personnel.

Eligibility criteria and additional details are discussed in AR 905-10. Visitors are welcome.

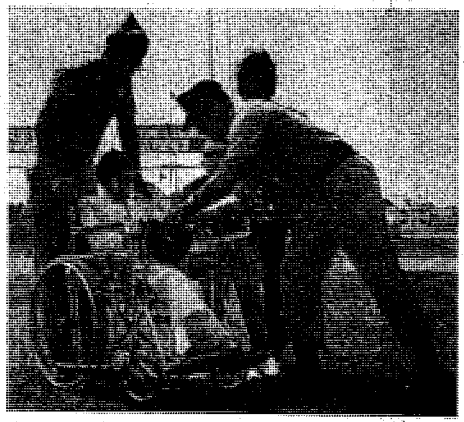
Nine handicapped youths to enjoy summer camp fun



The Infantry School's Airborne Department will be sending nine disadvantaged children to camp this summer.

The nine children are all either mentally retarded or physically handicapped. Normally, they would not have the opportunity to spend a vacation at a summer camp.

The Airborne Department has arranged for the children to be given that opportunity this year. With funds donated by the department's instructors and students, especially the students of class 37, the children will be able to attend the Georgia Easter Seal Society summer camp at Ft. Yargo, near Winder, Ga.

The children will attend the camp for about two weeks either in June or July. The camp is specially equipped and professionally staffed, to enable the children to participate in all the usual activities which make summer camp fun.

The Airborne Department invited the children to Fort Benning May 10 to attend an Airborne training demonstration and to meet some of the instructors and students who made it possible for them to attend the camp. After the demonstration, checks representing the funds donated were presented to the children.

Infantry Board testing remodeled canteen cup

In keeping with its motto "Only The Best For The Finest," the US Army Infantry Board is currently testing a commonplace but essential item used by the Infantry soldier.

The new one-quart canteen cup (experimental) is undergoing testing to detemine if it is superior to the current standard cup presently in use.

The new cup differs from the standard in that it has a modified, two-part handle, no rivets joining the handle to the body of the cup, and the absence of a rolled edge.

According to the test officer for the project, Capt. Harold Crowe of the Field Equipment Test Branch of the Board, the modifications in the experimental cup are designed to correct the shortcomings of the standard canteen cup. Not only is the cost of production for the new cup less than the older model, but the handle is quiter and it allows for a more rigid grip. The absence of rivets prevents surface contact with food while the absence of a rolled edge allows easier movement from the canteen cup cover.

At the present time, the test cup is undergoing testing by the 197th Infantry Brigade at the Florida and Mountain Ranger Camps. It has undergone preliminary testing in operational inspections and has been studied in connection with Airborne activities. The testing, which began April 7, will continue through July. If the experimental cup proves to be both durable and reliable, and if it is accepted by the troops, it is expected it will replace the older model.

Benning 'copters 'react' at D.C. demonstrations

Seven CH-47 'Chinook' helicopters from the 205th Aviation Co. of Fort Benning gave a "reaction readiness demonstration" to the anti-war demonstrators gathered for a week of protests in Washington, D. C., recently.

The 205th Co. committed the Chinooks and the operating crews to serve as backup transportation for troops to key points throughout the city if ground routes became blocked by the demonstrators. A number of the demonstrators saw the Chinooks close up as they flew low along specific airway corridors leading into the city.

The helicopters, partially manned by Vietnam veterans, flew two troop movement missions onto the Washington Monument grounds and another to the Old Soldier's Home. Several other single-aircraft missions were flown during the week carrying troops and supplies to different positions in the city.

Within a week, the demonstrations were quieted sufficiently to enable the 205th Avn. Co. helicopters to return to Fort Benning.

Ceremony planned at post cemetery

A Memorial Day ceremony will be held at the Post Cemetery May 31 starting at 10:30 a.m., followed by another ceremony at the flag pole in front of Infantry Hall at 11:45 a.m.

Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Reuben E. Jenkins of Columbus will be the guest speaker at the cemetery, and Col. Robert P. Hatcher, deputy post commander, will be the reviewing officer.

Participating in the ceremonies will be Co. C, 1st Bn., 28th Inf. 197th Inf. Bde., including the Color Guard and Infantry Center Colors; Btry. A, 2nd Bn., 10th Arty., 197th Inf. Bde, and the 282rd Army Band.

The cemetery ceremony will include the placing of decorations on all military graves, and a wreath on the grave of the Unknown Solder. Graveside services will also be held.

Heisman winner addresses classes

By Bill Kloeb

Maj. Peter M. Dawkins, U.S. Army Military Academy graduate, hRodes scholar and 1958 Heisman Football Trophy winner addressed a combined assembly of the Infantry School Advanced Classes in Marshall Auditorium May 18.

Dawkins spoke on problems confronting young commissioned officers in planning the Modern Volunteer Army. He was introduced by Col. Kendrick Barlow Jr., deputy assistant commandant of the Infantry School.

Dawkins, currently assigned to the staff of the special assistant for the Modern Volunteer Army in the Office of the Chief of Staff of the Army, gained national prominence as an athlete in 1958 when he was nominated to several All-American football teams and received the Heisman trophy as the outstanding football player in the nation.

The same year he became prominent in the scholastic world when it was announced that he would attend Oxford University, England as a Rhodes scholar. In three years he obtained a Bachelor of Arts and a Master of Arts degree at the University. He recently spent two years at Princeton University where he earned a Master of Public Affairs degree.

Since his graduation from The Military Academy he has served as a company commander and division staff officer with the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N. C. and at the Military Academy as an instructor. During a tour of duty in Vietnam he was senior advisor to the South Vietnamese 1st Airborne Bn., and later worked with the pacification program.

Dawkins has been awarded two Bronze Star Medals with "V" device, the Air Medal, Joint Service Medal and Army Commendation Medal. On three occasions he was awarded the Gallantry Cross with Palm by the Republic of Vietnam.

He has served for five years as a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Postgraduate Scholarship Committee, was recently elected cbairman of the Armed Services Committee of the association and is a member of the board of governors of the United Service Organization. He is also a director of the Association of American Rhodes Scholars and has been listed in two annual editions of Outstanding Young Men of America.

Re-up options offer stabilized assignments

The Army has implemented a new combat arms unit of choice reenlistment option that offers a soldier stabilized tours of up to 16 months in one of 14 selected units.

The option includes the 197th Infantry Brigade at Fort Benning.

Under the new option, a soldier or civilian who has been out of service less than 90 days, can reenlist for any one of seven units in the Continental United States and be guaranteed a stabilized tour in the unit for six months.

Units designated for the option include 197th Infantry Brigade, 1st Infantry Div., 4th Infantry Div., 82nd Airborne Div., 1st Armored, 1st Cavalry Div. (TRICAP), 2nd Armored Div., and 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment.

The option also applies to seven units in U. S. Army Europe. A soldier, or civilian out of service less than 90 days, can reenlist for any one of the units and be guaranteed a stabilized tour of 16 months.

The units include 3rd Armored Div., 4th Armored Div., 3rd Infantry Div., 8th Infantry Div., 2nd Armored Cavalry Regiment, 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment and 3rd Brigade, 1st Infantry Div.

For further information on the option contact your local recruiter or unit career counselor.

P.D. Tisdale promoted to colonel

Pinning the silver eagle on Col. Tisdale's blouse collar was Col. H. Haskell Zigerman, commanding officer of Medical Department Activities at Fort Benning. The insignia used was worn by Col. Tisdale's late father, Col. Henry E. Tisdale.

Attending the ceremony were Mrs. Tisdale and the couple's seven children.

Col. Tisdale graduated with a B.S. degree from the U. S. Military Academy in 1950, after attending LaSalle Military Academy in Oakdale, N. Y. He completed pre-med studies at George Washington University in Washington, D. C., in 1954, and received his M.D. degree from Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., in 1958.

Col. Tisdale, who served with the 1st Infantry Division in Vietnam during 1967 and 1968, was assigned to Fort Benning in June 1969 after attending the Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

His awards and decorations include the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star with three Oak Leaf Clusters and the Combat Medical Badge.

Ringle top graduate of radio course

Spt Michael A. Ringle, Argos, Ind., was the distinguished honor graduate and the distinguished academic graduate of the Field Radio Mechanics Course Class 11-71, 16th Co., 1st Bn., TSB. The class graduated April 29 in ceremonies at Marshall Auditorium, Infantry Hall.

Lt. Col. Jim I. Hunt, Leadership Committee chairman, was the guest speaker. He addressed 69 graduates.

The nine-week course is designed to provide students with a working knowledge of organizational maintenance for radios and other electrical equipment. These radio repairman are trained to determine the damage to field equipment and make the necessary repairs.

OWs help scouts, hospital through welfare fund

By Karolyn Emery

The welfare projects of the Fort Benning Officers' Wives Clubs are many and varied. Heading the list of projects is the annual scholastic achievement awards to dependents of OWC members. The awards total $3,450.00 this year.

Other welfare projects for the past year with amounts are as follows: Martin Army Hospital (including a projector for the OB-GYN Clinic, Red Cross Coffee fund and cookie fund, layette materials and toys for the Pediatric Ward), $806.65; ACS (including food locker, Hospitality House, Christmas dinners, and handicapped children), $700; YAC (including Christmas tree and games), $121; Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, $400; special medical equipment not covered by other aid for military families, $200; Douglas School, $200; POW-MIA, $100; Distaff, $600; Infantry Museum, $200; Soldiers, Sailors and Airmens Club, $100; and the Post Nursery Building, $500.

The chief sources of income to the welfare fund this year were the Christmas bazaar and profits from the Thrift Shop.

From the OWC's general fund, many benefits are given to OWC members: All Basic Course wives are given honorary memberships (non-paying) to the OWC. Fort Benning's allied officers wives also are given honorary memberships and this past year were guests of the OWC at all social functions.

During this year there were three complimentary social events for the members, including a tea in September, a wine and cheese tasting party and art show in January and a sherry hour at the installation of officers this month.

One of the main projects of the Hospitality Committee is a complimentary Christmas party for military dependent college students home for the holidays.

The OWC sponsors a ceramics studio, golf group, bowling group, school of music and art classes.

The OWC School of Dance is operated from September through May and is open to all military dependents as well as OWC members.

The OWC maintains, and this year's board renovated, a lounge which is available to all officers' wives for social functions. The lounge offers many items of silver for rent to members for a nominal fee. A supply room near the lounge houses decorations which may be signed out and used for unit or private parties by members.

Flowers decorate 3-71 luncheon

The ladies of the Infantry Officer Advanced Course (IOAC) Class 3-71, 7th Stu. Bn., TSB, had a luncheon May 11 at the Main Officers Open Mess Supper Club.

The theme was "Vanity Fair." The decorations were centered around a spring garden idea-spring flowers, trellises, archways and bird baths. Arts and crafts made by the ladies of the class were displayed in the garden.

Hq., 197th wives meet

The ladies of Hq., 197th Inf. Bde. were entertained at a coffee May 12 at the home of Mrs. Ronald L. Formulak, 110 Zuckerman Ave., Fort Benning. Mrs. Don Tapscott was co-hostess.

"Armed Forces Day" was the theme as patriotic colors of red, white and blue were displayed. A decorative cake baked as the U.S. Flag was used as the centerpiece.

Mrs. Lee Powers was welcomed to the group and farewells were said to Mrs. Richard McKee and Mrs. Don Tapscott.

Mrs. Lee Smith conducted the business meeting. She announced that there will be a coffee and a tour, June 16.

For women only

Local college offers self-defense instruction

A personal self-defense course for women only will be offered again at Columbus College today and tomorrow.

The five-hour course, meeting in two sessions, is open to all women 16 years of age and older.

A $5 registration fee covers the classroom session from 7:30 to 9:30 tonight in the Arnold Building on campus and the class from 9 a.m. to noon tomorrow at the Muscogee County Police Firing Range.

Classroom instruction will cover personal self-defense skills that dispel fears of helplessness in an attack. Prevention of attack and crimes in the home also will be taught.

For tomorrow's session, women will fire their personal hand guns under supervision of the college police science faculty. Ammunition and weapons must be furnished by the students.

Additional information can be obtained from the Office of Continuing Education at the college, 561-5134, extension 208. Registration may be completed in person at the Columbus College Business Office today.

ACCEPTS GAVEL
Mrs. Stoltz (L), Mrs. Gunderson

Mrs. Stoltz installed as president of OWC

The next executive board of the Fort Benning Officers Wives Club was installed May 12 in a brief ceremony on the patio adjoining the Supper Club.

The informal installation ceremony consisted of each outgoing board member introducing her successor and presenting her with a humorous gift. Outgoing president, Mrs. Raymond E. Gungerson, then presented the official gavel of the OWC to new president, Mrs. Richard B. Stoltz. Other officials installed were Mrs. Russell Miller, first vice president; Mrs. John L. Jones Jr., second vice president; Mrs. James Cochran, third vice president; Mrs. Jack Cummings, recording secretary; Mrs. Albert Malone, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Stephen Pawlik, treasurer; Mr. Richard Runke, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. Leon Livingston, custodian.

Chairman of the standing committees are being appointed by the president and will be announced as soon as most positions are filled.

Approximately 100 members attending the complimentary "Sherry Hour" enjoyed sherry from a "sherry fountain" or lemonade or iced tea from silver punch bowls. A large roundtable centered with a round bird cage and flowers offered fresh fruit to include melonballs from a variety of fruit baskets.

Large oval loaves of bread hollowed out to form baskets were filled with an assortment of finger sandwiches. Paper flowers and fresh greenery adorned white lattice work and a bird bath as well as the bannisters around the patio.

Hostesses for the day were outgoing board members with program chairman Mrs. Evan Parker and assistant program chairman Mrs. Lawrence Mowery responsible for arrangements.

CC receives funds for student grants

Columbus College has received more than $15,000 for Education Opportunity Grants (EOG) from the Federal Government, A. Clark Aldridge, director of financial aid and placement, has announced.

These funds are available under the Higher Education Act of 1965 and are allocated in two categories; $8,661 will go for first-year awards, while $6,600 will be given as renewal grants.

EOG are given to students with exceptional financial need to help them with college expenses. The grants vary between $200 and $1,000.

These awards must be matched in equal amounts by other financial aid provided by the college and can be no more than 50 per cent of the total amount of financial aid students receive.

This program is not limited to those students in the top academic ranks. Applicants must be enrolled or accepted for enrollment as full-time undergraduate students and show evidence of academic or creative promise.

Grants may be renewed from year to year for the first-year awards, while graduate study provided the student continues to make satisfactory academic progress.

All students who apply for financial assistance are first considered for eligibility for an EOG.

Relations monitors instructed

The officers attending were selected by each center and after the seminar returned to their respective training centers to monitor the current instruction.

The monitor will assist the existing instructional teams and train new instructors and monitors, as required, for effective instruction at their training center.

Each monitor also will serve as a special advisor to the local commander and members of the appropriate local advisory council on matters pertaining to Race Relations instruction.

Chapel women slate session

The Protestant Women of the Chapel of Sightseeing Road will hold their regularly scheduled meeting at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. The meeting will be at the Sightseeing Road Chapel with Capt. James O. Adelman speaking on Benning House. The ladies from Main Post Chapel and Hill Chapel PWOC's are invited to attend.

Ceramics unit to hold meet

A general membership meeting of the Post Benning Officers' Wives Club Ceramics Studio will be held at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Ceramics Studio.

The election of officers will be for 1971-72.

40 hear moving procedures

Mrs. Gary Huested and Mrs. Julius Arjail were the hostesses for the 2nd Bn., 10th Art., 197th Inf. Bde. ladies coffee, held at 7:30 p.m. May 11. The Corrigedor Room of the Main Officers Club was reserved for the 40 ladies.

A. W. Betha, chief of the Household Goods Shipping Department of the Fort Benning Transportation Office, spoke to the ladies. A brief sketch of the policies of the transportation office was given by Betha, and then answered questions. Betha gave the ladies pamphlets outlining necessary procedures for any move as stated by the Fort Benning Transportation Office.

Mrs. John Krisko welcomed Mrs. Willard Conklin, Mrs. Lyle Barringer, Mrs. Kenneth Owen and Mrs. Gerald Flannigan to the coffee, and all the ladies bid Mrs. D. W. Lusk farewell and luck.

Mrs. James Wurman conducted the business meeting. A monthly calendar was passed to each lady with events listed. The ladies were thanked for their support for the past months activities. Mrs. Wurman extended her personal thanks to Mrs. Lusk for being with us the past several months and presented her with an engraved charm as a rememberance of time spent with the 2nd Bn. 10th Art.

MEDDAC wives find Maypoles featured at installation event

The May luncheon of the Officers' Wives Club of the Medical Department Activity of Fort Benning was held May 14 at the Supper Club.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Thomas Wetsch, chairman; Mrs. Donald Beach; Mrs. Lawrence Deane; Mrs. Wayne Ellis; Mrs. Ronald Hicks; Mrs. Everett Jones; Mrs. Howard Mayfield; Mrs. John Smith and Mrs. Harvey Slowe.

The traditional Maypole was used to decorate the club. Small replicas of the floor-to-ceiling Maypole were in the center of each round table with paper flowers at the base. A floral arrangement of pastel daisies was on the head table. As a reminder of the installation service that was on the program, there was a paper-covered gavel at each table.

The retiring president, Mrs. Martin Anderson, welcomed the new members: Mrs. John Carter; Mrs. Elliott Coleman; Mrs. Julius Drew; Mrs. James Holland; Mrs. Donald Jarnigan; Mrs. Austin Johnson; Mrs. William Knight; and Mrs. Henry Peterson. A farewell was said to the departing members, Mrs. Roy Jolley and Mrs. Steven Welborn.

Mrs. Haskell Zierman and Mrs. Justin Zack, the honorary president and vice-president of the MEDDAC Officers Wives Club presented the installation service. Flowers were used as the theme for the service with a different one signifying each office.

The officers installed for the coming year are Mrs. Cesar Lopes, president; Mrs. Patrick Tisdale, vice president; Mrs. Ronald Hicks, treasurer; Mrs. Sherman Axinn, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Thomas Bullock, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Phillip Homans, recording secretary.

Mrs. Roy Browning, secretary to Col. Ziperman, the MEDDAC commander, was a special guest at the luncheon. Mrs. Harold Faldermeyer was present as a guest of Mrs. Michael Koprowski.

Facial hair removal one of CHAMPUS' benefits

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Electrolysis for the removal of massive overgrowths of facial hair on women is a CHAMPUS benefit if the treatment is medically indicated according to officials of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services.

Electrolysis for removal of minor growths of hair, as on the upper lip and beard area, is not authorized.

Claims for electrolysis must be supported by a physician's statement to include the diagnosis and evidence of a laboratory evaluation of the cause and evidence that the electrologist is qualified.

CHAMPUS officials said that persons who believe they may be entitled to compensation on previously submitted claims as the result of the foregoing clarification of policy may submit a request for readjustment of their claims by writing to the Fiscal Administrator of the state concerned.

Something slipping? Only off Raquel Welch's shoulder. Her career in the movies seems quite stable at the moment and probably will remain that way as long as Raquel remains this way.

Tickets available for musical

Tickets will be available for the one day musical special "Color My World" today, at Special Services facilities and any chapel at Fort Benning.

The musical, performed by the Christian Contemporary Singers, will present today's music and a few popular sounds from the past in a patriotic theme. Members of the group are high school and college-age men and women from Pano, Tex.

Complete with orchestra the company has toured the West and in 1970 appeared on the Ted Mack Amateur Hour.

The free performance is sponsored by Special Services and the Chaplain Section and will be held 8 p.m. June 2 at Theater Number 1.

Heart care unit handles 12 cases since opening

The new Coronary Care Unit at Martin Army Hospital has handled 12 cases through Wednesday of this week since its opening May 10, hospital officials say.

The new electronic monitoring system enables immediate action to be taken for treatment and prevention of heart failure and other cardiac disorders.

The monitor unit includes seven electric beds located in separate rooms. Each of the beds are equipped to electronically monitor pulse and electrocardiogram. In addition, venous and arterial blood pressures can be monitored.

All electrical impulses are then transferred to a central console where each patient's electrical record is displayed. Because of this centralized system only one nurse is needed to monitor seven patients.

The $19,970 electronic monitoring system replaces a less sophisticated unit. And nurses operating the console must undergo 72 hours of special training.

After the patient's critical condition period is over he is transferred to an adjacent intermediate coronary care unit. Here the patient generally remains for another three weeks.

During this time the patient receives rehabilitation training increases his physical ambulation. As a result of the training more than 90 per cent of heart attack patients can resume their previous occupation and physical level of activities, according to authorities.

8 African officers see School activities

A delegation of eight officers from Dahoney, the Ivory Coast, Niger and Upper Volta visited Fort Benning recently for a three-day orientation tour.

The tour included observing a scout dog and combatives demonstration and a rifle platoon in the assault. They also received Infantry Center and School activities briefings.

The visiting officers were Maj. Barthelmey Ohoume, deputy chief of staff of National Gendarmerie, Dahomey; Capt. Ibrahim Leman, commander, engineering company, Dahomey; Capt. Ghahoure Guiberro, commander of 4th Gendarmerie Legion, Ivory Coast; Capt. Konadio Konan Laurent M'Bahia commander, armored reconnaissance company, Ivory Coast; Capt. Karim Garba, commander, 3rd Rifle Company, Niger; Capt. Manadou Djerma, assistant commander of Preparatory School, Upper Volta; Capt. Bademble Nezien, commander of National Gendarmerie, Upper Volta; and Lt. Mahammed Sidi, commander, Gendarmerie Group, Niger.

Gutfreund honored graduate

Sp4 Jeffery S. Gutfreund, Bethlehem, Pa., was the distinguished honor graduate and Sp4 Charles Fazzi, Philadelphia, Pa., was distinguished academic graduate of the Track Vehicles Mechanics Course Class 29, 15th Co., 1st Bn., TSB.

CW2 Willie B. Wright of the Command Maintenance Department delivered the commencement address to the 28 graduates.

The seven-week mechanics course provides personnel with a working knowledge to perform organizational maintenance and recovery of tracked vehicles.

Included in the course of instruction are engine principles, valve adjustments, cooling and lubricating systems, carburation and fuel injection.

Gutfreund and Fazzi are in the National Guard and they will report to their hometown units for assignment.

VOLAR eliminates 'hurry up and wait' while in-processing

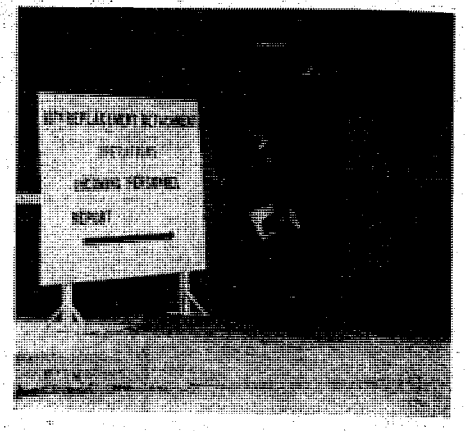
Backed with a stack of orders and records given to me by my former unit in Vietnam, I reported for assignment to Fort Benning not a minute before the NLT (no later than) time stated on my orders.

I had survived a permanent change of station just a year before and I was dreading, the long ordeal of lines and "make work" details that I had known as a "transient."

But for the first time in my brief military career, in-processing to a new PCS assignment was a pleasure — not a pain, because the people at Fort Benning have a new way of doing things.

It's faster — no more hurry up and wait. It's VOLAR in action.

Designed to test new procedures which will make Army life more appealing Fort Benning has eliminated the aggravating delays and the mile-long-lines normally expected by junior enlisted men reporting to a new assignment. The 18th and 23rd Replacement Detachments, 93ist Engr. Gp., have done away with the bassle of being new.



On the day I reported to Fort Benning I was headed for my new unit in less than three hours after I signed in for processing. Some men processed even faster than I did, getting through all 10 phases of processing in about two hours. Under the worst conditions one can expect to be completely processed in less than six hours.

The average, however, is no more than three. Not bad when it involves no less than signing in, a "welcome-to-Benning briefing," a personal assignment interview, a family housing interview, a review of finance records, completion of travel vouchers, partial pay (if needed), an updating of permanent personnel records and finally an interview with representatives of the major commands at Benning.

Here's how it's done:

It took me five minutes to sign into the 18th Rep. Det., check my baggage in a baggage room, and walk to a formation being held outside. After a roll call and a police call (I picked up two cigaret butts and a ticket stub to a local drive-in movie) I received preliminary instructions and was on my way to Station One in 20 minutes.

IT BEGINS HERE
Sp4 Charles Bigley Begins The VOLAR Half-day Inprocessing Program

At Station One I was officially welcomed to Fort Benning and briefed on what was about to happen beyond the other doors of the processing station. Fifteen minutes. Beautiful so far. I couldn't believe it.

Just beyond the door of the briefing room is Station Two, where the assignment interview staff looked at my records and made a phone call to the post Adjacent General section where clerks decide assignments according to MOS and unit needs. No waiting there, so I was headed for the Family Housing interview specialist in five minutes.

I completed the housing forms without delay and in 10 minutes I was on my way to Station Three, the finance section. It was now 8:25 a.m., just 55 minutes after I arrived to sign in. Right on, VOLAR.

At Station Three I had to wait for the first time since I began processing, but to my surprise I waited sitting down — not standing and staring at the back of the guy in front of me. When five minutes had elapsed, a finance clerk helped me fill out the necessary travel vouchers and in another five minutes I found myself face-to-face with finance clerk Sp4 Leonard Mazza, one of the most courteous men I've ever met on the other side of a processing counter.

Mazza audited my records and directed me to Station Five (bypassing Station Four, the partial pay cage). Station Five was the longest delay I experienced all day, and I guess it was expected because Station Five is a waiting lounge equipped with comfortable chairs, a cola machine and a color television. The time was 9:10. I watched the last 20 minutes of a local news program and the start of an old movie before someone brought a fresh set of orders assigning me to a new unit.

At 9:40 a.m. I was in the personnel section where my permanent records were being brought up to date by a very pretty civilian who made the 15 minutes I spent there seem like the briefest interview of the day. By a few minutes after 10 I was signed out of the replacement detachment and on my way to see the liaison NCO of my new unit. He was playing cards (I guess it was a slow day) and I told him I'd be glad to wait until he finished the hand, which he did. After a slight delay, for which he apologized, he briefed me about the unit that would soon be my "home."

Before 10:30 I was on my way, map in hand, and a smile on my face. I thought it was a miracle that I had completed the entire processing course in less than three hours, and since I don't believe in miracles of this sort I knew there was a logical explanation. There is a reason — the Modern Volunteer Army (VOLAR) changes being tested at Fort Benning.

It was a pleasant surprise indeed to see VOLAR in action, but it was even more pleasant a surprise when I learned how things used to be BEFORE VOLAR. A good friend spent eight days at the replacement detachment before being sent to his unit. I spent three hours. Right on, VOLAR, right on.

Wayne, Dern to star in cattle-drive picture

HOLLYWOOD — The most sought after heavy role of the year has been filled with the signing of Bruce Dern for "The Cowboys," Sanford Productions western starring John Wayne and being produced and directed by Mark Rydell for Warner Bros.

Written for the screen by Irving Ravetch and Harriet Frank Jr. from a novel by William Dale Jennings, the classic western tells the highly-sensitive story of a gigantic and unusual cattle drive trail-bossed across the western plains by Wayne in the 1870's.

A big-budget Panavision and Technicolor motion picture, "The Cowboys" will film for three months in Santa Fe, N. M.

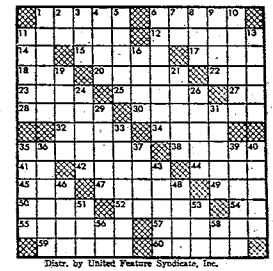
Desert 'hardy' location for 'Lawrence'

Producer Sam Spiegel's expedition to Jordan for the filming of "Lawrence of Arabia," Academy Award winner is the best picture of 1962, probably was the costliest and certainly the handiest motion picture location project ever undertaken. The Sam Spiegel-David Lean production, a Columbia release, opens today at a Columbus theater.

A Horizon picture, "Lawrence of Arabia" was produced by Sam Spiegel and directed by David Lean, their first motion picture collaboration since their Academy Award-winning "The Bridge on the River Kwai," which also won international audience acclaim.

"Lawrence of Arabia" has won the following Academy Awards: Best picture of the year, best direction (David Lean), best color art direction (John Box and John Stoll), best music (Maurice Jarre), best color cinematography (F. A. Young, B.S.C.), best editing (Anne V. Coates), and best sound (John Cox).

"Lawrence of Arabia" also received more Golden Globe Awards from the Hollywood Foreign Correspondents than any other picture; it was the Screen Producers Guild choice for "best produced" picture, and the Directors Guild of America choice for "best-directed."



From the time shooting began on May 15, 1961, there was a daily payroll of at least 404 regular personnel, largest permanent shooting unit ever gathered, augmented by as many as 15,000 members of Jordan's Desert Patrol for battle scenes. Not to mention 5,000 camels.

Many of the cast and crew suffered incredible hardships, working in temperatures up to 120 in the shade at long-abandoned sites like Jebel Tubeiq in southeast Jordan, where not a drop of rain had fallen in four years. Two hundred fifty miles from the nearest city, and 150 miles from the closest water source. Jebel Tubeiq is reached only by a bone-jarring ride in a four-wheel drive vehicle, across country without even a camel track, much less a road. Four thousand gallons of water, taken from 2,000-year-old Roman wells, had to be trucked to the Tubeiq tent city location site daily, along with food and all supplies.

Other location sites, including El Quweira, El Jafre, Wadi Rumm, were less remote but no less barren than Jebel Tubeiq. Base camp for the unit was at Aqaba in the south, on the corner of four countries — Jordan, Israel, Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Kubrick to direct, pen film

HOLLYWOOD — International filmmaker Stanley Kubrick will write, produce and direct "Traumnovelle" for Warner Bros. release, it is announced by John Calley, executive vice president in charge of production for the studio.

This will be Kubrick's second production for Warner Bros. He has recently completed filming in London of "A Clockwork Orange," his first motion picture since his highly acclaimed success "2001 — A Space Odyssey."

Based on the classic novel by Arthur Schnitzler, "Traumnovelle" is a psychologically dramatic story of a doctor and his wife whose love is threatened by the revelation of their dreams.

Filming is scheduled for the late fall.

'Wild Country' star gets movie role the mean way

Even though Steve Forrest had already starred in Walt Disney Productions' "Rascal," as a father with a bad case of wanderlust, he was rediscovered by the studio shortly afterward when producer Ron Miller and director Robert Totten were looking for a rugged breed of actor for the western adventure, "The Wild County," now playing at post theaters.

They happened to view a segment of the "Gunsmoke" television series which Steve portrayed a mean heavy so well that he projected a whole new image. He proved to have just the intensity they wanted for the role of a pioneer.

In fact, it was that kind kind of intensity that got Steve into the acting business in the first place: As a student at UCLA he was so taken by a pretty co-ed that he followed her into Royce Hall and discovered that he was smack in the middle of auditions for a play. He won both a part and the girl, Christine Carilas, who three years later became his wife.

Steve's appearance in a number of plays at UCLA got him several offers from the studios which he turned down in order to finish school as an English and psychology major. When he got his degree, however, he decided to concentrate on acting but there were no bids for his talents.

A small part in a comedy at the La Jolla Playhouse brought him another studio offer. Tempting as it was he could not accept the role because the movie starred his brother, Dana Andrews; and Steve did not want to trade on his well-known relative's name.

He then decided to concentrate on writing for television and was successful in selling scripts to Revue Productions, a subsidiary at the time, of Universal. No sooner had he made it as a writer when a bid for his services as an actor came in.

A former college friend, who was working as an agent, got him an introduction to producer Dore Schary at MGM where he was placed under contract. He has had an acting career ever since.

Some of his best known movie credits are for "The Bad and the Beautiful," "The Band Wagon," "So Big," "Phantom of the Rue Morgue," "The Second Time Around" and "Rascal."

He has appeared on Broadway and can currently be seen in the title role of "The Baron" on TV. The series was made in England three years ago and is one of the top-ranking shows in the United Kingdom and on the continent.

Steve was born in Huntsville, Tex., one of 13 children of a Baptist minister. He left home to join the Army at 18 and spent three-and-a-half years in the Infantry during World War II where he saw action from the Normandy beaches to the Battle of the Bulge, in which he was wounded.

At the end of the war in Europe he operated theaters in occupied Germany until his discharge as a sergeant in 1946.

In color by Technicolor, "The Wild Country" stars Steve, Vera Miles, Jack Elam and Ronny Howard and co-stars Frank De Kova and Morgan Woodward.

Plays fool in own film

If Shakespeare hadn't come up with the line, "Lord, what fools these mortals be," well over three hundred and fifty years ago, it is a cinch that Mel Brooks would have gotten around to coining it today. For Brooks, writer-director-actor, has made a career of showing just how foolish he and his fellow-man can really be. Currently, a sampling of what crazy antics they are capable of pulling off can be seen in the adventure-comedy he wrote and directed, "The Twelve Chairs," which opens Thursday at Theater No. 1 on post.

Brooks' personal capacity for playing the fool is shown in the cameo role he chose for himself in "The Twelve Chairs." In it, he portrays the classic Russian muzhik (peasant) — the type that when he is kicked in the face his sole concern is that his blood should not soil his master's boots.

For two of the three leading roles, Brooks cast Ron Moody, whose gift for panning the human condition garnered an Academy Award nomination in "Oliver," and Dom DeLuise, the comedian whose quivering antics have embellished the stage, screen and TV.

Suave Frank Langella, the third lead, shows just how far greed and wishful thinking can get even the most roguelsh of men. Another bit of Brooks' philosophy can be heard in the theme song he wrote for the picture, "Hope For the Best (Expect the Worst)."

"The Producers" was Mel Brooks' first venture in a feature length film as writer and director. The highly original story and screenplay won an Oscar for him. This was placed on his honors shelf next to the first Oscar he won for "The Critic," the short subject which he conceived, wrote and narrated.

"The Producers" also brought an Academy Award nomination for Gene Wilder's comic performance as a humble accountant conned into the pie-in-the-sky promise of show "biz."

Libraries' books

A variety of how-to-do-it art books are available through the Special Services Libraries.

"Dynamic Figure Drawing," Burne Hogarth: A revolutionary system of figure drawing which makes it possible to draw a figure correctly without a model.

"How to Do Paste-Ups and Mechanicals," S. Ralph Maurello: This is a guide for artists that are required regularly or occasionally to produce "ready for camera" art work for their clients. Learn the terms, procedures, and techniques of this valuable area of commercial art.

"The Stitches of Creative Embroidery," Jacqueline Enthoven: An outstanding book for the beginner or expert. There are more than 500 diagrams and 50 photos illustrating more than 200 stitches.

"How to Make Your Own Picture Frames," Ed Reinhart and Hal Rogers: A practical handbook covering more than 50 frame styles. Step-by-step demonstration photos show framing "how-to" from start to finish. Practical knowledge of the "proper" frame also is included.

"Sylvia Sydney Needlepoint Book," Sylvia Sidney: Miss Sidney demonstrates how even the most complicated looking work can be broken down into "basically two stitches." She teaches conversationally with a thorough, yet easy-to-follow approach.

Synopsis

Clint Eastwood portrays Marvin's sidekick "Pardner," who shares everything with Marvin, even his wife (Jean Seberg), who was acquired for $800 from a passing Mormon.

Gold is slipping through the cracks in the saloon floors of No Name and the two pardners decide that the lost gold is worth a fortune.

A BOY NAMED CHARLIE BROWN (Rated G)— The world - famous "Peanuts" characters created by Charles M. Schulz make their motion picture debut in this film, which stars Charlie Brown, Super-beagle Snoopy, philosopher Linus, piano - playing Schroeder, fuss-budget Lusy, Buoyant Sally, and the rest of the celebrated characters beloved throughout the world.

THE VAMPIRE LOVERS (Rated R) — In the province of Styria, Karnstein Castle is the center of evil. The Karnsteins, the undead, rise from their tombs to walk at night and suck blood from their victims.

Baron Hartog (Douglas Wilmer) seeks revenge and drives stakes through the hearts of all the bodies in the Karnstein graves. He misses only Mircalla (Ingrid Pitt). She latter reappears and becomes enarmored by the general (Peter Cushing) and comes between his daughter and her finance.

When a young lady becomes ill, a doctor diagnoses the problem correctly as vampirism. The services of Baron Hartog are sought. He finds the vampire's body, drives a stake through her heart, and then beheads her.

NO BLADE OF GRASS (Rated R) — The film is based on the novel by John Christopher and concerns the struggle for survival of an English family in a world brought to the brink of catastrophe by environmental pollution and famine.

Niegel Davenport plays John Custance and Jean Wallace plays his wife, Ann, who, with their two children, head a group of migrants in search of food and shelter in a world filled with turmoil due to a plague, which causes mass famine.

THE TWELVE CHAIRS (rated G) — Mel Brooks' film is a madcap adventure about an improverished nobleman (Ron Moody), a vagabond adventurer (Frank Langella) and a village priest (Dom DeLuise), who criss-cross Russia, Siberia and the Crimea in search of a fortune in jewels secreted in one of a set of dining room chairs at the time of the Revolution.

The chairs were ultimately dispersed to new owners and this leads to the wild escapades the three men endure while trying to find the one with the hidden payload.

Warner Bros. acquire 'Billy Jack' for release

HOLLYWOOD — John Calley, executive vice president in charge of production for Warner Bros., announces acquisition for release of the National Student Film Corporation production "Billy Jack."

"Other previews of 'Billy Jack'," said Calley, "have been accorded a fantastically enthusiastic reception, and we are highly gratified to be able to include the production in our release program for the current season."

Title song for the film, "One Tin Soldier — The Legend of Billy Jack," is sung by the popular rock group, Coven. Other songs composed and performed by members of the cast are featured in the film. Established actors in the cast are augmented with newcomers discovered in drama groups at the various shooling sites.

Wrong way, girls!

Two WAC officers learn how rappelling isn't done from 1st Lt. Thomas McKinley of the Ranger Patrolling Committee. 1st Lt. Lorraine Gott, (L), and 2nd Lt. Veronika Wilsmann were among 30 WAC Officer Basic Course students who visited Fort Benning for Infantry branch orientation. The ladies observed rappelling as it should be performed and orienteering demonstrations and rode in armored personnel carriers. Also included in the tour were a scout dog demonstration, rides on the 250-foot "buddy seat" tower and a briefing on Infantry Center and School activities.

3 amputees attend Ranger graduation

Three special guests, former Rangers who lost limbs in service in Vietnam, attended the recent graduation of Ranger class 11-71. Named honor graduates at the ceremony were Capt. Raymond Morris and Sgt. Roy Stanger.

The visitors, first lieutenants Charles O'Brian, John Brennan, and James Baird, asked to visit Fort Benning to encourage Infantry School students to take advantage of Ranger training. Their visit included attendance at class 11-71's graduation party.

Morris was named distinguished officer honor graduate upon compiling 934 of a possible 1,000 points during his Ranger training. He already had been named honor graduate of the 3rd Army NCO Academy, and of his class in Officer Candidate School. Morris is currently assigned to the 1st Special Forces Group, Okinawa.

Receives Legion of Merit

Col. Wine, data chief, retires after 30 years

Col. John B. Wine has been awarded the Legion of Merit for exceptionally meritorious conduct upon the occasion of his retirement after more than 30 years of military service.

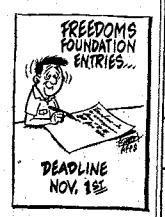
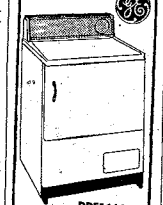
Col. Wine received the award for his conduct while assigned to various positions of great responsibility at the Infantry School from June 1965 to May 1971.

He will be succeeded as chief, Office Data Systems, the Infantry School, by Lt. Col. Louis Boettcher who has been deputy chief of the School Office of Doctrine, Development, Literature and Plans.



Col. Wine was commissioned a second lieutenant in Infantry after completion of the Infantry Officer Candidate Course in August 1943. During World War II he served in combat with the 112th Regiment of the 28th Infantry Division. Other overseas duty included a three-year assignment with the Complaint and Investigation Division of the 7th K. S. Army Inspector General Section in Germany.

During his career he served at Fort Benning as the assistant chief of staff, G-2, 2nd Infantry Division, assistant battle group commander of the 87th Inf., 2nd Div., and with the Staff Group of Brigade and Battalion Operations Department of the Infantry School. He also attended the Infantry Officers Advanced Course here during 1952.



Col. Wine attended McMurrah College, Abilene, Tex., and completed the U. S. Army Command and General Staff College Course at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., in 1963.

He previously has been awared the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart with First Oak Leaf Cluster and the Combat Infantryman Badge.

He and his wife Christine and daughters Christine and Martha will make their retirement home in Punta Gorda, Fla.

Apollo 15 last flight in lunar series of 3

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The planned launching in July of the Apollo 15 lunar mission opens the final, three-flight series of manned lunar exploration missions.

The Apollo space vehicle for these missions will be capable of delivering to the lunar surface twice as much equipment and scientific payload as any previous vehicle. This payload will include additional life support consumables to double the time the astronauts can work on the lunar surface.

Exploration periods on the Moon will be increased to three with two of these periods lasting up to seven hours, and one up to six hours. A lunar roving vehicle will provide transportation for the astronauts experiments, tools, new communications equipment, and lunar samples collected during the three traverses.

The lunar roving vehicle and improved astronaut space suit and life support system will increase the range and efficiency of these surface operations.

The service module of the Apollo spacecraft has been modified to include a scientific instrument module which houses experiments to be conducted from the lunar orbiting Apollo spacecraft.

On the Apollo 15 and 16 missions, 2 subsatellite will be ejected into lunar orbit from the spacecraft scientific instrument modules. The satellite includes three experiments that will continue to operate in lunar orbit for about a year.

A television camera mounted on the lunar roving vehicle will provide coverage of astronaut surface exploration events while the vehicle is not actually in motion. The television system includes a ground command capability which could permit the first television coverage of lunar module liftoff from the lunar surface.

Post golf course acquires permanent superintendent

by Bill Kloeb

1st Lt. Dan Morgan has been selected to continue as the Fort Benning Country Club Golf Course superintendent after he completes his Army commitment May 31.

Morgan began working on the golf course last September as understudy to Lester Lawrence who retired recently. Lawrence, who had been the course superintendent for more than 30 years, was impressed by Morgan's qualifications and work, and recommended retention of Morgan in the superintendent position.

Morgan's experience and education made him highly qualified for the work of maintaining the golf course. He grew up in a horticultural environment. His father owns and operates a nursery and landscaping business in Tampa, Fla. As a youngster, he earned his spending money working with turfs, shrubs, flowers and trees.

Later he worked at the experimental turf plots at the University of Florida and the prestigious Palma Ceia Golf and Country Club in Tampa.

His educational background is equally qualifying. He has a bachelor of science degree in Ornamental Horticulture from the University of Florida where he consistently made the deans list. While at the university his major studies were in the area of southern turf grasses.

Morgan is assuming one of the most thankless jobs in the field of sports. The meticulous care of greens, tees, traps, fairways and other areas on a golf course are normally taken for granted, and the course superintendent goes unnoticed until a golfer gets the idea that something the superintendent did or didn't do has adversely affected his scores.

Morgan feels that this is due to a lack of communication between the superintendent and the playing members. When conditions on the course change because of nature or planned modifications the golfers should be informed of the changes and the reasons for them.

According to Morgan, a change of this type will occur this month. The winter rye grass now growing on the putting greens must be "killed out" to make way for bermuda grass which begins growing again at this time of the year.

The bermuda grass is the permanent grass on the greens, but each fall it becomes dormant and brown. Rye grass is overseeded on the greens each year to provide a constant, green putting surface during the winter months. In warm weather the rye becomes stiff and stubbly so each spring it must be "killed out" to allow the bermuda to grow.

The superintendent conducts three operations to hasten this transition and provide a good putting surface during the warm weather months, Morgan said. He "verti-cuts" to thin out the cool season grasses, "aerifies" to combat compaction caused by foot traffic and "topdresses" the greens with a special sterilized topsoil mix.

During this transition period, the greens have a sandy surface which appears uneven and rough. The appearance is deceiving. The topdressing mix covers ball and old cup marks and fills in other irregularities providing an exceptionally smooth and consistent surface while the bermuda grass has a chance to grow over the entire putting surface.

Experienced golfers, who have played through many of these transitions, know the topdressed greens are just as consistent and putt just as true as any grass covered surface.

Polar Bears win handball crown

By Steve Partridge

The 5th Bn., 31st Inf. (Polar Bears), battled their way to the 197th Infantry Brigade's first team handball championship.

Playing an exciting double-elimination tournament at the Kelley Hill Field House, the Polar Bears waded through the seven-team field to take the tourney in four straight games.

Led by playmaker-coach Art Pray, the Polar Bears locked horns with the 1st Bn., 58th Inf. ("Patriots"), in a struggle for the championship. The Patriots reached the final round by trouncing the HHC, 197th Inf. Bde. — 72nd Engineer team 22-6.

The HHC — 72nd Engr. team finished third in the tournament followed by the 197th Support Battalion.

Representatives from the tournament teams were selected to try out for the brigade team handball squad. The 197th will begin its season May 27, against Headquarters Command on Presidential Field.

The Polar Bears won the final game of the tourney with a score of 8-6.

Leading the champions to victory was player-coach Pray, whose presence resulted in a smooth fast-flowing attack. Leading scorers were co-captain Ailen Rowland for the champions and Ron Coleman for the Patriots. Both had two goals.

Everything on 19th

When SFC Frederick H. Livingston re-enlisted for four years May 19 he was just continuing in the family tradition.

It seems that nearly everything happens to the Livingstons on the 19th day of a month.

He was born Dec. 19, 1931. His brother and sister were born May 19, 1930, and April 19, 1937, respectively. Jan. 19 is a double event. Livingston's son was born on that day in 1958 and a niece was born Jan. 19, 1960.

Livingston, a veteran of 16 years service, has two children. He works in the post scout coordinator's office.

Post-wide tennis tourney slated

Competition will be held to determine a senior men's champion, an open men's champion and a women's champion. The tournament, open to personnel on active duty, also will determine players to represent the post in the 3rd U. S. Army Championships to be held here June 14.

Men must have reached their 40th birthday to qualify for the senior division. Contestants entering the senior division will not be eligible to compete in the open division.

197th defeats league-leading TSB

By Steve Partridge

A nine-game winning streak by The School Brigade softball team was stopped in the final game of a Monday double-header at Gowdy Field by the 197th Infantry Brigade with a score of 5-1.

The league leaders were stopped after waltzing to a 7-0 victory in the first action of the evening.

TSB pitcher Brent Minster, who entered the first game with 4-0 record and a fantastic .000 earned-run average allowed only three hits as he picked up his fifth win of the year.

Opposing Minster was 197th pitcher Sterling "Chief" Whitehorse.

In the nightcap, a quick, three-run outburst in the first inning off TSB pitcher Harvey Heseman provided the 197th with a 3-0 lead.

Shortstop James Rix led with a walk. Rix stole second base and advanced to third on a wild pitch from Heseman to 197th batter Larry Ardito. Center-fielder Leonard Gibson delivered a single scoring Rix.

Left-fielder Oscar Corn reached first base as the result of an error. Two more wild pitches in the inning resulted in two runs for the brigade as Gibson and Corn crossed home plate.

The Infantrymen cushioned their lead in the sixth inning as Leonard Gibson and Tom Sumner scored on two TSB errors.

With the score 5-0, TSB threatened in the seventh inning.

Left-fielder John Rae reached first on an error. John Daily singled, moving Rae to third, as he advanced to second base. Second baseman Glenn Marshall grounded out to Sumner for the second out of the inning scoring Rae from third base. Two walks by "Lefty" Furnish loaded the bases for Pat Chambless, but the big catcher popped up to 197th first baseman Gerald Freyberger to end the game.

TSB's record after Monday night's double-header was 9-1; the 197th was 3-2 for the season.

Infantrymen top Hq., Cmd.

The 197th Inf. Bde. fastpitch softball team took two victories from Headquarters Command May 11. In two hard-fought contests, the battling brigade picked up their sixth and seventh wins of the season with scores of 4-0 and 7-6. Sterling "Chief" Whitehorse picked up his second win of the year with a two-hit shutout over a fine Hq. Cmd. ball club in the first game of the twin feature.

"Nick" Nixon picked up his first win of the year pitching three and one-third innings of hitless relief as the 197th took the nightcap.

Avn Cmd loses 2 to 197th

The 197th Inf. Bde. fastpitch softball team scored a double-header victory May 10 over the Aviation Command. Taking advantage of 13 Avn. Cmd. errors the brigade took 13-3 and 6-1 decisions over their mistake - prone opponents.

Youth golf clinic held on Saturdays

A golf clinic for beginning golfers age 10 through 17 will be held at the Fort Benning Country Club Golf Course each Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

Each week the clinic, which will last one hour, will feature instruction in the use of woods, irons and putting.

The clinics are free to dependents of members of the Main Officers Mess. Clubs and balls for the clinic will be furnished by the club.

For additional information contact the club pro shop, 545-3120.

On May 1 the Munson Heliport at Kelley Hill became a track for an autocross slalom for the 197th Infantry Brigade soldiers and members of the CHAVAGA Region of the Sports Car Club of America (SCCA).

The event was designed to promote safety in highway driving.

"An autocross is a slalom in which the contestants are not required to stop or reverse, although a motionless finish may be used, and where the course does not cross itself. It is run against a time clock — one car on the course at a time," explained 1st Lt. William A. Davis, brigade special services officer.

Forty-two entrants composed the field in this race against time. Trophies were presented to the winners of the competition from the 197th. CHAVGA Region SCAA member's award were handled on a different basis.

Winners of their division from the 197th were:

Time of Day: John Schnarr, 1st Bn., 29th Inf.; and Bradley Parker, HHC, 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

ROD AND GUN CLUB Notes

By Bill Kloeb

Some of the best catches of the year have been registered in the Rod and Gun Club May Fishing Derby.

SSgt. Robert Brown, 10th Co., TSB leads the catfish Pond. That's the largest catfish that we know to have come from Weem's. Brown was using chicken liver for bait.

The 1-pound, 12-ounce bream SSgt. Charles Baxley, 3rd Ranger Co., landed at King's Pond leads the bream contest. Baxley made his catch using red worms.

Capt. William Aronow, a student in the Infantry School Advanced Course used a purple flip-tailed plastic worm to take the largest bass registered this month. His catch weighed 7-pounds, 10-ounces.

There is still quite a bit of time left this month to top these leaders. All members of the Rod and Gun Club are eligible to win the merchandise prizes given away each month. A member must register at the club before he goes fishing, catch the fish in one of the ponds on the reservation and register the catch at the club.

Licenses Are Necessary

Georgia Fish and Game wardens say that many people are fishing on private property without fishing licenses. According to the law all persons must have a fishing license to fish on private property. The only exceptions are the owner of the property and members of his immediate family. Wardens are apprehending numerous fishermen on private property and Government land who have had no license. Have your fishing license with you whenever you fish. It will save time and trouble.

During hot weather children like to get in the water. This can be dangerous if the water happens to be a pond or stream. It's against the post regulations to wade or swim in any waters on the reservation except approved swimming pools. It's especially dangerous at this time of the year because the cold water can cause cramps and spasms. Don't let a family fun day be spoiled by a drowning. Restrict wading and swimming to the post swimming pools.

Lures Make The Difference

The experienced fisherman usually goes home with a stringer full of fish while the novice sits all day without any action and goes home with nothing. There are a lot of good reasons for this but one of the most important is that the experienced fisherman gives the fish what they want in the way of food, and the novice does not. The novice goes out with a rod, reel, line, a can of worms and maybe an artificial lure or two. The experienced fisherman carries a big tackle box filled with lures of all types. During the course of the day he finds one to work.

The average beginner fisherman can't hope to match the veteran in the number of lures he carries. The veteran has accumulated his large selection over the years he has been angling. While the novice can't match the numbers he can match the types.

There are seven basic types of lures. They have all been designed to simulate a type of food that will interest a fish. Most of them behave differently while moving in the water.

The basic lures are jigs, spoons, plastic worms, deep running plugs, diving plugs, surface plugs and flies and bugs.

Jigs are turned-down-eye hooks with small lead heads ornamented with hair or plastic skirts. These are for bottom fishing. Bounce them along the bottom with an erratic movement.

Spoons come in a variety of shapes and sizes. They should be fished slow from the bank or a boat or trolled. The weedless models will prevent a lot of snags and lost lures.

Plastic worms should be fished slow. These lures can be rigged with one or two hooks. They come in all kinds of colors. Spring and fall are the best times of the year for these lures.

Medium and deep running plugs are supposed to resemble small fish. Fish them slow but don't let them stop moving. The diving plugs are similar to the deep and medium running plugs in shape and size but a rudder type attachment makes them dive them come back to the surface.

Surface lures and bugs should make a noise when moved through the water. Fish them with a jerking motion to attract the fish.

Try different lures until you find one that will interest the fish.

Benning team wins league soccor crown

The Fort Benning Soccer Club ran its string to 22 victories without a loss and captured the league soccer crown by winning the Mobile Invitational Soccer Tournament last Sunday.

The Benning club consists of Allied and American students of the Infantry School. The team has been organized and playing teams from other military installations and colleges for the past three months.

In the Mobile Tournament, Benning downed South Alabama by a score of 7.0; Mississippi State, 4-3; Southern Mississippi 2-1 and Tulane, 4-3.

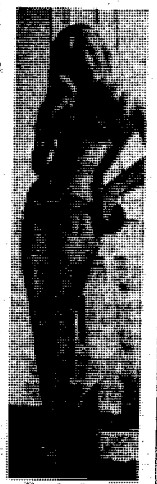
18th Repl. Det. leads 931st company softball

Three teams picked up two victories each in the 931st Engr Gp. slow pitch softball league during the rain-marred week of May 10 through May 14.

The winning teams are from the 18th Repl. Det., and Companies A and B of the 43rd Engr. Bn., all of the 931st.

Each victor picked up a win in regular play and a win by forfeit.

Due to rain and forfeits, only four games were played during the week in which 12 games were scheduled.

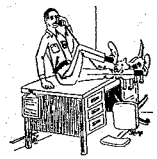


The 18th Repl. Det. team is now boasting a perfect record with three wins and no losses, and is now a half game ahead of the 139th MP Co. and the 608th Ord. Co. Both second place teams share a record of two wins and no losses.

Autopsies ruled payable under CHAMPUS plan

DENVER — Autopsies performed on CHAMPUS beneficiaries are considered a diagnostic service and payable as a program benefit, according to a recent clarification of policy by officials of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services.

As an exception to this ruling, however, CHAMPUS will not cover an autopsy ordered by a city, county, state or similar jurisdiction. In that case, these services should be paid for by the ordering jurisdiction.



All charges related to the autopsy also are payable, note CHAMPUS officials, including the charge for the autopsy room and transportation of the remains by ambulance.

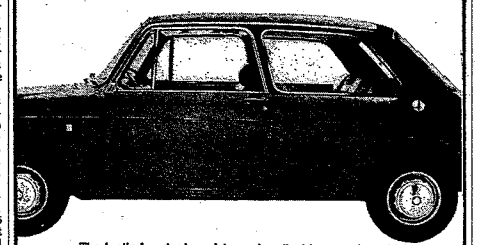
First sod turned for new theater

197th Inf. Bde. commander Col. Willard Latham grasped one handle of a three-handled shovel May 10 to help turn over the first secton of dirt as construction started on the new Kelley Hill Theater.

Assisting Col. Latham in the ground-breaking ceremony were 1st Lt. Shelia K. Bates, main post theater officer, and Mr. Sam Murphree of Murphree and Lisle, Inc., Phenix City, Ala.



Patterned after the modern, spacious Sand Hill Theater, the proposed $.75 million structure will seat 500. The new facility will rise between the Kelley Hill Chapel and the Brigade Re-enlistment office. Completion date for the new theater has been set for June, 1972.

Belgian gets tour by copter

During the general's visit, which included a helicopter tour of the fort, he received a briefing on the TOW and Dragon weapons.

Just because you want to spend a little money, doesn't mean you have to buy a little car.

The Austin America has a lot of features that you'd expect to find only in big cars. Like front wheel drive, which makes it turn like a big car and a unique liquid suspension, which makes it ride like a big car. It also has some features that you won't find in big cars. Like a $1985 p.o.e. price!

1 million veterans take training under G.I. Bill

There are now more than one million veterans job-training or enrolled in schools and colleges under the current G. I. Bill.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson revealed that 1,064,000 men and women are in training under the G. I. Bill. He pointed out this is an increase of 35 per cent over last year, 70 per cent over the level two years ago, and 240 per cent over 1966. By the end of 1972, Johnson said the Veterans Administration expects the G. I. Bill monthly utilization to reach 1.8 million. Of the 1,064,000, more than 60 per cent are enrolled in college level studies.

The current G. I. Bill is not quite five years old, Johnson said, and pointed out that more than 2.4 million veterans already have trained under it.

'What is an American?' contest theme

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The theme for this year's letter-writing competition sponsored by the Freedoms Foundation is "What Is An American?"

All entries are due at Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa., 19481, by Nov. 1.

The two best letters from among all branches of the active services and Reserve and Guard units will each receive $1,000. There also will be 50 awards of $100 each and another 50 awards of $50. George Washington Honor Medals and Honor Certificates also will be awarded.

Entries may be in letter form, or as essays or poetry, but must not exceed 500 words. Each entrant should include his name, rank, social security number, branch of service, complete unit and home state address and zip code.

In selecting the theme, the foundation said it hopes to stimulate thought on the subject of what it means to be an American, as well as the obligations that go with citizenship.

Alabama soldier given medal posthumously

A Bronze Star Medal, Second Oak Leaf Cluster for Heroism, and the Purple Heart were awarded posthumously to SSgt. Bruce G. Tindell in recent ceremonies here. He was a son of Mrs. Mejle C. Marler of Pittsview, Ala. His decorations were presented to Mrs. Marler.

SSgt. Tindell's aunt Mrs. Runette Taylor and his step-father, Mr. C. A. Marler were present at the ceremony at which Col. Malcolm R. Baer, adjutant general, USAIC, presented the awards.

Sgt. Tindell was killed Aug. 24 while serving with A Troop, 3rd Sqd., 4th Cav. in the Republic of Vietnam.

Prior to his death, Sgt. Tindell had been awarded the Bronze Star Medal with First Oak Leaf Cluster, Air Medal with second through eighth awards, Good Conduct Medal, National Defense Service Medal, Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Medal, Aircraft Crewman Badge, Sharpshooter Badge with rifle bar, and the Marksman Badge with pistol bar.

The citation which accompanied the Bronze Star Medal read in part, that, Sgt. Tindell "was serving as lead element for an element of A Troop on a reconnaissance operation. With complete disregard for his own safety, Staff Sergeant Tindell voluntarily led a search for enemy bunkers and equipment. When a booby trap was detonated, (he) was fatally wounded."

2 scout troops to visit Benning

ed."

A color poster depicting various acceptable styles of hair, mustaches and sideburns will be distributed in the near future.

Details of the new policy are contained in DA Message 0722497 May 71. Fort Benning regulations are being revised to conform to the new Department of the Army policy.

Cadets

employed by Georgia Power Company.

During their stay, the cadets will test their skills on the leaders reaction course and will receive some preliminary Airborne instruction.

The cadets will observe an Airborne 5,000 demonstration, an airmobile demonstration and rangers in action. They also will observe counter-ambush techniques and a combined arms team in night defense demonstration.

Career panels, composed of senior and junior Infantry officers and senior non-commissioned officers, will provide the cadets with an insight into the life of an Infantry officer.

A dance at Fort Benning's Officers Club on June 11 will be the social highlight of their visit. Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, will be host for the annual dance, which will be chaperoned by senior military officers at Fort Benning.

Also attending the dance will be Debra Snelling, Miss Columbus of 1971, and Linda Sue Chevalier, who won the local beauty title in 1970.

Young ladies who would like to attend the "West Point Dance" may receive more information by contacting the protocol office at Fort Benning by dialing 545-1811 or 545-1214.

'Leapfest'

test possible time. A team makes points by accuracy of jumping, quickness of organization and overall speed.

Twenty-five teams have been entered in the static-line competition. Their parachutes are being loaned by the Airborne Department. All jumpers will use Aviation Command aircraft.

The free-fall or "sport" competition will feature individual sky-divers and teams of three, trying for maximum accuracy. Entered in the sport categories are 12 teams and 40 individual jumpers, most of whom are from the Sport Parachute Club and use their own sport parachutes.

Prizes will be awarded for the first three places in each category.

Free bus transportation will be provided from 197th Infantry Brigade headquarters each day at 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., the main PX at 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m., and 4th Bn., TSB, headquarters at 9:50 a.m. and 2:20 p.m. Return trips will leave Fryar Drop Zone at 12:30 p.m. and at the close of each day's activities.

Picnickers are encouraged.

Lourdes school holds sign-up for next session

Pre-registration for kindergarten through 8th grade now is being held for the 1971-72 school year at Our Lady of Lourdes Elementary School.

In order to pre-register, parents must come to the school office located just off post on the corner of Torch Hill and South Lumpkin Roads between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. weekdays.

The school also has a teacher position open for kindergarten and 2nd grade. For further information call Sister Columba at 689-5184.

Warners slates adventure film

HOLLYWOOD — John Calley, executive vice president in charge of production for Warner Bros., announces that Joe Wizan has been signed to produce "Lloyd Williams and His Brother," turn-of-the-century action-adventure drama based on an original screenplay by Walter Hill.

The project will mark Wizan's second major feature at the studio. He is currently producting "The Saga of Jeremiah Johnson," location filming in Utah with Robert Redford starring under the direction of Sydney Pollack.

The new film will be made under the aegis of Joe Wizan-Booth Gardner Productions, with Wizan in full charge of the under taking. Shooting is scheduled for early fall, with the entire production to be made on location, as yet unselected.

Creation date

The U. S. Air Force — as it exists today — was created in 1947 when the Natinal Security Act gave that branch equal status with the Army and Navy.

Concord Hymn

By the rude bridge that arched the flood,
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
Here once the embattled farmers stood
And fired the shot heard round the world.

The foe long since in silence slept;
Alike the conqueror silent sleeps;
And Time the ruined bridge has swept
Down the dark stream which seaward creeps.

On this green bank, by this soft stream,
We set to-day a votive stone;
That memory may their deed redeem,
When, like our sires, our sons are gone.

Spirit, that made those heroes dare
To die, and leave their children free,
Bid Time and Nature gently spare
The shaft we raise to them and thee.

— — Ralph Waldo Emerson

Ends AUSA membership drive

4,000 soldiers, guests partake of 197th picnic

By Bob Wise

The Association of the U.S. Army (AUSA) membership drive in the Army's largest brigade culminated Friday May 21 with a gala picnic enjoyed by more than 4,000 soldiers, dependents and guests.

197th Infantry Brigade picnic festivities began with the amplified sounds of Columbus "rock" group, "The Reflections." Go-go girls and the first sergeant-sergeant major sack race provided the earliest-heard bumps and grinds.

The day's only sour notes were played by the winds as their northerly gusts forced cancellation of the skydiving exhibition by "The Golden Knights," the Army's parachute team. Free hamburger, hot dog and barbecued chicken dinners were provided all day long.

A formal guard mount ceremony performed by Co. C, 1st Bn., 29th Inf. (USAIC Honor Guard), and the 283rd Army Band, was viewed prior to the picnic.

Set up throughout the day in the brigade picnic area were static displays and exhibitions. Youngsters were provided with free candy and baloons and enjoyed rides in tanks and armored personnel carriers.

Numerous sports, track and field events continued throughout the day, but spectators seemed most interested in the boxing exhibition. Popular also was the hand-to-hand fighting demonstration.

The 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf. ("Patriots"), received the "Olympic Champions" trophy, placing first in nine of the 12 track and field events. The 5th Bn., 31st Inf., received the runner-up trophy.

Dale Aberle of HHC, 1st Bn., 58th Inf., was the top individual competitor for his battalion taking first in the one and two-mile runs and the 880-yard dash. Charles McCauley of the 5th Bn., 31st Inf., took second in the one and two mile runs and Brad Takahashi of the Patriot was second in the 880-yard dash.

The Patriot team also was first in the one-mile relay and 220-yard dash. Ron Coleman of the 58th won the 220. Patriot Bob Burton won the high jump competition for his battalion and Ed Barrett, also of the 58th Inf., won the 440-yard dash.

The 4th Bn., 69th Armor placed first in the 100-yard dash as Joe Robinson beat out Woodrow Miles of the 58th Inf. The 5th Bn., 31st Inf., won the 440-yard relay race, the 1st Bn., 29th Inf., placed first in the tug-of-war competition. Carlton Gooden of the 2nd Bn., 10th Arty., won the broadjump event for his battalion.

Deadline moved up for Bayonet

Because of the Memorial Day holiday Monday, all articles and pictures for the June 4 Bayonet must be submitted by 5 p.m. today.

Gary Reed of the 69th Armor took top honors in the shotput competition and the 197th Spt. Bn. won the volleyball tournament at the Picnic.

Not able to "ler it all hang out" were the brigade's food service personnel as they worked all day long keeping the picnickers full of delicious food. The food service staff had begun preparing for the festivities 24 hours before they started serving.

Special guests at the picnic and guard mount ceremony included members of the Joint Area Recruiting Council and 34 Atlanta-area high school students who showed interest in joining the 197th following their graduation. Also present at the picnic were Col. Robert P. Hatcher, deputy post commander, and Mrs. Hatcher; Col. Malcolm R. Baer, adjutant general; Lt. Col. Jack Castleberry, director of communications and electronics; Lt. Col. Peter J. Foss, post information officer; various Atlanta-area newspapers and TV representatives and Norman Pettys, state director of De Molay.

Mickey Thompson
INDY PROFILE TIRES
4-Ply Nylon, Tubeless - 8½ & 10½" Tread Widths

Mickey Thompson tires are the wide, low-profile street tires on the market today, designed by Mickey Thompson who originated and built the first "Fat" street tire. M/T tires are approved by the Department of Transportation and have wrap-around tread for cornering control. This wrap-around tread design gives greater traction, coupling more horsepower to the ground. Choose from the lady Profile or Challenger Slicks, all M/T tires feature heavy-duty sides which insure extra strength for control and durability, offering the ultimate in tire appearance, width, strength and safety construction.

Byline Bayonet

(Byline Bayonet welcomes questions of general interest about Fort Benning and the Army. Within space limitations all reasonable questions will be answered. Questions of a purely military nature which obviously could be answered more properly by commanders or supervisors within the chain of command will not be accepted. Questions must be signed with current unit of assignment indicated. Send questions to The Bayonet, Room 602, Infantry Hall, or telephone 545-2791)...

Q — What position has the Association of the United States Army taken on benefits for Department of the Army civilians and retired military personnel?

A — The AUSA has urged civilian career programs for Department of the Army civilians, including raising pay scales to levels comparable with industry. In reference to the retired military, the Association continues to urge expansion of the Army's Retired Activities Program and supports actions to remove limitations against the employment of retired military personnel created by the Dual Compensation Act which discriminates against retired regular officers. It also has supported measures which will permit enlisted personnel to receive retirement pay credit for inactive reserve duty prior to June 1, 1958. In addition, the AUSA has urged action to restore the historical relationship between retired and active duty pay and also has urged the expansion of national and post cemetery facilities for the benefit of those who serve honorably in our Armed Forces and their dependents.

Q — The parking areas around the BOQs such as Olson Hall are well lit but around the enlisted parking areas there's hardly any light at all. Putting up street lights in the parking areas would greatly reduce the possibilities of car theft and robberies. Does Fort Benning have any plan to increase lighting in the various parking areas on post?

A — Conversion of the building now known as Olson Hall to BOQs was accomplished in Fiscal Year 1968. At that time lighting of parking areas was authorized and was accomplished with the construction. The latest construction of Enlisted Men's Barracks was is Fiscal Year 1968. At that time lighting of parking areas was not authorized. New construction of barracks will be provided with lighted parking areas. Existing barracks are deficient in many areas other than lighted parking areas and must be remodeled to conform to current criteria. This work is not presently programmed, but it is anticipated that the installation will receive guidance in this respect in the near future.

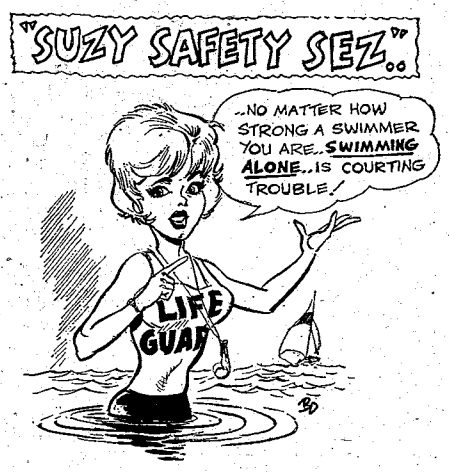
The judge says

Aliens must pass test for citizenship

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of four articles on immigration and naturalization. This article contains information on the basic requirement for naturalization.)

USAIC LEGAL ASSISTANCE OFFICE—Many inquiries are made to the Legal Assistance Division of the Staff Judge Advocate Section concerning the requirements and procedures that an alien must follow to become a United States citizen and the requirements and procedures that the parents of a child born in a foreign country must follow to establish his citizenship.

To become a United States citizen, the applicant must meet all of the following requirements: He must be 18 years of age (Children under 18 can become naturalized upon a petition of their parents).



The applicant must have been lawfully admitted into this country as a permanent resident. (This requirement excludes those people who fradulantly entered the United State or are here on a temporary basis, such as students or visitors.)

An applicant for naturalization must show that he has been a person of good moral character who believes in the principles of the Constitution of the United States and is favorable to the good order and happiness of the United States. Aliens who have tried to avoid their duties to serve in the Armed Forces of the United States may be denied citizenship.

Every person applying for naturalization must pass an examination showing that he knows something about the history and form of government of the United States. An applicant also must be able to speak and write simple English. In many places the public schools, as well as other community groups, have citizenship classes to prepare persons to become citizens. Either the Army Community Services Office, or the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service Office can furnish you with information about these classes. The United States Government also publishes textbooks to aid in studying for the citizenship examination. They can be bought directly from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., and can be used to study at home.

After an applicant has been admitted for permanent residence, he must reside in the United States continuously for at least five years prior to filing his petition for naturalization with the court. For the last six months prior to filing his petition, he also must be a resident in the state where the petition is being filed.

The law provides certain exemptions to the requirements listed above for servicemen and for spouses and dependents of United States citizens. A person who is serving honorably in the Armed Forces, and who files with the naturalization court while still in the service, or not later than six months after discharge, is immediately eligible for naturalization—without any residence requirement. Applicants therefore must file their applications with the Immigration and Naturalization Service early enough to permit filing of papers with the naturalization court before the six month period has expired.

Power must be used to build peace

"You serve in the peace forces of the world. There are those in America who question this, but the record is clear. Our power has always been used for building the peace, never for breaking it — for defending freedom, never for destroying it.

"America has fought in four wars in this century. Yet we did not seek war, we did not plan war, we did not begin war. But when it came, young Americans fought courageously.

"Today, despite the terrible evidence of the century, there are those who have refused to learn the hard lessons of the history of tyranny. They would tell us, as their predecessors in other times have told us, that the appetite for aggression can be satisfied only if we are patient and that the ambitions of the aggressor are justified if only we understand them properly.

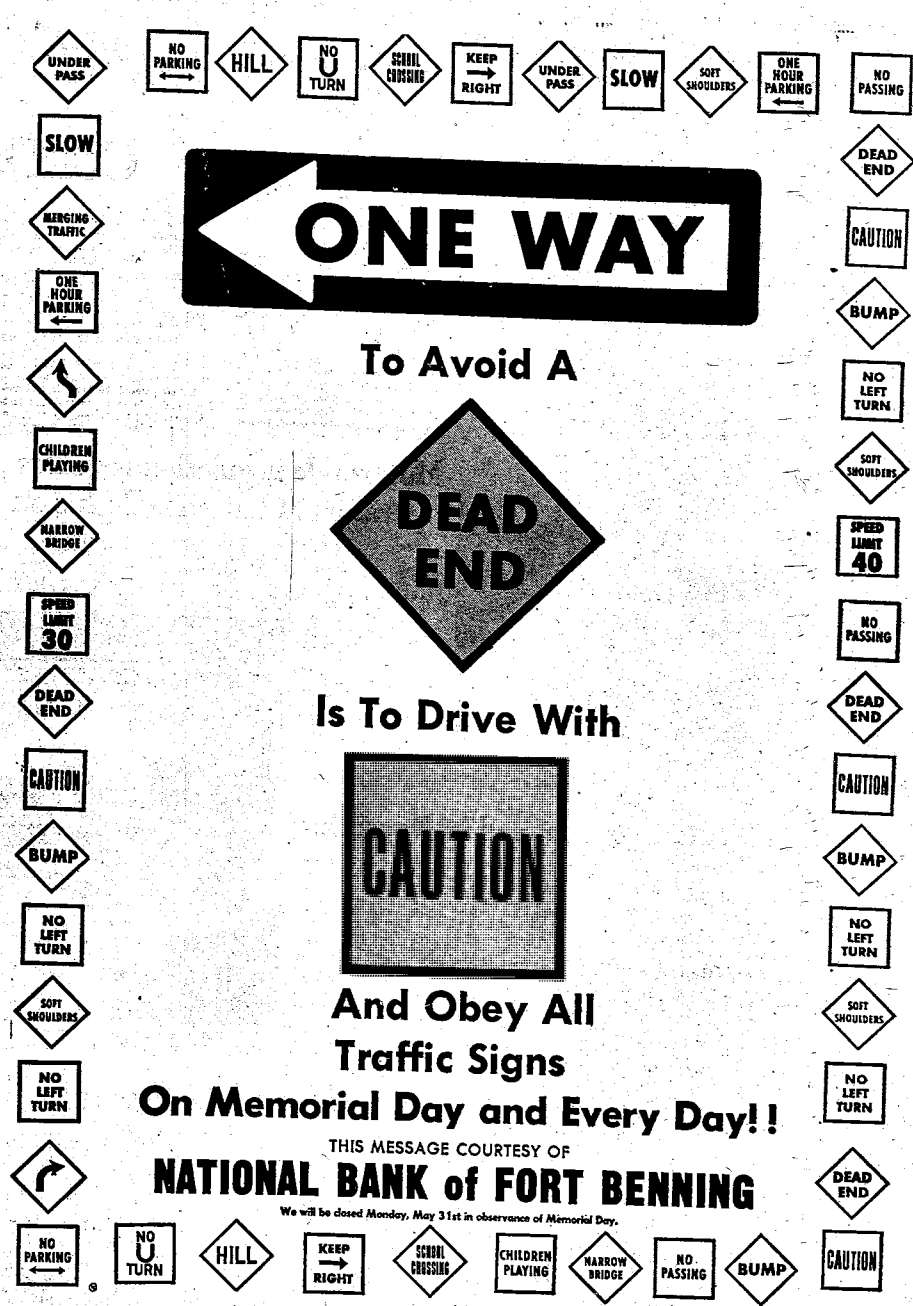
"I am never surprised to see these positions beld. But I am always astonished to see them held in the name of morality. We know too well what follows when nations try to buy peace at the expense of other nations. I do not believe we are prepared to take that course.

"What is more important is no other nation believes it either. That is why the United States of America is respected among the nations of the free world—not because we are rich and not because we are powerful, but, above all, we can be trusted.

"We have been and we continue to be willing to pay the price for peace. And we pay in the hard currency of deeds—not with hollow threats and empty promises.

"There can be no advantage of concealing hard facts in soft words. We know that when force is rewarded, the cost of peace and the only alternative to war will be tyranny. This fact dominated the first half of this century.

"We are determined that it will not dominate the last half. For this reason we have accepted the necessity of war. But our purpose is peace.



"Peace with freedom—so that peace may be worth having.

"Peace with justice — so that peace may be worth keeping.

"And peace with strength—so that peace may be preserved.

"We must have strength. If all the world were free, we might have no need of arms. If all the world were just, we would have no need of valor."

These thoughts were those of the Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces, Richard M. Nixon when he spoke this spring at the graduation exercises of the Naval Officer Candidate School, Newport, R.I. (AFPS Editorial)

Hopes to aid MVA soldier

Infantry School gets new CSM

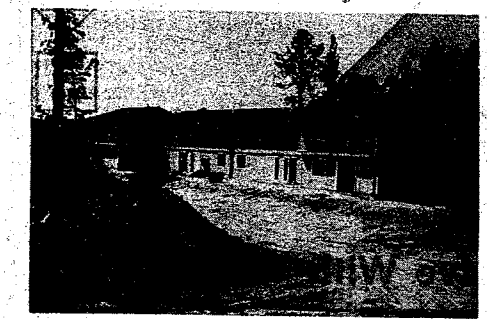
By Martin McWilliams.

"Adding to professionalism" and "helping the soldier in finding his place in the Modern Volunteer Army" are two of the primary aims of CSM John F. LaVoie, new Infantry School sergeant major.

LaVoie came to the School this month to fill the vacancy created by the medical retirement of former CSM John Bittorie. LaVoie had been serving as command sergeant major of the 173rd Airborne Brigade in the Republic of Vietnam.

"I'm looking forward to a big challenge here at the Infantry School, says LaVoie. "I'll be working to maintain the high standards already established here, and whre possible to add to the professionalism of the School's noncommissioned officers and soldiers, both cadre and student, and to aid the soldier in finding his place in the Modern Volunteer Army based on my experience with young troopers. If I'm successful in this, I will be giving the greatest possible support to the MVA program."

LaVoie feels that the role of the noncommissioned officer has not changed as a result of the advent of the MVA.



"The NCO has always been indispensable to the everyday routine of running the Army and as such is a key part of the modern Army program," says LaVoie. "Without his wholehearted support, the program will not work. The good NCO will continue to support and implement the decisions of his leaders, just as he has always done."

LaVoie is no stranger to Fort Benning. Among other tours here he has served as sergeant major of the Infantry School's Airborne Department. His service at that time prompted Airborne Department director Col. Lamar Welch to describe him as "One of the finest soldiers I've seen come along the pike. He's a great teacher and extremely unselfish of his time."

LaVoie also has been an instructor with the Airborne Department from 1948 to 1956 and again from 1957 to 1959. He also was sergeant major of the 2nd Stu. Bn., TSB.

Besides being the 173rd's sergeant major in Vietnam, LaVoie served for a year as senior enlisted advisor to the Vietnamese Airborne Brigade.

LaVoie entered the Army in 1944 and earned his jump wings with the 11th Airborne Division in Japan in 1945.

Motorcycle regulation requires operators to have headlights on

A new motorcycle regulation requiring operators to drive with their headlights on all the time was placed into effect last week at Fort Benning.

The regulations, USAIC 190-5, came into effect May 18. The reason for the new traffic ruling was an attempt to curb rising auto-cycle accidents.

Since the first of the year there have been five fatalities and 19 accidents involving motorcycles. The fatality figure alone exceeds last year's total of two.

Probably the biggest cause of the accidents is the failure of drivers to see the motorcyclist. It is hoped that the new regulation will help the motorist become more aware of a cyclists presence.

With approximately 800 motorcycles registered on post, automobile drivers are urged to drive defensively.

Housing units to be completed in November

A new housing project located off of 1st Division Road is scheduled for completion sometime in November.

Both officers and enlisted families will share the 240 units. The officer section of the project will be located off the 12th fairway while the enlisted families will occupy the area with closest access to 1st Division Road.

Buildings are arranged in courts and composed of four to six units. All are two level and vary from three to four bedrooms.

Differences between the four basic types of units will depend upon things such as outside finish, adjoining second floor bathrooms and room dimensions.

Unit features will include central air conditioning, first floor powder room, and ample closet space. In addition there are several architectural innovations. One of these is the removal of stairwell separation walls. The removal will facilitate easier moving of large furniture to the second floor.

Construction is now 75 per cent complete.

Fort Benning schedules two on-post ceremonies to mark Memorial Day

Fort Benning will join with the rest of the nation Monday to honor its veterans of all wars. The day will be observed as a post holiday.

Memorial Day ceremonies have been scheduled at the Post Cemetery and in front of Infantry Hall in addition to a ceremony at Parkhill Cemetery in Columbus, to include a guest speaker from Fort Benning.

Lt. Gen. (ret.) Reuben E. Jenkins of Columbus will be the guest speaker at the Post Cemetery ceremony at 10:30 a.m. Col. Robert P. Hatcher, deputy post commander, will be the reviewing officer.

The ceremony will include the placing of decorations on all military graves and a wreath on the grave of the Unknown Soldier. Graveside services also will be held.

A 21-gun salute will be fired at the Infantry Hall ceremony to be followed by the raising of the flag.

The Parkhill Cemetery ceremony, sponsored by the Chattahoochee Valley Veterans Council, will be held at 2 p.m. Col. Charles W. Youngman, former director of Industrial Operations, will be the guest speaker.

Welcome Center assists arrivals

By Wendell Cochran.

A Welcome Center has been opened to assist incoming personnel in their adjustment to Fort Benning.

The center, operated by Army Community Services, was opened last week. It is located in Building 83, next door to the Personnel Processing Center, which also was established by the Modern Volunteer Army program.

The welcome center is an expanded service that replaced the Hospitality House on Dixie Road.

Capt. Michael McBride, ACS officer, said the welcome center offers a wide range of services to the just-arrived family.

Included are family registration, an interview with Red Cross personnel to see if the family has any problems on arrival and a loan closet that furnishes necessary household items while the new arrivals are waiting for their household goods.

Each day at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. the welcome center conducts an orientation on post facilities and services.

One of the most important services the center offers is that of providing information to the newcomer. "They have many questions when they get here and we help answer them," McBride said.

When problems are discovered by the welcome center, the family is referred to the proper service agency.

Prior to the Modern Volunteer Army program, there was no formal welcome center.

The welcome center is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. There is no charge for any of its services, McBride said.

Lt. Gen. Kinnard to address meeting of AUSA chapter

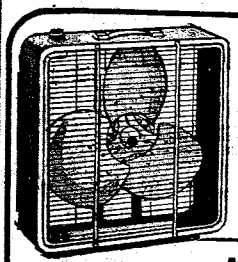
Lt. Gen. Harry W. O. Kinnard, who built an air mobile division into a super fighting force at Fort Benning and in the jungles of Vietnam, will address the general membership meeting of the local chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army here June 14.

Officers for 1971-72 will be elected at the meeting, which will bring to a close the activities for the 1970-71 year. Under Joe Flowers, chapter president, the chapter continued to lead the way in membership, activities and support of AUSA resolutions.

Gen. Kinnard's address will be at 8:30 p.m. in Infantry Hall's Marshall Auditorium. All soldiers and civilians are invited to attend.

A social hour (with $1 being collected at the door for drinks and snack) will be held at the Officers Open Mess Supper Club at 7 p.m. Transportation will be provided from the club to the auditorium for the meeting.

Gen. Kinnard, who retired from the Army in August 1968 after serving as commanding officer of the Combat Developments Command, is now president of the board of McCulloch Aircraft Corporation of California. The trip here will afford him an opportunity to renew acquaintances with many friends in the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning area.



Gen. Kinnard guided the 11th Air Assault Division through its training and holding phases at Fort Benning when the air mobility concept was implemented in February 1963 and was its combat commander when the division was redesignated as the 1st Cavalry Division and deployed to Vietnam in 1965.

He had a distinguished and colorful Army career dating back to his graduation from the U. S. Military Academy in 1939.

He was at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, when the war with Japan started and later he helped to organize the 501st Parachute Infantry Regiment at Toccoa, Ga., in November 1942.

12 high school students receive OWC scholarships

The Officers Wives Club (OWC) last week awarded cash and savings bond scholarships to 12 dependent high school students in ceremony held in the office of Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander.

Six students received awards of $500 each, and six students received $100 savings bonds.

Recipients of the $500 awards were as follows:

Michael E. Freeman, son of Mrs. Doris G. Freeman.

Mary D. Greer, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. George D. Greer, Weapons Department.

Shannon E. Jones, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. John L. Jones Jr., commander of 2nd Stu. Bn., TSB.

Katherine A. See, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Herbert G. See, MEDDAC.

Helen G. Siegrist, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Robert H. Siegrist, commander of Combat Development Command, Infantry Agency.

Susan L. Stigall, daughter of Mrs. Marguerite P. Stigall.

Recipients of the $100 savings bonds included:

Robert F. Blumhagen Jr., son of Maj. (ret.) and Mrs. Robert F. Blumhagen. Blumhagen also received a Navy ROTC scholarship.

Jay A. Boettcher, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Luis H. Boettcher, Office of Data Systems, Infantry Center. Boettcher also received an Army ROTC scholarship.

Michael J. Sibley, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Nathan C. Sibley, Infantry Board. Sibley also received an Army ROTC scholarship.

Harrell D. Spoons Jr., son of Maj. and Mrs. Harrell D. Spoons, Weapons Department. Spoons received a Navy ROTC scholarship in addition to the OWC scholarship.

Stephen A. Turner, son of Maj and Mrs. Alvin H. Turner, 931st Engineer Group. Turner also was selected for the U. S. Naval Academy.

Robert N. Van Der Like, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert Van Der Like, Finance and Accounting Office, Infantry Center. Van Der Like also received an Army ROTC scholarship.

Mrs. Jack L. Conn, wife of Col. Conn of the Weapons Department, and another OWC member, Mrs. Charles C. Thebaund, wife of Col. Thebaund, Deputy Chief of Staff, selected the winners from a field of 19 students.

The contest was open to all dependents of members of the OWC, and winners were selected on the basis of the combination of three factors: A numerical average of high school grades and Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SAT), required for admission to many colleges; a list of school activities the student participated in; and a letter explaining why the student wanted to enter the contest.

Bible school to start classes June 14 at Religious Center

The 1971 Protestant Vacation Bible School will be held June 14-23 at the Religious Education Center on Dixie Road from 8:30 to 11 a.m. Monday through Friday of the first week and Monday through Wednesday of the second week.

Registration days are June 1-3 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Religious Education Center, Bldg. 2606, Dixie Road. All persons who have not previously registered through the Sunday School or other groups are requested to come to the religious Education Center or call 545-4334 or 545-7413 during the designated hours.

The school will be opened to children of Fort Benning pesonnel four years of age through those just completing the 8th grade. Departments will be provided for teachers' and workers' children from birth to four years of age.

Teachers, pianists, and secretaries are needed and are requested to call the Director of Religious Education at 545-4334-7413 to volunteer their services.

Decoupage instruction

Beginning in June the OWC will offer decoupage classes. The classes will be conducted in four weekly sessions, each period lasting two hours. To enable more members to participate, an afternoon and an evening class schedule will be set up as follows:

Day class begins Tuesday, from 1 to 3 p.m.

Night class begins June 7, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The cost of the instruction will be $11. This will be an ideal opportunity to contribute to the OWC treasury and learn an entertaining hobby.

Classes will be taught by Marilyn Jacobs, member of class 6-71. Call 544-2349 for registration or for further information.

Dance school performs minuet, ballet, polka

Bright faces and sparkling tutus graced the stage at Dexter School Wednesday evening at a recital presented by the Officers Wives Club school of dance. Pupils under the direction of Terrell Faulk and Sonja Manzi delighted an audience of 300 parents and friends with a program which included minuet polka and tap numbers and ballet music from Faust.

Mrs. Richard Sebenolar, coordinator for the recital, introduced Mrs. Elliott Sydnor who will be chairman of the School of Dance for 1971-72. Punch, sandwiches and cake were served after the performance.

Mr. Faulk and Mrs. Manzi are director and assistant director of the Springer Ballet Company of Columbus, and have been with the OWC School of Dance several years. Classes in pre-ballet, ballet, tap and modern jazz are offered to all military dependents from pre-school age through adult. Instruction will resume in September.

USAIB holds rustic 'hail and farewell'

The United States Army Infantry Board held a "hail and farewell" party May 7 on Lake Oliver. Fish, chicken, and hush puppies were served to Board members and guests. "All you can eat" was the order of the day. Members and guests wined and dined in a rustic waterfront atmosphere set with tiki torches and fishnets.

Gifts were pesented to departees Capt. and Mrs. John Malpass, Capt. and Mrs. Marc Jolly, Maj. and Mrs. Robert Browning, and Capt. and Mrs. James Cunningham. New arrivals honored were Maj. and Mrs. Michael Moran, Maj. and Mrs. Donald Kelsey, Capt. and Mrs. Conrad Novak, and Capt. and Mrs. Robert Jones.

Baby cups were presented to Maj. and Mrs. Robert Browning and Capt. and Mrs. James Cunningham.

The festivities began with an automobile rally where men, their ladies and their machines were pitted against a timed rally course. The ralliers started at the St. Mary's Hills Plaza in Columbus, negotiated a 47-minute course on the outskirts and finished at Bartlett's Ferry. Maj. Dick James was the surprise winner. His 4 cylinder Datsun (only 2 cylinders fired) beat Mustangs, Corvettes, Fiats and Volvos. Lt. Col. Arthur Wichmann in his powerful Fiat finished last which qualified him for the booby prize. In his case an error in map reading caused him to lose rather than the lack of a powerful machine. None of the cars entered in the race received police citations.

'Chair-borne' soldiers become 'field-borne' for 3-day FTX

The "chair-borne" soldiers of the 524th Pers. Svc. Co., 931st Engr. Gp., became "field-borne" from May 19 to May 21 when they moved into the field at Fort Benning for their annual Field Training Exercise (FTX).

For most units, moving to the field is no problem since everyone goes and the unit has the single mission of improving their combat readiness. It's quite a bit different for the 524th, however, because their every day mission—providing personnel service support for the majority of units at Fort Benning—is too critical to allow the unit to spend even one day away from main post, much less the three days normally spent on a FTX. Modifications in the training schedule were therefore necessary and actual training time was somewhat limited.

The first day out a skeleton crew of 20 soldiers was left behind to man the offices while the rest of the troops moved out to establish a base camp. Tents were erected and the perimeter defenses were established.

Units from the 67th Maint. Bn., 931st Engr. Gp. provided transportation for the 17 mile journey to and from the field camp. The soldiers from the 524th were trucked from post in the evening and back again in the morning.

"We didn't get anywhere near the amount of training completed we would liked to have but under the circumstances we did the best we could," said Capt. Albert D. Carter, 524th company commander. He said there was only time for two nights of training and that command information, CBR training and a racial seminar were the only areas covered.

MSgt.'s son made 2nd Lt.

2nd Lt. Andrew J. Sheppard, a son of MSgt. and Mrs. C. B. Sheppard Sr. of Columbus recently was commissioned in the Military Police Corps upon graduation from Tuskegee Institute.

A native of Fayette, Ala., Lt. Sheppard graduated with a bachelor of science degree in sociology. He attended high School in Columbus and at Fort Bragg, N.C.

Board checks off-post businesses

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of three articles dealing with agencies established to aid consumers.)

By Charles McEwen
Armed Forces Disciplinary Control Board

The Armed Forces Disciplinary Control Board, composed of military and civilian agencies, handles such matters as racial discrimination, overcharging, shortchanging, selling of inferior merchandise or drugs and prostitution at off-post businessess.

If a soldier has a complaint in one of these areas, he should see his unit commander first, explains Capt. James E. Lucas, recorder for the board. After that, the complaint can be forwarded to Lucas' office, the Military Investigation Section of the Provost Marshal's Office.

After a complaint is made and witnesses supplied, where possible, Lucas' office initiates an investigation, checks the establishment several times and then makes a recommendation to the board.

If the incident is minor in nature, the board usually gives an establishment a second chance, Lucas said. If it's major, however, the business can be placed on the off-limits list which is published quarterly.

Post Exchange Activities

Customers with complaints against on-post businesses should first contact an official at the business in question.

After that, if the customer is still not satisfied, Charles M. Teague, assistant services operations manager, suggests calling the appropriate supervisory office:

For concessionaires — cleaners, barber shops, garages and drive-in restaurants on post — call the concession supervisor's office at 545-2989; for retail sales, call the retail operations manager at 545-4137; and for food sales, call the food operations manager at 545-7328.

Britisher is briefed by Board

The commander of the British Army Staff, Washington, D.C., paid a visit May 13 to the Infantry Board.

Bigadier G. H. Mills, British military attache, received an official welcome to the Board from Col. Charles B. Thomas, president of the Infantry Board, in his office. During the welcome Col. Thomas briefed the brigadier on the board's mission and organization.

Brig. Mills then observed presentations on the DRAGON, night vision sights, and test methodology made by Lt. Col. Burton Patrick, Lt. Col. Santiago Garcia and Maj. Richard James.

After the briefing Brig. Mill was escorted to the Infantry Board's Farnsworth Range where he was briefed on equipment and weapons that were tested by the Board.

197th opens school for buck sergeants

By Steve Partridge

The 197th Infantry Brigade added another first to its achievements May 17 when the brigade opened the 197th NCO School.

Located in the Harmony Church area, the school is designed to train NCOs in the grade of sergeant E-5 to be leaders and supervisors in garrison-type situations.

The three-week course consists of leadership training provided by battalion sergeants major and the command sergeant major of the brigade. The course includes physical training and various practical exercises of the combat specialities.

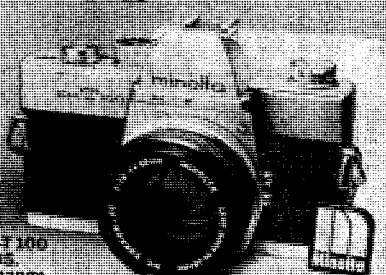
Part of the training is the navigation of a night compass course and an orienteering and compelling exercise.

There is no designated number of men chosen by the units of the brigade to participate in the school although priority consideration is given to those individuals having an 11, 12 or 13 series MOS (military occupational specialty).

Participating in the opening day introduction was Col. Willard Latham, 197th Inf. Bde. commander, addressing approximately 50 students, Col. Latham stated, "You and this school are going to be decisive in the experience of the brigade for the coming year."

After the address, the students marched outside into formation and prepared to undertake their first day of training.

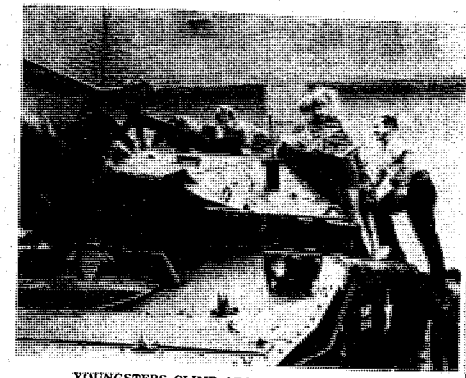
To be eligible for the school, a candidate must be in the grade of sergeant or serving in the rank of sergeant, have a combat MOS, have graduation through Annual GST, and have no physical profile limitations.



Graduation for the candidates was scheduled for June 4.

Khakis worn 1st in India

WASHINGTON (ANF) — Khakis were first worn by British troops in India during the Afghan War (1878-79).



The word "khaki" means "dust colored." Khakis got their start when British troops colored their uniforms with dust or mud to give camouflage against deadeyed native marksmen.

YOUNGSTERS CLIMB ABOARD SHERMAN TANK
In Atlanta Display Set Up By 4th Bn., 69th Arm.

1st 'unit-of-choice' men to arrive at 197th in June

By Bob Wise

Efforts to recruit men for the 197th Infantry Brigade appear to be running smoothly as 49 young men had signed up as of May 16. The brigade expects the initial volunteers to begin arriving about mid-June.

Under the "unit-of-choice" option plan, a man can enlist in the Army to serve with he 197th Inf. Bde. He receives his basic and advanced training at a U. S. Army Training Center and upon graduation from his training, he is assigned to the brigade for a minimum of 6 months.

After 6 months in the brigade, the soldier is eligible for reassignment. If assigned to a short tour area, the soldier returns to the brigade for the remainder of his three-year enlistment.

To date, the brigade recruiting teams have given 65 high school presentations, 15 civic presentations and 50 outdoor displays to more than 175,000 people.

More than 2,600 referral slips have been received from the viewers of the presentations and displays. USAREC recruiters are responsible for interviewing each referral.

The 197th is one of seven major Army units in the Continental United States selected to test the new recruiting program. The success of the "unit-of-choice" recruiting option will provide a portion of the yardstick the Army will use in measuring the feasibility of a zero draft.

Although the brigade is focusing its efforts within a 125-mile radius, it is not restricted to this area of operations (AO). The brigade AO is divided into five battalion AOs — three working with the Atlanta Recruiting Main station (RMS) and two working the Montgomery RMS.

The recruiting teams from the brigade have taken their displays and talks to more than 35 towns in Georgia and Alabama.

A typical recruiting display consists of a set of the brigade's weapons and vehicles. One such display ran recently in a suburban Atlanta shopping center.

Faith School slates graduation

Commencement exercises for the Don C. Faith School of Fort Benning will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Marshall Auditorium, Infantry Hall.

The president of the Post Dependents School Board, Col. David B. Conard, will deliver the commencement address to the graduating class.

Chaplain (Col.) Albert F. Ledebuhr will give the invocation.

Col. Robert J. Standley, school board member, will present graduation certificates to the 254 eighth grade graduates.

The superintendent of schools, Dr. Joseph T. Conforti, will award the first honors trophy to Terrance T. Tullia, son of CWO and Mrs. Emmett A. Tullia, second honors trophy to Steven Louis Fadul, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. William G. Fadul, and third honors trophy to Patrick D. Tisdale Jr., son of Col. and Mrs. Patrick D. Tisdale.

The Don C. Faith School chorus, under the direction of Mrs. James A. Green, will provide special music for the graduation exercises.

The 283rd Army Band, under the direction of CWO Brian D. Arnold, will provide music for the processional and the recessional.

Club schedules golf dogfight for holiday

The Fort Benning Country Club will feature a four-ball dogfight golf tournament on Memorial Day.

Players may choose their playing foursomes but composition of foursomes for the tournament will be determined by draw after the last contestants have started play.

Entry fee is $3. Full handicap will be applied.

The Pine Side Course will be reserved for tournament play until approximately 3 p.m. A starting time sheet will be used to determine priority for beginning play on the Lake Side Course.

Players desiring to compete in the tournament may obtain starting times and additional information at the golf pro shop.

Football star speaks to students

Maj. Peter M. Dawkins, former All-American football star at the U.S. Military Academy, addressed Infantry Officers Advance Course students last week.

Dawkins, who graduated from the Military Academy with the Class of 1959, was briefed on Infantry Center and Infantry School activities and the Modern Volunteer Army Program while on post.

He currently is assigned to the office of the special assistant for the Modern Volunteer Army, Office of the Chief of Staff, Washington.

Accompanying Dawkins to Fort Benning were Mrs. Dawkins, and Maj. Edward G. Silts and Maj. Harold C. VanMeter, who also are assigned to the office of the special assistant for the Modern Volunteer Army.

30 study indicator for 'miss distance'

The Infantry Board was the host for a 3-day symposium entitled the Miss Distance Indicator Symposium, sponsored by the U. S. Test and Evaluation Command (USATECOM) May 19-21.

The symposium was attended by more than 30 key managers, scientists and engineers from Army test and development activities. Representatives from the Infantry School and the Combat Developments Command also were present, including a representative of the Combat Experimentation Command at Ft. Ord, Calif. Other Army Material Command agencies represented included the Weapons Command, Frankfort Arsenal, Human Engineering Laboratories, Army Materiel Systems Analysis Agency, and Small Arms Agency.

The purpose of the symposium, the first of its kind, was to provide an exchange of information concerning miss distance indicators, target scoring systems and related subjects for weapons design, evaluation and testing.

Col. Charles B. Thomas, president of the Infantry Board, in his introductory remarks to the symposium summed up the scope of the symposium, stating that "we are to be concerned, in laymen's terms, with the following questions: Where does the projectile go, alter it has missed the target? What effect does the projectile have on the target? and Which round, when it misses the target, does the best job?"

Up to the present time, an effective means of measuring the miss distance of a round of ammunition has not been developed. It was hoped that the symposium would lead to new thoughts in this field.

The first day of the symposium was involved with presentations by participating test activities. Included in the formal presentations were current theories and methods of measurement involving the use of photography, acoustics, radar, laser, light refraction and light interruption to measure the miss distance of projectiles ranging from small arms to our largest missiles.

The second day's activities included practical presentations highlighted by a visit to the Infantry Board's Farnsworth Range, where current methods used by the Infantry Board were demonstrated and discussed. Small group discussion of the days activities culminated in the drafting of objectives, accomplishment and future considerations of attending agencies.

During the final days activity, individuals with similar miss distance problem discussed possible solutions and recommended feasibility investigations in various instrumentation areas.

Army seeks applications for OCS from minorities

In an effort to help increase the number of minority group accessions into its commissioned ranks, the Army is encouraging qualified minority group members to apply for Officer Candidate School (OCS).

Eligibility criteria are listed in AR 351-5. Prerequisites include a high school diploma or equivalent; a GT score of 100 or better; a minimum of 115 on the Officer Candidate Test (OCT); and a composite OCT-Officer Qualification Inventory score of 200 or more. Candidates also must be physically qualified and of high moral character. They cannot be more than 32½ years old at time of enrollment into OCS.

Competition for Officer Candidate School is keen and final selection is on a best qualified basis. Those interested in applying for this training should refer to AR 351-5 and or contact their unit commanders for further details.

AUSA

By Bob Barber

The Association of the United States Army (AUSA) — dedicated to the premise that a strong, modern mobile Army is vitally essential to our national defense.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE—OCS IS TOPS—

As the membership drive enters its final days, several items are noteworthy. Although the deadline for new memberships for the 1971 drive is May 31, the AUSA office, Infantry Hall Room 602, will accept applications through mid-June.

A special commendation goes to the AUSA representative to the Officer Candadate Battalion, TSB, for the outstanding 92 per cent personnel enrollment in AUSA. Other major units with top results are the 197th Infantry Brigade and the 931st Engineer Group.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS MEETING

Past president Roy L. Smith has been named chairman of the Chapter nominating committee which will submit a list for vacancies on the board of directors and for chapter officers for FY 1972.

GEN. HARRY KINNARD TO SPEAK AT AUSA

The Columbus- Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter of AUSA will hold its annual election meeting June 14 here at Fort Benning with Lt. Gen. Harry W. O. Kinnard as the special guest speaker. His visit here will be of special interest to present and past personnel of Fort Benning in that in his extensive career he has twice been associated with Benning. In July 1942, he entered the Infantry School to attend the Infantry Officer's Basic Course and the Parachute School. Then, 21 years later, in July of 1963, he arrived at Fort Benning to assume commaind of the 11th Air Assault Division (Test). From here, he took the 1st Air Cavalry Division to Vietnam in 1965. Lt. Col. Robert M. Wyer is the chaper program chairman for the June 14 meeting. Full details will be announced next week.

197TH BRIGADE PICNIC

The 197th Infantry Brigade kicked off its recent AUSA picnic with music from the "Reflections," a local rock group, complete with go-go dancers. A full afternoon of scheduled activities and displays included a sky-diving show by the Army parachute team, "The Golden Knights," and a boxing exhibition. Track and field events and volleyball competition gave everyone a chance to participate in sports and the winners were awarded trophies. A soldiers' dance held at the Kelley Hill Service Club terminated the day's activities.

ROTC RIFLE AND DRILL COMPETITION

Representing 30 high schools and five states from the 3rd Army area and one from the Panama Canal Zone, 650 cadets comprised the largest invitational ROTC rifle and drill meet held to date. Robert E. Lee High School, Thomaston, Ga., and Cristobal High School, Canal Zone, carried off the top honors in this, the Fourth annual drill team competition. In the rifle competition, Robert E. Lee High finished first with Baker High and Hardaway High (both of Columbus) finishing second and third respectively. Top honors in the individual rifle competition went to Robert Walsh of Baker High. At the awards ceremony in Marshall Auditorium, AUSA president Joe J. Flowers and Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, presented the trophies.

931st Gp. MP graduates with honors at academy

A 931st Engineer Group man was graduated with honors May 21 from the 3rd Army Noncommissioned Officer Academy at Ft. McClellan, Ala.

Sp5 Robert Jackson, 27, a military police investigator with the 139th MP Co., 931st, topped all other NCOs during the six-week course in over-all scores. Jackson competed for top honors against 84 classmates from 10 Army posts throughout Third Army.

The Orlando, Fla., resident was graduated in 1965 from the University of Missouri, Columbia, with a degree in history. At the military academy he received instruction in academic, leadership, tactics, effective writing, map reading, material readiness and unit administration courses.

Guest speaker at the graduation was Maj. Gen. George S. Blanchard, commanding general of the 82d Abn. Div., Ft. Bragg, N.C. The general challenged the graduating NCOs to "meet the changes" the Army will face as a volunteer force.

After the graduation ceremonies Capt. Gerald B. Kennedy, 139th company commander, presented Jackson with a three-day pass.

Biologist works at job he was trained for

Sp4 poisons ponds to provide healthy fish environment

By Frank Webb

"When I started school in 1964, people would ask what my major was, and when I told them 'fish biology,' all they would do was shrug their shoulders and say, 'Oh.'

"They don't shrug their shoulders now, though," claims Sp4 Ralph M. Stedman of Farmington, Mich.

"The whole attitude of the public," says Fort Benning's 24-year-old fish expert, "has changed with the increased emphasis on the environment."

Stedman is the official post fish biologist and he feels the experience he has gained in the Army will be a definite help in his career as a fish biologist. He graduated from Michigan State University in 1969 with a bachelor of science degree in Fish and Wildlife Management.

Although he might possibly have become a personnel clerk or been assigned to some other unrelated type of job, he has found an opportunity to work at the job he was trained for: Fish and wildlife conservation.

What lured him into becoming a fish biologist was a constant association with the outdoors, beginning with summers spent at his grandparents' lakeside resort in Michigan.

Several months after he was assigned to Fort Benning the lure of the outdoors caused him to ask for a position in the Fish and Wildlife Management section of the Post Engineers. He got the job because his skill and training were felt to be a help in the section, says Roy T. Johnston, section chief.

Assigned to the section in August of 1969, Stedman has begun a program of building up a proper balance of aquatic life in the main post ponds: Victory, Twilight and Russ.

Stedman examined the ponds and found them choked with weeds and overcrowded with stunted fish. So he waded into the job of gradually killing off the weeds and thinning the population of the ponds.

Though many people are opposed to the idea of controlling population through such methods as partial poisoning of a lake, Stedman says it allows the population to spread out and grow.

"If there are too many fish," he states, "there is not enough food to go around. Then the population becomes stunted, with many small, below-average fish and the result is poor fishing."

Partial poisoning is not the only method used, however. Stedman uses techniques such as poisoning aquatic weeds and pulling trash from the lake bottom. Such simple methods have great effect when they are applied on a large scale, for the removal of the objbjstructions also removes hiding places for small fish and thus exposing them to predatory fish such as bass.

Other problems, however, prevent these methods from working quickly. For instance, bass fishing eliminates the predators from the lake and restocking is frequently the only solution. Too many dead weeds in the lake can exhaust the oxygen supply of the water, possibly killing many oxygen-starved fish.

But thinning the population of the ponds is not the only thing Stedman does to aid nature for his job also involves feeding the fish, often with as much as 250 to 300 pounds of fish feed per day in each pond.

He also must check the population for size and number of fish of any given species.

"Saving the waterways of the United States," he says, "is possible if there is active public support. I don't think that it (pollution) can be completely stopped, however. You just can't restore America's rivers to the natural state."

Fort Benning, he says, has few problems with pollution right now. A recent test of the water in one post stream, for instance, exceeded federal water purity standards.

Stedman now is approaching the end of his Army service and plans to either go back to work in Michigan or to enter a master's degree program at Michigan State.

197th participates in Dothan Loyalty Day

By Bob Wheatley

The 197th Infantry Brigade participated May 8 in the second annual Loyalty Day Celebration in Dothan, Ala. Loyalty Day, sponsored by the Wiregrass Chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Dothan, was an expression of loyalty to the United States and appreciion of the U. S. Armed Forces.

The celebration included a parade in which the 197th Inf. Bde. took top honors as the best unit. Other units in the parade included the 98th Army Band and Co. E, 30th Inf., from Ft. Rucker, the Dothan High School ROTC, the Pensacola Navy Base Color Guard, the Dothan Air National Guard and Army Reserve, the Montgomery Marine Corp ROTC, the Ozark (Ala.) Air National Guard, the Maxwell Air Force Band and the Andalusia National Guard.

The 197th Bde. had assembled a recruiting display at a Dothan shopping center May 6 and 8 for public viewing. Visitors were allowed to inspect the exhibits and watch demonstrations. Included in the display were five Armored Personnel Carriers (APCs), one 106mm recoilless rifle "gun jeep" and two other jeeps from the 1st Bn. (Mechs), 58th Inf., one TOW jeep from the 1st Bn., 29th Inf.; two 105mm and two 155mm artillery pieces from the 2nd Bn., 10th Arty; and two Sheridan Tanks and "Tinker Toy" from the 4th Bn., 69th Armor.

Inside the shopping center was a display filled with pamphets and information on rewarding career opportunities offered by the 197th Inf. Bde. under the VOLAR plan. Also included in the display was a small-arms display board with all of the Army's latest weaponry, and a film on Airborne history.

Scout dog teams gave demonstrations throughout the day.

Birth certificates not only way to prove age

"I do not have a birth certificate and the state did not record births when I was born. How will I prove my age when I apply for social security?" This question is frequently asked by people nearing retirement age states Robert E. O'Neal, district manager of the Columbus social security office.

However, O'Neal pointed out that the Social Security Administration can use other documents to prove a person's age. When a birth certificate is not available, other documents commonly used are: baptismal records, family Bibles, insurance policies, school records, federal census records, and many other old documents.

The Federal census record is one of the best documents used and this record is available to everyone at a cost of only $4. He states the Social Security Office has forms for ordering census records and will be very happy to assist anyone who needs help requesting records.

MPs use VASCAR to keep Benning safe

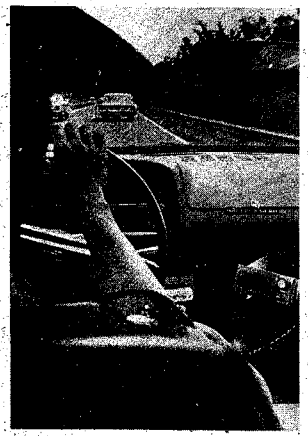
By John Box



"But officer my wife is having a baby." . . . "Gee Whiz man I was only going 5 over" . . . "Haven't you got anything better to do than harrass motorists?" And so it goes day after day for the MP's of the 139th Co., 93rd Engr. Gp., Traffic and Accident Investigation Section as they do their best to control traffic at Fort Benning.

One of several methods of control is to step the speeding driver with the aid of VASCAR and radar equipped patrol cars.

Most of us are familiar with the radar set up having seen that chrome plated little gadget hanging out the window of many a patrol car, but VASCAR, that's something a little different.

There are only two licensed VASCAR operators with the MPs at Fort Benning. One is Sp4 Charles S. Spray, who describes the unit this way, "VASCAR is a computerized clocking device which can't be seen outside the car and is accurate to within one-tenth of a mile."

In comparison to radar, VASCAR is far more sophisticated and versatile. It can be used from a moving patrol car while a radar unit must remain stationary. VASCAR also clock cars following the patrol car, travelling in front, coming in the opposite direction and just about every other way you can imagine.

David Okimoto

SPRAY RUNS VASCAR CHECK

Using the VASCAR and radar units, Spray and his fellow patrolmen write an average of 300 tickets a week.

The man in charge of the traffic section is SFC George W. Anderson, a 15-year veteran in military police work. Contrary to a popular misconception, he hotly denies that his men have quotas to fill in the number of tickets they write.

"There are no quotas to fill and we don't operate speed traps designed to trap the driver," Anderson declared. He went on to explain that VASCAR and radar are not used to "trap" the driver before he or she can slow down where there is a change in the speed limit. Anderson added, "We don't try to bait a driver into keeping up with a patrol car so we can ticket him for speeding. All we are trying to do, the whole purpose for strict enforcement is to slow people down . . . that's a helluva lot easier than sweeping them up off the streets."

The statistics support Anderson's contention that VASCAR and radar are an effective deterrent to speeders and resulting fatalities. Since clocking devices came into use at Fort Benning there has been a steady decrease in the number of fatalities on post. There were 14 deaths due to accidents in 1968, 13 in 1969, 10 in 1970 and so far this year only two.

Statistical evidence also shows a 50 per cent decrease in all types of accidents on the main arteries of Fort Benning, but there are presently 50 per cent fewer troops here now than in the past. However, it should be pointed out that a great percentage of those troops were hurt in a training capacity and were not driving cars.

The traffic section is also quick to respond to complaints about speeding drivers from post residents. An example is the complaint by a woman living on Arrowhead Road in the Battle Park housing area on post. She complained that motorists were not observing the 15 mph speed limit and thereby endangering the lives of children playing in the area. Spray was sent out with his VASCAR unit and wrote an average of 30 tickets a day for one week. The next week he went back into the area and only stopped four motorists. The facts speak for themselves.

Still, there are those who feel they are being unjustly ticketed for speeding with the argument, "My speedometer was pegged right on the sped limit." To an extent the MPs will give the motorist the benefit of the doubt by not stopping a speeder unless he is at least six mph over the speed limit. But, by law, an inaccurate speedometer is no excuse and a ticket will be served.

The MPs are aware of this problem, however, and periodically they will take a day out and calibrate speedometers for any interested motorist. The last such day was May 18 on 101st Airborne Division Road across from Fryar Field (the jump site for Airborne troops). They calibrated speedometers for all post speed limits from 15 to 60 mph during the hours of 9 to 11 a.m. and again from 1 to 4 p.m.

Anderson expressed great satisfaction and tremendous pride in his department and in his men. "They work five days a week, 12 hours a day plus occasional weekend duty and through it all maintain a high degree of professionalism," he said.

The traffic section is under strength with only 14 MPs to work outside, thereby necessitating the long hours. "Our C.O., Capt. Gerald Kennedy supports us 100 per cent in trying to get us more people for the department but trained MPs are at a premium," Anderson said.

Aside from tracking down speeders and writing tickets for all types of moving violations, the traffic section sees to it that children get to and from school safely every day by manning school cross walks. They also see to it that drivers get to and from work as quickly and safely as possible by directing rush hour traffic at Fort Benning. In addition, the section may be called upon to provide escort duties for visiting dignitaries or to direct parking at a PTA meeting on post.

Students to get all wet in Branch Immaterial

Students in the new Branch Immaterial Officer Candidate Course (BIOCC) class as of June 6 will receive a different type of test as part of their early training.

The first Saturday after their in-processing they will get a chance to go swimming. The test, a swimming diagnostic test conducted at Carey Pool, will consist of each candidate jumping into the deep end of the pool feet first and then propelling himself 50 meters to the other end, of the pool by the use of any stroke.

Candidates who fail to swim 50 meters will be required to return the following Saturdays for remedial swimming until they swim the required distance.

The test is part of a new program being developed by the Conditioning, Combatives and Drill Committee of the Leadership Department, USAIS. The purpose and scope of the program is to have every candidate swimming by the time they graduate.

To administer this new program, water safety instructors will be provided by the Conditioning, Combatives and Drill Committee.

Unit COs reminded of pay allotment 'regs'

Unit commanders are reminded that there are definite regulations governing the allotment of partial pay.

As a result of a too liberal approval policy, finance officials estimate that during the January-June 1970 period $6,128 in partial pay and $11,970 casual payments was lost.

These losses are attributed to several factors. In many cases back-logged vouchers are appearing now in cases where soldiers have separated from the service without having their partial pay deducted from their regular pay. This coupled with the fact that many vouchers are lost entirely results in an increasing deficit.

According to reports, the biggest mistake the unit commander makes is not substantiating the reason for the advanced pay. Often the checking procedure can be completed with just a phone call to the appropriate or involved parties.

Another method of establishing grounds of approval is to refer to the soldiers finance record. These records will enable the officer to determine if there have been frequent prior requests for partial pay. It also will show any pay withheld as a result of an Article 15.

Company grade officers are encouraged to refamiliarize themselves with Army Regulaton 37-125, regarding partial payments and with agencies which deal in financial aid.

Float bridge unit tests emergency performance

Soldiers of the 568th Engr. Co. (Float Bridge), 93ist Engr. Gp., moved into the field at Fort Benning May 10-14 for a special training exercise to test their ability to cope with combat-related emergencies.

The 586th is the only float bridge company in the 3rd Army, making it essential that the engineers be ready to react at any time.

During the problem, the company was called upon to build footbridges, tactical rafts, short dry gap bridges, and pontoon rafts.

The unit's support platoon built several footbridges and a light tactical raft during the exercises. Under the supervision of SFC Harry Feick, all men E-4 and below operated outboard motors on the raft and senior-ranking enlisted men served as raft commanders.

When asked about the purpose of building and operating the raft, platoon leader 2nd Lt. Tom Wehrle said, "This experience was invaluable as many of the men were just assigned to the company and have had no prior training with this equipment."

At another site, the 2nd and 4th platoons constructed pontoon rafts under the direction of SSgt. Ernest Williams. The rafts form the base for floating bridges which support most of the Army's largest equipment.

A high point in the exercise was 1st Lt. Joe Miller's 5th platoon's record-breaking erection of a dry gap bridge. The "River Rats" finished the bridge with four minutes to spare despite harassment provided by Capt. Ronald McLendon and 1st Sgt. Charles Pample.

PSgt. John Somonski and squad leader, SSgt. Donald Bever, said the soldiers who constructed this bridge were not trained combat engineers and their performance far exceeded expectations.

Even though the training exercises were cut short because of severe weather, everyone concerned with the problem was pleased with the performance of the company.

The mission of the 586th is to support other combat units with floating bridge equipment and to provide technical assistance in assembling the equipment.

At Lawson Airfield

Engineers solve erosion problem

Men of the 93ist Engineer Group have rescued Lawson Airfield from a severe erosion problem which was destroying several acres of valuable property.

The engineers were called in to rectify the airfield's drainage problem when it was noticed that a drainage pipe was clogged with sand.

The non-functioning pipe was creating further drainage problems and eroison was taking its toll during heavy spring rains.

To clear the pipe and allow proper drainage, the engineers had to dig by hand several manholes leading into the pipe. Then, with the aid of a special nozzle loaned by the City of Columbus engineers, the soldiers were able to force sediment out of the pipe with high-pressure water hoses and trucks from the post fire department.

In charge of the work was Co. B, 43rd Engr. Bn. Capt. James A. Jarvis, company commander, said about 30 men were assigned to repair the damaged property.

In addition to correcting the drainage pipe the engineers had to clear land with heavy equipment and construct proper drainage formations in the area.

Now the engineers are tasked with covering the site with top soil which will be planted with grass to prevent further erosion.

Capt. Jarvis said his men completed their mission so well that "they've been assigned to two other construction tasks at the airfield."

6 soldiers get medals

During the ceremony Silver Stars were presented to Capt. Thomas H. Whitley, Department 1, The Infantry School, Office of the Secretary; Capt. Roland D. Griffith, HHC, 4th Stu. Bn., TSB; SFC Thomas O. Richardsnn, 3rd Ranger Co., TSB, and Sgt. William Wilson, 10th Co., 1st Bn., TSB.

CW2 Tony K. Bankston, 197th Avn. Co., Avn. Cmd., received the Distinguished Flying Cross with second Oak Leaf Cluster and the Soldier's Medal, and Capt. Joseph F. Rex Jr., Hq. Det., Hq. Cmd., received the Soldier's Medal.

Seek local aid for troubles

WASHINGTON (ANF) — Stateside permanent party troops can save time and travel by taking compassionate-reassignment and other assignment problems to home station personnel shops, not to the Office of Personnel Operations (OPO) at the Department of the Army.

Normally the only people OPO will talk to are those in transit with a problem that developed after they left their old unit, and those on emergency leave from overseas. Other soldiers arriving at OPO will be referred to their home stations for personnel assistance.

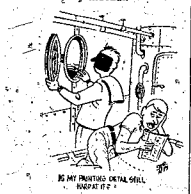
The term "annual" is applied to a plant which reaches maturity during its first season of growth. After producing flowers and ripening seeds, the plant dies.



Army fires big missiles

The firings were the first in the spring series of long-range tests with the Pershing, which is the largest weapon in the field artillery arsenal.

The missiles were fired by men of Pershing battalions from the 7th U.S. Army in Europe. Target area for the missiles was the White Sands Missile Range, N. M., approximately 400 miles away.

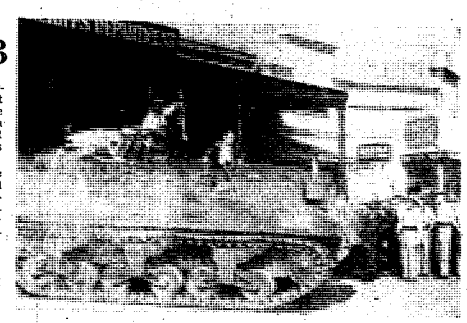
50-gun salute, parade to kick off Independence celebration, July 3

The 195th anniversary of the founding of our nation will be celebrated Fort Benning-style with a massive fireworks display and numerous carnival activities on July 3.

Since July 4 falls on a Sunday this year the post's activities have been scheduled a day earlier.

As in previous years one of the biggest highlights of the Independence Day activities will be the massive fireworks display on York Field to end the day-long entertainment.



Beginning the day will be a 50-gun salute to the Union at noon and a parade formation by one company from each brigade size unit on post. The Independence Day carnival will be officially kicked off by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander.

Carnival events are to include a midway of games and entertainment on Eubanks Field, buddy-seat rides on the 250-foot Airborne tower, vehicle rides for the children, a "battle of the bands" and beauty and talent contests in Marshall Auditorium.

Evening events before the fireworks display will include a sky diving demonstration and entertainment by the 283rd Army Band and the Infantry Chorus.

Admission tickets for the carnival are presently on sale to active military and retired personnel and their dependents and all civilian employes on post and their dependents.

Prizes for the band and beauty contests will be $250 savings bonds for first place and $100 savings bonds for second place. A $200 savings bond will be awarded for first place in the talent contest and $100 bond for second place.

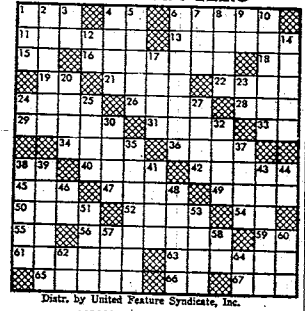
In 'Twelve Chairs'

DeLuise projects woes of innocent

A set of crossed funny bones should mark the spot where Dom DeLuise has appeared. The young comedian who stars in Mel Brooks,' "The Twelve Chairs," the adventure comedy showing at post theaters, has a way of projecting the woes which can only fall upon the innocent, that sets TV, stage and screen audiences squirming with pure delight.

Brooklyn born, by the time DeLuise finished grammar school he had a good idea of what he wanted to be so he enrolled in New York's High School of the Performing Arts. His comic talents were soon apparent after teachers watched his expert imitation of the mannerisms and facial expressions of those around him.



After a side excursion into academia at Tufts College in Boston, DeLuise joined the Cleveland Playhouse. During a two season stay there he appeared in "Staling 17," "Bloomer Girl," and "Kiss Me Kate" among other staples. Then came a stint on television in New York where he was with comedian Joe Boya on a children's show and later starred as Tinker in "Tinker's Workshop."

Academia called again and this time Dom enrolled at Brooklyn College with the intention of becoming a biology teacher. But his original idea of what he wanted to be eventually seemed to be the better one so he joined up with the Off-Broadway production of "The Jackass."

Subsequent comedy roles in summer stock and the long-running "Little Mary Sunshine" burnished DeLuise's talents to a degree where he ultimately was up for the Gary Moore Show. Viewers response to his antics after only a couple of appearances was so overwhelmingly favorable that he was chosen to star with Carol Burnett, Bob Newhart and Caterina Valenti for the repertory company of "The Entertainers."

Dramatizers' funny thing is that no one stays long

By Fran Wiblin

Just when Fort Benning's little theater group have sought for months, the Dramatizers get someone with abilities, they that someone never manages to stay around long. Such is the case of Mary Mehmenken, whose experience in fashion designing was just what was needed for the group's production of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

(Tickets for the musical comedy now are on sale at $1 each at the post playhouse, Bldg. 1227, or the Special Services Office, Bldg. 394. Curtain time is 8 p.m. for the show which plays June 3-5 and 10-12 at the playhouse.)

Mary arrived at Fort Benning in March, and because of her interest in theater gained in her hometown of Lincoln, Neb., she joined the Dramatizers shortly after "Forum" was voted the group's next production. The choice was fortunate for both Mary and her husband Roy as it gave Mary a chance to use her costuming talent and Roy an opportunity to play Lycus in the show.

Unfortunately for the Dramatizers, however, the group will only be able to make use of the talents of these two individuals during the production schedule of "Forum" as Roy ends his tour here at the end of next month.

"I read through the script several times, and began research on costumes of the period," Mary said of her research for the musical, which is set in the Rome of about 200 B.C.

Mary commented that in that era colors had significant meanings so most of the costumes in the show are in happy colors because it is a comedy. She explained that it is important to consult with lighting and set technicians to coordinate specific color characteristics. "I also had to be conscious of the personality of the character being portrayed in designing each costume and still take into consideration the actor's own color aura."

"Costumes do not make the show", she stated, "but certain effects in style and color of the costuming for 'Forum' can bring across the comical atmosphere of the production."

Mary also has put her talent to use in several theater productions in Lincoln. She started with "Music Man," "Camelot," and "My Fair Lady" while in high school. While majoring in fashion designing at the University of Nebraska, she did the costuming for "Carousel."

She received her B.S. in Home Economics and began her career as a display technician. Her spare time was spent at the Lincoln Community Playhouse working on costuming for "Brigadoon," "Hello Dolly," "Charlie's Aunt," "Little Mary Sunshine" and "Carnival".

"Doing an Army show is a new experience for me," Mary said. "There are even different procedures to follow in buying fabric. "But I still have found everyone to be very cooperative; it's been fun."

At the end of June, Mary and her husband will return to Nebraska where Mary hopes to become involved again with the Lincoln Community Playhouse.

'Soldiers' tells of EIB, MVA

"EIB — The Mark of a Man" and "MVA on the Way" are two feature articles in "Soldiers," the new official magazine of the Department of the Army (formerly Army Digest).

Fort Benning's attainment of all civilian KPs is prominently mentioned in the MVA article.

Libraries' books

The following titles are a representative listing of current books available for circulation at the Special Services libraries:

"An Education in Blood," Richard Elman: The interaction of two men, one accused of murder, the other probing the truth of the accusation. They drive each other to their ultimate truth.

"Autobiogrpby of Miss Jane Pittman," Ernest J. Gaines: The fictional autobiography of a black woman, born a slave, emancipated and alive through the 1960's. She retains her pride and her love for God and man.

"Gerber Report," Alex Gerber: A doctor's look at what is wrong with doctors in America today.

"Female Eunuch," Germaine Greer: The author discusses factors that have led women to what she feels is their present subservient position. She suggests a remedy for this condition.

"Unfit for Human Consumption," Ruth M. Harmer: An attack on the unrestricted use of pesticides in American agriculture, a serious danger to the health of everyone through the contamination of food supply.

"How to Survive in Your Native Land," James Herbdon: A radical school reformer attacks junior high schools in white middle class suburban communities indicating they are as detrimental to the lives of these children as any ghetto school.

"Story of Israel's Prime Minister," Peggy Mann: This book details Golda Meir's life from her childhood to her immigration to Israel where her devotion to rehuilding the homeland has made her the leader of her people.

"Adventure of Being a Wife," Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale: The story of Mrs. Peale's happy marriage with plenty of sound advice for other wives.

"Baby Trap," Ellen Peck: forthright attack on the cultural conditioning that the author contends forces American girls into motherhood. She suggests alternatives for those who reject conventional motherhood.

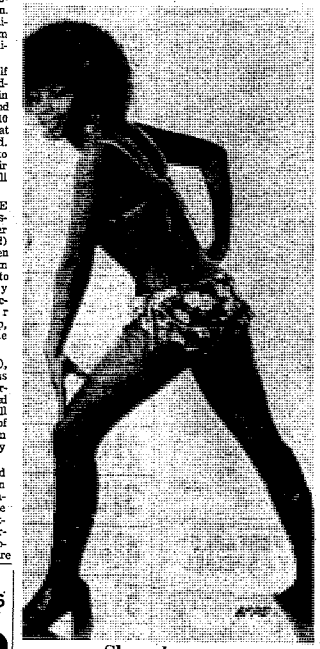
Synopsis

ON HER MAJESTY'S SECRET SERVICE (Rated GP) — Once again the arch madman Bolfeld (Telly Savalas) is threatening the world's peace and the new James Bond (George Lazenby) is assigned to run him down. Enroute he saves a beautiful girl (Diana Rigg) from what appears to be a suicide attempt.



Bond soon finds himself in Blofeld's secret headquarters. He is required in the line of duty to spend one night each with the 10 international beauties that Blofeld has assembled. Through them he means to send a virus back to their homelands to destroy all vegetable life.

FLIGHT OF THE DOVES (Rated G) — Mistreated by their step-father Finn, Dove (Jack Wild) and his sister Derwil (Helen Rayer) run away from their home in England to live with Granny O'Flaherty (Dorothy McGuire) in Ireland. After stowing away on a ship, they start off across the Irish countryside on foot.

Hank Dove (Ron Moody), their sinister uncle who has a Jekyll - and - Hyde personality, sets out to find and kill them so he will inherit a large sum of money bequeathed them which he feels is rightfully his.

RABBIT, RUN (Rated R) — Rabbit Angstrom (James Caan) finds himself trapped in a marriage that is slowly deteriorating. His wife Janice (Carrie Snodgress) is an alcoholic and rather than care for her domestic chores she spends her afternoons drinking.

The only common factors in their marriage are their son Nelson (Marc Anthony Deer Nagel) and that Janice is seven months pregnant. On a spur-of - the-moment decision Rabbit leaves Janice and through an old friend meets Ruth (Anjanette Comer).

PFC's idea speeds through system to MVA top man

PFC Douglas Reitmeyer wants to ride a motorcycle across the United States telling people that the U. S. Army isn't the "bad guy" some say it is.

A crazy idea? Well, Reitmeyer doesn't think so, and although the plan has not yet been approved, he has convinced quite a few Army people that telling men his age what the Army is really like is a mighty fine idea.

The 21-year-old private, who has been studying electronics at the Army's Missile and Munition Center and School, Redstone Arsenal, Ala., first presented the idea through the local chain of command at Redstone. Almost before he could say "Today's Army Wants To Join You," the venturesome soldier was in Washington, D. C., telling the Modern Volunteer Army's (MVA's) top man, Lt. Gen. George I. Forstye, all about his roving ambassador plan.

"What really has convinced me that the Army is sincere about its program of modernizing, of wanting to attract volunteers and keep them," Reitmeyer says, "is the fact that I, as a private, had an idea one day and five days later was at the Pentagon explaining it to a general."

Reitmeyer is no stranger to motorcycles. He's owned 19 cycles in his life. While attending college in his hometown of San Jose, Calif., he and a motorcycle chum named Steve Booth did their share of cycling and planned to do more. But during Reitmeyer's second year of college, his student deferment was changed to a 1A classification. With a draft lottery number 54, he found himself in the Army last October.

After basic training at Ft. Ord, Calif., Reitmeyer arrived at Redstone Arsenal, where he saw the Volunteer Army program was gathering momentum. The cycle excursion, pushed to the back of his mind, snapped back into focus: "Might the Army sponsor a trip with me telling school-age audiences about my impressions of the Army?"

Reitmeyer says that he soon found out that "if you have a good idea, people will listen to you." He sold his idea to the MVA coordintor at the Missile School; Lt. Col. C. Frederick Kleis. Then, in turn, he sold the school commandant, Col. Gilbert P. Levy and Maj. Gen. Edwin I. Donley, commanding general of the Army Missile Command.

A phone call to the MVA people at the Pentagon came next, and then SWOOSH! Reitmeyer was in Washington, D.C. talking with Gen. Forsythe.

During their talk, Gen. Forsythe told the soldier to develop and submit to him a tentative plan for a 60- to 90-day trip around the states with stops at schools along the way. Reitmeyer's friend Booth may well be in on the excursion too, if a final go-ahead is given. Booth may be entering the Army soon, and Gen. Forsythe assured Reitmeyer that after completing basic training, it might be possible for Booth to be assigned as one of the roving Army ambassadors.

For the next 18 weeks, Reitmeyer will be at Sandia Base, N. M., for more electronics training. After that, if MVA officials give them a green light, don't be surprised if you run into a a couple of Army soldiers motoring along telling the Army story like it is. (ANF)

Army picks 3 blacks for brig. gen

WASHINGTON (ANF)—The Army has selected three black colonels for promotion to the rank of brigadier general.

The three officers were among 80 colonels approved by President Richard Nixon and nominated to the Senate for confirmation to temporary one-star rank.

The officers are Col. Roscoe C. Cartwright, Kansas City, Kan., staff member of the Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff for Force Development; Col. Oliver W. Dillard, Margaret, Ala., a province senior advisor in the Republic of Vietnam; and Col. James F. Hamlet, Alliance, Ohio, commander of the 11th Aviation Group, 1st Cavalry Division, in Vietnam.

AF announces 'banana' paint

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — If you can peel a banana you can peel off a new paint developed by the Air Force for use when testing aircraft parts.

Developed by the Air Force Systems Command's Materials Laboratory, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, the paint pinpoints defects in equipment by changing color when subjected to heat and light.

With a "peel-off" ability, the paint eliminates the fumes and mess associated with ordinary paint removal.

Navy device sees lightning 100 miles away

Navy research on thunderstorms has led to the development of a device capable of detecting lightning as far away as 100 miles.

The ultrasensitive device registers the occurance of lightening by sensing the minute short-lived changes in light intensity caused by lightning.

Operation of the detector is based on optical sensors consisting of silicon solar cells sensitive enough to register lightning in distant clouds even in bright daytime when not visible to the human eye. The detector can be fitted with a special filter which allows it to respond only to lightning and not be confused by the random changes in the intensity of sunlight.

931st Gp. revises mandatory training for new personnel

By John Bog

A new approach to mandatory training for officers and soldiers of the 931st Engineer Group got under way recently.

Under the new program all newly assigned personnel will be cycled into a one-week, 40-hour block of mandatory Preparation for Overseas Replacement (POR) and special emphasis training. In addition, presently assigned personnel who require POR oriented training will be scheduled on an individual basis.

The new program, under the direction of Group S3 officer, Maj. Jimmy E. Powers, will help to eliminate the pressure on subordinate units to insure required training. It also will allow a man to complete the bulk of his mandatory training for the year before he becomes critical to his unit.

The course of instruction will be handled by the 931st Engr. Gp. Training Committee which formerly operated at the Group RVN Committee training Vietnam bound soldiers. The RVN training was eliminated April 8 because of the diminished number of soldiers being assigned to Vietnam. This presented the perfect opportunity for Powers to exercise a long-planned idea to fulfill all mandatory training requirements in one week rather than drag it out over the year.

Powers said the group unit commanders greeted the new program with enthusiasm. He said, "They used to have to provide their own instructors and training aids, and coordination was a constant problem. Now that's all left to us."

Operations officer, 2nd Lt. Harry Salee, and committee chief, SFC Paul Brown did most of the work in turning the idea into a reality.

YAC Judo Club takes top honors at Florida meet

Three first place medals and the heavyweight team championship were won by the Fort Benning YAC Judo Club May 15 when the local youth competed in a regional judo tournament held at Florida State University, Tallahassee.

Approximately 150 young amateurs of ages six through young adults were entered in the competition, respresenting more than a dozen clubs.

Fifteen members of the local club won three first place gold medals, four silver medals and one bronze medal in the individual events. The "heavy" team coached by Charles "Sonny" Rogers won the tournament championship against the other five-man teams. The Fort Benning team ranging in ages from 11 to 14 included Deland Lawhorn, Mark Keaton, Mike Perron, James Stuhler and Paul Ligget. They competed against teams ranging in ages 11 through 16.

The tournament, an elimination type through decisions and penalty points awarded for throws and professionalism, featured age group levels with a light and heavy weight division in each group or class. In the team championships, only one heavy and one light entry was permitted from each club.

Grabbing the first place honors were Kami Kadivar, 7-year-old son of Dr. (Lt. Col.) and Mrs. Hooshang Kadivar, who won the 8-year-old heavy weight class, and Kevin Lawhorn and Deland Lawhorn, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Lawhorn, who won the 7-year-old light weight and 11-year-old heavy weight class respectively.

Second place medals were carned by Paul Ligget, Mark Keaton, Billy Doty and Jeffrey Dean, all in their individual heavy weight class.

The lone third place was taken by James Stuhler, who captured the 14-year-old light weight division.

The Benning club, coached by Lt. Col. Charles T. Keaton, executive officer, U. S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit, has participated in three tournaments during the past month. In the last tournament action prior to the Florida meet, the team participated in the Junior Olympics for the state of Georgia and captured five of the 24 medals awarded and one of the two trophies. Four members of the team placed in the Southeastern Region meet to be held in Atlanta May 29 where the teams will be selected to the National Junior Olympics in Colorado in August.

Youth interested in participating in judo are requested to make their registration at the Fort Benning YAC Club. A new beginners class will begin June 7.

2 more 197th battalions join play in brigade league; 5th, 31st leads

By Bob Wise

Company-level softball in the 197th Infantry Brigade is beginning to take shape as two more battalions joined in the action last week. The brigade's two representatives to the post tournament Aug. 16-21 will be decided in an August brigade play-off.

Taking a commanding lead in the 5th Bn., 31st Inf. was HHC after defeating Co. D, 5-1; Co. A, 9-2; and Co. B, 12-9. Tied for second place were Co. B and Co. C, both with 2-2 records.

Co. A was in third place after being handed tough high-scoring losses by Co. B, 18-13 and Co. D, 15-10. Co. A scored a sweet victory in a 12-8 shackling of Co. C.

The 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf. ("Patriots") scheduled only one game last week as Co. C nipped Co. D, 7-6.

Softball action in the 4th Bn., 69th Armor is slated to begin Tuesday but a number of exhibition games were played in May. The 69th Armor Staff team scored two consecutive victories over Co. A and a 6-0 blanking of Co. C. Co. A revived a few days later to edge the "Staff" team, 6-5. In another 69th Armor game, Co. A slipped past Co. C, 7-5.

Battery action in the 2nd Bn., 10th Arty. got underway this week and companies in the 1st Bn., 29th Inf. were to begin playing next week.

Biddy League race narrows to 3 teams

With approximately half the season completed, the race for the Youth Activities Biddy Baseball League has narrowed to a close three way stretch run.

The Cardinals and Dodgers are now tied for first place with the Phillies only one game out. But the Phillies have had one game postponed and when that is played the league lead could be shared by three teams.

Other teams in the league according to their standing are: The Braves, Expos, Giants and Pirates.

While the Phillies are not on top now they may very well be the team at the top in the standings at the end of the season. They have two outstanding pitchers in Paul Geiger and Tom Buckley. Paul has pitched 39 strikeouts in 17 innings and Tom has gone 10 innings with 19 strikeouts. Paul and Tom also have helped considerably in the hitting department. Paul leads the team in batting with a .733 average and has batted in 12 runs. Tom is second in the categories. His batting average stands at .642 and his hits have scored 12 runs.

Dave Gripe, the smallest boy on the team also is doing a good job for the offense. He is batting .571 and has come up with some clutch hits that have driven in four runs.

Eric Dean, Bob Lynch, Mike Witaker and Gus Zieske have turned in outstanding performances in the field. Dean does an excellent job at third base and has been credited with seven stolen bases.

Lynch, the first baseman leads the team in putouts. He has made a total of eleven, four of which were unassisted.

Pro-Ladies golf tourney slated at Country Club

Howard Holbrook, Fort Benning Country Club Golf Professional, has announced that a Pro-Ladies golf tournament will be held at the club June 7.

Professional golfers from the surrounding areas have been invited to participate and bring as many women players as desired providing the ladies do not have a handicap exceeding 22.

Tee-off times will be scheduled from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Entry fee will be $6. Prizes will be awarded to professionals and teams.

Interested players may register for play at the golf pro shop or entries will be accepted by phone (545-5120). Reservations for caddies or electric carts also will be accepted by phone.

Air show trophy

Col. Lamar Welch (L), director of the Airborne Department accepts the first-place trophy won at the Athens Air Kaleidoscope by the free fall demonstration team from SFC Richard E. Gibbs, a member of the team. The Fort Benning team won first place in the air show held recently at Athens Municipal Airport. Other members of the team were SSgt. Raymond Kinser and SSgt. David E. Millhorn.

3 MTU firers are named to Pan-Am team

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Two Fort Benning men were added to the U.S. Pan American Shooting Team Monday, when they placed second and fourth in the English (prone) match competition of the 11th Annual International Shooting Matches at Black Canyon Range. They were Capt. Clifford Davis of Tampa, Fla., and 1st Lt. Lanny Bassham of Ewless, Tenn., both members of the United States Army Marksmanship Training Unit.

Bragg wins 3rd Army 'volley'

Teams from Fort McClellan, Ala., Fort Bragg, N.C., and Redstone Arsenal, Ala., won the championships of their divisions during the 3rd Army Volleyball Championships held at Fort McClellan recently.

Fort Bragg compiled a record of 13 wins against 2 losses to win the A Division made up of posts with a military population of more than 10,000. Fort Jackson took second place in the division and Fort Benning was third.

Going into the final day of play, Fort Bragg was in first place with 11 win-1 loss record, Fort Benning was second with 10 wins and 2 losses and Fort Jackson third with a record of 9 wins and 3 losses. On the final day Fort Bragg took two out of three games from Fort Benning to win the championship while Fort Jackson swept a three game series with Fort Gordon, Ga., to edge Fort Benning for second place.

Redstone Arsenal compiled a record of 10 wins and 2 losses in winning the B Division made up of teams from Hunter Army Airfield, Ala., Fort McClellan, Fort Stewart, Ga., Atlanta Army Depot, Ga., Homestead Air Force Base, Fla., and Fort McPherson, Ga.

The WAC team from Fort McClellan had an easy time of the tournament claiming their second consecutive championship with a perfect record of 12 wins and no losses. The Women's team from Fort Gordon was a distant second with 7 wins and 5 losses while the Fort Benning team took third place with 4 wins and 8 losses.

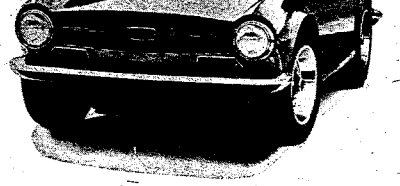
Only 24 of the top racing drivers in the world are eligible to compete in all international Grand Prix.

More than half of them are British.

For the British, cars are a very no-nonsense, unfrilly business. In a car, they regard beauty as a function of how beautifully it functions, and nothing reflects this more than the classically British TR-6.

It is English to the core.

In fact, it's just about all core—a big, beautifully engineered 6-cylinder motor, powering a sturdy transmission that slides solidly from one gear into another.



A heavy-duty independent suspension that can take anything that any road can dish out.

All tightly put together in a body with rugged, clean lines and topped off with a couple of comfortable reclining seats to sit in it with.

The classically British TR-6, is an utterly straightforward, square-jawed kind of car.

Memorial Day was established to pay special honor to the many service men and women who gave their lives for our country but it also marks the beginning of a long summer of fun outdoors. Next week the schools will begin the summer vacation and this can pose some real problems for parents whose children think fishing or a romp in the woods is the best way anyone can spend a summer day.

Children need supervision around ponds and streams. The Chattahoochee River and Upatoi Creek the two largest streams in this area, are treacherous places, full of sudden drop-offs and strong currents. Wading in a pond or stream can be irrosistable on a hot summer day.

Children are not permitted to visit, fish or play at most of the streams and ponds on post unless they are accompanied by a responsible adult. They shouldn't be allowed to visit any body of water by themselves unless they have been thoroughly instructed in safety and are able to swim.

The water isn't the only danger to children fishing or playing alone around a pond or stream. There are snakes, potholes and always the chance of wandering into a strange area and becoming lost.

Some parents say it keeps the kids off the streets, but the woods have their hazards too. There are plenty of supervised playgrounds available. Let the kids use these until an adult is free to take them on a properly supervised trip to their favorite fishing area.

The post varmint control program also should be considered before allowing children to roam freely in the woods.

The Post Fish and Game Unit has placed mechanical traps and chemicals around the reservation to reduce the population of bobcat, opposum, racoon, fox and wild dogs. These animals are rabies carriers and this program is necessary to preclude an outbreak of the disease among game animals and the possibility of transmission of the disease to humans.

The traps have been placed away from areas normally frequented by fishermen and persons out for a picnic, but who can say where the curiosity of a child will lead him? Also keep in mind that humans are not the only ones who can run up on one of these traps. They offer just as great a danger to pets running loose.

Conservation Activities

The Fish and Game Unit hasn't limited their activities to the predator control program. They have been busy stocking and restocking ponds and planting winter food for birds and animals.

The unit planted more than 400 acres of corn this spring and is in the process of planting sorghum. They plan on planting about 50 acres throughout the reservation. Early in the year lespedesa was planted. More than 100 new openings were planted, making more than 2,000 strips of annual and bi-color grain now on the reservation.

One thousand blue catfish fingerlings have been placed in Russ Pond and Pool. The pond is still open to fishing and Roy Johnson says the pond has some real lunker catfish waiting to be caught.

Johnson, chief of the Fish and Game Unit, says that Twilight and King's are two of the hottest ponds on the post at the present time. Bream fishing is especially good at King's and, of course, some of the biggest catfish in post ponds are taken from Twilight.

May Fishing Derby

There is still some time for Rod and Gun Club members to catch a big fish and win $15 in merchandise offered for the largest catfish, bream and bass caught during May.

As of Tuesday the largest bass for the month was registered by Capt. William Aronow, TSB. His entry came from Harp's Pond and weighed in at 7 pounds, 10 ounces.

SSgt. Charles Baxley, 3rd Ranger Company, has the largest bream. He caught it at King's Pond. He was using red worms.

The largest catfish came from Weems Pond. SSgt. Robert Brown caught his using chicken liver for bait. It weighed an even 12 pounds.

Moeller fires top score

PHOENIX, Ariz. — SFC Edmund O. Moeller Jr., of Slatonia, Tex., and the United States Army Marksmanship Training Unit, Fort Benning, continued the pressure in the second and final day in the running boar event of the 11th International Shooting Matches, Sunday, at Black Canyon Shooting Ranges and won the championship hands down with a 549.

For Moeller, his victory was a sweet return to the championship stand, as he had won the event in 1968 only to be beat out in 1969 and missed the competition in 1970 due to combat duty in the Republic of Vietnam.

In other action Sunday, Tony Rosetti of Biloxi, Miss., and a former shooter on the Army Marksmanship Team, fired a 96 in the International Skeet Match and won the three day championship with a 284 aggregate.

Destin recreation area beckons Benning personnel

By Bill Kloeb

Near the fishing town of Destin, Fla., the Fort Benning Special Services Officer operates a recreation area for everyone assigned to Fort Benning.

Located between the Chotawatchee Bay and the Gulf of Mexico, the Destin Rest Camp is in the heart of Florida's "Miracle Strip" midway between Panama City and Pensacola.

Destin has 13 cottages and a three-room trailer. The cottages and trailer are furnished with electricity, running water, modern kitchen and bathroom facilities. Air-conditioning, television, stove, refrigerator and all needed cooking utensils are provided in each cabin.

Each cabin is completely cleaned and ready for occupancy when guests arrive. Rental rates are $8.50 a day for two-room cottages and $10 a day for three-room cottages.

A completely furnished air-conditioned dormitory which will accomodate 18 persons is also available. The dormitory is available to troops of major unit commands on a rotating basis from May through October.

Reservations are limited to five days. They must be made at the Special Services office here.

Trailer pads with electricity, water and sewage may be reserved for $1 a day (15 day limit). Trailer parking space and tent sites may be rented for 75 cents a day (no reservation required).

Snack bar, laundry facilities, picnic areas, barbecue pits, a childrens' play area and athletic facilities also are available.

The recreation area has a 38-foot deep sea fishing cabin cruiser, water ski boats and smaller powered boats which may be rented on a daily basis.

A 150-yard sand beach stretches across the waterfront. The coastline shelf enables swimmers and waders to venture 40 to 50 yards offshore in waist deep water. An area has been enclosed to provide additional safety for non-swimmers.

The recreation area is operated primarily for active duty personnel stationed at Fort Benning. Retired personnel, wives whose military sponsors are overseas and other military connected personnel, may avail themselves of the facilities when space permits.

During the months children are on school vacation, reservations are at a premium. To make the allocation of reservations equitable a drawing for active duty personnel is conducted to determine who will be permitted to make use of the facilities for each five day period.

Destin and the surrounding area offers recreation and amusement facilities to satisfy the appetite of just about any type vacationer. It is often called the luckiest fishing village in the world. Billfish, sailfish, tuna, dolphin, cobia and wahoo abound in the gulf waters. No license is required for salt water fishing.

Fresh streams and lakes are just minutes from the recreation area. Fishermen can try their luck at catching perch, bass, catfish and bream.

Sightseers can visit the ruins of Fort Pickens, an old Spanish village, a replica of the Panton Trading Post on Pensacola Bay, prehistoric remains of mammals preserved at Fort Walton and the Indian Temple Mounds, a burial place for Indians of the Fort Walton culture.

Pet Talk

'Good life' could be fat one for pets

By Capt. John McDaniel, Veterinarian

Obesity in small animals, as in humans, is an affliction that is by no means new, but one that is compounded by modern, gracious, urban living. The pet, in becoming a member of the household, has been exposed to many temptations, including overeating.

Because obesity develops gradually, it is often overlooked by the owner until it is called to his attention by a veterinarian. The deleterious effects of obesity in pets include heart failure, skin problems, lung conditions, and arthritis.

The first consideration of any weight reducing and control program should be a complete physical examination, to include all body systems and functions. This will determine if the obesity is caused by tissue pathology, such as hypothyroidism, or merely an acquired habit of overeating.

If it is determined that the obese pet is the result of simple overeating, as the majority are, the second consideration is complete owner cooperation. It is the individual pet owner that must control and regulate the amount and composition of his pet's diet, for if left up to the obese pet, there is no such thing as "Too much food."

It should be emphasized that reducing the amount of the present diet is of little value and often may be dangerous — creating vitamin, mineral, and protein deficiencies, all of which are necessary to "burn" excess fat.

Restriction of fats starches with vitamin-mineral supplements and the normal level of protein is the most effective method of reducing weight.

To reduce an obese pet, a canned prescription diet, specifically composed and prepared for obese animals, is the most efficient. However, owners can prepare food at home.

To reduce an overweight pet, the best quality of meat (chicken, beef, or horsemeat, boiled or broiled and fat removed), cottage cheese, liver scrapings, poached or soft boiled eggs, and green and yellow vegetables (boiled, without seasoning) can be fed on the basis of a quarter to a half pound per 10 pound body weight, based on normal rather than actual weight. Remember, snacks are absolutely forbidden.

Basically, the same applies to cats and dogs alike. However, cats have either superior intelligence or self-control to avoid overeating. Wisely, they consume sufficient food to maintain good health and then move on to other activities. For this reason obesity in cats is rare.

20-year-old data may aid science

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Oceanographic data taken as much as 20 years ago from U. S. Canal zone and Puerto Rican coastal waters as part of a program for the defense of those areas will help provide scientists with a base to determine whether or not significant pollution has invaded these waters.

The data graphically depicts the ecology of the waters in thirteen major harbors and their seaward approaches, according to L. B. Berholt, of the Naval Oceanographic Office, including plankton content, temperature, salinity, sediment and mineral content, and current.

The information, previously included among Navy classified documents, has been turned over to the National Oceanographic Data Center.

SCOUTS SIGN IN FOR BREAKFAST

Scouts 'clean out' 'Patriot' mess hall

By Bob Wheatley

The mess hall of HHC, 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf. "Patriots," was more crowded than usual on May 28. Instead of just sleepy-eyed soldiers, the "Patriots" treated 58 boy scouts and guests of troops 195 and 316 from Atlanta to breakfast VOLAR-style.

The scouts started "chowing down" at 9:15 a.m. with one "Patriot" host to every two scouts. Each host paid for the breakfast of his scouts. It must have been a tasty meal, as one cook who commented, "They cleaned me out."

Immediately after breakfast, the scouts were escorted to the Harmony Church Chapel for church services with Chaplain (Capt.) Floyd R. Lacey. They were joined by Troop 217 from Columbus, sponsored by the "Patriots."

After services the scouts enjoyed a punch and cookie snack before going to the motor pool. The boys began to board a bus home when they heard they could have a ride in a 5-ton truck. It was no contest as to which they choose.

At the motor pool the boys also were given a ride in an Armored Personnel Carrier on a tank trail.

Moon driving problems face July lunar probe

WASHINGTON (AFPS) —When the lunar roving vehicle leaves the shelter of its lunar module this July to begin exploring the Moon, its crew will have a problem not often faced by motorists on Earth: Knowing their way back home.

Three separate traverses are scheduled for the Apollo 15 astronauts after they land in the moon's Hadley-Appenine region. With no road signs, no detailed maps and no familiar landmarks to guide them, the men will need a special navigation system to insure their safe return to their lunar module shelter.

Such a navigation system has been designed by the Boeing Co. and NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala. It is based on the principle of dead-reckoning navigation, a relatively simple idea that has been used by sailors and fliers for many years.

Dead-reckoning requires starting from a known point, continuously determining direction and distance traveled, and periodically calculating positions from this data.

On the Moon the known starting point will be the lunar module's landing site. The vehicle's direction, distance and other information will be fed into a computer. Lunar landmarks such as mapped craters, hills, rilles, and other features will verify correct navigation also.

1st cadets to graduate from Airborne program

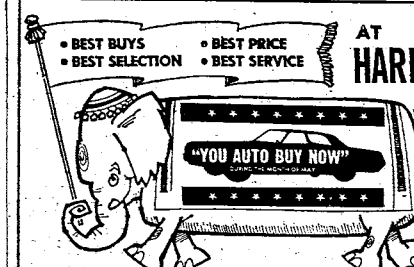
The first group of cadets attending the Infantry School's Airborne Department's summer training program for members of the Reserve Officer Training Corps graduate this week.

The 10 cadets from Texas A and M and the Universities of Michigan, West Virginia and Clemson are part of an expected 500 cadets who will return to college next term wearing newly won Airborne wings.

The practice of training large numbers of undergraduate ROTC cadets was piloted by the Airborne Department last summer when 257 Army and 85 Navy cadets from 117 college and universities paid their own way to Fort Benning to take the Basic Airborne Course.

As last summer's students graduated, Col. Lamar Welch, department director, asked them to spread the word about airborne training among their friends at school.

"Apparently this message is paying dividends," says Col. Welch, "because the program has caught on strong. The students are coming here in ever increasing numbers, evincing tremendous enthusiasm. This program enables us to have friends in the colleges."



The ROTC students must provide their own transportation to Fort Benning and pay for their meals while they are here. Those who graduate are fully Airborne qualified — and the drop-out rate for the cadets is lower than for Airborne students as a whole, according to the Airborne Department.

THE BAYONET

VOL. 29, NO. 38 FRIDAY, JUNE 4, 1971 28 PAGES — 10c

Civilian KP is extended to mid-1972

One of the most important Modern Volunteeer Army programs has become the first to be officially continued past June 30.

A contract for civilian kitchen police was signed last week, extending the action through June 30, 1972. Last Jan. 5, Fort Benning became the first post in the United States to completely do away with soldiers on kitchen details.

Other U.S. posts, including MVA test posts Forts Ord and Carson, now have shifted to civilian KPs in some of their units.

The new civilian KP contract calls for the spending of some $3.9 million. It was awarded to the Small Business Administration, which subcontracted the work to Best Services of Columbus.

Dynamics International currently handles administration of the civilian

500 scouts to clean up post 'rec' areas

Approximately 500 Boy Scouts and other persons at Fort Benning will kick off Project SOAR (Save Our American Resources) on post tomorrow joining a nationwide beautification effort.

Project SOAR will coincide with "Keep America Beautiful Day," also tomorrow.

The Fort Benning District of the Chattahoochee Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, has set aside recreation areas on post for assignment to individual scout troops for Project SOAR. Cleanup of the areas will begin with policing and beautification of the grounds. The scouts will continue to work in their designated areas for the remainder of the summer.

Assisting the boy scouts will be the members of two post explorer posts as well as three girl scout troops under the leadership of Mrs. June White.

Also participating, primarily as sponsors, will be members of the Congress of United Residents for Ecology (CURE), a group of about 20 on-post and off-post residents. The CURE group also will have it's own area to clean up.

Persons involved in Project SOAR also will be involved in a similar cleanup campaign by scouts in Columbus and the surrounding area.

A special youth service patch will be awarded to boys participating, provided they have first cleaned up their own home and yard and the units have cleaned up their own meeting places.

In a letter to Irving Feist, president of the Boy Scouts of America, President Richard M. Nixon provided the impetous of Project SOAR. He said "as honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, I have become aware of your BOYPOWER '76 long-range plan. I urge that you include in that plan a major conservation service project. In carrying out a program for conservation, our young people can surely set an example for us all to follow."

Project SOAR also will issue fact sheets that tell the private citizen what he can do to help relieve the environmental crisis.

'Pointers' to arrive Wednesday

Members of the U.S. Military Academy Class of 1972 will arrive at Lawson Army Airfield Wednesday, for three days of observing and participating in the training of Infantrymen.

The first plane load of cadets is scheduled to arrive at Fort Benning at 5:30 p.m. and the final group in the 949-man class will land at 7 p.m.

Starting Thursday, the cadets will follow a full schedule of activities, including Airborne training, Ranger and airmobile demonstrations, and a number of orientation sessions.

Another purpose of the trip, an annual event for the West Pointers, is to give them an opportunity to observe the environment of an Infantry officer both on duty and off.

The major social function of the visit will be the annual "hop" next Friday, starting at 7:30 p.m. at the Officers Open Mess. Invitations to the "hop" are being extended to young ladies in the area who are single and between the ages of 16 and 24. Host for the dance will be Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, and chaperons will be senior officers and their wives.

Young ladies interested in attending the dance are asked to call the office of the commanding general, 545-1811.

Bldg. 35 receives papers by 6 a.m.

The R. W. Page Company delivers The Bayonet to the west side of Building 35 prior to 6 a.m. on Friday of each week.

Major units and activities should pick up their papers from Room 101 prior to 10 a.m. on the day of delivery. Promptness in pickup will eliminate confusion and loss of bundle identity at the distribution point.

The timely value of The Bayonet decreases as distribution is delayed. Units should strive to have the newspapers to the troops by the end of the breakfast meal.

"Published each Friday by the R. W. Page Corporation, Columbus, Ga., a private firm in no way connected with the Department of Army. Opinions expressed by the publisher and writers herein are their own and are not to be considered an official expression by the Department of the Army. The appearance of advertisements in the publication does not constitute endorsement by the Department of the Army of the products or services advertised."

Some widows find they're not covered by policy

Widows of recently deceased veterans are all too often dealt a second emotional blow when they learn that they are not covered by their husband's government life insurance, the Veterans Administration has announced.

The cause of the problem is clear: Usually the veteran simply never got around to naming his wife as beneficiary. The veterans' agency can't help because the VA is obligated by law to pay the proceeds to the beneficiary of record.

In a typical case, the VA stated, the veteran named his mother as beneficiary when he first took out his insurance policy upon entering military service.

Then, when he eventually married, he forgot to tell the VA to change the beneficiary. When the veteran dies, the policy still designates his mother to receive, say, $10,000 in insurance.

In another kind of case, the name of a former wife may still be listed as the beneficiary on the policy. Thus, a widow, who often assumed she was the beneficiary, then learns for the first time that the $10,000 does not go to her but to her husband's mother or former wife.

In many cases, the VA said, this results in a substantial hardship for the widow and young children.

Every veteran who wants to change his beneficiary, or to ascertain who he has listed as beneficiary, was urged to contact the VA insurance center to which he pays his premiums.

If possible a veteran should include his insurance number, as well as his full name and address.

5 Ft. Benning graduates receive their master's

Five students from Fort Benning were among the 1,710 students receiving degrees at the 58th commencement of Georgia State University in Atlanta on Sunday.

The five students are the first graduate students to complete the requirements for the master's degree at the Fort Benning Branch of Georgia State University which was established in June 1970.

Receiving the master of education degree from Dr. Noah Langdale Jr., president of Georgia State University, were Col. (ret.) George M. Griswold, Lt. Col. William Thomas McElrath, Maj. Hurl R. Taylor Jr., Capt. Duston E. Rose, and Mrs. Edna N. Miller (dependent). Col. Griswold received his degree in the area of counseling while the other four students received degrees in the area of administration and supervision.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Bill King

To make the crown of a souffle rise extra high, cut a circle in the unbaked souffle about an inch in from the edge.

A large plastic trash bag, slit open to lie flat, makes an inexpensive throwaway picnic cloth. Later, use it to wrap up items to be discarded.

When boiling corn on the cob, add a few of the inner husks to the water to heighten the flavor.

Canned mushroom crowns, drained and stemmed, make instant canape cups. Fill with bleu cheese or caviar to serve chilled — or with seasoned ground beef to serve broiled.

Louis XV delighted so much in good coffee that he often brewed his own over a spirit lamp to serve to Madame du Barry.

You'll find that everything from a cup of coffee to a complete dinner at KING'S PIZZA ON CALL is served with a royal flourish. We hope you will visit us for a delicious meal soon.

(Byline Bayonet welcomes questions of general interest about Fort Benning and the Army. Within space limitations all reasonable questions will be answered. Questions of a purely military nature which obviously could be answered more properly by commanders or supervisors within the chain of command will not be accepted. Questions must be signed with current unit of assignment indicated. Send questions to The Bayonet, Room 602, Infantry Hall, or telephone 545-2791).

Q — I have noticed several covered bus stops around post which apparently were installed by Howard Bus Lines when their buses made the main post circuit. Now that HBL has discontinued bus service around post, these covered stops are no longer in use. Now the post has bus service provided by the Army but as far as I know, no covered bus stops. Why doesn't the Army have covered areas at the bus stops? They'd sure get a lot of use with all the rainy weather we've had lately.

A — According to a spokesman at the Post Transportation Office, Howard Bus Lines has never had covered bus stops on the Fort Benning Reservation. This office believes the shelters referred to are soldier pick-up points built to provide shelter for those soldiers attempting to obtain a ride in privately owned vehicles.

The cost of installing one shelter would be approximately $200. There are about 75 bus stops throughout the installation, therefore, the total cost of installing these shelters would be approximately $15,000. Most bus stops are located near public buildings were shelter can be obtained, others are located near intersections where construction of a shelter would create a blind spot and, therefore a safety hazard.

Q — Has the educational level of the members of the Armed Forces risen since the Korean War?

A — Yes it has. The following, Department of Defense figures furnished us contain some interesting information about the trend of educational levels among enlisted men of all the services:

College graduates. 2.8 per cent (as of Dec. 31, 1954); 5.8 per cent (as of Dec. 31, 1970); 2 or more years college, 7.9 and 14.5; some college 13.3 and 22.7; high school graduates, 54.5 and 65.2; some high school, 84.8 and 90.3; grade school graduates, 94.5 and 99.3.

The judge says

Citizenship easier for some aliens

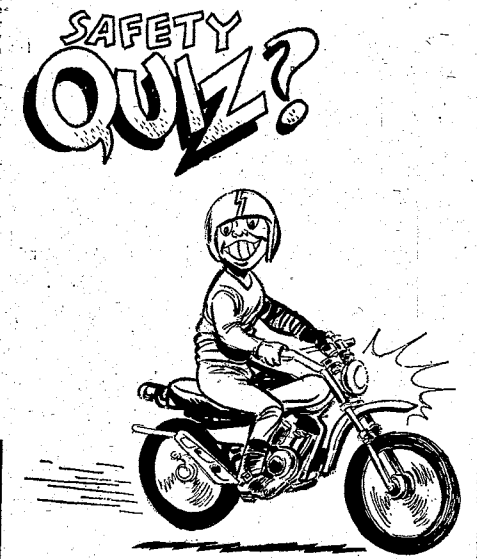
(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of four articles on immigration and naturalization. This article contains information on the basic requirements for naturalization.)

USAIC LEGAL ASSISTANCE OFFICE—A person who is married to a citizen of the United States may become naturalized in the same way as any other alien or he may take advantage of special naturalization exemptions that are granted to the spouse of a citizen of the United States.

These exemptions fall into two classes: The first granted simply because of the relationship to a citizen, and the second because of the relationship to a citizen who is stationed abroad.

In the first instance, if the spouse has been a citizen of the U.S. for at least three years, and the alien has been married to and living with his citizen spouse for three years prior to filing his petition for naturalization, then he may take advantage of the following exceptions.

(1) Instead of five years residence in the United States, only three years residence is required. For 18 months of that three year period, the alien must have been present in person in the United States. In other words, if an alien comes to this country and marries a United States citizen, he need only wait three years before he files his petition for naturalization. He can make trips out of the country during that three year period as long as he intends to make the United States his permanent residence, but these trips should not be for a period of more than one year.



If the alien is to be out of the country more than one year the nearest immigration office should be contacted to determine the alien's status on return as to the amount of time of residence required before eligibility can again be established to file the petition for naturalization. In some cases, if the period of required residence is interrupted by an absence of more than one year, two years and one day of residence may be required after the alien returns to the United States.

(2) Witnesses who must testify to the alien's good moral character and fitness for citizenship must have known him for only three years rather than the five year period normally required.

If the marriage of the alien was to a United States citizen stationed abroad, then he or she may be naturalized without having resided in the United States, or any state, and without having been physically present in the United States for any particular length of time after lawful admission for permanent residence.

An example of this would be if an alien marries a serviceman who is stationed on foreign soil and she resides with him for a period of three years, she may become a United States citizen even though she may never have been in the U.S.

The law also gives other procedural exceptions for servicemen, such as suspending the five year length requirement for witnesses. The witnesses are only required to know the alien long enough to form a conclusion as to whether he would make a good citizen. The petition does not have to be filed in the place where the serviceman lives, but may be filed in any naturalization court (no six month requirement for being in the state).

Q-HOW CAN YOU TELL A HAPPY MOTORCYCLE DRIVER? A-BY THE GLEAM OF HIS HEADLIGHT AND THE BUGS ON HIS TEETH!

Change comes from within the law

As recently witnessed during the trials of the "Chicago Seven" and the "Manson Family," two of the more illustrative examples of the attempted undermining of the courtroom, respect for law and the inherent order which normally evolves from such adherence to the law, appear waning.

Respect for the existing laws does not denote blind obedience without question, but rather compliance with existing laws with change, if necessary, accomplished through the legislative and judicial framework provided for such. The beauty of a democracy such as the United States is that change comes from within. It is the people through their united voice who determine when change will occur and what that change will be. It is then the responsibility of those seeking change to pursue it within the legal confines provided for such change.

The members of the Constitutional Convention of 1787 did not have the framework to effect changes as we do today. They had to construct one. The Constitution of the United States provided that necessary framework. This document is the bulwark of our legal system today. It is perhaps, one of the most comprehensive and flexible legal instruments in existence today. The Constitution, combined with the judicial interpretations arising from its provisions, provides us with a blueprint of the means and methods utilized in effecting change. It is admitted that the evolution of change, utilizing constitutional guidelines, is a slow and involved process. Exactthe change will be. Therefore, time is also a necessity in effecting change. It insures that change will be made with an ultimate goal in mind, rather than for the sole purpose of change for the sake of change alone.

We, as citizens of the United States, are guaranteed certain constitutional rights. By the same token, we must also assume certain responsibilities and duties. (AFPS Editorial by Maj. James R. Mortell, USAF)

Army Aviation has come a long way from balloons

Modern use of aircraft by Army began in 1942

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Army Aviation celebrates its 29th anniversary Sunday. Although the Army has made use of some type of "flying" ship since the Civil War, the modern use of aviation by the Army did not begin until June 6, 1942, when light aviation elements were assigned to the Field Artillery. In the following story the history of aviation and the Army—from balcons to helicopters—is told.)

If we could go back in time we could see that man always has dreamed of flying. Military commanders constantly have endeavored to improve their intelligence of the enemy by using the best means of observation available, to include climbing the tallest tree on the highest hill to observe the enemy's strength and movement.

Man's first conquest of flying—with ballons in the 18th Century—suggested a new approach to observation of the enemy. The United States' first military use of balloons was in 1862 during the Civil War when tethered ballons were used as aerial observation posts by the Federal Army.

Up to 1908 ballooning as a sport spurred interest in aeronautics. But a balloon must be anchored in one spot or it is subject to changeable winds, and this characteristic poses limitations on its use for military purposes. Therefore, military interest shifted during this period to the experimental work on heavier-than-air craft being conducted by the Wright brothers at Dayton, Ohio.

On Feb. 10, 1908, the United States Army Signal Corps signed a formal contract with the Wright Brothers for the first military heavier-than-air flying machine. As a part of the contract the Wright Brothers were to train Lt. Frederic E. Humphreys, the Army's first aviator.

The first Army Aviation School was established May 20, 1912, at College Park, Md., with a fleet of two Wright "B" and two Curtis "D" airplanes.

By the end of World War I there were many improvements and changes in Army aircraft. At that time there were 45 U.S. air squadrons assigned to various armies in France, including more than 700 airplanes and pilots.

The dramatic development of the airplane as a fighter and bomber during World War I left the ground combat commander in a low priority for his requirements of aerial observation. The Field Artillery commander particularly needed an aerial platform to enable observers to direct the fire of long range guns, so in the fall of 1941 a group at Ft. Sill, Okla., was established to test the feasibility of assigning light aircraft to the Field Artillery units in this role.

The War Department approved the assignment of light aviation elements to the Field Artillery on June 6, 1942, thus establishing the birth of light aviation in the Army ground forces.

The Army quickly discovered that the little airplanes provided an unequaled observation post. By the end of the war they were being used in all theaters of operations and were performing several other missions in addition to their original missions of directing artillery fire. The light aircraft were used to evacuate wounded, for courier service, for radio relay stations and as command liaison vehicles. Thus, Army Aviation became a part of the ground forces; but not yet a necessity.

The absolute necessity of having airborne observers directing artillery fire was not fully realized until the outbreak of the Korean war in 1950. The jagged, hilly terrain of Korea made ground observation almost impossible and presented numerous other problems.

Army aircraft immediately were sent into the front line area of Korea to adjust artillery fire. Within a matter of days it was obvious that the Army aircraft, with their ability to operate from small dirt strips, provided the only sure means of transportation. As the war in Korea progressed, Army aircraft were called upon for additional missions, such as battlefield illumination and aerial photography.

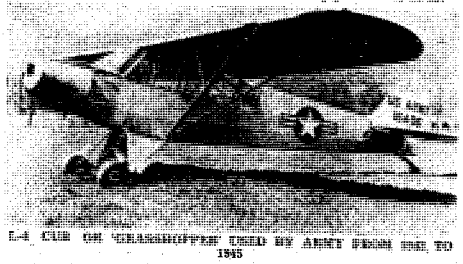
There were never enough Army aircraft or aviation personnel available for the rapidly expanding requirements. In many instances, even the Army airplanes were not able to evacuate wounded or move personnel as the terrain was too rugged to construct a short airstrip. However, a new type of aircraft, the helicopter, had reached a new technical stage of development which made its use by the field forces practical.

The requirement for helicopters in the Army had been established in 1947, and the Korean War provided the impetus needed to shift the helicoper program into high gear.

The first helicopters sent to Korea were immediately put into service evacuating wounded and providing transportation for division commanders. For the first time in history, a division commander could inspect his division in one day and direct combat engagements from the air.

While the helicopter did not carry guns then, they were a formidable weapon; they provided a means of moving troops and equipment rapidly and a means of saving thousands of lives through the fast evacuation of wounded from front line positions to rear area hospitals.

The Army emerged from the Korean War with the realization that Army Aviation possessed the capability of revolutionizing the techniques of employment of ground forces.



The period 1955-1960 did not see a large expansion in Army Aviation, but it was a time for maturing and growing, and preparing for the future. In early 1961, the United States Army committed the first helicopter companies to the Republic of Vietnam as a means to improve the mobility of the RVN Army. The increased effectiveness of ground troops was so dramatic that plans for increases in aircraft and aviation organizations were integrated into all levels of U.S. Army planning.

The 11th Air Assault Division (T) was born at Fort Benning in 1962 to test these revolutionary ideas for the next two years.

Aviation units were among the first Army units deployed to Vietnam. Their numbers grew from a handful of aircraft and crews in 1961 to a peak force of more than 3,500 aircraft and 60,000 aviators, crewman and ground support personnel in 1969.

These aircraft and personnel are organized into tactical aviation units, whose mission is that of extending the combat capability of the ground combat forces with troop transport, fire support and observation—to mention a few of the more obvious functions. These aviation units are immediately responsive to the ground commander because they are designed to live and fight in the field with the troops.

Army and Air Force coordination has added new dimensions to helicopter assault operations executed with the split second timing required to integrate Air Force fighter strikes with Army helicopter gunships and troop carrier helicopters. Army aircraft routinely mark targets for Air Force fighters, just as Air Force forward air controllers call on Army gunships to attack targets.

Sweet, Jones top grads of track vehicle class

Sp4 David A. Sweet, Bangor, Pa., was the distinguished honor graduate and Sp4 Howard M. Jones, Garnet, S. C., was the distinguished academic graduate of the Track Vehicle Mechanics Course Class 30 which graduated May 26 in Infantry Hall.

C.W. 2 Joe A. Farmer, HHB, 2nd Bn., 10th Art., delivered the commencement address to the 50 graduates.

The seven-week mechanics course provides personnel with a working knowledge to perform organizational maintenance and recovery of tracked vehicles.

Included in the course of instruction are engine principles, valve adjustments, cooling and lubricating systems, carburation and fuel injection.

Sweet and Jones are in the National Guard and they will report to their hometown units for assignment.

Disposal Branch to hold sale of 303 scrap items

OWC plan summer read-talk group

Are you feeling out of touch? You haven't enjoyed a good conversation about "things that matter" in ages?

OWC is sponsoring a reading-and-talk group, or several groups, this summer. For the woman who reads or needs incentive to read more, the group will provide a sounding board, a circle in which opinions may be aired and books or articles you have enjoyed may be shared.

Such a group will be meeting at 8 p.m. on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. It is hoped that enough interest will be shown to warrant more groups, perhaps one for those who would rather meet in the morning, to be scheduled for the first and third Wednesdays of each month. The OWC Lounge may be reserved for meeting. Each group will be limited to 10 or 12, a manageable number for discussion, and a free child limit is set on the talk.

No fee will be charged. Members may bring their own books to discuss, or the group may agree to read a book together if copies in paperback are easily obtainable. The original group has found that a brief editorial or simply a magazine cover can touch off a lively discussion.

Pattie Reber has agreed to act as moderator for talk sessions. She says, "We're not highbrows, and we certainly don't care about IQ . . . but have you read anything good lately? Would you share it with your friends?

"We are most informal, and we have a moderator only because she helps to keep the debate from centering on potty-training and mumps. We try to be objective, and we don't laugh or holler at any opinion. We want open minds and we want to get together with other concerned wives, book lovers, magazine gulpers, any woman who reads — and wants to find others who read."

For information, call Mrs. Reber at 687-4289.

Fashion ladies

Nurse service conducting post birth control survey

The Army health nurse service at Martin Army Hospital is now conducting a survey to determine if the birth control services offered for Fort Benning are meeting the personal needs of the people.

A survey form was distributed to each on-post housing unit. Those who received the form are urged to complete and return it in the self-addressed envelope.

Anyone living off post who would like to express their views is asked to contact the health nurse at 545-5431.

Army Field Band wants talented female vocalists

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The U.S. Army Field Band is auditioning talented vocalists from the Women's Army Crops to appear with its Studio Band and Soldiers' Chorus on the Fall 1971 concert tour.

The Band and Chours will perform as many as three concerts per day on the 35-day tour through 40 cities located in seven southwestern states.

Vocalists selected will be assigned TDY to the Field Band, Ft. Meade, Md., for approximately six months, beginning July 7.

Applications and audition tapes should be sent to the Army Field Band. For information on necessary qualifications and procedures for applying, contact 1st Lt. Michael A. Reed, Administrative officer, U.S. Army Field Band, Ft. Meade, Md. 20755.

ACS holds graduation for citizenship class

Last Saturday nearly 30 aliens at Fort Benning graduated from the semi-annual citizenship course sponsored by Army Community Services.

Those graduating Saturday had attended at least four of the six classes. The course covered major points of American history as well as national and state governmental branches.

Eleven countries were represented in the group: Germany, France, England, Canada, Jamaica, Okinawa, Japan, Korea, Thailand, Mexico and China.

These people will now be better prepared to take the test given by the U.S. naturalization board for citizenship. Two of the students have already passed this test while taking the course. They are Sgt. and Mrs. Jesus Varenzuela from Mexico. They were the only married couple who took the course together.

The textbook used by the classes was donated by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Members of this organization were present for the graduation.

The certificates were awarded by Mrs. Hamer Hanson, volunteer supervisor for ACS. A representative from the Legal Assistance office was on hand to answer questions. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald and Mrs. Paul T. Simmons, two of the course teachers.

There is no charge for these classes and they are open to all aliens who are associated with the Army. Another similar course will be offered in the fall. Anyone interested in helping with any facet of the ACS volunteer services is asked to contact the ACS office, 545-1233 or 545-1633.

Leadership Department holds Spring formal

The Leadership Department had its annual spring formal on May 22 at the Main Officers Club Ballroom and Fountain Room. The Leadership Committee sponsored the formal for 157 guests.

The event marked the second birthday of the department, formed May 21, 1969.

Honored guests at the formal were Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, School commandant, Col. and Mrs. Kendrick B. Barlow Jr., school deputy assistant commandant, and Chaplain (Lt. Col.) and Mrs. Martin W. Heinicke.

Officer, OC wives hold fondue farewell, coffee

The Officers' Wives of the Leadership Department held a farewell dessert fondue May 25 at 7:30 p.m. The function honored Mrs. George E. Palmer, wife of Lt. Col. Palmer, deputy director, Leadership Dept., who has been assigned to the Army War College, Carlisle, Pa.

The cheese, mini-pastries, and chocolate fondues were served in the home of Mrs. William B. Steele, 503 Wickersham Street, Fort Benning.

Dining tables were covered with white and pink tablecloths. The centerpieces were pink and white floral themes. Nametags were of pink and white construction paper in the shape of fondue pots. The home was decorated with pink candles in wine bottles, and the entrance hall had a trellis of pink and white crepe paper adorned with grapes.

Mrs. William B. Steele, wife of Col. Steele, director, Leadership Dept., presented Mrs. Palmer with a farewell gift of silver tongs and a fondue cookbook.

Hostesses for the occasion were the ladies of headquarters with Mrs. Steele as chief hostess. Others included Mrs. Bobdan A. Baryiak and Mrs. William E. Smith, fondues; Mrs. John H. Smith and Mrs. Victor J. Russell, nametags; Mrs. John E. Huffenberger Jr., Mrs. Glenn F. Sweeney, and Mrs. J. B. Sloan, decorations; and Mrs. Patrick J. Lalley, co-ordinator.

Senior Status Coffee

The Officer Candidate Wives' of the 51st Co. 5th Stu. Bn., TSB were briefed on aspects of senior status at a coffee held May 17 at 7 p.m. in Wigle Hall.

Honored guests for the evening were Mrs. William A. Walker, wife of Lt. Col. William A. Walker, deputy commander of TSB; Mrs. Donald E. Bliss, wife of Lt. Col. Donald E. Bliss, commander of the 5th Stu. Bn.; Mrs. William C. Pendleton, wife of Capt. William C. Pendleton, executive officer of 5th Stu. Bn.; Mrs. Philip J. Cassihry, wife of Chaplain Phillip J. Cassibry, chaplain, 5th Stu. Bn.

Mrs. William W. Jacobsen, wife of Capt. William W. Jacobsen, commander of 50th Co.; Capt. Frank R. Vavrek, commander, 51st Co., Mrs. Frank R. Vavrek; and Mrs. Gary W. Quick, wife of 2nd Lt. Gary W. Quick, tactical officer of 51st Co.

Vaverk explained that Senior Status for an officer candidate company is a transition period for candidates during which they are granted more privileges and are given the courtesies of officers by junior candidates. Senior candiates have been called "third lieutenants."

Vavrek showed slides of a Senior Status Review and explained the significance of the ceremony. The Senior Status Review is scheduled for June 4. the Senior Status formal for June 5.

Airborne wives meet

The officers' wives of the Airborne Department, USAIS, met for lunch May 12 at the Villula Tea Gardens in Alabama. Hostess, Mrs. Pet Flitts, welcomed the ladies at the door. Mrs. Robert H. Anspaugh was co-hostess.

Mrs. Robert H. Anspaugh, wife of the deputy director, opened the short business meeting by welcoming the guests; Mrs. Lee D. Ellis Jr., Mrs. David G. Jesmer and her mother-in-law, Mrs. S. F. Jesmer. A pool party at the Main Club in June for officers and wives of the Airborne Department was announced.

Mrs. Robert W. Kinzer Jr. and Mrs. Randall J. Kirner worked in the Thrift Shop in May and Mrs. Robert L. Carlson and Mrs. Bruce J. Wicks volunteered to work in June. The treasury report was given by Mrs. Edward M. Chamberlain III.

A bracelet charm and fond farewell wishes were given to Mrs. Herbert J. Lloyd.

Next month's coffee will be hostessed by Mrs. David T. Gibson and Mrs. Joseph W. Moore.

BEA installs new officers

On Tuesday May 25, the Benning Education Association (BEA) of the Fort Benning Children's Schools installed the officers for school year 1971-1972. The ceremony was held at Dexter School at the conclusion of the regular BEA Meeting.

The new officers are as follows: John Shuttlesworth, president; George Coggins, president - elect; Mrs. John W. Emerson, vice-president; Miss Mildred Hardenbergh, secretary; Miss Jinanne Bennett, treasurer; Robert Smith, parliamentarian.

The membership of the organization includes the professional staff who organizes, teach, and implement the educational program.

False prophet

The slogan "as Maine goes so goes the nation" was a tribute to that state's reputation as a political barometer in presidential elections. The sayings' credibility, however, collapsed in 1936 when the Pine Tree State was one of only two to vote for GOP candidate Alfred M. Landon in Franklin D. Roosevelt's landslide 523-8 Electoral College victory.

Navy to start NROTC units at black school

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The Navy will establish NROTC units at Savannah State College, Savannah Ga., and at Southern University, Baton Rouge, La., this fall. Both schools have predominantly black enrollments.

Navy officials said the units are being established by the Navy "in its continuing effort to provide increased opportunities for black college students to become naval officers."

The Navy opened its first NROTC unit at a predominantly black university, Prairie View A and M College in Texas, in 1968.

Ranger OWs see fashion show

Giant tissue - paper flowers, butterflies and caterpillars decorated the patio of the Supper Club at the Fort Benning Officers Club on May 20 when the Fort Benning Ranger Officers Wives gathered for their monthly meeting.

While enjoying brunch, the women watched an informal style show presented by a local dress shop. Modeling fashions ranging from swim-wear to afterfive dresses were Mrs. John Geraci, Mrs. Michael Brennan, Mrs. Joseph Dinoto, and Mrs. Earl Steck. The narration was provided by Mrs. Powell Johnson.

A short business meeting conducted by Mrs. Benjamin Lane followed the brunch. Mrs. Lane welcomed the following new members to the group: Mrs. Russell Andrews, Mrs. Ken Clardy, Mrs. Freddie Odomes, Mrs. Bruce Parker, Mrs. Donald Rabel, Mrs. Walter Ross and Mrs. Melton Snow, and said farewell to Mrs. Richard Meadows, whose husband will be attending the Infantry Officers Advanced Course.

Mrs. Lane also welcomed the following guests: Mrs. C. C. Houston, Mrs. Nicholas Garbarion, Mrs. James Miller and Mrs. Richard Stolz, new president of the Fort Benning Officers Wives Club.

Army issues kit to test antifreeze

WASHINGTON (ANF) — A new, easy-to-use test kit for testing antifreeze and anticorrosion protection levels in cooling systems is expected to save the Army more than $6 million during 1971 alone.

In the past, Army policy required the draining of the expensive coolant solution each spring and replacement with water and a corrosion inhibitor during the summer. Now periodic antifreeze testing will make it possible to retain the fluid in the vehicles for up to two years.

Introduced into the Army supply system in March, the test kits are intended for use during the quarterly preventive maintenance services on all vehicles using antifreeze solutions.

Each kit contains three simple tests which can be made by the driver or a mechanic, taking less than five minutes altogether.

Program accepts 'high risk students'

Success in college becomes a reality, rather than a dream, for many people enrolled in the Developmental Education Program (DEP) at Columbus College.

Parents of students who barely "pulled through" high school will be pleased to learn that this program readily accepts the so-called high risk student who honestly shows that he can and wants to learn.

Designed for students who apply for admission to the college but who are unable to meet admission requirements, the DEP's one-year course of study helps students adjust to the college situation under less academic pressure.

During the three quarters each student takes a full load in such subjects as English, mathematics, psychology, business, speech, reading lab, and physical educaton.

Students receive non-baccalaureate credit the first quarter but may take one or two baccalaureate credit courses the following two quarters, Mrs. Dorothy B. Hatfield, program director, said. Full credit is given for Library 100, Music 147, and physical education courses, however.

DEP students all have one thing in common: A strong desire to complete their educaton and get ahead. All either "goofed" their way through high school or else skipped around so much they never got their academic feet on the ground.

A high proportion of high risk students are outgoing in nature. Many are better joiners and less inhibited than the average college student.

During high school, many rate high in the popularily polls though low on the academic rolls.

DEP students are given necessary assistance to make up material missed in high school. They are also encouraged to develop themselves emotionally and socially as well as academically.

Former DEP students have received the March of Dimes and other scholarships and outstanding student awards. Some now make the dean's list, serve in student government, and hold class offices. They also participate in several campus clubs and activities, including music and athletic teams.

The DEP faculty is drawn from members of the college faculty with an expressed interest in the marginally prepared student. Experts from the local community provide instruction, too.

Valley Rescue Mission has $100,000 fund goal

The Valley Rescue Mission, a private non-profit organization providing aid to the needy in the Columbus area, is conducting a $100,000 fund drive to construct new facilities.

Presently, the mission is housed in a collection of substandard buildings which the city has allowed them to use until the new building is completed.

The first phase of the building program has already begun and when completed will provide dormitory space, dining room, kitchen and work shop.

Among the services the mission has furnished since its inception seven years ago are lodging, clothing and food for transients and rehabilitative treatment for alcoholics.

Contributions can be sent to the Valley Rescue Mission, 2901 Second Ave., Columbus, Ga.

R. M. Grow promoted to colonel

Robert M. Grow, deputy director of Plans and Training, was promoted to colonel June 1 in ceremonies held at the office of the commanding general.

Col. Grow has been at Fort Benning since December 1968 as deputy director of Plans and Training.

A 1950 graduate of West Point, Col. Grow has also attended the Command and General Staff College.

Among his medals are the Legion of Merit, the Air Medal with seven Oak Leaf Clusters and the Combat Infantryman Badge.

Prior to being assigned to Fort Benning the colonel was stationed with the 3rd Marine Amphibious Force in Vietoam.

The Grows currently reside at 405 Baltzell Ave., Fort Benning.

Col. Grow's parents, Maj. Gen. (ret.) and Mrs. Robert W. Grow, live at 3250 Valley Lane, Falls Church, Va.; and Mrs. Grow's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Frank Henry Van Schaak, live at 329 Madison St., Hollywood, Fla.

J. F. Payne honored graduate

Sgt. John F. Payne, Shawnee Mission, Kan., was the distinguished graduate and the leadership graduate of the Noncommissioned Offiicer Candidate Course (NCOC) Class 506-71 (11B) which graduated May 25 in Marshall Auditorium, Infantry Hall. Sgt. Robert W. Copper Jr., Baldwinsville, N.Y., was the academic graduate.

Sgt. Maj. Lyman A. Evans, command sergeant major, 5th Stu. Bn., TSB, delivered the commencement address to the 172 graduates.

For their achievement Payne and Cooper each received a letter of commendation signed by Brig. Gen. John T. Carley, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, an engraved "Follow Me" plaque, an engraved "Follow Me" statuette, and an engraved Association of the United States Army plaque.

Payne will report to the 4th Stu. Bn., TSB, for Airborne training and Cooper will be assigned to the 197th Infantry Brigade.

'Patriots' attend picnic

The "Patriot" wives of the 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf. enjoyed a family picnic lunch May 20 at "Patriot" Park. It was a homemade covered dish meal with the mess hall providing the beverages and eating utensils.

The picnic, planned for the May get-together of the Soldiers Wives Tea, is part of Lt. Col. Stephen R. Pawlik, the battalion commander's, "Patriot" Family Program.

At lunch time, the husbands joined their wives for a tasty, home-cooked meal, buffet-style, under a blue sky and shady pine trees. The delicious meal consisted of fried chicken, baked beans, salads of many varieties, rolls, and a number of eye-appealing pastry for desert.

An unexpected bit of entertainment came when a LOH-6 helicopter landed on a nearby pad, stirring up the air. The outdoor lunch was a pleasant break in routine for the soldiers, and gave the wives a chance to share a beautiful day with their husbands.

ROTC cadets to go Ranger

Some 240 Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets from across the country will arrive at Fort Benning next Friday to begin the nine-week Ranger course.

The Ranger training will be a substitute for the regular six-week ROTC Summer Camp.

Post school passes 15 cooks

15 Fort Benning soldiers were graduated from the Services Division Cooks' School Class I at ceremonies May 28. Two soldiers of the 197th Infantry Brigade, Sp4 Jerome W. Adams, HHC, 197th Inf. Bde. and Pfc. Richard A. Kavanagh, HHC, 1st Bn., 58th Inf., were selected as the honor graduates.

Lt. Col Wilbur J. Thiel, quality control officer for The School Brigade, was the guest speaker.

Dogs show committees some detection tricks

By Martin McWilliams

Can the Company Operations Department's Mine and Tunnel dogs really locate all of the booby traps hidden along the Weapons Department's demonstration trail?

To answer this question, two mine-detecting dogs actually walked the trail recently, producing results which were surprising to everybody — except maybe the dogs.

The experiment came about as a result of a briefing given by the department's Military Dog Committee to members of the Antitank and Missile (A M) Committee of the Weapons Department. The briefing officer made claims for the mine-detecting dogs which the Weapons people felt must be seen to be totally believed. The mine people challenged the dog people to a showdown at Cole Range, where the Weapons Department maintains a couple of booby-trapped trails for training and demonstration purposes.

One of the dogs was worked by Lt. Col. Donald Vest, Anti-Tank and Missile Committee chairman, and the other by Spc Catez Allen, a dog handler with the Military Dog Committee. One dog found about half of the booby-traps in its path, and the other about three-quarters.

"We were a bit disappointed," said Maj. Wayne Parker, executive officer of the A and M Committee, who felt that the course was not really the best test for the dogs. "We'd like to refine the test to perhaps integrate dogs into our own training. We want to convince the students that the dogs will do a good job."

Parker hopes that a further test can be arranged in the near future.

SFC John Williams, NCOIC of the mine and tunnel subcommittee of the Military Dog Committee, concurred. "It was not an ideal situation," said Williams. He felt that the often-used trail bore many confusing scents left by previously exploded smoke-producing devices and training-aid-type booby traps.

Also the devices set along the trail were very close together. "In practice, if we found such ordnance in such a small place, we wouldn't try to go through it — we'd go around," said Williams.

The mine-detecting dogs are trained to sniff out metals, plastics, explosives, and other materials used in booby-traps, and to sit down close to such material.

Red Cross cites division's part in disaster aid

The Atlanta headquarters of the Red Cross has presented a certificate of appreciation to the Chaplain's Division at Fort Benning for its efforts in raising $189 for victims of a series of tornadoes in February in the Delta area of the State of Mississippi.

The money was contributed by children in the Sunday School classes at Fort Benning.

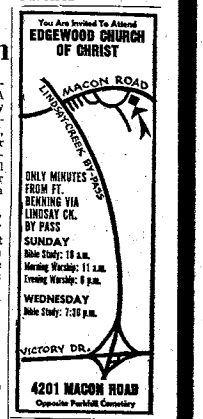
VA hospital space hard to obtain

The flow of Georgia servicemen back to civilian life continues at the rate of approximately 2,000 per month and many of them will be needing hospitalization.

"The proposed reduction in the number of VA hospital beds, coupled with the large number of older veterans from other war periods, means that space in veterans' hospitals is going to be continually more difficult to obtain." So stated Georgia Veterans Service Director, Pete Wheeler, and he added that veterans should be aware of certain rules of eligibility pertaining to admission to VA hospitals.

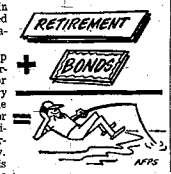
Admittance to a VA hospital is handled on a priority basis, and generally speaking, there are three priority groups.

Top priority is given those veterans needing hospitalization for treatment of injuries or disease incurred in service. Hospital space is a "must" for veterans in this category and in the event that space is not available in a VA hospital, the veteran will be placed in a private hospital at government expense until space is available in a VA hospital.



The second priority group includes veterans who were discharged or retired for disability incurred in service or who are receiving compensation, or would be eligible to receive compensation, except for receipt of retirement pay, who need treatment for some ailment not connected with their service. Veterans in this category are admitted on an "as beds are available" basis.

A third priority group covers veterans with service during any war or who served after January 31, 1955 and any peacetime veteran who is age 65 or over, who apply for hospitalization for a nonservice-connected disability. This type hospitalization is handled strictly on a space-available basis.



A veteran requiring emergency medical treatment should be taken directly to the nearest VA hospital. In non-emergency cases, a veteran or a relative, acting on his behalf, may file application for hospital care. Or a veteran may have his personal physician file the proper forms for admission to a VA hospital.

"Of course, the primary requirement in any case," says Wheeler, "is that the applicant be a veteran with a discharge from the military under conditions other than dishonorable."

'Forum' current show at Playhouse

'Musicals hardest type of production': director

By Fran Wihlin

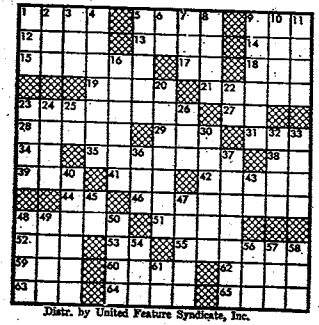
"I believe that hardest type of production for a director to undertake is a musical," said Sp5. Larry K. Conklin, "but directing this musical has been a particularly rewarding experience for me." He is talking about "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," the production of the Fort Benning Dramatizers playing tonight, tomorrow and June 10, 11, 12 at the Fort Benning Playhouse, Bldg. 1227.

(Tickets for the show may be purchased at Building 394 (Special Services Office) at the Playhouse or at the door. Admission is $1. For further information call 545-2316 or 545-5057.)

Conklin auditioned 40 people for 20 roles. He said he had to depend on military dependents for the female roles. "At times it is hard to find people who have vocal talent and dramatic ability," he commented, "but I think I have chosen the right person for each role."

Conklin is not only directing the musical comedy, but is also playing the part of Hero. This situation is not new to him. In 1967 he directed "Forum" for the Cincinnati Civic Theater, and played the role of Pseudolus. He also saw the Broadway production with Zero Mostell as Pseudolus in December of 1963 and the Springer production with Charles Jones as Pseudolus during the summer of 1969.

"The actors have worked hard to bring across my interpretation of the musical," Larry stated. He mentioned that there are dramatic parts and comic parts in the show. "But on the whole," he said, "it is a funny, funny play."



Larry was with the Fort Benning Playhouse before the Dramatizers were formed. His first performance at the Playhouse was as the girl's father in "The Fantasticks." Most recently he was the costumer and make-up artist for "Blues for Mister Charlie," and also played the part of Ralph. Altogether he has taken part in 47 full-length plays and nine full-length operas here and abroad.

Before entering the Army, Larry performed in Ohio with the Cincinnati and Springfield Civic Opera Companies. The Army recognized his talents and he spent 18 months with the 3rd Army Soldier Shows. He then directed the Third Infantry Division Showcase in Europe for 21 months. He now is assigned as one of the entertainment specialists at Fort Benning.

Federal withholdings may not cover liability

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Some service people may find the Federal tax withheld from their wages will not cover their income tax liability due to a new law changing the withholding system.

An unexpected big balance of taxes due at the end of the year could primarily affect big single wage earners, those who; "moonlight" or those families where the wife works.

Especially affected are:

—Each employee who expects to earn more than $11,500 in 1971 and expects to claim the $1,500 standard deduction or itemize deductions totaling less than 13 per cent of his salary;

—Each single employee who expects to earn $15,000 or more in 1971;

—Each married employee who expects to earn $25,000 or more in 1971 whose spouse is not employed.

Libraries' books

Special Services libraries offer a variety of interesting books for your enjoyment of leisure reading.

"The Private Wound," by Nicholas Blake: Ireland is close to the author's heart. Ireland with its troubles, beauty and nonsense. A fine mystery of emotional intensity mixed with lust and love.

"The Catch," John Boland: A retired American millionaire almost loses his life in the dungeons of Aerolie Castle as he finds a macabre explosion of strange events.

"The Man Whose Dreams Came True," Julian Symons: Shockingly fine portrait of a man who dreamed of blackmail or at least of an heiress.

"Giants Unleashed," Groff Conklin: An anthology of 12 unusual stories from some of the greatest modern science fiction writers.

"The Pollinators of Eden," John Boyd: A most convincing description of future society and a shocking, bizarre and delightful climax.

"Against the Public Interest," Robert Gaines: A shattering story set in the protean and essentially ruthless ambiance of high politics. A fine book of high stature.

"The Most Extraordinary Adventures of Major Robert Stobo," Robert C. Alberts: This history reads like first rate fiction. A rich and varied cast of supporting characters comes alive. Among them is Col. George Washington, Stobo's fiercely ambitious commanding officer.

"Tales of the Uncanny and Supernatural," Algernan Blackwood: Some of these stories have been out of print for many years. Far from being fantastic his characters are essentially real.

'Little Big Man' shows history repeats itself

In his films director Arthur Penn has placed a microscope over our culture, pinpointing its myriad paradoxes with impact. Penn, who has "Bonnie and Clyde" and "Alice's Restaurant" to his credit delves into history with "Little Big Man" starring Dustin Hoffman with a special appearance by Faye Dunaway.

"Although I am focusing on history-that period between 1858 and 1878," Penn explains, "I believe that the film is contemporary because what is contemporary is also antique and that history does repeat itself. It's almost as if all our wars and hatreds in the past have taught us nothing."

The film, currently showing in Columbus, took nearly a year to film on location sites in Montana and Canada on many of the actual sites of events depicted in the motion picture.

Hoffman portrays the one white survivor of the Custer Massacre, and his praise for Penn is strong. "He is a brilliant man," Hoffman says. Almost over 40, Penn feels deep affection for the young generation and the dreams that they are striving to build. "It's a generation doing something about its own destiny," Penn says.

Penn has been careful to choose his directorial chores on a limited basis. He has only made 12 pictures in the 12 years he has made films. "I need that much time to be able to devote all my creative energies to a project. You can't turn out pictures on an assembly line basis and expect them to be good."

'Inf.' looks for combat pics

'Infantry' magazine is looking for original color photographs or slides of combat action in Vietnam. The magazine will make copies of them for future use. Anyone having photos may bring them to Building 80 on Yeager Avenue, or send them to 'Infantry,' Box 2005, Fort Benning, Ga., 31905.

All materials will be returned. For more information call 1st Lt. John Koenig during duty hours 545-3030-5400.

Synopsis

RIDE IN THE WHIRLWIND (Rated G)—Jack Nicholson is one of three cowboys on their way to a cattle roundup. They fall in with a group of outlaws and become involved in a final showdown between the outlaws and a posse of vigilantes. The three cowhands escape in the crossfire only to be mistaken for other members of the outlaw gang.

The action never lets up as the cowboys ride into a whirlwind of gunfire and death with the posse in bullet-studded pursuit. Millie Perkins plays the daughter of an old rancher and her initial encounter with Nicholson is a dramatic one.

MURPHY'S WAR (Rated GP)—This movie, based on the novel by Max Catto, is set among the rivers and jungles of South America. Ireland's Peter O'Toole plays an aviation machimist's mate. His Welsh actress-wife, Sian Phillips is cast as a Quaker doctor who tends to his wounds.

The story is set in the last two days of World War II. It tells of one man's obsessive pursuit against prohibitive odds of a German submarine that was responsible for the death of his ship and crew. The film was directed by Peter Yates who made "Bullitt."

JULIUS CAESAR (Rated G)—Brutus (Jason Robards) joins Cassius (Richard Johnson) and Casca (Robert Vaughn) to strike down Caesar (John Gielgud) in the senate as all Rome celebrates Caesar's great military victory of Pompeii's sons.

Brutus sincerely believes Caesar's growing power poses a threat to the liberty of Rome. Charlton Heston is Mark Antony, Caesar's friend and admirer who raises an army to pursue the conspirators and avenge Caesar.

THE BLOOD ON SATAN'S CLAW (Rated R)—This horror film deals with witchcraft practices in rural England late in the 17th century. It tells the story of a sensual young woman (Linda Hayden) ironically named Angel who leads her pagan cohorts in murderous rituals.

Convinced that there is witchcraft at work the judge (Patrick Wymark) and the villagers descend upon the witch-cult to rid the village of Angel and her hypnotic murderous powers.

THE REIVERS (Rated GP)—A reiver is a rascal and a rogue and Steve McQueen plays Boon, who is joined by companions Rupert Crosse and 12-year-old Mitch Vogel on an adventurous journey toward Memphis in a vintage 1905 Winton Flyer.

William Faulkner wrote the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel on which the story is based. It is set at the tranquil time of the turn-of-the-century.

Reminder cites time off policy for Ga. reservists

ATLANTA, Ga. — Employers in Georgia have been reminded that reservists and guardsmen are entitled to time off from their jobs to perform active duty for training.

The reminder came from William D. Sexton, area administrator of the Labor-Management Services Administration (LMSA), U. S. Department of Labor here.

Upon their return from training, members of the Reserves and the National Guard have a legal right to be restored to their positions with the same seniority, status, pay and vacation rights as they held prior to the absence for training.

The law also prohibits any kind of employment discrimination against reservists or guardsmen because of their participation in the program.

Sexton pointed out that military training duty for guardsmen and reservists usually occurs during summer and that most of them will be absent from work for two or three weeks of training during that period.

He cautioned reservists and guardsmen to notify their employers before leaving for training and to report back to their jobs immediately upon completion of their tours; otherwise, they may forfeit their statutory reemployment protection.

Additional information and literature about employment rights of members of the Reserves and the National Guard can be obtained from LMSA's office at Room 303, 1371 Peachtree St., N. E., Atlanta, Ga. 30309, (Phone 404-526-5495).

Office workers take to field in 931st FTX

HHC, 931st Engr. Gp., operated under canvass roofs May 25-27 as the unit took to the fields of Fort Benning during its annual field training exercise (FTX).

The unit continued its normal administrative and support functions during the three days in the woods in spite of the hardships caused by lack of offices and office equipment.

Men of the 931st performed their duties under simulated combat conditions which included "enemy" attacks at the base camp and "ambushes" aimed at halting 931st vehicles.

The "enemy," volunteers of the 586th Engr. Co. (FB), 931st, employed harassment tactics, including simulated artillery attacks, ground assaults and chemical agent attacks.

Vet collects $30,000 on life policy

A veteran who took out a $10,000 life insurance policy about 50 years ago has already collected more than $30,000 on it, the Veterans Administration said.

According to VA, the policyholder was 104 years old last month and is still collecting monthly checks.

The veteran had a short military career during World War I after entering service in June 1918 at the age of 51. In December the same year, he was discharged with the rank of captain in the Army Medical Corps.

In July 1921, he took out an Ordinary Life insurance policy. When VA rated him totally and permanently disabled in 1927 as a result of service-connected injuries, VA, under terms of his policy, started paying him $57.50 monthly. He still draws that amount.

Then, in October 1927, VA also began paying the veteran monthly compensation, based on his disability. Compensation rates have been increased through the years, and he nows draws $450 a month.

VA said the agency will continue to pay insurance benefits to the veteran as long as he remains totally and permanently disabled

100,000 vets taking on-the-job training

Employers have been urged to develop G.I. Bill on-the-job training opportunities for returning veterans.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson noted that approximately 100,000 veterans are currently taking on-the-job training (OJT), and that 181,400 have taken apprenticeship or OJT since this program began in October 1967.

Johnson pointed out, however, that more jobs and training opportunities are needed, and one way to provide them is through employer expansion of OJT programs. VA pays veterans while they job-train.

OJT covers a wide range of occupations, including many in such areas of public need as health care, welfare, recreation, education and pollution control, he said.

VA provides information and otherwise cooperates with employers in developing OJT programs, but Johnson stressed to employers that veterans may participate only after state-approving agencies have approved their (employers') program.

VA revealed that one of the newest job-training plans is being worked out with the Independent Cash Register Dealers Association. This is to train repairmen.

Association secretary-treasurer Stanley Hayman said the industry could employ 500 to 1,000 repairmen a year in the 225 cities where its members do business.

Johnson cited a program sponsored by the Environmental Protection Agency as an example of how veterans are being trained in areas of public need.

He noted, too, that the Department of Defense now allows servicemen to begin training for various occupations during their last six months of military service. Last year, 30 servicemen began training as waste water plant operators as that program got under way.

Engineers sweep double-header with Infantrymen

By Richard Speers

The 931st Engineer Group fast pitch softball team swept both ends of a doubleheader from the 197th Infantry Brigade May 25, sending both teams into a tie for second place in the post league.

The Engineers shut out the 197th in the first game 1-0 and slammed them again 4-2 the second in an extra inning at Gowdy Field.

The first contest developed as a pitching duel between 931st ace John Farrington and 197th hurler Sterling "chief" Whitehorse when both pitchers threw hitless innings until 931st catcher Dennis Moore singled sharply to center field in the bottom of the fifth.

However, Farrington's no-hit pitching lasted until the last out of the game when 197th center fielder Leonard Gibson singled his team's only hit. Farrington came back strongly and saved a shutout for the Engineers.

Whitehorse had yielded only one hit until the last inning when the combination of a single to center by 931st third baseman Ed Ford and a series of errors by the 197th allowed Ford to advance to third.

The last-inning victory by the Engineers in the first game was bested later on that evening when the 931st went on to down the Infantrymen in an extra inning in the second game, giving the 931st team their third sweep of double-headers this season. Both wins dropped the 197th from its firm hold on second place in league standings, putting both teams in a tie for the runner-up position.

In the second game it took four 197th pitchers to hold the engineers to two runs in regular play before they slugged their way to a 4-2 win in the eighth inning.

The 931st batman quickly got to starting pitcher John Barker who was relieved after facing only two batters in the second inning by Theodore Furnish. Barker had given up a double to Ford and a walk to Moore before Furnish pitched himself out of the jam.

In the bottom of the second, the 931st defense faltered, allowing two unearned runs on a bunt by Tom Sumner that was misplayed three times. Sumner and base runner Gerald Freyberger circled the diamond for the 197th's only scores of the double-header.

In the eighth inning the Infantrymen brought in a new pitcher Ramon Cruz, but when he walked the first two men he faced, Gordon Nixon was called in to try to cool the threat.

With the bases loaded, David Wilson hit a grounder which no one could handle allowing Ford to score from third. That was all the Engineers needed to ice the game at 4-2.

Farrington, the 931st's winning hurler in the first game, came back to halt the 197th's final bid and saved the victory for starter Jarvis. The Infantrymen threatened to score with one out when James Rix singled to right and Larry Ardito walked to put the tying runs on base. But Harrington came in and got Gibson to pop out to shortstop and Freyberger ground out for the final play.

Pushball new sport on Stewart

On May 14 pushball was introduced to IOAC 671 and will become a permanent part of the IOAC physical fitness program.

The sport may have as many as 40 men to a side and the object is to push a six-foot diameter rubber ball across the opponent's goal line.

Anything is legal except striking or clipping an opposing player.

It is hoped that the IOAC students will take this activity and the others learned from conditioning activities to their new units to be used by their personnel for conditioning and recreation.

197th takes two from MEDDAC

By Steve Partridge

The 197th Infantry Brigade fast-pitch softball team throttled Center Aviation Command May 26, 23-10 and 10-2. The double conquests kept the battling brigade in second place.

"Chief" Whitehorse held Avn. Cmd. He collected his fourth win of the season against two defeats as the 197th bombed their opposition in the first game.

In the nightcap the 197th rallied from behind for its 10-2 victory.

Facing a 2-0 deficit, the brigade retaliated with a run in the bottom of the first inning and took the lead with a five-run outburst in the second stanza.

The 197th followed with a run in the last of the third inning and collected three runs in the bottom of the fourth frame. The big blow was James Rix' second inside-the-park homerun of the season.

After allowing Avn. Cmd. two runs in their first turn at bat, 197th starting pitcher "Lefty" Furnish settled down and pitched a two-hit shutout for the remaining six innings.

Furnish nailed down his fifth victory of the season against two defeats.

197th drops starter to 931st in handball

The 197th Infantry Brigade team handball squad dropped its season opener May 27 on Wetherby Field to the 931st Engineer Group, 7-6.

The league-leading 931st fought from behind to hand the Infantrymen a heart-breaking loss as they scored the winning goal with less than 30 seconds left in the contest.

The Engineers galloped to a 3-1 lead in the opening half, but the battling 197th garnished two goals to send the game into a tie at the closing of the first stanza.

The hustling Infantrymen appeared to be the victors with two minutes left to play as they romped to a 6-5 lead. Playing for insurance points, the brigade attacked the Engineer's goal. A mistake by the 197th resulted in a 6-6 tie by the 931st.

With less than 30 seconds left in the contest, a stolen 197th pass resulted in a fast-break attempt by the Engineers on the brigade goal. The ball sped past the Infantrymen's goalie, Frank Moon, to give the Engineers a hard-earned 7-6 victory.

Ex-officers returning to service

WASHINGTON (A N F) — Junior officers who have left the Army are responding in increasing numbers to invitations to return to active duty.

Since the program of inviting former officers to return to the service began nearly two years ago, 920 invitations have been made and 111—or 12.1 per cent—of those officers invited have returned to active duty.

Under the program, the Army invites the return of former officers who were considered outstanding during their active service and have been able to realistically compare a career in the service with a civilian occupation.

Nixon appoints chief chaplain

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Chaplain (Brig. Gen.) Gerhardt W. Hyatt has been named by the President for assignment as the Army's Chief of Chaplains and for promotion to major general.

Chaplain Hyatt will succeed Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Francis L. Sampson, who retires Aug. 1.

931st Gp. downs TSB in team handball opener

By John Box

The 931st Engineer Group downed The School Brigade, 7-5, in the season opener of post league team handball competition and the first game of its kind at Fort Benning.

The first score of the game came on a shot from TSB's Jim Dougherty as he fired the ball past 931st goalie Paul Scott. The 931st charged back and scored the next two goals off the throwing arms of Earl Daniels and Walter Pirkle.

The game then settled down to a defensive battle for the next three minutes with the goalies on both teams blocking some ten shots. Then the TSB's Dougherty was fouled, and he scored a goal on a penalty shot tying the game at 2-2.

The 931st came back with vengeance as Pirkle blazed two shots past the TSB goalie and Scott fired one more to put the 931st out in front 5-2 at the half.

TSB tried to get it back together in the second half with a quick score by Hyatt Seligman, but the lone tally was all they could muster for the next four minutes as 931st goalie Scott batted away several attempts.

Frustrated by their inability to get anything past Scott, TSB lost momentum and the 931st seized the advantage with Bob Barber hitting a 20-footer, bringing the score to 6-3 in favor of the Engineers.

A few minutes later TSB's John Justice was fouled attempting to score and added another point to his team's tally with a penalty shot.

The final score came with a back-handed shot by the TSB's Elzy Stacy and the game ended with the Engineers 7 and TSB 5.

Team handball is a new sport in the United States that has achieved popularity among Europeans. The game resembles a combination of basketball and soccer. For example, only three steps may be taken without dribbling the ball and body contact, or checking, is prevalent.

The game is played at a furious pace with no time outs and 30 minutes of uninterrupted action. A five minute half time separates the two periods.

Owing to the lack of experience and endurance of the Fort Benning players, the referees have cut the playing time to 12 minute periods. The time will be extended to the full 30 minutes gradually as the players gain in stamina and expertise.

The long-range goal for U.S. Army participation in the sport is to be develop players to compete in Olympic competition.

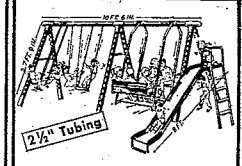
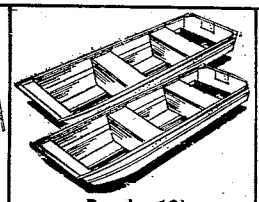
Georgia U. receives marksmanship trophy



A large Shooting Championship Trophy recently was presented to the University of Georgia, by the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit, "Home of Shooting Champions," in a special ceremony at the University's Coliseum in Athens.

The five-foot victory trophy was presented by Col. Robert M. Piper, MTU commander, to the university's rifle team in token of their undefeated season in marksmanship within the Southeastern Conference during 1970 and 1971. Receiving the trophy was Joel Eaves, Georgia Athletic Director and Maj. Alfred Feddo, coach of the rifle team.



The trophy will be a rotating trophy with no retirement rules or permanent ownership claim permitted. It will be claimed each year by the Championship rifle team within the association.

In accepting the trophy as a representative of the Southern Collegiate Riflery Association, the University of Georgia will place it on display in their trophy room until a new champion is determined in the coming years competition.

The long Memorial Day weekend apparently gave many Fort Benning sportsmen a good chance to travel and sample the fishing afforded by neighboring states. The Rod and Gun Club sales counter reported a very good weekend.

Fishing didn't seem to be too good though. There were no really big fish reported and strings of smaller fish included quite a few that were just barely keepers. The sun is warming the water in the ponds and that calls for a change in fishing tactics. Weed beds become a favorite hangout for the larger fish when the water gets warm. Like humans they look for a dark and cool area and lily pads are the best place to find it. The growth is heavy on top but not so thick under the water to restrict movement. There is nothing to keep the lunkers from darting out from the weed beds to grab anything that looks good to eat.

Some real action can be had by fishermen using a medium running plug. Fishing from a boat is best. Anchor just off the weed bed and cast parallel to the length of the bed. Fish slow, try a jerky retrieve to give the lure the appearance of a crippled fish. One of the lures in your collection should look enough like dinner to entice a hungry fish out of the bed.

Where the weed beds are not too thick a fisherman can do all right fishing the openings in the bed. Use a sinking lure and bring it in slow. Give the fish plenty of time to find out its there.

Night Fishing and Frog Gigging

This is a good time of the year to go night fishing. The temperature stays warm enough for real comfort. There will be a few bugs, nothing like what a fisherman will have to suffer with later in the summer.

Catfish, bream and bass fishing are all good at night. Sometimes the daylight hours can be completely unproductive, then after darkness the fish will take to just about any kind of bait. Catfish seem to feed more during darkness than they do during the day. During daylight you have to fish the bottom to do any good but at night they move around in the middle depths. They will take worms, liver and just about any other prepared bait but a lot of fishermen have the most success with minnows.

You might take a gig along just in case the fish won't cooperate at all. Frogs are becoming more numerous and make more noise. Their croaking is their downfall. They can be easily located and are not hard to sneak up to if you are in a boat. A flashlight is a must and a miners type light is preferable. Actually, most people would rather eat froglegs than fish anyway. You may learn to like the sport better than fishing. Frog gigging is permitted on reservation fishing ponds providing the gig has at least three prongs. Post permits and state fishing license also are required.

May Fishing Derby

Capt. William Aronow, TSB, registered the largest bass in the Rod and Gun Club May Fishing Derby. His catry came from Harp's Pond and weighed in at 7 pounds, 10 ounces.

SSgt. Charles Baxley, 3rd Ranger Company, won the bream contest with a 1-pound, 3-ounce catch from King's Pond. He was using a cane pole and red worms.

The prize winning catfish came from Weem's Pond. SSgt. Robert Brown caught it using chicken liver for bait. It weighed an even 12 pounds.

The three winners for the month of May will each receive $15 worth of merchandise from the club sales counter.

Each month the Rod and Gun Club holds a Fishing Derby. Prizes are given for the largest bream, catfish and bass registered at the club. To be eligible for a prize you must be a member of the Rod and Gun Club, register at the club before going fishing, catch the fish from one of the post ponds and register it at the club after you are finished fishing.

Nicklaus, Caponi set golf day marks

By Bill Kloeb

Jack Nicklaus shot a 72, Tony Jacklin a 74, Donna Caponi a 73 and Shirley Englehorn a 78 at the Old Warson Country Club in St. Louis, Mo., on Memorial Day.

The scores of Nicklaus and Caponi set the standards to be beaten by amateur golfers participating in the Annual National Golf Day sponsored by the Professional Golf Association to raise funds for golf-related charities and scholarships.

Each year for the past 20 years two outstanding men golfers selected by the professionals have played a match to set the standard for amateur golfers who attempt to beat the champion. This year marks the first that two lady golfers were selected to play and set the mark for lady amateur golfers. The 72 shot by Nicklaus is the score men amateurs must beat and the ladies will shoot at the 73 shot by Miss Caponi.

Amateurs deduct handicaps from their gross score to determine the score to be recorded. Golfers who do not have an established handicap use the Calloway system of handicapping to arrive at a net score.

Every amateur who enters the event will receive a National Golf Day bag tag. Men who beat the score established by Nicklaus and women who beat the score established by Caponi will receive a prize from the professionals.

Fort Benning golfers may register for the contest at the Country Club Pro Shop.

Amateurs have until June 13 to put up $1 and attempt to beat the champ.

Barracudas score in college meet

By Bill Kloeb

Members of the Fort Benning Barracuda Swim Team added medals and ribbons to personal and team collections during a Class "B" meet at Columbus College.

The meet, sanctioned by the Georgia Amateur Athletic Association was part of the College Community Service Program.

Medals were awarded first place winners. Swimmers placing second and third received ribbons.

Linda Borden won a first place medal in the 100-yard backstroke event for girls 10 years and under. Aleta Hunt had third place finishes in the 100-yard butterfly and 100-yard freestroke events. Michael Wright took a first place medal in the 100-yard breastroke event for boys 10 years and under.

Barracudas had first, second and third place finishes in the events for girls in the 11 to 12 age group. Sharon Wright placed first in the 100-yard breaststroke, Annette Chapman was second in the breaststroke event and Jay Ioanidis placed third in the 100-yard butterfly event.

Craig Pepin and David Kite won a medal and two ribbons in the events for boys 11 to 12 years. Craig was first in the breaststroke and placed third in the backstroke event. David won the third place ribbon for the freestyle match.

Girls swimming in the 13 to 14 year age group took three first and one third place award for the Barracudas. Carnie Hanson won first place medals for wins in the butterfly, backstroke and freestyle events. Roxane Robinson Placed third in the breaststroke.

In the competition for boys 13 to 14 years old David Van Der Like placed second in the backstroke and freestyle meets and Tim Coakly won third place ribbons in the butterfly and backstroke events.

Col. Lawrence L. Mowery, director, Brigade and Battalion Operations Department, delivered the commencement address to the 86 graduates, 10 of whom were from the Army of the Republic of Vietnam (ARVN). These men will return to Vietnam and serve as sub-lieutenants in the ARVN for one year before they are commissioned as second lieutenants in the ARVN.

Clark to lead USAMTU in Fiesta firing

A U.S. Army pistol team led by SFC Hezekiah Clark of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit will compete in the Annual Fiesta of Five Flags Pistol Championships at Pensacola, Fla., Thursday.

The Fort Benning based team will be entering both the individual and team events in the nationally recognized tournament. Clark, winner of all the Fort Benning's three gun matches this year and the Florida pistol circuit events in March, will be a strong contender for the championship in the "Fiesta" matches. He will be supported by MSgt. Aubrey Smith, winner of the rapid fire pistol matches in the Interservice Championships at Fort Benning earlier this month, and SFC Bonnie Harmon, who has recently returned to the pistol circuit from a tour of combat duty in the Republic of Vietnam.

Both Harmon and Clark have been selected to represent the U.S. Armed Forces Team in the Council of International Military Sports (CISM) Shooting Championships at Thun, Switzerland, in July.

The Fiesta of five Flags tournament attracts some of the best national pistol competition within the nation each year. Last year's champion, SFC John Sicinski of the 3rd Army Marksmanship Unit, will be on hand to defend his title. Runner-up last year was MSgt. Emil Heugatter of the Army MTU who fired a 2677-127, just eight back of Sicinski. Heugatter will be in Europe at the time of the Florida meet this year.

A two-range system is employed in the Florida event to be fired on the Pensacola Rifle and Pistol range in Cantonment, Fla. The dual range system, each range adjoining the other, will provide greater shooting capacity, more efficient operation for competitors and tournament officials alike and should provide better scores with the improved flow of matches. A maximum of 250 competitors will be permitted to enter the annual 24-match event.

At the close of each day's competition, the U.S. Army Marksmanship's pistol team will conduct shooting clinics for all interested handgunners. This will include lectures and demonstrations on the ranges to include proper body stance, sight alignment, breath control and trigger pressure techniques. The clinics will be open to all interested parties, competitors and non-competitors alike.

An International program of matches to include slow fire, center fire and standard pistol will precede the national matches. Each will feature the usual 600 point championship scoring.

Army Shooting Team places 9 on list for Pan-American games

The U. S. Army Shooting Team led by its captain, Col. Robert M. Piper, returned to Columbus, Monday from Phoenix, Ariz., where they won a large share of the honors and places on the U.S. Pan American Shooting Team. The Army placed nine on the 22 member team.

Firing against three-hundred odd competitors, the cream of the nation's shooting prowess, the U. S. Army shooting team captured seven championships of the 16 events while gaining runner-up spot in six. In Center Fire Pistol, the team took three of the top four spots.

SFC Herschel Anderson of the Army Marksmanship Unit was the first man selected to the Pan Am team when he won the Free Pistol event at the close of the first weeks competition. MSgt. Emil W. Heugatter, runner-up to Anderson also was selected to the team.

Anderson, winner of the Interservice Championships for five years and on the U. S. team which captured the 1967 Pan American Games Free Pistol Championship, led the entire field of competitors each of the three days of firing at the Black Canyon Ranges and compiled 1,668 aggregate, 13 over the runner-up man.

Following Anderson, six other Army Marksmanship handgunners placed on the select Pan Am team, with four of them from the Center Fire competition. They were SFC Hezekiah Clark, MSgt. Robert Whittacre and SSgt. Jimmy McCauley who placed second, third and fourth in the shooting and SFC John McNally in sixth place.

Other pistol shooters from the MTU included on the team were MSgt. Laurence Mosely. Mosely placed in the Rapid Fire Pistol event.

International Rifle shooters making the team included Capt. Clifford Davis of the Army Marksmanship Unit, the English Match and 1st Lt. Lanny Bassham, a companion shooter, who was a double selectee. He placed fourth on the English Match and third in the Three Position, Smallbore Rifle event. When a man is selected twice, the nomination then goes to a lower firing position for the team to Cali, Colombia, in July.

Other first place spots in the shooting at Phoenix which rated selection to the Pan Am team included four by civilians, two by Air Force, one by the Marines and one by Navy.

533rd experiences 5 fire fights in FTX

By Guy Rhodes

Five fire fights, captured aggressors, chemical agent attacks, C-rations, plus getting out an average of 30 truck commitments per day was the agenda for the 533rd Transportation Co., 67th Maint. Bn., 93st Engr. Gp., during the unit's field training exercise and operational readiness test last week.

The 533rd spent four full days performing operations under combat situations while acting under the guidance of Capt. Dennis A. Lum, company commander.

The aggressor unit led by 1st Lt. Jackie Hadley and composed of members of Co. C of the 56th S and S Bn., 93st Engr. Gp., "attacked" 533rd convoys in addition to scheduling nightly attempts to enter the perimeter.

During the course of the problem, approximately 15 aggressors were "killed in action" and three more were taken prisoner.

Chief umpire for the problem was Maj. Robert Hoffman, training officer of the 67th, while Maj. George Moss and Capt. William Howell assisted. Others who visited during the problem included Col. Robert J. Standley, 93st Engr. Gp. commander, and Lt. Col. Ellis O. Atkinson, 67th Maint. Bn. commander.

The 533rd's activities were judged by the umpires to be outstanding in several areas including camouflaged positions and fire discipline during fire fights. Also mentioned in the outstanding category were the supply procedures in the field plus the operations of the maintenance shop.

92 post golfers compete in Memorial Day play

Ninety-two Fort Benning golfers competed in the Memorial Day four-ball dog fight golf tournament held at the Fort Benning Country Club.

First place winners were Dan Morgan, Don Bryan, John Shalley and Donald Rodrigues.

Rodrigues, Walburn and Malcom Baer received awards for scoring the most individual points in the tournament.

AUSA schedules membership meet

The Association of the U.S. Army will hold its annual general membership meeting for 1971-72 in Marshall Auditorium June 14 at 8:30 p.m.

Highlighting the program will be an address by Lt. Gen. (ret.) Harry W. O. Kinnard, one of the architects of the airmobile concept. Gen. Kinnard, who retired from the Army in 1968, commanded the 11th Air Assault and 1st Cavalary Division in Vietnam in 1965.

Included in the program will be the Infantry Chorus and the Infantry Center Band.

Preceding the AUSA meeting, a social hour beginning at 6:30 will be held in the Officer's Open Mess Supper Club. Social hour tickets are $1 and are available through unit AUSA representatives. Tickets also will be available at the door of the Supper Club.

Transportation from the Supper Club to Marshall Auditorium will be available.

The nominees for officers in 1971-72 will be announced next week by the present chapter president, Joe Flowers.

Gen. Kinnard is now president of the board of McCulloch Aircraft Corporation of California. He had a distinguished and colorful career dating back to his graduation from the U.S. Military Academy in 1939.

He was at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, when the war with Japan started and later he helped to organize the 501st Parachute Infantary Regiment at Toccoa, Ga., in November, 1942.

In other chapter news, it was announced that the current membership drive, which began March 15, already has attracted 3,200 new members.

Also Maj. Gen. (ret.) Charles Johnson, director of members and chapter operations, has noted that complaints have been received concerning the delay in processing new memberships. To alleviate this problem, he requested that applications be turned in within 10 days of receipt.

Civilian KP

KP program-

Civilian KPs have proven to be one of the most popular of the 140 MVA actions taken at Fort Benning. In nearly all surveys conducted, soldiers rank it among the 10 most important items, along with the five-day work week and barracks partitioning.

Use of civilians in the kitchen releases some 270 men each day to perform their regular military duties, making it easier for post units to accomplish their missions.

Some 500 civilians are normally employed by the KP contractor.

Extension of the KP contract is in keeping with Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott's announcement that successful MVA programs will be continued past the test period.

Non-prior, prior service

Viet enlistment option open

WASHINGTON (ANF) — New enlistment options for the Republic of Vietnam are now open to both non-prior and prior service enlistees.

The options offer a variety of choices to men who volunteer for combat arms training and one year in Vietnam.

—Delayed entry up to 180 days.

—Basic combat training at station of choice.

—Advanced individual training at the same station — provided appropriate military occupational specialty (MOS) training is available.

—Immediate assignment to U. S. Army Vietnam.

—Upon completion of a tour in Vietnam, release from active duty up to 179 days prior to expiration of time of service, if the individual so desires.

Three-year enlistees are offered the same options except that upon completion of a tour in Vietnam they can choose a combat arms unit to serve with in CONUS or with the Army Europe (USAREUR), Panama, Alaska or Hawaii.

Prior service enlistees have the same reassignment options as non-prior service personnel upon completion of a tour in Vietnam. To be eligible they must possess a valid MOS in career group infantry, armor or artillery, be eligible for appointment to grade E5 or below, have less than six years active service and enlist for three years or more.

61st National Council

20 attend Atlanta meet on future of Boy Scouts

By Martin McWilliams

ATLANTA, Ga. — A delegation of 20 Valley-area volunteers, including Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, Fort Benning commander, represented local boy scouting at the 61st annual meeting of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America held May 26-28 in Atlanta.

High on the agenda for the national meeting was Project SOAR (Save Our American Resources). Designed to motivate environmental improvement action programs and to focus attention on problems of environmental quality, the scouting-sponsored program will be launched in the Valley area tomorrow, which has been designated Scouting Keep America Beautiful Day.

The Chattahoochee Council of the Boy Scouts of America, which includes the Columbus-Fort Benning area, was represented by a delegation of volunteer administrators and area professional scouters at the Atlanta meeting.

The delegation was headed by Council President John A. Boland Jr. and his wife, of Columbus, and Vice-President Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, Fort Benning post commander. Other delegates included John Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Cabot Gupton, Guy Snavely, James Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Northrup, Mr. and Mrs. James Gallant, Abe Tipton, Lt. Col. (ret.) Lenuel Thomas, Maj. Nelson Newcombe, Cason J. Calloway and Mr. and Mrs. Russell P. McClean.

The convention elected Norton Clapp, Tacoma, Wash., as the national president of the BSA. Clapp, who is chairman of the board of Weyerhaeuser Company, succeeds Irving Feist of Newark, N.J.

The delegates from 500 local councils reviewed progress of current BSA programs and heard about new directions of the Boy Scouting program, drug abuse prevention, and the start of a national para-professional program.

As the result of a pilot project in four local councils, plans have been made to expand a project that is believed will make a significant contribution toward the prevention of drug abuse. It was pointed out that the BSA has the means of working with young people and their parents and leaders under conditions which will help alleviate the crucial drug abuse problem.

Improvements in the Boy Scouting program for boys 11 years of age and older which may reach Scout troops in late 1972 include a realignment of the scout advancement plan, greater boy involvement in decision making, a program for older boys in the troops, and more involvement of a boy in his own growth development.

The local delegates took part in 14 search and exchange conferences that offered a total of 10 hours of information and discussion on such subjects as leadership training, organization and extension, camping, conservation, finance, health and safety, and specific council and district leadership positions.

Clapp, in saluting the 1½ million volunteer leaders, said, "We have such a broad program, and we have so much to give to America that I think we should do our level best to give it. That does mean putting the emphasis where it's needed.

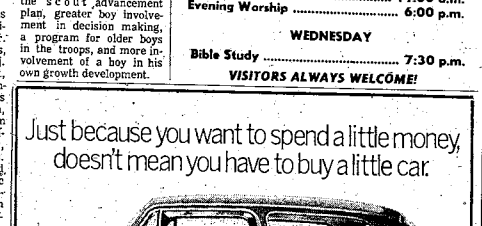
Reenlistments increase during 1st half of '71



WASHINGTON (ANF) — The number of Army reenlistments climbed during the first six months of fiscal year 1971.

A total of 45,379 reenlisted compared to 42,680 reenlistments during the last half of fiscal year 1970 and 40,603 during the first half of that year.

The retention rate of those eligible for reenlistment has also climbed. Reports show an increase from 18.4 per cent of eligibles for fiscal year 1970 to 23.7 per cent of those eligible to reenlist during the last six-month period.

The total number of reenlistments increased in spite of the fact that reenlistments during fiscal year 1970 came from an available strength of about 1.2 million and the higher number of reenlistments during the last six-month period came from a reduced strength of approximately 950,000.

Current G.I. Bill celebrates 5th anniversary

The fifth anniversary of the current G.I. Bill on June 1, found 1,100,000 veterans and servicemen enrolled in job-training or schools at college level or below at the end of the school year.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson noted that more than 2,500,000 veterans have trained under the bill (PL 89-358), so far, compared to 2,391,000 during the 13 years the Korean Conflict G.I. Bill (PL 82-550) was in effect.

California, with 383,400, leads the nation in the number of veterans and servicemen trained under the current G.I. Bill. New York is second with 168,400, followed by Texas with 138,900, and Pennsylvania with 123,400.

The VA chief explained that veterans become eligible for educational benefits after separation from service under other than dishonorable conditions with at least 181 days of active military duty, any part of it after Jan. 31, 1955. Veterans also are eligible if released because of a service-connected disability.

Servicemen earn their eligibility after 181 days of continuous active military service.

Veterans and servicemen interested in educational benefits were urged to contact their nearest VA office, or local veterans service organization representative.

Though ads may suggest

Vet Administration not affiliated with privately owned cemeteries

The Veterans Administration is not affiliated with private cemetery operators offering burial plots free or at nominal cost to veterans, this agency emphasized today. VA officials said some cemetery operations advertise in a way that suggests a connection with the VA or some other government agency.

Government officials noted that VA and veterans service organizations have received complaints from recipients of such advertising literature. Complaints from veterans about allegedly deceptive advertising also have been received.

Similar complaints have been received by the Department of the Army's office of Chief of Support Services, which provides grave sites to honorably discharged veterans in national cemeteries on a space available basis.

There are 85 national cemeteries around the country. Of these, 39 have been closed due to lack of space, and six others are expected to be closed within five years, according to Army officials.

Some private cemetery operators use this lack of space in national cemeteries in their advertisements of solicitations to veterans.

Although it is acknowledged that many offers are from reputable firms, veterans are advised to make sure they thoroughly understand any contracts they sign. Veterans often find there are costs and additional expenses they did not anticipate.

DOD told to clean out records

WASHINGTON (ANF)—Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard has directed an immediate and thorough records cleanout campaign within the Department of Defense to be completed by June 30, 1972.

In a memorandum to the secretaries of military departments, assistant secretaries of defense and directors of the defense agencies, Mr. Packard said, "The Department of Defense has approximately 12 million cubic feet of records in its offices. We are accumulating more records than we can get rid of by retirement or destruction. This has created a requirement for purchasing new filing equipment each year just to satisfy the increase. To solve this problem, each office must have a thorough housecleaning and eliminate files not required for efficient operation."

Special emphasis will be placed on the reduction of classified material by downgrading, retirement or destruction. The objective is to empty enough filing equipment to meet the expected need over the next 3 years.

Mostly wartime soldiers

American veterans now total 28 million

The number of American veterans hit a high of 28.2 million in May, the Veterans Administration announced.

The VA said the number of living veterans is likely to continue to increase in the foreseeable future since the military discharge rate has been running more than 80,000 a month and older veterans have been dying at a rate of about 26,000 a month.

Of VA's 28.2 million veterans, some 5.1 million served during a wartime period and an additional 3.1 million served after the Korean Conflict and before the Vietnam Era — Feb. 1, 1955 to Aug. 4, 1964 inclusive.

Most of the million veterans now in training under the post Korean G.I. Bill served during the Vietnam era (after Aug. 4, 1964) and this group also makes up the large bulk of those now applying for G.I. loans.

In contrast these young Vietnam era veterans compose only 15 per cent of the patients in VA hospitals, and about 10 per cent of those on the disability compensation rolls.

Veterans who served after Jan. 31, 1955 are eligible for all VA benefits. While time has run out for World War II and Korean conflict veterans for G. I. Bill education benefits, unused portions for hom eloan guaranty benefits have been restored.

Veterans interested in VA benefits information shouls contact their local VA office or veterans organization service officer.

'Winter' film director to do 2 new projects

HOLLYWOOD — Warner Bros. announces that the company has entered into an agreement with Anthony Harvey, director of "The Lion in Winter" and "They Might Be Giants," for the development of two projects for the company.

Announcement for the first of the two projects will be made shortly.

Warners to film 'The Exorcist'

HOLLYWOOD —Publication of "The Exorcist," a new novel by William Peter Blatty to be filmed by Paul Monash for Warner Bros., has been set by Harper and Row for this month. Also Redbook Magazine will run a condensation of the novel, which will be a Literary Guild alternate choice. Bantam has scheduled a paperback publication later.

"The Exorcist" is the suspenseful story of an 11-year-old girl possessed of the devil. Monash will be executive prodncer of the film, with Blatty writing the screenplay and producing.

Expanding program operates in 47 states

MEDIHC for medics offers civilian jobs, schools

WASHINGTON (AFPS) —Department of Defense officials say that many medically trained servicemen and women are still unaware of a year-old program designed to place them in civilian health jobs or schools when they leave the service.

Of the estimated 3,000 medics—officers and enlisted men alike—who leave the military each month, only about 500 are using the services of Project MEDIHC (Military Experience Directed Into Health Careers), according to Lt. Col. Robert C. Barnum, the Pentagon's MEDIHC coordinator.

"It's a relatively new program," Barnum reports, "but it's expanding. We started with a pilot plan in Texas and now have representatives in 47 states, as well as the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. We hope to have people in every state soon."

The program is a combined effort of DoD and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to help relieve the country's health manpower shortage. MEDIHC was begun when the government realized that many of these medically skilled servicemen — technologists, technicians, hygienists, corpsmen, and hundreds of others — left the military to accept jobs in fields unrelated to health.

"We feel many of these trained people would have liked to remain in health fields, or receive more education in health occupations, but had no idea of how to do it," Barnum says. "Now we can help them—if they can't be convinced to stay in the military."

He emphasizes that men can be referred to training and jobs not only in the field in which he has had some military instruction, but also to other health education and jobs.

The Pentagon colonel provides these capsule facts about the program:

Who's Eligible?

Everyone who has recently left the service, or who is within 90 days of leaving regardless of his or her training while in the service. Of course, those with some kind of medical training are particularly encouraged to use MEDIHC. Retirees are just as eligible as those leaving after their first tour.

What Do I Have To Do?

You will probably be contacted by the local MEDIHC representative on your base or post, but to be safe, get in touch with him yourself. Call the local Transition Office or your personnel officer who should know the whereabouts of the nearest MEDIHC expert.

He'll have you fill in a small card, listing education and training, interests, preferred area of the country, temporary and permanent addresses, etc.

What Happens To the Card?

Your card is sent to the HEW area representative for MEDIHC in the region you stipulated. He mails it to state representatives or directly to potential employers and educators. These MEDIHC agents know the market for your medical talents much better than you could your self.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
by Bill King

To store up a backlog of ice cubes for a party, keep filling a plastic bag with fresh cubes. Replace the bag in the freezer immediately each time.

For the tastiest salads, chill any ingredients such as olives, hardcooked eggs or capers before adding.

When roasting a small chicken, if you like more stuffing than the bird will hold, split the chicken open like a tent over a mound of stuffing. That way the stuffing will absorb the flavorful drippings while cooking.

The custom of throwing rice at a newly married couple stems from the ancient Hindu belief that rice is a symbol of fertility.

Try adding a squirt of lemon juice to a glass of apricot nectar for a tangy breakfast starter.

Our fine foods are served at the peak of wake-up flavor and quality. A dinner at KING'S PIZZA ON CALL is always a pleasant treat for the whole family.

Official tells council of PX improvements

During a recent meeting of the Company Grade Officers Council, Christian S. Ciampaglia, director of post exchange activities, briefed the council on the many recent improvements in exchange operations, including renovation and improvement to 58 of the Fort Benning Exchange facilities.

Some of the changes made were the opening of the Fabric and Kiddie Shop, acquisition of a franchise to sell Boy and Girl Scout uniforms and accessories, the introduction of beer and soft drink machines into 40 mess halls and installation of 80 beer dispensing machines in unit areas and the extension of operating hours for an additional 56 hours a week in various facilities. Mr. Ciampaglia also told the council that the markup on exchange items runs from 7.5 per cent on necessity items to 40 per cent on luxury items. If a customer shopped exclusively at the Post Exchange he would realize an average of 25 per cent savings over the cost at civilian stores, he added.

Customer relations is always a topic of discussion at monthly training sessions for both managers and clerks, Ciampaglia stated. He also said that upon opening of the new main store in 1973, present plans call for the 7-11 store to be relocated to the present main store. In other business the council members were given a summary of the first Department of the Army Junior Officer Conference. The conference included briefgrams and policies pertaining to commissarie, post exchanges, family housing, bachelor officer quarters and medical services and facilities.

B. Disney honored graduate

Capt. Byron H. Disney, SanLeandro, Calif., was the distinguished honor graduate of the Infantry Officers Basic Course (IOBC) Class 20-71, which graduated June 4 in Marshall Auditorium, Infantry Hall.

Col. Jack L. Conn, director, Weapons Department, delivered the commencement address to the 145 graduates.

Disney received a direct commission to captain of Infantry. He was a CWO2 before his commission.

The nine-week IOBC program is designed to provide branch training for officers of the Active Army, National Guard and the Army Reserves. The students were taught the duties and responsibilities of company grade officers. Included in the course of instruction were small arms, mortar, company and platoon operations.

Byline Bayonet

(Byline Bayonet welcomes questions of general interest about Fort Benning and the Army. Within space limitations all reasonable questions will be answered. Questions of a purely military nature which obviously could be answered more properly by commanders or supervisors within the chain of command will not be accepted. Questions must be signed with current unit of assignment indicated. Send questions to The Bayonet, Room 602, Infantry Hall, or telephone 545-2781).

Q — Are dependents allowed to participate in the various educational programs offered on Fort Benning and if they are, do they obtain credit for them?

A — According to spokesmen from the Education Office, U.S. Armed Forces Institute (USAFI) classe at the Education Center include final examinations (end of course tests) which are graded at Headquarters USAFI, Madison, Wis. Only military personnel on active duty are eligible for this service.

Dependents are encouraged to enroll in Adult Education Classes in the local civilian community. General Educational Development tests are available for dependents through the Guidance Center, Muscogee County School System.

Dependents are permitted to enroll with sponsors on a space available basis in off-duty spoken languages and typewriting since formal grading is not involved. Dependents are permitted to enroll in any college level classes on post in which they are qualified to participate.

Q — During recent weeks I have noticed many senior NCOs issuing tickets for parking violations on Fort Benning. These NCOs have not been wearing an MP armband nor have they been in military vehicles. Are these NCOs authorized to issue tickets?

A — At the present time Notice of Traffic Violation (DD Form 1408) books have been issued to the following persons: Mr. West, Infantry Hall; sergeant major, Facilities Engineer, Building 35; S-2 officer, 197th Infantry Briade; and the sergant major, Martin Army Hospital. These persons have been instructed that they only are authorized to write traffic citations (non-moving) for parking violations, which are then forwarded to the post marshal's office and handled as any other observed violation which may be reported to the military police.

Q — When is "The Army Song" played during military ceremonies?

A — "The Army Song" (formerly "The Army Goes Rolling Along" and "The Caissons Go Rolling Along") is now played at the conclusion of each military ceremony, according to change 1, Field Manual 22-5 and Department of the Army Pamphlet 672-2, with military spectators standing at attention and civilian spectators in a respectful position.

Aliens need naturalization photos

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of four articles on immigration and naturalization. This article contains information on the procedures that must be followed to file the naturalization application and appear before the naturalization court.)

USAIC LEGAL ASSISTANCE OFFICE—When the basic requirements for naturalization have been satisfied, the alien should obtain an application so that the process leading to naturalization will be started. The application is known as "Application To File Petition For Naturalization," also designated as Form N-400. On the application the alien gives information on his places of residences in the United States, names and addresses of employers, information on any absences from the United States, and answers a series of questions.

Along with the application the alien must submit three photographs taken within 30 days of the date of the application. The photographs must have the alien registration number written on the back in pencil. Also, a fingerprint chart must be submitted; fingerprint charts can be obtained from any police department or, for military personnel, from the Provost Marshal's Office.

A biographic information form also must accompany the application. It contains basic information on the alien, the alien's family, and must include information on the alien's residence for the last five years, including the alien's last foreign residence. It also will contain information on the alien's employment during the last five years.

Once the application has been completed and all of the above items have been obtained, the application is sent to the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Office which has jurisdiction over the place where the alien is residing. For people at Fort Benning, the appropriate immigration office is located in Atlanta. When the immigration office receives the application, it processes it to determine if all the basic requirements have been complied with. If they have the office will notify the applicant by mail that he or she has an appointment with an immigration official.

At this first meeting any tests on ability to speak and write simple English are given, and the applicant is questioned on his knowledge of the history and form of government of the United States. At this first meeting, the citizen witnesses also may be asked to appear and testify on whether or not the applicant will be a good citizen.

After the first meeting, if the application is approved by the immigration officer, the applicant will pay his $25 fee, and the actual petition for naturalization will be filed with the naturalization court. Once the application is filed there is a mandatory 30 day waiting period (unless waived due to special circumstances) before the applicant is called to appear before the naturalization court.

When the applicant is called, he appears before the court and the presiding judge swears the alien in as a citizen of the United States. The new citizen is then given a Certificate of Naturalization, which proves that he or she is now a citizen. This certificate should be safeguarded as an important document.

If for some reason the alien submits his application to the immigration office and has his petition filed with the naturalization court and then has to leave the area, he should notify the immigration office at once and also file an application to transfer the petition to a court in the new area of residence.

Forms for making applications for naturalization may be obtained from the Legal Assistance Office of the Staff Judge Advocate, located in Bldg. 2610. If you have any questions concerning naturalizaton, call 545-1311, 545-5441.

Tracing the evolution of the Flag

Heraldry is as old as the human race, and the carrying of banners has been the habit of nations since the beginning of time.

It is most natural that America should have had its colonial flags as soon as the first colonists settled. And it is not surprising that those flags should have been created in a wide variety.

The Dutch brought their own striped flags when they settled in New Amsterdam, which we now called New York, and pioneers from other nations also brought along the standards of their countries when they settled on our shores.

The British flag, under which the English colonization of America was effected, remained the flag of the colonists for more than a hundred years and is therefore of special significance to our country in the evolution of our National flag.

Our separation from the mother country came gradually and it was only by degrees that the union flag of Great Britain was discarded. The final breach between the Colonies and Great Britain brought about the removal of the union from the canton of our striped flag and the substitution of stars in a blue field.

Back in the days of the Revolution there were colonial or regimental flags by the score. While the pine tree was a popular design, there were numerous other symbols, such as beavers, anchors, and rattlesnakes, or combinations of these symbols, with appropriate slogans.

The Stars and Stripes was created June 14, 1777, when the Continental Congress resolved: "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

Gen. Washington, when the Star-Spangled Banner was first flown by the Continental Army, is reputed to have described its symbolism as follows: "We take the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty."

Americans around the globe — especially servicemen and women — will be honoring Old Glory on its 19th anniversary June 14. The Stars and Stripes still represent a land of liberty and our armed forces are there to insure it stays that way. (AFPS Editorial)

PART OF ATLANTA PARK IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM
Trio Of Volunteers Shovels Sand To Be Used In Play Lots

26 from 31st Inf. help in Atlanta park upgrading

HQ. 3RD. ARMY, Ft. McPherson, Ga.—Twenty-six soldiers of the 5th Bn., 31st Inf., 197th Inf. Bde., of Fort Benning, were in Atlanta last week preparing city parks and playlots for the installation of playground equipment under the Spring Swing Program.

The soldiers, all volunteers, were divided into four squads, with each squad working in a different quadrant of the city. They donated free labor for the project and dug and cemented holes, placed posts and other anchors for heavy equipment, spread sand in play lots and otherwise prepared the parks for the installation of the new equipment.

On June 4 a convoy of 20 Army trucks from Fort Benning traveled to Ft. McPherson and the next day assisted in transferring the playground equipment from storage areas to parks and play lots, where the soldiers and other volunteers installed it.

"The Spring Swing Program is something in which the troops really want to participate," said 1st Lt. Arthur Pray, who was in charge of the Army volunteers. "I think the program is a good project for the Army, and could result in participation by Army personnel in similar civic action programs in the future," he said.

Sgt. Eddie Ramey, a squad leader, commented, "The Army should do more of this type of thing in the United States since American soldiers frequently work on such civic projects overseas."

Spt Calvin Thomas, whose family lives in the West End of Atlanta, felt his assistance was worthwhile in providing a place for children to play besides the street.

Another soldier volunteer, PFC Mark Willingham of Monroe, Ga., said, "This work opens the minds of troops to what is being done in the civilian community."

The Spring Swing program is sponsored by a local business firm with civic, church and other organizations and individuals contributing funds for the new equipment.

Soldiers must report housing

WASHINGTON (ANF) — All military personnel both in and outside the Continental United States (CONUS) and Department of Defense employes assigned outside CONUS are now required to report to the family housing referral office prior to renting or leasing off-post housing.

The new instructions are found in DA Message 211628Z April 71.

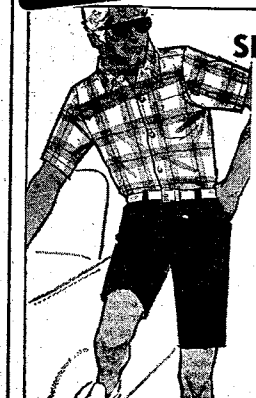
3rd Army CSM visits units of 931st Gp.

Units of the 931st Engineer Group welcomed CSM Robert Williams, sergeant major of the 3rd Army, June 3.

Williams was escorted to each of the units in the 931st by group Sgt. Maj Joseph Chiekini and the School Sgt. Maj. John F. La Vole.

The day began with an orientation by group career counselor SFC John Boeck and operations sergeant MSgt. Drexel Maxwell. The presentation included information on the role each unit is playing in the VOLAR program here on Fort Benning and the steps the 931st Gp. has instituted to improve the training of its men. Second stop on the intinerary was the 43rd Engr. Bn. (Const.) where Williams viewed the progress that has been made on the partitioning of the barracks throughout Fort Benning.

At the 67th Maint. Bn. PFC Tim McCoy, former group Soldier of the Month, presented Williams with a plaque as the visiting VIP stopped for refreshments in the 608th Ord. Co. Mess Hall, winner of numerous "best mess" awards.



The sergeant major also visited the 598th Lt. Maint. Co., the 988th MP Co., the 18th and 23rd Repl. Det. and was served dinner at the mess hall of Co. C, 56th S and S Bn.

931st Gp. dance marks unit's 28th anniversary

By Keith Harmon

The 931st Engineer Group is celebrating the 28th anniversary of its founding today with official 'Organization Day activities, including a group party for the Engineers and their families.

The unit, which dates back to campaigns in New Guinea and the Philippines in World War II and Korea, was 28 years old yesterday.

931st officers began the birthday celebrations last night with a formal dinner-dance held at the Main Ballroom of the Officer's Open Mess. Guests of honor included Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, commanding general and Col. Robert J. Standley, group commander.

Some 3,000 men and their dependents are expected for today's celebrations, which will include a tug of war, greased pole contest, pillow fight and various other crowd-pleasing contests. Free food and drinks will be served throughout the afternoon.

The activities are being held at Engineer Park, located directly across from group headquarters in Sand Hill. Participating units, in addition to the Engineers, include 524th Pers. Svc. Co., 13th PID, 18th Rep. Det., and 15th Fin. Sec.

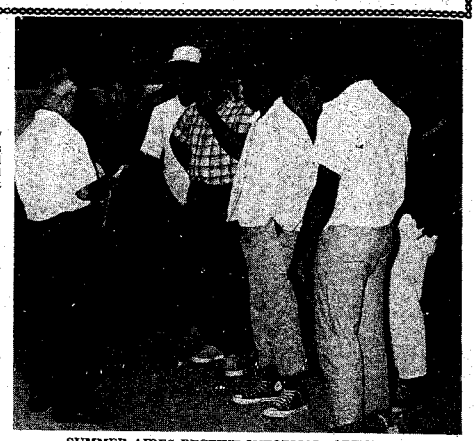
Unable to participate are the 139th and 988th MP Companies, also attached to the Engr. Gp., which must remain on duty.

At 10 a.m. there is a formal award ceremony and a reading of the unit's history. The ceremony will be attended by the 263rd Army Band and the 931st Engr. Gp. Honor Guard.

240 ROTC cadets report here today

Two hundred and forty ROTC cadets have volunteered — and been selected — to spend their summer running several miles a day, taking training in hand-to-hand combat, learning how to rappel off cliffs in north Georgia and going without food and sleep in west Florida swamps.

They will be training to be Rangers.



Students in the ROTC Ranger Camp, a substitute for the regular ROTC Summer Camp for those who complete six or more weeks of the course, report to Fort Benning today.

They will participate in regular Ranger training, except that four days of training not part of the Ranger course but part of the regular summer camp have been added.

Students will complete the 58-day course during the summer and return to their training and development factorily will receive the Ranger tab.

Saturday and Sunday will be devoteed to in-processing and initial testing.

Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, commandant of the Infantry School and post commander, will welcome the students Monday.

..... SUMMER AIDES RECEIVE INFORMAL ORIENTATION

'Summer aides' begin post jobs Monday

Two hundred and nine youths began work Monday as summer aides (SA) at various installations on post in one of three employment programs that will be offered here this summer.

The "learning assistants," all high school graduates between 16 and 22, were selected on the basis of need by the Georgia State Employment Office and referred to the Civilian Personnel Division for participation in the program.

The youths, who were to be joined by 12 more SAs during the week, will fill janitorial, manual laboring and trade and craft helper jobs in such departments as facilities engineering and community services.

"The main purpose of the program is to provide jobs for kids from low-income families and to put them into learning situations," said Fred Holloman, who coordinates the summer programs. "Their work requires no special skills but our hope is that it will provide them with some knowledge to use later."

The Summer Employment Examination Program (SEEP), from which youths were selected on the basis of a Civil Service test, also began Monday with 27 of an expected 95 participants reporting for work.

The SEEPs, also high school graduates 16-22, have been placed in clerical positions in various facilities on post. The main purpose of their work is to provide financial assistance to be used for continuingtheir education.

"We tried to match the kids as much as possible with whatever skills, they already had, but we were very limited," said Holloman. "It's tough for a college kid to put all his knowledge to use as a clerk typist, but at least he's making some money to help get through another year in school."

While those two programs are sponsored by the federal government, a third, financed by the Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) will be initiated June 14 to provide work for 339 youths in jobs similar to those filled by the SA's.

The participants in this program are limited to only 25 hours of work per week while those employed under the SEEP and SA plans may work as many as 40.

Applications for the NYC program are still being accepted at the Lower Chattahoochee Valley Civic Action Agency office at 900 Linwood Blvd., Columbus.

The only new feature of the summer employment programs at Fort Benning is the addition of a supervisor orientation clinic which was conducted Friday.

Museum donators are praised

The personnel at Fort Benning have drawn praise for "excellent results" in their campaign on post to raise funds for the construction of a new Infantry Museum.

In a letter to Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, Winthrop Rockefeller, co-chairman of the National Infantry Museum Campaign, said that the success of the Fort Benning phase of the fund-raising drive "will certainly help us in our fund activities in the other states."

"Because of concernd citizens such as you, we shall have, at last, an appropriate memorial to the American foot soldier; a man to whom all free citizens owe a lasting debt of gratitude," the letter stated.

Approximately $80,000 has been raised or pledged at Fort Benning for construction of the new museum, which will be located on a seven-acre site of land just east of Infantry Hall.

Expensive signature

SSgt. Jack R. Boles signs on the line for another six years after being reenlisted last week by Col. Foy Rice (R), commanding officer of the USAIC Aviation Command. Boles got $10,000 for his signature. Just before being sworn in, he had been promoted to his new rank. Boles is assigned to the 98th Aviation Co.

848 visiting post

Pointers to attend 'hop'

A "hop" at the Officers Open Mess tonight highlights the visit of 848 Military Academy cadets to Fort Benning this week.

The cadets—all from the Class of 1972 — arrived here Wednesday and will leave Sunday. They are observing and participating in various aspects of Infantry training conducted on post.

Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott will be the host for tonights dance, which begins at 7:30. Senior military officers on post will act as chaperons.

Also attending the dance will be Debra Snelling, Miss Columbus of 1971, and Linda Sue Chevalier, who won the local beauty title in 1970.

The visit to the U.S. Army-Infantry Center and School begins two weeks of training at four Army installations for the cadets. They also will visit Forts Knox, Sill and Bliss.

Since yesterday morning the cadets have followed a full schedule of activities, including Airborne training Ranger and airmobile demonstrations, and a number of orientation sessions.

Another purpose of the trip, an annual event for the West Pointers, is to give them an opportunity to observe the environment of an Infantry officer both on duty and off.

Among the visitors will be three cadets from the Columbus-Fort Benning area, Robert Harlan Strong, Clarence Ladon Miller and Steve A. Hicks.

Strong is the son of Col. and Mrs. William C. Strong of 609 Lumpkin Rd., Fort Benning. Col. Strong is the deputy post dental surgeon. Miller is the son of MSgt and Mrs. Leon McGee, 4013 Rosemont Blvd., Columbus. Sgt. McGee is an ROTC instructor at Georgia Military Academy, Barnesville, Ga.

Hicks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen Hicks Jr. His father is employed by Georgia Power Company.

Board members receive awards

Awards to retiring members of the AUSA Board of Directors were made at the Wednesday board meeting of the Fort Benning-Columbus-Phenix City chapter of the Association of the United States Army. The board meeting was the last before the upcoming general membership meeting Monday.

Letters of appreciation were presented to each of the following members of the board: Jack M. Averett, Sgt. Maj. (ret. W. A. Callahan, Maj. (ret.) George B. Hammer, Col. (ret.) Ned Mabry and Guy E. Snavely.

Also presented awards were Eddie B. Ezell, Col. Robert M. Piper, Col. Eugene J. Murdock and Col. Charles C. Thebaud.

The board meeting, held in the board room of the Fourth National Bank in Columbus, also honored Lt. Robert N. Jamarone, training officer for the 931st Engineer Group, upon his becoming the fourth member of the chapter to obtain an AUSA life membership.

Col. William B. Guthrie, secretary-treasurer of the chapter, gave a progress report on the current membership drive. To date the drive has netted 3,380 new members for the organization.

Roy L. Smith, a member of the nominating committee, reported on nominees for the new board of directors. Nominees names will be released following their acceptance.

The general membership meeting of the chapter, to be held in Marshall Auditorium at 8:30 p.m., will feature an address by Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Harry W. O. Kinnard, one of the architects of the concept of airmobility.

A social hour will precede the meeting, and will be held beginning at 6:30 in the Main Officers' Club. The hour is open to all ranks, and tickets are available at $1 each through unit AUSA representatives. Tickets will also be available at the door of the Supper Club.

Resor presents annual awards for achievement in EEO effort

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The Army's first annual awards for Recognition for Achievement in Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) were presented recently by Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor.

Commemorative plaques and citations were presented to Col. Luther G. Jones Jr., commanding officer of the U. S. Army Aeronautical Depot Maintenance Center at Corpus Christi, Tex., and to Robert A. Cole Sr., Equal Employment Opportunity officer of the Army Mobility Equipment Command in St. Louis, Mo.

Col. Jones, of Newport, Ark., was cited for significant achievements in his management of the Army's huge helicopter overhaul and repair center. In 1970 Col. Jones was presented several awards for hiring handicapped veterans and for organizing "Operation Understanding," an annual seminar which seeks solutions to the problems in equal employment opportunity.

Cole, a native of Tuscaloosa, Ala., was presented the award for his outstanding leadership in developing an EEO program that produced exceptional results in the Army as well as in the civilian community. Through Cole's efforts, the Mobility Equipment Command exceeded its goal of achieving the same minority group percentile representation in the workforce as in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

U.S., Britain trade generals for lectures

WASHINGTON (ANF) — Gen. John L. Throckmorton, of the U.S. Army, and Lt. Gen. Sir Napier Crookenden, of the British Army, have been selected as the speakers to participate in this year's series of Kermit Roosevelt Lectures.

The exchange lecture program began in 1947 with the purpose of fostering a better understanding and closer relationship between the military forces of the United States and the United Kingdom.

Under the program, a general officer from the U.S. Army and one from the British Army are selected annually to address students attending the service academies and senior service colleges of each other's nation.

Gen. Throckmorton is commander in chief of U.S. Strike Command; General Crookenden is the general officer commanding-in-chief, Western Command.

The program is named in honor of Maj. Kermit Roosevelt, son of President Theodore Roosevelt, who fought with both the British and U.S. armies during the World War I and World War II. The lecture program was founded with funds provided by his widow after his death in 1943 while serving with the U.S. Army in Alaska.

Blaha, Larkin top men in Track Vehicle Class

Sp4 Richard J. Blaha, LeSueur, Minn., was the distinguished honor graduate and Sp4 Michael P. Larkin, Middleheaddam, Conn., was the distinguished academic graduate of the Track Vehicle Mechanic's Course Class 502-71, which graduated June 2 at Infantry Hall.

MSgt. Fletcher A. McIntyre, Command Maintenance Department, delivered the commencement address to the 21 graduates.

The seven-week mechanic's course provides personnel with a working knowledge to perform organizational maintenance and recovery of tracked vehicles.

Included in the course of instruction are engine principles, valve adjustments, cooling and lubricating systems, carburation, and fuel injection.

Safety workers receive awards

Andrew J. Baldwin, acting safety director, presented awards to two civilians in the post safety office recently.

Mrs. Joan Pavey received a Certificate of Achievement and a quality step increase. Fred W. Young received a commendation for his presentation on the Zero Defects Program to the Southern Regional Federal safety Council at their meeting in Atlanta this year.

Military Wife of '71 stresses unity

HEADQUARTERS, 3rd ARMY, Fort McPherson, Ga. — Mrs. Jeanette (Jan) Squires, the 1971 Military Wife of the Year, made a plea for unity among military wives in a brief speech at a luncheon given in her honor at the Ft. McPherson Officers' Club recently.

Mrs. Albert O Connor, wife of the 3rd Army commanding general, was the luncheon hostess and presented Mrs. Squires an engraved silver tray on behalf of the posts' Officers Wives' Club. Among other military wives recognized at the luncheon were: Mrs. Marvin H. Allan of Ft. Bragg, N.C., 3rd Army nominee for Military Wife of the Year; Mrs. Dorothy Hourdage of the Atlantic Army Depot, the Army Materiel Command's nominee; Mrs. Gordon T. Kaelin, nominee from Ft. Rucker, Ala., Mrs. Bryon H. Russell Jr., nominee from Ft. Gordon, Ga.; Mrs. W. R. Kunkel, nominee from Robins Air Force Base, Warner Robins, Ga.; and, Mrs. Jay Hanson, nominee from Ft. McPherson.

In her brief remarks, Mrs. Squires, who is the first enlisted man's wife to win the Military Wife of the Year title, told of many enlisted men's wives who are afraid to talk to that "top gal," but said that she has talked frequently to officers' wives and found that they were "always ready to lend a hand."

The honored wife explained that service wives have much to contribute to the community, but cannot until they unite within themselves.

Mrs. Squires received a royal welcome upon her arrival in Atlanta, where she visited for a day on the first of a series of tours of United States military installations throughout the world. Brig. Gen. (Ret) William Woodward, the city's Civil Defense director, presented her a key to the city on behalf of Atlanta Mayor Sam Massel, and Mrs. Hanson presented her a bouquet of roses. Mrs. Squires gave the roses later to a patient, PFC Wade Dazey, at Ft. McPherson Army Hospital.

While in Atlanta, Mrs. Squires also visited the State Capitol and called on Georgia Governor Jimmy Carter.

On her current tour, the honored military wife will also visit San Antonio, Tex., San Diego, Camp Pendleton and the Presidio of San Francisco and McClellan Air Force Base, Calif.

Mrs. Squires and her husband, Navy Personnelman First Class James W. Squires, and two daughters are stationed at Lowry AFB, Colo. She was selected the 1971 Military Wife of the Year by a panel of women under the auspices of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Five finalists, each a nominee from her respective service, were among those competing for the title.

The Military Wife of the Year Program seeks to honor one military wife whose actions best epitomize the contributions being made by thousands of military wives in improving people-to-people relationships among both the military and civilian segments of our society.

Prekindergarten principal retires

Mrs. Mry Catherine Brickhouse, principal of the Prekindergarten School here, was retired during a champagne luncheon held in her honor May 24 at the Ramada Inn in Phenix City.

Mrs. Brickhouse began teaching at the pre-school in 1960, and in January, 1963, took the position of principal. Soon after assuming this job, she began the task of transforming the pre-school into the self-sufficient institution it is today.

Diverse changes have been made in the kindergarten since Mary became principal. These include: addition of a full-time music teacher; a raise in the teachers' pay; and the installation of children's tables and curtains.

Mary has distinguished herself as a loving educator of the pre-school set and all altruist where the problems of parents and teachers were concerned.

During the luncheon she was presented mementoes of the school. These included a plaque from Mrs. Diane Kelley, supervisor of Tot Town Nursery; a picture of the kindergarten from the Board of Governors; and, a book of projects made by all the children in the pre-school.

Teenage charm course offered

A teenage modeling and charm course is being offered by the OWC. Mrs. Frank Roberts will be the instructor for the course which begins July 20. The fee for the six classes will be $15. For further information call Mrs. George Dean, 687-1141.

Typing for teens

A Teen Typing Course is being offered July 12 through 23 from 9:30-11:30 a.m. at McBride School. Mrs. David W. Frank will give the 20 hours of instruction. The $12 fee is payable on the first day of class. All supplies will be furnished. Enrollment is limited, so hurry and register by calling Mrs. Russell Miller, 545-4739.

IOAC 6-71 hold coffee

The Fort Benning Super Club was the setting for the May coffee of the ladies of IOAC Class 6-71. Hostesses for the day were the ladies of the first platoon.

Special guests attending the affair were Mrs. Jules Trepagnier, Mrs. Robert Carmichael, and Mrs. Alvin Wilson.

The serving table was covered with a pale yellow linen cloth and centered with a silver bowl of multi-colored daisies. Silver services for tea and coffee were on each end of the tables. The tables featured a carved watermelon basket filled with fresh fruit, flanked by wooden mugs, filled with purple grapes.

Weekly column proposed for women's section

June 4 marked an occasion for Fort Benning women. A weekly column in the Bayonet newspaper for women's activities onpost was announced by Mrs. Richard Stoltz, officers' wives' club president, at a meeting in Infantry Hall. Attending were publicity chairmen from all women's organizations onpost and Army-affiliated groups from the Columbus area.

"Through the courtesy of the Bayonet newspaper," said Mrs. Stoltz, "the Officers' Wives' Club will sponsor a weekly women's news column in the Bayonet, Fort Benning's civilian enterprise newspaper, to include upcoming events and social functions for all women's groups at Fort Benning."

The Public Information Office will give further coverage through radio, television and general newspaper releases, Mrs. Stoltz fostered this idea of consolidating distaff news to a single heading and on weekly basis.

Refreshing soak

Wilted celery or asparagus often can be refreshed simply by soaking in cold water.

For coverage in the Bayonet, news items may be placed daily in marked boxes near the entrance of the Main Post Commissary and the Custer Terrace Commissary by noon Wednesday of each week, beginning immediately. If this is not possible, mail to Mrs. Carol May, 201-B Madden Av., Fort Benning, by the Wednesday deadline time. Daily pick-up of news articles from the commissary boxes by the Public Information Office will facilitate radio and television coverage and daily newspaper releases.

Club publicity chairmen may obtain further information on publication procedure by calling 545-2805.

Mrs. Stoltz spoke for all publicity members when she said "By this first small step we hope to provide a means by which an enthusiastic approach will stimulate distaff morale at Fort Benning."

All clergy asked to participate in Clergy Day

The clergy of the Columbus and Phenix City communities have been invited to participate in the annual Clergy Day at Fort Benning on Wednesday, June 16 at 10 a.m.

The general theme for the day, according to Chaplain (Maj.) Francis R. Cauler, project officer, will center around the Modern Volunteer Army program and the influence this concept is having on today's Army.

The program will open with a coffee fellowship at the Main Post Protestant Chapel Annex. Following presentations by Chaplain (Col.) Albert F. Lodebuhr, USAIC Chaplain and representatives from the VOLAR office, there will be a question and answer period.

Clergy Day will conclude with a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. provided by the Protestant Women of the Chapel and the Catholic Sodality.

Ladies plan golf coffee

The Fort Benning Officers Wives Golf Group will hold a coffee in the ballroom of the Fort Benning Country Club at 9 a.m. June 15.

The coffee will precede the weekly golf activities held by the ladies each Tuesday. Handicap tournaments for nine and eighteen hole golfers will be held after the coffee.

On Tuesdays ladies have special privileges at the Fort Benning Country Club. They have starting priority on both courses from 8:30 until 10:30 a.m. Tournaments and special events are scheduled each week. For more information call 545-4120.

Happiness is turning blue, summer for 3 socials

Senior Status Formal

The theme for the dinner-dance was "Happiness is Turning Blue." Decorations featured large cartoon figures of "Snoopy" shown in poses as an officer candidate.

Guests of honor for the evening were Col. Frank L. Garrison, brigade commander, and Mrs. Garrison. Other honored guests were Lt. Col. Donald E. Bliss, battalion commander, and Mrs. Bliss; Capt. William C. Pendleton, battalion executive officer, and Mrs. Pendleton; Chaplain (Capt.) Phillip J. Cassibry, battalion chaplain, and Mrs. Cassibry; Capt. Frank R. Vavrek, company commander, and Mrs. Vavrek.

Col. Garrison addressed the senior candidates advising them to use the last few weeks of the training program to prepare for the challenges of being a junior officer.

Entertainment was provided by senior candidates and their wives. "The Rape of the Lock" played for dancing.

Senior candidates of the 51st Co. will be graduating from Officer Candidate School July 9.

Patriot Coffee

"Summertime and the livin' is easy. . ." And the ladies of the 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf. "The Patriots" were "livin' easy" when they held their May coffee.

Mrs. Michael Guthrie and Mrs. Roger Roley entertained the "Patriot" wives with a summertime dinner of hot dogs, chips and dessert. The red ripe strawberry name tags and invitations added to the theme.

Welcomed into the battalion was Mrs. Paul Gross whose husband is the new battalion executive officer. Farewell was said to Mrs. Duane Powers whose husband is going to the 197th Bde. Headquarters.

Plans were discussed by the wives to pay a visit to the Columbus Medical Nursing Home in June.

Comm-Elect Picnic

Relying on the weatherman's prediction of sunny skies, the Communications-Electronics Dept., USAIS had a picnic May 29 to welcome some new arrivals to Fort Benning.

SFC Ochestine Cooley, Sgt Charles P. Klasky and their families were shown how the committee has fun in the sun.

"All you can eat," was the order of the day, with steak, chicken and hot dogs being served.

Many sporting events took place throughout the afternoon. The horse shoe pits were clanging with activity, and the ladies who played badmitton had their fans both laughing and cheering.

The high point of the afternoon was the volleyball game between the Sets and Fundamentals subcommittees. The final score was 21-1 in favor of the Fundamentals subcommittee.

As the day came to a close spontaneous awards were presented. The best being the "Fashion Award" presented to Lt. Col. Kalinna for his cranberry pants.

For ACS program

OWC golfers install officers, get awards

New officers were installed and prizes awarded during a luncheon held at the Country Club for OWC members of the ladies golf group.

The new officers for the 1971-72 golf year are as follows: Mrs. Mary Jane Baer, president; Mrs. Betty Wilson, vice president; Mrs. Mary Parker, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Maggie Daems, publicity chairman.

Committee chairmen also were appointed to coordinate various activities of the group. Mrs. Ilene Deluca and Mrs. Mozell Dunn were placed in charge of trophy selection; Mrs. Molly Ross and Mrs. Polly Holton, organization of major tournaments; and Mrs. Gladys Fowler and Mrs. Em Ward, coordination of weekly tournaments. Mrs. Ann Coggin was selected to coordinate activities of the nine-hole group.

Awards were presented to the winners of the OWC's Golf Tournament. Mrs. Lois Sutton won the tourney in a playoff, after three players tied during regular play.

Mrs. Baer and Mrs. Fowler were all even after regular play. In a sudden death playoff Mrs. Sutton placed first, Mrs. Fowler was second and Mrs. Baer took third place.

Gold Star wife attends DOD session

Mrs. David M. Levitt, a member of the Chattahoochee Valley Chapter of Gold Star Wives of America, Inc., was an official delegate of the national organization to the Department of Defense Seminar for Leaders of Non-governmental National Organizations, held in Washington, D. C., May 21.

Mrs. Levitt joined about 30 women and 350 men at the Pentagon to hear Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, and other high governmental officials, talk about national defense, Vietnam withdrawal, VOLAR, the military budget, "Selling of the Pentagon," and race relations.

The Marine Combo and Navy String Ensemble entertained during the official luncheon at Fort Myer, Va., where Mrs. Levitt drew a seat at the head table with a dozen gencrals and admirals. She was seated beside WAC Brig. Gen. Hoisington who, Mrs. Levitt reports, was not in favor of Women's Liberation.

Mrs. Levitt, known by her friends as Lois, works at Fort Benning with the Combat Development Command Infantry Agency. She sums up the weekend as "not only interesting, but personally very worthwhile.

Vacation Bible School slated to begin June 14

"God and My Life" will be the theme of the 1971 Protestant Vacation Bible School to be held at the Religious Education Center on Dixie Road from 8:30 to 11 a.m., June 14-23. Classes will be held Monday through Friday of the first week and Monday through Wednesday of the second week.

The purpose of the classes is to help boys and girls become more aware of God in their lives; and assist them in translating this awareness into lives that praise God through love and service. The school will be open to the children of Fort Benning personnel, four years of age through those just completing the eighth grade.

Teachers, pianists, secretaries, and refreshment chairmen are needed and are requested to call the Director of Religious Education at 545-4334 or 545-7413 to volunteer their services.

NCO Wives honor scholars

Sp4 displays talent, love in baby furniture

By Bob Wheatley

In early colonial days, when space on cargo ships was at a premium, many Americans made their own goods and products with pride. This patriotic spirit is still alive in Sp4 Bertrand C. Aldabe of Co. D, 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf. "Patriots."

Bert's wife, Ruth Ann, is due to have a baby around late August. As a gift to his wife and soon-to-be-born child, Bert has been working in his spare time at Harmony Church Craft Shope No.3, building a baby cradle.

A self-taught craftsman, he is designing and building all of the baby furniture, to include a chest of drawers and a dresser. The nearly completed cradle is of Early American style, and is designed to separate from its base to be used as a car carrier. It took him one month to build.

"We're both hoping for a boy," says Bert, "but whichever it is, I hope the new arrival enjoys the cradle." The Aldabes hope to keep the cradle in the family for a long time.

Female school teachers teaching in on-post schools will be instructed through the Post Dependent School Superintendent's Office as to when to report for their physical examination.

G.I. Bills pays veterans, government

WASHINGTON (AFPS/NC — The Federal government spends about $6,300 during the 36 months it takes a veteran to earn his college degree under the G.I. Bill, but the government stands to get back more than six times that investment in additional taxes.

According to the Veterans Administration, a veteran armed with a G.I. Bill degree can expect to earn about $213,000 more in his lifetime than he could if he were only a high school graduate. The extra income would generate roughly $40,000 in taxes, according to the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Deeds of black regiment to live again

By Bill Kloeb

Infantry Museum visitors soon will have the opportunity to view exhibits which show the history of the 24th Regiment — a unit made up of predominantly white officers and black enlisted men. The unit spent many years at Fort Benning during the period between the two World Wars.

Organized in 1869 at Fort McKavitt, a western outpost about 10 miles from what is now the city of San Antonio, Tex., the regiment was a major deterrent to Indian and Mexican raids and marauding bands of robbers who harassed settlers and immigrants during the settlement of the Southwest.

During this period the unit occupied several garrisons in the Texas and Mexico areas. All of the necessities of life except weapons and combat equipment had to be provided by the unit. Since they were living in isolated garrisons and camps, they had to be self supporting, depending on wild game and local crops for food, living quarters and clothing. When units were not in the field chasing Indians and renegades or on mapping expeditions, much of the garrison life was spent in scouting, hunting and fishing.

After 28 years of duty as border and security troops, the regiment was ordered to Fort Douglas at Salt Lake City, and for the first time, the entire unit was garrisoned at the same post. But this condition was not a lasting one. Two years later, in 1898, the regiment was ordered to Cuba to fight in the Spanish-American War.

During this war the unit participated in many separate operations and received national recognition when elements combined with the 6th, 13th and 16th Infantry Regiments forming the vanguard of Teddy Roosevelt's charge against the San Juan Blockhouse at Santiago.

While in Cuba, individuals of the regiment also gained glory individually and for the regiment when scores of soldiers volunteered and gave their lives while working in the yellow fever pest camps at Sibony.

The next campaigns found the regiment fighting the Moro and Tuegegarao tribesmen during the Philippine Insurrection. They participated in actions at Santa Ana, Arayt, San Nocolas, Tayug, Bayombong and Salono, where the regimental commander accepted the surrender of the commanding general of the Tuegegarao.

After the Philippine campaigns the 24th spent the next few years at various posts and garrisons in the United States — broken only by a period of duty as garrison troops back in the Philippines.

The unit also saw duty in Montana at Madison Barracks and Fort Ontario, N. Y. and the Presidio of San Francisco, Calif. In 1917 it moved to border patrol duty at Camp Furlong, Columbus, N. M., where it spent the next few years chasing the Mexican bandit Pancho Villa.

In August of 1922 the regiment was transferred to Fort Benning, Ga., where conditions were not dissimilar to life on the border. A new post struggling for survival against the reduction of the Armed Forces brought about by the end of the First World War, Fort Benning offered a rugged existence. Money, quarters, equipment and even food were in short supply. Nevertheless, the unit settled down to make a home at the post which would be their home station for nearly 20 years.

The mission of the regiment was similar to the mission the 197th Infantry Brigade performs today — support training conducted at the Infantry School.

In the early days of the post this mission was complicated by multiple tasks required for every day living. Government quarters for families did not exist. Families of married personnel had to live in nearby Columbus, Ga., in tents on the post, or the soldier had to build his own quarters on the post.

Commissaries and the food service system for troop messes had limited operations. Mess sergeants were allocated sums to purchase food at civilian markets or grow it in gardens tended by soldiers. Laundry was a personal problem or, at best, organized in each company. Just about all personal services taken for granted in our modern Army were performed by individuals.

Troops from the 24th provided details to perform all these tasks and and at the same time they accomplished their primary mission in support of the School. Just how well they accomplished the mission was attested by the availability of trained Infantry leaders during the massive build-up of the Army in preparation for World War II.

During World War II the 24th was the first Negro Regiment overseas, joining other units island hopping in the Pacific Theater of Operations. And in 1950, the unit saw action as an element of the 25th Infantry Division during the Korean War.

On Oct. 1, 1951, the regiment was inactivated and personnel were placed into other units in accordance with a new integration policy of the Department of Defense.

The history of the 24th Infantry Regiment parallels the history of the Negro in the U. S. Army. The feats and accomplishments of its men were as historic and notable as the history of the unit. There were the men who served well and faithfully without distinction and the men whose deeds and accomplishments have become a part of the history of the Army and the Nation.

From the time of its activation in 1869 to inactivation in 1951, many soldiers of the unit received awards and decorations for gallantry, bravery and heroism above and beyond the call of duty. The list is a long one, extending from Sgt. Benjamin Brown and Cpl. Isaiah Mays who were presented the Medal of Honor in 1890 to PFC William Thompson and Sgt. Cornelius H. Charlton who earned the same medal while with the unit in Korea.

The list of former members whose deeds have shaped the destiny of the Negro and the Nation is equally long. There was a Maj. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who commanded the 1st Battalion in 1923 and later became General of the Army and President of the United States. There was a young lieutenant named Benjamin O. Davis Jr, a platoon leader in Co. F on his first assignment after graduation from the United States Military Academy. He was the second Negro to graduate from the Academy and the first Negro to become a lieutenant general in the Armed Services.

Brig. Gen. (ret.) Winfire Skelton of Columbus served for three months as a first lieutenant in command of the regiment's Co. C in 1932.

Albert W. Thompson, a Columbus lawyer and Georgia state representative, is the son of the late MSgt. Charles E. Thompson, who served with the 24th from the time of its arrival at Fort Benning until his retirement from the service in 1939.

Mrs. Mary Thompson, the sergeant's widow, lives in Columbus. She along with WO Jerome Nicholas, Sgt. Willie Pitts, Sgt. March Worsham and other retired personnel living in Columbus knew the unit during the days it served at Fort Benning.

John Story, museum exhibit specialist in charge of preparing the 4th Infantry Regiment exhibits, hopes to revive memories for these former members and make the unit live again for all visitors who view it.

Army, Infantry celebrate 196th year of service

The Army celebrates its 196th anniversary of service to both the nation and the world Monday with a request from its Chief of Staff, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, to maintain its "high degree of professionalism and enlightened leadership."

Monday is also the anniversary of the Infantry, which was officially created June 14, 1775, when the Second Continental Congress authorized the raising of 10 companies of expert riflemen for the defense of the United Colonies.

From those original 10 companies, armed only with muskets, the Army, with the Infantry remaining the basic arm, has evolved into the powerful, sophisticated force it is today.

Wednesday, five of the Infantry's support branches — the Corps of Engineers and the Adjutant General, Quartermaster, Ordnance and Finance Corps — also end their 195th year of existence.

"The changing patterns of our society, the phasing down of our forces in Vietnam, and the ever-present threat posed by those who seek to intimidate and suppress freedom by force or arms combine to demand much of the Army," said Westmoreland.

"The problems are many, the solutions difficult," he added. "As in the past, our Nation's security depends on how well the Army — active, reserve and National Guard — rises to the occasion."

The original American troops received training in contemporary European tactics, but frequent clashes with Indians taught them to fight in an unorthodox guerrilla style.

In the late 19th century, the American Infantryman saw his first jungle involvement in Puerto Rico and Cuba in the Spanish-American War but a generation later he returned to a conventional style in the trenches of Europe during World War I.

This time he was confronted with new threats — planes, armored tanks and mustard gas —and the age of modern warfare had begun.

The training which prepared the Infantryman for World War II, the Korean War and the conflict in Southeast Asia has evolved into an intensified, modern system.

But the Infantry remains the basis of the Army's power, as noted by Lt. Gen. C. E. Hutchin Jr., commander of the 1st Army at Ft. Meade, Md. In a letter to Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, Fort Benning commander, Gen. Hutchin wrote "Infantrymen, as the backbone of the Army, have always accomplished their difficult and dangerous tasks with determination and courage."

Today, the Army trains the soldier in ultra-modern military schools using the most advanced instructional aids and the most highly developed weapons and equipment.

Research and tests designed to improve methods of instruction, equipment and overall combat proficiency are conducted by such agencies as the U. S. Army Combat Developments Command Infantry Agency, the Human Resources Office, the U.S. Army Infantry Board and the Infantry School.

Other notable events which occurred June 14 are the adoption of the flag with 13 stars and 13 stripes by the Continenal Congress in 1775, the organization of Hawaii as a territory in 1900 and the sailing of the First Division of the American Expeditionary Force to France in 1917.

All urged to fly flags

All personnel are encouraged to display the U.S. Flag on Flag Day, Monday. Flag kits are available at the PX Toy and Garden Store. Home delivery by a Boy Scout can be arranged by calling 545-1831.

Gen. Talbott notes Army's birthday

As we commemorate the 196th anniversary of the United States Army and the 194th birthday of the American Flag, I wish to express my sincere appreciation for the dedicated service of all military and civilian personnel at Fort Benning. We can take great pride in the manner in which we meet all challenges with professionalism.

The defense of our nation and the free world is maintained by our Army which has again and again responded to its call to duty. Unfailingly the men and women serving in our nation's fighting force have displayed a degree of bravery and competence unsurpassed in the world. On the occasion of our birthday, let us join together in reaffirming our basic beliefs in the freedom of men and the independence of all nations.

I am confident this coming year will be another proud chapter in the pages of history.

Col. Samiljan retires after receiving eagles

Col. James Samiljan ended more than 25 years of service May 28, after being promoted to that rank earlier in the day by Brig. Gen. John T. Carley, assistant commandant of the Infantry School.

At the time of his retirement, Col. Samiljan was deputy director of the Communications - Electronics Department in the Infantry School.

The colonel was commissioned in April, 1943. During his career he served in the Pacific Theater during WWII, Germany, Iran and on various posts in the United States.

In 1969, he was assigned to the 1st Signal Brigade, Long Binh, Vietnam as the brigade's inspector general.

He and his wife, Muriel, have five children, James, Arthur, Steve, Jean and Robert. They plan to make their home in Florida.

255 graduate from Faith School

"The Road Less Travelled" was the title of the speech given by Terrance T. Tullia, son of CW2 and Mrs. Emmett A. Tullia, to 254 other graduating Faith School students June 2 in Marshall Auditorium, Infantry Hall.

Terrance had been named outstanding scholar of his class. Also speaking at the graduation were the second and third ranked students, Steven L. Fadul, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. William G. Fadul, and Patrick D. Tisdale Jr., son of Col. and Mrs. Tisdale. They spoke on "Birds of a Feather Stick Together" and "Now Comes the Dirty Work" respectively.

Col. David B. Conard, Directorate of Facilities and Engineering, also addressed the class prior to the graduation certificate presentation to individual students by Col. Robert J. Standley, 923rd Engineer Group commander, a member of the post schoolboard.

Also presented was the Don C. Faith award, given to one girl and one boy chosen to be the most outstanding in their class. Recipients this year were Maria E. R. Pia, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Louis L. Pia, and Fred Okamoto, son of MSgt. and Mrs. Joe Y. Okamoto.

Criteria for the award are academic excellence, citizenship, paticipation in school activities and general qualities of the students. Dr. Joseph Conforti, superintendent of schools at Fort Benning, presented the awards to the former eighth graders.

Among the highlights of the evening were the new eighth grade chorus' renditions of "The Sounds of Silence" and "Who Ain I?". The traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" was missing from the program.

Chaplain (Col.) Albert F. Ledebuhr gave the invocation and John Shuttlesworth, acting principal of Faith School, presented the graduating class.

Of the 255 graduates, only 38 had attended Faith School for all eight years.

4 allies among 47 grads of radio mechanics class

Two Congolese and two Laotian students were among the 47 students graduating from Field Radio Mechanics Course 12-71 Wednesday.

The four Allied students now are scheduled to attend a more advanced radio repairman's course at Ft. Gordon.

Graduating were SSgts. Xavier Mayituka and Leon Faustin Tsaissa of the Democratic Republic of the Congo and SFC Bounna Khamloun and Somxay Phomaeha of the Laotian Army.

Distinguished honor graduate of the course was Sp4 Martin W. Kosar of Helmet, Calif. Pvt. Joseph B. Benton of Santa Barbara, Calif., as academic honor graduate. He scored 96 per cent out of a possible 100 for the nine-week course.

New antitank weapon to undergo testing

The years following World War II have been filled with developmental efforts to produce a truly effective, man-portable, antitank weapon. Each weapon developed and fired has been employed effective within its capability, but, in all cases, accuracy, lethality, or portability left something to be desired. The search for an antitank weapon light enough to be carried and employed by one man, yet potent enough to destroy enemy armored vehicles and field fortifications, has continued into the present.

During the later part of this year, the US. Infantry Board, with participation by the Combat Developments Command Infantry Agency and the Infantry School, will begin testing and evaluating the performance of a new antitank weapon, The Dragon. Officially designated the XM47 Surface Attack Guided Missile System, it weighs 30.6 pounds and is completely man-portable, yet powerful enough to destroy enemy armor and other battlefield targets.

Basically, The Dragon consists of two major components—the expendable round and the reusable tracker. The shoulder-fired weapon uses an automatic command - to-line-of-sight wire guidance system that requires the gunner to aim through a telescopic sight and hold the cross hairs on the target until missile impact.

The 197th Infantry Brigade will provide three mechanized infantry platoons to participate in the Service Test. Two of the three platoons will be equipped with Dragon Systems, while the third will use the control or comparison weapon, the 90mm recoilless rifle. The manner in which the Dragon will be tested is unique in that the Service Test combines the essential material testing with the training and field testing of a mechanized rifle unit equipped with the Dragon under simulated combat conditions.

The Dragon will be the first test item to undergo a combined evaluation of this nature, and if proven successful, should expedite procurement and placement in the hands of the Infantryman.

The Dragon will fully compliment the heavier TOW weapon system that has been phased into the Infantry rifle battalions in Europe.

From earliest time, man, in his defensive role, has continually sought a weapon which would increase his ability to defend himself against any enemy under any set of circumstances. The Dragon, a completely new dimension in guided missile assault and defensive fire-power for the infantry soldier, just may become that weapon.

Work supervisors hear goals of youth program

A one-day training course for supervisors, both military and civilian, in the Summer Youth Employment Program was conducted June 4, in Infantry Hall.

The instruction included an orientation on the program's objectives by Arthur E. Medinck, civilian personnel officer, a lecture by Chaplain (Col.) Albert F. Ledebuhr on understanding today's youth, methods of counseling youthful employes by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Richard Nybro, and guidance on how to start employees off on the right foot by Lemuel E. Johnson, employee development specialist.

There were no formal educational requirements for enrollment. This program was designed for sincere supervisors wanting to know how to set an example for supervisors through the Army in providing meaningful employment for our youths.

Supervisors who assign work on a day-by-day basis to one or more youths appointed under the Summer Employment Examination Program, Summer Aids Program or the Neighborhood Youth Corps Enrollee were required to attend.

This was the only time this course was offered.

New police-type force to guard post offices

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount has announced the creation of a new police-type force to upgrade security at major post offices and postal service-operated buildings housing Federal courts.

Blount said a new Postal Service Security Force is being assembled with an expected complement of 1,144 by the end of 1971 and approximately 5,000 by mid-1975.

The security force, Blount said, will be responsible for controlling access, maintaining order, preventing mail thefts, safeguarding customers and employes and providing basic security for buildings operated by the Postal Service Security Force.

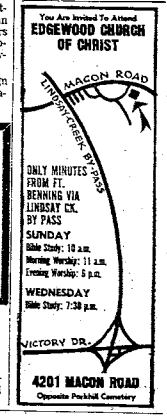
A pilot project of the security program was inaugurated at Philadelphia, Pa., in the fall of 1969. Applicants from Postal and Civil Service rolls, accepted only after careful screening and testing, were trained at Temple University. The last of the 88 members of the pilot group were graduated in February and the program has been operating successfully since that time.

Because of the benefits immediately apparent, the postmaster general approved expansion of the program to six additional facilities in Fiscal Year 1971, and to a total of 51 by the end of Fiscal Year 1975.

In October 1970 the Postal Service was assigned the added responsibility of protecting Postal Service-operated buildings housing Federal District and Circuit Courts. Postal Service Security Force members will be assigned to more than 100 such installations throughout the United States, beginning this year.

Blount said he is seeking candidates having civilian or military police experience, who meet high physical standards and who are at least 21 years of age. This last requirement may be waived for honorably discharged members of the armed forces.

The three-week training course for the security force was developed by Temple University and the Chief Inspector's Department under the Law Enforcement Assistance Act. Future training programs will be presented on the campus of the University of Oklahoma at Norman, Okla., under the direction of the Oklahoma Postal Training Operations staff.



Students are instructed in such diverse subjects as physical security, self - defense, first aid, evidence and problems of narcotics addiction as they affect postal security. In addition, each student is thoroughly trained in weapons use and in procedures for search and detection of bombs and explosives.

Salaries for the force range from a minimum of $7,972 per annum to a high of $12,857 for certain positions requiring specialized training and experience.

Libraries' books

The following books have just arrived in the Special Services library system and will be available within the next week.

Fiction

"Epicenter," Basil Jackson: In the tradition of "Failsafe" Jackson's novel deals with what might happen if a nuclear power plant developed a leak. An indication of the increasing number of nuclear power stations throughout the world is given along with recognition of the use of automation in their operation.

Automation is good only if the input, which is controlled by humans is accurate. The story deals with the effects of the leak on selected members of the plant and local city.

"The Throne of Saturn," Allen Drury: Drury turns from his novels of politics to probe the controversy surrounding the space program. The flight in question is a trip to Mars and the personality problems which enter into the assembly of the crew include the rugged individualist, racial problems, political implications and press and media effects.

Non-fiction

"Are You Safe From Burglars?" Robert Barnes: The old adage "forwarned is forearmed" may be applied to Barnes' revelation of tricks of his trade. "A former burglar tells of the precautions which should be taken to avoid burglars.

"Vietnam," Lauran Paine: An attempt to give life to the complicated past and troubled present of this small nation.

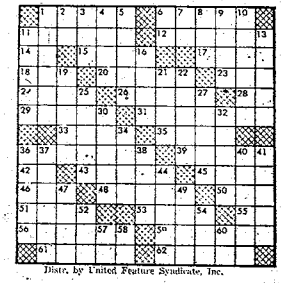
TO BE CONTINUED . . . IN AUGUST



"Whatever became of The Southern Way?" Was it discontinued, in hiding, or on vacation? Well, the truth is — The Southern Way is still around, but the column's author hasn't been.

I have recently returned from the WAC NCO School at Ft. McClellan, Ala., and will soon depart for a 30 day vacation. I won't be returning until the middle of July and hope to resume writing my column in August.

I figure it will take me at least two weeks to become accustomed to the ways of the working world after visiting California, Colorado and the dreamy Hawaiian Islands.

I hope all of you have a fantastic, fun-filled, safe summer. See you in August.

Dramatizers know their business in 'Funny Thing'

By Wendell Cochran

There is a photographic principle that says there should be a tonal difference between the important and not-so-important elements of a picture. Normally the important features will be somewhat brighter in contrast to the rest of the photo.

In their current production, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," the Fort Benning Dramatizers demonstrate their knowledge of that principle.

If the whole play were viewed as one black-and-white picture there would be three extremely bright areas and the rest would be varying shades of gray.

The brightest spot would be Bill Spaniel's portrayal of Hysterium, which definitely carries the show out of the realm of bad humor brought off poorly into the area of worthwhile comic diversion.

From the time he worships at his mistress' feet early on in the first act and gives the classic "Uncle Tom" slave line "I live to grovel," until he allows himself to be serenaded into thinking he is perhaps a pretty girl by fellow slave and enterpreneur Pseudolus, Spaniel is funny. Even his short trips between on-stage buildings, complete with nervous mumblings and fingernail bitings, bring smiles to the face.

It is well that Spaniel can assume from Pseudolus, played by David E. Powers, the lead comic role. Powers, whose role is the play's strongest, just doesn't bring to it the power of craftiness it needs. And, unfortunately, instead of being the high point of the show, he often is overshadowed by performers with lesser roles.

Another of the brighter spots in the play is Fran Wiblin's portrayal of Philia, the virgin courtesan who is the girl in the play's "boy sees girl, boy gets girl, boy loses girl, boy gets girl" plot. She is striking in her flowing white costume. She is coy, as one would expect a virgin to be. She is unquestionably honest, vowing to give the man who has bought her only her body, while saving her heart for Hero, the boy in the plot outline above.

Larry Conklin is Hero, but more importantly he is director of "A Funny Thing," a job which earns him more credit than his acting in this production.

The play's other bright spot is somewhat metaphysical. The villian of the plot, the absentee owner of Philia, is Miles Gloriosus, a warrior, played by Peter Oterson. He is on a continuous ego trip, and the play's lines are aimed at deflating his military ballon. Perhaps because of their unique relationship to the military the actors bring a sincerity and dedication to these lines that are missing in other parts of the play.

Kudos also are in order for Lanie Russell in her role as the domineering Domina, wife of Senex (a dirty old man) played by Bill Heard. Heard's performance as the hopeful sinner, with Philia, is entertaining.

Lycus (Roy Mehmken) and his courtesans also turn in good supporting performances, as does Frank Dupay in his role of Erronious.

The Dramatizers should also be given credit for switching gear so abruptly. Their last show was "Blues for Mister Charlie," James Baldwin's biting commentary on racism in the United States. To move to such light fare as "A Funny Thing" must not have been easy.

Curtain time at the Playhouse on Ingersoll Street is 8 p.m. tonight and tomorrow.

Battling the elements

In a sub-zero blizzard workmen at a midwestern airport struggle to free a mired jetliner that is blocking a much needed runway in a scene from "Airport" showing at post theaters. Ross Hunter produced the color motion picture based on Authur Hailey's best selling novel. An all-star cast headed by Dean Martin, Burt Lancaster and Jacqueline Bisset appear.

'Landlord' on post

Lovely Diana Sands, who won wide critical acclaim for her performance in "Raisin in The Sun," is appearing in "The Landlord," showing this week at Theater No. 2.

She is co-starred with Beau Bridges who is cast in the title role. Also in the film is the great Pearl Bailey in a strong supporting role in this screen adaptation of the popular Kristan Hunter novel dealing with a whacky white landlord in Harlem. Norman Jewison of "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming," "Hent of the Night" and "Gaily, Gaily" fame produced the new comedy with Hal Ashby who also directed.

A native New Yorker where she is highly popular with the night club set and a frequent performer on television, Miss Sands is best known for her work on the New York stage, among her triumphs in addition to "Raisin" being "Tiger, Tiger, Burning Bright," "The Owl and the Pussycat" and "We Bombed in New Haven."

Bill Gunn wrote the screenplay of "The Landlord" from the Hunter original and Al Kooper wrote its music.

Temporary moratorium placed on reclassification of PMOS

WASHINGTON (ANF)—The Department of the Army (DA) has placed a temporary moratorium on personnel of all grades from their current primary military occupational specialty (PMOS) to another with the following exceptions:

—Initial award of PMOS to trainees who complete individual training (formal school, ATC or formal on-the-job training.

PMOS upon graduation —Redesignation of from a MOS-producing school course.

—In connection with promotions announced in Department of the Army Orders.

Meanwhile, individuals other than trainees undergoing on - the - job training will be awarded any MOS they qualify for as a second MOS (SMOS).

—Specific DA instructions directing individual reclassification.

The moratorium will last until July 1 when revised procedures governing enlisted MOS reclassification actions will be instituted.

136 new Rangers hear former Va. congressman

Ex-Congressman John Marsh of Virginia was the guest speaker for the graduation ceremonies of 136 students from Ranger class 12-71. There were 10 honor graduates and 5 allied graduates.

The distinguished honor graduate was Capt. Gene K. Bryson, who attained an academic score of 910 of a possible 1,000 points and successfully completed all of his patrol leadership assigments. He is a recent graduate of the Infantry Officers's Advanced Course and has served in the Republic of Vietnam as an advisor to the 18th ARVN Division and with the 82nd Airborne Division in the Dominican Republic. Capt. Bryson currently is assigned to the 25th Infantry Division, Schofield Barracks, Hawaii.

Collectors should check Apollo rates

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — With the passage of increased postal rates, collectors are urged to consult their local post offices concerning the rates for covers submitted for cancellation on Apollo 15.

Collectors, applying correct postage will ensure that they receive clean, unobstructed covers.

Navy recovery forces in the Atlantic and Pacific will process philatelic covers for the July 26 launch of Apollo 15. Task Force 140 and 130 will each accept a maximum of two covers from an individual collector.

To permit adequate time for handling, collectors should send pre-stamped, self - addressed envelopes (addresses in the lower right corner) to the appropriate coordinator to be received prior to 2 July 1971.

Covers should be sent to: Apollo 15 Covers, Task Force 140, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va. 23511 and Chief in-Charge, (Apollo 15) Task Force 130, Navy Terminal Post Office, FPO San Francisco, Calif. 96610.

Program's drug plan 'not being used fully'

DENVER — The prescription drug program of CHAMPUS is not being used fully according to a survey recently completed by the Pharmaceutical Services Branch, Office for the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (OCHAMPUS).

A substantial portion of the cost of prescription drugs and insulin purchased by authorized beneficiaries can be defrayed by the government under CHAMPUS. The purchase price also can be used along with other authorized incurred medical expenses to meet the outpatient deductible requirement.

The deductible, as required by law, must be met each fiscal year before the government can share in the payment of outpatient health care bills.

CHAMPUS beneficiaries are responsible for the first $50 of outpatient bills each fiscal year. If benefits are claimed for two or more members of a family, the maximum deductible is $100 for the fiscal year.

Thereafter, under the cost-sharing concept, CHAMPUS pays 80 per cent on claims for dependents of active duty personnel and 75 per cent for retired personnel, their dependents and the survivors of active duty and retired service members.

CHAMPUS officials noted, however, that only insulin and those drugs requiring a prescription by law qualify under the program.

Either the pharmacist or the beneficiary can submit the claim for the CHAMPUS share of the cost of the items to the state fiscal administrator. When the neighborhood pharmacist submits the claim, the beneficiary only need pay his share to the pharmacy after signing the claim form and providing the necessary information in the first 13 items.

In table tennis it's more pong than ping

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — International table tennis matches bear little resemblance to the friendly recreation-room game that most Americans play.

Professionals stand 15 to 20 feet from the table and slam the wildly spinning ball at speeds reaching 60 to 100 miles an hour, the National Geographic Society says. "It smarts pretty badly if you take a direct hit on the head," a tournament novice commented with a wince.

Among the world's youngest sports, table tennis or Ping-Pong, as it is often called in the United States, received its earliest known mention in an 1884 London catalogue, which advertised a "miniature lawn tennis game."

Players used small racquets to strike a firm, light ball covered with knitted web over a net stretched across a dining room table.

The game's origin is uncertain. Its inventor has been variously identified as an American in New England, an Englishman in England, and a British Army officer in either India or South Africa.

The new game stirred little interest in the United States at first, but the British immediately adopted it. The sport became their favorite pastime, especially after a speedy celluloid ball replaced the webbed sphere about 1904.

The craze soon faded, however, and the game was almost forgotten for a quarter of a century. Its revival led to the formation of the International Table Tennis Federation in 1926. Six nations formed the organization; more than 90 now belong.

The fast-paced sport has grown ever trickier over the years as cork and sandpaper-covered paddles gave way to rubber facing and, most recently, to sponge-covered racquets.

Sponge surfaces give the ball incredible spin, eliminating lengthy volleys. Before their introduction in 1952, a single 21-point game often took hours in competitive play. In one world championship playoff, the first point lasted an exhausting hour and 40 minutes.

Table tennis is not just a professionals' game. Countless millions bang the little ball back and forth in Europe, America, and Asia. But in recent years, the Asians — last to take up the sport — have dominated almost all international contests.

THE FORUM

By John Davis

The recent Clete Boyer-Atlanta Braves split has been coming for some time. The situation came to a head when it did mainly because Boyer and the Braves reached the depths of despair simultaneously.

You only have to check the national league standings to determine the reason for the Braves' demise. Boyer's woes, however, cannot be accurately reflected by a won-lost column.

The slick-fielding third baseman, considered by many to be the premier glove man in the National League, supposedly is beset with severe personal problems. When the situation became too much to handle recently, Boyer turned his wrath on the Braves in general and Paul Richards in particular.

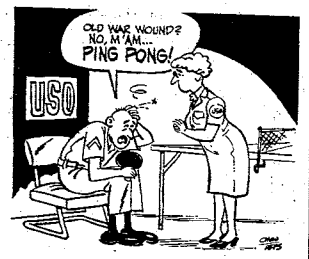
Richards, the seldom seen but omnipotent Atlanta vice president, is an unlikely partner for a head-butting contest. Long considered an expert when it comes to judging baseball talent, he will hardly be remembered for winning friends and influencing people. The tall, thin Texan has an undisputed reputation for calling them as he sees them.

An average big league catcher in his playing days, Richards' biggest asset is his ability to organize. This is best reflected by the recent success of the Baltimore Orioles. Many members of the current world champions are products of Richard's managing days with Baltimore.

Following a short-lived stint as general manager of the Houston Astros during the early 1960s, Richards wound up in Atlanta.

When Richards moved to the Braves front office, Atlanta possessed one of the worst defensive infields in baseball and one of Richards first official acts was to acquire Clete Boyer from the New York Yankees. He was brought to Atlanta prior to the 1967 campaign in hopes of patching the Braves porous infield.

Although never a high average hitter, Boyer's clutch hitting and brilliant glove work gave the ailing Braves a much needed shot in the arm. Appropriately enough, Boyer's best season as an Atlantan came in 1969 when the tribe managed to capture the National League (West) crown—the Braves' best finish in ten years.

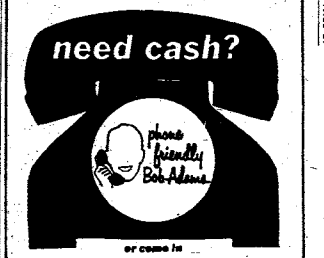


In 1970 Boyer's performance tailed off, and this season, used only sparingly for one reason or another, his disconteut became more apparent. His growing displeasure with the Braves finally became too big and was manifested in his recent outcry against Richards.

Not about to turn the other cheek, Richards retaliated with some pretty powerful talk of his own. The fight finally ended when Richards agreed to give the aging third baseman his unconditional release, clearing the way for Boyer to make a deal on his own.

Where the 16 year veteran will peddle his baseball wares remains to be seen, but it is believed that Boyer has never lost his eye for the bright lights of the big city. Face it. When you're a farm boy from Missouri and spend the better part of your major league career with a team that has earned you six world series rings and two world championships, being traded to a perennial also ran like Atlanta requires quite an adjustment.

And with all due respect, Peachtree Street isn't exactly Broadway, and the Atlanta playpen, as modern as it may be, is hardly the house that Ruth built. And with Boyer's flair for the flamboyant, the bucolic setting of the deep south is hardly conductive to his peace of mind.



Boarders down 609th, 9-7

The Infantry Board softball team won its third straight game in the Aviation Command Slow-pitch League defeating the 609th Aviation Company 9-7, May 31.

With the win over the 609th the boarders assumed sole possession of first place in the 7-team league.

The Infantry Board previously defeated the Marksmanship Training Unit 7-5 and 93ist Engineers 12-5.

League softball action light for 197th Inf.

By Steve Partridge

Action was light June 1-4 in the 197th Infantry Brigade company level softball league.

The 2nd Bn., 19th Arty., started their softball season rolling. After the first week of competition Batteries C and D were tied for the league-lead with identical 2-1 charts. Rounding out the standings were Btry. A, 1-0; 183rd Chemical Platoon, 1-1; Headquarters Officers, 1-2; and Hq. Btry., 0-2. Btry. B did not play because of field commitments.

Btry. C squeaked by Headquarters Officers, 7-4, but blasted HHS, 19-3. The battling battery's only loss came at the hands of Btry A, 16-5.

Btry D dropped a game to HHS, 8-1, but also scored two victories beating Headquarters Officers, 8-4, and edging the 183rd, 6-5. In other action, the 183rd romped over Headquarters, 11-3.

HHC led the way with a 4-0 chart in the 1st Bn 58th Inf. "patriot" league. Following in the standings were Co. B, 1-0; Co. C, 1-1; Co. D 1-2. Bringing up the rear was Co. A, 0-3. The cellar-dwellers dropped two games — a 29-4 loss to HHC, and a 11-7 wallop by Co. D.

May slalom response brings autocross back

By Steve Partridge

Free wheeling 197th Infantry Brigade personnel, including wives and girl friends, will get another opportunity to find out how their cars can perform when they race against time in an autocross slalom June 19.

Due to the enthusiastic response given to the May Day slalom the CHAVAGA Region of the Sports Car Club of America (SCCA) will sponsor a second event. The slalom is endorsed by the post safety officer and will begin at 1 p.m. The autocross will be open to all Fort Benning personnel.

Designed to promote safety in highway driving, an autocross is a slalom in which the contestants are not required to stop or reverse although a motionless finish may be used. The course does not cross itself. It is a race against a time clock. One car is on the course at a time.

There will be 10 classes of cars and a ladies class for every type of car including sedans. 197th personnel are eligible to enter and drive any type of car in one category. There will be a $3 entry fee.

Trophies will be presented to all first through third-place winners in each class depending on the number of entries in the class and a trophy for the fastest time of the day. Every entry will receive a dash plaque.

Trophies and entry fees will be handled on a separate basis for CHAVAGA Region SCCA members.

Activities will start at 10 a.m. with contestant registration and a safety inspection on all physical aspects of the cars. Safety belts will be required for all entries. Safety helmets will be furnished.

Contest rules and the sequence of running will be discussed in a noon drivers' meeting. Minor details, handling, tire pressure, results of mishandling an automobile, speeding and a review of the course will also be discussed.

IOAC 5-71 tops in league

The IOAC Class 5-71 stayed on top of the IOAC League last week with a 6-0 record. Its closest competitors were Class 6-71 with a 4-2 record.

The 2nd Student Battalion held down the third place slot with a 3-2 record, ahead of 2-71 A team, 2-71 B team and the Command Maintenance Department all with records of three wins and three loses.

Finishing up the league is the 4-71 team with a 3-5 record, 3-71 with 2-4 and Class 1-71 with one win and three loses.

Engineers swamp opponents, sweep 2 twin-bills

By Keith Harmon

The 931st Engineer Group fastpitch softball team roared its way to four straight victories last week in two successive double headers.

On June 2, 931st hurlers managed to shut out the Hq's Comd. squad twice with pitcher John Farrington winning a 3-0 decision and second game winner John Jarvis blanking Hq's Comd. 7-0.

A day earlier the hard-hitting Engineers rolled over their opponents from Martin Army Hospital (MAH), trouncing them 11-4 the first game and 17-2 the second.

The 931st players jumped to a quick lead in the first game with MAH, scoring seven runs in the first inning — more than enough to down the weak-hitting MAH. The first-inning scoring drive was sparked when first baseman Steve Dostal, batting sixth, blasted a pitch out of the park.

The Engineers out-hit MAH seven to five, giving starter Jarvis a comfortable lead throughout the contest.

In the second game hurler Farrington allowed no hits to MAH batsmen, but his teammates were unable to preserve a shut out as MAH scored two runs on as many errors.

MAH's two runs were not enough for Farrington's otherwise flawless pitching and 931st's solid hitting. The Engineers jumped to a quick lead in the first scoring six runs, and continued to pound MAH hurlers with 13 hits before the game was called after 4½ innings.

In Farrington's shut out over Hq's Comd. in the first game of two, the Engineers barely out-hit their opponents, three hits to two for Hq's Comd. but the 931st batsmen managed to combine their hits with excellent base running.

The Engineers were on the score board for the first time in the sixth inning when second baseman Dominic Mecurio singled, stole second and then scored on left fielder Bob Shell's sacrifice fly.

931st picked up their final scores in the last inning to ice the victory at 3-0 when catcher Dennis Moore walked, Dostal doubled and both batters scored on Hq's Comd. errors.

In the final game the Engineers outslugged Hq's Comd. nine to four as Jarvis picked up his first shut out in two weeks, 7-0.

As in the first game with Hq's Comd., breaking the ice was the run-scoring combination of Mecurio and Shell. The speedy second baseman singled, stole second and then scored on Shell's sacrifice in the first inning.

Mecurio scored again in the third on a Hq's Comd. error and was followed across the plate by third baseman Ed Ford who doubled and scored on a single by Moore.

Power hitter Dostal, who homered the night before, blasted a triple and two doubles to assist the Engineers in their final victory.

Columbus Club team takes Pro-Am tourney

The entry of Charlie Harper from the Columbus Country Club resulted in a best ball total of 60 to win the Ladies' Pro-Am golf tournament held at the Fort Benning Country Club June 7.

Teaming with Harper for the winning total were Sara Fabrian, Francis Bradley and M. Morgan.

Professional Paul Wolfe and his three lady entry from the Alexander City Country Club placed second with a score of 61.

Teams entered by Billy Faulkner, Green Island Hills, Howard Holbrook, Fort Benning Country Club pro and Bootsie Mullins, Midland Pines Golf Course, were tied at 62.

Harper and Mullins teamed to win the pro-pro tournament with a best ball of 65. Holbrook and Wolfe shot 67 to take second place.

Best gross scores were turned in by Harper who had a two under par 70 and Holbrook who birdied the last three holes to score an even par round.

ROD AND GUN CLUB Notes

By Bill Kloeb

Several new members of the Rod and Gun Club have posed questions concerning the facilities and services available to members. After talking with other members and non-members it became apparent that few people are aware of the reasons for having the club and the advantages and services available to members.

The Rod and Gun Club promotes wildlife conservation through indoctrination of the members; provides funds for wildlife management from membership dues and sales of goods and services incidental to hunting and fishing; and, promotes fairplay, honesty and other attributes that make a true sportsman.

Club Provides Various Activities

Services to the members of the club include a variety of activities not otherwise available on post.

The club owns and operates a fleet of 66 fishing boats. These boats have been located in various ponds on the reservation. Member can rent them (with paddles and life preservers) for $1.25 a day. Electric motors with batteries are also available for $2.50 a day.

The club operates a sales counter where hunting and fishing licenses and equipment are sold. Minnows, worms and other bait can also be purchased at this outlet. This is the only place on post where authorized personnel may obtain post hunting and fishing permits. This is also the place to get Rod and Gun Club memberships.

Lunches, beer and soft drinks are available at a bar and grill located in the clubhouse. Here, sportsmen get together to swap hunting and fishing stories or plan future excursions. During the hunting season the grill serves a pre-dawn breakfast for hunters who want to reach the field at first light.

Skeet and Trap Ranges

The club has four skeet ranges and one trap range. One of the skeet ranges has been lighted for night shooting. The ranges are open from 2 until 10 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays, 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Friday, noon until 10 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Sunday. Bill Griffin, a former skeet shooter with U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit teams is in charge of the ranges. He is highly qualified to get new shooters started right or to iron out bad habits that old shooters may develop.

Archery Ranges

There are two field archery ranges on the club grounds. Both ranges have the highest rating given by the Georgia Archery Association. The club has a very active archery group. Local meets are sponsored by the club and whenever possible the group bids to be the host for regional and state tournaments.

The group also operates an indoor range at Bldg. 5310 in Harmony Church.

There are several experienced shooters who have competed in state and national competition. They are usually around the ranges on weekends, ready and willing to help beginners.

Other Activities

The club also sponsors various activities and contests during the year. Each month the club holds a fishing derby. Prizes are awarded to the fisherman registering the largest bass, bream and catfish. During the hunting season there is a deer contest. Prizes are awarded for the heaviest deer, the deer with the largest antler rack, and, a prize is given to the junior member bagging the largest deer.

Fishing contests are also held for members on various holidays and a free party is given in conjunction with the annual installation of the board of governors.

Annual Election

The board of governors is responsible for the operations of the club. Each year a new board is elected by the membership. Members will have the opportunity to vote for nominees of their choice from July 1 to July 10.

Major units on post are allocated members on the board of governors. The number is dependent on the number of club members in each unit. Major unit commanders nominate members in their unit for inclusion on the ballot. Active individual members may also be nominated.

Ballots will be available in unit orderly rooms and at the Rod and Gun Club.

Rifle, pistol championships slated

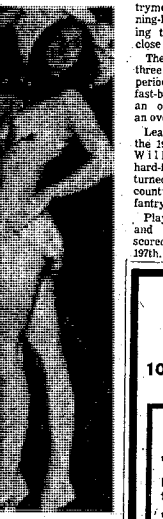
The cream of the U.S. Army marksmen will converge on this post June 17. They will compete in the All Army Rifle and Pistol Championship Matches held by the U.S. Army Infantry Center.

Sponsored by the Continental Army Command the annual matches pit the most capable shooters against one another in eliminati to determine the best selection of rifle and pistol teams for competition in the national matches held in August at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Shooters arriving on or before June 17 will have the opportunity of participating in the Southeastern Regional Matches at Fort Benning which serve as a preliminary to the all Army matches. The latter starts June 20 and terminates June 26 with the presentation of awards.

A 43 match meet, the all Army matches includes 26 pistol events and 17 rifle contests. The M-14 rifle will be the basic weapon used in the rifle matches while the pistol events use the usual three gun series of 22 caliber, center fire pistol and 45 caliber. Both team and individual competition will be offered to squads made up from each Army area, both active and reserve, to include National Guard. The overseas commands will also be competing for their share in the top Army contests.

Classification of shooters will provide competition for both the novice marksman and the tournament seasoned veteran by having the novice and open classes within each event.



Competition the first day, June 20, will be service rifle events only with the first match the Infantry Trophy Rifle Match. One of the basic requirements of this six man squad firing event is that half of the shoters or more will be new shooters, having not participated in prior years. The match also includes various distances and position shots in the four stage eight target event.

Each pistol event will be fired through the usual slow fire, timed fire and rapid series plus the national match course and an aggregate winner.

The service rifle matches will include various yardages, positions, slow fire and rapid fire and a national match course. A combat rifle event will also be fired by the competitors.

Brigade handball squad romps at TSB expense

The 197th Infantry Brigade team handball squad romped to a 9-3 victory, June 2, in Doughboy Stadium over The School Brigade (TSB) to take their first win of the season.

After suffering a heartbreaking loss to the 931st Engineer Group in their season opener the Infantrymens truck with lightning-like quickness, spurting to a 6-2 lead at the close of the first half.

The fleet brigade added three scores in the second period as they unleashed a fast-break attack to hand an outclassed TSB squad an overwhelming defeat.

Leading the scorers for the 197th was court player William Wolford. The hard-firing left hander turned the hat trick to account for three of the Infantrymen's points.

Player-coach Bill Davis and Sam Bolding each scored two goals for the 197th.

TSB takes 2 games from Bullets on 6 errors, 6 unearned tallies

By Steve Partridge

Six unearned runs crossed home plate on six 197th Infantry Brigade errors as the "Big Red Bulets," fast-pitch softball team dropped both ends of a double-header June 3 to The School Brigade (TSB), 7-0 and 4-1 on Gowdy Field.

TSB pitchers Brent Minser and Nic Kranz allowed the brigade only one run in 14 innings as they were credited with the wins. 197th hurlers "Chief" Whitehorse and "Lefty" Furnish took the losses.

The brigade was staked to a 1-0 lead on Tom Sumner's infield hit and stolen base and player-coach Bennie Jackson's single in the top of the second frame in the nightcap.

TSB struck for two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning as Gene Peacock and Louis Santos scored on two errors by 197th center-fielder Leonard Gibson. The league-leaders added two unearned runs in their sixth turn at bat to walk away with the victory.

The first game of the twinbill turned into a pitcher's duel between Minster and Whitehorse until the top of the fourth inning. The powerful TSB team pushed across five runs in the top of the inning to take an insurmountable lead.

Kranz added a home run over the right-field fence in the top of the sixth frame. The final TSB tally came on a triple and a single.

In previous action of the week the brigade downed Headquarters Command, 2-0 and 5-3. Whitehorse and Furnish nailed down the victories for the brigade. The "Chief" pitched a two-hit shutout in the first game of the twi-nighter while Furnish hurled three and two-thirds innings of hitless relief to preserve a 5-3 victory in the second game.

Benning holds 3rd Army matches

Local tennis fans will get a chance to watch top notch tennis players in action during the 3rd Army Tennis Championships which will be held at the Officers Club Tennis Courts next week.

Events will get underway with a banquet at the Country Club ballroom for all participants Monday at 6 p.m. The first matches will start Tuesday morning. The tournament will close with the final matches and an awards presentation on Saturday.

Singles and doubles champions in open, senior and womens divisions will be determined. All posts in the 3rd Army area have been invited to send a team consisting of four open, two senior and two women players.

Fort Benning will be represented by open players John Batral, Steve Darrah, Porky Byrd and Ron Johnson. Jere Whittington and Robert Seaman will play in the senior division and Kathy Rigole and Rita Mattix will play in the womens division.

Talent, beauty, band contests part of events at Independence Carnival

Talent from throughout the Fort Benning-Columbus-Phenix City area will be competing in the post's Independence Day Carnival July 3.

Competition will include a talent contest, a beauty contest and a battle of the bands with savings bonds totaling $1,300 to be awarded. All three events will be held in Marshall Auditorium this year.

Deadline for registration in each of the contests is June 21. Application forms may be obtained through the U.S. Army Infantry Center Special Services Office entertainment director or by calling 545-2316 or 545-5057.

At least eight bands are expected to be competing in the battle of the bands. Top prize will be a $400 savigs bond, $150 for second and $50 third place. The bands will perform for two hours.

The beauty contest is open to all girls in the Fort Benning Columbus-Phenix City area. The competition will be held between 4 and 5 p.m. First place in the beauty contest will be a $250 savings bond with the second place winner to receive a $100 savings bond.

The talent contest will be the final event of the afternoon.

A carnival official said there will be a 25 cent admission charge for the contests.

Tickets for the carnival are on sale at the unit level and at the post's major facilities. Booths are being set up in Infantry Hall, the Main Post and Custer Terrace Post Exchange and Commissary, Officer's Club and Country Club, Noncommissioned Officers Club and Top Five Club, National Bank of Fort Benning, Main Post Bowling Alley and the Youth Activities Center.

RRCG men presented ARCOMS

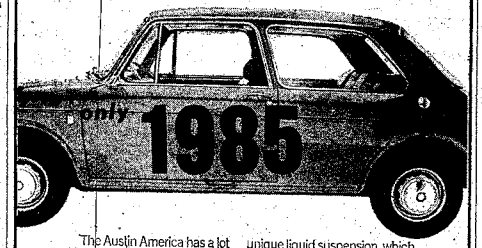
1st Lt. William Marshall and Sp4 Mike A. Pearson, both assigned to the Race Relations Coordinating group, were presented Army Commendation Medals in a special ceremony held at the office of the commanding general.

Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, presented the awards to the men for their work on the Fort Benning Race Relations group. The RRCG was the first such organization in the Army set up to study and attempt to alleviate race problems at Fort Benning.

Gen. Talbott commented during the ceremony that he had decided to present the awards to the two men personally because of the excellent work the two had done during the past year of the group's existence.

931st briefing tells arrivals of Benning life

The 931st Engineer Group laid out the welcome mat for all newly assigned personnel and their wives in an orientation briefing held June 2 at Theater 3 in Sand Hill.



The purpose of the briefing was to familiarize the soldiers and their dependents with the many advantages of Army life as well as the community services located in the Sand Hill area.

The final event of the briefing was a bus tour of the Sand Hill area and the 931st Engr. Gp. The soldiers and wives saw the commissary and PX, the golf course and swimming pool, the bank and post office as well as group headquarters and the various military installations.

CUNNINGHAM

On waiting for that 1,000-Foot jump

By Wendell Cochran

EGLIN AFB, Fla. — A small knot of men stands outside a hangar, joking, reminiscing, waiting for an antiquated aircraft to come and lift them into night skies.

As darkness approaches only the familiar yellow and black Ranger tab is readily visible against the faded green jungle fatigues.

The talk is light and easy, but even an outsider looking in can tell that there is some apprehension among these men of the Florida Ranger Camp as they prepare to fling themselves 1,000 feet through the air.

Finally, the plane arrives. It is a C-119, built just after World War II. Tonight it is flown by members of the West Virginia Air National Guard, and this mountaineer feels better already.

Army's 'assigned war' won, Gen. Kinnard says

By Bill Dolan

"The U. S. Army in Vietnam has won the war it had been assigned to fight and has done so magnificently," said Lt. Gen. (ret. Harry W. O. Kinnard at the June 14 annual membership meeting of the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army (AUSA).

Gen. Kinnard was the guest speaker at the meeting in Marshall Auditorium, Infantry Hall, at which new chapter officers were elected.

New board members are Bill Herndon, Roy Browning, Col. Leon R. Livingston Jr., Capt. Charles W. Anderson, Arthur E. Medlock, Brown Nicholson, CSM Frank Plass, Cliff Livingston, CSM John F. LaVoie and Col. Kenneth Barlow.

In his speech Gen. Kinnard said "the helicopter was the key" to the tactical victory of the Army in Vietnam. He said a comparative study of French and American operations in the same terrain during the same weather "against the same tough.

Piling it high

Breaking for lunch are some of the 848 members of the U. S. Military Academy Class of 1972 who visited Fort Benning last week for three days of observing and participating in the training of Infantrymen. During their stay the cadets saw Airborne, Ranger and Airmobile demonstrations and participated in a mechanized operation, the Leader's Reaction Course and Airborne training. The cadets also will visit Forts Knox, Ky., Sill, Okla., and Bliss, Tex.

Post incentive award program is top in Army

Fort Benning has been named best Army post for its outstanding Incentive Awards program during 1970. The award marks the second straight year Fort Benning has received the commendation.

In ceremonies held June 11 at the post, Brig. Gen. Samuel L. Reid, chief of staff of the 3rd Army, presented a plaque commending the program to Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander.

At another ceremony Gen. Talbott presented the Meritorious Civilian Service Award to John H. Schultz, chief of Incentive Awards section, for his work as chief from 1966 to the present.

The Department of the Army nommendation recognized Fort Benning's active Incentive Awards program for topping the field in all areas considered for the award: Submission rate, adoption rate and backlog of suggestions as well as the overall suggestions program.

Statistics on these areas of the program are submitted quarterly to 3rd Army, and that command then recommends its choice for best post to the Department of the Army. DA then chooses the outstanding post from similar lists from other major commands.

During the period covered by the award—Fiscal Year 1970—combined savings from the military and civilian suggestions programs exceeded $4.5 million.

Orienteering competition may be ticket to Norway

Ever want to go to Norway? If you're an orienteer, you can run there.

Competition in Fort Benning's next orienteering meet on June 26 may well be some soldier's ticket to Oslo, Norway, next September — not to mention exemption from normal military duties from June through October.

The Army is going all-out in this year's international orienteering competition and Fort Benning is going all-out to have a part in the Army team.

The meet which will be the primary vehicle for selecting a 20-man Fort Benning team to represent the post at higher level competition.

Men chosen will be assigned to the team full time on a special duty basis. The team will move into special barracks and have a special training table in the mess hall. A staff of military and civilian coaches will supervise rigorous daily workouts.

First test for the team will be the all-Army meet at Ft. Belvoir, Va., July 20-31. Winning teams will represent the Army at the Interservice meet at Quantico Marine Base, Va., Aug. 4-6, and at the CISM international meet in Oslo, Norway, in early September. Finally, the Army team will travel to the U.S. national matches at Southern Illinois University in October.

Proficient orienteers from Fort Benning have the chance to go all the way. But training and hard work are the keynotes. Former trackmen and cross-country runners and anyone else ready to work are encouraged to begin training now. Facilities, equipment and instruction are available now to all interested parties by calling 545-6201.

See today's Sport section for more information about orienteering and the meet June 26.

3 summer programs at Fort Benning provide employment for 445 youths

Presently working at Fort Benning under the three summer job programs are 445 youths.

The majority of the youths are working in the summer aides (SA) plan but the Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) program eventually will have the most employes if additional Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) funds become available.

Fort Benning has hired 220 summer aides after they were referred to the post's Civilian Personnel Division by the Georgia State Employment Office.

Also 100 youths are working under the Summer Employment Examination Program (SEEP) which includes high school graduates between ages 18 and 22. To qualify for SEEP, a youth had to take a Civil Service examination.

The third program on post, the NYC, presently has 125 youths em-

ROTC students get high marks at Ranger Camp

By Wendell Cochran

They have been in training less than one week but already the students attending the ROTC Ranger Camp are drawing high marks from their chief evaluator.

"I think they are the most enthusiastic group of young men I have seen in a long time," Lt. Col. Otis W. Livingston, chief ROTC evaluator, said.

The colonel, himself a former instructor in the Ranger Department added: They are meeting a real challenge here. They've adapted in real speedy fashion."

Livingston, professor of military science at Ouachita (Ark.) Baptist University pointed out that the majority of the cadets have no prior military experience and that they are being thrown into one of the military's most strenous training situations.

The ROTC cadets attending the course are substituting Ranger training for their regular ROTC summer camp. Those who complete six weeks of Ranger training get credit for the summer camp while those who finish the whole course satisfactorily will receive the Ranger tab.

Most of the first week of training was devoted to classes that are a part of the regular summer camp but are not usually included in Ranger training.

After completing this phase of the course, the students will be given the same training as the hundreds of others who are Ranger-qualified.

Already the cadets have begun the rigorous physical training that has become the hallmark of Ranger instruction. Last Saturday as their first training the cadets took the Physical Combat Proficiency Test and the Combat Water Survival Test.

Monday the cadets were welcomed by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander. They then moved onto Fort Benning ranges to qualify with the M-16 rifle.

This is the first year that Ranger training has been offered as a substitute for the ROTC Summer Camp, requirement all ROTC students must complete before being commissioned.

More than 1,200 cadets volunteered for the 240-man class. Stringent selection requirements set down by the Continental Army Command whittled the enrollment to the acceptable level.

Systems analysis scheduled

An operations research systems analysis elective will be offered to advanced course students starting June 22.

This 40-hour elective is offered by the Management Committee of the Leadership Department, USAIS.

The course will cover basic techniques and procedures of operations research and systems analysis, to include such topics as set theory, probability theory, network theory and statistical inferences.

The case problem method of study will be used to enable the students to better understand the uses of operations research-systems analysis.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Bill King

A layer cake will look more even if you turn the bottom layer top down before frosting.

Salad tips: toss greens with oil so that they are nicely coated before adding vinegar or lemon juice. Then toss again with your favorite seasonings.

If possible, let a bottle of wine rest a few days at home after purchasing it, as fine wines can actually "tire" from movement.

Many Latin Americans cook rice in unsweetened coconut milk when serving it with shellfish dishes.

It is said that the custom of serving chilled soups began with Louis XIV. Seems that by the time several aides tasted his soup to guard against poisoning, it was lukewarm. So Louis requested cold soups instead.

Byline Bayonet

(Byline Bayonet welcomes questions of general interest about Fort Benning and the Army. Within space limitations all reasonable questions will be answered. Questions of a purely military nature which obviously could be answered more properly by commanders or supervisors within the chain of command will not be accepted. Questions must be signed with current unit of assignment indicated. Send questions to The Bayonet, Room 602, Infantry Hall or telephone 545-2791.)

Q — How many recruits has the Army attracted through it's VOLAR-related ad campaign on radio and TV?

A — Figures are not yet available. The 13-week radio-TV fest ended May 28 and an evaluation process is now underway by a commercial research organization. It is now known at this time when results will be available, but after their analysis a decision will be made by the assistant secretary of defense for manpower and reserve affairs as to future use of paid radio-TV advertising by any or all of the services.

Q — When did the VOLAR advertising program start and what was the cost?

A — Total cost was $100.6 million and the test began the first week in March.

Q — Are you still required to show a DD Form 1580, "Military Standby Authorization for Commercial Air Travel" when you travel since VOLAR came into being?

A — Yes, the Military Traffic Management and Terminal Service (MTMTS) reminds all military personnel that as of June 1 airline ticket agents will have no recourse but to refuse sales of reduced fare tickets to military personnel unable to present the "Military Standby Authorization for Commercial Air Travel (DD Form 1580.) DD Form 1580 is a mandatory requisite for military personnel desiring to avail themselves of reduced air fares for leave travel. The VOLAR program has had no effect on the requirements for air travel.

Q — My wife and I are legally separated. Is she still entitled to commissary privileges?

A — According to a spokeman for the Adjutant Generals Office, Army Regulation 31-200 states that legally separated spouses and dependent children residing with them are not entitled to commissary store privileges. Anyone in this category possessing an Identification and Privilege card authorizing commissary privileges should report to Building 83, Room 127, to have their cards changed deleting commissary privileges.

The judge says

Some children need citizen proof

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth and last in a series of four articles on immigration and naturalization. This article contains information on the procedures that must be followed to file the naturalization application and appear before the naturalization court.)

USAIC LEGAL ASSISTANCE OFFICE — The United States citizenship of a child born abroad usually can be ascertained by obtaining a Certificate of Birth and a Report of Birth from the American consulate in the country where he was born as well as proof that his parents are citizens of the U. S.

However, there are a few instances when a child may need further proof of United States citizenship, such as when he applies to certain schools (for example, armed forces officer and noncommissioned officer candidate schools) or for certain federal government jobs. Therefore, if such a situation arises, the parents or the child may apply for a Certificate of Citizenship, which is considered the best proof of citizenship should a child's citizenship ever be questioned.

The Certificate of Citizenship may be issued to a person who claims citizenship by birth abroad to two natural born United States citizen parents, by birth abroad to a natural born United States citizen parent and an alien parent, or by birth abroad to naturalized United States citizen parents.

The certificate is obtained by application with the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service. The application is properly made on Form N-600, "Application for Certificate of Citizenship." This form is designed for only natural children of United States citizen parents and not for adopted children. It may be obtained from the Immigration and Naturalization Service; for the Fort Benning area it also may be obtained at the USAIC Legal Assistance Office, located in Building 2610.

The application must be answered completely. Any questions which do not apply should be answered with "N-A", i.e., not applicable.

Along with the application a fee of $10 must be included as well as three current passport-size photographs of the child. The $10 fee should be made by check or money order to "Immigration and Naturalization Service, Department of Justice." For eligible military personnel and their dependents, the photographs can be obtained on Wednesday afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m. at Building 468, Main Post Photo Lab.

There are certain documents which must be included with the application. For the child, these documents are:

1. Certificate of Birth (Department of State Form DS-1350.)

2. Report of Birth Abroad (Department of State Form FS-240). This is not a birth certificate but is the affidavit of the person furnishing the information. Nevertheless, this form is acceptable as evidence of United States citizenship when obtaining a passport for the child to enter the United States.

3. Army Hospital Birth Certificate, if the child was born in an Army Hospital.

4. Birth Certificate issued by foreign country.

For the parent, these documents are:

1. Birth Certificate, one for each parent who was born in the United States.

2. Marriage Certificate.

3. Divorce Decree. This should be included only where the child is of a second marriage.

4. Death Certificate. This should be included if at least one of the parents is deceased and was a citizen of the United States.

Send facsimile copies of your documents instead of the originals because you will not be able to get back your original documents once they have been sent. The copies do not have to be certified.

Documents in a foreign language must be accompanied by an English translation; however, if the foreign document is a short form and can easily be decyphered by one who does not read that foreign language, a translation is not necessary. The translation must contain a certification from the translator of his competency as a translator and the accuracy of his translation, and the translator's signature must be notarized. Certification of the translation may be obtained at the USAIC Legal Assistance Office.

After the application form has been filled out, it should be mailed, along with the $10 fee, three pictures and supporting documents, to the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service. For the Fort Benning area, the nearest service is:

United States Department of Justice
Immigration and Naturalization Service
1220 W. Peachtree St., N. E.
Atlanta, Ga. 30309

Once the application has been filled with the Immigration and Naturalization Service, it generally takes at least a month to be approved.

If there are any further questions concerning application for a Certificate of Citizenship, see a legal assistance officer.

Learn facts on use of aspirin

A 113-year-old pill holds the uncontested record as the world's most popular and useful drug.

That pill is aspirin, and, according to the American Medical Association, Americans swallow more than 16 billion of these little white tablets every year.

Since aspirin is such an important and common item, it is worth your time to learn a few facts about its use.

Here are some tips from the National Safety Council:

—Most family doctors think it's safe to take an aspirin or two to relieve headaches, cramps, or minor aches. But if the dosage has to be repeated several times a day for several days, the doctor should be called.

—Never take an aspirin to reduce fever without consulting your doctor. By doing so, you may be masking disease symptoms.

—Be sure to drink a full glass of water when you take aspirin, and don't swallow them on an empty stomach. Otherwise you may irritate your stomach.

—Don't take aspirin if you have a stomach ulcer. Aspirin's weak acid can irritate an ulcer.

—Since aspirin deteriorates in the bottle, do not buy more than a two-or three-month's supply. If the tablets in your aspirin bottle have a vinegary smell or crumble in your hands, throw them out.

—Aspirin's greatest danger is its familiarity. There are probably very few medicine cabinets that do not contain a bottle of aspirin. Make sure you keep it well out of reach of curious, cabinet-exploring young children. Aspirin in large doses can be fatal.

clever dedicated enemy — except with more skill, better weapons and more sophistication in our case" — prove the Army's battlefield success.

Gen. Kinnard told his audience that his experience with the 11th Air Assault Division tests at Fort Benning from 1963 to 1965 was the highlight of his Army career and made Columbus and Fort Benning the spot with the most pleasant references in his memory.

He said those airmobility tests convinced him of the concept of VOLAR because "men who are made to feel that they are doing something very important, vitally important, and who are given a piece of the action, a wide latitude to accomplish something where they can see some of their own ideas being accepted and worked with — these are men who can accomplish miracles."

Gen. Kinnard was presented a special AUSA-Infantry School plaque during an early dinner at the Main Post Officers Club. He then attended a membership reception at the supper club.

Participants in the NYC program are limited to 25 hours work per week, but youths in the other two programs may work as many as 40 hours per week.

Applications for NYC are still being accepted at the Lower Chattahoochee Valley Civic Action Agency office at 900 Linwood Blvd., Columbus. A deadline of July 1 has been set.

Chutes are tightened. Somehow the presence of a chaplain gives one the feeling of secure insecurity.

The plane is loaded and starts to move down the long runway. Visions of a World War II movie flash through the mind. The taxi is completed, power is increased, the noise is deafening, the plane is up.

Now the men are quieter, concentrating on the lessons they have learned on dozens of similar flights. The jumpmaster says he lost count long ago.

The DZ—militarese for drop zone, that nebulous spot on the ground where this part of the mission will end — is closer.

Activity speeds up. Men leap to their feet. The plane banks. Static lines are hooked up. Equipment is checked. The first man stands in the door and disappears into the night.

In a matter of seconds, more than a dozen men hurtle through the door down toward the "sandy-loam DZ covered with small brush and some tall pine trees," as the jumpmaster described the area in his briefing. The mystery is there. Even if you don't want to be hit by the propeller blast or feel the jerk of the chute or perform a perfect parachute landing fall, the mystery is there, along with a certain sense of respect. And though you have watched the scene, you know you won't understand it until you have participated.

The short flight back is anti-climatic. Your mind stays a thousand feet in the air, watching the bodies silhouetted against the quarter-moon shining through the door.

Concerned residents to collect waste

A group of ecology minded individuals called "CURE" (Congress of United Residents for Ecology) will sponsor an "Ecology Day" at Fort Benning on July 7.

"Cure" participants will collect paper, cans, bottles, cardboard, old batteries, brass and other material which are ordinarily wasted but can be recycled. Also participating will be Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and the Property Disposal Office.

A pre-"Ecology Day" has been planned for July 6 at Marshall Auditorium Infantry Hall. The program will include a film on environmental management and a panel discussion of environmental problems at Fort Benning and how these problems can be remedied. The panel will be composed of Fort Benning personnel and representatives of the Columbus community who are well versed in the field of ecology.

Requirements increased for WO flight course

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The Department of the Army has announced several changes in the requirements for the selection of enlisted volunteers for training as aviation warrant officers.

The new requirements, which go into effect on July 1, 1971, are:

—A minimum qualifying FAST-WOEC score of 200.

—A minimum civilian education of 60 semester hours of unduplicated college-level studies or the equivalent.

—A maximum age limit of 28.

—A class-one flying medical qualification.

The changes are the result of greatly reduced quota requirements for aviation warrant officers.

Independence events scheduled for July 3; tickets now on sale

Carnival events for Fort Benning's Independence Day celebration on July 3 will start with a bang. Immediately following a 50-gun salute to the Union with proper fanfare, fun and games for all will commence.

As in previous years, high among the feature events will be rides on the Airborne Towers (buddy-seat ride) and the skydiving exhibition.

Meanwhile ticket sales for the carnival are below those for the same time last year. Ticket sale project officers have been urged to complete their sales and turn in their funds to the Community Activities Association (CAA).

Profits from the carnival will support the many local activites of CAA ranging from Army Community Services to Youth Activities.

Community services include Welcome Center refreshments, volunteer expenses, emergency assistance, handicapped children programs, Gold Star Children's programs and the Waiting Wives program.

The youth Activites Branch of CAA considerably benefits from the profits supporting such programs as youth employment; day camp counselors, lifeguards, snackbar, driver education and scouting programs. Athletics, recreations and arts and crafts are also prime recipients.

Tickets for the carnival are on sale at the unit level and at the post's major facilities.

AUSA presidency changes hands

Joe Flowers (L), out-going president of the local chapter of the Association of the U. S. Army, presents the gavel to new president Jacob L. Riley at the chapter's annual membership meeting Monday. The members not only elected new officers at the meeting but also heard Lt. Gen. (ret.) Harry W. O. Kinnard speak about the increasing role of airmobility in the Army, including its use in Vietnam. For a story on the meeting and Gen. Kinnard's speech, see Page 1.

16 veterans to take part in 'Sunshine'

Sixteen wounded Vietnam veterans, eight of them presently convalescing at Martin Army Hospital, will leave Fort Benning June 17 for a fun and entertainment weekend in Miami, Fla. They will return June 21.

Veterans making the trip include: Sp4 James T. Hall, Sp4 Wille Veal, SGT Grover Rogers, SFC James Nelson, 1SG Otto Dillon, SSG Philip Sumerall, SP4 Richard Archer, SP4 Gary Leonard, patients at MAH; and Sp5 Ernest B. Novak, SP4 George McMillan, SP5 Dennis S. Howe, Sp4 Paul M. Freeman, SP4 William Kalser, SP4 Capiures Williams, Sp5 Kenneth LeTellier, and Sp4 Neal McMillan, members of the 197th Infantry Brigade.

ACS Welcome Center provides 24-hour service to new arrivals

With approximately 1,400 military personnel and their dependents coming to Fort Benning each week, it's not too difficult to feel lost during the shuffle of in-processing. However, Army Community Service (ACS) has recently established a Welcome Center here to provide hospitality and service to these new arrivals that will alleviate much of the confusion that previously attended entry to a new post.

"The Center," according to Maj. Donald Myles, chief of ACS, "provides information, reception, welcome, family registration, orientation and emergency assistance on a 24-hour basis to all new arrivals at Fort Benning."

Located in rooms 109-116, section D, Bldg. 83, the Center, a modern Volunteer Army, (VOLAR) project, incorporates some unique features not previously available to the newcomer. For instance, family registration is an attempt to anticipate the problems these new additions to the post's population may encounter.

"We're trying to identify the needs that are peculiar to the military family, such as the adjustment of a foreign-born wife to a new environment," observed Myles. "By identifying these problems at the outset we can immediately begin to assist our people and perhaps develop new services to deal with their special needs."

Also new is the use of audio-visual equipment in the orientation phase of the Welcome Center.

During the family's reception there will be a continuous "theater-rama" showing of services and facilities at Fort Benning. In addition, a two-phase program is presented twice daily, at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. This includes a 20-minute, detailed, sound and slide demonstration detailing the post's facilities and 25-minute lecture and discussion on military life and the resources the Army has available to assist in the adjustment to Fort Benning.

The Center also distributes a Welcome Packet containing maps of the post and the Columbus area, a DA Personal Affairs pamphlet, and directories of post facilities and telephone listings. A "bus tour of the main post — conducted by an ACS guide — is scheduled once a week.

A staff of 15 military personnel and 40 volunteers from ACS and the Red Cross man the Center on a 24-hour basis, seven days a week, ready to respond to any call or problem at any time.

"This reflects command's desire and wish to provide 24-hour responsibility for the soldier," stated Myles.

"We're trying to help the individual get plugged into Fort Benning," continued the ACS Chief. "Not only do we advise them of the services available, but we're also trying to provide active assistance. We'll call ahead and pave the way to make things as easy as possible for them."

To create this sense of community, the Center has been designed to provide a relaxed and comfortable atmosphere for in-processing. The air conditioned reception area has a TV lounge, play area for children, refreshments, and a concerned staff that is happy to spend the time to help the new arrival with any problem.

Incorporated into the Welcome Center is a "loan closet" distributing household items such as chinaware, cutlery, irons, cookware, baby cribs and essential bedding. These items are loaned to families awaiting the arrival of their belongings.

Post museum drive nets $80,040

Final computations show that Fort Benning soldiers and civilian employes donated $80,040 during the post-wide Infantry Museum campaign held Jan. 18 through April 1.

"The drive was an overwhelming success," according to Col. Robert P. Hatcher Jr., post assistant commander and campaign chairman. "I'm very pleased with the results." The Fort Benning campaign was one phase of a nationwide development program to build a $6 million Infantry Museum here.

The colonel attributed the fund drive's success to three unique characteristics of the campaign:

"The peer solicitation system worked very well," he said. "I want to emphasize that there was no command or chain-of-command influence associated with the project. The only records kept were financial records by individuals, and even I haven't seen those."

Other factors which figured in the success of the drive, Hatcher said, were that it was a one-time-only solicitation, and that the project could be paid over a 12-month period using either credit cards or the development program's own billing system.

"About one-third of the donations were made using one of the pledge systems, and time has shown that better than 95 per cent of the people who contributed in that manner are honoring their pledges," Hatcher said.

"I think we've proved that we at Fort Benning are squarely behind the museum project," he added. "I want to commend everyone who worked on the campaign for the fine job they did."

MVA partition project nears last major phase

One of the last major steps in the Modern Volunteer Army (VOLAR) partitions project on Fort Benning is now taking place at the 43rd Engineer Battalion.

The first truckloads of doors for the individual rooms began arriving June 10. Some 3,000 doors are scheduled to arrive by the end of July.

According to 1Lt. Robert E. Tillman, assistant S-3 of the battalion, "Approximately 400 doors a week are being unloaded at the present time and as soon as the hardware arrives to hang the doors, they will be installed."

Companies B, C, and D of the 43rd are currently working on partitions on Main Post, Kelly Hill and the Harmony Church area.

When construction is completed, some 4,000 men will be living in permanently partitioned rooms.

All the partitions currently being erected are of permanent design with wooden framed gypsum boards that extend from floor to ceiling.

The rooms will be painted on a Troop Self-Help basis, with the 43rd Engr. Bn. supplying materials.

Posthumous medals

The awards and decorations earned by SSgt. Louis Payne Sr. are presented to his widow Mrs. Frances V. Payne by Col. Robert P. Hatcher, assistant post commander. At a recent ceremony at Fort Benning, Sgt. Payne posthumously received the Bronze Star Medal and the Purple Heart. Prior to his death in Vietnam SSgt. Payne was awarded the Good Conduct Medal (two loops), the National Defense Service Medal, Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Medal and the expert badge with automatic rifle bar. Also present at the ceremony were SSgt. Payne's step-son Sp4 Richard Magruder, Mrs. Benjamin Purcell and the Rev. Ronald Culpepper.

Sp5 reenlists for 6; gets $10,000 bonus

Sp5 Ross W. Anderson Jr. of Co. D, 197 Sup. Bn., is now richer by $10,000 dollars after having reenlisted in the Army for another six years.

Ross reported to Fort Benning April 23 after having served with the 146 Aviation Company in Vietnam.

Anderson's plans for the future are to attend a service school for training as an electronic maintenance supervisor. He presently holds a Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) for avionics mechanics.

The officiating officer at the reenlistment ceremony was Capt. Joseph F. Rex Jr. who is the Fort Benning reenlistment officer.

The specialist and his wife Judy plan to buy a new car with part of bonus and place the rest in the bank for future needs.

Pennsylvanian tops track class

David A. Sweet has been selected as the distinguished honor graduate of the Track Vehicle Mechanics Course here.

The Pennsylvania State University graduate competed with 59 other men in the seven-week course which taught maintenance of the Army's armored vehicles.

He currently is assigned to Hq. and Co. A, 728th Maint. Bn., National Guard, Locke Haven, Pa.

Munitions can be anywhere

Child's playtime could be explosive

By Ian B. Cordner

Now that schools are out for the summer, your children will have more time to play. If this playtime is to be safe for your children there are a few things you should know and explain to them.

Fort Benning has been a military installation since 1918 and over the years there have been thousands of different munitions shot, fired, placed and tested here. While walking over the impact areas of Fort Benning one might find anything from a blasting cap to a 750-pound bomb. It goes without saying that children should be warned to stay out of the impact areas and ranges.

However, not all the dud munitions are inside the marked impact areas. They can be found anywhere. Even in the housing area where you live. In fact, your quarters may be built on what was once an impact area.

The Explosive Ordnance Detachment has records of many explosive items and munitions being found in the housing areas of Fort Benning. The most recent finding was when a small boy found a hand grenade in a ditch behind his quarters on Derrickson Street on main post. The boy notified his parents and they notified the military police. The grenade was not explosive filled. It was a practice grenade, but it could have just as well been the live thing.

There is no way of telling unless you have special training. Remember, live explosive items and munitions can be and are found everywhere on Fort Benning.

Parents should instruct their children that if they find what they think is an explosive item or munition of some kind, they should not touch it under any circumstances. Many of the munitions that could be found are in an advanced state of deterioration making them 10 times as hazardous and sensitive as a new munition would be.

Sometimes the slightest jar or disturbance will release a striker or firing pin causing detonation of the munition. Tell your children that if they should find such an item they should notify their parents or the nearest adult immediately. The parents then should notify the military police of the exact location of the item and, if know, the type of munition.

Then the adult should return to the location of the item to guide the bomb disposal personnel.

Sgts. Maj., NCO wives attend monthly meetings

The Sergeants Major Wives held their monthly coffee, June 2 at the Top 5 Supper Club.

Mrs. Lawrence Kennedy, who is visiting Fort Benning, was the special guest. Her husband, CSM Lawrence Kennedy, is currently with the Combat Development Command, Ft. Belvoir, Va. He is a former Infantry School command sergeant major.

Mrs. J. F. LaVoie served as spokesman for the group, due to the absence of Mrs. Charles Fletcher.

Wives were greeted by the hostesses, Mrs. Robert Nichols, Mrs. Loyd Daniels and Mrs. John Whitley. Homemade pastries were served and the group made plans for a breakfast in the near future.

Wives of all Sergeants Major, active, overseas or retired are invited to join the group the first Wednesday in each month. The next meeting is scheduled for 9:30 a.m., July 7, at the Top 5 Club.

NCO Wives Meet

The business meeting of the Noncommissioned Officer's Wives' Club was held June 9, at the Top 5 Supper Club.

The meeting was called to order by the new president, Mrs. Henry Guilbeault at 1 p.m., and the new officers and committee chairmen were introduced.

Goodwill and various other welfare projects were the main topics for discussion. Members voted to continue the goodwill project of providing bakery goods for servicemen of the Main Post Service Club for another year.

During the meeting a schedule of activities for the coming year was distributed.

Information on joining the NCO Wives' Club may be obtained by calling the membership chairman, Mrs. Wallace Colson, 689-3869.

New members attending the meeting were Mrs. Walter Browning and Mrs. Authur Gaskins.

Members and guests are reminded to make their reservations for the breakfast to be held Wednesday at 9:30 a.m., at the Sand Hill NCO Club.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald, 544-1348, Mrs. Rex Smith, 544-2197, or Mrs. Charles Lee, 544-3863. The deadline for making reservations is noon, June 21.

The breakfast will be free to members. Guests, with reservations, will be charged 75 cents.

Wives important to VOLAR: Col. Kennedy

Colonel Edwin L. Kennedy spoke to the Fort Benning NCO Wives' Club on the VOLAR program Wednesday afternoon. Col. Kennedy, chief of the VOLAR Control Group, stated that Fort Benning is testing programs intended to enhance professionalism, and improve discipline, while removing irritants and increasing service attractiveness and public esteem for the Army at the same time.

The colonel emphasized the fact that the VOLAR program recognizes the importance of the Army wife's contribution toward the success of her husband's military career and to the overall Army effort. "Many actions have been and will be implemented with her in mind."

While VOLAR is striving to improve all of the services and facilities available to active duty personnel and their dependents, priority of effort must be given to those programs that will increase the retention rate of trained personnel and induce more young men and women to select the Army as a career he continued. "Such VOLAR programs as expanded dependent dental care, extended PX and Commissary hours, improve PX facilities such as the new Fabric and Kiddie Shop and the improved services at Martin Army Hospital benefit all members of the post community."

Col. Kennedy said he is encouraged by the program's reception at Fort Benning and is hopeful that the completed program here will provide a meaningful step toward building a better Army.

Mrs. Charles Fletcher, wife of Fort Benning's command sergeant major, was the guest of honor.

A silver tray was presented to Mrs. Fletcher in appreciation for her services to the wives club. CSM and Mrs. Fletcher are leaving post for assignment in Orlando, Fla.

Hostesses for the luncheon, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Oscar Rubio and Mrs. John Dyer.

Tropical theme insures success of party

One way to insure the success of your next party is to give it an interesting theme that is dramatized in the decor as well as the refreshments. Here are some ideas for adding a tropical touch that will appeal to both youngsters and oldsters.

Create an island paradise with palm leaves, flowers and fruits. Accent the setting with fishnet, seashells, straw mats to sit on and hats for your guests and drape a lei around each guest's neck.

Refreshments might have a Polynesian flair — glazed spareribs, egg rolls, fresh pineapple and coconut meat. And here's a recipe for an ice cream soda punch that ties in perfectly with the setting and the food:

YOUNG ISLANDERS' PUNCH

1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened
2 bottles (28 oz.) black raspberry soda, chilled
1 bottle banana daiquiri mix

Combine all ingredients in a punch bowl; stir lightly. Ladle into tall glasses. Makes about 12 servings.

Pointers' Hop

Modern June brides forsake crumy custom

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The old-fashioned bride probably hated the old-fashioned wedding cake.

By custom, it was smashed over her head.

This romantic tradition was observed with the best of intentions, though perhaps dazing a bride's appreciation for ritual.

Eventually smashing gave way to merely eating the wedding cake as it grew into today's tierupon-tier architectural triumphs, reportedly sometimes too heavy for anything but small bites, let alone lifting.

The sugary frosting plastering the modern wedding cake covers a lively past that goes back to the days of ancient Rome, the National Georgraphic Society says.

At first wedding cake was part of the nuptials only of upper class Romans. It was served in a ceremony known as confarreatio, or eating together.

The cake was plain soemlike unleavened bread made of flour, salt, and water. The bride and groom shared eating it, supposedly assuring them a life of plenty in both happiness and children.

What was left of the cake was then broken over the bride's head — history is silent on whether this was the new husband's right — and wedding guests scrambled for pieces of the cake.

Just as at today's wedding receptions, these morsels were prized by the Roman guests not only as a snack, but as a souvenir of luck to take home with them.

For any future children of the newly married couple, the breaking of bread could be critically important. Unless their parents' marriage had been solemnized in this way before at least ten witnesses, the children could never grow up to become high Roman officials.

Baking marriage bread, or just throwing grains of wheat — rice in the Orient — at the newlyweds, has long symbololized fertility as a part of weddings around the world.

Among some American Indians, the bride was supposed to bake her unleavened wedding bread herself and then present it to her brave.

At early Anglo-Saxon weddings, guests were provided a huge basket of small, hard biscuits for eating and as ammunition for the bride's head. Leftovers then were distributed among the poor.

Later, guests took to bringing their own cakes to weddings, usually spiced buns, which were stacked into an enormous pile.

OWC schedules 3 art programs

The Officer's Wives Club has announced plans for a summer art program for children, adults and teenagers.

The following classes are now open for registration:

Children's art classes are for kindergarten through third grades. This is a six-week class held on Mondays from 10 to 11:30 a.m. The class begins July 12 and runs through Aug. 16. The cost of the class is $15 including materials.

Art classes for fourth through sixth graders will begin July 7 and continue through Aug. 11. This class will be held on Wednesdays from 10 through 11:30. The cost will be $15 including materials.

The teen-age arts and crafts program specializing in tie and dye, weaving, batik, macrame, sculpture and design will be held from 10 a.m. until noon on Thursday beginning July 8 and lasting until Aug. 12. The cost of this class will be $20 including materials.

A beginning class in oil painting for teen-agers will be held from 10 a.m. to noon on Tuesdays beginning July 6 through Aug. 10. The cost of this class will be $16 not including materials.

The beginning adult oil painting class will be held from July 9 through Aug. 10. This class will meet on Fridays from 10 a.m. until noon. The cost will be $16 not including materials.

Class size will be limited so all interested persons should register now by calling Mrs. Martin Glaser, 689-3560 or Mrs. Norman Abolsky, 687-3835.

Drop donuts

For an ideal snack to serve at informal gatherings, add "old fashioned" flavor to old fashioned drop doughnuts. Combine 2 cups of biscuit mix, 2 tablespoons of sugar, 1 egg and ¼ cup of old fashioned mix. Mix until smooth, then drop the dough by teaspoonfuls into hot oil (375 degrees F.) and fry until golden brown. Drain and roll in cinnamon sugar.

As an extra treat, create an hor's d'oeuvre tree by studding a styrofoam cone with savory nibbles on colored picks.

MEDDAC wives hold June coffee

The MEDDAC Officer's Wives' Club held a coffee on the patio of the Supper Club, June 11.

Hostesses for the affair were members of the Executive Board.

A new member, Mrs. Robert Melmoth, and two and Mrs. Herbert See, were introduced to the group.

Some common sense precautions for waiting wives

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — There are more family assistance programs among the uniformed services today than ever before to help the "dependents" become independent. But, there is also a nagging worry as both absent servicemen and their waiting wives read the headlines about the rising crime rate.

Without undue alarm, military families should make themselves familiar with common sense precautions for family safety when duty calls. The following tips were gathered from information provided by the Norfolk, Va. police department:

Use bolt type locks on outside doors and attach one to both the bottom and the top of each door, not in the middle. Chain locks and ordinary door locks have proven ineffective in preventing criminals from entering a home.

Keep windows in secluded areas of the house (i.e. in the back, those protected by foliage) locked at night.

When moving into a home which was previously occupied, change the locks. You'll have a great deal more peace of mind knowing that no one else has a key to your house.

If you have a house caller, DO NOT OPEN THE DOOR unless you are positive of the person's identity. Should the caller be a motorist with a disabled vehicle or someone else in need of assistance obtain the number the person wants to call and YOU call it. If it's a delivery man, have him leave the parcel on the doorsteps and do not open the door until after he has left the property.

More and more women are becoming part of the criminal element, therefore take the same precautions with a woman house caller as you would with a man.

Don't under any circumstances, volunteer information to an unknown telephone caller. Often criminals use this as a means of finding out whether someone is alone and if so, for how long they will be alone. Always leave this type of caller with the impression that someone is with you. Chances are good that you will not be bothered further.

Should you receive an obseene phone call HANG UP at once. If the caller persists, contact the police and the phone company. Have your number changed if these calls continue.

If you see someone leering through a window, make every attempt to act as natural as possible. Walk to the nearest room that has a phone in it and contact the police. Turn on the lights and remain inside the house until help arrives.

Try to avoid going into an unlighted backyard alone at night. If you have a chore to do in the backyard, wait until daylight. If you have a clothes line in the backyard, police recommend that you hang some of your husband's clothing on it to indicate the presence of a man in the houses.

Never tell anyone what valuables you have in the house. In fact, it's a good policy not to keep large sums of money around.

Having a dog in the house can be instrumental in deterring a would-be intruder.

Keeping guns in the home for protection is not recommended by most law enforcement officials. Few persons, especially women, are adept in the use of guns and their presence in the home can be extremely dangerous if there are children around.

There are many inexpensive home burglar alarm systems on the market. However, before you purchase one, query the local police as to its effectiveness. This could save you time and money.

When Out Alone

Before leaving your home lock all doors and windows.

Do not place a house key in a mailbox or under the doormat — that's probably the first two places a burglar would look for one.

Prior to driving off in your car make sure that the doors are locked and the windows are rolled up high enough so that someone could not put a hand and arm through any of them. Each year thousands of motorists are victimized by criminal who jump into their cars while they are stopped for one reason or another.

NEVER pick up hitchhikers. This has become such a problem that many states now make it a criminal offense for a motorist to do this.

If you see a disabled car along the highway, DO NOT STOP. Continue on to the next well-lighted area (if at night) or service station and notify the police.

If your car becomes disabled at night on the road, use the national distress signal. This consists of tying a white handkerchief to the left door handle or raising the hood. Should someone stop, lower your window just a fraction of an inch and tell him you need assistance. DON'T LET HIM INTO THE CAR.

Whenever a person tries to enter your car while you are in it, sound the horn to attract attention or until the person leaves.

It's always a good idea to look into both the front and back seat area of your car before getting in. Should there be an intruder inside you will be able to run for help.

Be extremely wary of the stranger in a restaurant, theater or cocktail lounge. Don't give your name to anyone in these surroundings. Keep your life history to yourself. Along with this, never accept a ride home from a stranger.

Although it is not recommended, it's sometimes inevitable that you will have to walk alone at night in an unlighted, secluded area. Be prepared: carry a flashlight and walk away from shrubbery and doorways. If there is a sidewalk, use that portion closest to the street.

When shopping and paying for your merchandise, never expose large sums of money. You never know when a criminal is lurking nearby watching for this to happen. If you have just cashed your allotment check, remove that amount of money you think you will need to shop and hide the rest in a compartment of your handbag. Better still, put the remainder in the bank.

Good common sense, remaining calm and staying alert will protect you more than anything else.

Enticing edible flowers

Brown-eyed or blue-eyed, your family will be green-eyed with envy if they miss savoring these buttery "petalled cookies".

Cookies are a runaway favorite with any crowd, and the golden Brown-Eyed Susies will prove this point in a twinkling. Each delicate blossom, made by rolling up notched strips of tinted, almond-flavored dough, has been endowed with a wooden "stem," available at art supply stores, for novel service. A chocolate morsel winks back at you from the center of each flower.

BROWN EYED SUSIES

Makes about 5 dozen cookies

1 cup sugar
1 cup butter
1 egg
1 teaspoon almond extract
¼ teaspoon yellow food coloring
3¼ cups enriched self-rising flour
Semi-sweet chocolate chips
Wooden sticks

Cream sugar and butter until light and fluffy. Blend in egg, almond extract and food coloring. Stir flour gradually into creamed mixture. Turn onto lightly floured surface and gently knead into large ball. Divide into 4 portions. Refrigerate if necessary for easier handling. Roll each portion to a 6-x 12-inch rectangle. Cut into ¾ x 6-inch strips. Cut slits into each strip at ½ inch intervals, making slits three-quarters of the way to the opposite side. Roll each strip up jelly roll fashion. Place on ungreased baking sheet, slit side up. Insert stick and turn cut ends down slightly to form flower "petals." Center a chocolate chip in each cookie. Bake in preheated 375 F. over 8 to 10 minutes, or until done, but not browned. Cool slightly before removing from baking sheet.

Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

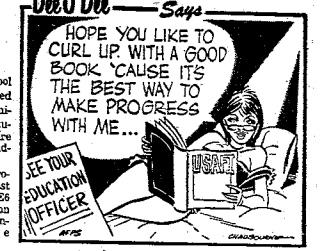
Army to determine cutoff scores under new E5 promotion system

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The Army has extended the E6 semi-centralized promotion system to grade E5.

A local position vacancy will no longer be a consideration in the promotion process to grade E5.

Under the new policy, effective June 1, 1971, eligible E4 personnel will be competing for promotion by three-digit MOS on a worldwide basis. Beginning in August, promotion to grade E5 will be based on Department of the Army (DA) announced promotion point cutoff scores by three-digit MOS.



For the month of June only, all individuals who attained local recommended-list status to grade E5 as of May 31 will be promoted without regard to quotas or local position vacancies provided their total point score meets or exceeds 525. There will be no promotions to grade E5 in July to assist in the transition to the new system.

The new system retains the perogative of the local commander to recommend for promotion and to provide appropriate competition through local selection-board action. However, cutoff scores by three-digit MOS are determined on an Army-wide basis at DA level, based on the projected needs in that particular MOS and the qualitative standing of recommended eligible E4s

Promotion consideration to grade E5 without regard to time in grade and time in service will continue while assigned to a hostile fire area.

Individuals who commence certain service school courses after June 14 may be promoted to grade E5 by the school commandant concerned only if they are academically the number one student in their class and are an E4 at the time of graduation.

In essence, the new procedure is similar in most respects to the current E6 semi-centralized promotion system. Details are contained in DA Message 281805Z May 71.

Under CHAMPUS

Dental care extended expectant mothers

DENVER — Expectant mothers eligible for CHAMPUS may be able to obtain dental care that would not ordinarily be available to them through the program at other times.

Officials of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) point out that dental care is authorized if recommended by the obstetrician as necessary to protect the health of the expectant mother and unborn child.

Dental care in cases of pregnancy is available because CHAMPUS authorizes care required as a necessary adjunct to a medical or surgical condition other than dental. Under this provision, care is authorized when in the judgment of the attending physician and dentist it is expected to exert a beneficial effect on the primary medical or surgical condition.

Expectant mothers can receive authorized care from civilian dentists, CHAMPUS officials noted, even if the rest of the maternity care is being rendered in uniformed service facilities by uniformed service physicians. The kind of adjunctive dental care authorized under CHAMPUS is not ordinarily available to dependents in uniformed services facilities.

As an additional bonus for dependents of active duty personnel, CHAMPUS officials point out, dental care related to pregnancy will be paid under the more advantageous inpatient cost-sharing basis since all maternity care, except drugs obtained at civilian pharmacies, is paid as inpatient care.

In addition to adjunctive care, other dental services authorized under CHAMPUS include the removal of pulp and restoration of teeth in the case of wounds, fractures, lacerations and dislocations. Through the Program for the Handicapped dependents of active duty person to treat severe malocclusion.

3,000 mark anniversary of 931st Gp. with picnic

More than 3,000 soldiers, dependents and guests helped the 931st Engineer Group celebrate its 28th birthday in Organization Day ceremonies held June 11 at Engineer Park on Sand Hill.

The day began with a formal guard mount performance by HHC, 931st Engr. Gp., and the 282rd Army Band.

In an awards ceremony that followed, 10 Bronze Star Medals were presened by group commander Col. Robert J. Standley and group sergeant major CSM Joseph Chkeikini.

After a short speech by Col. Standley noting the high points of his tour as unit commander, the picnic and games began and continued for the rest of the day. Free hamburgers, hot dogs, and liquid refreshments were provided as food service personnel worked hard to keep up with the demand.

Highlighting the day were a tug-of-war and a pillow fight. The 43rd Engineer Battalion defeated the 67th Maintenance Battalion in the tug-of-war and Ronell Blount of the 586th Engineer Company was victorious in the pillow fight.

An egg throw, jeep rides for the kids, and a frying pan throw for the ladies also added to the fun that was enjoyed by those present.

The 931st Engr. Gp. was formed in 1943 and fought in the New Guinea and Luzon campaigns, for which it won the Phillipine Presidential Unit Citation. In Korea it fought in seven campaigns and was transferred to Fort Benning from Ft. Campbell, Ky., in 1967.

At the present time the 931st has a strength of more than 2,000 men and it includes the 43rd Engr. Bn., the 67th Maint. Bn., the 139th, 988th, and 209th M.P. Cos., 524th Pers. Svc. Co., 586th Engr. Co., 15th Fin. Sec., 13th PID, and 18th and 24th Repl. Det.

Board tests sight for new grenade launcher

By Anthony Morrell

Although the M203 Grenade Launcher is relatively new, the Army is studying ways to improve the sight system of the weapon.

The U.S. Army Infantry Board at Fort Benning currently is testing a new sight system for the M203 Grenade Launcher in its continuing effort to provide the American Infantry soldier with the finest in modern equipment.

The standard sight system for the weapon is actually two separate sight devices. It consists of quadrant and a battle sight. The quadrant sight is located on the left side of the carrying handle of the M16A1 rifle and is used to engage targets from 50 to 400 meters. The battle sight located on the top forward portion of the upper hand guard is used to engage targets of opportunity at range from 50 to 250 meters.

The new sight system, the Folded Leaf Sight System, combines features of both battle and quadrant sights. The new sight system is located in the same area as the old battle sight. It is a single leaf unit with the left edge of the sight serving in the capacity of the old quadrant sight.

One expected advantage of the new sight, says Capt. Joseph Jones of the test division of the Board, is easier operation. When the soldier uses the test sight less manipulation is required to engage targets at varying ranges. The soldier simply estimates the range of the target and then selects the corresponding range notch desired. He then aligns this notch with the appropriate sight post and the target.

The projected cost of production for the new sight system is lower than the sight system now in use.

Testing began on June 14 and will continue through August of this year. If found to be acceptable, the Folded Leaf Sight System may replace the standard sight system.

2 Texans top NCOC graduates

Sgt. Stanley P. Hutson, Odessa, Tex., was the distinguished and academic graduate and Sgt. James A. Glueck, Cat Spring, Tex., was the leadership graduate of the Noncommissioned Officer Candidate Course Class 7-71, which graduated June 8 in Marshall Auditorium, Infantry hall.

1st Sgt. Donald C. Ridenhour, of 16th Co., 1st Bn. TSB, delivered the commencement address to the 172 graduates.

For their achievement Hutson and Glueck each received a letter of commendation signed by Brig. Gen. John T. Carley, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, an engraved "Follow Me" plaque, an engraved "Follow Me" statuette, and an engraved Association of the United States Army (AUSA) plaque.

Hutson will stay with the 84th Co. as a tactical NCO and Glueck will report to Ft. Hood, Tex.

Missile meanings

The Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) has an approximate range of 6,500 miles while the Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile (IRBM) can travel between 200 and 1,500 miles.

Voice of VOLAR

● A survey of soldier attitudes toward Columbus was conducted recently on behalf of the local Chamber of Commerce. The chamber requested the study to determine what the town can do to assist Fort Benning in its Modern Volunteer Army test.

● Fort Benning's VOLAR program was scrutinized last week by George Wilson of The Washington Post. His interviews will be used to write part of a series about the Army.

Soldier dads, sons to mark holiday

Father's Day traditionally is a day to be home with "dad." Here at Fort Benning, however, few servicemen will have the chance to spend the day with their fathers or sons.

Happily though, exceptions to the rule are commonplace today and whether through luck or fate, some fathers and sons have been stationed here together.

Such is the case with MSgt. Ralph Pue and his son, Capt. Ralph Pue Jr., who are stationed in The School Brigade. The senior Pue works in company operations in the 10th Co., 1st Bn., TSB, and his son works in Operations of HHC, TSB.

MSgt. Roosevelt Ruggs and his son, Sgt. Roosevelt Ruggs, will have a chance to spend some time together on father's day because of their corresponding assignments. MSgt. Ruggs is the NCOIC attached to Hq. Co. 1st Bn., 29th Inf., 197th Inf. Bde., Motor Pool. Sgt. Ruggs is a squad leader with Co. C, 1st Bn., 58th Inf., 197th Inf. Bde.

They have been stationed together since the younger Ruggs returned from Vietnam several months ago. Following in the footsteps of his father, Sgt. Ruggs recently reenlisted for six more years in the Army.

Army students give to POWs

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (ANF) — Students at the U. S. Army Command and General Staff College have contributed $6,393 to the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia.

The drive to help American prisoners of war was led by Lt. Col. Robert Machen, who said that although the drive was unofficial he hoped students at other service schools would conduct similar drives.

Gen. Connor to speak here

The Fort Benning Officer's Open Mess Supper Club will be the site for the Armed Forces Management Association's next meeting at noon June 24. Lt. Gen. A. O. Connor, 3rd Army commander, will be the guest speaker.

The newly elected slate of officers will be installed at this meeting. They are Col. Robert Lathrop, president; Ronald Companion, 1st vice president; Mrs. Marcia D. Wolfe, 2nd vice president; Sidney P. Watson, treasurer; and Mrs. Thelma Malinski, secretary.

12 Fort Benning workers help Army save $19,189

In an Incentive Awards Presentation Ceremony Wednesday in Infantry Hall, 12 Fort Benning workers whose work improvement suggestions are expected to save the Army a total of $19,189 annually in man-hours and materials, were recognized.

Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbot, post commander, presented the awards.

Charles F. Hancock Jr., maintenance division, Directorate of Industrial Operations, was awarded $620 for suggesting an improvement on the Tow Missile System XM-70 training procedures which saves the Army $4,142 annually in man-hours and materials.

SFC Gerald E. Osborne, Martin Army Hospital, was presented an award of $150 for a suggestion simplifying the routine of getting supplies to the kitchen — annual saving, $1,935 in man-hours.

Mrs. Jimmie M. Schafer, Directorate of Plans and Training was awarded $150 for an adopted suggestion that proposed including equipment maintenance in the Instructor Training Course to reduce the numerous maintenance calls from classrooms and prevent instruction delays — annual saving, $2,000 in man-hours.

Raymond L. Gammell, Directorate of Facilities Engineering, was presented $135 for a suggestion which proposed that bearings for repair of machinery be bought locally at a reduced price from that paid to the manufacturer —annual saving in materials, $1,606

Joseph Williams, transportation division, Directorate of Industrial Operations, was presented an award of $135 for a suggestion which proposes a new use for an already stocked item, saving the downtime of vehicles waiting for a replacment for a broken or wornout part—annual savings of $1,647.

Woodrow W. Enfinger, Directorate of Facilities Engineering, was awarded $115 for a suggestion which proposes that the air conditioning timing device be used to operate this machinery one minute out of every 12 which saves fuel consumption by 50 per cent—annual savings in man-hours and materials, $1,239.

Mrs. Patricia C. McCarrick, services division, Directorate of Industrial Operations was presented an award of $115 for her suggestion which will insure error-free correspondence and increased administrative productivity—annual savings, $1,200 in man-hours.

Mrs. Faye H. Hinson, Martin Army Hospital, received $110 for her suggestion improving a work schedule in the Food Service Division—annual savings, $1,184 in man hours.

Edmund D. Rowe, finance and accounting division, Office of the comptroller, was presented an award of $105 for his suggestion which introduces a new procedure to improve the processing of engineer labor cost distribution—annual savings, $1,080 in man-hours.

Frank E. Slinker, Directorate of Facilities Engineering, was awarded $150 for a suggestion that proposed including equipment maintenance in the Instructor Training course to reduce the maintenance calls from classrooms and prevent instruction delays — annual saving, $2,000 in man-hours.

A. Wentworth Bethea, transportation division, Directorate of Industrial Operations, received $115 for a suggestion that put the computerized work unit accounting system to work on additional jobs to avoid compilation of repetitive data—annual savings of $1,237 in man-hours.

McKenzie project

Men of the 43rd Engr. Bn., 931st Engr. Gp., pour concrete for a bridge and dam the engineers are rebuilding at the McKenzie Boy Scout Camp near Columbus. The engineers are rebuilding the structures as their part of a joint-community action project. The engineers hope to have the work complete for the start of scouting season scheduled later this month.

School grad named

A 1956 graduate of the Allied Associate Infantry Company Officers Course, Maj. Thai Ta Van, has been assigned to Fort Benning as the Republic of Vietnam liaison officer.

"People from various departments always show an eagerness and willingness to help me in any way they can, Thai said of his new assignment.

"The Infantry School holds prestige as an international Infantry training center, he said. The progress in training facilities, data processing equipment, and training media makes Fort Benning a "very, very sophisticated school".

Improvement in the life of an Allied student is one of the major changes Thai has noticed since his last stay at Fort Benning in 1956. "This is an extremely important moral factor to allied students away from their families."

The job of liaison officer primarily requires providing aid and assistance to the RVN Army students, provides assistance during inprocessing, and outprocessing, and assists in solving any personal problems the students may encounter.

He maintains all records of medal orders and citations belonging to the 34 Vietnamese students in the Infantry School. The major also instructs electives in Vietnamese language courses and conducts evening language courses for post military dependents.

Although Thai does not find the Georgia climate favorable, he considers Americans a "warm, welcoming people." "They treat us fairly wherever we go," he stated.

Thai is a graduate of the Civil Affairs School at Ft. Gordon and the Counter Insurgency School at Ft. Bragg.

Upon completion of his assignment as liaison officer in May 1972, Thai plans to attend the advanced course at the Infantry School.

Army restates policy on sole surviving sons

WASHINGTON (ANF) — The Department of the Army, due to frequent inquiries, has restated its policy pertaining to sole surviving sons.

A sole surviving son is defined as the only remaining son in a family where, because of hazards incident to military service, the father or one or more sons or daughters have been killed; died as a result of wounds, accident or disease; are in a captured or missing-in-action status; or are permanently 100 per cent disabled.

Individuals who meet the above requirements are exempt from service in a combat zone upon their request or request of one of their parents. A soldier may waive an exemption requested by a parent if he so desires.

Additional details are in AR 614-75.

Soldiers evacuate victims

FT. WAINWRIGHT, Alaska (ANF) — Men and helicopters from the 236th Aviation Company, Ft. Wainwright, Alaska, helped citizens of communities in interior Alaska this spring during severe flooding of the Yukon River.

More than 80 persons from the villages of Aniak and Koyukuk were airlifted to safety by evacuation teams from the 236th.

Each spring residents along the Yukon are threatened by floods caused by ice jams in the river. An Army ice-jam demolition team from the 19th Aviation Battalion, 171st Infantry Brigade, Ft. Wainwright, also assisted in spotting potential flood-trouble areas and in evacuating flood victims.

Kosar, Benton top grads of Field Radio Class 12

Sp5 Martin W. Kosar, Hemet, Calif., was the distinguished honor graduate and Sp4 Joseph P. Benton, Santa Barbara, Calif., was the academic graduate of the Field Radio Mechanics course Class 12-71, 16th Co., 1st Bn., TSB, which graduated June 9 in Infantry Hall.

Lt. Col. Donald F. Hanson, deputy director, Company Operations Department, USAIS, delivered the commencement address to the 52 graduates.

The nine-week Field Radio Mechanics Course is designed to provide students with a working knowledge of organizational maintenance for radios and other electrical equipment. These radio repairmen are trained to determine the damage to field equipment and make the necessary repairs.

Benton and Kosar are in the National Guard and they will report to their hometown units for assignment.

Among the students of Class 12 were two men from the Congo and two men from Laos.

'Red Sky at Morning' tells of growing up

Hal B. Wallis has the firm position in the ever-changing motion picture industry of a producer whose signature alone on his works is an emblem of excellence and contemporaneity. His latest production, "Red Sky At Morning," showing at a local theater is another success for the producer whose films have won 35 Oscars out of 127 nominations.

A simple earthy account of a boy's emergence from his teens in a small New Mexico town in the traumatic days of 1944, based on a best-selling novel by Richard Bradford, its stars are categorized into age groups. As the young ones, there are Richard Thomas, Catherine Burns and Desi Arnaz Jr., while the adults are essayed by Richard Crenna, Claire Bloom, John Colicos, Harry Guardino, Strother Martin and Nehemiah Persoff. Richard Goldstone directed from a screenplay by Marguerite Roberts.

Thomas, a 19-year-old drama major at Columbia University, made his motion picture debut as the son of Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward three years ago in "Winning," which was also directed by Goldstone. He has since been seen in "Last Summer" where he co-starred with Miss Burns, who is his romantic interest in the current screen story. Miss Burns, incidentally, not only attained stardom in that picture, but was nominated for a best supporting actress Oscar as a result. She trained as an actress at Hunter College and the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, and won the coveted Clarence Derwent award as the best non-featured player of 1968 for her performance in Broadway's "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie."

The third starring member of the young ones, Arnaz Jr., makes his feature picture acting debut in "Red Sky At Morning." He is well known because his birth was incorporated into the story line of his parents' television, "I Love Lucy," though he, himself, never appeared in the show as an infant. His professional career began as a member of the "Dino, Desi and Billy" rock group, and he acquired his dramatic skills in appearances with his mother, Lucille Ball, as a regular on television's "The Lucy Show."

Crenna, who heads the starring list of the adults, has been acting since he was 11, first in radio and later in TV and theatrical films. Among his many credits are "Marooned," "Star," and "Sand Pebbles." Miss Bloom started on the English stage and made her film debut in Charles Chaplin's 1951 production, "Limelight." Her most recent appearances have been in "Charly" and "Three Into Two Won't Go."

The balance of the highly professional starring cast for the adults literally have hundreds of credits from theatrical films, television and the stage. They are identified as: Colicos, "Anne of the Thousand Days," Gardino, "Lovers and Other Strangers," Martin, "True Grit" and Persoff, "The Greatest Show on Earth."

A large portion of the film was photographed in Santa Fe, New Mexico, almost an exact locale for the town of Sagrado, described in the book.

Customs chief announces screening-inspection plan

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Commissioner of Customs Myles J. Ambrose has announced that new inspection procedures are being used this travel season for clearing persons entering the United States.

The new system, known as the Screening Inspection System (SIS), has been installed at Boston, New York, Chicago, Seattle, Honolulu, Los Angeles and Miami international airports where the Associated Inspection System (AIS) has been in effect for several years.

SIS operates on a "two-stop" configuration. The first stop is for processing by the Public Health Service and the Immigration and Naturalization Service. These two agencies will conduct combined inspection procedures relative to their requirements. The second stop is for the inspection of baggage. The Bureau of Customs and the Department of Agriculture will conduct the complete surveillance and inspection of all passengers' baggage.

In tests the SIS:

—Produced 2½ seizures for every one produced under the old inspection system.

—Increased duty collections on baggage declarations.

—Did not significantly increase the time required to process passengers.

Customs is consistently seeking to improve its performance.

Synopsis

PUZZLE OF A DOWNFALL CHILD (Rated R)—Faye Dunaway a top fashion model of the 1950s is on a secluded island with a man she was once in love with, Barry Primus. At the point of breakdown she relates her sad past to Primus who listens attentively and wants only to rebuild her spirit.

Unable to find love Faye becomes temperamental and finally alcoholic. She had been in a sanitarium and is back on the island trying to put the "puzzle" of her life back into place and separate fact from fantasy.

THE PHANTOM TOLLBOOTH (Rated G)—"The Phantom Tollbooth" concerns a bored little boy (Milo), Butch Patrick, who finds a nine-foot package in his room. The package when untied unfolds into a tollbooth complete with electric toy car and coins to enter as well as a road map for the trip through the kingdom of wisdom beyond.

The movie from the book by Norton Juster, is an animated-live action adventure that takes you on a trip to the unknown.

THE BAREFOOT EXECUTIVE (Rated G)—When programming director Joe Flynn and his assistant Wally Cox are unable to improve the third place rating of their television network president Harry Morgan makes a fact finding visit to the West Coast from New York. Morgan is approached by Kurt Russell, a network page who tries to convince the executive that he can predict ratings and could put the network on top. Russell has discovered that Raffles, a chimp, is able to pick the highest rated programs for any time slot. Backed by Raffles, Russell becomes programming chief and quickly rises to the top as TV's "Man of the Year."

HELLO, GOODBYE (Rated GP)—Michael Crawford, a car expert and connoisseur, waits outside gambling casinos on the Riviera to buy vintage cars from owners who have been refused credit. On his way to Paris he meets Genevieve Gilles, whose Rolls has broken down. They begin a love affair.

She tells him nothing about her self and later leaves him to go to Marseilles. Later he is summoned to Cannes by aristocratic Baron Curt Jurgens. He is shocked to learn that Gilles is Jurgens' wife. He gives as much loving attention to the barons stable of cars as he does to Gilles.

Car buffs will recognize famous-name cars such as Rolls Royce, Mercedes, Aston Martin, Bentley, Ferrari, Renault and Lamborghini. The vintage cars include a Deleahaye, Delege, Bugatti, Hispano Suiza, the unique Daimler Double Six, Minerva and Cord.

THE BEAST IN THE CELLAR (Rated R)—All seems quiet and peaceful in an English countryside hamlet where two spinster sisters, Joyce (Flora Robinson) and Ellie (Beryl Reid), live in a quaint country home. Suddenly the tranquility is interrupted by a series of horrible murders. The victims are always young soldiers from a nearby military camp.

When a coroner inspects some of the corpses he can only speculate that some wild animal is responsible for the brutal killings. It's soon revealed that the creature responsible for the deaths is a prisoner in the cellar of the two timid spinsters. Though he is walled up in the foundation of their home he has frequently escaped to wreak terror on the countryside.

THEY MIGHT BE GIANTS (Rated G)—George C. Scott, Academy Award winner for his portrayal of Patton and best actress Joanne Woodward combine their talents in this comedy-drama. Scott is seen in the role of Justin Playfair an ex-New York judge who believes he is Sherlock Holmes.

Justin's brother Blevins (Lester Rawlins) wants him committee to an asylum to get his hands on Justin's money. Joanne plays the role of Dr. Mildred Watson, a psychiatrist who takes a personal interest in Scott's case.

Puzzle Answer Page 18

Book helps you find inexpensive lodgings

There are places to stay on military installations for as little as 50 cents per night. The average cost is around $2. The catch to it is how to find out which installations have what.

To solve this problem, several military dependents have contacted military installations around the world requesting information on temporary lodging available for traveling military families. The answers have been tabulated and the result is a new guide book, "Temporary Military Lodging," published by Military Living, a local publication in the Washington, D. C. area.

The guide lists temporary accommodations on Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine and Coast Guard installations in CONUS and selected ones overseas. The new motel-type transient family housing now being built by the Army, Navy and Air Force are highlighted as well as guest house type accommodations. Particulars on types of temporary housing, eligibility, reservations information and contact points, rates, facilities, in-out process, occupancy limits and times are all included. Cost of the guide book is $1.25 post paid. Publication date is June 10.

For information or to order, write to Mrs. Ann Crawford, 1325 South Glebe Road, Arlington, Va., 22204. Scout groups and clubs can sell the new guide book and deduct commissions for their treasuries.

Computers help speed area Medicare claims

Medicare beneficiaries in Georgia can soon expect the average claim to be paid in about three weeks, said Robert E. O'Neal, Social Security manager in Columbus.

The Prudential Insurance Company took over the function of processing Medicare Part B bills in Georgia last year. The new carrier for Georgia has converted from a manual to a computerized system which provides for faster and more efficient processing of claims.

The installation of this computerized system made it possible to reduce the total number of pending claims by 47,000 from October 1970 to March 1971. A total of 87,000 was pending at the beginning of April.

Prudential expects their pending work to be reduced soon to 50,000 claims. During normal times Prudential expects to have 45,000 to 50,000 claims on hand. This would mean that the average claim should take about three weeks to be processed.

The current processing time is about seven weeks but some claims are taking longer. Many are being delayed when the Medicare claim number is incorrect or missing.

First patent

The first patent granted by the U. S. government went to Samuel Hopkins of Vermont in July 1790 for a new process of making fertilizer.

Speechless

Linda Harrison didn't say a word in her two movies about the Planet of the Apes. Words are unnecessary in some cases.

Discharge records follow you

WASHINGTON (ANF) — If you're planning actions which might result in a dishonorable discharge with the hope of having it reversed at a later date don't get your hopes up.

Army Discharge Review Board records show that only one out of every eight appeals for reversal of a dishonorable discharge is favorably considered. Last year just 219 of 1,674 appeals (about 13 per cent) were approved.

Look at the odds and you'll agree. The best bet is the honorable way out.

In mystery thriller

'Cat O'Nine' star plays blind man

"I've never been a blind man in a film before," says Oscar-winner, Karl Malden. "But in 'The Cat O'Nine Tails' where I play a blind professional puzzle solver who suddenly finds himself on the track of a murderer, I must say it was both difficult and frightening."

The movie co-stars Malden, James Franciscus and Catherine Spaak. It is directed by Dario Argento, who became known as the "Italian Hitchcock," after his first film, "The Bird With The Crystal Plumage" was a smash hit last year.

"I never thought it would be so difficult to act without being able to see what you were doing — or at least give the impression that you couldn't. It's not only startling, it's also a shock to find yourself in this kind of role. My adjustment to the role was gradual. During the shooting of an exterior scene I'd try feeling with my cane around the front of the door. When the lights were out, I'd remain motionless because I kept feeling the director might have to ask me to repeat the scene.

"When I moved, I felt my way around, familiarizing myself with the touch and feel of things I'd always taken for granted because I could see them. I'd try to keep from bumping into things. Many of the people who watched us shooting those exteriors would exclaim 'He's not really blind, is he?' That's when I knew I was getting somewhere."

Talent contest set for June 26

The Fort Benning Special Services Entertainment Section announces the monthly entertainment contest for the month of June. The contest will be held at Kelly Hill Service Club on June 26 at 7:30 p.m. As always the entertainment section is looking for new talent. If you or anyone you know has talent of any kind, sing, dance or play a musical instrument please pass on the information of the contest to these individuals. There are cash awards given to the three top acts of $25 each. All members of the active military service are invited to participate. Everyone in the Fort Benning area is invited to attend. For further information concerning the entertainment contest please contact your service club director or call 545-2316 or 545-5057.

'Billy Jack,' Warner release

HOLLYWOOD — Hapkido, a special kind of karate, which is used in a fight sequence in the new Warner release, "Billy Jack," was developed 1300 years ago in China to protect themselves from assault and robbery because they were unable to wear arms because of their religious beliefs.

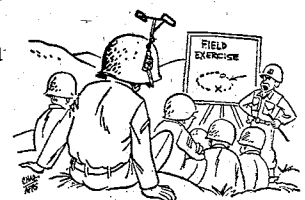
To prove the wetness of Rise, this man shaved without using any water.

And he actually got a smooth, clean shave.

The reason he got such a clean shave is the moisture in Rise.

A lather needs moisture, needs wetness, so your beard won't dry out beneath it.



And you can't buy a lather that's wetter than Rise.

Slowly it seeps moisture into your beard and holds it there for as long as it takes you to shave.

The point we're trying to prove is this:

If our man can get a smooth, clean shave using Rise with no water, imagine what you can do using Rise with water.

'Dirty Harry' about police

HOLLYWOOD — John Larch has been cast as the chief of police of San Francisco in "Dirty Harry," and he had better watch his step because the real chief will be looking over his shoulder while that picture shoots in San Francisco, with full cooperation of the police.

The picture, a Malpas Company production of Warner Bros., stars Clint Eastwood.

70 soldiers graduate from 197th school

Seventy 197th Infantry Brigade NCOs graduated June 4 from the first 197th NCO School class. The sergeants, E-5 or acting, had finished a three-week leadership training course located in the Harmony Church area.

Instruction during the school was provided by the battalion Sergeant major and the command sergeant major of the brigade. Training consisted of physical and practical exercises that prepared the students for leadership in garrison-type situations.

All personnel selected to attend the school came from the different units within the brigade and had a combat military occupational specialty in the 11, 12, or 13 series.

The main portion of the graduation program was an address by Col. Willard Latham, 197th commander. Col. Latham spoke of the growing need for leadership in today's Army. "The real challenge we have in the Army today is leadership. We have never found the machinery to guarantee success in this area," Col. Latham told the graduates.

The brigade commander gave tribute to the NCO School, its personnel, and students when he stated, "It is one of the things that I am most proud of."

Graduation certificates were presented to the candidates by Col. Latham after his address. Sgt. Donald L. Brenner, HHC, 1st Bn., 58th Inf., was presented a statuette for excellence in leadership. Sgt. Leon B. McLaughlin, HHC, 5th Bn., 31st Inf., accepted a statuette for academic excellence.

The graduates did not forget their stomachs during the three-week course and presented their mess hall personnal an "outstanding service" award.

IT WON'T HURT
Col. Powell (R) At Work

Col. John Powell named new post veterinarian

Col. John J. Powell has been named post veterinarian, replacing Col. Georgie E. Ritter, who was reassigned to Vietnam.

Col. Powell received his doctor of veterinary medicine degree from Auburn University, Ala.

A native of Sylvester, Ga., he claims his initial interest in veterinary work began when he was a child at his parents' farm.

"I grew up," he says, "on the farm with animals, and the most glamorous person that ever visited the farm was the vet when one of the animals got sick."

From admiration of this glamour came the colonel's desire to become a vet, and he made his dream come true when he completed his training at Auburn and entered the Army in 1941. By December 1961 he had attained the rank of full colonel.

Col. Powell's last assignment was as USAEUR veterinarian in Heidelburg, Germany. He and his wife Betty have two children, John, 20, and Tracy, 18.

MAH awards honor civilian performance

A ceremony at Martin Army Hospital June 3 honored six civilians. Presentations were made by Col. H. Haskell Ziperman, hospital commander.

Mrs. Ouida G. Allen, treasurer, received $50 for an adopted suggestion.

John H. Armstrong Jr., mail room, received a Length of Service Emblem and 10 year pin.

Mrs. Martha W. Turner and Mrs. Marie L. Farr of Nursing Service were awarded sustained superior performance awards of $200.

Mrs. Dorothy J. Roberts, Medical Boards, and Mrs. Mary S. Gainey, Personnel Division, were awarded outstanding ratings and sustained superior performance awards of $200 and $150 respectively.

Nurses to don new duty dress

WASHINGTON (ANF) — A new design of the women's hospital duty uniform has been adopted by the Army.

The new dress is made of a white polyester bengaline fabric. All female medical personnel are authorized to wear the new dress.

Branch student

Benning officer gets top honor from GSU

Lt. Col. William T. McElrath formerly of HHC, TSB, has received Georgia State University's award of excellence from Dr. Joe Sisson after McElrath was named outstanding graduate student at the Fort Benning branch of the university.

McElrath, who maintained an "A" average in counseling and psychological services, assisted in teaching, participated in research and co-authored a publication with Sisson of "A Survey Study on College Calendar Systems."

McElrath received his master of education degree and was selected from 300 other graduate students at GSU to receive the award.

The award of excellence is presented to the graduate student who maintains high academic standards and excells in other areas as well.

McElrath has been reassigned to Ft. McPherson since receiving his degree.

ROD AND GUN CLUB Notes

By Bill Kloeb

A lot of fish are caught from the bank of a pond or stream but some fishermen feel that they have to actually get out on the water in a boat to make the sport complete. So the Rod and Gun Club buys boats and places them in various ponds for the convenience of the membership. Boats cost money and also require work to be kept in a floating condition. The club boats cost right at $100 bought in numbers. Bought on a retail basis the price would run about $150 a boat. That's why we are not talking about peanuts when we talk about the 11 club boats that have been stolen from various ponds since the first of this year.

The last losses were five boats stolen from Averett Pond. With this many losses it looks as though someone plans to go into the boat business using a minimum investment of their own money. They are using the money of Rod and Gun Club members. Club members can help out a lot if they will report suspicious activity around the boats. If the Rod and Gun Club personnel are going to move boats they will use a black pick-up truck with a non-appropriated fund license plate or a military vehicle of some sort. Anyone using any other type vehicle is in all probability removing the boat for his own use.

The club will not replace the boats taken from Averett Pond. Instead cartop carriers have been purchased to haul boats from the clubhouse to the pond. The boats located at other ponds will remain in place unless losses become too great. If this happens all the boats will have to be brought back into the clubhouse area and cartop carriers used in all rentals. This would restrict fathers who are taking small children on a fishing trip. The club boats are too large and heavy for one man to put on and take off a cartop.

The Rod and Gun Club has several boats which have been declared unserviceable. While these boats could not be used in their present condition they are salvageable. A handyman can get one for a few dollars and end up with a good boat if he is willing to spend some time working on it. You can get information at the club house or call Tom McCollough, club custodian, at 545-6028.

Twilight Pond Restrictions

Twilight Pond is a man made pond located on First Division Road about midway between Eighth Division Road and Highway 27. This 25 acre pond was completed and stocked last year. It has received special attention from the Fish and Game Unit from the very beginning. They have stocked the pond with more than 55,000 fish. Most of them have been catfish but several thousand bass have also been added to the population.

There are several limitations on fishing in this pond that fishermen should know before they try it. Fishing is only allowed during daylight hours and boats may not be used until noon each day. Live minnows, shiners and other live-fish-type bait may not be used at any time and the creel limit per fisherman is eight fish per day.

Most of the catfish from the initial stockings will now run abut two to four pounds but there have been some stockings of larger fish. Members of the Fish and Game Unit estimated that a few of the catfish will go as high as fifteen pounds. The Fish and Game Unit is hurrying the growth of all the fish in the pond by daily feedings. The feeding is done in the morning. That's the reason boats are not permitted until noon. Minnows and shiners are not allowed because a large percentage of these baby fish are rough fish. They have a habit of working off a hook to live to grow large and multiply. Soon the pond is loaded with rough fish which use up space and food that could otherwise be used by the game fish.

Night fishing is not permitted because several people have been caught using troutlines. Closing the pond helps control this illogal fishing. Troutlines are not permitted in any of the reservation ponds. Fishing with more than two lines at one time is also prohibited.

MTU's Clark wins second Fresta title

SFC Hezekiah Clark of the U. S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit brushed his opposition aside and captured the overall title of the Fiesta of Five Flags Pistol Championships Sunday at the Pensacola Rifle and Pistol Club range when he compiled the grand aggregate of 2552 in the three-gun matches.

It marks the second time in three years that Clark has won the Fiesta of Five Flags Championship. He turned the trick earlier in 1969.

Runner-up to Clark in the individual grand aggregate went to SFC Bonnie Harmon who fired a 2543-138.

Clark started off strong in the three-gun match by taking the 22 caliber event Saturday with 292-53X and managed to stay ahead of his hard pressing opponents even though he failed to win either the center fire or 45 caliber pistol matches. But he was just one point back in each of these contests.

SSgt. John Smith, winner of the international pistol aggregate Friday and a companion shooter of Clark's took the center fire match when he fired an 877-46. Harmon, also of the Army MTU, placed in the runner-up spot with 877-40 while Clark was in third place with 876-34.

In the 45 Caliber Pistol competition Harmon forged ahead and beat Clark out by one with his 885-44. Clark in runner-up spot fired 884-38 while SFC John Sicinski of the Third Army Marksmanship Unit and 1970 grand aggregate champion placed third with 878-37.

Clark, Harmon and Smith teamed with MSgt. Samuel Hunter to capture all the team events championships and the team grand aggregate championship. In the Center Fire contest, they totaled 1165-55 for the victory and an 1174-60 in the 45 Caliber match. The Army MTU team compiled the winning aggregate of 3506-172X of a possible 3600.

Following the three-gun match the teams fired competitively in a 45 caliber service pistol or hardball match. Again the Army team was too much for the mixed field.

Father-son, dad-daughter tourney planned

A father-son, father-daughter handicap golf tournament will be held at the Fort Benning Country Club on Fathers Day, June 20.

Fathers may enter in combination with a son or a daughter or pair with both a son and daughter or any other combination providing the children are not more than 18 years old.

Children eligible to enter the tournament should contact the golf pro shop if their father will not be able to play. The personnel in the pro shop will pair them with a "father for the day."

The tournament will start with a "shotgun start" on the Lakeside Course at 10 a.m. All participants must report to the first tee not later than 9:30 a.m. Starting tees will be assigned at this time. After the tournament there will be free soft drinks, fried chicken and sandwiches in the ballroom where trophies will be awarded to winners.

Each contestant will be charged a $1 entrance fee to pay for trophies.

Unfortunately most 35mm reflex cameras that have a professional price also have a professional price. Very high.

Not the Minolta SR-T 100. It's made to the same standards of professional performance as Minolta's most expensive single lens reflex. But costs a lot less.

And you don't have to be anywhere near a professional photographer to take great pictures with the Minolta SR-T 100.

For one thing, your eye doesn't have to strain to compose and focus. The viewfinder stays at maximum brightness (doesn't dim as you "close down" the lens) until the instant you snap the shutter.

Adjusting for exposure is just as simple. You do it right inside the viewfinder, without losing sight of your subject.

Lens changing? Just a flick of the wrist and a click. Choose any custom-ground lens in the Minolta/Rokkor system from 16mm ultra wide angle to 1000mm super-tele photo.

It assures you of a 2-year warranty, according to the terms of the U.S.A. warranty registration packed with the camera. That's one year longer than most cameras.

The Minolta SR-T 100 is in stock now at a low exchange price.

Nightcap ends with ejection

'Big Red' takes 2 from 931st in fastpitch softball

A hustling 197th Infantry Brigade fast-pitch softball team rallied to take two victories June 9 from the 931st Engineer Group, 4-2 and 4-3.

The nightcap ended in verbal fireworks in the bottom of the last stanza.

The "Big Red Bullet" had revived to take a 4-3 lead in the top of the sixth frame.

931st lead-off man Dennis Moore stepped into the batter's box in the bottom of the seventh inning. Before a pitch could be thrown the home plate umpire ejected 931st first-base coach Randy Hiatt. Seconds later, "you win," came from the umpire as he pointed to 197th coach Bennie Jackson, declaring the game over. A confused 931st Engineer coach rushed to the umpire to question the call and returned to the bench.

When asked about the abbreviated game, the official stated, "I ejected the man for making 'smart remarks.' When ejected the man must leave the playing field to include the hearing area — the area within earshot of the umpire. The man did not do this," the umpire concluded.

A protest was lodged by the 931st coach with the Fort Benning Sports Office. A later decision awarded the game to the battling brigade.

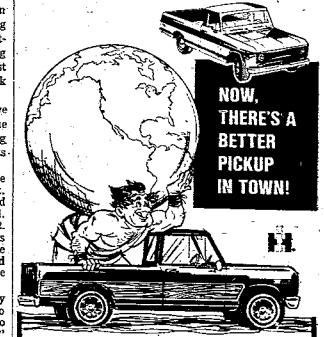
Paced by the pitching of "Lefty" Furnish and slugging "Go Crazy Joe" Kourkoulis, the brigade rallied from a 1-0 deficit to take a 4-2 victory in the first game of the twinbill. Kourkoulis scored two runs and collected a triple and double in two-of-three at bats.

In previous action June 8 the brigade buried the Medical Department Activities (MEDDAC) team deeper into the USAIC league cellar with 19-0 and 11-0 victories. Pitchers "Nick" Nixon, "Chief" Whitehorse and Sabater Cruz combined for ten shutout innings in the two abbreviated games.

QUICK EYES, FAST CAMERAS NEEDED TO CATCH 197TH GAMES

MPs win 7, Lead 931st in sofeball

The red-hot 139th M.P. Co. remains undefeated in the 931st Engineering Group company level softball league after picking up two more victories last week to boost their streak to seven games.



The military police have been dominating the league since its beginning, scoring 100 runs against opponents while allowing only 27.

The only threat to the MPs are the 598th Lt. Maint. Co. with a record of 5-1, and he 18th Repl. Det. with a record of 7-2. However a showdown is expected soon when the MPs face the second and third place teams in the same week.

Coach Gerald Kennedy said his team's success so far can be attributed to "over-powering hitting." He said no batter on the team is batting less than .500.

As the league nears its halfway point, league-leading teams are carefully watching the rapidly rising HHC, 931st team., which is making a strong comeback under the direction of coach Carl Holmes after a shaky beginning.

For junior swimmers

Post sets AAU Olympic meet

By Bill Kloeb

Carey Pool at Fort Benning has been selected as the site for the fifth annual Georgia Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympic Swimming Meet to be held June 25-26.

Competition will be open to junior swimmers under 18 years of age from the entire state and will begin at 8 a.m. each day according to Willie Dunham, director of the event.

The Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Junior Olympics was originated in 1949 through an agreement between the AAU of the United States and the United States Olympic Committee. It is designed to encourage age-level athletic competition between boys and girls up to 18 years of age.

The program includes the sports of basketball, boxing, decathlon, gymnastics, judo, luge, swimming and diving, synchronized swimming, track and field, trampoline, water polo, weightlifting and wrestling, and is conducted each year throughout the 58 District Associations of the AAU by over 160,000 AAU volunteers. In the year 1970, some 16 million youngsters competed in Junior Olympics.

Former Olympians who competed in the AAU Junior Olympic program include Rafer Johnson, 1960 Olympic decathlon champion, John Pennell, first man to pole vault 17 feet and Don Schollander, winner of four gold medals for swimming at the Tokyo Olympics.

In 1967, the AAU conducted a national championship for the Junior Olympics in the Nation's capitol. In subsequent years, championships were held in Knoxville, Tennessee at the University of Tennessee, and in 1969, in the City of San Diego, California as part of that city's 200th anniversary celebration.

The 1971 Championships will be held August 9-12 at the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The Amateur Athletic Union is the United States affiliated body to international sports federations and controls 19 amateur sports in this country.

THE FORUM
THE FORUM

By John Davis

At the tender age of 21, Vida Blue is being compared to the immortal Sandy Koufax. Around Oakland Koufax is being compared to the immortal Vida Blue.

It's rather doubtful that the amazing Mr. Blue has achieved baseball immortality yet and it will be some time before he can be realistically compared to the legendary Koufax but no one doubts that the fireballing lefty has arrived. Blue has compiled a 13-2 record, has the lowest earned run average of any starter in the American League, and leads the junior circuit in strikeouts. All his accomplishments have come while pitching the Oakland Athletics, one of the weakest hitting teams in baseball, to a five game bulge in the American League's West Division.

Blue has to be the biggest bargain since the Dutch purchased Manhatten Island for $24. The young southpaw is not only winning games for the Athletics in classic style but, he is drawing capacity crowds wherever he performs — all for $14,000 a year — barely above the minimum for a major league ballplayer. In terms of money made for money risked, that is comparable to hitting a 10-1 longshot each time you go to the race track.

Vida's boss, Athletics owner Charles O. Finley, is the first to tell you he has a bargain. He indicated so recently when he presented baseball's newest star with a brand new Cadillac convertible complete with license plates that spell out the youthful hurlers name in block letters. In presenting his most valuable asset with the new car, the redfaced Finley unnecessarily hinted that Blue's salary would be considerably higher next campaign.

The Athletics spotted Blue when he was a 17 year old school boy in Mansfield, Louisiana. Not many scouts paid serious attention to the hard throwing lefty despite the fact that he once fanned 21 batters in a seven inning game. He simply appeared to be another strong armed high schooler who couldn't control his fastball.

What discouraged the big league birddogs more than Blue's wildness was Blue's apparent love for football. As a quarterback of some reknown he didn't try to disguise the fact that he had his sights set on a college grid career. He was being courted heavily by football rich Grambling College and all indications were that he would accept a grant-in-aid to the Monroe, Louisiana school.

Blue could throw a football more accurately than a baseball and once during a prep contest completed a touchdown pass that traveled 60 yards in the air.

What finally persuaded Blue to abandon his dreams for gridiron glory and choose baseball is still somewhat of a mystery. By today's standards his bonus would have to be described as meager and with the exception of Finley's Athletics not many teams wre interested in the scatterarmed southpaw who threw far more balls than strikes.

But Finley, who was taken more than one risk in his controversial eleven-year ownership turned on his gifted crystal ball. He liked young Blue and Vida liked him and needless to say when Charlie inked Blue's name to an Oakland pact it was the best thing to happen to the Athletics since white shoes.

Somewhere between Mansfield, Louisiana and Oakland, California Vida Blue learned to pitch. His fastball is just as fast but now he can put it where he wants it. He has also developed a breaking ball that is reminiscent of the patented Koufax curve.

Whenever Blue takes to the mound he talks to himself. He criticizes himself when things aren't going the way he thinks they should and lends himself encouragement when the situation gets tight. He continues talking to himself until the final man is out — saying what the situation dictates. Judging from the results thus far he probably has the hitters talking to themselves as well — and you can guess what they say. Around the American League today, Vida and Blue are two new four letter words.

CC offers 2-week basketball camp for boys

Spaces are filling up rapidly in the special basketball camp for boys between the ages of 10 and 16 being offered at Columbus College June 21-July 1.

Techniques and fundamentals for winning at basketball will be demonstrated by coaches and players with a long record of winning seasons behind them.

The camp will meet week days from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Columbus College Woodruff Gymnasium. Cost of the two-week camp, which includes the noon meal, is $67.

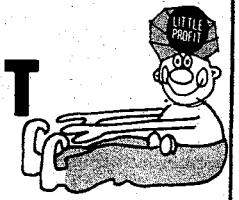
To make application, contact Mrs. Doris Parham, 561-5134, ext. 208, or Coach Frank Clement, 561-3085, at the college.

Individual instruction in such basketball fundamentals as shooting, dribbling, passing and rebounding will be given. Special attention to offensive and defensive moves and scrimmage techniques will also be covered.

Sponsored by the college Booster Club, athletic department, and Community Service Program, the camp will be coordinated and directed by Frank "Sonny" Clements, athletic director and head basketball coach at the college.

In addition to Clements, who has 15 years of head coaching experience, two state championships and a 70 per cent winning record to his credit, the instructional staff will consist of Hoke Brantley, most valuable player and leading scorer in the 1970-1971 season and former Cougar captain; All-American Candidate Roger Moore, 1971 leading scorer and rebounder; and other varsity players of the Columbus College Cougar basketball team.

Special guest lecturers will include Wendell Barr, former Columbus College All-American and an all-time great; Bill Denny, another all-time great and the leading scorer with the Columbus College championship team in 1965; Larry Conley, former University of Kentucky star; Joe Sparks, head basketball coach at Columbus High School; and Jimmy Lee, head basketball coach at Hardaway.



A special feature of the camp will be instant videotape replays of campers in action.

Movies and other audio-visual aids on basketball, game scrimmages, and recreatonal swimming periods in the college pool will also be provided.

Activities will be divided by age and ability level so that each player can learn at his proper competitive level.

Campers will be furnished a practice jersey.

Postponed last month

Orienteering rescheduled for June

The Fort Benning Orienteering Championships, postponed last month because of inclement weather, have been rescheduled for June 26.

The events will begin at Victory Lodge with an orienteering clinic at 1 p.m. after which contestants will move to starting positions.

Championships will be determined in five classes of orienteering. Men 35 years of age or older may compete in a seniors class but any experienced male orienteerer can compete in the open class. There will also be a class for women over 18. Juniors will be divided into two classes. There will be a wayfarer class for contestants 15 to 18 and a novice class for those under 14.

ORIENTEERER
Doug Williford In Previous Meet

Orienteering is a sport in which participants use land navigation techniques to move from a starting point of a course to a series of accurately located positions in an area containing varied terrain. Competitors are graded on the speed and accuracy in which the course is completed.

The sport has been slow to gain acceptance in this country but in the past few years the Army and Marines have become more and more interested in the sport as an integrated part of land navigation training. This summer a 15-hour block of orienteering instruction will replace the map reading and land navigation instruction taken by Reserve Officer Training Corps Cadets on summer camp at Fort Riley, Kan. Other camp commanders have been authorized to make the substitution if they desire.

All individuals interested in orienteering are invited to compete in the Fort Benning Championships. It is not necessary to be a member of an orienteering club to quality. Entries may be telephoned to Capt. Larry R. Walker, 545-6021.

The Ranger Department will have practice courses open almost every day for competitors who want to gain experience before June 26. Weekday practice events are scheduled from 4 until 6 p.m. and Saturday events run from 1 until 5 p.m. Call 545-6021 or 687-7522 on the day you want to participate and you will be given the location of courses that are to be in operation.

Diving meet to determine team members

The Special Services Office at Fort Benning will hold a swimming and diving meet at Carey Pool on main post from June 28 through 30 to select a team to represent Fort Benning in the 3rd U.S. Army Swimming and Diving Championships.

Events to be held during ths post meet will be determined by the number and specialization of entries. All male and female active duty personnel are eligible to compete. Entries may be made at Special Services outdoor swimming pool.

Winners in the competition will represent the post in the 3rd Army tournament to be held at Fort Rucker, Ala., July 15-17.

Handicap winners determined

The first phase of the Fort Benning Country Club Spring Handicap Golf Tournament was completed this week with determination of five flight winners.

Allen Mauldin, Ray Rolf, Howard Mahler, Robert Snyder and Gerald Knapp all were winners of flights and will play to determine the Country Club Handicap champion.

Kent Imia, Bill Jones, Richard Nelson, Ray Whitley and Herbert Erb won flight runner up honors.

Jack Johnson, David Benkoski, R. H. Wagner and Robert Thomason lost first round matches but went on to win consolation flights.

In the playoff among flight winners, Mauldin must play Knapp to determine who will play Mahler in the semi-final matches. The other semi-final match will be between Rolf and Snyder.

Farrington, Jarvis allow 5 hits in double-header

By Keith Harmon

931st Engr. Gp. hurlers John Farrington and John Jarvis allowed a total of five hits in two games to Avn. Comd. batters June 7 as the Engineers won both ends of a double header 8-3 and 2-1.

Farrington allowed only three hits while striking out seven in the first game of the twin bill, as second game starter Jarvis allowed only two hits during his stay on the mound, fanning five Avn. Comd. batters.

The Engineers were never threatened in the first game as they pounded Avn. Comd. pitchers for five runs in the first inning. The first inning tallies were enough to seal the victory but the Engineers added three more runs for security.

Starting the rally was second baseman Dominic Mecurio who walked and outfielder Ricky Schell who singled. Mecurio scored on slugger Jim Proto's sacrifice fly putting the Engineers on the score board for the first time.

Schell had a perfect day at the plate smashing three singles and a triple in four trips at bat.

In the second game winning hurler Jarvis held the aviators to just two hits but lost a shutout when the combination of a wild pitch and an error by right fielder Randy Hiatt allowed the Avn. Comd. to score.

Leadoff batter Mecurio, the agile second baseman, again put the Engineers ahead in the first inning as he did in the first game. He started the contest with a double and scored on shortstop Sonny DeLaPaz's subsequent double.

Mecurio scored the Engineer's only other run in the third inning when he walked, stole second base and scored on an error. Mecurio's second run was enough for a victory, however as 931st was able to hold Avn. Comd. to a single run.

POISED TO SCORE
197th handball player George White scores against TSB June 9

197th mauls TSB 14-5

By Steve Partridge

A lethargic 197th Infantry Brigade team handball squad broke from the doldrums in the second half June 9 and erupted for 12 goals to hand The School Brigade a 14-5 loss.

A 197th one-goal margin at halftime turned into a lopsided rout. Alphonso McCallum gave the brigade a 3-1 lead early in the second period. Three successive goals by William "Wolf" Wolford fired the "Big Red Bullet" into a commanding 7-2 lead.

Wolford, the 197th's only lef-hander, drilled home two additional scores and George White garnished four as they sparked the brigade to their third victory of the season.

The brigade gained revenge from a season-opening defeat as they overwhelmed the 931st Engineer Group, 18-8, June 7.

George White's goal placed the brigade in a 3-2 lead early in the first stanza. Never headed, the 197th waltzed to an easy victory.

Leading scorers in the contest were "Wolf" Wolford, "Doc" Mixon, with four each and Allen Rowland with three goals.

After the week's action the brigade had a 3-1 mark for the season and was tied for first place in Fort Benning's first team handball league.

Potential recruits visit 'unit-of-choice' brigade

By Steve Partridge

About 120 prospective Army recruits, ages 16-19, visited the 197th Infantry Brigade June 7-11 and had the opportunity to find out "what it's all about" in the VOLAR brigade. The prospects toured the brigade in conjunction with Army's unit-of-choice recruiting program.

The unit-of-choice option provides a man with an opportunity to enlist in the Army and serve with the 197th. Upon completion and graduation from his basic and advanced training at a United States Army Training Center, he is assigned to the brigade for a minimum of six months.

After the initial six months tour, the enlistee is eligible for re-assignment. If placed in a short tour area, the soldier may return to the brigade for the remainder of this three-year enlistment.

Many of the prospects visited the 197th because of brigade recruiting displays set up in towns within a 125-mile radius of Fort Benning during the past four months. Other young men came through their high school ROTC programs. The new arrivals were divided into three groups. All of them stayed at the new 197th Inf. Bde. NCO School located in the Harmony Church area.

During the days of their visit, the men were given a tour of the brigade and parts of Fort Benning. The prospective recruits viewed 197th weaponry in action in the United States Military Academy (USMA) demonstrations.

The tour also included stops at various motor pools in the brigade, a visit to the Kelley Hill Field House, 197th athletic events, and a visit to the Co. A, 197th Inf. Bde., where the men viewed a part of VOLAR's accomplishments—beer machines and newly partitioned barracks.

A battalion activities period was an integral part of the tour. The men visited the battalion of the combat arm for which they had expressed preference — Infantry, Artillery, or Armor.

17 employes from Infantry School receive awards

Seventeen military and civilian employes of the Infantry School received incentive awards yesterday.

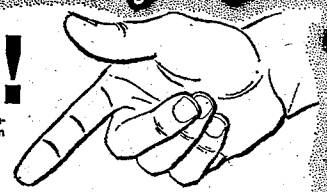
Col. K. B. Barlow Jr., deputy assistant commandant of the school, presented the awards.

Richard S. Kneisel, education advisor, received a letter of appreciation for a suggestion concerning an improvement in the audio-visual equipment.

Mrs. H. Diane Benton, Jacob W. Debaan Jr., Robert T. Lands and Mrs. Onzell O. Starns, all of the office of the Director of Operations and Logistics, Mrs. Hazel W. Clower, Brigade and Battalion Operations Department, and Mrs. Rhado Angulo and Mrs. Genora Scott, both of the School Brigade, received outstanding ratings.

Miss Eugenia C. Snyder, Leadership Department, was presented an outstanding rating and a salary increase of $184 per year for high quality work.

Mrs. Sylvia P. Fountain and Mrs. Polly R. Black of The School Brigade received outstanding ratings and sustained superior performance awards of $150.



Maj. Gail N. Batten and MSgt. Charles L. Chapman, both of TSB, received awards of $25. Batten's award is for a suggested safety improvement and Chapman's is for a training innovation.

1st Lt. Loren H. Judd, 1st Sgt. Charles V. Irwin, 1st Sgt. Maurice W. Kilpatrick and Joe B. Gibbs, all of TSB, were presented letters of appreciation.

Dental hygiene no horror story with today's dentistry

By Guy L. Riley

Most of us have been reared with a fatalistic attitude toward our teeth. We were told by our grandparents and parents that losing all our teeth with old age was just natural.

We were led to believe that toothaches and bleeding gums were part of living, something we had to accept. We often took for fact, the dental horror stories passed down from one generation to another:

—a mother loses a tooth for each child;

—the best way to fight toothache was with a numbing number of slugs of straight whisky;

—if you were unlucky enough to be born with "soft" teeth you would lose them to decay;

—having a tooth pulled was the worst thing that could ever happen to you.

Well, the truth is that these old wives' tales were all fallacies. In today's space-age dentistry, they are farther from the truth than the earth is from the moon.

There is absolutely no reason to be fatalistic about your teeth today.

Not all dental diseases can be prevented. But most of them can—by regular professional care and good personal hygiene.

You and your dentist have almost complete control over them. The key to this control is prevention.

Without a vaccine on hand, today's dentistry has achieved the same posture has modern medicine: The emphasis is on prevention. A good preventive measure is worth many good treatments for disease. And the equation is heavy on the preventive side because pain and suffering are avoided.

While it has developed effective new treatments for the ravages of dental decay and peridontal (gum) diseases, today's dentistry has developed effective new ways to prevent these. So, the emphasis today is on educating the public about prevention.

Prevention means good dental care at home and regular visits to your dentist. More importantly, it will mean some change in the way you do things. For instance, what keeps you from carrying a toothbrush in your pocket, purse, lunch pail or attache case? There are very few washrooms—even public ones—these days without running water. So what's stopping you from brushing your teeth after lunch at work?

Or are you like the new bride who was most shy on her wedding night on only one thing: She hated the thought of brushing her teeth in front of anyone else—even her husband? Many people have this attitude, but it is fast fading. You'll see more and more people brushing their teeth in public washrooms. Why not? They're not ashamed to wash their hands there.

It also means instilling these new prevention attitudes in our children and ending the cycle of dental fatalism. They're our teeth and we are going to keep them for life.

Benning duo slated to compete in national parachuting event

Two members of the Fort Benning Sports Parachute Club have qualified to compete in the 1971 National Sports Parachuting Championships to be held at Tahlequah, Okla. June 19 through 27.

Capt. Charles E. Whittle, 7th Student Battalion, The Student Brigade and Capt. Lee C. Dunlap, a student in the Infantry School Advanced Course earned the honor during regional competitions where hundreds of sports parachuasists competed for the five slots allocated to the Southern sports parachuting region.

Whittle has been a sports parachutist for six years. He began sports parachuting with the Fort Ord club in California. He has since completed more than 700 jumps and has served a tour with the high altitude - low opening committee in Okinawa and is a past president of the Fort Benning Sports Parachute Club.

Dunlap began his sports parachuting career at Fort Campbell. In ten years time he has made more than 600 jumps. He was chief of the high altitude-low opening committee at Fort Bragg, N.C. and while there was president of the John F. Kennedy Center Sports Parachute Club.

Approximately 200 of the top sports parachutists in the country, including a select delegation of the famous Golden Knights will compete at Tahlequah. Each contestant will complete 16 jumps during the meet. Ten jumps will be for accuracy and the style of the contestants will be judged durng six jumps. Final standings are determined by the total points awarded in the two events.

During accuracy jumps the skydiver's target is a ten centimeter disc located in the center of a twenty-foot circle. The air craft pilot maneuvers the aircraft into the general flight pattern established by wind conditions. The jumper must issue instructions to the pilot to get him over the ground position the jumper has selected for his exit. With the aircraft at 3,000-feet altitude the jumper decides when to exit. He must open his chute within five seconds after exit and then maneuver himself to the target.

Style jumps are made from 6,600 feet altitude. The jumper is required to perform one of three predetermined maneuvers. He is judged by the accuracy in which he completes the maneuver and elapsed time. Judging is accomplished by five judges located on the ground.

Jericho numbers

Archeological evidence indicates that several thousand people lived in the city of Jericho in Palestine's Jordan Valley as early as 8000 B.C. surface.

NASA develops heart film

WASHINGTON (AFPS) —Doctors can watch a movie of the beating of a patient's diseased heart — identifying dead spots or scar tissue in the heart wall, aneurysms (bubble-like projections of the heart muscle), and other malfunctions—with a computer method developed by a National Aeronautics and Space Administration-Stanford University team.

The system, which is still under development, would improve on current complex diagnostic meithods by proving a simple means of viewing the heart in action. Figuratively, it allows doctors to "walk around" the isolated beating heart, viewing it from any desired angle. They also can stop the display at any desired point of heart expansion or construction and can play the picture back and forth for many cycles.

Modern Volunteer Army program continued for fiscal '72

BY WENDELL COCHRAN

The Modern Volunteer Army program, currently under way at Fort Benning, will be continued into fiscal year 1972, with relatively few changes, Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, announced this week.

Fort Benning began the MVA experiment, known as Project VOLAR within the Army, last January as one of four test posts in the United States. The other three are Forts Carson, Ord and Bragg.

During the initial test period, more than 140 actions were taken to help achieve the program's goal of building a better Army by developing a more professional environment, providing soldiers with a better life and generating increased public esteem.

Many of the actions are aimed at eliminating miner irritants that have bethered soldiers in the past.

Col. Edwin Kennedy, MVA chief at Fort Benning, said another aim of the program is to develop better leadership at all levels.

"In implementing our programs, we learned that many of the things we were doing have always been done by good leaders. When we realized this, we began to emphasize the proven leadership principles and traits that good leaders have always practiced," the colonel said.

One way this was accomplished was through the classes in Army Leadership for Professionals, developed by the Leadership Department of the Infantry School. All officers and NCOs at Fort Benning were required to attend the class.

Gen. Talbott's announcement ensures that Fort Benning will continue many fine programs that were first developed and implemented here.

Among these:

Civilian KPs—Soldiers were removed from Kitchen Police at Fort Benning last January. A new $3.9 million contract continues use of civilians in the kitchen at least through next June 30. Fort Benning is the only post in the United States with no military KPs. Other test posts have implemented this innovation on a limited basis.

Adventure Training—This program, instituted by Col. Willard Latham, commander of the 197th Infantry Brigade, allows soldiers to participate in meaningful training activities under the direction of their small unit leaders. Units in the 197th have taken float trips down the Chattahoochee River, participated in Ranger and Airborne training and conducted field

Infantry Officer Candidate School Hall of Fame to add 13 new names

The Honor Roll of the Infantry Officer Candidate School (OCS) Hall of Fame will be lengthened by 13 names, including those of three brigadier generals, in ceremonies at Wigle Hall June 29.

Heading the list of inductees will be Brig. Gen. William J. Maddox Jr. Gen. Maddox, former long-time aide to Gen. Bruce C. Clark and holder of three awards of the Silver Star, is a 1944 graduate of OCS. He currently serves as director of Army Aviation at Department of the Army.

Presiding over the ceremonies will be Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander.

Two other brigadier generals — both serving in National Guard slots — will attend the induction ceremony. Brig. Gen. O'Neil J. Daigle currently serves as director of Emergency Operations for the Louisiana Guard. Brig. Gen. O. T. Dalton is commander of the 35th Engineering Bde., Missouri National Guard.

One of four colonels able to attend their inductions will be Col. Clifford H. Ford, recently departed Deputy Director of Plans and Training for the Infantry School at Fort Benning.

Also attending will be Col. James H. Kendrick, recently returned from headquarters of the 2nd Logistical Command in the Ryukyu Islands. Col. Kendrick's brother, a retired Army officer, lives in Columbus. Col. Charles L. Brindel, G-1 of Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., will attend, as will Col. David E. Hartigan, chief of Wars Plans Branch, headquarters, CONARC. Col. John J. Leeper, of the office of Military Traffic Management and Terminal Service in Washington, D. C., also hopes to attend.

Unable to attend will be Col. Albert R. Ecola, Provost Marshall at Ft. Monroe, Va.; Col. Vernon C. Devan, Commander of the Electronic Support Command, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; Col. Albert S. Rakas, Staff Judge Advocate for headquarters, U.S. Army Material Command, Washington, D.C.; Col. Wilfred K. G. Smith, Chief of Staff of the 1st Infantry Div., Ft. Riley, Kans., and Col. Manuel S. Pina, Chief of Personnel and Training, U.S. Army Electronics Command, Ft. Monmouth, N.J.

Membership in the OCS Hall of Fame is open to OCS graduates who have received the Medal of Honor, achieved the rank of colonel while on active duty, attained a prominent national or state public office, or have been recommended for the honor by the commandant of The Infantry School.

Hectic pace

Who says the pace wasn't hectic at the Boy Scout National Council meeting in Atlanta last month? Scoutmaster W. J. LaLonde of Orlando, Fla., found time for some precious relaxation between sessions at the three-day meeting. LaLonde, who will soon be 84, has been in Scouting for over 40 years. He has 18 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren — none of whom are Scouts.

NEW INFANTRY SCHOOL, CENTER SERGEANTS MAJOR
CSM William T. Mixon (L), CSM John F. LaVoie

LaVoie, Mixon Assume Center, School Sergeants Major slots

The two top enlisted posts at Fort Benning are now held by men who were command sergeants major of airborne units in Vietnam.

CSM John F. LaVoie moves into the slot of post sergeant major vacated by the recent rotation of CSM Charles Fletcher. CSM LaVoie's replacement as command sergeant major of the Infantry School is CSM William T. Mixon, who is moving into the job after serving as 4th Student Battalion command sergeant major.

Fletcher, who is awaiting announcement of his new duty assignment, last week was presented the Meritorious Service Medal by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander.

CSM LaVoie was the ranking enlisted man in the 173rd Airborne Brigade before being assigned to Fort Benning in April. Mixon was command sergeant major of the 101st Airborne Division from July 1969 to July 1970.

In 1968 Mixon served as the acting Infantry Center sergeant major for five months.

LaVoie had been in the Infantry School post little more than a month before taking over the command sergeant major chores for the Infantry Center.

Mixon had been at 4th Student Battalion since his return from Vietnam last year. He holds the master parachutist badge and is Ranger qualified. He has been awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge with one star. Among his awards and decorations are the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star, Meritorious Service Medal and the Air

Columbus, Phenix youths win ROTC scholarships

Cadet Capt. David O. Pritchett, a son of Mrs. Ruby Pritchett, 3144 Mustang Drive, Columbus, and Cadet Lt. Alvin B. Jones, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jones, 1908 10th Ave., Phenix City, Ala., have been named winners of the annual AUSA-ROTC scholarships for the 1970-71 school year.

Joe Flowers, president of the local Association of the U.S. Army (AUSA) made the scholarship presentation at ceremonies held in the board room ofthe Muscogee County School District.

Pritchett, a member of the Hardaway High School Junior ROTC Cadet Corps, will continue his studies at North Georgia College in Dahlonega, Ga., while Jones of the ROTC Cadet Corps of Central High School has selected Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala. Both young men will continue the training in the Senior ROTC program at their respective units.

The Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter of AUSA has established the scholarship program through its ROTC committee exclusively for Junior ROTC students of the Muscogee County School District and the Phenix City School System.

The scholarships have a total value of $1,200 to each winner over a four-year period. The program pays $300 the first year with another $300 renewable each year for the three succeeding years of college.

To maintain eligibility for receiving the $300 at the beginning of the sophomore, junior and senior years of college, the recipients must obtain a written statement from the professor of military science that they have maintained good standing during the previous year, are continued for enrollment in Army ROTC and have continued to show an aptitude for leadership in the military service.

The winners are selected by the ROTC committee of the local AUSA chapter in coordination with the senior enlisted instructor of each school. The AUSA-ROTC committee is composed of Maj. (ret.) William G. Newbold, chairman; Col. (ret.) Albert N. Ward, CW4 (ret.) William F. Henderson and MSgt. (ret.) Raymond Plaisted Jr.

Retirement orientation set July 7

An orientation for personnel contemplating retirement will be held at 9 a.m. July 7 at Building 93, Section A, 1st Floor, Orientation Room. All personnel with over 18 years of active federal service are invited to attend with their wives.

The session will include information on retirement rights and benefits and explain how persons may prepare for a second career.

For a Hungarian versipn of crepes, fill with apricot jom mixed with cottage cheese. Sprinkle tops with finely chopped nuts and confectioner's sugor.

A friend of ours suggests that if you burn your finger while barbecuing, mix bourbon and water, drink it and apply the ice cube lightly to the finger.

In case you're wondering just what monosodium glutamate is, it's a flovor-enhancing powder produced from glutamic acids in beets, wheat or corn.

Chicken Marengo, a classic dish of olives, shrimp, croutons, fried eggs, wine, mushrooms, chicken and cognac, is said to have originated at the Battle of Marengo, when Napoleon was so busy that he ordered all the dinner courses served together in one dish.

Byline Bayonet

(Byline Bayonet welcomes questions of general interest about Fort Benning and the Army. Within space limitations all reasonable questions will be answered. Questions of a purely military nature which obviously could be answered more properly by commanders or supervisors within the chain of command will not be accepted. Questions must be signed with current unit of assignment indicated. Send questions to The Bayonet, Room 602, Infantry Hall or telephone 545-2791.)

Q—Would like the following information on Arlington National Cemetery: historical background such as when it became a National Cemetery; its rank in size among other cemeteries; total acreage; number of graves; who is buried there, i.e., percentage breakdown by the various major conflicts; and rules as to who can be buried there?....

A—Arlington National Cemetery was established in 1864. It is the largest military cemetery with a total of 517.8 acres. Ft. Snelling National Cemetery is second in size. As of May 27, there were 154,694 interments (there may be more than one internment at each grave site). While a list of distinguished persons buried at Arlington is available, a statistical breakout by conflict is not maintained and not readily available.

Basic eligibility for all national cemeteries stems from active service in the Armed Forces of the United States. This eligibility is based on law; however, the same statute grants the Secretary of the Army authority to prescribe special standards, such as those set for Arlington Cemetery which list eligibility as follows:

Those dying on active duty in the Armed Forces.

Retired members of the Armed Forces who have performed active federal service, are carried on an official retired list and are eligible to receive compensation stemming from service in the armed forces.

Recipients of the Medal of Honor.

Q—What is the total number of Army men tried for murder of Vietnamese civilians to date?

A—As of Dec. 31, 1970, 80 men have been tried for violation of Article 118, Uniform Code of Military Justice (murder) against Vietnamese civilians; 37 were convicted; 20 convicted of lesser offenses and 23 acquitted.

Q—What is CHAMPUS?....

A—CHAMPUS stands for Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services, a program which offers to retirees and eligible dependents of service members a wide range of civilian health care services which are paid for in large part by the government.

Q—Who is eligible for CHAMPUS benefits?

A—Persons are eligible if they are a dependent of a uniformed services member serving on active duty orders which do not specify a period of less than 31 days, retired members entitled to retired, retainer or equivalent pay and their spouses and children; dependents of deceased active duty and deceased retired members who died while serving on active duty or while entitled to retired, retainer or equivalent pay. (NOTE: Dependent parents or parents-in-law are not eligible under CHAMPUS for civilian medical care. They may, however, be eligible for care in facilities of the uniformed services.)

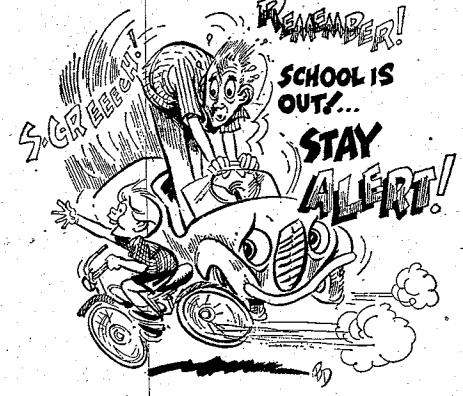
The judge says

Buying, selling on credit has pitfalls

USAIC LEGAL ASSISTANCE OFFICE — In today's world there is a great deal of buying and selling on credit, with payments made on an installment basis; and at one time or another nearly every one makes an installment purchase. Because installment buying is so common people tend to think of it as a perfectly safe and uncomplicated method of handling their finances — which it is if one is aware of the pitfalls.



Many people get into difficulty because they fail to understand the extent of their obligations when they purchase an item on an installment basis. One of the most common misunderstandings is that if you can no longer make the payments on an item all you need to do is just call the finance company and tell them to pick up the purchased item. This may be the case if the finance company agrees to it but ordinarily it is not the end of the matter.

When you call the finance company and ask them to pick up the item in question the net effect is that of voluntary repossession. In almost all cases this means you are still liable for the difference between what you owed the finance company and the money produced by a sale of the surrendered item. In addition you will ordinarily be responsible for attorney's fees and costs connected with the sale of the item. Suppose you purchased a $4,000 automobile and asked the finance company to pick it up after paying $2,000. The finance company sold the car for $1,400 and had $400 of attorney's fees and costs associated with the repossession and sale. You would still owe the finance company $1,000 and would not have the use of the car.

Of course the key to such liability is the amount received as a result of the sale of the repossessed item. It is quite common for the amount realized from the sale to be less than the remaining amount of the purchaser's debt for two reasons: first, a forced sale deprives the seller of a great deal of his bargaining power and he must simply take what he can get; secondly, the monthly payments on these items rarely keep pace with the depreciation of the item particularly in the early months after purchase.

The other most common area of danger and ignorance has to do with the original purchaser's liability when he sells the item to another party. It is generally assumed that once you sell an item your liability to your creditor ends. This is true if the sale is a cash sale and the proceeds of the sale are used by the seller to pay off his creditor in full. However in most cases the sale is really an assumption in which the buyer pays you a certain amount of money and agrees to take over the remaining payments. There are two common pitfalls in such an arrangement. First most lenders require that their permission be obtained for any sale or transfer of the item in question. This is referred to as a "consent to transfer of equity" or something similar. A transfer without such consent from the lender may produce serious consequences. If you are in doubt as to whether you can make a transfer without consent of the lender contact your Legal Assistance Office.

Even if the lender gives his consent to the transfer of the item it does not ordinarily relieve the original purchaser of ultimate liability. Thus if you sell your car to a man who assumes your payments the lender will expect you to make the payments even though the lender consented to the transfer. Of course you have a claim against the man who assumed the payments from you for the amount of the payments you make for him; but this is often a unless claim. Generally if that man had any money he would have made the payments himself. The original purchaser is completely relieved of liability only if the lender gives him a release or novation and most lenders are very reluctant to do this.

Soldier should join in, show concern

(Editor's Note: This article was written by PFC Jerry Conner, Information Office, Ft. MacArthur. The article originally appeared in Ft. MacArthur's Star and Missile April 23.)

Ft. MacArthur, Calif., The Army as an institution is many things to many people. It is loved, respected, admired and an employer. It is despised, distrusted and cursed.

But possibly the worst enemy to the institution and to the men themselves is a soldier's lack of concern and complete isolation. It is sometimes a shame that man has the ability to turn his mind on and off at will. A noncomitted drifter is a vegetable in society and a waste to himself as well.

How many times have I heard "Two years shot to hell" or "Don't make waves, just be a nobody for a couple years." Is there a counter-reply to this type or attitude? I think so.

If we look back in our lives we can see many times where a little more energy on our parts would have made our lives a little better. The point is this. Two years of a man's life are never wasted. If an organization on this fort turns you on — enjoy it. If there is something lacking, start your own functions. There are some sharp people in the Army. If you're searching for someone to relate to, don't bury your head, open a few doors and get to meet that someone.

The soldier that is contented, quiet or middle-of-the-road should not be condemned. But the soldier who complains and then disappears or the guy who sees nothing to do and just goes back to bed— these are the wasted minds.

Don't be consumed by your own hatred. If the system stinks, get to work and make your voice heard. A letter to the CO, or a personal talk with the man in charge might help. If your friends feel the same way, join together and let the officers know your complaints.

The Army is in a strange position. The atmosphere of change is surrounding us. Never before have men in the military been able to do more to enrich their lives.

Wake up, soldier. You aren't in prison and people will listen.

Summer worker

Sheila Hodges, a senior at Carver High School, runs tests on blood samples in the laboratory at Martin Army Hospital where she is employed for the summer. Approximately 500 youths are being hired at Fort Benning this summer under the NYC program, Summer Employment Examination Program and the Summer Aides Program.

Independence Day carnival features pageant of history

The 195th anniversary of the founding of our nation will be celebrated at Fort Benning on July 3. The opening events will feature 10 select honor guards dressed in the uniform of a specific era from our historic past, complete with appropriate weaponry.

The honor guards will consist of three men each, two with weapons and one carrying the colors, representing special periods of interest spanning from the Revolutionary War to present. Adding to the pageantry of the day, the 283d Army Band will play the march song most commonly associated with each era.

The 1st Bn., 58th Infantry (Patriots) will head the procession, carrying the flag of the 13 original colonies, accompanied to the strains of Yankee Doodle.

As the events unfold you will see represented the soldier, weaponry and colors of the Mexican War; War of 1812, Civil War, Indian Wars (1870 - 1880; Spanish-American War; World Wars I and II;; the Korean War and the Vietnam conflict.

Such memorable songs as "Dixie," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Gary Owen," "Over There," and "Yellow Ribbon" will add a touch of nostalgia to the opening ceremonies.

The calendar of events as in the past will feature many carnival activities and prizes. There also will be a 45-minute fireworks display included in the many evening events.

So with the battle of the bands, beauty and talent contests, Airborne tower rides and sky diving exhibition, should make for a interesting and enjoyable day for everyone.

Admission tickets for the carnival are presently on sale to active military and retired personnel and their dependents and all civilian employes on post and their dependents. As a booster the 283d Army Band will perform in support of ticket sales at the main Post Exchange on June 30.

Post Office open house set July 1

The Fort Benning Branch of the Columbus Post Office will hold open house July 1 in connection with the national observance of U.S. Postal Service Day.

The public has been invited to participate in the refreshments and activities between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. On the agenda is a tour of the entire postal facilities.

According to M. C. Bolden, branch superintendant, "first day covers" will be given away while eight-cent commemorative stamps may be purchased.

'Time is of the essence'

Benning telephone service offers listener 'exact' time

By FRANK WEBB

"Time is of the essence. Time is precious. Time is our worst enemy. We've got time on our hands, time to kill, we need more time for living, and time always seems to be a'wasting."

Time, obviously is important to everyone. People want to know the correct time, often, because they feel it is important to be on time for jobs, appointments, engagements and dates.

Therefore, the Communications-Electronics Department, telephone branch, has established a telephone time service at Fort Benning. Exact time is now available by calling 545-5261.

J. R. Boswell, supervisor of the post's dial time service, explains that the service is similar to the civilian time service in that it announces the exact military time by recorded message every fifteen seconds.

He went on to say that this is the first time this service has been offered here. It was installed after the exchanges received several unofficial suggestions that they install a time service on post.

A World of Ups and Downs

Phenix flag pole painter repeats history at Benning

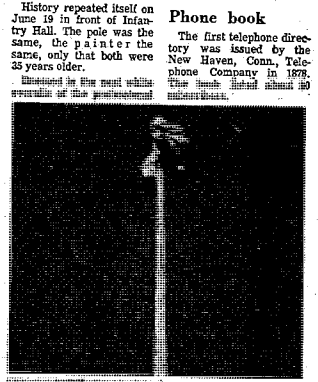
ARTHUR COMEGYS

In his world of ups and downs Sam Barr a painter contractor from Phenix City, Ala., occupied a unique position last Saturday. He had the ticklish task of painting the 100-foot flag pole in front of Infantry Hall, Fort Benning.

Perched upon the slender steel pole Sam's mind must have wondered back 35 years ago when as a green 17-year-old apprentice he had first scaled and painted the same staff. Here the story unfolds.

It seems that 35 years back Sam's father had contracted to paint the flag pole then situated at Stilwell Field. Problems beset the project from the offset. First, the painter who had been hired to do the job literally froze at the switch, approximately half way up the pole. Yes, right in the middle of things. He wouldn't go up and couldn't come down. Now one must agree that a grave situation was at hand. There are few things in this wide world, in the military or out, more awkward than a half painted object with something foreign hanging on to it. Especially a flag pole over 100 feet high.

Sam's father, being a professional type, immediately grasped the problem, came up with the only practical solution. Get the object off the pole—get someone up the pole to accomplish this—find someone to finish the job, in that order.



Never daunted for one second the senior Barr began searching diligently here, there and abouts for a suitable replacement for the beleagued painter. Only to find that high rise painters, particularly of the flag pole variety were in short supply and hard to fall upon.

After considerable thought and hard consideration the elder Barr decided that his young, eager 17-year-old apprentice son Sam, was the only alternative. With great haste the young man was dispatched to the scene at the old headquarters at Building 35.

Once on the scene young Sam, all 5 feet 6 inches of him, patiently listened to instructions and was fitted into his working gear and scampered up the flag pole to relieve the striken man and assist him in descent. After which he completed the precarious task of painting. His first big or shall we say "high" job.

History repeated itself on June 19 in front of Infantry Hall. The pole was the same, the painter the same, only that both were 35 years older.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

By BOB BARBER

Since the membership drive kicked off March 10, the results have been added to Chapter rolls. According to the latest report from Washington, the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter is the leading Chapter in the Third Region area, with 6,300 members. All AUSA representatives who have memberships which have not been turned in to the AUSAoffice are urged to do so without delay, so these memberships can be sent to Washington prior to the June 30 deadline and be counted toward the drive. They may be turned intothe office in Infantry Hall, Room 602.

BOARD MEETING

The Chapter Board of Directors held their monthly meeting in the Conference Room of the Fourth National Bank in Columbus June 9. President Joe J. Flowers presented a Certificate of Appreciation to Cpt. Robert N. Jannarone for becoming the fifth local life member of AUSA. He also presented Certificates of Commendation tothe following retiring Board members: Guy E. Snavely, CSM (ret.) Welborn A. Callahan, Col. (ret.) Ned B. Mabrey, Jack M. Averett and Col. Eugene J. Murdock. Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott expressed his appreciation to the retiring Board members for their service to the AUSA and its activities. J. W. Woodruff, who is also a member of the National Council of Trustees, proposnd that a letter be drafted to Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor in appreciation for his term of service. The proposal was passed.

ANNUAL GENERAL MEMBERSHIP ELECTION MEETING

Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Harry. W. O. Kinnard addressed more than 800 persons gathered in Marshall Auditorium June 14. His major topic was "the increasing role of air-mobility in the Army today." He also reminisced on his past association with Fort Benning and retold the story of the activities of the 11th Air Assault (Test) at Fort Benning and of its transferral to Vietnam as the 1st Cavalry.

Prior to his addressthemberselected new officers and named new members to the Board of Directors to replace those whose terms expired. The new officers include: Col. (ret.) Jake R. Riley Jr., president; Charles S. Daley, 1st Vice President; Joe Windsor, 2nd vice president; Col. William R. Guthrie, secretary-treasurer. The new Board Members are: Bill Herndon, Roy Browning, Leon R. Livingston Jr., Capt. Charles W. Anderson, Arthur E. Medlock, Brown Nicholson, CSM Frank Plass and Cliff Livingston, 1971; CSM John F. LaVoie replaces CSM Bittorie, 1972; Col. K. Barlow replaces Col Thebaud, 1973.

Prior to the meeting in Marshall Auditorium, more than 750 military and civilian members and guests met in an informal gathering at the Supper club. Gen. Kinnard, beer, snacks and convservation made the social hour an enjoyable one.

832 bayonet soldier's coffeehouse 2-30

A soldier's coffeehouse is being constructed in the 197th Infantry Brigade area. Initiated through the VOLAR fund, the new lounge is located adjacent to the Kelley Hill Chapel and provides a spot where Army personnel can come to "relax, rap, and relate," according to 197th "Coffeehouse Chaplain" (Capt.) William "Bill" C. Canady.

Designed to accomodate the young men of today's Army, the coffeehouse will have a modern motif consisting of black lights, a $2,000 sound system and a refreshment (coffee) bar.

Pillows and expended reels of communication wire will be used as tables and chairs.

Although the coffeehouse is next to the chapel, it is not related to religious activities.

Anyone wishing to donate his talent, whether it is musical or to help in construction, is asked to contact Chaplain Canady at the Kelley Hill Chapel.

The program has been in succesful operation at Fort Carsen, Colo., for over three years.

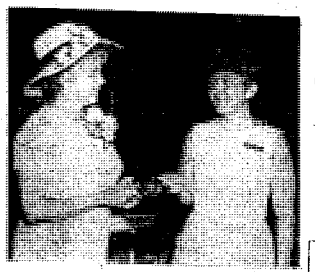
The coffeehouse is scheduled to open in the middle of July.

'Brothers' gives boys companions

"Big Brothers of America" is a program dedicated to giving boys between the ages of 6 and 14 the friendship and guidance a big brother can give. Attending baseball games, using local recreational facilities and visiting points of interest in the surrounding region are planned on a group level so that all children and their "big brothers" can share their enthusiasm.

The Big Brothers Program is not quite a year old, and is open to sons of military and civilian personnel in need of male companionship.

Each boy will have his own "big brother."



Any young man who can find several hours a week to share with a boy is eligible to join Big Brothers.

For more information about the program, telephone the Army Community Service at 545-1233—1633.

Regents scholarships top $5,000 mark this year

Columbus College has received $5,400 in regents scholarship funds for the 1971-72 school year, Clark Aldridge, director of financial aid and placement at the college, announced today.

This figure is $200 more than the allocation for the 70-71 academic year, Aldridge added.

Each year the state legislature appropriates $200,000 for these scholarships which are then divided among the 28 institutions in the University System of Georgia. Allocations are based on the number of equivalent full-time students enrolled at each institution.

Regents scholarships are given for studies in all 197th Infantry Brigade to the Doctor of Medicine degree. Up to $750 may be awarded for each scholarship but the average amount is $400, Aldridge said.

Awards are made on a year-to-year basis, but priority is given to those students who have previously held the scholarships.

OC wives hold picnic

On June 19 the 50th Company, 5th Student Battalion, class 18-71 held a company picnic at the 197th Infantry Brigade picnic area. The picnic started around 12:00 noon. The occasion was very casual. For entertainment the men planned organized games for the adults and children. Each wife brought a dish of food assigned to her by the picnic committee. The committee chairman was Claudia Crisman and the committee was composed of Glenda Heckert, Nancy Heflin, Margaret Allison, Susan Barnes and Jennie Hack.

Invited as honored guests were Lt. Col. and Mrs. Donald E. Bliss and Maj. and Mrs. Walter D. Kinard.

The OC wives club will hold their next coffee on June 29 at Wigal Hall.

Charm and chatter

Weekly women's column starts with contest offer

This begins our weekly column for publicizing all the women's news at Fort Benning. But we have problem only you can solve. We need a name. The Officers Wives Club has donated a "Queen of Battle" cookbook to the winner. So put your bright thoughts down and drop them in our publicity boxes in the Main Post or Custer Terrace commissaries. You may have the exact idea we are searching for.

Speaking of the "Queen of Battle" cookbook, the OWC is preparing a supplement to this best-selling volume. Pehaps you have a freezer special or an elegant dinner entree recipe that you would share. The suggestion box in the OWC lounge may be used for recipes or any information you may have that will aid the OWC. So please use it.

(News items may be placed daily in marked boxes near the entrance of the Main Post Commissary and the Custer Terrace Commissary by noon Wednesday of each week. News items should be in four copies. If the items cannot be placed in the boxes, they can be mailed to Mrs. Carol May 201-B Maddeh Ave., Fort Benning by the Wednesday deadline.)

Instructional Methods Division

"I ate four apples and one toad, Dad." Last Tuesday Instructional Methods Division of the Department of Instruction held their office picnic at the UAIC picnic area off 2nd Armored Division Road. Ssc. Harry Toone manned the barbecue chicken and hot dogs sizzling on the outdoor grills. The other picnic committee members were SSgt. Rolan Maynard, Capt. James Kaiserski and Capt. Wayne Silkett. But organization was strictly "help-yourself" when the picnic table groaned under the loads of chicken, hot dogs, baked beans, and garlic bread (toads optional).

Despite the heat of a cloudless afternoon, volleyball and badminton games had lively participants while horseshoes clanked under shade trees. The adults wetted down with two kegs of cold beer, the children dunked for apples and the dogs river dipped. A large vat of soft drinks on ice quenched pigmy thrist, and the ice was great fun after swings, teeter - totters, merry-go-rounds and tired mothers.

It was an office picnic held like so many have been and will be this summer — a get-together with the colonel, the major, the captains, the seargeants, the families and the Georgia sun.

Company Operations Department

On June 15, the officer's wives of the Land Navigation Committee held this month's brunch for the Company Operations Department in the Supper Club of the Officers Club.

Following refreshments, local television celebrity, Mrs. Rozell Fabiani of "The Rozell Show," spoke to us on her involvement with the plight and her respect for the Ameican Indian. Her program was based on portraits of guest Indian speakers who have appeared on her show. Each speaker presented their own true feelings and heritage to eliminate the "sadly misunderstood" ideas of the American Indian.

Directorate of Plans and Training

The Directorate of Plans and Training (DPT) ladies' luncheon was held on May 19 in Phenix City. Along with the luncheon, a short business meeting was conducted. We welcomed to the training division Mrs. Max L. Waldrop, wife of the new chief of the training division, and also Mrs Lowell E. Twinging.

At their home, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Max L. Waldrop hosted a social on May 20 for the training division.

On May 20, DPT held at party at the Main Officers' Open Mess to bid farewell to Col. and Mrs. Clifford H. Ford. Col. Ford is going to Vietnam. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Tedd H. Brown. One highlight of the evening was the presentation of baby cups by Col. and Mrs. Willis J. Adams. The cups were presented to Capt. and Mrs. George M. Hetherington for their twins, George and Michelle, and to Capt. and Mrs. Paul I. McCarthy Jr. for their daughter, Karen.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Smith entertained the training division on June 4 at their home on Wise Street with a lovely buffet dinner. An out-of-town guest was Mrs. John Roberts. Special guests were Col. and Mrs. Clifford H. Ford, who are leaving Fort Benning.

Leadership Department

An ice-cold watermelon basket brimming with fresh fruits was the focal point for the patio coffee enjoyed by the ladies of the Conditioning, Combatives and Drill Committee of the Leadership Department on June 15. Mrs. Joseph M. Bryan and Mrs. Daniel A. Bigley were the hostesses.

Mrs. Robert E. Pritchett was presented with a farewell scroll. Her job of treasurer is being assumed by Mrs Bryan.

Mrs. Michael A. Ross, Mrs. Joseph C. Gryder and Mrs. Jerry T. Walden were welcomed.

NCO Wives

The Non-Commissioned Officers' Wives' Club of Fort Benning is extending an invitation to all newcomers to the post to join and become a part of the club. If your husband is of rank E4 and above and you are interested in belonging to the club you may do so by contacting any member or by calling Mrs. Henry Guilbeault, club president, at 689-2991 or Mrs Wallace Colson membership chairman, at 689-3869.

Many activities are provided for the members, including luncheons, teas and coffees, for getting acquainted with other wives of the post.

A ceramic shop is available for ladies belonging to the wives' club with a small membership fee to join. Information on ceramics may be obtained by calling Mrs. Robert Smith at 545-2036.

Every second Wednesday of each month, a business meeting is held at 1 p.m. to carry out the club's monthly business. Chairmen of various committees give their monthly reports and members vote on the various welfare and service projects they would like to participate in.

Some of the welfare and goodwill services provided by the wives' club for this coming year include serving coffee and doughnuts to Martin Army Hospital once a month, baking cakes for the Main Post Service Club once a month, awarding of grants, and donating money to various projects such as the new Infantry Museum and The Listening Eyes School.

The third Wednesday of each month is a special treat for the members as they enjoy their luncheon which is usually highlighted by an honored guest or a guest speaker.

Silver trays are given to each member as she accompanies her husband to his new assignment.

A free breakfast is held each fourth Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. Breakfast games are enjoyed by the membership.

In the event that babysitting is a problem, the wives' club provides free nursery privileges for children of members while attending the social functions.

OWC

The Officers' Wives' Club will offer a teenage charm and modeling class starting July 20. Mrh. Frank Roberts will instruct and the cost will be $15. For more information call Mrs. R. C. Miller, 545-4739.

OWC will offer a teenage typing class starting July 12. Classes will be held at McBride School on Monday mornings for two weeks. This is the perfect time to learn the basic skills. Cost will be $12. For more information call Mrs. R. C. Miller, 545-4739.

There will be a knitting class for children 14 years of age and adults starting June 28. Those attending the class will be entitled to reduced rates on famous brand wool. The classes will consist of one and one-half hour sessions. For more information call Mrs Furman, 563-5469.

Riding, golfing, bowling and ceramics are popular activities and are offered throughout the year.

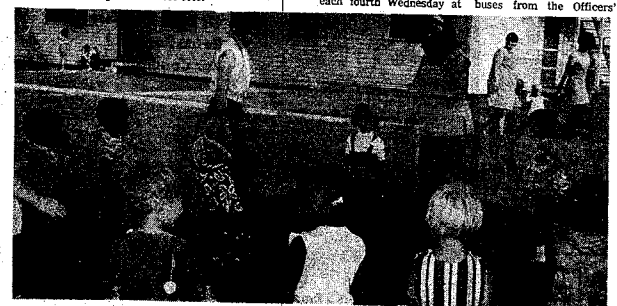
Fort Benning Officers' Wives' Club sponsors a "Spend-the-Day" party in Atlanta July 21. Get your tickets ($6) from Mrs. Jack B. Cummings, 545-2468, or Mrs. Russell C. Miller, 545-4739. Chartered buses from the Officers' Club leave at 8 a.m. The price includes a box lunch, fashion show at 1 p.m., and a seated tea at 3:30 p.m. Teenage daughters welcome.

197th Bde.

The monthly coffee for the ladies of Hqs., 197th Inf. Bde., was held in the home of Mrs. Bernard Muller-Thym. Mrs. Steven Cox was co-hostess.

After delicious refreshments were seved, Mrs Lee Smith conducted the business meeting. The ladies were reminded to bring food for the Army Community Service (ACS) food locker.

Special guest was Mrs. Louis Bourdrias, mother of Mrs. Carly Marsh. Mrs. Boudrias was visiting Columbus, Georgia to attend the graduation of Mrs. Marsh at Columbus College.



Mrs. Henry Doctor and Mrs. Robert Steiner were welcomed to the group Farewells were said to Mrs. Charles Yarbrough, Mrs. Clarence Howard Jr., Mrs. David Gillespie, Mrs. George Guill, Mrs. Stephen Darnell and Mrs Martin Johnson.

The camera doesn't lie as the officers' wives of the 1st Bn., 58th Inf., 197th Bde., recently discovered. Mrs. Donald Fulmer, hostess of the June 10 coffee, spent three days capturing the ladies on film. At the "come as you were" coffee, the nightgown and robe worn by Mrs. Roger Roley proved to be just as fashionable as Mrs. Paul Gross' neat cotton dress.

Members of the group who were unable to come were "seen" in print. The good-natured attitude of those involved was commendable.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Stephen Pawlik. Plans were made to bring canned goods to the July coffee. These items will be donated to the ACS food locker.

'Ring around the roses'

Volunteers assist small children during a play period at Fort Benning's Protestant Vacation Bible School which will run through June 14. A complete schedule of classes is being offered for dependents ages four to 13 between 8:30 and 11 a.m. daily. The school is being conducted in Bldg. 2606 on Dixie Road. The theme of this year's school is "God and My Life."

Air Force cadets take Airborne training

The Infantry School's Airborne Department is host this month to 226 cadets from the United States Air Force Academy, who hope to leave wearing shiny new Airborne wings.

The cadets, who arrived June 12 to begin the three-week Airborne basic course, are the first of several groups of military academy cadets which will attempt the tough Airborne course this summer. They will be followed by over 700 cadets from the Military Academy at West Point, 60 Midshipmen from the Naval Academy, and by 400 more cadets from the Air Force academy.

During their stay at Fort Benning the Air Force cadets are assigned to the 47th Co., 4th Stu Bn., TSB. Capt. Thomas Y. Hiter, commanding officer, is in close contact with the cadets and describes their attitude toward the training as "excellent."

"The basic purpose of airborne training for Air Force cadets is to familiarize them with exiting an aircraft," Capt. Hiter said. "They experience and go through the same training as Army personnel in the Airborne course."

New environmental section formed to combat pollution

Until recently Fort Benning's fight against pollution was often sporadic, even though many people were working to improve the environment.

Now a simple phone call can help with the cleanup of Fort Benning. The telephone numbers, 545-5933 and 545-4222, belong to the Environmental Management Section of the Directorate of Facilities Engineering (DFAE).

The group has been formed to serve as an agency to identify problems and recommend ways to eliminate them. It consists of nine members, each of whom has a specialty such as civil engineering and forestry.

Heading the new section is Col. James M. S. Strickland, a 30-year Infantry veteran with a master's degree in electrical engineering and a great enthusiasm for a cleaner environment.

Assisting him is another Infantry officer, Lt. Col. William B. Phillips formerly of the DFAE. Phillips was initially assigned chief of the post beautification project.

The men responsible for the initial investigative work of the group are two young soldiers, 2nd Lt. J. P. Greene and Sp4 Brian Price, both college graduates in forestry. Together they surveyed the post's ecological problems and recommended the type of organization they felt could best be used to guard the environment.

Col. Strickland says the group realizes there are many problems on post, including such things as water, air and noise pollution. In areas where trash has been dumped and is identifiable as to origin, the group has called the responsible party, often unaware of the problem, and a quick cleanup has eliminated the individual dumps.

"But we need," says Col. Strickland, "to identify all the problems on post before we can find ways to clean it up.

"In fact I'd like to be bothered right now with a lot of telephone calls telling us about those problems."

Re-Up Mech Style

Sgt. Gary Young, rear, Co. A, 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf., is reenlisted for a six-year term by Lt. Col. Stephen R. Pawlik, foreground, battalion commander. Young decided on the unusual mechanized-style reenlistment over the usual office ceremony.

Construction, 'play war' all in day's work for 43rd

For most Army battalions, erecting barracks partitions, rebuilding a Boy Scout dam and fighting a simulated "war" to boot would be a challenge, but to the men of the 43rd Engr. Bn. (Const.), 931st Engr. Gp., it's all in a day's work.

While continuing to perform regular duties, the soldiers of HHC, commanded by Capt. Otis Williams, and Co. A, ecmmanded by Capt. James Staton; recently conducted a four-day tactical evaluation and field problem in the woods of Fort Benning.

With orders to establish a rock quarry as part of their field mission, the engineers of Alfa Company worked diligently with tools and heavy equipment to locate and reopen an excavation site for crushed rock.

While carrying out the normal administrative duties for the battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. Beverly L. McGruder, HHC also guarded the base encampment against "enemy" infiltrators, battling off a barrage of simulated attacks by the aggressors.

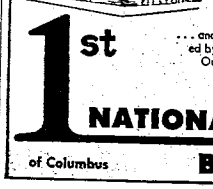
In addition to preparing for a future rock quarry site, the A Co. engineers conducted their usual maintenance and ordinance duties for B, C and D companies. These companies continue to construct VOLAR partitions for the soldiers of Fort Benning, as well as rebuilding a bridge and dam at the McKenzie Boy Scout Camp.

"We will continue to work on the opening of the rock quarry after we have completed the field problem," said 2nd Lt. Edward Sacco, a Co. A platoon leader. "But setting up and beginning operations of the site while under a wartime atmosphere made it a bigger challenge as well as better training," concluded the Wheeling, W. Va., native.

Relying on their own resources to produce a water point and establish communications, the two engineer companies remained in the field for four days, warding off several early dawn simulated attacks by the aggressors of the "invading forces."

The entire field problem and tactical evaluation, deemed a success, was an important part of the 43rd's mission to be continually effective in their operations, even while working in a wartime situation.

Visa required for Japan tourists



WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Some U. S. citizens, active duty men and women, traveling to Japan in a tourist status are encountering difficulties in being admitted to that country because they do not have visas.

The Department of Defense reminds all Service personnel that when traveling to Japan in a tourist status:

—Japan requires visas (or military leave authorization) for all persons visiting there.

—Visas may be obtained from any Japanese embassy or consulate.

Two 197th companies beautify Holy Trinity Retreat

By STEVE PARTRIDGE

The men of Headquarters and Headquarters Company (HHC), 197th Infantry Brigade and the 72nd Engineer Company, became landscape architects, window washers and handymen May 24-June 3.

The soldiers used their new-found talents in a summer "beautification" project at the Blessed Trinity Shrine Retreat, Holy Trinity, Ala.

Used previously by the 197th Infantry School, turned their devotion to Sister Mary Alice and the "retreat" staff for a two-week period.

Sp4 Roger Swesey Controls Bulldozer

A quirk of fate brought the brigade soldiers into the project.

Sister Mary Alice and her staff could not undertake the job alone. A phone call to the Holy Apostles Seminary, Cromwell, Conn., produced help in the form of three seminarians—John McSweeny, Lawrence Gosselin and Frank O'Rourke. The three men were also connected with a Fort Benning religious activities program during their stay.

Gosselin had visited the Fort Benning-Columbus area four years before. Associated with the Trappist Monks at Conyers, Ga., he worked with the Society of Ft. James for the Spanish speaking people on Fort Benning's Main Post. On his previous visit, the current seminary student became acquainted with Chaplain (Capt.) Thomas Naughton, 197th Catholic chaplain.

The four men met for a friendly social gathering which resulted in a discussion about the problems of the Holy Trinity Retreat. The question of Army assistance popped into the talks. Rejected by Father Naughton as impractical, the chaplain contacted Capt. Steven F. Cox, HHC, 197th Inf. Bde., commander, and obtained his opinion of the project.

Cox had previously searched fir some type of "community action" project, and had failed to find a satisfactory idea. The commander needed to look no farther when he heard about the problems of the "retreat." A request was submitted and approved for HHC to sponsor the operation.

Approximately 30 individuals from the two 197th companies participated in the program. Trees were trimmed, windows washed, dead trees and stumps removed and rocks discarded.

On the last day of the operation the brigade soldiers were provided with a hot meal and cold refreshments in appreciation of their toil.

Russell County (Ala.) Commission (Dist. 1) also helped in the project.

Although the majority of work is accomplished, more tasks need to be completed. The brigade personnel have expressed an interest in returning to the chapel and assisting in the work during their free time.

'Cromwell' star stammers through his role as Charles I of England

When Alec Guinness stammered through his first lines as Charles I of England, during filming of the Irvin Allen production, "Cromwell," which also stars Richard Harris at a post theater, immediate thought amongst the less knowledgeable movie-makers on the set was that he had fluffed his lines. But writer-director Ken Hughes ignored Guinness' seemingly painful projection of his dialogue; he knew, as did Guinness, that Charles I of England actually had suffered this speech problem.

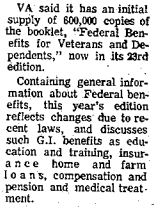
The historic detail which makes this new Columbia release in Panavision and Technicolor, so authentic a re-creation of turbulent 17th Century England was carried through even to the point of planting a wart on Harris' chin, a blemish not generally favored by actors. Cromwell had several unsightly warts on his face; Harris who portrays the Puritan leader, also has them in the picture.

Incidentally, both stars found their personal "authentic" details troublesome in the extreme. Guinness had to maintain his stammer throughout the film, without affecting the impact of his performance. Harris several times wiped away his "warts" during sweat-inducing battles and had to play the scenes over again.

'Oz' tryouts slated

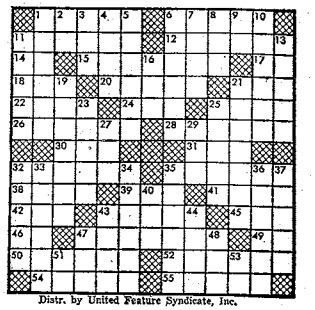
Tryouts for the forthcoming Dramatizer production, "The Wizard of Oz," will be held on July 7 and 8 at 7 p.m.

The play is to be produced as a non-musical. There are twelve female and ten male roles to be cast. Tryouts are open to all military personnel, dependents and civilians, excluding children under twelve years of age. Everyone interested in working as choreographers, set technicians, costumers, prop technicians, lighting technicians and general technicians welcome.



Tryouts will be held at the Fort Benning Playhouse, Bldg. 1237, behind the Infantry Museum.

VA 'bestseller' in 23rd edition now available



WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The Veterans Administration's most popular publication is now available from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington D. C. 20402.

VA said it has an initial supply of 600,000 copies of the booklet, "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents," now in its 23rd edition.

Containing general information about Federal benefits, this year's edition reflects changes due to recent laws, and discusses such G.I. benefits as education and training, insurance home and farm loans, compensation and pension and medical treatment.

'Vets should get drug info':

"American servicemen apparently are not being provided with one much-needed weapon. And that is sufficient information and instructions to fight the battle of drug-addiction." This is the opinion expressed by Georgia Veterans Service Director Pete Wheeler in an address before the Henry County Farm Bureau at American Legion Post 55 in McDonough.

He said that one-fourth of the estimated 200,000 hard-drug users in the United States are veterans and most of them have seen service since the start of the Vietnam War.

"We have lost over 45,000 fine American men in the fighting in Vietnam," said Wheeler, "but many additional lives are being wasted due to the drug problem which has become so acute as to constitute a disease of epidemic proportions among our veteran population." And he stressed the urgency of "pursuing all immediate steps to bring its cancer-like spreading to a halt."

Wheeler said, "The cost of the drug problem to American taxpayers is staggering. The Veterans Administration in 1970 announced plans to establish five drug treatment centers during 1971 and to have a total of 30 such centers by 1973. Now VA medical officials have revised their figures and plan to open 40 drug centers." He added that even this number very likely will have to be increased.

Synopsis

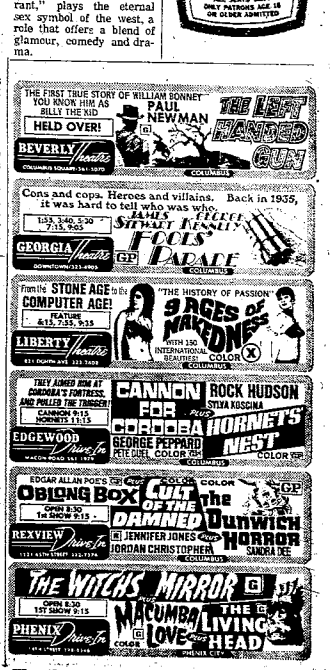
SHOOTOUT (Rated GP) —Released from Canon City's penitentiary in the year 1890, after serving seven years for bank robbery, Clay Lomax (Gregory Peck), arrives in Weed City where he held up the bank. Peck proceeds with plans to find Sam Foley (James Gregory), the accomplice who shot him in the back and escaped, becoming a prosperous rancher in Gun Hill. Foley, is aware of Clay's release and has hired Bobby Jay (Robert P. Lyons), a sadistic young killer, and his equally brutal young confederates, Skeeter and Pepe, who have instructions not to kill Clay. Instead they are to report if he heads for Gun Hill. Clay is located in Weed City, where he is awaiting the arrival of money from an old Kansas City girl friend. Clay along with the money, acquires Dawn Lyn, six and a half year old daughter of the woman he loved and possibly his. Clay and Dawn find shelter at the ranch of Pat Quinn, a widow, and son Nicholas Beauvy. The ranch is raided by Bobby Jay and his men. There was only one way it could end — in a shootout.

CROMWELL (Rated G) — Richard Harris portraying the title role of "Cromwell," is a God-fearing Puritan and military genius, austere and humble but stubbornly bending to his will the diverse people of 17th century England. Alec Guiness stars as the ill-fated Charles I of England, believer in the divine right of kings, who was simultaneously foolish and wise, weak and strong and always unable to understand the temper of his turbulent times. His historic 17th century confrontation with Oliver Cromwell led to civil war in England.

THE CONFESSION (Rated GP)—is a replay of a real life horror story, done in the staccato, reportorial style of "Z". Made by the director of "Z", Costa Govras, the film is a true account of the shattering experiences of Artur London, known as Gerad, Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs in Prague in 1951. Gerad (Yves Montand), a loyal Communist, is held captive and accused of being a traitor. He holds firm to his innocence, but constant torture and interrogation wear him down. His Party loyalty is such that he finally confesses, along with other accused comrades for everyone's good. His wife Lise (Simone Signoret), is forced to take a factory job. A later purge ousts most of the accusers and Gerad is set free and later with his wife Lise, writes of their experiences described in the film.

TOM THUMB (Rated G) — Russ Tamblyn, plays the title role of "Tom Thumb", in the film version of the Brothers Grimm fairy tale. The film is a fantasy combining live action, animated cartoon characters, songs and dances. Produced by George Pal, this musical adventure also stars Alan Young Terry-Thomas and June Thorburn, who share honors with fifty puppetoon personalities. Composer- songstress Peggy Lee wrote several original songs for the film. Screen magic reduced Tamblyn to the five-and-one-half inch "Tom," hero of the beloved tale.

ZACHARIAH (Rated GP) — The rock western which combines music, fast-paced Western action and comedy, is a unique motion picture. Starring as "Zacnariah" in this first "Electric Western," is young John Rubinstein, son of the world-famous pianist Arthur Rubinstein. Pat Quinn the exciting young actress who made her triumphant film debut as Alice in "Alice's Restaurant," plays the eternal sex symbol of the west, a role that offers a blend of glamour, comedy and drama.



DARIA HALPRIN
Young dancer makes film debut in 'Zabriskie'

Dancing leads to new role for Daria

The plane swept down from the clear sky and buzzed the girl running across the desert, barely missing her head. Nineteen-year-old Daria Halprin was scared but sure of herself as the cameras caught this sequence from Michaelangelo Antonioni's new MGM film "Zabriskie Point," in which newcomer Daria stars with Mark Frechette (another Antonioni discovery) and Rod Taylor.

Over and over the plane dived, once scraping the radio antenna of the car Daria was driving, another time smashing in the car's roof—only seconds before Daria was to get behind the wheel. But Daria remained professionally and innately cool—the key to her character.

Having seen Daria dance briefly in a film with other members of a San Francisco dance group run by her mother, Antonioni was sure she was the girl for his film. An interview and screen test bore out his intuitions.

In "Zabriskie Point" Daria plays a girl called "Daria," a prototype of herself.

"There is a close relationship between the character in this picture and myself," she states. "I found that many things which Daria, the character, says in the film are things which I have actually said to friends. And some of the things that she does, I have done. I felt that I could relate to the boy named 'Mark' in the story pretty much as I related to the actual Mark Frechette when we were not before the cameras. I don't know why this is. I imagine partly because Michelangelo, once he got to know us, did some revisions on the script, and also because Mark and I are both young and are involved in such things as challenging the establishment."

Daria is a girl of simple tastes and almost austerely simple dress except for omnipresent beads which make her a part of the generation of the moment. Having been a part of show business in her work as a member of a dancing troupe, she understands the dictates of the profession.

"I wasn't nervous," she says of her first day's work in "Zabriskie Point." "I figured that if I did anything Michelangelo didn't like, he would help me with the scene, which he did several times.

Libraries' books

Many new and interesting books have been received at the Special Services libraries during the past month. Some of the titles are listed below.

"Angle of Repose," Wallace Stegner: A novel tracing an American family through four generations, from their Eastern beginnings in the move westward.

"Brimstone Club," P. Van Wych Mason: A novel set in an 18th century English "establishment" social club devoted to Rabelasian activity.

"The Drifters," James A. Michener: A contemporary novel on today's youth in the wild orbit of expatriates and drug-outs, drugs and rock music, draft dodging, and racial and religious conflict.

"The Merry Month of May," James Jones: Sexual shenanigans take place among wealthy Americans in Paris. Set against background of the May 1968 French student revolution.

"A Rap on Race," Margaret Mead and James Baldwin: This dialogue between Margaret Mead and James Baldwin on the subject of race and society concludes that the problem of racism does not admit of simplistic solutions.

Insurance keeps star from races

HOLLYWOOD — James Garner's insurance company insisted that he sign on the dotted line stating he'd not drive another race car until the end of the insurance contract, so now the actor has sold off his interest in his racing team and got rid of the cars too.

He recently completed shooting "Skin Game," a Cherokee production for Warner Bros. and will segue into his new series for NBC, "Nichols"... also for Warner Bros.

BEVERAGE SHOP

A new Consolidated Beverage Store opened recently on Ingersol Street adjacent to the Infantry museum. It is open to members of the Officers and NCO Clubs.

Driverless tractors undergo tests

They've got a dern tractor running up and down the warehouse, up and down the ramp, across the street to another warehouse, down the ramp, across the street, and back up the ramp to its starting place. . .and you know what? It's real spooky! There - ain't - no - driver.

Man, I hear flipped the first time I saw that thing barreling along the ramp with its light flashing and its bell clanging. And you know that new bright yellow painted bunch of stripes on the street, the ramps, and through that warehouse — they have something to do with where it goes and where it stops — sorta like magnets, but I think they call it electronic controls.

That tractor without a human hand touching it beeps up, over and around them little painted tracks and it stops automatically, toots its horn, waits five minutes for someone to unload or load the flatbed trailers hooked on its behind, and then it flashes its red light, heep-beeps, toots its horn at the next stop.

And that driverless tractor is saving our government an estimated $27,974 — at the Sharpe Army Depot in Lathrop, Calif., alone. When the U. S. Army Material Command (AMC), in its modernization program, gets through evaluating the 10 units it now has at the Sharpe Army Depot as well as at the Sacramento and Atlanta depots, it will decide whether to procure other units for the other AMC depots.

Installation of the heavy duty electrically powered tractor with ultra sonic object detector began at the Sharpe depot last November. The guidance path consists of mutlistrand 14-gauge copper wire buried one-fourth inch deep into the concrete floors, ramps, and street. The electronically controlled path (readily identifiable by bright yellow paint) leads up and down ramps, around corners, indoors and out, with a "turn around" near the manually operated control panel in Warehouse A-1.

This manually operated selector panel is set up for 11 station stops now programmed in receiving and shipping. Additional stations can be added should the need arise.

The driverless tractor is capable of pulling three trailers loaded with material for loading or unloading at each scheduled stop. An automatic horn sounds as the tractor arrives at the station, and an area warehouseman then pushes the control button to delay the tractor until materiel is loaded or unloaded. Loading tables and the attached trailers are equipped with gravity rollers and conveyors for each in handling of supplies. After operations are completed the tractor proceeds to the next stop, after a worker pushes the release button.

The tractor automatically stops for five minutes at each station and then moves on to the next stop if it is not held at the previous stop.

Post pet fair scheduled Saturday

The eighth annual Children's Pet Fair will be held at Fort Benning Saturday.

All post children are invited to enter their pets, so hurry and get your registration blank so that your pet can be included.

The Main Post Service Club, who will sponsor the contest, wishes to remind young people that the maximum age for entering is 15 years old, however, this doesn't apply to your pets. In fact, your pets may even qualify in the "youngest" or "oldest" category and win a prize ribbon. Bedigree's aren't necessary, admission is free, and everyone is invited to join in the fun.

Call 545-4404 or 545-1375 for further information.

Dedication of dam, bridge ends job

A new bridge and dam at the Chattahoochee Council Scout Reservation was dedicated last week, culminating two months of efforts by the 43rd Engr. Bn., 931st Engr. Gp. at Fort Benning.

Ribbon cutting ceremonies were held June 19, marking the official completion of the joint community action project.

The engineers began repairing the structures April 5 after floods caused by heavy March rains washed away the bridge and dam.

Attending the dedication ceremony were Russell P. McLean, scout executive; Col. Robert J. Standley, group commander; Lt. Col. Beverly McGruder, battalion commander; and Capt. George Moon, commander of Co. C, 43rd Engr. Bn.

The bulk of construction was done by a platoon of Co. C with assistance from Co. B of the 43rd. Additional transportation support was provided by the 43rd's Co. A. Throughout construction period the Engineers had about 25 men at the site.

The engineers donated some building materials in addition to the equipment and manpower, but the major portion of supplies were provided by the scouting organization.

McLean said the restoration work would not have been possible without the assistance of the engineers. The scout executive said building materials were purchased with funds from the scout budget, but added he hopes civic groups and individuals will help the organization meet costs. Collecting funds is Gene Durga, camp site ranger.

During the camping season some 200 scouts will visit the reservation at one time, with more than 1,000 youngsters expected throughout the summer.

ROD AND GUN CLUB

By Bill Kloeb

Sportsmen who have made a study of the subject claim that 90 per cent of the fish are taken by 10 per cent of the people who fish. The 10 per cent catching the large share of fish depend on experience and skill while the 90 per cent on the short end of the stick depend on luck to take the leavings of the experts.

If you are one of the 90 per cent not getting your share you will have a chance to get some fishing education when the Bass Anglers Sports Society (BASS) puts on a "how to" clinic on bass fishing at the Columbus Municipal Auditorium Monday at 7:30 p.m.

BASS is a recently organized national organization promoting fishing. While it is new it is not small in numbers. There are more than 35,000 members throughout the country. The Columbus Bass masters, an affiliated organization, is sponsoring the clinic at the auditorium.

Three Part Clinic

The clinic will be in three parts. One part will be on the objectives of BASS in making improvements in anti-pollution and the conservation of our aquatic resources.

Another will be a series of three color movies. An underwater film, "Still Waters," gives a fish eye view of fishing. It shows bass striking at lures, feeding on frogs and ducklings and what takes place during the spawning season. "The Gifts", a revealing report on pollution of fishing waters, depicts the reasons for the growing concern of fishermen and the entire country over the water pollution problem. The third film has several exiting action scenes of bass fishing.

A panel of fishing experts will feature discussions by Roland Martin, winner of the 1970 Seminole Lunker Tournament in Florida, and John Powell, winner of the 1971 Table Rock National Tournament in Missouri.

The "how to" talks will include techniques to locate bass on a lake, use of depth finders, correct bass tackle and other successful tactics and techniques used by fishphishments. These men will not be talking about methods used in the North or West. They talk about fishing right here in the southeastern part of this country.

Professional Theories Differ

Martin, a former professional fishing guide on the Santee Cooper Reservoir in South Carolina and Powell, a retired Air Force sergeant will offer two completely different theories on how to catch the bass limit every time you go fishing. Powell is an advocate of year round shallow water fishing for bass. Martin, the second ranked national bass tournament scorer, is a scientific type fisherman who usually fishes the deep waters. He claims you have to establish a pattern or you will spend most of your efforts in areas devoid of fish. According to his philosophy a pattern is made up of a likely type of location for the gathering of fish and the type of lure that will interest the fish on that particular day. He reconnoiters reed points, stump points, flats, grass coves, willow covered water and jams hitting each spot with two or three different type of lures. When he establishes the type location of his pattern he fishes all the spots of this type that he can find using the lure that has worked during his reconnaissance.

The log and record book that Powell keeps substantiates that shallow water fishing can be productive during the hot summer months. Powell says you must remember that the direct rays of the sun are more uncomfortable to a bass than warm water. A lunker will put up with the warmer water in the shallows to get a good meal but he is going to do this waiting in a shady place. Powell looks for logs, bushes roiled water and other places that will provide this cover. He concedes that a bass would rather be in the deeper, cooler water but his contention is that the bass is willing to sacrifice some comfort for a good meal.

Martin and Powell will elaborate on these proven theories and throw in quite a few tricks they use to get results when other fishermen would give up hope and go home.

Admission to the clinic is $2. Smallfry under 12 years of age will be admitted free. The money obtained through these clinics are used to promote the BASS anti-pollution projects.

197th goes 14 scoreless innings

In a double-header played June 21, The School Brigade (TSB), played the field for two wins after holding the 197th Infantry Brigade scoreless for fourteen innings. TSB took the double-header from the 197th by 5-0 and 3-0. The shotgun arm of TSB pitcher, Brent Minster, fired the team to a no hitter for the first game. Minster threw ten strikeouts and gave up only two walks.

Scoring came early to TSB team. In the first inning, Nick Krantz hit a double, driving in Glenn Marshall for the first run. This was followed by a high arching homerun, first of two for Tom Klein, over the center-field fence.

TSB opened the second inning with base hits from gene Peacock and Louis Santos. A line drive by Pete Gunn drove in both men, giving TSB a 5-0 lead. The game ended with TSB's Pete Funn catching a 197th pop-fly ball and giving Minster his second no-hitter.

Game 2 began with a change of pitchers for TSB. Nich Krantz took over for Minster and Dave Klevan moved to first base. There was no change in TSB's ability as they took the second game, 3-0, blanking out the 197th for the second time that evening.

The 197th had base hits early in the game with a double in the first inning and one again in the second but none were able to cross the home plate.

In the bottom of the second, confusion between the 197th's infield and outfield allowed Gene Peacock of TSB to score on a hit by Douny Townsend, giving TSB their first run of the second game. The bottom of the third inning gave TSB another run on the fine hitting of Klein. The final run for TSB was scored in the bottom of the sixth inning when Klein again came through with a big hit and scored on an inside the park homerun.

These two victories by TSB gives them a 23-2 record and the championship title for the first half of the post league.

John Johnson

SP5 John E. Johnson won the US Army Infantry Board Spring Golf Tournament held here June 11. He finished the 18-hole handicap event tied with USAIB Headquarters commanding officer Capt. Dale H. Wright. A pitch and putt contest was chosen to decide the outcome of the tourney. Johnson wound up with one less pitch than Wright to take the title. Officers, soldiers and civilians of the USAIB competed.

Break Minster's winning streak

TSB, 931st split double-bill

By Richard Speers

931st Engineer Group sluggers smashed four doubles and a triple in the second inning of the opening game of a doubleheader June 15 to hand The School Brigade (TSB) ace Brent Minster his first regular season loss in two years.

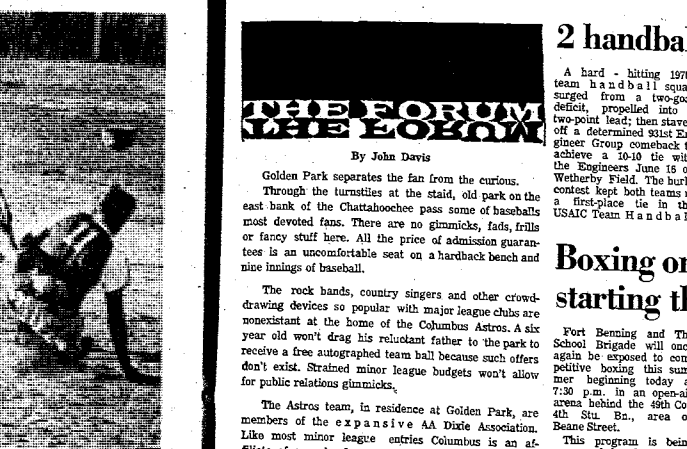
The Engineer's 5-4 victory was Minster's only defeat in his last 38 league games.

In the second game TSB squeaked by the 931st in a pitcher's duel, 1-0, on an unearned run. The unearned tally was scored on a wild pitch by 931st hurler Rick Monell as both Monell and TSB pitcher Nick Kranz threw three-hitters.

Scoring the only run of the nightcap was Gene Peacock who walked, reached third on Pete Gunn's double and came home on Monell's wild pitch in the fifth inning.

The 931st's only threat to Kranz came in the sixth inning with two outs as Dave McHenry reached first on a fielder's choice and scooted to third on a passed ball. However, the Engineer's scoring hopes were crushed when Dominic Mercurio grounded out to end the inning.

The first game provided most of the evening's excitement as Engineer pitcher John Jarvis received excellent support from his teammates in the field and at the plate to beat Minster.



931st shortstop Sonny DeLaPaz started the scoring in the first inning as he blasted Minster's first pitch to him over the left field fence, but TSB came back to tie the game in the bottom of the first, 1-1.

Successive extra-base hits by 931st batters Steve Dostal, Dave Wilson, McHenry, Mercurio and Rick Schell pushed across four runs in the second, staking the Engineer's to a lead they never relinquished.

TSB scored runs in the third and fourth innings on combination of hits and in the fifth as Tom Cline put one over the fence.

However, Jarvis refused to yield to the pressure and with the score 5-4 in the last inning he got Minster to ground out with a runner on base to end the game.

The victory for the Engineers ended what is believed to be the longest winning streak ever produced by a Fort Benning pitcher.

Ehresmans win Scotch Twosome

Capt. David Ehresman and his son, Donald, shot a net score of 69 to win the Scotch Twosome Fathers' Day tournament held June 20 on the Lakeside Course at the Fort Benning Country Club.

Forty sons or daughters 18 years of age or younger teamed with their dads to compete for trophies in the tournament where the Callaway system of handicapping was used to determine net scores of teams.

Ehresman and Donald also won the first place trophy in the 10-12 year age group. Maj. Oliver Dillon and his son Mike were the second place team.

Lt. Col. Grady Oxford and his son, Grady Jr., were low in the 13-15 year age group. Lt. Col. Donald Rodrigues and his son, Mark, placed second.

The competition in the 16-18 year group ended with two teams tied for first place. The teams made up of Capt. Neil McLean and Bill McLean and CWO Vane McCormick and his son, Vane Jr., shared the honors.

Third Army tennis meet results in

Capt. Dale Schwicker, Ft. Bragg, defeated Capt. Leonard Scheurman in the finals of the Third Army Tennis Championships held at the Fort Benning officers tennis courts to retain the Army Championship he won last year.

Schwicker made the open division championships an all Ft. Bragg affair when he then teamed with Scheurman to defeat the Fort Benning team of Capt. Ron Johnson and Capt. Steve Darrah to win the Army open doubles championship.

Women from Fort McClellan had an easy time capturing the singles and doubles championships and the second place position in the singles matches.

In the competition for senior men 40 years of age or older the honors were divided among three Third Army installations. Col. Leroy Stanley, Ft. Bragg was the singles champion. 1st Sgt. Frank Caneda, Ft. Gordon won the runner up position. Caneda teamed with Col. Phillip Avery to win the doubles championship for Ft. Gordon. Col. Jere Whittington and Col. Robert Seaman, the doubles team from Fort Benning won the doubles second place position.

Ft. Bragg collected the most match wins to win the team championship. Fort Benning placed second and Ft. Gordon was third.

THE FORUM

By John Davis

Golden Park separates the fan from the curious.

Through the turnstiles at the staid, old park on the east bank of the Chattahoochee pass some of baseballs most devoted fans. There are no gimmicks, fads, frills or fancy stuff here. All the price of admission guarantees is an uncomfortable seat on a hardback bench and nine innings of baseball.

The rock bands, country singers and other crowd-drawing devices so popular with major league clubs are nonexistant at the home of the Columbus Astros. A six year old won't drag his reluctant father to the park to receive a free autographed team ball because such offers don't exist. Strained minor league budgets won't allow for public relations gimmicks.

The Astros team, in residence at Golden Park, are members of the expansive AA Dixie Association. Like most minor league entries Columbus is an affiliate of a major league club. As the name implies all the local players are property of the Houston Astro organization and all have visions of someday performing for the parent team.

Unfortunately for most of them that's all it will ever be—a vision. Most AA level infielders are a step or so too slow to make it all the way to the top, and the shortstops usually lack the speed or the arm to make the all important play from the hole. The outfielders can't hit curve balls and the pitchers can't throw strikes.

Some of the local Astros will make it to AAA Oklahoma City and a select few will reach the top. But for the majority of the Astros, Columbus serves as painful proof that a Golden Park is as close as they will ever come to the Astrodome.

A ballplayer is old in the Dixie Association if he is on the downhill side of 23. If he hasn't advanced any higher by that time the parent club takes a long, hard look at its investment. Unless a big bonus was paid the struggling youngster, chances are his pro baseball career is over.

But it matters not to most of the Golden Park patrons whether the ball players are destined for stardom or are approaching the end of an ill fated, short-lived career. The three or four hundred faithfuls who shell out the required buck fifty nightly aren't concerned with personalities. To them the participants on the field are nothing more than a mass of faceless nameless figures with numbers stenciled brightly across their uniformed backs.

There is one small faction, however, where individuality is the only thing that is important. The dutiful wives, prettily attired in the latest fashions, loyally take their places each night in the box seats directly behind home plate. Like their youthful husbands on the playing field below, this will be remembered as a very special time in their lives.

In a few years long after the bonus money has been spent, they will return with hubby to their hometowns to begin a new life. They will be a little heavier and a little older and their faces will be unable to hide the disappointment. They will often talk about and remember the time when their husband, now a good, solid citizen and the star of the church softball team, once flirted with fame and fortune in the unlikely town of Columbus, Georgia.

As equally easy to detect among the spectators is the vocal old man who can't understand why the crowds aren't as big as they used to be. Just like thirty years ago, he still derives more pleasure from hurling insults at the umpires than cheering the home team to victory. Taught early in their training that the price of admission includes the fans right to verbally abuse the umpire, the men in black pretend not to hear and the game continues.

Whatever the reasons, the devoted fans who patronize Golden Park — or any minor league stadium for that matter — have something in common with those who drive Edsels and collect Indian head nickels. Perhaps it is not the love of baseball that brings them to the park, but instead the desire to be part of something that is fighting a losing battle for its existance.

2 handball teams even in standings, on field

A hard - hitting 197th team handball squad surged from a two-goal deficit, propelled into a two-point lead; then started off a determined 931st Engineer Group comeback to achieve a 10-10 tie with the Engineers June 16 on Wetherby Field. The burly contest kept both teams in a first-place tie in the USAIC Team Handball League.

The 931st spurted to a 3-1 lead early in the first half. 197th court player George White ruptured the nets for three straight goals and spiraled the brigade into a 4-4 tie with the Engineers at the close of the first stanza.

In the second period, the Infantrymen maintained a one-goal lead until late in the half. A hard-thrown goal by Allen Rowland sent the brigade into a two-goal margin, 10-8.

931st court player Walter Robertson brought his team from behind with two scores to send the game into a 10-10 tie.

The 197th missed an opportunity to win when a final shot at the 931st goal went away with less than a minute left in the demolishing affair.

Boxing on tap here starting this evening

Fort Benning and The School Brigade will once again be exposed to competitive boxing this summer beginning today at 7:30 p.m. in an open-air arena behind the 49th Co., 4th Stu. Bn., area on Beane Street.

This program is being sponsored by the 4th Stu. Bn., at no admission fee to the public. There will be 12 bouts, three rounds to a bout on each announced night of boxing. The boxers will represent the different airborne companies and the matches will be set up according to weight classes.

The officials will be James Tucker, W. P. Mixon and Tillman C. Davis. The judges will decide the winner of each bout on ability and sportsman.

Trophies will be awarded on a weekly basis to the company with the most points and at the end of the season to the overall winning company.

McClellan WACs sweep 3rd Army tennis meet

Two WAC lieutenants from Ft. McClellan made a clean sweep of the women's division of the Third Army Tennis Championships by winning the singles championship, runner up position in the singles matches, the doubles championship and the Army team championship.

Charlene Telisman won the singles championship in two sets over Jan Lathouweis. Lathouweis took the runner up position. The two McClellan lieutenants then teamed up to take the doubles event in straight sets over Kathy Rigole and Rita Mattix of Fort Benning.

In the men's open singles matches three Ft. Bragg players and one player from Ft. Gordon advanced to the quarter finals. Charles Schwicker, Ft. Bragg will go against Albert Geraci, Ft. Gordon and Gary Jones and Leonard Scheurman will play for finalist positions.

In the open doubles matches Schwicker and Scheurmann advanced to the finals. The Fort Benning team made up of Ron Johnson and Steve Darrah must play Gary Jones and Daniel Page, Ft. Bragg in a semi-final round to determine who will go against Schwicker and Scheurmann for the championship.

Jere Whittington, Fort Benning, Frank Caneda, Ft. Gordon, Wayne Shelton and Leroy Staley, Ft. Bragg advanced to the semi-finals in the senior singles matches. Shelton will play Staley and Whittington will play Caneda to determine finalist positions. Caneda and Phillip Avery will play Whittington and Robert Seaman for the seniors doubles championship.

Hq Cmd., 197th divide hard fought double header

The 197th Infantry Brigade fast-pitch softball team struck for two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to take a first game victory, 4-3 then fell Hq. Cmd. leaped to a 6-0 short of a win with a five run rally in the second game to absorb a 6-5 defeat by Headquarters Command (Hq. Cmd.) in double-header action June 15.

Kourkoulis started the 197th hurler "Nick" Nixon picked up his fourth victory of the season; ace lefthander Lefty Furnish took the loss in the second game.

lead in the nightcap.

The brigade scored a run in the bottom of the fourth and added three-runs in the last of the fifth stanza.

"Go Crazy Joe!" Kourkoulis three-run eruption with a towering home run over the left-field fence, his first round-tripper of the year. Three Hq. Cmd. errors scored 197th third-baseman Tom Sumner. The brigade's final run of the inning resulted on an Earl Davis single that drove Stacy Rhinehart across home plate.

The 197th managed a single run in their sixth turn at bat. Brigade first-baseman Gerald Freyberger doubled and scoured on a wild pitch by the Hq. Cmd. pitcher to first base in a belated attempt to retire Kourkoulis.

The "Big Red Bullet" was retired in order in the top of the seventh frame as Hq Cmd. downed the brigade fo the first time this season.

In the first game of the twinbill, the brigade fought from a 3-2 deficit to score a 4-3 victory. The tying and winning runs came across home plate in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Kourkoulis reached first base on an error by the Hq Cmd. first-baseman. The lumbering 197th catcher stole second and scored the tying run on Tom Sumner's single. Sumner advanced to third base on the play at the plate. Earl Davis, pinch hitter for starting brigade hurler Nixon, drilled the first pitch thrown to him up the middle scoring Sumner and the winning tally.

Earlier in the week, June 14, the battling brigade downed Aviation Command 14-5 and 4-1. Nixon and Sabater Cruz were credited with the brigade wins.

Swimmers enter olympic meet

By Bill Kloeb

The local area will be well representated when more than 200 Georgia junior swimmers begin competition in the Georgia Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympic Swimming Championships in Carey Pool, Main Post today at 8 a.m.

More than 40 young swimmers from the Young Mens Christian Association, Aquatic Club, the Windsor Park Swim Club and the Fort Benning Barracuda Swim Team have registered to compete in the 29 event meet which will be completed Saturday June 26.

The Barracudas have entered the largest group. They have: Mindy Robinson, Angel Hunt and Mary Hanson in the girls 10 years and under group; Jim Nixon in the boys 10 years and under group; Annette Chapman, Jennifer Hanson, Cissi Schneider and Linda Borden in the 11 to 12 year girls group, and John Misiak and Craig Pepin in the boys 11 to 12 year group.

In the older age categories the Barracuasd have entered Roxanne Robinson, Norma Dixon, Carnie Hanson, Carol Vest, Marilyn Misiak, Michele Bordon, Teresa Milton, and Kathy Hanson in the girls events. Randy Messer, Jim Coakley, Jackie Kenyon, Sam Schneider, Greg Kuehn, John and Robert Wheaton will compete in events for boys.

The Windsor Park Club has entered five boys and three girls. Laurie Spurling, Cindy Griffin and Robin Holloway will swim in the events for girls 10 years and under. Britt Chambles, Keith Griggs and Ed Griffin will enter the events for boys 10 years and under. Modern training exercises.

—"We Care" program—Developed by Martin Army Hospital Commander, Col. H. Haskell Ziperman, this program attempts to make medical care more personal at Fort Benning. The program has met with such success that it has been featured in a national magazine and several Army hospitals have written for details.

Also extended by General Talbott's announcement are:

—Elimination of reveille.

—Elimination of pass restrictions and sign-out, sign-in.

—Availability of beer somewhere in training exercises.

—Authority for soldiers to decorate their partitioned rooms in good taste.

—Other MVA programs covered by Fort Benning circular 600-67.

Col. Kennedy pointed out, "All actions remain in an experimental category. If they do not prove their worth, or if a shift in funding comes about, some programs may be modified or eliminated.

He added, "Soldiers will be kept informed of any changes through their chains of command and the Bayonet."

LaVoie

medal with 45 Oak Leaf Clusters.

CSM LaVoie's awards and decorations include the Bronze Star Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, Meritorious Service Medal, Air Medal with seven Oak Leaf Clusters, Army Commendation Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters, Combat Infantryman Badge and Master Parachutist Badge. He also holds the Vietnamese Cross for Gallantry and the Vietnamese Jumpmaster Badge.

He and his wife live at 4321 Yates Drive, Columbus. They have two sons, Terence John, 15, and James Michael, who recently graduated from Columbus College.

Mixon and his wife, Winifred live at 4263 Ridgefield Court in Columbus. They have three children, Randy, 18, Jane, 15 and Betty, 10.

Benefit timetable from VA stated

The agency said a veteran has 10 days to notify any local Selective Service Board of his address, and 30 days to register if he did not do so before entering military service.

If a veteran wants his old job back, he has 90 days to apply to his former employer for re-employment.

He has 120 days to convert his Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) to an individual policy without examination. If totally disabled at separation, a veteran has up to one year, if his condition does not change, to convert his insurance.

In either case, he must apply for the policy to one of the nearly 600 private companies participating in the SGLI program.

A veteran with a service-connected disability has one year from the date he receives his notice of service-connection to apply to VA for Service-Disabled Veterans Insurance.

He also has one year to apply for VA dental care, or to request unemployment compensation from his local state employment service.

Veterans have eight years from date of separation to apply for and receive educational assistance benefits, which terminate after that time.

For a veteran with a service connected injury or disease, there is no time limit for applying for VA disability compensation, but in order to receive payments dated from the time of his separation from military service, he must apply within one year of separation.

There is no time limit for a veteran to be assisted by his local state employment service in finding a job or job training program.

Fourteen states offering educational programs

WASHINGTON (AFPS) —The American Association of Junior Colleges is helping to establish 26 educational programs for servicemen at military bases in 14 states.

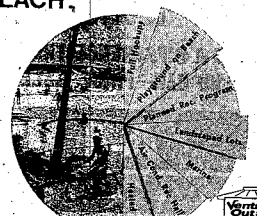
Junior colleges in several states are establishing pre-discharge educational programs to assist military service personnel in making up high school deficiencies or in preparing for college.

Programs have now been established in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Maryland, Michigan, Illinois, Virginia, Georgia, Florida, Colorado, Idaho, Washington, California, and Hawaii. Almost 100 more programs are planned in many other states.

The Association, which includes in its membership most of the nation's 1,100 two-year colleges, is also developing other new programs for veterans and servicemen in all parts of the United States and in Europe, the Pacific, and Vietnam.

AAJC is cooperating with a major new education center for disadvantaged veterans in Syracuse, N.Y., and with Macomb County Community College, Warren, Mich., in a tutorial assistance program involving counseling by fellow veterans. The association is also involved with a highly successful program to prepare servicemen for college conducted by Staten Island Community College at Fort Dix, N.J., and is cooperating with the National League of Cities in developing programs in all parts of the country to recruit veterans to return to college.

Thirteen cooks are graduated



Thirteen more cooks were available for duty this week after graduation from the Services Division Cooks' School, Class 2.

Sp6 Larry S. Norris, 23d Replacement Detachment, 931st Engineer Group, and Sgt. James D. Miller, HHC, 4th Student Battalion, The School Brigade, were named as honor graduates.

Lt. Col. John L. Jones Jr., commanding officer, 2d Student Battalion, The School Brigade, was the guest speaker. He emphasized the necessity of good mess operation in a combat-ready unit.

Pretty Florida teen-ager trained under GI Bill

"Under the spreading chestnut tree
The Village smithy stands
The smith, a pretty chick is she—"

A pretty chick?

Precisely — 19 years old —and the smithy is Florida's prettiest blacksmith. She's Kathy Garvey, of Lighthouse Point, Fla., and she shoes horses for a living. She learned her trade under the GI Bill, as her father is a totally disabled World War II veteran, making her eligible for training under the Veterans Administration program.

She's the only "certified" woman blacksmith in Florida and has given mobility to the trade—from under a chestnut tree—to her uniquely designed and equipped "rolling blacksmith shop" which goes anywhere in Southeast Florida to handle shoeing assignments in Broward County's growing horse country.

She was certified recently by the Martinsville School of Farriery in Virginia after an intensive 90-day course. For Kathy, the career choice was the natural outcome of half a young lifetime in the saddle.

She began riding at age nine, trained in jumping and later trained trotters to the sulky harness. In her shoeing work, she does "corrective" and custom shoeing for all "gaited" horses, and Kathy is prepared to serve as a sort of "podiatrist for horses."

Her truck houses everything the 135-pound teenager needs, including stove and 110-pound anvil.

College professor finds 80 million-year-old bones

Fossil bones dating back 80 million years have been found by a Columbus College professor and his earth science 101 class.

Dr. Alvin L. McLendon Jr., made his discovery almost a year ago near U. S. Highway 27 on the Fort Benning reservation, but he only "discovered" this month that the bones are genuine fossils.

During a student field trip to dig for specimens from the Blufftown Formation, which was formed during the Cretaceous period and is dated at 80 million years, Dr. McLendon found particles of two bones and a student found a fairly intact reptile bone.

The geology class was digging into a bank cut through by the state highway department. There is no way of knowing how deep the bones were lodged, Dr. McLendon said, because the dirt may have shifted during the highway excavation.

He sent the specimens to the University of Georgia for verification in the early fall and only received a reply June 4.

Dr. Michael R. Voorhies, associate professor of geology at the university, examined McLendon's discoveries and reported that all three specimens were well-permineralized (petrified) fossil bones.

He identified the largest bone as "definitely reptilian" and stated that it "very probable pertains to a marine turtle.

"Turtle bones have occasionally been bound in the Cretaceous of Alabama so it is not too surprising to find them in Georgia as well," he continued.

"This is the first Cretaceous vertebrae from Georgia that I have actually seen," he added.

"Finding one bone like this is indicative of the fact that animals were present when the sediment was being laid down," McLendon said.

"We will be more diligent in searching for more of these same type specimens in the future, and hopefully a relatively complete skelton can be found.

"We also found shark's teeth, but not in abundance, in that same formation. We have found some dozen or so shark's vertebrae. These are relatively small teeth and vertebrae we find," McLendon said and added that sharks' anatomy has not changed much in the last 80 million years or so.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Bill King

When packing a picnic basket, it's a good idea to pack the sandwiches standing on end so that they won't get soggy from their fillings.

A ripe avocado can be stored in the bottom of the refrigerator for several days if you do not plan to use it right away.

Before barbecuing ribs for a patio party, boil them for an hour in plenty of water. When the guests arrive, cook the ribs about five inches from the coals for about a half hour, turning and basting with barbecue sauce several times.

Before measuring honey or molasses, moisten or grease the measuring cup lightly. That way you'll get a more honest measure.

Vodka was invented by the Poles in the 8th Century as a medicine, and it wasn't until much later that it was used for convivial purposes.

Our convivial atmosphere and friendly, expert service are just two of the reasons why folks enjoy dining at KING'S PIZZA ON CALL. That's why a delicious dinner here is always a treat for the whole family.

Edelbrock Introduces: THE TARANTULA FAMILY OF MANIFOLDS FOR SMALL BLOCK CHEVY
After more than a year of development, the Tarantula design can now be released. Performance capability defies belief. . .often exceeding that possible with any two 4-bbl combination that can be fitted under a stock hood! Substantially better than any single 4-bbl manifold ever tested by Edelbrock (regardless of brand), Tarantula incorporates features so revolutionary that six of its features are now pending patent. Horsepower comparison with factory "performance" manifolding and other Edelbrock single 4-bbl designs is staggering: 53 hp better than the aluminum Chevy high-rise manifold and 22 hp stronger than our own C-3BX!

Byline Bayonet

(Byline Bayonet welcomes questions of general interest about Fort Benning and the Army. Within space limitations all reasonable questions will be answered. Questions of a purely military nature which obviously could be answered more properly by commanders or supervisors within the chain of command will not be accepted. All questions must be signed with current unit of assignment indicated. Send questions to the Bayonet, ATTN: SFC Bob Edwards, Room 602, Infantry Hall or telephone 545-4752.

Q—Is there a new poster being printed showing acceptable haircuts for soldiers? If so, how many will be printed and at what cost?

A—There are 100,000 four-color posters depicting the revised authorized haircuts for Army personnel now being processed at the Government Printing Office at the cost of $5,400. They are expected to be distributed to units in the field by the end of July.

Q—When can an eligible dependent take advantage of CHAMPUS benefits?

A—Persons authorized care under CHAMPUS may elect to receive outpatient care in either uniformed services or civilian facilities. For inpatient care (including outpatient prenatal and postnatal care) dependents of active duty members who are residing with their sponsors are required to use uniformed services facilities when available. If the required care is not available in a uniformed services facility within a reasonable distance from the dependents residence, a Statement of Nonavailability (DD Form 1251) is issued and the care may then be obtained from civilian sources. Dependents of active duty personnel residing apart from their sponsors, retired members and their dependents and dependents of deceased members may elect to receive inpatient care in either uniformed services or civilian facilities.

Q—Are all health care services payable under CHAMPUS?

A—No. While the range of benefits is wide, not every health care service is payable. Some of the health care services not payable under the program are: routine physical exam and routine immunizations, dental care (except care required as a direct result of injury or required as a necessary part of treatment for some other medical reason), ordinary glasses and examinations for them, chiropractic care, and well-baby care.

Q—Does the government pay the entire cost of authorized health services?

A—No. CHAMPUS is a cost-sharing plan. The government pays a significant share of the charges determined to be reasonable.

For detailed information on medical care from civilian sources under CHAMPUS contact one of the following:

The medical facility of the nearest military installation.

The fiscal administrator for state in which beneficiary is located.

Executive Director, CHAMPUS, Denver, Colorado, 80240.

The Surgeon general of the appropriate military service.

The judge says

Smog warning failure results in suit

USAIC LEGAL ASSISTANCE OFFICE—"Smog warning" may be a sign of the times. In a recent state case a county's failure to warn made it liable for injury.

For days a brush fire had plagued the county and dense smoke filled the air, particularly in one place where it crossed the freeway. The county highway department placed small signs which one could barely see in the smog and haze. One motorist had a bad accident because he could not see.

Bill sued the county for his injuries. And at his trial his lawyer put on expert proof that the road-signs were too small for that strip of highway. The county had not taken adequate care to put flares or otherwise warn the motorist. The city had known of the fires and smog for several days. The city had not taken proper action to protect motorists. Bill could make the county pay for his injuries.

The government is liable, just like private citizens, for dangerous and defective conditions. As a property owner the government must act reasonably.

Examples: inadequate highway signals and lights, faulty stop signs, lack of signs, shrubbery covering a sign, failure to warn of a sharp curve, a sudden bottleneck, or an unguarded hole or a slippery surface.

Mere failure to install control signals is generally not negligence. But removal of a sign, say for repairs, without warning is negligence.

Before the government becomes liable, it must have notice or should be aware of the dangerous condition. But notice can be "constructive notice" which arises from the long-continued existence of a defective condition. The fact that there have been many other accidents because of inadequate warning in a place may itself be the needed "constructive notice."

The state also needs enough time to correct the dangers. If they arise, say, from an unexpected storm which causes a traffic signal to be stuck on "go," the city is not liable if it lacked time to correct it.

Further questions concerning this topic or other legal matters should be referred to your lawyer or USAIC Legal Assistance Officer.

Communications part of VOLAR

(Editor's note: This article originally appeared in the Ft. Sam Houston, Texas paper, the "Patriot," April 8.)

Much is being said and much is being written these days about the need to improve communications within the Army, of the need for our officers and non-commissioned officers to establish a meaningful rapport with the young men of our "now" generation. This is all very true. The need for better communications becomes even more important as we pursue the Modern Volunteer Army concept. It is no secret that the military is distinctly out of favor with the current generation of service-age Americans. The Army therefore faces the challenge of attracting and retaining the best of these skeptical young men. It must compete for them in a free environment.

The need for communication is basic for it stretches throughout the chain of command and may begin at any of the several levels. In small units such as companies the information may be as basic and timely as an explanation of why a man must pull extra guard duty — or it may be an explanation of a new policy that affects all members of the Armed Forces.

The Army has a program specially designed to afford maximum communication between leaders and their men. It is called command information. Its aim is to inform the soldier and thereby make him a better fighting man. This in turn makes for a better Army.

Command information is normally transmitted during the weekly commander's call. All too often it is here that the first breakdown in communication takes place. Command information frequently is limited to this one weekly session. It resembles "Sunday religion" — something that is ignored six days a week and then "aired" on Sunday.

The effective leader maintains a command information attitude all week. He keeps his men informed about what is going on in the unit. He insures that his officers and NCOs fully understand his attitude about the flow of information and that they are equally receptive to recommended improvements and opinions of the troops.

The soldier's attitude toward his leaders and fellow soldiers stem from a complex maze of feelings, impressions and emotions about the Army itself, about his relationship to his country and to all lawful authority. If the soldier's attitudes are marred by a lack of knowledge, his effectiveness will be impaired.

There is no ready-made formula for insuring an atmosphere in a unit in which information flows up and down the chain of command. But if the commander has closed himself off from his troops all week the single exposure during the commander's call will avail him little. The simple fact is, a good seven-days-a-week command information program is an inevitable part of good leadership.

Command information properly applied will develop the confidence that comes to men when they realize their own strengths and when they possess a reasonably clear picture of the general situation.

Final preparations being made for 'Fourth' carnival

Many people and units have been busy this past week putting the finishing touches on Fort Benning's Independence Day carnival.

The Battle of the Bands, talent and beauty contests are ready to begin with a total of 41 contestants entered in the competition.

Meanwhile, on Eubanks Field, the 386th Float Bridge Co., 931st Engr. Gp., is finishing some 40 prefabricated contest and display booths for the midway.

Men of the 197th Infantry Brigade are working too. Members of the 2nd Bn., 10th Arty. are busy shining their 105 mm Howitzers for the booming 50-gun salute to the union that will open the ceremonies. At the same time most of the men from other units are drilling for their part as marchers in the opening parade, to be led by the color guard of Co. C., 1st Bn., 29th Inf.

These and many other units and people have been responsible for the massive celebration, expected to draw thousands of soldiers and their families.

The celebration is scheduled to begin at noon Saturday with the gigantic 50-gun salute to the Union, followed by an address by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, post commander, and then the review of troops of the 197th marching in a massive pastiche of colors from out of the history of the United States.

Included will be a display of the uniforms, weaponry and colors of the Mexican War; War of 1812, Civil War, Indian Wars, Spanish-American War, World Wars I and II and the Korean and Vietnam conflicts. Heralding the pageantry will be the 283rd Army Band.

The midway opens shortly thereafter, and the beauty, talent and band contests shortly after at 2 p.m. in Marshall Auditorium.

The opening event of the contests is the battle of the bands. Admission to this event is 25 cents, and all others are free.

Eight bands will be competing for three cash prizes, a $400 savings bond, $150 bond and $50 bond. Competition closes at 4 p.m., and the beauty contest begins immediately after.

The beauty pageant has 20 contestants vying for the honor which led last year's winner, Debbie Snelling, to the Miss Columbus and Miss Georgia pageants.

At 5:30 p.m. the beauty contest ends, and the talent competition picks up immediately afterwards, featuring 13 acts competing for a total of $350 in prizes.

At 8 p.m. comes the skydiving exhibition put on by the Airborne Department, followed shortly after by the drawing.

Finally, at dark the 197th Infantry Brigade will stage the highlight of the celebration, the massive fireworks display.

INDEPENDENCE DAY MESSAGE

The Fort Benning community is about to enjoy a well-deserved holiday weekend. As we plan our celebration of this day that marks our nation's birth, let us have safety uppermost in our minds. Fort Benning has established an excellent holiday safety record, and I am particularly concerned that we emerge from this extremely hazardous period with no serious mishaps or injuries to our personnel.

One step that can be taken to make the holiday safer--both for ourselves and our fellow citizens--is to spend it at home. Many activities have been planned both on and off post to help you enjoy your weekend. One of these is the 3 July Youth Activities Carnival. This annual event will provide wholesome entertainment and recreation for the entire family. I encourage everyone to participate in this very enjoyable and worthwhile program.

In extending my wishes for a safe and enjoyable Fourth of July, I ask all our personnel to remember with a sense of rededication our reason for celebrating this historic date.

Armor unit inactivated at Benning

Fort Benning has lost its only Armor battalion but has retained its Armor capabilities in the form of two companies.

The 4th Bn., 69th Armor, 197th Inf. Bde., was formally inactivated and the colors retired in ceremonies here June 30.

However, students at the U.S. Army Infantry School will still receive Armor instruction through Companies G and H, 69th Armor which were activated during the same ceremony.

The two companies will be attached to the 197th Support Battalion.

Guest House rates increase to $8, $10

The 52 apartments at the Camellia Motel will continue as Fort Benning's Guest House with a rate increase.

The new rates, which will go into effect July 1, will be $8 daily for a single bedroom apartment and $10 for a double. All apartments are completely furnished. Rates apply regardless of the number of occupants in an apartment. Prior to the increase, rates were $5 and $9 respectively.

When the Camellia Guest House was first established, government funds were available to lease the complex with rental rates based on cost of operating the facilities and providing housekeeping service. The new rates will cover the entire costs of operating the commercial facilities.

Established during the 1971 VOLAR test period to provide suitable accommodations for military families and their visiting relatives and guests, the Camellia Guest House has proved to be a popular VOLAR item.

Partitions 40 per cent complete

The Modern Volunteer Army project to increase soldier privacy through construction of partitions in the barracks is approximately 40 per cent complete.

Some 1,500 soldiers, in all major units at Fort Benning, currently are living in rooms completed by the 43rd Engineer Battalion, 931st Engineer Group.

When the project is complete, more than 6,000 Fort Benning soldiers will be residing in two-man and three-man rooms. The 43rd expects to complete the project sometime in early August.

Two types of partitions are being installed. The bulk of the project consists of construction of permanent, wood-framed partitions, while the remainder are being constructed with GSA-type materials.

The engineer battalion has begun installing doors in the completed rooms and expects to have doors on all finished rooms in about three weeks.

As the rooms are completed, soldiers are permitted to paint them under the troop self-help maintenance program. A Modern Volunteer Army directive also allows for personal room decorations "in good taste."

Barracks partitions are one of the major items under Project VOLAR at Fort Benning. Some $597,000 is being spent on permanent partitions, upgrading of electrical wiring and installation of fire alarm systems.

When the project is completed, all Fort Benning soldiers living in barracks will have partitioned rooms.

Columbus 'Y' announces 3 day camps

Three two-week day camps have been scheduled by the Columbus Central YMCA.

The camps, to be held July 6-16, July 19-30 and Aug. 2-13, will offer swimming, hiking, archery, riflery with BB guns, handicrafts and sports.

Registration and information may be obtained at the YMCA, 118 E. 11th St.

Dean Rusk speaks at 197th Brigade 'Dining-in'

Dean Rusk, former U.S. Secretary of State, was the guest of honor and featured speaker at the 197th Infantry Brigade Officer's "Dining-in," June 26 at the Fort Benning Main Officer's Open Mess.

Rusk, now professor in international law at the University of Georgia, Athens, spoke on a variety of subjects ranging from foreign and domestic policy to his personal experiences when he was Secretary of State for the John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson administrations.

Rusk noted that both the Fort Benning-Columbus area and the Army has changed a great deal in the 40 years since he went through Infantry School training. Rusk spent a short time here during World War II and visited during his term as Secretary of State.

At the 197th Dining-in, Rusk was introduced by special guest, Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbott, Fort Benning commander. The former Secretary gave a lively, often times humorous 20-minute talk which was followed by a "no-holds-barred" question-and answer period.

Joe Flowers, of Columbus and past president of the local AUSA chapter, was the other special guest. Both Gen. Talbott and Flowers were introduced to the gathering by 197th Brigade Commander Col. Willard Latham, president of the Dining-in. Rusk spoke to the 200-man group on events and policies that led to present world conditions. He also emphasized that the country's in a "very important period of transition."

The Dining-in, sponsored by the 2nd Bn., 10th Arty., stems from an ancient military tradition. As is the Dining-in custom, the junior lieutenant of a unit drinks the first cup of liquid in the punch bowl ceremony which precedes the dinner. It being held that he is the most expendable individual of the organization; therefore, in the event the punch is "unfit or poisonous," his indisposition or demise would be of little consequence.

After drinking the liquid, custom prescribes that he pause until the liquid has coursed through his veins after which, surviving, he fills the colonel's cup and the colonel drinks to the health of those present.

When the colonel drains his cup, he pronounces the punch "apparently pure and reasonably palatable" and requests all present to fill their cups for a toast to the organization.

Beauchamp, as custom dictated, stepped up to the punch bowl and proclaimed, "Nihil Sequitor," a Latin phrase roughly meaning, "Oh, what the hell" and downed the punch.

As was expected, Beauchamp did not keel over or gag on the punch and soon all were filling their cups.

Following dinner, the gathering was treated to a performance by the Infantry Chorus.

Still nameless

Second weekly women's column more organized

Edited By Mrs. Carol May

With our second weekly column (still nameless—keep those cards and letters coming.) we're getting more organized and hope all the ladies of Fort Benning will find it useful. Notice of future events as well as reports of past activities will be mentioned.

GOLD STAR WIVES

We are grateful to our Third District U.S. Representative Jack Brinkley for introducing a bill in the U.S. House of Representatives last February to grant a national charter to the Gold Star Wives of America, Inc. Since then, he has been joined by 51 other Congressmen from 26 states in co-sponsoring this bill; this bill. Perhaps you've seen the articles in the Ledger-Enquirer or heard mention of it on local TV news. Other veterans' and patriotic groups hold national charters, and our organization has been trying to secure one through Congress for many years. This looks like our best chance to date. HR 8028, 8029 and 8406 are currently in the House Judiciary Committee for study and, hopefully, for introduction to the House for action. To explain why we seek this legislation, we quote from Representative Brinkley's recent news release: "With this charter, Gold Star Wives of America will acquire national prestige and official support by military branches, increasing the effectiveness of this most worthwhile organization. Presently, for example, when a Survival Assistance Officer assists a new widow, he cannot tell her about Gold Star Wives. Therefore, unless the organization receives word of the widow's loss through other sources, they do not contact her. With a charter, Gold Star Wives of America will receive an official casualty list and will be able to contact all the families of our deceased servicemen . . . Let us view the incorporation of the Gold Star Wives as yet another reminder of the irrevocable nature of the sacrifices of our fighting men, and as a tribute to those who are left behind to bear the heaviest burden for this nation's conflicts."

Four copies of your news items should be placed in the marked boxes in either commissary by noon Wednesday, or they may be mailed to Mrs. Carol May, 201-B Madden Ave., Fort Benning.

50th CO. O.C. WIVES

The 50th Company, 5th Student Battalion, Class 18-71, Officer Candidate Wives' Club held a coffee June 29, at 7 p.m. in Wigal Hall. The theme was "Stars and Stripes," with a red, white, and blue floral centerpiece. Hostess for the event was Mrs. Lamar Bingenheimer, and her assistants were Mrs. Bruce Sayers, Mrs. John Harper, Mrs. Benjamin Alles, Mrs. Lloyd Waterman, Mrs. Robert Kohls, and Mrs. William Burdett.

Honored guests were Mrs. Donald E. Bliss and Mrs. Walter D. Kinard who spoke to the group on customs and courtesies of the Army. The wives also discussed their 12th week party and prospective fund-raising projects.

RANGER OFFICERS WIVES

"Whether or not the creek rises, one thing is for certain, an officer's wife will entertain." With this comment Mrs. John Taber, home economist for the Gas Light Company, began a talk on Party "P's" and "You's", presented at the June 17 luncheon of the Fort Benning Ranger Officers' Wives' Club in the Corregidor Room of the Main Officers' Open Mess.

The party "P's" referred to by Mrs. Taber are practice, planning, and personality, all of which are essential for successful entertaining. Personality is the means by which the hostess puts herself into the party picture—the "You" of entertaining.

Mrs. Taber offered many hints for the would-be hostess, one of which especially delighted the Ranger wives—checkerboard sandwiches.

For one dozen sandwiches, trim the crusts from two slices each of white and brown bread. Cover each slice with cheese spread. Stack the slices together, alternating breads, then cut into six slices. Next, spread cut sides with more cheese and make two stacks of three slices each, again alternating bread colors. Wrap tightly and refrigerate. At party time, slice each stack into six checkerboard sandwiches.

At the luncheon, the ladies bid farewell to Mrs. John P. Geraci, wife of the Director of the Ranger Department. Col. Geraci has been reassigned to Okinawa. In appreciation of Mrs. Geraci's leadership of the Ranger Wives' group, she was presented with an engraved silver tray and a silver chafing dish.

This luncheon was also the occasion to bid farewell to Mrs. Autrail Cobb, Mrs. Arthur Littlewood, and Mrs. Fred Rodriquez; and to welcome the following new members: Mrs. Jack Dawson, Mrs. Richard Hale, Mrs. George Johnson, Mrs. LeRoy Opp, Mrs. Jimmie Rogers and Mrs. Gary Watson. Mrs. Donald Hall, Mrs. Nathan Jones, Mrs. Lee Lanning, and Mrs. Arthur Severance were guests at the luncheon.

AIRBORNE WIVES

On June 16, the officers' wives of the Airborne Department, United States Army Infantry School, were welcomed by Mrs. Joseph W. Moore and Mrs. David T. Gibson, at the home of Mrs. Moore on Monaco Drive.

Mrs. Robert H. Anspaugh, wife of the Deputy Director, opened the business meeting by asking for a treasurer's report from Mrs. Edward M. Chamberlain III. Mrs. Robert L. howard, Mrs. Bruce J. Wicks, Mrs. David T. Gibson and Mrs. Edward M. Chamberlain were elected Hospitality Chairmen, Mrs. Robert W. Kinzer Jr. will be the new Publicity Chairman replacing Mrs. Pete Fitts. Mrs. Robert Carlson volunteered to work at the Thrift Shop in July. Following the business meeting, refreshments were served. The door prize was won by Mrs. Moore. A warm welcome was extended to Mrs. Terry Castleberry, guest of Mrs. Gibson. Plans were made for the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Anspaugh on Meadowlark Drive.

OWC

The upcoming OWC activities for June and July are as follows: Beginning June 28, needle craft classes will be offered to interested members free of charge. For more information, call Mrs. Russell C. Miller, 545-4739.

An Atlanta shopping trip is being planned for July 21, for OWC members. High school and college age daughters are invited if accompanied by their mothers. Cost for the trip is $15, which includes a box lunch, fashion show and tear. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. J. B. Cummings at 545-2488 or Mrs. R. C. Miller at 545-4739. The deadline for purchasing tickets is July 15.

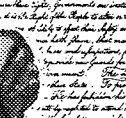
Ladies who have signed up in the past for OWC Ceramic lessons or would like to sign up, please contact Mrs. T. D. Kendrick at 544-1130 for information.

CHAMPUS ruling adds new items to program

DENVER—The CHAMPUS policy that allows the cost of durable equipment purchased under the program for the handicapped to be spread out over a period of months now covers prosthetic devices, hearing aids, orthopedic footwear and similar items required in the treatment of a handicapping condition.

Officials of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) have explained that the original policy covered only oxygen tents, wheelchairs, hospital beds and other pieces of equipment but not the type of appliances authorized by this clarification of policy.

Under the program for the handicapped the sponsor is responsible for a cost-sharing portion each month based upon his grade, and CHAMPUS pays up to an additional $350 a month.



The clarification of policy allows the cost of durable equipment to be spread out over a period of months. For example, if an E-5 purchases a hospital bed for a total of $1,200 over a period of 4 months, his share would total $400 while CHAMPUS would pay a total of 1,100.

CHAMPUS officials state that persons who believe they may be entitled to payment of an additional amount on previously submitted claims as the result of the foregoing clarification of policy may submit a request for readjudication of their claims by writing to the Executive Director, OCHAMPUS, Denver, CO 80240.

Useless fight

The only major land victory American forces won during the War of 1812 was the Battle of New Orleans — and the triumph had no military significance since it was fought two weeks after the treaty of peace had been signed in Ghent, Belgim. The snail pace communications of that age prevented the combatants from learning of the end of the conflict.

Navy admiral talks about POW-MIA situation

Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt, Jr., Chief of Naval Operations, spoke at Armed Forces Day celebrations May 13 before the San Francisco Bay Chamber of Commerce using the prisoner of war issue as the brunt of his message.

The admiral broached the important situation after telling his audience about the war's deceleration through the advancement of the Vietnamization program and saying how "deeply honored" he was by the presence of the wives of some of those men now prisoners of war or listed as missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Addressing the wives, Adm. Zumwalt stressed, "They and their husbands stand today in the front ranks of those whose sacrifices and suffering in defense of freedom can never be fully known. The courage they have shown in the face of their difficult and painful situation should command the respect and admiration of all Americans — I know they have mine."

Spending the remainder of his talk on POW-MIA, he told his listeners that President Richard Nixon has stated that America's goal is complete withdrawal of American forces, "but that goal will not be reached until all American prisoners are released and proper accounting of those listed as missing is made."

The question is often asked, "Why have we not taken up the offer of the other side to release the prisoners as soon as a date for completion of American withdrawal is announced?" The answer is that the other side has made no such offer.

What has been offered is to begin "discussing" the question of prisoners after a withdrawal date has been set — an entirely different situation for our past experience in negotiating with Communist regimes has made it plain to us that "discussing" an issue can continue interminably without real prospects of positive result.

President Nixon has refused to provide such a date in the belief that to do so would compromise any U.S. initiative and delay the return of the prisoners.

His steadfast insistence that American withdrawal will not be completed while one American prisoner remains in captivity is the course most likely to show early progress toward a final solution.

Communists, in this case the North Vietnamese, feel that they are in a good position on the prisoner issue. They know that we place great emphasis on the lives of our people, and that we want those prisoners removed as soon as possible from the barbaric conditions known to exist in their prison camps. They, on the other hand, care nothing for their own people in prison camps of the South, where the Republic of Vietnam now holds 37,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong prisoners.

For example, the President and the government in Saigon offered last December to return every one of these in exchange for all the Prisoners held by the enemy in North Vietnam, South Vietnam, and in Laos. We would have returned more than 10 of their for each one of our own people. The answer to this was "No."

Earlier, in October, the President had offered a cease fire in place, accompanied by a mutual exchange of prisoners as part of a comprehensive five point peace proposal. Yet again the other side refused, preferring to continue the killing in the illusory hope that their long aggression against neighbors would be rewarded.

Our men remain today under the totally unsupervised control of the enemy, while prison camps in South Vietnam are open to the inspection by impartial representatives of the International Committee of the Red Cross to insure that conditions meet agreed international standards — if deficiencies are detected during these periodic inspections, they are corrected.

We must recall that international law provides strict and explicit rules for the treatment of prisoners of war — rules intended to forbid the barbarous practices of ages long past.

The current standards are contained in the Geneva Convention relative to the treatment of prisoners of war — 61 nations participated in drawing up these standards under the sponsorship of the International Committee of the Red Cross — the work was finished in 1949, and now 123 nations, including all the principals of the Indo-China War, have agreed to abide by those rules.

But as one spokesman has said before the United Nations, "we have . . . been told — though in the shrill phrases of propaganda, rather than in the measured tones of statesmanship or humanitarianism — that the Geneva Convention does not apply because there has not been a declaration of war . . ."

Zesty treat for birthday

Next time you're planning a birthday party for the youngsters, or for those who like to think young, serve this easily prepared bubbly punch:

YOUNG-IN-HEART PUNCH

1 quart water
1 quart orange sherbet
1 carton instant tom collins mix (8 envelopes)
1 bottle (28 oz.) lemon-lime soda

Dissolve tom collins mix in water in a punch bowl; chill. At serving time, add sherbet and stir until half dissolved. Add soda and stir lightly. Spoon a little sherbet into each portion. Makes about 25 servings.

Word alleviating the suffering and despair which surrounds the prisoner question.

Savory dip

For a savory tomato-flavored dip that's delicious with crackers, potato chips or raw vegetables, combine a 3-oz. package of softened cream cheese, 2 envelopes of instant bloody mary mix and ½ pint of sour cream. Add a tablespoon of chopped chives or ½ teaspoon of dried basil or dill for seasoning, if desired. This will yield 1 cup of dip.

WE WILL BE CLOSED FOR VACATION! RE-OPEN MONDAY, JULY 5TH.

Gold Starers leave on western journey

Two local Gold Star wives left last Friday, for the annual Gold Star Wives Convention held in San Diego, Calif. and a fun-filled six week "camping trip-grand tour" of the West.

After rentingtheir Columbus homes for the summer, Mrs. Jane Payne and her two children, Carl, 8, and Wes, 7, and Mrs. Nan Nave and her children, Teri, 14, and Joe, 12, loaded their camper for a thrilling action-packed summer that will find them traveling from the colorful Spanish setting of Tijuana to the scenic mountain wilderness of British Columbia. Highlights of the vacation include stopovers on the Great Salt Lake, Boulder Dam and Yellowstone National Park.

Climaxing the trip the group plans to shoot the rough and tumble Green River Rapids of Desolation Canyon. Before returning to Columbus the Gold Star wives and their children will take a scenic excursion into America's past on the Nation's only operational narrow gauge railroad in Silverton, Colorado.

Husbands of the Gold Star wives lost their lives while serving in Vietnam. Capt. Lloyd A. Payne, a graduate of the Advanced Course at Fort Benning, was killed in 1963 while serving as advisor to a Vietnamese battalion in the I Corps area. Maj. Billy J. Nave was killed while serving as commander of the 1st of the 9th C Troop at An Khe in 1966. Maj. Nave was a Distinguished Military Graduate of the Infantry School.

Completes course

Chaplain (Capt.) Clarence Brooks of Fort Benning, one of 10 chaplains who recently completed the Clinical Pastoral Education Short Course at Walter Reed General Hospital, talks with Mrs. Chris Prudhomme, a WRGH patient. The two-week course is designed to train chaplains to deal effectively with emotional problems. The conference is held twice yearly.

Flower arranging on tap

July offers flower arranging to the Non Commissioned Officers Wives Club.

Mrs. Russel Trainio, local florist, will be guest speaker at the 1 p.m. luncheon to be held at Crain Hall NCO Club, July 21.

Mrs. Traineio a native of Poland will show the members various types of flowers and how they are used in their native country.

For the lady who enjoys growing flowers in her garden at home Mrs. Trainio will give easy to follow instructions on how to turn your flowers into a beautiful bouquet as a centerpiece or an arrangement for all occasions.

Many helpful hints such as how to make your candelabra more attractive by decorating with flowers, how to arrange a low or long arrangement, a one side arrangement and how to decorate for wedding receptions will be given by Mrs. Traino.

If you are interested in attending this program, you may attend by making your reservations by noon July 16 to Mrs. Purcival Piper, 544-2416, Mrs. Edward Kitchens, 689-6337, or Mrs. David Adtridge, 689-5663.

Other events for the month include the monthly business meeting July 14 with no reservations necessary and place of meeting will be Top Five Supper Club at 1 p.m.

A free breakfast to members will be held this month at Sand Hill NCO Club at 9:30 a.m. on July 28. Guests will be 75 cents. Reservation hostessess are Mrs. Cornell Crews, 544-1265, Mrs. Leslie Harper, 544-3909 and Mrs. Cirtis Smith, 545-7896.

Aircraft is 28-year veteran and still going strong

By Jeffrey Morton

In November 1969 the Beech Aircraft Corporation assembly line in Wichita, Kan., turned out the last Beechcraft Model 18 aircraft, ending the longest production record of all time — 3 years — for a single series of aircraft. Over 9,000 Model 18s were built for civilian and military service, with the first aircraft being built in January 1937.

While the production line went dead, the airplane lives on and on and on. Several thousand Beechcraft Model 18s were purchased by the military services of the U. S., Canada, Brazil, Portugal and many other nations.

The military version of the Model 18 was first purchased by the U. S. Army Air Corps before the outbreak of World War II and designated the UC-45. Shortly thereafter the U. S. Navy became a volume purchaser of the aircraft as well. With a wing span of some 47 feet, a length of 34 feet, and twin 450 horsepower Pratt and Whitney engines the aircraft was comfortable, roomy and fast. Because of its comfort and twin engine reliability the aircraft was commonly used to transport priority personnel and cargo.

The USAIC Aviation Command at Fort Benning uses a UC-45J aircraft to fly Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbot. This particular aircraft attests to its reliability and endurance of the Model 18 series of Beechcraft due to its own past history. In 1943, UC-45J, Tail Number 39281, was issued to the U. S. Navy. Early in 1966 the Navy turned the aircraft into the storage facility at Davis Mountain AFB, Tucson, Ariz., which is commonly called the "boneyard" as it is the final resting place for thousands of retired U. S. aircraft. Unfortunately, the Navy's historical records for this aircraft were lost at this time — the airplane undoubtedly had some exciting times during its 23 years with the Navy.

Taken from mothballs for use by the 1st Army Flight Detachment UC-45J No. 39281 flew across country to within five miles of its new home, the depot repair facility at Ft. Eustis, Va. The old aircraft lost an engine and the pilot made a successful forced landing in a nearby field. The other engine quit just as the plane rolled to a stop.

After a truck ride the rest of the way, the aircraft was literally rebuilt. The engines were replaced, corroded parts were removed, and critical parts whose total time since installation could not be determined were removed and repltced with new ones.

When the Army assumed ownership for the aircraft it was determined that it had been flown a total of 12,668 hours since manufactured in 1943. In 1965 the aircraft received its last major modification; replacement of the landing gear motor and fuel selector valve, and final X-ray inspection for cracks and fatigued metal joints.

Shortly thereafter the aircraft was outfitted with a new instrument panel and avionics, including dual radio magnetic indicators, electric gyro horizin, dual communication and navigation radios, ILS equipment, transponder, radio, distance measuring radar and dual AC power generators.

In November 1969, Army 39281 was assigned to the Third U. S. Army Flight Detachment to fly the commanding general, Third U. S. Army, and his staff. In January 1971, 28 years old and with a total of 13,649 hours flown, the aircraft found its present home with the USAIC Aviation Command (P) at Fort Benning.

Because of this aircraft's ability to continue flying like a much newer model and due to the appeal of its comfort, dependability, and all-weather capability, UC-45J No. 39281 will surely be flying for a long time to come.

Veterans' booklet available

The Veterans Administration's most popular publication is now available to the public for 20 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

VA said it has an initial supply of 600,000 copies of the booklet, "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents," now in its 23rd edition.

Containing general information about Federal benefits, this year's edition reflects changes due to recent laws, and discusses such G.I. benefits as education and training, insurance, home and farm loans, compensation and pension and medical treatment.

Ponder receive appointment

Col. Lewington S. Ponder has been appointed director of the Infantry Materiel Testing Directorate, of the U.S. Army Test and Evaluation Command (TECOM) at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

A native of Syracuse, N.Y., Col. Ponder graduated from Syracuse University in 1943 with a bachlor of science degree in business administration.

In September 1943 he completed Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning and was commissioned second lieutenant in the Infantry.

He served at Fort Benning June 1944 to January 1945 with the 5th Infantry Regiment, attended Infantry Advance Course in 1951 and then served in the Infantry School's Weapons Department for three years. He accompanied the 1st Battle Group, 26th Infantry back to Fort Benning from Germany in October 1963, and then after another tour in Europe he remained in command of the 2nd Battalion, 9th Infantry when it returned to Fort Benning in 1964.
