Bullets clinch first place, Gamblers hold second

In last week's Youth Activities Doughboy League action the Bullets clinched first place with two victories and the Gamblers wrapped up second place by winning one of their two games.

There were four games played last week with the Bullets defeating the Bucks by a 68-36 count and the Gamblers dropping the Grasshoppers 59-34 on Tuesday night. In games played last Friday night the Bullets bounced the Gamblers 55-42 and the Bucks raced past the Grasshoppers in an exciting 48-42 win.

In the Tuesday Bullet-Buck game there were 9 Bullets and 5 Bucks hitting for points with 4 Bullets and 2 Bucks in double figures. Bullet Bob Heaukulani scored 15 points for game high point honors and Wally Archie netted 12 points for runnerup scoring honors. Hitting 11 points each were Tim Booth and Emett Lee for the Bullets and Gus Schneider and Brad Scott for the Bucks.

Steve Darbonne added 8 points, Keith Book hit 4 points, Len Cody got 3 and John Seigle and Greg Boles tallied 2 points each for the Bullets.

For the Bucks Joe Masterson netted 8 points and William Hicks hit 4 points with Samuel Norris adding their final 2 points.

The Tuesday Gambler-Grasshopper game had 6 players on each team scoring points with Gambler Keith Presley netting 18 points and game high point honors while his teammate Ronald Walker took runnerup honors with 11 points.

Gambler Bernard Thomas scored 10 points with 3 teammates close behind as Egon Grissom zipped 8 points and Harry Grissom got 7 points with Ken Robinson tallying the other 5 points in the Gambler scorebook.

Hopper Jim Bell popped 10 points with three Hoppers; Kevin Kaczmarek, Dewey Caulder and Cal Griffin, hitting 6 points each. Dwight Burnett scored 4 points and Steve Rogers hit 2 points to complete the Hopper scoring.

On Friday the Bullets bombed the Gamblers 55-42 and with the victory won the League championship. Bullet Tim Booth swished 21 points for game high point honors and Gambler Keith Presley hit 14 points for runnerup scoring honors.

Wally Archie scored 12 points and Bob Heaukulani hit 10 points for the Bullets. Also lighting the Bullet side of the scoreboard were the 6 points by Steve Darbonne, 4 points by Emett Lee and 2 points by Keith Book.

The Gamblers kept it close throughout most of the game with Bernard Thomas hitting 8 points, Harry Grissom netting 7 points, Ronald Walker adding 6 points, Egon Grissom putting in 5 points and Andrew Steverson getting 2 points.

Last week's final game was a back and forth thriller as the Bucks bopped over the Grasshoppers by a 48-42 tally.

Buck Gus Schneider had the hot hand and hit 17 points for game high point honors and Hopper Jim Bell laid in 15 points for runnerup honors.

Both teams had 5 players keeping the scorekeeper busy. For the Bucks William Hicks swished 10 points, Brad Scott netted 9 points, Sam Norris tallied 8 points and Joe Masterson hit for 4 points.

ROD AND GUN CLUB Notes

BY BILL KLOEB

Boating, fishing clinic to be 26, 27 March

It's happened before and no doubt will happen again but that doesn't make Bob Darling feel any better. He went fishing at Harps Pond last week without registering for the Rod and Gun Club Monthly Fishing Derby. According to reports he hooked onto a big bass on one of his first casts. He brought the fish back to the club and it tipped the club scales at an even nine pounds. He has a nice bass but probably could have had a nice prize for it if he had taken the time to register at the club before he went to Harps.

The official leader in the March bass contest is CPT William Aranow, BBOD. He took his catch from Harps too. It was all properly registered and unless it's topped he is the one who will get the $15 merchandise prize at the end of the month. The fish Aranow registered weighed eight pounds four ounces.

SSgt. Richard Thurmond, 58th Infantry leads the catfish contest with a six-pound, eight-ounce catch from Twilight Pond. The bream contest is still wide open. There hasn't been a fish in this category registered this month.

For full details on the club fishing derby call 545-6028.

predator control

The Fort Benning Fish and Wildlife Unit began a trapping program for predator control March 12. The program will be in effect throughout all areas of the reservation and will continue until September 1.

No traps will be used within one mile of any housing or contonement area but it will be especially dangerous to allow pet animals to run loose during this period. The practice of allowing dogs to accompany personnel on hiking, fishing and other trips into undeveloped areas of the reservation is also considered extremely dangerous.

The program is aimed primarily at the control of fox, bobcat, skink and racoon populations on post. All of these animals are potential rabies carriers and in the event this disease were introduced into the animal population on post an overpopulation of these animals would magnify the problem.

The predator control program is also aimed at the reduction or elimination of the numbers of wild dogs and feral cats on post.

This latter group probably poses the greatest danger to the game population and is a man made problem. The unpopulated areas of the reservation seem to be an irresistable dumping area for unwanted pet dogs and cats. Military personnel upon notification of a change of station sometime dispose of pets they can't or don't want to take with them by taking them to a secluded part of the reservation where they turn them loose. It's highly possible that some of the civilian population in surrounding communities also engage in this cruel practice.

Dogs that survive the first few days of their new environment usually take up with a wild dog pack or become one of the starters of a new pack. These dog packs require a large amount of meat to live. They usually get it by running down deer or other game.

Cats dropped off on the reservation aren't so noticeable but are probably as numerous as the dogs. They usually operate alone or in pairs and use stealth to obtain their prey. These cats take a heavy toll on the small game and bird population.

Both of these species are of course potential rabies carriers. As a matter of fact they do a lot of harm and no good at all. The Fish and Game people would like to see the reservation rid of every one of them.

The general public can help by not dropping unwanted pets onto the reservation. There are much better ways to dispose of them. Ads can be placed in the free classified sections of news publications, some radio stations will sometimes make free announcements that a pet is available. If these ads don't bring results the unwanted pet should be brought to the Post Veterinarian. He will attempt to find a home and if this is not possible will dispose of the animal in a humane manner.

Persons who spend time in the unhabitated parts of the reservation can help the wildlife men in this project by reporting the locations of any wild dog packs they locate to the Provost Marshal Desk Sergeant at 545-5222.

The Columbus Cruising Club, Georgia-Alabama Bass Club and the Columbus College Community Service Program will sponsor a boating and fishing clinic at the Colleges' Illges Building from 7 until 10 p.m. March 26 and 27.

The clinic, open to all interested people in the Chattahoochee Valley will feature a panel of speakers, movies and handout material. Representatives from the U.S.C.G. Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squadron, the Alabama and Georgia Departments of Conservation and Natural Resources, local marine equipment dealers and other interested agencies and individuals will participate. John Richardson, who has often been a guest on the Ridley Bell, Sportsmans Lodge Television Program will be master of ceremonies.

Subject matter will include practical and usable information concerning boating and fishing safety, marinas, launching sites, boats and trailers, care of fish before mounting, first aid, law enforcement of marine laws, conservation and other subjects of interest to boaters and fishermen.

The price of a ticket for the entire clinic is $3.50. A family ticket, good for admittance of a husband, wife and children can be purchased for $5. Ticket requests with check should be mailed to Colmbus College Community Service Program, Columbus, Ga. 31907.

For additional information call Billy Dove, 545-5641.

Looking Forward To Being A Civilian?

Look Forward To Colorado

WHY COLORADO? Because the natural attractions of this state are just now being discovered. The majestic mountains—the clear rushing streams—the pure, crisp air—the green, fertile land—the healthful climate—the opportunity to get away from the noise, the dirt, the crowds, the pollution of city living—all this is making land in Colorado sought after all over America.

NOW, you can be a part of this re-discovered America—you can own land in this amazing state at Colorado Mountain Estates. And, you may own this land on low, easy budget terms—good, fertile, scenic land backed by a company with an outstanding reputation in the development field.

This land at Colorado Mountain Estates was purchased years ago before good land in this area became scarce—before other developers began searching for property where people could return to the happy, healthy life that is fast becoming a thing of the past.

Colorado Mountain Estates has so much to offer you—so many wonderful advantages it is impossible to list them all here. But we would like you to know more about our property. It may be just what you have been looking for. So, we have prepared a kit of materials with actual color pictures of the property—maps showing where it is located—and how you may own part of Colorado Mountain Estates on our budget terms. We'd like to send it to you. We believe Colorado Mountain Estates is worth considering as a home for you now, or in the future—a vacation spot for years to come—or as a long term investment in an area where good land will not be available forever.

Colorado Mountain Estates is within 41 miles of three military installations offering the advantages of BX, Commissary, Military Hospitals, NCO and Officers Clubs.

See the coupon? Your name and address on this coupon will bring you complete information on Colorado Mountain Estates—no cost, no obligation—just a stamp and we'll do the rest. Send it today. All right?

Fort Benning

Rifle and Pistol Club helps many marksmen

The need for a place where the sports minded shooter could develop his skill, commune with his fellow shooters and try out any new marksmanship ideas materialized in the form of a club at Fort Benning almost a quarter century ago.

Organized in July 1951, the Rifle and Pistol Club of Fort Benning has been one of the big contributing factors to the marksmanship successes of the U.S. Army.

Springing from the need of an activity which would foster, promote and develop the various marksmanship talents of interested individuals within the U.S. Army and surrounding areas of Fort Benning, the Rifle and Pistol Club started with a small nucleus of 55 intensively dedicated shooters.

The club immediately began a program to stimulate interest by scheduling and sponsoring local matches. During the first month of the fledgling unit's activity, they hosted their initial tourney.

As a sponsoring agency and promoter of competitive marksmanship in the area, the club drew up a constitution and a set of by-laws which spelled out specific aims in their endeavor. These included the encouragement of organized rifle and pistol shooters, promotion of the increased knowledge and safe handling of firearms along with proper care of weapons as well as an improvement of marksmanship.

The club's goals also included the development of honesty, good fellowship, self discipline, team play and self reliance which are the basic essentials of good sportsmanship.

From its inception, the club was assigned its present location on Phillips Pistol range which is named in honor of Capt. Henry Phillips, a former marksman and adjutant of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit. Capt. Phillips was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross posthumously for his gallant action against the enemy in the Republic of Vietnam.

The club's pistol range has changed greatly in appearance and efficiency since 1951 when it included a small number of shooting points on open range with no supporting facilities such as the present club has.

Sporting one of the most modern range facilities in the southeastern United States, Phillips range as constructed in 1965 includes a directors office and club building along with statistical offices, target storage and supply rooms, rest rooms, outdoor sheltered bulletin boards for posting match results and an 80 point all-weather shooting booth range with electronic controls.

In addition, the range includes well shaded picnic tables with barbecue pits and an Air Rifle range.

This modern range facility is probably one of the most copied or duplicated in design in operation in the southeast. It includes accommodations for both international pistol and national three gun competition.

The first large match hosted by the Fort Benning Club following completion of their model range facilities was the All Army Matches in 1955. After this initial introduction to the large scale competition, the club has continued to sponsor many of the large National Rifle Association (NRA) sanctioned matches each year in addition to the monthly open pistol tournaments.

During its short 21 year tenure, the club has hosted well over 300 of the southeast's most important national and international pistol tournaments which include Interservice, All Army, Third Army, Sectionals and Regional matches. The largest number of entries in any one of these matches was 826 competitors listed in a combined rifle and pistol tournament in 1962.

The club as a host unit for pistol tournaments is known for its operational efficiency. Shooters like to see the shooting results as the tourney progresses and have the matches to run smoothly with the least delays. Responsible for this "A plus" efficiency rating is retired Master Sgt. Tom Kirkman of Columbus who has managed the club for 17 years. Kirkman first came to the club in 1954 as the custodian and club manager and has been with it ever since except for a tour in Korea in 1959 and 1960.

He retired from the Army in 1961 and stayed on to direct the affairs of the Georgia club. Kirkman claims his secret of success has been in having outstanding statistical officers to aid him. Presently in this department, he has the highly skilled services of Mrs. Martha McMillan.

Hqs. and Svc. Battery emerge first in 2-10th Arty's volleyball league

Headquarters and Service Battery emerged from a three-way tie to become the leaders in the 2nd Battalion, 10th Field Artillery's volleyball season. Until recently, B Battery, C Battery and Headquarters Battery each had one win and one loss. During the competition on March 7, however, Headquarters Battery definitely displayed their team strength.

In the first game of the match, Headquarters Battery left B Battery stunned from hard serves and penetrating spikes winning the game 15-2. After a short pep talk from Coach 2nd Lt. Richard D. Bray, B Battery was able to come back for the second game and fight to a rapid 4-0 lead. Headquarters Battery finally regained their confidence with sets from PFC David L. Lomax and spikes from Capt. Wayne M. Smoot and were able to take a short lead of 8-6. At this point, the dogmatic setting and spiking of Headquarters Battery completely overpowered B Battery's defense, bringing Headquarters to a 15-8 game and match victory.

Headquarters Battery now has a record of two wins and one defeat to lead the Battalion's volleyball competition.

Post BB team competes locally 19-24 March

The Fort Benning Post Basketball Team will compete in the 1973 Bibb City Basketball Tournament at the Comer Auditorium, 19-24 March.

Sixteen teams from the Chattahoochee Valley area will vie for the top spot in this year's tournament, sponsored by Columbus Recreation Department.

Nominal admission fee will be charged to spectators.

Funds will be used to support tournament expenses with a portion going to the City Recreation Department Scholarship Fund.

Last indefinite term of service EM retires

Sergeant First Class Glen F. Yettaw, the last of the "Indefinite term of Service" enlisted men, retired recently at Fort Benning after 30 years of service.

There are still men in the Army who were in this program at one time, but SFC Yettaw is the only one left, at the time of his retirement, who had not optioned out of the program for various reasons.

The indefinite enlistment program was established to allow the formation of a career group of enlisted men. A person who entered this program would continue for 30 years of service or until he reached the age of 55.

Yettaw, who has been a medic for his full term of service, entered the Army in Aug. 1972 and took basic training at Camp Grant, Illinois.

To enter the program, the person must have been permanently promoted to the grade of E-6, Staff sergeant, as opposed to a temporary or acting rank of staff sergeant.

Yettaw said, "I am most proud of my Combat Medical Badge and my Airborne Wings with Combat Star which I got in Korea."

Yettaw, whose mother Mrs. Lena M. Yettaw lives at 711½ Elliott St. Grand Haven, Michigan, will live at 3106 Plantation Road, Columbus, with his wife Eva.

SFC Leslie Dockery, Co. C, 1st Bn., 29th Inf. (Pioneers), 197th Inf. Bde., supervised a fishing trip for the men in his company and as a result of his prize catch was nominated the "Chief Fisherman". As a part of the unit's adventure training program, the fishing trip on the Chattahoochee River resulted in a number of fine "catches".

Zero-In on safety

Calendar Year 72 was conducted to determine major causes of accidental injuries to Fort Benning personnel.

The analysis revealed the "Zeroing-In" areas for 1973 for military as POV accidents, parachutes landing falls, and motorcycle accidents.

Civilian accidents are slips and falls, lifting and burns.

Supervisors and commanders should consider "Zeroing In" on, materials handling, struck by or against, fire, and troop training.

Be A Charter Partner!

How many times in your life have you gotten in on something really great—really rewarding—right at the start?
Well, that's exactly what you can do now when you become a Charter Partner of PGI's new Park Lane communities.
You're not just purchasing a dream in the Florida sun. Neither are you just buying a retirement homesite. Instead, you become a Partner with us in building a new kind of Florida community. You're in at the beginning of something great. We call it the Park Lane "Green Belt". You'll call it a community like no other community you've ever seen. And, Partner, you'll be right.

What Does A Charter Partner Do?

A partner enjoys. Because after you've selected your homesite, after you receive your Charter Partner certificate, that's all there is to do. You see, no matter whether you choose to build immediately or in the future...or whether you consider this a means of saving for your future, you'll be absolutely delighted at the way PGI has anticipated your every need for your new life in Florida.

What Is The "Green Belt"?

Park Lane "Green Belt" communities are something completely original... completely new... a unique ingredient that has been ignored by most other community builders. This special ingredient is open space... a network of inter-connecting, meadow-like green fairways. Every home (or homesite)... every one... has a strip of green right behind it, land you do not pay for. With each homesite facing on one of these lush, grassy lanes... you enjoy a feeling of privacy, of open space, of living room.

Fun? We Have It!

Take your boat out in nearby Charlotte Harbor and tackle tarpon, pompano, snook and kingfish. Swim, dive or sail. Enjoy golf on a challenging, scenic golf course, play a fast game of tennis on superb courts, dine in style at the "Isles" Yacht and Racquet Club or just relax in our mild year-round pleasant climate. At PGI communities, this is Florida living at its finest.

And Air Condition Your Lungs!

The freshest air to breathe! Here in Punta Gorda, Florida, the ecology is protected in the only section of Florida that (according to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency) has "no air pollution problem."

Remember: (1) Quality...(2) The "Green Belt" Approach...(3) Location...(4) Recreation... (5) Saving For The Future.

Even if you're not planning to move to Florida now or in the near future, when you consider all the facts and growth potential, maybe you'll decide a PGI Park Lane community is the perfect place for a long-term investment potential.

MILITARY PERSONNEL ONLY! In PGI communities you are only 99 miles from Tampa, home of MacDill Air Force Base, with its commissary, BX, hospital, NCO Club, Officers Club and other facilities all available for your use. YOUR FUTURE STARTS TODAY AT PGI PARK LANE "GREEN BELT" COMMUNITIES.

FLORIDA IS DISAPPEARING!

Don't misunderstand this dramatic statement. The state of Florida is not sinking into the sea. But Florida land... really good land is becoming more and more scarce. And as the supply of land decreases you know what happens.

You've read many promises about Florida land, but with Punta Gorda Isles, Inc., FACTS COME FIRST!

We are proven successful community builders. We've invested our money in outstanding well-located Florida property. We've created a new kind of community concept with open parkways adjacent to every homesite... we call them Park Lane "Green Belt" communities. We've priced them reasonably and are offering them on a long-term, convenient, payment plan.

Florida holds a great potential for the wise serviceman who wants to save for the future. The question is HOW?

Our answer is: Become a Charter Partner with us in a new Florida community.

Servicemen Praise PGI Communities

Jack Emery

"...after spending much time checking out the entire state, we decided to purchase retirement property in Punta Gorda Isles. We felt the high quality of land and PGI's high standards of development offered the most value for the money of any place in Florida."

Jack R. Emery, USA (Ret.)

Clarence Curtis

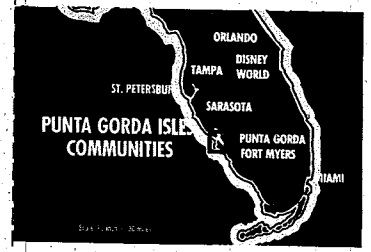
"...we had seen many developments on our annual trips to Florida but the 'Isles' had it all. It is a clean, well-maintained environment with a versatility of recreational programs sponsored by the Civic Association and the 'Isles' management. That's why we like it here."

Clarence E. Curtis, Jr., USA (Ret.)

J. Wallace Page

"...when you're brought up on the theory to own land, the next problem is to find the right land!...the only place that seemed right for us was a PGI community. We especially liked their Park Lane 'Green Belt' approach. Living here means looking to the future."

J. Wallace Page, USA (Ret.)



John W. Kindell

"...I guess it's only natural after time in the service to crave privacy at home, and lots of it. We looked at every major development and decided that PGI offered the best per dollar potential. My dream is a reality here at PGI."

John W. Kindell, USA (Ret.)

Rangers train NGs

Forty-three Ohio National Guard Officer Candidates and twenty three Arkansas National Guard Officer Candidates participated in a weekend of Ranger training at Fort Benning.

Capt. Jerry R. Barnhill of the patroling committee of the RANGER department said, "We hope the ranger training this weekend will give these candidates a feel for tactics."

Barnhill said the candidates received instruction in the fundamentals of patroling, rapeling, orienteering, the raid patrol, and a practical exercise on escape and evasion.

"We hope the students will be able to take away from this instruction a feel for patroling and individual tactics," said Capt. Barnhill.

Candidate John A. Sims of Cleveland, Ohio, said "I have enjoyed this training and think it is about the best instruction we have received." Sims said he particularly enjoyed the rapeling.

Professional football players come here

Members of the post football team will have a chance to beat players from the National Football League in a tag football game.

About 25 NFL players will provide the opposition in support of the Athletes in Action Program, a component of Campus Crusade for Christ.

The program is set for Fort Benning April 23-24.

During half time the visitor team will talk on religious commitment, moral standards, personal conduct, and physical fitness. After the game, the team will be committed to other activities on post scheduled by Special Services and the post's chaplains.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Bill King

On this side of the Atlantic, a prune is a dried plum — but in France the same word means a fresh plum.

Freeze any bacon you can't use up in a week. If merely refrigerated, it may lose its delicate flavor and take on a salty taste.

Just before baking brown 'n serve rolls for Sunday breakfast, slit them and fill with a mixture of brown sugar, chopped nuts and grated orange peel.

Pot-Saver: If you plan to reheat the roast later in the oven, wrap leftover potatoes and vegetables in foil packets so they can be reheated the same way.

American cookery was born in the New England colonies, where it wasn't unusual to see a woman carrying a cookbook, under one arm and a Bible under the other.

Infantry Museum

Holding Antique toy show this weekend

The National Infantry Museum will be featuring a special two-day show of antique toys and penny banks tomorrow and Sunday, March 24 and 25. Children and adults in the Fort Benning, Columbus, and Phenix City area will enjoy it.

Lt. Col. Dick D. Grube, curator of the museum, will be on hand to show and operate an interesting collection of mechanical penny banks. Each of the banks takes a penny and through the use of springs, levers, and pivots, deposits the coin safely in the body of the bank.

The names of some of the banks are almost as interesting as the action they depict: "Bad Accident," "Always Did Spize A Mule," "Boss Tweed," "William Tell," "Trick Dog," and others.

The banks cover a period of colorful Americana from 1849 to 1900. The main purpose of the banks was to instill thrift into the lives of children by making saving fun.

The Museum will be open Saturday and Sunday from 12 noon until 4:30 p.m. Children of all ages are welcome.

Plans POW/MIA display

The National Infantry Museum is also planning for the established of a special display honoring POW-MIA personnel of all wars. The museum is acting on the generous gift of personal mementoes of one of the returning POW's and on the suggestion of Col. Audrey G. Norris, Commanding Officer, TSB.

The display will attempt to show the hardships of captivity and recognize the moral support for American POW-MIA personnel by the folks back home. Posters, bumper stickers, and bracelets will be featured, as well as copies of letters sent to Communist leaders on behalf of our captive comrades-in-arms.

Museum curator, Lt. Col. Dick D. Grube, requests the help of all military and civilian families in the Fort Benning-Columbus area in the collection of appropriate items for the display.

Anyone wishing to donate an item should call 545-5413 or drop by the museum, which is located on Intersoil Street at Fort Benning.

Froehlke will speak to local AUSA

The Secretary of the Army, Robert F. Froehlke, will be the guest speaker at the annual general membership meeting of the Columbus-Phenix City - Fort Benning Chapter of the Association of the United States Army (AUSA), April 10, at 7:30 p.m. in Marshall Auditorium.

Prior to the meeting a social hour for AUSA members will be held at the Fort Benning Officers Open Mess Supper Club from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Tickets for the social hour may be obtained from company first sergeants or at the entrance of the Supper Club. Tickets are one dollar.

Secretary Froehlke assumed the top possible of the Army on July 1, 1969, after having served as assistant secretary of defense. He graduated from the Infantry Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning in August 22, 1944 and served as an Infantryman.

The public is invited to hear the address by Froehlke.

931st starts dial command

544-3633 is the "Dial Command" telephone number that everyone in the 931st Engineer Group should be familiar with. "Dial Command" is a new program in the 931st, designed to give the men another outlet of communications with the commander.

The program's purpose is to increase the morale and combat readiness of the group.

"Dial Command" supplements normal channels of communications concerning racial complaints, problems, grievances, recommendations, or creative suggestions.

Information received is handled as confidential unless positive follow up makes it necessary to disclose a person's name on a need to know basis.

A transcript of all calls are prepared at the end of each day and reviewed by the group Commander. Answers are prepared and published in the 931st Engineer Group weekly bulletin, or in the unit newspaper or by personnel reply.

Matters outside of the jurisdiction of the group Commander, such as the turn-in of a pusher or abuser of narcotics, are turned over to the appropriate post level staff agency for action.

Col. Steel in command of 197th Infantry Bde.

Col. Edwin L. Kennedy relinquished command of the 197th Infantry Brigade to Col. William B. Steele during ceremonies at York Field March 21, concluding 16 months as commander of the Fort Benning unit. The 197th was also reorganized during the formal ceremony.

After heading the Modern Volunteer Army project at Fort Benning during its test phase, known as VOLAR (the Benning plan for a Modern Volunteer Army), Col. Kennedy assumed command of the 197th Brigade Nov. 20, 1971.

Under his command, the Kelley Hill Infantry unit continued its unit-of-choice recruiting and, subsequently, recruited volunteers to fill all combat slots, with nearly all non-combat slots also filled.

Col. Kennedy directed the adoption of extensive programs in safety, human relations, crime prevention, reenlistment and soldier-commander relations designed to solidify military life for volunteers and maintain a highly skilled level of support for the Infantry School, fulfilling the unit's primary mission.

Col. Kennedy, who commanded the 196th Light Infantry Brigade (American Division) for five months in Vietnam, also informed a number of visiting dignitaries and members of the press of the Modern Volunteer Army program as practiced by the 197th Brigade during his command. These sessions resulted in a wide-ranging and penetrating spectrum of publicity reaching the American public through print and broadcast media in local, state and national audiences.

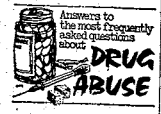
The living conditions, working conditions and job satisfaction of volunteer soldiers in the 197th Brigade provided examples of the Modern Volunteer Army for the variety of persons who arrived for a look at the program in action.

Citizens of many communities in the neighboring Southeastern states welcomed soldiers of the 197th Brigade to their locales on innumerable occasions for such events as demonstrations by the Pioneer Drill Team and Scout Dog Team of the 1st Bn., 29th Inf. (Pioneers) equipment displays and performances by "The Forever Forward Combo."

In addition, Col. Kennedy sent troops from the Brigade's four battalions to participate in many community action projects and adventure training trips throughout the Southeast.

Col. Kennedy is a 1960 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. He commanded a company in the Third Infantry Division during the Korean conflict. He has also served as commander of the 2nd Bn., 6th Inf., Berlin Brigade.

A native of Waynesboro, Miss., Col. Kennedy has been graduated from the Infantry Officers Advanced Course, Army War College and British Staff College. Before his education at West Point Col. Kennedy attended Marion Military Institute.



Col. Kennedy and his wife, Dolly, have three children, David, 13, Catherine, 18, and Edwin L. Jr., 19 (currently attending West Point).

In his next assignment Col. Kennedy will work in Washington, D. C. as Senate Liaison Officer for the Department of the Army.

Before welcoming Col. William B. Steele as the new commander and saying farewell to Col. Edwin L. Kennedy, the famous Infantry force activated several units and transferred one in changing from a general support force brigade to a division forces Strategic Army Forces (STRAF) brigade.

The colors of the 2nd Bn., 69th Ar., 3rd Bn., 7th Inf. and Trp. A, 15th Cav. were unfurled during the pompous late morning ceremony. In addition, the 1st Bn., 29th Inf. (Pioneers) was transferred to the Infantry School as its primary support unit under a separate Table of Distribution and Allowances.

Col. Steele, a native of Vienna and graduate of the University of Georgia, served as Secretary of the Infantry School and director of the Infantry School's Leadership Department prior to assuming command of the Brigade.

This M-41 Walker Bulldog tank was one of the oldest tanks displayed on Gardner Field Wednesday for reorganization day festivities of the 2nd Bn., 69th Armor, 197th Inf. Bde. Sp4 Jimmie A. Williams, who restored the tank, leans against the turret. Williams termed the vehicle "a piece of junk" and said "impossible" when he saw it for the first time. The vintage piece of armor was one of a number of tanks presented to the public to represent the evolution of armor in the Army. "The rewiring job was the most difficult part of the project," said Williams. "Each wire had to be strung the complete length of the tank. In addition to the complicated rewiring effort, Williams rewired the cockpit's gauges and controls as well as replacing the engine and transmission. Williams is a native of Douglas, Ga.

Do you think the UCMJ provides equal treatment to all soldiers of different racial and ethnic backgrounds

Is the UCMJ fair?

Pvt. Chris Schilling
85th Co. TSB

Depends on where the individual is. I think the location in this country is very important to a man. The laws and rights of the UCMJ are set up to protect the rights of all individual soldiers, no matter where he is. Suppose a man is black and is located in the north. His chances of being treated fairly greater there than if located in the south, or so cated in the south, or so it seems. Of course there is much controversy over the fair treatment of a man's rights, no matter what race or ethnic background he is.

E-6 Harry Wallace
TDY

The UCMJ is based on the facet that every man is equal in his rights as an individual and should be judged accordingly. The judgement and decision of the members within the UCMJ, is very often not enforced fairly, therefore, infringing on the rights of the man involved.

Pvt. Luis Ferrer
44th Co. Airborne

The UCMJ is definitely prejudice in there decision! it seems they are more lenient towards blacks and white, than they are with Puerto Ricans or Cubans, especially in some cases or the man really doesn't understand fully what he has done, or what they are doing to him.

I recall a recent speech from the former Post Commander, Orin Talbott, during a race relation seminar interview in which he made a point of mentioning the fact that he is doing everything in his power to bring about equality and do away with racial prejudice at Fort Benning. With this example of military pressure placed on officers and senior EM's it would be impossible to expect them to act fairly on any problem when they know that racial conflicts along with the RRCG could cause them a promotion or their job.

So chancesare the UCMJ normally sees just the cut and dried military violation.

I think the UCMJ is fair to all, no matter what race or ethnic background a man happens to be. It is my belief that the UCMJ does not present any prejudice. I am Cuban and I feel that I have been treated as fairly as any individual.

Lady Cadet?

West Point women may be too much

BY STEVE VITUCCI

The Department of the Army is seriously considering allowing women to enroll at the U. S. Military Academy. The very idea of women being a part of the Long Gray Line is a horrifying idea.

Through 171 years of its existence the Military Academy has been steeped in traditions. These traditions have set the Military Academy and its graduates apart from other institutions and Military Schools. These traditions are a very important part of cadet life. What would happen to all these fine traditions? Allowing women to enter this male institution would mean changing or doing away with these traditions.

What is Department of the Army trying to prove by allowing women to apply to the Military Academy? The Military Academy is charged with the responsibility of producing a well rounded COMBAT LEADER. This is the very reason the Military Academy exists.

Do women belong in the combat arms branches? Can they withstand the physical strain of combat and a combat environment? Can they lead troops? The answers to these questions are relatively unknown. How many women would want to see combat? How many women want the responsibility of commanding a combat arms unit? There are probably very few. Two WAC captains, both currently enrolled in the Infantry Officer Advance Course, both said they have no desire to see combat.

Women have always played an important role in the Army. There is no question of the Department of the Army's need to give equal treatment to women. There is a place in the Army for women, but not as combatants on the battlefield, so why even consider having them enter West Point?

No need for equal time

Dear Editor,

I am writing this in reference to the letter to the Bayonet last week from the man who felt Indians should get equal time with Blacks. I am half Negro, and half Indian (Apache) and come from a long line of proud people, on both sides of my family. I see no need for Indians to demand equal time, or any other minority group. What if everyone else wanted to have a "night" at theService Club? There would be Soul, Mexican, Chinese, Indian, Chicano, Irish, Jewish, and God knows how many other nights. Why doesn't everyone quit complaining about how their race is being abused and oppressed? Maybe some of the members of the minority groups should start acting like human beings and quit waving banners what say "I'm Black—feel sorry for me."

You can sign me, one-half Black, one-half Indian, but 100 per cent human being.

Women infiltrate military police

By Jim Howard

For the first time in the post's history Fort Benning has two women military policemen . . . policepersons.

Every morning these two lady cops can be seen at busy intersections on post directing incoming traffic. Each lady has a weapon and a ticket book at the ready, and each has a determined look as she faces the onrush of Benning drivers trying to get to their jobs on time.

The lady MPs are Privates Diane Hinshaw and Nancy Abrams. They graduated with the Army's first class of 21 WACs from the Military Police School at Fort Gordon earlier this year.

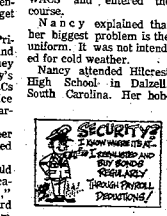
Diane's father, a career military man suggested her joining the service.

"I found that I could continue my college education while in the service," said Diane. "I also heard about the MP program and it interested me because it was the Army's first class for WACS. The job sounded exciting.

"My big problem is the fact that people don't take me seriously. I hope that after people find out that I'm out here to do a job just as every other MP is, they'll treat me as they do any other MP."

Diane hopes to finish college and eventually work in the law enforcement field after leaving the Army. She was a secretaty in Anchorage, Alaska, and enjoys outdoor sports. She graduated from John Marshall High School, San Antonio, Texas.

Diane is the daughter of Senior Master Sergeant and Mrs. Auther D. Hinshaw of Anchorage, Alaska.



Nancy always had an urge in the back of her mind to be in some sort of law enforcement field.

Although starting her Army career as a clerk typist, she learned about the new MP program the Army was offering to WACS and entered the course.

Nancy explained that her biggest problem is the uniform. It was not intended for cold weather.

Nancy attended Hilcrest High School in Dalzell, South Carolina. Her hobbies include sewing and singing. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lendbury Abrams, of Sumter, S. C. Nancy intends to stay in the law enforcement field after she is out of the Army.

Both Nancy and Diane are presently assigned to the 139th Military Police Company.

Military justice protects the soldier

By Pvt. Chuch Brickman, 93ist PIO

The system of Military Justice has often come under heavy criticism, both from civilian and soldier alike. Yet, much of this criticism is the result of ignorance of the nature of military law and its place in the system as a whole. In many instances, military justice has proved to be far ahead of civilian law, especially in the area of protection of the rights of the accused.

Since 1950, soldiers have been afforded rights under the UCMJ that have only been extended to civilians since 1966, when, in the case of Miranda vs Arizona, the courts ruled that the accused had to be advised of his right to counsel.

Soldiers advantage

Still, the soldier enjoys a distinct advantage over the civilian suspect. For one thing, the soldier must be advised of the offense of which he is accused, a right often denied by the civilian law. Then too, this right, under military law, covers all interrogations, while in civilian law, it applies only to in-custody questioning by police.

Free Counsel

The right to free legal counsel is one of the most important safe-guards of the rights of the suspect under the Military Justice system. True, the right to counsel is not actually provided in the summary courts but the suspect has the right to refuse trial by summary court, in which case, counsel will be provided for him in a special court. In fact in cases involving a punitive discharge, the right to counsel may not be waived.

Defense Aids

Provided with free counsel, the suspect has many additional rights to aid him in the preparation of a defense.

Not the least of these is his right to a copy of any investigative report, a right often denied to the accused in civilian law. If a report is at all issued to the civilian accused, it is subject to the discretion of the court.

Speedy Trial

The right to a fair and speedy trial is another of the suspect's rights which is jealously guarded by the system of military law.

Any willful attempt to delay the trial is punishable under Art. 98 of the UCMJ.

Art. 98 guarantees the accused a speedy trial. Delays can result in the dropping of all charges and specifications. Any willful attempt to delay the trial is punishable under the code. In a General Court Martial, for example, the investigating Officer has a period of 3 to 5 days to complete his investigation. Any delays must be explained in writing. All requests for delays must be made in writing and become a part of the court record.

By contrast, the absence of speedy trials is one of the worst problems of the civilian justice system. The Chief Justice, Warren Burger, described this as the single biggest problem of the judicial machinery.

Witnesses

Another area in which the suspect under military law enjoys a marked advantage over the civilian accused is in his access to witnesses. The accused has the same right to witnesses as the prosecution. He merely has to supply a list of witnesses and a justification for their presence and the court has to furnish the witness. The court then, bears the costs which in most cases in civilian law fall upon the accused.

One of the most important rights afforded by the military justice system is the right to an automatic appellate review in case of conviction.

In addition, a new trial may be requested within a two year period in the event of the discovery of new evidence or errors in the original trial which may have been prejudicial to the substantial rights of the accused.

Commander Influence

The fear of command influence in the military system is unfounded. Statistics show the acquittal rate for military courts to be as much as twice that of Federal District Courts. These figures could hardly be said to reflect undue command influence.

Yet it must be made abundantly clear to all that the military justice system is by no means perfect. The nature of the system is such that it can, on occasion, lend itself to abuse.

Art. 134, for example, is a catch-all which prohibits "disorders and neglects to the prejudice of good order and discipline in the Armed Forces." Its scope is so wide as to prompt one lawyer to remark that everyone in the army is guilty of some violation of Art. 134 every day. It even includes "crimes and offenses not capital . . . not made punishable by another article, which are denounced as crimes . . . and made triable in the Federal Civil Courts." (Manual for Courts Martial).

The disparity between punishments meted out by summary courts, is another area of the law that needs close attention.

Because the need for improvement was recognized, the Code Committee was formed. This committee is comprised of members of the Court of Military Appeals and the Judge Advocate Generals of the Armed Forces. Its purpose is to ensure the continuous improvement of the Military Justice system. In addition outside forces influence change in the system, such as, Supreme Court decisions, criticism from news media, and decisions of the legislature.

Military Law is geared to ensure a fair and speedy trial. In the areas where it falls short of these objectives, efforts are being made to improve and perfect the system.

Article 15

Who to see?

What to do?

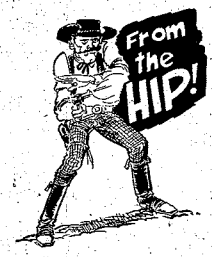
Eavesdrop on a bunch of "barracks lawyers" around Fort Benning rapping about the Article 15 sometime. You'll come up with about the same amount of factual information that would emerge from a similar discussion on what causes warts.

Article 15 is a legitimate part of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ). But it is not a club which can be used by a commander to discipline anyone he doesn't happen to like, disregarding clearly spelled-out military legal rights. Your basic legal rights don't just disappear in a puff of smoke when you enter the service.

First, not just anyone can impose an Article 15 — only the commander of a unit, or (on rare occasions) someone to whom the authority has been legally delegated. And it can only be given for some clearly stated act or omission of which has breached the UCMJ.

An NCO can't give an Article 15 on his own. He has to convince the commander it is merited, so he had better be sure of the facts. And — contrary to widespread misunderstanding — neither can a Judge Advocate. His job is to make sure that everything is done by the book.

How many service members know that they don't have to accept an Article 15? They can say "no," and will then probably be given an opportunity to present their cases at a court-martial, more like a civilian trial.



Before requesting a court-martial, remember this: although an Article 15 does go on a military record affecting promotions, assignments or security clearances, it doesn't return with you to civilian life as a court-martial conviction would. There is no need to even mention an Article 15 to a prospective employer.

If you're about to have an Article 15 laid on you, make sure that the commander (who is just as interested as you are in getting at the truth), knows all about your side of the story.

How? It's quite simple. Talk to a legal officer immediately — before you sign anything. Call 545-1877 and a legal defense officer will have you bring him an unsigned copy of the Article 15 that very day. He'll talk to you and give you the best legal advice.

That's why he's there. That's what the government pays him for — to advise you. (You can't beat the price either. It's free.) He will see that your specifically stated right to have written statements or other pertinent documentary evidence attached to the file is observed.

Now wait just a minute before you run out and nail up a shingle as a gilt-edged barracks lawyer. These are just a few sketchy highlights of a very complex subject. Go to an expert, the best one qualified to lead you through is your Fort Benning legal officer at Bldg. 5, just across from the Main Post Chapel.

TSB

2nd Stu. Bn.

The monthly coffee for the wives in the Second Battalion was held at the home of Mrs. Alvin C. Walker. It was given on March 2.

The refreshments served were pecan rolls, hot blueberry muffins, sausages, a fruit plate which consisted of strawberries, apple and banana slices and grapes.

Mrs. Phillip S. Roberson, who was attending her first coffee with the wives of the 2nd Battalion, was welcomed.

Included in the discussion were some ideas mentioned for activities with the IOBC wives.

Patrolling Committee

The ladies of the Patrolling Committee held their monthly coffee, March 8, in the home of Mrs. Channing Greene.

A bouquet of spring flowers adorned the refreshment table from which Mrs. Greene served Cream Cheese Brunch Cake, sausage and cheese balls, coffee and tea.

While the ladies enjoyed their refreshments, Mrs. Frank Scott held a short business meeting. Preparations for the OWC May luncheon, which will be sponsored by the Ranger Wives, were discussed. A pot-luck supper has been planned for March 20.

Special guests at the coffee were two of the newest members of the Ranger Department, Little Miss Jennifer Bauer, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Roger Bauer and Little Miss Tarnesia Ontreal Price, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Morris Price.

The next coffee will be held in the home of Mrs. Larry Culbreth, on April 12 at 10 a.m.

USAIC

Comptroller-Finance

George Washington's Birthday provided the theme for the Feb. 19 coffee of the ladies of Comptroller-Finance. A tiny hand-crafted cherry tree, complete with ax, highlighted the refreshment table which featured cherry tarts, assorted pastries and a choice of soft drinks or steaming coffee.

Mrs. W. G. Axum of Zuckerman Avenue, Fort Benning, hostess for the event, conducted an informal business meeting while the ladies relaxed with their refreshments.

The next coffee will be at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Buch.

USAIS

Office of The Executive

A step away from the traditional VIP farewell was taken when the Officers and Ladies of the Office of the Secretary, USAIS, said good-by to Col. and Mrs. William B. Steele with an informal buffet dinner at the Fort Benning Country Club. An assortment of vegetables, salads and cold meats was served.

The highlight that made the evening a success was the stunning vocal and piano renditions by Mrs. Reuben Webster. Col. Steele received a number of gifts, including two "Steele pots," a scroll and a beautiful "Follow Me" plaque. Brig. Gen. William Richardson presented the traditional brandy snifter.

Col. Steele will now assume command of the 197th Infantry Brigade.

Support Battalion

The officers and ladies of the 197th Support Battalion celebrated Texas Independence Day on Friday evening, March 2, at the temporary Georgia headquarters of Sam Houston, also serving as the domicile of Lt. Col. and Mrs. W. J. Eddins Jr., on Eames Avenue, Fort Benning.

Feeding the troops was the responsibility of the ladies of the Battalion staff, in which role they performed admirably. The chow line included Lone Star chicken, guacomole, chili beans with sausage, sonofahitch stew, cole slaw and lemon chiffon cake, which was decorated with a plaster of Paris model of the Alamo fashioned by the talented hands of Mrs. Emil Farr.

Getting down to the business of the evening, Lt. Col. Eddins, battalion commander, was pleased to welcome to the group the following newcomers: Lt. Zebiginew ("Big") Jankowski, Capt. and Mrs. Dennis Palmer, CW3 and Mrs. Steven Kriz and Lt. and Mrs. Nicholas Licht.

Col. Edwin Kennedy, commander of the 197th Infantry Brigade, and Mrs. Kennedy were special guests and received farewell gifts presented to them on the occasion of their upcoming departure from Fort Benning. From the battalion armor officers, Col. Kennedy was given a handsome mug made from a brass shell casing, appropriately engraved. From "Your Tankers and Engineers" Col. Kennedy received an engraved miniature cavalry sabre. The ladies of the 197th, in keeping with both the theme of the party and their great regard for Mrs. Kennedy, presented her with a yellow satin garter, embellished with a red silk rose and miniature Spring Festival Days.

Concluding the presentations, Lt. Col. Eddings also gave Capt. Dennis Lott an engraved sabre marking the completion of Capt. Lott's command of "G" Company.

Mrs. John Fountain and Mrs. Dennis Palmer cohosted the monthly coffee of the 197th Support Battalion on Thurs. afternoon, March 8, at Mrs. Fountain's home on Whippoorwill Lane, Columbus. Mrs. W. J. Eddins Jr., wife of the battalion commander, presided over a brief discussion of OWC news and upcoming events of special interest to the distaff assembly. Sun-seekers made mental notes of further details for the April 13 trip to Destin, Florida, planned by the officers and families of the battalion. The group will take advantage of the Army Recreation Center's facilities for the week-end journey. The ladies were also reminded of the OWC 49'er festivities on April 7. Those who will be directly participating in the evening's fun are drawing on their own talents and imaginations to create gala attire in the Gold Rush theme.

In a more serious vein, Mrs. Robert Steele suggested that the group investigate the possibility of adopting a child in this area to whose financial support the 197th wives could contribute on a regular basis. It has come to the ladies' attention that there are children in this vicinity whose overall living conditions could benefit considerable from an improvement in their economic status. They include not only orphans but also youngsters whose parents either cannot or will not provide adequate support. The suggestion met with enthusiastic approval, and especially so since the group is eager to make a tangible contribution to the community.

Mrs. Eddins continued with a brief review of Mrs. Lieutenant to familiarize everyone with home of the intricacies of military protocol.

To conclude the afternoon, diets were abandoned as Mrs. Fountain and Mrs. Palmer served refreshments: banana chocolate cake, cherry pudding cake, cheese log, pineapple with fruit kahoba and cranberry punch.

Aviation Command

Headquarters and Company, Commander's Wives of Aviation Command gathered in the home of Mrs James Davis, Arrowhead Road, Fort Benning, for their monthly coffee on March 13. A delightful array of finger sandwiches, candies, cookies and relishes surrounded a spring bouquet of flowers. Coffee and lime punch were also served.

Mrs. Lawrence Bell bid farewell to Mrs. Davis and welcomed to the coffee Mesdames Roger Ladd, Glenn Quick, Garry Mallernee, Francis Savoy, James Pike and Jerry Watson. Mrs. Bell then proceeded with the forthcoming business, including the upcoming OWC classes and functions, the 49'er Party sponsored by DUSA, the Thrift Shop Flea Market, and the Columbus Spring Festival Days. Mrs. Bell also discussed the Aviation Command Trip to Lennox Square in Atlanta on April 4.

Women

OWC starts course for members

An OWC course about the women's movement?

With all the current discussion about women's liberation, the Officers' Wives Club has added a new course to its usual list of classes available to members. It is called "The American Woman — Who Is She?"

The course is taught by Mrs. Franklin A. Hart, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Colorado. It is designed to give its participants a better understanding of the discussion about women.

Another aim is to give women a means of analyzing their own views and those of others. They do this by reading three books from a list selected by Mrs. Hart, and by holding weekly discussion meetings.

Topics have included the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, women and education, the 19th-century women's movement, and traditional attitudes toward women.

The course will be taught next quarter at Columbus College on a non-credit basis. Mrs. Hart is consultant for women's programs under the college's Community Service Department, headed by Dr. J. Fred Burgess.

Several courses of interest to women are being taught now, and more are scheduled for spring quarter. A course in "garbage art," and an exercise class, will be taught during the day.

A back-to-work clinic will also be taught during the day. It will be especially useful to women who are considering re-entry into the job market, Mrs. Hart's course will be taught at night.

The back-to-work clinic will help prepare women for taking part in the business and professional world again, and will examine the choices open to them in the field of job opportunity.

Mrs. Hart's course, she emphasizes, "is not a consciousness-raising group." She wants the women who take it to be better equipped to understand the current issues involved in the women's movement, and why people hold the views they do.

Mrs. Hart believes that "women's role has increasingly specific political implications in our planned society. The decisions of planners reflect their basic assumptions about the nature of woman."

Interpreters set for annual spring tour

The Columbus College Choral Interpreters will make their annual spring tour March 14-17 which will include 12 appearances in five Georgia cities.

The Interpreters, under the direction of Professor William P. Crowell of the college's speech faculty, is a 15-student group of choral readers who speak their parts, often in unison, rather than sing their lines. Their repertoire covers literature from the serious classical to the light comical.

Rhythm and tone receive emphasis as in music. Dialogue is adapted so that solos, duets, trios, quartets, quintets, and one or more choruses may be used.

Choral reading at the college is an ancient art in modern dress. Its origin is in the early Greek dramas. It was also an art form of the ancient Hindus, the North American Indians, and the Polynesians who chanted appeals to their respective gods. In the 1930's British poet John Masefield revitalized choral reading and sponsored many festivals and verse speaking programs. Choric ensembles perform on the Broadway stage to emphasize mood or plot.

The students, traveling in the college bus, will perform in Cusseta, Buena Vista, Americus, Albany, and Valdosta.

Coming to the screen

SKYJACKED — This exciting suspense drama of hijacking aboard a 707 jetliner, and its effect on the lives of passengers and crew members, stars Charlton Heston and Yvette Mimieux. Heston is on one of his regularly scheduled flights when a hijacker's deadly message is discovered written in lipstick on a mirror in one of the restrooms. Soon revealing himself and his motive, the hijacker diverts the plane to Anchorage, Alaska, where spotting FBI agents he goes berserk. While holding members of the crew and passengers as hostages, the hijacker then orders the plane flown to Moscow. Especially gripping is the USSR Air Force intercept and guidance into the airport.

FAT CITY — Fat City is an old jazz musician's term for the good life — the land of milk and honey — a place most spend a lifetime trying to get to only to find out that it is not on any map. This story of smalltime professional fighters, traveling the back-alley circuits, struggling to line up matches, finding out when they win, they lose because their cut of the take is so paltry. Stacy Keach, one of the heroes, is only 30 but already a has-been in the racket through excessive drinking and unwillingness to train. The other, is Jeff Bridges, a 19-year-old whom Keach meets in a gym and thinks has exceptional talent at boxing.

PULP — A fast and very funny spoof on everything from Sam Spade to James Bond. Michael Caine is a detective writer involved in a caper that is three steps ahead of him at every point. Mickey Rooney is a retired gangster, a combination George Raft, James Cagney, and Slapsy Maxie Rosenbloom. Michael Caine becomes involved in what may be one of his own stories only to find that he is a better writer than a detective.

THE EFFECT OF GAMMA RAYSON MAN-IN-THE MOON MARIGOLDS — A moving drama of a slatternly mother too involved in her ow disappointments to give attention to her two teen-age daughters. The oldest daughter, suffering from epileptic attacks and nightmares, is traveling down the path her mother took but the younger one has turned to thungs of the mind and is overwhelmed by science compensating for the lack of affection in her life. The mother and eldest daughter cannot see beyond themselves and are doomed; the younger, with the ability to look out beyond herself and put her problems in perspective, has a chance of escaping.

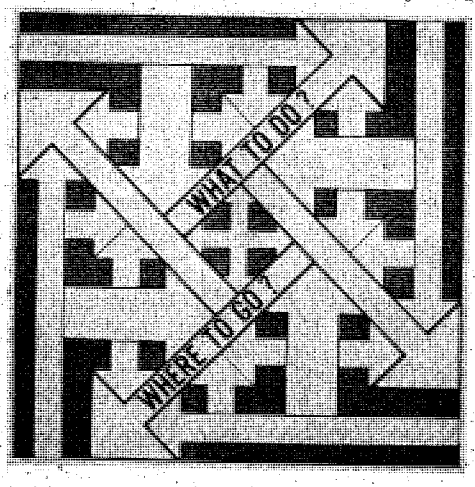
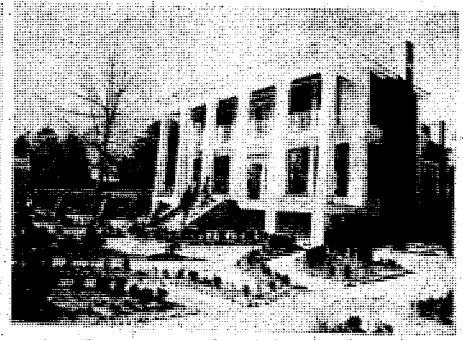
Historic Chattahoochee Commission Begins Attraction of Month program



Doug Purcell, Executive Director of the Historic Chattahoochee Commission, announced today the initiation of a Valley Attraction of the Month program. Each month, one of the many historic, scenic, and recreational sites in the Chattahoochee Valley will be recognized and publicized by the Commission. This program is part of the Commission's "Discover the Valley" campaign in which tourists and Valley residents are urged to explore the wealth of outstanding area attractions reflective of the past, present, and future.



This month, attention will be focused on Westville, a functioning Georgia village of relocated, authenically restored original buildings and environment depicting the handicrafts and culture of Georgia's most romantic era — 1850. Westville never existed as a real town but is being developed as a "Living History Center" portraying the physical and social inter-reaction of the Indian, Negro, and Caucasiau cultures of the Southern coastal province. As can be seen, a visit to Westville is an exciting and educational experience for the entire family.

The majority of the houses at Westville are from Stewart County, Georgia or the immediate vicinity and were lived and labored in before 1850. The dwellings represent three general classes. The Grimes-Feagin House is typical of a middle class family home. The McDonald House, with its elegance and grace, shows how the wealthiest family in a town of this size lived. The farm house, its kitchen, and surrounding complex of buildings, reveals the busy life of a farm family. Other dwellings in the village correspond in some degree to these classifications.

In 1850, each little town had to be self sufficient. Most products needed in a town were produced by the skills of such craftsmen as: potters, brickmakers, carpenters, blacksmiths, quilters, weavers, spinners, basket weavers, and shingle makers. These craftsmen can be seen at their tasks, on a varied time schedule in Westville today.

Westville is open six days a week from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. During Day Light Savings Time, Westville is open until 6 p.m. Westville, in southwestern Georgia, is located in Lumpkin, Georgia, at the intersection of U. S. Highway 27 and Georgia Highway 27. Unparalleled family fun coupled with a historical perspective found in few other places make. Westville a place you will not soon forget. For further information, including admission prices and group rates, please write the Historic Chattahoochee Commission, Box 33, Eufaula, Alabama or Westville Historic Handicrafts, Box 848, Lumpkin, Georgia.

Spring Pilgrimage held April 5-8 by Lumpkin, Ga. and Eufaula, Ala.

Lumpkin, Georgia will again join Eufaula, Alabama to attract visitors to the area during the Spring Pilgrimage, April 5th-8th. Visitors to Eufaula are urged to stay an extra day to visit the attractions in Lumpkin, just thirty miles away.

Lumpkin, winner of the Stay and See Georgia Contest in 1971 and again in 1972, has something of interest for everyone.

History lovers discover anew the world of the 1800s as they tour historic Bedingfield Inn, drive along Lumpkin's Stagecoach Trail for an exterior view of twenty-five pre-1850 houses, and visit Westville, a re-created village where time stands still in 1850. At Westville, fascinated visitors watch the potter, weaver, blacksmith, basket weaver and other craftsmen at work in the authentically restored buildings of the village. Several additional buildings have been added recently to Westville's ever growing collection of interesting structures.

Westville is open daily from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. - 5 p.m.

Nature lovers thrill to the grandeur and beauty of Providence Canyons State Park just six miles from Lumpkin. Here, all the colors of the rainbow come alive in the varied layers of the soil. Many rare, native plants can also be found on the floor of the canyons.

An added attraction, this year, is the Flea Market sponsored by the Stewart County Historical Commission, which will take place on Saturday, April 7 from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and Sunday, April 8 from 1 p.m. - 5 p.m. on the Court House Square in Lumpkin.

In Eufaula, eleven ante-bellum show places will be open daily from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. - 5 p.m. A romantic Candlelight Tour of homes and gardens is scheduled for Thursday and Saturday nights from 7 - 9 p.m. Other related events are scheduled throughout the Pilgrimage.

is a better way

By Tim Purdon

Recently a Fort Benning soldier, PFC George Johnson, needed a car desparately. He went to a nearby car lot in Columbus and found o great deal on a used car, or at leost he thought it was.

The car salesman told George all the fine features of the car and George bought it. He discovered in a month, however, that the car had a bad transmission which the salesman had said nothing about.

George then went to see a legal assistance officer at the Staff Judge Advocates' office in building 5 to see if there was anyway to return the car and get his money back.

"You're stuck," said the legal assistance officer. "If you came here before you bought the car, we might have been able to save you the money."

Before signing the contract, George should have first consulted the Columbus Better Business Bureau about the reliability of the company. Second, he should have seen a Fort Benning legal assistance officer about the terms of the contract, especially the terms he didn't understand. And third, he should have made his decision in an unpressed atmosphere.

If for any reason a salesman refuses to leave the contract with you, it might be wise to have no futher dealings with him. Apply the same three principles that George should have applied before he bought his car.

Expensive lessons like George's are repeated about 50-75 times a month. Unwary soldeirs can save their money, if they hove a legal assistance officer read the small print before they sign the dotted line on a contract.

Legal assistance officers are on duty from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. They provide free legal assistance and odvice to military personnel and their families.

For a small amount of your time you can recieve expert advice from financing a car to drawing out a will, from tax liability to powers of attorney, from managing personal debts to resolving complex questions of legal residence.

These attorneys are seen by appointment, except in extreme emergencies. Appointments may be made by calling 545-1301/5441. No appointment is necessary, however, for drawing up wills or powers of attorney.

Legal assistance officers can give advice on local laws. They have copies of the Georgia Code and also the Columbus city ordinance.

Powers of Attorney

A soldier going overseas who will be separated from his family may want a power of attorney. This gives someone the authority to act legally on his behalf.

A power of attorney can be useful but it can also be harmful. The person who holds it has authority to deal with your property.

Example: Specialist Harry Armor was stationed at Fort Benning. He had been married for a year and was being reassigned to Korea.

He left his wife and his child behind and he also left his wife a power of attorney. While Harry was in Korea, his wife ran up a bill over $1,000 and Harry had to pay the bill. He had given his wife authority to spend his money and sign his name.

A power of attorney may be set indefinitely or it may be set for only a specific period of time.

Wills

Another basic legal document that everyone needs is a will. This is the only means a person has to direct what will be done with his property after he dies.

The legal officer can handle the drawing up of any will, except a trust will. A trust will designates someone to hold on to your property after you die and distributes it over a period of time.

Anyone who needs to draw out a will may come in to the legal assistance office anytime and fill out a will questionaire.

A will may be changed anytime just as easily as one is drawn up the first time.

Family Law:

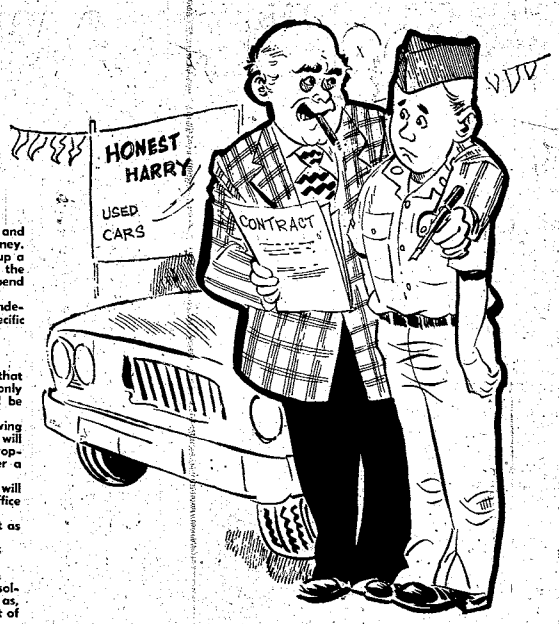
Legal assistance officers can also advise soldiers on questions of family laws, such as, marriages, divarces, adoption, and support of dependants.

While you talk to an officer you can be assured that all information is held confidentially.

Fort Benning legal assistance officers can advise you on all sorts of personal nonmilitary legal problems, but he cannot represent soldiers in civilian judicial proceedings or in official Army investigations and actions. He can, however, refer you to a qualified civilian lawyer to help you.

Military Justice

In Army courts martial you are referred to the Judge Advocate General's office.



When a soldier is presented an Article 15, he has the right to consult with legal counsel before he decides to accept it or decline it.

If he rejects the Article 15, the next step up is a summary court martial. The soldier also has the right to consult with counsel before making that decision.

If he chooses to reject both an Article 15 and a summary court martial, the soldier may find his case referred to a special or a general court martial. The government is obligated then to detail a military lawyer to the case.

To sum things up, if you have got a legal problem of just about any kind, contact a Fort Benning legal assistance officer by phoning him or by going to the office to make an appointment. If your case is of extreme emergency, a legal assistance officer will be able to see you immediately. If not, an appointment will be made for you as soon as possible.

Just remember, legal assistance officers won't come looking for you. You have to call them first.

AWOL

Think about it first

By Steve Vitucci

Are you thinking about going "over-the-hill?" If you are, then read this article and reconsider.

The Army is very concerned about people absent without leave (AWOL). It has made detailed studies to find out who is likely to go AWOL and why.

The typical AWOL soldier is young. He is frequently a high school dropout and has little or nothing to distinguish himself in civilian life. Possibly he is from a broken home and has in many cases joined the Army in search of some alternative to a future which is less than promising.

The Army takes many men with this type of background because the majority of them make good soldiers! Six out of seven of them perform their duties and go on to finish their Army careers with an honorable discharge!

Do you fit the profile of the typical soldier? Sure you have problems. So do six of the seven soldiers who have AWOL profiles that we just talked about. They solved their problems and get out with honorable discharges! Will you?

Many problems can be solved at unit level without going AWOL. The Commander has the authority to grant emergency leave when death, illness, martial problems or other emergencies require you to be absent from duty. If you are on leave and need an extension to your leave, you can obtain it by calling your commanding officer or your unit's duty officer.

The Army asks that you also contact the Red Cross when getting leave extensions or when any other emergency comes up. The Red Cross can verify your family's need and give assistance to you.

In the event that you run out of money while on leave, your commanding officer has authority to approve an interest free loan from the Army Emergency Relief or the Army Community Service.

The Chain of Command, if it is a good one, is very much like a good insurance policy. It guarantees to listen. It guarantees to dd everything in its power to make sure that you find a solution to your problem. It guarantees to apply every available source to solve your problem. It guarantees to follow through to make sure everything humanly possible has been done to solve your problem.

You can't ask for more than that, by seeing someone in your chain of command, you don't create more problems for yourself by going AWOL to "fix" things.

You say your chain of command is not good. You lack confidence in your chain. Maybe part of your problem involves someone who is in your chain of command. What do you do?

A good man to see is the Chaplain. The Chaplain has had special training to give sound counsel. The Chaplain can be very helpful when there are conflicts between you and your chain of command. Any problems you bring to the Chaplain is kept in confidence because of his right to priviledged communication.

The Army Community Service(ACS) also has trained counselors who can assist with most problems. ACS can give emergency food and transportation for dependents along with a sizeableist of other services.

If you still aren't convinced that AWOL is a bad trip then consider this:

If you are AWOL for less that three days, the maximum punishment you can receive is one month confinement to hard labor and two thirds forfiture of pay and allowance for one month.

If you are AWOL for more than three days and less than 30 days, the maximum punishment is six months confinement to hard labar and two thirds forfiture of pay and allowances for six months.

If you are AWOL for more than 30 days, the maximum punishment is one year confinement to hard labor, loss of all pay and allowances for one year, and a dishonorable discharge.

If you have family difficulties, going AWOL will only adds to your problems by the resulting confinement. Your monetary problems will also multiply by a court martial or an Article 15.

Are you still thinking about going AWOL? If you are, examine the facts in the light of logic and common sense and you will see that they point to the futility and folly.

Dramatizers announce cast for next play

The Fort Benning Dramatizers have announced the cast of their next production, William Saroyan's "The Cave Dwellers."

The play is about people being human. It is the story of some down and out entertainers who take refuge in an abandoned theatre that is soon to be demolished for the New York "Projects."

The King, an aging clown is played by Dave McQueen; the Queen, an aging actress, is played by Helen Stanley; the Duke, a down and out fighter, is played by Bill Spaniel; the Mother, who seeks shelter during a snow storm, is played by Adeline Overley, who also portrays the Queen as a young girl during a dream sequence; the Father is played by Glen Sandy; the Bear, which belongs to the Father and Mother, is played by Don Walberg; the Silent Boy is played by Ron Friese, who also plays the young opponent during the dream sequence; the wrecking crew Boss is played by Harold Hostetler and his assistant, Jamie, is played by Lou Mahlman; and the woman with a dog is played by Sue Gross.

ROTC Committee hosts party

The ROTC Affairs Committee recently hosted the quarterly cocktail and dinner party for the Department of Army-Wide Training Support in the Fountain Room and Supper Club of the Fort Benning Officers Open Mess.

Guests of honor were the USAIS British Liaison Officer and his wife, LTC and Mrs. Angus Robertson. After dinner farewell ceremonies were conducted by Col. William R. Guthrie, the Dept. Director, for Major and Mrs. Joseph Koonin and Captain and Mrs. James Paget. Following a farewell address by Major Joseph Koonin, Major John Baggett, Chairman, of the ROTC Affairs Committee extended a birthday greeting, on behalf of the members of the Department to Colonel William R. Guthrie on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday the 17th of March.

The party then moved to reserved tables in the Supper Club where dancing and entertainment capped off a most pleasant evening for all who participated.

Writing contest slated

A chance for a professional critique and $100 in cash awards are the incentives offered in the annual Armed Forces Writers League 1973 Amateur Short Story Contest.

Entries for the contest must be submitted by July 1 and must be 1,800 words or less. The contest is open to military personnel, dependents, civilian employees, veterans and other people interested in the armed forces. All stories must be unpublished.

First prize will be $50, with 25 other awards being made.

Entry forms may be obtained by writing Lt. Cmdr. Ray S. Ewing, SC, USN Ret., Executive Director, Armed Forces Writers League, George Washington Station, Alexandria, Va. 22305.

TSB legal section solves legal problems

By GEORGE KORDA, TSB

The TSB legal section works like a machine. The people that make up its parts work together to perform a specific function, and do it efficiently. That function is to handle the legal matters for people assigned to the Army's largest brigade.

Its legal services run from advising soldiers on their rights under the law, to court martialing them for breaking it. "We can advise soldiers on almost anything," says Sp4 Ken Wood, legal clerk. "We can tell them who to see, and what they should do, whenever they have any legal problems."

The office is staffed by two clerks, an NCOIC, and two legal officers. It handles military legal action from company grade Article 15's to Special Court Martials.

When an action enters the office it first goes to Sp-4 Steven L. Gruben who records it. He gives it to Sp-6 Fred Dowdell, section NCOIC, who types up the review for 1 Lt. James E. Culhane, the legal officer. Lt. Culhane gives his recommendation for or against Court Martial to Col. A. G. Norris TSB commander, who makes the final decision. If he gives the green light, the case is turned over to 2nd Lt. Conrad Ambrette, who handles the prosecution.

Lt. Ambrette runs the prosecution from start to finish. He organizes it, gathers witnesses, and presents the case in court. "It's pretty interesting," he says, 'but what I want to stress is that we aren't here just to see people punished, but to help them avoid trouble."

When the trial is completed the results are given to Wood, who is the court recorder. He puts them into their final form for review by the Judge Advocate General.

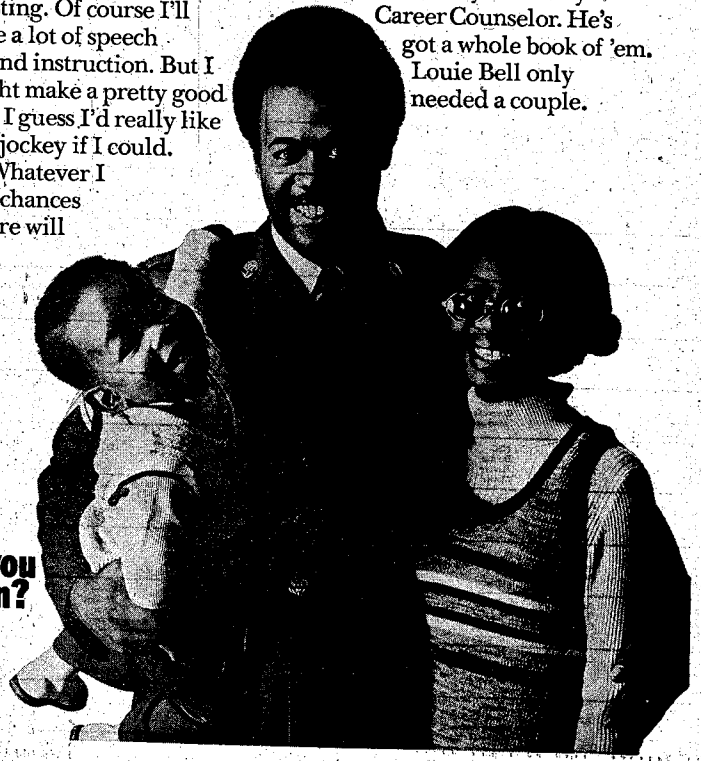
"When I came in I didn't have anything."



Sergeant Louie Bell just reenlisted for the first time. And he had some pretty good reasons.

"Look what I've got now. A steady income, a good job and a family. It's a lot more responsibility.

"I was studying business administration when I came in, but I think I'm going to change to broadcasting. Of course I'll have to take a lot of speech schooling and instruction. But I think I might make a pretty good announcer. I guess I'd really like to be a disc jockey if I could.

"Whatever I decide, my chances for the future will definitely be better now that I've decided to stay in the Army for a while. I'll be getting more education for when I get out. And Martha and Darrell will have a lot more security."

The education. The bonus. The security. Louie Bell found some pretty good reasons for reenlisting. If you're looking for reasons, see your Army Career Counselor. He's got a whole book of 'em. Louie Bell only needed a couple.

Why are you staying in?

Headquarters races 15 miles down Upatoi

Fort Benning launched a fleet of its own Thursday in the muddy waters of Upatoi Creek. Twenty-four boats from Headquarters Command raced 15 miles — from Buena Vista Road to Engineers Landing of Santa Fe Road below Martin Army Hospital — in about three and a half hours. The racers were split into two flights, 14 flatbottom "Jon" boats and 10 canoes. Company B won the canoe race in three hours, 25 minutes. Company A won the "Jon" boat race in three hours, 30 minutes. The race was part of the Army's Adventure Training Program.

Undefeated Bullets, second place Gamblers win

By A. J. Book, Det. 10, 16th Weather Squadron

In Youth Activities Doughboy League competition the undefeated Bullets won the championship with a 37-17 final game win over the Grasshoppers. The Gamblers took second place with a closing victory of 51-35 over the improved well playing Bucks.

The Bullet-Grasshopper contest saw the Bullets take an early lead and continue to build their lead throughout the game even though the Grasshoppers tried to keep the point spread closer with a stalling offensive type game. Bullet Tim Booth took game high point honors with 14 markers.

There were 3 players tied for game runnerup scoring honors as Wally Archie and Emett Lee hit 6 points each for the Bullets and Dewey Caulder hit 6 points for the Hoppers. Close behind these scorers came Steve Darbonne with 5 points and Bob Beaukulani with 4 points for the Bullets. Keith Shannon netted 2 points to complete the Bullet scoring.

For the Grasshoppers Cal Griffin hit 4 points, Jim Bell got 3 points and Dwight Burnett and J. Baker hit 2 points each.

The Gambler-Buck game was a close first half thriller but in the second half the Gamblers gradually pulled farther ahead for their 51-35 win. Gambler Bernard Thomas took high point honors by zipping 21 points. Game runnerup scoring honors went to Buck Gus Schneider who netted 17 points.

Keith Presley swished 15 points and Harry Grissom hit 7 points while Ronald Walker and Andy Steverson got 2 points each to complete the Gambler scoring.

Bucks William Hicks, Brad Scott, David Hill and Joe Masterson all scored 4 points each and Billy Hilsman added 2 points to round out their scoring.

ROD AND GUN CLUB Notes

By JOHN GAUSE

The Rod and Gun Column this week is an account of a fishing trip to Lake Seminole. The impressions of the author who has had a lot of fishing experience in this part of the country should be of value to fishermen who plan to make trips to distant waters this summer. Other fishermen completing similar trips are invited to use the space in this column to share their experiences and impressions. Call Bill Kloeb, 545-1622 for more information.

Press agents call Lake Seminole the "largemouth bass capitol of Georgia." A heck of a lot of fishermen will tell you it's the finest bass lake in the world. And well it may be. But don't drive the approximately 2½ hours it takes to get there from Fort Benning and expect much on the first try.

In fact, if you don't see a lot full of trailers with Seminole County tags on them, turn around. The native fishermen are telling you something. Back to this point in a minute.

For those who don't know Lake Seminole, it's a giant body of water, some 37,000 acres. It's located in the extreme southwest corner of Georgia. Year-round fishing is good (say the press agents, again), but the best months are February, March and October. The relatively shallow water full of standing dead timber and cypress trees make this so, I guess.

While its popularity has declined because of the new reservoirs, age and the usual decline in fishing, Seminole still produces as many lunker bass as any reservoir in the State. Bass from ten to fifteen pounds are not uncommon. Crappie fishing is good, as well as bream and chain pickerel. Striped bass have been stocked in the lake, and have been caught at weights up to five pounds. Because the moss-draped trees were never cleared from most of the lake, Seminole is dangerous for speed boats and water skiing, which suits me just fine. Its southern location makes it the first lake in Georgia to produce good bass fishing each year. White bass make a spawning run up both the Chattahoochee and the Flint Rivers beginning in March. In addition to a State Park, there are a number of Corps of Engineers camp grounds, picnic areas, and launching ramps around the lake. Fish camps are plentiful.

I've fished Seminole on several occasions, mostly in the Fishpond Drain-Cypress Pond area near Donalsonville. Without fail, when the fish are biting well enough to justify the trip, the word is out to all the native anglers. And that's why it's just as well you turn around when no Seminole trailer tags can be spotted at the various landing ramps. Otherwise, the tourist-aware natives will justify their absense with a Chamber of Commerce, "You should have been here yesterday," or "You might do alright inthe trees near the river," or "Too bad the wind got up." All the statements imply it's worth going ahead with anyway. After all, what can you do after driving a 100-plus miles?

I often wondered if the absense of tags meant the natives gave up fishing except when strikes were fairly assured in "their" Lake Seminole. So, this weekend I conducted some visual research while driving to Seminole, and carefully noted the County tags of every boat trailer on the highway. My suspicions were wholly confirmed.

The real fishermen leave Seminole to the pole and worm and press agents.

And come up to Lake Eufaula.

SFC makes unbelievable catch at Kings Pond

SFC Angelo M. Floris, 241 Springfield Street will tell you anything can happen when you go fishing at Kings Pond. After his experience there last week the sergeant has good reason for this belief. He landed a largemouth bass that tipped the Rod and Gun Club scales at an even 11-pounds.

Bass weighing 11-pounds aren't common catches at the post ponds. Others have been taken before but the sergeant wasn't fishing for bass. He was looking for a creel full of bream. The fact that a bass that big would go for one of his meal worms is hard to believe. The fact that the sergeant had this meal worm fastened to a No. 8 hook, one of the smallest types made it even harder to believe. That he landed a lunker weighing 11-pounds using a spinning rig, four pound test line and the No. 8 hook is almost completely unbelievable.

Floris took the fish to the WRBL-TV station and entered it in the weekly fish contest run by Ridley Bell during his Saturday show. The entry won first prize and a rod and reel and with his luck Floris can look forward to getting a $15 merchandise order from the Rod and Gun Club as winner of the bass category in the Club March Fishing Derby.

MSgt. C. L. Richardson, 2706 Norris Road is the current leader of the club catfish contest with an eight-pound entry he took from Kings Pond. The brim contest hasn't had much activity this month. SSgt. Charlie Robinson currently leads this contest with a nine-ounce entry.

The Rod and Gun Club holds a fishing derby each month. Merchandise certificates are awarded to the fishermen registering the largest bass, bream and catfish during each month. More information concerning the contest may be obtained by calling 545-6028 or visit the club headquarters on First Division Road.

Doughboys rolling in Bibb City tourney

The Doughboys, Benning's post basketball team and recent winners of the Third Army's basketball championship, looked impressive as they crushed Labco, a team from Opelika, Monday night by a score of 118-89, in the Bibb City tournament.

Six Doughboys scored in double figures. The scores were never close from the opening whistle.

Everett Jenkins paced Fort Benning with 23 points. He was followed by Tim Griffin with 19 and Rick Bentley with 16. John Black, Abraham McCall, and Dale Overman each contributed 12 points.

The Doughboys advanced to tonight's semi-finals by downing Meadows Motors 129-95, Wednesday evening. The finals will be held Saturday at 9 p.m. following the third place game.

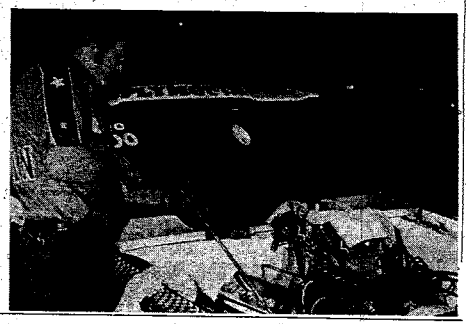
Ronnie Sox man to beat at showdown

By James Howard

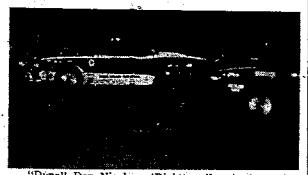
As the smell of burning tires, the dense blanket of smoke and the cheers from thousands of enthusiastic spectators had vanished, all that remained was an unlit track that had once again felt the smokin' tires of some of the top pro-stock drivers competing in the Second Annual Pro-Stock Showdown at Phenix Dragways.

Ronnie Sox in his red, white and blue hemi powered Duster proved to be the man to beat this year as he eliminated the Plymouth, Chevy and Ford offerings that faced him during the course of the night. Sox started the night out by burning the record books at Phenix Dragway with a 9.30 second run turning back a determined Dave Strickler in his Vega.



Dyno Don Nicolson came out in his Pinto ready to do battle against Melvin Yow and his Dodge Hemi-Demon, but Nicolson's Ford broke at the line allowing Yow to advance to the finals.

So into the finals went Sox in his Plymouth Duster against Melvin Yow driving his Dodge Demon. The stagging lights flashed on as both men stagged. Then came the green as both cars catapulted across the line and soared down the quarter-mile. The light at the end of the track blinked on indicating Sox the winner with another record breaking run of 9.20 against Yow's 9.25.



The speakers blared on, to the delight of the crowd, announcing that Dyno Don, after repairing his Pinto had challenged Sox to a Special Match race.

The stage was once again set as both stars did their burn outs, finally stagging their machines. The crowd held their breath as the starting lights flashed down the pole. The engines roared to the breaking point, then came the green light. Smoke engulfed the cars as they streaked down the track. Applause and screams of delight broke out as the winning green light, indicating Sox the victor, flashed on. Ronnie Sox had just recorded a 9.24 second blast to an impressive 9.25 shot by Dyno Don. Ronnie Sox had once again proven to be the 'one to beat.'

Personal Finance

Two courses in the personal finance management series conducted in Infantry Hall by Mr. D. Earl Zook are scheduled. Course I (Monday-Wednesday, 1815-2025 hours) begins March 26 and ends April 9, 1973. Course II (Tuesday-Thursday, 1815-2025 hours) begins March 27 and ends April 10, 1973. Subjects include — "How To Get The Most Out Of Your Income;" "How To Plan Your Financial Future;" "How To Invest Wisely;" "Financial Problems Of Military Personnel And How To Avoid Them;" "How To Save $1,000 per Year In The Purchase, Operation, and Maintenance of Automobiles;" "An Evaluation of Future Trends Which Affect You and Preparation For Retirement." No fees or books are required; personnel enrolled are invited to bring their wives. To enroll, contact Mr. Alderfer, Room E-25, Infantry Hall, phone 545-4031.

Clothing Store

Effective March 20, 1973, operating hours for the U.S. Army Clothing Sales and Issue Store are 0930 to 1745 hours, Tuesday through Saturday and closed on Sunday and Monday. The store is located in Bldg. 1698, corner of Wold Avenue and Oak Street "on the Shuttle Bus route."

Aeronautical University

Registration for the Spring term beginning March 26, 1973 will be conducted in Room 314, Bldg. 35 from March 19 through March 23. Appointments are not required.

Recycle Point

The recycle point located adjacent to the PX Auto Rental facility on Gaudette Street, will now accept all types of paper, to include slick magazines, onion-skins, and coated papers. Also accepted are washed, de-labeled, and flattened out cans and washed bottles with tops and snap rings removed.

Recycle Point

The Fort Benning Recycle Point will change its hours of operation to 0839-1630 hours, Monday through Friday. The Recycle Point will not operate on Saturday, Sunday and military holidays. This action is being taken on a trial basis in order to determine if the Recycle Point users can be more conveniently served.

Relocation

The Education and Consultation (Ed Con) Division, Directorate of Educational Technology (DET), has relocated to Room 246, Infantry Hall. Telephone numbers remain 545-4082-5564-4716.

Security Private Property

A survey of the different parking lots on post reveals that numerous vehicles are left parked in these areas unlocked and in some instances with the keys left in the ignition. All personnel are urged to take precautionary measures to protect their vehicles when left unattended. Caution should be exercised to always remove the ignition keys and secure the vehicle when it is parked and always keep packages in the trunk of your car rather than left in plain view inside the vehicle. This practice will discourage would-be thieves and take very little time to accomplish.

Security of Bicycles

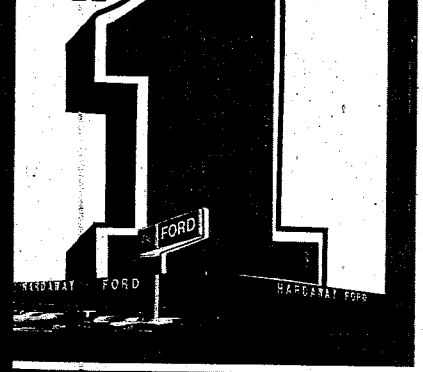
A recent scrutiny of the housing and school areas revealed a large number of bicycles that are being left unsecured in yards, on sidewalks, parking racks, etc. all of which are vulnerable for children to ride off and abandon in another area. Parents are encouraged to make their children aware of the need to secure their bicycles when not being used. Parents are also encouraged to register their bicycles with the Provost Marshal's Office and affix the decal to the bicycle. An inventory of the PMO impoundment lot revealed six bicycles that have been found abandoned on the reservation which have not been claimed.

Gasser's paintings of basic trainees go on exhibit

The National Infantry Museum is showing a special exhibit of water colors by the distinguished American artist, Henry Gasser, now through April. The exhibit consists of fifty water color paintings which were done by Mr. Gasser nearly thirty years ago.

The subject of the paintings is "The Soldier." The paintings show day-to-day activity of basic trainees, from the waiting room of an Army town bus station to a refreshing shave and bath in a steel pot.

The paintings record the joy of mail call and a smoke break on a ten-mile march. They show the faces of young boys being forged into men.



Henry Gasser has played a prominent role in American art for the past quarter century, and has won more than one hundred national art awards. Mr. Gasser's works hang in more than thirty of the nation's galleries, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

The Student Brigade's (TSB) recruiting van has embarked on a new program for Fort Benning, called Station of Choice.

Unlike Unit of Choice, where a soldier can enlist for a certain unit, the Station of Choice Program enables a soldier to enlist for the post of his choice. TSB's program is primarily aimed at recruiting young men from Georgia to enlist for Fort Benning.

The van started March 14th on a 20 day road trip, making stops at Army Recruiting Stations throughout Georgia. When the van returns to Fort Benning it will be available to all recruiting stations in Georgia.

Sgt. Turner, of the Station of Choice Program, hopes to park the van in places where crowds gather, such as shopping center areas, picnics, and outdoor gatherings. It will be parked at the Atlanta 500, stock car race, in Hampton, Ga., on April 1.

In charge of transporting the van are PFC Terry Anaruk, of 690th Medical Company (AMB), and Pvt. Charles Nemkevich, of Co. A, Headquarters Command. They will help the local recruiter by telling prospective recruits about the many job opportunities, post functions, and recreational facilities at Fort Benning. Pictures depicting various activities at Fort Benning hang on the walls inside the van and a slide show of living quarters, mess halls, work areas, and other facilities runs continuously.

Olympics to be held March 17

The annual Special Olympics will be held at Lake Bottom Park, Mar. 17 at 9:30 a.m.

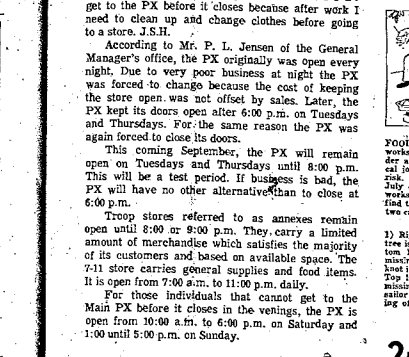
The Olympics, for children in Muscogee county and Fort Benning special children's classes, will start with a parade at 9:30. The Fort Benning band will play.

Events will include softball throws, 50 yard dash, 300 yard run, broadjump, high jump, and basketball free throws.

Paul Anderson, the world's strongest man, will appear. Other guests will be Miss Columbus, and Miss Columbus College.

The Olympics are sponsored by the Columbus Recreation Department and the Columbus Jaycettes.

Daniel receives award



Specialist Four Neil A. Daniel received the Talented Lens Award for his photograph of a man in the bottle which was used as the cover of the March 9th Bayonet. Spt Daniel is the photographer for the 931st Engineer Group PIO office.

The award was presented on Monday March 19th at the 931st Group Headquarters by Group Commander Col. James M. Thompson.

Spt Daniel also contributed to the article on the drinking problem in the military.

AMERICAN MOTORS BUYER PROTECTION PLAN
1. A simple, strong guarantee: just 101 words!
When you buy a new 1973 car from an American Motors dealer, American Motors Corporation guarantees to you that during 12 months it will pay for the repair or replacement of any part it supplies that is found defective in material or workmanship. This guarantee is valid for 12 months from the date the car is first used or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first, and we require is that the car be properly maintained and used for under normal use and service in the fifty United States or Canada, and that genuine replacement parts be used.
2. A free loaner car from almost every one of our dealers if guaranteed repairs take overnight.
3. Special Trip Interruption Protection.
4. And a toll free hot line to AMC Headquarters.

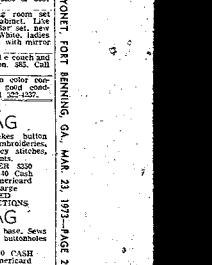
I want to know why the Main Post Exchange closes at 6:00 p.m. every night of the week. I can't get to the PX before it closes because after work I need to clean up and change clothes before going to a store. J.S.H.

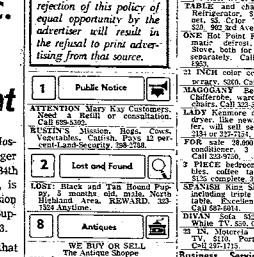


According to Mr. P. L. Jensen of the General Manager's office, the PX originally was open every night. Due to very poor business at night the PX was forced to change because the cost of keeping the store open was not offset by sales. Later, the PX kept its doors open after 6:00 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. For the same reason the PX was again forced to close its doors.

This coming September, the PX will remain open on Tuesdays and Thursdays until 8:00 p.m. This will be a test period. If business is bad, the PX will have no other alternative than to close at 6:00 p.m.

Troop stores referred to as annexes remain open until 8:00 or 9:00 p.m. They carry a limited amount of merchandise which satisfies the majority of its customers and based on available space. The 7-11 store carries general supplies and food items. It is open from 7:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. daily.

For those individuals that cannot get to the Main PX before it closes in the evenings, the PX is open from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Saturday and 1:00 until 5:00 p.m. on Sunday.



nit-pik-six

FOOLING AROUND with fireworks is dangerous business under any conditions, and practical jokers add that much more risk. Use extreme caution this July 4 if you plan to shoot the works. For a quieter diversion, find the six differences in these two cartoons.

ANSWERS

A HARMONIOUS THOUGHT

Cpt. Carl F. King II

Some people delight using caustic verbs,
Their sarcastic wit has an air that perturbs,
An amicable aroma is so hard to scent,
In this chaotic climate that's been so mispent.

The answer is not an intangible thing,
The birds even use it when'er they sing.
Without the sun to melt the fog,
We'd trip each day in an infinite hog.

The fruits of wisdom may make the scene,
When man remembers he's no machine,
When we find no need for apology,
When man meets man — harmoniously.

'Editor's Own'

We're looking for people with prose,
With the hopes they'll have verse to disclose.
The topics you pick may be at your leisure,
So longas we don't convulse in a seizure.

2nd Evac. to get equipment

The 2nd Evacuation Hospital (SMBL), a Reforger unit attached to the 34th Medical Battalion, is scheduled for conversion to a Combat Service Support Hospital late in 1973.

Basically this means that the 2nd Evac will replace the customary tents with "MUST" (Medical Unit Self-Contained Transportable) equipment. MUST equipment provides a more sanitary and sophisticated environment. Ward units are air pressure inflated modules. The service units such as the laboratory, xray, and the operating room are solid wall, self - contained expandable modules. Both are positive pressure environmental control units which keep out dust and insects. They feature air conditioned interiors for patient comfort and staff efficiency. The power source for the modules is provided by gas - operated turbine generator utility packs.

Capt. Kenneth Fisher, Company Commander, has been notified that the unit will receive two inflatable ward units, two expandable service units, and one utility pack generator. These will be used locally in training for preparation of Reforger missions. The 2nd Evac provides part of the field medical support to Fort Benning activities as well as carrying out it's Reforger missions to Europe.

Infantry statue inspires soldiers world over

BY STEVE VITUCCI

For more than nine years the statue of the Infantryman has stood in front of "building four" at Fort Benning. This inspirational statue has become the symbol of the American Infantryman and is known throughout the world. There are few people, however, who could tell you how the statue came to Fort Benning, or who designed and built it.

In late 1959, General Paul L. Freeman, Commanding General of Fort Benning, sent a note to Col. John M. Woestenburg asking if it were possible to build a statue which symbolized "Training for Leadership". Col. Woestenburg said it could be done.

SP4 Manfred Bass and SP4 Karl Von Korg, both having sculpturing experience, were assigned by Col. Woestenburg to design and build the statue. Bass and Von Korg spent many hours building the statue. They experimented with many types of chemicals until they came up with one suitable to make the statue.

Eugene J. Wyler, an officer candidate, was selected to pose for the statue.

The project was worked on in complete secrecy and was given a code name of "Project S".

On May 3, 1960, the Secretary of the Army, the Honorable Wilbur P. Brucker, unveiled the statue at Eubanks Field near the candidate school. The statue was later moved to its present spot in front of Infantry Hall.

The twelve foot statue sits atop a ten foot stone base and weighs approximately 3,000 pounds. The statue was constructed of bronze and an epoxy resin at the cost of about $2,000.

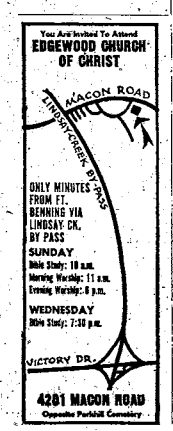
FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Bill King

If honey granulates, put the jar in a pan of simmering water until it has reliquified.

When Israelites began the hurried exodus to the Red Sea, they carried jars of flour and water on their heads to ward off the Egyptian sun, which, to their surprise, baked the mixture into the unleavened bread we now call matzoth.



If you're dieting, keep a sharp pair of kitchen shears handy to cut fat off meat or remove skin from poultry.

Buttered, seasoned green beans can be zipped up by adding a teaspoon of lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon of dry mustard.

Your Easter eggs may be just the chocolate kind, but the last one given by Nicholas II to Alexandra was a three-foot-long gold and jeweled Faberge egg that held a miniature of the Trans-Siberian Railroad.

You can make a big impression on your family by treating them to a dinner at

The 49er party will feature "authentic" western scenes like this one.

49er party

To finance Post nursery

The romantic days of Jesse James, roaring cowpoke saloons, and the California gold rush of 1849 will revisit Fort Benning briefly on the night of April 7. The Daughters of the U.S. Army are putting on their annual 49er Party at the Fort Benning Main Officers Club.

This year, the swinging doors will open at 7 p.m. and the "Old West" games, music and entertainment will last until 2 a.m. Can-can girls and other beauties will enlighten the festivities.

Those attending the gala event are encouraged to come in costumes characteristic of the gold rush days. Judges will select the most humorous, best female, best male, and best couple costumes.

Proceeds from this gala event will be used for the new post nursery to be built in the proposed Post Exchange complex near Martin Army Hospital.

Daughters of the U. S. Army currently sponsors the existing Tot Town Nursery near Edward A. White school. The Nursery cares for more than 200 children per day. During the month the nursery's 35 employees care for more than 6500 children.

Mrs. William R. Guthrie project chairman of the new nursery annex said, "The need for the annex was brought to DUSAs attention when plans for the New Post Exchange were drawn up". Mrs. Guthrie explained that the new facility would enable mothers to shop or to see the doctor while their children are cared for.

The present nursery, constructed at the cost of $175,000 was opened in the spring of 1968. Before that, the nursery had been located in the wing of the old hospital, the Martin Army Hospital Annex.

Detection test for Sickle Cell Anemia available at MAH

The Sickle Cell gene is present in approximately fifteen per cent of Black persons in the United States. Whether a person has this gene or not can easily be determined with a simple laboratory test.

A voluntary Sickle Cell Screening Program for those who wish to avail themselves of this service is currently available at Martin Army Hospital for active duty and retired service personnel and their dependents. Screening tests are performed on a walk-in basis at the laboratory located in the Hospital Annex or at the laboratory located in Martin Army Hospital, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday. Every person tested will be notified by mail of the results of the screening tests. In the event that a person is found to carry the Sickle Cell gene, additional information will be provided by mail concerning personal counseling by a physician, if so desired.

School's out

Monday, April 2 will be training holiday for a majority of the Infantry's School's faculty, staff, and personnel in observance of the School's 66th anniversary.

Classes will be suspended, except for some phases of Ranger training. The Infantry School, which was organized in 1907, has been located at Fort Benning since 1918, then called Camp Benning.

In 1922 Camp Benning became Fort Benning and also the permanent home of the Infantry School. In 1964, the Infantry School moved to its present housing in Infantry Hall (Building 4).

The Infantry School has a current enrollment of over 3,250 students, with approximately 1300 instructors at the present time.

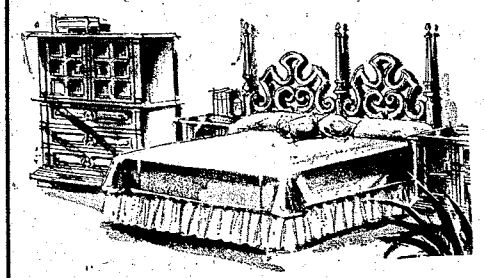
Columbus to receive twenty acres from Fort Benning to construct park

As part of the President's Legacy of Parks Program, 20 acres of former U.S. Army land was transfered to the City of Columbus on March 28, at a ceremony on the south steps of the Municipal Building in Columbus at 10:30 a.m.

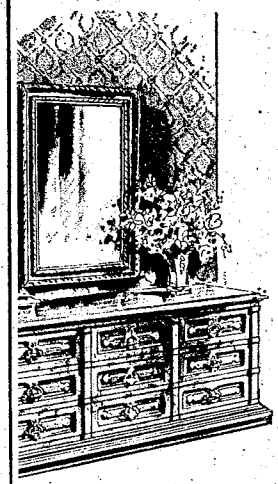
The tract of land located at the Northeast corner of Highway 27-Lindsay Creek Bypass intersection is valued at more than $50,000. LTG Melvin Zais, Third Army Commander, presented the deed to Mayor Pro Tem, A. J. McClung. Representing Fort Benning at the ceremony was Maj. Gen. Thomas M. Tarpley, post commander.

The City of Columbus plans to develop the surplus federal property for general park and recreational use. The transfer to the city was made possible by the Legacy of Parks program established by President Nixon to improve management of federal real property. Congress later passed a statue enabling the federal government to grant surplus property to state and local government for parks and recreational use.

In announcing the transfer of the 200th parcel of federal property in October 1972 President Nixon said, "The goal of this administration is to make available an increasing number of parks and recreation areas to provide for both the psychological and spiritually enrichment of all Americans."



The Chairman of the Property Review Board explained, "The federal government is one of the last remaining land owners of undeveloped properties. For many years, this property served specific government needs. However, times have changed and the government has consolidated many of its activities. In many areas throughout the country, government needs for large tracts of real property has diminished or no longer exists."



Midnight deadline for renewals

The 1972-73 Georgia State Hunting and Fishing Licenses, Fort Benning Post Hunting and Fishing Permits, and Rod and Gun Club memberships expire at midnight March 31.

The 1973-74 licenses, permits, and memberships may be obtained at the Fort Benning Rod and Gun Club, located on First Division Road any time from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday or from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Saturday.

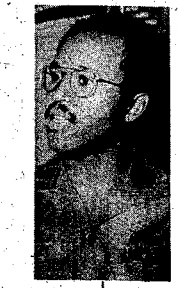
SOUND OFF!

If you were commandant for one day, what single change would you make for a better student life?

Should Advance Course be changed?



Capt. Gil Jacobs
13th Co., Class 5-72
If I were commandant, I would set up a rotation policy among instructors. It would make an instructor well rounded in several areas.

Capt. Joseph Cawley
13th Co., Class No. 5-72
I would add more practical exercises to the curriculum. We need more emphasis on field tactics, especially at company level.

Capt. Thomas Hiter
12th Co., Class 4-72
The first thing I would do is to change the academic day to six hours. It is now eight. This would not count time for physical training. Eight hours is just too much time to sit in a classroom.

Capt. Cleveland Ashely
12th Co., Class No. 5-73
If I were commandant, I would orient instruction back to conventional tactics more. The course should be less test oriented and more oriented to performance in practical exercises.

Holidays are for relaxing

Dear Editor

The Infantry School will observe the 66th anniversary of its founding — All personnel assigned to the school will be on a training holiday Monday.

This anniversary has certain aspects that may deserve some additional consideration. There has been no big fan-fare over the event. No parades have been planned, no static displays and as far as I know there will be no command performance field days or picnics. Those individuals who labor each day to maintain the high ideals, standards of performance, and esprit de corps that have become an inherent part of the Infantry School are going to have a day to relax and do their thing as they like to do it.

This issue of the Bayonet is featuring salient activities of the school. Years from now some future soldiers of the school may chance on a copy of this edition. Hopefully, he will gain some additional knowledge of the history of his outfit that will make him feel proud just as the past history of the school must make the present soldiers proud today.

Quite a few of today's soldiers, not all by any means, will spend a little time during their holiday thinking about the proud history of the school. Some will heed the words of Major General Thomas M. Tarpley, the school's commandant, and Brigadier General William Richardson, the assistant commandant, to reflect on the events of the past year to reaffirm a confimitment to do their utmost to preserve the enviable record of the school, and to add to it by their personal efforts. At any rate I'm sure all hands will appreciate the holiday and be more aware of their good fortune to be part of the action.

The holiday as planned, or not planned, is quite a departure from many other so called holidays observed by the military. Memorial Days, Veterans Days, Unit Organization Days and a number of other military holidays are usually planned to further the traditions of the military or to make sure the soldier has "an enjoyable day" by insuring that his time was taken up by some activity someone thinks he should be doing or something he should enjoy. This ain't necessarily so.

Parades, static displays, and even unit picnics require a lot of preparation if they are going to run off with the split second timing and precision associated with military operations. By the time the big day comes around everyone is fed up with the whole affair and really feels they deserve a chance to celebrate when it's finally finished. The following year the participants who are still around look forward to the "holiday" with foreboding, and hope the powers that be will overlook the event.

This anniversary of the school will be different. My hat and I'm sure the hats of all the troops involved are off to Generals Tarpley and Richardson for not planning it.

A Happy Troop

IOAC commander finds job rewarding

"Being the Commander of 13th Co. is a challenging and unique experience due to the varied types of personnel which I am required to deal with," said Capt. Harry C. Morton, commander of the Infantry Officer Advance Course, 13th Co., 1st Bn., TSB.

The IOAC has a monthly strength of 500 students assigned to it, ranging from Allied Officers to Marines.

Currently there are 40 Officers from Allied Nations of Lebanon, Vietnam, Jordan, Iran, Nigeria, Greece, Thailand, Moroco, Indonesia, Uruguay, Laos, Liberia, Belgium and Ethiopia. The rank of these Officers range from 2nd Lt. to LTC. There are also 14 U.S. National Guard Officers, 11 U.S. Marines, and 2 WAC Captains assigned to 13th Co. The remaining students are Officers from the U.S. Army.

"It is a rewarding experience in that we are helping to further the knowledge of so many Officers from around the world," said Capt. Morton.

Van Autreve named sgt. maj. of the Army

Command Sergeant Major Leon L. Van Autreve has been named Sergeant Major of the Army by Chief of Staff Gen. Creighton W. Abrams. CSM Van Autreve's appointment to the highest enlisted post came after several months of deliberation by Gen. Abrams and the convening of two selection boards.

CSM Van Autreve, age 53, who has served in the Army for 29 years, is currently the CSM of the U.S. Army Alaska, and is the oldest of four NCOs to serve as SMA. Before going to Alaska, he served as CSM, 20th Eng. Bde., in Vietnam, and has also seen duty in Germany and Indonesia.

He will replace the present SMA Silas L. Copeland who is retiring in June after 30 years of service.

Workshop started in Minn.

Recently, a team from Fort Benning's dependent schools conducted a workshop at Minneapolis, Minn., for the national convention of the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development.

During the workshop, the Fort Benning team shared with those attending the methods and procedures used in developing the Dependents' Schools' Muti-Ethnic Curriculum Guide; the three-week human relations workshop conducted for teachers and administrators during June 1972; and the implementation of the intercultural program.

Special attention was also called to the assistance received from the Race Relations Coordinating Group in developing curriculum materials and assistance in the workshop.

During the workshop the team stressed the outstanding race relations program being carried out by the command at Fort Benning for all military personnel.

The Dependents' team conducting the workshop consisted of Earl L. Miley, Assistant Superintendent; Mrs. Fleda Glenn, School Counselor; Mrs. Mildred Carter, Principal of Dexter School; Mr. William G. Abrahamson, School Counselor; Miss Lillian Stenson, a teacher at Loyd School; and Mrs. Elizabeth Ireland, Reading Specialist at McBride School.

Infantry School Completes 66th Year of Training

BY STEVE VITUCCI

The Infantry School celebrates its 66th birthday on April 1st. Today's ultra-modern school, equipped with closed circuit color television and many other modern teaching devices, has come a long way since it began on a hill above "Cannery Row" on the Pacific Ocean at the Presidio of Monterey in California.

Originally called the School of Musketry, the first school was begun by Maj. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, father of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Maj. Gen. MacArthur felt that future commanders needed to be trained for leadership by "specific, organized and uniform methods."

The first known U.S. Army Infantry School dates back to 1826 when an Infantry School of Practice was started at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., by Maj. Gen. Edmund P. Gaines. The need for fast moving cavalry against the Indians in the west forced the school to close after two short years.

In 1912 the School of Musketry was moved to Ft. Sill, Oklahoma and redesignated the Infantry School of Arms. Auxiliary schools were later opened at Camp Perry, Ohio and Camp Hancock, Ga.

The Infantry School remained at Ft. Sill intil Gen. John J. Pershing convinced the Department of the Army that a special training center was necessary to train Infantry replacements for his units in France.

In late September of 1918, Col. Harry Eames, commandant of the school dispatched Maj. John Paul Jones to Columbus, Ga. to set up a site three miles from town on Macon Road.

Jones arrived in Columbus on September 23, 1918 and had the mammoth task of getting the camp ready within a week.

The accomplishment of this seemingly impossible task set the stage for what would later become one of the finest civilian-military examples of cooperation. With the help of a local newspaper Jones publicized his need for men and materials. The Chamber of Commerce and other local organizations put all their support behind the project.

Jones was able to round up laborers while businessmen set aside their orders to the lumber mills, in order to give the new camp priority.

On October 6, 1918, two officers, a medical officer, and several enlisted men arrived finding roads had been built, electric lights had been installed, water mains installed, and over 300 tent frames completed along with messhalls and warehouses.

The Infantry School's home was named after Maj. Gen. Henry L. Benning, a former Columbus attorney and associate justice of the Georgia Supreme Court and distinguished veteran of the Civil War.

On December 11, 1918, Miss Anna Caroline Benning, granddaughter of Maj. Gen. Benning, officially opened the school by raising the flag in front of the first class.

The first location of the school in Columbus however, became an inconvenience to the school and a hazard to the townspeople. The rifle ranges needed to be located in a less populated area.

The Bussey plantation located near the Chattahoochee offered an ideal spot. It had the perfect place for firing ranges and Riverside, the magnificent Bussey Mansion, would make an ideal home for the Post Commander. Riverside has remained the home of the Post Commander but the 10 square miles of training area has become 285 square miles.

On January 27, 1919, orders came from the U.S. Military Affairs Committee calling for the school to be "salvaged and abandoned." Col. Eames and Maj. Jones true infantrymen, looked up the meaning of the word "salvage" and found that it meant save. They put their troops to work painting the completed buildings and weatherproofing them for the winter months.

Conveniently everyone forgot the "Abandonment" of Camp Benning and the first class was graduated February 22, 1919.

Maj. Gen. Mac Arthur's idea of training leaders has been carried out and has produced dividends in three major wars. In addition to graduating American officers and noncommissioned officers the Infantry School has trained and prepared our allies.

During the years, it has awarded over 15,000 ranger tabs, 500,000 parachute badges and prepared over 108,000 officer candidates for commissions.

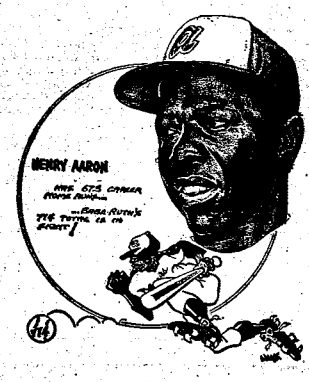
I want to know why the PX does not carry 44 to 46 size T-shirts. I've checked each branch store and none carry the size I need. H.C.

The Branch Retail Operations Manager, Rudger Jones, reports that the main PX store now has the above items and as far as he and any other PX manager knows the main store has never been out of them. As a side note he encouraged people to come out to the PX spring sale of bicycles and garden supplies.



Why have the facilities at the Uchee Creek boat ramp been allowed to deteriorate? J.G.

Billy Dove, Deputy Sports Director of Special Services, replied with a question of his own. He asked, "What has deteriorated?"

"We have a brand new pier at the boat ramp," said Dove, "People can now use the pier to off-load equipment without getting near the water and they can take their boats out of the water and onto their trailers without getting in the water. We took down the old dock and rehabilitated it by putting new styrofoam on it, painting it, and putting new bumpers on it.

"Also we put up new swing sets for children. We plan to put up trailer pads with electric, water, and sewage hookups and we plan to put in an improved tent camping area. We plan to build a lodge and hope to have available a bait shop for this summer. We also expect to have boats with motors for rent by this summer.

"I'm curious as to what is refered to as being deteriorated."

Contest Winner Announced

The OWC cookbook committee is proud to announce the winner of the Golden Jubilee Cookbook title contest, Miss Connie Pinney. Her winning title is "Golden Heritage," an appropriate name as the cookbook commemorates the OWC's golden anniversary and contains not only recipes but a pictorial history of Fort Benning.

Miss Pinney will be presented with a copy of the "Golden Heritage" cookbook when it comes out in May. Congratulations to our title winner and thanks to all who contributed recipes and ideas to make a truly "Golden" cookbook.

OWC

OWC Classes

Evening classes in DECOUPAGE AND TOLE PAINTING will begin again on Mon., April 2, at 7:30 p.m. The classes are 5 weeks long at a cost of $7.50, plus supplies. For more information or to sign-up, call Mrs. Edward Maceyka at 545-3507.

Learn the ancient art of knotting, MACRAME. It is a creative art that will inspire anyone who enjoys working with her hands. The variety of items to be created with Macrame is limitless — jewelry, belts, wall hangings, purses, plus many more. Four lessons for $10., supplies included. To be held Mon., 9:30 to 11:30, beginning in April. Call Mrs. James Miller at 323-2505 for more information.

The Talent Tree

The public is invited to a reception at the Talent Tree Thurs., April 5 from 10 to 2. The Talent Tree will feature Easter gifts and the show will continue through April 17 at the regular shop hours of 10 - 2, Tues. and Thurs. to include Sat., April 7. Shop at the Talent Tree for distinctive and unusual gifts for Easter.

Pre-Kindergarten

The Fort Benning Pre-Kindergarten will have open house on Mon. April 9, 7 to 9 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

The Fort Benning Pre-Kindergarten will have registration for the 1973-74 school term on April 25 and 26, starting at 9 a.m. The school is open to all military dependents who were born in 1969 and 1970. The school is located on the corner of Baltzell and Lumpkin, formerly known as Patch School.

Flea Market Coming

A flea market will be held on April 7, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the sidewalk of the Thrift Shop. Stalls will be available for military personnel and dependents to rent ($3 per stall, $5 for two stalls). Make plans now to bring your "new and used, old and abused" antiques or junk. You are encouraged to plan ahead for your booth. An area will be reserved for you by calling the Thrift Shop, 545-4690, during operating hours (Tues., Thurs., 10 a.m.-2 p.m.)

Scholastic Awards

Application for OWC Scholastic Achievement Awards are available in the school counselor's office at all Columbus and Phenix City High schools. Applicants must be seniors and dependents of Officers! Wives Club members. Deadline for submitting applications to Mrs. Henry Hutchenson, 404 Zuckerman Ave., Fort Benning, is April 16, 1973.

Ceramic News

In January, Newsletters were sent out to all members explaining the new rule that every member will give six hours of her time to the shop every six months or forfeit her membership.

This is a reminder you have only three more months. Come on out to the shop and give your time, you're needed. Substitute shopkeepers are needed badly.

If you can't come to the shop, there are pieces for the 1973 OWC Christmas Bazaar you can take home and clean and paint and earn your hours that way. If there are any questions please call Barbara Anderson at 545-2609.

Epicurean Society Of America

"It doesn't have to be expensive to be gourmet." That's the philosophy of Executive Chef Hank Meadows, popular "Renegate Chef" at the Minnesota Vikings football games.

Chef Meadows will be in Columbus on Thurs., April 12, to conduct a seminar on Tailgate Parties at the Columbus Gas Light Auditorium. The seminar sponsored by the Epicurean Society of America, will begin at 10 a.m. followed by a special Dogwood Luncheon at the Ralston Hotel.

Mr. Meadows, who lives in St. Paul, has conducted more than 2500 television shows, seminars, lectures, demonstrations and culinary shows throughout the United States. His cooking has pleased the palates of Senators, Governors, Mayors and motion picture stars.

He was recently honored as Outstanding Chef of the Year by his colleagues of the Geneva's Executive Club in Minneapolis. He is also a member of the Academy of Chefs, American Culinary Federation, International Geneva Association and the Les Amis D'Escoffier.

A 10 per cent reduction on ticket sales to women's organizations is being offered. This promises to be a great seminar. Chef Jim Paterson of London, England, winner of the Culinary Olympics of Frankfort, Germany, is donating the door prize. The guest speaker will be Miss Anne Troth, Immediate Past President of the Women's Chamber of Commerce in Atlanta.

For ticket information and reservations, please call 545-4836.

Chinese Auction

Come one. Come All. Come to a fabulous "Chinese Auction" to be held on Wed., April 4, at the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts. For just $3. you can feast on delectable dainties and you get 15 chances — just 20 cents apiece — to be bid on fabulous and varied goodies as a needlepoint stool, a Brazilian copper stove, a silver crumber, china, and so on. How can this be possible? Beside each item that you covet is a box, you drop your chance into it (or chances, if you wish to increase the odds) between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. at 2 p.m. your chance will be drawn out by Mr. Aldridge, Museum Director. The ladies of the 197th Infantry Brigade honored Mrs. Edwin Kennedy, wife of the 197th Inf. Bde.'s Commanding Officer, with a Farewell Tea on March 15, at the home of Mrs. Curtis Hoglan on Lumpkin Road, Fort Benning. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Charles Arnecke Jr., Mrs. Robert Orkand, Mrs. Curtis Hoglan, Mrs. Watha Eddins Jr., and Mrs. Robert Brumback, wives of the Battalion commanders of the Brigade, and Mrs. Theodore Voohees, wife of the Brigade Executive Officer.

A lovely bouquet of spring flowers was the centerpiece for the table from which the ladies were served tea and champagne punch. Mrs. Kennedy, who will soon be departing with Col. Edwin Kennedy for Washington, D.C., graciously accepted the fond farewells of all the ladies present.

29th Inf. joined their husbands at Officers' Call on March 16 at the Fort Benning Country Club. A good time was had by all as The Wagon paid its final tribute to the officers of the Pioneer Battalion by bequesting to them many memorable items, through the words of the Wagon Master, Lt. Peter Cutler.

The ladies 1st Bn. 29th Inf., the new Infantry School Support Battalion, met in the Columbus home of Mrs. Don Bullock March 16, for their monthly coffee. The honored guest at the coffee was Mrs. Edwin Kennedy, the first lady of the 197th Inf. Bde. Newcomers to the group were welcomed and presented with live plants. They were Mrs. John Sarantakes, Mrs. William Higgins, Mrs. William MacPherson and Mrs. Douglas Austin.

As the ladies enjoyed refreshments of homemade German Black Forest Cherry Cake and German Fruit Cake and coffee and tea, they finalized plans for the first battalion party to be held the following evening.

The theme for the party of March 17 was Irish Night in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Shamrocks and flowers decorated the home of Lt. Col. Robert Brumback, commanding officer of the battalion. The members and their ladies enjoyed a potluck dinner of favorite Irish recipes.

BBOD

"Have Fun — Will Travel" and that is exactly what Brigade and Battalion Operations Department did for their March luncheon.

Spring was the theme of the luncehon hosted by the ladies of Department Headquarters, under the capable direction of Mrs. Lawrence Mowery.

Daffodils and greenery adorned the tables with the ladies of BBOD decked-out in spring attire.

The setting was in the country at the Villula Tea Gardens with the daffodils and lillies of the Valley in full bloom. Mrs. Robert Joerg, owner of the restaurant, was the perfect hostess. She offered several of her favorite recipes to the ladies in attendance which were enthusiastically accepted.

The fields of daffodils and lillies of the valley brightened the afternoon the new first lady of Fort Benning, Mrs. Thomas M. Tarpley, highlighted the social event.

Also present for the afternoon gathering was Mrs. William R. Richardson, wife of the Assistant Commandant of the Infantry School.

A spectacular centerpiece of Spring flowers graced the dining room table in the home of Mrs. Charles B. Knowlen, as Staff Group, BBOD wives held their monthly coffee, March 15. Assisting Mrs. Knowlen as hostesses for the morning coffee were Operations Committee wives. They were: Mesdames Eugene Lednicky, James A. Henderson, Thomas Dooley, Willie Skinner and Peter N. Kramer. Mrs. Cal G. Nann, whose husband recently departed Staff Group, was asked to help pour coffee.

Mrs. Sanders A. Cortner welcomed special guest, Mrs. Allen M. Buckner. Mrs. Cortner then conducted a short business meeting during the coffee. Plans were made for Staff Group wives to go to Hamilton Hall restaurant in Hamilton Georgia, for a luncheon instead of a coffee next month. The Hamilton Hall luncheon will be on April 5. It was agreed by the wives to continue monthly meetings through the summer. Progress on the BBOD Spring Formal was discussed, as the various committees are busily preparing for the April event.

Combat Arms Training Board

The ladies of CATB were pleased to have Mrs. Carl Strang, of Eufaula, Ala., as their guest speaker at the March 15 coffee held at the home of Mrs. Bill Thompson. Other guests were Mrs. William R. Richardson, and Mrs. Bernice Baker and Mrs. Martha Thaggerd of Eufaula.

Mrs. Strang is a member of the Chattahoochee Historical Commission of the state of Alabama. She was one of two Alabamians to be honored with awards of merit by the American Association for State and Local History. She was chairman of the first two pilgrimages to Eufaula, which was the major topic of her talk. Mrs. Strang asked for hostesses for the houses open during the pilgrimages, April 5 - 9. One of the houses, the Hart House, belongs to the family of Lt. Col. Franklin A. Hart of the Board. Also discussed were other historical points throughout parts of Alabama and Georgia.

Those interested in going to Eufaula can contact Mrs. William Hilsman for information.

Other business discussed was OWC news, the sewing circle and the book review group which will discuss Eleanor and Franklin.

Hostesses for the coffee along with Mrs. Thompson were ladies of TAT White.

The April 12 coffee will be held at the home of Mrs. John A. Goetz.

Command Maintenance Department

Dixieland music roared out to greet the officers and ladies of Command Maintenance Department at the Springer Opera House Saloon on March 9. The occasion was a farewell for Capt. and Mrs. Mitchell Willis, Capt. and Mrs. Norman Otis, and Capt. and Mrs. William Higgins.

After a cocktail hour, the management of the Saloon served a varied buffet for the hungry crowd. Then it was time to sit back and enjoy the sounds of Dixieland. The officers and ladies of CMD say "Thank You" Maj. Vernon Hansen and the officers of Maintenance Supervision for such a wonderful evening of fun.

MEDDAC Wives

Mrs. Paul Anderson, Chairman of the Environmental Workshop, will be guest speaker at the April 13 MEDDAC Wives' Club luncheon. The luncheon, to be held at the FBOOM Supper Club, will begin with a sherry half-hour at noon.

With the saturation of anti-pollution campaigns during the past years, Mrs. Anderson plans to discuss where we stand right now on the pollution issue. Her talk will include enjoyable summer projects for the family that contribute to a cleaner environment.

Mrs. John P. Wright heads the hostesses who are wives from the Departments of Medicine and Administrative Services.

Book Club

MEDDAC Wives will meet to discuss Jonathan Livingston Seagull by Richard Bach at the home of Mrs. Paul Kaufman, 207 Lumpkin Road, on April 4. An alternate book, Them, by Joyce Carroll Oates will also be discussed at the 7:30 p.m. meeting. Anyone interested in attending, please contact the hostess at 545-1048.

Ranger Department

The monthly function for the officers' wives of the Ranger Department was a Rangerette Punch Party held in the home of Mrs. Frank Scott, Miller Loop, Fort Benning.

Members of the Ranger Officers' Wives Club provided refreshments for the evening, each bringing their own speciality. The ladies were thus able to enjoy a variety of Hors d'oeuvres and sweets, fruit punch and a special Rangerette Punch.

Mrs. Richard Horn held a business meeting during which a new slate of officers for the Wives' Club was presented. Mrs. Horn, who is the outgoing president, extended a special thank you to the board for the tremendous job they had done during the past six months. Each out-going member of the board was presented with a special gift by Mrs. David Grange. The new slate of officers presented and approved by the Club were Mrs. Henry Mitchell, 1st V.P. (Program Coordinator), Mrs. Dean Knox, 2nd V.P. (Publicity), Mrs. Joseph Trez, 3rd V.P. (Hospitality), Mrs. Frank Romiti, Secretary and Mrs. James Roach, Treasurer.

New Members welcomed to the club were Mrs. Kurt Pierce and Mrs. William Mitchell. Sad farewells were bid to Mrs. Gregory Wheeler, Mrs. Rudy Jones and Mrs. Walter Ross and each lady was presented with a silver card tray.

JUST LIKE HE

By SSgt. Johnnie Riley

Tower Committee,
Airborne Dept.

I was born black
Born with my head covered with a sack
So I couldn't see who was holding me back
He tried to make be believe, it was potatoes falling from the sack.
Finally he uncovered my head
Right then, be was wishing I was dead
Wearing a white sheet over his head
Trying to make me afraid.
He wanted to keep me in slavery
But there were other people who took an interest in me
They said, I'm human just like he
And that I should be given my liberty.
There I was, set free with no education
Standing alone in this huge creation
And still he gave me a had reputation
Every where I went, I was doom to condemnation.
Now he tells me, I'm not smart
He built segregated schools to keep us apart
Gave the a story book, and swore I was being taught
Now I can't get a job because I don't know an art.
Then when I asked for my equal rights
He labeled me militant looking for a fight
Now he says I'm up-tight
Trying to get everything overnight.
Hey man I worked your land
I built you a fortune, even while you buried my brothers in the sand
Now why can't you understand
All I want to be is a respectable man.
I hold no grudges against you
I want to build this country too
I want just as much as you
To trust in God, and believe in this red, white and blue.
I would like for us to join hands and work for liberty
And do away, with all of our hostility
And maybe then the world will join hands with us, in harmony
And even though I'm black, realize, I'm a man JUST LIKE HE.

931st Engineer Group

The 931st Engineer Group Officers Wives held their monthly meeting on the evening of March 20th, in the Fountain Room of the Main Officers Open Mess.

This was a special gathering, which included many of the husbands for dinner and a fashion show. The spring fashions from hot pants to evening wear were provided by Kathleen's Dress Shop of Phoenix City. The Mable Bailey School of Modeling supplied the models for this occasion. Two of the officers' wives, Mrs. Donald Burnett and Mrs. Robert Mooney, also donated their time and talent as models for the evening.

Mrs. James Thompson presided over the evening's events and short meeting with special comments from Col. James Thompson and several other liberated husbands.

Expectant Parents' Classes begin Apr. 3

Pregnancy and childbirth are normal, natural happenings. It is believed that through a program of education, the expectant father and mother can be prepared both physically and emotionally to make childbirth and parenthood a satisfying and rewarding experience.

The Army Health Nursing Service, in conjunction with the Obstetrics Department, Martin Army Hospital, is begining another series of Expectant Parents' Classes on 3 April 1973. The series consists of four classes, each two hours, long, on four Tuesday nights of the month. Classes are held in the Conference Room on the second floor of Martin Army Hospital.

The sessions improve your knowledge of pregnancy, childbirth, and newborn babies. Movies, slides, short talks, and discussion groups help to explain the physical structure of the male and female, reproduction, body changes, signs of labor and infant care.

Tour of Quarters held Apr. 11 by OWC

The OWC tour of quarters will begin at 9:30 a.m. April 11 in the Main Officer's Club. After coffee and refreshments, the ladies will elect officers for 1973-1974. The group will go by buses to visit nine homes at Fort Benning. Riverside, the home of Major General and Mrs. Thomas M. Tarpley, an antebellum mansion that was a plantation home for generations of a Columbus family will be the highlight of the tour; Col. Margaret Mack's quarters, decorated with Italian Provincial furniture from Italy, is located on Eames Avenue. Contemporary furnishings with an oriental influence accents the quarters of Major and Mrs. Dale Sherrod. The Wedgewood blue living room with authentic Queen Anne pieces is highlighted with paintings executed by members of Mrs. Siket's family. Shades of red, green, and yellow are used in the living room of Major and Mrs. Wayne T. Boles. Mrs. Boles made the Roman shades that are used on the dining room windows. Major and Mrs. Eugene Lednicky have chosen Spanish living room furniture. Their kitchen is a cook's delight in shades of bright yellow. Copper pots decorate the walls. The quarters of Major and Mrs. Arthur E. Richards creates a cozy atmosphere. The Richards' have a number of distinctive accessories and beautiful antiques in their home. Country French is found in the quarters of Cpt. and Mrs. Vernon L. Klinger. In the dining room are window shades and a table drape in a spring print which were made by Mrs. Klinger. The Logan residence on Craig Drive is a charming combination of contemporary and antiques. Mrs. Logan has collected antiques since she was a sixth-grader.

Hostesses for the tour and coffee are wives of the Leadership Dept. Reservations for the tour are due by noon April 5. Only bonafide houseguests of OWC members will be permitted as guests.

Arrangements should be made for children to be met after morning school as the tour will extend through the lunch hour. Tot Town reservations should be made early.

Outtings at the beach can be fun, as long as you remember the safety rules that go along with them. Don't become a drowning statistic this summer.

The first class includes prenatal care, psychological aspects of parenthood, and exercises. The second class is labor and delivery plus a tour of Labor and Delivery, the third is Martin Army Hospital procedures and the fourth in infant care, with a special session on breast feeding. It is best to start with the first class in the series and continue with the same group; however, if you should miss one class, you can make it up in the next series.

Particular care is taken to make each expectant mother and father aware of forthcoming events. Fear and uncertainty are results of meeting the unexpected. For assurance and knowledge, you are encouraged to attend a series of Expectant Parents' Classes during your pregnancy.

Because of limited space, you are asked to pre-register for these classes by calling the Army Health Nursing Service, 545-5431, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

And equipped like cameras costing $20 more.

The magic in Polaroid's Square Shooter 2 Land camera only begins with the picture in a minute. In this camera you will also find sophisticated equipment you might expect in models costing almost twice as much.

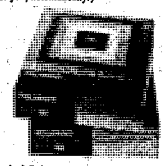
Electric eye and electronic shutter. The eye automatically reads the light and sets the shutter for correct exposures (even for flash). Other cameras at this price use a simple mechanical shutter. Our electronic shutter has a range from ½ second to 1/500th. It's automatic. No figuring necessary.

Electric eye reads the light automatically.

Electronic shutter sets exposures automatically.

Viewfinder. Shoot when the face is in the red square.

Ingenious face-in-square viewfinder. Another Polaroid invention: just look through the viewfinder and fit the little square to the subject's face. It gives you the best distance for most shots, the best distance for flash.



Sharp 3-element lens.

Special 3-element lens. Most cameras at this price have an inexpensive "fixed focus" lens. Ours is a true focusing lens, from 3½ feet to infinity.

Built-in flash for 4-shot flashcubes.

Built-in flash for inexpensive flashcubes. After every shot, the flashcube rotates to the next position. When it is used up it stops at an angle to tell you so. (And this camera reads the light of the flash and adjusts the exposure for you, automatically.)

And Polaroid's inexpensive square film. Strictly color. You can save up to 25% on every shot over our rectangular color film. In fact, you can save almost enough on every 8 shots to pay for 2 more.

Our Square Shooter 2. Beautiful 60-second color shots from one of the most sophisticated cameras you can find under $50. Only $24.95.

Is there any other way to take pictures?

Infantry captain leaves tank for tour of tin can

BY STEVE VITUCCI

"Remember, Steve, this Tin Can ain't a tank." With these profound words my ex-roommate, Lt. Richard S. Plass, U.S. Navy, welcomed me aboard the destroyer U.S.S. Ault.

In my short Army career, I have been in a tank, an armored personnel carrier, and I have even been on some small boats. But I have never been aboard a Navy ship at sea until I joined the Ault for a weekend training exercise in the Gulf of Mexico. Going to sea on a destroyer is quite different from a Field Training Exercise in a tank or an armored personnel carrier.

The Ault has the mission of training Naval Reserve in Galvestin, Texas. About one weekend a month she sets sail for the Gulf of Mexico to conduct drills and to stay proficient enough for Fleet standards.

I was able to get a first hand look at how a ship and its crew function at sea.

The ship has an Officer of the Deck and the Junior Officer of the Deck. They act much the same as a tank commander and assistant tank commander. The Officer of the Deck insures his crew makes a preoperational check on the ship. Much like the same as a tank commander insures his driver and crew perform their preoperations checks.

One of the preoperational checks included sounding the ship's horn. I was standing fairly close to the horn when it was sounded and the blast was enough to make me consider staying on the beach.

Maneuvering a destroyer is a lot different from handling a tank or an armored personnel carrier (APC). The OOD has to contend with a current, wind, and small craft that cut in and out in the channel. The side of a destroyer acts like a giant sail with a strong cross-wind. A strong cross-wind, and strong current are enough to make things tough for an experienced OOD, but when you add a third element like dodging shrimp boats, getting out of the channel can be hair raising. It was easy to see why my roommate had grown so gray.

When Commander Turner, the captain, asked me if I wanted to maneuver the ship, I wisely let discretion be the better part of valor. I told him I would rather stick to APC's and just observe how the Navy handled their own equipment.

The OOD and JOD also have the same responsibilities as a unit's Officer of the Day and Junior Officer of the Day. Lt. Ploss told me to watch the JOD and learn his job because later on that evening I would find myself as the JOD.

Learning the job, however, was not half as hard as learning how to stand and walk while the ship was at sea.

During my four hour watch (tour of guard) as JOD I learned that reading a map at sea is quite a bit different from reading a land map with contour curves, rivers, valleys, and other terrain features. At sea there is nothing to distinguish, except for an occasional ship on the horizon.

We take great pride in our . . .

RED CARPET TREATMENT

Our Red Carpet is "WALL-TO-WALL" all over the Fort Benning area!

We have red carpet in the lobby of the National Bank of Fort Benning. However, the red carpet treatment was initiated long before the carpet was installed. We're proud of our bank. It may not be the largest in the world but we try to make it the friendliest. We offer full service banking to both military and civilian personnel and try to meet the needs of our customers in the best possible way. We'd like to show you some of our services. So come by one of our offices. You'll find the red carpet treatment at Main Post, Sand Hill and Mobile Facility. If you can't make it to the bank, that's all right too. We can provide practically any service through the mail that we can at the desk. Give us a try. You'll be glad you did!

Gym dedicated to Lt. Murphy

The Main Post gym, located off of Sightseeing Road, has been designated in memorialization orders as the Audie L. Murphy Gym.

Lieutenant Murphy was one of the most decorated soldiers during World War II.

He was awarded the Medal of Honor for action in France, Jan. 26, 1945.

He was the commander of Company B, 15th Infantry, 3d Infantry Division, which was under attack by six German tanks and waves of infantry.

Murphy ordered his men to withdraw in the woods while he remained forward at his command post. He climbed onto a burning enemy tank which was beside him, and employed its .50 caliber machine gun against the enemy. He was alone and exposed to German fire from three sides, but he killed dozens of the enemy causing them to fall back.

For an hour the enemy tried every available weapon to kill Murphy, but he continued and wiped out a squad of Germans who were trying to creep up unnoticed on his right flank.

He received a leg wound but continued single-handedly fighting the Germans until his ammunition was gone.

He then made his way back to his company, refused medical attention and organized the company in a counter attack which forced the enemy to withdraw.

Other memorializations include two unnamed officer housing areas. Bucha Woods, bordered on the north by the Reservation Boundary Line, on the west by Benning Boulevard and on the south by Custer Road, was named in honor of Captain Paul W. Bucha, who was awarded the Medal of Honor for action in Vietnam.

The other officer unnamed housing area was Perkins Place, named in honor of PFC Michael J. Perkins, who was awarded the Medal of Honor for action in World War I. Perkins Place is bordered on the north by Yeager Avenue, on the west by Lumpkin Road, on the east by First Division Road, and on the south by Dixie Road.

There were three unnamed NCO housing areas memorialized. Indianhead Terrace, bordered on the northwest by Chattahoochee River, on the east by Indianhead Road, and on the south by Bradshaw Road, is named in honor of the 2d Infantry Division.

McDonald Manor, named in honor of PFC Phill G. McDonald, who was awarded the Medal of Honor for action in Vietnam, is bordered on the north by 10th Division Road, on the east by Clark Road, on the west by Gillespie Loop and on the south by unnamed road.

Norton Court, bordered on the north by unnamed street, on the east by Ingersoll Street, on the west by Edwards Street, and on the south by Dixie Road, was named in honor of Captain John H. Norton, who was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for action in World War I.

All memorializations were made effective March 2.

How to fly Stand-by without having to stand by.

If you fly Stand-by on Eastern between 9 pm and 6 am (10 pm in some cities) you stand an excellent chance of getting a seat without having to stand around and wait for it.

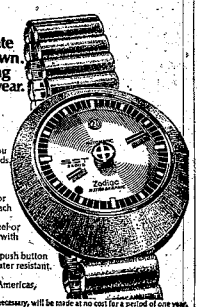
For one thing, Eastern has more Off-Hour Flights than any other carrier.

But the main reason is that fewer people want to fly late at night or early in the morning.

And even though we have a lot of planes scheduled during these hours, we almost never have a lot of extra passengers.

So if you want the 50% discount that goes with Stand-by, but you don't want the wait, try Eastern between 9 pm and 6 am (10 pm in some cities).

It's the best way we know to beat the system.



Call Eastern or your JAMTO office for more details.

Infantry School: Has reputation for top-notch instruction after sixty-six years of experiences

Marshall was the first commandant to lay down the requirement that instructors teach without referring to their notes. This picture of a class at Fort Benning during World War II shows the type of dynamic instruction which resulted from Marshall's directive.

Gen. Marshall instituted instruction as is today

BY STEVE VITUCCI

The Infantry School at Fort Benning holds the reputation of being the finest service school in the U.S. Army. This reputation began when Gen. George C. Marshall was the assistant commandant from 1927 to 1932.

Gen. Marshall could easily be considered the Father of the Infantry School. His farsighted guidance and expert influence shaped the School into the viable and professional institution that it is today.

During Marshall's tour of duty at the Infantry School, instructors were required for the first time to teach without refering to their notes. He required instructors to know their subjects well enough to be considered experts on the subjects they taught. He also instituted a school within the Infantry School and required all instructors to attend it. This school was the forrunner of today's instructor training course and it polished the skill of each instructor.

The courses of instruction during Marshall's tenure were also changed. The Infantry School had previously relied solely on the "school solution". Marshall felt that the "school solution" was not always the best solution. He encouraged students to express their own opinions and to present their own solutions. As the assistant commandant, Marshall headed the academic department of the Infantry School and was allowed to mold and shape the course of study as he saw fit.

Gen. Marshall saw the necessity for a leader to be able to think clearly about the problems of the battlefield. In the field the unexpected was normal as Marshall constantly threw the unexpected at his student officers. He was concerned with the methods and principles of command rather than the theories of war and the grand shape of the battles of the future.

Since leaders of troops would have to make quick decisions based on scant information, Marshall trained young student officers by putting them in problems with rapid changing situations where the mediocre solution was better than the perfect tactical solution discovered hours after the opportunity had passed.

Marshall insisted on getting to the essentials and making the real difficulties clear. He felt it was more important to teach leaders to grasp the vital considerations instead of a mass of less important details. His efforts were directed at freeing the student and the teacher from the "book"

The Infantry School was fortunate to have Gen. Marshall as the guiding force of the academic department. His influence can not be statistically measured, but the roll of the Fort Benning's staff and graduates during Marshall's five years was studded with the Army high command of World War II and after — Bradley, Collins, Ridgeway, Decker, Stilwell, Bolte, Dahlquist, Almond, Van Fleet, Huenner, Bedell Smith, Bull, Terry Allen, and Leven C. Allen.

Today's instructors have 24 hour a day job

Qualifications for becoming an instructor at the Infantry School are varied, depending upon the subjects the instructor will teach. Each department has its own qualifications for instructors within their departments.

All instructors must attend the Instructor Training Course (ITC) before presenting formal platform instructions. While in ITC the student instructor goes through three phases. Phase I is in the individual learning center where the student instructor uses a self-paced text to gain the required background. Upon completion of phase I the student instructor begins formal presentations as part of phase II. Phase II includes oral presentations ranging in length from three minutes to fifty minutes. These presentations include lectures, demonstrations, military briefings and seminars. The student instructor then begins phase III, Advanced ITC which stresses. systems engineering and quality control.

Once ITC is completed the student instructor begins many long hours of study and research in his subject. Upon completion of his study and research the student instructor presents his class to his committee chief. These presentations are called "murder" boards. In addition to the committee chairman the qualified instructors within the committee attend the murder board. During the murder board the committee chairman and other instructors attempt to give the student instructor an idea of what a real class could be like. Questions are asked that require the new instructor to recall the research he has conducted, and erratic behavior is simulated to determine if the instructor can handle the situation without losing his poise and confidence.

When the instructor completes the murder board he is qualified to present formal platform instruction. Prior to presenting his instruction an instructor puts in about 15 hours of work for each hour of classroom presentation. This work includes the research coordination and rehearsals required to insure a successful presentation. Instructors agree that many hours of rehearsal in an empty classroom are required for each hour of actual instruction to insure a smooth running class.

In addition to researching his subject the instructor has many additional duties. Writing lesson plans, examinations, and command post exercises are among the writing requirements of an instructor. Field grade officers also have the duty of faculty advisor for the Infantry Advance Course. Instructors continually review and update doctrine and they are the point of contact for units in the field regarding their subject area. They write lesson plans for the National Guard and Army Reserve as well as instruct these units. They are also responsible for writing the lesson plans and booklets for the nonresident instruction department of the Infantry School.

Although the work is demanding and requires long hours the instructors at the Infantry School are dedicated. As a result of their hard work and dedication all classes at the Infantry School receive instruction of the highest caliber.

During the murder board, the committee chairman and other instructors attempt to give the student instructor an idea of what a real class could be like.

Gen. Bradley checks out training while serving as commandant at Fort Benning in 1941.

Bradley set up the first OCS at Fort Benning

BY STEVE VITUCCI

Every person has a turning point in his career. For some the turning point becomes a disaster from which they never make a recovery. For others the turning point is successful and marks the beginning of a brilliant career.

For General Omar Nelson Bradley the turning point in his career was his attendance of the Infantry Officers Advanced Course in 1924. The Infantry School made a lasting impression on General Bradley, but he too left a mark on the Infantry School.

Gen. Bradley's first tour of duty at Fort Benning came in 1924, at a point in his career when he felt that he had no future in the Army. Many of his contemporaries had seen combat during World War I. While Gen. Bradley had remained in the United States training troops to go overseas. It was during the Advanced Course that he found himself and was able to cast aside his uncertainties about missing the war.

Bradley said, "I think before the end of the course we felt that not having gotten overseas was not a handicap. We found that quite a number of the people who had been overseas were sort of 'locked in' in the methods of trench warfare. It was more difficult for them to forget and get into open warfare than it was for some of us who had not had the battle experience."

Bradley did not return to Fort Benning until 1929, when he was called to the Infantry School as an instructor under Gen. Marshall. Gen. Bradley began his tour as a tactics instructor and made a fine reputation for himself. Gen. Marshall placed him in charge of the weapons department. Bradley learned his job quickly and once more proved his value to the school. Bradley's talents did not go unnoticed. Gen. Marshall was impressed by his thoroughness and would call on him again.

Gen. Bradley's last and most significant assignment to the Infantry School came in 1941, when he was named by Gen. Marshall as Commandant of the Infantry School. Marshall felt that the new Officer Candidate School program needed the guidance and direction of a thorough man and Bradley was the man.

Bradley was then a LTC. Gen. Marshall recommended Bradley for promotion to BG. The promotion made Bradley the first in his class to wear stars.

Gen. Bradley expanded the OCS program 1000 per cent. His emphasis was upon training and efficient organization of the program. As result of Bradley's efficient organization the OCS program was able to turn out 70,000 new lieutenants in 5 years.

Many of the ideas Gen. Bradley put into effect are carried out today. His ideas on training and organizing the OCS program are still being used. Innovations by Bradley, "Soldier's soldier," were the foundations for the development of officers training through three major conflicts.

Changes with the times

Officer Candidate School

Infantry Officer Candidate School has been one of the Army's primary sources of commissioned officers, especially small unit Infantry leaders.

On March 6, 1941, the Infantry School Commander, General Omar A. Bradley, sent final plans for Infantry OCS to Department of the Army. The official opening of the program occurred on July 9, 1941, with a class of 205 students.

During World War II, approximately 66,000 officers were commissioned through the OCS program at Fort Benning, Ga. Infantry OCS provided over 7,000 second lieutenants during the Korean conflict. During the height of hostilities in Viet Nam, OCS graduated Infantry Officers at the rate of over 7,000 annually.

To date, over a thousand classes have graduated 108,000 second lieutenants.

During the height of the Vietn Nam conflict three battalions were used to train OCS candidates. Toward the close of the Viet Nam conflict two battalions were deactivated and today the 5th Student Battalion is the only OCS battalion at Fort Benning.

Current OCS training is 23 weeks long. This training covers the full spectrum of basic subjects needed by Infantry second lieutenants from drill and ceremonies, map reading, physical training, to platoon and company level tactics.

Also included in the 23 weeks is leadership characteristics and development. During the course, candidates serve in various chain of command positions normally found in a regular unit to include company commander, platoon leader, first sergeant, platoon sergeant, and squad leaders. Candidates are rated by their peers and tactical officers on their performance to determine their overall leadership score.

In determining a candidate's final standing, his academic and leadership scores are weighted equally.

This April, OCS will change from a 23 week to a 14 week course. The new OCS program will provide second lieutenants for all branches of the service. Upon completion of the 14 week OCS program each second lieutenant will attend the basic course of the branch he is assigned to.

The qualifications for the 14th week OCS program are different than those needed for the current program. In addition to, a high moral character a candidate for the new OCS program must have prior service, a high school education, be between the ages of 18½ and 32 ½, and be able to pass a medical and physical fitness test. In addition the candidate must score 110 on the GT test and 115 on the OCT test.

Beginning in fiscal year 1974 there will be four classes per year, averaging about 100 candidates in each class. Class standing at the completion of the program along with student preferences and branch quotas will determine which branch he is assigned.

Included in the OCS tradition is the OCS Hall of Fame in Wigle Hall. To be eligible for induction into the hall of fame, the nominee must be a graduate of the OCS program. He must also qualify in one of three catagories; have attained the grade of full colonel while serving on active duty, received the medal of honor, or have achieved prominance in national or state government.

Training during the three week course is rough and demanding. During the first week, 'ground week, the student learns how to exit the aircraft and how to perform a parachute landing fall. In addition to this training the student undergoes vigorous physical training. During the first week the students also use the 34 foot tower.

During the second week, tower week, the student receives additional training in the fundamentals and uses the 250 foot tower to practice these. Among the apparatus the student uses in tower week are the swing landing trainer, mock door, and wind machine. Prior to completing the second week of training the student performs all of the jump commands and performance points.

The third and final week of training is jump week. During this week the students are required to make five jumps from an altitude of 1250 feet. Four of these jumps are without equipment, and one is with full combat equipment. Once the student has completed all five jumps he is airborne qualified.

The instruction the student receives during the airborne course is thorough and safety oriented, due to the quality and experience of the instructors.

Instructors in the Airborne Department are in the grade of Staff Sergeant or above and have served on jump status from three to twenty-one years.

Each instructor is jumpmaster qualified (qualified to inspect and supervise paratroopers during an airborne operation.) The majority of the instructors are senior (30 jumps and jumpmaster qualified) and master (65 jumps and jumpmaster qualified) parachutists. All instructors are volunteers and professionals. In addition each instructor sets the example for the students in appearance, physical condition, and mental alertness.

In addition to conducting basic airborne training the Airborne Department also conducts Jumpmaster and Pathfinder classes. They also give special airborne orientations and demonstrations for visitors at Fort Benning.

The Airborne School has been producing paratroopers for over 30 years at Fort Benning. They can be described by these stanza's of the Parachutists Creed.

"I volunteered as a parachutist, fully realizing the hazard of my chosen service and by my thoughts and actions will always uphold the prestige, honor and high espirit-de-corps of parachute troops.

"I belong to the finest unit in the world. By my actions and deeds alone, I speak for my fighting ability. I will strive to uphold the honor and prestige of my outfit, making my country proud of me and of the unit to which I belong."

Firearms have to be registered with MPs

Enlisted men quartered with their organization are required to register all privately owned firearms with the Provost Marshal Office and to keep the firearms and ammunition in organizational storerooms.

Carrying arms anywhere on the reservation is prohibited, except by individuals engaged in the performance of military duty, skeet shooting, trap shooting, authorized pistol and rifle target shooting or authorized hunting.

The firing of any arms whatsoever within the limits of the garrison proper is prohibited, except when on authorized duty. Privately owned firearms will not be loaded at any time on the reservation, except for authorized hunting or target shooting. The use of rifles for hunting is prohibited.

Personnel quartered separately on post are required to register with the Provost Marshal any weapons they may have.

Co. C, 43rd Eng. receives letter from 3rd Army

Company C, 43rd Engineer Battalion (Construction) has received a letter of congratulations from the Third U.S. Army Commander to the officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers for their exemplary performance during the past year.

Company C competed against several Third U.S. Army Engineer Units nominated for the annual Itschner award, the award which goes to the company selected as engineer company of the year out of army wide competition. Though another unit was selected as the Third U.S. Army nominee for the award Charlie Company represents the U.S. Army Infantry Center. The commander of Fort Benning expressed his commendation for the outstanding performance record of the unit, indicative of a well trained and highly motivated company.

Charlie Company is now laying plans for its proposal for next year confident they can go all the way.

Eufaula makes ready for annual pilgrimage

With the first signs of spring, communities throughout the South can be found making last minute preparations for their annual pilgrimage of historic homes — and Eufaula, Alabama is no exception.

Eufaula, located in the heart of the Chattahoochee Valley, is hosting its seventh annual pilgrimage April 5-8. In addition, approximately twenty select antique dealers from several states will exhibit at the annual Pilgrimage Show and Sale Friday through Sunday, April 6-8 in the Eufaula National Guard Armory.

Because of this outstanding schedule of activities and related special events, the Historic Chattahoochee Commission has chosen Eufaula as its Valley Attraction of the Month.

During the pilgrimage the Bluff City's thousands of azaleas and dogwood trees will be at their peak. Fish will also be jumping in lunker-filled Lake Eufaula. Beautiful landscaped gardens and miles of manicured parkways and tree-lined streets are today part of the heritage that is old Eufaula's. This is the setting for many of the impressive mansions that were built by the old river town's wealthy planters.

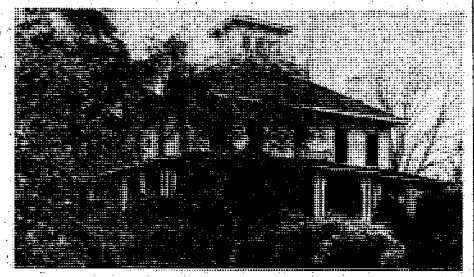
Those homes scheduled to be open are the Shorter Mansion, Fendall Hall, Bray-Barron Home, Highland View, Drewery-Mitchell-Moorer Home, Dean-Page Hall, Sparks-Fiewellen Home, Calton-Hurlbert Home, Simpson-Thomas Home, and Thornton-Petry-Steward-Honan Home. The last named residence will be seen for the first time.

The homes will be open from 9:00 am until 5:00 pm each day except Sunday when the hours will be 1:00 pm until 5:00 pm.

A Candlelight Tour will be conducted at the Shorter Mansion, the Calton-Hurlbert Home, the First Presbyterian Church, the Wellborn House, and Fendall Hall on Thursday and Saturday nights, 7:00 pm to 9:00 pm. During the Candlelight Tour Thursday night, the Andrew College Choraliers will perform at the Shorter Mansion. On Saturday night the Wiregrass Sacred Harp Singers may be heard at Fendall Hall.

Other special events include daily band concerts by the Eufaula High School Band in the parkway in front of the Shorter Mansion, an Oriental Art Exhibit and Crafts Fair at the Wellborn house, an antique sterling silver display valued at $63,000 at a downtown jewelry store, and a concert which will be presented by the Camerata Music Club at the high school auditorium on Friday night. The White Oak Promenaders will have a square dance exhibition Saturday night.

Of special interest to history buffs will be an exhibit at Fendall Hall of prehistoric Indian artifacts from the Southeastern United States. This display is on loan from the University of Alabama Museum of Natural History.



The back porch of the Shorter Mansion will be the scene of an art exhibit featuring the works of three outstanding young artists. Shirley Little of Columbus, Jean Lake of Troy and Wayne Spradley of Pell City will alternate their displays from Thursday through Sunday, April 5-8.

Also, visitors should plan to take a jaunt to nearby Lumpkin, Georgia to visit Bedingfield Inn, a restored stagecoach inn, and historic Westville, the reconstructed village where it is always 1850. These attractions are being operated in conjunction with the Eufaula Pilgrimage and may be viewed daily. All craftsmen employed at Westville will be available to display their skills.

Should this year's festivities be missed, interested travelers are urged to take advantage of a self-guided tour of historic Eufaula which can be conducted at any time or day of the year. Brochures on this tour are available on request.

Two important routes; U. S. Highway 431 and 82 criss-cross in the heart of Eufaula. Modern motel facilities and Old South hospitality will make your visit during the Eufaula Pilgrimage memorable.

For further information on this tour, write Historic Chattahoichee Commission, P.O. Box 33, Eufaula, Alabama 36027 or the Eufaula Heritage Association, P. O. Box 486, Eufaula, Alabama 36027.

Been around since 1935

Mr. John W. Morten, who has worked at Fort Benning since 1935 as a civilian, retired recently in a ceremony held at the NCO Club, where he was bartender.

Lt. Col. Robert K. Hartly, installation club manager, officiated at the retirement ceremony. Mr. Morten, who lives in Phenix City, Ala., was born on Thompson Plantation, Ga., and attended Florence High School.

He has held a variety of jobs at Fort Benning, including caretaker, chief warehouseman and purchasing agent, package store operator, fixed assets supervisor, assistant club manager, club manager, and bartender.

He has worked at Lawson Field NCO Club, Crain Hall, and the Top Five. Mr. Morten is president of the South Girard Elementary School PTA in Phenix City, and has been a Scoutmaster for eighteen years.

Mr. Morten and his wife, Mozelle, have seven children and fourteen grandchildren. They live at 1025 15th Avenue, Phenix City, Ala., with two of their children, Pamela and Eric.

Mr. Morten has received various commendations for work performed at Fort Benning. He is now vice-president of his own janitorial service on Post.

Female MP's are fast becoming a familiar sight around the Fort Benning area.

Swimming program underway

Fort Benning Special Services' "Swim for your Life" program is now under way.

All active duty and retired military personnel and dependents may participate.

There are three phases in the program. First is the prtparatory phase which sbould begin with personnel who have recently led an inactive life and-or persons who do not swim or exercise regularly.

The next phase is the sustaining phase which is for conditioned swimmers who can swim a minimum of 440 yards without stopping.

The advanced phase is for swimmers who have reached the 50 miles goal.

Swimming may be done at any swimming pool convenient to the participant.

Further information about joining the "Swim for your Life" program may be obtained in the sports branch at Specials Services Office.

Feast of Love to take place at TIC Chapel

On this first Friday, April 6th, the Catholic Women of the Chapel will be served a brunch and celebrate Mass together at the table during the meal. The Agape or Feast of Love will take place at 10:00 a.m. at the TIC Chapel Annex.

The Agape, also called a Feast of Charity, was celebrated by the early Christians before or after a communion service at which time a liberal contribution was made by the rich to the poor. Father George Guda, celebrant of the Mass, will use a special liturgy written for this occasion.

There will be no charge for the brunch, however, reservations are needed. Please call Main Post Catholic Chapel (545-7082) or Evelyn Atchison (545-3397) before 10:00 a.m. Wednesday, April 4th.

Free nursery service is provided at Tot Town Nursery (with the exception of lunch and snacks). Reservations at Tot Town can be made by calling 545-7008.

Is your child suffering from poor grades?

Keeping up with school work is torture for the student who lacks good study skills or a solid foundation in any basic subject.

What's a parent to do? First, find out exactly why your child isn't doing as well in school as you'd like. We can help you.

We'll give your child a comprehensive computer analysis. It's like an educational X-ray that pinpoints what his problems and deficiencies really are.

Then we can help correct his scholastic troubles with our proven combination of individual programmed instruction and electronic tutoring. We're America's largest system of programmed learning centers.

In a surprisingly short time our students get better grades . . . read faster and understand more . . . learn good study skills, so they breeze through homework. So can your child. For a fraction of the cost of a private tutor.

Learn how we can help your child, from grade school through college—just come in or call.

'E Day' is coming April 6th when Braves open 1973 season

April 6 is "E Day" for the Atlanta Braves. . "E" as in Eddie, as in Eddie Robinson and Eddie Mathews.

It is the day that the Braves start the 1973 season against the Houston Astros and the day that all the pieces of the Braves team that Robinson and Mathews have been building over the winter will begin to fall into place.

Robinson, vice president of baseball operations, and Mathews, field manager, are both about to enter their first full season as the "dynamic duo" that is shaping the future of the Braves. Both quickly proved this past off-season that they are not content to sit back and watch their team lose.

Who are these men out to prove that the Braves truly do mean business?

Robinson is a veteran of 14 big league seasons as a player and has served key roles in the minor league systems of the Orioles, Astros, A's and Braves. The list of players who were brought up through Robinson's farm systems include Boog Powell, Brooks Robinson, Ron Hansen, Jerry Adair, Dave McNally, Larry Dierker, Jim Wynn, Joe Morgan, Doug Rader, Don Wilson, Norm Miller, Nate Colbert, Rusty Staub, Sal Bando, Joe Rudi, Dave Duncan, Reggie Jackson, Gene Tenace, Vida Blue, Blue Moon Odom, Rick Monday, Ralph Garr, Dusty Baker, Darrell Evans, Ron Schueler and Jimmy Freeman.

As the new man in charge of the Braves major league club, he has already obtained Joe Hoerner, Andy Thornton, Denny McLain, Tom Phoebus, Jim Panther, Gary Gentry, Danny Frisella, Dave Johnson, Pat Dobson, Johnny Oates, Rorie Harrison and Carl Morton in trades.

The good neighbor.

Co. A wins 43rd Eng. bowling

A Company of the 43rd Engr. Bn. virtually dominated the winter league bowling in battalion competition. Led by team co-captains CWO Boveird and SSG Robey, the company team rolled one of their most explosive games on March 6th with a complete sweep.

With one week left in bowling competition, the remaining teams are battling it out for runnerup positions. Summer league play will commence upon completion of the winter league. All interested players are urged to participate.

The Marina is well-bred because it comes from an exceptionally well-bred family of cars. The result being that the Marina has rack and pinion steering like the Jaguar's. ROD AND GUN CLUB Notes

BY BILL KLOEB

Tomorrow is the last day your 1972-73 Georgia Hunting and Fishing License, Post Hunting and Fishing Permit and Rod and Gun Club Membership will be in effect.

If you want to fish or hunt in Georgia after midnight tomorrow you will need a new hunting or fishing license. If you intend to hunt or fish on post you will need a new Post Hunting and Fishing Permit. If you want to get maximum enjoyment from these activities you should be a member of the Rod and Gun Club.

Last year the Rod and Gun Club was the focal point for outdoor activities of more than 4,000 men, women and children at Fort Benning.

The clubhouse, located on First Division Road in the Harmony Church area, provides a relaxed and rustic setting for reliving exciting moments of a hunting or fishing trip. Here members relax while they recall the details about the large buck they didn't get or the big bass that got away. Mounted deer heads, turkeys, ducks, various species of fish and rattlesnake skins decorating the club walls offer lasting proof of successful trips to the woods and waters of the reservation.

Members of the club enjoy numerous conveniences that make outdoor recreation more enjoyable. The lounge is a handy place to pick up a quick sandwich or hot meal before taking to the fields and a good place to relax over a cool drink at the end of the day.

Membership is open to active duty and retired military personnel, civilian government employes working at Fort Benning or who retired while working at Fort Benning and their dependents. Civilians not eligible for a regular membership may obtain a limited membership. The limited membership entitles the member to participate in all activities related to the trap and skeet ranges, archery ranges and the clubhouse. Additional information concerning membership may be obtained by calling Tom McCullough at 545-6098.

The club sales outlet stocks all types of fishing bait and accessories, shotgun shells and other hunting equipment and has a rental service that allows members to go first class with a minimum expenditure of money.

Members may rent club owned boats located on most of the reservation ponds. Car top boat carriers are also available for fishermen who want to fish a pond that has no boats. Boat paddles, electric trolling motors, batteries and life preservers are also available on a rental basis.

The club operates four skeet ranges, a trap range and two field archery ranges. Local, sectional and state shoots have been held on these ranges. The 1973 Georgia State Archery championships will be held there in June and July.

The club sponsors various types of hunting and fishing contests for members. Each year big deer hunting contests are held. The club also sponsors a monthly fishing contest. Prizes are awarded for the largest bass, bream, and catfish. Fishing derbies are held over the weekends of various holidays. Turkey shoots, ham shoots and swap days are some of the other activities available to members.

The club has several activities and events coming up in the near future. On April 21 and 22 the club will sponsor a National Skeet Shooters Association sanctioned skeet shoot. The shoot will be open to all members of the national association. Skeet clinics for beginners are also planned for next month. The archery group is planning a local match to be held before the state championships in June. The big event for most members will be the Labor Day Weekend Fishing Derby. This event will take three days from May 26 through 28. Prizes will be awarded for bass, catfish and bream catches. The club has allocated $400 for prizes in this event.

The club does more than enhance outdoor recreation for members. Members actively participate in conservation and ecology programs to improve the fish the reservation. Last year the club contributed more than $8,000 toward the Fish and Wildlife program.

The Rod and Gun Club is the post agency for the sale of state hunting and fishing licenses and issue of the post hunting and fishing permits.

Membership fees are $5 for regular members, $1 for dependents of members and $8 for limited membership. The membership year coincides with the time period of the Georgia State Hunting and Fishing licenses and the Post Hunting and Fishing Permits which are in effect from April 1 to March 1 of the following year.

The 1973-74 Rod and Gun Club Membership Cards, Post Hunting and Fishing Permits and Georgia State Hunting and Fishing Licenses are available now.

The center ring of most marksmanship targets has an X for the purpose of breaking ties in shooting scores. On Sgt. Frank A. Rectenwald's modified target, a dollar sign with an M and a 10 decorate the bullseye. The 10 M $ represented the $10,000, which the young infantryman received recently when he reenlisted at the U. S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit for six years. Rectenwald's boss, SGM Lester E. Kapelka of the MTU presented the young shooter with the $10,000 bogus check after he hit the the max amount.

Airborne Dept. remains unbeaten

The Airborne Dept. extended their unbeaten streak to six games by crunching 85th Co. in TSB volleyball league play on March 23d.

The Airborne Dept. blasted 85th Co. in the first game 15-1. 85th Co. tried to come back in the second game, but was shot down 15-8 by the high-flying Airborne team.

IOAC 2-73 also remained unbeaten by dumping IOAC 4-73 by a score of 15-4 and 15-8. IOAC 2-73 stays a game behind the Airborne Dept. with a 5-0 record.

IOAC 4-73 is still in contention for the league title as it spots a 4-1 record.

After these three teams the rest of the field is grouped together, all fighting for a spot in the playoffs for the Post championship.

These are the TSB standings as of March 23d.

Archery

Old sport quickly becoming Fort Benning's most popular

By Pete Foreman

Are crossed arrows really replacing the crossed rifles as the insignia of the infantry? Of course not. Nevertheless, the popularity of archery at Fort Benning, the home of the infantry, is growing each week.

Some people may be surprised, especially fans of modern American war movies, that Benning trains soldiers on weapons which have been around since antiquity. But, along with learning how to use automatic rifles, machine guns, grenade launchers, and mortars, soldiers are also taught to use knives, clubs, hands, and feet on Fort Benning ranges.

Fort Benning even has a sophisticated range for the bow and arrow.

This archery range is located at the post's Rod and Gun Club, close to the intersection of 1st Division Road and Route 27.

Unlike the policy in effect for most ranges and weapons, however, the archery range is open for any soldier, military dependent, or civilian to use. A person need only join Benning's Rod and Gun Club. Each weekend more military and civilian persons are seen taking advantage of this policy and are training with the bow and arrow.

One reason for archery's popularity at Benning may be the quality of the range itself. It is the only five-star rated field range in Georgia.

"Archery ranges are rated in stars by the National Field Archery Association," explained George D. Drake, vice-president of the Rod and Gun Club's Archery Section." Five stars is the highest rating a range can get.

"Benning's range won the five-star rating," he said, "because it has such facilities as, sheltered targets, benches, running water, latrines, electricity, lights, a spectator range, an indoor range, a sand berm for shooting broadheads (hunting arrows), camping facilities, club house facilities, and a regulation field course."

The range has been selected for this year's Georgia State Field Archery Championship Tournament. A pre-state shoot is scheduled for June 2nd and 3rd. The championship competition will be held July 14th and 15th.

These tournaments will bring the best archers in Georgia to Fort Benning this summer to practice on the range and then to shoot in the tournaments. Nevertheless, Drake and other members of the Archery Section would like to see the range used even more than it is by the residents of Columbus, Phenix City and Fort Benning.

"I'm afraid a lot of people think the big sand berm beside the Rod and Gun Club lodge is the only archery facility we have," he said. "They don't know we have other extensive archery facilities like the field course that starts about a hundred yards away on the opposite side of the club house."

The field archery course consists of 28 targets set in wooded, hilly terrain, simulating natural hunting conditions. Shooting distances to each target varies from seven yards to 85 yards. The archer shoots downhill sometimes, uphill sometimes, and on level ground sometimes. At all times he shoots between trees or narrowly cleared lanes.

The first field course was built in the 1930s to give realistic practice to bow hunters. Field archery caught on as a sport, however, and spread throughout the country.

Fort Benning's field range was built in 1969 by Gene S. Stalcup. Now a retired major, Stalcup is the president of the Rod and Gun Club's Archery Section.

"Ever since we first built the range we have been remodeling and rebuilding it," said Stalcup. "Benning joined the National Field Archers Association around 1967 and the range got a four-star rating then. Just recently we were awarded five stars."

Stalcup, who was an expert rifleman while on active duty and assigned to Army's marksmanship unit, has been in archery for over 16 years. He took up the sport originally to hunt.

"Bow hunters get into the woods 30 days before gun hunters," he said. "They don't get shot; the deer aren't as lively; and the weather is warmer.

"After the hunting season was over, however, I found that I couldn't put the bow down. That got me started on shooting all year around."

If there is a second reason for the popularity of archery at Fort Benning, it is probably because of the quality of active archers such as Stalcup.

Although every member of the Rod and Gun Club is automatically a member of the Archery Section, not all members are active archers. Of those who are active archers, however, a surprising number are top tournament archers. They can give outstanding help to the beginning archer. Many beginners have found this out.

Stalcup has won a number of tournament trophies in his career and probably has more archery experience than anyone else in the club. As he states it, "I probably know more mistakes that an archer can make than anyone else in the club."

He and the other archers are willing, almost eager, to share their know-how with anyone interested in the sport.

Drake has a room full of trophies from different tournaments all over the South. He still holds the scoring record at the Americus range in free style archery. He has helped more people get started in field archery than he or anyone else can recall.

Robert J. Gunn, the Archery Section's secretary-treasury, is the present state champion in Georgia. He won first place in both target and bowhunter competition in last year's state field tournament.

Recently, five young members of the Archery Section won prizes in the Georgia State Indoor Tournament at Hartwell. Also, many members of the club have brought down deer and other game with the bow and arrow. A deer is a trophy that most archers covet. Some practice on the field course, not to compete, but only to improve their hunting skills.

A third reason for the growth in archery on post is Fort Benning's newest explorer post (No. 690). Established last September, the post is for young men and women 15 to 20 years old who are interested in archery and related outdoor activities, such as, canoeing, hunting and camping.

"I really expect this post to grow," commented Col. (ret.) Dale M. Ligget, the Exploring Executive for the Columbus area. "It has a lot of fine young members who are really interested in archery."

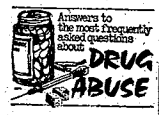
The post meets at 2 p.m. every second Saturday and fourth Sunday of each month at the Rod and Gun Club. Liggett, himself an archery buff, can be seen at some of these meetings launching arrows at field targets along with the rest of the explorers.

A short while ago a retired sergeant, Carl J. Pritchett, switched from rifle shooting to field archery. Since then hardly a weekend has gone by that he has not been out on the range.

"I shot a rifle for years", he said, "but it got to costing too much. To fire the rifle course just once took five boxes of match ammunition. At $12 a box I was spending $60 every time I fired the course.

"One day I decided to check out archery by finding someone who could teach me to use the bow and arrow correctly. I found George Drake here at the Rod and Gun Club and he got me shooting respectable scores in only two days."

Pritchett said he only spent about $36 for a decent bow, $12 for a quiver, finger tabs, an arm guard, and a bow stringer, and $12 for six top grade arrows to get started.



"I haven't spent any more money on equipment but I've done a lot of shooting," said Pritchett. "A lot of people think archery is too expensive. But it's not like rifle shooting or even like skeet and trap, where you drop three to five dollars every time you go around the course. Once you pay for the initial outlay, you have no more expense."

Pritchett recommends a $30-$40 bow for the beginner. A bow for that price will be good enough to learn properly on, but it won't cost too much in case he doesn't keep up with the sport. Also, he can sell the bow to another newcomer when he is ready to buy a better bow.

Members of the Archery Section will gladly help anyone select the right size and type of equipment.

Drake generally recommends a 35 pound bow for beginning men and a 28 pound bow for beginning women. He explained that the Archery Manufacturers Organization (AMO) measure the weight of bows by the pounds needed to pull back the bow string 28 inches.

"The beginner must work on form," he said. "A light bow is best for this. Also, the bow should be at least 60 inches long. The longer the bow the smoother will be the pull."

"$8,000 helped."

Sergeant Roy Smith was going for more than the bonus when he reenlisted.

"The $8,000 helped. But part of my reason for staying in the Army is I can get the rest of my college credits for a degree. I've got 2 years in already.

"I enjoy the job I'm doing now as a drill sergeant. But I'd also like to try military intelligence. And eventually get to go to OCS.

"It's all there. It's completely up to me and my qualifications for it."

Sergeant Smith views the Army as one big opportunity for a guy who wants to get ahead.

There are job and educational opportunities. In advanced electronics. Cryptography. Foreign languages. Data processing.

Communications. Traffic analysis. And lots more.

And travel opportunities. In Europe. Korea. Hawaii. Alaska. Panama. And the time to enjoy it. To live it. In a way no tourist ever could.

And the opportunity to save money on all the everyday things.

Like free housing. Free dental and medical care. Commissary and post exchange privileges. Low-cost life insurance.

It's all here. It's up to you.

Your Army Career Counselor has a whole book of job, duty station and training opportunities just waiting for you. He'll give you lots of reasons for staying in.

Sergeant Smith has good reasons for staying in.

Why are you staying in?

The Student Brigade builds a better soldier

An oncoming World War and the need for an efficient well-trained Army were the reasons why The School Brigade was born.

Before 1940 all administration and instruction of troops was handled by the Infantry School. With war in Europe about to break out and the American Army swelling, the School could no longer direct academics and administer the students at the same time.

In 1940 three training battalions were combined under the command of the School to form the Student Training Regiment.

In 1941 junior officers were scarce. West Point and the ROTC programs couldn't meet the demand. To solve the problems the first Officer Candidate program (OCS) began in July of 1941. By 1942 the Department of the Army directed the School to train 14,400 candidates in one quarter. When the OCS program was deactivated in 1947 it had commissioned 66,141 second lieutenants.

The Korean war caused the OCS Program to become active once again, this new type of war for Americans caused a greater demand for Commandos, so the Ranger program was enlarged.

In 1959 The School Brigade's name was changed to the Student Brigade, but its mission remained basically the same.

In the sixties new things were happening to the Army, the Vietnam conflict was expanding. The OCS program was again expanded and the noncommissioned officer candidate program was started due to the demand for Junior Officers and Junior NCO's in Vietnam. These two schools formed the Candidate Brigade. In two years it produced over 10,000 2nd Lieutenants and 17,000 Junior NCO's. In October 1970 The Candidate Brigade was merged back into The School Brigade.

Since its inception in 1940 The School Brigade has been the backbone of the Army's Training Center.

Col. Goodsen takes over TSB

Col. A. G. Norris relinquished command of The School Brigade to Col. Allen M. Goodsen March 30, in a ceremony on York Field.

Col. Norris took command of TSB on Aug. 17, 1971. Many changes in the operation and organization of the brigade have taken place under his direction. He moved the Airborne training companies out of their old wooden barracks into modern, concrete ones.

He supervised the reorganization of the Noncommissioned Officer Candidate System to the Noncommissioned Officer Educational System. Col. Norris set up varied programs in Officer Candidate School to insure the quality of the graduating candidate and the tactical officers who trained them. He established a quality control office to monitor the progress and effectiveness of the OCS program.

In community relations Col. Norris has been constantly active. He sponsored key parts of the Fort Benning Fourth of July Carnival, and raised $40,000 to help support the post's youth dental health and welfare program. He serves as chairman of the Fort Benning District Chattahoochee Boy Scout Council No. 91. In this capacity he was responsible for 42 scout units totaling approximately 1,500 scouts.

Col. Norris has served as Commander of the 2nd Bn. 22d Inf. 25th INF. Div., and as Executive Officer of the Infantry Board, ODP, in Washington, D. C. He now leaves TSB to take Chief of the Test Division, U. S. Army Infantry Board, Fort Benning, Ga.

Col. Goodsen comes to TSB from an assignment to the Presidential Inaugural Committee. He was last assigned to Fort Benning from Jan. 7, 1957 to Feb. 1, 1960 as an instructor in the Nuclear Weapons Committee, Special Subjects Dept., USAIS. His past assignments include command of the 2d Bn., 45st Inf. 2d ADF at Ft. Hood Texas, and Deputy Director of Legislative Liaison, Washington, D. C.

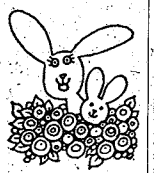
Col. Goodsen is a 1950 graduate of the University of Florida, and has a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Political Science. He has attended several schools for Atomic and Nuclear Weapons training, and holds both the basic and jumpmaster parachute badges. His awards include the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star Medal and the Combat Infantry Badge.

AER and ASF make 12% of goal

The initial reports from the campaign office indicate that the 1973 Joint Army Emergency Relief and Army Relief Society Fund campaign has collected $2,447.23.

This is slightly more than 12 per cent of the $20,000 goal.

Five of the 25 elements or units organized for this drive have already exceeded their assigned goals.



Although this report reflects an increase over what was collected last year in a similar time frame, commanders and unit project officers are being urged to expedite the campaign collections. The campaign is scheduled to end April 16.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
by Bill King

For homemade nut butter, blend unsalted peanuts, cashews or almonds, a half cut at a time, with 1 or 2 tablespoons of oil (just enough to reach the desired consistency). Add a dash of salt and a speck of sugar to taste.

Does your plastic wrap stick to itself when you try to unroll it? Try keeping it in the refrigerator.

A tiny dash of caraway seeds added to liver or kidneys before sauteing will lend a nice flavor.

When making baked custard, put a marshmallow into each custard cup before pouring in the mixture. The kids will love this surprise ending!

According to the Greek historian Herodotus, lettuce was a feature at royal dinners more than 2,500 years ago.

Thruway Air Adjustable
SHOCK ABSORBERS

Level up that overloaded car or camper with a set of these. Just add air to raise sagging rear ends, improve steering and braking, stop sideway and fishtailing and gives you maximum safety and comfort.

- SMOOTH, SUPER-HARDENED ½" DIAMETER SHAFT means less friction, longer service life.
- FOUR-COIL SPRING with flat top coil gives uniform traction on seal at all temperatures.
- LARGER PISTON-big 1 3/16" size with precision valving for smoother ride, maximum car control
- ALL-WEATHER FLUID assures instant shock action from 50 below to 350 above zero
- SPECIAL RESERVOIR VALVING measures fluid flow for uniform, smooth ride under all load and road conditions.
- LARGER VOLUME-same lifting capacity at lower working pressure means longer service life.
- STAKED AIR SPRING-sealing the rubber sleeve internally at both ends stops air loss and prevents damage to the sleeve.
- NEOPRENE SLEEVE-Fabric reinforced neoprene rubber for long life.

PREMIUM HEAVY DUTY
SHOCK ABSORBERS
SHOCK ABSORBERS WEAR OUT-usually at about 20,000 miles. And worn shocks cause excessive tire wear, rough riding, dangerous swaying and erratic braking. Thruway shock absorbers are deigned for super safety and comfort on madern superhighways, prevent bottoming and rocking, give you positive steering and sure braking. For safety's sake, if shock absorbers are more than 20,000 miles old, replace them with new Thruways today.

- RUGGED UPPER MOUNTS for assured strength and service under toughest driving conditions
- MULTI-LIP SEAL Specially compounded for tuf, 360 shaft wiping to keep fluid in for longer service life.
- TOUGH, HEAVY DUTY WALLS resist damage from flying stones for longer life
- 1 3/16" MICRO SMOOTH CYLINDER micro-Jet honed for perfect piston fit—prevents blow-by, reduces wear and prolongs service life.
- TRIPPLE-WELDED LOWER MOUNT additional welds provide maximum protection against power breakage

Whatja wanta Know? ask the BAYONET

CALL 545-4792

Have a question or a problem? Send your question to: Ask The Bayonet, USAIC Information Office (Rm. 602, Bldg. 4), Fort Benning, Ga. 31905. Or call the above number. The Bayonet will get you an answer.

Uncle Sam says, "It's a rumor."

Dear Bayonet,

I've heard that now that the war is over, it's possible to get out of the Army as much as a year early. Is this true or just another GI rumor? F.M.

Dear F.M.

Sorry, it's just another GI rumor.

Sioux needed for pow wow

Dear Bayonet,

If there are any Sioux Indians living in the Fort Benning area would they please contact Lt. Marcus Disbrow at 544-2302 during duty hours or 687-1936 after 5 p.m. Thank you. M.L.D.

Dear M.L.D.

Good luck!

Prior service and OCS

Dear Bayonet,

When will application be considered for the new 14-week OCS? What are the chances of my son, who is a new inductee with three years of college and a good OCT score, being accepted the next year? AP.

Dear AP.

Quotas for class 5-73 which reports on 22 April are closed. However, there are still quotas open for students in the IOCS classes that will follow. So, applications are still being accepted for the OCS program, although it has been changed to 14 weeks.

Requirements for an individual applying for the new OCS are that he have a high moral character, that he have a high school education, that he be between 18½ and 32½ years, that he pass prescribed medical and physical tests, that he score 110 on his GT test and 115 on his OCT test, and that he have prior service.

Prior service merely means that an individual be in the Army for a day, so your son, who is a new inductee, has the prior service needed. The significance of this prior service requirement is that a civilian can no longer apply for OCS. Only those who have served in the Army can apply.

In talking with CONARC we have found out that the qualifications of your son sound good, but the local competition for the OCS quotas given to his Army area will determine whether he will be accepted.

Magic show is a ripoff

Dear Reader,

This is an answer to a question you didn't ask. We would also like you to write us about any strange business propositions you may have had in the last few weeks. We may be able to help clear up some of your questions.

Residents of Fort Benning beware! There are two companies in the Fort Benning-Columbus area who are selling tickets for a carnival show and a magic show.

According to the Columbus Better Business Bureau, these companies will call you and ask you to buy tickets for $1 a piece for either a magic show or a carnival with proceeds going to a civic or charity organization.

These companies will put on the show alright, but the named organization receives a very small part of the contribution which is arranged before telephone solicitation begins.

These companies in many cases sell 5000-6000 more tickets than they have for the show.

Some people have bought $150 worth of tickets thinking that all the proceeds go to the named organizations, which it doesn't.

The best way to deal with these and other companies is to contact the Columbus Better Business Bureau, 327-2671, to check on the reliability of the companies.

AUSA dues go up to $10 starting July 1

NOTICE: AUSA dues increase goes in effect on July 1. $7.50 annual dues will increase to $10.00. Three year membership increases from present rate of $20.00 to $26.00.

QUESTION: My membership expires in November 1973. Can I renew it now, or before July 1, to take advantage of the lower rates?

ANSWER: Yes. The same is true for any membership that expires within one year of the increase. This means if you presently have a three year membership that expires in 1975, you cannot renew it at the present rates by applying now.

At 3 a.m., a desolate and deserted Kelley Hill looks peaceful enough, but the Kelley Hill Guard continues to maintain their ever watchful surveillance. (Photo by Rick Wasser).

Guard Duty

Soldiers looking out for their buddies

The Kelley Hill Guard is unique from most post guard duties. Soldiers who are assigned to the week-long post do not consider it a duty, rather an obligation to fellow soldiers.

Soldiers feel obligated because they know that the next week could have the roles reversed. "The soldiers on guard look out for their buddies' welfare and belongings, because the next week he has to depend on his buddy to do the same," said one officer of the guard.

The soldiers in the 197th can sleep easier knowing that their vehicles (POV's) in the parking lot are under constant surveillance and that when they come home late at night they are reasonably safe from muggings.

The statistics prove the effectiveness of the guard. Larcenies alone have decreased more than 70 per cent since the guard was started in July of 1970.

The guard is now comprised of three roving patrols, three roadblocks, an officer and sergeant of the guard, and a reaction force. In addition, one man is placed in the Kelley Hill Bowling Alley on weekends to assist the manager in maintaining order.

Each of the factions of the guard has a relief. The roadblocks are posted at each entrance to Kelley Hill. Each has a relief which generally stays out for two hours, checking vehicles for post registration and drivers' I.D. cards.

The roving patrol consists of three jeeps and six men.

There are two shifts and two reliefs for each roving patrol, running from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 a.m. every night of the week.

"The reason for each segment of the guard having a relief," commented an ex-sergeant-of-the-guard, "is to allow everyone a chance to get some sleep. The men are better able to react to a given situation when called upon if they are not tired."

The patrol splits Kelley Hill into thirds. Each patrol, consisting of an NCO and a driver, is assigned an area. It is their duty to provide constant surveillance to that area. In addition, the patrol is required to make a security check of all buildings on its route, insuring that all doors and windows are secure. This is done at thirty minute intervals and a report is radioed to the guardhouse following each check.

The guard patrol also acts as a police unit for the hill in the same respect that the 197th Inf. Bde. courtesy patrol does during the hours of daylight.

Traffic violators and cars with no post registration are stopped and reported to their respective units for correction.

A rare sight on Kelley Hill is the military police from Main Post. While they do make occasional trips, they rely heavily on the Kelley Hill Guard to maintain security. They realize, as do all visitors, that the Kelley Hill Guard is a rather elite corps of men, founded on the principles of devotion to duty, and that the men of the guard carry on the traditions of the 197th Inf. Bde., by continuing to strive "forever forward."

Rusin becomes protocol officer

Capt. Jo Rusin has come all the way from commanding the "Kentucky Babes" co-ed drill corps at the University of Kntucky to becoming Benning's first female protocol officer.

About her job, Jo says, "I thoroughly enjoy meeting people and the fact that the job is always changing." As a protocol officer, Jo handles the visits of foreign as well as American VIPs, in both small and large groups.

Although the foreign tours are somewhat difficult due to differing customs and language harriers, Jo says she enjoys them the most. "There is so much to learn about other nations that I often wish I spoke half a dozen or more languages."

The 25-year-old Mississippi native has black hair, brown eyes, and stands a trim 5'6½". After earning her B.A. degree in physical education and recreation from Kentucky, she entered the Army in May, 1969.

Jo states that her interest in the Army stemmed from her contact with Army ROTC at the University of Kentucky. "I liked what I had seen of the Army and felt that it offered a great variety of challenging job opportunities, particularly for women," she says.

Any WAC officer this attractive and talented would be an asset to today's modern Army.

Unit of choice enlistees in 90-day training program

More than 30 unit-of-choice enlistees are in a 90-day training program in the 197th Infantry Brigade, leading to their qualification as field wiremen in the Military Occupational Specialty 36K10.

The men, who were guaranteed a 16-month tour of duty with the 197th Brigade as well as training in the 36K10 MOS, have been assigned to the unit's Headquarters and Headquarters Company Communications Platoon. Most of them will remain with the unit after their advanced individual training (AIT) course.

Working under the tutelage of SSgt. Lowell Nicholson, the students have received instruction in types of communications wire and how to lay it in the field, tying and splicing methods and arranging overhead wire.

In addition, their program includes procedures for establishing and maintaining radio communications, security precautions, operating field telephones, installing and operating field switchboards and performing minor repairs on equipment which fails to operate.

Recently the students participated in some of the most physically demanding training of their course-climbing poles to set up overhead wiring.

2nd Lt. Kevin Carter, platoon leader of the communications section, commented after observing a variety of instruction, "Judging from the effort and teamwork exhibited by these students and the quality of the instruction presented to them, they will be well qualified to assume their duties as field wiremen when they complete the course."

PFC specializes in help

Concerned citizens can help a great deal in many ways to improve the conditions of their cities. PFC Clinton Middleton of HHD 67th Maintenance Bn. has found a way to help others while at the same time, enjoy himself doing it.

Middleton is the operator of a private radio station. Station KEW-8725 which he operates is not a rock station; in fact no music is broadcast at all. The average person will never hear KEW-8725 for it does not broadcast on the commercial wavelengths. It is a citizens band radio (CB radio) which is authorized for emergency use.

Middleton has been working with radios for over eight years and has invested about 600 dollars in his hobby. The backbone of his system is a CB radio which can be used in his barracks room or can be placed in his car. This radio has a transmitting range of 150 miles.

Middleton said "Anytime I'm out driving and see someone who needs help, I try to give them a hand."

On one occasion PFC Middleton was following a semi-trailer truck when it skidded off the road and overturned. Middleton said he was "able to reach the driver and pull him clear of the truck before it burst into flames." Emergency aid was summoned on the CB radio in the car and the truck driver's life was saved.

As a member of the Affiliated League of Emergency Radio Teams here at Fort Benning, he is one of many across the United States who provide this needed and timely service.

SOUND OFF!

When you attended the AUSA convention in Washington, D.C., what impressed you the most about the convention?

AUSA, not a closed military club

Capt. Tom Curtin
Headquarters, TSB

"I was impressed by the number of enlisted men and women and civilians that participated in the convention. I found that AUSA is not a closed military club, but a group of concerned individuals with a genuine interest in our nation's security. I hope the young soldiers' interest in AUSA will continue both in the remainder of their active duty tours and long into their civilian careers. This association perpetuates, the idea of a concerned citizen who is willing to protect this country's freedom."

Spt Carol A. McKinney
Hq. Co. Hq Cmd., USAIC

"The night of the big dinner. It was the culmination of all the activities. Bob. Hope was there and was given the George Catlett Marshall award.

"The dinner was formal eveyone you had met was there, and it was just the atmosphere, I guess."

Spt Saisy M. Jackson
D. Co. Hq. Cmd., USAIC

"Meeting people actually was the most worthwhile part. There were a lot of people you would have liked to met, but never before had the opportunity. The convention as a whole was interesting because it was different." Specialist Jackson enjoyed the time spent in Washington, and thinks that the WACs should send different representatives every year to get their own impressions of the Army and its aims.

Capt. Michael B. Nelson
D. Co., Hq. Cmd., USAIC

"I think there are several. As an infantryman, I was interested in weapons; the new replacement for the M-16 for instance. There is quite a difference in weight for the individual soldier.

"All system such as communications, vehicles, radio, and aircraft are going to light weight computerized and transistorized systems. Computers are doing so much more now."

SPEED

Kills, kills, kills . . .

A moving blur appearing before your eyes is your only warning. Your instant reaction is to slam your foot on the brake pedal as hard as you possibly can in a panic stop. At the same instant your heart starts pounding wildly and you break out in a sweat. You say to yourself, "Oh my God, did I hit him? What have I done?"

Your car is stopped. You still do not know if you have struck the child. You nervously fumble for the door handle, pull on it and push the door open. You find that your knees are trembling and that your nervousness has weakened your entire body. The simple act of rising to the standing position is most difficult. Slowly you rise and shakily start to the front of your car.

This scene is actually enacted many times daily throughout our country. Many times the child is just bruised and scared. All too often the results are tragic and the parents grieve their loss for many years.

Many children are killed each year in traffic accidents near their homes and schools. Many times the blur might be in your path one day. At a reduced speed traveling over the posted speed limit. Even at reduced speeds of 15-20 MPH a driver must exercise instant reflexes to avoid hitting a child who darts into the path of his vehicle with little or no warning. Speeding in housing areas further complicates the problem.

While it is agreed that children should be under parental control at all times, there are those occasions when children do run loose. There isn't an adult living who at one time or another as a small child did not stray from parental control. Children will stray.

The maximum speed limit in the housing areas on post is 20 MPH. In some areas the maximum speed limit is 15 MPH. Radar checks have revealed many persons exceeding the speed limits by 15 and 20 MPH.

No one wants the death of another person on his conscience. Obey the speed limits and be particularly alert and careful in the housing areas. That moving blur might be in your path one day. At a reduced speed

Love thy neighbor

197th seminars take on biblical viewpoint

BY ROBERT THOMAS

"Love."

That is the single word Capt. Lacy Tyler, race relations officer in the 197th Inf. Bde., used to describe his program.

"I approach race relations from the biblical viewpoint," Tyler stated. "Love thy neighbor."

The present race relations program in the 197th had its beginning in late 1969. Since then it has undergone a number of significant changes, the latest of which occured in October 1972. It was at that time that the Department of Deffense and the Department of Army initiated a more formalized race relations and equal opportunity program. It is under the four major phases of this program — orientation, education, indoctrination and rehabilitation — that Tyler now operates.

"The seminar was, at one time, the heart of the program," Tyler said. Race relations seminars are still one of the main mediums used in reaching the individual soldier. They have created what Tyler calls a "willingness to discuss."

"I think the seminars have created a somewhat healthier climate here in the brigade." Tyler said. However he cautioned that the main problem encountered in seminars is that people often say what they think others want to hear, rather than what they really feel. He said that success in the seminars program depends upon getting the participants to reveal themselves and their feelings.

A number of projects have been initiated to cover one or a number of the four phases of the program. Among the milestones established, Tyler cited one as being the most important to him, a collection of discussions initiated with ROTC students at Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga.

"The talks were designed to attract more minority group officers into the service by explaining the opportunities and some of the intricacies of a military career," Tyler stated.

As a result of an effort to establish better relations with the Columbus community, Tyler started a counseling and Big Brother Program with the Muscogee schools. This program has been of particular success, offering the soldier a chance to improve race relatinns not only between fellow soldiers, but with the civilian community as well.

Tyler's assistant, 2nd Lt. Marcus Disbrow, has been working mainly within the educational part of the program.

AUSA Insurance

Life and health plans a good supplement for your insurance

With the rising costs of living, the price of doctor bills and hospital bills has almost tripled from what it was a few years ago. The Association of the United States Army (AUSA) is doing something to help its members with those bills if they arise. AUSA offers three types of insurance policies for the service man on active duty or retired.

The policies include long-term disability insurance, the AUSA life insurance plan and mastercare, a three way group health insurance program.

Disability Insurance

Long-term disability insurance offers worldwide coverage to all AUSA members from ages 18 to 60, living in the United States or Canada. If the insured member is disabled in anyway, he is entitled to $200.00 a month tax free after a period of 30 days disability. The amount will not be reduced if the member is covered by other insurance policies. This does not cover injury or sickness as a result of war service outside the home area or self-inflicted wounds while sane or insane. It also excludes pregancy, childbirth, miscarriage and assault or felony.

Life Insurance

The second type is the AUSA life insurance plan. This plan offers low-cost, worldwide coverage for the service man whether on active duty or retired and his family.

He is able to insure his wife and children with just one premium. The sponsor is eligible for 10,000 life insurance, $2,000 for his wife and $1,000 for each of his children. The policy will pay benefits regardless of the policies held, and it does not decrease with age as do other policies.

It not only covers the service man while he is in the service, but after he returns to civilian life. This plan cannot be canceled by the company as long as the premiums are paid and the member remains in the AUSA program.

The third plan is the Mastercare policy. It consists of three separate plans: the hospital plan, the CHAMPUS plan and the Medicare supplement.

The hospital plan is available to AUSA members under 65 years of age, their wives and dependent, unmarried children between ages 14 days and 21 years.

$300 Per Week

It provides either $100, $200 or $300 a week depending on the type of policy held. This is paid directly to the patient from the day he registers in the hospital as an in-patient for a maximum of 52 week. This also covers patients in VA hospitals.

The amount is doubled if the patient is hospitalized with cancer or leukemia.

The CHAMPUS supplement pays 75 per cent of medical charges up to 2 years for each illness, if in a civilian hospital or 45 days for mental or nervous disorders. If in a military hospital, the policy holder is reimbursed for any charge he is obligated to pay. It will also pay 75 per cent of out-patient fees after the annual deductible for $50 or $100 for the entire family is paid.

Mastercare

The Medicare supplement, the third plan under the Mastercase Policy, is available for members of the AUSA over 65 years of age. It is designed to pick up where Social Security and Medicare benefits stop.

Beginning with the 61st to the 90th day of hospitalization, this plan pays $17 a day which offsets the $17 dollar daily charge for which he is liable under Medicare during this time frame.

From the 91st day to the 581st day of hospitalization Medicare hospital benefits end and the AUSA plan pays $50 a day up to $25,000, for each benefit period.

A new benefit period begins each time the beneficiary has not been hospitalized or under intensive care for a period of 60 days or longer.

This plan will also pay 20 per cent of in-hospital surgical fees as well as 20 per cent of medical charges for daily post-operative visits with a limit of one visit each day while in the hospital.

With the aid of AUSA the Army helps take care of its own. It helps take the fear of going into debt due to illness, injury or death, which in turn is good medicine for the patient's speedy recovery.

Answers for some Mastercare inquiries

Does the AUSA MASTERCARE Program cover CHAMPUS outpatient expenses?

Yes. Plan 2, the CHAMPUS supplement, will pay 25 pct. of CHAMPUS allowable outpatient charges for eligible retired persons (CHAMPUS pays 75 pct), and for active-duty dependents, Plan 2, pays the 20 pct. of allowable charges not paid by CHAMPUS, (after the annual deductible of $50 ($100 per family) is satisfied.

What CHAMPUS expenses are NOT covered by MASTERCARE?

(1) Routine physical examinations and immunizations; (2) Custodial care; (3) Dental care (except as required as a necessary adjunct to medical or surgical treatment); (4) Routine care of the newborn, well baby care; (5) eye refraction examinations; (6) prosthetic devices (other than artificial limbs and artificial eyes), hearing aids, orthopedic footwear, eyeglasses and contact lenses; (7) CHAMPUS program for the Handicapped.

Can I pay my quarterly premiums by allotment from my salary?

No. The Government will only permit payment by allotment for life insurance, but not health insurance.

Mastercare cash for the sick

ELIGIBILITY: Dependents under age 21 (23 if in college and dependent on the member for over ½ of support), and spouses of active-duty AUSA members.

In-Patient Cash Benefit: Mastercare pays the $1.75 a day or the $25.00 (whichever is the greater) for the care of an active-duty AUSA member's insured spouse or dependent children for each hospital confinement in a civilian hospital. Military hospital benefit is $1.75 per day.

Out-Patient Cash Benefit: Mastercare reimburses the insured spouse and dependents of active-duty AUSA Members for the 20 per cent of allowable charges not paid for by CHAMPUS, after you satisfy the annual deductible of $50 ($100 per family). May be purchased in conjunction with the CHAMPUS inpatient cash benefit.

Low-Cost Quarterly Premium

	In-patient only	In-patient, Out-patient
Spouse Coverage	$1.30	$5.40
Dependent Coverage per child	.45	$4.50

On retirement of sponsor, this coverage may be automatically converted to the Mastercare CHAMPUS Supplement for spouses and eligible children of retired members, with applicable change in premiums. Thus, coverage will be terminated.

If sponsor is released from active duty and his dependents are no longer eligible under CHAMPUS, this coverage will be terminated.

4th Stu. Bn.

Command left in good hands

Lt. Col. James L. Anderson closed out 19 months in command of the 4th Stu. Bn. on March 16, 1973, when he passed the battalion colors to the new Commander, Maj. Donald E. Lunday. Lt. Col. Anderson will end over 20 years of military service when he retires on March 30.

Lt. Col. Anderson served as Bn. commander for 19 months. During his command he made significant changes to improve the Bn. He consolidated the 41st Co. and HQ and HQ Co. into a single unit, and the Bn. HQ's from three buildings to one. He stressed education to the troops in his command. He worked endlessly to have his soldiers enrolled in at least one military school each year.

In April 1972, Lt. Col. Anderson launched an expedition of 9 men down the Chattahoochee River to the Gulf of Mexico for two weeks of adventure training in survival techniques. This event was publicized by both local and national news media for its character development of the young soldier.

During the Change of Command Ceremony, he was awarded the Legion of Merit 2nd Award.

Lt. Col. Anderson's other awards include Bronze Star Medal, the Air Medal, the Combat Infantry Badge, and the United Nations Service Medal.

Maj. Lunday, the successor to Lt. Col. Anderson has served in the Army for 16 years. Before coming to Fort Benning, he served in Vietnam at the Headquarters of Military Assistance Command, Vietnam.

From the words of Maj. Lunday, "the 4th Stu. Bn. has been left in good hands. "We will continue to assist and support the Airborne Department of the Infantry School in producing the finest soldier in the world, the United States Airborne Trooper."

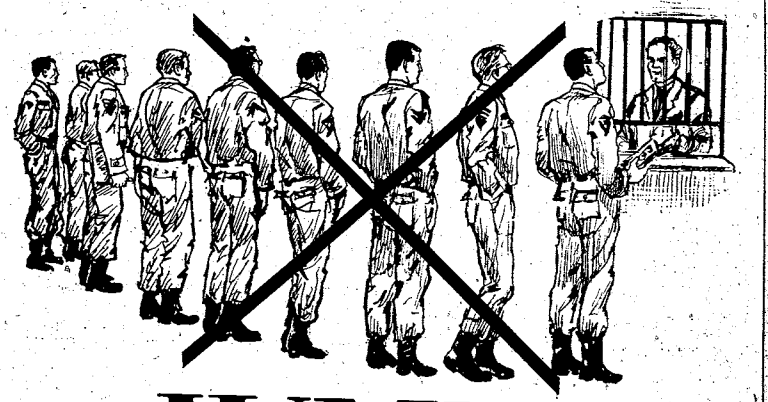
Fort Valley cadets to visit 197th

Thirty-four cadets from the Army ROTC Department, Fort Valley (Ga.) State College, visited the 197th Brigade March 27 as guests of brigade commander Col. William B. Steele.

The visit complemented the 197th Brigade's community relations effort with black civilian groups. The endeavor is conducted under the auspices of the unit's Race Relations-Equal Opportunity program, headed by Capt. Lacy J. Tyler.



Maj. Billy J. Washington, assistant professor of military science at the institution, accompanied the cadets on their trip to the 197th, the last leg of a postwide tour which took them to Lawson Army Air Field, Infantry Hall, Infantry Museum, a look at an Airborne demonstration and a Ranger Dept. briefing.

During their visit to the 197th Brigade, the cadets toured the semi - private rooms in a troop billet in the Harmony Church locale of the 1st Bn., (Mech), 58th Inf. (Patriots). They also saw the Patriots' motor pool in operation and dined in one of the dining facilities in the area.

They concluded their stay at Fort Benning with a stop at the Kelley Hill Service Club where many of the cadets enjoyed a short jam session, using the service club's musical instruments.

well as coffee, finger sandwiches, lime pie, cookies and spice cake.

There were several handmade decorations throughout the room. The table displayed a handmade Easter egg tree.

After refreshments, Mrs. Nathan Vail held the business meeting. The ladies discussed the Dept. function which Leadership Committee is sponsoring in April.

Mrs. Weigand, who is the Dept. Welfare Chairman, enlightened the ladies with some problems with which the Pediatrie Ward at Martin Army Hospital is faced.

The Tour of Homes on April 11, which the Dept. is sponsoring, was also discussed.

197th Brigade

The Spring Luncheon for the ladies of the 197th Brigade was held at the Main Officers' Open Mess Supper Club on Fri., March 23. The sponsoring unit, 2nd Battalion, 10th Field Artillery, chose a Revolutionary theme which was evident in the red, white and blue decor, the special nametags and the colorful printed programs. After an especially delightful lunch, the program was presented by Mrs. Pat Walters, a prominent Columbus decorator and co-owner of the Carraige House. Her remarks were geared to the special needs of the Army wife — decorating small to spacious quarters; selection of window treatments, carpeting and accessories; and where to start in buying furniture. The displayed furniture and the table centerpieces were loaned for the occasion by the Carriage House.

Mrs. Thomas N. Tarpley, wife of Fort Benning's new commanding general, and Mrs. Willard Latham, were special guests of the Brigade. Also attending her first Brigade function was Mrs. William Steele, wife of the new Brigade Commander. Another guest was Mrs. Guy Meloy, a special friend of Mrs. Walters.

Headquarters

The ladies of Headquarters, TSB, met for their monthly coffee March 21, at the home of Mrs. Jimmy Coger, Charing Drive, Columbus. Prior to the business session, Mrs. A. G. Norris was presented a corsage by the hostess.

Plans were made to attend the OWC Tour of Homes in April. Several members volunteered to work at the Thrift Shop, and several volunteered to make Coffee Call at Martin Army Hospital. Mrs. Norris extended a warm welcome to Mrs. Roy F. McMillan, Mrs. Cecil D. Pope and Mrs. John W. Lowe.

Mrs. Norris was presented a dresser set and tray as a farewell gift from the ladies of Headquarters, Col. A. G. Norris is the departing TSB commander.

The hostess invited everyone into the dining room for refreshments of cakes, coffee and tea.

TSB

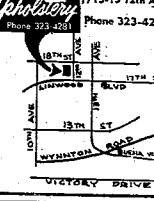
Fifth Battalion

The home of Mrs. Gordon Lepley, Custer Terrace, Fort Benning, was the scene of the monthly coffee for the ladies of the Fifth Battalion on March 21. Hostesses for the coffee were Mesdames Dennis Carrell, Arthur LaBelle, Thomas Suddes and Gordon Lepley. The short business meeting included discussion of the Flea Market on April 7 and the TSB Change of Command ceremony on March 30. An appetizing array of finger sandwiches, sausage rolls, red velvet cake, champagne punch and coffee were enjoyed following the meeting.

Environmental workshop set up

A humanities workshop focusing on the quality of life in a changing society will be held at Columbus College April 25 in Davidson Center from 3:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The workshop will bring together educators and regional humanists to study America's changing society. It will identify the need for "people programs" to provide values, direction, and meaning in today's world.



Featuring Dr. W. T. Blackstone, head of the Department of Philosophy and Religion at the University of Georgia, topic areas to be presented by the college faculty concern racial and ecological considerations as well as factors impacting on personal freedoms.

The program is sponsored by the Georgia Adult Educaton Council, Inc. and the Office of Continuing Education.

Children prone to gum disease

This is an article on dental health published by the Bayonet in cooperation with the Fort Benning Dental Service.

You've described what causes gum disease and how to control it. And, you've said it's really an adult problem. But my 9-year-old has been diagnosed as having gum disease and is undergoing treatment. Are children prone to this too?

Yes, indeed. A majority of children have some form of gum disease and this is an ominous sign, because if it isn't controlled in childhood, adult problems can become insurmountable.

Inflammation of the gum, generally initiated by deposits of bacterial plaque that are not cleaned from tooth surfaces, is called gingivitis. Medically, an "itis" is a swelling or inflammation. Since the gums are technically called gingiva, we arrive at the term, gingivitis.

One of the commonest of childhood gum diseases is Vincent's Infection, or trench mouth. In simplest terms, Vincent's Infection is bacterial in origin and causes gum and other oral soft tissue to become inflamed and swollen. Obviously, if this is left untreated, the gums can become seriously diseased.

Because recent evidence has pointed to bacterial plaque as the villain in both gum disease and decay, dentists have become more alert to the signs of gingivitis in youngsters. And, rather surprisingly, we now know that a major portion of adult gum problems actually originate in childhood, largely as a result of gingivitis — caused by plaque — that has been untreated.

One of the reasons why gum disease is considered an adult disease is because the disease process is quite slow and painless. Thus, many young children and teen-agers who have neglected oral health are unaware that they have diseased gums. By the time they reach the adult years, the gum disease may have made sufficient inroads so as to be uncontrollable and the teeth cannot be supported by the diseased structures.

This is why establishing good home oral hygiene habits at an early age is so important. As soon as children can learn effective cleaning procedures — including brushing and flossing — the more habitual these practices become. And the child who has learned the value of oral health will carry this philosophy into adulthood.

In addition, periodic check-ups by the family dentist mean early diagnosis of such problems as Vincent's Infection and gingivitis, in addition to discovering and treating early cavities. Although it's never too late to begin preventive dental care, it's most effective when it begins in childhood.

Mrs. Thomas N. Tarpley, a special guest, and Mrs. William Steele, wife of the 197th Brigade Commander, enjoy the 197th Brigade Spring Luncheon.

Case aide workers fill important need

A Red Cross Volunteer only works at the hospital, right? Wrong. Though most volunteers can be found working at the hospital, another important role for some is as a case aide in the American Red Cross Field Office on main post.

The volunteer case aide, after attending an eight hour case aide course and completing on-the-job training, is ready to assist military personnel in many ways.

One of the volunteer case aide's jobs is reporting. This usually involves a request from a serviceman's family who has not been in contact with him, to find out his health and welfare. The Red Cross Volunteer then locates the serviceman and reports to his family his well-being.

Another part of a case aide worker's job is to lend financial assistance in time of emergency. A soldier may need to go on emergency leave but have no money to enable him to make the trip. In this case, the volunteer case aide would arrange a loan. Many times military personnel have found their pay records did not arrive at a new post then they did and find themselves short of necessary cash. Here again the Red Cross and a case aide worker can be of assistance.

Finally, a volunteer case aide will find much of her job is lending a sympathetic ear. Counseling and referral is a most important part of case aide work. The volunteer may know that the Red Cross cannot help in a particular situation but she will know someone who can and will refer the person seeking aid to him.

As Mr. Jack Curtis, Assistant Field Director, said, "A case aide worker will never turn anyone away without either helping him, or referring him to someone who can help him."

Festival to be held at Baker

The Seventh Annual Fine Arts Festival, sponsored by the Baker English Club, will be held at Baker High School on April 10, 11 and 12. The festival will open on Tuesday with a movie, "Sometimes a Great Notion," starring Paul Newman and Henry Fonda. On Wednesday night, Columbus College Interpreters and Columbus College Dancers will present a program on the stage, to be followed in the cafeteria by an art exhibit of Baker's students' work. The final night of the festival, the one act play, "Bringing It All Back Home," will be performed by a cast of English Club members. All programs are in the school cafeteria and begin at 7:30. Admission is free to all programs except the movie for which there will be a minimal charge.

Soldiers help completion of city nursing home

BY ROBERT THOMAS

A small group of soldiers from the 72nd Engr. Co., 197th Inf. Bde. made possible the completion of a city operated nursing home in Waverly Hall, Ga., about 30 miles northeast of Fort Benning.

The men utilized two bulldozers and a road grader to landscape the five-acre sight and build a parking lot. The project which began on March 26, took three days to complete.

"We are grateful beyond words," stated Theodore Bowen, Waverly Hall Elementary School Principal and coordinator of the project. "The city had run out of funds and it looked as if the home would never open. Then someone suggested the Army might be able to help."

SSgt. Houston Richardson, NCOIC of the project, praised the five men who worked to finish the parking lot.

"I only wish we could have spent more man-hours here," Richardson said. The project was originally scheduled for only one piece of heavy equipment and one working day. It was Richardson who asked for the extra time and bulldozer to complete the landscaping.

All of the men seemed enthusiastic over the project and impressed similar feelings toward the civic action program.

"Work is a lot more fun when you are doing something like this," Spc Donnie Conner summed up. "You know that people will benefit from this project in a very real way. Soon, elderly people who are now homeless will have a place to live. It makes you feel like you're a part of it."

The good neighbor.

What is it?

Soldiers don't know about Soldier's Council

"I don't know what you're talking about." That is the unfortunate answer given by most people on Fort Benning when asked if they know what the Soldiers Council is. This lack of knowledge works against the junior enlisted man, because the Soldier's Council is set up to work for him.

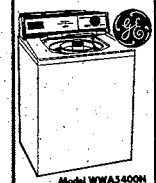
There are actually three levels of Soldier's Councils; one at battalion level, one at brigade level, and one for the entire post. The Fort Benning council is made up of one representative from each of the six major units on post; The School Brigade, 197th Inf. Bde., Headquarters Command, Meddac, Aviation Command, and the 931st Eng. Grp.

The battalion and brigade councils meet to determine the problems facing the lower ranking enlisted men in their respective units. They discuss the problems and possible solutions in their meetings. They then pass along their recommendations to the unit commander. If after a reasonable length of time no reply is made or it cannot be handled at the unit level, it is brought before the Post Soldier's Council.

Spc4 George Korda, of TSB's Information Office is the current President of the Fort Benning Soldiers Council. He says, "The council can be an effective way of communicating to higher authorities the problems and constructive ideas of junior enlisted men, or it can be totally ineffective. The key is the interest and participation we get at the unit level."

After the council makes its recommendations they are reviewed by the Commanding General. They are then passed along to his staff, and if they are feasible they are acted upon.

AUSA Day to be held April 20



It will be "AUSA Day" in Columbus and Phenix City on Friday, April 20, as fifty civilian members call on local businesses to gain new members for the local chapter of the Association of the United States Army.

Joe Windsor, general manager of television station WTVM, is chairman of the 1973 civilian membership drive. Carl Pickering will be in charge of the Phenix City-Russell County portion.

Windsor has stated that "the Army deserves the full support of the civilian community, especially in Columbus and Phenix City." The present membership in the civilian community is 1,300.

Sights and sounds of AUSA

A wooden plaque.

Engraving on a gold plate.

This is the Soldier of the Month Award which is presented by AUSA to the man selected for this honor each month by the major unit commanders.

A similar plaque is presented by AUSA to the leadership award winner in the classes of the Infantry School.

AUSA is out to make sure that the guy who does his everyday job in an outstanding manner gets due recognition.

To make sure the folks back home know about it, they send notices to his home town paper.

The Peach Bowl

Cheerleaders.
Hot dogs.
Bus ride to Atlanta.
Touchdown!

This past fall, a group of Columbus businesses chipped in to buy tickets to the Peach Bowl football game for 30 soldiers.

They asked AUSA to make the arrangements with post officials to select the soldiers. Each major unit was given a portion of the tickets.

It wos a good day. The winners were those soldiers who were selected to go.

The Convention

A plane ticket to Washington, D.C.
Visit the White House.
Meet the "fat cat" VIPs.
Briefings from Army leaders.
Talk to soldiers from all posts.

Every year the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter has sent forty or more soldiers from Fort Benning to the National Convention in Washington, D.C. See the Sound-Off column on page 6 for some comments from those who went last year.

They had a chance to meet the top military leaders as well as Congressmen and Senators on an informal basis.

The Picnic

A hot day.
Cold beer.
Kids running, playing, eating.
The Infantry Center Band.
Rangers in action.
Paratroopers free falling from the sky.

All this and more is the AUSA picnic held for the military and civilian community and enjoyed by people of all ages.

It has been an annual event which has attracted as many as 2000 participants, both soldiers, and civilians, in past years.

The Ball

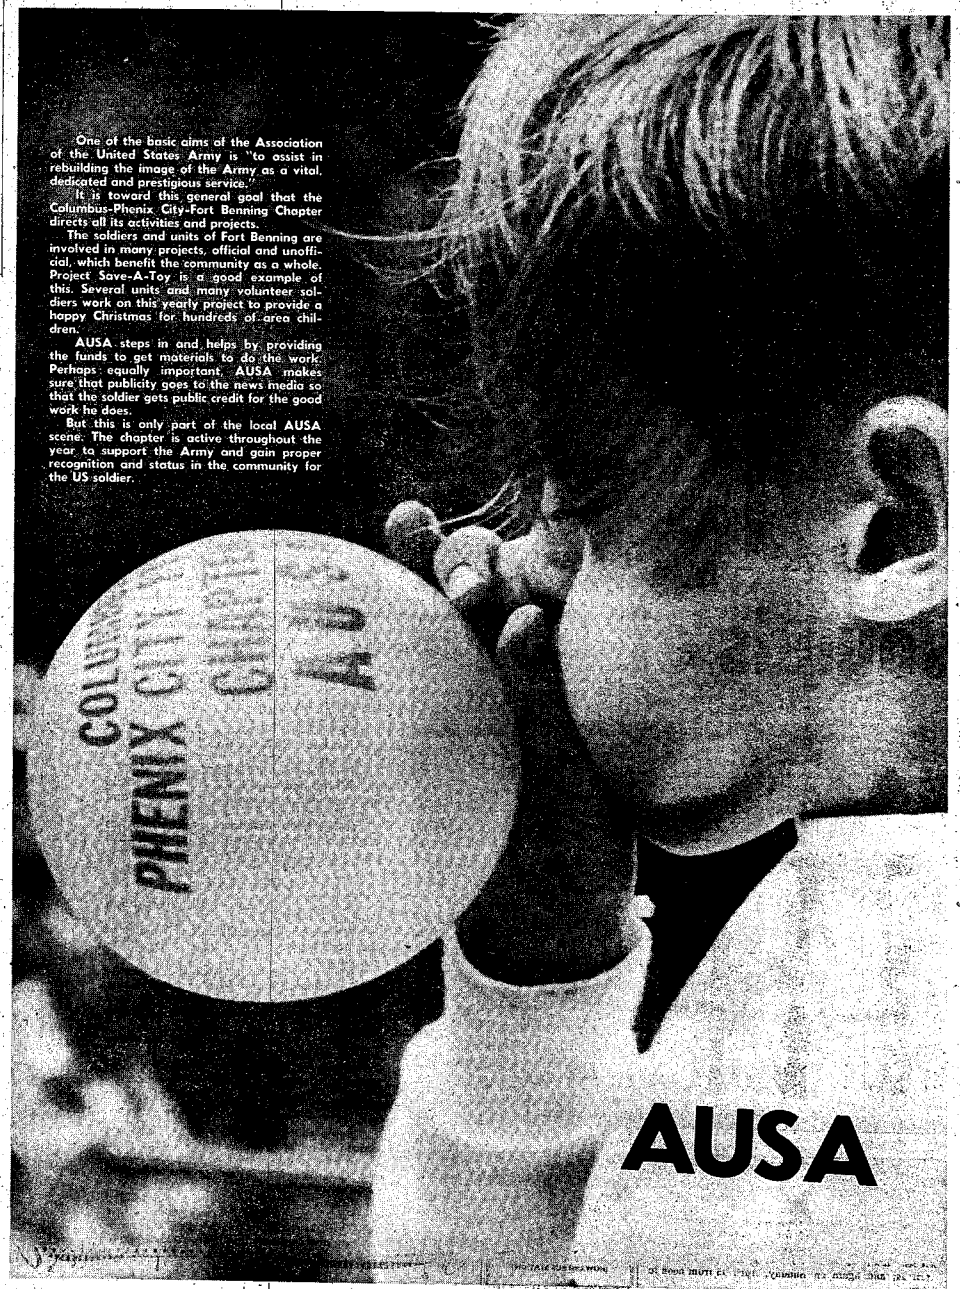
A "strac" drill team of 30 girls strutting their stuff.

A rock band (actually sort of "middle of the road" type).

Dancing.

Dinner (without a long-winded speaker).

The annual George Washington Birthday Ball is an AUSA event which is a good place to bring that special girl you've been dating (or your wife).



And for an evening of dinner and dancing, it's at a pretty fair price.

This year 600 military and 300 civilian members of AUSA enjoyed this big event.

A Good Deal

Some call it "the lifer's lobby." It is not an official lobby group but AUSA does serve as an educational service to keep the public, the Congress and other groups informed about the Army.

Recently AUSA has backed maintaining civilian KPs, keeping Army strength at 900,000, increases in military pay, adequate housing and barracks. Right on, AUSA!

One of the basic aims of the Association of the United States Army is "to assist in rebuilding the image of the Army as a vital, dedicated and prestigious service."

It is toward this general goal that the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning Chapter directs all its activities and projects.

The soldiers and units of Fort Benning are involved in many projects, official and unofficial, which benefit the community as a whole. Project Save-A-Toy is a good example of this. Several units and many volunteer soldiers work on this yearly project to provide a happy Christmas for hundreds of area children.

AUSA steps in and helps by providing the funds to get materials to do the work. Perhaps equally important, AUSA makes sure that publicity goes to the news media so that the soldier gets public credit for the good work he does.

But this is only part of the local AUSA scene. The chapter is active throughout the year to support the Army and gain proper recognition and status in the community for the US soldier.

Spring!

Annual Festival Days set in Columbus, Ga.

Spring Festival Days in Columbus featuring a tour of homes, a Salisbury fair, an antique show, and a bass fishing tournament will be staged April 13-14. This is an annual celebration in the west Georgia city on the Chattahoochee.

The tour of homes in Columbus 'historic district will include visits to the Walker-Peters-Langdon house, built in 1828, which is the oldest house in the city. It has been restored as a museum with period furnishings.

Also on the tour is Pemberton House, the 1855-60 home of Dr. John S. Pemberton, originator of the Coca-Cola soft drink formula. The house has a combination kitchen-apothecary shop.

The Rankin House with its French Empire architecture and unusual wrought iron trim has been restored as a museum of the 1850-70 period. This and the Springer Opera House, plus five other restorations, will be open for the tour. The Springer is a fine example of 19th Century theater architecture in the South. Governor Carter designated the historic site as Georgia's State Theater.

A tour of residences will include five homes and two gardens which abound in native Georgia flora. The tours will be held Saturday, April 14, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and again on Sunday from noon to 6 p.m.

A flea market and crafts show, musical and choral groups, a children's art show, and a carnival for the youngsters will be featured at the Salisbury Fair. The Officers Wives Club will have a ticket booth and ring-toss game at the fair.

Also at the fair, the Fountain City Antique Auto Club will display classic models from throughout the South. There will be a judo demonstration and displays from Six Flags over Georgia Westville and the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts.

These attractions will be located on lower Broadway between 4th and 9th streets: the hours of operation are the same as for the tour of homes.

The antique show will have fine period furniture, country and primitive pieces, accessories, and oriental rugs and art. About 20 dealers from the Southeast will display their wares for sale.

The antique show will be in the Fine Arts Building at the fairgrounds behind the Municipal Auditorium. Hours are: April 13, 6-9 p.m.; April 14, 10 a.m.-9 p.m.; April 15, noon to 6 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 at the door; children under 2 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Last year over 300 fishermen turned out to vie for the prizes provided by the Georgia-Alabama Fishing Club, which sponsors the annual competition. All angling is on Lake Oliver in Columbus from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, April 14. Last year's first prize was a boat, motor and trailer; it is anticipated that the same top prizes will be given again this year. Other prizes will be awarded for the ten largest bass by weight.

Passover will be observed

The Jewish Festival of Passover will be observed at Fort Benning during the period from sundown April 16, to sundown April 24.

The first two days and the last two days are days of special religious obligation.

The first Passover Seder will be held on Monday evening, April 16. The second Seder will be held on the following evening. Both will take place at individual homes.

The Jewish Welfare Board, the Fort Benning Jewish Center, and the Columbus Jewish community will provide home hospitality in Columbus and Atlanta, for soldiers stationed here.

Commanders are authorized to excuse from duty, personnel who desire to attend these services. Leaves of passes may be granted to Jewish personnel for the purpose of attending Passover Services.

For further information contact the Jewish Chaplin's Office, 545-7843.

Dramatizers looking for interested people

What are you interested in?

If you have an interest in theatre, you can find a means to work and learn about what you are interested in, at the Fort Benning Playhouse with the Dramatizers.

The Fort Benning Dramatizers is a club for people interested in the different aspects of theatre. Anyone is eligible to join the club, military, civilian or dependent.

The Dramatizers provide an outlet for those people who are interested in working in theater or learning about theatre.

There are many positions open at the present time for people who would like to learn while working on the Dramatizers' new production, William Saroyan's "The Cave Dwellers," which will be opening May 3, 4 and 5 and 11 and 12.

Also, the Dramatizers hold workshops on Saturdays: At 10 a.m., Bob Swain conducts a workshop on the elements of the theatre, including acting and the technical aspects of theatre; at 11:45 a.m., Sandra Ortiz conducts a workshop in body movement for the stage and dance; and at 1 p.m., Sheila Dowse holds a workshop in voice and diction. All classes are open to non-members and members of the Dramatizers.

The meetings of the Dramatizers are held each Monday evening at 7:30 at the Fort Benning Playhouse, Bldg. 1237, behind the Infantry Museum which is on Ingersoll.

The Dramatizers are always looking for clothes to be used as costumes and many different items to be used as props and set pieces. Anyone who has an item or items that they would like to donate to the theatre may call the Playhouse at 545-2932.

'Dracula'

Springer Opera House opens new play Apr. 5

When "Dracula" opens April 5 at the Springer Opera House, audiences will have the marvelous opportunity to see some of the finest talent ever to be assembled on the Springer stage. Several of the faces will be familiar to the thousands who watch local TV news.

George Gingell, who is not only a central figure in Columbus theatre life, is Director of Public Affairs of WRBL Channel 3 News. Since the Springer's first performance, "Li'l Abner," he has starred in and directed numerous productions, including such successes as "Separate Tables," "My Fair Lady," "Inherit The Wind" and "The Night Thoreau Spent In Jail." Mr. Gingell will be portraying Van Helsing, the brilliant Dutch scientist who identifies the sinister Count Dracula.

Dick McMichael, who is News Director at WRBL, will be featured as Butterworth, the attendant. Mr. McMichael, a Columbus native, is completely at home on the stage, having written, directed and acted since the ripe old age of 13.

Art Lane who plays Seward is an account executive with WRBL-TV. He was born in New York City and has had extensive experience in burlesque as Straight Man and Candy Butcher.

Jared Davis, who will be seen as Renfield, a victim addicted to dining on flies and spiders is a native of the Columbus area and attended Auburn University.

The spine-chilling title role of the villainous vampire will be played by Dr. Herman Wallner. Dr. Wallner, who is making his acting debut, is staff psychiatrist at Bradley Center.

Providing the romantic interest in "Dracula" will be Sheila Plank, Dracula's terror-stricken victim, Lucy and Ken Phillips as Harker, her desperate fiance.

Mrs. Susan Dennis settled in Columbus one year ago with huband and two children. Since that time she appeared as Granny in "The Snow Queen" and will portray the sadly fated Mina in "Dracula."

For box office information and reservations call 327-3688. The ticket office is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturdays from 5:30 p.m. to show time and one hour before the Sunday matinees.

How to catch the big one

BY BOB STICLES

Structure fishing is here to stay. This is the word and belief of the fisherman who fish the big bass tournaments throughout the country. These are the men who are willing to pay hundreds of dollars to fish a lake they have never seen, confident they can catch fish after a reconnaisance of the underwater structure.

Structures can be classified as anything that breaks up the smooth bottom of a lake into an irregular surface. Trees, stumps, old creek beds, underwater islands and holes are classified as structures.

When experienced fisherman talk about structure fishing you'll hear terms like migration routes, patterns, and migration cycles. Many fisherman who are just beginning to pursue the black bass are unfamiliar with these terms. In order to understand structure fishing these terms must be understood. Let's take a look at some of these terms:

Migration Route — The movement of a group of fish, or a single fish, from one area of the lake to another. These routes are used when the fish leave deep water and enter the shallow water to feed and vice-versa.

Patterns — Combinations of same or similar "structure" features, and environmental conditions, (temperature and water clarity) that exist in several areas on a lake at any given time, which attracts and holds bass. Migration Cycles — The recurring feeding habits of the black bass are called migration cycles. Bass as individuals or schools feed every 48 hours. There is a 24 hour feeding cycle with about half the bass feeding during each cycle. These bass will use the migration routes for traveling to and from the feeding areas.

An ideal situation would be for the fisherman to map his favorite area before it is filled with water, but since this is not practical in mose cases other methods must be used. Topographic maps of the lake are invaluable in finding the ledges and drop offs in a lake. These maps can be obtained from the federal or state agency that constructed the impoundment.

In addition to topographic maps there are other aids the fisherman can use such as the depth finder and electric thermometer. For those fisherman without these expensive items, trolling a heavily weighted line along the bottom will show the bottom structure.

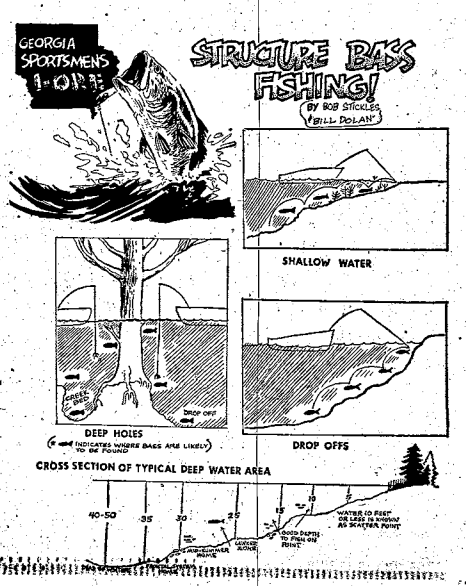
Once you have found the structure on a lake, mark it down for future reference. One of the best ways to mark a particular spot on the lake is to use the triangulation method. To use this method choose two objects that are in line with each other, then at 90 degree angle find two more lined up objects. Plot these objects in your log and the direction from your "hole" to these objects. Next time you're on the lake line up the objects and you're in business.

Knowing the characteristics of the bass will help understand his behavior. He prefers a water temperature in the 68-72 degree farenheit range. Normally water in this temperature is in the deeper portion of the lake. Bass like deep water because in winter deep water is warmer and in the summer deep water is cooler. Although the bass will move to shallow water to feed and spawn, most of his time will be spent in deep water. His feeding cycle is increased in the summer months and decreases to about once in every 48 hours during the winter.

Establishing a pattern is necessary to catch a limit of bass. Most anglers don't and that is the major reason why their stringers are meager.

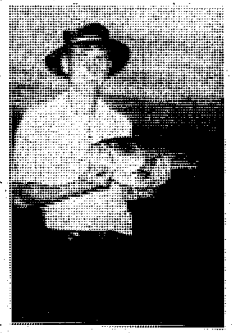
To establish a pattern the angler must experiment with many variables. Among the variables that must be considered are water clarity, temperature, depth, bottom characteristics, and the type of lure to use. Once you have established the pattern, hold on, you'll catch fish.

Bass change their patterns as the seasons change and the water temperature drops or rises. The following is a general guide to selecting productive areas.



Spring — Pay attention to food rich flats near deep water, the backs of coves and along the edges of creeks and washes that lead from these shallows into deeper water.

Summer — Work deep water with heavy cover, standing timber and along the edges of creek channels in or near water in the 68-72 degree range.



Fall — It's time to look shallow again, in the channels of heavy cover, look in the same place you would find them in the spring.

Winter — Cold weather means cooling water temperatures and bass will seek the deep channels of large creeks and rivers. They will also be in deep water near standing timber.

Consistant bass fishing requires the fisherman take the time to study the bass' habitat. Structure fishing could be your answer to successful fishing trips.

Fisherman's trophy

BY BILL KLOEB

Top catches in the Rod and Gun Club March Fishing Derby were all good sized fish.

The largest bream was registered by MSgt. (ret.) David Jones, 5133 Dame Drive. He took his 1-pound 6-ounce entry from Kings Pond late in the month.

SSgt. Richard Thurmond, 58th Battalion won the catfish contest with a 14-pound, 1-ounce monster he caught at Twilight Pond.

The bass winner was SFC (ret.) Angelo Floris, 241 Springfield Street. He registered an 11-pounder he took at Kings Pond. This was one of the most unusual catches ever reported at the club. Floris was really fishing for bream at the time he caught the bass. The big fish went for a meal worm strung on a No. 8 size hook.

Each of these fisherman have $15 in merchandise coming from the club sales counter.

The April Derby got off to a good start with good bass and catfish catches reported by April 2. SFC Kenneth Canady, TSB registered a 4-pound, 14-ounce bass from Kings Pond and Lloyd Smith, a retired civil service employee registered a 6-pound, 13-ounce catfish from Twilight Pond. There were no bream registered on the first two days of the month but this month should see quite a few entries before it's over. With the warm weather we have been having these fish and the bass too should go onto the spawning beds very soon.

Archers Hunting Contest

The Little River Big Buck Club of Moultrie, Ga. has announced April 28 and 29 as dates for the fifth annual "Carporee" at Lake Seminole.

The Carporee is a carp hunting contest. Contestants use bow and arrow to take the fish which are extremely vunerable at this time of the year. The fish are spawning and inhabit the shallow waters of the lake during this period. Sights of 10 to 12-pound carp coming more than half out of the water as they prepare their egg beds are common sights. With any luck the waters of the lake will have cleared considerably by the end of the month and the carp can also be seen just below the surface.

The event has become a popular one for archers throughout the southeastern states. It serves two good purposes. It provides a lot of sport for a lot of archers and they rid Seminole of hundreds of pounds of rough fish each spring before the hatches of bream and bass.

Jerry Wisham of the Little River Club has been named chairman for the affair. Headquarters will be established in Wingates Lunker Lodge at Hutchinson Ferry Landing located on the Flint River Arm of Lake Seminole.

Trophies will be awarded for the largest fish, the most fish and the heaviest poundage of fish recorded. An entry fee of $5 includes a Bar-B-Q and will be used to help pay for the trophies. Entries should be sent to Jerry Wisham, 405 Camillia Drive, Moultrie, Ga. 31768. His telephone number is 912-985-5595.

Overnight accomodations are available at Lunker Lodge. Reservations may be telephoned to 912-264-0658. Archers preferring to camp out may use the Bass Island Camp Ground also located at Hutchinson Ferry Landing.

Archers may hunt from the shore, wade or use a boat. Anyone planning to participate should become familiar with the Georgia State regulations pertaining to hunting fish with the bow and arrow.

Use Safe Areas

The next few weeks should bring some fine weather into this area. A lot of people will want to get outside. Quite a few who are usually indoors types will want to make use of the various ponds and picnic areas here on post. Those who do should keep in mind that all areas on the reservation are not open at all times. Some are frequently closed, because of training. Sometimes this training involves firing live ammunition. Before going into areas other than the buildup areas on post t's best to make sure the area is safe.

Range maps showing opened and closed areas are kept up to date by the Range Control Office. Maps are updated each day. These maps are posted at the Provost Marshal Office, Rod and Gun Club Headquarters and outside the Range office. Before going into an area be sure to check one of these maps. You can't assume that any area is open because its a weekend or holiday. Post units sometimes train on weekends and the Nation-

Kelley Hill's bowling lanes explode

"We try harder," was the motto of HHC, 197th Inf. Bde.'s second team in the brigadewide bowling tournament held at Kelly Hill's bowling lanes last week. The motto paid off as the team copped first place with a 157 pin advantage over the second place team, HHC, 1st Bn., 58th Inf.

High game turned in for the tournament was an amazing 266 thrown by Bob Wise, HHC, 1st Bn., 58th Inf. High Series honors was won by Denny Crow, Team No. 1, HHC, 197th Inf. Bde.

Bob Darling, HHC, 197th's No. 2 team captain accepted the winners trophy at an awards ceremony held immediately after the completion of the tournament. Individual trophies were presented to Norm Nolde, Mike Puckett, Art Brunson, Bill Little and Bob Darling.

OCS ecology move

The TSB baseball field, located near the airborne area, underwent a large scale renovation at the hands of the Officer Candidates, class number 3, 50th Co., 5th Stu. Bn., TSB, on March 24.

Sixty candidates, with help from LTC Gordon M. Hunt, 5th Stu. Bn. commander, and Capt. Cardell S. Hunter, 50th Co. commander, worked from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. molding the old field into a new usable baseball diamond. The infield was packed with fresh dirt, and new baselines were laid to new bases. The outfield was cut and trimmed around the fence on which distance markers were placed to add initiative to serious sluggers.

The work was done under the direction of Senior Candidate John Dane and the Co.'s Ecology Officer, 2nd Lt. Leroy G. Childs.

All-Army judo team in Atlanta

The Army's first "All Army" judo team has been practicing at Fort Benning the last three of weeks for competition in the National Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Judo matches at the Georgia Tech fieldhouse in Atlanta, April 6-7.

Lt. Col. Thomas Keaton, coach of Fort Benning's team, which is the second largest in the U. S. with 340 members, was selected by the Department of the Army as coach of the All Army team.

Keaton's judo history dates to 1954, where he began in Osako, Japan.

Since then he has been the South Atlantic AAU brown belt champion 1957-58, second place at the East Coast championships, 1958, U. S. Army Open black belt champ, 1960-63.

The rest of the team include Sgt. Gary Christopher, Fort Clayton, Canal Zone, Wilfreo Colon, Fort Sam Houston, Lt. Joseph Holcombe, Fort Hood, and Sp5 Rubeo Rodriguez, Fort Bragg.

All team members have a chance to go to Switzerland to compete in the World Games if they win in Atlanta, and also have a chance to compete in the Counsel International Sports Military Games, Sept. 24-25.

Keaton believes that all of the team members have a very good chance of winning the matches in Atlanta.

Elimination begins April 6, starting at 9 a.m.

Tryouts for 3rd Army Bowling Tournament

The Fort Benning Special Services Office will hold a scratch bowling roll-off at the Main Post Bowling Center from April 4 through 6 to select a team of men and women to represent the Post in the Third Army Bowling Championships at Ft. Gordon, Ga. April 16 through 20.

Entry forms may be obtained at the Main Post or Kelley Hill Bowling Centers. Entries must be submitted not later than noon, April 4. The roll-off will start at 1 p.m. April 4.

Austin Marina

The Marina is well-bred because it comes from an exceptionally well-bred family of cars. The result being that the Marina has rack and pinion steering like the Jaguar's. The race-toughened engine of an MGB. A rugged transmission and disc brakes like the Triumph's. And the same parentage as the tough Land Rover. Test drive the Marina as soon as you can.

"Meeting people is my thing."

Sergeant Cornell Russell is a drill sergeant. He's a friendly guy. He likes people and they like him.

"I chose this job because I always wanted to work with people. When I came into the Army the drill sergeants who trained me were really enthusiastic and they gave me that same enthusiasm.

"One of the great things about the Army is that you meet a variety of people from all walks of life. Every day you meet somebody new and interesting and you get to know them and like them. To me that's important.

"I've worked hard at my job and I'm proud to say that I have always had 100% graduation in my classes. I feel good about that."

The Army is giving Sergeant Russell plenty of opportunity for job satisfaction.

The Army gives a man a lot of other opportunities, too. Job and educational opportunities. With the hundreds of jobs in the Army, there's bound to be a dozen or so that will give you the kind of challenge you're looking for.

And travel opportunities in Europe, Korea, Hawaii, Alaska, Panama. And the time to get to know a country the way no tourist ever could.

The opportunity to save money on everyday things. Like free housing, dental and medical care. Commissary and post exchange privileges. Low-cost life insurance, to name a few.

Your Army Career Counselor has a whole book of job, duty station and training opportunities just waiting for you.

He'll give you lots of other reasons for staying in.

Why are you staying in?

Basketball talent flourishes at Inf. Bd.

Though small in comparison with other units at Fort Benning, the United States Army Infantry Board stands tall when it comes to basketball talent. The USAIB team won the Aviation League title, and three members of that team were selected to play on the Fort Benning Post All-Star team. These three were PFC Timothy Griffin, PFC Timothy Parker, and PFC Patrick Magan.

Benning's All-Stars then won the Third Army Basketball Tournament, which was held at Ft. Gordon. PFC Griffin led the team in scoring during the tourney, and was subsequently named MVP of the tournament. Also, both Morgan and Parker were voted to the Third Army Basketball Tournament All-Star Team.

Recently, in the Bibb Invitational Tournament that finished up in Columbus, the Fort Benning All-Stars finished third, losing only to the eventual winners, the Columbus All-Stars.

These Columbus All-Stars were led by yet another member of the Infantry Board. Don Andrae, Acting Chief of the MIS section of the Board, was captain of the team and was voted MVP of the tournament for his play in leading Columbus to the title. Both Griffin and Parker were also named to the All-Star Team.

Co. C, No. 1 at halftime

Company C defeated determined Company D in a hard fought playoff match for first place in the Headquarters Command Volleyball league on March 20. This match determined first place for the first half of the season.

Both teams were sporting a 4 and 0 record. Offensive ball handling was countered by equally strong defensive play, but after all was said and done, Company C carried the day.

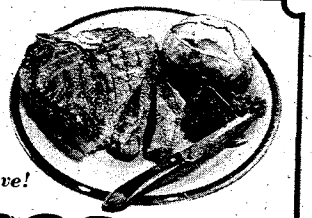
The victory by Company C assures them of a slot in the Headquarters Command playoff scheduled for April 11. Their opponent will be whichever unit in Headquarters Command wins first place for the second half of the season. The winner between these two teams will represent the Command in the Post Tournament scheduled for April 16-20.

Benning places second

The Third Army AMTU won The Palmetto Rifle Match at Charleston, S.C., March 17-19, 1973. The winning score was a 1931 out of a possible 2000.

The Fort Benning Post Team took 2nd place in the same match with a 1875 out of 2000.

SFC Wayne J. Voter won both the 300 Yd Rapid Fire and the Grand Aggregate while taking 1st place in the 200 Yd Slow Fire.



The Third Army Team members are SFC J. Baxter, SFC W. Voter, SSG H. Andujar, SSG J. Price and SSG P. Flex.

197th in command of handball series

Major unit Team Handball began March 26th with three teams battling for the Fort Benning Championship.

Three teams are competing in the league, The School Brigade, 197th Inf. Bde., and the 931st Eng. Grp.

The seasons first game between TSB and the 931st was a thriller. It took two overtimes, but TSB managed to squeeze by 931st, 3-2. On March 28 TSB went against the 197th and was clouted 12-2. The 931st faced no better against the 197th losing 10-2. The only game on April 2, was a TSB forfeit to the 931st.

Each team plays six games during the season, which ends April 25th. After the Championship game, the best players of each team will be molded into one all-star unit to play for the Third Army Championship.

NCOA meeting slated for April

The Follow Me Chapter of the Non Commissioned Officers Association, is searching out new members and urging people to attend the 12th annual NCOA Convention at the Hilton Palacio del Rio, April 16-20.

The theme for the convention this year is "1973, The Year of the NCO."

The agenda is expected to include many political, military and business leaders, on both national and local levels, an evening at the Plaza Dinner Theater, a giant gala and a formal banquet and ball.

Representative F. E. Hebert (D.-La.), Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has been selected to receive the coveted L. Mendel Rivers Award.

The award was developed by the NCOA in memory of a "wonderful patriot," who worked long and hard in support of a strong America.

Martha Raye has been selected to receive the annual Bob Hope Award for 1973.

This award is presented each year an entertainer who, in the opinion of the selection committee, has contributed most in the field of entertainment to the morale and welfare of military personnel.

Anyone interested in attending this convention should contact SFC William Payton, 545-6961, or Sgt. Billy Terry, 545-6037.

Back from Mobile

Fourteen members of the earthmoving platoon of Delta Company, 43rd Engineer Battalion (Const.), recently returned from Mobile, Ala., after completing Phase Two of a large Community Relations Activity Project initiated by the 931st Engineer Group (CBT) during the USAIC Expo '72.

This phase of the project consisted of the excavation of 60,000 cubic yards of material for a track stadium and a basement for a new ROTC building at the University of South Alabama, and the construction of a baseball field at Davison High School in Mobile. Phase One of this project included the construction of a 34 foot rappelling tower for the Army ROTC at the university.

One of the men who worked on the project was Pvt. James Carr, a Unit of Choice Recruit from Mobile. His knowledge of Mobile and the surrounding area proved to be an invaluable asset when maintenance and materials problems arose. Pvt. Carr truly benefitted the Army and his hometown by being able to return home to work on this Community Relations Activity in behalf of the Infantry Center.

Dentist advises fluoride toothpaste

This is the fourth in a series of six articles on dental health published by The Bayonet in cooperation with the Fort Benning Dental Service.

Although you emphasize that proper brushing of the teeth is very important in preventive dental care, you didn't suggest any type of toothpaste to use. Is it better to avoid any type of toothpaste altogether and just use water, or what?

Before the advent of fluoridated dentifrices — or toothpastes, if you will — it was often recommended that water mixed with a bit of bicarbonated soda was an effective brushing aid. However, since the dentist is most concerned with preventing dental disease before it starts, a fluoride dentifrice should be included in any home oral hygiene program.

About 98 per cent of the population is affected by decay. And dental scientists have incontrovertible evidence that fluoride — when added to the drinking water — will reduce the incidence of decay by as much as 60 per cent. Thus, a fluoridated dentifrice is an important aid in helping to prevent decay.

While the biochemical process is too complex to describe, we know that fluoride bonds to tooth enamel and strengthens it. Thus, enamel is better able to withstand acid attacks brought on by the combination of bacterial plaque and sugars. And helping the teeth resist acid attacks is a major part of decay-prevention.

Of course, almost any type of dentifrice, if used properly, will help the toothbrush remove bacterial plaque. There may be a problem with the type of dentifrice you select, however.

For example, if you have some of the tooth root exposed because of gum disease, or if you have fillings made of softer, synthetic material, a harshly abrasive dentifrice might damage the tooth structure or the filling.

Therefore, it is very important that you consult your dentist about the best type of toothpaste to use. Since he knows your dental history, he can make the best decision about whether you should use a fluoride toothpaste or some other type of dentifrice.

Alpha Company, 43rd Engineer Battalion, welcomed new First Sergeant Ralph Hall on March 26, 1973. 1SG Hall transferred from the 72nd Engineer Company, here at Ft. Benning.

1SG Hall has been at Ft. Benning since August 1971. An enthusiastic career soldier, he has been in the Army almost 22 years. While in the Army he has won the Bronze Star, the Army Commendation Medal and the Good Conduct Medal with five "Knot." 1SG Hall jokingly boasts of his five hardship tours while in the Army; two in Vietnam, two at Ft. Leonardwood, Mo. and one at Ft. Benning.

He now makes his home in Columbus where he lives with his wife, of 19 years, Solange and their two children Debora and Terry. He eventally plans to retire in Columbus but has no immediate retirement plans.

When not working 1SG Hall relaxes by working in his garden or fishing when he can get away.

Careful equipment selection essential for Infantry

INFANTRY PREPARES FOR ITS FUTURE

Today's technology is exploding and much is being done to develop better equipment for the Infantry.

The United States Army Infantry School plays an important role in planning for the future and sees a great need for advancement in the areas of Firepower, Mobility and Intelligence.

However, in the decade ahead, Infantry must plan its requirements in the face of a more limited budget. This calls for the return to lean-and-mean units. Infantry seeks to achieve a part of this goal by the careful selection of equipment from what is available.

FIREPOWER

Since America's entry into World War II, great strides have been made in Infantry firepower systems, and the future holds promise of further increases.

The Infantryman of today is equipped with antitank weapons of lighter weight, greater accuracy, and a higher kill potential than in earlier days. The light antiarmor assault weapon (LAW) has satisfied the short-range role for the last 12 years.

The XM47 Dragon missile system, which has recently completed expanded service testing, provides the Infantryman with a reliable, manportable, medium-range antitank system with sufficient range and accuracy. This system, together with the TOW, will provide the Infantry battalion and company with an antitank punch never before achieved.

To improve their effectiveness, current efforts are being directed toward the development of night sights for both TOW and Dragon. The thermal night sight used with the Dragon has shown its ability to operate in total darkness.

To complement its ground antiarmor systems, Infantry is evaluating the proposition of a large number of reliable, relatively inexpensive aerial antitank systems employed in aerial antitank units at the Infantry battalion level.

In the near future, Infantrymen must decide upon the type mortar systems required in the decade ahead.

Current efforts are directed toward development of a 60mm mortar with range and lethality close to that of the present 81mm mortar at about one-third the weight.

The question of the future role of the 4.2 inch mortar is under study and remains to be answered. However, it is apparent that the 4.2-inch mortar may be eliminated if the new 60mm mortar and product-improved 81mm mortar at company battal-

Froehlke justifies OCS program

Secretary of the Army, Robert F. Froehlke spoke to the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort. Benning AUSA chapter last night, during the Tri-city annual general membership meeting.

Froehlke gave the audience the choice of a speech or a question and answer session. After counting the votes, Maj. Gen. Thomas Tarpley announced we would have a question and answer session.

On the subject of the Officer Candidate School, he said there were two good reasons for the program to be continued. "It's terribly important that we announce to the enlisted men that desire a commission, there is a way." He also stated that "During another mobilization we will rely on OCS to the bilt for our officer manpower needs." Froehlke added that by continuing OCS we would have current facilities and lesson plans should we have another mobilization.

He replied to the question concerning the strength of the Army, by saying, that the present strength is about right. He went on to say that the 13 divisions and our National guard and reserve are capable of meeting the countries present requirements. He emphasized the fact that the National guard and reserve were understrength in equipment and man power, and that this problem would be corrected within the next few years.

Additional questions directed at Froehlke addressed our strength in Europo and the current situation in South Vietnam. He emphasized that the presence of American troops in Europe have enabled us to enjoy peace for 27 years in that part of the world.

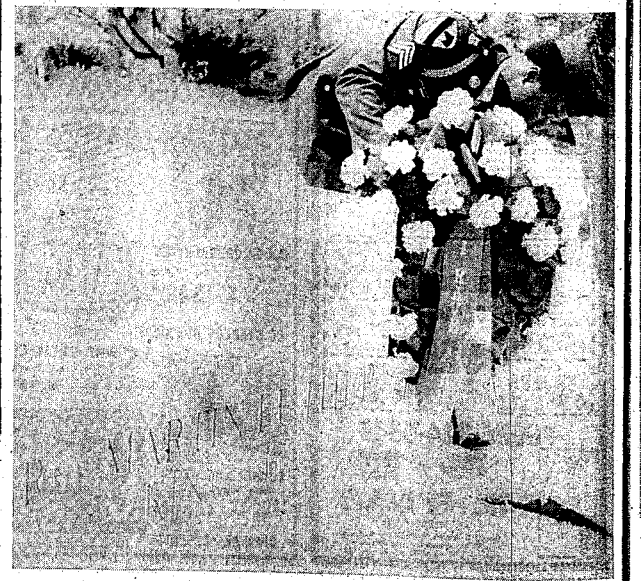
Benning soldiers travel to Atlanta for memorial

Four soldiers from Fort Benning traveled to Atlanta Wednesday to place a wreath of flowers beside the tomb of the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. during a public memorial service marking the fifth anniversary of his death.

2nd Lt. James M. Johnson, Sgt. Jackie L. Stanley III, Sgt. Levant Wright Jr. and Sgt. Lester Yamaguchi of the 1st Battalion (Mechanized), 58th Infantry, 197th Infantry Brigade participated in the wreath laying ceremony and the memorial services which followed. Rev. Ralph Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) conducted the services. Dr. King was the founder and president of the SCLC until his death.



The wreath consisted of 28 white carnations arranged in a circular fashion on a background of small green leaves. A streamer with the words, "If I have a Dream . . .," hung from the top-center of the wreath. These now famous words were spoken by Dr. King during a speech which he made in Washington D. C. in August, 1963, before a crowd of 250,000 people. The occasion was a mass demonstration to urge passage of the Civil Rights Bill. The Bill was approved in July, 1964.

The purchase of the wreath was made possible through the nickel and dime donations of the soldiers of the 1st Battalion, 58th Infantry.

While the wreath was being placed along side Dr. King's tomb and the memorial services were going on in Atlanta, a similar memorial service was taking place at Fort Benning. The soldiers of the 1-58 paid homage to Dr. King by taking part in a service conducted by Chaplain (Captain) Henry M. Haga and 1st Lt. Jerry Edwards of Caompany A. The services took place at Harmony Church Chapel No. 1. Edwards noted some of the many accomplishments of Dr. King in civil rights work and Chaplain Haga led those present in a prayer.

Immediately following the prayer by Chaplain Haga a film entitled, "I have a Dream . . ." was shown. The Bradley Memorial Library provided this film which told the story of Dr. King's life. The film attempted to bring a better understanding of the philosophies and ideas that Dr. King exemplified.

The idea to place a wreath beside Dr. King's tomb arose during a race relations seminar in the 1-58. Such seminars are conducted on a regular basis in order to foster a better understanding between the soldiers of various races and ethnic backgrounds in the 197th Brigade.

Sgt. Levant Wright Jr. of the 197th Infantry Brigade, places a wreath of flowers beside the tomb of Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. in Atlanta during a public memorial service April 5 marking the fifth anniversary of his death. The flowers were presented by the soldiers of the 1st Bn. (Mech.), 58th Inf., 197th Inf. Bde. (Photo by Lester Yamaguchi).

600 girls needed as dates for cadets

Calling all girls. Capt. Mike Bagnulo needs 600 girls.

No, not all for himself. Capt. Bagnulo of the Fort Benning Protocol Office is organizing the annual West Point hop held at the Officers' Club. Each year the West Point First Class (the seniors) visit all the major installations in the Continental United States before choosing their combat arms.

The girls are needed as dates for the June 8 hop which is the last event of the visit. Any single girl, 17 to 25, may receive an invitation by calling Capt. Bagnulo at 545-4662, 1811, or 7112. If you live outside the Columbus area, you may call collect. When you call, please tell him your name, age, height, home address, and phone number.

Each girl will receive an invitation which includes a street map of Fort Benning and the address of an officer and his wife who will sponsor her. You will meet your cadet date in his home at 7:30 p.m. on June 8 and transportation to the Officers' Club will be provided. Cocktail and party dresses will be appropriate. Transportation to Fort Benning for girls outside the Columbus area can be arranged.

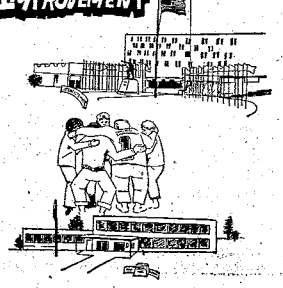
In the pursuit of community relations

By CARL KING

Each day brings a new horizon at Fort Benning. Involvements in community affairs are numerous and diverse. For the most part, we have been reluctant to "blow our own horn." Our participation has been as a silent benefactor.

From leveling ground for nursing homes to providing color guards for parades, the arm of community assistance is outstretched across Fort Benning's area of influence.



An aging gentleman from Reading, Pa., was interested in current activities at Fort Benning. He was provided several pamphlets and a personal letter from a Post spokesman. Over 50 school children from Spotswood, New Jersey received 'Follow Me' patches. And a ten-year-old boy was sent information about hand grenades in lieu of fulfilling his request for a live hand-grenade.

Some 400 Y-Indian Guides from Atlanta and Chattanooga were given a complete tour of the post. These YMCA youth consumed military food and donned their pajamas to the sound of "Taps." They left Fort Benning with a new feeling about the military. . .a feeling that they were a small part of the many-faceted programs aimed at the National Defense.

Speakers from Fort Benning have actively supported nearly every civic organization in the Columbus area. This particular program has brought cohesion to our tri-city community and has instilled a sense of pride and accomplishment in the military-civilian mind. A further result of the Speakers Program has been to explain the role of the military. In so doing, a mutual understanding has been generated.

Community activities greatly increased with the advent of unit of choice-station of choice activities. Musical combos have met the demands of local high school ROTC units providing dance music and music for patriotic ceremonies. Scout dog demonstrations, drill team performances and displays have supported tours, athletic contests, churches and other organizations throughout the Southeast.

Fort Benning has contributed many hours to provide a second-to-none Community Relations Program, a program in which we all can be justly proud. The end product is the achievement of an atmosphere where soldiers and civilians work together with harmony and accord. There is still much to be done. But the roads are paved and the firmament is solid.

931st Avn. Plt. has a big job

With only 18 commissioned and warrant officers, and 29 enlisted men assigned, the 931st Aviation Platoon is only a small element of the 931st Engineer Group. But it has a big job.

Operating as a part of the USAIC Aviation Command, the 931st Aviation Platoon shares the command's primary responsibility of providing aviation support to the United States Army Infantry School. This support includes training Pathfinder students in landing zone techniques, providing convoy escort to the Mountain Rabger Camp at Dahlonega for the Ranger Department, visual recon missions, gun runs, VIP flight and maoy other missions. In the words of one of the Pilots of the 931st Platoon, "There isn't anything we don't do."

The 931st Aviation Platoon makes night air surveillance flights when working with the Military Police. This close association paid off recently in the quick apprehension of 4 car thieves. Within minutes of the theft, the MP's were notified and a 931st aircraft took to the air to

4 local soldiers honored

Four soldiers from Fort Benning were honored Tuesday, April 10 at a luncheon held at the Supper Club for the Freedoms Foundation awards.

Maj. Dick T. LeClere, Capt. William W. Brownell, Capt. John L. Carter, and SFC Floyd D. Bryant received medals for their essays on the subject, "Freedom Has a Price."

These awards, along with five others, were presented by Gen. H. K. Johnson (U.S. Army ret.), former Army chief of staff. Mrs. Rozell Fabiani and Mr. Ridley Bell took joint honors for a television production entitled, "A Time in History — A Walk with Congressman Jack Brinkley."

Dr. R. Elmer Neilson, a minister, received an honor certificate for a sermon he delivered, and Dr. Robert V. Anderson of Auburn, Ala., received a George Washington Honor Medal Award for a public address he made.

Maj. Gen. Thomas M. Tarpley, Fort Benning commander, and Mr. Jim Woodruff Jr. of Columbus were co-hosts for the luncheon, which was attended by the Columbus mayor, Bob Hydrick, and members of the city council.

Special guest at the luncheon was Maj. Gen. Helmz Guderian of the Republic of Germany, son of a famed German general of World War II. Gen. Johnson has been president of the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa. for two years.

Engineers assist community

BY CARL KING

Contending with the worst snowstorm in the history of this area, members of D Company, 43rd Engineer Bn., 931st Engr. Group, recently completed a civic action project at the University of South Alabama in Mobile.

At the request of the Professor of Military Science at the University of South Alabama, 14 men from D Company, led by 2Lt. Robert Childs, constructed a track stadium and athletic field.

A convoy led by Lt. Norman Hall departed Fort Benning Feb. 6 at 7:30 a.m. and arrived at the University some 27 hours later.

As Army regulations prohibit certain vehicles from traveling on public highways during the hours of darkness, the platoon climbed into their collective, sleeping bag to await the morning sun. Mechanical repairs caused some delay but the platoon, fortified with 11 hours of sleep, arrived their destination at 11 a.m. the next morning.

While in Mobile, the platoon lived in old Air Force Barracks, formerly a part of Brookley Air Force Base. The barracks are now used for University students. Food was provided by the University.

According to Lt. Childs, heavy rains and the snowstorm put a crimp in the planned activities. "We worked Saturdays and Sundays to make up for lost time," Childs said.

Excavating some 70,000 cubic yards of earth, the D Company men completed the project Mar. 16. In addition to working on the track stadium grounds, the engineers leveled ground for a baseball diamond at Davidson High School in Mobile. They also leveled ground for a rifle range and storage area to be used by the University's ROTC Department.

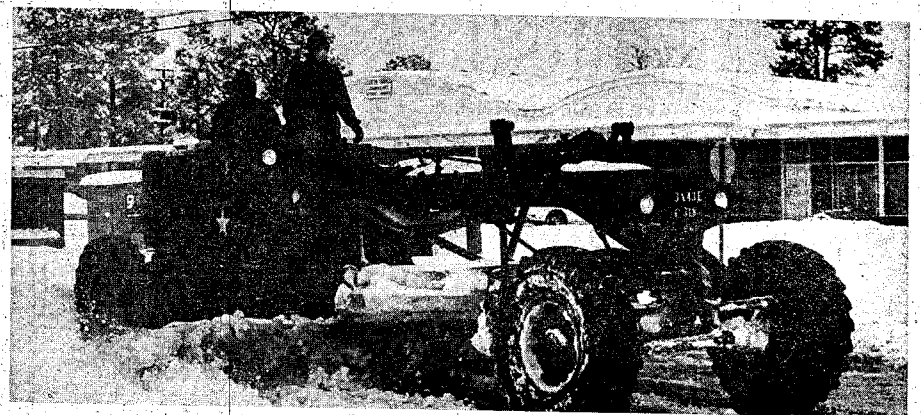
Pvt. James Carr, originally from Mobile, accompanied the unit and assisted on the project. "Carr enjoyed working on a community project in his own hometown," Childs said.

When Columbus was covered with an unheralded 16 inches of snow last February, Columbus's Army National Guard, the 560th Engineer Battalion, responded to the call for assistance.

A local newspaper article stated, "Although Columbus was hardest hit by the snow, there was no need to call for assistance from the National Guard."

Contrary to this article, the Heavy Equipment Platoon of the 560th Engineeer Bn. was activated by the State Department of Transportation. Under the direction of Lt. Charles L. Sherwood, the platoon cleared highways throughout the Columbus-Fort Benning area.

According to Lt. Sherwood, his platoon was ordered to state active duty at 2:05 p.m. Feb. 10. Using three road graders, men from the platoon operated the graders continuously during daylight hours clearing some 134 miles of highway during the three-day crisis.



"The machines stopped only for replacement of worn blades," Sherwood said. "One of the graders shut down for a short period to replace a flat tire. Otherwise, there were no problems in maintaining equipment."

While 23 men were assigned to the heavy equipment platoon, only nine men could be reached as telephone service was disrupted in many parts of the city.

These nine men cleared Victory Drive from the Oglethorpe Bridge to Cusseta, South Lumpkin Road from Victory Drive to Fort Benning, and the Lindsay Creek Bypass from Victory Drive to the Manchester Expressway.

Other current civic actions conducted by units of the 560th Engineer Bn. include: Relocating a rappeling tower from Fort Benning to Columbus College for use by the ROTC Department: Removing and clearing land for the construction of a swimming pool at the East Columbus Boys Club: And dispatching a water purification unit to Jackson, Ga. to pump and purify water from a nearby stream into the city's damaged water supply system.

The Bayonet salutes this unit for its assistance to the community.

The 931st Eogineer Group was given the responsibility of keeping the roads open and traffic moving during the record snow fall. Here men of the 43rd Engineer Battalion clear the roads in the Custer Terrace area.

Engineers help out scouts

Members of the 2nd Platoon, Company B, 43rd Engr. Bn., recently completed work at the Skymount Boy Scout Reservation near Altamont, Tenn.

2nd Lt. Stephen Bell and SSG Michael Wallace, NCOIC, had their platoon build a guard tower, a boat dock, and a latrine facility.

Members of the platoon slept in an old hunting lodge during the month-long project. Food was provided by the boy scouts and was prepared by cooks from the 43rd Engr. Bn.

"This is the greatest platoon in the world," SSG Wallace exclaimed. "They worked their behinds off completing scheduled work two weeks ahead of time. They were thus able to perform additional tasks."

The "additional tasks" included building 138 tent platforms, constructing an 8-foot by 22-foot utility shed and reconditioning some 200 table benches that were donated by a local construction company.

Sp5 Scott Hanson, using equipment available at the site, also helped clear and repair several roads in the area.

The platoon completed scheduled work Mar. 27, and is now contemplating further assistance. "We would like to continue repairing some of the roads, help built two parking lots and clear some camping areas," Wallace said.

WACs

On the move at Fort Benning

BY SUSANNE BOSTICK

Contrary to popular belief, WACs at Fort Benning are not chained to desk, typewriter, and filing cabinet. Today's modern Army offers women a chance to apply their skills in many areas.

WACs at Fort Benning fill such varied positions as protocol officer, food inspector, air traffic control operator, photographer, broadcasting specialist, and intelligence coordinator.

Fort Benning also boasts two of the first WAC MPs in the Army, as well as four female members of the U. S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit's rifle and pistol teams. The first WAC ever to become an Army orienteer is assigned to Fort Benning's Third Ranger Company.

Capt. Jo Rusin, the first female protocol officer here, is a graduate of the University of Kentucky with a major in physical education. She is married to Capt. Johnny L. Rusin, former aide-de-camp to the commanding general of the U. S. Army Infantry Center. Capt. Rusin (male) is currently enrolled in the Infantry Officer Advanced Course.

Jo is a native of Pascagoula, Miss., and met her husband while they were stationed at Benning. In college, she was commander of the "Kentucky Babes" co-ed drill team, which sparked her interest in joining the Army. She served as a Tac officer at Fort McClellan before coming here.

Specialist Five Debie Kruse, a nineteen-year-old WAC, is the first female member of the orienteering team at Fort Benning. She won the First Army Area women's orienteering championship last year at Fort Dix, N. J, and joined the Orienteering Club here not long afterward. She is from Lander, Wyoming.

PFC Joan Davis from Clinton, Tenn., inspects perishable foods of all types at the Main Commissary. She works for the Veterinary Activity, and may be seen inspecting anything from hamburger meat to oranges to canned peas, to see that it is fresh and in good condition for the consumer.

CAPT. JO RUSIN

PFC Sue Serra, a photographer for the photo branch of the audio-visual systems division, Directorate of Communications-Electronics, is a native of West Milford, N. J. She has taught herself most of what she knows about photography, and has been taking on-the-job training for several months, as well as working in the lab printing pictures.

Specialist Five Judy Smith, who works in the audio production branch of the Infantry School's television division, under the Director of Educational Technology, is a broadcast specialist.

She helps narrate, direct, and edit scripts for Infantry School and Infantry Center productions. She is married to Sp6 William A. Smith, who also works in television. Judy is from Pittsburgh, Pa., and her husband is from Miami, Fla.

Staff Sgt. Ann Standeven, who is shift supervisor at the Lawson Army Airfield traffic control tower, is from Riviera Beach, Fla. She gives directions by voice control to approaching planes, both in flight and on the ground.

Specialist Five Carol Eby, a native of Ontario, Can., is a ground control approach specialist at Lawson Airfield. She also works in the air traffic control tower, and handles approaches for planes in bad weather by radar.

Specialist Four Claudia Park, who works for the Department of Defense Investigative Service, is assigned to the Fort Benning Field Office. She is an intelligence coordinator, and is involved with investigative case control for personnel security investigations.

Privates Diane Hinshaw and Nancy Abrams are the first two WAC MPs at Fort Benning. They are two of the first class of twenty-one WACs who graduated from MP school at Fort Gordon, Ga., earlier this year. Both plan to go into some type of law enforcement work after leaving the service.

Diane's father, a career military man, encouraged her to join the Army, and Nancy had always wanted to work in law enforcement. Diane is from Anchorage, Alaska, and Nancy is from Sumter, S. C. They have been directing traffic and writing tickets for about six weeks now.

Fort Benning commander, congratulates Mrs. Betty I. Ashley on her nomination by Third Army for the Department of the Army Handicapped Employee of the Year award. Mrs. Ashley, who works in Supply Division, was honored at a ceremony attended by her friends and coworkers. She was nominated on the basis of her outstanding performance on the job, and was one of twenty-two civilians selected for participation in the annual award. (U.S. Army Photo by Staff Sgt. Jim Sanders).

3rd Army nominee named for handicapped employe of year

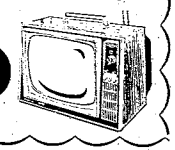
Mrs. Betty I. Ashley, a Civil Service employe at Fort Benning, has been selected as the Third United States Army nominee for the Department of the Army handicapped employee of the year award for 1972.

Mrs. Ashley was honored in a ceremony held Monday, March 26, at the Main Post Chapel Annex. Maj. Gen. Thomas M. Tarpley, Fort Benning commander, was present, as well as numerous friends and co-workers of Mrs. Ashley and Civilian Personnel Division officials.

Mrs. Ashley, who works in the material management section of supply division, Directorat of Industiral Operations, has worked at Fort Benning since 1957. She has received several outstanding performance ratings and quality step increases since her assignment to supply division.

Mrs. Ashley is a supply clerk at present; in the past she has held positions as a clerk-typist and purchasing agent. She has worked for the supply division of DIO since 1966.

She contacted poliomyelitis at the age of six. She has had extensive treatment at the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation, with assistance from the March of Dimes. She attended Jordan High School and Perry Business School, and she and her husband, Bernard L. Ashley, have one son.



Any handicapped employe of the Department of the Army is eligible for the award. Mrs. Ashley's nomination was made by a special board at Fort Benning. It was then submitted to Third Army, where she was chosen as the nominee for the Department on the Army award.

Mrs. Ashley was one of 21 highly qualified finalists considered by the Department of the Army. Although she was not selected as Army handicapped employe of the year, her nomination speaks very highly of her deserving qualities.

Receiving honorable mention for the nomination was Mr. Clarence M. Poole, administrative officer in the professional services section of Martin Army Hospital.

Easter service to be held April 22 at Gowdy Field

The 36th annual Easter sunrise service will be conducted at Fort Benning on April 22 at 6:30 a.m. Guest speaker for the service will be Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Gerhardt W. Hyatt, Chief of Chaplains, United States Army.

The service will be held on Gowdy Field, adjacent to Doughboy Stadium. In case of inclement weather, the service will be conducted in Marshall Auditorium, Infantry Hall. It will be open to the public.

Chaplain Hyatt, a Lutheran pastor, entered the United States Army as a chaplain in 1945. He has served in many capacities, becoming Army Chief of Chaplains on Aug. 1, 1971.

The Infantry Chorus, under the direction of 2nd Lt. Jay S. Taylor, will sing "Christ the Lord Hath Risen." The 283d U.S. Army Band and Trumpeters, under the direction of CWO Brian Arnold, will play for the service. The Infantry Center Chapel choir, under the direction of CWO Arnold, will sing "Gloria Excelsis."

The youth choir, under the direction of Mrs. Jane Walberg, will sing immediately before the service. The Infantry Center Chapel choir and the Infantry Chorus will sing "The Hallelujah Chorus from "The Messiah" at the close of the service. Several chaplains will also participate.

The 36th annual Easter sunrise service will be held at Gowdy Field on April 22 at 6:30 a.m. The service will be conducted in Marshall Auditorium in case of inclement weather. Guest speaker will be Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Gerhardt W. Hyatt, Chief of Chaplains, United States Army.

sic models from throughout the South. There will be a judo demonstration and displays from Six Flags Over Georgia, Westville, and the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts.

These attractions will be located on lower Broadway between 4th and 9th streets; the hours of operation are the same as for the tour of homes.

The antique show will be in the Fine Arts Building at the fairgrounds behind the Municipal Auditorium. Hours are: April 13, 6-9 p.m.; April 14, 10 a.m.-9 p.m.; April 15, noon to 6 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 at the door; children under 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Last year over 300 fisherman turned out to vie for the prizes provided by the Georgia-Alabama Fishing Club. All angling is on Lake Oliver, in Columbus, from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sat., April 14.

Panhellenic News

The Panhellenic Association held its March meeting in the home of Mrs. Steve Piper on March 22. Welcomed to the group were newcomers, Mrs. Mark Aycock and Mrs. Sandy MacPherson. Plans were discussed concerning a Columbus-Fort Benning area tea for sorority alumnae to be held May 16, 1:30-3:30 p.m. For reservations or information about the tea, please call Mrs. George Lovelace, 687-4187, or Mrs. Gary Craig, 689-5191.

Mrs. William Koehler volunterred to hostess the April 18 meeting. It will be at 7:30 p.m. Newcomers are encouraged to call Mrs. R. L. Brownlee for further details, 545-4637.

Combat BBOD Support Group

"This is your life — Jim Dunn," was the theme for a party of the Fort Benning Country Club on March 23. The officers and wives of COMBAT SUPPORT GROUP gathered to honor the Group Chief, Lt. Col. James T. Dunn and Mrs. Dunn. The highlight of the evening was a humorous skit dedicated to Lt. Col. Dunn, and the presentation of appropriate mementos from the Artillery, Engineer and NBC Committees.

Combat and Training Development

The ladies of C and TD were greeted with an invitation to the March coffee that sums up their dilemma:

Spring has sprung in the Agency-
Have we lost our identity?
Our men are moving all about,
Are we in, or - are we out?
No matter gals — We're birds of a feather-
What better time to get together
And talk about what the future will bring.
So, let's get together—
And celebrate Spring

The ladies heeded the call and gathered on March 21 to chat and speculate on what their fate will be.

Mrs. Arden Foss was welcomed. Fond farewell was bid to Mrs. Michael Kaido and Mrs. Joy McDonald as their husbands retire from active duty. Mrs. Douglas Hughes was again a visitor.

Thanks were extended to hostesses: Mesdames Willis Bacon, Seth Burkett and John Gibbs.

197th Inf. Bde.
3rd Bn. 7th Inf.

Beans and cornbread were the menu for a Hobo Party attended by the officers and ladies of the 3rd Bn. 7th Inf. (Cottonbalers), on March 30 at the USAIC Recreation Area, Fort Benning.

Dinner partners for the evening were selected by drawing names forming such illustrious pairs as Popeye and Olive Oil, Dick and Pat, and John Smith and Pocahontas. Rounding out the funfilled evening were contests in cotton picking, singing, and "feeding the baby." Great prizes of cornbread and canned beans were awarded the much-hailed winners.

Maj. and Mrs. Douglas Snell and the officers and ladies of the Battalion Staff did a great job in providing an evening of fun and laughter for all.

Volunteers Needed

Volunteers in grades E5, E6 and E7 are needed for assignment to U. S. Defense Attache offices overseas, according to the Department of the Army.

Applicants must type at least 45 words a minute and should be qualified in either MOS 71C, 71H, 71L, 73C, 73D or 96B and must meet all requirements of AR 611-60. Interested personnel should contact their personnel officer as soon as possible. Applications are required to be in DA no later than May 1.

Offset Pressman

An Offset Pressman Class is being offered by Project Transition to all eligible personnel. This class started April 9, 1973, however, it is an open ended class and students can be accepted at any time for a 6 weeks period of training. Any interested personnel who are within 6 months of their ETS or retirement date, please contact Project Transition at 545-1183, or come by Bldg. 35, Room 241.

Drinking-Driving

Drinking is indicated to be a factor in at least half of the fatal motor-vehicle accidents, according to special studies, the National Safety Council reports. Routine accident reports do not show the same frequency of drinking, but it is believed that such reports understate the frequency, because the necessary time and equipment are not available to perform alcohol tests on all of the persons involved in accidents.

Electrical Interruption

There will be an interruption of all electrical services in Bldgs. 972, 973, 974, 975, and 976 (Main Post) on Monday, April 16, 1973 from 0600-1100 hours. Occupants should prepare to operate without electricity during this period. This interruption is necessary for the contractor to make changes in the electrical system.

There will be an interruption of all electrical services in Buildings 170, 933, and 1600 (Main Post) on Monday, April 16, 1973 from 1330 to 1500 hours. Occupants should prepare to operate without electricity during that period. This interruption is necessary for the contractor to make changes in the electrical system.

Fire Inspection

An annual fire inspection will begin in Family Quarters on April 23, 1973, and will continue until all quarters have been inspected. These inspections will be made by uniformed Fire Department Inspectors. All noted fire hazards will be pointed out to the occupant at time of inspection, and recommendations made for correction of such deficiencies.

Commissary

All commissary stores will be closed April 22, 1973 in observance of Easter Sunday.

Road Close

Buena Vista Road will be closed from Hourglass Road southeast to Box Springs Road 0900-1700 hours, April 21, 1973.

When Secretary of State W.H. Seward bought Alaska for $7.2 million, people called it "Seward's Folly."

At less than 2¢ an acre, Alaska has turned out to be one of our nation's greatest bargains. Yet in 1867, when Seward agreed to buy Alaska from Russia, he became a target for ridicule. Many people dubbed Alaska "Seward's Folly" or "Seward's Icebox" considering it a frozen wasteland that was relatively valueless. Obviously, Seward saw values in buying Alaska that others didn't. It's just possible that he knew more about Alaska than the others.

Before you buy any land, make sure you know all there is to know about it. Then see who has the last laugh.

Many Americans interested in buying land are unsure about the best way to go about it. With these people in mind, Horizon Corporation has published a new 12-page booklet, entitled, "What You Should Know Before You Buy Land."

We'd like to send you a complimentary copy.

In this booklet, you'll find answers to the questions you'll be asking yourself as a prospective landowner. Such as, "Can I afford to buy land?" and "What are my objectives?" Then we go on to describe the various classifications of land, the stages of land development, and good development practices. And we supply you with a handy "Land Buyer's Checklist" of the questions you should ask and the reports you should read prior to purchasing any land.

The one thing you won't find in our booklet is a commercial for Horizon Corporation or the land we own. Because we're not trying to sell anything with this booklet. Our aim is to make potential land-buyers more knowledgeable about how, when, where and what to buy. It's to your advantage to know all the facts. And, frankly, it's to our advantage, too. Because the more you know about land, the more you'll appreciate what Horizon Corporation has to offer.

If you would like one or more copies sent to you, your friends, or civic and business groups, please fill out and mail the coupon. Or, for even faster action, call the phone number listed below.

43rd Eng. start major demo project

The first platoon of Company D, 43rd Engineer Battalion recently started a major demolition project on Main Post. The platoon is assigned the mission of demolishing 32 buildings in the 1300 area of Main Post, located near the Center Headquarters. The buildings consist of two story wood frame barracks and one story wood frame buildings. All serviceable items, such as heater fans, water heaters and plumbing fixtures have been removed prior to initiation of the demolition work. All scrap metal will be turned into the property disposal office. The entire area will be left in a clean and presentable condition for future construction.

The buildings are being torn down to make way for a new Junior High School which will be built in the vacated area.

The men who will be doing the work will use equipment such as bull dozers, cranes, trucks and various other demolition equipment. The officer in charge of the operation is Lieutenant Keith Slicer and the NCO in charge is Sergeant First Class James Madden.

Upon completion of the work on Main Post, the company will demolish an additional 16 buildings in Harmony Church and Sand Hill areas.

'For others first'

Engineering outfit always serving the Benning community

Service to Fort Benning and the Infantry School is the hallmark of the 931st Engineer Group. The "We Do For Others First" unit also serves the civilian community.

The 931st traces its origins to the 931st Aviation Regiment which was activated on June 11, 1943. The Regiment served at Luzon and New Guinea in World War II, in Japan, and in the Korean conflict.

One of the 931st's original units is the 67th Maintenance Battalion which began as Mechanical Repair Shop No. 305 in October, 1917.

The 43rd Auxiliary Forestry Battalion, now the 43rd Engineers, was created in January, 1918.

The 931st came to Benning in 1968 and was designated a major command in 1970.

The most remarkable feature of the 931st is its diversity. Construction, maintenance, writing, military police, finance and personnel services are the functions of the units within the 931st.

An individual who chooses the 931st can be a newspaper reporter, a scuba diver, a policeman, or learn construction.

Besides the daily work of activities manned by the 931st, the group has built the test facilities for the Dragon missile, resurfaced Sightseeing Road, and removed unneeded buildings.

In addition to its daily work, the 931st also serves the civilian community. Engineer equipment recently cleared a site for Goodwill Industries, Columbus. The 43rd Engineers have aided in work on a Boy Scout camp in Altamont, Tenn., and completed extensive construction for the Reserve Officers Training Corps program at the University of South Alabama, Mobile.

The 931st has played an important role in the VOLAR program to create a modern, professional Army and unit-of-choice recruiting.

Before the Army-wide emphasis on recruiting volunteers and improving Army life, the 931st had already begun several programs designed to improve the life style of the individual soldier.

In addition to making changes in its own unit, the 931st actively helped the modernization in other units by constructing two man rooms in the barracks. Thanks to the 43rd Engineers, privacy for the individual soldier became a physical reality.

The 931st began unit of choice recruiting in May, 1972. In five months, the unit had filled 1137 combat vacancies. Since that time, the 931st has joined with other post units in a station of choice recruiting program.

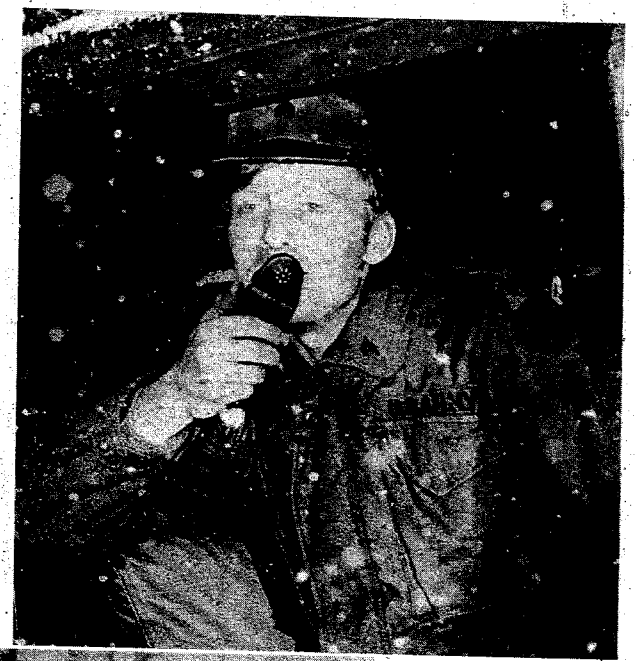
Expo 72

The modern Army and the opportunities it offers young men and women was the theme of Fort Benning's Action Army Expo '72. The 18 day, 1000 mile recruiting effort was conducted by men from the 931st.

The Expo featured various equipment used in training and combat situations. A Sheridan tank, an armored personnel carrier, and a scout dog were demonstrated to young people and their parents.

The most popular vehicle was the combat vehicle simulator (Hustler). The Hustler is a small vehicle which can cover all terrains. Children especially enjoyed the Hustler because they could ride in it.

Another popular demonstration was the Ranger rapelling. Two Rangers from the Florida Ranger Camp rapelled from tall buildings or towers in the local community.



Accompanying the Expo was a sound truck which played contemporary and march music at each stop on the tour.

For the visit in Demopolis, Ala., the Expo was joined by the Infantry Chorus, the 931st unit of choice combo,a nd the unit of choice basketball team.

The convoy was commanded by Lt. Col. Herman R. Betke, 67th Maintenance Battalion commander.

PVT Richard Thibodeau of D Co., 43rd Engr., Bn. participates in a DFAE-Project transition Class in masonry.

Sergeant James Smith keeps open radio networks during the record snow fall. He was just one of the many who put forth an extensive effort to keep things running smoothly.

Every kid's hero, superman, could move trees like this with a touch of his finger. Actual supermen like PFC James Barnett, use metal monsters like this bulldozer to give them the strength of the superheroes.

PT 931st Style

The army has always placed an emphasis on physical fitness and always will. Physical fitness is important and PT can help you attain it.

For a soldier to carry out a mission and still make it back to his base, he must bein top physical condition. Physical exercise or PT is what puts a man in shape.

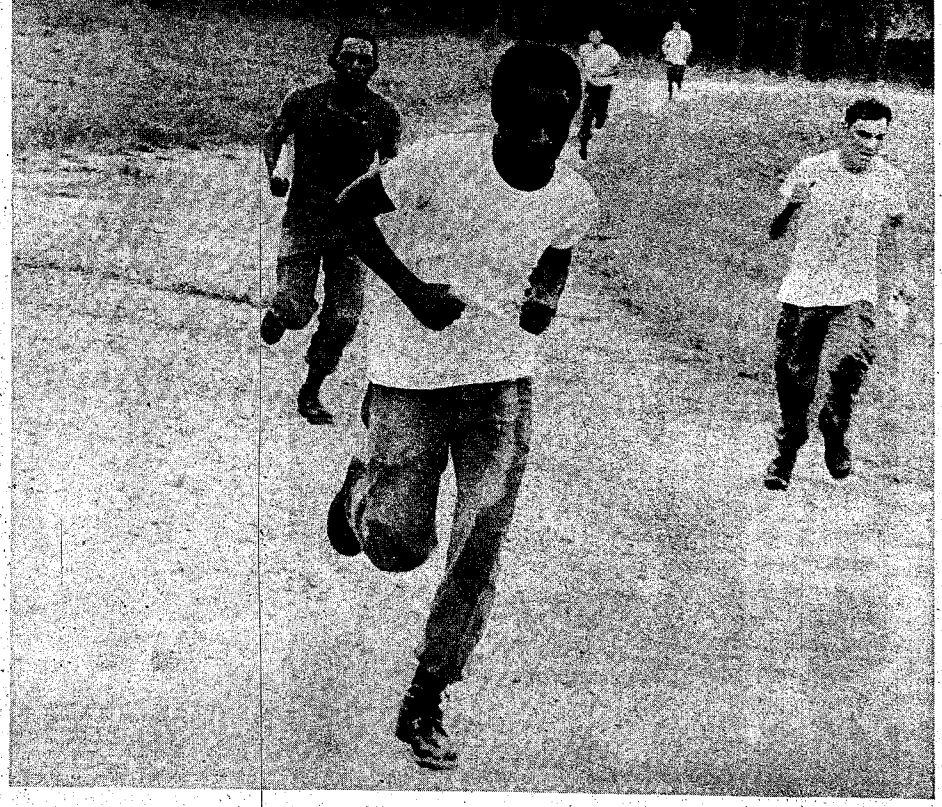
Although the army sees PT from a practical point of view, there are many other reasons for taking part in some type of physical activity.

One of the best reasons to follow a regular program of some type of exercise is that it can prolong your life. People who exercise regularly tend to live longer healthier lives.

Physical activity will build your heart muscles making it beat slower but stronger which means it does not have to work as hard. This could help save you from heart trouble later on in life.

A healthier body also means a more clear alert mind. You are not tired out as easily as before. A more alert mind can make you a more alert person, not one who is always lacking the energy to do his work and the things he would like to do.

Within the 931st not all the men have the same needs for their jobs so they do not all need a PT program that is the same.



The various programs have been designed to meet the needs of the different units. They also have been designed to change the attitude of the men towards PT.

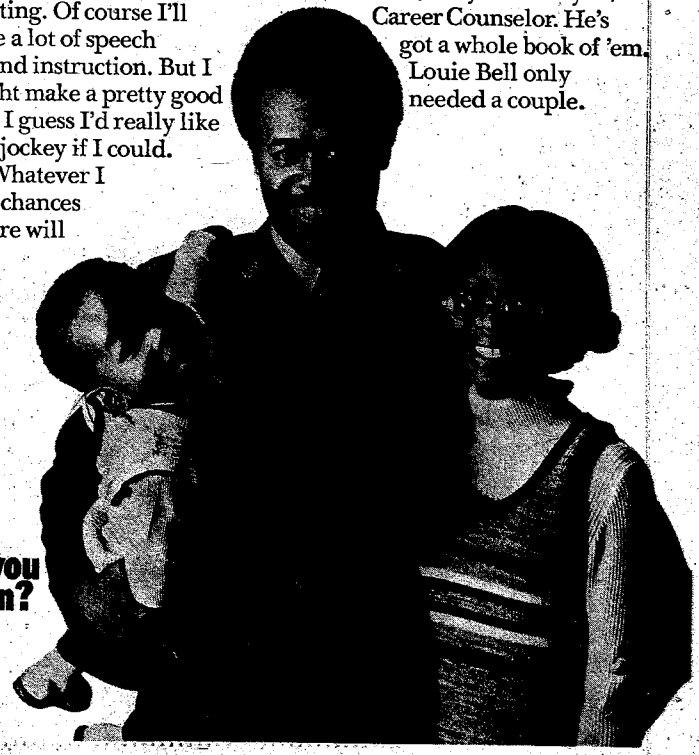
In the 43rd Engineers the men are giving PT four times weekly. They do calisthenics and run which serves to keep them in condition. On Wednesday afternoons the men get two hours to participate in some form of physicla activity, which is supervised.

The prblem of getting the men to want to take part in the PT program prompted a new approach to PT at HHC 931st. The program allowed four hours a week for PT but it did not prescribe any exercises.

This approach proved to be very popular with the men. Pvt John Squires of HHC 931st remarked that "the new PT program is the best they have come up with so far. I look forward to PT; before I used to hate to go out and do the daily dozen. I still do the daily dozen sometimes but when I want to, not because I have to."

The program has since been adopted by other units, including the 67th Maint. Bn. where it has been working well.

"When I came in I didn't have anything."

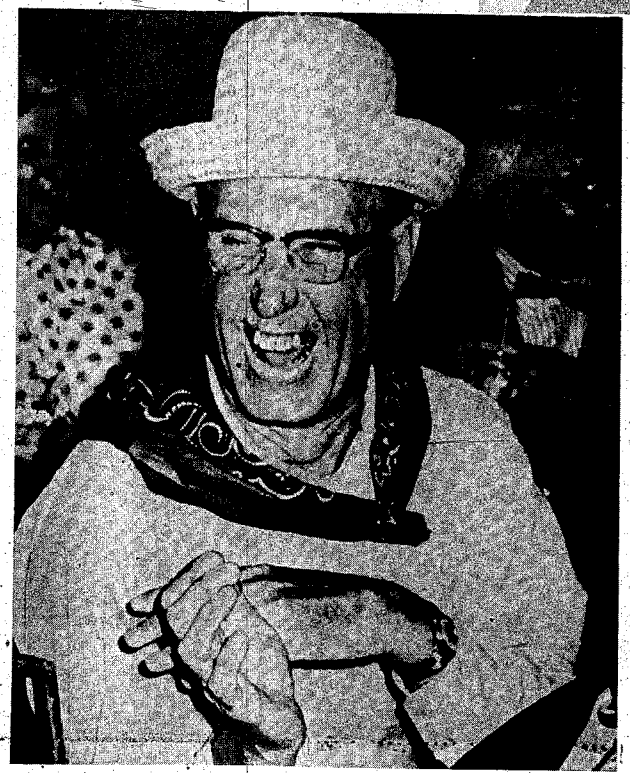


Sergeant Louie Bell just reenlisted for the first time. And he had some pretty good reasons.

"Look what I've got now. A steady income, a good job and a family. It's a lot more responsibility.

"I was studying business administration when I came in, but I think I'm going to change to broadcasting. Of course I'll have to take a lot of speech schooling and instruction. But I think I might make a pretty good announcer. I guess I'd really like to be a disc jockey if I could.

"Whatever I decide, my chances for the future will definitely be better now that I've decided to stay in the Army for a while. I'll be getting more education for when I get out. And Martha and Darrell will have a lot more security."



The education. The bonus. The security. Louie Bell found some pretty good reasons for reenlisting. If you're looking for reasons, see your Army Career Counselor. He's got a whole book of 'em. Louie Bell only needed a couple.

Why are you staying in?

Lecture to be held on vital problems

The Chaplain Division of Fort Benning is sponsoring a lecture dealing with the vital problems of parents and teen-agers. This program is scheduled for Sunday, April 29, from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. at the Infantry Center Chapel Annex.

The featured speaker, Rev. James DiGiacomo, S.J., is one of the country's leading experts in this field. He is a frequent lecturer at educational institutes and conventions.

Rev. DiGiacomo is the chairman of the religious studies department at Fordham Preparatory School, N. Y., and assistant professor of religious education at Fordham University. Prior to teaching at Fordham, he held a similar position at Loyola University.

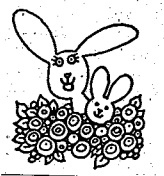
Rev. DiGiacomo is the author of Holt, Rinhart and Winston's Conscience and Concern, a widely used high school religion text, and of the book, We Were Never Their Age.

He is a frequent contributor to numerous magazines and journals. Since 1965, Rev. DiGiacomo has lectured to audiences in 36 states and four Canadian provinces.

All parents, teachers, social workers, and interested persons in the Fort Benning-Columbus area are invited to attend Rev. DiGiacomo's presentation.

Rev. James DiGiacomo, S. J., will present a lecture on the vital problems of parents and teenagers on Sunday, April 29 from 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Infantry Center Chapel Annex.

Dramatizers now accepting submissions



The Fort Benning Dramatizers are now accepting submissions for the summer production of a children's play.

Anyone who has a play to submit must remember that the play should be enjoyable for children; should not have a cast entirely of children; should have a relatively simple set; and each submitter must either direct his submission or have someone agree to direct prior to submitting it.

Persons interested in submitting a play are asked to contact the Fort Benning Playhouse, Bldg. 1237, on Ingersoll behind the Infantry Museum, by coming to the Playhouse or by calling 545-2932 or 545-5057.

Also, submitters are welcome to come to the Dramatizers' meetings, which are held each Monday evening at 7:30 and to the rehearsals for "The Cave Dwellers" which is the group's next production to be presented May 3, 4, 5, 11 and 12 at the Fort Benning Playhouse.

The Modern Volunteer Army strives to upgrade a man's skills not only so that he will be valuable to unit, but also so that he will have gained a skill he can use if he decides to leave the Army. Company D, 43rd Engineer Battalion (Construction) recently sent three men to attend a masons course given by project transition. The course, which was developed by DFAE and Project Transition, is six weeks in length and is designed to enhance the capabilities of the 43rd Engineer Battalion by training selected individuals in bricklaying and general masonry techniques. The three soldiers sent by Company D are SpS Robert L. Funderburke, Sp4 Wendell Jackson (above) and PV2 Richard J. Thibodeau. Upon completing the course the three men will be qualified to tackle the rebuilding of the brick wall at the USAIC Cemetery in support of DFAE.

931st clears Goodwill site

A future site for Goodwill Industries of Columbus was recently cleared by B Company, 43rd Engr. Bn., 931st Engineer Group.

2nd Lt. John Sullivan and SFC Richard Bivens had their platoon move some 22,000 cubic yards of earth. The 14-man Earth Moving Platoon completed the site preparation at Bradley Industrial Park in North Columbus early last month.

Capt. James E. King, B Company Commander, was given a plaque by Goodwill Industries in appreciation for services rendered by the Fort Benning unit. Additionally, the entire platoon was invited to a banquet the evening of the groundbreaking ceremony (March 9) at the Airport Holiday Inn.

"Having just come off a months stand down (a time designated to perform equipment maintenance) from the Christmas holidays, the men were really anxious to get back to doing something constructive," Sullivan said.

Freedom winners honored

Four soldiers and one member of the civilian community were honored Tuesday at the annual Freedoms Foundation luncheon at Fort Benning.

Mrs. Rozell Fabiani of Columbus, and Maj. Dick T. LeClere, Capt. William W. Brownell, Capt. John L. Carter, and Sgt. Floyd D. Bryant of Fort Benning were honored for their award-winning essays on the topic "Freedom Has A Price." The luncheon took place at the Main Officers Club at 12 noon. It was held in the Supper Club.

Guests included Maj. Gen. Heinz Guderian of the Republic of Germany; Congressman Jack Brinkley of Georgia; Congressman Bill Nichols of Alabama; and Gen. H. K. Johnson (retired), former Army Chief of Staff.

Also in attendance were Mayor Bob Hydrick of Columbus and Mayor Woodrow Wilson of Phenix City; Mr. Bill Heard, president of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce; and Mr. C. A. Woods, president of the Phenix City Chamber of Commerce.

Mortars

ion level demonstrate an increased indirect fire capability.

To further improve overall firepower, a lightweight squad automatic weapon, about half the weight of the M60, is being developed.

MOBILITY

A significant challenge facing Infantry in achieving better battlefield mobility is the lack of a mounted fighting capability. The M113 armored personnel carrier was a good vehicle in its time but the M113 is not a fighting vehicle, its mobility is no longer adequate, it is a poor swimmer, and it is extremely vulnerable to modern threat weapons.

Infantry has followed the development and military potential testing of the XR311 dune-buggy-type vehicle.

Development of a forward area, security, command and control, antiarmor and reconnaissance (FASCAR) vehicle, using the basic technology which produced the XR311 combat vehicle prototype, would significantly increase off-road mobility for performing a variety of Infantry tasks. This program is presently in the concept stage.

Looking toward airmobility in the future, Infantry needs a better aerial squad carrier. The utility tactical transport aircraft system (UTTAS) is programmed to eventually replace the UH 1.

HOW TO HOOK THEM!!!

Which one?

Shiners, worms, lures, flies...

Throughout the years BASS fishermen have disagreed on the best bait to catch ol' bucketmouth, live or artificial. Depending on fishing conditions and personal preference each is correct, For those who are just beginning to pursue bucketmouth, let's take a look at the pros and cons of each bait.

Live Bait

In this area the favorite natural baits are shiners, shad, frogs, earthworms; and small snakes. The most important aspect of fishing natural baits is to insure they are alive. Minnow buckets will keep bait live for short periods of time, and since most boats don't have live wells, they are the most commonly used containers.

The use of natural bait requires as much skill as does the use of artificials. There are times when any bait dropped into the water will catch bass — but seldom. In most cases the least amount of weight you use the better. This will allow your bait, to move freely on the bottom and attract bass. The same holds true for the bobber, the smaller the better.

Live bait which is mobile like the shiner and shad should be allowed to move around with total freedom. This calls for light monofilament with no sinker or bobber. Some of the biggest bass ever taken were caught on shiners allowed to swim free.

So far the discussion on live bait sounds good; however, there are a few problem areas. The biggest problem for the beginner is knowing when the bass has the live bait. When using a bobber, its obvious, but when the bait is moving freely it takes experience to determine a strike from obstructions on the bottom. It's a good idea when fishing without a bobber to count to ten before striking, this allows the bass to swallow the bait which increases your chances of hooking him.

Artificials

In the past few decades, artificial baits have gained in popularity for bass fishing. Every bait and tackle store is loaded with artificial baits in all sizes, shapes, and colors. Under the proper conditions most of these artificials would probably catch bass; however, there are certain characteristics to look for. The six most important characteristics of an artificial lure are action, color, depth, speed, feel, and size.

Action — When you buy a lure, take time to read the instruction sheet that comes with it. Much time and effort goes into the production of a lure and the manufacturer probably knows the best way to fish it. Experiment with the lure, to see if your manipulations can add something to it. You may be surprised.

Color — Bass can distinguish colors, especially in clear water. Depending on the clarity of the water you should select a lure that you can see the best at various depths. For example, if you choose a lure that is visible only six inches underwater to you, chances are the bass will have difficulty seeing it too.

Few fishermen will agree on the best bait to catch ol' bucketmouth. Numerous trophy size bass have been caught on both live bait and artificials. Try your favorite bait and if it works, fine, if not don't hesitate to switch. THE CHOICE IS YOURS.

Capt. Fred Paavola, head coach, and Michelle Borden dispay trophy that the Baracudas received for their second place finish during the Pensacola Winter Invitational Swim Meet held March 24 and 25 at Pensacola, Fla. Paavola is on orders for Alaska, leaving in May. Anybody interested in taking over as head coach should contact CSM Rodriguez at 545-6151 or secretary Mrs. Sawczyn - 545-4830.

Local orienteers wipe out Ohio

Four members of the Ranger Department's orienteering team and a man from Martin Army Hospital Medical Company took five first place awards in the Ohio Open Orienteering Championships, April 1, at Tar Hollow State Park, Ohio.

The five orienteers overcame rugged terrain and many misplaced control markers to post the fastest times of the day on the elite and advanced men's courses.

Sp5 Dennis McCullough had the best time of 108:35 on the 8.1 kilometer blue course. Capt. Edward Strabel was 30 seconds behind him. Sp5 Bill Mellars and Capt. Jon Nolan posted times of 114.37, and 131.22 respectively.

In the advanced men's class Sp4 Tom Gerrod, a physical therapist at Martin Army Hospital, received a first place award for his time of 149.12 on the 7.15 kilometer red course.

The Ranger Department orienteers also presented two instructional orienteering clinics March 31 to over 60, military and civilian personnel attending the championships.

197th clinches lead

Major Unit league handball is coming to a close, and the School Brigade has made its move and is holding on to second place.

The 197th has clinched first place and can't be touched. There is only one game separating TSB and the 931st, so the question of second place is still to be decided.

In the match between the 197th Inf. Bde. and TSB on April 5th, TSB had rough going, getting knocked off 14-4.

In the next scheduled game on Friday night the 197th was to have met the 931st Engineer Gp., but the 931st failed to show up and forfeited the game. Monday, April 9th TSB was slated to meet the 931st, but once again they didn't appear and foreited.

By Bill Kloeb

Every year about this time some stores begin to feature the sale of baby ducks, chickens and rabbits as Easter gifts for small children. Each year thousands of parents buy these "cute pets" for their children and each year the poor pet suffers the same fate.

They are smothered, squeezed, choked and generally manhandled by well meaning smallfry until they finally die. Some are not so fortunate. They live to suffer longer. They dirty all over the house and soon are banished to the outdoors where they die of exposure, ending a bad situation that should never have existed in the first place.

Some are handy creatures and despite everything they continue to live. Parents who purchased these hardy types are the ones who get the most trouble. They are stuck with an unresponsible, untrainable, bothersome "pet" that haunts them long after most people have forgotten about Easter and are planning a summer vacation. The Easter pets pose an additional problem here too. Who wants to take care of a chicken, rabbit or duck for a couple of weeks while the owner is enjoying a vacation?

Chickens, rabbits and ducks are very low on the intelligence sale for animals. Even the most patient trainer has trouble in educating them. Have you ever seen one that was house broke?

All three of these creatures have bad reputations. Every grown up has heard the expressions "dumb bunny" or "dumb duck". When used as slang, the word chicken is anything but complimentary. These terms were originated by farm people who knew their farm birds and animals. A farmer would never try to make a pet of a rabbit, duck or chicken. They won't show affection like a cat or dog. They aren't good at learning tricks and they can't be taught to talk. At best they can be trained to come to someone who is going to feed them.

Nevertheless they can feel pain, are uncomfortable under adverse conditions and deserve a fate better than being a temporary Easter pet.

Parents should think twice and then again before buying live Easter presents. The kids enjoy them for such a short time. The bird or bunny doesn't enjoy the situation at all. The only ones who really get anything out of the whole thing are the parents and all they get is trouble.

Chicken, rabbit and duck are good substitutes for beef or pork on the dinner table but when it comes to Easter presents everyone will be better off if they stay with chocolate and hard boiled eggs.

Fish is a good substitute for red meat in the diet but the freezers of local fishermen must be taking a real beating these days. From all reports no one is accomplishing much in the way of putting anything in those freezers. The almost continuous stretch of rainy days has loused up the water all over the country.

The fishermen really hurting from the weather are the avid bass fishermen. Usually by this time a lot of the fishermen I know have caught enough white bass to fill the freezer. This year if there has been a white bass run up the Chattahoochee River the fishermen haven't been aware of it. Full stringers of white bass have been a rarity.

The lack of sunshine may also have an adverse effect on the hatches of crappy, bream and bass. These fish are already full of roe. Have been for some time now. They usually wait until the water temperature is around 65 degrees before they go on the spawning beds. Lack of the warming sunshine could force them into water more shallow than that in which they usually bed. The shallow water may satisfy the fishes requirement as to temperatuure but in the end it could be the finish of the batch if the water receeds leaving the eggs high and dry.

Should the weather this weekend turn out to be as bad as that of the preceeding weekends don't count it a total loss. You can learn a lot about snakes Saturday afternoon if you tune in the Ridley Bell Sportsmans Lodge program on WRBL TV-3. Lt. Chris Kearns of the Ranger Department and Ridley will talk about the various types of snakes found in this area.

TSB versus City Fathers in Golden Park twin bill

The School Brigade's "Over the Hill Gang" will meet the City Fathers of Columbus in a softball showdown at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Golden Park.

"School Brigade Night" will feature a TSB team consisting of senior NCO's and Field Grade Officers, including Col. Allen M. Goodson, brigade commander.

The "City Fathers" team is a group of prominent Columbus citizens, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Immediately following the TSB game the Columbus Astros baseball team will meet Knoxville in the third game of their regular season.

The reason for this special night is twofold. First, it will foster better relations between Fort Benning and the civilian community. Second, the game will be assisting a worthy cause. Normally tickets cost $1.50 to Astros games alone, but for this special event admission tickets are only $1 for both games and $.50 from each ticket will be donated to the community activities association.

Tickets can be purchased from unit project officers.

TSB gets ready for softball

The 1973 School Brigade Company level softball season is almost ready to begin.

The season is scheduled to run from April 16 to August 17th under the supervision of TSB's Athletics and Recreation Office (A-R). All military personnel assigned to a TSB unit are eligible to play in the league. Each team will be allowed 15 members and one coach. Units not able to field full teams may join with other units under the approval of TSB's A-R NCO.

The two teams with the best won-lost record at the end of the regular season will represent TSB in the Post tournament to decide the Fort Benning softball champions.

The well-bred family car from British Leyland.

Austin Marina

The Marina is well-bred because it comes from an exceptionally well-bred family of cars. The result being that the Marina has rack and pinion steering like the Jaguar's. The race-toughened engine of an MGB. A rugged transmission and disc brakes like the Triumph's. And the same parentage as the tough Land Rover. Test drive the Marina as soon as you can.

Spec. Davis, 43rd Eng. graduates from NCOA

Specialist five Liartis Davis of C Company, 43rd Engineer Battalion, has just graduated from the Third Army NCO Academy at Ft. Jackson, South Carolina.

Graduating on March 23 Sp5 Davis racked up 846 points and a position in the top quarter of his class.

Sp5 Davis is a carpenter and assistant squad leader in the first platoon of C Company. He makes his home in Brundidge, Alabama. He originally left the service as a Sp5 in February 1972, but returned as a Unit of Choice volunteer for the 93ist Engineer Group in June of 1972 and received his old rank.

When speaking of the NCO Academy, Sp5 Davis said he was most impressed by the training he received in the responsibilities of leadership. The techniques of teaching and the procedures around Courts and Boards.

Sp5 Davis is enthused with the overall program and advises anyone who might be interested to give it a try because, as he puts it, "if you have your stuff together it is not as tough as could be expected."

Now that Sp5 Davis is back in his home unit, he will be assuming the duties of his former squad leader who is now attending an NCOES basic course.

Sp5 Davis takes pride in the letter of congratulations from his Battalion Commander, Lieutenant Colonel R. J. Rappaport, and promises to make full use of his new found skills.

Before selling check with VA

The Veterans Administration, mindful of the spring homebuying season, cautions veterans, with thoughts of selling homes purchased with G.I. home loans, to get "releases of liability" from VA if the loan is assumed by the buyer.

Loan guaranty officials explained that unless a veteran asks for and receives a "release from liability" from the VA office which guaranteed his home loan, he will be liable for payment in the event of default by the purchaser.

Getting a "release from further liability" is simple, officials noted, provided certain conditions are met:

— the veteran's loan must be current.

— the purchaser must agree to assume the veteran's liabilities.

— the prospective purchaser must be a good credit risk.

— income must be sufficient to cover payments on G.I. loan.

It was pointed out, however, that a "release of liability" does not automatically restore G.I. loan entitlement the veteran used to purchase the home he sold.

VA may restore entitlement only under certain conditions — mostly those which the agency considers "compelling reasons" for disposing of the property.

At any rate, officials urged veterans who plan to sell G.I. homes (subject to the veterans' mortgage) to apply for a "release" from the VA office which guaranteed their loans before finalizing sales.

FOOLING AROUND with fireworks is dangerous business under any conditions, and practical jokers add that much more risk. Use extreme caution this July 4 if you plan to shoot the works. For a quieter diversion, find the six differences in these two cartoons.

ANSWERS

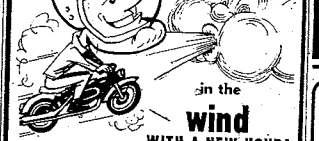
THE FUSSY FOLKS

Usually spend much time and effort searching many car lots for those "extra nice" cars when they are ready to trade—they know that percentage wise there just aren't that many original "less used," "low mileage" cars among the mill runs" so 99 percent of all dealer trade-ins.



BUT SMITTY "FINDS THEM"

Yes, smitty's job is doing the te t work, the screening, the travel in, calling on hundreds of his dealer friends, to select approximately a 200 miles radius, the best cars of "special quality," a selection of cars he is proud to offer with "great pride," and will sell at "correct market prices," that he can back up with a "money back guarantee" it's the only way to do business.

BAYONET

Front page Art by Bill Dolan

VOL. 31, NO. 32 | FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1973 | 36 PAGES — 10c

"Published each Friday by the R. W. Page Corporation, Columbus, Ga., a private firm in no way connected with the Department of Army. Between meal sweets dangerous to teeth

This is the fifth in a series of six articles on dental health published by The Bayonet in cooperation with the Fort Benning Dental Service.

You've mentioned sugar as a major source of the acid that creates decay. Are there any special rules about diet a person should follow to help preserve dental health?

Certainly, cutting down on sweet or sugary foods is an important part of dental nutrition. We know that very few people can — or will — entirely eliminate sweets from their diet, but limiting the amount that is consumed will go a long way to keep the acid attacks down to a controllable level.

Generally, nutrition in relation to dental health follows the same rules when applied to overall health. For example, what, how much and how often you eat are important. Making sure you meet the daily requirements for basic nutrition is a critical step.

Become acquainted with the four basic food groups: Milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and bread and cereals. At minimum, you should make certain your daily diet includes a representative food from each of these groups.

Your dentist may suggest you keep a daily diary of everything you eat. If you are honest as well as accurate, this will be a big help to your dentist in evaluating your diet to determine just what type of diet is right for you to maintain both dental and general health.

Since we've agreed that sugar consumption is directly related to decay, the kinds of sweets you eat and how often you eat them is important. For example, avoid between-meal snacks, particularly if they are from the sugary food group.

If you do like to snack, try to limit your snacking to such foods as raw vegetables, milk, cheese, nuts, eggs, fresh fruits, luncheon meats, sugarless candy or gum and dietetic soft drinks.

On the other side of the spectrum, avoid as snacks such foods as jams jellies, syrups, dried fruits and all kinds of sugar candies and pastries.

Basically, the most important things you can do every day to prevent dental disease are:

— Eat a nutritious, well-balanced diet, selecting from the four major food groups;

— Cut down on between-meal snacks, or at least avoid sweet snack foods;

— Clean your teeth thoroughly at least once a day with brush and floss to disrupt the plaque-forming process;

— Use a fluoridated toothpaste to help your teeth withstand acid attacks.

Keeping in mind the importance of plaque removal, good diet and the benefits of fluoride will keep you at a peak of oral health.

Crash team ready 24 hours a day

Twenty-four hours each day the Lawson Army Airfield Crash and Rescue crew is standing by to save lives, sacrificing their own lives if necessary. What is Crash and Rescue? It is a team whose primary aim is to extract injured individuals from the twisted and burning wreckage of aircraft. Once the injured have been removed, an ambulance with a medic is standing by to take over.

Should an emergency arise, such as an aircraft accident or impending accident, crash and rescue men are spurred to instant action by alert phone. In the case of an in-flight emergency the crash and rescue crew proceed to and standby at predesignated locations on the airfield. They also standby at their designated locations whenever helicopters perform autorotations. Just for insurance, Crash and Rescue is right on hand each time the huge Boeing 727 Medivac Transport comes in.

The Crash and Rescue team operates on 24 hour shifts with 8 men per shift. 2 Crash and Rescue trucks and an ambulance are manned at all times.

Red Cross The good neighbor.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Bill King

Pureed apricot jam gives a lovely golden glaze to holiday baked ham.

Hot cross buns, with their crosses of frosting, can be made easily by adding raisins to ready-to-bake bread dough. Just bake and frost.

Pineapple is one of the best fruits to use in combination with meats, fish, and poultry. It makes a delicious accompaniment for ham, pork, shrimp, chicken and duck.

A pan reserved for omelets should never be washed. Just wipe out thoroughly with a paper towel after each use.

Matzoh, unleavened bread in the form of large crackers eaten during the Passover holiday, symbolizes the hardship of flight, and serves as a reminder to Jews that the struggle for freedom is always difficult.

TSB holds all day race relations seminar

Kings Pond recreation area was the scene of an all day Race Relations workshop held by 50th Co., 5th Stu. Bn., TSB, on Friday, April 13, under the guidance of Senior Candidate Charles Fussell.

This was actually a continuation of a half day program on race relations held in the battalion classroom, on Tuesday April 10.

The half day program, directed by Capt. Shields and Staff Sergeant Warr, of the race relation committee of the Leadership Dept., included a film, "Eye of the Storm," and a question and answer period. The film brought out questions pertaining to the birth of racial prejudice, and promoted many candidates to tell of their own experience with prejudice.

The workshop resumed Friday at Kings Pond at 10 A.M. with a panel discussion. The panel was made up of enlisted personnel and officers from various units on post. The panel was to last one hour, but because of the quality of the panel and the participation of the candidates, it lasted all morning.

In the afternoon the candidates were divided into sections for the group discussion portion of the program. The various sections discussed the following topics: racial indicators, racial problems and drug abuse, law and order vs. law and justice, social and political changes through violence and non-violence, and trusting the chain of command.

The workshop made the candidates aware of the problems they would face as officers; it also showed them they had prejudices of their own which needed reevaluation.

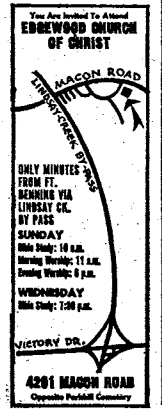
AER/ARS makes 64% of fund goal



The Army Emergency Relief-Army Relief Society fund drive has reached 64 pct. of its $20,000 goal this year, according to James F. Schoonover, secretary-treasurer of the Community Activities Association.

$12,786.59 has been collected to date. Eleven activities on post have reached their goals, and contributions have been made by all activities. Deadline for contributions is April 30.

Army Emergency Relief, which is part of Army Community Service, exists to serve the soldier who is in need of financial help in times of crisis. Money can be loaned for medical bills or other emergency expenses.

Cottonbalers

Most decorated unit comes to 197th

The newest Infantry unit at Fort Benning is one of the oldest in the Army and one of the most decorated and experienced combat units in active service.

Activated during the reorganization of the 197th Infantry Brigade, the 3rd Battalion, 7th Infantry (Cottonbalers), carries battle streamers from 74 campaigns in ten major conflicts since its first action during the War of 1812.

It was in the battle of New Orleans, late in 1814, that the Seventh Infantry Regiment repulsed an onslaught of British attackers. They defeated the Redcoats with precise rifle fire from behind an emergency defense line built of cotton bales. Thereafter, it was known as the "Cottonbaler" Regiment, a name which was incorporated into its colors and regimental crest.

While it was fighting its way into the history books, the 7th Infantry was led by several generals who later became presidents.

Gen. Andrew Jackson was in charge of the unit when it crushed the British forces at New Orleans. Prior to that, Gen. William Henry Harrison had guided the 7th Infantry's victorious effort against the Indians at Battle Ground, Ind., in 1811.

The 7th Infantry fought under Gen. Zachary Taylor in the Mexican War.

It had distinguished itself through fierce fighting in the Civil War at Gettysburg, Frederickburg, Chancellorsville and Chickamauga.

Following the massacre of the 7th Cavalry at Little Big Horn in 1877, the Cottonbalers rescued the surviving elements of Gen. Custer's command.

In World War I, the Cottonbalers, seasoned after campaigns in the War with Spain and the Philippine Insurrection, were assigned to the 3rd Infantry Division and earned the French Croix de Guerre for their deeds in the offensive actions at Aisne-Marne, Meuse Argonne and St. Mihiel.

When the Americans entered World War II, the Cottonbalers were sent in with the first U.S. units at Fedala, Morocco in November, 1942. After taking Fedala, the 7th moved inland, winning victories at Casablanca, and in Algeria and Tunisia.

In Europe, the Cottonbalers fought extensively in Italy, then participated in heavy action in France and Germany. The 7th Infantry also perpetrated one of the most daring exploits of the war—storming and taking Hitler's mountain fortress at Berchtesgaden.

The unit won three Presidential Unit Citations for key fighting in the Korean conflict.

Again in Vietnam, the "Willing and Able" 7th Infantry, organized in June, 1966, at Fort Benning and assigned to the 199th Infantry Brigade. The Cottonbalers won the Valorous Unit Award, the Vietnamese Civic Action Medal and two Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry Medals.

In 1970, the 3rd - 7th was inactivated at Fort Benning and its colors retired.

Easter Sunrise Service

The 36th annual Easter Sunrise Service will be conducted this Easter, April 22, at 6:30 a.m. on Gowdy Fied. In case of inclement weather, the service will be hed in Marshal Auditorium, Infantry Hall.

Guest speaker for the service will be Army Chief of Chaplains, Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Gerhardt W. Hyatt. Chaplain Hyatt was born at Melfort, Saskatchewan, Canada, the son of Rev. Francis W. Hyatt, who pioneered in establishing Lutheran missions in Canada.

Hyatt is a graduate of Concordia College, Edmonton, Alberta, and Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo.

He received a master of arts from Georgia Washington University, Washington, D.C.

Prior to entrance into the Army Chaplaincy, Chaplain Hyatt served as pastor of the Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Richmond, Va., in 1942-43; and Our Saviour Lutheran Church, Raleigh, N.C., 1944-45.

Chaplain Hyatt entered the Army as a chaplain in June, 1945. He served with the 24th Infantry during the Korean conflict, receiving a battlefield promotion to captain. In his initial tour of assignment to the Office of Chief of Chaplains, April, 1952, to June, 1955, he was responsible for the design of the modern Army chapel centers and developed further programs which led to the construction of the Army's modern permanent chapels.

His other assignments include office of chief of chaplains (1959-60; 1966-68); office of the deputy chief of staff, personnel (1960-63); division chaplain, 3rd armored Division, Germany (1964-66); deputy chaplain, U.S. Army Europe (1966); staff chaplain, Military Assistance Command, Vietnam (1968-69); staff chaplain, U.S. Continental Army Command (1969); and deupty chief of chaplains (1970-71).

He is the recipient of the Four Chaplains Award from the Alexander D. Goode-Ben Goldman Lodge of B'nai B'rith. He also holds an honorary Doctor of Divinity from Concordia Seminary.

He is married to the Va., in 1952, and a Lutheran mission, now Grace Lutheran Church, in Woodbridge, Va., in 1959.

Flight surgeons control aviation

Aviation is an important part of the Army and Aerospace Medicine is an important part of Aviation.

More specifically, this refers to Army flight surgeons who practice Aerospace Medicine. You might say that the flight surgeon controls aviation to a large degree because his responsibility is the physical and emotional well-being of all persons, directly connected with Aviation.

To understand this complicated responsibility, you must realize that aviation requires peak performance at all times to function efficiently and safely. This pertains not only to flight crew members but also to maintenance personnel and air traffic controllers as well. Even a slight case of the common cold can be dangerous in Aviation.

For example a pressure change while flying can have drastic effects on an individual with blocked sinus and/or ear passages.

The Flight Surgeon must decide what medication is required, and whether it will affect the individuals job performance. This is much more critical than one might expect. Even a slight impairment to a person's vision, hearing or sense of balance could be unsafe for flying personnel. As a general rule, a limited amount of aspirin and some decongestants are the only medications that can be taken without placing flight restrictions on the person taking them.

The Flight Surgeon receives advanced training on the eye, ear, nose, throat, heart and lungs since aviation duties require peak performance in these areas. He also attends a two month course at Fort Rucker. This training covers aviation safety, A-C and individual capabilities and requirements and the effects of air travel on individuals. Basic areodymanics, especially pertaining to helicopters is also covered.

The Flight Surgeon is also very much invalued in aviation safety. He attends A-C accident investigation boards to assist in determining the cause of and possible ways to prevent A-C accidents.

In coordination with the aviation laboratory at Fort Rucker, the Flight Surgeon makes recommendations on Flight Helmet design, Flying clothes and equipment, functional cockpit designs, etc.

Aircraft safety, airfield safety and individual physical and emotional fitness are closely monitored by the Flight Surgeon and he also conducts annual Flight physicals of all aviation personnel as required by DA.

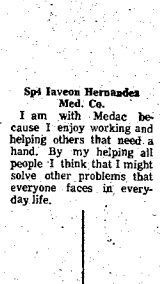
Why did you choose to be in Meddac?



PFC Glenda Oxenrider
Med. Co.

I enlisted for the educational benefits and to become a Licensed Practical nurse. I had never been in the medical field before I enlisted, I thought it would be like I had seen it on T.V. little white uniforms with the girls all prettied up but I found out that there is a lot of work that comes with the job.

PFC Ricky Russell
2nd Evac.

I enjoy working with people that is the main reason that I choose Medac. I am planning to go to college and to medical school and eventually become a doctor while I'm in the Army. My role now will give me a good start for my future goal.

Spc Iaveon Hernandez
Med. Co.

I am with Medac because I enjoy working and helping others that need a hand. By my helping all people I think that I might solve other problems that everyone faces in everyday life.

Spc Andrew Davis
2nd EVAC

When I was overseas in Korea I would watch the medics work, that's when I first decided to try to become a medic. After my tour was over I decided to reenlist in the medical field. I enjoy helping others that can't help themselves.

PFC James H. Smith Jr.
Med. Co.

I first started getting interested in the medical profession when I was 14. I used to hang around an ambulance and emergency team that was operating in my home town. I learned a lot of first aid and fundamentals there. On my 16th birthday for a present the driver let me go out on an emergency run. I later worked on the rescue squad which I am still a part in. I wanted to pursue the medical field further so I joined the Army in the medical field.

Publisher, councilman attend 197th seminar

A Columbus city councilman and the assistant publisher of a local newspaper attended the 197th Infantry Brigade's Race Relations-Equal Opportunity seminar Monday to discuss Columbus area-related aspects of the subject with officers and soldiers attending the conference.

Councilman Jack Bassett, appearing on behalf of the consolidated government council, offered his views on urban problems bearing on the race relations-equal opportunity issue.

Responding to a soldier's question, Bassett declared that the tendency of businesses to move from the central city to the suburbs was a natural phenomenon, resulting from the desire of local suburbanites to shop near their homes.

He said that although this places inner city residents at a disadvantage, the dwindling number of such citizens necessitated the moves for a number of enterprises.

Bassett was joined by Jim Carter, assistant publisher of the Columbus Times, a black-oriented newspaper published locally, in exchanging opinions with soldiers on certain facets of race relations-equal opportunity matters in the civilian domain.

Capt. Lacy Taylor is race relations-equal opportunity coordinator for the 197th Brigade. Tyler introduced the guests to those attending and presented a summary of the brigade's program, including several milestones reached and surpassed in its development.

One of the most recent of these marks, part of an effort to develop and maintain rapport with civilian entities, was an exchange of visits between the 197th Brigade and members and cadets of the Army ROTC department at Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga.

The brigade seminar, a quarterly occurrence, is part of the overall race relations-equal opportunity program in the 197th, with each level of command participating actively and regularly. Units often inject their own ideas into the program, tailoring the instruction to their tastes.

As a result, innovations, such as the addition of dependents to battalion seminars, are frequent.

'Super Battery' conducts RSOP

"Super Battery," Btry. C, 2d Bn., 10th FA, 197th Inf. Bde., recently conducted a two day battery size Reconnaissance, Selection, and Occupation of Position (RSOP) exercise.

The exercise was one of a continuing number of field problems conducted by Btry. C, designed to improve the unit's ability to move, shoot, and communicate.

The objective of the exercise was to move from one position to another rapidly, deliver the greatest amount of fire power on the target in a limited amount of time. In other words, "shoot and scoot."

The first day of the exercise began as Btry. C moved out of the assembly area and into its first firing position. After a short time, this position became untenable due to simulated enemy activity in the area and the battery was forced to relocate into a new position. Before settling into a defensive position for the night, the battery moved four times.

On the second day, the battery delivered fire from two more locations, including a direct fire mission. After this firing, Btry. C returned to its assembly area, ready to be deployed.

"No amount of training within garrison," said SSG Donald A. Renier, section chief of the Fire Direction Center, "can match the training gained in a field exercise."

Abortions

Not necessarily a complicated process

Articles by Bill Brownell

THE ABORTION ENTANGLEMENT

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first part of a two-part article on abortions and the services and facilities available.)

"We are not abortionists, but we believe that women are better off psychologically without being forced into motherhood," says Col. (Dr.) Billy D. Burk, chief of Obstetrics and Gynecology (OB-GYN) at Martin Army Hospital (MAH). "The unwanted child, or for that matter, the unwanted pregnancy, is far more undesirable."

Webster's Dictionary defines "abortion" as "the expulsion of the human fetus prematurely, particularly at any time before it is viable (capable of living outside of the mother); a miscarriage."

History of Policy

Beginning in July 1970, the policy was uniform throughout the services — "to preserve the physical or mental health of the patient."

A presidential order in April 1971 required military posts to restrict abortions based on the law of the state in which located.

A Supreme Court ruling in January declared most state laws unconstitutional and stated that abortion was a private matter between a patient and the physician for the first six months of pregnancy. The governor of Georgia signed into law a new bill on abortion on April 17. "The requirement for psychiatric analysis," according to Dr. Burk, "will probably remain unchanged at MAH."

Sexual Ignorance

In the November 15, 1972, issue of Family magazine, Capt. (Dr.) Frank Billingsley, OBY-GYN staff, National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md., says that 90 per cent of the 15- to 19-year-olds are not using any form of birth control (contraceptives). The girl may be too embarrssed to ask her parents or the family doctor about birth control. Too many girls, who have adult bodies at 12, never see a gynecologist until they're well into their twenties.

"Many young women refrain from using contraceptives because they feel it admits permissiveness," said Dr. Burk.

Dr. Billingsley feels that too many parents avoid their responsibilities as parents in providing sex education and are themselves plagued with myths. Coupled with the fear of the embarrassing ignorance, he believes that birth control should be put in hands of educaters and taken out of the hands of the physicians.

A psychiatric exam for an abortion isn't necessarily a complicated process. Usually, it's a very routine interview. The social stigma related to having been to "shrink" scares many young women away.

Servicewomen And Children

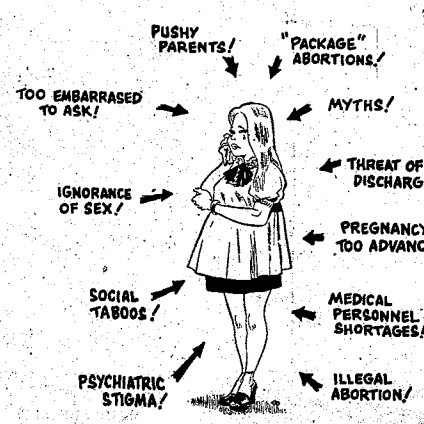
The problems associated with women in the Army becoming pregnant are many. Generally, the Army policy requires the women to initiate a request for discharge or retirement or request to remain on active duty. If an unwedded woman aborts the child before the discharge can be processed, she may request withdrawal of the retirement or discharge. Approval may depend on the recommendations by the commander and job supervisor. The abortion becomes a permanent part of her administrative unit records and medical records.

To avoid all this, the woman may elect to secretly take leave and travel to a state where the abortion is simple and fast. There are special "package deals" that are available. These include air travel, hospitalization, the abortion, meals and the return trip.' Quite often, these commercialized package deals are cheaper than the nearby abortionist, and in most instances, safer.

If the unwedded servicewoman is discharged, she probably leaves without a job or a husband. If she keeps the baby, the moral stigma of being a "loose" woman with an "illegit" kid will probably accompany her.

Who Elects Abortion

Nationwide, six per cent of pregnant military wives and servicewomen choose abortion. Until the court ruling, the majority of states permitted abortion in cases of rape, incest, malformed fetus, or when the life or health of the mother were jeopardized.



"The unwed teen-ager comprises the majority of abortions performed at MAH," said Dr. Burk. "The sad thing is that no parental consent is needed for contraceptive counseling. The answer is hopefully there. Few people probably know of this service."

"Any differences in last year's and this year's abortion figures must be attributed more to a change in laws which reflect the rise in 'reported' abortions than increases in sexual permissiveness," continued Dr. Burk. "I don't think there is much of a 'pill scare.' Contraceptive techniques have actually cut the need for abortions."

Dr. Burk added, "Less than two per cent of all abortions performed here in 1972 were repeats. One of those was a rape case. If there are more, they must be going elsewhere for treatment."

Dr. Burk claims there has been no upsurge in abortions since the Supreme Court ruling. The ruling allows for abortions up to six months as determined by the patient and the physician. Dr. Burk clarified the medical thought thus. "The life and health of the mother, both mental and physical, determine whether an abortion will be performed or not. This is our primary concern."

(Next week: Part two of this article plus the moral and religious viewpoints).

Young WAC tells her story

(Editor's Note: The following interview was secured from a young, unmarried WAC. This is the story of one woman and should not be construed as a typical case.)

"It all began when I started experiencing morning sickness. Being connected with the medical profession, I went to a friend who gave me a test for pregnancy. The results were positive.

"I was two months along when I was interviewed by a gynecologist. He referred my case to a psychiatrist. The procedure was recommended and within two weeks I had an abortion.

"I was really scared. There were lots of stories floating around and the fact sheet the OB-GYN clinic gave me to read fully explained what could happen as a result of the operation.

"We were given what you could call 'preventive pregnancy' training in medical school. I took that so-called 'ounce of prevention' in the form of the pill. I was one of the unfortunates who found out the pill isn't foolproof. Now, I use a diaphragm.

"I underwent a D and C (dilation and curettage). I remained in the hospital for three days recuperating. There was no pain before or during the operation, but I did experience some post-operative cramps and a little bleeding.

"The time I spent in the hospital gave me time to think. I had thoughts that maybe I should have kept the baby; you know, like what would it have been (boy or girl). Actually, I was more depressed before than after (the abortion). I kept asking myself, 'why did I let this happen? I should have been more careful.' I haven't thought about it since. I suppose some people think I should make myself miserable, but what is the point of it?

"It's better to have an abortion than to have a child that you can't care for, particularly if you are in the Army. I just couldn't think of having someone else raise my child.

"The father of the child and I are both young and hold enlisted rank. If I kept the child, I would probably be discharged and the only pay coming in would be his. This would also end my career in the Army which already includes future schooling and a possible commission.

"My boyfriend and I plan to get married and eventually have children. We don't want to be pushed together. There would always be that question hanging over us, 'Did we marry because that is what we wanted or because of the baby?'

"I have no problems with my superiors. The regulation requires a statement as to my moral character and job performance. Evidently my commander favorably considered both.

"Some of the other girls weren't so fortunate. For this reason a good majority of those who do become pregnant take leave and undergo abortions in the civilian community whether it be illegal or legal. At least it wouldn't end in their files to haunt them later, of course assuming they are not discharged.

"If I had it to do all over again, I would only change the fact that I got pregnant in the first place."

OWC Tour of Homes

The Officers' Wives' Club had a funfilled day on April 11, with a coffee in the Main Ballroom of the Officers' Club and a tour of Benning homes.

After a welcome by Mrs. Bill May, new OWC officers were elected for the 1973-74 term. Those chosen were Mrs. Arthur Richards, president; Mrs. Marshall McRee, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Edgar Maddox, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Donald Parrish, 3rd vice-president; Mrs. Harvey Phelps, recording secretary; Mrs. E. R. Schowalter Jr., corresponding secretary; Mrs. James Dingeman, treasurer; Mrs. William J. Jones, assistant treasurer; Mrs. John E. McCleary, custodian.

After the election, 437 ladies took a bus trip to nine residences on Fort Benning, Riverside, home of Major General and Mrs. Thomas M. Tarpley was the highlight of the tour. Although some of the furniture in Riverside is quartermaster, the Tarpleys have many pieces of their own, which they have collected from such countries as Vietnam, Taiwan, Turkey, and the Philippines.

Another popular stop was the antique-filled home of Maj. and Mrs. Arthur Richards. The Richards have combined colonial furniture in green and beige blends with beautiful antique pieces. The ladies were impressed with Mrs. Richard's talent of needlework and tole painting, which is evident throughout the house.

Sunny bursts of yellow, red and green greeted the visitors to the home of Maj. and Mrs. Wayne T. Boles on Sigerfoos. In the kitchen, Mrs. Boles has placed printed green flowers on the ceiling and walls. Clever green antiqued baskets hid fuse boxes and unserviceable vents. In the basement is the game and television room. This busy talented lady has covered the ceiling pipes with striped fabric.

The Craig Drive residence of Capt. and Mrs. William Logan contained surprises throughout — a hound's tooth furnished living room, accented with bright red-orange to the pale blue and white, hand-quilted bedspread in the master bedroom. The kitchen was a cook's dream with "real" cloth flower cutouts on the cupboards, round tablecloth and curtains. A clock above the table added to the antique flavor of the home.

Lt. Col. Margaret M. Mack's residence on Eames Ave. is laden with unusual objects. In the hall is a fine Grandfather clock, which was brought from England and dates back to around 1800. The vases on the mantel are Baccarat and the candelabras are Meissen. Much of the silver is very old and of English origin. The gorgeous rugs through the house are Indian Orientals with Aubusson design.

The residence of Maj. and Mrs. Dale E. Sherrod on Rainbow has contemporary furnishings with an Oriental influence. On the mantle are breathtakingly lovely replicas of the Thai headdress. Mrs. Sherrod had these especially made in Bangkok. Over the buffet hang two antique wooden carved panel paintings from Hong Kong. Shown nearby is a magnificent Chinese Coromandel screen. The fine Tai Puig rugs were purchased in Hong Kong, as well as the China and silver chest.

The Perkins Street residence of Maj. and Mrs. Eugne Lednicky is very attractively done. The kitchen is brightly decorated in shades of yellow. Shiny copper pots with green plants are on the wall and in the window. The old black cast iron utensils in the kitchen belonged to Mrs. Lednicky's grandmother.

Capt. and Mrs. Vernon L. Klinger's quarters on First Division Road was delightful to visit. The living and dining rooms are furnished with Country French. The main color is a cool green, accented with a decorator table covered with a bright red cloth. On the walls are some Anton Piek dimensional pictures which Mrs. Klingler has decoupaged.

Capt. and Mrs. James R. Sikes on Craig Drive have painted the walls Wedgewood blue to match the furnishings. Beautiful blue and cream Oriental rugs and cherry Queen Anne wooden pieces are found in the living and dining room. Many of the paintings have been done by members of Mrs. Sikes's family.

Mrs. James Stone, OWC program chairman and the ladies of the Leadership Department, hostesses for the event, made the lovely tour a big success.

All former thrift shop chairmen and managers please call Mrs. Charles H. Reidenbaugh at 545-4890 or 563-2229.

Cake Decorating Show

Do you like to decorate cakes? "If so, enter the OWC sponsored cake decorating contest. The contest is open to all military personnel and dependents. The event will take place on May 5 at the "Spring Thing."

There are 3 categories which you can enter: Wedding, Birthday and Special Occasion. Enter any or all of the categories.

The cakes will be judged on neatness, suitability of design to the purpose, originality, artistic ability, and difficulty of project.

Judges for the event will be Marcel Carles, Mrs. James McConaughy, Mrs. Donald J. Shannon and Mrs. J. E. Stadnik.

If cake decorating is your "Thing" call Mrs. James Huff at 545-1946 to enter the show or for more details about the event. Deadline to enter the Cake Decorating Show is Fri., April 27.

OWC Activities

Learn to sew knit slacks for men and boys. "BEE LOW THE BELT" will give you special instructions on sewing pockets, flys, and waistbands. You have a finished pair of pants upon completion of the class. Four lessons for $8, to begin on Tues., May 8 at 9 a.m. Call Mrs. Norbert Otto at 545-1307 to enroll.

The OWC is also offering a WINE-MAKING class to begin on Tues., April 24 at 7:30 p.m., at the OWC Lounge. The class is open to members of the OWC and-or their husbands. Six lessons for $12 for one person, or 20 for a couple. Call Mrs. Jon Stillman at 544-1196 to enroll.

The OWC's "Trip the Lite Fantastic" group is sponsoring a CARPET SEMINAR to be given on Mon., April 30 at the OWC Lounge. The seminar will cover the different carpet fibers, their selection and care, and how to measure for carpeting. If you're an OWC member and interested in attending this free seminar, call Mrs. William Guthrie at 545-2298 or Mrs. Jon Stillman at 544-1196.

On April 25, 10:00 a.m., in the OWC Lounge, the ENVIRONMENTAL WORKSHP will hear a speaker from the Georgia Power Company discuss "The Energy Crisis." On May 2 the Workshop will join the OWC "Trip the Lite Fantastic" tour group to visit the West Point Dam in West Point Ga. The ladies will meet at the Country Club at 9:30 a.m. All interested people are invited to join the Environmental Workshop group for these interesting events. For further information you can call Mrs. Paul Anderson at 545-3925, or just plan to "BEE" with us.

NCO Wives Club

Breakfast Bingo will be held April 28 at the Clubhouse at 9:30 a.m. Deadline for reservations is April 20 at noon.

Hail and Farewell Coffee, April 26, will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the Clubhouse. It's a good way to greet our new members and say farewell to those leaving.

Do you like Bingo? The NCO Wives operate the Sunday Bingo at Crain Hall, 5 p.m. each and every Sunday.

The Fort Benning Pre-Kindergarten will have registration for the 1973-74 school term on April 25 and 26, starting at 9 a.m. The School is open to all military dependents who were born in 1969 and 1970. The School is located on the corner of Baltzell and Lumpkin, formerly known as Patch School. Shot records are required.

PWOC Bible Study

There will be a covered dish luncehon on Wed., May 2 in the Religious Education Center, Bldg. 2605, 11:30 a.m. For further information contact: Mrs. Russell E. Mayhall at 687-3525.

Headquarter's and Company Commander's Wives of Aviation Command were welcomed to the home of Mrs. Roger Ladd, Montrose Drive, Columbus for their monthly coffee on April 10. The refreshment table was laden with a wide assortment of finger sandwiches, molded salads, cakes and cookies. Mrs. Lawrence Bell served a refreshing sherbert punch while Mrs. Ladd served coffee and soft drinks.

After the refreshments, Mrs. Bell began the meeting by introducing the newcomers to Aviation Command. Welcomed to the group were Mrs. James Parish, Mrs. Irvin Travis and Mrs. James Lashley. Mrs. Bell then bid farewell to Mrs. Jolfre Filion and thanked her for all the help she has given to the wives of the command.

The business of the month concerned the upcoming classes and activities being offered by OWC. Also discussed was Bridge and Pinocle which will be hosted by Mrs. Richard Wilson on April 25 at 9 a.m.

The next monthly meeting will be held on May 15 at 12:30 p.m. in Mrs. Bell's home, Miller Loop, Fort Benning. This will be a potluck luncheon and each wife is requested to bring a dish of one of her favorite recipes.

BBOD

Artillery Committee

The home of Mrs. Robert W. Kimbrough, Arrowhead Road, Fort Benning, was the scene, April 5, of a coffee for the ladies of the Artillery Committee. The hostess served a refreshing dessert—lime jello cake complemented by a strawberry punch and coffee. Following refreshments, Mrs. Mirt S. Lunsford conducted the business meeting and plans were made for upcoming social events.

The group was very pleased to welcome two newcomers: Mrs. Lamar Sleight and Mrs. Joseph Spagnoli.

The next coffee will be May 3, at the home of Mrs. Lunsford.

Combat Support Group

The April coffee for the ladies of Combat Support Group took place on April 4, at the home of Mrs. James L. Kirsch. Assisting Mrs. Kirsch were the ladies of the Engineer Committee. Refreshments were served first and those present then seemed more receptive to the discussion that followed — to plan the BBOD luncheon on May 10. Mrs. James T. Dunn conducted the meeting and it was decided that the event will be a salad buffet and "fun in the sun" fashion show at the Supper Club.

Mrs. Dunn welcomed a newcomer to the Group, Mrs. Charles D. Caddell and a special guest, Mrs. Allen M. Buckner.

The next coffee will be May 2, at the home of Mrs. George E. Friel.

Staff Group

The wives of Staff Group, BBOD officers traveled to Hamilton Hall Restaurant in Hamilton, Georgia for a luncheon, April 5. Before leaving for Hamilton Hall, the group met for a short business meeting at the home of Mrs. Michael H. McCormick. Hostesses for the luncheon were the wives of the Training Management and techniques committee. After dinner, Col. Sanders A. Cortner, chief of Staff Group, said goodbye to Capt. and Mrs. Charles Heaukulani, who will be leaving Staff Group for an assignment in Hawaii.

Directorate of Educational Technology

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Billy E. Rutherford hosted a Directorate of Educational Technology (DET) barbecue and hail and farewell on April 6. Despite the chilly weather, everyone thoroughly enjoyed the delicately steamed and flavored hamburgers and hot dogs, and the excellent food prepared by the directorate's wives. After dinner, Maj. Lawrence Hurst, Chief of Education and Consultation Division, Lt. and Mrs. Bruce Hawkins, and Lts. Gregory Premo and Michael Shamen,

SAC

The ladies of the Small Arms Committee held their monthly coffee April 5 at the lovely home of Mrs. Michael Kovalsky, Lumpkin Road, Fort Benning.

Through the past month, the ladies of SAC have been busy preparing invitations and seating favors for the coming luncheon and fashion show at Kirvens, April 18. Mrs. Jules Trepagnier announced to the ladies that all of the preparations were finished and the ladies of SAC are looking forward to seeing all the ladies from the Weapons Department at the Spring function.

Afterwards home-made finger sandwiches, cookies, ham filled and fruit hors d'oeuvres were served with coffee, tea and an orange frothy punch.

Next month's coffee will be bosted at the home of Mrs. Jules Trepagnier.

197th Inf. Bde.

3d Bn. 7th Inf.

It was a beautiful day as a group of ladies from the 3d Bn. 7th Inf. toured the gracious old home of Eufaula, Alabama on April 5. The ladies departed from the home of Mr. Charles Arnecke, Jr. on Yeager Avenue, Fort Benning, eager to take part in the Eufaula Pilgrimage.

After touring many of the fine old homes, the ladies leisurely ate their packed punches and discussed what they had seen. It was truly a fun day, with the azaleas in full bloom and so many interesting places to visit.

The USAMTU held it's monthly Officers' wives' coffee on the evening of March 28. It was held at the home of Mrs. Mernice Alkira, Kessler Drive, Fort Benning, Mrs. Mike Bach was co-hostess.

This month's program for the wives included donations of food for the ACS food locker and a guest speaker, Janice Biggers from the Historical Columbus Foundation. Farewell was bid to Mrs. Carl Jonss.

For refreshments the hostess served Rainbow Cake, Fruit Cake, punch and coffee.

4th Stu. Bn.

TSB

Mrs. Donald Lunday, wife of Maj. Donald Lunday, the new commander of the 4th Student Battalion (Airborne) was welcomed by the ladies of the 4th Battalion on April 3. Mrs. Roland Parr of Perkins Street, Fort Benning was the hostess. Mrs. Parr served sausages in rolls, peanut blossoms, pound cake, thumbprint cookies and German chocolate creamcheese brownies.

During the business of the evening, thank you notes were read from Mrs. A. G. Norris and Mrs. James Anderson. There was also a discussion of the activities of the OWC. The next coffee will be at Mrs. Michael Brenner's residence at Pollman Street, Columbus on April 24.

5th Student Bn.

50th Company

The OCS Wives' Club of 50th Company held their fourth coffee, March 14 in Wigle Hall. Honored guests at the coffee were Mrs. A. G. Norris and Mrs. Gordon M. Hunt. Capt. Cardell S. Hunter, company commander, gave a brief and informative talk covering the upcoming Senior Status Review and Formal. Mrs. Hunter then added a few remarks concerning customs and courtesies and answered any questions concerning the Review and Ball. The business meeting was conducted by club chairman, Mrs. Robert W. Neubert. Fund raising projects and the luncheon were the main topics of discussion. All wives were reminded to be sure and attend the next coffee on April 11.

The Main Officers' Club was the setting for 50th OCS Company's Senior Status Formal, March 16. Honored guests included Col. and Mrs. A. G. Norris, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Gordon M. Main, Maj. Daniel Boone, Chaplain and Mrs. Calvin H. Sydnor, and Capt. and Mrs. Cardell S. Hunter. Special guests included the Tactical Officers and their wives. Following the dinner, Col. Norris gave a stirring farewell to his last group of Senior Candidates. The entertainment followed, with Senior Candidate Thomas J. Kellogg, accompanied by his guitar, providing an enjoyable half-hour of folk songs. The company then enjoyed dancing to the sound of a rock band, "The Oz."

The OCS Wives Club of 50th Company held their fifth and final coffee on April 11 in Wigle Hall. Honored guests at the coffee were Mrs. Gordon M. Hunt and two representatives from the offices of Transportation and Finance. After a very informative discussion on transportation and finance within the Army, a short recess of refreshments was called. Mrs. Robert W. Neubert conducted the business meeting, which included the presentation and sale of the cookbooks, remarks concerning the luncheon, and fund raising projects results.

The 50th Company, Officer Candidate Wives' Club held its final function, a luncheon on April 18 at the Main Officers' Supper Club. Among the honored and special guests were Mrs. Kendrick B. Barlow, Mrs. Gordon M. Hunt, Mrs. Calvin H. Sydnor, Mrs. Cardell S. Hunter; Mrs. David E. Leslie, and Mrs. Dan Johnson.

The transformation of a caterpillar to butterfly was prevalent in the lovely invitations and decorations, which center around the main theme "If My Friends Could See Me Now." The menu consisted of Roulade of Beef Round with Wine Sauce, Green Beans, Tossed Salad and Apple Cobbler. Following the lunch, the entertainment committee provided us with a half hour of dance and skits. Following the presentation of diplomas by Mrs Cardell S. Hunter, there were door prizes, which include many lovely gifts contributed by the Columbus area stores. Closing remarks were made by the club chairman, Mrs. Erva Neubert.

Do you enjoy writing? The OWC Publicity Chairman is looking for someone to write up OWC news articles for the ACS Action Line and for a feature writer. If interested, contact Mrs. Jim Graham, 544-4369.

You're invited Everyone's invited . . . to the SPRING THING festivities on May 5 from 10:00 to 3:00 at the Thrift Shop complex. Both civilian and military, potential participators and browers are encouraged to take full advantage of the variety of wares and activities on display.

One feature of the day will be a Flea Market — a chance for the buyer to choose from a vast assortment of interesting items, from the exotic to the practical, and for the seller to make room on shelf room and a profit, too. All military personnel or their dependents who would like to take part in the sale should contact the Thrift Shop at 545-4992, through whom booths may be reserved: $3.00 per booth or $5.00 for two.

Tempting examples of our local creativity will be on sale at the Talent Tree — water colors, etchings, crewel work, jewelry, ad infinitum.

Under the sponsorship of the Ceramic Studio, a show representing the artistic efforts of its group is sure to attract an audience. Not only will there be a formal judging of best ceramic pieces with ribbons awarded, but many of the items will be for sale to the public.

A garden of art in water color and oil will bloom on the sidewalks and grounds with the work of those who have taken OWC art classes. And a special treat — a children's art show for the two classes who have taken the junior version art class. Again, many selections from the exhibit will be for sale.

A "frosted" battle of the sexes may well manifest itself in the afternoon's cake show. Open to any military personnel and-or dependents who'd like to

CALL 545-4792

I know a captain who is going to Columbus College full time. Can an enlisted man do the same thing?

Ans: According to Mr. Leonard Osley, the Education Director, the captain is probably going to school under the degree completion program outlined in AR 621-5. The same program is open to enlisted men. Those who are interested should contact the education advisors in Building 38.

Q. Where can I legally ride my mini-bike on the reservation?

Ans: Two areas are available for mini-bikes. One is behind the Small Animal Cemetery off 10th Division road. The area runs from Engineer Landing to the Muscgoee County line. The other area is off Custer Road 500 yards beyond the intersection of Santa Fe and Custer Road.

The mini-bike area is opposite the housing between Baker St. and McGill St.

Q. Why has the time that fishing is permitted at Twilight Pond been reduced? A.C.

Ans: Fishermen have been taking fish from Twilight Pond at a faster rate than the fish population can provide replacement by reproduction. Federal and state fish hatcheries have not and probably will not be able to fill the requirement by stocking fish. Under these conditions the pond would soon have been "fished out." Another consideration was that most of the fish were being removed by a relatively few fishermen.

The pond is now open only on Wednesdays, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The open and closed periods just established should reduce the overall number of fish taken from the pond and provide a more equitable distribution of fish in the freezers of post fishermen.

Q. I am interested in joining a stamp club and a SCUBA club. Are there any such organizations on post? If so how can I contact them? BWC

Ans: The post has both type organizations. Call 545-1721 for information concerning the Stamp Club and 545-5377 for information concerning the SCUBA Club.

Q. What is the maximum amount of hold baggage a person can ship overseas? L.G.B.

Ans: Individuals authorized to ship hold baggage to overseas destinations are authorized a maximum of 500 pounds.

Q. I have three small children who have been pestering me to take them camping. Are there any safe places on the reservation where a family can camp for the weekend?

Ans: No one can guarantee the safety of your family on a camping trip. This has to be your responsibility but there are places where military families can camp on the reservation.

When you decide that you want to go call Range Control (545-7633) to get clearance for a specific area. When you have clearance call the Provost Marshall Division (545-5222-5223) Tell them where you are going to camp, how long and give them the name of the person in charge of your party. The Provost Marshal needs this information in the event you should need assistance.

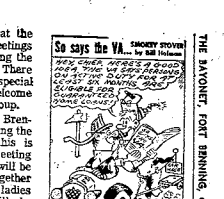
enter, a cake decorating contest will pit the handiwork of some of Ft. Benning's own mess sergeants against the ladies' creations. The culinary delicies will be on display until the judging, for which an impressive panel of experts has consented to serve: Mr. Marcel Carles, who teaches gourmet cooking classes, creates expert cake decorations himself, and is the chef at Big Eddy's Club at Green Island Hills; Mrs. James McConaughy, Chairwoman of the Gourmet Cooking Class; Mrs. Donald J. Shannon, Regional Director of the Epicurean Society; and Mrs. J. E. Stadnik, a local cake decorating aficionado who is often called upon to judge all over the Southeast.

Rounding the dazzling agenda, visitors to the SPRING THING will be treated to demonstrations of decorative painting, macrame, quilting, and a performance by the baton twirling classes. On the porch of the Thrift Shop, a bake sale will be held, while inside, a banjo player will add color and entertainment to the gala. To all this add the excitement of television coverage by Channel 9, WTVM.



Now that your appetite is whetted, don't let raindrops dampen your spirit. Should inclement weather threaten, the entire super colossal SPRING THING will be ready to welcome all comers on Sunday afternoon, May 6, from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m.. So, no excuses. Indulge yourself in what is sure to be a glowing highlight of the season — THE SPRING THING.

931st Engineer Gp.

The Officers wives of the 931st Engr. Gp. held their monthly coffee the evening of April 9. Suhan White and Beth Mooney were co-hostesses for this informal gathering in which Janie Beasley, a newcomer, was welcomed.

During the short meeting Karin Thompson related the OWC news and described the forthcoming events. It was suggested and agreed upon that the regular monthly meetings be discontinued during the summer months. There will, however, be a special July coffee to welcome new women to the group.

Pam Girtman and Brenda Prater are planning the May coffee. Since this is the last regular meeting until September, it will be the farewell get-together for many of the ladies whose husbands will be leaving the group this summer. So leave the children (and the dishes) for your husband and join us for desert. Questions? Call Carolan Brownell, 544-1440.

Nigerian learns about America, husband stationed at Fort Benning

"Sanu-nku, yaya ku ke yie." This greeting from Africa is brought by Teresa Ichoghol, who came to America six months ago.

Born in Ogoja, a small town in southern Nigeria, Teresa is the wife of Maj. David Ichoghol who is attending Infantry Officer Advanced Course at Fort Benning, Ga.

While in Columbus, Teresa has been actively involved in our own "advanced course," gathering all the knowledge available about American cooking.

Upon her arrival at Fort Benning, Teresa enrolled in an OWC Cake Decorating course taught by Mrs. James Huff. It was there that she tasted cake for the first time. "Generally, cake is not considered an African food," said Teresa. "Even if you know how to bake it, you don't take the time to decorate it. Taking cake decorating here was a real opportunity for me to learn how this is done in America.

"Mrs. Huff, my instructor, took time to teach me how to bake the cakes in her home. I wanted to learn how to make both the cake and the icing by hand, because in many parts of my country there is no electricity. She also taught me how to operate an electric mixer. Maybe I can purchase one to take back to Nigeria with me."

In addition to her instruction in cake decoration, Teresa recently completed courses in the career development program of Manly Taylor School in Food Preparation and Service. "I learned to use your spices - cloves, nutmeg and cinnamon, and also the proper American way to cook and serve food.

"Although there are some similarities in the cuisine of Africa and America, there are many differences. In addition to chicken, lamb, and beef, we enjoy meat from a successful hunt in the bush- elephant, antelope, buffalo and rhinoserous.

"Normally the hunter presents his friends and neighbors gifts of the elephant meat instead of selling it at the market. He keeps for himself the fusk and the long, whisker-like hairs from the mouth, which the women make into necklaces. These necklaces are similar to what you call chokers here.

"Meat from an elephant must be boiled for a long time to be properly cooked. Then it is fried in a natural oil made from the top of the palm tree. After this frying, the water in which the meat was boiled is added to the pot. The constistency is a little thicker than American soup."

Other favorite foods native to Teresa's country are lobster, bananas, mangos, pineapple, and a yam which is white in color and sweeter than the American sweet potato. "I have enjoyed tasting American foods," Teresa commented, "especially spice cake, tossed salads and hamburgers."

One of Teresa's favorite recipes is for Dodo - Fried Plantain Bananas. "In Nigeria, Dodo is as popular as cookies are with Americans," Teresa explains. Plantains are occasionally available at the commissary and area supermarkets.

DODO-Fried Plantain Bananas

1 ripe plantain banana for two people peanut oil and salt

a) Skin. Slice length-wise to desired thickness. Salt to taste.

b) Fry in shallow oil until lightly browned. Keep warm in oven until served. Serve with ata sauce. (This Nigerian sauce is not available - substitute any tyep of gravy.)

"When I return to Nigeria, I would like to share what I have learned with my friends and please them with gifts of cakes I have decorated. Maybe if I become good enough I can sell cakes to make a little extra money at home. I also plan to teach American cooking to my brother, who owns a hotel and restaurant in Nigeria. If a guest from the United States is staying in the hotel, my brother will be able to prepare American food and make the guest very happy.

"While in the United States I am learning your customs and ways of doing things, so that when I return to Nigeria my family can enjoy the best of both countries.

The American officers and their wives we have met here at Fort Benning have done so much to make us happy. They are so kind, and are eager to give us every opportunity to enjoy our stay in America. I want to say thank you to all of them."

Mrs. Teresa Ichoghol, a native of Nigeria presently living at Fort Benning, finds that filling a pastry tube to be used in cake decoration is not as easy as it looks. Mrs. James Huff instructs.

While smiling 3d Ranger Mess Sgt. SFC Warren G. Clark looks on at the students of the Career Development Program as they go through the chow line.

3rd Ranger Company hosts local students of development program

Third Ranger Company, TSB, was host to a group of students from the Career Development Program of the Manly Taylor School of Columbus, on Friday, April 13.

The students were shown the similarities and differences in preparing a meal for an Army Dining Facility and a civilian cafeteria.

Their instructor, Mrs. Donald Smith, the wife of LTC Donald Smith, director, Ranger Dept., and one of the school's recruiters, Mr. Alfred Stewart, accompanied the class on a tour of the March winner of the TSB Best Temporary Dining Facility Award.

The Career Development Program, a branch of the Office of Economic Opportunity, offers free skill training to the unemployed members of the Columbus area. It is designed to develop the necessary motivation and skill within the students to enter the working world.

The students were served a lunch of meatloaf, potatoes or fried rice, a tossed salad and ice cream. Afterward, SFC Warren J. Clark, mess sergeant, briefed the class on the preparation of food, and general operations of an Army dining facility.

After touring the 3d Ranger Dining Hall the students toured the Fort Benning Officer's Open Mess and Sambo's Restaurant on Victory Drive.

Company Grade Officers' Council solves several problems at meeting

The March meeting of the Company Grade Officers' Council resulted in several actions which may be of interest to a number of personnel at Fort Benning.

Steps are being taken by MEDDAC to decrease waiting time at the hospital pharmacies during peak hours, and the Provost Marshal plans to increase patrols to solve the problem of motorists crossing the median on Highway 27 at non-designated areas.

Two additional janitorial personnel have been assigned to Martin Army Hospital to make sure all lavatories are kept thoroughly clean. All Class I and Class IA flight physicals will now include eye examinations, so that separate appointments will not be necessary.

The Company Grade Officers' Council is a means of communication for problems which may not be easily solved through the chain of command. Lieutenants, captains, and warrant officers serve on the council, which can deal with problems affecting officers, enlisted men, and all post personnel.

The council can also serve as an educational vehicle for explaining post policies which may be questioned, and to express appreciation to individuals or sections for a job well done.

President of the council is Capt. Thomas P. Curtin Jr., and vice-president is 1st Lt. Leslie Snyder. Recorder is Capt. Larry A. Freeland. Members are Capt. Scott Swingler, Capt. Charles Hart, Capt. Norman L. Nolde, 1st Lt. Benjamin A. Glover, and 1st Lt. Jacquelin B. Davison.

Alternate member is Warrant Officer (1st Class) Rodney P. Balak, and Col. Bruce H. Fraser, Assistant Commander, is advisor to the council. Anyone wishing to submit a problem or request to the council should contact one of its members.

101st Abn. meeting set for April 24

The Canopy Chapter of the 101st Airborne Division Association is holding a general membership meeting and election of chapter officers on April 24, 1973 at 1700 hours in the Playboy Club, Building No. 2386, on Goltra Avenue, Fort Benning, Georgia.

The guest speaker for this meeting will be MG Thomas M. Tarpley, former Commander of the famed 101st Airborne Division and present Commander of Fort Benning, Georgia.

If you are interested in how the Canopy Chapter functions and the election of your chapter officers, be sure to attend this meeting.

The Canopy Chapter needs the support of all "Screaming Eagles." Spread the word and let's make this meeting a greater success than the last. Remember, this will be the Canopy Chapter's first opportunity to welcome our new Commander, MG Tarpley. Let's get out and welcome him in the traditional 101st Airborne way.

Coming to the screen

The Train Robbers . . . .John Wayne, Rod Taylor and their gunmen have been led to the wilds of Mexico by young widow Ann-Margret, the only one who knows the location of a half-million dollars in stolen gold. She claims it is her duty to return the stolen gold to the railroad, which was taken by her deceased husband and gang. Wayne and company are being tracked down by the gang, who in turn are followed by a mysterious man (Ricardo Montalban). There is plenty of action for Wayne fans, and a climatic night shootout with a surprise ending. John Wayne is given an added dimension of a man who, despite his years, actually could fall for a woman. Ann-Margaret is most convincing in a role which requires that she be of her hardy environment, but above it as a lady-like attractive widow.

Vanishing Point . . .Everyone wants a piece of Kowalski (Barry Newman), but they'll have to catch him first before he gets to the Vanishing Point. From Denver to San Francisco at Maximum speed, it's the maximum trip. In the last day and half he's creamed a motorcycle cop in Colorado, wiped out a Jaguar XK-E in Utah, wrecked a squad car in Nevada and kept a rendezvous with two bulldozers in California. Along the way he lived with speed, to get himself up and get himself gone. In his supercharged Challenger he rammed through every speed trap dragnet and roadblock the cops of four states could come up with. It took him 26 hours to become a hero . . . a legend.

Asylum . . . .This picture is a horror bundle of four stories written by Robert Bloch, the author of "Psycho." The film's framework poses a problem for the present head of the asylum, young doctor Patrick Magee, whose job it is to identify the former director of the asylum for the criminally insane. The doctor interviews the four subjects, each section providing a glimpse into the macabre. The first tale stars Barbara Parkins and details the attempt of a husband to get rid of his wife. The second tale, deals with a man's attempt to bring his son back to life and it is eerie and well acted by Peter Cushing. The third tale stars Britt Ekland, who is accused by a young drug addict, of the murders of her brother and nurse. In the fourth tale, havoc is wrecked in a home for blind old men.

Hammer . . .In the title role, former football pro Fred Williamson, is a sensual, tough-as-nails hunk of man — a hip dock workers whose flying fists and bodily agility during a brawl, catch the eye of a local syndicate leader. Eager for the big-time, Hammer signs with crooked fight manager Charles Lampkin, who is also running a little dope on the side. Just when Hammer is set for the big fight, the mob puts the screws on his manager. Naturally, the old fox leans on Hammer to take a dive, and wham! That's when the blows rain down like anvils.

Carry On Doctor . . .The "Carry On" adventures take place in a hospital and features a young Dr. Kilmore (Jim Dale), energentic, dedicated, and concerned with the beautiful nurses surrounding him. Dale is constantly at odds with his supervisors, Dr. Tinkle (Kenneth Williams), and the chief matron (Hattie Jacques), both of whom have a taste for power. Dale is dismissed after a comedy of errors places him in a compromising situation. The patients come to his aid and hand out some horrible medical treatment to force the reinstatement of Dale.

Answers to the most frequently asked questions about DRUG ABUSE

Changes

Disability harder to get

Career soldiers, with twenty or more years service, who plan on retiring with a disability rating, may find that they are no longer eligible for disability processing.

A recent DA message includes changes to three Army regulations that deal with the physical disability system: AR 40-501, Standards of Medical Fitness, AR 635-40, Physical Evaluation for Retention, Retirement or Separation, and AR 40-3, Medical Service.

The changes became effective on Feb. 27, 1973.

Specifically, the changes say that while a soldier is processing for separation for non medical reasons, his continued performance of duty presumes that he is fit for duty. Because he is fit, the member should not be referred to Physical Evaluation Board.

The only exceptions are servicemen who, although they have been determined unfit and awarded a four profile (unfit to continue on active duty), have received a waiver to continue on active duty.

Servicemen carrying a three profile (geographical and physical assignment limitations) are now considered fit by Army disability agencies and are not referred to a Physical Evaluation Board for disability processing. In the past, it was advantageous for the serviceman to retire with an Army disability rating since the percentage awarded represented non-taxable income.

The recent policy change does not prevent the serviceman from filing an application with the Veterans Administration for possible VA disability compensation.

Servicemen who have questions about the present disability system are invited to contact the Physical Evaluation Board Liaison Office at Martin Army Hospital, 544-3415 or 1886.

MEDDAC "WE CARE"

Family practice

A radical change

Family practice is the medical specialty which concerns itself with the continued and comprehensive care of all members of a family.

The first family practice clinic in the Army Medical Department was established and began operation at Martin Army Hospital (MAH) in July, 1972. This clinic is operated primarily to support the training of physicians in the specialty of family practice. Just as the clinic was the first of its kind in the Army Medical Department, the family practice training program at MAH is also the first of its kind in the Army Medical Department.

Well-trained family practitioners assume responsibility for the care of all medical problems of a family unit. The vast majority of problems presented by any member of a family can be expertly handled by the family practitioner himself. When this is not possible, he uses other medical specialists to help solve particular problems. In such a situation, it is important to keep in mind that the family practioner does not abandon his responsibility for the continuing care of other medical problems. He continues to be the individual in charge of the overall medical situation.

The family practice concept represents a radical but welcome change in medical services to active duty and retired members of the military community who have contended with fragemented and relatively impersonal care for too many years.

At the present time, the family practice clinic cares for approximatmely 620 Fort Benning families. Nine physicians are currently enrolled in the family practice training program. Beginning in July, 1973, a total of 18 physicians will be engaged in training for family practice at Martin Army Hospital. Then the clinic will be able to provide care for approximately 500 additional families.

Sometime within the next several months, it is envisioned that well-trained family physicians will begin operation of a second family practice clinic. This will provide care for many more Fort Benning families.

The long-range objective of the Army Medical Department is to have well-trained family practitioners providing all the primary medical care for the military community. It is believed that this objective is a great step forward in medical care for active duty and retired members of the military community.

There are many different specialties in the medical field. Applying plaster cast is one of them.

Physician assistant

An extension of the doctor

The next time you visit Martin Army Hospital, will you be seen by a physician assistant (PA)?

What is a PA? According to Col. Cesar A. Lopez, Chief of Professional Services at Martin Army Hospital, and in charge of physician assistant training, he is "an extension of the doctor" and is "not a doctor or a nurse. He does not replace the doctor," he said emphatically.

The Army has adopted the American Medical Association's definition of a PA which states, "The physician assistant is a skilled person qualified by academic and practical training to provide patient services under the supervision and direction of a physician who is responsible for the performance of that assistant."

Although it was early in 1972 that the Army Medical Department initiated its physician assistant training program, the PA concept is not new to the Army. The Army has a lot of experience with medical corpsmen providing limited, direct patient care to troops in combat and in Army hospitals and clinics. In fact, the Vietnam conflict proved again that corpsmen provided excellent medical care where physicians were not immediately available.

Who are the Army's PA students? One of the four physician assistants in training at Martin Army Hospital is Warrant Officer Candidate Harold W. Ward. His experience is typical of all PAs in the training program.

Ward has over ten years in the Army Medical Department. Almost all are as a medical corpsmen. He said he chose to enter the PA program because "I enjoy the work. After you reach the grade of E-7, you become more of an administrator. I wanted to stay a technician."

He was also looking to the future when he applied for the PA program. After military retirement, "I plan to go back to the mountains of Montana or Idaho. There aren't many Doc's there. I feel the medical training I have can be used there," he said.

Ward was first required to spend 12 months at Fort Sam Houston, where he was thoroughly grounded in the program. He was taught as much about academic medicine as he could absorb, and was given practical clinical application sessions throughout this period at Brooke General Hospital.

He describes his training at Fort Sam Houston as "very difficult, quite challenging and requiring a lot of hours of study." He compared his military PA training to that offered in civilian schools by saying, "the military advantage is primarily due to the large amount of medical experience each student possesses. The average for my class was 12 years."

In his last six months of training, Ward is receiving first hand exporience through "hands on" practice at Martin Army Hospital. During this time, he will bridge the gap between theory and practice.

He describes his experience at Martin Army Hospital as "really great." He says, "the doctor's here are real helpful. They give you all of the time you need to learn."

Ward will rotate through four major areas of the hospital. He just completed six weeks in a troop medical clinic. This month, he started a rotation through the department of medicine. Following this, he will spend six weeks each in preventive medicine and in surgery.

As he rotates through these departments, he is under the direct guidance of a medical corps officer. This doctor is constantly rating and judging Ward's medical competence.

Upon completion of this final part of his training, he will return to Fort Sam Houston for final examinations, the awarding of a Warrant Officer appointment, and the receiving of an associate of science degree from Baylor University.

He will then be assigned to the medical section of a manuver or a combat support battalion. There, under the general supervision of a medical corps officer, he will handle routine sick call, make diagnoses, treat minor injuries and diseases and recognize problems that must be referred to a physician.

What does the future hold for the Army PA? Col. Lopez says, "The PAs, after a tour of duty in a combat support or manuver battalion, may be assigned to a troop medical clinic, or in the future, to a MEDDAC outpatient service."

Ward is aware of his next assignment. He will be assigned to an armor battalion's medical platoon, at Fort Hood, Tex., He said, "I will always be in contact with a doctor, even if only by telephone," when asked who will supervise his work in the field.

Ward is looking forward to getting back to Texas. He's anxious to be a practicing physician assistant and out of his student role. Also, he's excitedly awaiting to be reunited with his family, who are at Fort Sam Houston.

Winners announced in Sand Hill Art contest

The Sand Hill Library held an art contest from March 25 to April 5 in honor of National Library Week. The contestants were children from all of the post schools with all grades participating.

The winners were: first place Randall Powers of Wilson School, second place Jane Shannon, Edward White School, third place Susan Ginger, Wilber School and fourth place Susan Heckman of Edward White and Silvette Cruz of McBride School. The first two places received trophies and the last two places received theater tickets. Certificates were also presented to the winner of each grade.

The judges of the contest were Colonel James J. Kelly, clinician at dental clinic four, and Lieutenant Colonel James C. Jackson of the MBC Committee.

The coordinater of the Art contest at the schools was Mrs. Evelyn Southwood.

Along with the contest there was cake cutting at the library on April 10, in honor of National Library Week. 931st Group Commander Colonel James M. Thompson assisted with the cake cutting and was presented with an honorary library card.

Also attending the ceremony were Major Tom Houston of Special Services and Miss Josephine Zinceau, Supervisory Librarian.

Besides the art contest the library has an exhibit from the Special Services Craft Shop on main post. This exhibit includes leather craft, candle craft, decoupagé, pottery, clear cast fruit, block printing, ceramics, figurines and paintings.

Lieutenant Colonel James C. Jackson inspects some of the drawings from the recent Sand Hill Library art contest.

The contest was held in honor of National Library Week.

Engineers save washed out road

Following the recent heavy rain storm of March 30, D Company of the 43rd Engineer Battalion was called on to perform immediate repairs on Scott Ave. in Sand Hill. The road was badly damaged in an area where a small creek runs through a galvanized steel culvert beneath the roadway.

The road was damaged when the culvert and fill material beneath the road collapsed due to the heavy volume of rainfall undermining it.

A 200 square foot sectioo of the road collapsed, leaving a hole approximately 10 feet deep. D Company was soon sent to repair the road, sending a 20 ton crane to begin removing the debris. After the damaged culvert is removed, a new culvert will be installed and the road repaved.

Are you putting me on?

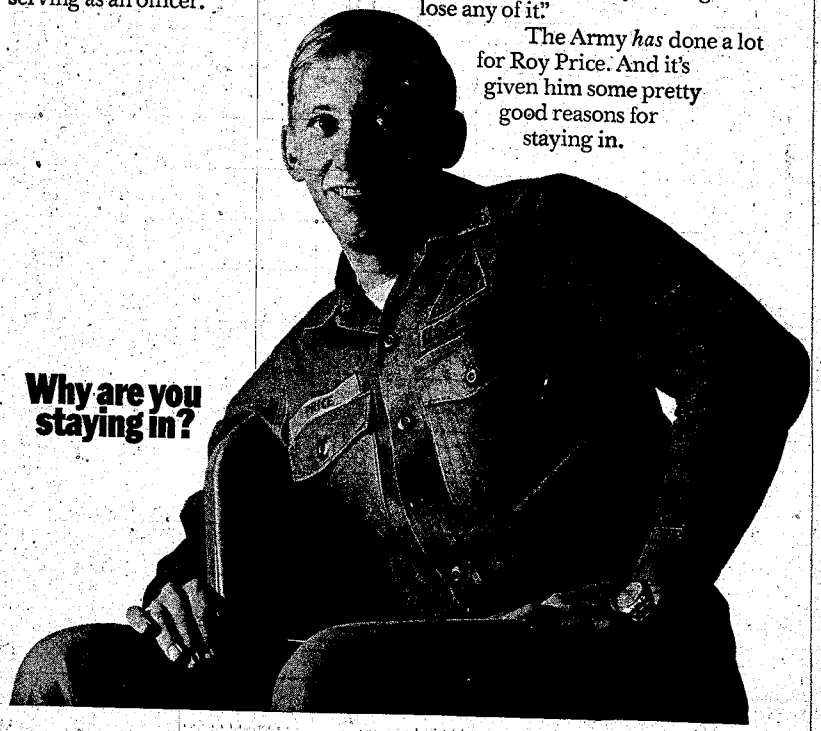
"It's too good to get out."

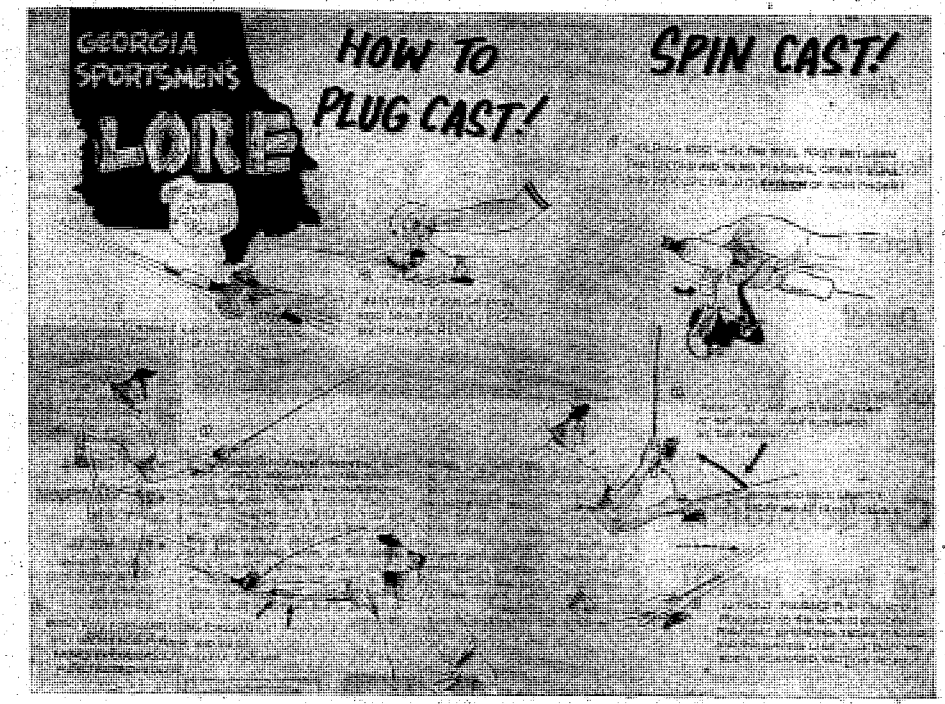
Sergeant Roy Price has put a lot into his Army career. And he's gotten a lot out of it.

"Maybe it's just me. Maybe I'm lucky. But the more I find out about the Army—what it has to offer, what you can do—the more I'm convinced that staying in was the best move I could make.



"Take college. I've got two years of it already, most of it paid for by the Army. And since I'm reenlisting, I'll be able to finish the other two. When I graduate I'll even have the option of applying for OCS and that'll give me the chance to start serving as an officer.

"The Army tries to help you out in any way they can, from what I can figure. When I finished my tour in Vietnam I asked to be stationed at Ft. Hood, and here I am.



"It all worked out pretty well, because my wife and I just had our first baby—cost about $7.00—and I hate to think what it would've been on the outside.

"When I look at everything—the schooling, the cost of living, where I'm stationed—the Army's done an awful lot for me. I don't know...right now it's just too good to lose any of it."

The Army has done a lot for Roy Price. And it's given him some pretty good reasons for staying in.

Why are you staying in?

Know your equipment

Choosing the correct rod, reel, and other equipment can be very confusing for the beginner. Fishing equipment of all sizes and shapes are on todays' market, at prices which range from moderate to the unbelievable. Equipment preference varies from fisherman to fisherman depending upon the type of fish they stalk.

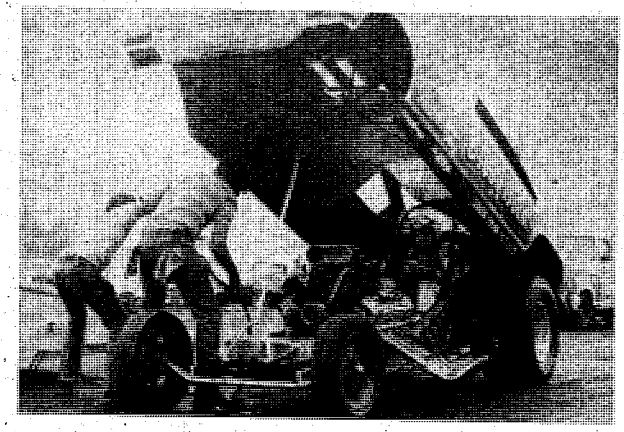
The two most popular outfits in this part of the country are spinning gear and bait (plug) casting gear. Each has it's advantages, and personal preference usually determines which the fisherman uses.

Spinning rods and reels come in a full range of sizes from ultra-light to that suited for big game angling. The beginner should avoid the extremes in reel sizes and stick to a 6 or 7 foot rod. An outfit like this can handle lures from ⅛ oz.

Spinning gear is easier to cast than bait casting gear, especially when casting into the wind. Another advantage of the spinning gear is the drag mechanism. An ordinary angler from the stand point of skill will land bigger fish because of the improved drag mechanism in spinning gear.

Key points to remember if you choose spinning gear are: keep your reel full of line, but not overfull; and don't use a line heavier than that recommended for your reel. Also don't crank while the drag is slipping, and pump your fish in rather than dragging it in.

Bait casting is the more difficult form of casting to master. The length of the bait casting rod should be between 5 and 6 feet, especially for the beginner. Quality bait casting reels are produced by various manufactrers and you should choose one designed for the type of fishing you intend to do. Bait casting reels can handle lures from ⅜ oz. to ¾ oz. when matched with a medium action rod.



Bait casting outfits are the most accurate of all casting outfits. Lure retreive is smoother and more rapid for the beginner using bait casting gear, than with spinning gear.

Key points to remember; keep the reel filled with line and avoid rods that are less than five feet long. PRACTICE. . .

A piece of equipment that is often over looked by even the accomplished angler is the line. Good line can be purchased from numerous name companies, and it pays to invest a little extra for a quality line. The finest rod and reel in the world is of little value if it's filled with cheap line.

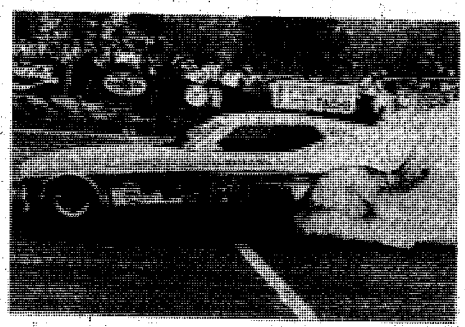
Bobby Wood makes last minute checks before buttoning down the Fiberglass body shell behind his 1500 horse power chrysler hemi during competition at the World Championship series at Phenix dragway.



Cyr Scholdield is fast, man!!

Diggers, funny cars and pro stocks displaying their incredible abundance of horse power with wild burnouts and crowd pleasing wheelies highlighted a weekend of drag racing during the NHRA World Championship Series held at the Phenix Dragway.

Cyr Schodield, all the way from sunny California, had the winning combination to take the Top Fuel and defeat last year's winner Clayton Harris with a 6.64 second run at 232 mph.

In the funny car competition, it was Ray Godman's Tennessee BoWeevil with Preston Davis at the helm delighting the crowd throughout the day with his spectacular burnouts and finally wrapping up his class with a 7.23-196.97 run to conquere Paul Smith's Sir Wells car.

Last but not least, those wild pro stocks had the crowd cheering again but it was Ried Whesparent's "Yankee Joe" taking home the bacon once again in besting Ben Hicks Plymouth Duster with a clocking of 9.39 seconds at 149.35 miles per hour.

Preston Davis amazed the crowd throughout the day with his smok'in burnouts and screaming runs down the quarter mile driving Ray Godman's "Tennessee Bo Weevil." Davis went on to capture the Funny car competition with a 7.23/196.97 run.

Local scattergun enthusiasts will have an opportunity to watch experts in action at the Rod and Gun Club Skeet Ranges when top shooters from the southeastern states gather at the club ranges to compete in the Tall Pin Open Skeet Shoot this Saturday and Sunday.

The Tall Pine, a Georgia Skeet Shooters Association sanctioned tournament will feature shooting with 12, 20, 28 and 410 gauge guns. The 410 and 20 gauge guns will be fired on Saturday and the 12 and 28 gauge guns will be fired on Sunday.

Competition is not only open to the experts. Trophies will be awarded to AA through C class shooters plus ladies class and junior and sub junior classes for the shoot on Saturday. Trophies will be awarded to AA through E class and ladies, juniors and sub juniors on Sunday. Trophies will also be awarded two and five man teams. In addition to the competition there will be a chance for non classified shooters to get in some "targets only" shooting.

Registration for the shoot will open at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Shooters must be members of the Georgia Skeet Shooters and National Skeet Shooters Associations to compete. Memberships may be obtained at the registration desk.

An added attraction will be a cocktail party and Calcutta for shooters and their friends Saturday evening. The affair will start at the range after the firing has been completed for the day.

For additional information call 545-6028.

April Fishing Derby

All the leading entries in the Rod and Gun Club April Fishing Derby have come from Kings Pond.

SFC Keaneth Canady, 4th Student Battalion has registered the largest bass so far this month. His entry weighed in at 4-pounds, 14-ounces. Seems that mark should be topped at this time of the year.

The largest bream registered this month belonged to M Sgt. David Jones. He took the 1-pound, 3-ounce specimen on a meal worm.

The largest catfish is a big one. SFC Martin Smith of the School Brigade took it early this month. It tipped the Rod and Gun scale at an even 11-pounds.

The Rod and Gun Club holds a fishing derby each month of the year. Fishermen registering the largest bream, bass and catfish each receive a $15 merchandise order redeemable at the club activities.

The contest is open to all members authorized to fish on post. The fisherman must register his intention to compete each time he goes fishing. All fish must be taken from one of the named ponds on post and brought to the club for weight verification. Fishermen taking fish after the club has closed business for the day may register their catch the next day.

Memorial Fishing Derby

Fishermen will want to reserve the Memorial Day weekend for a fishing derby the Rod and Gun Club has planned. The derby will be similar to those that have been run over the Labor Day weekend for the past few years.

The club has allocated $500 in the purchase of prizes. Fishermen can win $25 if they bring in the heaviest bass, bream or catfish during the contest. The fishermen registering the second heaviest fish in these categories will receive $20 and third place winners will get $15. In addition a bonus prize consisting of an 11'x11' tent and four polyester filled sleeping bags will go to some lucky fisherman who has registered a fish of any size in the contest. A special bonus prize of a rod and reel and tackle box will go to someone who registered in the contest but failed to catch a fish. With this spread of prizes even the losers can be winners.

The contest period will run from 6 a.m. May 26 until 4:30 p.m. May 28. Fishermen must be members of the Rod and Gun Club. Everyone must register at the club before going fishing and a $1 entry fee will be charged each club member. A complete family can be registered for $3. Members who want to get an early start on the day the contest opens will have the chance to register before that day. Registrations will be accepted any time after May 13.

All fish must be taken from ponds located on post. All catches must be registered at the club. No fish will be registered after 4:30 p.m., May 28.

Complete rules of the contest may be obtained at the club headquarters located on First Division Road in the Harmony Church Area.

BASS

Experts to share fishing secrets

Every bass fisherman dreams about the string of lunders he'll catch, but seldom do these dreams become reality. The water's too cold, the water's too hot, the fish wouldn't bite, are just a few of the excuses the bass fisherman uses when he doesn't catch his limit.

The Bass Anglers Sportsman Society (BASS), can help the fisherman have fewer fishless days.

The 1973 BASS seminar for this area will be held May 18, at the Columbus Municipal Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Professional fisherman will be on hand to share their bass catching secrets and professional know how.

Among the professional fisherman to speak during the seminar are local men Tom Mann and John Powell. New techniques for finding fish, information on lures, tackle, and special equipment will be discussed during the seminar. Among the items of special equipment to be discussed are the depth finder and the electric thermometer.

In addition to the lectures, two films will be shown. "Monster Bass of Treasure Lake" is a spectacular film of bass fishing in Cuba; you will see sights you have never seen before and probably will never see again. Bass up to 17 pounds taken on light tackle and leaping bass are a few of the highlights of this film. The second film "Silent Watera" is an underwater film featuring bass striking lures, attacking frogs, spawning, and much more.

BASS will address the polution problem and what you as an individual can do to help fight pollution. BASS spends thousands of dollars annually to fight pollution, and your attendance at the seminar will not only improve your fishing, but help BASS to continue its fight against pollution.

Tickets for the seminar are available from members of the Fort Benning Bass Club for $2 each.

The Fort Benning Bass Club started in May 1972, and became officially recognized as a private club Feb. 15, 1973.

Anyone desiring to join the club can contact SFC Mike Boyd, 545-4945, or attend one of the club meetings. Meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesday each month, in the 8th Student Battalion classroom, bldg. 2766.

One of the touring Athletes in Action group who will visit Fort Benning and the 197th Infantry Brigade April 23-25 is placekicker Bill Bell. The 6-1, 189-pound Atlanta Falcon finished tenth in the National Football Conference in total points scored during his rookie season two years ago.

"Operation Open Wide" is the theme of the Oral Cancer Detection Clinic at Columbus Square Friday and Saturday, April 20-21. The clinic van, part of the Martin Army Hospital dental activity, will give free examinations to all civilians, military, and children.

Columbus Mayor Robert Hydrick, Brig. Gen. Willard Latham and Col. George Woodard, commander of Fort Benning's Medical Department Activity, will be tested for oral cancer at 3 p.m. Friday.

The testing is sponsored by the American Cancer Society and the Western Dentists Society.

MAH adds on

In the very near future you will see Martin Army Hospital grow. A 69,600 square feet addition will soon be on the north and south ends of the hospital. This addition will provide additional clinic space which will enable most of the clinics in the annex (Building 396) to move to Building 9200. Exterior renovations will aso be accomplished to most areas on the first floor.

What all this will mean to you is that most clinics will be in Martin Army Hospital thus providing "one stop" medical treatment for you and your family. It will also mean that for a period of approximately two years there will be much confusion, noise and problems in Martin Army Hospital.

One of the biggest problems will be parking. Parking is at a premium now and once construction begins several hundred workers and their equipment will converge on Houston Hill. The ony consalation to this will be that by 1975 Fort Benning soldiers will enjoy a very fine modern group of clinics.

Just bear with us, because tbings will get better!

MG Wallace to visit here for two days

Maj. Gen. George M. Wallace, chairman, special analysis equipment requirements study group, Department of the Army, will visit Fort Benning on a two day tour, April 18-19.

During his visit Gen. Wallace will take an informal tour of U.S. Army Infantry School and Infantry Center. He will also attend a discussion with the deputy assistant commandant for combat and training development and with the communications-electronics d[illegible] Infantry School.

34th Medical Bn. strives for proficiency

The 34th Medical Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. John W. Hammett, provides command and control for all nondivisional TOE medical units at Fort Benning. It also coordinates field medical support and evacuation for many post activities and for the ranger training sites located at Dahlonega, Ga., and Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

Last year, the 34th Medical Battalion furnished field medical coverage for over 19,000 military troops and is well ahead of that pace this year. In addition to the above, critically sick and-or injured civilian personnel are transported, usually by air, for humanitarian reasons.

The 34th Medical Battalion and its attached units also augment the staff at Martin Army Hospital and other medical facilities. During the summer months, the battalion plays a large part in assisting and evaluating the training of Reserve and National Guard units.

The 690th Medical Company (Ambulance) is at the present time the 'sole ground ambulance company at Fort Benning. Its post mission is to support USAIC training activities by providing evacuation of patients and basic medical support. These training activities vary from firing ranges throughout post to ranger and airborne training operations. In addition, medical support is provided to Lawson Army Air Field and the troop medical clinics.

The 690th Medical Company consists of four officers and 78 enlisted men. All officers and NCOs must assure that the accomplishment of the mission is of first priority. To accomplish this, there must be adequate medical supplies on hand at all times; all vehicles must be in a high state of readiness; all personnel properly trained, equipped, well informed, motivated, and physically fit.

The mission of the 546th Medical Company (Clearing) is to receive, sort and provide emergency or resuscitative treatment for patients until evacuated. It also provides definitive treatment for minor illness or injuries. The 546th provides personnel to support the Infantry School and Martin Army Hospital operations. They supply drivers and medical aidmen to the training areas where injuries are most likely to occur, such as the drop zones for airborne, pathfinder and ranger training. Their medical specialists are committed on a daily basis at Martin Army Hospital and the troop medical clinics in such capacities as x-ray technicians, pharmacy technicians and lab technicians.

The 546th looks forward to involving their more highly trained personnel in teaching emergency first aid on an advanced level to non-medical personnel involved in field training at Fort Benning.

The 2nd Evacuation Hospital (SMBL) is preparing to convert from a traditional 400 bed hospital to the 2nd Combat Support Hospital equipped with MUST (Medical Unit Self-contained Transportable) facilities and a bed capacity of 200. A Reforger Unit, the 2nd will continne to maintain only a portion of its equipment here in CONUS for training purposes. The remainder is stored in Europe.

At Fort Benning, the unit provides enlisted medical personnel in support of field training activities. Many of its corpsmen work in Martin Army Hospital and other MEDDAC Facilities to maintain their proficiency.

Field training for the 2nd EVAC and its attached dispensary detachments often includes combined operations with other TOE units. This cooperative training promotes realism and variety for the medics, and at the same time provides on-the-spot care for members of the non-medical units.

Highly skilled medical specialists from this unit also provide instructor support for medical training in units without this capability.

The 34th Medical Battalion is constantly striving to maintain the highest degree of proficiency in support of medical activities at Fort Benning as well as being ready to take that proficiency to support combat or mercy missions.

The 498th Medical Company (AIR ABB) staged this accident on Fort Benning to show Military Assistance to Safety and Traffic (MAST) procedures. In this SIMULATED incident, Georgia State Patrol Officer David Hinton radioed for military helicopter evacuation. The ACTING victims are Mrs. Alonzo M. Atkinson, and Sp5 Richard Mullinik. Assisting Officer Hinton are Sp5 Altonia Wilson and Sp6 William L. Garland of the 498th Med Co. MAST is not yet in effect at Fort Benning, but plans are prepared so that the program can be implemented as soon as funds are available.

Young people can get first hand experience in medical fields at MAH

Young people interested in the medical careers can meet with Explorer posts 99 and 199 at Martin Army Hospital for first hand experience in their fields.

The hospital provides them with a meeting place, leaders and experience in the area they have tentatively chosen for their life's work. Explorers are the senior division of the Boy Scouts of America and girls are welcome in the program. So much so that Post 199 is 30 per cent girls.

Today's Explorers are interested in careers as well as camping and adventure and get plenty of both. Post 99 has as its advisor Maj. Bill Dinmitt of Preventive Medicine and its president is Mike Huff. The post is medically oriented and a good place to start if you know you want to be involved with helping people, but don't know exactly how.

They explore all areas of medicine as interest dictates. But if you have already decided you want to be a nurse or think that you might, Post 199 is the place for you. Its advisor is Capt. Peter Christianson, the head nurse on B-4, and the president is June Davis, a junior from Baker High School.

The two posts originated from a Medical Club started by Col. Hal. B. Jennings (now the Army Surgeon General) while he was the hospital commander. Even then, the goal was to use the hospital's resources to acquaint young people of the community with the career opportunities waiting for them in medicine or any one of the more than 100 sub-specialties needed in a modern hospital.

One of the many interests of the Nursing Explorers of Post 199 is work in a hospital. "To see if it is what I want?" Tours, talks by nurses, training, and work as American Red Cross Youth Volunteers are interesting, but the Explorers want a more realistic work experience.

In order to provide that experience for the Explorers, an "Individual Sponsorship Program" was developed. The Explorers, after being trained as Red Cross Volunteers are assigned a nurse sponsor. These sponsors are staff nurses at Martin Army Hospital.

So far more than a dozen nurses are participating in the program. The Explorer works with his or her sponsor in the hospital during the nurse's regular tour of duty. The sponsor is responsible for providing meaningful realistic experience for her Scout. They participate, assist, and observe in all kinds of nursing duties.

Their degree of participation in these activities is limited, of course, by standards of nursing practice, but the Explorers feel that they are close enough to the action to decide if nursing is really for them.

The nurses have commented that they are glad to see the Explorers come to the wards because they are able to help out and they keep everybody happy. A nurse noted that the Explorers talked to the patients all evening. Another observed that the Explorers had the time to do many of the things that she wished she had time to do for her patients.

Last year 12 young men and women (Yes, men go into nursing too) from the Explorers entered nursing schools around the country, more than half of whom planned to come back and give the Army Nurse Corps a try.

Both posts have been very active this year and have combined for superactivities. Last fall about 20 members of both posts took the American Red Cross First Aid Course, then used it to train Boy Scouts at the fall combined orienteering and first aid event sponsored by the Fort Benning District.

In December, they took a seven mile hike to start getting in shape for bigger and better activities and to prove that girls could be tough and rough, too.

In December, January and February, consultants were invited to meetings to speak about hospitals, schools and universities. Of special interest were discussions on the courses, grades and recommendations that would be helpful when attempting to gain admission to the college of choice. In depth discussions on how to apply, what to expect, and where to go for financial assistance were presented.

In late March, the "bigger and better Activities" bug bit again and 7 girls and 4 guys went on a five day hike and camping trip to the Smokies. If anything was learned from that experience, it was that this group loves action in large doses and is willing to plan to get it.

The Explorers do most of the work in the post planning activities, setting up outings, and serving on committees. The leaders step in occasionally when things get out of hand or over the heads of the Explorers. The Explorers fail some of the time, but that is part of learning too. They like to think of the real great times though, like the meeting before the Smokies trip when, without coaching from the leaders, one of the Explorers said, "You know, we are going to have to have rules if we are going to make this work." Like the responsible bunch they are, they then developed a code of conduct for the trip and stuck to it.

Patient morale, goal of Red Cross

Maintenance of patient morale is the goal of the Red Cross at Martin Army Hospital. This effort is carried out by a staff of three trained hospital recreation workers, three trained social workers and two secretaries.

Red Cross Volunteers work with the staff and play a large part in helping to provide individualized services for both inpatients and out-patients.

Military patients, many of whom are away from home and family and unable to participate in their customary recreational pursuits, often need help in passing the time between medical procedures and treatments.

The Red Cross plans and carries out a program of medically approved recreation for individuals and for troops of patients on the wards, in the recreation lounge, and sometimes on trips to facilities and events in the local community. This helps to promote patient morale and contribute to recovery.

Red Cross recreation workers also coordinate the efforts of community groups wishing to serve military and retired patients and their dependents. Entertainers, musical groups, civic groups, and wives' clubs provide entertainment, refreshments and sometimes small prizes for ward or recreation lounge activities.

Individual patients, whose disabilities or isolated situation require special attention in order to find recreational outlets, receive personalized service to help them to find spare-time activities that interest and occupy them throughout their hospital stay. Volunteers in recreation make it possible to extend the range of service throughout the large hospital.

Patients often carry worries in their baggage when they are admitted. Family life and communications can be disrupted. Family members separated by distance worry about each other.

The Red Cross-communications network, which links every community in the 50 states and all areas where United States military personnel are stationed abroad, permits rapid communication between Red Cross personnel to help in solving urgent problems of patients and their families. These problems, if unresolved, can complicate the patient's recovery.

There are also occasions when the simple opportunity to talk with a professional individual who is not directly involved in a patient's or family's situation can help. Here, too, Red Cross hospital caseworkers are available to patients and to hospital staff for listening and counselling. Their casework training includes hospital staff for listening and counselling. Their casework training includes knowledge of other resources in the military and civilian communities which may assist the troubled individual in dealing with his situation.

Hospital Red Cross also serves the military command. Patients need Red Cross verification of home emergencies to enable the doctor to determine whether the patient's continued presence here for treatment or at home due to a family emergency is more essential. The 24 hour availability of Red Cross chapters and field directors is essential for prompt service.

Occasionally, this Red Cross network has also been helpful to the doctors in resolving diagnosite problems. Caseworkers have obtained family medical history or background information on a patient, with his permission, to help the doctor in evaluating a tentative diagnosis.

Little problems get bigger when they cannot be solved. Red Cross Personal Service Volunteers help the bed patient with his purchases from the Hospital PX and Post Office. The encourage him to talk about whatever interests him: family, home town, travel, sports. If he cannot write his own letters because his arm is in a cast or he has to stay flat on his back, they help him to keep in touch with his family by taking his dictation, long-hand style.

In addition to the Recreation and Personal Service Volunteers, Red Cross trains volunteers to assist in other departments of MEDDA. Service is expedited in the dependent's clinics due to the presence of volunteers who "chaperon" when the doctor has to examine a patient, and help keep the examining rooms tidy and well supplied.

They serve on the reception desks of many clinics, including the Veterinary Clinic, to assure that patients are logged in, charts and test results are available, and the flow of patients to doctors' offices is smooth.

Volunteers offer that vital medication TLC (tender loving care) in the Newborn Nursery as well as helping to keep the babies clean and contented.

Many serve behind the scenes in the pharmacy, medical library, and outpatient record room.

Youth Volunteers, 15 and over, have an opportunity to test their interest in medical and paramedical professions.

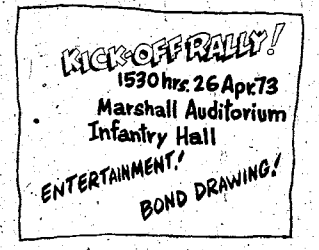
Kickoff for savings bond canvass to be April 26

The kickoff rally for the 1973 Person-to-Person Savings Bond Canvass will be 3:30 p.m. April 26, in Marshall Auditorium here.

A savings bond will be given to someone attending the rally.

The kickoff rally will be opened by Brig. Gen. Willard Latham. Featured guest speaker will be Mr. E. G. Sparks, president of the National Bank of Fort Benning. A film presentation will also be shown featuring the value of savings bonds.

The Person-to-Person Savings Bond Canvass was established at Fort Benning to promote the nationwide U.S. Savings Bond Campaign.



The goal of the campaign is to inform all personnel of the benefits offered by the savings bond Program. Each unit will appoint a canvasser to contact the individual members.

What is the benefit of the Military Bond Allotment Plan for a soldier?

This is the payroll savings bond program especially for service men and women. This savings plan is one way a person might invest a small amount of his earnings each month.

By taking a portion of his monthly paycheck and placing it beyond his immediate reach, he can be sure his investment is secure and, at the same time, building interest for the future.

Savings bond information folders may be obtained from banks. For additional information for submitting the form DA-1431-2 concerning the Military Bond Allotment Pan, contact your Bond Of ficer.

Infantry officers from Vietnam disagree on military leadership

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Infantry officers who have commanded companies in Vietnam have different ideas about military leadership than do Infantry officers who commanded battalions there.

Former company commanders favor decentralization of responsibility and authority to a greater degree than do former battalion commanders. Further, if some centralization of responsibility and authority is necessary, it is more necessary at the company than at the battalion level. Former battalion commanders don't agree, apparently holding to the concept that "leadership is the same at all levels, only the problems become more complex as one moves up the chain of command."

These are some of the findings reported in a recently-released technical report from HumRRO — the Human Resources Research Organization. The report (TR 72-32) is "The Effects of Command Position Upon Evaluations of Leader Behavior," by L. L. Lackey, Joseph A. Olmstead, and Harold E. Christensen.

A serious impediment to the effectiveness of a military organization can arise when individuals at different command levels hold conflicting views concerning the leadership behavior that is appropriate for their respective roles. But neither the precise nature of the differences, nor their sources, had been identified previously. The study reported by HumRRO was conducted to determine whether holding different command positions affected the ways in which men view certain common leader actions.

Results of the study indicate that company commanders do, in fact, differ from battalion commanders in their evaluations of leader actions. The study report identifies specific differences and indicates their degree.

"It would appear that the effectiveness of leaders at both levels might be improved, or at least their problems might be simplified," say the researchers, "if leadership training included instruction concerning potential differences in view-point between levels of command."

The study results confirm the value of a research-based approach for understanding military leadership since they demonstrate that it is possible to identify — in concrete terms — specific sources of potential leadership problems, and to determine directions for improved training and application.

TDY at home

After four years, PFC Norman Picket of Delta Company, 43rd Engineer Battalion (Construction) is returnig home to Fort Walton Beach, Fla. Pickett is being assigned TDY "at home" to assist the local recruiters in that area under the 931st Engineer Group Hometown Recruiter Program.

Pickett was born and raised in the Fort Walton Beach area but his family moved to Michigan four years ago. Upon completion of high school, he enlisted under the Unit of Choice Program for the 931st Engineer Group trying to get a little bit closer to home.

Thompson named head of the BSA

Colonel James M. Thompson, commanding officer of the 931st Engineer Group, has assumed the position of chairman of the Fort Benning District of the Boy Scouts of America.

Col. A. G. Norris, chief, test division, U.S. Army Infantry Board, was the District chairman during the period that he was the commanding officer of the School Brigade and turned the job over to Col. Thompson just prior to his change of jobs.

Col. Thompson now has the responsibility for all scouts, Scouting units and Scouting activities on Post; he also is responsible for coordinating Scouting activities between the Fort Benning District and the Chattahoochee Valley Council of the Boy Scouts.

Umps needed

Fort Benning Officials Association will conduct follow-up softball clinics on April 28 at Gowdy Field from 9-11:30 a.m. and April 30 at Bldg. 394 from 7-9 p.m. All personnel who are planning to officiate in the 1973 Fort Benning Softball Program must attend these two clinics. For further information call 545-1516-4073.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Leftover ham can be served cold, pan broiled, cubed in a white sauce, or diced in scrambled eggs and omelets.

Ordinary broiled chicken becomes a real treat when you sauce it with butter melted with rosemary and sage.

Youngsters will flip for sandwiches made from a spread of peanut butter, raisins and marmalade.

The word "ospic" is derived from the Greek "aspis", meaning shield. It refers to any dish covered or molded with jelly.

Sickle cell anemia

Will take time to find cure

BY MARCUS DISBROW
and LACY TYLER

The benefits of modern medicine have made possible the detection of diseases unknown to man fifty years ago. One of those diseases is sickle cell anemia.

Martin Army Hospital and the Hospital Annex are doing something about the disease. They have screened over 2300 soldiers and dependents for sickle cell within the past 15 months. The screening is conducted on a free, walk-in basis available for all retired and active duty personnel and their dependents. If a person has the sickle cell gene, the hospital will arrange private, individual counseling on a voluntary basis.

Sickle cell anemia is a disease of the hemoglobin, or the red blood cells of the human. The normal, healthy red blood cells are donut-shaped, however the diseased-shaped cells take on the physical appearance of a sickle or a crescent.

It is the very shape of the cell itself which causes problems. Normal blood cells flow easily and freely through the veins and arteries without hunching. On the other hand the sickle shaped cells become stuck and clogged together in the small vessels.

This type of "traffic jamming" results in little or no oxygen reaching the tissues and without oxygen the body tissues are in serious trouble.

Symptoms

What are some of the symptoms of the disease? Since the sickled cells bunch up in the vessels, excruciating pain is experienced. This intense pain is not the only major problem. The lack of oxygen may cause damage to the liver and to the kidneys as well as the impede normal body growth. Other symptoms include severe abdominal pains and painful joints.

'MAH has screened over 2,300 soldiers and dependents for sickle cell within the past 15 months.'

As a result of the disease, most of those afflicted die before reaching the age of twenty and few live beyond forty. What can be done to stop this wasteful early death? At present there is no "cure." Nevertheless, several things may be done to help the victim. Antibiotics are used to help treat infections, pain relievers are used to lessen the discomfort and a conscious effort must be made to avoid strenuous activities and high altitudes.

Outside of these few aids, nothing else exists at present. It is the hope of research to finally solve the problem and bring relief to the victims.

Is this disease as prevalent as the common cold? No, thank goodness, it is not. Statistics inform us that sickle cell disease is hereditary. A person may be healthy and still have one sickle cell gene. He is then called a "carrier" and is said to have the sickle cell "trait." If the person has two sickle cell genes, he has the disease.

How many afflicted

In the United States 10 per cent of the 22 million plus Blacks have the trait with over 50,000 having the disease itself.

Among Whites, according to Dr. Joseph Robinson of the New York State Health Department, about one in every 200 has the trait.

Is the carrier affected? Generally he has no difficulties unless suddenly deprived of oxygen or lived in an oxygen poor environment. A benefit he has is that the sickle cell trait acts as a natural preventative of malaria.

Can pre-birth detection be utilized to determine whether or not a child would be a victim of sickle cell anemia? The only possible method would require a sample of fetal blood and that procedure is extremely difficult and dangerous.

President Nixon said in his health message in February 1971, that he would designate $5 million for sickle cell anemia in 1972. The 1973-74 fiscal budget has slotted 100 million dollars for sickle cell to be divided among the National Heart and Lung Institute, National Institute of Arthritis, and General Medical Science. This budget must be voted on by Congress before the funds will be made available to the above agencies.

Screening alone will only identify the disease, it will take the research of science and medicine to find a cure and conquer sickle cell anemia.

Officers' Club makes changes to better accommodate members

The Fort Benning Officers' Club has made several recent changes in policy. The club began re-opening on Mondays on March 5, and beginning April 6, the Custer Terrace Annex was closed each Friday night.

Dancing with a live band has been moved to the Supper Club, which can accommodate more people and enables the club to hire better bands. Dress remains casual.

The Custer Terrace Annex remains open on Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday nights. At the Main Officers' Club, "Shrimp A-Peel" is held every Friday night, with all the shrimp you can eat and free draft beer.

HAPPY HOUR

Happy Hour prices on drinks, usually in effect on Fridays from 5 to 7 p.m., are now applicable to parties held on Fridays during the same time.

According to Lt. Col. Harold M. Carter, general manager, the quality of food and service has improved, and will continue to improve in the future. Drink prices are being re-evaluated, and will be lowered in may cases.

Package store prices cannot be lower than 10 pct. below the prevailing prices in the adjacent community, according to Army regulations.

"The club is service-oriented, not profit-oriented," Lt. Col. Carter added. "We encourage members to let us know their feelings, opinions, or suggestions through their representative on the Officers' Club Advisory Council."

SUGGESTION BOXES

"Suggestions can also be turned into the various suggestion boxes," he added. "We have recently placed one in Infantry Hall for use by the Infantry Officer Advanced Course students."

"We are currently trying to determine whether to continue holding bingo games through the summer months. We are tightening operations at the golf course to insure that the activity is self-sustaining."

New lights for night playing on the tennis courts have been ordered, and will be installed within the near future, he said. A consultant has also been hired to give an estimate on improving the courts.

SWIMMING

The swimming pools are tentatively scheduled to open May 26. More information on exact hours will be available later.

"We still have internal matters to resolve, but we feel we are moving in the right direction," he concluded. The Officers' Club showed a small profit for the first quarter of 1973.

The Fort Benning Officers' Club recently came under the supervision of the newly-formed U.S. Army Club Management Agency. Assistance teams are made available to any club which requests or needs them.

These teams provide the necessary technical expertise to help a club improve its operations. During the week of April 16-20, the Fort Benning Officers' Club was visited by such a team.

D-1-29th supports NCOES

On paper, problem CPEB51 probably looked like any other Infantry School support Problem for the 197th Inf. Bde., but in reality, it was hardly 'any other problem' as students in the Non-Commissioned Officers Educational System (NCOES) will attest.

Throughout the entire problem the NCOES students were fighting for their lives in a realistic looking mock-combat situation.

The problem was even more significant in that it was the first Infantry school support problem conducted by the 197th Inf. Bde. since the brigade's re-organization last month.

The 1-29th is attached to the 197th Infantry Brigade during its transitional period, as it prepares to assume the mission of supporting the Infantry School.

The problem involved ambush and counter ambush, and the men from Co. D, 1-29th Inf., 197th Inf. Bde., were well prepared for the exercise, according to Pit. Sgt. Walter Smith.

Said Smith, "Delta Co. has the first platoon organized to support the Infantry School, and we have made sure that all the men are ready for their missions. The men have undergone extensive training in orienteering, communications, and 11B (rifleman) MOS training, in addition to the Physical Combat Proficiency Test, all with 100 per cent completion."

It was certainly evident to the NCOES students that the aggressors from Delta Co., 1-29th Inf. were well trained in all aspects of combat warfare. The mision of the NCOES force was to infiltrate the aggressor lines and take over their position.

It was no easy task for the students however, for throughout the exercise, they were subject to a variety of ambush tactics including booby traps, snipers, and hidden .50 caliber machine guns, in addition to the usual array of smoke bombs and artillery simulators.

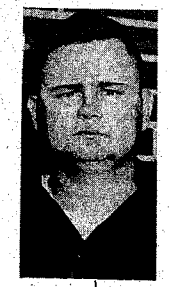
Is an Army post a good place to raise a family?

Raising a family on Post



Mrs. Mark Willits

We're pretty happy with life on post for the most part. We just have one baby and we have enough room for now but in later years we would like to raise our children in a more open environment. I'm just happy to be living with my husband.

SpS John Van Dewiele
524 Personnel Co.

I think so. There's plenty of room, and housing costs a lot less than if you were trying to find the same type of place on the outside. I only have a girl three, and she has plenty to keep her occupied.

SSG. Doug Lewis
47th Co. Airborne

It depends on your neighbors. They can make your life pleasurable or miserable. We need nicer playgrounds and more activities for the young as well as the old. It would also be nice if the housing was separate from the business area. The young people need more activities to do to keep them busy and out of trouble.

Sgt. Dale Hatfield
121st Aviation

It would be if the quarters were adequate. These are about to fall apart and the post engineers won't do a thing about them because they are too old. I have three children and these quarters are not up to standard for the price I'm paying . . .

Mrs. Sylvester Pettiway

I think it's a good place to raise a family even though the housing is very old and inadquate. My biggest gripe is that my children have to cross the street to go to the playgrounds. I would like to see more playgrounds installed.

Alcohol

Remains No. 1 drug problem

Alcohol remains the nation's number one drug problem, according to a psychiatrist who heads the Veterans Administration's alcohol and drug dependency treatment in Minneapolis, Minn.

Dr. Richard O. Heilman said alcoholics outnumber all other drug dependent people by 20 to one. Among the young, alcohol is still the most commonly used drug by a ratio of at least two to one, he pointed out.

This ratio will not be significantly altered until our society radically modifies its drinking attitudes and practices, Dr. Heilman told a group attending a three-day seminar at the Minneapolis VA Hospital.

Describing alcohol as a "powerful mind drug," Dr. Heilman said that anyone who responds positively to the question, "Is your drinking ever different from what you would like it to be?" probably is an alcoholic.

He said other clues are gulping drinks, drinking alone, preoccupation with being able to drink the next time, increased tolerance for alcohol, use of alcohol as a medicine, blackouts when there is difficulty recalling some of the events of the previous evening, and efforts to protect the supply of alcohol.

Community Life

New program to make Army families feel part of community

"Today's Army takes care of its own."

This concept is the theme of a new program recently begun at Fort Benning. The program is sponsored by Army Community Service and the USAIC Chaplain Division.

Called the "Community Life Program," its goal is to make Army families feel that they are part of a real community instead of temporary residents on a post.

How do they propose to do this? By letting the families themselves take part in, and eventually run, the entire program. For right now, though, ACS and the chaplains are lending their support to get the program started.

The Sand Hill area of enlisted housing is the trial area for the "neighborhood association" concept, which consists of community councils with various committees organized to handle different aspects of community life.

The committees will eventually include a welcome committee, an area improvements committee, and youth and adult affairs committees. They will be made up of residents, who will suggest improvements and then be able to carry them out with the help of Army Community Service.

The chaplains will stay on as advisors and counselors, and will serve in a kind of "village ministry." There will be a chaplain to serve both the Protestant and Catholic residents.

The first organizational meeting will be held at McBride School on April 17, at 7:30 p.m. Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Sterling Wetherell, USAIC Chaplain, will be present to discuss the purposes of the Community Life Program, and ACS representatives will be there.

Thus far, SFC William Johnson, Chaplain (Capt.) Marvin McRoberts, and Father James Sheil have conducted a sample survey in the McGraw Manor housing area.

They asked the residents to fill out a questionnaire suggesting improvements they would like to see in the way of activities and programs. There are a total of 952 units in the area, with around 4,000 people.

Residents suggested softball and baseball teams and swimming classes for children and teen-agers, as well as dances for the teens. Adult activities named include athletics (softball, tennis, and badminton) and swing, knitting, and crocheting classes for wives.

They also suggested Sunday School classes, Vacation Bible School, and church singing groups. Transportation to Main Post was high on their list of priorities.

Race relations classes, counseling, night classes, and a nursery were ranked next in order of importance, as well as garbage collection and an area beautification program.

SFC Johnson, who is the neighborhood association coordinator for ACS, receives a daily list of new residents. He and several ACS volunteers call on them to give them a welcome packet and offer their help.

The volunteers are often drawn from the neighborhood itself; this, Johnson feels, is better than an outsider coming in. "Too few people visit the Welcome Center on Main Post."

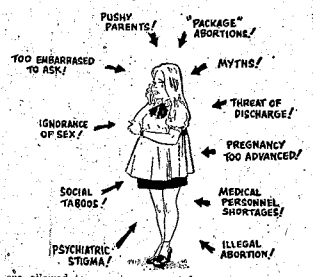
The Abortion

Should not be used as a means of family planning or contraception

By BILL BROWNELL

ED. NOTE: This is the second part of a two-part article continued from last week.

"We prefer not to perform abortions after the fifth month of pregnancy," says Col. (Dr.) Billy D. Burk, chief of Obstetrics and Gynecology (OB-GYN) at Martin Army Hospital (MAH). "Until that time it is actually safer to have an abortion than to carry the baby, but after that phase, it's safer to carry the baby and give birth."



Benning procedures protective

According to 1st. Lt. Nathan Merritt, social worker, MAH, "The patient confirms her pregnancy, then is counseled by a gynecologist and requests the abortion. He will refer her to a social worker for preliminary analysis and assistance. This step is not mandatory, but the patient must be analyzed by a pschiatrist. If the woman is 15 or under, she is counseled by a child psychiatrist. If married, both the husband and wife must agree. A dependent must have the consent of the parents. However, final determination always lies with the patient. This protects her from being pushed into an unwanted abortion which could have a severe psychological effect later. A fiance or a boyfriend do not constitute a basis for decision."

Dr. Burk added, "The pregnant woman is counseled not only to determine if an abortion is needed, but also to insure against future reoccurrences."

Off-post services available

According to Dr. Micki Souma, OB Service staff, Columbus Medical Center, "Abortion is still a "controlled" privilege. Although the abortion committee has been abolished, hospital policy still requires protective controls for the good of the patient. Before we are allowed to operate we must have a statement by both the physician and the patient."

"Hospital policy insists that only physicians with special privileges (experience or training, or both) can perform the abortion," added Dr. Souma. "If the patient is pregnant beyond her third month, the physician must consult the opinion of a member of the OB-GYN staff."

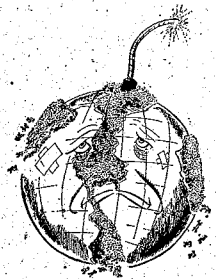
Types of abortions

Dr. Burk explained that there are three main types of abortions that have been performed at MAH since abortions were first permitted in 1971. In the first 10-12 weeks, a vacuum curettage or D and C (dilation and curettage) are best for therapeutic abortions. The vacuum type requires less hospital time and usually involves fewer complications. Between the 13-20 week, a hypertonic saline injection using one or more needles administered through the abdominal wall is required. Normally, this solution destroys the placenta and eventually disrupts the pregnancy. The fetus is then delivered (after labor) in one to three days. After five months abortions require major surgery, whereby the surgeon performs a hysterotomy (incision into the uterus) and removes both the fetus and placenta.

Medical complications

If an abortion is not performed under proper medical supervision, a woman can suffer from several post-operative medical problems. She may incur a perforated uterus, find her cervix rendered useless because of torn tissues and spontaneously abort during a later pregnancy, or she may become infected. If a saline solution is used and enters her bloodstream, she can go into convulsions.

If the aborted fetus possessed blood with the RH factor, future pregnancies could be affected. Antibodies may form and cause a breakdown in the new baby's blood which in turn may cause jaundice or even brain damage. This is preventable by the patient being given Rhu Gam, a medicine which prevents the formation of antibodies against the RH factor.



Prevention is the best cure

"Abortion should not be used as a means of family planning or contraception. Rather, a good sound program of contraceptive techniques should be adopted to eliminate the need for abortion, regardless of age or marital status," concluded Dr. Burk. "Prevention is the best cure."

Controversy

Area churches divided over the abortion question

Religious and moral viewpoints

"It's a form of murder, especially when it's done merely for the sake of convenience," says Major Richard L. D'Arcy, Catholic Chaplain, The School Brigade (TSB). "This is a human life we're talking about. It may not look like we do right now, but it has all of the rights guaranteed by God and by natural and civil law."

"Normally, these people, except in cases of rape, are pregnant because of their own volition. What they're doing is taking the easy way out," continued D'Arcy.

Jewisb law also upholds the sanctity of life, not from birth, but from conception. "The unborn child enjoys certain sacred rights. To interfere is a serious moral offense," says Captain Ronald H. Gross, Jewish Chaplain. "The only time abortion is allowed is when the mother's health and very life are jeopardized by her continuing the pregnancy."

The Baptists equally endorse the view that the beginning of life is an event that falls under God's special control. "A developing fetus is human life which is encompassed by the protection of almighty God," stressed Maj. (Chap.) Walter L. Phillips, TSB. "Too loosely play with life is dangerous."

SFC Sammy J. Harris, auxiliary Chaplain, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, stated the Church's position. "The Church opposes abortion and counsels its members not to submit to or perform an abortion except in rare cases, whereby, in the opinion of competent medical counsel, the life or good health of the mother is seriously endangered or where the pregnancy was caused by rape and produces serious emotional trauma in the mother. Even then, it should be done only after counseling with the local prescribing priesthood authority and after receiving divine conformation through prayer."

According to Bill Ruby of the Seventh Day Adventist, Columbus, Georgia, "the Church doesn't interfere with the personal decisions of its members. Abortion, however, should be only to save the life and health of the mother."

Lutheran Chaplain (Maj.) David W. Hoh stated, "At times abortion may be necessary for therapeutic reasons. Consideration is ultimately made on an individual basis, but only and always with religious and medical counsel."

"It's a matter of conscience," says Pentecostal Chaplain (Maj.) Francis R. Caulder, Martin Army Hospital. "There is no church-wide position. I'm sure the Church is against indiscriminate abortions."

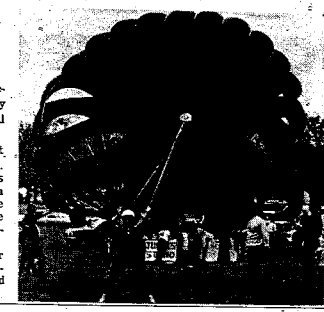
The autonomy of decision in the Christian Science Church is equally upheld. Major Jack Coulter of the Columbus Police Department and auxiliary chaplain, re-emphasized the Church counsel's position. "The Church has no denominational policy on matters such as birth control, abortion, and sterilization. Matters of family planning are left to individual judgment but methods involving operations and drugs would normally be considered incompatible with Christian Science."

Methodist Chaplain (Captain) Marvin A. McRoberts, who is working in the McGraw Manor Community Life Program, stated, "The foremost importance is personhood (with the mother) because of existing responsibilities in life. We reject the extremists views that all abortion is murder, but we also reject the view that it is just a medical exercise."

The Presbyterian church is presently devising a written position.

School Brigade's Medical Clinic handles 100 soldiers per day

The sign on the wall says "We Care." Daily nearly a hundred sick, tired, or injured soldiers walk through the doors to test that simple slogan at The School Brigade's Troop Medical Clinic No. 2.



Captain Robert E. Barden is medical officer at TMC No. 2. A graduate of Rollins College in Orlando, Florida, and Tulane University Medical School, Capt. Barden is well equipped to handle the everyday chores he encounters.

"We take care of mainly Airborne, NCOES, OCS, IOAC and IOBC students. A lot of cases are injured ankles or knees because of the airborne training. We get lots of colds, flus, and other family routine problems," he said.

"The two most serious cases I can remember since I came here in January is one man's bad reaction to an illegal drug and one possible heart attack."

There are four steps a patient must go through at a troop medical clinic. First, he must sign in and identify his complaint. Then he is screened by a medic who examined him. From there he moves to the treatment room where medication is applied. Finally, he is reviewed by Dr. Barden.

"When more serious cases come in or whenever they have a question on diagnosis or treatment, the men come and ask me," Capt. Barden said.

How do you get this thing off the ground??

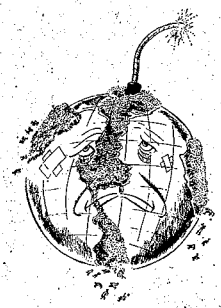
Personal recycling

Benning woman practices what she preaches; she helps

BY SUSANNE BOSTICK

The chairman of the Fort Benning Environmental Workshop, Mrs. Muriel Anderson, is one concerned individual who practices what she preaches.

Wife of Lt. Col. Paul D. Anderson and mother of two, Mrs. Anderson has been recycling used paper, cans and bottles ever since the Recycle Point opened in November 1971.



Every week and a half, she loads her car with the recyclable paper she has saved, bottles, and cans, and takes them to the Recycle Point, located on Gaudette Street next to the PX Auto Rental facility.

The paper is mostly from personal correspondence, since paper used in the kitchen is usually not recyclable. She separates bottles into green, brown and clear glass, and washes cans, removing tops and labels.

Mrs. Anderson says, "In addition to our recyclable waste, we will fill two trash cans a week, mainly with unrecyclable paper from our kitchen and study. This is the waste accumulated by a family of four with one cat."

Mrs. Anderson also takes discarded clothes and other items to Goodwill Industries and the Thrift Shop. She buys returnable bottles whenever possible, and keeps all newspapers for turning in to the Recycle Point. She also reuses styrofoam containers instead of throwing them away.

Mrs. Anderson says, "I don't think personal recycling is the final answer, though. I feel that it needs to be done mechanically, through d o o r - t o - d o o r collection. Personal recycling is a start, but it takes too much time."

She and a friend, Mrs. John W. (Marti) DeWalt, started the Officers' Wives Club Environmental Workshop a year and a half ago. All interested persons, military or civilian, are welcome to attend meetings, which are held every Wednesday at the OWC Lounge (behind the Infantry Museum) at 10 a.m.

The group offers a chance for study and discussion of current environmental issues which interest members. They take periodic field trips, to such places as Callaway Gardens, the Pepperell Dam, and the Fort Benning Water Purification Plant.

Their programs often include films on the environment and ecological issues. Members support the Recycle Point with regular turn-ins of materials. They made the suggestion for the Ecology Corner in the Main Commissary, where organic or naturally grown foods and biodegradable cleaning products are sold.

Many of their accomplishments have been "behind the scenes." For instance, they got the Commissary to supply fresh eggs in cardboard cartons instead of styrofoam. They also put out a newsletter every month, and recently sponsored a debate on population growth.

The workshop also participated in Ecohealthfest, and had a booth at the Columbus Jaycees Ecology Month Fair in February at Columbus Square. Right now a slide show on the theme "Our Environment: Like It Is — Like It Could Be" is being prepared, along with a handout on "What You Can Do To Help."

Future topics for speakers, movies and discussions are the energy crisis and water pollution. Currently, members are trying to find ways to stop pet abandonment and animal overpopulation on post. Pet abandonment, they say, is a serious problem here, with hundreds of animals running loose in heavily forested areas.

The workshop is also concerned with such problems as getting the Commissary and other stores on post to sell beer in returnable bottles, and how to save the islands in Martin Army Hospital parking lot from further erosion and damage to the trees.

Child birth

MAH offers class May 1

Pregnancy and childbirth are normal, natural happenings. It is believed that through a thorough program of education, the expectant father and mother can be prepared both physically and emotionally to make childbirth and parenthood a satisfying and rewarding experience.

The Army Health Nursing Service, in conjunction with the Obstetrics Department, Martin Army Hospital, is beginning another s e r i e s of Expectant Parent's Classes on May 1. The series consists of four classes, each two hours long, on four Tuesday nights of the month. Classes are held in the Conference Room on the second floor of Martin Army Hospital.

The sessions improve your knowledge of pregnancy, childbirth, and newborn babies. Movies, slides, short talks, and discussion groups help to explain the physical structure of the male and female, reproduction, body changes, signs of labor and infant care.

The first class includes psychological aspects of parenthood, and exercises. The second class describes labor and delivery and includes a tour of the Labor and Delivery Suite; the third describes Obstetrical anesthesia and the fourth describes infant care, with a special session on breast feeding. It is best to start with the first class in the series and continue with the same group; however, if you should miss one class, you can make it up in the next series.

Particular care is taken to make each expectant mother and father aware of forthcoming events. Fear and uncertainty are results of meeting the unexpected. For assurance and knowledge, you are encouraged to attend a series of Expectant Parent's Classes during your pregnancy. The Obstetrician, Optometrist, Chaplain, Nursery Nurse, and the Army Health Nurse all participate in the series. It is an excellent opportunity to ask questions.

Because of limited space, you are asked to pre-register for these classes by calling the Army Health Nursing Service, 545-5431, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Moving?

Local dental society helps locate new family dentist

This is the sixth in a series of six articles on dental health published in cooperation with the Fort Benning Dental Service.

What if I'm really into the plaque-prevention thing and I find I have to change jobs or move away? How do I go about finding a dentist in a new area who will keep me on my toes about preventive dental care?

All dentists are concerned about preventive dental care, so one of the best ways to locate a family dentist in a new city is to contact the local dental society. Usually, the society is listed in the phone book and if you call or write, you will be directed to two or three practitioners near you who are ethical members of the dental society.

The reason more than one dentist is usually recommended to a new patient is very simple: Not everybody hits it off with everybody else. To avoid any type of personality difficulty, the society gives you a selection from the best they have so you are free to decide just which dentist you feel meets your family needs.

If you are unable to locate a dental society in your area, you might ask your family physician. As a professional, you can be sure he knows a good number of dentists in the area and he can probably make several recommendations.

Other sources for finding a family dentist include the local hospital, where some dentists might be members of the staff, or your neighbors. In fact, your neighbor may often turn out to be the best source of information. Happy dental patients are glad to pass the word about their dentist and you can often learn about a dentist from a friend.

The average dentist is very much concerned with establishing a good relationship with the new patient. Because dentists are health professionals, they are concerned that their patients appreciate the importance of good dental health.

If you show your interest in keeping your oral health at its best by maintaining a conscientious program of home care, you can be assured that your family dentist will do his best to keep your dental health at that same peak.

BY JUDY JAKUBOWSKI

(EDITOR'S NOTE:)

The Bayonet is forming a Family Section within the paper to better facilitate the family-oriented news. The Femline is making a change too. It's splitting into two columns. One will remain "Along the Femline", and contain announcements of things to come that will interest the woman and her family. The second column, "Who, What, Where", will tell of unit and club functions, welfare projects, awards and achievements.

Any family news items may still be dropped in the Femline boxes by 9 a.m. Thurs. mornings.

NOTE to publicity chairmen: Articles on social events should include: unit, hostess(es), date, guests, hail and farewells, upcoming unit or club activities, theme and-or decor, only if of special interest, and the date and place of next function. Any questions? call Judy Jakubowski - 322-3596.

PFC Mark Wong receives his certificate for completing the Army Community Service citizenship preparation from Brig. Gen. Latham.

Twenty-seven students finish citizenship course

National costumes decorated the graduation of the 6 weeks citizenship preparation course taught by Army Community Service, Fort Benning, Ga.

Twenty seven students completed the course which covered the fundamentals of citizenship, American history, and the process of becoming a citizen.

Certificates were presented by Brig. Gen. Willard Latham, deputy post commander. Gen. Latham also sampled native dishes brought by the ladies.

Those graduating were Mrs. Luther Butler, Mrs. William Cagle, Mrs. William Cunningham, Mrs. Richard Dahlquist, and Mrs. Theodore Dalton.

Also graduating were Mrs. Melvin Duncan, Mrs. Melvin Ecford; Mrs. John Frost, Mrs. Robert Glick, and Mrs. John Henderson.

Others include Mrs. Emmett Johnson, Mrs. Bryant Johnson, Mrs. George Jones, and Mrs. Ezard Knepley, and Mrs. Daniel Lowrey.

In addition, Mrs. Thomas Mayfield, Mrs. Donald Peters, Mrs. Andrew Phipps, Mrs. Rufus Roberson, and Mrs. Sanders.

Also, Mrs. Eugene Simpson, Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. Bruce Stapleman, Mrs. Thomas Turcotte, and Mrs. Soris Williams.

Other graduates were Mrs. Bruce Wison and PFC Mark Wong.

Ten get axe

Ten soldiers from Fort Benning have been recently arrested for violation of the Federal Narcotics Act (selling). Pvt. Lawrence E. Waycaster Jr., Sgt. William A. Pointer, PFC James L. Smith Jr., and Pvt. John T. Mannering III all received two years' confinement and were sent to the Muscogee County Jail pending transfer to Jackson, Ga.

Pvt. Gene C. Petrosky received three years' confinement, and was sent to Muscogee County Jail pending transfer to Jackson, Ga. PFC Wallace B. Dunbar III, Sgt. Gary C. Ponder, and Spc4 Lloyd E. Williams were all bound over to Superior Court on bond, and sent to the Columbus Jail pending transfer to the Muscogee County Jail. The time and date for their hearings were not set.

Pvt. Charles E. Willis Jr. was bound over on bond to Superior Court, sent to the Columbus Jail pending transfer to Muscogee County Jail, and went to court. His trial was declared a mistrial, however, and the new trial date is not known. Spc4 William N. Yoder was released after posting bond, and was further released to the Fort Benning Military Police.

Skin

Wrapping paper of body subject to most stress and insults

The skin, by virtue of its position as the wrapping paper of the body, is subject to more stresses and insults from its environment than any other part of the body. These assaults on its integrity may be launched by the wearer or originate in nature.

We daily apply an incredible array of useless chemicals to our skins with very little thought as to what possible damage might result. Fortunately, we are protected by several government agencies from truly harmful preparations.

There are, however, a number of preparations used daily by millions that do cause some discomfort to a small percentage of consumers. For example, some of the ingredients in soaps and cosmetics may cause allergic reactions. Some facial cosmetics have for a long time been known to worsen acne. The new "hygiene sprays" have caused considerable irritation to some users. Occasionally, batches of cosmetics become contaminated with bacteria and may cause skin infections.

Medications, particularly home remedies, when used improperly, can also cause irritation or rashes of the skin. Some areas of the body are more sensitive than others and can be irritated by otherwise safe medications. There is also always the possibility of an allergic reaction to a pill or cream.

Many natural phenomena also pose a hazard to the skin. The sun is widely recognized by dermatologists as being the primary aging factor of the skin. It also causes several different types of skin cancers. A sensible attitude towards sun exposure should be adopted by all, especially those with fair skin and a history of poor sun tolerance. Repeated severe sunburning must always be avoided. Long periods of sun exposure should be discouraged, particularly if one desires to retain a youthful appearance and avoid skin malignancies.

Those whose occupations or recreational pursuits necessitate long hours in the sun; people with a past history of skin cancer; and patients with diseases mediated by sunlight are usually advised by their physicians to wear a long sleeved shirt, a wide brimmed hat and a sunscreen. The most effective of the sunscreens is a combination of para-aminobenzoic acid and alcohol. This totally blocks out the sun's burning rays and prevents sunburn. This particular preparation is available through the hospital pharmacy at Fort Benning, and is a cosmetically acceptable preparation.

Repeated exposure to the sun, wind, and water tends also to dry the skin. A simple remedy for this is to use a soap with a cold cream base; shower no more often than once daily; and apply a bath oil or lotion immediately after showering.

The ever present poison ivy plant also poses a common problem here. The plant's leaves contain an oil which when rubbed onto the skin of an allergic individual produces the well known rash.

Teenage authority to speak on problems

Sunday, April 29th from 1-3 p.m. will be an outstanding opportunity for all parents in the Fort Benning-Columbus Area to hear the widely renown teenage authority, Rev. James DiGiacomo, S. J. speak on the vital problems encountered in dealing with teenagers in today's world. The lecture is sponsored by the Chaplains' Division and will be held at the Infantry Center Chapel Annex on main post.

Rev. DiGiacomo has lectured to audiences in thirty-six states and four Provinces of Canada, and is one of the country's leading experts in the field of Parent-Teenage relationships.

In addition to his book, Rev. DiGiacomo is the author of Holt, Rinehart and Winston's Conscience and Concern, a widely used high school religion text, and is a frequent contributor to numerous magazines and journals. His interest in teenagers has led him to produce audio-visual materials to accompany his text, and Rev. DiGiacomo lectures on religious education have been produced in the form of tapes and cassettes by such outstanding enterprises as "Creative Sights and Sounds".

If you have children who are in their teens, or approaching the teenage years, you'll want to hear Rev. DiGiacomo's presentation. The lecture will also be opened to all teachers, social workers and interested persons in the Fort Benning-Columbus area.

Population explosion

Means inflation, starvation and disintegration

BY SUSANNE BOSTICK

In 1972, the President's Commission on Population Growth and the American Future completed its two-year study of population patterns in the United States.

Their report and recommendations contain some figures that should be of vital interest to every American of child-bearing and child-producing age.

If the U.S. population grows at the desired rate of 2.1 births per family, there will be 271 million Americans by the year 2000. If it grows at the rate of 3.1 children per family, however, it will reach 322 million people by 2000.

51 MILLION MORE

What will this difference of 51 million people mean to us? Our Gross National Product will be larger, but individual incomes would be 15 per cent higher if we had only 2 children per family.

Jobs will be harder to find if our population grows faster: there will be 10 million more workers looking for their first jobs in the 1990's if our population increases at the rate of 3 children per family.

Our children will be younger: 35 per cent of the population will be under 18, and only 9 per cent over 65, if we have 2 children per family. If we limit our familes to 2 children, 27 per cent of the population will be under 18, and 11 per cent over 65.

More of our GNP will be spent on education if we have more children: 13 per cent, or $400 billion, as contrasted with 9.7 per cent of a smaller GNP, or $276 billion.

CROWDED CITIES

Our cities will become more crowded: 85 per cent of the population, or 273 million eople, will be living in urban areas by 2000. If we achieve and maintain the 2-child-per-family growth rate, 83 per cent of the population, or 225 million people, will be living in our cities.

Our natural resources, many of them irreplacable, will be used up at an even faster rate: 9 per cent more quickly than if we have only 2 children per family.

WATER SHORTAGE

By the year 2020, there will be a water deficit in 16 of our states if our population grows at the rate of two children per family; in 20 states if we have a growth rate of three children per family.

What does this mean? It means water shortages, increased prices, and eventually, water rationing. Is this the prospect we want to face?

The demand for recreational facilities will be 30 per cent greater; our already crowded parks will become even more so. The "vanishing American wilderness" will probably vanish even faster.

FOOD PRICES UP

Food prices, already high, will increase 40 per cent to 50 per cent, as marginal lands are farmed to feed our rapidly-growing numbers. The air will be 5 per cent to 12 per cent more polluted than it would be if we limited our families to two children.

Even if the birth rate levels off now to 2 children per family, the population will continue to grow for 70 years. All this points to only one conclusion: population control is absolutely necessary if our nation is to continue to live well.

The more people there are, the more limited our choices become; we are forced to take drastic steps before adquate research and study has been done. We are unable to measure the consequences of our actions as well, and yet they affect more and more people.

For the United States, as well as the rest of the world, population control is the only answer.

Women's Lib and abortion

"We support repeal of all laws that affect a woman's right to decide her own reproductive and sexual life," says Mrs. Susanne Bostick, National Women's Political Caucus. This organization was formed to work for women's rights, and at the same time involve women in politics.

The Caucus believes that it should be the woman's decision to bear children. "This decision should not be forced upon the woman by government or by the churches, or be determined by her economic or marital status," continued Mrs. Bostick. "Abortion is presently available to those who can afford it; it is unfair for poor women to be denied access to it."

Family Planning:

Clinic advises more than 450 people per month

BY EDITH SIMMONS

More than 450 people a month enter the Family Planning Clinic at Martin Army Hospital seeking information, instruction, and prescriptions for people who want to schedule or limit their children, according to Lt. Patricia Truex.

Truex says, "family planning is having children if and when you want them."

Truex went on to say that patients who come to the clinic are typical of the Army. According to her, the highest percentage of patients are in their early 20s. Most have already had their first child and want to space or limit their next children.

For people who come to the clinic, the factors involved in planning children are feelings about having a family, finances, the husbands service career, the wife's work or school, and the number of other children in the family.

She says that these young people recognize the responsibility of having children and want to be prepared for it. They also want to have time to pursue their own needs and interests.

Most patients come to the clinic individually Truex explained. These women are seeking information on the kinds of contraceptives available and their advantages and disadvantages. If the women has not talked to her husband or finance she will usualy go to him before making a decision.

The nurse said that the men should be informed about the methods available since a birth control method which is not acceptable to both, probably won't be used.

After the couple has decided on contraception, the woman receives a complete physical for her safety and to be sure that the method selected is the best for her.

"This is why," Truex said, "very few people visit the clinic more than once or twice. They come knowing they want contraceptives and the visit determines the best method."

"Pills are the most popular method", she continued, "They are also the most effective temporary method and suitable for most women." She added that there are many misconceptions about the pill which make women avoid it. "If a woman thinks the pill will make her fat, she won't use it."

Misinformation about all forms of planning devices leads many people to choose a method that is not the most effective for them or best suited to their needs.

Truex feels that women in family planning are an advantage. "Women feel more comfortable talking to a woman about intimate matters."

The family planning clinic at Martin Army works on an appointment basis. When a patient calls, they are worked in as quickly as possible. The clinic is part of the obstetrics-gynecology clinic. Family planning counseling is a regular part of the OB-GYN service for pregnant women and for women in the hospital who have just delivered. The course is also taught in the expectant parents' classes coordinated by the Army Health Nursing Service. They are assisted by 10 doctors in the OB-GYN Clinic.

In addition to Lt. Truex, Capt. Kay Kerr works in the planning clinic. Both nurses have completed the 22 week OB-GYN clinicians course which includes family training. They also receive on-going training in the field. Appointments may be made by calling 544-1096.

Noise pollution presents problem to individual

By TIM PURDON

Pollution. A word many soldiers have heard. Think of pollution and you think: smog, rivers with dead fish floating through the muddy waters and trash thrown over the higiway.

More than likely you've seen these things, but have you ever thought there was another form of pollution?

Noise pollution, according to recent Army Medical Department figures, suggest that in military, noise pollution is as damaging or more than any of the mentioned pollutants.

Survey indicates

The areas most affected with noise pollution are with Armor and Artillery.

In a recent six-post sampling or over 2000 troops, with 10 years of service, Armor personnel had 63 per cent below normal hearing while Artillery had 52 per cent.

Steady noises produced by different sounds are considered hazardous when exposures reach 85 decibles (dB) or more. Decibles are a unit for measuring the volume of a sound.

Steady Noise

Steady noises produced by aircraft and armored personnel carriers are measured as the human ear perceives it and is noted as dBA.

Examples of steady noises are: Chinook helicopters 128 dBA; M60 A1 tank, 120 dBA; Armored personnel carriers, 112 dBA, and chain saws, 106 dBA.

Other steady noises that can affect you if loud enough are televisions, rock groups, vacuum sweepers, and stereos.

Impact noise

Impact noises are those which are short in duration. This type of noise is measured at peak intensity, with 140 dB considered hazardous. Examples of impact noise producers are: M-16 rifle, 158 dB; 81 mm mortar, 184 dB; and 50 cal. machine gun, 158 dB.

Most noise-induced hearing loss occurs initially in frequencies higher than speech. This means that the loss goes unnoticed because we can hear conversation quite normally.

First Lt. Tim Swisher, a MSC audiologist, supervises all hearing tests given at Fort Benning and is consultant to the Preventive Medicine Activity's Hearing Conservation Program.

According to Swisher," the basic theme of the program is the prevention and early identification of hearing losses. What we want to do is identify the hazardous noise areas, measure the amount of noise produced there, identify the people who work there, and protect these people from the hazardous noise."

Swisher added that this is accomplished through noise surveys, identifying noise areas with appropriate signs, giving annual hearing tests to persons who work in these areas, and supervising the enforcement of individual ear protection regulations.

Individuals who are exposed to hazardous noise should wear ear protection when feasible. The types of ear protection available are ear plugs, ear muffs, and protective helmets. Ear plugs are the most widely used and every soldier should have his own individual pair.

Ear plugs help

The ear plug reduces about 30 decibles and the ear muff reduces about 35 to 40 decibles.

All types of ear protection in the Army supply system are the best available anywhere, but these devices only work if they are properly worn by the individual. The Hearing Conservation Program will be effective only if the individual protects himself.

Carroll Bare proud of her award winning AKC Doberman Pinschers

"When you win your first blue ribbon and get that trophy, you're absolutely hooked," exclaims Carroll Bare, owner of three American Kennel Club registered Doberman Pinschers.

Carroll is the wife of Capt. Charlie Bare, who is attending Infantry Officer's Advanced Course at Fort Benning. The trophy case in their home on Rice Street contains over fifty ribbons won by the dogs in shows all over the Southeast.

"I have always had dogs of my own," says Carol, a petite blonde who hails from Pennsylvania. The long list of dogs she has owned includes two beagles, a boxer and a spitz-pomeranian. "We adopted an underfed, underprivileged German Shepherd puppy soon after we were married. Later when my husband was in flight school, we bought a Dalmation puppy with no spots for $40. It was all we could afford."

"We became interested in Doberman Pinschers about five years ago when we purchased a six-month old puppy named Louie. A professional handler informed us that the dog definitely had show potential, so we entered him in a nearby dog show. Louie stepped into the ring and won a blue ribbon. It was fantastic."

"Since that time Louie has been withdrawn from the show ring and given to friends. We now own three Dobermans which we are showing in competition in the Southeast."

One of the Dobermans owned by Carroll is Ch. Audrey von Helm Dobie, who retired from the show ring after winning Best of Breed from a field of eighty other Dobermans in Asheville, N.C. in July, 1972. She also was named Best of Winners in Tampa, Fla. in 1972. Audrey is expecting a litter of puppies in May.

Princess Pele, another female, recently gave birth to twelve puppies. She has completed the Companion Dog obedience degree. This degree is awarded to dogs who have perfected certain obedience exercises, including heeling on leash, heeling free, standing for examination, long sit and long down.

Rappello's Regal Cavalier, the Bare's male Doberman puppy, won first place in the puppy class at the Columbus Kennel Club show this month. He also finished first n Atlanta recently in the Doberman Pinscher Special Puppy Class.

"The competition in this section of the country is very stiff. We show the puppies in the ring ourselves, but we always use a professional handler for the older dogs. Our dogs work well under George Rood, one of the best Doberman handlers in the country."

"There are no perfect dogs. All Dobermans have body faults. A good handler can cover up more faults in the dog than most people could discover by examination. The show judge chooses the dog he considers to be the most nearly perfect.

"There is really no difference in the care of a show dog and the care of a family pet. We try to prevent our dogs from being injured, see that they stay within their proper weight limit, and receive supplements for their coats."

When asked about the temperament of Dobermans, Carroll replied, "I used to think Dobermans were vicious attackers, but our dogs are very gentle. We have carefully trained them not to jump up on people and bark at them unnecessarily. I have seen unmanageable Dobermans, but it has been entirely the fault of the owner.

"The size of the dogs and the fact that people consider the breed aggressive keep unwanted strangers away. I know I can leave my purse in the car with the dogs and feel very secure. If a stranger tried to break into the car, the dogs would probably break through the glass to get to him."

Carol finds companionship the greatest satisfaction in owning and raising dogs." Some people do ceramics, some paint, others play bridge every day — I have my dogs. They are my past time, my hobby — although it's a business now, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

They make beautiful minutes together.

'Spring Thing' festival set for May 5 at Thrift Shop

You're invited. Everyone's invited. . . to the "SPRING THING" festivities on May 5, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Thrift Shop Complex. Both civilian and military, potential participators and browsers are encouraged to take full advantage of the variety of activities.

The big feature of the day will be a Flea Market — a chance for the buyers to choose from a vast assortment of interesting items, from the exotic to the practical, and for the seller to make more shelf room and a profit, too. All military personnel or dependents who would like to take part in the sale should contact the Thrift Shop at 545-4890. Booths are $3.00 per booth or $5.00 for two.

Tempting examples of our local creativity will be on sale at the Talent Tree — water colors, etchings, crewel work and jewelry.

Under the sponsorship of the Ceramic Studio, a show representing the artistic efforts of its group is sure to attract an audience. Not only will there be a formal judging of best ceramic pieces with ribbons awarded, but many of the items will be for sale.

A garden of art, in water color and oil, will bloom on the sidewalks and grounds with the work of those who have taken OWC art classes. And a special treat — a children's art show for the two classes who have taken the junior version art class. Again, many selections from the exhibit will be for sale.

A "frosted" battle of the sexes may well manifest itself in the cake show. A cake decorating contest will show the handiwork of some of Fort Benning's own mess sergeants against the ladies creations. The contest is, however, open to all military personnel and dependents.

Just one of the many stands that may be found during the Spring Thing at the Thrift Shop.

BBOD Combat Support Group

The Country Club was the scene, April 14, of a party for the officers and their wives of Combat Support Group. The occasion was to welcome Lt. Col. Russell A. Weathersby, new chief of the Group.

Lt. Col. James T. Dunn, Deputy Group Chief, welcomed Lt. Col. Weathersby and introduced the guests: Col. and Mrs. Sanders L. Cortner, Col. and Mrs. Allan M. Buckner, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Billy E. Rutherford, Maj. and Mrs. Joseph Koonin, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Plaisted and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brown.

Other new personnel welcomed to the Group included Maj. and Mrs. Joseph Spagnoli, Capt. and Mrs. Larry Lippincott and Capt. and Mrs. Lamar Sleight.

Combat Arms Training Board

The CATB monthly coffee was held at the home of Mrs. John Goetz. Mrs. Paul Joplin and Mrs. Donald Parrish also served as hostesses. A spring corsage was presented to Mrs. John Seigle by the hostesses.

After a social period, Mrs. Seigle conducted a business meeting. Topics included welcoming Mrs. Billie F. Moore to the group and the announcement that Mrs. Russell Andrews was turning hospitality over to Mrs. Vladimir Atseff and Mrs. Goetz.

The ladies were reminded of the farewell buffet for Col. and Mrs. Seigle on May 4 at the Rankin House.

MEDDAC

Mrs. Paul Anderson, co-creator of the Environmental Workshop, was guest speaker at the April 13 MEDDAC Wives' Club luncheon. Mrs. Anderson, a MEDDAC member herself, gave an engaging talk on what each individual can do to improve the environment without having it seem an impossible task. She suggested using bicycles, buying returnable bottles, and recycling materials as ways of contributing to a cleaner environment. Mrs. Anderson stated that Fort Benning has an excellent healthy environment and illustrated her point usng slides of the post.

Mrs. Anderson invited anyone who enjoys protecting and improving the environment to stop by the OWC lounge Wed. mornings at 10 a.m., when members of the Environment Workship meet.

Wives from the Departments of Medicine and Administrative Services designed special nature trays as centerpieces. Mrs. John P. Wright headed these hostesses.

3rd Army talent contest

All active duty military personnel are invited to participate in the Fort Benning preliminary phase of the 1973 3rd United States Army Entertainment Contest. The contest is to be held at the Main Post Service Club on April 29th at 7:30 p.m.

Contestants will vie for honors in seven categories: vocal soloist-classical and semi - classical; vocal soloist, popular; instrumental soloist; individual specialty; vocal group; instrumental group and specialty group.

Winners of the contest will be sent to Fort Bragg, N.C. May 11-20, to represent Fort Benning in competition against military entertainers from other forts in the 3rd Army area.

Coming to the screen

ACROSS 110TH STREET . . .Harlem precinct Captain Anthony Quinn, returning from vacation finds Lt. Yaphet Kotto in charge. Quinn, an about-to-be retired 55 year old captain is a bully and a head-busting holdover from another generation. Kotto, the black lieutenant who covets Quinn's job, is of the new breed of cop. He has studied psychology and intends to inform every "punk" of his rights while keeping his hands off the shady money. Working side by side they try to find three black holdup men who have robbed a Mafia bank in Harlem and killed two cops and five syndicate hoods in the process. What they don't know is that they are in a race with the Mafia itself, out to avenge itself and assert its power in the area.

THE REVENGERS . . .William Holden is a family man, Colorado rancher, and holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor from the Civil War. When his family is slaughtered by horse thieves, he leaves his peaceful valley and rides alone after the rustler's leader. The trail leads to an outlaw fortress that he cannot storm alone without committing suicide, so he recruits six convicts from Mexican prison to help him. Before Holden has his confrontation with the bandits, he is forced to deal with mutiny among the prisoners, face death when shot by a Mexican gunfighter and finally make and escape from El Hoyo (The Hole), where he was returned as a prisoner. Ernest Borgnine stars as an unscrupulous but loveable con man; Susan Hayward plays a frontier nurse who saves Holden's life and falls in love with him.

Dramatizers spend countless hours rehearsing for 'The Cave Dwellers'

The Ft. Benning Dramatizers are once again hard at work, rehearsing for William Saroyan's "The Cave Dwellers", to be presented May 3, 4, 5, 11 and 12. In addition to the many hours spent on stage by the members of the cast, the technical crews which support and help them are spending countless hours laboriously striving to achieve the finished effects which will capture the audience's imagination.

E. Linton Gross III, whose work with the Dramatizers has been divided between many on stage performances and a great deal of work behind the scenes, has designed the simple but effective set required of the play, which takes place inside an abandoned theatre which is slated to be razed.

J. Lynn Wyatt has served as lighting designer. He and his crew, Gary Black and Chuck Sandy, have worked continuously with the director to achieve the moods and effects required within the play.

Costumes for "The Cave Dwellers" are the responsibility of Anni Tufts Disbrow and Sue Gross, who have diligently gathered worn clothing for the impoverished characters, as well as making several costumes.

Sound technician Jimmy Sandy, aided by Turq Brown and J. Lynn Wyatt, have devoted their time and energy to creating the sound track which will enhance the audience's enjoyment of the production.

Working closely with the actors and actresses is Sue Latham, the show's make-up artist, whose efforts will help the cast members play their roles more believably.

Those who will smooth the path of the performers as the show is in progress will be Stage Manager Sam Moorbead and his assistants, Turq Brown and Glen Sandy.

Choreographer Kathy Kettrick, and her special assistants Harold Hostetler and Bob Adams have combined their talents to create visually interesting dance interludes and a very challengingly staged boxing scene.

Responsible for the total production is director Sheila Dowse, whose extensive experience and creative ability have been of great value to all involved in the production. She is ably assisted by Charlene Williams.

For a highly enjoyable evening of live entertainment, plan to visit the Ft. Benning Playhouse (behind the Infantry Museum) May 3, 4, 5, 11 and 12 at 8 p.m., and see what the Dramatizers have wrought. For further information, dial 545-2932 or 545-5057.

GO-GO girls have been added to the entertainment at the 197th Brigade Hideaway club on Kelley Hill. Under the new club program, membership cards are not required of the patrons. The Hideway is open Monday through Saturday, 11:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. (Photo by Robert Thomas)

Whatja wanta Know? ask the BAYONET

CALL 545-4792

DEAR BAYONET

"Is the Amnesty Program for drug users still in effect?" D.L.

DEAR D.L.

The "Exemption Program" is the new name for the Amnesty Program. It guarantees protection from punitive action or from administrative action leading to a discharge other than honorable conditions for drug use if an individual volunteers for treatment.

It also applies to persons involuntarily identified as drug users through tests. A soldier may seek treatment through the medical activity or Benning House; he may go on sick call, or contact any officer or noncommissioned officer.

DEAR BAYONET

"Does time spent in civilian jail count as good time or bad time?" J.W.

DEAR J.W.

If a soldier was "busted" while on leave, any time spent in civilian jail counts as part of his leave and does not have to be made up. If he is still in jail at the end of this leave time, he is carried as AWOL and must make up any time lost, according to the Military Affairs Branch of Staff Judge Advocate.

If he was released to civilian authorities by the Staff Judge Advocate Office or Provost Marshal, he is not required to make up time if the time he spends in civilian jail is not his own fault or does not result in a conviction.

For more information call the Military Affairs Branch, Staff Judge Advocate Office, at 545-2243.

DEAR BAYONET

"I was stopped recently on post at a marijuana check point where man's best friends — dogs — were allowed to sniff my car and in doing so tore up my seat covers. Will the Army reimburse me?" M.A.

DEAR M.A.

You can file a claim at the Staff Judge Advocate Claims Branch. They are the ones who determine whether or not you can be reimbursed for any damage done to your car.

To support your claim, you should obtain a copy of the MP report or a statement from an official at the Provost Marshal Office which acknowledges that dogs were used to check your car, and that they did, in fact, tear your upholstery. Your claim cannot be approved without such verification.

For further information call the Claims Branch of the Staff Judge Advocate Office at 545-1655.

DEAR BAYONET

I went to the Special Services Office to reserve the Destin Recreation area deepsea boat "Follow Me" for some weekend in May. Not only were all the weekends in May reserved, but I heard that Headquarters Command had reserved the boat for every weekend during the summer months. C.F.K.

DEAR C.F.K.

Records at Special Service Office indicate that the "Follow Me" is not reserved every weekend for the entire summer. During the summer months, the boat cannot be reserved more than 30 days in advance of the date the individual desires its use. It is reserved on a first come first served basis. The individual having a reservation must confirm that he intends to exercise his option by coming to the Special Services Office and paying the fee for use of the boat seven days prior to the rental date or he loses his reservation. If you want more information on this call Mrs. Stewart at 545-6980.

On 7 March 1973, WO1 Roger T. Umali achieved his most sought after ambition — His United States Citizenship. Appearing before a U.S. Federal Judge in downtown Columbus, WO1 Umali was granted Naturalization following years of hard work and dedication to the United States.

Mr. Umali was born and raised in Maulla, a Republic of the Philippines. Before coming to the United States, he attended the University of the Philippines for 2 years. In 1966 Mr. Umali came to the U.S. to attend the Spartan School of Aeronautics in Tulsa, Okla. where he successfully completed a seven month course and earned a commercial pilot's license.

In an awards ceremony held in Classroom 3, Infantry Hall, on Mar. 15, 1973, Brig. Gen. William R. Richardson, Assistant Commandant, USAIS, presented Meritorious Service Medals to Capt. Arthur J. McGowan Jr., and Capt. Ronald F. Roskosz. McGowan and Roskosz are members of Infantry Officers Advanced Course Class 5-73, 13th Company, First Battalion, The School Brigade. Also participating in the ceremony were Lt. Col. Donald C. Bowman, commander, 1st Bn., and Capt. Harry C. Morton, commander, 13th Company.

Pvt. Tommy Jones was named soldier of the month by the 197th Inf. Bde for March.

931st Lodge renovated

The 931st Engineer Lodge has been going through a renovation for the last three weeks. Staff Sergeant Grant T. Williams and his assistant Private First Class Greg J. Williams, of HHC 581st Engr. Co., have done a tremendous job on the old wooden building. Spending only 100 dollars because most of the materials have been contributed from all over the group, the two men have performed miracles with the lodge.

SSG Williams redesigned the building adding such things as a bar, a fireplace, a stage, and a partition to seperate the bar from the party room.

PFC Wilsnn has done all the art work which includes a mural that traces the history of Engineers in the Army.

Helping out with the work on the lodge have been the carpenters from the 43rd Engineer Battalion and a detail from the 586th Float Bridge Company.

248 catalog items going on sale Wednesday

On Wednesday, May 9, the Defense Surplus Sales Office in conjunction with the Fort Benning Property Disposal Branch will conduct a Local Auction Sale of 248 catalogue items. This is public sale of surplus property. All persons 18 years of age or older, military and civilian, are eligible to bid on this safe except those barred by regulations. Some items are new, some used, and also scrap is included. The property may be inspected from Wednesday, May 2 until the day of the sale, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

Items on sale the 9th include three pickup trucks, 17 abandoned civilian vehicles, household furniture and appliances, typewriters, electrical and electronic equipment, medical equipment, office furniture and machines, and many more items.

Bidders must be present to buy the items on the day of the sale. Items bought must be paid for and removed not later than Wednesday, May 16. No bid deposit is required. Registration for bidding will begin at 8 a.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, the day of the sale at Bldg. No. 467. The Auctioneer's Chant will begin promptly at 9 a.m. with Item No. 1. No Mailed-in, hand carried, telegraphic, or telephonic bids

George's Garage source of pride

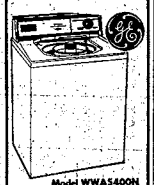
Far out, solid and right on motor pools in Aviation Unit?

Not unheard of but very rare indeed is the Trucking 205th's motor pool both in personnel and accomplishments. Under direction of Commander Maj. George E. Twiggs, Motor Office CW2 Donald Wood and a host of hard charging "Geronimos," George's Garage has prospered to become a source of pride for all members of the 205th Aviation Company, and the Avn. Cmd.

During the months of January, February and March, the 205th has taken first place honors in the USAIC Aviation Command Driver of the Month Contest with 2nd place also captured by the unit in January and February.

Outstanding driver such as SP4 Gary L. Williams, Sp4 Robert Davis, Sp4 Robert S. Kingrey, SP4 Lovis Fasaini and PFC Ollie R. Carter, recently driver of the quarter contest with SP4 Kingrey winning 1st, 3rd, and 5th places. Such accomplishments by an aviation unit motor pool in setting the example reflects great credit upon themselves and they are to be saluted for their efforts.

Med. Dept. reorganizes



The Department of the Army has announced the creation of the U.S. Army health services command which will become operational on July 1 at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

The new command will operate all Army hospitals and medical and dental facilities in the United States. In addition, all medical training has been consolidated into the Academy of Health Services under the U.S. Army Health Services Command.

HQs. robs Finance

Headquarters, 67th Maint. Bn. started off the 931st slow-pitch softball season by defeating last years 931st champs, 15th Finance, 6-1 Tuesday night at Bennett Field.

A close game until the last inning when Headquarters knocked out a couple of hits to push the score from 3-1 to 6-1.

Finance was held hitless for four innings and could only manage three hits for the game.

Softball around the 931st league means a lot to the guys playing, especially after game ceremonies. "It's a great way to enjoy yourself, and clear the slate for a short while," said one player.

Volleyball season ends

The School Brigade volleyball season closed with A TSB team narrowly missing the USAIC Company-Level volleyball championship.

HHC, 4th Stu. Bn. and the 5th Stu. Bn. placed 1-2 in the TSB league and won the right to represent TSB in the post playoffs. 5th Bn. was unable to field a full team in their first game and were eliminated from further play.

Fourth Bn. blasted the first three opponents they faced; defeating HQ 197th, A Co. HQ Command, and 1st Bn. 58th Inf. These wins vaulted them into the finals opposite C S Maintenance on Friday, April 20.

The first game was close, with C and S Maintenance squeezing out a 15-13 decision. In the second and deciding game 4th Bn. rally just fell short, dropping the game 15-10, but still coming up with second place in the tournament.

Co. C wins honors

Company C won the Headquarters Command Volleyball Championship by defeating 16th Company in the best two out of three games on April 5.

The first game was won by the hard-charging 16th Company. Company C won the second game. The third and deciding game was hard fought, with Company C down at one time 8-1. Company C through, the efforts and drive of Sp4 Paul Loupe, Pvt's Jerry Alexander and Terry Iddings, and Sgt. Harry Hutton, won the game and title by a score of 15-11.

598th cops title

The 931st Engineer Group Volleyball League ended last week with the 598th I.A. Maintenance Company coming out on top with a 6-1 record. Following them were the 968th MP's with a record of 5-2.

Both teams will represent the 931st Engineer Group in the Post Play-offs.

The 931st Engr. Gp. will have a slow pitch softball league consisting of 18 teams this year. Season play will begin on April 24 and end on August 7. Games are played on Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Bennett Field. Games will begin at 6, 7:15 and 8:30 p.m.

Tina Perrine, "Miss Columbus" gives the arriving marksmen for the 12th Annual Interservice Matches her most welcome and radiant smile. The matches, commencing at the Infantry Post April 28, will include competition in rifle, pistol and shotgun. Tina advises shooters to keep their eye on the target for the highest scores.

SHOP FRIDAY NIGHT UNTIL 9 P.M.
DURING DOWNTOWN METCALF'S
LAST AND GREATEST SALE!

By Bill Kloeb

Don't forget to set your time pieces one hour forward as of 2 a.m. this Sunday.

The change in time will make a lot of difference in some places but it won't affect the hours of operation of the Rod and Gun Club activities. The club sales counter will be in operation from 6 a.m. until 5 p.m. each Saturday, Sunday and holiday. Hours of operation for other days will be 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. The lounge will be open from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. each day and the food counter from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. each day. Carry-out service is available.

These hours of operation seem to fit the requirements of a good cross section of the membership. The facilities are operated for the convenience of the members. If they don't meet your requirements let your representative on the board of governors know about it.

Rod and Gun Membership

The membership for the 1973-74 year hasn't built up as well as it did last year. Of course a lot of fishermen haven't been interested in going fishing. The rain and roiled waters are just about enough to discourage almost any but the most avid sportsman. Hopefully the situation will improve with the fishing.

The club has to keep up its membership for survival and it's important to all sportsmen that the club does survive. It constitutes the grass roots forum for the voice of the hunter and fisherman. It also participates in various conservation activities on post and contributes substantially to funding the post conservation program.

Active duty and retired military personnel, Department of Defense civilian workers on post and retired Department of Defense civilian workers who retired from positions at Fort Benning and their dependents are authorized to join the club. Certain disabled veterans are also authorized regular membership. Civilians not otherwise qualified may become limited members. Limited membership entitles the member to use of the archery, trap and skeet and club lounge facilities.

Regular memberships are $5. Dependent memberships are $1 and limited memberships are $3.

When you consider the services and conveniences provided by the club a membership has to be one of the best bargains available today. Membership in an archery or skeet club with comparable facilities would cost more in one month than the yearly membership fee for the club, less than a family would pay for one meal in a restaurant and probably less than a teen-ager would blow on one Saturday night date at the movies with a sandwich after.

Freshwater Fishing Rodeo

Plan now for a big weekend at Lake Eufaula. The Eufaula Chamber of Commerce has set May 4, 5 and 6 as the dates for the Tenth Annual Alabama Freshwater Fishing Rodeo.

This event which drew more than 1500 contestants last year from 16 states is expected to be even larger this year. Officials are planning for more than 2,000 participants this year but don't worry about being crowded. Lake Eufaula is big enough to hide that many fishermen.

They will probably get that many fishermen to compete for the multitude of prizes that are being offered. There will be competition for largemouth, whitebass, and crappie. There will also be prizes for carp and other rough fish. A total of more than $5,000 in prize money will be awarded. The top prize is a complete fishing rig-boat, motor and trailer. This will be awarded for the largest bass registered during the rodeo.

The youngsters haven't been forgotten in this event: There will be a special competition for those 14 years or younger. Trophies will be awarded to winners who will also be eligible for prizes in the other competition.

The official weighing station will be located at the Chewalla Marina and be maintained by members of the Alabama Department Of Conservation.

Tickets for the event must be purchased before noon (Central Time) Friday, May 4. Cost is $4 for each adult and $2 for each youngster 14 years or younger. Tickets may be purchased from most of the sporting goods and bait stores in the Eufaula area, Richardsons Home and Auto Supply on Hamilton Road in Columbus or write the Eufaula Chamber of Commerce at P.O. Box 347, Eufaula, Ala., 36027.

Fishing Rodeo

Largest freshwater event in South

EUFAULA, Alabama — The Eufaula Chamber of Commerce is again sponsoring the Alabama Freshwater Fishing Rodeo. . .the largest freshwater event of its type in the South. . .for the tenth consecutive year. The event is set for May 4, 5, and 6.

Over 1500 anglers from 16 states participated in last year's rodeo. The crowds are expected to be much larger this year on beautiful Lake Eufaula, which is fast becoming known as the Bass "hot-spot" of then nation. According to Jack Harrison," general chairman, a recent poll taken by an angler's magazine among professional fishermen rated Lake Eufaula number 2 in the nation for bass fishing.

Among 4 categories, the keenest competition is expected in the largemouth bass category. Top prize is a complete fishing rig valued at over $3000 to be awarded for the largest bass entered. Other valuable prizes will be awarded to the remaining places in the bass category.

Crappie and White Bass are quite popular and in abundance in Lake Eufaula. Several places in each of these classes will be in for a share of the many prizes which include fishing boats, motors, spincast equipment, etc. All total over $5000 in prizes will be awarded at the 10th annual Alabama Freshwater Fishing Rodeo.

A special competition event will be a Children's (14 yrs. and under) Rodeo. Trophies will be awarded to these young fishermen and they will also be eligible for regular Rodeo competition.

As in the past, the official weighing station will be maintained at the Chewalla Marina. This year's judges will be Mr. Archie D. Hooper, Chief, Game and Fisheries, Alabama Dept. of Conservation, and his associates Mr. Barry Smith, Asst. Chief of Fisheries, and Mr. Merrill Nail, a fisheries biologist.

Participating anglers must purchase their ticket before Noon, CST, Friday, May 4, 1973. These are available at most sports shops in Eufaula or may be ordered from the Eufaula Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 347, Eufaula, Alabama 36027. In the Fort Benning area tickets are available at Fish and Wildlife Office, Building 5884. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for Children 14 and under. Also brochures giving full details are available.

TSB begins softball

The 1973 Unit Level Softball league for The School Brigade opened Wed. April 25. The league will run a full three months, from April 25 to June 28.

There are 16 teams in the league, and each one will play 15 games for a total of 120 for the full league through the entire season.

At the close of the season the top two finishers in the league will go to the Post Playoffs, to vie for the Fort Benning Softball championship.

931st has high hopes for softball team

Try outs were held last week for the 931st Engineer Group fast pitch softball team. There were many more men turning out than had been expected and the Coach of the team 2nd Lt. Ralph Santiliz was very happy to see the amount of interest generated for the team.

The try outs lasted about three days and after some extensive thought the coach made his selections. The team will consist of 15 men and should be very strong this year.

When asked about his team Santiliz stated "this team has a good chance of being Post champs this year. We have strong points in our pitching, catching and third base positions and should be solid all over.

In 1848, Daniel Webster proclaimed that California and New Mexico weren't worth $1. He's not famous for that statement.

Lawyer. Orator. U.S. Senator. Statesman. Presidential Candidate. Daniel Webster was one of the most famous Americans of his day. But on March 23, 1848, Webster declared to the U.S. Senate that California and New Mexico were not worth one dollar and protested their purchase from Mexico for $15,000,000.

To buy land wisely and realize the maximum benefits from it, you need foresight and patience—the foresight to purchase carefully selected land while it is still low in price, and the patience to hold it until it isn't.

The above summation is taken from our new booklet, "What You Should Know Before You Buy Land." We'd like to send you a complimentary copy. Because we want you to read about the four basic types of land. And a trustworthy formula for making wise land purchases. Plus how to locate and evaluate land worth buying. In short, we'd like you to have all the facts you need before purchasing any land.

The one thing you won't find in our booklet is a commercial for Horizon Corporation or the land we own. Because we're not trying to sell anything with this booklet. Our aim is to make potential landbuyers more knowledgeable about how, when, where and what to buy. It's to your advantage to know all the facts. And, frankly, it's to our advantage, too. Because the more you know about land, the more you'll appreciate what Horizon Corporation has to offer.

If you would like one or more copies sent to you, your friends, or civic and business groups, please fill out and mail the coupon. Or for even faster action, call the phone number listed below.

This man was just asked to wait for another flight.

If time is money, Eastern's Leisure Class" may be the most profitable way you could waste your time.

Leisure Class costs the same as you'd pay for a military reservation coach ticket (95 regular coach fare). But we don't guarantee you'll get on your scheduled flight because Leisure Class is a conditional reservation.

If you do, it's the same as Coach. If Coach is full, you may fly First Class. (Without paying anything extra.)

Here comes the good part: If the whole plane is full, you won't get on at all. But, you get your money back. And we put you on the very next flight that has seats available to your destination.

There are a couple of qualifications. Leisure Class does not apply to some reduced fare tickets. Or to the Air Shuttle, or Bermuda, Jamaica, Mexico and Bahama flights.

Or when the originally scheduled plane is grounded due to adverse weather conditions, equipment failure or equipment substitutions.

In order to qualify for a free ride ask for a Leisure Class reservation and present your ticket at the boarding gate twenty minutes before flight time. And if you have to wait, it will be from several minutes to several hours. But if you've got more time than money, you probably won't mind at all.

Call Eastern or your SATO office for more details. (As if you didn't have enough already.)

EASTERN The Wings of Man.
"The Wings of Man" is a registered service mark of Eastern Air Lines, Inc.

C.W.O.C. to sponsor retreat on May 4th

The Catholic Women of the Chapel (CWOC) of Fort Benning will hold their monthly meeting at the Holy Trinity Shrine Retreat House in Alabama May 4. This Retreat House is set back in the woods off Highway 165. The atmosphere is peaceful and relaxed and very conducive to spiritual self-examination and prayer.

The guest speaker at the morning conference will be a representative from the Right to Life Committee in Atlanta. Mrs. Owen Wissinger, CWOC president, says, "We are all aware of must Monday, January 22, 1973, when the Supreme Court handed down its decision in favor of abortion. The Right to Life Committee continues to speak out strongly against his decision and urge us to join in their efforts. Some very interesting facts will be presented."

The cost for this Day-Retreat will be $3.50 which includes coffee and donuts upon arrival and a delicious luncheon prepared by the Sisters at Holy Trinity. Reservations are needed by noon, May 2 and can be made by calling Evelyn Atchison at 545-3397 or the Main Post Catholic Chapel at 545-7063.

Free nursery service at Tot Town (except lunch and snacks) will be provided. Reservations must be made in person. For information, call 545-7063.

A car pool for the Day-Retreat will leave the Main Post Catholic Chapel at 9 a.m. and will return in time for mothers to be back home at 4 p.m. On May 6, the Catholic Women of the Chapel will hold their annual Mother-Daughter Breakfast at the Top 3 Supper Club immediately following the 9:30 a.m. Mass at the Main Post Catholic Chapel.

This special event affords an opportunity for all C.W.O.C. members to share their religious involvement with their daughters. Every member of the C.W.O.C. is invited. The program will include a film entitled "The Chairy Tale" which has a special message for all ages. There is no cost involved but reservations are needed and must be in no later than noon, May 3.

Help: Volunteers needed for Big Brother program

Capt. Steven A. Olson shows his little brother, Kenny Turkall, Columbus, Ga., how to bat. Olson has been in the program two months. He is plans and review officer, brigade and battalion operations department, U.S. Army Infantry School. (Photo by Robert Sanders)

BY ILEANE KATZKER

"The first time we met, the young boy cuddled close to me and put my arm around his tiny shoulders. That really touched me," said one of the men participating in the Big Brothers program at Fort Benning, Ga.

There are now 35 fatherless boys ranging in age from 6 to 14, who are receiving the love and guidance that often a mother alone cannot provide.

Military or civilian men of any age, race or rank can qualify to be big brothers. All a man must do is dedicate some of his spare time and attention to a young boy. Many men spend about 100 hours a month with their little brothers.

The program takes a lot off a mother's shoulders and gives the boy somebody to identify with. Many of the men agree that it is very valuable in a boy's early years.

Sp5 Michael O. Tucker, 2nd Evacuation Hospital, has been in the program about two years. "The boys need a viewpoint besides their mother's. And by participating I find out what the responsibilities of a father would be. We don't have to do anything to have a good time — we can just talk."

Identify

Capt. (Dr.) Arthur I. Acker, a dentist at the dependents clinic here, says his little brother has grown up a lot in the year he has been with him. "He comes to the clinic and helps me out, and surprisingly, he wants to be a dentist too."

Sp4 William R. Clark, 18th Replacement Co., is the big brother to a set of twins. He says that since his talks with the boys, they have become a lot closer to their mother because they understand the family problems.

Maj. Charles N. Nolan, chairman, operations and training techniques committee, has his own children but still participates in the program because he says it gives him a sense of accomplishment to help a boy. "It benefits the boy by allowing one good little boy to become a good man."

Individual activities between the little and big brother of ten include fishing, bowling, camping, baseball, football, horseback riding and miniature golf.

Brothers need brothers

There are presently little brothers in the program without big brothers due to a shortage of volunteers.

Referrals for the boys come from schools, the welfare department and Army health nurses. The boy and mother are screened and the boy is asked what type of man he would like for a big brother. The man is also interviewed to see what kind of a little brother he would like.

Both files are pulled and a compatable pair is selected. About 85 per cent of the matches are usually compatible, according to Capt. Andrew D. Malloy, family services supervisor at the Army Community Service (ACS).

The second Thursday of every month, the big brothers meet at the ACS Welcome Center. They recently formed a new group activities program in which several of the men and boys get together and go on an outing. A trip has been planned to Little Grand Canyon.

For more information and an application, contact Capt. Andrew Malloy, Army Community Service, at 545-1601.

Dentistry

Proper care of teeth can prevent disease

Modern dentistry, regular dental attention, and a cooperative attitude on the part of the patient, are the prerequisites for a healthy, attractive, well-functioning mouth and sound teeth. We of the Army Dental Corps feel that by pursuing a dental program based on these prerequisites from early childhood, dental disease, in most cases should be prevented entirely.

However, should dental disease set in — whether in the nature of tooth decay or disease of other areas of them mouth — it is of utmost importance that it be treated at the earliest time in order to maintain general health in as high a state as possible. This is the basis of the concept of preventive dentistry.

With this philosophy in mind, the Army has published changes in regulations that authorize various programs to be implemented by the Office of the Surgeon General.

The most important of these programs for the military is the Oral Health Maintenance Program. This divides all military personnel into two basic groups; caries (decay) susceptible and periodontal (gum) disease susceptible groups. The caries group is usually the younger (24 years and under), while the periodontal group is the older (25 and over). The younger group receives the decay preventive material twice each year. The periodontal group needs a complete annual dental examination. It is important that both groups receive proper instruction in how to take care of their teeth and gums.

Explaining to a patient that over 20,000,000 Americans do not have any of their own teeth does not seem to do much good. We want to stop this process of patients losing their teeth and thereby requiring dentures. The dental and medical profession would like for their patients to keep their own teeth in a state of good health. It does take time for the individual to clean his or her teeth every day, but this is the only way to really keep them healthy.

Military patients must change the habit of only going to the dentist or dental clinic when they have a problem. This is one of the main points of the Oral Health Maintenance Program. Everyone receives dental attention at least once each year.

Fort Benning has one of the most active preventive programs for dependents in the Army. The children attending the Post Dependent Schools receive a great deal of oral health education as well as an anticariogenic (antidecay) agent and a new tooth brush twice each year. Doctor Conforti, Superintendent of Dependent Schools on Post, gives his support to programs that involve the teachers and students. National Children's Dental Health Week is in addition to the twice each year treatments that each child receives.

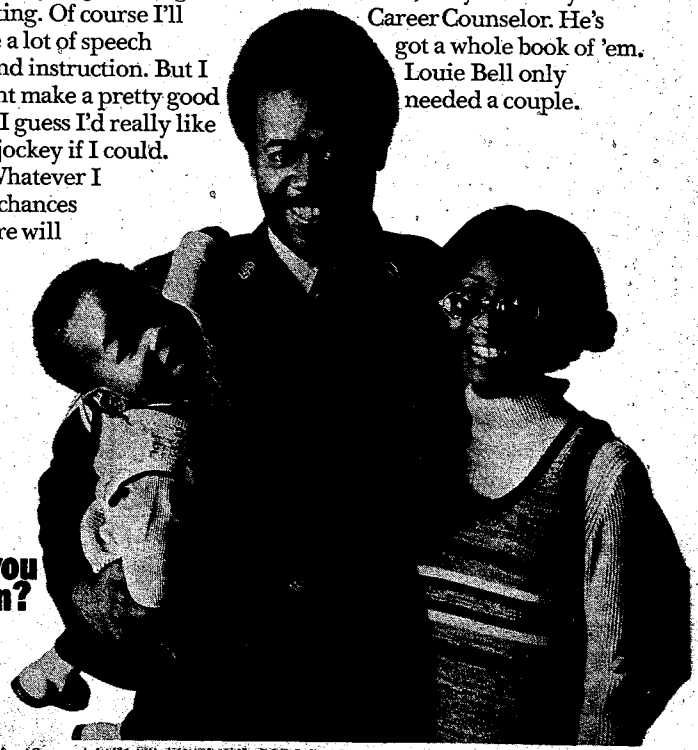
"When I came in I didn't have anything."



Sergeant Louie Bell just reenlisted for the first time. And he had some pretty good reasons.

"Look what I've got now. A steady income, a good job and a family. It's a lot more responsibility.

"I was studying business administration when I came in, but I think I'm going to change to broadcasting. Of course I'll have to take a lot of speech schooling and instruction. But I think I might make a pretty good announcer. I guess I'd really like to be a disc jockey if I could.

"Whatever I decide, my chances for the future will definitely be better now that I've decided to stay in the Army for a while. I'll be getting more education for when I get out. And Martha and Darrell will have a lot more security."

The education. The bonus. The security. Louie Bell found some pretty good reasons for reenlisting. If you're looking for reasons, see your Army Career Counselor. He's got a whole book of 'em. Louie Bell only needed a couple.

Infantry Board helps professionals do their thing

By Pete Foreman

Although the Army can't do away with the infantry soldier's tough job, it can help him do his job more professionally and more comfortably.

This is the objective of Fort Benning's Infantry Board.

Day and night, professional soldiers of the Infantry Board test weapons, clothing, and field equipment under realistic field conditions. The test items are usually those that have been proposed for infantry use by the Army Materiel Command.

The Infantry Board recommends for production only those items that measure up in the field. Its motto is "Only the Best for the Finest."

Members of the Infantry Board pride themselves in recognizing the true equipment needs of the infantry soldier. In their tests they make sure a proposed item will suit the soldier's needs exactly. If an item is not suitable but needed by the Infantry, they pride themselves in taking extra measures to help Army developers come up with a suitable item.

For an example of the Infantry Board's professionalism, consider a small but needed test item — the helmet chin strap. Extensive tests on a proposed new chin strap were run last year by the Field Equipment Test Branch of the Board.

A chin strap may seem to be an insignificant item. But any soldier will tell you that the helmet straps that the Army has now "ain't no good." And any soldier knows that keeping a steel pot on the head is important when the air is filled with flying hardware.

"Do you realize," asked Col. John O. Ensor, Commander of the Army Materiel Command, Infantry Research and Development Liason Office, "that the helmet strap we use today was adapted from the World War I British helmet?"

Most soldiers don't know this. But they do know the strap is poor. If it's tight enough to hold the helmet on your head, it's also tight enough to choke you. If it isn't choking you, it won't hold the helmet on your head when you look down.

It has become common practice in the Army not to use the helmet strap at all.

"The chin strap is important though," explained Lt. Col. Larry S. Mickel, chief of Field Equipment Test Branch. "Without a fastened strap, soldiers have to use one hand to hold their helmets on when jumping off a vehicle. When soldiers fall to the ground quickly to return enemy fire without fastened straps, the first thing they have to do is either chase their helmet which fell on the ground or push their helmet out of their eyes."

Realizing that the need for a better chin strap was great, the Infantry Board tested and helped develope a proposed helmet strap extensively. The strap proved to be simple, suitable, practical, and comfortable. It was recommended for production.

Troops will probably have the new strap before the end of this year. It will go a long way in helping the infantry soldier do a more professional job.

But the Infantry Board was not satisfied. The new strap will be suitable only for ground troops. The Board wanted a simple universal strap that would be good for airborne troops too.

"The helmet problem became more complicated a few years ago when soldiers began to jump out of airplanes," said Major L. E. Stefaniw, a member of the Infantry Board. "To make the helmet suitable for parachutists, someone years ago riveted a second strap to the helmet liner in addition to the strap that attaches to the steel pot. At the time it was something they could work with. But we have been stuck with the cumbersome arrangement ever since."

Stefaniw was convinced that it was possible to develop a simple chin strap that would be suitable for both airborne and ground troops. So he spent a lot of extra time informally experimenting with helmet straps.

He succeeded in developing a universal chin strap for both airborne and ground use. Lt. Col. Mickel and Col. Walter E. Meinzen, the President of the Infantry Board, will parachute with the test item Feb. 15.

The Infantry Board did not have to spend so much time in developing a universal chin strap. The Board's primary mission is to test and evaluate. Other agencies have the mission of researching and developing.

43rd Eng. renovate area

Company B, 43rd Engineer Battalion formally completed the renovation of the Ranger Demonstration Area at Victory Pond after three months of hard work.

As part of the new retainer wall around the demonstration area the Engineers drove 31 thirty-foot piles from a M46 Raft, provided by the 586th Engineer Company. Approximately 11,000 board feet of treated lumber and 1000 cubic yards of earth fill reinforced the existing log wall used to complete the project.

Your second career should be as rewarding as your first one.

Make your second career one in real estate and assure your success by teaming up with one of the nation's most respected, best performing real estate and resort builders. The Diamondhead Corporation is creating a new community in the north Georgia mountains called Lake Arrowhead. We are looking for a retired officer to be our exclusive agent in this area.

Lake Arrowhead has 8,300 acres at prime land just north of Lake Allatoona. It will have the largest private lake in the state, a 15,000 square foot clubhouse, ski golf, and a whole lot more, championship golf, and a whole lot more. All backed in writing, bonded and guaranteed.

We already have successful projects in other parts of the country, including:

PINEHURST - Pinehurst, North Carolina
NEWPORT - Houston, Texas
DIAMONDHEAD - Bay St. Louis, Mississippi
LAKE FOREST - Mobile, Alabama
FALCONHEAD - Ardmore, Oklahoma
MILE HIGH - El Paso, Texas
SANDPIPER COVE - Destin, Florida

This fall we will be sponsoring the $600,000 World Open Golf Championship at Pinehurst, with the biggest purse in the history of golf. We are also building the $2.5 million Golf Hall of Fame.

If you are interested in becoming our representative, please call Mr. Williams, 404-394-1724 today. A real estate license will be required. This is an unusual opportunity.

Now you can reserve a Florida homesite at today's prices, even if you're not ready to move for years.

At the rate Florida's growing, today's prices figure to be lower than tomorrow's. So if you plan to move to Florida someday, you should know about a plan developed by the Mackle brothers who head The Deltona Corporation. It's called "coordinated growth." Here's how it works. Like all Deltona communities, Sunny Hills is on a timetable which spells out exactly when each section will be ready for development. Let's say you don't plan to move to Florida for six years. You select a homesite in the section scheduled for completion in 1979. You buy at today's prices, make a small down payment, modest monthly payments. By the time 1979 rolls around, your homesite is paid for and deeded. The roads are in. Water mains, installed as an investment by a regulated utility, lead right up to your homesite. Your new neighbors, people who are on the same timetable, are receiving deeds to their property, too. And you have the choice of building on your homesite, simply retaining it, or selling it.

Community facilities will be developing at the same pace. Sites for additional shopping and medical facilities, schools and churches have been set aside in the Sunny Hills master-plan right where they're needed. Deltona already has built a lakeside recreation center and an 18-hole golf course is planned.

That's how "coordinated growth" makes it possible for you to beat the rising cost of Florida property.

With the famous beaches of Panama City, Florida's Miracle Strip, just 40 miles away, Sunny Hills lies in one of the prettiest parts of Florida. The natural beauty of its green timberlands and sparkling lakes will be carefully preserved. The Mackles plan their communities to fit in with the natural surroundings. Over 5000 acres have been set aside throughout the community as a wildlife refuge and nature preserve for your enjoyment.

The Mackles have created eight planned communities in Florida. Their family has been part of the southern building business for over 60 years. They were commended by the Florida legislature for their contribution to the growth of the Sunshine State. Today, Deltona is a $350 million corporation listed on the New York Stock Exchange. But it's still a "family" kind of company headed by the Mackles.

Find out how easy it is to own property at Sunny Hills... fill out the card below.

Find out how Deltona's six payment plans make it possible to insure your Florida future without having to sacrifice your current lifestyle.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Eggs should be refrigerated to keep their freshness, but let them come to room temperature before cooking or adding to a recipe. (But they separate better when cold.)

In Mexico, "frijoles"—refried beans-are eaten for breakfast, lunch, and dinner, and used in snacks as a filling for tortillas.

Heavy cream will whip to a better volume and thickness if it has been kept in the refrigerator for a day or two, than if it is fresh.

If your pepper mill is sticky, the oil from the peppercorns may have rusted the threads of the screw. Clean the threads with plain steel wool, then rub lightly with petroleum jelly.

Remember the Brown Cow you used to get at the drugstore? For a taste of nostalgia, slice one large ripe banana into the blender. Add one cup cold milk and two large scoops of chocolate ice cream. Blend until smooth, and pour into tall glasses.

HURST SHIFTERS

MYSTERY SHIFTER
The mystery is how Hurst can put out a low-priced 3 speed unit as gutty as this one. It features a satin finish solid steel stick, exclusive acceleration ramp design, a very narrow neutral gate, and short quick throws. Stands up under strain and abuse that could break up an ordinary shifter.
Mfg. List Price $49.95
YOUR COST $29.95

4-SPEED COMPETITION/PLUS
There isn't a four-speed made that's faster or stronger which is the reason so many winners are the strips and ovals insist on it. The secret is precise fitnchioning of highly polished heat-treated parts made to extremely close tolerances.
Mfg. List Price $104.95
Your Cost $69.95

SYNCRO-LOC 3-SPEED
Throw it as hard as you can from first to second. No matter how fast you shift, Hurst's exclusive Syncro-Loc (with spring loaded and cocked firing pin and acceleration ramps) slips you through neutral like it isn't even there. No chance ever to interlock jamup. It's super-quick and next to indestructible.
Mfg. List Price $86.95
YOUR COST $47.95

HURST RAM ROD
The Ram Rod was designed primarily for drag strip use. It's unique action permits a racer to shift with a straight pull-pushpull. A second shift in reverse in operation is completely unnecessary to prevent accidental engagement of two gears.
Not recommended for street use.
Mfg. List Price $110.00
YOUR COST $79.95

HURST SUPER SHIFTER
...In Competition
Stick shift, trick shift, power shift; whatever your shifting style or transmission modifications, you can shift faster with a Super Shifter.
...On The Street
Why should the racers be the only ones that enjoy the rugged construction and design simplicity that should last two lifetimes.
Mfg. List Price $113.95
YOUR COST $82.50

TOYOTA SHIFTER by Hurst
featuring a brushed copper stick, the key to a new dimension in positive, smooth shifts for Toyota owners. The Hurst linkage is competition-oriented for those with sporting blood, and also takes the strain out of constant shifting in traffic.
#248-7760
Mfg. List $49.95
YOUR COST $35.95

HURST VOLKSWAGEN SHIFTERS
Featuring short throws, positive stops, heat treated steel components, narrow H-pattern and the mechanism pivots in a very slippery super tough, nylon pivot block. Reduces the original shift pattern throw as much as 50%.

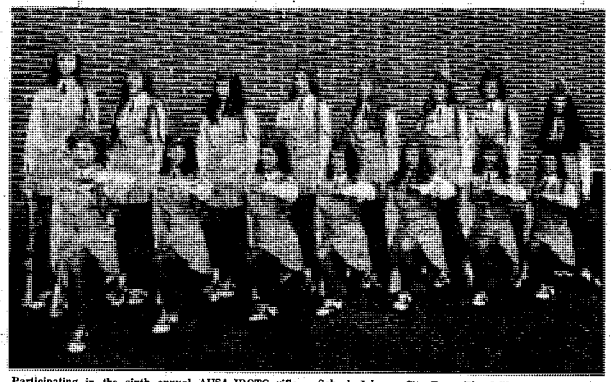
JROTC

700 cadets come here for annual rifle and drill competition

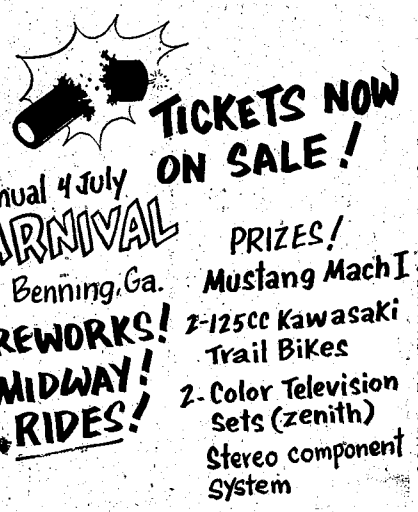
Junior Reserve Officer Training Corp precision varsity drill teams and varsity rifle teams, totaling nearly 700 JROTC cadets will converge on Fort Benning to participate in the sixth annual Association of the U. S. Army- JROTC rifle and drill competition to be held May 5, beginning at 8 a.m.



Sponsored by the Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning AUSA Chapter and hosted by Maj. Gen. Thomas M. Tarpley, Fort Benning commander, the teams represent 33 high schools from Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, North and South Carolina and Tennessee.

In Marshall Auditorium, here, May 4, the competitors will be welcomed by General Tarpley. Following the welcome, the visitors will observe "I Am The Infantry" and the "Spirit of Fort Benning."

From the auditorium, the group will go to Victory Pond by military bus where they will observe the "Vehicle Swim Demonstration," a scout dog demonstration and rangers in action. Following lunch they will be escorted to Eubanks Field where they will observe the Airborne "5000" demonstration.



The rifle teams will fire on Shelton Range with drill teams performing on York Field.

Judges and scorers for rifle marksmanship will be furnished by the Marksmanship Training Unit, Fort Benning, and the judges for the drill competition will be provided by the leadership department.

Participating in the sixth annual AUSA-JROTC rifle and drill competition held at Fort Benning, May 5, are the JROTC All-Girl drill team from Science High School, Johnson City Tenn. The drill team will be performing along with other competitive teams on York Field. Competition begins at 8 a.m.

Finance! 931st minimizes on pay problems

A soldier must devote his effort to many areas, but perhaps no single item receives as much attention as his leave and earnings statement (LES). This is especially true if there is an error in his pay.

The 931st Engr. Gp. (CBT) is trying to minimize pay problems by handling the majority of them before payday.

The first step in this direction has been to increase the aid given to the individual by his unit. SFC Edward Ozerghar, Personnel Staff NCO (PSAIICO) for the 67th Maintenance Battalion, says that many of the payday problems can be handled by the man's immediate Superiors. "If we can solve the problems at this level, we can decrease the burden on Post Finance, thus allowing serious problems to be handled more promptly."

Problems of a more difficult nature are handled by the unit's PSNCO. There are capable individuals filling the job of PSNCO at battalion level and now most of the separate company's have their own PSNCO's.

The PSNCO has greatly aided the processing of pay inquiries by providing a direct line of communication to Finance. SFC Dan Vincent, the 931st Group PSNCO, says that the PSNCO can take the pay complaints to Finance and correct the problem without the individuals losing half of a day while trying to solve the problem on their own.

There are few things worse than having a pile of bills to pay at the end of the month and then not receiving the EOM check. In an effort to prevent this situation, the LES will be coming out 3-7 days before payday. SFC Vincent said, "By receiving his LES in advance, the individual can anticipate a problem, have it corrected, and be paid on payday."

The increased assistance of responsible individuals within the Group and the "early" LES have allowed the 931st to solve 85-90 per cent of the pay problems before payday. If a soldier will use the qualified personnel available to him, he has an excellent chance to eliminate payday problems.

Honors ceremony for Col. Purcell to be held May 7

An honors ceremony for Col. Benjamin H. Purcell on York Field at 9:00 a.m. on May 7.

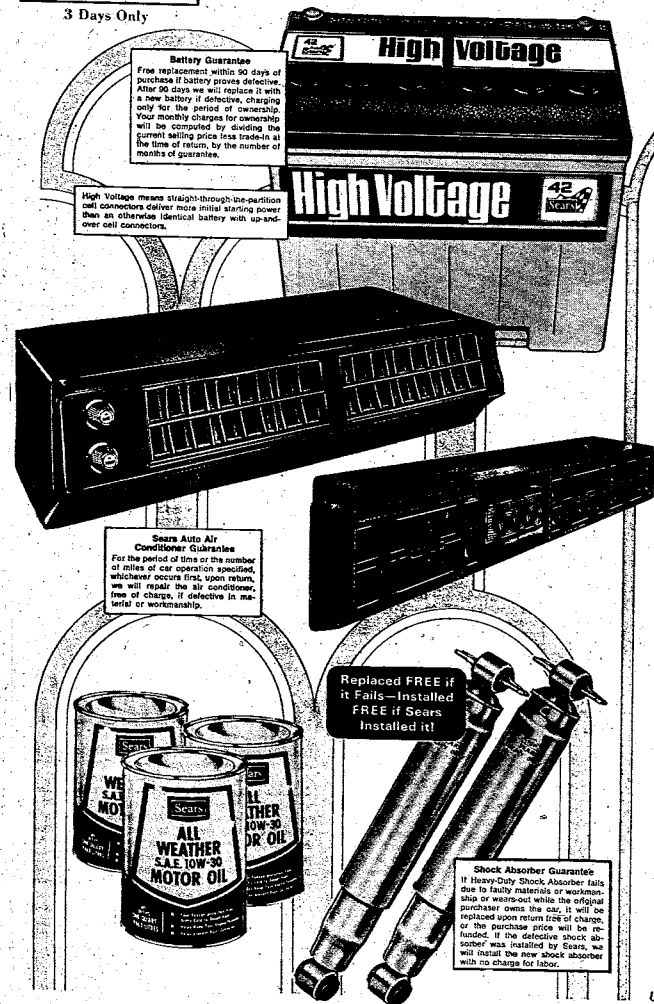
Maj. Gen. Thomas M. Tarpley, the honor guard and Army Band will participate in the ceremony.

Mrs. Tarpley and Mrs. Purcell will also be present.

43rd Eng. takes on demo job

Wednesday, April 18, 1973, Company D 43rd Engineer Battalion (Construction) began work on a demolition project which will see 32 wood frame buildings in the 1300 block of Main Post destroyed.

The first building was demolished with the men using a D7 bulldozer and 300 feet of ½ inch steel cable to complete the job on the building. The method used was that of wrapping the cable around the building, then pulling it with the bulldozer until the building is cut in half and demolished.



After the building was cut in half the bulldozer continued the demolition by repeatedly driving across the debris, crushing the remains so that it could be easily hauled to the sanitary landfill in dump trucks. The same process will be used with all 32 buildings.

The buildings are being torn down to make way for a new Junior High School which will be built in their place.

Do you get results when you go to finance with a problem?—(asked of soldiers visiting finance office last week)

$$$$Finance$$$$

Sgt. Edward Walker
139th MP's

I came down here to finance to get my back pay for my quarters allowance. When I went in to see the clerk, he told me I had to go back to my company to get a form filled out before he could pull my records to check them. It just seems to me that there is a lot of unnecessary running around I have to do to get this straightened out.

PFC John Robertson
44 Co. 4th Student Bn.

Well I haven't yet. I was the eighth one through the door this morning at 9 a.m. I gave my papers to someone and they told me to have a seat. Well, I've been sitting here for the last two hours and I still haven't been helped. My pay is all messed up and I'm not receiving my allotments.

Sgt. Jose Rivera
Co. A 1st
197th Inf.

I'm going to the field next week and I needed to get my family quarters allowance. It took a while, but I finally did get it taken care of. So far, I haven't had any trouble getting my problems straightened out.

2nd Lt. Geoffrey Wilhelmy
3rd Ranger Co.

The only problem I have was that I didn't get my pay voucher. I haven't got any real gripe about finance except that it just takes a little too long to get anything done. I think they are probably doing the best they can though. I'm having to leave now, even though I still haven't got my voucher, because I have another appointment to make.

PFC Douglas Evans
Co. A, 3rd Bn. 7th Inf.

I got pretty good results myself. I just got back from being on leave so I came in to get my back pay. I went in and got it without any trouble at all.

Got to control yourself

Thinking people accept the idea that freedom and responsibility go together: if we are not free, we are automations and there is no such thing as responsibility, and if we are not responsible to ourselves, we cannot be trusted with freedom. When we elect to affirm the dignity and value of our own lives, the partnership between freedom and responsibility becomes more than a nice idea. It becomes a working principle because we have made the decision to manage our own lives, to be self-disciplined. With this in mind let us discuss three ideas which will help anyone to manage his life better.

FIRST, self-discipline begins with the individual's awareness of his value as a person. The world's great ethical teachers have admonished us to love our neighbor as we would love ourselves. Unfortunately this great insight has been largely ineffective in human relations because many people are not aware of the fact that we cannot love our neighbor until we love ourselves. A person who does not value himself highly will have great difficulty treating others with dignity and concern, and he has no sound reason for practicing self-discipline.

SECOND, self-discipline enables a person to defend his individuality. It enables us to resist being manipulated by pressures to conform to patterns of thought and behavior which may destroy the delicate balance between freedom and responsibility. One trend of modern society that should both frighten and challenge us is the fact that if we do not choose to manage our own lives, there are people and forces around us that will do it for us. It is important that we select our own goals. If we do not select goals which we are interested in or that we believe will enrich our personal lives, we are open to being manipulated by others even at this profound level of life. Every person must be prepared to manage his abilities. He does not wait for Someone else to impose rules upon him; he does it for himself. Furthermore, we need to maintain personal control over the events in our lives. If our goals are clear and we are willing to adopt basic rules of personal behavior, we have a good chance of coping with the events of daily life.

THIRD, self-discipline is the key to our struggle toward maturity. Philosophers of science are impressed by the fact that organisms develop and grow in such a way to fulfill the characteristics of their form of life. Human organisms do this as they pass through the cycle of life from birth to death. But during its life cycle, human personality is doing something more: it is advancing toward the fulfillment of plans and hopes. Psychologists have called this process Self-Actualization. The "self-actualizing person" is one who functions more fully than the average person and thereby lives a more enriched life. Self-discipline is an important factor in becoming self-actualizing persons.

A 'Different' Drug program

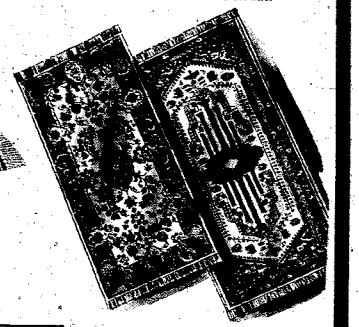
The dangers of drug abuse is a current and important topic on all Army posts today. The soldier is repeatedly warned of the hazards and pitfalls of grass, speed, bennies, and junk. At Fort Benning a special team of investigators are at work putting on dynamic, forceful demonstrations on the plain truth about drugs.

Ray F. Jaklitsch and Larry C. Henderson are two "different" military policemen. They wear stylish civilian clothes and have their own office in the Provost Marshall's building. The small office is decorated with the latest posters warning against drug abuse.

Their office was opened in 1967, and originally presented the standard Dept. of the Army drug prevention program. Since that time they have begun giving their own distinct drug program to groups of interested listeners.

Their program hits hardest at the man who is undecided about using drugs. Says Hendrickson, "there are three groups of people, those who have made up their minds to use drugs, those who have decided against them, and those who aren't sure. We aim at the undecided ones." Jaklitsch says, "We aren't trying to cure anyone. We just tell the people who don't use drugs the consequences should they decide to start."

Recently they gave one of their presentations to the Officer Candidates of the 50th Co. 5th Stu. Bn., TSB. Jaklitsch opened with a short introduction on the drug scene. Then he introduced the film. "The Perfect Drug." Not a dry Army training film, it is an up to date, "with it" film on drugs. After the film Jaklitsch fielded questions from the candidates.



The final part of the program was the high point. Rex, Fort Bennings best known Marijuana sniffing dog was brought in to find pot that had been hidden in the area. When he detected it he went into a frenzy, his wolflike teeth tearing at the hiding place. His handler is the only one who can stop him.

"We have 15 dogs like Rex on Fort Benning," says Jaklitsch. "They also smell explosives, heroin, speed, and other items."

Retirement

DOD works on better system for career men

New Nondisability Retirement Proposal

One of the most controversial issues facing Army retention today is the newly proposed Nondisability Retirement System. Over 90 per cent of all soldiers leave the Army prior to the 20-year mark.

According to Defense officials, there are several reasons for a new system. Now that pay is comparable to most civilian pay scales, the current system provides for what is described as "excessively liberal benefits." Unfairness in setting retirement dates has permitted an atmosphere of distrust. Those soldiers who can schedule their retirement date after a pay raise can obtain a higher lifetime benefit.

Another problem is that the current system does not provide the incentive for soldiers to continue on active duty after 20 years.

Probably the most debatable facet is what Department of Defense (DOD) calls dual pensions. This "defect" means that during the service member's career, the government matches his contributions to Social Security plus it provides a benefit entirely in addition to Social Security.

Objectives

The idea behind the new system is to save money and to lure quality soldiers to stay in service beyond 20 years of service. There are also several other key reasons for revising the current system.

The "Vesting" provision is of great importance to those who depart before 20 years of service. This provision means that these soldiers would be entitled to some compensation in recognition of their service whether they are released voluntarily or involuntarily.

For those who are involuntarily separated with five or more years, there are two options from which the soldier can choose. Option One includes both a monthly payment beginning at age 60 plus an immediate cash payment. Option Two consists of one lump-sum payment equal to twice the readjustment pay. The sum would equal 10 per cent of annual base pay times years of service.

To be eligible for voluntary separation compensation, a soldier must have served at least 10 years but less than 20. These separatees would receive a monthly pension at age 60. The annual benefits would be equal to two and a half per cent of the soldier's last year's pay times the years of service. All benefits would be adjusted to reflect increases in the Consumer Price Index (CPI). This helps to maintain purchasing power.

Reduced Bennies

To stimulate "full careers" (30 years of service) an increased multiplier would be implemented. The current two and one-half per cent would still apply for service from 20-24 years and three per cent for years 25-30. This means a maximum of 75 per cent instead of 75 per cent now currently in effect.

Those soldiers who retire before 30 years of service would immediately receive an "early retirement annunity." This monthly payment would continue until what would have been the 30th year. From this point on the retiree would receive an "increased annuity" in addition to the early retirement annuity.

High-1 Average

A device to stymie those soldiers who can fix their date of retirement to fall after annual pay raises would be adopted. High-1 Average would require retired pay to be based on the average monthly pay earned for the last 12 months and not on the final base pay.

Gurantees

The "Save Pay" provision is simply a guarantee that the retiree under the new plan will receive no less than the retiree under the current system.

This means by which the retiree of the current system is assured higher benefits than new entrants is called the "Transition" provision. This depends on the retirees years of service prior to implementation of the proposed plan.

The save pay provision is adjustable under the CPI.

Social Security Integration

The hottest item under the new proposal is of course Social Security integration at age 65. Providing the Save Pay provision is not affected, the military retired pay will be offset by an annual equal to one-half of the retiree's service-related Social Security benefit. This proposal would also be dictated by the "Transition" provision. Defense officials emphasize that even with the offset, total retirement pay for a 20-year retiree would border 80 per cent of his final base pay, whereas the soldier with 30 years would probably be 100 per cent of his final base pay.

Defense officials are claiming that continuation of the present system under today's pay scales will eventually bankrupt the system. There's a choice — high pay with a big reduction in retirement OR the present system with fewer pay raises.

Lack of Knowledge

As simple as the old system is, there are very few soldiers who know the full scope of the program. The even more complicated proposed system was not designed to discourage the right to know, but rather to guarantee maximum benefits to all service members, both present and future, while keeping within the bounds of realistic, monetary goverenment budgeting.

Unit commanders and even individual soldiers can obtain more information by calling the Personnel Actions Branch, Adjutant General Division, 545-7224.

Reader irate about system

DEAR BAYONET

Despite the Madison Avenue sales techniques, the proposed new retirement system being so highly touted by DOD is just one more boondoggle. Despite the fancy language and hollywood sales pitch there is a real message — broken promises and an attempt to further hack away at current retirement benefits. The authors of this monstrosity, no doubt most of whom have 20 years service and instant retirement eligibility, would reward themselves with an additional 3 pct. over the present 75 pct. maximum of active pay. Apart from this rather dubious benefit, other military personnel not yet qualified for retirement are being offered a sugar-coated pill. We are told the more years service we have, the less effect this new system would have on us. We are supposed to be reassured by a save-pay prevision that means we would get at least as much as someone who retired before us. This approach is another way of saying it won't really affect those of you now on active duty — only those who come in after this thing becomes law — so don't worry about them. We still hear the echos of DOD and Congress when they passed long overdue pay raises to attract good people and, with these dollar incentive, retain them for a full career. Instead of being given 50 pct. for 20 years service the new soldier is told he would take only 35 pct., and when he has waited ten years (should he live so long) he can then receive 50 pct. In the meantime some Pentagon commandos would probably be cited and decorated for the "cost savings." Any way you slice it, this is the admitted name of the game — to reduce the future cost of retirement.

Unless the Pentagon knows some new kind of magic, the only way to do that is by reducing the amount paid to the future retiree. Oh yes, I almost forgot, social security benefits would be reduced under the new system. Maybe that is another cost saving device.

Other useless gimmicks include bountiful cash payments to those who quit before 20 years service. My thought is how can DOD really hope to retain people for a full career while dangling a financial carrot in front of them to quit prior to that time should they find a better opportunity in civilian industry? Maybe reenlistment bonuses should be raised to say $50,000 for the first, $75,000 for the second, and so on. That would provide a cash incentive to stay in — not get out before 20 years service.

Another load of hot air is the statistical snow job we are given to justify the proposed new system. For example, it is said that, "the current system provides excessively liberal benefits when compared with most civilian sector plans." The time frame carefully selected is the last five year period. We are then shown a beautiful graft which depicts military pay raises soaring to the top of Mount Everest and, way below, civilian pay raises on a scale with Pine Mountain. What this manipulator carefully forgets to tell us is what the beginning and ending actual pay rates are in the respective systems. An unwary trusting soul might believe we are making more than our counterparts in private industry.

If you haven't read up on the new system, get with it. You owe it to yourself.

Army Reserve Schools aid 68,000 citizen-soldiers

FT. MONROE, Va.—Take the 100 Army Reserve Schools in CONUS. Add 765 teaching locations. Mix well with over 68,000 citizen-soldier students from our Reserve Components. Yield: an educated reserve force.

These Army Reserve Schools, presently found in 100 principal cities, help members of the Reserve Components bridge the mobilization gap from civilian to military life. Their far-flung teaching locations bring the Army Reserve "campus" to another 765 communities where our citizen-soldiers live, work and serve.

Since citizen-soldiers of the Reserve Components, because of their civilian occupations, cannot easily attend long-term Active Army service schools, the educational "mountain" is brought to them through the Army Reserve school system.

The primary aim of the Army Reserve school system is to give members of our Reserve Components the means to attain a military education through non-resident instruction. It is a progressive system which provides career development courses for Reserve Component officers and, in addition, offers enlisted Reserve Component personnel opportunities for MOS training that is necessary to keep our reserve force fully proficient.

In most instances, the schools are located in Army Reserve Training Centers in the cities. Classroom space in these centers is allocated for specific courses of instruction. Classes are also held at leased facilities within the civilian community and at Active Army installations.

The school year (September 1st through the following August 31st) usually takes in 24 two-hour class periods held at night or on weekends at the schools, followed by an uninterrupted two-week school session during annual summer camp.

For Reserve Component officers, the Army Reserve schools conduct Branch Officer Basic and Adanced courses, Industrial College of the Armed Forces (ICAF) courses, and Command and General Staff College (CGSC) courses. These courses parallel resident courses of the Active Army schools, Branch schools, CGSC, and ICAF.

Since its inception in 1950, the U.S.Army Reserve school system has grown with the Reserve Components. Over the years, school standards have become higher, the entire program has been refined, and today's officer graduates of the Army Reserve school system receive diplomas from all Branch schools of the U.S. Army, plus the CGSC.

Pay back pro-rated

Dear Bayonet,

"I was overpaid several hundred dollars a few months ago. I have been told that Finance will discover the mistake sooner or later, but I don't have the cash to pay it back right now. Is there anyway I can pay it back on the installment plan?" T.A.L.

Dear T.A.L.

Pay taken out of a soldier's check for overpayment can be pro-rated over a period of months, depending on how long the soldier plans to remain in the Army. You should turn in a request for pro-ration of indebtedness, including a short statement as to why you think you were overpaid, and request an audit by Finance to find out if you were in fact overpaid. If the overpayment is over $100.00, you must include an itemized list of monthly expenses so that Finance can determine how long you will have to pay back the money you owe. Your Personnel Staff NCO and Company Commander are the people to see about this; your PSNCO will have a copy of Fact Sheet No. 3, which should explain in detail how to file your request for pro-ration of indebtedness. You will not be put in a position of financial strain by having more taken out of your paycheck than you can afford; your living expenses will be taken into account.

Allotment woes

The Army owes my husband over $90 bucks on a laundry allotment he stopped in Jan. 72. Why can't he get his money from Finance? Mrs. C. P.

Dear Mrs. C. P.

He can, but he can't go directly to Finance for his pay without going first through his supply sergeant or an officer in his unit and with the necessary form.

Those people back and stop overpayments [illegible] allotments, dressed with the proper form, properly filled out, your husband can go to Finance and get his money.

The exact amount of the increase has not yet been determined. For further information contact Mrs. Carter at 545-7380.

Difference between courses

Dear Bayonet,

I would like to know the difference between the Army Correspondence Program, the United States Armed Forces Institute courses, and the Participating College and University programs? A.F.K.

Dear A.F.K.

The Army Correspondence Course Program offers military oriented subjects only. It is designed to assist one in further MOS training. E-4, E-5 and E-6 personnel can earn promation points. Prerequisites for the courses are listed in DA Pamphlet 351-20, along with a listing of all the service schools.

The United States Uniformed Services Institute offers instruction to active duty military personnel. Some of their courses are recommended for semester hours of credit and many U.S. colleges accept these credits. USAFI's approximate 85 courses are not military oriented.

Correspondence courses are available under the Participating College and University programs. About 45 colleges and universities participate in the program. About 6,000 different courses are offered through this program. Also, the U.S. Government will pay 75 per cent of the P.C. and U. courses.

There are even more educational opportunities offered than these three. For more information contact your education center.

Nurse Clinicians

A trend among trends

By Helen M. Rutledge

Nurse clinicians, new members of the Army health care family, are an effort to improve the accessibility, scope, and quality of health care services.

Prompted by a much publicized crisis in national health care delivery and - closer to home - an end to the doctor draft, the Army Medical Department moved to identify, develop, and implement new roles that would expand and improve "ambulatory" (the newest term for "outpatient") health services while simultaneously allowing the physician to reallocate his time and highly specialized knowledge in behalf of those patients who have more complex medical problems.

The Nurse Clinician Ambulatory Care Course at Martin Army Hospital Annex is just one of the resulting educational programs designed to prepare Army Nurse Corps officers for ambulatory clinician roles. A second ambulatory care course is located at Silas B. Hays Army Hospital at Fort Ord.

Other clinician courses are as follows:

PEDIATRIC CLINICIAN — Fitzsimons General Hospital, Denver, Colorado ; Madigan General Hospital, Seattle or Tacoma, Washington.

OB-GYN CLINICIAN — Womack Army Hospital, Ft. Bragg, North Carolina; William Beaumont General Hospital, El Paso, Texas.

Although only one present utilization nurse clinician course is located at Fort Benning, graduates from all courses are presently assigned to Martin Army Hospital, providing nursing aspects of care to patients in addition to performing medical functions previously not delegated to the nurse. They are assigned to the Chief of Nursing Service who then assigns them according to MOS and the specialty course attended.

— The ambulatory care course graduates work exclusively in the ambulatory setting but may visit their hospitalized patients unofficially to provide the hospital staff with information pertinent to the patient's welfare. At present they are assigned as follows: Outpatient Clinic (2), Family Practice Clinic (1), and Medical Specialty Clinic (1). These four clinicians combine efforts with the endocrinologist to care for the Diabetic Clinic population each Tuesday afternoon.

Pediatric Clinic but conduct Well Baby Clinic and assume certain responsibilities in the Nursery as well.

— The OB-GYN Nurse Clinicians function mainly in the OB-GYN Clinic but carry additional responsibility for patient education in Prenatal and Postnatal Care and Family Planning. These clinicians too, may visit any of their patients who become hospitalized.

Mrs. William Koehler and Mrs. Sandy MacPherson were co-hostesses for the April 18 meeting of the Panhellenic Association. Mrs. Robert Gardner was introduced and welcomed to the group. Mrs. R. L. Brownlee presided and led discussion of plans for the Spring Tea. The tea is to be May 16, 1:30-3:30 p.m., in the home of a Fort Benning member. All sorority alumnae are invited and encouraged to call any of these members for reservations: Mrs. George Lovelace, 687-4187; Mrs. Charles Lieb, 689-6573; or Mrs. Gary Craig, 689-5191. There will be a work day to finalize plans on May 9, 1:30 p.m., in the home of Mrs. Edward Schowalter. Any alumnae interested in helping should call Mrs. George Lovelace, 687-4187.

197th Inf. Bde. Headquarters

Easter arrived early for the 197th Headquarters ladies at their coffee, April 18. A beautiful "Easter Egg Tree" surrounded by miniature Bunnies centered the table, and a large colorful egg filled with Easter eggs contributed to the decorative Easter scheme.

Mrs. William Harbour and Mrs. James Short were hostesses for the event.

The ladies welcomed, Mrs. William Steele, the new brigade commander's wife; Mrs. Theodore Voorhees, the brigade executive officer's wife, and Mrs. Jeffrey Bauer.

Mrs. Jethro Holland, Mrs. Harbour's mother was special guest. Leaving the group was Mrs. Arthur C. Kellum, who was presented a silver tray.

The ladies were reminded of the forthcoming Brigade formal May 19th, and a Headquarters Hall and Farewell, "Pot Luck Dinner," May 25.

197th Inf. Bde. 3D Bn. 7th Inf.

The ladies of the 3d Bn. 7th Inf. held their monthly coffee in the Corrigidor Room of the Main Officers' Club at Fort Benning on April 19.

A short business meeting was held during which a brief history of the 3d Bn. 7th Inf. was passed out to all the ladies. Social functions in the service were discussed along with the upcoming trip to Destin, Fla., and the Battalion Cookbook.

Welcomed to the Battalion were Mrs. Arthur Kellum and Mrs. George Frankel. Farewells went out to Mrs. John Mandeville and Mrs. Robert Banning. Many thanks went to Mrs. Arthur Bradshaw Jr. and Mrs. Jack Macris Jr. for hostessing the lovely coffee.

Leadership Dept.

The ladies of the Leadership Committee were entertained with a coffee in the home of Mrs. Jack Catt, on April 24. Co-hostess was Lana Schoenack.

Mrs. Nathan Vail welcomed Marion Garbarino and Keiko Mellott into the Committee.

The Leadership Committee will continue coffees through the summer months.

2-69th Armor

Mrs. Steven Kriz and Mrs. Richard Dallas entertained the ladies of the 2-69th Armor Battalion at their monthly coffee on Thursday, April 12, 1973, at Mrs. Kriz' home on Fournet Court, Fort Benning.

Fifteen couples and their children from among the officers and families of the 2-69th Armor Battalion spent a weekend in the sun at the Army Recreation Area in Destin, Florida, on April 13, 14, and 15. Sailing, swimming, skiing, sun-bathing, and scuba diving occupied most of the daylight hours. Friday night the group enjoyed a pot-luck dinner of salads, shrimp, and oysters in the recreation area; Saturday night found them at an Italian restaurant for an evening out in Fort Walton Beach.

Benning wins in overtime

The Post soccer team (Southeast Military Conference champions) defeated, in a sudden death playoff, the German Air Force team from Redstone Arsenal to emerge the victors of the Redstone Arsenal Invitational tournament April 14-15.

Three Fort Benning players scored while only two Redstone Arsenal player attempts were successful during a sudden death kickoff to give Fort Benning the victory and Championship.

Earlier in the day Fort Benning had put away the Birmingham Internationals 5-4 to advance to the finals.

Best goalie honors for the tournament went to Felix Enriquez while the top offensive player was Noel Spleen, both from Fort Benning.

The fourth team participating in this tournament was the German Liason team from Washington, D.C.

Practices are held between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday at Stillwell Field. All are invited.

Veterans can make a mint with full GI Bill bennies

College graduates have an average lifetime income that is $237,000 more than persons with only a high school diploma — $608,000 compared to $371,000.

The earning averages from Department of Labor studies were pointed out by Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson is urging the use of G.I. Bill training by Vietnam veterans.

Under the G.I. Bill, school-bound single veterans received $220 a month for full time training, up to a maximum of 36 months of school attendance, or a total of $7,920. The monthly allowance is increased for veterans with dependents.

The G.I. Bill has other features. Veterans enrolled in high school studies also receive monthly allowances without a charge against basic eligibility, so that full G.I. Bill entitlement is retained for college attendance.

Those veterans in college on a half-time or more basis can now be tutored. Under the G.I. Bill, VA will pay veterans up to $50 a month for a maximum of $450 for tutorial assistance. Again, there is no charge against the veterans basic entitlement, Johnson pointed out.

Details are available at any VA office, or from the various veterans service organization.

On May 9 the ENVIRONMENTAL WORKSHOP will hold a project meeting at the OWC Lounge at 10 a.m. On May 16, "Chain of Life", a movie on using biological controls instead of pesticides, will be shown to the ENVIRONMENTAL WORKSHOP and all interested people. This will be an evening meeting and all folks at Fort Benning are invited to attend this informative film. It will be held at Martin Army Hospital's 2nd floor conference room at 8 p.m. Do plan to "BEE WITH US".

OWC ceramic news

In January, newsletters were sent out to all members, explaining the new rule that every member will give six hours of her time to the shop every six months or forfeit her membership.

This is a reminder, you have only two more months to earn your hours. Come on out to the shop and give your time, you're needed. Substitute shopkeepers are needed now. It only takes two times of subbing in get your hours.

If you can't come to the shop, there are pieces for the 1973 OWC Christmas Bazaar you can take home and clean and paint, and earn your hours that way.

If there are any questions, please call Barbara Anderson, 545-2609.

Meddac Wives' Club

A "Crazy Hat" luncheon will offer MEDDAC Wives a change of pace May 11 at their last meeting of the year. Every member is invited to "do her own thing" in creating some type of beadgear for the event. Prizes will be offered in three categories: most original, prettiest, and funniest. Members who do not wish to participate in the contest may still attend the luncheon to be held at the FBOOM Supper Club.

A complimentary champagne punch will be served from noon to 12:30 p.m. At this time there will be an arts and crafts display by several MEDDAC members.

After the luncheon election and installation of officers will take place. Those nominated for office are: Mrs. Lyle Bundt, president; Mrs. Hector Duenas, vice-president; Mrs. James Hughes, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Bryant, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Michael Kozower, recording secretary; and Mrs. Kenneth Holtzapple, corresponding secretary. In addition, nominations may be made from the floor durioq the election proceedings.

Wives from the Departments of Pediatrics, Clinics, and MAH Dental Clinic have been chosen as hostesses, with Mrs. Patrick Tisdale and Mrs. Leander Gallegos as the co-chairmen.

Meddac Wives' Book Club

MEDDAC Wives' Book Club meets the first Wednesday of every month at 7:30 p.m. You do not have to belong to MEDDAC Wives' Club in order to attend.

The selection for June is The Tenants by Bernard Malamud.

Finance will figure it out

BY SUSANNE BOSTICK

"Our ultimate goal is to improve service to the soldier." These are the words of Maj. James F. Dabney, chief of Pay Examinations Branch, Finance and Accounting Office.

JUMPS

Under JUMPS-Army (the Joint Uniform Military Pay System), all information about a soldier's paycheck is fed into a computer at Indianapolis, Ind. But first it is received from each unit and processed by the Fort Benning finance office.

When a request for a pay change is made, it must be accompanied by some type of supporting document such as a morning report, copies of orders, or request for allotment.

If the necessary documents do not accompany the pay change, it cannot be processed by finance. This is why many pay problems can be traced back to a man's unit and solved there.

The Personnel Staff NCO (PSNCO) is an "in-house finance expert," according to Maj. Dabney. His job is to resolve pay problems at the unit level, and he is trained by finance to process pay inquiries.

He can determine whether a complaint is valid or invalid, and whether or not it is the result of an administrative problem. The PSNCO is there to help the soldier straighten out his problem with finance.

INQUIRIES

Soldiers must submit routine pay inquiries by the tenth of each month in order for their pay changes to take effect by the end of that month. If they submit written inquiries within the deadline, they should receive a written reply within three workdays.

A "drop box" has been installed in Infantry Hall for use by students, E-7 and above. Pay inquiries and allotment requests can be turned in to this box, which is emptied each day by finance. A reply is mailed within 3 days.

Two telephones have been installed at the finance office which soldiers can use 24 hours a day. The phones are equipped with recording devices, and written replies are sent to the soldier within 3 days of his inquiry.

Two new methods have been started to insure that a soldier received the correct amount of money on payday. Sometimes a soldier may turn in documents supporting a pay change by the tenth of the month, but they may not be processed by finance in time to show up on that month's paycheck.

In such a case, the soldier may be due a larger amount of money than usual. Finance makes out a separate check and pays it to the man or woman along with his regular check. During February and March, over 100 such payments were made by finance each month, the largest of which was for $750.00.

Finance also screens each soldier's leave and earnings statement to see that it is correct, and the soldier is given a copy of it in advance so that he will have time to check it over before payday and straighten out any problems.

LES

125 inquiries about LES's were answered in March and 91 separate checks were issued to soldiers. Last Friday, a soldier received a cash payment for pro-pay. He had looked at his leave and earnings statement and discovered that his pro-pay was not on his April paycheck.

His paperwork had been submitted by the tenth of the month, but had not been processed by Finance in time to have an effect on his paycheck. By going through his PSNCO, he was able to receive his pro-pay in cash.

Another soldier received $84.00 last month because finance screened his LES and found that he had been erroneously dropped for ETS, but had actually extended. This mistake was also corrected before payday.

Each company commander now receives a list of men from his unit who visited finance with a pay inquiry during the previous month. The list contains the name of the soldier, the date of his visit, the problem he went to correct, and the cause of the error (if there was one).

COMPUTERS

This computer listing is used by the PSNCO to find out what types of finance problems his men are having, so that he can prevent them from happening in the future, if possible.

It is also used by finance to determine the types of errors most commonly made by its employes, so that they can be given training, if necessary, in order to handle such problems better.

A customer survey form is now being used by finance to get feedback on how well finance is doing its job. When a customer has a specific gripe or complaint, he is given a personal interview with Maj. Dabney in hopes of solving the problem.

The soldier can help by checking his leave and earning statement thoroughly to be sure it is correct; by going through his Personnel Staff NCO with problems before going directly to Finance; and by making pay inquiries before the tenth of each month.

'Pay problems' handle with care

BY BOB THOMAS

Just as our cartoon character found that the chain of command was still the fastest and easiest way to correct pay problems, PFC Rufus W. Walker, HHC, 197th Inf. Bde. learned the hard way.

Walker is from Seattle, Wash. and has been in the Army for 10 months. His problem started while he was at Ft. Ord, Calif., where he took basic training and advanced individual training as a cook.

"My pay has been messed up for as long as I can remember," Walker said as he told his story. "Ever since I came into the Army, I have been paid in sporatic, lopsided amounts. At Ft. Ord I spent every payday standing in line at the finance section."

Walker said that some months he was overpaid, while at other times he was not paid at all. Last November he was promoted to the rank of PFC, however, the promotion never showed on his pay voucher, (when he received one). Although Walker personally carried six copies of his promotion orders to finance, he continued to receive Pvt., E-2 pay.

Finally Walker did what he should have done to begin with. He took the problem to the HHC, 197th company executive officer, 1st Lt. George Graham. Within a matter of days, Walker got results.

"A soldier's first reaction, when he has a pay problem," Graham explained, "is to charge off to finance and tackle the problem alone. Generally I can solve almost any pay complaint from my office, using the proper channels. If a partial pay is required, I can arrange this with finance in advance, and the individual can avoid spending a whole day waiting in line."

Graham made an appointment for Walker to visit the finance section and insured that he had all the documents he needed before leaving. Graham also arranged for a partial pay of the amount Walker had coming to him.

"I discovered I had been going about it the wrong way," Walker admitted. "The pay officer was able to get things done a whole lot quicker than I was, and with less effort."

Walker visited the finance section where he discussed his problems with Sgt. Black. It was determined that Walker was due back pay for PFC. The proper forms were filled out to correct the problem and Walker was then paid the cash amount due him.

"For the first time since I entered the Army," Walker commented, "I am satisfied with my pay."

Cast for Dramatizers new play full of talent

The cast of the Fort Benning Dramatizers' upcoming production of William Saroyan's "The Cave Dwellers" once again combines experienced amateurs with talented beginners.

The play, which will run May 3, 4, 5, and 11 and 12, is the story of some down and out entertainers who take refuge in an abandoned theater which is scheduled for destruction. It is a story of love and life in Saroyan's unique style. The performances, which are free, will be held at 8 p.m. at the Fort Benning Playhouse, Bldg. 1237, behind the Infantry Museum on Ingersoll.

David McQueen, who plays the King, an aging clown, has appeared in several productions of the Fort Benning Dramatizers. He has appeared as the Strongman, a Roustabout and Dr. Wilhelm Glass in "Carnival;" as Egeus in "A Midsummer Night's Dream;" as William Winter in "Edwin Booth;" and as Parsons in the Dramatizers' last production, "1984." He has also worked tech and publicity on almost all shows, since he has been with the group.

Helen Stanley, who plays the Queen, once a great actress, is making her first appearance on the stage of the Fort Benning Playhouse. However, she has given much assistance backstage. She has done the makeup for the last two shows of the Dramatizers, "Edwin Booth" and "1984," besides this, she has also done two years in actor's workshop in college, the mother in "All My Sons," and assistant producer of "The Dream Play." She was a member of the Weisbaden (Ger.) Theatre Club. She has played the old lady in "You Know I Can't Hear When the Water's Running," Albert in "Victoria Regina" and the daughter in "Man for All Seasons."

Bill Spaniel, who plays the Duke, an old prizefighter, is an old dramatizer, who is back with the group, as a civilian, after a tour in Korea. He has been in the Missouri Workshop Theatre and "The Mouse that Roared." With the Dramatizers, he has played Richard Rich in "A Man for All Seasons," the father in "You Can't Take it With You" and Hysterium in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." He also handled publicity for the shows.

Deborah Powell, who plays the Girl, is another newcomer to the Playhouse stage. She is a freshman at Columbus College and a member of the National Forensics Society with honors from Ripon College, Mich. She has also placed first in Regional Girl's Declamation and third in State. She has assisted with several previous productions of the Dramatizers.

Adeline Overley, who plays the Mother and the Queen as a young woman, is in her second production with the Dramatizers, her first was as the Frog puppet in "Winnie the Pooh." She is a Junior at Columbus College where she played Elizabeth Plantagenet in "Richard the Third."

Glen Sandy, who plays the Father, has also been in several productions of the Dramatizers.

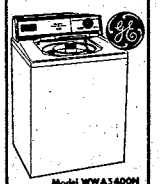
Coming to the screen

AVANTI. . .Jack Lemmon stars as an ulcer-ridden U.S. corporate executive who comes to Italy to claim the body of his father, killed in a car accident. To his surprise, he discovers that his father had a mistress who was also killed in the crash. Juliet Mills as the daughter of his dad's mistress is also in Italy to claim her mother's body and take her back to London. They meet, fall in love and decide to continue the practice of their deceased parents by returning annually and enjoying each other and the beautiful Italian way of life.



KILL, KILL, KILL. . .This is set in the middle east against a background of international crime and intrigue. The action-packed adventure film of a modern day vigilante who tries single handedly to destroy an international crime syndicate stars Stephen Boyd, Jean Seberg and James Mason. Boyd portrays an ex-cop who hunts down international drug smuggling leaders with a personal vengence. Seberg, stars as a woman bored with her quiet home life who wants to find adventure but instead finds herself in the middle of the underworld's most deadly criminals.

THE GROUNDSTAR CONSPIRACY . . . George Peppard stars as a superpatriotic, ruthless security agent whose job it is to find the forces behind the sabotage of a top - secret government space project in which a computer and six scientists have been destroyed. The saboteur manages to escape the explosion through mangled beyond recognition. After capture and a delicate operation, including plastic surgery, the saboteur, played by Michael Sarrazin, is brutally interrogated by Peppard and then allowed to escape, hopefully to lead the government to the enemy organization. Love interest is provided by Christine Belford, who hides Sarrazin, helped reconstruct his memory and gives him something to live for.

THE MECHANIC. . .Charles Bronson, in the title role, plays an aging "mechanic" (gangland-slang for assassin) who takes on a young protege. Bronson, a cold-blooded professional has 100 ways to kill and they all work. Bronson's heartless apprentice Jan Michael Vincent, is overly ambitious and schemes to take over Bronson's role as head trigger man for the mob-in a game no one can win.

NOW YOU SEE HIM, NOW YOU DON'T. . .To raise mortgage money College dean, Joe Flynn, enters a golf game with philanthropist, Jim Backus. Campus student Kurt Russell, invents a liquid which makes people and objects invisible. This results in a golf sequence that will bring laughter from the whole family culminating in a wild police chase with a phantom car commandeered by bank robber Cesar Romero.

Three-day trip a gas

As part of the Aviation Company (Avi) recently completed a three day water-survival trip on the Chattahoochee River.

The excursion began at Uchu Creek on Thursday morning as the men squished in the mud left by the receding river to launch two rubber assault rafts and a canoe.

The sun took away the morning chill and the voyage was off to a smooth start. In the afternoon a stiff breeze came up-steam to slow progress and make the river choppy. No stops were made in order to make the first night objective at Bluff Creek.

Camp was set up quickly and some of the men immediately went fishing. Recent rains had kept the water temperature down and the water muddy, so fishing conditions were poor. Even so a nice bass and a number of catfish of rather insignificant size were caught. Served up with hush puppies, the fish were a tasty substitute for the dehydrated or canned food brought along for the occasion.

Friday morning, camp was quickly struck and the river banks once again flowed steadily by on either side as the group continued downstream.

The highlight of the morning was a pair of Canadian geese winging low-level up-river in close formation. There was some dicussion as to whether they had become lost from a north bound flock or a pair of honeymooners taking the scenic route. There was lots of beaver sign along the river but the timid creatures themselves remained out of sight.

The small flotilla continued steadily down stream until reaching the last campsite north of Eufaula and alongside route 431.

Date extended for next play submission

The Fort Benning, Dramatizers have extended the date for the closing of play submission for the next production of the Fort Benning Playhouse.

Anyone who has a play he would like to submit must either be directing the play himself or have someone who would like to direct the play prior to submission, and he must have a copy of the play to submit.

All plays must be submitted to the office of the Fort Benning Playhouse no later than May 21, the Playhouse is Bldg. 1237, off Ingersoll behind the Infantry Museum.

All plays will be read, and the directors will be interviewed by the board of directors of the Playhouse and the announcement of the play will be made at the Dramatizers meeting on May 28.

He has appeared as Starveling the Tailor in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and a guard in "1984." He was also stage manager for "Edwin Booth" and has worked tech for many shows.

Turq Brown, who portrays the Bear, is another newcomer to the Playhouse stage, however, he did work sound for the Dramatizers' "1984" and Columbus College's production of "MacBeth."

Bob Swain, who plays the Silent Boy and the Opponent, has appeared as Syme in "1984," but he is the director of the Dramatizers' workshop on elements of the theatre which is held each Saturday morning at 10 at the Playhouse, Bldg. 1237.

Harold Hosteller, who plays the wrecking crew Boss, is doing his first play with the Dramatizers. He did appear in "The Sound of Music" at Fort Campbell. He has participated in Glee Clubs and quartets.

Sam Moorhead, who plays Jamie, has been the tech director for "Under the Yum Yum Tree" and "Arsenic and Old Lace" produced in Naples, Italy. He also worked tech for "Elizabeth the Queen," "The Clown that Ran Away" and "The Cruelble."

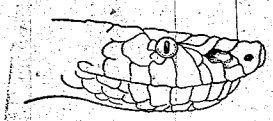
Snakes

Scare people to death

The mention of snakes brings more shudders from people than the mention of lightning, although your chances of being fatally bitten by a snake are far less than being struck by lightning.

Most of the 2500 species of snakes are not poisonous; however, those that are poisonous are among the most dangerous animals to man. The eastern diamondback rattler, found in the southeast is ranked in the top 20 of the most dangerous creatures on earth.

Snakes should be respected but not feared. People have been known to die from bites of harmless snakes because of their fear.



With spring well under way, the snakes are out and will remain out until sometime in late November. Fishermen and campers will probably encounter one type of snake or another in this area. In the Fort Benning area we have four types of poisonous snakes.

There are three basic types of venomous snakes: the eastern diamond back rattler, copperheads and cottonmouths; and the coral snake.

The first two groups are pit vipers. Like all pit vipers, they have hinged fangs. The fangs act like a hypodermic needle when venom is injected. There are two methods to tell a pit viper from a nonpoisonous snake. If the head and body are about the same size, the snake is not poisonous; however, if there is a definite "neck" watch out. It's a viper. The other method applies only to rattlesnakes, where their tail gives them away.

Coral snakes can be identified by their distinctive markings. The coral snake resembles some harmless snakes of the same type coloring, yellow, black, and red. If the yellow bands touch the red bands, it's a coral snake. Chances of seeing a coral snake are slim and chances of being bitten are even slimmer. The coral snake must chew on its victim, therefore making him little danger to man.

Cottonmouths live primarily in or near swamps, lakes, rivers, and any other place where water is abundant. The cottonmouth is dangerous because it doesn't run, it will stand its ground against any intruder. His diet consists of fish, birds, baby alligators and other snakes (no snakes are vegetarians). The cottonmouth gets its name from the whiteness of its mouth which resembles a small piece of cotton.

Copperheads, though fairly common, do not represent a threat to human life because they would rather run than fight. However, if cornered, they will strike without warning. They can be identified by their pinkish color and hourglass markings. You will find them in the lowlands and swamps of the southeast.

The eastern diamondback rattler is found in scrub oak or in the lowlands in the southeast. Like all snakes, the rattler can and will swim long distances to avoid humans. The eastern diamondback has a loud rattle and usually sounds a warning before striking. Brownish in color, the diamondback blends in with the terrain here at Fort Benning. He is truly a dangerous snake, and if bitten you should immediately get to a hospital.

If you are bitten by a snake and you're not sure if the sanek is poisonous, there is a way to tell. If bitten by a poisonous snake, there will be a burning pain followed in 10 to 15 minutes by a slight swelling. If no treatment is received dizziness and nausea will occur.

By watching your step and where you reach you can help avoid contact with Mr. Noshoulders. Don't try fooling with him, you won't like it.

"$8,000 helped."

Sergeant Roy Smith was going for more than the bonus when he reenlisted.

"The $8,000 helped. But part of my reason for staying in the Army is I can get the rest of my college credits for a degree. I've got 2 years in already.

"I enjoy the job I'm doing now as a drill sergeant. But I'd also like to try military intelligence. And eventually get to go to OCS.

"It's all there. It's completely up to me and my qualifications for it."

Sergeant Smith views the Army as one big opportunity for a guy who wants to get ahead.

There are job and educational opportunities. In advanced electronics. Cryptography. Foreign languages. Data processing. Communications. Traffic analysis. And lots more.

And travel opportunities. In Europe. Korea. Hawaii. Alaska. Panama. And the time to enjoy it. To live it. In a way no tourist ever could.

And the opportunity to save money on all the everyday things.

Like free housing. Free dental and medical care. Commissary and post exchange privileges. Low-cost life insurance.

It's all here. It's up to you.

Your Army Career Counselor has a whole book of job, duty station and training opportunities just waiting for you. He'll give you lots of reasons for staying in.

Fishermen who spend most of the time on the drive back from a fishing trip making up alibies for having no fish will have a chance to get some tips on how to avoid this situation when the National Bass Anglers Sportsmans Society (BASS) puts on its 1973 Seminar.

May 18 is the date. 7:30 p.m. is the time and the Columbus Municipal Auditorium is the place. Fort Benning BASS Club members are selling admission tickets at $2 each. The club gets a percentage of each ticket they sell so patronize your local club. If you don't know a BASS Club member you can get the tickets by calling SFC Mike boyd at 545-2134 or Lt. Col. Bob Farris at 545-3412.

Plan to be there if you want to hear how the professionals catch the lunkers and manage to take something regardless of the wind, temperature of the water, phase of the moon or any other phenonom most fishermen claim make fishing impossible.

Tom Man and John Powell, two local anglers who follow the professional trail will be among the guest speakers. These professionals will discuss new techniques for finding fish, provide up to date information on the bottest lures as well as old standbys and share a few of their secrets for coming home with something in the creel each time they go out. The capabilities, limitations and reliability of depth finders, electric thermometers and other electronic equipment will also be discussed.

The BASS Seminar will also address the pollution problem as it pertains to sportsmen. Experts will provide information on how each of us can do our part to help. This is a big part of BASS activities. Each year the organization spends thousands of dollars to improve our fishing resources. Your attendance at the seminar will accomplish three good effects. It will improve your fishing ability, help the local BASS Club and help fight pollution of our fishing waters.

ALABAMA FISHING RODEO

Fishermen who intend to compete in the Alabama Freshwater Fishing Rodeo at Lake Eufaula have until noon today to register for the event.

Tickets for the rodeo which begins today and runs through tomorrow and Sunday may be obtained locally at the Richardsons Home and Auto Supply on Hamilton Road or at most of the fishing sporting goods stores in the Eufaula area.

A total of $5,000 will be awarded to winners in six categories of fish. Prizes will be awarded for the largest bass, blackbass, whitebass, crappie, crap and other rough fish. Top prize of the event will be a fishing boat complete with motor and trailer. A separate contest for children under 14 years of age is also part of the rodeo this year. Trophies will be awarded to the youngsters who may also register catches in the main contest.

EASTER PETS

Some parents are no doubt having unpleasant second thoughts about the cute ducks, chickens and rabbits they gave their children for Easter. Generally these live gifts don't respond too well to the affections of the children and the children quickly lose interest in them. Thats when they become a liability and problem to the parents.

There are several alternatives for these parents. They can search for someone who will take the birds or animals off their hands. Someone who raises this type animal or fowl might be interested but I don't think you will find many parents who want to add to an easter pet collection. Those having ducks may be most successful in finding a new home for them. The caretaker at cemetaries having ponds might be willing to accept them.

Parents who are not successful in personal efforts might find new owners by placing ads in "free columns" of newspapers.

If these efforts all fail as a final resort post parents can bring the pets to the Post Veterinarian. The Veterinarian's Office will attempt to find a home for them and if they fail too will dispose of them quickly and painlessly. Those living in town can make use of the Columbus Dog Pound located just off 10th Avenue at the 12th Street Bridge.

Whatever you do be sure the pet, will have a home or will be properly disposed. Just turning them loose to fend for themseves is a cruel solution to the problem.

Two score aces

Two Fort Benning golfers scored holes in one on the second hole of the Sand Hill Golf course during the past week.

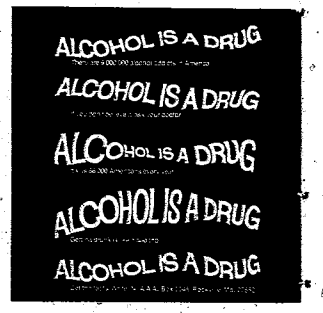
Thomas Ray was first to accomplish the feat on the 127 yard, par three hole when his tee shot went into the hole on Saturday. Ray was playing with Lynn Tuttle, Bill Blankenship and Bob Latimore.

Victor Montanez aced the same hole on Monday while playing with Floyd Smith, Ted McDonnell and Roy Amerson.

Get a garden plot

Active duty personnel assigned or attached to Headquarters, Command, U.S. Army Infantry Center, that are interested in growing a garden may do so by restrving a plot in the Headquarters Commad Garden Area. For more information call the Special Projects Officer at 545-2594.

43rd Eng. destroy building



The equipment platoon of Alpha Company 43rd Engineer Battalion recently completed the demolition of the old motor pool building inside the security fense at Lawson Air Field.

The project came as part of a Department of Facilities and Engineering directive that the 43rd En- directive that the 43rd Engineer Battalion is currently undertaking.

The men had to remove all re-usable materials prior to demolition and turn them in to the property despocal department.

This project required extreme coordination and operational dexterity because the building was very large and there was a problem of the cyclone fense being too close to the building. Lumber was constantly falling on the fense but the building was finally collapsed with no damage to the security fense.

The job lasted seven working days and was completed with the removing of debris in trucks to the land fill.

197th couldn't contend with pro stars

Nine professional football players of the Athletes in Action organization brought impressive grid talents and a spritual message to Essebagger Field April 25 for an exhibition flag football game with an all star team from the 197th Infantry Brigade.

Though the pros won as expected, 28-6, a large and loud audience perched along the cliff overlooking the field seemed to enjoy the swift and confident moves executed by the National and Canadian Football League stars.

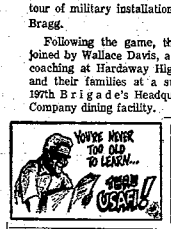
Bill Bell, normally a kicking specialist when he wears the Atlanta Falcon colors, reverted to a former position in leading the team from his quarterback's slot.

Bell was joined by Breg Brezina, a Falcon teammate, for much of the game, which featured speedy cunning and a bit of the razzle-dazzle which is popular in such freewheeling grid clashes.

Bill Bell, kicking specialist for the Atlanta Falcons proved he is no slouch at the quarterback position, as he led the Athletes in Action to a victory over the 197th Inf. Bde. All-Stars. PFC Russell Davis, HHC, 197th Inf. Bde. was unable to match the speed of the swift and evasive Bell. (Photo by Robert Thomas)

The Athletes in Action scored their third touchdown this way, leaving the 197th all stars slightly stunned and the spectators amazed and amused. The scoring play came after two big gains, with Bell scooting back to spin a pass to the fleet Mike Wilson, a defensive back with the British Columbia Lions, then keeping the ball for a sideline race nearly to the goal.

From there, Bell dumped a short pass to Ron Kadziel of the New England Patriots, who feinted right then flipped the pigskin behind his back to Wilson who took the ball in full stride and flashed into the end zone.



The pros scored their final TD on another dazzler. Following the snap, Kadziel pulled back to catch a Bell pass behind the line. The Patriot linebacker then fired the ball to slender John Harvey who snared it and streaked into the end zone to close the scoring at 28 and 6.

During a halftime program arranged by the Athletes in Action, Ken Sugarman of the British Columbia Lions and Ed Mooney of the Detroit Lions spoke to the audience about their involvements with the group as well as the organization's meaning and purpose.

Mooney said that he committed himself to God through a friend who enlightened him, explaining the philosophy of a personal bond with Jesus Christ and dedication to follow inherent teachings.

He said the players were pleased with their visit at Fort Benning, the fourteenth on their extended tour of military installations. Their next stop is Ft. Bragg.

Following the game, the footballers, who were joined by Wallace Davis, a former NFL player now coaching at Hardaway High, dined with soldiers and their families at a super supper held at the 197th Brigade's Headquarters and Headquarters Company dining facility.

'Run for Fun' features 'His and Hers'

The third "Run for Fun" will take place on Stewart Field in front of Infantry Hall May 11 at 2 p.m. The Fort Benning Ranger Department will sponsor the activities including for the first time a "His and Hers" relay.

In the "His and Hers" relay the woman will run a mile and hand a baton to her male partner who will run two miles to the finish.

Last November a total of 115 personnel completed the four races and seven classes of competition with many people competing in more than one race. Forty people completed the two mile run, six completed the one-mile race for women, eight teams (32 runners) completed the four mile relay and 37 completed the five mile race.

Past participants included a 10 year old girl, Airborne Rangers, a 44 year old man, former college track men, the post CSM and others.

Entry will be open to all military and civilian personnel, however, only active duty military personnel may receive awards. Everyone who completes their race will receive a "Run for Fun" Certificate of Completion.

It isn't too late to get in shape and make it out to Stewart Field on May 11.

Wigger grabs top honors in two-day rifle match

Maj. Lones W. Wigger, Jr., champion rifle competitor and Olympic gold medalist of Carter, Mont., and the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit, vaulted from a seven point deficit incurred in the Iron Sight division of the Champion of Champions Smallbore Three Position Rifle match here April 29 and grabbed the championship with his two day total of 2,328 points.

Slamming a near record 1,176 hits through his Any Sight match series targets, Wigger passed Capt. Lanny R. Bassham, a companion marksman and winner of the 120 shot Iron Sight matches, to take command of the two day pre-Interservice tourney.

Bassham was runner up in the grand aggregate with 2,319 while Army Reserve Capt. John Writer, Clarendon Hills, Ill., had six less total hits for third place honors.

In compiling his 2,328 aggregate, Wigger established new Open and Service records, while Bassham and Writer also exceeded the old mark of 2,311. Writer's 2,313 set a new Reserve record.

A second reservist, Capt. Margaret Murdock, Parris Island, S.C., also breezed by the old record and set a new Women's high mark with her 2,312 which was good for fourth overall.

Highlight of the smallbore rifle tourney was the large number of national records established. A total of 66 records in service, reserve, civilian, open and women's categories were placed on the books with the high scoring competitors. This included 42 team and 24 individual records.

The greatest number of individual records was claimed by Captain Murdock with six while Wigger established four. The U.S. Army team, led by Wigger and Bassham, set a majority of the team records.

Four new marks were hung up by a Columbus, Georgia women's team and an outstanding entry was placed on the record books by a collegiate team of Ray Carter and Ed Etzel, All American marksmen from Tennessee Tech University.

Members of the women's team included Tricia Foster, Marie Alkire, Kathy Krilling and Sue Vande Zande while the remaining two Army team members were Maj. Jack Foster and Capt. Boyd Goldsby.

Mobile job rewarded

The Earth Moving Platoon of Company D 43rd Engineer Battalion (Construction) recently completed a Civic Action Project in Mobile Alabama. During this project the men demonstrated that they were outstanding soldiers by pursuing their job with willingness and professionalism until it was completed.

The men proved their competence as professionals by doing excellent work as well as willingly working seven days a week in order to complete the job on time.

Outstanding performance as this deserves reward thus the following men were awarded 93ist Engineer Group Certificates of Achievements on 17 April by CPT Richard Beiter, Company Commander: SSG Jimmy Watson, SP6 Glen Parker, SP5 Laurence Jackson, SP5 Joel Smith, PVT Elijah Profit, SP5 Roger Street and PVT James Carr.

VOL. 31, NO. 34 — FRIDAY, MAY 11, 1973 — 36 PAGES — 10c

TSB soldier decides to build car of dreams

"I couldn't find the kind of car I wanted, so I decided to build one myself." That's the solution Sgt. Larry Payne, of S-4 TSB thought of to avoid the rising cost of automobiles, and to create the car of his dreams.

Sgt. Payne began the project 3 months ago, and estimates it will take another 3 months before the car will be ready for the road.

Out of the parts given to him, parts from junked cars, and parts he bought, Sgt. Payne is piecing together a car resembling a Model A Ford. The total cost of the car will be around $900.00.

"I have restored three Model A's, and decided on that particular car frame because it's the easiest one to work with," he says.

Even though the body of the car resembles a Model A's, the interior will be quite unique.

"I plan to do the interior in diamond tuck," said Sgt. Payne. "I toyed with the idea of covering the floor with mink, but decided against it because of the cost."

Most of the work on the car has been done by Sgt. Payne, with the exception of advice from friends.

"There is an awful lot of time and trouble involved in building a car from scratch," he said. "I don't think I'd attempt building another one. I wouldn't advise anyone to try it unless they have plenty of time and patience."

July 4th carnival tickets on sale

Tickets are now available for this year's Independence Day Carnival. They can be obtained through all units and sections on post.

There are over $8,000 in door prizes to be given away this year. First prize is a 1973 Mustang Mach I, and second prizes are two 125-cc Kawasaki trail bikes.

Two tennis rackets and two 20-speed, bicycles are also among the door prizes, as well as a set of golf clubs and a complete stereo component system by Fisher.

Military personnel, their dependents, and civilians employed at Fort Benning and their dependents are eligible to obtain tickets. Ticket holders need not be present to claim their door prizes.

This year's carnival will also feature a giant midway, with games and prizes. Equipment displays will be set up, and a ceremony will be held on York Field.

A talent contest, a Battle of the Bands, and a beauty contest to select Miss Fort Benning will be part of the festivities. A fireworks display will close the day's events.

The prizes will be on display at all major units and throughout Fort Benning from now until the carnival. Proceeds from the Carnival are used for Youth Activities and Special Services.

43rd Eng. support local fair

During the period of April 12-16, Alpha Company of the 43rd Engineer Battalion was busy helping the citizens of Columbus with a community project.

The men of A Company helped support the Salisbury Fair. The fair is a community project, it is held downtown by the river front and its purpose was to raise money for the Medical Center to be used in Pediatrics.

Alpha Company's job was to locate, transport and erect four GP Medium Tents, 300 chairs and 160 tables. The men who took part in the community action project were all volunteers from the Company. Staff Sergeant Norris Butler was in charge of the operation.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Bill King.

Here's a tangy topping for avocado-grapefruit cocktail: to a cupful of whipped cream, add a teaspoon each of Worcestershire sauce, ketchup and lemon juice.

If you're out of lemons, remember you can substitute 2 tablespoons of bottled or canned lemon juice for the juice of one fresh lemon.

Always brown meat before salting it. Otherwise the salt will draw out meat juices and prevent proper browning.

Generally speaking, when a recipe calls for cooking an ingredient in salted water, it means about a half tablespoon of salt per quart of water.

When Marco Polo described a banquet given by Kubilai Khan for 20,000 noblemen, he pointed out that only 6,000 could be seated at tables, and the rest had to sit on carpets.

Thruway Air Adjustable
SHOCK ABSORBERS
Level up that overloaded car or camper with a set of these. Just add air to raise sagging rear ends, improve steering and braking, stop sidesway and fishtailing and gives you maximum safety and comfort.

- SMOOTH, SUPER HARDENED ½" DIAMETER SHAFT means less friction, longer service life.
- FOUR-COIL SPRING with flat top coil gives uniform traction on seal at all temperatures
- LARGER PISTON-big 1 3 16" size with precision valving for, smoother ride, maximum car control
- ALL-WEATHER FLUID assures instant shock action from 50 below to 300 above Zero
- SPECIAL RESERVOIR VALVING measures fluid flow for uniform, smooth ride under all load and road conditions.
- LARGER AIR VOLUME same fitting capacity at lower working pressure means longer service life.
- SEALED AIR SPRING sealing the rubber sleeve internally at both ends stops air loss and prevents damage to the sleeve.
- NEOPRENE SLEEVE-fabric reinforced neoprene rubber for long life.

Thruway Double Action
LARGER 1 3/16" BORE FOR EXTRA CONTROL, LONGER LIFE
PREMIUM HEAVY DUTY
SHOCK ABSORBERS

SHOCK ABSORBERS WEAR OUT-usually at about 20,000 miles. And worn shocks cause excessive tire wear, rough riding, dangerous swaying and erratic braking. Thruway shock absorbers are deigned for super safety and comfort on modern superhighways, prevent bottoming and rocking, give you positive steering and sure braking. For safety's sake, if shock absorbers are more than 20,000 miles old, replace them with new Thruways today.

- RUGGED UPPER MOUNTS for assured strength and service under toughest driving conditions
- MULTI-LIP SEAL Specially compounded for full, 360 shaft wiping to keep fluid in for longer service life.
- TOUGH, HEAVY DUTY WALLS resist damage from flying stones for longer life
- 1 3/16" MICRO-SMOOTH CYLINDER mirror-like finish for perfect piston fit—prevents blow-by, reduces wear and prolongs service life.
- TRIPPLE-WELDED LOWER MOUNT additional welds provide maximum protection against mount breakage.
- COOLER OPERATION reduced stress on internal parts for longer life.

WACS

Can change a man's world

The man's world of Fort Benning took a change of pace when the Wacs first infiltrated the post on March 5, 1943. The new Wacs received a grand reception when their train pulled into the fort's depot. It was a new experience for all concerned.

"Main post personnel was settling back to normal again this week after having recovered from the initial shock of seeing women march around attired in GI khaki," was the lead to a 1943 Bayonet article.

A year later 300 members of two WAC companies observed their first anniversary as 2,000 troops of the Army Service Forces and Reception Center paraded in review before the women. They held such positions as photo lab technician, repairing parachutes, laboratory technician, expert photographer and assembling pistols.

WAC sergeants stationed here later told stories of shoveling coal for pot-bellied stoves, of catwalks from wooden barracks, rain or shine, to bath facilities, of clothing items, such as winter coats, being borrowed from the male stock and of begging shoes from the Australian Army in New Guinea because their men had smaller feet than American soldiers.

There were even stories of women's tours in France in 1944 when they witnessed dead bodies that had not been buried three months after the D-Day Beachhead. The WAC detachment there had no beds or heat and the women worked around the clock for emergency cases that constantly came in.

By May of 1944, at the peak of the war, and only one month before D Day, six WAC detachments were active at Fort Benning and by May of 1953 they had undergone five reorganization and changes in destination. Finally, on February 10, 1958, they were given the name WAC Company, U.S. Army Infantry Center.

Although they no longer serve as parachute riggers with the Airborne Department, their roles are as wide as those of the units assigned to this post.

Monday is 31st Wac anniversary

ILEANE KATZKER

Monday will mark the 31st anniversary of women's services in the Women's Army Corp.

But long before the Corps was formed women served alongside their men. They assisted in some capacity since the beginning of the Nation's armed forces.

In the Revolutionary War and after, women often went with the men on military expeditions as laundresses and nurses. They were listed on the rolls of the units as washerwives and drew rations, but no pay.

During the Civil War large numbers of women, disguised as men, enlisted in various military units - 400 in the Union armies alone.

They served in the Spanish-American War as contract nurses, so Congress created the Army Nurse Corps. They received no military rank, officer status, equal pay or benefits until 1944.

In World War I a total of 233 women were sent to France by Gen. Pershing to work as telephone operators. Despite the success of women service units, the Army did not form a women's branch.

Finally, Congress passed legislation authorizing the establishment of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps in order to free more men for combat.

"...May 14, 1942 is a date already written into the history books of tomorrow. Long established precedents of military tradition have given way to the pressing need...You are the first to serve. Never forget it". Oveta Culp Hobby, first Women's Army Corps director, spoke these words to her first officer candidate class as 100,000 women followed them into the wartime corps.

Choosing insignia for the women was a humorous problem. Oveta Culp Hobby turned down one that she insisted resembled a "Queen Bee." So designers came up with the Pallas Athene, the Greek goddess associated with an impressive variety of womanly virtues and no vices either womanly or god-like. She is the goddess of handicrafts, wise in the industries of peace, and the goddess of storms and battle who led through victory to peace and prosperity.

The new Wacs were issued uniforms that had been cut for men and shoes that hardly fit. Because of their auxiliary status, they weren't eligible for most of the service benefits that protected men and they were allowed to perform only menial clerical duties.

"The uniforms of women in the military service should be the color of mustard and designed as to conceal the female form. Preferably, the women should be unattractive and over 30 years old." These "qualifications" were recommended prior to World War II for recruiting women for military service.

In January of 1943 legislation was introduced to drop the word "Auxiliary" from its name and make the WAC a full-fledged component of the Army. This, however, established the new WAC for the duration of the war and for six months thereafter.

When the crisis was over, most of the wartime Corps disbanded. Its advocates finally prevailed when, in June of 1948, a bill was passed reading in part, "An Act to establish the Women's Army Corps in the Regular Army..."

World War II probably marked the greatest contribution by women to the Army in an official capacity. They served in all areas of the world and were allowed to fill almost 155 job positions. By the end of the war the force had increased to 150,000 women.

President Lyndon B. Johnson signed a bill in 1967 giving women in the armed forces equal opportunities to men. He desired "that we achieve an all-volunteer force — that we more fully utilize the talents of the nation's resource of women — and that greater opportunities be provided for women to serve this country."

Wacs now receive the same pay, benefits and opportunity for promotion as men. They are eligible to attend most of the Army's 280 job training schools.

Tuskegee mayor addresses course

Johnny Lawrence Ford Sr., Mayor of Tuskegee, Ala., addressed the first unit race relations instructor training course ever held at Fort Benning yesterday, May 10 at Brown Hall.

Ford, who graduated from Knoxville College in Tennessee, has attended the National Executive Institute in New Jersey and the New York School of Announcing and Speech. He also studied with the Thirteenth Street Theatre in New York City.

He was a district executive with the Boy Scouts in New York from 1965 to 1968. He was executive coordinator of the Tuskegee model cities program in 1969 and 1970.

Before his election to the office of mayor, he was state supervisor of the community relations service, United States Department of Justice, in Montgomery, Ala.

He has also been a political campaign strategist and manager for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, former Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, and the Honorable Fred D. Gray, State Representative, Alabama State Legislature.

He is a member of various civic and community organizations, including the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He helped organize the Tuskegee Area Chamber of Commerce.

Ford was also an organizer of the Tuskegee Area Home Builders Association, and the Tuskegee Institute High School National Alumni Association.

He was voted one of the "Outstanding Young Men of America, and was featured in Ebony Magazine as one of "The Nation's Most Eligible Bachelors" in 1970.

He was also featured on the "Today Show" on NBC television in 1969 and 1970, in films on the Boy Scouts and the Tuskegee model cities program. He is now married to the former Frances Baldwin Rainer, and they have one son, Johnny Lawrence Ford Jr.

The unit race relations instructor training course, taught by the race relations subcommittee, contemporary subject committee, leadership department, USAIS, began April 30. The graduation is today, May 11.

The course is open to enlisted men and officers between the ranks of E5 and major. They are trained to be race relations instructors at battalion level, and to assist brigade, may be made at the are trained at the Defense Race Relations Institute. They come from all over the U.S.

Life saving units for heart patients

Albert Little is a 65-year-old retired soldier who presently works as a salesman in Columbus, Ga.

In early September, he visited the Outpatient Clinic at Fort Benning complaining of episodes of chest pain. His physician diagnosed angina pectoris, a heart disorder, and prescribed medicine to relieve the pain should it recur. He was advised of ways that he could improve his chances for better health through diet, exercise, and not smoking.

He was also advised that if his pain became prolonged or increased in frequency, he should report immedaitely to the hospital.

In late September, Mr. Little was awakened from sleep with severe chest pain. His medicine did not relieve the pain. His wife drove him to the emergency room at Martin Army Hospital, where the physician on duty diagnosed an acute myocardial infarction (heart attack) and admitted him to the coronary care unit (CCU).

Here, he was given medicine which relieved his pain and allowed him to rest. His general condition was closely watched by specially trained nursing personnel; his heart rhythm was continually monitored by electronic equipment.

His first day in the hospital was uneventful. During the next night, however, the alarm on his rhythm monitor sounded and Sp. Mace, Lt. Hill and Lt. Martin were there. As they diagnosed ventricular tachycardia, a life threatening rapid heart rhythm, Mr. Little quickly lost consciousness. Within seconds an alarm was sounded to call nearby physicians, but before help could arrive, Mace, Hill and Martin had supported Mr. Little's breathing and heart pumping action and with drugs and electric shock converted the abnormal rhythm to the normal rhythm. The patient immediately awakened. The time from the monitor alarm to completion of the successful treatment was 96 seconds.

Mr. Little did not remember the incident. He remained in the hospital eighteen additional days and was discharged to home without further trouble. There, he convalesced another six weeks after which he returned to half time work. Several weeks later he was working full-time without restrictions.

Mr. Little's name is fictitious but the story is true and not unusual. He illustrates one of the life saving features of the coronary care unit.

How are the skills you received by the Army being used in your present duty?

What are you doing?

Sp4 Randall T. Jennings
HHC 197th Brigade

I was trained as an Infantry soldier (11B). The course took 9 weeks. When I arrived here (71B) Personnel specialists were needed so I was OJT into the slot. I've never worked in the field of 11B. I think people should be trained for a special job and then be put in that field. It's a lot of undo hassle that could be avoided if the slot that you were trained for was there after you finished your schooling.

SSG. Victor Anderson
3rd Bn. 7th Inf.

I was first trained as an 11B. It was 9 weeks of training of which I was working my MOS for 13 months. I was asked to be a clerk and OJT into the slot. I was eventually sent to Morning report school after receiving the job.

Pvt. Ronald W. Taylor
Co. A 43rd Engineer

I was trained by the Army in the field of welding. The school was very good in teaching the basics but it needs more practical experience so that when I arrived here I wouldn't have had to learn as much as I did. I am working in my MOS and I enjoy doing my work.

Pvt. Eddie Langlois
Co. D Headquarters
Command USAIC

I was trained 8 weeks to be a clerk typist which was a pretty good course but when I arrived here they needed keypunch operators and I met the qualifications so I was OJT into the job. I enjoy my job.

Sp4 Kenneth Chelette
34th Med. Co.

My Army course dealt in medical supplies, paperwork and knowledge of the medical system. I had formerly worked in the supply field before enlisting in the Army but I hadn't any knowledge in the medical aspects of the job. Now with the schooling under my belt I'm able to handle the medical side of my job.

Rationing danger not likely on post

BY MARTHA EVANS

Fort Benning is in no immediate danger of a fuel shortage at its six service stations like the shortage anticipated at Fort Gordon in Augusta the general manager of the post exchange said Saturday.

Fort Benning is served by the Standard Oil Co., not Gulf Oil Corp., which recently cancelled its contract at Fort Gordon, Gilbert J. O'Brien explained.

The Fort Gordon post exchange said Saturday it is only a matter of days before its fuel supply is depleted unless negotiations to obtain a new supply are successful.

"At the present time, I don't see any problem," said O'Brien, although he conceded Standard Oil could legally cancel its contract at any time. The present contract is in effect for another year.

Gulf and other major distributors have discontinued contracts at a higher price, O'Brien explained.

The fuel contracts are awarded on a bid basis through exchange headquarters at Dallas.

What happens at Fort Benning will depend on how serious the fuel supply problem gets in the future, said O'Brien. He does predict military personnel will have to pay more for gasoline purchased on base since the base prices rise or fall in concert with service stations in Columbus.

Standard Oil will decide whether exchange stations rate priority status in the scramble for a steady fuel supply, said O'Brien.

He termed the priority question "a very complex problem."

"We're going to get gasoline from someplace to take care of military personnel even if we have to shift allocations from one place to another to do it," he concluded.

Job satisfaction

Doing what you like is a must for happiness

Job satisfaction, a goal of every individual. The opportunity to be able to express him or herself in day to day work, being with people who have the same outlook, commemesurate with their abilities and capabilities. To sum it up, doing what you like, and liking what you do. The Army offers "Job Satisfacton" through its repertoire of wide ranging skills through formal schools on the job training, overseas area, or camp post or station of choice, exotic courses available such as nuclear power plant operator, explosive ordinance disposal, automatic data processing equipment repair. In addition, also available are construction, and earth moving equipment schools, etc.

Overseas areas, offer a multitude of sports and recreation activities. Sightseeing opportunities and historical places abound from the beautifully frigid north to the sunny tropical islands. Mountains to the seashore, geography and history lessons unfold daily as you work and play.

Anyone can choose from over a thousand job specialities with varying descriptions and areas of rssponsibility. All of this and more is available through the Army Reenlistment Program.

The first step is contacting the Unit Reenlistment NCO and finding what is available.

The individual must meet all qualifications, both mentally and physically.

QUALIFICATIONS

1. Aptitude area scores
2. MOS qualified either by MOS Test Score or Reenlistment Qualification Test (RQT) which is an MOS test but is used only for the purposes of of reenlistment.
3. Educational requirements.
4. Time in service-for first term personnel-21 months completed is the minimum requirement.

For female personnel parents permission may be required.

The next step is the major command career counselor.

"A "Request for Assignment" (RECAP) form is filled out on the individual and Department of the Army in the Pentagon is contacted by phone. The request approved, appointments are made at Finance and Central Reenlistment Processing. The individual is sent to Finance and then for Reenlistment Processing. On the appointed day, personnel reenlisting sign the Enlistment Contract (DD Form 4) and other papers for the assignment. School, overseas, ramp, post, station of choice or present duty assignment. Leaves are also coordinated so as not to conflict with assignment orders. All leaves are chargable against accrued leave time.

Simply attending the school is not sufficient for award of an MOS. Successful completion and graduation are required. Personnel failing to complete the course, or graduate, are assigned in accordance with the requirements of Department of the Army. After graduation from school, assignments in the newly acquired MOS, may be either in CONUS or at an overseas duty station.

Personnel in an OJT status are also expected to be able to perform satisfactorily prior to being awarded an MOS. Those individuals are normally kept within the units in which training was given.

"Now, more so than ever before, quality and not quantity is the Army's goal."

"Modern technology requires that only the best qualified and technically proficient soldier be retained," says MSG Joseph A. Dailey, supervisor, USAIC Reenlistment Office.

"For the young soldier, the opportuntities for education and advancement are available, however, the individuals must apply themselves through initiative and the desire to succeed," according to SSG E. B. Davidson, Career Counselor, USAIC Reenlistment Office, SSgt. Davidson is on the Department of the Army E-7 promotion list, presently attending Columbus College during off duty hours.

EM Promotions

EES is designed to recognize leadership potential

By BILL BROWNELL
"PRIME CUT"

Since promotions, pro pay and reenlistment are foremost in the minds of all soldiers, how does the Enlisted Evaluation System (EES) work?

"Promotions are not made to reward the soldier for jobs well-done, but to recognize the outstanding individual possessing great leadership potential or increased ability in his chosen field," said Capt. James Davies, personnel officer and commander of the 524th Personnel Services Company. "The man who is a great clerk typist (E-4) may make a terrible NCO. What we're after is a 'prime cut,' the cream of the crop."

THREE PROMOTION SYSTEMS

There are presently three systems which comprise the enlisted promotion system. The local unit promotion system for privates E-2 through specialists four is based on accelerated promotion for those who demonstrate drive and merit in their early months of service.

The soldier eligible for promotion in grades E-5 and E-6 is scrutinized both at the unit level and centrally at DA. The local unit commander recommends the soldier for promotion. He must then appear before a local promotion board. The results are forwarded to DA where scores belonging to men from all over the globe are consolidated and cut-off scores announced.

The scores are based on projected worldwide needs and fluctuate from month to month. The law of supply and demand applies. Shortages in a particular MOS cause cut-off scores to drop; an excess tightens promotions.

The centralized promotion system pertains to those soldiers seeking senior NCO status (E-7 through E-9). Controlled by DA, boards are formed to review personnel files. Such things as performance, a variety of experience, military and civilian education, awards and decorations, and a sound physical condition are considered.

WHAT IS EES?

EES applies to soldiers in grade E-3 or higher who have at least two years active service or have completed 18 months of continuous active duty with a total commitment of four or more years.

The system measures a soldier's relative Military Occupational Speciality (MOS) competence on a worldwide basis. Job proficiency, award of pro pay, promotion, reenlistment eligibility, reclassification and retention, and selection for military and civilian schooling are determined by the data.

Written tests, enlisted efficiency reports (EER) and performance tests determine the level of a soldier's competence.

Written tests normally contain 125 questions involving job situations or problems. The solutions draws from a soldier's MOS knowledge bank rather than calling for memorized phrases from a field manual or regulation.

The EER is the on-the-job evaluation completed by a soldier's supervisor. The soldier is compared with other soldiers in the same grade and level of experience. Personal characteristics are weighed, but more importantly, potential is a major promotion consideration.

There are some skills like clerk typist or bandsman which can be easily tested. The performance test measures this proficiency by requiring the soldier to demonstrate his ability by "doing." This test is given in addion to the written test.

STUDY GUIDES AVAILABLE

General knowledge, experience, and refresher study are the best guarantees of success in the written evaluation test. The man who knows only those job functions that are pertinent to his present assignment will probably not do well on the written test. Test questions are devised based on the duties and equipment related to all or most assignments in that MOS code.

The individual soldier should develop a year-around study program to increase his MOS proficiency. Instead of reading novels and comic books during his spare time on the job, the soldier should take the mature approach and review study materials.

Since evaluation test dates are announced five months in advance, every soldier has plenty of time to procure study guides and reference materials. These materials can be found in several places at Fort Benning.

The MOS Library, scheduled to open soon, will contain every document and reference needed to study for a MOS test. It is located in Bldg. 1369.

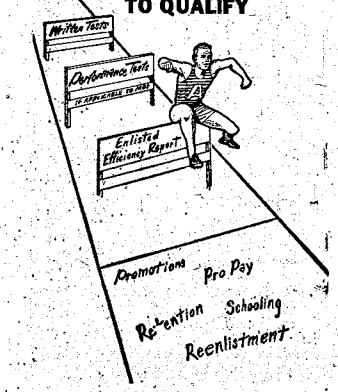
The Education Center, located in Bldg. 35, currently has lists of all study materials. Most of the major commands also have references from which the soldier can study. If materials are not available, the soldier should bring this fact to the attention of the first sergeant immediately.

The Individual Learning Center located in Infantry Hall has study materials covering 11B (Light Weapons Infantry) MOS.

Brig. Gen. Willard Latham served as president of DA Qualitative Management Selection Board earlier this year. He observed that many NCO's do not take MOS tests, or apparently do not bother to prepare for the tests. Maybe these individuals haven't bothered to study and are afraid of failing and don't show for the test. Whatever their reasons, they are hurting themselves.

"The foremost objective of selection boards is simple," continued Gen. Latham, "Look at the 'whole' man, then select those who show promise to attack new responsibility with professionalism and integrity."

SCORING



EER scores are filed in a computer bank and used to determine the individual's Enlisted Efficiency Report Weighted Average (EERWA). This average will be used later in development of the MOS evaluation score. The EERWA is computed by combining the soldier's average EER score with the score of his latest EER. The first EER which an individual receives comprises the entire EERWA regardless of the period which it covers.

SOLDIER'S RESPONSIBILITY

"All NCO's should be encouraged to review their files periodically to insure they are up to date and complete. For example, many lack pictures as required by regulation," Gen. Latham elaborated. "These files are critical in selection boards and therefore important enough for the individuals personal attention."

The bennies derived from the EES provide the Army greater flexibility and versatility in the assignment and use of you, the enlisted soldier. It also identifies higher quality soldiers and encourages high personal goals for future improvement. It behooves you to check your records to insure that you get that fair shake and become a "prime cut."

TO QUALIFY

Reporting in

'18th' helps eliminate the wait

Anyone who has in-processed through 18th Replacement Detachment knows that there are many procedures to the routine. But behind the scenes there is an operation working as efficiently as time allows.

A man signs in and receives his orientation. This orientation includes a film, a description of what the man can expect during processing, a man from family housing offering his services and a career counselor that just offers his assistance for the future.

Then Sgt. William D. Ogle of the Classification and Assignment section asks if anyone would like to be a "firefighter, clerk typist or work in race relations." About the only time a man has any choice in his job placement is when these shortages are available and the man qualifies. A man has already chosen his job when he signed up in his MOS. "It goes mainly by the books. A man has little say where he goes," Sgt. Ogle said.

After the initial orientation, some men are interviewed for immediate placement. The others, a majority of them, must wait for C and A to call Bldg. 35 with the man's qualifications, who calls a major command for approval of the placement individual is interviewed as to the correctness of his records," says CWO3 and the chain reaction goes back up the line. People in Bldg. 35 make the assignments. The man is sent on an interview and has to be accepted.

The monthly 260 Report contains the number of people assigned in each grade of MOS and how many each unit is authorized. This usually determines where a man will be sent.

The men are then sent to finance and personnel. "In the Records Processing section we start with the premise that nothing in their file is correct. (form 20, 201 file, health and dental records). B. L. Ponsler, Chief of Record Processing stated, "Our primary mission is to meet them, greet them, and process them."

In-processing could take hours or days. According to CWO3 Ponsler, about 2,700 people have in-processed so far this year. They average about 700 people a month. He says that the present process has greatly improved from previous years because two years ago it may have taken anywhere from 10 days to two weeks.

"People will make mistakes and someone may have to wait half a day because of it, but the mistakes are caught," says Sgt. John W. Bennett, in charge of sign-outs to units at 18th Replacement Detachment.

Men in the TV room wait for orders to be cut. Some wait hours and many wait days. This is the last thing a man must wait for at 18th Replacement Detachment and it is one aspect of in-processing that can't be helped.

"This is probably the fastest place that I've ever processed," said Sp4 Gary L. Shaffer, a crane-helicopter flight engineer who figured out that he had spent a total of 17 hours in the TV room. "Unlike most of these guys waiting here, I called and made sure there was an open slot in my job."

CWO3 Ponsler called it a "chain reaction" and that's what it is. He calls his operation efficient and admitted, "when no mistakes are made, it indicates to me that people aren't doing anything."

Seminars

931st rap session encourages black-white discussion

The young soldier could stand it no longer. Rising to his feet, he blurted out, "Man, I'm a little tired of hearing all this talk about prejudice. You all seem to think that all whites are prejudiced. Well, I'll tell you right now that I'm not. Man, some of my best friends are black." His statement brought a burst of outraged comments from the black soldiers present. "Man, you're the worst kind," said one black G.I. "You'll never understand."

A riot in the making? Hardly. That exchange was part of a seminar held in the 931st Engineer Group to discuss the problem of race relations and is, perhaps, one way of avoiding a riot. The seminars are informal discussions where soldiers of different ethnic groups are given the opportunity to tell, in their own words, of the problems they face in their efforts to communicate with their fellow men. At Company level, they are held once each month, at battalion level twice monthly and at the Group level, once per quarter.

The seminars are aimed at education, not in the narrow sense of the learning by rote of a set of facts, but in the wider sense of allowing people to learn about and from each other, through the medium of personal contact. The men taking part are, at the same time, students and teachers as they exchange ideas, an exchange which, though sometimes a little heated, has been recognized by many as being one of the best approaches to the problem and one which has been described as "perhaps a model" for the civilian community to work by in their attempts at solving similar problems.

The public media have helped. Shows like "All in the Family" have helped to bring the problem out into the open, but at the same time, perhaps Archie Bunker did a disservice to the cause of race relations by convincing many that racial prejudice is the exclusive province of a small group of extremists. In reality, the minority is of no great importance. This country is a democracy and the power is in the hands of the majority. The black man is not worried by, or afraid of a few extremists. What he is demanding is the respect of his equals, the ordinary everyday joes who work side by side with him.

But the sad fact is that many of the old concepts are still around. In the eyes of far too many people, all blacks still shuffle, Jews are miserly, Mexicans lazy, whites cannot dance and all these stereotypes are used as the basis for condemning entire ethnic groups. "Fear and a lack of understanding are the two main evils facing us today," explained SFC Hubert L. Hughes, Race Relations moderator for the 931st Engineer Group.

The big question is whether the approach really works. No one expects that a miraculous change will occur overnight but many soldiers, both black and white, believe that the seminars are a waste of time. Sp5 Albert Coakley of HHC, 931st Engineer Group remarked that "the purpose of the seminars is supposed to be the discussion of problems. That's no good unless some action is taken to correct the wrongs that are exposed. Well, nothing was done to correct the problems brought up in the last seminar. Now that's what I call a waste of time."

Yet it is impossible to attend one of these seminars and not learn something. For many soldiers, this is the main objective of the seminars. Sgt. John Kovar of the 988th MP Company, believes that "prejudice is the result of ignorance and a bigot is not going to change overnight simply because somebody tells him to. What is needed is a re-education of the individual. This is the correct proproach and my only regret is that similar programs are not started sooner, with the kids in our schools."

The seminars will not bring an overnight solution, that is clear. But as long as men continue to learn about their fellow men from them, they represent an invaluable means of communication and, as such, provide hope for the future. There can be no doubt that as long as men continue to work together, the problem will sooner or later be solved.

Maj. Gilbert fires for perfection

Blasting 100 birds in consecutive order as they catapulted from the high and low houses, Maj. Kenneth Gilbert, Laurel, Miss., and the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit, maintained his first day lead and seized the championship of the skeet event in the opening round of the 13th Annual Interservice International Shooting Championships here April 29.

Gilbert, firing flawless skeet, posted four perfect rounds of 25 pigeons each to bring his two day total to 198 and possession of the prestigious serviceman's title. His score tied the Interservice record which was set by Capt. James Whitaker, a companion shooter, last year.

Whitaker of Eunice, N. Mex., finished the 200 bird tourney at 193 this year, deadlocked for runner-up honors with Air Force Senior MSgt. Otis Rector, Coushatta, La., and Lackland AFB, Tex. In the shoot-off, Rector topped Whitaker by one bird to capture the second place trophy.

Gilbert lost only two pigeon during the first two rounds. From that point on, he overcame the tournament pressure and settled down to firing his perfect shot pattern, which shattered the small clay discs as they hurtled from the houses.

In the team competition, a U.S. Army four man squad led by Gilbert grabbed the top prize with their composite score of 572 of a possible 600 while a civilian team garnered 544 for runner up honors. A Rector led Air Force team gained the third place spot.

Supporting Gilbert on the Army team was Whitaker, Sp5 Louis Sembrowich and PFC David Smith. The team was fielded by the U.S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit.

Members of the high firing civilian squad included Elwood Hunsberger, Philadelphia, Penn., Henry Gasparri, Exton, Penna., Don Profitt, Alexander, Va., and Dave Miller, Pittsfield, Mass.

Dave Miller also claimed the top honors in the civilian category with his two day aggregate of 190 pigeons while the steady shooting of Evelyn Volkringer, Pompano Beach, Fla., took the high ladies laurels.

A total of 38 mixed service and civilian competitors vied for the coveted skeet crown in the annual interservice tourney. The matches are hosted by the U.S. Army Infantry Center and sponsored by the Continental Army Command.

Conducted under International Shooting Union (ISU) rules, the matches are sanctioned by the National Rifle Association.

Garden planting symposium

The Fort Benning Environmental Workshop, sponsored by the Officers Wives Club, is holding a gardening symposium next Wednesday, at 8 p.m. The symposium will take place in the second-floor conference room at Martin Army Hospital.

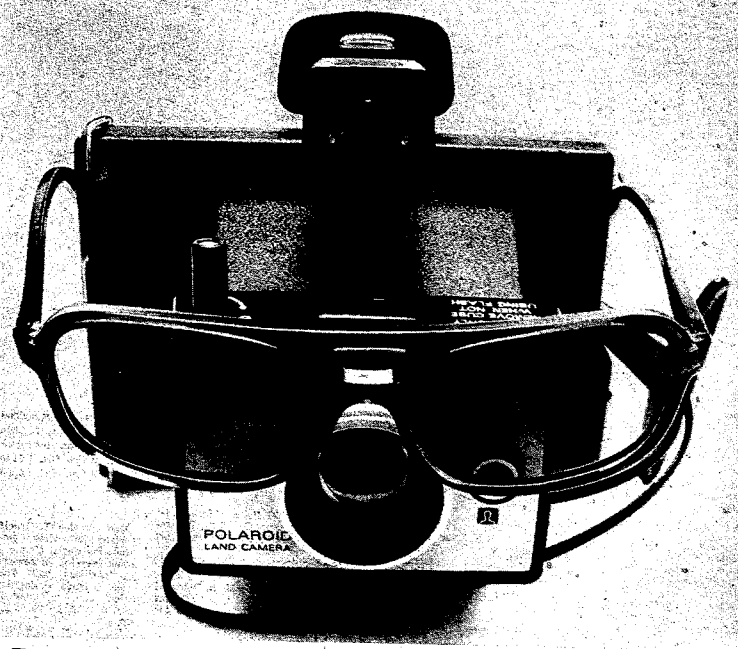
A movie from Indiana University entitled "The Chain of Life" will be shown. This film deals with the importance of using biological rather than chemical pest controls in gardening.

A panel of gardening experts, including Mrs. Neal Womack from a local nursery and Mrs. Olivia Talley, who writes the gardening column in the Ledger-Enquirer, will be at the symposium to answer questions about gardening.

There is no admission charge for the symposium, and the public is invited to attend. Refreshments will be served afterward, and gardening buffs from the area are welcome to come and exchange gardening tips.

Looking for more plays

The Fort Benning Dramatizers, while finishing up the performances of their present show, "The Cave Dwellers," are looking for people to submit plays for the next production at the Fort Benning Playhouse.



The only requirements for submitting a play are that the person submitting direct the play or have someone who is willing to direct the play at the time of submission, also the person must have a copy of the play for the Board of Directors to read.

Deadline for submissions is May 21. Persons interested in submitting a play may obtain further information by coming to the Playhouse, Bldg. 1237, on Ingersoll behind the Infantry Museum, or by calling 545-2932 or 545-5057.

Announcement of the play selected will be made at the Dramatizers meeting at 7:30 p.m. on May 28, at the Playhouse.

Sergeant First Class Charles Brown, CSC, 1st Bn (M), 58th Infantry, was promoted to E-7 on 17 April 1973 during the weekly Battalion formation.

Napoleon's worst mistake wasn't Waterloo. It was selling the entire Mississippi Valley for 3¢ per acre.

The Louisiana Territory was 825,000 square miles of land stretching from New Orleans to the Canadian border. Napoleon sold this land to the United States for only $16 million after holding it less than two years.

It takes time to benefit from the appreciation potential of land. People often don't plan to keep their property long enough to realize its potential benefits.

Time is one of the four factors making up a "Formula for Making Wise Land Purchases" found in our new booklet, "What You Should Know Before You Buy Land." You'll also find answers to the questions you'll be asking yourself as a prospective landowner. Such as, "Can I afford to buy land?" and "What are my objectives?" The booklet goes on to describe the various classifications of land, the stages of land development, and good development practices. And we supply you with a handy "Land Buyer's Checklist" of the questions you should ask and the reports you should read prior to purchasing any land.

The one thing you won't find in our booklet is a commercial for Horizon Corporation or the land we own. Because we're not trying to sell anything with this booklet. Our aim is to make potential landbuyers more knowledgeable about how, when, where and what to buy. It's to your advantage to know all the facts. And, frankly, it's to our advantage too. Because the more you know about land, the more you'll appreciate what Horizon Corporation has to offer.

If you would like one or more copies sent to you, your friends, or civic and business groups, please fill out and mail the coupon. Or for even faster action, call the phone number listed below.

Upcoming production should appeal to all

TAKE HER, SHE'S MINE, the upcoming production of the Springer Theatre Company, should appeal to the young as well as their conservative parents.

Although the play made its first appearance on Broadway on December 21, 1961, and continued for a total of 408 performances, the story is as timely as last night's fracas with your daughter, or your parents, as the case may be, over dating privileges.

Jim Way is directing his second show for the Springer. No stranger to Broadway, Way has a pretty impressive list of credits himself. He has directed Vincent Price, Tony Randall, Robert Cummings, George C, Scott and Jerry Stiller (of Stiller and Meara), and the list goes on.

It will indeed be interesting to see how Director Way handles the dating habits of young Americans, a session of folk music with guitar accompaniment in a college dorm, a class in abstruse modern poetry as well as the sudden poignant moments that parents know so well.

I'm a civilian employe and would like to know if something happened to me, who would receive my death benefits? J.L.S.

Payments of life and accidental death benefits under the Federal Employes Group Life Insurance Program are made in the following order of precedence: to the beneficiary designated by you, to your widow or widower, to your child or children, to your parents or their survivor, to the executor or administrator of your estate or to your other next of kin entitled under the laws of your residence at the time of your death.

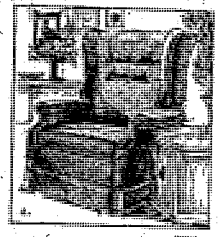
Also, if you and your husband or wife are separated but not divorced (regardless of the length of separation) he or she can claim payment of your benefits.

A friend of mine claims he was fishing out at Kings Pond and got a DR for littering. He said the litter was there before he started fishing. Can this be true?

Your friend no doubt failed to heed the provisions of paragraph 26 of the USAIC Regulation concerning Hunting and Fishing. This paragraph reads LITTERING: Fishing within 25 feet of litter is unauthorized and will be in violation of this regulation. Persons desiring to fish at a specific location will insure that the area is properly policed prior to the start of fishing. Litter within a 25-foot distance of a the individual fishing will be prime facia evidence of violation of this regulation.

The fishing license of the individual may be suspended for 30 days for the first violation and revoked for the second violation.

How much will the government pay for transport of a mobile home on permanent change of station.



The government reimburses the soldier in the amount of $.74 per mile on mobile home shipments. This is seldom enough to cover the actual cost of moving a mobile home. A typical case was that of a soldier who recently shipped a 12'x60' mobile home from Fort Benning to Springfield, Mass. The distance was computed as 1,082m iles. It was also computed that the soldier had to pay more than $300 in excess of the amount allowed for the shipment.

Raising our children with love and understanding is the best gift we can give our mothers.
HAPPY MOTHER'S DAY.

'What is a mother?'

A mother can be almost any size or any age but she won't admit to anything over thirty
A mother has soft hands and smells good
A mother likes new dresses, music,
A clean house, her children's kisses, an automatic washer and Daddy
A mother doesn't like having her children sick,
Muddy feet, temper tantrums, loud noise, or bad report cards
A mother can bake good cakes and pies but Likes to see her children eat vegetables
A mother can read a thermometer (much to the amazement of daddy)
And like magic, can kiss a hurt away
A mother can stuff a fat baby into a snowsuit in seconds
and kiss sad little faces and make them smile
A mother is underpaid, has long hours and gets very little rest
She worries too much about her children but she says
She doesn't mind at all
And no matter how old her children are, she still thinks of
Them as her little babies
She is the guardian angel of the family, the queen, the tender hand of love
A mother is the best friend anyone ever has.
A mother is love.

The cost for the two hour lesson is $5 and the cost will include a pound of soap. Call Mrs. James Miller at 323-2505 for more information or to sign up for this fun session.

School of dance

The Officers' Wives' Club School of Dance will give a dance recital on Fri., May 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Dexter Elementary School. The young dancers will demonstrate the progress they have made in their studies by performing short dances. Also several members from the Springer Ballet will perform dances from the "Nutcracker". Lead dancer from the Springer is Miss Sandra Ortiz, who is also assistant instructor with the OWC School of Dance. Parents and friends are invited.

The Officers' Wives' Club announces plans for its luau, to be held May 23. The festivities will begin at 11:00 a.m., with a social hour by the pool-patio at the Supper Club. A buffet lunch featuring tropical food will be served on the Supper Club terrace at noon.

The menu includes Kon-Tiki Beef, Chicken Polynesian, Shrimp Egg Rolls, Malaki Rice, Mai Ki Salad, Green Peas with Water Chestnuts and Coconut Rice Pudding.

Summer fashions from Matthews on Wynnton will be modeled by Mrs. John F. Dowling, Mrs. James T. Hill, Mrs. Victor E. Arndt, Mrs. Greg P. Walls, Mrs. Alvin L. Hennigan. Mrs. Richard K. Rowe will accompany on the piano.

Hostesses for the Luau are the ladies of the Ranger Department.

Reservations are due by noon on May 17 and can be made by calling Dee Blake - 545-3608, Barbara O'Connell - 687-7897, or Diane Osborne - 545-1548. Cost for the Luncheon is $3.50.

Who, What, When, Where with Women

By JUDY JAKUBOWSKI
Airborne Wives

April 18 found the Airborne Wives meeting at the home of Mrs. Gregg P. Walls for their monthly get-together. Mrs. James C. Avery and Mrs. James S. Kenady were co-hostesses.

Mrs. Robert B. Tully greeted newcomer, Mrs. William E. Jones, and presented her with a green plant.

Six ladies volunteered to serve at the Hospital Coffee Call on the morning of May 23, from 9:15 to 11:30. They are Mrs. James E. Lewis, Mrs. Kenady, Mrs. Ferdinand E. Peche, Mrs. Mark Penzillo Jr., Mrs. Avery and Mrs. Charles F. Manning. In addition, Mrs. Walls, Mrs. Jack C. Helms, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. George E. Burke, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Michael R. Barnes, volunteered to bake cookies and serve coffee for the Ward Party on May 15 from 1:15 to 3 p.m.

Discussion about the next coffee led to a suggestion that the ladies have lunch and a tour of Callaway Gardens. Mrs. Helms will be contacting the ladies by phone regarding these tentative plans.

Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Tully volunteered to work at the Thrift Shop on Thurs., May 3.

USAIS
C and TD

The ladies of C and TD put it all together on April 18 amid the remodeling of the OWC Lounge. Co-hostesses, Madames Robert Siegrist, Strube Jackson, John Korkonen, were thanked for getting this large, newly organized group together to sort out their places in this puzzling new organization.

Special guests were Mrs. Richardson (wife of Gen. Richardson), Mrs. Gay Morgan, Mrs. Treulinger, Mrs. Joy McDonald, Mrs. A. F. E. H. Robertson, and Mrs. Jean Salvan.

The next joint meeting of the wives will be in August.

197th Inf. Bde.
3rd Bn. 7th Inf.

The officers and ladies of the 3rd Bn. 7th Inf. held a Hail and Farewell party on April 28 at the Sand Hill Golf Course Snack Bar, Fort Benning. Special guests at the event were Commanding Officer of the 197th Inf. Bde., Col. William B. Steele and his wife.

Lt. Col. Charles O. Arnecke Jr., Battalion Commander, extended farewells to 1st Lt. and Mrs. Robert F. Banning and 1st Lt. and Mrs. John A. Mandeville. Warmly welcomed to the Battalion were 1st Lt. and Mrs. Arthur C. Kellun, 2nd Lt. and Mrs. George H. Prankl, 2nd Lt. Joe T. Hatfield Jr., 1st Lt. James L. Lindeman, and CW3 and Mrs. Irwin L. Davis.

Hosting the event were Capt. and Mrs. William A. Richards and 1st Lt. Robert M. Fabio of HHC.

Post lifesaving unit could save your heart deaths in the United States today. About eight years ago researchers discovered that many deaths occurring after heart attacks resulted from abnormalities of the heart rhythm. These abnormal rhythms occur in greatest frequency during the first few days after a heart attack.

If properly trained personnel and necessary equipment are available the abnormal rhythms can often be prevented and most of the time successfully treated. Thus, coronary units were conceived and have in fact saved many lives.

Martin Army Hospital has had some specialized equipment available for several years. In May 1971, under the direction of one of the cardiologists assigned to the hospital, a well planned seven bed coronary care unit opened.

The unit components include physicians, specially trained nursing personnel, ancillary personnel and equipment. Some of the nurses were trained in courses at institutions such as Emory University. Most of the personnel have completed an eighty hour course in coronary care nursing given by physicians at Martin Army Hospital.

A continuing education program is held weekly under the supervision of the physician director of the coronary care unit. The nursing personnel become proficient in emergency diagnosis and treatment and also work closely with physicians in less urgent diagnostic and management problems.

All physicians caring for patients on the coronary care unit are fully trained in the specialty of internal medicine. Many have had additional sub-specialty training. Another feature in the care of heart attack victims is to educate the patient for a return to a happy and productive life. This was begun on the coronary care unit with physicians, nurses and ancillary service personnel, such as occupational therapy and dietetics, participating.

The specialized equipment on the coronary care unit includes monitors of heart rhythm which can be viewed in the patient's room and at the central panel in the centrally located nurses station. When abnormal rhythms occur, the alarm automatically sounds and the subsequent heart rhythm is continuously recorded on paper for a permanent record. In addition, rhythms are recorded on magnetic tape continuously so that events preceding the alarm can be studied.

The coronary care unit has been a success in the treatment of many patients with rhythm disturbances and in providing a secure setting for convalescence from heart attacks. Also, better methods of care and record keeping are continually being sought and implemented.

The Fort Benning community can rest assured that a well equipped unit staffed by well trained and enthusiastic physicians and nursing personnel is available to provide them with excellent care should a cardiac emergency occur.

53rd Co. TSB top chop

The top dining facility award for all of Fort Benning for March was presented to the 53d Co., 5th Stu. Bn., TSB dining facility on April 26.

Colonel Bruce H. Fraser, Assistant Commander of Fort Benning presented the award to SFC Edward James. Also in attendance were Colonel Allen M. Goodson, TSB Commander, Colonel Virgil M. Bishop, National Guard Liaison Officer, and Colonel Gordon M. Hunt, 5th Bn. Commander.

The award is presented to the dining facility on Fort Benning considered the best after an inspection by the Post Food Service. 53d Co. also won the best dining facility award in TSB for February.

53d Co. is a nine-week Officer Candidate School course to commission army reserve officers.

Enlisted assignments

What happens to you when you report to Fort Benning? Where do you go?

BY CHARLES BRICKMAN

What happens to an enlisted man when he reports to Ft. Benning? Where does he go? How is he assigned to a job?

When a man comes to Ft. Benning he reports to the 18th Replacement Detachment. There they take his records, check his MOS, and enlisted options, and whether he is a Unit of Choice Enlistee.

If the man coming in has enlisted for the 931st Engineer Group the 18th Replacement will call Sergeant First Class Benjamin F. Britton of the 524th Personnel Service Company.

SFC Britton is the man who makes assignments. He assigns the man to unit based on his MOS and whatever options he might have. Also entering into the picture is the authorized and actual overall strength of the unit.

The 18th Replacement will call in the man's MOS and Grade to 524th Pers. Svc. Co. and it is recorded there. Then his Unit of Assignment is chosen by MOS, Grade, and Authorized Strength Chart. The 524th Personnel Service Company then calls in his orders to the 18th Replacement and they cut the orders and assign the man to his new unit.

When a man arrives at his unit there is already a job for him in his MOS but if there is no job for him then the Company Commander will try and place him where he is needed.

If there is a surplus of men in his MOS in the Company, then he will be given a job in his secondary MOS if he has one.

When asked about the possibility of there being no place for a man in the company, First Sergeant Burke W. Murphy of HHC, 931st stated, "Usually the man is slotted when he comes in the Company and it is very seldom that there is no place for a man. If he has a secondary MOS we will use him in it, but the Company Commander can place a man somewhere else if there is no place for him. We try to do what is best for the man if we possibly can."

According to SFC Britton and First Sergeant Murphy, a man can work out of his MOS if the job he is assigned to is necessary to the Unit. A man who is under the Unit of Choice option however must work in his MOS.

Private First Class Jerome Duncan is one example of this. "I enlisted for an electronics school with an assignment to the 931st Engineer Group under the Unit of Choice program. After graduating from radio repair school I was assigned to the Group Signal Office as a field radio mechanic, which is my MOS".

What can a man in the 931st do if he is worked out of his MOS? He first submits paper work through the orderly room of his Company. He requests an on Post re-assignment. If he is being worked out of his MOS the paper work will go through the S-1 section of his unit.

After the paperwork has been completed at his unit and it has been sent back to the 524th Personnel, Detachment he is re-assigned, somewhere else in the Group, in his MOS.

If he wants to change his MOS he will go through the same procedures. When trying to change an MOS however a man can only change to one in which there is a shortage of manpower. If there is a shortage in his MOS he will not be able to change.

When a man requests an on Post re-assignment his chances depend on the Units authorized strength, his grade, and MOS.

If a man is dissatisfied and has a very valid reason for requesting a change of assignment his Commander may approve a change.

It is also possible for a soldier to trade assignments with someone from another post.

In this type of situation one man must initiate the action with the consent of the other party.

Both men must make written statements which say that they will bear their own expenses involved in changing assignments. Also that they understand they are still available for world assignment, lastly they can only change assignments which are in the continental United States.

After all this othr paper work the Commanders of the men involved must approve the change of assignments. This kind of assignment change can only take place between parties with the same MOS.

Enlisted Management in the 197th

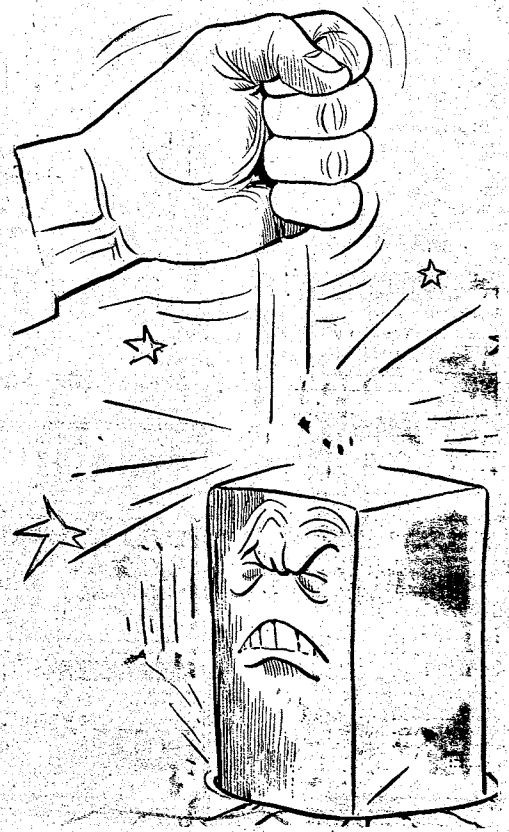
A survey of enlisted men of various ranks in the 197th Infantry Brigade reflects differing opinions concerning separate aspects of the enlisted management system in today's Army.

SFC Johnny W. Rogers, first sergeant of Batt. C, 2nd Bn., 10th F.A., remarked "Having been in the Army for about 20 years, I've noticed an improvement in enlisted management. Soldiers are now told where they stand as far as what the Army knows about them. He (the soldier) is told what is expected of him and what he can do to improve himself."

SSgt. Ralph B. Wood, assistant dining facility manager, HHC, 197th Infantry Brigade, thinks "The Army needs more management. Some of the standards now are too lax. We need tighter controls. Without them, management can't operate properly."

"I think the system could be improved greatly," said Sgt. Larry D. Pence, personnel services NCO of HHC, 197th Infantry Brigade. Pence contends, "Not all NCOs are trained well enough in their duties and responsibilities as NCOs. In the future, this lack of training will hurt the Army if these men become senior NCOs." He added, "I think all NCOs should be required to attend the NCO academy.

1st Sgt. Curtis L. Chronister, Cbt. Spt. Co., 3rd Bn., 7th Inf. (Cottonbalers), believes that deficiencies in the current enlisted management system can be corrected through the Management Practices in TOE units (MAPTOE) program currently being taught at Fort Benning. "MAPTOE can save a lot of time and problems by teaching proper work distribution. First line managers will assume their proper roles under this program. These are the men who assign the work and, by doing it right, they can keep the work load balanced."



As one who has been under the management, instead of part of it, PFC Angel B. Rodriguez judges enlisted management according to its effect on him. "I haven't had any serious complaints," said Rodriguez, a unit-of-choice enlistee who was trained as a radar repairman and is now assigned to the anti-tank section, Combat Support Company, 3-7th Infantry.

"The chain of command has worked for me," said Rodriguez. "They are the ones who have been there when I needed assistance. If one couldn't help I went to the next and higher until my problem was solved."

Sgt. James Hill is a squad leader in Cbt. Spt. Co., 3-7th Infantry. A Vietnam veteran, Hill has seen and experienced management in a number of units. "I think the effectiveness of enlisted management varies with different units. As a squad leader, I perform differently from others in the same job. It depends on the individual working in the position."

Another Vietnam veteran is squad leader Sgt. Willie G. Wells, also of the Combat Support Company, 3-7th Infantry. "I don't think most persons in leadership postions are tactful enough today," contends Wells. "They (leaders-managers) should try to get their men to do their jobs without having to force them." Wells offered his own formula, "My men either work with me or for me. I prefer that they work with me."

Sgt. Quinton Brown, also a squad leader in Cbt. Spt. Co., 3-7th Infantry said, "I am satisfied with my own management system. I think the whole thing could be improved if each manager would treat his men as individuals."

Statistics

A profile of the U.S. Serviceman . . . Who is he?

The following is a profile of the U.S. Serviceman and is followed by a profile of young American citizens. The data used in the two issues is based on "Evaluation Staff Report 72-5: Updated Profile of U.S. Servicemen," DoD, 24 May 1972. The information was prepared by: Plans and Operations Branch, Third U.S. Army Information Office, Fort McPherson, Ga. June 1972.

A PROFILE OF THE U.S. SERVICEMAN . . . Who he is (as of April 1972 unless otherwise specified).

He is one of 2,519,100 servicemen in the U.S. Armed Forces.

If he's an officer, there is a 79 percent chance that he's married. If he's an enlisted man, there is a 49 percent chance that he's married.

There is only a 10.5 percent chance that he was inducted involuntarily, and only an 18.9 percent chance that he is a first-term regular. On the other hand, there is a 70.6 percent chance that he is a career regular.

There is a 65.9 percent chance that he is under age 26. (The median age has risen slightly over past years to 23.1 years as of mid-1971.)

There is a 10.7 percent chance that he is a Black, and a 1.7 percent likelihood that he is a member of one of the other minority races.

If he is an officer, there is an 82.1 percent chance that he holds a baccalaureate degree.

If he is a warrant officer, there is a 42.7 percent chance that he has had some college-level study, and a 2.9 percent likelihood that he holds a degree.

If he is an enlisted man, there is an 85.6 percent chance that he graduated from high school, a 22.5 percent chance that he's completed some college, and a 5 percent chance that he holds a baccalaureate degree.

There is a 60.7 percent likelihood that he is stationed in the Continental United States or in one of its outlying areas (Guam, Panama Canal Zone, and Puerto Rico).

What's more, there is a 1.07 percent chance that he is a female.

The second part of this profile on the serviceman is what he thinks.

If he is an officer, there is a 42 percent chance that he feels that he does not usually get adequate recognition from his superiors. In fact, less than half of all lieutenants believe sufficient credit is given.

If he is an enlisted man, on the other hand, he probably considers the importance of his job and the opportunity to exercise personal initiative as among the most favorable features of his Service life (Army Study, DAPO-PMP 26-71-E and 43-71-E)

There is an 80 percent or greater likelihood that he is satisfied that the nation reasonably appreciates his Service.

But 48 percent of the public at large believe that the treatment of servicemen returning to civilian life today is poorer than after previous wars. (Harris Survey)

If he is an enlisted man, he most likely is attracted by the most of off-duty time, the importative, a sense of pride in his unit, and his personance of his job, the opportunities to exercise initial freedom.

But he dislikes to some extent the living conditions within Army quarters, inspections, treatment by superiors, and the lack of privacy. (Army Study, DAPO-PMP 26-71-E and 43-71-E)

If he is an officer, he is attracted to an Army career by the retirement system, opportunities for specialized education and training, and opportunities for travel and adventure.

But he is discouraged by civilian attitudes toward the Army, schedules of pay and allowances, the promotion system, and problems of family life in the Service (Army Study, DAPO-PMP 26-71-E and 43-71-E)

Whether officer or enlisted, there is an overall 60 percent chance that he considers the military employment benefits as being clearly superi-

Coming to the screen

SHAMUS — Burt Reynolds portrays Shamus McCoy, a tough private eye from Red Hook in Brooklyn. The pool hustling "Shamus" is offered $10,000 by rich eccentric Ron Weyand to recover some stolen diamonds. Murders abound and "Shamus" soon finds himself employed by the mysterious Miss Canoon whose brother (Alex Wilson) is somehow involved in the dirty doings. There are crosses and double crosses galore before the gunsmoke clears. Among the highlights are an attack by ferocious police dogs and a wild auto chase in which Reynolds and Cannon careen around a stolen army truck and force their pursuers off the road into a spectacular crackup.

HIT MAN — Bernie Casey, a superslick street hustler, comes from Oakland to Los Angeles to investigate his brother's "accidental" death. The Mob violently tries "convincing" Casey to leave off. In a personal vendetta against syndicate warlords, Casey takes to his shotgun, determined to avenge his brother's death. His quest takes him into some of the seamier sites in the city, and into the arms of some of the ghetto's most unliberated ladies.

WHERE DOES IT HURT — This all-out spoof of hospital care stars Peter Sellers in the role of a wheeler-dealer hospital administrator who divides his time between fleecing helpless patients and dallying with the nurses. Fast-paced, old-fashioned slapstick results when patient Rick Lenz discovers that Sellers is running a profitable racket involving insurance fraud, double-dealing doctors, unnecessary operations, and padded billing procedures. Lenz induces nurse Jo Ann Pflug to help get the goods on Sellers. It looks like Sellers will himself be the final victim of his ridiculous medical procedures.

JORY — The title role casts Robby Benson as a fifteen year old boy who witnesses his father's killing and sets out to avenge it. He becomes involved in some barroom brawls, a cattle stampede and a range war. Young "Jory" learns that the West isn't all sawdust and tinsel.

Statistics

or to any similar plans available in the civilian community. (Army Study, DAHC 15-72-C-0099)

If he is an officer, he likely believes the most common problems within a Military Unit are indebtedness, drug abuse, AWOL, family problems, dissect, racial friction, alcoholism, and venereal disease in that order.

If he is an enlisted man, he likely believes the most common problems within a Military Unit are drug abuse, indebtedness, dissent, alcoholism, AWOL, family problems, racial friction, and venereal disease in that order.

Whether officer or enlisted, he thinks the drug abuse problem is one of the most common problems in military units today.

There is only a 31 percent chance that he considers the Drug Education and Prevention Programs effective, and there is a 50 percent chance that he considers the program ineffective.

He feels that most drug use is promoted by: boredom, the pressures of war, a desire to escape from reality, depression or homesickness, or the desire to try something new. (Harris Survey)

A PROFILE OF YOUNG AMERICAN CITIZENS . . . Who is he (according to the Statistical Abstract of U.S., 1970)

He is 27.6 years old (as of 1970). In 1975 his counterpart will probably be 27 years old. Statistics indicate America is growing younger — at least by median age.

If he is Caucasian and is between the ages of 25 to 29 years, there is a 78 percent chance that he has a high school diploma.

If he is a non-Caucasian and is between 25 and 29 years of age, there is a 58 percent chance that he graduated from high school.

If he is a high school graduate between the ages of 20 to 24 years, there is a 52 percent chance that he has completed some college-level work.

The second part of this profile on young American citizens is what he thinks.

He is mobile and is not usually opposed to moving. In fact, if he is between 22 and 24 years of age there is a 45 per cent chance he has moved within the past year (based on statistics from 1970).

Although he now has the right to vote, he will not necessarily do so in upcoming elections. He is not as likely to vote as older persons. (In 1968, for example, only 33 percent of the eligible 18-20 year-olds and only 51 percent of the eligible 21-24 year-olds reported that they voted; but 70 percent of those 25 years old or older reported that they voted in 1968).

If he is 18 years old or over, there is a 15 percent chance that he has used marijuana at some time. (Survey at Response Analysis, Inc., for National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse).

If he is a college student between the ages of 18 to 25 years, there is a 44 percent chance he has used marijuana at some time. (Response Analysis Survey, as above)

As far as his enlistment potential, he is hard for recruiters to find. Out of the more than 14 million Americans between the ages of 18 and 21, over 7 million are women. Of the remaining group, another 2 million men are enrolled in school and 2 million more are likely to be medically unfit for service, so he is one of only 3½ million eligibles (of whom 3 million are white) for whom all five services are competing.

If he is presently a high school student, according to a HumRRO study, there is a 55 percent chance that he will enlist.

If he is a college student or is out of school, there is only a 30 percent likelihood that he will enlist.

Overall, without regard to his current status or educational background, there is an 11 percent liklihood that he will enlist without threat of the draft, and a 13 percent probability that he will enlist under a draft situation. (HumRRO Study)

Safety Council originated the course which is taught by the military and last eight hours. If an individual has previously taken the course on another post and has a certificate it is not necessary to take it again.

Remedial Driving is required for a moving violation on post or downtown. The course is six hours and teaches advances defensive driving techniques. It is designed as a shocker course as a reminder of the previous Defensive Driving Course instruction.

Can anyone but military and civilians working on post attend the ceremonies on the field in front of the headquarters building? L.M.D.

The building you referred to is more popularly known as Infantry Hall and the field is York Field. Ceremonies honoring individuals who have distinguished themselves by exceptional service, acts of heroism and those who are retiring from the service are held there. There are no restrictions on the attendance of these functions. Everyone is invited to attend.

Airborne all the way

Company C Headquarters Command finished third in the Post Volleyball Tournament conducted April 16-20.

The team got off to a good start in the playoffs by defeating Hqs Co., 3 Bn 7th Inf, 15-8, 15-15, 15-13 on April 16. This game was hard fought by both sides, but clutch plays by Sp4 Teery Iddings, Sgt. Harry Hutton and Sp4 Paul Loupe were the deriding factors in these games. The Chargers came back on the 17th to beat the 989th MP Co. 15-7, 15-9 in great team effort by all the players. The Airborne Department called on their experience and "spike" capability to beat the Chargers 15-0, 15-8 on 18 April.

The Chargers came back on the 19th to beat the 989th Lt Maintenance Co. 15-1, 15-4 through the combined efforts of Tim Purdon, Mike Benoit and Jerry Alexander.

The next victim of Co C was the Infantry Board Team, 15-3, 15-8. This was again a team effort with key plays by Murray Renick.

Job satisfaction is a must at TSB

GEORGE KORDA

A man rolls out of bed, halfheartedly puts on his uniform, and goes off to a job where the most interesting thing he does all day is figure out how many days he has toward his ETS.

Another man goes each day to a job where he feels he is accomplishing something and being of some use.

These are two vital aspects to the function of the Army. They can mean the difference between a smoothly running organization and one that hardly moves at all.

Different TSB soldiers were questioned on their jobs to determine if they were satisfied with their duties. Oftentimes a soldier will never work in his primary MOS and sometimes they find out they enjoy it more.

PFC Robert Parson, Driver for TSB Commander Colonel Allen M. Goodson, would rather be at TSB than his original duty. "I was supposed to work on car and truck motors, and it's a lot nicer here than playing in all that grease."

Also, Sp4 Carl Crittenden, an Admin Specialist at TSB, would rather work in his present duty. "My primary MOS is Clerk-typist, and I'm much happier doing this than typing all day."

PFC Walter Hollon Jr. likes his job as S1 Driver at TSB, but he wants a change. "I'm going to reenlist into the Infantry. I want the VRB that goes with it."

All over the United States an interest in job satisfaction is increasing. People want to be happy in their work. If they are not they won't stay.

He's wearing Babe Ruth's number and swinging hard, but Lt. Col. Curtis F. Hoglan did not smack the ball like the Babe on this occasion. Lt. Col. Hoglan, commander of the 2nd Bn., 10th F.A., was participating in an exhibition softball game between NCOs and field grade officers of the 197th Infantry Brigade during 197th Night at Golden Park, May 2. The NCOs won, 14-7. (PHOTO BY BOB THOMAS)

197th night

Golden Park used for celebration

Much of the commotion and noise at Golden Park in Columbus May 2 was not made by the Columbus Astros baseball team, traditional occupants of the stadium.

Rather it was initiated by an enthusiastic group of musicians, softball players, military men and their families from Fort Benning's 197th Infantry Brigade as the unit, in conjunction with the Astros' management, celebrated the second annual 197th Infantry Brigade night at Golden Park.

The Forever Forward Combo, a modern musical ensemble playing rock hits, entertained an excited audience during a slow-pitch softball game between a group of senior non-commissioned officers and field grade officers of the 197th Brigade.

The game, which immediately preceded the regularly scheduled Southern League game between the Astros and the Asheville Hornets (won by the Hornets, 9-6), was a challenge match, arranged by the boasting NCOs.

Despite a determined effort by the 197th's field grade officers, known as the Thundering Herd, the NCOs, calling themselves, inappropriately, the Over-the-Hill-Gang, bounced their adversaries 14-7.

The brigade's 197th Support Battalion treated a group of youngsters from Columbus' Anne Elizabeth Shepherd Home to a night at the ballpark, including such stadium goodies as hotdogs, popcorn and soft drinks. The children were escorted by 1st Lt. John Mundeville, Capt. Lester Hargrave, and several others from the unit, under the command of Lt. Col. Ellis Morris.

A color guard from Co. C, 3rd Bn., 7th Inf. (Cottonbalers) raised the national colors before the game while Lt. Col. Curtis F. Hoglan, commander of the 197th Brigade's 2nd Bn., 10th F.A., played the National Anthem on a trumpet.

The event was arranged by the 197th Brigade and the Astros' general manager, Jim Koger.

This young baseball fan enjoyed the acrobatics of 197th Infantry Brigade Night at Golden Park, May 2, along with several hundred other fans from the Fort Benning unit. (PHOTO BY RICK WASSER)

Post parachute team first at Southern Championships

The Fort Benning Airborne Parachute Team placed first recently at the Southern United States Parachuting Championships held at Pascogula, Miss.

Fort Benning's team consists of team leader Captain Mick Barnes with 1500 free-falls; Capt. Ed Chamberlain, 600 free-falls; Staff Sergeant Steve Beinert, 1200 free-falls; and Staff Sgt. John Carathers, 400 free-falls. The alternate for the team is Staff Sgt. Fred O'Donnell with 400 free-falls.

The team event consists of four free-fall jumps begun from an altitude of 8500 feet in which the team members exit the aircraft at the same instant and fly together from various formations in free-fall while falling earthward at speeds approaching 200 miles per hour.

As the Southern U.S. champions, the team is eligible to represent Fort Benning at the U.S. National Parachuting Championships to be held in June.

In addition to the team event, two Fort Benning soldiers also placed high in the individual competition. With over 80 competitors entered, Ray Duffy, first sergeant of 51st Officer Candidate Company and former 1st Sgt. of the famed Golden Knights, placed second overall.

Capt. Mick Barnes placed fifth overall. Both Duffy and Barnes are eligible to compete in the U.S. National Parachute Championships in the individual events.

Post judo club dominates AAU Junior Olympics

The Fort Benning Judo Club completely dominated the Georgia District AAU Junior Olympics held at the Decatur Recreation Center on May 5. The club placed in the top three places in all age-weight divisions in which they had an entry.

Participants in the tournament numbered over 120 with 20 clubs throughout the state entering their best junior competitors. Fort Benning, the largest club in the state and the second largest in the United States, comprised about one fourth of the entry list.

The "Army Brats," as they are affectionately called throughout the southeast in Judo circles, took a whopping 40 per cent of the medals awarded. Experienced national championship competitors from the recently completed men and women's national championships in Atlanta were heard to remark, "I would hate to run into those kids when they grow up," while referring to the Fort Benning Club.

First Sergeant Jesse Chewning, the Fort Benning assistant coach, noted that even those competitors from the post who did not place in the top three places were not eliminated from the tournament until the semi-final round of competition. In addition to the medals captured by the club, Mr. Jooh Hi Song, the Chairman of the Board of Examiners for the Dixie States Judo Black Belt Federation, awarded LTC Tom Keaton and his wife Shirley (the head coach and secretary of the Fort Benning club) a plaque for their "loyal support and contributions to Judo." Winners from the club were:

First Place

Danny Jones, 13-year-old heavy.
Ronnie Wesley, 14-year-old light.
Jesse Chewning Jr., 14-year-old heavy.
Mark Keaton, 15-year-old light.

Second Place

Eric Bouchelion, 6-year-old.
Danny Glennmaker, 10-year-old light.
Gregory Kirby, 10-year-old heavy.
Jeffrey Dean, 12-year-old heavy.
Ross Rappaport, 13-year-old heavy.
Terry Caballero, 14-year-old light.
Vince Caballero, 15-year-old light.
Eddie Rivera, 15-year-old heavy.
Edwin Moore, 16-year-old light.
Frank Dean, 16-year-old heavy.

Third Place

Tom Latham, 6-year-old.
Cris Moran, 7-year-old.
David Pickle, 11-year-old light.
Luther King, 12-year-old light.
Scott Latham, 15-year-old light.
Jonathan Dean, 15-year-old heavy.
Charles Williams, 16-year-old heavy.

The post had a clean sweep in the 15-year-old light division, taking all three top places. The above listed winners will travel to Memphis, Tenn. on May 19, 1973 for the Region III Junior Olympic Championships, sponsored by the Chevrolet Motor Company. Region III is composed of Georgia, Aabama, Tennessee, North Carolina and South Carolina.

'Run for Fun'

"Run for Fun" activities will take place today at 2 p.m. on Stewart Field across from Infantry Hall.

The Fort Benning Ranger Department is sponsoring the activities and will present everyone who completes their race with a "Run for Fun" Certificate of Completion. A "His and Hers" relay will be a new addition to the program. The woman will run a mile and hand a baton to her male partner who will run two miles to the finish. There will be three awards given for this race.

Other events include races for one and all.

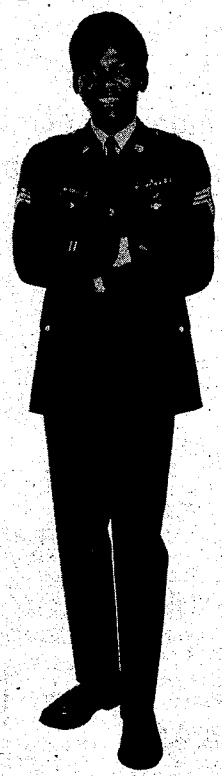
"Meeting people is my thing."



Sergeant Cornell Russell is a drill sergeant. He's a friendly guy. He likes people and they like him.

"I chose this job because I always wanted to work with people. When I came into the Army the drill sergeants who trained me were really enthusiastic and they gave me that same enthusiasm.

"One of the great things about the Army is that you meet a variety of people from all walks of life. Every day you meet somebody new and interesting and you get to know them and like them. To me that's important.

"I've worked hard at my job and I'm proud to say that I have always had 100% graduation in my classes. I feel good about that."

The Army is giving Sergeant Russell plenty of opportunity for job satisfaction.

The Army gives a man a lot of other opportunities, too. Job and educational opportunities. With the hundreds of jobs in the Army, there's bound to be a dozen or so that will give you the kind of challenge you're looking for.

And travel opportunities in Europe, Korea, Hawaii, Alaska, Panama. And the time to get to know a country the way no tourist ever could.

The opportunity to save money on everyday things. Like free housing, dental and medical care. Commissary and post exchange privileges. Low-cost life insurance, to name a few.

BY BILL KLOEB

During the past few weeks there have been several reports on sightings of alligators in various parts of the Chattahoochee River.

The latest report came from Lon Marlowe who observed a reptile he estimates to have been about six feet long while he was fishing in the River Bend Area of the river. To be more specific he was in the slough that runs past the big sawdust pile. The area is a wild one well known to local fishermen and a likely place to find a big bass or an alligator if there are any around.

According to Marlowe, he was casting for bass and noticed the alligator when the "log" he figured might be shading a klunker moved. A couple of weeks ago another unidentified fisherman saw two of the reptiles in a slough just south of the sawdust pile.

These sightings are encouraging. The alligator is on the endangered species list of the Department of the Interior. Its normal habitat is much further south from our location. To find even one of the large reptiles this far north is an indication that legislation and game conservation programs initiated to save them are working.

We hope this information doesn't tempt some to go to River Bend to try for a gator. We hope those who use power boats in the area will be especially careful not to run down any partially submerged "logs" in the area.

A few years ago alligators were plentiful all over the southeast especially in the Florida everglades. The fact that they were worth quite a bit dead was their undoing. Countless professional hunters went after them for their hides which were much in demand for the manufacture of expensive leather goods. Two or three men would sometimes slaughter a hundred alligators in one night. With prime hides going for as much as $7 a foot there were plenty of men ranging the swamps all year long. Under these conditions it didn't take long before the alligator joined the buffalo, carrier pigeon and other wildlife unfortunate enough to have something man wanted. Alligators became scarce, in some areas they were eliminated completely.

This not only cut off a source of income for a lot of people it had a bad effect on other wildlife. The alligator did a lot for other animals in the swamps. When water supplies dwindled during the dry months the alligator was the only beast that seemed able to cope with the situation. In caring for himself the alligator also enabled a lot of wildlife to survive. During the dry months alligators dig or wallow out large holes in the marsh. These holes catch water and provide for animals other than the gator. Plants grow in the moist soil around these wallows and provide valuable food that can't grow elsewhere. Hundreds of alligators would congregate in one of these holes to provide an oasis of considerable size. Unfortunately this habit made the gator extremely vulnerable and hastened his demise.

The alligators found in this area are not natives. When all of the water in their area dissappears, the gators will move out overland in search of an area having moisture. The reptiles here must have eventually found the Chattahoochee River and traveled up stream until they hit our area. Some gators have actually been found in small lakes and ponds a good distance from the river. A couple of years back the Fish and Game unit removed one that had made its home in Twilight Pond. This probably supports another contention on the origin of alligators in this area. Some people claim that all of the local alligators were brought home by tourists to be pets and turned loose after the owners became tired of them.

Most people think of alligators as ugly, frightening and dangerous beasts but those who have studied them feel just the opposite. They say he is facinating rather than frightening, and timid rather than aggressive. No one can argue with the ugly part of the description but the alligator does much good and no harm and is one of the endangered species of our environment. Sighting one in the wilds is an experience not soon forgotten. I hope that those who sight any of the reptiles in the River Bend area or any other place for that matter will be satisfied to keep the memory of the thrill and let the gator alone to provide the same experience for others who may come by later.

Rachel Rushing wins L.G.A. Spring tourney

Mrs. Rachel Rushing won the Ladies Golf Association's Spring Handicap Tournament on Friday, May 4. She had previously won the second flight and defeated Mrs. Vera Simmons in the eighteen hole play-off match.

Mrs. Mary Cannan, president of the L.G.A., awarded trophies to the winners at a luncheon at the country club following play. The winners were as follows: Championship flight: Mrs. Mia Harris, winner; Mrs. Sequel Wood, runner-up and Mrs. Margaret Earl, consolation. Mrs. Vera Simmons won the first flight, Mrs. Betty Pritchard was runner-up and consolation went to Mrs. Pat Thomas. The second flight winners were Mrs. Rachel Rushing, winner; Mrs. Mary Burdich, runner-up; Mrs. Mozelle Dunn, consolation. The third flight had only two winners with Mrs. Beth Brown taking first and Mrs. Alice Keifer second. Mrs. Mickey Harris won the one day "losers" tournament.

At the luncheon a special award was given to Mrs. Mozelle Dunn for having a hole-in-one on number four in April.

TSB softball rain plagued

The School Brigade company level softball league has been plagued by rain, however, there have been several games played.

In the first game of the season, Saturday, May 5, IOAC squeezed by 5th Stu. Bn. 7-6. Most of IOAC's runs were attributed to the team's ability to punch out base hits.

2nd Lt. Gordon T. Lepley hit a triple for 5th Bn. in the 4th inning with 2 out, but the team failed to get him home. The same thing happened in the 5th inning when 1st Lt. James H. Bonn tripled with 2 out.

Second Battalion was victorious over USAIS, C and TD, 8-6. The game was filled with home runs. SFC Joseph W. Lail with 2 home runs and Spc Stevan A. Lind with 3 home runs accounted for 5 of 2nd Bn's 8 runs. All of USAIS 6 runs came from homers.

The 3rd game between 85th Co. and 8th Bn. HQ. went into extra innings with 85th Co. coming out on top, 13-12.

Pvt. John Murillo signaled with 2 out in the 8th inning and Pvt. Peter Scandone tripled to drive him across the plate for the winning run.

Fishermen to talk it over

Every bass fisherman dreams about the string of lunders he'll catch, but seldom do these dreams become reality. The wafer's too cold, the water's too hot, the fish wouldn't bite, are just a few of the excuses the bass fisherman uses when he doesn't catch his limit.

The Bass Anglers Sportsman Society (BASS), can help the fisherman have fewer fishless days.

The 1973 BASS seminar for this area will be held Friday May 18th, at the Columbus Municipal Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Professional fisherman will be on hand to share their bass catching secrets and professional know how.

Among the professional fishermen to speak during the seminar are local men Tom Mann and John Powell. New techniques for finding fish, information on lures, tackle, and special equipment will be discussed are the depth finder and the electric thermometer.

In addition to the lectures, two films will be shown. "Monster Bass of Treasure Lake" is a spectacular film of bass fishing in Cuba; you will see sights you have never seen before and probably will never see again. Bass up to 17 pounds taken on light tackle and leaping bass are a few of the highlights of this film. The second film "Silent Watera" is an underwater film featuring bass striking lures, attacking frogs, spawning, and much more.

BASS will address the pollution problem and what you as an individual can do to help fight pollution. BASS spends thousands of dollars annually to fight pollution, and your attendance at the seminar will not only improve your fishing, but help BASS to continue its fight against pollution.

Post tennis tourney

The 1973 USAIC Tennis Championship will be conducted during the period May 21-25 at the Special Services hard surface tennis courts. Greedy marksmen gobble up glories

U. S. Army shooters while hosting the 13th Annual International Intersservice Shooting Championship on Post April 28 through May 6, served a sparse platter of championships to their invited guests; the other sister services.

In nearly every department, the Army champion-shooters ruled supreme as individual shooters and teams fielded by the U. S. Army Marksmanship Training Unit (USAMTU), grabbed a big share of the glory. In fact, the unit took 13 of 17 individual championships and 12 of 15 team top spots as they dominated the week-long action over a large field of mixed service and civilian competition.

Led by the outstanding shooting of two of its Olympic marksmen, Maj. Lones W. Wigger, Jr., and Capt. Lanny R. Bassham, the Army's rifle team proceeded to take two thirds of the six individual and team events. Their companion shooters took all the moving target matches and three of five handgun matches. The team records were more impressive.

The solid line of Army rifle victories wavered only under the championship caliber shooting of World Champion Army Reserve Capt. Margaret Murdock of Parris Island, S.C. Captain Murdock asked no quarter of her male competitors as she blazed her way into the championship circle of the Three Position Smallbore Rifle with her 1,164 aggregate and then repeated her winning tactics in the Standard Rifle competition where she beat the field of aspiring competitors with her 573.

1st Lt. Robert Mitchell of the Army Marksmanship Unit stoked the Army steam roller into action when he captured the English (Prone) Match championship with his commendable 598, just one point below the world record established by Ho Jun Li of North Korea in the 1972 Olympics.

With their foot in the door, the champion Army shooters surged forward in their quest of gold in the wake of leader Capt. Lanny R. Bassham. He captured the prestigious 300 meter Free Rifle with 1,158, exceeding the present world record set by Gary Anderson by one point and then came on strong again in the Air Rifle to take that match with 386. Wigger then added the Army Rifle title to the string of victories by topping the world record of 598 by eight points.

Each of the three first place marksmen, Wigger, Maj. John Foster and Bassham, beat the old mark of 566 established by Foster and Russian marksman A. Melnik.

Army rifle teams proved equally as successful in the championship drive for gold medallions when they claimed the top spot in the English Match, Three Position Smallbore Rifle, Army Rifle and the 300 meter Free Rifle. The remaining two rifle events, Standard Rifle and Air Rifle were taken by a strong Army Reserve team led by the combined efforts and expertise of Captains Joh nWriter and Margaret Murdock, both former members of the Army Marksmanship Unit.

The Army's team score of 2,279 in Army Rifle set a new national record and surpassed the world record by 52 points.

Recycle point changes time

The Fort Benning Recycle Point is now open an extra hour in the afternoon on weekdays.

Monday through Friday, the facility will open at 8:30 a.m. and close each day at 4:30 p.m.

The hours have been changed in an effort to make them more convenient for users. The Recycle Point will not be open on Saturdays, Sundays, or holidays.

More types of paper can now be turned in for recycling than in the past, including magazines, coated and onion skin paper, as well as newspaper, kraft paper, manuals, mimeograph paper, books, and general office waste paper.

The Recycle Point is located on Gaudette Street next to the PX Auto Rental Facility. This area is one block south of the Main Commissary. All Fort Benning personnel are urged to take advantage of the facility.

Ammo storage helper course set up for enlisted personnel

To all students coming to Fort Benning with an MOS of 55A10, 71T10, or 62K10, they are given a new course which qualifies the graduate to be an ammunition storage helper. The course is now starting its 4th cycle and is taught to Enlisted Personnel only. There are few National Guards and Enlisted Reserves who are taught here and then returned to their home unit.

The course is eight weeks long. There is no zero week for administrative purposes, so the training starts the first day of the course. The students spend 75 per cent of their training in the classroom and 25 per cent is on-the-job-training (OJT).

Students are instructed with films, lectures, and visual training aids. Most of the training they receive is performance oriented on all subjects of ammo storage. They learn all about storage of ammunition, packing ammunition, and how to make an Ammunition Supply Point (ASP). They cover all Training Manuals, Field Manuals, and Supply Catalogs concerning ammo storage.

They are also introduced to radio and switchboard procedures, and also to demolition techniques. During the entirety of the course, an emphasis of safety is stressed by all of the instructors.

The students are given a total of 11 tests which include a mid-term and final examination. All graduates of the course are awarded the 55A10 MOS as an Ammo Storage Helper until they are promoted to the rank of E-4, at which time they automatically become an Ammo Storage Specialist (55B20).

The Honor Graduates receive the Certificate of Achievement from Group, Battalion, and Company levels, and then recommended for promotion to the next highest rank.

JUMPS has advantages over old pay system

By Tim Purdon

How do you get paid? Once a month, twice a month, by check or cash? You couldn't choose before the Joint Uniform Military Pay System (JUMPS) came into affect.

If you are paid twice a month, you are paid a mid-month payment and a payment on the last working day of the month.

"I like to get paid twice a month because if I spend my money at the end of the month, I'll be getting more mid-month," said a PFC.

If you get paid once a month, you receive it all on the last working day of the month.

A Sp5 said he liked to get paid once a month because most of his bills are at the end of the month and it's easier to pay the bills with a larger paycheck.

No matter what time the month you get paid, you receive it by cash or check.

If paid by check, you may have your paycheck mailed directly to you, to a designated dependent, or to your bank for a savings or checking account, or to some other financial institution.

"I like to get my paycheck sent directly to the bank because I don't like to hassle with a long pay line," said a Sp4.

There are other advantages in having your check sent to the bank. You are protected against loss, theft, and forgery. Your money is more readily available if you change stations or go on leave.

"I'm single and don't have a car," said a Pvt. "Where can I go on post, other than the bank, if I want to cash a personal check?"

USAIC Regulation 60-1 states: Personal checks may be cashed by permanent party personnel and their dependents in amounts not to exceed $50 at the Main Post Exchange, Bldg 1711.

The following branches of the Post Exchange are authorized to cash personal checks for permanent party personnel billeted within the area in amounts not to exceed $25: Branch 1111, Martin Army Hospital; Branch 1112, Kelly Hill; Branch 1113, Sand Hill; Branch 1123, Harmony Church; and Branch 1124, Harmony Church.

Swimming Pools ready to open

Swimming pools at Fort Benning will be opening soon for the 1973 summer season. The pool at the Main Officers' Club will open on May 26, and the Custer Terrace Officers' Club pool will open on June 2.

Special Services pools, which are free of charge to active duty and retired military personnel, their dependents and guests, will be also open on Memorial Day weekend.

Carey pool and Kelley Hill pool will open on a daily basis on May 28. Their hours will be weekdays from 1 a.m. until 8 p.m., and Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays from 12 noon until 8 p.m. Carey pool will be closed Mondays, and Kelley Hill pool will be closed Tuesdays.

Sand Hill pool and Harmony Church pool will open on the weekend of May 26-28 from 12 noon until 8 p.m., and will begin opening on a daily basis on June 4. Daily schedules for these two pools will be announced later.

Hours of operation at the Main Club pool are noon until 7 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays, and noon until 10 p.m. Wednesdays. The pool will open each Sunday at 11 a.m. and close at 10 p.m Custer Terrace hours are Monday through Sunday, 12:30 p.m. until 6:30 p.m.

Fees for both Officers' Club pools are $18 per family, or $9 per individual, for seasonal memberships. The season lasts from May 26 through Sept. 30 at the Main Club, or June 2 through Sept. 2 at the Custer Terrace pool. At the Main Club, the pool will be open on weekends only in September.

Monthly fees are $8 per family, or $4 per individual. Daily fees are $.50, Monday through Sunday. Swimming lessons are available Monday through Friday at the Main Pool only; from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. Courses are offered for beginner and intermediate swimmers, and are $5 per person.

Membership applications will be taken upstairs in the Main Officers' Club, Room 13. Anyone wishing to take swimming lessons should also sign up there.

Career Exploration Day observed by students

The seventh and eighth grade faculty and students at the D. o. n C. Faith School, Fort Benning, will observe its second career Exploration Day, today, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

The theme of this year's conference is "Careers For Tomorrow."

During the day, the students will move on a 50 minute bell schedule from room to room to meet consultants in each room; each making a 15 minute presentation and the remaining time being spent on question and answer sessions.

Forty - seven consultants will discuss 44 occupations such as detective work, forestry, bank clerk, cartoonist, disc - jockey, pro football and dentistry.

The consultants will discuss the importance and history of each job, the kinds of tasks involved, personal qualifications, special training requirements, income, working conditions, employment outlook and other sources of information.

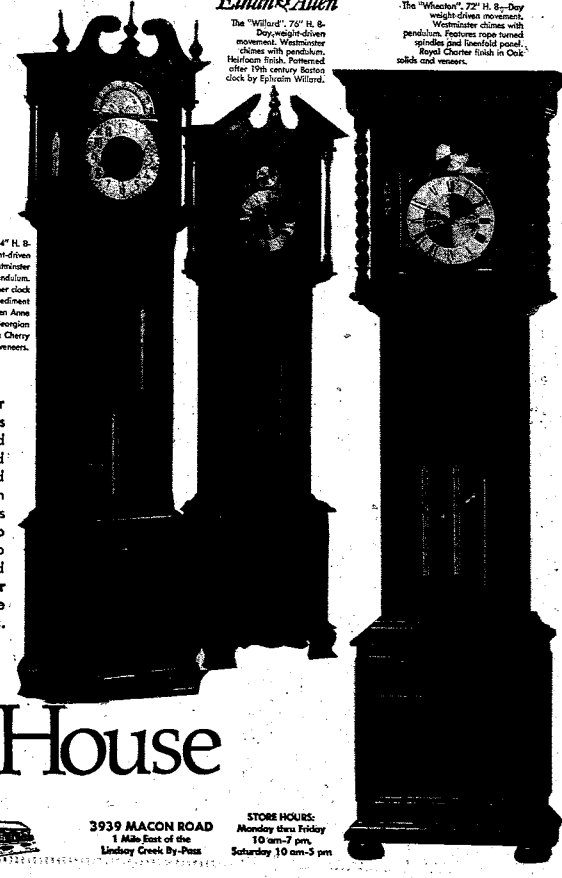
Highly Desirable
FLOOR CLOCKS

When Galileo was 19, the young scientist studied a swinging lamp in the stillness of a chapel nearly four century ago and went home with the idea that developed into a successful American business enterprise and status symbol.

He measured the frequency of each pendulum-like motion of the lamp with the only timing device available-his pulse. Each complete swing of the lamp took precisely the same amount of time, according to Galileo's "clock".

That was the first breakthrough in measuring time accurately. It evolved into the "floor" or "tall" clock known today as grandfather's clock. The move toward nostalgia in the furniture industry is making floor clocks highly desirable items. The clockmaking craft came to America with the early colonists. Many tall clocks made by those craftsmen are still keeping accurate time!



The "Chandler", 74" H. 8-Day weight-driven movement. Westminster chimes with pendulum. Old Tavern finish. Pine-decorated clock with shaped splash parts and raised, beveled panel arrangements.

Ethan Allen

The "Willard", 76" H. 8-Day weight-driven movement. Westminster chimes with pendulum. Heirloom finish. Patterned after 19th century Boston clock by Ephraim Willard.

The "Wheaton", 72" H. 8-Day weight-driven movement. Westminster chimes with pendulum. Features rope turned spindles and lowfold panel. Royal Charter finish in Oak solids and veneers.

The "Bristol", 84" H. 8-Day weight-driven movement. Westminster chimes with pendulum. Grandfather clock featuring scroll pediment top and Queen Anne arched panel. Georgian Court finish in Cherry solids and veneers.

In the proud tradition of the master clockmasters, Ethan Allen presents magnificent clocks for your home, destined to be worthy family heirlooms to be passed down to future generations. Richly finished and intricately detailed, many floor-length cases features precision 8-day movements with polished chimes and pendulums. Two of our designs are also charming curio cabinets; one comes in four pointed finishes! See our complete collection in our store today! Choose from twelve handsome designs.

Officer RIF

DA message states that 4,900 officers are affected

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following message was received from Headquarters, Third U.S. Army, Fort McPherson, Georgia, May 15: Any officer having questions regarding his status is encouraged to call his branch. Officers calling their branches recently have been told whether or not their records are being considered in the reduction in force. However, final determination for individuals will not be known until June 1.

The purpose of this message is to provide a summary of the circumstances necessitating officer involuntary releases and information pertaining to implementation. Widest dissemination of the information contained herein is requested.

Further coverage of this action will be made through command information news media. Public affairs guidance will be provided in a separate DA message.

The termination of the Army's active role in Southeast Asia and subsequent troop redeployment, plus reductions in overall Army strength, will no longer support the number of officers now serving active duty.

Approximately 4,900 Reserve Commission officers assigned to OPD Branches in the grade major and below will be affected. Selection for release from active duty is meant in no way to reflect unfavorably upon performance of duty. These officers have served faithfully and well during a most difficult and demanding time in our nation's history. The releases are dictated solely by manpower requirements.

Officers are being selected for release by a Department of the Army active duty board under the provisions of Para 3-588, AR 635-10. The basis for selection is an evaluation of the entire record of each individual, to include efficiency ratings, civilian and military schooling, commendations, types and variety of assignments and future potential.

Letters of notification will be mailed to major commanders starting 1 June 73. Commanders have been instructed that letters should be personally delivered from the highest level of command practicable.

Each officer must acknowledge recipt of his letter of notification and that he is fully aware of his established release date. The established release date will be no later than 90 days from the date of acknowledgement. Major commanders are authorized to approve earlier release dates upon request of the affected officer.

The provisions of DA message 13115352 June 72 concerning military personnel with dependents who are ill or injured or who require medical care, remain in effect.

Personnel scheduled for release whose wives are pregnant may request retention on active duty to cover the birth of the child plus six weeks post-natal care.

Commanders exercising general courts-martial authority are authorized to approve extensions. Format of extensions will be as shown in Para 5B(3), AR 135-215. Information copy of the approved extension will be forwarded to the appropriate career branch.

In the event the pregnancy of the dependent is terminated for whatever reason prior to full term live birth, the officer will be rescheduled for release by the commander. In scheduling the release date, the commander will give compassionate consideration to the circumstances involved and may, if required, schedule the release date 90 days following the termination of the pregnancy.

All letters of notification will be mailed during the period June 1-30. Releases will commence in September.

Individuals desiring information on their status, may contact their appropriate career branch.

To experience doctor shortage

The most critical problem facing Martin Army Hospital in the immediate future is the forthcoming doctor shortage. This acute shortage of physicians will be particularly noticeable over the summer months.

Why a doctor shortage? It is mainly due to the shift to a volunteer Army and to the expiration of the draft. Hence, the traditionally high summer input of medical manpower will fall to a trickle.

The question this immediately brings to mind is: "How does the doctor shortage affect me?" And affect you it does, if you are a user of medical services on post.

First, it means there will be fewer doctors to treat you. In fact, the doctor manpower will be reduced by 30-40 per cent of its present strength. In numbers that means where we now have 100 doctors, we will have as few as 63 in August. The picture brightens a little in the fall, but the doctor manpower will not be over 75 during the remainder of the coming year.

Secondly, the night clinic, as you have known it, will of necessity cease to exist. There will be a clinic functioning as an extension of the emergency room, located in the main hospital, but this will only be to provide immediate care and not routine care that could be handled in the regular daytime out-patient clinics.

Thirdly, the use of the emergency room as a general outpatient clinic by many patients will have to cease. The emergency room must be used only for purpose it was intended: the treatment of emergencies.

What is an emergency? Webster says an emergency is "a sudden, generally unexpected occurrence or set of circumstances demanding immediate action." A broken leg is an emergency. Sudden sharp pain in the chest is an emergency. However, a cold that you have had for two days is not an emergency. Periodic headaches are not emergencies. A baby's runny nose is not an emergency.

What should you do if you think you have an emergency? Call or go to the emergency room. If it is truly an emergency you will be treated immediately. If it is not, you will be given only immediate care and referred to one of the regular daytime outpatient clinics.

You will not be the only ones affected. To the doctors, this means longer hours, more time on call, increased patient loads and no leaves or passes over the summer months.

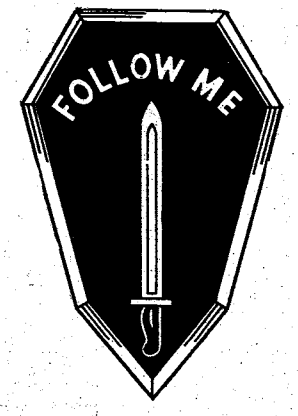
We are asking you to make a cooperative effort with us, a team effort, to insure that the people requiring medical care get it when they need it, and are not unduly delayed by a mass of people complaining about minor illnesses. We are requesting you to make more use of the regular daytime outpatient clinics which are better staffed and equipped to take care of non-emergency problems.

In summary, what this means to you is that your essential medical needs will be met. You must, however, use the system the way it has been designed or you will unnecessarily inconvenience yourself and endanger the health of others.

Zais nominated for fourth star

Lt. Gen. Melvin Zais has been nominated for a fourth star and assigned as commander of Allied Land Forces Southeastern Europe.

Gen. Zais, who has commanded Third Army at Ft. McPherson since June 1972 will replace Gen. Frank T. Mildren who will retire in August. The assignment of Zais comes as Third Army is being absorbed by First Army as part of Army reorganization.



Life's natural highs

"Life's Natural Highs," a communication lab on drub abuse sponsored by the Muscogee County Board of Education and the Fort Benning Alcohol and Drug Control Office, will be presented on WTVM-TV, Channel, this Sunday and next Sunday, May 20 and 27, at 6 p.m.

The program is the same type that Chaplain Fraker has presented at several local schools, including Carver, Columbus, and Kendrick High Schools and Talbotton Road Junior High. Thus far, nearly 200 students have participated in the Communication workshops held at these schools.

The program will follow the same format used in the local high schools, and approximately 25 students selected from various schools will participate. The usual 2-hour workshop will be televised as two 30-minute sessions.

"Life's Natural Highs" deals with student concerns, and views the use of drugs not as a problem in itself but as a symptom of a deeper problem. The object of the program is to help students develop an awareness of the dangers of drug abuse, and to improve communication between students and their parents.

SOUND OFF!

Do you think a special day is needed to honor the Armed Forces?

Is it just a day off?

PFC Gary Wilhelm
931st Eng. HHC

In a way it is needed. I think there should be something behind it though. The main reason behind it should be to improve the public's image of the armed forces. Since it is on a Saturday it will not make much difference to a lot of people, because all they want is a day off.

PFC Neil Joyce
18th Replacement

Yes. This day should be for the men serving his country. People should honor the military man for the job he has to do. I think it should be a holiday and not a day that the military man has to perform for the people.

Pvt. Richard Brainard
44th Airborne

I think it is because the armed forces are always made up to look bad in the public's eye. I also think they should honor every man in the armed forces from the private on up and not just the higher ranks.

PFC Rick Spencer
Co. D, 1st. Bn. 29th Inf.

Yes. I believe a day should be set aside to honor the armed forces. The armed forces have done a lot for the country so the nation should take time out to recognize them for their achievements. They should honor the man who served in the past as well as the man serving now.

Pvt. Donald Poole
18th Replacement Co.

Yes, there should be a day.... The Armed Forces should be honored as a whole, but remember that it's the men that have to fight to keep the country free.

Volunteers from all walks of life are seeked

The Red Cross Volunteer program is open to all: servicemen, housewives, college or high school grads, in short, everyone who has a desire to help his fellow man.

There is also a need for professional people who may want to volunteer their special talents to the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Frank A. Moorhead is a registered dietician. She has a B.S. from Madison College, Harrisonburg, Virginia, and interned at Brooke Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Texas. She took her Red Cross Volunteer training at Fort Benning and has worked as a Red Cross Volunteer Dietician since last fall. She has been awarded the Red Cross Nutritionist Insignia.

The Diet Clinic at Martin Army Hospital instructs outpatients in proper diet. Among those needing special instruction are overweight patients, particularly pregnant women, and diabetics.

Mrs. Moorhead is available in the diet clinic one day a week to help any outpatients who are referred there by their doctor. She instructs the individual about their special diet needs and often gives them printed material to help him choose and prepare palatable foods that his diet requires.

As Mrs. Moorhead says, "Professional people can help out in the Red Cross too." There is always a spot in the Red Cross Vounteer program for people of many talents.

Getting paid

Ain't been the easiest thing to do

BY JIM HOWARD

Down through the ages, soldiers have been paid for their services in many weird and, nowadays, almost unbelievable forms; from battle spoils to gaining insight from the head of their foe to today's greenback.

The following examples are but a handful of the numerous pay systems for warriors and their deeds.

Around 1300 B.C., Rameses II rewarded his militia or warrior caste with plots of alloted land for supporting of the Pharoah and his family.

The Roman gladiators who would fight each other, usually to the death, in front of crowd filled arenas, sometimes lasted as long as 100 days. For these spectacles, the victorious gladiators were rewarded with branches of palm and sometimes money.

If a gladiator survived a number of combats, he might be discharged from the service to be employed as a bodyguard for a politician or wealthy person. A successful gladiator was not only famous but according to the "Satires" of Juvenal enjoyed the favors of society women.

Another interesting account tells of the Jaibaro warriors in Equador. They not only sought honor and fame when they took an enemy head but positive economic advantage. The enslaved spirit of the man whose head was taken was definitely practical, for the slayer became invested with great insight into domestic affairs through its ownership.

In the instance of the Plains Indian of America, the warriors would go to battle and receive their gains on their own. The horse was the symbol of everything good and manly — valor, religious power, honor but basically it was economics. During battles and raids on their enemies, each brave would try to gather as many horses as possible. A man rich in horses was rich in everything including wives.

During the Revolutionary War, the Langcove of Hesse (a noble and leader of the Hessian warriors) was paid by the British not for his own fighting but for his troops. Great Britain paid him by the head for the soldiers lost in the struggle. The amount paid totaled $2,500,000.

The American soldiers of the Continental Army were paid on a unreliable credit plan. When their wages were paid to them, if at all, it was in Contin-money whose value gave birth to the expression "not worth a continental." Typical of pay scale was a Second lieutenant pay per month: $3.15.

How would you have liked to wait all month for payday only to receive but six dollars with one dollar of that being held until the expiration of your service? Well you too would have been in that pay line collecting your five dollars if you would have been a private in the U.S. Army of 1833.

The Confederate Army was being paid large bounties up to $1,000 for a short term enlistment in local militia units frequently for no more than three months of service.

1877 was a bad year — for the men of the U. S. Army. The pay in the post Civil War period did not come regularly and, for one complete year, it did not come at all. The 52nd Congress did not appropriate any funds for the pay of the Army in 1877.

The most recent unusual means of payment has been the Military Payment certificate (MPC). Resembling monopoly money it has been used since the occupation after WWII to control the black market of the U.S. greenback. It is often changed to control anyone with an abundance of the certificates.

These were just a scratch on surface of the numberous ways soldiers have been paid for their services over the years. Remember, too, that whatever the soldier has been payed throughout the years usually matches the economy of his times. Also, it is not material objects that influence men to become soldiers, but also patriotism, religion, honor, valor plus many different reasons, only known by the individual soldier. All these share a position with the monetary value of soldiering.

widespread. Fort Benning, a scouting post is participating as shown here. Capt. Raymone O'Neill of the 197th Infantry Brigade handed out tickets to many of the salesmen in the immediate area.

OWC Cookbook

"Golden Heritage" is dream come true for every gourmet

Riverside

UNIQUE COOKBOOK

If you have eaten in restaurants here and abroad, if you have read all the popular cookbooks and clipped recipes from leading magazines and newspapers, you could hardly come up with more interesting, more up-to-date and more workable recipes than those found in the "Golden Heritage Cookbook."

The "Golden Heritage" will be the most unique and professional military wives' cookbook ever published. Not only will this cookbook feature recipes from Fort Benning hostesses and well-known personalities such as the General of the Armies, Omar N. Bradley, but it will be punctuated with carefully researched historical facts of early day living at Camp Benning. Original pen and ink drawings will illustrate days of yesteryear.

Every recipe featured in the "Golden Heritage" has been carefully tested and proven for success and palatibility in the OWC kitchen and various homes of the cookbook committee.

ONE OF MANY

A recipe from each of the ten sections of the OWC "Golden Heritage" Cookbook will be featured in the Femline column in coming weeks. (Be sure to look for them.)

From The "Riverside" section:

ARMY-NAVY BEANS: WISCONSIN STYLE

Submitted by: General of the Army Omar N. Bradley, Commandant of the Infantry School from March 1941 to February 1942.

3 cups cooked Navy beans
1 cup tomato sauce
½ cup thick sour cream
½ cup sauteed onions
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon sugar

Combine beans, tomato sauce, sour cream, onions, salt, pepper and sugar. Place in glass baking dish. Cook in 350 F oven for 20 minutes.

6 slices crisp cooked bacon
¾ cup grated processed sharp cheese

Remove from oven. Lay strips bacon on top. Sprinkle cheese over top of casserole. Return to oven. Cook for 20 minutes more. Serve in same baking dish.

Variety Keynote

Variety is the keynote stressed presenting all-time favorites like "Country Captain Chicken" and "Grandmother's Lemon Chess Pie," plus unusual "Roast Pheasant with Brandy and Cream" and "Indian Tondoori Chicken" . . . classic "Gold Souffle Grand Marnier . . heavenly desserts like "Brandied Peach Ice Cream" and beverages of many flavors.

The "Golden Heritage" is a smorgasbord of delectable dishes styled for today's kitchens. So, don't let inexperience, shyness or a tiny kitchen inhibit your hidden cooking talents. Discover for yourself how rewarding the "Golden Heritage" can be.

Reserve a copy for yourself and a few extras for gifts that will be treasured when this creative cookbook commemorating the 500th anniversary of the Officers' Wives' Club becomes a collector's item.

To Order Yours

To order your exclusive copy of the "Golden Heritage" Cookbook, mail your check or money order for $5.00 per copy to "Golden Heritage" Cookbook, Officers' Wives' Club of Fort Benning, P.O. Forget about saving!

(we'll remember it for you)

Saving is a good idea, but do you have trouble saving as often as you'd like to?

Well, why not forget about saving . . . and let CB&T remember it for you!

It's really very simple. Just tell us how much you want to save, and when. Then, we'll transfer that amount from your CB&T checking account and deposit it to your savings account for you.

It makes saving just a little easier for you . . . and you still get the highest interest allowed by a commercial bank. So come to CB&T, and forget about saving.

Whatja wanta Know? ask the BAYONET

CALL 545-4792

DEAR BAYONET:

I understand Special Services office has boats, motors, trailers and other equipment that they rent. Who can rent this equipment, how much does it cost, how long can it be kept, and where can it be rented? A.A.P.

DEAR A.A.P...

Equipment is available to all active duty personnel stationed at Fort Benning, and retired military personnel living in the immediate Fort Benning area.

There are two types of fold out wheel campers available. The large rent for $1.75 per day, the small rent for $1.25 per day.

They come equipped with an icebox, sink, three burner stove, and two double beds.

Also available are 14' boats with 9 horsepower outboard motors; and trailer for $2.25 per day. Life preservers may be rented for $.25 per day.

Maximum rental period for all is 14 days.

It is advisable to request campers 30 days prior to desired date of usage and one week prior on boats.

The Special Services office for rental of campers and boats is located in Bldg. 1707 on Gaudette St. adjacent to the Reenlistment trailer and Commissary parking lot. Hours of operation are Monday thru Friday 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., Sundays and Holidays, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

DEAR BAYONET:..

I'm a soldier who just inherited some money. Do Army lawyers advise people about what to do? S.E.

DEAR S.E.

The Staff Judge Advocate does not give specific advice in making personal investments, however, they provide such general information regarding investment counselors and trust companies who are attined to personal investments.

In addition, an appointment should be made with the S.J.A. office to determine specific goals, as each one's wants and needs, likes and dislikes differ in each case.

In the event an individual must put in a claim for the money the S.J.A. will not represent the claimant, but will give advice on the methods and procedures of establishing the claim.

DEAR BAYONET:

I am a Sgt. (E-5) PMOS 11B40 serving at Fort Benning, Ga. I would like to transfer to Ft. Ord, Calif. on an exchange basis. How do I go about making arrangements? A.M.P.

DEAR A.M.P.:..

Individuals wishing to transfer within CONUS stations must first procure a written signed agreement from the person willing to SWAP duty stations. This can be done by writing to the Adjutant General Personnel Management branch at the requested station or by writing to the Army Times.

Each person must possess the same qualifications regarding rank and MOS.

Once written signed agreement is secured, a Disposition (DF) Form 2496 must be initiated by the requester at his local unit thru the normal chain of command. It must cite the provisions of AR 614-200 Para 1-23. It must also state that all expenses will be borne by the individual. The written signed agreement to SWAP must be an inclosure to the requesters DF.

The DF will be processed thru the normal chain of command. Once losing and gaining commands agree, losing command will issue orders effecting transfer.

It must be kept in mind, that individuals accepting transfer will not be stabilized, and are immediately eligible for deployment overseas.

Quick lane changers hazardous

Each morning during the incoming morning traffic rush along the Lindsey Creek By-Pass there are several quick lane change drivers who are endangering the lives and property of other drivers. Specifically as they pass under the Highway 27 bridge, they move over to the right lane to avoid the occasional delay which occurs in the left lane at the traffic light just before Custer Road. They gleefully pass the delayed traffic and after passing through the green arrow they signal left and slow down to lockey back into the left lane they had earlier vacated. Invariably they execute a rapid maneuver left and suddenly cut in on unsuspecting drivers. These drivers, who are maintaining a safe following distance, must brake quickly and without warning. This produces a chain reaction effect which is especially hazardous to all the motorists in the traffic stream.

The driver exults in the time he has saved and ignores the dangerous situation he created. He may have saved 30 or 40 seconds maximum. This type of driving is a kind we can well do without. If you are one of these drivers, stop and consider the big picture. Recognize that you are endangering yourself and others and really are not saving much time. Drive defensively, limit your lane changes to those that are necessary.

Visitors to the Spring Thing witnessed a decorati e painting demonstration by Patsy Maddox, a cake decorating exhibition by JoAnne Huff, a lesson in Macrame given by Liz Miller, and a demonstration on rug making techniques by Vonda Richards.

BBOD meets at FBOOM

A Happy Hour get-together on 9 May at the FBOOM was both a happy and sad occasion for the officers and ladies of Staff Group of the Brigade and Battalion Operations Department. Colonel Sanders A. Cortner, Chief of Staff Group, took the opportunity to welcome new arrivals, however, as is the custom of our Army, he also had to announce the departure of several older members of the group.

The new arrivals who recently joined the group were: Major and Mrs. William W. Holston and Captain and Mrs. Michael G. Kosolapoff, Communicative Arts Committee; Captain and Mrs. George K. Webster, Operations and Training Techniques Committee; and Captain and Mrs. James M. Norton, Personnel Committee. Departees who were honored included: Major and Mrs. Charles B. Knowlen, Operations and Training Techniques Committee; Captain and Mrs. Edward J. Cramer Jr., Intelligence Committee; Captain and Mrs. William B. Miller, Communicative Arts Committee; Captain and Mrs. Robert H. Kelly, Logistics Committee.

Also present as guests of the group were Colonel and Mrs. Allen M. Buckner, Deputy Director of the department.

Southern Bell takes over post telephones

Next Fall Southern Bell will begin furnishing telephone service to about 3,600 customers at Fort Benning who are now served by the U.S. Army, according to a joint announcement by Fort Benning and Southern Bell District Manager Jack Leech.

"Southern Bell will take over all telephone service at the Fort, with the exception of the administrative telephone service, on October 7," said the statement. "Service for official government telephones will continue to be provided by Fort Benning."

A new Central Office prefix, "689", with a capacity of 1,000 numbers, will be installed in the Baker Village Central Office for part of the Fort Benning customers who have approximately 6,400 phones. The remainder will be served by the existing "687" and "689" prefixes out of the Baker Village office.

"New Southern Bell conduit and cable to serve these customers is currently being installed at a cost of $1,866,000," said Leech, "and new switching equipment to serve these customers is currently being installed at a cost of $418,000."

Leech said that the cutover will coincide with the directory delivery which is scheduled for October 1 through October 7. Fort Benning customers having service at the directory close date, August 9, will be listed in the directory.

Business customers located at Fort Benning will be contacted prior to the close of the directory for the purpose of offering them the opportunity to advertise in the yellow pages, according to Leech.

The Junior Red Cross (Volunteers) training program is now in full swing. Any teenagers who will be 15 years old on or before Oct. 1, and who want to fill their summer hours constructively are welcome to join the Junior Red Cross.

Helping others, shouldering responsibility and gaining maturity are some of the rewards received by the Red Cross Youth Volunteers after giving their time during their summer vacation.

Orientation for the Red Cross Youth will be June 7, 8:45 - 3:30. To register for the class and for more information, call Mrs. William Carter, 687-4541.

Who, what, where with this in mind, each lady brought a humorous gift for the specific hour of a 24 hour plane trip. On the serious side Judy was given a charm and an apron from the group and a set of Cannon napkin rings.

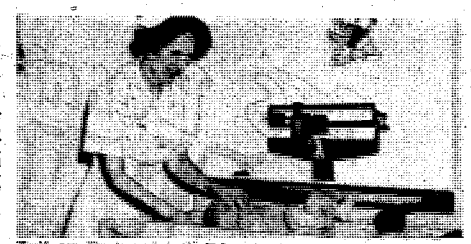
Assisting Mrs. Lunsford with the party was Mrs. John T. Lawrence.

Mrs. Mary Lippincott was welcomed to the group.

DIO

The ladies of DIO met at the home of Mrs. Henry Hutcheson on Zuckerman, Fort Benning, on April 27. This special salad luncheon was in honor of Mrs. Thomas MacGregor and Mrs. John Sagul, whose husbands are retiring. Both ladies were presented with corsages and engraved charms. Newcomers welcomed into the group were Mrs. Richard Pope and Mrs. Samuel Boozer. Mrs. James Applewhite will be the hostess next month.

The civilian and military personnel of DIO met for a Hail and Farewell, Sat., April 28 at the Supper Club. Special guests included Gen. and Mrs. Willard Latham and Col. and Mrs. Bruce Fraser. Five couples were welcomed into the unit. They are Col. Berry Henderson, Maj. and Mrs. Richard Pope, Maj. and Mrs. John Hughes, Capt. and Mrs. Samuel Boozer and Capt. and Mrs. Robert LeMaster. Lt. Col. Thomas MacGregor and Lt. Col. John Sagul were presented a DIO plaque in commemoration of their retirement.



19TH INF. BDE.
3rd BN. 7TH INF.

Sun, surf and sand provided the background for a fun weekend enjoyed by officers and their families of the 3rd Bn. 7th Inf. at the Infantry Center Recreation Area at Destin, Fla. on May 4, 5 and 6.

The evening of May 4 was highlighted by dinner at a local restaurant with 48 Cottonbalers descending on the "lucky" establishment. Games of volleyball and water football were organized on Saturday, May 5, for the "athletically inclined." Lt. Col. Charles O. Arnecke Jr., Battalion Commander, was deemed "official photographer" as he darted here and there catching many candid shots with his trusty camera. Dinner Saturday evening was a Shrimp-A-Peel with Mrs. Arnecke supplying the recipe for the cooking of 26 pounds of fresh shrimp, which was quickly devoured by the hungry group. After all had had their fill, a "group sing" got under way with music provided by four of the Battalion's talented guitarists.

Chapel was held on Sunday in the cool morning air in a wooded spot near the beach, with Chaplain (Capt.) Randolph G. Spray officiating. It was a perfect finish to a perfect weekend.

VFW sponsors DOD award

The 1973 Unsung Heroine Award competition sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars is open to military and civilian employees at Fort Benning.

The award is presented annually as a special salute to an outstanding woman associated with the Department of Defense. Nominations are made on the basis of outstanding action in support of a program or activity of the U.S. Armed Forces during all or part of 1972-73.

The awards will be presented at the Ladies Auxiliary VFW Convention in New Orleans Aug. 17-24 1973. If the winner cannot accept in person the award will be presented to the next person in line who can be present.

Nominations must be submitted by mail directly to Mrs. Lola Reid, National President, Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars 406 West 34 Street Kansas City Mo.

Nominations should include the name and title of the nominee, current address and telephone and complete hometown address. The reason for the nomination should be given along with the name, rank, unit, and address of the person submitting the nomination.

The commanding officer or civilian supervisor must sign the nomination and it must be accompanied by a glossy black and white photograph of the nominee. The winner is chosen by an independent panel of judges appointed by the Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW.

Rover Jr. pays visit to 931st

Recently the men of HHC 931st received a visit from Rover Junior, a machine that simulates a crash at five miles per hour. The purpose of the visit is to show the men the good that their seat belts will do if they just wear them.

Rover Junior visits the unit about once every year to impress upon the men the importance of seat belts.

The men ride the machine one at a time being strapped in with a shoulder harness and a seat belt. The machine is started and the seat runs down a ramp into the end simulating hitting a wall or another vehicle.

Festival of Flowers was the theme of the Ranger Department Spring Formal held May 5 at the Fort Benning Officer's Open Mess. A multitude of paper flowers and fresh flower centerpieces carried out the theme.

After cocktails and a receiving line all of the officers and ladies gathered in the Fountain Room for dinner. Entertainment for the evening was skits, acted out by officers from the Department, which gave everyone a humorous look at the business of being a Ranger and at being Ranger wives.

Dancing to the music of "The Sands" topped off the evening festivities.

The Ranger Department was happy to have as their guests: Brig. Gen. and Mrs. William R. Richardson; Maj. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Guillory, Mountai Ranger Camp; Lt. Col. and Mrs. William D. Old and Capt. and Mrs. William M. Welch, Forida Ranger Camp.

Comedy scheduled for Springer Theatre Company

A wholesome, amusing comedy, TAKE HER, SHE'S MINE, is scheduled as the next production of the Springer Theatre Company. Written by Phoebe and Henry Ephron, the comedy gleefully recounts the phases of a typical modern American girl and her parents during her first year away from home at college. It tells with so much charm of her addictions to fads and flirtations, and of the anxieties of her loving parents over her welfare, that it has been described by several drama critics as a piece of modern-day folklore of American family life.

The play's large cast consists of many familiar faces as well as several newcomers to the Springer stage. The role of Frank, the anxious father, will be played by Art Lane, whose numerous performances at the Springer have brought this highly experienced and talented performer much recognition and praise from critics and audiences as well. Alice Anderson will be seen as Anne, the imperturbable mother. Mrs. Anderson has delighted Springer audiences in a variety of roles and will no doubt delight again as this sage and witty mother of a teenage daughter. Another very familiar face will be that of Cissie Noble whose numerous television commercials have made her very popular on Columbus TV screens. Mrs. Noble will be portraying Mollie, the collegiate daughter and object of her parents' loving concern. The younger daughter, Liz, will be played by Janet Carroll. This will be Miss Carroll's first appearance with the Springer Theater Company. Ken Phillips, a well-known and seasoned Springer performer, will be Alex, one of Millie's persistent admirers. The other such admirer, Emmett, will be played by Jeff Burgess, also a Springer veteran. The role of Mr. Hibbetts, a hilarious professor of poetry, will be portrayed by Dr. Herman Wallner. Dr. Wallner is most recently recalled as the terrifying Count Dracula.

Others in the talented cast include Howard Mendel as Mr. Whitmeyer, Chuck Fessenden as Clancy, Susan Dennis as the company female understudy and Robert Behr as male understudy - all Springer veterans. Deborah Wallner as Addie, Diane Wood as Sarah, James M. Greene as Donn, Robert W. Behar and Andy Gilbert as the 1st and 2nd Freshmen, Rick Cutler as Richard, Glen Kenney as Alfred, Mary Mendel as Linda and Mary Ann Koepsell as an Airline Clerk - all newcomers - complete the cast.

Directing TAKE HER, SHE'S MINE, is Jim Way of Atlanta. Mr. Way will no doubt bring many interesting and hilarious touches to this already witty and enjoyable comedy.

Sets are being designed by Jim Othuse, whose past efforts have established his reputation as one of the most talented and creative designers around.

TAKE HER, SHE'S MINE will be presented at the Springer Opera House May 24 through June 2. Performances are at 8:30 p.m. — with a special matinee performance on June 2 at 3:00 P.M. in addition to that evening's performance.

The Box Office will be open to the public on May 21st. Seats can be reserved by telephoning 404-327-3688.

145th Aviation Battalion activated under USAIC

The 145th Aviation Battalion was activated in ceremonies at Lawson Army Airfield. Major General Thomas M. Tarpley, Commander, Fort Benning, was the reviewing officer for the ceremonies, May 15.

Lt. Col. Lawrence A. Bell, Commander of the USAIC Aviation Command, assumed command of the 145th, which now includes the 121st, 205th, and 478th Aviation Companies, the 509th Transportation Company, 931st Aviation Platoon, and the 187th Pathfinder Detachment.

One of the best known of the Aviation Units which served in the Republic of Vietnam, the 145th Aviation Battalion was formed in September, 1963 from the in-country assets of the 45th Transportation Battalion. During its years in Vietnam, the 145th played a key role in the development of Army Aviation and the airmobility concept. Its combat operations extended from the Suthern Delta Region to the Northern most limits of the DMZ. The battalion provided combat aviation support to the First, Fourth, Ninth, and 25th Infantry Division, the First Marine Division, the Fifth, Seventh, and Tenth RVN Divisions, the First Australian Task Force, the 196th and 199th Light Infantry Brigades, and the 173rd Airborne Brigade.

In addition to the thousands of awards presented to individual soldiers of the unit, the battalion was cited on four different occasions for extraordinary heroism in combat, resulting in the award of the Presidential Unit Citation, the Valorous Unit Citation, and two awards of the Cross of Gallantry with Palms.

Following the Activation Ceremonies, the ringing of the Chieng or the Great Bronze Gong of the 145th Aviation Battalion, summoned the guests to a reception in the Fixed Wing Hanger adjacent to Lawson Army Airfield Headquarters. Guests also viewed a static display of the various types of Army Aircraft normally based at Lawson including a OH-58, UH-1H, AH-1G, SH-47C, CH-54, C-45 and U-8.

Jewish Center ends film series

The last and undoubtedly the best motion picture of the Fort Benning Jewish Center "Film Series" will be shown on Sunday night, May 20, 1973. The Shop On Main Street" will be viewed at 8 p.m. at the Jewish Center, Building 2622.

One of the most acclaimed films of recent years, and winner of the Academy Award as best Foreign Language Film, "The Shop On Main Street" is a haunting tragicomedy set during the early days of the Nazi occupation of Czechoslovakia. Britko (Josef Kroner), a simple, amiable carpenter, is appointed "aryan controller" of a supposedly profitable Jewish shop. The shop's elderly proprietress (Ida Kaminska), a stubborn but lovable widow, is oblivious to the war, and is incapable of understanding why Britko is there. He tries to explain, but she is deaf, and puts him to work as her assistant. Furthermore, Britko learns that the shop has no merchandise, and the impoverished woman is supported by the other Jewish merchants. Britko, ironically, is put on the Jewish Community's payroll, but he makes the most of this, and develops an affection for the woman. When the Nazis begin deporting Jews, Britko risks his life by trying to hide her; however, during a moment of panic, he inadvertently kills her. When he realizes what he has done, he hangs himself.

The public is invited. There will be no admission charge and refreshments will be served.

CRIME PREVENTION TIPS!

BY RANDY BOOSE

The Columbus-Phenix City-Fort Benning chapter of the Association of the United States Army (AUSA) is on its way to becoming the world's largest chapter for the 5th year in a row.

The membership drive lasts until June 30 and is open to both military and civilians. The drive has received strong support from all segments of the tri-city area.

The civilian part of the membership drive began April 20 with the mayors of Columbus and Phenix City declaring it AUSA day. Over 200 civilians have joined AUSA as a result of this emphasis on gaining new members.

Companies B and D of the 43rd Engineer Battalion (Construction) have led the way with 100 per cent membership in their companies of all officers and NCO's E-6 and above.

Post DA civilians are also making a good showing. Mr. Charles Martin, an employe of the commissary, recently became a lifetime member of AUSA.

Currently the local chapter has 4,618 members. Worldwide the Association has over 90,000 members dedicated "to a thoroughly professional Army, supported by the American people, which is essential to our national defense."

So if you are currently a member, check and see when your membership expires. You may need to renew it before the June 30 deadline. Rates for membership go up in July from $7.50 for a one year membership to $10.00. If you are not a member and want to find out more about AUSA call the information office at 545-4792.

Remember there is a lot to being a member of the largest AUSA Chapter — there is the group insurance programs, the monthly ARMY magazine, the four membership meetings that attract speakers of the caliber of the past Secretary of Army Robert F. Froehlke, the annual Picnic and George Washington Dinner-Dance, the support AUSA gives to organizations like the Gold Star Wives and ROTC, and most important for the soldier is their backing of such programs as maintaining civilian KPs and increased military pay.

Support your Army, support AUSA. Join today.

Enlisted extensions now taken

Continental Army Command has announced that first term soldiers with an expiration term of service date in May or June may extend their enlistment for a minimum of two or three months up to 12 months.

Past experience has indicated it is helpful to many soldiers, especially those in transition training, to extend their enlistment for personal and compassionate reasons such as school acceptance is still pending and an extension can provide income until final result; school acceptance for the fall semester has been received and an extension can provide income until school starts.

Other reasons may be work opportunities have not been finalized; plans for transition into civilian life can be facilitated by extension; and other individual needs or aspirations can be accommodated by an extension.

Clinic takes new families

The Family Practice Clinic, located in Building 324, adjacent to the Martin Army Hospital Annex, is now in the process of accepting additional families for medical care in the clinic.

Those families who have applied for acceptance over the past several months will, in the very near future, receive letters advising them of their acceptance into the program. This backlog of applications will not satisfy the patient care capabilities of the clinic, which will increase in July 1973 when more physcians will be added to the program and when many families presently enrolled in the program leave Fort Benning for another duty section.

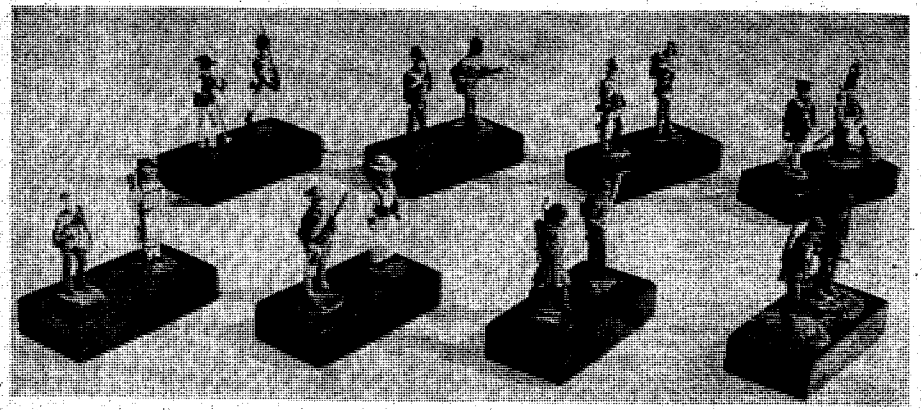
Families desiring to participate in the program should come to Building 324 and fill out the appropriate application. All active duty and retired military personnel are eligible to participate in the program. Retired personnel are encouraged to participate in the program.

Active duty personnel should be reasonably certain that they will be at Fort Benning for at least a year or more before applying for the program.

Three out of four

Delta Company, 43rd Engineer Battalion (Construction) was recently honored by the Columbus-Pheoix City-Fort Benning Chapter of the Association of the United States Army. At a Board of Directors meeting, the local chapter president, assisted by Major General Thomas Tarpley presented Capt. Richard H. Beiter, the Company Commander, and SFC Steve Stevens with a plaque honoring the unit's achievement of 100 per cent membership for all E-6 and above. Delta Company was further recognized as being the first unit on Fort Benning to achieve this goal. The full support of this unit by all the NCOs and Officers provide a firm example for the younger and newly assigned members of the unit. In a follow-on battalion awards presentation, the plaque was presented to Capt. Beiter and 1SG Stevens by the 43rd Engr. Bn. commander, LTC R. J. Rappaport.

The word is out that Company C, 43rd Engineer Battalion, (Const.) is outstanding company of the month for April. Company C has won the honor three of the last four months.



According to Capt. Joe M. Dietzel, company commander, the secret to the success in the monthly competition is a little attention to the various point making elements of the competition and a whole lot of esprit de corps in the unit. The key to winning the competition in April was the winning of battalion soldier of the month by SP4 James L. Hardy and Pvt. Raymond R. Hiel competing in the 931st GP Drive of the Month competition.

These soldiers are miniatures which are part of the National Infantry Museum's collection. They represent various periods in the United States' military history, from the Revolutionary War until World War II. Each American soldier is shown with his opponent in that particular conflict. Conflicts represented are (back row, left to right) Revolutionary War, Indian Wars, War of 1812, Mexican War, (front row, left to right) Civil War, Spanish-American War, World ar I, and World War II.

Uniform history of Army

BY SUSANNE BOSTICK

The military history of the United States is a colorful one, and the uniforms worn by the U. S. Army have been equally colorful. On this Armed Forces Day, they serve as a reminder that our nation has been ably defended since its birth by the men who wore these uniforms.

In the Revolutionary War, Colonial soldiers wore every kind of uniform, from their own homespun clothing to hunting gear. A few units were able to afford their own uniforms, but most were forced to wear whatever was available.

During the period between the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812, the U. S. Army was occupied with various Indian Wars. Until the War of 1812, United States soldiers wore blue uniforms for Artillery, Infantry, and Cavalry. The Infantry's uniforms had red facings with white lining and trimming.

First signs of green

The Artillery's uniforms were lined and faced with red and trimmed with yellow. In 1812 a unit of the Regular Army wore green for the first time. A U.S. Rifle Regiment wore green from 1808 to 1812, trimmed with yellow and faced with black.

It was also in 1814 that the Battle of Chippewa was fought, and Gen. Winfield Scott's troops were gray because blue uniforms were not available. It is said that the gray uniform worn by Cadets at the U. S. Military Academy was adopted in memory of this battle.

The Engineers wore blue uniforms, faced with black and trimmed with yellow, from 1802 until 1851. After the War of 1812 began, the rest of the Army went back to its simple blue uniforms, the Infantry's trimmed with white and the Artillery's with yellow.

Old hat

In 1832 the old colors were adopted once again for the Infantry and Artillery, and the new Dragoon units of mounted Infantrymen wore blue uniforms trimmed with yellow. In 1851, a frock coat was adopted by all branches of the Army. The Artillery's coats had scaret collars and cuffs, the Infantry's were light blue, the Riflemen's, green, and the Dragoons', orange.

During the Civil War, the Union blue and Confederate gray were sometimes worn by opposite sides. Confederate troops wore butternut homespun when necessity dictated, and one unit of Union sharpshooters wore green uniforms. At the end of the war, Confederate troops made use of any kind of clothing they could find, including parts of Union uniforms.

First khakies

In the Spanish-American War, the first khaki uniforms were worn by volunteer regiments, although blue uniforms were still the standard. In World War I, the trend in military apparel shifted from glamorous dress uniforms to more utilitarian field gear.

Practicality was supplemented by adding unit patches for color and distinctiveness. Instead of different uniforms for every unit or branch, the patch came into use as a means of adding individuality and raising troop morale.

After World War I, khaki uniforms became more acceptable for summer war, and blue and white dress uniforms came into use. In World War II, practicality in uniforms was again emphasized. Climatic conditions were considered in designing field uniforms, and new helmets and combat boots replaced those of the World War I era.

Today's Army

Special uniforms, such as the paratrooper's outfit, were introduced, and body armor in the form of laminated nylon vests was used for the first time in Korea. In 1954 the Army replaced its olive drab uniform with Army Green, which is still in use today.

This Armed Forces Day is an excellent time to stop and remember the vital role our armed services have played in defense of our heritage of freedom.

Armed Forces Day

'A really big show'

This Armed Forces Day, Fort Benning soldiers will be participating in a variety of activities throughout the civilian community. All week long, various units have traveled to towns in the Southeast with displays, exhibits, and parades.

On Monday, May 14, the U. S. Army Infantry School gave a Scout Dog demonstration in Roebuck, Ala. Tuesday through tomorrow, May 15 to 19, the 197th Infantry Brigade combo, covered wagon, static displays, and exhibits have been in Jackson, Miss. for the opening of a Recruiting Main Station there.

On Wednesday, May 16, a Sport Parachute demonstration was given in Gaghen, Ala., and Troy, Ala., and on Thursday, May 17, a tour of Fort Benning began for ROTC students from Clearwater, Fla. This tour will end tomorrow, May 19.

Today through Monday, May 21, a static display will be in Cypress Gardens, Fla., and tomorrow, parades will be held in Millbrook, Ala., and Albany, Ga., with the 931st Recruiting Band and color guard.

Also tomorrow, a Scout Dog demonstration will be given at the University of Georgia in Athens by the Infantry School. Lt. Col. William Lehner, executive officer, 931st Engineeer Group, will be making a speech tomorrow at Girard High School in Phenix City.

Displays were also set up this week at the 1st National Bank of Columbus, the Ralston Hotel, and the Gas Light Company of Columbus.

Themes for Armed Forces Day in the past have been "Professionals for Peace," "Forces for Freedom," and "The Army at Work." Armed Forces Day was first observed in May, 1950, when a proclamation was signed by the late President Harry S Truman.

A day in which the nation could pay tribute to its joint armed forces was proposed by General Omar N. Bradley, then Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, on Army Day in 1949. The theme for the first Armed Forces Day was "Teamed for Defense."

It was observed in Columbus with a parade downtown on Broadway in which the 30th Infantry, then stationed at Fort Benning, marched. Local civilian authorities as well as military leaders were on the reviewing stand, and military displays were put in Columbus.

Coming to the screen

Steelyard Blues

STEELYARD BLUES . . . A way-out comedy starring Jane Fonda who portrays a high priced hobker, Donald Sutherland as a demolition derby driver — three-time loser ex-con, and Peter Boyle who portrays an asylum escapee with a wonderful flair for crazy disguises. The bizarre gang of characters plan a crazy caper to steal parts that will launch an antique airplane on an around-the-world cruise. At the Naval Base the next morning, they are confronted by an armada of police cars as they prepare to take off in their stolen converted PBY.

Carnal Knowledge

CARNAL KNOWLEDGE . . . Splendidly produced and directed by Mike Nichols, the story is episodic, starting in the late 1940's when Jack Nicholson and Art Garfunkel are college boys pursuing Candice Bergen — with Garfunkel winning out. The top-flight cast includes sexy Ann-Margret.

Walking Tall

WALKING TALL . . . Based on factual events in the life of Tennessee Sheriff Buford Pusser, this action-packed chronicle stars Joe Don Baker in the role of an ex-wrestler who returns to his hometown to settle down with his wife Elizabeth Hartman and family. Baker stumbles on a corrupt gambling operation after which he is tortured and left for dead. From there it's a fight to first save his own neck from a trumped-up assault and robbery charge and then to clean up his town by being elected Sheriff. Fighting violence with violence, Buford arms himself with a big stick with which he manages to survive three near-fatal attempts on his life while leaving a line of corpses behind him.

Blasting to the beat of his music emanating from a jukebox is one of the most popular attractions of lively 197th Infantry Brigade Hideaway nightclub on Hastings Hill. In addition, the night spot, part of the Fort Benning NCO Club System, features go-go girls and a variety of beverages and snacks.

School Bde. involved in race relations

The School Brigade is a unit involved and concerned with race relations. Seminars and meetings are held regularly to determine the problems and solutions facing minority group soldiers.

HHC, TSB held its meeting at 3:30 p.m., May 10, and it went on for over two hours. Sometimes quiet, and sometimes noisy, the purpose of the meeting is to increase understanding between the races.

1st Lt. Samuel F. Patterson opened the meeting by outlining how complaints about discrimination should be handled. When he finished Capt. John W. Lowe Jr. moved the discussion into high gear by suggesting ways various sections where TSB soldiers could more efficiently take care of matters of discrimination.

"Capt. Lowe emphasized that "each man in the Army is important as a man or woman, and as a soldier. No one is "only" a private.

When the meeting closed it did so with what one Sp4 labeled "each a better understanding between those who attended. More like human beings instead of separate racial groups."

No benefits for husbands illegal

According to an Associated Press dispatch, a federal law denying housing and medical benefits to husbands of servicewomen has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court in an 8 to 1 decision.

Until Monday, a women in the armed forces had to prove that she provided at least half her husband's support before she could obtain on-post housing and medical benefits.

In contrast to this provision, a serviceman's wife can receive benefits, whether or not her husband provides half her support. Four of the Justices compared sex discrimination to that based on national origin or race.

They cited historical examples as proof that "an attitude of 'romantic paternalism' has existed which, in practical effect, puts women not on a pedestal, but in a cage."

The plurality opinion also stated that laws "according differential treatment to male and female members of the uniformed services. . .violate the due process clause of the Fifth Amendment."

Submit plays now

The Fort Benning Dramatizers are looking for people to submit plays for the next production at the Playhouse.

The only requirements for play submission are that the person submitting direct the play or have someone who is willing to direct the play at the time of submission. In addition, the person must have a copy of the play for the board of directors to read.

Deadline for submissions is May 21. Persons interested in submitting a play may obtain further information by coming to the Playhouse, Bldg. 1227, on Ingersoll St. behind the Infantry Museum, or by calling 545-2932 or 545-5057.

Announcement of the play selected will be made at the Dramatizers meeting at 7:30 p.m. on May 28 at the Playhouse.

Disney World awaits

As a part of the Fort Benning Reward System, soldiers have a chance to go to Walt Disney World and Kennedy Space Center, Florida, May 25-28.

Commanders will select deserving personnel within their unit to attend.

Individuals selected to participate will depart at 8 a.m. May 25 from the front entrance of the Briant Wells Fieldhouse.

Prior to leaving, and orientation will be held the day before at 8:30 a.m. at the Main Post Theater.

Participants going will be furnished free transportation, housing, entry to Disney World and $30 per person to defray the cost of meals.

Individuals who desire secured parking for their POVs may park them at the Boats and Campers Storage Yard in the vicinity of the Main Post Commissary off Guadette St.

Construction

Ground broken for addition at MAH

May 11, marked the beginning of construction on a $3.2 million contract awarded to Anderson and Associates as general contractor.

The construction is to consist of a two floor clinic addition and a single floor supply and services addition which will provide 69,600 square feet of floor space. Additionally nearly all of the existing first floor area at Martin Army Hospital will be renovated or modified.

The clinic addition will provide space for clinics which will then be moved from the hospital annex. These include Optometry, Pediatrics, Family Practice, and Dermatology. The first floor renovation will provide larger, more acceptable areas for Radiology, Pathology, Registrar, Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, Orthopedics, and Pharmacy.

These changes will help Martin Army Hospital to provide "one stop" medical care to the active duty, retired, and dependent population supported in the Fort Benning area. It is scheduled to be completed in the spring of 1975.

When you buy a $1,000 lot from us, you get a lot more than just a lot.

Today you can buy a prototypical home in Horizon City, Texas, for as little as $1,000 or as much as $1,000. For that price, you'll be getting a place to live in the growing Southwest—land that you can trust to build on today, or put aside for its long-term appreciation potential.

Like each of our other communities, Horizon City offers everything you need for a more relaxed, recreational, carefree lifestyle. Horizon Corporation has been in the business of planned community development since 1959, and we're an acknowledged leader in that field. Over $50 million has been spent on improvements in our communities thus far, and this is only the beginning. Take a look at the list below of some of the things we have to offer you at Horizon City, Texas. Then see if you don't agree that you get more land for your money with Horizon.

1. EL PASO, TEXAS. Just 3.5 miles west of Horizon City lie El Paso and neighboring Juarez, Mexico. Both are international cities with a combined population of over 3/4 million, and together represent the largest bilingual community on the Mexican border. The El Paso economy is based on the "five C's": copper, clothing, climate, cattle and conventions.

Over 122 products are manufactured by 400 industrial firms in the El Paso area.

Many of these products are manufactured under the "twin plant" concept—a plan that benefits the economies of both El Paso and Juarez, Mexico. The twin plant idea allows American companies to manufacture goods utilizing labor forces on both sides of the border, to produce products at competitive costs.

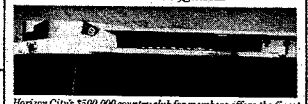
2. FORT BLISS. Fort Bliss is the largest of the many military bases in the El Paso area. These bases play an important role in El Paso's economy. In fact, the city's Chamber of Commerce has estimated that one out of every six residents are active or retired military, their dependents, or civilian personnel.

3. RECREATION AND CULTURE. El Paso and Horizon City are ideal for the sports-minded person. There's snow-skiing 90 miles away in Ruidoso, New Mexico, and thoroughbred horse racing at Sunland Park, three miles west of El Paso. Horizon City has its own golf, tennis, swimming and country club facilities. There's bullfighting and dog racing in Juarez. And there's small boating and fishing at 88-acre Lake Horizon. Hunting is available within the community.

El Paso and Juarez also offer Horizon City residents big city advantages. There are theatres, entertainment, shopping, Liberal Arts and Junior Colleges, excellent restaurants and just about everything else you might expect from a metropolitan area of more than 3/4 million people.

4. MEMBERSHIP IN THE H.C.I.A. The Horizon Community Improvement Association, comprised of community property owners, accumulates monies which, over the years, are used for community betterment.

5. 7-YEAR FINANCING. Banks are reluctant to lend money on land alone. Horizon Corporation's 7-year financing plan enables you to make small monthly payments that fit comfortably within your budget.



6. CREDIT UPON COMPLETION OF CONTRACT. Horizon encourages you to personally inspect your property, and gives you credit upon completion of contract, provided you make your visit within one year of purchase.

7. A FULL REPORT ON YOUR PROPERTY, filed with the Federal government. A copy of this report will be given to you.

8. EXCHANGE PRIVILEGE. Let's say you buy a Horizon single-family lot in Horizon City this year. If you should decide later that you'd like to move to either our Arizona Sunsites or Rio Communities in New Mexico, we'll take your single-family lot in trade, provided you agree to start building a home within 90 days. The same is true if you buy in Sunsites or Rio Communities and want to settle in Horizon City.

9. GUARANTEE. The following is stated in the purchase contract: "Seller guarantees that the above described property is as represented in the Agreement for Deed and in the Property Report and State Offering Statement, Public Report or Prospectus if applicable, given to Buyer before or at time of sale."

Well, those are the first nine reasons why we think you should buy land in Horizon City. But there's still much more to tell, so why not go one step further—just fill out this coupon, or phone us for even faster action, and we'll see that you get more information with no cost or obligation.

Horizon City's $500,000 country club for members offers the finest golf, swimming and tennis facilities in the El Paso area.

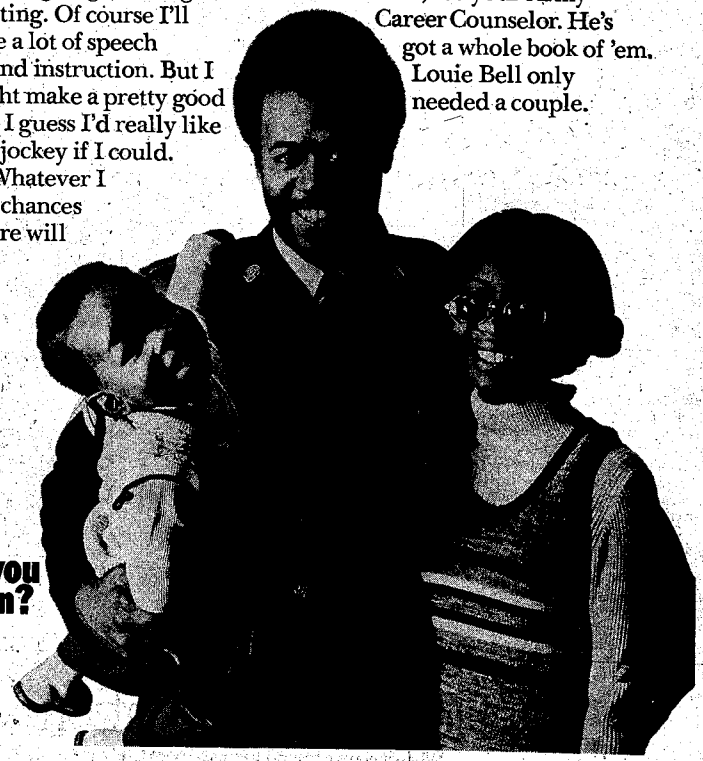
When it comes to land, we have more to offer.

"When I came in I didn't have anything."



Sergeant Louie Bell just reenlisted for the first time. And he had some pretty good reasons.

"Look what I've got now. A steady income, a good job and a family. It's a lot more responsibility.

"I was studying business administration when I came in, but I think I'm going to change to broadcasting. Of course I'll have to take a lot of speech schooling and instruction. But I think I might make a pretty good announcer. I guess I'd really like to be a disc jockey if I could.

"Whatever I decide, my chances for the future will definitely be better now that I've decided to stay in the Army for a while. I'll be getting more education for when I get out. And Martha and Darrell will have a lot more security."

The education. The bonus. The security. Louie Bell found some pretty good reasons for reenlisting. If you're looking for reasons, see your Army Career Counselor. He's got a whole book of 'em. Louie Bell only needed a couple.

Why are you staying in?

Private First Class Greg J. Wilson works on the mural he painted in the 931st Engineer Lodge. The Mural tells a picture story of the engineers in the Army.

Drawing

Helped PFC take a closer look

BY CHARLES BRICKMAN

Private First Class Greg J. Wilson has only been in HHC, 931st three months but word of his talent has spread quickly. He has been busy doing art work throughout the 931st Engineer Group.

PFC Wilson came from Misawa A.F. Base in Japan, where he worked for the Army Security Agency.

He now works in the S-3 section at HHC as a draftsman, working on such projects as the remodling of the 931st Engr. Lodge and drawing the cover for the Group newspaper.

While at Misawa Air Force Base, PFC Wilson won numerous awards for his art work including a second place for a pen and ink drawing and honorable mention for a pastel drawing in the base art show.

To PFC Wilson, his job is not work but something that he enjoys and does for pleasure. According to Greg, "I started drawing when I was five years old. It was not very good at first and got upset but my mother explained that I had to practice if I wanted to become good at it.

I used to watch Jon Nagey's learn to draw program on Saturday mornings and I learned perspective from him."

"I stayed in art because my hands wouldn't let me get out of it. I constantly doodled in class and used to take notes in school by doodling and remember things by drawings. It helped me to take a closer look at most things."

PFC Wilson has won awards for oil paintings, pencil drawings and has even had his work displayed on television in Washington D.C. were his home is. He has also had work in Hallmark Magazine.

While at Ft. Devens, Mass. he brightened up the Company E mess hall with three murals he painted for it. He also designed the Unit Crest for ASA at Ft. Devens.

While at Ft. Benning he has painted a mural at the 931st Engineer Lodge which he helped to remodel.

In civilian life he was involved in such projects as redesigning the layout of Suburban Airport in Maryland. He worked for the Federal Aviation Administration as a draftsman and did tower layouts for Dulles International Airport in Washington D.C.

When asked what type of art he likes best he replied, "Sometimes I like to do mechanical art and sometimes surrealism or realism. I like pencil drawings or oil paintings but I like to work in pastels also. If I'm left alone murals are also fun to do but that usually isn't the case."

"If someone likes what I've done and I like it I get a feeling of accomplishment but if I don't like the work then I'm not happy with it. I get satisfaction from doing work that has a purpose to it because it is a waste of time and effort if there is no purpose to it. I'm happy with my job right now because they don't do that sort of thing that is giving a person a job just to keep him busy."

Greg also gets encouragement from his boss Staff Sergeant Grant Williams. "He is allowing me to do the things that he wanted to do but never did before."

PFC Wilson is married and says that his wife is the driving force behind his work. "She helps me in the morale department," he states.

He is currently serving his first enlistment and says that he is tempted to reenlist when it is up but that if he decides to get out he would like a career in commercial art.

He states "I expect to make some money from commercial art as a commercial artist but I don't just do this because I want to make money but I love art."

And they're off!

About 140 people participated in the third "Run for Fun" activities sponsored by the Fort Benning Ranger Department last Friday. "It's the most we've ever had participate," said Capt. Ed W. Strabel, formerly in charge of the Fort Benning Orienteering Team.

Winning the "His and Hers" relay was Capt. Gene Harratty and Louise Cooper. Capt. Straxel considers this new addition to the program to have been a success and an interest to spectators.

Lt. Col. Frank Scott, Ranger Dept., won the two mile run for age group 40 and older, in a time of 12:58. This set a new record, with last Novembers winning time being 14:26. He and Holly Grange, daughter of Col. Grange, director of the Ranger Dept., came in third in the "His and Hers" relay.

Another record was set in the four mile post relay when four members of OC4, 51st Co., ran it in a winning time of 20:50, as opposed to the last recorded time of 21:44.

Sgt. Dale Aberle, Co. C 75th Infantry, won the two mile run for age group 30 and below. Capt. Barry Gasdek, Leadership Dept., won the two mile run for age group 30-34. Maj. William Schuler, D.P.T., won the two mile run for age group 35-39.

In the five mile run WO2 William Voss came in first with a time of 32:14. Second was Michael Moran and third was Joseph Fowlkes.

Second in the two mile run for the under 30 age group was Paul McCarthy and third was James Kee. In the two mile run for 30-34, Hardy Bachelor came in second and Larry Montgomery followed as third place. In the 35-39 group Richard Strombres came in second and Richard Macintosh came in third. Ian Sutherland came in second for the 40 and older group, with Sherman Dansro coming in third.

In the four mile relay, ADV 2-73, 13th Co., came in second and C Co. 75th Infantry (Ranger) 1-29, came in third.

Capt. Jerry Barnhill and Debbie Barnhill came in second in the "His and Hers" relay. The other couple who participated was Sp5 Randall Boose and Patrice Boose.

Trophies were supplied by Special Services.

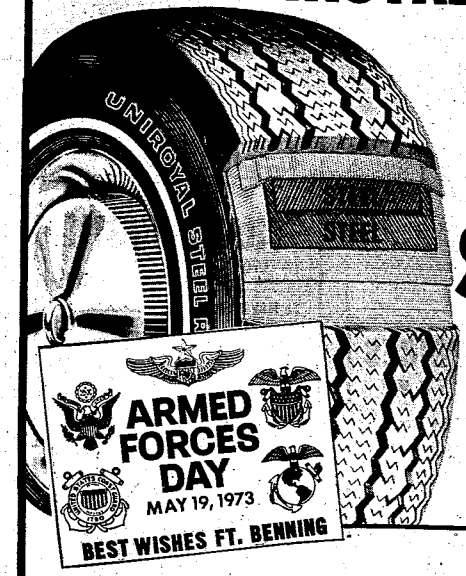
931st plays Police at Golden Park

Cracks off the bat (and maybe the backs) will be heard from Golden Park as the 931st Engineer pit their best batsmen against the Columbus Police Dept. during Engineer Night at Golden Park, May 30.

The game will be a rematch of last year's game in which the Engineers edged the Police 4-3.

The team will feature group commander Col. James M. Thompson as pitcher and Cmd. Sgt. Maj. James Runyon at second base. The rest of the team will be composed of officers and enlisted men from the group. The team will be coached by SFC Gerald Tate and Staff Sgt. Robert Hartsfield.

The umpires for the game will be Col. Eugene Murdock, Ft. Benning Provost Marshal, and Chief McClung of the Columbus Police Dept.



Also on hand for the game will be a color guard from the 67th Maintenance Battalion to perform the flag raising ceremonies. The 931st unit of choice recruiting van will be there to show the people in attendance the variety of jobs available in an Engineer Unit.

A special treat for the fans will be the attractive bat girls that will assist both teams.

Following the 7 p.m. game will be a regularly scheduled minor league game betweeen the Columbus Astros and the Orlando Twins.

The National Bass Anglers Sportsmans Society has lined up some top notch speakers for the Bass Fishing Seminar they are going to hold at the Columbus Municipal Auditorium tonight.

The seminar which starts at 7:30 p.m. will feature Bill Dance of Memphis, Tenn. and John Powell of Montgomery, Ala.

Dance a sometimes furniture salesman is one of the countries most skilled scientific fishermen. Powell is a shallow-water plastic worm specialist. He doesn't go for fancy modern electronic gadgets. He finds bass with what he calls his "Deadly Method for Stalking Bass in Shallows."

Powell a retired Air Force sergeant has shattered a lot of pet scientific theories about where and how to catch bass on fake wigglers. His records are impressive. His catch of 134-pounds of fish in 34 hours of fishing in the 1969 Eufaula National Tournament ranks as one of the all time high achievements for bass fishermen.

Dance who manages to fish about 300 days a year has won seven major BASS Tournaments — More than any other angler. He prepares for a fishing trip like a general goes to war. For him there is a lot of homework before launching the boat. He studies topographic maps of the fishing area looking for likely spots to really concentrate the activity of his depth finder.

The tipsa nd theories of these two divergent but equally successful fishermen should make for an interesting evening. It appears that most of the local experts theories should get some attention. Proponents of each type method should also get some reinforcement for their pet theories. Those who don't know enough about the sport should learn enough tonight to develop some of their own. These two experts don't use the same tactics and techniques but one thing is certain. They fish where there are fish. Anyone who finds how they do that will come away from the seminar a better fisherman. Its hard to argue with success.

There will be other speakers and some excellent color movies to round out the two and a half hour program. Those who come will figure the $2 admission fee well spent. This is one time you can't go wrong. BASS uses the proceeds from these seminars to finance their anti-pollution campaign which in turn helps improve fishing conditions for the fisherman.

Rod and Gun Club members will have a good opportunity to make the lessons learned at the seminar pay off on May 26, 27 and 28 when the club holds its Memorial Weekend Fishing Derby.

The club has allocated $500 for prize money and the purchase of prizes. Fishermen can win $25 if they catch the beaviest bass, bream or catfish at one of the post ponds during the three day contest. Fishermen registering the second heaviest fish in each of these categories will receive $20 and those registering the third largest will receive $15. This money will be in the form of merchandise orders redeemable at the club sales counter.

In addition a bonus prize consisting of an 11'x11' tent and four polyester filled sleeping bags will go to some lucky fisherman who has registered a fish of any size in the contest. A special bonus prize — a rod and reel and a fishing tackle box will go to someone who has registered for the contest at the club but doesn't catch a fish. With this spread of prizes even the losers can become winners.

The contest will start at 6 a.m., May 26 and end at 4:30 p.m. on May 28. Everyone must register at the club before going fishing. Registrations are being accepted now to accommodate those fishermen who want to go direct to a pond on the Morning of May 28. An entry fee of $1 will be charged for each club member but the whole family can be registered for $3. Prizes will be awarded at the Rod and Gun Club at 6 p.m. May 28. Winners of the bonus prizes must be present at the club at the time the winner is determined. Those winning merchandise prizes for the heaviest fish caught need not be present. They can pick up their prizes at the club at a later time.

Fish entered in this contest will not be eligible for entry in the Club May Fishing Contest.

Complete lists of rules for the contest may be obtained at the Rod and Gun Club Headquarters located on First Division Road in the Harmony Church Area.

Fishermen who are not members of the Rod and Gun Club but are interested in obtaining more information about the club may call 545-6028.

BASS

Sends team to Lake Sinclair

The Fort Benning Bass Anglers Sportsman Society (BASS) are sending a team of six BASS anglers to Lake Sinclair to compete in the Georgia State Federation Tournament, held May 25-26.

The members selected by the Fort Benning Club were selected by the club point standings from past fishing tournaments. The team members are Major Dane Maddox, Sergeant First Class Mike Boyd, SFC Dan Haun, SFC Jack Tibbs Sr. and Jack Tibbs Jr., and Spc Jim Sams.

The tournament is made up of six man teams from each club in Georgia. The top six men from this tournament will fish in the nationals in June which will be hosted by Ray Scott, president of BASS.

Membership for the Fort Benning chapter is open to active duty and retired personnel. Meetings are held in the 8th Student Battalion classroom on the 2d and 4th Tuesday of each month.

Further information may be obtained by calling Lt. Col. Gregg Walls, president, 545-2702, or SFC Boyd, vice president, 545-3241.

Bringing home the bacon

Another Ft. Benning team returned from Third U.S. Army Tournament competition with the bacon, this time it was the Volleyball team taking the championship.

The Ft. Benning team captured 19 wins out of 24 starts to best second place finisher, Ft. Bragg (16-8) and the rest of the field during this tournament.

The tournament was held at Ft. Rucker, Ala.

Fishing experts will share tips

Most folks fish for fun, but it's serious business with Bill Dance. He's pocketed nearly $35,000 at play-for-pay tournament fishing.

Dance, a former Memphis, Tenn., furniture salesman who has become one of the country's most skilled scientific anglers in BASS tournaments, will share many of the secrets of the fishing professionals in a "Bass Fishing Seminar" at the Municipal Auditorium tonight.

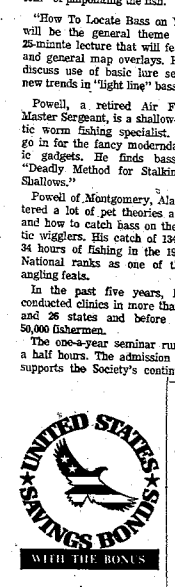
The 7:30 p.m. program will also feature how-to tips by three-time national tournament winner John Powell, and three outstanding color movies on bass fishing and environmental problems. The program is presented by the national Bass Anglers Sportsman Society, headquarters in Montgomery, Ala.

Dance, who manages to fish about 275 days a year, has won more major BASS tournaments, seven, then any other angler. He prepares for a fishing trip like a general goes to war. Dance does his homework before ever launching his boat on the lake.

He studies topographic maps of the lake and selects likely bass hideouts. He then picks apart the likely area with a sonar depth finder and a "pattern system" of pinpointing the fish.

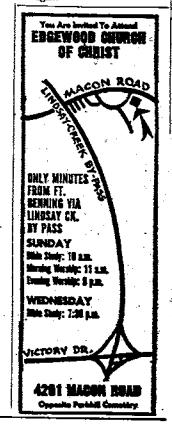
"How To Locate Bass on Your Lake" will be the general theme of Dance's 25-minute lecture that will feature slides and general map overlays. He will also discuss use of basic lure selection and new trends in "light line" bassing.

Powell, a retired Air Force Chief Master Sergeant, is a shallow-water plastic worm fishing specialist. He doesn't go in for the fancy modernday electronic gadgets. He finds bass with his "Deadly Method for Stalking Bass in Shallows."



Powell of Montgomery, Ala., has shattered a lot of pet theories about where and how to catch bass on the fake plastic wigglers. His catch of 134 pounds in 34 hours of fishing in the 1969 Eufaula National ranks as one of the all-time angling feats.

In the past five years, Powell has conducted clinics in more than 200 cities and 26 states and before more than 50,000 fishermen.



The one-a-year seminar runs two and a half hours. The admission price of $2 supports the Society's continued efforts in Clean Water programs and improvements of the bass fishing sport. Children 12 and under will be admitted free.

Tickets may be purchased from members of the Fort Benning Bass Club or at the entrance tonight.

Post soccer team cops Military title

The Fort Benning Soccer Team has done it again. Fresh from their victory in the South Eastern Military League, the team participated in the first Military Soccer Tournament at Redstone Arsenal two weeks ago and emerged overall champions.

Eight trophies were awarded, five team and three individual. Fort Benning captured the first place-team trophy as overall champions. The 2nd, 3rd, and 4th place trophies went to Redstone Arsenal, Washington, D.C. and Birmingham Internationals in that order. The 5th team trophy, for the high scoring team went to Birmingham Internationals.

The individual trophies were awarded on the basis of performance during the competition. Perhaps the most dramatic win in the individual competition was by the Fort Benning goalkeeper, Felix Enriquez of the 93ist Eng. Grp. Exquiquez was a clean winner after three brilliant saves in the final game.

Competition was also keen in the two other areas of Best Defenwive Player and Best Offensive Player. Noel Spleen of Fort Benning captured the Best Offensive Player trophy while Herbert Muehler of Redstone Arsenal was awarded the trophy for the Best Defensive Player.

The active Fort Benning team however, deserves to be congratulated. Fullback John Prescott, key defensive player was beaten for the Best Defensive Player Award. Robert Behnke, the team captain, was also a key player for the team.

The team goes into action again on May 12th against Auburn University at Auburn. The next home game is scheduled for May 19th at Stillwell Field.

Lt. Col. Frank Scott, Ranger Department, approaches the finish line to come in first in the two mile run for the 40 and older age group. He ran it in a time of 12:58 which is a new record for the "Run for Fun" activities in this entry.

TSB softball rundown

The School Brigade Company Level Softball League has ended its 2nd week of play. The weather, only fit for ducks the first week of play, was much better for softball.

Eight Stu. Bn. walloped 2nd St. Bn. 24-9, in the first game of the evening, May 10. Pvt. Larry Monroe, SSgt. Richad Hopkins, MSgt. Kenneth Hamil, and SFC Alphonso Bisot were responsible for 12 of 8th Stu. Bn.'s runs, hitting 3 home runs apiece.

The 2nd game of the night saw the Marksmanship Training Unit (MTU) come out on top of the Small Arms Committee (SAC) 18-13. In the first inning MTU chased eight runs across the plate, and from that time on had no problems with winning the game.

In a non-league game played on May 9, between Headquarters Headquarters Company, TSB, Personnel and SAC Weapons Department, SAC beat HHC, Pers., 10 - 9. HHC, Pers. led the game 9-4 until the 6th inning, when SAC put together 6 runs to beat them.

Another non-league game was also played on May 9th between 85th Company and the SAC Weapons Dept., SAC's 2nd game of the night. The game was a close 1-0, SAC in the lead, until the 4th inning, in which 85th Co. scored 7 runs. The game was theirs from then on.

How to jump

The Sport Parachute Jump Club, Fort Benning, recently put on a demonstration here explaining the functions of jumping and facts about the club.

The club, which presently has about 140 members, is open to active duty personnel and their dependents, retired, reserve components, and government employees.

The fee for the club is $35 and $3 a month goes for the maintance of equipment and bookkeeping. The classroom work consists of training to jump, packing a chute, how to make a fall, and all safety procedures.

Once this is completed the next step is static line jumps, then free - fall jumps.

DA Form 41

If you have recently married, moved to a new address and-or recently had a child born, you need a new DA Form 41 (Record of Emergency Data). It should be kept current at all times since it assists in settling your estate and notifying your next of kin in the event of your death.

Kennels

Effective 26 April 1973, the Fort Benning Officers' Club Kennels were consolidated under the office of the Installation Club Manager. Use of the kennels is restricted to members of the Officers' and NCO Clubs. Animals will be accepted for boarding only after presentation of current club cards.

Youth Activities

The Fort Benning Youth Activities program will be located in the Youth Center gymnasium temporarily. The Center director, the Teen Club and all Youth activities may be reached by calling 545-3803.

Big Red One

The Follow Me Chapter, Society of the First Division, will conduct a dinner-dance at 1900 hours on 9 June 1973, at the Sand Hill Noncommissioned Officers Club, Fort Benning, Georgia. All former First Division soldiers of all ranks are invited to attend no matter what period of time they served in the Big Red One. The cost of this affair will be $4.00 per couple (to pay for the band and related club services) plus the cost of your individual dinners. A cash bar will be available. First Division members may bring guests.

For additional information please call 545-2274, 7819.

Bible School

The 1973 Ecumenical Vacation Bible School will be held at the Religious Education Center on Dixie Road from 0830-1100 hours, 12-21 June, Tuesday through Friday of the first week and Monday through Thursday of the second week.

Teachers, secretaries and persons with musical, dramatic and creative artistic talents are needed and requested to call the Director of Religious Education at 545-4334-7432 or Mrs. Bruce Davis at 545-2397 to volunteer their services.

Registration days are 29, 30, 31 May from 0900-1600 hours at the Religious Education Center, Bldg. 2606, Dixie Road. All persons who have not previously registered through the Sunday School or other groups are requested to come to the Religious Education Center or call 545-4334 or 545-7432 during the designated hours.

The school will be opened to children of Fort Benning personnel four years of age through those just completing the eighth grade. Departments will be provided for teachers' and workers' children from birth to four years of age.

Can you help?

Registrations are being accepted at Youth Center, Bldg. 1034, for 1973 Youth Baseball Program. If you are interested in coaching a girls' or boys' softball or baseball team, register at the Youth Activities business office. For more information call 545-1902.

NEW SHIPMENT JUST ARRIVED!

TOYOTA

Come see why Toyota is setting all time high sales records across the country. Just one test drive will convince you of the quality and workmanship built into every Toyota. Check the dependability, economy, comfort, and service of a Toyota. Or better yet, ask a Toyota owner . . . they're our best salesmen! Come in and inspect our modern service and parts department . . . we stand behind every car we sell!

LAND CRUISERS!

STATION WAGONS!

TRUCKS!

CELICAS!

Ask your insurance agent about Toyota's low insurance symbol. Ask him why it's a much lower than most cars!

- BANK RATE FINANCING
- UP TO 37½ MONTHS TO PAY

Dedicated to tho se who will not be around after holiday weekend

This article is dedicated to the many people who will not be around on May 29, 1973. They will die in traffic accidents during the long Memorial Day weekend. They are oblivious to the finger of death pointed at them, but they are doomed. We cannot be certain who they are, nor just when and where their end will come, but we can predict how and why they will die.

They will "lose control" on hills, curves, and straight-aways. They will swerve off the road and slam into trees, bridges, or buildings. "Loss of control" results from the "heavy foot" on the accelerator (particularly during darkness) which will get them into emergency situations. Then the same "heavy foot" gets onto the brake and locks the wheels, thus preventing them from steering out of it. The car skidding with locked brakes cannot be steered. It follows the line of least resistance usually straight ahead when the road turns.

Their accidents should not be unexpected. Brakes and tires repeatedly squeal their warning protests which drivers do not heed. Finally, the squeal gives way to an irreversible skid. Accordingly coffins and graves will be needed for the drivers destined to lose control, leave the road, and smash into some waiting object.

Who are these drivers destined to become accident statistics? They include those whose passengers must brace against turns and brakings. They include those who drive so fast in darkness that they simply can't avoid the blind curves, the waiting animals, and the stalled and unlighted cars. They include those who blur their vision and slow their reflexes by "a couple of drinks" before hitting the road.

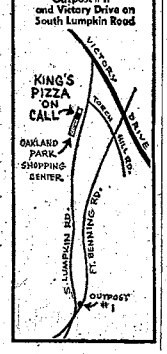
Many drivers, surprised to encounter bicycles or motorcycles on the roadway, will allow surprise to become disaster. An increasing number of motorists are using motorcycles not only for pleasure, but to escape high operating costs of automobiles and expensive insurance. Because motorcycles rarely do great damage to other vehicles in collisions they usually come off poor seconds and their premiums for liability insurance are cheaper. Cycles are usually hit by cars whose drivers simply don't see the cycles in time.

Many who die will be drinking drivers. Alcohol gives them courage to take risks which they would never attempt if sober. They drive faster after drinking, can't see as well, react more slowly, and are a bit more hostile towards others.

The typical accident involving drinking drivers will occur during the early morning hours between midnight and 3 a.m. when they are returning to their homes or quarters, too full, too fast, too far, too late, and too sleepy. What they don't see they hit.

Alcoholic drinks foul up vision. The drinker who drives should expect to encounter an increased number of those "all-of-a-sudden," "out-of-nowhere" emergencies, particularly at night, because he can't see quite as well as normal. Drinkers who drive will assure you, while they are still alive, that they "do it all the time and never have any trouble — yet."

Despite the statistics, too many feel they can drink, then drive safely. Most drinking drivers who die felt the same way, else they wouldn't have risked it.



Fortunately, the majority of the motorists who will be driving during the Memorial Day holiday period will not die, nor even come close. They may drive just as fast and just as far as the soon-to-be-dead, but they will drive defensively. They will also expect the worst and will be ready to do their best: They are willing to allow other drivers who are in a hurry to die to pass them and speed on to their death. They will probably curse the roads and other drivers, but they will safely cope with them. They will be prepared for any traffic emergency. They will heed the squealing of their tires. They will keep seat belts fastened so they will have some chance of walking away, if and when an accident does happen.

Dragging around

Phenix Dragway has a new manager, new equipment, new hours and new ideas Charles Todd with Dragracing Unlimited from Montgomery has big plans for the little guy at Phenix Dragway. Wednesday nights will be devoted entirely to "ET" cars.

In "ET" brackets, any car is legal and you dial in your own time. There will be a one-tenth second break-out in this handicap system. Everyone has an equal chance to win, whether you drive a Volkswagen or a souped-up "Pony" car. For $1.00 you can watch and for $2.00 you can race.

On Saturday nights Super Stocks, Gas, Modified and ET cars will run. Admittance will only be $2.50 to get in or $3.50 to run.

Winners on May 12 were Tommy Pollard on a Kamasaki and runner-up, Tommy Artz in a '71 Vega for the ET brackets. In Super-Stock, Kinney and Moore's SS-C AMX went a 10.81 off of a 10.70 record to beat out Frog Tillingsworth in a SS-QA Chevelle wagon. Frog took first place in the second round. The Modified class winner was Mike Goulet from Shawmut, Alabama in a '65 Chevy II running E-MP. The runner-up and also second round winner was C. J. Johnson from Reynolds, Georgia running a B-MP Chevelle.

On June 2 the Jet Cars will be at Phenix Dragway. They go 300 miles an hour! Be There! You can run your car too!

Clerk gets ARCOM

Sp5 M. Creede Hinshaw, C Company, 43rd Engineer Battalion (Construction) has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal.

The award was given for meritorious service.

Hinshaw, who was discharged May 3, 1973 worked as Personnel Specialist in Company C's Orderly Room for two years, handling practically all the administrative responsibilities during that time. During his tour of duty as clerk, the unit passed the Administrative portion of two Annual General Inspections with few minor deficiencies. This was due in large part to the fact that Sp5 Hinshaw took pride in his job and was always willing to learn new methods to improve the operation of the Orderly Room.

When asked what he felt to be the most important factors in making a good clerk, Sp5 Hinshaw replied, "If a soldier has enthusiasm in his job, and the influence of an interested First Sergeant and Commanding Officer, he will most likely become an outstanding clerk."

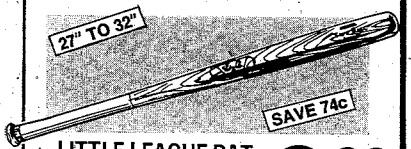
Upon separation from the service, Hinshaw and his wife plan to travel to Europe and then return to Indiana, where they both teach school.

A Driver's Driver

On April 3, Company C, 43rd Engineer Battalion (Construction) proved once again why it is considered to be the finest company in the 43rd Engineer Battalion.

Pvt. Ronald R. Heil was selected as Battalion Driver of the Month.

Heil, the Commanding Officer's driver, entered his quarter - ton vehicle in the competition, and was selected as the most outstanding driver by the Battalion Motor Officer and the Battalion Motor NCO. All companies in the Battalion participated in the competition, and Heil had the vehicle with the fewest deficiencies.



Four days later, Heil participated in competition for Driver of the Month for the 931st Engineer Group Driver of the Month and finished in second place. The selection criteria was a written test and the most outstanding vehicle.

WACs use psychic methods against 197th artillery

Four members of the Women's Army Corps detachment at Fort Benning, 1Lts Leslie Snyder and Mary Paonessa along with Pvts. Earlie Fott and Mary Lightcap employed Psychological Operations against friendly forces during a recent Battery C, 2nd Bn., 10th FA, 197th Infantry Brigade training exercise.

The WACs attached to the agressor forces led by 2nd Lt. Gary C. Carlson, searchlight platoon leader, failed in their attempt to lure the men of Battery C away from their night defensive positions so that agressor forces could breach the perimeter.

Employment the latest methods of Psychological Operations, the appealing broadcasts, by the ladies of the Army, added a touch of realness to the training exercise. Older soldiers of the battery were reminded of Hanoi Hannah and some even to Tokyo Rose when the WACs broadcast their appeals.

All this is a part of what artillery units call RSOPs, Reconaissance, selection and occupation of positions, is a battery type exercise similar to an Infantry FTX. The exercise was one of a continuing number of field exercises put together by Battery Commander Cpt. Robert J. Balog, designed to enhance his unit's ability to shoot, move and communicate.

MEMORIAL DAY MESSAGE

On Monday, 28 May, Fort Benning will join a grateful nation in commemorating Memorial Day as a tribute to the men and women who have given their lives in defense of our country.

For soldiers and their families, and the civilian employees at Fort Benning, Memorial Day should and will have a particular significance. Most of us have been touched by the tragedy of war and the loss of friends and comrades who died in battle. On this day, we are provided an opportunity to pause and reflect upon their sacrifices and consider what they have meant to a free America.

Memorial Day services will be conducted at the Main Post Cemetery at 11:45 a.m., and all Fort Benning families are encouraged to attend.

Thomas M. Tarpley
THOMAS M. TARPLEY
Major General, USA
Commanding

11:45 a.m. service is slated

Memorial Day observance by Fort Benning personnel will include activities on post and throughout the local civilian area.

Here on post, a service will be held at the Main Post Cemetery, May 28. The service will begin at 11:45 a.m., with Chaplain (LTC) Sterling Wiederell, U. S. Army Infantry Center Chaplain giving the invocation. Guest speaker will be Col. Charles H. Reidenbaugh, director of personnel and community activities.

Chaplain (LTC) Edward J. Karnis, deputy USAIC chaplain will give the benediction, after which time Col. Reidenbaugh will place a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

At 12 p.m., the 197th Infantry Brigade salute battery and flag detail will fire a 21 gun salute and will raise the flag at the cemetery.

Ten men from the 197th will place flags on headstones for the Andersonville Memorial Service, Andersonville, Georgia, May 25.

Defense Drivers Course is a life saving technique

More people are killed on our Nations' highways in one year than died in our country's entire involvement in Vietnam.

The Defensive Drivers Course given by the Post Safety Office is meant to cut down the tragic waste taking place on the roads.

Mr. Ralph Andrews of the Post Safety Office believes the DDC has definitely contributed to traffic safety. "Even though the number of vehicles on post has been no corresponding rise in traffic accidents, and this is a good indication of the course's effectiveness."

Six well drilled NCO's are the staff of the DDC. NCOIC SFC Donald Falls supervises the operation. The instructors are SSG Matteson Crawford, SSG Robert Lenaghen, SSG Gary Baldwin, Sgt. Emmil Boren, and Sgt. Larry Sanders. During the instructional periods of the eight hour course each teacher relates to the class ways and means of staying alive on the road. Films are used as a supplement to the course. Some films give directions on how to avoid potentially hazardous driving situations, other depict cars undergoing tests for safety, and show the awful effects of a head-on crash at 60 miles per hour.

Information learned at the DDC is useless unless it is used on the road. If the course is followed it can help save lives. Mr. Andrews said "we encourage all those who haven't attended to take advantage of the DDC."

MEMORIAL DAY

We pay tribute to those who gave their lives . . .

Today we pause to remember . . . with gratitude and respect . . . the men throughout this nation's history who answered the call to arms and lost their own lives so that we can live in freedom and dignity. Today we count out blessings; we also consider their cost. Nobody ever said it better than Abraham Lincoln: " . . . from these honored dead we take increased devotion . . . to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion."

Today let us pledge ourselves to just and lasting peace.

WE WILL BE CLOSED

What project are you working on at the craft shop?

A place to get it together

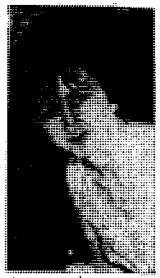
Pvt. James Edmondson
598th Lt. Main.

I used to pass by this shop every day on my way to work and decided to come in and look around. I am putting together an airplane that was given to me. I didn't have any idea how to assemble it but the instructor is now helping me in finishing it.

Sgt. Leonard Grant
Aviation 145th Bn.

I learned of the craft shop from friends, so I decided to use the photography section to develop my pictures. I'm presently working on developing the pictures that I shot at the activation of the 145th Aviation Bn.

SFC Rainey Powers
Head. Co. 4th Student Bn. TSB



Seeing other people work with ceramics interested me so I decided to try my hand at it. Until then I had worked in woodworking. I now have eight different projects going now. It's an easy way to make household furniture exactly the way you want it and cut expenses at the same time.

Sp4 Tommy Reynolds
121st Aviation

I used to come here with my brother to assist him in repairing his auto but now he is out of the service now and I am repairing my own car. I try to keep my car in good running condition and replace parts before they go completely out.

All the tools you need are here at your disposal.

Sylvia Pilcher

I first came here because my daughter wanted to look at the leather products and equipment that was available here at the craft shop. We only got as far as the ceramics section. I'm working on a nativity set presently but in the past I have completed numerous projects.

Marriage

Look before leaping

The basis for marriage in our society is love. It is a union of equals who choose to join their lives for companionship, sharing, and mutual growth.

Husbands and wives live together as companionable human beings. They have differences and need each other's understanding and acceptance.

Many social scientists believe that one of the basic causes of all problems involving interpersonal relationships is the failure or inability of the individual to give and receive love in a way that brings satisfaction. Marriage counselors underscore this by pointing out that we have an essential need to experience authentic love in a dependable relationship. Marriage can provide the context for growth for the two people involved, but it never happens automatically. Let us look at three factors that bear upon successful marriage.

FIRST, we must prepare for a successful marriage. Our ability to make a success of modern marriage does not begin on our wedding day. Actions, attitudes and decisions during the premarital period have much to do with the quality of the marriage which may follow.

SECOND, husband and wife must continue making adjustments to each other throughout the years. In the early years of marriage sexual activity and adjustment take top billing — this is as it should be. During this period of adjustment, as later, the key words of advice to any couple are: be patient and be understanding. This attitude and practice of patience and understanding are necessary to establish a satisfactory relationship in all aspects of marriage. Every couple needs to achieve sexual adjustment, learn to accept each other as they are, and learn to handle conflict creatively.

THIRD, marriage must be kept vital and exciting or it will degenerate into a dead-end of monotony and frustration. The longer two people have been married and the more they become involved in the mundane affairs of day-to-day living, the greater the chance their marriage may begin to lose some of its vitality and excitement. A marriage can be kept alive by conscious efforts to avoid monotony, having a variety of friends, and by participating in worthwhile causes together.

One of the strongest motivations for making a marriage work is the expectation of success. When we enter into marriage with the realization that happiness in marriage is something we achieve and not something that happens, we're a long way toward establishing the kind of relationship that will serve us adequately and bring fulfillment. Successful marriage is a dynamic, growing relationship in which the personalities of both partners continue to develop. A couple who feels that their marriage is better after five, ten or thirty years of living together has found the key to both personal happiness and social usefulness. The marriage-go-round will never stop for them. Those who do not experience this sense of growth and satisfaction are likely to be tempted to say, "Stop. I want to get off."

Returned 931st cook wipes out competition

Does a returnee to the service make a good soldier? That's as easy question for the Mess Hall of Charlie Company, 43rd Engineer Battalion (Const). Yes, he does Sp4 Jerry L. Vaughn is a returnee, and he just wiped out the competition for Cook of the Month in the 931st Cook of the Month Competition.

Sp4 Vaughn has a total of more than 11 years of service, all the time as a cook. He originally left the service in January 1970 but returned in September 1972 and has been cooking for Charlie Company ever since.

Commenting on the competition, Vaughn said he felt that the questions were far more realistic than a number of those he had seen in competition during his past years of service. "I had to make a few wild guesses," he said. That past experience must have paid off though as his answers were correct enough to guarantee the win.

Sp4 Vaughn and his family make their home at Fort Benning now, having recently moved from Florida. He considers it important to contribute to his unit and his community. Besides the time he devotes to being a cook the Army can be proud of, he is very active in the Boy Scout Program of Fort Benning.

Not disaster

Many will seek enjoyment through water sports

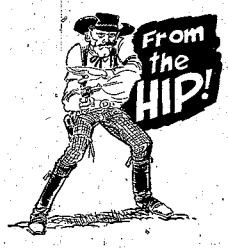
Warmer weather and water sports have arrived. The thoughts of many of us will turn to sea and sun and surf. Pleasant memories of sun bathing and a cooling dip in the pool lure us to the water. Water provides many, many forms of enjoyable activities.

There's swimming, diving, boating, skiing, fishing, surfing, sun bathing, sailing and even wading for the little ones. All of these are enjoyable ways to spend your time and provide many happy hours of enjoyable pleasure all summer long.

Man is a land animal and is not in his natural element when he is in the water. While water can and does attract millions of Americans each year, unfortunately all too many people meet with disaster. In 1972, 4,500 Americans drowned while participating in some type of water activity. These were 4,500 persons who most assuredly intended to use the water as a means for enjoying themselves. They did not anticipate meeting disaster, but they did.

Water can be fun, and it can be enjoyed in perfect safety as long as simple and basic water safety rules are followed. Some of the more basic rules you must obey to be safe while enjoying the water are listed below:

Learn to swim



This is the most important water safety device there is. Swim classes will be available on post from Youth Activities, Officer's Club, and Special Services. The few hours spent on learning how to swim will be the best investment you can make in water safety insurance. It can give you peace of mind when near the water rather than always living with the fear of drowning.

Unprotected waters

More USAIC soldiers have drowned while swimming in unprotected areas than for any other reason. Too many things such as cramps, fatigue, etc., can occur without warning. The time to look for the lifeguard is before you go in the water, not when you need him.

Rescue a victim

Many people foolishly jump in the water to rescue a victim and end up drowning themselves. Before you jump in look for a rescue device. Virtually anything of substance that floats will work. Think of things such as a water jug, minnow bucket, wood plank, air mattress, log, water skiis and don't forget the spare tire in your car. If a fishing rod is available cast beyond the victim and reel him in. You can also pull him in using a cane pole...

Boating

The basic rule for safety in boating is to follow the instructions issued by the US Coast Guard. Free boat inspections are available through the local Power Squadron. Some basic boating rules are:

a. Step into the middle of the boat.

b. Do not exceed the weight capacity of the boat. Distribute the load evenly side to side, and bow to stern.

c. Start slowly.

d. Watch for other boats and especially objects in the water such as logs or skiiers.

e. Life cushions should be handy. Non swimmers should be wearing their preserver.

f. Be particularly careful of fire hazards. One half pint of gasoline has the explosive power of 5 sticks of dynamite.

g. Stop to help others if needed.

h. Don't stand up unless necessary.

i. Watch your wake; be courteous to other boaters.

j. Give right of way to boats without motors.

Water skiing

a. Always wear a life preserver...

b. At least two people should be in the tow boat.

c. Watch the water for debris, stumps, etc.

d. Use the approved signals...

e. If you must make an emergency stop sit in the water and drag your hands. If falling sideways, curl up in a ball.

f. Some water ski don'ts are:..

(1) Don't ski in shallow water or too close to shore or docks.

(2) Don't ski after dark.

(3) Never wrap the tow rope around any part of your body.

(4) Don't tive the "GO" signal until the rope is taut.

(5) Don't ski near swimmers or fallen skiiers.

(6) Don't continue skiing after you are fatigued.

Diving

1. Be in top physical condition.
2. Be a good swimmer.
3. Be trained by a certified agency.
4. Never dive alone — insist on the "buddy" system.
5. Use safety equipment.
6. Be familiar with your diving area.
7. Always use a float with diver's flag.
8. Heed all pains as warning signals.
9. Know basic first aid.
10. Be a member of a reputable diving club.

Swimming at beach

The big danger in swimming at the beach is the tricky undertow. Your first indication will be an outward and downward pull. If you get pulled under the surface you are caught by the undertow. Many people panic and start swimming against the undertow back toward the beach. Even a strong swimmer can't win this fight. Keep calm. Swim with the undertow working your way outward and gradually upward. After reaching the surface, swim with the surface current toward shore.

Collisions

Protect your family over the holidays

Do you get cold feet about heading out in the car on a holiday weekend? Collision reports after a holiday weekend can be frightening.

But take heart. . .some of the fatal collisions didn't have to happen. You've got an excellent chance of avoiding an accident if you drive defensively and follow the rules of the road every time you're behind the wheel of a car.

For, proof, let's take a look at some fatal collisions that occurred during a previous holiday period. Fortunately none of the accidents involved Fort Benning personnel. In 24 traffic accidents, 29 people were killed. Three of the people killed were pedestrians. Four were bicyclists.

Of the remaining 17 collisions, there were nine which involved only one moving motor vehicle. Twelve people died in these accidents. Two of the vehicles had badly worn tires. Some of the drivers were speeding and lost control. "Car went out of control on a curve" is a phrase you read often in newspaper reports.

You can help protect yourself against this kind of tragedy by making sure your car is in safe operating condition. . .by staying within the posted speed limit and slowing down when weather or traffic conditions are unfavorable. . .by planning your trip in advance so you don't have to make sudden moves to get into the right lane. . .by taking rest stops to avoid getting drowsy or inattentive behind the wheel.

In at least one of the single-vehicle accidents, the driver was not wearing his seat belt and was thrown out of the car. Your chances of surviving are five times greater if you stay in the car.

Eight of the accidents involved two vehicles. In these accidents, four car drivers, four car passengers, one motorcycle driver and one motorcycle passenger were killed. Driver errors in these collisions included. . .improper turns, failure to yield right of way, failure to stop for stop sign, improper passing. In at least half of the accidents, one of the drivers had been drinking. Only one of the car drivers involved was reported as wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident.

When you're approaching an intersection, or passing a driveway, drive defensively. . .the other driver may be breaking some rule of the road.

Defensive driving won't protect you from all accidents but it will put the odds in your favor. And, in case you do get involved because of some other fellow's mistake, make sure your seat belts are fastened. . .lap belt snug and low across the pelvic bones, shoulder harness a little slack. . .about a fist's width from your chest.

If you're out on foot, walk on the left, facing oncoming traffic and wear something white or light colored at night. Two of the three pedestrians killed were walking with, not against traffic.

Four of the deaths were bicyclists. If you're riding a bike, you must obey the same rules of the road as car drivers have to follow.

Over the long Memorial Day weekend, drive defensively, fasten your seat belt, play it safe, and see it through.

A military equipment display at the Sacred Heart Fair in Ville, La., was highlighted by combat equipment from the 197th Inf. Bde. A total of 10 individuals from Fort Benning participated in the project which was designed to aid area recruiters. (Photo by Robert Steele)

HHC 931st gets new CO

HHC 931st recently received a new Company Commander in the person of Captain Mike Nelson. Capt. Nelson came to HHC from Headquarters Command at Fort Benning where he worked in S-1 and S-4.

Captain Nelson enlisted in the Army aftergraduating from Walla Walla High School in Walla Walla, Washington, at the age of 18. According to Capt. Nelson "the Army has always been a tradition in my family. My father, grandfather and many uncles were in the Army so I carried on the tradition."

After enlistment Capt. Nelson attended OCS at Ft. Sill, after which he attended Airborne School at Fort Benning.

In July of 1970, while commanding a rifle company in Vietnam, Capt. Nelson was wounded by an enemy booby trap and spent 18 months in Madigan Army Hospital at Ft. Lewis, Washington.

After being released from Madigan Army Hospital Capt. Nelson attended Ranger School at Fort Benning.

In comparing the job of HHC Commander with his past jobs, Capt. Nelson says, "much more of my time is spent keeping up with the paperwork. In Vietnam my First Sergeant carried the orderly room around in his breast pocket, here I stay busy with the morning report, letters of indebtedness and various other kinds of paperwork."

Being an Airborne Ranger, Capt. Nelson believes very strongly in physical fitness and he has interests in a variety of sports. He likes flying, moto cross racing, softball and scuba diving.

According to Captain Nelson, "the challenge is what I like most about being a career soldier. My present job is extremely challenging and interesting because no two days are the same. In addition to the challenge the training and travel opportunities that are offered by the Army would be hard to match in civilian life."

The following is the second recipe taken from the OWC "Golden Heritage" Cookbook Appetizer Section:

Artichoke-ham bites

Submitted by Mrs. Bill W. May (Carol)
Outgoing OWC President

1 14-ounce can artichoke hearts
½ cup garlic Italian dressing
1 6-ounce package smoked sliced ham

Drain artichokes and cut in half. Marinate in dressing several hours; drain. Cut ham into 1½" strips. Wrap 1 strip ham around each artichoke heart. Spear with toothpick. Bake, uncovered, at 300 until hot, about 10 minutes.

Wives present grants

The NCO Wives' Club at Fort Benning presented educational grants to two local high school seniors, Pedro Dominguez of Baker and Evelyn Hanes of Kendrick, in a ceremony held Wednesday May 16 at the NCO Club.

The grants, for $1000 each, are presented each year by the NCO Wives' Club. They were awarded by Mrs. John F. LaVoie, wife of the post command sergeant major.

Pedro Dominguez, the son of Staff Sgt. (ret.) and Mrs. Pedro Dominguez of 2323 Fye Ave., Columbus, plans to enter the Georgia Institute of Technology, where he will study aerospace engineering.

Man! What a trip

A trip to Acupulco for two to include $140.00 expense money, travel by Eastern Airlines, a yacht trip and reservations at a Holiday Inn Motel has been added to the prizes for this year's Independence Day Carnival.

More than $8,000 in prizes will be given away this year. The Grand prize is a 1973 Mustang Mach I included in the other prizes are two 125-cc Kawasaki trail bikes.

Tennis rackets and 10-speed bicycles are also among the door prizes, as well as golf clubs and a complete stereo component system by Fisher.

Military personnel, their dependents, and civilians employed at Fort Benning and their dependents are eligible to obtain tickets. Ticket holders need not be present to claim their prizes.

This year's carnival will also feature a giant midway, with games and prizes. Equipment displays will be set up, and a ceremony will be held on York Field.

A talent contest, a Battle of the Bands, and a beauty contest to select Miss Fort Benning, will be part of the festivities. A fireworks display will close the day's events.

The prizes will be on display at all major units and throughout Fort Benning from now until the carnival. Proceeds from the Carnival are used for Youth Activities and Special Services.

Whatja wanta Know? ask the BAYONET

CALL 545-4792

DEAR BAYONET:

Why are post bumper stickers required on automobiles? Fort Benning is an open post. Everyone comes and goes without being checked. As far as I know, requirements for operating a vehicle on post are the same as in Georgia. It seems to me that these stickers are an unnecessary expense and having to register a car is really a harassment: R.P.

DEAR R.P.:

According to Lt. Col. Robert Clarke, provost marshal operations officer Army Regulation 190-5 states that the post commander will establish a vehicle identification system for all commercial vehicles, vending operators, dependents, active duty and retired personnel.

Clarke also stated that with almost 39,000 vehicles registered on post at a given time it is essential that a central system be set up to check vehicles. This is done so Fort Benning does not have to depend on the individual states for vehicle identification. This, according to Clarke, "runs into money since most states have their ID system run by computer and some states charge us for the service." As to Fort Benning being an open post Clarke said, "that anyone can drive on the reservation but those who frequently operate their vehicles on post must obtain post tags.

DEAR BAYONET:

I saw a beer dispensing machine in the cafeteria of Infantry Hall. I have never noticed one in other public places on post. Are the people in Infantry Hall the only ones that rate this service? T.P.C.

DEAR T.P.C.:

According to Mr. Bruce Dill, assistant services operations supervisor, there are 67 beer dispensing machines at Fort Benning. These machines are placed primarily in troop areas such as day rooms . . . places where they will be most used. "Beer is available at nearly all public places at Fort Benning, i.e. bowling alleys, Infantry Hall Cafeteria, NCO and officer open messes, and draft beer is sold at the Main Post Cafeteria after normal duty hours," Dill said.

There are currently ten beer-dispensing machines available for troop use. Any commander may have one of these machines installed in his troop day room by calling the concession supervisor at 545-2989.

DEAR BAYONET:

"I went on a tour of Martin Army Hospital for expectant parents on May 8. I thought the cleanliness of the hospital was poor. Why isn't it kept cleaner?" S.B.

DEAR S.B.:

According to Lt. Col. James C. Huff Jr., Chief of Supply and Service Division, "In response to your question on the cleanliness of an area of the hospital we believe you have reference to the Labor and Delivery Area on May 8, 1973. At that time there were an abnormal number of deliveries and one delivery room was out of use due to painting and renovation. There were also other parts of the area being painted at this time. Under these circumstances the area was not as presentable as we would have liked. We feel you would be much more favorably impressed with the area now. We are concerned with the cleanliness and appearance of our hospital, but are working under a restraint of less than adequate staff of custodial personnel at the present time. We are attempting to overcome the problem by providing overtime to the Custodial Staff until the personnel situation improves."

DEAR BAYONET:

What is the AUSA position in the proposed new non-disability retirement system. R.B.

DEAR R.B.:

The headquarters of the National AUSA has not yet formulated a position on this matter; however, they are scheduled for a complete briefing on the proposed system in the very near future and they will make public their position after that time.

Are you putting me on?

School Transportation

Due to West Point Cadets being at Fort Benning 6 through 11 June 1973, courtesy high school transportation will not be furnished high school students to return to school to pick up report cards on Friday, 8 June 1973. It is understood that the school will mail the report cards if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is left at the school before 1 June 1973.

Hospital Hours

The following Sections, Martin Army Hospital Annex, will be closed, Memorial Day Weekend 26, 27, and 28 May 1973: Outpatient Clinic (Morning, Afternoon, and Evening); Immunization Clinic, Physical Examination Service; Pharmacy Annex: Satelite and Serology Laboratory; Central Appointment Desk; Dermatology Clinic; Pediatric Clinic, Optemetry Clinic; Well Baby Clinic; Allergy Clinic; X-ray Clinic; and all Troop Medical Clinics. All emergencies will report to Emergency Room, Martin Army Hospital.

Post Exchange

As you leave the PX area via Peacom Row, approaching Wold Avenue, please observe the RIGHT TURN ONLY sign directly under the stop sign. Please obey this control device. This area will be monitored more frequently by Military Police in the future and violators will be cited.

Prices Up

Prices charged the Army and Air Force Exchange Service for gasoline have increased sharply. The price increases resulted because of shortage in the gasoline industries.

The difference in exchaoge and local dealer prices will now be two cents per gallon for all grades with two cents off for self service.

AFEES previously charged four cents per gallon less on regular and five cents below major oil company dealers on premium and low-un-leaded grades.

197th Inf. Bde.
1st Bn. 29th Inf.

A new battalion tradition was begun. The 1st of the 29th Pioneers are represented by a small scale model of a pioneer wagon. The junior officer of the battalion, Lt. Birge Miller, was chosen to be wagon master. This wagon master speaks for the wagon at all battalion functions. The wagon sees all, hears all, and knows all that happens in the battalion. The wagon expresses, though the wagon master, its opinions for the good or the bad of the battalion. Needless to say, being wagon master is a position cherished by the junior officer.

The theme for a recent battalion party, held at Kings Pond Lodge on April 28 was Spanish Night. Hosts were Capt. and Mrs. William Higgins and Capt. and Mrs. Joseph Smith. Each of the ladies of the battalion brought her favorite Spanish recipe and the pot luck dinner was enjoyed by all.

The ladies of the 1st Bn. 29th Inf. met for coffee in the Columbus home of Mrs. Geoffrey Ellerson May 10. This month Mrs. Patrick Doe, Mrs. Philip Underwood, Mrs. Morris Price, Mrs. James Whitlock and Mrs. Brian Campbell were welcomed and presented with small plants.

The men of 1st Bn. 29th Inf. honored their ladies on May 12, with a barbecue at Kiogs Pond. The occasion was the celebration of Mothers Day and the dinner was prepared and served by the men, truly a treat for the ladies. The highlight of the evening was a wagon race, Ben Hur style, which was quite fitting for the Pioneers. Winners of the race were Capt. Jack Petri and Lt. David Jensen of Company C.

2nd Bn., 10th Field Artillery

A group of about 25 officers and their families from the 2nd Bn., 10th F.A. descended upon Fort Benning's recreational area at Destin, Florida, on April 26, for a weekend of fun in the sun. Though the weather was a bit less than perfect the first day, spirits remained high. With several birthdays celebrated the first night the partying mood was soon established. On Friday night everyone drove to Eglin Air Force Base for a sumptuous seafood buffet, followed by entertainment by a Dixieland band from Atlanta.

Saturday was a perfect boating and fishing day and some even ventured into the water for a swim. The evening was highlighted by a cookout and party at the main cottage. By Sunday at check-out time everyone regretted having to leave and many families spent the rest of the day on the beach along the Gulf.

The officers and ladies of the 2nd Bn., 10th F.A. gathered on May 12 for a battalion party sponsored by A Battery, at the Sand Hill Golf Club. Lt. Col. Curtis F. Hoglan, Battalion Commander, presented farewell gifts to Capt. Keith Quinney, Capt. and Mrs. Lonnie Brown,

Another World

Destin, Fla. has much to offer those who want to escape routine

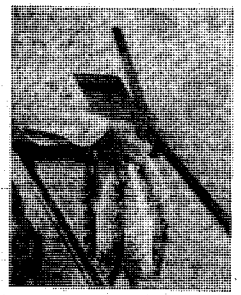
BY DAVID MCQUEEN

It takes four and a half hours to drive from one world to another.

The other world is the resort area of Destin, Fla., on the Gulf of Mexico. The best spot in Destin, for the soldier, is the USAIC Recreation Area.

The good thing about the USAIC Recreational Area and Destin, Fla., is that it can be as expensive or inexpensive as a person wants. A person may stay in the Rec Area or in one of the many motels along the Gulf. You can eat in or out, and as for shopping, Eglin Air Force Base is not far away.

Follow Me



The major attraction at Destin is the ocean and its related sports. Starting with the 38 foot Follow Me, Destin has a variety of boats in several price ranges for soldiers and their families.

The Follow Me has two types of fishing trips it can make, the half day, 6 a.m. to noon or 1 p.m. to 6 p.m., or the all day, 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. trip.

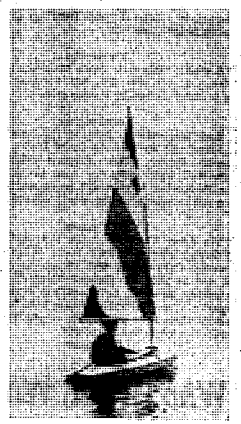
The half day trip is for those who want to fish for a couple of hours or those who want to spend half day, or the off shore trolling for bill fish, 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. for $70.

For shorter trips, or for someone who doesn't want or is unable to get the Follow Me, there are two 19-foot boats available on a first-come, first-served basis at $5 for the first hour and $2 for each additional hour.

Fishing

Besides deep sea fishing for bill fish, both the 19-footers and the 38-foot boat include the boat, ice, bait and gear and the skippers of the boats.

There is also a 16-foot ski boat for $2 per hour. There are 12 14-foot boats with outboard motors for $4 per day or $2 per half day or less. In addition, 14 sailboats are available: two Aqua Cats (Catamarans) with one sail for $1 per hour; six Venture Cats, two sails, for $1 per hour; and six Sunfish, single hulls with one sail, for 50c per hour. The above listed boats, 16-foot and below, are for use in the Coctawhatchee Bay off shore fishing for Spanish Mackerel and other fish and Bay fishing for salt water bass and other fish, there is a small fish, about 6 inches, called a choefer which can be caught from the dock on a cheap casting rig or cane pole and bobber. The ease with which the fish can be caught makes it an ideal way to teach a child how to fish, also for those who want to lessen the expense, rods, reels and poles may be rented at the Rec Area.



For those who don't want to fish, or who are taking a break from fishing, there is a nice expanse of beach and a small snack-bar stor in the Rec Area.

There are many nice restaurants in the Destin-Fort Walton Beach area with prices for a flat or fat wallet. Fish is a specialty along the Gulf Coast, and a person can get almost any kind of fish served in almost any fashion. There are camping facilities in the cottages and barbecue grills at the camping sites and throughout the Rec Area.

In Fort Walton Beach, there are several places that are both cultural and entertaining. One is the Gulfararium, where there are several different shows having to do with sealife and some display cases with marine exhibits. The first show is trained porpoises; another show is a diver in a tank with a cross section of the sea life found in the northern Gulf area; and there is a third show with two lively seals.

Museums

Along the highway leading from Destin to Fort Walton Beach, there is a small amusement park. Also, approximately 50 miles away is Panama City, Fla., which boasts a large amusement park plus many other attractions. About the same distance in the other direction is Pensacola, Fla. Either would make a nice day's trip.

Back in the immediate vicinity, there are two museums with the Gulf Coast Indians and their history. One is the Indian Temple Mound Museum in downtown Fort Walton Beach. The Museum itself is unusual because it is placed right next to the mound right in the middle of Fort Walton Beach. The museum has many exhibits of the Gulf Coast Indians and their history.

African style

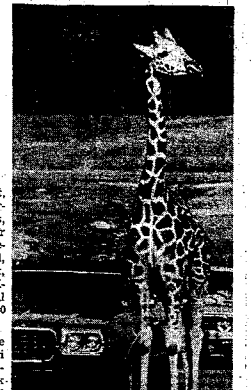
'Lion Country Safari' offers all the excitement of real thing

Safari in Africa. For generations of Georgians with adventurous spirits, this phrase has held a delicious fascination. It conjures up visions of rolling plains and savannas teeming with myriad species of wildlife; or prides of fierce lions, herds of magnificent elephants, armor-skinned rhinos, swift cheetahs and endless species of antelope.

Such visions formerly were experienced by most only through vicarious means, such as novels by an Ernest Hemingway or Robert Ruark, or in such films as 'King Solomon's Mines' and 'Daktari'.

The experience of an African safari is now available in Henry County, Ga., just an hour and a half from Ft. Benning. And Lion Country Safari, as it is appropriately named, offers a special military rate to all those who show their I.D. card at the gate.

Lion Country Safari, opened in July, 1972, on a 562-Acre site between Honesboro and Stockbridge, offers its visitors a trek through tall pines and rolling hills teeming with hundreds of African animals.



Soldiers from Ft. Benning may tour the 250-acre wildlife preserve in the safety of their car and view the animals roaming freely. Their safari is aided by a narrated tape tour giving specifics on many of the different species. The safari trail is constantly patrolled by rangers in zebra-striped vehicles.

The 'stars' of Lion Country Safari are the more than 100 species of predominantly African animals roaming the preserve. These include lion, elephant, white rhinocerow, cheetah, giraffe, various apes and monkeys, hippopotamus, cape buffalo, zebra, ostrich and other exotic birds, and a wide variety of antelope including addax, eland, gemsbokl, Grant's gazelle, sitatunga, springbok, Thompson's gazelle, waterbuck and wildebeest. The constantly growing animal population will eventually exceed 1,200 animals.

At the end of the safari trail is the park's entertainment area, or Safari Camp. This 30-acre area features African-motif rides, a live bird show, snackbars, curio shops, and displays of small animals.

Lion Country Safari, Inc. officials consider the Georgia park their most unique achievement. The combination of rolling landscape and tall, stately pines offers beauty totally different from their three previous parks. Add the hundreds of exotic animals roaming the preserve and the park becomes a natural magnet for naturalists, conservationists and nature lovers in general.

Lion Country Safari-Georgia opens at 9 a.m. and admits the last visitors at 5:30 p.m. from Memorial Day through Labor Day. Hours during the remainder of the year are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

SSgt. changes MOS

SSgt. Bodilly, of Company B, 43rd Engineer Battalion (Construction) has recently taken action in getting an MOS change from 03D40, which is an Arts and Craft Instructor to 51H40, a Construction Foreman. Bodilly who is originally from Missouri, has spent time in Germany as well as seeing a great deal of action here in the states.

While stationed in Germany, Bodilly was assigned to the 3rd Battalion, 64th Armor.

83rd FA receives howitzer

Battery C (Composite), 83d Field Artillery, 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry, 197th Infantry Brigade received its first howitzer recently from the 931st Engineer Group.

The 105mm howitzer has been used by the engineer group as a display piece and it will perform the same mission for Battery C.

As with most newly formed units, Battery C is starting off from scratch, and the 931st Engineer Group offered the howitzer to the unit to be used in a static display role.

Major John E. Sarantakes, battery commander accepted the howitzer from Colonel James M. Thompson, engineer group commander.

Battery C, is a newly activated unit of the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry and has the mission of providing field artillery support for the United States Army Infantry School.

Max Patkin, "Clown Prince of Baseball," will be the featured attraction at Golden Park one week from Sunday, (June 3) when the Columbus Astros entertain the Jacksonville Suns at 2 p.m. Patkin, professional baseball's most popular entertainer, recently played before a packed house in Shea Stadium for the Yankees' annual benefit game with the Mets. Complimentary tickets for Max Patkin Day may be picked up at any Piggly Wiggly Food Store or Grant City location while they last.

Destin offers you Fun

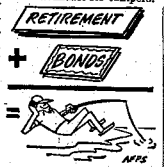
Also, near Destin, there is the Museum of the Sea and Indian, which has some exhibits of unusual sea life and Indian lore.

There are many public beaches on the Gulf for those who want to swim in the surf. There are areas for hardy souls to try their surf boards in the "curls and whitewash."

An interesting side trip is available on the way down to Destin, or on the way back. The route between Fort Benning and Destin passes through Eufaula, Ala., site of some very beautiful antebellum homes. During the spring, there are conducted tours of the homes, however, just driving through the area is a very scenic trip.

There are several ways for military personnel, active duty and retired, to avail themselves of the Recreation Area's facilities and activities.



Available to the single soldier is an 18-man dormitory for units to send up to 18 men for five days, free. The arrangements for the dormitory are made through the units by list with the USAIC Recreation Area, Destine, Fla., Reservation Office of Special Services. Individuals who wish to use the dorm on a space available basis must pay $1 per night.

Also available at the Rec Area are cottages which can sleep up to 104 people. There are 12 2-bedroom cottages that can sleep 8 people apiece. The 2-bedroom cottages rent for $8.50 per night, plus 1 per night per guests who is anyone not in the immediate family of the reserver. The 3-bedroom cottage rent for $10 a night, plus $1 per night per guest.

Reservations for cottages during the summer season, June through August, are limited to five-day periods and are determined by a post-wide drawing.

A person with a valid ID doesn't have to stay at the Recreation Area to avail himself of the services.

There are 60 camping sites available at 75c a night, and there are 20 trailer pads with water, electricity and sewage at $1 per night. There are bathing facilities available for campers.

Who, what, when and where who will be returning to civilian life, and CW2 and Mrs. Michael Clay who will depart shortly for a tour of duty in Alaska. Special guests were Lt. Col. Theodore B. Voorhees, Brigade Executive Officer, and Mrs. Voorhees.

The evening's entertainment was provided by Fort Benning's own square dance troupe, the "Follow-Me-Travelers." After some initial hesitation, the on-lookers all joined hands and dosie-doed and by the time the caller had called his last "swing your partner," an enthusiastic group of square dancers had developed in the 2nd of the 10th.

3rd Bn. 7th Inf.

The ladies of the 3rd Bn. 7th Inf. joined their husbands at an Officers' Call on May 11 at the Sand Hill Golf Course Snack Bar. Highlight of the evening was a tribute to women, as the ladies sang the popular song "I Am Woman" to the captive male audience. Welcomed to the Battalion was Capt. Delloyd Voorhees, 2nd Lt. Peter Cutler, the Cotton Weevil, made a few brief remarks and 1st Lt. James Davis did his impersonations of several officers of the Battalion.

The 2th Student Battalion Coffee was held on April 24 at Mrs. Earl Steck's residence on Joy Road, Columbus. Mrs. Michael Brennen was co-hostess.

Silver farewell trays were given to Mrs. William Miller and Mrs. Anthony Longval.

500 lbs.

Limit set on weight of baggage sent by air

The Department of the Army has placed a 500-pound weight limit on overseas baggage via air. This could have substantial impact during the upcoming summer season, which is a busy moving period for many families and individuals leaving Fort Benning.

Funds Dwindle

This limitation was necessary because funds allocated for this prupose are not sufficient to continue the present baggage allowances for the remainder of this fiscal year.

Previously, eligible enlisted grades were authorized a 400-pound baggage allowance, officers up to lieutenant colonel were authorized up to 600 pounds, full colonel and brigadier general 800 pounds, and major general 1,000 pounds.

Dependents 12 years of age and older are authorized 350 pounds, and dependents under 12, 175 pounds. This 500-pound limit can easily cut in half a family's baggage allowance.

The baggage allowance not used because of this restriction can be applied to the household goods weight limit. Unaccompanied baggage consists of those small items of personal property needed immediately upon arrival at the new duty station.

It may include clothing, linen, bedding, pots and pans for interim housekeeping, baby beds, playpens, strollers, etc. Unaccompanied baggage is what most people think of as "hold baggage."

Exceptions are Made

Exceptions to the weight limit may be granted by the U. S. Continental Army Command, but such exceptions are rare. Here are some ways to soften the adverse impact of this weight restriction:

Ship only those items in your baggage that you absolutely need immediately upon arrival at the new overseas duty station. Take full advantage of your hand baggage weight allowance.

Make a small household goods shipment soon after receipt of your orders by utilizing the bachelor's allowance of 500 pounds that is authorized to most overseas areas.

Contact the transportation office for further advice and assistance on this special shipment. Chances are this shipment will arrive soon after you do, and you'll have it to use while waiting for your big household goods shipment.

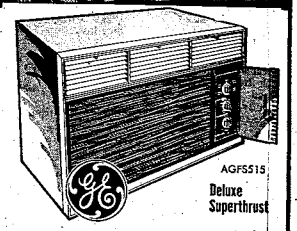
Ship Early

Make your main shipment of household goods as early as possible, or split it into two shipments. Ship part of your goods now, ahead of time, and then the remainder when you clear quarters.

No official word has been received; however, it is anticipated that this 500-pound weight limit will remain in effect for some time.

Possible justifications for exceeding the weight limit include assignment to a remote and backward country, large family, families with infant children, families with members who need special equipment because of some disease or infirmity, etc.

Everyone is urged to stay within this weight limit and help avoid an over-expenditure of funds. This will help make it possible to continue the system for granting exceptions to those families and individuals who have a real need for the additional weight.



Any further questions should be directed to the household goods section at 545-4823, 545-1423, 545-4594, or 545-4621.

Coming to the screen

Lolly-Madonna XXX

In present day Tennessee, the Feather family, headed by Rod Steiger, is at odds wth neighbors, the Gutshalls, led by Robert Ryan. The ill-feeling between the two families explodes over some land borders and comes to a head with a lonely girl, Lolly Madonna (Season Hubley), is found at a crossroads and kidnapped by the Feather clan under the assumption that she agreed to marry one of them. The Gutshall family, responsible for the trick, set upon the Feather clan, destroying stills and setting off an explosion of violence, rape, and killing. Violence breeds more violence as both sides set in for the feud.

Kansas City Bombers

K. C. Carr (Raquel Welch), Tough, tough member of the hard-nosed Kansas City roller derby team is traded to an Oregon-based team dominated by owner Kevin McCarthy. McCarthy builds up a rivalry between Raquel and his team star Helena Kallianiotes. Requel, a divorcee torn between her duty as a mother and her ambition to gain fame and fortune, has become romanically involved with McCarthy. A harrowing set of circumstances, both on and off the track, force her to make a crucial decision. The rugged brawling mile-a-minute action of the knock-downdrag out sport will excite derby fans and all sports fans alike.

Child's Play

The story focuses on a boy's school where a weird series of accidents have been steadily increasing. Robert Preston, an amiable and well-liked English teacher, tries to find out the cause of the strange occurrences. He is opposed at every turn by James Mason, a strict and hated Latin professor, who resents Preston's friendliness with the boys. Coming between the two men in a well-played characterization is the baffled and insecure Beau Bridges, a physical education instructor and former student who once idolized Preston and feared Mason.

Brother Sun, Sister Moon

A heartwarming and inspirational look at the life of St. Francis of Asasi, history's first youthful "dropout" and anti-establishment flower child. Francesco, (Graham Faulkner) returns home from war thoroughly disillusioned. At age 18, Francesco, desires to be "free" of all things of the flesh and gives way his father's merchandise to the poor. Francesco withdraws from the world, going alone into the mountains where he finds the ruins of a church which he starts to rebuild. Soon he is joined by other idealistic youth and a young lady (St. Cabre, "Sister Moon") and they form a kind of commune.

Post plans many activities for you

By BILLY SAMS

In an attempt to encourage soldiers and their families to remain here, instead of traveling, post recreational facilities have planned special events and activities to take place during the Memorial Day weekend.

GOLF — There will be two golf tournaments held during the Memorial Day weekend. The Sand Hill Golf Club Memorial Day Classic will be held May 26-27. This tournament is a low ball, two man event. Each team member pays an entry fee of five dollars. The tournament is for active and retired military personnel. For further information call 545-4131.

The Benning Country Club Pro Shop is sponsoring the Advanced Officers Course Class four Golf Tournament, May 26-27.

The Club Handicap Tournament will be continued from May 5 through May 26-27. For more information call 545-4120.

FISHING DERBY — The Rod and Gun Club is holding a fishing derby during the Memorial Day weekend. Registration fee is one dollar per member and three dollars per club member families. Prizes will consist of $25-20-15 merchandise certificate for the largest fish caught in each category. Hours of registration will be from 6 a.m. - 8 a.m. May 26-27, 6 a.m.-12 noon. For further information call 545-6028.

BOWLING — The Main Post and Kelley Hill Bowling Centers will feature all night bowling during the Memorial Day weekend, May 26-27. Additional information call 545-7360.

BANDS — Crain Hall will be featuring rock and roll and soul music groups during the Memorial Day weekend. May 25, King Casuals will entertain 9 p.m.-1 a.m. May 26, the Show Stoppers rock through the weekend 9 p.m.-1 a.m. May 27, the Rams wrap up the holiday weekend, 8 p.m.-12 p.m. For more information call 545-4160.
