According to figures released today by Col. Melville A. Sanderson, Chief Dental Surgeon, more than 1,400 partial dentures and almost 600 full dentures will have been supplied by the end of this year, with 200 bridges being made, 100 rebascs and nearly 500 repaired.

A total of 29,000 extractions will be made during the year, and the work of the Dental Clinic in placing emphasis on saving and replacing teeth, will have replaced about 65 per cent of these.

Altogether, more than 75,000 fillings will have been made, with 15,000 cleanings, 7,500 teeth treated in an effort to save them for filling at a later date, 12,000 treatments of gums.

Dental surgeons will have treated 35,000 persons under routine admissions after examinations and performed 14,000 emergency jobs—and these are real emergencies that arise at any time of day or night when an enlisted man or officer may be attacked by a severe toothache.

"The record being set here is a splendid one in saving the teeth of our soldiers," Col. Sanderson pointed out. "With the Army taking in older men during the past year, the soldiers requiring dental work to make them fit for duty has increased. Many of these men had never visited a dentist in their lives. Others had gone to dentists only in case of emergencies, and has no idea of proper care of teeth.

TECHNICIANS TRAINED

"Work of the Clinic consists not only in caring for the dental needs of the men, but in training technicians. There are two women hygienists who are experts, and they assist in training men from the Medical Detachment as dental hygienists, X-ray technicians and laboratory experts also. Men from the hospital train units preparing to go overseas are receiving training here, and also in the laboratory so that they can give full dental care, even to making dentures, right in the field."

The Dental Clinic is spread all all over the post in order to give service to the men. At the main post, a 15-chair clinic is maintained at the Station Hospital, under Maj. R. D. Watkins, while at Dispensary A, 12 chairs are maintained under Lt. Col. A. L. Bartlett. In the 10th Armored Division area, a 25-chair clinic is directed by Lt. Col. Chester Fordyce, while in the Harmony Church area the needs of officer candidates and regular troops are met by a 15-chair clinic directed by Maj. Nathan Alderstein. In the Alabama area, an eight chair clinic administers to the parachute troops under the direction of Maj. Rex Matheny.

Expansion still is going on with buildings up in the Third Student Training Regiment area and another building in the Harmony Church area now awaiting installation of equipment before they begin functioning.

In the laboratory, eight assigned enlisted men work eight hours a day under the direction of Capt. W. F. Maury making dentures or bridges, turning out work every bit as expert as any big commercial dental laboratory in the country. Six others are attached from the station hospital or from hospital trains for training also. They will be able to perform work in the field for their units later.

Besides the dental work of the main clinic and all its branches, dental care for men at Fort Benning is augmented by several of the tactical units either prepared to work in the field or actually doing such work within their own groups at the present time.

Dehydrated Food Provides Balanced Diet

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 30—If an American soldier can get along without meat for one meal, he can now sit down to a dinner with every item on the menu a dehydrated food from soup to a dessert of rice pudding—with raisins, it was revealed today at the Distribution Branch, headquarters Fourth Service Command.

In such a meal he would start off with dehydrated chicken soup, or he could have vegetable soup if he desired, containing a mixture of soy beans, grits, green peas, sugar and spices. He then would have dehydrated eggs for his "meat dish," from which point he could select his vegetables from dehydrated potatoes, onions, carrots, cabbages, beets, rutabagas or sweet potatoes. If he happened to be from Boston, he could have his home town's famous dish—baked beans, also dehydrated. For his drink he could have lemonade made from lemon crystals and the fruit part of the meal would be "apple nuggets."

He would then polish off the repast with the latest member of the Army's dehydrated food family rice pudding, which has been perfected after much experimentation. In its concentrated form the pudding is a mixture of precooked rice, processed raisins, sugar, salt, spices and vanilla flavoring in proper proportions. It requires only the addition of water and cooking to convert it into a tasty dessert. The rice is precooked until in contains not more than 10 per cent moisture. When water is added it returns to the original grain character and produces a pudding that looks and tastes like ordinary grain rice.

These dehydrated foods are used for the soldiers overseas, it is explained, as the concentrated foods save much shipping space. As an example, the overseas shipment of 27,000,000 pounds of potatoes now can be reduced to 3,000,000 pounds which would save at least 500,000 cubic feet of cargo space. This amounts to more than the capacity of two cargo ships, or about 10,000 ships' tons.

Lt. Colonels Are Sergeants At Benning

Some people are prone to argue that, since the advent of Hitler, things have gone from bad to upsidedown. However, regardless of our personal pro or con in the matter, we do run across situations which sound a little on the "it can't happen here" side.

Take for instance the Fourth Company, of the First Regiment, where a lieutenant colonel was promoted to "first sergeant." Yes, as if that isn't enough, we also hear that there's a lieutenant colonel holding down the berth of Squad Leader. But then, that's the way it goes in an advanced course.

Lt. Col. Frederick R. Undritz, former officer of the First Student Training Regiment, and later executive officer of the Student Training Brigade, is now back in his old battaion as a student officer in the Fourth Company. The lieut. colonel is now "First Sergeant" in the student company. Lt. Col. Robert H. Garrison, formerly commander of the Service Battalion, is squad leader in the same student company.

ROSA ROLLAND—The art of terpsichore will be interppreted by Rosa Rolland when "Manhattan Music Masters" play at Theatre No. 10 in the Alabama area of Fort Benning Jan. 7. Miss Rolland, who studied at the Metropolitan Opera school of dance and with Michael Fokine, was a member of the Corps de Ballet of the Radio City Music Hall, before joining the Metropolitan Opera Company ballet where she remained for five years. During the past year she has appeared as a member of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

'Music Masters' Play Alabama Area Jan. 7

A musical treat of rare excellence will be presented by USO-Camp Shows at Theatre No. 10 in the Alabama area of Fort Benning on Jan. 7 when the "Manhattan Music Masters," a group of talented vocalists, musicians, and dancers, offer their program of popular classical and operatic favorites.

Recruited from the top quality talent of the musical field, "Manhattan Music Masters" will present the equivalent of a compact concert season in an evening of singing, playing, and dancing. The program will include such popular favorites as the Valse Hugette from the "Student Prince," by Friml; "All the Things You Are," by Romberg; Mendelsohnn's "On Wings of Song;" Fritz Kreisler's "Liebeslied;" the famous aria "Largo Al Factotum" from "The Barber of Seville," and excerpts from Gershwin's opera, "Porgy and Bess."

Brought to Fort Benning through the efforts of the Special Service office, "Manhattan Music Masters" uses such top-flight artists as Agnes Davis, soprano; Garfield Swift, Baritone; Byrd Elliot, violinist; Howard Kubik, pianist; Rosa Rolland, dancer; and Nicolas Beriozoff, dancer.

The show has been organized and presented by the concert division of USO-Camp Shows Inc. and is presented free to the men in the armed forces.

USO Schedules Town Hall Series

A new Town Hall series is being planned by the USO Club at 100 Ninth street in Columbus, it was announced today by Edward Korn, who will act in an advisory capacity. An appeal was issued for soldiers who have lived in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Holland, Norway, or other occupied countries to participate.

The men are wanted to tell their stories and also to recount how opposition to Nazi forces is being organized on the Continent of Europe, Mr. Korn said.

Men are requested to get in touch with Mr. Korn at the USO club, 100 Ninth street, or call him at Columbus 7914.

Shain Sent To Harvard

Jewish Services To Be Continued During His Absence

Lt. Samson A. Shain, Jewish chaplain at Fort Benning, has been ordered to Chaplains' School at Harvard University for a month's course of study, Lt. Col. Frank M. Thompson, chief of the post's chaplains branch, announces.

Competent individuals have been secured to lead the religious services directed by Chaplain Shain, but due to the difficulty of obtaining leaders for all six services, it will be necessary for men of all Lawson Field organizations and the 117th Infantry to attend services Friday night in the Children's School. All men of the 124th Infantry, 764th Tank Battalion, 801st and 802nd Field Artillery will join men of the Second Student Training Regiment in their Sunday morning services in Building B-7.

The revised schedule for the month of January follows:

For men on the Main Post, All Lawson Field organizations, and the 505th, 506th, and 507th Parachute Infantries.

Every Friday evening at 7:30, at the Children's School, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road. A five voice-choir of officers and enlisted men chant the services. A lively discussion concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd Student Training Regiment and the Student Training Brigade:

Every Sunday morning, at 9:00 o'clock, in War Dept. Theatre No. 9, (Building B-46), 8th Division Road.

For men of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 764th Tank Battalion, 801st and 802nd Field Artillery:

Every Sunday morning at 10:30, in Building B-7. A lively forum on an important Jewish topic follows the service.

For men of the 10th Armored Division:

Every Monday evening, at 7:30, in Chapel No. 4. Sergeant Abe Millman will act as cantor.

Motor vehicles will provide less attractive targets to the enemy if they are not parked in groups, a line or in a regular pattern.

Chaplains—

(Continued from Page 4)

Again," by my friend, Dr. Robert Freeman, may furnish the needed inspiration:

I played with my blocks—I was but a child,
Houses I builded, castles I piled;
But they tottered and fell, all my labor was vain;
Yet my father said kindly, "We'll try it again!"
I played with my days—what's time to a lad?
Why pore over books? Play, play and be glad!
Till my youth was all spent like a sweet summer rain;
Yet my father said kindly, "We'll try it again!"
I played with my chance; such gifts as were mine
To work with, to win with, to serve the Divine,
With prodigal hand I did waste and profane;
Yet my father said kindly, "We'll try it again!"
I played with my soul, the soul that is I,
The best that is in me—I smothered its cry;
I lulled it, I dulled it, and now, O the pain
Yet my Father said kindly, "We'll try it again!"

The BAMA CLUB Presents
For Your HOLIDAY FROLIC REVUE
A Gay, Sparkling Musical Revue
Starring the Sensational Song Star
ALICE DAWN
Held Over by Popular Demand
America's Newest Comedy Find
PINKY TRACY
Satire in Mimicry
The Hold Over of The Blondell Twins Acrobatic Starlets
And the Pert and Pretty Lorraine Vernon 'Juggling Sensation' Music by Hal Wasson and His Orchestra
BAMA CLUB
Just Across Lower Bridge—1st Bldg on Right
Cover Charges Week Nites 50c
Holiday and Sat. Nites $1.00
DIAL 3-1051

That Extra Something!
...You can spot it every time
TO DO a special kind of service takes that extra something. Coca-Cola does a special service to thirst because it has that extra something, too. More than just quenching thirst, ice-cold Coca-Cola brings energy-giving refreshment that you feel... and enjoy.
And Coca-Cola brings you the deliciousness of its clean, exciting taste. A finished art in its making blends special, wholesome flavor-essences to merge all the other ingredients into a unique taste all its own. No one can duplicate it.
To think of refreshment is to think of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Its quality, taste and refreshing goodness set this original drink apart from all others.
* * *
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke, Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing... the real thing..."a single thing coming from a single source, and well known to the community".
While you're exchanging pictures, why not exchange your thirst for an ice-cold Coca-Cola. You'll go for the sparkling goodness of its delicious taste and you'll welcome its after-sense of refreshment.
Photos 1 MINUTE
Coca-Cola 5¢
The best is always the better buy!
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Dance To TOBIE DOWDY
AND HIS 6-PIECE ORCHESTRA
Direct From Detroit
NEW YEAR'S EVE NIGHT
Cover Charge $1.00 Per Person
Serving a Full Course Evening Dinner—and A La Carte Service
HAPPY NEW YEAR
• Music • Dancing • Food • Drinks
DIAL 2-4291 Today for your New Year's Eve Party Reservations
STEAKS—SANDWICHES AND LIQUID REFRESHMENTS
CHICKASAW GARDENS
5 Miles out on Macon Highway, turn left at sign

WHERE TO DINE & DANCE
IN AND AROUND COLUMBUS

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT
WINSEL CASTLE
"COLUMBUS' FINEST"
2803 Cusseta Road Cecil Lloyd, Prop.
FOR OFFICERS AND MEMBERS ONLY

PAT PATTERSON 44th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED Chicken IN THIS TOWN
GA. CAT FISH Dinners WITH CORN BREAD
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY Steaks THAT'S REALLY TENDER
POINT BLUE Oysters FRIED, STEW, RAW
Come Out on No. Highland Bus 8 Private Dining Rooms

JERRY'S
206-38th St.
FAMOUS FOR STEAKS & CHICKEN

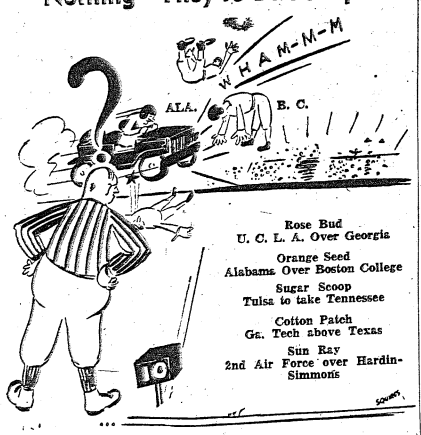
CHEROKEE LODGE
Endorsed by
DUNCAN HINES
By Appointment Only
DIAL 2-1091

JUMBO
Fried Chicken
Catfish Dinners
Ga. Stew
Bar-B-Q
1700 Fourth Ave. Dial 9880
Dining Rooms Curb Service

BURG'S TAVERN
On New Route to Benning
PIT BARBECUE
GRILLED STEAKS
SANDWICHES
Dancing Permitted
"ALL AMERICAN"

THE ROOSEVELT CAFE
1027 Broadway
We invite the Fort Benning Personnel to visit the ROOSEVELT, Columbus' Finest Restaurant, now featuring—
STEAK DELMONICO
It's Different. NEW AS TOMORROW, it's 100% tender steak. Dine at the Roosevelt, in an atmosphere of cordiality and friendliness.

CHEROKEE LODGE
Endorsed by
Duncan Hines
By Appointment Only



GOO-GOO
"The Sign Of Good Food"
Dial 3-4491
700 Linwood Boulevard
AIR CONDITIONED
½ Fried Chicken Served Unjointed Without Silver, Gobs of Shoe Strings, Jug of Honey, Hot Buttered Rolls. The Most Modern and Best Known Cafe in Columbus, Georgia
Free Parking — Curb Service
Private Dining Rooms

COPELAND'S BARBECUE AND STEW
3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620
BARBECUE—STEW—SANDWICHES—DRINKS
CHICKEN—STEAK—OYSTER DINNERS
CECIL JONES, Prop.
PLENTY FREE PARKING AND CURB SERVICE

Sportscasting

BY SGT. CARL NEU

Our Bowl Predictions Cost You Nothing—They're Dirt Jeep!

Rose Bud
U. C. L. A. Over Georgia

Orange Seed
Alabama Over Boston College

Sugar Scoop
Tulsa to take Tennessee

Cotton Patch
Ga. Tech above Texas

Sun Ray
2nd Air Force over Hardin-Simmons

(Editor's Note—This paper renounces all responsibility for the column you are about to read—or have you changed your mind. At any rate, so does Sgt. Neu who evidently reads the calendar too hurriedly and thought last night was New Year's Eve. Well there's an excuse for him. His conspirators in crime, Livingston and Kinney of the downtown dailies, are celebrating theirs in Dallas and Pasadena, and he's probably disgruntled because he couldn't go bowling too.)

FORT BENNING, Ga., December 31—(BB)—That stands for Benning Bayonet, the world's greatest covering agency with absolutely no cover charge.—Well, here we are all set for the Mush Bowl game. U. S. O.-Camp Shows gave a wing-ding of a party last night in honor of the rival teams which had marched many miles to partake of bowl glory. This reporter was honored to sit between Mary Ann Masi and Amy Roper, lovely show-girls from Hellzapoppin. Guess that ought to out-do "Sack-Of-Dawn" Kinney who brags that he dipped his dainty mitts into a finger bowl while seated between Patricia (S. A.) Morrison and Loretta (Don't be bashful, Tom) Young. Incidentally, wonder if Kinney is eating as much in California as he did in Columbus. He was never known to "Pas-a-dena" here. In honor of the visiting teams for the Mush Bowl classic, the gorgeously-gammed-gals of Hellzapoppin sang one chorus sic, the gorgeously-gammed-gals of Hellzapoppin sang one chorus sic, the gorgeously-gammed-gals of Hellzapoppin sang one chorus (no that's what they dance in) of that age-old classic, "When the mush begins to rush down father's vest." Mush Bowl executive Paul Korman (he complained last week because his name was misspelled the first time it had ever been in a paper) advises that all tickets have been donated to the bowl-ing alley pin boys. They never show up anyhow. The game will be played on a dull gray day with a liberal sprinkling of rain, else how will there be enough moisture to mix the mush. Or mush I tell you. It was also announced at the party that the attending girls were Benning's favorite pin-up girls, a la Dottie Lamour, except that these femmes use the pins to hold up their costumes. All in all it was a mushy affair, but the boys are determined to turn their efforts once again to winning the big "game." Signed—Kinney's Shadow.

* * * * *

DALLAS, Texas., December 31, 1942—(BB)—Well, old black Joe is now in the land of promise. This is quite a place for a full-fledged Kentucky Kunnel to land in around New Year's eve. The only one on hand to greet me was a shine boy, who showed great originality by rushing up to me as I de-trained and shouting, "Mr. Livingston, I presume." Am really agog over this Cotton Bowl game, but my heart as usual is right back at deah old Benning. Sure wish I was there for that Mush Bowl game. Sounds interesting. By the way, the Bayonet dispatches don't mention any cheerleaders. How can you expect sports writers to have anything to write about if there aren't pretty gir! cheer-leaders? Texas fans tell me their cheerleaders will ride around the bowl astride four white steers. Not a la Lady G., however. It's a great racket, this covering of bowl games. Only thing is, I'm sorry I said so many nasty things about Georgia Tech earlier this year. How was I to know I'd be assigned to cover the "Rambling Wreck" in a bowl game. To cover up my embarrassment, I've been telling them I'm Tom Kinney. No wonder they can't understand why I've been passing up the fourth steak every night. I thought there'd be golfing down here, so brought along my clubs, but find my game improves without coaching from that G. I. Mulvihill so have given it up. Hear there's Hellzapoppin at Fort Benning. Well, there will be some in Columbus, too, if both Kinney and I have to write about Georgia teams getting beat tomorrow. If that happens, we'll swap jobs with Neu, and I'll write about the Gators while Tom handles the poetry corner. Am sure this will be the best bowl game, but the wires from New Orleans advise Sugar Bowl to be best in ration. (That's not a bad pun if you pronounce the last word properly.) Six-thousand word stories of all parties here will follow. Signed—The Thin Man.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION—Never to write another column like this, or the Alligator might try to hire me!

Lawson Field Builds Quintet From League

Fliers Have Won Trio Of Games From Outside Rivals

Using the Lawson Field League as a nucleus, the Fliers have developed a pretty strong service quintet. The Lawson Field Basketball League is composed of four teams. The 7th Observation, the 54th A. B. Sq., the 1013th Guard Squadron and the 4th Weather Sq. are represented.

The four teams are closely bunched with only one game separating the last placed team from the top. Tied for first place with three victories and two defeats are the 7th Obs. and the 56th. In second place with two wins and three losses are the 1013th G. S. and the 4th Weather Sq.

CLOSE GAMES

Almost every game played has been decided by two or three points and some have gone as many as two overtime periods before a winner has been decided. When the league does not function, the squadrons combine and play outside games.

The Lawsonites started the season with a victory over the 53rd General Hospital by the score of 65 to 25. In their next game played at the Harmony Soprts Arena against the 124th Infantry, the Fliers suffered their initial defeat. Score for that game was 39 to 36, with the game not being decided until the last minute of play. In a closely fought game against the Station Hospital five, the Lawson team pulled a game out of the fire with a late splurge, winning by the score of 60 to 53.

TOPPLE 117TH

The Fliers made it two straight and three out of four Saturday by winning an over-time contest from the 117th Infantry. Leading from the end of the way, the 117th eppar-ent had the game won as they led 43 to 41 with just one minute to play remaining in the game. Metcalfe, of Lawson Field, was fouled in the act of shooting and made both of the fouls to send the game into overtime.

The Fliers scored ten points to two in the overtime period and won easily. Metcalfe and Hall of Lawson Field had 20 and 17 points, respectively. High scorer for the 117th Infantry was Hite, with 23 points.

MEET BAINBRIDGE

For their next game the Fliers will travel to Bainbridge, Ga., to play the Bainbridge Air Base team. Travel, if weather permits, will be by transport plane. Games with service teams of nearby camps will be played at the main post gymnasium. The team will also participate in the Fort Benning conference.

Captain Donovan C. Moffett is coach of the team. Captain Moffett, before entering the service, was athletic director of DePauw University, located at Greencastle, Ind. Among his duties at DePauw was coaching the basketball team, which is a member of the Indiana Collegiate Conference. Several of Captain Moffett's quintets at DePauw boast victories over such teams as Purdue, Indiana, Northwestern, and Butler.

All members of the Fliers are enlisted men. The Lawson Field team consists of the following: Wm. Horn, N. Y.; Wm. Metcalfe, Kentucky; Arvid Hall, N. Y.; Wm. Franz, Ohio; High Acherman, N. Y.; Thomas Perocco, N. Y.; John Sabo, Pa.; Andrew Rajachovic, Pa.; Warren Hopkins, N. Y.; Edward Kelly, N. Y.; Walter Wyrostic, N. Y.; "Pop" Watson, Pa.; Bryden Henderson, Ohio; Wm. Crow, Ga.; Arthur Moran, N. Y.

42 Teams Vie In Six Court Leagues

29th, Academic Teams Won Big Share Of Flags

Veteran Units Stood Off Newcomers In Sports Circles

Despite the influx of many new units during the past year, two veteran Fort Benning outfits, the 29th Infantry and the Academic Regiment continued to grab a major share of the laurels during some of the biggest sports years the post has ever known.

The Blue Devils captured post titles in basketball, boxing and soccer, while the Profs won their seventh straight diamond flag and also won the volleyball championship. Only newcomer actually to crash into the select circle was the 124th Infantry which made a clean sweep in the grid conference to capture the football crown. The Gators also were unofficial post softball champs.

It was a year which saw many of the nation's foremost athletes, now in Army khaki, compete on Benning fields and courts. The competition in all sports was intense, and the crowds that followed the sporting events were truly amazing. It was truly a year that will be long remembered by all who took part in any phase of the vast sports program, most of which was sponsored by the Fort Benning Athletic Association, under the sole direction of Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan as post athletic officer.

Basketball, boxing, baseball, bowling, volleyball, football and soccer were the major sports during the year, but Benning athletes also distinguished themselves in other fields as well, such a golf, tennis, handball, weight-lifting, and badminton.

BASKETBALL

The court championship last winter was finally captured by a scrappy 29th Infantry quintet which won a post-season play-off from the Infantry School Service Command. The Blue Devils won the second half of a split schedule and continued in form to grab the gonfalon in the final game of a play-off series.

The Devils were tutored by Lieutenants William Desobry and Maurice Dozier, and provided one of the upsets of the year when they conquered the favored I. S. S. C. which had long reigned supreme in Benning court circles. For the first time last season, many of the loop games were played on the spacious new court in the Sports Arena, located in the Harmony Church area of the reservation.

BOXING

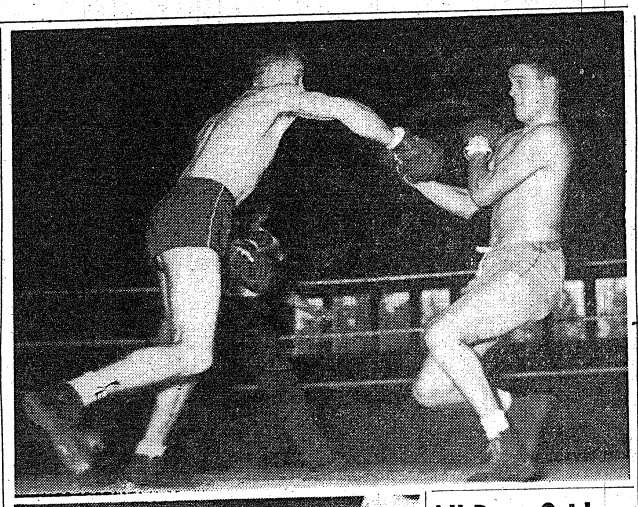
At just about the same time that the 29th courtmen were gaining post honors, the boxing team of the demonstration regiment was gathering in a fort title. The Devil pugilists won the championship of the post on a point basis, and throughout the campaign, they were defeated in only five bouts out of fifty. Besides the intra-mural victories, the 29th also topped Camp Gordon at Augusta, and Camp Wheeler at Macon in inter-camp team cards.

The post title-winners gained much praise after every bout for their exciting performances. They fought with a great deal of ifi-nesse at all times, and turned in a distinguished record. In a post-season round-robin tournament, the slugging 41st Infantry of the 2nd Armored Division came off the winner, but the 29th did not compete in this late tourney.

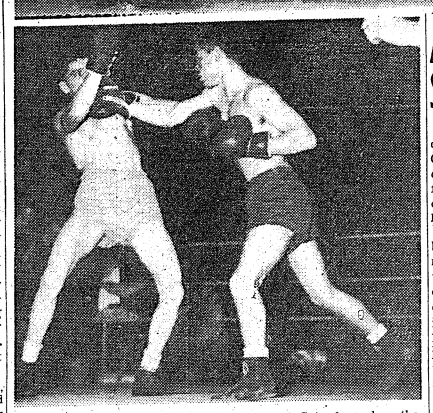
VOLLEYBALL

The post volleyball championship, conducted in the form of a round-robin early this year, went to Company "A" of the Infantry School Service Command's Academic Regiment. This club won by a good margin in the final game. Headquarters Company of the 29th paced by Sgt. John Laconte, one of the post's best all-around athletes. Sgt. Collis D. Lehner, better-known as Lefty to baseball fans, was the big star of the victorious Company "A" team.

BOWLING



The bowling campaign at Benning was marked by some great individual effort. Master Sgt. James T. Guinn and Tech. Sgt. Joseph Bitala journeyed to New Orleans for the Southeastern tourney and carried off the doubles crown against top flight competition. Two other Benning keglers came in fifth in the two-some tourney. They were Sgt. Ledford Calsor and Sgt. Henry Boudreaux, now a first lieutenant commanding the Corps of Military Police. Boudreaux also captured fifth place in the all-events competition.



Later on in the campaign, Boudreaux also teamed up with Sgt. Perry F. O'Donnell, also now an officer, to capture the Benning doubles crown for the winter season. It was a great bowling campaign, and Boudreaux justified his claim as the fort's outstanding bowler again early this fall when he rolled a 269 game on the new alleys, which still stands as the record score for the season.

BASEBALL

The Academic Regiment won the 1942 baseball crown with one of the best nines in Fort Benning history. They captured the first

(Continued on Page 7)

THERE WAS HOT ACTION aplenty last Saturday when the boxers of the 90th Recon whipped the 423rd Field Artillery at the sports arena. In the top shot, Rod Jordan of the winners is lunging at Chet Keyes but the latter is doing some artful dodging. In the other picture, Chuck Taylor, crack Recon lightweight, is driving a hard right to the chin of Duke Zawaldski whom he stopped in three rounds. (Signal Lab Photo.)

90th Recon Scrappers Down Artillery Team

Taylor Impressive As Experienced Boxers Win

In a highly interesting boxing card Saturday at the Harmony Church sports arena, the more experienced scrappers of the 90th Reconnaissance Battalion outpointed a band of plucky sluggers representing the 423rd Field Artillery.

Both Tenth Armored units displayed some likely talent, with the Recons winning five of eight bouts. Two resulted in draws, while the wind-up affair was ruled "no contest" when an illegal backhand punch resulted in a knockout that forced the victim to withdraw.

Outstanding performer of the fast card was Chuck Taylor, a 145-pound puncher from the 90th squad who carried himself well in gaining a three-round decision over Duke Zawaldski of the 423rd. Taylor has had a few pro fights and appears to be one of the foremost contenders for post lightweight honors.

The Reconnissance lads, tutored by Lieutenants Earle Brown and Raymond Guzman and superbly trained by Sgt. Clarence Olewine, displayed plenty of class and ring knowledge and won the contest with very little trouble over a team which entered mostly novices who could not cope with the better-drilled boxers of the 90th unit.

Partisan followers from both battalions viewed the bouts, which are part of an exhibition series being conducted in the Tiger unit prior to the formation of post leagues early in January.

William Smith (123) of 90th won over Red Ackerman (124) of the 423rd on a TKO in 1 min. 50 secs. of the first round.

Bill Willmer (148) of 423rd and Bat Belford (148) of 90th fought three rounds to a draw decision.

Torpedo Boyajian (146) of the 90th K. O.'s Pat Libby of 423rd in 1 min. 52 secs. of the second round.

Lou Aragon (132) of 90th won a fast three-rounder from Pete Lindsey (140) of 423rd by decision.

Ears Huckleberry (162) of 423rd and Dick Knapp (166) of 90th Recon fought to a three-round draw.

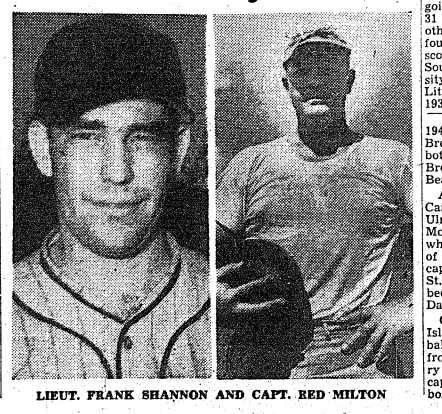
Rodney Jordan (170) gained the decision over Chet Keyes (176) of 423rd in an interesting three-rounder.

Chuck Taylor (145) of 90th defeated Duke Zawaldski (145) of 423rd by a decision.

Tiny Midgette (158) of 90th met Zeke Williams (153) of 423rd in a finale that was declared "no contest" wheen Midgette disabled Williams with a backhand punch and the latter was declared unfit to continue the bout.

2nd STR's 25th Co. Boasts Collection Of Noted Athletes

When it comes to a sportsman's company, the new 25th Co. of the 2nd Student Training Regiment has quite a collection of athletes. Records of the newly arrived candidates in the regiment reveal former stars in at least five sports.



Football as usual tops the list, with Candidate Elbert L. Bloodgood of Beatrice, Neb., who captained the Nebraska football club in 1926 as quarterback and then played five season's of pro-football and pro-baseball.

Then there's O. C. Adrain M. Dodson of Baton Rouge, who was tailback on the L. S. U. eleven in 1941, and O. C. Leo Hirsch of Brooklyn, who played football both at St. Francis college in Brooklyn and with the Newark Bears pro-club.

Another member of the class is Candidate Theodore Clawitter of Ulm Ark., former manager of the Montgomery, Ala., baseball club, while Candidate Conrad A. Hoppe of Milwaukee, Wis., was tennis captain at St. Thomas college in St. Paul, Minn. (as well as having been a member of Johnny Scat Davis' name band).

O. C. George J. Fox of Long Island, N. Y., won three basketball letters at Fordham University from 1931 to 1933, and O. C. Henry P. Glaze of Gonzales, La., was captain of the Louisiana State boxing team in 1933.

Coached Winning Teams

LIEUT. FRANK SHANNON AND CAPT. RED MILTON

All-Post Grid Star Is Boxer

At least one member of the recently named Fort Benning All-Conference grid eleven is already distinguishing himself in another field of sports hard on the heels of the close of the football campaign.

He is Cpl. Bill Larsen, a member of the 11th Armored Regiment, and only Tanker pigskinner to gain a position on the Bayonet's all-post selections announced two weeks ago. Within a week after the close of the campaign, Larsen was hard at work training for the boxing campaign and he has already racked up a victory.

Participating with the provisional battalion of the 11th A. R. in a match with the 420th Field Artillery battalion recently, Larsen pounde out an impressive three-round decision over Ed Jastrzembski of the cannoneers.

Weighing 211 pounds and scaling 6 feet, 2 inches, Larsen appears as an outstanding heavyweight prospect both for division and post honors this winter. Against Jastrzembski, he exhibited sureness of foot and good counter-punching.

The Tanker slugger was a three-year grid star and boxer at Santa Barbara State College in California before entering the Army. He had already accepted a contract to play pro ball with the New York Giants when the Army grabbed him over a year ago.

This fall on Benning gridirons, he was a stand-out tackle on an 11th Armored eleven that won only one game. Larsen was also the team captain and an aggressive player for sixty minutes of every game.

SPORT SLANTS

The soldier-booters of the Camp Roberts (Cal.) soccer team scored another victory last week when they defeated San Mateo Junior College, 1-0, on the Service Club field. Pvt. Dominic Guadagni booted the ball through the goal posts for the deciding point in the last two minutes of play!

The Hammer Field (Cal.) Bombers got their basketball season off to a flying start last week by turning back the Merced Army Flying School (Cal.) quintet, 44-35, in the Roosevelt High School gym. The Bombers ran up an early lead and were out in front 21-16 at the half. Greenwood, guard, was high scorer for the winners with 14 points, and Peters, Merced center, was top man for the losers with 11 points.

PFC Jim Horner, ex-Villanova All-American fullback in 1935, is now stationed at Camp Edwards, Mass. Horner played on all three of "Clipper" Smith's undefeated teams. He was also quite a boxer—being beaten only by the National Intercollegiate Champ during his last year at Villanova.

Ninety-one points in four games is the phenomenal scoring record established by Everett Hall of Chanute Field, Ill., in inter-squadron basketball competition now going on at that Post. Hall scored 31 points in one game, 26 in another, and 23 in a third. In the fourth game he held back and scored a mere 11. Hall played for Southern Illinois Normal University, from 1934-38, leading the Little 19 Conference in scoring in 1935.

Greatest Basketball Campaign in Benning History Is Forecast

Fort Benning Conference And Five Other Loops Formed

Basketball, king of indoor sports, will take over the center of the sports stage the week after next when 42 quintets sweep into action in six leagues that have been formed under the auspices of the Fort Benning Athletic Association.

Never before in Fort Benning sports history have so many fully-organized, completely-uniformed teams gone to the post in loop races. Last winter, three leagues were operated, but this year the increased interest in the court game has prompted athletic officials to double the number of loops that will be sponsored.

A shortage of playing facilities plus the huge number of teams entered for loop play means that basketball fans will have a feast almost every night with double-headers and sometimes triple-headers being carded for the main post gym and the Harmony Church sports arena, the scenes of most of the action.

SCHEDULES IN MAKING

League schedules are still in the making and final rules and entries will probably not be decided upon until a meeting is held next week, but F.B.A.A. officials have announced that all of the loops will begin play the week of January 10th. Each league will play split schedules with a play-off between first and second half champs deciding the title-holder.

Creating the most interest, probably, will be the Fort Benning Conference, a major loop of eight of the post's strongest quintets. Entered in the conference flag chase are the Station Hospital Medicos, the Academic Regiment Profs, the 124th Infantry Gators, the 117th Infantry Breakers, the Lawson Field Fliers, the Parachute School Jumpers, the Second Student Training Leaders and the 29th Infantry Blue Devils, defending post champions.

CONFERENCE STRONGEST

This loop appears to be the best balanced one and is expected to produce some outstanding court performances. Many former college, scholastic and pro players are members of the teams, and the eight entries were selected after a series of pre-season practice skirmishes to determine the relative strength of some of the teams. The conference race bids well to be a red hot one all the way.

There is a plentitude of crack quintets in the 10th Armored Division and to accommodate all title aspirants, the Tiger teams have been divided into two loops, the Tenth Armored League and the Sand Hill League. At the close of the campaign, the winners in these two loops will battle in a play-off series for the championship of the armored division, and this winner will then battle the conference champ for the undisputed post title.

SMALL UNIT LOOPS

The other three loops are the Main Post League, a crack group of smaller unit teams on the post proper; the Harmony Church League, which will pit four minor teams in that area against one another, and the Service League, the first court loop ever organized for colored basketeers.

Winners in the Main Post and Harmony Church leagues will meet one another at the season's end to name the small unit title of the post, while the first place team in the Service League will automatically be crowned colored champ of the fort.

Games in the Fort Benning Conference will be played both in the post gym and at Harmony Church. All tilts in the 10th Armored, Sand Hill and Harmony Church loops will be contested in the sports arena, where two courts will be pressed into action at all times. The Main Post League will play all its games in the post gym, while the Service League frays will be played both in the sports arena and the old 24th Infantry rec hall on the post proper.

INTERCOLLEGIATE RULES

Tentative plans in all leagues call for each team to meet every other team at least once in each half. Two competent officials will work every loop game, and game balls will be provided by the Fort Benning Athletic Association. Intercollegiate playing rules will be used in all leagues.

Prominent Trainer, Judge Of Horses Is Fort O. C.

Frank Ragsdale, saddle horse trainer and judge, is enrolled at Fort Benning as an officer candidate in the Eleventh Company, First Student Training Regiment.

Before entering the army in June, 1941, Ragsdale was owner of the Northville Hills Stables, 18 miles from Detroit, Mich., and he tarined and boarded scores of horses owned by Detroit horse fanciers.

Ragsdale exhibited, and frequently rode, ribbon winning entries in the Detroit Horse Show, the Lansing, Michigan R. O. T. C. Horse Show, and the Wayne County, Michigan Horse Show at Northville.

Ragsdale learned horse training from his father, a veteran horse trader and trainer of central Missouri. He has acted as judge of various horse shows in the Detroit area during the past five years.

Before coming to Fort Benning, Ragsdale was stationed at Paine Field, Washington, a remount station at Fort Robinson, Arkansas and an engineers' amphibian command at Camp Edwards, Mass.

League Entries For Basketball

FORT BENNING CONFERENCE

Station Hospital
Academic Regiment
117th Infantry
29th Infantry
Lawson Field
Parachute School
124th Infantry
2nd Student Training

MAIN POST LEAGUE

99th Quartermaster
7th Observation Sqdn.
1st Student Training
53rd General Hospital
863rd Ordnance
1st Parachute Training
24th General Hospital
Finance Detachment

HARMONY CHURCH LEAGUE

802nd Field Artillery
3rd STR Hq. Co.
Student Trng. Brigade
760th Tank Battalion

SERVICE LEAGUE

Reception Center
1st STR Serv. Bn.
2nd STR Serv. Bn.
3rd STR Serv. Bn.
21st Quartermaster
27th Quartermaster

10th ARMORED LEAGUE

3rd Armored Regt.
11th Armored Regt.
54th Armored Infantry
55th Armored Engineers
Maintenance Battalion
419th Field Artillery
420th Field Artillery
423rd Field Artillery

SAND HILL LEAGUE

10th Armd. Hq. Co.
Service Co.
150th Armd. Signal Supply Battalion
Division Train
80th Armd. Medical 90th Reconnaissance Division Headquarters

Former LIU Ace Is 420th Coach

Lieut. Archie Kameros Captained Blackbirds

There's one cage entry in the 10th Armored League this winter that may remind metropolitan court fans at Benning of the famous Long Island University quintets that have gained so much fame in recent years.

It's the 420th Field Artillery club which is being coached by Lieut. Archie Kameros who played for the great Blackbirds of New York from 1931 until 1935 and captained Clair Bee's machine in his senior year. Since collegiate days Kameros has also played a lot of pro basketball with top-notch teams on the Eastern seaboard.

COACH IS DENTIST

By profession, however, Kameros is a dentist and that's how he happened to be with the 420th as a dental officer. It's a break for the artillerymen, however, because the ex-Blackbird is rapidly converting a team of raw recruits into a finished ensemble, that looks like a miniature L. I. U. team.

The material is relatively small and inexperienced but Coach Kameros has them passing well, moving swiftly all the time and acting court wise. Corporal Ed June, a star forward and team captain, is the only one with plenty of previous experience. He was a standout in high school competition in Pennsylvania where basketball is a fast game.

GOOD SQUAD

Likely looking little fellows battling for varsity slots are Lewis, Conture, Shacklette, Bombardier and Smith. Fuller, Pendergrast, Weimer and Hockema are other stand-out prospects while Robertson Freen, Lombardozzi, Biernicki, and Vanette round out a powerful squad.

Sgt. Charlee Laux, formerly a court star with the 14th Armored Division, is aiding Lieut. Kameros with the coaching duties for the 420th quintet which has already toppled the strong Jordan High team from Columbus in a practice encounter.

Baumer Made Major; Goes To Capital

Officer To Set Up Machine Methods For O. C. Schools

Promotion of Capt. Edward F. Baumer to the rank of major was announced here this week just as the personnel officer of the Student Training Brigade of The Infantry School prepared to leave for a new assignment in Washington.

Major Baumer is being transferred to Washington for duty with the Methods Management Branch, Control Division, of the Adjutant General's Office to work out details for the establishment of a system of business machine methods for processing soldiers in all Officer Candidate schools and replacement training centers in the Army.

As personnel officer of the Student Training Brigade here, the unit which processes the huge number of Officer Candidates reporting to the Infantry School, Major Baumer set up a system here which cut a wide swath through what was formerly a very complicated system of paper work.

Major Baumer received his commission in the Organized Reserves following graduation from Rutgers University. In private life he was a practicing attorney in Newark, N. J. He was called to active duty in 1940 as one of the few Reserve Officers selected to attend a three-months course here at The Infantry School, returning to private life in June of that year. He was again called to duty in October of 1940, coming back to The Infantry School where he held a number of important positions in the first expansion of the School to its present size, including adjutant of the First Student Training Regiment and adjutant of the first Officer Candidate Battalion.

Released from duty in the fall of 1941, he was recalled again in February of this year to become personnel officer of the Second Student Training Regiment, newly formed to handle Officer Candidates. He went to Brigade headquarters when that unit was activated in July.

Major Baumer is a former New Jersey State A. A. U. swimming champion and was named to Spaulding's All-Collegiate water polo team when he captained that sport at Rutgers University in his

Heavy Demand For Trained Office Workers

We have successfully trained thousands.

Let us train you now.

STENOGRAPHY
SECRETARIAL STUDIES
BOOKINGKEEPING*
ACCOUNTING
TOUCH
TYPEWRITING

Rates:

$17.50 per month for day students, 9:30 A. M. to 12:30, then 1:30 to 3:30 P. M. five days a week.

$12.50 per month for the morning or afternoon students, five days a week.

$10.00 per month for evening students, 7 to 9 on Mondays and Thursdays.

The prices include the tuition, use of books and supplies for the course taken.

Our Holidays are Over.

ENROLL NOW

TRUMAN & SMITH INSTITUTE

1029 Second Avenue

Columbus, Georgia

Phone Dial 2-0914

Free catalog on request.

Inquiries welcomed

For typing only, consult Registrar in office.

Enrollees for January may register January 1, 1943.

With The Civilians

MYRTLE JOINES

Mary Anne Robinson of the Infantry School Book Shop is just back from Fort Bragg where she spent the holidays with her son-in-law and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. B. A. Harcos. Major Harcos is liaison officer on the General Staff of the Air Borne Command. Major and Mrs. Harcos are well known at Benning having spent two tours of duty here.

Clarabelle Stevens is that proud of her husband these days for he's gonna be a soldier before you know it. The Motor Transport Section here on the post is also that proud of Clarabelle for the way she is taking it. Just like a regular soldier herself.

The Finance Office salutes of its first grandmother—none other than Mrs. Ruth McKnight. A fine boy named Gus William Schlitzkus, Jr., whose poppa is hunting Japs in the Pacific.

Some of the gals in the Infantry school went off for Christmas like Lillian R. King to Indianapolis and L. C. L. Hofnauer to St. Paul, but Mary Ellen King stayed at home and her sister, Pat came from the University of Georgia to spend the holidays with her. Pat was also welcomed back to Headquarters and was a special guest for the party there.

Don't forget to include the Adjutant General's Department of the Infantry School in the list of Christmas parties.

Ethel Miller and J. Walter Prescott will never have an opportunity to forget their wedded date for it is December 7, 1942. He certainly was a wise fellow to select a day of such prominence and then he won't ever be able to forget it, as if he would.

It was nice to welcome some of the old gang back to the Ordnance office, Bonnie Reeves, Mary Lee Hug (incidentally May Lee is a student at Auburn) and Robert Baxter are giving the Army a run-for-its-money in that snappy navy outfit.

Remember all those mechanics learners we wrote about the other week? Well, they're off to school now and in just 110 days will be ready for Uncle Sam. Would you believe it if I told you they cried when they left Lawson Field? That must be a swell bunch down there to bring about such sorrow in leaving.

Josephine Haggard is back at work after three weeks spent with the asthma. Could you imagine a nice girl like Josephine picking asthma to spend her time with but seems she was mighty happy to be back at the old desk this morning.

Helen and Frederick Williams have gone to New York to get their baby. Fred will be doing all his work in the Ordnance repair section to the tune of 'rock-a-bye baby."

Didn't Horace W. Tiller look grand when he visited the Su- Depot the other day?

Hellzapoppin—

(Continued from Page 1)

great G. F., tapped, whirled and smiled through several crack numbers. Their White Christmas ensemble, with lovely little Maxine Turner doing the solo work, was a gem of beauty.

The Three Grace Notes, a statuesque trio a la the Andrews Sisters, warbled trilly tunes that had the boys stomping their feet for more. The Emerald Sisters, an acrobatic duo, knocked one another around so much that they made the rough work on an obstacle course look earlier than knitting.

BEN DOVA BENDS OVER

For sheer talent, the internationally-famous acrobatic pantomimist, Ben Dova, really lives up to his name. He bends over everything during a drunk routine, including the footlights and a lamp post prop.

Milton Douglas wise-cracks his way as the show's banter man, ably assisted by tubby Jack Leonard, who's bigger than an M-3 tank. The "and Company" of the Douglas act carry all the action and stage a bedroom scene in a sanitarium that is a riot.

The show was produced by the inimitable Olsen and Johnson in the Winter Garden Theater, their New York stronghold, and lives up to every standard set by the Broadway success. It's zany, unpredictable and screwloose. There won't be "hell-raisin'" like it at Benning until the Yanks march into Berlin and Tokyo.

Yeah man, Hellzapoppin at the old camp ground this week!

senior year. At Rugers he was sport editor of the college paper, captain of Scabbard and Blade military society and cadet colonel of his R. O. T. C. class. He received his law degree from night school at the University of Newark.

CLASSIFIED

MAY AND MASON DANCE STUDIO: Ballroom, Tap, and Jitterbug. Private classes. Day and night classes. 802 Broadway. Dial 2-4469.

FORT BENNING PERSONNEL

Briarwood homes being finished daily are subject to your approval. First, these homes are well built and are the most for your money ever offered for sale as homes in the history of our business. Take a look—that is all we ask—and notice the asbestos life-time roof, redwood or cypress weather boarding, hot air furnace heating according to cubic contents of each home, Westinghouse refrigerators and stoves, and electric water heaters furnished. Due to priorities we are able to offer you quality in material and new kitchen equipment. Small down payment—Monthly payment less than rent.

Location—City limits—Macon Road turn to right.

Call Bob Brown. Dial 2-2047

Calhoun Realty Co.

25-13th St. "Realtors" Dial 3-4346

MAJOR GENERAL WILLIAM BRYDEN, commanding general of the Fourth Service command, is pinning the Distinguished Service medal on Mrs. Arnold Funk, wife of the brigadier general who was cited for heroic action in the Philippines. Mrs. Funk received the medal for her husband at a review in Doughboy stadium last week. General Funk is believed to be a captive of the Japanese now. (Signal lab photo.)

Height Tried 'Chutes In Army's Early Tests

World War Veteran Helped Rickenbacker, Doolittle In Work

A companion of famed Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and Brig. Gen. "Jimmie" Doolittle in the days when they made the first parachute tests—which led up to the present tremendous program of paratrooping—is back in service again.

He's T.-4 Charles T. Height, of Cleveland, Miss., now with the Ordnance department at Fort Benning as assistant shop foreman working on heavy tanks.

Back in 1918 he joined the U. S. Army and served until the end of the war, assigned to the 94th Aerial Squadron where he stayed for 18 months. After the Armistice, Rickenbacker came back and was in the organization, together with General Doolittle, then a second lieutenant. Commanding officer of the squadron was Maj. Carl Spatz, now Maj. Gen. Spatz, commanding the U. S. Air Forces overseas.

Sgt. Height served as a crew chief for many months, flying with both Rickenbacker and Doolittle, servicing their personal planes and working with them in the first Army mass parachute tests. Sgt. Height and eight or 10 others, all volunteers, made the tests.

The men went up in planes, used dummies on the chutes and then recommended changes. This was done on batch after batch of parachutes and then "live" tests were made by the men themselves who walked out on the edge of plane wings to be swept off by the open chute or to jump from the plane wing and then pull the ripcord.

NO AUXILIARY CHUTE

"We didn't have any auxiliary chute, either—so that if that ripcord didn't open it would have been just too bad," Sgt. Height recalled. "But not a man was lost. Our only casualty was a man who broke a leg and myself—having landed in a mess of cactus one day. It took a week to pick that . . . stuff out of my hide."

As a result of the work done by Rickenbacker and Doolittle and the volunteer enlisted men, many changes in design were made in the parachutes and from that start the parachute experience of the American Army grew continuously.

Sgt. Height also was in the crew of the Dehaviland 4, powered with the Liberty Motor, that made a record-breaking altitude flight, hitting 22,500 feet.

When he left the Army in 1919, Sgt. Height returned to Cleveland where he operated an oil station and machine shop. Now 43, he reenlisted in May, 1942 and because of his experience on heavy motor equipment, was assigned to the ordnance department.

Ace Trombone Player Is Completing O. C. Course

Tommy Dorsey, Larry Clinton, Bunny Berrigan, Emery Deutsch, and many other popular modern musicians have had in their band at one time ace trombonist, Candidate Pierce Earle of the 15th Company, 1st STR.

In the short period of five years Earle has really "hit the top," but only after extensive training in classical music The classics still rate with him and he'd rather play them than swing.

Earle has appeared in two movie shorts, one with Larry Clinton and the other with Emery Deutsch. He's played the Palace in Chicago, the Rainbow Room and the Paramount Theatre in New York, many college proms, and endless radio engagements.

Squeamishly he relates his most embarrassing moment, which took place while playing the University of Duke Prom with Tommy Dorsey's Band.

He gingerly inserted a "mute" into his trombone to help sweeten a typical Dorsey arrangement. Placed the horn to his lips and blew . . . and the darn horn fell apart and the music stopped while the blushing Earle collected the shiny pieces.

Previously stationed at a northern camp, Earle traded his horn in to join the Infantry.

Woman's Club

By LAURA M. BAILEY

A great disappointment faced the Woman's Club of Fort Benning when they were unable to obtain Oveta Culp Hobby, director of the W. A. A. C. to speak before them at their January meeting. Demands of the newly formed organization have prevented her accepting the request tendered her for a lecture before the women of Fort Benning.

The Music Group of the Woman's Club has graciously consented to give their proposed program for the general meeting, which will be held in the Main Theatre at 3 p. m. on Monday, Jan. 4.

Dorothy Githens Eley, who has proved to be one of the popular features of the Music Group, will give a colorful lecture and musical presentation on the opera La Boheme by Puccini.

Mrs. Eley, a dramatic soprano, has a well grounded background of professional experience from which she draws to illustrate the technical and amusing incidents of the operatic world. Her ability to accompany herself for the difficult musical scores of the opera and arias she sings throughout the lecture is an unusual talent.

Her knowledge of foreign languages enables her to give to her audience the subtle translations of the story of the opera. Her wit, charm and dramatic ability make her lectures extraordinarily colorful. She will sing the roles of Mimi and Musetta in the opera La Boheme.

The afternoon promises to bring a rare musical treat to the members of the Woman's Club. The meeting will be open to the Post personnel, especially to soldiers who are lovers of operatic music.

3 Non-Coms OCS Bound

Three Fort Benning sergeants will go to the Army Administrative Officer Candidate School at the University of Florida, Gainesville, it was announced today.

Staff Sgt. Harold E. Whitemore, of the Post Public Relations Office, conductor of the popular column "Through the Peep Sight" in the Fort Benning "Bayonet", and well known for his radio work and feature writing, is one of them.

The other two are Sgt. Clayton W. Cripe, in charge of service records, Headquarters Detachment, DEML, and First Sgt. Earl Herman, 283d Quartermaster Refrigerator Company.

All three are to report January 14, and their class is scheduled to begin January 16.

NEWBERRY MADE W. O.

Promotion of Tech. Sergeant Yt Newberry of Columbus, Ga. to the rank of Warrant Officer was announced this week by Lt. Berry L. Marshall, commanding officer, of Co. A, Academic Regiment, Infantry School Service Command, Ft. Benning, Georgia.

The new officer has been in the army nine years and was one of six in his regiment who recently passed the stiff examinations necessary to become a warrant officer.

Masons Plan Installations In Columbus

Scottish Rite Will Confer New Degrees; Soldiers Invited

Scottish Rite Masons at Fort Benning will be interested in the beginning of the New Year's work of conferring the degrees by the Lodge of Perfection of the Columbus Scottish Rite Bodies, the meetings to be held in the Scottish Rite rooms in the Gilbert Building, 17½ 12th Street.

The first meeting will be held on January 6, beginning with the organization of the class at 7:15 p. m., and the conferring of the Fourth Degree at 8 and the Fifth degree at 9 o'clock.

The remaining degrees of the Lodge of Perfection will follow in three monthly meetings, on February 17, March 17 and April 7. On April 7 the first class will begin at 12:45 p. m., conferring all of the degrees from the fourth through the fourteenth, the January class joining them for the Fourteenth degree.

The degrees of the Chapter of Rose Croix, 15th to 18th, will follow on April 21, the Council of Kodosh, 19th to 30th, on May 5 and the Consistory degrees, 31st and 32nd, on May 19.

As the Columbus members of the Rite have no means of a personal contact with those at Fort Benning, soldiers are invited to note these dates and attend meetings whenever possible. Master Masons who are interested in receiving these degrees are invited to contact the secretary by phone, office 2-3091, home, 2-1178.

Lawson Bombsight

By CPL. E. N. FUSILLO

Qualified volunteers from the ages of 18 to 39 are being sought to attend the five weeks training course at Tyndall Field, Panama City, Fla., aerial gunnery school. Men in any branch of the Army may apply to their Commanding Officer for a transfer to this school.

Upon completion of the course, if you've got the stuff it takes, you'll receive a pair of silver combat wings and a sergeant's chevrons. (If you are a specialist you will receive a staff sergeant's rating.) And you'll receive flying pay — 50 per cent additional to your base pay because you will be one of the crew of an air force bomber.

Everyone who knows Captain Dames is familiar with Corporal Roger Wilco, the cocker-spaniel mascot down at 7th Operations. Roger hails from a family of five, the son of Shadrack and Cleopatra, a blueblood canine match from Alabama. Roger, at present, holds the rank of Corporal in spite of being "busted" numerous times due to conduct unbecoming a noncom. Being a confirmed airplane enthusiast, it is only natural that Roger has piled up a total of nine flying hours to date and is anxiously awaiting his chance to solo.

Roger, the only flying mascot on Lawson Field, makes no bones about letting people know of his claim to fame, and keeps his nose tilted at a special angle when passing by "Pvt. Early Chow," the 7ths Mess Hall mascot.

Sgt. S. Rathgeb of Personnel in the 27th Troop Carrier Squadron, has left for Officer Candidate School in Miami Beach, Florida.

M-Sgt. Daryl Firestone and S-Sgt. Harry Stafford, both of Finance Detachment left this week as officer candidates for Fort Riley Kan., where they will undergo a three months' training course in mechanized cavalry. Upon completion of the course they will be sent to Brooks Field, Tex., for training as Aerial Observers.

"A Smart Man's War" is what Lt. General H. S. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air Forces, calls the present conflict in an editorial published in the December issue of "Air Force," the new official Air Force service journal.

Gen. Arnold states, "This is a smart man's war, being fought against a cunning and intelligent enemy. It is a fast mobing war that forces all of us to keep abreast of day by day developments.

"We must learn all we can, not only about our own job but about the other fellow's job. We are called upon to be specialists and at the same time achieve versatility. To accomplish this dual objective we must study new methods, new techniques, new roads to victory.

"It is gratifying that out of a little service bulletin, which originated almost a quarter of a century ago, has come this modern service journal to foster the exchange of ideas with our expanding Air Force. I encourage each one of you to read it regularly, and use it as a medium of expression."

The new magazine comprises 40 pages of topical articles and features on the doings of the Air Force.

Seminars

(Continued from Page 1)

Episcopal Church in Chicago, during which time he did graduate work in the University of Chicago and at the Institute for Psychoanalysis in Chicago. Mr. Bonaker also was chaplain and teacher of theological students at Bellevue Hospital in New York. He recently conducted a camp seminar at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md.

During his stay at Fort Benning he will be quartered in the Officers' Club.

New Year's Mass For Catholic Soldiers Arranged

The Feast of the Circumsion of Our Lord will be celebrated by the Catholic Church, with Mass at various hours in different parts of the Post. The schedule is as follows:

Main Post: Chapel No. 4: Mass will be said at 6:30 a. m. and 8 a. m. and in the evening at 6:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Station hospital: Mass will be said in the Station Hospital Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13), at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 6:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall of the Reception Center at 7 p. m.

Lawson Field: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 1, at 7:30 p. m.; in Chapel No. 2, at 6:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located in the 117th Infantry Area at 9 a. m. and 7 a. m.

Harmony Church Area: Mass in each of the chapels of the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiments at 7:45 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.

10th Armored Division Area: Mass in the following chapels in the 10th Armored Division Area:

Chapel No. 1, at 8 a. m. and confessions beginning at 7 a. m.; in Chapel No. 2, at 9 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, at 9 a. m. and 11:30 a. m.; in Chapel No. 4, at 8 a. m. and 10 a. m.; in Chapel No. 5, at 9 a. m. and 10 a. m.

Mass will be said in the Alabama Area for the Parachute Regiments beginning at 10 a. m.

You—

(Continued from Page 1)

and Brown played across the boards.

Other members of the daffy clan and their curious friends are played by Marjorie Cramer, Johnny Stearns, Edwin Hodge, Charles J. Parsons, Daisy Atherton, Saralee Harris, Patrick Fahey, McGregor Gibb, Paul Byron, Elizabeth Brew, Norman Porter, Elisbeth Hoffman, Joan Croyden, Rosetta Le Noire, Charles Benjamin, Anthony Grey, and Lance Cunard.

"You Can't Take It With You" will be presented free of charge to service men as is customary with all USO-Camp Show entertainment.

Thru—

(Continued from Page 1)

supreme objective" of gaining control of the African continent and the Mediterranean.

He said that the battle for Africa is still at a crucial and critical stage and that General Eisenhower and his associates — so many of whom are former Fort Benning officers—need the fullest measure of unified support. Earlier, he had told a press conference that Allied forces on the offensive in Tunisia have a "fairly good margin" of superiority over theh Axis forces defending Tunis and Bizerte, and added that in the air our margin of destruction is holding up at a rate of about two to one.

Out in the South Pacific, a flight of Army flying fortresses had the supreme pleasure of playing grim Santa Claus to the Japs by dropping bombs down Japanese "stockings" in the form of the funnels of shipping in the Harbor of Rabaul, New Britain Island.

One may well imagine the satisfaction with which they released the bomb bay levers to dump lethal loads of explosives on the ships, scoring three direct hits on a large transport or cargo ship and several near-hits close to three smaller cargo vessels.

Beyond any doubt similar New York's greetings will be delivered by other bombers and likewise by scores of thousands of American fighting men along various fronts where they now are in action.

And we may be certain that such work begun on the New Year will continue through the rest of 1943.

Norse—

(Continued from Page 1)

a free nation once again, Lt. Melbye hopes that Allied forces will one day effect a landing in his homeland and drive out the Nazi legions. He expresses the opinion that 99 per cent of his fellow-countrymen share that hope.

Lt. Melbye is proud of an Army's attempt to organize Norwegians in units of their own in this country, such as the 99th Norse Battalion in which troops of Norwegian origin or those speaking the tongue can join.

29th—

(Continued from Page 6)

half crown with little trouble, but then went into a midseason slump to grab the final-half flag. The academics, coached by Lieut. Frank Shannon, recovered their form, however, and swept through to the title in an abbreviated series when the Hoosiers forfeited after taking two terrific shellackings.

A good many of the I. S. S. C. players had also been stars on the post team earlier in the spring which compiled an enviable record against top-notch college and professional opposition. Lefty Francis was the big star for the academics. Major Roy Lindquist coached the Benning Doughboys halfway through the campaign and was replaced by Capt. Francis Gorman when he was transferred to another post.

FOOTBALL

When football took over the center of the sports scene at the post this past fall, there were six full-fledged teams instead of one as in past seasons. Accordingly, a six-team conference was formed and it proved to be the outstanding sports development of the year. After a gruelling schedule, the mighty Gator gridmen of the 124th Infantry emerged with a record of five wins and no losses to gain the crown.

The orange and blue players were coached by Capt. Red Milton, a fiery mentor, who taught them a slam-bang style of football that made them not only the best team at the post, but also the most colorful. They also won two outside games from Spence Field and Auburn "B" for a seasonal record of seven wins against two losses. The surprising Dragons of the 3rd Armored Regiment finished second in the loop and also had a successful campaign.

Another important development was the installation of a lighting system in Doughboy Stadium which made it one of the best-equipped grid lay-outs anywhere in the South. The lights were considerably brighter than those in Memorial Stadium in downtown Columbus, and resulted in ideal facilities for night football. The result was banner crowds for the nocturnal games. As a matter of fact, the crowds all season were large, averaging about 8,000 per game.

SOCCER

A late starter in the sports picture was soccer which has just gotten under way, and may carry over into the new year. However, on the basis of several tilts, the booters of the 29th Infantry can lay claim to the post title since they have consistently triumphed over a crack ensemble representing the Academic Regiment. By next year, soccer may develop into a real major sport with a post league already being discussed as a distinct possibility.

R. C.—

(Continued from Page 1)

contention that the best singing in the entire Army is provided at Fort Benning.

"We'd back this group in any manner," hundreds of soldiers said. "Any such contest could not help being tremendously popular and would prove that the Chorus is the best in the country."

The chorus presents its program each Tuesday night singing "Songs of the Soul."

Many other musical organizations at the Fort also are outstanding, with nearly every regiment having a band, and many other organizations having orchestras, bands or choral groups.

ROSENBERG JEWELRY CO.

COMPLETE SELECTION OF JEWELRY

- ELECTRIC RAZORS
- CIGARETTE CASE & LIGHTER
- BULOVA WATCHES
- WATERPROOF WATCHES
- ELGIN POCKET WATCHES
- GRUEN WATCHES
- WEDDING RING SETS
- BRACELET & LOCKET SETS
- DELTAH PEARLS
- MEN'S STONE RINGS
- BILLFOLD SETS
- BELT & BUCKLE SETS
- SIMMON'S WATCH CHAINS
- LOCKETS & CROSSES
- CAMEO BROOCHES
- IDENTIFICATION BRACELETS
- 1847 ROGERS SILVERWARE
- ELECTRIC PERCULATORS

ROSENBERG JEWELRY COMPANY

1221 BROADWAY

Engineers Tie Provisionals 4-4 In Bouts

TKO's, decisions, split foreheads and everything but a victory were scored as the "Mighty 55th" Engineers and the 10th Armored's Provisional Battalion battled to a 4 to 4 tie last Monday night in the Inter-Battalion Boxing Team Matches held in the Recreational Hall of the 11th Armored Regiment. A capacity crowd saw the Engineers score three K. O.'s while the Provisional Team chalked up one.

Pvt. Lewis Reza started the ball to rolling for the Engineers by winning a three round decision over Pvt. George Dickey of the 54th Infantry. Reza outweighed his opponent and had the advantage in all encounters. Dickey was a game kid but no match for the heavier Reza as he downed his smaller opponent three times in the third round.

Following suit in the second bout of the evening, Pvt. Joe Taylor of the Engineers laid away Pvt. Edward Chew of Division Headquarters Company in 1:43 of the first round. Chew came out like a ball of fire and the spectators expected some real fireworks but his vim, vigor and vitality soon wore out and then Taylor stepped in and laid him away for the second win on the Engineer's side of the ledger.

At this stage of the evening matches the Provisional team came to the fire as Pvt. Bill Bazinet of the 150th Signal Company won a decision over Pvt. Henry Benjamin for the first of the 4 wins for the Provisional team. Both men were fair boxers and after a slow first round really got into the second and practically wore one another out as they both tried to drive home a blow that would spell victory. Bazinet kept his opponent at bay with a sharp right that drove in enough punches to give him the decision.

HERE'S THE CRACK boxing team of the 11th Armored regiment's 3rd battalion who boast one of the best teams in the 10th Armored. The lads recently hammered out an impressive win over the 419th F. A. They are: Front row (left to right)—Paul Franklin, Pvt. William Frink, Coach Cpl. Herbert Coburn. Rear row (left to right) Cpl. Herbert Obega, Pvt. Horst Abrams, Pvt. VanLandingham, Pvt. Nick Minczakowski, Capt. Ernest J. DeSoto, Pvt. Sherman Hane (10th Armored photo by Kerbs.)

Top fireworks and without question the best bout of the evening was provided as Pvt. Anthony Shymanski of the 54th Infantry rapped out a decision over the 55th's Pvt. Carl Sammarco, the Boston Golden Clover and 1940 National Semi-finalist.

Shymanski opened the first round with a terrific right that sent Sammarco into the ropes and it took the combined efforts of two majors, one captain, five lieutenants and a sergeant to repair the damage done to the ring so that the bout could continue. As the bell ended the first round, Sammarco was again dangling over the ropes with Shymanski in top form.

Sammarco walked into one of Shymanski's driving rights at the opening of the second round and took the rest cure to the count of 9. Both men were exceptionally fine boxers and showed their boxing experience but Shymanski was by far the better boxer and made Sammarco look like the man on the flying trapeze as he kept him into the ropes with his tremendous lefts and rights.

It was the bell that saved Sammarco from a TKO because Shymanski was really pounding him unmercifully all during the third round as he again sent him through the ropes. Sammarco was in the ropes seven times during the bout.

When Pvt. George Jenkins of the 150th Signal Company socks 'em they stay socked. The third victory for the Provisional team came as Jenkins salted Pvt. Hubert Petty of the Engineers away in 1:28 seconds of the third round and he remained out for 10 minutes.

PETTY KO'ED

A southpaw of the first degree, Jenkins floored Petty for the count of 7 in the first round as his left did everything but talk. As the second opened, Jenkins let go one to Petty's beck that drew blood and sorta shook the Engineer. A left hook that caught Petty squarely on the jaw sent him to the canvas for a real KO and the victory signal for Jenkins.

Pvt. Alvin Leach of the Division Trains won the fourth and last bout for the Provisional team when he won a decision over Pvt. Dominic Franks of the 55th. Leach was a very rugged boy with a good left that did considerable damage and almost cost him the decision as he got in a back hand in the third. Leach outweighed his opponent and outboxed him all the way to win the decision from the referee and the two judges.

The Engineers won both heavyweight bouts to tie the score which ended 4 to 4. These two bouts ended in TKO's with accidents ending the bouts and marring some mighty good boxing. T-5 Edward Muntean of the Engineers grant Pvt. Leo Hilt of the 54th to the showers with a split forehead after a cranial collision in 1:43 of the first round. Muntean was a crafty and clever boxer and crouched low to drive home his punches but after the collision Hilt came out the worse in the deal and had to give up and with it the bout.

Pvt Ruben Leggett of the 55th opened the left eye of Pvt. Sylvester Fahrenhorst of Division Trains and the bout ended after 58 seconds of the first round. Leggett let go a pounding right to the left eye of Fahrenhorst and split it wide open sending him to the showers.

After the tie was announced,

Service Club

Monday, Jan. 4—"Listen, It's Fort Benning" — Full half hour broadcast originating at Service Club No. 2 and sent out through the facilities of the local radio station WRBL. Guaranteed good entertainment, so be here at 2000 and help make the program a success.

JIU-JITSU, weight-lifting, tumbling, and Wrestling classes conducted by T-5 Martin Medved of the 11th Armored Regiment every Monday evening at 2000 in the Game Room.

Tuesday, Jan. 5—CLASSICAL MUSIC HOUR—Come hear your favorite classicals in the Service Club Music Room.

BRIDGE CLUB — Meets every Tuesday evening at 2000. Join this enthusiastic group for a good bridge game.

Wednesday, Jan. 6—COLONEL QUIZ visits service club No. 2 every Wednesday evening at 2000. This week's battle of wits will be between the 11th Armored Personnel Team and the Winners of last weeks contest. QUESTIONS with correct answers will be welcomed for use in these contests. Submit them to the Hostess in the Hostess Office.

Thursday, Jan. 7 — ALLIED NATIONS DANCE—Come to our first dance of the New Year. There will be many Military Maids from Columbus here to dance. The music will be by the 3rd Armored Band. Don't miss this gala occasion!

Friday, Jan. 8—OPEN HOUSE at the Service Club. Just come in and relax, write letters, play games, and listen to your favorite music.

Saturday, Jan. 9—BINGO! Cigarettes and cash prizes for the lucky winners. Bingo is free so come and try your luck. Pop some pop-corn at our open fireplace.

Sunday, Jan. 10 — OPEN HOUSE all day Sundays. Write letters, play your favorite records-ings, sing informally around the piano, play ping-pong, pool, checkers, cards, etc.

Obsolete Guns Go To War

Army Continues Salvage Drive

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 30—Big guns that for many years have been pointing eastward from their emplacements at military posts along the Atlantic coastline of the southeastern states, are changing their roles from defense to attack.

On authority from the maintainence branch, headquarters, Fourth Service Command, commanding officers along the coastal area are sending these cannons against the Axis. There'll be a stop along the way for these obsolete guns, for they are being dismantled and sent as salvage to the war production plants to be made into modern cannons, rifles, bullets, tanks or other war machines to help take the fight to Hitler and Hirohito in their own back yards.

It's a continuation of the battle for salvage that Army posts and camps have been waging steadily for months to get everything, anything that will help make more steel for more guns, ships and planes, back to the war plants. Reports at headquarters show that post salvage officers have been keeping their salvage yards clean on the theory that collection of scrap is not enough and that the salvage job is not complete until the materials are sent to the factories.

"In this respect," a salvage officer at headquarters said, "the Army posts have been trying to set an example for the civilians in not only collecting salvage, but getting it on its way—at once. Army personnel is authorized to assist in collecting scrap materials when that activity will not seriously interfere with military duties."

11th Armored Promotes 37

Thirty-seven enlisted men of the 11th Armored Regiment were recently promoted it was announced by the public relations office. The men are:

To be sergeants, Joseph Hassen, Arthur Stratton, Harold Baker, Michael Travagliante, Leon Ziebarth, George Mauzer, Robert Rosenau, Stanton Kissell, Clifford Powell, William Wilds and Richard Madigan.

To be technicians 4th grade, Mark Conrad, Jerry Covey and Clinton Esslinger.

To be corporals, Maurice Broadfoot, Tracy Meyer, Steve Joseph, Kenneth Logan, James Borden, William Wiske, John Noel, Carl Van Landingham and Everett McNuity.

To be technicians 5th grade, Earl Heisner, Lawrence Crow, Phillip Morgan, Herbert Ortega, Lester Wippich, Edward Taylor, Jacob Johnson, John Lorenz, Arthur Schutt, Lloyd Hayward, Alvin Soreenson, Clyde Hartung Richard Grandpre and James Menetrey.

Tiger Recruits Are Crack Shots

Several of the newly arrived recruits in Headquarters Company of the 11th Armored Regiment are rapidly on their way to becoming Tigers. These Tankers made exceptional scores on the .45 Caliber Pistol Range last week.

It was the first time for any of these men on a firing range yet they made the following scores out of a possible 50: Pvt. Sutor 45, Pvt. Knowles 45, Pvt. Lishter 46, Pvt. Weisswasser 45, Pvt. Brewer 47, Pvt. Shields 49, Pvt. Coon 45, Pvt. Warne 47 and Pvt. Nordstrom 45. The average score of the recruits for Headquarters Company was 34.7.

Major General Paul W. Newgarden congratulated both teams for "not having been defeated."

Officials for the evening were 1st Sgt. J. H. Wilson, 8th Co., 1st Student Training Regt., The Infantry School: judges, Captain Ernest E. DeSoto of the 11th Armored Regiment and Lieut. Earl H. Brown of the 90th Reconnaissance Battalion: announcer, Pvt. Thos. Attridge Div. Hqs. and timer Pvt. Warren Schultz of the Special Service Office.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

POST CHAPEL: Communion service 8:30 a. m. Men's Bible class 9:30 a. m. Sunday school in the children's school 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "Ave Verum"—Mozart. Sermon: Chaplain Frederick W. Helfer. Offertory: Solo—"The Lord's Prayer"—Malotte—by Private Philip Marantz. Young people's service 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Archie D. Clark.

29TH INFANTRY: Bible study 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:00 a. m. Chaplains Archie D. Clark and Edgar L. Storey.

PARACHUTE SCHOOL: Chapel No. 1: Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Fellowship hour 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Frederick S. Zeller.

THEATRE NO. 2: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st B. T. R. and Acad. Regt.: morning service at 9:30 a. m. Chaplain Glenn S. Reddick.

STATION HOSPITAL: Morning worship in Day Room 9:00 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

RECEPTION CENTER: Chapel No. 3. Sunday school 9:00 a. m. Morning worship 10:00 a. m. Chaplain William O. Jones.

LAWSON FIELD: Chapls No. 2. Men's Bible study 10:00 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers 6:30 p. m. Song service Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Floyd S. Smith.

24TH GENERAL HOSPITAL: New mess hall. Sunday morning worship service 9:30 a. m. Vespers Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. (In nurse's recreation hall.) Chaplain Archie C. Carroway.

117TH INFANTRY AREA: Sunday morning regimental service at 11:00 a. m. Choir rehearsal 10:00 a. m. Wednesday evening worship 7:00 p. m. Chaplain Edward L. Young.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124TH INFANTRY: Chapel No. 1, morning worship 11:30 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and Clarence R. Ritchie.

2ND STUD. TRAIN. REGT.: Chapel No. 2, Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chapel No. 4, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Edwin C. Wilson.

3RD STUD. TRAIN. REGT.: Chapel No. 5, Regimental service at 11:00 a. m. Chaplain A. B. Billmeir.

FOURTH DETACHMENT SPECIAL TROOPS, SECOND ARMY: Worship at 9:00 a. m. in the 863rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10:00 a. m. in the 31st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m.; and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5201, located on the 8th Division Road and Custer Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m.; and 9:30 a. m.; and in B-26 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the officers of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2 Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1, (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a.m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3, Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confessions will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 11 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Tuesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Thursday: Sacred Heart Devotions will be held in Chapel No. 1, Lawson Field at 7:30 p. m.

Friday: Sacred Heart Devotions will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men of the Main Post, all Lawson Field organizations, and the 50th, 506th, and 507th Parachute Infantries:

Jewish religious services are held every Friday evening, at 7:30, in the Children's School, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School. A choir composed of officers and enlisted men chant the service. A lively discussion on an important Jewish topic concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd Student Training Regt. and Student Training Brigade:

Services are held every Sunday morning, at 9:00 o'clock, in War Dept. Theater No. 9, (B-46), 8th Division Road, 3rd Student Trn. Regt. area.

For men of the 2nd Student Training Regt., 60th and 80nd Field Artillery, 76th Tank Battalion, and the 124th Infantry:

Services and forum are held every Sunday morning, at 10:30, in building B-7, 2nd Student Training Regiment area.

For men of the 10th Armored Division:

Services and forums are held every Monday evening, at 7:30, at Chapel No. 4, Sand Hill area. Sergeant Abe Millman chants the services.

Women's Activities

General meeting of Woman's Club Monday, January 4, at 3 p. m. in the Main Theater. Dorothy Githens Ely will interpret La Boheme.

—V—

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

All Red Cross activities closed Friday, January 1.

—V—

WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Thursday. In charge Monday, Mrs. Jeter; Tuesday, Mrs. Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. Huffmeier.

Sewing and knitting—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Tuesday and Thursday. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. Negenborn; Thursday, Mrs. Weaver.

—V—

MOTOR CORPS

On duty January 4, Mrs. Howard; January 5, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Bailey; January 6, Mrs. Vida; January 7, Mrs. Withem.

—V—

FIRST AID CLASSES

Class for colored women, 8 p. m., Monday nights, Old 24th Infantry recreation building.

Standard First Aid class Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., Red Cross administration building.

—V—

PACKAGE WRAPPING

Packages wrapped for mailing for military personnel not having families on the post or in Columbus, From 9 a. m. to 12 noon, Red Cross work room.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

Dec. 31

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
8:05 P.M.—"The Victory Quiz"—WRBL
8:30 P.M.—Stage Door Canteen"—CBS
10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL

Jan. 1

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
1:45 P.M.—Boston College vs. Alabama—WRBL
4:45 P.M.—UCLA vs. Georgia—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL

Jan. 2

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL
10:15 P.M.—"Soldiers with Wings"—WRBL

Jan. 3

2:30 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—NBC
6:30 P.M.—Sergeant Gene Autry—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"Comando"—CBS
9:30 P.M.—Fred Allen—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Report to the Nation"—CBS

Jan. 4

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—Orson Welles—CBS
8:05 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—Variety show featuring the 29th Infantry Band—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

Jan. 5

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"It Happened in the Service"—NBC
8:05 P.M.—Reception Center, Broadcast—WRBL

Jan. 6

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:45 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—Sammy Kaye—BLU
10:30 P.M.—"The Man Behind the Gun"—WRBL

Movies

Main Theatre and No. 8

Dec. 31-Jan. 1—CHINA GIRL—Gene Tierney, George Montgomery, and Victory McLaglen.

Jan. 2—RHYTHM PARADE—Gale Storm, Robert Lowery, and Ted Fio-Rito and orchestra. A TORNADO IN THE SADDLE—Russell Hayden.

Jan. 3-4—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Jan. 5—WHISTLING IN DIXIE—Red Skelton, Ann Rutherford, and Guy Kibbee.

Jan. 6—SHERLOCK HOLMES IN WASHINGTON—Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce.

Theatres 2 and 3

Dec. 31—ARABIAN NIGHTS—Sabu, Jon Hall, and Maria Montez.

Jan. 1—RHYTHM PARADE—Gale Storm, Robert Lowery, and Ted Fio-Rito and orch. A TORNADO IN THE SADDLE—Russell Hayden.

Jan. 2—ICE CAPADES REVUE—Ellen Drew, Richard Denning, and Jerry Colonna.

Jan. 3-4—CHINA GIRL—George Montgomery and Gene Tierney.

Jan. 5—SHERLOCK HOLMES IN WASHINGTON — Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce.

Jan. 6—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Theatres 4 and 5

Dec. 31—ICE CAPADES REVUE—Ellen Drew, Richard Denning, and Jerry Colonna.

Jan. 1-2—ARABIAN NIGHTS—Sabu, Jon Hall, and Maria Montez.

Jan. 3—SHERLOCK HOLMES IN WASHINGTON — Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce.

Jan. 4—RHYTHM PARADE—Gale Storm, Robert Lowery, and Ted Fio-Rito and orch. A TORNADO IN THE SADDLE—Russell Hayden.

Jan. 5-6—CHINA GIRL—George Montgomery and Gene Tierney.

Theatres 6 and 7

Dec. 31-Jan. 1—PITTSBURGH—Marlene Dietrich, Randolph Scott, and John Wayne.

Jan. 2—SHERLOCK HOLMES IN WASHINGTON — Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce.

Jan. 3-4—ARABIAN NIGHTS—Sabu, Jon Hall, and Maria Montez.

Jan. 5—RHYTHM PARADE—Gale Storm, Robert Lowery, and Ted Fio-Rito and orch. A TORNADO IN THE SADDLE—Russell Hayden.

Jan. 3—WHISTLING IN DIXIE—Red Skelton, Ann Rutherford, and Guy Kibbee.

Theatre No. 9

Dec. 31—RHYTHM PARADE—Gale Storm, Robert Lowery, and Ted Fio-Rito and orch. A TORNADO IN THE SADDLE—Russell Hayden.

Jan. 1-2—THE BLACK SWAN—Tyrone Power, Maureen O'Hara, and George Sanders.

Jan. 3—WHISTLING IN DIIE—Red Skelton, Ann Rutherford, and Guy Kibbee.

Jan. 4—SHERLOCK HOLMES IN WASHINGTON — Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce.

Jan. 5-6—PITTSBURGH—Marlene Dietrich, Randolph Scott, and John Wayne.

Theatre No. 10

Dec. 31—THE BLACK SWAN—Tyrone Power, Maureen O'Hara, and George Sanders.

Jan. 1—SHERLOCK HOLMES IN WASHINGTON — Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce.

Jan. 2—WHISTLING IN DIXIE—Red Skelton, Ann Rutherford, and Guy Kibbee.

Jan. 3-4—PITTSBURGH—Marlene Dietrich, Randolph Scott, and John Wayne.

Jan. 5—LOST CANYON—William Boyd and Andy Clyde. THE TRAITOR WITHIN—Don "Red" Barry and Jean Parker.

Jan. 6—ARABIAN NIGHTS—Sabu, Jon Hall, and Maria Montez.

'Big Top' Veteran Leads The Band Of 124th Infantry

From the circus to the Army comes Master Sergeant Wiley B. Scott, leader of the 124th Infantry Band, with a long and varied experience under "big tops" behind him.

Starting out at the age of 16, he went from his native Castle Rock, Ore. to Portland where he worked for several years, then went trouping as a musician with the Buffalo Bill Wild West Show which featured Jess Willard, then world heavyweight champion.

After that he went all over the country with the old Barnum and Bailey circus and when that was forced to fold up because of the flu epidemic in 1919, Sgt. Scott travelled with a carnival composed largely of shell games, wheels of fortune and so on. On one occasion, so difficult were transportation problems, they even loaded the show on barges and floated it around, he recalls.

Later Sgt. Scott travelled with the John Robinson Circus and also with Tom Mix's Traveling Show. When the show closed up during the depression, he became a commercial fisherman, continuing his musical career in National Guard units. He was inducted at Camp Blanding in 1940 and took over the leadership of the 124th band about a year ago.

Cpl. Max Ulmer, who played with the New York Americans professional soccer team and National Champs in 1940-41, is now stationed at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Rookies Stage Great Show

Recruits of the 3rd battalion, 54th Infantry, took down what was left of their hair recently and showed the cadre just what they had on their G. I. mind in the way of entertainment.

Under the direction of First Lieut. William H. Bash and Staff Sgt. E. A. Fama, the brand new group of the mighty "Armored Art Players" did a good job of singing and playing, tossing in a couple of comedy skits for good measure.

Sergeant Fama, Company I, handled the master of ceremonies position in his most polished manner, introducing the various acts with a bit of a joke and a wise crack or so.

The entire presentation was a series of well accepted "vodvil" acts including a little "corn" right off the cob.

The opening number, "There's a Jubilee Tonight on the Old Plantation" was sung by the entire 3rd battalion chorus, including Lt. Bash and some amount of close harmony.

VARIETY SHOW

The Gene Autry of "G" company, Pvt. Efstathiou, sang "You'll Be Sorry" and "How Could You Make Me Cry" in a true Autry manner. The jamboree band; Pvt. Leech, "I" company and his guitar, Pvt. Woody, "I" company, and his violin and two harmonicas played by Pvts. Renzulli of "I" company and Bellmare, headquarters company, rendered "Old 97" and "Listen to the Mocking Bird" with a special duet played and sung by Leech and Woody.

The burlesque on newly arrived recruits and their alleged "greenness," put over by Pvt. Charles couple of "I" and Pvt. Samuels of "G" company, entitled "Some Awful Sights," really took the rookies for a ride but then it was put on by two brand new ones—so nobody cared

The next act uncovered some exceptional talent in Pvt. Lannon of "I" company. Because of his listenale tenor voice singing, "I'm Sorry I Made You Cry" he has been dubbed the "songbird of the regiment.

The Hawaiian guitar played by Pvt. Confietti, 'G" company, gave out with some beautiful Hawaiian numbers and in contrast was followed by a hot piano in true boogie woogie tempo, played expertly by Pvt. Letounea, also of "G" company.

DARTMOUTH CLUB

Members of the Fort Benning Dartmouth Club will hold their regular monthly meeting Saturday night, January 9, at the Polo Hunt club on the post. Dinner will be served and a Dartmouth movie shown. All alumni are invited and should contact Captain Torinus at Harmony Church 169.

WE STILL
REPAIR WATCHES
KROGLAND'S
CLOCK SHOP
1142 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus
—By Eve—

JOYFUL NEW YEAR

It's been a wonderful holiday hasn't it? It's a grand feeling this after Christmas let-down. Life can resume its normal progress and once our energies are restored we start thinking of the normal demands and needs of our family. We also feel we've earned a reward for our efforts of the past month and start thinking of the possibilities of augmenting our wardrobe during the after-Christmas sales our stores are holding. Sales judiciously attended and purchases made with shrewd attention to needs and value, can be of inestimable value to our budget and personal good looks.

— — V — —

This is the time to buy that dress, coat or suit you've been looking at these past months at KAISER-LILIENTHAL, INC. You've wanted that particular outfit but felt it's price tag was beyond your budget allowance. The quality and workmanship made it an investmen then. Now when a sizable reduction is available it's a saving and a worthwhile purchase for future pleasure and good looks. Too many of you know this store for me to enlarge upon your knowledge of the fashion-wise buying of Mr. Lilienthal. You won't find tawdry novelties that look frumpy a few months after your purchase. Classic lines, fine details and materials make the women's wear in this shop wearable for several seasons. A sale then in this store, is something to dash into town for.

— — V — —

If anything looks sadder than the clothing spilling out of the suitcases of our young men home from school I'd like to know what it is. It's enough to raise the ire of any mother who remembers the bright freshness of outfits assembled no later than last September. Whether or no, replacements have to be made and the very place for that is CHANCELLOR'S. They have a fine stock of slacks and the always needed sweater. Those complaints about cold dormitories can be alleviated by the warm Ski-jama that's proved to be so popular for lounging and sleeping. A clever mother might direct her son to Chancellor's for spending his Christmas money for some article of clothing he's begged for. Those corduroy sport coats they have are something super for male smartness and hard wear. The prosaic necessities such as socks and underwear are available in generous choice.

— — V — —

Our women's magazines always stress the attention to the January White Sales for replenishing the household stock of needed linens. KIRVEN'S will hold their White Sale on January 4th this year. Whether you're in comfortable quarters on the post or occupying a tiny apartment,—sheets, pillow cases, table linens and towels are necessities that can't be dispensed with. Replacements are a vital necessity. What better then than a White Sale to accomplish this need and enjoy the pleasure of dollars saved by careful shopping. Go through your linen closet and make a list of the size of sheets needed, towels, wash clothes and pillow slips. Count napkins and look over your table cloths. You'll be prepared then for a real shopping experience of being able to purchase exactly what you want and need.

— — V — —

THE PATRICIA GOWN SHOP on the third floor of the Ralston Hotel never carries any of the stock over from one season to another. That means when there's a sale one gets a handsome reduction on all the season's stock in this fashionwise shop. This gives a mother a wonderful opportunity to fill the gaps in her vacationing-from-college daughter's wardrobe. She'd adore those granny beanies that perch on the back of the head with so much insouciance. The smart wool sport dresses are something for mother and daughter alike to consider for precious day-to-day wearability. Coats, suits and high styled hats all available at reductions that make them shopping finds and pleasurable additions to the wardrobe of fashion conscious women.

— — V — —

SEARS-ROEBUCK are having their after-Christmas sales too. In a store where value and quality are the first consideration a sale has special meaning. The choice for the younger girl in coats, dresses and hats are especially good. Pride in personal appearance can't be taught too young and when mother's can foster this trait through careful purchases of quality garments at reduced prices, this too is worth a trip in town with the small miss in tow. If Santa Claus overlooked you or gave you a check instead of a gift I can't think of a better place to spend it. There's such a variety of things to choose from, whether it's the sale items or the regular stock of attractive merchandise for our homes.

— — V — —

All of us have been buying practical walking shoes both through necessity and for the practical needs of today's demands. That doesn't mean we've forgotten how pretty our feet looked in the slim high heeled suede shoes. It's something like our stocking problems. We're wearing cotton mesh hose because we must, and have found a surprising amount of service and reasonable good looks in the new type hosiery available for us today. We haven't forgotten our slim silken legs of another day. The few we have left are treasured for special occasions when we want to be utterly elegant. This preamble is to tell you that MILLER - TAYLOR SHOE COMPANY is having a wonderful sale. They have put a very substantial reduction on all their suede shoes of all colors. This is an opportunity for the woman who's vanity is her feet. A nice vanity I've always thought for pretty feet are as enjoyable to look at as a pretty face, and perhaps even a rarer sight. Those of you who know your market and supply conditions and are determined to keep your standards as high as possible during the war years had best shop in Miller-Taylor Shoe Store. There are weeks of wear to be had from suedes yet, and won't you be glad you have a pretty pair of suede shoes come next fall?

Rosecraft

Sears ANNUAL JANUARY BONDED Fur Sale

TOP FUR FASHIONS! AMAZINGLY LOW PRICED! $44

A SEARS BOND... YOUR GUARANTEE!
Every Coat in Sears Angual January Bonded Fur Sale is Guaranteed for Value, Style, Quality and Workmanship with a Sears ROSECRAFT FUR COAT BOND

Sears Annual January Bonded Fur Sale Offers the Year's Biggest Fur Values!

Gorgeous 1943 fur coats that will bring all value-minded women of America rushing to Sears...for this is your opportunity to stretch the buying power of every dollar...to make a purchase that represents a duration-long investment! ROSECRAFT FUR COATS are designed for these times—with emphasis on lasting smartness, sound quality, superlative workmanship and the lowest possible price! Exciting easy-to-wear styles in lustrous black, and the rich warm browns that simulate more costly furs. Sizes for juniors, misses and women

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.

1225 BRODAWAY DIAL 3-4351

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 1, NUMBER 17 — Published By The Ledger-Enquirer Co. — FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1943. — For America's Most Complete Post — PRICE FIVE CENTS

Thru The Peepsight

G. I. Summary
Of World News

P. SGT. H. E. WHITTEMORE

The Year 1943 is seven days old as we go to press this week and already the world is trying to lift the curtain of time and learn what the next 358 days hold in store for Earth.

The Allied Nations toasted a "victory year" on New Year's Eve; the Axis propagandists warned their people of a hard year to come and spoke of the certain "ultimate victory" in the next breath.

Americans carried the hope of victory in their hearts but the cold, common-sense which is a Yankee heritage told the nation's fighting men and their families and friends in the U. S. that tomorrow's victories are wrought from today's decisive action.

Apparently the Russians felt the same because the week's headlines told each day of the grim advance of the Red Army, building — village by village, field by field—a ring of steel around the Germans at Stalingrad and in other parts of the Caucasus. How far the Russians could drive during this winter depends on their men and supplies and endurance plus the amount of German resistance but already the Russians had forced the Germans from much of the territory conquered at a terrific cost in manpower last summer and had killed tens of thousands of Nazis.

Grossman of the United Press wrote a short paragraph picturing graphically the suffering of Germans before Stalingrad. Said Grossman: "German soldiers in Stalingrad huddle like hairy beasts in the stone caves of the ruined city, subsisting on three ounces of bread and a bit of horsemeat each day. They sit in utter blackness."

Other stepping stones to 1943 victory are the North African cities of Tunis, Bizerte and Tripoli—Axis held and constantly under a murderous bombardment by the Allies. Immediate concern of the Allied Expeditionary Forces in North Africa this week was the cementing of supply lines to the fighting forces and the cementing of supply lines to the civilian population of North Africa.

French, British, Americans and other soldiers of the Allied Nations are still poised before the German defense lines around Tunis and Bizerte and Rommel's Army is fleeing toward an ultimate junction with the remaining Axis forces in North Africa. The British Eighth Army continued its relentless chase of the broken Afrika Korps. Don Whitehead of the Associated Press sent back a descriptive story of the situation facing Montgomery's English Army:

Whitehead: "Chasing Rommel toward Tripoli has become a will o' the wisp hunt across the western desert with the Germans refusing battle at obvious strong points. It is a puzzling game, with the British Eighth Army approaching natural strong points expecting a fight only to find the enemy vanished or else a weak rear guard. There is no positive indication that Rommel is digging in anywhere between here and Tripoli or that he is massing forces to make a real bid to turn back the British."

General MacArthur's forces in the South Pacific, faced probably with the most exhausting, most difficult and most monotonous task of all—that of driving the fanatical Jap from each of his island strongholds in the Pacific—were plodding ahead, step by step, Jap by Jap. At the beginning of the week, MacArthur was able to report that "mopping up" work was going on in the Buna area on New Guinea where the Jap finally had been driven into the sea or killed. The U. S. was consolidating its positions on Guadalcanal, perhaps digging in for a further advance aimed eventually at Tokyo, Kobe, Yokahama, the Jap "mainland." The Chicago Sun carried an amusing story about Jap propaganda. According to the Sun, "The Tokyo radio proclaimed that an eclipse of the sun which will be seen in Japan on Feb. 5 is a 'foretaste of the scientific war between Japan and America.' "

Here in America, after a brief interlude of "bowl games" and a sober observance of the advent of a New Year, the U. S. turned to greater war production and the gigantic task of winning the war in 1943. Rationing loomed like a Mount Everest on the war horizon, but Americans were "on their honor" not to take advantage of advance information that the "point system" of rationing would go into effect about Feb. 1. Secretary of Agriculture Wickard told Americans that 200 canned, frozen and dried vegetables would be rationed under the system early in February but that "rationing in the U. S. does not mean sub-standard diets." Motorists were warned that fuel in the eastern states would con-

(Continued on Page 2)

Million Dollars Put In Bonds By Troops

Half Of Soldiers At Ft. Benning Buying Securities

Almost 50 per cent of the military personnel at Fort Benning are subscribing to War Bond investments through the pay reservation plan, it was disclosed this morning by Capt. Charles C. Fargo, Post War Bond officer.

Captain Fargo revealed that more than $1,000,000 has been invested in bonds since last May through pay reservations, with monthly averages totaling more than $250,000. Each month pay reservations are increasing by about $20,000.

In addition to the $1,000,000 invested in bonds through pay reservations, military and civilian personnel on the post also have purchased 13,958 Series E War Bonds at the Fort Benning postoffice with cash sales totaling $517,958.25.

Robert P. Richardson, superintendent of the Fort Benning Branch of the Columbus postoffice, said today that War Bond sales at the postoffice have become so heavy that it is necessary to detail one man daily to preparing bonds for cash customers.

Last November the largest volume of bonds was sold at the postoffice in one month during the campaign for the War Bond Breakfast. Mr. Richardson said that military personnel asking cash redemption on their bonds before the normal expiration date has been "negligible."

The pay reservation plan for investment in War Bonds has been encouraged by the commanding officers at Fort Benning. Thousands of soldiers have taken advantage of the opportunity for investment since last May, when the plan was instituted here.

In announcing the figures for pay reservations, Captain Fargo said that civilian personnel on the post have allocated about $80,000 for War Bonds since last May. He said that civilian allotments increase monthly, as are those by military personnel.

Plenty Of Tricks Up Burke's Sleeves

Private L. S. Burke of the First Canadian Parachute Battalion is up to tricks—and what's more, he's full of them!

Pvt. Burke, a professional magician in civilian life, toured Canada picking rabbits of hats, slipping coyly out of handcuffs and engaging in the many trick of his trade.

But now, training as a paratrooper in Canada's first parachute unit here, Pvt. Burke is planning on putting his tricks to good use. For when he qualifies and his outfit goes into action against the Axis, Pvt. Burke plans to carry along his handcuffs and other tricks to thoroughly discombombulate the foe.

OWI Reports Malted Milks G. I. Favorite

Investigators Quell Rumors Of Drinking Near Army Camps

Office of War Information investigators, who visited scores of Army camps throughout the nation including Fort Benning to investigate drinking conditions, revealed to the public last week that "there is not excessive drinking among troops, and drinking does not constitute a serious problem."

To go further than that, the OWI investigators proved that the most popular beverages sold around Army camps are coffee, milk, malted milk, and bottled soft drinks.

For several days the investigators visited Fort Benning, Columbus and Phenix City, Ala. Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the post, discussed the problems in this vicinity relative to drinking by the troops and pointed out that, despite the vast size of this Army post, there is no "drinking problem" at this training center.

Maj. James A. Loveless, medical inspector, and Capt. Russell J. Hammargren, Public Relations Officer, of Fort Benning and Bryan Collyer, editor of the Columbus Ledger, toured Columbus and vicinity with the OWI investigators, visiting taverns and clubs where liquors are sold.

BENNING COMMENDED

Not only did the OWI representatives not find evidence of excessive drinking among troops here, but their report reflected satisfaction with conditions at Fort Benning as well as at the other Army posts they visited.

One of the highlights of the report rendered to the nation by the OWI commended Army authorities for having aided in cleaning up vice conditions in Phenix City. At one time vice conditions in Phenix City were the cause of much concern to Army authorities here at Benning as well as to civilians in this vicinity previous to the vice drive.

Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan, special service officer of the post, devoted much time outlining for the OWI investigators the social and recreational facilities available here at the Fort which would discourage any mass exodus of troops to seek entertainment off the reservation. Colonel Finnegan pointed out that there are theaters, five service clubs, hundreds of unit day-rooms at the post for the entertainment of the troops.

LESS DRINKING

Chaplain Frank M. Thompson, chief of chaplains here, also dis-

(Continued on Page 7)

Nazi French Coastal Defense Can Be Broken, Dieppe Veteran Says

Canadian Officer in Training on Post Describes Commando Raid as 'Tough'

As a prelude to the designs the Allies may have on invading the French coast, Capt. Donald Wilkins, of the First Canadian Parachute Battalion here and a veteran of the Dieppe raid last year, predicted today that "we can get through the Nazi defenses any time we decide to put enough men and equipment to the task."

Capt. Wilkins, 28-year-old and a native of Toronto, Canada, admitted that the Canadians, British, and American Rangers who stormed the French coast at Dieppe last August 19 found the Nazi defenses "tough."

However, Captain Wilkins, who since the raid has joined the paratroopers and is now a qualified jumper, indicated that the Nazi positions along the French coast may be stormed again when the Allied High Command deems the invasion most opportune.

PURPOSES OF RAID

Captain Wilkins pointed out that purposes of the Dieppe raid were: To discover the reaction of the French people, how they felt about invasion and if they could be counted on to help; to test the defense of the Germans along the coast; to destroy small plants supplying Germans, and destroy ammunition stores that had been placed in tunnels in the hills about the city.

He said that the results obtained were well worth the raid and its high cost in men—about),300 out of some 5,000 were casualties—and that they knew beforehand of the great risk involved and that to obtain the important information desired the Allies would have to fight for it.

The seasoned soldier expressed an opinion that the Nazis may have learned of an approaching raid on the French coastline and reinforced garrisons along the seaboard at the time. He said that one of the most important factors in the success of raids of that nature is the element of surprise.

Captain Wilkins referred to many rumors and "loose-talk" during last August of a forthcoming British invasion of the French coastline. He said it was his personal opinion that the Nazis took account of that and bolstered their channel garrison prior to Dieppe.

A member of the Canadian Militia before the outbreak of war, Capt. Wilkins was inducted into the Dominion forces as were our National Guard units federalized.

The Canadian officer was a member of an anti-aircraft unit and was garrisoned in England for some time preparatory to the Dieppe raid. Several weeks prior to the engagement, however, Captain Wilkins felt the urge for more exciting Army life so he applied for transfer to the Paratroops.

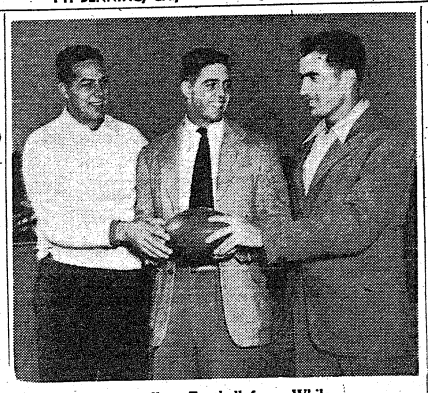
SEEKS EXCITEMENT

The captain's desire for excitement came in one big bundle. Three days after the gruelling raid, he was transferred to the paratroops and was assigned to a camp for jump training. After qualifying in England, Captain Wilkins was detailed back to this continent and since has been assigned to the Canadian Parachute Battalion here, the first Canadian unit of its kind.

Although the Dieppe raid, which was the largest one conducted up to that time, had been primarily concerned with testing the defenses of the French coastline, Captain Wilkins said that the troops succeeded in scoring several successes.

Among the triumphs, he revealed, was the shooting down all Nazi bombers which sought to take their toll of the invaders. Captain Wilkins said he had counted at least 30 enemy bombers and that the bombs from several came within 100 yards of his ship.

The Canadian ack-ack fire downed several of the bombers, Captain Wilkins said, while "the fighter support which accompanied us on the mission did its share in intercepting the enemy planes."



Admitting that raids on the nature of Dieppe are costly and grim, Captain Wilkins said that it is necessary to conduct them to determine what the enemy forces are.

READY FOR ACTION

Before leaving the British Isles on the raid, Captain Wilkins said he observed the American Rangers piling in with the Canadian and British Commandos. He stated that all of the troops were "keyed up and busting to get going."

Captain Wilkins expressed much concern over the "loose-talk" of troops of military activities. He said that although authorities preach to men over and over about military security that nonetheless many soldiers write letters and tell their friends of troop movements and other restricted matter which, if known by the enemy, may cause casualities.

A veteran of the grim realties of battle, Captain Wilkins said he had learned many lessons from training for the Dieppe raid and the encounter itself. Beside the tactical lessons he learned, the veteran said, he is principally concerned with the casual manner in which troops discuss military matters in public.

Farewell to Football for a While
McKewen (Ala.)—Todd (Ga.)—Sharp (Ala.)
(Signal Lab Photo by Stock.)

Bowl Gridders Arrive At Benning for O. C. S.

Georgia's Todd Played in Rose Bowl; Sharp, McKewen Orange Bowl Stars

From gridiron bowl glory on New Year's Day to officer candidate school at Fort Benning three days later was the experience this week of a trio of burly footballers from Georgia and Alabama.

Now known officially as Candidates Todd, Sharp and McKewen, less than a week ago sport fans the nation over were cheering their exploits in the Rose Bowl and Orange Bowl grid classics.

Jim Todd played over half the game as second string quarterback for the Georgia Bulldogs who gained new glory with a stirring 9-0 triumph over U. C. L. A. at Pasadena just last Friday afternoon. Sam Sharp was a varsity end and Jack McEwen a stalwart tackle for Alabama's Crimson Tide which rose to new heights in smashing Boston College at Miami by a 37-21 count in a circus game.

HARD AT WORK

Now all three are members of the 15th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, and are hard at work on the first of thirteen weeks of training that will result in their being commissioned second lieutenants in the Army. They have each had several years of R. O. T. C. work in college, and entered the officer candidate course along with an entire class of recent college graduates.

In order to reach Benning in time for the first day at the Infantry School, Todd had to fly from Pasadena to Atlanta. He left Friday night, flew short hours and then strolled off the Rose Bowl turf with the victorious Georgia Bulldogs. He was in Atlanta Saturday, and came to Benning late Sunday afternoon. Sharp and McKewen, the Alabama gridders, returned from Miami ahead of their squad also, traveling on a streamliner.

Todd said "playing in the Rose

(Continued on Page 7)

Paratroopers Set Record

1,750 Jumpers Bail Out At Ten Per Minute Pace

Shattering all previous records, 1,750 paratroopers bailed out of transport planes over Fort Benning near Lawson Field Saturday afternoon at the rate of ten men a minute in a three-hour experiment conducted by the Parachute School.

Personnel of the 506th Parachute Regiment, who gained nation-wide fame recently for hiking from Toccoa, Ga, to Atlanta and thence to Fort Benning, took part in the tests which were heralded as an example of "remarkable precision control."

Col. Garland Williams, assistant commandant of the Parachute School, in announcing the record of the paratroopers, attributed the success of the experiments to the control exhibited by the air corps personnel, school personnel and the student jumpers themselves.

The troops of the 506th Regiment were the first to go through the school as an organization.

Officials termed this most intensive period of mass jumping as a "masterpiece of control and timing."

"The pilots and crew chiefs worked on precision, rolling off on the exact second and landing

(Continued on Page 7)

911 Fort Soldiers Invited For Dinner In Columbus Homes

As a result of the concerted campaign by the USO clubs and the Columbus Civic and ommerce Association a total of 911 soldiers at Fort Benning ate dinner on Christmas Sunday with Columbus bus families, figures compiled this week by Edward Korn, chairman, showed.

A total of 440 families opened their homes to men from Fort Benning, and in many instances invitations to Sunday dinners during the coming months have now been extended to the soldiers Korn came on Dec. 27, Mr. Korn said.

Efforts for a sustaining program of opening homes to soldiers are being made, Mr. Korn said, but rationing difficulties may have to be ironed out, he emphasized.

Results of the Christmas appeal were characterized as "excellent" by Mr. Korn, who pointed out that nearly as many soldiers were given hospitality in Columbus as in Atlanta in a similar appeal.

Nurses Get Salary And Salute Rights Equal to Officers

The bill authorizing increases in pay for Army and Navy nurses has now been signed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, it was announced this week in dispatches from Washington, and at the same time Fort Benning officials received word of changes in the Army regulations entitling Army nurses to receive the salute.

A new paragraph has been added to the section of the regulation which deals with rights and privileges of Army nurses. The new paragraph reads "They are entitled to the same privileges with reference to salutes as are customarily enjoyed by and prescribed for commissioned officers of grades corresponding to their relative ranks."

300th Infantry To Stage Demonstrations At Post

Infantry School Announces Activation Of New Regiment

Activation of the 300th Infantry Regiment, designed to serve as crack demonstration troops on the Post, was announced this week by The Infantry School.

Commanded by Col. Richard McKee, formerly executive officer of the School Troops Brigade, the 300th is drawing its enlisted personnel from other demonstration units here, including the 29th, 117th and 124th Infantry Regiments.

More than 2,000 troops already have been assigned to the 300th. The new regiment will undergo intensive training, preparatory to taking over part of the large-scale demonstration work carried on at the Post by the other crack Infantry School regiments.

It is expected that after two months of specialized training the troops of the 300th Infantry, most of whom have had thorough basic training, will assist in the instruction of officer candidate classes in weapons and tactics.

STAFF SELECTED

Lt. Col. Thomas T. Long, formerly of the 124th, is executive officer of the 300th. Commanding officer of the First Battalion is Lt. Col. Fred W. Kushmer, formerly of the 124th; Second battalion, Lt. Col. Albert C. Haley, of the 29th; Third battalion, Major Charles R. Meyer, formerly in Hawaii.

Staff officers of the 300th include: Capt. Cleveland T. Millirons, S-1, formerly of the 29th; Capt. Theodore N. McMullan, S-2, of the 29th; Maj. William C. Tufts, S-3, of the Infantry School; Lt. Alex Buckman, personnel adjutant, of the 29th; and Lt. Thomas Cassidy, special service officer, a graduate of O. C. S.

A distinctive insignia for the new regiment is being designed. Until the insignia has been adopted, no motto will be selected by the organization.

Drive To Save Electric Power Consumption

Col. Bain Reveals Plan to Curtail Waste of Current

Conservation of vitally-important electric power and fuel through elimination of waste is under way at Fort Benning, the office of the post engineer told the BAYONET yesterday in asking for full cooperation from military and civilian personnel on the post.

"Turning off that one electric light bulb or cutting off an electric machine for five minutes while it is not in use is the kind of cooperation we want," declared Col. Arthur J. Bain, post engineer.

"Possibly many will question the 'great saving' in turning off one electric light not in use, but when you glance at the over-all picture of power and fuel consumption at Fort Benning you will see how the cent a day saved by each light turned off amounts to hundreds and thousands of dollars," he added.

In outlining a five-point program now under way at the post to eliminate all wasteful and unnecessary consumption of fuel and power, the post engineer's office disclosed interesting comparisons in power and fuel consumption.

In 1928, 600,000 kilowatt hours per year were consumed at Fort Benning at a cost to the government of $6,500. In 1940, when the defense program was just beginning, the consumption and cost mushroomed to 13,501,000 kilowatt hours and $130,000. In 1941, 20,296,000 kilowatt hours were consumed at a cost of $200,000. In 1942, probably the peak year in expansion, 31,173,000 kilowatt hours were used at a cost of approximately $310,000.

NATURAL GAS

Consumption of natural gas, which is used extensively at Fort Benning, increased on the same ratio. In 1940, 475,869,000 cubic to 738,907,000 cubic feet in 1941 feet of gas were burned compared and 1,035,734,900 cubic feet in 1942.

In line with the national policy of conservation, Fort Benning officials are hard at work taking "every possible measure" to cut the consumption at the post. Regular inspections of power consumption have been initiated and will be carried out by specially appointed inspectors. In addition, a sharp watch on use of fuel and power will be maintained by certain officers and civilians authorized by the post engineer.

Inspectors will determine whether lights are burned in the daytime; whether lights are really needed; whether they are burning in vacant buildings or partially occupied structures; what machines are electrically operated and what unauthorized installations have been made on machines or lights.

At the end of this month, a re-

(Continued on Page 7)

Torpedoed Mariner Joins Army to Keep Mate's Trust

Pvt. Boyajian Will Avenge Death Of Pal At Hands of Nazis

Twenty-year-old Pvt. Charles Boyajian at Fort Benning plans to volunteer for the parachute troops this week and thus take another step to fulfill a pledge taken at the death-bed of a fellow merchant mariner only a few months ago.

"I promised Bert McDowell, the sailor who saved my life when our tanker was torpedoed in the Gulf of Mexico last year, that I would join the Army and get even for what the Germans did to us. The day after I made that promise, Bert died of burns," Boyajian told the BAYONET this week in relating his experiences.

The 20-year-old private from Watertown, Mass., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Setrhe Boyajian, live at 69 Laurel Street, has already experienced more high adventure and more tragedy than the average American will see in a lifetime. Boyajian is assigned to the 901th Reconnaissance Battalion, 10th Armored Division.

TORPEDOED 3 TIMES

As a sailor in the heroic merchant marine for the last two and a half years, Boyajian has been on torpedoed ships three different times, has seen his best friends die on flaming tankers and freighters or in the seas and has touched at many famous ports in England, Africa, Iceland, China and even Japan.

"Yes, we were in Yokohama, Japan, not so many, many months ago. We could see then the growing strength of the Jap Navy but we couldn't make very many people believe us," the 10th Armored soldier declared.

Boyajian's yearning to travel overcame him midway through high school and he left school for the merchant marine while only about 18. Shipping on freighters and tankers, he visited many of the historic ports of the world before the American freighter he was shipping on at the time was torpedoed 1,000 miles out of Capetown, Africa.

It was early afternoon when the sub suddenly surfaced near our ship and warned us to get off. We got off immediately in lifeboats and they sank our ship with a torpedo and shells. It went down in a few minutes."

RESCUED FINALLY

They were adrift five days in heavy seas, Boyajian said, before a Norwegian ship rescued them. Forty miles off the Brazilian coast, the soldier added, this ship was also torpedoed again in the early afternoon. Boyajian and the other survivors were picked up three days later by Brazilian coastal patrols and the Watertown boy found himself in New York in a few weeks looking for another ship to sail on.

This time it was a new coast-

(Continued on Page 2)

New Hospital Built In H. C.

Col. W. R. Starnes, executive officer of Fort Benning Station Hospital, has been placed in charge of the Harmony Church infirmary, new sub-unit, scheduled to start functioning between January 15 and 31, according to Col. E. A. Noyes, Station Hospital commander.

First coming to Benning as a captain in 1929, Col. Starnes has served on the post at different periods during the past 14 years. Last January, he left to command a general hospital overseas, but was later evacuated because of illness. He then returned to Benning, and was promoted to full colonel in mid-December.

The new addition, with accommodations for 550 patients, will be complete in every respect, and could operate as an independent organization if necessary. All facilities found at the main hospital will be available, including operating rooms, laboratories, dental clinic, and ear, eye, nose and throat clinic.

Although patients may be interchanged between the Harmony Church unit and the main post, the former will ordinarily handle the ever increasing personnel in Harmony Church and Sand Hill.

Maintenance Man Makes Money Masking Mazdas

That Georgia moonlight has a dollar and cents value at busy Fort Benning.

Post engineers said today the night maintenance man at the post has, as part of his duties, the job of turning off the streetlights on the reservation every time the moon shines.

It's all a part of the power and fuel conservation program, because the more and brighter the moonlight, the less power used for street lighting on the reservation.

Post Officers Staff O. C. S. In Australia

Col. Haney Of Infantry School Is Commandant

An officer candidate school, staffed largely by officers of The Infantry School at Fort Benning, has been opened "somewhere in Australia" to train officers in the Southeastern Pacific theater of operations.

With the announcement that a class of Second Lieutenants was graduated on New Year's Day, the first news stories of the school were released. Establishment of the overseas officer candidate school precludes the necessity of enlisted men coming back to the State for officer training.

The 135 Lieutenants who were graduated on New Year's Day included a group of Services of Supply specialists who underwent a special course of six weeks to fit them for commissions.

INSTRUCTORS NAMED

Col. Harold Haney, who recently held the post of Executive Officer at The Infantry School here, has assumed command of the officer candidate school in Australia. Assistant commandant of the school is Lt. Col. Ernest A. Barlow, who was formerly a battalion commander in the Second Student Training Regiment here before going overseas.

Among the instructors on the faculty of the new school are six captains transferred from The Infantry School. They are Captains George E. Wise Will G. Attwood, Jr., George W. McGaffrey, James B. Dyson, Watt C. Bristol, and Lawson E. Hahn.

Four lieutenants were sent from here to become tactical officers for the school "down under." They are Lieutenants Raymond C. Blockman, Benjamin F. Davis, George Hambrecht, and Forrest L. Kenner. Lt. James F. Fuller was sent as range officer.

Although the specialists, who won commissions in the Services of Supply were graduated on January 1, the first full-fledged group of candidates for the special course in the school in Australia began training on that date.

The S. O. S. candidates began their class less than a week after the Fort Benning officers had arrived to establish the school.

Ex-Two-Niner Gets Medal For Bravery

Sgt. Thomas W. Odom, formerly of the 29th Infantry at Fort Benning and now a qualified paratrooper in North Africa, has been decorated with the Soldier's Medal for bravery in the North African campaign.

Sgt. Odom, a native of Smithville, Ga., was cited for his courage in diving on a hand grenade thrown into the barracks where his unit was quartered in North Africa, it was disclosed in news dispatches from Lt. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's headquarters.

Luck was with Sgt. Odom as he risked his life for the hand grenade proved to be defective and did not explode, although had it been effective it may have caused casualties in the barracks.

Enlisting in the Army September 5, 1939, Sgt. Odom was 18 years old. He was assigned to Company B of the 29th Infantry assigned to this post. While here, the soldier was a machine gun section leader, having qualified as an expert gunner.

In 1941, Sgt. Odom requested transfer to the parachute troops at Benning. His superior officers here recorded that he was an excellent soldier.

Yank Courage, Stamina Proved At Pearl Harbor

Eye-Witness Says Soldiers, Civilians Cool Under Fire

How soldiers, sailors, marines and even civilians fought back at the Japs with whatever was handy in the attack on Pearl Harbor, was recalled today by Henry T. Lovette, Jr., now an officer candidate in the 14th company, First Student Training Regiment.

He was visiting Honolulu on a pass from one of the outlying islands of the Hawaiian Archipelago at the time, and was by chance at Pearl Harbor when the attack came.

"Sunday in that paradise of the Pacific was something for which all service men waited, he recalls. It was a free day, a day of real rest. The civilians as well took advantage of Sunday. In the morning all would go to church or remain in bed. Afternoons were usually spent in the beaches for which the islands are justly famous. Perhaps others would prefer the baseball or football games. The seventh was the same as most any other Sunday morning. As for myself I had to get up early in order to catch the plane back to my home station. While standing on the ramp at Ford Island, in Pearl Harbor, waiting for my plane to get warmed up—the Japs came. Surprise? That's a master piece of understatement.

That day civilians, soldiers, sailors and marines were all the same. All fought back at the Japs with whatever was handy. Men fell. Others stepped into the gap. There was only one thought uppermost in everyones mind, knock those Japs out of the sky.

SHOULDER TO SHOULDER

"The service men caught away self, fought shoulder to shoulder from their home outfits, like myself with sailors and marines. Difference in choice of service meant nothing. The Yanks' ability to cope with any and all situations which arise was made definitely clear that day. The civilian population was unbelievably cool. One would have to see in order to believe that a people under fire for the first time could stand up so well.

"That night a total black out was in effect, later rationing of food and gas, restricted areas, long hours of work, yet not a word of complaint was heard. I have seen brave men slaughtered, children killed, ships sunk, planes shot down from the sky, and I have witnessed the confounded response that the well trained service man experiences during such dastardly deeds of infamy. There is not a soldier who survived Pearl Harbor who doesn't possess positive faith in his own heart that the American soldier and fighting men can't be licked and won't be licked.

'Gator Unit Wins Yule Decorations Prize Award

Regimental Headquarters Company was adjudged the best decorated Christmas unit in the 124th Infantry, it was announced by judges in the contest staged by the entire regiment.

Members of the Regimental Staff served as judges in the contest. A prize of 20 books will be presented to the company for its library.

Company A received a special prize of popular records for having the best decorated mess hall in the regiment.

Torpedoed—

(Continued from Page 1)

wise tanker. He made a few trips on her before torpedoes again came his way.

"We were in the Gulf of Mexico near the mouth of the Mississippi River when the sub struck us with a torpedo. I was drinking coffee at the time and remember I was knocked down and dazed. McDowell (of Media, Pa.) grabbed me and threw me overboard, diving in after me. We were the only survivors and the sub captan picked us up, asked us some questions through an interpreter, then put us back overboard and threw us a life preserver."

MAKES HIS PROMISE

Boyajian said a U. S. Coast Guard cutter picked them up and took them to the coast and from there to the Marine Hospital in New Orleans, La. It was there that McDowell made Boyajian promise he would join the service and get even. A monument to McDowell has since been erected in Midia, Boyajian added.

After recovering from severe burns, the scars of which he still carries on his back, legs and arms, Boyajian spent some tme in Boston, Mass., and Watertown before enlisting in the Army two months ago.

He went first to Fort Devens, Mass., and then came to Fort Benning, where he hopes to prepare himself to fulfill completely his pledge to McDowell.

"Let me say one word about my buddies in the merchant marine," Boyajian said in conclusion. "Many of my friends have been torpedoed three, four, a half dozen times, but they're going back for more. When they are out there they have no regard for their own safety and no fear of death. They are the bravest men I've ever met."

Major Albert Is Lt. Colonel

Lawson Field C. O. Gets Second Raise In Rank in Year

The promotion of Maj. John E. Albert, commanding officer of Lawson Field, to lieutenant colonel, was announced Friday.

Col. Albert succeeded Col. Warner B. Gates as commanding officer of Lawson Field on Sept. 9, 1942, and the promotion is his second raise in rank within the last year.

Col. Albert, who was made a Major in February 1942 was called to active duty in March 1941. He came to Lawson Field from MacDill Field in Tampa, Fla., where he served as base engineer and in several other executive positions before coming to Fort Benning.

A native of Columbus, O., Col. Albert was graduated from a Pittsburgh, Pa. high school and Pittsburgh University with an engineering degree. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in October 1918.

Before reporting for active duty in March 1941, Col. Albert was vice-president and general manager of a public utilities company with offices in Columbus. His home is in Pittsburgh.

Range Guard M. P. Retires After 32 Years

Retiring after 32 years of service, Master Sergeant John Heckert, chief of the Range Guard M. P. in the Academic Regiment, is believed to hold the all-time record for service at Ft. Benning.

He entered the Army in 1910 and served until 1915 with the Sixth Infantry, then transferred to the Infantry School detachment where he remained until 1938. During the World War he rose from private to battalion sergeant major.

When the Academic Regiment was formed from the Academic Battalion in 1938, he went into the Regiment and has been in Company G for several years. He has frequently been commended for his worth and familiarity with firing technique in his duties as chief of the Range Guard detail. He is married and lives at 511 Harris Circle, Fort Benning.

Major Shine Is Lieut. Colonel

Major Earl M. Shine of the 124th Infantry has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel, it is announced by Col. John D. Hill, commanding officer of the regiment.

Born in Jacksonville, Florida, in 1899, Colonel Shine left high school to enlist in the Army during World War I and served overseas for eight months as a member of the Tank Corps.

He is one of the original organizers of the Florida National Guard in Jacksonville. He has held command of the Anti-Tank company, the Howitzer company and was Regimental S-2, S-3, and S-4. He now is commanding officer of the First Battalion.

Thru—

(Continued from Page 1)

tinue on a "hand to mouth" basic for some months and the government cracked down hard on the chiselers and on the "black markets."

"The United Nations," said the President, "are passing from the defensive to the offensive . . . first to crush completely the present 'bandit assault' upon civilization; second, so to organize relations among nations that forces of barbarism can never again break loose; and third, to cooperate to the end that mankind may enjoy in peace and freedom the unprecedented blessings which Divine Providence has put within our reach."

As for U. S. war production, Chairman Nelson said that in 1943 this country expects to produce about twice as many arms as were produced in 1942. Right now the nation is turning out enough rifle and machine gun ammunition each month to fire 83 rounds at each individual soldier in the Axis armies.

One more word: This is the last "Peepsight" column for me. My sincerest wish, in leaving, is that my successor will have the enjoyable task of writing about complete Allied victory in 1943. The best of everything to Fort Benning.

Baby Braastad Is Benning's First In 1943

A boy weighing 8 lbs., 4 ounces, the son of Capt. and Mrs. Frederick Braastad, was the first baby born in 1943 in Station Hospital, Fort Benning. He was born at 1:41 p. m. Friday. Capt. Braastad is with Headquarters, 21st Quartermaster Regiment.

Four minutes later a son was born to Capt. and Mrs. Robert D. Montgomery, weighing 7 lbs., 11 ounces. Capt. Montgomery is a member of Co. K, 300th Infantry.

511th Paratroops Train At Toccoa

Cadre for the 511th Parachute Infantry regiment is on the ground at Toccoa, Ga., and receiving men this month.

Commanded by Lt. Col. Oren D. Haugen, former executive officer of the 505th, the 511th will take the "rough stuff" of the Toccoa area, get its basic training there, then come to Benning after some three or more months for its jump training.

Interest in the 511th is high in the 505th, because the nucleus of the outfit was spawned in Col. Gavin's outfit at Fort Benning's Alabama reservation. Col. Haugen, after watching the men at close range in the field had a hand in selecting the backbone of his present embryonic organization.

As a tourniquet is painful, never make it any tighter than necessary to stop the bleeding.

New Service Club Opens In Harmony Church Area

Preparing for a formal opening to be staged soon, the new Service Club No. 5 for colored personnel is functioning on a part-time basis under direction of Miss Bernice Smith, of Montgomery, Ala., as hostess and Mrs. Marion L. Stephens, of Daytona Beach, Fla.

The new club, located in the Harmony Church area, will soon be functioning at full capacity, it was announced today by Major Joseph H. Cooper, special service officer.

Miss Smith has been engaged for six years as a school supervisor in Montgomery. She is a graduate of high school in Montgomery, attended Alabama State College, Spelman College and Atlanta University for graduate work.

Mrs. Stephens attended school at Hampton, West Virginia and is a graduate of Tuskegee Institute. She handled cafeterias at Tuskegee and for five years at Hampton Institute where she was assistant dietician.

PROMOTIONS

The regimental commander of The First Student Training Regiment announced the following promotions: Grover C. Gardner to the rank of first sergeant; to be staff sergeant, Sgt. Thomas K. Lee, Jr., Sgt. Frank B. Koeffler was also promoted to the rank of staff sergeant. Corporal Harold L. Morse was raised to the grade of sergeant.

Second STR Promotes 27 Officers

There was a run on new bars around the Second Student Training Regiment last week when 27 company-grade officers were advanced in rank.

The 14 new captains are all Reserve Officers who graduated from basic courses in this Regiment last April and have been with the Second since that time. The 13 new first lieutenants are all Officer Candidate graduates who were commissioned in July.

Officers promoted from first lieutenant to captain are the following:

Captains Donald J. Anderson, Iowa City, Ia., executive officer, 16th Company; Harvey W. Bush, Narbeth, Pa., executive officer, 18th Company; Russell S. Deetz, Columbus, Ohio, commanding officer, 20th Company; James T. Dudley, Union Hall, Va., adjutant, Fifth Battalion; Roland C. Duell, Dayton, O., commanding officer, 21st Company; David C. Garvin, Jr., Spartansburg, S. C., executive officer, 13th Company; Grove R. Ginder, Gary, Ind., executive officer, 15th Company.

Ralph C. Going, Martinsville, Va., commanding officer, 31st Company; Francis M. Gregg, Florence, S. C., executive officer, 7th Company; Jerome A. Hurwitz, Baltimore, Md., executive officer, 11th Company; Edward R. Kobernusz, Washington, D. C., executive officer, 25th Company; David B. Price, Covington, Tenn., commanding officer, 24th Company; Julian T. Richardson, Henderson, N. C., mess officer, Fifth Battalion; and James K. Robinson, Winchester, Va., executive officer, 14th Company.

First Lieutenants John T. Alden, St. Louis, Mo., 2nd Company; George F. Chambers, San Leondro, Calif., 5th Company; Kerry H. Girdner, San Jose, Calif., 3rd Company; Jack S. Goodrich, Omaha, Neb., 2nd Company; Alfred W. Haight, Syracuse, N. Y., assistant regimental adjutant; James T. Hall, Jr., San Antonio, Tex., 6th Company; Walter B. Littlejohn, Dallas, Tex., 8th Company; Leo P. McCarthy, Youngstown, Ohio, 4th Company; Harvey J. Pollock, Sweethome, Tex., 3rd Company; Edward G. Schmitt, San Francisco, Calif., adjutant, Third Battalion; Charles R. Wheaton, Macon, Ga., 28th Company; and Richard T. Wilker, Dayton, Ohio, 18th Company.

161st Photo Co. Forms 'Yacht' Club

Personnel of the 161st Signal Photographic Company have formed a "Yacht Club" with more than 100 members. Pvt. Patrick Smith is secretary-treasurer.

Members see movies on Friday nights, the films being supplied by the USO and also view training films on Saturday nights. Sports equipment, prizes for tournaments, and gifts for sick members also are purchased from dues.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion service 8:30 a. m. Men's Bible class 9:30 a. m. Sunday school in the children's school 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "The Beatitudes"—Malotte Sermon: Chaplain Alfred L. Pollock. Offertory: "God of Mercy"—Stultz. Young people's service 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Edgar L. Storey.

29th Infantry: Bible study 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplains Archie D. Clark and Edgar L. Storey.

Parachute School Chapel No. 1: Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Fellowship hour 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Frederick S. Zeller.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson; for men of the 4th Bn., 1st S. T. R. and Acad. Reg.; morning service at 9:30 a. m. Chaplain Glenn S. Rednick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in day room 9 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Chapel No. 2, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplain William O. Jones.

Lawson Field: Chapel No. 2. Men's Bible study 10 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers 6:30 p. m. Song service Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Floyd S. Smith.

24th General Hospital: New Mess Hall, Sunday morning worship service 9:30 a. m. Vespers Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. (In nurse's recreation hall.) Chaplain Archie C. Carroway.

17th Infantry: Chapel No. 1. Morning worship at 11 a. m. Choir rehearsal 10 a. m. Wednesday evening worship 7 p. m. Chaplain Edward L. Young.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA.

18th Infantry: Chapel No. 1. Morning worship 11:30 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. V. Whitaker and Clarence R. Ritchie.

2nd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 2, at 9:45 a. m. Chapel No. 4, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Edwin C. Wilson.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 5. Regimental service at 11 a. m. Chaplain A. E. Billman.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9:00 a. m. in the Band Orderly day room. Worship at 10:00 a. m. in the 31st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bugler area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur E. Ward.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on, in the Station Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2, Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m., 8 a. m., 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m.; and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd and Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located near 1st of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5201, located on the 5th Division Road and Cusseta Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 8:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 154th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

17th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3, Lawson Field at 8 a. m. and confessions will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 11 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Thursday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Thursday: Sacred Heart Devotions will be held in Chapel No. 1, Lawson Field at 7:30 p. m.

Friday: Sacred Heart Devotions will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, All Lawson Field organizations, and the 505th, 506th and 507th Parachute Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30, at the Children's School, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road. A five voice-choir of officers and enlisted men chant the services. A lively discussion concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd Student Training Regiment and the Student Training Brigade: Every Sunday morning, at 9:00 o'clock, in War Department Theatre No. 9, Building B-461, 8th Division Road.

For men of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 76th Tank Battalion, 80ist and 82nd Field Artillery: Every Sunday morning at 10:30 in Building E-7. A lively forum on an important Jewish topic follows the service.

For men of the 10th Armored Division: Every Monday evening, at 7:30, in Chapel No. 4. Sergeant Abe Millman will act as cantor.

Women's Activities

Book Reviews—Monday, Jan. 11, 2:30 p. m. Parlor B, Officers' Club. Chaplain Stephen F. Kenny will review "The Robe" by Lloyd C. Douglas. Mrs. Mason H. Lucas, chairman, will give reading list for month.

Bridge—Tuesday, Jan. 12, 2 p. m. Ladies Lounge.

Dramatics—Thursday, Jan. 14, 2 p. m. B Parlor. Rehearsals will be held for play to be given in April, for general meeting of Woman's Club.

Practical Home Making—Thursday, Jan. 14, 2:30 p. m. Ladies Lounge. Mrs. Edward W. Stare will discuss arrangement of furniture in the home.

Music—Regular meeting has been postponed until Jan. 27.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

WORK ROOM—

Surgical dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday. 1:30 to 4:30 p. m., Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. John Jeser; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. Wm. Huffstetler; Friday, Mrs. F. A. Noyes.

Sewing and knitting—9 to 12 noon, Tuesdays and Thursdays. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. Paul Newgarden; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

MOTOR CORPS.

On duty Friday, Jan. 8, Mrs. Nesbitt and Mrs. Harrington; Jan. 11, Mrs. Oikari and Mrs. Sagmoen; Jan. 12, Mrs. Watkins and Mrs. Favey; Jan. 13, Mrs. Gibson; Jan. 14, Mrs. Tarr; Jan. 15, Mrs. Gavin and Mrs. Freund.

FIRST AID CLASSES

Standard First Aid class Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 8 a. m. to 11 a. m., Red Cross Administration building.

PACKAGE WRAPPING

The Red Cross will continue to maintain package wrapping service for military personnel not having families on the post or in Columbus, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., except Saturday morning, Red Cross Work Room.

MEDICAL WOMEN'S CLUB

The Medical Women's Club luncheon will be held Monday, Jan. 11 at 1:15 p. m., at the Officers' Club, Main Post. Wives of medical officers are urged to attend.

Reservations may be made before Jan. 9 by calling any one of the following committee members: Mrs. Benjamin Giaser, Col. 2-4990; Mrs. Manuel E. Green, Col. 2-2374; or Mrs. Adam Walmus, Col. 2-2020.

Movies

Main Theatre and No. 6

Jan. 7-8—THE PALM BEACH STORY—Claudette Colbert and Joel McCrea.

Jan. 8—LOST CANYON—William Boyd and Andy Clyde.

THE TRAITOR WITHIN—Don "Red" Barry and Jean Parker.

Jan. 10-11—STAND BY FOR ACTION—Robert Taylor, Brian Donlevy and Charles Laughton.

12—REUNION IN FRANCE—Joan Crawford and John Wayne.

Jan. 13—JOURNEY FOR MARGARET—Robert Young, Laraine Day, and Fay Bainter.

Theaters 2 and 3

Jan. 7—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Jan. 8—LOST CANYON—William Boyd and Andy Clyde.

THE TRAITOR WITHIN—Don "Red" Barry.

Jan. 9—WHISTLING IN DIXIE—Red Skelton, Ann Rutherford, and Guy Kibbee.

Jan. 10-11—THE PALM BEACH STORY—Claudette Colbert and Joel McCrea.

Jan. 12—JOURNEY FOR MARGARET—Robert Young, Laraine Day, and Fay Bainter.

Jan. 13—STAND BY FOR ACTION—Robert Young, Brian Donlevy, and Charles Laughton.

Theatres 4 and 5

Jan. 7—WHISTLING IN DIXIE—Red Skelton, Ann Rutherford, and Guy Kibbee.

Jan. 8-9—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Jan. 10—JOURNEY FOR MARGARET—Robert Young, Laraine Day and Fay Bainter.

Jan. 11—LOST CANYON—William Boyd and Andy Clyde.

THE TRAITOR WITHIN—Don "Red" Barry and Jean Parker.

Jan. 12-13—THE PALM BEACH STORY—Claudette Colbert and Joel McCrea.

Theatres 6 and 7

Jan. 7-8—CHINA GIRL—George Montgomery and Gene Tierney.

Jan. 9—JOURNEY FOR MARGARET—Robert Young, Laraine Day, and Fay Bainter.

Jan. 10-11—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Jan. 12—LOST CANYON—William Boyd and Andy Clyde.

THE TRAITOR WITHIN—Don "Red" Barry and Jean Parker.

Jan. 13—REUNION IN FRANCE—Joan Crawford and John Wayne.

Theatre No. 8

Jan. 7—LOST CANYON—William Boyd and Andy Clyde.

THE TRAITOR WITHIN—Don "Red" Barry and Jean Parker.

Jan. 8-9—ARABIAN NIGHTS—Sabu, Jon Hall, and Maria Montez.

Jan. 10—REUNION IN FRANCE—Joan Crawford and John Wayne.

Jan. 11—JOURNEY FOR MARGARET—Robert Young and Laraine Day.

Jan. 12-13—CHINA GIRL—George Montgomery and Gene Tierney.

Theatre No. 10

Jan. 7—ARABIAN NIGHTS—Sabu, Jon Hall, and Maria Montez.

Jan. 8—JOURNEY FOR MARGARET—Robert Young and Laraine Day.

Jan. 9—REUNION IN FRANCE—Joan Crawford and John Wayne.

Jan. 10-11—CHINA GIRL—George Montgomery and Gene Tierney.

Jan. 12—SECRETS OF THE UNDERGROUND—John Hubbard and Virginia Grey.

RED RIVER ROBIN HOOD—Tim Holt and Cliff Edwards.

Jan. 13—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

Jan. 5

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:30 P. M.—"Variety Show—WRBL

8:05 P. M.—"The Victory Quiz"—WRBL

9:30 P. M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS

10:00 P. M.—"The First Line"—WRBL

Jan. 6

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:30 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL

7:15 P. M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL

Jan. 9

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

7:30 P. M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL

10:15 P. M.—"Soldiers with Wings"—WRBL

Jan. 10

3:30 P. M.—"The Army Hour"—NBC

6:30 P. M.—Sergeant Gene Autry—WRBL

7:00 P. M.—"Commandos"—CBS

10:30 P. M.—"Report to the Nation"—CBS

Jan. 11

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:30 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL

7:15 P. M.—Orson Welles—CBS

8:05 P. M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—Variety show, featuring 11th Arm'd Band—WRBL

10:30 P. M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

Jan. 12

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:30 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL

7:30 P. M.—"It Happened in the Service"—NBC

8:05 P. M.—Reception Center Broadcast—WRBL

Jan. 13

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:30 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL

7:45 P. M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL

9:30 A. M.—Sammy Kaye—BLU

10:30 P. M.—"The Man Behind the Gun"—WRBL

WE STILL REPAIR WATCHES

KROGLAND'S CLOCK SHOP

1142 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

Have Your Photographs Made by

Artists from our 5th Avenue Studios

NO DEPOSITS AT TIME OF SITTING

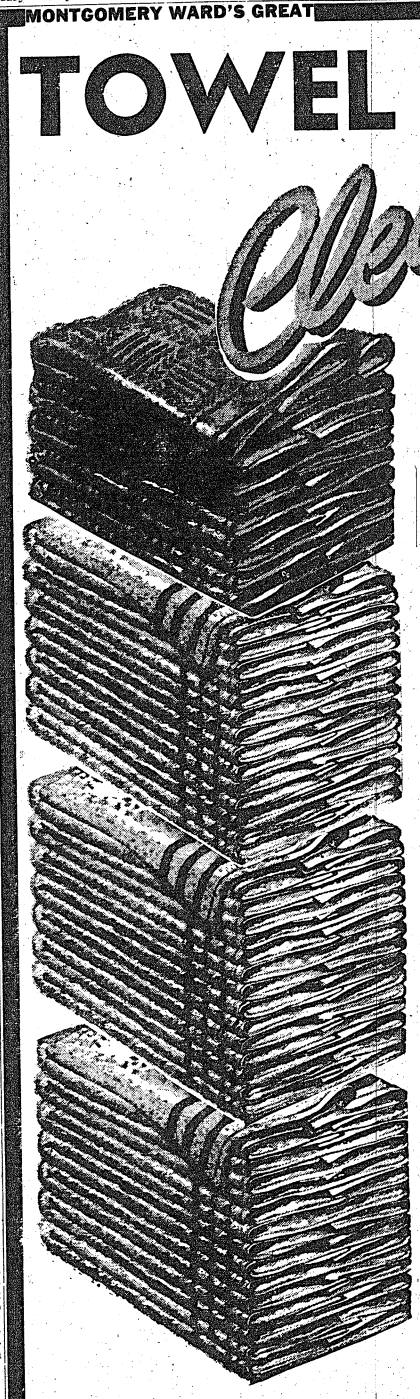
PROOFS FOR YOUR INSPECTION BEFORE YOU BUY

"Our Prices Within the Reach of All"

Open 1 P. M. Till 9:30 P. M.

Send Your Photograph To Your Loved Ones

AIM'E DUPONT



1219 Broadway—Columbus, Ga.

Branch of 60¢ Fifth Ave., N. Y. C. Tele. 3-1505 Established 1884

"OFFICER CANDIDATES"—We have MILITARY Blouses, GARRISON Caps, SAM BROWN Belts—here for you to be photographed in before your graduation.

MONTGOMERY WARD'S GREAT

TOWEL Clearance STARTS SATURDAY

These are irregulars — but for wear and assortment you'll be astonished. Large, colorful selection of most numbers.

17c and 19c TOWELS 7 for $1.00

This is a real value—white with colored border, large size. 15c ea. or

Fancy Border HAND TOWELS

The handy size that is so useful. 13c ea.

27c and 29c TOWELS

These are large size assorted colors—heavy, thirsty quality. 21c ea. or 5 for $1.00

39c BATH TOWELS

Extra heavy, 22x44, plain white, very absorbent quality. You'll like these. 3 for $1.00

GIVE...TO THE RED CROSS WAR FUND

MONTGOMERY WARD

CATALOG ORDER SERVICE brings you over 100,000 items!

USE WARDS PAYMENT PLAN to get the things you need today!

BROADWAY at 12th DIAL 7761

Abbreviations Are Frozen; No Rationing In Prospect

When a man enters the Army of the United States, he becomes an EM (enlisted man) in the Inf., Arty., OM., or perhaps the AAF, meaning of course the Infantry, Quartermaster, Army Artillery, Air Force—or he may be assigned to any one of a dozen other abbreviations.

He'll live in a Bks (barracks) and make an Almt (Allotment) to his wife or parents and if he's ordered to some other post "WP without delay to his new sta reporting on arrival to the CO for assgnmt to Cy." Which means he will proceed without delay to his new station, reporting on arrival to the Commanding Officer for assignment to duty.

In all paper work governing the life of Johnny Doughboy, in all orders for troop movements, or for any of the thousand and one things for which must be reduced to paper, scores and hundreds of abbreviations are used to speed the work. So important is this that there's an AR (Army Regulation) governing abbreviations. It's known as AR 850-150.

The EM may go to visit the Ch (chaplain) to discuss a Ch (character) reference. He may be assigned to dty. as a Cfr (chauffeur) or a Clk (clerk) or a Ck (Cook) or a BS, which is a blacksmith depending upon his skills or previous training in civilian life.

And he may be trained in the intricacies of a MR (Machine Rifle), learning the Man (manual) and he may become a MM, or marksman. Or he may become a Mec (mechanic) in a Mecz (mechanized) unit. Or he may become a Mtclt or motorcyclist or a Mus, (musician) Chances are, too, that he'll carry a Pk (pack) and sign the P-R (Payroll). He may become a PSD or pistol sharpshooter dismounted and march in a Plat (platoon) and of course he'll try to stay clear of the MP's, which as everybody knows, is the Military Police.

PLENTY MORE

There are plenty of other abbreviations, too, ranging from AWOL to Z of I, which is the shortened form for Zone of the Interior. Most soldiers never see or hear of them, but the EM and O (officers) who must take care of setting down on paper all the numerous messages and requests and orders, must know them.

For guidance of soldiers, here are a few more of them. Adj. is adjutant; AG. is Adjutant General; Ash. is airship; B. A. doesn't mean Bachelor of Arts, but is short for Branch Assignment and Brig. is abbreviation for brigade. Bul. is bulletin and BB doesn't mean the size of a lead shot, but Bureau of the Budget.

While most of the abbreviations are written with a capital letter, one authorized abbreviation is written "down," and that's cx for current series. A few others are ft for foot; fr. for from; in for inch; mm for millimeter; od for olive drab; sd for same date and incl for inclusive.

Here's one that's a stickler—Dig Ops JAG, which stands for Digest of Opinions, Judge Advocate General. Fin doesn't mean a five-dollar bill, but finance and GA isn't baby talk, but General Assignment. G stands for good and Gn for gun.

O is used for office, officer and also for order while OD is Officer of the Day and Oprs. is operator who performs an Apn., or operation.

And if the EM gets his Big Chance (no abbreviation in AR for that, by the way, but it could easily be BC,) he WP to Ft. Benning, Ga., for OCS, or Officer Candidate School. And when he graduates, he'll be a 2d. Lt., or Lieut., either being the correct abbreviation.

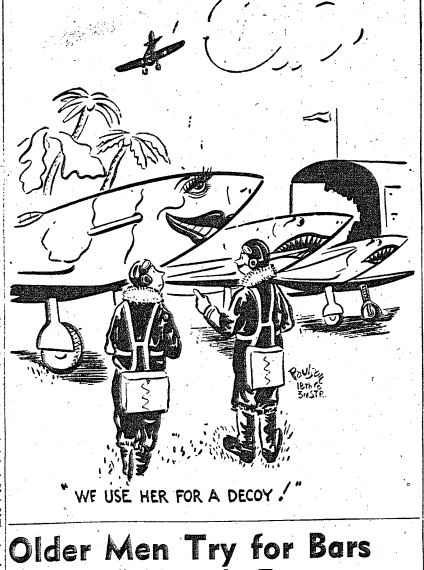
The list could be extended, of course, but that's enough to give an idea.

New QM Officers Given Depot Work

Newly-commissioned quartermaster officers in the United States Army are now getting first-hand experience in depot operations and warehousing before they are assigned to permanent installations overseas and in this country, according to Col. Stephen B. Massey, Fort Benning's director of supply.

Colonel Massey told yesterday of an officer replacement pool which has been set up at the vast quartermaster depot in Jersey City, N. J. Later on, officers will also be assigned to other large depots for advanced training. The men assigned are specially selected graduates of the officer training schools at Camp Lee, Va., and Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyoming.

The current program at the Jersey City Depot consists of a combination of lectures by military and civilian personnel, considerable use of pertinent training films, and most important of all—rotated tours of duty by training officers in each important actual stage of depot operations.



AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY

And Property Damage Rates Reduced

Plus our dividend saving, makes net cost exceptionally low. It will pay you to keep your insurance. We write all lines insurance at a saving to policy holders.

The Lawrence Murray Agency

112—12th Street Phone 2-3345

Older Men Try for Bars In Uncle Sam's Forces

Second lieutenants are commonly thought of as downy faced youths whose voices have scarcely finished changing, but many of the thousands of prospective second lieutenants undergoing rigorous training at the Infantry School at Fort Benning are middle-aged men with families. They are men who didn't have to go to war, but felt their country needed them and freely volunteered.

One example is Candidate David C. Farrand, son of Mrs. B. T. Farrand of Houghton, Mich., who has a wife and five children.

When the war started Farrand headed a well-known Michigan securities firm which had its own seat on the Detroit Stock Exchange. However as the war progressed, this 40 year old man who had spent a score of years roughing it in the North Woods felt he could be of more service to his family and the Nation as a member of the armed forces so he liquidated his business and last July marched off to Camp Roberts, Calif., for three months of basic training.

IN OBSTACLE COMPETE

After years of arduous hunting and fishing around Hudson Bay, the Laurentian Hills and the Great Lakes, Farrand found nothing difficult about basic training. As a matter of fact he was selected to represent his platoon in an Obstacle Course competition at Camp Roberts. Later he was granted permission to lead a group of eight trainees who wished to hike 43 miles to spend a Sunday afternoon at the seashore. The group travelled mountain trails, using a compass course, and completed the jaunt in 18 hours.

Farrand thinks of himself as a north woodsman rather than as a businessman. He was born in a logging camp. Although his residence is Detroit, he thinks of his real home as a Spacious log lodge which he constructed on the shores of Lake Superior in the northern part of Michigan, a hundred miles from the nearest town. Here he has trained his children to also be woodsmen. Shortly before entering the Army he permitted one of his boys, aged nine, to take a canoe and paddle off by himself to spend a night. Another boy, aged five, is permitted to take a dog team and go out to the nearest trail to pick up the family's mail in the dead of winter.

Candidate Farrand is graduate of St. Johns Military Academy, Delafield, Wis., no less than 600 of whose sons are now serving as officers in the Army of the United States or in the Navy. Later he attended the University of Wisconsin.

If Candidate Farrand successfully completes the tough Infantry course here he will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army of the United States, February 6, 1943.

Lawson Bombsight

By CPL. E. N. FUSILLO

Sgt. Arthur Snyder of the Medical Detachment, Corp. Edward Stalder and Pvt. Alfred Michel of the 7th Observation Squadron, leave for school this week.

Sergeant Snyder will attend OCS at Camp Barkeley, Tex.

He was formerly stationed at Camp Lee, Va. At Lawson he managed the detachment's correspondence.

In civilian life, he was an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in Indiana, his home state. He also attended the Indiana State College.

Corp. Stalder will attend OCS at Fort Riley, Kan., and upon completion be sent to Brooks Field, Tex., for training as aerial observer.

A former member of the 42nd Balloon Squadron, he was assigned to the 7th Observation Squadron and received his A & M rating with this squadron.

Corp. Stalder is a graduate of the New York Prep School in New York and studied law at the University of Baltimore, Maryland. His home is in Elmhurst, N. Y.

Pvt. Michel, radio operator, also of the 7th Observation Squadron, will stop at the Aviation Cadet Reception Center at Nashville, Tenn., to be processed for Flying Cadet School.

He received his basic training here, and thereafter assigned to the 7th. He attended New York University and specialized in labor relations. His home is in Brooklyn, New York.

The field personnel got their first glimpse of the action in Africa when they attended a showing of "Yanks Invade Africa" at the Recreation Hall Tuesday. The picture, produced by Castle Films, showed American soldiers on convoy ship arriving in the harbor at Oran; then going ashore in landing parties A concerted drive of tank and infantry got under way, with the Air Force bombing enemy supply and ammunition dumps.

The second half of the picture titled "Victory over Rommel" had all guns going strong. With the drive moving speedily led by mechanized divisions in front, the picture showed destruction of enemy equipment and numerous prisoners captured.

These pictures were shown as part of an orientation program under the direction of the War Department.

When a soldier goes through a reception center at a camp, he is given no less than 79 articles of clothing and equipment. At retail prices, his equipment is valued at $150. This issue after recruit training is supplemented and varies according to the type of organization to which the soldier is assigned

Army Affords Educational Opportunities

Soldiers May Finish Secondary School, College Education

A chance to complete high school or university education or to brush up on subjects that may help men advance in the Army is offered by the Army Institute, it was announced today by the Special Services Office at Fort Benning.

Catalogues and booklets describing the Army Institute and how it functions have been received and are now available through Special Service officers and librarians through the post. Men desiring more information may also write direct to the Army Institute at Madison, Wis.

The Army Institute is set up by the Special Service Division of the Services of Supply and offers 64 different courses ranging through English, social studies, mathematics, sciences, business courses, mechanical, electrical and civil and architectural engineering.

Besides these courses which may be studied by service men, 76 universities or colleges have combined to offer scores of courses to men who have been forced to stop their education. Also, in addition, men who want to complete high school courses may study a wide variety of subjects.

Costs depend upon which of the two plans selected. Those of the Army Institute are $2 each, which is paid when the soldier enrolls. If a correspondence course is desired under the university or college extension plan, the Government will pay half the text and tuition fee up to $20.

Courses may be studied during leisure time. Men who are sent overseas may continue lessons there also. Those already in overseas service may enroll through librarians, special service officers or Red Cross field directors.

An official certificate of proficiency is awarded to students upon satisfactory completion of the courses offered by the Army Institute. Certificates of completion for courses under the university and college extension divisions are awarded according to rules and regulations of the individual institutions concerned. The various universities or colleges will send application blanks and notify regarding cost of enrolling in the various courses.

Capt. Smith Named Accident Prevention Officer

Capt. Milton T. Smith, assigned to the Post Engineer's office, has been designated Accident Prevention Officer of the Post by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general. In his position, Capt. Smith will contact and supervise the safety precaution measures in organizations on the post.

The accident prevention officer is charged with recommending safety measures be taken on all forms of construction on the post, carried on by civilian or military personnel. Capt. Smith will have other working with him.

Veteran Sarge Commissioned

Appointed as a first lieutenant is veteran First Sgt. John J. Drew of the Anti-Tank company of the 29th regiment, it is announced today.

He joined the army in Denver, Colorado, back in 1919, and has served with Remount Squadron No. 3 at Camp Pike, Ark.; the 36th Infantry at Camp Pike and also at Camp Lewis, Wash.; and Ft. Douglas, Utah; and also with the 34th Infantry at Fort Eustis, Va.

He came to the 29th Infantry as motor transport sergeant bringing to Fort Benning the first motorized units to work with the Infantry school, at a time when only one battalion was motorized, the rest being horse drawn.

He served with the Service Company until October 1940, when he was transferred to Anti-Tank company as 1st sergeant.

He has been active in athletics, playing post baseball and basketball at Fort Eustis and post basketball and battalion baseball while with the 29th. He also was for two years on the post bowling team and holds awards for his work on that team. He has qualified as an expert pistol and rifleman each year since 1924.

LT. COL. DICKERSON TRANSFERRED

Lt. Col. R. W. Dickerson, former executive officer of the 505th, has been transferred to the Parachute School's Replacement Pool.

Phil Wrigley, Chicago Cubs' owner, is now taking an Army orientation course at Ft. Sill, Okla.

Lt. Shine Joins Benning Chaplains

A new chaplain was added to the group of chaplains on duty with Fort Benning men Friday when Lt. Walter H. Shine, former Methodist minister in West Texas, reported to Lt. Col. Frank Thompson, post chaplain.

Lt. Shine, who reported to Fort Benning straight from Harvard University where he just completed a course at the Army Chaplains School, was assigned to duty in the cantonment area of the Station Hospital on the main post.

Lt. Shine's home address at present is 946 Kayton avenue in San Antonio, Tex. Before moving to San Antonio, Lt. Shine was pastor of Big Lake, Tex., seventy miles west of San Angelo, in the Texas oil fields.

Enlisted men and warrant officers serving overseas get 20 per cent increase of base pay, or $60 a month for privates, and other enlisted men and warrant officers according to grade. Commissioned officers receive 10 per cent of base pay for overseas duty, and special allowance for flying and parachutist duty.

Make Your Beauty A Memory for Future Morale Lifting By Visiting

JEAN'S BEAUTY SHOPPE

Dial 2-2752 1212½ Broad

New Location—Upstairs

KIRVEN'S

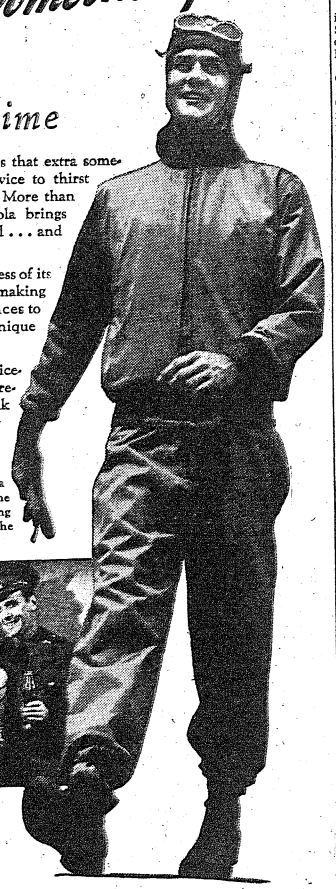
New Delivery Schedule

Helps Uncle Sam 'Dish It Out'

Watch out Axis . . . Uncle Sam's a-cooking! He's mixing steel, rubber and fuel into one hard-to-digest, tough morsel . . . and we, the American people, have our fingers right in his cooking pot . . . 'cause we're on the all-out with undigestive fodder for you.

That's why Kirven's is curtailing its deliveries. We want to give Uncle Sam and our armed forces the necessary fuel . . . then our cooking job will be completed all the sooner. So carry your small packages . . . and we'll have sufficient fuel to deliver your large, hard-to-carry ones . . . then Uncle Sam will really be "cooking with gas."

AREA	Days of DELIVERY	DELIVERY LEAVES STORE
Ft. Benning	Mon., Wed., Fri.	10:30 A.M.
Phenix City	Mon., Wed., Fri.	3:00 P.M.
Wynnton Area, including Weracoba St. Elmo, E. Wynnton, Country Club Section	Tues., Thurs., Sat.	3:00 P.M.
City Area, including Rose Hill E. Highland, N. Highland	Tues., Thurs., Sat.	10:30 A.M.



Please, Carry Your Small Packages...We'll Deliver the large Ones

J.A. KIRVEN CO.

YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

TO DO a special kind of service takes that extra something. Coca-Cola does a special service to thirst because it has that extra something, too. More than just quenching thirst, ice-cold Coca-Cola brings energy-giving refreshment that you feel . . . and enjoy.

And Coca-Cola brings you the deliciousness of its clean, exciting taste. A finished art in its making blends special, wholesome flavor-essences to merge all the other ingredients into a unique taste all its own. No one can duplicate it.

To think of refreshment is to think of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Its quality, taste and refreshing goodness set this original drink apart from all others.

* * *

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing . . . the real thing . . . "a single thing coming from a single source, and well known to the community".

While you're exchanging pictures, why not exchange your thirst for an ice-cold Coca-Cola. You'll go for the sparkling goodness of its delicious taste and you'll welcome its after-sense of refreshment.

Coca-Cola TRADE-MARK 5¢

The best is always the better buy!

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

FT. BENNING BAYONET

FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1943.

Edited By Public Relations Staff

The Benning Bayonet published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

Benning Soldiers Prefer Milk to Hard Liquor

Fort Benning's thousands of troops are no pantywaists!

But, as the Office of War Information reveals after a conclusive nation-wide survey of drinking conditions in and around Army posts, soldiers spend far more money for malted milks, coffee, and soft drinks than for liquor. And so it is at Fort Benning.

Undue alarm was caused a few months ago by groups in the country voicing the opinion that far too much drinking was carried on in and near Army posts; that such habits interrupted efficient training of soldiers. To find out the real truth of the matter, Elmer Davis, astute director of the OWI, and formerly a renowned radio commentator, named some investigators to tour the Army's camps and stations and bring to light the real facts of the case.

The OWI report was made public last week, after the investigators had visited Fort Benning and scores of other camps. What did the OWI find at the camps? Just this: that America's soldier of World War II knows for what he is training. He knows what he is up against in modern war. He knows that liquor and training don't mix. But, a glass of beer once in a while never hurt anyone. Hence, the OWI concludes that the sale of 3.2 beer on posts provides the soldiers "with a mild relaxation without impairing their efficiency."

As the OWI report sounds the death knell for those elements which sought to mend the social ways of the soldiers, so do the spirit and prowess of America's armies on the far-flung fronts of the world today pay a tribute to the high morale of the troops, a situation that was once the target of much public consternation when our New Army was in the making.

Uncle Sam's Best Bet In Shorts Or In Khaki

We went to the movies Sunday to see Errol Flynn mow down the Nazis in the epic film "Desperate Journey." The object of this piece, however, is not a movie review. Its purpose is to record unofficially that America's youth is fully aware of what is going on in this troubled world of ours and that the flame of patriotism is burning ardently in the hearts of our youngsters.

As usual the movie house was crowded with soldiers, civilians, and young children. As a result we were forced to accept any seat the ushers could find us; this time it was way down front, the favorite haunt of our kids because it places them as near to their heroes and the scenes of their exploits as possible.

Next to us was a youngster. He couldn't have been more than nine, and as the action progressed, he squirmed about on his seat. We must admit that we were getting a bit annoyed; such a little kid in such a wide seat, but that seat just wasn't large enough for him. Repeatedly he kicked us in the right ankle; once in a while he smeared our pinks with dust smudges from his shoe. We were in the process of giving him a dirty look when his emotions overcame him. He was bursting to give vent to his thoughts.

"You're a lieutenant, aren't you?" he chortled.

"Sure am," we answered. Even in the dim-out of the movie his face lit up, abetted by the beam from the projector and the reflection from the screen.

"My brother is in the air corps," the childish voice volunteered. "I'm going to be in the air corps too when I grow up."

He was silent for a moment, then as the heroic RAF turned the machine gun of a captured bomber on the advancing Nazis, he let loose again.

"Gee, isn't that wonderful!!! Boy, I wish I could get my hands on a machine gun like that. Wouldn't I make those Japs hit the ground!"

Then he leaned forward on his seat in his excitement. He could say no more as he watched his heroes battle their way to freedom. But he had said enough, enough to indicate that America will remain free as long as her children are what they are.

This is but a sample of the patriotism of American children. Not so long ago the Commanding General of Fort Benning received a letter penciled in a childish hand requesting that information be sent regarding the manner in which an army is trained. The writer was but 13 years old and represented a group of boys his own age. They are too young to fight now, but that doesn't prevent their desiring to get ready for whatever the future may hold in store for them.

In conclusion we would like to quote two letters, one from 11-year-old Everett Kagan of Providence, R. I., to the commanding general of the AAF, the other, the reply from Lt. Gen. H. H. Arnold. Wrote Everett to the General:

"When I grow up I want to be a pilot in the Army Air Forces. I am now 11 years old and I want to be a pilot for six months already. The children in my school laugh at me when I tell them I want to be a pilot because I wear glasses."

The reply he received read:

"Dear Everett:

"I have received your letter of November 24th and appreciate very much your early interest in the Army Air Forces.

"Since you are only eleven, it will be some time before you will be old enough to fly for the Air Forces, but I feel sure that some day you will be a fine pilot and a credit to your parents and your country. You can tell your friends at school that they should not laugh at your ambition because you must wear glasses. Many great men in all walks of life have achieved success by overcoming physical handicaps, and I know that with courage and determination you will reach your goal.

"Let me thank you again for your very kind letter. It makes me proud to know that young men like yourself are so anxious to serve our Nation at war. This is the American spirit, and it is one of which you may also well be proud.

Very sincerely,

H. H. Arnold,
Lieutenant General,
U. S. Army,
Commanding General,
Army Air Forces."

Johnny Doughboy—Man Of The Year

World-wide polls have been taken to name a "Man of the Year"

We think no nation-wide poll need be taken to determine Uncle Sam's "Man" this past year.

He's not one man but HE totals in the millions. We nominate the rugged Soldiers in North Africa and New Guinea, the hearty Sailors of the Navy sailing the Seven Seas, and the tough Leathernecks of Guadalcanal for the title . . . and those of us still in training camps in the States who will one day take to the field of battle.

It wasn't so many years ago—just a matter of months—when Americans spoke of our embryonic armed services in muted observations. There was talk about "morale" and "equipment" and about the size of our services. All in all, the subjects were not encouraging.

But today it's a different story. With adjectives flowing as freely as from a Hollywood publicity man's pen, our armed services are being lavished with praise for their accomplishments. But, without those adjectives and news stories, America's fighting men stand the acid test: they've been thrown into battle and they've proved their mettle.

Early Regimental Paper Recalls First O. C. Classes

Out of an old mildewed cardboard carton comes a time stained copy of the first newspaper printed by a student training regiment. Its forgotten being, still legible, bore the title of "The First Student Training Regiment Embryo."

Although the relatively dim distant date of October 29, 1941, is carried on its mast head, yet its precious cargo of news remains undamaged. Its philosophy, its humor, its gossip, all blend to mirror the fighting spirit of the then "embryo" officer candidates. These men of the early classes left behind them a heritage. A heritage steeped in tradition. Steeped in traditions as hallowed as the song which new classes pluck from nowhere and which, for the first time, is to be found printed in the pages of this early issue:

High above the Chattahoochee
In the Georgia Hills
Stands our GI seat of knowledge
Congress foots the bills.

When they make us "Second Looies"
As they'll surely do
We'll attribute our success to
Dear old Upatoi U.

High above the Chattahoochee
Near the Upatoi
Proudly stands our Alma Mater
Benning School for Boys.

Follow me with a map and clipboard
Assignment number ten
Turn it in in 20 minutes
Hail all Hail Fort Ben.

If you have an hour to spare next year, don't spend it with someone who hasn't.

The real isolationists are those who think they can live for themselves.

We can give the other man his due while we give up the dubious.

"One man's meat is another man's poison." At least it's likely to taste pretty bitter this year if you eat the other man's meat.

"I've been teaching children to live ON other people," admitted a teacher, "instead of how to live WITH other people."

The present will be the past of your future. Will you be proud of your "past" on January 1, 1944?

There's no shortage which cannot be met with abundance—an abundance of unselfishness.

With eggs and butter scarce today,
The Government won't have to spank you,
If you yourself should choose to say:
"I'm not having any, thank you"

USO Presents—

A CHANCE AT CHECKERS—BUT IT'S ONLY A "CHANCE"

By CPL. SOLOMON S. KLEINDORF

Do you think you are very good at checkers or chess . . . Well, I'll bet you can't beat Officer Candidate Milton Lowe . . . If you think you can, be down at the USO club on Ninth street and try your luck on him this coming week-end . . . But before you make a fool of yourself, let me tell you a few things about O. C. Lowe. He is the World's Junior Checker champ. He has toured the country with the senior champ, Jack Ryan. There have been times when Lowe took on as many as 36 checker players and 11 chess players at one time . . . And, believe it or not, he beat them all. Lowe will be at the club and will take on all comers, all at the same time.

Here is a flash from the same club . . . The 11th of this month will be Cabaret Night and will feature the 117th Infantry dance band.

* * *

The big day at the Salvation Army USO in Phenix City this week will be Sunday. On this day the Vesper Services will be held and a special concert will be tied up with it Fort Benning talent in the form of the Reception Center Chorus will be used for both parts of the program . . . The concert will start at four in the afternoon and will last for one hour. . . . Following right on its heels will be the Vesper services and will feature the spirituals of the chorus.

* * *

At the other SA Club in Columbus, movies will now be shown on Friday evenings . . . So be there if you want to see a free show . . . The Station Hospital will once again be on hand for an evening of entertainment at this club this coming Saturday evening . . . But the big event of the week and one that makes us very sad indeed, is the departure of Adjutant and Mrs. Evans . . . They leave for the wilds of North Carolina to take over a mobile unit which will tour the Coast Guard units throughout North Carolina. This club has seen many changes for the better under the direction of the Evans, and the loss is felt very heavily.

* * *

One of the services performed by the Salvation Army was demonstrated to me last week when an Army Chaplain walked into the club and told a story to Miss Talbot and asked her help. . . There happened to be a cripple who was found to be wearing an Army coat and the M. P.s wanted to confiscate the coat but not before telling the chaplain so that he could help the man get a new one. The Chaplain then turned the case over to the Salvation Army and before the garment was lifted from the cripple's back, there was another to take its place and this time it was not G. I.

Chaplain's Corner

FINDING ONE'S WAY

Chaplain Frank M. Thompson

The moral of an old African chief, "When you pass through the jungle be very careful to break a twig, so that those coming after you may be able to find their way out."

There is something very fine about that exhortation coming from an old heathen. We do not travel far in life before we become aware that finding one's way is no slight task. Sickness comes, conditions change, situations arise, that leave us all bewildered. And sometimes a stonewall looms up before us seemingly immovable, unsurmountable. Others may have had like experiences, but they are of no benefit. They left no markings to guide us.

That is one of the hard privileges of living. Every one must solve his own problems, fight his own battles, suffer his own defeats, win his own victories, find his own way.

It would be good for most of us if that were not true. It would save us much blundering and heartache. There should be a well defined course of action suitable for all occasions, circumstances; a highway one could move along without fear or hesitation.

Well, there is. It does not guarantee to do away with all questionings, all alarms. It is very likely the going will be about as difficult as ever. But you will get somewhere and that after all is the supreme thing. The ship goes out of its course, is buffeted by storms, but if it finally reaches the harbor, all is well.

Yes, there was One who as He journeyed forward through life broke a twig here and there so that others could follow safely on.

I am the way, the truth and
The life . . . he that followeth
Me shall not walk in darkness,
But shall have the light of life.

Day-Room Duds

Sgt. Harry R. Chard

"This is a skin game," lisped the Looey, as the Chorine roped him for a fur coat.

Sarge: "This is a bolo."
Rookie: "I don't care for the game."
Sarge: "Don't care for what game?"
Rookie: "Polo."

Bill 132-1-2 recently passed by the senate authorizes bald-headed soldiers to submit applications to the A. G. O. requesting that the hair on their chest be transferred to their head.

Sergeant: "I thought I told you goofs to throw your butts in these cuspidors."
Wise guy: "You did, but it's a physical impossibility, Sarge, old pal."

ODE TO ECONOMY

Please don't cut our pay again
To give to the C. C. C.
It's these little acts of kindness
That play hell with you and me.

"I've got the floor," drawled the drunk, as he done a Steve Brody over his foot locker.

THE AIMING POINT

Two soldiers were courting sisters up in the hill country, when things began to progress entirely too fast. The old man, realizing that unless he did something his daughters would be disgraced, decided to have a double wedding. But when the date rolled around for the wedding the joke was on him. His shot-gun was the single barrel type.

Sgt. major: "This room is lousy with rats."
Wifey (in adjoining room): "Yeah, they can smell a big hunk of cheese."

Brigade commander (in field): "I ask for argus red and you gave me argus blue."

Switchboard operator: "I'm sorry, sir, you see I'm a little color blind."

Pvt. Nit: "Jones has lumbago and can't bend over."
Pvt. Wit: "Too bad; how does he get his smoking now?"

Private Pickens states: "He was guzzling 3.2 beer new year's eve waiting for the old year to pass out. But the joke was on him . . . he passed out first.

"Take a deep breath," the army nurse corps lieutenant gurgled, "It's only ether."

Here lies the body
Of Private McGann
He remarked to the colonel,
"So's your old man!"

There's one thing worse than an old soldier — and that's an old soldier out with a young girl.

Today we buried Private Goof
We hated to see him go
He used to park his cigar butts
On the company's new radio.

"This slays me!" remarked the dogface as he walked in front of the machine gun.

Here lies the body of Bugler McGee
He tooted his horn
Before Reveille.

FAMOUS FAREWELLS

Come around pay-day and I'll fix you up.
Give me the five bucks, soldier—I'll be back
With the bottle in a minute.
Go ahead and sock him — he's a little guy.
That's not a danger signal—it's just a tail light.

INFORMATION

General delivery was inspecting the mess hall of Company Q. Suddenly he turned to the mess sergeant.

"Sergeant, why isn't the floor as white as the tables?"

"Sir," the belly robber began, fixing his eye on the eagle's beak on the general's cap ornament, "in the first place, the tables are washed three times a day, while the floor is only washed once. In the second place the men don't walk on the tables with their feet."

Fourflusher 'Patriotism'

It would seem that there are "Fourflusher Patriots" abroad in the land today.

They're the type who with a tremendous flourish, loaned our Uncle Sam the price of a War Bond. They made lot of whoopla over it. They told all their friends about it. To hear them talk, they suffered privations of the damned, in order to help back up us guys in the Army. Nothing was too much to do to help—they said. Everybody had to do his or her bit—they said. Always with the implication, of course, that they in particular were doing more than their own bit.

And then, after 60 days, this type of windy patriot, calmly asks for his money back.

He was perfectly willing to back up the war effort—for 60 days or so anyway.

Eve Says—

THOSE POINTS AT ISSUE. MAY SHRINK OUR SHRIMPS

In a few short weeks the age old expression of all housekeepers will be changed from "what on earth shall I buy for dinner?" to "how many points can I use to feed my family?" The women of our country are going to become mathematical whether we want to or not. Those gals who have kept careful budgets and strict accounts of every penny spent are going to be in their element.

Of course we'll be exasperated with their efficiency, but on the whole the most of us will accept the new rules regarding food purchases with good grace and compliance to regulations. A lot of us are going to learn economy and respect for the simple things of our daily living.

If the truth were known, a great many of us could think of a lot of things we would like rationed out of existence. Suppose for instance the yrationed finger nail polish. We no longer would have to spend hours getting the polish on smoothly. No longer would we have to wait and wave our hands in the air for the polish to dry. That silly performance of trying to get in the car with our hands outstretched would cease to earn the scorn of our husbands. No longer stormy expletives of frustration when we chipped the polish. Instead we would have clean buffed nails and in all probability be as appealing to our men folks. They never did like the red enamel.

I could also do without the inevitable three shrimps nestled in a limp scrap of lettuce and blobbed with the chili sauce that accompanies every dinner served at the Officers' Club. Rationing of this prelude to dinner might be missed but I don't think so. When food becomes inevitable the one purpose of all good eating is defeated, the element of surprise.

My life would also be happier if it were possible to ration the interference on our radios. I'm a great believer in electrical appliances and would be the last person on earth to deny my neighbors the privilege of full joy and usage of their sewing machines, mixers and electric razors. It would be nice indeed if I could enjoy the news broadcast and the next door neighbor use his razor at the same time. The Tower of Babel effect of three stations trying to be heard on the same wave length might be rationed too. Radio programs could then become a pleasant entertainment.

One could also do with a rationing of the impulse that makes most of our women at Fort Benning take on more duties than they can handle and still retain their most important function, that of being good and calm mothers and wives. Duties there are for everyone, but they should be assumed in proportion to demands of the home. Utopia would have been achieved then and utter perfection of a community sharing of responsibilities would be too wonderful to bear.

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

By S-SGT. TOM McDONALD

Naturally every pay day something unusual occurs at Company "B." Besides getting paid some of the men always manage to get into an argument. If it isn't over money, it's over women, sometime it's over both, but this week the most outstanding argument concerned a woman.

Two of our more prominent yardbirds had the misfortune to pull a weekend K. P. and while so engaged were roundly bawled out by the mess sergeant for letting loose hair fall in the wrong places. This caused so much confusion that for the rest of the day the chief topic of conversation was hair. After all current reflections on the subject were exhausted the conversation drifted back to women and since our two yardbirds had "hair" on the brain, the first woman they thought of was Veronica Lake.

Yardbird Cooke maintained that her hair was an asset since she wasn't required to pull any K. P. But Yardbird Minzinger opposed this theory. It was his idea that since Veronica had so much hair it was a liability since its abundance obstructed the view.

After arguing for six hours with their voices at full pitch, Yardbird Cooke developed a strained tonsil and had to discontinue, although neither contestant had gained any particular mental advantage.

The noise of this discussion has left the Company in such a doubtful state of mind that Tech. Sgt. Thomas has suggested that Veronica's charming countenance be displayed so that other yardbirds may have a means of verifying any hasty opinions and at the same time be reminded that hair looks better elsewhere than in food. The mess sergeant pledges his wholehearted cooperation.

POETRY

BUSINESS WITH HITLER

BY MONROE MOSES

You can't do business with Hitler,
The antithesis of sanctity, trust and honor,
Upon which rests the dignity of man,
Without which our moral structure cannot stand;
You can't do business with Hitler.

You can't do business with Hitler,
Nor be lulled by his peace feelers,
For out of his mind comes insidious designs,
Ill-omens of nations on the Rhine;
You can't do business with Hitler.

You can't do business with Hitler,
The modern pagan believer,
Whose God is Thor,
Whom we much abhor;

You can't do business with Hitler.
You can't do business with Hitler,
Nor with his satellites, the bootlickers,
For, like birds of a feather,
They always flop together;
You can't do business with Hitler.

You can't do business with Hitler,
An artful treaty defiler,
Who, like a thief in the night,
Strikes with his might;
You can't do business with Hitler.

You can't do business with Hitler,
The Blitzkrieg genius and conqueror,
Whose mind is arrested by an avaricious urge,
Which impells him on to many a purge;
You can't do business with Hitler.

You can't do business with Hitler,
And believe in the Divine Inspirer,
The two are at odd and mutually exclusive,
One in Infinite and the other elusive;
Let's not do business with Hitler

YOUR JOB

By Pvt. Harry Orne
71st. Engineers Co. (LP) Lawson Field

Wherever you're working, in office or shop
And however far you may be from the top
Though you think that you are just treading the mill,
Don't ever be little the job that you fill.

For, however little your job may appear,
You're just as important as some little gear
That meshes with others in some big machine,
And helps keep it going, though never is seen.

They could do without you we'll have to admit,
But business goes on when the big fellows quit;
And always remember, my lad, if you can—
The job's more important (oh yes) than the man.

Your job is important, don't think that it's not,
So try hard to give it the best that you've got
And don't think that you are of little account—
Remember you're part of the total amount.

If they didn't need you, you wouldn't be there.
So, always my lad, keep your chin in the air.
A digger of ditches, mechanic, or clerk,
Think well of your company, yourself and your work.

Section 601.2 of the second edition of the Selective Service Regulations defines the term "alien" to mean any person who is not a national of the U. S. A. "national of the U. S." is defined as a person: (1) Who is a citizen of the U. S. (2) Who, though not a citizen of the U. S., owes permanent allegiance to the U. S. The term "enemy alien" is defined to mean a citizen or subject of any country which has been or may hereafter be proclaimed by the President to be an enemy of the U. S.

AER Is Doughboys' 'Millionaire' Friend

Benning Unit In Operation Helps Many

Every American soldier has a "millionaire friend," although many of them are not as yet aware of that fact.

The "millionaire friend" is in reality a number of friends called Army Emergency Relief, an organization which is actually trying to get across to soldiers exactly how they can be assisted—quickly and quietly—when they run into financial difficulties.

Army Emergency Relief was established last February when a group of War Department officers met to form an organization whereby the Army can look after its own members and their dependents.

The current issue of "Army Life," a service magazine has an informative story on the establishment and function of Army Emergency Relief, which has a branch at Fort Benning's post headquarters headed by Lt. John J. A. Lyons, Jr., assistant adjutant.

According to "Army Life," Army Emergency Relief wants every man in the Army and all of his dependents to know that it exists and exactly how it can benefit them.

"This organization helps the personnel of the Army of the United States, regardless of grade or length of service. Its aid is available in many ways. Where the emergency is serious and cash is required, an outright money gift is given without any strings or obligations. In cases where the family of a soldier expects money later but requires a loan until it comes, AER will advance the cash and payment may be made in installments without interest.

RELIEF IN KIND

"Another kind of assistance is called Relief in Kind, which includes food, fuel, clothing, medical and dental care and hospitalization. In addition to financial aid, AER assists the dependents of soldiers in securing positions, advises them of their privileges under the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Act of 1942, helps them in applying for family allowances and allotments of pay and aids the family, when necessary, in securing pensions, compensations and insurance. In short, AER serves as a source of information, advice and aid relative to anything that concerns a soldier's family."

The article declares that each case is promptly investigated, that there's no red tape and no one gets the run-around.

"AER advises soldiers dependents concerning their legal rights in matters pertaining to rents, leases, installment payments, life insurance, premiums and income tax.

"Special situations which require long-term assistance, are turned over to qualified governmental, public or sectarian welfare agencies."

The cases, however, must be worthy because money will not be advanced to soldiers on furlough who are "broke" or who find themselves far from camp with no funds, according to "Army Life."

Also "money will be provided a soldier's family for operations or dental work only upon presentation of a doctor's or dentist's certificate testifying to the emergency.

"Do not expect AER to assist your dependents if you do not do it yourself through making an allotment of pay to enable your folks to obtain the governmental allowance provided in the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act."

AER is not classed as a charity as the money used was in a large measure raised by the soldiers themselves through entertainments in camps and by public Army shows such as the Irving Berlin musical "This Is the Army" which expects to make $5,000,000 for AER before the show closes.

Here at Fort Benning, Lt. Lyons reported that approximately $1,400 was made available to needy Fort Benning soldiers and their families during the month of November.

10 MAC Men Assigned Here

All Are Grads Of Carlisle School

Brigadier-General Addison D. Davis, commandant of the Medical Field Service School at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., and Assistant Surgeon General of the United States Army, announces that second lieutenants of the Medical Administrative Corps, who were graduated from the Medical Field Service School, December 23, have been assigned to Fort Benning.

They are Second Lieutenants Robert A. Barnes of Munch, Pa.; Edward W. Bernatowicz, West Millbury, Mass.; Robert J. Cassidy, Cresson, Pa.; John J. Ciskowski, Pittsfield, Mass.; Harry R. McCullough, Jr., New Castle, Pa.; Paul T. Mears, Chadbourn, N. C.; Robert D. Nerino, Dorchester, Mass.; George L. Runyon, Philadelphia, Pa.; Leon T. Taylor, Hazard, Ky.; William P. Vandiver, Birmingham, Ala.

The Officer Candidate School at Carlisle Barracks trains selected enlisted men of the Medical Department of the Army in administrative duties pertaining to field service in time of war. Those successfully completing the course receive not only the School's diploma but their commissions at the same time.

Metal Shortage Causing Promoted Officers Headache

Promotions frequently cause headaches to officers at Fort Benning these days.

A second lieutenant becoming a first, a major becoming a lieutenant colonel, or a colonel becoming a brigadier general may certainly expect to do some extensive scouting around for new insignia of his advanced grade.

Reports coming in from army posts throughout the nation, as well as from Fort Benning's Main Exchange, indicate a national shortage in metallic insignia. On more than one occasion at the post, officers have been observed bargaining with their newly-advanced brethren to buy their outlived insignia.

C. E. Shean, manager of the Main Exchange, indicated today that metallic insignia are "awfully hard to get." He pointed out that there is an acute shortage of skilled labor to turn out the quantities of the insignia which are demanded by an ever-expanding army.

SOS Procurement Shows Increase In November

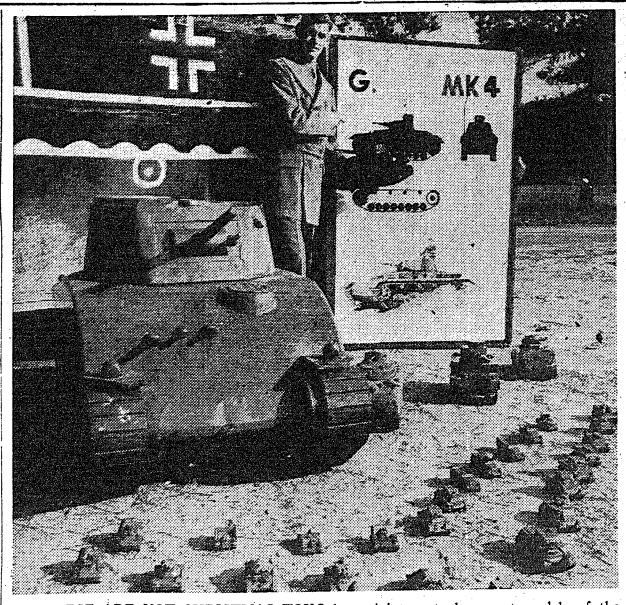
Col. Stephen B. Massey, director of supply at Fort Benning, announced yesterday that procurement within the Services of Supply for the entire Army showed an increase of 13.5 per cent during November, measured in dollar volume of deliveries over the previous month.

The increase was not confined to any particular service, but was spread across all of them. They ranged from a 4.1 gain for the Chemical Warfare Service to 93 per cent in the newly-formed Transportation Corps. The Quartermaster Corps, largest single purchaser, showed an increase in deliveries of 17.4 per cent.

It was pointed out by Colonel Massey that this increase was achieved despite growing difficulties in the supply of raw materials, and charging equipment requirements, necessitated by a constantly shifting situation in the actual theaters of operation. Throughout the period of preparation for the North African campaign, new weapons were being developed, and regulation equipment adapted to the specific purposes for which it was to be used.

The sharp gain in November deliveries followed a gain of only 3.1 per cent in October over September figures, and a 1.2 per cent increase in September over August. Matched against figures for January, the first full month of production after Pearl Harbor, November deliveries to various arms of the Services of Supply show an increase of 337 per cent in total dollar volume.

Lieut. Sidwell Named Captain



The promotion of Wheeler Sidwell, assistant provost marshal at Fort Benning to captain was announced this week. Captain Sidwell was assigned to the provost marshal's office last summer and in November completed the military police school at Fort Oglethorpe.

Formerly a chief warrant officer in the 2nd Armored Division he has been in the army 26 years. He was one of the original cadre organizing the 2nd Armored.

★★★★
HOLLYWOOD'S NEWEST BAND SENSATION

BEL PRESENTS
JOHNNY "SCAT" DAVIS
AND HIS ORCHESTRA
PLAYING FOR A DANCE
SAT., JAN. 9TH
9 'til 1
Idle Hour Park
BALLROOM
Advance Ticket Sale at Arcade Drug Store
1116 Broadway

THESE ARE NOT CHRISTMAS TOYS but miniature tanks, exact models of the real thing, used at Fort Benning's Infantry School for instructional purposes. (Infantry School photo.)

Chaplain Reddick Serving Second World War Hitch

1st STR 'Sky Pilot' Carried Rifle With 1917 AEF

Early in the warm season of 1917 a scrawny bantom-weight stepped up to the non-com in charge of a Southern Illinois recruiting office and stated in no uncertain terms that he was there to help lick the Kaiser.

Thus began the career of one of the First Student Training Regiments best liked Chaplains. No longer the boy that he was that sultry day in May of '17, but still treasuring a boy's outlook on army life, Chaplain Glenn Scott Reddick likes to reminisce over the memories of another A. E. F.

From Fort Adams in Rhode Island his World War I outfit, Battery "K" of the 7th Regiment, shoved off for unknown European shores. After a hectic mid-summer Atlantic crossing the empty stomached 7th arrived at Liverpool, England, and, giving thanks to the good Lord, again set foot on solid ground. Not for long however, as at that time the Kaiser was still a triple threat man in the Paris league, so off again to sea went the "fightin' 7th."

After three days of hectic struggle between the English Channel and the innerlining of Private Reddick's stomach, the convoy finally unloaded it's Yanks at LeHavre, there to recouperate their equalibrium. During the following months the 7th Regiment underwent the chilling hardships of a coastal winter and the exhausting grind of an endless training schedule.

In April of the following spring, Private Reddick and his outfit were moved towards the front. Between May 1 and Nov. 11 of that year the 7th Regiment served in 15 engagements. Many of his companions were killed or amongst the missing. Many maimed for life. Suffering was a daily task and young Reddick found consolation and strength between the covers of his much worn pocket Bible. When peace finally settled upon the war weary world and a discharge was forthcoming in March of 1919, the now much wiser young man turned toward God and the Ministry.

It was not until September 28th, 1942 when Soldier Reddick again donned the uniform of his country. As in 1917 he came from the little town of West Frankfort in southern Illinois and, as in 1917, he came with a fighting spirit.

Hollywood Script Writer Is Guest of TIS Unit

James Griffin Jay, a Hollywood script writer who was contracted by the Army Signal Corps to write dialogue to accompany Army training films, was at Benning this week as guests of officers and men of 4th Company, 1st STR.

Jim Jay, as he was known to his friends in the 4th Company, had led a life as fictional and hairbreath as the characters he squeezed from his talented pen. His conversations were spiced with anecdotal facts of the various armies of the world. He knew his fighting men and knew how to write of them. He could spin a hair-raiser to a room full of soldiers and chill them to bone. He was indeed a welcome companion to the men and officers of the Regiment.

In a more serious vane, Jim Jay had ample background to qualify him as a writer of worthy note. Before going to work for Uncle Sam he did newspaper work, radio mystery thrillers and script writing for all the big studios in Hollywood. His last story was a horror job for a Lon Chaney, Jr., movie entitled "The Mummy's Tomb." His most impressive reaction to Army life was, as he expressed it, "the dang fine spirit of cooperation" shown towards his efforts.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Pfc. W. C. Woodfin, colored, of the Post Detachment Unit 1447, was fatally injured last night in an automobile accident on the Cusseta Highway. Woodfin, a native of Woodville, Ga., was a passenger in an Army vehicle which was struck by another car it was passing as the latter turned off the highway in the path of the Army truck.

If a tourniquet is left on tight for as long as six hours, the soldier may loose his leg or arm.

Officers' Club To Open Branch In H. C. Area

Seeking to extend facilities of the Fort Benning Officers' Club to all parts of the post, a new branch will open February 1 in the Harmony Church area.

Besides providing mess accommodations for approximately 100 officers, the club will include a ballroom, barbershop, dining room, and bar. The structure will be comparable in size to the one on the post proper.

Planned under the supervision of the main club, with the cooperation and help of Col. S. R. Tupper, commanding officer of the 1st Student Training Brigade, the new branch will function primarily for bachelor officers in the area. In addition to mess facilities, a recreation program, including dances and parties, will be sponsored.

Directing activities of the Harmony Church Club will be Lt. W. P. Cortland, formerly attached to the Infantry School, and hotel manager in civilian life.

TWO PROMOTED

Promotion of Paul D. Spitnale, Ottawa, Ohio, to the rank of first sergeant and of Theodore King, Pelahatchee, Miss., to staff sergeant, has just been announced by Col. R. H. Lord of the Third Student Training Regiment.

A tourniquet can be improvised by using a bandage or a small stone or some other hard object as the pad, and a bandage, belt, handkerchief or necktie for the strap.

Prize Comedy Opens Tuesday

Five Performances Slated On Post

"You Can't Take It With You," comedy masterpiece of Kaufman and Hart, and presented by the USO-Camp Shows, is due at Fort Benning for a five-day stay, starting Jan. 12.

During its stay at the post, "You Can't—" will play the Main Theatre on the post proper on Jan. 12 and 13. On Jan. 14 the show will be presented at Theatre No. 7 in the Sand Hill area. The comedy will then move to the Harmony Church area for its last two days at Fort Benning, playing first in Theatre No. 11 and then in No. 4.

The daffiest family on Morningside Heights is inspected with considerable relish by the authors in "You Can't Take It With You." They devote their time and attention to the amiable antics of the Mad Sycamores and crazy Vanderhofs, contemplating the merry accentricities of the interrelated clan with admiration and approval.

It seems that not only did Grandpa Vanderhof have fantastic children and grandchildren and marry them off to their peers, but that all the other entertaining madmen of the neighborhood hovered about them in a haven of kindred spirits. Kaufman and Hart have a field day in their study of the play's moonstruck heroes and heroines. The authors have wisely decided not to confine their rugged individualists to a regimented existence and so they permit them to run wild to their hearts' content. The result is a merry and engaging riot of fun and hilarity played to the hilt by a capable cast.

Heading the show in the role of "Grandpa" Vanderhof is one of the real old-time troopers of the vaudville stage, Jack Norworth.

Norworth was as well known to the public then as beans are to the navy now. He is best remembered for the songs he has written and introduced. Some of his numbers still being sung are "Shine on, Harvest Moon," "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," "Come Along, My Mandy," and "When It's Apple Blossom Time in Normandy."

There was a time when the name of Jack Norworth was in lights on every marquee from coast to coast. His name has always been a by-word on Broadway and many was the time he was the head-liner at the old Palace Theatre. Some remember him as the husband of the famous Nora Bayes and together they were the highest paid team of their time.

Other members of the cast are played by Marjorie Cramer, Johnny Stearns, Edwin Hodge, Charles J. Parsons, Daisy Atherton, Saralee Harris, Patrick Fahey, McGregor Gibb, Paul Byron, Elizabeth Brew, Norman Porter, Elsbeth Hoffman, Joan Croydon, Rosetta Le Noire, Charles Benjamin, Anthony Grey, and Lance Cunard.

The show's cast will stage a special vaudeville skit for Station Hospital patients at 3 p. m., Jan. 14. All performances of "You Can't Take It With You" will begin at 7:30 p. m. with the exception of shows slated for Jan. 13. On that date there will be two performances, the first starting at 6:30 p. m. for white soldiers and the second at 9 p. m. for colored troops.

Father Promoted, Son Enlists on Same Day

The enlistment of an only son, and promotion to lieutenant colonel, were almost simultaneous Christmas presents for Col. Fred W. Kushmer, former prominent Bradenton business man, now stationed in Fort Benning.

Col. Kushmer received notification of his promotion on Christmas day, after over 18 years service in the Army, and representing a long and varied period of military life.

Col. Kushmer enlisted in the 5th Illinois Infantry as a private, in March 1916. In the same year he transferred to the 151st Indiana Infantry, and served with this unit on the Mexican Border and during the first World War. Coming to Bradenton in 1925, Col. Kushmer was district manager for the Bradenton-Sarasota territory of the Office Equipment Company In 1931 he established his own business, the Bradenton Office Equipment Company.

The colonel was always active in Florida National Guard, serving as an enlisted man from 1926 to 1927, at which time he was commissioned a 2nd lieutenant. Accepting active commission in 1930, Col. Kushmer was in command of Company "I," 124th Infantry, in Palmetto for many years. He served in this capacity when the Florida National Guard went to Camp Blanding, in 1940.

Shortly after the arrival of the 124th Infantry at Camp Blanding, Colonel Kushmer was transferred as Executive Officer of the 3rd Battalion, and promoted to the rank of major. His newest promotion resulted when he was made Battalion Commander of a newly formed unit at Fort Benning.

The other Christmas news for Colonel Kushmer was the enlistment of his only son, Fred, Jr., former Bradenton High football player, in the Coast Artillery Branch of Anti-Aircraft service, stationed in Camp Blanding.

Patrillo Assigned To 124th Infantry

First Lt. Andrew L. Patrillo has recently reported for duty in the 124th Infantry, it was announced by Col. John D. Hill, commanding officer of the regiment.

Lt. Patrillo, formerly a resident of Sharon, Pa. and active in the Christian H. Buhl Hospital at Charon, Ohio, has been assigned to the Medical Detachment of the Regiment.

The lieutenant, a graduate of the Loyolla Medical School in 1928, was stationed at Camp Pickett Virginia prior to being assigned to the 124th Infantry.

Photography Salon Visits Benning

The Third Annual Popular Photography Traveling Salon has opened at Service Club No. 2, in the Sand Hill area of Fort Benning. The exhibit is made up of more than 100 selected photographs selected from the year's best photos by Popular Photography magazine.

The exhibit is scheduled to remain at Fort Benning for five weeks during which time it will be shown at all of the Service Clubs on the post.

From Jan. 4 through Jan. 10 the exhibit will remain at the Sand Hill club. On the 11th of this month, it will move to Service Club No. 3 in Harmony Church. The 18th of January will see the Salon opening in Service Club No. 5 in the same area. On Jan. 25, the exhibit will move to the main post and will be enjoyed by the visitors to Service Club No. 4. If Service Club No. 1 is open by this time, the exhibit will spend its last week at Fort Benning in this club.

Southern Manor
Presenting New York's Radio and Night Club Entertainers
DINE & DANCE — TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY
At Junction of Opelika and Montgomery Highway
NEW FLOOR SHOW
TUBBY RIVES—Held Over
Popular M. C. from Club "18," N. Y.
PEGGY CRAFT
Beautiful Dancer from Rainbow Room, N. Y.
TERESA VENECIA
Acrobatic Dancer from Roosevelt Hotel, N. O.
DOT AND DAVE WORKMAN
Musical Cocktail from Colosimos, Chicago
CHERRY HAYES
Singer of Popular Songs
AL SAMUELS
Dance Comedian from "Patio, Jax., Fla."
Jimmie Segers and His Orchestra
SPECIAL CHICKEN AND STEAK DINNERS
Couverte 50c

CLUB MATAG
★ ★ ★ NOW SHOWING
BRILLIANT CAST OF SIXTEEN PEOPLE
6 DANCING SAXONETTES
WITH JACK SAXON
FRANCES DAWN
"Tops In Taps"
Watch Her Tapping Toes
JEAN SCHANTZ
In Wildly Acclaimed Acrobatic Contortions
THE EVER-POPULAR M. C.
EMILE PARRA
who is being seen in recent film, "Buck Privates."
For Dancing Feet
VELMA 'n' JEAN
ALL-GIRL ORCHESTRA
Finest In The South
NOW PLAYING AT THE
CLUB MATAG
For Tops in Entertainment Every Night

WHERE TO DINE & DANCE
IN AND AROUND COLUMBUS

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT
WINSEL CASTLE
"COLUMBUS' FINEST"
2803 Cusseta Road Cecil Lloyd, Prop.
FOR OFFICERS AND MEMBERS ONLY

PAT PATTERSON
11th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED Chicken IN THIS TOWN
GA. CAT FISH Dinners WITH CORN BREAD
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY Steaks THAT'S REALLY TENDER
POINT BLUE Oysters FRIED, STEW, RAW
Come Out on No. Highland Bus 8 Private Dining Rooms

JERRY'S
206-38th St.
FAMOUS FOR STEAKS & CHICKEN

CHEROKEE LODGE
Endorsed by
DUNCAN HINES
By Appointment Only
DIAL 2-1091

JUMBO
Fried Chicken
Catfish Dinners
Ga. Stew
Bar-B-Q
1700 Fourth Ave. Dial 9880
Dining Rooms
Curb Service

BURG'S
TAVERN
On New Route to Benning
PIT BARBECUE
GRILLED STEAKS
SANDWICHES
Dancing Permitted
"ALL AMERICAN"

THE ROOSEVELT CAFE
1027 Broadway
We invite the Fort Benning Personnel to visit the ROOSEVELT, Columbus' Finest Restaurant, now featuring—
STEAK DELMONICO
It's Different. NEW AS TOMORROW, it's 100% tender steak. Dine at the Roosevelt, in an atmosphere of cordiality and friendliness.

CHEROKEE LODGE
Endorsed by
Duncan Hines
By Appointment Only

GOO-GOO
The Sign Of Good Food
Dial 3-4491
700 Linwood Boulevard
AIR CONDITIONED
½ Fried Chicken Served Unjointed Without Silver, Gobs of Shoe Strings, Jug of Honey, Hot Buttered Rolls. The Most Modern and Best Known Cafe in Columbus, Georgia
Free Parking — Curb Service
Private Dining Rooms

COPELAND'S
BARBECUE AND STEW
3301 HAMILTON
DIAL 9620
BARBECUE—STEW—SANDWICHES—DRINKS
CHICKEN—STEAK—OYSTER DINNERS
CECIL JONES, Prop.
PLENTY FREE PARKING AND CURB SERVICE

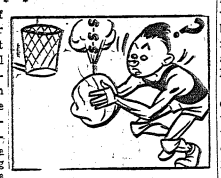
Sportscasting

BY SGT. CARL NEU

It was quite a thrill Tuesday to talk to Jim Todd, the Georgia Bulldog of Rose Bowl fame, and the two Alabama gridders, Sam Sharp and Jim McKewen, just back from that wild and wooly Orange Bowl affair. All three are now here for the officer candidate course at the Infantry School.

They're fine lads, and completely unaffected by their new-found claim to fame as members of winning bowl teams. Right now, they want to forget football and get busy earning their bars. But, of course, they were glad to get their hands on a pigskin which we carried along for picture purposes, and were more than willing to talk about the bowl games.

Todd was rated the best signal caller on the Georgia team by his Bulldog mates. He played over half of the "big game" at Pasadena and performed with ecist when Sinkwich and Trippi were on the sidelines. The new O. C. also came within seven yards of engineering another touchdown against U. C. L. A. while he was running the team.



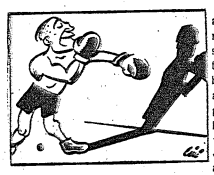
After the game, Todd couldn't tarry long in the dressing room. He had a date with Uncle Sam at Benning. So, he grabbed Coach Wally Butts by the hand, mumbled something about what a thrill it had been playing for the "greatest guy in football," waved goodbye to his team-mates, and took off by plane for the return to the South. The rest of the team went on to celebrate in a Hollywood night club, but not Todd. He was winging his way to Benning to prepare himself for the biggest game of all.

And the Bulldog back told this scribe that some of his teammates would be here at Benning in a couple of months, notably Van Davis, stellar end, and some of the other regulars. He described the Rose Bowl pilgrimage as his biggest thrill in sports. When asked if it justified a year of hard work on the gridiron, he countered with "you mean four years." And that's the truth. Rose Bowl glory was the culmination of four years grid warfare for the Bulldogs and they justly deserve all their fame.

Sharp and McKewen were key figures in the Alabama forward wall that was the country's best this fall. Sharp was varsity left end, and saw 50 minutes of action in the Orange Bowl McKewen, a reserve tackle, played quite a bit, too, as a sub for the incomparable Whitmire. Sharp said the 37-21 Miami circus was the greatest game he had ever played in and compared it to the 'Bama-Vanderbilt free-for-all of a couple years back.

The Army is surely getting three fine young officers in these lads who sacrificed post-game celebrations and the accolades accorded returning heroes to hurry here without fanfare and get busy on their service careers.

* * *



The most attractive court bill of the pre-league season is on tap for Saturday night at 7:30 in the post gymnasium. The first tilt will bring together the crack 29th Infantrymen and Turner Field from Albany, Ga. In the nightcap, the Academic Profs meet the power-laden Breakers of the 117th Infantry. The Turner go will be a real acid test for the defending champs, because the fliers are a big, rugged outfit that has been flying all over the country playing games. Recently they traveled to the metropolitan area and played famed Seton Hall College as well as Fort Dix and other service teams.

Turner Field holds a decision over the Profs, one of the two games that the minions of Lieut. Frank Shannon have dropped this season. The 29th has played only a couple of practice tilts, one with Jordan High and another with an artillery quint from the 10th Armored, so the Turner game will be their first real test, which means Devil fans will be out in droves to see how the defending champs stack up for the coming campaign. The Prof-Breaker tilt also should be a honey, and give some indication of how these clubs may fare later on in the conference.

* * *

This corner has always contended that Army sports, as well as sports anywhere, are one of the greatest methods of developing leaders. Proof of this contention was offered recently by the 117th Infantry regiment, where three of the officers who played on the Breaker grid machine this fall were recently named commanding officers of units. Lieut. Johnny Cudmore, Breaker coach, was elevated to first lieutenant and now commands Headquarters of the 2nd Battalion. Lieut. Jerry Roberts, former Presbyterian ace, who helped with the coaching and also played in the backfield, recently became C. O. of 3rd Battalion headquarters, while Lieut. K. L. Smith is the new commanding officer of K Company. Smith was the stand-out 117th back, once of Indiana U. fame, who was named to a post on the All-Conference eleven. Not that the fact they were gridders was the reason for their new assignments, but it does serve to show that the Breaker officials realized that men who can lead on a gridiron can also lead on a battlefield. Congratulations to all three officers on their new posts.

* * *

Boxing fans over Alabama way are in for a rare treat tomorrow night when the 505th Parachutes stage a series of bouts. For a long time, there's been a grudge bout brewing between Bobby Sylvester and Tommy Thompson, two sergeants in the outfit, who used to be pro pugs. Despite the fact that Thompson outweighs Sylvester by almost 30 pounds, they are to meet tomorrow night in the ring. The boys have both agreed to go ten rounds, and early this week they were searching for 6-ounce gloves. Man, that is really going to be a scrap, because both boys can really sling the leather.

The bouts have created a great deal of interest among the lads in Alabama and a great card is planned. General Howell is almost certain to be present, and several other high-ranking airborne officials may witness the scraps. The rec hall will never be able to hold the crowd, but it will be Army boxing at its best and should see the settlement of the long-standing Sylvester-Thompson dispute.

* * *

BAYONET TIPS—Georgia Tech's fencing coach, Richard T. Morenus, is anxious to contact fencers at Benning and find out what's become of the post fencing team, which competed against the Yellowjackets last winter. If any fencers are still here, they are asked to contact the F. B. A. A. . . . With the news that the Canadian paratroopers are getting soccer and rugby equipment shortly, there is a good chance we'll see some rugby exhibitions, and possibly some soccer between the Canadians and one of the Benning elevens . . . All basketball officials are urged to attend a meeting in the F. B. A. A. office tomorrow night at 7 o'clock . . . Court conference will produce some of the best basketball that has ever been played on the post.

Former Trojan Track Leader at O. C. School

Adrian Talley Of Southern Cal., Once Ran 100-Yard Dash In 9.5

Officer Candidate Adrian Talley of the 13th Company, 2nd Student Training Regiment, made a reputation for himself running away from people!

But it was all perfectly legitimate and he won a lot of medals and set a lot of records doing it. Come March and an expected commission, the 28-year-old Los Angeles soldier expects to lead a platoon on the run, and if he retains any of the speed that made him a standout trackman at the University of Southern California he'll probably run them right down the Wilhelmstrasse.

EAN 100 IN 9.5

As track captain at USC, Talley set a near world record of 9.5 for the 100-yard dash. He preceded this as captain of the cindermen of Los Angeles Southgate High, leading his team to the state title in 1932.

At USC with Leland Lafond, Mickey Anderson and Peyton Jordan, he anchored the 440 relay, setting a world mark of 40.5 at Fresno. USC garnered its sixth consecutive national collegiate crown with Talley at the helm, and he wound up his track career there by never having competed with a losing team. In several meets he trailed the incomparable Jesse Owens by inches.

TURNED TO THEATER

On graduation Talley married his co-ed sweetheart, the former Irene Skipworth. Talented in theatricals, Talley with his wife and a college chum, following practice sessions on the California beaches, formed a comedy adagio team, the Rogers Dancers. After a brief Hollywood run, headlining was second nature and the trio crashed big time vaudeville, playing Chicago, Miami, Broadway's famed Rainbow Room, the Strand, Loew's State and Paramount, touring with the bands of Ted Weems, Phil Harris, Ted Lewis and others.

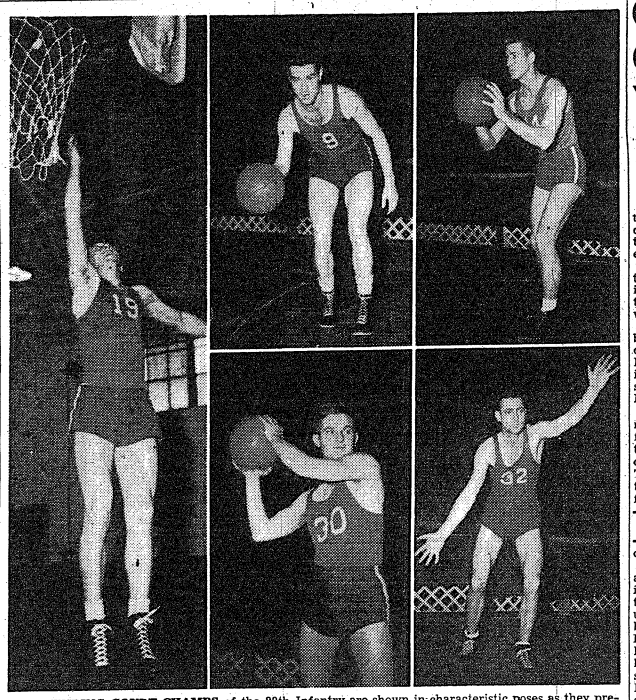
His last New York appearance a hit, Talley deserted his act for khaki, following Ken Carpenter and his other USC teammates into service. Prior to his OCS call the former Trojan flier served eight months with a Pacific coast artillery unit.

4 Court Loops Start Play Next Week

Handball Stars Meet Sunday In Challenge Fray

Goldsmith of 2nd STR, Two-Nine's Battinelli Clash In Post Court

Two of the nation's best handball players will meet on a Fort Benning court Sunday night when Candidate Joe Goldsmith, a member of the 2nd Student Training's 28th Company, opposes Rickie Battinelli, 29th Infantry star and uncrowned post champ, in a challenge match.



Several weeks ago in the columns of the Bayonet, Battinelli, having conquered all handballers in his own domain, offered to meet all comers in a title test. Goldsmith, present co-holder, of the National Doubles Championship for four-wall play, answered the challenge and the stars will clash on the post courts, located just behind the gymnasium, at 7:30 Sunday.

It will be a battle between handball aces of California and New York when Goldsmith and Battinelli meet. The officer candidate, who will soon be sporting gold bars, hails from Long Beach, California, while he was a prominent athlete, while the Two-Niner is a New York handballer of note.

Goldsmith paired with Joe Gordon of Los Angeles last year to win the doubles title in the national competition at San Francisco. Back in 1935, he won the junior doubles and placed second in the singles in the National A. A. U. meet.

In 1940, Goldsmith and Gordon won their first national title at Detroit, defeating the long-time champs from the New York Athletic Club, Coyle and Lenz. The New Yorkers regained the coveted crown in 1941, but the G-men came back last year to take it for the second time.

Battinelli will meet the national champ in four-wall competition on Sunday, although he never played anything but the single wall game before entering the Army. Three out of five games will decide the winner. The Two-Nine star has run roughshod over all opposition in his regiment, as well as others from the post, in winning 26 straight games. Battinelli is also acting coach and star goalie on the 29th Infantry's soccer team.

DEFENDING COURT CHAMPS of the 29th Infantry are shown in characteristic poses as they prepare for the Fort Benning Conference campaign which opens Tuesday night. At the left is lanky Hank Domaleski, reserve center, who can really stretch for a lay-up shot. At the top are Johnny O'Hara and Paul Herman, a pair of veteran guard holdovers. Below are little Gene Biro, floorman deluxe, and Hal Johnson, long-armed defensive ace.

Veteran 29th Quintet Ready to Defend Title

Eleven Holdovers Plus New Coach Give Devils Bright Hopes In Loop

Bolstered by eleven veterans from last year's crack team which won the championship, the 29th Infantry is in a good position to retain its laurels in the Fort Benning Conference flag chase which gets under way next Tuesday.

Playing under a new coach and a new system, the Blue Devils have been slow rounding into condition, but they promise to come up for the opener in tip-top shape and get off on the right foot with their title defense efforts.

Lieut. Keith L. Nordlund, University of Washington court flash during 1939 and 1940, is tutoring the 1943 edition of the 29th, and has been busy for the past several weeks teaching the Two-Niners a new system embodying a west coast adaptation of the slow and fast break molded into one.

VETS REPORT LATE

Nordlund has been handicapped by having some of his best performers turn out late for practice. Joe Stolarzyck and Stan Krezewski, counted on as starting forwards, were both late reporting, as was Bob Keary, outstanding guard. Tippy Friedman, center, flash, still is unavailable, due to military duties, but may be ready for some action by Tuesday.

The absence of four of the five expected regulars, however, has given Nordlund plenty of opportunity to work on his reserves. Last year, it was the superb reserve strength of the 29th, as much as any other factor, that enabled the Blue and White to drive through to the post crown. This year, once again, the Devils will carry a squad of 18 men.

BEST SCORER

Stolarzyck, a 6-footer from Meadville, Pa., is probably the standout performer on the 29th. An able floor man, and good passer, he was top scorer for last years champs, and is expected to pace the Devil attack again this season. His running mate, Stan Krezewski, is only 5 feet 6 inches in height, but is a crack set shot artist and good floor man.

Although these two lads dominate the forward picture, Nordlund has two crack replacements in Pop Moylan, a good scorer, and little Gene Biro, a ball of fire who is the team's ball-hawk. Jim Lombardo and Johnny Cofer are a pair of newcomers who also look capable.

FRIEDMAN SPARKPLUG

Friedman is one of the team's real stars, and can be used either at center or up front. He scales 5 feet 11 inches in height, and is a veteran of three years' service with the Newark (N. J.) YMHA quintet, a crack semi-pro club in metropolitan circles. He was the real sparkplug of last year's pennant winners.

Three other good centers are also available. They are Big Hank Domaleski, 6 feet 2 inches, Paul Bloomfield, N. J.; Fritz Vogt, 6 feet 1 inch, from Munhall, Pa., and Leo Gelwan, a six-footer who played freshman ball with nationally-famous Long Island University. Vogt, a Two-Nine grid star, and Domaleski are holdovers, while Gelwan is a newcomer.

STRONG AT GUARDS

Even with all this fine material up front, the biggest strength of the 29th is in the guard positions. Keary, who played high school and proball around Orange, N. J., and Paul Herman, a former Ohio flash, have the inside track on the starting slots, but there is plenty of competition. Keary is a great set shot artist from way out, while Herman is a superb defensive player.

Other guard prospects are hold-

(Continued on Page 7)

Profs Top Two Fast Teams In Warm-Up Tilts

Parachute School And Station Hospital Bow To Academic Regiment

Meeting their toughest opposition so far, the Academic Regiment Profs played championship ball Monday night to whip the Parachute School, 50 to 37, in a game that never let down in excitement. The Paratroopers were always behind, but the Profs couldn't relax for a moment against their hard driving opponents.

Keeping the Sky Jumpers in the ball game was Ed Brooks, who scored 21 points, shooting them in from all parts of the court. The Prof attack was led by Shannon who marked up 19 points even though he played little more than half the game.

McCrary rang up nine points, scoring all four of his baskets on difficult angle shots, and whipping them through the bucket without a ripple.

The victory was the sixth straight for the Profs.

MEDICOS TROUNCED

Holding the opposition scoreless up until five minutes of the second quarter, while they were scoring 16 points themselves, the Profs really looked like a ball club Saturday night as they trounced the Medicos, 45 to 19, taking their fifth straight game and their 13th out of 14 played this season.

Leading the attack for the Profs was Lt. Frank Shannon who scored 14 points while playing his usual smooth floor game. Polk had another field day, scoring five points, one away from his lifetime record. Unfortunately the score book can't show how many points Polk is also responsible for by his shrewd setting-up of scoring plays.

Edwards and Monroe played good ball for the Medicos, but nothing could have headed off the Profs Saturday night. They made 11 points good out of 15 free throws, an abrupt about face from there recent poor foul shooting.

The game marked what is probably the last for Lefty Francis as a member of the Profs. He went on furlough Sunday and, upon his return, reports to Officer Candidate School.

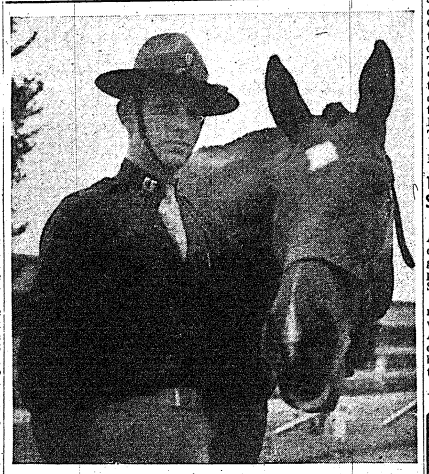
* * *

A dishonorable discharge can be removed. Only by an act of Congress and this is rarely done. The rights of Federal citizenship forfeited by dishonorable discharge on account of conviction of desertion in time of war may be restored to such former soldier by his unconditional pardon by the President. This, too, is rarely the case.

Lawson Field Upsets Profs

Lawson Fied's fast-moving courtmen sprung a mild upset at Fort Benning last night when they upset the powerful Academic Regiment quintet with a late rally to win 40-38 in a practice tilt waged in the post gym.

It was the first defeat handed the Profs this season by a Benning adversary. They had dropped one other pre-season tilt to Turner Field. The Fort Benning Conference campaign, in which both of last night's contestants are strong entries, opens next Tuesday.



Two last minute foul flips by Bill Metcaf and Bill Horne broke a 38-all deadlock to give the Fliers their hard-earned triumph. Metcalf paced the Lawson cagers in scoring with 15 points on four field tosses and seven fouls in eight attempts. He shared top honors of the evening with Lieut. Frank Shannon, Prof coach, who tallied 15 points on seven field tosses and a foul.

Gator Quintet Topples Lawson Field by 39-36

A speedy 124th basketball quintet won a close decision over Lawson Field at the Sports Arena recently, 39 to 36.

Johnny Gilbert, stellar Gator guard, assumed a new role by scoring 14 points, and serving as spearhead of attack Tony Foster had his usual share of markers with five baskets and Sims and Howell did the rest of the scoring for the Gator squad.

SPORTRAITS

Capt. R. V. Jacobs, one of the foremost horsemen at Fort Benning. . . . He's just sporting brand new double bars and is posed above with his favorite mount horning in for a look.

Is officer in charge of famous Infantry school stables, and besides other duties, finds time to instruct new riders. . . . Also commands special service department of academic regiment, which operates the stables. . . . A fine horseman, a great sportsman and a real subject for the sportrait of the week.

Sports Program For Canadian Jumpers Arranged

Just as American troops in India and Iceland play their favorite sports, so the Canadians of the First Canadian Parachute Battalion in training at Fort Benning will shortly enjoy theirs.

En route to the troops of Lt. Col. G. F. P. Bradbrooke's paratroopers here are Canadian rugby and soccer equipment, sports which long have been favorites of our northern neighbors.

While the troops are being sent this sports equipment, they are also to be given baseball, softball, volleyball, basketball, and horseshoe accessories — long favorites of American soldiers.

Hospital Courtmen Set for Conference

The Station Hospital quintet is all set to do big things in the coming Fort Benning conference. Though the medicos are a little rough in spots, they hope to be well sharpened for their league encounter.

The team is coached by Sgt. Francis M. Webster formerly of Slippery Rock State Teachers College, Pa. Not only is he an excellent coach, but also one of the mainstays of the team. Members of the team are enlisted men from all parts of the country. Robert W. Berry, N. Y., Arthur A. Buell, N. Y., Jerry P. Cooksey, Fla., Harold L. Cummings, Ark., Wayne C. Edwards, La., John K. Hirsch, Pa., Granville F. Monroe, Tenn., Robert L. Perkey, Ind., Charley A. Pond, Ala., Richard N. Pfleger, Pa.

Most of the men played with the team last year which gives the Medicos quite a number of veteran. The Medicos look for-challenger in the 117th Infantry.

SCHEDULE ON PAGE 7

Both tilts should pack plenty of action. The Medicos have been in-and-out but have shown plenty of promise, and should come up for their conference debut brim full of fight. In Lawson Field, they will be facing a stellar team that proved its might by handing the Academic Profs a setback Tuesday night for the I.S.S.C. unit's first loss to a post quintet.

DEVILS FAVORED

The Blue Devils of the 29th, coached by Lieut. Keith L. Nordlund, rate as slight favorites to retain their laurels with a veteran squad, but they will receive a real acid test in their very first outing with the 117th Breakers as the opposition. Stolarzyck, Krezewski, Friedman, Herman, and Keary, a quintet of veterans will start for the Devil machine.

Lieut. Lester Soldz is tutoring the blue and gold editon of the 117th, and boasts a potent scoring machine paced by Hite and O'Neill, a pair of field goal demons from the mid-west. Just recently, the Breakers demonstrated their latent power by running up 87 points on a fair 1st STR team.

AT HARMONY CHURCH

At Harmony Church, the first tilt Tuesday will feature the debut of the undefeated Leaders from the 2nd Student Training, who meet the Parachute School in the opener. The game may be an individual scoring battle between Big Chief Whitehorse, the Indian ace of the Leaders, and Lieut. Ed Brooks, jumper coach and former Illinois ace.

The nightcap at the sports arena should be a corking good battle between two strong entries, the 124th Infantry Gators and the Academic Regiment Profs. The Profs have run roughshod over post opposition in winning 14 out of 16 practice tilts, but they are now without the services of Lefty Francis,(star forward, who is on furlough before reporting to O. C. school. How much this will weaken the Academics is problematical.

Coaches Howie Bender and Claude Jackson, both former pro stars, started from scratch with the orange and blue Gators, but have developed a likely entry that may surprise loop fans. The Profs handed the Gators a bad licking several weeks ago, but the result may be different in the loop opener.

MAIN POST LEAGUE

Eight teams from small units are entered in the Main Post League, but only six will see action on Monday night. The triple-header which will be a regular Monday and Thursday night feature in the post gym, starts at 6:45 and the second and third games will be run off with little delay.

In the first tilt of the loop, the 99th Quartermasters are slated to oppose Lieut. Bill Bennett's 7th Observation Squadron, an Infantry School unit. An experienced quintet from the 1st Student Training will meet the Medicos of the 53rd General Hospital in the middle game, while the night-cap will feature a clash between the 863rd Ordnance and the 1st Parachute Training Regiment. The Finance Detachment and 24th General Hospital will be idle Monday.

10th Armored Loops Start Play Monday

Basketball swings into the 10th Armored sports spotlight Monday night when the opening games in both leagues will be played at the Harmony Church Sports Arena.

The 420th F. A. will start things rolling in the Sand Hill League when they clash with the 11th Armored Tankers with the second game pitting the 54th Doughboys against the 419th Field Artillery.

In the Cusseta League the 90th

Conference Campaign Opens Tuesday Night With Two Twin Bills

Main Post League, 10th Armored Circuits Get Under Way Monday

Four court loops will swing into action early next week when the most auspicious basketball campaign in Benning history gets under way. Two more leagues, still in the formative stages, are slated to begin operations the following week, giving the post more court entertainment than it has ever had in the past.

The Fort Benning Conference, a major loop comprising eight of the fastest quintets, will pry off the lid Tuesday night with all teams in action on two different courts. A twin bill will be played simultaneously in the post gym and at the sports arena in Harmony Church with unusual opening night attractions listed.

Honors of opening the league campaigns, however, will be shared by three other circuits which start play Monday night in a barrage of basketball. Both 10th Armored loops, to be known as the Sand Hill and Cusseta Leagues, will swing into action on the double courts in the sports arena with twin bills, while the Main Post League schedule will open with a triple-header in the post gymnasium.

MEDICOS VS. FLIERS

In the post gym on Tuesday night, the first tilt of the conference campaign will pit the Station Hospital Medicos against the crack Lawson Field Fliers at 7:30. The nightcap at 8:45 will bring together the 29th Infantry, defending champions, and a strong

117th Infantry Piles Up 87-16 Score On Court

Strong Breakers Trounce 1st STR In Practice Tilt On Friday

By PVT. KEVE GRUNIN

The 117th Infantry basketball team broke into the win column once again as they overwhelmed the 1st Student Training Regiment last Friday night in a practice game at the post gymnasium by the score of 87-16. This was the Breakers fifth win in six starts.

A well coordinated and smooth working machine took the floor against the 1st STR and ran up a grand total of 87 points with all five starting players sharing the scoring honors. Dale and O'Neil were high scorers with 18 and 16 points respectively. Hite Moore and Vaughan were credited with 10 points each.

SLOW STARTING

The 117th Infantry cagers were somewhat slow in starting and for a while it looked like the boys from the 1st STR would give the Breakers a real tussle. In this slow first quarter, the score stood at 12-4 in favor of the 117th Infantry. The Breakers hit their stride in the next quarter when they dropped 12 heaves through the hoop, running the score up to 36 points. By employing the man-to-man defense the victor constantly prevented the trainers from accurately passing the ball or from shooting for field goals.

In the third quarter and part of the fourth period the 117th Infantry had the second and third teams in the ball game and these boys showed up pretty well by holding the opposition to but 9 points while scoring a total of 27 points for themselves.

LATE SPLURGE

The starting five came into the ball game in the latter part of the fourth period and proved to be too much for the trainers. The Breaker starting quintet put on a scoring spree that was superb and gave the spectators an eyeful of what can be expected of the 117th Infantry basketball team when the Fort Benning Conference opens.

BOX SCORE

	FG	FT	Pts.
117th
O'Neil	6	6	18
Hite	5	0	10
Dale	9	0	18
Vaughan	4	2	10
Moore	3	4	10
Coad	3	0	6
Bowlin	3	0	6
Melton	0	1	1
Reading	3	0	6
Gore	3	0	6
Moss	1	—	2
Totals	41	5	87
1st STR	FG	FT	Pts.
Appicare	1	0	2
Nesmith	2	0	4
Comborozo	1	0	2
Thomas	2	1	5
Wright	0	0	0
Harold	0	0	0
Enser	0	0	0
Totals	7	2	16

Enlisted noncommissioned officers in the first three grades—master, technical and staff sergeants—are eligible for rental allowances, provided they have families not living in Government quarters. Other enlisted, men when on detached service where quarters are not available are also entitled to such allowances.

Recons clash in the opener with the 150th Signal lads. The second contest on the card will match the Service Company against the 80th Medical Battalion.

All games for the season will be played at the Arena with the Sand Hill League using Court No. 1 and the Cusseta League fives playing on No. 2. Four games will be played on each Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The first games will start at 7:30 and the second contests at 8:45.

The season will be played in two halves with the winners of each half clashing to determine the league winners. Then the loop victors will meet in a play-off series to determine the division championship.

See Us for
PHOTOSTAT PRINTS
of Marriage Licenses, Birth Certificates, Legal Documents, Etc.
BLUE PRINTS, BLUE LINE PRINTS, BLACK AND WHITE PRINTS—DRAFTING AND ENGINEERING SUPPLIES
WADSWORTH BLUE PRINT CO.
1231 - 6th AVE. DIAL 2-2381

-SPORTS-

29th Infantry Boxer Has Fought Cochrane, Ambers and Canzoneri

Mike Paglione Too Good For Army Competition; Had 82 Pro Battles

Fort Benning has one boxer who's too good for Army competition and as a result sees very little action in post squared circles. He's Mike Paglione, a member of the 29th Infantry, and former professional who has fought 82 bouts in 8 years of ring warfare.

Benning boxing is conducted under Amateur Athletic Union rules and consequently former pros are barred from team and individual competition except for exhibition bouts among themselves. And since there are few men of Paglione's unquestioned ability at the post, it is seldom that an opponent can be found for the Two-Nine slugger.

FOUGHT TOP-NOTCHERS

And no wonder, because in his eight years of professional boxing, Mike has climbed into the ring with such greats as Freddie (Red) Cochrane, Lou Ambers, Tony Canzoneri, Lew Feldman and other recognized champs. He has often trained for fights with Benny Leonard, Barney Ross, and Young Terry, who was Mike's stablemate.

Mike Paglione was born in Trenton, New Jersey. He attended the Jefferson School, the Junior No. 1, graduating eventually from Trenton High School. Mike recalls that in those early school days he had a lot of fist fights. He "played the wind" as he calls it, bringing him into contact with the roughest of the rough and tumble type in and around his neighborhood.

During his high school days Mike Paglione gained quite a reputation as an athlete and boxer. His friends, recalling those roust-about, admission-free street fights Mike put on, advised him to take up the ring. Mike considered it and was sold on the idea.

HAS 56 K.O.'s

At 17 after 5 months of training he fought his first professional bout in New Brunswick, New Jersey. He won his initial bout via the K. O. route, the first of 56 to his credit.

Fighting professionally now, Paglione had to choose another name. He picked "Mickey Page," a contraction of his surname. His promoter and handlers, because of circumstantial reasons, did not think it the "McCoy" and persuaded him to adopt "George Levy," which isn't Irish either. Mike kept that name all through his ring career, a name famous in the boxing world.

RING "NATURAL"

He fought 3 bouts in a row, winning again by K.O.'s. His handlers knowing they had a "natural," brought him to Lakewood, New Jersey, a famous winter resort, deep in the Jersey pine belt. Mike had 8 bouts that season coming out the winner with 6 consecutive knockouts.

The coming season saw Mike fighting in Newark, New Jersey and New York City. Seasoned and better experienced, he fought as a six-round fighter as a semi-windup fighter, and finally as a wind-up fighter in feature bouts.

NEVER KNOCKED OUT

A survey of Mike Paglione's record reveals the superlative performance he has turned in. Out of 82 fights that he fought, he won 85 per cent of them by knockouts, losing 14 by decision. In none of his fights was he ever K.O.d.

Mike often acted as instructor to other less-experienced boxers during the course of his pugilistic career. It was not till the latter years did he begin active instructorship in gymnasiums, training young aspirants to the Golden Gloves crown. That's his pride and joy now and in that capacity he intends to stay.

CANZONERI TOPS

Considering the whole group of fighters whom Mike Paglione has fought, Tony Canzonerri stands out in his estimation as the very best of the lot. "He had everything," exclaimed Mike when asked about the best man he ever fought.

He firmly believes that boxing is one of the prime requisites for the individual soldier since it makes him alert, and gives him the added ability to think fast on his feet.

On Army officer, watching Mike Paglione going through the paces with some boxer-recruits, remarked: He's a man who prefers to work under cover, seeking no spotlight . . . having real interest of younger fighters at heart. His value is immeasurable in training young fighters for the ring, perhaps, for a fight far more serious.

MIKE PAGLIONE OF THE 29TH INFANTRY is the same lad who as George Levy was rated a top-notcher in ring circles for the past few years. He has fought such ex-champs as Cochrane, Ambers, Canzoneri and Feldman.

Fort Benning Conference

SCHEDULE FOR FIRST HALF

Tues., Jan. 12th, post gym—Station Hospital vs. Lawson Field, 7:30 p. m.; 29th Infantry vs. 117th Infantry, 8:45 p. m. Sports arena—2nd S. T. R. vs. Parachute School, 7:30 p. m.; 124th Infantry vs. Academic Regt., 8:45 p. m.

Fri., Jan 15th. post gym—Station Hospital vs. 29th Infantry, 7:30 p. m.; 2nd S. T. R. vs. Academic Regt., 8:45 p. m.

Sat., Jan. 16th, post gym—Parachute School vs. 124th Infantry, 7:30 p. m.; 117th Infantry vs. Lawson Field, 8:45 p. m.

Tues., Jan. 19th, post gym—117th Infantry vs. Station Hospital, 8:45 p. m.; sports arena—Lawson Field vs. 2nd S. T. R., 7:30 p. m.; 124th Infantry vs. 29th Infantry, 8:45 p. m.

Fri., Jan 22nd, post gym—2nd S. T. R. vs. Station Hospital, 7:30 p. m.; Parachute School vs. Lawson Field, 8:45 p. m.

Sat., Jan. 23rd. post gym, 117th Infantry vs 124th Infantry, 7:30 p. m.; 29th Infantry vs. Academic Regt., 8:45 p. m.

Tues., Jan. 26th, post gym—Station Hospital vs. Parachute School, 7:30 p. m.; Academic Regt. vs. 117th Infantry, 8:45 p. m.

Fri., Jan. 29th, post gym—124th Infantry vs. Station Hospital, 7:30 p. m.; Academic Regiment vs. Lawson Field, 8:45 p. m.

Sat., Jan. 30th, post gym—29th Infantry vs. Parachute School, 7:30 p. m.; 2nd S. T. R. vs. 117th Infantry, 8:45 p m.

Tues., Feb. 2nd, post gym—Station Hospital vs Academic Regt., 7:30 p. m.; Lawson Field vs. 29th Infantry, 8:45 p. m. Sports arena—Parachute School vs. 117th Infantry, 7:30 p. m.; 2nd S. T. R. vs. 124th Infantry, 8:45 p. m.

Fri, Feb. 5th, post gym—Academic Regiment vs. Parachute School, 7:30 p. m.; Lawson Field vs. 124th Infantry, 8:45 p. m.

Sat., Feb. 6th, post gym—29th Infantry vs. 2nd S. T. R., 7:30 p. m.

Parachute School Will Be Represented In Court Loop

Brig. Gen. George P. Howell has announced the organization of a basketball team to represent the Parachute School in the Fort Benning Conference, which is scheduled to open early next week.

The squad is composed of officer and enlisted personnel of the school, and will not draw on the student body, according to the school commandant. "It wouldn't be fair to other teams," General Howell explained, "to utilize the tremendous supply of athletes from all over the country who are here in training to become Army parachutists. Anyway, their training course here is too intensive to permit of much outside activity."

BROOKS IS COACH

Lieut. Ed Brooks, former University of Illinois basketeer, has been named coach. Under the Benning league ruling which allows only one officer on the floor at a time, he should see considerable service in play. Another promising officer-player is Lieut. Richard Bigler, three year forward at Stanford and longtime professional star.

Other outstanding candidates of the Parachute School team are Sgt. Stanley Harrison, former semi-pro guard; Sgt. Roy Thornberg, tall center from Whittier High School in Los Angeles; Sgt. Robert Kinard, fast floor man and accurate shot with two years on the University of Florida team; Sgt. R. Campbell, who specializes in an accurate one-hand shot; Pvt. Joe Marmall, guard, who belongs to the Washington Senators and plays catcher on the Senators' farm teams; Pvt. Gabriel Aguro, New York semi-pro who can shoot with either hand, and Pvt. Edward T. Smith, Lynn, Mass. High School star and prewar semi-pro.

507th Five Plays Auburn; May Arrive Via Parachute

Collegians at Auburn may get the shock of their life tomorrow night when the crack 507th Parachute Infantry quintet from Fort Benning arrives for its scheduled game with the Tiger tossers, because there is a distinct possibility that the sky-jumpers may descend from the skies over the campus via parachutes.

If the court stars of Col. George V. Millett's regiment do arrive by chute methods, they will thus become the first real jumping basketball team in the world. The scheme is planned, however, not as a stunt, but as a part of the intensive training being given the unit.

FOUR VICTORIES

Regardless of their method of travel for the game, however, the Auburn Tigers are in for a redhot battle when the 507th takes to the court. The Spiders have already toppled the strong Pepsi-Cola five by 34-30 and 43-31 counts in a pair of encounters, and also boast wins over the Parachute School and Columbus Manufacturing, present champs in the city league.

The 507th utilizes the talents of officers and enlisted men alike. The team is composed principally of ex-collegiate athletes who are now cavorting the courts for Uncle Sam instead of Alma Mater. The captain and coach of the team, Lt. Lillge, attended Lawrence and Western Colleges. After his matriculation he played pro ball for the Oshkosh All-Stars of the National pro loop.

FORMER RICE ACE

"Tex" Walters, first string forward and high scorer, is a former Rice Institute player who specializes in the razzle-dazzle brand of ball which predominates in the Southwest conference. The center slot is handled by Captain Smith, former Wisconsin star, who plays one of those smashing games at center.

Lt. Ardzijewski, guard, is a graduate of Ripon College, Wisconsin, where he played varsity ball for three years before entering the Armed Forces. Terry Scott, forward deluxe, was first string player at the University of Oregon. The second team which is almost on par with the varsity is manned by Lt. Cofer, Pvt. Todd of Adrian College, Pvt. Collins, two years All-Southern in high school, Pvt. Stout, Pvt. Windsor, Pvt. Donnelly, Pvt. McGarrah, and Lt. Wagner.

ALSO PLAY TECH

Lt. Lillge, the coach and captain, refuses to "go out on a limb" in regard to the Auburn game or the Georgia Tech game in Atlanta Feb. 2. While Colonel Millett is as enthusiastic about his team as any man in the regiment, the combat training of the men has a priority over basketball practice at all times.

Owi-

(Continued from Page 1)

cussed conditions in this vicinity with the investigators.

In the report, OWI concluded that the sale of 3.2 beer in Army camps is a healthy and sensible arrangement. The fact that there is vastly less drinking among soldiers in this war than in the last—a fact almost universally agreed to by commanders and civilian authorities alike—may stem in part from this sale of beer in camps. In the last war camps were bone dry. As a result, bootleggers did a thriving business.

The report also observed that the present army "may or may not be the best in the history of armies, but it is certainly the best behaved."

Generally speaking, the report pointed out that commanding officers of various posts said considerably more than half of their troops drank nothing stronger than beer by choice, and that many abstained even from beer. Chaplains, with one exception, shared this opinion.

In this connection, OWI reported that drinking of beer with a low-alcoholic content provides soldiers "with a mild relaxation without impairing their efficiency" and that "there is no indication that sale of beer lowers the number of total abstainers."

Concluding the 15-page report, OWI said:

"The American soldier needs neither curtain lecture nor apology. He behaves well, he traffics well, and in the far-flung places of the earth he is fighting well. He is intelligent, he is able, he is a hard worker. He is serious of purpose because he fully understands the gravity of war. His commanding officers believe in him, and his chaplains are proud of him."

Bowl-

(Continued from Page 1)

Bowl was the greatest thrill of my life, but now I'm ready to buckle down for some real hard work and forget football for awhile so I can earn my commission." The Crimson Tide stars reiterated the Bulldog's statement.

BAMA CLUB PRESENTS
ALICE DAWN — Songster Star
JOHNNY HOWARD, Master of Ceremonies
THE BLONDELL TWINS — Acrobatics
LORRAINE VERNON — Juggler Sensation
HAL WASSON'S ORCHESTRA—Playing Nightly
For Fun And Frolic! Visit The Bama Club!
Just Across Lower Bridge, First Bldg on Right • Dial 3-1051
Cover Charge, Week Nites 50c; Saturday Nights $1.00

Baker Village News

MRS. L. D. TRAUTNER
Phone 9604 or 8333

The following newcomers are welcome to the Village:

1st Lt. and Mrs. Michael Peters, 1st Lt. and Mrs. Adolph B. Billman, 1st Lt. and Mrs. Joseph E. Rault, 2nd Lt. and Mrs. Arthur R. Shape, 2nd Lt. and Mrs. Elmer Wandland, Mr. Sgt. and Mrs. Earl W. Crandall, 1st Sgt. and Mrs. Harold J. Michaelson, S. Sgt. and Mrs. John C. Russell, S. Sgt. and Mrs. Clyde Green, S. Sgt. and Mrs. Claude J. Bedenbaugh, S. Sgt. and Mrs. Samuel P. Steele, S. Sgt. and Mrs. Samuel F. Rose, S. Sgt. and Mrs. Edgar Rowen.

The nursery school enrolled five new pupils Monday, Mrs. Myle Strickland, principal, has announced.

Tommy Claunce, a nursery school pupil, has returned from a visit with his grandmother in New York City.

The Baker Village Library, located at Roper avenue and Benning drive, is open each day except Sunday from 1:15 to 6:15 p. m. There are many new and interesting books available for anyone who would like to use the library facilities.

It's not too late to enroll in the standard first aid course being taught in the auditorium each Tuesday at 2 p. m. and Friday at 3 p. m. Mr. C. C. Davison is the instructor.

CHURCH SERVICES

Catholic: mass is held each Sunday morning in the auditorium at 9 a. m.

Baptist: The Baker Village Baptist church will have as guests next Sunday evening the Fort Benning Masonic Lodge No. 579 and Mt. Hermon Lodge No. 304 of Columbus, as well as other Masons of Columbus, Phenix City and Fort Benning. The Rev. Mr. Davison will speak and his subject will be "Masonry and the Church Curing a Diseased Civilization." The pulpit furniture, given in honor of Rev. Davison's daughter, Louise, will be dedicated at the service as an added feature.

All residents of Baker Village and Benning Park homes are invited to attend any or all of the church services.

Methodist: The pastor of the Baker Village Methodist church, the Rev. Mr. H. K. Robertson, welcomes the resident of Baker Village and Benning Park to all services of the church. The morning worship is at 11:30 a. m. and evening service begins at 8 p. m.

Winners

Here are the winners in the weekly contest conducted by the BAYONET for the most original contributions.

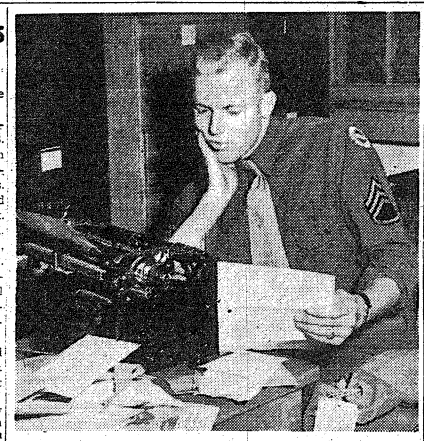
In the field of poetry, first honors and two dollars go to Sgt. Lester A. Sobel, Headquarters, First Battalion, 54th Armored Regiment. For the most original contribution, editors of the BAYONET awarded two dollars to Sgt. Harry R. Chard, author of 'Day Room Duds' first place.

The winner of the two dollars in the cartoon contest was Lt. James Sweeney, First Student Training Regiment.

New Hostess Is Named For Service Club No. 1

Mrs. Gwendolyn Bryant has been engaged as hostess for service club Number 1 on the main post, Lt. Col Charles C. Finnigan, special service officer, announced this week. Mrs. Bryant who holds both a bachelor's and master's degree from Mercer University at Macon has been a district representative of the Red Cross and was assistant director of the Community building at Hogansville, Ga.

Drive-



(Continued from Page 1)

port will be made to Brig. Gen. Walter C. Fulton, commanding general, based on observations of the inspectors and including a notation on current used during March.

Post engineers added that after a study of the report the commanding general is authorized to bring any "uneconomical use of current" to the attention of personnel and if the offenses continue, to hold personnel financially responsible for the additional consumption.

As far as fuel consumption is concerned, orders have been given prohibiting further gas installations at Fort Benning. Most of the cooking and heating in Fort Benning barracks is done by gas, which is more economical than either fuel oil or coal at present, according to the engineers. Provisions are being made however to cut consumption of gas even further by installing coal and woodburning stoves and furnaces in barracks and other auxiliary buildings.

Engineers hope to cut power consumption possibly as much as ten per cent during the month and pointed out that inasmuch as all of the electric power in the nation is now "pooled" that every kilowatt hour saved is that much more left in the pool.

Sgt. Anderson Studies Max's Mail

Max's Fame Spreads As Tough 'Parapooch'

Many Letters Wish Dog Speedy Recovery To Rejoin 'Chutists

BY CAPT. BARNEY OLDFIELD

The saga of Max, the jumping, fighting Boxer mascot of the 505th Parachute Infantry Regiment here, will probably go down as one of the great animal stories of America in arms in World War II.

Hit by a 2 1-2 ton truck while crossing a road, after he had successfully weathered eight jumps by parachute from a plane in flight, Max has been fighting for his life for three weeks. The vets say he's gaining strength and may recover in spite of a fractured skull, and a jaw mashed to powder.

To date, the dog has been wired up, bandaged, splinted, rubber-taped, intravoneously fed, coaxed to get well, and has a whole nation of pet lovers pulling for him.

Max, at the time of his accident weighing 90 pounds, is now about 20 pounds lighter, but with all the fight he ever had still in him.

When Max was hurt, the men of the 505th felt it personally. They all were his buddies, and hardly a man in the whole organization had missed patting the big mute on the head, or sneaking a hunk of meated bone to him.

What amazed them most was that his accident called the support of the entire country to him in well-wishing, in notes, and even offers of money to pay for expert surgery. The paratroopers found when they went home for Christmas leaves that Max's fame had gone before them, people asking them in bus stations, in cafes, and on the streets of their home town how the big dog was making out. A jump-booted soldier who was found by the kids on his block to have known or soldiered with Max rated a little extra.

Max is now truly a character.

Not since Rin-Tin-Tin, of movie fame, has a dog received such an instantaneous burst of fan mail. Max has got everything from dog biscuits to medical advice from top surgeons.

Here are some samples which would probably open his eyes and make him conceited if he could read:

A wire from Atlanta, Ga.: "I pledge $5 toward Max's recovery. Alabama Ga. Legion Post."

Letter from New York: "I have read with great interest about Max. It would give me great pleasure to paint Max's picture in a series I'm doing on 'Dogs in Defense'." (Signed) Arnold R. Berger.

Another letter from Kent, O., from a surgeon suggested a new rubber splint idea which has been incorporated in Max's treatment.

Still another from a dog named Chubby, in Atlanta, written by his mistress. "I hope you get well quickly," the note says, "so you can do your bit 'to keep 'em jumping'."

Max was not forgotten by the girls in the Parachute Department of the Air Base at Orlando, Fla., where he jumped with the invading 505th paratroopers last month. They sent him a combination Christmas-New Year recovery card.

There must have been more than 50 cards from mothers of parachutists, all of them voicing any pooch, who would go along with their sons in their 'business' as a very regular guy.

One of these, a woman in Cypress Mills, Texas, wrote: "Two of my boys are with you in the paratroops, Max, all I have."

Some of the WACs, in training at Daytona Beach, Fla., recognized Max' plight as an army pal in trouble, and they rooted for him to get better in a wire which to any other male would have asked for strong effort. "Get well, Max," it said, "and if you ever come to Daytona, we'll take turns holding you on our laps."

To keep Max from going down in the minds of many who are keeping their fingers crossed for him, there was a husky volunteer who decided to sit in for him as corresponding secretary—Staff Sergeant Harry E. Anderson, of Portland, Ore.—and, signing Max' name, he answered each communication received where return address was given.

Sgt. Anderson has rigged a box under his bed in which he keeps the welter of mail, and cardons of the answers he has written. He checks with the post veterinary every day to find up-to-date changes in the dog's condition, so he can write a factual summary of how he's making out.

Max may be famous, but it's not bothering him.

He's not out of danger yet, and he spends his time in some pain while getting around to slow improvement.

You see, dog-like, he couldn't believe all those gadgets, bandages, wire, rubber re-enforcements, and other paraphenalia were for his good. So, when on the way to getting well, he managed to paw off his yards of gauze and chowed it up. Once he started swallowing it, he couldn't stop, wound up with eight yards of bandage inside.

You remove it and save his life, the vet had to resort to the knife and opened him up abdominally to retrieve the wad of cloth. To get over this hump is Max's latest fight.

Judging from the stamina and vigor he has shown so far, the 505th picked the right kind of a mascot to be their emblem.

Col. Coulbourn Arrives To Become Judge Advocate

Lt. Col. William C. Coulbourn arrived at Fort Benning yesterday to assume the post of Judge Advocate at Headquarters, it was announced by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general.

Prior to his assignment here, Col. Coulbourn has served as Judge Advocate at Camp Blanding, Fla. since July, 1942. He also served at JA of the 29th Division at Fort George Meade, Md.

An attorney in Richmond, Va. in civilian life, Col. Coulbourn is a veteran of World War I when he served a year and a half overseas with the 80th and 5th Divisions. At the time of the Armistice, Col. Coulbourn was with the Air Corps. A graduate of Western Marlyand University, Col. Coulbourn received his law degree at Washington and Lee.

Veteran—

(Continued from Page 6)

overs' John O'Hara and Bill Gwozdik, while newcomers Mike Hutchins, Jim Hennessey, Harry Hutton, and Hal Johnson are also performing well. Hutchins and Hennessey, although new to court circles, are no strangers to sport fans, both having been standout footballers for the 29th this past fall. Both were all-conference selections as well.

Continuous competition for starting positions will keep the 29th in fighting trim all season, and with their plentitude of holdover material, the Devils naturally rate as pre-season favorites to retain their laurels in Benning court circles.

Paratroopers-

(Continued from Page 1)

on the exact second," Col. Williams declared.

All 1,750 jumps were made between 1:35 and 4:32 p. m. Except for a few seconds, once in a while, during the three hours the air was spotted with descending parachutists over the jumping field which adjoins Lawson field on the Georgia side of the Chattahoochee river.

CLASSIFIED

LOST AT FT. BENNING: SETTER dog. Black and white spots. Wearing collar with nameplate, stamped S. E. Thompson, Pearson, Ga. Please dial 6432, J-3543 or Ext. 2851. F. B. Reward.

MAY AND MASON DANCE STUDIO: Ballroom, Tap, and Jitterbug. Private classes. Day and night classes. 802 Broadway. Dial 2-4469.

FORT BENNING PERSONNEL

Briarwood homes being finished daily are subject to your approval. First, these homes are well built and are the most for your money ever offered for sale as homes in the history of our business. Make a look—that is all we ask—and notice the asbestos life-time roof, redwood or cypress weather boarding, hot air furnace heating according to cubic contents of each home, Westinghouse refrigerators and stoves, and electric water heaters furnished. Due to priorities we are able to offer you quality in material and new kitchen equipment. Small down payment—Monthly payment less than rent.

Location—City limits—Macon Road turn to right.

Call Bob Brown. Dial 2-2047

Calhoun Realty Co.
29-13th St. "Realtors" Dial 3-4346

G.I.'s Shun 'Oomph' Girls; Favor Thrills Of Movies

Bob Hope Is Comedy Favorite At Post

Fort Benning soldiers are ardent theater-goers, and yet in strange paradox make up a very critical audience, according to Capt. James C. Sutton, post theater officer.

That the average soldier attends the cinema two or three times a week, and everyone on the post sees one picture every seven days, is shown by Fox office statistics.

Favorite of most G. I.'s is the action movie, featuring current events. War-time combat, spy, and sabotage flickers head the list. Pictures of this class, which recently filled post picture houses were, "Thunderbird," Pittsburgh," and "Desperate Journey."

Next are comedies, with Bob Hope as the most popular performer. The slap-stick antics of Abbott and Costello, rank a close second and Jack Benny completes the field.

Double features and horse operas, particularly those starring Gene Autry, still have their following, and tour the local houses once a week.

Mother will be interested to know that her doughboy is not fond of sex pictures. Dressed or undressed, comph girls must be backed up by good plots.

NEWSREELS POPULAR

Aside from the feature attraction, some attend just to see current March of Time or late newsreels. These are by far the most popular shorts. Donald Duck, Popeye, and Superman are the favorite comedy shorts.

Best liked male actors are Gary Cooper, Spencer Tracy, and Clark Gable. On the feminine side, Betty Grabe ranks very high with Ann Sheridan, Bette Davis, and Rita Hayworth in about the same class.

"Do soldiers like pictures about the Army?"

"Definitely, yes. They take a certain delight in checking the accuracy and laughing at the mistakes in these."

At Benning, Captain Sutton added, certain outside factors effect reception of movies. Due to the number of officers and men from New York, Brooklyn, and the middle Atlantic states, pictures of this area, such as "Pride of the Yankee", "Broadway", and "Tales of Manhattan" prove exceedingly popular.

George Raft's definition of farmers as "peasants from Jersey", was undoubtedly Benning's movie joke of the year.

Military Personnel With Cars Must Buy Georgia Tags

Military personnel at Fort Benning owning private automobiles must purchase Georgia license plates, it was pointed out today by Lt. Henry J. Boudreaux, officer in charge of the military police license bureau.

Applications for the new plates may be made at the MP office and the Post Office at Fort Benning or at the Court House in Columbus. The fee will be the same as for 1942 tags.

Instead of issuing regular sized license plates, Georgia car owners will receive a metal tag, 11 inches long by one inch wide, to attach to the 1942 plates.

Lt. Boudreaux said that shortly all personnel driving on the reservation will be required to make applications for permits from the military authorities. Since the new stickers are not ready yet, applications have not been started. It will be announced shortly when car drivers need apply for the permits and stickers, which require a ten cent fee.

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By EVE

The cash registers in Columbus continue to jingle, jangle, jingle. Customers crowd the stores to exchange Christmas gifts and shop with avid eagerness for the many bargains found after the holidays. There's an ambling, curious and hopeful attitude that they'll find a special sort of bargain they can boast over in weeks to come. The nice part of it is that many of them are realizing their monetary ambitions. For in spite of restrictions and limitations of stock there is much to choose from in our Columbus stores.

Among the many blessings counted up by the men who are enjoying their families and homes at Fort Benning is the privilege of utter relaxation when they get home after a long day. One of the easiest methods of relaxation is to get out of the clothing one has worn all day into something loose and comfortable. In the overheated Student Apartments this is almost a necessity for the wool uniform becomes well nigh unendurable under these circumstances. The answer is a sport jacket and slacks for those few hours before bedtime. CHANCELLOR'S on Broadway has an unusually fine selection of these garments. The colors one sees at Easter and in our Spring blooms. Tempting they are in their emphasis of tomorrow's styles. We'll buy them, and wear them in proof that our womenfolks will look pretty and desirable for all who feel a lovely lady is the best tonic in a war-torn world.

— — V — —

Of course you didn't mean to let the Christmas holiday pass without getting your picture taken. You were just too busy, then it was too late in order to mail it to the folks at home. You may have failed a promise for Christmas, but that doesn't mean you have to make the lack a permanent one. AIME DUPONT on Broadway is still functioning as outstanding photographers. They've become a "must" for the Officer Candidate to show the folks back home how wonderfully well he looks with the gold bars of the lieutenant. They've found out from their friends Aime Dupont's photographs are something very desirable as mementoes of an important event in their lives, for themselves as well as their family. Those officers whose memory of gold bars go back more years than they care to remember are finding their families are equally happy to have a handsome portrait of them wearing impressive insignia of rank.

— — V — —

The MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE STORE is very busy these days selling lovely suede shoes at a substantial saving. If you haven't been in for your pair, you'd best make a trip down town soon. They won't last long. They'll be wearable for some weeks to come and a wonderful treasure to start out with next Fall. New Joyce Play Shoes are arriving every day. In bright colors too, which is something we didn't quite anticipate. There's something so inexpressably gay about Joyce Play Shoes. Their unusual design, the glowing colors and utter foot comfort at a moderate price make them one of the outstanding shoe buys of our value wise generation. There's a promise of Spring and Summer months to come in the new shoes, which is pleasant if one is becoming bored with winter things.

— — V — —

THE PATRICIA GOWN SHOP on the third floor of the Ralston Hotel continues to draw interested and purchasing customers with the entrancing bargains in high styled clothes. There's something wonderfully thrilling to a wise shopper to hunt for good buys in a shop that disposes of all the past season's merchandise. There's so much to choose from. As fast as the racks and shelves empty they're going to be filled with bright new merchandise in glowing Spring colors. Pastel gabardine, flannels and light weight three-piece tweed suits with accessories to match. There are new gloves too, if that's the preference.

— — V — —

KAYSER - LILIENTHAL, INC., continues the sale that has meant pretty new clothes for many of us. They've added additional items from their regular stock and if you haven't looked them over you'd better, for the values represent savings one can't ignore these days. In case you're interested in new Spring things rather than sales you might look at those elegant new arrivals by the famous House of Mangone. One is a navy blue tailleur suit of exquisitely fine wool material, so perfectly made as to be a garment of a lifetime by the most discriminating woman. Another suit by this famous ladies' tailor is the dressmaker type suit of soft sheer black wool. The trimming detail gives this suit a sighly individual touch. No need for superlatives in talking about these garments. Those fortunate women who wear this type of clothes know they are unequalled.

KIRVEN'S are going to have a month of storewide seasonable and desirable merchandise on sale to tempt the shrewd shopper. It would be wise if you checked over your needs now and prepare yourself to replace the shabby and worn out items that have been worrying you the past months. You'll never find a better time to make needed replacements than a January month of sales. All departmental buyers at Kirven's are leaving for the New York markets and will devote their time in scouring the market for new Spring merchandise. Nice Incentive that will give us for a day in town. Womanlike we're always thinking ahead to the brighter season with new ideas for better living for our families and ourselves.

Former Benningites Win Citations For Roles In Invasion Of Africa

Generals Patton, Fredendall, Ryder Awarded D. S. M.

Three U. S. major generals leading American troops in the North African campaign, formerly stationed at Fort Benning, have been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, according to news dispatches from Allied Headquarters in North Africa this week.

Maj. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, formerly commanding general of Fort Benning, was cited for "exceptionally meritorious service" when in the North African campaign, as commander of a center task force, he "demonstrated the highest qualities of leadership."

Maj. Gen. George Patton, formerly an armored force commander at Fort Benning who was popularly known as "Old Blood-and-Guts," was revealed in press dispatches also as having been cited by Lt. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Allied commander in the North African theater of operations. In the campaign, General Patton is commander of the American forces which landed in West Africa.

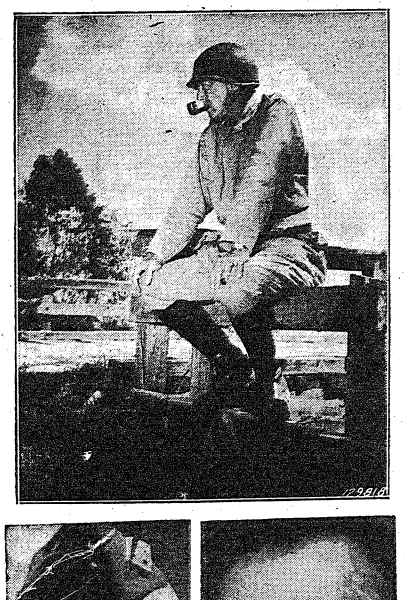
Maj. Gen. Charles W. Ryder, formerly assigned as an instructor in The Infantry School, was cited for his responsibility in "planning and execution of the attack of the eastern task force."

General Ryder's citation continued: "He demonstrated the highest qualities of leadership in training his troops and in conducting the assault. By his vigorous advance and tactful handling of negotiations with the local authorities he minimized the resistance and contributed to early capitulation of the area of Algiers."

A veteran of World War I, General Fredendall served on the GHQ staff of General Pershing during 1918. From 1920 to 1922, he served as an instructor at the Infantry School at Fort Benning and later attended the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., of which he was a distinguished graduate. On October 1, 1940, General Fredendall was promoted to major general and assigned to Fort Benning where he was named post commander as well as commanding general of a motorized division.

CITATION READ

In presenting the D. S. M. to General Fredendall, the following citation was read by General Eisenhower:



"General Fredendall, commander of a center task force, demonstrated the highest qualities of leadership. The capture of the Oran area was vigorously opposed and it was due largely to General Fredendall's brilliant leadership and resolute force that the opposition was overcome so quickly and the surrender of the opposing forces secured."

A native of California, General Patton attended Virginia Military Institute and the United States Military Academy. He likewise served on General Pershing's staff in World War I. However, finding staff duty not to his liking, General Patton applied for duty with a brand new arm of the Army, the Tank Corps. He assembled, trained and commanded the American Tank Brigade during World War I.

No matter that his tanks were Renaults, they nevertheless were named by Americans and proved their worth in both the St. Mihiel offensive and during phases of the Meuse-Argonne offensive. General Patton's little known arm was the forerunner of the Armored forces of the United States.

In writing a biography of General Patton's varied career, a newspaper columnist recently wrote predicted:

"When America produces a leader of its armored forces, it is a pretty fair bet he will be (1) a cactus-chewing tough guy, (2) a man whose soldiers call him 'Old Blood-and-Guts' — and (3) that his name will be Gen. George S. Patton."

GENERAL FREDENDALL GENERAL RYDER

MAJOR GENERAL GEORGE S. PATTON, (above) formerly assigned to Fort Benning, was cited this week for meritorious service in the North African campaign by Lieut. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Allied commander. General Patton, Major General Lloyd R. Freedendall and Major General Charles W. Ryder, former Infantry school instructor, were awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for meritorious service in the African campaign. General Patton is shown perched casually on a fence, while observing his forces training in the desert in the war-west, where they were trained preparatory to the North African invasion.

The pressure of a tourniquet should be eased at the end of each 20 to 30 minutes. The stick should be kept in place in case the bleeding begins again.

Never cover a tourniquet with clothing or a bandage so it can't be seen.

Gas Warfare Is Subject Of Lecture

Lt. Brading Addresses Columbus Businessmen

Gas Warfare was the subject of a talk last night by Lt. S. C. Brading, instructor in chemical warfare in the Tactical Section of The Infantry School, before the Business Men's Club of Columbus.

Lt. Brading stressed the possibility of a gas attack on an inland area such as this, pointing out that unidentified planes, possibly from undersea craft, had dropped incendiary bombs in the forests of Oregon, and that planes so based could easily attack this section from the Gulf of Mexico.

The lieutenant traced the history of chemical warfare from its first record in 428 B. C. in the Spartan-Athenian war up to the present time. He also discussed most of the known chemical agents, their characteristics, results and the means of recognizing them. Samples of the various gasses were passed around the room so that the audience might acquaint themselves with their respective odors. Agents more sensative than the nose for detecting the presence of gas were explained.

Lt. Brading has had considerable experience in the field of chemical warfare. He was in the chemical warfare section of the 30th Division at Fort Jackson, S. C. as an enlisted man before coming to the Officer Candidate School here last spring. He was commissioned upon graduation last May and has been an instructor in chemical warfare at The Infantry School ever since.

Lt. Brading is a resident of Chattanooga, Tennesse. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Brading of 621 S. Noynton Terrace in that city.

Woman's Club

An utterly charming program perfectly in tune with the relaxed post-holiday mood, was enjoyed by the members of the Woman's Club of Fort Benning last Monday, when Dorothy Cithens Eley gave a colorful and dramatic interpretation of the opera "La Boheme."

Mrs. Eley's extensive musical knowledge and experience on the concert and operatic stage gave an authoritive and polished note to her program. Her great love for the opera and particularly "La Boheme," in which she sang the role of Mimi, was enthusiastically presented to her audience as a pleasure for all to share with her.

She opened her program with a descriptive background of the stage settings, the mood and period of the opera. As she unfolded the story of the plot and characters she played the scores of the lovely music of "La Boheme." After the entrance of Mimi and Musetta she sang their arias, fulling interpreting them for a complete understanding.

The witty comments on the mechanical and professional angles of producing and staging an opera brought appreciative chuckles from her audience. Mrs. Eley managed to keep her audience in the front of the theatre, at the same time allowing them to peek behind the wings.

The tender love scenes were especially well done in this romantic opera of young love, high hopes, extreme poverty and crushing tragedy. The music is nostalgic of all young love and its frustrations.

One left the theatre with the feeling that Mrs. Eley could have been an outstanding dramatic artist had she chosen that field instead of the operatic stage. Her dramatic presentation equalled her magnificent soprano voice.

Prior to Mrs. Eley's presentation Mrs. Reginald H. Kelley, president of the Woman's Club introduced Mrs. Francis J. Heraty as the new program chairman. Mrs. Heraty replaces Mrs. Paul Hamilton who is elaving Fort Benning for a new station. The introduction was a gracious acknowledgement of the splendid work Mrs. Hamilton had achieved for the Woman's Club since she took over the work as program chairman in October.

Music Masters Play Alabama Area Tonight

A musical treat worthy of any concert hall in the country will be presented by USO-Camp Shows at Fort Benning in the Alabama area, today, when the "Manhattan Music Masters," a group of talented vocalists, musicians, and dancers, offer their program of popular classical and operatic favorites.

Vocalists of the group are Agnes Davis, soprano, and Garfield Swift, baritone. Instrumentalists of the "Manhattan Music Masters" are Byrd Elliot, violinist, and Howard Kubik, pianist. The art of terpsichore will be interpreted by Rosa Holland and Nicholas Beriozoff.

The show will appear in Theatre No. 10 in the Alabama area of Fort Benning. "Manhattan Music Masters" has been organized and presented by the concert division of USO-Camp Shows and is presented free to the men in the armed forces.

Tiger Trooper Doffs Coats But In Vain

Reporting back from furlough seven hours late brought S-Sgt. Lindsey Highsmith a pat on the back from his company commander instead of the usual gig. And the pat was well-earned.

On his way back from his home in Wellington, Kan. the bus in which the sergeant was riding ran into a heavy snow drift and was helplessly stranded.

Among the passengers were a mother and two children "about three years old." With the temperature down to 10 below zero the mother was frantic in her attempts to keep the children warm. Disregarding the cold, Sgt. Highsmith unselfishly took off both his G. I. overcoat and blouse and wrapped them around the tots.

With the wind blowing so hard it was impossible to go for help, passengers remained there for thirteen hours.

However, the sergeant's attempts were in vain because the children succumbed to the terrible cold.

Rooms Open For Civilians

189 Vacancies Exist In New Dormitories

Although applications are flooding in, there still are 189 vacancies in the civilian dormitories now open at Fort Benning for single civilian employes, it was announced today by Georg B. Jefferson, superintendent.

Twenty-nine white women employes have moved in, and applications have been received from 69 others, leaving 19 vacancies. Two white men have moved in, and 10 others have made applications, leaving 150 vacancies.

One colored civilian has taken up residence and 15 applications have been received, leaving 25 vacancies, while seven colored women have moved in, leaving room for 15 more, Mr. Jefferson reported.

The new dormitories have been established behind Dispensary A, and are furnished, including linen. No mess has as yet been established, but one may be set up later if conditions warrant. The dormitories are operated under the Post Engineer's office, of which Col. A. J. Bain is chief.

Garrison Library

By FRANCES CHANDLER

Every new year reviewers in magazines and newspapers publish their lists of the best books of the year. The Garrison Library hereby submits a list of those books which have been most in demand by soldier readers during the past twelve months.

Fiction

Bellaman, Henry. King's Row. Simon and Schuster, 1940.
Buck, Pearl. Dragon Seed. Day, 1942.
Du Maurier, Daphne. Frenchman's Creek. Doubleday Doran, 1942.
Steen, Marguerite. Sun Is My Undoing. Viking, 1941.
Steinbeck, John. The Moon Is Down. Viking, 1942.

Non-Fiction

Chase, Ilka. Past Imperfect. Doubleday Doran, 1942.
De Seversky, Alexander P. Victory Through Air Power. Simon, 1942.
Davies, J. E. Mission to Moscow. Simon, 1941.
Hargrove, Marion. See Here, Private Hargrove. Holt, 1942.
Paul, Elliot. Last Time I Saw Paris. Random, 1942.
Shirer, W. L. Berlin Diary. Knopf, 1941.

In its second year of publication, "King's Row" ranks as the most popular novel of the year with "The Sun Is My Undoing" as a very close competitor for first place. Many readers have requested "Dragon Seed," Pearl Buck's finest novel since "The Good Earth."

Soldier readers apparently like to read about Army life as evidenced by the continuing demand for "See Here, Private Hargrove" since its publication several months ago. The many laughs in Ilka Chase's "Past Imperfect" accounts for its popularity. For serious reading and a desire to learn more about the background of the war, soldiers have read "Berlin Diary," "Mission to Moscow," and "Victory Through Air Power."

Bomb Reconnassiance Course Given 70 Benning Officers

Approximately 70 officers and non-commissioned officers from the Infantry School and the station complement took a two-day Bomb Reconnaissance course, given by Capt. W. G. Calder, assistant bomb disposal officer, Fourth Service Command.

The purpose of the course, which ran January 4 and 5, was to train officers and men of the station complement in the rudiments of bomb disposal, so that they may act as bomb disposal agents in event of air raids.

Nine Officers In 124th Infantry Get Promotions

First Lts. Richard Goodwin Kidd, Jr., and Walter Gordon Smith, both of the 124th Infantry have been promoted to captain, and seven second lieutenants were advanced to first lieutenant, it was announced by Col. John D. Hill, commanding officer of the regiment.

They are Lts. Francis W. Maxwell, Erle Cooke, Jr., Edward Smith Cook, Jr., Zeb Vance, Jr., Jack McClain Nicholson, Nesbitt Ward Hagood, Jr., and Wilhelm George Streicher.

Dragons Whip Basketeers Into Shape

Out to match the successes of its baseball and football teams that won 10th Armored crowns, the 3rd Armored Regiment's quintet has whipped together a fast-moving squad that promises to spell trouble for the rest of the outfits in the division. The regiment's athletic officer, Lieut. John Nazzaro, expects to have a top notch team in action and is out to add another cup to the Third's swelling trophy case.

The Dragons are being coached by Private Bill Earley, a recent addition to the Special Service Office of the regiment. Pvt. Earley has been coaching basketball for over ten years in Kentucky, Michigan and Massachusetts and holds high hopes of turning out a first rate ball club.

Having cut the squad to 20 men, Coach Early has been juggling the men around to get together his best starting lineup. At this writing the 6 foot 5 inch Vin Urban has an edge for one of the forward posts with Privates Mack Woods, Ralph Brett and Sgt. John Kappa all in there scrapping for front court positions.

Bill Titus looks like the starter at center with Cpl. Joe Straskulic and giant Joe Crimins pressing him for the job.

The guard slots are wide open with Sgts. John Hamilton, Joe Rumsey and Cpls. Walter Youncluk and John Vergot ready to answer the opening whistle.

Others battling for first place slots are Sgt. Henry Wasilewski, Ray Kimberley and John Hammond, Cpls. Paul Burgess and John "Chief" Carney, of baseball and football fame and Pvts. Tony Leskosky, Emil Kroutil, Red Peterson and Eugene Nahrwold.

'Chutist Jumped For His Vocation

Standards of paratroopers in this war are exacting. So, despite the fact that Pvt. L. E. Gwyther of the First Canadian Parachute Battalion here made 109 jumps in civilian life, he still had to pursue the regular course here before qualifying.

Pvt. Gwyther was a circus entertainer and toured Canada, "jumping" for a living. Now, qualified and wearing the badge of a full-fledged paratrooper, Pvt. Gwyther is taking the riggers' course here learning how to pack his 'chute also.

The Government spends approximately 42 cents a day for the ration of a soldier in the continental U. S.

Supply Defeats Medicos 5-1 In Boxing Matches

A new sulfa drug called "Sulfa Boxites" was supplied at the Inter-Battalion Boxing Matches in the 11th Armored Recreational Hall last week when Supply Battalion let go all their mighty wand soundly trounced the 80th Medical Battalion by the score of 5 to 1 with two bouts being defaults.

This new type of anesthetic injected into the Medicos in the form of boxing was too much for the "Pillrollers" and they are now putting their Doctors and Scientists to work with the hope of finding the solution to the well-balanced and crafty boxing team of the Supply Battalion.

The first bout was a default, going to Supply.

Pvt. Frank Connell of the Medics proved the only winner for his team as he plastered his opponent Pvt. John Sneed of Supply. Sneed was only able to get in one good sound punch as Connell laid in rights and lefts with one-two rhythm. Both boys were very small but very game fighters and gave the appearance of two bantam roosters trying to settle a barnyard argument. Connell settled the argument in an impressive manner.

Bout three also was won by Supply via the default route.

The spectators and the officials didn't see eye to eye in this bout and remarks such as "that wuz robbed" could be heard when Pvt. Eli Nelson of Supply was declared winner over Pvt. Bernado Casaroz of the 80th.

The first round was just a "feeler outer" as both fighters sparred and foot worked their way around. Casaroz was the stand out in the second round as he drove home some timely blows that decidedly gave him the round. His boxing showed he had had much experience in the ring. In the third round the 80th's fighter kept pouring 'em in and at the bell calmly walked to his corner only to turn and see the referee raise the hand of Nelson as the winnah.

MUTT DEFEATS JEFF

The long and short of it mixed it up in this bout as Pvt. John Nordin (Mutt) very skillfully defeated Pvt. Santos Navarijo (Jeff) of the Medics. Nordin's height rivaled the Empire State Building and there wasn't a thing his short opponent could do but try only to be knocked back to his corner. Navarijo would come at his taller opponent with all the power of a pile driver only to have the long boy ram out that right or left and hold the midget off. For a tall boy, Nordin showed some very smooth and excellent boxing and won the applause of the spectators. In the third round Nordin banged Navarijo into the ropes so much he bounced back like the rubber ball in the stage play "Tobacco Road." Height without a doubt decided this match plus the ability to hold off any attempts to land solid blows.

The first TKO of the evening came when Pvt. Joe Corgill of the Supply Battalion finished Pvt. Lyle Worlio of the Medics in 43 seconds of the second round. Corgill opened the bout with a mad rush at his opponent and tuned loose a barrage of fights and lefts that drew blood and soundly rocked the game Worlio. Again in the second round Corgill rushed out and landed another haymaker on his opponent's nose which rocked Worlio and the referee stepped in and ended the bout in favor of Corgill.

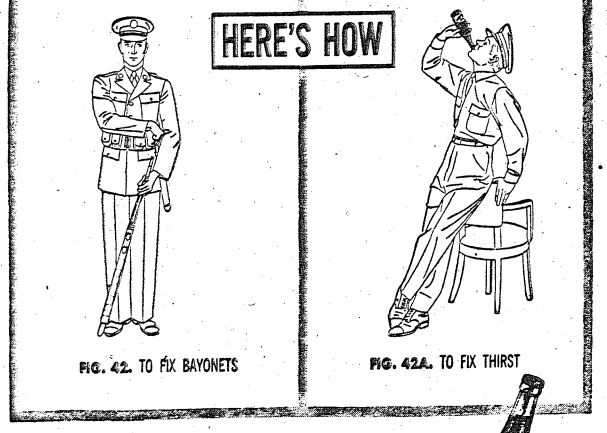
Pvt. Herbert McVay of the Supply team scored another TKO for his team over Pvt. Ira Oliver. As the round opened McVay laid one on Oliver that sent him to the canvas while the referee counted to 9 and then Oliver came up only to meet some terrific drives from his opponent. With Oliver blue in the face from the terrible beating McVay was dishing out, the towel was tossed in and McVay was credited with the TKO in 1:10 seconds in the 2nd.

In the last bout heavyweights Pvt. Davis Watson of the Supply team and Pvt. Charles Schmidt of the 80th provided much variety to the delight of the spectators.

BOTH EXHAUSTED

It was Watson all the way from the start of the opening gong till the bout ended as both boxers flopped to the floor exhausted. Watson had Schmidt in a daze all through the first round as he drove home rights and lefts that had the knockout sign all over them. Schmidt could do nothing but take it.

In the second round Watson blasted away again and laid 'em in at will as Schmidt just walked around the ring with his hands at his side.



Both boys began to tire in the third round and they practically held one another up as they waltzed around the ring and as the bell ended the bout both fighters fell to the floor. It was Watson in the fifth win of the evening for his team while the Medics were able to come through with only one win.

Officials were M-Sgt. E. A. Frazier of Headquarters Trains, referee; judges, Lieuts. William J. Nicoleson of the 54th Infantry and G. R. Jackson of the Maintenance Battalion; announcer Sgt. George Felch of the Maintenance Battalion and timer Pvt. Warren Schultz Schultz of the Special Service Office.

MINNESOTANS SOUGHT

Men from St. Paul, Minneapolis and Southern Minnesota are requested to phone in their names to the post public relations office at 3535. Special features are contemplated for Twin City newspapers and radio stations.

When a tourniquet has been applied, mark the wounded man's tag plainly, "Tourniquet," with the date and hour applied.

PEPSI-COLA

QUICK FOOD ENERGY IN THE BIG BIG BOTTLE

Pepsi-Cola is made only by Pepsi-Cola Company, Long Island City, N. Y. Authorized Bottler: Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., of Columbus, Ga., 926 Front Ave., Dial 3-1452.

RESOLVE TO BUY BONDS REGULARLY

V V V V V V V V V V V V V

"DEFEAT THE AXIS IN 1943"

V V V V V V V V V V V V V

AND TO KEEP THEM FOR THE DURATION

UNCLE SAM NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT

SEARS

Spirit-Lifting Stripes and Prints Take The Spotlight!

COTTON FROCKS! BRUNCH COATS!

1.59

Buy War Bonds and Stamps

Captivating cottons in button-front or fly-front classics, midriff and gathered skirt styles! Popular wraparound brunch coats! Gay florals, checks, dots and stripes—with pastel or white backgrounds. Brunch coats, sizes 12 to 20, 38 to 44 . . . daytime frocks; 12 to 20, 38 to 44, 46 to 52.

SEARS

Sears stores have posted or marked ceiling prices in compliance with Government regulations.

ROEBUCK AND CO.

1225 Broadway Dial 3-4351 Street Floor

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 1, NUMBER 18 | Published By The Ledger-Enquirer Co. | FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1943. | For America's Most Complete Post | PRICE FIVE CENTS

Thru The Peepsight

G. I. Summary Of World News

By SGT. O. J. REMINGTON

As a silence after a terrific din seems to be more noisy than the noise itself—so seems the emptiness caused by the lack of traffic these days.

Already dwingling rapidly due to increased severity of rationing of gasoline and difficulty in securing new tires, the din and roar of traffic was practically a shadow of its former self anyway.

But with the ban on motor traffic for any sort of pleasure purposes suddenly clamped down on the seaboard states even the shadow has very little substance any longer.

The American motorist took the new regulations with the customary good nature with which he faced previous curtailments in his driving. But that isn't actually news, of course. It WOULD have been news if he hadn't taken it that way, for we're hardening ourselves all along the line and are prepared to face a great many worse things.

Implications contained in the new regulations are wide, however, and the future of many businesses depending upon traffic must perforce appear dark and gloomy. That Americans can and will take it—and anything else that they have to take—however, is shown by the way that public curtailed driving.

DANGEROUS OPTIMISM

A TREND of thought that might be dangerous to the United Nations cause is the "unfounded optimism" which appears to be sweeping like a wave through the national thinking. The general trend of the thoughts seemed to be that a bit of favorable news here and there—Russian advances, the Allied offensives in Africa and elsewhere, the successes in the Solomons of American arms—presaged an early and victorious conclusion to the war. In fact, there appeared some danger that many people were beginning to shrug their shoulders and say "Why push things any longer; why work our heads off now; why sacrifice and put any more effort behind the war? It's all over but the shouting."

So dangerous is such a trend of thought that official quarters in Washington took cognizance of it and went so far as to issue statements warning against such ideas.

General tenor of the statements: That a victory here and there does not make a successful campaign, let alone presage any conclusion of the war. That Germany is strongly entrenched and that it will take even more efforts on the part of all of us to bring her to her knees. And that even when that is done, we still have the terrific task ahead of us of bringing Japan to HER knees.

That official Washington is serious about all of this is shown, too, by announcement that the Treasury Department will start a new borrowing campaign, which Secretary Morgenthau figures will begin along about April. The treasury, incidentally, has just completed the "greatest money-raising triumph in history," to quote George Cullen, Associated Press writer in a recent story. The treasury sought $9,000,000,000 and actually collected $12,000,000,000. Nearest approach was the fourth Liberty Loan drive of the last war when $6,900,000,000 was subscribed. Secretary Morgenthau did not set a new goal for the contemplated new campaign.

SOVIETS SMASH FORWARD

SMASHING new successes continue to be reported by the Russian Red army, as it pushed ahead around the Rostov sector. Germans finally admitted during the last week that her armies were being badly mauled by the Russians.

American planes are smashing away at Tunis, although the land offensive there has been stalled. English planes kept up a steady pounding at vital German manufacturing towns.

Although Nazi subs sank fewer American ships in December than in previous months, the U-boat menace, according to OWI Director Elmer Davis, is still very serious. Reports also indicate, he said, that the Japs are massing a large armada near the Solomons, presumably indicating another major drive on the Islands. Several attempts by the Japs to reinforce their dwindling manpower in the Isles there have been beaten off, however, and according to the Navy, there have been no Japanese landings of reinforcements or supplies on Guadalcanal in recent weeks. Ten destroyers which are headed toward the Island were intercepted by airmen and torpedo boats and none got through. A short time later American warplanes attacked a Jap transport and reported a possible hit on the stern of the ship.

A United States Fifth Army, to be commanded by Lt. General Mark Wayne Clark, now is being

(Continued on Page 8)

COMING IN FOR A TWO-POINT LANDING are members of the "feathered division of the signal corps—carrier pigeons—that today are playing a vital part in the war effort. Sometimes the equipment for faster means of army communications such as wireless, typified by the slender tower of steel in the background, cannot be used in battle. It is then that the carefully-trained, faithful carrier pigeons, shown in training at Fort Benning, come into service as winged couriers, carrying messages that often mean the difference between life and death for American doughboys. (Signal lab. photo by Kortmeier.)

Carrier Pigeons Trained For War On Reservation

16-Man Staff of Expert Fanciers Maintains Thousand-Bird Loft

The bird of peace is being turned into a war-bird at Fort Benning these days, and a mighty important one, too.

The bird, of course, is the dove, or pigeon, which under a new set-up whereby civilian fanciers are turning over their highly trained message-carriers to the Army, is assuming increased importance as a bird of war.

Hundreds of American fanciers and trainers have responded to the new appeal and have begun to send their birds to the Army. The new breeding lofts at Fort Benning will be one of three main breeding grounds, the other two being located at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., and Fort Sam Houston, Tex. Combat training units are established at Camp Crowder, Camp Claiborne, La., and Fort Meade, Md.

At Fort Benning, the pigeon loft soon will have 1,000 birds, which will be used for breeding purposes and a new "induction and training" center for the birds is being established.

TO COMBAT UNITS

After a period of initial training and "indoctrination" into Army methods, the young birds will be shipped out to combat units all over the country for completion of their training. They will be used aboard ships at sea; on bomber planes; in mobile units with land troops, and with paratroopers.

The pigeon loft at Fort Benning has been in operation for about 10 years, starting with one man in charge of 25 birds. Today Lt. Arthur M. Lehman, formerly of Columbus, O., who had made a hobby of raising and training pigeons in civilian life, is in charge of the enlarged loft and the enlarged training program, assisted by 15 men. One of the men is Sgt. Lester Bolander, Baltimore, whose family has been raising pigeons by the hundreds for three generations. His grandfather brought over a strain of famous racing birds from Europe and his father carried on the work, crossing strains and building up new ones until the family today is one of the best known in the pigeon breeding world.

PIGEON IMPORTANT

In spite of the radio, telephone and other new and modern means of communications, the pigeon is assuming an increasing importance in modern warfare, being even more useful than they were back in the days of Richard the Lionhearted or even farther back, when Alexander the Great employed them to carry messages.

Today they have been credited with saving lives of many English pilots shot down in the English Channel. They were used to carry back to England messages from the Dieppe Raid, and are in constant use in all of the theaters

(Continued on Page 7)

Post Affected By Rationing

Plans Are Afoot For Registration For New Coupons

"Join the Army and forget about food-rationing coupons and the point system" may be the new slogan around Fort Benning and other spots in the nation after the new food-rationing legislation becomes effective.

Arrangements for registering applicants for War Ration Book No. 2 were under way this week at Fort Benning where the hard-working Mileage Rationing Board was preparing to assume the work of registering those applying for the food-rationing coupons.

The Mileage Rationing Board was anticipating from eight to ten thousand applications because military personnel and their families will make application through the board at the post.

PLAN 'POINT SYSTEM'

Rationing officials explained this week that any officers and men on separate rations, which means eating off the post with their families, will be under the new "point system" of rationing. Soldiers eating regularly with their post organizations, however, will not be affected by the new rationing system.

Board members were not certain when the registration will begin although present indications are that the new system will go into effect early in February. Ample warning will be given all prospective applicants, the board added.

It was emphasized, however, that War Ration Book 1, issued last year in order to ration such commodities as sugar, must be presented to the Rationing Board before War Ration Book No. 2 can be secured. For this area, Ration Book 1 may be obtained from the Food Rationing Board, 16th Street School, in Columbus.

2 Crack Shots Get 'Possible' On 1000' Range

A new record was established by members of the 10th Company, First Student Training Regiment when two members emerged with "possibles" in record shooting on the Landon 37MM. 1000 inch range.

They are Candidates Freed and McKinley who each chalked up scores of 200, believed to be the first time in the history of the Infantry School that this has been done by two members of a class. The class, whose company commander is Capt. Merton Tice, also produced 54 experts for an average of 27.3 per cent; while 21.6 per cent finished as first class gunners and 23.7 per cent were classified as second class gunners.

New Unit Has Experienced Commanders

Colonels McKee, Long Are Familiar Benning Figures

Col. Richard G. McKee, commanding officer, and Lt. Col. Thomas T. Long, executive officer, who have been named to posts in the 300th Infantry Regiment at Fort Benning, have had long and varied Army careers.

Colonel McKee, formerly executive officer of the School Troops Brigade for the past few years has been a familiar figure at The Infantry School.

After graduating from West Point in 1918, Colonel McKee served in France, Germany and Poland until 1922. Returning to the United States, he went to the 5th Infantry and then to the R. O. T. C. at the University of Maine. In 1930 he attended the C. O. course at The Infantry School.

From 1931 to 1935, Colonel McKee was with the 7th Infantry in Vancouver Barracks. From 1935 to 1938, he served in Hawaii, returning to study at the Leavenworth Command and General Staff School.

JOINS TIS STAFF

In 1939 Colonel McKee joined the staff of The Infantry School as a tactics instructor. In 1940 he became operations officer for the School, serving during the period of the institution's largest expansion. Colonel McKee became executive officer of the School Troops Brigade in 1942, serving in that position until his present assignment as commanding officer of the 300th.

Lt. Col Long until recently was assigned with the 124th Infantry here. Col. Long, a native of Florida, has been a national guardsman for many years, starting his service in 1920, and going

(See Col. McKee, Page 7)

Soldiers Advised To Eat On Post

The OPA has advised Fort Benning officers and men to eat on the post if they possibly can as a means of aiding in gasoline conservation, local rationing officials announced this week.

While soldiers are still entitled to use public transportation facilities to come to town and eat, it would be considered a violation of the OPA code for soldiers to drive to town unless they had no other arrangements to eat and ordinarily visisted a certain restaurant regularly for meals.

The ruling that soldiers should drive to downtown restaurants only if a strict personal necessity came after one local restaurant owner wired the OPA in Atlanta for clarification of the policy.

'City' Of Tents Houses Troops At Rifle Range

Tigers Make Move To Conserve Gas, Rubber, and Oil

In scarcely more than two days a complete "tent city" has sprung up at the 10th Armored's new Carmouch Rifle Range.

Built by the 55th Engineers, the "city" will enable Division units to stay overnight at the range, thereby saving a great deal of time and precious gas and rubber that would be used up if organizations had to travel back and forth. The area, which consists of 250 pyramidal tents, can house approximately 1,300 men. An entire battalion can use the camp at one time and facilities are so set up as to enable commanding officers to run their organizations just as smoothly as they do back at Sand Hill. A telephone system from the CP to Sand Hill exchange has been installed.

The tents, which are lined up to form company streets, are framed with wood. Every tent is equipped with a Sibley stove and each has clothes racks to help keep those G. I. clothes in order.

FULL FACILITIES

Each company has a kitchen and supply tent. All kitchen tents are especially framed and have wooden floors. Special canopy has been erected for each kitchen tent which will come in mighty handy when chow has to be dished out during a rainstorm.

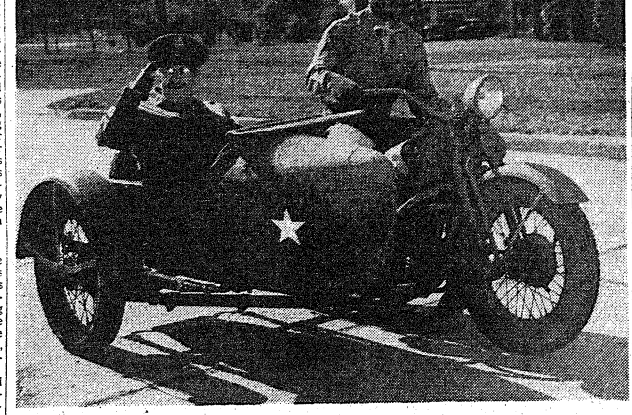
Extensive shower facilities have been set up with hot water running from special shower unit. A permanent water plant has been set up.

A hospital tent with cots and special facilities to enable doctors to work under convenient conditions has been built.

To help while away the evening hours a public address system has been installed and the Engineers, who recently were at the range for eight days, spent their nights listening to their favorite swing and sway recordings. There's also a rolling PX on hand and movies are easily made available.

Motorcycles Replace Cars

5 Vehicles Assigned To Post Headquarters



First of a fleet of five motorcycles that will be attached to Post Headquarters to replace staff automobile in order to effect greater saving in vitally necessary gasoline, oil and tires, now are in operation, it was announced today by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general.

General Fulton himself inaugurated the new plan by taking an official ride in the first of the motorcycles, equipped with sidecars, to be placed in operation. Officers at Post Headquarters will use the machines for many occasions demanding quick transportation, reserving use of the reduced number of automobiles kept in service for times when motorcycles are not adequate.

The move will save hundreds of gallons of gasoline each year, it is estimated, and still will allow quick efficient transportation on official business where only one man is to be traveling. Thus the motorcycles, using less gasoline, can supply transportation on necessary business and still save a great deal of gasoline.

This action is in line with a campaign on the post to conserve vitally important electric power

(Continued on Page 7)

GENERAL WALTER S. FULTON, post commander, tries out one of new motorcycles assigned to headquarters. His chauffeur is Cpl. A. W. Southern of Florence, Ala. (Signal Lab Photo.)

Pool-The-Ride Plan Sets Pace For Nation

3 Persons Per Car Riding To Benning Tops U. S. Average

Co-operation of military and civilian personnel of Fort Benning in the share-the-ride program has made the system more successful at this Army post than in other spots in the nation, Fort Benning officials disclosed this week.

Just prior to announcing plans for the registration of all motor vehicles at the post, authorities revealed that results of a recent traffic survey have disclosed the excellent co-operation of personnel riding to work at the post.

"Of course, our 'pool the ride' plan could function ever more tightly yet, and may have to before the restrictions on gasoline are removed, but our survey of vehicles moving in and out of Fort Benning show the local average of riders per car is considerably higher than the national average," Lt. William Ward, assistant provost marshal, told the Bayonet.

Preliminary estimates resulting from the survey indicated that an average of three persons were riding to and from work at Fort Benning in each car, an average nearly one person a car better than the national avearge, officials said.

BUSINESS ONLY

Mileage rationing officials reported that the pleasure-driving restrictions on gasoline probably did not effect Fort Benning car owners as much as some of the rest of the nation because all gas granted military and civilian personnel at Fort Benning was given for business purposes only, including driving back and forth to work.

Plans for the registration of automobiles for 1943 at Fort Benning were announced by the provost marshal's office today. The 1943 stickers will be available at a price of fifteen cents on and after Feb. 5, 1943, for all drivers having the 1942 post registration sticker. All new drivers, however, who have not obtained 1942 stickers, must apply at the provost marshal's office immediately for temporary stickers which can be turned in after Feb. 5 for 1943 stickers. This is to comply with the post regulation that a car can not be on the reservation longer than 24 hours without having a post sticker.

An innovation was also announced by the office. All privately owned bicycles being operated on the reservation are to be registered immediately with the provost marshal to comply with OPA regulations. A fee of ten

(Continued on Page 7)

An Editorial

Give Them Butter and Guns— We'll Take What's Left

In war, as in civilized peacetime, it's the little things that count.

Butter, for instance, has been mighty scarce of late in the mess halls at Benning. Sure, we've had plenty of jam and marmalade. We've subsisted without butter on maneuvers several times. But we've spent much time wondering just what caused the scarcity of butter now. And we didn't find a suitable answer.

Just last night we found the explanation. And it's certainly a suitable reason: all of the available supplies of butter are being shipped to troops overseas, according to an announcement by Col. Stephen B. Massey, director of supply at Fort Benning.

That's reason enough for us not to expect butter at every meal. One of these days we'll all be in the fight overseas. And, after a rough day crawling through the burning sands of North Africa or sneaking through the dank jungles of New Guinea, we'll be mighty happy if we can spice up our rations with a luxury such as butter—which, perhaps, the boys at home have forsaken for us.

We venture to say that the whole gang at Benning feels the same way: give us oleomargarine or jam or just plain bread. But make sure the boys in the fight now get "firsts" and "seconds" on everything . . . and there'll not be another grumble from us.

For we know these little details count in battle. We're in this fight that one day we'll have all the gas we want—five new tires on the car—and all the luxuries that are scarce now.

We're glad to give up butter, for one thing, and anything else the boys "over there" may need . . . and WE won't complain once!

Poker-faced Gremlins Pester Paratroopers

3 Straight Flushes Flash Forth In Game

Some of the guys in Headquarters Company of the First Parachute Training regiment are wondering if possibly there could be a family of gremlins in the outfit. And they have just cause for wonder!

Sunday afternoon Corporal Fay, Corporal Woods, Bardin the Great, Samuel (B. D.) Newlin and Tackett the Terrible were enjoying a game of poker. Corporals Messick and Rawlinson were kibitzing. And let it be noted here that deuces were wild.

After about 30 minutes of play, a new deck was called for. After the hand was dealt, Woodsie opened for a quarter. He was immediately raised, and the raise was immediately re-raised. This went the round of the table. After the draw, the opening bet was raised, re-raised and re-raised, all the way around. Each man began looking at the man next to him with an expression of "Raise me, Sucker, I can use the dough." After all the betting was done, one of the guys laid down his hand and said, "Well, beat that, Boys," He had the 4, 5, 2, 7 and 8 of clubs. The next guy said, "Hell, that's no good." He laid down 6, 2, 2, 2, and 10 of diamonds. The next guy said, "Whoa, wait a minute." He laid down the 9, 2, 10, Jack and Queen of Spades.

To make a long story short, every one had a straight flush. There were no less than eight deuces found in the deck. No one would admit putting them there. The kibitzers weren't in position to have placed them in the deck. The argument that resulted lasted long into the night.

If any amateur detectives care to take this case, the principals will pay a handsome fee for the apprehension of the culprit. And, if the R. A. F. is missing any of its gremlins, will it kindly send for same.

USO Director To Go Abroad

H. J. Sims Served Post 3 Years

Overseas duty will take H. J. Sims, director of the USO-Army and Navy YMCA in Columbus, when he leaves to give American soldiers the type of recreational facilities he has been providing for the men of Fort Benning during the past three years.

The Army and Navy "Y" was the first of the clubs to be turned over for the exclusive use of the Armed Forces in this area. In 1939 a unit was organized on the post under the direction of Mr. Sims, but it was found that it would serve more soldiers in a central location. The organization then moved to the building it now occupies in Columbus.

This club has been renovated a great many times as the needs of the men grew. Recently the club was done over and expanded for the fourth time.

COLORFUL CAREER

Before coming to Columbus, Mr. Sims had a varied and unusual term of service with the Young Men's Christian Association. In 1912, he was sent to Brazil as athletic director. He remained there until after World War I broke out. When he finally was able to get back to the States, he enlisted as a flight cadet. But before he could start his training, he was sent overseas to organize a group of mobile units for the Portuguese troops connected with the B. E. F.

After that was quiet in Europe, "Pop" Sims was sent back to South America. There he remained during the Brazilian Revolution of 1930.

Announcement of Mr. Sims acceptance of a foreign post was made last week by T. A. Rymer of New York, member of the national council of the YMCA.

At a meeting of the Committee of Management, Chairman J. Dupont Kirven voiced the sentiments of both the civilians of Columbus and the soldiers of Fort Benning. "Mr. Sims has done a grand

(Continued on Page 7)

Benning Non-Com On First Vessel Through Big Ditch

Sergeant George Heywood, recently promoted to the rank of technical sergeant in the Third Student Training Regiment, was a passenger on the first ship that passed through the Panama Canal in 1914. He was employed on the construction of the canal.

A native of Camaguay, Cuba, Sgt. Heywood has traveled extensively. He attended school in Trinidad, British West Indies and was an interior decorator before entering the Army.

Sgt. Heywood is a veteran of World War I, when he served 18 months, one year of which was overseas. He reenlisted in 1923 and has been with the Third Student Training Regiment since February, last year, serving as Mess Instructor.

TIS Activates Truck Outfit

World War Veteran Commands New Unit

Activation of the Provisional Truck Regiment to function as a transportation unit for the Infantry School Service Command was announced today by Major General Leven C. Allen, commandant of the school.

The new regiment was activated by authority of the Replacement and School Command, Army Ground Forces. Colonel Frank J. Vida, a veteran of World War I, has been named commanding officer of the new group. Lieut. Col. Henry C. Jones, has been acting in capacity of organizer in addition to sharing executive duties along with Major Joseph J. Phillis, now appointed Commanding Officer of one of the battalions. First Lieutenant James H. Flowers is adjutant and First Lieutenant Everett Bell is supply officer to round out the Regimental staff.

A personnel has been assembled including both white and colored officers from the Infantry as well as from the Quartermaster Corps.

A variety of vehicles ranging from the tiny jeep to the giant tractor trailer vans is in use by the new regiment.

UNIT ORGANIZATION

The organization now is composed of four battalions, broken down into car, van and truck companies. All are commanded by officers expert in latest army methods of large scale transportation. All have recently completed special motor courses at the Infantry School.

In getting together the enlisted personnel, cadres have been sent to Fort Benning from Infantry Replacement Training and from several Regular Army truck organizations to form the nucleus around which hundreds of newly arrived soldiers are receiving general basic training as well as specialized motor training. When the training is completed the Provisional Truck Regiment will take over the bulk of the transportation duties of the Infantry School on a permanent basis.

O. C. Refuses Nazi Allegiance; Sent to Concentration Camp

Former Austrian Officer Caught By Anschluss

Refusal to swear allegiance when Germany annexed Austria meant a concentration camp for Officer Candidate Harry R. Graham, 15th company, second Student Training Regiment at Fort Benning, who was then a student at the Klosterneuburger Officier Schule, the official military school of Austria.

Now an American citizen, Candidate Graham actually has been training for a career as a soldier since he was five years old. The son of an English officer who married an Austrian girl, his parents lived in Vienna after World War I. He enrolled in the Klosterneuburger Officier Schule at the age of five, under the old Austrian plan of educating members of the "officer class" from childhood up.

In Austria, as in most European countries, officers were born and trained to the grade, seldom if ever coming up through the ranks. Being an officer was a career the same as being trained for the church, medicine or law.

WIDELY TRAVELED

Students of the school frequently went on military observation missions and as a member of such missions, Candidate Graham visited Japan, China, Russia, Germany, Manchukuo, Italy, France, Spain and England.

In April, 1938, Hitler declared "anschluss" with Austria and demanded that students of the office school to swear allegiance to Germany. Young Graham refused, was thrown into a concentration camp but managed to secure his release finally. Then, with his mother and step-father, he made his way to England and later to the United States. He became an American citizen in March, 1940. His step-father now is employed in a munitions factory in Chicago.

ENEMY STRONG

Candidate Graham declares that the strength and training of our enemies must not be underestimated. American soldiers are better equipped and are better able to think for themselves, and have a higher morale generally than the soldiers of Germany or Japan, he says.

"The German soldier probably is more highly trained, because they have been training for many years—but they are taught blind obedience and cannot act when their leaders are gone. Such emphasis on blind obedience of rank and file is a deterring factor in the time or dire stress. An army so trained is all right when victorious, but when once forced to the wall and faced with mounting reverses, will collapse like a bursting balloon."

O. C., WAAC Culminate Romance With Wedding

A romance that started in the spring of 1941 in the Boeing Aircraft plant in Seattle, Wash., culminated in marriage in the Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School here at Fort Benning recently for Officer Candidate Haven Stewart, Jr. and Auxiliary Mabel Rusten.

Both Auxiliary Rusten and Candidate Stewart are residents of Seattle, the former being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rusten and the latter the son of Mr. and Mrs. Haven S. Stewart.

The couple met in April of 1941 while working together in the Reproduction Unit of the Boeing plant. To the tune of the assembly lines and riveting machines the romance blossomed only to be cut short when Stewart entered the Army in September of 1942.

BOTH TO SCHOOL

Not to be outdone Mabel Rusten enlisted in the WAACs in October where she took a nine-week course in Administration work. Meanwhile Stewart was sent to Camp Robinson for basic training. While there he won his appointment to the Infantry Officer School and came to Fort Benning the latter part of December. About this time Auxiliary Rusten had finished her course at Des Moines and was assigned to Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Now it's not so far from Texas to Georgia and the pair decided that perhaps they had better get married before the Army separated them more than they were. Auxiliary Rusten received a furlough and came to Columbus and the next day they were united in the Chapel of the Third Student Training Regiment by Chaplain Adolph Billmann. She was the thirteenth WAAC to be married since that organization started.

HE OUTRANKS HER

When the bride said she'd "Love, honor, and obey" her husband, there wasn't any doubt about the "obey" part as she holds the rank of a private and he is a corporal. However that status may change in the next few months as Stewart will remain a corporal until he graduates in March and the bride may rise above him before then.

However, if Candidate Stewart completes his three months of rigorous training here in The Infantry School and graduates a second lieutenant in the Army of the United States there isn't any doubt who'll be the boss — at least for the duration and six months.

10th Armored Sweetie-Pie To Be Named

All you 10th Armored men who've been bragging about that beautiful gal of yours now have a chance to show her off.

The Service Club is sponsoring a contest to select the "Sweetheart of the 10th Armored Division" and they want pictures of your favorite gal (or gals).

The photos will be posted on bulletin boards in the Club and winners for each regiment and separate battalion and company will be chosen. Then the contest will be narrowed down until "Miss 10th Armored Division" is selected.

Enter as many pictures as you wish and send them to the Hostess office at the Club. Write your name and organization on the back of the photos and they will be returned to you at the end of the contest. Get going, men, and make your gal the toast of the Division.

'Gators Limit 'Dream Girl' To Sweethearts

Fort Benning's 124th Infantry Regiment is out to name a "Miss 124th Infantry" and no Hollywood glamor girl's going to grab off the honors—not while the boys of the 124th have home-town sweethearts.

The regimental newspaper, "The Alligator," has announced a contest to determine the regiment's "dream-girl" and contestants will be limited to the girl friends and sweethearts of the soldiers of the unit.

In the next five weeks, the newspaper will run two pictures each week of contestants submitted by soldiers of the 124th regiment. The winning girl will be selected from the ten pictures through a ballot of the men in the regiment. Editors of the paper will select the ten pictures to appear from photographs submitted by the men.

The soldier whose entry wins the contest will be awarded a portable radio.

Norman Rockwell Seeks Material At Ft. Benning

Norman Rockwell, nationally known illustrator, visited Fort Benning early this week to sketch soldiers of the post in various phases of Army training.

Mr. Rockwell, who is famed for his "cover" designs on "The Saturday Evening Post" magazine, spent several days here to complete his assignment.

During the first World War, Mr. Rockwell was in the Navy and sketched much Navy life for publications. Recently, a cover design of a typical Army cook on the front page of The Post, created many laughs among Army personnel.

Mrs. Rockwell is accompanying the famed artist.

L. J. RADIO SHOP
Dial 7572
2001 Cusseta Road

See Us for PHOTOSTAT PRINTS of Marriage Licenses, Birth Certificates, Legal Documnts, Etc.
BLUE PRINTS, BLUE LINE PRINTS, BLACK AND WHITE PRINTS—DRAFTING AND ENGINEERING SUPPLIES
WADSWORTH BLUE PRINT CO.
1231 - 6TH AVE. DIAL 2-2381

Have Your Photographs Made by
Artists from our 5th Avenue Studios
NO DEPOSITS AT TIME OF SITTING
PROOFS FOR YOUR INSPECTION BEFORE YOU BUY
"Our Prices Within the Reach of All"
Open 1 P. M. Till 9:30 P. M.
Send Your Photograph To Your Loved Ones
AIM'E DUPONT
1219 Broadway—Columbus, Ga.
Branch of 604 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C. Tele. 3-1505 Established 1884
"OFFICER CANDIDATES"—We have MILITARY Blouses, GARRISON Caps, SAM BROWN Belts—here for you to be photographed in before your graduation.

Woman's Club

By LAURA M. BAILEY

In line with the recent policy of providing outstanding entertainment for the members of the Officer's Club, the Music Group of the Woman's Club will present a program of music on Tuesday, Jan. 19, at 8:30 p. m., in the Main lounge.

The artists who will appear on the program have become popular with the music lovers of Fort Benning through their outstanding musical performances of the past. Mrs. Paul W. Newgarden will announce the program.

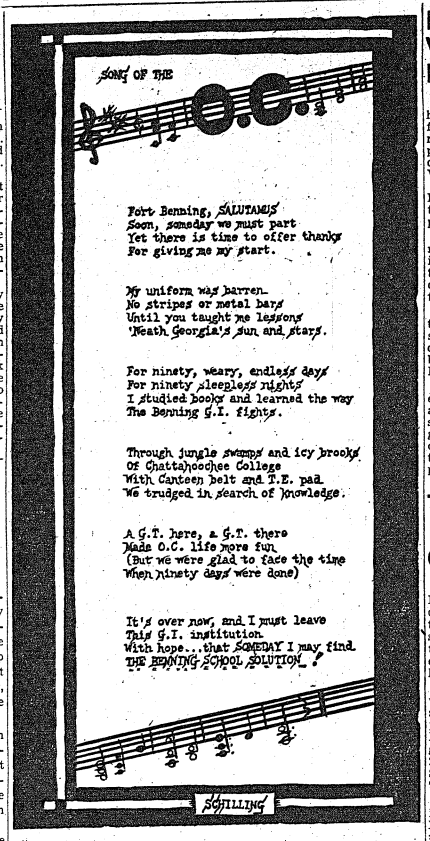
The opening numbers will be sung by Mrs. B. F. Willis, mezzo soprano. Her program will consist of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes", "Deep River" arranged by Fisher and "Look Off, Dear Love' by Gladys Bumstead, violin obligatto by Mrs. Frederick Harris.

Miss Ruth Beuttner, talented concert pianist, will present the "C Minor Prelude" by Chopin and "Scherzo B Flat Minor" by Chopin.

Mrs. Falko Schilling will offer a violin number, "Concerto in E" by Bach.

Mrs. John Spitzer, chairman of the Music Group and talented pianist, will play "Rapsodie in C" by Donayi.

33 Officers In Division Raised



Thirteen 10th Armored officers were promoted to captains this week and twenty second lieutenants were raised to firsts, the public relations office announced this week.

The new captains are: Thomas M. Anthony and Joseph E. Krocheski, chaplains, of the 3rd Armored Regiment, Camillo Epifano of the 55th Engineers, Stanley Weiner, Arthur Eisberg, William F. Ryerson and Warren B. Haskell of the 54th Infantry, Julius L. Wilson, William A. McKaney, Jr., and Keith J. Anderson of the 90th Reconnaissance, William E. Scott of the 11th Armored Regiment and Donald F. Forbes and Carl Hill, Jr., of CC "A."

NEW FIRSTS

The newly promoted first lieutenants are: John J. Raymond, Charles A. Gilmore, Jr. and Charles C. Franklin of Division Headquarters, John A. Israelson, John J. Pearse and Robert S. Hauger of the 55th Engineer Battalion, Richard A. Pfohl, Irving Sillins, Howard W. Magnuson, Daniel P. Sullivan, John E. Shelton and Oscar J. Swanson of the 423rd F. A. Battalion, Gomer R. Jackson of the Maintenance Battalion, Byford F. Long of Div. Headquarters Company, Gilbert G. Golding, Thomas E. Mostyn, Joe F. Robinson, Sidney D. Hilton, Joseph K. Cook and Louis S. Beasley of the 90th Armd. Recn. Bn.

WAAC third officer is equivalent to second lieutenant in the Army. WAAC second officer is equivalent to first lieutenant. A first officer is equivalent to a captain.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion service 8:30 a. m. Men's Bible class 9:30 a. m. Sunday school in the Children's School 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "Jerusalem, O Turn Thee"—Gounod. Sermon: Chaplain Frank M. Thompson. Offertory: "The King of Love My Shepherd Is"—Shelly. Young People's service 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Edgar L. Storey.

26th Infantry: Bible study 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplains Archie D. Clark and Edgar L. Storey.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Fellowship hour 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Frederick S. Zeller.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of Weld and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st S.T.R. and Acad. Regt. Morning services at 9:30 a. m. Chaplain Glenn S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in Day's Room 9 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Chapel No. 3, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplain William G. Jones.

Lawson Field: Chapel No. 2, Men's Bible study 10 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers 6:30 p. m. Song service Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Floyd S. Smith.

24th General Hospital: New Mess Hall, Sunday morning worship service 9:30 a. m. Vespers Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. (In nurse's recreation hall.) Chaplain Archie C. Carroway.

117th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Choir rehearsal at 10 a. m. Wednesday evening worship 7 p. m. Chaplain Edward L. Young.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 11:30 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and Clarence R. Ritchie.

2nd Student Training Regt.: Chapel No. 2, Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 2, at 9:45 a. m., Chapel No. 3 at 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Edward L. Wilson.

3rd Student Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 4, Holy Communion (Episcopal) at 8:30 a. m. Regimental services at 11 a. m. Protestant service in 8th Bn., at 11 a. m. (Brig. B-25). Chaplains Russell D. Laycock and A. B. Billman.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9:00 a. m. in the 863rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10:00 a. m. in the 31st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2, Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m.; and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building in Corridor C between ward 12 and 13; at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 3 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. colored troops; and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5000, located on the 6th Division Road and Cusseta Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 8:30 a. m., and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 8th Battalion.

Chapel No. 6, Harmony Church Area located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2 Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3, Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confessions will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Weld and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Friday: Sacred Heart Devotion will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, All Lawson Field organizations, and the 505th, 506th and 507th Parachute Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30, at the Children's School, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road. A five-voice choir of officers and enlisted men chant the services. A lively discussion concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd Student Training Regiment and the Student Training Brigade: Every Sunday morning, at 8:00 o'clock, in War Dept. Theatre No. 9, (Building B-466), 6th Division Road.

For men of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 764th Tank Battalion, 80th and 86th Field Artillery: Every Sunday morning at 10:30 in Building B-7. A lively forum on an important Jewish topic follows the service.

For men of the 10th Armored Division: Every Monday evening, at 7:30, in Chapel No. 4. Sergeant Abe Millman will act as cantor.

Women's Activities

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings, 9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday, 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. John Jeter; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magani; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. W. Huffstetler, Friday, Mrs. F. A. Noyes.

Sewing and knitting—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Tuesday and Thursday. In charge, Tuesday, Mrs. Paul Newgarden. Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

—V—

MOTOR CORPS

On duty Friday, Jan. 15, Mrs. J. M. Gavin and Mrs. A. F. Freund; Jan. 18, Mrs. T. R. Dulin and Mrs. W. L. Starnes; Jan. 19, Mrs. W. T. Ryder and Mrs. G. P. Howell; Jan. 20, Mrs. Wilfred Jackson; Jan. 21, Mrs. W. S. Eley.

PACKAGE WRAPPING

The Red Cross will continue to maintain package wrapping service for military personnel not having families on the post or in Columbus, 9 a. m. to 12 noon, daily except Saturday.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

Jan. 14

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:10 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL
8:00 P. M.—"Victory Quiz"—WRBL
9:30 P. M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS
10:00 P. M.—"The First Line"—WRBL

Jan. 15

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:10 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P. M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL

Jan. 16

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

7:30 P. M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL

10:15 P. M.—"Soldiers with Wings"—WRBL

Jan. 17

3:30 P. M.—"The Army Hour"—NBC
6:30 P. M.—Sergeant Gene Autry—WRBL
7:00 P. M.—"Commandos"—CBS
10:30 P. M.—"Report to the Nation"—CBS

Jan. 18

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:10 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P. M.—"It Happened in the Service"—NBC
8:05 P. M.—Reception Center Broadcast—WRBL

Jan. 20

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:10 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:45 P. M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL
9:30 P. M.—Sammy Kaye—BLU
10:30 P. M.—"The Man Behind the Gun"—WRBL

Movies

Main Theater and No. 8

Jan. 14—CASABLANCA—Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman, and Paul Henreid.

Jan. 15—SECRETS OF THE UNDERGROUND—John Hubbard and Virginia Grey.

RED RIVER ROBIN HOOD—Tim Holt and Cliff Edwards.

Jan. 16—SECRETS OF THE COMMANDOS STRIKE AT DAWN—Paul Muni, Lillian Gish, and Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

Jan. 18—DR. GILLESPIE'S NEW ASSISTANT — Lionel Barrymore, Van Johnson, and Susan Peters.

Jan. 20 — WRECKING CREW — Chester Morris, Richard Arlen, and Jean Parker.

Theaters 2 and 8

Jan. 14—STAND BY FOR ACTION—Robert Taylor, Brian Donlevy, and Charles Laughton.

Jan. 15—SECRETS OF THE UNDERGROUND—John Hubbard and Virginia Grey.

RED RIVER ROBIN HOOD—Tim Holt and Cliff Edwards.

Jan. 16—MISSION IN FRANCE—Joan Crawford and John Payne.

Jan. 17—CASABLANCA—Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman, and Paul Henreid.

Jan. 19—WRECKING CREW — Chester Morris, Richard Arlen, and Jean Parker.

Jan. 20—THE COMMANDOS STRIKE AT DAWN—Paul Muni, Lillian Gish, and Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

Theaters 4 and 5

Jan. 14—REUNION IN FRANCE—Joan Crawford and John Wayne.

Jan. 15-16—STAND BY FOR ACTION—Robert Taylor, Brian Donlevy, and Charles Laughton.

Jan. 17 — WRECKING CREW — Chester Morris, Richard Arlen, and Jean Parker.

Jan. 18—SECRETS OF THE UNDERGROUND—John Hubbard and Virginia Grey.

RED RIVER ROBIN HOOD—Tim Holt and Cliff Edwards.

Jan. 19-20—CASABLANCA—Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman, and Paul Henreid.

Theaters 6 and 7

Jan. 14-15—THE PALM BEACH STORY—Claudette Colbert, Joel McCrea, Rudy Vallee, and Mary Astor.

Jan. 16 — WRECKING CREW — Chester Morris, Richard Arlen, and Jean Parker.

Jan. 17-18—STAND BY FOR ACTION—Robert Taylor, Brian Donlevy, and Charles Laughton.

Jan. 19—SECRETS OF THE UNDERGROUND—John Hubbard and Virginia Grey.

RED RIVER ROBIN HOOD—Tim Holt and Cliff Edwards.

Jan. 20—GILLESPIE'S NEW ASSISTANT—Lionel Barrymore, Van Johnson, and Susan Peters.

Theaters 9 and 11

Jan. 14—SECRETS OF THE UNDERGROUND—John Hubbard and Virginia Grey.

RED RIVER ROBIN HOOD—Tim Holt and Cliff Edwards.

Jan. 15-16—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney, Joan Leslie, and Walter Huston.

Jan. 17—DR. GILLESPIE'S NEW ASSISTANT—Lionel Barrymore, Van Johnson and Susan Peters.

Jan. 18 — WRECKING CREW — Chester Morris, Richard Arlen, and Jean Parker.

Jan. 19-20—THE PALM BEACH STORY—Claudette Colbert, Joel McCrea, Rudy Vallee, and Mary Astor.

Theater No. 10

Jan. 14—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Jan. 15 — WRECKING CREW — Chester Morris and Richard Arlen.

Jan. 16—DR. GILLESPIE'S NEW ASSISTANT—Lionel Barrymore, and Van Johnson.

Jan. 17-18—THE PALM BEACH STORY—Claudette Colbert and Joel McCrea.

Jan. 19—ARIZONA TO JUSTICE—The Range Busters.

OVER MY DEAD BODY—Milton Berle.

Jan. 20—STAND BY FOR ACTION—Robert Taylor, Brian Donlevy, and Charles Laughton.

Dog Owners Warned To Keep Pets On Premises

Military police at Fort Benning have picked up and impounded a few dogs which have been permitted to run at large off the premises of the owner, it was disclosed today by Capt. Willie D. Veal, acting provost marshal.

Garrison regulations of the Post, which have been brought to the attention of residents here, prohibit dogs to run at large.

Capt. Veal stated that Garrison regulations provide that if a dog is impounded twice by the Military police the owner will be required to remove the animal from the post.

Dogs will not be permitted on the golf course, Capt. Veal asserted, or in swimming pool inclosures, mess hall, or public buildings, whether on or off leash.

Owners of dogs have been urged to exercise care to prevent the animals from "becoming a nuisance to other members of the garrison. Failure to do so will be considered cause for revoking authority to keep the dog on the post," according to Capt. Veal.

TIS Graduates In North Africa Get Promotions

Four recent graduates of The Infantry School's officer candidate course have been promoted to first lieutenants for demonstrating outstanding leadership in the North African campaign, according to word from Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters.

They are Lts. Irving C. Ludwig, Jr. and Randell W. Livingston, alumni of the 2nd Company, Second Student Training Regiment; Lt. William J. Voller, graduate of the 14th Company, 2nd S. T. R., and Lt. Roy J. Smith, a graduate of the 3rd S. T. R.

All graduated from O. C. school in early summer. Lts. Ludwig and Livingston were remembered as top men in their class here, while officers who had been in Voller's company said that at first he was "very shy," but came along fast near the end of the course.

Major Ward Ryan Is Lt. Colonel

Promotion of Major Ward S. Ryan, executive officer of the First Parachute Infantry Brigade to the rank of lieutenant colonel has been announced.

Colonel Ryan is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point where he played football and polo. Following his graduation he served two years in the Philippines, was S-3 of the 504th Parachute Infantry, then went to the First Parachute Infantry Brigade as S-3.

Medals of military honor and merit are created by act of Congress. The medal may be a permanent decoration, conferred on all men performing acts of bravery or heroism, as prescribed in the act, or Congress may, by resolution, authorize a particular medal for a particular person for a particular act of heroism. It holds the same status of any private bill. The President may order the "striking of a new medal" for award for distinguished service, which is given the same military recognition as one created by act of Congress.

AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY
And Property Damage Rates Reduced
Plus our dividend saving, makes net cost exceptionally low. It will pay you to keep your insurance. We write all lines insurance at a saving to policy holders.
The Lawrence Murray Agency
112—12th Street Phone 2-3345

Former Benning Officer Dies a Hero at Oran

U. P. Coorrespondent Details Story For Marshall's Posterity

Each day's news dispatches from the fighting fronts bring increasing evidence of the part Fort Benning soldiers are playing in the global war.

Latest news to reach the post tells of the heroic death of Lt. Col. George F. Marshall, who died in the assault on Oran Harbor, Algeria, last November.

Col. Marshall only one short year ago was stationed at Fort Benning with an organization camped on the military reservation. At that time he was a captain and well-known on the post.

Col. Marshall, whose family lives in Augusta, Ga., was 31 years old and in command of American assault troops in the daring foray into Oran Harbor. A native of Jacksonville, Fla., Marshall went to the University of Florida for one year and then to West Point.

Mrs. Marshall learned details of the death of her husband after writing to Leo Fisher, United Press correspondent, who was wounded in Oran and is recovering in a London hospital. Mrs. Marshall went to the press association in order to be able to answer "all of the questions" her two small children will be certain to ask about their father when they come of age.

"You need never fear the boys' questions, Mrs. Marshall," Disher wrote. "You can tell them their father tackled a job of greatest importance to the success of our armies, that he never quit fighting against impossible odds, and that he never struck the ship's colors."

Second STR Plans Jamboree, Show On January 22

A contest to pick the biggest "chowhounds" in the regiment will be just one of the events in a jamboree and show to be staged by the Second Student Training Regiment Friday, Jan. 22 in the Sports Arena in the Harmony Church area.

Each battalion in the regiment has been asked to put three top acts into the show and a call has gone out for all officer candidates and members of the permanent personnel with professional or amateur stage experience for the show.

Never discuss secret or confidential matters over a public telephone. The operator may be an enemy agent or you may be overheard.

Before leaving any assigned quarters in a theater of operations be sure that you have not left papers, letters, equipment or anything else which would give important information to the enemy.

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

—By Eve—

The period after the holidays should be put in "Never-Never Land." A restless, bored and dissatisfied feeling stirs in most of us. Our houses look dull and uninteresting after the glittering holiday decorations have been taken down. We've worn our dark clothes since early fall and we are looking forward to a new season. With wartime driving restrictions we must plan our shopping trips more carefully. More than ever, knowledge of our Columbus stores and their "good buys" are a necessary factor. Needs, not impulse will govern our trips into town.

No one has forgotten the glutted post office of the holiday season. If we were careless about mailing early, we've learned our lesson and will prepare for future contingencies by really shopping and mailing early. Valentines Day may seem a long way off, but it isn't. There's something sentimental about that day. We only remember our dearest ones. For that reason a personal luxury is a lovely remembrance of the day of tender emotions. KIRVEN'S as usual have a storewide choice for gifts. There are of course, the traditional perfumes and toilet waters packaged in beautiful containers. The Orloff beauty preparations in the quaint apothecary jars might almost be designed for Valentine's Day, they are reminiscent of a quieter period of flowers, twined ribbons and frilly cuffs. Lacey handkerchiefs, gloves, (if you know her size) and costume jewelry. For your best beau there are packs of playing cards, gloves, scarves and luxurious shaving preparations perfumed with spicy odors men prefer.

* * *

KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, Inc., have received a wonderful new stock of spring clothes. Just the sort we expect to see after Christmas. The perennial favorite for dress-up and general wear, the print dress. This colors are somewhat brighter this spring to lift our spirits. They're in crepe and jerseys and conform to the latest and newest lines. Then there are the luscious pastel colored gabardines and flannels in the classic sport styles beloved by the younger set. Devastatingly feminine are the navy and black sheers frothy with lingerie touches of organdy and lace at the neck line. These are the loveliest possible dress-up frocks for spring for important dates of both the young and those who have learned white touches on dark colors is flattering to all women. Each one of these new dresses are as new as a calendar and as inspiring as our secret wishes and hopes for the coming months.

* * *

Bright spring fashions are replacing the season's clothes that have been purchased by shrewd shoppers at a substantial saving at the PATRICIA 'GOWN SHOP on the third floor of the Ralston Hotel. There's a Miami touch to the new formals with splashy colorful print tops and bright skirts. Pastel flannels and gabardine sport things remind one of the cruise trip we never had, but always wanted. New felt hats in flattering pastels to brighten our winter wardrobes and lend new interest to our fur coats. If you haven't planned your spring needs, why don't you drop in on Patricia and let her help you plan a spring outfit. She's so wonderfully wise in the knowledge of making women look their best. Stylist is the correct word, and one doesn't often have an opportunity of using a service like this.

* * *

Women are always looking ahead with an avid interest for the new things that will be in the stores for the coming season. I had a preview of the Joyce shoes we're going to wear this coming spring and summer. They're engaging with a wedge heel and flat bow, reminding us of dancing school days and Sunday school. Smart they'll be with our spring prints and suits. Blutcher oxfords in the popular Alert pattern that gives one a fascinating pigeon toed look to our strides. They'll be available in blue, yellow red, orange and tan and made up in sturdy leathers, suede and pattent. Mr. Miller, of MILLER - TAYLOR SHOE STORE, has his finger on the trend of the times. He predicts 50 per cent of our shoes will be casual shoes, 25 per cent will be the walking type of shoe and the remaining 25 per cent high heeled shoes. Since we're really going to be walking these days, there's a certainty that Mr. Miller's predictions will become actualities.

Soldiers' Medal Given Lt. Burke Posthumously

First Lt. Thomas J. Burke, former assistant operations officer for Lawson Field, who died after dragging a fellow officer to safety from a burning air plane, has been awarded posthumously the soldier's medal, according to an announcement received from the War Department.

While returning from a routine training flight, a plane piloted by Lt. Burke crashed and burned Lt. Burke jumped clear almost immediately. However, his passenger, Lt. Oswald K. Marquardt was trapped in the burning ship and only due to the heroic effort of the pilot was Marquardt saved

Rookies Tackle Bayonet Dummies Marine Style

Those bayonet-drill dummies were getting it again last week—in the neck and in every other part of their incompleted anatomies as usual. But this time they were being perforated Marine Corps style.

The administrators of this new punishment were a group of recruits of the newly organized 300th Infantry. In an Infantry School experiment, the group received three days of intensified training in Marine Corps bayonet drill.

This does not mean that the dummies were having a respite from Army-style long and short thrusts. Another group of 300th recruits had three days of concentrated training with the bayonet as handled in the Army, which, like the Marine Corps, is no respector of dummies.

The Infantry School's experiment could result in changes in the bayonet phase of the Army's training program. The progress made, and the effectiveness attained, by the two groups in the three days of drill will determine that.

One thing is certain: The dummies looked as if they had been worked over by a night patrol of New Zealand's native Maori troops, who have a liking for combat with cold steel that is not at all to the liking of Axis troops in the desert.

Military subjects and operations never should be discussed in the presence or hearing of any stranger. The stranger may be a friend or an agent of the enemy.

Protect your life, the lives of others, and valuable property and equipment by always observing strictly all orders concerning the secrecy of messages.

Food Rationing Inspires War-Time Recipe Book

Army Wives, Girl Scouts Sponsor Volume To 'Keep 'Em Cooking'

A group of practical-minded Fort Benning women are convinced, there are a lot of Army wives who would like to know 200 different ways to cook good old rice and they've set about to do something about it.

Not especially about the 200 methods of cooking rice but about getting the word around about the hundred and one economical ways of meeting the war-time economies in the kitchen and still keeping the calories well-balanced.

Mrs. S. N. Boykin, wife of Maj. Boykin of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, is the "editor" elected by the Fort Benning Girl Scout Council to compile the time and food-saving recipes which all housewives have up their culinary sleeves and to issue the recipes in the form of a booklet to be distributed among Fort Benning home-makers—and anyone else interested in war-time economy.

MRS BOYKIN'S MINERVA

Mrs. Boykin was elected because she thought of the idea—and because collecting special recipes, menus and so forth has been a special hobby of hers for many years. Mrs. Boykin, who incidentally is the lady who can cook the rice in so many different ways, has studied economical cooking, recipes and such ever since her schooldays and plans to include a column of her own specialities in the forth coming cookbook.

"But every housewife today has different 'tricks of the trade' which might benefit some other woman faced with the shortage—and actual loss—of many ingredients for recipes," Mrs. Boykin pointed out this week.

RECIPES REQUESTED

"For this reason, we are asking all Fort Benning women to send us their special recipes right away and these will be printed in the booklet together with their names. We are especially interested in favorite tested food recipes complying with new wartime government rationing," she continued.

The book will be distributed by the Girl Scout Council when it is completed, which Mrs. Boykin hopes will be around the first of March. Completion of the book, however, will depend on the speed with which the recipes come in to Mrs. Boykin.

Fort Benning women, faced with dire economy, feel certain the proposed book will give a concise answer to the oft-heard question:

"What's cookin'."

Chinese O. C. Seeks Bars

Officer Candidate William Mar, 24 year old American of Chinese descent, whose parents were both born in China, is a student in the Tenth Company of the First Student Training Regiment. Having sacrifided a life-long ambition to be a flier for a career in the Infantry, he is looking fondly toward the day when he can enter combat duty against the Japs who have brought destruction and suffering to his parents' homeland.

Candidate Mar was born in Seattle, Wash. He attended the University of Washington for a time and received some R. O. T. C. training. In 1937 he made a futile effort to enlist in the Chinese Air Force, but government restrictions prohibited this move. In November 1941 his hopes to fly were again shattered when his application for service in the Royal Canadian Air Force was rejected.

He was inducted into the Army on April 23, 1942, at Seattle and was sent to Camp Roberts, Calif., for basic training. While there he attempted to become an Air Corps cadet. He passed physical and mental tests and appeared before the necessary board successfully. He was awaiting assignment to a class in the Air Corps when he requested transfer to the Infantry.

Mar was subsequently interviewed by officer candidate boards and his number one choice, Infantry, was approved. He now has hopes he can win his bars here and become an officer of the Infantry.

58 Soldiers Get Final Papers For Citizenship

Fifty-eight Fort Benning soldiers received their final naturalization papers last week, when they appeared before Judge Bascom S. Deaver of the U. S. District court in Columbus.

Oddly enough Germany with 10 petitioners, had the predominating group. The remaining applicants included representatives from 16 other countries.

"This nation is going through the most critical period in its history and it is depending on you and men like you," said Judge Bascom in administering the oath.

Going further he explained that American citizenship involved responsibilities along with acceptance of the privileges. He then congratulated them for already being in uniform and assuming a portion of these responsibilities.

The breakup of the Great Lakes gridders, hailed by sports writers as the nation's leading service team, got underway last week when Vic Marino, a guard of Ohio State, and Gene Ball, blocking back of Duquesne, were transferred to a gunnery school at Norfolk, Va.

With The Civilians

MYRTLE JOINES

The boys at Service Club No. 1 are giving a great big hand to Gwendolyn Bryant, who has just been appointed hostess at their club. We welcome her to Fort Benning and wish her a happy stay.

* * *

And while the big welcoming hand is out, let's include Ethel Barnett from Philadelphia and Gene Pirtle from Iowa, who are at the Lawson Field Sub-Depot.

* * *

Wedding bells continue to ring on the post, and this time for two swell gals in the Quartermaster office. Amie Butler, in the Commissary, was just married to Jack Helmkin (better known in Columbus as Jackson O'Conner, genial radio announcer on WRBL) last week, and Sally Benton to Heyward Newson of the Swift Manufacturing Company. These girls will continue working for the duration, at least.

* * *

Don't be surprised if those paratroopers don't start a petition to be sent Col. W. J. Niederpruem requesting that his daughter Verne (Record Section, HQ) be allowed to remain at Fort Benning while he is taking a course at the School of Military Government, University of Virginia, Charlottsville, Va.

* * *

Did you hear about the patrolmen trainees at Lawson Field? Well, there are five of them: John E. Rigby, George L. Shreets, Glenn Gilbert, Clyde O. Swims, Louis W. Norton and Albert Howard. I know, I named six, but Clyde Swims is going into the Army, so that leaves five. Mr. Saunders is going, too. These men guard the immediate vicinity of the engineering department of the sub-depot and are under the same rigid control as the military guards.

* * *

Here are some transfers at the sub-depot that you should know about. Miss Royal and Mr. Crittenden from the Area Engineer; Mr. Gregory from Hurtsboro, and by the way, he is an expert woodworker; Mr. Hutchinson and John E. Turner from the QM. Hutchinson is in the Electrical Dept. and Turner in technical supply department.

* * *

Vera Townsend is keeping busy in the Ordnance division while her husband is in the Solomon Islands. You can't keep these Army girls down. They really carry on while their men are away.

* * *

Remember the beautiful girl who was pictured in the Bayonet with Sergeant Robt. Templeton of the Identification Bureau? Well, she is married now too. That's bad news for lots of you fellows knew Asabelle Jenkins, but 1st Lt. Freddie Rusch is the one man in her life now. After a Florida honeymoon they are back on their jobs again. You can bet that couple has our best wishes.

* * *

Last, but not least, in any manner of speaking is our welcome to Edith B. Fritz, who came from Birmingham. That's two new girls at the Ordnance office this week.

Military Police Promote 18 Enlisted Men

Tech 5th Gr. Walter Schwartz of the Corps of Military Police at Fort Benning, has been advanced to sergeant, and 17 other enlisted men of the same organization have been promoted to higher grades, according to an announcement by post headquarters.

Pfc. William D. Bode, Frederick J. Canova, Nelson K. Johnson, Bernard W. Lundrigan, and Calvin A. Merson, made corporal. Pfc. Clyde C. Waggoner was promoted to technician 5th grade.

Pvts. Walter P. Brill, Henry J. Eibel, Junior F. Godwin, James I. King, John F. Kiser, Joe L. Leming, Ray J. Loop, Stanley M. Madland, Frank K. McArthur, Henry L. Thompson, and Howell W. White, were advanced to private 1st class.

Eleventh Regiment Promotes Fourteen

Fourteen enlisted men of the 10th Armored Division's 11th Regiment are wearing new chevrons as a result of their recent promotion. The men are:

To be first sergeant, Elmer E. Rose.

To be staff sergeants: Nicholas Hedlesky and Michael A. Travaliante.

To be sergeants: Sam E. Stephen B. Stofsick and Fred M. Boylon.

To be corporals, Carl E. Farmer, Albert C. Stewart, Jr., and Vincent W. Stevens.

To be technicians 5th grade, Andrew Schifler, William T. Siggins, Merrill E. Nave, John W. Ockenga and Harold E. Slayton.

Holding down the left forward berth on the Greenville Flying School (Miss.) basketball team is Pvt. Vernon Beard, captain and three year veteran of Mississippi State College's cagers.

We're Taught To Be Aggressive, But Not That Aggressive!

Ex-Commandos Describe Rigid Training Program

Two officer candidates at Fort Benning are veterans of the British methods of Commando training.

They are Officer Candidate Edmund J. Barker and Steven J. Archer, of the 14th company, Second Student Training Regiment, and both were picked from their American division to go to England to train and fight with the Commandos. Now they are training to become officers in the Army of the United States. And the Commando training they received was nothing for weaklings to attempt, either. A typical day of training in Northern Scotland where the camp was established, consisted of a 10-mile hike in an hour and a half. Several hours of running assault courses, hours of unarmed fighting, and then some calisthenics. All without any breaks, too, they recall.

The assault courses are two-mile affairs, mostly uphill over rugged cliffs, crags, moors and grass lands. And they are constantly beset with combat problems, engaging simulated enemy targets with live ammunition while instructors fire real hot lead into the intervals between the men to teach them the hard way not to bunch up or to expose themselves.

TRAINING COMPREHENSIVE

The training is completely comprehensive, covering all phases of combat, including street fighting, demolition, sabotage, amphibious, hit-run tactics.

The Commandos have worked out a form of tactics based on a two-man combat team, the two OC's say. Men are encouraged to team up together and maintain the closest sort of comradeship. Then, during combat, they fight together and cover each other during crucial actions.

When the American Ranger Battalions were launched, the United States Army command worked with the British commando authorities to inaugurate a program by which four picked men from American units would be sent to the training center in Scotland. O. C. Barker and O. C. Archer were two of the four picked from their divisions. These picked American troops trained to learn Commando tactics and methods, then return to their parent organizations to form the nucleus of the American Rangers.

Packaging Studied To Improve Quality Of Overseas Food

One of the reasons for the amazing keeping qualities of Army foods now being provided for troops overseas is the tremendous amount of effort that goes into the study of packaging, according to Col. Stephen B. Massey, director of supply at Fort Benning.

Most of the research on this problem is done in the Chicago subsistence laboratory of the Quartermaster Corps, where technicians are constantly on the alert to develop new methods of packing foods that will withstand extreme temperature, humidity, abuse of all kinds in shipping, gases, rain, and other elements.

The first step in developing a new packaging, according to Col. Massey, is to determine the exact requirements. Then special films of paper are tested for their suitability. Trial tests are then run to determine the fitness of the film selected. Many of these tests are held under actual field conditions.

Finally, the laboratory makes its recommendations, on the results of the actual test, and actually that means that the Army has obtained another new type of protection for food. Col. Massey stated that the aim of the Quartermaster Corps is to constantly improve packaging methods so that American soldiers will always have appetizing, wholesome food.

Lt. Boudreaux Goes To Wheeler

After nearly 15 years service at Fort Benning, First Lt. Henry J. Boudreaux has transferred to Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga.

Lt. Boudreaux, who has risen through the ranks to his present position, served for several years as first sergeant of the white M. P. detachment. In June 1942, he was commissioned first lieutenant and sent to Provost Marshall Training School Center, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Upon completion of the course, Boudreaux returned to Benning, becoming commanding officer of the M. P. detachment.

In this position he was responsible for handling many military police problems, such as the checking and directing of all motor traffic on the post.

124th Infantry Promotes Two; 11 Assigned

The promotion of two officers in the 124th Infantry Regiment and the assignment of eleven others to the regiment has been announced by Col. John D. Hill, commanding officer of the regiment.

Capt. Louis C. Wadsworth and Capt. Burnice Bell, both of whom served as enlisted men before being commissioned as officers of the Florida National Guard, have been promoted to the rank of major. Major Wadsworth is a former resident of Live Oak, Fla., and Major Bell comes from Bradenton, Fla.

hTe new officers assigned to the regiment, all second lieutenants, are as follows:

Lts. Norris J. Layton, Coopersville, Mich.; Edwin A. Willard, Merchantville, Pa.; James T. Eaton, Burlington, Iowa; Francis Joseph Haskell, Monterey Park, Cal.; Conrad D. Philos, Chicago, Ill.; John Lloyd Ledgerwood, Omaha, Neb.; Thomas Hardy Whalen, St. Louis, Mo.; Cornelius B. Holloway, Indianapolis, Ind.; Victor Bragaw, Long Hill, Conn.; Sam R. Haley, Terrell, Tex.; and Orren Beaty, Jr., Las Cruces, N. M.

Major Thompson Is Lt. Colonel

Major Charles Thompson, instructor in the weapons section of the Infantry School, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel, it has been announced at Fort Benning.

Col. Thompson before being called into active duty, December, 1940, was an instructor at Evanston, Wyoming. He has served at Fort Warren in Wyoming and Camp Walters, Texas. He came to Fort Benning in March, 1942.

Candidates Lead Nurses With Slogan 'Follow Me'

"Follow Me" was put into rhythm by the Tenth Company, First Student Training Regiment officer candidates. Dancing to the music of the Twenty-Ninth Infantry orchestra, 200 officer candidates and their student nurse guests celebrated the Yuletide season Thursday night at the Polo Hunt Club.

The dancing program was highlighted with the talents of several Tenth Company radio and theatrical personalities. "Truth and Consequence" a skit written by John Johannesson, Hollywood actor-producer and M. C.'s by George Hansen, radio actor, topped the entertainment bill. Program participants were selected from the assembled O. C.'s and their guests.

The evenings festivities were concluded with the traditional Grand March after which the guests were presented with military crested vanity cases.

Col. A. C. Blaine, battalion commander, Capt. Merton B. Tice, commander of the 10th company, Chaplain Pinkard, Lt. Murray Stern, Lt John Van Epps, Lt. John Crabbet, Lt. Earnest Bell and Lt. Chas. White were guests of the evening. The dance committee consisted of Lt. John Morley, chairman Candidate Johannesson, student chairman, and Candidates Hansen, Mills, Sandstrom, Ficus, Mathewson, and Joslyn committeemen.

'Bayonet' Artist Is Top-Notcher

In Officer Candidate Mel Casson the First Student Training Regiment boasts one of the ten top-notch cartoonists of the nation.

O. C. Casson was, before his induction into the Army, a regular contributor to such magazines as Esquire, Liberty, Click, This Week, the New York Times and innumerable other domestic and foreign periodicals. His talent was given official recognition when he was unanimously elected secretary of the American Society of Magazine Cartoonists.

The artist was born in Boston in July, 1920. He went to New York, where he spent four years polishing up his natural talent at art school.

Despite success in his chosen field, Mel still treasures in his heart the thrill that came with his first letter of acceptance.

"My hair stood straight up on end and my heart did the rhumba in double time," is the desciption he gives of this auspicious occasion. Since that memorable date he has gained international fame by dint of long hours and hard work.

One of his sketches is reproduced in this issue of the BAYONET, a cartoon which he drew especially for this publication.

AWE Service Organized As Aid To Army Wives

Wives of enlisted men and officer candidates may utilize the facilities of the Army Wives' Employment Service, newly organized agency operated free of charge by the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce.

At present there are more vacancies listed than applicants to fill them. There are openings for stenographers, sales girls, waitresses, and children's nurses in business firms, offices, and homes of Columbus.

Interested persons should apply at the agencies office, at radio station WRBL, 1420 Second ave., Phone 3-1473.

Men stationed at the Cavalry Replacement Training Center, Ft. Riley, Kan., will be given the opportunity to take boxing lessons from the highest paid mitt thrower in the world—Joe Louis. CRTC officials have announced that Sgt. Joe Louis Barrow will be in charge of a program of boxing instruction to be made available to all interested military personnel.

W. D. Civilian Pay Increased

Employees To Get Overtime In Excess Of 40-Hour Week

Retroactive to Dec. 1, 1942, civilian employes of the War Department will receive time and one half for all over a 40-hour week, according to an announcement at Post headquarters.

Those affected will be required to work a minimum of 8 hours a day, and 48 hours a week, except those paid on mileage, piece work, or whose duties are intermittent or inregular. Only in cases of emergency will overtime be required, and civilians will not be paid for this work unless it is specifically authorized in advance by their commanding officer.

It will then be computed at the rate of one and one half times regular pay up to salaries of $2,900. Above that amount it will still be figured on a basic sum of $2,900 per year. In no instance will the gross income exceed $208.33 semi-monthly, or $5,000 a year.

Overtime for December will be paid to eligible employes. However, proper authentication will be necessary, showing the extra hours worked and the authority.

Under the new bill, employes absent without pay are warned of a deduction for these periods equal to their regular salary rate plus overtime. Absences with pay will not affect payment of extra hour compensations. In addition leave which cannot be taken during one year because of the existing emergency, will be allowed to accumulate.

Tiger Battlers Go Into Action Next Monday

With the 10th Armored boxing "warm-ups" over, Tiger battlers will start hammering away in earnest Monday night when the inter-battalion boxing matches officially begin.

Every battalion in the division will be represented with the teams shooting for both the battalion championship and individual title crowns.

Each round of competition, except the first, will have a point value for the winner. As the fighter advances from one round he picks up points for his team and at the same time draws nearer to the individual championship. Winning battlers in the second round will net a total of 100 for his battalion team, quarter finals 200 points, semi-finals 300 points and 400 points for the winners of the finals.

Suitable awards will be given to both the winning teams and the individual champions.

KIRVEN'S

Two Weight RAYON HOSE

For 'Round-The-Clock Wear

$1 pr.

8½ to 10½

Stockings are precious, so select your hose with care for better wear. Delightfully sheer hose for gay datetimes . . . heavier working weight hose for busy walking days. Woven of high twist rayon yarn with cotton reinforced heels and toes, your assurance of long wear; correct for every occasion.

HOSIERY
KIRVEN'S STREET FLOOR

Clever Sunburst Color

Tish-U-Tex BERETS

3.95

A KIRVEN STAR ITEM

Chic Tish-U-Tex berets, radiantly colored as the sun, are the perfect mate for your tailored suits. Fashioned of soft felt with adjustable headsizes in aqua, rose, blue, yellow, navy, black, brown and white. There's a fascinating sunburst colored Tish-U-Tex beret for every spring suit you possess.

BETTER HAT SALON
KIRVEN'S SECOND FLOOR

Crisp Pigtail COTTONS

For the 7 to 14 Crowd

2.98

others to 3.98

Crisp new cotton frocks to make your little pigtailed darling as bright as spring. Gay stripes, bright plaids and soft pastel patterns on fine chambray, pique, broadcloth and gingham. All washable and colorfast. Adorable styles to choose from in sizes 7 to 14.

YOUNG COLUMBUS SHOP
KIRVEN'S SECOND FLOOR

J. A. KIRVEN CO.
YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

FT. BENNING BAYONET

FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1943

Edited By Public Relations Staff

The Benning Bayonet published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LED GER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

We are determined that before the sun sets on this terrible struggle, Our Flag will be recognized throughout the world as a symbol of Freedom on the one hand and of Overwhelming Power on the other.

GEORGE C. MARSHALL,
Chief of Staff.

Juvenile Delinquency No Problem on Post

Reports of increased juvenile delinquency due to the social upheaval naturally caused by turning a peaceful country into one that is bending every effort toward producing war-goods, war-gear and warriors, are alarming American sociologists.

Following the trend of conditions in England, this increase in juvenile delinquency was expected in America where, fortunately, organizations were geared in advance in an attempt to meet and solve the problem. Tremendous strain thrown upon such social-work agencies, however, quite apparently has made it impossible to keep up with the trend.

Family life is being changed with mothers going into war plants while fathers are in the Army or are working longer hours away from home. Other families are being uprooted and are going into cities where war industries are set up, thus causing problems due to overcrowding which are unavoidable during such times.

Studies of the problem made in New York show delinquency soaring 22 per cent above normal; child neglect by parents increasing about 39 per cent, and admissions of children to foster homes rising alarmingly.

No study appears to have been made in Georgia or in what is called the "Benning Area" but here at Fort Benning itself, there is no delinquency problem and social agencies and others interested in meeting and solving these problems might well take a page from Fort Benning's methods for handling the juveniles here on the post.

There is nothing very new in the methods, but the very fact that work is being done for and with boys and girls who live on the post—for which no funds are provided and for which no elaborate social service set-up is established—should prove of great import for such organizations as are set up with funds and staffs.

Here on the reservation the Boys Activities Athletic Association under direction of Lt. Col. Virgil Ney offers a full and extremely varied program for nearly 300 boys ranging from six up to high school age. And Girl Scout activities and others are established for the girls on the post.

Through the unselfish donation of their own time, Col. Ney and parents of the children who can spare any time at all from their own arduous work, are able to provide such a variety of program, that all of the children are able to have some absorbing interest.

There is nothing so very new about any of that, of course. But what is probably new and different is that Col. Ney has the foresight to turn the natural ambitions of the boys on the post toward the new and all-absorbing interest in the War. Hikes are turned into "reconnaissance scouting expeditions" and the boys scarcely realize that they are getting a lot of nature lore thrown in with their "new" activity. Cooking over an open camp fire, which is part of normal Scout procedure, becomes a means of preparing food in beleaguered territory.

For the youngest boys on the Fort, Col. Ney has established the "Benning Rangers," patterned after the famous Rogers Rangers of Revolutionary War fame. These youngsters even have wooden models of the Garand rifle of which to be extremely proud.

Nor are sports forgotten by any means, and complete football, basketball, baseball, boxing and other sports schedules are maintained.

Thus the natural interests of boys and girls is turned to advantage—and the beauty of it all is that in this enlarged program facing those interested in the welfare of juveniles no more cost is entailed than in the days of peace.

For social agencies interested in the question of how to meet the new problems facing them, there may be some hints for their activities in all of this.

The Naturalized Soldier And An All-American Army

The announcement of the large number of Fort Benning men who have become citizens while serving in the armed forces is in line with the objective of the government to make it an "all-American" Army and Navy through naturalization of every alien in service.

The drive to naturalize all alien soldiers is part of a two-pronged drive under way by the government. The second "prong" is a drive to naturalize the civilian relatives of all alien soldiers and sailors.

Many of these, says the government, regard themselves as patriotic Americans at heart, but have never before "gotten around" to becoming citizens. However, war has changed their attitude and they now wish to range themselves beside sons and brothers who are taking advantage of the new naturalization laws.

As a result, the dawning New Year is expected to set an all-time record for the number of persons who will seize upon the privilege of American citizenship.

During 1942, a total of 343,487 persons applied for naturalization papers, topping by more than 50,000 the previous record of 277,807 established in 1941. The flood of applications and naturalization during 1943 is certain to rise above even these marks.

One big reason is that Uncle Sam has made it so much easier for aliens in the armed services to become citizens. Under the second war-power act, men in the armed services may now become naturalized 90 days after induction.

The President's Garb Symbol of Americanism

Newspaper offices, like any other place of business where large or small groups of people gather day after day to earn their bread, thereby establishing an esprit de corps in a common effort, are often scenes of furious yet friendly arguments on one point or another.

THE BAYONET office is no different from any other such place of business, and recently this point came up: why does the President of the United States, exercising his Constitutional rights as commander-in-chief of the Armed Forces of this nation, never appear in a military uniform? Several logical answers were offered, but the most satisfactory one has come forth from a book published recently by Appleton-Century, a volume which Captain Russell J. Hammargren, post public relations officer, reviews in the current issue of the "Journalism Quarterly" and which he terms a "must" on the required reading list of every soldier and civilian who is a potential soldier.

The book is entitled "School of the Citizen Soldier" and was adapted from the educational program of the Second Army, commanded by Lt. General Ben Lear, and edited by Lt. Colonel Robert A. Griffin and Lt. Col. Ronald M. Shaw.

We can't remember whether Captain Hammargren was present when the argument was waxing heatedly, but the discussion of the President's garb as explained in the volume did catch his eye for he quotes it in his review of the work. Prefacing the quotation with the statement that the passage illustrates why the book is good, factual propaganda, the reviewer offers this paragraph for our military and lay edification:

". . . by wearing the garb of the citizen when he reviews the Army or Navy of the United States, the commander-in-chief enhances the dignity of the uniforms of the armed forces, for in a democracy the uniform is the symbol not of tyranny or dictatorship but of service on the part of free men in the preservation of the ideals and the protection of the homes of the free people."

Thus, by retaining the apparel of the people whom men in uniform represent in this greatest of battles for individual and collective freedom, the President's lay garb is an ever-present reminder that American soldiers in the vast majority are civilians. They have doffed temporarily their civilian uniforms just as they have laid aside their civilian pursuits to take up arms in the service of their country and of all free men. When that job is completed, and not until, will they again clad themselves in their lay garb. The President's civilian uniform is indeed the symbol of everything the American holds dear and closest to his heart. Militarism is one of these only when our way of life and our precious liberties are endangered.

National Service Insurance Is A Sound Investment

We could write columns about the value of the National Service Life Insurance, but we figure that what soldiers are interested in is "how much" and "what are the benefits." All we can do, in urging that you investigate National Service Life Insurance—and quickly—is to answer these two questions in the following box:

HOW MUCH: For the $10,000 policy, the following rates:

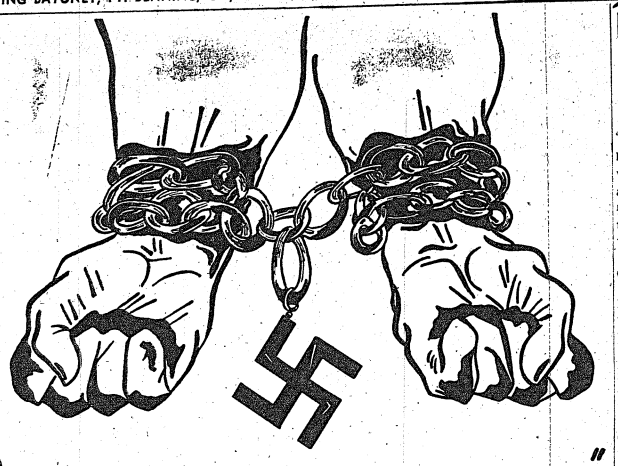
Age	Monthly Premium
18	$6.40
19	$6.50
20	$6.50
21	6.50
22	$6.60
23	$6.60
24	$6.70
25	$6.70
26	$6.80
27	$6.90
28	$6.90
29	$7.00

(As the age increases, the premium amounts go up in ratio a few cents.)

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS: A $10,000 policy would, in the event of your death, pay to your beneficiary:

If under 30, a monthly income for 20 years of $55.10.

If under 30 years of age, a monthly life income of $39.70.



If 40 years of age, a monthly life income of $45.00.

If 50 years of age, a monthly life income of $53.90.

If 60 years of age, a monthly life income of $68.10.

Increased benefits for higher ages.

Says Lt. John W. Inzer, post insurance office: "National Service Life Insurance is not compulsory. But it is such a good offer at such low rates, rates that only service men can obtain, that we are trying in every way possible to get it across to the men. And here's a point. The monthly premiums can be taken from soldier's pay each month so that he will not be bothered with the details of looking after the premiums. For your own sake and the sake of your loved ones, investigate National Service Life Insurance now."

"It Can't Happen Here if You BUY BONDS"

PAUL ARENDT 3RD SGT.

USO Presents—

A FAREWELL TO H. J. 'POP' SIMS AND A 'TRY, TRY AGAIN' STORY

By Cpl. Solomon S. Kleindorf

Last night at the USO-Salvation Army Club in Phenix City a spaghetti dinner was given for men of the 505th and OCS. . . . This was the first of its kind at this club, and is an experiment to see how it will be received. . . . If the directors feel that this was a success, it will become a weekly feature. . . . This coming Sunday at the same club, the 505th Band will hold a bit of entertainment at four in the afternoon.

It seems that there is a malicious rumor going around about the Club in P. C. . . . The rumor states that this club is off limits to officer candidates. . . . This is not true—the club is open to any service man. Please help the club to combat this rumor by telling your friends and having them pass it on.

* * *

Columbus and Fort Benning is losing one of the real old-timers in the USO, when H. J. Sims, Army and Navy USO-YMCA director, goes overseas, on foreign duty. . . . Sims, who for a long time has been just plain "Pop" to the boys, has had 20 years' experience in YMCA work in Brazil. Now he is once more ready to leave the country to take over a job in the fighting zone.

According to "Pop" Sims, his club was the first to turn over its facilities to the soldiers of Fort Benning. It was because of the consistent demands of a commanding officer of the First Division, when the first was here, that Columbus realized the job it had on its hands.

We are sorry to see him go, but we all know that his good work will be carried on. . . . If this keeps up, there will be a complete turnover in the different clubs. During the past few months, Adjutant Andrews left the Salvation Army Club in Phenix City; Adjutant and Mrs. Evans left the SA Club in Columbus, and now "Pop".

* * *

This week, the Traveler's Aid-USO in Columbus gave out a story of real pluck, courage, and determination.

About two months ago, a young fellow in civilian clothes turned up at the office of the Travelers' Aid with the following story:

He, Jimmy Lee, had come to Columbus to "sign up" with the Army. He was 17 years old and had had a hard time persuading his parents to let him go, as he already had two older brothers in the Armed Forces. After lot of brooding, Jimmy was finally allowed to enlist and proceed to Columbus, which was the nearest recruiting station, only to find that the army wouldn't take him until he was 18. He then tried the Marine Corps, and the story there was that he was old enough but he needed the written consent of his parents. . . . Jimmy had been so confident he would be accepted he had not brought enough money for a return trip. And now his problem was how to get home.

The Travelers' Aid put him on a bus and sent him home, but not before warning him that the next time he came to Columbus to be sure and have enough for a return trip.

Nothing was heard from Jimmy Lee for about a month, and by this time everyone was sure that Jimmy was in the Marines. . . . But no, he again showed up and again without the fare back home.

When he had returned home the first time, his parents had signed the papers but asked Jimmy to remain at home and help his father on the farm for about a month. Finally reaching Columbus for the second time, he found out that the quota was filled for a week and they didn't have any accommodations for Jimmy to use. He came to the TA and asked them to wire Atlanta to find out if there was any chance to "sign-up" there. The answer from Atlanta was "no."

The TA put poor, disappointed Jimmy back on a bus headed for home. But they expect to hear from Jimmy again, because he's all out to help Uncle Sam "axe" the Axis.

Thus the USO-Travelers' Aid is not only interested in the men in uniform, but those who are soon to be in them, too.

Day-Room Duds

Sgt. Harry R. Chard

BLACK MAGIC

A couple of Negro soldiers at Fort Nub were discussing the army.

"Big Boy, how much service has yo all got in?"

"29 Years, 7 months, and 6 days."

"What rating is yo all got?"

"6th Class specialist."

"Why, you black handshaking devil!"

"I've been framed," cried the recruit as the sergeant yanked a picture from the day room wall and smashed him over the head.

Does Private Hard-tack raise hell when he gets a lot of liquor in him?—Nah! he raises hell when he don't get a lot in him.

A girl I hate
Is Lotta Curves,
She smokes my cigies
For her nerves.

THE NAKED TRUTH

Private Bunk Tag says his home town will soon be one of the beauty spots of the state—they're gonna establish a nudist colony there.

An M. P. noticing a recruit in improper uniform, walked over to him and asked, "What's your name, soldier?"

"Jones," replied the recruit, at the same time extending his hand. "What's yours?"

"Say, Soldier, did you ever ride a jackass?"

"No."

"Get on to yourself, Big Boy."

BEEZ-NESS

Private Izzy Goldstein had been picked up by the cops in a nearby town—he was charged with committing a misdemeanor (being drunk). When he faced the court the judge said, "Young man, I find you guilty and I'll give you your choice: 60 days or 60 dollars."

After thinking for a moment Izzy replied, "Your honor, I theenk I take the money."

Chaplain's Corner

BE GOOD

Chaplain Frank M. Thompson

Charles Dickens never liked to say "goodbye" in leave-taking.

Were he alive today he would under no such obligation. For the homely, old fashioned word has gone out of fashion. Now it is "I'll be seeing you," "I'll see you in church," or "be good."

The chances are that when people part they will meet again. It is not so certain that they will meet in church. That phrase no doubt is considered a pleasantry.

Be good perhaps belongs in the same category. Still there lurks the implication that something more is meant. At least they remind many of us of days gone by.

A friend of mine vowed never to tell any one to be good. For that was the constant admonition of his youthful days. His parents no doubt meant well but to be constantly reminded of goodness became very wearisome In after years he must have changed his mind for he came to understand that goodness was worth-while.

Now I suppose no two persons could agree as to what is meant by goodness. However, that is true of many things. Patriotism is difficult of definition. But when we look on the life of Washington, we know what patriotism means. We need no explanation.

When a father says, "I have a good son," a mother, "I have a good daughter," we know what they mean. They need not explain.

When a certain man, is pointed out as a good citizen, we are pretty certain what's implied. Yes, goodness seems to be worth while.

You remember that princely man, Charles Kingsley, wrote "Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever." Stand before the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Westminster Abbey and chiseled in marble you will read.

They buried him among
The kings because he hath Done good toward God and Toward His house."

So, be good.

LAFF OF THE WEEK—

BAINBRIDGE ARMY FLYING SCHOOL, Ga. — (CNS) — when two ferry pilots landed here and requested overnight accommodations, the operations office called the Officer of the Day.

"Sure," said the OD, "just send 'em down to the BOQ."

"I'm sorry, sir, but I don't think the Bachelor Officers' Quarters would be . . . er, quite suitable . . ."

"What do you mean!" interrupted the indignant OD, "we may not be on a par with the Astor, but if BOQ is good enough for the permanent personnel it ought to be good enough for transients. What do they want anyway, a country club!"

"But, sir," said the operations clerk, "these ferry pilots are women."

Eve Says—

SHE'S FED UP WITH WOMEN IN SLACKS ON CITY STREETS; BACON, BUTTER HOARDERS

A famous radio comedian opens his program with the phrase, "Monkeys are the funniest people". Funnier than monkeys are women, for they adopt strange and awful fashions and trends, no matter how silly or unattractive such fashions might be for them.

This recent scourge of slack-clad women who parade the streets of Columbus and Fort Benning is a particular affront to those who ask for, nothing more than femininity in womenfolks. What mad impulse gave it impetus is unknown, nor whence the fashion originated. There are no defense industries in Columbus that call for women's appearance in functional uniform of slacks. Columbus is not a resort town, so the need for casual sport wear is misplaced.

Not one in the dozens observed were pressed and neat. They were crumpled and baggy, both at the knee and posterior regions all sorts of shoes, including high heels added discord to the bright cotton socks that showed as the trouser leg flapped against the ankle, all manner of coats from casual to fitted and furred models that were tight or sloppily loose. Maybe the girls wore them because of the cold, a conceivable excuse to keep the legs warm.

One model was a honey to curl the pages of Vogue. The slacks were of that stripped denim of farmerette style. The material was the kind from which overalls were made up for the important railroad men who clink a hammer against train wheels. A shrunken, tightly buttoned red sweater completed the garment. Will Hayes wouldn't have worried about this sweater; she didn't look at all like Lana Turner.

A gaudy "just landed on Ellis Island" handkerchief tied on the chin finished up the ensemble for a day's shopping in town.

These remarks may be taken as a reflection upon the inalienable rights of women to wear what they please. They are intended as such. If men ever demonstrated the fact they want their women to be women, our men have with their silly and utterly feminine Christmas purchases. Our Post Exchange and stores in Columbus were swept bare of lace, chiffon and perfumes. Girls like these don't indicate they want us slopping around town in slacks.

If we have a single excuse for cluttering up Fort Benning and Columbus, it's for the happiness and pleasure we can give our men when we're with them. It is our bounden duty to look pretty and appealing in the loveliest things we can afford. They're going to remember us as we are today in some war off foreign country.

While we're speaking of alarming feminine tendencies, we'll point a finger of accusation at the gals that load their baskets with six and eight pounds of bacon at the commissary, and three and four pounds of butter at the Post Exchange. The fact that countless families will do without butter and bacon because they have bought so much doesn't bother them in the least.

It is bothering their sister shoppers though, and as our President's wife, Eleanor Roosevelt has written," their neighbors will find them out". They shall indeed be marked so long as they live among us as unworthy and selfish women.

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

By S-SGT. TOM McDONALD

Today is somewhat different from what it ordinarily would be because it reminds me of this same time one year ago. My Uncle Eldridge a Civil War veteran of 98 years of age was lying quietly on his death bed. Most of our family and Uncle's creditors were gathered around for the final moment. With a look of extreme anxiety, my Aunt Minnie leaned over to kiss him farewell and Uncle Eldridge turned over and died.

A few minutes later some representatives of draft board No. 2 arrived with the news that Uncle's number had come up. They immediately set in to give him a physical examination and upon finding the body still warm they ordered him to report to Ft. Bragg for induction.

After going through the induction procedure and arriving at the Reception Center, he was immediately promoted to sergeant, when they learned of his intensive military experience. Uncle had been a bugler in the Civil War, a rest room orderly in the Spanish American War, a Pfc. in the World War, and had almost managed to get in the Spanish Civil War, but had been reclassified by Aunt Minnie.

Uncle Eldridge's job at the reception center was to take charge of the new recruits and see that they were always available when they were needed. After comparing notes with the other Non Com's, Uncle realized that the remuneration of this position exceeded his wildest dreams. Being an old gambling man, he immediately caught on to the routine.

Every day at 10—2 and 4 o'clock when the new bunch of recruits arrived Uncle Eldridge would gather them together and tell them with great tenderness and remorse that his old friend Corporal Tweedy had just died a hero's death and that he thought it would be awfully nice if all the fellows would chip in and buy the Corporal some flowers. Being green and also most anxious to impress the "Old Sarge" the recruits would fill Uncle's hat with offerings, which usually was somewhere between 12 and 20 dollars.

Uncle Eldridge would then file solemnly out to the back of the latrine to count it. After an interval of ten or fifteen minutes he would return to the barracks to find the recruits sitting sadly on their beds with tears in their eyes for Corporal Tweedy.

Being a regular fellow and always eager to cheer people up Uncle Eldridge would suggest a little "crap game" which would begin immediately and last until the last recruit was down to his last dime. Uncle would never take a man's last dime because he was so big hearted.

Well, to make a long story short, Uncle Eldridge had a very severe disappointment recently. An order from the War Dept. came out stating that the Army didn't want men over 38 and Uncle's C. O. thought it best to discharge him.

Uncle raised a hell of a row over it but a few days later he arrived back home to find Aunt Minnie waiting for him. As he solemnly greeted her he felt in his hip pocket just to see if the $10,280 he had accumulated was still there. Then he looked up at Aunt Minnie again and realized that money wasn't everything.

POETRY

"YE WHO BELIEVE IN THE BEAUTY AND STRENGTH OF A WOMAN'S DEVOTION"

TO MY SOLDIER HUSBAND

I should leave you?
They could not know
The depth of my love
One day without you,
And little care I
If another comes.

An hour with you,
My day is complete.
Tomorrow is welcome—
My love I'll repeat.

Devotion undying,
Centered on you.
Moods not denying—
That I love you.

No day, no week or hour
Is mine, and mine alone.
My life, my love, my emotions,
Are yours. Or have you known?"
—A Private's Wife,
Who Followed Him to Georgia.

AN EXPOSTULATION ON PERSERVERANCE

On! On! My friend, don't dare to rest
On languid laurels that you've won!
But buckle down and do your best,
To find still more that may be done.

Don't let one failure leave you sour,
Whereas all aims you'll then forsake;
For people fail each fleeting hour.
At something which they undertake.

Yet! 'Tis for you to concentrate
On swimming to success' brink
And never! ever! contemplate
On being with the ones who sink.

Make up your mind to do or die.
A spirit in itself, an art;
And lo! You'll learn it is no lie
That: "Patience plays an honored part."

So on, my friend! Don't dare stop now
But fain to wear ambition's gown;
And try! And try! And do, somehow.
Affix more jewels to your crown.

—Zaricor Jackson,
Medical Detach.,
Hdqrs. Col. Reception Center.

Benning Walt Winchell Now on Overseas Duty

General Harding Once Served In Infantry School

A major general on duty in command of American troops overseas only a few years had the jocular title of "the Walter Winchell of Fort Benning," according to an article in the current issue of the New Yorker.

In sketching the life of Maj. Gen. Edwin Forrest Harding, the New Yorker article told of General Harding's work on the staff of the Fort Benning Infantry School.

After relating his early military experiences after his graduation from West Point Military Academy, the New Yorker had this to say about the former Fort Benning officer:

"American Army officers do not usually spend more than a few consecutive years in foreign service and accordingly in 1927, Major Harding sailed back, from China after turning over his battalion to Joseph W. Stilwell, then a major . . .

MINOR TACTICS

"After a leave of a few months, Major Harding was finally ordered to the Infantry School at Fort Benning and then to the General Staff School at Leavenworth. Upon graduating from there, he was assigned to the Infantry School as chief of the military history and publications section.

"Among the publications his section got out was a textbook called 'Infantry in Battle' which it took a small army of authors and editors three years to produce and which was devoted to the presentation of examples, discussions and analyses of minor tactics.

"George C. Marshall, then a lieutenant general, who had returned from China the same year as Harding and had become assistant commandant of the Infantry School at Fort Benning, approved Harding's suggestion that the book should be based on actual combat experiences . . .

"In addition to getting out publications of a rather solemn nature, Major Harding operated extracurricularly as the conductor of a frivolous column in the post newspaper, which earned him the title of the Walter Winchell of Fort Benning."

Many officers and men who have been at Fort Benning for several years will recall the era in which General Marshall and General Harding were at Fort Benning.

A Peep At The Pics

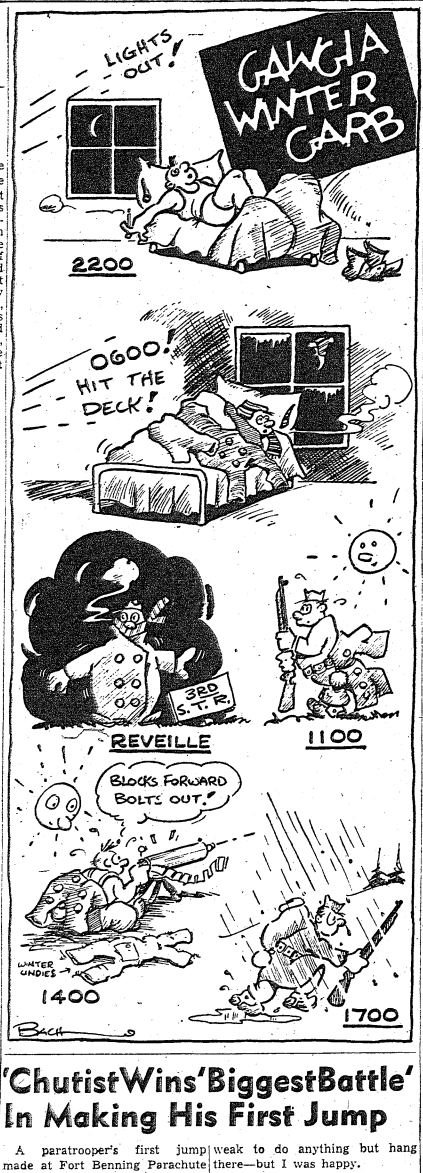
Another one of those shows we all like to see in order to tell the people seating next to us what is going to happen next, is "Wrecking Crew" . . . With Chester Morris and Richard Arlen doing the leading male roles, one can be assured that plenty of action will take place . . . And take place it does . . . The plot revolves around the usual story of wrecking crews, their fights, women, and action . . . It all ends with the man who has worked half his life to attain something, throwing all way in order to save the life of a friend. Go see it but please don't sit next to me.

* * *

Well, here we go again with another of those great thrillers from the west . . . In his new picture, "Red River Robin Hood," Tim Holt not only ruins forever the beautiful dreams I've always had of Robin Hood, but also steals the comic book name of "Mr. Justice." There isn't much that can be said in favor of this show. If this is the type of show you like, please don't let me keep you from it, but don't say I didn't warn you.

* * *

Once before I told you the story of "Casablanca," but that was a long time ago. So here it goes again . . . The unusual part of the entire production was the timing . . . Publicity on the pic was released about a week before the announcement by the government that our troops had landed in North Africa near the city of Casablanca . . . Not so very long ago this city was used by refugees seeking transportation to America . . . At that time it was in the hands of Vichy France and supposedly there wasn't anything the Nazi could do to harm the people seeking escape . . . That is the story of "Casablanca" with the cast above average. Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman, Paul Hendreid, Claude Rains, Conrad Veidt, Peter Lorre, Sidney Greenstreet, S. Z. Sakall, and many others help make this one of the outstanding cast pictures of the year.



* * *

"Commandos Strike At Dawn" is the story of the Norwegian people and their fight for freedom from under the heel of the Nazi boot . . . This show stands out from the others because it welcomes back to the screen one of the real old-timers of the silent days. This is her first film since 1934, when she left the screen for the stage. . . To tell the story of the pic, is to give the entire thing away. But there is something that can be told . . . When Director John Farrow tried to pick up one of the helmets borrowed from a Canadian Commando unit, he was warned not to touch a certain portion of the brim. Latest regulations call for a part of the brim to be sharpened to a razor edge. If a Commando loses all his other armament, he simply takes his hat off to the Nazis and starts swinging. So if a Commando takes his hat off to you, don't be flattered. Just start running.

FT. WORTH, Tex.—(CNS) — Overheard inside a powder room in a night club here was the remark, "Dearie, he's wonderful—4-F with a B card and a C note."

When a tourniquet is tight enough to stop the bleeding, tie the stick in place with another bandage.

Johnny Risko, the ex-Cleveland Baker Boy and Rubber Man, one of the most feared of all heavyweights, is attached to the 464th C. A. at Camp Davis, N. C.

'ChutistWins'BiggestBattle' In Making His First Jump

A paratrooper's first jump made at Fort Benning Parachute School was described by Capt. Arthur W. Ferguson as the "hardest battle of my life—but worth it . . . and it landed me with the swellest group of men and officers in the world."

Writing to Col. Clark Williams, his sponsor at the Citadel, South Carolina Military College, Captain Ferguson, of Macon, gave a detailed account of the "jitters" that strike most trainees just before the first leap into "thin air." A copy of his letter was received by former Mayor Herbert Smart of Macon and released through the Associated Press.

On the Fort Benning field, awaiting his turn, Ferguson "sweated" his first leap, claiming nothing about his parachute harness "seemed right," in his anxiety.

'NOTHING RIGHT'

"I adjusted my harness time and again," he wrote. "I asked several of my fellow officers if theirs fitted but they were also having difficulty. I examined theirs and they examined mine but still we weren't satisfied. We were experiencing the so-called 'sweating it out' every parachutist feels before his first jump."

After smoking numerous cigarettes and visiting the water cooler a dozen times, Captain Ferguson said he concentrated on the fact that the percentage of casualties had been small.

"We sat on a bench three hours (45 minutes by the clock) while we watched the planes fly over the field, throttle down, unload their 'passengers' and 'mushrooms' float down. Why wouldn't my heart stay in its right place—it was always in my throat—and what I wouldn't give for another drink of water."

Two groups of 12 men each were assigned to the plane from which we jumped. Ferguson was the last man in his group to leave the plane. He said the door of the plane seemed miles and miles away as he awaited his turn.

"Suddenly I was number three man; number two man pivoted, he's in the door, he's gone—I threw my right foot down, I was on the door, I was gone—into space. I fell for centuries, I forgot to count, then I thought, 'something should happen now, Crash—a ton of bricks fell on my head—no pain—I was suspended 1,000 feet above the ground—too weak to do anything but hang there—but I was happy.

EVERYTHING QUIET

"Everything was quiet, just like it is when snow is falling on a cold winter night. It was beautiful. Silent and still. No experience, no thrill can ever compare with it. I had no sensation of falling whatever. Just suspended.

"Then suddenly the ground rose up and seemed to almost hit me in the face—it was right there before I knew it. I didn't do anything I was taught but made an old football tumble which was second nature and the natural thing for me to do. I stood up, then collapsed to my knees from weakness and joy that I was back on the ground with no injury. Then the perspiration began to flow and I was drenched in one minute's time.

"Off the record, Colonel, I fought the hardest battle in my life; I conquered fear because nothing but will power drove me through that door. But it was worth it and I'm with the swellest group of men and officers in the world."

TIS Regiment Nears Perfect Insurance Mark

Concerted Drive To Be Launched By Break-Throughs

Enlisted personnel of the 117th Infantry Regiment who draw dependency allotments have scored a near-perfect record in purchasing National Service Life Insurance in response to an "all out" campaign launched by regimental officers to encourage the men to invest in the insurance.

Colonel Grant A. Schlieker, commanding officer of the Regiment, disclosed today that more than 1,500 enlisted men in the regiment who draw dependency allotments from the government have each purchased at least a $5,000 policy, of National Service Insurance.

"Only eleven men who draw allotments do not have insurance yet," Col. Schlieker said. "However, these eleven men have not been contacted yet. We expect to have a 100 per cent record when men are told of the value of insurance."

AVERAGE POLICY $7,500

Of the 1,500 troops with dependents who invest in insurance, each has at least a $5,000 policy. Col. Schlieker said that the average policy is about $7,500.

Shortly a concerted drive will be made to encourage all men in the regiment to take out insurance. Col. Schlieker stated that with insurance officers in each company, each soldier is contacted individually and told of the advantages of the life insurance which is available to soldiers at a low premium.

One insurance officer in the regiment, Col. Schlieker recalled today, sold more than $500,000 worth of insurance in one evening.

"The officer, who formerly was an insurance salesman in civilian life," Col. Schlieker said, "pointed out that he certainly wished he could have sold such tidy amounts in one evening's work as a civilian and reap the commissions."

Yule Mail Rush 'Post' Mortem Has Drole Angle

Now that the ache in the postman's bunion has begun to subside, a humorous story or two are forthcoming from the melee known as the Christmas rush.

The First Student Training Regiment's Fourth Company has a mail clerk who collects tales regarding public mayhem of soldierly addresses. His most recent specimen was bagged in the Casual Detachment's orderly room:

"A friend of mine in this detachment was beating his gums about a letter he had received from a civilian admirer. He had written several notes to the unnamed party and placed on each his return address in abbreviated form. Then came a letter of inquiry wanting to know what he was doing in a 'casual ditch.'

"Brrrrrrrr, it's tough on us guys some of the time but, just as this mail feller says, even a ditch has its advantages at times."

Before stacking arms, ranks are opened.

90th Recons Go Over The Top In Bond Drive

The 90th Reconnaissance Battalion of the 10th Armored Division can now boast of complete success in its War Bond drive. One hundred per cent sales was the goal attained last week by the 90th Armored in the sale of war bonds.

The success is due to the untiring efforts of Lt. Col. Cornelius A. Lichirie, battalion commander, and the personal appearance of Miss Mary Ann Mercer, radio star who started the drive when she was guest of the Recons at a war bond luncheon held several months ago.

In the course of the drive two men came to the Personnel Adjutant and said they would like to make allotments, but were not able to do so. "But surely you can put aside at least the minimum of a dollar and a quarter?" the officer asked. No, they couldn't do it. They had already bought the limit; paid out $7,500.00 for $10,000.00 in bonds, the maximum permitted by law. One of the men was Technical Sgt. Albert J. Perry of Headquarters Company and the other was Private Kyle T. Brown of "D" Company.

Lawson Bombsight

By CPL. E. N. FUSILLO

That the soldiers who leave Lawson Field for technical officer candidate schools rank high was again shown when two of the soldiers who recently attended the Airplane Mechanics School at Keesler Field, Miss., were in the first five out of a class of over a thousand.

Sgt. Robert L. Rhodes, who is now assigned to tech inspection was second in the class, and averaged 94.5 for the sixteen-week course. Sgt. Rhodes received a diploma "with distinction."

Pfc. John Van Grouw who is assigned to base engineering was fourth in the class, averaging 93.4, and received a diploma "with distinction."

Three other soldiers from the Field attended the school. They are Sgts. Paul G. Schert, Stanley Gecewicz, Alert Crew, and Cpl. Edward Chmur, base engineering.

The soldiers who went to the school are members of the 54th Base Headquarters and Air Base Squadron commanded by Major George W. Gorman.

GUNNERY SCHOOL

At the Harlingen Army Gunnery School, Tex., Lawson Field's aerial gunnery candidates are also proving their worth. Sgts. William G. Lileinthal, Jr., Heath Staton, Ernest Philipps and Ottis W. Simpson left the 7th Observation Squadron to attend this school.

Assigned to the Third Training Squadron at HAGS, Sgts. Staton and Lileinthal were among the top of their class. In addition Sgt. Lileinthal is the current skeet champion of his unit, having scored the greatest number of bulls eyes during training and is considered by his classmates a definite threat to any enemy crew.

While at Harlingen, the "gunners" appeared in the motion picture "Aerial Gunners" filmed there with Chester Morris and Richard Arlen.

NEW FLIGHT OFFICERS

The following flying sergeants of the 5th Troop Carrier Squadron have been appointed Flight Officers: Staff Sgts. R. N. Perez, J. A. Scrivener, C. L. Grams, V. Hemphill, J. A. Oppreight, R. T. Worthington and W. A. Pouncey.

CARLSON-WORTHINGTON

The marriage of Flight Officer R. T. Worthington of the 5th Troop Carrier Squadron to Miss Doris Carlson of Hobart, Indiana, took place here at "the Chapel on the Hill." Flight Officer and Mrs. J. A. Scrivener were the attendants for the bride and groom.

Chaplain Floyd S. Smith of the 54th Base Headquarters and Air Base Squadron performed the ceremony.

The couple will make their home at 1711—39th street, Columbus, Ga.

STANDING INVITATION

If Pfc. Edward Wozniak of 4th Comm., and New York, ever does get back to New York, he will proceed directly to the famed Stork Club. It seems that "Wozy" read a magizine article about Sherman Billingsley, colorful proprietor of the Stork. He was so intrigued, he wrote to Mr. Billingsley, reporting that he hoped to visit the Gay White Way some day and if it were possible, he'd like to compare the cafe society with that in Baker Village. Oddly enough, Mr. Billingsley welcomed the idea. He dispatched a printed invitation to "Wozy," to be his personal guest. First Sgt. T. I. Burke is placing the invitation "on file."

OF PUBLICITY 'HOUNDS'

There is as much rivalry between officers who own dogs as there is between the Army and Navy. They say it is good natured fun . . . but they also say that every dog is entitled to one bite—and that's just what they want.

Capt. William J. James, Operations Officer of the 7th Observation Squadron at Lawson Field, owns a little black cocker spaniel who almost always will answer to the name of Roger. Lt. Wallace E. Grubbs, Provost Marshal of Lawson formerly had a dog named Route-step. He was of unknown breed, having arrived with a cadre and settled down to a comfortable life in Armament quarters.

Route-step first made the front pages when he went AWOL and was reported seen on 42nd street, heading for the Port of Embarkation. Later word was received that he was overseas. But this turned out to be a canine rumor for Route-step turned up at OCS in Miami.

Capt. James accused Route-step of being a cheap publicity hound and felt that while Roger was on the Field observing all that took place within sight or hearing and keeping an eye on all government property he should be top man in the dog circle on the Field.

Oh, yes . . . the feud grew and if the soldiers don't love the sailors and the sailors don't love the marines and the marines don't love the Air Corps . . . then you ought to follow this feud between Roger and Route-step.

WE STILL REPAIR WATCHES
KROGLAND'S CLOCK SHOP
1142 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

Doughnut, USO Cookies Vie For Honors

Statistics show that after 25 years of faithful and undisputed gustatory service to American fighting men, the humble doughnut is now meeting friendly but severe competition from "bottomless" USO cookie jars.

The first patriotic doughnut on record came to the rescue of 1200 lonely, raindrenched doughboys of the First Division of the first AEF, recently stationed at Fort Benning, in a little French village in October, 1917.

Two Salvation Army workers at the canteen managed to bake a batch of real American doughnuts. Facilities were limited. Output was slow. Men lined up in the drizzle awaiting their turn. The trick worked, spirits were lifted, and the doughnut has been the mainstay of all Americans under arms since.

TRIO PROMOTED

Three officers were recently promoted to a higher rank in the First STR. They are 1st Lt. Curtis J. Ivey to the grade of captain; 2nd Lts. Rex H. Blankenship and Eugene H. Cavin to the rank of 1st lieutenants.

Be careful not to reveal even the most insignificant matters to strangers. By piecing such information together with that obtained elsewhere, the enemy may learn something of the greatest importance.

CLUB MATAG
★ ★ ★ NOW SHOWING ★ ★ ★
BRILLIANT CAST OF SIXTEEN PEOPLE
6 DANCING SAXONETTES
WITH JACK SAXON
FRANCES DAWN
"Tops In Taps"
Watch Her Tapping Toes
JEAN SCHANTZ
In Wildly Acclaimed Acrobatic Contortions
THE EVER-POPULAR M. C.
EMILE PARRA
who is being seen in recent film, "Buck Privates."
For Dancing Feet
VELMA 'n' JEAN
ALL-GIRL ORCHESTRA
Finest In The South
NOW PLAYING AT THE
CLUB MATAG
For Tops in Entertainment Every Night

Southern Manor
Presenting New York's Radio and Night Club Entertainers
DINE & DANCE — TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY
At Junction of Opelika and Montgomery Highway
★ Opening Of New Floor Show
Monday, January 11th
★ DOT and DAVE WORKMAN
"Musical Cocktails From Frolic Club, Chicago"
★ PEGGY KRAFT
"Sensational Tap Dancer From Roxy Theatre, N. Y. City"
★ JANE KAYE
"Musical Comedy Singer From Roosevelt Hotel, N. O."
★ TUBBY RIVES (Held Over)
"Popular Master of Loughs From "18" N. Y."
★ LEE CAMP
"Singer From Roosevelt Hotel, N. O."
★ Jerry Jarrett and His Orchestra
"Direct From Village Inn Club, N. Y."
YOUR FAVORITE PLACE IN ALABAMA TO DINE
Special Western Steak and Chicken Dinners
COUVERTE 50c DIAL 9433

BAMA CLUB PRESENTS NEW SHOW
★ STAR OF STAGE AND SCREEN ★
THE SINGING TROUBADOUR
★ NICK LUCAS ★
PLUS
JOHNNY PLATT Magician
"THE THREE HEARTS" Rhythmic Dancing Starlets
JOHNNY HOWARD—Comedy Star
WE SPECIALIZE IN DELUXE FOODS
FINEST WESTERN STEAKS AND CHICKEN
Just Across Lower Bridge, First Bldg. on Right—Dial 3-1051
Admission: Week Nites 50c; Saturday Nights $1.00

WHERE TO DINE & DANCE
IN AND AROUND COLUMBUS

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT
WINSEL CASTLE
"COLUMBUS' FINEST"
2803 Cusseta Road Cecil Lloyd, Prop.
FOR OFFICERS AND MEMBERS ONLY

PAT PATTERSON 44th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED Chicken IN THIS TOWN
GA. CAT FISH Dinners WITH CORN BREAD
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY Steaks THAT'S REALLY TENDER
POINT BLUE Oysters FRIED, STEW, RAW
Come Out on No. Highland Bus 8 Private Dining Rooms

JERRY'S
206-38th St.
FAMOUS FOR STEAKS & CHICKEN

BURG'S TAVERN
C. T. BURGESS, PROP.
ON NEW ROUTE TO BENNING
PIT BARBECUE
GRILLED STEAKS, SANDWICHES
The Fort Benning Personnel—their wives, and guests are especially invited to enjoy our unexcelled food and friendly service. Dancing permitted.
C. T. BURGESS, Prop.

Fried Chicken
Catfish Dinners
Ga. Stew
Bar-B-Q
1700 Fourth Ave. Dial 9880
Dining Rooms
Curb Service

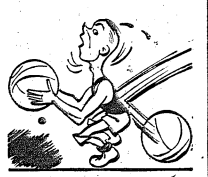
BURG'S
TAVERN
On New Route to Benning
PIT BARBECUE
GRILLED STEAKS
SANDWICHES
Dancing Permitted
"ALL AMERICAN"

In New York, it's LINDY'S—In Havana, it's SLOPPY JOE'S
In COLUMBUS, it's THE ROOSEVELT!
Columbus' finest and friendliest Cafe—serving only the very highest type of food, and beverages reasonably priced—and where efficient service is supplemented by warm cordiality and an air of sincere friendliness.
We invite the personnel of Fort Benning to make the FRIENDLY ROOSEVELT CAFE their second home.
THE ROOSEVELT CAFE
1027 BROADWAY

CHEROKEE LODGE
Endorsed by
Duncan Hines
By Appointment Only

GOO-GOO
The Site Of Good Food
AIR CONDITIONED
½ Fried Chicken Served Unjointed Without Silver, Gobs of Shoe Strings, Jug of Honey, Hot Buttered Rolls. The Most Modern and Best Known Cafe in Columbus, Georgia
Free Parking — Curb Service
Private Dining Rooms
Dial 3-4491
700 Linwood Boulevard

COPELAND'S BARBECUE AND STEW
3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620
BARBECUE—STEW—SANDWICHES—DRINKS
CHICKEN—STEAK—OYSTER DINNERS
CECIL JONES, Prop.
PLENTY FREE PARKING AND CURB SERVICE



Sportscasting

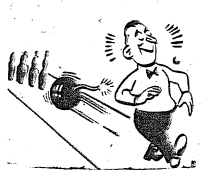
BY SGT. CARL NEU.

At this point in the basketball campaign, there is little doubt but that those rampageous tossers of the 507th Parachute are the best quintet on the reservation. They have racked up eight straight wins over soldier, collegiate and civilian fives and impressed everyone with their scoring power and finesse. Last week-end, they really hit their stride when they bowled over the Auburn Tigers on Friday night by a 40-29 score, and then returned to the post the very next night to take the measure of the 29th Infantry, defending post champs, by a 43-33 count.

In fairness to all concerned, of course, it must be stated that the Two-Niners were not quite ready for top-flight opposition. Several of their hold over stars had been out to practice for only a few days, and they did not exhibit the calibre of play Saturday that carried them to post laurels last winter. However, the 507th looked red hot and deserved to win, although the triumph was a costly one, in that they lost the services of Harmon (Tex) Walters for at least a month.

Walters is the former Rice Institute star who played on last year's co-champs of the Southwestern Conference. He has paced the chutists in scoring in every game, and tallied eleven markers at Auburn and ten against the Blue Devils. Near the end of the tilt, however, he slipped in a scrimmage and badly damaged his ankle. This week, the injured member was as big as my thigh, and medicos have advised him to stay off the court for at least a month.

Some may have wondered why such a powerful quint as the 507th is not in the Fort Benning Conference. The reason is simple. Conference rules state that only one officer may play at a time, and in order to keep their strongest combine on the court, the Spiders from over Alabama way must use at least two commissioned men in the line-up. Lieutenants Karl Lillge, their coach, and Stan Ardziejewski are the backbone of the defense at their guard slots. The other three starters, Walters, Slim Stout, and Scott are enlisted men. At any rate that's what kept the chutists from the conference. Hats off to the 507th right now, though, because they are the hottest five at Benning.



* * *

Rickey Battinelli, the handball ace from the 29th Infantry, gave a splendid account of himself in his challenge match with Joe Goldsmith on Sunday night, even though he lost by scores of 21-11, 21-11, and 21-15. Goldsmith, you know, is currently chalf of the national doubles championship team of Goldsmith and Gordon in four-wall play. He is generally rated as one of the best in the country, and had expected to trounce Battinelli by runaway scores.

But the big O. C. from the 2nd STR hadn't reckoned with plucky little Bat's skill, and was pleasantly surprised at the competition he received from the Two-Niner who had never played the four wall game before he came to Benning. So impressed was Goldsmith, that he has even suggested having Battinelli team up with him for doubles play at the war's end. The lads are going to play again tonight in a two-game match on the post courts behind the gym, and Battinelli is hoping to give the O. C. flash even a better battle than on Sunday.

* * *

Benning lost its number one bowler last week when 1st Lieut. Henry Boudreaux was transferred to another station. The popular M. P. Chief has ranked high in both post and city hardwood circles for several years when he served here as a master sergeant. He has frequently travelled to national tourneys and returned to Benning with titles, and has also placed high in crack competition.

Just last winter, Boudreaux, teamed with Sgt. Ledford Calsor at New Orleans to gain fifth in the Southeastern doubles, and he also grabbed fifth place honors in the all-events scoring. Later he captured the post doubles crown along with Lieut. Perry O'Donnell. This year, early in the fall, Boudreaux posted a 269 score on the post alleys, and it still stands as the best score of the campaign. We hate to see him go, because he has helped Benning's fame a lot in the pin game.

* * *

Out in the 2nd STR, they are bemoaning the fact tht they can't collect all their top-flight court stars on one team, because a good many of them, of course, are officer candidates. So the editors of the Pine-Bur, the regimental paper, decided to pick a mythical all-star student quint for the regiment, and in so doing, they discovered some pretty impressive court talent.

At one forward, they list Andy Smith, who played for the Wisconsin Badgers in 1938 and 1939 and made the Big Ten's all-star team. The other forward is Will O'Rourke, a pro star from New York-Pennsylvania circuit, who holds every sort of scoring record up that way. Clarence Buckley, the pivot selection, was an AAU star in West Virginia, and during the 1937 tourney at Denver was selected on an all-star five. Henry Brown and George Fox were listed as guards. Brown was a West Virginia collegiate ace, and captained the Mountaineers, while Fox used to toss 'em through the hoop for Fordham's Rams. The Pine-Bur is now trying to arrange a game between this all-star quint and the Leaders, representatives of the regiment in the Fort Benning Conference. Good idea.

* * *

BAYONET TIPS—Have just heard that J. D. Thomason, well-known Columbus grid official, who worked several Benning tilts this past fall, is now a private at Camp Crowder, Mo. At least he should be used to Army sports after his experiences at Benning. . . . Congratulations to Len Belin, the hard-working and likeable athlete of the 124th Gators who played first sack in baseball and left end in football. He's now a first sergeant in the Harmony Church outfit. . . . Tip-of-the-week to Tippy Friedman, 2nd court ace, who racked up 18 points in the first loop game after having had only two practice sessions with the team. . . . And that's the sports for now.

Star Ball Player Now Assigned to Academics

Baseball fans in the Academic Regiment are cheering the arrival of 2nd Lieutenant Herbert S. Moore who was assigned to the regiment this week.

Lt. Moore has been a professional ball player for the past ten years, spending his entire career with the St. Louis Cardinal farm system as a pitcher and first baseman. He injured his pitching arm in 1938, which caused him to turn to the infield.

As a first sacker for the Washington, Pa. team in the Penn State League where he was player-manager, Moore batted .316 in 1940. His best pitching year was in 1935 when he won 21 and lost five for Ashville. The following year he was with Houston for whom he won 17 and lost 7.

Lt. Moore entered the army in September, 1941 and completed his basic training at Camp Wheeler. He then went to Ft. Bragg where he starred for his regimental nine, batting .416. Then, with a sergeant's rating he came to Benning to attend Officer Candidate School, receiving his golden bars on December 30, 1942.

Upsets Mark Opening Of Court Leagues

Artillery Fives Win Openers In Sand Hill Loop

Service And 90th Recon Quintets on Top In Cussetа Circuit

The 420th F. A. Bn., 419th F. A. Bn., Service Company and the 90th Armored Reconnaissance Battalion blew the lid off the opening games of the 10th Armored Divisions Sand Hill and Cusseta Leagues on Monday night at the Harmony Church sports arena as they came through with impressive victories that thrilled basketball fans who were on hand to boost their teams.

SAND HILL LEAGUE

In the Sand Hill League, the 420th F. A. led off with a 28 to 24 victory over the 11th Armored Regiment that was packed with thrills and some mighty good team play. The Field Artillery boys held an 18 to 9 lead at the half and were never in danger. Lewis was high scorer for the F. A. with 14 points while Rowlands chalked up 10 points for the Tankers.

With the score tied 12 all at the half, the 419th F. A. pulled away from the 54th Infantry and won out 25 to 23 in a rip roaring game. It was a nip and tuck affair with all members of both teams hitting the bucket.

CUSSETTA LEAGUE

Both games in the Cusseta League were walk-aways as the 90th Recons tramped the 150th Signal Company 26 to 16. The Recons grabbed an 18 to 8 lead at the half and continued to drop in the points all through the second half to win out by a ten point margin. Herbke and Lubisch were leading scorers for the Recons while Hager flipped in the majority of tallies for the Signal team.

Service Company went wild in a scoring spree in the second half as they mauled the 80th Medics to the tune of 31 to 16. With the score tied 13 all at half time, the Service team held the Pillrollers to one field goal during the second half to win out by the biggest margin of the evening. Perry and Schapiro led the Service team in scoring, with 12 and 10 points respectively while Russoe flipped in 7 points for the Medics.

Star Fencer In ISSC Regiment

Nino Maniaci Captured 1939 World's Fair Title

There's a corporal in the Academic Regiment of the Infantry School Service Command who is a fencer of national repute. He is Nino Maniaci, foils and sabre champion at the New York World's Fair in 1939.

Maniaci has a long record of achievement in the fencing game, and hopes to continue it at Fort Benning. He now has plans underway to form a nine-man team in the Academic unit, and has offered to give instruction to recruits.

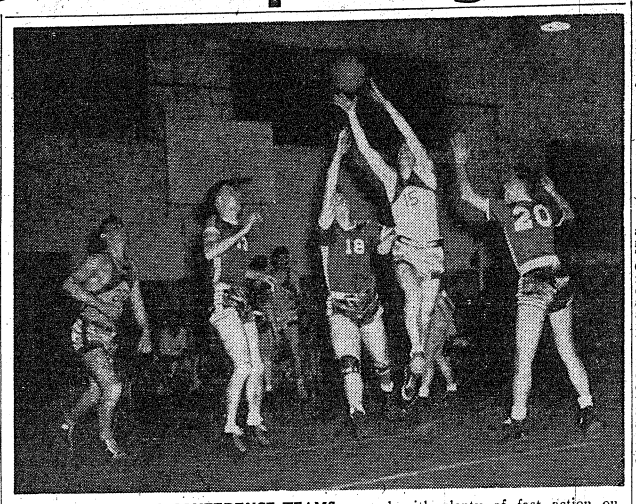
STARTED AT 15

The fencer started his career when he was only a lad of 15 by winning the Senior Boys' Club title in New York in 1931. The next year he captained the fencing team at New York's Textile High school which won the city title.

In 1935, Maniaci won a scholarship and studied the finer arts of brandishing the foil and sabre at the Salle d'Arms of Georgio Santelli the noted Olympic coach.

WON MANY MEDALS

The Academic corporal is the proud possessor of medals which he won at the 100-year-old' Saltus Club in New York, the World's Fair, the Italian-American National Olympic Championships, the National Foils and several other competitions.



In addition to these achievements, Maniaci has also coached at various high schools and YMCA's around New York City, and has directed championship matches throughout the East, including the national championships held at the New York Athletic Club.

Lawson Field Downs Nehi Quintet, 56-45

Led by Arvid Hall and William Metcalfe with 18 and 17 points respective, the Lawson Field fliers defeated a strong Nehi team from Columbus, 56-45, at the post gym last week. The Nehi line-up featured such players as Elmer Riddle, famous pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, and Junior Wilson, star player from Jordan High.

High scorer for the Nehi Reds was Junior Wilson with 17 points. The Nehi aggregation ran up an early lead in the first quarter to lead 16-9. Lawson Field making most of their opportunities count, went into a half time lead of 24-22. With Hall, Metcalfe, and Horn setting the pace the Fliers moved well out in front in the second half to win the game 56-45.

LAWSON FIELD (56)	G.	F.	P.
Metcalfe	8	2	18
Moran	1	0	2
Horn	4	2	10
Henderson	0	0	0
Watson	1	0	2
Hall	7	4	18
Crow	3	0	6
Totals	24	8	56
NEHI (45)	G.	F.	P.
Wilson	7	3	17
Riddle	3	1	7
Wright	0	0	0
Haney	1	0	2
Adair	1	0	2
Forgen	1	2	4
Totals	20	5	43

FORT BENNING CONFERENCE TEAMS opened with plenty of fast action on Tuesday night. Here is a shot taken in the post gym which shows Dornich (15) of the 117th Breakers leaping for a rebound. Coming up fast to surround him are Stolarzyck (13), Hutchins (18) and Krezewski (20) of the 29th Blue Devils. At the left is Darin (22) also of the 117th quintet which bowed to last year's champs by a 48-39 count. (Signal Lab Photo by Stock.)

Tex Walters Scores 20 Points As 507th Quint Topples Nehi

Paced by Tex Walters, former Rice Institute star who tallied 20 points, the fast-moving courtmen of the 507th Parachute Infantry won an independent league game in Columbus last week by a 42-30 count over the strong Nehi quintet. It was the fifth straight win for the Benning soldiers.

The game was fast and hard-played all the way, with the Nehi Reds holding the chutists in check for three quarters. The city five led at the start, but fell behind by an 18-13 count at intermission. The Reds then rallied to knot the count just before the final canto opened.

Walters was too much for the Nehi tossers, however, in the final period, and his late scoring splurge resulted in a paratrooper victory. Elmer Riddle, star pitcher for the Cincinati Reds in the National League, was the scoring leader for the losers with 10 points.

PFC. Ernie Derho, of Ft. Bliss, Tex., won the welterweight championship of the State of Texas recently when he took a clean-cut decision over Midget Mexico, former titleholder, in El Paso. After the fight Derho said, "The Texas State title is just going to be the stepping stone for me on my way to the world's crown!"

29th Boxers Prepare For Defense of Post Laurels

With the regimental boxing now completed, leather slingers in the 29th Infantry have now turned their attention to the task of forming another championship team to defend the post honors they won a year ago. The 1943 ring crew of the Blue Devils is being tutored by Lieut. Ben Boulware with Mike Paglione, former pro boxer, serving as assistant coach.

Lieut. Boulware, a fine all-round athlete, will give the men the full benefit of his past experience as a boxer in college. Paglione will attempt to get over to his fellow fighters (he's a member of the team, too!) all the points he has picked up during his stellar career in the ring.

Between them both and the natural ability of the pugilists, it looks like a repeat performance of last year, when the Devils were champs of the post.

Cpl. Stutes, bantam champ; Pfc. Parks, welter champ, and Pvt. Parker, runner up to Parks, fought on the team last year and along with Paglione and Abramowitz are the nucleus, and the mainstay in the ring. Whittington and Edwards, heavy and lightweight champs of the regiment, respectively, are expected to improve even more under their coaches' care.

Cpl. Inserra of Co. K., middleweight champ of last year and this, who has not lost a fight since he dropped a close decision in his first fight early in '42, has not as yet come out for the team but is expected shortly. He's a great fighter, with a terrific right hand and should strengthen the team considerably.

Others on the team are Cpl. Chaplain, Pvt. Bloom, Pvt. Willis, Pvt. Loggins, Pvt. Candalino, Pvt. Plummer, Sgt. Munsey and Pvt. Cruz.

Bobby Sylvester Outpoints Thompson In 505th Battle

The long time argument between the First and Second Battalions of the 505th Infantry as to which unit housed the regimental boxing champion, was settled Friday night when Sgt. Bobby Sylvester of the First won a unanimous decision over a much heavier Sgt. Tommy Thompson of the Second.

There were five preliminary bouts of three rounds each but the main-go for the 505th championship went ten full, bruising rounds. Sylvester, who has fought all around this section of the country and who claims Sarasota, Fla., as his home, dropped but one round—the third—when he was floored for a three-count.

Sylvester, who weighed in at 148, had Thompson (165) on the mat eleven times, including three in the final canto. Reportedly, Thompson was holding on at the bell but was still gamely on his feet.

It was said that when Sylvester's outfit carried him from the ring on their shoulders, Thompson passed out from sheer exhaustion.

Sylvester, who has been in the army for seven years, at one time had a bout with "Red" Cochrane lined up for a world title, but because of military restrictions the battle was never put on.

Thompson hails from New York City and has had quite a few fights in that section of the country.

The 505th title go was held in the 507th Parachute Infantry gymnasium in Alabama.

SPORT SLANTS

Tommy Hughes, who pitched .400 ball for the Philadelphia Phils during the 1942 season, was inducted into the Army last week at Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Hughes, a righthander, won 12 and lost 18 last season.

The City College of New York basketeers, coached by Nat Holman, avenged a 51-0 football trouncing by Ft. Totten, N. Y., by defeating the soldiers 67-42 on the Beavers' home court last week. City College held a halftime lead of 38-18. High scorer for the winners was Finestone with 21 points. Fullam, Ft. Totten center, led for the losers with 16.

Dr. Mal Stevens, former head football coach at Yale and New York Universities, was sworn into the U. S. Navy Medical Corps as a Lieutenant Commander last week. Dr. Stevens took the oath from Lt. Gordon Brown, student manager of one of the Yale football teams coached by Stevens.

The Camp Grant (Ill.) Warriors with an All-American line-up of former college basketball stars scalped the Ft. Sheridan (Ill.) hoopsters last week, 59-39. Herbrechtsmeir, former Iowa State Teachers flash, gathered 12 points; Hogan, former Loyola court wizard, counted 10 points; Frivaldsky, Baylor star, marked 11; and Szkukala of DePaul registered another 10 to lead in the scalp treatment.

Harold Gower, well - known jockey, has entered the Army and is now stationed at Ft. Eustis, Va. After completing his basic training, Pvt. Gower hopes to be transferred to a cavalry unit.

The world's champion bulldogger, Herbert (Hub) Whiteman, is now at the Reception Center at Camp Wolters, Tex., awaiting assignment to a permanent station. "Hub" won his title at the Madison Square Garden rodeo last year, and has performed in rodeos all over the country.

Al Coccozo, 200-pound socker from the Medical Replacement Training Center, Camp Pickett, Va., outpointed Bill Jochman, Engineer and former heavyweight champ of Camp Polk, La., in the main go of the boxing show held recently in the Field House at Camp Pickett.

Max Loefler, Fordham U. basketball star, is now shooting for "gold bars" at the Officer Candidate School, Camp Davis, N. C. As key man on the Ram five for two years, Loefler ranked high in national scoring honors before his enlistment in the Army.

The Second Air Force gridders of Spokane, Wash., captured the West Coast Army football title with a 26-13 victory over a hard fighting but outclassed March Field (Cal.) team recently. The champs closed the regular season with 10 victories, no defeats and 6-6 tie with Washington State.

The nephew of former World's Champion James J. Corbett is now stationed at Ft. Bliss, Tex. His name is PFC Chesley S. Corbett and he bears a striking resemblance to his uncle, "Gentleman Jim."

Cpl. Gunnoa Botts got off an 80-yard punt for the Camp Pickett (Va.) Warriors in the last game of the season against the Roanoke All-Stars, which the soldiers copped 26-0.

Sgt. Ed Sheehan, who formerly played ball for the New York Giants, is stationed at Camp Chaffee, Ark. Outfielder Sheehan has also played with the International, Cotton States, the "3-I" and Piedmont leagues.

SPORTRAITS

29TH REGIMENTAL BOXING CHAMPS pose after capturing the titles in their respective weights. Shown on the bottom row, left to right, are G. A. Gunn, featherweight; J. Stutes, bantamweight; T. Edwards, lightweight. Standing are J. W. Whittington, heavyweight; W. H. Corley, light heavyweight, and V. T. Inserra, middleweight. B. F. Parks, who won the welterweight title, is not shown.

29th, 124th, Medicos And Chutists Triumph In Conference Games

Devils Rally To Top 117th, 48-39

Three favorites were upset and a fourth had to stage an almost miraculous rally to avert defeat Tuesday as the Fort Bennning Conference cage race got off to a red-hot start on two courts. Large crowds filled the main post gym and the Harmony Church sports arena to watch eight of Benning's fastest quintets start hostilities in the first half schedule.

The 29th Infantry's Blue Devils, 1942 title-holders, literally caught on fire in the second half to overcome a 16-point deficit and smash the 117th Infantry Breakers, 48-39. In the other main post tilt, a speedy Station Hospital quint upset the strong Lawson Field Fliers by a 40-35 count in an overtime encounter.

At Harmony Church, the hottest game of the evening saw the 124th Infantry Gators eke out a 37-36 verdict over the highly-touted Academic Regiment. Parachute School handed the 2nd Student Training Leaders their first loss of the campaign, 39-30.

FRIEDMAN SETS PACE

Tippy Friedman and Joe Stolarzyck paced the rampageous Devils in the scoring splurge against the 117th. Friedman, sparkplug of last year's winners, resumed where he left off last winter by slashing the nets with eight brilliant field goals and adding a pair of charity flips for 18 points. Stolarzyck, playing with a bruised ankle, accounted for 13 markers on six twin-counters and a foul toss.

At halftime, the Breakers were way out in front by a 28-16 margin and had the 29th basketeers completely stymied with their fast break and eagle-eyed shooting by Lieut. Bobby Hite. The stellar forward slammed seven field goals through the hoop in that semester to pace the 117th with 14 points.

After intermission, the Breakers continued to build up their lead, and at one point in the third frame they led by 16 points. Then, Friedman, Stolarzyck and the rest of the defending champs began to hit their stride and as the final period started, they trailed by only a point. Tippy Friedman evened the count with a foul flip and after both teams scored, burly Mike Hutchins put the 29th in front for once and all when he rimmed one from mid-court.

FRANK WEBSTER STARS

Frank Webster, a stellar guard and floor captain, was the big gun for the Medicos in their win over Lawson Field. He tallied eleven points, and sparked the hospital lads all the way. The teams were deadlocked at 15 points at halftime, and again at 32 markers at game's end although the Medicos led most of the way in between.

Bill Metcalfe's stab shot with about five seconds left knotted the count at the end and forced the game into overtime. In the extra session, however, Webster, Cummings, Pond and Monroe all connected for the Station Hospital to sew up the verdict. Metcalfe with eleven and Pop Watson with ten points paced the attack for the losers.

HERNDON'S GOAL WINS

Johnny Herndon's long field goal with two seconds left in an overtime period enabled the sportified Gators of the 124th to overcome a powerful Academic quintet in the Harmony Church feature. The Profs were in front 36-35 when Herndon connected to pull the game out of the fire. Chief Bender, Gator playing coach, fired the field goal near the end of the regulation game that forced the game into overtime.

Forward Tony Foster, with seven points, was the top scorer for the Gators although nearly every orange and blue player that was used took a hand in the point-getting for the winners. Lieut. Frank Shannon, stellar Prof playing tutor, paced his team with 17 points on six twin-cylinders and five charity tosses. At halftime, the Profs were in front 18-16.

Lieut. Ed Brooks' Jumpers from the Parachute School led practically all the way as they gained their 1st win over the Leaders of the 2nd STR. Buck Campbell was the high scorer for the winners with ten points, while Harry Whitehorse, the Indian star of the Leaders, tallied eight points in the losing cause.

Company "F" Wins Ring Championship Of 29th Infantry

Company F's fistic wonders ganged up on the rest of the boys in the 29th Infantry's regimental boxing league, to garner 460 points, taking the regimental championship.

Members of the championship team are: Pfc. J. W. Whittington, heavyweight champ; Pvt. Edwards, lightweight champ; Pfcs. W. H. Cloud, A. DePrisco, Pvt. R. R. Bloom, lightweights; Sgt. W. M. Hazel, Pvt. M. E. Willis, welterweights; Pvt. K. C. Hayes, heavyweight.

The special service office also announced this week the following men as monarchs of their respective divisions: Featherweight, Pvt. G. A. Gunn, Cannon Co.; bantamweight, Cpl. J. Stutes, Cannon Co.; welterweight, Pfc. B. F. Parks, 2nd Bn. Hq. Co.; lightweight, Pvt. Edwards, Company F.; middleweight, Cpl. V. T. Inserra, Company K; light heavyweight, Pvt. W. H. Corley, 2nd Bn. Hq. Co.; heavyweight, Pfc. J. W. Whittington, Company F.

Triple-Header Carded Friday Night In Gym

Three major games are carded for tomorrow night in the post gym in the most interesting program of the infant cage season. Two important Fort Benning Conference tilts will be contested, and Lawson Field, also a conference member, will entertain the Bainbridge Fliers from another Georgia air field.

At 6:45, the triple bill will get underway when the 29th Infantry and Station Hospital Medicos clash. The Lawson-Bainbridge go is listed for 8 o'clock, and the nightcap will bring together the 2nd STR Leaders and the Academic Regiment Profs.

Saturday night, the gym will also be the scene of a pair of conference tests with the Parachute School facing the 124th Gators at 7:30 and the 117th and Lawson Field meeting in the finale.

Next Tuesday in the gym, the only game will pit the 117th against the Station Hospital at 8:45, while at Harmony Church a twin bill is on tap with Lawson Field tackling the 2nd STR Leaders, and the 124th Gators battling the 29th Blue Devils in one of the big games of the season.

Main Post Loop Quintets Clash Tonight In Gym

99th Q. M., 1st STR, Parachute Training Win Opening Games

Three fast games are carded for tonight in the post gym as Main Post League teams swing into the second night of play in the eight-team circuit. The 24th General Hospital and Finance Detachment two quintets which have not seen action yet, will tangle in the opener at 6:45.

The second clash will bring together two of the fives which are at present involved in a triple deadlock for the loop lead when the 99th Quartermasters meet the 1st Student Training tossers. Both won opening night decisions over 7th Observation and the 53rd General Hospital clubs which oppose one another in tonight's nightcap.

MONDAY NIGHT TILTS

1st Parachute Training, the other Monday night winner, will be idle until Monday of next week when the Jumpers clash with the Finance basketeers in the middle game of a triple bill. 863rd Ordnance and 24th General Hospital meet in the opener of this card, with the 99th Bakers and 53rd Medicos winding up the program.

Trailing 17-12 at halftime intermission, the 99th Q. M. put on a thrilling rally in the official loop opener on Monday to romp to a 42-33 decision over the 7th Observers. Paced by Hall, the Lawson Field entry looked like a sure winner in the first periods, but the Bakers turned the tide to step into temporary loop leadership.

HALL SCORES 22

Individual scoring honors went to Hall, who hit the cords for no less than 11 field goals to finish the evening with 22 points. The husky forward played brilliantly in a losing cause, but only two of his mates, Henderson and Bennett, could connect for field goals.

The 99th scoring ace was Ace Hudspeth, their all-around court and diamond star, who racked up eight field goals and three foul flips for 19 points, as well as playing a good defensive game at his customary guard post. Hudspeth's running mate in the back court, Frost, also stood out for the Bakers, scoring eight pointers and playing a good floor game.

EKE OUT WIN

In the best game of the evening, the 1st Student Trainers eked out a 44-42 win over last year's minor loop champs from the 53rd General Hospital. The Medicos led at halftime, 27-25, but in a thrilling last half, the charges of Lieut. Charley Applegate put on a fast finish to grab the decision.

Combovzov paced the winners with 15 points, amassed on six twin counters and a trio of charity shots. Talley, the 1st STR center, had 10 points and James accounted for eight markers. Tony Byszesky played gallantly for the losers and walked off with the game's scoring laurels with 20 points on eight double-deckers and four fouls.

CHUTISTS ON TOP

Nelson and York with ten points apiece paced the 1st Parachute Training regiment to an impressive 35-27 verdict over a scrappy 863rd Ordnance quintet in the third game of the evening. Nelson had five twin cylinders, while York flipped in four field tosses and two from the foul line.

The teams were deadlocked at 14-14 when they reached intermission, but in the third period, the Jumpers stepped out to a six-point advantage and held it until the final whistle. Compton and Porter accounted for ten points each for the losers.

If your unit is moving, be extremely carcful that nothing you say or write during the movement will reveal your organization or its destination.

DAILY DUTIES of Mrs. Mary J. Vogel (left) and Miss Hazel M. Taylor include repairing and checking airplane engines and parts. They are both employed as mechanics at Lawson field sub-depot. (Signal lab. photo by Kormeier.)

Girls Do Manual Labor While Hubbies Fight Foe

100 Women Working at Lawson As Riveters, Mechanics, Welders

While their husbands and sweethearts are off to war, approximately 100 women at Lawson Field Sub-Depot are helping to win the battles on the home front.

Employed as trainees, they are understudying jobs in riveting, mechanics, sheet metal work, welding, fabric and leather repair, and parachute packing. Those who show marked aptitude are sent to various trade schools at government expense and paid as they learn. Upon completion of these courses they return to the sub-depot, relieving more men for army duty, and replacing those already gone.

At present these 100 women are working side by side with men, and competing very successfully in a previously uncontested masculine field. According to Major W. W. Chopin, sub-depot commander, "The women employed in positions requiring skilled laborers have proven highly successful. As a matter of fact they are more enthusiastic than men, and seem to bear up under the physical strain comparable to the best. Furthermore, our ladies are not afraid to get their hands and face dirty."

SERVE WHERE NEEDED

When asked if women working at these jobs were qualified for office work, the major replied, "Definitely, yes. But they feel shop work is more productive and gives a greater opportunity for sharing in the war effort. Many leave offices to be trainees."

At present there are seven women attending trade school in Nashville. Here they are pursuing a 12 to 14 week course in mechanics and upon return will become mechanic helpers. As trainees the women work 40 hour weeks, however, as mechanic helpers work weeks will be increased to 48 hours.

Women have been employed at the sub-depot since December 1, of last year and the experiment has proven the high value of female labor. Even their physical stature is an asset in aircraft adjustment and repair, allowing them to work in smller spaces.

What does the well dressed feminine mechanic wear? Just any sort of work clothes, overalls, or slacks. "We try to keep them out of skirts," said one foreman. "They are not practical."

COL. RICHARD McKEE

Col. McKee Heads 300th Infantry

(Continued from Page One)

through the ranks until he was commissioned in 1927. He commanded a rifle company, battalion headquarters company, and was named Regimental S-2 of the 124th in 1940.

He was promoted to captain in early 1941, and left Camp Blanding with the 124th to go on the Louisiana and Carolina maneuvers. After the 124th came to Benning as a demonstration regiment, Col. Long was made Regimental S-3, and promoted to major in April, 1942. He came to the 300th as executive officer in December, and shortly afterward was promoted to lieutenant colonel.

awkwardly, will have their flying gear ruffled or perhaps even damaged," he said. "This means they will land someplace to rearrange their feathers and to locate themselves, and if they do that, they can easily be shot. All paratroopers, and all officers and all airplane pilots should learn how to release the birds properly. It may mean saving their own lives or even the saving of an entire command when in combat."

BOMBERS CARRY BIRDS

Bombers flying out from England now carry two birds each. So great is their intuition that even when they have been flown hundreds of miles over strange territory, they can orient themselves and make their way back to their home lofts.

In England the sport of raising pigeons has gone on for hundreds of years and there were 250,000 breeders and fanciers when the war broke out. They all offered their services immediately and in a small country like England, the army had no special problem in training or developing mobile units—the birds returning to their home lofts were always within close distance to a military unit and messages can thus be quickly relayed.

A new type of message carrier, made of plastic, even lighter than old aluminum type, now has been developed and larger pieces of paper can now be used in sending messages, Lt. Lehman said. The use of birds is of special value in sending back sketches and maps, which is impossible even when radio communication is permissable.

In this country, the birds are proving specially valuable in coast patrol vessels and on planes patrolling hundreds of miles out to sea and they will soon be proving themselves in actual combat wherever American troops are engaged in action.

A WAAC three-striper is known as a "Leader." That's equivalent to the rank of sergeant in the Army.

Four Rookies and Mess Sergeant High Scorers

There were six pistol teams on the line at the Tenth Armored's Pistol Range for the rapid fire and dueling competition held last week.

That in itself was not unusual, since every pistol meet up to this time has had at least that many teams.

However, if anyone had taken the time to investigate the past history of the team members, they would have noticed one outstanding feature concerning the group from Maintenance Company, Eleventh Armored Regiment.

The company roster reads something like this:

S-Sgt. Nick Robb—mess sergeant.

T-4 Bernie K. Wallace — recruit.

Pvt. Herbert H. Bolen—recruit.

Pvt. John D. Haigh—recruit.

Pvt. Eugene D. King—recruit.

Two weeks ago, three of these men had never held a pistol, yet they came through with the competition's high score of 10 points.

FAST WORK

This fact bears testimony to the high pressure training now being administered to the Tenth Armored "Tigers."

Company D, Eleventh Armored Regiment, kept their pistols warm by plenty of rapid firing, making some tight groups and comping up with a score of eight points after the dueling was over.

On Company D's team were men whose names are familiar by this time to all followers of "Tiger" pistol matches—S-Sgt. Joe Attaway, Sgt. Winston A. Heath, Sgt. Joseph F. Kalounski, Sgt. Edgar D. Knight and T-5 James Shepler.

Company E, Third Armored Regiment came out on the top side of their match with seven points. Team members were: First Sgt. Alber Martins, T-4 Amos E. Danforth, T-5 Chester S. Poliszewski, Pvt. William G. Trepsas and Pvt. Donlad E. Swinning.

Winning teams were awarded framed photographs of the team to organization day rooms, a copy of the photo and a two day pass for each team member.

Carrier—

(Continued from Page 1)

of war. In the various paratroop organizations, two men in each communications section now are being trained as expert pigeon handlers. Special equipment has been designed, some of it by Lt. Lehman working with Army experts from Washington, to drop pigeons to be dropped from airplanes over beleaguered troops so that they can send back messages.

SPECIALIZED JOB

Raising and training pigeons is a highly specialized a job as that of raising and training race horses, Lt. Lehman declares. The birds are as high strung and nervous as a pure bred horse, and are highly specialized pieces of aerial mechanism.

Very loyal family creatures, the female generally lays two eggs and two only, one at about 4 p. m. on one day, the second at 1 p. m. the next day. The eggs are hatched after 17 days, and generally the result are a cock and a hen. The young pigeon requires as much care in comparison as a new human baby. They must be fed by regurgitation by the mother, and cannot eat grain or be fed live feed, like the young of most other birds. After 28 days they are weaned and taught how to pick up grain.

Their training begins almost immediately upon weaning, and after a few weeks they are banded on both legs. They are taught immediately to recognize signals such as various whistles, the rattling of a feed tin for chow time, and so on, and are taught to "trap" or find their way into the loft through the trap door.

After that "induction period" of training here at Ft. Benning they are sent out to combat units where they are given training in flying and finding their way to mobile units.

NEW UNITS ON WAY

And these new mobile units that have been developed recently by the Army are something brand new, too. Now a truck can haul several of them where previously it required a 2 1-2 ton truck to haul a loft. Some of the new units are expected to be received here soon.

In World War I pigeons gained wide fame, with such birds as Chere Amie credited with saving the famed Lost Battalion, Mocker, Spike and President Wilson. Many were wounded in action but they established a record of returning with 96 per cent of all messages sent out.

In actual tests, the birds have flown 1,500 miles, and can easily cover 600 miles in a day. In actual practice, however, the Army tries not to use them more than two or three hundred miles. All of the birds are identified by their bands, so that even if a message should be lost or shot off the bird's leg, the return of a bird to its loft can result in an expedition for assistance. This is especially valuable in cases of ships on coastal patrol, because the return of a bird, even without a message, can only mean that the ship is in distress and the approximate position of such a vessel is known at all times so that rescue can be effected.

It is Lt. Lehman's ambition to have every man going through training, and especially those going through Officer Candidate School, at Fort Benning, to learn how to handle a pigeon and to release it properly.

"The birds are highly specialized creatures and if released

U. S. Moves To Restrict Overseas Mail

Drastic restrictions on the shipment of packages, magazines, and newspapers to soldiers overseas were contained in postal regulations received by Superintendent R. P. Richardson of the Fort Benning branch of the Columbus post office today.

Beginning January 15 no more packages for foreign shipment will be accepted unless the item has been specifically requested by the soldier, and the request approved by his commanding officer. This is due to the enormous amount of space used to transport packages, and its need for other purposes.

In order to send approved packages, the request with the commanding officer's approval must be presented at the post office. Even then weight must not exceed five pounds, and the bundle may not be more than 15 inches in length. Newspapers and magazines may be sent only if the soldier is a regular subscriber, and must be handled through the publisher. Absolutely no circular material will be forwarded through Army post office addresses.

LETTERS OKEH

Letters from the fighting man's family and friends will continue to be received, and will always be welcome, added Mr. Richardson. Airmail letters, however, will be handled as such only within continental United States to ports of embarkation. Further air transmittal will depend on facilities and space. Normally V-mail, will be the only airmail to troops overseas. Going into more detail, Mr. Richardson said that mail for overseas delivery could not be insured, and that valuable papers were the only articles which would be registered. Senders were cautioned against enclosing cash money and were advised to use money orders.

He said the new regulations had been adopted because a recent War Department survey revealed cargo space equivalent to three 11,000 ton Liberty ships was used to transport mail overseas in November. Quoting Secretary of War Stimson, Mr. Richardson said, "With the steady expansion of our forces overseas, this presents a problem of pressing and ever-growing importance. If the volume continued to increase at the present rate, we would need 25 ships of 11,000 tons just to carry mail by the end of this year."

Specialist Claims Poor Care As Cause Of "Athlete's Foot"

Improper care of the feet, rather than contagion, appears to be the chief cause for "Athlete's Foot," the skin disability that causes so much discomfort to the nation's armies, according to results of a lengthy study made at Fort Benning by Dr. J. C. Hopkins, specialist and expert of the Medical School of Columbia University.

Dr. Hopkins has been investigating causes and methods of treatment of the disease since August 15, and has treated more than 700 men of the 29th Regiment for this and for other types of skin ailments in making his studies.

The ailment is one of those wherein an ounce of prevention is worth many pounds of cure, his studies show, since in many cases a thorough care may be a matter of many months.

"The best advice we can offer is to keep the feet dry and thoroughly clean in order to prevent this ailment," he said. "The disease once contracted may linger in the skin for some time after all discomfort has passed. It is especially desirable not to discontinue treatment too soon.

His findings will be passed on to all units of the Army.

Motorcycles—

(Continued from Page 1)

and fuel through elimination of waste.

Consumption of both electricity and natural gas, as well as other fuels, has increased tremendously with the growth of the Fort and all efforts are being made to reduce fuel consumption of all sorts as well as rubber. Inspectors are to determine whether lights are being burned unnecessarily, whether they are burning in vacant buildings or partially occupied structures, what machines are operating when unnecessary and what unauthorized installation may have been made on machines or lights. At the end of the month, a report will be made by the office of Col. Arthur J. Bain, post engineer, to General Fulton on the consumption of fuel and current used during January.

USO—

(Continued from Page 1)

job," he said. "We hate very much to see him go, but realize he has accepted because he feels it is his duty, and have accepted his resignation with regret."

Pool—

(Continued from Page One)

cents per machine will be assessed for the registration.

The provost marshal's office has application blanks for Georgia state license plates on hand for drivers interested in obtaining plates. The Fort Benning office, however, will handle only the application blanks this year.

If you are a prisoner of war, never discuss anything about your organization's activities. An agent may be planted in the group or microphones may be hidden to pick up such information.

COL. STEPHEN B. MASSEY, Fort Benning's drector of supply, is shown as he presented a Silver Star to an employee of the Eagle and Phenix Mills in Columbus on Tuesday afternoon. The post supply chief was the principal speaker at a program in the mill-yard which honored 611 workers who have relatives in the armed services. During his talk, Col. Massey told the workers of the important role which they are playing in the war effort, and urged them to produce materials to the maximum. He also related the uses to which the Army is putting the products of their mill, chief of which is herringbone twill now being used in all fatigue suits. Standing behind Col. Massey is Frank B. Bradley, vice-president of the mill.

Service Chaplain Combines Common Sense, Psychiatry, 'Answer Box'

Post Seminars Look To Mental Health Of The American Soldier

Mix a little applied psychiatry and the knack of talking "man to man" with plenty of common sense, add the ability to answer any and all questions and you have what it takes to be successfully converted from a civilian clergyman to an Army chaplain.

That's the formula of one veteran Army chaplain at Fort Benning, Lt. Col. Frank N. Thompson, post chaplain and a man of God who has spent a quarter of a century as spiritual advisor to service men. Following a three-day seminar for Army chaplains and nurses held at Fort Benning last week for the purpose of determining the right answers to new problems facing service chaplains, Colonel Thompson and Dr. Ralph B. Bonacker, chaplain of the New York State Training School for Boys at Warwick, N. Y., were unanimous in their declaration of the new problems facing Army churchmen.

The growing trend within the church to use the advancing knowledge of human personality —psychiatry—coupled with the fact that an Army chaplain must concern himself more with individuals in the service than in civilian ministry were points developed by the two men.

ARMY'S MENTAL HEALTH

"The Army today is much concerned with the mental health of the men in the service and to this end Army psychiatrists are constantly engaged in healing the mentally disturbed and fitting them in their respective duties," Colonel Thompson pointed out, adding that in this connection the Army is recognizing the value of the Department of Health and Religion now operated under the General Commission of the Army and Navy Chaplains.

"Army chaplains," he continued, "are confronted with problems quite different from those experienced as a pastor in a civilian community. Day and night the chaplain is besieged by men for advice. They must have the answer for the conscientious objector, the man who is afraid to fight, the one who is homesick, the moral pervert and a thousand other questions."

Dr. Bonacker, who is also the supervisor of theological students at Warwick, had this to say on the difference in work between an Army and a civilian clergyman:

"Two movements have merged to give us at least one answer to the problem suggested above. The one force has been the realization among Army chaplains themselves that their ministry to the soldiers under their care was more concerned with individuals than was true in their civilian ministries.

APPLIED PSYCHIATRY

"The other movement which has in some measure helped to meet the needs of this increased pastoral responsibility has been the growing trend within the church to utilize the advancing knowledge of human personality given to us by the comparatively new science of psychiatry. More and more young clergymen are getting intensive experience in this field through what is most commonly called 'clinical training.' This training usually involves several months residence in an institution where the study of personality, its formation, its structure and its functionings, can be most beneficially made.

'This training is usually given under the supervision of an ordained clergyman who has specialized in such problems and is greatly aided by the cooperation of other professional groups, psychiatrists, doctors, nurses, social workers, psychologists, teachers and others."

FEW ARE TRAINED

Concluding, Colonel Thompson said that 'as yet only a small proportion of the clergy are receiving adequate training in that field. It is to fill this gap, which is possibly more acutely felt among the Army chaplains than among civilian clergy, that trained men are being sent into our Army camps to lead seminars on such subjects as pastoral counselling and ministry to the sick and dying.

'It comes as a tremendous shock to many of the lads who were lifted out of their peaceful pursuits and put in a war-time Army. Time and patience is needed to adjust them to the new way of life. Many need wise counselling and the chaplain is in a position to render this service, provided he is proficient in the fine art of counselling."

Col. Edgerly Will Remain At Benning

Orders were received yesterday countermanding previous instructions which would have sent Col. J. P. Edgerly, executive officer at Fort Benning to another station, it was announced at post headquarters.

Under his new orders to remain here, Colonel Edgerly will continue his assignment as executive officer.

Scouting Around

By SARAH ANNE PICKERING

The Girl Scouts of Cardinal Troop held their first Twelfth Night party at the scout cabin at 2:30 on Friday, January 8. The patrols each chose a king and a queen. The Dogwood Patrol represented Old Hawaii. The queen was Jean Gregory and the king Terry Rosenberger. The Pine Cone patrol represented France. Dorothy Blenner and Merle Watkins portrayed the king and queen.

Spain was the third country represented, with Nancy McKee and Janet McKenny as king and queen. Each group gave in pantomime the characteristics of their country. Costumes were made out of newspaper by the girls.

After pantomine the queens of Twelfth Night Party were chosen. Each of the queens ate a cake. In one of the cakes was a bean. The girl finding the bean in her cake was Jean Gregory. She and Terry Rosenberger were the king and queen of the Twelfth Night Party.

Games ended a very enjoyable afternoon.

Lawson Fliers Die In Crash

Plane Cracks Up On Training Flight

First Lieut. Edward Humphries, 22, Rochester, N. Y., and Tech. Sgt. Thomas Kirkman, 26, Leaksville, N. C., died Tuesday afternoon when their plane crashed in the Shell Creek area of Harmony Church. The fliers had taken off from Lawson Field on a routine training problem.

A board of officers has been named to investigate the crash. An explanation of the cause of the crash was not immediately available as both men in the plane were almost instantly killed.

Lieutenant Humphries, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Humphries of Rochester, spent two years at the University of Michigan and received his wings in April, 1942. He was almost immediately assigned to Lawson Field.

Sergeant Kirkman, whose wife resides in Baker Village, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Kirkman of Leaksville. Sergeant Kirkman enlisted in the army on Jan. 11, 1936, and came to Fort Benning from Fort Bragg, N. C., in February, 1942.

Parents of both of the men have been notified.

Division's Hq. Co. Men Termed 'Tops'

During the Christmas holidays, the Callaway Mills of LaGrange, Georgia, gave a party for 100 men of Division Headquarters Company. After their arrival home, a letter of thanks was sent the officials of the Callaway Mills for their hospitality and recently Captain C. F. Meinzinger, company commander, received the following letter.

Dear Captain Meinzinger:

You and your men were "TOPS," and it was the folks in LaGrange that had a good time. No finer group of gentlemen were ever entertained in LaGrange, and we are glad that we could have a little part in assisting your men to enjoy Christmas.

It is our hope that we will have the privilege of having you in LaGrange again, and wish for you and your entire outfit all that you would ask for in the New Year.

Yours truly,
Callaway Mills
Personnel Department
R. E. McTigue
Personnel Director.

CLASSIFIED

MAY AND MASON DANCE STUDIO: Ballroom, Tap, and Jitterbug. Private classes. Day and night classes. 802 Broadway. Dial 2-4469.

SOLDIER'S WIFE WISHES Housework. White. Live In. Dial 2-3686.

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

IN making a bull's-eye or making a soft drink there are no short cuts to "know-how". That's the explanation of why so much satisfaction is packed into the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola. Fifty-seven years of knowing how to blend Nature's choicest ingredients explain the different kind of refreshment you get in Coca-Cola.

A finished art in its making creates its original taste. You've never found this delicious taste in anything else except in Coca-Cola itself. The same skill guarantees the unique quality you expect in every drop of this best-liked soft drink on Earth.

Note how Coca-Cola goes beyond merely quenching your thirst to leave a delightful after-sense of refreshment. Here's energy that you can really feel. Be sure you get the real thing. There's no comparison. Call for ice-cold Coca-Cola by its full name or by its familiar abbreviation—Coke. The best is always the better buy.

Outdoor action calls for a refreshing indoor reaction. It calls for ice-cold Coca-Cola. It's only a little thing, but the big things it does to please people make it the best-liked soft drink on Earth.

Coca-Cola 5¢

The best is always the better buy!

Wartime limits the supply of Coca-Cola. Those times when you cannot get it, remember: Coke, being first choice, sells out first. Ask for it each time. No matter how short the supply, the quality of Coca-Cola carries on.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Dispensary 'A' Medicos Strive To Keep Soldiers In Tip-Top Health

Uncle Sam Provides Best Medical Care In World for Servicemen

The health of Fort Benning troops is of paramount importance and much of the work, the planning and the decisions affecting this health emanates from an unpretentious building known as Dispensary A.

To thousands of officers and men at Fort Benning, Dispensary A is the place to go on sick call or for physical examinations or treatment. Few realize that concentrated in the modest 2-story building and its sprawling wooden annex are hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of medical equipment and professional men representing an equal amount of highly-skilled medical talent.

Most important office located in Dispensary A is that of the post surgeon, Col. William Denton, responsible for the health of every officer and man stationed on the huge military reservation. Stemming out from the office of Colonel Denton are the strings that control the main hospital's work; the operations of all of the various clinics and dispensaries located on the post and in nearby Columbus, and the work of all of the hundreds of medical officers serving with America's fighting men at Fort Benning.

MEDICAL INSPECTOR

Another vitally important function housed in the main building of Dispensary A is the department of the medical inspector, Maj. James A. Loveless, whose staff has been responsible for the successful fight against venereal disease in the area surrounding Fort Benning.

Working out of offices in Dispensary is a third important medical officer, Col. Melville A. Sanderson, post dental surgeon, who supervises the work of keeping soldiers' teeth in A-1 condition all of the time.

Administrative work, however, is only one of the tasks of the medical men of Dispensary A. In the main building is a sick call clinic for officers and their families and a completely equipped dental clinic as well as a small pharmacist office for dispensing medicines and drugs prescribed by physicians on duty at the clinic. There are other administrative offices located in the building because under the jurisdiction of medical officers at Dispensary A are such varied activities as the Veterinary Hospital, the Reception Center induction station; medical supply offices and other functions.

BUSIEST OFFICES

Probably consistently the busiest offices at Dispensary A are situated in the wooden annex of the dispensary where every day hundreds of men are given medical treatment or given complete physical examinations.

The annex is used for sick call for enlisted men, an activity that keeps a staff of doctors and medical corps men busy most of the day, and also to examine enlisted men applying for officer candidate schools or who are taking examinations for general field service.

Heading the list of officers working in the physical examination section is Maj. Wilbur Slaughter. Here a constant procession of soldiers parades by the keen-eyed medical officers; are examined closely for physical defects, and are classified accordingly. Here too is a dental clinic for enlisted men and another supply-dispensing office for enlisted men.

FOOT CLINIC

A recent addition to the activities in the annex is the foot clinic where a staff of civilian medical men are making exhaustive studies of the cause, treatment and cure of athlete's foot and other foot diseases.

All of the medical staff at Dispensary A are physicians and dentists who left long-established practices in cities and towns throughout the nation to serve in the Army. The knowledge they gained from years of experience is now being used to keep Army men "fit for fighting," as one medical magazine paraphrased, and to the last man at Dispensary the thought is only that their daily work is "just in the line of duty."

10th Armored Units Stage First Mortar Competition

Swinging sharply around a bend in the narrow country road, the leading elements of the advance guard were suddenly met with a hail of fire from several 88 mm guns.

Immediately the vehicles carrying the mortar squads plunged off the road into a well-defiladed position in a gully near a grassy hilltop.

As the riflemen rushed out to secure the flanks, the squads were already dismounting and setting the mortars in position.

In a matter of minutes the targets had been pointed out, mortars set up, and the first parcel of high explosive and jagged steel was lobbed out over the heads of the enemy, each member of the squad working with clock-like precision.

That was the scene witnessed by many of the senior officers of the 10th Armored Division at its first mortar competition held last Monday.

CO. "C" OF 54TH LEADS

Company C, 54th Armored Infantry Regiment, used their 60 mm. mortars to fire a score of 72, the day's highest.

Company B, 90th Armored Reconnaissance Battalion, followed with a score of 48, also with the 60 mm. mortar, to win their match with Co. H of the 54th Armored Infantry. Headquarters Company, 2nd Bn., 11th Armored Regiment, was close behind with 44 points, using the 81 mm. mortars.

GREAT REALISM

In spite of the fact that the tactical situation was entirely imaginary, the squads went about their work with the greatest realism, taking full advantage of cover and concealment, and putting into practice the lessons learned in classrooms and on the drill field.

Scores were based on technique and effect on the target: 30 points for technique and 70 points for effect on the target. Each squad was allotted five rounds with which to destroy their target.

Under technique the following factors were considered: cover for vehicles, individual cover, explanation of the situation by the squad leader, fire order, loading and firing, target bracketing, time involved and position chosen.

Unfortunately, one of the best adjustments, by Company H, 54th Infantry, was not on the correct target and therefore did not draw full credit.

WINNING SQUAD MEMBERS

Squad members from Co. C, 54th Infantry, were Sgts. Schoof, squad leader; Swartzmiller, gunner; McCarthy, assistant gunner; Pvts. Benison, first ammunition carrier; Day, second ammunition carrier; Cpl. Norsen, driver and Pvt. Erickson.

Company B, 90th Reconnaissance, was represented by Sgts. Morrison and Kowalsky, Pfc. Jordan and Pvt. Cockran.

From HQ Co., 2nd Bn., 11th Armd Regt., were Sgts. Lowe and Lindsey, and Cpls. Greer and Sliva.

Prizes to winning squads were framed photographs of the squads for the organization day rooms, a copy of the photo for each member of the squad and a two day pass for all.

It is optional with a serviceman as to whether he takes the life insurance offered by the government. He may take out the insurance within 120 days of his induction without a medical exam, but after this period another medical exam is necessary. It is offered as a matter of good business and sound protection to the serviceman and his dependents.

An honorable discharge as a soldier in World War I is indicated by a bronze button, with a star and "U. S." in center of star, and a laurel victory wreath entwined about the star. If the star is silver, it denotes "wounded in action."

Service Club

Thursday, Jan. 14

ALL GIRL BROADCAST with Gertrude Handley as mistress of ceremonies; Sue Lauderdale, popular singing star of WRBL, singing the songs you like to hear, and many others. Be here to give the girls a big hand and help with the show. Prizes given to those participating in the quiz contest, which is a regular part of this broadcast. A good time absolutely guaranteed so come and join the fun. Broadcast at 2000 so be here and quietly settled before the program.

Friday, Jan. 15

OPEN HOUSE—Informal, restful gathering at the club. Pop corn before our open fire-place, play anong or classical records, play your favorite game, or use our stationery to catch up with that letter you owe. Just make yourself at home.

Saturday, Jan. 16

BINGO!! Bingo is free. Cigarettes and cash prizes to the lucky sinners. Lots of fun so come and join in a few games.

Sunday, Jan. 17

OPEN HOUSE all day every Sunday. Informal singing at the piano. Write letters, play ping-pong, pool, checkers, or any other game. Many classical and popular records.

Monday, Jan. 18

"LISTEN, IT'S FORT BENNING"—Full half hour broadcast originating at Service Club No. 2 and sent out through the facilities of the local radio station WRBL. Guaranteed good entertainment, so be here at 2000 and help make the program a "success."

JIU-JITSU, weight lifting, wrestling and tumbling classes held every Monday night by T-5 Meeved of the 11th Armored Regiment. These classes are held in the game room and all interested are invited to join, meets at 2000.

Tuesday, Jan. 19

Colonel Quiz has changed from Wednesday night to Tuesday and will visit the club every Tuesday at 2000. A quiz contest with teams from two of the regiments in the 10th Armored Division. Come and cheer or jeer for your favorites. Questions for these weekly contests will be welcome, a package of cigarettes will be given for each question submitted that is used on one of these programs. Questions may be left in the Hostess Office any time during the week. Questions submitted too late for the contest will be used the following week.

Thru—

(Continued from Page One)

formed to fight in North Africa. This will make Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Fisenhower supreme commander of two allied armies, the other being the British first army, commanded in the field by British Lt. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson.

OUTLOOK FAVORABLE

From Secretary Stimson comes word that on all fronts the outlook is "favorable." He pointed out, however, that the Germans and Japanese have suffered only a few major reverses, and cautioned strongly against underestimating their offensive capabilities.

NOT SO many years ago, most of the rubber used in America came from Brazil. Better facilities developed in the East Indies and Asia, however, for getting rubber to market plus development of rubber plantations, practically nullified the Brazilian sources. Now word comes from Brazil that plans are underfoot there to move 50,000 workers hundreds of miles into the wilds of the Amazon to double Brazil's rubber production.

Walter Cook, Jr., To Graduate From West Point

Among graduates of the United States Military Academy at West Point next week will be Cadet Walter H. Cook, Jr., son of Captain and Mrs. W. H. Cook of Fort Benning, it was announced today from the Academy.

Captain Cook is commanding officer of the Supply Detachment at Fort Benning. Cadet Cook was applinted to the Military Academy from the Regular Army at Fort McPherson. At West Point, he was director of the Catholic Choir, a member of the Pointer staff, Honor committee, Glee club and Concert orchestra. He is to be commissioned in the Coast Artillery.

68 Promoted In Hospital Unit

Sixty-eight enlisted men of the 24th General Hospital have been promoted to higher grades, according to an announcement by post headquarters.

Staff Sgt. William A. Seaman made technical sergeant, and Sgts. Ben. Z. Frankel, Charles T. McManus, Francis J. O'Reilly, and William V. Paccione, were advanced to staff sergeant. Tech 4th Gr. Herbert Berger and Alfonso J. Diabberto were promoted to technician 3rd grade.

Cpls. Charles C. Ciamo and James E. Richards, and Tech 5th Gr. Rudolph J. Plihcik, made sergeant. Tech 5th Grs. James Amatuccio, Oscar Bobinger, Thomas Comparetti, Marvin Iverson, Robert W. Morgal, Robert Patterson, Norbert Rust, Rudolph Smykal, John Wagner, and Pvt. Louis Royal, Jr., were promoted to technician 4th grade.

NEW CORPORALS

Pfcs. Edward Blair, Jr., Stanley Burasinski, Manuel Chavez, Everett Dill, Ernest Facello, William Saat, and Pvts. Remo Berni, Peter Butacavoli, Dale Edwards, Patrick Gallagher, Jake Kersheman, Robert Powell and Fredrick Velten, were advanced to corporal.

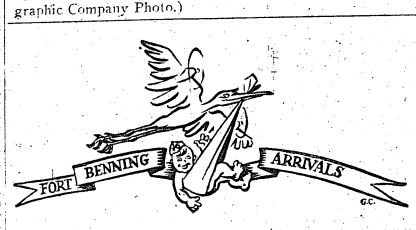
Pfcs. F. D. Bargen, W. H. Brocker, T. B. Eubanks, G. S. Fallen, R. L. Flaughter, P. S. Galioto, R. N. Haas, Jr., H. E. Hug, P. Keane, W. T. Kovalchik, V. Muscarella, A. F. Notarianni, W. J. O'Neill, J. Rosenfield, C. P. Shankles, M. P. Walsh, W. H. Webster, and Pvts. H. Schroedl, F. Ammermans, L. W. Baker, E. J. Coppola, H. Daines, N. L. Desutter, W. J. Doherty, S. H. Farkas, F. W. Lapitz, A. Liberty, E. L. Margetts, J. S. MacMahon, R. A. Metcalf, Pizzano, M. H. Powell, C. R. Rittman, H. L. Slocum, and J. W. Soehner were promoted to technician 5th grade.

Post Hq. Officials Laud Efficiency Of Record Clerk

"Let's check the record" is a sentence heard a hundred and one time a day at post headquarters and in charge of that all-important records section is one of the most efficient record clerks in the Army.

He is Tech Sgt. Louis E. Lucas, recently appointed non-commissioned officer in charge of the records section at post headquarters. A former resident of Calera, Ala., Sgt. Lucas previously had served in a similar capacity with the 7th Corps Area at San Jose, Calif., and with the 4th Division.

Sgt. Lucas has been commended by high-ranking Army officers as one of the best records clerks in the service today and his work at Fort Benning has been praised by Lt. Col. J. D. Rosenberger, Jr., post adjutant.



When captured and questioned by the enemy do not give the name and number of your organization.

THE HEADS of most of the vital medical departments that guard the health of soldiers have offices in Dispensary A and here is an informal group picture of some of the staff.

From left to right (front row) Maj. Wilber Slaughter, head of the physical examination section; Col. Melville Sanderson, post dental surgeon; Col. William Denton, post surgeon; Lt. Col. Albert L. Bartlett and Maj. Cyril F. Floyd.

(Back row) Lt. Thomas R. Hood, Lt. William Bergren, food and nutrition expert; Lt. Myron J. Barker, Maj. William J. Hunter, Maj. James A. Loveless, head of the venereal disease control commission, and Lt. Harold S. Griswold. (161st Signal Photographic Company Photo.)

Sgt. and Mrs. Ted B. Darrough, boy, Dec. 28, 1st Academic Co.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. L. W. Cavanaugh, girl, Dec. 29, Dispensary "A."

1st Lt. and Mrs. Alwin Wholey, boy, Dec. 29, 25th Co., 3rd Student Training Regt.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Robert C. Byers, boy, Dec. 29, 29th Infantry.

Corp. and Mrs. Joseph R. Sousa, boy, Dec. 30, Hq. 3rd Bn., 505th Parachute Tng. Regt.

Sgt. and Mrs. John McCormick, boy, Dec. 30, 82nd Recon. Bn., APO 252, Fort Bragg, N. C.

Sgt. and Mrs. James A. Tucker, girl, Dec. 30, 802nd Field Artillery Bn.

Corp. and Mrs. Wilmer F. DeLoach, girl, Dec. 30, Co. "B," 764th Tank Bn.

1st Sgt. and Mrs. Darwin Peters, girl, Dec. 31, Co. "C," 124th Infantry.

Pvt. and Mrs. Daniel Booth, boy, Dec. 31, 802nd Field Artillery.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. William R. Wright, girl, Dec. 31, Co. "F," ISSC.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Charles E. Estess, girl, Dec. 31, Co. "E," 29th Infantry.

Capt. and Mrs. Frederick W. Braastad, boy, Jan. 1, Hq., 21st Q. M. Regt.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert D. Montgomery, boy, Jan. 1, Co. "K," 300th Infantry.

Pvt. and Mrs. Thornton Powell, girl, Jan. 2, Hq. Co., 1st Bn., 506th Parachute Infantry.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Thomas F. Simmonite, boy, Jan. 2, Hq. 29th Infantry.

Corporal and Mrs. Chas. W. Morga, boy, Jan. 2, Supply Bn., 10th Armored Division.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Cecil M. Walker, girl, Jan. 3, 7th Obsn. Sqrn., Lawson Field.

Captain and Mrs. Lorin C. Bishop, girl, Jan. 3, ISSC, Academic Regt.

Pvt. and Mrs. Jessie W. McCullar, girl, Jan. 3, Hq. Supply Bn., 2nd Armored Division.

Capt. and Mrs. Peter J. Newton, girl, Jan. 4, 6th Co., 3rd Student Training Regt.

Major and Mrs. Arthur A. Maloney, boy, Jan. 4, 507th Parachute Infantry.

Sgt. and Mrs. John Hill, girl, Jan. 5, Co. "C," 11th Armored Regt.

Sgt. and Mrs. Delijah Easterling, boy, Jan. 5, Det. Quartermaster.

Lt. and Mrs. Edward R. White, boy, Jan. 6, Reception Center.

Sgt. and Mrs. John V. Dyer, girl, Jan. 6, Medical Detachment, Station Hospital.

1st Lt. and Mrs. William B. Malone, boy, Jan. 7, Station Complement.

Capt. and Mrs. Jack Ellingson, girl, Jan. 8, Att. Service, Academic Dept.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Cecil V. Grove, girl, Jan. 8, Service Bn., 802nd Field Artillery.

T-Sgt. and Mrs. Arnold O. Moore, boy, Jan. 8, I. S. S. C.

Pvt. and Mrs. James H. Henson, boy, Jan. 8, Co. "M," 124th Infantry.

Corp. and Mrs. William Crompton, girl, Jan. 8, 18th Co., Student Training Regt.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Charles Dean Alexander, boy, Jan. 9, 19th Co., 2nd Student Training Regt.

Pvt. and Mrs. Raymond D. Wilson, boy, Jan. 9, 124th Infantry.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Huth, boy, Jan. 10, 17th Co., 3rd Student Training Regt.

Pfc. and Mrs. James D. Alford, girl, Jan. 10, Co. "D," 29th Infantry.

T-Sgt. and Mrs. John Brown, girl, Jan. 10, Special Service, Detachment, Academic Regt.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Ben W. Miller, girl, Jan. 10, Hq., 1st Bn., 124th Infantry.

Capt. and Mrs. Thomas C. McKinnie, girl, Jan. 10, 1st Co., 2nd Student Training Regt.

Winners

Two prizes are awarded this week by the BAYONET to contributors to the post paper. First prize for a poem entitled "Your Job" is given to Pvt. Harry Orne, 71st Engineer Co. (LP), Lawson Field. In addition to the title go two dollars to Pvt. Orne.

Lt. Charles Sweeney is the recipient of top prize for his cartoon "Review Those Personal Affairs," which urges soldiers to get their personal business in shape. Lt. Sweeney also wins two dollars.

This week's winners as well as past winners are urged to visit the Post Public Relations Office. Post Headquarters, and claim their money.

In the event of your capture by the enemy, remain silent to all questions except those regarding your name, rank and serial number.

Enemy Spies Can Retire On This One

Major H. W. Brown of the Academic Department of The Infantry School this week received the first letter in two months from his brother, Pfc. William Brown, A. P.O. 941, Seattle, Wash.

This is the letter:

Can't write a thing the censor is to blame,
Can't say I'm well and sign my name,
Can't say where we sailed from,
Can't mention the date,
Can't even number the meals that I ate,
Can't say where we're going,
Don't know where we'll land,
Can't inform you if met by band,
Couldn't mention the weather,
Can't say if there's rain,
All military secrets must secrets remain,
Can't have a flashlight to guide me at nite,
Can't smoke a cigarette except when out of sight,
Can't keep a diary for such is a sin,
Can't keep the envelope you send your letters in,
Can't say for sure, folks, what I can write,
So I call this my letter and close, Good Night.

A lemon-colored bar with pin stripes at each end denotes that the soldier wearing it was in active service before Pearl Harbor, or Dec. 8, 1941. A small star on the bar denotes that the wearer has been in one of the major engagements — Bataan, Corregidor, Coral Sea, or Midway Island battle.

FORT BENNING'S RECEPTION CENTER chorus, directed by Corporal Willis Brown, has been voted the post's outstanding choral group. Composed of about 25 members, the chorus has appeared at many entertainments on the reservation as well as in Columbus. Cpl. Brown is shown above as he directs a group of the singers at a rehearsal. (U. S. Army Sig. Corps Photo.)

New Alligator Officer Checks In From Iceland

Holloway Reports Pretty Blonds And Red-Heads

Watching a destroyer slash right through a U-boat in the cold rough stretches of the North Atlantic was nothing compared to the thrill of stepping off a transport plane onto good solid American earth, in the opinion of Second Lieutenant Cornelius E. Holloway, just assigned to the 124th Infantry Regiment at Fort Benning.

Occasion for the thrilling experiences was a trip to Iceland where he was stationed for many months, and occasion for the greatest thrill was his return to come to Fort Benning.

Each day brings new thrills to Lieut. Holloway—as for instance reading today's news in today's newspapers, and all the other little things that Americans take for granted.

"Iceland is a country of wind-swept valleys and sheer, desolate mountains, with constant gales blowing to bend down the great crops of hay and whip around the thousands of sheep flocking on the slopes," he said today.

Most of the soldiers who go to Iceland, however, are impressed and more than surprised by the pretty blonde and red-haired girls who are influenced by American styles and customs through having seen so many American movies.

ICELANDER PROUD

Iceland, he found, is very proud of its government, a highly developed democracy dating back to 1200 A. B. The Icelander himself is very proud of his country, too, reluctant to believe that there is any possibility that the United States could be more beautiful.

Except for the wind, the climate is surprisingly mild, January is the coldest month of the year, with a low mean temperature just a bit below freezing.

No matter what the weather, however, American soldiers there receive intensive training. The training schedule is welcomed by the men, for without it the monotony of life on the island would become depressing. There is little activity in the towns for the soldiers, he found, but the Red Cross has done a splendid job in canteens and new American movies are on tap for the men. Receiving of mail from the folks back home is the greatest morale maintainer of anything on the day's docket, he found.

The deductible allotment made by the serviceman for dependents is compulsory in class A (a wife and child) but in class B (parents, brother, sister or grandchild) it is voluntary. That is, a parent, brother, sister or grandchild may be given an allowance only if you agree to the deduction from your pay for this purpose.

An allotment is a part of the service pay of a member of the armed forces, which has been designated to be deducted from such pay and paid to another designated person, as a dependent, etc.

Lt. Colonels Getting Younger And Younger

A pair of new lieutenant colonels at the ages of 27 and 30 respectively is the story today of the Assistant Director of Training and the Assistant Coordinator of Training of The Infantry School.

Col. William S. McCrea, who received his silver leaves at the ripe old age of 27, is believed to be one of the youngest lieutenant colonels in the Infantry. A native of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, he received his commission as a second lieutenant in the reserves when he graduated from the University of Idaho in 1936. A year later he was one of the first 50 men in the country to receive permanent commissions in the Regular Army under the Thomason Act.

Lt. Col. John A. Heintges, the Assistant Director of Training, received his promotion at the age of 30. He was first commissioned when he graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1936. His home is in Portland, Maine.

Both officers have seen foreign service. Col. McCrea served for two years with the 65th Infantry in Puerto Rico and other Caribbean islands. Col. Heintges spent two years in the Philippines, with the 45th Infantry Philippine Scouts.

Both are graduates of courses at The Infantry School. Col. McCrea attended the Battalion Commander and Staff Officers Course from June until September, 1942. Col. Heintges was a student in the regular course at The Infantry School in 1939-1940, and later attended the Officers Communication Course here.

Ten Enlisted Men Promoted By Gators

Ten enlisted men in the 124th Infantry were promoted this week according to an announcement by Col. John D. Hill, regimental commander.

Promoted to sergeants were corporals Henry F. Brand of Jacksonville, Fla.; Lawton P. Allen, of Homerville, Georgia, and Kenneth E. Greggory of Miami, Florida.

Five privates first class were raised to corporals. They are Clarence E. Baumiker and Ernest Bergandi of Ft. Pierce, Florida; Robert F. Fargel of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Clemence L. Hall, of Jacksonville, Florida, and Henry B. Renk of Trenton, New Jersey. Privates first class Arthur S. Olcott, of Jacksonville, Florida and James R. Andrews, of Greenville, Florida, were made technicians fifth grade.

Just Arrived! A Big Shipment of

FAST-COLOR PRINTED

PERCALES

25c yd.

- Pretty Floral Designs!
- Crisp Checks, Dots and Stripes!
- Bright or Dark Backgrounds!

Without a doubt, here's the value sewers have been waiting for . . . so don't miss it! This smooth, fine, 62x72 thread count percale is truly astounding at this low price! You'll find patterns suitable for tots' frocks, house-dresses, aprons, pajamas, kitchen curtains . . . and you'll want to buy now for Spring sewing needs! Why, the girls' dress, size 12, that's illustrated, takes just 2¾ yards and that costs you only 69c in this grand percale! So list the things you're planning to make . . . and buy now while you can save!

- Our Yard Goods Dept. also carries buttons, thread and other sewing needs.

- Simplicity Pattterns 15c and 25c

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.

FOR VICTORY BUY UNITED STATES WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

1225 Broadway Dial 3-4351 Columbus, Ga.

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 1, NUMBER 19 | Published By The Ledger-Enquirer Co. | FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1943. | For America's Most Complete Post | PRICE FIVE CENTS

Thru The Peepsight

G. I. Summary Of World News

BY SGT. O. J. REMINGTON

ROMANCE AND WAR appear to go hand in hand. At least, the county clerks of more than 3,000 counties in this land of ours have been called upon to write considerably more licenses to wed during 1942 than any other year in our history. A recent survey shows that about 1,800,000 marriages were performed during the year, which is an increase of about 80 per cent over 1932, the low point of the unlamented depression.

NEWS WAS looking up for others besides the county clerks and parsons, too, as the War progressed.

Best news comes from Russia, where the Red armies are busy as bees picking off the remnants of the great Nazi army that not so long ago was besieging Stalingrad. The job ought to be finished soon, barring unforseen happenings. Russian sources estimate that some 220,000 Germans were surrounded, and at last reports about 50,000 weer left alive. They had refused to accept terms of surrender, and were being annihilated.

At the same time, the Russians continue advances in the all-vital oil regions of the Caucasus, and so far as that goes, practically all along the long-extended Russian front.

From present indications, the Russian drive is in high gear and seems to be rolling along even better than the winter campaign last year. Question:—How much will the present Russian advance take out of the German armed might? Upon that question may hinge coming summer operations of the United Nations.

IN EUROPE itself, the might of the RAF continues to be visited upon German industrial areas. Terrificallly heavy raids upon the heart of Berlin, with weak Nazi retaliation upon London, appears most significant so far. British announce that anti-aircraft fire protecting the German capital "is weak."

In Africa, Allied forces again are on the advance, with Tripoli, last stronghold of Mussolini's once vast African empire, being threatened.

The Japs now appear to have opened another round in their obstinate battle to retake Guadacanal Island. American positions were being bombed heavily but the Japanese still were unable to gain a foothold despite desperate efforts which have cost them very heavily in men and ships as well.

Americans continue to deliver bomb blows on Munda, located in New Guinea. Our airplanes also have intercepted destroyers that apparently were setting out to make a landing on Guadacanal.

ALONG THE domestic front, considerable headway is being made in a drive for the "Rumi plan", which would put personal income taxes on a pay-as-you-go basis by skipping 1942 taxes and substituting a direct method of collecting for current expenses.

President Roosevelt has asked Congress to provide a supplemental appropriation of $4,000,000,000 for the maritime commission's expansion of merchant shipbuilding programs.

The President's budget message to Congress forecast federal expenditures of $108 billion in the fiscal year 1944 and called for $16 billion in new collections by taxation, savings or both. Proposed war costs for 1944 were set at $100 billion. War expenditures for 1942, as released by OWI, totaled more than $52 billion—3.8 times the amount spent in 1941—but at the end of the year, they were running at an annual rate of about $74 billion.

Emphasizing that methods of taxation should be determined by Congress, the President asked Congress to put taxpayers on a pay-as-you-go basis, simplify the tax system, and effect certain reforms in the tax structure. Specifically, these reforms would include changes in the depletion-of-reserves provisions, extension to all income of the present limitation of $25,000 net on earned income, removal of the tax exemption from future issues of securities, and curtailment of the advantages of joint income returns still allowed married couples in some states.

Labor, represented by 3,500 officials of the American Federation of Labor from 12 southern states, took steps to double production of war materials during 1943, as a result of their meeting in Atlanta. A 13-point program appears of utmost significance. It includes an indorsement of the no-strike policy; less delay in sending interpretation of international rulings and orders and decisions to officers of state federations; full representation on government boards that affect labor; appeal to press and public against adverse labor legislation; opposition to compulsory war savings; repeal of the poll tax as a condition to voting; equal rights for all in labor regardless of race or color; establishment of minimum wage scale

See THRU, Page 1

Sound Effects Simulate Fury Of Modern War

TIS 'Noise Makers' Play Vital Role In Troop Training

Simulated battle conditions, through use of sound effects, is the latest wrinkle in teaching the art of warfare, developed at the Infantry School at Fort Benning to save thousands of dollars in live ammunition annually and to release thousands of troops, airplanes and cannon for other duty.

In fact, so costly would be the use of actual troops, planes and other equipment to produce the same effects in training of officer candidates and troops as well, that their use would be practically impossible.

Thus the sound section of the Infantry School is contributing at very little cost a training that it would scarcely be possible to attain outside of actually facing an enemy. And that in turn means that new American officers are receiving training which will be invaluable to them and their men as well when they actually lead troops into combat.

The sound section is serving in other capacities also, including work of developing many new techniques in loud speaker systems, some of which will have commercial value in radio after the war, training of communication men in taking messages under near-battle conditions, and training of technicians.

The section also is set up in order to carry warning all over the

See SOUND, Page 7

Col. Stubbs To Be Moved

Col. Jackson Named 2nd STR Commander

Colonel Maurice G. Stubbs, commanding officer of the Second Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School, has been transferred to a new assignment, it was announced today, and will leave his present post on Saturday.

Colonel Edward B. Jackson, executive officer of the regiment, will succeed Colonel Stubbs as commanding officer in the ganization. Major Lester E. Winslow, formerly commanding officer of Second Battalian Headquarters in the Regiment, will assume the regimental post of executive officer.

Although Colonel Stubbs' new assignment has not been announcel publicly, it was disclosed that he will attend the division officers' course at The Infantry School, commencing February 1st.

Colonel Stubbs, who received his commission in the Army on August 15, 1917, at the first officer training school at Fort Riley, Kans., assumed command of the Second Student Training Regiment upon its activation on November 13, 1941. Since that time, Col. Stubbs has nurtured the growth of the vast training unit for officer candidates.

During World War I, Col. Stubbs served with the 12th Division. He was later assigned to Fort Benning in 1919, and assumed the job of post adjutant. In succeeding years, Col. Stubbs took additional courses at The Infantry School and served a tour of duty in Hawaii.

Tiny Hand Grenade Comes Into Its Own; G. I.'s Back From War Call for More

Yanks Thoroughly Trained In Use Of Potent Weapon

BY LT. REUBEN A. HOLDEN

B. A. R., Bayonet, and Grenade Group, The Infantry School

Wherever men are fighting today they are making use of one of the most powerful of all the weapons of warfare, the mighty little grenade. Every report from the batlefield bears this out, and it is singularly true that the men who return from the fighting zones always express the hope that the next time they can get their hands on more grenades.

In close contact the rifle is the weapon normally employed. But the rifle is powerless against opponents who have the shelter of a deep trench or foxhole or the protection of an intervening hill. As a result a weapon has had to be evolved that would have as much destructive force as possible, combined with such a variable trajectory that mere depth would be rendered no real protection.

DEVELOPS GRENADE

The guns of the Field Artillery at longer range and the mortars at shorter ranges have been designed for this purpose. The further necessity of providing the individual doughboy with a weapon of similar characteristics caused development of the grenade, and today grenades have come to be universally regarded as indispensable both in attack and defense.

In World War I, the French claimed that to a great extent the

See TINY, Page 8

THE ART OF THROWING a grenade consists of combining a shot-put with a catcher's peg plus the follow-through. A member of the First Parachute Infantry Brigade shows how it's done in the above photo. And God pity the guy on the receiving end. (Photo by Palmer.)

Tax Delayed For Soldiers

'Victory' Levy Postponed Until 1944; Time to File Income Tax Draws Nigh

Thousands of enlisted men and officers at Fort Benning alike will shortly whittle their pencils and while away their spare hours preparing their 1942 income tax returns to the Federal Government.

Despite the laborious hours which are habitually attendant to figuring out the taxes, there are at least two bright prospects on the horizon for soldiers:

1. All soldiers whose ability to pay the income tax has become "materially impaired by reason of military service," may apply for a moratorium on paying their taxes, which become due within six months after termination of military service.

2. The 1943 Victory Tax, which has been instituted to reap in additional millions for the Federal Treasury, will not be withdrawn during the year from monthly payrolls.

Four officers from Fort Benning attended a meeting at Atlanta early this week where representatives of the Collector of Internal Revenue explained the ramifications of the 1942 income tax as it applies to soldiers. The officers from the post, in turn held a meeting yesterday afternoon at The Infantry School with officers from the various units on the post where problems of income tax liabilities were explained. These unit officers will be able to answer questions from troops on the post relative to the payment of the taxes.

NO INDIVIDUAL DATA

Lt. Col. J. H. McFall, Finance Officer on the Post, announced today that finance officers this year will not supply individual soldiers with reports on their earnings during 1942, as had been the custom in years past. Due to the paper work involved, the War Department has ruled against the practice this year.

In lieu of the individual reports to soldiers, the finance office will issue shortly a table showing the annual incomes of enlisted men and officers, upon which each will be able to determine his annual income on which to fill out the tax return.

Although income tax returns are not due to be filed until March, it was pointed out that soldiers should start determining their earnings and preparing their forms now instead of being caught short later when they may become liable to a fine as penalty for the delay.

SUBJECT TO TAX

Information prepared at Post Headquarters indicates those subject to file a tax return:

1. Every individual who is single, and every individual who is married but not living with husband or wife, must file an Income Tax return if, during the calendar year, 1942, his or her gross income was $500 or more.

2. Every individual who is married and living with husband or wife, must file an Income Tax Return if, during the calendar year, 1942, his or her gross income was $1,200 or more.

3. Every individual who qualifies as head of a family, although not a married person, who has a gross income of $500 or over must file a return.

In addition to the regular ex-

See TAX, Page 3

Storm Exacts Heavy Toll In Property

Disrupts Traffic; Live Wire Takes Soldier's Life

Rain and wind took a heavy toll, including one life, at Fort Benning Sunday night as a treacherous "twister" wreaked havoc about the reservation and resulted in damage estimated by Col. Albert J. Bain, Post Engineer, at about $100,000.

Corporal Sidney Bravman, 22, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a member of the white Quartermaster Detachment, was injured fatally when he stepped on a grounded power line submerged in water while he was engaged with a detail of soldiers attempting to salvage materials from damaged quartermaster sheds.

Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the post, Col. Edward Noyes, commanding officer of the Station Hospital, Mrs. Noyes, and Lt. O. K. Marquardt, the general's aide, narrowly escaped serious injury near Baltzell avenue Sunday afternoon when a huge tree crashed to the ground missing them by about three feet.

DAMAGES BUILDINGS

Four quartermaster sheds on Vibbert avenue were damaged severely, the roof was blown off one building in the automotive section of the Infantry School, glass and tile were damaged in several homes in the Lumpkin road area, slight damage was done to the Officers Club, hundreds of trees were felled, and considerable damage was done to roads by washouts.

The standard guage railroad, linking Fort Benning with Columbus, was washed out in several locations but repair crews, working all day and night, put the roadbed back into serviceable shape by Tuesday afternoon. Damage to the narrow guage railroad was considerable, with washouts also hampering service on the post.

Several homes were damaged

See STORM, Page 3

Exchange Soda Fountain Will Open Next Tuesday; Cafe Nears Completion

Expanded Facilities Will Ease Shortage Of Dining Space

Malted milks and cokes will first be dispensed from the new soda fountain on Ingersoll street and Wold avenue about next Tuesday, it was indicated today by Major H. E. McGaffey, exchange officer.

The soda fountain is the first section of the new building to be opened, Maj. McGaffey said, as work on the restaurant and cafeteria is still going on. It is expected that the restaurant and cafeteria will be open for business about February 1.

Started last October, construction of the new, modern exchange building has been progressing rapidly during the winter months. The eating facilities to be afforded by the establishment will solve many eating problems at the post.

OFFICES MOVE

On the second floor of the new building, which is 188 feet long by 200 feet wide, the business offices of the Exchange will be located. Presently situated in the towers at Doughboy stadium, the offices will be moved starting next Thursday.

The soda fountain, which is presently located in Doughboy stadium, closed last night for inventory. The activity will not reopen until early next week when the new soda fountain will be open for business in the new cafe. In its new location, the soda fountain will be larger and more pleasant than the present one, Maj. McGaffey indicated.

When the restaurant and the

See EXCHANGE, Page 3.

PX Planning 'Counter' Attack

There are lots of folks at Fort Benning counting on the opening of the new cafeteria in the exchange building on Ingersoll street and Wold avenue shortly.

But, until exchange officials can acquire a long cafeteria counter to serve the eating place, the opening date will be delayed. Tentatively slated to open about February 1, there may be a further delay, it was indicated today by Major H. E. McGaffey, exchange officer.

Exchange officias are doing their best to find a counter. If YOU might know where a suitable one can be found, Major McGaffey would like to know where to find it.

'Hit The Deck' Schedule Posted

"Hit The Deck" opens at the Main Theatre on the post proper next Tuesday. The two-act comedy will give two performances daily during the tive day stay at the post.

Four shows at the Main theatre on Jan. 26 and 27, starting at 6:45 and 8:45 p. m. will be the menu for soldiers of the Main Post. The second show on Jan. 27 will be for colored personnel only.

The rest of the evening shows will be given at 7:30 and 9:30 p. m. Jan. 28 will see the 10th Armored Division packing Theatre No. 7 for the show, and the last two days at Fort Benning will be spent in Harmony Church at Theatres 11 and 4, in that order.

"Hit The Deck" will put on a special performance at the Station Hospital at 3 p. m. on Jan. 28 for the benefit of the patients.

A complete story is published elsewhere in today's Bayonet.

Ex-Two-Niner Gets D. S. M.

Lt. H. G. Peabody Cited For Bravery

Two separate decorations for extraordinary heroism under fire in New Guinea have been awarded 1st Lt. Herbert G. Peabody, formerly assigned to the 29th Infantry here, according to word reaching Fort Benning. The awards including the Distinguished Service Cross and an Oak leaf in lieu of the D. S. M., were made by General Douglas MacArthur.

Lt. Peabody won his first D. S. C. for bravery in action last November 16; his second for heroism under fire on December 15, near Buna, New Guinea.

The citation accompanying the decorations said that the five-man group commanded by Lt. Peabody joined in the rescue of Allied soldiers from a small boat which was under attack by the Japanese off the coast of New Guinea on November 16.

"When enemy airplanes," the citation reads, "attacked and set fire to several small ships carrying army personnel, Lt. Peabody called for volunteers, and with four enlisted men, he boarded a coastal vessel and ordered it to proceed to the burning ship. Despite bombing and strafing they continued to search for survivors until long after dark."

HEROISM NEAR BUNA

Lt. Peabody won the Oak leaf cluster for heroism near Buna on December 15 when a rifle company patrol broke through enemy lines and established itself on the beach near that place.

"The only supply route lay through an enemy position," the citation stated. "Peabody led a carrying unit forward to replenish the patrol's ammunition, and had to crawl through enemy mortar fire and sniper activity to make the delivery."

The decorations are reported to be the first of the D. S. C. type to be bestowed during the Buna fighting.

While in the 29th Lt. Peabody was at one time regimental basketball coach.

Newspapermen To Visit Post

South Americans Arrive Here Monday

Ten newspapermen from Peru and Uruguay will arrive Monday for a one day's tour of Fort Benning under the auspices of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs.

Arriving early Monday morning the party will go directly to the Officers' club for breakfast, after which the guests will be taken to the Parachute school. From there they will go to the Tenth Armored division for a tour and lunch. Part of the afternoon will be spent in the Infantry School.

Following dinner the Latin-Americans will go to Opelika to catch a train.

Included in the group will be Esteban Pavletich, head of the bureau of propaganda for the Peruvian government. Two of the men from Uruguay are former under secretaries of the interior and one is now a member of the Chamber of Deputies.

Accompanying the men will be Arthur Wild, director of tours for the Inter-American committee, and a representative from the Washington Bureau of Public Relations. The journalists are in this country at the invitation of the National Press Club.

Those from Uruguay are all from Montevideo while Arequipa and Lima are represented by the Peruvians.

From Uruguay come Dr. Thomas Brena, editor of El Bien Publico; Jose Pereyra Gonzales, news editor of El Dia; Dr. Eduardo Rodriguez, co-director of El Pais; Julio Caporale Scelta, co-director of Mundo Uruguayo; Ricardo Vernazza, managing editor of El Tiempo; Carlos Manini Rios, director of La Manana; and Nelson Garcia Serrato, staff writer of La Razon.

In addition to Senor Pavletich from Peru come Alberto Arispe, writer for Noticias, and Alejandro Midro Quesada Garland, writer for El Comercio.

The PRO Don't Know Nothing 'Bout No Gas

Normally, requests that the public relations office make suggestions for the use of telephones come from the communications office or the telephone company, but here's one that comes directly from the public relations office.

Captain Russell J. Hamargren now knows why the signal company keeps urging telephone users on the post to dial 9 before calling Columbus. His telephone number on the post is 2423. The first four numbers of the gasoline and tire rationing board in Columbus are 2423. The result — the captain and his family are answering a barrage of calls and explaining that they know nothing about how to get tires and gas.

Please, when you call Columbus first dial 9.

Pre-O. C. S. Course Given

Enlisted Men Study On Their Own Time

The Infantry School's Academic Regiment, which serves the school with clerical and service troops of all types, instituted a Regimental Training Course this week to prepare enlisted men for Officer Candidate schools.

Designed to cover a four-week schedule, the course is being conducted on the men's own time, with classes slated for evenings and Sunday mornings. Colonel Harry N. Burkhalter, commanding officer of the Regiment, heads the staff of regimental instructors.

The preparatory course, which will cover 40-hours of work, includes lectures and practical work in orientation, close order drill, physical training, military courtesy, and organization of the Infantry.

MAKE APPLICATION

Application for the Regimental Training Course is made through the company commanders of the unit, it was announced. The course has been established as a necessary prerequisite for enlisted men in the Academic Regiment seeking recommendation on their application for O. C. S. The course is being conducted with the idea of preparing troops for any Officer Candidate School.

Troops of the regiment who live off the reservation and enroll in the course are urged to move back into the barracks for the four week period, during which time they will be given opportunity to demonstrate qualities of leadership by being placed in charge of squads and details.

Post's Chattahoochee Choo-Choo, Sky-Ride Thrill Norman Rockwell

Noted Artist Has Time of Life With Ol' Cindy

Norman Rockwell, famed illustrator of The Saturday Evening Post, has plenty of things to tell his neighbors back in Poultney, Vermont.

Mr. Rockwell, who spent five days this past week at Fort Benning, rode with the paratroops in their transport planes and watched them jump, enjoyed a special observation ride on the post's narrow guage "Chattahoochee Choo-Choo," and saw Army life as he wanted to observe it for some forthcoming sketches he is preparing for the magazine.

A sailor in World War I, Mr. Rockwell, who has been painting covers for The Saturday Evening Post for 27 years, expressed his amazement at the thoroughness and rigidity of training of soldiers at this post. Although he has a fondness for the sea, Mr. Rockwell said he was "certainly impressed" with the training methods of soldiers at Fort Benning.

Bumpy All Around.

On a cold morning, Mr. Rockwell rode in the special observation car behind one of the 17-ton dingy engines of the "Chattahoochee Choo-Choo" with Lieut. Charles McKeown, Railway Transportation Officer of the post. On the trip, the artist witnessed troops on problems along the route on the railroad.

GETTING AN ENGINEER'S VIEW of Fort Benning is Norman Rockwell, the famed illustrator for The Saturday Evening Post, who is shown above in the cab of one of the dinky engines on the post's narrow guage railroad. Lieut. Charles McKeown, railway transportation officer, is shown with Mr. Rockwell. (Signal Lab Photo by Kortemeier.)

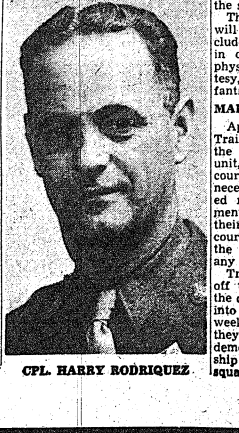
Captain Barney Oldfield, Intelligence Officer of the Parachute Brigade Headquarters outfitted Mr. Rockwell with a parachute and sent him on a ride with troops of the 500th Perachute Regiment who were engaged in a problem.

Although he resided in New Rochelle, N. Y., for many years, where he had his studio, Mr. Rockwell recently moved to Vermont. There in addition to his work, he is active in the life of the community, serving as chief of the civilian defense organization.

Mrs. Rockwell accompanied her husband on the trip to Fort Benning.

Three Nations Decorated Lawson Field Non-Com

Cpl. Rodriquez Won Six Medals Before Age of 18



Six decorations for gallantry under fire awarded by three different governments is the World War record of Cpl. Harry Rodriquez of Lawson Field. And to crown these achievements is the fact that he won them all before reaching the age of 18!

Cpl. Rodriquez joined the Army to fight in the first World War at the age of 16. He fought overseas for 11 months with Company D, 107th Regiment, 27th Division, attached to the second British Army Corps.

In 1918 he participated in the Belgian offensive during which he brought back behind the lines seven men who had been gassed. He also shot down a German plane with a machine gun. For these exploits he was decorated by Field Marshal Douglas Haig, with the British Military Medal.

Later Cpl. Rodriquez was wounded in action in the cracking of the Hinderburg Line. From

See THREE, Page 3

CPL. HARRY RODRIQUEZ

6-Star Mother Tours Nation Visiting Children

One Son Assigned To 10th Armored

One by one Mrs. Mary Williams, who lives near Pittsburgh, Pa., watched five sons and one daughter go into service and today she is on a several thousand-mile jaunt to visit four of them.

The journey brought her this week to Fort Benning to visit Pvt. Samuel Williams, now a member of the Tenth Armored Division.

Staff Sgt. Lester Williams, who now is overseas, was first to leave. He joined the Army in February, 1939, and she hasn't seen him since. Then Charles, who is a private first class serving at Miami Beach, was inducted in April of 1942. He was followed by Frank, baby of the family, just 18, who joined the Navy last June and now is attending a mechanics school at Jacksonville, Fla. David, who is 20, also joined the Navy in August, and is attending a school at Newport, R. I.

DAUGHTER A NURSE

Then, she related, her youngest daughter, Mae, who is a graduate nurse, entered the service and now is a second lieutenant at Camp Lee, Va.

Samuel, who is 35, tried to volunteer but was rejected. When his draft number came up, however, he was accepted, much to his delight.

When she decided to visit as many of her children as she could, she went first to Camp Lee, with Columbus as her second stop. From here she is going to Jacksonville and then to Miami.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

The instructor in defense against gas attack stood in the doorway of the gas chamber.

"Now, men, we'll see how many of you are experts and how many become casualties, MOVE IN!"

Members of the 25th Company, Third Student Training Regiment, rushed into the chamber and when they emerged from another door they were all smiles except one candidate who had tears streaming down his face.

The instructor laughed jeeringly and said, "Casualty, eh?"

"No, that's not it," the candidate replied seriously. "Things haven't been going so well at home lately. My girl's going with a ship yard worker who's 4-B."

Filipino Reporter Takes Course

Illustre Wrote For Capital Paper

With Japanese occupying his Philippine home, Ernesto Dominador Illustre, former Special Correspondent for the Washington Post, has a definate reason for being here in the Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School.

He's now getting a thorough course in the weapons and tactics of Infantry warfare which, if he successfully passes, will gain for him the commission of second lieutenant in the Army of the United States. With that training he hopes to go back to his homeland and help to drive out the invaders.

The day after the attack on Pearl Harbor Illustre tried to enlist in the army. Finding the Philippines could not volnteer, he along with others, circulated a petition in Philippino communities throughout the United States to have congress change the law. They got results and Illustre entered the army in April, 1942. After his basic training he won his appointment to the Infantry Officer School and arrived here November 21, 1942.

Lured by stories of skycrapers and democracy told to him by American Oil Engineers living in his home, Illustre, at the age of 17 came to America. That was in 1925. He studied Journalism at Stanford and Northwestern Universities. From 1934 to 1937 he was assistant to the Director of Social Welfare in the Philipino community center in Chicago and in 1937 he returned to his homeland to get his journalism degree at the Island University. After a three-year newspaper career there he returned to the United States to become public relations man for the Philipino Resident Commission in Washington.

Besides his official press releases to American papers, he wrote articles independently, the most important series of which was that for the Washington Post in 1941.

Carolina Senator Resigns To Battle Axis Enemies

Candidate Gordon Gray of the 20th Company, 3rd STR, stopped making laws to lay down the law to the Axis.

Candidate Gray resigned senatorial duties after serving two terms as North Carolina State Senator to join Uncle Sam's Army and was inducted at Fort Bragg in May 1942. He took his basic training at Camp Wheeler.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Candidate Gray began his education at Woodberry Forest Prep school in Virginia and went from there to the University of North Carolina where he received his A. B. in 1930; while there he was president of Phi Beta Kappa and was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon; he was also business manager of the Carolina magazine and manager of the baseball team; from here Gray went to Yale Law school and received his LLB. in 1933. At Yale he was editor of the Yale Law Journal and was president of Corbey Court Law Fraternity.

Upon completion of his education Candidate Gray spent two years practicing law in New York with the firm of Carter, Ledyard and Millburn followed by two more years with the firm of Manly, Hendren and Womble of Winston-Salem, N. C.

NEWSPAPER MAN

In 1937 he became president of the Piedmont Publishing company, serving as publisher of the Winston-Salem Journal and The Twin City Sentinel and was also director of radio stations WSJS and W41MM; from that time until his induction Candidate Gray devoted his activities to his Senatorial duties plus serving on the State Banking Commission.

Candidate Gray has done a great deal of extensive traveling through Europe, the Near East and Central and South America. He is married and is the father of two sons living in Winston-Salem.

Lt. McAllister Named Assistant Club Officer

Recently appointed assistant club officer is 1st Lt. Albert J. McAllister, formerly assigned to the secretary's office, the Infantry School.

Lt. McAllister first came to Benning in February, 1942, to attend Officer Candidate School. Previously, he had been stationed at Camp Roberts, Calif.

Boasting several years experience in hotel business, Lt. McAllister is also a graduate of Cornell University's hotel administration course. Upon completion of his studies, he worked for the Drake Hotel, Palmer House and LaSalle Hotel, all in Chicago.

Lt. McAllister replaces Lt. Pierre Cheyne, who was ordered to military intelligence school, Camp Ritchie, Md.

IT TAKES a long, long ticket to swing around the country to visit her five soldier boys, and Mrs. Mary Williams displays the evidence. She (right) and Mrs. Hannah O'Rourke, her companion, examine the lengthy ducat.—Photo by Paul Stewart.

O. C. Choir to Sing In Atlanta Cathedral

Group Of 30 Formed In 2nd STR

A choir composed entirely of officer candidates from the Second Student Training Regiment of the Infantry school which has made quite a reputation in Benning musical circles will appear Sunday, Jan. 24, at the main service at the Cathedral of St. Philip in Atlanta.

Arrangements for the choir's appearance were made between Dean Raimundo de Ovies of the Cathedral and Chaplain Edwin L. Willson of the Second Regiment. The group of 30 will sing a program of four choral numbers at the "family" service at 11 a. m.

This choir from the Second Regiment, commanded by Col. Maurice G. Stubbs, is a very interesting musical organization. Its members were almost without exception members of well-known choral groups in civilian life. It is directed by Capt. John S. Greenfield, commander of an officer candidate training company in the Second Regiment, with whom choral singing is a long-standing hobby.

ONE YEAR OLD

The choir was started in February of 1942 when officer candidates started coming to the Infantry school in increased numbers. The idea had the full support of Col. Stubbs despite the difficulties which could be expected in a regiment where the personnel is permanent for a maximum of three months. He felt that the choir would help to demonstrate to the general public that the American army seeks to do more for its soldiers than just make of them fighters with a lust for killing. For the choir not only gives its members an outlet for cultural inclinations, but through its music each Sunday in the little wooden chapel down by the guardhouse it also provides other candidates in the regiment with entertainment along cultural lines and takes them back each Sunday to an atmosphere akin to their former civilian lives.

NEVER ABSENT

And despite the fact that members are never with the choir for more than three months, which is the length of the course at the school, this choir has never missed a Sunday since last February.

Members of the choir are also thus able to carry on with their choral work, and it is the hope of Capt. Greenfield that when they see what can be done along these lines at Benning that they will carry the idea along with them when they are assigned to other army outfits as officers and that they will organize similar singing groups elsewhere.

For the gospel of the teaching at the school is to show these men what they can do when they are assigned to other units as officers.

EXPERIENCED ORGANIST

Organist for the choir, who will play in Atlanta, is 1st Lt. Alfred W. Haight of Syracuse, N. Y., who has a broad musical background. Other officers who will accompany the choir to Atlanta include Capt. Gilbert A. Williams and Capt. Francis Strapp, both company commanders in the regiment, and 1st Lt. Paul A. Ballantyne, all of whom have sung with the choir since its inception. Chaplain Willson will also be in the party.

Because of the fact that candidates work six days a week, 12 hours a day during their intensive course, the choir is not able to leave Fort Benning until 8:30 Saturday night. The fact that they will perform in Atlanta after only a few hours sleep Saturday night is typical of the group, for they must sacrifice what little free time they have to rehearsals to make the group as solid a singing body as it is.

The program at the Cathedral will include these four numbers:

Chorals, "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee," by Bach; "Salvation Belongeth To Our God," a Russian chant; "Lo How a Rose," by Prastorius; and "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones," an old German traditional.

Lawson Bomb-Sight

By CPL. E. N. FUSILLO

Master Sergeants Luther Daniel and Albert M. Chaffin, both of Headquarters, have been appointed warrant officers. Mr. Daniel was chief clerk and Mr. Chaffin was in charge of personnel.

Mr. Daniel enlisted in July 26, 1934 and served his entire Army career at Fort Benning. For two years he was with the 29th Infantry, and since 1936 has been at Lawson Field. Described by officers as "a walking encyclopedia of rules and regulations," he is from the point of service, the oldest man at the field.

He holds the highest average ever made in the Air Corps Technical School at Lowry Field, Denver, Col., which he attended for twenty weeks.

Mr. Chaffin enlisted in 1935 and was stationed with Flight C of the 16th Observation Squadron at Fort Bragg, N. C. In 1938 at the expiration of his enlistment he returned to civilian life and was employed by Eastern Air Lines at LaGuardia Field, N. Y.

In 1941 Mr. Chaffin was called back to service and stationed at Lawson Field. For two years he has been sergeant major of Headquarters personnel.

He attended the Fourth Corps Aerial Personnel School and received the highest grade of his class.

MACEK-PUNZI

The marriage of Corporal Nick Punzi of the 54th Base Headquarters and Air Base Squadron to Miss Lydia Macek has just been announced. The marriage took place at the Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Astoria, Long Island December 31, 1942. Mr. and Mrs. Stephan Pepe were the attendants for the bride and groom.

Jan. 27 'Yank' To Summarize G. I. Income Tax

For all G. I.'s who have been wondering how this year's income tax program will affect members of the armed forces, YANK, The Army Weekly is publishing a two-page, detailed summary of the tax situation. The article will appear in the January 27 issue of YANK.

In the same issue, which will be one of the high-water marks in YANK's seven-month career, winners of the "Nuts to the Axis" contest will be announced, and for the first time, the Army Weekly will publish words and music of a stirring Army song.

Soldiers everywhere are urged to study YANK's tax article, as it contains information of vital importance to all men in uniform.

9 Supply Men Get Promotions

Nine enlisted men of the Supply Division, 4th Service Command at Fort Benning, have been promoted to higher grades, according to an announcement by post headquarters.

Tech 5th Gr. Thomas B. Royall was promoted to technician 4th grade and Pfc. Perley E. Thompkins was advanced to corporal.

Pfc. George H. Vaniman and Pvts. Sidney Koff, Louis F. Powell, and Robert V. Schumar made technician 5th grade. Pvts. Richard R. Anthony, Joseph E. Brown, and Frank J. Witas, were promoted to private first class.

A serviceman may list an illegitimate child as a Class A dependent under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act, but only if he has been judicially ordered or decreed to contribute to such child's support; or has been judicially decreed to be the father of such child; or has acknowledged under oath in writing that he is the father of such child.

Tiger Officer Is Lieut. Colonel At Age of 25

One of the youngest officers in the army to hold his present rank is 25-year-old Lieut. Colonel William W. Beverly of the 10th Armored Division. Colonel Beverly is commander of the division's 423rd Field Artillery.

Starting his meteroric rise scarcely more than four years ago, he received his commission in the Field Artillery at the United States Military Academy in 1938.

His first assignment was with the 6th F. A. Battalion at Fort Hoyle, Md., and a year later, while serving with the 21st F. A. of the 5th Infantry Division at Fort Knox he received his silver bars. In 1940, while serving as battery commander in the 3rd F. A. Bn. of the 2nd Cavalry Division at Fort Riley, Kansas, he was promoted to a captain.

In June, 1941, he received his majority. At that time he was with the 2nd Cavalry's 73rd F. A. Bn. where he held several posts including battalion intelligence officer and plans and training officer.

On July 1st he was transferred to the 10th Armored Division to command the 423rd.

This Yarn Recalls Triple-threat Who Caught Own Pass

A lieutenant of the Mortar Committee is still a bit dazed by the actions of a squad from the 25th Company of the Third Student Training Regiment.

At the moment the squad was using the field expedient of ladder bracketing. The corporal had given the range and fire order which sent three mortar shells into the air (at one time) he hoped. The usual period of waiting for the shells to reach their destination arrived.

The corporal gazed, eagle-eyed, at the terrain. The shells hit, the final shell was on the target.

The corporal turned to give a fire order—the mortar was deserted. The crew including Candidates J. S. Anderson, John Garber and Edmund Shoop had left the mortar and scurried to the top of the hill to observe the strike of their shells.

The dazed lieutenant of the Mortar Committee had only one comment to offer. "The squad had demonstrated leadership."

First World War Veterans Eligible For Life Insurance

Veterans of the first World War are advised of eligibility for United States Government life insurance, as well as National Service life insurance.

The latest ruling was made known in an announcement issued by the Adjutant General's office, Washington, D. C. There are certain requirements as to physical fitness, besides limiting the total which any individual may buy to $10,000.

United States Government insurance offers certain advantages over the National Service type, including permanent and total disability clauses, no restrictions on beneficiaries, lump sum benefits in case of death or total disability, and lower premium rates.

The rank of a WAAC officer who wears two silver bars is "First Officer;" corresponding to the rank of captain in the regular Army.

Woman's Club

By LAURA M. BAILEY

The regular meeting of the Woman's club, which will be held in the Main Lounge of the Officers' club Feb. 1, will be of special interest to its members. The Spanish Group of the Woman's club is responsible for the program.

The importance of the Latin American countries have never been as clear as today when war conditions have shut off our imports from those countries. Coffee rationing is perhaps one of the most acute reminders of these countries' part in our daily living.

For these reasons a Latin American program is a timely gesture of friendship toward our neighbors. The Spanish Group is planning a diversified program that will give the audience true insight into these countries, through a presentation of music, dancing and a colorful display of art from the various countries.

Colonel Reginald H. Kelley will speak briefly on the economic and historical background of these countries. Col. Kelley has endeared himself to the members of the Woman's club by his willingness to give to the members his knowledge of world-wide conditions. His lectures on current events have been one of the popular group activities.

The members of the Spanish group will act as hostesses for the tea hour. They will be dressed in the bright native costumes of the various countries they have lived in during their years in the army. Mrs. Henry P. Perrine, chairman of the group, is in charge of the program and is completing the plans for a colorful and unusual meeting.

MUSIC CLUB

Pvt. Harold Scheckman, talented young violinist who conducts the Columbus Symphony Orchestra and has appeared on Fort Benning radio programs by popular request, will highlight the program of the music group of the Woman's club Wednesday afternoon. The program, featuring music of Mozart and Haydn, will be given at 2 p. m. in the ladies lounge of the Officers' Club.

The program, arranged by Mrs. Edward Glaze, follows:

1. Talk on Mozart and Hydn—Mrs. H. T. Gayley.
2. Piano solo—Miss Charlotte Sagmoen — "Sonata in D" by Haydn.
3. Vocal solos—Mrs. John Grant —"My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair" by Haydn; "The Violet" by Mozart. Mrs. John Spitzer, accompanist.
4. Piano solo—Mrs. Edwin Wallace—"Fantasia in D" by Mozart.
5. Violin solo — Pvt. Harold Scheckman—"Concerto in G" by Mozart. Lt. H. M. Cordello, accompanist.

Poor O. D. Walks All Night; Made Papa Next Day

Captain Peter J. Newton of Gibson, N. C., who commands the Sixth Company in the Third Student Training Regiment was Officer of the Day here recently.

Ordinarily the Officer of the Day doesn't walk a post but merely supervises the guards. However on this particular day the guards were surprised to see Captain Newton doing more walking than any of them.

The reason for his activity was the fact that his wife, the former Esther Rogers of Andrews, S. C., was expecting a baby at Station hospital here on the Post.

Captain Newton walked the entire night and at 10 a. m. the eight pound, one ounce baby girl was born.

It was the second baby girl for the Newtons born here on the Post.

Regulations Forbid Overnight Visits Sans Authority

Alvin Dolph Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phare Cook, 3013 4th ave., Columbus, who was missing from home since January 13, has been found on the post and returned to his parents.

According to Alvin's parents, the 11-year-old boy thought it as something of a lark. However, Captain W. D. Veal, provost marshal issued the warning that any unauthorized civilians spending the night on the post, or over staying their pass, may be picked up by the military police.

Military personnel are urged neither to help nor encourage, any unauthorized persons seeking to remain inside the reservation. This is strictly against regulations.

Avoid moving around too freely in areas where you suspect the presence of booby traps or personnel mines.

Gunner Doesn't Believe In Wasting Ammunition

The 81-mm. mortar coughed sharply, and the instructor, watching the target, told his class of Infantry Officer Candidates:

"Now don't expect that to hit anything. It should take three or four rounds to adjust—"

Red Georgia clay and black smoke mushroomed up 900 yards away. When the flash and rumble faded, there wasn't any target.

Candidate James W. Devine, the gunner, hadn't been thinking of targets. He was thinking, tight-lipped, of Nazis. The Nazis, he had just heard, had captured his kid brother.

Andy — his classmates in the 14th Co., Third Student Training Regiment, call Devine that—is the second of three soldiering sons of Farmer A. J. Devine of Villesca, Ia. A sergeant squad leader at 22, he was sent back in October from northern Ireland for officer training. As Andy sailed west and home on a famous converted liner, Sgt. William S. Devine, 19, rear gunner, was flying east and to war with his bomber squadron. Somewhere between the spray and mists of the gray Atlantic their paths crossed.

DIDN'T KNOW

But Andy didn't know that until he got home on his 10-day furlough. His older brother, John, 35, was gone too; he was now a staff sergeant in an infantry cadre at Camp Adair, Ore. There were others, though, to ask about Andy's eight months in the British Isles. One of the most interested was Helen Neal whom he had gone with in high school. They were married just before his 10 days were up.

At Benning, Andy heard his kid brother had seen Italy — through his sights. There was another trip and silence. Then the folks at Villesca were notified Sgt. William S. Devine was missing in action. Weeks later came the news he was a German prisoner.

Andy doesn't say much about it. February 17, when they are scheduled to pin a Second Lieutenant's gold bars on his shoulders, he probably won't be saying any more. But he is a first-class gunner with the machine gun, both light and heavy, and a sharpshooter with the Garand; so it is likely the Nazis haven't had the last word with the Devine brothers of Villesca, Iowa.

St. Sgt. Peter Beaton, who won the Golden Gloves bantam-weight title in 1940 and was crowned diamond belt champ the same year, is stationed at Key Field, Miss. Beaton has engaged in 100 fights, winning 95—most of 'em by knockouts. He's now boxing in the regular monthly matches held at Key Field.

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By Eve

With rationing of essential items of daily living facing us in a few weeks most of us are indulging in worries as to how it will affect our meals. Once the national organization is perfected we'll manage as nicely as we have with the sugar and gasoline rationing. There has been no intimation that we will be deprived of the great American privilege of keeping our homes and ourselves looking our prettiest. Not for a while anyway. So, in the meantime, we'll shop and look over the lovely spring arrivals in the Columbus shops and assure ourselves we're still the luckiest women in the world.

No matter how grand you thought your winter wardrobe was a few weeks ago you're certain to think it's definitely "old hat" when you see the bright spring fashions at the PAIRIA GOWN SHOP on the third floor of the Ralston Hotel. The new things are appropriate in their simplicity and wearability for innumerable occasions. Take that number in black sheer with a soft front fullness in the skirt. The simple bodice is distinctive with a collar and cuffs of pleated white pique edged in cut out embroidery. If there's anything more feminine than black with fresh and frothy white I don't know what it is. Then there's the perennial and justified favorite, navy sheer with white polka dots. It's a suit with a crisp white dickey, and flaunts a gay red carnation. There are new spring suits in melting plaid color combinations such as grey with lemon and blue with brown. Ah me, what temptations to a clothes-loving woman!

— — V — —

Have you taken advantage of the War Sale now in its last week at KIRVENS? If your household linen supplies are running low you'd best make a point of looking over the values they have to offer, for you know White Sales are held in January and there may be some time before you'll have an opportunity like this again. There's plenty of sheets, the nice long ones, 81x108 that mean perfectly made beds. Mattress protectors too, that all good housewives feel so essential. Thick turkish towels of all sizes. Cotton damask napkins for everyday use and cheap enough not to break your heart if the laundry loses them. Cotton damask table cloths that launder fresh and white for everyday use too. Stains can be removed so much easier than in the colored ones. If your bed pillows have become limp and lifeless, you might replace them at this sale and assure yourself and family of that most precious of all necessities, luxurious sleep.

— — V — —

For years and years, no matter where they've been stationed, army wives have worn Arnold Authentic shoes. They have acquired a reputation for smartness in a sport shoes, perfection in leather and finish that means unlimited wear of the hardest sort We have been able to order them through MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE STORE in the past. The constant demand has indicated to this store that it would be a convenience for Arnold Authentic addicts to have them in stock. One of the models in fine calf skin is the Loafer. It has all the comfort of a similar shoe the youngsters slop around in, and much more, smart trimness of a fine shoe. A bit dressier is the Town Style with a higher heel. This shoe is in tan calf too, with a box toe and trim tongue. I. Miller has a stunning new wedge heel in Wild Honey calfskin. The punched design makes it a natural for the new spring suits that are being shown in the dress shops today.

— — V — —

There's still time to purchase your Valentine gifts and get them mailed in time. KAYSER - LILIENTHAL, INC. carries an especially glamorous line of perfumes and toiletries. Appropriate for the Valentine sentiment and spring days ahead is Faberge "Chambrey" perfume and toilet water. It comes in a fetching bottle covered in blue and white striped chambrey. The odor is fresh and as gay as the first daffodil. Another perfume by this house is "Straw Hat." It comes in a cylindrical crystal bottle with a straw-covered top. It has a very definite spring and summer freshness your feminine friends like with lighter weight clothes. The sale of Nat Lewis bags continues and that's an item for those who believe their accessories are as important as any part of their costume. They're in a variety of leathers for spring, handsomely lined and constructed for several seasons of costume perfection.

— — V — —

I've known all along that the photographer at AIME DUPONTS on Broadway was no ordinary photographer. I've seen too much of his fine work. My appreciation of his ability was confirmed when I found out he is a contemporary and co-worker of the famous Steichen. Followers of Vogue and Harpers Bazaar are familiar with Steichen's photography. This then is a tip to you womenfolks who would like to have a "once-in-a-lifetime" portrait of yourself. Choose your loveliest dress, have your hair shining and clean and go down some afternoon any time after one o'clock in the afternoon. He'll be free then from the many menfolks from the post to indulge in the thing he likes best, — photographing you in poses and lighting effects to produce a portrait that will be not only your favorite for all time, but cherished by members of your family.

Announcing the LEDGER-ENQUIRER
Ladies'
BOWLING SCHOOL
at
BOWL-MOR
2412 Cusseta Rd.
Mon., Jan. 25 Thru Fri., Jan 29
FREE INSTRUCTION
By ANITA BROOKS
Expert Instructor
See Next Sunday's LEDGER-ENQUIRER for Complete Schedule.

Have Your Photographs Made by
Artists from our 5th Avenue Studios
NO DEPOSITS AT TIME OF SITTING
PROOFS FOR YOUR INSPECTION BEFORE YOU BUY
"Our Prices Within the Reach of All"
Open 1 P. M. Till 9:30 P. M.
Send Your Photograph To Your Loved Ones
AIM'E DUPONT
1219 Broadway—Columbus, Ga.
Tele. 3-1505
Established 1884
Branch of 604 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C.
"OFFICER CANDIDATES"—We have MILITARY Blouses, GARRISON Caps, SAM BROWN Belts—here for you to be photographed in before your graduation.

ANNOUNCING
The Reopening
—THE NEW—
POST OFFICE GRILLE
—Next Door to Phenix City Post Office—
Miss Sue Searcy, Prop.
514 FOURTEENTH ST. PHENIX CITY, ALA.
STEAKS — CHICKEN — OYSTERS
That's Really Tender Home Cooked Raw or Fried
HOME COOKED MEALS — SERVED IN A FRIENDLY MANNER—THAT WILL MAKE YOU COME BACK OFTEN . . . COME OVER TOMORROW AND TRY OUR REGULAR SUNDAY DINNERS — THEY'RE DELICIOUS!

Initiative of TIS Graduate Limelighted in Nation's Press

Lt. Schwartz Lays Trap And Pots Japs Without Loss

The Infantry School's slogan for its Officer Candidate course is that "we turn out combat leaders." And the Second Student Training Regiment, which graduates a major part of the school's new second lieutenants, in recent months has received ample evidence from far-flung battlefronts that the slogan is holding true.

The latest case in point is Lt. Paul L. Schwartz of Syracuse, N. Y. His exploits in the fighting in New Guinea in recent weeks have been spread over much of the nation's press, and he has just been awarded the D. S. C. by General Douglas MacArthur.

TIME magazine carries a detailed account of a recent action in which he participated. Lt. Schwartz and his patrol of 13 men was working through jungle-matted New Guinea in the vicinity of Buna, seeking to strike through to the coast.

JAPS OPEN FIRE

They were approaching the village of Tarakena when a Jap machine gun opened fire on them. Lt. Schwartz decided to see how many Japs were about. He assigned two men to take care of the machine gun, stationed two others as snipers on the village's sea flank. Then he and the other nine men charged the village firing.

The Japanese apparently thought they were outnumbered and retreated from their dug-in positions right into the snipers' line of fire where they fell like ten-pins. The machine gun was knocked out by the pair assigned to it. Lt. Schwartz and his patrol cleaned out the village and held it for some time until the Japs reorganized and started a counter-attack. "I didn't have much defense in depth, so I decided we would have to pull out," Lt. Schwartz said. But he was proud of the final score, 20 Japs dead and many wounded compared to no U. S. casualties.

Lt. Schwartz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schwartz and is a graduate of Syracuse University. He was inducted Jan. 16, 1941, at Camp Upton, N. Y., and was with an infantry division at Fort Bragg, N. C., before being selected to attend Officer Candidate School here in February of 1942. He graduated in May and spent a short time at Fort McClellan, Ala., before going overseas.

God Loves Ordinary Folk He Creates So Many

The men of the Fourth Company, Third Student Training Regiment, form a distinguished organization in that their ranks include no former track stars, no All-American tackles and believe-it-or-not, no congressmen.

Their civilian backgrounds run the usual gamut from railroad maintenance men to embalmers. Law, as usual leads all the rest—twelve potential trial judge advocates to be exact. Some of them were eminent town politicians, probably self-determined.

The pedants follow with one M. A., one incipient, and six just plain teachers. Journalism has contributed only three future public relations officers. One of these from Atlantic City, swears that he has never yet met a Miss America.

Three men whose trades can be used successfully in military service are a forester, known as "Defoliage Dave," an authority on pest control who will probably see yeoman service as a P & P Officer, and a former embalmer, 'nuff said!

The glamour department includes an old Radio City Music Hall man (no, he wasn't an usherette), two radio actors, an assistant to the British Purchasing Commission, a stage singer, and one music lover-praise the board and pass him his commission.

Last but not least—that foundation of every farmer's library—the Sears, Roebuck catalogue — has given the company a distinct literary flavor.

Tax-

(Continued from Page 1)

emptions, there are special exemptions for enlisted men as follows:

EXTRA DEDUCTIONS

A soldier below the grade of commissioned officer is allowed a deduction, from his service pay only, of $250 if single and $300 if married or head of a family. Military status is determined as of December 31, 1942.

The $22 allotment made by an enlisted man is considered as income—the $28 contributed by the Government is not considered as income, but as a non-taxable gift and as such should not be included as income in either the soldiers' return or his wifes' return.

Although the Victory Tax is not being withdrawn from the payrolls of soldiers, military personnel may become liable to the tax in March, 1944, when they file the regular income tax for 1943. Whether or not military personnel will definitely have to pay the Victory Tax is a matter of conjecture, since legislation has been sponsored in Congress which would exempt soldiers from paying this additional tax.

Officers from the post who attended the meeting with Internal Revenue collectors in Atlanta this week are: Lt. Col. P. A. Dickey, Fiscal Officer, The Infantry School, representing the School; Major Robert B. Acheson, representing the Parachute School; Lt. John W. Inzer, Jr., Trial Judge Advocate, representing Post Headquarters; and Lt. Beverly S. Simms, of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 11th Armored Regiment, representing the 10th Armored Division.

Storm-

(Continued from Page 1)

by crashing trees, including those of Maj. Gen. Paul Newgarden, 10th Armored commanding general, on Zuckerman ave., and Col. Reginald Kelly, reclassification board president, on Baltzell avenue.

All available glass in Columbus was bought Monday in an effort to repair that broken by the heavy wind, but still more was needed, the engineer's office reported.

The wind, almost of tornado proportions struck about 5 o'clock and cut a path from the area of Service club Number 4 on through the post up to the Golf club where shelter sheds were picked up and blown over and trees felled.

CREWS LAUDED

Col. Bain lauded the leaders and crews of men who came out Sunday night and immediately set to work trying to repair the storm's damage. Among those he commended were J. D. Lundy, superintendent of the electrical system; O. B. Menning, superintendent of roads; W. H. Sims, superintendent of heating; and Harry F. Naehr, superintendent of plants.

Man in the post engineer's office commented on our freakish aspect but a fortunate one that the heavy wind took. The path taken by the near-tornado missed all temporary hutment areas. Had it not done so considerable havoc would have been raised, it was pointed out.

Service on the ferry to the Alabama side was discontinued by the swoolen Chattahoochee which on Monday morning was five feet higher than it had been on Sunday, it was reported.

Evidence of the wind's strength Sunday night was shown when a horse was picked up near the polo field and dashed to death. Four other horses escaped from the Infantry School stables during the storm but were caught later in the Harmony Church area.

Three-

(Continued from Page 1)

the United States Government he received the Divisional Citation, the Silver Star, the Order of the Purple Heart, and the Conspicious Service Cross, the latter being presented by Alfred E. Smith, Democratic Presidential nominee of 1928. The French Government gave him the Croix de Guerre.

MANS GUN 4 HOURS

In another engagement near the village of Vaux Andiguey, France, Rodriquez was ordered to man a Lewis gun in an advance position while relief troops were being sent up from the support trenches to relieve the front line ranks. With his position under heavy shell and machine gun fire and lighted up by burning buildings nearby, he stuck to his gun for four hours. He escaped unharmed and for this gallantry won the Distinguished Service Medal.

He re-enlisted in July 1942 and was with the 303rd Squadron, 125th Flight at General Mitchell Field, Wis., before receiving his present assignment. He attended the Aerial Gunnery School at Panama City, Fla.

Thru-

(Continued from Page 1)

with anything below that minimum classed as "substandard", doubling the number of field workers and organizers now employed; support of legislation aimed at the so-called white collar workers; tight enforcement of child labor laws; continued support of the international organization and full support of the war effort.

IN CONGRESS the weakened majority in both branches of the Democratic part, brings to mind the predicament in which President Wilson found himself after World War I, but political experts do not expect that President Roosevelt will find himself in exactly the same situation. Although he probably will have to exert all his talents to carry out some domestic policies. In the House, the proposal of the leadership to put Rep. Marcantonio of New York on the important judiciatry committee has met with some fireworks. And in the Senate, of course, nomination by the President of Edward J. Flynn as minister to Australia brought on a veritable Republican barrage.

FROM HOLLYWOOD comes word that "legs are running riot again", according to one of the hig-priced commentators of the film capital of the world. There seems to be more inclination to blame this (if blame it ma be called, upon tastes of the soldiery. Since when did Hollywood have to have a war to discover—or rediscover—legs?

Exchange-

(Continued from Page 1)

cafeteria in the new building are opened about the first of the month, there will be seating capacity for about 250 customers in comparison to the present capacity of 66 persons in the present restaurant, where on some days nearly 2,000 persons have been fed.

The restaurant is to be located in the center of the first floor of the new building, with the cafeteria in the wing nearest the guest house, across the street from Service Club No. 1. The soda fountain is in the wing nearest the Main theater in Wold avenue.

A large kitchen at the rear of the restaurant will serve both the cafeteria and restaurant. In back of the kitchen will be storage rooms and a colored dining room where colored workers and civilians will be fed. This is an innovation and will fill a long-present need.

Save Water Bain Urges

Move Will Co nserve Power And Chemicals

"Save water and soak a Jap," says Col. Albert J. Bain, Post Engineer.

"When you save water, you save electricity, essential chemicals, and prolong the life of almost irreplaceable equipment," the colonel added, while speaking about conservation of facilities on the reservation.

An encouraging note was struck, however, when it was disclosed that 6,000,000 gallons of water is being used per day at present, as compared to 7,500,000 gallons for the same period last year. This, too, is with an increase in post population. Generally, Fort Benning's consumption of water is not excessive, according to Colonel Bain, but much could be accomplished toward further conservation.

Several hints to save water were listed. The amount used in shower bathing could be reduced by opening the faucets to first wet the body and later to rinse off while soaping. Similarly in shaving and washing the teeth; water should not be allowed to run unnecessarily. Other pointers suggested careful conservation during the washing of vehicles, and advised that all valves and faucets be double checked for leakage when closed.

Reduction of the volume of water used in the Harmony Church and Sand Hill area results in a double saving of electricity

CONSERVES POWER

Power is needed to pump water to these areas and the more used, the greater the sewerage load to be removed.

While electrical power is there source stressed in the conservation program, three vital chemicals and one metal are also included. These are alum, lime, and chlorine, especially the latter, which is a critical war material. The metal is steel needed for drums to hold the chlorine. In some areas steel drums have proven a bottleneck in the transportation of chlorine. In addition to the materials listed above, a reduction in useage would naturally cause less wear and tear on nearly irreplaceable valves, motors, and pumps.

One more point was noted by the post engineer. While the water of Upatoi Creek, Fort Benning's main source of supply, is of high quality, before purification it contains a high bacteria count, and is unfit for human consumption. Partaking of this water might easily cause dysentery.

TIS Regiment Promotes 23

Promotion of twenty-three officers of the 300th Infantry, The Infantry School's recently activated demonstration regiment, has been announced by Col. Richard G. McKee, who commands the new regiment.

Among those promoted were the following officers who had been transferred to the 300th from the 29th Infantry Regiment:

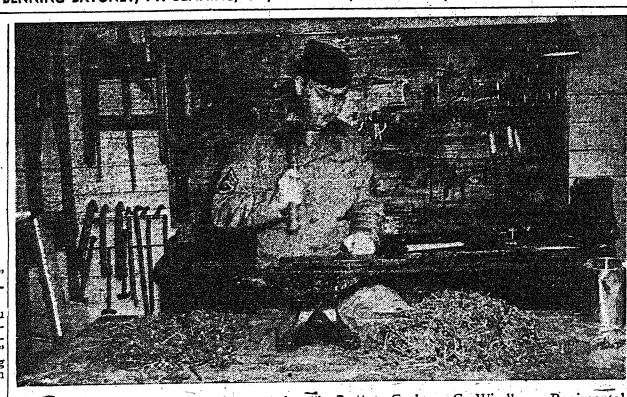
Major Albert C. Haley, Lebanon, Tenn., promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel; Capts. Melvin C. Lankford, Sparks, Me., and Harry W. Venable, Louisville, Ky., to major; and 1st Lts. Milford W. Haynes, Fulton, Miss.; Theodore N. McMullen, Baton Rouge, La.; Cleveland P. Millirons, Jr., Knoxville, Tenn.; John W. Sause, Baltimore, Md., and Andrew R. Coppola, Brooklyn, N. Y., to captain.

The following officers who had been transferred from the 124th Infantry Regiment also were promoted:

Majors Fred W. Kushmer, Bradenton, Fla., and Thomas T. Long, Starke, Fla., to lieutenant colonel; Capts. Jones S. Joyner, Bradenton, and Robert T. McDaniel, St. Augustine, Fla., to major; and 1st Lts. Robert L. Davis, Jr., Orlando, Fla.; Albert R. Murrell, Live Oak, Fla.; Howard L. Rells, Jr., Gadsden, Ala.; Chirles B. Schirard, Sanford, Fla.; Fred L. Smith, Jacksonville, Fla.; Harry M. Wilmer, West Palm Beach, Fla., and Peter J. Quinn, Vicksburg, Miss., to captain.

Officers promoted after being transferred from The Infantry School include: Capt. William C. Tufts, Marshfield, Wis., to major; 1st Lts. Thomas G. Greaves, Jr., Mobile, Ala., and Joseph F. Routt, Chapel Hill, Texas, to captain; and 2nd Lt. Thomas G. Hammond, to first lieutenant.

O. C.'s Push Commando Time On 4-Mile Trek



Without advance planning the 25th Co., Third Student Training Regiment, Captain Schwartz in Command, tried a forced march on its return from the bivouac problem which is part of the officer candidate course.

Both the candidates who made the march and the officers who timed it were surprised to find that the four-mile trek was completed in 42 minutes—a little short of Commando time for the same distance.

SOLDIERS INVITED

Soldiers have been cordially invited to attend a party Saturday, Jan. 23, at 8 p. m., at the First Presbyterian church service center, Dr. J. Calvin Reid, pastor, announces.

The word "chervon" is an architectural term, and the stripe itself is a representation of the apex of a roof. In early days the wearer of a chevron was the head of a clan or "the top of his house."

"FOR WANT of a nail a kingdom was lost!"—S. Sgt. Cochran G. Windham, Regimental Mechanic of the Academic Regiment, I. S. S. C., is one soldier who really takes the Scrap Conservation Drive to heart. Here he is shown salvaging bent spikes and nails that might otherwise have been discarded as useless.

Sgt. Windham is a rare phenomena at Ft. Benning—born and raised in Phenix City, Alabama. He went to Phenix City High School and enlisted June 11, 1935. Has been at Benning ever since. Sgt. Windham is married to a Phenix City girl, the former Miss Marie Stubbs. He celebrates his third anniversary in July.

The above picture is run with the hope that soldiers and civilians alike will follow the example.—Infantry School photo.

Newton D. Baker Village Reporter

BY MRS. DOROTHY TROUTMAN

Recent newcomers who received a cordial welcome to Baker Village are:

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Robert L. Wilson, 145 F; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Chester F. Wendler, 119 B; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. William J. Gernegglin, 67 D; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Stewart W. Smith, 140 C; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Rollie H. Wilson, 53 A; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. John R. Storch, 152 A; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. William E. Demitruk, 105 D; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Samuel R. Downes, Jr., 63 B; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Lawrence F. Carpenfer, 40. B; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Leonard J. Dortch, 61 F; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Dominick M. Moro, 93 A.

Lt. and Mrs. Leslie W. Fish, 27 Barry; Lt. and Mrs. Robert H. Lewis, 126 Clifton; Lt. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Huth, 34 Clifton; 1st Sgt. and Mrs. Charles W. Lowe, Jr., 76 D; Lt. and Mrs. G. E. Combouzon, Jr., 40 Clifton; Lt. and Mrs. Harry Mayer, 123 Barry; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd D. Spaide, 68 B; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Cletus T. Fitzgerald, 135 D; First Sgt. and Mrs. Harold A. W. Lore 83 B; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Edward Mince, 107 A; W. O. and Mrs. William R. Murray, 110 Clifton; Lt. and Mrs. George M. Ryan, 4 Barry; Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Wallace C. Thornell, 80 E; Lt. and Mrs. Charles D. Lord, 32 Roper.

Newcomers to the village who are sharing the apartments with their parents are the following infants:

A son, born to First Sgt. and Mrs. William Shiver, 53 D.

A son, born to Staff Sgt. and Mrs. T. J. Haley, of 79 B.

A daughter, born to Lt. and Mrs. Robert Estes, 39 Winston.

A girl, born to 1st Sgt. and Mrs. Darwin Peters, 10 Benning drive.

A son, born to Lt. and Mrs. Thomas F. Simmonete, 45 Winston Rd.

A son, born to Lt. and Mrs. Edward R. White, 24 Clifton ave.

A daughter, vorn to Capt. and Mrs. Jack Ellingson, 9 Court.

A son, Lt. and Mrs. Chales D. Alexander, 6 Ben. Dr.

A son, Lt. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Huth, 34 Clifton.

A daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Thomas Claunch, 15 Roper.

A daughter, Lt. and Mrs. Ben W. Miller, 28 Clifton.

A son, Mr. and Mrs. John Pruitt, 27 A.

A son, Lt. and Mrs. R. L. Childress, 139 Barry.

PERSONALS

W. O. and Mrs. Joseph Gillette of 43 B have recently returned from a trip to Baltimore, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hayes, of 31 C, recently visited M. St. and Mrs. Harvey Allen, who were once members of this community but now reside on the post.

Mrs. P. S. Rozelle has returned from Mt. Vernon, Tex., where she visited her daughter and mother.

Mrs. George Brauner has been missed in the craft class recently We hope she will soon be able to be out again.

We are sorry to report that M. Sgt. and Mrs. John Scoville have left the village to live on the post. They will be missed by their many friends here.

Miss Marie Cody has left the village for Macon, Georgia, where she has entered a Defense Training school.

Sgt. and Mrs. R. D. Follender, 85 H., had as a recent visitor their son, who is a sergeant in the Marines.

Mrs. R. A. Boswell, 122 Clifton, has left for a visit with her mother in Greensboro and Atlanta.

Pvt. Paul Ross, from Bowman Field, Louisville, Kay., is expected here soon to visit his brother and sister, Capt. and Mrs. John W. Ross, 128 Fox ave.

Little Miss Kathryn Marmede, 16 D, has been ill for several days. Her many friends are glad to learn that she has improved very much

Miss Lilly Poole, teacher in the Nursery School, has been called to Washington, Georgia to the bedside of her brother, who was recently taken ill.

Eugenia Lee Pruitt has been absent from nursery school for several days because of illness.

Tommy Claunch has been confined to his home recently because of illness.

Joan and Lyn Ross have also been ill and missed nursery school.

Carole Boyle of 150 A. has been ill for several days.

Lt. and Mrs. Fowles, who have been visiting Lt. and Mrs. R. L. Lewis, 126 Clifton ave., have left for Florida where they are spending their honeymoon.

BOOK REVIEW

Rabbi Herbert S. Waller, of Columbus, will review "Song of Bernedette" by Wendfel Wednesday, Jan. 27, at 2:30 o'clock. Everyone is cordially invited to come. There is no admission.

This review is sponsored by the Recreation Committee and the Mothers' Club. The regular meeting of the Mothers' Club will be held that afternoon at 2 o'clock in the auditorium after which Rabbi Waller will review the book for all others who come.

DANCE

All officers and their wives of the Benning Park Homes are invited to the dance to be given Saturday night, Jan. 30, in the auditorium. There is only a small admission, which will be used to pay the orchestra and for refreshments. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Brown, 34 Court, phone 2-1459 or Mrs. Young, 18 Keating, 5333.

RECREATION

The auditorium may be used by adults in the evening for playing ping pong, shuffleboard, or any other indoor games. A piano is also available for singing groups. Call Mrs. Troutman, 8333 or see Mrs. Hayes, 31 C.

Basketball practice is held each afternoon at four o'clock on the new courts between Benning Drive and Winston Road. We would like to have a man who lives here coach the boys several afternoons a week.

The Baker Village boys basketball team was defeated by the Ft. Benning Peeps, Saturday afternoon, 17-28.

The craft class which meets each Wednesday and Thursday welcomes anyone who enjoys making things with his hands.

GIRL SCOUTS

Mrs. John Pinkham, Scout leader, entertained the members of her Scout troop at a party at her home, 38 Fox, Saturday afternoon. The girls enjoyed a basketball game before the party.

Several Girl Scouts hiked for a number of miles last Wednesday afternoon, led by Mrs. Pinkham.

KNITTING

Mrs. Harold Vaughan meets with the knitting class each Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. She is glad to, teach anyone to knit. The articles knitted are sent to the Bundles for America.

The following articles have been found and turned in to the rental office:

A pair of children's shoes, a pair of ladies' gloves, ladies' handbag, a watch, and a package. Owners may claim these by identifying.

A key, No. M. 66606, has been lost. The finder should call the rental office to report it.

LIBRARY

The Baker Village Library, located at Roper Avenue and Benning Drive, is open each day, except Sunday, from 1:15 to 6:15. The library has over 1,200 volumes which are for the use of residents of this village.

Miss Alice Cotton, the librarian, attended a library conference in Columbus last week. The theme of the conference related to stories of foreign lands and war background stories.

FIRST AID

The First Aid class, which meets each Tuesday at 2:00 p. m. and Friday at 3:00 p. m., is proving to be a very interesting as well as beneficial class. Rev. C. C. Davison, the instructor, is teaching us to tie bandages and to give artificial respiration. The motion picture on first aid will be shown Friday afternoon during the regular class period. Everyone is welcome to see it at no expense.

The following ladies are enrolled in the class:

Mesdames J. P. Alcorn, 16 Clifton Ave.; Lamar W. Ashe, 86 B.; Fred Barrett, 14 Court Ave.; Ira L. Beck, 36 N. Ben. Dr.; Bielaka, 108 Clifton; Estelle Anita Birge, 116 C; Harold Blair, 40 Barry; E. J. Boorom, 149 C; Clifton; Rae Foster Boone, 35 Clifton; Ellen Boyle, 150 A; C. C. G. Brannen, 5 Cantrell Dr. Benning Hills; Jennie Lee Brown, 130 B; H. M. Campbell, 211 Fletcher Ave., Benning Park; Bonnie Crossley, 20 Rover Ave.; John Crow, 16 E; R. S. Deetz, 40 Court; Harriette J. Denton, 151C; Mozelle Prickey, 30 Barry; H. H. Given, 22 Bennett Dr.; Jesse Gordon, 32 A.; Traugott Kern, 26 B; Jessie Mae Laxton, 148 C; A. L. Levesque, 113 Fletcher Ave., Benning Park; R. V. Link, 32 Clifton Ave.; William Marwede, 16 D.; James W. Maude, 84 C; William McGee, 26 Roper; Bette Manashe, 11 Clifton; C. Nelson, 28 B.; John Pinkham, 38 Fox; J. L. Rhoden, 41 Court; W. H. Salmon, 117 Barry; Robert G. Sass, 124 Fox; Charles W. Saunders, P. 42 Roper; Harry Shoemaker, 44 Roper; T. P. Sprouse, 135 B.; Mary Ellen Stegner, 95 D; Myrtle T. Strickland, 209 18th St., Columbus; James Teddesco, 16 Roper; L. D. Troutman, 13 Roper; Thelma B. Vaughan, 33 Court; George J. Wink, 46 Roper; J. Earnest Young, 25 Court; Minnie Ziegler, 918 Benning Blvd.; S. E. Martin, 2L Court; Joe Jones, 2227 Cusseta Rd.

Army Seeks PX Officers

Enlisted Men Over 30 Are Eligible

Names and present assignments of enlisted men over 30 years of age who can qualify as assistant exchange officers are being registered by headquarters at Fort Benning.

In a letter sent to Benning from Fourth Service Command headquarters it was stated "It is now possible for the Army Exchange Service to recommend for appointment as officers, for training at the Exchange School and later assignment as assistant exchange officers, qualified enlisted men 30 years of age and older, who have completed their basic training."

Candidates for assistant exchange officer must have had at least five years' experience in a responsible executive position with a metropolitan department store, as district manager or branch manager or a multiple unit retail store system, or as manager of a large volume variety store; must have been responsible for an annual volume of at least $200,000, involving merchandise of the type handled by Army exchanges.

Men also are needed as office managers. These must have had full charge of the accounting system of a large department store or multiple unit store system, for at least four years, or have had extensive experience as a public accountant with retail or chain store clients during the past two years. Certified public accountants are preferred.

Salute Pays Off In Greenbacks, Corporal Learns

Corp. George J. Griffin, 24th General Hospital, Fort Benning, Ga., believes it pays to salute.

It seems Griffin was strolling through the area, when he saw a lieutenant approaching. He snapped to attention, saluted smartly, and passed on.

"Wait a minute, corporal!" the officer said. "I have just received my silver bars and you are the first man to salute me. Here is a dollar bill."

This is an old Army custom which apparently has fallen into disuse. At headquarters a promotion calls for passing on candy and cigars. It is expected that henceforth a dollar bill will also be budgeted by promotees.

EAT AT THE NEW POST OFFICE GRILLE

Phenix City

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE

MISS SUE SEARCY, Prop.

- STEAKS
- CHOPS
- CHICKEN
- OYSTERS

COOKED AND SERVED TO SUIT YOU.

There's No Rationing on Eating in the U. S. A.

POST OFFICE GRILLE

514 Fourteenth St.

PHENIX CITY

Dial 9110 For Quick Delivery

KIRVEN'S

JANUARY All-Clear SALE!

Girls'... Teensters'

100% WOOL COATS

$9 SALE

Our Ceiling 14.98

$11 SALE

Our Ceiling 17.98

Here's your chance to treat the kiddies to a slick new winter coat and save many a dollar at that. These 100% wool coats come in boxy boy-coat and fitted reefer styles; all warmly interlined. Choose yours in rum brown, Soviet red, camel and tweeds. Sizes 7 to 16; not all styles in all sizes but you're certain to find just the one you're wishing for at prices way below our ceiling. Come early and save 5.98 to 6.98 on your youngster's coat.

Buy WAR BONDS

YOUNG COLUMBUS SHOP
KIRVEN'S SECOND FLOOR

J.A. KIRVEN CO.
YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

KIRVEN'S

Is Your Heart "In the Service"

Wear His EMBLEM PIN

$1 plus tax

Wear a red, white and blue emblem pin signifying you have a son, sweetheart or husband in the service. Patriotic and popular . . . wear this badge with pride . . . it stands for your loved one in the service.

JEWELRY
KIRVEN'S STREET FLOOR

FT. BENNING BAYONET

FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1943.

Edited By Public Relations Staff

The Benning Bayonet published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LED GER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

"The Axis powers knew that they must win the war in 1942—or eventually lose everything. I do not need to tell you that our enemies did NOT win this war in 1942."
—Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Benning Goes 'All-Out' In Conservation Program

A "tent city" was erected near a rifle range to house an entire battalion during over-night stays to save time, gas, and rubber; the post engineer is directing a campaign to cut power consumption on the post to absolute essential need; an item in the Daily Bulletin urged all personnel on the reservation to cut out all wastage of water, thus effecting a saving in the water itself, the power it takes to pump it through pipes into post installations, and in the chemicals used by purify it.

Motorcycles with side-cars were assigned to post headquarters for use of personnel on official business thereby reducing wear and tear on staff cars and conserving precious gas, oil, and rubber.

Announcement was made that housewives purchasing comestibles from PX groceries will be affected by the rationing point system designed to conserve food supplies for ourselves, our soldiers, and our Allies.

The assistant provost marshal asserted that Benning is setting the pace for the nation in the pooling rides, thereby saving fuel and rubber and reducing in a measure the tremendous burden placed on public transportation facilities to Columbus.

A Benning sergeant straightens bent nails and screws for further use. A small detail, perhaps, but it helps to meet the shortage of these essential items.

Butter appears on mess-hall tables in reduced quantities and oleomargarine takes its place that our fighters across the seas may have body-building food and fats for munitions of war.

Fort Benning soldiers and civilians allotted from pay or paid cash for over a million dollars worth of war bonds in 1942. This helps in the program against inflation, establishes voluntary savings accounts, and helps buy the guns, tanks, planes, and other materiels of war for the United Nations.

The post's Army wives and Girl Scouts began the preparation of a book of war-time recipes designed to conserve food and to present a palatable and eye-pleasing dish made of left-overs to their hungry families.

The post inspector announced that Benning is driving ahead in its campaign to salvage metals, fats, and greases, reclaiming and repairing all machinery which is still serviceable and sending to the melting pots of the nation the rest.

This is the story of the conservation program which is in progress at Fort Benning these days, a story which has been prominent on the front pages of the Bayonet for the past several weeks and which ruled the front page of last week's issue.

It appears that the inhabitants of Benning are doing themselves proud in making sacrifices here and there to further the cause of American and Allied Arms. Of course, this is only a beginning and as the war progresses, we shall be called upon to make greater and greater sacrifices. Fort Benning authorities are taking this conservation program in grim seriousness as shown by this splendid beginning and have set up a model which may well be followed by any community in the nation.

Our Women Wear Insignia And Flaunt Regulations

Committing acts specifically forbidden by an Act of Congress is, in no limited sense of the word, a crime. Yet, one may walk along Broadway in Columbus any day or night of the week and observe many persons—many of them probably our wives or sweethearts or mothers—who are openly flaunting the law.

Specifically we are referring to the wearing of military insignia by persons not authorized to do so.

To illustrate our point:

1. In a soda fountain we observed a young lad, who probably would become ten years old on his next birthday, displaying the Defense Campaign Bar service ribbon, which is authorized to be worn in lieu of the actual medal by some troops This youngster probably didn't know he should not have worn it. But his father, who was with him, certainly should have known. (He did anyway, after we told him about the law.)

2. A young lady, smartly clad in a camel's hair coat, displayed the blue, white and red arm insignia of General Headquarters as she entered a popular restaurant in Columbus.

3. Another young lady, who probably had a beau in the Infantry, proudly displayed a set of crossed rifles on her blouse as she went about her work in a local newspaper office.

4. Outfitted in a natty pair of "pinks" and a dark green wool shirt, frequently worn by many commissioned officers, a young lad of about five was observed on the Post sporting a regulation set of captain's bars, specifically authorized to be worn only by an officer in that grade in the Army of the United States.

The Daily Bulletin, issued at Post Headquarters, recently called attention of all concerned to the provisions of the Army Regulations, based upon Statutory Law, which forbid the wearing of insignia by those not authorized. However, the practice continues. It will only be through the whole-hearted cooperation of those of us with wives, sweethearts, or girl friends—AND young children—to take account of ourselves and obey the law.

War Department Circular 130, dated May 1, 1942, Section 3, brings our changes to Army Regulations 600-90, relative to the "Sale and wear of insignia, decorations, medals, and badges." To quote from the AR's, we cite the following:

"The wearing of any decoration, medal, badge, or insignia prescribed or authorized by the War Department, by any person for whom such decoration, medal, badge, or insignia is not authorized or prescribed, or their use to misrepresent the identification or status of the person by whom worn, is prohibited."

And that's not all: Every person who flaunts that regulation, as based upon an Act of Congress, may find himself in the following embarrassing situation if the issue were brought to a show-down:

"Any person who offends against this provision is subject to punishment by a fine not exceeding $250, or by imprisonment not exceeding 6 months, or both."

Every soldier is proud of the uniform he wears. Every soldier and every officer is proud of the insignia he wears on his uniform. When the modes of fashion need be warped so as to decorate children and women with our distinctive regulation insignia, why then we sincerely believe Congress should first be asked to change the public laws in the interests of vanity.

Dehydration One Answer To Submarine Menace

With the submarine menace, and with the importance of conserving shipping space, dehydrated foods are playing an important role in keeping our troops fed properly in our various distant war fronts. If we can ship enough foodstuffs which will last indefinitely without spoilage, and if we can conserve enough shipping space, then we will use fewer ships in the transportation of these foods, and use other unoccupied space to carry ammunition or other important war supplies. Our Quartermaster is doing an excellent job in the shipping of condensed food, and spaces conserved to a maximum degree.

The ability to preserve foods by dehydration has been known to man since the beginning of history. Archaeologists have found in Egypt fruits that were preserved by the Pharaohs, and our Pilgrim forefathers brought the gift to this country. We of course must realize the tremendous improvements on this age old process.

The literal meaning of "dehydration" means extraction of water. It is used in connection with foods to indicate the artificial drying of the product by the application of heat in a mechanical device where heat and humidity are accurately controlled. Removal of the moisture which forms a large part of most food items results in a shrinking in volume and a reduction in weight, both being tremendously important from a transportation standpoint. One important point that must be clearly illustrated, is that "dehydration" affords year-round use of the product. The essential savings in tin are enormous, not alone for its concentrated value for packing, but also for the food that many of the dehydrated foods are now being packed in specially treated paper cartons, treated with various chemicals and wax coatings which are virtually moisture-proof and will not deteriorate under temperature extremes.

Vast amounts of shipping and storage space can be saved by the widespread use of concentrated foods. The overseas shipment of 27 million pounds potatoes, for example, now can be reduced to 3 million pounds, which will save about 10,000 ships' tons, or the approximate capacity of two cargo ships. Chief among the foods sent overseas are powdered soups, eggs, and milk; vegetables used mostly for overseas shipment are potatoes, onions, carrots, cabbage, beets and turnips.

The preliminary preparations in dehydrating foods are of immense importance. First the product must be "pre-processed;" this includes the selection, grinding, washing and blanching scalding). To show how important the blanching process is: unblanched potatoes attain an undesirable dull, starchy and irregularly darkened appearance when dried. One most perplexing problem is the proper state of maturity to dehydrate a vegetable. The proper selection of vegetables for concentration is necessary. Immature vegetables are weak in color and flavor, and overmature vegetables are usually too tough and woody.

The Department of Agriculture is making great strides in the research and development of dehydrated food stuff. New products and new processes are being tested and worthwhile additions are being made continually. Most of the dehydrating facilities are along the Pacific Coast; this is mainly due to the fact that most of the cannery concerns are located there. The canners have the facilities required for a large scale dehydration of food; in this way the requirements of our armed forces can be met with the least possible delay.

MAJOR F. I. CIOCALO,
Regimental Surgeon,
First STR.

An idealist is a man who wants to see everything around him change for the better without having to do so himself.

To clean up the world, start sweeping your own doorstep.

We also need some fire wardens in the battle of ideas. Their job would be to kindle rather than extinguish fires—to see that all men burn for America's Big Idea.

It would be nice if we could build a better world just from better plans. The fact is that it's going to take some better people.

USO Presents—

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR BENNING BOYS TO STUDY FENCING AND PHOTOGRAPHY

BY CPL. SOLOMON S. KLEINDORF

A new class for the soldiers of Fort Benning was opened last night in the USO club on 9th St. ...The subject is fencing and the instructor is Cpl. Bert Bristol... Bristol has been active in eastern college fencing circles and in previous years has been a recipient of the Eastern Intercollegiate Fencing Conference medal...Soldiers and civilians are invited to attend the classes which are held back-stage from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. every Wednesday night at the above mentioned club.

Another good class to attend is the new Photography class being conducted by Pvt. Gerrit Oudkerk of the 161st Signal Photo Company at Fort Benning. Those attending every Thursday from 8:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. will really learn something...Pvt. Oudkerk is a former Eastman employee in the Netherlands and was official staff photographer of the reserve police of that country. He formerly served as a Zone Photographer of the Police Department of the City of Rochester, and previous to this, was the chief society photographer of the National Photo News in New York City.

Whatever happens, don't forget to be at the 9th St. USO this coming Monday to hear the lecture by Louis Fischer, noted novelist and newspaperman.

* * *

Speaking of personalities brings to mind that two potential radio stars were discovered in the Salvation Army-USO in Columbus ...The names are: Chuck Jones, First Parachute Training Regiment, and Dolph Price of the First Student Training Regiment ... Chuck plays the piano and writes his own songs, of which I haven't heard one I didn't like...Dolph has a very good voice and uses it to a great advantage, singing Chuck's songs. They are an excellent team and should go far if they stick together.

* * *

Frank Gerrites, P.F.C., has left. And thus goes one of the finest roller skaters that ever rolled a wheel on the pation of the USO-Army and Navy YMCA. Everyone there, was very sorry to hear about Frank's leaving, but it was for the convenience of the government and that's that...Replacing Frank, is one Jimmy Medenos of the 505th Parachute Infantry...I haven't been able to find out much about him except that at one time he ran skate-shows... In case you happen to see this, Frank, let me thank you on behalf of all the soldiers and gals you taught to skate and make those fancy nose-dives. We will miss you but we hope that no matter where you go, you make as much of a success of any thing you attempt as you did here at Fort Benning.

* * *

This coming Sunday the Club will try something different. For months and months the half-hour radio show coming from the USO-Army and Navy Y, under the misleading name of "The Army Hour," has been honoring units through their commanding officer or some other officer of the unit...But this week, the honor will be bestowed on Sgt. Wiley Scott, leader of the 124th Infantry Band...The band will be there and a swell time will be had by all.

Chaplain's Corner...

RIGHT AND WRONG
Chaplain Frank M. Thompson

"And a highway shall be there, and a way . . . for those; the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein."

These words have furnished the text for many a sermon on conduct—no one need be hesitant, nor alarmed, even the weakminded may know what to do under any circumstances. All of which contradicts the experience of mankind.

No, the problem of right and wrong is not solved in such a soft, easy going fashion. There is no illuminated thoroughfare over which one's feet may move unerringly. The world of morals is a labyrinth, a maze of ways, abounding in darkness as well as light. And often the wisest, the most conscientious are at their wit's end as to the policy to pursue, especially in international affairs.

Here is a peace-loving country invaded by a stronger, it's people killed, cities pillaged. What is the duty of the nations that believe in justice, By all the decent laws of man and the edicts of God, the oppressed should be given aid. How? Any interference may mean a greater tragedy.

So in our dealings one with another, the proper course of action is often equally as perplexing. The saintliest might well ponder these lines:

"It ain't so far from right to wrong; the trail ain't hard to lose.
There's times I'd give my horse to know which one that I should choose.
There ain't no signs or guide boards up to keep you on the track,
Wrong's sometimes white as driven snow and right looks awful black.
I don't set up to be no judge of right and wrong in men.
I've lost the trail sometimes myself;
I may get lost again."

"If I had but one prayer to make," said John Galsworthy, in one of his plays, "it would be: 'Good God, give me to understand'."

Day-Room Duds

Sgt. Harry R. Chard

"I'll get a kick out of this," remarked the G. I. soldier as he unconsciously walked in rear of a pack mule.

POLITE PREVARICATIONS

Of course I didn't have to re-enlist—I was getting eight bucks a day when I re-enlisted.

I can drink that stuff all night—and never wake up with a head.

Private Feathersby upon arriving at his new post in the tropics decided to express his love to the girl friend back home by sending her a nice juicy pineapple. But due to the holiday rush the package got misplaced in the mails. When it finally arrived it was in a very decomposed state. The girl friend opened it and got one whiff.

The next day Private Feathersby received the following cablegram—"Thanks for the skunk. It was sweet of you to send it."

A girl I hate is Cozmo Lene

The jokes she tells are always clean.

Tough?—Why they're so tough in the artillery they eat manhole covers for hotcakes.

AVERTING A SHOT GUN WEDDING

Captain—"Why did you let the moths eat holes in your new breeches?"

Pvt. Olanshine—"Sir, moths didn't do that. Those are buck shot holes."

"I'm down and out," said the sightseeing soldier as he stepped out of the elevator on the ground floor of the Empire State building.

"It's not the idea of pulling the K. P.—it's the principle of the thing."

FAMOUS FAREWELLS

"That's one extra duty I refuse to pull."

Eve Says—

YESTERDAY'S PROBLEMS WERE TRIVIAL AS WILL SEEM TODAY'S BEFORE LONG

We've experienced so many changes this past year I don't think we realize that our woman to woman conversations have changed with our living conditions. That's as it should be, for women chatter about the things that affect them directly. Not more than a year ago we used to hear scraps of conversation at the meat counter of the Post Exchange that went something like this:

"I don't know what I'm going to do about that maid of mine. A pound of butter is gone in two days. I think she eats it by the chunk—"

"I know. I have the same trouble with mine, but it's Crisco and bacon My food bills would be cut in half if I could do without the shiftless thing—"

"I found my maid making a cake out of Crisco and I made her throw it out. I can't stand any substitute for butter—"

"I spend more money for silk stockings, but I can't bear anything on my legs but two thread chiffons. They're a wicked extravagance, but who on earth would be caught dead in service weight?"

"Jack provokes me. He'll never eat a dessert unless I have it covered with whipped cream. You can imagine what my milk bill is—."

"You'd better not count on me for Wednesday afternoon. I've always saved Wednesday and Saturday afternoons to be with Carl. He likes me to be free to do things in his time off—."

"This endless Sunday driving makes the week-end a misery for me. I can't see any earthly sense flying over the highway. I loathe automobile trips unless there's something special to see or do."

"Yes, we're expecting orders. I can't wait to get out of here, I'm so bored with the place. After all, five years makes one old settlers, and what's the use of being in the Army unless one can move about occasionally?—."

"It doesn't seem like we'll ever get the seventeen-year pay period. All I can think of, is how rich we'll be. I've so many things planned—."

"We're caught up with our calls, every last one of them—"

"I don't know why he's going to Leavenworth—".

"Harry's put the 9th Corps area on his preference card for years, but you know how much good that does—."

Trivial conversation of a happier age. Important then, these problems. Talk of today may sound equally trivial at a later date.

POETRY

BUT IT'S SAVIOUR OF HIS COUNTRY WHEN THE GUNS BEGIN TO SHOOT

TOUGH LUCK
Dedicated to all G. I. Belly-achers

I'm just a lowly private in the umpteenth Infantry;
(I'm next in line for "yardbird, if we have a vacancy).
To all the men about me I'm just a worthless lout,
The corporals call me "Goofy" and the sergeants bawl me out.

I'm getting tired and weary; my morale is running low,
My self-respect is wavering; my pride went long ago.
I see my pals promoted, but no
one remembers me,
Except on guard and fatigue details or a nice week-end
K. P.

Sometimes I feel determined to resent undue abuse,
But my minute courage falters and I mutter "What's the use?"
If I should sink a battleship, I'd get no world acclaim,
But if the world stopped turning,
you can bet I'd get the blame.

When this darned war is over and the world again is free,
I'll still be just a private in the umpteenth Infantry.
I may not have a medal or "a bright spot in the sun,"
But I'll have the satisfaction of a good, hard job well done.

J. M. M.,
Co. "A", Academic Regt., I.S.S.C.,

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

By S-SGT. TOM McDONALD

During the last several days I have been acting in the capacity of "orderly" to Colonel Swampwater and believe me we have really covered some territory. Ol' T. P. has had me following him from one end of this Post to the other, while he makes his survey of "differential attitudes among privates" for an article which he intends to write for one of the military magazines.

During the time we were commuting between the various units the colonel drove the jeep and I had to walk ahead with a broom handle and "probe" the road for possible Anti-Tank mines. Ol' T. P. said it would be excellent practice for me. Since he intended to take me along with him if he reported to one of the various fronts.

The first three days of the colonel's survey I walked 36 miles "probe style" and it all became so interesting on the third day that I began to hope I would find an Anti-Tank mine, just for the hell of it.

The only trouble we had though was when I "probed" what I thought was a mine fuse, but it turned out to be a cigarette butt for which an M. P. was reaching. If the colonel hadn't stepped in and explained the thing right quick, I would have been charged with probing without a "license", or something equally drastic.

When we visited one of the Quartermaster companies the Colonel and I heard a very interesting account of the Government Insurance situation. One of their privates was reporting to his company commander and the following conversation occurred.

Private—Sir, ah wants to take out $10,000 worth of insurance.

C. O.—But you just took a $1,000 policy a week ago.

Private—Yah Sah, but ah done changed mah mind.

C. O.—Why did you change your mind?

Private—Well Suh, I done heard we all might be "going across" right quick like and I sort of figgered Uncle Sam's Army would take better care of a $10,000 boy than dey would a $1,000 one.

Colonel Swampwater seemed highly pleased with the private's deductions so he complimented the C. O. on his company and then he went and got in the jeep and I "probed" for him until we reached the 117th Infantry. Seeing one of their privates walking solemnly back and forth on guard duty the colonel decided to question him for his survey. I dropped my "probe" stick and followed him over.

When we got within the required distance the private yelled "Halt, who goes there?" Colonel Swampwater answered "Friend." "Advance and be recognized" snapped the private. It was all broad daylight but we, advanced and the Colonel was "presented arms to" then the guard "port armed" and then ol' T. P. got set to ask him the questions.

First he asked him all of the guard orders, Army regulations 610-675, how many pages did the Soldier's Handbook contain and who was President of the United States during Lincoln's Administration?

The private of the guard mechanically quoted the General Orders but he was a bit dizzy on the rest of the questions. So he asked ol' T. P. for the answers and he was promptly reprimanded for questioning a superior officer disrespectfully. Then feeling it was time to end the interview ol' T. P. asked him to name the kind of guard mounts.

After arching his eyebrows in a perplexed manner, the private said "Well, Sir, there're three kinds, I believe. Formal, informal, and the kind we get around here."

For a few seconds I thought Col. Swampwater was going to have a fit but after eyeing the private for a fraction of eternity he returned to the jeep and bellowed, "orderly!" He yelled this every time he got ready to move on. So I knew that there wasn't a damn thing for me to do but pick up the broom handle and start "probing" again.

REQUEST

Bill—"Say, I hear my detachment is being sent to Africa."

Bob—"That so? Well, drop us a lion now and then."

—Exchange.

RIGHT MAN

We have the word of the Sagebrush Rattler that Pvt. Sherlock Holmes has been assigned to a military police battalion at Eprata Air Base, Wash.

CHOICE OF HUMOR

A hillbilly had been courting a mountain gal when one night her father said to him: "You have been seeing our Nellie for nigh on to a year. What are your intentions—honorable or dishonorable?" Looking at the father with a startled gleam in his eyes, the young bloog exclaimed: "You mean I got a choice?"

—Springfield Armory News.

'Hit the Deck' Drops Anchor On Post for Five-Day Stand

Hilarious Comedy Opens January 26 In Main Theater

TL avy will invade Fort Benning when the USO-Camp Shows presentation of Vincent Youmans' famous musical comedy, "Hit The Deck" steams into our harbor for five days shore-leave on Jan. 26. "Hit The Deck" will play the Main Theater Jan. 26 and 27. The comedy will then move to Sand Hill for a one-night stand Jan. 28 in Theater No. 7. The last two days will be spent in the Harmony Church area at Theaters Nos. 11 and 4.

Firing broadsides of hilarity and mirth, this super-dreadnaught production of laughs and lavishness will offer many of Vincent Youmans' greatest hit tunes, such as "Hallelujah" and "Sometimes I'm Happy", the popularity of which has endured through the years.

Trying to find the right Smith out of all the Smiths in the Navy is like trying to find a needle in a haystack. That's what Looloo, attractive owner of a coffeehouse, finds out when she tries to locate her wandering lover, "Bilge" Smith.

The hero and heroine wind in and out of the usual circumstances common to protagonists in musical comedy books, but are finally united as a finale to an evening of rare comedy, lilting tunes, and captivating dances.

BOOK MODERNIZED

Modernized by Frank Gabrielson from the original book by Herbert Fields, USO-Camps Shows has mounted the production lavishly and assembled a stellar cast to perform the Youmans' masterpiece.

The current comic rage of New York, Willie Shore, who just created a new long-run record at the Paramount Theater there, will indulge in his hilarious antics and display his startling terpsichorean talent. Lee Dixon comes from the Ziegfeld "Follies" and Hollywood stardom to play hero. "Bilge" Smith. Marilyn Ross will play the part of Looloo, the heroine.

Marie Austin assumes the role of Lavinia, the heroine's comical cook, and Earle McVeigh as Lt. Clark will handle the vocal assignments. Others in the cast are Christine Forsythe, ace tap dancer, who received her initiation in USO-Camp Shows here at Fort Benning last year; the crack acrobatic team of Jean Jack, and Judy; Alan LeRoy A. J. Vanasse; the Ben Yost Midshipmen, and 12 singing, dancing gorgeous Yeomenettes.

A SCENE FROM 'HIT THE DECK'

'Gator Personnel Happy, Reason— 226 Promotions

The holiday season brought more than parcels and a deluge of cards and letters to the 12th Infantry 'Gators. Along with the change to the New Year came many changes in the old Florida regiment, which brought about a mass sewing bee.

As a result of recommendations and examinations for non coms there were 226 promotions among the enlisted personnel between Dec. 14, 1942, and Jan. 14, 1943. Most of the ratings came out in time to be enjoyed with the Christmas turkeys and the rest were helpful in making the New Year bright.

Sgt. Wiley Scott, the 'Gator's well known Band Director, was made master sergeant along with the promotion of six to First Sergeant, 19 to staff sergeant, 46 to line sergeant, 22 to sergeant technician, 89 to corporal and 45 to corporal technician.

Every company in the regiment was represented on the lists that made the 'Gator holiday season an extra merry one.

LONGEVITY PAY is an increase of 5 per cent of base pay, given to a soldier for each three years of active service in the Armed Forces.

With The Civilians

MYRTLE JOINES

The Fiscal Section at The Infantry School just won't be the same without Marie Lemon. Marie has that 'smile you love to see' and such a lovely manner that things will be different without her—but she will be back. You can count on that.

* * *

You should see Doris Robins today. That girl is all dressed up in the newest pair of wings and what-a-smile! I understand there was a mild stampede in the Record section today at the Infantry School when she came in all dressed up in her wings.

* * *

Mildred Feinberg and Rosanne O'Kelley have been running around headquarters today getting information on making requisitions to the quartermaster. They are badly in need of a gas mask. Seems there is a cigar smoker rides with them and his cigars are something else again.

* * *

That Man's here again and THAT MAN is none other than Uncle Sam. This time he has tapped Dowheden Baugh and Billy Shores of the Area Engineer's office. They should certainly feel I have your attention? I would like to announce the engagement and approaching marriage of Peggy Moore—formerly of Headquarters, now the house guest of Col. and Mrs. Melville A. Sanderson 213 Lumpkin road, Fort Benning, Georgia—to Lt. Frank G. Springstead. Theh Catholic chapel, Saturday morning, January 23, at 8:30 a. m. is the time and the place. Best wishes and a long life!

* * *

Flu certainly struck with a vengeance in the Sand Hill Service club last week. Winfred Baker was out with flu and Juanita Wilkins had to be taken to the hospital. Juanita was sent home Friday and I understand Winfred is back on the job so everybody's happy again.

* * *

We just wonder how the Provost Marshal's office is responding to Nalda Fitzgerald's poetry now that she is transferred from HQ down there? Things are pretty dull here without her though.

* * *

Who knows what an expediter is? Well then, what is a Chief Expediter? Just ask Harold E. Thompson for he's one in the Area Engineer's office, and while you are down there finding out about this, welcome Patsy Long for us, too, will you?

* * *

Shades of indigestion to those girls at the Infantry School — Doris Robins, Carolyn Little, Gladys Fulford, Dot Stevens, Hazel Phillips and Sally O'Neal — for having such a swell steak supper and then letting the G. I.'s come in to do the dishes! I am that surprised!

* * *

Don't you like the shade of lipstick Mary Hundermark is wearing since she came back from Ba[illegible]more? Heard she did nightc[illegible]g and all the other little things that really made a leave something to remember, or was it a train ride she was talking about?

* * *

Virginia Goodrich is on leave, Betty Purvis is very unhappy over telling a certain paratrooper goodbye and Dot Stevens, Carolyn Little and several others from the Publication Section at TIS were too disappointed over the rain Sunday that just ruined their plans for a day in the country.

* * *

Charlotte Baughman is back in Message Center after a trip to Mobile. Looks swell, too. Has another haircut but this time it was done up in style by a stylist. I believe it looks that good.

* * *

If you have to enter a building and suspect a door trap, open the door with a long pole from a sheltered position. Be careful after you get in because there may be a second trap which will explode when you close the door.

* * *

Mildred Goldberg formerly of Headquarters now secretaty to Colonel Stephen B. Massey, had to come home early from her leave to New York things were in such a state up there. A brother-in-law married and she became an aunt all in the same ... Too much for Mildred!

* * *

Sorry Tunstall Bryars of the Area Engineer's Office, assistant administrative officer—to be exact—is sick. Better hurry up and get well.

* * *

Wedding bells continue to ring on the post. This time we are happy to announce the wedding of Maxine Powell to George Dotson, and Louise Barrett to 2nd Lt. Gene Brooks. Just regret that this last couple will live at Camp Wolters, Texas, though. Our best to them both. Dan Cupid stays busy down in that Automotive Section.

* * *

And speaking of wedding may

Makes Final Appearance at Matag

Joyce Gross, Miss New Orleans in 1942 . . . EMILE PARRA, M. C. . . . MARY ELIZABETH SLAGLE, Majorette and BILLY LANE all make final appearance tonite. . . . A new show opens Monday featuring GEORGE BELL, Musical Comedy M. C. . . . ADELA LAMARE, tops in taps . . . Beverly Breeze, singer . . . and three DeVosier Sisters, soft shoe rhythm . . . Dance to the finest all girl band in the South, VELMA 'n' JEAN, 8 'til 3.—Adv.

Lawson Field Area to Get New Theater

Paratroopers and Lawson field personnel shortly will enjoy the facilities of a new theater, to be located at the intersection of Indian Head and Bradshaw Roads.

With a capacity of about 600 seats, which is double the capacity of the present Theater No. 3 in the 117th Infantry Regiment's area, the new theater is expected to be completed within 30 days. When the new theater opens, it will replace No. 3 and the total number of theaters at the post will remain at eleven.

Capt. John Sutton, post theater officer, states that the new location of Theater No. 3 will be a boon to the paratroops who presently would have to walk some distance to the movies.

Gotham Exhibit Includes Painting By 'Gator Artist

Pfc. Ernest R. Bergwall, of the 124th Infantry Medical Detachment, is going all the way to New York to see a show.

But the show is one of the usual variety, for it is being held in the American-British Art Center in Gotham. On Feb. 7 the doors of the center will open for the public's first viewing of the One Hundred selected paintings chosen from the thousands that were submitted to the Life Magazine Service Men's Art Contes. Bergwall's painting, "Tents at McClellan," is one of that select group.

Bergwall, who hails from Laurelton, L. I., studied art at the Art Students League and at the National Academy of Art in New York. He has also exhibited at the Vendome Galleries in that city.

Like many a progressive artist he feels that his latest efforts are only stepping stones toward works that will be really satisfactory in the future and it was difficult to get him to admit that the painting to be shown in New York is meritorious.

However, when Bergwall gets within the doors of the American-British Art Center he will probably be excited in the fact that his painting and he are members of the One Hundred.

Reception Center Band Replaces Alarm Clocks

There may be a shortage of alarm clocks these days but there's no shortage of wind power and drums to awaken officers of the Reception Center at Fort Benning.

To conserve on alarm clocks and preclude any need for purchasing new ones, Lt. Col. Ulric N. James worked out a new plan to use the Reception Center Band, which has to play for reville anyway, to arouse the officers.

Each day, promptly at 6:30 a. m., the band, with trumpets blaring, saxophones singing, brass horns blasting away and drums booming, marches through the officers' quarters.

Col. James now thinks that his idea is really better than a battery of alarm clocks. Besides saving wear and tear on the clocks it gives the band practice—and the band makes a lot more noise than the clocks, too.

Captain Mulligan Promoted To Major

Promotion of Captain Robert E. Mulligan of Albany, N. Y., to the rank of major in the Army of the United States was announced here at headquarters of the Second Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School.

Major Mulligan was called to active duty as a Reserve Officer Nov. 7, 1940, and served a year at Fort Jay, N. Y., before coming to the Infantry School in January of 1942 to attend a three-months course for company officers. Upon graduation in April of 1942 he was assigned to the Second Regiment as commander of an officer candidate training company, and for the last few months has been serving as executive officer of the Fifth Battalion.

Ken Bartholomew, former Minneapolis national ice skating champion, is now in the Army. He's stationed at Camp Crowder, Mo., and is a corporal.

EXOTIC LEE BARTELL, SINGING STAR

'Crazy Show' to Appear In Alabama January 28

The title "Crazy Show" is the tip-off on the revenue which USO-Camps presents on Jan. 28 at Theatre No. 10 in the Alabama area.

Anything can happen in a show which was designed with all the emphasis on zaniness — and in this one anything and everything, goes. The comedians sing, the singers make merry with the jokes, the dancers ad-lib, and the gag men dance.

A man makes music on a bicycle pump. A pair of stilts is one of the props. Performers walk on and off the stage at will, heckling and ribbing each other, tying themselves and the audience in knots. The complete good nature of the fast-paced slapstick brand of humor which runs through the whole revue bounces right over the footlights and is strictly in the convulsive groove.

"Emceeing" all these crazy going-on and adding his own particular brand of "goominess" to the general hilarious disorder is Ben McAtee, who is definitely of the Milton Berle school of comedians. His delivery is smooth and glib and he keeps the show moving right down the old alley in an effortless style that gets over big.

THE CAST

Wilbur Hall and Renie, and Eddie Hanley also double in brass in the laugh section of "Crazy Show." Hall and Renie, headline comedy duo, who sing, play a variety of musical instruments, and make gags, are a miniature musical comedy show in themselves. And Eddie Hanley, a very talented dramatic comedian, is sure-fire.

The rest of the cast is big-time. Arken and Roberts, the boy and girl jitterbug dance team, are really zoot-suit; Vivian Frances, the attractive acro-tapster, stops the show with her flash routines; and Lee Bartell, a real belle of the blues, is an exotic-looking young thrush who sells her songs like a veteran, and particularly her very strong arrangements of "St. Louis Blues" and "Joseph, Joseph."

Dead-Eye Dick Moves Over For TIS Marksman

A San Franciscan is top man with the rifle in the 22nd Company, Third Student Training Regiment. He is red-headed Maxwell James, son of Col. and Mrs. Maxwell James. James scored a 321 out of a possible 340 points, thus qualifying as a rifle expert.

James comes by his military excellence naturally, since his father has been active with the Regular Army for a number of years and is now on active service in Africa.

Before coming to Fort Benning, James graduated from Lowell High school in San Francisco and attended the University of California.

Lt. Gorman Moved To Camp Gordon

First Lieutenant Howard A. Gorman, assistant chief of civilian personnel branch, has been transferred to Camp Gordon, Ga., where he is assigned to the 529th Quartermaster Battalion.

Entering the army as a private, in August, 1941, Lt. Gorman was first stationed at Paine Field, Wash., and later at Harding Field, La., where he rose to the rank of sergeant. In March, 1942, he attended Officer Candidate School, Camp Lee, Va., receiving his commission in May.

At this time Lt. Gorman was assigned to Benning, where he remained, except for a six weeks period at the University of Pennsylvania, studying industrial relations.

A PEEK AT THE PICS

REVEALS ANOTHER 'SUSPENSE' STORY AS A BEAUTY WAITS TO BE STRANGLED

Alfred Hitchcock scores again . . . This time with "Shadow of a Doubt," starring Teresa Wright and Joseph Cotten . . . When it comes tot Pics Hitchcock is the King of Understatement, Master of Pace, and Emperor of Suspense . . . This one is said to outdo "Suspicion," which is hard to imagine but then again who can tell what Hitchcock is apt to do next.

Uncle Charlie, played by Cotten, comes to visit some relatives in a small town. They all adore him until Little Charlie, portrayed by Miss Wright, begins to suspect him of being a murderer of three women. Bit by bit, from the inscription on the emerald ring he gave her, from a torn newspaper, from the convulsive movement of his hands, she gets the impression she is next on his list . . . The slow graceful dance of death that follows is Mr. Hitchcock's picture . . . Henry Travers, Patricia Collinge, and MacDonald Carey round out the cast.

* * *

There is only one thing wrong with the mystery stories written by Jason Cordy (Milton Berle), he can never get past the murder—in fact he can never figure out who the murderer is—in his own stories . . . Stuck as usual, he takes his latest unfinished "whodonit" to the office of his wife (Mary Beth Hughes), whose boss, Brenner (Reginald Denny), doesn't know she's married . . . From there on the story becomes ridiculous but then again is there anything about Milton Berle in his latest pic "Over My Dead Body," which is not ridiculous . . . But in the end, after finding himself in jail as the murderer, Berle solves the mystery and finds the ending for his book.

* * *

By the name someone may get the impression the "The Powers Girl" is the story of John Robert Powers, but no, it is only a love story between George Murphy and Ann Shirley, with a little of Carole Landis thrown in for good measure . . . The only thing about Powers in the entire pic, is a small scene in which Alan Mowbray portrays him . . . Some of the training the Powers models undergo is shown, but actually it is the story of Carole's ambition to be a model and how she gets there through the help of Ann and George.

It is a good show and shouldn't be missed, but don't expect to see too much.

* * *

LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE . . . Don't get excited boys, but your favorite pin-up girl will be dressed in a pair of silk tights in her new picture "Coney Island" . . . Can you imagine Betty Grable in a pair of tights, my, my!

* * *

And here is the little inside dope on MacDonald Carey's rejection from the Marine Corps . . . The answer is, he was color-blind. But he has tried again and was accepted. He took some treatments and was cured in three months.

Southern Manor
Presenting New York's Radio and Night Club Entertainers
DINE & DANCE — TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY
At Junction of Opelika and Montgomery Highway

There's No O.P.A. Driving Regulation in Alabama

★ Clair Ray and Her 5 Rayettes
"6 Beautiful Girls of Dance"
★ DOT and DAVE WORKMAN
"Musical Cocktails From Frolic Club, Chicago"
★ PEGGY KRAFT
"Sensational Tap Dancer From Roxy Theatre, N. Y. City"
★ TUBBY RIVES (Held Over)
"Popular Master of Laughs from Club "18" N. Y."
★ LEE CAMP
"Singer From Roosevelt Hotel, N. O."
★ Nick Jarrett and His Orchestra
"Direct from Village Inn Club, N. Y." 8:30 P. M. till 2:30

YOUR FAVORITE PLACE IN ALABAMA TO DINE
Special Western Steak and Chicken Dinners
COUVERTE 50c DIAL 9433

BAMA CLUB ★★★★★
PRESENTS THE BEAUTIFUL STARLET of STAGE and SCREEN
ARMIDA
"THE MEXICAN SPITFIRE"
IN SONG AND DANCE
She Recently Appeared Here in One of Her Pictures
"ALWAYS IN MY HEART"
JOHNNY HOWARD
Comedy Star - M.C.
"THE THREE HEARTS"
Rhythmic Dancing
JOHNNY PLATT
Magician
HAL WASSON and HIS ORCHESTRA
For Your Dancing
We Specialize in De Luxe Foods
Finest Western Steaks and Chicken
Just Across the Lower Bridge, First Building On the Right.
DIAL 3-1051
Admission: Week Nites 50c
Saturday Nights $1.00

WHERE TO DINE & DANCE IN AND AROUND COLUMBUS

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT
WINSEL CASTLE
"COLUMBUS' FINEST"
2803 Cusseta Road Cecil Lloyd, Prop.
FOR OFFICERS AND MEMBERS ONLY

PAT PATTERSON 14th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED Chicken IN THIS TOWN | GA. CAT FISH Dinners WITH CORN BREAD
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY Steaks THAT'S REALLY TENDER | POINT BLUE Oysters FRIED, STEW, RAW
Come Out on No. Highland Bus 8 Private Dining Rooms

JERRY'S 206-38th St.
FAMOUS FOR STEAKS & CHICKEN

COPELAND'S
CECIL JONES, Prop.
3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620
GA. BAR-B-Q and STEW
CHICKEN - STEAK - OYSTER DINNERS
FREE PARKING and CURB SERVICE

JUMBO
Fried Chicken
Catfish Dinners
Ga. Stew
Bar-B-Q
1700 Fourth Ave. Dial 9889
Dining Rooms Curb Service

Visit the New
Post Office Grille
Next Door to Post Office
Miss Sue Searcy, Prop.
Phenix City, Ala.
Steaks—Oysters
FRIED CHICKEN
Regular Meals Daily

In New York, it's LINDY'S—In Havana, it's SLOPPY JOE'S
In COLUMBUS, it's THE ROOSEVELT!
Columbus' finest and friendliest Cafe—serving only the very highest type of food, and beverages reasonably priced—and where efficient service is supplemented by warm cordiality and an air of sincere friendliness.
We invite the personnel of Fort Benning to make the FRIENDLY ROOSEVELT CAFE their second home.
THE ROOSEVELT CAFE
1027 BROADWAY

CHEROKEE LODGE
Endorsed by
Duncan Hines
By Appointment Only

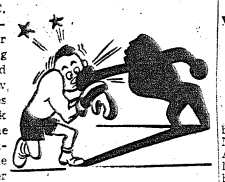
Chicken in the Rough
GOO-GOO The Sign Of Good Food
Dial 3-4491
700 Linwood Boulevard
AIR CONDITIONED
½ Fried Chicken Served Unjointed Without Silver, Gobs of Shoe Strings, Jug of Honey, Hot Buttered Rolls. The Most Modern and Best Known Cafe in Columbus, Georgia
Free Parking — Curb Service
Private Dining Rooms

COPELAND'S BARBECUE AND STEW
3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620
BARBECUE—STEW—SANDWICHES—DRINKS
CHICKEN—STEAK—OYSTER DINNERS
CECIL JONES, Prop.
PLENTY FREE PARKING AND CURB SERVICE

SPORTSCASTING

BY SGT. CARL NEU

It's about time that someone stepped to the fore with a good word for the beleaguered men who officiate sports events at Benning. For some time now, we've been watching and hearing umpires and referees take a much worse "beating" than they deserve. Of course, the old game of umpire-baiting goes hand-in-hand with American sports and in peacetime civilian days, it's probably a healthy sign. But it seems to this corner that an overdose of it in Army sports is a little off the beam.



The men who officiate Benning games are, for the most part, officers and non-coms who are willing to come out and work for a very moderate fee because they are interested in the sport. They give up their own leisure time and as far as we know have always been more than obliging to help out in any emergencies. The officiating during the recent grid campaign was not what you might find in big-time college circles, but neither was the brand of football that was played. On the whole, the grid refs did a good job. They kept the games under control, and clean football was the result. But they took an awful lambasting from the stands and the teams.

Now that the court campaign has gotten under way, the same hue and cry has begun again. All that one well-known, and in my opinion excellent, referee had to do the other night was walk on the court when his loud-voiced grandstand adversary started beefing. It didn't seem very fair to this scribe to start crucifying a man for a foul he might have called a year ago on the rooter's favorite team. Yet, that's what some of the fans seem to delight in doing.

Frankly, the situation is this. The athletic association obtains the best available officials at the post, and the men are carefully selected for their past experience and reputation as officials. For the most part, Army men are used, since it is believed they have more of an interest in developing post sports than outside civilians. Also, officials for some reason are scarce this year. Therefore, it is either a case of getting along with the available men, or discontinuing the present abundant sports program. So c'mon fellows, let's quit the beefing and remember that if you can't boost, don't knock!

* * *

Heard from Lieut. William C. (Wild Bill) Fannin, Camp Rucker's athletic director the other day. Bill used to be the big-wig of Benning boxing circles, and this year is carrying on at a new, cauliflower-ear stand. He relates that he already has two crack pugilistic teams at Rucker, one of them composed entirely of colored sluggers. And naturally he is anxious to match the Rucker wreckers with a couple of Benning ring teams. Plans are already under way, and if transportation difficulties can be overcome, a couple of good matches may result.

One real bright ray in the word that a match between colored boxers from Benning and Rucker may be arranged is the fact that Fannin has a crackerjack heavyweight whom he could match against Eddie Jackson, the ring maestro of the 3rd STR. Jackson, you know, is the ex-pro slugger, who used to spar around with Abe Simon and some more of champ Joe Louis' opponents. Jackson is a great performer, but has only appeared once in a post ring because no suitable opponent could be found for him. So Benning fans may be in for a rare treat if Sergeant Eddie, who's a real big-timer, climbs into the squared circle against a Rucker rival.

* * *

Speaking of Fannin reminds us that word came to the post over the week-end of the promotion of Lieut. Louis M. Van Houten to the rank of captain over at Fort Screven near Savannah. Captain Van Houten preceded Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan as athletic officer here, and held the post for over a year. He is now a quartermaster officer, in charge of the transportation section. Prior to his Army service, the ex-Benning sports head was athletic director and head coach at Marist College in Atlanta. He is still taking a hand at athletics as coach of the Screven court edition this winter which has won nine and lost four to date.

* * *

It won't be so very long now until the ump is dusting off the old platter again and yelling "Play ball" at good old Gowdy Field. Indications are that it will be one of the biggest of all baseball years at Benning. At this writing it seems extremely doubtful that there will be a post team as in days of yore. Gas rationing, and other transportation difficulties will probably prevent most college and pro teams from visiting the post. The rah-rah nines undoubtedly will forego the spring trips that used to bring teams like Michigan State and Illinois College to the post, while the pro clubs are all expected to stay at home and train. Columbus may not even have a team, so the only competition would be from nearby schools like Auburn, Oglethorpe and some of the others, and they may not be able to travel either. If there is no post team, that means the intra-mural league will start earlier and play a longer schedule. A full-fledged softball loop is also under consideration, so don't worry, there will be plenty of diamond sport at the old camp ground this summer.

* * *

A southern service teams' basketball tourney will be held in the municipal auditorium at Macon around the end of February under the auspices of the Army-USO athletic council of that city, and there is a good possibility that several Benning quintets may be represented. The competition will probably be plenty rugged, since some of the best basketball clubs in the country are right here in southeastern Army camps this winter. However, we'll wager that there are at least four Benning teams that could do better than hold their own in the championship tourney, and it is fondly hoped that at least a couple of these units can see their way clear to send teams to the Macon affair.

* * *

BAYONET TIPS—The consistently good sports photos which appear on these pages weekly are usually the products of three G. I's in the new post signal photo lab who have put a lot of time and effort into helping ye sports editor. They are Ed Bourne, Don Kortemeier, and Mel Stock and along with their boss, Capt. Herbert Cooley, who snapped some of the grid pictures, they have been giving readers a complete pictorial coverage of post sports ever since the Bayonet began. Take a bow, boys! . . . Saturday night's nightcap at the post gym between the Two-Nine and Academic Profs will bring together for the first time this year the two clubs that fought it out in last winter's title play-off with the Devils taking the honors. . . . The brand new 300th Infantry may field one of the best baseball nines at the fort this spring. They have a plentitude of ex-pro talent. . . . Tip-of-the-week to Tony Byzesky, court star of the 53rd Hospital's entry in the main post loop. He's the flashiest ball-handler to cavort on a post court in many years, and also an outstanding netcracker.

TO . . .
Company Commanders
SPECIAL SERVICE
Field Jackets for the Entire Company can be Cleaned, Pressed and returned . . .
WITHIN 24 HOURS
PHONE CITY 2-1641
COLUMBUS
CLEANERS & TAILORS
500 6TH AVE., COLUMBUS GA.

Conference Rivals Clash On Saturday

HIGH-FLYING CHUTISTS of the 507th Parachute Infantry, now the post's only unbeaten court squad with a record of eight straight wins, hail from all over the country and boast a wide variety of previous experience. Here they are lined up in their Alabama gym, with the exception of Harmon (Tex) Walters, the high-scoring ace from Rice institute who is on the injured list. Reading from left to right you can see Windsor, former Central High star from Phenix City; Fessler, ex-Pennsylvania schoolboy star; Cofer, former Columbus High player; Wagoner, of Michigan State; Lieut. Lillge, captain and coach from Lawrence and Western college and the Oshkosh All-Stars; Todd, from Adrian college in Ohio; Scott, former University of Oregon ace; Ardziejewski, from Ripon college in Michigan; Smith, Badger star from Wisconsin, and Stout, who formerly played for Cumberland College in Kentucky. They will defend their win streak against the New York Celtics in a game this Saturday night in their own gym.

Devils Oppose Profs, Gators, Breakers Vie In Crucial Twin Bill

Capacity Crowd Expected To Watch Battles at Post Gym

Four of the top teams in the red-hot Fort Benning Conference court race will crash head-on Saturday in the post gym in the most attractive twin bill of the campaign. A capacity crowd is expected to watch the 29th Blue Devils clash with the Academic Regiment Profs, and the first-place 124th Gators meet the revived 117th Breakers in a bargain bill that starts at 7:30 o'clock.

The Devil-Prof battle, which will be played as the nightcap, naturally rates the star billing because of the intense rivalry between the two regiments that dates back many years in post sports annals. Last winter, the Devils bested the Profs in a post-season series to capture the post championship which they are defending in the present race.

Saturday night's clash between the arch rivals has added interest, because for the first time in many years, neither of the two has a stranglehold on post laurels. Both have already gone down to defeat at the hands of the astounding 124th Gators, and when they meet one another, the crack quintets will be battling for survival in the first-half pennant chase. Saturday's loser is almost certain to be out of the title picture at least until the second half gets under way.

The Devil-Prof winner, on the other hand, has a chance to rebound into the title picture and even gain a share of the first place slot in the standings, should the Gators get upset by the 117th. A 124th win, however, will establish the Harmony Church crew as prime favorites for the laurels, since their remaining three tilts in the first half will be against quintets which now reside in the last three positions in the standings.

Both the Devils and the Profs are expected to be at full strength for the clash, although the Academics will be playing for the first time without the services of Wilson (Lefty) Francis, their all-around athlete, who entered O. C. school over the week-end.

Joe Stolarzyck, injured forward ace of the defending champs, is about ready for full-time action after playing more than half of the tilt against the Gators on Tuesday. He will open at forward for the 29th, with fleet Stan Krezewski at the other spot up front. Reliable Tippy Friedman is the Devil pivot, while Bob Keary and Mike Hutchins are expected to continue in their guard roles.

The Profs will be paced, as usual, by their high-scoring player-coach, Lieut. Frank Shannon. The former Wittenberg College flash, has practically returned to his 1942 form, and is hitting the nets with a real regularity again. He will start at forward along with Wilson Harpe, elongated lay-up artist. Bob McCrary will be at center for the Profs with Johnny Ossi and Harvey Polk in the backcourt.

The Gator-Breaker opener will feature two fast-breaking quintets, with the 124th holding the edge in aggressiveness and the 117th having a height and speed advantage. Their game should equal the finale for intensity of action and thrills, and may result in a wild scoring spree. The Gators will be seeking their fourth straight loop conquest.

The lower deck clubs in the conference will be in action on Friday night, with the Parachute School having the opportunity to step into a second place tie by bumping Lawson Field in the nightcap. The 2nd STR Leaders clash with the Station Hospital in the opener at 7:30. Next Tuesday, the Medicos face the Chutists in the opener, while the Profs and Breakers collide in a feature nightcap. All games during the next week are carded for the post gym.

A fighting Ft. Eustis (Va) basketball team upset the dope bucket recently in defeating the highly favored Apprentice School of Newport News 36-33 in a fast game. The Eustis cagers overcame a six-point lead held by the Shipbuilders in the last half to eke out a three point victory.

Pvt. Wallace Brooks, a dark "hoss," won the first open golf tournament held at Keesler Field (Miss.) recently when he shot a sensational 70, two under par. Later his opponents discovered that Brooks had been quarter-finalist in the 1941 National Amateur Tournament!

Court Card

THURS., JAN. 21ST
Post Gym—Main Post League
7th Observation vs. 1st STR (6:45).
863rd Ordnance vs. Finance Det. (8:00).
1st Prcht. Trng. vs. 24th Gen Hosp. (9:15).
Sports Arena—Service League
Med. Det. vs. 2nd STR (7:30).
Acad. Regt. vs. Rec. Center (8:45).
1st STR vs. Spec. Trng. Det. (7:30).
3rd STR vs. Post Det. (8:45).
Post Gym—Fort Benning Conference
2nd STR vs. Sta. Host. (7:30).
Parachute School vs. Lawson Field (8:45).
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
55th Engr. vs. Maint. Bn. (7:30).
423rd F. A. vs. 3rd Armd. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
Div. Trains. vs. Supply Bn. (7:30).
SATURDAY, JAN. 23RD
Post Gym—Fort Benning Conference
117th Infantry vs. 124th Infantry (7:30).
29th Infantry vs. Acad. Regt. (8:45).
MONDAY, JAN. 25TH
Post Gym—Main Post League
99th Quartermaster vs. 863rd Ordnance (6:45).
7ht Observation vs. 1st Prcht. Trng. (8:00).
1st STR vs. 24th Gen Hospital (9:15).
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
420th F. A. vs. 55th Engineers (7:30).
11th 9rmd. Regt. vs. 423rd F. A. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
150th Signal vs. Div. Hdqs. (7:30).
90th Recon. vs. Div. Trains. (8:45).
TUESDAY, JAN. 26TH
Post Gym—Fort Benning Conference
Station Hospital vs. Parachute School (7:30).
Acad. Regt. vs. 117th Infantry (8:45).
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
55th Eng. vs. 3rd Armd. (7:30).
423rd F. A. vs. Maint. Bn. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
Div. Hdqs. vs. Supply Bn. (7:30).
WEDNESDAY, JAN. 27TH
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
419th F. A. vs. 3rd Armd. (7:30).
54th Armd. Inf. vs. Maint. Bn. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
Service Co. vs. Supply Bn. (7:30).

Pvt. Casius (Cash) Gentry, All-America football player at Oklahoma University in 1933 and '34 is at the Reception Center, Ft. Sill, Okla. This isn't Cash's first trip to Ft. Sill—he sold newspapers there when he was 13!

Third Armored Unit Whips 54th's Pugs

Champs To Be Crowned March 26

The Tenth Armored Tigers' boxing tournament got under way Monday night with the Third Armored Regiment's Third Battalion winning three of the five bouts against the Second Battalion of the 54th Armored Infantry.

The bouts were the first preliminaries of inter-battalion competition which will conclude March 26 with the crowning of the individual champions in each weight. The battalion championship will be determined by the number of points amassed by the individual fighters as they progress toward the finals, since there will be no team fighting after the preliminaries.

Two middleweights, Pvt. John Kubina of the 54th and Pvt. Pete Lowendowski of the 3rd, gave the best exhibition Monday as Kubina won the decision on the strength of a nine count knockdown just before the bell ending the final third round.

BETTER FIGHTER

In losing Lowendowski showed himself a better fighter than did any of the men who won in other weights. But the two-fisted body slugging by the weaving Kubina kept the fight at virtually a draw until the closing seconds of the last round.

Then Kubina slipped across a right which was just strong enough to slip Lowendowski to his knees. He started to bounce right back off the canvass, then settled back on his knee to wait nine precious seconds. Before he could get back at his opponent after taking the long count, the fight was over.

The highly touted, tattooed Pvt. G. B. Ryan of the 3rd took the light-heavy event on a technical knockout in the second when Pvt. Bill Whitaker suffered a bloody nose which kept him from continuing.

Bloody noses didn't interfere with Lightweights Sgt. Charles Guthrie of the 3rd and Pvt. Dale "Red" Fearings of the 54th. They both were bleeding in the second round, but Guthrie won the first and third rounds to win the decision.

DELBANE WINS

In the heavyweight division stocky Pvt. Lloyd Delbane of the 54th outpunched bigger, slower Pvt. J. H. Sanders of the 3rd to win the decision. Sanders tried to stand Delbane off with his longer arms instead of blocking his face with his gloves, and Delbane, though taking some blows in the face, managed to break through for more punches to Sanders' face.

Welterweight Pvt. Lyle Bildeau of the 54th, a Minnesota Indian who had never been in the ring before, did an expert job of blocking the blows of Winner Pvt. Mickel Contreva, but he was never able to get any offensive started.

The inexperienced Bildeau might have acquitted himself better had he been fighting an orthodox boxer. But Contreva was a lefty, a factor which sometimes puzzles even a veteran.

Three of the eight bouts scheduled were defaulted, two by the 54th and one by the 3rd. Even so, the fighters had plenty of backing from their buddies, who filled the 11th Armored Regiment's recreation hall to capacity.

Those who advanced to the quarter-finals by default were Cpl. R. A. Wheeler, 3rd, flyweight; Pvt. T. Elston, 54th, bantamweight; and Pvt. T. A. Anderson, 3rd, featherweight.

Crack Quintets Vie Tonight at Arena In Opening Games of Service League

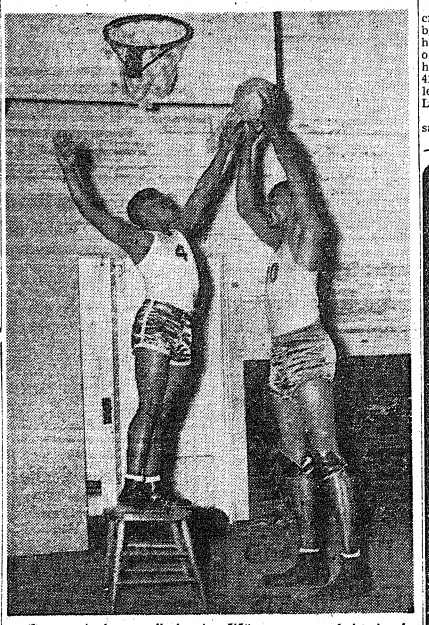
Eight Colored Fives Members of Circuit Sponsored by FBAA

For the first time in Benning sports circles, an all-colored basketball league will begin operation tonight with four games carded for the spacious twin courts at the Harmony Church sports arena. Eight crack quintets, representing service units from various sections of the post, have banded together in the Service League, which is being sponsored by the Fort Benning Athletic Association.

Opening night twin bills will pit the Medical Detachment against the Commandos of the 2nd Student Training in the opener at 7:30, while the other early tilt will bring together the 1st STR entry and a strong quintet representing the Special Training Detachment.

PACESETTERS FACE R. C.

In the nightcap attractions, scheduled for an 8:45 tap-off, the Service Detachment of the Academic Regiment, known as the Pacesetters, will oppose the Reception Center's high-scoring machine, while the fourth tilt features the famous Panthers of the 3rd STR, coached by Lieut. Jack Gushin, against the crack Post Detachment quintet, paced by its 6 feet 6 inches center, Tom Hall.



The loop was originally scheduled to play four games every Thursday at Harmony Church, and two tilts on Mondays at the old 24th Infantry Recreation Hall on the post proper. However, last Sunday's bad storm crossed right over the recreation hall, and damaged it considerably. Pending the announcement of future plans for the building, next Monday's schedule has been postponed to a later date, and for the time being the Service League will play only on Thursdays at the sports arena.

FORMER PRO ACE

Highlight bill on tonight's program will probably be the clash between the Panthers and the Post Detachment. Included in the line-up of the 3rd STR five is Henry (Hank) Blackburn, one of the fort's best hoopsters. Blackburn played for Xavier College as well as the famous Reconnaissance and Globetrotter pro quintets. Along with Frankie Phillip-

(Continued on Page 7)

SPORTRAITS

Sammy Anderson, diminutive 5'5" court star of the Academic Regiment's Service Detachment quintet, finds that a stool comes in handy in guarding Tom Hall, the gigantic 6'6" center on the Post Detachment team. . . . The rivals posed for this picture during a practice session last week as both teams prepared for tonight's opening games in the Service league at the Harmony church sports arena. . . . Hall is captain, coach and scoring ace of the Post Detachment and when he really stretches can boost the ball to within two inches of the rim without ever taking his feet off the floor! (Signal lab photo by Stock.)

Celtics–507th Play Saturday

One of America's foremost court teams, the famous New York Celtics, will visit Fort Benning on Saturday night when they face the undefeated 507th Parachute quintet in the chutist gym in the Alabama area, it was announced late last night. The tap-off will be at 7:30 o'clock.

The Celtics boast some of the most colorful performers on the hardwood, including Davey Banks, playing his twentieth year on the same team. Nat Hickey, Rusty Sanders, and Bob Synott are other greats who will oppose the 507th squad which boasts wins over Auburn, the defending post champs of the 29th Infantry, and several city clubs.

Horton Smith, who has earned more than $100,000 in golf prize money in the last 10 years as a top-flight tournament contender, is now going through his basic training at the Army Air Forces Technical Training School at Knollwood Field, N. . Smith's home is in Joplin, Mo.

Upsets Provide Major Interest In Tiger Loops

Hoopsters In Sand Hill And Cusseta Leagues Start Second Round

As the second round of games got under way in the 10th Armored's Sand Hill and Cusseta Basketball Leagues there were some changes made with some of the favorites coming thru and some upsets balancing the budget.

The Mighty 55th Engineers came out on the long end of a 48 to 36 score, defeating the 423rd F. A. Bn. in the opening game of the Sand Hill League for their first victory in league play. Patterson of the Engineers flipped in 19 points, while Christ of the F. A. team scored 17 to lead his team in individual scoring.

Third Armored Regiment's Dragons tromped the Maintenance Battalion into submission in the second game by the lop sided score of 56 to 16. The Dragons seemed to score at will and definitely established themselves as the team to watch, along with the 420th F. A. team, which is also undefeated in league play.

The "Brasshats" of Division Headquarters Company derailed Division Trains in the lone game of the Cusseta League when they hit the hoop from all corners of the court to win, 43 to 18. At half time, Headquarters led 23 to 4 and the reserves took over and added more points to the bewildered boys from Trains. Yanda led the scoring for the winners with 14 points.

SMASHING VICTORY

Bouncing back after their opening defeat by 2 points, the Dodger boys from the 54th Infantry ripped open the 11th Regiment to the tune of 39 to 25 to open the third round of league play. Borowski and Billett led the scoring for the 54th with 15 and 13 points respectively. Seay chalked up 10 points for the losers.

Again it was the 420th who crippled the 419th in a walkaway by the margin of 33 to 16 to hand the 419th their first loss of the season. Leading at the half by the score of 21 to 9, the 420th continued to pile up their lead to give them final victory. Lewis led in scoring with 9 points.

An upset in the Cusseta League saw the Service Company team

(Continued on Page 7)

Special Announcement

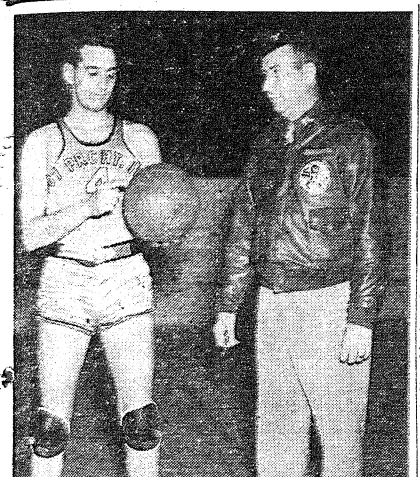
We take pleasure in announcing that we have purchased the entire stock of merchandise from the Raymond-Gunnels Sporting Goods Co., Albany, Georgia (Who have closed for the duration due to shortage of merchandise). This stock consists of a very high type assortment of Sports Clothing, Athletic Supplies and Sporting Goods.

This stock of merchandise is being shipped to us immediately and will be placed in our store, thereby making our stock the largest and most complete Sports store in the south.

We are indeed proud to be able to have available for the people of Columbus, Fort Benning, Phenix City and the Chattahoochee valley such a complete and varied assortment of Sporting Goods, making it possible for you to purchase those items you want and need.

A cordial welcome awaits you here at all times and we invite you to visit us often and make our store your headquarters for every Recreational need.

ATHLETIC GOODS
TOYS—GAMES
Playground Units



Bentley's

SPORTING GOODS
BICYCLES
Sports Clothing

1303-1305 Broadway

Phone 7365

-SPORTS-

PLANNING FUTURE WINS for the crack 507th Parachute quintet are Lieut. Karl Lillige, coach and captain of the all-winning club, and Col. George V. Millett, commandant of the regiment, who is an ardent fan and former West Point basketeer.

Gators Topple Devils, Lead Conference Race

Herndon Sparks 124th In Smashing Upset of 29th Quintet by 33-29 Count

In an aggressive and hard-fought game at the Harmony Church sports arena Tuesday, the rollicking Gator courtmen of the 124th Infantry completely upset the pre-season dope in the Fort Benning Conference by whipping the defending champs of the 29th Infantry by a 33-29 count, and grabbing undisputed possession of first place in the loop race.

Two other conference tilts were also waged Tuesday with the resounding 117th Infantry Breakers moving into a second place tie with the defeated 29th by virtue of a thrilling 41-40 victory over the Station Hospital quint at the main post. In the prelim at Harmony Church, Lawson Field chalked up its first loop win by toppling the 2nd Student Training five, 50-22. A Main Post league tilt was also played with the 863rd Ordnance tripping the 24th General Hospital, 25-21.

The Gator victory on the center court of the spacious arena was sparked by the spectacular efforts of Johnny Herndon, a sub center, who played only in the second half. In those 20 minutes, though, he was a ball of fire, stabbing five field goals through the nets to pace the scoring for the winners with ten points. Tippy Friedman, pivot ace, was high man for the 29th Devils with eleven markers.

It was the third straight loop win for the rampageous Gators who were not even rated as a dark horse when the loop opened just a week ago. They have now smashed the Academic Regiment and the Parachute School as well as the 29th.

Tuesday's decision went to the Gators because they played more aggressive ball and because Lieutenants Howie Bender and Ants Jackson, 124th coaches, made more liberal use of substitutes. The Gators kept up a terrific pace from start to finish, and controlled the ball off both backboards for most of the fray.

The Devils got off to a good start and appeared to be playing well within themselves until near the end of the first half, when the Gators started their first rally. With two minutes of the semester remaining, Pete Pieton fired a long shot to push the ultimate winners out in front for the first time. However, Joe Stolarzyck's heave knotted the count at 15-all just before intermission.

Herndon replaced Foster at center for the Gators at the start of the second half, and immediately started a two-pointer to give the Gators a lead they never relinquished except for two brief moments in the third period when the Devils pulled up on even terms. It was at one of these points with the score at 25-all that the Gators broke the game wide open with three straight field goals by Herndon, Gilbert and Herndon again to completely demoralize the defending champs.

After a time-out, the Devils gathered their forces for a last minute assault when goals by Tippy Friedman and Stolarzyck brought the count to 31-29. The arena was in a bedlam for fully two minutes at the end, but with 25 seconds left, the indomitable Herndon connected again to sew up the decision and send the Gator fans wild.

Lieut. Bobby Hite, with 13 points, was the big gun in the 117th triumph over Station Hospital although the evening's scoring honors went to Frank Webster of the Medicos who hit the cords for 14 markers. Mike Darin, sturdy guard, also helped the Breaker cause with ten markers. At halftime, the Medicos were out in front by a 21-18 count, but the 117th used its height in the second half to gain the decision.

In Lawson Field's easy 50-22 romp over the 2nd STR Leaders, Arvid (Ace) Hall, was once again the scoring star. The swift-moving center racked up nine field goals for an 18-point total to outdistance all rivals. Masityl and Detter, with six points each, paced the futile attack of the Leaders who bowed to a much-improved Flier quintet.

Basketball Standings

FORT BENNING CONFERENCE

	W.	L.	Pct.
124th Infantry	3	0	1.000
29th Infantry	2	1	.666
117th Infantry	2	1	.666
Academic Regiment	1	1	.500
Parachute School	1	1	.500
Lawson Field	1	2	.333
Station Hospital	1	2	.333
2nd Student Trng.	0	3	.000

MAIN POST LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
99th Quartermaster	2	0	1.000
1st Prchte. Trng.	1	0	1.000
507th Parachute	1	0	1.000
863rd Ordnance	1	1	.500
1st Student Trng.	1	1	.500
24th Observation	1	1	.500
Finance Detach.	0	2	.000
83rd Gen. Hospital	0	2	.000

*Note: Standings do not include Wednesday night games.

Gators Wallop Jumpers by 58-27 Count in Run-Away

The 124th Infantry Gators established themselves as a definite title contender in the conference Saturday night at the main post gym when they larruped the Parachute School's courtment, 58-27, in a run-away tilt. The win enabled the charges of Howie Bender and Ants Jackson to deadlock the 29th Infantry for loop leadership with two wins and no losses.

Ahead by a mere 18-12 tally at intermission, the rugged Gators really went to town in the second half and dropped baskets through the net from every angle. No less than 11 men broke into the scoring column for the winners, with center Tony Foster and Guard Johnny Gilbert sharing top honors with eleven points. Pete Kinard and Lieut. Ed Brooks, ex-Illinois flash, paced the losers with eight markers apiece.

Prominent in the Gator win were several members of Capt. Red Milton's post championship grid team, including Roy Cestary, the team captain and star back, Cestary and Pete Pieton, high-scoring end, were both in the starting line-up for the Gator tossers, while Stan Ergler and Pats Katurna, two other gridders, also broke into action.

PARACHUTE SCHOOL:	G.	F.	T.P.
Kinard, f	2	4	8
Campbell, f	2	0	4
Brooks, c	2	4	8
Freback, g	3	0	6
Lawrence, g	3	1	7
Totals	9	9	27

124th INFANTRY:	G.	F.	T.P.
Sims, f	0	0	0
Howell, f	3	1	7
Ergler, f	3	1	7
Cestary, f	2	1	5
Katurna, f	1	0	2
Jackson, f	3	0	6
Foster, c	0	1	1
Henderson, c	0	0	0
Pieton, g	2	0	5
Fowler, g	3	0	6
Bradley, g	3	0	6
Gilbert, g	3	1	7
Totals	25	8	58

Officials: Lee and Gruber.

Breakers Out-Last Fliers To Win Loop Tilt, 47-46

In one of the most closely fought games of the season, Lieut. Lester Soldz' fast-moving Breaker courtmen from the 117th Infantry outlasted Lawson Field Saturday night to rack up a 47-46 triumph in the post gym. The game was nip and tuck all the way with the Fliers holding a 22-20 advantage at half-time.

The win gave the 117th an even break in its first two conference tests, while the loss was the second in a row for Lawson. The airmen were hard hit just before the game by the loss of their star guard, Bill Horne, who underwent an appendectomy and will be out for the remainder of the season.

Bill Metcalfe and Ace Hall of the Fliers were the top scorers of the evening with the former accounting for 17 markers on seven twin-deckers and a trio of foul flips, while Hall scorched the nets with eight field goals for a 16 point total. For the winners, Mike Dornich and Lieut. Bobby Tite had 14 and 13 points apiece to pace the Breakers from their forward positions.

117th INFANTRY:	G.	F.	T.P.
Hite, f	6	1	13
Darin, f	3	0	6
Dale, c	2	1	5
Darin, g	2	1	5
O'Neil, g	3	0	6
Bowlin, g	2	0	4
Totals	22	3	47

LAWSON FIELD:	G.	F.	T.P.
Metcalfe, f	7	3	17
Moran, f	3	0	6
Hall, c	8	0	16
Watson, g	2	1	5
Henderson, g	1	0	2
Totals	21	4	46

Officials: Lee and Gruber.

29th Blue Devils Topple Medico Courtmen, 29-36

Superior team play plus some eagle-eyed shooting by the front men enabled the 29th Infantry's defending champs to withstand the challenge of a powerful Medico quintet from the Station Hospital in the post gym last Friday night. The Blue Devils won, 39-36, in a hotly-contested game.

Stan Krezewski of the Devils and Frank Webster of the Medicos shared scoring honors for the evening with twelve points apiece. The Two-Niner flipper five twin-deckers and added two charity tosses, while the hospital speedster corded four goals of each variety. Gene Biro, Krezewski's diminutive forward partner, and center Tippy Friedman each contributed ten points in the victorious cause.

Bob Keary and burly Mike Hutchins, 29th grid captain, were outstanding defensive players and held the Medico tossers in check with the exception of Webster, one of the post's best courtmen. At halftime the ultimate winners were out in front by a 23-18 count, but during the final periods the Station Hospital made it a nip and tuck ball game.

STATION HOSPITAL	G.	F.	TP.
Edwin, f	3	1	7
Pond, f	3	0	6
Monroe, c	1	0	2
Cummings, g	3	0	6
Percy, g	1	0	2
Webster, g	4	4	12
Totals	15	6	36

29TH INFANTRY	G.	F.	TP.
Krezewski, f	5	2	12
Biro, f	4	0	8
Freedman, c	5	0	10
Gehan, c	0	1	1
Keary, g	0	1	1
Hutchins, g	2	0	4
Totals	17	5	39

Officials: Dozier and Desobry.

—and get lasting protection against rust, when cleaned with FIENDOIL
—it's the soldier's friend that saves manual cleaning! Get Fiendoil at
Your Post Exchange
McCambridge & McCambridge Baltimore

Pvt. George Dennis, former national intercollegiate mile champion and University of Wisconsin track star, is now stationed at the Army Air Force School, Sioux Falls, S. D. He is a radio student. While at Wisconsin, Dennis was the mainstay of the track and cross-country teams. After graduation he became coach of the freshman cross-country team.

Former Athlete For Georgia Bulldogs Is 29th Boxing Mentor

This year's boxing coach for the defending champs from he 29th Infantry is a former Georgia Bulldog athlete, who not only boxed for the Athens school, but also was a varsity footballer.

After finishing an athletic three years at Georgia Military Academy as a four-letter man—football, basketball, track and cross country, he entered Georgia in 1933.

Being the athletic type he very naturally chose physical education as his majoring subject. Upon entering he immediately embarked upon an athletic career by making the varsity football team and playing end for two years. Although perhaps not quite on a par with Poschner or Lamar Davis of this year's Georgia team he was definitely star material. Trouble was he had no Sinkwich or Trippi behind him.

Besides football, he fought as a middleweight for one year on the boxing team and thereby gained a lot of his practical knowledge for his present job. To round up his athletic career there he ran the quarter and the half-mile as a member of the track team.

Upon leaving the university he chose coaching as his career and for three years coached football and basketball in high schools in the state of Georgia.

Lt. Boulware feels that boxing is one of the most outstanding all-round developers of the individual that can be found. It teaches a man to be dependent upon himself at all times.

Panthers Claw Orphans 35-27

The first in thrills of Colored basketball took place in the Harmony Church Sport Arena, when the Third Student Training Regiment Panthers and the Reception Center Orphans clashed in the opening game of the 1943 season. The Panthers took the Orphans in hand, 35-27.

Taking the lead from the start the Panthers never relinquished it. At the halftime the Orphans came up to within three points of the fast moving Third STR lads. Ability and speed son put the Panthers quintet will out in front, where they experienced little trouble from the Reception Center five. Henry Blackburn, ex-star of the pro Globe Trotters, led the way for the Panthers, finding the hoop for 15 points. Frank Phillipson followed with 10 points for the Panthers. This was the first of Colored basketball to be played here at Fort Benning.

Crack-

(Continued from Page 6)

son, former New York City schoolboy star, Blackburn forms a potent scoring combine for the Panthers.

Other leading players on the green and white five are Louis Jackson, Hilbert Jones and Lou Simmons, who will probably start tonight along with Blackburn and Phillipson. The Panthers will have to go at top speed all the way to stop the gigantic Hall and his mates. The giant center can push a ball to within two inches of the basket without ever leaving the floor, and is a constant scoring threat.

OUTSTANDING SQUAD

There are six other outstanding players on the Post Detachment squad who can help Hall with the attack. They are Jerome Winn, George Owens, Johnny Mathis, George Williams, Albert Toney, and James Shannon. In contrast to the 6'6" Hall, there are two midget speedsters on the club who scale 5'4" and 5'5" respectively. They are Willie Rubens and James Banks.

Besides these two teams, the Reception Center, which dropped a practice tilt to the Panthers by a mere three points last Friday, and the 2nd STR Commandos, paced by Suluiak Milow, rate as strong title contenders in the early reckoning. Not much is known of the comparitive strength of the other entrants, but all have been working out for several weeks now, and should give a good account of themselves.

Upsets-

(Continued from Page 6)

bow to the 150th Signal Co. 23 to 18 in a very nicely played game. After losing to the 90th Recons in the opening game, the Signal Co. were tied 8 all with their opponents at half time but pulled away in the second half to come thru with their first win in league competition.

MEDICS LOSE

Giving the 80th Medics a dose of their own medicine, the 90th Recons won their second game of the Cusseta League by the score of 33 to 11 in a game that wasn't even close. The Recons went wild in the second half scoring 12 field goals while holding the Pillrollers to one lone score from the field.

The game thus far have established some outstanding players in the individual scoring bracket and the race should become hotter as the league progresses.

Winners

Two prizewinners for contributions to last week's Bayonet were named today.

To Pvt. Zaricor Jackson, Medical Detachment, Headquarters of the Colored Reception Center, goes the poetry award of two dollars for his piece entitled "An Expostulation on Perserverance".

Candidate Mel Casson of the First Student Training Regiment wins two dollars also for a cartoon.

Prizewinners should report to the Public Relations office, Post Headquarters, and claim their awards.

Profs Run Up 69 Points In Battle With Leaders

Lieut. Frank Shannon and his Academic Regiment Profs ran up the highest score of the conference season Friday night when they trampled the Leaders of the 2nd Student Training by a 69-41 tally in the post gym. The win gave the Profs an even split in their first two loop outings.

Despite their prolific scoring, however, the top honors of the tilt went to a Leader, Bill Bland, who racked up ten field goals and added a foul flip for a 21-point total. Big Wilson Harpe paced the academic tossers with 19 points, amassed on nine field goals and a foul toss. Other heavy scorers for the winners were Johnny Ossi with twelve and Shannon with eleven markers.

In the first half of the ball game, the Leaders from the Harmony Church area stayed fairly close to the more experienced Profs, and trailed by 23-16 at intermission. But in the final periods, the Shannon team really turned on the steam and rolled up points with reckless abandon to capture their first loop win.

TNL STR.	G.	F.	TP.
Danckiko, f	2	0	4
Summerfield, f	7	5	19
Bland, c	10	1	21
Ariel, g	1	0	2
Peiler, g	3	2	8
Totals	23	8	54

ACAD. REGT.	G.	F.	TP.
Shannon, f	5	1	11
Francis, f	1	0	2
Holman, f	1	0	2
Harpe, f	9	1	19
McCarty, c	3	1	7
Fyfe, c	1	0	2
Ossi, g	6	0	12
Pientara, g	1	0	2
Polk, g	4	0	8
Totals	32	5	69

Officials: Dozier and Desobry.

863rd Ordnance Quintet Upsets Medico Tossers

99th Q. M., Chutists Only Unbeaten Fives In Main Post League

Staging a spirited last half rally on Tuesday night at the post gym, a scrappy 863rd Ordnance five upset the first-half title hopes of the 24th General Hospital quintet by tumbling the Medicos, 25-21, in a Main Post League affray. The tilt was one of three that had been postponed from Monday night when heavy rains seeped on to the court.

Sgt. Eddie Porter paced the Ordnance tossers with 13 points, compiled on five field goals and a trio of charity flips. Ed Compton accounted for eight more of the automotive club's points while Anderson and Holcomb flipped a field goal apiece to complete the scoring.

Mike Maziarz and Johnny Cirriello led the offense for the losers with eight and six pointers respectively. At intermission, the Medicos were out in front by a 12-9 count, but the second half was a different story with Porter sparking the much-improved ordnance tossers to a convincing win.

The victory for the 863rd knocked the Medicos out of their undefeated spot at the top of the standings, and left the 99th Quartermasters and 1st Parachute Training teams as the sole unbeaten survivors of the first week's play in the strong minor loop.

24TH HOSPITAL WINS

Winning their opening loop test without too much trouble, the 24th General Hospital quint got off to a good start last Thursday by toppling Finance Detachment, 34-21. Margetts, the ace center of the medicos, garnered the scoring honors when he accounted for 14 points with six twin-deckers and a pair of foul flips. Maziarz also helped in the point-getting with eight markers.

Nick Biavati paced the finance quintet which never quite hit its stride. The star guards wished six field goals through the nets for a point total of twelve. At halftime, the medicos, who are coached by Lieut. J. W. Cannon, were out in front by a 19-0 count and they were never headed after that.

99TH Q. M. TAKE LEAD

The 99th Quartermaster quint won its second straight loop test Thursday and stepped into temporary league leadership with a smashing 44-21 win over Lieut. Charley Applegate's 1st Student Training five. The speedy and fast-passing Q. M. outfit pushed off to a top-heavy 27-11 advantage at intermission and coasted in to victory.

Frost and Cieciorka, the forward duo of the 99th, paced the winners in the scoring column. Cieciorka grabbed top honors with 12 points while his running mate accounted for ten. Although he scored only seven points, Ace Hudspeth played a brilliant floor game for the winners. Casey, with a trio of buckets, was top man for the trainers with six points.

HALL GETS 25 POINTS

Led by Arvid (Ace) Hall, who equalled the post scoring record for the year, the flashy 7th Observation Squadron returned to the win column Thursday with a 48-38 win over a strong 53rd General Hospital team. Hall slashed the nets with 12 field goals and added a foul flip to give him top honors over Tony Byzesky of the medicos who also had an even dozen field goals, but failed to connect in three tries from the charity line.

The individual scoring battle between the star guards of the rival teams completely stole the show from an exciting game. The observers were out in front by 28-13 at intermission, but had to withstand a neat rally by the medicos to win the game. Pete Morgan, with 12 points, also helped in the 7th Observation's scoring.

Captain Fargo Gets Majority

Captain Charles C. Fargo, War Bond officer at the post, has been promoted to the rank of major.

Major Fargo came to Fort Benning in January, 1941, serving for a time as assistant post adjutant. He is a graduate of the Infantry School basic and advanced courses, and the Command and General Staff School, Leavenworth, Kansas. Upon completion of the latter course, he returned to post headquarters, where he was assigned as post war bond officer.

Troops Send Voices Home By Courtesy Of Pepsi-Cola

Hundreds of Fort Benning soldiers are "sending their voices home" through the courtesy of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company. Two recording machines have been made available at the post for troops to record their voices and a message to the folks back home. Then the Pepsi-Cola Company mails the recording back home.

Starting tonight a recording machine is to be available to troops in the Tenth Armored Division between 6 and 10 p. m. A second machine is being taken to various dayrooms so that other troops can take advantage of the free offer.

The recording machines have just completed an assignment at the Harmony Church Area. After the job at the Tenth Armored, the machines will come to the Main Post for the advantage of soldiers there.

Headquarters Message Center Is Clearing House Of Official Papers

Unit Expedites Deliveries To All Points Of Post

"Through M. C."

These are magic words—seen on the exterior of most of the envelopes, papers and circulars that pour into the headquarters of all of the Fort Benning units every day of the week. But they are magic words that mean a lot of hard, exacting work for a staff of seven soldiers and four civilians, currently comprising the staff of the post headquarters message center.

Headed by Tech Sgt. Deumas Bishop, one of the veteran non-commissioned officers at post headquarters, the staff of the message center is charged with the task of receiving, routing and dispatching upwards of 1,000 pieces of mail, orders, circulars and other papers every day.

And because the Army is in a hurry and in no mood for delays, the papers distributed by message center have to go to the right places the first time. Accuracy is half the battle in the message center and speed in dispatching the papers is the other half.

Always an essential part of the system at post headquarters, the message center recently moved to a new wing of the headquarters building and the new quarters have greatly facilitated the efficient operation of the center.

FOCAL POINT

The center serves as a focal point for every organization on the reservation. It is here that all incoming mail for the many divisions of post headquarters arrives twice a day, is quickly opened, sorted and distributed so that immediate action may be taken on important matters. The center also collects and dispatches post headquarters mail three times a day.

The most important function of this "nerve center" of the post, however, is the circulation of the hundred and one official orders, reports, circulars, field manuals and other papers that are so important to the administration of an Army post.

Around the walls of the message center are mail boxes much the same as around the walls of postoffices. Each slot is designated to hold the mail of a certain person or organization. From 8:30 each morning until 6:30 each night, the papers pour into the center, are placed in the correct boxes and go out to the organizations and persons via couriers who make daily trips to the message center, carrying papers back and forth.

BLUE MONDAY

Worst day of the week for the message center staff is Monday, because a weekend of papers more or less accumulates over Sunday, although there is a skeleton staff on duty even on Sunday to dispatch the most important papers for necessary action.

Because the staff is trained to work as a single unit, each day's work is completed by the time 6:30 arrives, but if there was work to do, the enlisted men would work through until everything was "cleaned up," non-commissioned officers of the message center stated Wednesday.

Placing the papers in the correct slot after one quick glance at the address is the secret of quick work in the message center and this knack comes only after long practice. Oldest soldier in point of service in the message center at present is Staff Sgt. Ralph Fournier, who has put in many extra hours nights and on Sundays keeping the flow of papers moving evenly through channels.

Inasmuch as this miniature "postoffice" serves every organization on the huge post, its importance to the post and the urgent need for complete organization in the department is easily recognized.

Major Hamilton Goes To Alabama In New Capacity

Major C. W. Hamilton, area engineer, will leave the post shortly to take over duties as regional deputy director of post engineers, with headquarters in Montgomery, Ala. In this capacity he will be directly under the Division Engineer, Atlanta, Ga.

Replacing Major Hamilton as area engineer will be Capt. James A. Baird, assistant area engineer, who will have under his supervision all major construction work at Fort Benning, Lawson Field, Fort Mitchell, Auburn air field, and Cordele air field. Smaller construction jobs and maintenance is handled by the post engineer.

Several other changes have been announced among area engineer personnel. Major R. G. Shaw has been named post engineer at a newly completed airfield near Courtland, Ga. and Capt. W. W. Wallace, formerly assistant area engineer, has been ordered to school at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Sgt. Joe Louis Barrow is training a boxing team at Ft. Riley, Kan. to compete against other Army post teams. In addition Joe is giving boxing instruction to 500 soldiers a day. The champ says that Army life is keeping him in the pink and that he could enter training for defense of his heavyweight title tomorrow should the war end. "I weigh 215 pounds now," he observed, "and I think that leaves me just the right amount of weight to work off to get into fighting shape."

Sound-

(Continued from Page 1)

post in case of any possible air raid or other attack.

Starting back in 1928 with one truck, the sound section now has 100 fully equipped public address system sets, ranging from small battery equipped units to large sets powered by mobile gasoline driven generators, capable of sending the voice two miles.

The section now is in charge of Captain William A. Myers, who organized it in the fall of 1941 and expanded to its present proportions. It now serves as a pattern for the sound sections of many other Army posts through the country.

VETERAN SOLDIER

Capt. Myers is a native of Pendleton, Ore. He joined the Army in 1916 and entered radio in 1921, later attending the Signal Corps School at Ft. Monmouth, where he graduated in 1925. He then served with the 15th Infantry in China for three years, then at Fort Moultrie, S. C., for seven years, at Ft. Lewis, Washington and in Panama. He came to Rt. Benning in 1940 as a warrant officer and was commissioned in 1942.

Capt. Myers built up the sound section to its present status. Over a period the 86 men of the section have made recordings of musketry fire, machine gun fire, artillery, anti-aircraft, screaming dive bombers, exploding bombs and other sound effects of battle.

These have all been "dubbed on" master records so that all of the sounds of modern warfare can be thrown at an advancing force exactly as though it were facing a live enemy. This affords training in thinking in the face of battle conditions, transmission of orders, and reception of orders which is invaluable. It also accustoms candidates as well as troops to facing the noise of a real fight.

AID TO INSTRUCTORS

The sound trucks also effect another saving since the officer-teachers can send voices over a far larger area, thus cutting down on the number of teachers necessary to put over a lesson and enabling experts to handle much larger classes.

Starting in a small room, no larger than 10 by 10 feet, the section now is housed in two converted barracks just behind the Reproduction plant. In addition, there are three buildings in the Harmony Church area, with 42 of the men working from there. This section is in charge of Technical Sergeant Mile E. Johnson, of Laurel Hill, Fla.

"In the modern quarters are housed store rooms, repair shops, a large battery charging room in charge of Sgt. John Wing, III, of Valley Forge, Pa., and other departments. Six men trained as radio technicians are under direction of Staff Sgt. Emanuel Naiditch, who not only carries on his regular duties but finds time for considerable research.

At present Sgt. Naiditch is at work on developing "midget" loudspeaker systems which will weigh about 15 pounds in comparison to the regular 60 pound sets now in use, use tiny batteries and tiny tubes, thereby effecting considerable saving in construction.

USE STANDARD SET

At present the section utilizes a standard set, recognized as one of the best ever developed, designed by Col. Franklin L. Rash, now serving overseas. Some additions and changes in design have been made by the experts of the section to produce a handy portable unit.

Another bit of research by the organization has developed a method of reproducing sound effects directly into loudspeakers from telephones or radios. These have been in commercial use for a long time but the sound experts at Fort Benning have worked out a method that is much cheaper than anything so far developed.

Serving as assistant to Captain Myers in administering the section is Warrant Officer Arthur W. Bales, of Jacksonville, Fla., who formerly was communications chief for the 124th Infantry Regiment.

Candidate Moses P. Braverman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is now a student at the Infantry Officer Candidate School here as a member of the 3rd Student Training Regiment.

Active in horse-show circles, Candidate Braverman won many ribbons and trophies in Madison Square Garden, where he rode for the Manhattan Riding Club, before entering the Army in July, 1942.

Prior to entering the Army he was chief of the Furniture Section of Region Two for the O.P.A. Before joining the O.P.A. he was employed by a prominent furniture concern in Brooklyn.

Heavy Demand For Trained Office Workers

We have successfully trained thousands.

Let us train you now.

STENOGRAPHY
SECRETARIAL STUDIES BOOKKEEPING*
ACCOUNTING
TOUCH TYPEWRITING

Rates:

$17.50 per month for day students, 9:30 A. M. to 12:30, then 1:30 to 3:30 P. M. five days a week $12.50 per month for the morning or afternoon students, five days a week.

$10.00 per month for evening students, 7 to 9 on Mondays and Thursdays.

The prices include the tuition, use of books and supplies for the course taken.

Our Holidays Are Over.

ENROLL NOW

TRUMAN & SMITH INSTITUTE

1029 Second Avenue
Columbus, Georgia
Phone Dial 2-0914

Free catalog on request.

Inquiries welcomed

For typing only, consult Registrar in office.

Enrollees for February may register now.

Medical Soldiers Travel No 'Easy' Road To Glory And Quick Ratings

Their Reward Consists of Smiles In Exchange For Relief of Pain

"Join the medical department and get yourself a quick and easy rating as a pill-pusher!"

Personnel of the Detachment, Medical Department, Station Hospital, are growing a bit weary of hearing this statement babble forth from the mouths of small minority of narrow minded people who probably utter these words because they are uninformed.

"If getting a 'quick and easy rating' consists of caring for the sick and ailing, the helpless and maimed, the halt and the blind for twenty-four hours a day; if a 'quick' rating comes from laborious study of the complexities of X-ray, laboratory, dental work, physiotherapy, surgery, orthopedics, pharmaceuties, and ward management, okeh then, maybe one may consider it a 'quick and easy' road to stripes, but just suppose you folks come down and try our work out for a while," the medicos retort.

LARGEST IN U. S.

The work of the medical detachment here at Benning, a detachment which is the largest of its kind in the entire nation, is perhaps best epitomized in the words of Major John B. Joyner, the Detachment's commanding officer, in a statement to his command:

"You work while others sleep. The sick and injured are always with us. Your greatest reward is not medals, but it is a sigh of satisfaction when your ministrations have made pain less severe or brought a smile of contentment as the result of kind and encouraging words."

The Detachment, now preparing to celebrate its 25th anniversary, the largest Detachment supplying any hospital in the country, is comprised of hundreds of men doing every type of work imaginable to keep the Station Hospital running with clock-like precision. Many of these men are here solely for training purposes, some come in "green" from farms and factories. Here they learn their work by practical application, and upon leaving many are qualified as 1st Class technicians, skilled in all aspects of hospital management.

The Army realizes that men doing work of this type must have recreation; without it they would be unable to keep up their own morale, much less the morale of the ailing and wounded patients. A medical soldier must be patient and must have the proper spirit or else he is defeated even before he begins.

For this reason the Detachment has a complete recreational program in which all the men may participate. It has three complete day-rooms which offer everything zines, and an ever-increasing collection of the finest in popular and classical selections of recordings. Weekend hours are always filled in with free movies and musical shows by the famed Medico orchestra; these always brighten the lonely evenings and offer opportunities of forming lasting friendships among the constantly changing personnel of the Detachment.

MAJOR J. B. JOYNER

These little things, along with the untiring work, and esprit de corps among the men go hand in hand toward making the 25 years of growth and achievement of the station hospital possible, it is pointed out. The long line of achievements, every one dealing with the rebuilding in spirit and body of broken men, reflects directly on each enlisted man in the Detachment, Medical Department, and to the proficient medical officers of the Hospital itself.

PATERSON, N. J.—(CNS) — "One Jap for a carton of cigarets. Where do you want the bodies sent?" said a post card received by an employee at an industrial plant here. Workers in the plant have been sending smokes to servicemen on all fronts. The query was from Lt. George F. Dennis upon shelves of the latest maga- in the Southwest Pacific area.

CLASSY CLOTHES SHOP

in YOUR service, sir!

With the Finest of

MILITARY UNIFORMS

And Supplies

Member of ARMY EXCHANGE SERVICE

CLASSY CLOTHES SHOP

1035 BROADWAY DIAL 7092

Heir-Raid

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Henry Wood, boy, Jan. 12, 5th Co., 1st Student Training Regiment.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Charles Slope, boy, Jan. 12, Company "B," Academic Regt.

Sgt. and Mrs. Robert W. Berry, girl, Jan. 12, Detachment, Medical Dept., Station Hospital.

Pfc. and Mrs. Merle T. Nelson, boy, Jan. 12, 3402 Ord. M. M. Co.

Pfc. and Mrs. Martin Dubbelde, boy, Jan. 12, Co. "B," 764th Tank Bn.

Capt. and Mrs. W. B. Kovac, boy, Jan. 13, 80th Division, Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

1st Lt. and Mrs. David C. Young, boy, Jan. 13, Dispensary, 1st Student Training Regiment.

Sgt. and Mrs. George W. Sheppard, girl, Jan. 13, Co. "B," I.S.S.C.

Pfc. and Mrs. Walton Massey, girl, Jan. 13, Service Co., 4th Ord.

Capt. and Mrs. Michael Kuziv, boy, Jan. 13, AAA T. C., Camp Stewart, Ga.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Russell L. Childress, boy, Jan. 14, Co. "C," 29th Infantry.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Wilson Lynch, boy, Jan. 14, 13th Co., 1st Student Training Regiment.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Clinton Arnett, boy, Jan. 16, 12th Co., 1st Student Training Regiment.

Pfc. Peter and Mrs. Peter Lombardi, boy, Jan. 15, Co. "B," 124th Infantry.

Sgt. and Mrs. Dorsey E. Cochran, girl, Jan. 17, Co. "L," 29th Infantry.

Tiny—

(Continued from Page 1)

grenade supplanted the rifle as the chief weapon in trench warfare. At critical moments in close fighting a soldier will often prefer a hand grenade which he can throw toward an enemy to a rifle which he must aim at his opponent. The effect of a grenade is greater and more widespread than a rifle shot and has a considerably greater effect on morale.

The little "pineapple" is not a new instrument of war. The word "grenade" comes from the Latin "granatus," meaning "filled with grains" and is closely related to the Spanish word "granada" or "pomegranate," thus indicating the resemblance between the fruit and the grenade first used by the Spanish.

The flares and fire pots thrown by early cave dwellers were the first types of grenades. The Chinese "stink pot," a vial of some foul-smelling liquid, was devised as early as 500 B. C. Ancient warriors in the Far East were also known to have made use of a small box or earthenware jar of live vipers which could be thrown into the enemy camp. Grenades of an unknown substance were used in 250 B. C. by the Romans to combat the elephant charges of Pyrrhus, the King of Epirus, and again for the same purpose in the second Punic War.

USED BY GREEKS

Chemical grenades were used by the Greeks as early as 360 B. C. These were made of incense, sulpher, pitch, and faggots — a virtual incendiary bomb. The Phoenicians produced one of phosphorus, and another type was instigated by the armies of the Caliph of Bagdad. This was a jar of flaming petroleum which was flung at the enemy. Later during the crusades the Sarazens developed a grenade on the same order from naphtha.

However, the first really effective employment of the weapon came in 1536 during the siege of Arles when the first gunpowder grenade was introduced and fostered by a French military engineer, Vauban. By the end of the next century the soldiers of France had produced the means whereby grenades could be fired from their muskets.

In the reign of Louis XIV the first grenadier company was formed. Chosen for it were the best men in the regiment, selected for their courage, service, and ability. The grenadiers wore high bearskin caps to distinguish themselves, and soon their prominence became such that every European country established companies, battalions, and even regiments of grenadiers. The British grenadier regiment even today is the crack outfit of the army and is the honor guard in all parades.

REVIVED BY UNION

At the beginning of the 19th Century, with the introduction of long range guns and greater accuracy of rifles, the grenade fell into disuse. It was revived by the Union army in the war between the states when a concern in New York started manufacturing round cast-iron bombs weighing five pounds.

At the seige of Port Arthur in 1904 during the Russo-Japanese War, the Japanese instituted their first use of grenades. The Russians being unprepared for this type of warfare had to improvise their own. They picked up empty artillery cases from the battlefield, filled them with gun cotton and a fuze, and used them to great advantage. The success obtained by the use of grenades in this engagement led to the invention of many new standard types and their subsequent adoption by many armies.

But prior to World War I, few besides the Germans had any conception of the great use that this weapon was to have in the coming war. This placed the Allies at a great disadvantage during the early stages until their grenades were developed and personnel trained to use them. The German potato masher received the greatest prominence, and today it is still one of the most effective. It consists of a tin cylinder and a long wooden handle which makes it easy to throw.

BRITISH HAIRBRUSH

The British at first were forced to improvise their own grenades on the front line. One of these makeshift types was the "jam tin," a tin can filled with nuts, bolts, screws, rocks, etc., with a fuzed block of TNT. Later a handle was added, and the weapon was called the "hairbrush." It was not long, however, before the famous Mills Bomb was manufactured (and copied by our Army), and today the British have the greatest variety of bombs and grenades.

Every country now produces a wide assortment, usually of three kinds: (1) offensive—light, easy to throw, usually of tin or glass with a chemical filler for harrassing effect; (2) defensive — heavy, shorter range, the fragmentation type, made of cast iron with high explosive filler, designed to kill; and (3) rifle grenade—fired from a launcher from end of rifle and used for anti-personnel and anti-tank work.

Among the most interesting grenades is this third type because it permits a far greater range than the type that must be thrown. The rifle grenade is the successor to a number of earlier grenades that were propelled through the air by means other than hand. Projecting devices based on such ancient weapons as the onager, ballista, sling, and catapult have been known from the earliest antiquity.

THE RIFLE GRENADE

The first rifle grenade was invented by two Frenchmen, Viven and Bessiere, and it was called the V. B. It was adopted by the United States in 1917, but was proven too inaccurate and bulky, and as a result, was shortly discarded. The Japs use a mortar-like object as a projector.

The beauty of grenades is that they are easy to improvise if the supply of regular ones is exhausted. For instance, the "sticky grenade" made by the Tank Destroyer units, which are constructed readily from a block of TNT or other explosive, a fuze, a sock, and some grease to make it stick, to tanks has been used with great effect by the British in Lybia.

Another is the "Molotov Cocktail," which the Romans really invented by filling a bottle with crude oil, but which had its present inception in the Spanish Civil War. This in its simplest form is any bottle filled with gasoline. The "bamboo grenade" constructed by the engineers on Bataan were made by filling bamboo with nails and scrap iron, tapping in some powder, and attaching a fuze, usually a match head.

G. T. KNOWS GRENADE

During the last war most of our soldiers had never seen a grenade until they were handed one in the trenched of France and told to use it. Happily, that experience will not be repeated this war. Every soldier learns not only to throw the hand grenade at every conceivable target, but also how it is made and of what materials. He will not make the mistake of pulling the pin at the wrong time or of holding the grenade too long.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion service 8:30 a. m. Men's Bible class 9:30 a. m. Sunday school in the Children's school 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "I Am Alpha and Omega"—Stainer. Sermon: "By W. M. Boyce. Offertory: Sole-Selected—Lt. E. Reeves. Christian League 5:30 p. m. under the direction of Chaplain Frederick W. Heifer. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Alfred L. Pollock.

29th Infantry: Bible study 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplains Archie D. Clark and Edgar L. Storey.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Fellowship hour 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Frederick S. Zeller.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st R. T. R. and Acad. Regt., Morning services at 9:30 a. m. Chaplain Glenn S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large Day Room for the Det. Med. Dept. 9:30 a. m. Alto Colored Med. Det. service in colored Day Room at 9:30 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. 10 a. m. Chaplains T. G. Proctor and Walter H. Shine.

Reception Center: Chapel No. 3, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m.

Lawson Field: Chapel No. 2, Men's Bible study 10 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers 6:30 p. m. Song service Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Floyd S. Smith.

24th General Hospital: New Mess Hall. Sunday morning worship service 9:30 a. m. Vespers Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. (in nurses' recreation hall). Chaplain Archie C. Carroway.

19th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Choir rehearsal 10 a. m. Wednesday evening worship 7 p. m. Chaplain Edward L. Young.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1. Morning worship 11:30 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and Clarence R. Ritchie.

2nd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m., Chapel No. 4, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Edwin C. Wilson.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 5. Holy Communion — Episcopal 8 a. m. Regimental services at 11 a. m. Chaplain Russell D. Laycock. Protestant Service in 5th Bn., at 11 a. m. (Bldg. B-25). Chaplain A. B. Billman. Colored service 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9:00 a. m. in the 563rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10:00 a. m. in the 31st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Service area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2, Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m.; and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m., 10:30 a. m. (colored troops) and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5201, located on the 5th Division Road and Custer's Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m.; and 9:30 a. m., and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment; Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area; Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

11th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3, Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Friday: Sacred Heart Devotion will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, All Lawson Field organizations, and the 506th, 506th and 507th Parachute Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30, at the Children's School, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road. A five-voice choir of officers and enlisted men chant the services. A lively discussion concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd Student Training Regiment and the Student Training Brigade: Every Sunday morning, at 9:00 o'clock, in War Dept. Theatre No. 9, (Building B-46), 8th Division Road.

For men of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 766th Tank Battalion, 601st and 602nd Field Artillery: Every Sunday morning at 10:30 in Building B-7. A lively forum on an important Jewish topic follows the service.

For men of the 10th Armored Division: Every Monday evening, at 7:30, in Chapel No. 4, Sergeant Abe Millman will act as cantor.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

Jan. 21

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:15 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL

8:00 P. M.—"The Victory Quiz"—WRBL

9:30 P. M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS

10:00 P. M.—"The First Line"—WRBL

Jan. 22

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:15 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL

7:15 P. M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL

Jan. 23

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

7:30 P. M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL

10:15 P. M.—"Soldier with Wings"—WRBL

Jan. 24

3:30 P. M.—"The Army Hour"—NBC

6:30 P. M.—Sergeant Gene Autry—WRBL

7:00 P. M.—"Commandos"—CBS

10:30 P. M. "Report to the Nation"—CBS

Jan. 25

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:15 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL

7:15 P.M.—Orson Welles—CBS

8:00 P. M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—Variety Show, featuring the 124th Infantry Band—WRBL

10:30 P. M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

Jan. 26

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:15 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL

7:30 P. M.—"It Happened in the Service"—WRBL

8:05 P. M.—Reception Center Broadcast—WRBL

Jan. 27

7:00 A. M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P. M.—"Fort Benning on the Air"—WRBL

6:15 P. M.—Variety Show—WRBL

7:45 P. M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL

9:30 P. M.—Sammy Kaye—BLU

10:30 P. M.—"The Man Behind the Gun"—WRBL

Movies

Main Theatre and No. 2

Jan. 21-22—THE POWERS GIRL—George Murphy and Anne Shirley.

Jan. 23 — TWO-FISTED JUSTICE — The Range Busters.

OVER MY DEAD BODY—Milton Berle and Mary Beth Hughes.

Jan. 24-25—ANDY HARDY'S DOUBLE LIFE—Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone.

Jan. 26—CITY WITHOUT MEN—Linda Darnell and Glenda Farrell.

Jan. 27—SHADOW OF A DOUBT—Teresa Wright and Joseph Cotton.

Theatres 2 and 3

Jan. 21 — COMMANDOS STRIKE AT DAWN—Paul Muni and Lillian Gish.

Jan. 22—TWO-FISTED JUSTICE—The Range Busters.

OVER MY DEAD BODY—Milton Berle and Mary Beth Hughes.

Jan. 23—DR. GILLESPIE'S NEW ASSISTANT—Lionel Barrymore.

Jan. 24-25—THE POWERS GIRL—George Murphy and Ann Shirley.

Jan. 26—SHADOW OF A DOUBT—Teresa Wright and Joseph Cotton.

Jan. 27—ANDY HARDY'S DOUBLE LIFE —Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone.

Theatres 4 and 5

Jan. 21—DR. GILLESPIE'S NEW ASSISTANT—Lionel Barrymore.

Jan. 22-23—COMMANDOS STRIKE AT DAWN—Paul Muni and Lillian Gish.

Jan. 24—SHADOW OF A DOUBT—Teresa Wright and Joseph Cotton.

Jan. 25 — TWO-FISTED JUSTICE — The Range Busters.

OVER MY DEAD BODY—Milton Berle and Mary Beth Hughes.

Jan. 26-27—THE POWERS GIRL—George Murphy and Anne Shirley.

Theatres 6 and 7

Jan. 21-22 — CASABLANCA — Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman.

Jan. 23—SHADOW OF A DOUBT—Teresa Wright and Joseph Cotton.

Jan. 24-25—COMMANDOS STRIKE AT DAWN—Paul Muni and Lillian Gish.

Jan. 26 — TWO-FISTED JUSTICE — The Range Busters.

OVER MY DEAD BODY—Milton Berle and Mary Beth Hughes.

Noted Artist Sketches Cartoons of O. C. Life

'Mickey' Bach Rated Among Leaders Of Sports Cartooning

Last week the BAYONET introduced to its readers O. C. Mel Casson as one of its eminent cartoon contributors. This week we are presenting Lt. Michael "Mickey" Bach, assistant public relations officer of the Third Student Training Regiment, who has been sketching for this paper the rib-tickling cartoons dealing with officer candidate life on the reservation.

Before coming into the Army Lt. Bach was sports cartoonist for the Minneapolis Star-Journal and is considered one of the foremost cartoonists of the nation. The fact that he is included in "Who's Who" is some evidence of his national reputation.

The artist holds a baccalaureate and post-graduate degree from the University of Wisconsin. After graduation he was illustrator for a widely-known advertising agency in Wisconsin.

For seven years he was associated with the Minneapolis Star-Journal, and during the last New York World's Fair submitted a cartoon which ranked among the first five in a poppularity poll.

MEXICAN CELEBRITIES

While with the Minneapolis paper, Lt. Bach covered the spring training activities of the Minneapolis Millers in Texas. In the course of one of these assignments, he crossed the border into Mexico where he made bust sketches of high-ranking Mexican officials for publication. These sketches were similar to the artistic portraits he did for the BAYONET with Major General Leven C. Allen, commandant of the Infantry School; Brig. General G. H. Weems, assistant commandant; Colonel H. P. Perrine, executive officer; and Col. Robert H. Lord, commanding officer of the Third Student Training Regiment, as subjects. These sketches were recently very highly complimented by Norman Rockwell, the noted illustrator, during his visit to Fort Benning.

After his induction into the Army Lt. Bach was engaged in public relations work at Camp Roberts, Calif., but was given an honorable discharge along with other men past 28 years of age when the Army determined to make such a move.

WITH CHICAGO SUN

Bach went back to his job in Minnesota, later joining the staff of the Chicago Sun when it was founded by Marshall Field. However, eight weeks later he was recalled by the Army, and in January 1942 was sent to Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., where he served with an Intelligence platoon. He was engaged in preparing charts and sketches for orientation lectures and topographical sketches for the Intelligence until appointed to officer candidate school at Fort Benning last June. He graduated in September and was immediately assigned to his present duties with the Third Student Trainng Regiment.

Women's Activities

Current Events—Monday, Jan. 25, 2 p. m. Ladies Lounge. Colonel Reginald H. Kelley will continue his discussion on World War II.

—V—

Bridge—Tuesday, Jan. 26, 2 p. m. Ladies Lounge.

—V—

Music—Wednesday, Jan. 27, 2 p. m. Ladies Lounge.

—V—

Practical Home Making—Thursday, Jan. 28, 2:30 p. m. Ladies Lounge. Mrs. Thomas H. Flippo will demonstrate how to fit and finish slip covers.

—V—

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday, 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. John Jeter; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. Wm. Huffstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes.

Sewing and knitting—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Tuesday and Thursday. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. Paul Newgarden; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

—V—

Package Wrapping—The Red Cross will continue to maintain package wrapping service for military personnel not having families on the post or in Columbus, 9 a. m. to 12 noon, daily except Saturday.

WARM SWEAT SHIRTS

FLEECE LINED, HEAVY KNIT, GREY SWEAT SHIRTS. ALL COTTON, CREW NECK, KNIT CUFFS AND WAIST.

Extra heavy weight, fleece lined at a sale price of 99c

Heavy weight, fleece lined. While they last at 81c

SATURDAY STORE HOURS OPEN 10 A. M.—CLOSE 8 P. M.

Montgomery Ward

12TH AND BROADWAY DIAL 7761

Hello...

I'm "Coca-Cola" known, too, as "Coke"

I speak for "Coca-Cola". I'm a symbol of its life and sparkle. I'm known, too, as "Coke". It's short for "Coca-Cola". I offer you the pause that refreshes. I speak for the real thing... the soft drink with the distinctive quality of delicious refreshment... the drink with the trade-mark "Coca-Cola".

P. S.

Everybody likes to shorten words. You hear "Coke"... the friendly abbreviation for the trade-mark "Coca-Cola" ...on every hand.

Drink Coca-Cola TRADE-MARK Delicious and Refreshing

5¢

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Mess Rated 'Excellent'

Cigarettes, Money Given Personnel

As a reward for having had the best mess hall in the First Battalion, First Student Training Regiment, during the past month, Mess Hall No. 1 has been presented with an "E" for excellence and each member of the personnel received a carton of cigarettes and a five-dollar bill.

The award is made on the basis of daily inspections, including kitchen, pantry, dining room, general police of the mess hall inside and out, and neatness and cleanliness of personnel.

Presentation of all awards are made by Lt. Col. Wilfred Jackson, battalion commander, in a ceremony which is described as being "almost as impressive as a West Point graduation."

Military snap and precision mark the ceremonies, carrying out Col. Jackson's idea that cooks, table waiters, and kitchen police should not forget that they are first and always soldiers.

The excellent reputation of the First Battalion Mess among student and faculty officers alike is a tribute to the wholesome spirit of friendly rivalry between the members of all mess halls under the sponsorship and guidance of 1st Lt. Jack C. Vaughan, mess officer, and 1st Lt. George J. Crump, assistant mess officer. The idea may well be carried back to many Army posts throughout the country as student officers return to their own units on the completion of their courses here, TIS officers declared.

Mess Hall No. 1 is under the supervision of Staff Sgt. Deas, and has the following members: cooks: T IV Hallum, T V Law, T V Allen. Pfcs. Toppin, Wilson L., White, and Pvt. Washington; waiters: Pfcs. Clark, Bullock, Livingston, and Pvts. Johnson, Bryant, James, Griffin, Richardson, Smith, Thompson D., Wilson H., and McKinney; kitchen police: Pfcs. Brewer and Green, and Pvts. Gay and Sullivan.

O. C. Schools Supply Third Of Army Officers

Heralding the Army's democratic system of Officer Candidate Schools, which commissions soldiers after service in the ranks, the War Department reveals that about one-third of the officers in the Army now are graduates of O. C. S. such as Benning's Infantry School.

The largest proportion of officers commissioned through Officer Candidate Schools, the War Department said, have received their gold bars within the last six months.

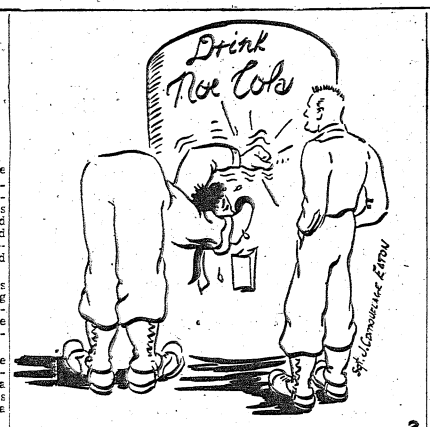
Almost one half of the total officer strength of the Army today came from the National Guard and organized reserves. Up to the end of 1942, 13,561 recent graduates of O. C. S. had received promotions from the initial grade of second lieutenant. Of these, 12,156 are now first lieutenants, 397 are captains, seven are majors, and one is a lieutenant colonel.

10th Armored Men Military Maids Enjoy Dance

One hundred and fifty officers and men of the 10th Armored Division's Headquarters Company played hosts to the Columbus Military Maids at a dance held at the Georgia Service Power Company Hall Thursday evening.

A dual celebration was in order. The company members presented Mrs. Hugh Roberts, head of the Military Maids, with a gift celebrating her birthday. The occasion also honored the basketball team who won their opening game 43 to 18 in the Cusseta League on Wednesday.

Chaperons for the evening were Mrs. Hugh Roberts, Mrs. J. G. Strickland, Miss Waver Colbert, Mrs. Winifred H. Baker, Miss Thelma Mann and Mrs. Eleanor Reidelsheimer.



Capt. C. F. Meinzinger and Lts. Steve Lang, Charles Craig and Russell Lombardy of Headquarters Company were present.

Music was furnished by the 11th Armored Regiment's dance orchestra.

An allowance for a wife and child under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942 is to your C. O. and get an official application form; fill it out and return it to him. Your C. O. will send the original copy of the application to the department concerned, where it is reviewed and investigated and either approved or disapproved. You will be notified promptly when your application has been received in Washington and again when it has been approved or disapproved.

Radios Win Battles
We'll keep your radio working . . . for the sake of our fighting men!
L. J. RADIO REPAIR SERVICE
2601 Cusseta Rd. Dial 7572

LOSE SOMETHING SGT. McDONALD?

Max Sends Margie Hart Message of Condolence

Judging by the stuff we read these days, about everything has happened to Margie Hart, the burlesque strip-teaser, who has been laid up in Kansas City with a burn leg from a downstairs fall.

About now, another thing is happening—she's getting a letter from a dog.

The dog is Max, the jumping, parachuting mascot of the 505th Parachute Infantry, who, among things broken, has also a mangled leg, the result of having been hit by a 2 1-2 ton truck.

THE LETTER

"Dear Margie Hart:

"As one broken legged convalescent to another, I want to let you know I sympathize in every way.

"You fell downstairs, but me—I have made eight successful parachute jumps with my outfit, the 505th Parachute Infantry, then walked across the road and was smacked in the region of most of your charms by a truck. I finished up looking more like an accordion than a dog.

"I am writing to you to tell you that they have published my picture so much in the regimental newspaper, I think the readers should have some relief. Therefore, would you please send me a photo of yourself, so I can give it to the editor.

"One broken leg is very like another, I hear, but I somehow feel that the boys would find yours more interesting for a change.

"Please,

Sgt. MAX, Mascot
505th Parachute Inf.
Fort Benning, Ga.

"PS: In case you have a picture taken BEFORE your leg was broken, send it.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Veterinaries attending the big dog claim this letter is evidence that he's on the road to recovery.

Or, at least, it means his "social" secretary, self-appointed Staff Sgt. Harry E. Anderson, of Portland, Ore., is reacting normally.

Meanwhile Max is making the editorial page of the nation's press. The following was clipped from a Spartanburg, S. C., paper:

"Throw physic to the dogs: I'll have none of it," said Macbeth. Well that is what the Army doctors and surgeans are doing to Max at Fort Benning.

"Max is the famous canine parratrooper of the 505th Parachute Infantry who, after making eight successful jumps from planes, ran afoul of a 2 1-2 ton truck and suffered a fractured skull and a broken jaw. It looked like "taps" for Max, but Army surgeons came to his rescue, and, though he has lost 20 pounds, he is recuperating and may live to go up in planes and perhaps to continue jumping from them.

"The story of Max's misfortune made the headlines of the press, and from all sections of the country came messages of sympathy. Surgeons made suggestions. Artists offered to paint his picture. Men, women and children were interested and even other dogs sent messages of condolence through their masters and mistresses.

"That all goes to prove the great affection men feel for dogs. It is because men know that dogs possess a loyalty greater than they. Men know that dogs are truthful, brave, trustworthy. That is why some woman said "the more I know of men the better I like dogs."

"Max is as famous as a Hollywood actor and his fan mail is so large that a staff sergeant at Fort Benning has volunteered to act as his corresponding secretary. Max is not eating of the crumbs that fall from his master's table, nor will he do so if he recovers. The "fat of the land" will be none too good for him."

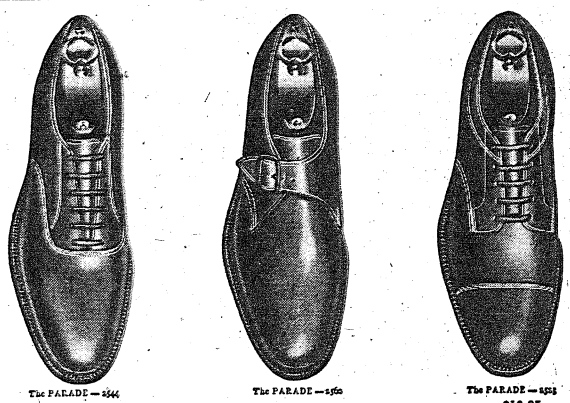
WE STILL REPAIR WATCHES
KROGLAND'S CLOCK SHOP
1142 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

10th Armored Promotes 25

Eleven first lieutenants have been promoted to the rank of captain and fourteen new first lieutenants have been appointed in the Tenth Armored Division.

The new captains are: William J. Daly, Thomas J. Hickerson, Jr., Richard J. Wolfrom and Robert B. Strickler of the 420th Field Artillery Battalion; David Shepherd and Fred H. Bryan of the 11th Regiment; Brady J. Dayton, Jr., of the 54th Infantry; Harvey L. Chenault of the Maintenance Battalion; James W. Turnbull of Division Trains; John H. Culp of the 150th Signal Company and Lawrence A. Crossman of the 55th Engineers.

The new first lieutenants are: Elihu B. Braunstein, Donald G. Brown and Theodore Fligstein of the 419th Field Artillery; Kenneth W. Burgess, George A. Burson, Jr., Lester E. O'Riley, Walter Peters, and Frank B. Smith of the 11th Regiment; Bruce R. Handeyside of the 420th Field Artillery; Fortunate A. Lagana, Leslie J. Main and Henry W. Johnson of the 54th Infantry and Richard R. Bright of the Maintenance Battalion.



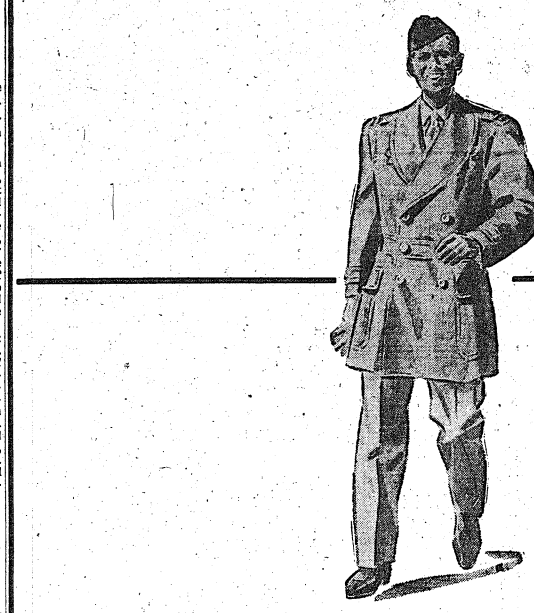
New Headquarters Annex To House Civilian Personnel

In order to consolidate further the functions of post headquarters, a new addition is being constructed to present quarters to house the civilian personnel branch, Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general, has announced.

The new addition is being added to the recently constructed wing across from the Catholic Chapel on Sigerfoos street and will be 98 by 51 feet. Work is being rushed under the direction of Post Engineer, Colonel Albert W. Bain.

The civilian personnel branch is under the direction of Lt. Raymond A. Parkins and administers the work of the several thousand civilian employes of the station complement. There are about 70 employes in the administrative branch.

The entire headquarters building is undergoing changes and when completed practically every office will have been changed to meet the expanding requirements caused by the growth of the post.



Nunn-Bush
Ankle fashioned Oxfords

The definite military trend in masculine shoe style is reflected in these three new models by Nunn-Bush. Sturdy, smart, and made with heavy oiled soles, they can "take it". Their smartness will endure because they're Ankle-Fashioned For civilian and military wear!

Other Nunn-Bush Shoes 10.00 to 13.50

Chancellor Co
"Columbus' Finest Men's Store For 70 Years"
1108 BROADWAY
DIAL 8819 DIAL 8819
Edgerton Shoes 6.50 to 8.50

THE RIGHT UNIFORM
Talks for Itself

When the mighty Fort Benning of today was first laid out twenty-three years ago, we put in our first line of uniforms for Army Officers. Then, even as today our creed was and still is, "Stamina, Comfort and Fit."

Our fabrics are clean-cut with a world of fight in them against the ravages of war and time. You'll find them tailored for true comfort, which is certainly an important point these days.

The above furnishings especially laid out for Army Officers are found on our first floor. Open evenings until 9:00.

Chancellor's
"Columbus' Finest Men's Store For 70 Years"
1108 BROADWAY
DIAL 8819 DIAL 8819

Fear, Anger, Self-Sacrifice Were Reactions to Jap Attack

Wounded Direct Stretcher-Bearers To Injured Comrades

Fear, followed in turn by anger and a "don't give a damn" attitude plus a spirit of self sacrifice on the part of Americans were the conflicting emotions greeting the treacherous Jap attack on Pearl Harbor, according to one eye-witness' account.

Candidate Lester J. Bridy of Second Company, Second Student Training Regiment, who was stationed at Hickam Field from Nov. 10, 1941, until last September, declares that he along with his companions in arms were first scared, then mad, and coolly nonchalant when the Nipponese came over Pearl Harbor.

As for the wounded, O. C. Bridy said that it was surprising how the former reacted.

"They told the stretcher-bearers to work on the other men first. I never saw anything like it—every body wanted the other guy to be helped first."

The barracks at Hickam were under construction when he arrived there.

"I saw 'em go up and I watched 'em come down," Bridy says.

WAS IN BARRACKS

"I was in the barracks when the Japs came over," he relates. "A lot of the boys were out taking a last smoke before going in to work. We weren't allowed to smoke within 50 feet of the hangars, and the men were on the field. The first warning they had was the sound of bombs hitting the buildings. They didn't even know planes were around until then.

"When those of us in the barracks heard the noise we looked out of the windows. When we saw what was happening we streaked for the supply room, grabbing our rifles on the way. We brone open boxes of ammunition and scooped out handfuls. Some of them went back to the barracks and started firing through the windows at the Japs while the rest of us began blazing away from the parade ground. The noise was terrific.

TOO CLOSE FOR COMFORT

"After a while the Jap strafing was coming too close, and we started for the barracks, to fire from there. When I was almost to the door, the kid in front of me fell over dead and the boy on my left was wounded. The concussion of a bomb knocked my rifle right out of my hands and threw me through the door into the barracks. It felt like my insides were going to explode. While I was getting up a sergeant standing near me fell over. A bullet came in through the wall, penetrated two partitions and got him."

Bridy said he wants to finish the course here, get a few months' training in the States, and then go back to the Pacific theatre.

"I knew those boys. I lived with most of them for two years, and I saw many of them die. I feel I got a crack at the Japs coming."

Author Of One Of Best 1940 Plays Is With Academic Regiment

Author of 30 one-act plays and several three-act plays, Pfc. Robert Finch now is a member of Company B, Academic Regiment.

In 1940 one of his plays, "Summer Comes to the Diamond O" was included in a published volume of the ten best plays of the year.

Private Finch has been a free lance writer and in 1940-41 was granted a $1,000 Rockerfeller fellowship at the University of North Carolina. There he wrote a book "Survey of Drama in North Carolina," which was published with a foreword by Archibald Henderson, official biographer of George Bernard Shaw. He also taught radio playwriting while at Chapel Hill.

Besides writing, he has had several minor parts in productions starring such personages of the stage as Eva LeGallienne, Helen Vinson and Preston Foster. In 1935 he was stage manager for the production "The Lord Blesses the Bishop." He has also had parts in the "March of Time" broadcast.

Soldiers Urged To Use AER

ODB Struggles Under Terrific Burden

With increased burdens placed on the still uncompleted organization of the Office of Dependency Benefits, there are "unavoidable delays in processing applications for family allowances and allotments and in dispatching of checks," the War Department warned today in a memorandum sent to officials at Fort Benning.

"This is a matter of grave concern to the War Department and every effort must be made to avoid hardships resulting to families of enlisted men because of delays in the receipt of checks," the memorandum said. "Pending the completion of the organization of the Office of Dependency Benefits, which has recently been created at Newark, N. J., there will be unavoidable delays in processing applications for family allowances and allotments and in dispatching of checks.

"In many instances delays are attributable to failure on the part of enlisted men to submit promptly or sign properly the necessary papers for family allowances or Class "E" allotments. This occurs frequently when persons are ordered overseas or to unknown destinations."

The memorandum urged that all personnel be advised that the Army Emergency Relief "is ready and should be utilized to carry families of enlisted men through any period of financial embarrassment that may ensue while they are awaiting receipt of checks." It also urged that every effort should be made to utilize services of the AER as necessary.

Lt. John J. A. Lyons, Jr., is AER officer at Post Headquarters.

During wartime a serviceman can't doff his uniform for any public occasion. It's on for the duration.

Enlisted Men Are Eligible For West Point Nomination

Enlisted men of the Army of the United States are offered for the first time opportunity for appointment to the United States Military Academy, according to an announcement received at Fort Benning.

One hundred and eighty appointments from the enlisted ranks are authorized. Previously the policy had been to select these from the Regular Army or the National Guard. Under the new interpretation, any member of any branch may be considered.

For the next class, which begins July 1st, commanding generals of service commands, departments and theaters have been allotted quotas for the 90 vacancies which now exist. Entrance examinations will be given March 2 of this year, and two alternates chosen, in addition to the principal candidate. Final selection will be based on standing at the end of all tests.

To be eligible for application, an enlisted man must be between the ages of 19 and 22, not exceeding the latter on July 1, 1943. The onl yother requirement is that the individual complete one year's service by July 1, 1943. Applications will be made directly to immediate commanding officers.

The highest medal awarded by the Government is the Congressional Medal of Honor. It is given to an officer or enlisted man "who in action involving actual conflict with an enemy distinguished himself conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life and beyond the call of duty." It is worn at the deck, the ribbon on the inside of the collar of the coat and of sufficient length that the medal hangs at the point of opening of the coat. All other decorations are worn on the left breast, arranged in accordance with their rank.

Colonel Vida To Command New Regiment

Truck Outfit's Leader Holder Of 8 Decorations

The military record of Colonel Frank J. Vida, Commanding Officer of the newly activated Provisional Truck Regiment, covers such a span of activity and achievement that every member of his organization may find inspiration in learning of the exploits of this Regular Army Infantry officer, his colleagues declare.

This career had its beginning in June 1916, when the army enlisted Private Frank J. Vida, of New York City. Soon after entering the service he was sent to the Mexican border where he received his initial experience with our troops.

Going abroad in 1918, as a member of the famous 27th Division, this soldier, who had advanced to the grade of first sergeant, participated in one big major campaign after another. He was commissioned in October 1918. He was in the thick of the battle during the Somme offensive, the struggle of Ypres-Lye, and other defensive sector. One of his greatest feats was recorded while fighting in the Siegfried section of the Hindenburg Line. Making an attack on this great fortification, his superior company officers were killed and he was painfully wounded. Ignoring medical attention, he took command of his company and held the gains until, with another company, his group had captured a vital portion of this German defensive marvel.

OBSERVER

Later assignments sent him to the Western Front, where, working with the British Government, he was an observer with the King's Own Rifles and the 12th Essex.

As evidence of his close contact with the enemy, Colonel Vida was wounded twice, gassed, and at one time the War Department reported him as killed in action.

Returning to the States, he spent three years at military posts in Puerto Rico and Panama, and it was at the latter station that he met and married Miss Betty C. Conner, daughter of Major General Fox Conner, Operations Officer for General John J. Pershing during the First World War. Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower, then a captain, was among those prosent at the wedding.

Colonel Vida's first contact with Fort Benning came when, after graduating from the Tank school, he served with the old 15th Tank Battalion during the years 1927 to 1931. While here he graduated from the Infantry School Company Officers' course. Moving to Alaska for a three-year tour of duty, Colonel Vida, at the expiration of that time was sent to the Command and General Staff school, from which he was graduated in 1938.

BACK TO BENNING

Another stay at Fort Benning, this time with the First Division, led to his appointment as Chief of the Operations Group, of the Automotive Section, the Infantry school.

With the activation of the Provisional Truck Regiment, on December 18, 1942, Colonel Vida was placed in command and started his new duties with the same spirit that has won for him the American DSC, the British DCM, the French Croixe de Guerre with the Gold Star, the Purple Heart with the Oak Leaf Cluster, the Mexican Border Service Medal, the Wolr War Medal with Battle Clasps, the present Defense Medal, and the Conspicuous Service Cross, awarded by the State of New York.

Living with Colonel Vida at Fort Benning, at the present time, are his wife, three daughters, Pauline, Virginia and Beatrice, and one son, Fox.

Pvt. James Thomason, noted football official for the last 12 years, has been inducted into the Army and is now stationed at Camp Crowder, Mo. This year Thomason officated the Alabama-Georgia Tech, Duke-Wake Forest, Auburn - Tulane and Auburn - Georgia Tech games. He was scheduled to referee the New Year's Day Orange Bowl game between Boston College and Alabama, but Uncle Sam said, "No."

The fortunes of war have reunited two former Vanderbilt University grid stars at the Army Air Base, Smyrna, Tenn. Lt. Carl Hinkle and Cpl. Sam Agee played together on the 1934 and '37 Vanderbilt teams. Hinkle was All-American in 1937.

John Harris Directs Show For TIS Unit

When men of the Sixth Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School were granted permission to stage a company show and party recently, the tactical officers were surprised at the rapid fashion in which the performance took form and substance.

Upon checking up they discovered that the man who had been placed in charge was, until he enlisted last July, a well known figure in show business and, in fact, a producer in his own right. Here he is known as Candidate John H. Pritchard, but back in California and throughout the world of showdom he is better known as John D. Harris, "the Smiling Troubadour."

Candidate Pritchard, or Johnnie Harris, is working harder than ever before and for less money because he and his mates in the Sixth Company are being trained as officers for America's ever-growing Army. In February, if all goes well, "the Smiling Troubadour" will be wearing the gold bars of a second lieutenant.

Although he is only 25, Pritchard has been in show business for 14 years. He was practically borne into it, for his mother was a well known operatic singer, Maria Lagasa. At the age of 11 he was billed as a child master of ceremonies. Since then he has explored just about every corner of the show world—moving pictures, radio, orchestra leader, singer, instrumental soloist and producer.

PRODUCED SHOWS

For the last year before he donned Uncle Sam's khaki, Pritchard produce and staged entertainments at Army camps on the West Coast for Camp Shows, Inc. After looking at thousands of soldiers night after night, he came to the conclusion that he belonged on the other side of the footlights. He got the uniform all right, but upon being sent to Camp Carson, Colo., for basic training he was almost immediately made assistant to the 89th Division's service officer with the result that he soldiered all day and was showman half the night, being called on to assist in arranging various types of camp entertainments at Carson and nearby camps.

However, since being assigned to the School for Officer Candidates, Pritchard's life is just about 100 per cent military. Like most of the other picked men who are sent to the OC school, he has quickly become proficient in the use of the many weapons and tactics of the Infantry soldier.

Pritchard is a graduate of Canoga Park High School, Canoga Park, Calif., and he attended the University of California for two years, picking the courses he wanted and that would best help him in his chosen calling. Upon leaving college he went with Universal Pictures and later to Paramount. In the production "I Wanted Wings" he directed the orchestra. He played the juvenile lead in "The Son of Monte Cristo" and to further prove his versatility he handled a singing part in "South of the Border." Sandwiched in with his other duties, Pritchard found time to serve as program director for Radio Station XEMO, San Diego, so the Army routine of daylight till dark puts no new strain on his nervous system.

Garrison Library Resumes Services

Fort Benning's Garrison library has resumed operation and is open daily from 10 a. m. to 10 p.m.

None of its 6,000 books were seriously damaged in the recent fire, and many new titles have been added since the reading rooms were closed. Included in this group are some of the current best's in fiction and non-fiction such as "Seventh Cross" "One Destiny", "Three Bamboos" a story on Japan, "Morgan and His Raiders", and Cornelia Otis Skinner's "When We Were Young and Gay".

Current newspapers and approximately 50 magazines are also received regularly by the library.

Anti-Vice Pledge Renewed At Post

Solicitor, Police Confer With Benning Officials

Fort Benning authorities seeking a curb on vice in this area today had the assurance of Solicitor-General Ed Wohlwender, Jr., that Columbus and Muscogee county officers are sincere in a determination to rout those agencies that have most encouraged prostitution.

Accompanied by John G. Newberry, chief of Columbus police, and J. W. Satterfield, Muscogee county police chief, he conferred Tuesday with Maj. James A. Loveless, medical inspector and venereal control officer, and Col. William Denton, station surgeon.

"The Benning officers promised cooperation and all available facilities at the Fort," reported Capt. Russell J. Hammargren, public relations official.

They also extended appreciation of Brig. Gen. Walter Scott Fulton, post commanding general, for efforts of the Columbus authorities to suppress prostitution.

A resolution expressing satisfaction in the firm stand taken by Judge T. Hicks Fort and Solicitor General Wohlwender, Jr., in connection with the vice conditions in Columbus was passed at a regular meeting of the Baptist ministers Monday.

The ministers pledged their full cooperation in the "clean-up" campaign.

Fencing Classes Start At Downtown USO Club

Fencing classes started last night at the Ninth Street USO Club under direction of Cpl. Bert Briston, who is stationed at Fort Benning.

Corporal Bristol has been active in eastern college fencing circles and in previous years has been a recipient of the Eastern Intercollegiate Fencing Conference medal.

Civilians and soldiers are invited to attend the fencing classes which will be held back stage from 7:30 to 9 p. m. every Wednesday night at the USO Club, 100 Ninth street.

We are determined that before the sun sets on this terrible struggle, Our Flag will be recognized throughout the World as a symbol of Freedom on the one hand and of Overwhelming Power on the other.

GEORGE C. MARSHALL,
Chief of Staff.

O. C. Proves Archaeology Can Provide the Thrills

Officer Candidate School being the kind of catch-all it is, you'd expect almost every sort of guy to show his hand and eventually he does. Not a glassblower, perhaps, or a seal-tamer, but anything within reason.

Even at O. C. S., though, you just can't blink off an archeologist. That's right, the word was archeologist. He's John Corbett, and his gigs (just one or two so far; it's only fair to say) are posted over in the 23rd Company, Third Student Training Regiment. He takes a large-size foxhole, being six four, and has a sort of chow capacity you'd expect. He's parked archeology for the duration and it wasn't too easy to wrangle his story from him.

He talks about digging down into some ancient civilization as another man might talk about cutting a die or assembling an engine. He's a scientist, which means being a careful workman, but his work has taken him to corners of the Americas that most people have heard about only from the Sunday supplements.

3 COLLEGES

Corbett has Princeton, the University of Southern California, and Columbia behind him, but he's willing to forget it if you are. He's never had any doubts about what he wanted to do. When he was asked the inevitable question at the age of twelve or so, he never mumbled "a subway conductor; no, I mean a motorcycle cop," but piped up brightly, "an archeologist, sir."

The youngster stuck to his guns and you might say that he's made the grade. A job of work he likes to recall is a trip into northwestern Ecuador for the Ecuadorean Government. Seems they suspected a fellow up there of plackerming an important archeological site and socking away practically priceless ancient relics and whatnot. Corbett and a colleague were commissioned to investigate and their wives insisted on going along.

BARES FRAUD

They're building a road and an airport in that part of the country now, but at that time it was pure jungle and the party had to get there by canoe and packhorse. The area was so inaccessible that a two-bit Emperor Jones was running things just about as he pleased. To get to the main point, Corbett put the finagger on the phoney miner and rescued some important museum pieces which are now on display in Ecuador's museums. If you should ever get down that way, be sure to drop in and see them.

John has uncovered timeless secrets in Mexico, Guatamala, Peru and New Mexico. He has worked with such famous institutions as The School of American Research and The Institute of Andean Culture. His work has had its own special thrills, like the time he uncovered an Inca room centuries old, with the hair of the last user clinging to it, still in perfect condition. Wherever he's sent in this war, he'll be at ease in his surroundings. Having lived for days on a diet of Iguana lizard (you guessed it; it tastes like chicken) he'll make out on any kind of rations. And a bird who's been pointed out as a crazy Gringo to native school children by their teachers isn't apt to be thrown off base by Icelanders, wild Borneans or what have you.

Oh, yes; Corbett is from New York when he isn't prowling around in out-of-the-way places checking up on the long dead. Next to helping the boys with their map-reading troubles, Long John would rather talk about his four-month-old daughter than anything else. The poor kid doesn't know it, but she's already slated to be an archeologist.

47 Enlisted Men Advanced

Fourteen enlisted men in the 10th Armored Division's 11th Regiment have been promoted, it is announced. The men are:

To be master sergeant, Pierre Carriere.

To be staff sergeants, James Sprinkle and Carl Kranjec.

To be sergeants, James Menetrey, Arthur Melin, Herman Pacione and Robert Hagerty.

To be technicians, 4th grade, William Heavelin and Joe Zoril.

To be corporal, Robert Bliss.

To be technicians, 5th grade, Kenneth Mead, Louis Howell, Albert McDonald and Ivan Miller.

Twenty-one enlisted men of the 55th Engineer Battalion are wearing new stripes as a result of their recent promotion. The men are:

To be first sergeants, Arthur Shubrook and Paul Jones.

To be technical sergeant, John R. Hill.

To be staff sergeants, Olaff Schlesselman and Glenn Davis.

To be sergeants, Joseph Gilbert, Don Ueta and Charles McNeil.

To be corporals, Melvin Diehl, Jack Irwin, Olen Morris and Joe Feller.

To be technicians 5th grade, Donald Holly, Victor Calabretta, Charles Bridges, Earl Sloniker, Richard Cordingly, Wilbur Callahan, Edward Cupp and Stanford Evans.

Twelve enlisted men of the 80th Medical Battalion have been announced by the public relations office. The men are:

To be master sergeant, Robert B. Berlin.

To be first sergeant, Lawrence P. Matheson.

To be technical sergeant, Theodore H. Forepaugh.

To be staff sergeants, Kenneth E. Fichtner and Ernest J. Wright.

To be sergeants, Paul W. Kirkland and Albert J. Tooth.

To be technicians 4th grade, Wilbur G. Lantz and Edwan L. Burrage.

To be technician 5th grade, Troy Woods, Dale E. Reinert and Guide N. Mardantonio.

Fort Continues Important Role In 4th S. C. Salvage Program

345 Tons of Scrap Metal Collected Last November

Fort Benning continues to play a large part in the salvage program of the Fourth Service Command, according to figures released this week in Atlanta and at Fort Benning.

From Atlanta, headquarters of the Fourth Service Command, comes word that approximately 8,000,000 pounds, or 4,000 tons of salvage, were collected, classified and shipped to war plants of the nation by posts and camps in the southeast, comprising the Service Command, during November.

Of this amount, 5,000,000 pounds were assembled and disposed of on definite quantity contracts and consisted largely of metals from small pieces of junk to truck bodies and other metals stripped from motor vehicles which were no longer serviceable.

BENNING FIGURES

The part Fort Benning played in this program is illustrated in estimates disclosed by Lt. Col. James R. Johnson, post inspector, who reported that a total of 345 tons of scrap metal were collected on the Fort Benning reservation during the month of November.

Iron collected, such as galvanized water tanks, wrought iron and steel, light sheet iron totaled 560,940 pounds. Tin cans collected totaled 79,360 pounds, according to Col. Johnson. Among the non-ferrous metals gathered for sale and re-use in the war effort were 30,370 pounds of lead; 6,582 pounds of brass, 7,960 pounds of copper and 5,605 pounds of aluminum, totaling 50,761 pounds. During the last eight months of 1942, Fort Benning rated among the top-flight Army posts in the collection of scrap metal. Recently additional emphasis has been placed on the salvage of bones and grease with the result that during December, 55 tons of raw meat and bones were salvaged at the post and 12 and a half tons of grease were collected.

Fourth Service Command reported, in this connection, that about 3,000,000 pounds of salvage came under the "indefinite" classification such as bones and kitchen fats and grease, in the collections reported by Fourth Service Command camps.

A serviceman may designate his wife, child, parent, brother or sister as beneficiaries of his national service life insurance. The insured has the right to change his beneficiary, but only within the foregoing class.

Life Prepares Picture Essay

Featuring O. C. Course Here

A full length feature picture essay on the Infantry Officer Candidate course is being prepared this week for Life Magazine by two members of the magazine's staff, Miss Gertrude Epstein and Mr. Myron Davis.

Miss Epstein arrived at Fort Benning early last week from New York City where she has been a reporter and research specialist for Life for four years. She is responsible for the background and the accuracy of the story on the officer candidates.

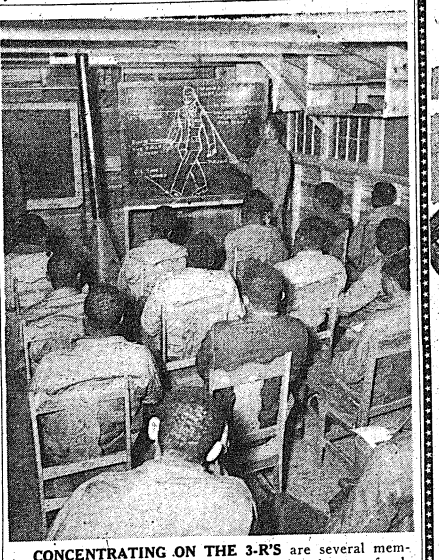
Davis is a photographer from Life's Washington staff. He has been with that publication for almost three years, of which a few months were spent in New York and a year and half in the Chicago office. He has been in Washington for the past year.

EXPERT 'PHOTOG'

Davis has been taking pictures all his life either as a amateur or a professional. A native of Chicago, he worked his way through the University of Chicago as a free lance photographer. He worked for the Black Star Picture Syndicate and did publicity work for the University of Chicago before going to work for Life. He graduated from college in 1940.

Many of the magazine's feature pictures have been taken by Davis. Among his most recent big assignments have been the story on the opening of Congress last week, and the spread on the Air Force Technical School which appeared in Life a few weeks ago. Some of his photographs which appeared on the cover of the magazine recently include pictures of Nelson Rockefeller, General Somervell of the Services of Supply, Admiral Leahy, James Byrne, and the Army Nurse. He has photographed the President many times.

THE DUCK HUNTER HAS HIS PLACE TOO



Col. Edson Raff Wounded In Action

Word was received here today that Col. Edson Raff, in command of this country's parachute force in Africa was slightly wounded in action Nov. 8.

No further details were available, but friends here, pointing to the date of his being wounded, recalled that he has apparently returned to action since his name has appeared in news dispatches since Nov. 8.

Col. Raff was stationed at Fort Benning for about a year before being transwerred to Fort Bragg and then over-seas.

An allowance is an amount, which will be paid by the Government to a person, such as a dependent, designated by a person in the military or naval service to receive an allotment from his service pay, and the amount so paid by the Government is in addition to the service pay.

CONCENTRATING ON THE 3-R'S are several members of Fort Benning's special training detachment of colored troops who are being taught fundamentals in education in special training at the post. Shown above is a typical class, which is being instructed in the proper methods of wearing the uniform. Major David Wilson is the commanding officer of the unique organization which has been formed to further the education of some soldiers who came into the army without much formal schooling. (Signal Lab Photo by Kortemeier.)

AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY
And Property Damage Rates Reduced

Plus our dividend saving, makes net cost exceptionally low. It will pay you to keep your insurance. We write all lines insurance at a saving to policy holders.

The Lawrence Murray Agency
112—12th Street Phone 2-3345

SEARS

All-Season Headquarters for Go-Everywhere Suits!

Pastel Plaids and Tweeds In Classic TWO-PIECE SUITS

Muted Glen Plaids In Colorful Wool
$10.95

Featuring this very flattering "boy" jacket with 3-button closing! Plus a matching pleated skirt! Soft wool*; rayon lined. Tan, maize, or blue; sizes 12 to 20. *Labeled for fibre content.

The 4-Pocket Tweed Classic!
$10.95

A suit that's right under your coat! A suit that's smart alone! Herringbone tweed* in the 4-pocket jacket, and pleated skirt. Rayon lined. Tan or blue; sizes 12 to 20. *Labeled for fibre content.

Buy U. S. War Bonds and Stamps

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.
1225 BROADWAY STREET FLOOR DIAL 3-4351

FORT BENNING BAYONET

Published By The Ledger-Enquirer Co. For America's Most Complete Post

VOLUME 1, NUMBER 20 — FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1943. — PRICE FIVE CENTS

"For I dipt into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;
Saw the heavens fill with commerce, argosies of magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with costly bales;
Heard the heavens wild with shouting, and there rain'd a ghastly dew
From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue."
—Tennyson, "Locksley Hall"

Tennyson Predicted Modern Paratroops

'LOCKSLEY HALL' PUBLISHED CENTURY AGO HERALDS BOMBS AS 'GHASTLY DEW'

Lord Tennyson's magic pen, which shrewdly forecast the League of Nations many years before it became a reality, likewise foreshadowed the modern version of our paratroops who drop from the skies to wreak havoc and destruction in the lands of our enemies.

The Poet Laureate of England, whose "Locksley Hall" was published in 1842 and which has been read by most of us in our school days, saw the coming of the paratroops and aeroplanes almost a century before they became one of the deadliest forces in warfare.

While parachutists may have been a dream of the nineteenth century, they are much in evidence at Fort Benning today—the training center for the thousands of America's winged infantrymen, some of whom already are spreading death and destruction ahead of them in Tunisia in the African campaign.

PROVE METTLE

Veterans of the thorough parachute training course at Fort Benning, which is conducted by the Parachute school under the command of Brig. Gen. George P. Howell, today are proving their mettle in theaters of operation.

Daring paratroop legions under the command of Colonel Edson Raff, formerly stationed at Fort Benning, are engaging the Axis foes in Tunisia. All of the American paratroops went through the rigorous training at Benning before they won their coveted "boots" and parachute "Wings."

While Colonel Raffs troops were the first of the tried, tested and proven paratroops from Benning to join tactical forces, thousands more have followed in their footsteps and are engaged in the gruelling and trying task of qualifying as paratroops.

Thru The Peepsight

G. I. Summary Of World News

BY SGT. O. J. REMINGTON

ALL THE WORLD sat back and listened. Tuesday night the most astounding news of the war since Pearl Harbor broke: President Roosevelt, our Commander-in-Chief, and Prime Minister Winston Churchill had secretly met in Casablanca, North Africa, to shape the destinies of the Allied war on the Axis.

While we all gasped for words to express our amazement, a buck private at Fort Benning's Headquarters Detachment, D. E. M. L., came forth with the most trenchant commentary on the junket. Remarked the private, as he lay in his bunk in the barracks, listening to the radio:

"Gee, can you imagine that guy Roosevelt. He gets a ten-day furlough and then turns up in North Africa to settle the affairs of the world."

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP

to the North African front covered a 5,000-mile airplane trip. He was accompanied by a score of his aides and the military geniuses of the war: Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, U. S. Army; Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief, U. S. Navy; Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding U. S. Army air forces; and a host of others. Representatives from Great Britain accompanied Britain's supreme command.

The epic meeting saw the meeting finally of Gen. Charles DeGaulle, leader of the Fighting French national committee and Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, high commissioner of French North and West Africa. It is reported the French leaders settled their disputes; it is hoped that their handshake in North Africa sealed their mutual trust, respect and future cooperation in the Allied offensive.

The absence of Premier Joseph Stalin, of Russia, and Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek, of China, was conceivable; probably due to the necessity of their personal direction at all times in their respective war campaigns. But the absence of their representatives from the conclave caused much consternation to political analysts.

MOST POTENT HEADLINES

coming as an aftermath of the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting see the final decision on an Allied "Mighty Offensive." Says the Associated Press, referring to the meeting of the master minds they "have agreed upon a master offensive war plan for 1943 intended ultimately to force the unconditional surrender of Germany, Italy and Japan."

The military decisions reached at the meeting of course are and

See THRU, Page 9

Inspections Weekly Set For S. C. Units

Personnel Will Attend Regular Drill On Sunday

All detachments of the Fourth Service Command will, in the future, hold an inspection and review each Sunday morning, according to a training memorandum issued this week by Capt. James Freeman, plans and training officer at post headquarters.

The inspections will begin this week, according to Captain Freeman, and will be held in compliance with an order issued by Fourth Service Command Headquarters in Atlanta. The reviews for white units will be held, it is expected, in the field inside the headquarters detachment barracks. Colored units will be inspected in the Reception Center area.

All men of the service command units will be inspected. Married men living off the post will participate as well, Captain Freeman said.

UNITS INVOLVED

White units affected by the order include the Headquarters Detachment, DEML, Engineer detachment, Military Police, Finance detachment, Signal Corps, Ordnance detachment and Quartermaster detachment.

Colored units include quartermaster troops, the service detachment and the Military Police.

The exact time and place of the reviews will be announced late this week, Captain Freeman announced.

According to the training memorandum issued by headquarters in Atlanta the inspections will be held in the interests of "health, discipline, smartness and soldierly deportment."

The men of the service command are assigned to various tasks at the post and because of this have not been inspected as are usual troop units.

It was also announced by Captain Freeman that the internal security detachment would train regularly each Wednesday afternoon and that nobody would be excused.

Horse, Buggy Days Return

'Buckboard' Pressed Into Service On Post

The drive to conserve gasoline, rubber and other vital war materials took on added significance at Fort Benning today as post headquarters adopted the horse and buggy from one-time oblivion as an integral form of transportation.

In announcing the addition of the "buckboard," the technical name for the buggy which will carry headquarters personnel about the reservation, Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the post, pointed out that horse travel will further reduce the wear and tear on army cars and trucks as well as conserve gasoline and oil.

A few weeks ago, several motorcycles were assigned to post headquarters, displacing army passenger vehicles which formerly were used to carry personnel about the post on official duties.

See HORSE, Page 5

Hank Gowdy Reports At Benning Saturday

Benning Baseball Park Named In Captain's Honor

Hank Gowdy, one of big league baseball's most legendary figures, will arrive at Fort Benning on Saturday to assume new duties with the Infantry School. Now a captain in the Army, the famous player and coach will be returning to the Army post which many years ago named its baseball park in honor of his exploits in the last war.

Authorities at the Infantry School disclosed today that Capt. Gowdy had been assigned here at their request, and that he would more than likely be assigned as a special service officer in the school. Under new regulations, special service officers handle both athletic and recreational activities.

COACHED REDS

Gowdy, known to the nation's baseball fans as "Hankus-Pankus" and "Old Goldenrods," spent the last few seasons in the big leagues with the Cincinnati Reds as coach. He has served with Bill McKechnie, current manager of the Reds, for the past 13 years, but resigned his post last fall to re-enter the Army.

When the United States went to war in 1917, Gowdy was one of the best catchers in big league baseball. But then, as now, the tall athlete was eager to serve,

See HANK, Page 2

CAPT. HANK GOWDY

Volunteers for KP AND French Fries

The proverb that a "soldier fights on his stomach" was more truth than fiction one night recently in Columbus.

A group of the 10th Armored Infantrymen were in a popular restaurant and ordered French fried potatoes.

"We can't fill your order," the waitress replied, "we haven't anyone to peel them."

"What are we waiting for?" the doughboys asked.

To the kitchen they went, putting their KP experience to good advantage.

P. S. French fried potatoes followed.

Plastics Study At Post Will Aid Casualties

Station Hospital, Dental Clinic Join In Experiments

When rubber returns once more to general use in this country, there'll be one field where it won't be in demand—and that is in the field of dentistry where use of plastics has not only replaced rubber for dentures of "plates" but has proved itself a tremendous factor in development of new types of splints for use in fractures.

Research in use of the splints has been carried on through the dental clinic at Fort Benning, working together with dental surgeons in the Post Hospital which will be of great value in "rebuilding" faces of men wounded in battle.

TECHNICIANS ON JOB

From Fort Benning dental clinic's laboratory, now rounding out its first year of expanded service, men trained in the use of the new techniques of making plastic dentures and in utilizing acrilics in the new splints already have been sent out with hospital organizations that are in the battle zones.

The laboratory was set up in February, 1942, under direction of Captain W. F. Maury, formerly of Wheeling, W. V., on a plan organized by the post dental surgeon. Now 10 men are assigned to the laboratory and eight or 10 mben are always attached from the various hospital units training at Fort Benning. These men are taught the newest methods of all dental laboratory work so that they can apply them in the field and in hospitals where wounded men will be treated.

The use of plastics in splints for jaw fractures is one of the newest developments in dental surgery and research in this phase of dentistry and of surgery is being keenly watched at the post hospital. Formerly silver or rubber casts were used. These were unwieldy and would have to be removed to

See PLASTICS, Page 9

Lingo Stymies TIS Officer

Entire 300th Platoon Is Spanish-Speaking

When Capt. Robert Montgomery, Co. K., of the newly activated 300th Infantry regiment at Fort Benning, went out to call his new company to attention for the first time he found an entire platoon that couldn't speak a single word of English.

They were Spanish speaking lads who had just been sent up from deep in the heart of Texas, and Capt. Montgomery, whose high school Spanish hardly stood up under the struggle to figure out translating Army commands into fast snappy Spanish, sent out a hurry up call for a translator.

SENDS OUT SOS

He found one right in the 3rd Battalion of the regiment, in the person of Lt. Arthur H. Siegel, who has traveled for many years in Central and South America and can speak Mexican Spanish like a native. The men all were formed into an overstrength platoon and now Lieut. Siegel drills the men and teaches them English commands as they go along. From the English commands, he is teaching them in a group to speak English.

Now he claims that he has the best platoon in the entire regiment and says that the men are making smart soldiers, anxious to learn their duties and a new language at the same time, and that they are out to win top honors for the new organization.

Straight Shooting Wins Steak Dinner

It pays to become a crack-shot rifleman in Headquarters Company of the 11th Armored Regiment. If you don't believe it, ask any member of the 1st platoon's team.

As a result of dropping their recent sharpshooting contest at Carmouche Range with the 2nd platoon, 1st platoon members had to serve their victory a steak dinner when the regiment got back to camp and also do the KP work after the meal.

Insurance Policies Doubled During Past Three Months

"HIT THE DECK" WITH MOPS said these three seagoing gals to land-lubbing soldiers when the latest USO musical arrived this week. So the boys, St. Sgt. Isaac Whitson and Pfc. Paul Korman, obliged much to girlie delight as you can see. The femmes? Oh yes, they are blonde Murial Porcelan, brunette Frances Hess, and red-head Helen Vassar. (Signal Lab Photo by Kortemeier.)

Soldiers Heed Stimson's Plea; 15 Per Cent Are Not Protected

The percentage of soldiers at Fort Benning making allotments for insurance during the past three months has skyrocketed 100 per cent, it was disclosed today as Army authorities issued another plea for troops to "think about buying government war risk insurance before your foot is on the gangplank."

A few months ago a concerted drive was launched by Fort Benning authorities, simultaneously with campaigns in other camps and stations, urging troops to put their personal affairs "in shape" before they may be ordered to overseas assignments. Considerable congestion caused by much paper work had jammed the Adjutant General's offices from staging areas and ports of embarkation, as many soldiers sought to take out life insurance at the last minute.

Major J. Russell Lowe, of the Insurance Section, the Adjutant General's Department in the War Department, is visiting Fort Benning, studying the drive and its success.

FINE COOPERATION

Lieut. John W. Inzer, post insurance officer, revealed today that during the current drive, all unit insurance officers on the post have joined in the post campaign. He stated that during the past three months, the increase in the number of soldiers making allotments for insurance has jumped from 43 per cent to 85 per cent.

"But we would still like to see the other 15 per cent protected," Lt. Inzer observed, signifying that the Army is determined to have each soldier's life protected by insurance before he enters combat.

"We are not trying to high-pressure anyone into buying National Service or U. S. Government insurance," Major Lowe pointed out, "but Secretary of War Stimson is appalled by the overall number of casualties not covered by this insurance.

A GOOD BET

"I have had considerable experience in commercial insurance fields, and none of the private companies can hope to match what the government is offering. It is practically a gift. Uncle Sam is willing to bet his soldiers $10,000 against $7, that they will live another month. These odds are terrific, considering the bet holds good, even in combat."

"Many soldiers at Benning have been led by agents to believe that government insurance was of little value when soldiers left continental United States, when in reality it is the commercial insurance which is worthless as soon as the fighting man boards a transport," he said.

OVERALL CHARGE

Major Lowe stressed the fact that once a National Service or U. S. Government policy is taken out, it is good wherever he is, even if a prisoner of war, and furthermore any changes in status from enlisted men to officer, merely requires a few revisions to continue in force. These changes should include new rank, serial number, new organization and a

See INSURANCE, Page 9

Tuneful Show Rocks Benning With Laughter

'Hit The Deck' Gets Big Hand From Boys As It Plays On Post

The Navy steamed into America's most complete Army post this week with a riot of mirth, music and mischief! Well, not exactly Uncle Sam's bluejackets, but a cast of more than 40 Broadway and Hollywood singing and dancing stars in the tuneful USO-Camp Show version of "Hit the Deck".

Soldier laughter has rocked the Main Theatre since Tuesday, while the condensed version of Vincent Youmans' smash hit played a two-night stand for soldiers on the post proper. Tonight, though, it's the turn of the 10th Armored Tigers to go nautical when the show gives two performances at Theater No. 7 in the Sand Hill Area.

Boys out Harmony Church way needn't feel too badly, either, 'cause they'll have plenty of navy blues, and whites, and girls when "Hit the Deck" entertains them for two nights to close out its five-day Benning stand. Friday, the gobs and gals will be at Theater No. 11, and Saturday at Theater No. 4. All three nights, the curtain goes up at 7:30 and again at 9:30 o'clock.

REAL-MUSICAL

"Hit the Deck" is the first real musical comedy to be sent out by USO-Camp Shows, and Benning audiences gave it a big-time reception. All of the dancing was on the stage this time, but there was plenty of it provided by some of the principals as well as a lush 12-girl ensemble known as the Yeomanettes. As usual, the dancing darlings were the apple of Johnny Doughboy's eye, even though they had "joined the Navy."

Real hit of the show is Willie Shore, errant second-class torpedoman, who does a little bit of everything as he cavorts through the chief comedy role. Willie dances, sings, mimics, pantomimes, and gets into all kinds of trouble, much to everyone's delight. Fast

See TUNEFUL, Page 9

Fort Visit Convinces South Americans U. S. Can Defend Hemisphere

9 Fourth Estaters Go Aloft to See 'Chutists Bail Out

Nine South American newspapermen left Fort Benning Monday night for New Orleans and points west after getting a first impression of the armed might of the United States. That impression was decidedly favorable.

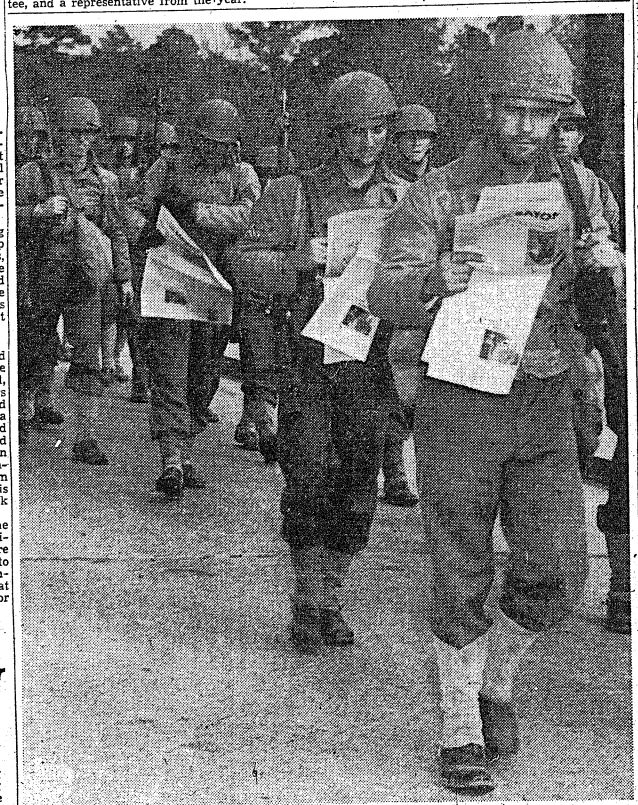
A spokesman declared that members of his party were particularly amazed by the scope and organization for training of infantrymen, paratroopers, and armored division troops at the post.

The party included the following:

Dr. Thomas Brena, editor of El Bien Publico; Jose Pereyra, news director of El Dia; Dr. Eduardo Rodriguez Larreta, co-director of El Pais; Julio Caporale, co-director of Mundo Uruguayo; Ricardo Vernazza, managing editor of El Tiempo; Carlos Manini Rios, director of La Manana; and Nelson Garcia Serrato, staff writer for La Razon, all of Uruguay.

From Peru were Alberto Arispe, writer for Noticias, and Alejandro Miro Quesada, writer for El Comercio.

Arthur Wild, director of tours for the Inter-American committee, and a representative from the Washington bureau of public relations, accompanied the men. The journalists are in the country at the invitation of the Nation Press club.



Dr. Brena of Montevideo, Uruguay, was taken ill with acute tonsilitis while enroute by train to Columbus from Miami. Upon the advise of Station Hospital officials, he was left behind when the party departed for Opelika and New Orleans. They were assured by General Fulton that Col. Edward Noyes, commanding officer of Station Hospital, and his

See FORT, Page 9

Father Is Major; Son, Lt. Colonel

Major James M. Hanley, Jr., of Mandan and Bismarck, N. D., has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel. He is chief of the Basic Machine Gun Group of the Academic department. TIS. He is the son of Major J. M. Hanley, Sr.

Colonel Hanley, who received his commission in the reserves in 1926, is an attorney in civil life. He was called to active duty in June of 1941 as a captain, and was promoted to major later that year.

RETURNING FROM THEIR hike of 105 miles from Dothan, Ala., to Fort Benning, three soldiers of the Third Battalion of the 29th Infantry take a quick glance at the Fort Benning Bayonet, the post newspaper, to catc up the news at camp.—News story of hike on Page 9. (Signal Lab Photo by Stock.)

Col. Dickerson Heads 513th

Veteran Paratrooper Joins New Unit

Lt. Col. A. H. Dickerson, former executive officer of the 505th Parachute Infantry Regiment, has been named commanding officer of the 513th Parachute regiment.

A regular army officer, the colonel is a graduate of the United States Military Academy. Prior to the declaration of war he served in the Philippines and participated in maneuvers on Bataan.

Colonel Dickerson came to the Parachute School in July 1942, and qualified as a jumper in August. He then served for a short time as executive of the 503rd Parachute Regiment. In October, 1942, he took over the same job with the 505th.

The colonel is married and lives on the main post. He is a native of Iola, Kan.

'Statistics' Prove Point At Issue

It happened in the 25th Company of Third Student Training Regiment:

The instructor issued his final warning to handle anti-tank grenades with extreme care.

A candidate arose and asked facetiously, "What, sir, is the "school solution" if you drop a grenade?"

The instructor, wagging a finger, replied unhesitatingly, "You'll become a letter etched in black, or shall we say—to be more explicit—you'll become a statistic"

Mental Enslavement Aim Of Nazis, O. C. Says

Horneffer Saw Germans, Italians Plan Their War

Many Americans, recognizing the menace of Nazism and Fascism, were moved to combat them even before the outbreak of the present war Most American soldiers of European birth have this feeling in an intensifid form—particularly if they have seen the Nazis and Fascists at work in Germany and Italy!

Among the latest of such arrivals at Fort Benning is Candidate Michel G Horneffer of the 18th Company, 3rd Battalion, 1st Student Training Regiment, who, in 1936, barely escaped arrest and imprisonment in Munich because he refused to salute a Nazi flag.

Candidate Horneffer, who was born in Geneva, Switzerland, of French-Swiss parents, owed his escape from the Nazis clutches to the fact that Germany then, as now, did not wish to offend the Swiss Government. Before that time Candidate Horneffer had made good use of his opportunity to observe the workings of Italian Fascism, when he acted as tutor to the nineteen-year old son of Prince Don Marcantonio Colonna, in Rome.

In 1936, Prince Colonna, who occupied a high Lay position in he Vatican, took his son on a tour of South America and Candidate Horneffer accompanied them. This was his first glimpse of the New World and he liked it, but when, later on, the ship stopped in New York, an interest which perhaps stemmed from an American grandmother, burst into full enthusiasm. In Candidate Horneffer's own words, "I fell in love with the city and decided to stay as long as possible." He left his position with Prince Colonna and went ashore, remaining in New York until his transit visa expired, and determining to return permanently as soon as it was possible.

RETURNS TO EUROPE

He went back to Geneva and made application for an immigrant visa and while awaiting it traveled in Germany for six months, continuing the studies which had previously taken him to the universities of London, Paris and Rome, as well as that of his native city. It was while attending classes at the University of Munich that he became involved with the German police over his refusal to salute the Nazi flag.

Obtaining his immigrant visa in Geneva, Candidate Horneffer returned to New York and, later, taught at a private boy's school outside Boston, thus continuing the type of work he had done previously in an Anglo-American school in Spain. When war broke out in Europe he considered volunteering with the Free French forces of General De Gaulle or with the British Army but decided against it because it would have meant giving up his intention of becoming an American citizen. He became a citizen of the United States February 9, 1942. He was inducted into the Army of the United States in June, 1941, and was assigned to the Medical Department in the New York ara, but decided that he would prefer a combat unit and made every effort to be transferred. He says now that, "You can understand how my present assignment as an Officer Candidate to the Infantry School pleases me very much."

Asked what he thought of American institutions, Candidate Horneffer said: "Switzerland is the oldest democracy in the world. Having been brought up in that tradition, I was neither surprised nor disappointed when I came to America. The fact that I intended from the very first to remain and make my home here indicates how much I like it," he added, smiling.

U. S. INITIATIVE

When asked to compare the American soldier and training methods here with those he had become familiar with while doing his military training in Switzerland or traveling in other European countries, Candidate Horneffer said: "It seems to me that the American soldier is less accustomed to Army life than the average European, and he is, therefore, less disciplined in a military sense. This fact, however, seems to give him more initiative and fighting spirit. As for the training he receives, it is perfectly amazing how complete and intelligent it is. I do not think that the average soldier of any othr army in the world gets such fine training." Candidate Horneffer went on to say that he was greatly impressed by the practical nature of the work at the Infantry School and the fact that officer candidates are drawn from all walks of life and not limited to university graduates and the sons of military families, as is true of many European military schools.

Speaking of the war, Candidate Horneffer expressed the opinion that Nazlism is a product of the German character. He feels, therefore, that the war must be fought against the German people as well as their leaders and he developed this somewhat controversial subject by adding that it must be fought on a "spiritual plane" as well as by force of arms, because, he said, "by attempting to impose their New Order on us the Nazis are seeking our mental enslavement which is the most important result of physical enslavement."

Candidate Horneffer, who speaks French, German, Italian and Spanish, in addition to English, hopes that his experience in Europe will prove useful during his Army career. At the present time, however, he is concentrating on learning to become a "good soldier", to use his own words, "in the hope that it will enable me to fight successfully against those enemies of our civilization whom I have learned to despise."

Brass Buttons On Way Out

Plastics To Replace Metal On G. I. Coat

There'll still be "something about a soldier"—but won't be his brass buttons all a shine shine shine, because brass buttons and insignia on overcoats and blouses of enlisted men in the Army will be replaced as soon as possible by plastics, according to word received today by officials at Fort Benning.

The change is expected to result in a saving of 365,000 pounds of metal in 1943. Change over on overcoats and blouses already issued will be done by the soldiers themselves who will have to sew them on or have them sewed on.

The new plastic buttons already are being issued on Army overcoats and blouses now being manufactured for use on future deliveries.

Officers' overcoats do not have metal buttons and the change is not designed to affect use of the metal on officers' blouses, the announcement said.

NON-TARNISHABLE

The new plastic buttons are non-tarnishable and will not reflect light. They are made of a non-strategic plastic material, olive drab incolor, and the design is an exact reproduction of the present brass button.

As another step in metal conservation, manufacture of distinctive insignia for regiments, separate battalions and companies will be discontinued.

The change is not new in the history of the Army. Since 1775 when the Massachusetts Provincial Congress decreed that coats of state regiments should have pewter buttons with the regimental number stamped on the face, uniform buttons have been made of many materials — copper, bronze, lead, gilded or silvered metals, stag or bone and others. In 1902 th Army adopted a metal button, showing the eagle, as on the Great Seal of the United States. Since then, brass or bronze has been in use, except during the World war when uniform buttons were made of a heavy coated fabric because of a metal-shortage.

Units in possession of distinctive insignia now may continue to wear them until ordered overseas, and present supplies will be sold until stocks are exhausted, the announcement from the War Department said.

SHIRLEY VAN, OUTSTANDING BALLET-TAP DANCER AND SINGER.

'Show Time In Roxy' To Play Post Five Days

Musical Hit Arrives On February 9

Comedians, dancers, singers and 16 beautiful chorus girls are coming to Fort Benning to give the G. I.'s an eyeful and an earful, when the USO-Camp Show's unit "Show Time in the Roxy" arrives for a five-day stay on Feb. 9.

Headlining the show are Ross and Stone in their famous comedy act. Ross is also a comic impersonator. His routine includes take-offs on Georgie Jessel, Harry Richmond, Al Jolson and others too numerous to mention. Maxine Ross acts as a "straight man" for his gags and comedy songs. She also does an intricate dance routine on her own. The act has played in all of the leading theatres in the country and has completed a year's run in London's famed Embassy Club.

Charles Kemper, aided by two assistants, Jeps Mack and George Haggerty, does an "army mess" comedy routine. Kemper was starred last season in George White's "Scandals" and has played comic leads in many Shubert shows.

The Three Reddingtons in a comedy acrobatic trampoline act is one of the highlights of "Show Time at the Roxy." The act, brilliantly executed and precisiontimed, has played such leading theaters as New York's Music Hall, Roxy and similar first-run houses throughout the nation.

But the couple that will pull you out of your seat with their act are the song stylists and harmony singers, Floy and Martha Read. Recently featured in the Center Theatre "Ice Show" in New York, the Read Sisters are making musical history.

All that can be said about Shirley Van, featured singer and dancer, is to repeat the remarks of one of the critics who caught her act last year. "One of the greatest dancing discoveries since Eleanor Powell; she also has a mean set of pipes," he added.

The one part of the show that will delight old and young, G. I. and civilian, is the chorus line made up of 16 delightful girls trained by the famous Gae Foster herself. They will lend grace and beauty to the scenic portion of "Show Time at the Roxy."

Lt. Sweeney's Art Livens Columns of The Bayonet

Philadelphia is notorious for its (censored) weather, (censored) climate, (censored) drinking water and Zoological Gardens. Such conditions are considered ideal for the raising of luscious mushrooms, large toadstools and cartoonists.

Under these favorable conditions Lieutenant James Sweeney of the First Student Training Regiment, one of the Bayonet's regular editorial and comic art contributors, was brought into the world in the usual manner.

After proving his immunity to whooping cough, measles, four years of high school and four years of college, there was little else to do other than to expose him to the dangers of an art education. This took.

HE GRADUATES

In a short while, after graduating from art school, he signed his first newspaper syndicate contract with Angle News. This contract Lieutenant Sweeney has always considered his lucky omen, for on the very day he put his signature on the dotted line Curtis publishing Comrany (of Saturday Evening Post fame), sent notice of their having accepted an illustration.

From this point on, the advertising field claimed a good deal of the young artist's time and he eventually won a position as departmental manager in the Barron G. Collier Advertising Organization, at that time the largest advertising organization in the world. Not satisfied with the advertising field however, Lieutenant Sweeney was constantly making efforts to secure a contract with the Bell Newspaper Syndicate located in the New York Times Building.

AH, SUCCESS

Success eventually crowned his epic struggles when finally, one bright Monday morning, a five year contract was delivered into his hands by a smiling mailman. On the followirg Wednesday the same smiling mailman delivered his draft papers. Whether it was the mailman's idiotic grin, or a determination to prove to the government that "they can't draft me", history does not record, but the embrionic soldier picked up his hat, straightened his teeth and went out and enlistad.

After serving through the ranks from buck private to master sergeant, soldier Sweeney was sent to Benning's Officer Candidate School where he attained his commission in June of 1942. At present Lieutenant Sweeney is in the First Regiment where he assists Lieutenant Murray Stern in that regiments Publicity Section.

The first U. S. yachts were built and sailed in New York harbor early in the 19th century.

USO Slates Allied Salute

Pageant, Movies Feature Program

Highlighting January's extensive activities at the USO Club, operated by the NCCS and J. W. B., will be the "Salute to the United Nations" pageant and celebration on Jan. 31 at 8:15 at the 100 Ninth street USO Club.

As a fitting tribute and salute to many of the countries comprising the United Nations, whose valiant struggle is spelling doom for our enemies, appropriate music, speakers, and ceremonies will be featured.

The celebration is under the supervision and sponsorship of the Ninth street USO Town Hall Committee. The committee, by special arrangements with the Public Schools Departments, will have 30 girls of the senior classes to represent the various nations and through the cooperation of the Special Service office, under Lt Col. Charles E. Finnegan, soldiers of Fort Benning will participate in the program.

The high-light of the program will be the closing pageant, which will be followed by showing of the pictures, "Price for Victory," "Fight for Liberty," "Russia Stops Hitler," and "The Western Front."

The USO Columbus Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Pvt. Harold Schickman, will furnish music for the occasion. Sgt. Jules Siegel will act as narrator.

O. C. Awarded TIS Diploma, Soldier's Medal

Second Lieutenant Howard I. Fore received double honors in the Second Student Training Regiment. Graduating from the 22nd (Cannon) Company of the Regiment, Lt. Fore also was presented the Soldiers Medal for heroism.

Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, assistant commandant of The Infantry School, pinned the medal on Lt. Fore's blouse at the graduation exercises. A native of Monroeville, Ala., and a former member of the 36th Division, Lt. Fore received the medal for attempting to rescue a child from the path of an onrushing four-ton truck at Providence, R. I., last Nov. 10.

COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

Visit the Officers R. & R. Club on Cusseta Road. The best food in town—Ask any officers who have been there. The only Exclusive Officers Club in Columbus.

Betcha She'll Know General's Lady Next Time

Is Lucille Jones' face red? The other noon a distinguished looking lady in the natty uniform of a Red Cross director stepped up to the Information desk at Post Headquarters and said:

May I go in to see the General?"

"Do you have an appointment?" inquired Mrs. Jones.

"No, but I am Mrs. Fulton; do you think it would be all right for me to go in?"

Rest Camp For Colored Troops Open

Benning Soldiers Invited to Visit Atlanta Center

Colored troops of Fort Benning, who may be in Atlanta while on pass, furlough, or travel order, have been invited to enjoy the recreational and social facilities of the Washington Park Recreational Area.

Capt. Bine Plunkett, commanding officer of the establishment, in urging Fort Benning colored troops to take advantage of the Army camp site, points out that the Recreational Area offers several forms of entertainment for soldiers.

Each soldier who visits the camp, which is located at 101 Ollie St., N. W., must present a copy of his travel order, pass or furlough papers in order to secure free lodging at the camp. Low-priced meals are served at a concession:

Newspapers, magazines and books are made available for troops at the camp's recreation building. A dance is presented every Saturday night at the USO club, three blocks from the camp site.

Two movie theaters, also located in close proximity to the camp area, provide additional amusement facilities.

"The citizens of Atlanta have been gracious enough and think enough of our soldiers to give this beautiful camp site to make your vacation pleasant and enjoyable," Capt. Punkett points out.

In war zones and outlying bases, mail is censored both ways. Mail sent or received from servicemen in the continental U. S. is not censored, but it is within the authority of the local defense commanders to censor it, if they think it necessary to the safety and defense of the Nation.

Any person who has procured himself to be enlisted in the military service of the U. S. by means of willful misrepresentation or concealment as to his qualifications for enlistment has fraudulently enlisted. Such enlistment shall be punished as a court martial may direct.

Service Couple Vie for Rank; She's a WAAC, He's An O. C.

Frisco Pair Were Sleuths In Civilian Life

During this World War II when strange and unique things are happening to both you and your neighbor, we find that a rather peculiar situation has arisen in the family of one Officer Candidate Arthur H. Hammett of the First Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry school.

This is a story of a patriotic young couple who lived in a war world as long as they could without being a part of it, and then decided to enlist. The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Hammett, were actively engaged in their own private investigating business in San Francisco when they made this important decision, and each went his separate way, in March, 1942. Mr. Hammett became Private Hammett, AUS, IRTC, Camp Roberts, Calif., while Mrs. Hammett became Private Hammett, Woman's Auxiliary, San Francisco, Calif.

NIP AND TUCK

It was an even break, and they both worked hard at their jobs, but Mrs. Hammett took the first round, as she received her rating four months before her surprised spouse. The second round in this friendly family battle was a draw, Cpl. (Mrs.) Hammett, however, had the edge as she was recommended for Officer Candidate school eleven days before Cpl. (Mr.) Hammett. In January things began to look better for the male in this story. He got the nod as he reported a scant seven days earlier to OC school.

WHO RANKS WHOM?

The final decision is yet to be announced, but it is easy to see that it will be a battle of "date or rank." The First Company with this in mind made an exhaustive research and we are happy to conclude that our Lt. Hammett, AUS, should rank Lt. Hammett, WAAC, by approximately five days. Thus the honor of the male is upheld, and after the war a relieved Mr. Hammett, who had visions of being ordered unmercifully about the family domicile, may rest in his easy chair after dinner, safe from the officious tongue of a senior officer.

34 Alligators Raised in Grade

Promotions of 34 enlisted men in the 124th Infantry announced by the regimental commander, Col. John D. Hill, include the following men:

Staff Sgt. Aubrey L. Blount of Callahan, Fla., was made first sergeant, and Sergeants Wilbur Bevil, Minn.; Fla.; Rex D. McIlvain, Canton, O.; Neal G. Kidd, Jacksonville, Fla.; and Johnnie J. Milton, White Springs, Fla., were all promoted to staff sergeants.

Eight corporals were promoted to sergeants. They are Dallas W. Guinn, Hilliard, Fla.; Vernon W. Hicks, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Ross E. Barnes, Alachua, Fla.; Charles H. Parez, Jacksonville, Fla.; William R. O'Cain, Jacksonville; Robert F. Farrall, Steelton, Penn.; William F. Vowell, Palmetto, Fla.; and John F. Griggs, Ruby, S. C.

Technician fourth grade Denzil E. Meeks, Tampa, Fla., was promoted to staff sergeant. William A. Olive, Live Oak, Fla.; Louis B. Trout, Orwigsburg, Penn.; and Sidney M. Lynckner, Jacksonville, Fla., were named sergeants.

New corporals include William A. Smith of Zelmaple, Penn.; Carl J. Valero, Slackville, Penn.; Ira J. Carter, Dunedin, Fla.; Bruce C. Pinnefrock, Phenix City, Ala.; James E. Wallace, Sanford, Fla.; Mike Swinetord, Brocuville, Penn.; Patrick D. Horne, Jacksonville, Fla.; Joseph Savicki, Providence, R. I.; Vernon W. Hicks, St. Petersburg, Fla.; George M. Travis, Dayton, Penn.; John Fekete, Youngstown, O.

William C. Connor, Lyons, Ga.; Joseph Herring, Bridgeport, N. J.; Bart F. Shea, Oaklyn, N. J.; Joseph A. Gazdick, Pittsburgh, Penn.; James M. Patrick, Boyd, Fla.; and Bogan E. Haynes, San Mateo, Fla.

'Gators Use Novel Plan To Get Dimes

Money For Polio Drive Contributed To Wishing Well

In war as in peace, America's fighting front against infantile paralysis continues unabated. And every officer and enlisted man in the 124th Infantry intends to do his share in combatting the evils of this dread disease by contributing to President Roosevelt's March of Dimes fund this week.

In addition to the usual proceedure of mailing 10c to the White House, Gators have two other opportunities to aid in wiping poliomyelitis off the map.

First, the entire proceeds of the First Battalion Wishing Well, from January 25 to January 31, will be turned over to the March of Dimes, according to an announcement by Lt. Col. Earl M. Shine, commanding officer, 1st Battalion.

In that way, Gators can drop dimes in the Well, pray to the Gods which lurk within the waters for a weekend pass, promotion, furlough or the destruction of the polio germ and at the same time do their part in fighting the scourge of the young as well as the aged.

Another method by which Gators can help insure national health in the future for which we are fighting is by tossing their coins at Adam Lazonga II, the 124th's famous alligator-mascot, in front of the PX.

Adam is housed in a specially-built pen, which can only be approached by an arched-walk. When men of the 124th walk over the arch, they toss their dimes at Adam, thus heeding a streamer sign hanging over the entrance of the PX. It reads: "March The Arch So Some Paralysis Victim May Walk." The entire proceeds from the pen will be turned over to the March of Dimes on January 31.

Two officers in the 505th Parachute Regiment, 1st Lt. Paul S. Wolslayer, and 2nd Lt. James J. Smith, have been promoted, according to an announcement received from regimental headquarters. Lt. Wolslayer, who is a member of company D and a qualified jumper since August, 1942, has been raised to the rank of captain. Lt. Smith, who also qualified in August, 1942, and is a member of Company F, has been promoted from second lieutenant to first.

Drummer Leaves Drums to Beat Axis Instead

Beating his way as a drummer in numerous name bands, Candidate Henry H. Burman is now planning to do some beating using other receivers than with drums.

Playing in many good bands, he advanced to drummer in charge of the rhythm section in such leading orchestras as Larry Funk's, Johnny Long's, Jack Teagarden's, Babe Russin's, and Vaughn Monroe's orchestra; also substituting in the Glenn Gray and Freddie Martin orchestras. Leaving Vaughn Monroe's orchestra to join the army on January 29, 1942, he was sent to Fort McClellan, Ala. Being in the BIRTC band he received a corporal rating in two weeks and a technician grade IV rating in one month. Before coming to O. E. C. he was a platoon sergeant, but feeling he could do more as an officer he is now an officer candidate in the 8th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment.

Hank—

(Continued from Page One)

and he became the first major league ballplayer to enlist in the Army during World War I.

SERVED OVERSEAS

Rising to the rank of sergeant, Hank Gowdy, served valiantly overseas, and then returned to big time baseball after the war. He continued playing for many years with several teams in the National League, and then turned to coaching where he established quite a reputation for his ability in developing young pitchers.

Gowdy Field at Benning was named after Hank Gowdy because post officials at the time felt the park should be named after an enlisted man. Gowdy, himself, thought the honor should have gone to Capt. Eddie Grant, New York Giant outfielder who lost his life in the first war. Just last summer, however, the Cincinnati Red coach told a reporter that he considered it the greatest honor ever bestowed on him to have the Benning park named in his honor.

The purpose of increased pay was to bring the wage of the serviceman up to the average civilian worker's wage. It was to equalize the pay of the man who fights with the man who works. This was not done in World War I and the serviceman simply asked that it be done after the war. The present pay increase is not a "bonus," but a fair and just equalization of pay with civilian defense workers.

Comedy Team at Matag

JACK and JANE WEST, Comedy Dance Team Opens at MATAG Monday Nite, in conjunction with many fine acts, such as ADELAIDE LA MARR—Tops in Tap—BEVERLY BREEZE—Sweet Voiced Song Interpretations—WHITE BROS.—Novelty Comedy Act—George Bell, M C & Surprise Novelties, the Three Dancing DeVosfers make final appearance tonite—Relax and break away to the Sweetest All-Girl Orchestra in the Country, Velma 'n Jean.—Advt.

WHERE TO DINE & DANCE IN AND AROUND COLUMBUS

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT WINSEL CASTLE "COLUMBUS' FINEST" 2803 Cusseta Road Cecil Lloyd, Prop. FOR OFFICERS AND MEMBERS ONLY

PAT PATTERSON 44th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED Chicken IN THIS TOWN | GA. CAT FISH Dinners WITH CORN BREAD
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY Steaks THAT'S REALLY TENDER | POINT BLUE Oysters FRIED, STEW, RAW
Come Out on No. Highland Bus 8 Private Dining Rooms

JERRY'S 206-38th St. FAMOUS FOR STEAKS & CHICKEN

COPELAND'S CECIL JONES, Prop. 3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620 GA. BAR-B-Q and STEW CHICKEN - STEAK - OYSTER DINNERS FREE PARKING and CURB SERVICE

JUMBO Fried Chicken Catfish Dinners Ga. Stew Bar-B-Q 1700 Fourth Ave. Dial 9880 Dining Rooms Curb Service

Visit the New Post Office Grille Next Door to Post Office Miss Sue Searcy, Prop. Phenix City, Ala. Steaks—Oysters FRIED CHICKEN Regular Meals Daily

In New York, it's LINDY'S—In Havana, it's SLOPPY JOE'S In COLUMBUS, it's THE ROOSEVELT! Columbus' finest and friendliest Cafe—serving only the very highest type of food, and beverages reasonably priced—and where efficient service is supplemented by warm cordiality and an air of sincere friendliness. We invite the personnel of Fort Benning to make the FRIENDLY ROOSEVELT CAFE their second home. THE ROOSEVELT CAFE 1027 BROADWAY

CHEROKEE LODGE Endorsed by Duncan Hines By Appointment Only

GOO-GOO "The Sign Of Good Food" Dial 3-4491 700 Linwood Boulevard AIR CONDITIONED ½ Fried Chicken Served Unjointed Without Silver, Gobs of Shoe Strings, Jug of Honey, Hot Buttered Rolls. The Most Modern and Best Known Cafe in Columbus, Georgia Free Parking — Curb Service Private Dining Rooms

COPELAND'S BARBECUE AND STEW 3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620 BARBECUE—STEW—SANDWICHES—DRINKS CHICKEN—STEAK—OYSTER DINNERS CECIL JONES, Prop. PLENTY FREE PARKING AND CURB SERVICE

Wanderlust Continues For O. C. Peters At TIS

Soldier Seeks Bars After Varied Travels Around The World

A British subject, who was born in Switzerland and spent his early years in India, is seeking a commission in the American Army in the 27th Company of the Infantry School's Third Student Training Regiment.

He is Candidate Charles Peters, of Tulsa, Okla., 32 year-old Oxford graduate, whose wanderlust brought him to the New World in 1935 to a career in the American petroleum industry—and, in 1942, to duty in the United States Army.

It's a far cry from the ivy walls of Britain's centuries-old college and the peaceful shores of neutral Switzerland's Lake Geneva and the towering heights of the legendary Himalayas to the air-cooled hutments and rugged schedule of the Infantry School. But Candidate Peters regards winning bars as one of the biggest jobs of his life.

In reply to queries about military ambitions he says: "I've been to Germany several times, but I want desperately to make another trip—this time to Berlin as an officer in the United States Army."

LIVED IN GERMANY

Candidate Peters recalls vividly one of his junkets to Germany. "That was when the Republican statesman, Stresemann died. He might have saved that country from the Hitler regime and the horrors it has caused the world. I was visiting a family in Duesseldorf at the time, and remember hearing the announcement of his death over the radio."

When Peters came to America two years after being graduated from Oxford's Brasenose College as a classical scholar, he entered the employ of Shell Oil Company in New York. Before the hot breath of selective service blew on his neck last July he was administrative assistant to the firm's executive vice president in Tulsa. Then came basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif., and his present assignment.

Peters was one month old when his rambles began. The globe toddler spent the next four years in northern India, where his father was a British government official. Then after five years back in the land of the Alps, Peters went to England, where he remained until coming to America, except for frequent trips to the continent during summer holidays.

The widely traveled officer candidate is a devout believer in a hands-across-the-sea philosophy in the post-war world. He says: "The English-speaking nations must agree not to disagree when the world is rebuilt by free men."

At present Candidate Peters is in the last week of his tough three months' Infantry Officers Course here. He will receive his commission as a Second Lieutenant in the Army of the United States, January 14, 1943.

Tales of Benning Soldiers Win Yank Contest Awards

"I am a Japanese-American. . . "

"I'm Jewish and proud of it."

"When I left home, I promised a little girl to bring back Hitler's mustache. I mean to keep that promise."

These are excepts from the kind of letters that helped Fort Benning soldiers win top honors in the "Nuts to the Axis" contest, sponsored by Yank, the official Army newspaper. The six winners from Fort Benning will get a year's subscription to Yank.

Representing almost every type of unit at the post, the winners are: Tech. 4th Gr. James Bentzel, Detachment, Medical Department; Pvt. D. M. Howard, 1st Co., 3rd Student Training Regiment; Cpl. Alvin H. Blohm, Co. A, 3rd Armored Regiment; Pvt. Marvin Brookhouser, 101st Airborne Division; Cpl. Peter Vera, Service Co., 505th Parachute Infantry; and Sgt. Lester A. Sobel, Headquarters, 1st Battalion, 54th Armored Infantry.

VARIETY CLUB FORMED IN TRAINING REGIMENT

Call for members of the Second Student Training Regiment who have been newspapermen, radio men, writers, artists or actors went out today from sponsors of a planned Variety Club. Members of the regiment in those categories are invited to a meeting Saturday night, February 6 in Columbus when a party is being arranged. The original plan was to start a Press Club but, following a preliminary meeting Sunday, it was decided to open the new organization to men who had been associated with the theater and cinema and allied professions also.

Victory Park Camp Opened

Recreation Center To Serve H. C. Area

In the presence of high-ranking officers of the Infantry School headed by Major General Leven C. Allen, the new School Brigade rest camp was officially opened last Friday on the shores of Victory Lake.

The opening marked the culmination of months of cooperative planning and work to provide all troops in the Harmony Church area with a recreational center for parties and celebrations.

Any organization desiring to use the rest camp must first contact brigade operations office to eliminate all confusion and keep reservations straight.

The new camp has been termed by Infantry School officers as a monument to grim determination in the face of great obstacles. Officers, enlisted men, and civilians cooperated in drawing plans, doing the manual labor necessary to complete these plans, and furnishing the building.

Much of the material was salvaged, including 3200 feet of piping. A 3,500 foot power line to the edifice was constructed under the direction of another officer: huge, sturdy logs were brought from the Shell Creek area by volunteer soldier labor. From an old abandoned CCC camp came dozens of large solid rocks which were wrestled into position to make the fireplace. Skilled hands of enlisted men fashioned the lighting fixtures. The American Red Cross donated a piano; furnishings were given by the Hecht Furniture company of Columbus, and the G. & H. Paint and Glass company supplied paint and glass.

O. C. Class Carries Own 'Dispensary'

The Seventh Company of the First Student Training Regiment now ventures forth on problems, field exercises, firing ranges, etc., with an extra feeling of security. The members of this class no longer have any fears of lying wounded and helpless on any of Benning's red-scarred slopes or battered hills.

The reason for this feeling can be easily understood if one will notice the student second-in-command marching proudly along at the rear of the company. Notice the object with the canvas cover which hangs from his shoulder on a study web strap.

It is Seventh company's First Aid kit which is almost a mobile dispensary. Credit for this compact little unit goes to Lt. William D. McNeel, who not only dreamed it up but built it and procured the contents.

The kit consists of a wooden box about ten inches square and four inches deep. Inside is cotton, iodine, aspirin, swabs, alcohol, bandages, and a dozen or more little medical items. It is even equipped with a bottle of very potent cough medicine. In the two weeks it has been with the company the kit has saved approximately forty man-hours of valuable instruction.

When a man gets banked up now he doesn't have to take a half day off to see a doctor but simply goes to "Doc" McNeel and gets the proper treatment. Lt. McNeel, in addition to being a crackerjack tactical officer and lawyer, makes a passable company first aid man.

PX Business Passes Million A Month Mark

Fort Benning's Exchange is now a million-dollar-a-month business!

Sales, both wholesale and retail, by the several Exchange activities on the post totaled $1,010,455.50 for the 30-day period of Dec. 21, 1942, to Jan. 21st, this year, it was disclosed today by Major H. E. McGaffey, Exchange Officer.

In revealing the skyrocketing sales income of Exchange activities, Major McGaffey said that when the vast Exchange activities were originally set up here it was hoped that the business would sell goods amounting to a million dollars a year. However, with the latest recapitulation on total sales, Major McGaffey said that there was no need to worry about the Exchange not being in the league of "big business."

Motor Mechanics, Radio Operators Awarded Ribbons

If you have wondered what those colored ribbons on the guidons of the Motor Mechanics and the Enlisted Radio Operators classes represent, here's the dope:

Six mornings a week, these classes pass in review on the 4th Battalion parade grounds. The battalion officer of the day takes note of the best class as to march discipline. The battalion commander, Lt. Col. Moore, and the adjutant, Lt. Edwards, take note from their different posts on the parade ground. Each class's recommendations are compiled at the end of the week end and the classes that were most consistant are awarded these different ribbons on Monday morning.

A class first receives a red ribbon, next a white, next a blue, and the best class of the Battalion is awarded a gold ribbon after they have won the other three. Each class retains the red, white and blue permanently but there is only one gold ribbon and therefore it changes from one class to another.

One radio operators' class held the gold ribbon for five straight weeks. A motor mechanics' class now at the school rang up a neat record of getting a new ribbon each week in succession until this week when it received the gold ribbon.

'Tiger' Promotions In 11th Armored

Thirteen enlisted men in the 11th Armored Regiment of the 10th Armored "Tiger" Division are wearing new chevrons as a result of their recent promotion. The men are:

To be Staff Sergeant, Charles R. Willeford.

To be Sergeant, Sam F. Castaldo.

To be Corporal, Carl E. Farmer.

To be Technicians 5th Grade, Albert Sakol, Nicholas Maslikosa, Herman O. Hall, Harold C. Raybuck, Jess Nash, George E. Sutton, Martin H. Stam, Harold Holmes, Harold Slayton and John W. Ockenga.

Choir of 2nd STR Sings in Atlanta

The choir of the Second Student Training Regiment made a very successful excursion to Atlanta over the past weekend where they sang the entire service and four special choral numbers at the Sunday service at the Episcopal Cathedral of St. Phillip.

The service was the monthly 'family service" at St. Phillips and the church was crowded as Dean Raimundo de Ovies, noted Southern Episcopalian prelate, using the choir as the theme for his service.

Following the service many of the choir members and officers who accompanied them were invited to homes of the congregation for Sunday dinner. The choir received a hearty invitation to return again to the Cathedral.

24th Infantry Sends Thanks For Presents

Former Benning Unit Overseas Grateful For Red Cross

"Thank you for the Christmas present", say the members of the 24th Infantry Band, long-stationed at Fort Benning, and now "somewhere in the South Sea Islands."

Two-four soldiers were sent candy, chewing gum, mixed fruits, cigaretts, and other gifts for Christmas by the American Red Cross. Last week Eugene Bussey, local field director received the following message, via V-mail:

"Somewhere in the South Pacific,

January 1, 1943.

"My Dear Sir:

"I received a very nice Xmas present from the Red Cross, and was very glad to get it, because it was just the things that we need over here. The boys and myself sure enjoyed the gifts, and it also made us feel that the people that we left in the USA are doing all that they can for us and still thinking about us.

"We are sure that the Red Cross are doing a swell job, and we are trying to do the same. May God bless you all and keep you safe. We hope that the war will be over soon.

"Thanking you very much for the gift, I remain obligingly yours. I wish you all a very happy and prosperous New Year.

SGT. HENRY RADCLIFFE, (Signed)
24th Inf. Band,
APO 932 care Postmaster,
San Francisco, Calif."

The 24th, a colored regiment, came to Fort Benning in 1942, boasting distinguished service at San Juan Hill, and later at Siboney in the Spanish-American War; of 15 years service in the Philippines; and of a tour of border patrol duty in Texas, which included action against Mexican's under Villa.

In the year from 1922 until March 1942, the 24th became a tradition here. Demonstrating superior ability on maneuvers as well as in garrison, it came to be known as a crack combat outfit. In the meantime, the 24th band was outstanding for its dance rhythm, as well as its rendition of marches and parade music.

Junior Checker Champ Moves to Win His 'Bars'

O. C. Loew Brings Impressive Record

Tall, broadshouldered and redheaded, the Junior Checker Champion of the world, Candidate Milton Loew, formerly of 1069 Gerard Avenue, Bronx, New York, is striving to gather more laurels unto himself, by adding to his already imposing array of titles, that of 2nd Lieutenant, U. S. Army.

Arriving at The Infantry School at Fort Benning several weeks ago, Candidate Loew has already made great headway toward the culmination of his latest desire, and states that if and when he can shift troops around as expertly as he does the men on his checker and chess boards, he will be in a fair way toward contributing his bit toward a successful culmination of World War II.

Starting to play checkers at the tender age of 13, Candidate Loew won his first championship at 14, when he won the Park Department Championship of New York City. Since then he has played in several major tournaments throughout the east and central states.

LOOK AT THE RECORD

His largest exhibition was given at Patterson, N. J., in 1939, when he played 58 games of checkers, and 10 games of chess simultaneously, losing no games.

A year later, he entered the National Checker Championship which was played at Flint, Michigan, composed of the Master Checker players of the United States, and tied for 13 major prizes, out of the 50 masses that were offered, and emerged from the Tournament as Junior Checker Champion of the United States. He is believed to be the youngest person ever to enter a National Tournament in the United States.

At a recent exhibition given at the U. S. O., at Columbus, Ga., in which he played 29 flights, he dropped five games and drew one, after having not engaged in any checker playing for approximately one and one-half years.

In his brief but varied checker playing career, Loew has played such Champions as Wm. F. Ryan, Checker Champion of the U. S., who used some of Loew's maneuvers in his championship games, Millard Hopper, an da great number of individual state champions.

Service Unit Promotes Ten

The Service Battalion, First Student Training Regiment, ISSC, has promoted 10 Enlisted Men.

Staff Sergeants Russell C. Benjamin and Herbert F. Gore have been advanced to 1st Sgts., and 8 other Enlisted Men of the same organization have been promoted to higher grades.

Technician Gr. IV Thomas L. Strong, Technicians Gr. V Woodrow Harvey and Eugene M. Smith were promoted to Sergeants.

Technicians Gr. V Lamar Johnson and Albert G. Shepard promoted to Technician Gr. IV. Pvt. Ulysses Tyson to Technician Gr. IV.

Pfc's Mbee Stokes and William T. Lucas promoted to Technician Gr. V.

Sgt. Wargowski Chased Villa Into Mexico

Veteran Retired After Excellent Army Record

The Third Armored Regiment recently retired a sergeant who helped chase Pancho Villa back across the Mexican border in 1916, who served under Maj. Gen. George Patton and Maj. Gen. Guy V. Henry when they were commanding the Third Cavalry, and who finally finished his Army career in Company "D" with an unbroken string of "Excellents" written on each of his nine reenlistment forms. The man is Staff Sergeant Edward F. Wargowski, who was placed on the Army's retired list after serving 30 years with the Third U. S. Cavalry and the Third Armored Regiment.

Sergeant Wargowski enlisted in Troop "I" of the 3rd Cavalry in 1912, and was promoted to sergeant during his second hitch. As sergeant he went across the Mexican border numerous times with his troops during the bandit uprisings. In 1917 he sailed for France on a convoy that experienced a notoriously rough crossing during which the Third Cavalry saw its lifeboats and rafts washed overseas, and its men compelled to remain below decks for most of the crossing. Under the command of Col. Francis H. Beach, Sgt. Wargowski and the members of Supply Troop operated the big remount depot at Bourbonne Les Bainsunder, France, and after the war, remained in France to help sell back to France the thousands of horses which had seen duty with American troops at the front. For his work in France, Sgt. Wargowski received the Victory Medal.

During the period following the war Sgt. Wargowski put in two reenlistment periods with Troop "F," which then, as now, was the "athletic" troop of the 3rd Cavalry. He was a member of the famed "Rough Riders" detachment which performed at Ft. Myer, Virginia before most of Europe's visiting dignitaries as well as all of the United States Presidents. A member of Headquarters and Service Troop until the 3rd Cavalry was inactivated to form the cadre for the 3rd Armored "Dragon" Regiment, Sgt. Wargowski was transferred to Company "D" when the present regiment was activated.

Six Promoted In Academic Reg't.

Six enlisted men in the Academic Regiment of the Infantry School Service Command were promoted in rank this week according to an announcement by the regimental commander, Colonel Harry N. Burkhalter.

Joseph Castagno of Belmont, Mass., and William H. Balch of Madison, Alabama were promoted from corporal to sergeant. Herbert L. Ellis of Beloit, Wisconsin, John Hilgenberg of Chicago, Frank A. Antonini of Detroit, and Leo O. Gillett of Avon, Illinois were promoted to corporals.

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—The city commission's going to find out who did it—and then catch him.

It authorized operation of a crime laboratory and purchase of two bloodhound pups.

Nine Engineers Win Promotions

New stripes are being worn by nine enlisted men of the 10th Armored Division 55th Engineer Battalion as a result of their recent promotions.

The men are: To be Staff Sergeant, Harry A. Lanham; to be Sergeants, Orville R. Camien, Francis King and Boleslaw Bender; to be Corporals, Louis Edgar, Clarence Clegg, Gale Pierce and Raymond Burroughs; and to be Technician 4th Grade, Walter Wisz.

KIRVEN'S

Limited Time!

½ PRICE SALE

Lucien Le Long's

PERFUMED SOAP

Reg. $2 Value

$1 4 Cakes

Now, for a limited time only, you can get four luscious cakes of Lucien Lelong's perfumed soap for only $1. This delightful soap is known for its soft lather and lingering scent. Choice of fragrances: carnation, sweet pea, gardenia, honeysuckle, camellia, white lilac in six lovely colors. Be certain to take advantage of this once-a-year sale!

TOILETRIES
KIRVEN'S STREET FLOOR

KIRVEN'S

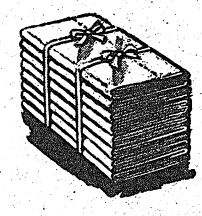
WHALE of a WHITE SALE

Ends this Week

Snap up these Values While they Last

Cannon MUSLIN SHEETS
(Only 4 to a customer)

Extra large (90x108) fine-quality muslin sheets by Cannon. Closely woven to take wear and launder beautifully. Don't miss this white sale value!



White Sale 1.95

QUILTED BED PADS

Muslin-covered, cotton-filled quilted bed pads that will preserve the life of your mattress. A real white sale feature!

Single 39x76 ..... 2.09

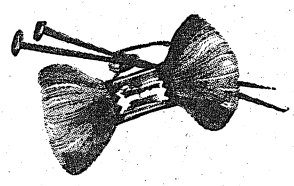
Double 54x76 ..... 2.59

Calloway BATH MATS

Thick Turkish bath mats by Calloway that would cost much more if they didn't have a slight imperfection you'll scarcely notice. Pink, gold, and white. Our Ceiling 2.50.

White Sale 1.49

BED PILLOWS



20x26 bed pillows filled with goose and duck feathers; and 15% down with down-proof ticks. Stock up now during this white sale! Our Ceiling 7.50 pr.

White Sale 5.88 pr.

LINENS
KIRVEN'S STREET FLOOR

KIRVEN'S

Start Knitting . . . for Your Man in Service

100% Wool Khaki Worsted 1.10 4 oz. skein

Knitting is a delightful hobby . . . see our new shipment of 100% virgin wool khaki knitting worsted today. Soft and easy to work with, only two skeins necessary for a sleeveless sweater. Our instructors will be happy to assist you . . . so start knitting today.

ART NEEDLEWORK
ENTER THRU HOMEFURNISHINGS

J. A. KIRVEN CO.
YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

FT. BENNING BAYONET

FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1943.

Edited By Public Relations Staff

The Benning Bayonet published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

"When the great day of battle comes, remember your training and remember above all that speed and violence of attack are the sure road to success, and you must succeed—for to retreat is as cowardly as it is fatal. Indeed, once landed, retreat is impossible. Americans do not surrender."

—Major General George S. Patton

Private Pleads, 'Don't Let George Go It Alone'

Civilians and True Americans:

I wish to take this opportunity to express the feeling of every mother and father's son who is fighting—for our great cause of freedom, democracy, justice and peace.

We fellows hear every day how you and you and you are striking for higher wages, complaining because you can't take your pleasure rides on nights and Sundays, paying Victory tax, giving up a few pleasures; and yet you feel that you are giving everything that you could possibly give. You even think that you are having life hard. And after a hard week's work you are asked to buy War Bonds with a part of your salary. You have to stand on a bus all the way home. That you are giving up everything that was ever yours. You think that you are winning this terrible war by giving a little and taking a few hardships. No, my friends, you are wrong. You know nothing of the hardships and miseries you will suffer if we do not pull together as one. People, what are we fighting for? Are we fighting for money, lust, greed and Hitlerism, or are we fighting for everlasting peace? Think for yourselves—Can't you see what you are doing to your sons, your sweethearts, your husbands and to your country? Can't you realize that they are giving everything that is in their power to give—their very lives—to conquer this terrible thing that is sweeping the world. Can't you see what it will lead to if one holds back because another does? Don't pull away from each other and say, "Well, he or she gave so much, why should I worry about buying this or giving that?" "Why shouldn't we strike for higher wages or take our pleasure rides when we are ready? This is a free country, isn't it?" Yes—and we are going to keep it that way, because we will all perish before we are under such rule and slavery as the barbarians are trying to force this world into. Can't you realize that it is our homes, our country, our freedom and democracy we are fighting for? Don't you want this horrible war to end as soon as possible; your sons, husbands and sweethearts to come home to you earlier with victory, or had you rather for them to fight on and on and go through more hell just because of holding back, waiting on the other fellow?

You have got to wake up, Americans, and give until it hurts and keep on giving until we have won, which we will, if you only back us with everything it takes to win. True Americans, that is that we are asking you to do in this great cause. If you will only pull together, we will eliminate the Axis and their barbarian tribes. You do your part and we will more than gladly do ours. Stick together, Americans, and victory will soon be ours. Then we can all enjoy the peace and freedom that follows.

I hope that you will heed this plea from your sons, your husbands and your fellow men.

May God help you to realize all of this!

Truly, I am

"A Private in your Country's Army."
Private T. L. Hawkins,
Med. Detachment, Station Hospital.

We Thank God She's Only One Among Many

Just as there are men and men, obviously there are women and women, but the fact was only forcefully brought home to us this week.

We have long admired the courage of the Army wife. We have known many whose husbands left for foreign service with only a day's notice. The woman, left behind, cheerfully cleaned up affairs, took care of all the unbearable details of breaking up a house, and boarded a train—in some cases—with infant children or even an unborn child—for a strange place to make a new home. And certainly none but she can know her anxiety as she still wonders what her husband's fate may be.

But the other day we heard another Army wife. She was afraid to use her husband's car to go to a club meeting. Her companion suggested she take a bus, but the thought brought a gasp of horror.

"My dear," she said, "it's four blocks to the bus line from my house and I'd have to walk three blocks after I got off."

Then she ruminated a moment and brightened. "Maybe," she said, "they won't be so fussy about using cars after this wears off a little."

Shades of the women of the American frontier! Shades of Bataan!! Shades of anything!!!

Our Civilian Employees Do Not Go On Strike

As we read our daily newspapers, we believe the most disturbing national stories are those relative to the attitude of some civilian workers who take part in "strikes" during the national emergency. And we believe our reaction is shared by all at Fort Benning.

It was only after President Roosevelt personally enjoined the anthracite coal miners to go back to work last week that these "strikers" returned to their vital war jobs.

At Fort Benning, however, we find a different spirit entirely. A distinct spirit of commaderie pervades the civilian army of more than 5,000 workers at our Post. We hear nothing of strikes.

A hundred women mechanics and trained technicians at the Lawson Field Sub Depot have taken over key jobs at the air field; hundreds of others work in headquarters and other offices as clerks and stenographers; still others, who are perhaps closer to us than the latter, are our congenial hostesses in the Service Clubs and matrons in the Guest Houses where our mothers and sweethearts live when they visit the Post.

To these women we bow in appreciation for their fine spirit.

And, similarly, to our small army of civilian male workers, we offer a salute.

Hundreds of carpenters, and plumbers, and scores of other trained workers daily lend their abilities to the improvement of the Post. The details of construction crews from the Area Engineer's office and the Post Engineer's office are outstanding example sof technicians who play a vital role in building up our post and improving our establishment.

Hundreds of civilian workers played a vital role in repairing damage done to the post during the recent rain and wind storm. Many went without hot meals or any meals at all just to get our utilities back into working shape.

To these men and women, to the spirit they represent, we doff our hats. They are veritably joined with us, in a true sense, they are "enlisted for the duration."

After All, Civilization At Most Has Thin 'Crust'

"Brave Housewives Undertake Pioneer Task—Slicing Bread."—Headline in the Atlanta Constitution, Jan. 23.

And the opening of the story reads:

"Who says the pioneering spirit which built this country is dead?

"The women of America have been called to arms. The lily-handed ladies you used to know have turned almost overnight into a bunch of kitchen commandos.

"They are cutting their own bread!"

Have you had enough of the story?

Pardon us while we get some bicarbonate. Our editorial stomach can't take it.

A Dime Or Maybe Two Will Aid A Worthy Cause

Many of us are digging into our pockets this week to add a little something to the celebrated "March of Dimes," the annual drive to support the Warm Springs Foundation for the victims of infantile paralysis.

There's no need for us to suggest sending a dime or two addressed to the President of the United States, White House, Washington, D. C. to help swell the "March of Dimes." We feel all that's necessary is a reminder that this is the time to start the contributions rolling in.

The 124th Infantry Alligators are due some praise for taking cognizance of the drive this year. The 'Gators have opened an arch, leading to the pen of Adam Lazonga II, the unit's famed alligator mascot. For each soldier who wants to see the animal a dime must be tossed into a box which is accumulating funds for the March of Dimes.

The First Battalion of the 124th also is up for a bouquet or else a beefsteak dinner. Those boys are contributing one week's collection in the Wishing Well to the drive for dimes.

Others of you who attend the Ninth Street USO dance in Columbus Saturday night will have a chance to drop in a dime or two for "no-break" dances.

The civilians at the office of the Supply Division are doing their share in contributing to the nation charity. A length of adding machine tape several feet long, has been covered with dimes totaling $27.

These examples of Fort Benning personnel offering their contributions in the "March of Dimes" reflect the patriotic spirit of our troops and civilian workers alike.

Let's all join in contributing to this worthy cause. It costs so little but means so much!

AT THE STORE

If everybody's out to get
The best for themselves they can,
And think they'd be fools
To abide by the rules,
And care for the other man,
Then, alas and alack,
When our men get back
Victorious from the war,
They'll find to their cost
That we have lost
What they've been fighting for.

No waste, plus no hoarding, plus no fussing equals no shortage plus no cussing

Climbing to the top of the tree is an activity natural to squirrels and monkeys. What raises homo sapiens above the level of the beast isn't being at the top of the tree but thinking and caring for other people.

Chains they can't escape are a tragedy for conquered nations and frustrated men. But behind this is the tragedy of chains they can escape—and don't!

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

PVT. MURPHY'S UNTIED SHOE-STRINGS NET HIM STRINGENT PUNISHMENT

By S-SGT. TOM McDONALD

"This morning! sergeant," says Colonel T. P. Swampwater, "we are going to Fort Benning's spacious guard house, where those who err from the paths of duty are reaping the fruits of their diversions!"

"Shades of Salome!" I thought. "I wonder if the ol' boy has caught up with me? Up to now I figured that I'd covered up my tracks pretty well, but then who can tell; maybe he saw me doing something I thought I could get away with. Maybe one of my 'friends' put him wise—and then just as another horrible thought flashed across my mind, the ol' boy continued:

"Yes, the wages of sin are high! But the wages of duty are beyond remuneration. What a pity those young soldiers in confinement can't follow your shining example of conduct, Sergeant!

"Yes sir," I said (wondering if anybody saw me going through Columbus without my blouse.)

"Today, sergeant!" beamed the old wearer of Eagles, "I am going to take you over to the guard house so that they can see you, so that those unfortunate men may see the rewards of sterling conduct"

Blushing profusely, I followed my master to out jeep, scrambled reluctantly in, and, before I could think of a good excuse to get out of going, we were there.

Standing nervously behind the Colonel in the Provost Marshal's office (lest I be recognized for some bygone trick), I listened anxiously as my commander made arrangements for our little tour.

"Captain," the Colonel says, "I wish to question your most hardened criminal, your most perverse digressor. I should like to see how his mind works."

"Yes sir!" said the Captain, "follow me". So ambling along behind the brass laden M.P. we presently arrived at the most solitary cell 88 feet below street level in a typical medieval dungeon. The air was muggy.

Unilluminated except for a solitary candle resting on a pile of rocks. In one corner its feeble light outlined the features of this "desperate character" whom we had come to visit, this terrible fiend, whose ball and chain clinked menacingly as we stared at him.

"As you see" said the M.P. captain, "we keep three Yale locks on the door of his cell just in case."

"Pays to be safe," agreed the Colonel, scratching nervously at his—well anyway he was scratching—a nervous mannerism he often assumed when he was in great danger.

"This man," continued the captain, "is truly terrifying to us here. Why only last night he called the corporal a naughty name, and you simply can't imagine how embarrassed we all were. There really wasn't a thing left to do but put the man in solitary confinement." "Quite so" mused the Colonel, "quite so." What is he charged with?"

"I don't recall right off-hand, Colonel," repeated our guide. "Perhaps you might ask the prisoner. His name is Murphy."

After clearing his throat benevolently as befitted his rank, the Colonel sputtered out the question. "What are you charged with," and as the great man spoke, Murphy got silently to his feet and dragged himself and his ball and chain to the door of the cell. As I got a better look at him, I realized that he was only a mere boy, probably forty-five or so and he weighed only about 120 lbs.

"Well, it's this way, Sir," said Murphy. "The first sergeant in my company just doesn't understand me, the mess sergeant doesn't understand me; the supply sergeant doesn't understand me; and to be perfectly honest, Sir, I was just misunderstood."

"Is that why you're here?" asked the Colonel. "Yes and no," repeated Murphy. "It's all a very long story. It happened on Friday night seventeen years ago. A cold night in January, when there was nobody here but the regular army men and officers."

"Yes, I remember," mused ol' T.P. "A very cold night it was."

"Well Sir," continued Murphy, "I was standing there in our orderly room, minding my own business when, who should walk in, but Second Lt. Ironjaw, our platoon leader. I immediately snapped to attention, standing rigid as a ramrod, and then it happened: yes, sir, it really happened: One of my shoe strings broke and became untied. With a wild animal-like bellow the lieutenant looked at my laces and yelled "you're under arrest, Private Murphy!" The charge is neglect of caring for Government property. You are a disgrace to the company,—a total military failure."

Bolnick Discourses---

On 'Army Lingo'; Censors Forbids x x x, Might Be Code

By CPL. M. N. BOLNICK

Some newspapers insist that soldiers constantly write and talk strictly GI—in this manner:

"The taxpayers will have to get their flea sacks under the belt in Tent City before they stuff their grease traps with bullets and torpedoes. Whether it's slop or fried crow and swamp water with hand grenades for dessert, the wolves will finish it off."

To you and me that is supposed to mean that the civilians have just arrived in the Army, and that they will pick up their bed equipment in the recruit area. If they're lucky they might get a meal of stew or chicken, if not, they'll get frankfurters and beans—and like it.

Suppose some morning you are heading down to the Mess Hall—you meet a buddy and ask: "What's for breakfast?" He says, "You know, shoulder pads with machine oil, shingles and mud with armored cow—and the usual sidearms."

On a menu that would be translated as: Griddle cakes with syrup, toast, coffee and canned milk—and salt and pepper if needed.

Just picture a soldier standing before the Squadron Commander and enumerating his breakfast in the above manner—and then picture him in the Greybar Hotel, by which name newspapers insist soldiers call the Guardhouse.

Soldiers have a lingo all their own, but not quite as thick as the newspapers indicate. These expressions often vary in different Posts.

At Benning, when tidying up for inspection, the order is: "...a high state of police." In other camps it is: "Spread the eyewash." At Benning the Mess Hall has been called many strange names, but never "Ulcer Gulch" or "Dyspepsia Factory," as the newspapers tell us soldiers call the Mess Hall.

There are no restrictions in the use of the soldier slang. The soldier can stretch it as far as his vocabulary will take him. The only thing the censor says is that in overseas letters the XXXX must be omitted. They may be construted as code signals. The censor thinks she'll love the soldier just as much without them.

Of course every soldier knows that a letter to or from his "pigeon" is a "sugar report." At least, that's what the newspapers tell us.

Chaplain's Corner...

THE BLESSED YESTERDAYS

By Chaplain Frank M. Thompson

And the stately ships go by
To their haven under the hill;
But O for the touch of a vanished hand
And the sound of a voice that is still.

A dour picture. All hope blotted out. The most enduring ties broken forever. And that is life, but not all of life. The passing days carry much away, they also put by something, make a deposit of sweetness, as bees store away honey for lean years.

Memory holds on to mother's songs, to the early defeats and victories, to friends who stood by in time of need, to the sacrifices and heroisms of the common folks. A multitude of experiences, though some were charged with pain and disappointment, have contributed to the joy of living—even as stars long since burnt out continue to shine on the earth.

He lives in the past. Why not, if the past is more glorious than the present? It often is. The tender grace of a day that is dead does come back. We do feel the touch of a vanished hand and hear the voice that is still.

The past is not the past.
All my blessed yesterdays
Will bear their fruit while time shall last,
Their fragrance sweeten all my ways;
For every garden where for me the sun did shine
Was and is and ever shall be mine.

Eve Says—

THE GIRLS REALLY GO THROUGH GRUELLING 'COMMANDO' COURSE

The Infantry School has received the attention of distinguished educators from ivy-walled halls of knowledge. Their tricks of instruction are many and exceedingly clever. Presumptious then of me to suggest they've overlooked a potent and ready-made obstacle course that would do much to foster a warlike and healthy hate for our Axis enemies.

I suggest a course to be known as "Marketing at Fort Benning." The officers should be supplied with a list of the necessary errands and should be free to start off in the morning in the approved Benning style.

The first stop would be the bank to cash a check of sizeable proportions. He'd stand in line there. Thence to the post office for some stamps. He stand in line again. A stop-over at the Craft Shop for a wedding gift to be purchased at a nominal sum would test his inkuenuity of choosing a gift that didn't look like it was purchased with a smouldering resentment of the weekly wedding invitations from young folks you hardly knew, and suspected he'd never know.

The next stop would be the commissary, only he wouldn't be able to stop right off. He would drive around the parking area several times looking for a space, dodging trucks, jeeps, women, soldiers and bags of groceries. His task would then be to find substitutes for the items listed on the grocery order and more waiting in lines. His temper wouldn't have become too ruffled as yet.

The Quartermaster Laundry would be the next on the list. There would be more parking troubles, that of huge trucks and mud holes. A girl would find a laundry bundle belonging to Lt. Berry and Col. Berry. There'd be one for Maj. A. R. Berry, but none for Maj. J. C. Berry. After minutes and minutes of unearthing many bundles of laundry of every Berry on the Post an idea would break on the face of the girl in charge. "When did you bring your laundry in?" "Oh—well, your laundry won't be ready for another four days."

The old blood pressure would be commencing to rise and breath coming in short and violent gasps as he parked his car before the Post Exchange Grocery. The real salt-in-the-wounds test would begin. He would wait and wait and wait. Numbers would be called with a slow and deadly inevitability after blank intervals when only the twittering sound of womens' voices could be heard complaining about everything on earth from the high price of food, the lack of food ,the mixed orders delivered from the grocery, servants ,problem children and isn't our lot in life a trying one?

An hour and a half passes before he emerges glazed of eye and hair on end. At this point, with the morning hours passed into mid-day ,it can be safely assumed he's in a proper frame of mind to pick up any lethal weapon and end the war promptly and swiftly. The corrosion of frustration and irritation has stimulated a deep and lasting hate for all the forces that brought it on.

Should it be impracticable to subject our men to this trial by strain on the patience the boiling rage of the women might be utilized. Not one that wouldn't joyfully slay battalions of our enemies so that they might once again attend to their household shopping with a reasonable degree of pleasure.

USO Presents—

A 'MARCH OF DIMES' DANCE ON THE PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY

Bl Cpl. Solomon S. Kleindorf

This week let's begin this column with beginners . . . And that means a beginner's dance class is being started at the Army and Navy YMCA-USO in Columbus every Monday night at eight . . . Following right on the heels of the beginner's class will be square dancing for those who are so inclined. This will take place at 9:30 p. m. the same evening . . . Also something new at the same club will be the Small Games night. On Wednesdays at 8 p. m. on the second floor of the building . . . These games include bridge, checkers, chess, pinochle and such . . . Sorry, no crap-shooting allowed.

A special request has been made by Mr. Hardin of the USO-Salvation Army Club in Phenix City . . . Can the fellow or fellows who took the buttons off the blouse and left a very good blouse in the yard please write Mr. Hardin a letter telling him why the blouse wasn't taken . . . And please, boys, don't loosen your belts so much that they fall off while seating in the telephone booths. I know the food in the club is very good, but that's no reason for stuffing yourself . . . Speaking of food reminds me that the spaghetti dinners being given by the aforementioned club is going over one-hundred percent.

Here's something of interest to the men in the service. The Ninth Street USO is sponsoring, in cooperation with the St. Catherine's Circle and the Service Guild, a "President's Ball" on Saturday, Jan. 30. Some very novel attractions and contests for this dance include the "March of Dimes" dance, to replace the usual no-break dance. For this number, of which there will be two during the evening, the soldier wishing to dance with any particular girl for the duration of the dance, will donate ten cents toward the "March of Dimes" fund that will be contributed to the President's Infantile Paralysis Relief fund . . and those who wish to show how well they can jitter-bug, can enter the contest and be crowned King and Queen of Jitter-bug besides receiving a prize . . . Outside of the two ten cent dances there will be no charge for admission.

Say, did you know that there are movies shown at the Salvation Army-USO Club in Columbus every Friday night. They may not be the latest things but they are still good for some fun and laughs . . . The recording machine at the same club has been overhauled and is now being placed near the piano so that you can have music and songs on your records as well as your voice . . . Come on down and "talk a letter home" every Thursday.

POETRY

OH, MY LOVE IS LIKE A RED, RED ROSE THAT'S NEWLY SPRUNG IN JUNE

MY GAL

By Muzzy

When I gets up for reveille, early every morn,
I see your face before me an' I'm glad that I am your'n.
I get so nice an' dreamy, I don't know where I'm at,
An' even Sgt. Butch's growl is like a fireside chat.
An' when I sits me down to chow, my head's all in a whirl
As I shake salt into my coffee, drinkin', dreamin' o' my gal.
I get mustard in my salad an' my fork is in my soup,
An' icecream is forgotten as my heart goes loop-the-loop.
Shoestrings they ain't tied at all, necktie Gawd knows where,
Search all over for my comb, then forget to comb my hair.
So now I'm doin' K.P., but I don't give a boo,
For even now I see your face, a-floatin' in the stew.

QUESTIONS

By Muzzy, H. Q. Det., D. E. M. L.-I. S. C. Post

Dear God, is it so wrong to fight,
To shield the joys we hold so dear;
Our homes, our lands, our freedom blessed;
Our loved ones torn by endless fear?

Dear God, is it right to ignore
The threat to life and home,
Just to sit by and watch a war
That guts our field and native loam?

And how to feed the hungry mouths
That trustfully look up to me,
For sustenance thru storm and drouth,
When shells are flying wild and free?

My fields are now so charred and brown,
Destroyed by shell and searing fire,
Where crops once basked in warmest sun,
There is now naught but scathed barbed wire.

Seems just last night we were at peace,
Listening to the summer thunder;
Louder the rumbling grew, then came the wail
Of carnage bold, and plunder.

Again I ask, Dear God above,
Is it so wrong to fight?
Protect we must our homes and lands!
We know it is. It must be right.

QM Refrigeration Units Are 'Butter, Egg Men'

283rd And 289th Could Supply Perishables For 120,000 Men

Butchers and big butter and egg men for the army are the Quartermaster refrigeration units, such as the 283rd and 289th, which serve Fort Benning.

Although still in training, either of these companies, in a short time, could daily supply meat, eggs, cheese, butter, and lard for 120,000 men. Considering the average fighting man consumes seven-tenths of a pound of meat and one to two eggs daily, keeping the soldier's stomach full is a big problem.

Every detail of preparation and handling of these products from the refrigerator car to the company kitchen will be accomplished by these units. First the cold storage platoon is responsible that meats, eggs, cheese, butter and the other products, are properly stored, each requiring a slightly different treatment. Carcasses are put in cold storage rooms with temperatures not exceeding 10 degrees. Cheese, eggs, and cuts of meat, frankfurters, and baloney are kept at temperatures ranging between 36 to 38 degrees.

ICE MANUFACTURED

The task of keeping these foodstuffs properly cooled falls to the refrigeration platoon. Here specialists install and operate air conditioning systems, or, if that is not practical, they use ice. The platoon is capable of manufacturing 200 tons of ice per day if necessary.

During all handling, foodstuffs are checked and inspected by veterinary officers assigned to these units. Food for soldiers must be scrupulously clean and fresh, and carefully handled. Spoiled or unclean supplies may put an entire army out of action.

BUTCHERY PLATOON

So far only supplementary groups have been mentioned. The heart of the whole refrigeration company is the butchery platoon, which is equipped to slaughter, clean, bone and butcher all meats, so that it will be ready for issue, and 120,000 men can eat plenty of meat in a day. It requires three band saws operating 24 hours a day to cut the daily beef ration. If boneless beef is being served, it takes three shifts of 12 men, working 8 hours each day to hack and butcher enough for those 120,000 hungry mouths. These figures are based on average times for expert butchers. Using inexperienced soldiers, it takes much longer.

SOLDIER APPRENTICES

However, a unique training system has been developed in cooperation with Columbus packing houses. Here men of the 283rd Quartermaster company, understudy skilled packers, butchers, and refrigeration specialists. Working side by side with these employes, they gain experience by doing. The soldiers do not replace civilian workers, but merely serve as apprentices.

In addition to meat and other foodstuffs handled by refrigeration units, perishable medical supplies are stored under their supervision.

Commanding the 283rd QM and 289 th QM companies, respectively are 2nd Lt. Wayne R. McFadyen, and Captain Benjamin W. Long. Of the two outfits, the 289th is the older, being one of the first four refrigeration groups activated. Both the 283rd and 289th are fixed companies, which will operate from permanent bases, but smaller mobile outfits follow troops into the field giving them the butter, eggs, and meat to keep those fighting stomachs tight.

Maj. McGaffey Made Lt. Col.

Promotion Comes As Exchange's Income Soars During Year

Major Harold E. McGaffey, director of the Exchange Branch at Fort Benning since last June, was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel Monday.

Colonel McGaffey's promotion was disclosed at headquarters as it was revealed that the Exchange at Fort Benning is operating a million-dollar-a-month business enterprise.

Some time ago, before Col. McGaffey's assignment to Fort Benning from Camp Blanding Fla., it was hoped by Army authorities that Exchange activities would do an annual business, wholesale and retail sales, of a million dollars. However, from the 20-day period of December 21, to January 21, the sales totaled $1,010,465.50.

LAUDED BY FULTON

Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of Fort Benning, in announcing Col. McGaffey's promotion, lauded the director of the Exchange Branch. Gen. Fulton declared that Col. McGaffey is "a hard working, efficient officer whose experience and administration ability has proved of great value in establishing a high standard of proficiency in the Exchange Branch of this command, during its greatest period of expansion."

Col. McGaffey has direct supervision of over 75 exchange activities, including 64 branch stores and more than 850 civilian employes who operate the tremendous chain of filling stations, grocery stores, main exchange with 11 departments, exchange branches, barber shops, watch repair shops, soda fountains, and other activities. With a background of years of experience with a New England wholesale grocery and with a large chain grocery in Miami Beach, Fla., Col. McGaffey was recalled to active military duty in 1940 and was sent shortly after to Camp Blanding, Fla., to be exchange officer.

PHENOMENAL SUCCESS

Starting with $60 of his own money, Col. McGaffey built the Camp Blanding exchange into a $3,000,000 business in less than a year and on June 18, 1942, was ordered to Fort Benning and assigned as assistent exchange officer. A few weeks later, he was appointed exchange officer, and has been supervising the post's exchange stores since that time.

Col. McGaffey has also had considerable military experience, serving first on the Mexican border in 1916 and later going to Plattsburg Training Camp where he received a commission as a second lieutenant.

In December, 1917, he was sent overseas in the Signal Corps Aviation Section. After serving six months in England, he went to France, served in four major battles and received the Croix de Guerre and a personal citation.

Later the colonel served with the Army of Occupation returning to the United States after 23 months and eight days service with the American Expeditionary Force. He was assigned to Mitchell Field, New York, for a time before resigning his commission to go into private business.

A native of Barnet, Vt., Col. McGaffey attended public schools there before going to Dartmouth University.

Horse—

(Continued from Page One)

Whenever practicable now, officers use the motorcycles.

"The addition of the horse and buckboard will be put into use in many ways," Gen. Fulton observed. "Where transportation is needed and there is no necessity for speedy transportation, the horse and buggy will be available. I plan to use it in many of my routine inspections of post activities."

In a day when Army transportation as well as civilian travel is accelerated by the latest inventions in airplanes and fast cars and trucks, the resurrection of the horse and buggy at Fort Benning signifies the re-birth of a mode of transportation at one time the most reliable in the country.

Already much gasoline and oil, as well as the life of rubber tires, have been saved by the conservation programs instituted by Gen. Fulton. As the motorcycle and horse transportation at headquarters is further coordinated, further savings will be made in vital gas and oil.

Part of the new Alaska highway surfacing is made of wood.

Wooden whaleboats are used in the U. S. Navy.

Heir-Raid

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Arden F. Rootes, boy, Jan. 16, 34th Air Base, Photo Dept., Lawson Field.

T-5 and Mrs. Gilbert Bridy, girl, Jan. 20, 29th Infantry.

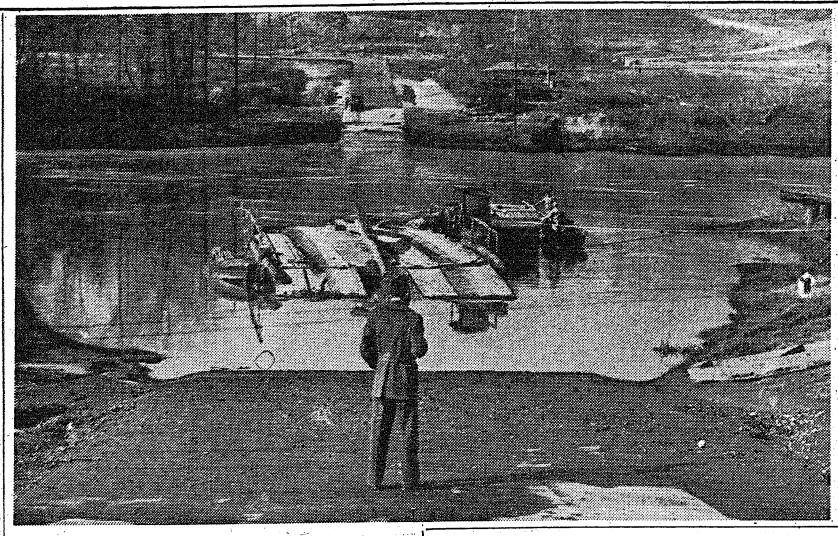
Sgt. and Mrs. James C. Pruett, girl, Jan. 21, Co. "L," 29th Infantry.

Sgt. and Mrs. Cook L. Deal, girl, Jan. 21, Co. "D," 85th Engineers, 10th Armored Division.

Captain and Mrs. William S. Huff, boy, Jan. 22, 1061 Roosevelt Avenue, Columbus, Ga.

Corporal and Mrs. Carl L. Wilcox, boy, Jan. 22, Co. "L," 124th Infantry.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Lemuel L. Pitts, girl, Jan. 22, Instructor, 511th Infantry.



Pfc. and Mrs. Harold J. Forest, boy, Jan. 22, Co. "E," 1st Parachute Training Regiment.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Harold D. Meehan, boy, Jan. 22, Co. "K," 21st Quartermaster Regiment.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Edwin H. Ferguson, boy, Jan. 22, Co. "P," 309th Infantry.

Captain and Mrs. Robert J. Reible, girl, Jan. 24, Instructor, Infantry School.

Sgt. and Mrs. Ivan E. Reeves, girl, Jan. 24, Co. "H," Academic Regiment.

Ancient Ferry Links Post, Alabama Area

System Saves Drivers 38-Mile Alternative Trip

Split by the Chattahoochee, Fort Benning proper and the Alabama area are linked together by an old-time ferry, and the very latest mode of travel—the airplane.

In matters of dire urgency the plane is used but ordinarily it is the ferry. Speaking of the latter, Chinese used similar ones to effect crossings 2,000 years ago. By means of simple cables, the boat was headed upstream, causing river current to pull the craft across. This same principle is used today to force the unpredictable Chattahoochee to bear the burden of transportation.

At times it rebels. It did January 18. Rising from 27 to 30 feet, in 24 hours, the Chattahoochee threw off its worrisome load, leaving vehicles on both sides faced with a 38-mile journey as an alternative. Three times within the last year this river of Sidney Lanier fame has snapped its fingers in the face of men, defying all attempts to harness its power. During the summer of 1941, there was so little water in the stream that the ferry was aground. It was possible for foot passengers to walk across, but motor transportation was bottlenecked.

20,000 PEDESTRIANS

However, as 1st Lt. C. W. McKeown says, "There are times people talk about. In an ordinary month, our ferry shuttles 20,000 foot passengers and 10,000 commercial and government vehicles back and forth, which is a pretty good record. Besides this ferry, made of twin, 60-foot scows, lashed together, can transport 15 tons, from one side to the other in 10 minutes. This is at practically no cost to the government."

Lt. McKeown, assigned to the newly created transportation corps, is charged with Fort Benning's rail and water transportation problems. Assisting him is Lt. Wilton G. Geefe, also a member of the new corps.

During times of emergency the 71st Engineer Regiment, supplements ferry service with pontoon bridges, or may operate a motorboat for foot passengers when the Chattahoochee runs rampant. However, it is not practical to keep a pontoon bridge on the river. First there is the maintenance crew required, and secondly because the stream is navigable.

Volunteer at 55 Served Nation in World War I

Pvt. Charles Morgan Symbolizes Spirit Of Determined Man

A slight, white haired little man whom the recruits at Fort McPherson immediately called "Pop" came to the Detachment Medical Department last week to report for duty.

He didn't ask to be interviewed and would have gone quietly on with his new work in the 1st Sergeant's office. However, his Form 20 betrayed him and Pvt. Charles F. Morgan gave out this amazing story.

Born in 1887 in Shelbyville, Indiana, Pvt. Morgan left school at 13 and went to work in a printing concern because his family was dependent on him. He became a successful printer and worked at it until 1918, when, although he might have been deferred for being of the maximum age in the World War I draft age limit, he enlisted and went overseas.

SERVED OVERSEAS

Morgan spent eight months overseas with the 140th Inf., 35th Div., and was at Verdun when all the fireworks were going on there. He desired not to speak of his adventures there, for all we know he may even have won the D. S. M.—one never knows about these soft-spoken, modest little men.

Upon his return to this country, he went back into printing for another 17 years, at the same time becoming a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. His concentrated work in this organization led to his election as State Commander of the V. F. W. in Alabama, the highest honor for any veteran. Up to the time of his enlistment last month Morgan was post commander of the Montgomery, Alabama, chapter of the V. F. W.

VOLUNTEERS AT 55

Feeling that he wasn't able to give enough to his country as a civilian, Morgan volunteered at 55 last month, "to finish up some unfinished business of 1918 and to have a hand in determining the peace which will follow this war."

Morgan one can see, did not volunteer with any heroics in mind, nor did he want to be interviewed even though his story is an amazing one.

"My legs are a little weak," he said, "but I still may be able to do something, anything that will help my country, and I'd rather have them take me than my 15-year-old son who wants to get in the Navy and scarcely knows what this is all about."

Civilian Dorms Filling Slowly

Only 34 Per Cent Of Space Occupied

Dormitories for civilian workers on the reservation erected by Army authorities to alleviate the critical housing shortage in Columbus, are approximately 34 per cent filled, according to George B. Jefferson, manager of the civilian barracks.

Of the 310 accomodations available in the dormitories, 106 persons have moved in to date. The barracks for white civilian men has been filled, according to latest reports. Only 30 persons have moved in these quarters where there are vacancies for 160, making the quarters about 18 per cent filled.

Applications have been slow in coming in for the dormitories, which were opened January 2, Mr. Jefferson states. He disclosed that the shortage of adequate dining space for civilians on the post has been a primary reason for the slow rate of application to live on the post.

When the new Exchange restaurant and cafeteria is completed next month, it is anticipated that more civilians will be interested in taking advantage of the housing facilities offered here.

Rental rates on quarters in the dormitories have been established at $15 per month for one person per room and $10 per month for each person when two occupy the room. When three male civilians are renting the room, rent is $8 each. The rental charge includes heating, bedding, lights, linen service and janitorial service.

MALE OCCUPANCY OFF

In his figures disclosing the number of rooms occupied, Mr. Jefferson points out that there were originally 88 vacancies for white women. For the vacancies, 80 applications have been filled and to date 57 women have moved in to occupy quarters. For the 160 vacancies for white men, 40 applications have been filled. Only 30 men have occupied quarters, however.

There are 22 vacancies for colored women in the dormitories. Seven applications have been made while three women have moved in. For the 40 vacancies for colored men, 26 applications have been made, and 16 men have occupied quarters.

Civilian employes working at the post can make application to their department heads for quarters in the barracks. These applications will be forwarded by department heads to the commanding general of the post who determines eligibility for the facilities.

War College Makes Use Of TIS Artist's Work

Clerico Illustrates Manuals, Pamphlets Published by School

From window trimmer to illustrator to soldier—this in brief is the life history of Lt. Louis R. Clerico, Jr., of Newark, N. J., whose editorial cartoons are reproduced in the Bayonet.

The illustrator's civilian career was abruptly recessed in January, 1941, when he was called into service and sent to Fort Bragg, N. C., where he was assigned to public relations work in addition to his G. I. duties. He also found time to serve as art editor of his regimental newspaper and to draw illustrations which appeared in the Army Times and the Fort Bragg Post. Many of his illustrations of vehicles and army life were picked up by the Army War College in Washington.

He came to Benning as an officer candidate in August, 1942, and was graduated in November. At that time he was assigned as a staff artist in the Infantry School's Publication Section where his varied experience has made him invaluable in illustrating training manuals and pamphlets.

WAR DESIGNER

Lt. Clerico graduated from the Newark Fine and Industrial Arts High School and later followed his trade as commercial artist in and around Essex County, N. J.

The artist had a particular flair for window trimming in its most extreme artistic styling, following this work for a major department store in Newark. He switched to many different fields in the art line, later aiding in designing an ultra-modern night club in Belleville, N. J., known as the Fountain. And a new turn saw him designing and building the interior of a swanky modernistic dress shop.

The Lt., while in Newark, won many poster contests, city, state, and nation-wide. In his art he stressed political cartoon and industrial designs.

18 Enlisted Men Advance in First Student Regiment

Staff Egts. Russell C. Benjamin and Herbert F. Gore were promoted first sergeant, and 16 other enlisted men of the First Student Training Regiment were advanced to higher grades, according to an announcement by Col. Thomas R. Gibson, commanding officer of the unit.

Sgts. Sylvester Brown and Walter J. Coleman were made staff sergeants. Tech. 4th Gr. Robert Hillman and Cpl. David Silver were promoted to sergeant. Tech. 5th Gr. Manzie P. McNeal, Lamar Johnson, Albert G. Shepard, and Pvt. Romeo R. Holly were advanced to technician 4th grade. Pfcs. Robert Palomby and Emary W. Lade were appointed corporals. Pfcs. Richard C. Carney, William T. Lucas, Allen Sanders, Milton Smith, M. Stokes, and Pvt. James L. Smith were made technicians 5th grade.

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

IT'S knowing what all the shooting is about plus all there is to know about 'chuting that gives the paratrooper his extra, skillful something.

It's knowing how to quench your thirst plus how to give you the fine feeling of refreshment that has made ice-cold Coca-Cola the best-liked soft drink on earth. Quality is the extra something. You'll taste it and feel it and enjoy it every time you tip up a frosty bottle of Coke.

Fifty-seven years of skill working with the choicest of ingredients creates its goodness. So, call for ice-cold Coca-Cola by its full name or by everybody's affectionate abbreviation, Coke. That's treating yourself right.

* * *

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing ... the real thing .... "coming from a single source, and well known to the community".

When people plan a happy time, ice-cold Coke just naturally fits into the plans. It's so convenient and it offers energy to active folks.

He can't pause for refreshment on the way down ... but watch him head for the familiar red cooler and ice-cold Coca-Cola when he does get the chance.

Ask any fighting man. He'll tell you that ice-cold Coca-Cola at a canteen adds a special touch to morale. And it adds refreshment, everywhere you get it.

Coca-Cola 5¢

The best is always the better buy!

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Have Your Photographs Made by

Artists from our 5th Avenue Studios

NO DEPOSITS AT TIME OF SITTING

PROOFS FOR YOUR INSPECTION BEFORE YOU BUY

"Our Prices Within the Reach of All"

Open 1 P. M. Till 9:30 P. M.

Send Your Photograph To Your Loved Ones

AIM'E DUPONT

1218 Broadway—Columbus, Ga.

Branch of 664 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C. Tele. 3-1505 Established 1884

"OFFICER CANDIDATES"—We have MILITARY Blouses, GARRISON Caps, SAM BROWN Belts—here for you to be photographed in before your graduation.

Profs Move Into Tie For League Lead

Academic Five Trips 29th and 117th Foes In Conference Tilts

Deadlock 124th Gators As Loop Race Approaches Climax Week

Halting two powerful opponents with comparative ease, the smooth-working Profs of the Academic Regiment moved back into the title picture in the Fort Benning Conference during the past week, and are now deadlocked with the 124th Infantry Gators for loop leadership.

The Profs bumped the 29th Infantry on Saturday night by a 41-32 count, and then followed this triumph with a win over the 117th Breakers Tuesday night, 58-52. Meanwhile in the other half of the Saturday feature, the hot-and-cold Breakers handed the Gators their first defeat. Both the leaders now have three wins and a single loss.

MEDICOS WIN TWO

Frank Webster and the surprising Station Hospital quint kept up to the pace of the Profs during the week by also turning in a pair of triumphs over 2nd Student Training and the Parachute School, and the Medicos are now tied for third place with the Breakers. In the only other tilt played, the Parachute School dealt out a 45-38 defeat to Lawson Field's Fliers.

Tomorrow night, both loop leaders will be in action as the Profs oppose Lawson Field in the nightcap, and the Gators tackle the Medicos in the opener. Station Hospital, at its present pace, has a good chance to upset the entire title picture, since the Medicos also meet the Profs next Tuesday night.

RACE IN STRETCH

Eight teams are carded in the stretch race for Friday, Saturday and next Tuesday. After that, only three tilts will remain unplayed in the first half, which means that the title-winner may be decided by next week at this time.

With the present intense competition, there is a distinct possibility that the race may end in either a two or three team tie. If a double tie results, a one-game sudden-death play-off will decide the laurels. If the loop ends in a three-way deadlock, one team will draw a bye and play the other winner for the laurels.

RESULTS

Friday—
Station Hospital 45, 2nd Student Training 33.
Parachute School 45, Lawson Field 38.
Saturday—
117th Infantry 41, 124th Infantry 31.
Academic Regiment 41, 29th Infantry 32.
Tuesday—
Station Hospital 45, Parachute School 43 (overtime).
Academic Regiment 58, 117th Infantry 52.

PERRY IS THROUGH

"I have gone out on top. Why should I start again at the bottom of the heap? Asks Fred Perry—who says he's permanently out of tennis because of an elbow injury.

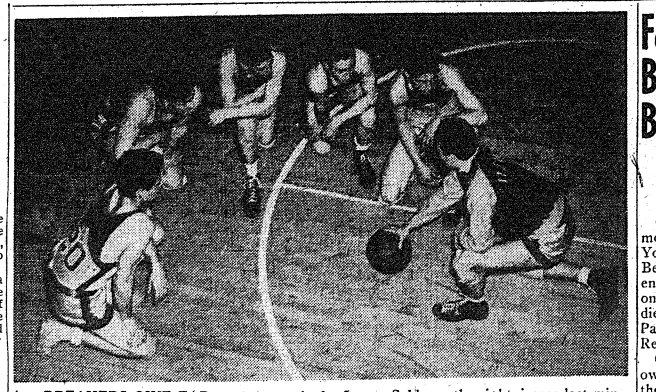
Perry, 34, said he was injured in a fall on the court while playing against Bobby Riggs in Madison Square Garden, New York, December 22, 1941.

"I knew the arm would never be the same," the former British Davis Cup star explained. A United States citizen since 1940, he's now a staff sergeant in the army air force.

Tuss McLaughry, Dartmouth football coach, was sworn in as a Marine Corps major last week. Maj. McLaughry will be in charge of physical education at Parris Island, S. C. He has two sons already in the Marine Corps. His successor at Wartmouth has not yet been named.

Dick Fowler, 20-year-old Philadelphia Athletics hurler who pitched the longest night game in major league history when he lost a 1-0 contest to the St. Louis Browns in 16 innings in Philadelphia last June 5, has joined the Canadian Army. Fowler brings the number of A's in service up to 20.

Drew Field's (Fla.) basketball team, defeated the Tampa University Spartans, 60-41, in the field gym last week for their fifth straight victory. George Gaskell led the scoring attack for the soldiers by tossing in 13 baskets along with two foul shots for a total of 28 points.



Profs Endanger 507 Win Streak Sunday

The eleven-game win streak of the unbeaten 507th Parachute courtmen will be endangered Sunday afternoon when the crack chutists face the powerful Academic Regiment Profs, winners in 17 out of 20 games this season. Tap-off time is set for 3:30 o'clock in the post gym and a capacity crowd is expected. A preliminary game at 2:00 o'clock will pit the Station Hospital against the Pepsi-Cola Bottlers from Columbus.

Both the Chutists and Profs have been pointing all season for this clash. The Academic Regiment is currently tied for the lead in the strong Fort Benning Conference race, while the 507th is undisputed leader in the Independent League in Columbus, and has also overcome college and school opposition. Last weekend both fives defeated the famed N. Y. Celtics on Benning floors.

Court Card

THURSDAY, JAN. 28TH
Post Gym—Main Post League
53rd Gen. Hospt. vs. Finance Det. (6:45)
99th Q. M. vs. 1st Parachute Trng. (8:00)
24th Gen. Hosp. vs. 7th Obsn. Sqdn. (9:15)
Sports Arena—Service League
Reception Center vs. Med. Det. (7:30)
2nd STR vs. Academic Regt. (8:45)
Post Detach. vs. 1st STR (7:30)
Spec. Trng. Det. vs. 3rd STR (8:45)
FRIDAY, JAN. 29TH
Post Gym—Fort Benning Conference
124th Infantry vs. Station Hosp. (7:30)
Academic Regt. vs. Lawson Field (8:45)
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
420th F. A. vs. 423rd F. A. (7:30)
11th Armd. vs. 3rd Armd. (8:45)
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
150th Signal vs. Div. Trains (7:30)
90th Recon. vs. Supply Bn. (8:45)
SATURDAY, JAN. 30TH
Post Gym—Fort Benning Conference
29th Infantry vs. Prcht. School (7:30)
2nd STR vs. 117th Infantry (8:45)
SUNDAY, JANUARY 31ST
Post Gym—Exhibition Games
Station Hospital vs. Pepsi-Cola (2:00)
Academic Regt. vs. 507th Parachute (3:30)
MONDAY, FEB. 1ST
Post Gym—Main Post League
1st STR vs. Finance Det. (6:45)
53rd Gen. Hosp. vs. 863rd Ord. (8:00)
24th Gen. Hosp. vs. 99th Q. M. (9:15)
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
419 F. A. vs. Maint. Bn. (7:30)
54th Inf. vs. 55th Engineers (8:45)
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
80th Med. Bn. vs. Div. Hdqs. (7:30)
TUESDAY, FEB. 2ND
Post Gym—Fort Benning Conference
Station Hosp. vs. Academic Regt. (7:30)
Lawson Field vs. 29th Infantry (8:45)

BREAKERS GIVE EAR as their coach, Lt. Lester Soldz on the right, issues last minute instructions to his starting line-up before one of the big games in the Fort Benning conference. The 117th tossers shown are, left to right: Bowlin, Darin, O'Neil, Hite and Dale. They have won three and lost two in the circuit.

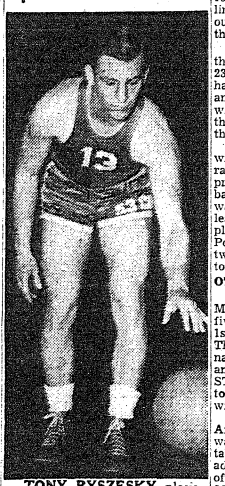
Service Quints Battle Tonight On H. C. Courts

Reception Center And Three STR Clubs Win Opening Night Tilts

Fort Benning's colored courtmen will be in action again tonight on the hardwood of the Harmony Church sports arena as the second round of play in the newly-formed Service League gets under way. Four games are scheduled that will see every loop entry aiming for the rims.

In the openers at 7:30, the Reception Center Orphans are slated to tackle the Medicos from the Station Hospital, while the Post Detachment is clashing with the Brown Bombers of the 1st STR on the other court.

NIGHTCAP TILTS



The nightcap battles will bring together the 2nd STR Commandos and the Academic Regiment's Pacesetters in one feature, while Lieut. Jack Gushin's powerful Panthers representing the 3rd STR is opposing the Special Training quintet from the main post.

In the loop debuts last Thursday night at the spacious sports arena, most of the title favorites came through with expected victories. The most impressive performance was turned in by the Panthers who trounced gigantic Tom Hall and his Post Detachment tossers by a 61-34 tally.

Hank Blackburn, former Xavier College and Globetrotter flash, was the pacesetter for the winners, but the 3rd STR club showed plenty of all-around class. Hall, the 6' 6" pivot of the post quint, dumped eight field goals through the nets to pace the losers with 16 points.

In the other tilts, the Reception Center, led by Ed Pitts with 14 points, ran up a 51-13 count over the Pacesetters; the Commandos bumped the Medicos, 27-24, in a thriller; and the Brown Bombers dynamited Special Training by a 49-0 count.

Sportraits

TONY BYSZESKY plays with a second division team in the Main Post league, the 53rd General Hospital, but that doesn't prevent him from being an outstanding performer. . . . One of the highest scorers in the loop, he is also a dribbling fool. . . . Has expert control of the ball at all times and is a real star.

Sports Arena—Fort Benning Conference
Prcht. School vs. 117th Infantry (7:30)
2nd STR vs. 124th Infantry (8:45)
WEDNESDAY, FEB. 3RD
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
11 420th F. A. vs. 3rd Armd. (7:30)
11th Armd. vs. Maint. Bn. (8:45)
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
150th Signal vs. Supply Bn. (7:30)

Chutists Take Lead In Main Post Loop Race

1st PTR Extends Streak To Four Straight Wins; Face 99th Q. M. Tonight

Winning two more games to extend their loop win streak to four straight, the crack quintet of the 1st Parachute Training Regiment stepped into undisputed possession of first place in the Main Post League during the past week of play.

On Thursday night of last week, the high-flying chutists eked out a 34-33 decision over a scrappy medico quint from the 24th General Hospital, and win number four came on Monday when a terrific last-half burst gave the PTR lads a smashing 44-26 triumph over the 7th Observation Squadron.

Chief surprises of the week were furnished by the rebound of an improved 863rd Ordnance quintet which also corraled a pair of victories over Finance and the 99th Quartermasters. The win over the Q. M. outfit enabled the ordnance tossers to deadlock the 99th for second place honors in the standings. The only one to hold a decision over the 863rd are the loop-leading chutists.

PLAY 99TH TONIGHT

Tonight, however, the win streak of the 1st PTR will be endangered when they meet the once beaten 99th in the middle tilt of an attractive triple card on the post gym court. 53rd General and Finance clash in the opener at 6:45 and 24th General plays the 7th Observers in the finale at 9:15 o'clock. The chutist-quartermaster tussle is listed for eight o'clock.

If the Trainers get by tonight's battle with the 99th club, they will be prime favorites to capture the first-half laurels in the fast eight-club loop, since their only remaining tilts will be with 1st STR and the 53rd Medicos, who have won the only game between them in the league.

NELSON CHIEF THREAT

Chief scoring threat of the chutists is Lieut. Bill Nelson, speedy forward, who ran up 12 points in the Medico win and 15 against 7th Observation. Newlin, York, Vargo and Boys round out a swift-passing quintet for the Trainers.

At halftime in the observer tilt, the Trainers were behind by a 23-16 count, but in the second half they hit their peak performance of the campaign in running wild to score 28 markers while they held the opposition to a scant three points.

Upset of the week was the ease with which the 863rd Ordnance ran up its 31-21 verdict over the previously unbeaten 99th Q. M. basketeers. As usual, slick forward Ed Compton was the scoring leader with 11 points, but he had plenty of help from Holcomb and Porter who flipped in a quartet of twin-deckers apiece to contribute to the victory.

OTHER RESULTS

In the other game played on Monday night, the 24th Hospital five rolled to an easy win over 1st Student Training, 38-27. Thursday night tilts saw the Ordnance crushing Finance, 43-26, and 7th Observation toppling 1st STR by a 53-36 tally in addition to the 1st Parachute Training's win over 24th General.

The week's high scorer was Arvid (Ace) Hall, the burly forward ace of 7th Observation, who tallied 25 points Thursday and added 11 more Monday for a total of 36 markers. Compton of the 863rd had 30 points in two outings against tough opposition.

Ben Johnson, ex - Columbia star and one of the fastest sprinters ever to tear up the cinder paths, is in the Army and assigned to Camp Stewart, Ga. Pvt. Johnson was a member of the faculty of Bordentown (N. J.) State Manual Training School before his enlistment Dec. 2nd.

Frank Parker, for the last 12 years one of the top-ranking tennis players in the country, entered the Army last week at Los Angeles, Cal. Parker, rated No. 2 in the U. S. last year, has been employed as an assistant director in the special effects department of a Hollywood movie studio. He wants to specialize in aviation camouflage.

Ike Pearson, former Philly pitcher, has given up baseball for bayonets. Ike is now "in training" at the Parris Island, S. C., base of the Marines. He hopes to go after a commission soon.

Basketball Standings

FORT BENNING CONFERENCE:

	W.	L.	Pct.
124th Infantry	3	1	.750
Academic Regt.	3	1	.750
117th Infantry	3	2	.600
Station Hospital	3	2	.600
Parachute School	2	2	.500
29th Infantry	2	2	.500
Lawson Field	1	3	.250
2nd Student Trng.	0	4	.000

MAIN POST LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
1st Prcht. Trng.	4	0	1.000
99th Quartermaster	3	1	.750
863rd Ordnance	3	1	.750
24th Gen. Hosp.	2	2	.500
7th Obsn. Sqdn.	2	2	.500
1st Student Trng.	1	3	.250
Finance Detach.	0	3	.000
53rd Gen. Hosp.	0	3	.000

SAND HILL LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
55th Engineers	3	0	1.000
420th F. A.	3	1	.750
11th Armored	2	0	.500
3rd Armored	1	1	.500
419th F. A.	1	2	.333
54th Armd. Inf.	1	2	.333
423rd F. A.	1	3	.250
Maint. Bn.	0	2	.000

CUSSETA LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
90th Recon. Bn.	4	0	1.000
Supply Bn.	1	0	1.000
150th Signal	3	1	.750
Div. Hdq. Co.	1	1	.500
Service Co.	1	2	.333
Div. Trains	0	3	.000
80th Med. Bn.	0	3	.000

SERVICE LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Reception Center	1	0	1.000
1st STR. Bombers	1	0	1.000
2nd STR Comds.	1	0	1.000
3rd STR Panthers	1	0	1.000
Post Detachment	0	1	.000
Spec. Trng. Det.	0	1	.000
Academic Regt.	0	1	.000
Med Detachment	0	1	.000

There's only one thing that Pvt. Jack Roder, stationed at the Sioux Falls Army Air Base, S. D., doesn't like about the Army—and that's shaving every day. In the good old days, Roder would go for six months without using razor and lather. He had to—he was southpaw twirler for the House of David's bewhiskered ball club!

The Army gave the Marines a licking last week. Cagers representing Muroc Field, Cal., whipped the Marines from the Mojave base 59-24. The Muroc quintet were paced by those two stellar forwards—"Never Miss" Drapp and "Fancy Shot" Townsend.

Sgt. Jackie Wilson of Mitchel Field, N. Y., a 1-to-3 favorite, lost a one-sided bout to burly Jake Lamotta, who was supposed to be a pudgy trial horse for California Jackie, in his ring debut at Madison Square Garden last week. The bout went the full 10 rounds.

Famed Celtics Bow Twice To Benning Fives

507th, Academic Profs Topple New Yorkers In Exhibitions

One of basketball's most famous teams, the Original New York Celtics, invaded Fort Benning over the past weekend, and fell twice before the onslaught of a par of crack soldier quintets from the 507th Parachutes and the Academic Regiment.

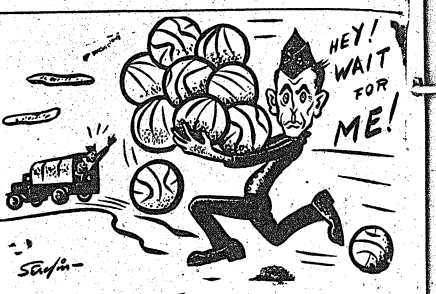
On Saturday night in their own gym in the Alabama area, the undefeated 'chutists halted the pro quintet by a 42-39 count. Then, one Sunday afternoon, an overflow crowd in the post gym watched the fast-moving Profs paste the Shamrocks by an even bigger advantage, 45-38.

with Saunders and Synott firing field goals with deadly accuracy. But the soldier quint braced and gained a well-earned decision. Bob Synott was the chief Celtic point-getter with fourteen markers for the evening.

Karl Lillge and Stan Ardziejewski at the guard slots for the winners were outstanding all evening with their defensive work. They also fed the ball to the speedy men up front, and kept the Celtics on the run for the entire tilt.

CELTICS	Fd.	Fl.	Pts.
Mills, f	3	0	6
Synott, f	6	2	14
Slater, c	2	3	5
Banks, g	1	2	4
Saunders, g	1	0	2
Bowden, g	1	0	2
	14	7	39
507TH	Fg.	Fl.	Pts.
Scott, f	4	4	20
Todd, f	3	0	6
Walters, f	2	0	4
Short, c	2	0	4
Ardziejewski, g	1	2	4
Lillge, g	1	0	2
	17	8	42

Once again, it was Lieut. Frank Shannon who led the scoring parade for the victorious Profs on Sunday afternoon. The clever player-coach of the academic quintet racked up five goals of each variety to gain the scoring honors of the game with 15 markers.



The rest of the scoring for the Benning team was divided fairly evenly among seven other Profs who saw action. Shannon employed a two-team system that kept the ultimate winners going at top speed for the entire tilt. The Celtics, on the other hand, were handicapped with the presence of only one substitute.

At that, it was a Benning basketeer, appearing in the Celtic line-up, who literally stole the show from the rest of the "originals". He was Lieut. Karl Lillge, player-coach of the 507th five, who is a former pro ace from the Oshkosh All-Stars. Lillge, pressed into service to spell some of the Celtics, flipped a pair of field goals and connected six times to account for ten points for the losers.

The parachutist shared point honors for the Celtics with the inimitable Davey Banks, rotund veteran of 20 years in a shamrock uniform. Banks got loose for three lay-up shots and converted four foul tosses for his ten points. Rusty Saunders, burly forward, was the most effective Celtic from the floor, tossing four field goals through the hoops.

On the whole, though, the close guarding and defensive network set up by the well-trained Profs kept the more experienced pros away from the lay-up zone, and they were missing a good many of their long ones. The soldiers made the most of their opportunities and kept the game going fast all the way. At halftime, the Profs were out in front by a 22-19 count.

ACADEMIC PROFS	Fd.	Fl.	Pts.
Shannon, f	5	5	15
Harpe, f	1	2	4
Holman, f	1	2	4
McCrary, c	2	0	4
Fyffe, c	2	0	4
Oesi, g	2	0	4
Polk, g	3	0	6
Zientara, g	2	0	4
	18	9	45
N. Y. CELTICS	Fd.	Fl.	Pts.
Saunders, f	4	1	9
Mills, f	0	1	1
Banks, f	3	4	10
Baker, c	1	2	4
Synott, g	1	2	4
Lillge, g	6	4	16
	11	16	38

Hal Leader Serves as QMC For 124th Gator Athletes

Pfc. Hal Leader of the 124th Infantry is tall and thin, with a slow, drawly way of expressing himself. At first glance he looks like any other guy named, "Slim," or "Tex" or "Joe." He's modest and retiring. But to any Gator on the regimental basketball or football team, he's a one-man Quartermaster Corps.

The athletic manager of the Gator squads was born in Bedford, Pa.—five miles north of the Mason-Dixon Line. He has spent all his 29 years trying to decide whether to say "youse guys" or "you all."

At the ripe young age of 17, Hal decided upon a career. He made up his mind and muscles to become an athletic instructor. A short two-year term at Temple University followed. However, the development of a bank account proved more enticing than the development of muscles, so Hal quit TU and got a job with the Fish and Wild Life Service in the Department of Interior.

After that, Hal followed the days and ways of Eleanor Roosevelt. Experimentation and conservation work drove him from state to state, all along the Atlantic Seaboard. Finally, his job and the communiques of the Florida Chamber of Commerce led him to the land of sky blue swamps and oranges. He settled down in Walaka on the St. Johns River, where he continued his conservation work for the Department of Interior.

One year later, Hal was a married man . . . and a month after that he received greetings from Franklin D. Roosevelt and a G. I. outfit from the U. S. Army.

In all his wanderings, in and out of the Army, Hal believes that he misses the "good ole Allegheny Mountains of Pennsylvania" most of all.

Mike Paglione Says 29th Ringmen About Ready for Campaig

After two weeks of hard, tough physical training, Assistant Coach Mike Paglione of the 29th Infantry ring team, says the boys are getting into fighting shape. Most of the men were in good shape since they had previously fought in the company boxing league. Those men who have just come out for the regimental team are getting to the point where they now are accustomed to daily workouts.

In the lighter classes, Mike has more to work with than in the heavies, because big men are hard to find, and for some reason the little guys are the fighters in the regiment. Parks, a welterweight, has all the class and form needed to carry him on to a post championship this year. He has fought with plenty of class, and has a style not usually seen among amateur boxers around these parts.

Parker, a welter, also has about all the experience needed. He has fought a great deal and enjoys the fight game. When he was fighting for his company he wasn't in condition at all, and was sluggish in his fights. Now he has gotten into the spirit of things, and is pitching in each day to get off that excess weight. Parker hits hard and has excellent control over his punches.

LEVINSON BROS.

in YOUR service, sir!

OFFICERS and MEMBERS of OCS

We invite you to come in and look over our line of military goods. Our competent sales staff are courteous and glad to help you with your every need.

We appreciate your limited time to shop and serve you promptly.

COMPLETE MILITARY OUTFITTERS

- BLOUSES
- SHIRTS (All Types)
- SAM BROWN BELTS
- SOX
- SLACKS
- CAPS
- TIES
- INSIGNIAS
- TRENCH COATS
- FREEMAN MILITARY SHOES

SERVING COLUMBUS SINCE 1916

LEVINSON BROS.

1220 BROADWAY

TREAT YOUR FEET RIGHT! and they'll serve you better $3.85

Monk-strap pattern, highly polished army russet elk leather, available in all sizes! Here are Cannon's shoes styled with military perfection, classed 1-A in the ranks of comfort! Shoes that are designed for service men . . . Shoes that give longer wear—anywhere!

OTHER MILITARY STYLES IN STOCK

CANNON SHOE STORE

1127 BROADWAY — Next Door to Woolworth's

"All Work And No Play Makes Jack A Dull Boy."

You don't have to burn gasoline to recreate. We can suggest sports and games where "you can stay in your own back yard." — Visit our store and see our large assortment of:

Archery	Swimming	Golf
Badminton	Playground	Horseshoes
Basketball	Units	Shuffleboard
Croquet	Soft Ball	Camping
Exercisers	Volley Ball	Models
Darts	Hobbys	Tennis
Games	Toys

Athletic Goods Toys Games Playground Units

Bentley's

Sporting Goods Bicycles Sports Clothing

1303 - 1305 BROADWAY — PHONE 7365

-SPORTS-

Bridge-Builders By Day Win Night Hoop Game

Mighty Engineers Give F. A. Unit First Beating

After building bridges all day while standing in five feet of water, "the Mighty 55th" Engineers knocked the 420th Field Artillery from the undefeated ranks in the Tenth Armored Division's Sand Hill League Tuesday night to take undisputed possession of the league lead, 30 to 26. The winners overcame a three-point deficit in the final three minutes.

Petak, Engineer guard, spelled the difference between defeat and victory for his team, giving an excellent all-round performance. He got 3 baskets in the last final quarter to spark his team offensively, and at the same time held Lewis, 420th guard whose southpaw push shots netted 43 points in three games, to one basket and two free throws.

The 420th held a 22-21 lead early in the 4th quarter when Lewis finally hit the range for his only basket. Undaunted, Petak took the throw-in, dribbled the length of the floor, and scored the retaliatory basket. Schacklette slipped under for a setup to put the 420th three points ahead again.

The 420th's stalling game boomeranged when Petak stole the ball and dribbled away for a setup. Wallis tied it up at 26 all with a free throw as June, 420th center and top defense man, fouled out. Petak stole the ball again for another pot shot and a two-point lead.

Petak's aggressiveness almost got his team in trouble as he committed three contact fouls in two minutes. Wiemin brought the 420th to within one point of the Engineers as he made good the first free throw. But the Engineers, deciding to stall, got their clincher when Wallis scored a follow-up basket. Contura's free throw ended the scoring.

Said Colonel Spangler, "They've been building bridges in five feet of water all day. I was afraid they were going to poop out." He promised to give his team half a day off Tuesday to rest up.

The 90th Recons posted a 37-16 victory over Trains Company in the Monday night games to retain the Cusseta League lead with four straight victories. The 150th Signal Company stayed within range of the leaders by virtue of a 26 to 22 win over Division Headquarters Company.

The 11th Armored topped the 423rd Field Artillery, 41-38 in the second Sand Hill game Monday.

54th Unit 90th Recon Leatherpushers Winners

Hammering out four victories to three, the 54th Infantry's 1st battalion defeated the 2nd battalion 3rd Armored in the opening matches of the 10th Armored Division's boxing doubleheader fought Monday night at the 11th Armored Rec Hall. In the second half of the program the 90th Reconnaissance Battalion whipped the 1st battalion, 11th Armored four bouts to two. Each winning team had the advantage of one fight in the win column via the default route.

Best fight on the card saw Doughboy Milo Ristie eke out a viciously fought draw decision over William Tarczali of the 3rd. Tarczali swarmed all over his opponent in the 1st round as he threw punches continuously a la Harry Greb. He opened the second the same way but Ristie took all he had and lashed out with a terrific right cross that staggered the Dragon. From then on it was a vicious slugfest with both boys drawing blood and thoroughly exhausted when the final bell rang with the decision going to the infantryman as the crowd booed its disapproval.

Opening bout saw "Red" Cress win easily for the 54th over Lloyd Palmer who failed to land a single hard blow.

Bill Nobles of the 3rd Armored outpunched Jacob Hackney for the Dragons' first win. The southpaw had too much punch for the 54th lad who displayed little more than good footwork.

MILLIGAN WINS

After getting off to a bad opening round, Ralph Milligan of the 54th came back to hammer out a clean win over Oliver Heakin. Using straight lefts and short, hard rights Milligan wore his man down in the second and had his own way in the last round as he did everything but drop his lighter opponent to the canvas.

Albert Miekle notched the first TKO of the night when he stopped Sam Voto of the 54th in the third round. Using his long reach to advantage, Mielke dropped his game foe three times for no counts in the second and twice for nine seconds in the third before Referee E. A. Frazier, who did a swell job all night, stopped the bout.

Dragon George Kaskan punched out an easy win over Al Fasel to win the last fight. After two dull rounds, Kaskan found the range with long rights to earn him the nod.

FAST MATCH

In the second matches, the 90th Reconnaissance won the first two bouts on defaults and the third when Dan Smith hammered out a hard-fought win over the 11th Armored's Francis Terziu. This bout was the fastest on the card with Smith getting the judges' nod with a closing third round that saw him clearly outpunch the Tanker.

The 11th Armored's James Menetrey won a decision over the 90th's Garabed Boyajim in a slow fight. This bout was stopped in the second round when an air raid alert sounded.

The Recons came right back in the win column when Arthur Anderson, James Ransom, ducking under the Tanker's wild haymakers, chopped steadily away at his opponent to win by a wide margin.

Last fight on the card saw William Wild of the 90th pound out a close decision over Eugene Prasek. The Tanker had a vicious right hook but failed to land a clean blow with it. Wild constantly tied his man in clinches and Prasek was warned several times for illegal hitting. Neither had connected with clean blows. It was Wild in a verdict the fans didn't like.

Ex-College Gridder Wants Mediterranean Assignment

Carl Lang, a varsity tackle on Dartmouth's Big Green grid team in 1937, hopes to return to familiar territory in the Mediterranean area after he gets his commission as a second lieutenant at the Infantry School next Wednesday. Now an officer candidate in the 5th Company, 3rd Student Training Regiment, Lang has done extensive touring in the area where many of the big battles of the present conflict are being fought.

The ex-Dartmouth gridder went to the Mediterranean first in 1935, and took a later trip to the area in 1937 just before his final fling at Ivy League football. When he came back to the gridiron for the Hanover Indians, he has visited Sicily, Algiers, Patres, Athens, and the interior of Italy and Germany.

Recalling that trip, he told this week of how he was awakened many times at 2 in the morning by the sound of tramping feet. He told of his complete surprise to find that the sounds were those made by mere youths of less than 12 years of age who were goose-stepping through the streets of Germany.

DISCIPLINE GOOD

Discipline in the German youth camps was excellent, according to Lang. However, a different story presented itself in Italy where the control of youths was very poor, the O. C. said. Many of Lang's classmates at Dartmouth were also travellers, and one of them, Robert Chase of Brookline, Mass., was lost with Richard Halliburton, the noted adventurer, who disappeared in a small bamboo boat while attempting to cross the Pacific.

Lang was born in Urbana, Ill., but his parents now reside at Melrose, Mass. His father was a noted dairy expert and bacteriologist. The big O. C. played two years of prep school football at Stearns Prep in New Hampshire before entering Dartmouth. He also played again last fall while at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, as a member of an infantry eleven.

Lawson Bomb-Sight

CPL. E. N. FUSILLO

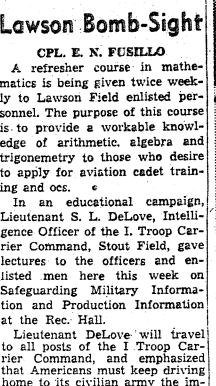
A refresher course in mathematics is being given twice weekly to Lawson Field enlisted personnel. The purpose of this course is to provide a workable knowledge of arithmetic, algebra and trigonometry to those who desire to apply for aviation cadet training and ocs.

In an educational campaign, Lieutenant S. L. DeLove, Intelligence Officer of the I. Troop Carrier Command, Stout Field, gave lectures to the officers and enlisted men here this week on Safeguarding Military Information and Production Information at the Rec. Hall.

Lieutenant DeLove will travel to all posts of the I Troop Carrier Command, and emphasized that Americans must keep driving home to its civilian army the importance of self-censorship and security.

Lawson Field Headquarters announced the promotion of five officers this week.

Lts. Victor B. Stonecipher, James P. Champion, Jr., and Paul Tally of the 54th Base Headquarters and Air Base Squadron, and Lieuts. Orrell Culwell and Alfred M. Blemenfeld of the 7th Observation Squadron have been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant.



Lieut. Stonecipher, a native of Chattanooga, Tennessee, arrived here on August 5, 1942. At present he is Adjutant and Insurance Officer for the 54th Base Headquarters and Air Base Squadron. Prior to this time, Lieut. Stonecipher was Assistant Personnel Officer. He attended OCS in the Infantry and received his commission July 18, 1942.

Lieut. Champion, Jr., Base Quartermaster and Custodial Officer, has been stationed here since August, 1941. He attended the Quartermaster OCS at Camp Lee, Va., and received his commission on August 14, 1941.

Lieut. Tally, Group Mess and 54th Supply Officer, arrived for duty here October 1, 1942. The lieutenant entered the service on August 7, 1942, with the rank of 2nd lieutenant and took his OTS training at Miami Beach, Fla. His first assignment was at Bowman Field, Kentucky, with the Base Squadron as Recruit Officer.

Lieut. Culwells is communications officer for the 7th Observation Squadron. He arrived at Lawson as a pilot May 25, 1942. He received his primary training at Corsicana, Tex., his basic training at Sherman, Tex., and his advanced training at Brooks Field, Tex. He received his commission on April 29, 1942.

Lieut. Blumenfeld, armament and chemical officer arrived here as a pilot May 25, 1942. He received his primary training at Tulsa, Okla., his basic training at Randolph Field, Tex., and his advanced training at Brooks Field, Tex. the lieutenant received his commission on April 29, 1942.

Col. S. R. Tupper, commanding officer of the Student Training Brigade, is known as an officer's officer at Fort Benning.

THY GUIDING PRAYER
Abraham Brandt
Co. F. 124th Inf.

Oh Lord above we ask of Thee
To watch us as we cross the sea.
Throughout the day; throughout the night,
Please guide us with Thy beacon light.
Oh Lord above we ask of Thee
To guide out convoys 'cross the sea,
If we should meet our humble fate
My life I give, for Thee to take.
Oh Lord above we ask of Thee
To give us strength and victory,
And bring us peace on earth again
We give our thanks and say amen.

AS THE HORSE AND BUGGY returned to the war-time scene at Fort Benning to conserve gasoline, oil, and rubber, another important stride was made in the "all-out" conservation program at the post. Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the post, is shown above, in rear seat on left, as he tours the post on an inspection in the "buckboard" which has been made of odds-and-ends of wagons at the Infantry School stables. In the rear seat with the general is Colonel John P. Edgerly, executive officer of the post. In the front seat, left to right, are Capt. Robert Jacobs and Lt. R. H. Lange, of the Infantry School. (Signal Lab Photo by Kortemeier.)

Ravages of German Legions Inspire O. C. to Seek Revenge

CANDIDATE 'SMITH' CAPTURED DURING BATTLE OF FRANCE

Countless scenes of horror and suffering inflicted upon helpless women and children by ruthless German dive bombers during the fall of France have given one member of Fort Benning's newest Infantry Officer Candidate classes a fierce desire to be on the giving rather than the receiving end in his next meeting with the Nazis.

This 16th Company, First Student Training Regiment candidate, who must remain anonymous because of relatives living in enslaved France, has every reason to relish a crack at Hitler's hoodlums since he ducked their bombs and machine gun fire for weeks on end during that tragic spring of 1940, and finally was taken prisoner.

How he lived as a captive under constant fire from French artillery, French and English planes, worked 24 consecutive days amputating legs and arms of wounded prisoners and burying the dead in pits, gained his release, fled to Belgium as a chauffeur for the departing American embassy staff and arrived back in Paris to discover that he had been given up for dead for three months and posthumously awarded the Croix de Guerre for bravery and devotion to duty with the American light ambulance Field Service attached to the French Army, reads like a Hollywood scenario.

'SMITH' TOOK OVER

Candidate, shall we say "Smith" began his nightmarish non-combative career shortly after the outbreak of the war, which caught him in Switzerland. As an ambulance corps worker he picked up wounded from March to May in 1940.

Ordered to evacuate wounded from the military hospital at Amiens, which was being bombarded and strafed fiercely, Candidate "Smith" turned his load over to another driver outside the town and returned for more. By the time he reached the hospital once more, rubble was piled as high as 50 feet in the streets as Stukas continued to unleash their death-dealing cargoes.

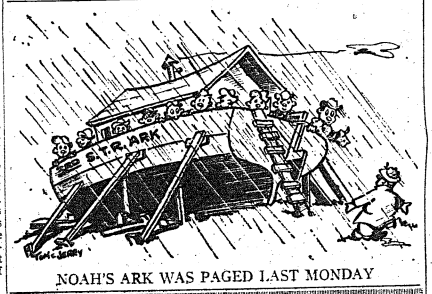
"Once my ambulance was attacked by six Nazi planes which dropped 30 bombs all around us," recalled the Benningite. Later a lone Stuka made two rushes at my ambulance but succeeded in doing nothing more than blowing the limbs off the trees under which I took refuge."

AMBULANCE IS TARGET

"Upon my return to Amiens, machine gun bullets from German tanks far up the street forced me to leave the ambulance and hide in a rabbit hutch in the courtyard of a home. I had been without sleep or food for two days but after observing the two-hour parade of Nazi columns from my hiding place I received instructions from townspeople on how to reach the new French lines and set out.

"Several times I passed within 50 yards of German soldiers, and finally after considerable crawling reached the main road to the front. I had just congratulated myself on escaping the Nazi encampment when two of the enemy appeared out of nowhere and took me prisoner. My worst moment was when the pair, after threatening me with death, marched me into an open field, halted me—and then proceeded to light cigarettes.

"I was taken to a prison camp, which also contained more than 100 English soldiers, the remnants of a band of 600 who were literally flattened under German tanks in an engagement nearby. Gangrene was rampant, with some month-old wounds going untreated due to lack of medical aid.



FORSAKE PRISONERS

"Finally the French artillery fire became so intense that the Germans were forced to leave. However, they left us under guard in the basement of the barracks. Three hours later the building was flattened over us. I had just finished a conversation with a French officer and walked down to the other end of the basement when a direct hit killed him and wounded three of the guards. A German sergeant promptly whipped out his revolver and shot his comrades as they writhed on the floor.

We were transferred back to Amiens, the number of prisoners and wounded now increased to 1800. I and two other Americans worked here for several weeks until the Belgian Red Cross was able to make contact with the U. S. Embassy in Brussels and secured passports for us. Since no neutrals were permitted to leave Belgium we left as chauffeurs for the embassy staff which had closed its doors. Our party was bombed by English planes at Cologne. From there we went on to Paris.

"I spent the next year working for the French Red Cross sending food to prisoners in occupied French territory, and for the American Red Cross, which was delivering milk to the French children."

Candidate "Smith's" wife, whom he married in Cichy, also was decorated by the French for bravery under fire while chauffeuring a group of engineers who had succeeded in blowing up a bridge in the path of the oncoming Germans. Admiral Leahy, U. S. ambassador to France, served as one of the witnesses at the wedding.

NOAH'S ARK WAS PAGED LAST MONDAY

Famed Dance Master Is Infantry School Student

Filipino Taught Hollywood Stars

You've perhaps seen him on the stage of your favorite theater, or on the floors of the better night clubs, in the La Conga of Chicago, in New York's Carnegie Hall, in South America, China, Japan or the Philippines—we refer to Alfredo Hernandez and his graceful wife and partner, Carmelita.

His students are numbered in the thousands, among them, movie stars, stage celebreties, even the Princess of Siam.

But that was before Pearl Harbor. Now Alfredo Hernandez is Officer Candidate Hernandez of the 7th Company, Third Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School here at Fort Benning. His costume is now the olive drab of the Army and his partner, an M-1 rifle.

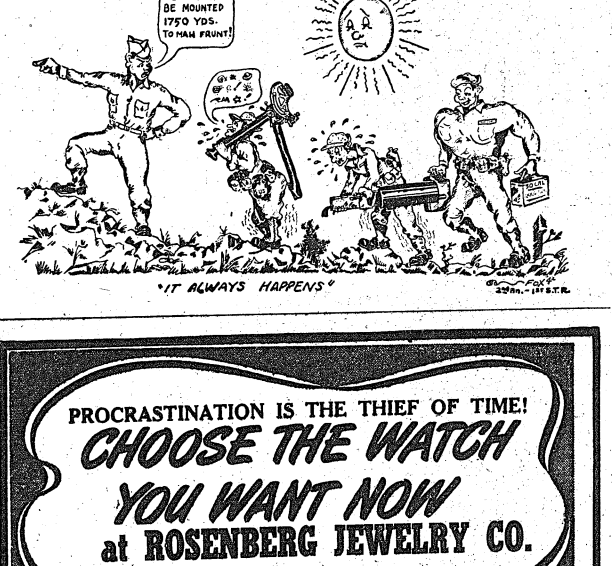
Candidate Hernandez was born in the Philippines. His father, the late Don Julio Hernandez, was a brother of ex-Governor Adriano Hernandez of the Philippine Islands.

WHOLE WORLD BALL-ROOM

His education extended from Hongkong to Los Angeles. His dancing career has not been confined to the stage and ballroom, having been an instructor in colleges, dancing institutions and studios in many parts of the world The Holly York Studios in Hollywood, Hongkong, Manila, Honolulu and New York were under his direction.

In 1937, Hernandez and his company were touring Japan and China. He was in Shanghai when Japanese bombs fell, demolishing his car, and separating his troupe. They were evacuated and reunited in the Philippines several months later.

As dance director of the Philippines Evposition in 1937, Hernandez organized, directed and presented a company of one thousand Philippine College students.



Both before and after entering the Army, Hernandez and Carmelita presented their routines at USO clubs, Service and Army Posts up and down the west coast, receiving the enthusiastic approval of Uncle Sam's servicemen.

'Gators Enjoy Symphonies Now

There are fellows in the 124th Infantry who have had their fill of Jumpin' Jive in the barracks, are tired of the Juke Box Jitters and the personnial whine of the Hill Billy on the ether waves. To give the men, whose taste is on the heavier side, a real break, the Special Service Office has started a collection of Symphonic recordings which will be heard in a series of "Concert Hours."

Beginning Monday evening, Jan. 18 and continuing weekly the "Concert Hour" will be given in the Gator Chapel and arrangements are being made to play the recording through the organ amplifier.

The initial collection, which will be supplemented by additional purchases and exchanges with other outfits on the Post, includes such masterpieces as the Beethoven 5th, Mozart "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," the Franck D minor Symphony, and many other equally impressive works.

AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY
And Property Damage Rates Reduced
Plus our dividend saving, makes net cost exceptionally low. It will pay you to keep your insurance. We write all lines insurance at a saving to policy holders.
The Lawrence Murray Agency
112—12th Street Phone 2-3345

PROCRASTINATION IS THE THIEF OF TIME!
CHOOSE THE WATCH YOU WANT NOW at ROSENBERG JEWELRY CO.
THE DEMAND WILL SOON SURPASS THE SUPPLY
LADY'S or MAN'S BULOVA
Complete stock of these fine watches. For fine Watches you can't go wrong with a Bulova.
LADY'S or MAN'S GRUEN
Fine Watches in the latest styles. A dependable Time Piece. Give you many years of service.
MAN'S WALTHAM POCKET WATCHES
Large Stock of these fine Time Pieces. Many styles to choose from.
MAN'S AND LADY'S LONGINES
One of the Finest Watches in America.
POCKET WATCHES
• BULOVA
• GRUEN
• ELGIN
All the latest styles in these famous make Watches.
LADY'S AND MEN'S WITTNAUER
TERMS IF DESIRED
ROSENBERG
JEWELRY COMPANY
1221 BROADWAY

TIS Officer Is Only Samoan Holding Commission In Army

Lt. Coleman Was At Pearl Harbor When Japs Attacked

In the 30th Company of the Third Student Training Regiment is an officer who has the distinction of being the only "Only" in the Harmony Church area. He is a veteran of the "Stab in the Back" in 1941; a graduate of St. Louis College in Honolulu and a graduate of OCS. He is Lt. Peter Coleman. However, this name is mainly the American equivalent of his native Samoan name which is Tali. The records disclose that this officer is the only Samoan in the United States Army who holds a commission.

Lt. Coleman was born in Pago Pago, American Samoa, December 8, 1918. He was brought up in this idyllic land of palm trees, happiness, and beautiful maidens.

KNEW NO ENGLISH

Speaking no English, he went to Hawaii in 1936 to secure an education and to learn of the world outside the Pacific. At this he was extremely successful and in 1939 he graduated from college near the top of his class. He was also the vice president of his class his senior year.

Upon graduation, Lt. Coleman procured a position with the Territorial Government of Hawaii. Joining the Hawaii National Guard was his next step toward his present position.

At 7 a. m., December 7, 1941, Staff Sgt. Coleman was attending religious services at Honolulu. Arriving at his home in Honolulu shortly thereafter he received a call to report at once to his unit at Schofield Barracks.

NEARLY HIT

Pearl Harbor was being attacked. Jumping into his car he headed toward the Post. He could hear explosions quite near him but he assumed that the sound came from anti-aircraft batteries. This assumption was rudely shattered by the sight of a nearby building dissolving into dust from a direct bomb hit. Further on the way he was startled by the sight of puffs of dust in the road directly in front of and beside the car. He was under fire for the first time.

As usual the Japs had attacked from the rear. Suffice it to say that Coleman arrived at his post and did his duties with the thousands of other brave men.

Lt. Coleman applied and was accepted for OCS training and graduated from the Third Student Training Regiment, December 26, 1942. He has a personal score to settle with a certain race of cowards who have made the peaceful home waters of the Pacific into shambles. After all, his mother and sisters are a lot closer to Japan than we.

Woman's Club

By LAURA M. BAILEY

By LAURA M. BAILEY

Attention is called to the change in time for the opening of the monthly meeting of the Woman's Club on Monday, in the Main Lounge of the Officers' Club. The meeting will start at 2:30 p. m. instead of 3:00 p. m.

The program is planned especially for a stimulating and colorful variety. The meeting is being planned by the Spanish group of the Woman's club under the direction of Mrs. Henry P. Perrine. The committee has gone to great length in providing a program that will reflect a composite picture of the cultural and artistic picture of our Latin-American neighbors.

Mrs. Thomas R. Gibson and Antonio Amadeo of Puerto Rico will stage a group of dances. The rumba and the conga will be included in their numbers. The 29th Infantry band will provide the musical background, as well as music for the tea hour which will follow the program.

Colonel Reginald H. Kelley will give a short lecture on Spain. Col. Kelley's knowledge of history and world wide economics will lend an authoritative note to an important and informative talk. He will interpret the Spanish influence of culture that has been the heritage of this hemisphere from the Cinquistadores, who left their culture but lost their new world empire through lack of ability to establish a permanent political regime.

Dorothy Githens Eley, dramatic soprano, well known to the music lovers of the Woman's Club, will sing a group of Spanish numbers.

A display of pottery, metal work and hand loomed weaving will provide a bright background for the tea hour. The members of the Spanish group will be costumed in Latin American dress and act as hostesses for the tea hour.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion service 8:30 a. m. Men's Bible class 8:30 a. m. Sunday school in the Children's School 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "I Waited For The Lord"—Mendelssohn. Sermon: Chaplain Frederick W. Heifer. Offertory: Solo—"Prayer"—Guion—Mrs. H. Tweed: Christian League 5:30 p. m. under the direction of Chaplain Frederick W. Heifer. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Frank M. Thompson.

29th Infantry: Bible study 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplains Archie D. Clark and Edgar L. Storey.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Fellowship hour 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Frederick S. Zeller.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st S. T. R. and Acad. Regt., Morning services at 9:30 a. m. Chaplain Glenn S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large Day Room for the Det. Med. Dept. 9:30 a. m. Also Colored Med. Det. service in Colored Day Room at 9:30 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplains T. G. Proctor and Walter H. Shine.

Reception Center Chapel No. 2, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m.

Lawson Field: Chapel No. 2, Mens' Bible study 10 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers 6:30 p. m. Song service Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Floyd E. Smith.

24th General Hospital: New Mess Hall, Sunday morning worship service 9:30 a. m. Vespers Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. (In nurses' recreation hall). Chaplain Archie C. Clark.

117th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. choir rehearsal 10 a. m. Wednesday evening Bible Club 7:00 p. m. Chaplain Edward L. Young.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 11:30 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and Clarence R. Ritchie.

2nd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 2, Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chapel No. 4, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Edwin C. Willson.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 5, Holy Communion (Episcopal) 8 a. m. Regimental services at 11 a. m. Chaplain Russell D. Moore. Chapel No. 6, 9:45 a. m. 5th Bn., at 11 a. m. (Bldg. B-25). Chaplain L. E. Billman. Colored service 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 863rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 51st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, from 4 p m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. in the Station Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and 2 at Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C, between ward 12 and 13; at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m. in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5201, located on the 9th Division Road and Custis Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m.; and 9:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 6, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment; Mass at 8 a. m. and 9:30 a. m.

Movies

MAIN THEATER AND NO. 5

Jan. 26-28—THE IMMORTAL SERGEANT—Henry Fonda and Maureen O'Hara.
Jan. 30—MUG TOWN—The Dead End Kids.
THE THUNDERING TRAIL—The Three Mesquiteers.
Jan. 31 & Feb. 1—THE CRYSTAL BALL—Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland.
Feb. 2—NORTHWEST RANGERS—James Craig and John Carradine.
Feb. 3—THE AVENGERS—Hugh Williams and Deborah Kerr.

THEATRES 2 AND 3

Jan. 26—ANDY HARDY'S DOUBLE LIFE—Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone.
Jan. 29—MUG TOWN—The Dead End Kids.
THUNDERING TRAILS — The Three Mesquiteers.
Jan. 30—CITY WITHOUT MEN—Linda Darnell and Glenda Farrell.
Jan. 31 & Feb. 1—THE IMMORTAL SERGEANT—Henry Fonda and Thomas Mitchell.
Feb. 2—THE AVENGERS—Hugh Williams and Deborah Kerr.
Feb. 3—THE CRYSTAL BALL—Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland.

THEATERS 4 AND 5

Jan. 26—CITY WITHOUT MEN—Linda Darnell and Glenda Farrell.
Jan. 29-30—ANDY HARDY'S DOUBLE LIFE—Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone.
Jan. 31—THE AVENGERS—Hugh Williams and Deborah Kerr.
Feb. 1—MUG TOWN—The Dead End Kids.
THUNDERING TRAILS — The Three Mesquiteers.
Feb. 2-3—THE IMMORTAL SERGEANT—Henry Fonda and Thomas Mitchell.

THEATRES 6 AND 7

Jan. 26-28—THE POWERS GIRL—George Murphy and Anne Shirley.
Jan. 30—THE AVENGERS—Hugh Williams and Deborah Kerr.
Jan. 31 & Feb. 1—ANDY HARDY'S DOUBLE LIFE—Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone.
Feb. 2—MUG TOWN—The Dead End Kids.
THUNDERING TRAILS — The Three Mesquiteers.
Feb. 3—NORTHWEST RANGERS—James Craig and John Carradine.

THEATERS 8 AND 11

Jan. 26—MUG TOWN—The Dead End Kids.
THUNDERING TRAILS — The Three Mesquiteers.
Jan. 29-30—THE COMMANDOS STRIKE AT DAWN—Paul Muni and Lillian Gish.
Jan. 31—NORTHWEST RANGERS—James Craig and John Carradine.
Feb. 1—THE AVENGERS—Hugh Williams and Deborah Kerr.
Feb. 2-3—THE POWERS GIRL—George Murphy and Carole Landis.

THEATRE 10

Jan. 28—USO-Camp Shows Unit.
Jan. 29—THE AVENGERS—Hugh Williams and Deborah Kerr.
Jan. 30—NORTHWEST RANGERS—James Craig and John Carradine.
Jan. 31 & Feb. 1—THE POWERS GIRL—George Murphy and Carole Landis.
Feb. 2—SEVEN MILES FROM ALCATRAZ—James Craig and Bonita Granville.
BILLY THE KID in THE WAYS RIDES AGAIN—Buster Crabbe.
Feb. 3—ANDY HARDY'S DOUBLE LIFE—Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

JAN. 26

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"Hells of Montezuma"—MBS
8:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

JAN. 28

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"Hells of Montezuma"—MBS
8:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

JAN. 29

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL
4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL
5:00 P.M.—"Doctors at War"—NBC
6:30 P.M.—Navy Bulletin Board—MBS
7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU
7:30 P.M.—"Armies in the Ranks"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS
10:15 P.M.—"Soldiers With Wings"—WRBL

JAN. 31

3:30 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—NBC
6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS
7:30 P.M.—"We, The People" (featuring G. I. interest)—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"Hello Americans" with Orson Wells—WRBL
9:00 P.M.—"Army Hour" (from Army, Navy YMCA-USO)—NEMB
10:30 P.M.—"Report To the Nation"—WRBL

FEB. 1

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Ceiling Limited" (with Orson Welles)—CBS
8:05 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—Variety show, featuring the 117th Infantry Band—WRBL
8:30 P.M.—Gene Krupa from Camp Grant—BLU
10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

FEB. 2

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Service"—NBC
8:05 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast—WRBL

FEB. 3

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:45 P.M.—"Quartermaster Quarter Hour"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"The Man Behind the Gun"—WRBL

Women's Activities

Woman's Club—General meeting of the Woman's club Monday, February 1, 2:30 p. m. Main Lounge of the Officers' club. Program arranged by Spanish Group.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

WORK ROOMS

Surgical dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Mondays through Fridays. Also Friday, 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. Work rooms open afternoons only, 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. In charge Monday, Mrs. John Jester; Tuesday, Mrs. John Hutchinson; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. William Huffstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes.

Sewing and knitting—Tuesday and Thursday, 9 a. m. to noon. After February 1, Tuesday and Thursday from 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. Paul Newgarden; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

—V—

MOTOR CORPS

On duty Friday, Jan. 29, Mrs. W. L. Starnes; Monday, Feb. 1, Mrs. W. S. Eley, Mrs. L. M. Miles; Feb. 2, Mrs. K. G. Flook and Mrs. T. E. Dulin; Feb. 3, Mrs. J. M. Gavin; Feb. 4, Mrs. H. B. Hug. After Feb. 1, headquarters for the Motor Corps will be 301 Miller Loop. Telephone 2541. 9 a. m. to 12 noon.

—V—

AMBULANCE DRILL

For members of Motor Corps, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 2 p. m. Hospital Ambulance Garage.

—V—

FIRST AID

Advanced First Aid Class, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, 9 to 11 a. m. Red Cross Administration building.

Boy's Activities

Scout Troop No. 11—Fridays.
Cub Pack No. 1—Fridays, 5:15 p. m. Boy Scout Cabin.
Rover—Fridays, 5:15 p. m. Scout Cabin.
Jeeps—Basketball each day, 5:30 to 6:30. Main Gymnasium.
Peeps—Junior basketball team. Daily 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. 29th Infantry Recreation Hall.
Wrestling Team — Tuesday, 5:30-6:30 p. m.
Boxing Team — Wednesday, 5:30-6:30 p. m.

GREAT LAKES FIVE

CHICAGO, Jan. 27— —The Great Lakes basketball team, conqueror of two Big Ten teams on successive nights, will see what it can do about duplicating the performance against Big Six members this week end.

The Bluejackets, who trounced Chicago Monday, 64-35, and rolled over Wisconsin last night, 61-43, will go to Kansas City where they will meet Missouri on Friday and Kansas on Saturday night.

Last night's win was the eighth in a row for Great Lakes and its 18th triumph in 20 starts. The losses weer to Illinois and Northwestern.

NEW HOCKEY BOSS

MONTREAL, Jan. 27—(— Mervin (Red) Dutton, manager of the disbanded Brooklyn Americans, today took up the duties as acting president of the National Hockey league. Frank Calder of Montreal, president since the league was founded in 1917, suffered a hear attack at a meeting of the board of governors in Toronto yesterday. Calder is 66.

McClusky Trades 'Bums' for Guns As Army Gets Stellar Third Sacker

If there hadn't been a "Pearl Harbor," Paul McCluskey, Jr., would have played 3rd base for Montreal last year and this coming season would have been with "Dem Bums" in Brooklyn.

That was the promise Branch Rickey, Jr., made Paul McCluskey before he was drafted February 4, 1942, and was forced to lay aside his life ambition to get into the biggest league of all—the United States Army.

Under the Brooklyn Farm System, McCluskey played with Olean in the "Poney League" for two years and with Grand Rapids, Michigan, where he was hitting .315.

He was suddenly spot-lighted when he hit a double off School Boy Rowe against the Detroit Tigers in an exhibition game.

Tigers Salute Allied Nations

Natives Represent Various Countries

The Military Maids of Columbus and the men of the 10th Armored "Tiger" Division observed Allied Nations Week Thursday with a ball at Service Club No. 2. The club was brilliantly bedecked with the flags of the Allied Nations and all the state flags sent by the governors for the occasion.

The parade of flags forming the "V" began when Miss Czechoslovakia was met at the entrances to the ball room and escorted to her place in the "V" by two 10th Armored men. Each girl representing the various countries followed until the "V" was ready for the entrance of Miss America.

Miss Kate Martin of Leesburg, Georgia, carrying Old Glory, made her entrance as Miss America escorted by a color guard from the 90th Reconnaissance Battalion. Each country was accorded much applause, but the enthusiasm that greeted Miss America was deafening as she took her place at the apex of the "V," thus completing Allied solidarity.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Interesting sidelights regarding the various personalities that took part were Privates Gaska and Gaona of Mexico, who escorted Miss Mexico. Pvt. Carlos Fernandez of Spain, who fought with the Loyalists, served as one of the escorts for Miss Cuba. Miss Great Britain has five relatives serving in the Royal Air Force in England. The Flag of China, carried in the procession, was donated by Pvt. Clarence Y. Huie, Chinese leader in Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Louise Lamb led the singing of "God Bless America" at the completion of the forming of the "V" and then the 11th Armored Regiment's dance orchestra played Star Spangled Banner with violin obligato by Pvt. Joe Ramano. Miss America and her color guard then led the parade of flags out of the ball room and the men of the 10th Armored and their guests enjoyed an evening of dancing.

Guests of the evening were Major General Paul W. Newgarden, Colonel Julian E. Raymond, Captain Roger A. Rawley, Mrs. Hugh Roberts, head of the Military Maids, and Mrs. Louise Lamb.

BASEBALL AND COFFEE

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 27—)—A baseball from his brother and a pound of coffee from his mother went to Al Emmertson, former Pioneer league pitcher now with U. S. forces in Australia.

Al's letter home said he used the baseball to pitch a 12-inning win. He used the coffee for a toast—to himself.

With The Civilians

MYRTLE JOINES

Overheard at the Record Room door this morning at Post Headquarters:

File room attendant: "Mrs. Alford can I get something for you?"

"Yes, I want a general," replied Mrs. Alford.

"Who doesn't?" someone remarked to Mrs. Alford's embarrassment.

* * *

Jen Millhouse and Mabel Perryman are in Atlanta for a five-day conference on the pay roll. They tell me those girls are really going to do justice to the Sub-Depot in that conference in more ways than one. Did they look neat? All turned out in new duds 'n-everything.

* * *

FOUND: One pocketbook. Contents—2 candy bars, fountain pen, and money. Finder can get same by telling the color of the pocketbook, from the Ordnance Office, Fort Benning.

* * *

It's goodbye to T. A. Barefool in the Post Engineer Section, civilian personnel for he's in the Army after February 1st. Uncle Sam gets the best though.

* * *

Wedding bells again in the Quartermaster Office. They are "marrying Sole" down there aren't they? This time it is Peggy Wharton to Lieutenant Don Eyre of the Army Air Corps on February 7, and Ann Norman of the Post Engineer's section to Lt. Robert Herron of the 3rd Student Training Regiment on February 13th. We do wish these young people our best and feel sure that the future holds great things for them.

* * *

Welcome to the first graduate of the first defense school to the Sub-Depot at Lawson Field. June Crofford is the first to defense school to learn her trade, then worked at Fisher Aircraft in Memphis and is now a mechanics helper at the depot. Welcome, June. Hope you like us down here.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

FT. SLOCUM, N. Y.—Recently, while taking his daily hike here Col. Bernard Lentz, commanding Officer of the Post, observed a couple seated on a bench. The soldier and his girl companion were so engrossed in each other's company that they did not notice the Colonel's approach. Finally, with the C.O. standing beside them, the girl looked up, startled, while her companion was too dumbfounded to move.

"Lady," said Colonel Lentz, "is your boy-friend a soldier?"

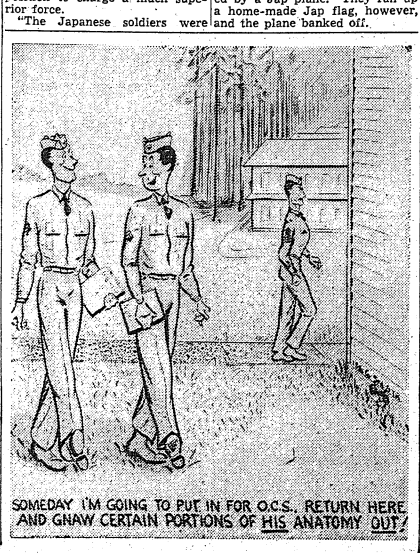
"No, sir," came the answer, "he's my husband."

Officer Eludes Japanese In Thrilling 'Sea Saga'

Capt. Osborne Relates Story Of Escape In Boat

An epic of the sea was made by Capt. W. L. Osborne, now at Fort Benning, when he escaped from the Philippines in a 22-foot native Filipino boat, together with Capt. Damon J. Gause of Winder, Ga.

The two sailed the tiny craft for 53 days through enemy-infested waters in making their escape to Australia, Capt. Osborne recalled today as he described the fighting and the cruelties of the Japanese soldiery toward their captives.



He also disclosed that many American soldiers, sailors and marines had escaped to hill country and were organizing units of resistance. What has happened to them since the fall of Bataan last spring of, course nobody has been able to learn.

"We are facing a ruthless, cruel enemy," he asserted. "As an illustration, on one occasion some of our troops fired on a Japanese troop movement. The Japs had about 25 Filipino prisoners with them. They retreated a safe distance and then tied these prisoners to trees and bayoneted them to death while our small outpost had to watch without being in a position to charge a much superior force.

"The Japanese soldiers were much more barbaric in treatment of prisoners at first than they now are, because of efforts made by the International Red Cross. They were more brutal to the prisoners taken on Bataan, because of the stiff resistance, than to those taken on Corregidor."

After the fall of Corregidor, many Americans escaped to native settlements where they were being hidden. Capt. Osborne himself lived in a mountain settlement for two and a half months, and although he was only two miles from a Japanese camp, the natives guarded him secretly. Filipino children weren't allowed near his hut in order that they might not give away his secret innocently but all of them appeared to know he was there, and often sang "God Bless America" when they passed, to show their friendly feelings.

Capt. Osborne finally heard that Capt. Gause was hiding in some nearby small islands and located him after three weeks. They managed to secure the tiny native boat and finally decided to set sail for Australia. They lived largely on canned meat, rice, fish and bananas; passed near Japanese warships but got away with appearing like Filipinos in the small boat, and once were attacked by a Jap plane. They ran up a home-made Jap flag, however, and the plane banked off.

'Pop-Eye' In The Flesh Wows Fellow Students

Making gruesome faces at the Japs will be all in a day's work for O. C. Robert Everhart.

Everhart, who is a member of the 7th Company, Second Student Training Regiment, has a double-jointed jaw and spent ten years before joining the army entertaining night club and theater audiences with his contortions.

Foremost in O. C. Everhart's repertoire is his striking impersonation of the beloved comic character Popeye. He even did Popeye four times in the movies and also presented the act at Bob Ripley's Believe-It-Or-Not show at the New York World's Fair.

Everhart has found his civilian occupation much in keeping with the desires and hopes of the Infantry School's Bayonet committee who plead with the troops to make gruesome faces when "jabbing" the enemy with the bayonet.

Everhart will take the enemy off his feet, he predicts, as he expects that the Jap will possibly burst into laughter when he throws a short "jab" with the bayonet and simultaneously brings forth a typical Popeye on his face —thus opening the way for an easy score.

HE'S NO FREAK

But Everhart is no freak. The whole business was largely accidental. Born in Dundee, Ohio, he graduated from Ohio State University in 1929 and went on to Yale Art School to study. In 1931 he had several offers from colleges to teach art.

In the meantime, Everhart had adopted acting as an avocation. He joined the New Haven Theater Guild where he developed a repertoire of impersonations of screen stars and other personalities. When 1931 came he decided that rather than accept a low paying teaching salary, he would make show business his profession.

Everhart was on the road for the next 10 years or so. Popeye was always the crowd's favorite impersonation.

When you've spent your life scaring people by making faces, it's kind of hard getting used to doing it with a bayonet, was Everhart's comment on O. C. school.

Newton D. Baker Village Reporter

BY MRS. DOROTHY TROUTMAN

The following newcomers are welcomed to the village:

St. Sgt. and Mrs. Robert L. Wilson, 145-F; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Chester F. Wendler, 119-B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. William J. Cernegglin, 67-D; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Steward W. Smith, 140-C; Lt. and Mrs. Leslie W. Fish, 27 Barry; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Rollie H. Nelson, 53-A; St. Sgt. and Mrs. John R. Stouch, 152-A; T. Sgt. and Mrs. Wallace C. Thornell, 80-E; Sgt. and Mrs. James J. Renihaw, 54-D; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Clarence E. Cox. 87-D; Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Allen, 20-D; St. Sgt .and Mrs. Jim Brummett, 4-F; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie G. Ellis, 12-D; Lt. and Mrs. Roy H. Simpson, 17 Barry; T. Sgt. and Mrs. Daniel W. Sohein, 41-A; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Robert W. Roe, 154-A; Lt. and Mrs. Wm. F. Bavenger, 12 Court.

PERSONALS

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. T. K. Lee Jr., have returned from a recent visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Lee, Sr., of Birmingham, Ala.

Mr. Sgt. and Mrs. John Schovil announce the birth of a son, on January 15; at the Station Hospital. Although Sgt. and Mrs. Schovil now live on the Post, they will long be remembered by their many friends in the Village.

Sgt. and Mrs. Tony Sabino, 84-E, have as a visitor this week, Mrs. Sabino's mother, Mrs. Pugh, of Thomaston, Ala.

Mrs. Thomas Harino has returned from Brooklyn, N. Y., and has as a visitor her mother-in-law, Mrs. Carolyn Pabon. Mrs. Marino will leave soon for Oregon to join her husband, Lt. Thomas Marino, who is stationed there.

Miss Lily Poole is back in the Nursery School after being away due to the illness and death of her brother.

W. O. and Mrs. J. D. Beck left Tuesday for Gadsden, Ala., to be at the bedside of their sister, Mrs. Carl Sanders.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Grayson, 34-B, are visiting relatives and friends in Atlanta and Athens this week.

Mrs. J. W. Huxford, of Clinton, Neb., is visitng her daughter Mrs. William Huxford of 7 Allison Avenue.

Several ladies of the Village whose husbands are members of the Twenty-Ninth Infantry attended the luncheon given for the Twenty-Ninth at the Woman's Club in Columbus on Thursday. After the luncheon the ladies enjoyed several games of bridge.

Mr. Sgt. Arthur Valencort of Ft. Devens, Mass., visited Lt. and Mrs. T. H. Nipps of 17 Roper Avenue last week.

Mrs. George Brawner, Sr., had as a week-end guest Sgt. and Mrs. Earl Dove, who are former residents of the Village.

Miss Patsy Summers is visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Moose of Toccoa, Ga.

The friends of Sgt. and Mrs. John Schovil are glad to learn that Mrs. Schovil has returned from the hospital with their new son.

Miss Jean Turner and Lt. William G. Trost were married at the Post Chapel Saturday, Jan. 16. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of her aunt, Mrs. James Mauch, 84-C. Lt. and Mrs. Trost are now living at Camp Croft, S. C., where he is stationed.

First Sgt. and Mrs. Orville Boyette, 145-H, are the proud parents of a baby boy named David Orville.

St. Sgt. and Mrs. George Denton, 151-C, are welcomed to the Village, along with their dog "Blackie," and their cat "Smokey."

Mrs. James Mauck announces the engagement of her daughter Patsy Summers to Lt. Francis Grant Pennell. The marriage is to take place in the near future.

St. Sgt. and Mrs. B. P. Couch, 52-D, had as their guest his mother, Mrs. Ollie Couch, of Columbia, S. C.

Friends of Margaret Wilson, daughter of Chaplain and Mrs. Edwin C. Williams of 32 Fox avenue, are sorry to learn that she is ill with mumps.

Little Joan Lambert, 31 Court, has been confined to her home for several days because of illness.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Nash Lee Young, son of Lt. and Mrs. B. N. Young, 18 Keating avenue, entertained friends in his class at Nursery School with a birthday party Friday, Jan. 22. The club room of the administration building was the scene of celebration.

The table was very attractively decorated with patriotic colors of red, white, and blue. A huge white cake holding six red; white, and blue candles decorated the center of the table.

At each place appropriate napkins were placed and nut caps decorated with patriotic emblems held small candies.

Nash Lee greeted his guests, who were accompanied by their teacher Mrs. Minnie Trapp, dressed in a very attractive officers' uniform with two silver eagles on the shoulders. His snappy salute welcomed each guest.

The fifteen children present played games, led by Mrs. Young, after which ice cream and birthday cake were enjoyed by all.

LIBRARY

The Baker Village Library, located at Benning Drive and Rapier Avenue, announces the following new books: "Suez to Singapport," by Cecil Brown; "Airplane Andy," Tousey; "We'll Take the Highways," Eberle; "The Seventh Cross," Seghers; "The Uninvited," by McArdle; "King's Row," Bellaman; "Tap Roots," Street; "See Here, Private Hargrove," Hargrove; "The Robe," Douglas; "Crescent Carnival," Keyes; "Pied Piper," Shute; "The Song of Bernadette," Werful.

DANCE

The officers and their wives will dance to the music of the 505th Parachute orchestra Saturday evening, Jan. 30, in the auditorium. A large crowd is expected to attend.

GIRL SCOUTS

There is an urgent need for a Girl Scout leader in the Village. If anyone has had experience as a leader or would be willing to be a leader, please contact Mrs. Troutman.

RECREATION

The beautiful weather in the past few days has been very encouraging for out-door recreation. Badminton, volleyball, basketball, softball, paddle tennis and other equipment are available for your use. Mrs Troutman will be glad to make it possible for you to use these.

Ping-pong and shuffleboard are also available for playing in the auditorium. Please see Mrs. Hayes at 31-C, or call Mrs. Troutman at 3333.

During the past few windy days the Village has had kites of all colors and shapes floating over it. As soon as the weather can be depended on perhaps a kite tournament can be arranged.

BAPTIST NOTES

The Men's Brotherhood of the Benning Park Baptist church will meet at Rev. O. C. Davison's home, 3200 Benning Drive, Thursday evening at 8:00 p. m. All men of the church are invited.

The Sunbeams and Royal Ambassadors will meet at the church Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

The Girls' Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. Glaze, 34-D, on Saturday afternoon.

BAMA CLUB

PRESENTS A NEW SHOW With

WALLY STOEFFLER

And His Orchestra

"DEEP SWEET MUSIC"

BETTY BLACK, Singer

★ STAR OF RHYTHM ★

LEROY and His Swing King Of Marionettes

BOB ROBINSON And VIRGINIA MARTIN

SENSATIONAL DANCE TEAM

JOHNNY PLATT, M. C.

- - - MAGICIAN - - -

FINEST FOODS WESTERN STEAKS AND CHICKEN

Dancing From 8:30 'Til ●

Just Across the Lower Bridge, First Building On the Right.

DIAL 3-1051

Admission:

Week Nites 50c

Saturday Nights $1.00

Sims Honored By Gen. Fulton

U.S.O. Worker To Go To Brazil

H. J. Sims, director of the USO, Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. in Columbus who is leaving his post here to organize a program for United States army men in Brazil, was honored Friday at a luncheon at the Officers' club given by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, post commanding general.

The service of Mr. Sims in organizing a morale program for the men of Fort Benning in downtown Columbus was praised by General Fulton who said he spoke on behalf of all the commanding officers and thousands of men at the post. Others who spoke briefly honoring the work of Mr. Sims were Maj. Gen. Paul W. Newgarden, commanding general of the 10th Armored division, and J. Dupont Kirven, chairman of the committee of management.

Mr. Sims, who has served in Y. M. C. A. work for many years in Brazil, expressed his gratitude to the army officials and men of the Post as well as the civilians of Columbus and said that when the war was over he hoped to return and make his home here.

Attending the luncheon were officials and committee members of organizations downtown working for the aid of soldier personnel, and several army officers.

46 Alligators Add More Stripes

Col. John D. Hill, the commanding officer of the 124th Infantry, announces the promotion of 46 enlisted men in his regiment today.

Promoted to staff sergeants are Murrah M. Warren, Tom T. Crumly, Roy L. Bowles, Russel E. Grooms, Fred J .Cooper, and Hansel Justice.

Newly made sergeants are: Jessie B. Jackson, John B. Herndon, Hubert L. Wilson, Lester W. Kent, James H. Newton, Attillio Izzi, Harris H. Lovell, Otie A. Noel, James D. Pitre, Golden B. Dearth, Bruce E. Helm, David Lyle Holland, Edward J. Hamilton, Morton Pearlman, and Hobart A. Christmas.

Elevated to corporals are: Marion D. Bryan, Ernest Winfrey Williams, Lewis L. Trapnell, Philip Baum, Arthur W. Homberg, John J. Hyszcak, William J. Houlihan, Chester R. Shaffer, Seymour Super, Constantin Matausch, Arthur R. Howell, C. J. Smith, William E. Blaise, Nick Smith, John DePaoli, John H. Germeyer, Jeffrey F. Price, Harold T. Johnson, Henry W. Murray, Hayden M. Wilson, Hubert L. Markham, and George Joseph Gargano.

LANDIS WAIVES TRIP

CHICAGO, Jan. 27— — Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, is passing up a Florida vacation for the first time in 23 years.

"The boys aren't going to do their training in the south, so why should I?" he explained today. "It wouldn't be settin' a good example. I'll freeze up here with the rest of 'em."

PHENOMENA

The expansi
Center has b phenomenal.
installed as a cupied one bu
Most of th
have come to ter directly f that a continu has been nec to giving the their basic training, it ha train them
Cobs, since h had ever had life that wou
this type of stated.

CLASSROOM

A regular p including clas ried on for listed men cadre as well
ing program
Selectees beg
ately upon ar station under at the center into groups a of a non-co who remains are completel and fitted.
from one pr and during given le courtesy, ori military subj

The Recept selectees from tion Stations
Service Com
bama, Georgi and South Ca

Although t
of the cente use of about 4
Sibley stoves, i
281 temporary bui
never been a f magnitude to use, the repor
the train mov voying was e single accide
no serious ac
at the center
established.
Pullman offic commended the men the the excellen equipment u nation.

OWN CONST

Much of t the cente men going there.

Carpenters
ed their tal of 15 buildin ranging from down to a n
bers of offic lumber and were used in ings at a savi of four-fifth normal cost. structures, m of walks w nails picked gether with

Outstandin
Reception Ce
tenance of t
Center Choru orchestra. Da grams also selectees in a each Saturd given over to

Outstandin
was the rese disease at t with new tec out and no standard op other Recept

Insuran

(Continue few others,
nitely contin

He went o ernment cou only because of Congress. pay benefits
ey. Comme do this, and dent in Cana
ment insura risk insuran mercial com
cessity, extr
NO 'SALES

Our gover to make m
During Wor
the amount was paid ou because the agents' fees, and because appropriatio

Aside fro families an Sam's policie investments pointed out

"After on be converte surance ter
30 pay life.
technical re mean the p fits of reg
Some have others are so many y

Reception Center Has Record Year In Induction Of Colored Troops

Unit Ships Men To All U. S. Points Without Incident

All records were smashed last year in the number of colored troops processed at the Recruit Reception Center, first reception center for colored troops, according to a report submitted by Lt. Col. Ulric N. James, commanding officer, to Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of Fort Benning.

Men were shipped to "practically every camp and post in the United States," and all train movements, together with all the other activities of the center, were carried out without a single hitch, without a single instance of desertion and without any serious fight or disorder, the report disclosed.

PHENOMENAL GROWTH

The expansion of the Reception Center has been little short of phenomenal. The original center, installed as a temporary plan, occupied one building.

Most of the officers and men have come to the Reception Center directly from civilian life so that a continual program for them has been necessary. In addition to giving the enlisted personnel their basic 13 weeks military training, it has been necessary to train them in their respective jobs, since hardly any of them had ever had training in civilian life that would qualify them for this type of work, the report stated.

CLASSROOM WORK

A regular program of training, including class room work, is carried on for all officers and enlisted men of the permanent cadre as well as the special training program for the selectees. Selectees begin training immediately upon arrival at the checking station under the plan inaugurated at the center. They are formed into groups and placed in charge of a non-commissioned officer who remains with them until they are completely processed, clothed and fitted. They are marched from one processing to another and during any spare moments are given lectures on military courtesy, orientation and basic military subjects.

The Reception Center drew its selectees from a number of Induction Stations within the Fourth Service Command covering Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee and South Carolina.

Although the housing facilities of the center sometimes require use of about 400 tents, heated with Sibley stoves, in addition to about 261 temporary buildings, there has never been a fire of sufficient magnitude to put one tent out of use, the report showed. During all the train movements, all the convoying was carried out without a single accident, it also state, and no serious accidents have occurred at the center itself since it was established. Both railroad and Pullman officials have repeatedly commended the good conduct of the men they have handled and the excellent condition of the equipment upon arrival at destination.

OWN CONSTRUCTION

Much of the construction work at the center has been done by men going through processing there.

Carpenters in civilian life utilized their talents in construction of 15 buildings during the year, ranging from a 250-man mess hall down to a hut for visiting members of officers' families. Scrap lumber and reclaimed hardware were used in many of these buildings at a saving to the government of four-fifths of their estimated normal cost. In addition to these structures, more than 5,000 feet of walks were constructed with nails picked up over the area, together with rough pine slabs.

Outstanding in the work of the Reception Center was the maintenance of the famed Reception Center Chorus and the band and orchestra. Daily and weekly programs also are scheduled for all selectees in athletic activities, with each Saturday afternoon being given over to a Field Day.

Outstanding in the health field was the research on venereal disease at the Reception Center, with new techniques being worked out and now made available as standard operating procerures at other Reception Centers.

General's Chauffeur Has No 'Soft Snap'

Contrary to what might be expected, the general's chauffeur does not have exactly the cushiest job in the 10th Armored Division. He does a lot of sitting, to be sure, but since Major General Paul W. Newgarden wont to traveling lots of places in a peep, his chauffeur necessarily bumps along with him.

General Newgarden's chauffeur is Pvt. Clement B. Morris of Division Service Company and both the general and the private seem satisfied with the arrangement inasmuch as it has extended over a year now. Morris began his job when General Newgarden was combat commander of Combat A, 2nd Armored Division, and was transferred when the Second left Fort Benning and the 10th came in. Incidentally, before the cadre arrived here last summer, Morris enjoyed the unique experience of occupying a whole barrack by himself. In the neighboring barrack was another former member of the Second who had remained behind to attend officer candidate school, and within a few days the two decided that they wouldn't be too crowded if they moved into one barrack. Morris was evasive when asked if they had kept the whole barrack clean.

100 MILES PER DIEM

Morris does not know how he came to be assigned as chauffeur to the general, except that he has been a driver since he entered the army in September, 1940. He estimates that he drives about 100 miles a day and that his total mileage is about evenly distributed between a peep, which bears the somewhat cryptic name P. H. (Morris thinks it stands for personal reconnaissance) and the Packard Clipper which is a familiar sight to most of the members of the Tenth.

His working day is quite elastic because the general often returns to the division at night, and he can count on no free days, although the general rarely is at work on Sundays. Morris is charged with responsibility for the sedan, which is kept at the Service Company motor park, and every morning he drives off at 7:30 o'clock to pick up the general, who lives on Zukerman avenue on the main post. The general, by the way, is always ready promptly at 8 o'clock, according to his chauffeur. Morris also calls for the general's aide, Captain Roger A. Rawley, and conveys both officers to Division Headquarters.

The general's peep is kept at the motor park of Division Headquarters and is driven up every morning to be parked at the door to Headquarters.

GENERAL CRACK SHOT

Morris does not have to wait around much for the general, he says, because "the boss" is constantly checking up on the progress of the division. He likes especially to visit the ranges. An expert shot himself, he often fires a few rounds at pistol and rifle targets during these inspection tours, according to his chauffeur.

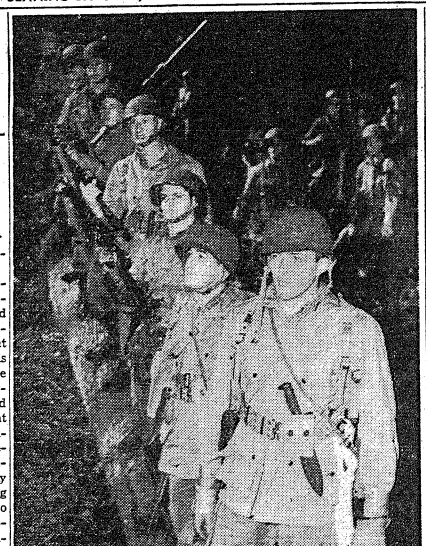
On long trips the general travels by train and Morris takes a break which ends as soon as the general returns.

Morris is a native of Georgia and lives at Canton, about 160 miles from here. Because of the pressure of his duties, however, he rarely gets home and is not much better off than the boys from Minnesota, North Dakota, and points east and north. He has been stationed at Fort Benning since he entered the army and is completely satisfied with his assignment.

29th Tramps On Long Hike

500 Troops March From Dothan to Camp

Five hundred troops of the Third Battalion of the 29th Infantry were bivouacked at Fort Benning today after completing an arduous 105 mile march from Dothan, Ala., to the post in four days.



The experimental motor-march climaxed a strenuous training program which was designed to toughen the soldiers of the Infantry School's demonstration regiment for the long hike.

Under the command of Lieut Col. Argyle P. Jones, commanding officer of the Battalion, the troops drove to Panama City, Fla., in Army vehicles, a trip of about 200 miles.

Leaving Panama City on a cold, inclement morning, the troops were transported by truck until noon, stopping about 10 miles south of Dothan, Ala. After lunch at that stop, the troops began the long hike back to the post.

On successive days the hikes averaged 25 miles per day. Marching into Fort Benning, the troops entered the main post at Outpost No. 1. The 29th's band, under the baton of Warrant Officer Albert Andrews, met the soldiers and led the march to the unit's barracks.

On arriving at their quarters, the troops were greeted by Colonel C. A. Bagby, commanding officer of the regiment, who lauded them for their performance.

IT WILL BE A SAD DAY when these rough and tough paratroopers of the 507th parachute infantry regiment tackle anything the Axis has to offer. Lieut. Maitland Higgins and non-commissioned officers of Company G, 3rd battalion of the regiment, which broke the record on the celebrated battle course of the First Airborne Infantry brigade at Fort Benning, are shown above as they were ready to take another run over the course. The gruelling test course, stretching for tractless miles through scrub, swamp and sinkpools, was completed by Lt. Higgins' platoon in three hours and five minutes against a course record of four hours. (Air Base Photo by Rootes.)

Joyce Kilmer's Son Is O. C.; Forsook Literary Career To Fight

The trees to which Joyce Kilmer sang his lovely poem bear a different litany these days as members of the 16th Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry Officer school take to the woods. One of these Benning balladeers is the youngest son of that fighting poet, Candidate Christopher Kilmer.

Candidate Kilmer was less than a year old when his father was killed in action near Seringes, France. Twenty-two years later he entered the Army through the same outfit, the famous 69th New York National Guard. After acquiring his early training at Fort McClellan, he participated in the 1941 sumer maneuvers and went overseas early in 1942. In November he returned to study at the Infantry school.

Prior to his Army career Kilmer had travelled a great deal and was in the process of moving his residence from his native East to Tucson, Ariz., when the ree-year-old son of his country's need impelled him to forsake his personal plans. He had written some poems and was well on the road to making a career in literature.

Mrs. Kilmer, a native of North Carolina, and their three-year-old son have come to Georgia to wait for him to finish the school and are now living in near-by Columbus.

Plastic—

(Continued from Page One)

see what progress the patient was making. With use of transparent plastics, the doctor can watch the underlying tissues. At the same time, the plastic splint can be quickly and easily reworked in case it does not fit properly, whereas the old methods would not allow of this.

In use of the plastics for dentures, a lighter, stronger result is obtained and the materail can be tinted much closer to the coloring of the mouth than rubber. Some are also used in the transparent plastics.

The plastics can be quickly, easily and cheaply made, even under field conditions. The material comes in the form of a white powder and all that is necessary is to mix it and pack into a form or mould which can easily be cured by boiling. The false teeth are set firmly into the acrylic and the whole forms a light denture which wearers find more comfortable than the old rubber type.

The plastic material is plentiful, too, for it is made from by-products of soy beans or peanut hulls or many other common articles. Incidentally, plastics in their present use were first discovered by dentists seeking a substitute for rubber. Now they are assuming a tremendously increased importance in many industries.

Use of the plastic substance was developed further by Col. Sanderson and Capt. Maury at Fort Benning when they foresaw scarcity of the more commonly used rubber more than a year ago. The laboratory was equipped with moulds and making equipment and today is well equipped to give service to Uncle Sams' soldiers.

Not only is the laboratory equipped for the use of plastics, for that is really just one phase of the work carried on there. A civilian, F. Reid, of Columbus, who is a veteran of World War 1 after which he became a dental technician, serves as a trainer for the soldier technicians. Capt. Sgt. Cramer Griffith, of Birmingham, a technician in civilian life, is also an expert. Men drawn from the Army Medical Corps learn to make dentures and to set false teeth, make splints, polish, work in gold and do all the other things that make the laboratory as able to handle the most intricate work as any civilian laboratory in the country today.

The laboratory, besides its other work, has turned out 602 full dentures, 1445 partial plates, made 220 bridges and has prepared 32 splints for fractured jaws, Capt. Maury's reports show.

Insurance—

(Continued from Page One)

ew others, but the contract definitely continues to hold.

He went on to say that our government could offer such a policy only because of an appropriation of Congress. It could not hope to pay benefits out of premium money. Commercial companies must do this, and the difference is evident in Canada where no government insurance is offered. War risk insurance handled by commercial companies is, of necessity, extremely high premiums.

NO 'SALESMEN'

Our government is not seeking to make money in this venture. During World War I, five times the amount collected in premiums was paid out. This can be done because there is no overhead, agents' fees, and profit figured in, and because of the Congressional appropriation.

Aside from protection offered families and dependents, Uncle Sam's policies are one of the best investments any man can make, pointed out Major Lowe.

"After one year the policy can be converted to ordinary life insurance term insurance, or 20 or 30 pay life. These are somewhat technical terms," he added, "which mean the policy offers all benefits of regular peace time risk. Some have cash surrender value, others are paid up at the end of so many years. These features can be explained further by unit insurance officers."

GOOD RESPONSE

Most service men are eager to know more about the arrangement, and upon learning what is offered, start allotments right away. At Pine Camp, N. Y., which Major Lowe visited recently, soldiers subscribed to $1,325,000 worth of protection, after hearing him explain the set up.

Everyone in the army is eligible to purchase $10,000 worth of National Service Insurance, without even a physical examination, if he has been in service less than 120 days. After 120 days have passed the applicant is still eligible, but must take recheck physical. As for U. S. Government Insurance, any veteran of World War I is eligible for this, provided he has not cashed in a previous policy, and is now a member of the armed forces. This contract carries some additional features which the National Service policy has not yet incorporated. However, by the end of the war both plans will be essentially the same.

Tuneful—

(Continued from Page One)

becoming one of the country's best comedians. Shore really keeps 'em laughing.

Real eye-catcher is Christine Forsythe, tallest tap-dancer on the American stage, who looks like she just stepped out of John Powers' album of long-stemmed American beauties. She's gay, lovely, and rates plenty of applause for her clear-cut tapping to the navy tunes.

But there's a whole ship-load of talent in "Hit the Deck". Marie Austin nails Willie Shore; Marilyn Ross and Earl MacVeigh do the bulk of the singing; Lee Dixon clowns through the part of the hero, Bilge Smith, in the fashion of Hollywood from whence he came; Jean, Jack and Judy really hit the deck in their acrobatic numbers; and all the gobs and gals join in the fun. "Hit the Deck" is a real hit—salty, songful, and snappy!

Louis Fischer, famous author of many books on world political and economic affairs, will deliver a lecture Monday, Jan. 25, at 8:30 p. m. at the USO auditorium, 100 Ninth street in Columbus. His topic will be "Dawn of Victory."

Among the books that he has written are "Men and Politics;" "The Soviets in World Affairs;" "Oil Imperialism;" "Why Recognize Russia;" "Machines and Men in Russia" and "Dawn of Victory."

He will speak under auspices of the Friedlaender Fund, it was announced by Dr. Paul M. Munro, secretary of the governing committee of the organization. An invitation has been extended to all military personnel to attend the lecture.

Room Shortage In Columbus Continues Acute

There is an acute shortage of rooms, and rooms with kitchen privileges in Columbus, according to Lt. J. A. White, post billeting officer.

"Military personnel have been beseiging us with requests for quarters of this type, and we have very few rooms available. The shortage is worse than at the same time last year," said Lt. White.

The citizens of Columbus have been asked to cooperate in helping to solve this problem. All persons having rooms to rent with or without kitchen privileges are requested to register them with Lt. George Fogle, assistant billeting officer in Columbus. His office is located at 1104 1-2 Broadway, and the phone is 8213.

Fort—

(Continued from Page One)

staff would give Dr. Brena every attention available. He will rejoin the party in Los Angeles upon his release.

Two of the visitors testified to the solidarity of the western hemisphere and said that their countries are redoubling efforts in the cause of the United Nations.

Alejandro Miro Quesada Garland, writer for Ey Comercio, Lima, Peru, oldest paper in the country with a circulation twice the size of all the others, said:

"I am already convinced that the United States is making an epic effort and is capable of defending the western hemisphere.

WORKING DOUBLE TIME

He assured North Americans that his people are working double time and producing twice what they did formerly for the Allies.

"We are contributing vital war materials in oil, copper and magnesium," he pointed out.

Carlos Rios, director of La Manana, Uruguay, speaking at a luncheon at the 10th Armored division, declared:

"South Americans are convinced of the necessity of solidarity, not only to win the war but to win the peace and to maintain it."

One of the high points of the day's tour of the post was a flight aloft for the men with partroops who jumped from the planes. They also aried out a controlled ride on one of the training towers.

The visitors watched an Infantry school demonstration, had lunch at the 10th Armored where Maj. Gen. Paul Newgarden greeted them in Spanish, had dinner in the Officers' Club, and took a train from Opelika, Ala., to New Orleans to view the Higgins Industries on a nation-wide tour.

Plane arrangements at the fort were made by Brig. Gen. George P. Howell, commandant of the Parachute school, and Col. Garland Williams, assistant commandant.

ALLEN ARRANGES TOUR

Maj. Gen. Leven C. Allen, commandant of the Infantry school, arranged the Infantry school tour.

At the dinner Monday night, Brig. Gen. Walter Scott Fulton declared the newsmen's visit was an expression of the good-will that exists in the western hemisphere, and proposed a toast to Pan-America.

Thru—

(Continued from Page One)

will remain a secret. But it is no secret that the very presence of our Commander in Chief in North Africa gave our determined troops over there a new impetus to give their all in the campaign. Major General George S. Patton, commanding U. S. troops in French Morocco, who was formerly stationed at Fort Benning, accompanied the President on an extensive review of American troops.

AS THE DAYS PASS BY and the Allied Nations continue to burst forth with their death-blows for victory, it will be obvious that the new campaigns and revamped strategy will prove the fruition of the North African meeting. When the President and the Prime Minister meet, they don't regard their junkets as furloughs. As Fort Benning privately remarked, so is it bound to turn out: the master minds met "to settle the affair of the world."

HOW LARGE should our armed forces ve?

Senator Bankhead of Alabama touched off some fireworks on that question by an utterance which a few years ago probably would have gained him top headlines, but in these present times rated considerably below that. Sen. Bankhead's general idea is to set a "ceiling" on the size of armed forces, and that this country could make greatest contribution to defeat of Axis by devoting energies mainly to production of food and weapons, leaving it to other nations to provide any additional fighting men needed.

In reply, Robert P. Patterson, Undersecretary of War, issued a statement that "the people who contend that our army is too large seem to overlook two important factors." First of these is, he contends, that it is just as necessary to obtain superiority over enemies in number of soldiers as in training and in number and quality of weapons. Second is that we are now training men in 1943 to fight in 1944.

And, says the Undersecretary, "our training program must contemplate a long war and unfortunately there are no sound reasons to believe that the war will be finished in 1943."

He further pointed out that a total of 10,000,000 men under arms is about one in 13; whereas Germany, Russia, England, all have about one in 10 under arms, and to say that this country cannot support one in 13 and still maintain production of food, arms and ammunition is absurd.

....FALLr w

FALL OF Tripoli and relief of the siege of Leningrad, combined with the continued sweep of the Russian Armies to drive the Nazis out of the precious oil regions of the Caucausus region, makes the actual war news fairly bright this week. If the Russians continue, the signs point to possibility of recapture of Kharkov before too long. Nazi press and radio is explaining the German reverses on the eastern front by admitting superiority of Aussian resources and material.

ALONG THIS line of thought, comes word from the Office of War Information that in 15 months of Lend-Lease aid to Russia, the United States has shipped about 2,600 planes, 3,000 tanks and 81,000 military motor vehicles. England also has supplied about 2,600 tanks and more than 2,000 planes. And at the same time, more food is being sent to Russia than to England. "After a slow start, shipments began to increase and are still increasing, in spite of shipping shortages and enemy attacks along the supply routes," the OWI reported.

At the same time, the OWI admitted that "The weapons that got through from the U. S. to Russia were only a trifle compared to Russain production, but at the same time American machines and parts, sent to replace vital elements lost when Russian industries moved to safety behind the Urals, were helping Russian factories to keep operating."

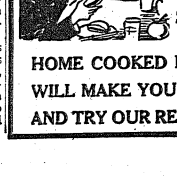
Thus it is easy to see that American help is being felt keenly as Russian Armies continue drives against the Nazis.

OWI also points out that Lend-Lease is doing a job all over the world mentioning specifically the ports built up along the Persian Gulf and the Red Sea, airfields, docks, warehouses, assembly and repair shops, pipelines, communications and railroads all of which facilities and bases now are being used by American forces to fight the war in Tunisia, in the Middle East, and all the way to China.

GOOD SOLDIER NOTE—Uncle Sam is going to issue each barber kit to guide overseas areas where professional barbers are not available. Beard clippers will be included for troops in regions where it is too cold to shave. The clippers are designed to prevent formation of ice on whiskers. For men in warmer countries, the kits will contain two pairs each of clippers and scissors, two shaving brushes, two razors, strop, hone, shaving soap, all wrapped in water repellant canvas roll.

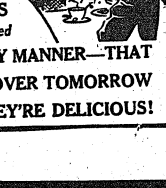
IN THE field of foreign diplomacy, Chile and Iraq have now declared war against the Axis powers. This leaves only the Argentine as a neutral in the Americas.

AMERICAN AIR raids continue to be made on Japanese bases, while in Europe the RAF blasts away at German industrial centers. Air and naval attacks on Japanese shipping and war-vessels have resulted in destruction of at least 445 Nip ships. Recent reports from German propaganda sources would seem to show that this is pretty serious since it is more difficult for the Japs to replace these units than America, or England, also hard hit in the shipping lanes.



At least the United Nations seem to be keeping nearly even in building with sinkings. But Berlin sources report that Tokyo has begun construction of rafts made of bambo to help transport army materails. American submarines alone, in daring raids right into the mouths of some of Japan's great harbors, have sunk 117 vessels, probably sunk 22 more, and certainly damaged 31.

At the same time, the submarine toll of Allied ships continues high and English and American high officials admit that "The submarine situation is bad and it will stay bad for a long time."



All of which seems to point to a grim duel for control of the sea lanes, just as a grim but more spectacular duel is being waged for control of the air.

CLASSIFIED

MAY AND MASON DANCE STUDIO: Ballroom, Tap, and Jitterbug. Private classes. Day and night classes. 802 Broadway. Dial 2-4469.

ANNOUNCING
The Reopening
—THE NEW—
POST OFFICE GRILLE
—Next Door to Phenix City Post Office—
Miss Sue Searcy, Prop.
514 FOURTEENTH ST. PHENIX CITY, ALA.
STEAKS — CHICKEN — OYSTERS
That's Really Tender Home Cooked Raw or Fried
HOME COOKED MEALS — SERVED IN A FRIENDLY MANNER—THAT WILL MAKE YOU COME BACK OFTEN . . . COME OVER TOMORROW AND TRY OUR REGULAR SUNDAY DINNERS — THEY'RE DELICIOUS!

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By EVE

The rest of the nation is shivering with the icy blast of winter. Those of us who are at Fort Benning can consider ourselves fortunate in spending the winter in the "Sunny South." Cruise clothes and early spring fashions have a real meaning here. There's a definite uplift in Columbus this week with fresh new stock arriving daily. Interested and curious shoppers are crowding the stores. Women wise to the ways of merchandising are purchasing their spring and summer dresses, for they know the prettiest styles and best assortment of summer things are the first arrivals.

There are some people who can always be classed as the "carriage trade." They want quality merchandise and buy on the principle that you get what you pay for. The male contingent of this type of customer will be interested to hear about the new arrivals at CHANCELLOR'S. They've just rereived a stock of fine cashmere sweaters, slip over and cardigan in soft beige and blue. They are imported from Scotland and carry the famous label of McGregor. Equally rare and outstanding in quality are the McGregor leather coats. The finest leathers and workmanship make these desirable leather coats a shopping find these days. Some of them are especially designed for officers with the shoulder tabs. The smart new leisure coats by the house of Hart, Schaffner and Marx are another outstanding item. The tailoring is the quality expected of this famous house. The coats are in pale beige and white tweed with fine gabardine fronts. It's an exciting pleasure to find merchandise of this quality in a day when we've become accustomed to war time restrictions of quality and workmanship.

— — V — —

I've got some real news this week for the gals at Fort Benning. SAKS FIFTH AVENUE is going to have a display of their new spring line of women's wear at the Officers' Club on February 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12. A staff from their New York store will be on hand to take orders and attend to important alterations. You can choose your entire spring outfit, have alterations made and your choice will be sent direct to your mailing address. Plan to have an enlarge version of their favorite Helen of Troy shoe. Remember the beautiful cut out sandle effect? This model is in suede and has a high boulevard heel. For utter abandon in luxury shoes, there's the Jerro handmade lovelies. They are sandals with intriguing handwoven effect in bright green, red and blue. These shoes are so beautiful you'll be wearing them with your cotton formals this summer as well as with your nicer day time things.

— — V — —

THE PATRICIA GOWN SHOP on the third floor of the Ralston Hotel has just unpacked a gay line of cruise clothes. You'll find crisp gingham in checks and stripes prettied up with pleated trim of white pique. They're in the lovely pinks, whites, blues, tans and red. A word to the wise, you'll not find cottons like these in a few months. The choice is available right now. There are linen suits in lovely shades of cyclman, navy and moss green, trimmed with contrasting stitching. Cotton gabardine jumpers in both pastel and bright colors. You'll want one of the checked cotton blouses to wear with these. Or maybe you'll choose one of the gay sweet pea print blouses for your new spring suit. You probably know Patricit has just returned from a buying trip in New York. Her enthusiasm for new spring merchandise which will be arriving daily is infectuous.

— — V — —

The month of February will be one of outstanding furniture values at KIRVEN'S. Their furniture department in the old Post Office Building is a wonderful place to loiter with blissful day dreams of your own house beautiful. They're going to have some tempting values in occasional tables, boudoir chairs, ottomans and desks. Whether you're old time army with a set of quarters full of battered furniture, or newcomers you'll find these special choice at Kirven's appealing for occasional furniture to dress up your rooms. War or no war, we have to live and the more comfortable and attractive we can make our homes, the bigger chance we have of a happier life while we're privileged to have a home complete with a soldiering husband. Kirven's have a supply of the much desired mattresses. They've been a hard-to-find article of household equipment in Columbus.

They start blooming before April and we're still cutting roses in November. J. J. NEWBERRY COMPANY has a large supply of rose bushes from a famous Texas nursery. The price is so low as to be almost ridiculous. You couldn't buy a bouquet for the price of two rose bushes. Whether you're expecting orders the next few months or not, you won't be able to resist this outstanding value. You'll be watching the first buds and have that satisfied feeling of improving your quarters for the next occupants, should you have to leave. The newcomers will bless you for your thoughtfulness. The bushes are year old stock. The roots are carefully wrapped. All the old favorites will be found in the assortment of 26 varieties, Red Radiance, American Beauty, Etoile De Hollande, Columbia, Pink Radiance, Joana Hill, Yellow Butterfly, Luxemborg, President Hoover, Talisman, White Kilarney and Paul's Scarlet. Better find that shovel in the basement and have your rosebed ready for planting.

— — V — —

I've talked so much about casual and walking shoes, one would think I expected you to spend your entire time doing nothing but walking or standing. That's because I've been so impressed with the wonderfully attractive shoes of this type. There are beautiful shoes on the market for our lighter moments and you'll find them in our favorite shoe store, MILLER-TAYLOR. They've just received some beautiful patent leather shoes with wicked high, high heels. Sandals so constructed as to be comfortable as well as beautiful made by Foot Delight. I Miller has a stunning patent D'Orsay pump that's a honey for the new print dresses or gabardine suits. I Miller has the 1942 version of their favorite Helen of Troy shoe. Remember the beautiful cut out sandle effect? This model is in suede and has a high boulevard heel. For utter abandon in luxury shoes, there's the Jerro handmade lovelies. They are sandals with intriguing handwoven effect in bright green, red and blue. These shoes are so beautiful you'll be wearing them with your cotton formals this summer as well as with your nicer day time things.

— — V — —

THE PATRICIA GOWN SHOP on the third floor of the Ralston Hotel has just unpacked a gay line of cruise clothes. You'll find crisp gingham in checks and stripes prettied up with pleated trim of white pique. They're in the lovely pinks, whites, blues, tans and red. A word to the wise, you'll not find cottons like these in a few months. The choice is available right now. There are linen suits in lovely shades of cyclman, navy and moss green, trimmed with contrasting stitching. Cotton gabardine jumpers in both pastel and bright colors. You'll want one of the checked cotton blouses to wear with these. Or maybe you'll choose one of the gay sweet pea print blouses for your new spring suit. You probably know Patricit has just returned from a buying trip in New York. Her enthusiasm for new spring merchandise which will be arriving daily is infectuous.

— — V — —

The month of February will be one of outstanding furniture values at KIRVEN'S. Their furniture department in the old Post Office Building is a wonderful place to loiter with blissful day dreams of your own house beautiful. They're going to have some tempting values in occasional tables, boudoir chairs, ottomans and desks. Whether you're old time army with a set of quarters full of battered furniture, or newcomers you'll find these special choice at Kirven's appealing for occasional furniture to dress up your rooms. War or no war, we have to live and the more comfortable and attractive we can make our homes, the bigger chance we have of a happier life while we're privileged to have a home complete with a soldiering husband. Kirven's have a supply of the much desired mattresses. They've been a hard-to-find article of household equipment in Columbus.

O. C. Inspects Nazi Gas Storage Tanks; He Discovers Anti-Aircraft Installations

'Innocent Toy Factory Is Arms Plant; Japs Prove Cheats Even In Business

Candidate Max C., Walske of the 12th Company, 3rd Student Training Regiment, in the Infantry School here was not looking for military secrets when he curiously asked to see the storage tanks at a Berlin filling station.

Typically American, his inquisitive mind drew strange answer from the little fat German who handled the pumps.

Walske, European representative of a large American department store from 1924 to 1932, was taken below the station into a large cellar-like room in which the gasoline storage tanks had been set on peculiar-looking mounts that bristled with gears and other delicate mechanism.

"What is that funny gadget under the tanks?" asked Walske boldly.

The German's face turned red. he stared straight at the American.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT MOUNTS

"Mr. Walske, you are a good friend of mine but I shouldn't have brought you here," he said sternly. "You see, these tanks are resting on mounts for a large anti-aircraft gun."

Further questioning brought out that the tanks could be removed and guns placed on the mounts in less than 12 hours.

Candidate Walske, a World War I veteran who quit a job as a department store executive after Pearl Harbor to enlist in Uncle Sam's team, found other indications of long-range planning by the German military clique for World War II.

It was his job to investigate European factories and determine if they could fill large orders and make deliveries that they claimed they could.

Once he made a trip to a large one-story toy factory building which, strangely enough, was located near an army fort. On entering the factory Walske noted that the walls were more than six feet thick.

"We'd put a 30-story building on walls like that back home," he chided the German factory owner.

"Yes, they are rather thick, but it's Government regulations, you know," replied the German.

NO TOYS HERE

Walske lauded the realness of the toy guns manufactured, especially an anti-aircraft gun which had all of the accessories and attachments that were later discovered on the real McCoy.

The German smiled, motioned Walske to follow and led him into a large room. There was a full-scale model of the gun, complete in every respect, its long muzzle reaching almost to the ceiling. The toy factory also designed guns for the German army.

Interested in politics, Walske once persuaded one of his influential German friends to take him to a secret political meeting of precinct and section leaders. About 200 persons crowded into a small, smoke-filled room.

A smallish man, nervous, arose to speak in an excited, highpitched voice.

DER FUERHER'S FACE

"Who's that funny looking fellow?" Walske asked his friend.

The friend leaned over and whispered softly:

"That's our leader—Adolf Hitler."

Candidate Walske, who was a young lieutenant in World War I, couldn't detect anything militaristic in Hitler's talk to his henchmen. It was primarily political—he wanted them to organize, organize, raise funds, more money.

Walske believes that Hitler was solely a politician with no military designs until the military clique adopted him after he ascended to power. But he believes the German military leaders have been planning religiously for war since the last Armistice.

He has seen thousands of teenage boys being led to glider school. Glider pilots readily become airplane pilots.

MACHINE WON'T CRACK

The Candidate is of the opinion that the German military machine will never crack as long as it is fed, clothed and supplied with ammunition. It must be crushed into submission.

Civilian population? That is another question.

"Although the average German likes the pomp and brass of the militaire, he does not want war," he explained. "The military leaders are different. They have their formulas and weapons of destruction and, like a boxer with a secret Sunday punch, desired to test them out."

"Walske also has been to Japan and had dealings with the Japs. He found their business ethics on par with their military ethics. Manufacturers showed samples of beautiful hand-woven scarfs. When the orders arrived, the quality and workmenship was definitely inferior to that of the samples.

LET BUYER BEWARE

Jap business acquaintance explained:

"That's smart business. If we can do business that way, we make more money. There's a saying in Japan—let the buyer beware. You Americans should apply that logic. So sorry you are not satisfied."

Candidate Walske, after he receives his commission Feb. 2, is definitely going to apply the logic as suggested. With a carbine over his shoulders he is going out to sell a bill of goods to the Jap and let the little yellow man beware.

R. C. Quartet Joins 'Tigers'

Men Permanently Assigned to Unit

A staff of four Red Cross representatives, who will be permanently attached to the 10th Armored Division, and who will follow the unit wherever it may go, have reported for duty according to Mr. Eugene Bussey, director of all Red Cross activities here.

Heading the group is Ralph S. Turner, senior assistant filed director, who was previously assigned to Jackson Barracks, Port of Embarkation, New Orleans, La. Prior to joining the Red Cross in May, Mr. Turner was for eight years director of public welfare at Findlay, Ohio.

While at Fort Benning the group will be under the direction of Mr. Bussey. However, upon leaving the post, full control will go to Mr. Turner. Basically, the unit will function as any other Red Cross headquarters, aiding with social and non-military problems of the soldier. In addition, a member of the outfit, Harry C. Duff, an experienced coach and physical education director, will assist the 10th Armored special service officer with recreation programs, and athletics.

The other two assistants, Gerald L. Isphording and Ralph B. Woods, will be concerned with general Red Cross work in the 10th Armored's two combat teams, one being assigned to each team. They are both from Indianapolis, Indiana. Mr. Duff was previously coach at Lynbrook High school, Freeport, N. Y.

WE STILL
REPAIR WATCHES
KROGLAND'S
CLOCK SHOP
1142 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

18 Enlisted Men Of 117th Infantry Get Promotions

Eighteen enlisted men in the 117th Infantry have been promoted in grade according to an announcement from Colonel Grant A. Schlieker, regimental commander.

Promoted to sergeants were Anthony J. Zuniga of Company F, Benjamin C. Sensing of Company E, Hubert G. Thompson and James O. Windsor of Company B, and Bernard E. Mayo and J. B. Long of the Anti-tank company.

New corporals are Horace Beaulieu and James M. Hathaway of M Company, Claude M. Whitesides and Albert B. Hague of B Company, and Jasper W. Garton and George C. Hagler of F Company.

Ralph T. Todd of the Anti-tank Company, Francis Santi of L Company, Baxter J. Davis of Service Company, and James A. Fowler of F Company were all made technicians fourth grade. Herbert C. Purcell of Service Company and John F. Saloman of F Company were promoted to technicians fifth grade.

Civilians Net $25,000 Pay For Overtime

Additional checks for overtime pay to civilian personnel of the Fort Benning Exchange for the month of December totals nearly $25,000, it was disclosed today by Major H. E. McGaffey, exchange officer.

The tidy sum, it was pointed out, was paid to about 850 civilian employes who worked hours in excess of the 40-hour week. Civilians working over 40 hours, according to the ruling, draw time and a half pay.

The huge sum paid out by the Exchange here is necessitated by the shortage of qualified personnel to work in Exchange activities, Major McGaffey said. He pointed out that it has become increasingly difficult to hire efficient civilian personnel to operate activities in the Exchange which might cut down overtime for present employes.

Due to a ruling by higher headquarters, the Exchange first paid out a sum of $20,484.42 for overtime pay during December. A second sum is being paid out to recompense other personnel who did not come under the first payment, the total nearing $25,000.

18 Promotions In First STR

The following promotions were recently announced by Colonel Thomas R. Gibson, commanding officer of the First Student Training Regiment; St. Sgt. Russell C. Benjamin promoted to 1st Sgt.; St. Sgt. Herbert F. Gore promoted to 1st Sgt.; Sgt. Sylvester Brown to be Staff Sgt., Sgt. Walter J. Coleman to be Staff Sgt., Techn. Gr. IV Robert Hillman to be Sgt.; Cpl. David Silver is apt Sgt.; Pfc. Robert Palomby apt. Corporal; Pfc Emary W. Lade aptd. Corporal; Techn. Gr. V Menzie P. McNeal to be Techn. Gr. IV; Techn. Gr. V Lamar Johnson to be Techn. Gr. IV; Techn. Gr. V Albert G. Shepard to be Techn. Gr. Iv; Pvt. Romeo R. Holly promoted to Techn. Gr. IV; Pfc Richard C. Carney, Pfc William T. Lucas, Pfc Allen Sanders, Pfc Milton Smith, Pfc Mbee Stokes, and Pvt. James L. Smith were all promoted to the rank of Techn. Gr. V.

Bryant Promoted To Lt. Colonel

Major Burnell Vernum Bryant of Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y., commander of the Fifth Battalion of the Third Student Training Regiment here in The Infantry School at Fort Benning was recently promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel according to an announcement by his commanding officer, Col. R. H. Lord.

Col. Bryant is a graduate of the New York Military Academy at Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y., and the University of New Hampshire at Duram, N. H.

Prior to his being called to active duty February, 1942, he was Executive Officer of New York Military Academy.

Commissioned in 1926, he has been connected with the Army continuously since that date. He has been on summer tours of duty with the Citizens Military Training Corps and has participated in maneuvers of the 5th, 13th, 29th and 67th Infantries. From 1938 to 1939 he was on C. C. C. duty as a Special Investigator.

In 1940 Col. Bryant joined the staff of the University of New Hampshire as assistant professor of Military Science and Tactics.

FOUR PROMOTED

Four enlisted men of the Supply Detachment, Supply Division, Section 1, Fourth Service Command, have been promoted to higher grades, according to an announcement by post headquarters.

Cpl. Murray A. Snoddy made sergeant, and Pfc. Cecil O. Bound was advanced to corporal. Pvt. Anthony Chiasson and Anthony S. Krzezuk, were promoted to private 1st class.

Three Generals Held By Japs

Funk, Brougher, Weaver Well-Known At Fort Benning

Brigadier Generals Arnold J. Funk, W. W. Brougher, and James R. N. Weaver, all well-known at Benning, are prisoners of the Japanese on the island of Formosa, according to a recent War Department announcement.

All participated in the Philippine campaign and nothing was known of their fate until release of the official list of war prisoners.

General Funk served as Fort Benning provost marshal from 1931 to 1933. During this period he was captain and later major. Only recently Mrs. Funk was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, honoring her husband, by Major General William Bryden of the Fourth Service Command. The ceremony took place in Doughboy stadium, with the 3rd battalion of the 29th Infantry and the 29th band participating.

Both of the others were at Benning more recently. General Brougher was stationed here from 1938 until 1939, as a liuetenant-colonel and took the Infantry school's tank course.

General Weaver served on the post from 1937 until October, 1941, being at that time with the 68th Armored Regiment of the 2nd Armored Division. He was in charge of tanks in the Philippines, and while on Bataan was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for gallantry. Hints of his safety had been received by Mrs. Weaver, who lives at 1115 Lockwood avenue in Columbus, from survivors who escaped. He was alive when they left.

Oddly enough Mrs. Funk, a resident of Sarasota, Fla., and Mrs. Brougher, who resides in Atlanta, were visiting together and received the news at the same time.

TIS Students Adopt Orphans

Support Parentless English Kiddies

A quaint custom of the AEF in Ireland comes to light via 17 students from Ft. Benning Officers' Training School.

These men, recently returned from Ireland, became fathers to the same youngster prior to their sailing for the States. What is more, ballots weer cast to determine whether the child should be a boy or girl.

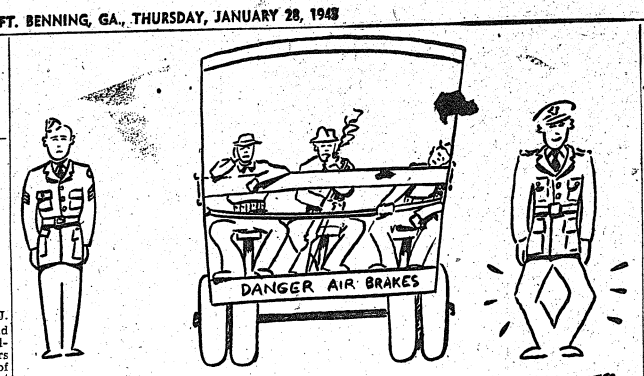
Stars and Stripes, the European Theater newspaper for the AEF, has founded "The Stars and Stripes Orphan's Fund." This fund may be subscribed to by any servicemen desiring to help maintain British children whose families have been bombed out. The children are supplied by the Red Cross. Their parents are dead or unable to care for them.

The Orphan's Fund encourages American Army units, generally companies, to pool contributions and submit them together with a statement of whether the organization prefers to sponsor a boy or girl. A child is then picked and sent to one of a long list of suburban English families. His food and clothing are provided for from the moneys gathered from the doughboys. If the cash runs out the child is eligible for a new patron. In this way the overseas forces are making possible home care for a host of war children.

The Stars and Stripes, Second Series, is published by Army Personnel. The First Series was organized in France during the first World War. It has set 200 pounds (about $800) as the minimum financial started for each case placed on the growing waiting list.

The Infantry School students of the 14th Company of the Third Student Training Regiment made subscription to the "Papas by proxy" scheme last September. The Stars and Stripes have agreed to keep officers of supporting companies informed as to the status of the young wards. However, to date, the fathers have received no word.

Capt. Robinson Is Post Assistant S-2



Captain Thomas Mitchell Robinson of Jackson, Miss., has been appointed assistant post intelligence officer, according to an announcement made today.

A veteran of World War I, Captain Robinson served in France with the 155th and 104th Infantry. In civilian life he was in the general life insurance business.

Lieut. McEvoy Succeeds Bridges

First Lt. Richard E. McEvoy has been appointed Police and Prison officer succeeding Captain Lester Bridges, who has been transferred to the Army Air Force.

Lt. McEvoy was detachment commander of the colored M. P. when he was promoted to first lieutenant in July. In August of last year Lt. McEvoy became assistant police and prison officer. Prior to entering the army, he served as a general contractor in Flushing, N. Y., his hometown.

ROTC Cadets, 'Old-Timers' Exchange Knowledge In Classes

College Training School of Hard Knocks Dovetail

When the new "50-50" class composing the 15th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment assembled recently for their first roll call, a phenomenon was recorded for the first time in OCS history.

Exactly one-half of the class is composed of ROTC members now taking their practical work after completing their college training and the other half enlisted men from widely scattered camps throughout the United States and many foreign soils.

The "50 - 50" spirit prevails throughout the class. Many of the ROTC men are shark mathematic students from the universities of Iowa and Georgia universities, as well as other colleges and universities of the country. Each of the named schools sent 34 cadets. Upon them lean many of the enlisted men who had gone rusty with their rithmetic during their many months of training. So, in exchange, the enlisted men swap their every-day army experiences. These men are each quartered in the same barracks and the ROTC men find it a great aid to have the 'old-timers' around when the time comes to translate the army slang and especially to make that bunk for the morning inspection.

That "50-50" spirit is showing in the team play of this new group which has already been commended highly by its tactical officers. Captain Hawthorne, the commanding officer, says "this company has already shown the spirit to the extent that other companies have on the day of graduation."

TIS Graduate Thrice Decorated By U. S., France

Among the many men who attend the Infantry School's rugged three-months course for Second Lieutenants here at Fort Benning are some who have already seen enough action to last for a lifetime.

One such person is Second Lieutenant Camiel L. Dreesbeck who recently won his gold bars in the Third Student Training Regiment.

Lt. Dreesbeck was born in Belgium and came to the United States in 1911. In 1916 he enlisted in the United States Army and served on the Mexican Border Campaign until 1917. He went across with the famous 2nd Division in 1917 and fought throughout World War I until 1919. From 1919 to 1921 he served in the Army of Occupation. He became a citizen of United States in 1919.

He was wounded three times during action in France and received the Silver Star Citation, the Order of the Purple Heart and was awarded the French Croix De Guerre by Marshal Peain.

Moore Made Lieut. Colonel

Major Ellis Moore, commanding officer of the Fourth Battalion 1st Student Training Regiment, has been promoted to lieutenant colonel.

Colonel Moore, a reserve officer, received his ROTC training at the University of Florida while a student there from 1919-1923. His commission as a second lieutenant was awarded hi mon May 29, 1923.

In the present emergency, he was called to active duty in the rank of major on Oct. 10, 1940 and reported to Fort Jackson, S. C. There he served as post operations officer under General R. E. Beebe and also as billeting officer for the Army in Columbia, S. C.

He then came to Fort Benning for the Battalion Staff Officers' Course on January 10, 1943, and graduated April 10, 1942.

His transfer to the 1st Student Training Regiment, Fort Benning, Georgia, was effective immediately and he reported for duty on April 11, 1942.

He went to the 4th Battalion as executive officer for Colonel H. C. Jones. Upon Colonel Jones' transfer, Colonel Moore moved up to commanding officer.

EASY CURE

DENVER—(AP) — The police ambulance rounded a corner very briskly indeed.

So briskly, in fact, that up came the paper clip that 8-year-old Emma Lou Dudymott, the passenger had swallowed.

1st STR Officers Face Grim Tasks

When the time comes that a certain group of the First Student Training Regiment's officers will have to fave the rigors of combat, it is a certainty that they will be in excellent shape to "take it."

In the past several months this group has set up a systematic daily routine of exercise, which includes two different obstacle courses.

Likewise, this group has a touch football team, a basketball team and several other group sports. Lieutenant Henry Labelle, one of the charter members and spokesman for the group, stated that, "We have a standing challenge to any touch football team." Anyone wishing to arrange a game may do so by calling Lieutenant Willoughby on phone 2783, or Lieutenant Cavin at 2936.

Corporal Aho To Go To O. C. S.

Cpl. Arvo Aho, former member of the 117th Infantry Regiment, and one of the most talented violinist on the post, has been enrolled in officer candidate school.

Often featured on "Fort Benning on the Air," and "Listen It's Fort Benning", Aho has been playing violin since a very early age. He studied under such masters as Fritz Beiner, Otto Klemperer, and Howard Hanson, and in 1939 won the Mischakoff scholarship against national competition.

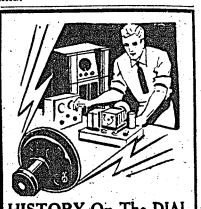
Prior to entering the army, Aho had appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, and later played at Carnegie Hall.

507th Courtmen Win City Loop Battles With Ease

The crack basketballers of the 507th Parachute Infantry held on to the top slot in the Independent League of Columbus during the past week with a pair of slaughter-house triumphs on the hardwood at the Comer Auditorium in Bibb City.

A strong Alexander Lumber Company quint went down before the orange and black soldier team by a 74-29 tally in the first tilt, while on Friday night, the 507th ran up their highest point total of the campaign in overwhelming Columbus Manufacturing by a 79-14 count.

Red Cross Seeks Emergency Workers To Roll Bandages



An appeal for more workers at the Red Cross Room on the post at Fort Benning was issued today by Mrs. William Denton, chairman of the surgical dressing department in order to complete the quota of dressings assigned to the unit.

The Work Room is open daily from 9 a. m. to noon and on Fridays from 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. After February 1, the Work Room will be open daily from 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. only, to to accomodate those who have been unable to come in the mornings.

Many wives and daughters of personnel at Fort Benning now are working daily at the Work Room while others are working whenever possible, but many more could be utilized to help in the work, Mrs. Denton emphasized.

ATLANTA, Jan. 23 — (AP) — Lewis P. Padgett, supervising agent in the sixth district of the secret service, reported that during the last 12 months 1,000 United States treasury checks had been forged by indorsers and were investigated by secret service agents.

The district includes Georgia, Florida, Alabama and South Carolina.

HISTORY On The DIAL
Our specialists are expert at repairing sets at minimum cost.
L. J. RADIO REPAIR SERVICE
2001 Cusseta Rd. Dial 7372

TO . . .
Company Commanders
SPECIAL SERVICE
Field Jackets for the Entire Company can be Cleaned, Pressed and Returned . . .
WITHIN 24 HOURS
PHONE CITY 2-1641
COLUMBUS CLEANERS & TAILORS
500 10th AVE., COLUMBUS, GA.

Sale!
SPECIAL BUY of GIRLS DRESSES
Only 600! No More
When These Are Gone!

Reg. 1.49 Value!
99c Each
• SIZES 6 to 14.
• Pretty Florals!
• Perky Plaids!
• Polka Dots!
• Colorful Checks
• Candy Stripes!
• Fast-color, durable cottons!
Can you believe it! Good-looking, well-made girls' cotton frocks . . . at a price you'd expect to pay for a blouse! That's why we expect these astounding buys to just "walk out" Friday morning! So don't waste any time—get here early for the pick of the lot! Loads of cute styles . . . in red, blue, green, or navy prints . . . freshened with white pique collars or white rick-rack trim! Dirndls! Princess styles! Nauticals!
Hurry Down! On Sale
Friday and Saturday Only!
Buy U. S. War Bonds and Stamps!
"Sears stores have posted or marked ceiling prices in compliance with government regulations."
SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.
1225 BROADWAY DIAL 3-4351 STREET FLOOR

FORT BENNING BAYONET

Published By The Ledger-Enquirer Co. For America's Most Complete Post

VOLUME 1, NUMBER 21 — FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1943. — PRICE FIVE CENTS

'Patiently's' Composer Awaits Bars--Patiently

Thru The Peepsight

G. I. Summary Of World News

BY SGT. G. J. REMINGTON

WONDER HOW A big group of German generals feel when they get captured? Dispatches from Russian front disclose that a whole raft of generals, including about half as many lieutenant generals as our Army has all together, were captured as the Russians continued their relentless "liquidating" of troops in and around Stalingrad.

The defeat of the Germans and their mercenaries before Stalingrad now is undoubtedly the worst tragedy that has met German arms during this war. It may turn out to be the worst of modern history, for the Nazis and their satelites have undoubtedly lost hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of men. And the Russians continue freeing from German occupation town after town in the vital Caucasus oil regions. The loss of these men, and all the equipment that undoubtedly is being taken or smashed, may well mean a vital difference in the striking power of German arms in the future.

But one wonders if the German generals may not feel a tremendous sense of relief upon being captured. Now they don't have to face a stab in the back from some Gestapo agent to save Herr Hitler's face—which in all probability would be their fate were they to return to Germany and get themselves blamed for their leader's stupidity in not having heeded their advice in the first place.

COMMENT ON THE meeting at Casablanca between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill with a meeting of Generals DeGaulle and Giraud of the Fighting French forces and the North African group, continue to take up a great deal of editorial and other space. Observers are united in agreeing that the meeting was momentous in fact, world making. But as to exactly what will follow, nobody seems to know. General consensus is that not everything that was discussed, learned, or planned was made public, which is as it should be in such strenuous times, when to make all known might result in tragic defeat of armies. Also consensus seem to be that tremendous offensive movements will be undertaken by the United Nations.

"THERE ARE PLENTY of indications that strength of the Nazis is being sapped by the long war. But Elmer Davis, head of OWI, warned this week that we should be prepared against, rather than for, possibility of peace offers from German and Jap sources. He warned, and others concurred, that our enemies may well feign worse conditions than actually exist, in asking for a peace. This could be done for several reasons—to save as much as possible in material resources in case of a settled peace; to throw us off our guard against another offensive; or to make us relax in our efforts along both war and industrial fronts.

Decisions reached at Casablanca, however, where a war to the end was pledged, appear to have come in time to scotch any such efforts on the part of wily enemies.

MOST EXCITING NEWS of the week—although far from most important, of course— was that of the bombing of Berlin just before and during the scheduled broadcast of the official Nazi observance marking Hitler's 10th anniversary of accession to power. Doubtless old Hindenburg's ghost grinned ironically to itself over that one, because the old Field Marshall had fought Hitler's rise and had hated to have to appoint him a Chancellor. At any rate, that bombing must have been a terrific jar to German home front morale, for Goering had promised that never would a foreign plane drop bombs on German soil. And here were those barbaric British staging a daylight raid.

Of heartening import, too, was the fact that at last the United Nations were learning the psychological effects of a war of nerves and learning how to take advantage of such steps for propaganda purposes and for the sake of keeping our own home folk cheered up. Doubtless the British are learning things from President Roosevelt's book—he long knew how to take advantage of perfect timing in his own campaigns.

RETURNING FROM CASABLANCA and a jaunt to Liberia and then to call on President Vargas of Brazil, President Roosevelt, however, found things not so quiet along the political front. The Congress had proven quite a formidable opponent in its opposition to appointment of Edward J. Flynn to be minister to Australia. At last the President withdrew Flynn's name. Just whose he will now present is problematical.

Also on the home front, President Roosevelt told a conference of legislators at the White House that a rough estimate of around 7,5500,000 men in the army will be needed to bring the war to a successful conclusion. That will mean around 10,000,000 under arms all together. President Roosevelt also said to have given the legislators a better idea of the parley in Casablanca.

Still on the home front, Robert P. Patterson, Undersecretary of War, has disclosed that suggestions have been made to William

(Continued on Page 7)

Art Watson's Orchestra Played For College Society

If you happen to pass a music store in the near future you will undoubtedly see featured among the musical scores a new song hit entitled "Patiently." It will probably have Blue Barron's photograph on it since he and his orchestra introduced this new number to America from the old and famous shrine of modern music, the Blackhawk Cafe in Chicago.

The song itself was written by Candidate Art Watson of Cincinnati, O., member of 29th Company, Third Student Training Regiment.

Candidate Watson's musical career began at the University of Cincinnati in 1939 when he organized a 14-piece dance orchestra to play for local college proms and fraternity house parties. The band progressed rapidly along the road to success due to Art's talent as a pianist and his novel arrangements of popular song sits. He furthered his background by attending the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music for several years.

MUSICAL SHOWS

During his college career Art wrote the score for a number of musical shows sponsored by the Varsity Varieties of the University of Cincinnati. Several of these interpretations were recognized by notables such as Jan Garber who featured them during engagements in the vicinity of Cincinnati.

With his orchestra Art followed his career by playing at such Universities as Cincinnati, Kentucky, Miami and others. According to Art, one of his most interesting engagements was the time he and his orchestra played at a Debutante Ball of one of the famous Tafts of Ohio. One of his featured vocalists, Carole Gable, has since achieved national prominence singing with Jimmie James' orchestra over radio station WLW.

16 MONTHS IN ARMY

Candidate Art Watson is 23 years old, is married and has been in the Army 16 months. Before entering O. C. S., he served as a corporal at Camp Wolters, Texas, where he led a dance orchestra and wrote a Bugle March, later adopted by the camp. Art says he is greatly impressed by the Infantry School and that he finds it "tough stuff, but OK."

"Lately Art has had no time for music, but his band is still carrying on under his name and is playing engagements throughout the country.

TIS Founds Officer Pool

Will Provide Temporary Duty

An officers replacement pool has been established at The Infantry School in accordance with an announcement by the Replacement and School Command of the Army Ground Forces.

The replacement pool will provide a temporary assignment or "home" for newly commissioned officer candidates and officers attending other courses for whom permanent assignment orders have not been received.

Instructors who have completed a tour of duty here and have been ordered to attend a course of instruction at the School to prepare them better for field force duty will be assigned to the pool during their period of instruction. This will enable The Infantry School to fill the positions occupied upon relief of officers from their instructional or administrative duties.

Officers assigned to The Infantry School Service Command when ordered to a general hospital for observation or treatment may be assigned to the pool during the period of their illness and convalescence. Such officers may be reassigned from the replacement pool upon their return to duty.

Soldiers Give Polio Dimes

Soldiers and civilians at Fort Benning joined hands again this week and contributed $1,092.86 to the "March of Dimes" for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, it was announced today by Mrs. Walter S. Fulton, chairman of the campaign at the Army post.

Mrs. Fulton disclosed that the 124th Infantry 'Gators formed the largest contributors, with collections at the unit's "Wishing Well" amounting to $605.46. The Regiment conceived a novel plan for the drive, and charged members at least a dime to view the 124th's mascot Adam Lazonga, the alligator, for a week's period.

Collection boxes were placed in the theaters, the Officers' Club, the service clubs and other activities around the post for the drive.

Midnight Curfew Remains On Fort Benning Time

Fort Benning officials announced Wednesday that the 12 o'clock curfew will remain on Fort Benning (Eastern War) Time. This statement follows in the wake of the decision of Phenix City officials to revert to Central War Time. All soldiers stationed at Fort Benning have been advised to govern themselves accordingly.

Fort To Have 2 Cafeterias, General Says

Plan Will Enable PX To Feed 250 Additional People

Two cafeteria counters will be installed at the new Exchange building at Wold avenue and Ingersoll street, just across the street from the Main Theater, instead of a restaurant and cafeteria as originally planned.

This was announced today by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general, following a meeting Tuesday of the Exchange Council, which represents all organizations on the post. At the same time, it was decided to install a stand-up sandwich bar, where sandwiches, short orders and soft drinks can be dispensed, General Fulton announced.

The announcement came as the Soda Fountain, formerly housed in the tower of Doughboy Stadium, was formally opened for business in its new location in the building and was doing "nearly three times the amount of business it formerly did," according to Lt. Col. Harold E. McGaffey, post Exchange officer. At the same time, offices of the Exchange, previously located in the other tower at the stadium, were moved to their new location on the second floor of the building.

BETTER SERVICE

"We had at first planned on installing a restaurant and a cafeteria in the new building, but the decision of the Council now will mean that we can really serve nearly three times as many patrons as we could have done under that system," Col. McGaffey said.

"It also will mean that we can place about 250 more chairs for eaters, thus having a seating capacity of nearly 800. It also means that with difficulties of securing experienced help the way it now is, it will be more efficient."

Orders for the material for the second cafeteria counter were placed immediately and work of installing the materials will begin as soon as they arrive, Col. McGaffey said. It is expected that the two counters will be in full operation by March 1. Meanwhile, the present restaurant facilities will be maintained at the restaurant in Service Club Number One until the new set-up is ready to function.

Hank Gowdy Reaches Fort

Will Direct TIS Athletic Program

Captain Hank Gowdy, the old Sarge and one of baseball's most legendary figures, arrived here this week to assume his new duties as special service officer for The Infantry School.

Gowdy was sworn in as a captain in the Army last Saturday at his home in Columbus, O., and was ordered to report to The Infantry School at the school's request. His job here is to handle all athletics and recreation activities for students attending the Infantry Officer Candidate course and other courses taught here, and for personnel assigned to the twelve regiments or smaller units used as demonstration troops for the school.

ACE CATCHER

Gowdy was one of the best catchers in the major leagues when the United States entered the last war, and he was the first big league ball player to enter the service. He rose to the rank of sergeant and served valiantly overseas. After the war he had several more seasons as a player in the National League before becoming one of the best known coaches in the game.

The new captain has spent the last few seasons as a coach with the Cincinnati Reds. He has served with Bill McKechnie, current manager of the Reds for 13 years, being with him at Boston before moving to the Ohio city.

The baseball field at Fort Benning was named Gowdy Field several years ago in honor of the old Sarge. The captain considers this the finest honor ever bestowed on him.

1943 To Bring Khaki Undies

Fort Benning soldiers may be wearing khaki undies before the end of this year, according to an announcement by Col. Stephen B. Massey, director of supply at the post.

The plan to clad Johnny Doughboy in khaki more than shirt deep got under way in Chicago recently when the Quartermaster Corps placed orders with knitting mills for shorts, undershirts, and "long-handled drawers" in regulation khaki color, instead of conventional white.

One reason given for the change by Colonel Massey was that the neutral new color would be far less conspicuous from the air than flapping white undies hanging on the line when quartermaster field laundries hang out the regimental wash in combat zones.

ONE OF THE MOST DEADLY combinations at Fort Benning proves to be none other than a father and son team. Shown above, left to right, are Delphis "Bud" Bearor and his 18-year-old step-son, John Campbell, both of Andover, Mass., members of the 506th Parachute Infantry Regiment. (Signal Lab Photo by Kortemeier)

Son Beats Dad, Veteran 'Chutist, in Qualifying For 'Wings' in 506th

Pair Are Two Inseparables; Pop Serves As Banker

Although his step-father had already completed 158 parachute jumps, 18-year-old Pvt. John Campbell, of Fort Benning's 506th Parachute Infantry Regiment, qualified for his Army "boots" and "wings" here a few hours before his Dad who is a veteran 'chutist.

Young Campbell and his step-father, Pvt. Delphia "Bud" Bearor, both of Company D of the 506th, provide a unique combination.

Father and son are now rough and tough paratroopers, but they spend their idle moments and evenings just as though they were at home in Andover, Mass.

When John gets a little short on cash, he finds it quite convenient to have his Dad in the same outfit with him for he can readily ask him for a loan.

TWO HEARTS ARE ONE

Whether in the mess hall, in the line a the movies, or in the PX, John and his father are usually together. "We have enjoyed doing things together for a long time now," the father remarked, "and so now we're in this together to give all we've got."

Although "Bud" Bearor served a couple of hitches in the Army some years ago, he was a civilian last August 25 when John and he enlisted in the Army and volunteered for the Paratroopers.

DAD'S STORIES

On August 25, 1942 John became 18 years old and eligible for the paratroopers. He had long listened to exciting stories his father recalled while the latter was barnstorming about the country as a thrilling act for air shows.

"Bud" Bearor first became addicted to parachuting when he was in the Army at Chanute Field, Ill. While a member of the Air Corps Technical School Detachment at Chanute, "Bud" packed and tested chutes for the officer-pilots in the Air Corps. He made his first jump on April 11, 1930 and completed many before he was discharged from the Army.

BEAROR BORED

After leaving the Army "Bud" Bearor became bored with tame civilian life so he packed his 'chutes again and took to the air, taking part in air shows.

In recent yers, however, "Bud" was living a relatively quiet life again in Andover, Mass., with his wife and step-son. But, with the exciting tales of the Army's parratroops interesting him, "Bud" talked the matter over with his son and they both decided to join up and "see it through together."

Now, qualified paratroopers, the father and son combination has become deft at handling the wicked machete, brass knuckles and all the impediments of the daring paratroops—and are anxious to get in and do "some real killing."

House Bill Asks $50 Pay Hike For Paratroops

Representative Sparkman (D.-Ala.) has introduced a bill (HR 1657) in the House proposing the same bonus for enlisted parachute troops as is received by their officers—$100 a month above their regular pay because of this hazardous assignment. Enlisted parachute troopers now get $50 a month extra.

Lt. Davis Appointed Ass't Post Inspector

Second Lt. Jay M. Davis has been appointed assistant post inspector, according to an announcement at post headquarters.

Prior to entering on active duty, Davis was superintendent of Gray High School, Gray, Georgia. He is a graduate of Presbyterian College and an ordained Presbyterian minister, having received his bachelor of divinity degree from Union Seminary, Richmond, Va.

Mrs. Fulton To Discuss Point Rationing Feb. 5

Mrs. Walter Scott Fulton invites all of the women of Fort Benning to attend a meeting to be held Friday morning, Feb. 5, at 10 o'clock in the auditorium of the Post school.

At the time Mrs. Fulton will discuss information on the point rationing of canned, bottled and dried fruits and vegetables. Since all families will be affected by this new government measure, every woman is urged to attend.

Post Awaits Time Vote Due Tuesday

Change Will Produce 'Confusion Worse Confounded,' Officials Say

Hickory Dickory Dock
The mouse ran up the clock.
The clock struck one,
Which confused the mouse
Because he was on Central Wartime

Thousands of military and civilian personnel living in Columbus are awaiting action of the city commission Tuesday when that body will decide whether the city will keep its present Eastern Wartime or change to Central Wartime.

Deferring action on the change in time voted by the state legislature and approved by the governor last Thursday, the city commission is investigating the problems in this military area before taking definite action.

Meanwhile thousands of commuters between Fort Benning and the city are wondering if they will have two sets of clocks in their homes in Columbus, and merchants and other businessmen are likewise wondering how they would meet the confusion which would result if this vast reservation were on a different time schedule.

POST ON EWT

All governmental agencies, including army posts in the state, are remaining on Eastern Wartime. Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general here, has stated that the post can do nothing so long as Fourth Service Command headquarters at Atlanta remain on the "fast" time. All train and bus schedules will also continue on the present time.

Speculation on the problems possibly confronting personnel here continued all week. G. I's, for instance, asked about the present curfew law which has been set by the Army at midnight in downtown Columbus. Should the city turn the clock back, present indications are that the curfew would be set at 11 o'clock by downtown time because part of the intent of the curfew order was to get men back to the post in time so that they would be fit for strenuous training the following day.

CITY BUS PROBLEM

Residents of the city who use city buses to take them to central points for "share the ride" plans have also been considering their possible plight. T. S. Sloan, vice president of the Georgia Power company, told The Bayonet that at present he could not see how buses could begin operating earlier in the morning to fill the needs of Benning personnel because the company is restricted by the number of vehicles available, by man power, and by the mileage allotted.

Individuals by the score began worrying about their problems, too. The soldier, for instance, who lives in Fort Benning and has a wife working in Columbus will have to arise an hour earlier

(Continued on Page 8)

Bills Drafted To Kill Taxes For Fighters

Income, Victory Tax May Be Out For Servicemen

Legislation introduced or now being drafted in Congress is aimed at exempting salaries of the armed forces from the 5 per cent Victory Tax and also to exempt service men from all income tax requirements, according to word from Washington reaching Fort Benning officials tday.

Rep. Keough of New York has already introduced the law which if passed would exempt salaries of fighting men in all branches from the 5 per cent Victory Tax.

At the same time, Representative Woodruff of Michigan is now drafting a bill which he said he would introduce which would exempt servicemen from income tax requirements. He emphasized that his planned bill would exempt only that part of the individual's income earned by service in the armed forces.

Speaking on his bill, Rep. Keough said that the internal revenue code specifically exempts from the definition of wages all renumeration paid for services by members of the armed forces. "But the same act imposes upon members of the armed forces the five per cent Victory Tax," he said. "I hope that this mistake is only inadvertent on the part of congress because the men now are contributing a far greater share toward our ultimate victory."

Lowest ranking enlisted men in the armed services now receive $600 per year. The Victory Tax begins against persons making $624 a year.

Benning First Post to Hear Bert Lynn and His Guitar

'Show Time At Roxy' Opens Tuesday At Main Theater

Fort Benning will be the first post in the country to witness Bert Lynn in the USO-Camp Show presentation of "Show Time At The Roxy," when the unit arrives Feb. 9 for a five-day stay.

The show opens at the Main Theater on the post proper for four shows in two days. The performances will be at 6:45 and 8:45 p. m. The second show on Feb. 10, will be for colored personnel only. On Feb. 11, the show moves to Sand Hill and into theater No. 7 for two performances, one at 7:30 and the other at 9:30 p. m. During the afternoon of the 11th, "Show Time At The Roxy" will put on a special performance at the Station Hospital for the shut-ins. On Lincoln's birthday, the unit will play in the Harmony Church Theater No. 11, with the last day spent in Theater No. 4, in the same area. The curtain will rise on the show the last two days at 7 and 9 p. m.

Bert Lynn will take the place of Roy Smeck, who had been with the show until very recently. Mr. Lynn will entertain with his popular guitar and banjo playing. Besides these, he also plays around with and on the ukelele and steel guitar.

SHIRLEY VAN BACK

There is one person with the show that all the old-timers at Benning will remember. She is Shirley Van, who the USO-Camp Shows call "their own baby." Shirley played here at Fort Benning last May in a show called "Full Speed Ahead."

One of the head-liners in the show is Benny Ross. Aided by his capable assistant, Maxine Stone, Ross does comic impersonations on George Jessell, Harry Richman, Al Jolson and many others. Miss Stone does a few numbers of her own besides acting as "straight-man" for Ross.

Charles Kemper and Company do an "army mess" routine that is supposed to make the audience roll in the aisle with laughter. Kemper was starred last season in George White's "Scandals" and

(Continued on Page 8)

LUSCIOUS SHIRLEY RETURNS—This "in the flesh" pic of sweet Shirley Van was taken right here at Fort Benning last May when she performed in her first USO revue. Then, she was just another dancer who caught the photog's eye, but now she is returning as the twinkling, singing, and dancing star of "Show Time at the Roxy," a gorgeous girlie opus which arrives next week for a five-day stay. Welcome back to Benning, Shirley, and throw us all a kiss!

W. D. Order Bans Liquor Sale On Post

1901 Law Cited; 3.2 Beer Held Non-Intoxicating

"Coming events cast their shadow before . . ." and today eerie, phantasmagoric figures of the prohibition era, conceived in the welter of World War I, cast their ghost-like shadows over Fort Benning.

Officers' clubs and messes which have been selling liquor will no longer do so because of a War Department circular dated January 25, just received.

Since nothing but 3.2 beer has been for sale to enlisted men, the circular affects only officers who have been able up till now to purchase liquors at the various officers clubs.

SCOPE NATION-WIDE

Nation-wide in its scope, the War Department circular is based upon an Act of Congress which bears the date of Feb. 2, 1901. Only modification of the order of that far-away day which forbids the sale of intoxicating liquors is the act of Congress of March 22, 1933, which held that any beverage containing not more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight is not intoxicating.

Fort Benning officials refused comment on the effects of the circular other than to say, "Naturally, the post will comply and all liquor sales will cease."

Post Sets Up Food Cards

Cpl. Lipp Appointed To Handle System

Preliminary work in setting up the machinery for handling food rationing cards on the post at Fort Benning now is under way with naming of Corp. Louis Lipp, already in charge of gasoline rationing, to handle food rationing on the post.

The office on the post will be under Dr. R. B. Daniel, chairman of the War Price and Rationing Board, and is being established for convenience of officers and non-commissioned officers living on the post and for personnel who live in Columbus.

At present about 8,000 Number 1 food ration books, covering use of sugar, are issued at Fort Benning. These must be turned in for Ration Book No. 2, which then will cover sugar, canned foods and meat under the unit system. Present preliminary plans call for printing 10,000 books for the Fort personnel. About 100,000 are handled by the Muscogee county board.

Fort personnel who now eat in messes who may move to town to eat with their families, have a month in which to secure Book 1, it was explained. Issuance of Book 2, at the Fort is planned to start when books are secured, probably around the end of February. A notice will be printed in the Daily Bulletin when the books are ready, Cpl. Lipp said today.

Later other war rationing coupon books are expected to be issued but no plans have as yet been made for handling these on the post.

Sarge, Never, Never Tell Woman Secret

Every day Sgt. H. W. Heatley, B. Q. Det., DEML, conducts a bus load of kindergarten children to the school at Fort Benning. A week or so ago he promised one of the little girls he'd buy her an ice cream cone as soon as the new soda fountain was set up in the new Exchange building at Wold Avenue and Ingersoll street.

Like all women, however, the little girl couldn't keep a secret. She told another little girl, invited another one to share her treat, and that one invited another—and before long Sgt. Heatley discovered that he was committed to buy a cone for every one of the children, boys as well as girls.

So, come payday he took the entire bus load over and bought a cone for each one of the 35 who were riding with him that day. Total bill $1.65, instead of the nickel he had at first promised to spend.

'Comedy Of Errors' Shows Clerks How To Manage Office Properly

Ten-Minute Farce Leaves Audience Sadder But Wiser

Reasoning that a horrible example is the best method of getting a lesson across, officers of the Adjutant General's office of the 10th Armored Division recently prepared a skit to show how an office should not be run. By the time the curtain went down the new clerical workers attached to the office had got the point—definitely.

The skit, entitled "Ten Minutes in an Adjutant's Office," is a hilarious farce in which everything that can happen does happen. Its author is a young officer who prefers anonymity to credit and the cast of the original production comprised enlisted men attached to the A. G. office.

A. R. DISREGARDED

Nothing is done according to Army Regulations—the Hoyle of the army—in this most un-military of offices. A clerk endorses letters incorrectly, the adjutant sends a memorandum up to the general which begins: "You are directed." Important papers are dropped in the middle of the floor or deposited carelessly on chairs. A civilian, looking for his soldier son, enters the office and is completely forgotten—so far as the audience can determine he never does find his son. A captain asks for a memorandum and at long last obtains it—but not before a clerk has started to tear the original from the office file.

WHAT GOES ON?

The colonel's final speech conveys the idea better than any summary. Opening his door and stalking into the office, he addresses his whole staff as follows:

"Lieutenant, what kind of an office are you running here? The general just called me about a meeting; he said that he had called me once before and that you folks left him hanging on a wire that no one ever answered again. Do you have that memorandum ready yet? Are the references to the proper regulations quoted in it? Did you find that circular, lieutenant? (There is a moment of nightmarelike silence as the clerks and the adjutant stare white-faced at one another.) Well, even though I'm late, I'm going to the general's meeting to hear about a new combat weapon. And, if things don't look better around here inside an hour, I'll come back here and try out that new weapon on my office staff."

After witnessing this travesty on army efficiency, the new clerical workers had a crystal clear conception of how they should not conduct themselves. They knew what the author of the skit meant when he told them:

JUNIOR EXECUTIVES

"We want you to understand that you are junior executives, not just clerks. If you really learn the proper procedures, you will go on up the ladder and become junior administrators who expedite the work of the army."

The enlisted men who participated in the skit were: Cpl. Pershing Barnett, Sgt. Steve Angerinos, Sgt. Robert Dagget, Pvt. William Transon and Cpl. John J. O'Connor, all of the A. G. section; M-Sgt. Marion Campbell, personnel sergeant-major of the Maintenance Battalion; Cpl. Morse Johnson of the personnel office of the 11th Armored Regiment, and Sgt. Robert Overs of the Classification section.

—and get lasting protection against rust, when cleaned with

FIENDOIL

—it's the soldier's friend that saves manual cleaning! Get Fiendoil at

Your Post Exchange

McCambridge & McCambridge Baltimore

Overseas Troops To Be Issued Barbers' Kits

American soldiers serving overseas who cannot avail themselves of the services of a professional barber on the battle-fronts will soon be issued a barber kit, developed by the Quartermaster Corps, according to an announcement made by Col. Stephen B. Massey, director of supply.

The kits will be issued to all units in overseas areas where barbers are not available, but will vary according to the climate in which the troops are stationed.

Kits going to troops in regions where it is too cold to shave will include beard clippers to prevent formation of ice on the whiskers.

Kits going to men in warmer climates, on the other hand, will contain two pairs each of clippers and scissors, two shaving brushes, two razors, a strop, hone, and shaving soap. All the articles are wrapped in a water-repellent canvas roll.

At retail prices this equipment is valued at $150. A sailor's first issue totals 98 articles valued at $133.81. The initial issue of clothing to a marien costs $84.75 (56 articles) and of individual equipment, including rifle, $101.39 (18 articles), total cost $186.14. After basic training clothing and equipment is supplemented and varies according to the type of organization to which the man is assigned.

If it is necessary to cut a wire to get through an entanglement, grasp the wire close to a post and cut between your hand and the post. This will muffle the sound and keep the loose end in your grasp.

Tigers Slate Talent Show

Impersonations, Gags, Boogie-Woogie On Tap

The 10th Armored Division will "go Hollywood" Friday night when the Tiger Talent Show will be presented at Service Club No. 2 at 8 p. m. This fast-moving, one-hour variety show, produced under the auspices of the Special Service Office, will be an all-10th Armored affair which promises to rock Sand Hill with laughter.

Heading the cast will be Pfc. R. N. Smith of the 11th Armored Regiment whose gift of gab and gag has aptly earned him the title of the Division's Bob Hope. He's been on several nation-wide hookups and while on duty with the 11th Cavalry in California wrote and controlled complete Army broadcasts.

IMPERSONATOR

We all know who Betty Lou and Tommy Riggs are, but have you heard Pvt. Jim Morrison of the 419th F. A. Battalion give his version of them watching the opening of a Bob Hope show in Hollywood? You will if you're at the Service Club Friday night when he'll do his popular impersonations of Ronald Colman, Charles Boyer, Charlie McCarthy, Edgar Bergen, Abbott and Costello and none other than the President and Mrs. Roosevelt themselves.

Did you know the 10th Armored has its own Teddy Powell? Teddy is the Boogie-Wougie King and 11th Armored men will have you believe Sgt. Charles Krider is his equal. The Tanker will be there to pound out some red-hot rhythms and will top it off by playing his own brand new composition, "That's the End of Our Song."

These and many other acts will be presented, plus the music of the brand new Dixieland Band.

The Special Service Office is anxious to continue these shows and also to continue on its never-ending talent search. So if any of you Tigers can recommend anyone who has talent, you will be doing your part to aid the effort.

O. C. Squad Makes Record On Range

Another record was hung up by 18th company of the Third Student Training Regiment, under command of Capt. Roger G. Seely, when the fourth squad of the fourth platoon scored 218 points out of a possible 220 on the landscape target firing range.

The new record smashed the previous one of 215 one half points. Previously the 18th Company had set up record performances in a night map-reading problem and also in clearing and laying a mine field. Officer Candidates who made up the squad include J. C. Whittle, H. E. White, R. D. White, J. K. Wells, Pat Woods, John Wood, Larry Wilson, C. E. Wilson, Ralph N. Woodcock, William Yurek, Charles C. Wooley, and William S. Wrigley.

All Polio Funds Are To Be Sent To Lt. Marquardt

Organizations which have solicited contributions for the "March of Dimes," to benefit the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, are asked to forward their collections to Post Headquarters.

Mrs. Walter S. Fulton, chairman of the campaign for the "March of Dimes" at Benning, requests that funds be sent to Lt. Oswald K. Marquardt at Headquarters. When the money is accumulated, Mrs. Fulton pointed out, it will be turned over to the Foundation.

Mrs. Fulton said that arrangements have been made to collect contributions from the organizations to which collection containers were distributed. But, she stated, many units have collected money on their own accord and it is this latter category which is urged to forward the funds to Headquarters.

At an unnamed military camp a board of officers quizzing OCS aspirants has devised a means of checking the loyalty of soldiers from the South. One candidate from Dixie met the test superbly. When asked what he would do if his native State, Georgia, seceded from the Union his eye took on the gleam of a man fighting a holy war. Said he, "We got to finish this war first, Suh."

93 Per Cent Of Canadian Class Graduates

The most recent graduating class of qualified jumpers of the First Canadian Parachute Battalion established a record in the Battalion as 93 per cent of the soldiers graduated from The Parachute School and won their coveted parachute "wings".

Lt. Col. G. F. P. Bradbrooke, commanding officer of the Canadian Battalion, announced that the men in the class who did not qualify had sustained minor injuries in their training but were continuing their drills in various stages and will soon also win their "wings".

Colonel Bradbrooke, himself, who already has qualified as a jumper in school in England, is undergoing the final phases of jump training here to qualify for his "wings" from Benning's school.

O. C.'s Have Yea-Ha Unit

OC class of the 14th Company is a Yea-ha company! And each of its four platoons is a Yea-ha platoon!

The Yea-ha fight yell which Lt. Colonel John S. Roosma brought back from the Philippines and from Pearl Harbor is heard in the 14th Company, 3rd Bn., 1st Student Training Regiment street any time, night or day.

Yea-ha means BE ALIVE, WORK HARD, THINK, NEVER QUIT, BE LOYAL! It typifies the pep and determination that sticks out in the jaw line of 14th Company men. For them Col. Roosma's Yea-ha slogan is the azimuth of success. Even though they realize they are still far from the OC goal—these gleaming bars of gold—it gives them confidence in their ability to accomplish the mission.

When it's cold, a Yea-ha warms an OC like a cup of coffee. If the going is tough Yea-ha helps punch through and get back on the target. That's what OC's of the 14th Company say.

Coming from all echelons of civilian living they find OC life a common democratic ground. Practice of the Golden Rule and emphasis upon building up character, brings to the military crest many principles of getting along together which to some have been in deflade. It is a pattern, 14th Company men find, for that smoother working together that training perfects.

Candidates in 14th Company admire Captain Wrinn and his tireless staff. They make no bones about admitting it. They are determined to be a credit to the Company as well as the battalion and the regiment.

Although many members are college men, some with several degrees, they swear the academic instruction is better than any they have ever seen. That makes them dig all the harder. The Benning School for Boys is an emplacement they don't want to be blasted out of—until the OC battle is won.

Every man in 14th Company works hard and keeps trying. He has the chance of a lifetime in his hands now and regardless of sacrifice he is determined not to fumble. He is even a little cocky.

Yes, here comes the 14th Company!

Yea-Ha!!

The non-commissioned officers in the WAAC are the first leader, corresponding to a top sergeant, $864 per year; leader, corresponding to a sergeant, $720 per year; and junior leader, corresponding to a corporal, $648 per year.

There will be no general refunding of premiums on government life insurance if a soldier is discharged with or without having incurred a disability in the services, regardless of whether injury or disease causing disability is or is not incurred in the service, because while in the Army a soldier has the protection for which the premiums are paid.

WE STILL REPAIR WATCHES

KROGLAND'S CLOCK SHOP

1142 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

Monthly Bond Sales High

Soldiers, Civilians Invest $300,000

Soldiers and civilians at Fort Benning and buying approximately $290,000 worth of War Savings Bonds a month, according to Major Charles Fargo, post war bond officer.

"Military personnel are making an outstanding record on this post, purchasing $280,000 worth of these securities according to our best check, and I believe it may total more than that," said Major Fargo.

Civilian purchases have been slower, but the major explains that as soon as the streamlined bond delivery program became active, this record would undoubtedly improve.

Col. John McFall, post finance officer and war bond issuing officer, reported that his section was ready to put the new program into action, and that as soon as civilian personnel officers could supply him with necessary date, bonds would be made out and delivered. However, there has been a delay here. Since inauguration of this new payroll program, the work of all personnel officers has been temporarily slowed down.

"But," the colonel added, "these personnel officers should be able to furnish me with necessary information so that bonds can be issued and delivered in February."

Major Fargo in speaking of investments by soldiers in war bonds, added that it was wise to make a reservation before going overseas, because it might not be possible to run to the nearest post office or bank and purchase these for cash each month as some have been doing. By using the reservation plan, bonds are automatically purchased each month, and can be left in this country for safekeeping.

Famed Movie Designer Seeks Commission Here

Bill Burla Produced Magic For Many Hollywood Films

Need any hurricanes, volcano eruptions, giant octopuses, or invisible ladies today? If you do, just double time over to the 24th Company, Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School at Fort Benning, where Volunteer Officer Candidate William O. Burla will be glad to oblige. Bill, as special effects designer, builder and operator, has been supplying those and many other such effects to major Hollywood studios for several years. In his unique capacity, Candidate Burla has worked in pictures with almost every name star at Paramount, R. K. O., and Twentieth Century-Fox.

Among Bill's latest achievements on the screen is the octupus in "Reap the Wild Wind," on which he says he spent eight months of painstaking effort to provide movie addicts with about four minutes of thrills. Bill also put Veronica Lake into a bottle from which, at his command, she later emerged. (Who wouldn't like to pull that one?) And if you think he didn't, just see "I Married a Witch." Burla thought up the outlandish effects for this one, in which La Lake, bewitched, gives out with a lot of wraith-like goings on.

HEMINGWAY'S FWTBT

Bill's latest job, before volunteering for O. C. S., was the bridge demolition scene in Hemingway's "For Whom the Bells Toll," as yet unreleased. Among other achievements were the snow scene effects in "Holiday Inn," the volcano eruption in "Aloma of the South Seas," and the spectacular battle scenes in "Wake Island," Hollywood's epic tribute to the gallant stand of the Marines.

Candidate Burla was born in Yellowstone County, Montana, in 1903. Here, among the majestic hills and mountains of the Yellowstone valley, were formed the dramatic conceptions of nature's varied and turbulent moods which have enabled him to create such marvelously realistic effects for the screen. Here, also, his father introduced him to the thrills of the hunt, which later took a turn toward the piscatorial in Bill's consciousness. Having done a lot of deep-sea fishing off the coast of California, Bill's ambition now is to go on fishing expedition to Guadalupe Island where he says the big ones (and "Big" in the Guadalupe league means a mere 400 or 500 lbs!) are so ravenous they'll bite at an unadorned hook.

UCLA GRAD

Candidate Burla's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Burla, live in Los Angeles, where son William was graduated from U. C. L. A. in 1928, as an Economics major. His prep education was received at Long Beach Polytechnic High school. Burla's lovely wife and daughters are keeping the home fires burning in Los Angeles, too.

The military prelude to Bill's volunteering for Officer Candidate School and the Infantry is impressive. Three years in the California National Guard, three years in the Senior Division R. O. T. C. at U. C. L. A. and attendance at various summer camps reflect his interest in his present work. Inducted at Fort McArthur on September 12, 1942, he took his basic training at Camp Wolters, Texas, and became a member of the 24th Company on January 2, 1943.

Burla is a cousin of Una Merkel, the little movie lovely with that most dulcet of all Southern accents.

And what, did you ask, is the favorite hobby of a guy whose daily job is to create mighty struggles of the elements that move across the screen with the grandeur and magnitude of nature in the raw? Well, it's gardening.

Major Inge Is New Engineer Executive Officer

New executive officer of the 55th Engineer Battalion is Major Andrew V. Inge, who recently arrived at the 10th Armored Division from Fort Knox, Ky.

Major Inge brings with him a wealth of engineering experience. He was commissioned in the Engineer Corps in 1938 and was assigned to the 3rd Engineer Combat Battalion at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii.

After two years there he joined the 17th Engineer Battalion of the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Benning and later went to the 23rd Engineer Battalion of the 3rd Armored Division. Last December he was transferred to the Armored Force Engineer Office at Fort Knox and served there until his assignment to the 10th Armored

Lt. Jack Gibbs Gets Captaincy

Announcement of the promotion of 1st Lt. Jack Gibbs, engineer property officer, to the rank of captain was received at post headquarters.

Entering the service in October, 1940, aptain Gibbs served with the 16th Engineer Battalion, Fort Knox, Ky., before attending Officer Candidate School, Ft. Belvoir Va. He was commissioned in August, 1941, and assigned to the 64th Engineer Company, Fort Benning, Ga. In January, 1942, Captain Gibbs became Engineer Property Officer, and was promoted to first lieutenant in June.

Held Overs at Club Matag

JACK & JANE WEST, comedy dance team . . . The White Bros. novelty Horse Act. . . . Adelaide La Marr, tops in taps. . . . Beverly Breeze, sweet-voiced song interpretations. . . . George Bell, M.C. and Surprise Novelties makes final appearance tonite.—Emile Parra opens Monday nite for return engagement as M. C. Break away and relax to one of the finest all-Girl Orchestras in the county, Velma 'n' Jean.—Adv.

Southern Manor

"FOOD IN THE SOUTHERN MANNER"

ICE SKATING STARS

on

TONS OF ICE

"Honey Johnson"

and

Eddie Kelly

Extra Added Attraction

Bobby McLean ★

WORLD'S CHAMPION SPEED SKATER

(Direct From Sonja Henie Ice Show)

— — — PLUS — — —

TUBBY RIVES . . . LEE CAMP

CLAIRE RAY DANCERS

BEE HAVEN ORCHESTRA

DANCING AS USUAL

OPEN 4:00 P. M. DAILY — — —

— — — 1 P. M. SUNDAY

COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

Visit the Officers R. & R. Club on Cusseta Road. The best food in town—Ask any officers who have been there. The only Exclusive Officers Club in Columbus.

WHERE TO DINE & DANCE IN AND AROUND COLUMBUS

DINING DANCING

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT

WINSEL CASTLE

"COLUMBUS' FINEST"

2803 Cusseta Road Cecil Lloyd, Prop.

FOR OFFICERS AND MEMBERS ONLY

PAT PATTERSON 44th & 2nd AVENUE

THE BEST FRIED Chicken IN THIS TOWN

GA. CAT FISH Dinners WITH CORN BREAD

NO. 1 KANSAS CITY Steaks THAT'S REALLY TENDER

POINT BLUE Oysters FRIED, STEW, RAW

Come Out on No. Highland Bus 8 Private Dining Rooms

JERRY'S

206-38 1/2 St.

FAMOUS FOR STEAKS & CHICKEN

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT

WINSEL CASTLE

"Columbus' Finest"

2803 Cusseta Rd. Dial 9152 — 9845

Winsel Castle, Columbus' Finest Restaurant, under the Management and ownership of Cecil Lloyd. Popular and widely known among Officers and Commissioned Personnel of Fort Benning, especially invites you to enjoy your off hours at WINSEL CASTLE.

FOR OFFICERS and MEMBERS ONLY

JUMBO

Fried Chicken

Catfish Dinners

Ga. Stew

Bar-B-Q

1700 Fourth Ave. Dial 9880

Dining Rooms Curb Service

Visit the New Post Office Grille

Next Door to Post Office

Miss Sue Searcy, Prop.

Phenix City, Ala.

Steaks—Oysters

FRIED CHICKEN

Regular Meals Daily

In New York, it's LINDY'S—In Havana, it's SLOPPY JOE'S In COLUMBUS, it's THE ROOSEVELT!

Columbus' finest and friendliest Cafe—serving only the very highest type of food, and beverages reasonably priced—and where efficient service is supplemented by warm cordiality and an air of sincere friendliness.

We invite the personnel of Fort Benning to make the FRIENDLY ROOSEVELT CAFE their second home.

THE ROOSEVELT CAFE

1027 BROADWAY

CHEROKEE LODGE

Endorsed by

Duncan Hines

By Appointment Only

GOO-GOO "The Sign Of Good Food"

Dial 3-4491

700 Linwood Boulevard

AIR CONDITIONED

½ Fried Chicken Served Unjointed Without Silver, Gobs of Shoe Strings, Jug of Honey, Hot Buttered Rolls. The Most Modern and Best Known Cafe in Columbus, Georgia

Free Parking — Curb Service

Private Dining Rooms

COPELAND'S BARBECUE AND STEW

3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620

BARBECUE—STEW—SANDWICHES—DRINKS

CHICKEN—STEAK—OYSTER DINNERS

CECIL JONES, Prop.

PLENTY FREE PARKING AND CURB SERVICE

Enjoy a Delicious Home Cooked Meal at the

Post Office Grille

—Next Door To The Phenix City Postoffice—

—MISS SUE SEARCY, Prop.—

514 Fourteenth St. Dial 9110 Phenix City

STEAKS That's Really TENDER

CHICKEN HOME COOKED LIKE MOTHERS

TRY OUR REGULAR DINNERS

11:30 A. M. to 2 P. M. Daily

SHORT ORDERS — A LA CARTE SERVICE

That's Tasty and Deliciously Served.

THERE'S NO RATIONING ON EATING "ANYWHERE IN THE UNITED STATES"

Dial 9110 for Quick Delivery

Home Cooked Meals Served In A Friendly Manner To Suit The Most Discriminating Taste

Engineer Reveals Inside Story Of Playing Ponies

Hamby Says Bettor Must Know All Personages Frequenting Track

By PVT. RICHARD HENRY
Public Relations, 10th Armored

"There are 100 ways to lose and one way to win when you're betting on the horses," says Private Harry R. Hamby of the 10th Armored's 55th Engineers Battalion, who should know, because he earned a living for four years by picking the winners at tracks all over the United States. Betting was a highly developed science with him but even with his system, he concedes, there was a large element of just plain luck.

Hamby kept no account of his winnings, but he maintains that he has made thousands of dollars by laying down his money on the right oat-eater on the right track on the right day and at the right time of the day.

On the other hand, he has also dropped thousands as a result of miscalculations or because of some fantastic factor that could not be foreseen by a prophet, as in the case of a horse that took off for the open road by plowing through a fence. Jockeys have also been known to upset the best-laid plans of a bettor who has a sure thing, he says, by falling off their mounts like raw amateurs when the race was all but won.

EARLY BIRD

To perfect his system—except for that business of chance—Hamby literally got up early in the morning. He would go down to the track in whatever town he happened to be and watch the horses step through their trial paces. Not always trusting the timers, he would do his own timing and if a horse happened to turn in a performance that was within a second or two of the course record, he knew that the horse was his baby that afternoon.

While it is a good idea to know your horses and their records, it is more important to know the jockeys, in Hamby's opinion.

"The jockey is your best source," he points out, "because he's riding that horse and he knows whether the horse is going to win or not."

More bets have been won by greasing the palm of a jockey than by following all of the tips in all of the dope sheets ever published, Hamby affirms. By guaranteeing the jockey a percentage of your winnings, you give yourself the supreme satisfaction of knowing you will collect—providing the jockey is playing along with you and providing the horse doesn't lose its strike on the home stretch or something equally tragic.

INSIDE INFO

It is a long-established custom with Hamby—or was, before the army changed all his habits—to cultivate all the personages that are to be found on the fringes of any race track. Jockeys, clockers, timers and even the men at the ticket windows have provided him with invaluable information as well as assistance and he has been alert for the most casual remark. On occasion he has been able to strike up deals with the ticket-sellers by agreeing to cut them in for the trouble of informing him where the big bets are going. But he has had better luck by keeping his eyes and ears open.

He recalls one point that illustrates this point. A man at the betting window was placing his bet and Hamby overheard his choice for this particular race and saw the man lay $20,000 on the line.

"That fellow wasn't just betting for his health," Hamby observes, "and I didn't lose any time putting my money on the same horse."

COUNTY FAIRS

Famous race horses, strangely enough, are bad bets because the odds are so overwhelmingly in their favor and the margin of profit is correspondingly small, according to Hamby. And if the champion should by any chance fall to some horse first the bet is lost just as surely as if it had been placed on the most dubious entry of the day.

As a matter of fact, Hamby says he enjoyed his best luck at county fairs, not at the big derbys. is easy, he claims, to pick the winner in one of these free-for-alls, if you know horses.

And that is undoubtedly the secret of Hamby's success at the races: he knows horses and he likes to watch races when he has no money on the entries. Texas-born, he has been close to race tracks as long as he can remember and his only complaint with the army is that it keeps him away from the tracks.

WAS DANCER

Probably the Engineers have never suspected what Hamby's actual occupation was, and to glance at his rugged frame no one would be able to guess it. Hamby is a professional dancer, and, even while he was chasing the races, he returned to the stage occasionally to bolster his income which, as might be imagined, was given to strong fluctuations.

Much as he knows about horse races, Hamby is giving no tips to his buddies—because they are his buddies. He feels that he would be responsible for their bets, and if the horse should happen to break a leg or decide to coast in a miserable last, a lot of Engineers would be looking for "Five until payday."

Right now Hamby is putting his $50 a month on a different kind of champion, entered as the United Nations, and he knows he has picked a winner this time.

Fort Benning Calendar

Movies

Main Theater and No. 6

Feb. 4-5—IN WHICH WE SERVE—Noel Coward.
Feb. 6—SEVEN MILES FROM ALCATRAZ—James Craig and Bonita Granville.
—BILLY THE KID RIDES AGAIN—Buster Crabbe and Al St. John.
Feb. 7-8—YOUNG AND WILLING—William Holden and Susan Hayward.
Feb. 8—CHETNIKS—Philip Dorn and Anna Sten.
Feb. 9—SILVER SKATES—Kenny Baker and Patricia Morison.

Theaters 2 and 3

Feb. 4—THE CRYSTAL BALL—Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland.
Feb. 5—SEVEN MILES FROM ALCATRAZ—James Craig and Bonita Granville.
—BILLY THE KID RIDES AGAIN—Buster Crabbe and Al St. John.
Feb. 6—NORTHWEST RANGERS—James Craig and John Carradine.
Feb. 7-8—IN WHICH WE SERVE—Noel Howard.
Feb. 9—SILVER SKATES—Kenny Baker and Patricia Morison.
Feb. 10—YOUNG AND WILLING—William Holden and Susan Heyward.

Theaters 4 and 5

Feb. 4—NORTHWEST RANGERS—James Craig and John Carradine.
Feb. 5-6—THE CRYSTAL BALL—Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland.
Feb. 7—SILVER SKATES—Kenny Baker and Patricia Morison.
Feb. 8—SEVEN MILES FROM ALCATRAZ—James Craig and Bonita Granville.
—BILLY THE KID RIDES AGAIN—Buster Crabbe and Al St. John.
Feb. 9-10—IN WHICH WE SERVE—Noel Coward.

Theaters 6 and 7

Feb. 4-5—THE IMMORTAL SERGEANT—Henry Fonda and Maureen O'Hara.
Feb. 6—SILVER SKATES—Kenny Baker and Patricia Morison.
Feb. 7-8—THE CRYSTAL BALL—Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland.
Feb. 9—SEVEN MILES FROM ALCATRAZ—James Craig and Bonita Granville.
—BILLY THE KID RIDES AGAIN—Buster Crabbe and Al St. John.
Feb. 10—CHETNIKS—Philip Dorn and Anna Sten.

Theaters 8 and 11

Feb. 4—SEVEN MILES FROM ALCATRAZ—James Craig and Bonita Granville.
—BILLY THE KID RIDES AGAIN—Buster Crabbe and Al St. John.
Feb. 5-6—ANDY HARDY'S DOUBLE LIFE—Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone.
Feb. 7—CHETNIKS—Philip Dorn and Anna Sten.
Feb. 8—SILVER SKATES—Kenny Baker and Patricia Morison.
Feb. 9-10—THE IMMORTAL SERGEANT—Henry Fonda and Maureen O'Hara.

Theatre No. 10

Feb. 4—ANDY HARDY'S DOUBLE LIFE—Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone.
Feb. 5—SILVER SKATES—Kenny Baker and Patricia Morison.
Feb. 6-7—THE IMMORTAL SERGEANT—Henry Fonda and Maureen O'Hara.
Feb. 8—SILENT WITNESS—Frank Albertson and Maris Wrixon.
—DEAD MAN'S GULCH—Don "Red" Barry.
Feb. 10—THE CRYSTAL BALL—Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland.

Women's Activities

Book Reviews—Monday, Feb. 8. m. Parlor B of Officers' club.
—V—
Bridge—Tuesday, Feb. 9, 2 p. m. Ladies lounge.
—V—
Practical Home Making—Thursday, Feb. 11, 2:30 p. m. Ladies lounge.
—V—
Dramatics—Thursday, Feb. 11, 2:30 p. m. Parlor B.
—V—

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

Work Room:
Surgical dressings—1:30 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. John Jeter; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magon; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. Wm. Huffstetler, Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes.
Sewing and knitting—Tuesdays and Thursdays, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. Paul Newgarden; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.
—V—
Motor Corps
On duty Friday, Feb. 5, Mrs. P. W. Bailey; Monday, Feb. 8, Mrs. K. G. Pavey and Mrs. F. J. Vida; Tuesday, Mrs. Wm. Oliari and Mrs. A. H. Dickerson; Wednesday, Mrs. C. M. Sagmoen; Thursday, Mrs. J. L. Farr. No change in hours for Motor Corps after Feb. 1. Headquarters will be 301 Miller Loop, 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Tel. 2541.
—V—

Ambulance Drill
Tuesdays and Thursdays, 2 to 4 p.m. Hospital ambulance garage.
—V—

Package Wrapping
Package wrapping for military personnel not having families on the post or in Columbus, Red Cross Work Room, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., daily except Saturday.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

FEB. 4
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
8:05 P.M.—"Victory Quiz"—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS
10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU
11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

FEB. 5
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL
8:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

FEB. 6
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL
4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL
5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC
7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU
7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS
10:15 P.M.—"Soldiers With Wings"—WRBL

Feb. 7
3:30 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—NBC
4:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS
7:30 P.M.—"We, The People"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"Hello Americans" with Orson Wells—WRBL
9:00 P.M.—"Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO)—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Report To the Nation"—WRBL

FEB. 8
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Ceiling Limited" (with Orson Welles)—CBS
8:05 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—Variety show, featuring the 3rd Armd. Dance Band—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

FEB. 9
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Service"—NBC
8:05 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast—WRBL
...A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:45 P.M.—"Quartermaster Quarter Hour"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"The Man Behind the Gun"—WRBL

Boy's Activities

Scout Troop No. 11—Fridays.
Cub Pack No. 1—Fridays, 5:15 p. m., Boy Scout Cabin.
Rangers, Fridays, 5:15 p. m., Scout Cabin.
Jeeps—Basketball each day, 5:30 to 6:30. Main gymnasium.
Peeps—Junior basketball team. Daily 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. 29th Infantry Recreation Hall.
Wrestling Team — Tuesday, 5:30-6:30 p. m.
Boxing Team — Wednesday, 5:30-6:30 p. m.

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion services 8:30 a. m. Men's Bible class 9:30 a. m. Sunday school in Children's School 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem, "Accept My Heart"—Borch. Sermon: Chaplain A. L. Pollock. Offertory: Solo —Mrs. B. F. Wells. Christian League 5:30 p. m. Under the direction of Chaplain Frederick W. Helfer. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Archie D. Clark.

29th Infantry: Bible study 9:15 a. m.; Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplains Archie D. Clark and Edgar L. Storey.

Parachute school: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Fellowship hour 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Frederick S. Zeller.

Theatre No. 5: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st S. T. R. and Acad. Regt. Morning services 10 a. m. Chaplain Glenn S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for the Det. Med. Dept., 9:30 a. m. Also colored Med. Det. Service in colored day room at 9:30 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplains T. G. Proctor and Welter H. Shine.

Reception Center: Recreation Hall, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:15 a. m. Sgt. Vann J. Melone.

Lawson Field: Chapel No. 2, Men's Bible study 10 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers 6:30 p. m. Song service Wednesday evening 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Floyd S. Smith.

124th General Hospital: New Mess Hall, Sunday morning worship service 9:30 a. m. Vespers Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. (In nurses' recreation hall.) Chaplain Archie C. Carroway.

117th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Choir rehearsal 10 a. m. Wednesday evening worship 7 p. m. Chaplain Edward L. Young.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 11:30 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and Clarence R. Ritchie.

Second Student Training Regt.: Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chapel No. 4, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Edwin C. Wilson.

Third Student Training Regt.: Chapel No. 5, Holy Communion (Episcopal) 8 a. m. Regimental services at 11 a. m. Chaplain Russell D. Laycock. Protestant service in 5th Bn., at 11 a. m. Bldg. B-25. Chaplain A. B. Billman. Colored service at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 663rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 31st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2, Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5201, located at the 8th Division Road and Custis Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m.; and 9:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 3, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3 Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Friday: Sacred Heart Devotion will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, All Lawson Field organizations, and the 505th, 506th and 507th Parachute Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30, at the Children's School, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road. A five-voice choir of officers and enlisted men chant the services. A lively discussion concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd Student Training Regiment and the Student Training Brigade: Every Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock, in War Dept. Theatre No. 9, (Building B-46), 8th Division Road.

For men of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 764th Tank Battalion, 801st and 802nd Field Artillery: Every Sunday morning at 10:30 in Building B-7. A lively forum on an important Jewish topic follows the service.

For men of the 10th Armored Division: Every Monday evening, at 7:30, in Chapel No. 4. Sergeant Abe Millman will act as cantor.

EAT AT THE NEW POST OFFICE GRILLE

Phenix City

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE

MISS SUE SEARCY, Prop.

- STEAKS
- CHOPS
- CHICKEN
- OYSTERS

COOKED AND SERVED TO SUIT YOU.

There's No Rationing on Eating in the U.S.A.

POST OFFICE GRILLE

514 Fourteenth St.
PHENIX CITY

Dial 9110 For Quick Delivery

PAULINE'S

WEEKLY SPECIALS

$5 Billin Collier Waves $3.50
$5 Oil Waves $4
$4 Oil Waves $2.50

Best Shampoo and Sets 75c
Plain Sets 50c

The Above Prices Good Throughout This Week.

Bring this Ad with You for the Above Reduced Prices.

PAULINE'S BEAUTY SHOP
116—38th Street Dial 9864
Free Parking

Have Your Photographs Made by

Artists from our 5th Avenue Studios
NO DEPOSITS AT TIME OF SITTING
PROOFS FOR YOUR INSPECTION BEFORE YOU BUY
"Our Prices Within the Reach of All"
Open 1 P. M. Till 9:30 P. M.
Send Your Photograph To Your Loved Ones

AIM'E DUPONT
1218 Broadway—Columbus, Ga.
Tele. 3-1505
Established 1884

Branch of 664 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C.

"OFFICER CANDIDATES"—We have MILITARY Blouses, GARRISON Caps, SAM BROWN Belts—here for you to be photographed in before your graduation.

Fort Sarge Is Ad Model

Picture Appears All Over U. S.

Sergeant Perry R. Osborne, 1st Academic Regiment, Parachute School, seems to be the most advertised man in the army.

Subject of an advertisement series by Coca-Cola, depicting the spirit and energy of paratroopers, Osborne had his picture in newspapers the country over, and will soon be featured in full color displays in Time, Life, and Saturday Evening Post.

But that is just the beginning. A photo of the sergeant jumping from an airplane, with a group of open parachutes in the background was good enough to be reproduced in "Camera Magazine", the New York Times, the New York World-Telegram, and was used on the cover of two trade magazines. Later "Wings of Silk" as this picture has been named, was chosen one of the best ten photographs of 1942, and now hangs in permanent exhibit at the museum of Modern Art, N. Y.

Last week, Photographer Bill Bradley was back to take more pictures of Sergeant Osborne, this time seeking to show what happens after the paratrooper lands and goes into action.

Osborne who is a typical, rugged, perfectly-conditioned paratrooper, came into service in November, 1941 from Brodhead, Ky., his hometown, and served with the 29th Infantry, Fort Bragg, N. C., before volunteering for parachute training.

VARIETY CLUB FORMED

Formation of a Variety Club for personnel who have been newspaper or radio men, actors, artists, writers or professional entertainers is announced by Cpl. John Naylor, editor of the Pine-Bur, weekly paper of the Second Student Training Regiment. An open invitation is extended to all such personnel to a party in Columbus Saturday, Feb. 6, the place to be announced.

Startling Revelations in First Poll of Service Men

Through the first poll of the fighting forces ever conducted by any American publication, CLICK magazine has learned what you service men want Americans at home to do for you.

Questionnaires covering 25 important subjects were submitted to thousands of service men through the U. S. O., Y. M. C. A. and other services. A wealth of information was secured.

A complete analysis of the results, in the March issue of CLICK, presents a story of keen interest to every man in the armed forces. Get your copy today and see how the answers to each question coincide with your own thoughts and opinions.

March CLICK also features many other timely articles, color photographs and cartoons. Buy the March issue now at your Post Exchange magazine stand.

CLICK
The Monthly Picture Magazine
Now on sale at Your Post Exchange 10¢

KIRVEN'S

STORE OPEN: 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., EWT

From a Rookie . . .
To His Cookie . . .

"Stay As Sweet As You Are"

Stay as you are . . . don't change ever,
Stay as you are, to remember forever.
My khaki may take me near or far;
I want your memory as a guiding star.

Stay as you are . . . I'll never grumble,
Walking in the wind, your hair all a-tumble.
Skirts, blouses, slacks, or a sweater . . .
Your outdoor companion no matter the weather.
And so we hiked over the countryside;
The Georgia hills a paradise.

Now this rookie adds one more line:
"Won't you be my Valentine."

Stay as you are, staunch, resolute,
Giving your hose for my parachute.
You wear rayons and like them well;
They look right to me, fit swell.
Never bemoan lost silk and nylon,
They're the fibres my life depends on.
Now this rookie adds one more line:
"Won't you be my Valentine."

Flatternit Hosiery $1. pr.

A.	Sweater	34 to 40	3.98	Sports Shop
B.	Frock	9 to 15	12.98	Petite Fashions
C.	Blouse	32 to 40	3.98	Sports Shop
D.	Slacks	12 to 20	6.98	Sports Shop

HOSIERY
KIRVEN'S STREET FLOOR

J. A. KIRVEN CO.
YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

FT. BENNING BAYONET

FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1943.

Edited By Public Relations Staff

The Benning Bayonet published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LED GER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

"When I assumed command of the Eighth Army, I said that the mandate was to destroy Rommel and his army, and that it would be done as soon as we were ready. We are ready now. The battle which is now about to begin will be one of the decisive battles of history. It will be the turning point of the war."

—General Bernard Law Montgomery.

Columbus On CWT Will Produce Confusion

Hickory, dickory, dock,
The Mouse ran up the clock;
The clock struck one, at Benning two
I'm all confused, I'm all snafud
And this, G. I's, means you and you
Don't really know what we shall do,
Hickory dickory, dock.

* * *

That might be a suitable jingle should the Columbus city commission decide Tuesday to change the Columbus time to an hour behind that of Fort Benning which must continue on Eastern Wartime.

It is not within the province of The Bayonet to give the city editorial advice; however, the resultant confusion and problems which will arise should the two neighbors be on different times ought to be evident enough, as we see it, to cause the commission to consider carefully the advantages of remaining on Eastern Wartime.

The inconvenience of neighbors being on different times would not cause difficulty for the people of Fort Benning any more than it would for the city. And, for that matter, several thousand men and women of Fort Benning are residents of Columbus. Their interests should be considered.

Regimental Surgeon Warns Against Venereal Disease

War has brought many health problems to the American people. With the formation of so many new army camps, and with the great numbers of men stationed at these camps, the problems confronting health and law enforcement is a gigantic task.

Today the preservation of the health of the men in the armed forces has become a patriotic duty as well as a safety measure.

Soldiers crippled with venereal diseases are of little value to their organization, are not fit to defend their country, are an expense to our government, and a problem to the Medical Officers caring for them.

The migration of prostitutes to army camps has increased the number of venereal cases throughout the country. These women and the parasites who protect them are committing sabotage against our armed forces, for personal financial gain.

The venereal control office under the immediate supervision of our Post Surgeon, Colonel Denton, and Major James Yoveless, Medical Inspector, is doing an excellent job in reducing the venereal rate around the vicinity of Columbus, and Phenix City, and with the cooperation of the local authorities tremendous strides have been made in the past eight months in reducing the number of venereal cases in Fort Benning.

The Medical Inspectors office has not undertaken to guard the morals of the soldiers are tried to change any man's disposition, instead it is moving in its professional capacity to fight the spread of venereal disease and make the towns surrounding Fort Benning, a safe place for its soldiers.

The 1st Training Regiment has been following the policy of education through a series of monthly lectures to all Enlisted personnel, and Officer Candidates, and practical demonstrations on the use of various methods of prophylaxis.

MAJOR FRANK I. CIOFALO,
Regimental Surgeon, 1st STR.

Candidate 'Stillhere' Discourses On O. C. Life

"Fall out, Corporal—action—chest out—chin in—double time—pull down on your butt—ready, front!"—Oh, gosh, lights on! . . . After a night beset by turbulent dreams and chimerical monsters of all description, Candidate I. M. Stillhere awoke to the rude lights of the O. C. Squad Room.

64 days, 14 hours, and 18 minutes to go! . . . Another day! . . . I. M.'s semi-closed eyelids consulted the day's schedule:

06:45-10:19 ..... Unionalls
10:23-11:49 ..... Unionalls leggings
11:52-12:55 ..... C-uniform leggings

Only three changes this morning . . . They must be getting soft! After making his bunk, sweeping, arranging books, foot-lockers, etc., to to tune of "no gigs today", Candidate Stillhere was all set for the morning chow whistle . . . Oh! oh—not so fast . . . Six field manuals must be drawn from chow, and there's a new roster in the Day-Room . . . Well, eating chow isn't everything . . . a hot cup of java is enough anyway.

From all calculations, that should leave Cand. Stillhere 13.79 minutes before the first formation. However, policing the area must be accomplished during this time . . . Say, how about settling for a short smoke!

Marching to the "hup-two" cadence of the Student Company Commander, I. M. and his buddies arrived at their first class. "This morning, men, we shall study "Motor Transportation and Organization", began Lt. X. "Now, please remember, our aim is to give you a general picture . . . nothing specific. However, for your graded test, you should know the number of drivers, names of tools, number of cylinders, and weights of the various vehicles assigned to an Infantry Regiment. Mind you, now, a broad outline is all that's essential." Spending the remainder of his morning going from class to class. Cand. Stillhere received a subject background in each one based on facts, figures, and formulas—all designed to present a "condensed" view of the course.

However, I. M. Stillhere was not the type to be fazed. He knew that he had the qualifications and he was going to be the best officer ever graduated from the "Benning School for Boys".

The next few weeks conditioned "I. M." to the rough going and a remarkable transformation resulted. The "6:45 a. m. lights" no longer awakened him . . . He now used them as a convenient reference . . . for in fifteen minutes he would rise and mechanically go through his routine without disturbing his equilibrium. Somehow, he still had the same amount of work, but he was subconsciously learning to act and think rapidly.

Thus, Candidate Stillhere successfully arrived at the turning point in his course. The Tactics Section now had him in their diabolical clutches . . . However, "I. M." had extensive experience in maneuvering. In civilian life, he had used every subterfuge to gain these pay raises and he wasn't going to permit a "small" factor like "terrain" to affect his powers of reasoning . . . Unfortunately, he was sadly misinformed . . . His own voice shouting "F. P. L., M. L. R.'s, and position areas for weapons" eliminated the necessity for any pre-arranged signals to awaken his fellow O. C.'s from their peaceful slumber . . . "I. M." thus became a "tactician". His bleacher seat became his "vantage point" and his trouser seat his "vulnerable flank" . . . Gosh, those seats are hard! . . .

As the days flew by, "I. M." assumed the proportions of a "General MacArthur". His "school solutions" became his Bible and his expanding file his thought chest . . . We'll show those Japs, he thought, even if I have to use every Benning solution to whip them . . . And, so Candidate I. M. Stillhere became Lt. I. M. Redi. However, he never could quite understand the meaning of the expression of "90 day wonder". Unless, "I. M." reasoned, it referred to his quandry as to when he'd get those "bars".

—ANONYMOUS,
3rd STR, ISSC.

Hutment Dwellers Get Toughened For Combat

Attn. Those living in barracks.

Gentlemen:

As you may have guessed from our address, we of the 30th Company, Third Student Training Regiment, are living in "hutments." In case you're unfamiliar with "hutments," we'll be glad to describe them in detail, but first we'd like to explain why we're writing this letter . . . It's to tear down the idea that this area is not the most desirable in which to be stationed. We wouldn't trade places with any of you, and here's the reason why:

Perhaps we should say reasons why:

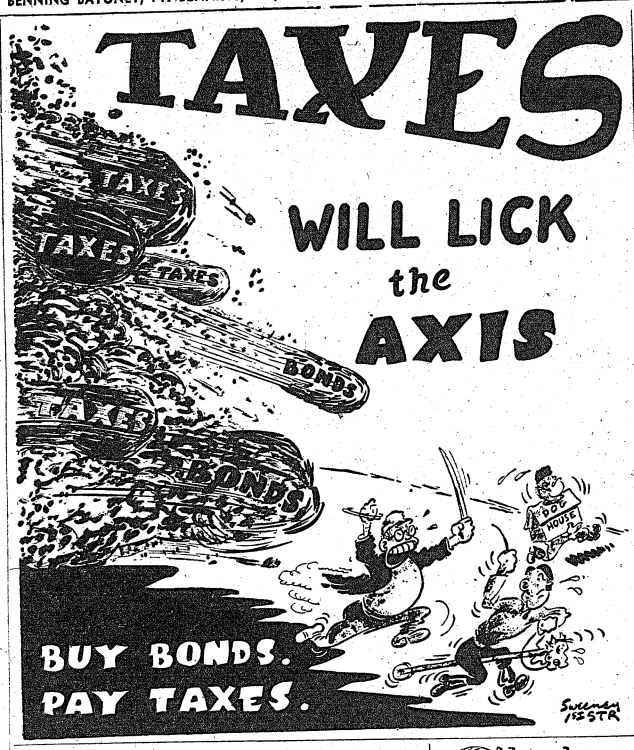
A hutment is desirable from a standpoint of health because there is always plenty of fresh air. Not only that, you have a full view in all directions—north, south, east and west—mostly north during the winter season, and always have a refreshing walk before going to bed and immediately after rising. Some of us tried to eliminate the walk at first, but habit formed through the years just can't be broken.

Hutments are desirable from a standpoint of sanitation. We have hot and cold running water—hot in the summer and cold in the winter—and we always keep the floors scrubbed clean with a mixture of sand and pure, soft, rain water. Not only that, but we keep our latrine at least fifty yards from where we sleep, and we haven't noticed any of the rest of you doing that. Ask any sanitary engineer if he doesn't think that should be the case.



Our heating problem is simple. All we have to do is build a fire in our little stotves and the smoke settles in like a blanket, keeping us perfectly warm. Doctors will tell you that smoke is an excellent preventative of tuberculosis, and to prove it our records show not a single case in the three weeks we've been here.

Hutments prevent overcrowding. We have only thirteen men living in each building, while you gentlemen have as many as fifty or sixty. We knew each other better as a result so none of us ever get above the third-from-the-bottom line on the platoon grade sheets and consequently have no favoritism and jealousy. We trust each other completely because there's no place to lock anything up, so if anyone stole anything, it would just be stolen back.

Hutments are the inspiration for better grades because we're always glad to go to classes and to study hall. In fact some of us stay in the study halls 'til it's time for bed-check. Naturally we're better soldiers, too, because after being in this area for thirteen weeks, we're ready for anything. More men volunteer for combat after living in the hutment areas than from any other part of the school.

Hutments are ideal from the standpoint of building morale. Whenever there's a storm we really enjoy it because it's so nice when it's over. Every man is willing to stand up for his classmates under any circumstances because he knows he's taking all he can endure for our tactical officers when they make a mistake and gig us for various reasons. After all, everyone makes a mistake now and then, but so far, none of our tactical officers have been mistaken, and very few of you can honestly say that.

Very sincerely yours,
The 30th Co., 3rd S. T. R.

USO Presents—

A SWELL MOVIE, SKATING, AND A VALENTINE PARTY

By
CPL. SOLOMON S. KLEINDORF

Tonight there will be an unusual type of movies presented at the Salvation Army-USO in Phenix City . . . unusual because of the type of feature being presented . . . It is a War Information film issued by the Government for the orientation of members of the Armed forces. For those of you who want to gain more knowledge of the enemy and prepare yourself for OCS or non-commissioned officer's ratings, there is nothing better than this type of film . . . Here is good news for the men and their gals who never can find a plae to eat on Saturday nights. And it is especially good news for us when the week or two before pay day rolls around. It is free chow, no less, at the above mentioned club. Last week more than 100 barbecued pork sandwiches were served to the men and their guests. About two bowls of punch were used to wash the chow down . . . One more thing and then we will talk of other clubs . . . Starting this Sunday, from 2 to 3 p. m., there will be a Quiz program with plenty of prizes. Go down and show the other dog-faces up. Or if you prefer, make up a team from your organiatzion and a challenge all comers. That is one way to settle a feud between organizations as to who has the sharpest men.

At the Salvation Army club in Columbus, there will be held a special St. Valentine's party next Tuesday. Cookies, cakes, punch, music and such will be served . . . Last Saturday, the Reception Center Quartette gave out with plenty of something and had the soldier-audience standing on their hands with applause. This Saturday, the ever welcome Station Hospital string unit will be present to entertain the men of Fort Benning who drop in for a moment's rest from the mad whirl of Columbus (Ha-ha) . . . On Sunday, Joseph Schietz, renowned violinist will be present to give a recital. He is one person no one should miss.

The skating program at the Army-Navy YMCA-USO is going great guns. A greater demand for extra skating has been okayed by instituting time every night from 8 to 11 p. m. and Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 p. m. in addition to the regular Sunday afternoon skating from 2 to 5 p .m. All you have to do is bring your own skates and go to town. If you don't own a pair don't let that stop you, because you can rent them at the club for 25 cents and that lets you use them for the entire evening or afternoon. There is one stipulation. The skates you bring must have wooden wheels . . . Don't forget the beginner's dance class being held at the club for those who want to become gigilos. The class is held upstairs every Monday at 8 p. m. . . . After you have learned to dance, you can come to the regular Tuesday and Saturday night dances . . . If you are an OC, there is a special dance held for your benefit every Friday evening.

There are two people we are happy to welcome into our little group, numbering into the tens of thousands . . . They are Captain Edgar Wilmer, of the Salvation Army and Mr. Floyd Francisco, of the YMCA. Capt. Wilmer will take over the direction of the SA-USO club in Columbus. He has recently arrived from Fairmont, W. Va. . . . Mr. Francisco will act in the same capacity at the Army and Navy Y. An old Top-kick from the last war, Floyd really understands the problems of the soldier. He is an oldtime athletic director and has spent the last two and a half years as director of the USO at Chanute Field, Ill. . . . A most hearty welcome to you both and we hope you will be as happy here as your predecessors.

Here is an item that can't be stressed too much. Instead of writing home, stop in at the Ninth Street USO and "talk a letter home." This goes on every Thursday evening from 8 to 10 p. m. in Club room No. 3, upstairs. . . . Pie Bingo will be played once more tomorrow night from 9 to 11 p. m. in the Auditorium. The winners in Bingo get a pie but no one ever walks out of the club with a whole pie if any at all. Usually it is eaten by the winners and their neighbors. It is all in good fun and no one seems to object. Tonight there will be a special lecture on phototgraphy by Pvt. Carl Dial.

POETRY

Oh SLEEP! IT IS A GENTLE THING, BELOVED FROM POLE TO POLE

MIDNIGHT TO REVEILLE
By S. Sgt. Tom McDonald

Sleep! Sleep! Sleep!
A million dusky moments free from care
A thousand dreams of luscious maidens
Tripping gently here and there.

Sleep! Sleep! Sleep!
The soldier's recreation
Under comforts, sheets and blankets
The champions of the nation.

Sleep! Sleep! Sleep!
And then the breaking dawn
Over each husky gladiator
As silent as a fawn.

Sleep! Sleep! Sleep!
Until the bugle's call
Stagger up and out and at 'em
Soldiers each and all!

OUR FLAG FOREVER
To The Late George M. Cohan

We're proud to be Americans
On land so brave and free,
With stars and stripes to lead us,
We'd live our lives for thee.

2

Our flag will wave on the battlefields,
And also, on the fighting seas.
Old Glory has never failed,
To guide us on to victories.

2

The land of our birth is truly worth
The sacrifice we're going through
We'll fight by day. We'll fight by night,
To shield our Red, our White and Blue.

—ABRAHAM BRANDT.
Co. "F," 124th Infantry.

Chaplain's Corner.

BAKED BEANS
Chaplain Frank M. Thompson

We had just finished a dinner in one of the mess halls in which beans played an important part. And there came to mind the few lines of Owen Meredith, in his Lucile.

"We may live without poetry, music and art;
We may live without conscience and live without heart;
We may live without friends;
we may live without books:
But civilized man cannot live without cooks."

There has been much written in praise and condemnation of this phrase of diet in the army. But I am sure the calumny has come from those of limited experience in the art of good living. Also true that there are people who should know better who are lacking in knowledge along this line.

In one of the guide books to Paris there is a chapter, Where the Gormands Gather. It points out the places noted for its juicy hams, ducks, chickens, rabbits, snails, but bless you, you will kook in vain for a place that specialized in beans. We therefore conclude that the much boed reputation of the French in the art of fine cooking is misleading. Perhaps the French people are too aesthetic to appreciate the lowly bean.

For beans have no place in the curriculum of the weak, the immature. Beans appeal to strong men, men with unimpaired digestion.

Of course it is the cooking that really makes the beans, and those who have never sat under the tutorage of an old army cook knows nothing about beans. The process is not complicated but needs attention. You first soak them for about six hours then you put them in a crock, under a proper fire for 24 hours. Draw off the water. Add your cubes of bacon, onions, molasses, catsup, season well and serve.

The next time you are really hungry and without blemish, call at one of the mess halls and have a plate of beans.

San Francisco (CNS)—Harry Conroy, 53, was pulled into court on a drunk charge.

"Been working lately?" inquired the judge.

"Nope," replied Conroy, "I got a sprained right wrist."

"Doesn't that interfere with your drinking?" Hizzoner continued.

"Nope, I'm a left-handed drinker, but a right-handed worker."

"I see. Well, I'm ambidextrous myself. I can hand out sentences with both hands. Ten days!"

West Brighton, N. Y. (CNS)—Flames swept the home occupied by Dennis Hurly, 30-year-old fireman, his sister and his mother. He made a vain attempt to save his sister as his mother escaped through

His sister was killed by the flames and he was seriously burned.

Chicago (CNS)—An appendectomy (operation for appendicitis to you) was performed on a three-day old baby here successfully. The patient, who will have to learn to talk before he can bore people with lurid tales of his operation, was younger than any other to survive such surgery by 57 days.

Denver (CNS)—Jubilant citizens threw away their "A" cards when they received "C" cards. Much searching of waste baskets followed when they found they had to have both.

Evansville, Ind. (CNS)—An elephant lay down and wouldn't get up and her keeper was afraid she'd catch pneumonia lying on one side. He called a wrecker to turn her over with a block and tackle. The wrecker's truck had a sign which read, "No Job Too Large."

Eve Says—

A LOT OF GOOD IN THE KITCHEN IS GOING TO COME FROM RATIONING

The funniest thing to come out of our food rationing was the newspaper space given over to solemn and detailed advice on slicing bread. If my memory is correct, sliced bread is an innovation of possibly ten years standing. I can recall my own and friends' irratation at not being able to buy a loaf of unsliced bread when we planned a tea. It took planning, special order and much emphasis to the baker or grocer to get a loaf of bread we could slice to party thinness. Now they're commiserating with us and instructing us how to cut a loaf of bread!

As a matter of fact a great many of the things we're losing these days are luxury services of the past ten years. Men walked floors in frenzy thinking up new angles to sell their merchandise. All sorts of businesses and unheard of services were established to win us away from our money. The diaper service for one. Prior to that time baby's diapers were washed at home, boiled until they were snowy white and hung in the sun to dry.

There was no such thing as a dog beauty parlor nor a service that delivered carefully balanced meals on trays for the family pooch. Neither did we have canned dog food. The cat or dog ate the scraps from the table and relished them.

Doctors and mothers agreed that nursing one's baby was a natural act of motherhood and had been known to give a deep sense of maternal satisfaction. There were no alarms of starving babies if contented cows no longer supplied milk in cans. Mothers cooked broth, mush and put endless amounts of vegetables through sieves. Many a family yearned for the day to come when baby would grow up so the family menu wouldn't run to prune whips and custards for dessert.

We cooked our own apple sauce out of crisp fresh apples and spiced them with cinnamon. Our cranberry jelly looked like rubies and not that gelatinous dark mass most folks serve with their turkeys today. If we wanted shoe string potatoes, we made them ourselves and served them crisp, hot and salty. We baked our own devil cakes and the mix didn't come in a package.

In fact we knew our business as wives, mothers and home makers and took it in our stride. I knew many who derived glee full pleasure in their accomplishments. We knew no better until the great machine of American advertisement and clever merchandising schemes showed us easier ways.

And now they tell us how to slice bread. Phooey! The "Old Guard" will laugh and recall her almost forgotten household tricks. The younger wives will learn them just as the "Old Guard" did when they first started housekeeping. Don't tell anyone I said so, but I'll bet this food rationing is going to do a heap of good in many kitchens before this war is over. There's not a one of us who hasn't the abilities of our mothers, or grandmothers too, if modern conveniences must be put that far back to win the war. So for goodness sake, won't the men folks let us alone with our first few gripes until we get into the swing of the job.

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

TURNS LIGHT UPON ADVANTAGES OF BEING ACCLIMATED TO DARKNESS

By SGT. TOM McDONALD

For some unknown reason the lights went out this morning and our office was enveloped in a total blackout for nearly an hour. After several moments of this situation had elapsed, Col. Swampwater woke up and realized the predicament that had been thrust upon us.

"Sergeant," he says, "it is moments like these that bring out character and intestinal fortitude. In fact I was born in pitch darkness. Ma says the doctor didn't even have so much as a candle to work by. Way back in those days we didn't have any kind of artificial lights here in Georgia.

"Experiences that have happened to me in the dark, I find invaluable. In fact I shall never forget some of them. In the dark a man must go by instinct and prearranged locomotion. The advantages of doing things in the dark are endless.

"I shall never forget the night I proposed to my wife, Kathleen. We were sitting on the porch on the blackest of nights. There was not even a moon to guide me in my important decision. Softly, and in a melodious voice, I leaned over and whispered my proposal to her. Yes, siree, sergeant, I was one of the most surprised men in the county when Kathleen accepted me. She had always said she intended to marry a handsome man. So you can imagine my elation when she gave her agreement."

"Yes, sir," I said.

"But it's a funny thing, though. Soon after we were married she often mentioned that she was afraid of the dark. Said it often made her do strange things. By the way, sergeant, are you planning to get married any time soon?"

"No, sir," I said. "I never can get any of my girl friends off in the dark."

Solnick Discourses---

ON THE G. I.'s OMNIPRESENT CATCH—ALL IN THE DUFFLE BAG

In the course of processing a soldier—along with dog tags, GI drawers, sox and mess kit, he receives a barracks bag. It is made of blue denim, and before leaving for the laundry has two strings on the collar.

This bag that hangs at bed rest has a mighty mission. A soldier can't do without it. He can't move without it; can't send his laundry without it; and can't stand inspection without it.

Beside the usual run of laundry going out, the 32 inches of bag at times, especially on Saturday morning inspections, can and do hold an unlimited amount of strange items.

Perhaps one among us remembers the Saturday morning when the inspecting officer stuck his hand into a bulging barrack bag and pulled out a pair of shoes that was off limits.

"Soldier," the officer asked, Do your know shorthand?"

"No, sir."

"Well, you're going to; we're SHORTHANDED of KP's.

The barracks bag is the carry all symbol of the soldier on the move, and soldiers so designated are often referred to as "barracks bag soldiers." A soldier's scoffing or disbelief in something will often bring the remark, "Take a deep breath, and blow it in your barracks bag." Or cutting it short it might just be "Take a deep breath . . .".

Recently the Army decided to change the color of the barracks bag to khaki, and it will be designated as a "Duffle Sack"—which may embarrass some of the men who are strictly land minded fellers.

We can only hope that with our new Duffle Sack we'll have more luck in its contents. They say you get out of the Army just what you put into it. True 'nough. But we ain't so sure of the barracks bag.

In checking his laundry one of the boys in the barracks reached into his bag to see if any handkerchiefs or small such might be there. His hand came upon a card which read:

"Your trials and tribulations have broken my heart. They are unique. I have never heard anything like them before. As proof of my deepest sympathy, I give you this card which entitles you to one hour of condolence."

P.S. The Supply Department suggests that in the absence of the barracks bag a suitable substitute is a mattress cover.

—Cpl. M. N. B.

9th Street USO Served 256,207 Since May

6,000 Soldiers Enjoy Yule Refreshments

During a recent meeting of the management committee of the Ninth Street USO Club, jointly operated by the National Catholic Community Service and the Jewish Welfare Board, some interesting facts and figures were revealed.

Eugene J. Bergmann, director of the NCCS, said that since the opening of the club last May, 256,207 soldiers have visited the club. Of these, 224,358 participated in the various social, cultural, and recreational functions held at the club during the eight months of operation; 82,594 took advantage of the many individual services by the various committees and civilian groups, such as bundle wrapping, soldier shopping, shaving kits, etc.; over 8,000 Christmas bundles were wrapped by the Volunteer Ladies during the holiday participation.

Mr. Bergmann went on to say that in addition to the soldier participation, 250 senior hostess and more than 600 junior hostess visited the club 45,064 times, rendering 92,457 volunteer work hours. He particularly mentioned the holiday work of these volunteers when they entertained about 6,000 soldiers on Christmas day, with tea and coffee services, including cakes, cookies, candies, and nuts. These refreshments and what the snack-bar furnished were the only Christmas meals some of the soldiers had an opportunity of receiving because of the restaurants closing down.

Another organization vitally responsible for the popularity of this club is the Red Cross Canteen Service Corps which served over 12,800 soldiers at the USO Club Sunday morning "Coffee-and" hours.

LONG DISTANCE CALLS

During the month of December, the newly installed individualized telephone service with two permanent telephone operators from the Southern Bell Telephone Company, placed 1,572 long distance calls.

In concluding his report, Bergmann said that in spite of a reduced budget, made necessary by the opening of hundreds of new USO clubs, the program schedule at the Ninth Street USO club is being expanded.

Ed Korn, associate director, gave a comprehensive analysis of the program activities now conducted at the Ninth Street Club and the manner in which these various programs are closely related to the soldier and are of the soldiers' own creation and planning.

He gave as example, the USO Town Hall Committee. This group of soldiers plans and executes this popular Sunday afternoon program, securing prominent speakers and at a weekly committee meeting select the subjects for discussion. Another such committee governs the two basketball leagues now in progress. Each league has ten teams of 12 players each, a total of 240 players. The entire operation, rules and regulations come from a committee of soldiers. The art, dance, fencing and photography classes are all headed by soldier and civilian committees and instructors who freely give their time and experience, partly as a hobby and partly as their interest in USO, and Columbus.

Mr. Korn called attention to the part played by civilian volunteers in all activities and services. The dances, shoppers service, information desk, lobby hostess, pie bingo, community chorus, symphony orchestra, cabaret and party nights are all under the guidance of civilian volunteers. All these functional committees are headed by an executive committee of volunteers.

Following the reports by the directors, the management committee considered recommended improvements and voted their approval.

Mr. Richards commended the directors for their efficient operation of the club.

The members of the Management Committee present included Walter Richards, L. R. Aldridge, T. S. Sloan, L. C. Kunze, Col. F. M. Thompson, post chaplain; J. Q. Davidson, H. Julius, Lt. John W. Inzer, Jr., representing Lt. Col. C. C. Finnegan, special service officer; E. Korn and Eugene J. Bergmann.

Status of 38-Year-Olds Clarified by Washington

Clarification of provisions for the discharge of enlisted men over 38 years of age from the army of the United States is contained in War Department instructions received at Fort Benning, it was announced by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general.

In order to qualify for discharge, each enlisted man must present evidence that the "services of the applicant in the prospective civilian capacity will be of greater benefit to the government in the prosecution of the war effort than would his services as an enlisted man."

The applicant's commanding officer must report "whether or not a suitable trained replacement is present and available" to take over the assignment to be vacated.

General Fulton pointed out, for the benefit of soldiers at Benning who are over age and who consider themselves eligible for discharge, that in each case "not only the type of industry but the specific duties to be performed by the applicant will be analyzed in the light of the governing principle that discharge will be authorized only when in furtherance of the war effort and not as a right of the enlisted man."

Enlisted men over age who feel they should be discharged to assume civilian jobs in the war effort need make written request for discharge, to their immediate commanding officers. This evidence must show, among other things, "that by reason of the applicant's stated age he is handicapped by such an extent that his usefulness to the army is secondary to that of industry."

EVIDENCE NECESSARY

Evidence must be submitted showing "that he will be employed in an essential war industry, including agriculture, upon discharge from the army."

Statements of the enlisted men must be corroborated by further evidence. There need be "evidence that the enlisted man will be employed by an essential war industry," which will include "a definite offer of employment in affidavit form signed by a responsible officer of the firm offering employment and stating the percentage of war work being performed."

These statements must show "that the enlisted man will be employed upon discharge from the army; exactly what his duties will be and if these duties are the same as those performed at time of entering the military service; that a qualified civilian is unavailable for employment in the offered position."

In cases where enlisted men propose to enter individual enterprises, an affidavit must be submitted, signed by the enlisted man, and describing in detail the exact nature and scope of the enterprise and the applicant's ability to finance it.

18 Year-Old Takes Infantry School Course

One of the youngest students ever to enter the Infantry School is William Henry Kinzy, Jr., Memphis, just turned 18, and although he has never served in the Army of the United States, he is now attending the Officer Candidate Course.

It happened because he missed a commission in the Reserve Corps by having been born three weeks too soon to have been at the proper age to attend summer camp after he graduated from Columbia Military Academy, Columbia, Tenn. To secure a reserve commission it was necessary to attend the summer camp—but because he was three weeks too young, he couldn't go.

Now, at the Infantry school, his status is still that of a civilian under R. O. T. C., but when he completes the three months course on March 4 he will receive a commission in the Reserve Corps and then will be assigned to active duty with the Infantry.

When passing through wire entanglements, go over the low bands and crawl under the high ones on your back.

WHY GERMANY'S KEY CITIES ARE NOT SMASHED—ALTHOUGH THEY COULD BE... told in the February

Reader's Digest

NOW 15¢ TO SERVICE MEN

What's Holding Up the Air Offensive Against Germany?—How the Reich can be bombed to defeat with the proper combination of British and American air power.

Inside Story of the North African Campaign—First authentic report of the vast preparations—and the almost incredible means taken in Washington to protect this biggest of military secrets.

Preparing Our Fliers for Combat—How clerks, students, farm boys are turned into the world's best pilots, bombardiers, gunners and navigators.

Grandstand View of Jap Naval Disaster—How a numerically smaller U. S. force sank 28 ships and damaged 10 others in a two-day fight.

These are only 4 of 34 exciting, stimulating features in one pocket-size magazine... condensed for quick reading.

NOW 15¢ TO SERVICE MEN • 25¢ TO EVERYONE ELSE

GET THE FEBRUARY READER'S DIGEST AT YOUR PX OR CANTEEN

Reception Center Kaypees Slice Way Through Life

So you complain when the "little woman" hands you the monthly food bills. Compared to the Reception Center mess, your troubles are nothing.

When the wife starts slicing her bread, she should think of the amount the Kaypees at the Reception Center do in a year. A grand total of 10,612,940 slices were cut from 530,647 loaves, an average of 29,076 slices per day, during the year of 1942.

According to figures gathered over a period of a year by Lt. Col. Ulric N. James, commanding officer of the Reception Center at Fort Benning, more than $500,000 was paid out to the "butcher, the baker, and the candle stick maker" in one year. Of that, $33,760.69 was spent for bread alone. According to these figures, $1,386 was used per day for food stuffs.

During the peek month of September, 1942, $71,966.54 went on food purchases. Breaking that down a bit, it was found that $1,192.50 was spent for punch, $6,177.36 for bread, $2,240 for fish, $2,277.03 for ice cream and $2,620.83 for sweet milk.

Signal Company's Enlisted Men Get Pre-Officer Work

Thirty per cent of the enlisted personnel of the 150th Armored Signal company have begun training under the direction of Capt. Riley Graham to improve their adaptability for officers' candidate school.

Ten hours a week for six weeks will be spent in learning the fundamentals of leadership and acquiring technical knowledge required of Signal corps candidates. This rigorous training will be further emphasized by the regular section training.

One of the primary advantages of this course is that it will be on a competitive basis, with only a few being chosen at its termination as eligible.

"In my opinion, any man who qualifies himself during this course is destined to become a Signal corps officer," said Captain Graham this week.

The classes will be held five nights a week, for two hours each night. Instructors will be officers of the company who are qualified in the special fields to be covered. The study will include drill, manual of arms, voice of command, map reading, military courtesy and discipline, customs of the service, current affairs, hygiene, and chemical warfare. The men are receiving specialists training in regular sections, which include radio, radio maintenance, telephone and telegraph, cryptography, and message center.

Lt. Shoemaker Made Captain

First Lieut. Harry L. Shoemaker, assistant post adjutant, has been promoted to captain, according to an announcement made at post headquarters.

Reporting for active duty, May 8, 1942, Captain Shoemaker was immediately assigned to post headquarters as assistant adjutant. In July he was promoted to first lieutenant.

In civilian life, Captain Shoemaker was employed as a market analyst and statistical coordinator by the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana at Baton Rouge.

The captain is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where he received the B. S. degree in economics, and is a native of Drexel Hill, Pa.

Lawson Bomb-Sight

By PL. E. N. FUSILLO

Captain James R Smith formerly stationed with the 15th Bombardment Squadron at Lawson Field, was a visitor here last week.

Captain Smith, who received the Distinguished Service Cross and Silver Star for heroic action in the Philippines, was with the 27th Bombardment Group when the Japanese attacked the Philippines from the air on December 8, 1941. The 27th Bombardment Group was activated in February, 1940, at Barksdale Field, La. The Group moved to Savannah, Ga., in October of that year, and trained in Savannah, Ga.

After participating in large-scale Louisiana maneuvers of 1941, the 27th sailed from San Francisco, bound for the Philippines, on the U. S. S. Coolidge. Arriving at Manila in late November, the young pilots soon had their first taste of war.

December 7, 1941, was a day of peace for the 27th Group, due to the difference in time between Hawaii and the Philippines. On that day they were challenged to a soft ball game at Manila Polo Club. A dinner climaxed the day. And then came dawn . . . and war.

Heir-Raid

S-Sgt. and Mrs. George W. Murphy, girl, Jan. 26, Recon. Co., 2nd Armored Regt.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Arthur F. Gorham, boy, Jan. 26, 505th Parachute Infantry Reg.

Pvt. and Mrs. Aubrey Enloe, boy, Jan. 27, 71st Engineers.

Sgt. and Mrs. Edward C. Carter, girl, Jan. 27, D. E. M. L., Service Detachment.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Albert Hunter, boy, Jan. 27, 21st Q. M. Corps.

Pvt. and Mrs. Daniel C. Dave, girl, Jan. 28, 502nd Field Artillery.

Pfc. and Mrs. Thomas Parker, boy, Jan. 28, Hq. Co., 1st Student Training Regt.

Sgt. and Mrs. Barney Kennedy, boy, Jan. 28, I. S. S. C. 4th Bn.

Sgt. and Mrs. Clyde Waldrop, boy, Jan. 26, Pvt. D. E. M. L.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Vernon L. Stevenson, girl, Jan. 29, Malaria Control, New Orleans, La.

Pvt. and Mrs. Joseph L. Aaron, girl, Jan. 29, Sup. Det., Sup. Division, Unit 1447.

T-Sgt. and Mrs. Benjamin Meeks, boy, Jan. 30, 29th Infantry Band.

Pfc. and Mrs. John C. Hamseker, girl, 30, Co. "A," 502nd Field Artillery.

Sgt. and Mrs. Eliza E. Welson, girl, Jan. 30, Academic Regt., I. S. S. C.

T-Sgt. and Mrs. Eddie W. Connell, boy, Jan. 30, Co. "F," 66th Armored Regiment, 2nd Armored Division.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Donald J. Henderson, boy, Jan. 31, Co. "L," 29th Infantry.

Woman's Club

By LAURA M. BAILEY

The Latin-American program given before the members of the Women's Club of Fort Benning on February 1 under the direction of the Spanish Group, provided a gay and stimulating afternoon.

The Officers' Club was transformed with flags of the Latin-American countries, bright wool serapes, colorful fruits, a display of native dolls, paintings, pottery and glasswear. Palms and large potted plants arranged about the lounge was suggestive of the tropical countries.

Colonel Reginald H. Kelley gave a brilliant resume of the historical background of Spain and the Spanish speaking countries. He disclosed the fact that the American hemisphere had more Spanish-Americans than Anglo-Saxons. The predominance of Spanish speaking peoples and the influence of their art and culture on our country he predicted would become increasingly important.

He sketched briefly the early history of Spain, the invasions, her 700 years of war and the effect of these crises on the growth of the empire. The period of exploration, known in history as one of the most brilliant and colorful periods of the annals of the world, was clearly outlined by Colonel Kelley. He concluded his interesting lecture with an explanation of the political difficulties which ultimately lost the new world possessions to Spain.

Dorothy Githens Eley, dramatic soprano, who has been so generous with her talent, sang a group of three Spanish numbers. Her poignant interpretation of the tender passages of her music as well as the gay lilting notes exemplified the Latin temperament in its most appealing mood.

The 29th Infantry Band, which was loaned to the Woman's Club for the afternoon by the generosity of Colonel Carroll A. Bagby, announced the next number with the rhythmic music of the maraca and the rhumba as Mrs. Thomas R. Gibson and Antonio Amadeo of Puerto Rico swirled into the intricate steps of the Latin-American dance. Their second dance was a spirited Conga, which was repeated as an encore after insistent and demanding applause. Mrs. Gibson, a Puerto Rican beauty and the wife of Colonel Thomas R. Gibson, was an exquisite representative of her country in a beautiful white costume studded with gold nail heads. Mr. Amadeo, an officer candidate, wore a red silk scarf around his waist. He carried the second silk scarf for the traditional movements of the dance.

Mrs. Reginald H. Kelley, president of the Woman's Club announced the formation of a new club group, to be known as the Victory Garden Group, under the direction of Mrs. J. Notestein. The first meeting will be held February 4, at 10:30 a. m., at the quarters of Mrs. Notestein at 508 1st Division road. Plans are underway to make this one of the important war efforts of the club.

The tea hour was unusually lovely with the music of the 29th Infantry band and the beautifully decorated tea tables. Mrs. Washington M. Ives and Mrs. William R. Eley, gowned in magnificent antique Spanish shawls, poured tea. Mrs. Henry P. Perrine presided over the second tea table in a glittering Mexican costume. The Spanish group were beautiful in bright native costumes as they officiated for the tea hour. The following members under the direction of Mrs. Henry P. Perrine were responsible for the success of the meeting: Mrs. John M. Ferguson, Mrs. William R. Eley, Mrs. Washington M. Ives, Mrs. Malcom H. Lucas, Mrs. Alphonsus M. McCarty, Mrs. Park Bailey, Mrs. J. D. Rosenberger, Mrs. Rollin F. Bunch and Mrs. Robert Sharp.

Four groups of the Woman's club meeting the second week in February provide diversified entertainment for Fort Benning women in their limited hours of leisure.

The Book Reviews group starts the week's meetings Monday, Feb. 8, at 2:30 p. m. in Parlor B of the Officers' club, where all meetings will be held. Mrs. Mason H. Lucas, chairman, will open the meeting with a reading guide for the month. A personal report of her travels through northern Africa will be presented by Mrs. F. J. Heraty. A reading of "Happy Land," by McKinley Kantor, will be given by Mrs. W. S. Lee. Mrs. James K. Guthrie will give a review of the novel "Thorofare," by Christopher Morley, and Mrs. Edward Lee Clark will conclude the program with a review of "G. B. S.," a biographical sketch of George Bernard Shaw, written by Hesketh Pearson.

Thursday, Feb. 11, the Practical Home Making group will hear Mrs. Frank W. Gaines give practical pointers on wartime menus. The meeting will begin at 2:30 p. m. in the Ladies Lounge. Mrs. Gaines, a graduate of the University of Georgia, is county demonstrator for Muscogee county. She will give valuable suggestions for substitutes for rationed foods, paying particular emphasis to substitutes for sugar and meat. Mrs. Gaines has a collection of inexpensive recipes.

On Thursday, also, Mrs. W. L. Ryder, chairman of the Dramatics group, will pick the cast for "Sinister House," a mystery play which will be presented before the Woman's club in April. The meeting will be held at 2:30 p. m. in Parlor B.

Tuesday, Feb. 9, the Bridge group meets at 2 p. m., in the Ladies lounge.

There isn't any Army regulation to precent a soldier from getting a divorce. However, he may not be able to get away from his station if he has to appear in court.

IN THE ARMY BOMBER SQUADRONS they say:

"LAYING THE EGGS" for dropping the bombs

"BROWNED OFF" for bored

"PIECE OF CAKE" for an easy job

"CAMEL" for the Army man's favorite cigarette

FIRST IN THE SERVICE— With men in the Army, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard, the favorite cigarette is Camel. (Based on actual sales records in Post Exchanges and Canteens.)

CAMEL

MEET ME AT THE SODA FOUNTAIN, NOW!

"I'm tall, keen and frosty . . . and I'm waiting for you at your favorite fountain right here in town. I'm your pet home thirst-quencher—now served at fountains in a big 10-ounce glass. One nickel buys me . . . so look me up and drink me down." Ask for Pepsi-Cola at the fountain today.

FINE IN FLAVOR!
TOPS IN TASTE!
BIG IN SIZE!

5¢

PEPSI-COLA

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

BIG TEN-OUNCE GLASS

PEPSI-COLA BOTTLING CO. OF COLUMBUS

926 FRONT AVE. COLUMBUS, GA. DIAL 3120

Conference Race May End In Deadlock

Profs and Gators Win Pair of Tilts to Stay In Tie for Loop Lead

117th Breakers, 29th Devils Also Capture Two Games During Week

Roaring down the stretch of the first-half pennant race in a neck-and-neck battle, the strong court entries of the Academic Regiment and 124th Infantry both added a pair of victories to their respective strings during the past seven days to remain in a deadlock for first place honors.

Both quintets will close their opening round schedules tomorrow night, and since each team is a heavy favorite to win again, it appears that the first-half race will end in a tie and go into a play-off. If the deciding tilt is necessary, the Profs and Gators will meet next Thursday night, February 11th, although the court has not yet been decided upon.

During the week just past, the Academic Regiment tossers racked up triumphs over Lawson Field and the Station Hospital, while the Gators of the 124th maintained their winning ways by toppling the Medicos also, as well as the 2nd Student Training Leaders. Meanwhile, both the 117th Breakers and 29th Blue Devils also won a pair of tilts to emerge from the pack as contenders for third place honors, and also hold themselves in readiness for a quadruple tie for the lead should both the Profs and Gators falter in their final games.

Only three games remain to be played in the first-half schedule, and they will be contested this week-end on the hardwood at the main post gym. Friday night, both the Profs and Gators will appear on the same twin bill with the academics facing the Parachute School tossers, and the 124th encountering the Lawson Field Fliers. The finale will be waged on Saturday night when the 29th Infantry entertains the 2nd STR Leaders.

Of the four games played on Tuesday night of this week, the Prof-Medico battle produced the most excitement in the post gym. Starting out fast, the Profs hit a slump mid-way in the ball game, and after holding a comfortable lead at intermission, they found themselves on the short end of a 30-28 count going into the final period.

CLOSE FINISH

The final ten minutes saw plenty of scoring for both teams, and the crowd was in an uproar a minute and a half from the end when Tubby Monroe's lay-up shot put the Medicos out in front, 41-40. But the maroon and white joy was short-lived for Lieut. Frank Shannon immediately banged in a long one from side court, and Ossi and McCrary followed with two more to sew up the verdict, 46-41. Shannon paced the Profs with 15 markers while Ducky Ponds had 17 for the losers.

In the nightcap of that twin bill, Lawson Field of manhandled the 29th Infantry for the first-half, then faded in the final periods as the Devils staged a late spurt to romp to a 52-43 decision. Pop Moylan kept the Devils in the game during the first half with his spectacular set-shots, and Scoogy Gwosdik paced the second half spurt. Both shared scoring honors with eleven points, while the sensational center of the Fliers, Ace Hall, racked up 22 markers in the losing cause.

Most convincing performance of the week was the drubbing which the 124th Gators dealt out to the Station Hospital Medicos last Friday night in winning, 55-38. The Medicos are one of the better clubs in the loop, yet the Gators, playing with three regulars on the sick list, romped to an easy win. Lieut. Howie Bender, Gator playing coach, proved a strong addition to the starting line-up when he whipped in eight field goals to pace the scoring with 16 points. The Medicos stayed in the ball game during the first-half, but buckled near the end.

Both the Medicos and the 117th wound up their seven-game schedules on Tuesday night and will remain idle until second half competition gets under way.

RESULTS

Friday:
124th Infantry 55, Station Hosp. 38.
Academic Regt. 45, Lawson Field 28.
Saturday:
29th Infantry 41, Parachute School 30.
117th Infantry 42, 2nd Stud. Trng. 25.
Tuesday:
Academic Regt. 46, Station Hosp. 41.
29th Infantry 52, Lawson Field 43.
117th Infantry 38, Parachute School 33.
124th Infantry 47, 2nd Stud. Trng. 22.

Basketball Standings

FORT BENNING CONFERENCE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Academic Regt.	5	1	.833
124th Infantry	5	1	.833
117th Infantry	5	2	.714
29th Infantry	4	2	.666
Station Hosp.	3	4	.430
Prcht. School	2	4	.333
Lawson Field	1	5	.166
2nd Stud. Trng.	0	6	.000

MAIN POST LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
1st Prcht. Trng.	5	0	1.000
863rd Ordnance	4	1	.800
99th Q. M.	4	2	.666
7th Observation	3	2	.600
24th Gen. Hospt.	2	4	.333
53rd Gen. Hospt.	1	4	.200
1st Stud. Trng.	1	4	.200
Finance Detach.	1	4	.200

CAPTAIN HANK GOWDY is greeted upon his arrival at the Infantry school by a group of experienced baseball players who may serve as a nucleus for teams at the school this spring. Left to right: Lt. Stan Reft, formerly of the Minneapolis Millers; Tech Sgt. Orlander Taylor, who has been on the Fort Benning all star team each year since 1936; Staff Sgt. Benny Zientara, who played with Indianapolis and Cincinnati; Pvt. Leon Scherer, who spent last season with Macon in the Sally league; Lt. Herbert Moore, who has spent several seasons in the St. Louis Cardinal chain with Columbus, Rochester, and Sacramento; Lt. John Dally, who payed with Ogdensburg in the Canadian-American league and with Evansville of the Three-I league where he was the property of the Bosfon Braves, and Captain Gowdy. (Infantry school photo.)

STOUT GETS BUCKET—Slim Stout (16), giant center of the 507th Parachutists, is shown scoring a field goal in the early moments of Sunday's thriller between the sky-jumpers and the Academic Profs which the Profs won, 43-42. Leaping into the air in an attempt to halt Stout is Benny Zientara of the Profs, while Walters (14) of the chutists, and Polk (13) of the winners are coming up fast from the outside. (Signal Lab Photo by Stock.)

117th Infantry Boast Pair Of Crack Ringmen

Gonzales and Smith Are Former Pro Sluggers Now With Breakers

BY CORP. REVE GRUNIN

Within the ranks of the 117th Infantry there are two fistic stars who made names for themselves in the canvas-floored rings. One fought as an amateur in and around Kansas City and Colorado while the other donned the gloves as a professional boxer in the metropolitan section of New York.

Pedro Gonzales, the dark-complexioned, likable Cuban of the Breaker outfit began his fistic career at a very tender age. Learning all he could about the manly art of pugilism and working diligently in his practice sessions, Pedro went to Colorado in 1938 and captured the Colorado Golden Glove championship in the lightweight division.

In 1939 Gonzales entered the Kansas City Golden Glove tournament. He toppled one opponent after another with decisive victories and fought his way to possession of the Kansas City Golden Glove lightweight crown. The Kansas City lightweight champ of 1939-40 then went to Chicago to participate in the Chicago Golden Glove tournament.

FINALLY LOSES

By virtue of winning his first three fights in the "Windy City," Gonzales was qualified for the semi-finals. Things were going pretty good—this Cuban boy was winning all his fights, becoming quite popular and the future looked very bright for the lad. But much to Gonzales' regret, he was pitted against a more polished boxer and lost by a close decision.

While home on furlough recently, Pedro managed to enter the ring again. He got the pasting of his life for the first three rounds and hit the canvas for a short count in the latter part of the third canto for the first time he had ever been floored. The tide turned in the fourth and fifth rounds. Pedro then became the aggressor and finally, with bullet-like blows to the head, kayoed his opponent in the fifth.

FOUGHT AT ST. NICK'S

Boxing is not a new game to David O. Smith who has roamed the boxing arenas of New York City. "Slugger" Smith has fought in St. Nick's Arena, Ridgewood Grove, Bronx Coliseum and a host of other places, entering the ring no less than 60 times.

In 1938 Smith turned professional, after having battled in the amateur ranks for two years. He won a good many fights, lost a few encounters to some top-notchers, and made a nice little pile of dough. Smith has been in the ring with some worthy opponents. Johnny Colan, the boy who beat Jimmy Webb; Baxley Hardey, middleweight champ of the south and Jimmy Casa, who has fought a good many fights in New York's own Madison Square Garden are just a few of the mighty foes he has tangled with.

STARRED WITH OVERLIN

Knowing that the sparring stables pay pretty well, "Slugger" Smith became sparring partner for Ken Overlin. He stayed with Overlin for but two weeks and then hooked up as sparring partner to Mike Bellaise for two weeks.

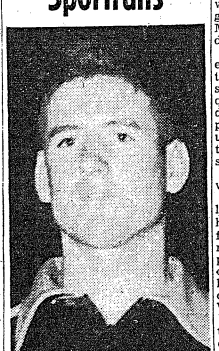
When the 117th Infantry came to Fort Benning last September, Smith put some boxing equipment in one of the empty shacks in the regimental area and began working out every night during his leisure time. Day by day the "miniature gym" was improved somewhat, new homemade equipment added and the most important factor was that Smith was rounding into shape very fast.

Today Smith is all set, ready and raring to go. He will take on anyone in the middleweight class.

Former Auburn Star Coaches Hoop Team

First Sergeant William R. Crew, Jr., of Goodwater, former Birmingham and Auburn athlete, is again in the sports limelight as coach and star performer of the Headquarters Company, Third Student Training Regiment, basketball quintet, one of the top-notch teams at Fort Benning.

Sgt. Crew was employed by the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company at the Fairfield plant before induction into the armed forces on June 8, 1941. He formerly starred with the basketball teams of the 6th Avenue Presbyterian church and the Long Lewis club of Bessemer. Prior to that time he was an all-star performer at Goodwater High school, Georgia Military Academy, Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Henderson State Teachers College at Arkedelphia, Ark., earning distinctive honors in football, baseball, basketball and track.



Since March, 1942, Sgt. Crew, who has advanced in rank through all enlisted grades, has been the top sergeant of Headquarters Co. of the crack Third Student Training Regiment. He formerly was assigned to the First Student Training Regiment and to the Infantry School Service Command, with which organization he received his basic training after induction.

Hollywood (CNS) — Ginger Rogers (the Honey) eloped recently to Pasadena with Jack Calvin Briggs. He is a private in the Marine Corps.

Court Card

THURSDAY, FEB. 4TH
Post Gym—Main Post League
7th Observation vs. Finance Det. (6:45).
1st Stud. Trng. vs. 863rd Ord. (8:00).
53rd Gen. Hosp. vs. 1st Prcht. (9:15).
Sports Arena—Service League
1st STR vs. Medical Det. (7:30).
M. P. Det. vs. 2nd STR (8:45).
3rd STR vs. Acad. Regt. (7:30).
Rec. Center vs. Post Det. (8:45).
FRIDAY, FEB. 5TH
Post Gym—Conference
Academic Regt. vs. Parachute School (7:30).
Lawson Field vs. 124th Infantry (8:45).
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
419th F. A. vs. 55th Engineers (7:30).
54th Armd. Inf. vs. 423rd F. A. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
Service Co. vs. Div. Hdqs. (7:30).
80th Medical vs. Div. Trains (8:45).
SATURDAY, Feb. 6TH
Post Gym
29th Inf. vs. 2nd STR (7:30).
1st STR vs. 863rd Ordnance (8:45).
MONDAY, FEB. 8TH
Post Gym—Main Post League
863rd Ordnance vs. 7th Observation (6:45).
1st Prcht. Trng. vs. 1st STR (8:00).
24th Gen. Hosp. vs. 53rd Gen Hosp. (9:15).
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
420th F. A. vs. Maint. Bn. (7:30).
11th Armd. vs. 55th Engineers (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
90th Recon. vs. Div. Hdqs. (7:30).
TUESDAY, FEF. 9TH
Sports Arena—Service League
Acad. Regt. vs. Med. Detch. (7:30).
Recpt. Center vs. 2nd STR (8:45).
1st STR vs. 3rd STR (7:30).
Post Detach. vs. M. P. Detach. (8:45).
WEDNESDAY, FEB. 10TH
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
419th F. A. vs. 423rd F. A. (7:30).
54th Infantry vs. 3rd Armd. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
Service Co. vs. Div. Trains (7:30).
80th Medical vs. Supply Bn. (8:45).

Sportraits

TEX WALTERS is the sharpshooting forward ace on the crack 507th Parachute quintet which entertains the Georgia Bulldogs in the Alabama gym on Saturday night . . . Starred last winter with the powerful Rice Institute team which shared Southwest Conference honors . . . Left college to join the Army and become a paratrooper . . . Is high point man for 507th team which started the season with 13 straight wins . . . Possesses a deadly one-hand shot that fairly sizzles through the cords . . . Fast-mover, alert retriever, and great competitor.

LT. MILES TRANSFERRED

Lt. E. Scott Miles, Jr., assistant officer in charge of the Fort Benning Machine Records unit, has been transferred to the 82nd Machine Record Unit, Miami, Fla., where he will take over similar duties.

Serving with record units since his induction in 1941, Lt. Miles later attended Adjutant General's School, from which he was commissioned. He came to Fort Benning in August, 1942.

Yukon is Hunter's Paradise TIS Officer Candidate Declares

Dick Strange Gives Low-Down On Big Game

Yukon Territory, Canada, is truly a sportsman's paradise, according to Candidate Dick Strange, 14th Company, Third Student Training Regiment here in the Infantry school.

Candidate Strange, son of Mr. Richard T. Strange, of 3642 W. 65th street., Chicago, Ill., tells his classmates that the great northwest along the new 1,600-mile Alcan Highway is "strictly good hunting."

Strange had his first peep-sight's view of big game while stationed about a hundred miles north of Skagway with an engineer's unit. He spent five months in this section before he received assignment to Benning in October.

During this time he had the rare fortune to track everything from moose to Canadian geese. Other noteworthies bagged were wild mountain sheep, bear and caribou.

Army personnel in this area were authorized to hunt in order to curb a serious meat shortage, Dick relates. Hunting parties of 12 men were sent out to establish base camps. These were broken down into groups of three men. The party was allowed four days' leave to do a task "many American sportsmen would have paid thousands of dollars to get a crack at," says Dick.

ARMY GETS MEAT

All meat procured "except a choice cut here and there" was turned over to the army kitchens. These excursions comprised the only available recreation, but made a G. I. existence both interesting and enjoyable, declares Strange.

Few white men have hunted or even seen this portion of Canada.

The tent camp to which he was attached, migrated up and down the big road to survey sites by-passing ancient glacial ice packs. These packs, explained Strange, are poor roads and become a melted mass during the summer season. Six inches of moss hid the ice in many places which when scraped away bared the old glacier called frozen muskeg. Much of this deposit was of undeterminable depth, said Strange.

He got a kick out of the northern lights, dog sleds, 24-hour daytime they experienced during the spring and summer, but the mosquitoes which bothered and didn't bite were a nuisance. These pests, he remarked, persisted upon getting into the food until the men no longer troubled themselves fishing them out.

Head nets and be recovering were SOP most of the time.

He was notified by radio to leave for officer's school when his organization was 300 miles from all civilization. In order to reach a settlement where transportation might be obtained, he crossed a river by row boat, and hiked 10 miles through the wilderness.

WOLVES HOWLED

"It was night," said Dick, "and the wolves were howling. Boy, did my hair stand on end!" He carried his sleeping bag and a flickering flashlight.

He later caught a caterpillar tractor on which he traveled 30 miles, transferred to an army command car for a 250-mile stretch, and boarded the narrow-guage out of White Horse for Skagway. There he sailed to Seattle, and finally went by train to Ft. Benning.

When quizzed about the temperature in Yukon, he replied, "It was pleasant last summer, but it's 70 degrees below now."

O.C.'s Physical Culture Students Are Roll-Call Of Who's Who 'Great'

George Stallman, 25th Company Third Student Training Regiment, was told as a boy he had to be a "champion." His father, George Stallman, Sr., was a light heavyweight boxer; his uncle, Charles Postl, light heavyweight champion wrestler of the world—1902-1908; his great-uncle, Charley Comisky, owner of the Chicago White Sox.

Stallman began his athletic career as "bat boy" for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1923. In 1926 he signed with Hollywood, Pacific Coast League, barnstormed the Southeastern League in '27 and '28 and signed with the White Sox in 1930.

His uncle, founder of the famed "Postl Health Clubs," persuaded him to join his growing organization. From 1930 until Stallman was inducted into the Army in March, 1941, he trained a cross-section of national figures reading like a "Who's Who"; Donald Nelson, War Production Board chief; Merrill C. Meigs; Jack Kushin, now in China, constructing the new Burma Road; Londis Strangler Lewis, Primo Carnera, Tunney, Jack Dempsey, Barney Ross, Sarazen, Hagen, Morrison, Eddie Cantor, Jack Benny, Walter Houston and Ed Wynn.

DISCIPLINE GREATEST ASSET

Stallman reflects upon his Army career and sees rigid discipline as the greatest asset to any soldier. "O. C. S. men make good officers in such a short time," says Stallman, "because they learn to take care of themselves mentally and physically. They "make or break." If a man disregards the rules, he can't survive as a soldier. You've got to have good blood cells to have good brain cells. You've got to learn teamwork and coordination.

Stallman says his biggest thrill in civilian life came in the sandlot days when he was barnstorming the south. Bags were loaded, nobody out—Stallman pitching—the three heavy hitters coming up. Stallman looked up into the sky and asked, "Give me power to get these guys"—and struck them out, three up, three down!

London (CNS)—Three-year-old Doris Watson knew her father was a prisoner in Germany. That's all she knew about the war. She decided to kiss his picture on the mantelpiece. The grate fire set her nightgown ablaze and she died with her daddy's picture in her arms.

All-Eastern Grid Star Is Seeking Bars

O. C. Chris Pavich Played On All-Star Team Against Pros

It was a hot summer morning in Texas, and Private Chris Pavich, now an officer candidate in the 35th Company of the Third Student Training Regiment here in the Infantry School was sweating out a session of tough calisthenics at Camp Swift.

"Pavich," called his Company Commander—"have you ever played football?"

"Yes Sir," admiitted Pavich.

"You're going to play some more, announced the Captain. "We just received a wire stating that you are to report to New Haven, Connecticut to play with the Eastern All-Stars." A few hours later Chris Pavich was on his way to New Haven.

Just about a year before he had been reporting for football practice at Georgetown University.

In his Junior year, Pavich was selected All-Eastern End, and received numerous honorable mentions for All-American. A year later as a member of the All-Stars, he played against the New York Giants, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Chicago Bears.

Most of his team-mates were commissioned officers, but Private Pavich felt very much at home on the All-Star team. "They had some fine football players, and they were all great boys," he says.

Plays Giants

When, after a month training at New Haven, the All-Stars met the Giants at Boston Pavich found himself playing against Al Blozis, the World's Champion shot putter and his team-mates at Georgetown, the year before.

However, like most good things, the football schedule ended, and Pavich bid the East goodby and returned to Camp Swift, from where he came to Fort Benning and Officer Candidate School.

His greatest thrill in football? The day Georgetown, 5 to 1 underdogs, took on Mississippi and gave that Southern team a shellacking.

In that game Pavich stole the ball from All-American Merle Hapes of Mississippi and ran it 60 yards for the first touchdown of that upset game.

Indianapolis, Ind. (CNS)—State Treasury Department received a dollar bill from an unknown sender with the explanation that he got into the State Fair twice free for nuttin'. Didn't say how he didi it, though.

Engineers, 90th Recons Scent Flags

Can Clinch First Half Pennants With Wins This Week

The 55th Engineers and the 90th Recons have the first half championships of the Sand Hill and Cusseta Leagues sewed up if they can get by the next week without a defeat.

The Engineers doubled up the 54th Infantry Monday, 44 to 21, with Bell's 11 points high as nine of the Engineers scored. The victory kept the winners the only undefeated team in the Sand Hill circuit, and they have only to defeat the oft-besten 419th Field Artillery and 11th Armored Regiment to keep their slate clean.

The Recons have five straight victories with only Headquarters Company, a .500 club, standing in their way. The 150th Signal Company kept in the running Monday with a 30 to 16 win over Division Trains, their fourth victory in five starts. Their remaining game is with Supply Battalion.

M. B.'s NOSE OUT

The 419 Field Artillery bested Maintenance Battalion, 43 to 41 in the first overtime game in either circuit. Sullivan and Halstead pased the scoring for the winners with 16 and 12 points, respectively.

Headquarters Company proved better free throw shooters to beat the 80th Medics, 33 to 29. The winners made 12 of 18 free shots, while the Medics could only make 5 of 17.

507th Bows To Georgia Tech

Fort Benning's highly-touted 507th Parachute quintet failed to live up to expectations in its visit to Atlanta on Tuesday night, and bowed to a classy Georgia Tech team, 65-40.

The defeat gave the paratroopers an even split in their campaign against Southeastern Conference fives. They had previously defeated Auburn, and will take on Georgia's Bulldogs this Saturday night at 8:30 in their own gym in the Alabama area.

The chutists went into their game with Tech boasting a record of 13 wins in 14 games, and were favored to take the measure of the Jackets, but the college five turned on the steam and outclassed the soldier team. Frank Broyles, with 20 points, was high scorer for the winners, followed by Wes Paxon with 18 markers.

AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY
And Property Damage Rates Reduced
Plus our dividend saving, makes net cost exceptionally low. It will pay you to keep your insurance. We write all lines insurance at a saving to policy holders.
The Lawrence Murray Agency
112—12th Street Phone 2-3345

BAMA CLUB
NOW PRESENTING
Little JACKIE HELLER
SINGING STAR of RADIO and SCREEN
In Many Top Songs of "Your Hit Parade"
Also Acting As M. C.
BETTY BLACK, Singer
STAR OF RHYTHM
LEROY and His Swing King Of Marionettes
BOB ROBINSON And VIRGINIA MARTIN
SENSATIONAL DANCE TEAM
WALLY STOEFFLER
And His Orchestra
FOR YOUR DANCING
FINEST WESTERN STEAKS AND CHICKEN
Dancing from 8:30 til —
Just Across the Lower Bridge, First Building On the Right.
DIAL 3-1051
Admission:
Week Nites 50c
Saturday Nights $1.00

505's Jumping Sky-Pilot Built Better Ministerial Mousetrap

Lt. Wood No Eyebrow Archer; Has Full Confidence Of Flock

By Capt. Barney Oldfield

A parson with a parachute personality is Lt. George B. Wood of the 505th Parachute Infantry here.

First, the ecclesiastical guy is a man among men. When he get all 6-feet-1-inch of himself into the pulpit, backs it up with 180 pounds of solid muscle and bone, and leans verbally into his convictions, his Gospel carries weight.

Second, he's no eyrebrow archer. He recognizes parachutists as explosively and colorfully young. He dislikes a man who goes hush-hush and reverent in his presence, when he's not reverent around others. He didn't like people in civilian life who got religion on every seventh day, forgot it for the next six. He is never hurt by what he hears which may sound blasphemous and tinged with brimstone, because he thinks the man is the thing—not what he says.

OMNIPRESENT HUMOR

Third, nobody he's ever met has caught him with his sense of humor short, or without a laugh or smile. He is the living picture of a man who can believe in, and tote the cause of God without having it make of him one who is constantly horrified by every little infraction he may run across.

So having built what amounts to a better ministerial mousetrap, the paratroopers, who pride themselves on being hard guys, beat a path to his office. He takes them into his pine-boarded shack and listens to every kind of trouble which may plague a man—the woman he married, the girl he wants to marry, his financial plight, his mother who worries, and the endless parade of mental turmoil which only those who deal with soldiers know about.

In some outfits in the Army, any guy who is seen seeking out the chaplain is bracketed as one who is making a play for a soft berth, wants to get a job in his office, or has something afoot for which he's using that as a covering gesture.

That's not the case with Chaplain Wood.

SHARES HARDSHIPS

He went all the way to prove he's for brawn, for muscle, and for adventure. He wanted to share in everything the paratroopers did. He took his jump training, had the sprains, knows what opening shock can do to a man's anatomy, and he can sit on the bunk with any paratrooper and talk the language of his trade. He's not outsider, he's really in. As such, he rates a jump-booter's confidence about anything, and gets it.

He describes himself as a man who never liked to go to the circus without seeing the elephants, and he believes the paratroop side of the army will give him a chance to see very possible kind of action available to a man in war. He regards nothing as more deathly than to be held back out of action when his units goes forward—and when the time comes for that jump for record, his Colonel will probably have a tough time keeping him from being No. 1 on the first plane.

That's a man of God what is—to a paratrooper. He's one who is going to insist that he be on hand as a representative of the Almighty, come what may. If there is a place where the Angels fear to tread, he'll volunteer to investigate.

As one paratrooper puts it:

"I gotta lot of respect for that guy. He's begging for a chance to go along without a weapon of any kind. It takes a man who is on the beam to jump into combat with only a G. I. (government issue) Bible."

Magicians Mystify Armored Tankers In Two-Hour Show

The 11th Armored Recreation Hall is still echoing with applause given Gene and Jo of the USO, the magician team that really entertained the Tankers of the 11th Armored.

Some of the boys are still trying to learn their disappearing act and try it on their first sergeant when he's looking for a detail.

In this act Gene has himself tied in a sack and bound in a box and the lid locked with padlocks by members of the audience. Before onlookers could say "Jack Rabbit" he was out and his charming partner Jo found in his place.

There was never a dull moment in the full two-hour show. Supporting this fine program was the new 11th Armored Regiment Dance Orchestra which not only supplied the music but put on a show themselves featuring T-4 Jack Plaxsun, the "strip-tease artist," T-5 Al Sakol, T-5 Sidney Wall, Pfc. Norbert Westrich and Pvt. Lloyd (Tiny) Sowers.

The newly-organized dance orchestra led by Sgt. Joe Sorci stole the whole show with their fine special arrangements as penned by Pvt. Merle Severy who arranged for many well-known New York bands.

This show went over so well that Captain Carlson, 11th A. R. Recreation Officer, plans to bring in more of this entertainment and the boys in the band are gathering more material and rehearsing a new show.

Next Time It'll Be Nipponese Ship's Funnel

A mortar crew from the 16th company, Second Student Training Regiment, is glad the "enemy air forces," cub-bombers, uses flour for explosives.

Last week, while participating in an Infantry School problem, one of these low-flying midgets spotted an 81 mortar emplacement, manned by members of the 16th company. The "bombardier," taking hasty aim, dropped his death charge."

The sack of flour dropped true to the mark, grazed the rim of the target, and sank slowly into the mortar barrel.

Breaker Officers, Men Have High Insurance Record

With 99 per cent of the officers and 98.07 per cent of the men carrying National Service life insurance, the 117th Infantry "Breakers" are making an outstanding record in the current drive to insure all soldiers before they reach "the gangplank", according to John W. Inzer, post insurance officer.

"Other groups may have as good, and it is possible that one may have better averages," said Lt. Inzer. "The Post report is not complete. However, the 117th has certainly given every unit at Benning something to shoot at", he added. "They haven't reached 100 per cent just for the reason that some men do not have anyone to name as beneficiary".

There as been a steady increase in the number of policies applied for during the last three months, and Fort Benning should rank very high nationally in this drive to insure every man who goes into combat, he said.

However, all organization insurance officers are urged to continue their efforts in the drive, and to urge their men to take out the full $10,000, the largest amount offered.

'Gators Give 6,000 Dimes

To President's Polio Drive

Almost six hundred dollars were collected by the 124th Infantry as their contribution to President Roosevelt's March of Dimes to aid the victims of infantile paralysis.

This total represents the money collected from the First Battalion Wishing Well, the March the Arch box in front of the canteen, the officers' dance last Saturday night and the contributions of all individual companies during payday last Monday. The entire sum has already been mailed to President Roosevelt.

The 124th Infantry feels confident that their donation represents the largest contribution to the March of Dimes of any individual regiment in the United States Armyy.

Many novelties and appeals were instituted by the Gator Regiment in their drive to aid the polio sufferers. The famous First Battalion Wishing Well was transformed into a fountain of healing by turning over its wish-money to the Dime March.

MARCH THE ARCH

The Gators marched the arch in front of the canteen to the tune of $70.18. The arch was so constructed that before a man could walk into the canteen he had to cross it. A sign on the PX appealed to Gators to drop their dimes in a box beneath the arch, which many did.

The officers cavorted and donated in the Gator Hole on Saturday night, and between dances rang the bell for a grand total of $151.20 to help some child victim of the dread disease walk again.

As a grand finale on Monday, when the eagle spewed forth his lucre at the pay tables in the individual orderly rooms, the men of the Gator Regiment again came forth to show the world that they are on the ball by feeding the kitty with their payday change and marking up a sum total of $379.41 when the boxes were opened.

MULLINS
School of Music
Lessons On All Instruments
We furnish guitars and violins FREE with instructions.
1020 Talbotton Ave.
In Royal Theatre Tel. 6352

THE FIRST WAAC to be assigned to Fort Benning—in an entirely unofficial capacity, however—is the female mascot of the 283 Quartermaster Refrigeration Company. In case "Waac" strays off, her identity can be learned by the "dog tag" she wears habitually. Shown above, "Waac" is conferring with the commanding officer of the Refrigeration Company, Lt. Wayne R. Fayden. (Signal Lab Photo by Stock)

Thru—

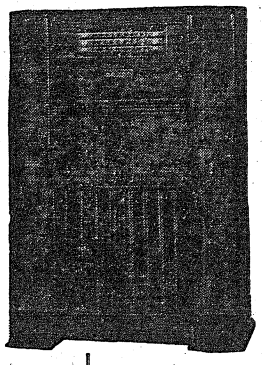
(Continued From Page 1)

M. Jeffers, rubber administrator, that the Army would like to have the Government requisition about 7,000,000 automobiles and take over all spare tires on passenger cars, as well as to ban all long-distance hauling of freight and passengers by truck or bus. Jeffers, however, reports a great deal of difference existing over how to handle the entire rubber situation and the whole thing seems to be pretty cloudy.

WHILE PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT flew to Brazil following Casablanca, it now is revealed that Prime Minister Churchill went on to Turkey for conference there, and British news dispatches quote the Minister as happy about the whole thing. It seems clear that the United Nations are endeavoring now to ring Germany about and are strengthening ties and bonds with countries where previously Germany exerted tremendous influences. Thus the politicos are waging an unseen but nevertheless important phase of the war.

IN THE ATLANTIC, renewed vigor of Axis submarine attacks heralds another drive by the undersea menace to cut American supply lines to Europe.

CLASSIFIED



EXPERT ALTERATIONS FOR Ladies and men. Room 212 3rd Nat. Bank. Mrs. C. E. Mize, Mrs. S. O. Dees.

MAY AND MASON DANCE STUDIO: Ballroom, Tap, and Jitterbug. Private classes. Day and night classes. 802 Broadway. Dial 2-4469.

TO . . .
Company Commanders
SPECIAL SERVICE
Field Jackets for the Entire Company can be Cleaned, Pressed and Returned . . .
WITHIN 24 HOURS
PHONE CITY 2-1641
COLUMBUS CLEANERS & TAILORS
500 10TH AVE., COLUMBUS, GA.

Continuing Our Sensational
RADIO TRADE-IN SALE

Through a lucky factory-purchase we were unexpectedly allotted 27 more of these beautiful radios and combinations—and they are available in six different styles! No more are being manufactured—so we advise early buying if you want to own one of these new models with unexcelled performance! Act quickly! Terms may be arranged!

Save AS MUCH AS $24.75

on
The Purchase of a Brand-New
GENERAL ELECTRIC
CONSOLE or RADIO-PHONOGRAPH COMBINATION
FULL VALUE ALLOWED
On Your TABLE MODEL RADIO (1940 Model or Later)
If the Original Price Did Not Exceed $24.75

BUY WAR BONDS and STAMPS TODAY ★

FIRESTONE STORES
13th St. and First Ave. Dial 3-3606
STORE HOURS DAILY 8 A. M. TO 7 P. M.

That Extra Something!
. . . You can spot it every time

Thirst goes "on leave" and refreshment comes on the job, when you connect with a Coke. There's life, sparkle and energy in its refreshing goodness.

THOSE in the Navy's W. A. V. E. S. do a double service. In serving on their own, they also release a trained man for war duty. In its own way, you've found that ice-cold Coca-Cola does a double service, too. It quenches thirst, yes. But it does more. It brings an after-sense of complete refreshment.

A drink has to be good to be the best-liked soft drink on earth. Coca-Cola started out being good and keeps on being good. Choicest ingredients and the finished art of 57 years of "know-how" set Coca-Cola apart in quality. A very special blend of flavors gives it a taste all its own. The only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself.

* * *

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing . . . the real thing . . . "coming from a single source, and well known to the community".

In order that those in the Service of Uncle Sam can continue to enjoy Coca-Cola, every effort is made by bottlers to supply them with Coca-Cola sufficient for their needs.

Coca-Cola 5¢
The best is always the better buy!

With ice-cold Coca-Cola you can turn to refreshment without turning from work. It's the pause that refreshes on the job.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Newton D. Baker Village Reporter

BY MRS. DOROTHY TROUTMAN

Phone 6333 - 9604

Friends of Mildred Waller are glad to know that she is improving after an emergency operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. James Mauck, 84C, left Monday for a visit with her family in Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. R. M. Turrell of 14 Keating Avenue has as a visitor this week her sister, Mrs. Edward Ackerman, of Cincinnati, O.

Mrs. J. O. Lahaye, of Port Arthur, Tex., is visiting her son and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. B. N. Young, 18 Keating Ave.

Mrs. James Bradford, 120 Clifton, visited her mother in Baltimore, Md., recently.

The Junior Baptist Training Union enjoyed a social led by Mrs. C. L. Edmunds, at her home, 51-H, Saturday.

Sgt. C. O. Farris and Mr. C. A. Poole have been named as co-chairmen of a committee to build a Baptistry in the new Benning Park Baptist church.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Bassett will regret to learn that they have recently left the community to live in Mobile, Ala., where Mr. Bassett will be engaged in work at the shipyard there.

Mr. V. L. Bassett is succeeded by Mrs. Walter Powell, 90C, as Training Union Director of the local Baptist church.

The Dorcas Class of the Baptist Sunday school will meet Thursday at 8:00 o'clock with Mrs. J. J. Villademoros, No. 2 Clifton Ave.

It will be of interest to the people of the community to learn that Mrs. Alice Cotton, librarian, is leaving. The many friends that Mrs. Cotton has made here will miss her, and regret to see her leave.

Anyone having library books out is asked to return them as early as possible.

Many of the local Baptist are planning to attend the Associational one-day conference, which is being held at Beallwood Baptist church, Friday, February 5. Mrs. L. D. Troutman, 13 Roper, Young Peoples Leader of the Association, will lead the Young People's conference at 7:30 p. m.

PARTIES

The local Methodist church is observing Fun Night Friday night, Feb. 12, at 8 o'clock. The church family and friends will gather in the auditorium for an evening of fun and laughter. There will be games and entertainment for adults and children, the children using another room for their fun.

Everyone is welcome. This will be a good chance to get acquainted with the people near you.

The regular game party will be given this week, Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock, in the auditorium. The recreation committee announces that a large door prize is awaiting a lucky person. Come and enjoy a few hours of entertainment.

The book review given last week by Rabbi Waller was very interesting. The continuous rain kept many people away, but the large number who attended was held spellbound as the adventures of Bernadette were related from The Song of Bernadette. After the review a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostesses of the Mothers' club, Mrs. John Ross, Mrs. Ellen Boyle, Mrs. Mayfield, Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Alcorn, and the members of the recreation committee, Mrs. Lester Hays, Mrs. Lamar Ashe and Mrs. L. D. Troutman.

Little Howard Ralls celebrated his birthday last Friday with a birthday party given by his mother. The members of Howard's class in Nursery school and his teacher, Mrs. Minnie Trapp, enjoyed games and fun which was followed by ice cream and birthday cake. The table was attractively decorated in pink and green, with the same colored decoration on the cake.

NEW-COMERS

The following are welcomed to the village:

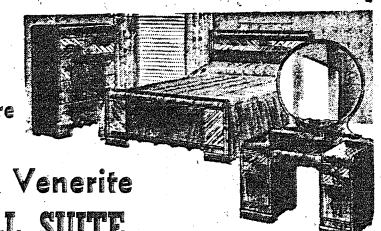
St. Sgt. and Mrs. Bernard Burnett, 6; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Bernard Brokman, 58 B; St. Sgt and Mrs. Ordis F. Hemphill, 31 B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Fred J. Cooper, 108 B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Thomas T. Gaymore, 87 H; Lt. and Mrs. John Gold, 2 Fox; St. Sgt. and Ralph F. Curtis, 94 S.

Plane to see...

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

ROYAL CROWN COLA

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



is Best by Taste-Test!

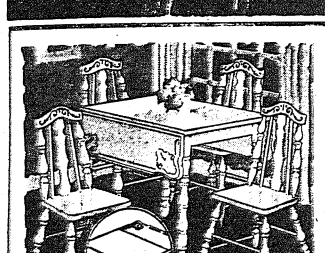
Sears February FURNITURE and RUG Sale..Now in Progress

SPOTLIGHT Specials

We throw the spotlight on this sensational value because it brings you extra savings! Months ago we ordered these stunning modern suites . . . to be able to offer you these savings today!

Special for February Furniture and Rug Sale

Rich Walnut Venerite WATERFALL SUITE



Compare at 81.95!

66.95

Bed, Chest and Vanity

Every line, every detail of this smart suite shouts that it's worth much, much more than 66.95! Beautifully matched grains . . . flawless plate glass mirrors . . . sound, enduring Honor-Bilt construction! And yet priced so low that it's hard to believe! Bring its stunning modern beauty to your home . . . and at a great savings!

© Purchased on Easy Terms. Small deposit plus Carrying Charges.

A Thrilling Buy!

5-pc. Breakfast Set

15.88

Regularly Priced 16.95!

Just think! Sturdy hardwood set with washable white enamel finish, at this amazing price! Drop-leaf tabe can seat six! Four Windsor chairs! Decide to save now!

© Easy Terms. Deposit plus Carrying Charge.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.

1225 BROADWAY 2ND FLOOR DIAL 3-4351

Camera Club To Hear Ace Photographer

Pvt. Dial of 161st Signal Photo Unit Was Portrait Expert

Pvt. Carl Dial, noted Hollywood and New York photographer, now with the 161st Signal Photo company at Fort Benning, will deliver a special lecture and chalk talk on "Portraiture That Counts." He will speak before amateur and professional camera men of the Camera class at the USO Club, 100 Ninth street, Thursday, Feb. 4, at 8:30 p. m. in Club Room No. 3.

Pvt. Dial for years has had the task of glamorizing the glamour girls of the movies as portrait expert for Paramount, United Artists, and R. K. O. studios. He found that bringing out the charms of the stars in "still" pictures required different methods than those used for motion picture work.

Dial developed the "Dial System" of portraiture control, a coordination of lens magic which employed make-up, light arrangement, skillful posing, and chemical treatment of the prints to achieve the precise effect desired.

ATTRACTS ATTENTION

As Dial perfected this method, the system attracted wide attention in the photographic world leading salons as well as in the theater lobbies and on the amusement pages of newspapers and magazines.

Although difficult conditions required him to develop new methods, Dial regidly insisted that simplicity of operation must be retained. He asserts that any competent amateur is capable of applying his system with simple materials and brief instructions.

For his lectures here, Dial will employ a handful of inexpensive materials, a finished print, and what he guarantees to be a veritable beautiful model.

All soldiers and civilians interested in photography are cordially invited to attend this program.

Post-

(Continued From Page 1)

than his wife. The same problem will hold true for the wife who works at Fort Benning and whose husband works in Columbus.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce was first to pass a resolution urging that the city remain on Eastern wartime to cooperate with Fort Benning.

The Columbus Ledger and Station WRBL have both expressed the hope that the city keep its present time.

MERCHANTS STAND-PATTERS

The Columbus Merchants association unanimously adopted a resolution Tuesday morning asking that the time remain the same for the city as for the post, but on Tuesday noon by a narrow vote the Kiwanis club approved putting the city on Central Wartime.

Meanwhile, Columbus civic clubs had their first chance this week to voice their disapproval of any change in the city's clocks. By noon Wednesday the Business and Professional Women's Club, the Pilots, and the Lions Club had expressed themselves as willing to maintain the status quo, which means, according to the venerable colored preacher, "the Latin words for the' mess we's in." Other clubs were expected to follow suit.

"Confusion worse confounded" was the general concensus of persons on the post after thinking about their problems of living under two time systems.

The problem dropped into existence last Thursday when the state legislature with little warning placed the whole of Georgia in the Central time zone. The Columbus city commission on special call from Mayor W. A. Bridges met Thursday and after considering the special problem facing the city with the vast personnel of Fort Benning in its midst, voted, upon the motion of Commissioner Jesse Binns, to postpone action until Feb. 9.

Benning-

(Continued From Page 1)

has played comic leads in many Shubert shows.

The rest of the cast consists of the Three Reddingtons, a comedy acrobatic trampoline act; Loy and Martha Read, song sisters, and 16 Gae Foster chorus girls.

Army Wife Shops in Columbus

By EVE

From now on for the next few months newcomers will find out why they sing songs about "Dixie." Daffodils, flowering shrubs and the exotic tulip tree are blooming in profusion. It's been a moot question in my mind whether it's the southerners great love for flowers or the luxurious profusion in which they bloom that makes spring here something rather wonderful. Whatever it is, there's no greater tonic to make ourselves and our households just as gay as the outdoors. Shopping becomes the order of the day.

— — V — —

There are going to be a lot of gals in the Officer's Club on February 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 to see the selection of fine clothing SAKS FIFTH AVENUE STORE will have on display. We've long envied the displays miltary tailors have had in the club for our menfolks. Now it's our turn. Their New York staff will be on hand to assist you and attend to needed alterations. Your order will be filled promptly and mailed to your Fort Benning or Columbus address. They're going to have a selection for debutantes. There will be sports and casual wear as well as glamorous evening and dinner dresses. They're going to have shoes too. If you don't know about Sak's Fifth Avenue shoes you've a shopping treat in store for you. They specialize in unusual and clever designs, the sort folks say, "Oh, what beautiful shoes you have on. Where did you get them?" Toddlers can be outfitted too from a fine stock of spring children's wear. You've wanted things with the Sak's label. Here's your chance. There'll be a showing in the Ralston hotel on February 13.

— — V — —

Valentine's Day is not much more than a week off, and if you haven't done something about a gift for your heart interest, you'd best get busy. KIRVEN'S have an attractive choice for this knd of gift. You'll find something handsome if you're looking for jewelry. They have some bracelets, heavy and oriental looking studded with coral, turquoise and carnelian in filagree gold. Gorgeous these would be for party wear, be it day time or evening. Then there's some slim gold compacts with restrained etched design at the same counter. If your lady likes "nice" things you'd endear yourself to her by buying one of those Koret bags in smooth calf. They're extra special you know. Maybe she isn't the kind that worries about the unmentionable social difficulty brought on by not buying a certain brand of soap. In that case she'd like a box of wonderfully perfumed and sumptuous Wrisley soap. The fat, satiny bars are festive looking and desirable as a gift.

— — V — —

MILLER - TAYLOR SHOE STORE continues to receive smart new spring footwear in choices to tempt every taste and whim. If you're wearing navy blue this year, they have some lovely navy gabardines, both in walking and dress models. A smooth calf skin in navy with a walking heel and smart vamp tongue is designed for tailored clothes. The Tramp-along patched genuine alligator has proven a popular number. It comes in red, toast, green, blue and brown. The patches of leather are joined in squares and stitched with a broad outline trim. They come in open back, walking heel and oxford tie. The new Penaljo spectator pump with a wedge heel and punched toe in tan calf is a trim and wearable model for casual and sportswear. Smart enough for print dresses too.

— — V — —

If you've been looking for wool hose, you'll be happy to know that CHANCELLOR'S have received a wonderful assortment of imported and domestic hose for men. There's the popular Interwoven line that has won approval from many men for the long months of service they give. The Haer Hose for men are imported from Scotland and are made of 100% fine alpaca wool. The McClure hose are also imported from Scotland, and made of Australian and camels hair. These all come in regulation colors to be worn with uniforms. They also have a new shipment of the English Argyle handblocked and handmade hose in an assortment of beautiful colors. Elegant bits of haberdashery and a wonderful gift idea they are for him for Valentine's Day. Another new arrival is the Zelan weather-proof jacket. It was designed and perfected by Admiral Byrd for use on his junkets to the North and South Pole. They come in light colors for the golf course or regulation O. D. for service wear. Nice things to have these rawrainy days. Chancellor's is one of the few stores in town that still have electric clocks. If you need one, don't delay your shopping trip for this item.

— — V — —

If you are one of the numerous women who have been looking for those hard to find suits of fine woolens you'll be glad to know I found a wonderful selection at KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, INC. Mr. Lilienthal has just returned from New York and I have a suspicion he bribed, begged and borrowed to have a stock like this for us to choose from. There's a wonderful assortment of the superb Mangone suit in cool greys, smart blacks and a dressy black silk faille. Then there are the popular Glenn plaids in spring tones, soft spring colors in pastel plaids. There's a blue suit in every shade from the palest hue, aqua, dusty blue to navy. There is in fact much navy blue in gabardine and black in that material too, for the trim tailleur we adore wearing with frothy lingerie blouses. There are some that have box coats in materials matching the suits to make a stunning and wearable three piece outfit. If I estimate the demand and popularity of the suit season, even this wide choice won't be available long. Best do your shopping while the choice is generous.

— — V — —

Did you buy some of those rosebushes J. J. NEWBERRY CO. have been practically giving away? If you haven't you'd best take advantage of this bargain. While you're in the store you'll see the wonderful line of Valentines they have. You'll also be impressed with the attractive trinkets you can find to put beside the breafast plate on Valentine's morning. I wish someone would give me that compact set of Cutex polish and remover set. Wouldn't mind a gay corsage of bright cherries. They always zip up an outfit. There are white and purple violets too as well as other bright lapel or hair corsages. A wealth of decorative ideas came to my mind when I discovered the attractive Trimz, which comes in a roll of beautifully decorated panelling to put on walls, furniture and any number of dull spots in the house. The designs and colors are beautifully done in soft crayon-like colors. These are truly decorator's items and possibilities limited only by one's imagination. One merely dips the panelling in water and sticks them where they are wanted.

— — V — —

The amount of sweaters one can use is unlimited in these days of suits. For that reason a shipment of all wool sweaters in the newest spring shades is news. THE PARTICIA GOWN SHOP on the third floor of the Ralston Hotel has a color to match any and all suits. They're wonderfully soft and luxurious. Patricia also has some of those smart berets featured in Vogue in pastel colors, white and black. They have pins with padded triangles of felt to hold the beret securely on the head. The sophisticated touch of these hats make them wearable for both dressy occasions and sport wear. The addition of a veil glamorizes them no end. There's a wonderful selection of toppers for spring. They come in the popular camel's hair color and pastel shades. They're all wool too and look equilly well matched with your spring suit or worn as a contrast.

— — V — —

Family group pictures used to be album mirth provokers. The pictures were never very good for the photographer knew few tricks those days of relaxing their posers. A photographer with these abilities aren't found on every bush today either. AIME DUPONT PHOTOGRAPHERS on Broadway can give you something very fine in this kind of work. Maybe we're sentimental these days, and if we are, the reason is plain. The quiet, heretofore taken for granted things are threatened. A portrait of a family together during the war months is a visible joy to all who see it. More than that, it's precious to the relatives who haven't seen them for many months. For oneself, it will always be a treasured possession. You'll look at it years hence and say, "Sally and Jimmy, this is the way we looked during the last war. Do you remember Fort Benning?" Mother's Day is a while off yet, but this idea of a family photograph is something to think of for that special day.

— — V — —

Those women who can summon the greatest capabilities will be the fortunate ones in the months to come. Ready made clothes become increasingly hard to find. It is not impossible that the choice will be so limited due to war conversion of factories that the woman who makes her own clothes will be looked upon as a fortunate person. The SINGER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY has long been known for their services in sewing aids and instruction. We have all seen the ads in national magazines, and are familiar with the Singer Form that has revolutionized home dressmaking. The Columbus Singer Sewing Machine Company are having preseason special offer on these forms which will be available until February 13. They are made of thermoplastic and are molded to the body over a garment in 30 minutes. The completed form is available in a week. The special offer includes three lessons in the use of the form and a special rate on the regular Singer Sewing lessons. As an investment this offer has an appeal for the amateur as well as the more experienced seamstress.

— — V — —

The KIDDIE SHOPPE at 1144 Broadway is a fascinating store. Whether one has a tiny tot or not, the temptation will be great to purchase one of the infinitesimal garments for some small relative or neighbor. The atmosphere of an attractively decorated nursery or pre-school is reflected in the cool order and soft colored decorations of the store. The new spring merchandise indicates we'll be seeing some adorable children the next few months. The tiny chintz pinafores are party-like in their bright designs and glistening sheen. Tiny suits for girls in flannel and in gabardine are miniature replicas of grown up fashion trends. Light weight spring coats for girls come in a choice of such luscious ice cream colors one will have a difficult time choosing the shade they like the best. The Kiddie Shoppe hasn't overlooked the Junior Miss either. One look at the new spring things for a pretty miss and Daddy will find it hard to refuse her cajolery.

— — V — —

The word Eisenburg is highly respected in fashion circles. The skillful designs and careful workmanship are from the hands of master craftsmen. SEALEY'S on Broadway has just received another supply of Eisenburg Ice costume jewelry. They're set in sterling silver and deserve consideration as permanent collections in your jewel case. The simplest dress or suit becomes a distinguished garment when it is high lighted with one of these handsome clips or pins. Sealys also have some dark sheers by Eisenburg frosted with exquisite lingerie touches. The elegance of these dresses make them one's favorite for first choice wear season after season. This shop has also received a supply of the Eisenburg perfume that's become a favorite with women these past years. Haunting fragrance of a fine perfume is a bewitching method of achieving femininity. You can get lip sticks too with this famous label.

— — V — —

If Valentines bring you memories of paper lace, ribbon, violets and sweet sentiment you'll find a choice of this kind as well as the more modern and sophisticated type at WHITE'S BOOK STORE. If you're looking for a valentine gift, what better choice for man, woman or child than a book. White's Book Store has an outstanding stock of the latest popular fiction, as well as important reference books and old favorites. An outstanding assortment of reference books have been put on the market this year and should find a popular appeal for a permanent place in any library. Another gift suggestion found in this store is the very fine social stationery they carry. I can't think of anything nicer than a box of writing paper of the rich and impeccably correct type. But then, you'll find a wealth of gift ideas in this attractive stationery store and enjoy your shopping moments in the bargain.

— — V — —

I delight in telling you of a firm that specializes in services. One of the chief difficulties of a change of station has always been wondering where one might find the shops equipped to take care of our needs. When the service is a vital one such as repairing toasters, waffle irons, percolators and varied electric equipment, I feel I have given you a real shopping tip. The LEVY-MORTON ELECTRIC CONTRACTORS, located at 1028 13th Street, are equipped through their established business integrity of serving Columbus for thirty years, to put your precious electric equipment in first class working order. This is no small item this day and age. They also have material to convert a favorite vase or bottle into a stunning lamp. This type of personalized decoration for the home has been a beloved idea of decorators and women with clever schemes for the unusual touch in their home. Hunt up that piece you've been saving for lamp conversion and enjoy it now during these days of shortages of household decorations.

— — V — —

The CLASSY CLOTHES SHOP on Broadway takes pride in their new stock of cravanette trench coats. They come lined and unlined and are a favorite garment with our men folks as you well know. They also carry the famous Fownes glove. This firm boasts a continuous manufacture of fine gloves since 1776. If proof were needed of the integrity of their gloves the date alone is impressive. The Classy Clothes Shop carries only men's gloves with this label. They also have a complete line of Val-a-pak luggage familiar to all of us for the amount of things that can be packed in this flexible and handy type of luggage. You'll find the Roblee military shoes in fine calfskin that polishes to mirror like gleam as well as jodhpurs that are so often used for dress wear. Green and pink dress shirts by Esquire in 100 per cent wool is another item of military interest.

— — V — —

LANE'S DRUG STORE is well stocked with a supply of fine candy for Valentine's Day. Their generous assortment includes Whitman's, Nunnally's and Norris Candies. As a special service Lane Drug Store is equipped to pack and mail the candy for you. Candy is the gift of gifts that never fails to be appreciated. When you can get it off in the mail in this simple manner it's an attractive gift suggestion. Never before have we needed perfect health and reserve vitality as we do today. The pressing demands of war time living are a strain on men and women alike. The proved efficiency of vitamin tablets in helping us attain maximum health makes the new supply of vitamin tablets received in this drug store of interest. The clerks at the drug counter are fully informed on the various types and will be found to be extremely helpful. When the shopping day wearies you a bit you might stop in Lane's for a pick-up snack. Meet your friends there for lunch. It's centrally located and mighty handy.

— — V — —

H. ROTHSCHILD, INC., at 1229-31 Broadway have just received a shipment of baby beds. With the present day trend of blessed events baby's needs are sometimes difficult to secure. They are the panel type with drop side and come in ivory and maple with fetching nursery pictures in gal colors. They have mattresses too for the beds. Young mothers will feel a patriotic emotion in purchasing them for they're called "Victory Beds" and conform to war time regulations. They're so new and in keeping with the times even those who are not contemplating an immediate need for a baby bed will be interested in seeing them. Mr. Rothschild invites you to look at them. While you are in the store look at the fine furniture and furnishings they have. It's always fun looking at furniture, don't you think?

— — V — —

Fort Benning has long depended upon MITCHELL'S 1204 Broadway for fine out-of-season fruits and unusual confectionary treats. Their baskets and trays of luscious fruits wrapped in glittering cellophane and tied with satin ribbons are handsome gifts for friends on Valentines Day. In fact, I'd call it a downright exciting gift it's so sumptuous and important looking. Mitchell's have a fine assortment of Valentines too, as well as those old fashioned candy hearts we used to trade back and forth the table with our best beau. Mitchell's has a charm for the business is really plural in the sense that the entire family contributes their talent and nimble fingers in creating fascinating novelties for the store. Mrs. Mitchell and her daughter create those unusual dolls army women collect in their travels. There's the Anna Kate Mammy dolls. Red Cross nurses and dolls fashioned with pecan heads. If you know a doll collector you'll make her happy with a gift like this for her collection. They have pecans in bags ready for mailing, an appreciated gift for friends in states where pecans are a rare treat.

— — V — —

Mr. Herman Abdala of the TINY TOT SHOP wants his customers to know he hasn't any safety pins for sale. He has, however, a supply of these rare items of security as a gift for the purchasers of layettes in his shop. The very fact that he has layettes for sale is a news item and when it's coupled with a gift of a card of safety pins, it's well nigh sensational. He's also put his boys' and girls' wool legging suits on sale to make room for the spring merchandise that is arriving daily. Estimate the size your youngster will be next year and take advantage of the sale. Wool garments will probably be as scarce as safety pins are now. The telephone number of this shop is 2-2492 and located at 1217 Broadway.

— V — —

BENTLEY'S SPORT SHOP at 1305 Broadway call their merchandise "morale equipment." That's a descriptive phrase and an important one in spite of the fact that our newspapers no longer find the word morale an important subject. The relaxation and physical well-being derived from sports and hobbies are more important to the individual army family than ever before. Bentley's Sport Shop is the largest athletic store in the south and has supplied Fort Benning with sporting needs for thirteen years. They have every manner of sporting equipment whether it's shoes for the game or hunting and fishing equipment. Their stock of wheel goods is impressive for these days. They also have bicycle parts if your faithful wartime transportation needs replacement. Archery sets have been changed give them flexibility as to use. Arrows are plastic tipped for safety. They have proved so safe one could even shoot an arrow in the air" in one's own home and most certainly engage in a spirited match in one's yard.

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 1, NUMBER 22 | Published By The Ledger-Enquirer Co. | FT. BENNING BAYONET, FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1943 | For America's Most Complete Post | PRICE FIVE CENTS

Thru The Peepsight

G. I. Summary Of World News

BY SGT. O. J. REMINGTON

REMINISCENT OF THE thrilling days of the late summer and fall of 1918 when American troops turned the tide of the last great German offensive and broke the Hindenburg Line are the stirring events now taking place in the Caucasus, with Russian armies smashing ahead to encircle and annihilate regiment after regiment, division after division, even army after army, of the Nazis.

That history will repeat itself, however, and that Germany may collapse internally as a result of the terrific defeats being handed to the Nazi troops and as a result of internal disorders and starvation, is a bit too much to expect.

But it could happen. We don't know any too much about what actually is happening inside Germany and her satellite states and conquered territory. Because Hitler did not make the speech in Berlin on the Tenth anniversary of his rise to power there are rumors floating through all of Europe that he is dead. This smells very much like a German-originated rumor so that it will be all the more electrifying when Hitler steps again before a mike to rant and rave in his inimitable style—the Nazis probably waiting for some auspicious occasion such as the start of a spring offensive or some victory. Which of course everybody in the United Nations sincerely hopes will never again come to Nazi arms.

Most authorities seem agreed that the Nazis CAN stage another offensive in the spring, which means that any premature hopes of a really crushing defeat of the Germans by the Russians aren't to be too highly considered.

Red armies are pushing forward. However, and the threatened fall of Rostov into the Russian hands would certainly seem to indicate that their present winter offensive is netting them more results than that of last winter.

THE UNSEEN BATTLE of diplomacy still continues through Europe. Churchill has returned from a tour of North Africa and the Middle East in what is described as "high spirits and glowing with health." No doubt he will have some important things to say in Parliament or in some other form of public address before long. It would appear that he has accomplished a great deal with Turkey and other wavering factions. If Germany cannot walk through Turkey in order to attack the Suez canal, North Africa can certainly be held much more easily.

The British are highly elated over Mussolini displacing his son-in-law, Count Ciano, as Foreign Minister for Italy. Political observers believe it is a sign of Mussolini's growing desperation. If things continue going from bad to worse for Italy—do not be surprised to hear before too much longer of peace overtures of some sort. Possibly through the good offices of the Pope.

IN THE FAR EAST, another big sea battle appears to be brewing or else actually taking place. Probably there will be no actual new announcements on this until it is all over. U. S. Army forces continue battling the Nips on Guadalcanal and other nearby islands.

In Africa, the American and British troops are confronted with terrifically strong resistance in Tunisia. To crush this bastion of Nazi and Fascist held territory is going to be plenty tough and mighty costly. But it will hammering away at the Tunisian lines continues heavily.

Placing of General Eisenhower in complete command of the North African theater of war assures that . . . The move doubt-

See THRU, Page 10

Post Conservation Goes On Unabated

Officials Offer Lengthy List To Prove Point

A score of conservation projects, including everything "from soup to nuts" and from the straightening of bent nails to the substitution of sound effects in simulated battle to conserve ammunition, mark the campaign at Fort Benning to save vital war materials.

Since last April to date, salvage authorities at the post have collected and sent on the way to the mills, more than 3,800 tons of scrap metals which in the several digits amounts to 7,647,028 pounds. Market value for this vast amount of vital metal is $70,930.16.

Fort Benning's intensive conservation and salvage drive continues, unabated, Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the post, declared today. He said that every effort is being made to unearth every bit of aluminum, brass, iron, steel and other metals which may be serving no useful purpose at the Army training center.

But the collection of scrap metals is only one phase of the extensive conservation program at the post. Other equally important aspects of the drive at Fort Benning include:

ENUMERATES SAVINGS

1. The resurrection of a horse and buggy to replace an Army sedan at Post Headquarters, having rubber, oil, and gasoline.

2. The use of several motorcycles at headquarters, also replacing passenger sedans.

3. The scrapping of antiquated tanks, guns, and other metal ornaments.

4. The staging of a "scrap dance," admission for which included any old rags or scrap metal.

5. The designation of a civilian employee by the Post Engineer to "watch the moon" every night. When the moon shines bright, he orders the power plant to shut the street lights off.

6. The assignment of company carpenters to straighten bent ntils which may be used again.

7. The elimination of many "Stop" signs at road intersections on the post, replacing them with "Caution" signs. This, it is pointed out, saves wear and tear on tires and also saves gasoline.

BENNING A LEADER

While Fort Benning rates as one of the largest Army posts, it is also one of the leaders among Army camps in conservation projects.

The collection of garbage from mess halls and quarters of officers on the post has decreased, per capita, indicating that cooks are being more careful in the preparation of meals and in making use of their leftovers.

Over a seven month period, the salvage drive has netted 529,365.67 solely from the sale of

See POST, Page 3

Col. Davidson Takes Command Of Breakers

Was Eisenhower's Classmate At U. S. Military Academy

Colonel Lewis C. Davidson, a classmate of Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower at West Point, has arrived at Fort Benning to assume command of the 117th Infantry succeeding Colonel Grant A. Schleiker, who has been assigned to another command.

Heading the 117th Infantry, one of the Infantry School's demonstration regiments, Colonel Davidson takes over command of a unit of the 30th Division, which is similarly commanded by a former West Point classmate, Maj. Gen. Leland S. Hobbs.

Colonel Davidson graduated from the military academy in 1915. He has long been an Army officer, serving in units throughout the United States as well as in Panama.

When he arrived at Benning today, he was greeted by the troops of the unit as well as by two old-time master sergeants of the unit, which is a former National Guard regiment. Master Sergeant George C. Broadwell, a veteran of 14 years with the regiment, and Master Sergeant Lester E. Martin, a veteran of seven years, met their new commanding officer.

Colonel Davidson became a temporary major in 1918, and, after the war, assumed a permanent rank of captain in 1919. He

See COL., Page 3

10th Armored Insurance Hits High Average

Tiger Policies Now Total Close To Ten Million Mark

Declaring that the drive to provide officers and enlisted men of the 10th Armored Division with government life insurance will continue "until the saturation point is reached," 1st Lt. Charles A. Gilmore, Jr., division life insurance officer, today released figures showing that 82 per cent of the division personnel is now insured for amounts totaling $92,017,000.

The average policy is $6829.23, Lt. Gilmore announced, and 11,974 men in the division now hold policies with benefit provisions in excess of $5000. There are 2995 men who carry no insurance, he said.

Leading all other units in the division in the percentage of personnel insured is the 80th Armored Medical Battalion, with 95 per cent. Next is the 420th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, with 92 per cent, and the 90th Reconnaissance Battalion is third with 91 per cent.

OFFICER PERCENTAGE

At the top of the list in the officers' campaign is Division Headquarters with a record of 94 per cent. The average policy held by these officers is $942.60, Lt. Gilmore said.

Urging all those who have not done so to take out insurance now, the division insurance officer pointed out that physical examinations will be required of applicants after three months in the service and noted that many of the newer men in the division will terminate this period of service shortly.

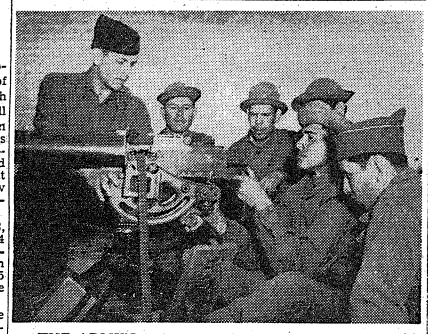
54TH ENGINEERS

Every unit in the division has passed the $1,000,000 benefit mark and the largest individual total is $16,325,000, the record of the 54th Armored Infantry. Close behind is the 11th Armored Regiment, with a total of $15,749,000.

In order of percentage of per-

See 10TH, Page 3

Nasty Nazis Nab Name



"Well, I'll be darned! Can you beat that!"

That's the comment 10th Armored Tigers made when they read this week that the German 10th Panzer Division calls its tanks "tigers." It's plagiarism, no less.

News accounts this week tell of a crack Nazi outfit defending the area between Sfax and Faid Pass in Tunesia. The Germans have a new 62-ton tank with a reported seven-inch front armor plate and five inches of plate on the sides—called "tigers." It is reported the division fought in Poland and Russia.

Won't the fur fly if these "tigers" ever meet!

Columbus Reverts to CWT At 9 O'clock Sunday Night

THE ARMY'S heavy .30 caliber machine gun spits and speaks DEATH in any language. But these lucky Mexicans, in Company K of the 300th infantry, who speak Spanish solely, are learning how to operate the weapon at Benning from their platoon leader, Lt. Arthur Seigel, who speaks Spanish fluently. (Infantry School Photo.)

Curfew, Radio, Long Distance Telephoning Affected By Change

Clocks in the city of Columbus move back an hour to Central War Time, effective at 9 p. m. Sunday, after the City Commission on Tuesday voted unanimously to revert to the old time schedule although Fort Benning remains on Eastern War Time.

No sooner had the city fathers of nearby Columbus voted to move the hands of the clocks back than word was received from Atlanta that a new bill had been introduced in the State Legislature that would place the whole State of Georgia right back on Eastern War Time, despite the decisions of local lawmakers.

Fort Benning soldiers will govern themselves by "Fort Benning time" while in Columbus, due to the fact that the military establishment has been placed on Eastern War Time by higher headquarters. Thus, the curfew for Fort Benning troops, will be governed by Benning time, as in the case of Phenix City which last week reverted to Central War Time. When the time in Columbus goes back, soldiers will be obliged to leave Columbus at 11 o'clock Central War Time, which is midnight, Fort Benning Time.

Another untoward complication of the time change is that soldiers wishing to make long-distance telephone calls to their families will be governed by Columbus time, and thus lose an hour.

NIGHT RATES 8 P. M.

H. G. Booth, of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, asked the Bayonet to caution military personnel against anticipated night long distance telephone rates at 7 p. m. from the post on Fort Benning time. Since rates are based at the point of origin of the call, and Fort Benning phones are on the Columbus exchange, calls emanating from the post on the night rates need be made after 8 p. m., Fort Benning time.

Radio programs, originating from Fort Benning, likewise face time changes. Starting next Monday, the nightly news broadcasts from the post will be held Monday through Friday from 6 to 6:15 p. m., EWT. This program, "Fort Benning on the Air," thus loses five minutes from its schedule due to the time change.

BROADCASTS CHANGED

"Listen, It's Fort Benning," which is broadcast Monday nights, is to be aired from 8:30 to 8:55 p. m., EWT. The Reception Center Chorus broadcasts are slated on Tuesdays from 8:30 to 8:55 p. m., EWT. The Quartermaster Quartet Hour will be from 9:15 to 9:30 p. m., EWT on Thursdays.

In a move to help personnel of Fort Benning in shopping in Columbus, the Merchants association has passed a resolution seeking merchants to remain open on the present schedule, 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., which would be 11 a. m. to 7 p. m., Fort Benning time.

ISSUE AIRED

The time issue in Columbus hung in the balance all the past week as several civic groups presented their views, pro and con, on the time issue. Among the civic

See COLUMBUS, Page 3

505th Moves To New Camp

Paratroops, Max, 'Static Line' Leave

Completing its course of training at Fort Benning, the 505th Parachute Regiment has moved to Camp Hoffman, N. C., to take up further study and training close to other air-borne organizations, including four parachute regiments, one glider regiment and a parachute artillery outfit.

Brig. Gen. G. P. Howell, commanding general of the First Airborne Infantry Brigade at Fort Benning, officially expressed his appreciation of the "fine work both in garrison and in the field" that the officers and men of the regiment accomplished since the regiment was activated on July 1, 1942.

"In my opinion no other parachute regiment has accomplished so much in such a short time," he said, and further expressed regret that the organization was leaving his command.

The regiment is under command of Col. James M. Gavin who was in charge of the movement to its new location. The new home of the 505th is built to house an entire Airborne Command now stationed at Fort Bragg and other units.

Curb On Driving Includes Soldiers, Gen. Fulton Warns

Warning was issued to day to personnel of Fort Benning that use of motor vehicles on pleasure trips from camp to town must be discontinued.

Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the Fort, quoted paragraph 1, War Department Circular No. 22, dated January 15, for information and guidance of personnel at the post.

This reads: "It has been brought to the attention of the War Department that soldiers have been using cars on pleasure trips from camp to town to attend movies, etc., in violation of the recent restrictions placed upon the use of motor vehicles for pleasure by the Office of Price Administration.

"While the Office of Price Administration stated that pleasure trips would not include trips of enlisted men on furlough visiting friends and relatives, it was not intended to permit the use of cars for purely pleasure trips to town.

"The use of motor vehicles for the purpose mentioned will be discontinued immediately."

Proficient Linguist Inherits Mejicanos

Lt. Seigel Studied Ancient Civilization Of Latin America

Lt. Arthur H. Seigel of the 300th Infantry really talks to the men in his platoon in their own language.

As commander of a platoon made up entirely of Mexicans, natives of the State of Texas panhandle region where Spanish is the popular tongue, Lt. Seigel drills and trains his by commands in Spanish.

Although Capt. Robert Montgomery, commanding officer of Company K of the 300th, recently was startled when he found one entire platoon unable to understand his commands, Lt. Seigel has been assigned to remedy the situation.

A proficient linguist, Lt. Seigel has traveled extensively in South America and finds his new assignment right up his alley. While he commands the troops in Spanish, the platoon leader frequently sprinkles in some English so that one day his troops may well understand him in that language.

LATIN-AMERICAN LORE

The lieutenant, a December O. C. S. graduate, spent six months in 1941 traveling in Latin-America for an American textile firm, selling, making market surveys, and opening up new markets. He also worked with United States consulates in combatting Axis influence in Latin-American markets. In Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia, Lt. Seigel made a survey of the wild-rubber situation. His work also took him to Chile, Colombia and Guatemala.

KNOWS INCAS

During travels in Peru and Bolivia, Lt. Seigel explored ancient ruins of cities, fortresses and temples of the Incas. The Incas language, Quechua, was one of the subjects he studied in 1939 when he spent six months as an exchange student at the Universidad Mayor de San Marcos, at Lima, Peru. He formerly was a member of the Congress of Americanists, a group studying ancient Indian civilization of the Western Hemisphere.

Lt. Seigel, a New Yorker, graduated from City College of New York in 1940. He has long been a student of Latin-America in all its aspects, as well as the Spanish and Portuguese languages.

Ex-Two-Niner Captures 20

Lt. Falconieri Also Shoots Down Nazi Plane

One more former 29th Infantry soldier mentioned in news releases for heroic action at the front is First Lt. Carmelo Falconieri, who was last year a private in the regiment at Fort Benning.

The following is a letter from Lt. Falconieri which was recently received by Private Paschal Epifano of the 29th Infantry. The two men used to be buddies here. Lt. Falconieri's letter was mailed from "somewhere in North Africa."

"Dear Pat:

"It's been quite a while since I have written to you, so I thought I would take advantage of a small lull in our activities to let you know that I'm still around and in one piece.

"Hope that they decide to send some of you boys over here so you can put in your two cents' worth —not that we need any help, for we're doing pretty well so far. I'm feeling fine and everything is okay. The only thing that I have to complain about is that I haven't had any mail in three months now. But maybe I'll get it by Christmas time for a present.

LOTS OF ACTION

"I have seen lots of action, but so far I haven't gotten that German Cross for you. The must hide them in their foot lockers. All the ones I've seen haven't worn any.

"I have a surprise for you — I have some souvenirs from the Italian Army if you want them. I got myself 15 prisoners the other day, and had a lot of fun talking to them too.

"I can't tell you where I am, but I guess you have a pretty good idea. The papers don't print much of our stuff because they're all hopped up over the chase of

See EX-TWO, Page 3

Hospital Releases 'Parapup' Max; Boxer Makes Ready To Jump Again

Big Dog Wins Grim Struggle With Death

Max, the famed "parachuting pooch" of Fort Benning's 505th Parachute Infantry, with eight jumps to his credit, rejoined his outfit today upon his discharge from the Veterinarian's Hospital after recovering from serious injuries he sustained when a truck ran into him December 17.

The 90-pound Boxer dog, which lost several pounds after the accident and while undergoing treatment at the hospital for a fractured jaw and broken leg, wagged his stubby tail profusely today as his owner, Major James Gray, read the regimental order of his promotion and pinned the stripes of a Master Sergeant on his jacket. Similarly, Major Gray presented the famous dog with a wound stripe, the coveted decoration won by soldiers when wounded in action.

Max is rarin' to go, according to his owner and the veterinarians. Despite the seriousness of the accident in which he was injured the dog will be able to "pack his chute" again in about a month and jump with his husky comrades of the 505th.

JAW BANDAGED

The dog's jaw is still bandaged, to prevent him from gnawing on hard bones which might dislocate the jaw once again. Despite the handicap of the bandages, the animal is able to munch two or three pounds of beefsteak a day, which are adding weight and putting him in shape.

When Max was struck by the vehicle a month and a half ago he was scheduled to have jumped that day for cameramen from the major newsreel companies. However, in the early morning, the dog was ambling about the regimental area and was hit by a truck as he crossed a road.

Widespread publicity throughout the nation has made Max a famous dog. His pictures have appeared in newspapers throughout the country. Since his exploits have become publicized, the dog has also become the object of fan mail from all over the country.

GETS FAN MAIL

When he was injured, letters of condolence came to him from the whole nation. It was necessary for Col. James M. Gavin, commanding officer of the 505th, to detail an enlisted man to act as Max's corresponding secretary "in addition to his other duties." Scores of letters have come in and each has been answered and signed by Max.

An American Legionnaire from Atlanta, hearing of the dog's injury, forwarded a five dollar check to "help get the best treatment for the dog" while he was injured.

But now Max is ready to take up his first love again. He will be jumping in about a month and the newsreel companies once more are anxious to photograph his antics.

Although Max enjoys parachuting and posing for pictures, a publicity man from New York has asked for the dog to appear on the radio sometime in the future. Although Max's photogenic prowess will not be the object of television, it is expected that he will let loose a healthy "woof" and please his radio fans also.

U. S. Generals' Namesakes Take O. C. Course

If names mean anything, five new officer candidates, all in the same class at the Infantry School, won't have much trouble getting through the course.

Their names are Pershing, Lee, Meade, Jackson, and Johnson. Although their names are similar to those of famous leaders of World War I and the War Between the States, none of them is any relation to the great generals, but all of them have hopes of attaining that rank.

They are members of the 10th Company, 3d Student Training Regiment. The class started Thursday, January 28th, 1943.

If successful, in three months, there will be a Lieut. Pershing, a Lieut. Lee, a Lieut. Meade, a Lieut. Jackson, and a Lieut. Johnson in the Army of the United States.

If they do as well as their namesakes, the war will be over soon.

O. C. Class Breaks Record

Anti-tank instructors of the 29th Infantry were rewarded for many hours of tedious work this week when 86 per cent of an O. C. class under their tutelage qualified on the thousand-inch range. This was four per cent above any previous average. Target operators from Company "A" contributed to the success of the instruction.

These instructors have a job that requires considerable skill and patience. Their duties demand that they take care of eight officer candidates twice a day, and to instruct them in the fundamentals of anti-tank marksmanship. The period during which the student fires for record is said to be the most tedious of all for the instructor, for at this time he must watch each student's target as well as correcting his handling of the piece; the gun positions must also be very carefully checked.

In charge of the record-breaking detail from the 29th Infantry was Staff Sergeant Murrel M. Woods. Others in the group were: Staf. Sgt. John C. Kimbrel; Sgts. Emmitt T. Daniel, Powell Q. Sale and Olen L. Crane; Cpls. Dale W. Baker, Raymond F. Clark,

See O. C. CLASS, Page 3

'Paremlins' Take Credit For Deuced Poker Deck

Irish Elfs Came Over With Corrigan's Wrong-Way Plane

By CPL. J. S. RAWLINSON
Headquarters Company
First Parachute
Training Regiment

The mystery of the "deuced" poker deck has been solved! The instigator has laughingly confessed. The argument has been settled, and all is well.

It came about like this. The queerest looking creature your eyes have ever viewed came stalking into Headquarters Company the other night, madder than a sergeant when a private talks back. He was a little fellow about four inches high, with a parachute strapped to his back. He was so mad his mustaches quivered like a cat's tail in a high wind. Stamping his oversize feet on the floor he demanded of Schoenfeld, "Where are those guys?" "What guys," asked Schoenfeld, his eyes popping, "Whom do you mean?"

"I mean those ?-!(XX) jerks who gave a gremlin the credit for deucing a poker deck." "I want to see 'em."

"Well, O. K.," said Schoenfeld doubtfully. "I'll take you upstairs. Maybe you can find them there."

So, without any more talk, he brought the little fellow up, and introduced him all around. All the players were there, Fay, Newlin, Bardin, Woodsie and Tackett, Crawford, Brubaker, Messick and Rawlinson, who were just coming in, ran up to see what was causing the excitement. Gathering around the small guy, who by this time had perched on a convenient 2-24 DC "PAREMLINS" TAKE foot locker, we listened to his story. We'll give it to you in his exact words:

SEPARATE FAMILY TREE

"I'll introduce myself. My name is Pete Paremlin. Now, don't interrupt me—we Paremlins are a separate and distinct branch of the family, and our sole object in life is to plague parachutists. That's why I'm burned up about you giving credit to a Gremlin. You almost got me in trouble with the Union. Gremlins aren't smart enough, either, to think up tricks outside of fooling with airplanes. We Paremlins can do any trick we like, any time, anywhere, but it makes the Union sore when we report a trick like that one Sunday and a Gremlin gets credit. Anyway, to get on with the story —I was out walking that Sunday, breaking in a new pair of jump boots. I passed by your window and saw that game going on, so

See PAREMLINS, Page 10

Shoe Rations Hit You Too

G. I. Certificates To Allow Purchase

Shoe rationing for officers and enlisted men at Fort Benning will go into effect exactly as for the civilian population of the country and Sgt. Louis Lipp, who already handles gas and food rationing on the post, will be in charge of the shoe rationing, it was announced today.

Fort Benning personnel living off the post or who are separately rationed on the post, will utilize coupon No. 17 from their sugar rationing books for purchase of shoes, Sgt. Lipp was notified by Dr. J. B. Daniel, chairman of the Muscogee County War Price and Rationing Board.

At the same time, with thousands of soldiers not holding ration books the problem arises as to how they will secure shoes. This will be met at present by issuance of certificates, thousands of which are being prepared for Fort Benning personnel. Literature and other information on the subject will be supplied as soon as possible and Sgt. Lipp said today that a notice would be inserted in the Daily Bulletin at the post when such material is ready for distribution.

Many soldiers purchase shoes other than those issued by the supply division for use as dress when off duty. Officers must purchase their own shoes so that they must utilize the rationing cards or certificates.

The question of how Officers Candidates are to outfit themselves with footgear upon graduation is a problem that has not yet been worked out, but will be solved as soon as possible. Announcements on that question will be made as soon as the local war rationing board receives notice on arrangements, Dr. Daniel pointed out.

10th Armored Plans World's Largest Steel Guitar Band

Potential Leader Ranks High In Music World

In Pvt. Thomas E. Sullins of the Special Service Office, the 10th Armored division boasts a self-styled "one-man guitar band" and a soldier who intends to organize, from the abundant talent of the Tenth, "the world's largest" steel guitar band.

If Pvt. Sullins' blueprint for harmony seems slightly rosy-hued, skeptics and scoffers had best check their doubts for this musical maestro has something of a record for organizing bands and orchestras as well as entertainment units of other natures.

Pvt. Sullins in private life is director of the Capitol Studios, located in Detroit, Mich., and you'll have to take his word for it that this institution is "the largest and the outstanding music and dance school in Detroit." Even now, although he is handicapped to some extent by his removal from the scene, he is still remote-control director of the studio and has at present about 500 students under his tutelage.

SUPER-SCHOOL

In the main studio and seven branches of his super-school, Pvt. Sullins provides instruction for students of all musical instruments—a large order in itself—and dancing and dramatics. Some of his pupils are only a few months removed from the cradle and others are—well, perhaps not quite that close to the final resting place. But the point is that the Sullins formula takes no recognition of age limitations or any other restrictions. And with a whole division of superior soldiers to comb, Sullins reasons, there is absolutely no doubt that he will make good his promise to produce that biggest guitar band.

Even a man who can play nothing more complicated than a juke box can be taught the fundamentals of a musical instrument without too much difficulty, he opines. And with the Sullins assurance at the controls, it is practically an established fact that miracles will be wrought and that the Tenth Armored Tigers will add to their other laurels undisputed claim to a most unusual title.

SEVEN PRIZES

Last August, by way of further evidence in support of his claims, Sullins took a 20-piece band and a 12-piece orchestra to the International Guitar League convention at Cleveland, Ohio, and he also brought along several acts. When the convention was over, the Sullins-sponsored units were in possession of seven prizes, including first prize for orchestras which was gained in the face of competition from 150 other orchestras. His band took third prize in competition almost as great. So he comes by his confidence naturally.

By birth Sullins is a southerner, having been born and raised in Spruce Pine, N. C. He first became interested in music while attending church and his first position of authority was as choir leader. He continued his study of music at Carson-Neuman college and later, in Detroit, he concentrated on the Hawaiian guitar. While in Detroit, he organized a string orchestra which enjoyed successful engagements at numerous theaters and night clubs.

RADIO CONTRACT

Returning to the South, Sullins made his headquarters for a while at Charleston, S. C., where he obtained a radio contract for his band. A few years later he returned to Detroit and it was then that he organized his studio.

Sullins' outstanding claim to fame in the musical work is his ability to play the lead, the obligato and the bass parts of a guitar composition at one time, thus eliminating the need for an accompanist. Very few musicians, he says, can do this and he is exceedingly proud of this accomplishment. An excellent knowledge of music is essential to such a performance, he affirms, admitting that it was a long time before he had perfected his "one-man band" stunt.

VERSATILE PLAYER

In addition to the ordinary guitar, ukelele, mandolin, tenor guitar and Hawaiian guitar. He prefers the Hawaiian guitar to the other instruments because, in his words, it is "more fascinating."

He is, in addition to his other accomplishments, a composer and has written numerous songs.

No what his basic training is completed, Sullins intends to pick up his guitar, an instrument with which he is much more familiar than the M-1 rifle, and prepare to lead musically-inclined Tigers to new records. And when the world's largest steel guitar band commences firing, the volume alone should go a long way toward hastening the end of the war.

ROOKIES OF THE 55TH Armored Engineers' "C" Company got a great thrill when this medium tank rumbled over their trestle bridge. It was the first bridge they had ever built and the "Mighty 55th" lads cheered wildly when the tank went over without causing any visible strain on the bridge. (10th Armd. photo by Kerbs)

Tiger Bridge Builders Learn Trade Fast

The men of Company "C," 55th Engineers, most of them fresh from recruit training, last week saw their first bridges — treadways, rough timbers, trestles and cable suspensions—hold up whatever load they were assigned to carry.

A medium tank and a 19-ton Brockway truck crossed the treadway, timber and trestle bridges, while a peep, a motorcycle and a self-propelled 37MM gun carrier crossed the cable suspension bridge safely.

Working on a company project in which each platoon was assigned the construction of a different type of bridge, the men, all of them new to the job, went to work with a will and gave a performance that would do credit to old hands at bridge building.

One of the jobs was the construction of the standard trestle bridge, 45 feet long. Few of the men knew what the bridge looked like until they marched to the site, stacked arms and were given on-the-spot instructions by their respective platoon and squad leaders.

NO STRAIN ON TANKS

Another of the projects was the erecting of a rough timber bridge, also a span of 45 feet. Here there was the added problem of scouting about the woods and cutting down the properly sized heavy trees for stringers and posts, and light timber for the flooring and bracings. With strength even beyond the expectations of the platoon leaders, those brides actually talked back to the tanks. There was no visible strain as the tanks rolled across. The spans that "C" Company hewed right out of the forest might as well have been steel and concrete railroad trestles for all the effect the tanks had on them.

A truly big task was the erection of 60 feet of steel treadway bridge. Here all old methods and several new means of construction were employed. The treadway bridge is heavy stuff to work with and the foundations must be good or the whole business will topple with probable dire results. But every platoon did its task well. The tank drivers now know they can take their safety on a "C" Company treadway.

Further assignments relating to bridging were given to the different platoons. Existing bridges were strengthened, embankments were reverted, planking reinforced. Expedients on bridge approaches were taught to each group, including the use of chicken wire, steel mat, and corduroy.

More spectacular, but providing at the same time really worth while practice, was the erection of overhead cable trolleys for the transportation of jeeps and motorcycles across otherwise untraversable gorges, and the construction of 90 foot suspension bridges, in which pontoon bridge flooring is secured by rope and fastened to twin cables stretched across a ravine. This type crossing looks flimsy from a distance, but jeeps and motorcycles could drive across the cable suspension all day long with safety.

Lt. S. E. Roberts, company commander, and Lt. H. E. Turner, who assisted Lieut. Roberts in the instruction and supervision, were well pleased with the training.

WE RENT
Sewing Machines
Electric or Treadle
Singer Sewing Mch. Co.
DIAL 3-5381

AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY
And Property Damage Rates Reduced
Plus our dividend saving, makes net cost exceptionally low. It will pay you to keep your insurance. We write all lines insurance at a saving to policy holders.
The Lawrence Murray Agency
112—12th Street Phone 2-3345

Turn to BREAD for Energy!

300th Infantry Company Plans 'Rural Rhythm Symphony Orchestra'

If you happen to be one of those people who are sick of hillbilly rhythms, don't read this. It seems that Company A of the new 300th Infantry, in training under the command of Captain Thomas G. Graves, Jr., out in the Harmony Church Area, is planning to form a "Rural Rhythm Symphony Orchestra."

Shortly after Company A had settled down in its present quarters, it discovered that it had probably the largest collection of "ge-tars" and fiddle artists of any company on the post. Each floor, and each barracks, had more than its quota of native talent, who were both consistent and persistent in the practice of their art. As a consequence, the sound waves of the area became so entangled with conflicting laments— for the open spaces, or a pal, or a gal, or a horse—that some embryo strategist, in self-defense, conceived the idea of applying the good old Army axiom of team work and cooperation. So the rugged individualists were propositioned about uniting under one baton, and the idea, strictly as a noble experiment, appealed to them.

As a result, Fort Benning may be able to present another program beneficial to the Army. Gather all the lone balladiers together into one gigantic organization—"The Original Rural Rhythm Symphony Orchestra"—and let them play. After all, a Symphony shouldn't play more than once or twice a week. And then again, a guy doesn't have to go into a Symphony.

Newton D. Baker Village Reporter

BY MRS. DOROTHY TROUTMAN

PERSONALS

Mrs. Herbert Gossett, their son, Herbert, Jr., and Geraldine, of 26 D, will visit Mr. Gossett in Florence, S. C., for a few days.

St. Sgt. and Mrs. Paul Hays, and children of 75 A, left Wednesday for Daytona Beach, Fla., where Sgt. Hays has been transferred.

Mrs. B. N. Young and son, Nash Lee, left Sunday for a visit with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Darby, in Waycross, Ga. They were accompanied by Mrs. Young's mother, who is visiting them.

Friends of Chaplain Edwin C. Willson, 32 Fox, will regret to learn that he has been confined to the Station Hospital for a few days.

Lt. and Mrs. Mike Maroun, 53 Barry, have recently returned from Shreveport, La., where they have been visiting their families.

Mrs. G. H. Savage and little daughter Brenda are visiting Mrs. Savage's sister Mrs. N. Chavis of No. 1 Court Avenue.

Capt. and Mrs. Bob Burke, 118, Clifton, spent several days last week in Atlanta.

Lt. and Mrs. George Hallenbeck, 38 Fox, had as a visitor on the week-end Lt. L. Madacsi.

Miss Leonora Wells of Columbus spent last week-end with Lt. and Mrs. Nesbit Haygood, of 11 Allison.

Lt. and Mrs. David Henderson of 15 Allison are the proud parents of a son to be named David, Jr.

St. Sgt. and Mrs. Clyde O. Pharis, 33 B, are visiting their family at Ft. Screven and in Pineora, Ga.

Sgt. J. B. Sharpe recently visited his family 120 A. Friends of Joe Sharpe will regret to learn that he is still confined to the hospital.

Chaplain W. F. Lillingham, 35 Roper, will deliver the sermon next Sunday night at the Benning Park Baptist Church, Rev. C. C. Davison, pastor, has announced.

The Men's Brotherhood of the Baptist Church will meet Thursday evening with Sgt. Walter H. Powell, Apt. 90 C.

Lt. and Mrs. Karl E. Schneider, 113 Court, are the parents of a son born Sunday morning.

Friends of Mrs. James W. Linn, 56 Benning Drive, regret to know that she has been ill for several weeks.

CONVALESCENTS

Illness seems to be prevalent throughout the village. The following children are out of Nursery School this week because of mumps and chicken pox: Jerone Haufman, Jimmy Layton, Katherine Marwede, George and Howard Ralls, Donnie and Allen Rarrich, Jim Rhodes, Lynn and Joan Ross, Barbara and Jimmy Sanders, Raymond San Fillippo, Joe and Rosa Villadamorous, Pat Leary, Ronald Clements, Bob Davis, Leonard Hardin, Dicky Harper, G. C. Jennings, Judy Gillette, Sonny Davison, Carole Boyle and Heidi Mae Kern, and probably others whose names we failed to learn.

NEWCOMERS

The following newcomers are welcome to the Village: St. Sgt. and Mrs. Fred J. Cooper, 108 B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Thomas T. Gaynone, 97 H; Lt. and Mrs. George Hallenback, 38 Fox; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Francis P. Ahlblad, 64 B; Mr. and Mrs. Hazel T. Ward, 43 E; St. Sgt. and Mrs. James C. Byers, 1 B; Lt. and Mrs. Paul E. Roche, 121 Barry; Lt. and Mrs. Lawrence Randall, 6 Court; Lt. and Mrs. George Flanagan, 112 Clifton; Lt. and Mrs. William C. Martin, 27 Roper; Lt. and Mrs. Claude H. Burke, 44 Fox; Lt. and Mrs. Willard L. Lombertus, 43 Roper; Lt. and Ermel G. Allen, 49 Winston; St. Sgt. and Mrs. James F. Jones, 113 B; T. Sgt. and Mrs. Charles W. Wolfe, 24 C; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Ernest P. Bowen, 84 B; M. Sgt. and Mrs. Herbert C. Skipper, 27 A; Lt. and Mrs. John J. Carey, Jr., and Lr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Farley, 112 Fox.

LIBRARY

The library was reopened Tuesday after having been closed for several days. Mrs. Elizabeth Entrekin will act as librarian, replacing Mrs. Alice Cotton. The same hours will be observed.

PARTIES

Methodists

Highlighting this week's entertainments will be the party given by the local Methodist church Friday evening, Feb. 12. The party is being called "Family Fun Night." There will be a party for the small children and one for young people and adults. A large committee is working together to make the party a success.

A large crowd is expected to gather Friday at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the administration building. The members of the Methodist church will act as a welcoming committee, and they extend an invitation to all the residents in the village.

After the party refreshments will be served.

While the Methodists and their friends are gathering for an evening of fun, the members of the Benning Park Baptist Training Union will be meeting at their church for a social. Mrs. W. H. Powell, director of the Training Union, extends an invitation to people of all ages. Mrs. J. O. Strozier, of 65 A, is program chairman.

Baptists

The Benning Park Baptist Church won the award given at the Associational Baptist Training Union meeting last Friday. The meeting was held at Beallwood Baptist Church. The award is given each year to the church having the largest attendance in proportion to the number of church members.

Girl Scouts

The Girl Scouts, both troops, will meet with Mrs. Huxford, 7 After the business meeting, a game of basketball will be entered in Scouting are invited to attend.

Music Teacher

All people of Baker Village and Benning Park Homes who are interested in taking music lessons should call Mrs. Troutman. If enough are interested a teacher will come to the village. Both piano and violin lessons will be taught.

DANCE

The shortage of gas and tires does not mean that the people of Benning Park Homes are confined to their homes. Almost the entire population hiked over to the administration building Saturday night and danced for four hours. Probably many of them wished for their automobiles when they started walking back home at midnight, but being and brave and patriotic soldiers (and wives) they didn't complain.

They had had so much fun there was no need for complaining. The large group danced to the music of the 505th Parachute orchestra and room closely resembling a night club—except for a floor show.

The Valentine theme was carried out with red and white streamers overhead and tiny red hearts waving from the top, the windows resembling large Valentines and the doors lined with white paper and red hearts. A large red heart lighted with white bulbs stood at one end of the room. Tables, appropriately decorated, lined the room.

Never in the history of the Village was such a good time had. Already plans are being made for the next dance, which will be given Saturday, Feb. 27. The dance will be formal and for Benning Park Homes folk only. No outside guests are to be brought, it was emphasized. No tickets will be sold at the door but may be bought in advance from Mrs. Lambert, 31 Court. Phone 8416; Mrs. Gillen, 13 Clifton, 3-1993; or Mrs. Bochinno, 124 Clifton, 3-3011.

O. C.'s Have Pre-Graduation Dinner Dance

Strains of hep synchopated music floating into the ether from the Polo Hunt Club recently, marked the Pre-Graduation Party of the Fourth Company, Third Student Training Regiment.

Three months of O. C. routine was excellent preparation for this celebration. The soap-scrubbed, clean faces of the candidates blended perfectly with the formal gowned pretty nurses of Fort Benning.

Music was supplied by the hottest band on the Post, none other than the Third Armored Division Band. Entertainment was furnished by George Bell, along with a cast of girls, who are now performing at the Club Maytag.

Among the honored guests were Lt. Col. and Mrs. William E. Hardick, Lt. Col. and Mrs. John G. Hardy, Capt. and Mrs. Harold J. Kaufmann, Lt. and Mrs. Giles H. Kidd, Lt. and Mrs. Clemens P. Pearson, Lt. Herbert B. Graffie and Lt. Kenneth A Morrell.

Dependants of enlisted men are classed as follows for allowance under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance act of 1942: Class A, wife and child (or children); Class B, parents, brother, sister, or grandchild, who are found by the Secretary of the Department concerned to be dependent upon such enlisted man for a substantial portion of their support.

Stop Signs Go To Save Gas And Rubber

Caution Signs Serve As Replacements; Extreme Care Urged

Another step has been taken at Fort Benning to conserve vital war materials, it was disclosed today by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general.

General Fulton revealed that many "stop" signs at street intersections on the post have been removed so as to save the wear and tear on rubber tires, when cars must come to a complete halt, and also to conserve gasoline which is wasted in stop-and-go driving.

Capt. Willie D. Veal, Provost Marshal at the post, stated that the Corps of Military Police, in keeping with instructions from General Fulton, has removed the signs from intersections which have ample vision for oncoming drivers to observe crossing traffic.

Captain Veal has instructed the Military Police traffic squads to exercise vigilance in observing careless drivers at these intersections. The Provost Marshal stated that persons who fail to slow down at intersections, where the Associational Baptist Training Union "Caution" signs replace the "Stop" signs, will be apprehended by the police.

"All of the traffic squads have been instructed to bear down on enforcement of all traffic laws," Capt. Veal said. Speeders, as well as careless drivers, will continue to be apprehented, when they violate garrison regulations on speed of motor vehicles.

In order for a serviceman to obtain an allowance for a wife and child under the Service Men's Dependents Allowance Act, he does not have to submit proof that they are financially dependent upon him for support, but it is necessary to show relationship by submitting the proof.

O. C. Duo Are Vets Of Spanish Civil War

The First Student Training Regiment like other units at the Infantry school, has many students whose background is as colorful as a setting sun. Recently Colonel Thomas R. Gibson, regimental commander, spent some time chatting with two officer candidates of the 17th company whose records showed them to have served in the Spanish Civil War. They are Candidate Morris Brier and Milton L. Wolff.

Candidate Brier explained that both officer candidates agreed they had gone over to fight for the Republican government in Spain because in that rebellion they saw the shape of things to come. It was obvious from the start that Franco was Hitler inspired, financed and armed. Franco's recent actions and many statements to the effect that the democracies are through and only Fascism and Nazism can save the world, tend to prove these contentions.

Although Candidate Brier went to Spain as one of a large group of Americans, he was not acquainted with any of his fellow soldiers. The entire group went into action without ever having previous experience. When the contingent arrived at Morata, some three and a half miles from the front they, and another group of approximately 300 other American volunteers, were handed rifles. He and many of the rest had never had a gun in their hands before that moment.

"Three days later we went over the top at Jarama, the crucial front on the Madrid Valencia highway. Though the attack was not successful and the casualties high due to the inexperience of the troops, it succeeded in bluffing the enemy to the extent that what had been extremely active front up until that time remained inactive from then until the end of the war."

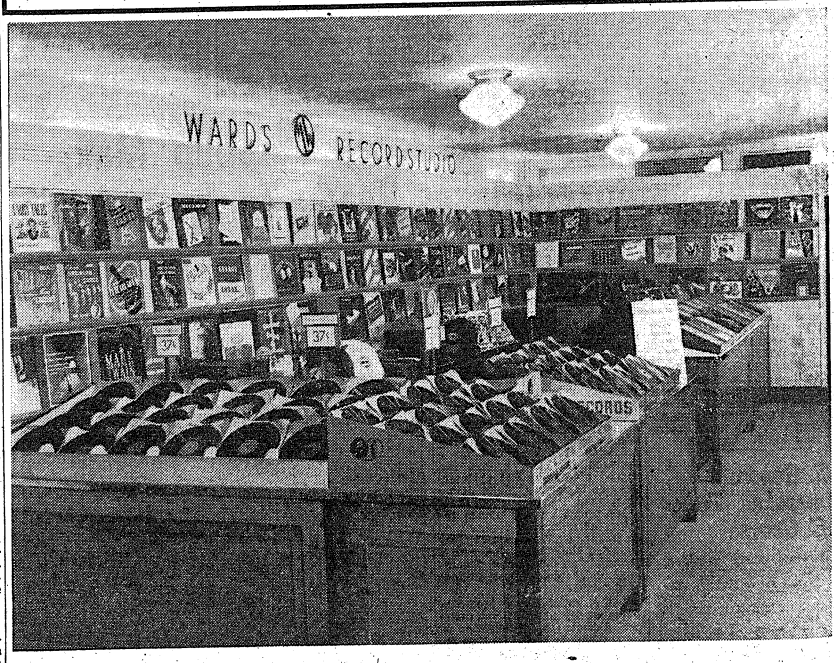
NIGHT PATROL

Candidate Wolff continued from this point in answer to Colonel Gibson's inquiry about the most unusual experience either had. Candidate Wolff had been out on night patrol in the small village of Caspe located on the outskirts of the main theatre of operations.

"Three tanks approached our rear as we combed the streets for enemies in the town. We were supposed to have tank support, so I went over to speak to the leading tank crew. His turret was up and as I approached him in the shadows I realized from the silhouette that the tank was not ours. I was too close to withdraw and my pistol was in my holster. I had no other weapon. So I caught up with him and we started to talk in Spanish. I asked where he came from, neither of us answering, the other's question. All the while we were talking I was looking into the muzzle of a .38 held by this tank commander.

"After about five minutes of sparring I noticed a group of men collecting some 20 yards away, totally unaware of the fact that the tanks down the street were enemy. There was only one thing to do. I let out a yell, 'Enemy Tanks,' 'Duck and . . . get him.' At the same time I threw myself flat on the ground. The tank commander slammed the turret down and the MG's started to go. He was scared and so were we. He tore off down a side street and the others down another."

Both Brier and Wolff agreed that the training being given in the First Regiment, here at the Infantry school, is ideal for modern fast moving war. All that is required to turn these theories into victories is "guts" and from what these boys have seen in Spain the American soldier has that "plus plenty of brains under his hat."



Ensigns and second lieutenants received increases in base pay, and the higher ranking officers increases in living allowances. Ensigns and second lieutenants received an increase from $1,500 to $1,800 annually.

ATTENTION!
OFFICER CANDIDATE
Lloyd Jowers
Represents Kahn Tailoring Co. Uniforms tailored to individual measurements. Complete service of altering and repairing on G. I. Clothes.
117½ 11th St.

NOTICE

Business Hours 1 P. M. Till 9:30 P. M. Eastern War Time
This Business is conducted for the Military Personnel of Fort Benning with artists from our Fifth Ave. Studio and our Business Hours will be the same as YOURS —EASTERN WAR TIME.

AIM'E DUPONT
Military Studio
1219 Broadway—Columbus, Ga.
Branch of 604 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C. Tele. 3-1505 Established 1884
"OFFICER CANDIDATES"—We have MILITARY Blouses, GARRISON Caps, SAM BROWN Belts—here for you to be photographed in before your graduation.

MONTGOMERY WARD'S COMPLETE RECORD STUDIO

Montgomery Ward & Co. makes its record department, pictured above, headquarters for all types of recordings, and boasts of a complete album selection of all kinds of music.
Included in the variety of records available are classical compositions, service songs, patriotic tunes, hillbilly numbers, jive and the latest popular hits played by your favorite orchestras.
The assortment also offers an outstanding collection of children's records. On sale are the products of leading distributors, Decca, Columbia, Victor, Blue Bird and Okeh.
In addition to the ready made music, on sale are blank recordings on which to record your own music or speech. A complete stock of needles may be purchased in the department, which is located on the mezzanine floor.
(ADVERTISEMENT)

Ole Sarge Follows 'Bayonet' Directions And Now Finds Self Done Up In Knots

Tantalizing Tie Taunts Technician; Tenacious Twists Triple Torture

Dear Editor:

Excuse the handwriting, please, because I'm having a friend of mine who owes me six bits for a long time do this letter for me on account of I can't use my hands for writing. Or for anything else. And its' all your fault. So I'm forgiving this guy his debt on account of he's writing this for me as I dictate.

I believe in all this here now about a good soldier keeping neat and looking his best. It does something for a soldier. I always tell my men and I believe in it, like I just said, even for myself.

So this being the day after payday, I went down and I got me some nice new socks and a brand new necktie that is guaranteed to tie up beautifully and not slip like the GI ones they issues. And then I remembers the article with illustrations onto it from the Esquire magazine that you ran in your paper, the Bayonet, which I wish I had one of to ram down your throat—a real bayonet I mean. Only I couldn't do it, on account of like I says, I can't use my hands.

BAYONET FILED

Well, I went down in the dayroom and sure enough there was back files of the Bayonets down there and I found that article.

"Now," I says to myself. "Now I will get to tie a necktie like them Bo Bummels in New York does it and it will help my looks and like I always says, I believe in it, that a soldier should look neat at all times. So I looked over this here chart and let me say right now that I know all there is to reading of maps of terrain, and drawing sketches myself of laying out a mean contour line myself.

But I defies any man ever living to make any sense out of that over and under and round about stuff like it showed to tie a real smooth knot in a necktie onto a GI's neck. I know a bit about tying a knot with a rope's end, having once served a hitch in the Boy Scouts when I was a shaver, and having worked in different places in my time where I had to use a rope. I can fix a double half hitch, a sheeps shank, and a few other things which I have forgotten the names of, but can still do. But I couldn't make no sense out of that necktie map, so help me.

KEEPS TRYING

But I sure tried, Mr. Editor. Yes, sir, I did so. I wove the ends of that thing in and out. But no soap. I turned that page up to in front of the mirror, and I was prob'ly drawed for a feller to do the light, figgering on that it was doing it backwards. But the more I tried, the worser it got. Well, my new tie was getting all wrinkled and so I got out my little portable iron and pressed it out and then started out all over again. Like I always tells my men, patience is a great thing in fighting a war and just because you don't get the solution the first time, you shouldn't be discouraged.

Well, I decided after I got that tie pressed that I'd give it just one more whirl. Because after all a fellow can't spend too much time on even looking his neatest as that would be all he would ever be doing if he didn't do nothing else, but that. So that's where I really made my mistake. I followed that chart carefully, looped the end over, around, under, up and around itself and then down and through. And then I thought sure I had it and I pulled.

HANDS CAUGHT

And what do you think? Well, sir, Mr. Editor, I got both my hands caught in that fancy knot and try and pull as I would, I couldn't get them out. I looked at the instructions again and it said it was a knot that was designed so as not to be slipping and getting all loose all the time. And it sure was right. I still have my hands caught in the danged thing and I can't get them out. So I'm having this here fellow who owes —pardon me, friend, I meant owed—me six bits (and how he come not to be able to pay me come payday on the First, was that he thought he could buck my judgment with them dominos) I'm having this fellow write this letter. He says it would be easiest to just cut the tie off but I hate to do that as it is a very good and expensive tie. So I'm appealing to you, was there any instructions with that Esquire article and chart on how to untie that necktie after once you got it tied? And if I have to cut up that tie, I figger it's your fault and you ought to pay me back for it.

Next time, Mr. Editor, I'm going to get me one of those new patent jobs that you just put onto your neck and then hitch on a little hook thing and it's all tied up in advance.

Yrs. truly,
The Old Sarge.

Dear Sarge,

Please accept my heartfelt commiserations in your inability to get out of the noose in which you are at present ensnaried. I was a bit dubious about printing that article in the first place. It seems that that the Bayonet has been converted from a newspaper to a "noosepaper."

Sarge, old boy, I went to college for 15 years, believe it or not, and after reading your letter, I thought and thought. After all there must be some practical advantage somewhere, somehow, in a college education even in the Army. So after burning the midnight oil long and persistently, I suddenly got me up and shouted "Eureka". (that means in Greek "I have found it.")

This newspaper got you into your difficulties; why shouldn't it get you out? So now I convert the "noosepaper" into a mighty blade for it is not for naught we call it the "Bayonet." For your edification and succor I quote you Plutarch:

"Alexander finding himself unable to untie the Gordium (Gordian) knot, the ends of which were secretly twisted round and folded up within it (just like your necktie), cut it asunder with his sword."

Signed with a prayer,
The Editor

OVER 100%
IN WAR BONDS
HAPPENINGS
at HARVEY'S RESTAURANT
"We Buy The Best For You"

Harvey's appreciates the patronage of all Fort Benning personnel. When the soldiers gather there, many hilarious events are certain to happen. Mr. Sam Dardarin, the owner of Harvey's, is going to relate a few in this column each week.

★

To quote Mr. Dardarin: A lonesome soldier boy came in Harvey's and asked, "Do you serve sea food?" "Yes Sir," I told him. I thought he was going to order mackerel or trout. As I was waiting on another customer I glanced around and saw him eating deviled crab. The minute I saw him I knew it was his first experience at eating crab, so I said, "You're not supposed to eat the shell too, only the meat." His answer was, "I'm sure glad you told me, Mister, because it was mighty tough."

★

A young Lieutenant, who is a good friend of mine, wanted me to get him a date. I introduced several girls to him, but he was a little hard to please. One day, after he had been persuading me for some time to find him another one, I gave him the address of one of our colored dishwashers. He paid a large taxi fare to call for her. Can you imagine his surprise! He hasn't asked me to get a date for him since.

★

Our Chef Formerly
From Statler
Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.
Located 1309
Broadway

ONLY THE INSIGNIA DISTINGUISHES 'EM

Gas Rationing on Post Restores Dobbin to Own

Horses and Mules Now Being Used For Routine Hauling

By SGT. CARL NEUD

When Pvt. Dobbin enters Uncle Sam's Army for war-time service, one of the most important qualifications is that his neck should not be on upside down! But don't try to figure that out literally, because according to Col. Stephen B. Massey, Fort Benning's director of supply who spent 10 of his 40 years at in the cavalry, that's an old expression common only to horsemen, and simply means that the horse's neck must not be arched the wrong way.

Deciding whether or not the neck is on upside down, however, is but one of the many tests that horses and mules pass before they are acceptable to the Remount Service of the Quartermaster Corps which procures, trains, and distributes the four-footed friends for Army use.

And don't think for a moment, that because of the high degree of mechanization in this war, old Mr. Horse has been forgotten. He's very much in the picture—and getting more so every day. Ever since the advent of gas rationing here at Fort Benning, the fine horses in the Infantry School stables have been put to a multitude of uses.

SLOW BUT SAFE

All of the mules on hand are used daily in pulling wagons which aid in carrying out housekeeping duties about the post proper. Many of the riding horses also have been converted to this purpose with special care being taken to make sure they pull only light loads such as laundry. Just recently a buckboard, abandoned years ago, has been reconditioned and pressed into service at post headquarters for passenger travel about the pos where speed is not essential.

This same situation hold true at all camps and stations in this country where there are Army stables. Although most of the famed cavalry regiments have been motorized, their are still some crack units remaining which are used for special missions in terrtain where even motors cannot travel. Horse-drawn artillery is not as important as it once was, but it is still valuable in certain areas.

All of these horses and mules, used for a multitude of purposes, are inducted in the Army by the Remount Service of the Q. M. C. which was given that task in 1917, according to Colonel Massey. The service now has seven buying boards in various sections of the country where horses are purchased from prominent breeders. Both a Quartermaster Corps officer and a representative from the Veterinary Corps inspect the steeds at a central point.

Pre-Induction

In his pre-induction exam, Pvt. Dobbin is inspected at the halter, walked and trotted at the halter to see whether he moves straight, and must pass certain standards for teeth and eyes. Also he must be free of splints, sidebones, jacks, curbs or other defects common to horses.

The primary factor, however, in buying an Army horse, is that he be of the right type. He must come within height and weight limits and have good body conformation. His legs must be straight, and he must be a straight mover. Also, the neck must be reasonably long, the shoulders sloping and the back short.

He should stand about 15 to 16 hands (four inches to you) high and hit the scales at between 950 and 1200 pounds. If he's ideal for Army use, he is not a thoroughbred, but only a half-thoroughbred. Artillery and draft horses run a little larger in size, and pack mules are, of course, slightly smaller.

Even if Pvt. Dobbin passes all these tests, he still has to pass some more exams. He's tested under the saddle, and ridden to make sure he is broken and gentle. The Army has the room to break a horse for riding, but not the time, so he has to be ready for riding before induction.

TO REMOUNT DEPOT

Having met all specifications, Pvt. Dobbin is now accepted by the Q. M. C. and sent to one of three remount depots where he gets his basic training during a period of 90 to 120 days. Just like Johnny Doughboy, the recruit horse is kept in quarantine for 21 days, is inoculated against sleeping sickness, given anti-tetanus injections, and sometimes even gets inoculated against pneumonia.

Also, at the remount depot, Pvt. Dobbin is branded and given a serial number. Then he's put out to pasture to fatten before being turned over to expert riders for advanced training. Foremost idea in the training program is teaching the horse to respect the man holding the reins.

According to Colonel Massey, who was riding Army horses before many of us were born, the care and intensive training of the Quartermaster Corps Remount Service is assuring our Army the finest horses of their type in the world. The Benning supply head also feels that before this war is over, the horse may still play a leading role in helping with transportation duties and combat operations under conditions where mechanized equipment cannot be utilized.

Twin Brothers Perplex Unit

Serve As C. O., Executive Officer Of 225th Hospital

It was reunion in Fort Benning when Maj. James G. Hughes, newly-appointed commanding officer of the 225th Station Hospital, looked up at his new executive officer and saw walking in the door his twin brother, Capt. John D. Hughes.

The 32-year-old twin brothers, both doctors, had been in the Army for more than a year in separate organizations, and did not realize they were to be assigned to the same unit. Major Hughes was executive officer at the Station Hospital, Camp Gordon, Ga., and Captain Hughes was Chief of Medical Service at the Station Hospital at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Natives of Memphis, Tenn., the twins graduated from Southwestern University in 1932. There they played football and combined in editing the college paper for two years. They then attended the University of Tennessee School of Medicine, graduating in 1935. Major Hughes specialized in pediatrics while Captain Hughes specialized in internal medicine.

In Medical Reserve

Both were members of the Medical Corps Reserve since 1936. Captain Hughes was placed on active duty July 10, 1941, while Major Hughes was placed on active duty as a captain on Feb. 18, 1942.

Now they are hard at work training the personnel of the 225th Station Hospital for active service in whatever war zone to which it may be sent. It will be a 250-bed organization with 13 medical corps officers, three dental corps officers, five medical administrative corps officers, 30 nurses and 150 enlisted men. It will be capable of being set up as a field hospital under tents or taking over existing buildings and utilizing them for hospital needs. Men are being trained as technicians at the Station Hospital at Fort Benning.

'This Is The Army' Takes To Air Waves On Washington's Birthday

"This Is The Army" is going on the air. The Army's very own smash hit musical-comedy show which 'packed the house' every performance for six solid months during its New York run was equally successful on its tour of all the leading cities in the country is finally going to be put on so that every man in the service can hear it, if not, see it.

The broadcast will be made over station WABC of the Columbia Broadcasting System, Monday evening, February 22, 9:00 to 10:00 p. m., Eastern War Time, and will be relayed to station WRBL, of Columbus.

Columbia network's famed "Lux Radio Theater" is to premier the smash hit which was penned by Irving Berlin as his contribution to the war effort. The presentation which is being planned as a special Washington's Birthday blowout for the boys in the barracks will be produced under the capable direction of Cecil B. DeMille.

In the original all-soldier cast are such outstanding performers as: Ezra Stone, of "Aldrich Family" fame, Burt Ives, known for his characterizations in the "Wayfarin' Stranger" and Joe Bush who last appeared on Broadway in the comedy hit, "My Sister Eileen."

$1400 Contributed To Polio Campaign

Complete returns on contributions to the "March of Dimes" campaign at Fort Benning total $1,400.99, it was announced today by Mrs. Walter S. Fulton, chairman of the drive. The 124th Infantry Regiment was the largest contributor on the post with the soldiers giving $605.46 to the fund to benefit the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The personnel of the Station Hospital contributed $212.86 to the drive, Mrs Fulton said, as funds were turned over to Muscogee county officials.

Columbus–

(Continued from Page 1)

groups which urged the commission to keep Columbus on Eastern War Time are the Merchants' association, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Pilots' Club, the Lions Club, and the Business and Professional Women's Clubs. The present time scheduled also was backed by the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer newspapers and Radio Station WRBL.

Urging the time change were ministers of the various churches in the city who pointed out that there was a decided decline in church attendance.

Stonewall Jackson, who stated he represented the Rose Hill Methodist Church Men's Bible Class at Tuesday's meeting of the commission suggested that the "commissioners consider the fact that they are elected by the citizens of this city and not by Fort Benning."

Col.–

(Continued from Page 1)

again was promoted to major in 1920. Coming to Fort Benning in 1923, he took the company officers' course at the Infantry school.

Graduating from the course here, Colonel Davidson was assigned to Fort Clayton in the Panama Canal Zone. He again came to Benning in 1927 where he was a student officer in the advanced course at the Infantry school. In 1929, Colonel Davidson attended the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

From 1929 to 1933, Colonel Davidson was an instructor at the Infantry School at Fort Benning. Then he was named a member of the Headquarters Staff in the CCC at Camp Beauregard, La.

In 1936, he was named a lieutenant colonel and assigned to the 7th Infantry at Vancouver Barracks, Washington. Later he was assigned to duty at New Brunswick, N. J. Colonel Davidson is a native of Colorado.

"Given them Butter and guns—we'll take what's left":

"We venture to say that the whole gang at Benning feels the same way: Give us oleomargarine or jam or just plain bread. But make sure the boys in the fight now get 'firsts' and 'seconds' on everything—and there'll not be another grumble from us."

The conservation program is, veritably, an "all out" campaign at this Army training center.

Post–

(Continued from Page 1)

grease, raw bones, and meat trimmings. A total of 1,012,218 pounds of such items has been collected and sent back to factories for use in the making of munitions.

The Army is more careful now than ever in the salvaging of packing cases. From the sale of such reclaimed cases, Fort Benning, during the same recent seven month period, realized $2,875.39. Included in this category are egg case hulls, vegetable hampers, egg case fillers, egg case flats, vegetable lids and citrus crates.

WHOLEHEARTED SUPPORT

"Success in the Army's conservation program," General Fulton observed, "depends upon the wholehearted support of every enlisted man on kitchen police, as well as his officers who supervise the overall conservation program."

In recent weeks, the collection of scrap metals at Fort Benning has declined proportionately, it was revealed by Colonel Stephen B. Massey, director of supply at Fort Benning. This is attributed to the fact that all stores of metals, not in use at the post, have already been salvaged.

On the other hand, Col. Massey pointed out, the collection of used tin cans, specially prepared by kitchen police and housewives on the post, has increased continually.

One of the most valuable discoveries of scrap metal and discarded rubber proved to be a forgotten iron and rubber "mine" at the post. Since 1919, when Fort Benning was founded, huge piles of scrap metal and rubber were thrown into a dump on the post.

From this "mine," which included bent nails, huge vaults and safes, and old rubber tires, came much valued materials which were reclaimed for use in the making of guns and munitions of war.

LIGHTS, WATER

Added features in the Army's conservation program were highlighted in recent weeks at Benning by requests of the Post Engineer, Colonel Albert J. Bain, urging Army personnel to cut down on the use of electricity as well as water.

In the move to save water, Colonel Bain asked the soldiers to "Save water and soak a Jap."

The water conservaton program has many features, however. "When you save water," Colonel Bain pointed out, "you save electricity, essential chemicals, and prolong the life of almost irreplaceable equipment."

Encouraging results are gradually being obtained in the use of water on the Post. Six million gallons of water presently is being used per day at present, as compared with seven and a half million gallons a day during the same period last year, even though in the year the post population has increased greatly.

The use of electricity at the vast Army post has skyrocketed since peace time. In launching the program to conserve electricity, Colonel Bain disclosed that in 1926, 600,000 kilowatt hours per year were consumed at the post. However, with the coming of war and the influx in the total of personnel at the post, electric consumption at the post jumped to 13,501,000 kilowatt hours in 1940 to 31,173,000 kilowatt hours in 1942 the latter probably the peak year in expansion.

SAVE AMMUNITION

The electricity conservation program, Colonel Bain hopes, will see the total use of the power considerably reduced as military personnel join in the efforts to save the vital power.

"Turning off that one electric light bulb or cutting off an electric machine for five minutes while it is not in use is the kind of cooperation we want," Colonel Bain declared.

Fort Benning's Infantry School has perfected musical transcription which, when played on recording machines, simulate battle conditions on problems. Thousands of dollars are saved annually by this system, wherein one ten-inch record can produce a deadly and deafening volume of 37 mm. or machine gun fire or anything else that might be called for.

Fort Benning's personnel readily realize the value of their efforts in the conservation programs. They even are willing "to give, until it hurts."

BUTTER SCARCE

But, the soldiers don't take it that way. Butter, for instance has been scarce on the dining tables at the Army post for some time. Championing the spirit of the soldiers, The Fort Benning Bayonet, the post newspaper, recently editorialized in a column headed

Ex-Two–

(Continued from Page 1)

Rommel, but I can tell you that we're giving old Rommel plenty of headaches.

END IN '43?

"I don't know how the rest of the war is getting along, but I feel that the African front will be ended in a few months—and the war by the end of 1943. Perhaps I can see you by next Christmas; at least I hope I'm around by then. They say you can't duck them all, but I've managed to duck my share so far—and I think my luck will hold out. Regards to all—and I'll keep an eye open for that Cross."

In another letter Lt. Falconieri stated that he had shot down a German plane. He added that he had been recommended for a decoration because of the part that he played in leading American troops in an attack early in the North African campaign.

"I doubt if they'll give me a medal though, the job wasn't big enough. I haven't gotten that Cross for you yet, but otherwise I have quite a score so far: 20 prisoners, as many dead, an armored car, and a mess of motorcycles."

He ended the letter with advice to his friend on the importance of deep foxholes.

Lt. Falconieri left the 29th Infantry last March to attend OCS. He had been previously stationed at Camp Croft, S. C.

TIGER OFFICERS ADVANCED

Six first lieutenants in the 10th Armored Division have recently ben promoted to the rank of captain, it was announced by the public relations office. They include Captains Thomas B. Gwydir of Combat Command "A," Thomas M. Lewis of the 11th Armored Regiment, Joseph W. Noah of the Maintenance Battalion, Charles Pruitt of the 423rd Field Artillery and Charles C. Stauffer and John E. Stevens, Jr., of the 80th Medical Battalion.

10th–

(Continued from Page 1)

sonnel insured, the unit standing for the division is as follows:

80th Armd. Med. Bn., 95%, for $3,386,500.
420th F. A. Bn., 92%, for $4,834,000.
90th Ren. Bn., 91%, for $6,181,000.
419th F. A. Bn., 85% for $4,910,000.
Main. Bn., 84%, for $5,350,000.
130th Sign. Co., 85%, for $1,767,000.
423d F. A. Bn., 63%, for $4,766,520.
Div. Hq. Co., 83%, for $1,115,000.
Supply Bn., 82%, for $2,815,500.
55th Eng. Bn., 82%, for $4,878,500.
11th Armd. Reg., 80%, for $13,740,000.
Service Co., 78%, for $1,575,500.
3d Armd. Rgt., 68%, for $13,816,500.

O. C. Class–

(Continued from Page 1)

Theron W. Kelsoe, Albert J. Malakuskie, William T. Harris, Allen E. Gray, J. P. Wood, Leonard Dobrow, Ernest H. Ferrell and Frank A. Zbiek.

WANTED!!
ANTIQUES, VASES, MUSIC BOXES, OLD BUTTONS, DOLLS, CHOICE CHINESE, ALL KINDS.
ELLEN WORRALL
ANTIQUES, GIFTS
1148 1st Ave. — Dial 3-1413

Can't Come to Town?
DIAL 8241
KITTY KAY will shop for you
at KIRVEN'S
Your Value-Packed Dept. Store
Kitty Kay, Kirven's personal shopper, stands ready to help you shop. She's a whiz at getting just the thing you want by a mere description. Dial 8241, you'll find Kitty your personal shopping advisor and friend.
J. A. KIRVEN CO.
YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

KIRVEN'S
Suit Versatility with Judy Bond's
Batiste BLOUSE
2.25
Transform your slick, tailored suit into a dressy after-five creation. It's simple with a dainty white batiste and lace blouse by Judy Bond. Soft and feminine, whispy as a spring breeze, this Judy Bond blouse will give your suit the "lingerie" touch that's so popular this spring. Sizes 32 to 38; a necessity for every suit owner.
ACCESSORIES
KIRVEN'S STREET FLOOR
J. A. KIRVEN CO.
YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

WEAR A Spiffy for NEATNESS
INVISIBLE UNDER THE COLLAR
COLLAR STAY
SELF ADJUSTING
HOLDS COLLAR POINTS DOWN
Neatness counts in the army—just as it does in civilian life. That's what the officers say.
Collar neatness gives you that smart, snappy, crisp appearance. SPIFFY is doing a swell job in dressing up the army.
Easy On—Easy Off
Quick as a wink to put on and take off. It's self adjusting and stays put.
COSTS BUT A FEW CENTS
BEFORE
AFTER
ON SALE AT ARMY AND PX STORES
SPIFFY
INVISIBLE COLLAR STAY

Through These Portals . . .
Pass the Best Soldiers on Earth
P. S. STORES
MILITARY SUPPLIES
926 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

FT. BENNING BAYONET

FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1943.

Edited By Public Relations Staff

The Benning Bayonet published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns of editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

You must not only know your job, but the job of your superior. You can't be an officer, you can't be a soldier, you can't be a leader, you can't be a man, unless you are honest, unless you are courageous.

—Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell,
Commanding General,
Services of Supply.

'With Malice Toward None, With Charity For All'

We have a war to win. We are celebrating this week the birthday of a war-winning president. How did he do it?

It is hard to conceive the difficulty of the task which faced Lincoln. He was under the incessant pressure of office-seekers, who crowded the corridors and ante-rooms of the White House. His every move was subject to the violent criticism of a large section of the press. Even in his own cabinet he was often treated patronizingly, if not with contempt. Yet amid all the confusion and under the pressure of great decisions he maintained an inward calm at the height of the storm, with clear vision of the course the ship of state would sail.

Lincoln conceived his task to be to preserve the nation's unity. He saw that to do so meant that first of all he must present a pattern of that unity in those closest to him. Out of a group of conflicting personalities — small-visioned, jealous, divided by political points of view, and including men who had been leading contenders for his own high office—he pulled his cabinet into a team united in the cause of victory and union. With infinite patience, with dry humor, with constant insight and faith in the individual greatness and capabilities of each of them, he won even those among them who, like Sumner, looked upon him as their inferior. His own unwavering purpose showed them that higher altitude where the country's need became the paramount concern.

It will take such a spirit today to resolve the conflicting interests of industrial, political and other groups whose concern is with any lesser goal than the one clear necessity of the country's survival.

His was not the driving energy born of hatred, nor was there any trace of appeasement in him. He achieved that miracle which was the mark of his greatness, a mind firmly set on the prosecution of the war to its conclusion, yet without any of the bitterness which might otherwise have clouded his vision of the real principles which were at stake. He could say, "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right",—a spirit that friend and foe alike could agree held the answer to the problem of peace and reconstruction. If our enemies today can be convinced that the same spirit will prevail in any postwar settlement, the progress of the war itself will be greatly shortened.

We need not wait for a Lincoln today. What about a lot of little Lincolns? The future peace of the world may depend on thousands of ordinary people who have learned what he learned under the stress of conflict, the secret of wisdom and steadiness and unflinching purpose. "I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go. My own wisdom and that of all about me were insufficient for that day." We shall find our sufficiency as he found his.

Point Rationing Means Feeding A Winning Army

Rationing is a patriotic way of equally distributing the essentials of life.

War Ration Books No. 2 will be issued to all families in the U. S. These books will contain red and blue stamps. The blue stamps will be put into use immediately for canned and bottled goods. The red stamps will go into use later for meat.

There will be a total of 96 blue stamps in each book and each stamp will have a number showing its point value, and a letter designating the ration period during which it can be used.

The O. P. A. will place "point value" on each kind of food rationed. For example, a can of beans may have a value of 3 points, and a can of tomatoes a "point value" of 5 points—and so on. (These points are just made at random, they are not official figures.)

Now, let's say that each individual has a total of 50 points to be used during the first ration period. He has his choice of buying 10 cans of tomatoes (in this example) or he can buy 1 can of tomatoes and 15 cans of other foods which may have only 3 point values each, or he may buy 50 cans of an item of 1 point each.

The "point value" which the O. P. A. will designate each food will depend on the supply available at the beginning of each ration period. This means that if canned tomatoes are scarce, they will have a high "point value," while if there is plenty of pineapple juice, it will have a lower "point value."

From time to time rationed foods on the market will vary, that is why there will be rationed periods, and at the beginning of each new ration period the O. P. A. will assign new "point values" to various foods. The amount of points you may "spend" limits the amount of food you will be able to buy. This is a democratic way to distribute the foodstuffs, so that each person in the United States will obtain an equal share of our available stocks.

Let us not complain against the O. P. A. or our Government which is trying to supply our needs in a fair way and at the same time feed our troops with the most wholesome foods which can be sent to our fighting fronts.

Remember—Feed our fighting men first, last and always, for they are going to make this world a better place to live in for the future.

MAJOR FRANK I, CIOFALO,
Regimental Surgeon,
1st Student Training Regiment.

Time Change Arguments Based On Selfishness

The city commission's deliberation of the time situation turned out to be a farce as is the case so often when a political body tries to estimate the value of action in terms of votes.

Every argument presented for a return to Central wartime was based on purely selfish reasons of convenience. We contend that a nation at war should not be thinking in such terms. And the vague argument that for some strange reason more persons attend church under Central wartime than do under Eastern wartime somehow escapes us.

It is discouraging to find civilians caring so little for the problems of men in uniform.

Tempus Fugit-Result: Ad G. I. Glossary

AZIMUTH: A foreign name for the direction in which you are supposed to squint.

INTERSECTION: When, on a map problem, you arrive between two stakes the process of outguessing the instructor is called Intersection.

RESECTION: When, in the middle of a predetermined bearing course you learn to your horror that you have the wrong reading. Resection then means picking a likely looking tree and begin all over.

CIG: An official notice that all candidates in the 1st STR have changed the position of their clothing in the racks.

REVEILLE: That morning interruption between sleep and chow.

HASTY FIELD FORTIFICATIONS: Donning an overcoat for Reveille. It covers a multitude of underwear.

COMBAT INTELLIGENCE: When you forget your nameplate and engage in maneuvers with the tactical officer to cover up with your clipboard. If you succeed, you have combat intelligence.

CADENCE: The number of steps per minute which the guy ahead of you isn't taking.

CANDIDATE DAVID R. ROCHE,
18th Co., 1st S. T. R.

A Bug Or A Man May Claim Your Life

There was once a dreadful disease which resulted from the bite of an insignificant little fly which cost the lives of thousands of men. For a long time no one knew just what caused the disease. Finally a group of men volunteered to be subjected to the bite of the insignificant fly which was suspected of being the carrier of the dreaded disease.

These men knew there would be one of two results of the test—life or death. But they also knew that if the result were life that thousands of others would be saved from death. It didn't matter so much that they might die. What was more important was that the dreaded disease would be stamped out and thousands of others would live.

And so—Walter Reed and the others prepared themselves—and won.

That's why we're here. Two disease bearing insects are loose in the world—one in the East and one in the West. More deaths are being caused by them than could ever be caused by the lowly Tse-tse fly. And we're here to prepare ourselves to wipe out these insects.

We're taking on a great responsibility because the results of our training will determine whether we live—or die. But that responsibility multiplies itself by a thousand-fold. As individuals we die only once; but as leaders any failing on our part means not only our own lives (and probably the lives of those under us) but through our failure a mission of great importance may be lost.

The Platoon leader's loss would mean the loss of the Platoon; the Platoon would cost the Company; the Company would cripple the Battalion; and soon the Regiment would be lost. All for the want of a good Platoon leader!

This is not a high school or college!

We're not studying for Sheepskins—or letters—or little Gold-Plated Footballs. Brother we're playing for "Keeps!"

And it's not so much that our time here at O. C. S. will determine whether we live or die—or whether those who serve under us live or die because of us. The important and tremendous responsibility for which we have volunteered is to stamp out a disease more dreaded than any other conceived by nature. And stamped out so that it will never again cost a life.

The responsibility is ours—and we're playing for keeps—make no mistake about it.

Let's get down to business!

CANDIDATE JOSEPH L. GRAHAM,
8th Co., 3rd S. T. R.

You can always size up a man by noticing what burns him up. What do you get hot about yourself.

USO Presents—

A CONCERT BY WRBL STARS; 500 FREE YEHUDI MENUHIN DUCATS

By
CPL. SOLOMON S. KLEINDORF

This coming Saturday, the USO-Salvation Army in Columbus will present a concert with the popular WRBL stars, Gertrude Handley and Sue Lauderdale . . . Don't forget that Friday nights are movie nights at this club. Free shows and always a seat if you get there early . . . There will be a change in the Sunday Vesper Services starting this Sunday. The Services will now be run in such a way as to give the men more chance to participate. . . . Whatever happens don't miss the George Washington Birthday party at this club. The night is Tuesday and there is a surprise in store for every man who attends.

On February 28, 1940, a small program was placed on the air. Three years later the program is one of the highlights of WRBL on Sunday evenings. You have probably guessed by this time that the program referred to is "The Army Hour" coming from the Army and Navy YMCA-USO Club in Columbus. Yes sir, on the 28th of this month, "The Army Hour" is three years old Come down and get in on the celebration the last Sunday of the month, but of you can't be there in person, be sure and listen in for a humdinger of a show.

Not only has the USO-Salvation Army Club in Phenix City been using more and more talent from the post — but now Mr. Hardin, program director, is going out and scouting new talent. A new Hill-billy band has been formed and they are sure going strong. The boys are from Lawson Field and one of them has already written a new song just for the band. I don't know the name of the unit, but watch this column for further developments and watch for this new unit because they are up and coming.

Feb. 13—the number is wrong but the night is fine. The night will see a special Valentine Ball held in the large auditorium of the Ninth street USO Club. . . . Here is an item of interest to those men who want to make recordings of their voice to send home and just can't get in town on time. . . . Recordings will now be made on Thursday, Saturday, or any time by special appointment. . . . A little advance information never did any harm so here goes. There will be a special concert by the Three Arts League featuring Yehudi Menuhin, world renowned violinist. The concert is scheduled for February 23 and 500 free tickets will be given to enlisted men. It is believed to be the last Three Arts Concert of the season. . . . Speaking of concerts reminds me to remind you not to miss the Columbus Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Pfc Harold Scheckman. This concert will take place on February 15.

Bolnick Discourses---

HAD HE CAUGHT A RIDE PERHAPS HE'D HAVE WALKED HOME

One Sunday afternoon Private Joe Blow, Air Corps, decided he wanted an airplane ride—his first. He wanted to know what it felt like to have a ship take off under him.

He sauntered down the hill to base operations, and on a blackboard he saw the flights scheduled for the day. Officers stood around in groups with flight bags and light pieces of baggage ready to take off. Private Joe Blow felt like a piece of ham among slices of bread and, so as not to be noticeable, moved over behind two shavetails looking at a large regional map on the wall. One traced a course with his finger while the other followed. Said the first shavetail, "Look, Jack, here's where she lives." Private Blow edged away, toward the counter. A sergeant pointed a finger at him.

"Sarge, I'd like to fly somewheres".

The sergeant looked at the blackboard, then the phone rang.

"Yes, Mrs. Jones, I'll give the Lieutenant your message . . . to be sure and get home before the supper gets cold".

Another phone rang. "Yes, sir . . . reported due in an hour".

Private Blow felt squeezed. To his left an officer was signing clearance papers. Pvt. Joe looked at him for a quick second, and the look was returned but Joe felt it lacked military courtesy to ask, so he just stood and waited.

The Sergeant, finished with the phones, turned to him.

"Have you a chute?"

"No-o-o-o-o".

"Well, you've got to have one before you can go up. Better go down to the operations building, and see if you can get one there".

Private Blow headed around the corner. At the door of the first building in big letters a sign read "NO PARACHUTES". At the second building a sign read "No Chutes", and at the third building the sign read "No"!

Chaplain's Corner

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Chaplain Frank M. Thompson

Tomorrow is the birthday of the man who holds the foremost place in the thought and affection of the American people, Abraham Lincoln.

What an inspiration his life holds for the rising generation, who think their lot a hard one. Born in poverty. His meager education, as a boy, garnered by the light of a wood fire. A life full of pathos, of struggle, of disappointment. But in all these years he held his place.

"Held the long purpose like a growing tree,
And when he fell in whirlwind, he went down,
As when a lordly cedar, green with boughs,
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills,
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky."

In vain we try to account for his greatness. "He stands alone—no ancestors, no fellows, no successors." We may account for the place he holds in our hearts.

He embodies our common humanity. In him, in our best hours, we find our ideal of conduct, especially the ideal that should govern those high in office. We recall:

His honesty. "May I be damned in time, and eternity, if I ever break faith with friend or foe."

His compassion. "May it be said by those who know me best, I always plucked a thorn and planted a flower, where I thought a flower would grow."

His faith in God. "I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go."

"Here was a man to hold against the world,
A man to match the mountains and the sea."

Eve Says—

THERE WAS PLENTY OF THE BITTER IN DAILY LIFE OF 'THE OLD GUARD'

The young brides who have become entranced with army life often look upon the "Old Guard" with wide-eyed admiration. Their years of travel and knocking about the world makes them wonderous creatures to young girls who have left their homes for the first time. Foreign countries are supposed to be magidc and wonderful plaecs to live. Anything that floats on water is a dream ship to take one away from the hum-drum everyday existence of the home town.

Maybe this feeling will suffer a setback when our men return with their stories of world-wide travel. They'll tell of crowded transports, of heat or cold, of anguished longing for simple American things like a hamburger or chocolate soda. The yearning for the sight of an apple tree in bloom or early spring flowers. America becomes a wonderful country when travel offers comparison.

The "Old Guard" could have told this long ago. Transports have never been luxury liners. Families are crowded in tiny staterooms between tier sof bunks mattfessed in G. I. discomfort. Luggage, bundles and baskets crown the tiny space to acute discomfort. Of privacy there is none. The happy family atinosphere is emphasized by the Filipino bath boy who tracks down his victims for their 15 minute privilege of bathing in tubs of salt water. The schedule must not be disrupted and they have been known to invade bridge games with the forthright accusation of "Missy, you didn't take a bath yesterday either—must take today."

Babies, bottles and diapers washesd by exhaused mothers in the very bowels of the ship. Frantic parents grabbing toddlers as they play near the rail and tempt fate into to ssing them into the briny deep. Stifling tropical heat, frayed nerves, boredom.

And the countries themselves. Well, if they're so wonderful why do the women cry so much while thep live there? Whw does each outgoing transport leave the pier full of swollen-eyed tearful women? Why do they sit around the P. X. coke table and talk about the first thing they're going to do when they return to the "States"?

Some long for real cream in their coffee. Others fresh milk, crisp lettuce and fresh fruit. Another will yearn for a real T-Bone steak. Or maybe it's a velvet dress or a fur coat. Others promise themselves shopping orgies in the dime stores. Maybe it's listening to the radio again; they haven't heard Fibber McGee and Molly in two years, or Amos and Andy. Letters with fresh news, not two months old. Pretty American clothes from our wonderful department stores.

Oh, it makes a wonderful story after it becomes a memory. One forgets the unpleasant and unhappy moments of homesickness and frustration. Only that which is gay, colorful and unusual is remembered. Which may be one reason why pastures on the other side of the fence seem greener.

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

Spews Forth the Fact That Colonel's Account Is No 'Count

When it isn't raining here at our ol' stomping grounds, it is something very very unusual. Today was one of our "usual days."

Just when it looked like half of the water in Georgia had cut loose at once, Colonel Swampwater sent for me.

"Sergeant," he says, "I want you to go over to the Post Exchange and get me a bar of chewing gum. I wish to exercise my teeth. Are there any questions?"

"No, Sir," I said.

"Well, move out!"

"I can't, Sir," I said. It is raining to beat all 'get out' and you know how easy I catch cold?"

"Thunderation! Sergeant! What th' (censored). A good field officer is perfectly at home in any kind of weather."

"Yes, Sir," I replied, "But when you read my 201 last week, you said I wasn't cut out for the field. Besides I haven't a nickel."

"You don't need a nickel! Have them put it on my account!"

"I can't, Sir."

"Why in the (censored), can't you?"

"Last time I went over, the finance officer told me your account wasn't 'no count' and that the only reason he didn't refer you to the Provost Marshal was because he was fond of the Provost Marshal, and the Provost Marshal had enough trouble anyway."

"Egad, Sergeant! They can't do that to me. I'm a full colonel! By golly, I'll pull my rank on 'em! That's what I'll do! Shades of Salome! I haven't been so insulted since I left West Point in 1910."

About that time the ol' boy's blood pressure was going over and beyond the boiling point. one of the stenographers came to the rescue with a stick of gum.

Tenderly and with a note of female sympathy in her resonant voice she said coquettishly:

"Does my big, boistrous, blustering Colonel wanna a little bitsy piece of chewing gum?"

Then almost instantaneously changing from a "military vermillion" to a "parlor red," ol' T. P. sheepishly muttered "Thank you, Miss Price," and stalked back to his desk with a very thoughtful look on his map. I followed him back in the hopes that I would be dismissed, but the Colonel leaned back in his swivel chair, reached seriously down into his left hind pocket and as his hand emerged with a bright new shiny nickel, he said:

"Sergeant! When it quits raining, will you please stroll over to the Post Exchange and buy me a block of chewing gum?"

"Yes, Sir," I said, hardly daring to breathe. The old boy had a very peculiar look in his eyes:

"And when you come back Sergeant, will you please take a stick of the gum over to Miss Price. I want to show my appreciation for her kindness."

"Yes, Sir," I said, grabbing the nickel and moving hastily out; but just as I reached the door I heard the Colonel give a deep sigh, and as I turned curiously, he muttered:

"Do you think Spring will be coming soon, Sergeant? Spring is my favorite time of the year."

"No doubt of it, Sir," I said staggering hastily down the stairs and wondering just how long the war was going to last.

POETRY

WHERE BREATHES THE FOE BUT FALLS BEFORE US, WITH FREEDOM'S BANNER STREAMING O'ER US?

A SOLDIER'S DREAM

He crawled to bed that night in May,
And dreamed a dream of another day.
A major on duty for dress parade,
He saw them pass in cavalcade.

He dreamed he saw a horse of white
Dashing along through pitch-black night,
And on its back with head held high
Washington the general was passing by.

Again he saw in that cavalcade
Smap-fox Morgan and his forest brigade,
Green Moutain boys, and aloud heard them cry;
"Give us Liberty, or let us die!"

Then came the warriors of Bunker Hill,
Warren, the fighter, of might and skill.
Followed by Jackson, tall and lean,
Well remembered at New Orleans.

Crocket was next; as we all should know,
Last to go at the Alamo.
Tayqlor, the victor of Monterey.
Passed in review that self-same day.

Lee and Grant were not far behind,
Greatest generals of their time:
Stonewall Jackson, Sherman, Meade;
They, too, fought by word and deed.

Pershing, Allen, and many more
Leaders of Battle in the First World War;
Sergeant York with rifle in hand.
So well known throughout the land.

And far away in the mist he saw
MacArthur, a leader in global war.
And last in line he could plainly see
Each doughboy fighting for liberty.

And waking up with a sudden start,
He shouted aloud "We'll do our part;"
Our forebears died not in vain.
For troops of fredom are marching again.

E. B. REGEMAN,
Hq. Co., 114th Infantry, Attached to 23rd Co., 1st S. T. R.

TIS Truck Regiment 'Handpicks' Officers

Roster Includes Herlihy, Jones Anderson, Phillips, Glatt, Evans

The Provisional Truck Regiment, recent addition to The Infantry School Service Command, has a group of senior officers that has been virtually hand-picked for the work assigned to this new organization.

Working under Colonel Frank J. Vida, commanding officer, as his executive, is Lieut. Colonel Edward G. Herlihy. This regular army Infantry officer, a native of Chillicothe, O., has a distinguished military record that dates back to the year 1916 when he enlisted in the Regular Army. He was commissioned a second lieutenant exactly one year later and, promotions coming astonishing rapidity, was made a captain less than four months from that date. The gold leaves of a major came to him in 1934, and he was promoted to the grade which he now holds in 1940.

Colonel Herlihy's World War service covered some of the most famous battles of the period and, as a member of the Thirty Eighth Infantry, Third Division, he participated in the Marne Defensive, as well as the Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel, and Argonne offensives. He was wounded in July, 1918, and, for his courage in the face of danger, was decorated with the Purple Heart and the Silver Star Medal.

OVERSEAS

Prior to joining the Provisional Truck Regiment, Colonel Herlihy had served with his overseas unit, the 38th Infantry, and the 24th, 29th, 65th, and the 369th Infantry Regiments. When not on duty with some of the above mentioned organizations, he served with the following civilian components of the service: The ROTC, Ohio State University, The Organized Reserves, Atlanta, Georgia, and ROTC units in the Dallas, Tex., High school system.

Aside from his tactical training and actual experience in army work, Colonel Herlihy has attended one of the Infantry School's company officers' courses as well as one of the school's advanced courses. During the years 1929-1931, he was at the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kas.

He has been given a variety of military duties to perform and, at different times has served as rifle, pistol, and machine gun instructor, commanding officer of such units, battalion commander in an Infantry regiment, and executive officer of one of the army's largest replacement training centers.

Colonel Herlihy is a lover of the outdoors, interested in Nature and his chief hobbies are hunting, fishing and photography.

COLONEL JONES

Acting as an organizer and, prior to Colonel Herlihy's arrival, Executive Officer, Lieut. Colonel Henry C. Jones has been on special duty with the regiment since its activation. He has a military record that includes service in the United States Navy, the Regular Army, and the Massachusetts National Guard. His travel in the military service has been extensive and he has seen foreign service with both the Philippines and the Hawaiian Departments. In this country, he has served at such widely separated posts as Fort George Wright, Washington, Fort Lincoln, North Dakota, and Fort Devens, Massachusetts.

A specialist in Communications, Colonel Jones has, in addition, served as an adjutant, supply officer, company commander, battalion commander, and being well versed in Military Law, has served as trial judge advocate on all types of army courts.

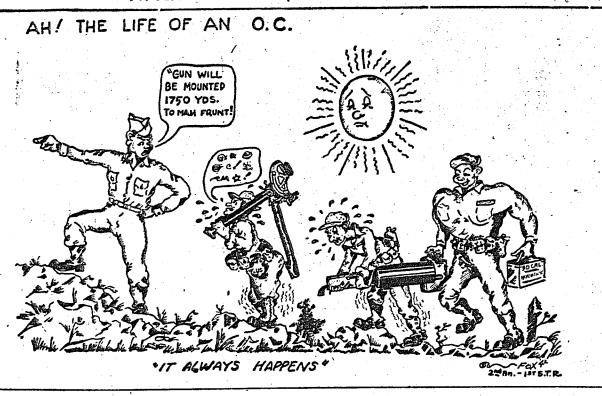
COLONEL ANDERSON

The commander of the First Battalion is Lieut. Colonel Russell H. Anderson, of Tuckahoe, New York. An ROTC man at Connecticuts' Wesleyan University in 1916-17, he was inducted into the army in 1918. He attended an Officer's Candidate School at Camp Lee, Virginia, and was commissioned a second lieutenant early in 1919.

COLONEL PHILLIPS

The distinction of commanding the battalion, whose area embraces the Regimental Headquarters, went to Lt. Col. Joseph F. Phillips. This officer was one of the first to report for duty with the Provisional Truck Regiment, and was detailed as its executive officer until change in assignment placed him in command of the Third Battalion. Colonel Phillips is a native of Little Rock, Arkansas, and prior to reporting for active service in 1940, held a variety of positions, chief of which was the job as supervisor of apprentices and mechanical training for the Missouri Pacific railway system. In August, 1940, he was assigned to the staff of the Third Military Area, with headquarters in St. Louis, Mo. Following a half-year period in his home city, where he was the adjutant and later an instructor in the Little Rock Military District, he was ordered to Fort Benning, where, until assigned to his present organization, he was instructor in the Automotive Section of the Infantry School.

MAJOR GLATT



The responsibility of commanding the Fourth Battalion rests with Major Ralph A. Glatt, one of two battalion commanders who claim New York as their home state. Major Glatt is a native of Whitesboro, N. Y., and the greater part of his time in civilian life was spent as a salesman for the Dold Packing Corporation, of Utica, N. Y. He was called to active duty on January 6, 1942, with the 101st AT Battalion and arrived, with that organization, at Fort Benning later in that month. In March, 1942, he was transferred to Headquarters, Internal Security, District Number 4, and remained there until ordered back to Benning in January of this year. He was placed on Special Duty with the Provisional Truck Regiment, and is now serving as Battalion Commander. Major Glatt has the distinction of being a graduate of the G3 course at Leavenworth, Kansas — home of the world-famous Command and General Staff School.

OLYMPIC COACH

There followed a period during which he served as assistant coach for the Greek Olympic team in the 1920 games in Antwerp. The next year he was with the Rumanian Army as Civilian Athletic Advisor, and ended his stay abroad by spending three years in relief committee work in the Russian Caucasus area, during which time he served in Batum, Titlis, and Alexandropol. Returning to this country by way of Siberia, China, and Japan, Colonel Anderson spent twelve years in the employ of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's New York office. As a reserve officer, he was subject to periodic tours of active duty and on eleven different occasions served his country in that manner. He was assigned to the 77th Division until 1941, when he was brought back to active service to fill the need for officers occasioned by the current emergency. Coming to Fort Benning, he was given duty with the First Student Training Regiment, and at the time of his transfer to the Provisional Truck Regiment, was one of that organization's Battalion Commanders.

COLONEL EVANS

The assignment as Commander of the Second Battalion of the Provisional Truck Regiment went to Lt. Col. Thomas M. Evans, of Conway, South Carolina. Colonel Evans, as a civilian was interested in rural life and its development and for more than seven years was connected with the Clemson College Extension Service as a County Agent in his home state. Later, becoming interested in the work of the Civilian Conservation Corps, he used his earlier training and experience to good advantage in working with thousands of young men in CCC camps in the states of North Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Called to active service in 1941 as a captain, he was ordered to Fort Benning. Since being at this station, Major Evans has served with the First Student Training Regiment and, in addition, has attended the Battalion and Staff Officers School—from which he was graduated in December, 1942.

They Gasped With Wonderment As He Began to Play Piano

Concert Hall Virtuoso Thrills Fellow Students With Key-Tickling

It happened just as you used to see it in the ads. When the Lieutenant sat down at the piano, the boys laughed (but politely) but sixteen bars later every eye in the dayroom was bulging out in amazement. Lt. Wenz, though, wasn't showing off any mail-order piano jive. The officer candidates at the 23rd Company Student Training Regiment in the Infantry School were listening to one of the top band pianists of the late 1920's and a veteran of the concert halls as well.

When Bob Wenz was seven years old, his mother noticed that his pawings at the piano were making music instead of the usual childish discords. Thereupon his formal musical education began and three years later the gifted kid gave his first full-dress concert in Newark, N. J. At some such point most child prodigies roll up their concert scores and drop from the public view to show up years later as pitchmen or refugees from straitjackets. Not our men, though. Two years later his fame and progress had brought him inevitably to New York's famous Carnegie Hall and at the age of twelve he had already reached the goal of the world's greatest musicians.

CARNEGIE HALL

In case there is anyone who doesn't know it, a concert at Carnegie Hall is the musician's dream come true. Think of a fighter crawling through the ropes in Madison Square Garden for his first crack at the title, or a sprinter getting down on his mark at the Olympics and you'll get some idea of what it means to walk across that big bare Carnegie stage to play for Americ's most critical music audience. Was Master Wenz excited? Well, a little. You see, the pupil's triumph had turned his teacher into a nervous wreck and Mrs. Wenz fainted right in the first row from sheer pride and joy. So Bobbie, naturally somewhat distracted by all this, left out three pages of the score. But his appearance was a triumph; he had hit the top.

Then it happened, that thing so peculiar to American music and musicians. The boy wonder turned to jazz and thereafter it held first place in his musical consciousness. When his parents saw what was cooking, they did everything except tape his fingers.

PAUL WHITEMAN

But the parents lost the battle of Wills and at fourteen Bob was being featured by the best bands playing around Jersey. At sixteen his reputation as a band pianist landed him on the Keith circuit (at that time the equivalent of filling the orchestra slot at the Paramount in New York today) and it was there that Art Landry tagged him for the national big time. After that it was one top-flight outfit after another (George Olson, Bert Lown, Ben Pollock, etc.), then in 1929, Paul Whiteman brought him into his great organization. Wenz spent almost that entire year with Whiteman, playing alongside such greats as Bix Beiderbocke, the all-time top man in jazz music.

OPENS MUSIC SCHOOL

The close of 1929 saw the best of the musicians playing for as little as seventy-five a week. Wenz decided it was time to quit, returning to Elizabeth, N. J., and opened a school of music which was highly successful. Somehow attracted to the automobile business and gradually gave up his teaching. Two years ago he came into the army. At Fort Bragg he saw the need for giving camp entertainment a shot in the arm and reaching down into his rich talents wrote and produced the show "Whacky in Khaki." Years before he had worked on shows at the Famous Club Abbey and had helped in the production of "Good News!" (remember that one?). His experience and imagination made "Whacky in Khaki" one of the very best of the Army shows, with the title song becoming nationally known.

Lt. Wenz doesn't play much now. Like a lot of other men with important talents he's doing part of the biggest job he's ever been tied up with. But whenever he steps over to that ancient Bunner upright in the dayroom of the 23rd, the boys drop their magazines, ping-pong paddles and what have you and the word gets around in the barracks and the crowd moves in close. Because the man who's now making officers can still make music and no one is chump enough to want to miss any of it.

OFFICERS PROMOTED

Five promotions have visited the 3rd company of the 1st STR since the start of its present advance course class Dec. 27. Beginning with Capt. Benion, who on Dec. 24 was promoted to major, the list includes 1st Lt. Kurdy, promoted to Capt. Dec. 29, and Captains Hinsch, Brockman, and Barber, all promoted to major, on the 4th, 5th and 17th, respectively.

Knoxville, Tenn. (CNS)—One hundred undernourished children are receiving cod liver oil free from the local county government.

'Room Service' Author Seeks Commission Here

Writer for the movies, for the late Florenz Ziegfeld, in his last "Follies", and of his own musicals and plays, including the smash hit "Room Service" is Officer Candidate John Murray of the 15th Company, Second Student Training Regiment.

O. C. Murray was born in New York in 1906, studied for a time for the law, but in 1928 launched a writing career as staff writer for Paramount Studios on Long Island. In 1921 he was engaged by Ziegfeld to write music, lyrics and sketches and also direct his own sketches for the last "Follies" that Ziegfeld himself produced. He was in the midst of writing another production when Ziegfeld died. He then wrote the musical "Americana" and then "Room Service", produced and directed by George Abbott.

"Room Service" broke existing records for the sale of movie rights when $255,000 was paid for it by RKO. Candidate Murray got $80,000 as his share and in all netted $130,000 from the show.

Radio Work

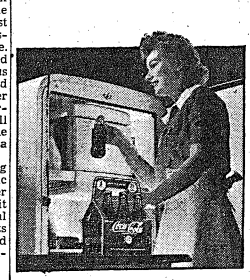
He has also written and produced radio shows for Eddie Cantor, Chase and Sanborn coffee, the Phil Baker "Beetle and Bootle" sketches and others. He went to Hollywood in 1937 for M. G. M., and wrote adaptations for several of the Marx Brothers pictures. He also produced and directed an original stage review with such stars as John Garfield, Louise Rainer, Jergy Colona, Milton Berle and others.

Returning to New York in 1940 he wrote two novels which have not yet been published, opened a producing office of his own and when the war broke out, joining with radio and magazine executives, he worked out the plan for contacting writers all over the country and urging them to include in their script the wishes of governmental agencies for conservation of metals, fats and other defense moves. He then went in with Moss Hart and Aline MacMahon to launch the famous "Lunch Hour Follies" plan, a series of short musical reviews that were taken to defense plants to entertain workers at lunch periods.

IN UNIFORMS - See Hamilton
Tailored To Measure
Made From 19-Oz. Very Dark Elastique
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE
FOR QUALITY— COMPARE!
HAMILTON TAILORING CO.
Display Room - 442 Ralston Hotel

"Z" LUNCH
Most convenient place to Eat . . . No rationing on walking by "Z" Lunch Counter.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT
Serves more people than any other establishment in Columbus.
LOCATED IN HOWARD BUS STATION

Are You Eligible For New Tires?
Try Our One-Stop Service for Recapping, Vulcanizing and Complete Auto Service.
O. P. A. AUTHORIZED STATION NO. 2
Blackmon-Scarbrough, Inc.
11th St.—1st Ave. Dial 3-2751



FURNITURE H. Q.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF BENNING!
Our Benning Branch is the only furniture Store in Columbus catering especially to your needs
BRING YOUR FURNITURE PROBLEMS TO US!
If your stay here is limited, AND YOU DON'T WANT TO BUY, we'll rent you good used furniture, by the month at reasonable rates.
BENNING BRANCH
PERSONS-PENNELL FURNITURE CO.
2333 LUMPKIN ROAD
Only 200 Yards From Intersection of Brown Avenue
DRIVE BY TODAY OR DIAL 3-4428
And Our "Courtesy Car" Will Take You to and from the Store

P & G STUDIO
1028½ Broadway
Frames, Tinting, Gorgeous Work.
Military Personnel Welcome.

That Extra Something!
...You can spot it every time

In these days of wartime shortages, there may not be as much Coca-Cola as before. But still enough for many pauses that refresh. It's wise to buy ahead for the home refrigerator.

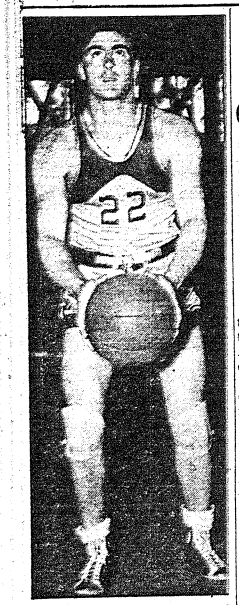
EVERY woman knows it's the extra touches that make a house a home. Ice-cold Coca-Cola is something she likes to add...to brighten the most important part of a home, the people in it.

Coca-Cola is served with pride. Everybody will be pleased. Its quality carries on, never losing the freshness of appeal which first delighted you.

Call for Coca-Cola by its full name or by its friendly abbreviation, Coke. It's the real thing.

* * *

Wartime limits the supply of Coca-Cola. Those times when you cannot get it, remember: Coke, being first choice, sells out first. Ask for it each time.



Extra hours and extra work put a tax on staying power. But at home or in defense work, Coca-Cola does its part in providing energy-giving refreshment.

Curtains to wash, iron and hang—just part of every housewife's chores. Her family's pleasure is her reward—plus a refreshing ice-cold Coke—now and then.

Coca-Cola TRADE-MARK 5¢
The best is always the better buy!
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Prof-Breaker Tilt Opens Play-Offs Tonight

SET FOR PLAY-OFF—Burly Mike Darin, star 117th Infantry guard, is shown sharpening up his foul-shooting eye for tonight's clash with the Profs.

Gators Oppose Devils Friday at H. C. Arena; Final Game on Sunday

Fort Benning Conference Quintets Primed For Action in Title Series

A four-way play-off series for championship honors in the first half of the Fort Benning Conference gets under way tonight on the hardwood at the main post gym when the Academic Profs clash with the 117th Infantry Breakers at 8 o'clock.

The 124th Infantry Gators and 29th Infantry Blue Devils, other members of the quadrangular deadlock, will meet tomorrow night at 8:45 on the spacious center court at the Harmony Church sports arena. In a preliminary fray at the arena, slated for 7:30, the 55th Engineers and 420th Field Artillery will try to break a deadlock for Sand Hill League honors.

Pennants in the other two court leagues were decided without doubt this week as the 1st Parachute Training Regiment cavorted to its seventh win to take the honors in the Main Post League, and the speedy 90th Recons swept to its sixth in a row in Cusseta loop competition. Neither title-winner suffered a defeat on the road to the title.

The final game in the conference play-off series will pit the winners of the prelims against one another on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 on the post gym. The two losers of the Prof-Breaker and Gator-Devil clashes will meet at 2 o'clock the same afternoon in a consolation final to determine third place in the final standings for the first-half.

The four-way tie for flag honors came about last week when both the Profs and Gators, who had been sharing the lead, went down to defeat in their final games. The Academic Regiment bowed to Parachute School in an overtime scuffle, while Lawson Field's last-ditch rally upset the 124th in another thriller. Both the 29th and 117th won their final tests to make it a quartet of leaders.

All four quintets will be at top strength for the play-offs, and the tourney is practically a toss-up. Benny Zientara and Harvey Polk, ailing Profs, are expected back in action, while Joe Stolarzyck, 29th ace, appears ready for full-time duty after a lengthy absence. Both the Gators and Breakers are also in good shape and rarin' to go. It looks like the best court free-for-all Benning has witnessed in many a day.

Basketball Standings

FORT BENNING CONFERENCE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Academic Regt.	5	2	.714
117th Infantry	5	2	.714
124th Infantry	5	2	.714
29th Infantry	5	2	.714
Station Hosp.	3	4	.428
Prcht. School	3	4	.428
Lawson Field	2	5	.286
2nd Stud. Trng.	0	7	.000

MAIN POST LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
1st Prcht. Trng.	7	0	1.000
863rd Ordnance	6	1	.857
99th Q.M.	4	2	.666
7th Observation	4	3	.571
24th Gen. Hosp.	3	4	.428
Finance Detach.	1	5	.167
53rd Gen. Hosp.	1	6	.142
1st Stud. Trng.	1	6	.142

SAND HILL LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
55th Engineers	6	1	.857
420 F. A.	6	1	.857
11th A. R.	5	2	.714
3rd A. R.	2	4	.333
419th F. A.	2	4	.333
423rd F. A.	2	4	.333
54th Inf.	2	4	.333
Maint. Bn.	1	6	.143

CUSSETA LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
90th Recons.	6	0	1.000
150th Signal	5	1	.833
Service Co.	3	2	.600
Supply Bn.	2	3	.400
Headquarters	2	4	.333
80th Medics	1	4	.200
Trains	0	5	.000

55th Engineer Five Faces 420th F. A. In Play-Off On Friday

The 55th Engineers and the 420th Field Artillery will meet in the Harmony Church sports arena Friday night to determine the first half championship of the Sand Hill league after both teams finished with six wins and one defeat.

The rapidly improving 11th Armored Regiment Tankers handed the Engineers their first defeat in the final game Monday night, 38-32, after the 420th had finished its first round of games with a 43-28 victory over Maintenance Battalion.

The championship game should prove to be a fast, hard fought contest. The Engineers staged a great rally in their first game to win by two points in a fast, clean game.

BEALS TOP SCORER

Two of the best floor leaders in the league—Beals of the 11th and Petak of the 55th—opposed one another Monday night. Beals, a great defensive player and feeder, stepped out of character long enough to get ten points to lead the scorers.

The high flying 90th Recons barely squeezed by Headquarters Company, 43-40, as they annexed the clinching game which kept their record clean in the Cusseta league. Thirty points by Houghton and Lombardy kept the losers within close range throughout.

Emmett Barrett, center for the New York Giants pro football team, entered the Army last week at Portland, Ore. Barrett, who carried around 198 pounds during last football season, weighs in at 168.

507th Tossers Gain Close Win Over Bulldogs

University of Georgia Loses to Chutists In Two Overtimes

The 507th Parachute Infantry basketball team, after trailing 17-14 at intermission, came from behind in their own gym Saturday night to whip the University of Georgia cage squad, 32-31 in a second overtime period.

At the end of the regular playing period the count was knotted at 21-all. Five minutes of tight basketball, in which both sides guarded closely and in turn missed a few close shots failed to produce another point and the game went into a second overtime period.

FOUL WINS GAME

An over-anxious Bulldog player shoved Ardziejewski and the 507th man flipped through a foul shot that ultimately won the game.

For three full minutes after the foul was made both sides tried desperately to score. Several times 507th shots rolled around the rim and went back out.

The Parachute five appeared to be even more superior than the score seems and during the last part of the contest had the ball in their possession the bigger part of the time.

LaFayette King of the Bulldogs was tops for the night in scoring with 11 points.

Todd, Stout and Ardziejewski each collected nine for the winning outfit.

The 507th was without the services of their star forward, Tex Walters, who is in the hospital.

A former Notre Dame gridironer recently recalled some prophetic words by Knute Rockne on a homeward journey from West Point in 1925, after Army had administered a 27-0 shellacking to the "Fighting Irish." Said Rockne, "I know you fellows feel bad, but I want you to remember one thing: If we ever go to war, God help the fellows who ever tackle them!" On that 1925 Army team were Brig. Gen. LaVerne (Blondy) Saunders, Brig. Gen. Emmet (Rosey) O'Donnell and Maj. Trap Trapnell, all decorated for distinguished service in this war, and Capt. Moe Daly, captured with Maj. Trapnell by the Japs in the Philippines, and Art Meehan, killed there.

Troy Teachers Lose To Profs

Harpe Scores 16 Points As Academics Win, 46-39

Elongated Woody Harpe, returning to the starting line-up after an absence of almost two weeks, paced the Academic Profs to a convincing 46-39 triumph over a speedy quintet from State Teachers College at Troy, Alabama, last Sunday afternoon in the post gym.

The giant forward slashed the nets for eight field goals to account for 16 points in the winning cause. Most of the baskets were made on lay-up shots with Harpe's height giving him an advantage over the smaller collegians.

'Playing minus the services of three regulars, Shannon, Polk and Zientara, the Profs led all the way from the opening whistle when Elmer Neibler flashed in for a lay-up to put the ultimate winners out in front. Hal Fyffe at center batted in several field goals to add ten points for the Academic Regiment.

TROJANS SPEEDY

The college lads presented a fast-moving quintet that demonstrated some of the best ball-handling seen at the post all year. But, they lacked the uncanny eye of the Profs on set shots, and eventually went down to defeat after putting up a good ball game.

Doc Davis, former Central High ace in Phenix City, was the pacemaker for the Trojans with 16 points and shared game honors with Harpe. Jackie Powell, running mate of Davis at forward, southpawed seven double-deckers through the nets for 14 points.

PROFS	G	F	TP
Neibler, f	3	0	6
Harpe, f	8	0	16
Fyffe, c	5	0	10
McCrary, c	3	0	6
Homan, g	2	2	6
Prophet, g	1	0	2
Ossi, g	0	0	0
	22	2	46

TROY STATE	G	F	TP
Davis, f	8	0	16
Powell, f	7	0	14
Hatfield, c	2	3	7
Screws, c	0	0	0
Stone, g	0	0	0
Boen, g	1	0	2
	18	3	39

Officials: Lee and Dozier.

A smooth-playing basketball team from Camp Upton, N. Y., forced St. John's University into an overtime period before going down to defeat 47-39 in a rough and fast game played recently at Madison Square Garden in New York City. The soldiers came from behind a six-point deficit midway in the second half to tie the count at 33 all at the end of play. However, in the final period Boykoff of St. John's started pouring them in and got four consecutive baskets, after having been held to only one basket during the regular periods—helping the Redmen to win going away. High scorer for Upton was Pvt. Ray Lumpp, who up until a few weeks ago had scored 114 points for New York University.

COURT PROFESSORS are these ten basket-heavers of the Academic Regiment who oppose the 117th Breakers in the opening game of the conference play-off series tonight. Left to right you'll see Zientara, Polk, Prophet, Homan, Ossi, Shannon, Fyffe, Neibler, McCrary, and Harpe.

'Monk' Meyer of Army Grid Fame Now Commands Unit of 300th

C. O. of 3rd Battalion Was All-American Back During 1935 and 1936

Not so many years back—in fact, only a little more than six—there was a star halfback on Army's football team who baffled just about every major team in the nation. He was a little fellow, who darted about gridirons in such an agile fashion that his teammates (and the sports writers) dubbed him "Monk." He was just as tricky, just as slick as a jungle runner. Today's he's with the 300th Infantry, commanding the third battalion.

Major Charles Meyer, whose home town is Allentown, Pa., graduated from West Point in 1937, after being an honor student, and an All-American football player for two seasons, 1935 and 1936. He also found time to captain Army's basketball team and to play on the baseball and lacrosse squads.

SERVED IN HAWAII

After his graduation, Major Meyer was assigned to Fort Houston, Texas. He remained there with the 9th Infantry for two years, and then proceeded to Hawaii, where he served right through the attack on Pearl Harbor. As a company commander at Schofield Barracks, he engaged in beach defense.

In June, 1942, Major Meyer returned to the mainland, having been assigned to a division at San Francisco. His next stop was Fort Benning, where he completed the parachute training course and the Battalion Commander and Staff Officers Course at The Infantry School. Then he was appointed a battalion commander in the 300th, recently activated here at Benning to serve as a demonstration regiment in the School Troops Brigade of the Infantry School.

PROUD OF MEXICANS

Young and forceful, Major Meyer brings all the class of West Point to the 300th, plus his invaluable experience in the theater of operations and his parachute training. Among the units of his battalion, he is thus far particularly proud of his all-Mexican platoon, which he calls an "All-American platoon."

Court Card

THURSDAY, FEB 11TH
Main Post Gym
6:30—89th Q. M. vs. Finance Detach.
8:00—Academic Regt. vs. 117th (Conference play-off).
Sports Arena—Service League
7:30—3rd STR vs. Med. Detach.
8:45—2nd STR vs. Post Detach.
7:30—Reception Center vs. 1st STR.
FRIDAY, FEB. 12TH
Main Post Gym
7:00—1st STR vs. 2nd STR (Service League.)
8:30—3rd STR vs. Tuskegee.
Sports Arena
7:30—55th Engineers vs. 420th F. A. (Sand Hill Play-off).
8:45—124th Inf. vs. 29th Inf. (Conference play-off).
SUNDAY, FEB. 14TH
Main Post Gym
2:00—Consolation final between losers of conference play-offs on Thursday and Friday nights.
3:30—Championship game for first-half title in conference between winners of preliminaries.
MONDAY, FEB. 15TH
Main Post Gym—Service League
7:30—Post Detach. vs. Acad. Regt.
8:45—3rd STR vs. Reception Center.

507th Continues Clean Sweep in City League

The 507th Parachute Infantry basketball team blazed onward toward an undefeated campaign in the Columbus Independent cage loop when they beat Bibb in last week's play for their ninth consecutive conquest within the circuit.

Nehi retained its hold on second place with a win over Columbus Mfg. In the other two contests Alexander's tripped Columbus Mfg. and the Pepsi-Cola topped Bibb.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
507th	9	0	1.000
Nehi	5	2	.714
Columbus Mfg.	3	4	.429
Pepsi-Cola	3	4	.429
Alexander's	3	5	.375
Bibb	0	8	.000

117th Breakers Prove To Be Iron Men By Winning Four Tilts In Three Days

The powerful 117th Infantry Breakers proved themselves the real "iron men" of Benning basketball this past week-end when they played—and won—four games in three days in preparation for their conference play-off tilt tonight with the Profs.

Last Friday night, the Breakers trounced 1st Parachute Training, Main Post league top-notchers, by a 60-48 count in a fast game. Saturday, the 117th ran wild to whip Troy State Teachers by a 57-35 count in an exhibition at the post gym.

It was on Sunday afternoon, however, that the 117th quint really proved to be iron men when they gained a pair of triumphs in consecutive games over the Pepsi-Cola quintet and the 802nd Field Artillery tossers. The Bottlers from Columbus went down to the tune of 40-26, while the 802nd bowed, 50-30.

Of the 207 points racked up by the Breakers in their four rapid wins, 55 of them were accounted for by Duane Hite, flashy forward star, who is also one of the scoring leaders in the Fort Benning conference. Mike Darin, burly guard, was another consistent scorer over the week-end.

Champ Weight-Lifter Challenges All Comers

His chest measurement is 49 1-2 inches, his waist only 32 1-2. In other words, the guy sizes up like an invested wedge. Besides that, he stands some six feet, two and half inches in his stocking feet and rings the scale at 220 pounds.

He once was awarded the distinction of being the most perfectly developed man for his height in the world. But his name is not Charles Atlas; it is Clarence (now ain't that something), Clarence K. Lundborg.

Candidate Lundborg hangs out in the barracks assigned to 28th Company, 2nd STR, where for some strange reason he commands the awed respect of all his fellow OC's. He is definitely not a man to be trifled with.

IS CHAMP

Lundborg is a weight-lifter—as a matter of fact, he is the Oregon State, Pacific Northwest, Western Canadian and Pacific Coast Weightlifting Champion in the heavyweight division. Once he pushed up some 800 in a weight-lifting match, beating his nearest rival by a margin of 50 pounds. It is nothing at all for him to put 325 pounds to arm's length overhead. That's simple. And the obstacle course here at school—well, if he can't go over the eight-foot wall, at least he can pick it up and walk under.

CHALLENGES TIGER

Not so long ago the 10th Armored discovered a weight-lifting genius assigned to their motorized buggies. Maybe Lundborg and this other bird—we don't remember his name—might have a set-to to see just who is supreme in these here parts. Anyway, it ought to be a lot of fun to see these supermen pit their muscles and brawn against one another.

Drivin' Pete Tinsley, Green Bay Packers guard for the past five seasons, and former University of Georgia All-American, is at the Ft. Sheridan (Ill.) Reception Center awaiting assignment. Pete tried to enlist in the Army directly after Pearl Harbor, but was rejected because of a scarred eardrum.

Panthers Beat Academic Reg't Hoopsters 31-20

The Benning "Panthers" continued their drive in the Service League by defeating the Academic Regiment Pacesetters, 31-20, at the Harmony Church Arena Thursday.

Taking an early lead, the Panthers led by Carl Harrison with 10 points, had little trouble maintaining a margin throughout the game. The Pacesetters came back strong at the start of the third period only to have Lt. Jack Gushin halt their hopes of catching up to the fast moving Panthers by sending Henry Blackburn, Frank Phillipson, Hilbert Jones, Carl Harrison and Victor Stephans into the game. These five men scored eight points during three minutes of play to sew up the ball game.

Charles Gray led the Pacesetters with six points.

Ex-Grid Star Bucks G. T.'s

O. C. Benson Played With Chi Cardinals

Leo Warren Benson who made quite a name for himself as a football, baseball and all-around athletic enthusiast in the midwest, is at the present time bucking the "G. T." (Graded Test) line with the other members of the 20th Company, Third student Training Regiment the Infantry school.

Candidate Benson began his football career at Lincoln High school, Lincoln, Neb., playing three years and making all-state center his senior year. Upon receiving his high school diploma, "Benson spent his summer vacation touring the British Isles with the All-American Baseball Team, playing second base with said team.

In the fall of 1938 Candidate Benson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren E. Benson of Lincoln, Nebraska, matriculated at Nebraska University and played one year of freshman football but later transferred to Illinois Wesleyan where he played two years and became all-conference center his last year.

At the close of his college football career Benson got into the pro league, playing with the Chicago Cardinals and the Cincinnati Bengals, and with the Bengals he not only held down the center's position, but also assisted in coaching the line.

He was inducted at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, in March, 1942, and had his basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif.

Don Ferguson, flashy forward of the Enid (Okla.) Army Flying School five, came through with a spectacular shot in last week's game against the Oklahoma University Aggies that made practically all the newspapers from coast to coast—much to Don's discomfort! The soldier cager, tumbling over the sideline in one of the hectic periods, made a beautiful retrieve of the ball and sent it looping back into the court and right in the basket—the Aggie basket. Post mortem—the Aggies won the game, 43 to 35.

2nd STR Five Bows To 29th

A rejuvenated 2nd Student Training quintet came within a single point of upsetting the strong 29th Infantry Blue Devils Saturday night in a conference test as they sat down, 41-40. Tippy Friedman's field goal and a timely foul flip by Joe Stolarzyck proved to be deciding factors for the Devils in a hard-fought game at the post gym.

Boasting several ex-collegians as new additions to their lineup, the Harmony Church quintet showed surprising resistance as they lost their seventh straight league game. At halftime, the Leaders trailed by a single point, but in the third, they got red-hot and built up a comfortable lead by the time the final quarter began.

SCORES 17 POINTS

With Stolarzyck hitting the cords from all over the court, however, the 29th began to really move, and finally crashed through to their expected victory. Back off the injured list after a three-week absence, Stolarzyck celebrated his return by pumping eight field goals through the hoop plus his game-winning foul. His 17 points made him top man for the game.

Scoogy Gwosdik tallied ten markers for the winners, while Bob Jackson was high man for the Leaders with four goals of each variety which gave him twelve points before he was banished in the final period on four personal fouls. The huge center is a former New Mexico Aggie star who has performed in the national tourney at Madison Square Garden.

Bernie Carnevale, 1938 New York University basketball captain, has been serving as an ensign on convoy duty. Recently his ship was torpedoed by an Axis sub and he spent four and one-half days in a life boat with his gun crew, but was landed in due course at a South American port.

Chute Trainers Capture Honors In Post League

1st PTR Quintet Ends Schedule With Clean Slate To Take Flag

First-half honors in the Main Post League went to the speedy courtmen of the 1st Parachute Training Regiment on Monday night when they swept to their seventh straight loop win by toppling 1st Student Training, 41-26, in the post gym. The Chute Trainers ended their schedule minus a defeat to capture the flag without a dispute.

863rd Ordnance remained in the race until the very end by trimming 7th Observation Squadron, 24-20, earlier in the evening to finish up with six wins and a single loss. The lone defeat administered to the automotive tossers was at the hands of the new chaps in the first game of the season.

24TH MEDICOS WIN

In the third game on Monday night, the traditional Medico battle went to the 24th General Hospital when they hammered out a smashing 40-26 victory over their arch rivals from the 53rd General Hospital quintet in a spirited game.

Last Thursday night, 1st Parachute Training clinched at least a tie for the honors when they toppled the 53rd Hospital, 44-28, while 863rd kept winning with a 35-32 verdict over the 1st STR hoopmen. 7th Observation won the other game last week by a 34-22 count over Finance detachment.

The Chutists romped to both closing victories on the sensational scoring work of their eagle-eyed forwards, Bill Nelson and Bob Newlin. Against 1st STR they split 34 points evenly between them, while last Thursday, Nelson had sixteen markers and Newlin fifteen.

TITLE-WINNERS

The remainder of the title-winners' line-up consists of York at center, with Vargo, Goldhagen and Boyse alternating at the backcourt positions. The Trainers, as the chute club is known, played consistent basketball all the way in the first half, and will be a strong favorite to repeat in the second round-robin which starts in another ten days.

Although the 863rd Ordnance was not as fast a team as the victorious paratroopers, the automotive entry possessed a well-balanced quintet which which was noted for its stellar defensive work. Ed Compton, lanky pivot star, was the high point man in both of the week's victories, tallying nine markers against 1st STR and eleven in the 7th Observation tilt.

BYSZESKY STOPPED

Bill Clark was the scoring star for the 24th Medicos in their win over the 53rd. The crack forward racked up six field goals and two foul flips for fourteen points to give him the game honors. Outstanding feature of the game was the airtight defense which the 24th clamped on Tony Byszesky,

See CHUTE, Page 7

J. WILSON
Alterations
Epaulets 11½ 12th St.
Chevrons Dial 6631

Army Exchange Service
War Department
Services of Supply
Washington, D. C.
This is to certify that
CLASSY CLOTHES SHOP
COLUMBUS, GEORGIA
is an authorized retailer of Regulation Army Officers' Uniforms, to be sold at maximum prices established by the Army Exchange Service.
This authorization expires ... 19..
Chief of Army Exchange Service
Authorization No. 4462

ARMY EXCHANGE PRICES—
Blouses .....$32.50 Slacks (pink) ..$12.00
Garrison Cap .. 5.00 Short Overcoat .. 29.75
Long Overcoat $44.50

We Also Carry a Complete Line of MILITARY ACCESSORIES!
- POPLIN SHIRTS
- ROBLEE SHOES
- GREEN GABARDINE SHIRTS
- ARROW AND BEAU BRUMMEL TIES
- FUR FELT GARRISON CAPS
- TRENCH COATS, All Wool Lined

CLASSY
CLOTHES SHOP
1035 BROADWAY DIAL 7092

BASEBALL UNIFORMS
Let us outfit your team this season. Nice stock, assorted styles, colors, etc. New Shipment Mitts, Gloves, Bats, Balls, Shoes. Good Selection, Reasonable Prices.
Athletic Goods · Toys · Playground Units
Bentley's
Sporting Goods · Bicycles · Sports Clothing
1303 - 1305 BROADWAY PHONE 7365

Big Game Hunter Prepares At TIS To Bring Back Even Bigger Game

Witnessed Italian Naval Maneuvers With Dictators; Read Own Obituary

You've read about them, but the 24th Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry Officer School here has one—a bona fide, in the flesh, big game hunter in the person of Candidate Dale N. Kendall. Kendall, better known professionally as "Jungle Jim," is a renowned hunter, explorer and lecturer who specializes in herpetology—snakes to us.

"Jungle Jim," following his graduation from the Trinity High School, Washington, Pa., in 1933, entered the interior decorating business, but he found that a bit prosaic for him—so to succor his wonderlust he embarked upon an extended bicycle journey that was to carry him through fourteen different countries in Europe. This trip was high-lighted by witnessing the Italian naval maneuvers off Capri with Hitler and Mussolini as fellow observers.

GOLD PROSPECTOR

Candidate Kendall's next adventure was gold prospecting in British Honduras. Strangely enough he soon found out that "bringin' 'em back alive" was more lucrative and far more thrilling than seeking out a lode in the equatorial jungle.

During the period from 1938 to 1941, "Jungle Jim" was actively engaged in leading animal hunting expeditions in the little explored interior of Central America. The periods of inactivity were spent in lecturing under the auspices of the United States Department of Education.

VOODOO MAGIC

On one of his numerous trips into the bush, Candidate Kendall was bitten by the deadly fer-de-lance. Instead of expiring within a few minutes, "Jungle Jim" took immediate first aid measures, but he attributes his present good health to the ministrations of a native witch doctor. So rare is recovery from the bite of the fer-de-lance that Officer Candidate Kendall had the unique experience of reading his own obituary. Another stranger than fiction episode was spent living with the Micos or "monkey people," a tribe of tree dwelling headhunters in the wilds of Guatemala.

WORLD TRAVELER

Candidate Kendall has seen more of Europe, North Africa, and Central and South America, but he claims that is only the beginning. "Jungle Jim" hopes to trek through India and Malaysia when the war is over and he can once more return to his "peaceful" occupation.

Whenever he alights long enough, "Jungle Jim" is home with his parents, the A. K. Kendalls of Washington, Pa. Candidate Kendall is a member of the Columbus Zoological Society and the United States Society of Zoology which has sponsored many of his expeditions.

Word has reached the States that Barney Ross, Marine hero and former boxing champ, knocked out a native "champion" in Samoa who had been giving our Army and Navy heavyweights a going over. The Samoa champ weighed 215 pounds, but Barney had him on the mat 11 times before putting him away in the fifth round. After the fight one of the native chiefs offered him his daughter in marriage and wanted him to share his crown!

Ex-Topnotch Ski Champs Enrolled Here

Roy Mikkelsen, Birger Berg Hail Army Units

If snow comes to Fort Benning this winter, the 13th Company, 1st S.T.R. is all set to stage a winter carnival. In the ranks of this company, commanded by Capt. John J. Wrinn, are two national ski champions and several collegiate and sectional skiers of distinction.

In the big-name ski bracket are Candidate Roy Mikkelsen, twice National Ski Jump champion and twice Olympic Team member; and Candidate Birger Berg,Norwegian Cross-Country champion and recently U. S. Army ski instructor.

Both of these candidates emphasize the importance and necessity of training of army ski units. They point out that the American troops are not only the best equipped in the world (both candidates have wide acquaintance with foreign skiers and foreign armies' methods and equipment) but also learn skiing in a shorter time than is usually required to master the subject.

As an example of this, Candidate Mikkelsen pointed to the recent training of a parachute unit, composed of soldiers from the southern states, so that they became proficient skiers in six-weeks' time. They were one of the first of the para-ski troops outfits.

BEGIN YOUNG

"However, you can't expect to be a ski champion if you begin the sport later than your 10th birthday," he believes. "All champions I have known have begun skiing as youngsters. Two months training will usually qualify you to travel over most terrain."he says.

Mobility, speed and distance are all strong factors in favor of ski troops, both candidates point out. "You can cover great distances fast and retain an ample supply of energy with which to fight," they say, "and when you have the advantage of these factors in winter—well, just look at the Russians now."

Also the candidates believe that it will be all Americans in the after war ski picture. "The sport has become wide spread among this nation's children," they say, "and that is where the champions are made." Important too is the fact that all the better grade of skis are made of hickory wood which grows only in the United States. In the past this wood has been shipped to Norway or Sweden and shipped back to America as skis. Now home shops have sprung up and America is definitely the ski country with a future.

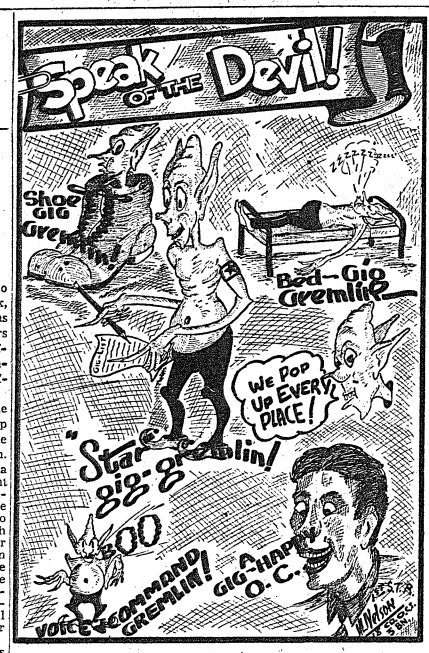
And if you're worrying about how to say it, the experts have that answer too. Abroad you pronounce ski as "shee." Here in America it's "skee." However, the Winter Carnival committee has adopted a resolution that it much prefers "SHES"—meet or no meet!

Ex-Golf Pro No Greenhorn

In Estimating Range Problems

Candidate Elwood Brey, who was golf professor at the Berwick, (Pa.) Country Club until he was inducted into the Army two years ago, is now training to be an officer in the Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry Officer Candidate School.

He is no longer estimating the distance to a green or a sand trap but to a simulated enemy machine gun nest or a line of riflemen. Instead of choosing between a number seven or a number eight iron for his next shot he must decide whether to use a machine gun section or a mortar squad to get the results he wants. Much more hangs on the decision—or will when he is leading a platoon against a real enemy — but he finds that the principle is the same. And the stamina he developed through many tournaments, including two National Opens, is the kind that an officer needs.



Brey learned to play golf as a caddy, when he was fourteen. At seventeen he was Caddy Master for the Lehigh Country Club in Allentown. Two years later he was made Assistant Professional. He came to Berwick in 1936.

HOLDS RECORD

He played in his first tournament, the Philadelphia Open, in 1932. He competed in the Pennsylvania Open several times and in the National Open in 1936 and 1938. He holds the course record 65 at his own Club and also at the Lehigh Country Club in Allentown (66) and the Berkshire Country Club in Reading (67). He has made two holes-in-one and two eagles on par four holes.

Before being sent to Fort Benning last November 14 he served all of his time in the Army at the recruiting and reception center in New Cumberland, except for a week at Fort Meade, Md.

Did you know that Lt. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, head of the U. S. African forces, coached the St. Mary's College football team at San Antonio, Tex., in 1916?

O. C.'s Are Harried By Pesky 'Gremlins'

Study Shows Busybodies Ignore Boys Who Keep On Their Toes

The Air Force is the proud possessor of certain types of gremlins. The Paratroopers are another lot that holds a claim on a distinguished family of them. But imagine the surprise of the O. C.'s in 18th Co. 1st S. T. R., when to their astonishment they find them in Officer Candidate School. Ever present, continually looking for a vent for their mischievous habits, and always making an appearance when one least expects them.

The busiest of the gremlins (sp.) Homo egiistis) are those that are as tall as the bunks and have arms that can reach up to the hangers on the shelves. This gremlin is distinguished by small table-like abdomens on which he carries the proverbial delinquency report (gig list). Yes, and he is also equipped with a pen. He makes his appearance after the first O. C. class has met. Proudly and regally entering a barracks, he then proceeds to walk up the aisle. At the end of the aisle he turns around, puts his hand to his chin and ponders as a great general would immediately before going into a decisive battle.

By this time he has chosen his first victim and goes stealthily forward to meet his foe. He brushes past a bed tag. Obviously, he did not know that the tag would turn over, because he apologized for his clumsiness and turned away. He then takes his pen in his hand and records the name printed plainly on the book shelf of the bunk whose tag he turned over. Are you wondering where the snicker came from? Three guesses.

NEXT VICTIM

Nevertheless, the gremlin by this time reaches his next victim. He is so tired, poor fellow, so without malicious aforethought, he lies down in one of our bunks. At this time our gremlin displays strange behavior belonging only to himself; that of being able to sleep in spite of the continual motion of his carcass. Did we say he was tired? Definitely! He must have been, because he regained his vertical posture in a few minutes ,stretched out his long arms, yawned and turned away with a gleam in his eyes. There are now two names on the list that is standard equipment with this bird.

After walking to the next bunk, he inadvertently decides that his shoes do not fit comfortably. The names of those under the beds are now in focus and are under strict surveillance. Don't tell me he is going to try on those newly shined shoes. He does just that, but after six or seven samples he disappointedly shakes his head after finding out that no one who lives wears the same size shoe that he does. The fellow is ambitious, to say the least. He records on his sheet the names of all the men whose shoes he has tried on and pushed farther under or away from the beds. Discouraged by the shoe shortage, he then walks to the front of the room and drops the list near the bulletin board for all who are concerned to look at, wonder at, and endorse. He then leaves the barracks and goes to the firing range for a little peace and quiet; until the next day.

THROATY GREMLIN

The next important gremlin (Larynageal obstructus) does his work in the cool and shady seclusion of the Adam's apple. He is a parasite of all candidates who give commands. When a command is given he ostensibly plucks on the vocal chords with his musician-like fingers. What is music to him is just the antithesis to the ears of officers.

Another of the gremlins (Physico strainitis) is the species that attaches himself to one's joints and disrupts free movement of same. It is difficult to extricate him until the period of physical training is terminated.

He has a cousin whose domicile is the high wall of the obstacle course. This one is the fastidious member of the family. He permits only those with confident looks on their faces to challenge and pass over his domain. The others have to push him out of the way to traverse the wall. Many fall short of their expectations and discouragingly walk around the wall; the triumphant smile of the obstacle gremlin behind them.

The last of the line of gremlins (Testotum incorrigabilitum) is the most persistent and perhaps the one who works longest and hardest. The only possible way to get rid of this vermin is to dedicate your time to study and staying awake. His abode is the shoulder of sound sleepers and men who do not R. T. P. on their graded tests. On the day of a graded test he is continually jabbering and whispering; inevitably confusing the examinee and causing him to place black pencil marks on the answer sheet where the grading machine least expects to find them.

Candidates, however, have found an antidote for the inanimate creatures. It seems that the damned things do not pay much attention to candidates who stay on the ball.

Lieut. Gayley Made Captain

Named 'Bayonet' And Drew Masthead

Lt. H. T. Gayley, Jr., who named the "Bayonet" and drew its masthead, has been promoted to the rank of captain at the Infantry School where he is chief of the Military Illustrations Group of the school's Publication Section.

Captain Gayley attended the Darrow School at New Lebanon, New York and Lafayette College at Easton, Pennsylvania, from which he was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in 1939. While in college he was prominent in school journalism and also stage designing. He was a member of the freshman soccer team.

The new captain received his commission in the reserves in 1939. Before coming on active duty, he was in the advertising business in New York City. He was called to active duty in October, 1941, as a second lieutenant and was promoted to first lieutenant in June of 1942.

He attended the Officer Communication Course at the Infantry School in the spring of 1942 before being assigned to the Publication Section as an illustrator. Under his present position, he is in charge of illustrations for instructional pamphlets and manuals prepared by the Infantry School for distribution throughout the Infantry branch of the Army.

Missing Soldier's Body Recovered From Deep Ravine

The body of Private John Vitone, of Battery A of the 419th Field Artillery, 10th Armored Division, who has been missing from his unit since December 28, was found today at the bottom of a 15-foot ravine, where the soldier met his death.

Medical officers of the Division are investigating the cause of death. A native of Masontown, Pa., Pvt. Vitone had been listed as absent without leave by his unit since he disappeared in December.

The soldier, a coal miner in civilian life, was 41 years old. His body was discovered today by soldiers who were taking part in a scouting problem in the armored unit's woods east of headquarters.

Pvt. Vitone is survived by his brother, August, of Masontown.

Reception Center Surgeon Acquires Silver Leaves

Major William C. Kennedy, Surgeon of the Reception Center, was elevated to the rank of lieutenant colonel, it was announced today by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, post commander.

The 60-year-old Irish colonel with 40 years in the Army behind him, reported for duty here Jan. 20, 1942, from Camp Blanding, Fla., where he had served since 1827.

Enlisting in 1900 while still a student, Col. Kennedy served in the National Guard from Connecticut. He reenlisted in the United States Army during World War I and served as U. S. Public Health Officer in the eastern division. That term of service ended with the war, but he again enlisted in 1927.

Col. Kennedy has been termed as outstanding in organizing, training and operating the medical service of the Reception Center during the huge inflow of recruits since Pearl Harbor.

A son, Lt. William C. Kennedy, Jr., is stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., in a field artillery unit.

'Chute Officers Get Promotions

Announcement of the promotion of four parachute officers has been received from headquarters, The Parachute School.

Two new captains are listed, Carroll D. York, officer in charge of "B" state jump training, and Milton E. Dowfe ,director of the communications hanger; and two promotions from second to first lieutenant, Lt. Howard W. Chappel, officer in charge of Tower Training, and Lt. John McTiernan, instructor in physical training.

Captains York and Dowfe both qualified as paratroopers in July, 1942 ,and have been assigned to the Parachute School since that time, Captain York is a native of Chicago, Ill., and Dowfe comes from Los Angeles, Calif.

Of the others, Lt. Chappel qualified in August of last year, and McTiernan completed his jump-training in October. Chappel is a native of Cleveland, Ohio, and Bridgeport, Conn., is the home of Lt. McTiernan.

Major W. P. Jent Joins Judge Advocate Division

Major William P. Jent, has named assistant judge advocate on the staff of Brig.-Gen. Walter S. Fulton, according to an announcement made at post headquarters.

Entering the service in June, 1941, as a captain, Major Jent first served with the station complement, Camp Wheeler, Ga., as assistant chief judge advocate.

After being promoted to the rank of major in July, 1942, he was transferred to headquarters, fourth service command, Atlanta, to become assistant chief, judge advocate branch. He was serving in this capacity when ordered to Benning.

Major Jent is a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist university and of Mercer college law school. In civilian life, he worked as an attorney with the veteran's administration, Montgomery.

The major is married and a native of Montgomery.

First Symphony to Play Post February 23-27

Laszlo Halasz, Famed Hungarian, Is Conductor

The first symphony to be booked for a USO-Camp show tour will play at Fort Benning when the American Symphony orchestra, Laszlo Halasz conductor, Feb. 23 through Feb. 27.

A program designed to give the widest popular appeal has been worked out to combine both the music of some of the old masters with modern composers such as Gershwin, Morton Gould Fdere Grofe and others.

Laszlo Halasz, the conductor, is a native of Hungary. When only 23 he was appointed assistant conductor of the Royal opera in Budapest. Later he spent several years at the Prague opera, the Volksoper in Vienna, the Royal opera in Rome, and for two summers he was assistant to Toscanini and Bruno Walter at the Salzburg musical festival.

Coming to this country in 1936, he conducted "Tristan and Isolde" with Kristen Flagstad in St. Louis then went to the Philadelphia Civic opera and returned to St. Louis to serve as artistic and musical director of the St. Louis Grand Opera association.

He has directed operas with the world's great singers including Lauritz Melchoir, Grace Moore, Helen Jepsen, Martinelli and others.

In 1941 he conducted "Falstaff" in English with John Charles Thomas at the Chicago opera after which he was engaged by the NBC symphony orchestra.

The orchestra is composed of 37 players, the conductor, and Elen Longone, mezzo-soprano soloist, a native of Jacksonville, Fla.

Mariner Leaves Waves To Become Foot Soldier

Grace Line Purser Takes O. C. Course

A seafaring youth with a Pan-American background, who has spent most of his civilian and army life outside the United States, is seeking a commission in the Infantry School.

He's Candidate John Evans Bos, former assistant purser of Grace Line steamships plying between South America and New York and San Francisco.

In three years with the Grace Line Bos made ports of call regularly in Dutch, British and French Guiana, Venezuela, Columbia, Ecuador, Chile and all Central American countries.

As a civilian, 24-year-old Bos lived in Cuba. As a soldier he has spent 14 of his 23 months in Bermuda.

Comes From Paradise

After basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C., Bos was shipped to Bermuda, which he had visited several times on Grace ships. He comes to the 3rd Student Training Regiment's 27th Company from the Atlantic Island paradise two months ago.

Candidate Bos, whose father is a retired building contractor in Valparaisa, Chile, was born at Ajo, Ariz., near Yuma. Before coming to Officer Candidate School he was a Staff Sergeant with an Infantry Battalion.

How Candidate Bos is learning the grim business of war as all Infantry men are taught here receiving the best possible information on the weapons and tactics according to modern developments relayed to the Infantry School by trained observers at the fields of action.

If Candidate Bos successfully passes the rugged course here he will be commissioner a Second Lieutenant in the Army of the United States on March 3, 1943.

Tremulous Taps Trill Toll As Tank Tramples Tippy

Twelve years, a life time, of devoted service as mascot of the 11th Cavalry, later the 11th Armored Regiment, came to an abrupt end for Tippy last week when a hit and run tank crushed out the life of the canine cavalryman. Those twelve years saw Tippy rise from puppyhood to the rank of master sergeant.

Tippy was found crumpled and torn in a tank track. He was buried with full honors befitting his length of service and rank with fellow members of his organization attending and the bugler blowing his final call—Taps.

GETS CANDY BAR

He was with the Service Company of the 11th Armored as most of his old troop members were still in that company. You probably saw him every day in front of regimental headquarters standing first sergeant's call and returning with a candy bar in his mouth.

In the spring of 1930 at the Presidio of Monterey Sergeant Tippy first saw the light of day. He immediately enlisted in Headquarters and Service Troop of the 11th Cavalry and remained there for the remainder of his Army career. Wherever the 11th was sent on maneuvers, Tippy went along in the lead truck.

CHASES STRAY DOGS

When the 11th came to Fort Benning, Tippy 'came along and announced his arrival by running off all stray dogs in the Regimental area. It was also at Fort Benning that he took his first 10 day furlough to escape the heat. He was indeed a mascot to be proud of in that he never followed formations to the drill field, never barked or romped during ceremonies, and never turned on a soldier in his entire career. He obeyed all orders without a growl and asked very little in return, except to be played with and have his bed roll unrolled at night when it was cool. Yes, in view of his service he had a bed roll. It was the same bed roll that was his shroud at the time of his burial.

Tiger 'Peep' To Honor City Junior High

The enterprise of two Columbus junior high school girls this Friday will result in the naming of a peep—"Junior High"—in honor of their school and its war effort.

The girls, Jean Purcell and Barbara Callifer, wrote the Tiger commanding general, Major General Paul W. Newgarden, their request, and the general promptly consented.

The peep will be christened in a ceremony in the yard of the school, whose pupils have bought $4,280 in war bonds since Pearl Harbor, have collected scrap metal, and have studied first aid with equipment they purchased.

"Junior High" will be the peep used by Captain Charles F. Meinzinger, headquarters commandant.

Ensign Ted Schroeder, national tennis champ, might have a chance to get that Davis Cup back to the U. S. all by himself! When last heard from he was on a destroyer "somewhere in the Pacific."

F. A. Private Was Nation's Leading Light Harness Racer

Jordan Drove In 1,000 Contests; Winner In 112

Pvt. James W. Jordan of Service Battery, 419th Field Artillery, is still wondering what he is doing in an armored division for the very simple reason that he has spent all his life in the decidedly unmechanized atmosphere of the stable and race track. Now, if they had given him a horse to drive . . . . . .

Jordan, in civilian life, was a light harness race driver and trainer. In fact, he was a very good light harness driver and in 1935, to clinch the evidence, he was the best in the United States. During the racing season of that year he won 112 races to gain the distinction of topping all other light harness drivers in the country. And for the last 15 years he has been among the leading drivers every year.

In the course of two decades Jimmy Jordan, as he is popularly known in the light harness-racing circles, has participated in something like 1,000 races and has won perhaps a third of these — which is not too bad a batting average. He started racing when he was 18 years old and he will observe his 38th birthday on March 1.

His greatest thrill on the track occurred in 1941 when he was driving a pacer named Forbes Direct on the track at Old Orchard Beach, Me. The race was what is known as a free-for-all which meant that the competition was keen. Jordan won the race in a photo finish, but even he was not prepared for the timer's announcement: a two-minute mile, flat.

"That was a great thrill," Jordan says, "because that's the tops. When you've done a two-minute mile you've reached the golden circle."

The fastest mile ever clocked in this type of racing was paced off about four years ago by a horse named Billy Direct, now in stud at Hancock, Pa. Billy Direct sizzled over the cinders in 1:55 to establish a new world's record and to give the crowd at Lexington, Ky., that day the thrill of their lives. Two years earlier a trotter named Greyhound had come within a fraction of a second of hitting this mark.

Both of these races, however, were run against time only whereas Jordan drove his two-minute mile against competition. He notes that a driver in competition has a dozen things to remember—things like sitting correctly in the two-wheeled sulkey, watching to see that the horse doesn't catch his leg in the wheel of another sulkey and "saving" the horse as much as possible for the last few feet of the race. Considering all these factors, he is quite satisfied with his achievement.

The ex-race driver cannot understand why so many persons are ignorant of light harness racing. He maintains that this form of racing is as thrilling to watch as the better known kind that attracts hundreds of thousands of people to tracks annually. But, in sections of the country where light harness racing is popular, he points out, interest is tremendous. By way of proof he produced a clipping from a New York state newspaper containing the statement that "figures recently released show that a total of $6,840,190 was wagered through the pari-ing of the country was held. But, mutual windows on the harness horses in the Empire State last season."

The stakes in light harness racing are not stupendous.

Last year, for example, Jordan collected about $10,000 in prize money at a series of races in Westbury, L. I., N. Y., where the largest pari-mutual harness meeting in order to collect this purse, he won more individual races than any other driver. The result was that he was the leading race-winning driver, but not the leading money-winning driver, since the races in which he participated all paid off less than some of the races in which he did not drive.

There are a few high-stake light harness races in the country. The Hambletonian, which is held at Goshen, N. Y., pays off at $40,000, while the Fox Stake at Saratoga, N. Y., offers $20,000.

Because the stakes are generally low and the costs of maintaining the horses high, light harness race horses are owned only by the wealthy. These people really love the sport, Jordan asserts, because there is seldom any profit in it.

Jordan has taken a number of spills in the course of his racing career but has never been seriously hurt. He points out that you take very few chances when you're riding in a 40-pound "bike" behind a horse that is traveling at the rate of 30 miles per hour.

As soon as the war is over, Jordan expects to go back to his stables and resume his lifelong work. Meanwhile, he is still hunting for a horse in the 10th Armored Division for, he contends, if he can't as yet perform first echelon maintenance on a scout car he can match skills with anyone when it comes to a horse.

At no charge, Jordan offers this tip to his buddies: The winner of the Hambletonian (remember, the race with the $40,000 purse?) in August will be a horse named Volo Song.

Chute—

(Continued from Page 6)

high-scoring ace of the 53rd, who was held to ten points, his lowest total of the season. Mike Maziarz contributed 13 points in the winning cause.

Only remaining game left on the first-half schedule in the Main Post League is carded for tonight when 99th Quartermaster tangles with Finance in the preliminary to the play-off tilt in the conference. The fray is listed for 6:30 in the post gym, and while the result may effect the final standing of several teams, it cannot effect the title honors which the 1st Parachute Training has already salted away.

Classified

MAY AND MASON DANCE STUDIO: Ballroom, Tap, and Jitterbug. Private classes, Day and night classes. 826 Broadway. Dial 2-4468.

WANTED: PASSENGER TO HELP with driving to Ohio or Michigan. Leaving Feb. 15. contact Mrs. Charles W. Dalton, 43F Baker Village

Levy-Morton Co.
—6—
Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps.
—6—
REPAIRS — Dial 3-6391
1026—13th ST.

BROWN FURNITURE CO.
Keep Up The Home We're Fighting For
16 E. 11th St. Dial 3-5514

Reduced Night Rates Will Begin at 8:00 P. M. Camp Time Starting Monday, February 15, 1943

Because of the change from Eastern War Time to Central War Time in Columbus, reduced night rates on Long Distance telephone calls will begin at 8:00 P. M. Eastern War (Camp) Time, effective Monday, February 15.

Calls placed before 8:00 P. M. Camp Time usually go through faster, but when you do wait for the reduced rates, please bear in mind, effective Monday, February 15, they will begin at 8:00 P. M. Camp Time instead of 7:00 P. M. as formerly.

L. A. WOOD, Camp Manager,
Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.
INC.

WANTED!!!
"WE PAY HIGHEST CASH PRICES"
100
FORD and CHEVROLET
PASSENGER CARS AND TRUCKS
Hardaway Motor Co.
1541 - 1st Ave. Dial 7781

General Fulton Is Like F. D. R.; Never Knows Where His Lady Is

War Work Keeps Her Busy 24 Hours Per Day

Soldiers at Fort Bennings are not the only ones working long hours in the prosecution of the war effort.

This was best illustrated today when Eugene Bussy, field director of the American Red Cross at the post, observed to Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, post commander:

"General, I saw Mrs. Fulton at the Red Cross workroom again this morning."

General Fulton replied, "Well, I'm mighty glad to find out where she is. I've been looking for her for two days."

Mrs. Fulton is actively engaged in several war-time projects at the Army Post. She already wears uniforms of four different organizations, when on official duties. She is frequently seen about the post, dressed in the natty light blue uniform of the Red Cross, in that of the Volunteer Special Service, the Motor Corps, or in that of the Grey Ladies, who aid the sick at the hospital.

MANY ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Fulton's activities also include chairmanship of the recent March of Dimes campaign at the post, membership in the Board of Camp and Hospital Council, chairmanship on the board of directors of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Red Cross on the post, and membership on the board of directors of the Muscogee Chapter of the Red Cross.

"In addition to her other duties," as the popular Army expression goes, Mrs. Fulton led a discussion on the forthcoming "point ration" system, this past Friday.

At the request of the Columbus Ration Board, Mrs. Fulton described the machination sof the ne wsystem of rationing to more than 400 women in the Children's School at the post. The audience included wives of officers and non-commissioned officers of the post, both white and colored, as well as house maids. It is expected that Mrs. Fulton will lead another discussion on the topic in the near future.

Recruits Beat Their Instructors In Fierce Bayonet Competition

The NCO's of the 54th Armored Infantry Regiment have taken a page from the Frankenstein manual, to judge the results of a recent bayonet competition staged between teams representing Company D and Company I of the Regiment. And, like Frangenstein's creation, the monster turned on them in the end.

Composed entirely of recruits, the Company B bayoneters slashed and stroked their way to the top in a hard-fought battle to win by a score of 3-2 over the Company I unit which consisted entirely of the NCO instructors. In so doing the recruits proved they had learned their lessons well—in fact, too well, from the viewpoint of the chagrined veterans

The contesants wore plastron masks and gloves and were armed with wooden rifles and bayonets, which di not affect the earnestness of the battle. The men behind the masks on the winning team were Pfc. Howe, team captain, Pfc. Zereckas, Pfc. Allbright, Pvt. Smith and Pvt. Bishop.

The winners received a framed photograph of the team to place in the company day room, and each member of the team was rewarded with a copy of the photo and a two-day pass.

Sutton, Fink Made Majors

Serve As Theater Officer, Ass't J. A.

Captain James C. Sutton, theater officer, and Captain George Fink, assistant judge advocate at post headquarters, have been promoted to the rank of major, post headquarters announced.

Major Sutton, who has charge of directing the 11 movie houses at the post, formerly was commanding officer of Headquarters detachment, DEML, Fourth Service Command.

A veteran of World War I, when he served with the 121st Infantry of the 31st Division, Maj. Sutton later joined the 49th Infantry. Prior to his World War service, he saw duty in the army on the Mexican border.

Originally commissioned in August, 1918, Major Sutton was given an honorable discharge in July, 1919. He was ordered back to federal service in August, 1941, reporting to Fort Benning with the Service detachment. While at this post, Maj. Sutton has served as commanding officer of the Quartermaster detachment of the motor pool and motor transport office.

Coming to active duty as a first lieutenant in February, 1941, Major Fink served with the 24th Infantry, until March, 1942, when he was transferred to post headquarters. He was promoted to captain in July, and in September became acting judge advocate, a title he held until January, 1943.

In civilian life Major Fink was engaged in the practice of law, being a partner in the firm, Fink and Fink, Monroe, La. He attended Louisiana State University, where he took pre-legal work. Later studied law in Tulane University Law school. He was admitted to the bar upon successful completion of the Louisiana State Bar examination.

22 Field Artillery Soldiers Advanced

As a result of their recent promotion, twenty-two enlisted men in the 10th Armored "Tiger" Division's 420th Field Artillery Battalion are wearing new chevrons. The men are:

To be technical sergeant, William Yeisley, Jr.; to be staff sergeants, Arnold A. Hargis and Arthur Battin; to be corporals, Harold Couser, Edwin Drinkert, Chester Felikes, George Olds, Newell Ross and Walter Vest; to be technicians 5th grade, John Browning, Charles Combs, Charles Couture, Oliver Duchette, Walter Friebel, Thurman Graves, Vernon Goins, S. J. Layton, Lee Martin, Michael Nahmias, Lando Preschutti, George Reid and Bernard Woltering.

Classification Board Very Seldom Wrong

Chiropodist Placed In Infantry Where He Really Belongs

Candidate Arnold E. Williams, of the 12th company, Third Student Training Regiment, was just skeptical of the army's classification system when he was assigned to the Infantry following his enlistment last June.

A chiropodist in Chicago for the past 10 years, he thought he was better qualified to serve in the Medical corps.

Now, after six months in khaki, "Doc" Williams of Chicago, Ill., is convinced that his fighting uncle was right after all. If there was ever a suitable spot for a foot specialist, it's in the Infantry.

"For the first time since I started practicing, I'm now seeing this foot situation from the patient's view point," he commented. "You might say I'm getting a foot's-eye view of the gravel agitators."

In basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif., "Doc" Williams was the most popular man in his outfit—there wasn't any question about it. His "Office hours" were from 6 to 7 a. m. from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., and from 5 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.—on his bunk down at the end of the barracks. Tired and weary recruits took their turn in line limping up to the "Doc's" office. He weighed each case with professional scrutiny.

DOUBLE INSPECTION

After long hikes, there were always two inspections made, one by the commanding officer, the second by Private Williams. It was the same thing at Officer Candidate School here at Benning, especially for some of the fellows from the Signal Corps and the Artillery who were not used to long hikes over rough terrain.

After long jaunts, Candidate Williams usually ordered his patients to bathe their feet in hot water and then dry carefully, especially between the toes. Before hikes, he checked to see if their socks were long enough, to be sure they were not breaking in new shoes on the march.

"Always soften the leather first," he admonished those with new shoes.

At first, like all recruits, Candidate Williams didn't think much of the bulky army shoe. Now, like all soldiers, he is convinced that it is the only thing possible for Infantry field service.

Candidate Williams, who will soon go to his new pots as a second lieutenant, will move cautiously into his new duties, all except foot inspections. He will be a veteran at that from the very start.

Major McCullough Is Lt. Colonel

The promotion of A. Douglas McCullough, formerly of Newton, Mass., and Minneapolis, Mnn., to the rank of lieutenant colonel has been announced at the Infantry School here where he is on the staff of the weapons section of the school's faculty.

The new lieutenant colonel was first commissioned in the reserves in 1924. Before coming on active duty he was employed as sales manager of the Johnson-Appleby company of Cambridge, Mass. He was called to active duty in June, 1941, and sent to the Infantry School to attend the Rifle and Heavy Weapons Company Officers Course. Upon graduation from this course, he was assigned to the Academic Department of the school as an instructor in combat training. He was promoted to major in December, 1941.

New York (CNS)—Draft Board No. 1 postponed the induction of Pablo Torres so he could help search for his 5-month-old daughter who had been taken from in front of his home.

Benning Phi Psi's To Hail Founders' Day

Dual celebration of the Phi Psi Founders Day and anniversary of the first year of Phi Psi get-togethers at Fort Benning is being planned for Friday evening, Feb. 19, at Cherokee Lodge.

Thus far, during the Benning meetings, more than 35 of the fraternity's 54 chapters have been represented—men from colleges as far east as New Hampshire, as far west as California.

This meeting is hoped to embrace not only soldier members, but any other Phi Psis who may be in Columbus vicinity. Arrangements are being made by Lt. Fred Ash, of the Adjutant General's Office of the Infantry School, along with Lt. Carl von Pechmann and Lt. Clarence E. Smith.

10 Two-Niners Get Promotions

Headquarters, 29th Infantry, announced today the following promotions: To captain, 1st Lt. Walter R. Johnson; to first lieutenant, 2nd Lt.s. Keith L. Nordlund, Dennis J. Ertel and Rudolph B. Jordan.

To staff sergeant, Sgt. Edward L. Blendermann; to T-4, T-5 Karl Seibert to T-5, Pvts. William H. Clemens, William S. Bollinger, Pfcs. Curtis L. Smith and John A. Lucas.

New York (CNS)—State executioner Joseph Francel will not be given permission to buy tires on occupational grounds. His travels to and from Sing Sing prison are not considered essential by the rationing board.

Daily World News Broadcast

Is 1st STR Feature For Candidates

Officer Candidate Jack Bickenbach of Independence, Ia., is the news commentator for the first and second platoons of the 15th Company, First Student Training Regiment, at The Infantry School, broadcasting the news at the noon meal.

The source from which Candidate Bickenbach broadcasts the news is The Infantry School Daily News Bulletin which is published each morning of the week except Sunday by the school's public relations office. The bulletin contains up to the minute flashes gleaned from the radio and the press on news developments throughout the world. The bulletin is read to all students at the noon mess, keeping them abreast of the news of the world.

The selection of a student instead of a company officer to read the news was the idea of tactical officer Lt. Henry Barnes who believes that a student learns to do by doing. He considers this good experience for the orientation lectures that the candidates will have to give after they become officers.

Candidate Bickenbach took post graduate work in speech at the University of Iowa after graduating from that institution in 1942. His hobby is music. The fact that he is good at his hobby is indicated by his receiving the grade of "highly superior" in 1939 at the National Music Contest held in Minneapolis.

ASN Important Item, ODB Says

The importance of including the soldier's serial number in all communications relating to family allowances is stressed in a statement received this week at Fort Benning from the Office of Dependency Benefits.

According to the ODB, which handles servicemen benefits for the Army, there are one file more than 6,000 family allowance applications for soldiers named Smith, 500 of them being John Smiths. There are 5,000 applications for men named Brown, and 700 for those called Rodriguez, not to mention the Cohens and the Murphys.

That is why, the Office of Dependency Benefits explains, it is necessary to list a soldier's serial number as part of his name when filing or referring to a family allowance application or a Class E allotment. Exact identification is many times impossible without it.

To avoid delay or confusion, always give the soldier's serial number in any letter, application, or documentary evidence mailed to the Office of Dependency Benefits. The address of the Office of Dependency Benefits is 213 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey.

29TH HEIR RAID

Lieut. and Mrs. Charles E. Estess announce the birth of a daughter, Martha Ann, on December 31, 1942. Lt. Estess is assigned to Company "F" of the 29th Infantry.

Sgt. and Mrs. Dewey Hobson Lane announce the birth of a son, George Martin Lane, on November 29, 1942. Sgt. Land is in charge of the 29th Infantry Rest Camp.

Reception Center Mess Calls In Army Ingenuity

21,000 Meals Served Daily As Unit Assumes War Pace

Here's an example of Army ingenuity—

A year ago mess facilities at the colored Reception Center of Fort Benning were estimated as sufficient to accommodate one thousand men. Seven months later seven times that number filed past the foot counter three times a day over a period of five days, setting something of a record for efficiency and performance.

In February, 1941, the draft of World War II emerged from the pen and paper stage and became reality with the first flow of colored selectees from Southeastern states into Benning. From the 24th Infantry Regiment came Mess Sergeant Joe N. Black and a personnel of three cooks to provide chow in "T-23," a mess hall, which for the moment served its purpose in spite of limited space, for five officers, 52 enlisted men and recruits that were to first occupy the brand new Reception Center. However, by April induction of selectees stepped up and old "T-23" underwent an addition, making it what was said to be the longest mess hall on the post.

17-HOUR DAY

During the later months of 1941 selectee lists took another upswing and "T-23" began to overflow constantly, leaving Sgt. Black and his force hanging on to the field kitchens for support, while the mess hall was ordered on a 17-hour working day. Then came Pearl Harbor, war, further expansion of the Receiving Battalion, and consequent additional strained facilities.

A hall with a seating capacity of 1500, serving twice that number, another with places for 500, serving 1235, and officers' dining hall and another for permanent cadre of the organization were in use by August, 1942.

During the peak month of September, 6889 men were fed three meals per day for five consecutive days. In figures that would show 20,667 meals per day, 103,335 meals for the five days. Average feeding time, according to Sgt. Black, was about one and one-half hours for each meal. In addition to that, the Reception Center furnishes cooks and mess sergeants for troop trains transporting the new soldiers to training areas.

MECHANICAL K. P.

The newest pride is Mess Hall Number Two furnished recently with equipment which virtually does away with Kitchen Police Mechanical helpers as dishwashers, electric mixers, and potato peelers caused a major of the Medical Corps to remark, "That place equals the Waldorf Asoria."

The present personnel includes Capt. James B. Croft, mess officer; Lt. John W. Foster, Jr., asst mess officer; Tech. Sgt. Black supervising mess sergeant; four additional mess sergeants, supply sergeant, administrative technician and 52 cooks. Additional casual cooks are attached periodically for experience in army food handling and preparation. After a period of schooling they are made available for duty on mess cars in troop movements.

ARMY HIS HOME

Sgt. Black claims he has no home outside the army. He admits, however, that he was born in St. Louis, Mo., and graduated from high school there. Influenced by long periods of service in the army given by his father and uncle he enlisted after adding a few years to his age in order to meet regulations. He attended the Bakers and Cooks School at Benning and graduated to become mess sergeant at Officers' Biglerville Mess then located in the "old Block 21" which at one time served as dining hall to army officers from principal nations of the world who were observers of maneuvers during peace times.

In 1937 Sgt. Black was supervisor of Dietetics at Tuskegee, a post which he held until he was recalled to the army in February, last year, when assumed duties at the Reception Center. He is married and has a daughter, Jessie, 14, who does not cook.

Oakland, Cal. (CNS)—Buffalo meat is substituting for beef in a local eatery. Beef got scarce so the eatery owner looked up a guy with a herd of 20 buffalo, bought 'em and started serving a new kind of hamburgers and steaks.

NOTICE!

Fuller Brushes Can Now Be Found at

LeMASTER'S BEAUTY SALON

"Complete and Distinctive Beauty Service"

20 -- 12th St. Dial 2-2536

ATTENTION!

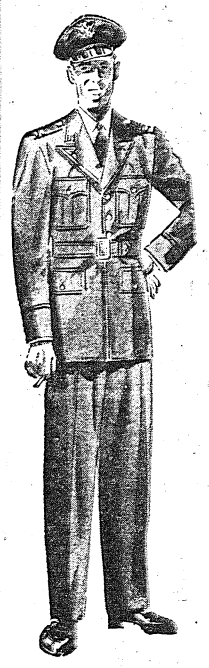
ALTERATIONS

Sewings Of All Kinds

Edna Melvin

1008 BROADWAY

9652 Day — 2-1220 Night



GOOD WHOLESOME FOOD

S & S CAFETERIA

FORT BENNING PERSONNEL ALWAYS WELCOME

1232 BROADWAY

Attention Officers and Officer Candidates

Army Exchange Service

War Department Services of Supply Washington, D. C.

This is to certify that STYLE SHOP COLUMBUS, GA.

is an authorized retailer of Regulation Army Officers Uniforms, to be sold at maximum prices established by the Army Exchange Service.

This authorization expires ____ 19__

Signed ____ Chief of Army Exchange Service

Washington No. 472

Well-Fitting Uniforms are a Specialty with The STYLE SHOP

In uniforms it is the important factor of the fitting of the garment that makes it a satisfaction to the officer who wears it. Our Uniform Shop tailors are experts in the finest of fitting services, and we can assure you the excellence of custom tailoring in our ready-to-wear uniforms.

Elastique Uniform
Blouse and Slacks to Match
$44.50

Pink Trousers
$12.00

Dark Green SLACKS $12.00 Elastique

Short Coats
Satin-Lined
$29.75

Service Caps
$5.00 to $15.00

We Carry a Complete Line of Army Accessories!

OFFICER CANDIDATES, WATCH FOR OUR DISPLAYS FRIDAY, SATURDAY, SUNDAY AND MONDAY

The STYLE SHOP

1031 BROADWAY DIAL 6577

Southern Manor
DINE AND DANCE
2——Floor Shows Nightly——2
Presenting New York's Radio and Night Club Entertainers
At Junction of Opelika and Montgomery Hwys.

TUBBY RIVES 14th Week of HILARITY

WHERE TO DINE & DANCE IN AND AROUND COLUMBUS

DINING DANCING

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT WINSEL CASTLE
"COLUMBUS' FINEST"
2803 Cusseta Road Cecil Lloyd, Prop.
FOR OFFICERS AND MEMBERS ONLY

PAT PATTERSON 44th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED Chicken IN THIS TOWN WITH CORN BREAD
GA. CAT FISH Dinners
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY Steaks THAT'S REALLY TENDER
POINT BLUE Oysters FRIED, STEW, RAW
Come Out on No. Highland Bus 8 Private Dining Rooms

JERRY'S
206-38th St.
FAMOUS FOR STEAKS & CHICKEN

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT WINSEL CASTLE
"Columbus' Finest"
2803 Cusseta Rd. Dial 9152 — 9845
Winsel Castle, Columbus' Finest Restaurant, under the Management and ownership of Cecil Lloyd. Popular and widely known among Officers and Commissioned Personnel of Fort Benning, especially invites you to enjoy your off hours at WINSEL CASTLE.
FOR OFFICERS and MEMBERS ONLY

FRIED CHICKEN
CATFISH DINNERS
PIT-COOKED BAR-B-Q
WESTERN T-BONE STEAKS
CHESPEAKE OYSTERS
JUMBO
1730 Fourth Ave. Dial 9880
Dining Rooms Curb Service Free Parking

VISIT THE PARADISE
213—14th St.
Phenix City, Ala.
Where a friendly greeting awaits you
Come over and enjoy yourself
MUSIC—DANCING

In New York, it's LINDY'S—In Havana, it's SLOPPY JOE'S
In COLUMBUS, it's THE ROOSEVELT!
Columbus' finest and friendliest Cafe—serving only the very highest type of food, and beverages reasonably priced—and where efficient service is supplemented by warm cordiality and an air of sincere friendliness.
We invite the personnel of Fort Benning to make the FRIENDLY ROOSEVELT CAFE their second home.
THE ROOSEVELT CAFE
1027 BROADWAY

GOO-GOO "The Satin Of Good Food" Dial 3-4491 700 Linwood Boulevard
AIR CONDITIONED
½ Fried Chicken Served Unjointed Without Silver, Gobs of Shoe Strings, Jug of Honey, Hot Buttered Rolls. The Most Modern and Best Known Cafe in Columbus, Georgia
Free Parking — Curb Service
Private Dining Rooms

COPELAND'S BARBECUE AND STEW
3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620
BARBECUE—STEW—SANDWICHES—DRINKS
CHICKEN—STEAK—OYSTER DINNERS
CECIL JONES, Prop.
PLENTY FREE PARKING AND CURB SERVICE

World War Hero Hides His Light Under Bushel

O. C. Whyte Reticent To Talk Of Three Medals Won In 1918

Young officer hopefuls of the 21st Co., Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School, have an extra source of war lore to turn to in the barracks, after a hard day in the field, learning all they can in the arduous and up-to-the-minute School here.

He is Candidate John I. Whyte, who knows from actual experience in World War I what it feels like to hear shells whistling close by, and what it's like to be spattered by machine gun fire.

Candidate Whyte is inclined to reticence and it was several weeks after the start of their course that his buddies learned he already holds the Silver Star for "display of exceptional bravery" and the Purple Heart, with Oak Leaf cluster, indicative of two wounds in action, in addition to the 1918 Victory Medal with three stars for having served in three campaigns.

Whyte is 43, is married, and was living quietly with his wife, Beatrice and daughter, Barbara, 14 at 4332 47th St., Sunnyside, Long Island, when World War II broke out.

IS YOC

It didn't take him long to make up his mind that life as export and credit manager of a New York silk firm, Band-Craft, Inc., was a little bit too quiet for an old soldier, so he re-entered service after getting his affairs in shape, this time as a volunteer officer candidate.

Fellow candidates have found that, though "Whytie" may have a few gray hairs around the temples, he still is a rugged and competent field soldier, just as he was in 1918 when he enlisted as a young man of 18.

Whyte was a private in Co. H, 107th Infantry, a part of the 27th Division commanded by Major General John F. O'Ryan, when that outfit went overseas in 1918. He had enlisted Sept. 8, 1917, and remained in service until March 24, 1919.

His first decoration came as a result of a "large enemy shell" as his citation reads, which landed five feet from his firing position on the fire step of a trench. The citation mentioned a "display of exceptional bravery in refusing to be evacuated" although suffering injured ear drums. He was wounded Aug. 15, and stayed in busch sector in front of Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, until his outfit was relieved Aug. 28. Then he spent a month in the hospital.

SUFFERS WOUND

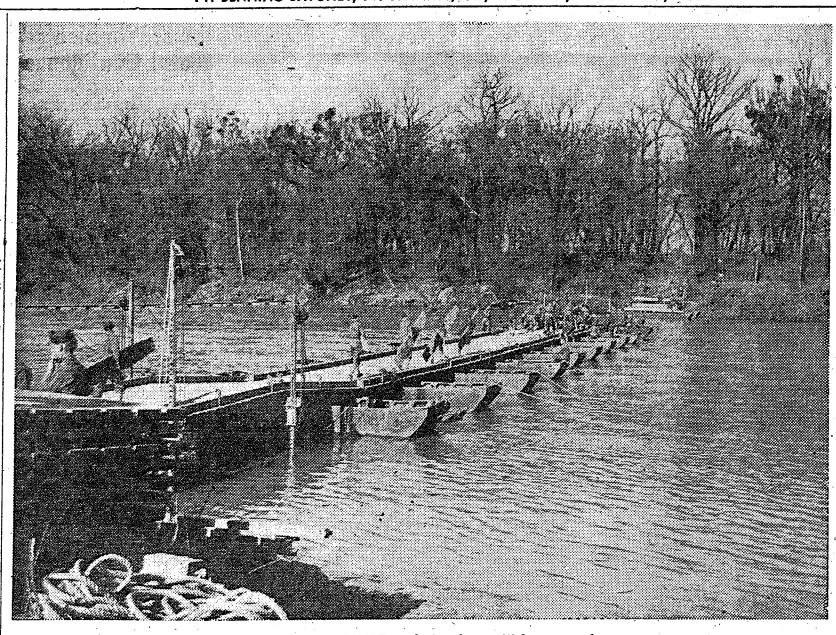
Back in action by Oct. 18, he was advancing with his outfit, east of Saint Souplet, France, after it had forced the Le Selle River, when he was hit in the thigh by a machine gun bullet while moving through smoke against a German nest. His citation on that one reads that Whyte "continued to advance" until struck again in the leg.

That second bullet ended the war for Candidate Whyte. The next thing he remembered he was back at a dressing station. He was shipped to England for a month, came home on the Leviathan and spent more time in a New York Army Hospital, and by the time he was well, the war had been over for some time.

Back on his feet, he enlisted in the New York National Guard for four years, and to complete his military history, he was doing his bit in the New York State Guard at the time he decided to re-enter U. S. Service for the present scrap.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln I. Whyte, of Rutherford, N. J., and his wife tried to talk John out of joining the Army this time, on the theory that he had already done his share once. Just exactly why he did join, he finds difficult to put in words, but this one sincere statement may sum it up: "I don't like for the other fellow to do my fighting."

AMUSING ACCOUNTS



That's one reason for Whyte's popularity with fellow students. Another reason is the amusing background he can furnish on actual fighting conditions.

For instance, he recalls that by the time carrying parties had brought up coffee to the front lines it was always welcome—but mainly and only because it was useful to wash your face and shave.

Another incident: The time the shell struck within five feet, it broke the chin strap on his helmet, and lifted it right off his head. It also broke his rifle into pieces in his hands—and the supply sergeant wanted to charge him for the bayonet because Whyte couldn't find any pieces to turn in.

Incidentally, the candidate's brother, Lt. Lincoln D. Whyte, of the 30th Division was in action on the same front, never more than 25 miles away and came home on the same ship with John. Lincoln was wounded in the lung.

Younger brother John has it over Lincoln this time, however. Lincoln hasn't been able to get in the army as yet for World War II—but he is still trying.

ONE MORE SECTOR and the river will be spanned.

TIS River Line Attack Ranks High on O. C. Popularity List

Engineers, F. A., Infantry, Planes, Paratroops Participate

One of the largest, most popular and impressive demonstrations presented to the officer candidates at the Infantry School is the "Attack of a River Line" which is performed before ten classes at a time. This demonstration, which is put on by the Field Engineering group of the General Section, uses a great quantity of troops and materials. One complete Infantry battalion, a large light ponton engineer company, one battery of field artillery, one demolition platoon of parachute troops, and from three to five airplanes take part in the show.

The problem begins with friendly troops in an assembly area where they meet the engineers who supply them with assault boats for crossing the river. The action starts with the bombing of the far shore of the river by friendly planes. Then the demolition platoon of parachute troops drop on the far bank and attempt to wipe out enemy resistance there. After friendly chemical mortars have laid a smoke screen, the first wave of assaulting Infantry cross the river in assault bats. Two or three engineers go in each boat, and they bring the boats back to the original side for the second wave of troops to cross.

BUILD RAFT FOR 37 MM

In the meantime the engineers have been building rafts on which a 37 millimeter gun and a jeep are carried across the river. They also build a larger infantry support raft on which a self-propelled 37 millimter gun is carried.

While this is going on, another engineer crew is constructing a foot bridge. The river is 325 feet wide at this point, but it is usually spanned by this bridge in less than fifteen minutes. The supporting rifle company of the battalion then crosses on the bridge.

Ex-Lion Tamer Trains, To Beard Axis 'Beasts'

O. C. Meech Once Saved Man From Ferocious Cat

He began his career by beating a rampaging lion over the head with a baseball bat and now he's looking forward to taking bayonets and bombs to the rampaging wild beasts of the Axis—that's Officer Candidate Benjamin Meech, now a member of the Third Student Training Regiment at Fort Benning's Infantry School.

O. C. Meech has been a broncho buster, rider in a circus, and lion tamer in his time. His mother and father were riders and circus performers and one of his first memories is of his father outlining his mother with knives in a rodeo show set. His grandfather had been a showman also, staying active until he was a mere 74 years old.

When O. C. Meech was 14 he left his home town of Columbus, O., to join a western show. The show toured all over the country, Mexico, Cuba and parts of Canada.

Returning to Columbus "for a rest," he went to see a circus perform. During the show a lion went on a rampage and attacked trainer Captain Billy Sells, knocked him down and began mauling him. Without thinking, Meech grabbed a baseball bat from an attendant's hand, rushed the cage, smashed the lion between the eyes and was just about as surprised as the lion when the big cat was knocked out. After that he went to work for the show and learned the tricks of the trade from Sells. He stayed with the animal taming business until he joined the Army.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM T. NEEL PROMOTED TO RANK OF MAJOR

The promotion of Captain William T. Neel to the rank of major is announced. Major Neel has been with the First Student Training Regiment since October 9, 1940, to which post he was ordered from the 306th Infantry.

Major Neel's army career commenced in April, 1930, when he first enlisted in the 7th Regiment, New York National Guard, as a buck private. In 1933 he was commissioned a second lieutenant in that outfit. Major Neel served with the 7th Regiment until 1934, when he was transferred to the 306th Infantry. On October 9, 1940, the then First Lieutenant Neel was ordered to active duty at Fort Benning and assigned to the First Student Training Regiment. During the Louisiana maneuvers of 1941 Neel served as aid to Brigadier General Julius Ochs Adler.

Pedagogues Find O.C.S. Offers No Crip Courses

Some Think They'll Never See A Grade As Lovely As A 'B'

The fighting forces of a citizen army such as that of the United States is naturally a "catch-all" from all walks of life and from all professions including the teaching profession. A great number of these former pedagogues are sooner or later recommended for officer candidate schools.

The Infantry School at Fort Benning of course gets its fair share of teachers in the officer training classes. The purveyors of knowledge are as a rule the envy of their classmates who think that study comes easy to the teachers and that they will breeze right through the inevitable G. T.'s like a tornado across the plains of Kansas.

However, in many instances such is not the case, and the teachers find that they have changed from the status of the tormentor to that of the tormented.

A notable example is offered in the lament of Candidate Ulys M. Morgan of the First Company, Third Student Training Regiment, who has transcribed his G. T. woes to paper in verse form.

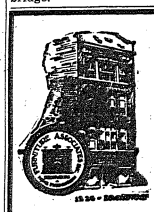
Morgan was prompted to write his poem after reading in last week's Bayonet that Joyce Kilmer's son is an officer candidate in his own training regiment. He writes:

"As a teacher for eight years, I have taught the poem "Trees" by Joyce Kilmer to more than 1,000 students, as my favorite poem. However as an O. C. (with apologies to the poet Joyce Kilmer) I submit the following lines for print."

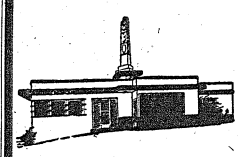
A LAMENT OF AN O. C., AFTER THREE G. T.'S

I think that I shall never see,
A grade as lovely as a "B";
A "B" whose lovely form is pressed
Against the pages of my test;
"D's" are made by fools like me,
Only horse sense can make a "B".

Membership in a State Guard doesn't relieve any of its members from the provisions of the Selective Service Act. However, any fellow in the Guard gets darn good preliminary training for the regular army.



A soldier, at his reception center, gets no less than 79 articles of clothing and equipment (from razor blades to overcoat!)



Army Supplies
Novelties
All Toilet Items
H. C. SMITH DRUG STORE
One of Columbus' Oldest
1002 BROADWAY

WE STILL REPAIR WATCHES
KROGLAND'S CLOCK SHOP
1142 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

TO . . .
Company Commanders
SPECIAL SERVICE
Overcoats for the Entire Company can be Cleaned, Pressed and Returned . . .
WITHIN 24 HOURS
PHONE CITY 2-1641
COLUMBUS CLEANERS & TAILORS
500 10TH AVE., COLUMBUS, GA.

FARRIS RADIO SERVICE
PORTABLES ALL
SPECIALTY REPAIRS
1317 Broadway - Next To USO

Martin Furniture Co.
"Where Quality Is Higher Than Price"
We Welcome Fort Benning Personnel
1223 BROADWAY
COLUMBUS, GA.

8:30 GRILL
It's Permissable To Park Your Car At Our Food Establishment
LOBSTERS STEAKS CHICKEN BEVERAGES
DINE AT THE 8:30
1200 13th St. Dial 9314 For Your Reservation

CUSTOM TAILORS TO THE SERVICES SINCE 1845
SMITH-GRAY
MAKERS of UNIFORMS
15 West Eleventh St.
COLUMBUS, GA.
DIAL 5179 OPP. ARMY-NAVY USO

Saks Fifth Avenue
NEW YORK
Announces A Spring Showing of Women's Footwear
For Street And Evening
Debutante and Junior Apparel
Dresses, Coats, Suits and Sports Wear
Sizes 12 to 18, 9 to 17
Clothes for Boys and Girls
Toddlers to 6 — Girls and Boys Through 'Teen-Age
FEBRUARY 11th and 12th AT THE OFFICERS' CLUB MAIN POST FORT BENNING SATURDAY FEBRUARY 13th AT THE RALSTON HOTEL
Saks Fifth Avenue
CUSSETA RD. COLUMBUS, GA.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion service 8:30 a. m. Men's Bible class 9:30 a. m. Sunday school in the Children's School 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "Hosanna In The Highest"—Cellier. Sermon: Chaplain Frank M. Thompson. Offertory: Solo—Pvt. Harold Sheckson. Christian League 5:30 p. m. under the direction of Chaplain Frederick W. Meifer. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Edgar L. Storey.

29th Infantry: Bible study 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplains Archie D. Clark and Edgar L. Storey.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1, morning worship 10:30 a. m. Fellowship hour 7:30 p. m.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, Corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st & 7th R. and Acad. Regt. Morning services at 10 a. m. Chaplain Glenn S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large Day Room for the Det. Med. Dept. 9:30 a. m. Also colored Med. Det. service in colored day room 9 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Reception Center Recreation Hall Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:15 a. m. Sgt. Vann J. Malone.

Lawson Field: Chapel No. 2, Men's Bible study 10 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers 6:30 p. m. Song service Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Floyd S. Smith.

6th General Hospital: New Mess Hall, Sunday morning worship service 9:30 a. m. Vespers Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. (In nurses' recreation hall.) Chaplain Archie C. Garroway.

11th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Choir rehearsal 10 a. m. Wednesday evening worship 7 p. m. Chaplain Edward L. Young.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

120th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 11:30 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Wheeler and Clarence E. Ritchie.

2nd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 2, morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chapel No. 4, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Edwin C. Wilson.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 5, Holy Communion (Episcopal) 8 a. m. Regimental services at 11 a. m. Chaplain Russell D. Laycock. Protestant service in 5th Bn., at 11 a. m. (Bldg. 2623). Chaplain A. E. Billman. Colored service 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Saunders.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Area: Worship at 9 a. m. in the Record Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 31st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:30 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:00 p. m. to 8 p. m. in the Station Hospital in Ward 6-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 8 a. m. and 9 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 5, located north of the Service Club No. 2 at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5301, located on the 5th Division Road and Cusseta Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 9:30 a. m. and in B-23 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 120th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

11th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3 Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal: Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Friday: Sacred Heart Devotion will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, All Lawson Field organizations, and the 503th, 506th and 507th Parachute Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30, at the Children's School, corner Bartell Avenue and Lumpkin Road. A five-voice choir of officers and enlisted men chant the services. A lively discussion coincides the evening.

For men of the 3rd Student Training Regiment and the Student Training Brigade: Every Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock, in War Dept. Theatre No. 9, (Building 6-8), 8th Division Road.

For men of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 11th Infantry, 76th Tank Battalion, 80ist and 802nd Field Artillery: Every Sunday morning at 10:30 in Building B-7. A lively forum on an important Jewish topic follows the service.

For men of the Armored Division: Every Monday evening, at 7:30, in Chapel No. 4. Sergeant Abe Millman will act as cantor.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

FEB. 11
6 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
6:30 P.M.—Victory Quiz"—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—Stage Door Canteen—CBS
10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU
11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

FEB. 12
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
6:30 P.M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL
8:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

FEB. 13
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL
4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL
5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC
7:00 P.M.—"Spirit of Service"—BLU
7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS
10:15 P.M.—"Soldiers With Wings"—WRBL

FEB. 7
3:30 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—NBC
6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS
7:30 P.M.—"Spirit of Service"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"Hello Americans" with Orson Wells—WRBL
9:00 P.M.—"The Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO)—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Report to the Nation"—WRBL

FEB. 15
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Ceiling Limited" with Orson Welles)—CBS
8:05 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—"The 124th Int. Band—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

FEB. 16
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Service"—WRBL
8:05 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast—WRBL

FEB. 17
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:45 P.M.—"Quartermaster Quarter Hour"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"The Man Behind the Gun"—WRBL

Boys' Activities

Scout Troop No. 11—Fridays.
Cub Pack No. 1—Fridays, 5:15 p. m., Boy Scout Cabin.
Rangers, Fridays, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.
Jeeps—Basketball each day, 5:30 to 6:30. Main gymnasium.
Peeps—Junior basketball team. Daily 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. 29th Infantry Recreation Hall.
Wrestling Team — Tuesday, 5:30-6:30 p. m.
Boxing Team — Wednesday, 5:30-6:30 p. m.

Women's Activities

Creative Writing—Tuesday, Feb. 6, 2 p. m. Mrs. William S. Eley's quarters, 105 Rainbow.

—V—

Victory Gardens—Thursday, Feb. 16, 10:30 a. m. Mrs. Reginald H. Kelley's quarters, 509 Balizell.

—V—

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Monday through Friday. Wednesday morning 9 a. m. to 12 noon. In charge Monday, Mrs. John Jeter; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. W. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. Wm. Huffstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes.

Knitting and knitting—Tuesday and Thursday, 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. Neil Newgarden; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

—V—

MOTOR CORPS

On duty Friday, Feb. 12, Mrs. Elliott Watkins; Feb. 19, Mrs. W. E. Eckles and Mrs. W. E. Elman; Feb. 16, Mrs. M. A. Withem and Mrs. J. A. Norris; Feb. 17, Mrs. Irene Urban and Mrs. A. F. Freund.

Headquarters for Motor Corps now at 301 Miller Loop. Anyone having magazines to turn in, telephone 2341 in morning or 2036 in afternoon for pick-up.

—V—

FIRST AID

Next Standard First Aid class early in March. Call at Red Cross Work Room or telephone 2038 to enroll.

Movies

Feb. 11-12—THEY GOT ME COVERED—Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour.
Feb. 13—SILENT WITNESS—Frank Albertson and Maris Wrixon.
DEAD MAN'S GULCH—Don "Red" Barry.
Feb. 14-15—STAR SPANGLED RHYTHM—All Star Cast.
Feb. 16—HITLER'S CHILDREN—Tim Holt and Bonita Granville.
Feb. 17—HOW'S ABOUT IT—The Andrews Sisters.

Theatres 2 and 3

Feb. 11—YOUNG AND WILLING—William Holden and Susan Hayward.
Feb. 12—SILENT WITNESS—Frank Albertson and Maris Wrixon.
DEAD MAN'S GULCH—Don "Red" Barry.
Feb. 13—CHETNIKS—Philip Dorn and Anna Sten.
Feb. 14-15—THEY GOT ME COVERED—Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour.
Feb. 16—HOW'S ABOUT IT—The Andrews Sisters.
Feb. 17—STAR SPANGLED RHYTHM—All Star Cast.

Theatres 4 and 5

Feb. 11—CHETNIKS—Philip Dorn and Anna Sten.
Feb. 12-13—YOUNG AND WILLING—William Holden and Susan Hayward.
Feb. 14—HOW'S ABOUT IT—The Andrews Sisters.
Feb. 15—SILENT WITNESS—Frank Albertson and Maris Wrixon.
DEAD MAN'S GULCH—Don "Red" Barry.
Feb. 16-17—THEY GOT ME COVERED—Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour.

Theatres 6 and 7

Feb. 11-12—IN WHICH WE SERVE—Noel Coward.
Feb. 13—HOW'S ABOUT IT—The Andrews Sisters.
Feb. 14-15—YOUNG AND WILLING—William Holden and Susan Hayward.
Feb. 16—SILENT WITNESS—Frank Albertson and Maris Wrixon.
DEAD MAN'S GULCH—Don "Red" Barry.
Feb. 17—HITLER'S CHILDREN—Tim Holt and Bonita Granville.

Theatres 9 and 11

Feb. 11—SILENT WITNESS—Frank Albertson and Maris Wrixon.
DEAD MAN'S GULCH—Don "Red" Barry.
Feb. 12-13—THE CRYSTAL BALL—Paulette Goddard, Ray Milland.
Feb. 14—HITLER'S CHILDREN—Tim Holt and Bonita Granville.
Feb. 15—HOW'S ABOUT IT—The Andrews Sisters.
Feb. 16-17—IN WHICH WE SERVE—Noel Coward.

Theatre No. 10

Feb. 11—THE CRYSTAL BALL—Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland.
Feb. 12—SOLID SENDERS—The Andrews Sisters.
Feb. 13—HITLER'S CHILDREN—Tim Holt and Bonita Granville.
Feb. 14-15—IN WHICH WE SERVE—Noel Coward.
Feb. 16—MY HEART BELONGS TO DADDY—Richard Carlson, Martha O'Driscoll, and C. Kellaway.
HAUNTED RANCH—The Range Busters.
Feb. 17—YOUNG AND WILLING—William Holden and Susan Hayward.

11th Armored Band Studded With 'Tin-Pan Alley Stars

Play Everything From Back To 'Tiger Rag'

Bach in the morning, Tiger Rag in the evening. That's the menu for the lads in the 11th Armored Band. With twenty-tow men recently added, the Tankers are whipping into shape one of the top military and dance bands on the post.

The personnel includes many "longhairs" (symphony men to you) which is one reason why they can take any of the classics and play them as the composer really wanted them played. And when it comes to swing, the lads can beat it out with the best of them.

Responsible for the success of the dance work is bandleader T-4 Joe Sorci, who was a member of Sylvester's famous band, billed at the John Wallahan Ballroom in San Francisco. His sidemen include T-5 Gene Dragoo of Pawnee, Illinois, who played bass for many outfits around Chicago; Bernie Halpert, considered the best drummer in the leading night clubs at Hollywood and Los Angeles; Pvt. Bill Koerper, trumpeter of Detroit, who played with Bob Chester and holds two M. A.'s and a B. A. degree.

NAME BONDS

Merle Severy played and arranged for Jack Teagarden and Johnny McGee. He also holds an A.B. degree in music. Others in the band are T-5 Sidney Hall, also from New York; Russ Nordstrom, former student at Minnesota U., Pvt. George Brahler of Arkansas, whose trombone licks were heard in the Middle West name outfits of Dutch Young and Spencer Prinz; Pvt. Francisco Gonzalez, the accordian virtuoso from the West Coast, who had his own band at Detroit and Boston. He is also a pianist and vocalist.

Then there's Pvt. Curtis Dunlap of Texas, who plays Dixieland a-la-King. Pvts. Patsy DeBlasi and Ralp Biscotti played ih the New England States, DeBlasi with Duke Day's band in the Hotel Commodore in New York as a tenor sax player, while Biscotti, Know nas Phil Scott in music circles, had his own band in the New England States. An important member of the rhythm section is T-5 Clarence Olson on the guitar.

CLARONET PLAYER

Pfc. Norbert J. Westrich held a contract with the S. C. Johnson and Company, famous for its Fibber McGee and Holly program. He is an accomplished clarinet player.

Pvt. Lloyd Sowers is a pianist, bass horn player and can play the cello and bass. Before entering the service he was a member of the Italian Citizen Band of Monongahela, Pa., under the direction of R. Rotili, famous in the New England States.

Acting bandleader T-Sgt. Danny Perfumo says, "After a few more weeks of good, hard rehearsing, we'll have a better band than we ever had, including the one we had at Monterey, Calif., which was considered one of the best on the West Coast, if I have to say so myself."

Thru—

(Continued from Page 1)

less is one of the most important events in the war in Africa so far . . .

Acquittal of Errol Flynn in Hollywood brought, for the most part, cheers from feminine contingents all over the country. Lucky for Errol he had a preponderance of women on the jury—it would seem that they look with more disfavor on errant members of their own sex than does the more "protective" male.

Paremlins—

(Continued from Page 1)

I walked in, threw a little cloud dust in the dealer's eyes and slipped those deuces in while he was shuffling the new deck. Deuced good trick, huh?"

We had to agree.

"But don't blame us for giving the credit to a Gremlin, Pete," we said. "After all, we didn't know how it was."

"I know it," Pete said. "That's why I came to see you guys. At first I was so mad about it that I was going to haunt your mess hall, peppering the dessert and sugaring the meat, but then I realized you'd made an innocent mistake, so if you'll just correct it, everything will be O. K."

CAME WITH CORRIGAN

"You bet we will, Pete," we said. "But tell us something about yourself. Why do you call yourselves Paremlins? Where are you from? How many of you are there? Where do you hang out?"

"Well," said Pete, "Since this is the only time a Paremlin is going to talk to a human, I'll give you our history. We're originally from Ireland, but there are branches of the family all over the world. We, my family and I, including Grandfather, the boss of the whole clan, live over in the Alabama Area. My Grandfather became boss of the clan when he pulled the super trick of messing up Doug (Wrong Way) Corrigan's compass so that he landed in Ireland. That was before we started fooling parachutists. Incidentally, that was how we came over to America in the first place. When they crated Corrigan's plane and shipped it back over, we hid in it. After hanging around the U. S. at different airports, my Grandfather conceived the idea of coming to Fort Benning and devoting our time exclusively to Parachutists.

TRIPLETS

"But to get on, the others in my family are Penelope, my wife, and Phil, Will and Bill, the triplets. There are various cousins, and so forth, but you wouldn't be interested in them. As you notice, we wear a parachute on our backs. In place of a reserve 'chute, we carry our own supply of Paremlin juice, because we can't stand the taste of this Georgia liquor. So, since we liked it here and wanted to stay, our only alternative was to make our own. Have a drink with me."

(Note: That stuff was so powerful that it made our hair curl. A drop of it fell on a nail in the floor and the nail crawled out of the hole like a worm and then melted right in its tracks.)

In the meantime, with Pete's permission, Messick had been making a drawing of Pete. He explained that Paremlins, in common with Gremlins, Whammies, and what have you, can't be photographed, because there isn't any film super sensitive enough to record their likenesses. Pete was pleased with the drawing and autographed it for us.

"Well, fellows, I've stayed longer than I should have, so I'd better be getting along. Penelope is having some friends over, and we're going to play bridge.

With that he climbed out on the fire escape railing, and made a beautiful jump to the ground. He packed his 'chute in nothing flat and took off toward the Alabama Area, calling over his shoulder, "Be good, I'll be seein' ya."

We hope that isn't a threat.

Must Win Men's Total Confidence

Officer Candidate Raymond F. Graham, First Platoon, 15th Company First Student Training Regiment, recently returned from foreign service, was asked what he believed to be the most important single factor in the making of a successful officer. His reply was unqualified and without hesitation.

"The men must have the absolute confidence in any officer, if he is to be successful as an officer," Graham said. He said further that a good officer must know tactics and "have the guts to put them into effect."

Graham, a staff sergeant, enlisted in the Infantry in March 1940 after twelve years service in the Merchant Marines. Whatever his next assignment and wherever the location, he will land in familiar territory. He has visited France, Germany, Rumania, Casablanca, Russia, England, Greece, Egypt, the Philippines and many other places.

St. Paul, Minn. (CNS)—Thirty persons were rescued in the Boston night club fire which cost nearly 500 lives by Burton Serbine, a sailor who has returned home here after a stretch in the hospital resulting from burns he received.

Stop giving a piece of your mind and start having peace of mind.

EXPERT CORSET FITTING

VANITY FAIR UNDERTHINGS - HOSIERY
HOUBIGANT MAKE-UP - PERFUMES
BARBARA GOULD COSMETICS - HANKIES

GIFTS • NOVELTIES

Lady Jane Shop
12 - 12th St. Doal 5791

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By EVE

The O. P. A. says we can use our cars to shop, which is very nice indeed. Many of us are finding the decreased value of our gas ration tickets imposing a limit on our shopping tours. Our necessary trips to the commissary and P. X. grocery take their toll of gas. Out of necessity we are forced to plan our trips into town for a maximum day of shopping. Knowledge of Columbus stores and their new and attractive merchandise should be a help. Therefore, I give you this week's news from our stores.

News that Mrs. E. N. Slattery has returned to Columbus to take charge of the HAT SHOP in KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, INC., was greeted with the sincere happiness given only to old and proven friends. That's what Mrs. Slattery has been to Fort Benning women. The friendship was won by her business integrity, belief that her customers should never buy a "mistake" hat in her shop, thorough knowledge of the millinery industry and impeccable good taste and judgment. Her Fort Benning customers found out they were never startled to see their hat being worn by another member of the Woman's Club at the May Breakfast. Men would never believe from the looks of hats in the past year that they're important accessories that can make or break a woman. They are, and for that reason a truly fine milliner is a rare and precious creature. Mrs. Slattery is anxious to welcome her old friends and become acquainted with the new army wives that have made their home at Benning during the past year. She's just returned from a New York shopping trip and the spring line arriving daily is something to make every woman look as smooth as a full page picture in Vogue.

— V —

Did you attend the opening of the PATRICIA GOWN SHOP in the Doughboy Stadium yesterday? If you didn't you'd best get over there as soon as you can. She may still have some of those clever souvenirs for her guests. Pretty exciting business for the women. We've wanted a dress shop on the post for a long while. Fort Benning is something of a city and as such warrants a business that caters to women. All of you know Patricia and have become acquainted with her sparkling wit, charm and abilities as a stylist. Her shop, in the Ralston Hotel had become something of a meeting place for Army women. It's reasonable to suppose her Fort Benning shop will be equally inviting. Goodness knows it's attractive enough with the red and white checked gingham, the attractive bar for serving iced cokes and the stimulating women-talk of clothes and more clothes. I predict it will be a heaven-sent break for the exasperating shopping round we must make a couple of times a week. The Fashion Show which was to be staged on February 16 has been changed to February 23. It will be held in the Officers' Club at 8:30 p. m., so you can make an evening of it with your husbands.

— V —

Have any of you used KIRVEN'S Shopping Service? That's one way of eliminating the seven-mile drive into town when you need something. Kirven's have a trained staff of shoppers who are familiar with the store's merchandise. You can phone or drop the Shopping Service a card stating your need and give a general idea of the type and color you'd like. Your order will be delivered. You know they have a three-day delivery service at Fort Benning, Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The delivery truck leaves Columbus 10:30 a. m. Kitty Kay, their Personal Shopper, has a daily shopping news and musical program over WRBL at 9:30 a. m. to 9:45 a. m. She'll keep you informed on the new spring merchandise that arrives daily. As a gas saver idea, I think the Shopping Service is one to be considered seriously.

— V —

Seems to me every woman at Benning has visited the display SAK'S FIFTH AVENUE STORE has in the Officer's Club. Maybe not every woman. Those that haven't been there will certainly take advantage of this wonderful opportunity before they move their stock to the Ralston Hotel on January 13. It's a new method of clothes buying for some Army women and if there's any question in their mind I'll remind them of the old timers that bought expensive English suits and camel's hair coats after seeing a swatch of material and being measured by the local tailor. They bought these garments from established tailors who had become famous for their integrity and workmanship. Many of the finest Chinese rugs in the army were bought the same way as were the fine sets of English chinaware. Isolated posts necessitated mail order purchases. We learned it was a very satisfactory way to buy things we couldn't get any other way. And so it is with clothes. Saks Fifth Avenue Store is on the post to offer a service to army women. They have already proved the idea was a welcomed and successful one.

— V —

It seems to me we're talking a lot about shopping on the post. It's a good time to remind you MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE STORE has a branch store at Fort Benning. They specialize in men's shoes primarily, for our men have little time for trips into town, but the service is available for women too. Just tell them what you want and they'll have them brought out for a proper fitting in the branch store. The line of men's shoes are complete. They carry the Nettleton shoe, which is considered by many to be one of the finest military shoes made. They come in the plain toe, the strap model and the new "Chukka" which is a three quarter shoe designed for general wear. The Winthrop shoe comes in a strap and plain toe model. The famous Florsheim shoe will be found in the finest styled types of military shoes. Jarman shoes are available too in all types of models.

— — V — —

It isn't hard to think of cool cottons on our bright sunshiny days, for we are wintering in the south. That gives the special privilege of a pre-view and early first choice of the coming seasons dresses. The wise shopper takes advantage of these cruise and southern wear first showings, for they are the cream designs of the market. KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, INC., are showing a beautiful line of cotton dresses. Some of them are in the favorite two piece seersucker dresses in clean stripes of white with brown, green or blue. The chambrays are striped too in rain washed pastels in the waist slim dirndl model. White piques so beautifully made and trimmed that they become party dresses. There's printed pique too, with splashy flowers and glazed chintz with a garden look to them. The metamorphosis of the cotton dress from a garment to be seen only in the morning hours to these beautiful dress up frocks is one of the major achievements of the dress industry. That too, we can wear cotton secure in the knowledge we're not using critical wartime materials. But make your choice early or you'll be sorry the latter part of May.

— — V — —

I've been told by the music department of MONTGOMERY WARD that Fort Benning purchases 75% of the "good" music of their record selection. That's a flattering implication, don't you think? If you're one of that 75% you already know about the wonderful stock they carry. In case you're still thinking of a record collection you'll want to know that you can choose an impressive selection of records. They specialize in albums. All the old masters and their music played by fine symphony orchestras. There are the beloved ballads of Stephen Foster, The perennial Bing Crosby, who sings Hawaiian music in a haunting, nostalgic manner. Cugat, famous as the master of the rhumba, congo and tango. Frankie Carle, the pianist whose sparkling swing music sets toes tapping. Harry James is a favorite in the popular line of recordings. Montgomery Ward has blank recording discs for you to record messages of special talents. They're well supplied too with the important accessory, phonograph needles, from the inexpensive kind to the fine platinum point needles that play practically forever.

— — V — —

Are you a member of the Victory Garden Group? If you are you're already planning your garden. If your efforts will be an individual enterprise or an organized group you'll want to buy seeds. J. J. NEWBERRY COMPANY has just received a fine selection of seeds that are guaranteed to bring satisfying results for your labors. Another recipe for successful effort can be found in this store in the fine materials they have for home dressmaking. The quality is outstanding and the price tag so nominal as to make them a real bargain. They have some lovely striped chambrays. The kind that looks so cool and fresh. There's spun rayon in clear lovely prints. Seersucker cotton for housecoats. Seersucker rayon in fresh checks of red and white, brown and white, green and white and blue and white. For right now the washable pastel colored rayon flannel is appealing. You know you can complete your entire dressmaking shopping in this store, for they are well stocked with all sewing aids such as slide fasteners, matching thread, buttons and clever trimming accessories.

— — V — —

We can't talk about Fort Benning shops without including CHANCELLOR'S, who have served Fort Benning personnel since the post was first organized. The shop in the Doughboy Stadium has been a wonderful convenience for our menfolks whose shopping hours are limited. The size of the shop prohibits a complete line of Chancellor's fine haberdashery for men. That doesn't mean you have to go into town to their Columbus store. The clerks in their branch store will be glad to order whatever you need for a selection on the Post. They have a new supply of that favorite Arrow and Manhattan underwear. The shorts are beautifully finished and cut for comfortable and long wear. You know of course the material is their fine men's shirtings. The colors and designs are tops in men's underthings. They have the knit underwear too, the athletic type in B. V. D. The Manhattan made pajamas are particularly smart. The beautiful colors and fine material have an appeal for the man with discriminating taste. And if you're the kind that likes wool hose, Chancellor's is the one and only place to get that rare item, an imported wool hose. Order them at the branch store and save yourself both time and gas.

HARMONY TAILORING and ALTERATION

Soldiers and Nurses Welcome

DIAL 3-7468
1140½ Broadway

WANTED!

We Buy Used Furniture

Thweatt & Son

1242 Broadway

Startling Revelations in First Poll of Service Men

Through the first poll of the fighting forces ever conducted by any American publication, CLICK magazine has learned what you service men want Americans at home to do for you.

Questionnaires covering 25 important subjects were submitted to thousands of service men through the U. S. O., Y. M. C. A. and other services. A wealth of information was secured.

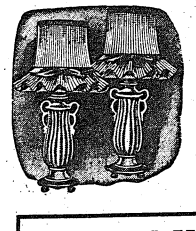
A complete analysis of the results, in the March issue of CLICK, presents story of keen interest to every man in the armed forces. Get your copy today and see how the answers to each question coincide with your own thoughts and opinions.

March CLICK also features many other timely articles, color photographs and cartoons. Buy the March issue now at your Post Exchange magazine stand.

CLICK
The Monthly Picture Magazine
Now on sale at Your Post Exchange 10¢

NATIONAL MILITARY STORES, Inc.

Shopping Headquarters For Officers And Enlisted Men



Complete Military Line

Novelty Jewelry, Luggage, Shoes, Moccasins

Dial 2-4577
941 Broadway

Dial 7100
Howard Bus Terminal

Sears FEBRUARY FURNITURE AND RUG SALE

Buy Them in Pairs!

Boudoir Lamps

1.29 ea.

Lovely pastel pottery bases with matching fluted shades! You'll want two to use on either one of dresses or vanity! And you can afford it at this low price!

Big Round Mirrors

With Ornate Gilt Frames

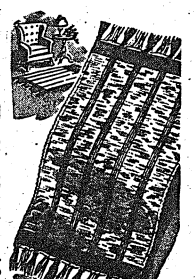
Ideal for over the buffet, or mantel! Flawless glass with decorative gilded wood frames! Save!

2.29

20-in. size

Smart Pottery Base Table Lamps

1.98



Decorative pottery bases in white, rose or turquoise with matching parchment shades! Very low priced—save now!

Early American RAG RUGS

24x36 ..... 1.49
24x48 ..... 1.98
36x48 ..... 2.98

● Decorative, durable and washable!

So attractive with maple furniture . . . and easy to keep clean, they wash so well! Red, blue, green or 'salt-and pepper' colors! Grand values!

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.

1221 BROADWAY 2ND FLOOR DIAL 3-4351

FORT BENNING BAYONET

Published By The Ledger-Enquirer Co. For America's Most Complete Post

VOLUME 1, NUMBER 23 FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1943. PRICE FIVE CENTS

Thru The Peepsight

G. I. Summary Of World News

BY SGT. O. J. REMINGTON

IN WORDS OF the old song of World I days, "Where Do We Go From Here Boys?" seems to be right applicable to the gallant lads of the Russian Army as they continue their smashing victories. Certainly Hitler must be wondering where the Reds will go from Rostov, which fell much more quickly than anybody had dared hope. Apparently the Germans are taking the wiser course of withdrawing troops rather than attempting to make stands in territory that is being surrounded by flanking pincer attacks. Kharkov seems to be next on the list for the advancing Russians. Just how much fartehr they can continue with the winter weather in their favor and before the Germans may be able to start another spring offensive is of course problematical.

* * *

WHILE FALL OF Rostov was probably the most encouraging news of the past week, the Lincoln Day address of President Franklin D. Roosevelt was undoubtedly the most significant. Briefly he promised decisive action against the heart of Japan, reassured those disturbed over our policy toward the French, and further reassured the country that Axis attempts to divide England, Russia, China and ourselves will never be allowed to come to pass.

Most significant statement, probably was the one that "There are many roads which lead right to Tokyo. We shall neglect none of them." That, coupled with Prime Minister Churchill's assurance that should Germany be knocked out of the war before Japan, the English will continue battling against the Rising Sun Empire, sounds like good news. It would seem that some sort of agreement must have been reached with Russia following the conferences at Casablanca, whereby American forces will be enabled to strike directly at the heart of Japan. With completion of the Alaskan highway through Canada, American material aid to Russia doubtless will be speeded enormously. At the same time, supplies can now be pushed directly overland to Alaskan bases for attacks against the Japanese Islands.

* * *

SIGNIFICANT INDEED is the news that C. Van Ravenswaal, mayor of Utrecht and minister of social affairs in the German-owned Netherlands government, was assassinated. Watch for more of such occurrences, followed by actual uprisings in the conquered countries as straws in the wind to show whether Germany actually is beginning to crumble. A Bulgar general also was killed at nearly the same time. Probably too early yet for the conquered countries to show strong signs of resistance without taking too much punishment for what it's worth, however. But Allied plans certainly must be being made to help along active resistance when the moment is right.

Elsewhere on the continent, Royal Air Force plans continued terrific blasting movements against U-boat bases and Germany factory areas. Most recent attack on Lorient was spectacularly successful, with more than a thousand tons of bombs dropped to leave docks and warehouse areas a sea of roaring flames.

* * *

AS SPRING APPROACHES, the problem of securing sufficient farm labor becomes acute. The Manpower Commission already has begun moving farm laborers into the Southland and will be shifting them about the country. No "Okies" are these people, but workers who know farming and should be mighty welcome to hard pressed farm and plantation owners and operators. Already, however, some alarm is being expressed in some cities over importation of too much labor into areas already overcrowded and lacking in living units. Moves are being inaugurated to secure labor for these cities from nearby areas.

Along this line, President Roosevelt has now decreed a 48-hour work week for some cities where labor shortages are more acute.

At the same time, top manpower officials have announced that 12,000 men a day must be inducted into the Armed Forces during this year and they further said flatly that no man between 18 and 38 will be deferred because of dependents. Only the man's essential war work will be considered.

"This year alone, the number of men inducted will approach in size the entire American army in the first World War," Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, said. At the same time, Major General Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, said "The great majority of the physically fit, except the farmers, between 18 and 38 years of age, must go into the armed forces this year. It is most important that those who have jobs in our war industries be left until they can be replaced in order to maintain production."

* * *

ALTHOUGH THERE HAS been little to report from Allied ground forces on the Tunisian front, U. S. planes continue covering wide areas of the African-Mediterranean theater, inflicting heavy damage.

The battle for Guadalcanal represents a complete American victory. Strategy that forced Japanese capitulation was described by Secretary of War Stimson as a flanking movement carried out at sea with naval support while U. S. Army forces were landed

See THRU, Page 9

Ration Program Affects Military

TIS Personnel May Buy Shoes Through Units

Officers candidates and tactical officers in the First, Second and Third Student Training Regiments may purchase civilian shoes by making application through their regimental supply officers, it was announced today by Sgt. Louis Lipp, in charge of the shoe rationing program.

A ruling on this point now has been made to clear up previous confusion existing in shoe rationing regulations, according to word received from Dr. R. B. Daniel, chairman of the Muscogee County War Price and Rationing Board.

Other officers and enlisted men who are under separate rations may secure shoes by utilizing ration book coupon No. 17 while officers who eat with organizations on the post may secure permits for shoe purchase through Sgt. Lipp's office.

Members of Officer Candidate classes and tactical officers of the Student Training Regiments should apply to their regimental supply officers. They in turn will file with Sgt. Lipp's office the lists of those who have secured such permits. This, it was explained, will make it easier for the men to secure shoe permits since they will not have to make a trip to the Main Post and at the same time will make keeping of records much easier.

Ration Book No. 2 Distribution Set For Next Week

War Ration Book No. 2 will be issued to personnel of Fort Benning who live in separate quarters or who are on separate rations, from February 23 through 28th, it was announced today by Sgt. Louis Lipp, in charge of rationing for the post.

Issuing of the books will be conducted in Columbus next Monday and Tuesday. Sgt. Lipp and his assistants will assist the Muscogee County War Price and Rationing Board on Monday to familiarize themselves with the technique and all of the routine to be followed. On Tuesday tables will be set up in the Provost Marshal's offices where the Fort Benning personnel can secure their cards. Men will be on duty from 8:00 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Cards may be secured by a member of the family for the entire family provided the necessary forms are filled out. A maid, armed with the forms, also may secure the cards for the entire family for whom she works, Sgt. Lipp said. All Ration Books No. 1 must be turned in when such proceedure is followed, he emphasized. An estimated 10,000 books will be issued for Fort Benning.

EXPLAIN DETAILS

Rationing of foods now will be under the point system, and family purchasers and meal planners should familiarize themselves with the regulations governing this system, Dr. R. B. Daniel, chairman of the Muscogee Board, stated today.

Besides sugar, coffee and shoes now rationed under Book No. 1, many foods now will be rationed. These include canned and bottled fruits and fruit juices, including spiced fruits; frozen fruits; dried and dehydrated fruits; canned and bottled vegetables and vegetable juices; frozen processes, other processed foods such as canned soups of all types and varieties and baby foods.

LIST FRUITS

Under the list of canned and bottled fruits and fruit juices to be rationed come apples, including crab apples; apple sauce; apricots berries of all varieties; cherries; cranberries and sauce; fruits for salad and fruit cocktail; grapefruit; grapefruit juice; grape juice; peaches; pears; pineapple; pineapple juice and all other canned and bottled fruits, fruit juices and combinations.

On the list of frozen fruits are cherries, peaches, strawberries, other berries and all other frozen fruits.

In the list of dried of dehydrated fruits are prunes and raisins as well as all others.

CANNED FOODS

Canned and bottled vegetables and vegetable juices listed include asparagus, beans, beets, including pickled, carrots, corn, peas, sauerkraut, spinach, tomatoes, tomato catsup and chili sauce, tomato juice, other tomato products and all other canned and vege-

See RATION, Page 9

All-Time BAR Record Made

1st STR Company Qualifies 73 Experts

A new all-time record for the Infantry School was set by the 17th Company of the First Student Training Regiment in firing the Browning Automatic Rifle when 73 members of the company qualified as experts. The old record for any officer candidate class was 68 experts.

High score was made by Candidate William R. Whitney, Woodbudy, N. J., with a mark of 164. Whitney is a member of the fourth platoon.

Some of the others in the expert brackets were Candidates L. F. Stahl, Endicott, N. Y.; H. C. Warren, Orange, Mass., and J. E. Whitby, Erie, Pa.

OTHER HIGH SCORES

Outstanding high scores were also made by the first squad of the third platoon of the same company in field target firing and by the third squad of the fourth platooon in landscape target firing. The latter squad scored 209 out of a possible 220.

The company, comanded by Capt. Percy F. Reid, Jr. was chosen to give a demonstration of physical training exercises this week before two of the advanced officers' clases. The demonstration was held on Gordon field under the direction of Col. James F.

See ALL-TIME, Page 9

New Post Office Opens Monday On Main Post

Larger Facilities Needed As Fort's Population Gains

Speed-up of outgoing mail service from Fort Benning will go into effect as the new Post Office building will be ready for business next Monday, it was announced today by Leighton W. MacPherson, postmaster of Columbus under whose jurisdiction the Post branch is operated.

Work of moving equipment from the present Post Office building on Vibbert avenue is under way now and everything is being made ready to move and install the remainder of the equipment and desks on Sunday so that the new offices will be open to the public Monday morning.

The new Post Office is located between Hall and Ingersoll streets across Vibbert avenue from the Main Post fire station. The main entrance is on Hall street. It is a one-story brick building, 110 feet by 110 feet, affording just about twice the floor space of the present building.

OLD OFFICE CLOSES

Mail and postal business will continue to be transacted at the present wooden building until Monday, Richard McPherson, superintendent, said today.

Speed up of outgoing mail will be accomplished by utilizing the additional space furnished in the new building to sort, route and sack the mail in the Post Office. Thus, instead of being sent to Columbus to go through this routine, outgoing mail will be taken directly to the mail trains in Columbus. This will mean speed up of outgoing mail by several hours, Mr. McPherson stated.

VOLUME INCREASES

The old wooden structure has been in use since 1930 and was equipped to handle mail when there were only about 6,000 men on the post. It has been overtaxed since the growth of the Army and especially since America's entry into the war. Forty-five persons now are employed in the offices and handling of mail in speedy manner has been difficult.

During the past Christmas rush, the office handled nearly 1,000,000 outgoing pieces of mail, as an example of the increase in business, while the average handling of mail has increased several hundred per cent over the five years ago.

Save The Sales Talk, Buddie, Is Right, Yassuh

The much-ridiculed expanding files, with which every Officer Candidate at Fort Benning is familiar, have a staunch defender in Candidate "Abe" Fitterman, Ninth Company, Third Student Training Regiment. In civilian life he was production manager of the company which manufactures said files.

Even now, "Abe's" eyes light up with the a missionary fire on what he speaks of his product. On one occasion, however, his fervor was effectively, if unfeelingly, dampened by one of his buddies who said, "Save the sales talk, soldier. We gotta buy the things anyway."

Class 'A' Bond Allotments To End On April 1

Deductions Will Be Made Under Revised System

Effective April 1, all class A war bond reservations for military personnel will be terminated according to Maj. George Fink, post war bond officer.

Under a new plan devised by the War Department, no more class A deductions will be accepted, and all present reservations will be cancelled after March deductions.

Replacing the current allotment will be a new Class B reservation, which will be offered in 11 different amounts. Enlisted personnel may authorize any one of the allotments preferred. These range from $3.75 up to $375, and are deducted monthly. However, officers must allot at least $18.75 monthly, if they want to use this plan.

NEW FORMS

Persons already having class A reservations and who want to continue those after April 1, must submit an additional B form. These are available from unit war bond officers, and will not be effective before April 1. No letter of cancellation is necessary for the class A allotments. They will automatically cease after deductions from March pay.

Major Fink said the revision would not effect civilian personnel at Fort Benning. Their reservations will continue as previously. In reply to many inquiries about delayed bond delivery, Major Fink said there was no cause for alarm.

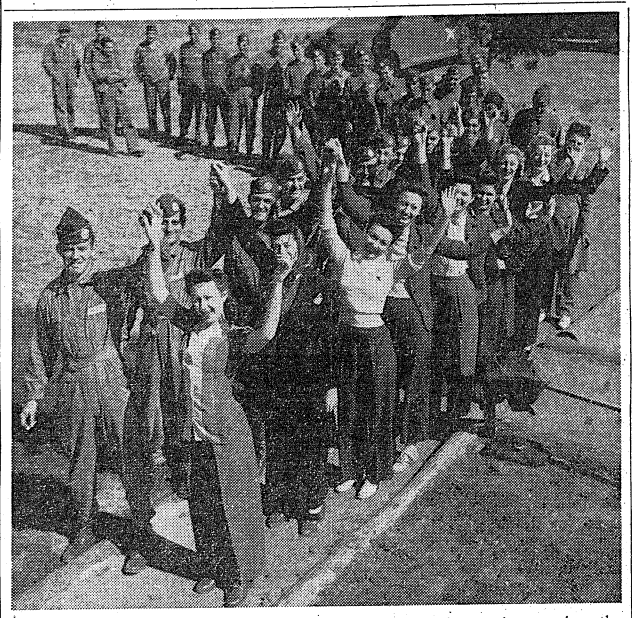
"All deductions authorized by officers are listed on their pay vouchers, and those requested by enlisted men appear on the individual service record," he added, "In lieu of delivery of bonds or other notification these two records will serve as receipts. Nothing more is needed as proof of the purchase."

Leases Signed By Landlords

Paratroops Training Continues In Alabama

Sufficient arrangements have been made with Russell county land owners to insure at least a temporary continuation of parachute troop training, Benning officials announced Tuesday.

Meanwhile, owners, tenants, and others interested in leasing maneuver rights on the lands to the War Department have been invited to meet with F. H. Banks, of the land acquisition branch at 8 p. m. tonight in the Fort Mitchell school house to thresh out problems involved.



Possibility of cancellation of the parachute program of training arose through misinformation concerning the government's liability while exercising trespass rights during maneuvers.

The maneuver rights expired Feb. 15, and owners became reluctant because of the misinformation to renew the leases.

Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton and Brig. Gen. George P. Howell, commander of the First Airborne Infantry brigade, both issued urgent appeals to the farmers to sign up quickly, and assured them that any damage to the fields or other property would be paid for promptly, in addition to whatever price is agreed on for the leases themselves.

"Unless the land is made available," said General Fulton, "serious interruptions to the training program will be caused."

Army-Navy Salvage Day Program Planned By Post

MEMBERS OF the "Show Time at the Roxy" cast here last week were given the thrill of a life time when they were escorted by paratroopers to the jump towers to experience the ups and downs in a 'chutist's life. (Signal Lab Photo.)

Fort To Offer Pick-Up Facilities For Nearby Towns

Facilities at Fort Benning will be made available next Wednesday for the collection of scrap metals as a part of the Army and Navy Salvage Day Program planned for the entire state of Georgia, Col. Stephens B. Massey, director of salvage has announced that the Quartermaster will supply trucks for hauling and even man-power if requested, by neighboring civilian communities.

The concentrated drive to collect vital scrap metal and old automobiles, particularly in the rural districts, was initiated by the War Production Board and has been endorsed by all state officials as well as the commanding officers of the Fourth Service Command and the Georgia Naval District.

Throughout the state, army posts and naval stations have proferred help to the local salvage committees and stand ready to make next Wednesday a "red letter" day in the civilian scrap drive. Colonel Massey said that Fort Benning will send trucks and men wherever possible within the immediate area of the post and whenever it is considered a reasonable request.

ATTENDS MEETING

In preparation for the Army and Navy Salvage Day program, the Benning director of supply attended a meeting last week of the Muscogee County Salvage Committee in Columbus, and offered the services of the post to Mr. Crawford Key, chairman of the scrap salvage campaign in the county. Col. Massey also outlined the necessity of all-out effort on the part of civilians, and said that with military and naval help in collections there was no reason why piles of scrap metal, so badly needed in the war plants, should lie idle through neglect.

During the past week 1st Lieut. Herman E. Klein, post salvage officer, completed a four-day tour of surrounding counties and spoke of the importance of the program and helped with plans for mak-

See ARMY-NAVY, Page 9

Member of First AEF Under Fire in Current War Relates Experiences

Nazi Submarines Pester Garrison At San Nicholis

Candidate Dwight L. Carhart who was with the first A. E. F. of this war to go under fire is now a member of the Seventh Company, Third Student Training Regiment.

Candidate Carhart was formerly with a unit guarding the largest oil refineries in the world.

His unit left a port of embarkation in February of 1942 and after days of well-escorted travel arrived in the port of San Micholis, which belongs to Standard Oil and is the island's only port. As they disembarked, a battalion of Highlanders, all veterans of Dunkirk were waiting on the dock to load and start their trip home after sixteen months on the island. They wore their kilts and their bagpipes squealed lustily as they pulled out the next day. Candidate Carhart said, "I think it was then, as the troop ship pulled out, that I had my only touch of homesickness. Our last contact was leaving."

FLAMING OCEAN

"We had been there a week when we found out very forcibly what our job was to be. About one o'clock in the morning we were awakened by something that seemed to be trying to tear the roofs off the barracks with a sledge hammer. German subs had entered the harbor. It was the first and I hope the last time that I ever see the surface of the ocean just one great bed of flames."

"After we had been there for a time another sub tried the same trick, but we had our defenses completed and that raider met disaster."

Regarding living conditions on this outpost Carhart said:

"Until such time as we were able to get our camp built and refrigerators installed our diet consisted mainly of dehydrated foods. While we were well fed, we lost a great deal of pleasure that used to be involved in the daily three squares back home. Later we had fresh meat, vegetables and butter just as we did in the camps in the states.

"As far as entertainment was concerned, we had our own theatres with a new show every night and after a few months we had a well stocked canteen. But the big thing was the American Colony there which went out of its way to supply us with entertainment and food."

SUB SNEAKS IN

Just before Candidate Carhart left the island a German sub appeared on the surface one night and stealthily started to enter the harbor. The sub was immediately picked up by radio beam and allowed to come in. When the Commanding Officer had the sub just where he wanted it every search light in the harbor was turned on it and the gunners had a field day.

Candidate Carhart graduated from Marion Harding College and Ohio Northern University. He was a director of plays before entering

See MEMBER, Page 9

MAX, THE PARAPUP, (inset) has left Benning for other climes, but he left behind a souvenir of his presence here. The memento consists of a litter of six puppies which are carbon copies of their fighting sire. They are shown above with Mrs. Max (Signal Lab. Photo by Kortemeier.)

Service Club Opening Set For March 1

Razed By Fire, Main Unit Plans Future Programs

Work of repairing the fire-stricken Service Club No. 1 is being rushed in an effort to have it ready for use by March 1, it was announced today by Col. A. J. Bain, post engineer and Major James Sutton, theater officer under whose jurisdiction the club is operated.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Bryant, new hostess for the club, already is on the post and has been working on several programs that have been carried on in other places while repairs are being made.

Fire broke out in the club on Sunday, Nov. 28, and despite efforts to fight it when it was discovered, quickly spread through the whole building. Several soldiers and firemen were overcome by smoke while fighting the flames and carrying out furniture.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

A new floor has been installed in the main lounge where the fire was at its worst, new paint has been applied, electric wiring has been repaired and fixtures either cleaned or replaced, and the plumbing system repaired and other work done. Cost of repairs and renovating the lounge and upstairs rooms will run close to $5,000.

The club is expected to be put into at least partial use before the end of February, Major Sutton said today, and then activities will be resumed as rapidly as possible as other repairs are completed.

As soon as the facilities of the new Exchange building across from the Main Theater can be

See SERVICE, Page 9

Minister Prefers To Carry Rifle Instead Of Bible

An ordained minister in the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, Candidate Wayne Wardle of the Third Student Training Regiment of the Officer Candidate School, prefers to carry a rifle instead of applying for a post as army chaplain.

Candidate Wardle, who spent two years as a Morman missionary preaching in every state in the union, held the position of Elder in the Mormon church at the time he was inducted into the army from Salt Lake City, Utah

"I don't intend to apply for the position of army chaplain because I feel I am better qualified to carry a rifle," Wardle states, "but believe me, the training I had before joining up is going to be a big help to me when I find myself in a tight spot somewhere. And when it is all over, I believe I'll be better qualified to preach about the peace for which the Church stands."

Quezon's Aide At Benning

Escaped Japanese By Running Blockade

The Infantry School at Fort Benning numbers among its students Lt. Col. Jaime Velasquez Camacho, former military aide to President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines, and former chief of staff of the 91st Division of the Filipino army.

Colonel Velasquez served in the Filipino Constabulary and in the Filipino Army, and when General MacArthur organized the United States armed forces in the Far East, was transferred to that unit. Colonel Velasquez served as a talion commander and as regimental executive officer before the outbreak of the war, and immediately before the war was appointed plans and training officer of the division and then its chief of staff.

When war came his division was on Luzon. After fighting there for two weeks in the central sector, his outfit was ordered to Bataan where he spent the remainder defense of the left sector.

ESCAPE BY SUB

The decision to have President Quezon leave Bataan for the southern islands was hurried by the need for settling the problems of administration and defense of the southern islands. President Quezon and his family and close advisors left in a submarine, but Col. Velasquez and a number of the staff escaped in a surface boat by running the Jap blockade. Many

See QUEZON, Page 9

Ex-North Woodsman Is At Home With Compass On Strange Terrain

Pvt. Sweet Was Expert Axeman At 'Tender Age' Of Sixteen

Finding his way about in strange territory by means of a compass and map and drawing detailed sketches while patrolling will be no new experience to Pvt. Rodney E. Swett of Trains Hq. Co., who in civilian life was a woodsman in the forests of northern Maine.

Pvt. Swett was born on the fringe of one of the largest forest tracts in the eastern United States, in the small town of 3X Bow, and began swinging an axe almost as soon as he could walk. By the time he had reached his sixteenth birthday he was a full-fledged axeman, in the Maine sense of the word, which means that he was qualified to "brush out" townlines, i. e., chop down brush and trees to be that happened to be standing in the way of a town line. After two months of this he began to run cruise lines and in an amazingly short time he became known as a "cruiser."

An aspirant in woodsman's language is a specialist, usually employed by a large lumber or pulp company, who goes into the woods and counts the trees—literally. But there is nothing childish about this occupation, for the cruiser's estimate of the amount and kind of timber to be given tract is the basis for large-scale business deals, and an inaccurate estimate is measured in hundreds of thousands of dollars. Failure to figure in a single tree in a survey of an acre may represent the difference between a small profit and an actual loss for the company.

CRUISE FAST

It usually takes three or four years to break in a cruiser, but Swett was doing the work in four months because, he modestly explains, "I had a good instructor." At any rate, Swett cruised successfully for five years all over the vast area in the northwestern part of Maine, an area that is roughly 200 miles deep and 100 miles wide—and all forest land. It was a rugged life, he is willing to grant, but it certainly put him in condition for anything the army might demand of him.

For instance, on cruising trips with a small crew of men, he has stayed in the woods as long as two months at a time. And he has stayed alone for four or five days and nights. Overnight bivouacs will be no novelty to him, even if the weather happens to be quite cold. On several occasions he has slept in a tent in the woods when the snow was five feet deep and the temperature about 40 below zero.

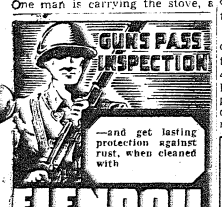
On winter cruising expeditions Swett and his companion usually traveled on "bear-paw" snowshoes, which are just what they sound like: snowshoes shaped like a bear's paw. These are used because it is easier to turn around while working than the larger and more common snowshoes.

HEAVY PACK

A pack weighing 60 or 70 pounds and containing all equipment that is necessary, but none that is not, is carried on the back. One man is carrying the stove, a collapsible unit weighing about 30 pounds. The crew arrives at its destination and makes camp by pitching the small tent over a pile of boughs, held together with the only available adhesive, snow. Sleeping accommodations consist of two large sleeping bags, and when the four men, their equipment, the stove and the sleeping bags are all together in the diminutive tent, there is no waste space.

What does a woodsman carry along when he starts off to work? Well, Pvt. Sweet says that working materials come first because, after all, your only purpose in going into the woods is to work. An axe, a compass, caliper bars (to measure the size of trees) and a note book all come under the heading of necessities. Next is a first aid outfit which, Sweet says, a woodman never forgets. Matches and hunting knives are also essential, but not guns, because there is no animal to fear in the Maine woods and woodsmen on the job are not hunters.

TRANSPORTATION



Sweet has used almost every possible mode of transportation to reach his destination in the woods —except the vehicles of the Armored Force, and it may be that he will decide to buy up an old scout car after the war. He has gone in by tote team, which is a horse-drawn drag. He has gone in by train when the job in case happened to be near the tracks. Sometimes he has been able to reach the spot by car. On one occasion he traveled part of the way in a tractor and walked the rest of the distance, hauling his equipment on a hand sled. And he has even flown in, traveling in planes equipped with pontoons in the summer and skis in the winter.

The army is making full use of Sweet's experience, and the former woodsman will have full opportunity to use his maps and compasses. He is assigned to a reconnaissance platoon and, as anybody knows, the boys in reconnaissance have to know their way around.

94 Per Cent Of 29 Personnel Reserves Bonds

With an increase of six per cent in subscriptions over last month's figure, the number of war bond reservations made to date by 29th Infantry personnel stands at 94 per cent of regimental strength. Monetary value of the subscriptions equals $17,373; cash purchases have been made to the extent of $9,000.

Unit showing the greatest increase in amount subscribed to is the Medical Detachment with a 46 per cent increase over that of last month. Four units show a perfect record with 100 per cent of their men having made pay reservations.

—and get lasting protection against rust, when cleaned with

FIENDOIL

—it's the soldier's friend that saves manual cleaning! Get Fiendoil at

Your Post Exchange

McCambridge & McCambridge Baltimore

P & G STUDIO

1028½ Broadway

Frames, Tinting, Gorgeous Work.

Military Personnel Welcome.

WANTED!!!

"WE PAY HIGHEST CASH PRICES"

100

FORD and CHEVROLET

PASSENGER CARS AND TRUCKS

Hardaway Motor Co.

1541 - 1st Ave. Dial 7781

"fresh up".. AND LOOK AHEAD

YOU LIKE IT—IT LIKES YOU—

Five Lawson Men Advance

The promotion of five Lawson Field officers is announced by Lt. Col. John Albert, commanding officer.

First Lieut. Wallace E. Grubbs, Commanding Officer of the 1013th Guard Squadron and First Lieut. Charles Friedman; Adjutant of Lawson Field have been promoted to the rank of captain.

Three flying officers from the 7th Observation Squadron; Lieut. John M. Baker, Donald Eyer, Jr., and Lloyd Verket have been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant.

Captain Grubbs is also Provost Marshal of Lawson Field. Prior to his present assignment with the 1013th Guard Squadron, he held the positions of Air Base ordnance officer, chemical warfare officer, armament officer and adjutant of the 54th Base Headquarters and Air Base Squadron.

He is a graduate of the Air Corps Primary School, Santa Maria, California, the Basic Flying School, Moffett Field, California and the Armament School, Lowry Field, Denver, Colorado. He was commissioned a second lieutenant March 3, 1941, and promoted to the rank of 1st lieutenant on September 5, 1942.

Captain Friedman has held the positions of war bond officer and legal officer before assuming his present duties as adjutant.

Lieut. Baker, Special Service Officer and Assistant Transportation Officer of the 7th Observation Squadron arrived at Lawson on July 25, 1942.

He received his primary training at Hicks Field, Texas, basic at Randolph Field and his advanced training at Brooks Field where he received his commission. Before being assigned to the 7th, Lt. Baker was with the Brooks Flying Observers School.

Lieut. Eyer, assistant operation officer, was assigned to the 7th shortly after being commissioned as second lieutenant May 20, 1942. He enlisted in the Air Corps on November 1, 1941, and received his primary training at the Sparton School of Aeronautics, Tulsa, Oklahoma, Basic at Randolph Field, and Advanced training at Brooks Field, Texas.

Lieutenant Verket, assistant photographic officer was stationed with the 392nd School Squadron, Brooks Field, Texas before his arrival here June 3, 1942.

He received his Primary training at Sikeston, Missouri, Basic at Penn Field, Sherman, Texas and advanced at Brooks Field, Texas.

Lipp Receives OPA Award

Certificate Rewards Devotion To Duty

"In sincere appreciation for his devotion to his country's needs through the free and patriotic sacrifice of personal interest in the execution of the War Price and Rationing Program," reads the Voluntary Service Award, recently received, by Sergeant Louis Lipp, secretary and chief clerk of the post rationing board.

Coming from the Office of Price Administration, and personally signed by Leon Henderson, former OPA administrator; Oscar K. Strauss, regional administrator; and Ed. Thornwell, Muscogee county administrator, the certificate is one of the few given to individuals for outstanding work in connection with the rationing program.

Sergeant Lipp, has served on the mileage rationing board since its inauguration last June, and will soon take over similar duties in the shoe and food rationing plan which goes into effect March 1.

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., Lipp has been in service since March, 1941, and was promoted to sergeant early this month.

NON-COM. DUO PROMOTED

Staff Sergeant Howard L. Pederson of the Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School Service Command has been promoted to master sergeant and is now sergeant major of the Personnel Section of the Regiment, it was announced today.

Promotion of Earle A. Sorensen to the rank of sergeant was also announced. Sgt. Sorenson is now in charge of the Transfer Section of Regimental Headquarters in the Third Student Training Regiment.

San Francisco— (CNS) —Three thousand bucks have been appropriated by the city to install heating equipment in the lion cages of the local zoo. They were built without consideration for taking full advantage of that warm California sunshine and the lions are likely to catch cold.

'Musical Genius' Seeks Victory Key At Benning

Wrote Scores For Fort Meade's 'Times A' Wastin''

The Ninth Company, First Student Training Regiment, has a member of its current class, a musical genius in the person of Candidate Stuart, 25 years old, formerly of San Angelo, Tex.

Candidate Ling is noted in musical circles as being the first concert pianist in the United States ever to play "Repartee," by David Bennett, a piano concerto written especially to be played with a full symphony orchestral accompaniment.

This concert was played by him at Syracuse, N. Y., in 1939, before an audience of more than 1,200 people.

Between advancing his musical knowledge and playing concerts, Candidate Ling has been an accompanist for Coquita Blanco, world famous Spanish classical dancer, and for whom he made several recordings; he has arranged for Jon Cavelle, the French "Bing Crosby," also famous in his own right, and has also arranged for Jack Teagarden, to whom the American people need no introduction.

16 SCORES IN FORTNIGHT

His latest musical triumph was at Fort George G. Meade, Md., when he wrote 16 complete musical scores in 14 days for "Time's A'Wastin," fort show, which was reviewed by high ranking officers from the 2nd Corps Command. Candidate Ling received commendations from the War Department for his efforts.

Candidate Ling received his Bachelor of Music Education at Syracuse University in 1940. While there he studied under such noted instructors as Mr. Kirk Ridge, and Dr. Jacob Kwalwasser a nationally known music educator. Ling started to study music when only 7 years of age, and plays practically all instruments.

While at Syracuse University, Candidate Ling wrote all of the musical scores for the musical comedies produced there.

In civil life, Ling was music supervisor of schools near Syracuse, N. Y.

His father is director of the U.S.O. at San Angelo, Tex., and he has a younger brother who is a lieutenant in the United States Air Corps.

18 Enlisted Men, Service Battalion, 3rd STR, Advance

The Service Battalion, Third Student Training Regiment recently announced the promotion of six staff sergeants to the rank of first sergeant.

They are: First Sergeant Cullen Warren of Co. A, a native of Reynolds, Ga.; First Sergeant Edward A. Mencer of Co. B, who is the youngest first sergeant in the Battalion, being 23 years old; First Sergeant Joseph H. Edwards of Co. C, who saw action in World War I with the famous 92nd Division.; First Sergeant Morris Jackson of Co. D, who has 26 years' service, and was under the command of General John J. Pershing during the World War I chase of Poncho Villa down Mexico way; First Sergeant Anderson McGruder of Co. E and First Sergeant Bernice Pollenitz of Hq. and Hq. Co.

Also in the list of promotions are the following sergeants: Francis Wilson, Sherman Spiller, William J. Smith, Sylvester A. Kelley, Van H. Ford, Hubert Perry, Henry E. Draines, Theodore R. King, John Watkins, Robert B. Hawkins, Almo McCoy and William Washington, all to the rank of staff sergeants.

IN UNIFORMS - See Hamilton

Tailored To Measure

Made From 19-Oz. Very Dark Elastique

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

FOR QUALITY — COMPARE!

HAMILTON TAILORING CO.

Display Room - 442 Ralston Hotel

O. C. Scores BAR Possible

Candidate Vern L. Jones, of the Third Student Training Regiment's 22nd Company now knows what it is like to be famous.

Firing the automatic rifle for record on the range with others of his company last week, Candidate Jones popped off 15 shots and chalked up a possible—75! Jones was the only one of the company to come up with a perfect score on any of the rapid fire targets.

Post Scouts Take Preflight Training Work

AAF Men Give Courses To 25 Boys In Spare Time

More than 25 Benning boys, sons of officers and enlisted men, have formed one of the first Boy Scout Pre-flight Corps in the country, with instructions being received from officers and enlisted men of the Army Air Forces, during their free hours.

Ideas for the new project at the post which is aimed at fitting Scouts to be acceptable for actual flight training when they are old enough, was spawned by Lt. Col. Virgil Ney, instructor in the Infantry School, who is in charge of all boys activities at the military post.

At the first meeting of the Scout group, Col. Benjamin G. Weir, Air Corps instructor at the Infantry School, gave the boys all ranging in age from 15 to 18, their first course of instructions, discussing "Early Phases of Aviation." At the most recent meeting Col. Weir took up "Theory of Weather."

MEET THURSDAYS

At the meeting scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 18, pilots and instructors who are volunteering their time after their own duties at Lawson Field are completed, will take up further basic flight principles. Officers and enlisted men of the Air Forces or other branches of the Army who also may be interested are invited to hear the talks or to help with the preparation of lessons. Meetings of the new group will be conducted every Thursday night at 322 Infantry School building.

The Scouts are divided into four flights to make up a squadron. Each flight is to be headed by a flight pilot. Chosen as squadron pilot was Jack Coursey, son of Col. Richard Coursey while Lawrence Bennett was named operations officer and Robert McBride supply officer.

Tiger Bond Purchases Total Quarter Million

Men of the 10th Armored Division have bought a quarter million dollars worth of war bonds, according to estimates of Major Russell C. Hinote, division war bond officer.

"If we had a way of making a definite check on the entire division," said Major Hinote, "I am sure the figure would pass the $300,000 mark. As it is, we can only catch the men at the pay table and ask them how many they have bought."

Figures just released show the Tiger Division holds bonds representing $196,986,000 in cash purchases, while an additional $41,602.75 has been deducted from their pay toward bonds. Approximately half the men in the division have made pay reservations.

We Appreciate the Business Fort Benning Gives Us.

FIRM ROBERTS

CUSSETA RD.

Film Actor Swaps Grease Paint for Burned Cork

It's a long step from Thespis to Mars, but Candidate Victor N. Zimmerman of Pasadena, is trading the grease paint of the theater for the burnt cork of Infantry night fighting in the Third Student Training Regiment.

This is just one of the many subjects that he will take up in the rigorous thirteen-week cycle of training that includes the study of all the Infantry weapons, Blitz and obstacle courses, infiltration problems, Infantry tactics and even the building of a "pioneer" bridge, that will hold a medium tank.

The people of his hometown, Pasadena, California, will remember him as an actor and singer who was identified with the Pasadena Community Playhouse and the civic singing groups there.

During the time (1935-1939) that he spent in the Community Playhouse he was seen in some twenty plays, including several in the Summer Festival of Maxwell Anderson's Plays.

Candidate Zimmerman came to Pasadena from the middle west, where he attained recognition as a producer of plays and musical comedy with amateurs. In his background of experience he lists a number of years in light opera and radio. Among the light operas, Reginald DeKoven's "Robin Hood" afforded him the part of Will Scarlet, which was his favorite.

For the past four years, Zimmerman has been engaged as an actor in the motion picture field. In fact, when the draft called him in 1942, he had to get a thirty-day extension in order to finish a picture he was in. Oddly enough, the last four or five parts he played in motion pictuers were German officers.

He hopes, now, that the Infantry Officer Candidate School can teach him, as an American officer, to outwit and defeat them in battle better than he was able to portray them on the screen.

Candidate Zimmerman is a member of the Ninth Company, Third Student Training Regiment.

Georgia Cold Is Balmy To Icelandic Troopers

It may have been bitter cold recently to the natives, but to 32 candidates in the 8th Company, Third Student Training Regiment, here at the Infantry School, the lowest temperature was still positively balmy.

"Cold?" chorused 18 men from a Mountain Infantry and 14 others from the Iceland Detachment. "Why, you fellows don't know what cold is."

Up at 9,500 feet above sea level in Colorado, where a mountain Infantry is training, snow has been on the ground since mid-November. For a week before the candidates left, they fell out for calisthenics knee-deep in snow with the temperature 20 to 35 below zero.

It never got that cold in Iceland, but it was damp and windy.

"How that wind blew!" reminisced Candidate Charles J. Bender. "We'd get 60 to 70 mile gales, mist day after day, and cold that penetrated your bones."

RAW WEATHER

Because Iceland is in the path of the Gulf Stream, temperatures never reach an extreme low. By the same token, however, the weather is almost always raw. Nissen huts kept the detachment warm; work and more work, at docks and installations, kept them busy.

Colorado winter, unlike Iceland's, tends to subzero weather and snow that is neck deep off the valley floor at Camp Hale. Many of the men in the group sent to the 8th Company had toughened themselves by sleeping out weekends in arctic tents at altitudes up to 12,600 feet.

But, take it from all of these candidates, the skiing and Alpine climbing they'd done didn't help them a bit when the First Battalion physical instructor in the Third Student Training Regiment called for one more push-up or urged them through the obstacle course.

"I might as well have sat in camp over the weekends," mourned one skier.

AUGUST WINTER

The detachment from Camp Hale includes three men whose winter started in August. Dyson Duncan, Floyd Fox, and Harold Burton were members of a detachment in the heart of the Canadian Rockies. They slept, ate, and worked on ice—16 hours a day.

Of the candidates from Camp Hale, two Dyson Duncan and David R. Brower are recognized in mountain-climbing circles. Duncan is a noted mountaineer with a number of first ascents in the Canadian Rockies and Coast Range to his credit. Brower has made 26 first ascents in the Sierra Nevada and written most of the manual to be used by mountain troops in training.

Chinese Composer Wants Assistance With WAAC Song

Private Pow Lem Chin of the 29th Infantry Bugle Corps announced today that he is in the market for a lyricist. "Chin," as he is popularly known, being an advanced student of musical knowledge, turns his hand now and then to composing, and has recently penned a march which he plans to dedicate to the WAACS.

Although a real master of melody, Chin confesses that as a lyric writer he is completely lost, and unless he finds a collaborator, the WAACS may be forever unaware either of him or his song.

Yule Smokes Cross Sea Twice Pursuing O. C.

Candidate Marchitelli, 7th Co., of the 1st Student Training Regiment, was passing cigarettes out very freely yesterday. However hard as it was to understand, nobody questioned his reason and accepted his offer very willingly. Today the reason came out.

It seems that a friend, a smoke shop proprietor in Utica, N. Y., sent Marchitelli a Christmas present. On December 16 he mailed a carton of cigarettes to his friend whose address was A. P. O. No. 27, same postmaster. While the cigarettes were being shipped around overseas, Marchitelli was on his way back to the States to attend the Infantry O. C. S. at Fort Benning.

Yesterday the package caught up with him a great deal the worse for wear but still intact. Anyway, says Marchitelli, that removes any doubt as to the thoroughness of the Army Postal system.

WANTED!!

ANTIQUES, VASES, MUSIC BOXES, OLD BUTTONS, DOLLS, CHOICE CHINESE, ALL KINDS.

ELLEN WORRALL

ANTIQUES, GIFTS

1148-1st Ave. — Dial 3-1413

LAWSON ADJUTANT IS MADE CAPTAIN

First Lieutenant Charles Friedman, Lawson Field adjutant at Fort Benning, has been promoted to the rank of captain, according to an announcement received from that headquarters.

A graduate of Officer's Training School, Miami, Fla., Captain Friedman, received his commission in August, 1942, and reported for duty at Lawson Field, in October. He served as assistant adjutant until November, when he assumed the adjutant's post.

OVER 100% IN WAR BONDS

HAPPENINGS at HARVEY'S RESTAURANT

"We Buy the Best For You"

Harvey's appreciates the patronage of all Fort Benning personnel. When the soldiers gather there, many hilarious events are certain to happen. Mr. Sam Dardarin, the owner of Harvey's, is going to relate a few in this column each week.

★

Most everyone has at one time or another seen those who playfully have put salt into the sugar bowl and visca versa. Mr. Dardarin has an answer to that one! Two soldiers tried the old trick at Harvey's, and Mr. Dardarin saved the switched containers for them. The next time those soldiers dined there, they put salt in their own coffee. It was a bitter lesson!

A sergeant who was a little too much under the influence of liquor asked to be admitted to Harvey's. When Mr. Dardarin discouraged his coming in, the soldier replied: "Just wait 'till you age drafted and have me for your drill sergeant!"

★

Our Chef Formerly From Statler Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

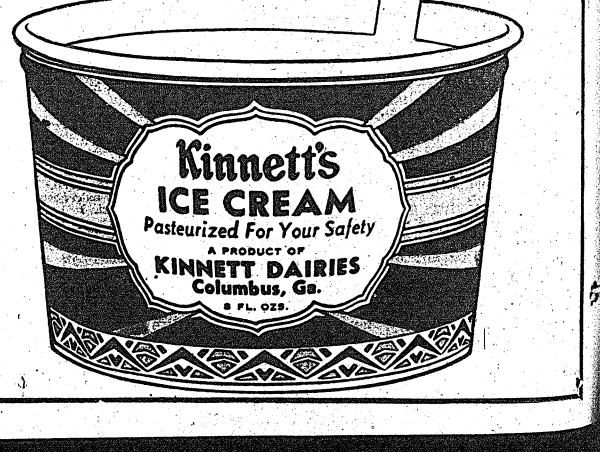
Located 1309 Broadway

FRED WARD

Famous Silhouette Artist

is at KIRVEN'S

YOUR LIKENESS IN SILHOUETTE IS



A GRAND GIFT FOR THOSE BACK HOME

SILHOUETTES

25c 3 for 50c

J. A. KIRVEN CO.

YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

Musical Researchers Find 'Taps' Origin

Was Formerly Tap-to-Closing Beer Barrel Bungs

A sort of reverse form of an ancient "roll out the barrel" musical custom actually gave birth to "Taps", the army call that ends the day's activities and whose haunting refrain also is played at last rites for a dead soldier, it was disclosed by army musical research at Fort Benning.

It seems that the call now known as "Taps" was at first called "tap-to" and was sounded in the days before the War Between the States with three taps of the drum—a signal that the beer barrel bungs were to be tapped shut with three taps of a mallet or hammer.

But Major General Daniel Butterfield commanding a brigade in the army of the Potomac back around 1862, didn't think that the idea of associating a beer barrel custom with an army call was entirely dignified—especially when the call was used at the burial of the dead.

CALLS BUGLER

So he called in his bugler, Oliver Norton, of Chicago, and whistled for him three notes that had been running through his head. The bugler then made up the rest of the music to round out the notes. Gen. Butterfield also had in mind another idea in working out the music for "tap-to"—the harsh notes of the drum when used at burials, sometimes gave away the position of the funeral party to snipers. So the bugle was used softly.

So popular did the new call prove that it was quickly borrowed by neighboring brigades, and soon had spread through the entire federal army. It was formerly adopted in 1867 and so far as now is known, it is used only by the American army.

The name "tap-to" was corrupted to "Tatto" or "Taps". Words were sung to the call by many old timers. Here is one version:

"Love Goodnight—
Must thou go
When the day
And the night
Need thee so?
All is well,
Speedeth All
To their rest."

And here's another version:

"Fades the light
And afar
Goeth day,
And the stars
Shine out bright.
Fare thee well,
Day has gone—
Night is on."

While nearly everybody knows that "taps" is sounded to signify the end of the day at army posts and camps and at funerals, many do not know that it is to be played by all naval vessels passing Washington's burial place along the Potomac.

Soldier Swains Exhaust PX's Valentine Stock

Ten thousand arrows from Cupid's bow sped on their way from Fort Benning to wives and sweethearts all over the nation in the form of valentines purchased at the main branch of the post exchange, C. E. Shean, main branch manager, revealed today.

"Two days before St. Valentine's Day, not a single valentine remained in stock at the main branch. We sold completely out of everything we had, although we had bought everything we could get our hands on. When we laid in our stock of more than 10,000 valentines, we expected to have some left over. However, the 'run' on them exhausted our supply in a fashion far beyond our expectations," Shean said.

"Seriously, valentines to girls predominated as usual, with the bulk of them selling more quickly than any others," according to Shean. Next in line were those to mothers, while comic valentines also sold quickly.

"However," Shean said, "at the last we sold just anything we had. Demand for valentines was such that any type at any price was grabbed up by anxious customers.

Prices of the valentines ranged from three cents to fifty cents each, Shean stated, while the average valentine sold for twenty to thirty cents apiece.

LAFF OF THE WEEK—

NEW YORK (CNS)—A service-man wrote his civilian employer telling him about life in a submarine facing Jap depth charges in the Pacific. He told how bread on subs is baked in an electric oven, and how during one attack when the sub's plates started leaking, gauge glasses shattering and light bulbs bursting the sub's cook ran to the skipper yelling, "You've got to do something about that destroyer. My bread's falling!"

Inspect camouflage material frequently and correct any changes made by displacement or wilting.

LEE'S CUT RATE DRUGS
1100 BROADWAY
SALE TODAY THRU SUN.
Quantities Limited on Some Items

CIGARETTES 2 Pkgs. for 31c
POPULAR BRANDS. $1.54 Carton

BEEF, IRON, WINE 49c
TONIC, REG. 1.25 FULL PINT BOTTLE

WITCH HAZEL 35c PINT 19c
ALKA-SELTZER 60c SIZE 49c
Rose Water & Glycerine 35c Size, 6 Oz. Bot. 13c
KLEENEX TISSUES - 200's 13c
TOILET TISSUES 6 Oz. Rolls 5 FOR 13c
5c Kitchen Matches 6 for 21c
25c Ash Trays Crystal 13c
10c BABY FOODS GERBER'S 6c
75c DOAN'S PILLS 39c
15c LARGE BARS SWAN SOAP 3 FOR 31c

1.25 PERUNA TONIC 79c
50c Pint Rub Alcohol (Isopropyl) 19c
35c Prep Shave Cream 19c
INCOME TAX BOOK COMPLETE 25c
COLGATE SHAVE SOAP Reg. 10c Bars 3 for 14c
SHAVE BOWLS Stanley 1.00 Size 69c
HIND'S HAND CREAM REG. 50c 39c
MINERAL OIL FULL PINT 19c
35c VICKS SALVE 27c
Phillips' Dental Cream 25c SIZE 13c

Post All Set For American Symphony Unit

Program Varied To Appeal To All Musical Tastes

The American Symphony Orchestra, first symphonic organization to be booked for an entire USO-Camp Shows tour will arrive at Fort Benning, Tuesday, Feb. 22, to play the Benning circuit. The orchestra is conducted by Laszlo Halasz and is composed of both men and women instrumentalists who have been members of leading symphonic and operatic organizations of the nation.

The orchestra will present a program designed to have the widest popular appeal. Selections are to be varied in order to reach as many musical tastes as possible, and will consist of of music by Mozart, Beethoven, Tschaikowski, Johann Strauss, Morton Gould and George Gershwin.

Laszo Halasz, the conductor, was born and educated in Hungary. At 23 he was appointed assistant conductor of the Royal Opera in Budapest. His career carried him to many of the leading opera houses of Europe. For two summers he was assistant to Toscanini and Bruno Walter at the Salzburg Music Festival.

AMERICAN CAREER

He came to this country in 1936 and was engaged to conduct "Tristan and Isolde" with Kirsten Flagstad in St. Louis. From there he signed up with the Philadelphia Civic Opera for a season after which he returned to the St. Louis Grand Opera association. Since then the world's greatest singers including Flagstad, Melchoir, Moore, Martinelli, Jepson and others too numerous to name have gone there to sing and have met with great success under his baton.

Elen Longone, mezzo-soprano soloist with the orchestra, is a native of Jacksonville, Fla., where she began her musical career. After a long period of study in Italy, she made her debut with an operatic company in Cairo. Returning to the United States she was engaged by the Metropolitan Opera company and later the Chicago Opera company. More lately, Mme. Longone has been giving recitals in New York.

The schedule for the concert will be announced in the Daily Bulletin.

Musical Treat Slated By 9th Street USO

February 21 Show To Feature Leading Benning Soldiers

The Ninth Street USO Club, operated by the National Catholic Community Service and the Jewish Welfare Board will present on Feb. 21 a program of light classics, musical comedy favorites and jazz with a symphonic touch.

This musical treat is in the capable hands of Harold Scheckman, conductor of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, who will be assisted by Sgt. Joseph Gellers, piano; Cpl. Al Sakol, clarinet, and Cpl. Gene Dragoo, double bass violin, all from Fort Benning and representing the finest Fort Benning has to offer on their respective instruments.

Sgt. Gellers of the 1st Parachute Training Battalion studied under Irv Carroll and Hedy Spielter of New York. He has appeared at the Village Barn in New York and was with such renowned orchestra leaders as Tony Leonard, Freddie Martin, Nat Brusiloff before forming his own orchestra which played many of the New York hotels and night spots.

Cpl. Sakol of the 11 Armored Regiment Band was born in Pittsburgh and has appeared in vaudeville and as feature clarinetist. Later he went to Washington and played most of the leading hotels. He also played in the White House with his own band for Edward McLean and Andrew Mellon. He was with Leon Belascos's orchestra on the Phil Baker Hour.

Cpl. Gene Dragoo, also with the 11th Armored Regiment Band comes from Shawnee, Ill. He studied music at the Chicago Conservatory of Music and specialized in the concert field and hotel appearance throughout the middle west.

The Four Star Music Hour of the USO Club is a regular Sunday feature commencing at 11 p. m. The public is invited to attend as well as the military.

Lt. Long Takes Charge of Service Club Number 5

Lt. Robert C. Long, QMC, assigned to Company C Provisional Truck Regiment, has been appointed to Service Club No. 5, Harmony Church Area, as officer in charge.

Lt. Long, a native of Norfolk, Va., and an alumnus of Hampton Institute, is a well-known concert singer. While stationed at Langley Field, Va., where he enlisted, he was director of a 35-voice choral club and assistant organist at the Base Chapel. While there, he also received special training as a physical educational officer.

Prior to his entrance into the army, Lt. Long had eight years experience in the recreational field. He served as assistant director of the Hampton Community Center, Supervisor of Federal Recreation on the peninsula of Hampton, Newport News and Phoebus, and also headed training classes for supervisors of recreation.

O. C. Toots Own Horn By Very Special Request

Zing Once Worked With Eddie Duckin

Adrian C. Zing is that rarest of musicians, an Infantry officer candidate who has to be urged to blow his own horn.

Among classmates of the 14th Company, Third Student Training Regiment rabid against buglers, Zing and his sweet trumpet—a combination known in Boston's night spots—are in constant demand for impromptu barracks entertainment.

Adrian has played trumpet, saxophone and clarinet 22 years, since he was 12. In 1927, while a freshman at Northeastern University, he worked nights in a little band along with an unknown piano player named Eddie Duchin. He left school and his business administration course the next year to become a professional full time.

"Full time," he muses, "yes, indeed. Why, I used to work from 7 p. m. to 1 a. m."

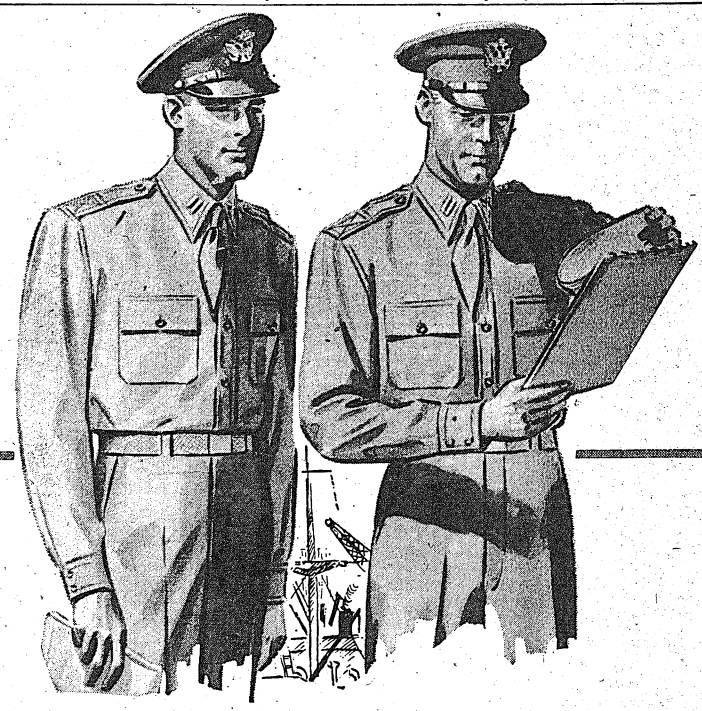
His day at The Infantry School lasts from 6:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.

When he was playing saxophone for Jack Marshard, he roomed with a trumpet player named Vaughan Monroe. Monroe, with his own band now, is in his second season at a leading New York hotel.

ON THE MOVE

In the process of making him a staff sergeant in an Infantry Band, Fort Blanding, Fla., and then a candidate at Fort Benning, the army has shipped Zing about considerably. But he was rather well traveled before, having spent a couple seasons playing on Caribbean cruise ships.

His most vivid memory, however, is not of moonlit seas and starry-eyed stenographers asking which way was starboard, but of Caracas, Venezuela. There he saw a donkey cart creaking down a narrow street in the wake of a ponderous policeman who was clearing a lane through crowding, pointing children.



Zing pointed to the sacks bulging the sides of the cart and asked, "What's that?"

"Oh, that, senor," someone said, "That's nothing. Just some gold the government is moving. Gold in—how do you say it?—bars."

Major Veazey Named Post Mess Supervisor

Major Alexander H. Veazey, who has recently returned from Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, where he attended Command and General Staff School, has been appointed post mess supervisor and assistant post exchange officer, according to an announcement at post headquarters today.

The major, who was called to active duty in December, 1940, previously served as post theater officer.

KIRVEN'S proudly presents...

A COMPLETE SELECTION

YALE

Officers' Shirts

WITH WRINKLE-FREE YALE-FLEX COLLARS

KIRVEN'S is proud to present outstanding Officers' Shirts produced by Yale to the military of this section. These expertly tailored shirts have all custom details . . . stand-up, wrinkle-free Yale-Flex collar that won't wilt or curl . . . real center pleat . . . pencil pocket, and they are double-stitched throughout with exactly matching thread. All woolens are London-shrunk, all cottons are Sanforized. No matter what your preference in regulation styles, you'll find it in our Men's Shop on the Street Floor plus ties and socks . . . by other famous manufacturers.*

*Patented Celanese Process

ALL REGULATION FABRICS

Mail and Phone Orders Filled

TROOPER Poplin Broadcloth; fused collar; no epaulettes. Sizes 14 to 16½; sleeves 32 to 34. 2.85

COMMANDER Officers'-Style Poplin Broadcloth; fused collar. Sizes 14 to 16½; sleeves 32 to 34. 2.85

KEENO Officers'-Style genuine Twill; soft collar. Sizes 14 to 16½; sleeves 32 to 34. 3.75

REGIMENT Officers'-Style heavy mercerized Twill; soft collar. Sizes 14 to 16½; sleeves 32 to 34. 4.75

COLUMBIA Officers'-Style Gabardine weave in Pink Grey. Sizes 14 to 16½; sleeves 32 to 35. 6.75

PRINCETON Officers'-style Gabardine weave in Khaki. Sizes 14 to 16½; sleeves 32 to 35. 6.75

RUTGERS Officers'-Style Gabardine weave in Forest Green. Sizes 14 to 16½; sleeves 32 to 35. 6.75

SENATOR 100% pure wool worsted; Gabardine; O. D. shade. Sizes 14 to 16½; sleeves 32 to 35. 11.75

Men's Shop . . . Street Floor

J. A. KIRVEN CO.
YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

FT. BENNING BAYONET

FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1943.
Edited By Public Relations Staff

The Benning Bayonet published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.
Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.
Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.
All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.
National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY
Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

Your leadership, of course, must be decisive and forceful. If you will get the most from your men, show your concern for their comfort and welfare; this is not mollycoddling.
—Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair,
Commanding General,
Army Ground Forces.

The Moral Greatness Of George Washington

Above all the great men of our country towers the mighty figure of Washington. Today, in our greatest crisis since his time, we should ask ourselves wherein his greatness lay.

George Washington was an able general, one of the ablest. But there have been greater generals. He had a vision beyond most of his contemporaries; yet he could not foresee all the complexities of future policy. He was a leader, wise as well as forceful, and yet he had more astute minds even in those around him.

Washington's greatness was above all a moral greatness, and therein lies his message to Americans today. He was guided always by the highest vision for the country. He lived for the nation and not for himself. The wealthiest man of his day, he had little to gain and much to lose by the Revolution. Yet he accepted the leadership of the ragged army and created out of it a force which set a nation free. No odds could overwhelm, no mischance or danger or hardship or treachery discourage this man. He saw the right course, and followed it with unshakable determination.

After the war was won, the same spirit guided Washington. The course of ease and responsibility would have led to his retirement; he could have cultivated his acres and helped to manage the affairs of his community. Ambition might have suggested another course; some men wanted to make him a dictator. But placing country before self, as always, George Washington agreed to serve as American's first president.

Under his leadership we learned the two primary lessons of national existence: how to defeat aggression without, and how to govern ourselves within. He held the key to this "total victory," because his own life was a pattern of the new nation he worked and fought to build.

George Washington speaks with a prophetic voice to America. Today much is said about the great new world of the common man. But the new world will only come as men and women everywhere achieve the greatness of Washington. This greatness depends upon the willingness to make daily hard moral decisions in our own lives. The ordinary man may not be very brilliant, very able, very brave. Most of us aren't. But we can achieve the true greatness of always choosing the right course instead of the wrong, and fighting for it in every detail of our lives and of the nation's life. Guided by Washington's spirit, we can attain the stature of mature patriots. The man in the street can become the man of the hour.

In the birth-pangs of the nation, amid crises and problems, military, economic and political, the Father of his country offered this counsel; we would do well to heed it now. "Let us raise a standard," he said, "to which the wise and honest can repair; the event is in the hand of God."

Military Courtesy As It Isn't Practiced

Recently a rookie had the very poor "absentmindedness" to enter Regimental Headquarters, of the First Student Training Regiment, without first removing his hat.

The rookie's luck was further loused-up by his strolling into the payroll section and ambling over to the desk of Lieutenant Morrison, that section's man at the helm. Here in proper rookie fashion, the face under the hat began to talk without first offering a respectful salute, a smile, a nod of the head or a polite pause till recognized.

Lieutenant Morrison being a soldier of military principles, and yet not wishing to be too harsh on the lad, gently admonished the rookie and spent some five or so minutes in setting forth a general outline of military courtesies.

At the first word from Lieutenant Morrison the rookie, having his left hand loaded heavy with papers, reached up with his right hand and snatched his hat from his head. During the few minutes that Lieutenant Morrison spoke the lad remained in a rigid position of attention his hat clutched in his fist. When Lieutenant Morrison had concluded his helpful oration he indicated with a nod of his head that the unfortunate incident was a closed issue and the rookie could go his way.

The now perspiring soldier, with purely reflex action, slapped his hat on his head with his one free hand, saluted, did a smart about face and marched from the office—totally unawares that his hat was riding attop his noggin.

Sulfa Drugs Are God-Send To Mankind

Sulfa drugs are used in varied conditions such as pneumonia, gonorrhea, burns, meningitis, eye and ear infections, scarlet fever, impetigo-contagiosa, blood poisoning, urinary infections, sinus infections, and many other conditions.

Time saving and conservation of hospital beds are very important factors in a military reservation like Fort Benning; with overcrowded conditions, every hospital bed is needed for unavoidable accidents and diseases. Some avoidable diseases like gonorrhea and syphilis can be checked by educational lectures and demonstrations showing proper use of prophylaxis, and with cooperation of the town officials and police department.

Military personnel contracting gonorrhea can be discharged from a military hospital now in five days, thus conserving bed space. The sulfa drugs have shortened the cure of these diseases from months to days, this saves man-hours, hospital beds, and government expense.

In the treatment of the above diseases; it can be said briefly that the initial dose of the drug used should be large, so as to achieve a high concentration, in the blood, and subsequent doses should be enough to maintain this concentration. If a sufficient amount of effective sulfa drug is in contact with organisms for a sufficient time all of them are killed.

Our fighting forces in the Pacific and North Africa are using a great amount of these sulfa drugs with the most amazing results. Thousands of our wounded soldiers who will return after this conflict is over, will owe their lives to the action of these drugs.

Major Frank Ciofalo,
Regimental Surgeon
First STR.

V. O. C. Men Possess Spirit Of 1776

When Uncle Sam gets in a jam there are a lot of his nephews who aren't content they're doing all they can to help in the emergency. Many such men are now officer candidates at Fort Benning—and of these, many are V. O. C.'s, or Volunteer Officer Candidates.

Consider a typical V. O. C.—Candidate C. T. Parson, of the 6th Co., 3rd Student Training Regiment. An experienced newspaperman, former night city editor of the Florida Times-Union, former president of the Advertising Club of Jacksonville, and widely known in lumber circles as the managing editor of the Southern Lumber Journal, Parsons, gave up his position and the comfort of his home, wife, and two children when he signed up with the army.

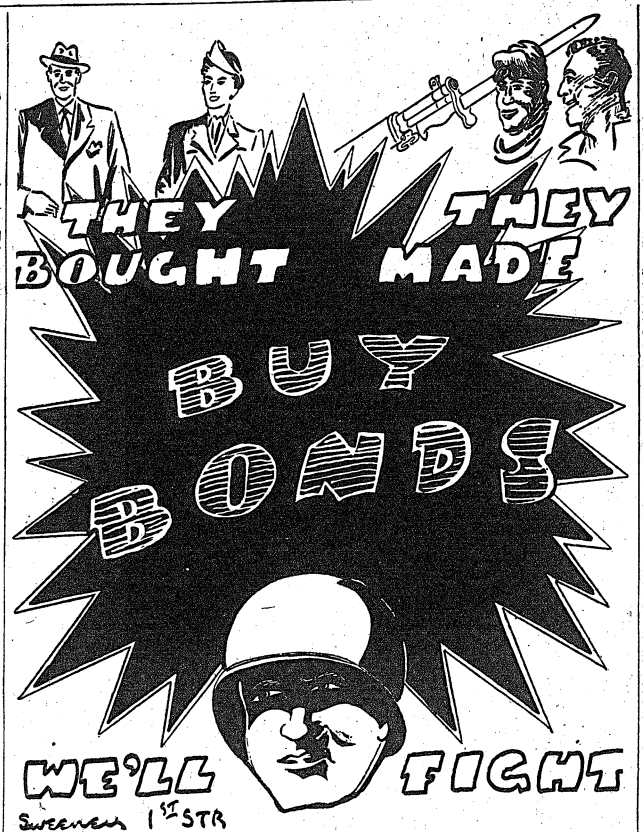
As Parsons states it, "In my work I was naturally close to the camp construction phase of the war effort, and I gradually came to feel that I should render more active service."

Perhaps he temporarily regrets that notion these days when he goes plunging through a Georgia swamp or scrambles over the 8-foot wall on the obstacle course. After all he's 36 (many V. O. C.'s are well into their 30's) But he, like many another good soldiers has a sense of humor that helps a lot when the going gets rough.

The Army as well as the nation owes a vote of thanks to men such as this men who normally would have been unmolested by the draft, who have foresworn their friends and families for the duration. They have the spirit and the will that's brought the U. S. A. thru many trying times, and they're doing it again!
—ANONYMOUS, 3rd STR.

Teach Me The Way That I Should Die

The following was written on the African desert by Sgt. Hugh Brody, of the RAAF, while waiting to take off on a bombing assault on an Axis objective. Sgt. Brody did not return from his mission. He was reported missing in action last week.



Almighty and All-Present Power,
Short is the prayer I make to Thee.
I do not ask in the battle hour
For any shield to cover me.
The vast unalterable way
From which the stars do not depart
May not be turned aside to stay
The bullet flying to my heart.
I ask no help to strike my foe.
I seek no petty victory here.
The enemy I hate
I know to Thee is also dear.
But this I pray:
Be at my side
When death is drawing through the sky.
Almighty God who also died,
Teach me the way that I should die.

As a colored mammy put it, "It isn't what you used to is, but what you'se is going to am."

Total war has mobilized our industries and cut down our comforts. But it has not yet mobilized the hearts and wills of all Americans and cut down our selfishness.

There's no such thing as an idle rumor. They all work overtime.

So that fliers in a distant aviation camp can have meat, a packer in Southern California sends his big refrigerator truck out into the desert and loses money on each trip. That man can advertise "Share the meat" with the authority of having practised what he preaches. Can you?

USO Presents—

MUSIC THAT CHARMS PLUS FENCING BY THE CHAMP

BY PVT. E. BARRY STURMER

If 'music hath charms' there will be charm aplenty at the Ninth street USO this coming week. . . . Sunday, Feb. 21, promptly at 4 p. m., Pfc. Harold Scheckman, member of the 29th Infantry's Band and conductor of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, will present a novel musicale, aided and abetted by three popular Benning musicians. They are Sgt. Joe Gellers, pianist; Cpl. Al Sakol, clarinet, and Cpl. Gene Dragoo, bass violinist. The program will consist of semi-classic and popular melodies arranged in the grand manner. . . . The following Tuesday, Feb. 23, and make a note of this by all means, Yehudi Menuhin, world-famous concert violinist, will appear through the sponsorship of the Three Arts League Concerts. There will be 500 seats available to service men. Tickets may be procured at any of the USO clubs.

* * *

Fencers or would-be fencers . . . here is your opportunity to indulge in this ancient sport. Cpl. Nino Maniaci, Academic Regiment fencer who prior to his enlistment won fame in fencing circles, is now conducting a fencing class at the Ninth Street USO from 7:30 to 9 p. m. every Wednesday and on Sunday from 1:30 to 3 p. m. for beginners. They are planning to form a three-weapon team, and invite all who are interested to attend these classes.

* * *

An urgent call came through from Mr. Hardin, director of the Phenix City Salvation Army-USO Club. Mr. Hardin, a most congenial chap, extends a cordial invite to service men to partake of the spaghetti suppers served at the above-mentioned club every Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. Impromptu entertainment usually follows these suppers.

* * *

At a committee meeting of the powers that be who conduct the St. Patrick's church dances, held at the Parish Hall of the church in Phenix City, it was voted to have only two dances a month, one on the first Tuesday and the other on the third Tuesday of each month.

* * *

Another notice of change in schedules . . . this from the Ninth Street USO. . . . The Enlisted Men and Wives Club has changed its evening get-together to Wednesday, insead of Friday. As a result of this the popular pie-bingo is now scheduled for Friday evenings.

* * *

And to end on a musical note. . . . Hep-cats! Watch this column for big doin's that will really send you solid!

Bolnick Discourses---

PVT. BLOW MEDITATES ON INSPECTION BUT POSTPONES THE DIRTY WORK

It was no reflection on Private Joe Blow that upon occasion he relished a deep feather bed, home spun quilt and pillow to match. Inspection time often brought that mood upon him.

As he lay on his bunk the radio put forth, "This is the Army, Mr. Green. We like our barracks nice and clean." Private Blow was reading snatches out of the Soldiers' Handbook, "Keep your barracks and Squad Room clean. If you find bedbugs in your bed or in the barracks, report the fact to your company commander."

Not that this was the case . . . but Pvt. Blow wondered how he'd get past the first sergeant to report that fact.

His mind turned to the windows he had cleaned, the shoes he had shined, the brass he had polished, the lye that had turned his mess kit black.

Somehow his thoughts wandered to the day not long past when he stood in formation and was ordered to bring his rifle to "Inspection Arms." He failed to execute the order correctly.

"What's your name, soldier?" the officer asked.

"Private First Class Joe Blow."

"It WAS, now it ain't, Private Blow."

Tomorrow would be another Saturday inspection. There would be a hustle and bustle to get things on line, things stowed and things straightened, and a last chance to throw away a stray empty or near empty bottle that might have been lying around. The Sergeant said he wanted the barracks to shine—as he put it, "like a boudoir." Where he got that idea Joe couldn't figure. Joe sort of hated the idea of being a champion bed maker.

Yes, in the morning, the Major once more would inspect the barracks, one by one. Perhaps he might inspect singly or he might have other officers with him. Joe looked up along the ceiling wall. If there was a cobweb there the Major would be sure to see it. He had heard that the Major was especially good at spotting cobwebs. Then behind the Major would be the First Sergeant with pencil and paper. Joe's recruit commander had said many times that a good first sergeant always carried a pencil and a pad of paper.

The Charge of Quarters' whistle blew. "Lights out!"

Private Blow pulled the sheets up, turned over.

"Oh, well . . . . . "

MNB

A break between husband and wife is where democracy starts to break. By the time token the home can make democracy unbreakable and bring a golden age based on golden weddings.

Some people tell you high ideals are unattainable as their excuse for putting up with low ones.

Chaplain's Corner . . .

WASHINGTON, THE PATRIOT

Chaplain Frank M. Thompson

Recent years have stripped much that was fictional and legendary from the life of Washington. We now know that he was a real boy, he played as other boys; and as a man, swore, suffered, loved, lived and died. In all he has become a real personage, worthy to take the high place.

"First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

Some have wondered as to the fate of the colonies had Washington died at the age of 43. It is useless to speculate. This much is true, Washington would be unknown. There might be a few lines in a local history of Virginia describing him as a rich planter who in his young days had seen service with the British forces against the French.

His fame begins when to his amazement and the disappointment of many he was selected as commander in chief of the American revolution—perhaps the most heartbreaking task any man was ever called upon to perform.

Then for seven long weary years he suffered every imaginable discouragement and disaster: the jealousy of officers, the treachery of friends, the continual bickering and often disloyalty of the colonies, the indifference and often hostile attitude of congress, the desertions, the mutinies.

But he endured, giving of his strength, his money, his utmost devotion, casting aside all selfish ambition, refusing all pay and reward. The war ended, he was recalled to bring order out of chaos and build the different states into a nation—his is a spotless patriotism.

Let the preserver of our country Lincoln speak of him:

"Washington is the mightiest name on earth — long since the mightiest in the cause of civil liberty. On that name no eulogy is expected. It can not be. To add brightness to the sun or glory to the name of Washington is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. In solemn awe pronounce the name and in its naked deathless splendor leave it shining on."

Suppose each one of us thought: "How can we strengthen our community?"

Suppose each community thought: "How can we strengthen our country?"

Suppose each country thought: "How can we strengthen the world?"

Oratory is no substitute for action.

Our Big Idea—is it what we can make OF America or what we can make OUT of it?

Eve Says—

WOMEN ARE NOW EPICUREANS AS REGARDS 'LOOKING PRETTY'

This past week will be known as the week women's wear invaded and conquered the willing feminine contingent of the great Infantry Post of Fort Benning. As far as I can find out in delving through historical data of the post, this week will rate "first" in this irrelevant, though feminely important service.

A nation-wide impetus was started in clothes purchasing through the rationing of shoes. In all fairness, the women of Fort Benning can't be accused of this impulsion, for the service to the post had been planned months ago. Too, spring comes early in the south, and womankind associates new clothes with the beginning of the season.

It was a pleasant, morale building week. Husbands must have found the vague, clothes planning state a pleasant change from the harrassed rationed, point worrying wife. Their checking accounts may be depleted, but only a penurious heckler can deny the army women her fling. For many of them will be dressing for their husbands for the last time. Their prettiness and good grooming will be pictures for their men to carry with them. The clothes they bought this week will be worn for months and remembered as "the things I bought before John left—." They'll buy little during the months of waiting ahead of them.

Concession must be made to the common sense approach to their immediate and future needs. No longer do they contemplate fashion's whimsies. They were looking for suits, top coats, serviceable print dresses, trim cotton frocks. They were looking for value and quality for long lasting wear.

Clusters of friends expressing critical opinions of "—no, that doesn't do anything for you — the color is wrong," "Oh, that's lovely, I like it on you," "—but how many times could you wear that without tiring of it?" "—here's the hat for that outfit—." "—if I lost a few pounds—."

Disarranged hair as dresses were pulled off and on—mental gymnastics of recalling accessories already owned—sagging stomach muscles pulled in for a cheating best appearance look before the triple mirror—tilting and swaying in coy appraisal—consideration of the family finances and possible emergencies — Omar Khayyam philosophy of living for today's pleasure and let tomorrow take care of itself.

Best of all was the disregard of slacks and interest in lovely women's clothes. Perhaps the suffering public will be spared the horrors of the past months when women thought slacks were the proper garment for shopping in town. If the week of interest in clothes promised the return of the feminine woman, a great contribution has been made.

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

COL. SWAMPWATER'S EAGLES GET FEATHERS RUFFLED BY SWEET THING

Visitors' day in our office is usually a boring event but this afternoon was a great exception. Just when I had gotten comfortably asleep again, after the usual '3 o'clock break" one of the most glamorous creatures I ever laid eyes on sauntered into the environment.

For several moments I thought I was dreaming, but almost simultaneously this beautiful bundle of loveliness began to coo. Like the echo of an amorous nightingale her sonorous voice trilled in my ears. As I entangled myself from my swivel chair and elevated myself to my feet, I slowly began to comprehend her notes.

"Sergeant!" she says, "My name is Patricia May Neckemall. I was sent here by that nice little fellow in the library."

You mean Sgt. Cox?

Yes! That's him, the one with the cute ears. He said I should visit this section while I'm on my tour. You see I'm a reporter from SQUEAK MAGAZINE and I'm just dying to get the lowdown on the army.

Well, Miss! You couldn't get any lower. Would you like to meet my commanding officer, Colonel T. F. Swampwater?

"Oh, I'd be delighted," cooed Patricia (I began to call her Patricia from the moment I saw her. There was something about her that made one feel intimate.)

"Well, step right this way!" I commanded. But as I watched her setting her beautiful curves into motion and smelled her most enticing perfume, I clean forgot which way Col. Swampwater's office was. But somehow by an act of fate, I was saved from further embarrassment. Col. Swampwater had also smelled the perfume and was wobbling hastily toward us. As he arrived speechless with amorous admiration, I let him take in the entire view, before I made the introduction and then like a fluttering dove Patricia explained her mission, and with a lovely hunted look in her sweet blue eyes, she teased.

"My, Sir, but you're a handsome officer, aren't you?"

"Ex gulp, sn ee r XIX," muttered old T. P.

"And that a beautiful uniform you have on, Sir. My! My! and I'll bet you're in the Signal Corps, aren't you?"

Like a tiger leaping from his lair the ole boy braced to defend his chosen arm.

"Young lady!" he says, "I'll have you know I represent the Infantry—The Queen of Battle."

"Oh, dear me!" reflected Miss Neckemall. "It was silly of me, but I thought those pigeons on your shoulders meant that you had charge of the birds and I thought that was the Signal Corps and er—."

"Tarnation, Lady! You've been misinformed Sergeant! Take Miss Neckemall into your private office and explain to her the various insignias of the service!"

"Yes, Sir;" I beamed. "step right this way, Miss Patricia, (it isn't everyday that somebody gives the Colonel the bird and I get a chance to unruffle the feathers.)"

POETRY

MY TRUSTY BLADE DOTH QUIVER, FLAME TO DEAL A BLOW IN FREEDOM'S NAME

IMPATIENT BLADE
By CPL. JOHN JOYCE
1st Co., CAS Bn., STB

Be patient, my Bayonet, but ready;
The time is not ripe;
Be razor-sharp, shining and steady;
Cold steel does not gripe.

Shine brightly unsheathed and reflecting
Your avenging dream;
Your edges were honed for dissecting
As yellow men scream.

Be patient for soon you shall marry
The flesh of Japan;
Be swift with the lunge and the parry
For quick are the damned.

Be sharp as the beak of the sea gull;
You shall not fail us;
Be true as the flight of the eagle,
Semper Fidelis.

THE WINGS OF COURAGE

Courage isn't a brilliant class,
A daring deed in a moments flash;
It isn't an instantaneous thing
Born of despair with a sudden spring
But it's something deep in the soul of man
That is watching always to serve some plan,
For who would strive for a distant goal
Must always have courage within his soul.

By: Pvt. John L. Bizzell, Jr.
Co. E, Serv. Bn., 3rd STR

THE CLUTCHING HAND

He sat waiting; the last inevitable moment loomed on the horizon. Hands reached clutching—clutching at the very strings of his life—a strange melody rose as the hands played on his taut nerves. He could see the shadows, the movements of the inevitable, moving, moving slowly—so tantalizingly slow; the hands, hands, HANDS! Suspense is rampant—his nerves are at the breaking point. Then he spoke in a dreadful, hoarse voice—"Pass me that damn stew!"

PRIVATE SMITHZTCZ.
Co. C, Reception Center.

Victory is winning what we are fighting for as well as defeating what we are fighting against—a victory for a democratic way of life as well as triumph of arms.

'Chattahoochee Choo-Choo' Plays Vital Role In Post's Transportation System

Railway's Master Mechanic Reveals Romance Of Little Narrow-Guage

Great airships girdle the world today, transporting thousands of U. S. soldiers to the fighting fronts. But, nestled away in the hills of Fort Benning, are fifteen miles of a military narrow gauge railway, the only one of its size in the country, which plays a vital role in the training of troops who one day may take to the air to be sped on their way into battle.

Fort Benning's own railway, which has become known as the "Chattahoochee Choo-Choo," is the cause for much consternation to the newcomer to the Post. But, the miniature railway is as vital to the military post as are the trucks and huge standard gauge railway engines and cars which weave their way into the post.

Many a story has been told about Benning's "Choo-Choo." Probably the most pointed, to illustrate the diminutive appearance of the trains, is the tale of the mule which booted one of the "dinky" engines off the tracks several years ago.

Although the railway's master mechanic, Fred Whitaker, who is a veteran railroad man and master mechanic on the post's railway system for 21 years, doesn't recollect the authenticity of the yarn, the story is vouched for by some of his colleagues who are likewise veterans of many years' service here.

MULE VS. CHOO-CHOO

The "Chattahoochee Choo-Choo," so the story goes, was pushing along on a curve on the Main Post at a relatively slow speed. At that time mules were more common to the Army post than they are nowadays. And, one planked himself squarely in the path of the oncoming 17-ton locomotive.

The choo-choo's whistle screeched. But the mule just edged over to the side of the track, gauged the speed of the dinky and flexed his hind quarter's muscles. Then, like a bolt out of the blue, the mule let go and conked the dinky where it hurt most and the engine was bounced right off the track.

Small though the engines and the miniature cars may seem, the train none-the-less does a man's size job at Benning. During a three-month period last year, it transported 126,925 soldiers, most of whom were officer candidates on their way to field problems. Many a West Point cadet, assigned to Benning for further training, has smelled the whisps of engine smoke riding the famous little trains.

11,227 MILES

During the same three-month period lost year, the railway system transported 937 loads of logs, 607 loads of finished wood. In all, during that period—despite the only 15 miles of track—the 12 locomotives on the railway pulled trains 11,227 miles!

Operated under the control of the Rail Transportation Section at Fort Benning, which is directed by Capt. Charles W. Keown, the railroad comprises 12 engines, 32 coaches, 111 gondolas, scores of flat cars, four tak cars, and one renowned "special" observation car.

The track of the railway is 60 centimeters wide, which is 23 and five-eighth inches between tracks. According to Mr. Whitaker, who has been working on railroads since he was 14 years old, the railway is the only military railway of this gauge in the United States. He avers that there are other narrow gauge railways in the country beside the military road, but none of the same peculiar gauge.

The story behind Fort Benning's railway runs like a legend.

During World War I, when the problem of transporting troops and ammunition in France proved a difficult situation, some narrow gauge trains were built in the United States to be used in France for the important task.

USED IN FRANCE

The dinky engines, box cars, and flat cars, and scores of 20-foot lengths of track were shipped overseas. In France the railway equipment was loaded on regular gauge flat cars, then carried front and where the regular track of the French railways ended, the narrow gauge equipment was unloaded and a new railway was laid down. Since the regular rolling stock of the French railways could not operate on the narrow gauge, the American equipment was put to the task and took over the job.

As the war ended, many of these dinky engines were in this country, ready to be shipped abroad. Costing about $15,000 each, the engines, each of which is about one-tenth the size of a typical standard gauge railway engine, were retained by the Army.

In 1921, the Seventh Engineers at Fort Benning laid out the tracks for the proposed narrow gauge railway here. Upon completion of the job, rolling stock was moved in and soldiers took over the task of operating the system.

MR. WHITAKER

Mr. Whitaker, the master mechanic, who was born and reared in England, came to Benning in November, 1922, from the Norfolk army base where he likewise had served as master mechanic. A railway veteran, having served as general foreman of the Seaboard Railway and roundhouse foreman of the Illinois Central, Mr. Whitaker was well qualified to take over the task of supervising the operation of Benning's own railway.

Originally planned to transport troops assigned to the Infantry School on their field problems, Mr. Whitaker faced the job of converting the box cars to coaches. So in the railway repair shop which he established here, Mr. Whitaken designed the coaches and converted the box cars. Even today as thousands of officer candidates "ride the rails" of Benning's railway, they little realize the romance that was behind the founding of the system.

Bennings railway repair shop at one time was the only such military railroad shop in the country. Today there is another, at Holibird, Baltimore, Md. But homey tales hang over the railway yards at this post.

In the repair shops, there are eight mechanics, a blacksmith and several expert tool and machine men. The blacksmith is a veteran at the job, having come here with Mr. Whitaker in 1922. The other newcomers have all served in their jobs at Benning for about fifteen years each.

THE REPAIR SHOP

The repair shop not only services the narrow gauge equipment, but also serves the regular gauge engines and equipment. Two Mogul type standard gauge locomotives, built originally for the Isthmus Canal Commission in 1906 and used during the construction of the Panama Canal in the Canal Zone, are now at Benning, serving as switch engines on the standard gauge tracks.

One of Mr. Whitaker's tasks at the repair shop was to construct a special observation for distinguished visitors who come to Benning and want to eye the post from a railway. Thus, in 1935, a regal observation car, replete with indoor and outdoor seats, was especially constructed.

"Practically every infantry general officer has ridden on the railway," Mr. Whitaker asserted yesterday. "At one time or another these officers, formerly students at the Infantry Schools, enjoyed fumes and smoke of the dinky engines."

FLOOD YEAR

A gargantuan task taxed the narrow gauge during a flood one year. Mr. Whitaker recalled that the Upatoi Creek flooded the former low bridge which crossed it at Outpost No. 1. When that happened, roads were not numerous on the post and the only means of escape was for the military and civilian personnel to utilize the narrow gauge and leave the post.

Veteran engineer on the dinky engines is Technician Fourth Grade Charles H. Mann, a native of Rhine, Ga., who has served at Benning for about 18 years. Sgt. Mann has operated the locomotives for about 15 years.

Barney Hobbs, yardmaster at the post, is another veteran around Fort Benning. Although he was a youngster at the time, Mr. Hobbs recalls when the first troops assigned to Fort Benning moved into the original post when it was located near the Macon Road. Mr. Hobbs said that street cars facilitated the transportation problem many years ago, traveling between the post and Columbus.

Sergeant John W. Smith, of Slocum, Ala., a youngster as compared with the veteran railroad men here, is dispatcher for the narrow gauge. He supervises the railway terminal and checks the incoming and outgoing trains.

SPEED 15 MPH

Although the narrow gauge railway winds in and out of the hills and woods of the reservation, the track crosses many heavily traveled highways. A speed limit of 15 miles per hour has been set as the top speed for the trains which normally can haul a load of 150 soldiers in coaches without showing any signs of dismay.

A handbook has been issued to guide the employes of Fort Benning's railway. An eight-page booklet, it opens with a definition of an engine as "A locomotive propelled by any form of energy" and a train as "An engine or more than one engine coupled with or without cars."

Going further into details about operation of the railway, the book has specific instructions for the engineer, fireman, and brakeman, and the various trains.

Though diminutive in size, the narrow gauge railway is of prime important to Fort Benning. Its size is not comparable to the job done by the husky dinkies and the cars.

TIS Duo Like Nail, Thumb

O. C.'s Lober, Kearney Two Inseparables

Herb Lober and Dick Kearney, both 27 years old, of Stillwater, Minn., were born under the same star.

Perhaps this accounts for their fifteen years of near inseparability.

Lober and Kearney lived five blocks apart during their grade and high school days and became close friends. Lober, son of Mrs. Elsie Lober and Kearney, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Kearney, enlisted in the National Guard in 1941.

May, 1942, found them in Ireland still serving with the original Guard unit.

Kearney was selected for officer's training in September and sent to Ft. Benning. A month later Lober was ordered to the same station. They met at the school's reception center in November and bunked one bed apart.

Both were assigned to the 14th Co. of the Third Student Training Regiment in the Infantry School here at Fort Benning two days later.

After so long a buddyship they are speculating as to whether Dame Coincidence will smile again and place them in same organization upon their graduation February 17.

Former Gator Adjutant Made Lieut. Colonel

The recent promotion of Major T. A. Hancock, to Lieutenant Colonel, Assistant Adjutant General at Maxwell Field, Ala., warmed the hearts of his many friends and former associates of the 124th Infantry. He was at one time regimental adjutant.

The Colonel, an old regular army man, enlisted in 1914 in the Coast Artillery and rose through the ranks to first sergeant, at Fort Kamehameha, Hawaii. His first connection with the 124th, came in 1927 when he was assigned as Infantry Instructor for the North of Florida.

His pride and joy is his ten year old daughter, Timmy, and to listen to her accomplished arias on the piano. Timmy, incidently, was listed as a member of Regimental Headquarters Company, 124th Infaltry, at the time of her birth.

Post Driving Permits Available For Issue

Auto registration stickers for 1943 permitting drivers to drive on the post at Fort Benning, are ready for distribution, it is announced by the Provost Marshal's office. There will be a charge of ten cents for each registrant. All privately owned vehicles are to be registered within 24 hours after being brought to the post, and holders of 1942 temporary permits can now secure their regular 1943 stickers at the Provost Marshal's office.

OC Class Beats Shooting Record

Anti-tank instructors of the 29th Infantry were rewarded for many hours of tedious work this week when 86 per cent of an OC class under their tutelage qualified on the thousand-inch range.

This was four per cent above any previous average. Target operators from Company A contributed to the success of the instruction.

Instructors' duties demand that they take care of eight officer candidates twice a day and instruct them in the fundamentals of anti-tank marksmanship.

The period during which the student fires for record is said to be the most tedious of all for the instructor, for at this time he must watch each student's target as well as correct his handling of the piece. Gun positions must also be checked carefully.

In charge of the record-breaking detail from the 29th Infantry was Staff Sgt. Murrel M. Woods.

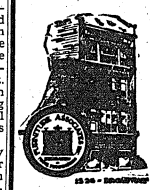
Others in the group were Stf. Sgt. John C. Kimbrel; Sgts. Emmitt T. Daniel, Powell Q. Sale and Olen L. Crane; Cpls, Dale W. Baker, Raymond F. Clark, Theron W. Kelsoe, Albert J. Malakusie, William T. Harris, Allen E. Gray, J. P. Wood, Leonard Dobrow, Ernest H. Ferrell, and Frank A. Zblek.

McCullough Promoted To Lieutenant Colonel

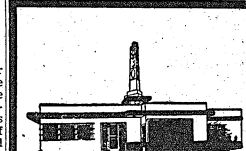
Promotion of A. Douglas McCullough, formerly of Newton, Mass., and Minneapolis, to the rank of lieutenant colonel has been announced at the Infantry school, where he is on the staff of the weapons section of the school's faculty.

Colonel McCullough attended the University of Minnesota with the class of 1924. He dropped out of school before graduating but returned to receive his degree of bachelor of science from Minnesita in 1928.

He also took graduate work and taught at Penn State college in 1929.



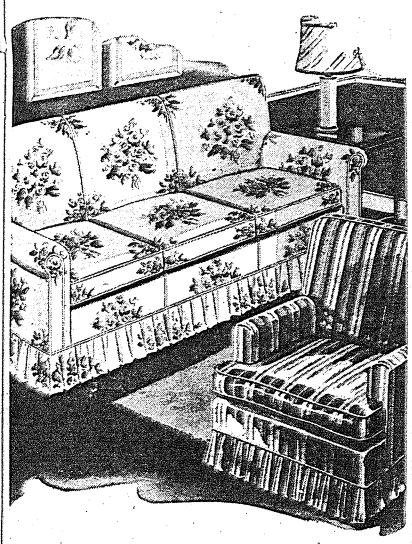
The new lieutenant colonel was first commissioned in the reserves in 1924. Before coming on active duty he was employed as sales manager of the Johnson-Appleby company of Cambridge, Mass.



He was called to active duty in June, 1941, and sent to the infantry school to attend the rifle and heavy weapons company officers course. Upon graduation from this course, he was assigned to the academic department of the school as an instructor in combat training.

He was promoted to major in December, 1941, and to lieutenant colonel last week.

ATTENTION!
OFFICER CANDIDATE
Lloyd Jowers
Represents Kahn Tailoring Co. Uniforms tailored to individual measurements. Complete service of altering and repairing on G. I. Clothes.
117½ 12th St.



MAY & MASON
Dance Studio
Those who are never too old To keep fit & young to learn to dance & improve on same
OUR METHOD IS VERY EASY
Fox Trot, Waltz, Tango, Rumba, Jitterbug
Classes and Private
802 BROADWAY
Home 2-2634—Office 2-4469

Martin Furniture Co.
"Where Quality Is Higher Than Price"
We Welcome Fort Benning Personnel
1223 BROADWAY
COLUMBUS, GA.

8:30
GRILL
It's Permissable To Park Your Car At Our Food Establishment
LOBSTERS STEAKS CHICKEN BEVERAGES
DINE AT THE 8:30
1200 13th St.
Dial 9314 For Your Reservation

NOTICE
Business Hours 1 P. M. Till 9:30 P. M. Eastern War Time
This Business is conducted for the Military Personnel of Fort Benning with artists from our Fifth Ave. Studio and our Business Hours will be the same as YOURS —EASTERN WAR TIME.
AIM'E DUPONT
Military Studio
1219 Broadway—Columbus, Ga.
Branch of 604 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C. Tele. 3-1505 Established 1884
"OFFICER CANDIDATES"—We have MILITARY Blouses, GARRISON Caps, SAM BROWN Belts—here for you to be photographed in before your graduation.

MONTGOMERY WARD

SOFA COVER 19.95
CHAIR COVER 11.95
SLIP COVERS MADE-TO-ORDER
All-over-florals! Big splashy bouquets! Stripes! Colors that will fit in beautifully with any decorating scheme you now have! All-fade-resistant dustlite cretonnes! Take your pick . . . we'll pin-fit your choice right on your own furniture . . . in your own home. An expert will finish the covers with box-pleated skirts, cord welt seams . . . every penny for quality!
Montgomery Ward
12TH AND BROADWAY DIAL 7761

WHERE TO DINE & DANCE IN AND AROUND COLUMBUS
DINING DANCING
YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT
WINSEL CASTLE
"COLUMBUS' FINEST"
2803 Cusseta Road Cecil Lloyd, Prop.
FOR OFFICERS AND MEMBERS ONLY

PAT PATTERSON 44th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED Chicken IN THIS TOWN
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY Steaks THAT'S REALLY TENDER
GA. CAT FISH Dinners WITH CORN BREAD
POINT BLUE Oysters FRIED, STEW, RAW
Come Out on No. Highland Bus 8 Private Dining Rooms

JERRY'S
206-38th St.
FAMOUS FOR STEAKS & CHICKEN

Max Mendel
IN NEW YORK— IT'S LINDY'S
IN HAVANA— IT'S SLOPPY JOE'S
IN COLUMBUS— IT'S THE ROOSEVELT
Columbus' finest and friendliest Cafe—serving only the very highest type of food, and beverages reasonably priced—and where efficient service is supplemented by warm cordiality and an air of sincere friendliness.
We invite the personnel of Fort Benning to make the FRIENDLY ROOSEVELT CAFE their second home.
The Roosevelt Cafe
1027 BROADWAY

FRIED CHICKEN
CATFISH DINNERS
PIT-COOKED BAR-B-Q
WESTERN T-BONE STEAKS
CHESPEAKE OYSTERS
JUMBO
1700 Fourth Ave. Dial 9880
Dining Rooms Curb Service Free Parking

MODEL BARBER SHOP
1024 BROAD ST.
8 CHAIR SHOP
G. B. Sellers C. P. R'binson
C. B. Conkle E. M. Pass
M. J. Wages C. L. Wood
Open 9 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.

VISIT THE PARADISE
213—14th St.
Phenix City, Ala.
Where a friendly greeting awaits you
Come over and enjoy yourself
MUSIC—DANCING

Are You Eligible For New Tires?
Try Our One-Stop Service for Recapping, Vulcanizing and Complete Auto Service.
O. P. A. AUTHORIZED STATION NO. 2
Blackmon-Scarbrough, Inc.
11th St.—1st Ave. Dial 3-2751

Chicken in the Rough
GOO-GOO The Sign Of Good Food
Dial 3-4491
700 Linwood Boulevard
AIR CONDITIONED
½ Fried Chicken Served Unjointed Without Silver, Gobs of Shoe Strings, Jug of Honey, Hot Buttered Rolls. The Most Modern and Best Known Cafe in Columbus, Georgia
Free Parking — Curb Service
Private Dining Rooms

COPELAND'S BARBECUE AND STEW
3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620
BARBECUE—STEW—SANDWICHES—DRINKS
CHICKEN—STEAK—OYSTER DINNERS
CECIL JONES, Prop.
PLENTY FREE PARKING AND CURB SERVICE

Profs, Engineers Win Loop Titles

Academics Top Gators For Conference Flag; Meet 29th on Sunday

Teams Prepare for Second Half Race; Shannon Wins League Scoring Honors

Benning's basketball whirl continued this week although teams in two loops were idle as preparations were being completed for the start of the second half races. With the first-half winners finally decided, all soldier quintets were anxiously awaiting further action.

The Academic Regiment Profs captured the Fort Benning Conference honors on Sunday in a hair-raising finish to the four-way play-off series when they bumped the hard-fighting Gators of the 124th Infantry, 25-23. A long field goal from side court by Harvey Polk and Bob McCrary's foul flip gave the Profs their winning margin.

Lieut. Frank Shannon and his mates advanced to the finals by toppling the 117th Infantry machine on Thursday in another close finish, while the Gators tripped the 29th Blue Devils, 44-41, in an overtime on their route to the championship game. In a consolation final, the Two-Niners eked out a one-point win over the Breakers to wind up in third place in the final standings.

Second-half schedules in the conference were still being completed when the Bayonet went to press, and the only dates released by the FBAA were for the openers which will take place on Sunday afternoon on the hardwood at the post gym. In the first tilt at 2 o'clock, the Station Hospital Medicos will oppose the Leaders of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, while the powerful Profs take on the 29th as their initial opponent in the second half. The Prof-Devil tussle will start at 3:30.

There is still an element of doubt as to just which team will replace the 117th in the second-half. The Breakers were forced to drop from the loop for military reasons, and the 508th Parachutes or 802nd Field Artillery is expected to replace them.

As the highly-exciting conference race finally came to a close, it was also announced that the spectacular playing coach of the new champs, Lieut. Frank Shannon, had captured the scoring title in the first-half with a grand total of 102 points in seven frays. Duane Hite of the 117th trailed Shannon by four points, but led in field goals with 44. Ace Hall of Lawson Field was third, while Frank Webster of the Medicos was tied with Johnny Ossi of the Profs for fourth. The first twenty scorers are listed elsewhere on this page.

Maniaci Wins All-Eastern Epee Crown

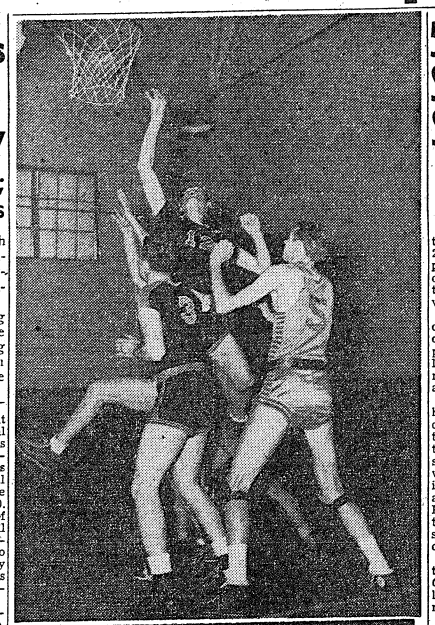
Army Makes It Possible For Ace To Participate

Winning six of his seven bouts, Corporal Antonio Maniaci of the Academic Regiment, The Infantry School captured the individual All-Eastern intermediate epee championship this week on the strips of the Fencers Club in New York City.

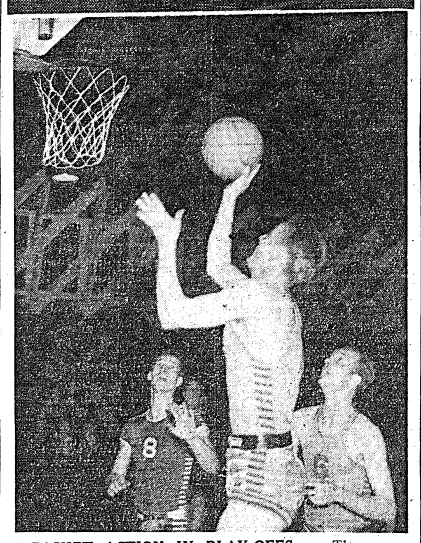
Cpl. Maniaci participated in the championship tournament through the cooperation of Major General Leven C. Allen, School Commandant, and Lt. Col. C. C. Finnegan, athletic director at Fort Benning. These officers not only granted him a furlough for the occasion, but also arranged for his expenses to New York City. And the corporal, in true Army style, did not let his commanding officers down.

With only eight contestants entered, the tournament was held on a round robin basis without any preliminary round. Cpl. Maniaci gained the championship round without engaging in any preliminary rounds as this courtesy is extended to fencers in the armed forces based on their past records.

LAST ROUND THRILLER



The last bout of the round robin between Maniaci and Jack Kahn of New York University was a thriller. Maniaci at the time was the only contestant who had lost only one bout and he needed a victory to win the title. If Kahn had won, a three way tie would have resulted. Maniaci scored the first two touches, but the New York University entry rallied to tie at two-all. Taking the offensive, Maniaci registered the third point to take the bout and the crown.



The winner was the captain of the Textile High School fencing team which won the P. S. A. L. team title in 1932 when he was only 16 years old.

Walter Vignini, Greco Fencing Academy star finished second in this week's tournament with five victories, and Jack Kahn of New York University was third.

WANTED!
We Buy Used Furniture
Thweatt & Son
1242 Broadway

Southern Manor
Presenting New York's Radio and Night Club Entertainers
DINE & DANCE — TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY
At Junction of Opelika and Montgomery Highway
"FOOD IN THE SOUTHERN MANNER"
TUBBY RIVES 15th Jolly Week
CLAIRE RAY GIRLS — HELD OVER
NOVELTY DANCERS
LEE CAMP, Vocalist — HELD OVER
ROSE THURSTON
SWING TAPS
BEE HAVEN AND HER GENTLEMEN OF SWING
Playing For Dancing From 8:30 P. M. —
THE FINEST OF ENTERTAINMENT

BASKET ACTION IN PLAY-OFFS — There was plenty of red-hot excitement under the nets during the conference play-off series. Top photo shows Bob McCrary (12) of the title-winning Profs trying to nudge one in the hoop during the final on Sunday. Tony Foster (5) of the Gators is trying to halt him while Frank Shannon (3) of the Profs is the man down below. The lower shot was taken in the sports arena on Friday night when the Gators out-lasted the 29th, 44-41, in an overtime tussle. Johnny Herndon of the winners is shown scoring a twin-decker with Vats Waller (6) also of the Gators coming up behind him. Other man in the picture is Paul Herman, of the Devils.

Camp Wheeler Foes Play Here Saturday

One of the strongest service teams in the southeast will invade Fort Benning for a court battle on Saturday night when the famed Camp Wheeler Spokes come here to play the Parachute School tossers. The tilt is listed for the main post gym at 8:30, and will be preceded by an exhibition tilt between Lawson Field and the Station Hospital.

The Wheeler team has captured 16 wins in 19 tilts this winter, and already holds one win over the chutists in a game played at Macon a few weeks ago. Included in the starting line-up for the Spokes are five ex-college stars. Dennis Murphy of Manhattan's Jaspers and Ed Moeller of Ohio State's Buckeyes are the forwards, and Leo Mooney of Villanova is at center. At the guard spots are Carl Ott, of Ohio University and Tom Hutto of South Carolina fame.

Ex-Gettysburg Athlete Is TIS Student

A varsity letter in a college sport "ain't hay in any league." Candidate Rodman Smith, six feet, three inches, powerhouse of the 29th Company, Third Student Training Regiment, wasn't satisfied until he had three letters in three different sports tacked on his hefty chest.

This versatile athlete from Hansdowne, Pa., made inter-collegiate history in football, baseball and tennis as a member of the famous Gettysburg College "Bullets." Of the various sports in which Smitty participated, football was his favorite and on this subject he tells some interesting stories.

When asked what he considered to be the toughest game of his career Smitty admitted that the Gettysburg-Villanova battle of a few years back "Was probably the most outstanding game of them al."

ENJOYED GAME

On that cold November afternoon the powerful "Villanova Wildcats" faced a "warm-up Gettysburg eleven. At the end of the afternoon the Wildcats were warmed up plenty—fact is they were hot because they never did manage to solve a tricky Gettysburg defense and toppled from the top ring of the football ladder to the tune of 3 to 0. Smitty, holding down left tackle for the "Bullets," says "I enjoyed the game immensely."

After graduating from Gettysburg College Smitty accepted a position as coach of athletics at the Eddystone High School, Eddystone, Pa. and produced champlonship teams for several years. In the summer months he attended Penn State College and was well on his way toward a Master's Degree in Education when Uncle Sam called on him to play a bigger game.

Now Candidate Smith has exchanged his football for a hand grenade, his baseball bat for a rifle and his tennis racket for a trench knife.

Concerning the Infantry School Smitty says, "It's the best training in the world for the toughest game of them all." And when the Japs line and Smitty meet, they will probably think so, too.

20 Top Scorers In First-Half Of Fort Benning Conference

	Field	Foul	Total Points
Shannon, Academic Regt.	41	21	102
Hite, 117th Inf.	44	10	98
Hall, Lawson Fd.	41	9	91
Webster, Stat. Hosp.	35	17	87
Ossi, Academic Regt.	39	9	87
Metcalfe, Lawson Fd.	31	16	78
Pond, Stat. Hosp.	33	3	69
Brooks, Prcht. School	25	13	63
Friedman, 29th Inf.	28	6	62
Kinard, Prcht. School	23	10	56
Edwards, Stat. Hosp.	25	5	55
Harpe, Academic Regt.	22	9	53
Foster, 124th Inf.	21	9	51
Darin, 117th Inf.	20	7	47
Dornich, 117th Inf.	20	7	47
Bland, 2nd Stud. Trng.	20	2	42
Bender, 124th Inf.	20	0	40
Moran, Lawson Fd.	17	3	37
Stolarzyck, 29th Inf.	17	2	36
Cummings, Stat. Hosp.	16	4	36

55th Engineers Stop 420th For Sand Hill Title

Big 2nd Quarter Aids Winners in Play-Off Game At H- C. Arena

The 55th Engineers defeated the 420th Field Artillery, 33 to 29, last Friday night to win the playoffs for the first-half title of the Sand Hill League. Both teams had finished the season with six victories and one loss.

The Engineers outscored their opponents in only the second quarter, when they piled up 11 points to take a 21-14 half time lead. The rangy 55th team got most of its baskets on setups and follow ups.

The 420th, which lost a 30-28 heartbreaker to the Engineers during the regular season, pulled to within three points early in the fourth quarter. The teams see-sawed back and forth until, with three minutes to go, Petak intercepted a pass for a setup and a safe six point Engineer lead. Petak had single-handedly beaten the 420th before by pulling the same trick twice toward the end of the game.

Points for the Engineers: Patterson, 13; Petak, 8; Wallace, 6; Ginto, 4; Bell, 2. For the Artillery: Lewis, 13; Shacklette, 8; Vanette, 6; Couture, 2.

Ex-Major Loop Prospect Here

O.C. Garnet Mercer Was Farm-Hand of Chi Cubs

Last July, Center Fielder Garnet Mercer was on his way to the big leagues.

Playing for a farm club of the Chicago Cubs, in Madison, Wisconsin, he was leading the Three-I League in hitting with .372 — and then came the Army.

Now Mercer is heading for an even bigger league, the front line. And, as Officer Candidate Mercer, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School here at Fort Benning, he hopes to reach the front as a second lieutenant or better.

PLAYED COLLEGE BALL

Mercer jumped from college to professional baseball. He broke into pro ball in 1935 with Trenton, N. J., from the campus of Western Kentucky State Teachers' College in Bowling Green, Ky.

Moving steadily up baseball's ladder, he managed the Ashland, Ky. team in the Mountain-State League (and won the pennant with them) before going to Madison. From Madison, the Cubs planned to send him to Walwaukee for a season before giving him a shot at the major leagues.

Tech Guard Seeks Bars

Professional baseball and three years as a guard on the Georgia Tech football team have helped to provide strength and stamina for army life in the case of Candidate John "Duck" McKee of the Second Student Training Regiment in the Officer Candidate School.

Candidate McKee spent three years in the outfield for the Atlanta baseball club of the Southern League during the seasons of 1932-34, and hit at a steady clip of well over .300. A phenomenal batting record of .554 on the Georgia Tech baseball team during 1930 earned him a berth on the All-Southeastern Conference team and a tryout with the Atlanta "Crackers." He was farmed out to Columbus, Ga., for 30 days, after which he was recalled to the Atlanta Club on a 24-hour option.

Candidate McKee played on the Tech football team with such stellar performers as Tom Jones, Vance Marie, Stumpy Thomason and Pat Barron.

Ten-Shun!
Eat—Drink
CHARLIE'S PALACE
Located at Forks of Benning Blvd. and Cusseta Rd.

Tiger M. P. Played Pro Football With Yanks

Bill Dokas Appeared In All-Star Tilt Here

The name of Bill Dokas has been missing from the sports pages of the nation's newspapers more than three years now for it was late 1939 when Dokas played his last game of professional football for the New York Yankees and shelved his career for the duration. Since hanging up his helmet he has been touring with a different kind of team and his training has been done on Army drill fields.

Dokas, who is now with the MP detachment of the 10th Armored Division, has played only one game of football since he stopped playing for money. This was last fall when the Fort Benning All-Stars took on Pensacola Naval Air Station and staggered away from the battle on the wrong side of a 35-7 score. Dokas played only one quarter of the game and says it was not one of his more brilliant performances.

HOPES TO PLAY MORE

The big, rangy ex-grid star — he weighs between 205 and 210 pounds when he is playing football and he stands 6:2—is not easily persuaded to talk about his football career these days and he can hardly be blamed inasmuch as it seems to have been indefinitely interrupted. Cpl. Dokas still entertains hopes, however, of playing another season or two with the Yankees if the war ends within a reasonable length of time.

But—and this can probably be considered news—Dokas does not intend to devote his life to football. Coaching is out, he says, because most colleges require a college degree and Dokas' formal education was confined to a single year which he split between Fordham and Villanova.

WANTS TO BE COP

The occupation that Cpl. Dokas has decided to select as his life's work will surprise everyone except his fellow MP's of the 10th Armored. He wants to be a cop! And it is a foregone conclusion that he will command respect wherever he patrols a beat. One look at his towering frame and the most hardened criminal would suddenly decide that he had an appointment in Berlin.

Dokas shot up fast in the football world. He began his career in high school at Hanover, Pa., where he soon became known as a quadruple threat. The teams on which he played lost only two games in three years, which is an indication of the kind of training he received. Incidentally, one of the boys who played alongside him in those days also reached the ranks of the professionals later, Mellus, the New York Giant star.

PLAYED WITH FROSH

After leaving high school Dokas went on to the above named colleges and somehow managed to play football at both institutions in the same year His presence apparently had some effect because the freshman teams at Villanova

(Continued on Page 7)

HARRY JONES BARBER SHOP
8 Chair Shop
OPEN
8 A. M. to 8 P. M Week Days
9 A. M. to 9 P. M. Saturdays
Central War Time
Air-Conditioned
Located in the Waverly Hotel Bldg.

Sweaters & Jackets Reduced
25% DISCOUNT
On Complete Line of All Types Sweaters and Jackets.
Athletic Goods Toys Playground Units
Bentley's
Sporting Goods Bicycles Sports Clothing
1303 - 1305 BROADWAY PHONE 7365

Plane to see...

ROYAL CROWN COLA
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
is Best by Taste-Test!

CLUB BAMA
NOW PLAYING NIGHTLY
★ MARTINGALES ★
Adagio Dance Team
★ EARLE LINDSAY REVUE ★
6 Beautiful Dancing Girls
★ EMIL PARRA ★
Singing, Dancing, M. C.
★ BILLIE SPARROW ★
Singer Of Styled Songs
★ WILLIE HOFFMAN ★
Controlled Acrobatics
BILLIE ARNOLD
and his SOCIETY BAND
For Your Dancing Pleasure
From 8:30 'til
Finest Western Steaks and Chicken
JUST ACROSS LOWER BRIDGE
FIRST BUILDING ON RIGHT
ADMISSION WEEK NITES 50c, SAT. NITES $1.00

"Z" LUNCH
Most convenient place to Eat . . . No rationing on walking by "Z" Lunch Counter.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT
Serves more people than any other establishment in Columbus.
LOCATED IN HOWARD BUS STATION

Grass Fire Gives Class Omnibus Field Problem

A single extemporaneous problem involving field expedients, chemical warfare, fire and movement, and dispersion in an attack was successfully solved recently by students of the Sixth Company, Third Student Training Regiment—and the sponsor was not the Infantry School, but a single tracer bullet.

The bullet got all this started by simply alighting in a patch of dry grass during a demonstration being staged for the class by the heavy weapons combat training committee.

Instead of dying out, as most such fires do, this fire got up and began to go places. It wasn't long before and officer came charging up to the bleachers and yelled:

"Gentlemen, I have a very practical order for you—get out there and put out that fire."

BANSHEE SCREAMS

That was all the class needed. Candidates went streaming across the field toward the fire yelling like banshees, as approved by the school's bayonet committee.

Dispersing as they went, they moved quickly into the fire fight, inventing a simple field expedient of breaking off green pine boughs with which to beat down the flames.

The dry, tall grass was burning voraciously, laying down a smoke barrage ahead of its advance. Undaunted, the students donned their gas masks and waded right in, flailing their boughs ahead of them.

It was here they adopted the School's slogan, "Follow Me" with reverse English—this time it was "Get Away From Me," and the fire retreated before them.

Fifteen minutes later it was all over, and the fire had learned the same lesson that Hitler, Hirohito and Company are learning these days: Infantry School men are taught how to act with initiative, quickly and thoroughly, no matter what the situation.

—and come war's end, they'll be mighty good firemen, too!

Engineer School, Fort Belvoir, Va., Requests Ideas

At the Engineer School, Fort Belvoir, Virginia, incoming mail is read with eager anticipation usually known only to the hunter and to the fisherman. For this school operates a suggestion system. Any envelope in any day's mail may be drama-drenched and thrill-freighted with a revolutionary suggestion which will speed victory.

The suggestion system is more than a year old. To date eleven per cent of the suggestions have been approved and put to use. More suggestions are wanted. An extensive campaign to promote suggestions has been started. Illustrated posters have been distributed for platoon bulletin boards of engineer organizations. New posters will be distributed each month. Engineer soldiers are authorized to send suggestions direct without going through other military channels.

CIVILIANS INCLUDED

Civilians also are welcome to send suggestions. No useful idea is too small to report. Every idea is judged by competent critics. Every suggestion is copied and submitted to the critics without any indication of its source. Approval does not depend on rank or influence. The private and the brigadier are treated alike. Each suggestion wins in The American Way—solely on its own merits.

Army officers feel that this suggestion system will have a useful morale value. Each engineer soldier will realize that he can think and his thinking may be used. As the first poster says, "Our enemies have brains but the American soldier can top them all, in

Argentine Editors To Visit Benning Early Next Month

Ten prominent Argentine newspapermen will visit Fort Benning on Monday, March 8, it was announced by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the post. The group will be the third one composed of South American publishers and editors to come here within the past several months.

While at the post, they will view the intensive training activities of the infantry, parachute, and armored force units stationed here. The group is being sent to Benning under the auspices of the National Press Club, and this is but one stop on a nation-wide tour of American war industries and military and naval establishments.

Lawson Adds Two Officers

Base Surgeon, Chaplain Named

First Lieutenant Walter E. Naugler, Jr., and Chaplain Luke W. Crawford, first lieutenant, are now stationed with the Army Air Forces at Lawson Field. Lieutenant Naugler has assumed his duties as base surgeon and Chaplain Crawford serves at the Lawson Field chapel.

Lieut. Naugler received his MD degree from McGill University, Montreal, Canada. He was editor-in-chief of the McGill Medical Journal for two years.

He received his commission on July 1, 1942 and attended OTS at West Overfield, Mass. He also attended the Bowman Field School for Flight Surgeons and the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field, Texas. Lieutenant Naugler was stationed at Nashville, Tenn., before arriving here.

Chaplain Crawford, a native of New York City, attended St. Michaels' School and studied for the priesthood and received his Preparatory training at Glenclyffe Garrison, N. Y. and upon graduation entered the Novitate of the Ceepechen Franciscan Order at Detroit, Mich. He then entered the Major Seminary at St. Anthony's Monastery, Marathon, Wis., and was ordered to the priesthood in 1931. His last assignment was at St. Johns, 210 W. 31st Street, New York, N. Y.

Chaplain Crawford was commissioned Nov. 27, 1942 and attended the Chaplains School at Harvard, Cambridge, Mass., before coming to Lawson Field.

CAPTAIN WILLIE D. VEAL, acting provost marshal and local OPA administrator is shown presenting Sergeant Louis Lipp, secretary and chief clerk of the Fort Benning ration board, with the Office of Price Administration Voluntary Service Award. Sergeant Lipp, who has served in his present capacity since the rationing program was inaugurated last June, recently received the award, signed by Leon Henderson, former national administrator, for outstanding work in connection with the program.

Officer Lauds Alaskan Road

Col. Zimmerman Aided In Construction

The cold winds this week in Georgia were balmy summer breezes to Lt. Col. F. R. Zimmerman who on Tuesday became assistant ordnance officer to Col. Myron Leedy at Fort Benning.

Col. Zimmerman arrived here straight from the Yukon in Alaska where he served since last summer in the construction of the new Alaskan highway from Port St. John to Fairbanks. Temperatures from 40 to 70 degrees below zero were not uncommon, he reported.

"The trip over this highway after the war will be one that everyone in the United States will want to take," he said; "For it is one of the most scenic places in the world. The Alps could be dropped in there and be lost."

BRIDGES PROBLEM

Col. Zimmerman, in discussing some of the engineering problems involved in the construction explained that bridge building offered one of the greatest. Normally rivers freeze from the top down, but in Alaska they freeze from the bottom up which causes the rivers to leave their beds, he said, thus causing bridge engineers untold trouble.

A native of Chicago and a reserve officer for 20 years, Col. Zimmerman was called into active duty early in 1940. During the past war he was sent to the Yukon. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin of the class of 1912 and in civilian life has worked as a production engineer for the Harvester Company and the Nachman Spring Company in Chicago. Mrs. Zimmerman will join the colonel here next week.

Red Cross Adds New Assistant Field Director

With the naming of Wendell D. Daniel as new assistant field director, Wendell D. Daniel, the number of Red Cross representatives at Fort Benning has been increased to fourteen, according to Eugene Bussey, local field director.

Bussey added that the Red Cross was now operating on a 24-hour day, seven-day week basis, in the four areas comprising the reservation. This represents a great expansion in the activities of this organization when it is remembered that as late as May, 1942, the local Red Cross chapter consisted of one office on the main post, open 8 hours, 6 days a week, and staffed with four representatives.

The new assistant field director comes to Fort Benning from Fort Jackson, S. C., and has completed two weeks training in Red Cross Headquarters, Washington, D. C., and two weeks field training.

In civilian life, Daniel was assistant medical assistant for Louisiana Ordnance Co., Haughton, La.

NOW, ME PROUD BEAUTY, YOU HAVE NO EXCUSE

Allowing Dan Cupid another link in his wartime chain, the War Department has added a regulation allowing WAACs and Army nurses not only to marry but stay on the same reservation with their husbands, according to an announcement at post headquarters, today.

everything, if useful ideas reach the right people in time."

February, October Are Kind to O. C. Daugherty

February, 1941, inducted; February, 1942, sent to Iceland; February, 1943, scheduled to receive the gold bars of a second lieutenant.

So reads the army calendar of Staff Sergeant William S. Daugherty, now an Infantry officer candidate in the 14th Company, Third Student Training Regiment.

Sgt. Daugherty was the first selective service man to become a non-commissioned officer in his company, an old regular Army outfit. On foreign service he was appointed an acting officer, heading at different times a rifle and weapons platoon.

February has been significant in Daugherty's calendar; however, October has also been an important month to him. October 16, 1940, he registered for the draft; October 16, 1941, he received his first furlough; October 16, 1942, he flew back to the United States to enter The Infantry School.

It was his 24th birthday and he was going back to the States; what day had ever been better for him, his companions wanted to know?

"The day I got married," he answered.

Mrs. Daugherty is now at Columbus, Ga., ten miles from the Post, waiting to pin those gold bars on her husband the day he graduates.

Mirror Exhibit Well Attended; Another Planned

A steady stream of officers, their families, and friends viewed the art exhibition held at the Officer's Club on Sunday and Monday, Feb. 14 and 15, sponsored by The Regimental Mirror, news organ of the Academic Regiment.

Cartoons, drawings and photographs, most of which have appeared in the Mirror and other regimental newspapers at Fort Benning were the center of much interest and comment.

Particularly outstanding were the photographs taken by Staff Sergeant Jack Lieberman of various Fort Benning landmarks. Sgt. Lieberman, who works at the Infantry School Reproduction Plant, has a penchant for "dramatic" photographs and his superb ability in capturing mood through the use of low key effects was the subject of much favorable praise.

Represented in the art show, besides the Mirror, were the Pine Burr Second Student Training Regiment, the Alligator, 12th Infantry, We Lead The Way, 29th Infantry, and the Chaplain's Challenge.

Unit Goes All Out In Polio Dime Drive

Company "C", Service Battalion, First Student Training Regiment, under the command of Lieutenant Joseph R. O'Connor announced the contribution of as many dimes as men in the unit in the annual Polio Drive honoring the birthday of the President of the United States.

Lieutenant O'Connor modestly disclaimed any personal glory from the achievement, he said that he simply mentioned it to his non-commissioned officers that it was a worthy cause and "that took care of the little item."

Infantry, the Tiger, 10th Armored Division

As soon as Service Club Number One reopens, the Mirror will hold another exhibition for the benefit of enlisted men.

Tiger—

(Continued from Page 6)

and Fordham that year were undefeated.

The pro scouts evidently thought Dokas had plenty on the ball because the following season found him out of college and in the line-up of the powerful Yanks' eleven. He played in all of the major games on the Yankee schedule that year against such outfits as Boston, Detroit, Milwaukee, Buffalo and Columbus, O., and against such individual stars as Johnny Blood of Boston, Charley Patrick of Pittsburgh and Caramatic of Milwaukee.

PRO FOOTBALL RUGGED

Of professional football in general, Cpl. Dokas has this to say:

"It's a rugged game—but it's hard, clean football. And it's hard work because when you're out there you know you can't make a single error. There's no fooling around in professional football."

Dokas alternated between end and tackle and as a result was not very often doing the actual scoring. But he carried home the bacon in the Columbus game when he connected with a pass and maneuvered his way over the goal line.

NO GOLDBRICKING

Since the Yankees wanted him back the year the Army also sought his services, Cpl. Dokas wants to take them up on their offer as soon as he has completed his present engagement. But he isn't counting on more than a year or, at most, two years of professional football. Why?

"Because it's hard work," he says, adding by way of explanation, "there's no goldbricking in that game."

J. WILSON
Alterations
Epaulets 11½th St.
Chevrons Dial 6331

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By EVE

The after holiday lull when one could walk the length and breadth of Broadway and not meet a friend from the Post wasn't true this week. Maybe it's the blooming daffodils, the occasional spring-like days. Maybe it's the bright new merchandise that arrives daily in the shops in Columbus. Whatever the cause we're all looking and buying too. Our women and our houses will continue to be the most attractive in the world.

—V—

The big event of next week will be the Fashion Show staged by the PATRICIA GOWN SHOP at the Officers' Club next Tuesday evening, February 23, at 8:30 P. M. Next to a sale women adore a fashion show. All sorts of lovely day dreams can be spun out of the parade of models and their beautiful gowns. Patricia has chosen her models from among our own army women. There'll be music and of course the beautiful wedding party that closes every proper fashion show. The plans for this finale promise a dramatic close to an evening that's bound to be one of the high points of the season. In fact, it's going to be a social occasion for there's a special invitation for the men folks to attend. The opening of Patricia's Gown Shop on the Post proved in a matter of hours the real need of a woman's specialty shop on the Post. The convenience, attractiveness of the shop and the wide assortment of the things we wear most is going to make this shop a popular spot.

—V—

Our O. C. men are one of AIME DUPONT PHOTOGRAPHERS best customers. Their families demand for pictures of them with their new gold bars are an insistent prod that results in their dear ones receiving tangible evidence of their success and well being. Nurses too, are making certain they'll have a lovely reminder of their services in the armed forces. There's another group of uniformed folks who are serving but haven't bothered much to think that they'd like a memento of their days of war activity, namely our smartly uniformed Red Cross workers. Their uniforms have been earned by hours of study and faithful attention to their chosen duty. They are, and should be, a source of pride to the wearers. Seems to me a portrait taken with the flattering coronet and veil, or the smart Motor Corps uniform would be something rather nice to have as a companion piece to our favorite photograph of the man in our life who is serving his country. You know Aime Dupont is located at 1219 Broadway. They're open afternoons and evenings.

—V—

The demand for suits and accessories has never been greater than this season. Good reson, too, for a suit is the most practical garment a woman can own. A trim suit can be dressed up or down by the accessories she wears. Thus, an outfit that will give more wearing hours than anything else one can buy. KIRVEN'S have a generous selection of all types and styles of suits. Pastel flannels, tweeds and the popular navy and black twill. For general wear one can match or contrast their suit with a sweater. The Sports Shop is handy for a correct color choice. Close, too, is the millinery shop where you'll try on one of those trim berets. Or maybe a pretty hat for the dress-up change. You'll find frilly or tailored blouses on the main floor, as well as the necessary gloves that will make you perfectly turned out. Handbags, a glittering lapel ornament and you're outfitted for any and every occasion that may arise. Perfect for both dress up and casual wear of your suited elegance is the Archer lisle mesh hose. Their exceptional fit and perfection of weave make them one of the best stocking buys today.

—V—

Didn't the shoe rationing come as a surprise? Not exactly a shocking surprise for we're conditioned to rationing these days, but it was unexpected. Those of you who have been reading shoe advice Mr. Miller has given me to pass on to you each week are well prepared for the months ahead. You'll remember he has stressed the casual and walking shoe in his fine line of I. Miller, Arnold Authentics and Florsheim shoes. MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE COMPANY have kept a close touch with shoe trends and have maintained a staff of men who are experts in correct shoe fitting. Foot comfort, serviceable wear, smartly and correctly shod feet have been their specialty. This invaluable service is going to be more important now that we're limited to the amount of our shoe purchases. We can't afford mistakes that will gather dust in the closet. We will become shrewd and careful shoppers. Our choice will be made from those shoes that carry famous names of shoemakers of unquestioned integrity.

—V—

Did you see those beautiful print dresses with bright colored jackets in KAYSER-LILLIENTHAL, INC. windows? The combination of print and plain material makes these dresses unusually lovely. They're smart enough to be seen in any gathering. There's also a wide choice of the indispensible print dress that you'll wear for general utility. You feel well in them for shopping or a bridge game. You'll think them up after a season's wearing by using them as dress-up home clothes. In speaking about clothes I'm reminded of a fastidious friend who buys a complete set of underwear each time she purchased a new dress. She felt that was important to her grooming, having special underwear for each outfit. It's one way of keeping up with a supply of underthings. The lingerie section in Kayser-Lillienthal Inc. has beautiful underthings, whether your taste runs to the lacy whimsies or the more tailored types. For a poised, well groomed feeling the lovely slips and panties are tops.

—V—

Roberta Wells of GODWIN, WELLS AND POPE, has received a shipment of new hats. They're so lovely and feminine one wonders why all women don't throw away those ugly handkerchiefs they tie under their chins and become beautiful women. Tiny, veiled turbans of flowers that look like the choice display of a fine florist shop. One is a cluster of purple toned lilacs, swathed in frothy veiling. Others, equally devastating, are of white flowers, pink and fragile blue. Predominant among her selection are the new and flattering hats with the forward trend. There's the calot too, favorite with the young. They're in pastel felts and crisp novelty straws. One of her smart hats is called the "Suit Hat" worn with a forward tilt and perfection for our new suits. They're temptations (everyone of them) to discard the bare-headed casual habits of the past and become lovely ladies to all who see us. If your mother is making her home with you she'll be glad to know this shop specializes in lovely hats for the older woman, as well as fresh-from-New York creations for the style conscious.

—V—

With Victory Gardens foremost in our minds, those of us who are amateurs may need some expert advice in bringing a full yield for our efforts. The VALLEY SEED COMPANY at the Georgia and Southern Seedmen Association, and as such are qualified advisors on all our problems. There are a great many vegetables and flowers too, guaranteed to withstand frost, that can be planted right now. Besides seeds, plants and onion settings, The Valley Seed Company is qualified to advise you on fertilizers and sprays. In conjunction with their gardening and farming service they maintain a pet shop. I was especially interested in the new dog food they have. It's Nieman's Famous Meteor Fresh Frozen Dog Food. It comes in a carton, frozen just like the vegetables and fruits we all like. It's a vitamin-rich food filled with the essential ingredients necessary for a healthy dog. You folks who have been worrying over the feeding of that fine dog of yours had better investigate. I think it is a solution to your problem. It's not expensive either and can be bought in a variety of different sized cartons.

—V—

I've often wondered what we would do if we should suddenly lose stores like J. J. NEWBERRY COMPANY. They've become such a symbol of convenience and value for our small household and personal needs, I think we tend to take them for granted. For instance, take their stationery department. All the needs for our desk, shelf paper, handy note books and small pads of paper for the telephone stand. Even precious erasers, which will be a difficult thing to find when this stock is sold. If you're one of those extraordinary wives who awaken in the middle of the night to pack a lunch for your husband before he leaves for Fort Benning, you'll find those invaluable sandwich bags that keep the sandwiches fresh and attractive. There are paper cups, wooden and tin spoons and small cardboard plates that will make the lunch you prepare a real meal. The variety of foods you can prepare and pack with these paper aids are endless. While you're in this section you might look over their selection of books. They have the popular Pocket Books, mystery stories by Rex Stout. Bound books of the favorite classics. Fine reading for a little more than you pay for a magazine. J. J. Newberry Company have just received a new supply of that bargain in rose bushes. If you didn't get any before, best do it now, for they're the best rose bush buy in town.

—V—

If you're young, slim and petite, do make yourself the most engaging person on the Post with one of the new McMullen outfits of pink chambray. A little girl sunbonnet edged in white pleated pique and a bag to match worn with a pink chambray McMullen frock will make you look like a figure out of a nursery rhyme, a rather knowing sophisticated figure, but fetching too. SEALYS have just received a shipment of the famous McMullen line. The hats and matching bags are definitely "Southern" wear, made in chambray, gingham and pique. Not all the models are little girl sophistry for the hats in crisp white waffle pique are high style fashion for spring and summer wear. This line went faster than the proverbial hot cakes last year and I predict they'll be sold as quickly this season. Sealys specialize in spectator sports wear and fine town and country clothes. This type of clothes is the favorite trend with women who have learned to combine smartness with practicability. The Habit-maker label assures knowledgeable women of these important factors. These fine dresses are arriving daily for your choice. The justly famous Eisenburg dresses are in stock with their superb trimming detail and simplicity of design. If you're the kind that would rather have one "good" dress than several indifferent frocks look for the labeled dresses carried in Sealys.

—V—

There's a discovery in store for the women shoppers of Fort Benning this week. Mr. Jack Walton of the Waverly Hotel has just opened the CITY PHARMACY at 14 13th street, which is across the street from the Waverly hotel. The store has been freshened up to glistening spick and span order. Mr. Walton has long realized the need of an attractive meeting place for the women who spend their day in town. The exhaustion of the long shopping hours can by his foresight be turned into a pleasant relaxation. Their Luncheonette will feature afternoon shoppers tea for a nominal sum. The Luncheonette is under the direction of the Waverly Hotel staff, which is an assurance of cleanliness, service and good food. Their pharmaceutical department is equipped to fill any prescription. They are one of the few pharmacies in the south prepared to supply blood plasma. Their stock of toiletries are limitless in choice. The City Pharmacy is a definite addition to Columbus and Mr. Walton is to be congratulated in his foresight and judgement. I think you'll like it too.

Army Alterations
Complete Stocks
Officers' Uniforms
and
Military Supplies
THE TOGGERY
1023A Broadway

Buy Your Victory Garden Seed At McCoy's Grocery Co.
1047 Broadway Dial 7749

Visit
The Blue Jay Barber and Beauty Shop
"IT PAYS TO LOOK WELL"
2220 Wynnton Rd. Dial 9260

COCKER SPANIEL PUPS FOR SALE
Litter Registered—Champion Bred
Papers Furnished
See Them Saturday, Feb. 20th
at VALLEY SEED CO.
1240 BROADWAY
Bred and Raised by Eufaula Kennels, Eufaula, Ala.
F. W. Ham, Owner

PAT PATTERSON
44th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED CHICKEN IN THIS TOWN
No. 1 KANSAS CITY STEAKS THAT'S REALLY TENDER
CAT FISH DINNERS GA. STYLE
COME OUT ON THE NORTH HIGHLAND BUS
BRING THE FAMILY TONIGHT!
Try Our Sea Food Course — 6 Private Dining Rooms

Page Curb Market
FANCY FRUITS
1214 Cusseta Road

Bon Art Studio
CREATORS OF FINE PORTRAITS
Corner of 11th and Broadway
Over Lee's Drug Store
Open 9 P. M. Every Evening

Make Your Beauty A Memory for Future Morale Lifting By Visiting
JEAN'S BEAUTY SHOPPE
Dial 2-2792 1212½ Broad
New Location—Upstairs

RALSTON BARBER SHOP
Welcomes All Fort Benning Officers and Men
We specialize in dry and felling hair. Come in and give us a trial. Our prices are very reasonable.
Chas. M. Parker, Prop.

PATRICIA
OF
PATRICIA'S GOWN SHOP
FORT BENNING
Invites You to Attend
A FASHION SHOW
AT
THE OFFICERS' CLUB
Tuesday, Feb. 23rd — 8:30 p.m.
Bring Your Husbands and Sweethearts
Music — Entertainment
And A Beautiful Show

Newton D. Baker Village Reporter

The following newcomers are welcomed to the village:

St. Sgt. and Mrs. Lonnie L. Adams, 127A; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Terrell J. Gordon, 81B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. John E. Jackson, 22F; Lt. and Mrs. Robert D. Jones, 24 Fox; 1st Sgt. and Mrs. Elwood Glassey, 26C; St. Sgt. and Mrs. George W. Hill, 97G.

PERSONALS

Warrant Officer and Mrs. A. W. Makar have moved from the village to Columbus. Their many friends regret to know that they have left.

Miss Mamie McCullogas, Crafts instructor, and Mrs. L. D. Troutman, supervisor of recreation, are attending the Handicraft Institute taught by Frank Staples of the National Recreation association, this week.

1st Sgt. and Mrs. P. I. Hopkins, Jr., of 124B, recently returned from Miami, Fla., where they visited their families.

Friends of Miss Barbara Boyer, 29 Court, will regret to know that she is leaving next week for Washington, D. C.

Little Tommy Claunch has been confined to bed with chicken pox for several days.

Lt. and Mrs. T. Tedesso and their daughter, Mary T, are visiting friends and relatives in Baltimore and New York.

Little Mary Ann Nipps, 17 Roper, has been confined to her home because of illness.

'TEEN CLUB

The 'teen age boys and girls will meet Friday night at 8:30 for the organization of a club. All boys and girls of that age bracket are invited to attend.

FAMILY NIGHT

Approximately 300 people attended the Family Fun Night last Friday night given by the local Methodist church. The party, divided into three groups, was well arranged, and all ages had a wonderful time.

KITE DAY

Sunday, March 7, has been set aside as "Kite Day" in the village. A kite tournament will be held with officials judging and an award will be made. Any boy in the village under 14 is eligible to enter a kite, most of which will be homemade. For rules regarding the tournament, please see Mrs. Troutman.

OFFICERS' DANCE

The dance scheduled for the officers on Feb. 27 has every promise of being as enjoyable if not more than the last one. The tickets are being sold daily. Mrs. E. J. Lambert, 31 Court avenue, phone 8416, is chairman of the ticket sales.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The W.M.S. of Benning Park Baptist church will meet Thursday at 10 a. m., CWT, to study the Mission Study Book, "They Need Not Go." It is being taught by Mrs. J. C. Grimes of Beallevard Baptist church, who is superintendent of the W.M.S. of the Columbus association.

ANNIVERSARY

The Baptist church is celebrating the first anniversary Sunday, Feb. 21. Appropriate music and sermon will be given. The people of the village are cordially invited.

This week a B.T.U. training school is being taught under the direction of Mrs. W. H. Powell, 90C. Mrs. C. O. Pharis, 33B, and Mrs. J. A. Strozier, 65A, are teaching the juniors at 9:30 a. m. and 3:50 p. m., EWT. The adults and young people are studying under Chaplain and Mrs. Willingham in the evenings. Mrs. Charles Clements is teaching the Intermediates.

Chaplain T. G. Proctor of the Station hospital will deliver the message next Sunday night at 8 oclock, CWT.

G. I. DANCE

Plans are underway for a dance for the enlisted families on March 6. Tickets for this dance will be sold in advance. Further announcements will be made at a later date. Mrs. Lester Hays, 31C, is charman of the committee.

The Girl Scouts will meet Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Huxford, 7 Allison avenue.

FIRST AID CLASS

The last class of Standard First Aid will be conducted Friday. Rev. C. C. Davison has been the very capable instructor. Those interested in an advance course are asked to contact Rev. Davison or Mrs. Troutman.

Plans for a nutrition course to begin the first week of March, are underway. More information concerning this will be given later.

NUTRITION COURSE

Announcement is made by Mrs. Ralph Ziegler and Mrs. L. D. Troutman, supervisors of the Nursery School and Recreational program of Baker Village that a standard nutrition course will be conducted for the women of Baker Village and Benning Park Homes beginning Tuesday, March 9. There will be two lectures each week, Tuesday and Friday afternoons from 2 until 4 o'clock, in the auditorium of the administration building.

Mrs. Frank Gaines, Muscogee County Home Demonstration Agent, will conduct the course.

Those interested are asked to register at the office of the nursery school or the recreational office.

RATIONING

The Baker Village Nursery School Mothers' club will have as their guest speaker for the February 24 meeting, a member of the committee on point rationing of which Mrs. Ed F. Lummus is chairman.

Mrs. W. W. Marwede, president, will preside over the brief business session which begins at 2 o'clock.

All members are urged to attend this important meeting. Other women in Baker Village and Benning Park Homes are invited to hear this timely and interesting program.

FARRIS RADIO SERVICE

PORTABLES ALL SPECIALTY REPAIRS

1317 Broadway - Next To USO

He's FROM THE MAINTENANCE COMPANY

Rain Falls 'Horizontally' In Iceland, O. C.'s Say

Liquor Costs $30 Per Quart; Is Good Paint Remover

There's a whale of a difference between Iceland and the cinematic opus of the same name, according to the thirteen candidates in the Third Company, Third Student Training Regiment, who have recently returned from "the Rock".

In fact, the candidates are of the opinion that the best way to see Iceland is from the stern of a U. S. A. bound vessel.

"Believe me, you really appreciate this country and realize what it's worth after a stay in Iceland," says Candidate John K. Steinhauer. "We realize that our work there is necessary and most of the men naturally accept their responsibility with good grace but it's really swell to get back in America."

A recent barracks breeze-batting bee brought forth the following impressions of the forbidding, rocky land which so few Americans know anything about:

In the motion picture, "Iceland," there were only two stock shots of the land itself. "And both of those were so brief that you had to look close to catch it," one of the candidates put in . . . Fresh milk and vegetables are at a premium and the sun rarely shines, which probably explains the pasty-toned pallor of the candidates from Iceland. (However, a few more trips over the obstacle course and regular meals in the excellent mess hall of the Third Company should quickly remedy this). Biggest thrill for the candidates upon their return to America: gazing once again at an American girl. Johnny Doughboy finds no roses in Iceland (They call 'em Stulkas up there).

"Joyce Kilmer," says one candidate, "said a mouthful when he wrote that poem, 'Trees'. You just don't see any trees on the rock."

It also was a treat to find the rain in America falling vertically instead of horizontally. "When it rains up there and the wind starts to blow, you get drenched in nothing flat," says Candidate Michael P. Stratigos.

Then there are the horses. They're midgets compared to American nags. And the vehicles are simply pony carts . . . And when it comes to beds, the ex-Icelanders would rather have to make the ones here in the Third Company than sleep on the canvass jobs they were using a few short weeks ago.

That brought the boys to what they termed "the last straw"—beer. Excitedly and in belligerent spirit, they pointed out that the beer (Bjor, if you're Icelandic) has an alcoholic content of one-half of one per cent. Others in the group contended it was even less. And if you want to drink anything stronger, it comes at $30 a quart and takes the paint off a bucket.

In short, the boys from the big, bad "Rock" are mighty glad they're Americans. To them, The Infantry School is relatively a life of ease.

The men from the Third Company who saw service in Iceland: Candidates John K. Steinhauer, Floris Stratton, Walter P. Standish, Russell E. Clem, Earl L. Fox, Michael P. Stratigos, Robert E. Weirel, James R. Weik, Sidney Stein, Alfred A. Treadway, Ralph A. Velk, James V. DeMatteis and Arville Tolbert.

1ST STR PROMOTIONS

The Regimental Commander of the First Student Training Regiment recently announced the following promotions of the enlisted personnel.

Sgt. Howard Finley promoted to the grade of staff sergeant; Techn. Gr. V John W. Reed raised to the rank of techn. gr. IV; Pfc. John J. Podlasek was promoted to the rank of corporal, and Pfcs. Jessie Bright, James B. Meece, Dolphus Price, Raymond E. Rembleske, David A. Spychalla, and Clarence M. Wagner, were promoted to the grade of techn. gr. V. Private Drewry R. Evans was likewise made techn. gr. V.

The new overseas ribbon that soldiers will wear who see service in Africa is a green ribbon, 1 3-8 inches long and 3-8 inches wide. In the center are red, white and blue vertical stripes. In addition to the U. S. colors, the green, white and red of Italy are at its left end and the black and white of Germany at its right end—the colors of the enemies against whom the holders are fighting. The ribbon also signifies service in Europe or the Middle East.

Repair, Salvage Failure Cause of Rommel Debacle

Col. Rush Says Combat-Fit Vehicles Play Major Role

Last week Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, calling on the men and women of the army to unite in a campaign of preventive maintenance said, "Whether you are in a training camp in the United States or in the forward line of a combat area, "readiness for combat, must be the standard by which you judge the condition of this equipment, which has been entrusted to your care."

"And we at Benning are trying to lead the way," said Lt. Col. Ernest Rush, officer in charge of the Motor Transport District, in a statement today.

"I personally know what Secretary Stimson is striving to put across. During the last war I had to walk many an unexpected mile due to transportation failure. Things like that can lose a battle, even a war," he added.

AFRIKA CORPS

"Take the defeat of the Afrika Corps commanded by General Rommel. That was due to intensive 'Keep 'em rolling' work by the individual British driver as well as the mechanics. They were able to keep Rommel on the run, because after breaking through they were able to keep right on his heels. He was given no opportunity to stop for repairs or to salvage damaged equipment. It was a gruelling test to see which army could keep its motorized units running the longest. Col. Rush pointed out "That the British showed brilliant planning on the part of General Montgomery, acting on the lesson learned when the 8th Army was first pushed out of Libya."

KEEP 'EM READY

"Someone said, 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,; I say it's worth ten pounds of cure. A drop of oil, at just the right time may save a three hundred dollar motor . . . just one drop. Daily checking of tires and air will add several thousand miles to the life of a casing.

"That brings up another point I would like to stress," the Colonel said, "In preventive maintenance, there is no tomorrow . . . everything must be done today."

Colonel Rush reiterated Secretary Stimson's statement that the whole long chain of production and supply—from assembly at the factory to the delivery on a distant shore is severed if a vehicle's high perfection is permitted to deteriorate through lack of responsible care.

LUBBOCK, Tex.— (CNS) —St. Sgt. Ralph Briant, a professional blood donor in civilian life, fainted when he went to a dispensary to have Army medics test his blood for type.

You may only send packages overseas that have been requested by the soldier, and then his letter must be approved by his commanding officer. This is in compliance with a new regulations announced by Secretary of War Stimson Jan. 7 and which became effective Jan. 15. It was necessary because of the flood of packages that were taking up vital transport space.

In Philadelphia on Feb. 11, 1776, Benjamin Franklin said the way to win battles was "Shoot 'em with arrows. Pike 'em with pikes. Keep away from firearms because smoke gets in your eyes"

BROWN FURNITURE CO.

Keep Up The Home We're Fighting For

16 E. 11th St. Dial 3-5514

A STATEMENT FROM R. J. HAYNIE

We have had such a rush on goods since shoe ration started. We don't want to alarm you. I personally don't think piece goods will be rationed. If so I believe it will be to the merchant and not to the consumer. However the dye situation is growing serious. But regardless, we will continue to have some type of material to offer you. We urge you to buy only what you need now—do not hoard. Our stock is the largest and most complete since our opening and we have the greatest variety of material in Columbus.

We invite you to compare our prices. You'll find at Haynies you'll save. Our slogan for a long time continues to be "High Quality—Low Prices."

39-Inch LAJERZ PRINTS 79c Yd.

36-Inch SEERSUCKER ..... 79c Yd.

36-In. Chambray & Poplin 59c yd.

30 New Shades of Plain FAILLE WEAVE CREPE ... 94c Yd.

54-Inch Ripple Flannel ..... 2.49 Yd.

100% Wool in a good selection of colors

HAYNIES 1207 BROADWAY

CUSTOM TAILORS TO THE SERVICES SINCE 1845

SMITH-GRAY

MAKERS of UNIFORMS

15 West Eleventh St.

COLUMBUS, GA.

DIAL 5719 OPP. ARMY-NAVY USO

Chair Feature

Barrel and Wing Chairs

UNUSUAL VALUES $22.50 to $75

Easy Terms

All have wide, soft seat cushions, channelled or plain backs. Carved legs in walnut or mahogany finish. A value we will be unable to duplicate when these are gone!

Choice of Fabrics

Each chair beautifully upholstered in beautiful figured tapestries, or luxurious brocaded damasks.

Choice of Colors

Choose from gorgeous shades of Blue, Wine, Beige, Mauve, Taupe and Green.

BUY WAR BONDS & STAMPS

No Federal Furniture Tax—

Remember, your furniture purchases are free of the new Federal Excise Tax.

MAXWELL BROS. & McDONALD FURNITURE

Cor. Broadway and 13th St. Dial 3-6871

HARMONY TAILORING and ALTERATION

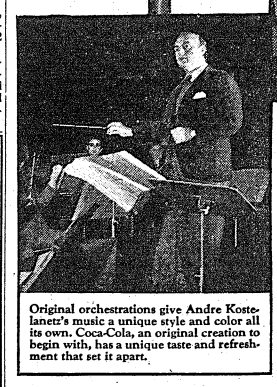
Soldiers and Nurses Welcome

DIAL 3-7468

1140½ Broadway

That Extra Something!

. . . You can spot it every time



Andre Kostelanetz, in "The Pause That Refreshes On The Air", broadcast every Sunday afternoon for Coca-Cola, brings you music with distinction. His listening audience is counted in millions. It's the extra touch Andre Kostelanetz gives to music that gives this program a character all its own. Coca-Cola, too, won distinction by giving folks something extra in refreshment.

Raise a frosty bottle of Coca-Cola to your lips. Where else than in Coca-Cola itself will you find this unique taste? It more than quenches thirst. It adds refreshment . . . refreshment that goes into energy.

Fifty-seven years of experience and skill, with choicest ingredients—create a quality in Coca-Cola that never loses the freshness of its appeal.

* * *

Wartime limits the supply of Coca-Cola. Those times when you cannot get it, remember: Coke, being first choice, sells out first. Ask for it each time.

Original orchestrations give Andre Kostelanetz's music a unique style and color all its own. Coca-Cola, an original creation to begin with, has a unique taste and refreshment that set it apart.

Intermission for musicians means a trek to the Coca-Cola cooler. These artists look to the pause that refreshes for quick energy, complete relaxation. Ask your musician friend what drink he prefers!

Coca-Cola 5¢ The best is always the better buy!

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Tactical Officers Get No Respite Between Classes Despite Impression

Everyone From C. O. To Mail Orderly Brings Order From Chaos

When someone asks an officer or member of the cadre of one of the training companies how many days there will be between graduation day and day of arrival of a new class they usually get an answer of from three to six days.

The inevitable retort of the questioner is "Well, hope you enjoy your vacation." All of which shows that he is just plain dumb or doesn't know any better. Because, take it from one who knows, it is anything but a vacation.

Starting with the company commander, this is one of his busiest periods of consolidating reports to higher commands, checking inventories, making inspections, checking council books, filing away records of the last class, and countless other duties. The first sergeant, his man Friday, also has a field day checking AR, War Department Circulars, brigade, regimental and battalion special orders, memos, letters, etc., to make sure that all "letters of the law" are complied with.

SPRING CLEANING

All this time the mess officer and cadre are doing their "spring cleaning," checking the store room, and making ready for a spotless kitchen and mess hall when the new class arrives.

If anyone is busier than they are, it is the supply officer and supply sergeant. Their duty is to count, recount, count and when you get tired, you count some more: 167 overcoats, 159 raincoats, 199 compasses, 163 bayonets, 154 rifles less three wing nuts, 14 rear sights, one operating rod assembly, two plunger springs, etc. Of course, this is easy compared to the counting, classifying and re-arranging of approximately 200 FM 21-5's to FM 101-5's. And then they have to be assembled into 200 neat stacks of one each for issue to the new class. Yes, during this time the supply room looks like a big country store in the middle of the yearly inventory.

POOR MAIL ORDERLY

Well, at least the mail orderly has an easy time. Just ask him about this. Letters, packages and papers continue to come in for the departed "casualties" and each has to be forwarded to his home station. This requires him to become an expert in the art of Thomaston, interviewing and recording a set of 10 or 12 pieces of special orders. He has to write about as much on the envelope as is contained on the inside.

No, no one escapes the countless details and duties incident to sending a class on its way. There is a general house cleaning and a cleaning of the deck for the new class to come which is always here before you know it.

Thru–

(Continued from Page 1)

at the northeast tip of the island. This pushed the Nips on a 13-mile strip of coast. Value of the victory is both negative and positive—it keeps U. S. forces within striking distance of some of Japan's most important bases, and it denies to the Japs the opportunity to raid U. S. communications in the area. Last organized enemy resistance now has been crushed on Rendova in the New Georgia area and now U. S. forces are moving north along the coast to New Guinea, preparing for the next step in the campaign which will be a battle for the Huon Gulf.

Levy-Morton Co.

—¢—

Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps.

—¢—

REPAIRS — Dial 3-6391

1028—13TH ST.

With The Civilians

MYRTLE JOINES

Miss Juanita Wilkins has just returned to Service Club No. 2, after a short leave in Florida to recuperate from the flu.

* * *

Headquarters is welcoming Mrs. Dorothy Sosseman to its fold. Not only are we glad to have her with us but the fact that she has recovered from severe automobile injuries makes her return among us something of an event.

* * *

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crawford on the arrival of their son. The entire personnel of the sub-depot extends their congratulations too.

* * *

Frances Alford and Josephine Haggard both of Headquarters spent Monday in Atlanta shopping.

* * *

Silvia Fleischer was in Atlanta on her way to her home in West Orange, N. J., trying to find a suitable gift for her mother. She looked stunning in that red coat with make-up kit to match. How did the machine record unit get along without her?

* * *

Welcome to Beverly Cupp who came all the way from Colorado to work in the Sub-Depot at Law on Field.

Army-Navy–

(Continued from Page 1)

ing Army and Navy Salvage Day an outstanding success. He was accompanied on the tour by L. E. Walters, WPB representative from Atlanta. Lieut. Klein spoke to civilian salvage officials in county courthouses at Cartersville, McDonough, Buchanan, Moreon, Americus, Newnan, and Thomaston.

ASKS SUPPORT

In a statement on the civilian scrap drive, Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of Fort Benning said this week: "The vital need for additional scrap metal to keep our steel mills running at full capacity cannot be too strongly impressed upon everyone. Here at Benning, we have compiled an amazing record of scrap metal collections, and the facilities of this command now stand ready to aid Columbus and surrounding territory in any way possible to make Army and Navy Salvage Day a success. We urge everyone's whole hearted support."

Maj. Gen. William Bryden, commanding general of the Fourth Service Command, also has issued several statements urging support, and has sent a personal letter to the chairmen of all local salvage committees in the state in which he also reiterated the importance of scrap metal in the war effort and expressed hope for an all-out effort on February 24.

In launching the intensive one-day drive, both the WPB officials and those of the armed forces urged the civilian committees to do as much of the collection work as possible themselves, then call on the Army and Navy for help where it is really needed.

In a statement early today, Col. Massey said that he had not as yet had a specific request from Columbus authorities, but said that the supply division facilities would be held in readiness for any call either from the city or nearby rural districts.

When you see sign "UXB"—brother, beware That means your UXB stands for unexploded bomb!

Classified

MAY AND MASON DANCE STUDIO: Ballroom, Tap, and Jitterbug. Private classes, Day and night classes. 802 Broadway. Dial 2-4469.

Victory Novelty Shop

"Watch for Your Easter Selections"

Gifts, Jewelry and Novelties Of All Kinds

1302 Broadway Dial 3-7808

TO . . .

Company Commanders

SPECIAL SERVICE

Clothing for the Entire Company can be Cleaned, Pressed and Returned . . . WITHIN 24 HOURS,

IF SENT IN ONE LOT

PHONE CITY 2-1641

COLUMBUS CLEANERS & TAILORS

500 - 10th AVE., COLUMBUS, GA.

Missionaries To Visit Post

Priests Will View Soldiers In Field

Sunday, March 14, 1943 will mark the beginning of a Catholic Mission at Fort Benning when thirteen Redemptorist Missionaries and their Superior, the Rev. Joseph Turner, will arrive on the post to share for a week the activities of the Benning men. The priests will live as soldiers, sleeping in barracks, eating in mess halls, and maintaining the rigorous schedule of the Post.

Each missionary, directed by Army chaplains, will travel daily to as many units as possible to conduct services, place and time for which will be arranged with the Commanding Office of each organization. The priests will adapt themselves to the soldiers' schedule in order that there will be no conflict with the training program.

FULTON HELPS

The Mission was arranged through the cooperation of Brigadier General Walter S. Fulton, post commander, and the Most Reverend John F. O'Kara, military bishop, of New York. The idea of the post-wide mission was that Rev. William H. Hunt, chaplain at the Post Catholic Chapel, and World War Veteran.

The Soldiers' Mission will be followed by a mission week for the women of the post. This will include Army nurses, civil service workers, civilian employees and wives of officers and men. Services for the women will be conducted at the Post Catholic Chapel.

MISSION LISTED

The local radio will carry further details of the Mission and posters will be distributed for guidance.

The Reverend Fathers who will conduct the Mission are: Joseph Turner, the superior; Francis Chapman, James Cotter, Francis Dauenhauer, Ambrose McAdams, James McCann, Thomas McCauley, Francis Murray, John Porsse, Albert Schumacher, Joseph Sofka, William Walsh.

Quezon–

(Continued from Page 1)

records and vital papers were entrusted to the colonel and a small group, and they were forced to cross the channel to Mindinso by canoe, bringing the records with them.

Having rejoined President Quezon and his party at Mindinao, Col. Velasquez was ordered to accompany the party to Australia and then to the United States.

This is not Col. Velasquez's first trip to the United States. He was born in the islands, but was graduated from West Point in 1921. He was at The Infantry School at Fort Benning in 1936, and is also a graduate of the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Ration–

(Continued from Page 1)

tables, vegetable juices and combinations.

In the list of frozen vegetables are asparagus, beans, lima, green and wax; broccoli, corn, peas, spinach and all other frozen vegetables.

Items that are not rationed include candied fruits, chili con carne, frozen fruits in containers over 10 pounds, frozen vegetables in containers over 10 pounds, fruit cakes, fruit juices in containers over one gallon, fruit puddings, jams, jellies, meat stews even though containing some vegetables, olives, paste products such as spaghetti, macaroni, noodles whether or not they are packed with added vegetable sauces; pickles, potato salad, preserves, relishes and vegetable juices in containers over one gallon.

Service–

(Continued from Page 1)

utilized for the two cafeteria counters that are being installed, the restaurant in the south end of the Service Club will be moved out. This space then will be renovated and painted and thrown open for various facilities and activities of the Service Club, Major Sutton said.

RADIO CONTINUES

Although fire damaged part of the broadcasting studio on the porch of the club, broadcasting of the six p. m. program "Fort Benning on the Air" was carried on with only one day of the program being originated from the Columbus studio of radio station WRBL. Broadcasting of the Tuesday night show of the Reception Center Chorus has also been carried on from the service club studio. The Monday night radio program "Listen, It's Fort Benning" has been carried on from Service Club No. 2. With resumption of activities at the club, this show will be put on at Service Club No. 1 every other week again. It is planned to arrange a rededication and grand opening ceremony for the first of these programs to originate in the renovated club so that it can be carried to the radio audience.

Member–

(Continued from Page 1)

the army January 22, 1941. If he successfully passes his three months course here he will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army of the United States April 13.

*Drivers of motor vehicles should remain in concealment near their trucks but not in or under them and never gather in groups.

Tank-Mounted Howitzer Aided In Rommel's Rout

Can Be Employed Against Enemy's Artillery Installations

Long mentioned as a "secret weapon" which had helped rout Rommel in North Africa, the M-7, a 105 mm. Howitzer mounted on a medium tank chasis, is now an organic weapon in Armored Force Field Artillery battalions.

Described as a "tank killer," "tank destroyer," or even as a "tank," the M-7 is actually none of these. It is a highly mobile artillery piece to be used at ranges up to seven miles against enemy artillery and other installations. A .50 calibre anti-aircraft machine gun with 360 degrees traverse is mounted in the turret.

CREW OF NINE

The M-7 is manned by a crew of nine. The chief of section has under him a gunner, four cannoneers, a driver, and two ammunition feeders. The M-7 hauls an ammunition trailer, and a half track also loaded with ammunition accompanies each piece.

The 33 pound projectiles fired by the Howitzer have seven charges which are used in accordance with the range desired —the more the number of charges, the longer the range. Artillerymen claim they can lob a shell over a hilltop just like a mortar by using only enough charges to get the big shell over a hill.

WEIGHS 23 TONS

The M-7, the less armor plate than a tank due to an open top, weighs 23 tons, seven tons lighter than a medium tank, giving it a speed of approximately 25 miles per hour.

The Howitzer is fired principally by indirect fire due to the long ranges possible. However, it may be used for direct fire should enemy tanks come within close range. A comparatively slow muzzle velocity lessens the penetrative power of the shell, but the concussion is sufficient to knock out a tank crew when the shell hits nearby.

While the new weapon is highly praised by artillerymen, it brings a new problem to maintenance crews in the artillery. Now they have to know about tanks to keep their M-7s rolling.

All-Time–

(Continued from Page 1)

Strain, chief of the physical training section of the school. Afterward Col. Strain and other officers complimented the class on their performance.

The company is a member of the Third Battalion, headed by Lieut. Col. John S. Roosma, who recently returned from Hawaii with a quickly-becoming famous "Yes-ha" slogan—"Be Alive—Work Hard—Think—Never Quit —Be Loyal." The slogan has been adopted as a motto by companies under his command.

Chasing Fire Trucks Is Risky Business

Chasing after fire engines has long been a time-honored sport of American children which in some cases becomes so inculcated in the blood that it is carried over into adulthood. But it can become costly both in life and in property, Fort Benning officials declared this week.

On some of the recent fire calls in the Post's residential sections, trucks have been forced to come to a dead stop to avoid running over small children who ran out in the streets to watch the engines pass.

"This is a dangerous practice, as serious if not fatal accidents may result," it was said at post headquarters. "All parents are requested to take immediate steps to prevent reoccurences of this nature."

Colonel Harris Appointed G-3

Served As Executive Of 29th Infantry

Lt. Col. Jerome G. Harris, Executive Officer of the 29th Infantry one year ago, has been assigned to the position of G-3, Plans and Training, with the 3rd Army Corps, it was learned today. Just prior to this he was Commanding Officer of the 12th Infantry Regiment, an assignment which he filled upon leaving the 29th Infantry.

Upon his appointment to his new duties, Col. Harris received high praise from Major General Raymond O. Barton, commander of the 4th Division.

Col. Harris has had wide experience as an army officer, having served 26 years. He rose from the ranks to officers' grade during the last war, and took part in all five of the major American operations in that war.

WYNNTON BEAUTY AND BARBER SHOP

We Cater to Fort Benning Personnel

2316 Wynnton Rd. Dial 9355

FORT BENNING PERSONNEL ALWAYS WELCOME!

B & H OIL DEALERS

CITIES SERVICE PRODUCTS

Washing, Greasing, All Tire Services

2835 Cusseta Rd. Mr. Paul Giglio, Mgr.

We Appreciate Benning Personnel

"MOVERS OF FINE FURNITURE"

MODERN STORAGE

INTERSTATE OPERATORS

13 Years of Service to the Army

Burnham's Van Service

12th ST. and 11th AVE. DIAL 8865

Shoe Certificate Registering Begins February 23

In answer to numerous requests for shoes, Sergeant Louis Lipp, secretary and chief clerk of the local rationing board, said that at present it is impossible to grant persons eating in army messhalls certificates for shoes.

Emergency certificates have not yet been received. However, persons possessing sugar rationing books may use coupons No. 17 for the purchase of footwear.

At the same time he added that official registration for shoe certificates and new food rationing books would begin February 23 and last until March 1. Foods to be rationed include canned and bottled fruits and juices (including spiced fruits); frozen fruits; dried, dehydrated fruits; canned and bottled vegetables and vegetable juices; frozen vegetables; and other processed foods.

To take care of persons unable to see board officials during the day, offices of the ration board are now open from 8:30 a. m. until 9 p. m., Monday through Saturday. Sunday, the board functions from 8:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m.

MACK'S PLACE

DINE AND DANCE

Cusseta Rd.

100 Tigers Are Guests

Americus Center Entertains Boys

One hundred Tenth Armored Division soldiers were the guests of the Service Men's Center of Americus, Ga., last Sunday, and were both the entertainers and the entertained at a program in their honor, according to Lt. A. E. Mathews, Special Service officer, who was in charge.

Hot coffee, southern biscuits and honey were served to the men immediately upon their arrival. They were welcomed by Mrs. Edna Brinson, hostess at the affair, and a large number of Americus girls. Following a number of indoor games, Lt. Matthews presented a Tiger Talent Show which consisted of five fast-moving vaudeville acts including songs, instrumental music and impersonations.

Participating in the show were Pvt. Del Henry, Divisional Headquarters; Pvt. Richard Carf, 90th Reconnaissance Battalion; Pvt. Jimmy Morrison, 419th Field Artillery; Pvt. Carl Peterson, Combat Command B; Pvt. Joseph H. Garner, 55th Engineers; Pvt. Robert S. Tellilan, 419th Field Artillery, and Lt. Mathews, who also acted as master of ceremonies. Miss Mary Harmon, one of the young ladies at the Center, sang a song at the request of the emcee.

Servicemen cannot send parcel post packages free. The free mail privilege only applies to first class letter mail—not parcel post

Raider Morgan's Scion Takes TIS Course

Ulysses M. Morgan, now an officer candidate in the First company of Third Student Training Regiment, is a direct descendant of famed Gen. John Morgan who gained fame as "Morgan the Raider" in the Civil War, and is named for Ulysses S. Grant, Federal general.

O. C. Morgan told about it in a note written to the editor of the Fort Benning Bayonet, expressing thanks for printing his poem "Lament of an O. C. S." last week.

General Morgan led daring raids into Kentucky, Tennessee and even Ohio, where he was captured but escaped from the Ohio state penitentiary. He later was killed while leading a raid.

The reduced railroad rate for a serviceman depends on how far you're going. On furlough you get a reduced railroad fare of one cent a mile on a round-trip basis.

Interstate Luncheonette

SOLDIERS WELCOME

Located Next to U. S. O. in Greyhound Bus Station

RECAPPING and VULCANIZING

O. P. A. TIRE INSPECTION STATION NO. 7

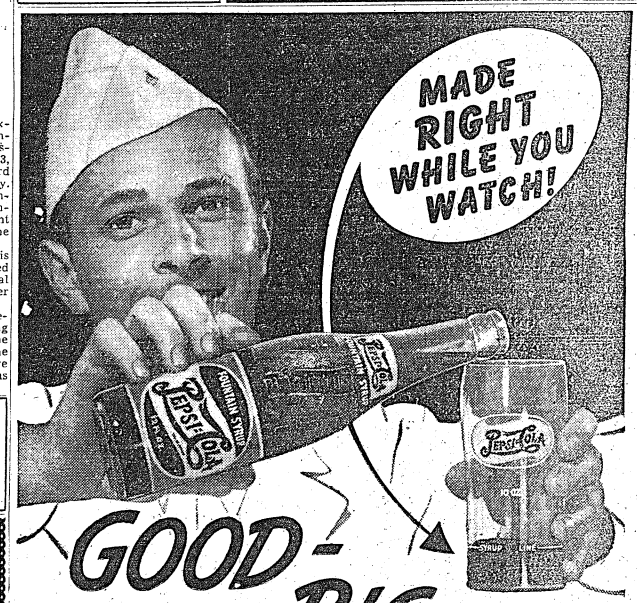
CITY TIRE and RUBBER CO.

1042 WYNNTON RD. DIAL 3-2434

Always Glad To Serve Ft. Benning

BENNING PARK PHARMACY

L. R. Cauley, Prop.



PURITY Carrying the most Complete Stocks in Columbus. ACCURACY

Prompt Delivery

FT BENNING and BAKER VILLAGE'S NEAREST DRUG STORE

DIAL 3-5423 DIAL 9146

2000 FT. BENNING RD.

GOOD - you bet, and BIG

A fountain treat that tastes just right. Sure . . . because it's made right while you watch! Pepsi-Cola syrup is measured accurately to the "syrup line" on the glass. Then in goes ice—and sparkling soda to bubble it up to the brim. 10 ounces tall and full of flavor!

ASK FOR PEPSI-COLA at your fountain NOW!

5¢ BIG TEN-OUNCE GLASS!

FINE IN FLAVOR! TOPS IN TASTE! BIG IN SIZE!

PEPSI-COLA BOTTLING CO. OF COLUMBUS

926 FRONT ST. DIAL 3-1458

Three Fort Sergeants Amass 75-Year Record

One Has Had 50 Days of Furlough In 26 Years

Three-quarters of a century—that is the length of service of three sergeants in the Service Battalion, Third Student Training Regiment. They are Master Sergeant Samuel Sellers with 28 years; First Sergeant Morris Jackson, with 26 years; and Technical Sergeant George Heywood with 21 years service.

All are veterans of the 24th Infantry Regiment, well known at Benning, and two, Sergeant Sellers and Sergeant Jackson once served with General Pershing's Special Guard Unit. Together they can tell stories of the battles of St. Mihiel, the Argonne, Chateaux-Thierry, the Mexican Border, Pancho Villa, Philippines and many another place dear to the memory of the "Old Army." And the odds are even that one of the three can tell you how to get to post headquarters in almost any camp in this country.

CHASES VILLA

Master Sergeant Sellers enlisted in the army, Feb. 13, 1915, and spent approximately one year in the Philippines. In March, 1916, he was returned to the States and to General Pershing's Special Guard, to chase the Mexican bandit Pancho Villa for another year. Sgt. Sellers came toFort Benning in October of 1922. Upon activation of the Third Student Training Regiment in March, 1942, he was assigned to the Service Battalion and received his master sergeant's warrant Sept. 1, 1942.

PERSHING'S GUARD

First Sergeant Morris Jackson, of Macon, Ga., enlisted in the army in April, 1917. He was also a member of General Pershing's Special Guard. In August, 1919, he went to the 25th Infantry and remained with it until 1931 when he returned to Fort Benning and the 24th. He was made First Sergeant in January, 1942 and assigned to the Third Student Training Regiment upon its activation. Sergeant Jackson has had only 50 days furlough in his entire enlistment.

Technical Sergeant George Heywood, with 21 years service to his credit, enlisted in June, 1917, and saw action with the famous 92nd Division. Sgt. Heywood was discharged in 1919 but reenlisted with the 24th Infantry in 1923 and remained with it until the activation of the Third Student Training Regiment. Sgt. Heywood received his technical sergeant's rating in November, 1942.

WE RENT
Sewing Machines
Electric or Treadle
Singer Sewing Mch. Co.
DIAL 3-5381

MPD Commander Gets Promotion

Second Lieutenant William K. Ward, commanding officer of the white military police detachment has been promoted to first lieutenant, according to announcement made at post headquarters.

Entering the service in January, 1937, Lt. Ward served with the corps of military police as an enlisted man at Fort McClellan, Ala., Fort Ord, Calif., and here at Benning. In April, 1942 Ward was selected to attend officer candidate school, and received his commission in July.

Upon graduation he was immediately assigned to the Provost Marshal's office here, and in January, 1942 took command of the white MP detachment.

Lt. Ward now is a native of Arlington, Ga.

Coffeyville, Kans.—(CNS)—Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wright own a hen which they call Betty and which lays Mr. Wright ole fashioned cattle rustlin' is said to be cropping up again out West.

Detroit—(CNS)—Fifty bellboys struck again the Hotel Book-Cadillac "because they were sick and tired of wearing wing collars"

CITIZENS PAWN-SHOP
SERVICE TO THE BOYS FOR OVER 12 YEARS
LOANS
Made On Anything Of Value
SEE US WHEN YOU GET IN A TIGHT
1043 Broadway

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion service 8:30 a. m. Men's Bible class 9:30 a. m. Sunday school in the Children's School 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "Break Forth Into Joy"—Simper. Sermon: Dr. John R. Williams. Offertory: "Rejoice In The Lord"—Banker. Christian League 5:30 p. m. under the direction of Chaplain Frederick W. Heifer. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Frederick W. Heifer.

29th Infantry: Bible study 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplains Archie D. Clark and Edgar L. Storey.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1, morning worship 10:30 a. m. Fellowship hour 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Walter S. Shine.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson. For men of the 4th Bn., 1st S. T. R. and Acad. Regt. Morning services at 8 a. m. Chaplain Glenn S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for the Dog Med. Dept. 9:30 a. m. Also colored Med. Det. service in colored day room 9 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Reception Center Recreation Hall Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:15 a. m. Sgt. Vann J. Malone.

Lawson Field: Chapel No. 2; Men's Bible study 10 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers 6:30 p. m. Song service Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Floyd S. Smith.

24th General Hospital: New Mess Hall, Sunday morning worship service 9:30 a. m. Vespers Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. (In Nurses' Recreation Hall.) Chaplain Archie C. Carroway.

111th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Choir rehearsal 10 a. m. Wednesday evening worship 7 p. m. Chaplain A. E. Christiansen.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 11:30 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and Clarence R. Ritchie.

2nd Stud. Train. Regiment: Chapel No. 2, Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m.; Chapel No. 4, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Edwin C. Wilson.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 5, Holy Communion (Episcopal) 8 a. m. Regimental services at 11 a. m. Chaplain Russell D. Laycock. Protestant service in 5th Bn. at 11 a. m. (Bldg. B-25). Chaplain A. B. Billmann. Colored service 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 86th Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 31st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4 Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2, Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); an dat 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5201, located on the 8th Division Road and Custis Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 9:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area; Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 3 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3 Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue; Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held din Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Friday: Sacred Heart Devotion will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, All Lawson Field organizations, and the 506th, 506th and 507th Parachute Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30, at the Children's School, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road. A fivevoice choir of officers and enlisted men chant the services. A lively discussion led by Chaplain S. A. Shain, concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd Student Training Regiment and the Student Training Brigade: Every Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock in War Dept. Theatre No. 9, (Building B-46), 5th Division Road.

For men of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 764th Tank Battalion, 801st and 802nd Field Artillery: Every Sunday morning at 10:30 in Building B-7. A lively forum on an important Jewish topic follows the service.

For men of the 10th Armored Division: Every Monday evening, at 7:30, in Chapel No. 4. Sergeant Abe Millman will act as cantor.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

FEB. 18
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
8:30 P.M.—"Military Maids and Men"—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS
10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU
11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

FEB. 19
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL
8:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

FEB. 20
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL
4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL
5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC
7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU
7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS
10:15 P.M.—"Soldiers With Wings"—WRBL

FEB. 21
3:30 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—NBC
6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS
7:30 P.M.—"We, The People"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"Hello Americans" with Orson Wells—WRBL
9:00 P.M.—"Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO)—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Report To the Nation"—WRBL

FEB. 22
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Gridiing Limited" (with Orson Welles)—CBS
8:30 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—Variety show, featuring the 29th Inf. Band—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Lands o fthe Free"—NBC

FEB. 23
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Service"—NBC
8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast—WRBL

FEB. 24
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:45 P.M.—"Quartermaster Quarter Hour"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"The Man Behind the Gun"—WRBL

Boys' Activities

Scout Troop No. 11—Fridays.
Cub Pack No. 1—Fridays, 5:15 p. m., Boy Scout Cabin.
Rangers, Fridays, 5:15 p. m., Scout Cabin.
Jeeps—Basketball each day, 5:30 to 6:30. Main gymnasium.
Peeps—Junior basketball team. Daily 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. 29th Infantry Recreation Hall.
Wrestling Team — Tuesday, 5:30-6:30 p. m.

Women's Activities

Current Events—Monday, Feb. 22, 2 p. m. Ladies Lounge. Colonel Reginald H. Kelley, commentator.

—V—

Bridge—Tuesday, Feb. 23, 2 p. m. Ladies Lounge.

—V—

RED CROSS AVTIVITIES
WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., Monday through Friday. Also Wednesday, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. In charge Monday, Mrs. John Jeter; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. Wm. Huffstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes.

Sewing and knitting—Tuesday and Thursday, 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. Paul Newgarden; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

—V—

MOTOR CORPS

Headquarters at 301 Miller Loop. Telephone 2541 for Motor Corps to pick up magazines you are discarding.

On duty Friday, Feb. 19, Mrs. Jack Davis; Feb. 22, Mrs. J. T. Nesbitt and Mrs. George Howell; Feb. 23, Mrs. Wilfred Jackson and Mrs. R. L. Baughman; Feb. 24, Mrs. W. L. Barnes; Feb. 25, Mrs. C. H. Coates.

—V—

FIRST AID

New class in Standard First Aid early in March. Enroll at Red Cross Work Room or telephone 2058 in afternoons.

—V—

PACKAGE WRAPPING

Packages wrapped for military personnel not having families on the post or in Columbus. Red Cross Work Room, 1:30 to 4:30 p. m., Monday through Friday.

Movies

Theatres No. 1 and 8

Feb. 18-19—Three hearts for Julia—Ann Southern—Melvyn Douglas.

Feb. 20—My Heart Belongs to Daddy—Richard Carlson—Martha O'Driscoll.

The Haunted Ranch—with The Range Busters.

Feb. 21-22—Three Hearts For Julia—Ann Sothern.

Feb. 23—Keeper Of The Flame—Spencer Tracy, Katherine Hepburn.

Feb. 24—The Amazing Mrs. Holliday—Deanna Durbin, Edmund O'Brien.

Theatres No. 4 and 5

Feb. 18—Hitler's Children—Tim Holt, Bonita Granville.

Feb. 19-20—Star Spangled Rhythm—All-Star Cast.

Feb. 21—Keeper Of The Flame—Spencer Tracy, Katherine Hepburn.

Feb. 22—My Heart Belongs To Daddy—Richard Carlson, Martha O'Driscoll; Haunted Ranch—The Range Busters.

Feb. 23-24—Three Hearts For Julia—Ann Sothern, Melvyn Douglas.

Theatres No. 6 and 7

Feb. 18-19—They Got Me Covered—Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour.

Feb. 20—Keeper Of The Flame—Spencer Tracy, Katherine Hepburn.

Feb. 21-22—Star Spangled Rhythm—All-Star Cast.

Feb. 23—My Heart Belongs To Daddy—Richard Carlson, Martha O'Driscoll; Haunted Ranch—The Range Busters.

Feb. 24—Tennessee Johnson—Van Heflin, Lionel Barrymore, Ruth Hussey.

Theatres No. 9 and 11

Feb. 18—My Heart Belongs To Daddy—Richard Carlson, Martha O'Driscoll; Haunted Ranch—The Range Busters.

Feb. 19-20—Young And Willing—William Holden, Susan Hayward, Eddie Bracken.

Feb. 21—Tennessee Johnson—Van Heflin, Lionel Barrymore, Ruth Hussey.

Feb. 22—Keeper Of The Flame—Spencer Tracy, Katherine Hepburn.

Feb. 23-24—They Got Me Covered—Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour.

Theatre No. 10

Feb. 18—Young And Willing—William Holden, Susan Hayward, Eddie Bracken.

Feb. 19—Keeper Of The Flame—Spencer Tracy, Katherine Hepburn.

Feb. 20—Tennessee Johnson—Van Heflin, Lionel Barrymore, Ruth Hussey.

Feb. 21-22—They Got Me Covered—Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour.

Feb. 23—Fighting Frontiers—Tim Holt, Cliff Edwards.

Reveille With Beverly—Ann Miller, William Wright.

Feb. 24—Star Spangled Rhythm—All-Star Cast.

'V' Gardens On The Way

Flowers Are Out For The Duration

Flower gardens will be practically a thing of the past at Fort Benning this year as busy officers and non-commissioned officers and equally busy wives plow up peonies and petunias and utilize the space to grow potatoes, peas, and other vegetables.

Authorization for the use of land behind dwellings of officers and non-coms on the post, formerly used for flower beds or gardens, came from Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general, as a continuation of Fort Benning's efforts to co-operate to the fullest in every national campaign.

WOMAN'S CLUB ACTS

Members of the Woman's Club at Fort Benning have already taken up the idea for V-gardens and Mrs. James Notestein has been named chairman of a campaign to prepare and disseminate information on care of gardens, what can best be raised on various sized plots, seeds and other information.

The club met this morning at the home of Mrs. Reginald H. Kelley, 509 Baltzell ave., when Lt. Col. Benjamin E. Thurston talked on gardening and planting.

Personnel living on the post who have room for gardens are requested to communicate with the Billetting Office for permission to turn their flower plots into vegetable gardens. Many have already done so, and several officers who have large plots of ground are planning on sharing the land with others.

G. S. COMMISSIONER CALLS MEETING

Mrs. Francis J. Heraty, Girl Scout commissioner, has called her monthly leaders meeting for Friday, Feb. 19, at 11:30 a. m. in her home 501 Running ave. Plans for scout programs for the coming months will be discussed Luncheon will follow.

To render airmen immune to dangerous ultra-violet rays, a new type of glass has been developed for use in airplane cabins.

Miss Knoblock Joins WOWS

Miss Anna Louise "Knobby" Knoblock, well known as a former telephone operator at Fort Benning, is now a WOW in more ways than one.

Miss Knoblock is among the first of the new women grease monkeys to begin duty in the WOWS (Woman's Ordnance Workers Service), a women's unit which can now be added to the WAACS and the WAVES.

Her duties consist largely of nursing ailing tanks for the Eighth Armored Division at Camp Campbell, Kentucky. Here at Fort Benning many women civilian employees are on duty at Lawson Field in aircraft maintenance, although no WOWS have yet be assigned.

She is the daughter of Maj. C. F. Knoblock, Camp Campbell.

Youthful O.C. Is Crackshot

Won Two Medals At Camp Perry Meet

Officer Candidate Edward G. Hail of the Seventh Company Third Student Training Regiment has just passed his nineteenth birthday. He is the son of Mrs. Edward L. Hail, 43 Congdon St., Providence, Rhode Island. In his case, extreme youthfulness is not an indication that he is a novice in military training.

At the age of thirteen he entered New York Military Academy at Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y., where he received five years R. O. T. C., training. He soon became an expert on the rifle and pistol range, receiving the high score rifle medal three years in succession.

In 1941, Hail attended the National Matches at Camp Perry with the Rhode Island Civilian Rifle Team and returned with two more medals for his collection. With this is a background, it was little trouble for him to shoot an expert score on the McAndrew Range.

His association with firearms led to a fondness for them. At his home in Providence, Rhode Island, he has a fine collection of weapons, old and new.

Not content to be an expert with firearms, Candidate Hail is a master of Judo, having studied under a Japanese instructor in New York City.

Scott Syndicate Founder's Scion Inducted Here

A typical brand new soldier is William A. Scott, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., who has been outfitted with olive drab fresh from the Quarter Master Supply shelves at the Reception Center. Flicking a bit of string from his creased trousers, he told an interviewer, "My impression of the whole thing is to hurry and get the job over with."

Young Scott is the son of the late W. A. Scott, Sr., founder of the Scott Newspaper Syndicate now publishing colored newspapers throughout the Southeast.

Private Scott was a sophomore at Morehouse College, when he received his draft papers, with journalism and photography as his prize interests, he states. He served as sports writer and cameraman for the Atlanta Daily World.

A brother, Robert S. Scott, according to the twenty-year-old soldier, is expected to be inducted soon, thus running up a perfect one percent for manpower of the W. A. Scott family under arms.

Ellicottville, N. Y.—(CNS)—"A darned tough piece of beefsteak" caused Mrs. Mary Linsler to lose her last tooth recently as she celebrated her 102nd birthday.

WE STILL REPAIR WATCHES
KROGLAND'S CLOCK SHOP
1142 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

500 Soldiers To Be Art League Guests

Free Ducats Are Available For Concert By Yehudi Menuhin

Through the courtesy of the Three Arts League of Columbus 500 soldiers will have the opportunity of hearing the world renowned Yehudi Menuhin when he appears at the USO club at 100 Ninth street Tuesday, Feb. 23.

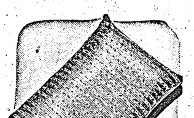
Eugene J. Bergman, director of the club has arranged to distribute these tickets to all service organizations at Fort Benning and those located in the city. Soldiers desiring to attend this performance can secure tickets from any of the USO clubs in Columbus, the service clubs located at Fort Benning, or any of the other service clubs such as the Lutheran Service Center, Masonic Service club, The Elks club, and the two church service centers operated by the Trinity Episcopal church and First Presbyterian church.

This is the third of the concert series offered by the Three Arts League of Columbus and for each of these concerts the League has contributed 500 soldier tickets to the USO club, operated by the National Catholic Community Service and the Jewish Welfare Board.

Lts. Bohannon, Bright Are New Captains

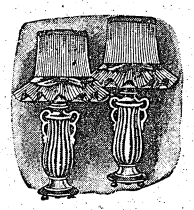
Promotions of Lieutenant Ralph W. Bohannon and Harry R. Bright to the rank of captain have been announced by their commanding officer, Col. R. H Lord, of the Third student Training Regiment in the Infantry School.

Captain Bohannon, a native of Boaz, Ala., graduated from Officer Candidate School on Sept 26, 1941, and has been assigned to the Third Regiment Personnel Office since that date.



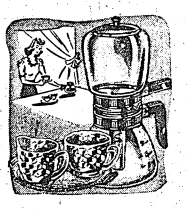
Captain Bright, whose home is in Columbus, Ga., graduated from the Infantry Officer Candidate Class on Sept. 27, 1941. He served as adjutant to the First Officer Candidate Battalion and later was assigned to the Second Student Training Regiment. He became adjutant of the Third Student Training regiment upon its activation in March, 1942.

ATTENTION!
ALTERATIONS
Sewings Of All Kinds
Edna Melvin
1008 BROADWAY
9652 Day — 2-1220 Night



Through These Portals - - -
Pass The Best Soldiers On Earth
P. S. STORES
Our Hours Are Your Hours In That We Observe Fort Benning Time
Military Supplies
926 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

Sears FEBRUARY FURNITURE AND RUG SALE

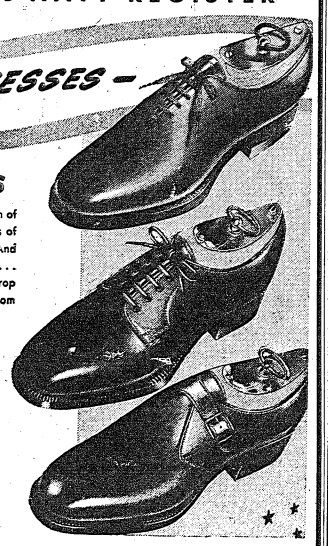


Cotton Pillows
Reg. 1.00! 88c
Plump, well filled pillows at a hard-to-believe price! New, clean cotton filling and cover of durable ticking. Save more on several!

Buy Them in Pairs!
Boudwoir Lamps
1.29 ea.
Lovely pastel pottery bases with matching fluted shades! You'll want two to use on either end of dresser or vanity! And you can afford it at this low price!

8-Cup Vacuum Coffee Maker Special BUY!
Complete with creamer, sugar and tray 2.59
Hurry to take advantage of this special February Sale offer! You get a handy sugar and creamer with tray — as a gift with this grand coffee maker! Note heat-proof handles on both top and bottom!

SALE! "Cat-tail Dish Set
35-Pc. Set
5.49 Complete
A special offer for the February Sale only! Complete service for six with matching sugar and creamer! Popular modern design . . . , scarlet and black cat-tails on a creamy ground. Extra pieces may be ordered from open stock.



SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.
1221 BROADWAY 2ND FLOOR DIAL 3-4351

AS SEEN IN ARMY AND NAVY REGISTER

DECISIVE SUCCESSES — on three fronts

Army, Navy or Marines . . . no matter what your branch of service . . . or where you serve . . . you'll find thousands of fellow officers wearing Winthrop Military Oxfords. And there's a reason! Up-to-the-minute, authentic styling . . . topflight quality and reasonable prices make Winthrop stand for the finest in Service footwear with officers from coast to coast.

ALWAYS FIRST WITH ALL THAT'S NEW!
Winthrop Shoes
$9.00 TO $9.50

Soldiers holding No. 17 coupon must use same. Otherwise they must secure certificate from Sgt. Lipp, provost marshal's office.

MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE CO.
Where the New Styles are Shown First

Army Supplies
Novelties
All Toilet Items
H. C. SMITH DRUG STORE
One of Columbus' Oldest
1002 BROADWAY

AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY
And Property Damage Rates Reduced
Plus our dividend saving, makes net cost exceptionally low. It will pay you to keep your insurance. We write all lines insurance at a saving to policy holders.
The Lawrence Murray Agency
112—12th Street Phone 2-3345

We Serve Fort Benning - - -
We are proud of our relations with the world's largest Infantry School, Fort Benping . . . and may we continue to serve.
BUY MORE WAR BONDS!
2332 Cusseta Rd. 221-12th St.
Wells DAIRIES COOPERATIVE
2320 Wynn. Rd. 1140-13th St.
DIAL 3-3651

FORT BENNING BAYONET

Published By The Ledger-Enquirer Co. For America's Most Complete Post

VOLUME 1, NUMBER 24 — FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1943. — PRICE FIVE CENTS

WAAC Unit To Arrive Soon

Thru The Peepsight

G. I. Summary Of World News

BY SGT. O. J. REMINGTON

THERE WILL BE a lot of extra notches taken in the collective belt of the entire nation as a result of food rationing which this week becomes a sterner reality. All over the country Johnny G. Public—not to mention soldiers who are quartered off their posts—wrestled with forms and blanks and began learning the complications of the point system of rationing. Of one thing they all were certain: There won't be as much food on the nation's table and it'll be a great deal more complicated for householders to buy.

But nobody seems to be complaining very much about it. The food shortage brings home to the average family as never before the fact that our Nation is engaged in a grim and desperate struggle. Everybody realizes, too, that there probably will be more tightening of belts before the thing is over.

REVERSES SUFFERED BY our troops in Tunisia, sinking of more ships in the Atlantic, official statements by the president and other high officials, all emphasize the fact that a few victories in Northern Africa did not justify the wave of optimism and ease feeling that "The war-will-now-soon be-over" which swept a lot of people off their feet. Such false optimism really is dangerous, it was pointed out from Washington.

Green American troops are being hardened and toughened under the only conditions that troops can actually become seasoned—through actual combat—in Northern Africa. Rommel has come out of his strongholds in Tunisia and has smashed with overwhelming armor and fire power at the thin American lines, forcing them backwards. A lot of the same people who were over-enthusiastic about preliminary victories now are swinging the other way—which can be just as dangerous to a nation at war. We must expect plenty of reverses and plenty of losses before we finish this thing, Washington warns us.

ON THE BRIGHT side of the ledger, the Russian advances are carrying them beyond even their push of last winter—truly a severe blow to the Nazis. Europe continues to be fanned by rumors that the Axis powers will put out peace feelers. Where there is so much smoke there must be some fire. But it is difficult in this particular war to separate rumors from propaganda engendered by the Nazis. German propaganda efforts continue to magnify the Bolshvist "peril" to the rest of Europe. Obviously an effort to stir up dissention among the United Nations.

Italian news sources are "forecasting" that the Nazis will withdraw troops from the entire Ukraine to avoid threatened encirclement by the Red Army. At present writing, the Red s are blasting their way steadily toward the Dnieper River.

American planes hammered the Italian ports of Naples and Crotan during the week in daring daylight raids. RAF bombers continued smashing away at German submarine bases and factory towns. Italian communiques claimed that the Fascist planes were bombing Tripoli and Beirut.

THE VISIT OF Madame Chiang Kai-Shek to Washington electrified the senate and the house during the week. She told the congress that the Americans have every right to be proud of their fighting men, and called for the eventual doom of the Japanese empire.

Earlier, President Roosevelt's Lincoln day talk had promised American men and more equipment to push the Japs out of China. Japan's answer has been a terrific 7-point drive to attempt to clean up Chinese resistance. Apparently the Japs fear that mounting Russian successes together with growing power of Americans through production of planes and ammunition and the growing ability to put more men into the field, will mean that more help will soon be given to the gallant Chinese. If they can crush the Chinese armies before that happens, their position will be very much strengthened. So far the success of the Japanese attempts to wage a full scale major offensive all through the tremendous length and breadth of China remains doubtful.

THE HUNGER STRIKE of Mohandas K. Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, has focussed attention once more on the Indian problem and American leaders are beginning to declare that this problem must be solved, and that soon. At last reports, Gandhi's condition was very weak.

SPEAKING OF RUMORS, Europe continues to be flooded with whispers of a gigantic American invasion this year. Probably these are based on the fact that our Navy has actually exhibited hundreds of huge landing craft which can pour not only troops but tanks, directly on a foreign shore. Maritime authorities have long said that until such barges could be perfected and then built, a full scale invasion attempt would be folly. With these barges now being built, supplies as well as men can be landed so that an invasion can be attempted with some hope of furnishing food and ammunition after a beach head has been established.

In the war at sea, however, comes the bad news that the Argonaut, largest American submarine, has been lost. In addition, Axis subs have sunk two large merchant marine ships in the North Atlantic. Actually this news is more spectacular than it is serious, for even greater losses are bound to occur.

ARC Starts Fund Drive Next Monday

Receipts To Be Used To Benefit Military Personnel

Fort Benning's War Fund Drive will be launched Monday concurrently with the national appeal of the American Red Cross for funds which will be used to benefit military personnel and their dependents in need during emergencies in this country and overseas.

Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of Fort Benning, has accepted the invitation of the Red Cross to serve as honorary War Fund chairman of the campaign at the post. Major H. C. Chapman, chief of the Intelligence Division, will serve as executive officer of the drive.

The wives of four general officers at Fort Benning are coordinating the work of many women volunteers who will staff collection booths located at various places throughout the post from March 1 through March 15. Collection boxes will be placed in officers clubs and messes, the bank, postoffice, theaters, post exchanges and commissary.

VOLUNTEERS

Mrs. Walter S. Fulton, chairman of the Fort Benning auxiliary of the Red Cross; Mrs Leven C. Allen, Mrs. Paul W. Newgarden and Mrs. George P. Howell, as well as scores of other officers' wives, have volunteered to help the local chapter raise funds for the campaign.

Eugene Bussey, field director of the Red Cross chapter at Fort Benning, points out that any and all contributions to the War Fund appeal will be gratefully received, since the quota for the national drive is set at $125,000,000.

Although a recent directive from the War Department forbids the solicitation of contributions from enlisted men of the armed service for the War Fund Drive, there would be nothing to prevent soldiers from voluntarily making contributions.

Fort Benning's Red Cross chapter during 1942 served more than 15,000 soldiers at the post. If these soldiers were placed in single file, one arms length apart, their way steadily toward the Dnieper River. the line would extend about 10 miles long or about as far as from the Red Cross building on the Main Post to Broadway and 13th street in Columbus.

While many military and civilian personnel at the post may not be acquainted with the work of the local field headquarters, it was pointed out that Mr. Bussey and his staff of 13 assistant directors keep the doors of the Red Cross at Benning open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

POST ACTIVITIES

Mr. Bussey and six assistant directors are stationed at the Main Post. four assistants are located in the 10th Armored Division. two in Harmony Church, and one in the Alabama Parachute Area.

Last year the Fort Benning Red Cross provided financial assistance to soldiers at the post totaling $101,500.

All in a day's work, but points which make the work of the Red Cross important and significant. are the following figures which show the vast scope of activities of the chapter here:

The total telegrams received at

(Continued on Page 7)

Won Silver Star In 1918; Didn't Know It

Capt. Cornelius C. Koert of "C" Company. Maintenance Battalion, 10th Armored Division, won a highly prized medal in the last war which he didn't know about.

Writing for a copy of his citation authorizing him to wear the Purple Heart, he learned he had also won the Silver Star for gallantry" in leading his men in the 105th Infantry, 27th Division, through a battle on the Hindenburg line just 43 days before the Armistice.

Though draft exempt, the former sergeant applied for a commission. was made a captain November 4, 1942, and immediately assigned a company — without a refresher course.

Army Trucks Help Gather Scrap Metal

Record Collection Made In District, Col. Massey Reports

Army trucks and soldeirs from Fort Benning aided civilian committees in Columbus yesterday as they collected a record amount of scrap metal as the citys contribution to the Army and Navy Salvage Day drive which was staged all over Georgia.

Col. Stephen B. Massey, director of supply, dispatched five trucks early yesterday morning. and they were busy all day making trips about the city to collect piled-up scrap which had been gathered in central locations. Each truck was manned by two soldier helpers in addition to the driver.

The trucks were sent in response to a request from Crawford Key, chairman of the scrap salvage committee of Muscogee county. Throughout the state, Army camps and naval stations sent help to surrounding communities in an attempt to make it a "red letter day" in the collection of much-needed scrap metal. The entire project was sponsored by the War Production Board in cooperation with the armed forces.

CUT UP CAR BODIES

Earlier in the week, acetylene torches and trained operators from the ordnance motor transport branch at the post were sent to Ellaville, Ga., to cut up old automobile bodies, according to Colonel Massey. The group left Monday morning and returned late" Tuesday night after having completed their mission.

The old jalopies at Ellaville had been donated to the scrap drive by dealers in that community, but were too bulky o be shipped on to the mills. Since no torches were available there, the town called on Benning for help through the WPB, and it was immediately sent as part of the Fort's policy in furnishing as much aid as possible in an attempt to spur civilian efforts.

MASSEY SPEAKS

Emphasizing the importance of the drive, Colonel Massey, in a talk before the Kiwanis Club of Columbus on Tuesday, told the service group that the need for scrap metal was urgent. He said

(Continued on Page 7)

LOVELY Verna Linnett, 10th Armored Beauty Queen and her escort, Sgt. Phil Lagerbloom, to her right, beam happily over her victory.

Hoosier Miss Named 'Tiger' Sweetheart

Petite Brunette Gets Trophy, Kiss From Gen. Newgarden

Brunette Verna Linnett of Bluffton, Ind., is the queen and sweetheart of the 10th Armored Tigers. She holds her title by virtue of a decisive victory in a colorful sweethearts' contest held at the division Service Club, in which she was selected over 13 other contestants representing every major unit in the division.

A gold loving cup and a bouquet were presented the winner by the commanding general, Maj. Gen. Paul H. Newgarden. But this was not all. After Gen. Newgarden had made these presentations, he decorated Miss Linnett in true military fashion—by kissing her cheek.

In a brief address to the crowd that packed the Service Club, General Newgarden laid down a new objective for the 10th Armored Division when he declared:

WHY WE FIGHT

"We are very glad to have these sweethearts with us tonight because, when it comes right down to it, it is our sweethearts that we are fighting for."

Rousing cheers greeted this proclamation and the roar of applause continued as the General handed Miss Linnett the cup and bouquet. The cup will be inscribed as follows: "Division Sweetheart, 1943. Miss Linnett."

Miss Linnett was the guest of Sgt. Phil Lagerbloom, Merrill, Wis., of Division Headquarters Co., who was beyond any doubt the proudest soldier in the 10th Armored Division when he heard the judges' verdict. The Indiana girl had previously been chosen sweetheart of Div. Hq. Co., and she was the guest of the company all day prior to the contest.

THE JUDGES

Judges of the contest were Mrs. Newgarden, wife of the Commanding General; Mrs. Betty Kadlick, wife of an army officer who is now at Guadalcanal and daughter of Mrs. Winifred Baker, Senior hostess at the Service Club; Col. Julian E. Raymond, chief of staff; Sgt. Carl Neu and O. J. Remington of the Fort Benning Public Relations Office, and Sgt. Walter H. Sides, Jr., of the 3rd Armored Regiment.

The contest began shortly after the arrival of General Newgarden and his party. Escorted by their soldiers, the unit sweethearts entered the ballroom individually, walked down an aisle in the sea of khaki and took their places on elaborate thrones that had been prepared earlier by the various units. The judges then made their decision and the division sweetheart mounted a special throne of white, after which she officially launched the ball.

SPECIAL GUEST

A special guest of the evening was Miss Anna Huie of Detroit, Mich., attractive daughter of Pvt. Clarence Y. Huie of Division Headquarters Co. Miss Huie was dressed in Chinese costume and was escorted by her father and Sgt. Harry Dunaway who were also in Oriental costumes.

During the day the sweethearts

(Continued on Page 7)

Prizes Given At Big Review

507th Paratroopers Honor Crack Shots

Climaxing 20 weeks of intensive training, members of the 507th Parachute Infantry Regiment staged a regimental review Saturday, during which prize-winning squads in various martial activities leaped from speeding planes, assembled and received awards for excellence in training.

Members of the prize-winning squads flew overhead in three transports, escorted by fighter planes. Awards were presented by Brig. Gen. George P. Howell, accompanied by Col. George V. Millett, Jr., commanding officer of the 507th, and by Captain Ben Z. Houston, General Howell's aide.

Highest individual rifle marksmanship honors went to Pvt. William E. Stoler, Co. H, scoring 293 out of a possible 300. Second honors went to Pvt. Michael J. Ostrosky. Headquarters 3rd Battalion, who scored 291 out of a possible 300. Both these men were given engraved gold wrist watches.

MORTAR SQUAD AWARD

The best 60 millimeter mortar squad award in the regiment went to A Company of the 1st Battalion. The following men formed the squad: Sgt. J. E. Kennelly, Pvt. P. R. Kuntz, Pvt. C. Pacifica, Pvt. Anthony J. Conley, Pvt. G. E. Newman and Pvt. B. Aro.

Third Battalion Headquarters Company won the award for having the best light machine gun squad in the 507th. The squad was composed of the following: Sgt. R. C. Hughley, Sgt. R. D. Sunsberg. Staff Sgt. J. E. Tessier, Pfc. D. L. Carlino, Pvt. R. J. Queen. Pvt. A. J. Bruggerman, Pvt. R. W. Hudsmith, Pvt. M. G. Ohstrom. Pvt. C. E. Walker.

For having the best rifle squad,

(Continued on Page 7)

Mean Measles Mars Man's Mighty Moment

Sgt. Phil Lagerbloom of Merrill, Wis., Division Headquarters company, 10th Armored Division, wore a flush of victory as his sweetheart was chosen Queen of the Division at a Valentine party recently, winning out over 13 other contestants.

Today the flush turned more or less permanent and was diagnosed as a case of measles. His trueheart, Queen Verna Linnett, a nurse in Wells County Hospital, Bluffton, Ind., has left for her home so he is being nursed by less glamorous but nonetheless efficient Army nurses.

Sparks Okehs Paved Roads

Alabama Area Seeks 4th SC's Approval

Approval of a paving project to serve the 506th Parachute area in Russell county, Alabama, has been secured from Gov. Chauncey Sparks and highway officials by a delegation of Army officials from Fort Benning and Russell county officials.

The proposed project, if concluded as originally planned, will give paratroopers in Alabama four paved outlets totaling 45 miles and connect the area with three railroad points instead of one, as at present. The next step toward the realization of the project is to secure from the Fourth Service Command Engineers a declaration that the paving is a war necessity.

The roads included in the project extend from the parachute area to a point two miles south of Phenix City, to Seale, Cottonton, and the Chattahoochee river. They would directly connect the main post of the area with the Seaboard Railway at Cottonton, the Central of Georgia at Seale and all lines entering Columbus and Phenix City.

Col. John P. Edgerly, executive officer at Fort Benning, and Capt. J. A. Baird represented the Benning Army Engineers. Members of the delegation expressed belief that the Fourth Corps Area Engineers will sanction the project, and paving will begin as soon as plans and specifications can be drawn and the necessary routing and grading completed by the state highway department. It is set if county commissioners will supply rights of way, it is understood. Paving will be done by the Federal Bureau of Roads.

43rd Company Will Staff Headquarters, Theaters

Auxiliaries To Replace Soldiers In Non-Military Assignments

The 43rd Post Headquarters Company of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps will arrive at Fort Benning in the near future, it was disclosed today by Lt. Col. J. D. Rosenberger, Jr., chief of Personnel Branch at Post Headquarters.

Trained to replace soldiers in non-military duties, the 150 auxiliaries of the WAAC will assume clerical jobs in Post Headquarters, various theaters, and service clubs.

Barracks for the company have been ready for, occupancy for two months, located near Ingersoll, southwest of the Officers Club on the Main Post. Arrival of the WAAC unit has been expected for some time, but the movement of the company was delayed.

The much-discussed topic of the assignment of the WAACs to Fort Benning has been a popular subject of many soldier bull-sessions meanwhile.

First soldiers to get their bid in for popularity among the WAACs are members of Colonel Stephen B. Massey's Supply Division who constructed the frames for the double-decker bunks for the barracks. These soldiers, further seeking the approbation of the WAACs, will actually make up the bunks for the khaki clad women, preparatory to their arrival here.

Although the WAACs will not replace civilians in jobs on the reservation, it was pointed out that the auxiliaries will definitely relieve military personnel in non-military positions.

Smartly uniformed WAACs will shortly be seen in cashier's booths at the various post theaters, as ushers and projectionists also. Other women will be assigned to the several Service Clubs on the post where they will assist the hostesses as aides.

The clerical platoon of the Headquarters Company will take over stenographic and other duties at Post Headquarters and other offices on the Main Post.

Comprising about 150 auxiliaries, comparable to privates in the Army, the Company will be commanded by a First Officer, whose rank is similar to that of a Captain in the Army. The Second Officer of the Company, who ranks with a first lieutenant in the Army, will be the executive and police officer of the company.

A Third Officer of the Company, whose rank is similar to that of a second lieutenant in the Army, will be the company's supply and mess officer. One First Leader, ranking with a First Sergeant, will carry out the many administrative duties of the company, ensuring the women passes to Columbus and sundry other tasks all first sergeants are well trained in.

All of the personnel of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps

(Continued on Page 7)

Canadian Unit Will Salute Post Generals

Fulton And Howell To Be Honored By 'March Past'

Canada's First Parachute Battalion, which had been undergoing training at Fort Benning preliminary to the establishment of a paratroop training center in Canada, will salute Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, post commander, at an inspection and "march past" on Gowdy Field on Friday afternoon, March 5 at 3 o'clock.

Stationed at Benning for several months, the Canadian 'chutists will stage the review for General Fulton prior to their assignment to Camp Shilo, Manitoba, Canada, where the battalion will establish the Canadian parachute training camp.

Lt. Colonel W. B. Webb, Canadian military attache in Washington, will be here for the event.

"Our review for General Fulton will signify the great respect we have for the post commander and, in part, show our gratitude for the fine cooperation that has been shown the Battalion while in training at Fort Benning," Lt. Col. G. F. P. Bradbrooke, commanding officer of the Canadian unit said today.

ENVIABLE RECORD

In accepting the honor of inspecting the unit, General Fulton observed that "the Canadians training here with us have established a most enviable record. The soldiers, many of whom already are veterans of overseas action, have our greatest respect and have further strengthened the admiration we have for our northern neighbors."

On Monday, March 8, the Battalion will pass in review before Brig. Gen. George P. Howell, commandant of the Parachute School in a special "march past" on Gowdy Field. The Canadians have trained concurrently with the Americans at the Parachute School.

WILL AWARD WINGS

During Monday's inspection, General Howell will pin the "wings" on the most highly qualified class of jumpers in the Canadian Battalion.

At both reviews, military and civilian personnel of the post, who are "off duty" during those hours, are invited to attend.

Color guards of the Canadian Battalion will place the American Stars and Stripes and the British Union Jack at the reviewing post to herald the solidarity of the two nations.

The 29th Infantry Band, under the baton of Warrant Officer Albert Andrews, will play at the reviews. In case of inclement weather, Friday's inspection will be held Saturday, March 9.

Heifetz Slated For March 8

Pneumonia Cancelled November Recital

Jascha Heifetz, one of the greatest living artists of the violin, will appear in a recital at the Main Theatre, Monday, March 8, under the auspices of USO Camp Shows. Time of the performance will be announced at a later date.

More than 70,000 hours during Heifetz's life have been spent playing the violin, according to his own figures. That is the equivalent of playing steadily over an eight-year period for 24 hours a day without a break.

The violinist had been scheduled for an appearance in the Ft. Benning Sports Arena in the Harmony Church Area last November 22, but his attack of pneumonia caused the performance to be cancelled. However, Heifetz directed that an album of his recorded works be sent in his place.

That album is now at Service Club No. 2 in the Sand Hill Area and is available for use there, Mrs. Winifred Baker, hostess, announced last week.

Heifetz was the first musician to prove beyond a doubt that servicemen form an appreciative audience for serious music. He is now at the peak of his career which has brought him acclaim in every major city in the world as well as motion pictures. Critics say he is endowed with a fabulous technique, a pure style and a tone of incredible beauty.

Born in Vilna, Russia, he came to the United States during World War I by way of Siberia, Japan, Honolulu and San Francisco. Heifetz was acclaimed by critics as the greatest talent of the generation after his American debut in Carnegie Hall on Oct. 27, 1917 at the age of 16.

Since that time he has made four world concert tours as well as tours of the United States and Canada. He estimates that he has traveled 1,500,000 miles In the course of his career and more than 300,000 of those miles by air. He made his cinema debut in 1939 in "They Shall Have Music."

Chinese-American Soldier Dedicates Life To United Nations' Cause

Pvt. Huie Asserts People of U. S. Must Make Greater War Sacrifices

No soldier in the American Army hates the Japanese more than Pvt. Clarence Y. Huie, who until recently was receiving his basic training with Division Headquarters Company, 10th Armored Division, and who has just been assigned to the main post for special duty.

Pvt. Huie was born 44 years ago in the province of Kwungtung, China, and he grew up detesting the little men who lived on the island off the coast of China but whose eyes were always turned greedily toward China. So when the Japanese began their march of aggression in 1931, Huie dedicated himself to the Chines cause, and he has never since ceased working for China.

After Pearl Harbor his efforts were doubled as he assumed the responsibility of interpreting Chinese needs to his fellow Americans in the city of Detroit.

Huie became, to all intents and purposes, a public relations man for China, and he grew to be a familiar figure at luncheons and dinners sponsored by clubs, societies and other organizations. One of the organizers of the Detroit branch of the Chinese Emergency Relief Society, he was accepted everywhere as an authority on the Chinese situation. It was his performance, however, that kept public speaking bureaus bidding for his services.

PVT. C. Y. HUIE

REPRESENTS PEOPLE

Detroit has a Chinese population of 1,000. Huie, because of his 34-year residence in the United States as well as because of his personal popularity with these people, serves as their representatives on all occasions. For example, he has filled out 80 per cent of the Selective Service questionnaires for the Chinese in Detroit, and incidentally has influenced many young men to join the armed forces. He is godfather to all his people in Detroit and in this capacity he has always been ready to give advice or other assistance. In his words: "When they are in trouble or sick they come to me for help."

The contribution of these 1,000 Chinese to the war effort has been tremendous. There are actually 700 donors in this group, and in 1938 these 700 Chinese-Americans raised $100,000 to express their sentiments about the Japanese invasion of China. They sent this money to General-issimo Chiang Kai-shek—and there was just one string attached: it was to be paid to the assassinator of the puppet president of Nanking, the Quisling of China. The $100,000 was sent in escrow and it is still awaiting a claimant. No one, up to now,

(Continued on Page 7)

455 C. A. Joins Tenth Armored

The 455th Coast Artillery (anti-aircraft) Battalion, under the command of Lt. Col. Charles H. Sargent, Jr., has been attached to the Tenth Armored Division.

Quartered in the old R. O. T. C. barracks on the Main post, the 455th arrived last week from Camp Stewart, Ga., where the unit was activated last year.

Liberty Ship Given Name Of Gen. Henry Benning

The name Benning stands for big things in this war. While Fort Benning trains thousands of land-lubbing soldiers, a 10,500-ton Liberty ship has been launched to carry the name of Georgia's famed statesman and soldier over the Seven Seas.

Both our military reservation and the Liberty Ship, which was launched Monday at the Bethlehem-Fairfield shipyard in Baltimore, Md., bear the name of Brig. Gen. Henry L. Benning who won the title of "Old Rock" for his military escapades in the War Between the States.

The 96th ship to be launched at the yard, the Henry L. Benning was sponsored by Miss Ann Aston Thoron of Washington, a great-great-granddaughter of the general. Several of his descendants, including a grandson, Henry B. Crawford, reside in Columbus.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Nancy Telfair's history of Columbus has this to say about General Benning:

"Brigadier General Henry L. Benning was born in Columbia county, Georgia, April 2, 1814. Being a young man of fine intellectual endowments, honorable ambition and the most indefatigable industry, he quickly began to rise in his profession. (Editor's Seven Seas.

Note: He prepared in the best schools of Georgia before he entered the University of Georgia at Athens, where he graduated with first honors. He began the study of law in the office of Georgia W. Towns at Talbotton.)

"General Benning was one of nature's noblemen, formed in her very highest mould and most lavish prodigality. As an attorney he was open, candid and fair; as a jurist, spotless and impartial; as a warrior and patriot, brave, disinterested and sincere; and as a man and a citizen, his whole life produced in those who knew him the constant vibration of those chords which answer to all that is true and noble and generous and manly. He was a fine specimen of physical manhood,

(Continued on Page 7)

Nothing Equals Day on Range For Unadulterated Relaxation

O. C.'s Discover Rules Are Elusive In Practical Work

For undiluted relaxation, for uncut happy-go-lucky recreation there's nothing like a day on the rifle range. Or so civilians might think.

A merry band of officer candidates entrains at dawn aboard Benning's quaint narrow-guage. A hoot and a huff and they're off to MacAndrew Range, tra-la — just like so many Balkan tourists.

The honeyed voice of the loud-speaker greets them. They note that they are to be constantly amused, that they need organize no wild-flower parties to keep 'em out of mischief.

"First order on the line with slings adjusted; second order as coaches . . . numbers 142 to 213 on the double to the carbines . . . number ones fire with carbine number three . . . number threes dry run with number two carbines." It reminds one of Thomas Cook and Sons' $100 tour of the French chateaux.

Now they have four shots to zero in their best friends. Rules that were handy on the G. T. become elusive. How's it go? Two clicks right at 200 yards will move the strike of the bullet . . . But how far into the three ring is that spotter? What! No sight can survive that many clicks.

DUMMY CLIP

"Coach, moor that scorebook with my combination tool before it blows to the butts. Let's see—E A S S. Or is it W E F T? No, that's plane identification. Coach, of course, I'm not flinching. Oops—smart guy, eh? Slipped me dummy clip. What if I did pucker my lip a little? It hurts already."

"We suggest that you gentlemen using shotguns secure a smaller choke for your barrels," the loud speaker comments, as the first rapid-fire targets rise. Then the creed that one's target may be singled out for special disparagement.

How nice! One may smoke on the ready line. Pencil behind ear, scorebook in teeth, rifle on arm, right hand clutching police-up brass, they reach for a match. Before one can light up, it's back to the torture chamber for eleven shots, standing to sitting, fifty seconds.

CONSIDERATE JAPS?

"We hope that when you gentlemen become officers, the Japs will wait while enlisted men load four rifles," the speaker coaxes as the first three rounds tumble out of an empty clip.

Comes the blessed lunch hour. While moving up the chow line some frightening calculation on the back of the scorecard comforts.

Great thing, statistics. Still a chance one won't 'bolo'."

To keep the boys light-hearted the loud speaker begins the afternoon with a brief discourse: "Any man who can't qualify as a sharp-shooter had better join the field artillery where trigger-squeeze doesn't mean a thing."

Policing one way to the 500 yard line they figure that they have seven shots in the locker and need but three points to qualify. First shot. The devil, those guys asleep again?

"Hey, Mark 53. Oh my, there's that pretty red flag again. Now it's a four. We're in the clear. Last five are gravy. Yes, we know how that General felt after the evacuation of Callipoli. A bad job, but it could have been a darned sight worse."

Back on the train they catch the day's first real smoke.

"Heck, one could go out there tomorrow and shoot expert. It's the weather you know. Bothers a lot of guys. "Fella" over there shot 318 two months ago—barely qualified today.

"Gad, Sir Roger, nothing quite like a day's sport in the field to make a man feel his best. Hey, Smitty, who's next on that cleaning rod?"

When It Rains, It Pours; Even In Army

Even in the Army, where at best most things are uncertain, the old adage about never raining but pouring holds true.

This is especially the case with newly-promoted Captain Clinton Arnett, of Sublett, Ky. Captain Arnett was promoted to his new rank on January 30, 1943, where he is a tactical officer with the First Student Training Regiment. But this last big event in Captain Arnett's life followed on the heels of two others.

On Dec. 19, Captain Arnett, while taking a special course in hand-to-hand combat fighting, broke his shoulder, and was hospitalized for two weeks. He returned to duty on Feb. 2, and on Jan. 16 received news that might have made him break a leg in running to the telephone: he was the father of a brand new seven and one-half lb. boy, Mr. Gary Clinton Arnett, born to his wife, Wilma Jean Arnett, also of Sublett. So when he was made a captain on Jan. 30, Clinton Arnett could well say: "What next?"

Teacher Lauds TIS Methods

Soldiers Learn In Practical Work

Officer Candidate Vernon T. Crouch, of the 21st Company, Third Student Training Regiment, is having a dual experience of learning to be an officer and military leader, and also of learning new tricks about his own profession—teaching and school administration.

Candidate Crouch, who until entering the service last July 23, was principal and teacher in the Shelbyville, Ill., Elementary School, has a master's degree in education and school administration and naturally considered himself well up on such matters.

He believes now that the Army has taught him many things which will be of value to him in his civilian work when the war is over.

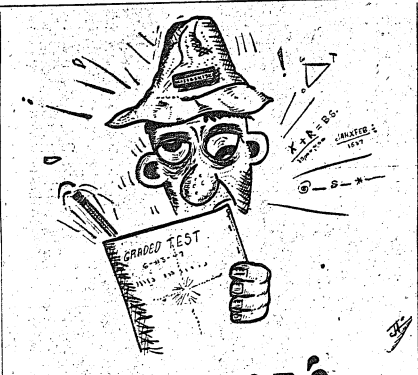
SYSTEM EFFECTIVE

"It is the intensely practical goal in education which the Army stresses which makes its system so effective," said Crouch. "While the civilian educators also realize that 'men learn by doing,' it is the Army which brings this principle to a high peak of effectiveness."

In his own college days, Crouch observed, he never encountered instruction superior to that given by officer-instructors of the Infantry School.

Three things about Army education have impressed him especially:

The detailed advance planning of instruction.



The skillful demonstrations.

The applicatory method, in which the soldier and prospective officer learns by actually doing the job himself.

ADDS INTEREST

"When you actually do a thing yourself, after learning the theory behind it, it not only adds interest to the subject but it makes certain that you actually know the subject in a practical, working way," is Crouch's belief.

The candidate hopes to land eventually with Uncle Sam's fighting, overseas forces somewhere in a vicinity he has already visited and observed — Germany. In 1937 as a delegate to International Rotary, held in Nice, France, he had opportunity to travel extensively, and toured Germany where he gained insight into the tensity and fear which reigned under the Nazi domination.

Icelanders Use Volcanos To Heat Cement Homes

Natives Snare Drifting Hardwood For Furniture

Varied and interesting are the tales about Iceland as told by Candidate Robert L. Burton of the Eighth Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel Thomas R. Gibson.

Modestly, Candidate Burton states that he and a number of other officer candidates at Fort Benning were members of the first American troops to land in Iceland. Some of the following are variations and interests you would find there . . . First, Iceland is not Iceland to the natives, but Island, pronounced "Eastland." Also, America to them is known as "Vineland"—meaning land of plenty. Another surprise is that the weather is seldom below zero, a gulf wind blows about five days a week — once blowing 144 miles per hour while the candidates were there.

NATURAL HEAT

At Reykjavik, the capital, you will find the occupants utilizing volcanic streams to heat their homes, and they also harness the streams for electricity. Their homes are generally built of cement and approximately two-thirds of each wall consists of windows. Inside the homes you will find beautiful hardwood furniture made from wood caught drifting in the gulf and long-napped, white rugs made from Angora goats. Outside many homes it is not unusual to see large American cars or beautiful blonde Danish damsels, at whom the American soldier can only gaze.

The soldiers live in comfortable, round, tin hutments which are easy to construct—taking six men nine hours to build and wire for electricity. They print a camp newspaper, "The White Falcon," with the motto "Our Forces Always Alert" . . . For more information regarding Iceland, the candidates highly recommend the book entitled "One Year In Iceland," which gives its background and the American progress there.

GATOR SILVER BARS

"When Your Bars Have Turned To Silver" was sung by 13 2nd lieutenants in the 124th Infantry as Colonel John D. Hill announced the following promotions:

Richard F. Baldwin, John T. Orlandi, George S. Burks, Thomas A. Larsen, R. D. McGallian, Ansel E. Jackson, J. F. Manheim, Clarence A. Townsend, Willard L. Lambertus, Ross H. Calvert, Jr., James F. Crosson, Jr., Heinz H. Voltz and Lawrence E. Randall.

Ex-Two-Niner Lauds Training

He Received While Assigned to Post

A letter praising his training while with the regiment was received at the 29th Infantry during the past week from former Private D. R. Smith, now a 1st sergeant, who left that organization in August to be transferred to a troop carrier squadron. He now serves overseas.

"I take the utmost pleasure in writing this letter to you men. I must say that I do miss you very much and would like to see my old friends once more.

"You men of the 29th Infantry do not realize how lucky you are—I say that because you are getting the best training of any unit I have seen yet, and I'd like to thank the 29th Infantry for the swell training that I received during the time I was in that outfit. I know now that I needed it, and it has proved to be the best I have ever had.

"Wishing you all the best of luck, I must close hoping that all of you will write.

"Sincerely,
D. R. SMITH.

"P. S. I am sorry I can't tell you where I am, but I can say this much—I am overseas."

Minneapolis, Minn. — (CNS) — The 1943 session of the State legislature opened with Gov. Harold E. Stassen asking the lawmakers to make it easier for the boys to fit into civilian life when they return. Gov. Stassen will resign at the close of the session to go on active duty as lieutenant commander in the Navy.

YEP, THE SARGE SURE CAN TAKE IT

"Can you take it?" asks Sergeant Allen D. Bare of the 29th Infantry; his probable inference being that he can, which we think is pretty close to the truth.

The sergeant went on a 20 mile hike on Thursday night, Feb. 11. On Friday night, Feb. 12, he went out on a 30 mile hike. On Saturday night, Feb. 13, he was married. On Feb. 16 Sgt. Bare was placed on charge of quarters. On Feb. 17 he went on guard duty.

CAMP HOOD, Tex. —(CNS)— Maj. Gen. Charles L. Scott, Post Commander here, has directed that every company commanding officer shall set a time when bewildered yardbirds may come and "sing" about their troubles. Complaining company clerks and frustrated first sergeants can no longer chase away the yardbirds with "G'wan. The old man's too busy to see yuh!"

Former Two-Nine Officer Passes In Lawson General

Announcement of the death of Lt.-Col. Richard Hopkins, former officer in the 29th Infantry, was made this week.

Following a brief illness, Col. Hopkins passed away at the Lawson Memorial Hospital in Atlanta. At the time of his death he was a member of the headquarters staff of the 4th Motorized Division.

Col. Hopkins was assigned to the 29th Infantry in 1939 in the grade of first lieutenant. While there he served as platoon, leader, plans and training officer, regimental intelligence officer, athletic and recreation officer, personnel adjutant, and company commander. He was transferred from the regiment in 1941.

TO . . .
Company Commanders
SPECIAL SERVICE
Clothing for the Entire Company Can Be Gleaned, Pressed and Returned . . .
WITHIN 24 HOURS
IF SENT IN ONE LOT
PHONE CITY 2-1641
COLUMBUS
CLEANERS & TAILORS
500 10TH AVE., COLUMBUS, GA.

Academic Unit Promotes 47

The Academic Regiment of The Infantry School Service Command has promoted 47 enlisted men according to an announcement by the regimental commander, Colonel Harry N. Burkhalter.

Promoted to staff sergeants were Sergeants Fred Rush, William H. Haire, James D. Walsh, Kenneth R. Tubbs, and Daniel A. DiPasquale.

Newly made sergeants are William R. Burt, Sylvester Kalina, Albert R. Cummins, Frank I. Burton, Paul V. Chidester, Charles W. Harris, Vernon D. Brewer, Paul A. Martin, Wilson L. Harpe, Arthur G. Kirchoff, Frank J. Halik, Raymond W. MacDonald, Samuel Mintzer, Bernie L. Sanford, John J. Kraus, William A. Gabriel, Calvin A. Reynolds, and Morris Hirshkowitz.

The following were raised to corporals: J. M. Epperly, George J. Rickey, Newt F. Wyatt, R. J. Clement, Bernard A. Berry, Vermel A. Mayfield, Neal L. Sikes, Julian J. Niedbala, Herbert Benedict, John A. Curran, Harry L. Schommer, Paul L. Moyer, Roland O. Daniels, Elwood Ressler, William H. Roach, Harry Breen, Stephen Stefanka, and Richard J. Meade.

New technicians fifth grade are Walter C. Hunt, Joseph Ecker, and Russell C. Brunner, Jack E. Daugherty, James J. McCormack, and James E. Archambo were made technicians fourth grade.

First Student Training Regiment Promotes Many

Colonel Thomas R. Gibson, commander of the First Student Training Regiment, recently announced the following enlisted men raised in rank as indicated:

To be first sergeant: S. Sgt. James L. Bryant, Jr., to be S. Sgt. Sgt. Nathaniel Hendrix, and Cpl. Ernest Martin; to be Techn. Gr. IV, Walter Trammell, Jr.

To be Cpls., Techn., Gr. V William Hartman and Techn., Gr. V Ernest King; to be Techn., Gr. V., Pfc. Leslie Barnes, Pvt. Herman L. McNeil, Pvt. James E. Moore, Pvt. John W. Mosley, Pfc. Richard Rose, Jr., Pfc. Ralph L. Terber, Richard E. Adams, Gabriel J. Andrasovsky, Robert J. Bergen, Paul W. Brune, Joseph R. Budny, Charles Bursik, Jr., Robert A. DeAngelis, Americo A. Dentine, Bruce W. Fisher, Nelson E. Graham, Donald L. Hanna, Thomas R. Hay, John L. Hildebran, George R. Hudson, Howard M. Kellams, Leo Montini, John Nagy, Richard Shirk, Albert J. Trost, and Charles Zook.

Bicycling Yank Saw World History Made

Candidate Theodore Mashlonik of Lancaster, New York, a member of the 7th Co., 1st Student Training Regiment, could boast, if he were the boasting type, of knowing a little more about the Nazis than most American soldiers. In 1937 he went to Austria to attend the University of Innsbruck and in the two and one-half years he was there saw some interesting affairs.

Each summer he had a three month's vacation and spent it touring Europe, alone, on a bicycle. By traveling alone he was furthering his education since he was thus compelled to learn the languages and customs of the various peoples. His travels took him through Germany, Belgium, Italy and Switzerland. He also stopped briefly in several Grecian and Yugoslavian ports as well as Algiers, Sicily, Palermo, Gibraltar, Lisbon, and St. Michael of the Azores.

AT MUNICH

In the summer of 1937 he witnessed German army maneuvers. He was in Munich at the time the Munich Pact was signed and at this same time Hitler and Mussolini. Mashlonik had perfectly peaceful intentions but it seems several Nazi innkeepers took a dislike to the bicycling American when he kept his seat and continued eating while the German they demanded an explanation, he national anthem was played. When conveniently forgot how to speak German and gave them the run-around in good old American fashion. For some reason he managed to get away with it and returned to Innsbruck.

TIME TO SCRAM

In 1938 the Austrian Anschluss occurred the Nazi authorities overran the country and immediately suppressed activities at the university. It wasn't long before the Yankee felt that it was about time to get back to civilization. He was feeling a little insecure about some things he'd written home about Hitler and the Nazi party anyway so he once again turned his face toward America.

After an uneventful trip home Candidate Mashlonik found he probably had good reason for that feeling of insecurity—those letters had never reached home He's still wondering where they went but not really caring much since he managed to get out while the getting was good. And even though his education was nipped a little prematurely he managed to learn several languages and see history in the making.

LEE'S
1100 BROADWAY
SALE TODAY THRU SUN.
CLEANSING TISSUES 35c Box of 500 14c
CIGARETTES Popular Brands—1.54 Carton 2 PACKS FOR 31c
LEE'S COUPON 50c VALUE STATIONERY 50 SHEETS 50 ENVELOPES 11c WITH COUPON
LEE'S COUPON 1.25 SIZE SIMILAC BABY FOOD 69c WITH COUPON
COTTON 75c Lb. ABSORBENT 29c
25c CRYSTAL ASH TRAYS JUMBO SIZE 2 FOR 25c
60c SAL HEPATICA 49c
1.00 VALUE DOE BLADES DOUBLE EDGE 40 FOR 59¢
INCOME TAX BOOK COMPLETE 25c
CUTICURA SOAP OR SALVE Reg. 25c 19c
POCKET LIGHT All Metal—Complete Army Insignia Reg 1.25 value 98¢
IRONIZED YEAST—$1 Bots. 59c
Wrist Watches $4.98
GIANT BAR OCTAGON LAUNDRY SOAP 5 FOR 17c
LYSOL Disinfectant Reg. 30c Size 25c
REG. 50c SIZE PHILLIPS MILK OF MAGNESIA 12 Oz. Bottle 29c
Alophen Pills Bottle of 100 49c
Bayer Aspirin 75c Bottle of 100 59c

That Extra Something!
...You can spot it every time
There's satisfaction in sending the ball straight down the alley. And a special reward, too, in an energy-giving ice-cold Coke just after exercise. "Make mine a Coke" is heard wherever crowds gather.
A game has to possess an extra something to have such widespread popularity as bowling. That's true of a soft drink. Coca-Cola had to be good to become the best-liked soft drink on earth.
Choicest ingredients and a finished art in its making produce in Coca-Cola a drink that stands apart. Notice how you never tire of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Its taste never fails to please. And Coca-Cola more than quenches thirst. It adds refreshment. Makes any rest-pause, the pause that refreshes. Enjoy it whenever you can.
* * *
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Both mean the same thing . . . "coming from a single source, and well known to the community".
Youth rates Coca-Cola high in its schedule of recreation. Pure, wholesome, taste-good refreshment, it's the just-right companion for games and social gatherings.
Bringing home the trophy deserves a reward. No finer follow-up to victory than an ice-cold Coke right from the refrigerator. How's the supply of Coca-Cola in your home?
Coca-Cola 5¢
The best is always the better buy!
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Pvt. Pooey Goes to O. C. S. And Lasts Exactly Five Weeks

Couldn't Figure How to Get Asthma With Mere Compass

BY PFC. S. B. SUSSINA
71st Engr. L. Pon. Co.

After 5 weeks at Officer Candidate School, Candidate Pooey Blooey was, as they say in the army, "strictly hurtin'". Trench digging was the only problem that had come easy to him—a result of his earlier experience in civilian life.

From the beginning things had come hard for Pooey. The trouble started when Pooey went up for his first physical. He went back eleven times. Finally a small group of eighteen doctors and a specialist held a consultation and decided that Officer's Candidate School would either kill him or cure him. The doctors were kind enough not to state their preference. However, one doctor did state his decision was greatly influenced by the fact that second lieutenants were expendable.

Corporal Pooey Blooey's I. Q. being high enough for his acceptance to Officers Candidate School was the result of an incorrectable error. All hands agreed on that, even Pooey.

Passing the Officer's Candidate School Examining Board was also a mistake. Pooey reported to the board and forty-five seconds later he was ushered out by a major who told the clerk in charge that Corporal Pooey Blooey was a candidate for the nut ward. The clerk, having heard Officer's Candidate School called almost everything, entered Blooey's name on the records and Pooey in due time, became a candidate.

The fourth week brought Pooey up to the machine gun course. Pooney had a deeply embedded fear of machine guns. He felt that they were dangerous instruments that should not be tampered with by mere man. There was a concrete basis for this fear for Blooey knew that one end was dangerous while the other end was practically safe, but he also knew tht he would never be able to remember which end was which.

Pooey sat in the stands and listened to several lectures. He tried to pay attention but that was hard for Pooey. He kept remembering that he was supposed to be student company commander this week, but he had been gigged because he missed bed check. Pooey blamed this on the difference of an hour between Columbus and Harmony Church. Members of Pooey's class spent most of their time trying to convince Pooey that it was not a frame-up.

ASTHMA

Following the lecture Pooey watched a demonstration crew go through its paces. Immediately after the demonstration Pooey went with his group for a practical work period. This period was to be devoted to finding the azimuth from direct north with a lensatic compass. Pooey vaguely understood what was going on, but he couldn't quite understand how anyone could get asthma from a compass especially when the wind wasn't coming from the north. After this glaring bit of stupidity the instructors decided it was time for lunch. As usual the inevitable squawk went up about the food. Pooey told them to keep quiet. Back in the Engineers where he came from, they didn't get anything to eat.

For the afternoon's work it was necessary to move to a different area. They climbed into their cattle vans and moved through the mud. It was much the same as a football game. The trucks went twenty yards and stopped, and then ten yards and stopped, but finally they arrived at the new area.

RIGHT HE WAS

At the end of the afternoon's lecture an instructor eyed Pooey who was hiding behind a big candidate and asked him what was most important in firing a machine gun indirectly. Pooey thought for some time. His brow wrinkled and a frown of concentration appeared on his face.

"A machine gun, Sir," he replied.

Amid cheers and laughter a ten minute break was called and Pooey relaxed feeling, for once, that he had answered a question correctly.

Pooey, bolstered by his previous success listened intently to a lecture on the use of the aiming circle. He couldn't understand why it was necessary to aim in a circle, in fact, he felt that such action might prove a little dangerous.

G. T. EQUALS D. T.

The next day Candidate Pooey took a G. T. which, by the way, has nothing in common with the D. T.'s except that it may cause them. By giving Pooey the benefit of the doubt in each question the instructors gave him a total of six per cent which is unsatisfactory even in Officer's Candidate School.

Candidate Pooey Blooey was summoned before the Commanding Officer who handed him his orders which stated that he was to report back to the Engineers. Pooey reported but the Engineers wouldn't have him, and he is still running around trying to find an organization that will give him a home.

If you should happen to see him on the post, offer him a kind word and a bite to eat for Pooey Blooey is "Strictly Hurtin'."

Separation from family because of military service has no effect on one's personal exemption as head of the family.

CITIZENS PAWN-SHOP

SERVICE TO THE BOYS FOR OVER 12 YEARS

LOANS
Made On Anything Of Value

SEE US WHEN YOU GET IN A TIGHT

1043 Broadway

LT. COL. JONES AND PET

Truck Regiment Has Unusual Dog Mascot

Bouvier de Flandre Creates Impression At Brussels Exhibit

The Provisional Truck Regiment, a part of The Infantry School Service Command, has a mascot in the person of "Astrid", a dog whose breed is practically unknown to this section of the country.

Owned by Lt. Col. Henry C. Jones, Infantry officer on special duty with the regiment, this canine is one of the famous Bouvier de Flandre work dogs of pre-war Belgium, and it has a remarkable pedigree. These dogs first appeared in southwest Flanders and because of their size were used by farmers as all around "work dogs".

Impressing these persons by its ability to stand up under the most rigorous work, the Bouvier de Flandre was entered in the International dog show in Brussels in 1910 and won much favor. Out of the impression created, numerous titled persons acquired these dogs and soon a society of Bouvier breeders was formed. A standard of perfection was set that was ample assurance of a notable future for this breed, and great progress was made to make that part of the world Bouvier conscious.

However, the German invasion came, and when the native population fled, many of these dogs were lost in the confusion. Some were saved, and from that strain a new, better breed is making its appearance. Today "Astrid" is a good example of this breeding. She is black in color, has a large head, and gives the impression of great strength.

She has just recently been returned from Portsmouth, New Hampshire, where she was used for breeding purposes. She may be seen almost any day moving around the area of the Provisional Truck Regiment's Headquarters.

Museum Man Trains Here

O. C. Jenkins Solved Many Hard Problems

Generally speaking, a museum curator could be catalogued with his collection insofar as antiquity of appearance and ideas are concerned. One would scarcely suspect Candidate John Jenkins, Seventh Company, Third Student Training Regiment in The Infantry School of having been assistant curator of Wisconsin State Historical Museum.

His youthful appearance and attitude might be explained by the fact that his greatest interest is in modern art and design. Though his duties might call for him to prepare a display of Eighteenth Century table service, he can give logical reasons why a house designed and constructed in modern style is better suited to Twentieth Century living than a French chateau or an English manor.

A native of Kenosha, Wis., Candidate Jenkins received his bachelor of science degree in art education fro mthe University of Wisconsin in 1939. The same year he became instructor in social education from the University of tion to his teaching duties, upon his shoulders fell the responsibility for planning the programs and schedules of the State art exhibitions.

REJUVENATES MUSEUM

Early in 1942, Jenkins was invited to take over the task of rejuvenating the State Historical Museum. As assistant curator his first official act was to remedy a situation which had for years been a pet peeve. He had all the placards and descriptive labels reprinted so they could be read from a distance of three or four feet instead of eighteen inches.

To supplement the time-honored directory beside the stairway, Jenkins erected frequently changed displays in the corridor of the first floor, advertising the collections to be found on the other floors.

One of his greatest problems was the disposition of duplicate and unusable pieces. For instance, in what was intended as a museum of state history, he had a collection of two hundred Spanish, Italian and French barbers' bowls, as well as numerous watches that someone's grandfather had carried, and souveniers that well-meaning citizens had brought home from their travels.

For Jenkins, there is no conflict in being a curator of treasures from the past and a student of modern art. He regards the works of yesterday as a basis for understanding those of today.

Assistant PRO Gets Captaincy

First Lieutenant Jerome W. Schweitzer, assistant public relations officer, has been promoted to the rank of captain according to an announcement received at post headquarters.

Coming on active duty January 31, 1942, Captain Schweitzer first attended the Infantry School, following which he was assigned to Headquarters, Fourth Service Command, Atlanta, Ga. He came to Benning in July, helping with organization and planning for the "Bayonet."

In civilian life, Captain Schweitzer was publicity director and assistant professor in romance languages at the University of Alabama. In addition to an A. B. and M. A. degree gained at that institution, he holds a Ph. D. degree from John Hopkins university.

Captain Schweitzer, who is a native of Tuscaloosa, Ala., is married and resides in Columbus.

"What would you do," asked the lieutenant instructor in military courtesy at Camp Roberts, Calif., "if you were driving a jeep around the parade ground at retreat time and you heard the national anthem being played?"

"Sir," spoke up one bright lad, "I would simply stop the jeep, get out, come to attention, and salute it."

Officers' Club Chief Promoted To Captain

First Lt. James K. Guthrie, for the past several months, secretary of the Officers' Club has been promoted to the rank of captain, it was announced at post headquarters Monday. Captain Guthrie is a native of Nashville, Tenn.

A veteran hotel manager in civilian life, he spent ten years with the Knott chain of 42 hotels in New York and also worked for the Savoy-Plaza in Gotham. For two years he was connected with Washington's Mayflower Hotel and served as executive manager of the Kenmore of Boston.

Captain Guthrie is a graduate of the Georgetown School of Foreign Service, Washington, D. C. Upon completion of the Infantry School's basic courst last June, he was assigned to the Officers' Club as assistant manager.

Wait Until You Get Straight 'C' Ration Before Knocking Army Grub

Those soldiers who belittle Army chow are the pet peeves of Lt. Victor Bragaw of the 124th Infantry who spent several months since the outbreak of the present war on duty as an enlisted man on one of the tiny but important islands astride our lifeline to Australia.

Speaking of those who complain about army garrison rations, Lt. Bragaw says, "When they eat 'C' rations straight, morning, noon and night with only an occasional break, when a ship comes in, they'll feel differently!

Lt. Bragaw left San Francisco approximately one month after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, and did not return from his island post until eight months later.

He was inducted into the army at Fort Devons, Mass., on March 20, 1941, and received his basic training at Camp Wheeler, Ga. It. Bragaw, whose home is in Longhill, Conn., graduated among the top three of his class at the Officer Candidate School.

Even though "shootin' pay' is out for the duration, you can get $2.50 extra a month for a Distinguished Service Cross.

Lts. Vickery, Cake, Pinson Get Captaincies

The Second Student Training Regiment has three new captains this week in the persons of Capts. John W. Cake, Jr., and Kenneth N. Vickery of Service Battalion and Capt. John L. Pinson of 28th Company.

All three came as second lieutenants from a Basic course a year ago. Capt. Pinson was promoted to first lieutenant on last March 23, and Capts. Cake and Vickery received their promotions May 22. The latter two have been in command of Companies E and D, respectively, of the Service Battalion since those companies were activated Sept. 1, while Capt. Pinson has been in command of the 28th Company for the last four months.

Capt. Cake is from Linhaven, Va., and was called to active duty as a reserve officer on Oct. 6, 1941. He was at Fort Meade, Md., before coming to The Infantry School to attend company officers course, and then was assigned to the 2nd STR on Feb. 6, 1942.

Capt. Vickery is a native of Hartwell, Ga., but resided in Clemson, S. C., when called to active duty as a reserve officer on Oct. 28, 1941. He came direct to The Infantry School for the company officers' course, and was assigned to the 2nd STR on Feb. 6 of last year.

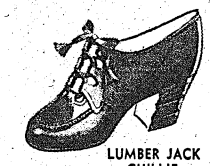
Capt. Pinson is from Dexter, N. M., and was called to active duty as a reserve officer on Oct. 28, 1941. He attended the company officers' course at The Infantry School, and has been in command of OC training company since last September.

WAVES are in the NEWS!

The accent is on waves and more waves for '43. The sky's the limit when it comes to the quality of our service. Come in and see.

JEAN'S BEAUTY SHOP
1212½ Broad—Upstairs
Dial 2-2782

KIRVEN'S



CUPID

MARCEL

Chic . . . Young

RED CROSS SHOES

LUMBER JACK GHILLIE

It's a 'let's walk" spring . . . with a hundred and one things to do. Here are the casual, easy-going Gold Cross Shoes to keep your steps young and tireless. Expert quality . . . worth your precious ration stamp.

6.95

WINHAM

WOMEN'S SHOES
KIRVEN'S SECOND FLOOR

J. A. KIRVEN CO.
YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

Buy More WAR BONDS

It's America's JUST RIGHT drink!

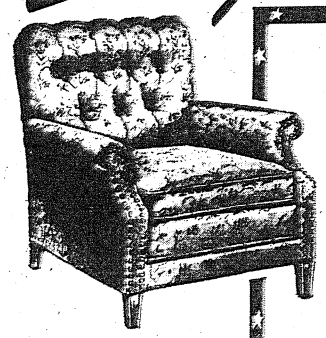
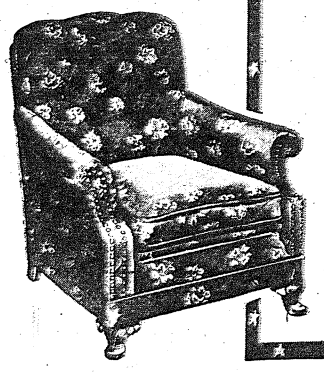
Once you taste it, folks, you're sure to say it's just right, too. Just right because it's made right!

That good Pepsi-Cola syrup is carefully measured to the syrup line on the glass. And when it's shot with ice and bubbled up to the brim, you'll find that's just the right amount for a keen, swell drink, chock-full of flavor!

FINE IN FLAVOR!
TOPS IN TASTE!
BIG IN SIZE!



ASK FOR PEPSI-COLA at your fountain NOW!



5¢

BIG TEN-OUNCE GLASS!

PEPSI-COLA BOTTLING CO. OF COLUMBUS
926 FRONT ST. DIAL 3-1452

Lounge Chairs

SPECIALLY PRICED--

We may never again be able to offer such fine chairs as these at such low prices. Make your selection early!

ONLY 28.50

Here are lounge chairs built for comfort and relaxation with wide spring filled seat cushions, soft biscuit tufted backs—chairs that possess style as well as inviting quality.

Choice of Styles

If your home needs a new longe chair and you do not wish to spend a lot for it, either of these is an excellent "buy." Choice of colors and tapestries.

Chair and Ottoman
ONLY 29.50

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS!

MAXWELL BROS. & McDONALD FURNITURE

Cor. 13th St. and Broadway Tel. 3-6871

FT. BENNING BAYONET

FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1943.
Edited By Public Relations Staff

The Benning Bayonet published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representatives: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

"Success in war depends upon men . . . not money.
—General Douglas MacArthur.

Give To Red Cross Until It Hurts

When one reads about the annual appeal for contributions to the American Red Cross War Fund, he is apt to say to himself: "So, what?" But there are hundreds — and we do mean HUNDREDS—of soldiers at Fort Benning who have found that the Red Cross at this post has solved many a trying, nerve-racking personal problem at all hours of the night and day.

Whether a soldier needs arrangements to care for his sick wife in White Plains, N. Y., or a loan for an emergency furlough, the Red Cross is always on the job willing to oblige. Fort Benning's chapter functions on a 24-hour, seven-day-a-week schedule, constantly on call to help the soldier in need with no discrimination against race, color, or creed.

Clad in khaki as are the soldiers they serve, the Red Cross director, Eugene Bussey, and several assistant directors serve military personnel wherever they may be located on the post.

That the Red Cross is doing ga splendid job is borne out by the case histories of the trials and tribulations which have been solved for soldiers here.

But this editorial is not designed to tell you what the Red Cross is doing. It is taken for granted that every man and woman, soldier and civilian alike, knows what work is being done for us here.

Fort Benning's Red Cross War Fund Drive will open next Monday and continue through March 15. A concerted effort naturally is being made to canvas thoroughly commissioned officer personnel and civilian workers at the post for contributions. Although Army Regulations prescribe that no enlisted man will be solicited for a contribution to the War Fund, there is nothing which would preclude a voluntary donation to the drive.

As in many things at Fort Benning, the wives of several officers at the Post are playing important roles in the fund-raising campaign.

Mrs. Walter S. Fulton, auxiliary chairman of the Fort Benning Chapter of the Red Cross, is coordinating the work of many women volunteers.

Daily these same women roll hundreds of bandages for the Red Cross here; others spend many hours attending the sick at the hospital. The Red Cross is a worthy cause and the roll of workers assisting the local chapter in its work is inspiring. We owe it to ourselves as well as to our comrades-in-arms that the Red Cross War Fund Drive be a success at Fort Benning as well as in the Nation.

In the case of the Red Cross, there should not, and will not, be any occasion for this worthy organization to face financial difficulties. This will not be a case of "Too little too late."

When Will We Learn To Zip Our Lips?

Reams of copy have been written around Fort Benning on the urgent necessity of safeguarding military information, especially contemplated troop movements. Commanding officers have lectured their units on the subject and posters have been made up in the Reproduction plant for distribution in every day room on the reservation. In short, officials have harped and harped on the subject and still, to put it quite bluntly, Fort Benning military personnel and civilian employees as well just won't keep their traps shut. Those who are violating this number one of all military commandments might as well be lined up to receive the highest military decoration awarded by Hitler, Hirohito, and company.

There are certain subjects which absolutely must not be talked about, and a troop movement is one of them. The intelligence officer tells us that the topic is not to be discussed even among the military for God knows who may hear it next. We personally have heard civilians employed at Benning broadcasting contemplated movements of troops from the post.

"Don't you know you are not to talk about these matters?" they were asked. "Oh, we are all in the family," the responded. "Everybody knows it anyway. And did you know that the 'Riproarers' are leaving next week, and that the 'Speedyjeeps' follow the week after?"

Regardless of how many people you may believe already know all about it, the movement of troops is not to be discussed until the move has been consumated and by then there is no point in talking about it at all.

We believe 100 per cent in freedom of speech but liberty is not license. The American people and our allies are going to win this war. It is going to be hard any way we win, but it can be harder than necessary. And one of the ways to make it harder is for all of us to keep shooting off our mouths.

Colonel Raff And His Gallant Yanks In Africa

The story of how a mere handful of dashing, bluffing Yanks captured and held for weeks an area of 10,000 square miles in Central Tunisia is related in a recent Associated Press dispatch from London. The narrator was Colonel Edson Raff, formerly of Fort Benning. Col. Raff was reported wounded in action a few days ago. He has also been frequently cited in the press for his daring action on the battlefield.

Col. Raff headed a United States parachute formation which travelled 1,500 miles by air from England to the Oran area to take part in the AEF occupation of French North Africa on Nov. 8.

In a press conference in London the Colonel told how his untried parachutists teamed with a few British engineers, one small American anti-tank until and poorly armed French troops to wage a free-wheeling warfare against the Germans.

Colonel Raff said the enemy apparently had never learned what little real strength held them out of the great triangle between Tebessa, Algeria, Faid and Tozeur.

The detachments first were based at Tebessa, near the Tunisian frontier. When the enemy failed to make a bid for that point, Colonel Raff obtained permission to roll on to Gafsa. He led his little expeditionary force to that Tunisian rail town with no opposition.

After the group held Gafsa a short time, there were indications the Germans were moving against it in force, Raff said, and he ordered a withdrawal. But the enemy's strength proved to be less than was expected, so a task force returned the next day and mopped up the few Germans who had pushed into Gafsa.

Informed that a tank column was headed toward Gafsa from Gabes, the Americans went out to meet them and learned on the way that another tank column was striking from Sbeitla, trying to cut off Gafsa.

The Americans met the enemy force from Gabes and knocked out six tanks and drove back the others. Then they made a quick reversal of the field to intercept the second German column. They knocked out eight tanks and sent these Nazis also into retreat.

Then came a period of fantastic warfare when the little Allied force would strike out swiftly at some point to drive the Germans out and then turn the place over to French infantry. The Allied force would then move swiftly back to base or try another attack so the enemy could never learn where they were or how strong they were.

Using this device, they saw plenty of Tunisian scenery and managed to clean out their big triangle.

Unwarranted Criticism Of Allies Is Disgusting

General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Commander of the United Nations' North African Forces, recently issued a sharply worded memorandum warning that any American officer engaging in unwarranted criticism of "any ally" would be subjected to the "direct punishment that I can possibly inflict administratively."

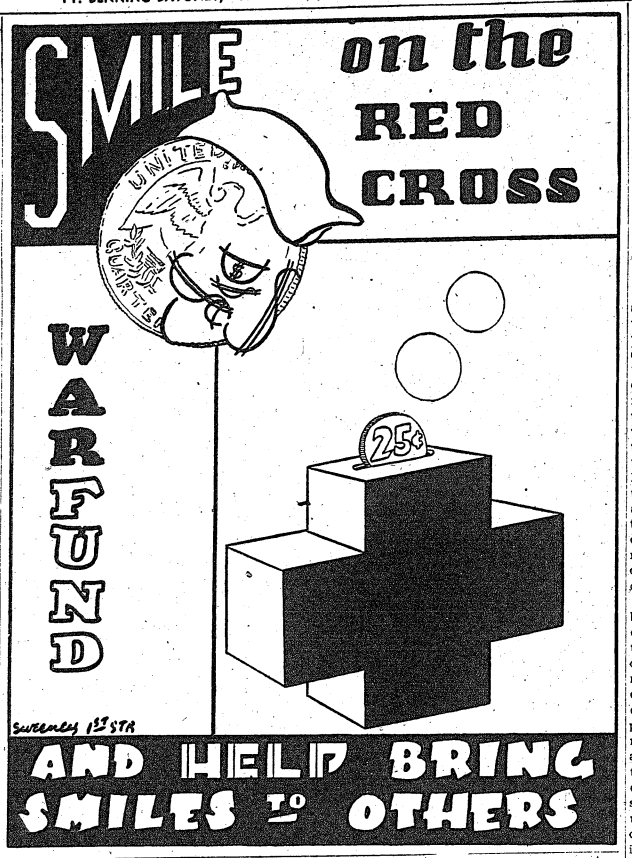
General Eisenhower's decision is a just one and should apply not only to front line soldiers but also to that vast army of officers and men at present still enjoying the blessings of civilization in the continental United States, that group of men humorously tabbed as the "Chair-borne Command."

It is disgusting, to say the least, to hear the untutored lambast the British or the Russians for not doing this or that, and it is even more disgusting when one takes into account the fact that in engaging in such asinine prattle we play right into the hands of the Axis propaganda machine.

We should remember that, the British have been on the grounds for the better part of three years of war and the Russians since June 1941. Their officers and men have been baptised in fire; they are veterans and in recent months their methods have been earning undreamed of success at the present stage of the game. On the other hand our own forces are green and inexperienced and until they have been thoroughly tested in real battle in which our European and African forces have at least equality in number and equipment with that of the enemy, we have no grounds for any criticism whatsoever.

Use 'V' Mail And Save Cargo Space

Overseas mail to our soldiers, sailors and marines last November took up cargo space equivalent to three 11,000-ton Liberty ships, or eight times the amout of mail sent to the AEF in November, 1918.



These startling figures reveal a complex situation. In the first place, all of us in the Service count on letters from the folks athome. Next to food, we think our letters are the most important parts of our daily diet. However, thousands of our troops overseas consider mail just as important. Hence, the mail MUST get through.

Thus this vast number of letters is justified, since they enhance the morale of troops overseas. But we can all do our part in alleviating this trying load on the critical shipping space needed to send ammunition and food to soldiers overseas.

When writing your pal, your brother, Dad, or Uncle in service abroad, take advantage of the government's "V" mail. Besides being faster, safer, and every bit as private as ordinary mail, "V" mail is 90 per cent less bulky. No one sees the letter but the censor, and he sees ALL mail!

If the thousands of tons of ordinary letters mailed to troops overseas in recent months had been boiled down to relatively few pounds by the use of "V" mail which sent on microfilm, the available cargo space in ships may mean some additional 37mm shells or a couple of extra 75s for the boys "over there" who need them.

There's no warmth in a glow of pride. Only those who burn to put things right are really cooking with gas.

USO Presents—

ASSISTANCE IN FILING INCOME TAX RETURNS, ARMY HOUR BIRTHDAY

BY PVT. SHELDON A. KEITEL

The "Ides of March" need no longer hold any terror for Ft. Benning soldiers at least so far as filing an income tax return is concerned, since an income tax consultant service has been inaugurated at the Ninth Street USO. The service, volunteered by Louis Dowdell, well-known accountant, will continue through March 15 from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 a. m. in Club Room No. 1.

Formerly with the Georgia Income Tax Department, Mr. Dowdell is now assistant secretary-treasurer of the Jordan Mill with offices in Columbus. He will not only assist all men desiring to file an income tax return, but also those who wish to avail themselves of the privilege of deferring their tax for the duration. Both federal and state tax forms will be available to all, whether they desire counsel or not.

* * *

A note from the Ninth Street USO reminds us that all regular programs at the club will be regulated according to Eastern War Time... The Thursday night dance there will have a new time, starting at 9 p. m. instead of at 8:30 p. m. and terminating at 11:30 p. m. (EST)... The same schedule will apply to Saturday night dances.

* * *

Mozart's Symphony No. 40 in G minor will be featured by the Columbus Symphony Orchestra in the next of its series of concerts Sunday starting at 9 p. m. (EWT). Soloist with the orchestra will be Miss Ruth Bennett, pianist of Ft. Benning, Pfc. Harold Scheckman, conductor, announces. The concert is open to all military personnel, and all basketball schedules for Sunday are postponed as they were for the Yehudi Menuhin program last Tuesday.

* * *

The third anniversary broadcast of the original "Army Hour," which started over Station WRBL three years ago, will emanate from the Army-Navy YMCA-USO Sunday at 5 p. m. (EWT). E. K. Ackerman, program director at the center, announces from five to six hundred soldiers will be accommodated for the half-hour show in the upstairs lounge. Admissions will be on a first-come-first-served basis, so you better hurry, fellows. You can still grab a bite to eat and make the Columbus Symphony program.

* * *

From a USO club out on the West Coast we hear that the contest fad in Army camps has hit a new high... They're staging a "liars' contest," and the lad in khaki who takes the greatest liberty with the truth gets $15... Tallest tale so far is about Jap soldiers who save their meager earnings to buy U. S. War Bonds!

* * *

Devotees of the disc should drop in at the Phenix City Salvation Army-USO Club ...Invitation is direct to YOU from Mr. George Hardin. program director over there ...A great many new phonograph records have been purchased for those interested in good music... And then there is the Recordio machine ...On it you can "talk a letter home" or record yourself doing an impersonation of that rugged first sergeant reading the gig list.

* * *

Everything from a former Metropolitan Opera singer to a real old-fashioned hillbilly steel guitar player will be included in the musical program to be presented by the Tenth Armored Division Sunday at 4 p. m. CWT at the Phenix City Salvation Army-USO Club.

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

THE OLD MAN DECIDES TO CUT GUM CONSUMPTION TO AID ALLIES

By S-SGT. TOM McDONALD

The subject for today is entitled "The Horrors of War." All we have been reading about lately is rationing, labor shortages, inflation and what not.

"These things," says Col. Swampwater, "are indeed horrible, but think of the wars of yesterday and compare them to the present."

"At Valley Forge in the throes of the Revolution, Second Lieut. Oliver Swampwater (my great grandfather) stood knee deep in the snow and told "traveling salesmen" jokes to his platoon to keep up their morale.

Oliver's second cousin, General Aaron X. Swampwater guarded the harbor of Hoboken in the midst of a raging blizzard, and in spite of the fact that the harbor was a solid mass of ice, not one British ship sailed near enough to molest that gallant defender.

The question of "shoe rationing never entered the General's noodle. He was going barefooted at the time and in one of his many letters describing his experience he says (quote) "The wind was howling through my ears, I had not eaten for two days and my stomach was empty, but tripping hither and yon in the whirling snow to keep my bare feet from going to sleep, I was exceedingly apprehensive lest I step on a nail, and thus injure my foot in such a way that I could not attend the commando expedition at the Boston Harbor planned for tomorrow evening." (Unquote).

"Yes, sir, those were the times that tried men's souls" and each and everyone of us should remember these things when we start to gripe a little about not being able to get three lumps of sugar in place of two, and other such trivialities," continued the colonel.

"As long as there are American soldiers capable of enduring the trials and hardships of total war, we more fortunate soldiers here at home should make all effort to further the war effort until we have an opportunity to lend assistance to those gallant men at the front.

"For my part, sergeant, I am going to cut down my chewing gum chewing capacity from 16 to 12 blocks a week. If it isn't raining outside, I want you to go over to the P. X. and replenish my supply.

"Yes, sir," I said, starting hastily out, absolutely oblivious to the fact that I'd forgot to ask the old boy for one of his hard earned nickels with which to get it.

Chaplain's Corner...

LADY LUCK

Chaplain Frank M. Thompson

The element of luck plays a large part in human life. Even the Lord took a chance when He made man. And the reference is, He was none too highly pleased at the outcome. For we read He repented . . . "that He made man on the earth."

Be that as it may, man also has been taking chances. His very birth is a hazard. He has nothing to say as to his parents, his nationality. And with the handicaps of his forebears, the peril of disease and accident, he has less than a 50-50 break that he will reach maturity.

But there does come a time when he has something to say; when it is no longer necessary to carry a rabbit's foot, or consult the stars. He can stand with Cassius:

Men at some time are masters of their fate!
The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
But in ourselves, that we are underlings.

Masters of their fates does not mean the acumen needed to turn the right card, pick the winning horse, juggle real estate, manipulate the market, for the purpose of getting something for nothing. That is gambling, one of the meanest vices that flesh is heir to. A vice, if persisted in, will drag one to the lowest depth of shame and degradation.

"Masters of their fates" does mean, though, that lady luck has little to do with winning the worth while prizes of life. For written in fire across the sky of every soul are the words, "As you sow, you reap."

The thorns which I have
Reap'd are on the tree,
I planted; they have torn me,
And I bleed.
I should have known what Fruit would spring from such a seed.

Eve Says—

SHE'LL GLADLY RUN TRACTOR IF IT WILL HELP WIN WAR

For some time now the syndicated columns of Ruth Millett have appeared in our daily papers. She unquestionably has been assigned the fascinating task of telling off the women in our country. Her flair for flicking raw the disturbed consciences is as subtle as a bull whip. Her articles are not based on nebulous cases. They are personal guilts of ours and our neighbours.

If her articles achieved the miracle of transforming a nation of the most pampered women in the world to stern realistis accepting each change and demand of war time sacrifice without personal qualifications, her journalistic efforts would be a major contribution to the war effort. My observation of the effects of her articles are a wholesales mass of temporary fury that one Ruth Millett should question their actions which they can justify with a few pat phrases. The accusations can be forgotten until another article bludgeons them into repeated personal affront. Habits of years of indulgence aren't changed in a period of months.

That doesn't mean they won't be changed. Everyone was drafted on December 7, 1941, whether they knew it or not. Of all the countries of the world we had more to give and more to lose out of the richness and conveniences of our daily lives. As in the depression years, those who had money lost it. The improvident and underprivileged had nothing to lose. It's a rare individual today who isn't glad that there was so much in his country to draw upon in time of war. The trivial cheating and dodging of the few is insignificant in the broad picture of willingness.

We were indeed drafted into a war that will leave not a single man, woman or child unaffected before we see peace. In spite of the criticism of the mass struggle of frightened women frantically clutching at the precious remnants of their yesterears, concessions must be made. What of the women whose husbands have lost their little businesses through war shortages, the young wives with infants who have no assurance that they won't be the sole support and only parent of their child, the widows of war casualties, the widows of waiting prisoners, the mothers who shelved bright plans for their eighteen years old that they may serve their country, the women who crowd all defense areas and live in acute discomfort in a last desperate effort to hold onto the travesty of the present day home, the casually kept homes of women who put the energy they once expanded in their homes on volunteer service, the working mothers with delinquent children.

Of all the things which may be asked of us, drafting for war work is perhaps the easiest. After all that only means long hours and hard work. Efforts are remunerative and a physically tired body finds sleep easily. The personal satisfaction and public approval of tangible efforts are so obvious as to make it the perfect and accepted contribution today.

All this because I was caught on two counts in the list of "Some Women Should Be Drafted." Any day now I can expect to be called t weld, run a tractor, or pull sugar beets. I can think of things I'd rather do, but if that be my job, I'm quite certain I'll put as many hours of sincere efforts into the task as I have the trifling occupations of today.

POETRY

HIGH ABOVE THE CHATTAHOOCHEE ON THE UPATOI STANDS OUR NOBLE ALMA MATER BENNING SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

By Candidate Robert J. MacIvor, 7th Co., 3d STR.

No matter where I go from here,
No matter what I do,
Oh, land of pines and sand and clay,
I'm not forgetting you.

For it's fall out here and fall out there
Until the day is done
It's fall out Corporal! Fall out coach!
And fall out number one.

It's hold that base stake! Line that plate!
And line it true and right!
Deflection zero! Give your range!
One round of H. E. Light!

Some days the sweat runs in your eyes
Smeared in with grimy hands;
On some you freeze your very heart
And shudder in the stands.

But it will end as all things must
In a life of wounds and scars
When someone says in a loud clear voice,
"Fall out and get those bars"!

For then you feel that victory's yours;
You're one of those most blest.
You're pretty good. You've won your spurs;
You've passed the graded test.

But ah, my boy, the test to come
Is not of gun nor map;
For though it's fall out corporal here,
O'er there, it's fall out, Jap.

For over there they play for keeps
And if you prove a dud,
The test that you may fail to pass
Is marked in someone's blood.

So learn your lines and lessons well
For that day which must come
When someone says "Fall out my boy,
Your job is finally done."

You've fought the good fight, stood the test
You knew the gunner's rule
You fired a steady burst of six
And kept your barrel cool.

And as for me, when life is done
And age has dimmed my sight
I hope they'll mount an "81"
On some stern rocky height

And there they'll fire one round for me
A round of H. E. Light.

The following poem is dedicated to all the soldiers who have lost their lives at Bataan, in the Solomons, at Hawaii or every where they are fighting.

SOME DAY

Housed in eternal bi[vouac] they are sunk in their last long sleep.
While we are carrying on, with only their memory to keep.
Memories of all the buddies that we once knew,
Keeping our faith in the things we do, and things we hope to do

Memories of days and of places;
memories of places and days,
Memories of buddies, good comrades all, that have gone varied ways.
Dreams that they had, plans that were somehow never done;
Those were my buddies, and together we lost or won.

But some day we'll be together again, as one great Army Corps,
We'll stand beside the men we knew as we have done before.
And Heaven will resound that day to ring of marching boot,
With Creator as reviewer and the angels at salute.

We'll see the same old sergeants,
the corporals and the bucks,
And we'll never have to hike again; there will be plenty of
G. I. trucks.
We'll have the same old "Top" with his same old hard-boiled way;
We'll be together once again on Heaven's Army Day

S-SGT. E. LINSER.

I HAVE MY DISCHARGE PAPERS

By Pvt. Herman Evans

I have my discharge papers
And will soon be coming home
So wait for me, my sugar,
To arrive on native loam.

Now, listen to me, sweetheart
And try to understand
Because my vision failed me
I can't fight for my land.

I was a soldier, sweetheart.
And am a soldier still
For even in civilian life
On to victory is my motto
On to victory is my will.

I was discharged with honor
I got my CDD
I volunteered for service
To keep this country free.

When I volunteered for service
'Twas against my mother's will
But I knew I had to do my share
That I had a job to fill.

I really tried to pass the test
But couldn't plainly see
For my vision never would improve
And it stole my chance from me

So [wait] that I am coming home
dear, sweet face to see
[It] will make me want to help much more
To keep this country free.

Twenty-Ninth Infantry Soldier, Former Sailor, Describes Italian Bombing

Cpl. Baron Suffers Scrapnel Wound In Spanish Capital

There is at least one man now in the 29th Infantry who knows what it's like to experience a bombing.

He is Corporal James A. Baron, former sailor in the American Merchant Marine. Baron's work carried him to the four corners of the earth and back again.

In 1937 he shipped on board a Cunard liner bound for Spain, the purpose of the voyage being to evacuate non-combatants from the war zone. The boat docked in Barcelona harbor, but in two week's time the job had brought him far inland to the besieged city of Madrid. At that time Madrid had been under attack by General Franco's army for many months.

According to Baron, military leaders from all over the world had just arrived in the city to attempt peace negotiations between the republic and the revolutionists. The officers were being welcomed in a public square when suddenly a group of Italian airplanes flew low overhead and, with machine guns, opened fire on them and upon all others who happened to be in the street at that time.

BARON RUNS

With the others Baron ran for safety, but before he reached the basement of a nearby cathedral he was struck in the shoulder by a piece of shrapnel. He declares that it was a strange thing to see military men running to shelter while a group of children who had been playing in the street remained where they were—not even bothering to look up at the planes. "Bombing had apparently become a very ordinary event in their lives," he said.

Baron added that he spent a little over one week in Madrid, and within that time four bombings had taken place—three during the night and one in daylight. "On each occasion," he stated, "the planes, which were always German or Italian, flew very low. The 'protection' that the city had against air attack was pitiful I saw not more than four batteries of anti-aircra ftguns—all of which were manned by civilians. The city of Madrid—or that part of it which I saw anyway—was a complete wreck. In every street were huge bomb craters and shells of buildings.

USO Clubs Film Activities

Gen. Fulton, Post Troops Participate

Nearly 1,000 soldiers from Fort Benning will be seeing themselves in "Johnnie Doe Goes USO," a film now being made by the various USO clubs in Columbus through co-operation with the 161st Signal Corps photo company and officials of Fort Benning.

Pvt. Dale Hendrickson plays the part of Johnnie who goes through a day of activities of the USO, including a dance, basketball game, vesper services, church services, "coffee and" band concerts and many other activities. Miss Marie Fleming of Columbus plays the part of the girl friend from "Hometown" who comes to visit him.

Brig. General Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of Fort Benning, will be shown attending a council meeting of the Columbus USO organizations this Friday morning. Other officers, who will be shown or who have helped in making the film include Col. Paul Thompson, post chaplain and Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan, Special Services Officer.

The film has been in the making for several days, with actual scenes of activities being shot as Johnnie Doe visits the different clubs. The film will be shown at the Regional Convention of the USO in Atlanta in March, and then will be available in Columbus. Eugene J. Bergman, director of the USO, 100 9th street, in Columbus, has directed the picture with assistance of officers of the 161st.

CAMP LIVINGSTON, La. — This post recently held a welcome-celebration upon the arrival of the 38th "Cyclone" Division. First composed of National Guard units from Indiana, Kentucky, and West Virginia, and since augmented by selectees from other states, the 38th became famous for its performance during the Louisiana and Texas maneuvers in 1941.

Blast marks on the camouflage from a gun will disclose a concealed position to the enemy. Such damaged parts should be repaired or replaced as necessary.

MAY & MASON
Dance Studio
U are never too old T'n keep fit & young e learn to dance e improve on same
OUR METHOD IS VERY EASY
Fox Trot, Waltz, Tango, Rumba, Jitterbug
Classes and Private
802 BROADWAY
Home 2-2634 — Office 2-4469

See Us for
PHOTOSTAT PRINTS
of Marriage Licenses, Birth Certificates, Legal Documents, Etc.
BLUE PRINTS, BLUE LINE PRINTS, BLACK AND WHITE PRINTS — DRAFTING AND ENGINEERING SUPPLIES
WADSWORTH BLUE PRINT CO.
1231 — 6th AVE. DIAL 2-7[illegible]

Are You Eligible For New Tires?
Try Our One-Stop Service for Recapping, Vulcanizing and Complete Auto Service.
O. P. A. AUTHORIZED STATION NO. 2
Blackmon-Scarbrough, Inc.
11th St.—1st Ave. Dial 3-2751

BAMA CLUB
Presents
ERNIE RAY
AND HIS RECORDING ORCHESTRA
For Your Dancing Pleasure
From 7:30 'til
SHOWS AT 9:45 AND 12:30
MARTINGALES
ADAGIO DANCERS
BILLY KING
JUGGLER — Formerly Of The A. E. F.
EMIL PARRA, M. C.
SINGING AND DANCING
WILLIE HOFFMAN
ACROBATICS
YVONNE MORAY
OPENING TUESDAY NIGHT
42 Inches of DYNAMIC PERSONALITY
FINEST WESTERN STEAKS and CHICKEN
Just Across Lower Bridge, First Bldg. on Right
Admission Week Nites 50c — Sat. Nite $1

OPA Form No. E-1301
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
OFFICE OF PRICE ADMINISTRATION

Form Approved. Budget Bureau No. 08-R126-42

One copy of this Declaration must be filed with the Office of Price Administration by each person applying for War Ration Book Two for the members of a family unit, and by each person who is not a member of a family unit. File at the site designated. Coupons will be deducted for excess supplies of the foods listed below according to the schedules announced by the Office of Price Administration.

CONSUMER DECLARATION
Processed Foods and Coffee

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I am authorized to apply for and receive a War Ration Book Two for each person listed below who is a member of my family unit, or the other person or persons for whom I am acting whose War Ration Book One I have submitted to the Board;

That the name of each person and number of his or her War Ration Book One are accurately listed below;

That none of these persons is confined or resident in an institution, or is a member of the Armed Forces receiving subsistence in kind or eating in separate messes under an officer's command;

That no other application for War Ration Book Two for these persons has been made;

That the following inventory statements are true and include all indicated foods owned by all persons included in this Declaration:

Coffee

1. Pounds of coffee owned on November 28, 1942, minus 1 pound for each person included in this Declaration whose age as stated on War Ration Book One is 14 years or older. . . . . ____
2. Number of persons included in this Declaration whose age as stated on War Ration Book One is 14 years or older. . . . . ____

Canned Foods

Include all commercially canned fruits (including spiced); canned vegetables; canned fruit and vegetable juices; canned soups, chili sauce, and catsup.

Do not include canned olives; canned meat and fish; pickles, relish; jellies, jams, and preserves; spaghetti, macaroni, and noodles; or home-canned foods.

3. Number of cans, bottles, and jars (8-ounce size or larger) of commercially packed fruits, vegetables, juices and soups, chili sauce and catsup owned on February 21, 1943, minus 5 for each person included in this Declaration. . . ____
4. Number of persons included in this Declaration. . . . . ____

The name of each person included in this Declaration and the number of his or her War Ration Book One is:

	Print Name	Number
1.
2.
3.
4.
5.
6.
7.
8.

If additional space is needed, attach separate sheet

NOTICE.—Section 35 (A) of the United States Criminal Code makes it a criminal offense, punishable by a maximum of 10 years' imprisonment, $10,000 fine, or both, to make a false statement or representation as to any matter within the jurisdiction of any department or agency of the United States.

(Signature of applicant or authorized agent)

(Address)

(City and State)

U. S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE 16—32764-1

Clip This—Above is the official OPA consumer declaration form to be used in connection with registration for point-ration books. To save time at the registration center, housewives should cut this form out, fill it in completely, being careful to follow the directions given with each question. The ration board will accept this clipping as official, just as they would their own printed form.

Soldiers Enroll For Institute

Schools Note 50 Per Cent Increase

Interest is increasing in the educational opportunities offered by the United States Armed Forces Institute, formerly known as the Army Institute, according to figures compiled by the Special Services office.

Figures for all the Armed Forces show a 50 per cent increase in enrollment for the institute, headquarters of which are at Madison, Wis., it was reported today. The institute is open to men of the army, members of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps and personnel of the Navy, Coast Guard and Marine Corps to allow them to continue their education while in the armed forces.

ACADEMIC CREDIT

By means of extension courses students enrolling through the institute with any one of the seventy-nine colleges and universities cooperating in this educational program, may pursue courses of instruction for academic credit which will be accepted for graduation or degree requirements. At present, arrangements are being made for courses taken directly through the institute to carry academic credit as well.

Upon completion of an institute course the student receives a Certificate of Proficiency from the Commandant of the Institute, presented to him through his organization commander. The record of his accomplishment is, under the provisions of Classification Memorandum No. 11, October 19, 1942, recorded upon the enlisted man's qualification card.

Institute courses have been recommended by commandants of various officer candidate schools to prospective candidates who wish to further their knowledge in certain subjects before entering the school. Service personnel have found that through the institute they can prepare themselves for advancement in their military assignments, and provide a background that will be useful to them in their occupational fields when the war is won.

Soldier Woke Up Thinking He Was In Paradise

Twenty-one showgirls, members fo the cast of the recent U.S.O. presentation—"Show Time At The Roxy"—were guests of Company "E" 29th Infantry, during evening "chow" there last Saturday.

Conducted on a tour of the company's squad rooms, the girls surprised one member of the unit by gathering around the bed in which he happened to be sleeping at the time, and awakening him.

"Did the girls like the chow?" First Sergeant F. W. Vettel was asked. "Guess they did," was his answer, "they managed to consume a plenty of chicken."

GOLDEN GLOVER

Pvt. Carl McFadden, Camp Hulen (Tex.) (light-heavy, was voted the most outstanding fighter in the Golden Gloves Tournament held in Houston recently when he fought his way to the finals with a string of two KOs and one TKO and then won a decision over Pvt. Joe Romo, also of Camp Hulen, in the title bout. The Camp Hulen team of six men won the Stewart Boyle Team Trophy.

P & G STUDIO
1028½ Broadway
Frames, Tinting, Gorgeous Work.
Military Personnel Welcome.

"fresh up".. AND LOOK AHEAD

YOU LIKE IT—IT LIKES YOU

Newton D. Baker Village Reporter

BY MRS. DOROTHY TROUTMAN
Phones 9604-8333

M. Sgt. Jimmy Richardson, 109A has returned to attend Officer Candidate School.

Sgt. and Mrs. Wiley D. Smith, 75C, are the proud parents of a son born recently at the Station hospital.

Tech. Sgt. and Mrs. David Mathais, 31D, announce the birth of a son. Mrs. Mathais returned from the hospital Friday.

St. Sgt. and Mrs. P. B. Burns, 155B, are visiting relatives in Vidalia, Ga.

Capt. and Mrs. E. J. Bacchino, 124 Clifton are leaving this week to visit relatives in Jamestown, N. Y.

Rev. H. K. Robertson, pastor of Baker Village Methodist church, has returned after spending last week at Andrew College, Cuthbert, Ga., where he preached during Religious Emphasis Week.

Capt. and Mrs. H. L. Ralls, 143 Barry are leaving this week for Gadsden, Ala., where they will visit relatives.

Friends of Warrant Officer and Mrs. A. W. Makar regret that they have left the Village. They recently moved into Columbus.

Miss Mae Augusta Billman of Washington, D. C., recently visited her parents, Chaplain and Mrs. Adolph B. Billman, at 34 Fox.

Anyone desiring to use recreation or athletic equipment is welcomed to do so. Please contact Mrs. Troutman. The auditorium is available almost any eveneing. The key may be obtained from Mrs. Hayes, 31C.

A ladies' soft ball team is being organized. Ladies' interested in playing please give Mrs. Troutman your name.

A dance for the enlisted families is being planned for March 6. Plans indicate the biggest and best dance yet. Reserve the evening for dancing!

PARTIES

Something unusual in birthday parties was given Friday afternoon by Mrs. Ralph Thackston for her son, Jimmy. Little Jimmy was approaching his fifth birtnday and wanted to have a party but he had chicken pox! After much contemplation he and his mother decided to have the party and invite his friends and playmates, all of whom already had chicken pox. The boys and girls gathered at the Thackston's apartment, No. 7 Roper avenue, games and birthday cake. Little Tommy Clasby won the prize.

Mrs. W. W. Marwede entertained with a birthday party for her daughter, Katherine, at her apartment, 16D. The red, white and blue cake held four tiny candles, and was attractively decorated. Games were enjoyed and each child present won a prize.

Chris Deitz celebrated his fifth birthday last week with a party given at nursery school. A large number of boys and girls enjoyed games directed by his mother and his teacher, Mrs. Minnie Trapp. Ken Simpson and Ronnie Rian won prizes. The pink and white birthday cake made a decorative table setting and was delicious, served with ice cream.

Mrs. O. W. Hartwell, Mrs. William G. Lundy and Mrs. H. L. Ralls entertained with a bridge party Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ralls, 143 Barry avenue. Mrs. H. D. Blair and Mrs. Ralph Cushmore won prizes.

The dance for the officers and their wives will be given Saturday evening, Feb. 27, in the auditorium. The dance will be formal and tickets must be bought in advance. Mrs. Lambert, 31 Court, phone 8416; Mrs. McGee, 26 Roper, 8944; Mrs. Greives, 7 Winston, 3-3778; Mrs. Gillen, 13 Clifton, 3-1993; and Mrs. Edkins, 22 Barry, 2-4464, have tickets. Tables may be reserved. Only a limited number of tickets will be sold.

TEEN CLUB ELECTS

A group of 'teen-age boys and girls met Friday evening and organized a club for their age group. The following officers were elected: president, Lee Van Epps; vice president, George Brown; secretary, Frances Crow; treasurer, Jack Blair.

The club will be open to boys and girls of the village by invitation only. Further business of organization will be discussed Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Troutman, 13 Roper avenue, when the members meet.

The residents of Baker Village and Benning Park homes were able to register for the point rationing book in the auditorium this week. The group of ladies who served faithfully during the registration under the very capable leadership of Mrs. Harold E. Vaughan, were ladies of the village.

CHURCH ON EWT

The local Methodist church wishes to announce that they are retaining their schedule of service on Eastern War Time. The regular morning worship service is at 11:30 EWT.

Beginning next Sunday night and continuing throughout the week, the Methodist church, will observe a week of Dedication. Evangelistic services will be held, and Rev. Robertson, the pastor, will preach each evening at 8 o'clock EWT.

NEWCOMERS

The following people have come to our village recently:

St. Sgt. and Mrs. George W. Hill, 97 G; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Henry G. Logue, 47 F; St. Sgt. and Mrs. William D. Masters, 144 E; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Luke E. Shefferdek, 67 C; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Burnice Carver, 71 C; Lt. and Mrs. Stewart H. Davies, 1 Roper; Lt. and Mrs. David C. Young, 17 Clifton; Lt. and Mrs. Thomas F. Henley, 52 Barry; Lt. and Mrs. Laurence R. Skelton, 49 Court; Lt. and Mrs. Meyer Morson, 13 Court; Lt. and Mrs. Richard I. Kaye.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The Benning Park Baptist church, Rev. C. C. Davison, pastor, announces all services at EWT as before the time change. Sunday school will convene at 10:30 a. m., morning service, 11:15 a. m.; training union, 7 p. m.; evening services, 8 p. m.; W.M.S. will observe week of prayer for Home Missions next week at 3 p. m. except Wednesday when they will meet at 8 p. m. The Men's Brotherhood, Sgt. W. H. Powell, president, will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. with Sgt. Connie Kent, 32 A, Baker Village.

The Sunbeams and G.A.'s and R.A.'s will meet Saturday at 2 p. m. at the church, all EWT.

PERSONALS

Sgt. and Mrs. Jack T. Kennedy and daughter, Carol, of 30D, have just returned from a two weeks' visit in Lakeland, Fla., at the home of their parents.

Mrs. A. R. Turbeville, of Seattle, Wash., is spending a few days with her sister and brother, Capt. and Mrs. Harold E. Vaughan, of 33 Court.

W. O. and Mrs. E. N. Galladay, 31 Clifton, are visiting their family at Beloit, Kan.

Capt. and Mrs. D. J. Henderson, 15 Allison, had as visitors recently Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Gibson, and son, of Auburn, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Hamilton, of Alexandria, Ala.

Mrs. E. G. Nichols, of Memphis, Tenn., is visiting her son and daughter, Sgt. and Mrs. E. L. Nichols, of 26E.

Chaplain and Mrs. Edwin C. Willson, of 32 Fox, left Tuesday for Bartow, Fla., where they will visit relatives during Chaplain Willsons' sick leave.

Mrs. H. M. Gossett and children, 26D, have returned from a visit with Mr. Gossett in Florance, S. C.

A former wife (divorced) can obtain an allowance under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942 if she has not remarried and alimony has been decreed to her by a court and is still payable.

D. MAGGIO INDUCTED

Sluggin' Joe DiMaggio, Yankee center fielder and twice batting champ of the American league, was inducted into the Army last week at San Francisco. Joe, 28 years old, married and a papa of an infant son, came in as a voluntary inductee. He had been classified 3-A by his draft board. "I wanted to do my part, as little as it might be," Joe said, "and as trite as it might sound that's the truth of the case. I wanted to get in the Army. I'm going in."

J. WILSON
Alterations
Epaulets 11½ 12th St.
Chevrons Dial 6631

CUSTOM TAILORS TO THE SERVICES SINCE 1845
SMITH-GRAY
15 WEST ELEVENTH ST.
COLUMBUS, GA.
DIAL 5719 OPP. ARMY-NAVY USO

Southern Manor
Presenting New York's Radio and Night Club Entertainers
DINE & DANCE — TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY
At Junction of Opelika and Montgomery Highway
"FOOD IN THE SOUTHERN MANNER"
TUBBY RIVES in His 16th Week
CLAIRE RAY GIRLS — HELD OVER
NOVELTY DANCERS
BLUES SINGER
PAT GAYE
VOCALIST — Direct From LATIN QUARTER, MIAMI
ROSE THURSTON
PRECISION IN RHYTHM
BEE HAVEN AND HER
GENTLEMEN OF SWING
Playing For Dancing
From 7:30 P. M. —

WHERE TO DINE & DANCE
IN AND AROUND COLUMBUS
DINING DANCING

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT
WINSEL CASTLE
"COLUMBUS' FINEST"
2803 Cusseta Road Cecil Lloyd, Prop.
FOR OFFICERS AND MEMBERS ONLY

PAT PATTERSON
13th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED Chicken IN THIS TOWN
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY Steaks THAT'S REALLY TENDER
CATFISH Dinners WITH CORN BREAD
POINT BLUE Oysters FRIED, STEW, RAW
Come Out on No. Highland Bus 8 Private Dining Rooms

JERRY'S
206-38th St.
FAMOUS FOR STEAKS & CHICKEN

Max Mendel
IN NEW YORK— IT'S LINDY'S
IN HAVANA— IT'S SLOPPY JOE'S
IN COLUMBUS— IT'S THE ROOSEVELT
Columbus' finest and friendliest Cafe—serving only the very highest type of food, and beverages reasonably priced—and where efficient service is supplemented by warm cordiality and an air of sincere friendliness.
We invite the personnel of Fort Benning to make the FRIENDLY ROOSEVELT CAFE their second home.
The Roosevelt Cafe
1027 BROADWAY

FRIED CHICKEN
CATFISH DINNERS
PIT-COOKED B-A-R-B-Q
WESTERN T-BONE STEAKS
CHESPEAKE OYSTERS
JUMBO
1730 Fourth Ave. Dial 9880
Dining Rooms Curb Service Free Parking

VISIT THE PARADISE
213—14th St.
Phenix City, Ala.
Where a friendly greeting awaits you
Come over and enjoy yourself
MUSIC—DANCING

GOO-GOO
The Sign Of Good Food
Dial 3-4491
700 Linwood Boulevard
AIR CONDITIONED
½ Fried Chicken Served Unjointed Without Silver, Gobs of Shoe Strings, Jug of Honey, Hot Buttered Rolls. The Most Modern and Best Known Cafe in Columbus, Georgia
Free Parking — Curb Service
Private Dining Rooms

COPELAND'S BARBECUE AND STEW
3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620
BARBECUE—STEW—SANDWICHES—DRINKS
CHICKEN—STEAK—OYSTER DINNERS
CECIL JONES, Prop.
PLENTY FREE PARKING AND CURB SERVICE

Leaders, Fliers Upset Victors In Loop

Rodeo Ace Now Gets Bucks And Broncs In Peep

Cowboy Blodgett of 117th Infantry Is Old-Time Bronco Buster

By CORP. KEVE GRUNIN

"Ride 'em Cowboy" Laurence Blodgett, who was born and raised on a ranch in the state of Wyoming and has ridden the broncs in many a rodeo show throughout Nebraska, Oregon, Colorado and Wyoming, is now taking the bucks and broncs from a peep in the 117th Infantry.

Today this bronco buster with dark, rough, leather-like skin is the peep driver for the Breaker special service office.

Blodgett was born in Cheyenne, Wyoming, 35 years ago and began riding as soon as he was big enough to manipulate his body onto a horse. His father, who is an old-time rancher and a master of the art of riding, taught him the correct method of handling a horse plus a few necessary tricks and as the years went by he became an expert hand with horses, both saddle horses and wild broncs.

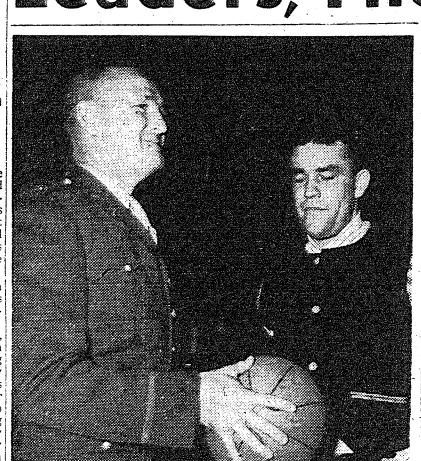
STARTED BRONC BUSTING

At the age of 17, Blodgett left the ranch for a short time and began working for "Tex" Carter, Wyoming's World Champion bronc rider. Carter taught him all there was to know in the bronco busting game. While working for Carter, Blodgett broke in wild horses and taught them to ride. He also taught these wild horses to buck and bronc!

Blodgett said, "There is a psychological factor involved when you are in the process of breaking in these horses to bronc. When you get on them for the first time you must let them throw you for a real spill. That may sound funny, but it is the gosh darn truth. Sometimes you have to exaggerate the throw and spill yourself. When these horses see that they've thrown a rider for a 'loop,' they will, from then on in, try their best to throw every rider that attempts to break them in."

ENTERS BIG TIME

After he had gotten enough experience with Carter, Blodgett entered a few rodeo shows and took a big liking to this type of work. He hooked up with a few teams and put on a great rodeo shows throughout Nebraska, Oregon, Colorado, and Wyoming. One of the biggest shows that Blodgett had the honor of riding with was "The Cheyenne Frontier Days"—well known throughout the west for its superb and spectacular performances. Bronic riding, steer roping, wild cow milking, wild horse riding, trick roping and riding, calf roping, bull-dogging and a host of other hair-raising thrillers had people from near and far come to see "The Cheyenne Days" and its star performers in action.



The manner in which many of these rodeo shows are promoted is very interesting. Usually five or six riders get together, form a team and travel around the country participating in all the available rodeo shows. Before each show they decide on how the winnings will be split. Sometimes all the prizes won by the different men of the team are put together and evenly divided after the show. Other times they agree that the man winning a certain event will keep the winnings for himself.

HIGH STAKES

Rodeo prizes, the glory that goes with winning prizes and the sincere delight in riding are the things that make these daring bronco busters risk their lives. Sometimes the winner for the day receives a beautiful saddle valued as high as $500. "Day money" is given to the man who puts on the best performance for the day, and cash prizes offered to the outstanding man in each event.

During the winter off-season, Blodgett spent his time on the ranch. Feeding about 2,000 cattle a day kept him well occupied and every now and then he would practice riding. "Even during the off season," said Blodgett, "a rodeo performer must keep in form and do a little practicing. If a fellow stays away from riding for a while he loses a little of his skill."

Today Blodgett is driving a peep but hopes that in the near future he can get a job breaking in saddle horses for the Cavalry and that in itself is a real man-size job!

Benning's Best—Past And Present

Col. John S. Roosma, former all-American, poses with Lt. Frank E. Shannon, between halves of the recent Prof-Gator game. Col. Roosma was a member of the Passaic High School "Wonder Five," the team that amazed the athletic world with a winning streak of 159 consecutive victories. Later he starred for a West Point team that rolled up 31 straight. Roosma being unanimously selected all-American.

From 1926 through 1931 he starred for an all-officer team at Benning during which he averaged about 25 points a game. He still holds the all-time Jersey scoring record for a season, while his record of 35 points in one game was finally broken only two years ago. His scoring record for a season at Passaic averaged 29.7 per game. Col. Roosma and Col. Burkhalter of Academic Regiment served together in the same outfit in 1932 when they were both stationed at Manila and were sent to Shanghai.

The record of Lt. Shannon is too well known to be repeated in detail. Formerly an all-State and all-Conference star at Wittenberg college, Shannon has been the outstanding basketball star at Fort Benning the last two seasons. He has just added to his laurels by capturing the first-half scoring honors in the Fort Benning Conference.

2nd STR In Acid Test Tonight Against 29th; 124th Battles Lawson

Conference Rivals Meet In Twin Bill at Sports Arena

Two second division clubs during the first-half race forged to the front with surprise wins as the final round of play in the strong Fort Benning Conference got under way this week. The Lawson Field Fliers and 2nd STR Leaders both turned in triumphs along with the Academic Regiment Profs and 124th Gators, play-off rivals for the first-half crown.

The Fliers staged a terrific last period rally Monday night to eke out a win over an improved Parachute School quintet, 41-40, while the Leaders, using two star officer candidates in their line-up, administered a sound trouncing to the Station Hospital Medicos.

LEADERS MEET DEVILS

The 2nd STR tossers will meet a real acid test tonight, however, when they entertain the crack 29th Infantry Devils in the nightcap of an attractive twin bill at the Harmony Church sports arena. In the opener at 7:30, the other surprise team from Lawson Field will oppose the powerful Gators of the 124th Infantry.

Tomorrow night, the Profs entertain the 802nd Field Artillery, a newcomer in the loop, at the post gym while Parachute School and Station Hospital clash in the second game of the evening. The Artillerymen will visit the main post again Sunday for a tussle wth the Medicos on the same twin bill that lists the Profs vs. the Paratrooper.

29TH VS. 124TH MONDAY

One of the big games of the season will be waged Monday on the gym hardwood when the bitter rivals from the 29th and 124th clash in the nightcap. The teams have met twice already, with the Gators taking both decisions in the final minutes. The Fliers and Leaders will meet in the opener on one of the most attractive cards of the campaign.

2nd STR Five Romps To Win Over Medico Quint

A revitalized 2nd STR quintet started the second half flag chase with a convincing 55-31 triumph over the Station Hospital Medicos Sunday in the prelim of the twin bill at the post gym. The Leaders led at intermission, 24-17, and in the final periods really poured it on the hapless hospital tossers.

Permitted to use two officer candidates on the floor at any one time, the Leaders made good use of two former collegiate stars, Big Boy Jackson and Troy Ricks. Jackson, former New Mexico Aggie star, pumped five goals of each variety through the hoop to top the scorers with fifteen points. The giant center was also a tower of strength on defense under the hoop.

Ricks played a smooth game as floor leader of the Leaders and also contributed 12 points, the same total compiled by Bill Bland, lean forward ace of the 2nd STR entry. Webster and Ponds paced the futile Medico attack with eleven points apiece, but the usually slick hospital tossers could never get moving and provided an easy victim for the Leader five's first loop win.

Shannon's Lone Goal Is Prof Margin Over 29th

Frank Shannon's only field goal of the ball game came at the right time in the final minute of play Sunday to give the Academic Regiment a thrilling 33-31 triumph over the 29th Infantry in a hair-raising tilt at the post gym. The Prof coach tapped the ball in from scrimmage right after Ossi had flipped a foul and it accounted for the deciding points.

The game was marked by the brilliant defense work which the 29th clamped on both Shannon and Ossi, who scored but three points apiece. However, the other members of the first-half title winners came through with enough points to give the Profs a good start in the second half. McCray had seven markers, while Zientara and Polk had six each. Joe Stolarzyck paced the Devils with ten points.

After leading most of the way in the first half, the 29th fell behind at intermission, 17-14. However, they burst afire in the second half, and with only seven minutes left held a comfortable four point lead. A late Prof rally abolished the lead, though, and then Shannon topped in his lone effort, and that was the ball game.

802nd Debut Sjoined By Gator Five, 51-25

Howie Bender and his crack Gator quint of the 124th Infantry spoiled the debut of the 802nd Field Artillery in the conference on Monday night when they trampled the newcomers by a 51-25 count in a slow game at the arena.

Bender, playing at a forward slot, scorched the nets for six goals and five fouls to net 17 points and take the scoring honors of the evening. At that, the playing coach was in the game only part of the time, and used his entire squad before the final whistle blew.

The Gators grabbed a 14-9 lead in the first period and then held the artillerymen scoreless in the second frame to boast a 29-9 advantage at intermission. Novak was high point-man for the 802nd, while the 124th scoring was divided among 12 men.

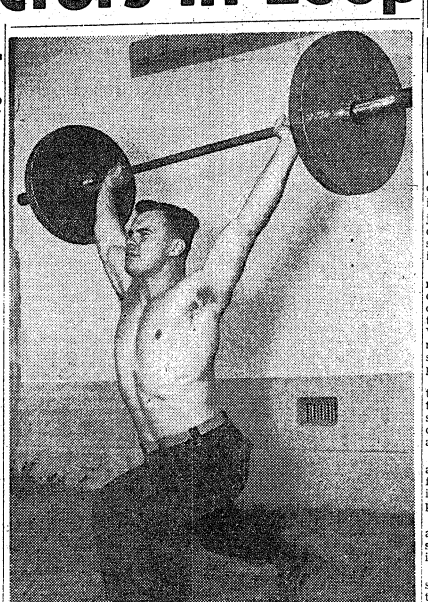
Lawson Field's Rally Tops Parachute Quint

Lawson Field's last-period scoring burst gave the Fliers a hard-earned 41-40 triumph Monday night over the Parachute School in a fast game played at the post gym. The victory established the Fliers as a dark horse in the second-half race after a disappointing showing in the opening round of play.

The paratroopers held a comfortable lead throughout the first three periods, but faltered at the close when the Lawson tossers came on with a rush. At halftime, Parachute School led by 24-17, and entering the final canto, they were still in front by seven points with a 34-27 margin.

When the Fliers began to click, though, they held their rivals to six points and tallied fourteen themselves to eke out the win. Ace Hall, sturdy center, paced the scoring for the winners with 15 points, while Mike Morock, a newcomer in the school line-up, also tallied 15 markers.

Orphans Can Take Loop Title Tonight



The Reception Center's sharpshooting court squad can win the first-half title in the all-colored Service League tonight with a victory over the 2nd STR Commandos at the post gym. The rivals meet in the second game of a twin bill which also features the Academic Regiment Pacesetters against Post Detachment in the opener at 7:30 o'clock.

The R. C. Orphans have romped to five straight loop wins and even if they lose tonight, they will still share the title honors with the 3rd STR Panthers who are in second place with five wins and one loss. The Reception Center-Commando game will be the final one of the first-half race in the Service League.

507th Continues Streak In Columbus Court Loop

The 507th Parachute Infantry basketball team didn't win but one game in the Columbus Independent League last week—but that is all they played. The Paratroopers won their 11th consecutive loop victory at the expense of Columbus Manufacturing company.

On Friday, Nehi tries their luck against the 507th at 8 o'clock and at 9:15 Alexander's is to do battle with Columbus Manufacturing in the nightcap.

"MR. PHYSICAL CULTURE" of Connecticut in 1939 was Lieut. R. I. Fleming, now special service officer with the 508th parachute infantry. He is shown above lifting a bar-bell which is a daily lunch-time routine.

'Mr. Physical Culture' Now Here With 508th

Lieut. Fleming Is Body Builder, Weightlifter With Many Titles

One day last fall Major General E. G. Chapman, commanding officer of the Airborne Command, visited the 508th Parachute Regiment, now at Fort Benning. He was perchance or per-plan guided into a regimental gym class conducted by Lt. R. I. Fleming, special service officer.

After listening to Fleming's instructions for a few moments the general asked how much experience he had had in physical directing.

Rather modestly, Fleming told of studying anatomy, dietetics, and body building at MacFadden Institute of Physical Culture, and later operating Riverside Athletic Club, in New Haven, Conn. He added that he had instructed body building and corrective calisthentics at Central Y. M. C. A., Birmingham, Ala., and Palace Academy of Health in New Haven.

STAR WEIGHT LIFTER

As for personal feats, he had trained with various Olympic and world championship weightlifting teams, and was former Southern States weigh-lifting champion.

The general was satisfied!

But, this is only a partial history of the 508th special service officer, who was chosen, "Mr. Physical Culture of Connecticut for 1939". Fleming has been very active in physical training work during the past nine years, and it has paid dividends in more ways than one. Receiving some of his early workouts under one of the world's greatest body building authorities, Charles Ramsay, of the Titan Athletic Club in New York City, Fleming's physical structure rapidly developed into a magnificent mass of man. As early as 1935 he worked as an artists' model.

SUBJECT OF PORTRAITS

Steadily progressing, he reached a peak in 1938 and 1939, during which period he was chosen "Mr. Physical Culture for Connecticut', besides posing for two world prize-winning art projects. These were "steel", a portrait by Vincent Studios of New Haven, chosen world's best portrait of that year, and an unnamed statue, which received the Pre-Rome.

Delving into other fields, Fleming attended the School of Radio Technique at Radio City, and worked as announcer and news commentator for station WELI in New Haven.

JOINED 508TH

Entering service in the armored force, Fleming served in enlisted grades before being selected for officer candidate school at Fort Knox, Kentucky. Upon graduation, as assigned to an armored division, and transferred to parachuting in June, 1942. He won jumper's wings in August, and was immediately placed in the 508th regiment.

Sportsmanship Is Out If You Practice Judo

Officer Candidates At Infantry School Are Taught Dirty Fighting

An increasingly important part of the physical training of officer candidates in the Infantry School is unarmed defense, or judo—or just plain dirty fighting—and the dirtier the better when one considers the enemies he is up against in this war.

One of the first and one of the most difficult things an American has to learn in this brand of fighting is to forget all his natural ideas of sportsmanship. When the enemy is close in, a man who permits his sporting instinct to cause him a second's pause is likely to lose his life.

Usually working out in pairs, the candidates learn the essentials of speed and balance, and such tricks of the trade as the use of the side of the hand, the knee and the heel.

The five basic principles of unarmed fighting, as outlined in the field manual, are utilized fully in the training program. These principles are:

1. Balance is the most important, and yet no matter what position an individual assumes, he is off balance in some direction.

2. The power for the defense should be centered in the "internal clique muscles," which are located in the center of the body in the lower abdomen between the hip bones.

3. You should assume that your opponent is stronger than you are and utilize and direct his momentum and strength to carry him to his downfall.

4. Your attack should be made at your opponent's weakest point with the greatest amount of power that you can concentrate there.

5. In practice with a partner, you should be judicious and apply separately the "major operation" (getting a hold) and the "minor operation" (putting on the pressure), otherwise broken bones or injuries might result.

Col. James F. Strain is head of the committee in charge of this phase of training in the Infantry School.

Panthers Whip College Rival

The Benning Panthers, crack colored quintet representing the 3rd Student Training Regiment, travelled across the state last week and brought back their second win of the season over the powerful Fort Valley State Teachers College. The final count favored the soldier tossers by a 58-34 count.

Fort Valley opened with a terrific burst of speed and clamped an airtight defense on the visitors from Benning. The Panthers finally began to click, however, and with Blackburn and Phillipson leading the way, the soldiers were out in front at intermission by a 34-22 tally.

During the final periods, the 3rd STR courtmen continued to build up their advantage as they completely outplayed the collegians. Hank Blackburn, crack center of procourt fame, found the nets for 21 points to lead the Panther attack. Bob Pitts paced Fort Valley with 12 markers.

STILL DRIVING 'EM

Alex Stephenson, 1942 New York State golf champ, is still driving 'em—but not golf balls. Pvt. Stephenson is driving a truck at the Army Air Base, Syracuse, N. Y.

124th Gators Conclude Big Regimental Cage Program

An old phrase, "the show must go on," was lived up to faithfully throughout the 124th Infantry's intra-regimental basketball season.

Every night, games in the Florida and Georgia leagues were played for the body building of the participants and an interesting spectacle for some 12,000 spectators that witnessed the games throughout the season.

It is estimated that 360 men, playing a total of 384 games, created 7,300-man hours of physical fitness. Keen competition marked the play with Companies F and K emerging on top in their respective leagues. The Officers' League was won by the First Battalion.

The same mass production scale of morale building is to be applied to the coming basketball season. The plan, now in formation, is to have 800 men play 732 games of the national pastime and softball. Forty teams and four leagues will get the basketball season under way next month and it is felt that the competition will be just as keen and enjoyable to the whole regiment, as the basketball season just past.

'F' Company Takes Gator Court Title

Hal Keller, Gator football center, dropped a foul shot in the final 10 seconds of play Tuesday to give a fast Company "F" quintet the court championship of the 124th Infantry's regimental leagues. A capacity crowd jammed the Gator rec. hall for the final game, and stayed to watch Col. John D. Hill present the title trophy to the F-men after their conquest in the three-game series.

The F-men won the final tilt by a 28-27 count with Keller's foul flip breaking a tie brought about a moment earlier on a field goal by Nick Calos, another ex-gridder, who was one of the big guns for the losers from "I" company. At half-time, the F-men led by 18-15. Kaplan and Keller with 11 and 9 points paced the winners.

Basketball Standings

FORT BENNING CONFERENCE

	W	L	Pct.
2nd STR	1	0	1.000
Acad. Regt.	1	0	1.000
Lawson Field	1	0	1.000
124th Inf.	1	0	1.000
Stat. Hosp.	0	1	.000
29th Inf.	0	1	.000
Prcht. School	0	1	.000
802nd F. A.	0	1	.000

MAIN POST LEAGUE

	W	L	Pct.
863rd Ord.	1	0	1.000
53rd Gen. Hosp.	1	0	1.000
7th Observation	1	0	1.000
Fin. Detach.	0	0	.000
24th Gen. Hosp.	0	0	.000
1st Prcht. Trng.	0	1	.000
1st STR	0	1	.000
99th Quartermaster	0	1	.000

SAND HILL LEAGUE

	W	L	Pct.
420th F. A.	3	0	1.000
55th Eng.	2	0	1.000
54th Armd. Inf.	2	1	.667
3rd Armd. Regt.	1	1	.500
419th F. A.	1	2	.333
Maint. Bn.	0	1	.000
423rd F. A.	0	1	.000
11th Armd. Regt.	0	3	.000

CUSETTA LEAGUE

	W	L	Pct.
Supply Bn.	1	0	1.000
90th Recon.	2	1	.667
Service Bn.	2	1	.667
150th Signal	2	1	.667
Div. Hq. Co.	1	1	.500
Div. Trains	0	1	.000
80th Medical	0	3	.000

FOUNTAIN CITY, Tenn. — (CNS)— Sir Stork brought a baby daughter who will be named Charlotte to Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Stork recently. Mr. Stork's occupation is not delivering babies. It is delivering mail.

300th Infantry Athletes Will Make Bow in Boxing

When the new 300th Infantry Regiment of The Infantry School makes its debut in post athletics on March 3, it will send into action a boxing team liberally supplied with men accustomed to having things pretty much their own way in their respective classes.

No fewer than three of the 300th's boxers recently won post championships at Camp Robinson, Ark., while their coach, Sgt. Jack E. Monroe, is a former national Golden Gloves champ and has held Fort Benning titles. The sergeant will fight as well as coach.

GOLDEN GLOVES

Sergeant Monroe, who is more than pleased with the power shown by his team since it began training in the Post Gymnasium on February 1, was master of Golden Gloves featherweights in 1925. In 1940 and 1941, when he was with the 8th Infantry, he was the Benning lightweight titleholder. This time he will fight as a welterweight.

Aiding and abetting Coach Monroe are fourteen other stalwarts. These include Private Raul Franco, former amateur bantamweight champion on the West coast, and more recently the class of the bantamweights at Camp Robinson. Private Franco is acting platoon sergeant in the All-Mexican platoon of Company "K", 300th Infantry.

TWO TITLE-HOLDERS

The two other fighters who came from Camp Robinson with post titles tucked away in their barracks bags are Private Joe N. Garcia, featherweight, and Private Dan Davis, lightweight. Private Garcia has had fifty-four bouts, winning fifty and losing four. Private Davis has won 40 of his 47 tights, losing only three times and getting four draws.

A big factor in the rapid development of the 300th's boxing team has been the interest displayed, and the encouragement given by Major Charles (Monk) Meyer, all-American back at West Point and now commander of the 300th's 3rd Battalion. The boxing program is being directed by 2nd Lt. James Conroy.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(CNS) — Seventy-five-year-old Valentine Jeriorski was burned critically when he broke into his flaming chicken coop to save his poultry. He rescued all but four or five of the fowls.

Los Angeles," "Oakland," "Scranton," "National" and the "National Public Links."

Generally he easily shoots par or less and has set unbeaten records dating back as far as 1931.

At his present undertaking his aims are on par with his golfing.

Golf Pro, Holder Of Many Records Is TIS O. C.

Beginning golf when ten years old, Candidate Ralph B. Bond has worked ardently every summer since then to attain his professional rating. Furthermore, he plans to apply himself harder to receive his rating in O. C. S. at the Eighth Company, 1st Student Training Regiment.

Originally, as a caddy he received his "basic training;" now he is a professional and owner of a golf course.

Some of the "open" tournaments in which he has played as a professional golfer are the "Texas," "Western," "New Orleans,"

Court Card

THURSDAY, FEB. 25TH
Post Gym—Service League
Acad. Regt. vs. Post Detach. (7:30).
Reception Center vs. 2nd STR (8:45).
Sports Arena—Conference
124th Inf. vs. Lawson Field (7:30).
2nd STR vs. 29th Infantry (8:45).
Sports Arena—Harmony Church League
STR Brig. vs. 1013th Guard Sq. (7:30).
99th Ord. vs. 31st Ord. (8:45).
FRIDAY, FEB. 26TH.
Post Gym—Conference
802nd F. A. vs. Academic Regt. (7:30).
Prcht. School vs. Stat. Hosp. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
55th Eng. vs. Maint. Bn. (7:30).
423rd F. A. vs. 3rd Armd. (8:45)
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
Div. Trains vs. Supply Bn. (7:30).
SATURDAY, FEB. 27TH
Post Gyc—Main Post League
Fin. Detach. vs. 24th Gen. Hosp. (6:45).
1st STR vs. 99th Quartermaster (8:00).
53rd Gen. Hosp. vs. 7th Observ. (9:15).
SUNDAY, FEB. 28TH
Post Gym—Conference
Station Hosp. vs. 802nd F. A. (2:00).
Prcht. School vs. Acad. Regt. (3:30).
MONDAY, MAR. 1ST
Post Gym—Conference
2nd STR vs. Lawson Field (7:30).
29th Inf. vs. 124th Inf. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
420th F. A. vs. 55th Eng. (7:30).
11th Armd. vs. 423rd F. A. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
150th Signal vs. Div. Hdqs. (7:30).
90th Recon. vs. Div. Trains (8:45).
TUESDAY, MAR. 2ND
Post Gym—Main Post League
24th Gen. Hosp. vs. 863rd Ord. (6:45).
Fin. Detach. vs. 1st Prcht. Trng. (8:00).
53rd Gen. Hosp. vs. 99th Q.M. (9:15).
Sports Arena—Service League
Recpt. Center vs. Provisional Truck (7:30).
Acad. Regt. vs. 1st STR (8:45).
3rd STR vs. 2nd STR (7:30).
Post Detach. vs. Med. Detach. (8:45).
WEDNESDAY, MAR. 3RD
Post Gym—Boxing (29th Inf. vs. 300th Inf.)
Sports Arena—Sand Hill Lague
419th F. A. vs. 3rd Armd. (7:30).
54th Armd. vs. Maint. Bn. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
Service Co. vs. Supply Bn. (7:30).

SPORTING GOODS
BASEBALL—TENNIS—GOLF
GOODRICH SILVERTOWN STORES
New Location—1315 Broadway
Dial 2-3581

WE STILL
REPAIR WATCHES
KROGLAND'S
CLOCK SHOP
1142—1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

ATTENTION!
OFFICER CANDIDATE
Lloyd Jowers
Represents Kahn Tailoring Co. Uniforms tailored to individual measurements. Complete service of altering and repairing on G. I. Clothes.
117½ 12th St.

Privately Speaking...

ROYAL CROWN COLA
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
is Best by Taste-Test!

Harmony Church Area May Get Ball Field

Capt. Gowdy Plans Extensive Program For TIS Units

Plans for building a new baseball field in the Harmony Church area were underway this week as harbingers of spring began to appear at the post, and baseball began to climb back into the sports picture.

The establishment of a diamond in the student training area several miles from the post proper is just one part of an extensive baseball program being planned by Capt. Harry (Hank) Gowdy, the new special service officer for the Infantry School.

The former big league star already has worked out three tentative leagues which will be operated for school troops. He plans an eight-team major circuit of the regimental nines, and another league for the smaller units attached to the Infantry School. Gowdy also hopes to sponsor a league exclusively for colored troops of the school, such as the service battalions, and truck units.

VISITING UNITS

Since his arrival here almost a month ago, Captain Gowdy has been touring the post and visiting all units of the school to find out their plans for the coming diamond campaign. One of the most pressing needs, he feels, is a diamond in the Harmony Church area.

Teams from that section have always had to come into the post proper to play their games at Gowdy Field, and this year with the current transportation shortage, it would be more feasible to play some of the tilts in the H. C. area according to the TIS official.

NO SITE YET

As yet, no definite site has been selected, but Captain Gowdy is spending some time this week scouring the area for a suitable location for a new baseball field. All plans are still in the tentative stage, however, but with the baseball season scheduled to open within the next two months, action is expected shortly.

The three leagues planned will all operate on a split-season schedule with play-offs at the end of both halves, and then a grand finale at the close of the season pitting the winners of both rounds of play against one another to determine a school champion.

Camp Wheeler Tops Chutists

Spokes Gain 32-27 Win Over Parachute School

Camp Wheelers powerful basketball team gained its 20th win out of 23 starts this season on Saturday night in the post gym when the visitors from Macon bowled over the Parachute School tossers, 32-27. It was the second triumph over the paratroopers, who also bowed to the Spokes in an earlier game away from home.

Flipping eight straight fouls at the start of the game, the visitors managed to keep pace with the chutists who opened with a terrific burst of speed and led throughout most of the first half, one time by seven points.

SPOKES TAKE LEAD

The all-collegiate line-up of the visitors finally started to click from the floor, however, near intermission and when the rivals left the floor at half-time, the Spokes led by 20-18. The final periods were slow and with Tenbrink, gigantic guard, clamping down on Ed Brooks of the Benning team, the Wheelermen swept to victory.

A first half flurry enabled Brooks, a former Illinois collegian, to lead the scorers with 12 points, while Petey Quintano, a diminutive guard, was top man for the Spokes with eleven markers. In all, the winners caged 10 of 14 free throws, while the homesters could connect on only three out of nine.

WYNNTON BEAUTY AND BARBER SHOP

We Cater to Fort Benning Personnel

2316 Wynnton Rd. Dial 9355

HARMONY TAILORING and ALTERATION

Soldiers and Nurses Welcome

DIAL 3-7468

1140½ Broadway

"Z" LUNCH

Most convenient place to Eat . . . No rationing on walking by "Z" Lunch Counter.

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

Serves more people than any other establishment in Columbus.

LOCATED IN HOWARD BUS STATION

REGULATION G. I.

LOCKER TRUNKS

PLYWOOD—METAL

Reinforced covers, tray and lock goes with each trunk.

ONLY 7.65 EACH

10% DISCOUNT IF PURCHASED IN LOTS OF 50 OR MORE

Montgomery Ward

12TH AND BROADWAY DIAL 7761

Paratroopers Lose To 863rd Ordnance

A quintet from 863rd Ordnance last night knocked over the First Paratroop Trainers, 25 to 23, in a game in the main post league at the post gym, which saw the two ball teams tied at 12-all at the half-time whistle.

Compton starred for the Ordnance boys, and tossed in 11 points, while his teammate, Porter, tallied 6. For the losers, Nelson and Newlin had six each.

The Seventh Observation squadron defeated the 99th Quartermasters, 51 to 36, led by Hall, who showered in 28 tallies. His teammate, Moran, scored 12 points, while Hudspeth and Gillis had eight each for the 99th. Half-time score was 30 to 15, with the Observationists leading.

The 53rd General hospital was on the long end of a 51 to 38 score, playing the First student training regiment. Loerch and Byscesky had 11 points each for the 53rd, while Conbouzou had 15 and Casey 8 tallies for the Students.

O. C. DiBlasi Had Trial With Boston Red Sox

Youthful Athlete Was Frosh Star at Washington and Lee

Sam DiBlasi runs the obstacle course now instead of the bases—he's an officer candidate instead of a Louisville colonel.

Likable Sam, the all-sports, 20-year-old stalwart from Third Company, Third Student Training Regiment here in the Infantry School, had to straighten out the Louisville club on his status recently, and for a fellow whose chief ambition is to play baseball, it was a tough job.

Bruce Dudley, president of the Louisville club, wired DiBlasi at his home in Washington, D. C., asking him to report for spring training. DiBlasi's contract had been purchased by Louisville. So Sam wired back that Uncle Sam had priorities and three mortgages on his contract.

THREE-SPORT STAR

DiBlasi starred in football, basketball and baseball in high school and captained all three teams. At Washington and Lee where he received a special scholarship, Superman Sam was an All-State freshman back and batted over .500 on the basketball team.

He was under close scrutiny of a half-dozen big league scouts during his scholastic career. Eventually, Sam settled for the Boston Red Sox and was up with Tom Yewkey's gilt-edged outfit last year.

"This Williams," says DiBlasi (speaking of Red Socks Ted williams) "has about five pair of baseball shoes and two racks full of bats. My locker was right next to his."

PESKY BIG HELP

Sam says that Johnny Pesky, sensational young Boston shortstop who was good enough to put Joe Cronin on the bench, was a great help to him. "Pesky taught me to go to my right or left," says Sam. "We played together a lot last spring." (Pesky at short, DiBlasi at third).

Last year, Sam got plenty of seasoning, playing with Greensboro in the Piedmont league and Canton in the Middle-Atlantic. He hit over .300 with Canton and was recalled by Greensboro at the end of the season.

Louisville would have been the last stop for the clouting youngster before returning to the Red Sox, but that will have to wait.

Panthers Trample Commando Quintet In Service League

Led by Hank Blackburn and Frankie Phillipson, the crack Panther quintet of the 3rd STR romped to an easy Service League win over the 2nd STR Commandos last Thursday night at the sports arena. The final count favored the Panthers, 66-43.

The Panthers stepped out to an early lead in the very first minute of the ball game, and were in front the rest of the way. Blackburn and Phillipson tallied more points between them than the entire Commando team.

Blackburn racked up 25 markers and Phillipson ran him a close second with 23 points. Bill Lowery, eagle-eyed sharpshooter of the 2nd STR outfit, paced his team at the nets with 17 points, while George Lee had eleven for the losers.

At only one point in the ball game did the Commandos threaten, and that was when a third period assault carried them to within nine points of the Panthers. However, the big green team turned on the steam once again and rolled to victory.

SERVICE LEAGUE

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Reception Center	5	0	1.000
3rd STR Panthers	5	1	.833
1st STR Bombers	4	2	.666
Post Detachment	2	3	.500
2nd STR Commandos	2	3	.400
Academic Regt.	1	5	.166
Medical Detach.	0	6	.000

Army—

(Continued from Page 1)

that unless there was an increased supply of this metal available, the nation's steel mills might have to shut down within sixty days.

In exhorting an all-out effort on the part of civilians, the Benning supply chief recalled the days of George Washington, and told the Kiwanians that we must follow the principles of the "father of our country" and "never take our mind off victory no matter what the obstacles".

Classified

MAY AND MASON DANCE STUDIO: Ballroom, Tap, and Jitterbug. Private classes. Day and night classes. 802 Broadway. Dial 2-4469.

Tuskegee Five Trips Orphans

In a fast skirmish, a crack division of basketeers from the 99th and 100th Pursuit squadrons at the Tuskeegee Air Base attacked the Reception Center Orphans at main post gym Friday night for a 70-49 win and scampered back to their Alabama base without apparent exhaustion or loss of men.

After playing a nip and tuck game for three quarters, points ran 10-10 in the first quarter, 23-24 in the second and 30-38 in the third—the Orphans' defense gave way to heavy artillery, while the Air Base team ran up 33 points to their 19 in the last ten minutes.

Both teams had a heavy attack combination of high scorers, thus the near record setting total of 120 points made during the whole game.

It was the first loss in seven games for the Reception Center. At the moment it heads the local post conference of colored teams with six wins to no losses within that circuit.

Bayonet Picks Prize-Winners

At long last the BAYONET again announces a list of prize-winners for cartoons, verse, and original contributions published in its columns. If your name appears below, there is a check for two bucks awaiting you at the Public Relations Office, post headquarters. It will be necessary for all winners to appear in person to sign vouchers.

Meantime, fellows, please keep up the good work. We need cartoons, essays, and verse. If you don't win a prize, you may have your work appear in print. And if your work does not show up in the BAYONET the week after you mail it in, don't be discouraged. Our space is limited, as is our zinc allotment, but a file is kept and we'll publish your contribution just as early as possible if it is worthy.

But enough of gab; here's the list:

Cartoonists: Lt. Lou Clerico; O. C.s Scander and Roseburg, Lt. James Sweeney and Lt. Hunter Fox.

Versifiers: J. M. M.'s "Tough Luck"; Muzzy's "My Gal"; Sgt. Tom McDonald's "Midnight to Reveille"; O. C. E. B. Regeman's "Soldier's Dream"; and John Joyce's "Impatient Blade".

Original contributions: Col. Frank M. Thompson's "Abraham Lincoln"; T. L. Hawkins' "A Private Pleads 'Don't Let George Go It Alone'" and Major Frank Ciofalo's essay on "Point Rationing".

Soldiers Are Morally Obligated To Insure—Inzer

"Our instructors stressed that casualties are inevitable in war, and realizing this, each soldier is morally obligated to provide for his dependents," said Lt. John W. Inzer, post insurance officer, who recently attended a two-day life insurance conference in Atlanta, Ga.

"All higher military authorities, including Secretary of War Stimson, recognize the need for protection and urge every soldier to carry National Service Insurance and the full $10,000 worth!" Although Fort Benning has just completed an all-out insurance drive, Lt. Inzer said that a continued and concerted effort is still being made.

Other officers from Fort Benning attending the conference were: Major William A. Allen, Lawson Field; Lt. H. F. Bouknight, Reception Center; Lt. C. A. Gilmore, Jr., Tenth Armored Division; Lt. Walter F. Gleason, Infantry School; Lt. Christian W. Imhoff, Parachute School, and Lt. Robert L. Oakley, 513th Parachute Infantry.

Signal Lab Men Get More Stripes

Five enlisted men of the Post Signal Photographic Laboratory have been promoted to higher grades, according to an announcement received at post headquarters.

Corporals E. H. Bourne and D. K. Kortemeier have been promoted to sergeant, Privates First Class M. M. Stock and S. Rondone have been raised to corporal, and Private J. H. Newman has become private first class.

Banking Hours Changed Feb. 23 By Post Branch

Commencing Tuesday, February 23, bank offices on the post opened for business from 11 a. m. until 3 p. m., instead of from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. as they were formerly. This is to conform with the banking hours in Columbus, which are on Central War Time.

Lieut. J. A. White Gets Downtown Billeting Post

Lt. J. A. White, post billeting officer, will assume duties as downtown billeting officer, succeeding Capt. George Fogle. The office in the Chancellor Building will be kept open. Lt. White will also continue in his present capacity.

Forst Lt. George E. Fogle has been promoted to captain and ordered to another station, according to an announcement at post headquarters.

Coming to active duty in May, 1942, Fogle was immediately assigned to Benning and became downtown billeting officer, in which capacity he served until leaving the post.

Hoosier—

(Continued from Page 1)

were guests of the units. They ate chow in the mess halls and were escorted all over the unit areas. They also appeared on a radio program at the main post where they were interviewed by Lt. A. E. Mathews, assistant special service officer of the 10th Armored Division. In the evening, prior to the contest, they enjoyed dinner as guest of the Service Club.

Lt. Mathews served as master of ceremonies for the contest and ball. Music for dancing was provided by the 11th Armored Regiment band.

Heir-Raid

Major and Mrs. Edward F. Baumer, boy, Feb. 18, Student Training Brigade.

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Gordon T. Erickson, boy, Feb. 18, 505th Parachute Training Regiment.

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Ashton Berckemeyer, girl, Feb. 19, 4th Base, AB Eqdrn.

Pvt. and Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, boy, Feb. 19, Co. R, 1st Parachute Training Regiment.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Elmo E. Parker, girl, Feb. 20, 726th Tank Bn., Service Co.

Sgt. and Mrs. James H. Williams, boy, Feb. 20, 806-4th Ave., Columbus, Ga.

Sgt. and Mrs. Willie Henley, boy, Feb. 20, Detachment, Medical Department, Station Hospital.

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Alfred J. Sapp, girl, Feb. 20, Co. "C", 124th Infantry.

W. O. and Mrs. Marin J. Osteen, boy, Feb. 21, 124th Infantry.

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Odis DeLaunce, boy, Feb. 22, Co. "D", 11th Armored Regiment, 10th Armored Division.

Prizes—

(Continued from Page 1)

D Company of the 2nd Battalion received the loving cup award. The men on the winning squad are Sgt. R. T. Cook, Pvt. R. E. Klein, Cpl. Geno Colombana, Pvt. R. B. Richardson, Pvt. Otto Eichelberg, Pvt. S. T. Gross, Pvt. N. E. Rogers, Pvt. Luther L. Coyle, Pvt. H. L. Nugent, Pvt., R. L. Cooper and Pvt. H. F. Miller.

SQUAD TEST

The following men won the award for the highest score in the regimental squad test for the 2nd Battalion's Headquarters Company: Sgt. T. O. Denham, Pvt. L. C. Fleck, Pvt. L. C. Breedman, Pvt. J. L. Landrum, Pvt. F. J. Tolbert and Pvt. H. Steele.

Lt. Lilborn B. Jackson, commanding officer of E Company, received the award won by his company for scoring the highest company average in rifle marksmanship in the regiment.

Liberty—

(Continued from Page 1)

quite six feet tall, of noble presence and bearing."

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE

Benning, who was a justice in the supreme court of Georgia, was elected by the people of his county as a member of the convention of Georgia, and was sent as commissioner to the Virginia convention in January, 1861.

He entered the Confederate service in August, 1861, as colonel of the 17th Georgia regiment, and in little more than a year from his enlistment, he was promoted to the rank of brigadier general. Benning won for himself the admiring title of "Old Rock" by participating with gallantry in the battles of Second Manassas, Sharpsburg, Fredericksburg, Chickamauga, Wilderness, Thoroughfare Gap, Malvern Hill, Lookout Valley, Fort Loudon, Knoxville, Petersburg, Farmville and other bloody engagements.

Before the close of the War Between the States, Benning rose to the rank of major general. After a short illness he died on July 10, 1875.

BROWN FURNITURE CO.

Keep Up The Home We're Fighting For

16 E. 11th St. Dial 3-5514

WANTED!

We Buy Used Furniture

Thweatt & Son

1242 Broadway

Changes Made At Post Hq.

New Assignments Given Officers

Several changes in divisional organization and in staff assignments were announced at post headquarters Tuesday.

Lt. Col. Clarence A. Will becomes director of the Training Division. Lt. Col. J. D. Rosenberger, Jr., is now director of the Personnel Division, and Capt. Willie D. Veal is director of the Internal Security Division. Colonel Rosenberger is also adjutant and Capt. Veal is the provost marshal.

Now grouped under the administrative division headed by Col. John F. Edgerly, executive officer, are the Army Exchange branch, headed by Lt. Col. Harold E. McCaffey and the Special Service branch headed by Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan.

New assignments also include that of Capt. James Freeman as assistant to the executive officer.

A newly created division is that of Intelligence with Major H. C. Chapman as its director.

Arc—

(Continued from Page 1)

the chapter here in 1942 from families of soldiers relative to Red Cross assistance amounted to 11,989.

The number of telegrams dispatched from the chapter here in 1942 totaled 12,251.

MANY LETTERS

The number of letters received here from soldiers and their families last year totaled 10,890, while the number of letters sent from the local Red Cross amounted to 15,592.

While the Red Cross director and assistant directors spend many hours a day aiding soldiers in their personal problems, many women volunteers spend long hours on Red Cross activities at the post. The Gray Ladies, who work as volunteer service at the Station hospital, aid sick soldiers in their problems. These women spend much time writing letters, counseling and otherwise helping the sick soldiers.

Other women volunteers make thousands of bandages at the Red Cross workroom on the Main Post. These surgical dressings are principally destined for troops overseas.

The scope of the Red Cross at Fort Benning embraces many activities, both the work of the Red Cross regular staff which helps emergencies as well as the work of the women volunteers.

43rd—

(Continued from Page 1)

in the detachment slated for Fort Benning have been trained in a soldier's life. The members of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, according to Army regulations, are eligible to serve with the Army of the United States in the continental United States or overseas.

The 43rd Post Headquarters Company consists of a Company headquarters platoon, a clerical platoon, and a miscellaneous platoon.

The Company headquarters platoon will include a company clerk and other technicians. Included in this platoon also is a baker, four cooks, and two cooks helpers, a similar organization to regular Army companies.

The clerical platoon will bring to Benning stenographers and other clerks for headquarters duties at the Post. This platoon will include a chief clerk, personnel clerk, postal clerks, a record clerk, many technicians.

In the Miscellaneous platoon are three sections, consisting of a Theater section, Service Club section, and Library section. The duties of the auxiliaries in these sections will consist of technical jobs in the various recreational centers on the Post.

Just Received This Week

BRITISH GREEN SHIRTS and SLACKS

18 oz. all wool serge slacks and over sea caps in green or O. D. Garrison caps in O. D. serge or green felt. All wool tropical worsted sun tan shirts and slacks. All wool gabardine shirts in sun tan. Many other desirable items for winter or summer. All of the above items for officers or enlisted men at the lowest prices. Buy now for summer while stocks are complete.

Visit Our Complete Tailor Shop in Rear of Store. Very best work at popular prices. All kind of military work.

FLOWERS BROS.

1026 BROADWAY

Chinese—

(Continued from Page 1)

has succeeded in exterminating China's traitor.

DONATE MILLION DOLLARS

Huie's people in Detroit have given an average of $2 per week to the Chinese Emergency Relief fund since 1938, and in five-and-one-half years they have donated almost one million dollars. The measure of their sacrifice can be understood when it is considered that most of these people earn their living in laundries and restaurants.

Standing this record against the performances of other Americans, Huie makes this contention:

"The American people as a whole are still not beginning to make the sacrifices they should make if we are to win this war. Many of them are still not yet aware that we are at war."

Besides heading this constant drive for funds, Huie dug deep into his own pocket, and in the last five years he has averaged donations of $1,000 each year to the Chinese Relief fund.

Huie's people have not neglected the American war effort either. Last year, in 10 days, they bought $20,000 worth of war bonds, thereby gaining the satisfaction of seeing the newspapers hold up their achievement as phenomenal.

SOFT-SPOKEN EXCEPT

The man who has served as their leader in all of these campaigns is soft-spoken except when he is discussing the Japs. Huie was born in China but he has been an American since 1908 or 1909—he doesn't remember which—when he came to this country with his father. He lived first in Oakland, Calif., and later in San Francisco and Omaha, Neb. Obliged to leave school after he had finished the sixth grade, Huie nevertheless continued his education. For 16 years he has served as representative of a national insurance company in Detroit, his adopted city. As a sideline, he financed a restaurant in Washington, D. C., for a period of six years.

Married, Huie has a step-son, Henry Moy, and a step-daughter, Anna. The girl and her mother have been visiting him here, and Miss Huie graciously donned a Chinese costume to appear at the division Sweethearts' contest and ball at the division Service Club.

Huie was inducted into the Army last fall and assigned to Division Headquarters Co., 10th Armored Division. Because of his age he has been given light duties with the company and for several weeks served as sitting room orderly in the company mess hall. He does not know the nature of his new duties at the main post but he has been asked that he be placed "wherever it is felt I will be of the most value."

Anxious to remain in the Army if he can be of real service, Huie would like otherwise to return to Detroit and his work with his people there.

ATTENTION!

ALTERATIONS

Sewings Of All Kinds

Edna Melvin

1008 BROADWAY

9652 Day — 2-1220 Night

Army Wife Shops in Columbus

By EVE

Womenfolks in general were reprimanded. Seems as though everyone picked the same week to do their spring shopping. No one had any criticism to make of the women who bought for this season's needs. It was those who bought for "tomorrow, and tomorrow and tomorrow". The difficulties of merchandise supply for a consumer demand the size of Fort Benning, is a problem under normal conditions. Obviously abnormal buying will create a situation where some will have cake and others left without a crust of bread. Nevertheless, new spring merchandise is arriving daily and we have the pleasure of choice for our needs of today.

KIRVEN'S have served Fort Benning so long they have a warm personal feeling when they secure merchandise especially adapted to our needs. They're proud of their new line of Yale shirts. The pride is justified. The Yale shirt is especially noteworthy for fine collar fit. No matter what a shirt may have in the way of tailoring and quality material the entire effect matters little unless the collar sets with smooth perfection. This brand of shirt claims a wrinkle free Yale-flex collar that won't wilt or curl. Double stitching with exact matching thread is another item that can't be taken lightly. Too many times the entire appearance of a shirt is destroyed by off color thread. Their selection covers every shirt preference. There's poplin broadcloth, twill, heavy mercerized twill, gabardine, tropical worsted in O. D. shade, forest green and pink grey. These are truly shirts to wear with the fine uniforms that have been chosen with such careful attention to materials and tailoring detail.

— — V — —

One is tempted to long for warm weather when they see the beautiful new cottons KAYSER - LILIENTHAL, INC., have just received. The famous Kay Dunhill dresses in soft chambrays and ginghams are perfect examples of fine dressmaking detail that transforms cotton into a special sort of a dress. Classic in style they "dress up" with a straw cartwheel hat and smart accessories for sophisticated summer wear. The Rocking Chair dresses are demure in the junior sizes. Pique, chambray and cool batistes are lovelies for summer attractiveness. Kayser-Lilienthal, Inc., have received their summer accessories. Gay and practical woven straw bags from Haiti. The blend of bright colors and large envelope style are faultless accessories for your summer wardrobe. A bit more dressy is the white cloth bag with bright colored stripes. The trim of red leather highlights the combination of colors. The new plastic jewelry is another important accessory arrival at this store. Lightweight chains of varied colored plastic necklaces twisted into a lei is an idea for cotton formals as well as day time dresses. They twist into unusually attractive bracelets too. Lapel ornaments in wood and plastic come in intriguing animal and flower designs. The hand-carved silver lapel ornaments are worthy of your attention too. They all are so inexpensive and attractive you won't be able to resist them.

— — V — —

Grown folks will be able to manage nicely on their rationed shoe allowance if they confine their limited purchasing power to fine quality and perfect fit. A real problem is faced by parents of growing children whose play hour enthusiasm makes shoe replacement of Times a monthly necessity. Proper fit with allowance for rapid growth, plus fine quality workmanship is a vital necessity under the circumstances for children's shoes today. No one is better qualified for this service than MILLER - TAYLOR SHOE STORE. They have fitted shoes to army children for so many years that they now sell to these same customers as warm personal feeling when they secure merchandise especially adapted to our needs. They're proud of their new line of Yale shirts. The pride is justified. The Yale shirt is especially noteworthy for fine collar fit. No matter what a shirt may have in the way of tailoring and quality material the entire effect matters little unless the collar sets with smooth perfection. This brand of shirt claims a wrinkle free Yale-flex collar that won't wilt or curl. Double stitching with exact matching thread is another item that can't be taken lightly. Too many times the entire appearance of a shirt is destroyed by off color thread. Their selection covers every shirt preference. There's poplin broadcloth, twill, heavy mercerized twill, gabardine, tropical worsted in O. D. shade, forest green and pink grey. These are truly shirts to wear with the fine uniforms that have been chosen with such careful attention to materials and tailoring detail.

— — V — —

One is tempted to long for warm weather when they see the beautiful new cottons KAYSER - LILIENTHAL, INC., have just received. The famous Kay Dunhill dresses in soft chambrays and ginghams are perfect examples of fine dressmaking detail that transforms cotton into a special sort of a dress. Classic in style they "dress up" with a straw cartwheel hat and smart accessories for sophisticated summer wear. The Rocking Chair dresses are demure in the junior sizes. Pique, chambray and cool batistes are lovelies for summer attractiveness. Kayser-Lilienthal, Inc., have received their summer accessories. Gay and practical woven straw bags from Haiti. The blend of bright colors and large envelope style are faultless accessories for your summer wardrobe. A bit more dressy is the white cloth bag with bright colored stripes. The trim of red leather highlights the combination of colors. The new plastic jewelry is another important accessory arrival at this store. Lightweight chains of varied colored plastic necklaces twisted into a lei is an idea for cotton formals as well as day time dresses. They twist into unusually attractive bracelets too. Lapel ornaments in wood and plastic come in intriguing animal and flower designs. The hand-carved silver lapel ornaments are worthy of your attention too. They all are so inexpensive and attractive you won't be able to resist them.

— — V — —

Grown folks will be able to manage nicely on their rationed shoe allowance if they confine their limited purchasing power to fine quality and perfect fit. A real problem is faced by parents of growing children whose play hour enthusiasm makes shoe replacement of Times a monthly necessity. Proper fit with allowance for rapid growth, plus fine quality workmanship is a vital necessity under the circumstances for children's shoes today. No one is better qualified for this service than MILLER - TAYLOR SHOE STORE. They have fitted shoes to army children for so many years that they now sell to these same customers as warm personal feeling when they secure merchandise especially adapted to our needs. They're proud of their new line of Yale shirts. The pride is justified. The Yale shirt is especially noteworthy for fine collar fit. No matter what a shirt may have in the way of tailoring and quality material the entire effect matters little unless the collar sets with smooth perfection. This brand of shirt claims a wrinkle free Yale-flex collar that won't wilt or curl. Double stitching with exact matching thread is another item that can't be taken lightly. Too many times the entire appearance of a shirt is destroyed by off color thread. Their selection covers every shirt preference. There's poplin broadcloth, twill, heavy mercerized twill, gabardine, tropical worsted in O. D. shade, forest green and pink grey. These are truly shirts to wear with the fine uniforms that have been chosen with such careful attention to materials and tailoring detail.

— — V — —

One is tempted to long for warm weather when they see the beautiful new cottons KAYSER - LILIENTHAL, INC., have just received. The famous Kay Dunhill dresses in soft chambrays and ginghams are perfect examples of fine dressmaking detail that transforms cotton into a special sort of a dress. Classic in style they "dress up" with a straw cartwheel hat and smart accessories for sophisticated summer wear. The Rocking Chair dresses are demure in the junior sizes. Pique, chambray and cool batistes are lovelies for summer attractiveness. Kayser-Lilienthal, Inc., have received their summer accessories. Gay and practical woven straw bags from Haiti. The blend of bright colors and large envelope style are faultless accessories for your summer wardrobe. A bit more dressy is the white cloth bag with bright colored stripes. The trim of red leather highlights the combination of colors. The new plastic jewelry is another important accessory arrival at this store. Lightweight chains of varied colored plastic necklaces twisted into a lei is an idea for cotton formals as well as day time dresses. They twist into unusually attractive bracelets too. Lapel ornaments in wood and plastic come in intriguing animal and flower designs. The hand-carved silver lapel ornaments are worthy of your attention too. They all are so inexpensive and attractive you won't be able to resist them.

— — V — —

Grown folks will be able to manage nicely on their rationed shoe allowance if they confine their limited purchasing power to fine quality and perfect fit. A real problem is faced by parents of growing children whose play hour enthusiasm makes shoe replacement of Times a monthly necessity. Proper fit with allowance for rapid growth, plus fine quality workmanship is a vital necessity under the circumstances for children's shoes today. No one is better qualified for this service than MILLER - TAYLOR SHOE STORE. They have fitted shoes to army children for so many years that they now sell to these same customers as warm personal feeling when they secure merchandise especially adapted to our needs. They're proud of their new line of Yale shirts. The pride is justified. The Yale shirt is especially noteworthy for fine collar fit. No matter what a shirt may have in the way of tailoring and quality material the entire effect matters little unless the collar sets with smooth perfection. This brand of shirt claims a wrinkle free Yale-flex collar that won't wilt or curl. Double stitching with exact matching thread is another item that can't be taken lightly. Too many times the entire appearance of a shirt is destroyed by off color thread. Their selection covers every shirt preference. There's poplin broadcloth, twill, heavy mercerized twill, gabardine, tropical worsted in O. D. shade, forest green and pink grey. These are truly shirts to wear with the fine uniforms that have been chosen with such careful attention to materials and tailoring detail.

— — V — —

One is tempted to long for warm weather when they see the beautiful new cottons KAYSER - LILIENTHAL, INC., have just received. The famous Kay Dunhill dresses in soft chambrays and ginghams are perfect examples of fine dressmaking detail that transforms cotton into a special sort of a dress. Classic in style they "dress up" with a straw cartwheel hat and smart accessories for sophisticated summer wear. The Rocking Chair dresses are demure in the junior sizes. Pique, chambray and cool batistes are lovelies for summer attractiveness. Kayser-Lilienthal, Inc., have received their summer accessories. Gay and practical woven straw bags from Haiti. The blend of bright colors and large envelope style are faultless accessories for your summer wardrobe. A bit more dressy is the white cloth bag with bright colored stripes. The trim of red leather highlights the combination of colors. The new plastic jewelry is another important accessory arrival at this store. Lightweight chains of varied colored plastic necklaces twisted into a lei is an idea for cotton formals as well as day time dresses. They twist into unusually attractive bracelets too. Lapel ornaments in wood and plastic come in intriguing animal and flower designs. The hand-carved silver lapel ornaments are worthy of your attention too. They all are so inexpensive and attractive you won't be able to resist them.

— — V — —

Grown folks will be able to manage nicely on their rationed shoe allowance if they confine their limited purchasing power to fine quality and perfect fit. A real problem is faced by parents of growing children whose play hour enthusiasm makes shoe replacement of Times a monthly necessity. Proper fit with allowance for rapid growth, plus fine quality workmanship is a vital necessity under the circumstances for children's shoes today. No one is better qualified for this service than MILLER - TAYLOR SHOE STORE. They have fitted shoes to army children for

Wasn't the Fashion Show staged by the PATRICIA GOWN SHOP last Tuesday a grand occasion? That told better than in any words of mine of the lovely costume effects one could achieve from this shop. Seeing our friends as models made the show a personal pleasure for the gowns they modeled were perfectly chosen for them. The shoes they were in the show were from Miller and Taylor Shoe Company. To those of us who live on the Post the shop in the Doughboy Stadium has become an important and pleasant place to shop. For those who live in town the shop on the third floor of the Ralston Hotel will be more convenient. Especially appealing this week are the new spring formals in both the Fort Benning and Ralston Hotel shops. They're so perfectly in tune with the spring season. Crisp chintzes splashed with flowers, sophisticated silk print dinner dresses, taffeta stripes as appealing as a stick of candy, frothy mousseline de soie billowing out from a tight bodice. Bewitching frocks for our lighter moments, all of them.

Wasn't the Fashion Show staged by the PATRICIA GOWN SHOP last Tuesday a grand occasion? That told better than in any words of mine of the lovely costume effects one could achieve from this shop. Seeing our friends as models made the show a personal pleasure for the gowns they modeled were perfectly chosen for them. The shoes they were in the show were from Miller and Taylor Shoe Company. To those of us who live on the Post the shop in the Doughboy Stadium has become an important and pleasant place to shop. For those who live in town the shop on the third floor of the Ralston Hotel will be more convenient. Especially appealing this week are the new spring formals in both the Fort Benning and Ralston Hotel shops. They're so perfectly in tune with the spring season. Crisp chintzes splashed with flowers, sophisticated silk print dinner dresses, taffeta stripes as appealing as a stick of candy, frothy mousseline de soie billowing out from a tight bodice. Bewitching frocks for our lighter moments, all of them.

'Going to Town' Plays Alabama Area March 4

Beautiful Girls To Entertain Paratroopers

The new Broadway musical revue, "Going to Town", featuring musical comedy and radio favorites of the day, will be presented by USO-Camp Shows at Theater No. 10 Alabama Parachute area, on March 4.

This is a major attraction on the USO-Camp Shows circuit, which includes virtually all the camps, naval stations and marine bases in the country. This season USO-Camp Shows is presenting greater and more lavish entertainment for the men in the armed forces than ever before.

"Going to Town" boasts one of the top-ranking girl acts before the public today. It is the Paul Tisen All-American Girls, a group of talented and attractive girls who play every type of music, including current hit tunes, Gypsy melodies, novel arrangements of the popular classics and solid swing. Featured artists are Ariana, violinist; Lillian Anderson, soprano; Gertrude Hopkins, harpist; Diana Bernhardt, pianist, and the Singing Strings. The latter are six comely girls, each a violin virtuoso, grouper together in a series of musical treats unusual in their sparkling arrangements, brilliant presentation and varied repertoire. The "Melodears" with their distinctive playing and their feminine charm and grave make this act one of the outstanding attractions of the season.

Joe Termini, the musical clown and pantomimist, plays various instruments, including the electric Hawaiian guitar in the inimitable and comical manner which have had his audiences rocking with laughter and mirth-wherever he has appeared, which means every leading theatre and supper club in Europe, Australia and the United States.

Rounding out the show are Coley North and Marcia, one of the cleverest teams in show business. Their comedy and dancing are strictly big-time, high-lighted by his satirical comments on topics of the day.

"Going to Town" will be presented free of charge, as is customary with all USO-Camp Shows.

OVER 100% IN WAR BONDS

HAPPENINGS at HARVEY'S RESTAURANT

"We Buy The Best For You"

Harvey's appreciates the patronage of all Fort Benning personnel. When the soldiers gather there, many hilarious events are certain to happen. Mr. Sam Dardarin, the owner of Harvey's, is going to relate a few in this column each week.

★

One day, right after pay day, a sergeant comes in Harvey's and orders a T-bone steak. After finishing his steak he asks the waitress for an order of fried chicken. He no more than finishes this when he orders apple pie a la mode with a double order of ice cream. "The amazed waitness comes to me," says Mr. Dardarin, "and tells me what has happened." My curiosity told me to ask him what was the idea of eating so much food. His answer was "I don't care today. I've got the money today. When I go back to camp I'll have to eat what they give me!"

★

Mr. Dardarin says that he has just received a shipment of steaks from Chicago—the best Harvey's has ever had. Please come in before they are all gone.

★

Our Chef Formerly From Statler Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Located. 1309 Broadway

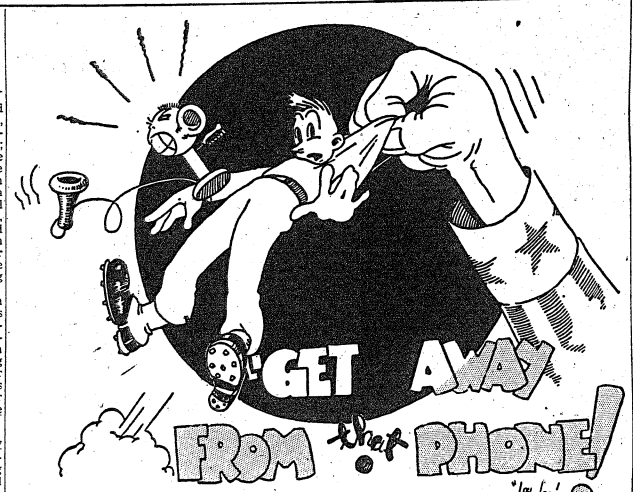
Finance Officers Cannot Furnish Income Reports

Finance personnel officers will not prepare and submit reports to commissioners of internal revenue and state authorities covering payments made to military and civilian personnel during 1942, according to a War Department directive received at post headquarters.

Furthermore, it will not be possible for the local finance officer to furnish individual reports of income for the past year to soldiers or civilian employees on the reservation. It is the responsibility of every one concerned to determine from personal records or memory total earnings during the past year to be reported on income tax returns.

Classifications and monthly rates of pay for civilians at this post range from $52.50 to $383.33, excluding overtime. If unknown by individuals concerned, rates can be obtained from activity personnel officers.

PFC. SCHECKMAN GUEST CONDUCTOR



Pfc. Harold Scheckman of the 29th Infantry was guest conductor of the Columbus Symphony orchestra in the concert presented at the Ninth Street U. S. O. club Sunday morning. With Scheckman appeared many other Fort Benning musicians. The program featured a variety of numbers called "symphonic jazz."

ROSS TOO BUSY!

Barney Ross, now a corporal in the Marines and recently voted the man who did the most for boxing the past year, was not on hand to receive the Edward Neil Memorial Trophy at the New York Boxing Writers' banquet Feb. 17. Col. Harvey L. Miller received the award for the Chicago boxer, who recently defended three wounded comrades all night against a Jap-infested foxhole on Guadalcanal.

KEEP 'EM RUNNING

Johnny Kelley, 35-year-old marathon runner and winner of more than 500 prizes, is now a private at Ft. McClellan, Ala. Kelley was National A. A. U. 25 kilo champ in 1941 and '42. He was also winner of the Boston marathon in 1935, and was second in '34, '37, '40, and '41. He was on the U. S. Olympic teams of 1936 and '40.

TIS Student Relates Adventures Among Nazis

Germans Evade Annoying Questions On Blood Purge

One officer candidate who has had his share of travels is Candidate William A. Hart, Jr., of Wilmington, Delaware, recently assigned to the Fifth Company, Third Student Training Regiment.

The trip that stands out in his experience is the one he made to Germany in 1938, as part of the large exchange of students this country made with the Reich.

Hart tells of absorbing sight seeing tours to youth camps, labor camps, jung-volk meetings, athletic events, etc. Once he spent two weeks in the Bavarian Alps at a youth hostel that was situated near a beautiful lake. Here the Americans took part in numerous contests with the young Germans and Hart explained that although the visitors were merely average and not picked for their athletic abilities, the Hitlerites lost an embarrasing percentages of wins.

MOUNTAIN CLIMB

On one occasion a dozen were invited to go on a mountain climb. The trip was extremely hazardous, Hart explained, the steep trails and precipices being thickly coated with ice and snow. At one place a deep gorge was connected with a narrow strip about fifty yards across and three to four feet wide, with a sheer drop on either side of several thousand feet. The Germans, anxious to show their nonchalant disregard for danger, started single file across the chasm. The Americans wouldn't have tried it for love nor money, Hart grinned, but they couldn't let their hosts see they were worried, so out into space they followed, wishing to a man that they could get astraddle and inch themselves along.

During the whole ten weeks they were there, the American students were accompanied by a leader of over 20,000 Nazis and a German doctor. They stayed in the elite hotels and saw most of the historical sites and high spots of the Rhineland, including the Sigfried Line.

HELIUM CUT

It was during this time that the United States had cut off helium to the Deutschlund. On viewing the sister ship of the dirigible Hindenberg under construction, talk was broached over America's refusal to sell helium, the Germans contending that it was totally unfair and a breach of neighborliness.

Candidate Hart said he was impressed by the stock answers to unorthodox questions the inquisitive Americans would ask. For instance, he pointed out that he asked several youths about Hitler's "blood purge" of high ranking politices. "It's the same as when a doctor cuts away a cancer," they would explain, "some of the good flesh must come away with the bad."

During 1937 Hart's gypsy blood had earlier asserted itself and he hied away on a tramp steamer and "bummed" his way over to Finland, through Lapland to the Arctic circle, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Poland and Russia.

RUSSIAN ADVENTURE

A very interesting journey along Norway's coast in a fishing boat, on which he was the only English-speaking person is one he'll never forget. He recalls visits to numerous Norwegian towns which are now in German hands.

Candidate Hart has taken several canoe trips through Canada and has hunted and fished extensively through that part of the continent. He's also been to the West Indies.

He claims Russia and Russians were the most unapproachable, explaining that it's very hard to gain entrance to the country and once you're there you're busy explaining why you're there and who you are.

Candidate Hart received his basic training at Fort McClellan, Ala. If he successfully completes the rugged three-month course here at the Infantry School he will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army of the United States on May 3.

Anti-Tank Platoon Misses Expert Rating By Point

A challenge to all trainee outfits to beat a 94.17 percent record in firing the 37 MM. anti-tank gun on the range was issued this week by the anti-tank platoon of Headquarters Company, Third Battalion, 300th Infantry, after they scored 149 points, only one under expert qualification for the entire platoon.

Of a group of 39 men still in their basic training and firing the weapon on the range for the first time, the record included 24 experts, nine first class gunners, four second class gunners, and only two unqualified.

The men, their platoon leader, Lt. Henry C. Brown, and his cadre, Sgts. Dewitt T. Burkhalter and Willie R. Dinkins, all were highly commended by Lt. Elmo R. Struth, the company commander.

Top scorers were Fergerson and Roberts, with 185's; Perez and Tenocci, 175; and Russell, 170. Those with scores from 165 down to 150 included: Musser, Szymansky, Hyde, Gustafson, Schillings, Brush, Doty, Kawalski, Smith, Evans, Floyd, Wiseman, Wolters, Jurzak, Droege, Leonard, Tatarcuk, Hite and Barone.

Newark, N. J.—(CNS)—Police are looking for a stolen car. It belonged to the Police Department.

Second STR O. C. Did Publicity for Film Stars

Wilde Promoted Gracie Allen's China Relief Drive

Remember the publicity stunt a while ago when Gracie Allen blossomed forth as a surrealist painter to rival Salvitore Dali?

Well, Candidate Harold E. Wilde of the Fifteenth Company, Second Student Training Regiment, was behind it!

The plan was to raise money for the United China Relief and, at the same time, get publicity for Gracie Allen. The execution of the idea was simple.

A struggling painter was hired to dab on canvas the craziest things he could think of. This done, he vanished from the scene, and "Gracie Allen's work" was shown throughout the land in leading art galleries.

FUNDS POUR IN

The result was a considerable sum of money poured into the coffers of United China Relief, and Gracie Allen got reams of publicity. The only sufferers were the art critics who had to criticize the paintings.

Candidate Wilde was selected last year by Future Magazine as one of America's 10 outstanding young men. He has been in the publicity business since 1938. After graduation from college that year he went to seek his fortune in Hollywood.

He found the going hard and was about to return home in disgust when he secured a position with the firm of Tom Fizdale Inc., who handled publicity for several motion picture celebrities.

BIG NAMES

Soon after, Candidate Wilde was handling such accounts as Bob Hope, Jerry Colonna, the late John Barrymore, Burns and Allen, Joan Blondell, Benny Goodman, Eddie Cantor, Fibber McGee and Molly, Al Jolson, Martha Raye, Ned Sparks, Ezra (Henry Aldrich) Stone, Frances Langford, Jon Hall, Ted Weems, Jackie Cooper, Jack Haley, Una Merkel, Dick Powell and many others.

After a year in Fizdale's Hollywood office, Candidate Wilde was chosen to go to Chicago to manage the firm's branch office. There he handled publicity for "soap operas."

Jascha Heifetz Presents Recorded Works To Club

An album of recorded works of Jascha Heifetz has been received at Service Club No. 2, in the Harmony church area, a gift of the eminent musician, Mrs. Winifred Baker, hostess, announces. The records are now available for use there.

Mr. Heifetz directed that the album be sent to Ft. Benning when he became ill with pneumonia last December and his scheduled appearance there had to be cancelled. There was a delay, however, in the shipment, of the album.

The violinist is now scheduled for an appearance here later in this spring.

Ex-Tar of Italian Navy Deserts to Join Yanks

Asserts Heart Did Not Believe In Axis Cause

Pvt. Marian Ghersanich of the 55th Armored Engineers Battalion 10th Armored Division, is slightly mystified as to how he landed in the army of the United States, especially since he is a sailor by trade and more particularly since he is an ex-sailor of the Italian navy. But he is taking it all in good grace—and he has no sympathy for the Italy of Mussolini's manufacture.

Born in southern Austria in 1909, Ghersanich automatically became an Italian citizen 10 years later when this section of Austria was given to Italy by terms of the Armistice. He was drafted into the Italian navy in 1929 and served nearly three years, and while he had no great fonness for this organization he did acquire a liking for the sea. Subsequently, he joined the merchant marine and for nine years he traveled to all parts of the world.

SHIP EXPLODES

In November, 1939, two months after the beginning of the second World War, Ghersanich was aboard an Italian ship which had just taken on a cargo of brass and steel at Antwerp, Belgium—for Italian consumption. On its return trip, while passing through the English Channel, the ship exploded. Ghersanich says it was not sabotage but he does not know what caused the explosion since the channel had not been mined at that time. The captain tried to take the ship to the French shore, but 30 miles off Dunkirk she sank, and the crew took to lifeboats. They drifted for 24 hours until they were picked up by a Swedish ship and carried to Dunkirk.

DESERTS AXIS

But Ghersanich wanted to be with the other side in the war. He had never belonged to the Fascist party in Italy—as a matter of fact, he had spent so much time at sea that he had been away from Italy most of the time—and he believed that the Allied cause was the right cause. So he made one more trip with the Italian merchant marine, arriving in this country aboard the "Alfredo Oriani" in January, 1940. The ship docked at Baltimore, Md., and Ghersanich deserted. When immigration authorities caught up with him, they decided that his belief in democratic ways was genuine, and allowed him to stay.

The only regret that Ghersanich has now is that he could not be serving with the American merchant marine, but he is more than willing to do his best as a soldier in the American army.

PLAYERS JOIN UP

As of Feb. 1, 128 ball players have left the American League to enter the armed forces. It's broken down this a way: Army, 65; Navy, 58; Marines, 1 (Lt. Ted Lyons of the White Sox); Royal Canadian Air Force, 2 (Phil Marchildon of the A's and Joe Krakauskas of the Indians); and undetermined branch, 2.

3-Point Travel Program Outlined By ODT Chief

In requesting the War Department's assistance in the matter of reducing unnecessary travel on public carriers, Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, has outlined a three-point program to be followed by federal agencies, the public relations office at Ft. Benning announced today.

Civilian employes of the War Department were commended by the ODT director for their fine spirit of understanding and cooperation in complying with the last such request by foregoing annual leave at Christmas time when such leave involved travel by public transportation facilities. Further cooperation of all officers and employes is now desired in a continuing program to reduce travel to an essential minimum during the war emergency.

The three-point program follows:

1. Scheduled spacing of annual leaves which involve travel by public transportation facilities throughout the period from Jan. 15 to Dec. 15 in such a way as to avoid holidya periods and to cause leaves to begin and end during the middle of the week.

2. Careful review by all officers and employes of their government business travel, looking toward a minimum amount of travel consistent with the best interests of the department.

3. Careful scrutiny of all requests for speakers at conventions, sales meetings, industry shows and other travel-stimulating gatherings.

FLIERS PRESS GRANT

The Camp Grant (Ill.) cagers with 19 straight wins to their credit, met a fighting, unheralded team from Selfridge Field, Mich. recently and had to come from behind in the last few minutes of play to nose out the Flyers 36-33. Selfridge Field led throughout the game until the last five minutes, when the Warriors from Camp Grant tied the game up at 29-29. The score was tied again at 30-30; then the Warriors went ahead to win. Two former college stars were in the Camp Grant lineup; Paul McCall, Bradley Tech, and Don Blanken, Purdue.

We Give You The BEST And Most Satisfactory CLEANING With 40 Years of QUALITY SERVICE

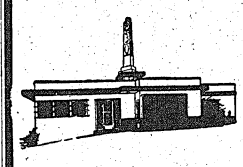
To Make Your Clothes LOOK BETTER and LAST LONGER

Bring 'Em to Us Today

Lafkowitz Bros.

Flowers Building

1208 First, Ave. Dial 7062



Visit The Blue Jay Barber and Beauty Shop

"IT PAYS TO LOOK WELL"

2220 Wynnton Rd. Dial 9260

8:30 GRILL

It's Permissable To Park Your Car At Our Food Establishment

LOBSTERS STEAKS CHICKEN BEVERAGES

DINE AT THE 8:30

Dial 9314 For Your Reservation

1200 13th St.

RECAPPING and VULCANIZING

O. P. A. TIRE INSPECTION STATION NO. 7

CITY TIRE and RUBBER CO.

1042 WYNNTON RD. DIAL 3-2434

MATCH HIS NEATNESS

With trim, neat clothes

"WE USE THE MOST MODERN METHODS"

One of Columbus' Newest Cleaners

Cash and Carry Curb Service

SCIENTIFIC DRY CLEANERS

Located Conveniently at Corner Cusseta Rd. and Brown Ave.

Interstate Luncheonette

Soldiers Welcome

Located Next to U. S. O. in Greyhound Bus Station

PAT PATTERSON 44th & 2nd AVENUE

THE BEST FRIED CHICKEN IN THIS TOWN

No. 1 KANSAS CITY STEAKS THAT'S REALLY TENDER

CAT FISH DINNERS GA. STYLE

COME OUT ON THE NORTH HIGHLAND BUS BRING THE FAMILY TONIGHT!

Try Our Sea Food Course — 8 Private Dining Rooms

Bring back that glistening satiny smoothness to worn, scuffed floors with PITTSBURGH WATERSPAR VARNISH. Goes on in a jiffy. Dries in 4 hours. It wears and wears! Impervious to caustic soaps and boiling water.

WATERSPAR VARNISH PER QUART..... $1.40

G. & H. PAINT & GLASS CO.

PAINT, BRUSHES, GLASS

1016 Broadway Dial 7341

Colors by Nature • Paints by Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH PAINTS Smooth as Satin

Attention! OFFICER CANDIDATES

See Our Display at FORT BENNING or Visit Our Store for Complete

★ UNIFORMS
★ CAPS – TIES
★ SLACKS
★ SHIRTS ★ INSIGNIA
★ MILITARY SUPPLIES

WE GUARANTEE 100% DELIVERY OF ALL GOODS PURCHASED

We Deliver 1 Week Prior to Graduation

OPEN SAT. TIL 10:30 P.M.

OPEN WEEK DAYS TIL 8:30 FT. BENNING TIME

LEVINSON BROS.

1220 BROADWAY DIAL 3-3051

O. C. Globetrotter Says Germans Did Not Expect To Fight America Again

Englishman Are Best In Back To Wall Scrap

High praise for the British as fighters once they are aroused as well as respect for the fighting qualities of the Germans when they are winning come from Officer Candidate W. Wallace Ryan, a much- traveled member of the 18th Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School, who has lived and studied in several European schools.

"The magnificent stand of the British at Dunkirk and their quick rebound are typically British," he states. "The British appear to put forth their best effort when they're backed against the wall. They don't like to fight." In school in England I had only one fight in six years.

"It takes a great deal to provoke an Englishman, but he is a formidable and dangerous foe once he gets going. He's tenacious, capable of withstanding severe hardships. The British Eighth Army, I believe, is a good example of what the British can do."

GERMANS DANGEROUS

However, Ryan added, the German soldier, too, is a dangerous foe, especially when he is winning. He remembers the German soldiers parading through the streets of Berlin with wooden guns back in the early twenties, eager once again to clash with the British.

"The Germans, I believe, didn't expect to fight the Americans once again," Ryan opined, "inasmuch as they felt they could use us commercially and make it to our interest to fight against England. Too, they believed we were a soft nation, although capable of wrecking thier plans. Our entrance into the conflict undoubtedly alarmed the German people to a great degree."

Candidate Ryan, son of Thomas R. Ryan, 58 West Seventieth street, New York City, was born in Chicago, but he spoke Spanish and Portuguese and was reading French, Swiss and German primers long before he got around to the English language.

The 51-year-old, slender, soft-spoken candidate contends, however, that his chief bid for fame lies in a direction other than his linguistic versatility and the fact that he studied a famous Swiss, French and English schools besides our own top-ranking Harvard.

His comely sister, Virginia, training as a WAAC at Fort Oglethorpe, recently was featured in a newsreel. Born in Mexico when her brother was developing a taste for bull fights and tamales rather than for baseball and hot dogs, she is one of the few "Latins" serving with the WAACs.

"People wonder how I was born in Chicago and my sister in Mexico and how it came about that I first spoke every language but English when my parents were Americans," Ryan offered during the interview.

FATHER RAILROADER

"Its simple: In Mexico my father was a railroad man for an American concern. We was transferred to Mexico shortly after I was born. Later, he went to Brazil and, when the war started, he saw service in many parts o fEurope. I tagged along after him."

Ryan's father, commissioned a major in the railroad engineers at the start of the last conflict, served in Europe during the war. After hostilities he was a member of the Hoover Relief Mission, the Polish Railroad Commission and the Berlin Reparations Commission.

"Dad did a lot of traveling and was a firm believer in travel as a source of knowledge and as a means of securing a broad background. Rather than leave me in the States, he enrolled me in different schools in various countries. It gave me a swell chance to learn the languages, traits and customs of the people.

REVENGE WAR

"And I saw a great deal too," Ryan continued, "particularly in Germany, where the preparations for a revenge war were very apparent even as early at 1921."

Ryan's happier memories, however, revolve about Mexico and Brazil. His first nurse—happy, tender, typically Mexican Pilar—taught him his first words. They, of course, were Spanish. From his little Mexican playmates in Chihuahua and Mexico City, Ryan added more words to his vocabulary and to like Mexican games and so on.

"When we moved to Brazil, I had to learn Portuguese," Ryan recounted. "I was about six years old, and while my parents had taught me some English, I felt more comfortable speaking Spanish and Portuguese. Baseketball and baseball were silly games they played in the States, I thought, for I was having more fun riding, playing handball and engaging in the rough and tumble sports of the Brazilians."

Ryan's father left the railroad in 1917 when he enlisted in the United States Army and promptly was sent overseas. He remained in Europe with the Army of Occupation an Army of which young Ryan hopes he will eventually ebcome a member.

KNEW PADEREWSKI

"When Dad was with the Polish Railroad Commission I met and was liked by the great statesman, pianist and composer, Ignatz Paderewski," Ryan recalled. "He was the Polish premier when my father was with the Polish Railroad Commission. Our suite in Warsaw's Hotel Bristol was directly below Paderewski's apartment, and although the great statesman seemed to be continually cheerful and kind in the face of terrific problems, I know he was worried and tired. Late at night I could hear him pacing the floor above for hours."

While his father was in Poland, young Ryan was enrolled in school in Switzerland. He attended Magdalen College School in Oxford, England, took some courses at the Alliance Francaise and then was accepted at Harvard. He had not forgotten Europe, however. His four-month vacations annually were spent in travel, for the most part throughout Germany.

Army Supplies
Novelties
All Toilet Items
H. C. SMITH DRUG STORE
One of Columbus' Oldest
1002 BROADWAY

French Told 'No War Coming,' O. C. States

Country Awaits Real Invasion By United Nations

Under the heading of famous people to attend Officers Candidate School at Fort Benning, should be added the name of Candidate Jerome Jean Brooks, First Company, Third Student Training Regiment, former managing director of "Editious Salabirt" of Paris, the largest music publishing house in Europe. Candidate Brooks was also personal representative of M.G.M. Studios and Irving Berlin for music in Paris.

Coming to this country for the first time in April of 1939, Brooks accomplished three things he expressly desired. Namely to immigrate to the United States, to see the World Fair at New York, and to visit his brother, who is manager of the New York office of Chappel Music Corporation.

After remaining in this country for six weeks, Candidate Brooks returned to France to close his business. However, hostilities of the present war necessitated immediate departure because of his being a subject of this country.

Upon final entry into this country, Brooks left his life-long field of music and engaged in sales promotion work until his induction into the army in July of last year.

FRENCH VIEWPOINT

When asked the questions, "What was the attitude of the French people to the fall of France?" and, "What did the French think of the German invasion?" he stated, "In the first place, it is necessary that you get the French point of view. I was told, as far back as 1938, by M. Langerson, the police Prefect of Paris, 'France is doomed! Our country (meaning France) cannot keep up on the production of planes and weapons with Hitler.'"

"At the same time," explained Brooks, "the French people were being led to believe by the French government that war was not close, that the French should not consider war of any type except a purely protective war and the invasion of the Ruehr was not in that catagory. Or in other words, don't expect war, don't accept war."

MAGINOT LINE

"Naturally," Brooks said, "no one expected the type of invasion France experienced. The people had been led to have absolute faith in the Maginot Line, and as it proved, the Germans didn't come through the line, they came around it."

"Now as to the reason for not completing the line to the coast—well, everyone thought that the combined forces of Belgium, Holland and France could protect that portion of the country. How wrong that was as we look back at it now."

"Not until there is a real invasion of Allied troops, I mean not just a few troops, but many, will the French people take up arms against the Germans," was Candidate Brooks answer to the next question. "They have absolute faith in the United States Army, and will at such a time do what they can internally to help such a movement."

Upon completion of basic training at Camp Croft, S. C., Brooks was sent to Combat Intelligence School at that camp before being assigned to Fort Benning, for Officers training.

Brooks is also a member of the French Society of Authors, having been awarded this outstanding honor for his work in translating English, American and Austrian plays into his native language.

Soldiers May Buy Clothing At PX

Enlisted men are now permitted to purchase directly regulation trousers, shirts, caps, belts, ties, socks, underwear, metal insignia and clothing insignia, including chevrons, and various type patches, according to an announcement by the adjutant general's office.

In the past it was necessary to make these purchases through unit supply officers.

WAGS Housed In Old Barrels

Uncle Sam is rolling out the barrel for the members of his canine corps now on duty as guards at factories, camps and other military installations according to the quartermaster branch of the supply division at Fort Benning.

According to Benning officials, 250 discarded whiskey barrels have been converted into doghouses for the "WAGS," as the four-footed warriors are called.

The barrels are cleaned, lined with paraffin, and mounted on wooden cradles. One end is sealed and the other shielded by a blanket.

The new barrel kennels cost the Quartermaster corps only about $3.50 apiece, while the average cost of a standard doghouse is more than $30.

OFFICERS PROMOTED

Ten officers of the 29th Infantry have been promoted to higher ranks, it was announced today.

Capt. Henry B. Kimmey was promoted to major. First Lieutenants Philip C. Brunori, Richard S. Johnson, Conley D. Hathorn and David J. Henderson were promoted to captain, and promotions to first lieutenant went to Second Lieutenants James C. Curtis, Charles R. Howard, James W. Morris, Robert L. Jordan and Austin W. Smith.

Houston, Tex. (CNS) — Prime exhibit and theme of the Stock Show scheduled here next month will be rabbits. Idea is to convince public rabbit meat is tempting, delicious and nutritious.

Arcata, Cal. (CNS)—A six-day-old baby was tossed from the second story window of a blazing hospital here and landed unhurt. Mrs. Laura Ward, the mother, then jumped clad only in her blazing gown. She suffered burns.

Post Classification Head Urges Recruits To Relax

Men Should Reveal Talents, Hobbies To Help Placement

Relax when you go before the classification officer and talk to him as you would to a school advisor—or to your family physician—was the advice given today to the new groups of 18 and 19 year oldesters who are now coming into the Army, by Lieut. Charles Houghland, classification officer at Fort Benning.

"Too many men 'freeze up' when they talk to the classification officer as they are inducted into the Army and later return to attempt to reclassification," he said. "They always tell us that if they had only known what it was all about, they would have told more about themselves.

"Thousands of the younger men are now coming into the Army. For them the job of classification may be difficult because many of them have no trades or training. Yet the Army is anxious to place them where they will be of most value and where they can utilize natural talents and abailities.

ARMY NEEDS SKILLS

"In many instances these young men have skills and talents that the Army needs badly. Yet if they become tense and excited over being interviewed, we never find out about it. As a consequence the new soldier often does not get the full advantage of Army schools and training programs—and the Army doesn't get full value out of the man.

"The Army maintains many schools and has many branches where the young man has a chance to learn a trade, take new training or follow up abilities and talents already developed. The classification test system makes every effort to place new men in places for which they are best fitted and where they will learn something useful to them after the war as well.

HOBBIES USEFUL

"Sometimes a man may not realize how a hobby or a talent may help him. An example is a man who went through the Classification Center recently at Fort Benning. He had been a clerk in a store but liked to play the piano. A few tests showed that he was well qualified because of his training of ear and fingers to be a good radio technician. Now he has gone through a school and has learned something that has made him an asset to the Army and has prepared him for radio technician work after the war.

"The best advice is not to be afraid of the Classification Tests. Don't worry about 'boning up' for them in advance—they are designed to find out how intelligent you are, and how you are inclined mechanically. Chances are that you'll make the same grade if you come in relaxed and bright and fresh as if you bought a lot of books to study beforehand. When you face the classification officer, just consider him the best friend you'll ever have in the Army and tell him all about yourself. It's your first big step in the proper direction when you come into the Army."

February-Born Soldiers Honored At Hospital Party

A party for all of the men in the Station Hospital whose birthdays came during February was staged with 82 of the men being honored on Washington's birthday.

The big birthday party was arranged by Miss Pauline McKinley, director of recreation for the Hospital Red Cross. An individual birthday cake was provided for the 64 ambulatory patients who sat at a specially decorated table while cakes and ice cream were taken to the beds of 18 bed patients.

Several vaudeville acts from the 10th Armored Division were presented in the recreation hall for the men and others as well from the hospital. Pvt. Richard Smith, of the 11th Armored Regiment, acted as master of ceremonies.

Private Stanley Jones of the 80th Medics, 10th Armored Division, is working in the right place. He went to school in Pittsburgh, studied nursing with 500 women, 15 men.

Truck Unit Promotes 41

Since the activation of the Infantry School's Provisional Truck Regiment, Colonel Frank J. Vida commanding 41 officers have been promoted. They include:

Promoted to lieutenant colonels: Major Russell H. Anderson, Major Joseph F. Phillips, Major Thomas M. Evans, and Major Ralph A. Glatt.

Promoted to majors: Captain Theodore S. Dubose and Captain James D. Dickson.

Promoted to captains: 1st Lt. James H. Flowers, 1st Lt. Lester D. Troutman, 1st Lt. George M. German, 1st Lt. William W. Gardner, 1st Lt. James M. Bradford, 1st Lt. Irwin W. Shutt, 1st Lt. Jess W. Walls, and 1st Lt. Earl R. Matson.

Promoted to 1st lieutenants: 2nd Lt. James V. Cunningham, 2nd Lt. Milton Seraile, 2nd Lt. Ralph W. Hall, 2nd Lt. Eugene D. Fenner, 2nd Lt. Harold L. Lawson, 2nd Leon F. Terry, 2nd Lt. Carrol R. Fleming, 2nd Lt. Jack P. Ellis, 2nd Lt. Thomas H. Meeks, 2nd Lt. James C. White, 2nd Lt. Norman M. Williams, 2nd Lt. Lloyd W. Engelland, 2nd Lt. Richard L. Whited, 2nd Lt. Lloyd M. Wright, 2nd Lt. Emmid E. Bradford, 2nd Lt. William H. Webb, 2nd Lt. William J. Seaman, 2nd Lt. Clyde H. Rhinehart, 2nd Lt. Carlyle F. Bunn, 2nd Lt. Jack C. Berry, 2nd Lt. Paul L. Cook, 2nd Lt. Robert W. Harris, 2nd Lt. Earl J. Turner, 2nd Lt. Crawford H. Lydle, 2nd Lt. Pierre L. Chabre, 2nd Lt. William E. Hamsley, and 2nd Lt. Robert E. Smith.

Woman's Club

BY KATHERINE HAMMARGREN

Members of the Woman's Club will have an opportunity to hear an unusual array of talent at its next general meeting, to be held Monday, March 1, at 2:30 p. m. in the Polo Hunt club. Sponsored by the Music group, this meeting is a yearly event of the club and is awaited eagerly by all members. The meeting will be followed by the club's annual spring tea.

Miss Ruth Bennett Buettner, brilliant concert pianist who has been liberal with her talents with both the Music group and the Woman's club, is in charge of the program. She has included such outstanding musicians as Mrs. Falko M. Schilling, Mrs. Benjamin F. Wills, Mrs. Frederick A. Harris, Mrs. Richard Lamb, Mrs. Harley A. Twedt, and Corporal Donald Davis.

Mrs. Schilling started her musical studies at the age of seven on a quarter size violin. She has toured Canada for two full concert seasons and has appeared on NBC network broadcasts. Mrs. Wills, mezzo-soprano, studied at Oberlin Observatory and has a master's degree in voice from the College of Music, Cincinnati. Mrs. Harris, violinist, has toured extensively through the east and west. Mrs. Lamb, lyric coloratura soprano, studied recently with John Lewis Roberts, who is a native of Wales and a graduate of the Royal Academy of London. Mrs. Twedt, dramatic soprano, has appeared in radio and concert halls in Illinois and is at present director of the Post chapel choir. Corporal Davis, talented young trombonist now with the 29th Infantry Band, has been soloist with well-known New York orchestras. Mrs. Francis Heraty will announce the program, which follows:

I. Mrs. Wills: "Ah! Love, But a Day" by Gilberte; "By a Lonely Forest Pathway" by Griffes; "Fairy Tales", Wolff; "Come Buy", Peccia.

II. Mrs. Harris: "Canzonetta", d'Ambrosio; "The Old Refrain", arr. by Kreisler; "The Ghost Dance", Ellis Levy.

III. Miss Buettner: "The Appassionata Sonata", first movement, by Beethoven.

IV. Mrs. Lamb: "Old King Cole", Hughes; "The Last Hour", Kramer; "The Blue Danube", Strauss, arr. by Liebling.

V. Mrs. Schilling: "Crinoline", Stoessel; "Intermezzo", Provost; "The Bee", Schubert.

VI. Mrs. Twedt: "Eros", Grieg; "When I Have Sung My Songs", Charles; "Devotion', Strauss.

VII. Corporal Davis: "Liebestraum", Liszt, arr. by Smith; "Valse Elegante", Clarke.

Pvts. William Thomas and Edward Esper of the 150th Signal Company, 10th Armored Division, are both from Norwood, Massachussetts, both were inducted in November, and were both 21 years old on Valentine's Day. Thomas' mother sent the Red Cross a check—the boys got a birthday cake in their orderly room last week.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

ELLINGTON, Fld., Tex. (CNS) During the recent Gift Book campaign for the Post library a soldier asked a bright young flame in Houston if she would contribute a book. She turned up her nose a bit and said, "Aw shucks . . . I don't see no use of buying them cadets books. They spend money on me right and left."

"But," countered the soldier trying to keep his voice cool and detached, "they spend money showing you a good time. Wouldn't it be nice to buy them a book in return?"

"Now listen here!" was her clincher, "I'm not without expense. I have to buy powder and perfume to keep 'em coming!"

Levy-Morton Co.
Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps
REPAIRS — Dial 3-6391
1028—13th STREET

IN UNIFORMS - See Hamilton
Tailored To Measure
Made From 19-Oz. Very Dark Elastique
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE
FOR QUALITY — COMPARE!
HAMILTON TAILORING CO.
Display Room - 442 Ralston Hotel

Martin Furniture Co.
"Where Quality Is Higher Than Price"
We Welcome Fort Benning Personnel
1223 BROADWAY
COLUMBUS, GA.

FORT BENNING PERSONNEL
ALWAYS WELCOME!
B & H OIL DEALERS
CITIES SERVICE PRODUCTS
Washing, Greasing, All Tire Services
2835 Cusseta Rd. Mr. Paul Giglio, Mgr.

We Serve Fort Benning - - -
We are proud of our relations with the world's largest Infantry School, Fort Benning . . . and may we continue to serve.
BUY MORE WAR BONDS!
2332 Cusseta Rd. 221-12th St.
Wells DAIRIES COOPERATIVE
2320 Wynn. Rd. 1140-13th St.
DIAL 3-3651

FOX PAWN SHOP
Money To Loan
On Anything of Value
1039 Broadway Dial 3-2512

MATTHEWS Poultry Market
FRESH POULTRY
Dressed Free While You Wait
1035-1st Ave. Dial 3-7733

SPRINGTIME SPECIALS
SEAT COVERS
Special!
• Low prices
• Satisfactory fit guaranteed
• Colorful new patterns
Save Upholstery! Protect Your Clothes!
With a Set of Attractive Basket Weave Fiber
COOLAIRE SEAT COVERS
$2.69
• Smart-looking pattern
• Snug fit
• Durable wood fiber
• Long wearing
• Clean easily
• Deluxe tailoring
Protect your upholstery against wear, tear and soiling. Improve the appearance of worn or soiled upholstery. Harmonizing, attractive basket weave pattern of wood pulp fiber.
Sedan or Coach Covers 5.95
Leatherette Trimmed Lock-Stitched Seam
IMPERIAL SEAT COVERS
Includes Scuff-Proof Door Protectors
6.95 coupe
Colorful, rich looking, yet conservative with neutral brown background and red and ivory plaid pattern. Tailored fit. Long wearing. Easily cleaned.
Sedan and Coach 11.95
Ocean Breeze
SEAT COVERS
• Easy to clean!
• Smartly tailored!
4.98 Coupe
Colorful plaid twill fiber and heavy weight cloth. Extra smooth fit. Leatherette panels, beading and double reinforced seams.
Coach and Sedan 8.95

VICTORY GARDEN TOOLS and SUPPLIES
Round Point Shovel $1.49
Floral Shovel 98
Hedge Shears . . . 2.49
Pruning Shears . . .98
Hot-Kaps, pkg. 50
Brume-Rake . . 1.19
Garden Hose—25 ft., $1.98; 50 ft., $3.89
Dandelion Spuds . .25
Trowel Set 59
All-Purpose Rake 1.49
Level-Head Rake . .89
Socket Type Hoe 1.09
Garden Sprayers . . . 2.95 up
Burpee Seeds, pkg. 10c
FREE ZINNIA SEED
Come In and Get Our Complimentary Package
By special arrangement with the genius of the flower world, David Burpee, we are giving away free package of Super Giant Zinnia Seeds.
Firestone
Store Hours 8 A. M. to 7 P. M. Daily Except Sunday
13th St. At First Ave. Dial 3-3606

for NEATNESS WEAR A Spiffy COLLAR STAY
INVISIBLE UNDER THE COLLAR
SELF ADJUSTING
HOLDS COLLAR POINTS DOWN
Neatness counts in the army—just as it does in civilian life. That's what the officers say.
Collar neatness gives you that smart, snappy, crisp appearance. SPIFFY is doing a swell job in dressing up the army.
Easy On—Easy Off
Quick as a wink to put on and take off. It's self adjusting and stays put.
BEFORE
AFTER
COSTS BUT A FEW CENTS
ON SALE AT ARMY AND PX STORES
SPIFFY
INVISIBLE COLLAR STAY

Have Your Photograph Made Now for Mother's Day
Artists from our 5th Avenue Studios
No Deposit at Time of Sitting
Proofs for Your Inspection Before You Buy
"Our Prices Within the Reach of All"
Open 1 P. M. Till 9:30 P. M.
Send Your Photograph to Your Loved Ones
AIM'E DUPONT
MILITARY STUDIOS
1219 Broadway—Columbus, Ga.
Branch of 604 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C. Tele. 3-1505 Established 1884

MODEL BARBER SHOP
1024 BROAD ST.
8 CHAIR SHOP
G. B. Sellers C. P. R'binson
C. B. Conkle E. M. Pass
M. J. Wages C. L. Wood
Open 9 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.

'Bayonet' Travels Far To Carry Benning News To Homesick Servicemen

"When you have finished reading this, get yourself a good cold bottle of 'coke.' Drink it slowly; enjoy it thoroughly and think of me. I'd give five bucks for two or three such bottles," said Lt. Jack M. Kaplan, former enlisted man at post headquarters now with the Finance office, 6th Service Group, somewhere in the south Pacific area, in a letter to Sgt. Ben Tuter of the Fort Benning Machine Record unit.

Quoting from his letter, dated December 19, 1942:

"Dear Ben:

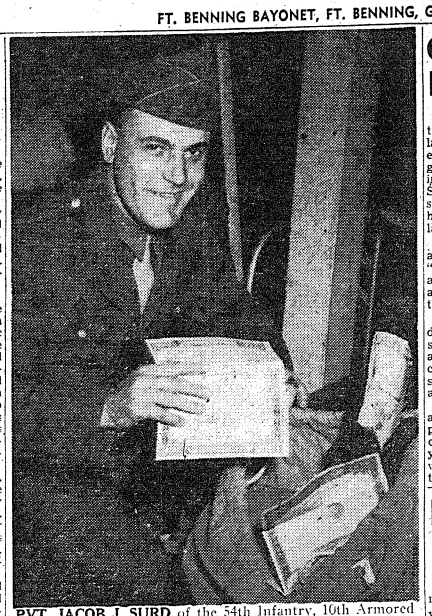
"I received the two copies of the Benning Bayonet a couple of days ago. Thanks a million. You have no ideas how much pleasure a fellow gets out of reading about all the people and scenes he has come to know very well, after having left them for about a year.

SWEET NOSTALGIA

"I don't suppose the editor of the Bayonet is aware of the fact that the paper is being read by alumni of Benning who are now dispersed over the globe in theaters of combat. It was with a feeling of sweet nostalgia that I read all of the similiar names and enjoyed the pictures of Benning. For example: I learned that Col. Fulton is now Brig. General Fulton and Post Commander. When I was an enlisted man, working at Post Headquarters, General Fulton (at that time Executive Officer) was known and loved by all of us. I read items about many of the other officers and enlisted men whom I had known while at Benning. One sports story was accompanied with a photo of Doughboy Stadium. Ah, memories! I'm afraid I won't be witnessing football games for the duration. As a matter of fact, I'm in the midst of summer while you are having winter.

"I used to have a desk a few feet from Whit; now I'm several thousand miles away. But, I enjoy reading the information well constructed paragraphs of Sgt. Whittemore's "Through the Peepsight," despite the distance.

FIVE BUCKS FOR COKE



"My exact location cannot be disclosed. But I will say that I'm somewhere in the south Pacific area. This will be the first time that I shall spend Christmas and New Years in the heat of summer. Imagine: swatting flies and shooting mosquitoes away from the Christmas dinner table! Two years ago I spent these holidays amid snowstorms; last year it was a cold snowless winter in Georgia; this year the scene is tropical.

"When you have finished this, get yourself a good cold bottle of 'coke.' Drink it slowly; enjoy it thoroughly and think of me. I'd give five bucks for two or three such bottles. Maybe there's something to mental telepathy. I'll let you know whether I enjoyed your coke!

"Remember me to Mildred and all the folks back at good old Benning. Best wishes for a perfect 1943.

(Signed)
Jack."

Kaplan, who was assigned to the Post Inspector's office while at Benning, left in March, 1942, to attend finance officer candidate school, at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. Upon receiving his commission he was stationed for a short time in California, before going overseas.

PVT. JACOB J. SURD of the 54th Infantry, 10th Armored Division, makes no secret of the fact that he is hoarding, because the kind of hoarding he does is O.K. by the government. Here he is shown stuffing $1,000—yes, $1,000—worth of war bonds into his barrack bag, the soldier's catchall, and, sometimes, treasure chest. How he managed to accumulate the $750 necessary for this investment is a trade secret, although the boys of Hq. Co., 1st Bn., admit somewhat sheepishly that they chipped in to a considerable extent. Pvt. Surd's hoard now totals $2,500, because he got into the habit of purchasing a war bond every week while he was holding down a defense job in Detroit. He has also bought two $100 bonds since he entered the army last November.

O. C. Calls Old Ireland Friendly Bit Of Heaven

As a member of the first contingent of American troops to land in Ireland during the present war, Candidate Donald Ferguson of the Third Student Training Regiment in the Infantry School has much to tell of the strangeness of his transition from his home in Sheldon, Ia., to the land of Erin.

"In the taprooms, you drink ale or Guiness," Ferguson says. "At first, Guiness tastes greener and rougher than our beer. But, after you have sampled it a little, you like it."

The people of Ireland were described as friendly, although some time is required to become accustomed to their language and customs. The people lived a pleasant life in a beautiful country, according to Ferguson.

"If you climbed on a high hill and looked around," Ferguson explains, "the land would look like one of those patchwork quilts your mother used to make. Here would be a freshly ploughed field, there a meadow, and over yonder a crop or two—all separated by hedge rows."

CARS RARE

He noted that roads are narrow in comparison to ours, and that cars are rare in Ireland, with carts and bicycles as the chief means of transportation.

"Most of the farmhouses," Ferguson adds, "are of stone or rock. If they have electricity, it comes from a nearby water wheel, which is the commonest source of countryside power."

Poor teeth, he noticed, seemed to be a characteristic of many of the Irish. He assigns the reason for this to their method of cleaning teeth, a method which usually removes all of the enamel, and ultimately, most of the teeth.

Candidate Ferguson, who joined the army Feb. 10, 1941, landed in Ireland in February, 1942. He was returned to the United States in October and is now a member of the 22nd Company of the Third Student Training Regiment.

Newgarden Awards 33 Proficiency Certificates

"You men are marked men. The rest of the division looks up to you. You're tougher, you're harder, you're better trained than the rest of the men. Your bearing and appearance have got to be even better now than they were before."

With this challenge, Maj. Gen. Paul W. Newgarden, commanding general of the 10th Armored Division, presented certificates of proficiency last Thursday in Theater No. 6 of the Sand Hill area, to the first group of men in the division to complete successfully the 10 tests designed for candidates to the distinction of "Armored Tigers." Thirty-three men received the coveted award, and certificates will be presented shortly to 40 additional men who have also met the stiff requirements that are laid down for Armored Tigers.

Lt. Saul Nasoff, Sgts. William Thompson, Thomas Heath; Paul Hawk, William Honsinger and Charlie Oleksa, 423rd Field Artillery; Sgts. William Ysisley and Walter Kase, 420th Field Artillery; James Menestrey, Perry Provence, Charles Rotter, Alvin Percival and Cpl. Everett McNulty, 11th Armored Regiment; Lts. Paul Hicks and Thomas Berry, Cpl. Frank Geist and Sgts. Elmer Sova, Edward Racicot, Edward Wozniski, Charles Learn and Pvt. Ralph Frank, 3rd Armored Regiment; Lt. Daniel Connors, Sgts. Frank Glasse, John Demers, Clarence Olwaine, Robert Britt, Ted Combs and Anthony Kmet, 90th Reconnaissance Battalion; Sgts. John Kappa, James Orange, William Sanders, Samuel Freese and Paul Cawthrop, 419th Field Artillery.

In making the wards, General Newgarden noted that the Tiger idea originated with the War Department in a circular calling for small groups of specially trained men, or "supermen who could lick their weight in wildcats."

"It occurred to me," he said, "that that's what we ough to have in our Tiger Platoons. These reconnaissance platoons, you know, are the people who determine whether we do the right thing or not in battle. A general in battle is deaf and blind until his reconnaissance units tell him where the enemy is. If we know where he is, we can lick the hell out of him nine times out of 10."

THE REQUIREMENTS

The 10 requirements for Armored Tigers, as enumerated on the certificate, are as follows: march five miles in one hour; compass reading and practice (day and night); scouting and observing—small protective units: swim one-half mile, stripped; drive all platoon vehicles and first echelon maintenance; qualify in carbine, sub-machine gun and machine gun; unarmed, disarm man with knife or sword; identify and explain use of certain constallations; may reading and message writing at night, and blackout driving.

In discussing these requirements, General Newgarden commented:

"These standards were set up some time ago and were something of a shot in the dark. You men have demonstrated that it is not difficult for a man who has had sufficient training to make five miles in an hour. The war department now insists that everybody do it, but we're two jumps ahead."

An amusing sidelight of the presentation was the General's explanation of the war's effect on the kind of award that was finally selected.

Reception Center's Company C Nears Crown

Company "C" of the Recruit Reception Center, flush from its previous victory, went on to score the second triumphant win last Saturday in the weekly field meet on the Center's athletic field with a score of 45 points over its closest competitor, Company "A," which gained a hard 20 points.

Only one more win is needed by Company "C" to clinch the silver trophy that is awarded to the permanent cadre of the company making three consecutive wins.

Outstanding stars in the meet which included representatives from each of the Reception Center's 7 companies was Company "C" is "C's" Pvt. Raymond Taylor, of Brownsville, Tenn., and Cpl. William J. Monroe of Quitman, Ga. Taylor gaining 15 points by placing first in the broad jump, running high jump and climaxing his day with a close margin win in the polevault. Monroe easily outdistanced all competitors in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

CAPTAIN YOUNG

Lt. Baldwin N. Young, Stephenville, Texas, was recently promoted to the rank of captain according to a recent announcement made by Colonel Thomas R. Gibson, commanding officer of the 1st Student Training Regiment.

North Africa (CNS) — WAAC Capt. Louise Anderson took all the dictation and kept the record at the recent history-making Roosevelt-Churchill meeting.

Army Alterations

Complete Stocks Officers' Uniforms and Military Supplies

THE TOGGERY
1023A Broadway

THE OFFICERS R. & R. CLUB ON CUSSETA ROAD IS BY FAR THE MOST POPULAR PLACE IN COLUMBUS FOR COMMISSIONED OFFICERS AND THEIR GUESTS. ASK ANYONE ON THE RESERVATION WHO HAS BEEN THERE.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion services 8:30 a. m. Men's Bible class 9:30 a. m. Sunday school in the Children's School 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "Jesus, At I Am"—Hadler. Sermon: Chaplain Frederick W. Heller, Offertory: Solo—Pvt. Hadler, Christian League 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Alfred L. Pollock.

29th Infantry: Bible study 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplains Arthur D. Clark and Edgar I. Storey.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Fellowship hour 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Walter B. Shinn.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 11th Bn., 1st S. T. R. and Acad. Regt. Morning services at 10 a. m. Chaplain Glenn S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large Day Room for the Det. Med. Dept., 9:30 a. m. Also Colored Med. Det. service in colored day room at 9 a. m. Services for patients and nursing in Red Cross Bldg., at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Reception Center Recreation Hall, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:15 a. m. Sgt. Vann J. Malone.

Lawson Field: Chapel No. 3, Men's Bible study 10 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers 6:30 p. m. Song service Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Floyd S. Smith.

24th General Hospital: New Mess Hall, Sunday morning worship service 9:30 a. m. Vespers Monday evening, at 7:30 p. m. (In Nurses' Recreation Hall.) Chaplain Archie C. Carraway.

11th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Choir rehearsal at 10 a. m. Wednesday evening worship 7 p. m. Chaplain A. F. Christiansen.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1. Morning worship 11:30 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and Clarence R. Ritchie.

2nd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chapel No. 4 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Edwin C. Wilson.

3rd Stud Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 5. Holy Communion Episcopal 8 a. m. Regimental services at 11 a. m. Chaplain Russell D. Laycock. Protestant services in 4th Bn., at 11 a. m. (Bldg. B-29). Chaplain A. B. Billman. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m., Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 23rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 31st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on, in the Station Hospital on Ward 8-A from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C between ward 12 and 13; at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. colored troops; and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 3, Building No. 5201, located on the 6th Division Road and Custis Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 5:30 p.m.; and in B-29 Stout Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 11th Infantry Area: Mass at 6:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

11th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3 Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Friday: Sacred Heart Devotion will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field organizations, all Parachute Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30, at the Children's School, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road. A five-voice choir of officers and enlisted men chant the services. A lively discussion led by Chaplain S. A. Shain, concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd Student Training Regiment, Parachute Infantry Regiments, the Student Training Brigade and 76th Tank Battalion: Every Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, in War Dept. Theatre No. 9, Building B-46, 6th Division Road.

For men of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 12th Infantry, 76th Tank Battalion, 81st and 82nd Field Artillery: Every Sunday morning at 10:30 in Building B-7. A lively forum on an important Jewish topic follows the service.

For men of the 10th Armored Division: Every Monday evening, at 7:30, in Chapel No. 4 Sergeant Abe Millman will act as cantor.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

FEB. 25

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
6:30 P.M.—"Military Maids and Men"—WRBL

6:30 P.M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS
10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU
11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

FEB. 26

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
6:30 P.M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL
6:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

FEB. 27

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL
4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL
5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC
7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU
7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL

8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS

10:15 P.M.—"Soldiers With Wings"—WRBL

FEB. 28

3:30 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—NBC
6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"The Stars are Stripes in Britain" from London—MBS
7:30 P.M.—"We, The People"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"Hello Americans" with Orson Welles—WRBL
9:00 P.M.—"Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO)—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Report To the Nation"—WRBL

MARCH 1

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Getting Limited" (with Orson Welles)—CBS
8:30 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—WRBL
Variety show, featuring the 11th Armored Band—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

MARCH 2

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:45 P.M.—"Quartermaster Quarter Hour"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"The Man Behind the Gun"—WRBL

Movies

MAIN THEATRE AND NO. 8

Feb. 25—SOMETHING TO SHOUT ABOUT—Don Ameche, Jack Oakie and Janet Blair.

Feb. 26—FIGHTING FRONTIERS—Tim Holt and Cliff Edwards.
REVEILLE WITH BEVERLY—Ann Miller and William Wright.

Feb. 28-Mar. 1—THE MEANEST MAN IN THE WORLD—Jack Benny and Priscilla Lane.

Mar. 2—THE HARD WAY—Ida Lupino and Dennis Morgan.

Mar. 3—MARGIN FOR ERROR—Milton Berle and Joan Bennett.

THEATRES NO. 2 AND 3

Feb. 25—THE AMAZING MRS. HOLIDAY—Deanna Durbin, Edmond O'Brien and Barry Fitzgerald.

Feb. 26—FIGHTING FRONTIERS—Tim Holt and Cliff Edwards.
REVEILLE WITH BEVERLY—Ann Miller and William Wright.

Feb. 27—TENNESSEE JOHNSON—Van Heflin and Lionel Barrymore.

Feb. 28-Mar. 1—SOMETHING TO SHOUT ABOUT—Don Ameche and Janet Blair.

Mar. 2—MARGIN FOR ERROR—Milton Berle and Joan Bennett.

Mar. 3—THE MEANEST MAN IN THE WORLD—Jack Benny and Priscilla Lane.

THEATRES NO. 4 AND 5

Feb. 25 — TENNESSEE JOHNSON — Van Heflin and Lionel Barrymore.

Feb. 26-27—THE AMAZING MRS. HOLLIDAY—Deanna Durbin, Edmond O'Brien and Barry Fitzgerald.

Feb. 28—MARGIN FOR ERROR—Milton Berle and Joan Bennett.

Mar. 1—FIGHTING FRONTIERS—Tim Holt and Cliff Edwards.
REVEILLE WITH BEVERLY—Ann Miller and William Wright.

Mar. 2-3 — SOMETHING TO SHOUT ABOUT—Don Ameche, Janet Blair and Jack Oakie.

THEATRES NO. 6 AND 7

Feb. 25-26—THREE HEARTS FOR JULIA —Ann Sothern and Melvyn Douglas.
USO Camp Show at Theatre No. 7, Feb. 25.

Feb. 27—MARGIN FOR ERROR—Milton Berle and Joan Bennett.

Feb. 28-Mar. 1—THE AMAZING MRS. HOLLIDAY—Deanna Durbin, Edmond O'Brien and Barry Fitzgerald.

Mar. 2—FIGHTING FRONTIERS—Tim Holt and Cliff Edwards.
REVEILLE WITH BEVERLY—Ann Miller and William Wright.

Mar. 2-3 — SOMETHING TO SHOUT ABOUT—Don Ameche, Janet Blair and Jack Oakie.

THEATRES NO. 6 AND 7

Feb. 25-26—THREE HEARTS FOR JULIA —Ann Sothern and Melvyn Douglas.

Feb. 27—USO Camp Show.

Feb. 28—THE HARD WAY—Ida Lupino, Dennis Morgan and Joan Leslie.

Mar. 1—MARGIN FOR ERROR—Milton Berle and Joan Bennett.

Mar. 2-3—THREE HEARTS FOR JULIA —Ann Sothern and Melvyn Douglas.

THEATRE NO. 10

Feb. 25—STAR SPANGLED RHYTHM—All star cast.

Feb. 26—MARGIN FOR ERROR—Milton Berle and Joan Bennett.

Feb. 27—THE HARD WAY—Ida Lupino, Dennis Morgan and Joan Leslie.

Feb. 28-Mar. 1—THREE HEARTS FOR JULIA—Ann Sothern and Melvyn Douglas.

Mar. 2—WILD HORSE RUSTLERS—Bob Livingston and Al St. John.
SALUDOS AMIGOS—Walt Disney Feature.

Mar. 3—THE AMAZING MRS. HOLLIDAY —Deanna Durbin, Edmond O'Brien and Barry Fitzgerald.

Women's Activities

Woman's Club—General meeting sponsored by Music group, Monday, March 1, 2:30 p. m., Polo Hunt Club.

—V—

Creative Writing—Tuesday, March 2, 2 p. m. Mrs. John McDonald's quarters, 602 First Division.

—V—

Victory Gardens—Thursday, March 4, 10 a. m. Mrs. James Notestein's quarters, 308 First Division Road.

—V—

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—Monday through Friday, 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Also Wednesday, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. In charge Monday, Mrs. John Jeter; Tuesday, Mrs. John Mugoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. William Huffstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes.

Sewing and knitting—Tuesday and Thursday, 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. Paul Newgarden; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

—V—

Motor Corps—Headquarters, 301 Miller Loop. Telephone 2341.

—V—

First Aid—Class in Standard First Aid starts early in March. To enroll call at Red Cross Work Room or telephone 2056.

Boys' Activities

Scout Troop No. 11—Fridays.

Cub Pack No. 1—Fridays, 5:15 p. m., Boy Scout Cabin.

Rangers, Fridays, 5:45 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Jeeps—Basketball each day, 5:30 to 6:30, Main gymnasium.

Peeps—Junior basketball team. Daily 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. 29th Infantry Recreation Hall.

Wrestling Team — Tuesday, 5:30-6:30 p. m.

SEND YOUR PORTRAIT HOME

Bon Art Studios
Corner of 11th and Broadway
Over Lee's Drug Store
Open 9 P. M. Every Evening

Through These Portals - - -
Pass The Best Soldiers On Earth

P. S. STORES

Our Hours Are Your Hours In That We Observe Fort Benning Time

Military Supplies — 926 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

FARRIS RADIO SERVICE

PORTABLES A SPECIALTY

ALL MAKES REPAIRED

1317 Broadway Next to U.S.O.

Always Glad To Serve Ft. Benning

Benning Park Pharmacy

L. R. Cauley, Prop.

PURITY Carrying the most Complete Stocks in Columbus. ACCURACY

PROMPT DELIVERY

FT. BENNING and BAKER VILLAGE'S NEAREST DRUG STORE

DIAL 3-5423 — DIAL 9146

2000 FT. BENNING RD.

Bargains for Babies at Sears Low Prices!

You proud new mothers and mothers-to-be will find babies aren't so expensive when you outfit them at Sears! Low prices go hand-in-hand with high quality in our baby department!

Dresses and Slips with dainty embroidery trim 39c

Snowy white batiste dresses and slips at a price that's almost unbelievable! Round necks or collared dresses with pretty embroidery touches! Ruffled slips! 6 months to 2 years.

Flannelette Sleepers with extra button-on pants 98c

These grand 3-piece sleepers have two-pairs of 'quick change' pants to help keep baby comfy and dry! Fleecy flannelette in cute nursery prints. Sizes 1 to 3. Grand buys!

Baby Gift Box of Bath Needs 89c

• An ideal 'baby shower' gift — and so inexpensive!

Famous Johnson & Johnson bath needs in a grand pink or blue gift box! Generous sizes of baby soap, cream, oil and powder! Really low priced!

Also Large Size Gift Box..... 1.75

Handy 'Hospital' Gowns with draw-string bottoms 49c

A necessity for baby during the first few months. Draw-string bottom and sleeves keep babies' feet and hands covered and warm! Easy-to-put-on back opening. White flannelette.

Receiving Blankets

Grand for crib, carriage or bath! Soft cotton fleece in pink, blue or white with striped border. 30x40 size! 29c

'Roly Poly' Cotton Vests in popular tie-side style

Soft cotton and rayon in elastic rib knit that's so comfy! Tie-side gives double thickness over chest—eliminates pins or buttons! 10 to 16-inch lengths. 49c

Cotton Bands 19c

Large tie-around bands of soft cotton and rayon rib knit! Save!

Buy U.S. War Bonds and Stamps

"Sears stores have posted or marked ceiling prices in compliance with government regulations."

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.

1225 BROADWAY — DIAL 3-4351 — STREET FLOOR

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 1, NUMBER 25 | Published By The Ledger-Enquirer Co. | FT. BENNING BAYONET, FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1943. | For America's Most Complete Post | PRICE FIVE CENTS

Bayonet Offers $350 In Prizes To Contributors

All Entries Must Reach PRO Office By End Of Month

Here is big news for all readers of The Bayonet.

Sharpen up your wits and your skills because The Bayonet is really going to open up and offer officers and enlisted men rewards for original contributions. Prizes total $350.

Here's the way it works. For the best feature or human interest story submitted between now and April 1 there will be a first prize of a $25 War Bond. Four other prizes in War Stamps will be given—prizes of $15, $10, $8 and $5.

The same prizes for the five best sports features, for the five best editorials or essays and for the five best poems will be given.

The cartoonists, too, will have a chance to vie for prizes. Two $25 Bonds will be given, one for the best humorous cartoon and one for the best serious piece of art work. In both classes there will be prizes of War Stamps for the four next best contributions. Prizes will be $10, $8, $5 and $2.

THE JUDGES

Altogether there will be 30 prizes awarded. Impartial and capable judges will be appointed from among the businessmen downtown. All contributions must be in by April 1.

Then on April 15 The Bayonet will publish a special edition which will be jammed with soldier contributions, and climaxing the competition a big dinner will be held downtown for the winners.

Now remember. Everything you submit between now and April 1 is eligible for the big prize

(Continued on Page 10)

Thru The Peepsight

G. I. Summary Of World News

BY SGT. O. J. REMINGTON

TREMENDOUS EVENTS ARE shaping up just over the historical horizon as spring starts softening snow-locked roads in Russia and the Nazis appear to be stiffening resistance to the Russian drive.

From this distance, and with what can be pieced together, it would appear that the Japanese are soon going to exert pressure on Australia—both to carry the war to us in order to forestall further advances on our part and by so doing to relieve pressure of American and British forces against her Axis partner.

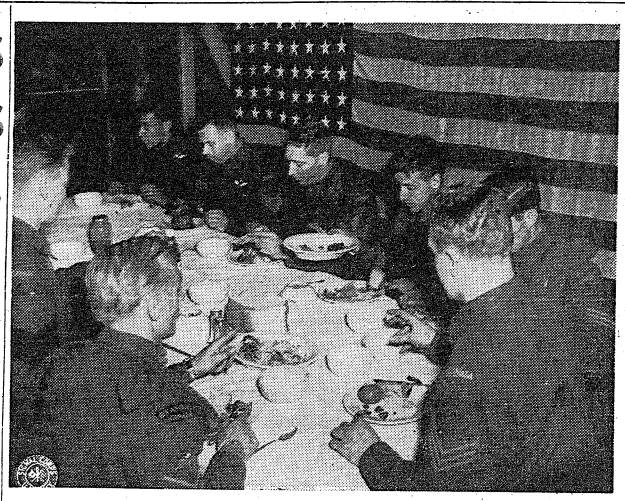
The Nips are reinforcing positions north of Australia strongly. Whether this be for defense or offense is not yet certain. Our guess:—for offense.

At the same time, Admiral Charles W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, gave out a statement that "we now are at the crossroads of the Pacific campaign" and stated the Navy was ready for offensive developments on a greater scale. And General Claire L. Chennault, commander of the U. S. air task force in China, declared "from evidence of various sources the enemy has run into two bottlenecks—aircraft production and training airmen." He said that the Japanese are not getting the results they formerly achieved, are no longer attacking in overwhelming numbers in the South Pacific, and offered no effective opposition to Allied air raids on Burma.

WITH SIGNS OF stiffening Nazi resistance, and even of some successes in counterattacks against Russian forces, the Red armies may be finding the going tougher from now on. It would appear that the Germans are hurling in more men in an effort to stop the Russians and to regain the offensive. In the south, mud has stalemated much activity.

Soviet communiques tell of repulsing more serious enemy tank assaults and at the same time announce that their offensive fury has now switched to the North in the Lake Ilmen region south of Leningrad. It looks as though the Red armies plan to take advantage of the weather conditions there to clear as many square miles as possible of German and Finnish troops.

Bombings of German bases and industrial centers continued unabated during the week. If these raids are effective at all, some results should begin to show in softening of German resistance and slowing of the Nazi army power of attack.



ALONG THE HOME front, plenty of news during the week to hold the attention—black market menace springing up due to rationing, with determined efforts being made to combat it; the national Red Cross War Fund gets under way; clothes ration rumors are denied; a probe is demanded in Congress of American shipments of goods to Spain; importation of Mexican labor to supplement certain types of labor in the United States has been urged by a new War Man-Power commission advisory group and the Supreme Court of the land upsets the conviction of George Sylvester Viereck who is serving a two to six-year term on being convicted of making incomplete reports on his activities.

With millions of American boys now fighting for their country, operators of black markets and those who patronize them, alike, might well come under prosecution for the crime charged to Viereck, if legal minds are seeking for methods of prosecution. Certainly they would seem to be better agents of foreign enemies, than Viereck.

At any rate, the Supreme Court's decision shows fearlessness under present conditions; and the right to carry a case to this body is one of the big things that the millions of men now are battling for. It couldn't happen anywhere else, probably, and it's one of the big freedoms that make it worth while for us to serve in the Armed Forces. That probably won't make the decision any more popular, of course though because nobody has any sympathy with foreign agitators these days.

IT IS A case of see-saw in the North African campaign. German armored forces push ahead; then are pushed back; then come back reinforced once more. Nazi and Italian resistance in Tunisia will continue to be fierce. Rommel will hurl everything he has into the fight to keep his strip of coast. Because when that falls,

(Continued on Page 10)

EXPRESSION OF hemispheric solidarity is symbolized in the above photo as noncoms of the First Canadian Parachute Briga de mess with the Stars and Stripes hanging in the background. Monday's march past w ill serve as further evidence of unity. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

RC War Fund Drive At Post On Full Blast

Contributions To Be Solicited Here Until March 15

More than $2,200 in contributions have been made to the current War Fund drive of the American Red Cross at Fort Benning in the first two days of the campaign, it was announced by Major H. C. Chapman, executive chairman of the appeal here Tuesday night.

Collection booths, attended by volunteer women at the post, opened Monday morning as the Red Cross drive was launched on the post. "Contributions have been coming exceedingly well," Mrs. Walter S. Fulton, chairman of the auxiliary of the Red Cross chapter at the post, who is coordinating the work of women volunteers, stated. "We hope that contributions in the campaign will continue to be heavy during the next weeks so that Fort Benning will set a good record," Mrs. Fulton observed.

Officers and civilians at the post are being solicited for contributions. Army regulations prohibit the solicitation of enlisted men but many are contributing voluntarily to the Red Cross which last year aided more than 15,000 soldiers at the post in their personal problems.

The Fort Benning Red Cross drive will continue through March 15. Collection boxes and booths will be open throughout the period of the drive.

Among the first groups to contribute were the officers at Post Headquarters who donated more than $150 to the fund. A collection box, located in the Soda Fountain, in the Post Exchange building, netted more than $50 in change in one day.

Soldier Hopes Youthful Thrift Will Pay Off

The 10th Armored Division Red Cross office gets a lot of screwy requests, sees a lot of human entanglements not associated with the war.

A caller this week was a soldier from the stockade, accompanied by a guard. His escapades had flattened him financially, but he had an idea. He remembered that when he was a kid in school he used to make weekly deposits in a savings account—should have $25.00 saved. He remembered the school was in Kansas City, but he doesn't know whether it's Missouri or Kansas. The Red Cross is trying to find out.

Service Club Opens Today

Full Facilities Are Not Yet Available

Service Club No. 1 will be open for use of personnel on the Main Post today or tomorrow, although not all of the facilities of the club will be available, it is announced by Major James Sutton, theater officer.

As rapidly as the facilities are restored, they will be opened for use, and present plans call for a brief formal opening ceremony to be staged on March 15 when "Listen, It's Fort Benning," regular Monday night radio program, will carry the short talks.

HOSTESS ON DUTY

Mrs. Gwendolyn Bryant, hostess of the club, will be on duty and Mrs. Mae Williams will again be in charge of the dormitories, it was announced.

Seventeen rooms will be made available on the second floor to augment rooms now in use at the Guest House for visitors to the Main Post, thus helping to relieve the strain that was placed on facilities of the Guest House.

EXTENSIVE REPAIRS

Service Club No. 1 was severely damaged by fire last November 28. Work of repairs and renovation and redecoration has been going on steadily ever since. An entire new floor was laid in the Main Lounge and extensive repairs and decorations were carried on throughout the entire building.

For the radio program on March 15, first of the "Listen, It's Fort Benning" shows to be staged there since the club was damaged, the 124th Infantry Band will play. Brief talks will be given by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general, Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan, special services officer, and Major Sutton.

Canadians Will Parade Monday

Newsreels Prepare To 'Shoot' Event

Inter-American solidarity will be stressed Monday afternoon when the First Canadian Parachute Battalion salutes Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the post, and Brig. Gen. George P. Howell, commandant of the Parachute School.

Although the review was scheduled for Friday afternoon, it was postponed until Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Representatives of several newsreel companies and still picture syndicates will be at the post on Monday to film the event.

Brigadier A. E. Nash, deputy adjutant general of Canada, whose ranks corresponds to that of a brigadier general in the U. S. Army, will attend the special ceremonies with Lt. Col. W. B. Wedd, the Canadian Military attache in Washington, D. C.

The Canadian Battalion, which has been in training here for several months, will pass in review at Gowdy Field. Spectators for the review and inspection will be seated in the grandstands at the baseball field.

Soldier Thespians Plan Radio Shows Over Local Station

Plans for forming a Theater of the Air for enlisted personnel at Fort Benning were revealed today by the Special Services Office, as a call was broadcast for both radio play-writing and acting talent.

A meeting will be held Thursday, March 11, and Friday, March 12, at 7:30 p. m. in the radio studio at Service Club No. 1, it was announced by Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan, special service officer.

Plans now being formulated call for presentation of several 25 minute radio plays through co-operation with radio station WRBL. Prizes will be offered for accepted plays and they will be acted by soldier talent, according to present plans.

YMCA Health Club Extends Invitation To Post Personnel

Edgar Keslake, technician at the Health club of the Y. M. C. A., in downtown Columbus, has asked that military personnel at Fort Benning be informed about the availability of the services at the club to members as well as non-members. A full list of bath, massage and infra red and ultra violet treatments are offered at the club.

Here's Your Chance, Soldier

Feature or human interest story: $25 War Bond, first prize; $15 War Stamps, second prize; $10 stamps, third prize; $8 stamps, fourth prize; $5 stamps, fifth prize.

Sports feature story: $25 War Bond, first prize; $15 War Stamps, second prize; $10 stamps, third prize; $8 stamps, fourth prize; $5 steamps, fifth prize.

Editorials or essays: $25 War Bond, first prize; $15 War Stamps, second prize; $10 stamps, third prize; $8 stamps, fourth prize; $5 stamps, fifth prize.

Poems: $25 War Bond, first prize; $15 War Stamps, second prize; $10 stamps, third prize; $8 stamps, fourth prize; $5 stamps, fifth prize.

Cartoons—

Humorous: $25 War Bond, first prize; $10 War Stamps, second prize; $8 stamps, third prize; $5 stamps, fourth prize; $2 stamps, fifth prize.

Serious and editorial cartoons: $25 War Bond, first prize; $10 War Stamps, second prize; $8 stamps, third prize; $5 stamps, fourth prize; $2 stamps, fifth prize.

Academic Reg't Hits Near Perfect Bond Sale Score

Members of the Academic Regiment have added another "championship" to their string when the Regiment was cited as having 99.95 per cent of personnel enrolled in the War Bond Pay reservation plan, it was announced by Major George Fink, post war bond officer.

Major Fink lauded the organization in a special communication for having set a record that was "finest at Fort Benning and undoubtedly one of the most outstanding in the nation."

Lt. Charles B. Taylor, is regimental bond officers of the Academic Regiment of the Infantry School. Other special notes were sent by Col. H. N. Burkhalter, commanding officer of the regiment and Col. Thornton Chase from the office of the Commandant of the Infantry School, praising the troops.

Fort Soldier Describes 'Epic of Dunkerque'

Pvt. Heyman Survives Torpedoeing Of Two Ships

Witnessing the blitz-bombing of London, making three trips to Dunkerque during the British evacuation and surviving two ships torpedoed and sunk finally resulted in a young sailor from the Netherlands named Christian "Bob" Heyman losing his phlegmatic Dutch temper and joining the American army.

Private Heyman, who is now in the Motor Pool of the 52nd General Hospital, took to sea when only 14 years old, and now, at the age of 20, has been through experiences to last most sailors a lifetime.

Born in Rotterdam, Holland, in 1922, Private Heyman left high school to follow the sea in the footsteps of his father. He was trying to qualify as a third mate in the Dutch Merchant marine when the "phony war" phase of the present conflict ended.

On May, 10, 1940, his ship was in the English channel when word was received that his homeland had been invaded by the Nazi legions. The ship immediately made for Rotterdam, arriving that afternoon.

AIR ATTACK

"I had just started home to see my family when the first German air attack on the city began," Heyman said. "Fifth columnists were shooting out of windows with machine guns, driving people on the riverside into the river for safety. I rushed back to my ship, but found it was already moving out of the river, so I jumped on another ship carrying civilians to England."

"After arriving in England, I made several trips on ships taking supplies to Holland and refugees back to England. The Germans found out about these trips and tried to lock up the harbors by magnetic mines, submarines, coast artillery and bombing planes. Ship after ship around mine went down. Several men on my boat were killed by splinters and bomb fragments."

A short time later, on a vessel plying between English coastal ports, three German bombers dropped 12 bombs at his ship. All missed, but some near-misses including one only two yards away, caused nearly 170 leaks in the boat. The engineer was washed overboard and never seen again, and one sailor was killed.

GERMANS FOOLED

"Fortunately, however," Heyman said, "our engine started smoking. The Germans thought we were afire and sinking, so they went away. We made port safely."

Then came the evacuation of Dunkerque.

"We made three trips to Dunkerque during the evacuation under terrific attack from German coastal guns, planes, and machine guns mounted on speed boats.

(Continued on Page 10)

'Victory' Luncheon To Mark Success In Venereal Battle

Latin Editors Due March 6

Noted Argentines To Inspect Post

Nine prominent Argentine newspapermen, the third group of South American publishers and editors, will tour Fort Benning Saturday and view the intensive military training of infantry and paratroops.

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning, the Argentinians will view demonstration of the Infantry School while at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, they are scheduled to watch a demonstration by paratroops. At 4 o'clock, the guests will visit the Alabama parachute area.

Coming to North American under the sponsorship of the National Press club, the South Americans will visit Fort Benning as one stop on a nation-wide tour of war industries and military and naval establishments.

In January, nine prominent Peruvian and Uruguayan newspapermen tourned Fort Benning on a similar inspection. The tours of the publishers and editors have been arranged by the National Press club.

A. P., U. P. COVERAGE

To "cover" the activities of the South American newspapermen are representatives of the Associated Press and the United Press who will tour Fort Benning with the guests. Louis Probous of the AP and Arthur F. Monroe of the UP will write the story of the visit of the South Americans from the post.

The visitors will include Jose Santos Gollan, editor of La Prensa, Buenos Aires; Fabian Calle, secretary of the editorial staff of Los Andes, of Mendoza; Dr. Juan S. Valmaggia, secretary general of La Nacion, and professor of French and modern history of Buenos Aires; and Ricardo Enrique Maquieira, secretary of the Editorial Board of El Mundo and associated with El Hogar of Buenos Aires.

ADDITIONAL VISITORS

Also Hector Peralta Ramos, member of the board of directors of La Razon, vice president of the National Agrarian Council, and member of the advisory commission of ministry of Agriculture, Buenos Aires; Jose W. Agusti, owner and editor of Noticias Graficas, Buenos Aires; and Nester Joaquin Lagos, principal assistant editor of La Capital and vice president of the Municipal Bank of Rosario.

And Francisco Mateos Vidal, acting director of Los Principios of Cordoba; and Alfredo Coviello, administrator and acting editor of La Gaceta, of Tucuman.

Bing Bangs Back Popping Puns; Yeditor Yields

BY O. C. RALPH BING

The Third Student Training Regiment has some very interesting names.

Are you surprised to find NAVIES in the Army? A KING is here soldiering with him. Our work is done by a GARDNER, a TAYLOR, a SHEPHERD, a KANNER, and a BAKER. Where else in Georgia could you find HALE with WINTER? We need a COLEMAN with some COLE! Around our PARKS we have a FOWLER who does not sell a single BOYD, but he is a GOODMAN. Perhaps he would do better with a HOGG or a BULL.

I'll bet this CORN makes your blood BOYLE! ARENDT it awful? In SHORT, no one would bother to MOCK this.

For lunch we have BERRY and of course BACON. Wonder if this HARMS us? It might make each of us a NEWMAN. Knock on WOOD.

LAST, all of our men have the will to WINNE, and will raise CAIN with the Japs, and certainly not with BEEBES or VALENTINES!

Sweet, Sweet Sweet Innocence, I Love Thee

Supply Sergeant William V. Jackson of the Ninth Company, Third Student Training Regiment is still wondering. Recently he issued the necessary supplies and equipment to an incoming ROTC student. Then "it" happened.

Holding up his pack carrier with a worried look, the candidate asked, "Sergeant, where's my other legging?"

No Cases Traced To Phenix City During February

Officials from Phenix City and Russell County, Ala., will meet next week at Fort Benning with Army offieers to observe what might be called a "victory" luncheon in the war with venereal disease. The exact date will be announced later.

Exactly one year ago February, Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of Fort Benning, took the first step towards invoking the May act as venereal cases traceable to Phenix City continued to soar.

Colonel William Denton, post surgeon, and Major James Loveless, the army's venereal control director, who held a similar title for the Davison County Health board in Nashville, Tenn., back in civilian life, helped organize a program with officials of Russell County and Phenix City.

IMMEDIATE RESULTS

The results were almost immediate, but the entire program was climaxed by the record for the month of February of this year when not a single case of venereal disease was traceable to the city which once tolerated open prostitution.

"It is my belief," Major Loveless said Wednesday, "that no other city adjacent to an army post can boast of so enviable a record for a period of an entire month. The record is particularly significant when it is remembered that a year ago conditions were so bad and that the number of men has increased here greatly. No further proof is needed that local government backed by patriotic citizens is capable of handling the venereal and prostitution problems."

60 PER CENT LAST YEAR

One year ago 60 per cent of all cases discovered at Fort Benning were contracted in Phenix City, and nationally known writers pointed to the honky-tonks as among the worst to be found in the nation. Today these same places are "quiter than a Sunday school picnic," in the words of one writer who once had toured the city.

"Something had to be done," Major Loveless said today. "In 1941, 40,000 man days were lost at Fort Benning from venereal diseases alone. Contrary to what many still believe, every prostitute either is or will be infected. The only thing to do is to repress prostitution."

When conditions became alarming in February, 1942, a committee was formed, made up of local army and civilian representatives which reported that the problem was one for local civic authorities with the help of army officials.

PROSTITUTES OUSTED

Led by Mayor Elmer Reese of Phenix City, Commissioner Homer Cobb, law enforcement officials and judges launched a swift campaign. Prostitutes were driven out of the city. Licenses were re-

(Continued on Page 7)

Two-Niners Observe 42nd Anniversary

Stage Parade; Serve Special Meals; Issue Year-Book

Marking the forty-second anniversary of the organization of the 29th Infantry, the regiment yesterday celebrated with a parade and review on Gordon Field, special dinners in all the company mess halls, and the issuing of the recently-completed, 60-page yearbook.

The entire regiment participated in the parade and review which was witnessed by many former members of the 29th Infantry who had been invited to attend the ceremonies. A large number of these men were present for dinner afterward at the various companies to which they were at one time assigned.

On Tuesday night a dance was given at the Athletic and Recreation Hall of the 29th Infantry which was attended by numerous enlisted men of the regiment. The 29th Infantry dance orchestra furnished the music for the occasion; the Columbus Military Maids were also on hand.

MEET 30OTH INFANTRY

On Wednesday night the 29th Infantry met the newly-activated 300th Infantry in a boxing contest at the post gymnasium, the first athletic engagement of any kind between the two units.

The regimental commander, Col. C. A. Bagby, in his greetings to the personnel of the regiment, commended officers and men for their loyal service.

"The regiment may well be proud," he said, "of its accomplishments during forty-two years of continuous service . . . The present members of the regiment may be especially proud of their contribution to the intensified war time training of the infantry. But the 29th Infantry exists not only for the purpose of imparting instruction to others, however, necessary and valuable that instruction may be. The 29th Infantry is now, as the 29th Infantry has been in the past, ready and willing to fulfill its mission in combat, successful combat, against the forces of the enemies of the United States."

THIRD 29TH

The celebrations recalled the first organization day of the 29th in 1901. The regiment was activated at Fort Sheridan, Ill., in that year, scarcely eleven months before it was sent to the Philippine Islands where it saw combat against the native "insurrectos." In the First World War the regiment was stationed at the Panama Canal Zone. The present 29th Infantry is the third in the history of the nation. The first took part in the War of 1812; the second, in the

(Continued on Page 7)

Pvt. Baskette Forsook Hollywood Bright Lights For 'Doughboy' Role

Noted Songster Now Directs Provisional Regiment's Chorus

From the glitter and glamour of Hollywood stage sets to the relatively drab interior of a battalion dispatch office comes Pfc. Ernest Baskette, a recent addition to the Provisional Truck Regiment commanded by Colonel Frank J. Vida.

Prior to entering the service in September, 1942, Pvt. Baskette had spent ten years as a member of the bass section in the world-famous Hall Johnson Choir and, working with that group, enjoyed the many experiences, contacts and prestige gained by extensive appearances on the stage, screen, and radio.

Possessing a voice of rare quality and great range, this young man has a wonderful musical background, having studied voice under the late Percival Parham, former accompanist for Roland Hayes, as well as having taken special instruction under Hall Johnson for four years.

IMPORTANT SPOTS

This training enabled him to gain important spots in pictures, in many cases where the Choir was not featured. Some of these films in which he appeared, separate from the complete group, are "Hollywood Hotel," "Stanley and Livingston," "Arabian Nights," 'Sundown," and 'Bargain With Bullets." Working as a member of the choral group, he played in many of the best pictures—chief of which were "Jezebel," "Gone With the Wind," "Tales of Manhattan," and "The Lost Horizon," and "The Green Pastures.

His ability as an arranger was so great that RCA engaged Private Baskette to arrange a serial of 16 songs for one of their best broadcasting and recording groups, "The Bronzeman." Other work of this nature found him appearing before radio audiences in "The Gibson Family," "Paducah Plantation," as well as guest appearances on the Al Jolson show and the Rudy Vallee hour.

GREATEST THRILLS

Private Baskette relates that some of his greatest thrills came on the concert stage for it was there that he worked with the peerless Marian Anderson, Arturo Toscanini, and on the legitimate stage with Paul Robeson, and swingmaster Duke Ellington. He has sung at the Philadelphia Academy of Music, The Hollywood Bowl, The Brooklyn Academy of Music, has played in "Showboat," "John Henry, "Jump for Joy," and "Run 'Lil Chillun." His work has taken him from coast to coast where he has come in contact with the world's leading exponents of music and the drama.

Now a soldier in the United States Army, Private Baskette, whose native home is Fort Chester, N. Y., is working as a dispatcher for Company "K" in the battalion office and, in his spare time, is director of the Regimental Chorus, a newly organized group that many persons have compared favorably with Fort Benning's well known Reception Center Chorus.

3rd STR Candidate Makes 'Yank's' Cover

Burton Is Member Of Famed U. S. Mountain Infantry

Candidates in the Eighth Company, Third Student Training Regiment, are learning from the cover of the February 26th YANK that they have a celebrity in their midst. He is Candidate Harold B. Burton, skier and mountain climber from the 87th Mountain Infantry, more familiarly known as the ski troops.

The YANK cover shows Burton executing a jump turn on skiis—a difficult feat for any soldier, not to mention one who is loaded with a full pack and an M1. He is garbed in the mountain-troop reversible parka, the OD side turned in, and white—camouflage ski pants—an outfit the likes of which has enabled European ski troops to lie in perfect concealment and hold fire until they have seen the whites of the enemy's eyes.

FOURTH-ESTATEE

Burton, a newspaperman as well as a certified ski teacher who was supervising some of the instruction of Uncle Sam's skiers, was detailed to accompany the YANK correspondent who was covering the training of mountain troops in the new and sparkling Camp Hale, high in the Colorado Rockies. He does not vouch for all the details in the story, but will supply many an amusing anecdote about mountain troops to any who can find him in a story-telling mood.

One of Burton's stories concerns the end of a recreational skiing Sunday at Camp Hale. A conscientious noncom, looking over the roster, shouted to a friend, "Hey! Go find General Rolfe and bring him back. The CO forgot to sign out" The noncom was a bit startled to hear from immediately behind him an immediate reply: "As you were. I did too."

WANTS TO GO BACK

Burton hopes, as do the many other candidates from the 87th who are now attending Officer Candidate School, to return to the Mountain Troops when his course here is completed, and then to see service in some of the major mountains of the world. But he is a little apprehensive of the YANK cover. For immediately under his photograph is the title for a lead story in the issue: "Across North Africa with the British 8th." The snowy scene from Camp Hale hardly fits the title. "But," comments Burton, "although I can jump on skiis all right, maybe they've seen me trying some of these O. C. calisthenics backbreakers, and have decided Africa is just the place for me."

However, those who know Candidate Hal Burton's ski-teaching ability will want to see him back with his chosen mountain troops, in spite of Africa, YANK, and calisthenics.

Capt. W. D. Veal Gets Majority

Captain Willie D. Veal, provost marshal, has been promoted to the rank of major, it was announced by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the post.

Major Veal, who was called to active duty July 8, 1941, is a native of Milledgeville, Ga. He was promoted to the rank of captain in July, 1942.

Major Veal, a graduate of the Georgia Military College, Milledgeville, received his original commission of second lieutenant in 1927.

Station Hospital Ekes Out Win Over 802nd F. A.

A final scoring burst in the last two minutes of the ball game enabled the Station Hospital Medicos to eke out a 34-33 win over the 802nd Field Artillery on Sunday and chalk up their first win in the second half conference race. Frank Webster's foul and Buzz Perky's lay-up shot were the ones that turned the tide.

Webster paced the hospital attack with seven field flips and two fouls for 16 points, while Hal Cummings contributed nine for the winners. Top man in the point column for the 802nd was Maj. Ed Hoopes, former West Point basketeer, who racked up seven double-deckers for 14 markers. Bruno added ten more for the losers.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(CNS)—Connie W. Austin, foreman of the City Street and Garbage Department, was suspended for 10 days without pay by the City Commission for "neglect of duty." He neglected to drain the radiator of a truck one night during a recent cold wave, and the nert morning it refused to budge.

OVER 100% IN WAR BONDS

HAPPENINGS at HARVEY'S RESTAURANT

"We Buy The Best For You"

Harvey's appreciates the patronage of all Fort Benning personnel. When the soldiers gather there, many hilarious events are certain to happen. Mr. Sam Dardarin, the owner of Harvey's, is going to relate a few in this column each week.

★

Mr. Dardarin says that toward the end of the month when the soldier boy's money is low, and he gets lonesome, the music box sales increase about 30%. A blue soldier will put the last nickel in the machine to hear a piece reminding him of home. But when pay day rolls around, and his pockets jingle, jangle, jingle, he forgets about the music and buys food and drink!

★

A soldier accidentally left his shaving kit at Harvey's, and after a few days Mr. Dardarin opened it to find some means of identification. Inside was a letter to the soldier from his girl, which address Mr. Dardarin used to mail the boy his kit to Fort Benning. The soldier was grateful and sent a money order for the 20c postage. Mr. Dardarin laughingly said he bet that the sweetheart's letter meant more to the soldier than all the shaving apparel. So be sure to leave your girl's letter as identification when you forget something at Harvey's!

★

Our Chef Formerly From Statler Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Located 1309 Broadway

Welcome Fort Benning Personnel

For Better Photographs See Us First

COURTESY and SERVICE Our Motto

THE LITTLE STUDIO

1106½ BROADWAY

Over Chancellor's Dial 2-0252

ARMY WIVES...

VISIT OUR STORE

You've got the young 'un and we've got the Clothes you'll want to best display his (or her!) charms. All budget prices.

FREE!

Pkg. Safety Pins with every layete purchased.

TINY TOT SHOP

1217 BROADWAY DIAL 2-2492

HERMAN ABDALA, Prop.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTNT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion 8:30 a. m. Men's Bible class 9:30 a. m. Sunday school in the Children's school 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled"—Speaks. Sermon: Chaplain Alfred L. Pollock. Offertory: "Come Thou Almighty King"—Blount. Christian League 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Edgar L. Storey.

28th Infantry: Bible study 9:15 a. m. Morning worship 10 a. m. Chaplains Archie D. Clark and Edgar L. Storey.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Fellowship hour at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Walter S. Shine.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st STR and Acad. Regt. Morning services at 10 a. m. Chaplain Glenn S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for the Det. Med. Dept., at 9:30 a. m. Also colored Med. Det. Service in colored day room at 9 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Reception Center Recreation Hall, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:45 a. m. Capt. Vann J. Malone.

24th General Hospital: New Mess Hall, Sunday morning worship service at 9:30 a. m. Vespers Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. (in Nurses' Recreation Hall). Chaplain Archie G. Carroway.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 11:30 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and Clarence R. Richie.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Chapel No. 2, Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m., Chapel No. 4, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Edwin C. Wilson.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Chapel No. 5, Regimental services at 11 a. m. Services in 5th Bn., at 9:30 a. m. (Bldg. B-25). Evening worship 7 p. m. Chaplain A. B. Billman. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 863rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 51st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4 Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5201, located on 5th Division Road and Cosseta Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 9:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3 Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Friday: Sacred Heart Devotion will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field organizations, all Parachute Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30, at the Children's School, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road. A five-voice choir of officers and enlisted men chant the services. A lively discussion led by Chaplain S. A. Shain, concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd Student Training Regiment, Parachute Infantry Regiments, the Student Training Brigade and 764th Tank Battalion: Every Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock, in War Dept. Theatre No. 5, (Building B-46), 8th Division Road.

For men of the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 764th Tank Battalion, 801st and 802nd Field Artillery: Every Sunday morning at 10:30 in Building B-7. A lively forum on an important Jewish topic follows the service.

For men of the 10th Armored Division: Every Monday evening at 7:30, in Chapel No. 4, Sergeant Abe Millman will act as cantor.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

MARCH 4
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
6:30 P.M.—Military Maids and Men"—WRBL
6:30 P.M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS
10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU
11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

MARCH 5
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Our Secret Weapon"—WRBL
8:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

MARCH 6
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL
4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL
5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC
7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU
7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS
10:15 P.M.—"Soldiers With Wings"—WRBL

MARCH 7
3:30 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—NBC
6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"The Stars and Stripes In Britain (from London)—MBS
7:30 P.M.—"We, The People"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—"Hello Americans" with Orson Welles—WRBL
9:00 P.M.—"Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO)—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Report To The Nation"—WRBL

MARCH 8
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—"Cavalcade of America" (with Orson Welles)—CBS
8:30 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—Variety show, featuring the 29th Inf. Drum and Bugle Corps—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

MARCH 9
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Service"—NBC
8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast—WRBL

MARCH 10
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:10 P.M.—Variety Show—WRBL
7:45 P.M.—"Quartermaster Quarter Hour"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"The Man Behind the Gun"—WRBL

Women's Activities

Book Reviews—Monday, March 8, 2:30 p. m. Ladies Lounge.

—V—

Bridge—Tuesday, March 9, 2 p. m. Ladies Lounge.

—V—

Music Group, Wednesday, March 10, 2 p. m. Ladies Lounge, Mrs. William Eley.

—V—

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., Monday through Friday. Also Wednesday, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. In charge Monday, Mrs. John Jeter; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. William Huffstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes.

Sewing and knitting—Tuesday and Thursday, 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. Paul Newgarden; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

—V—

MOTOR CORPS

Headquarters at 301 Miller Loop. Telephone 2541 for Motor Corps to pick up magazines you are discarding.

On duty Friday, March 5, Mrs. F. J. Vida; March 8, Mrs. C. H. Coates and Mrs. G. P. Howell; March 9, Mrs. T. B. Dulin and Mrs. K. D. Flook; March 10, Mrs. P. W. Bailey; March 11, Mrs. W. E. Eckles.

—V—

FIRST AID

Due to the Red Cross drive, the new First Aid class will not start until after March 15. Enroll at Red Cross Work Room, or telephone 2058 in afternoon.

—V—

HOME NURSING

The new Home Nursing class will start about March 15. Register at Red Cross Work Room, or call 2058. In charge, Mrs. Sevier Tupper.

Boys' Activities

Scout Troop No. 11—Fridays.

Cub Pack No. 1—Fridays, 5:15 p. m., Boy Scout Cabin.

Rangers, Fridays, 2:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Jeeps—Basketball each day, 5:30 to 6:30. Main gymnasium.

Peeps—Junior basketball team. Daily 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. 29th Infantry Recreation Hall.

Wrestling Team — Tuesday, 5:30-6:30 p. m.

Air Scout Squadron — Thursday, 7:30 p. m., Room 322, TIS.

Movies

MAIN THEATRE AND NO. 8

Mar. 4-5—RANDOM HARVEST—Greer Garson and Ronald Colemen.
Mar. 6—WILD HORSE HUSTLERS—Bob Livingston and Al St. John.
SALUDOS AMIGOS—Walt Disney Feature.
Mar. 7-8—TARZAN TRIUMPHS—Johnny Weissmuller and Frances Gifford.
Mar. 9—LUCKY JORDAN—Alen Ladd and Helen Walker.
Mar. 10—THE YOUNG MR. PITT—Robert Donat, Robert Morley and Phyllis Calvert.

THEATRES NO. 2 AND 8

Mar. 4—THE MEANEST MAN IN THE WORLD—Jack Benny, Priscilla Lane and Rochester.
Mar. 5—WILD HORSE RUSTLERS—Bob Livingston and Al St. John.
SALUDOS AMIGOS—Walt Disney Feature.
Mar. 6—THE HARD WAY—Ida Lupino and Dennis Morgan.
Mar. 7-8—RANDOM HARVEST—Greer Garson and Ronald Colemen.
Mar. 9—THE YOUNG MR. PITT—Robert Donat, Robert Morley and Phyllis Calvert.
Mar. 10—TARZAN TRIUMPHS—Johnny Weissmuller and Frances Gifford.

THEATRES NO. 4 AND 5

Mar. 4—THE HARD WAY—Ida Lupino and Dennis Morgan.
Mar. 5-6—THE MEANEST MAN IN THE WORLD—Jack Benny, Priscilla Lane and Rochester.
Mar. 7—THE YOUNG MR. PITT—Robert Donat, Robert Morley and Phyllis Calvert.
Mar. 8—WILD HORSE RUSTLERS—Bob Livingston and Al St. John.
SALUDOS AMIGOS—Walt Disney Feature.
Mar. 9-10—RANDOM HARVEST—Greer Garson and Ronald Coleman.

THEATRES NO. 6 AND 7

Mar. 4-5 — SOMETHING TO SHOUT ABOUT—Don Ameche, Janet Blair and Jack Oakie.
Mar. 6—THE YOUNG MR. PITT—Robert Donat, Robert Morley and Phyllis Calvert.
Mar. 7-8—THE MEANEST MAN IN THE WORLD—Jack Benny, Priscilla Lane and Rochester.
Mar. 9—WILD HORSE RUSTLERS—Bob Livingston and Al St. John.
SALUDOS AMIGOS—Walt Disney Feature.
Mar. 10—LUCKY JORDAN—Alen Ladd and Helen Walker.

THEATRES NO. 9 AND 11

Mar. 4—WILD HORSE RUSTLERS—Bob Livingston and Al St. John.
SALUDOS AMIGOS—Walt Disney Feature.
Mar. 5-6—THE AMAZING MRS. HOLLIDAY—Deanna Durbin, Edmond O'Brien and Barry Fitzgerald.
Mar. 7—LUCKY JORDAN—Alan Ladd and Helen Walker.
Mar. 8—THE YOUNG MR. PITT—Robert Donat, Robert Morley and Phyllis Calvert.
Mar. 9-10 — SOMETHING TO SHOUT ABOUT—Don Ameche, Janet Blair and Jack Oakie.

THEATRE NO. 10

Mar. 4—USO Camp Show.
Mar. 5—THE YOUNG MR. PITT—Robert Donat, Robert Morley and Phyllis Calvert.
Mar. 6—LUCKY JORDAN—Alan Ladd and Helen Walker.
Mar. 7-8 — SOMETHING TO SHOUT ABOUT—Don Ameche, Janet Blair and Jack Oakie.
Mar. 9—THE BLOCKED TRAIL—The Three Mesquiteers.
YOU CAN'T BEAT THE LAW—Edward Norris, Jean Woodbury and Jack La Rue.
Mar. 10—THE MEANEST MAN IN THE WORLD—Jack Benny, Priscilla Lane and Rochester.

VISIT FLOWERS BROS. Barber Shop

★

And Get Your Hair Cut YOUR Way.

Haircuts 35c

★

Pants Pressed While You Wait.

★

FLOWERS BROS. 1030 Broadway

J. WILSON Alterations

Epaulets 11½ 12th St.

Chevrons Dial 6631

IN UNIFORMS - See Hamilton

Tailored To Measure

Made From 19-Oz. Very Dark Elastique

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR QUALITY— COMPARE!

HAMILTON TAILORING CO.

Display Room - 442 Ralston Hotel

RALSTON BARBER SHOP

Welcomes All Fort Benning Officers and Men

We specialize in dry and falling hair. Come in and give us a trial. Our prices are very reasonable.

4 Expert Barbers and Manicure Service

Chas. H. Parker, Prop.

PURCHASE ONLY THE BEST WITH YOUR NO. 17 COUPON!

Arnold Authentics are truly "the outstanding styles of today." Everything about them is in tune with the times . . . Their practical heels. Their snug-fitting comfort. Their famous Glove-Grip.

These thoroughbreds of American sportswear will help you do a better job of war work . . with less fatigue and more fun $10.95

Miller-Taylor SHOE COMPANY

Where The New Styles Are Shown First

Visit Our Shop In Doughboy Stadium

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By EVE

Looking back on the past months of weekly trips into Columbus I feel greatly privileged. The friendly chats I've had with the merchants have kept me informed on the merchandising problems of those men whose task is that of supplying our needs. Through their confidence I've seen the other side of the war picture. We, of the military, are not the only ones to face disappointment and frustration. Take my word for it, they're doing a gallant job.

—V—

A friend of mine said I stressed the adorable little girls' things in THE KIDDIE SHOPPE and skipped the little boys' things. Perhaps that's because the little girls' clothing and accessories are such enchanting miniatures of our own fashions. Diminutive white gloves, purses and wee berets are "oh" and "ah" appeal for any woman. The little man clothes have their charm too. Wise mothers of small sons had best look ahead to the summer season right now while the stock of boys' suits are generous. Wash suits of gingham, broadcloth and chambray are fresh in gay solid colors or stripes. The tiny button-on trousers and turn back collared blouses of these attractive suits makes the classic garment for little boys with sturdy dimpled legs. Once they grow out of this kind of clothes the mother loses the joy of "dressing up" here son. Knickers that won't stay put, twisted sweaters and sagging socks is her lot for a few years. Indulge in your baby boy while you can. You will like the striped seersucker suite with white broadcloth blouses buttoned securely onto the brief trousers. The rule that applies to our clothes is the same for small tots . . . buy your cotton things now.

—V—

I like H. ROTHSCHILD, Inc., at 1229-31 Broadway for the honest and realistic policy they maintain in their furniture store. One might expect this from a business that has operated in Columbus for 49 years of continuous service to the community. They have prided themselves in handling high quality merchandise. Faced now with war-time problems of supply and quality they give their customers a frank statement of the exact nature of their purchase. Too, they have taken into consideration the circumstances under which we live today. Families who want to be together for the few precious months allotted them. Unable to find furnished houses they look about for furniture to make a reasonably comfortable home at a moderate outlay, with a possible resale when they are ordered away. H. Rothschild, Inc. has met this emergency need with their sets of maple furniture. A davenport, two large chairs, a coffee table, several small end tables, a fibre rug, a few pictures and lamps, and there you have a comfortable and attractive living room for your war time living. The maple is a nice golden tone and the upholstery bright and colorful. It's truly something for you folks to consider who are tramping the streets looking for furnished apartments.

—V—

After all the fears and alarms we experienced when we faced the loss of our beloved sheer chiffon silk and nylon hose, we've become remarkably satisfied with the cotton, lisle and rayon hose on the markets today. Now that everyone is wearing the heavier hose we've become accustomed to them. What's more, we've found a service and monthly wear unknown in our chiffon hosiery era. Besides that the lovely mesh and lisle hose are suitable and smart with our low heeled walking shoes and suits. The Flatternit hosiery by Huffman is sold in the front hosiery section of KIRVEN'S. There's a smart, smoothly knit lisle hose with a stunning clock. The sheer vertical mesh hose creates an illusion of slimness and transparency that goes well for dress occasions. The Link and Link cotton hose are perfect for our heavier type of walking and casual shoes. The wear one receives from these hose is amazing. Then there are the rayon sheers for your most important engagements. All those choices in beautiful and wearable hose make me wonder if many of us are not going to be glad that the hosiery bill of yesteryear and the sulphurous exclamations that used to fill the air when runs popped at the precise moment when we wanted to look our best are things of the past.

—V—

If you're one of the women who believe that a beautiful hat is an important accessory you'll be as excited as I was when I saw the millinery creations just received by the HAT SHOP in KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, Inc. I've seen many a hat and matching bag set and for the most part the hat is some sketchy dab of material accompanied by a huge bag. Not so, the sets in this shop. The hats are individual creations, artfully designed out of fine fabrics, matched with an equally elegant bag. There's a taffeta plaid sailor with a pleated ruche around the brim swirled with crisp black veiling. The matching bag is as lovely as the hat. Another creation in ice pink straw cloth is touched with fuschia and veiled. The bag is as exquisite as the hat. Then there's still another set in sunny blue, equally engaging for the most glamorous moments. Kelley green, light coffee touched with a splash of kelley green in the form of a pert feather. As if these weren't enough to turn the heads of every woman that sees them, and later men's heads after they transform the ladies that buy them, Mrs. Slattery has an enviable collection from the Hotel Astor Fashion Show in New York. There are no adjectives to describe these superb creations. They are hats you'd remember owning and wearing the rest of your life.

—V—

One doesn't spend precious No. 17 ration coupon for shoes without a great deal of thought and assurance that their purchase will give them the utmost in quality and fit. Shoes that cause acute discomfort have always a cause for regret. B. R. (before ration) we could push them to a dark corner of the closet and try and forget them, while we wore the shoes that gave us comfort. That's not possible today. We must rely on our shoe stores for assistance in preventing mistake purchases. No one is better qualified through years of proven service for this helpfulness than the MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE STORE. I liked the trim look of the calfskin walking shoe by I Miller. It comes in wild honey, navy and black and is distinguished by the meticulous fine punched trim and cleverly turned tongue at the instep. For classic beauty the d'orsay patent leather pump holds no equal. The slim high heel flatters one's ankle and the gleaming patent leather makes it wearable for a great many changes of costume. Patent leather sandals are feminine and flattering for beautifully gowned effects. Unusual are the baby calf shoes in navy blue with stunning trapunto design. These too, may be worn for tailored or dressy occasions.

—V—

An oft-quoted phrase of the beloved Bobby Burns, "Oh wad some Pow'r the giftie gie us, to see oursel's as others see us!" was written before the days of fine photography. It might even be written of the period when our ancestors were photographed as stricken morons facing the torment of the photographer of that day. Maybe we inherited a reluctance for having our pictures taken from those self same ancestors. Whatever the cause, there's too much involved these days to overlook an obligation to one's family. Whether you're the only child or a member of a large family, the fact that you're in the army and away from home keeps you constantly in your dear one's mind. Unquestionably they have asked you often to have a good picture taken of yourself, one that will remind them often of the twisted smile, the tumbled lock of hair. Many of our Fort Benning folks have found out about the outstanding personality portraits they can have made at AIME DUPONT PHOTOGRAPHERS on Broadway. But there's just as many that have yet to learn there's an opportunity to satisfy the family at home and really see themselves as others see them.

—V—

We've taken a great deal from our menfolks in the way of wearing apparel, much of which we might better have left to them. There's no denying our wholesale adoption of man tailored suits or the more modified dressmaker suits have become a wardrobe must for every woman these days. The chief difficulty is finding the suit they want. That's why I'm happy to tell of new suit arrivals. THE PATRICIA GOWN SHOP at Fort Benning and in the Ralston Hotel have some new suits. I like the yellow and grey checked suit with the matching topper. It's definitely spring, yet the soft color combination will look well for year round wear. Another suit of slate blue with chalk white stripes boasts a matching topper. A bit dressier is a blue flannel with handsome silver buttons. Remindful of strawberry chocolate cream candy is the soft wool chesterfield with a brown velvet collar. The coat is a luscious pink with a thin lined plaid effect of deep chocolate brown. Also new in these two shops are the popular berets. There's the already accepted and popular beret as well as a marvelous choice of the softer dressmaker type with stitching and details that many will find extremely flattering too. Trim white broadcloth blouses to wear as a change from your sweater are newcomers to the shop too.

—V—

Once in a while you meet someone that instantly becomes a charming friend. Mrs. B. B. Cheek, Director of Out-of-Town Activities for RICH's, Inc. of Atlanta, is one of these kind of people. She made her headquarters in Columbus at RICH'S MILLTARY STORE at 1236 Broadway for the week of her stay. I've visited Atlanta a number of times and am no stranger to this establishment that has earned the enviable reputation of being the South's largest store. I know they're equipped through their tremendous merchandising contacts to supply any and all needs. What I didn't know was the many warm personal services they had established to see us through our wee period. Mrs. Cheek was in Columbus to tell her many visitors about these services. She talked with some 200 women, which is something of a record. The chief service Mrs. Cheek has to offer is a Personal Shopping Service. She promises a careful selection fitted to your taste and needs if you'll write her a letter at Rich's, in Atlanta. She's going to return to Columbus soon to become better acquainted with our needs and problems, as well as meet us personally. When she does, do visit her. You will find a new friend in the south.

—V—

During these overcast days and wild March winds it's pretty hard to think of the endless days ahead in June, July and August when the only thing that makes life bearable in the intense heat are your brief shorts and play suits. But they'll be here just as sure as taxes we must pay whether we think of them or not. If we've heeded advice and supplied ourselves for those months we can refresh ourselves with a coke and bare our legs to the stray breeze. If we don't, well, it'll serve us right when we can't find a play suit in town. KAYSER - LILIENTHAL Inc, have just received a shipment of these southern necessities. They're beautifully tailored in waffle pique, sharkskin, chambray, ginghams in colors as gay as a garden. Most of them come with the button down the front skirt. Handy things to have to whisk on when the door bell rings and you don't want to appear too informal. Handy too, to unbutton for coolness after you've done your rounds on the Post. They do look like a tailored dress you know when you wear the skirt. There's also a wide choice of culottes, beloved by the bicyclist who have found this type of sport dress perfect for their needs. They come in all the beautiful cottons that take first place in our preference for summer wear.

—V—

I'm unquestionably an old fuss budget that demands more than I've a right to expect these hectic days. If I'm lucky enough to find something that pleases me, I'm not only wonderfully satisfied but want everyone else to know about it. The Luncheonette in the CITY PHARMACY at 14—13th Street, right across from the Waverly Hotel, is one of my pet discoveries. It's spic-and-span clean, uncluttered and free from the rattle and racket of dishes. People don't tromp over you trying to get corner space at your table. Their lunch is an item to consider when you're shopping in town, but even more worthy of your attention is the Shopper's Tea they feature in the afternoon. It's a perfect place to meet your friends before returning to the Post. You can compare shopping finds and swap tidbits of gossip without a stranger listening in with eager attention. While you're in the City Pharmacy look at those luscious jars of dates, figs or kumquats preserved in rum. Guava jelly, grapefruit or orange marmalade and papaya preserves are toothsome sweets to make you forget your ration troubles.

Ex-Sherlock Holmes Carrano Seeks Adventure With 55th Engineers

Helped Break Up Baltimore Bootleg Ring; Was On Levine Case

A little over 10 years ago a 19-year-old boy from Brooklyn, N. Y., made headlines in the South when he was credited with helping to break up the biggest bootleg ring in the state of Maryland. Later the youth, whose name was James J. Carrano, became a professional detective, and in the pursuit of his duties he worked on cases involving everything from larceny to kidnaping, generally receiving no publicity for his accomplishments although some of the cases were national sensations.

Carrano is now Pvt. Carrano of the 55th Armored Engineers Battalion. When he joined the army originally he selected the Paratroops because he actually enjoys risking his neck, and for six months he soared through the air around Fort Benning—until he broke his leg. The limb stiffened up on him, necessitating his transfer to a less vigorous line of duty so he chose the Engineers, who are not generally regarded as chair-warmers.

A SLEUTH IS BORN

Carrano's detective career was launched when he went down to Baltimore in 1932 for a visit and remained to become a hero. It all started innocently enough. The boy had a friend who was a detective with the Maryland state police, and the older man had already begun to investigate the bootlegging situation. Carrano became his protege and apparently was a brilliant pupil because he was soon taking off on his own to scout isolated areas in a search for stills. One night the detective and his young shadow stopped a truck, sent the driver on his way and drove the vehicle to a private garage where they unloaded cases of illegal cheer.

A few days later the owner of the truck—and the ringleader of the gang—dropped around to get his truck and its cargo.

"We told him," Carrano says, "that his bootlegging days were over." And, as it developed, they were. For eight months the city boy who knew just what he wanted to be pestered the bootleggers and incidentally dug up plenty of evidence until the case was ready for the courts. The newspapers ate it up and young Carrano was rewarded by seeing his name in big, black headlines.

When he looks back on the incident today, Carrano realizes that he was "just a crazy kid" and he wonders why somebody in the gang didn't polish him off or beat him up sufficiently so that he would take the next train back to Brooklyn.

EXTENDS SCOPE

From this beginning Carrano carried his sleuthing talents to a large mail-order house and eventually worked all over the country as a traveling investigator. His job was to check pilferings, thefts and losses of all kinds that looked suspicious. To learn who the thieves were, Carrano would get a job in a particular warehouse through the regular employment agency channels and work as an ordinary shipper, observing his fellow workers as he labored and waiting until he noticed something that aroused his suspicion. When he had obtained all his facts he would reveal his true identity, surprising the other boys no end.

On many occasions Carrano worked directly with the New York City police and G-men with the understanding that he was responsible for himself. He has done investigations on this basis in many of the major crime cases in New York in recent years, always without public credit, and he refuses even now to discuss his part in these cases.

"My job," he explains, "was to go places where the city and federal police could not go because they were outside of the jurisdiction of these agencies. So I always had to work in complete secrecy."

LEVINE CASE

The biggest case on which Carrano worked was the Levine Kidnaping case at New Rochelle, N. Y. Carrano did considerable "follow-up" work in this tragic case, and one of his most important jobs was to check the hangouts of the suspects in New York City.

Only once has he been injured in the pursuit of his hazardous work. This was in Buffalo, N. Y., where he had gone to investigate a missing shipment of radios. When he caught up with the thieves one of them pulled a knife on him, and Carrano escaped with a couple of minor gashes in the back. He always carried a gun but never had occasion to use it.

Carrano likes the army but he will like it a lot more when his unit goes into action. There seems to be no doubt that this soldier thrives on excitement and exposure to danger.

Tigers To Go Into Bivouac

Field Work Will Stress Battle Tactics

Beginning March 8 and lasting through a two-month period, two battalions a week from the 10th Armored "Tiger" division will spend a week in bivouac at Tiger Lake and another week in the field devoted entirely to tactical training.

Moving to one of the two camps at Tiger Lake on each Monday, the battalions will remain until the following Saturday when they will hike back to the Sand Hill area to complete the 25 mile march required of all men in the division.

Indoctrination to battle noises and battle conditions will be emphasized. The soldiers will hear explosives and will negotiate tangled barbed wire while machine-gun fire sweeps overhead. In one of the courses targets will pop up unexpectedly in the bushes and will call for quick action in firing.

OTHER TRAINING

Other training will include scouting and patrolling, obstacle courses, calisthenics, camouflage, boxing, infiltration and individual cooking. The two obstacle courses each will include short swims with limited facilties for crossing of non-swimmers.

Reconnaissance platoons will be tested as a whole to see if they can qualify as Tiger platoons. Emphasis will be laid on team work within the platoons, and platoon records rather than individual records will be stressed.

Class X uniforms—salvaged fatigues—will be distributed to men going to the camps so they will not damage their regular issued clothing.

NO LUXURIES

Men will live in field bivouacs—pup tents—while at the camps. Aside from mail delivery, there will be few of the luxuries of garrison living. The only break in the rigid training schedule will come on the Wednesday afternoons, which will be available for rest or baseball.

In most cases, the "tactical" camp week will precede the week at Tiger camp.

May 1 Deadline For 38-Year-Olds To Submit Papers

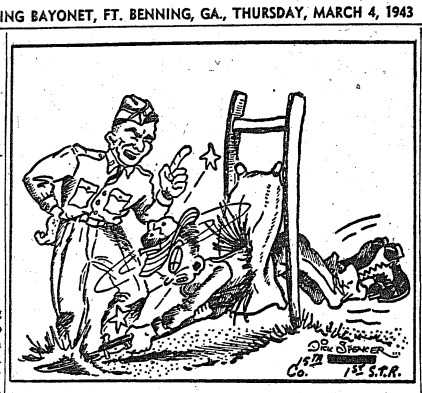
Soldiers over 38 years of age, now eligible for separation from the service in the event that they enter some essential war industry must submit applications before May 1, according to word reaching Fort Benning. Soldiers stationed outside the continental limits of the United States have until June 1.

If the application is not made before the dead-lines, the enlisted man forfeits his right to discharge.

The Army has ruled that it is not necessary that a trained man be available to replace the discharged soldier, but his release must not disrupt the efficiency of any organization.

The individual must have attained his 38th birthday on or before Feb. 28, 1943.

He must have been enlisted or inducted on or before Feb. 28, 1943.



Provisions for soldiers overseas differ from those of men stationed in the U. S. in two additional particulars: commanders are authorized to waive the provision that the applicant must furnish proof that he has future employment and a trained replacement must be ready and available.

Although applications must be made by a certain date, the War Department said that many men will not be released until later.

Lt. Samuel Lowry Named Captain

First Lieut. Samuel E. Lowry, commanding officer of headquarters Detachment DEML, has been promoted to captain.

Coming to active duty in May, 1942, Lowry was first assigned as assistant special service officer, and became assistant detachment commander in August, 1942. When Captain Sutton was named post theater officer, Lowry succeeded him as officer in charge.

Captain Duncan Named Major

Captain Fred J. Duncan, post medical supply officer, Station Hospital, has been promoted to the rank of major, according to announcement reaching post headquarters.

Major Duncan entered the Army in 1918 and came up through the ranks to his majority. He was commissioned in 1937 after completing the Reserve Officers' Training course in Panama. His commission was granted at Fort Benning where he came directly from the Canal Zone.

He is a graduate of Gravity High School, Gravity, Ia., and of the Army Medical School, Washington, D. C.

Tank Unit CO Is Lt. Colonel

The promotion of Major Jack J. Richardson to the rank of lieutenant colonel has been announced at The Infantry School, where he is commanding officer of the 764th Tank Battalion.

Col. Richardson was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1935. While at the Academy he played plebe football and was prominent in swimming activities.

After receiving his commission, Col. Richardson served for three years at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. He had a two-year tour of duty at Fort Benning from 1938 to 1940. After leaving here, he had tours of duty at Fort George G. Meade, Md., Fort Devens, Mass., Fort Bragg, N. C., and Camp Campbell, Ky., before returning to Benning late in 1942. During maneuvers in 1942, he participated in the landing operations of the First Division off the coast of North Carolina as commanding officer of a separate tank company.

The 764th Tank Battalion which he commands is a demonstration unit for The Infantry School.

Situation Well in Hand...

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

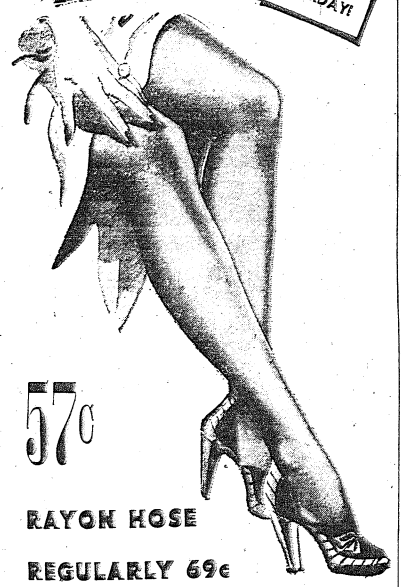
WITH ROYAL CROWN COLA

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Best by Taste-Test!

Are You Eligible For New Tires?

Try Our One-Stop Service for Recapping, Vulcanizing and Complete Auto Service.



O. P. A. AUTHORIZED STATION NO. 2

Blackmon-Scarbrough, Inc.

11th St.—1st Ave. Dial 3-2751

MONTGOMERY WARD'S SPRING SAVINGS SALE

SALE ENDS SATURDAY!

57c

RAYON HOSE

REGULARLY 69c

Imagine getting first quality, full-fashioned rayon hose today at this price! And these are Wards famous #284R's, the stockings women ask for by number! Flattering semi-service weight in 42 gauge, 100 Denier rayon with reinforced tops and feet. Ideal for day-in, day-out wear. 8½ to 10½.

USE WARDS MONTHLY PAYMENT PLAN

DIAL 7761 TWELFTH and BROADWAY

Levy-Morton Co.

—•—

Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps

—•—

REPAIRS — Dial 3-6391

1028—13th STREET

KIRVEN'S

Good News In COLOR

ALL the bright, happy colors are good news for this spring's fashions . . . inspiring and confident as a victorious headline. Any color and all colors, mixed and matched . . . contrasting and accenting YOU. Snappy colors . . . not dull, drab or dreary shades worn because they're the "style" . . . but vibrating colors that do the most for your eyes, smile and spirit . . . colors that make you feel and look like Good News.

Look Like Good News in

Pastel SUITS

$35

Don't focus your attention on any one color . . . pick a luscious pastel suit that looks like good news with dark, light, and white accessories in many colors. All-wool tailored suit in aqua, melon, gold, green and blue; sizes 12 to 40. Choose the most becoming shade for YOU. Fashion Shop, Second Floor.

Pastel FELTS

Good News Headlines

8.95

Don't try to match your suit and gloves with your hat . . . accent color with a different color (as blue looks bluer accented with red or yellow). Try a new shade pastel felt this spring and see if you don't feel and look like Good News. Better Hat Salon, Second Floor.

Bright . . . Happy-Colored

SEERSUCKERS

7.98

Happy-go-lucky seersucker suit-dresses in gay, exciting colors of brown, blue, and red; sizes 9 to 15; 12 to 20. Easy on the eyes . . . easy to wear . . . easy to wash and care for. Seersuckers are your best bet for spring and summer in colors that stand up and cheer. You'll find them in the Petite Fashion Shop, Second Floor.

Buy MORE WAR BONDS

J. A. KIRVEN CO.

YOUR Complete DEPARTMENT STORE

FT. BENNING BAYONET

FT. BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1943.

Edited By Public Relations Staff

The Benning Bayonet published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

"The army depends heavily on the Red Cross as a vital link between its individual soldiers and their families. . . ."

—General George C. Marshall.

Goldbricking Should Be Cured For Nation's Good

It has been intimated in certain circles that "goldbricking" is a disease. To verify this claim is difficult, but we can say without shame that continuous research is taking place at the dispensary of the 1st Student Training Regiment. To isolate the "goldbrickitis" germ is still beyond the scope of the most ingenious medical officer. Yet it is our proudest boast that numerous advancements have been made in our laboratories, which will help in eradicating this pestilence.

This EXTRAORDINARY disease is divided into two main classes.

(a) ACUTE

(b) CHRONIC

The acute type is one who suddenly feels he must have the day off, because he has some personal business that needs immediate attention, or that he was out late the night before, and his cherished rest is more important than his work.

The chronic type is one who repeatedly seeks excuses. He comes to the dispensary on the slightest provocation, always with a new or different complaint, and after discussing these false symptoms with the medical officer, asks for an excuse. Usually these symptoms appear before night problems, cold or rainy weather, or before strenuous obstacle courses.

A common complaint of the "goldbrick" is diarrhea. It seems hi suncanny judgement tells him that the medical officer has no way to disprove this complaint, and therefore will be inclined to excuse him for the day. Of course, upset stomachs are all too aggravating; those terrific headaches sure are murderous; but what about last night's 90 proof Bourbon? I'll bet it felt good last night? There are pains in the sinuses, dizzy spells, and other vague symptoms: perhaps the best we know of is when the "goldbrickitis" victim complains he is "just a hurtin' all over," in that way he isn't taking a chance on missing out.

TREATMENT

The acute type when recognized is sent to duty with all his hopes blighted. He walks out disgusted, mumbling to himself so that the medical officer could hear and pity him, giving the impression that he is being discrimated against

The chronic type is easily cured by two ounces of castol oil. This medication not only removes the toxins from his intestinal tract, but also clears the mind of "dispensaryitis." The treatment, being disagreeable, will keep the goldbrick away from the dispensary.

Numerous scientists have acknowledged the idea that "goldbricking" is hereditary. This was first introduced in the lazia theory. This theory gained favor rapidly when the indomitable characteristics of the "goldbrick" became better known. More recent studies have brought about the belief that the disease is picked up along the paths of life; particularly in the Army, where it flourishes prolifically. This theory is recognized as the neolazia theory.

The quality of leadership has been slightly strained. It would be surprising to learn how many pseudo leaders we have found inflicted with "goldbrickitis." What a measurement this is for an officer or prospective officer who in the future may lead men in the fighting zones! What a laugh this would cause if those who are performing so conscientiously in Africa, or the South Pacific, etc. could picture realistically what is going on with some of their cronies in the battle of the home front!

Many officers and enlisted men, regardless of their rank, are still under the impression that our country is still at peace. They do not fully realize that the training given them at the Infantry School is a basis of the knowledge and experience learned from present mechanized war, and of past wars, since time immemorial. The most up-to-date tactics are taught to the students attending the Infantry School; still some of the officers and enlisted men will seek the road of least resistance, and try to avoid any hardship or difficult problem which is scheduled for that day, especially when the weather is cold or rainy.

In all fairness to those men who are now squaring off with the enemy let us give it all we've got. In all fairness to those loved ones back home let us put our shoulders to the wheel. In all fairness to ourselves and Uncle Sam let us cut out this confounded "goldbricking."

MAJOR FRANK I. CIOFALO,
Regimental Surgeon,
1st STR.

Benning Folk Tighten Their Belts For Victory

Several thousand Army and civilian families connected with Fort Benning applied for War Ration Book Number 2 last week at the office of the Provost Marshal, under the direction of Sergeant Louis Lipp, efficient secretary and chief clerk of the Benning rationing board, applications were handled speedily.

Thus was the war brought home to every dinner table in the quarters of military personnel on the post, in Baker Village, Benning Hills and Park, and in Columbus. Food rationing is part of the price we pay for victory. In this manner do those of us who are not yet serving overseas assume a share of the load.

It can do us good, too. The British have found their national health improved under rationing. No one starves; luxuries and extras go by the board. Eating becomes plain and simple. Rationing can help put us as a nation into training for the tough job ahead.

But rationing tests our patriotism. It is easy to sing "God Bless America;" it is much harder to obey, day in, day out, a set of regulations that make us "do without," especially nowadays when we have so much more money to spend. With our pockets jingling, it is natural to want our steaks and fixings. This is the appetite which Black Markets try to tempt.

We must face this danger. If Black Markets bred of hi-jacking, stealing and racketeering are allowed to get a foothold, America may be plunged into a wave of lawlessness to equal that of prohibition times. And the unscrupulous would provide them as long as the unscrupulous will patronize them.

"Food will win the war and write the peace," we say. But America's ability to distribute the food to the starving nations tomorrow depends upon how well we work out our own distribution problems now.

"Not what you desire,
But what you require,—
That's the new motto our shoppers have got to Most swiftly acquire!"

This spirit which can make our ration books weapons for victory is one household necessity that cannot be rationed. It teaches the Army housewife to use all of everything she buys, and helps the neighbors to meet shortag by sharing. It holds th storekeeper to standards of absolute honesty and co-operation with the government. With this spirit, government, farmer, merchant and consumer alike can handle our food for America's greatest good, voluntarily sharing profits and hardships, and demonstrating that "There is enough for everybody's need, but not enough for everybody's greed."

Tank Talk In Infantry Class Puzzles Students

"We start our study of the next bit of armament with terminology," declared the instructor. "The body is called the hull, the front end of which is the bow. The bulges on the sides are sponsors. On top is the turret and the holes are ports."

O. C. Class 202 looked around quizzically. Had they wandered into the wrong class or had the instructor wandered off his subject? Judging from the instructor's vocabulary, they might be in a class on naval architecture. To be sure, a shavetail was expected to know a great many things—if the G. T.'s were any evidence of the requirements—and there had been a lot of talk about close cooperation between the various branches of the service, but wasn't it carrying things a bit too far to expect an officer candidate to cram a naval cadet's training on top of that of an infantry officer? These questions and a good many more, ran through the collective minds of the members of the class.

The boys were broad minded and had no objection to the instructor having an outside interest even if it did run to a bit of sea-faring reading. But he had no business to confuse his avocation with his vocation particularly if it meant they had to sit through a lecture on ships when they were having difficulties enough to master their own weapons.

The rising murmur of the class was quieted by the next statement of the instructor. "Don't misunderstand me, we are studying tanks this afternoon, not boats. The word "tank," is a result of a little deception on the part of the English during the last war. To keep the new weapon a secret the contracts under which they were built called them "water tanks for Russia." They were built and designed under the supervision of the British Navy and the sailor's terminology given to the tanks at that time, has never been lost."

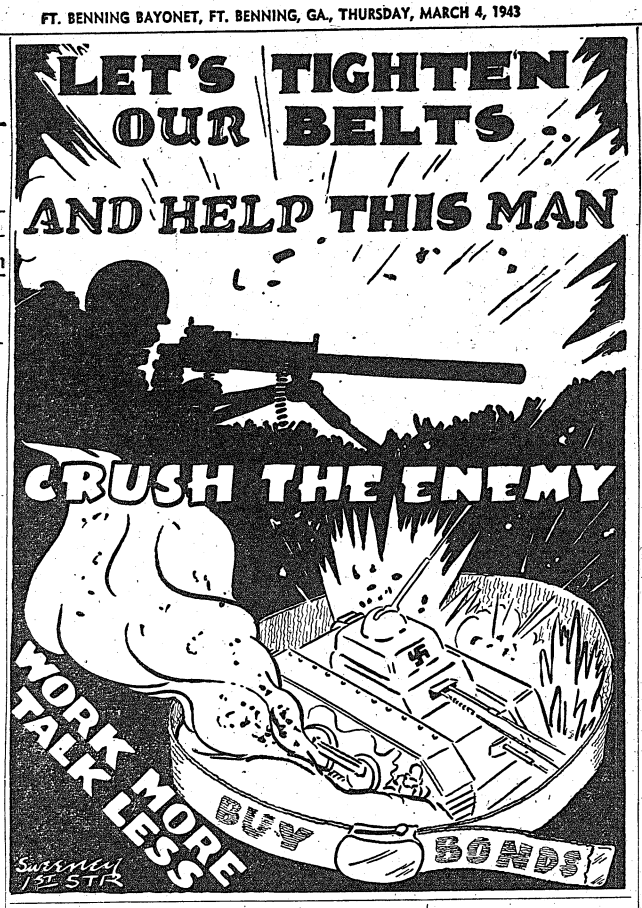
G. E. Randall
29th Company,
3rd STR.

To bring patriotism down to brass tacks, bring it down to tin cans.

George Washington was honest about the cherry tree in the garden. Are you—about canned cherries in your cupboard?

Declare your soup or we'll all be in it.

A run on goods is the forerunner of rationing.



The tailor takes the measure of a man. Is the "clothes rush" a measure of our patriotism?

People who would be ashamed to be seen in the wrong clothes seem to feel no shame in hoarding for their wardrobe.

If we ourselves are frauds and cheats,
In buying clothes or hoarding eats,
We haven't so much cause to shun
The stealthy Jap and lying Hun.

Folks remembering Pearl Harbor, December 7th, should not forget that there are other forms of infamy. Anyone who harbors selfishness or complacency in our own lives harbors a national enemy.

Some men are fired by their work. Others by the boss.

USO Presents—

'JOHNNY DOE GOES USO' AND TALK BY COLONEL KELLEY

BY PVT. SHELDON A. KEITEL

"Johnny Doe Goes USO," the slice of life screen production about our Army, will shortly be seen locally. . . . The average American soldier is Pvt. Dale Hendrickson of New Jersey, and his heart interest is played by Miss Marie Fleming of Columbus, Ga. . . . Together they enjoy the opportunities the USO has to offer. . . . The picture was made through the co-operation of Captain John N. Harman, Jr., commanding officer of the 161st Signal Photo Co., and under the supervision of Lt. R. E. Fields, who was in charge of production. . . . E. J. Bergmann, USO director in Columbus, says a preview will be held in Atlanta sometime in March. He extends thanks to the Army recreational units, General Fulton, Col. Finnegan, Col. Thompson and Lt. Inzer.

A USO Town Hall feature will come to the Ninth Street USO Sunday, when Col. Kelley will present "The Philippines—Question Mark of the Pacific," a timely discussion which should interest Ft. Benning soldiery.

The exhibition of pen and ink drawings and cartoons of enlisted men stationed at Ft. Benning held at the Ninth Street USO this past week proved that the boys can "draw" something besides their pay. . . .

Genial George Hardin, program director at the Phenix City Salvation Army USO, calls attention this week to the regular Sunday feature at his establishment when either he or Capt. Richard T. Bergren, director, will hold forth as quizmaster come 4 p. m. . . . This novel quiz program pays off to soldiers anywhere from $13 to $18 in prizes. . . . From $2 to $4 of this is in real, green, U. S. currency and the remainder is in "snack bar credit," where the boys can get liquid or solid refreshments.

A joint project of the Columbus Salvation Army USO and the Phenix City USO will be in the form of a farewell party at Phenix City for Canadian paratroopers to be given Thursday, March 11, at 8 p. m. . . . It will be a "fish and chips" party and will be open to about 50 Canadians by invitation only.

Miss Mell Tolbert of the Columbus Salvation Army USO reminds Ft. Benning's doughboys that a program of motion picture entertainment is scheduled regularly on Friday nights at the center.

The Reception Center quartet will sing Saturday at 8:30 p. m. in the Columbus Salvation Army USO. . . . The half-hour religious hymn service, known as "Sing-spiration," is held every Sunday at 6 p. m. at the Salvation Army USO in Columbus. . . . Both advices from Miss Tolbert.

POETRY

High up in the courts of Heaven today
A little dog-angel waits;
With the other angels he will not play,
But he sits alone at the gates.

TIPPY

Old timer, man had no better friend,
Words fail, when thinking of your end.
Your welcome bark, and that dry run,
Yes, old fellow, we sure had fun.
That grand spirit, and fighting heart,
It was a tank, that made us part.

You were getting old and lame,
Even (Horse), couldn't make you tame.
For a dog, You were super-super,
Not a beggar, but a real trooper.
How you'd sit still, when told stay there,
Wouldn't move a muscle or a hair.

Your funeral was a handsome one,
It was the least we could have done.
The old 11th. honors you this day,
Killed in service of the U. S. A.
Only one time, did you make a slip,
A . . . W . . . O . . . L., dear old tip.

Beside your grave, taps were blown,
A better soldier, I've never known.
In your own bed-roll, you lie at rest,
A shelter half covers your chest.
And though no longer your tail can wag,
I salute you, as I would the flag.

Corp. Louis Fiedelman
H. Q. Co. 1st Bn.
11th. Armored Regiment
10th. Armored Division

THE ARMORED TIGERS

We speed with a clatter and clangor
Through mud or through dust or through snow.
We snarl and we roar and we mutter
As forward we go.
To fight and to win is our mission
And though every nerve is on edge
While engine and sinew can labor
We'll win! Hold our lives as our pledge.
Whole hearts in halftracks, onward!
. . . courage the fray will reveal.
We are the Armored Tigers.
We are the Men of Steel!

Chaplain's Corner . .

THE LAW'S AN ASS

Chaplain Frank M. Thompson

"The law's an ass, an idiot," grumbled Mr. Bumble, one of Dickens characters.

Many have felt the same way about it but it has made little impression on lawmakers. From the time Moses—and long before his time—down to the present, tribunals have been grinding out statutes until every phase of one's activity is hedged about by "thou shall and thou shall not." And the output continues in ever increasing bulk and complexity. We do not decry legislation. It is important, indispensable. The blunder comes in thinking it is the remedy for all our ills.

No law can make the dishonest, honest; the selfish, unselfish; the unlovely, lovely. The best it can do is to curb wrongdoing. It cannot put it out of business, no matter how severe and sweeping the restraints, the penalties.

And even if one obeyed all the enactments of a well-ordered state that would be no evidence of usefulness. It is possible to observe all the rules and regulations of an orthodox church and still be an uncomfortable neighbor, an undesirable citizen.

What this troubled age needs is a law that requires no policemen or judges for its enforcement. A law that springs spontaneously from the heart, recognizes one's obligation to society and to God. A law that is self imposed, as portrayed in a time of danger by the appeal, women and children first.

Well, Christ inaugurated just such a code of conduct. Life, according to Him, was to be governed not by legislation but by an inner compulsion, an inner force which He called love. This way of living was to transform mankind and make beautiful his dwelling place. The law is,

"Thou shalt love the Lord
Thy God with all thy heart,
And with all thy soul and with
All thy mind . . . and thy Neighbor as thyself."

We can win this war through fear of what will happen if we don't.

We can win through anger at what's already happened.

Or we can win through faith in what will happen when we do. Only this is a true victory.

Some of us have enjoyed living so much, we have forgotten what we're living for.

Eve Says—

WE WON'T HAVE TO LISTEN TO DIETERS FOR THE 'RATIONATION'

One of the things we won't have to bear up under these coming months is listening to those who are dieting. Nor will we have to read diet lists in women's magazines. Maybe that's a dubious consolation these food rationing days, but one must find some crumb of comfort.

The more involved we become in wartime necessities the more impressed I am with the general good humor shown when we're face strict curtailment. The long line of women who wanted to avoid the crowd by arriving at the Provost Marshal's office when it opened might have been waiting to see a good movie—there was that little comment. Later when they arrived at the Post Exchange Grocery their attitude was one of bewilderment rather than irritation. Those who never gave their meals a thought before they arrived at the store how saw for the first time that menu plans must be made. No longer could they grab a can of vegetables or fruit if they didn't like the fresh supply.

Many of them must have followed my experience when they later pulled out their cook books to jog up their memories on possible non-rationed food. For fascinating reading I recommend a cook book. Of course, you run the chance of acquiring a raging hunger, but that's an exciting emotion that can be compared to that received when reading a mystery yarn.

I must have collected the wrong kind of receipes. Here's the famous Country Captain, originating from a genius cateress of Fort Benning's early days. Many a feud that caused between army wives. Those who had it didn't want to give it away. Those that couldn't get it were furious. Some who managed to get it spoiled the dinner plans of others by serving it first. Well, it's worth a fight, that epicurean delight of spices, chicken, almonds, raisens and rich sauce. But it's not a wartime food. It takes canned tomatoes for the sauce base and raisins too.

Seems to me I collected too many things with a tomato base. Many of them used to be economy open dish dinners. Combinations of ground beef, corn, tomatoes, spaghetti and cheese. Tamale pie, enchaladas, Hungarian cabbage rolls swimming in rich tomato sauce. All these are out for the duration. I can't afford canned tomatoes. They cost too many points.

Then here's the banana pie with the rich butter cream filling. Many's the adolescent boy I won favor with through that receipe. The old fashioned white cake heaped with whipped cream and topped with sliced bananas was a favorite, too, I'll not bake again in many a moon.

No longer will I stuff my turkey with delicate Norwegian dressing. That calls for butter. There'll be no curries either for chutney is gone for the duration. Gone too are the macaroon mold, the melting custard laced with rum and piled with whipped cream. And the bitter chocolate icebox cake.

A casualty of the war, my cook books. I shall put them in a place of honor in my library and read them as I would some fine history of our nation. From now on I'll depend on the women's magazines for wartime receipes and find out how many ways I can serve beef liver as well as intriguing ways to disguise filling portions of potatoes, rice and whatever fresh vegetables I can find. When peace comes again my very kitchen utensils will sing with me as I whip up delights for the pa- late.

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

THE WAAC'S MILITARY BEARING IS A COMPANY COMMANDER'S DREAM

By S-SGT. TOM McDONALD

"The W. A. A. C.'s are coming" is indeed good news, but their arrival cannot be classified as a complete novelty to Colonel Swampwater because he wrangled a weekend pass for me and sent me to Chattanooga last week to make a detailed reconnaissance for him, so that he would know all their approachable angles. The report which I returned to him reads as follows:

SECRET, CONFIDENTIAL, AND RESTRICTED
To T. P. Swampwater
Colonel, Infantry
Ft. Benning, Ga.

REPORT OF SERGEANT, RECONNAISSANCE

1. Boarded bus as per orders. Stood up from Columbus to LaGrange with only one foot on the floor—there wasn't room for the other one.

2. Chewed the stick of gun I was issued to keep up my morale.

3. Two soldiers were in blvouack in a nice seat up front. One near the window was sound asleep. Pretty girl stood nearby. The one awake got up and offered her his seat, she accepted it. The one asleep slept on for a few miles, then he awakened, yawned, and slammed the palm of his hand down with a loud bang on the lady's leg; he did not know his friend had gotten up while he was asleep. The lady blushed, the soldier turned crimson, and the whole bus "geehawed' with loud laughter.

4. Five hours later I arrived in Chattanooga. The streets, bars, restaurants, hotels, movies, gift shops, stores, and everything were simply swarming with W. A. A. C.'s. Forty-nine out of every fifty were cute as they could be. The other one was a "first leader" corresponding to the Army's First Sergeants.

5. Each Ft. Oglethorpe soldier had a W. A. A. C. on each arm and were they proud looking. Funny thing though the W. A. A. C.'s looked 100 per cent more like soldiers than the soldiers did themselves. The girls had beautifully shined shoes, their stockings had no runs, their seams were vertical according to regulations, their buttons were buttoned, their zippers zipped, their skirts were pressed and the brass on their blouses reflected a golden light, they were so neat and well groomed, even you, sir, would have noticed it. Their posture and military bearing was a company commander's dream, the Oglethorpe soldiers walking with them looked like they needed walking sticks.

6. The W. A. A. C.'s are friendly, serious, and seem to like their new profession. The W. A. A. C. First Leaders are not only able but look quite capable of leading any kind of company, male or female.

7. With their heads in the clouds, the W. A. A. C. officers strut like peacocks. You, Sir, had better "get on the ball" when they grace the campus here at Benning.

8. The M. P.'s in Chattanooga are out of a job. The W. A. A. C.'s keep the soldiers on line and how! There isn't even a curfew to mar the horizon.

9. As I rode a local bus through the W. A. A. C. cantonment, an elderly lady in front of me was extremely interested to see the soldiers walking all around the place with a W. A. A. C. on their arm. So she turned to the lady sitting next to her and said, "Isn't it nice that the Gov't has sent all these pretty girls here to entertain the soldier boys when they are off duty and look after them." (Yes, mam, thought I, and I can hardly wait for Col. Swampwater to send one around to look after me.)

Victory over ourselves is the only thing which can make us worthy of victory over our enemies.

The world today is suffering from more than "German measles" and "yellow fever." Low standards and selfish living have induced a "chronic anaemia" about things that really matter in life.

Human character is a man's capacity for controlling human nature—starting with his own.

The man who's jealous in his life never has been or will be zealous in his work.

Sometimes we trp to "keep our heads" just by refusing to use them.

Wanted—a reducing diet for self-importance.

A stitch in time, they say, saves nine;
If so, then a new plane,
That comes in time, straight off the line,
May save a whole campaign.

Let's face the need of the nation and see that we must answer it with men.

When neighbors apologize and start teamwork, it's a first down for democracy.

If we buy and we bake
For America's sake,
We'll be happy to go without butter and steak.

Report Enumerates Services of USO

Flag Now Flies Over 1200 Units In 47 States

Most of Greater Fort Benning's soldiers are familiar with and avail themselves of the services offered by the USO's five clubs and one service bureau to personnel of America's most complete military reservation. But the scope of the USO on a national and international scale is seldom realized.

To provide for leisure-time activities of the armed forces now approaching 7,000,000, and with a goal of 10,000,000 not far away, has been the gargantuan task of the United Service Organization, Inc.—a task without precedent.

Officials of the USO recognized the fact that military personnel, when off duty, want to do the things they did in civilian life, and that opportunity is just what the organization strives to provide. "A million acts of kindness" is one soldier's definition of the USO.

SERVICES TOLD

In a recently issued report on the USO, still less than two years old, Chester I. Barnard, president, has this to say:

"There are many aspects of the services we render. It is interesting and amazing to see the lists of the different kinds of things we do; there is romance in the reports that come in to us . . . What we are trying to do is to preserve the personality, the personal integrity, of the men and women who come within the scope of our operations . . . USO enjoys the partnership of the Government Departments—the War Department, the Navy Department, the Federal Security Administration and the President's War Relief Control board. USO also enjoys the partnership of its contributors, its volunteers and the communities in which it works. USO is a public servant."

The six members agencies of USO are: The Young Men's Christian associations, the National Catholic Community Service, the Salvation Army, the Young Women's Christian associations, the Jewish Welfare board and the National Travelers Aid association.

These agencies working together have striven to make USO an organization of interfaith cooperation for Americans of all faiths, creeds and races.

PUBLIC SUPPORTED

Money to finance USO came from nearly every pocketbook in the United States. Out of 3070 counties in this country, USO campaigns have been conducted in 3057 of them, as well as in Hawaii, Alaska, the Canal Zone and Puerto Rico. USO raised $14,353,666 in the 1941 national campaign. With results in several important city campaigns still to be reported, more than $31,000,000 was raised in 1942. In 1942, 419 community and war chests included USO. Virtually half of the 1942 campaign total was realized in that way.

No expenditure is made by USO without careful reference to the budget, constantly supervised by a budget committee. All accounts are under constant examination by a firm of Certified Public Accountants.

The USO flag now flies over more than 1,200 operations in 47 states, the District of Columbia and 16 territories, possessions and off-shore bases.

HELP FAMILIES

Operations of USO are designed primarily to serve the men and women in the armed forces, but more than half give some kind of service to their families, too. Service is also given, as requested by the government, to war production workers and their families in certain areas overcrowded by the rapid growth of new war industries; and to seamen of the Merchant Marine who wish to make use of the facilities.

The principal operating classifications among which USO service is divided are: USO clubs, USO centers and area services, locally managed USO operations, USO lounges and Travelers Aid services, mobile service overseas division, USO Camp Shows, volunteer services and others.

Scope of the activities of USO can be measured to some degree if one can imagine every man, woman and child in the city of New York sending letters on writing material furnished by USO. The organization has furnished service men with more than six and one-half million envelopes and stationery.

SEND YOUR PORTRAIT HOME
Bon Art Studios
Corner of 11th and Broadway
Over Lee's Drug Store
Open 9 P. M. Every Evening

RECAPPING and VULCANIZING
O. P. A. TIRE INSPECTION STATION NO. 7
CITY TIRE and RUBER CO.
1042 WYNNTON RD. DIAL 3-2434

"Z" LUNCH
Most convenient place to Eat . . . No rationing on walking by "Z" Lunch Counter.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT
Serves more people than any other establishment in Columbus.
LOCATED IN HOWARD BUS STATION

Custom Tailors to The Service Since 1845
SMITA-GRAY UNIFORMS
15 W. 11th STREET DIAL 5719
Columbus, Ga.

11th Armored CO Awarded Two Foreign Medals

Col. Kenneth G. Althaus recently assumed command of the 11th Armored Regiment, 10th Armored Division. A veteran of the first world war, Col. Althaus received the Belgian War Cross from King Albert for his heroic actions in the Lys-Estaut offensive and the Croix de Guerre with palms from the French government for his part in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, in which he was wounded.

Col. Althaus started his tour of duty in the armored force in January, 1941, his first command being a separate tank battalion at Fort Bliss, Tex. When he left Fort Bliss, he was commanding a provisional group of three separate tank battalions, one at Fort Bliss and two at Camp Bowie, Tex. Leaving Texas, he reported to Fort Sill, Okla., as instructor of infantry in the field artillery. In October, 1942, he reported to Fort Knox, Ky., for temporary assignment with the 8th Armored Division, and while there he received his orders to report to the 10th Armored Division.

18 Supply Men Advance In Grade

Eighteen enlisted men of the Supply Detachment, Supply Division, Section One, Fourth Service Command, have received promotions to fill vacancies existing in that organization. The promotions were made upon the recommendation of the detachment commander.

Raised to sergeant were Corporals Carl E. Samuels, Robert L. Miller and James V. McManus, and advanced to corporal were Privates First Class Marshal A. Sanders, Sherman Young, Edward McDonnell, John L. Howell, Joe Glisson and Maico Deiso. Privates Hovie L. Canup, John J. Lehman, Lascom E. Rice, Frank Wilhelm, Shelbert W. Cooper, Owen L. Brooks, James Frisella, Ralph F. Venezia and Leonard C. Ott were promoted to private first class.

Tankers Best 55th Engineer Crack Shots

Winners Score 3,952 Points To Losers' 3,889

The boast of the 55th Engineers that they were the best riflemen in the 10th Armored Division went unchallenged for a month, but the Tankers from the 11th Armored Regiment knocked them off their perch at Carmouche Range Sunday. The winners scored 3,952 points against 3,889 for the Engineers.

The Tankers were doubly proud of their victory, since it was achieved with their opponents choice of weapons—the M-1 rifle. The 11th Armored had fired Enfield rifles in practice.

A score of 300 points was possible shooting as follows: 12 rounds, slow fire, 200 yards, in sitting, kneeling and standing positions; 16 rounds, rapid fire, 200 yards, sitting and kneeling; 16 rounds, rapid fire, 300 yards, prone position.

Sgt. Marvin J. Raguse of "H" Company topped the 11th with 282, while Staff Sgt. Robb, Maintenance Company mess sergeant, was low with 242, though he beat three of the Engineers.

COLONEL ROOTER

Col. Kenneth G. Althaus of the 11th helped root his team to victory. He praised both teams for their sportsmanship, suggested that such competition be continued.

Members of the winning team coached by Lt. John H. Rahter of Reconnaissance Company, were Sgt. Lee, 1st Bn. Headquarters; 1st Sgt. Schmitz, "A" Company; Sgt. Raguse; 1st Sgt. Sinor, "C" Company; Staff Sgt. Turner, "D" Company; Sgt. Moore, "A" Company; Staff Sgt. Robb; Sgt. Mann, "A" Company; Cpl. Parker, Service Company; Sgt. Hill, "C" Company; Sgt. M. Brown, "A" Company; Pvt. Cochran, Maintenance Company; T-4 Dempsey, Hq. Company; T-4 J. Brown, "H" Company; Pvt. Echmiston, "I" Company; and three alternates, Sgt. Endrizze, Recon. Company; Cpl. Pickerell, "H" Company; Pvt. Rogers, Maintenance Company.

Signal Repair Shop Changes Quarters

The Signal Corps repair shop was to move into new headquarters, behind the main post exchange, about March 1, according to Lt. Col. Alexander Young, post signal officer.

Charged with maintenance of all signal corps property, the repair shop handles an average of 700 to 800 items per month. Meteorological instruments, teletypes, radios and other communications equipment are checked and reconditioned here. Many items formerly sent to central army maintenance shops in Philadelphia for repair will be handled on the post. Functioning for the benefit of surrounding camps as well as Fort Benning, the installation will remain permanently after the war.

The repair shop was housed in the old post exchange grocery. Captain Kenneth G. Flock is officer in charge.

BROOKLYN—(CNS)— Should Leo Durocher, skipper of the Dodgers go into the armed forces as scheduled next week, he will be the first Big League pilot to go on Uncle Sam's payroll. Durocher will be 38 in July.

Army Supplies
Novelties
All Toilet Items
H. C. SMITH DRUG STORE
One of Columbus' Oldest
1002 BROADWAY

BAMA CLUB
PRESENTS
YVONNE MORAY
STAGE AND SCREEN STAR
42 Inches of Dynamic Personality
PRESTON LAMBERT, M. C.
Direct From a Solid Year at Club Royale, Detroit
ALMA and ROLAND
Presenting Newest Dance Craze 'Cooning'
ROSE THURSTON
TAPS IN RHYTHM
ERNIE RAY
AND HIS
RECORDING ORCHESTRA
FOR YOUR DANCING PLEASURE
From 7:30 'til
SHOWS at 9:45 and 12:30
FINEST WESTERN STEAKS and CHICKEN
Just Across Lower Bridge, First Bldg. on Right
Admission Week Nites 50c — Sat. Nite $1

Yanks Revive Shooting From Hip in Jap War

Infantry School O. C.'s Also Follow Wild West Habit

Shooting "from the hip," a standby of the "Wild West" thrillers, is being revived in deadly earnest in the Officer Candidate classes of The Infantry School.

When the 14th Company of the First Student Training Regiment ran the "blitz" course recently, instructors commented on their readiness to fire their rifles from the hip at close-in surprise targets in emulation of some of the early "wild west" heroes.

"Shooting from the hip is an old American custom that in the past has been somewhat neglected in Army training," one of the instructors pointed out to the class. "Reports from Guadalcanal and other combat zones, however, indicated that it is proving more and more important."

ON BLITZ COURSE

The "blitz" course, designed to train the individual soldier to "act quickly and correctly with the appropriate weapon under sudden situations," consists of a series of swiftly developing "surprises" which test the soldiers reactions. In one instance the soldier is fired upon as he is running across a log bridge. He is also made a target by a sniper in a tree. In all cases the situations are similar to those which might arise in combat.

One advantage of a swift shot from the hip on a nearby target, it is pointed out, is that it leaves the soldier free to swing his rifle on a new enemy without withdrawing from a bayonet thrust. In modern combat lives often hang on just such a split second advantage.

GOOD SHOOTING

The company, commanded by Capt. John J. Wrinn, recently was lauded for its marksmanship record on a number of ranges. In landscape target firing the company average was 191 1-2, which instructors termed "mighty good shooting." High score of 210, of a possible 220, was made by the first squad of the first platoon, of which Lt. Norman D. Martin is tactical officer.

In firing both the light and heavy machine guns the marksmanship average of the Company shattered all recent class records. Ninety members of the class qualified as "experts" on the light gun.

On the Field Target range one of the Company squads came within two points of equalling the all-time record of 53, a long-standing mark, on the difficult "third" problem, involving the bringing of effective fire upon an enemy which has pinned down the leading scouts of an advance unit. Most of the squad members belonged to the third platoon, whose tactical officer is Lt. Edward J. Dale.

PAN-HELLENIC LUNCHEON MONDAY, MARCH 8

A Pan-Hellenic luncheon will be held Monday, March 8, at 1 p. m. in the Officers' Club. This is an open meeting, and all sorority members and their guests are invited.

For tickets phone the Columbus chairman, Mrs. B. F. Wills, 2-2680, or the Fort Benning chairman, Mrs. Joseph I. Lambert, 3349. Tickets are eighty cents. All reservations must be in by Saturday.

'Tiger' Lauds Alaskan Life

Says Territory Is Land of Opportunity

Letting his buddies sing the praises of the 48 states, T-4 Ronald E. ("Slim") Hornbeck of the Maintenance Battalion, 10th Armored Division, does his Chamber of Commerce work for that northwestern bastion of the North American continent which is playing such an important role in the American defense plan: Alaska.

And when the war is over and soldiers are free again to live according to their own whims, the chances are that "Slim" will be back in the land of his choice.

A 20th century pioneer in the true American tradition, "Slim" Hornbeck went to Alaska several years ago as a prospector. He did his prospecting in 20th century style—with a plane, traveling as far as possible by air and then taking to foot to reach his claim.

After he had his fill of gold-digging, "Slim" tried surveying for a while on the Alaskan air base project. He left this work to open a trading post in the lower Yukon, five hours' flying time from any habitation. He and his partner had their own plane which they used to shuttle supplies to their "store" in the heart of interior Alaska.

"Slim" gave up the trading post to return to Fairbanks for a much-needed vacation. When he had rested up he took off for Nome to try his hand at mining, and he was engaged in this work when war broke out and he enlisted.

PREDICTS DEVELOPMENT

Alaska, in the opinion of "Slim" Hornbeck, is still a land of opportunity for any man with a spirit of adventure. It is still largely undeveloped, he says, and there are plenty of openings for enterprising individuals. He believes that after the war there will be a great development in air commerce through Alaska from the Near East to the United tSates and that this will launch progress in other fields.

Most people have mistaken ideas about the Alaskan climate, "Slim" says. In winter it is no colder than Wisconsin, he maintains, and the summers are mild with almost constant daylight.

So, when the Nazis and the Japs have been neatly and permanently polished off, it is a safe bet that "Slim" Hornbeck will be pioneering again in Alaska. Meanwhile, he is doing his share to help bring the war to an end and, conducting his own private propaganda campaign to enlist new recruits for the Alaskan populace.

WANTED!
We Buy Used Furniture
Thweatt & Son
1242 Broadway

Grads Of Early O. C., Basic Classes Get Double Bars

Two graduates of early officer candidate classes and five alumni of an early basic class were promoted to the rank of captain in the Second Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School last week.

The new wearers of doube-bars are Capts. George W. Atkinson, Rochester, N. Y., 13th Company, who won his commission from O. C. No. 2, and William R. Carpenter, Hartford, Conn., 18th Company, a graduate of O. C. No. 1; Robert L. Boswell, Greensboro, Ga., 30th Company; Frank H. Cronin, Belaire, Md., adjutant, fourth battalion; Henry J. Rawl, 31st Company; George M. Hodsdon, 25th Company; and Edmund W. Jenusaitis, Waterbury, Conn., 8th Company.

The pistol was named after the Italian town, Pistoria.

ATTENTION! OFFICER CANDIDATE
Lloyd Jowers
Represents Kahn Tailoring Co. Uniforms tailored to individual measurements. Complete service of altering and repairing on G. I. Clothes.
117½ 12th St.

For Mothers Day

Have Your PHOTOGRAPH MADE NOW
Proof for your inspection before you buy.
Open 1 P.M. till 9:30 P. M.
AIM'E DUPONT
Military Studio
1219½ BROADWAY
Columbus, Ga. Tel. 3-1505

SENSATIONAL ACT AT CLUB MATAG!

GENE GORY and ROBERTA—The exponents of intellectual Insanity—Featuring ROBERTA in her STAR DANCE and the DANCE of THE FALLING LEAF . . . FERNANDO and FAIRE—with their MARIONETTES—Comedy on STRINGS featuring Characters of STINKY and PLAY BOY . . . MARDELLE—Exotic Dancer . . . JIMMIE LEEDS—Harmonica Novelties and M. C. . . . VELMA 'N JEAN ALL GIRL ORCHESTRA—One of the FINEST in the SOUTH . . . Two FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY . . . (Advt.)

WHERE TO DINE & DANCE IN AND AROUND COLUMBUS
DINING DANCING

YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT
WINSEL CASTLE
"COLUMBUS' FINEST"
2803 Cusseta Road Cecil Lloyd, Prop.
FOR OFFICERS AND MEMBERS ONLY

PAT PATTERSON 44th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED Chicken IN THIS TOWN
GA. CAT FISH Dinners WITH CORN BREAD
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY Steaks THAT'S REALLY TENDER
POINT BLUE Oysters RAW STEW. FRIED.
Come Out on No. Highland Bus 8 Private Dining Rooms

JERRY'S
206-38th St.
FAMOUS FOR STEAKS & CHICKEN

FRIED CHICKEN
CATFISH DINNERS
PIT-COOKED BAR-B-Q
WESTERN T-BONE STEAKS
1700 Fourth Ave
Ice, Free Parking. Dial 9880
EAT AT JUMBO
JumboRussell, Prop.

FRIED CHICKEN
CATFISH DINNERS
PIT-COOKED BAR-B-Q
WESTERN T-BONE STEAKS
CHESPEAKE OYSTERS
JUMBO
1700 Fourth Ave. Dining Rooms Curb Service Free Parking
Dial 9880

VISIT THE PARADISE
213—14th St.
Phenix City, Ala.
Where a friendly greeting awaits you
Come over and enjoy yourself
MUSIC—DANCING

In New York— It's Lindy's
In Havana— It's Sloppy Joe's
In Columbus— It's The Roosevelt
Columbus' finest and friendliest Cafe—serving only the very highest type of food, and beverages reasonably priced—and where efficient service is supplemented by warm cordiality and an air of sincere friendliness. We invite the personnel of Fort Benning to make the FRIENDLY ROOSEVELT CAFE the second home.
The Roosevelt Cafe
1027 BROADWAY

Chicken in the Rough
GOO-GOO The Sign Of Good Food
Dial 3-4491
700 Linwood Boulevard
AIR CONDITIONED
½ Fried Chicken Served Unjointed Without Silver, Gobs of Shoe Strings, Jug of Honey, Hot Buttered Rolls. The Most Modern and Best Known Cafe in Columbus, Georgia
Free Parking — Curb Service
Private Dining Rooms

COPELAND'S BARBECUE AND STEW
3301 HAMILTON DIAL 9620
BARBECUE—STEW—SANDWICHES—DRINKS
CHICKEN—STEAK—OYSTER DINNERS
CECIL JONES, Prop.
PLENTY FREE PARKING AND CURB SERVICE

2nd STR, PROFS PACE LEAGUE

Leaders Win Twice In Hot Race to Deadlock For 1st Place Honors

Surprise 2nd STR Five Faces Gators Tonight and Profs Sunday in Tests

Living up to the biblical saying that "the last shall be first," the amazing 2nd STR Leaders disposed of two more formidable court rivals during the past week and moved into a deadlock for the lead in the Fort Benning Conference with the Academic Profs, winners of the first-half flag.

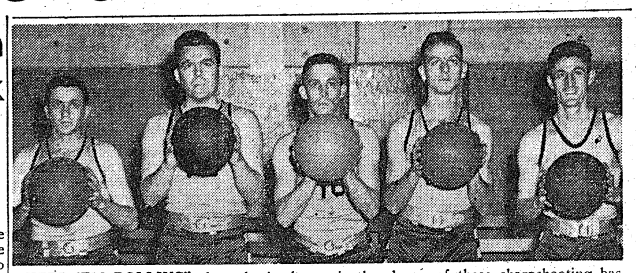
After a hectic week of play, the eight entrants finally began to spread out in the standings as the second-half race approached the midway mark. Both the Leaders and the Profs won a pair of tussles, while Lawson Field and the 124th Gators split their two outings and are tied for third place honors.

The Leaders, coached by Capt. Frank Cronin of Maryland fame, have been the surprise team of the race. In the first half, they lost seven straight tussles and finished deep in the cellar. But now they have established a complete reversal of form aided by the fact that a new ruling permits them to use two officer candidates at a time in any game.

FACE TOUGH FOES

In the next four days, however, the 2nd STR tossers will face their toughest opposition when they must take on both the 124th Gators and the Academic Profs. Both tilts are listed for the sports arena court which is the home floor of the Leaders and they will be hard to stop.

The 2nd STR-124th battle will take place tonight at the Harmony Church arena with the tap-off listed for 8:00 o'clock sharp on Court No. 1. Sunday, the Leaders will face the Profs in the first game of a scheduled twin bill on the spacious center court at Harmony Church. The Gators will meet the Parachute School in the nightcap of that affair.



TWIN BILLS AT GYM

While Harmony Church fans are getting the tastiest menu this week in the conference, there will be plenty of excitement available for main post fans as well with twin bills listed for Friday night and Sunday. Tomorrow night, the Profs take on Station Hospital in the opener, and Lawson Field battles the 29th in the finale. Sunday, the 802nd Field Artillery meets Lawson and the 29th takes on the Medicos.

One other loop test is listed for Monday night at the arena when the Parachute School battles the 802nd in a single game at 8:45 on Court No. 2. All in all, it will be one of the busiest weeks of the campaign, and may go a long way towards settling the title picture.

Court Card

THURSDAY, MARCH 4TH
Post Gym—Main Post League
1st STR vs. 7th Obs. Sqdn. (6:45).
Fin. Detach. vs. 863rd Ord. (8:00).
24th Gen. Hosp. vs. 1st Prcht. Trng. (9:15).
Sports Arena—Conference
124th Inf. vs. 2nd STR (8:00).
Sports Arena—Harmony Church League
3rd STR Hq. vs. 99th Ord. (7:30).
31st Ord. vs. 1013th Guard (8:45).
FRIDAY, MARCH 5TH
Post Gym—Conference
Acad. Regt. vs. Stat. Hosp. (7:30).
29th Inf. vs. Lawson Field (8:45).
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
420th F. A. vs. 423rd F. A. (7:30).
11th Armd. vs. 3rd Armd. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
150th Signal vs. Div. Trains (7:30).
90th Recon. vs. Supply Bn. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
150th Signal vs. Div. Trains (7:30).
90th Recon. vs. Supply Bn. (8:45).
SATURDAY
Post Gym—Main Post League
863rd Ord. vs. 99th Q. M. (6:45).
1st Prcht. Trng. vs. 7th Observ. (8:00).
24th Gen. Hosp. vs. 1st STR (9:15).
SUNDAY, MARCH 7TH
Post Gym—Conference
Lawson Field vs. 802nd F. A. (2:00).
29th Inf. vs. Stat. Hosp. (3:30).
Sports Arena—Conference
Academic Regt. vs. 2nd STR (2:00).
124th Inf. vs. Prcht. School (3:30).
MONDAY, MARCH 8TH
Post Gym—Main Post League
Fin. Det. vs. 53rd Gen. Hosp. (6:45).
1st Prcht. Trng. vs. 99th Q. M. (8:00).
7th Observ. vs. 24th Gen. Hosp. (9:15).
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
419th F. A. vs. Maint. Bn. (7:30).
54th Inf. vs. 55th Eng. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
80th Med. Bn. vs. Div. Hq. (7:30).
Sports Arena—Conference
802nd F. A. vs. Prcht. School (8:45).
Service Hall—Service League
1st STR vs. Recept. Center (8:00).
Prov. Truck vs. Acad. Regt. (9:15).
TUESDAY, MARCH 9TH
Post Gym—Service League
Med. Detach. vs. 3rd STR (7:30).
Post Detach. vs. 2nd STR (8:45).
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10TH
Sports Arena—Sand Hill League
420th F. A. vs. 3rd Armd. (7:30).
11th Armd. vs. Maint. Bn. (8:45).
Sports Arena—Cusseta League
150th Signal vs. Supply Bn. (7:30).
Sports Arena—Harmony Church League
1013th Guard vs. 99th Ord. (8:45).

"KEEP 'EM ROLLING" through the hoops is the slogan of these sharpshooting basketeers of the 863rd Ordnance Company who are right in the thick of the second-half title fight of the Main Post League. Left to right are Anderson, Porter, Holcomb, Moffett, and Little of the automotive quintet. (Signal Lab Photo by Newman.)

Olympic Ski Member Here

O. C. Discusses Naziland Visit

Seven years ago Candidate Robert Livermore, Jr., 16th Company First Student Training Regiment, passed in review before Adolph Hitler and other high Nazi officials as a member of the United States Olympic Games team at Berlin.

Today Livermore's burning ambition is to once more parade through the streets of the German capital, this time in the uniform of the conquering American Army.

A graduate of Harvard university, Livermore served as chairman of the Eastern National Ski Patrol for several years and has done much to build interest in this winter sport throughout the nation.

The Benning candidate learned the technique of downhill skiing from a former sergeant in the Australian Army and was one of the pioneers in the establishment of this newest form of American skiing more than a decade ago.

PLACED FOURTH

He was a member of the American team which placed fourth in the first Olympic Games ski competition in 1936, held in the Bavarian Alps, and as might be expected, hopes to be assigned to the mountain or ski troops upon successful completion of the Infantry O. C. S. course.

Livermore recalls that he sensed a forbidding atmosphere in Europe even at that early date.

"Germans were exceptionally careful not to confide in strangers," the Olympics contestant added.

"All American athletes were cautioned not to mention Hitler's name openly in public. We solved that problem by referring to him as 'Mr. Smith.' German soldiers were called 'Smith's men'."

FRANK WEBSTER, the stellar floor leader of the Station Hospital Medicos in the Fort Benning Conference, is one of the post's outstanding courtmen this season . . . He will be a strong contender for all-post honors at the close of the campaign because of his speed, defensive work and all-around shooting ability . . . In the first-half race, Webster was deadlocked for fourth place in individual scoring with an 87 point total in seven games . . . In the second-half race, he has continued his prolific basket-throwing and is currently at the top of the heap in the scoring race despite the fact that his team rests in the second division . . . An inspiring leader and a fine all-around performer, Webster is a genuine star of the hardwood.

Gators Win Bitter Tilt From 29th Infantry Foe

In one of the bitterest court struggles of the entire season, the fighting Gator courtmen of the 124th Infantry whipped the 29th Blue Devils for the third time in a month on Monday night when they won a conference tilt at the post gym by a 49-43 tally. The Gators triumphed on the waves of one of the greatest comeback efforts of the year.

At the end of the first quarter, the speedy Two-Niners were in the van by 22-9, but then the Gators began to fight back. At halftime, they had whittled the lead to seven points, and as the rivals entered the final period, the Devils led by a scant point. Tom Mangan and Tony Foster, alternating at center for the 124th, shared scoring honors with nine points each, while little Stan Krezewski paced the losesr with eleven. Pop Moylan's long shots were the most spectacular effort by the Two-Niners.

Flier Rally Falls Short As Leaders Win, 48-47

Lawson Field's last ditch rally fell just one point short on Monday night at the post gym as the amazing 2nd STR Leaders edged the Fliers, 48-47, in a crucial conference test. After a nip-and-tuck first half, the Leaders had moved into a commanding lead during the third period, but Lawson came fast at the end only to finish one point shy.

Big Boy Jackson, Troy Ricks, and Slim Bland were the big guns for the revamped Harmony Church crew and contributed 15, 13, and 13 points in that order. Jackson, especially, was a big factor in the triumph with his wheel-horse performance in the pivot hole. Bill Horn paced the losers at the nets with six goals of each variety for 18 markers while Ace Hall had 12 counters for the Fliers.

Hall Tallies 29 Points In Post Detachment Win

Towering Tom Hall, gigantic six-foot-six-inch center of the Post Detachment court team, tallied 29 points last Thursday night to pace his team to victory in the opening game of the Service League second-half over the Academic Regiment Pacesetters. The final count was 65-34.

Hall dropped 14 field goals and a lone foul through the nets, and spent most of the last half feeding his teammates. High point man for the Academics was Sammy Alexander, diminutive forward who racked up 19 points on eight double-deckers and a trio of charity flips.

Maryland Star Tutors Leaders

Capt. Cronin Was Three Sport Ace for Terrapins

One of the men behind the amiazing reversal of form shown by the 2nd Student Training Regiment leaders in the second half of the Firt Benning Conference is Capt. Frank H. Cronin, coach of the club.

Capt. Cronin is not well-known in post athletic circles for he's an extremely quiet fellow by nature, but there are a lot of sports fans around Maryland who will remember him.

The captain, who recently donned his double bars, was an outstanding athlete while attending the University of Maryland where he was graduated in 1939.

HELD MANY TITLES

His principal sports were football, track ad boxing, in all of which he won letters during his three years. In track he held for three years the Southern Conference quarter-mile title. He was both Southern and Eastern Intercollegiate champion in boxing at 155 pounds.

In civilian life Capt. Cronin worked with the Recreation Department of the Board of Education of Washington, D. C.

Mighty 55th Blasts 420th Title Chances

Winners Keep Record Clear With 33-29 Victory Monday Night

The 55th Engineers blasted the 420th Field Artillery's hopes of gaining a Sand Hill league championship for the third time Monday night, 33-29. The score was the same by which the Engineers bested the Artillerymen in the first half playoffs following a regular season 30-28 victory.

So the question of who dominates the league is fairly well settled by now. All three games have been close, but the Engineers have been strongest in the stretch in all three games. The Engineers now have a clean 4-0 record, while all other teams have lost at least once.

The Engineers were on the short end of a 28-18 score Monday with only two minutes left in the third quarter. Bell's basket and Giunto's free throw made it 28-21 at the end of the period.

STEALS BALL

Ehlman's free throw brought it to 28-22. The 420th began to choke up as Petak, who beat them single handedly in their first game, dropped in a lucky, crazy hook shot. The 420th seemed a beaten team when the same Petak literally stole the ball from Pete Lewis' hands near center and dribbled away for a setup to pull the score to 28-26.

Giunto's free throw and Bell's follow-up shot sent the Engineers' one point ahead. The same two men made free throws again: Fuller's free throw to increase the lead to two points. Some neat passwork sent Patterson under for a clinching setup.

The Cusseta league's only game Monday saw the 150th Signal Company top Division Headquarters Company, 34-18.

Classified

MAY AND MASON DANCE STUDIO: Ballroom, Tap, and Jitterbug. Private classes. Day and night classes. 802 Broadway. Dial 2-4469.

FOR SALE: ONE BRAND NEW Officer's Blouse (Size 40) and one Garrison Cap—in excellent condition (Size 7). Lt. Carlos A. Negron, O. C. C. 27, 5th Co. 1st. S. T. R.

Lt. Herb Moore Named Coach Of Diamond Champs

New Tutor of Profs Spent 10 Years In Card Farm System

When the Academic Regiment Profs start after their eighth straight baseball title sometime in April, they will have a new coach at the helm. This past week, Lieut. Herb Moore, a former professional ballplayer, was named to coach the post champs and the new tutor has already issued the first call for material.

Moore will succeed Lieut. Frank Shannon, who guided the Profs to their seventh post title in a row last summer. Shannon is currently the player-coach of the Prof court team which is also the outstanding favorite to take post basketball laurels. At the close of that campaign, he will retire from the sports scene for a while in order to devote more time to his military duties in the Academic Regiment where he commands a company.

STARTS PRACTICE

The first practice session for the champs was scheduled for Monday and while uniforms and equipment have already been distributed, inclement weather has kept the Profs from accomplishing much in the way of workouts. Coach Moore has already announced that every position is open, and the competition for the starting nine is expected to be keen.

Moore was in Profession ball for ten years before entering the Army, and spent all of them as a member of the St. Louis Cardinal chain system. He was a pitcher until 1938 when he injured his arm and was forced to turn to playing first base.

PLAYED AT HOUSTON

His best year on the mound was in 1935 when he hurled for Asheville and turned in 21 wins against 5 losses. The following year he won 17 and lost but 7 for Houston in the Texas League. In 1940, he was player-manager for Washington, Pa., in the Penn State League and turned in a neat .316 batting average.

Cpt. Hank Gowdy Guest Speaker In West Point

Speaking before the Lions Club at West Point, Ga., last week, Capt. Hank Gowdy, Infantry School special service officer and former big league star, stressed the importance of sports and recreation as a morale builder in time of war.

"Although big league baseball is in accord with the conviction that the war must come first and baseball second", Gowdy said, "if the great national pastime can be carried on even in a limited way, I believe it will be good for the people occupied with war work to have some kind of relaxation and diversion."

Devil Ringmen Pound Out Win Against Tigers

29th Infantry Boxes Way To 4-3 Triumph Over 10th Armored Foe

Slugging ringmen from the 29th Infantry pounded their way to a 4-3 team victory over the Tiger Freebooters of the 10th Armored Division at the sports arena last wek in one of the most exciting ring cards of the campaign.

Victories by Vic Inserra and Sid Abramowitz of the Devils in two of the three final bouts broke a deadlock and earned the team triumph for the minions of Lieut. Michel Maroon. new 29th tutor. Warren Edwards and Benny Parks were the earlier Devil winners, while Gene Smith, Chuck Taylor, and Nick Fidazzo chalkted up wins for the Tigers.

The best bout of the evening was a welterweight battle between Chuck Taylor of the Tigers and Truman Parker of the Devils. The 148-pounders slammed it out every second of the entire three rounds, and had the spectators on their feet time and again with their ferocious punching.

Taylor took the decision after a hard bout and showed plenty of class against Parker, who is considered one of the best welters at the post.

Summary:

Gene Smith, 128, of the 10th Armored, gained a decision over Bobby Bloom, 130, of the 29th.

Warren Edwards, 135, of the 29th, won over Red Anderson, 134, of the 10th.

Benny Parks, 138, of the 29th, decisioned Jack Seigal, 136, of the 29th.

Chuck Taylor, 148, of the 10th, defeated Truman Parker, 148, of the 29th on a decision.

Vic Inserra, 152, of the 29th, gained the nod over Freddy Goodwin, 158, of the 10th.

Nick Fidazzo, 158, of the 10th, was the winner over Jim Chaplain, 151, of the 29th.

Sid Abramowitz, 173, of the 29th, gained the decision over Chief Ryan, 175, of the 10th Armored.

29th Infantry Bows To Surprising 2nd STR Foe

The 2nd STR Leaders continued their complete form reversal Thursday night by tripping the powerful 29th Infantry quintet, 38-34, in a fast game on the sports arena hardwood. At intermission, the Devils held a scant 17-16 lead, but they withered before the third period assault of the Leaders who entered the final period with a six-point bulge.

Big Boy Jackson, the officer candidate flash from New Mexico Aggies, paced the Leader attack with fifteen points, compiled on six field goals and three foul tosses. Troy Ricks, the All-American forward of the 2nd STR, had 12 points for the winners while Joe Stolarzyck netted 11 markers for the Devils as they went down to their second straight defeat in the last half race.

Ossi and Shannon Pace Profs to Easy Victory

Johnny Ossi and Frank Shannon paced the Academic Profs to an easy win over the 802nd Field Artillery last Friday on the gym hardwood when they tallied 18 and 15 points respectively in a 50-31 triumph. In all, only four players contributed to the Prof point total. Bob McCrary had ten markers while Ben Zientara notched seven to complete the total for the winners.

For three quarters, the visitors from Harmony Church managed to stay fairly close to the first-half title-winners. But in the final quarter, the Profs turned on the speed and romped in to an easy win. At halftime the count favored the Academic Regiment by a 26-17 margin.

Well-Balanced Attack Earns Paratrooper Win

Showing their best balanced attack of the season, the improved Parachute School tossers turned in a well-earned victory over Station Hospital Friday night at the post gym by a 47-43 margin in an exciting ball game. The Medicos stepped out to an early advantage and led by ten points during the second quarter, but a burst just before intermission enabled the paratroopers to knot the count at 22-all.

In the second half, the chutists took the lead and held it to the end. Ed Brooks and Dick Feeback shared scoring honors for the winners with 13 points apiece. As usual, Frank Webster, sterling Medico guard, was the mainstay of the losers. Webster netted eight field goals and a foul for a 17-point total.

