3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 2, Regimental services at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain A. B. Billman. Also Regimental services at 11 a. m. in "The Chapel In The Grove." Chaplin George Kirkham. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Sec. 2, 20th Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 863rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 51st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Brigade area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ware.

Hq. ASTP: Chapel No. 4: Morning worship, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey.

4th Tng. Regt., ASTP: Bldg. E-16, Services for 1st Bn. 10 a. m. Chaplain Theodore Bachelor; 3rd Bn., Bldg. 4367, Chaplain's office, 1st STR. Chaplain G. S. Beddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for the Det. Med. Dept. 8:30 a. m. Also colored Det. Med. Dept. services in colored day room at 9 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Frazier.

assistant services in Theater No. 12. Chaplain Bargren:

6th Tng. Regt.—9 a. m. Catholic mass, Bldg. 4005. 10:30 a. m. general Protestant service, Bldg. 4005. Chaplain Bacheler.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Harmony Church Area, Chapel No. 5, Friday evening 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 6391.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4 Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office at the 34th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 2, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 3, Building No. 5201, located on the 5th Division Road and Guseta Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 8:30 a. m. and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

34th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 2 Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30, at the children's school, corner Baltzell Ave. and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service. A reception by the Jewish Welfare Board usually concludes the evening.

For members of the 3rd and 5th Student Regiments, The Infantry School WAC Detachment, Station Hospital No. 2 and A.S.T.P. Headquarters: Every Sunday at 9 a. m. in Bldg. 5766, Fifth Students Regiment Area.

For men in the 4th and 5th Student Regiments, 124th Infantry, 344th and 555nd Field Artillery Bns., and 533rd Ord. Co. Every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Bldg. 4367 4th Student Reg. Area.

For men in the Sand Hill Area: Every Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. in Chapel No. 4.

Women's Activities

RED CROSS WORK ROOM

SURGICAL DRESSINGS—8 a. m. to 12 noon. Monday through Friday. In charge Monday: Mrs. John McFall; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. William Hufstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. L. Noyes.

SEWING AND KNITTING—Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. Sterling M. Grim; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver. Note: All having portable sewing machines, please bring to Work Room.

STAFF ASSISTANCE CORPS—On duty at Work Room Friday, September 17, Mrs. Acling and Mrs. Kibbee; Monday, September 20, Mrs. Tuttle and Mrs. Chapman; Tuesday, September 21, Mrs. Harren; Wednesday, September 22, Mrs. Smith; Thursday, September 23, Mrs. Grimes.

GREY LADIES—On duty Friday, September 17, Cynthia, Mrs. H. Venable, Library; Hardy; Recreation Hall, a. m.—Mrs. Chase; Arts and Crafts Shop, p. m.—Mrs. Holton.

Saturday, Captain, Mrs. Branstadt; Library, a. m.—Mrs. Holton; p. m.—Mrs. Hunttemore; Wards, Mrs. Perrine and Mrs. Miles.

Monday, September 20, Captain, Mrs. Elliott; Wards, Mrs. Spanor, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. McCormick; Library, a. m.—Mrs. Griffith, p. m.—Mrs. R. Lewis; Recreation Hall, a. m.—Mrs. Rutherford, p. m.—Mrs. McKee; Arts and Crafts Shop, Mrs. Spancer, p. m. Mrs. D. A. Turner.

Tuesday, September 21, Captain, Mrs. Finnegan; Wards, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Whittemore; Library, a. m.—Mrs. Rooms, p. m.—Mrs. Griffith; Recreation Hall, a. m.—Mrs. Gold; Arts and Crafts Shop, p. m.—Mrs. Sanders.

Wednesday, September 22, Captain, Mrs. Perrine; Wards, Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Walter Smith; Library, a. m.—Mrs. Stevens, p. m.—Mrs. R. W. Smith; Recreation Hall, a. m.—Mrs. Dillard, p. m.—Mrs. Wright; Arts and Crafts Shop, Mrs. Venable.

Thursday, September 23, Captain, Mrs. Heraty; Wards, Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Gold; Library, a. m.—Mrs. Rutherford, p. m.—Mrs. Rosenberger; Arts and Crafts Shop, Mrs. A. M. Holton.

MOTOR CORPS—Headquarters at the Red Cross Work Room. Telephone 2058 for Motor Corps to pick up discarded magazines. On duty Friday, September 17, Mrs. Vida; Monday, September 20, Mrs. Dickerson and Mrs. Lindsay; Tuesday, September 21, Mrs. Miles; Wednesday, September 22, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Dulin; Thursday, September 23, Mrs. Jackson.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

SEPT. 16

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:55 P.M.—Harsch and the news—WRBL

8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Chorus—WRBL

9:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL

9:30 P.M.—"Sluge Door Canteen"—CBS

10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU

11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

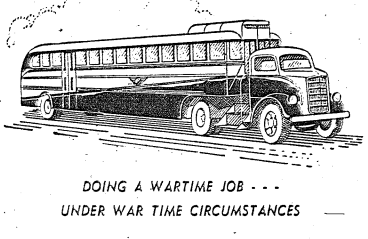
SEPT. 17

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—Kate Smith—CBS

8:30 P.M.—The Thin Man—CBS



6:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

9:50 P.M.—That Brewster Boy—CBS

COLUMBUS FT. BENNING

HOWARD BUS LINE

SERVICE TO FORT BENNING FOR 22 YEARS

DOING A WARTIME JOB - - -
UNDER WAR TIME CIRCUMSTANCES

HOWARD BUS LINE

900 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By Phyllis

The J. A. KIRVEN COMPANY has the perfect solution for those in search of you seeking appropriate gifts to mail soon to loved ones abroad. Overseas packages sent in Government-approved boxes make gifts which will be received with joyous cries by your Army, Navy, WAC and nurse friends or relatives this December 25. When shopping for gifts you may make your selections throughout Kirven's and then have them properly boxed for mailing. Or you may purchase appropriate combination gift packages already boxed. All of Kirven's Christmas suggestions are durable, practical and yet attractive. Small articles of clothing, shaving equipment, makeup of durable type, stationery and compact game sets are considered the most suitable type presents to send abroad to brighten the Christmas Day of those in foreign service. Sending one or more packages purchased, wrapped and addressed at Kirven's will surely gain you the title of Champion Santa Claus of '43 for sending such perfect gifts.

...V--

Once again the school bell tolls and boys and girls go traipsing off to learn, or not learn, as the case may be. Many a well-dressed youngster has a shopping-wise Mother. The SEARS ROEBUCK COMPANY caters especially to parents seeking durable and well-styled outfits for their growing offspring. A complete outfit which includes dresses, coats, hats, underwear and shoes and socks, may be purchased here with surprisingly little expense. Short and long trousers and heavy shirts to top them, overcoats shoes and socks guarantee the school-going boy a wardrobe which will withstand rough wear throughout the school term. Whether your children are six or sixteen, Sears has many departments to help outfit them from tip to toe.

...V--

The MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE COMPANY suggests to its regular and new customers shopping now, instead of waiting 'til the October 21st deadline, will avoid a repetition of the congested condition that existed shortly before the No. 17 shoe coupon expired. can readily understand and agree with this thoughtful suggestion for it, too, was one of those "last-minute" shoppers. How much better to select footwear now, while the large stock of nationally known brands is complete. Presently salesmen are unhurried and are eager to assist in making shoe selections. For women, young and old alike, Miller-Taylor's features the famous Rice O'Neill, Foot Deliciot, Tramp Along, College Bred, Rhythm Step, Vitality, Walk-Over and Style-Eeze shoes. Selecting footwear with any one of these reputable labels assures you a comfortable, well-fitted and becoming pair of shoes well fashioned of the highest quality materials.

...V--

The Associated Press recently added its Foreign Correspondents to learn what soldiers, nurses and the WACs want from home for Christmas. The predominating request was for snapshots and photographs. Heeding this strong suggestion will mean some quick work on the part of you givers of gifts. The deadline for mailing packages overseas is the 15th of October Army pennnel. In Columbus, the AIME' DUPONT STUDIO is most anxious to co-operate in finishing gift photographs to meet this deadline. Exacting work, as done by this most reputable studio, is not an overnight job. However, visiting the studio, 1219 Broadway, in the next week or so, will assure you a perfect photographic likeness you'll be able to send abroad to be treasured by a beloved relative or a close friend in the service.

...V--

Black frocks this Fall of 1943 are just as acceptable and just as well-loved by discriminating women as they have been previous Fall seasons. KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, INC., is displaying an assortment of fine, quality crepe gowns which are especially styled for women with rather Junoesque figures. One dress, a bit on the tailored side, is of black crepe with a beige crepe bodice starting from the yoke shoulder and joining a beige front-shirt with Dutch-boy pockets. A softly-tied black bow at the neck and shiney black buttons down the front of the dress complete this unusual outfit. Another outstanding black crepe frock, along dressier lines, has a black satin mid-riff which ties in a large soft bow at the waist front. Four round and lovely silver buttons add the finishing touch to this outfit which is ideal for special occasions. Various other unusual frocks in this display really have to be seen to be fully appreciated.

CO-OP CABS

DIAL 5511

1318 Broad

CHEROKEE GRILL

Endorsed by Duncan Hines in 1943 edition of "Adventures in Good Eating"

Southern Cooking in Southern Atmosphere with Southern Hospitality.

Dinner—Every evening from 5 to 8*
Lunch—Sundays only: 12 Noon to 2 P. M.

914 Broadway—Inside the White Picket Fence

ALL SOLDIERS ARE WELCOME

*Notice change in serving hours.

MEET 'SPIRIT,' 30-pound, five-month old English bulldog, recently acquired as the official mascot of the 176th Regiment of The Infantry School troops. He is a pedigreed dog of considerable value. His parents, Falstone Dreadnaught and Lady Ferdinand were reputedly worth $2,500. Spirit is attached to Headquarters Company for quarters, to several companies for rations and is on special duty with the baseball and football teams. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

10:00 P.M.—Camel Caravan—WRBL
10:45 P.M.—Elmer Davis, News

SEPT. 15

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
2:30 P.M.—Spirit of '43—CBS
3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL
4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL
5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC
7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU
7:00 P.M.—Report to the Nation—CBS
7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"Enough And On Time"—BLU
8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS

SEPT. 19

5:00 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—WRBL
5:45 P.M.—Doctors Courageous—CBS
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL
7:00 P.M.—The Commander—CBS
7:30 P.M.—The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS
7:30 P.M.—"We, The People"—WRBL
8:15 P.M.—We Cover the Battlefront—CBS
9:00 P.M.—Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO)—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—Fred Allen—CBS
10:00 P.M.—Take It or Leave It—CBS
10:30 P.M.—Man Behind the Gun—CBS

SEPT. 20

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
9:45 P.M.—Keep the Homefires Burning—CBS
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarterhour—WRBL
8:30 P.M.—"Listen, Il's Fort Benning"—Variety show, featuring the 176th Inf. Hill Billies—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

SEPT. 21

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:55 P.M.—Harsch and News—CBS
7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Service"—NBC
8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast—WRBL
9:00 P.M.—Burns and Allen—CBS

SEPT. 22

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—Sammy Kaye—CBS
9:30 P.M.—Milton Berle & Co.—CBS

Boys' Activities

Monday through Saturday — Football practice at Doughboy Stadium, 5:45 p. m.

Friday—Scout Troop 11, 7:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Saturday—Cub Pack Number 1, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Ranger Battalion, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Movies

MAIN THEATER AND THEATER NO. 5

Sept. 15—DESTROYER—Edward G. Robinson and Marguerite Chapman.

Sept. 16—ADVENTURES OF A ROOKIE—Wally Brown and Margaret Landry.

Sept. 19-20—BEST FOOT FORWARD—Lucille Ball and Virginia Wiedler.

Sept. 21—THE FALLEN SPARROW—Maureen O'Hara and John Garfield.

Sept. 22—MY KINGDOM FOR A COOK—Charles Coburn and Isabel Elson.

THEATERS NO. 2 AND 3

Sept. 16—PHANTOM OF THE OPERA—Nelson Eddy, Susanna Foster and Claude Rains.

Sept. 17—SOMEONE TO REMEMBER—Mabel Paige and John Craven.

Sept. 18-19 — DESTROYER — Edward G. Robinson and Marguerite Chapman.

Sept. 20—ADVENTURES OF A ROOKIE—Wally Brown and Margaret Landry.

Sept. 21-22—BEST FOOT FORWARD—Lucille Ball and Virginia Wiedler.

THEATERS NO. 4 AND 5

Sept. 16-17—WINTER TIME—Sonja Heine and Jack Oakie.

Sept. 18—PHANTOM OF THE OPERA—Nelson Eddy, Susanna Foster and Claude Rains.

Sept. 19—SOMEONE TO REMEMBER—Mabel Paige and John Craven.

Sept. 20-21 — DESTROYER — Edward G. Robinson and Marguerite Chapman.

Sept. 22—ADVENTURES OF A ROOKIE—Wally Brown and Margaret Landry.

THEATERS NO. 6 AND 7

Sept. 16—ABOVE SUSPICION—Joan Crawford and Fred MacMurray.

Sept. 17—FROZEN BAD MEN—Diana Barrymore and Lon Chaney.

Sept. 18-19—WINTER TIME—Sonja Heine and Jack Oakie.

Sept. 20—PHANTOM OF THE OPERA—Nelson Eddy, Susanna Foster and Claude Rains.

Sept. 21—SOMEONE TO REMEMBER—Mabel Paige and John Craven.

Sept. 22—DESTROYER—Edward G. Robinson and Marguerite Chapman.

THEATERS NO. 9 AND 11

Sept. 16—LET'S FACE IT—Bob Hope and Betty Hutton.

Sept. 17—VICTORY THROUGH AIR POWER—Disney Special Feature.

Sept. 18—THE KANSAN—Richard Dix and Jane Wyatt.

Sept. 19-20—ABOVE SUSPICION—Joan Crawford and Fred MacMurray.

Sept. 21—ADVENTURES OF A ROOKIE—Wally Brown and Margaret Landry.

Sept. 22—PHANTOM OF THE OPERA—Nelson Eddy, Susanna Foster and Claude Rains.

THEATER NO. 10

Sept. 16—THE KANSAN—Richard Dix and Jane Wyatt.

Sept. 17-18—ABOVE SUSPICION—Joan Crawford and Fred MacMurray.

Sept. 19—ADVENTURES OF A ROOKIE—Wally Brown and Margaret Landry.

Sept. 20-21—WINTER TIME—Sonja Heine and Jack Oakie.

Sept. 22—PHANTOM OF THE OPERA—Nelson Eddy, Susanna Foster and Claude Rains.

THEATER NO. 12

Sept. 16—FRONTIER BAD MEN—Dana Barrymore and Lon Chaney.

Sept. 17-18—LET'S FACE IT—Bob Hope and Betty Hutton.

Sept. 19—THE FALLEN SPARROW—John Garfield and Maureen O'Hara.

Sept. 20—MY KINGDOM FOR A COOK—Charles Coburn and Isabel Elson.

Sept. 21-22—ABOVE SUSPICION—Joan Crawford and Fred MacMurray.

Lucky Enlisted Men Promoted

The following enlisted men received promotions in the "Lucky 7th" Armored Division last week:

Headquarters 7 A. D.:to sergeant—Clarence T. Lane.

Maintenance Battalion: to technician fourth grade—Dudley S. Ball, Robert G. Bluedorn, Robert G. Dodge, technician fifth grade—Herbert F. Krause.

Supply Battalion: to corporal—Ralph R. Conley; technician fifth grade—Lloyd N. Branham, Chester A. Saunders.

31st Armored Regiment: to staff sergeant—Gerald P. Drew; James R. Ettinger, Robert W. Norton; sergeant—Walter F. Dailey, Titus R. Crawford, Dallas L. McLemore, Jr., technician fifth grade—Edward J. Toton, Gene Sprando.

33rd Armored Engineer Battalion: to corporal—Stanley J. Ryszka; technician fifth grade—John L. Cronin, Donald J. Rice.

40th Armored Regiment: to staff sergeant—Samuel J. McMcCracken, technician fifth grade—Alfred Borg, Jr., Melvin Epstein, Theodore T. Mitkus.

Officer Class Highly Lauded

Forwarded by Col. John S. Roosma, commanding the First Student Training Regiment, the Infantry School, the Officer Advanced Class in the 5th Company this week received a rare commendation from the tactical section of the Infantry School.

Col. Roosma stated in part: "It is indeed gratifying to receive reports of this nature concerning student officers. I desire to add my personal commendation and thanks for the splednid cooperation and attention to duty which occasioned this report. This commendation reflects credit upon all members of this officers' advanced class."

Initiated by Lt. Col. James P. Davis of the tactical section, the commendation included the following extract: "Officers' Advanced Course of the 5th Co., First Student Training Regiment, was alert, highly cooperative and paid excellent attention to the instruction given. The student company commander had his company under control at all times and was constantly looking for means to aid in the instruction."

Chairman of the attack committee, Col. M. C. Shattuck, in the first indorsement added: "The discipline of the class and their attention to instruction made the instructor's task a pleasure."

The second indorsement from the chief of tactical section, Col. G. G. Kershaw, said in part: "I, too, have noted, the smart, military appearance and attentiveness to instruction of this company."

Lt. Col. John L. Ames, Jr., is student company commander of Advanced 28.

Members of the class expressed the opinion that the commendation assuredly could not have been earned without the deft handling of difficult subjects by the tactical section instructors.

Academic Reg't Makes Changes

New shifts in the Academic Regiment of The Infantry School have been ordered according to Maj. Marvin W. Jared, regimental executive officer.

Included in them will be the organization of a new G company which is to be quartered on the Main Post in the cuartel which already houses Companies A, B, C, D, H, and Headquarters Company. Companies E, F and I of this regiment will remain in the Harmony Church area.

Last June 12, the old G company was merged with C Company and Lt. William M. Knapp, its commanding Officer, became the Commanding Officer of C company.

The new G company will be commanded by Lt. Rudolph H. Lange, formerly assigned to the Special Service Detachment, command of which has now been taken over by Capt. Charles B. Taylor.

First Sgt. Richard L. Plunk will be the acting first sergeant of the new company. His place as first sergeant of D company will be taken by T-4 Harry J. Devlin.

The personnel of G company will consist of 155 men working in the reproduction plant who are now quartered in A company and 94 men from C company who are now working on the ranges. The new company will be quartered in the vicinity of C and H companies and will eat in the large main mess hall.

Enlisted Men, Truck Regiment, Get Promotions

Colonel Frank J. Vida, the commanding officer of the Truck Regiment of The Infantry School recently announced the following promotions:

Staff Sergeant John F. McConico, Jr., to first sergeant of Company "U".

Sergeants Prosper J. Landry, Company "A", Howard Tomlin, Company "H", Essic Thompson, Company "K", Valsworth H. Rollins and George W. Wiley, Company "U", to staff sergeant.

To sergeant, Corporals Robert T. Harris, Company "C", Vinson Knight, Company "K" and Robert L. Stinson, Company "E"; Technicians 5th Grade Robert A. Martin, 3rd Battalion Headquarters Detachment, Louis J. Celestin, Company "A", John L. Martin and Robert J. Mayo, Company "B", Alfred B. Clark, Jr., Company "C", Isiah T. Rainey, Jr., and David L. Mitchell, Company "H", William Wallace and John H. Scott, Company "U" and Nathaniel Cooper of Company "W".

To technician fourth grade, Corporal Francis A. Ridgely, Hq. & Hq. Detachment and Technicians 5th Grade Albert H. Jenkins, Company "B," John B. Williams, Company "K," and Arthur J. Haley, Company "W."

To corporal, Privates First Class Sethlow Reed, Company "C," John J. McKim, Company "E, Jessie L. Hare, Company "G," and William E. Hopson of Company "I."

Harris Holder, U. S. professional bicycle sprint champion in 1927, was killed in action in the Southwest Pacific Aug. 8. Harder, who was 43, held the Silver Star for gallantry in action.

Hondurian Thinks It Swell To Be U. S. Citizen

September 6 was an important day for T-5 Rupert M. Wilson of the 23rd Co., First Student Training Regiment, the Infantry School. On that day he took the last step that made him a citizen of the United States. The oath was administered in the Federal Court in Columbus, to a number of new citizens and among them was the 24-year-old Hondurian who came to this country in 1938.

As a boy he lived in La Ceiba where he worked as an office clerk and butcher shop salesman. He has also seen five revolutions. Wilson is a Radio-Technician and a member of the famous 76th Division.

When asked how he felt after the ceremony Rupert answered "Me alegro mucho," or "Swell."

Basic Class Riflemen Qualify 97 Per Cent

One of the highest records ever made firing the Garand rifle on McAndrew Range was achieved recently by the officers basic class in the 9th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel John S. Roosma. Out of a total of 202 officer-students, 195 scored marksman or better, giving the class 97 per cent qualification.

This class boasts a total of 65 experts, 71 sharpshooters and 62 marksmen. Such accurate shooting is a high tribute to The Infantry School's instruction, since the group is composed of officers from branches of the service, some of whom had never even seen an M-1 rifle before they began training here. A number of students are Fighting French officers and candidates with a limited knowledge of English.

Highest score went to 1st Lieutenant Ernest W. Pade, who shot a 197 out of the possible 210 points for the "A" course. 1st Lieutenant Richard K. Betsui, 1st Lieutenant James M. Kilgore, 2nd Lieutenant John T. Wilkinson, 1st Lieutenant Macario Carnohan, 2nd Lieutenant Thomas J. Donnelly, and 1st Lieutenant Donald R. Wertz also fired in the 190's.

Their excellent performance with the M-1 proved no mere flash in the pan. The 9th Company has shown the same ability to hit the target when it came to firing the more difficult light and heavy machine guns as they did with the rifle.

EM'S TO SCHOOL

Pvts. Horace A. Garrison and Robert J. Harmon of the 523rd Ordnance Heavy Maintenance Company have been named to attend an eight-week medium and heavy artillery course at the Ordnance School, Aberdeen, Maryland. Pvt. Robert Bickston and Pvt. Michael J. Cannarozzo have been selected to attend a motorcycle mechanic course of 12 weeks duration at the Atlanta Ordance Depot, Atlanta, and Pvt. James Riggi has been chosen to attend a six-weeks vehicle turret course at the, Ordance School, Flint, Mich.

ATTEND SPECIAL SCHOOL

Pvt. John E. Marshall, of the 533rd Ordnance Company Heavy Maintenance Company is to attend a track vehicle chassis course of nine weeks duration at the Chrysler Tank Arsenal, Centerline, Mich. T-5 Henry S. Wrublicki and Pvt. Thomas J. Mackey have been chosen to attend a track vehicle engine course at the Ordnance School, Flint, Mich.

Mill Supply Co.

Gulf Gasoline and Oil

5129 Hamilton Rd.

Phone 9615

STEVENS Distinctive CHRISTMAS CARDS

For a Discriminating Clientele we offer personal Christmas Greeting Cards of unusual artistic merit and fine craftsmanship. Samples and prices submitted upon request.

J. P. STEVENS ENGRAVING CO.
110 PEACHTREE STREET · ATLANTA · GEORGIA

IT'S TIME To Go Over the Top

Stick your album Full of Stamps
Stick the Axis Full of Holes!

CHANCELLOR COMPANY
Columbus' finest men's store

IT'S TIME TO CHANGE LUBRICANTS

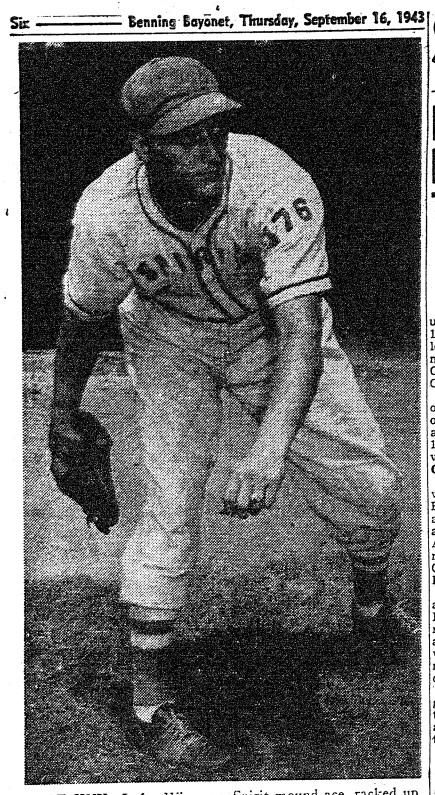
Let Firestone Do a Quality Job for You

SPECIAL 2.95

1. Drain and flush worn, thin oil from crankcase.
2. Refill with fresh, full-bodied fall and winter oil. (Limit 5 qts.—25c oil.)
3. Flush transmission and differential of old grease.
4. Fill with correct weight lubricants. (Limit 6 pounds.)
5. Firestone complete chassis lubrication.
6. Check front wheel bearings.
7. Drain and flush radiator—refill with water.
8. Clean and test spark plugs—reset gaps.
9. Test battery with hydrometer.
10. Inflate Tires to correct pressure.

STOP! BRAKE SPECIAL

ONLY 1.50 ALL CARS



1. Tighten U-Bolts.
2. Inspect Brake Lining.
3. Add Necessary Fluid to Hydraulic Brake System.
4. Brake Test on Dynamic Brake Machine.
5. Scientific Firestone Brake Adjustment.

Listen to the Voice of Firestone every Monday evening over N.B.C.

FIRESTONE STORES

1st Ave. at 13th St.
Phone 3-3606

Series Goes Into Fifth Game Tonight

PROF JINX—Lefty Wissman, Spirit mound ace, racked up his fourth straight win this year over the Academic Regiment on Monday night when he hurled the 176th nine to a 4-2 win over the Profs in the second game of the world series at the post.

Post Ringmen Box at Rucker Tomorrow Night

Combined Team of 176th and 300th Faces Wildcats

A combined boxing team made up of men from the 300th and the 176th Infantry Regiments, will leave Friday morning to stage a match with the boxing team of Camp Rucker in their arena at Camp Rucker, Alabama.

A well rounded card is in the offing with the 300th having most of the representations in the light and middleweight class and the 176th taking care of the heavyweight angle.

GARCIAS FIGHT

Some of the boxers for the 300th will be Joe and Rudy Garcia, Paul Franco and Dan Davis, boys who are well known for their fighting abilities. For the 176th, Fred Aguirre will pit his skill and cunning against whatever bantam Camp Rucker can offer.

RETURN MATCH

A return match is scheduled here at Fort Benning for October 1st. It will be interesting to note the results of the Camp Rucker bouts as they will give an indication of what to expect when the teams meet again, here at Doughboy Stadium on October 1st.

The Camp Rucker match will give the boxers the experience they have been unable to obtain as yet in Fort Benning competition.

87th Recons' Pugs Prepare For Local Rings

The 87th Armored Reconnaissance battalion, one of the fightest outfits in the "Lucky 7th", is tossing its boxing gloves into the ring soon to show Benning boxing fans why their unit is dubbed "the fightin' 87th." Preliminary to the eventual Axis K. O. they have readied a line-up prepared to challenge all comers on the post.

Heading the list is 200-pound Jerry Koberna, "C" Co., from Cleveland, who is a former professional with the reputation of flooring Charley McCarthy once for the count of nine.

TAKE ON JOE?

If Joe Louis shoud include Fort Benning during his exhibition tour of army camps, Koberna hopes to have an opportunity to spar with the champ in an exhibition match.

From Larksvile, Ja., comes "A" Co.'s Charley (Kid) McCue, a featherweight (126) who has 26 professional bouts to his credit.

Other fight-string boxers of the fightin' 87th include 136-pound Tony Bersis, "C" Co., of Garfield, N. J.; Illinois' Chuck Sleezer, Hq. Co., at 160 pounds; Mickey Nowchan, (175 pounds), "C" Co., from Cleveland; Whitey Gardner (160 pounds); "Louisiana Guin" (160 pounds), from New Orleans, and Fred Serra (147 pounds) and Dick Suart (160 pounds), from "B" Co.

The team of nine former pro and semi-pro boxers trains under Lt. Carl F. Cooke, who could pinch-hit for any of his pugilists, if necessary, to represent the 87th. According to him, a good tip from the feed-box is to "Watch the 87th."

TABLE TENNIS CHAMPS

Pfcs Francis Fanrak and Irving Suntag of the 176th Infantry have been declared the doubles Table Tennis champions of Fort Benning by virtue of their winning the tournament held at Service Club No. 1.

Fanrak and Suntag defeated the highly touted 7th Armored Division team in straight games. They each received a silver cup and a ball autographed by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton.

SPIRITS DECORATED

Good Conduct Medals were awarded to 198 members of the 176th Infantry last week. The medals were awarded for demonstrated fidelity through faithful and exact performance of duty, efficiency through capacity to produce desired results, and whose behavior has been such as to deserve emulation for a period of one year or more.

Southeastern Colored Baseball Tourney Opens Here on Monday

Wheeler Black Spokes Will Oppose Benning Tigers in Opening Clash

Eight hard-hitting, outstanding teams representing four large Army posts will gather here Monday for a week of play in the Southeastern Colored Servicemen's Baseball Tourney which is to be staged jointly at Gowdy Field and at Golden Park in downtown Columbus.

The opening gun of the tournament will be fired at 7 o'clock on Monday night in Gowdy Field when the famed Black Spokes from Camp Wheeler, Ga., take on Benning's Headquarters Detachment Tigers. Mitchell, one of the finest colored hurlers at this post, is slated to oppose the Black Spokes in the opener.

FULL CARD

Games will be played every night next week at Gowdy Field, starting at 7 o'clock with five other Benning teams entered, including the 1st STR Red Sox, newly-crowned colored champs of the post, and the Reception Center Orphans, who were runners-up for post laurels.

Outside service teams will come from Camp Blanding, Fla., and Tuskegee Army Flying School in addition to the Camp Wheeler entry.

ELIMINATION BASIS

The tourney will run on a straight elimination basis, with playoffs for the first, second and third place spots. The event, first of its kind ever to be held is being sponsored jointly by the Fort Benning Athletic Association and the Columbus Sportsmen's Club. Trophies will be awarded to the winners.

Kotowski Named 'Most Hustling' 300th Baseballer

He was a quiet sort of guy. All season long, he played good, but not spectacular, baseball for the 300th Infantry Sabers. The local journals scarcely gave him a tumble but when the season was over as far as the Sabers were concerned, members of the team gathered to select the "Most Hustling" player on the team. Their choice was unanimous.

It was Private First Class Don Kotowski of Company C.

Poor Umpires Get It From All Quarters

On the baseball diamond, umpires are fair game for anyone. The average call of an umpire in Brooklyn, for example, is probably shorter than the expectancy of those people who collect duds for paper weights. But in the field, The Infantry School umpires who chaperon a tactical problem are sacred. These opinions are always correct. Besides, they rank you!

Just the other day, when the officers basic class in the 11th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, had gathered for a critique at the end of a long, hard day, an umpire stepped forward for his inevitable "brief remarks." The instructor handed him a microphone with these instructions: "Just slip this over your neck."

The umpire had some difficulty with the apparatus . . . the class meanwhile viewed the umpire with mingled emotions; the class was hot and dirty. The umpire's coveralls were not even wrinkled. Then our umpire succeeded; the microphone was in place around his neck and he beamed benevolently at the class.

Suddenly a nameless voice from the stands: "Now twist it, ya' bum!" Another field expedient had been born into the world.

Spirit Gridmen Drilling Hard

Prep for Gamecock Clash on Oct. 2

With the opening date still undecided, the 176th Spirit football squad continues twice-daily workouts under the direction of Coaches Lee Pollock, Joe Thomas, Ed Hipp, and Harry Hales. The practice contest with the 300th Infantry, originally carded for September 25, has been canceled and negotiations are under way to arrange a contest for that date.

At present, October 2 appears to be the opening date when the Spirits journey to Columbia, S. C., to face the University of South Carolina. The Gamecocks, always a power in Southern football, are an unknown quantity this season and will appear in Doughboy Stadium on October 16 when they face the 300th Sabers.

In addition to the above fray, a pair of contests have been arranged with the Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, of Crossville, Tenn., on a home and home basis. The first test is October 16 to be played away, with the Engineers returning the visit on October 31 on the local gridiron against the Spirits.

Max and Buddy Baer are only Corporals in the U. S. Army but to Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma they're "colonels." The governor recently named both boxers "colonels" on his staff.

Bernie Jefferson, all Big-Ten halfback at Northwestern in 1936 to 1938 received his wings and commission at graduation exercises held recently at Tuskegee Army Air Field in Alabama.

Pat Ryan, fabulous New York cop, heaved the hammer 189 feet, six and a half inches, in 1913, the American record. He could throw his billy even further than that.

Walt Poland Slated To Hurl for Spirits Against Rudy Rundus

First-Game Winner Will Attempt To Stymie Academic Nine Again

Hustling Walt Poland, hero of the opening game victory on Sunday night, is slated to toe the slab for the 176th Spirits against Rudy Rundus for the Academic Profs tonight at Gowdy Field when the rivals clash in the fifth game of their world series battle for post baseball supremacy.

The little left-hander, a surprise selection in the first tilt, will attempt to continue his brilliant pitching against the hard-hitting Profs, in Sunday's clash he set the Profs down with two hits, a double and a single by Johnny Russo, and did not give up a single walk as the Spirits won, 3-1.

RUNDUS BEATEN

Rundus hurled the second game of the series for the Academics and bowed to Lefty Wissman in a stubborn mound duel by a 4-2 count. The lean right-hander pitched six-hit ball, however, and might have beaten any other moundsman than Wissman, who now holds four straight decisions over the Profs this year.

After the Spirits had romped to a pair of opening victories on the splendid mound efforts of their crack southpaws, they blew the series wide ope non Tuesday night in one of the worst fiascos ever seen in the ancient ball park.

NINE MISCUES

No less than nine errors were committed in the first four innings by the 176th as its infield developed a bad case of the jitters. The result was an overwhelming Academic triumph by a 16-6 score, the worst thumping administered to the Spirits this season.

The teams settled back to the fourth game last night but the Bayonet went to press before the tilt had been finished. If the Spirits won last night's test, then they will have a chance to cop the laurels in tonight's clash. But if the Wednesday game went to the Profs, the series now stands all even, and tonight's battle will be a crucial one.

RUSSO SPARKLES

Heroes of the series so far, besides Poland, have been Bob Ramazotti and Sparky Sahara of the Spirits and Johnny Russo of the Profs. Ramazotti poked a 360-foot homer in the opener and has hit well ever since, while Sahara has done some brilliant catching and is also walloping the ball.

Russo, in the first two games, was a bright spot in a lost cause for the Profs. He has now gotten six hits in the series to lead all other batsmen, and his fielding has been little short of sensational. All of the Profs, incidentally, have been playing great ball afield, coming up with some of the greatest plays of the year while under pressure.

Military Academy Lacrosse Whiz In Infantry School

While he was at West Point, 2nd Lieutenant Gabriel A. Ivan trained hard to win his varsity "A" in lacrosse and become captain of the team in 1942 and '43. Coming to The Infantry School shortly after his graduation from the Military Academy, he's training even harder to master the fine points of infantry combat.

Playing center in all games, Lieutenant Ivan led the Army lacrosse team to triumph over Dartmouth 10 to 0, Cornell 18 to 0, Penn 11 to 1, Yale 8 to 5, Johns Hopkins 5 to 2, Syracuse 14 to 5, Penn State 10 to 4, and over Navy by 6 to 3 in 1942. This year, the cadets he captained beat Loyola 10 to 2, Cornell 8 to 0, Yale 6 to 2, and Penn State 7 to 3.

Lieutenant Ivan, whose home is in Bridgeport, Conn., is now a member of the Officers Basic Class in the 11th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel John S. Roosma.

533rd Ordnance Sarge Is Famed W. & J. Gridder

John Buchanan Was On Rose Bowl Team Way Back In 1922

John S. Buchanan, a staff sergeant in the 533rd Ordnance (HM) Company now stationed with 2nd Army troops at Fort Benning, is an old-time gridder at Washington and Jefferson and played on the Rose Bowl team of 1922

Buchanan, a veteran of World War I in the 365th Infantry, enlisted at sixteen, and after the armistice matriculated at Bellefonte Academy in Pennsylvania, where he captained the football team in 1919 and 1920. From there he went to W. and J. College, playing center under the famous Greasy Neal.

HALL OF FAME

Undefeated in 1921 and 1922 against powerhouse Pitt, Syracuse, Detroit and Carnegie Tech, W. and J. represented the east in the Rose Bowl against the vaunted Golden Bears of California, the game resulting in a gruelling scoreless tie. This Washington and Jefferson team was voted to the Tournament of Roses Hall of Fame last year, for all-time outstanding play in the Rose Bowl.

"Buck" has the unique record of never having played on a losing team in scholastic or collegiate circles. At Belelfonte his teammates were of such calibre as "Five Yard" Jack McBride, later All-American fullback at Syracuse and famous in pro football for seven years with the New York Giants. W. and J.'s All-American tackle Stein played with "Buck" for six consecutive years through school and college.

PRO IN DETROIT

After finishing at W. and J., "Buck" played the pro game with Detroit, and was employed by the Gulf Refining Co., staying with Gulf until his present enlistment.

Although nearing forty-five "Buck" stays with the youngsters in cross-country runs, double time marches, and all activities calling for the old oomph. During duty hours you will find him at the motor pool carrying out the functions of motor sergeant.

Cpl. Taft Wright, former Chicago White Sox outfielder now stationed at the Air Force basic training center near Greensboro, N. C., says Bob Feller was an easier pitcher for him to hit than Chubby Dean. "I always hit Feller good," Wright says, "but Chubby Dean was tough for me because he throws a 'nothing ball' and fools you with his motion."

Gator Eleven Opens At Draper Prison Friday

Milton Will Unveil 1943 Grid Machine

Major Red Milton will take the wraps off his classy Gator gridiron machine tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, but none of the 124th's future rivals will have a chance to take a look-see because the game will be played behind prison walls.

The Gators will bow in the 1943 campaign with a warm-up game against the inmate eleven at Draper Prison, Spiegner, Alabama. The prisoners usually field a fair club, and provided a good test for several post teams last fall.

PREP FOR NAVY

The Draper clash will give the burly Gator mentor a chance to view his new team under actual combat conditions as they hasten their preparations for the Army-Navy clash with Jacksonville Air Tech in the Florida city on Saturday, the 26th.

Although no definite starting line-up has been announced for the Draper clash, Milton is expected to start the varsity that he has been running in drills all week.

BULLDOGS START

That club has brilliant Roy Cestary at tailback, Georgia Lamar Davis at wingback, Georgia Jim Todd at fullback and either Iowa Bill Stauss or little Nick Calos, all-conference at Benning, at quarter. Bob White of Indiana might replace Todd at fullback.

In the line, the Gators will probably start out with Alabama's Sam Sharp and Tom Soltas at the flanks, Alabama's Jack McKewen and Bill Tew at tackles, Fordham's Bob Fitzgerald and Mike Aulenti at the guards, and Columbia's Bill Corey at the pivot post.

During the course of the game, however, Milton expects to throw his entire squad into action to test their efficiency under actual game conditions.

Racing Stable Owner Is Here At O. C. School

Candidate Pfirman Was Born and Reared in Bluegrass Region

From Kentucky horseman to officer candidate, all within the space of a year, is a novel change from the tweed to khaki for Candidate Ed Pfirman. Seventh Company of the 3rd STR.

Pfirman was born and raised in the bluegrass region and—in keeping with Kentucky tradition—was the owner of a "very modest" racing stable. His experiences with horses date back to childhood.

JOINS CAVALRY

In Kentucky every kid had a horse; in the other 47 states they have to be content with dogs and cats. His Shetland pony discarded, he began riding with a cavalry outfit of the Kentucky National Guard.

In 1934 he began his stable with the purchase of "Skid," consistently in the money for two seasons. In 1936 he added "Mom" and "Bob Bates." Though his stable has ceased to exist, he still has one horse on the tracks, a three-year-old named "Chipperita." Leading questions as to this horse's accomplishments went unanswered.

REAL THIRTEENER

Unique in that he possesses no racetrack superstitions, his mystic tendencies are more than cared for in his own personal history: Edward Pfirman is spelled in exactly 13 letters; he was born Aug.

300th Power Rates Team Among Army Topnotchers

In a series of fast scrimmages this past week, the 300th Infantry football squad gave evidence of the power which should label it as among the top-notch service teams of the nation this year.

The Sabers, plugged through with talent and brawn (seven of its tackles tip the scales at over 215 pounds each) are fast, rugged, and deceptive.

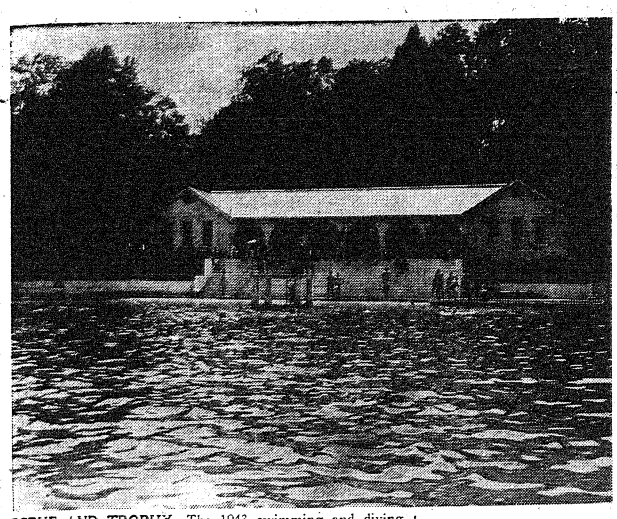
DIBLASI SHINES

Among the stars whose work in scrimmages has been outstanding is the little touted Sam DiBlasi, who at Washington and Lee University missed the wide publicity which he would have gotten at a larger college. His merit was proved however with the Cleveland Rams professional football squad.

DiBlasi is the surprise of the pre-season practice sessions and may prove the dark-horse player of the Fort Benning conference.

Still in his old form is Kentucky's Ermal Allen, as fast as he was when named all-Southeastern Conference back. Allen hasn't slowed down with the years, and still can uncork a rifle pass. In scrimmage he's dynamite, and has proved it by breaking away for long runs which would spell touchdowns in any collegiate league. The Sabers count on Allen for a lot of scoring this year.

SPIRIT BAND ON AIR



The 176th Infantry's regimental band will be the featured performers this Sunday, September 19, over Radio Station WRBL at 5:00 in the afternoon. The band will be under the personal direction of WOJG Paul S. Callaway.

ALL-SEC BACKFIELD of the 300th Infantry eleven is shown above. The husky Sabers are, left to right: Ike Peel, Bill Meek and Bill Nowling, all of the Tennessee Vols, and Ermal Allen, famed Kentucky Wildcats. The Vols were all members of last year's crack Tennesseee eleven which won the Sugar Bowl classic from Tulsa's Golden Hurricane. Allen was an all-conference selection two seasons ago with Kentucky and played last fall for the Eastern Army All-Stars. All four backs are anxiously awaiting their October 16th meeting with Georgia Tech's Yellowjackets, an old SEC rival of college days. (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt. Mel Stock.)

BAMA CLUB
Cocktail Bar Open 6 P. M.
TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY—9 P. M. & 11 P. M.
CHICKEN DINNERS, $1.50 WESTERN STEAK, $2.00
MUSIC BY VERNON YONKERS ORCHESTRA
For Reservations Dial 3-1051
Just Across Lower Bridge. First Building on Right
Admission: Week Nites 50c Saturday Nite $1

12 times across the ocean in 13 days!
That's the record set by Capt. Joseph H. Hart, one of Pan American Airways' ace pilots, in flying vital war cargo abroad. He's a former Army flier...and a Camel smoker for 20 years.
I STICK TO CAMELS—THEY'VE GOT MORE FLAVOR—AND THEY'RE EASY ON MY THROAT
THE "T-ZONE"—where cigarettes are judged
The "T-ZONE"—Taste and Throat—is the proving ground for cigarettes. Only your taste and throat can decide which cigarette tastes best to you...and how it affects your throat. Based on the experience of millions of smokers, we believe Camels will suit your "T-ZONE" to a "T."
Camel

SCENE AND TROPHY—The 1943 swimming and diving championships of the post will be held Sunday at spacious Russ Pool, shown above. On the right is the handsome trophy to be awarded by the F. B. A. A., sponsors of the meet, to the winning team. (Signal Lab Photos by Sgt. Mel Stock.)

Swimmers Ready For Title Meet

More than one hundred crack soldier swimmers are expected to compete at Russ Pool on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 when the 1943 championship swim meet is held under the auspices of the Fort Benning Athletic Association.

ADVANCE DEADLINE

Entries for both team and individual events have been pouring into the athletic office all week, and in order that no one is left behind in the rush, meet officials have advanced the deadline for entries to 5:30 p. m. tomorrow afternoon.

Four individual events in swimming will be held; the 50-yard freestyle, 50-yard backstroke, 50-yard breaststroke, and 150-yard freestyle. There will also be a 150-yard relay for three-man teams and an individual diving competition.

WAC RACE

A special feature will be the 50-yard freestyle events for members of the Women's Army Corps stationed here.

Trial heats will start promptly at 2:30 and all contestants must report at the pool in swim suits not later than a half hour before starting time.

SPECTATORS

Spectators in swim suits will be permitted within the pool enclosure while all other on-lokers can view the title meet from the spacious bank outside the pool on the south side.

A handsome team trophy has been placed in competition by the F.B.A.A. while individual awards will be made winners and runners-up in all events.

Touch Football In 1st STR Draws Former Collegiate Gridiron Aces

The rest of the company was rather surprised when several officers in the 18th Company, 1st STR, started playing touch football after the noon-day "picnic" out in the field a week or so ago. But by now it's a daily event and the game is cutting heavily into the popularity of bridge, and other favorite army games of chance, in the competition for spectators.

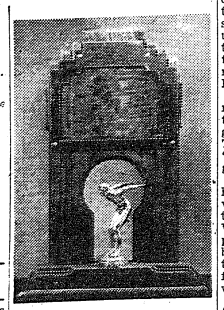
That's not surprising either when you consider that there are quite a few former college pigskin stars out there performing in the hot noonday sun and over the eroded Georgia terrain. For the 18th Company can also boast of its quota of ex-gridiron aces.

EX-CORNHUSKER ACE

There's Capt. Johnny Williams, for example, who usually "captains" one of the teams. He played three years of varsity ball at Nebraska from 1933 to 1935, when the Cornhuskers really had ball teams. Johnny competed for a backfield spot his first two years with such all-time stars as George Henry Sauer and Bill Masterson, and still saw lots of action. His last year he went into a running guard slot.

Capt. James L. Coleman was one of the sparkplugs of Tennessee's team in 1941, and Capt. Bob Neilson was center on the University of West Virginia team from 1935 to 1937. Neilsen was also a boxer on an intercollegiate team which competed for nationwide laurels.

OLD-TIMERS, TOO



A pair of old-timers get in there every once in awhile. There's Lt. Col. James S. Luckett, who played on West and Capt. Carl Horr who was an outstanding West Coast lineman at Oregon State from 1929 to 1931, later playing with the newly-born Los Angeles Pro Bulldogs.

Some other luminaries include Capt. Ralph Gaither of East Central State Teachers in Texas, a halfback for four years on his college team, and Lt. Ray Patten from the University of New Hampshire. Lt. Jim White performed for the University of Florida, Lt. Brewer Horton was a darn good halfback at Clemson from 1933 to 1935, and Capt. Ray Lakey hails from the University of Montana.

Pea Ridge Day is the quaint character we had in mind. He was a big righthander from Tobacco Road and the world's champion hog caller of the country he came from. Every time he'd strike someone out, he would let fly with a hog call that would rattle the grandstands. He pitched several months for the Dodgers back in the Wilbert Robinson regime but finally he burned out his voice and Robbie sent him back to the farm.

Lawson Little, pudgy California golfer, won the British and American amateur golf titles in 1934 and 1935. Bobby Jones won both championships in 1930 but failed to repeat the following year, quite possibly because he didn't compete.

Joe Gans, who held the lightweight title from 1901 until 1908 never won the welterweight crown. He licked many welterweights in his heyday however, as well as a fair smattering of middleweights, heavyweights and Irish saloonkeepers.

Ex-St. Louis Brown Hurler With Seventh

Pfc. Lester R. Wirkkala, a former pitcher for the St. Louis Browns baseball club, has traded his ball togs for khaki but has found that his new job as assistant welder in the 23rd Armd. Eng. Bn. maintenance just as absorbing.

Despite Uncle Sam's option on his services, however, Pfc. Wirkkala is still under contract to the Browns with whom he will resume his career after the war.

He got his start in baseball while pitching for Sebeka (Minn.) high school where a talent scout spotted him and signed him to a contract with Brainard in the Northern League. At the close of that season (1935) he was bought by Wausau, Wisconsin.

The Brooklyn-owned Nebraska and Ohio State Leagues next took his option and then sold Wirkkala to the Browns who farmed him out to Toledo where he helped that team make fifth place in 1941 Association baseball.

Gator Golfers Top 176th Foe

In defeating the 176th Infantry golf team 21 1-2 to 14 1-2 last week, the 124th Infantry niblick pushers gained the edge over the Spirits, two matches to one.

Low scoring featured the play, as all the players seemed to catch on to their games. Kupsick of the Spirits shot a sub-par 70, to defeat Mike Bilowich of the Gators. Major Terry B. Patterson carved a 74 to match his opponent, Lea of the Spirits, and won the first nine with an even par 35.

Kupsick and Lea shot a best ball of 65, 6 under par to gather 3 points from Bilowich and Patterson, who shot a 67.

The second foursome split all points as Bishop of the Gators defeated Arrigo for his fourth straight triumph. Taylor evened it for the 176th by whipping Tony Joy. The four ball match found the Gators one down at the 18th tee by virtue of a Spirit par four on the 17th. Bishop evened the match by canning a twelve foot putt on the final green for a birdie four.

GATORS TAKE LEAD

Viggiano and Simms, the Gator 5 and 6 men, took all but a one-half point from Gruber and Frevel and put the Gators out in front.

Lt. Col. Earle M. Shine and Ed Fogg provided the rest of the winning margin, by winning the last six holes playing even par golf from Ambrosia and O'Brien. The first nine was halved.

Panthers Will Play Three College Foes

Three of the strongest colored football elevens in the nation will play in Doughboy Stadium this fall against the 3rd Str. Panthers, according to an announcement by Lieut. Jack Gushin who is handling schedule arrangements for the Benning gridders.

Tuskegee Institute's famed Golden Tigers, the Morehouse College Maroon Tigers from Atlanta, and Morris Brown College also from Atlanta are all carded for grid battles against the Panthers on the Doughboy turf.

Gushin also announced that the Panthers would meet two other collegiate elevens, Florida A. and M. and Clark College, in games away from the fort. Two games apiece also will be played in the Benning Service Conference against the Reception Center and the Truck Regiment gridders of the Infantry School.

Red Sox Win League Flag In Playoffs

1st STR Captures Title With 13-5 Victory In Finale

Something new has been added to the trophy room of the Red Sox, hard-playing diamond stars of the First Student Training Regiment, commanded by Col. John S. Roosma. It's the victory pennant they won Monday by tightening their grip on the move to trounce the Reception Center Orphans, 13 to 5, in the deciding bout of the five-game Service League series.

It was a somewhat costly triumph, however. Gene Randolph, young Sox left-hander, was pitching a rather creditable game with five blank frames. Out of a clear sky Taylor, the Orphans' center fielder, connected with a lucky one and sent it to left field for a triple. Coming home on errors scored three runs, and five other unearned runs crossed home plate to make the score read 7-5. But the Orphans were out-hit, Welmaker giving up 12 hits to 7 for Randolph.

Starting the Sox' string of series successes, Lefty Romby took the Orphans, 8-4, in the second game of the series, with Jimmie Taylor driving in two runs. "Lefty," ace hurler that he is, gave up only 6 hits.

James Taylor, schoolboy right hander, hurled the Sox to a 13-4 victory over the Orphans in the third game of the series. Johnnie Washington, the Sox first sacker, pounded a double down the first base line with a man on second to untie the score in the sixth frame and send Welmaker down with ten hits.

The Red Sox salvaged the fourth game of the series, 11-8, but staged a comeback in the fifth and final game. Starting off the lucky first inning with three runs, the Sox were leading, 3-0, with but one out when Cheatham, the Orphans' shortstop, doubled and scored on an error. The heavy hitting began in the third inning when the Red Sox "Murder Row" really went to town, getting six runs out of seven hits and putting the Reception Center Orphans out of the running by a score of 13-5.

Swatting performance of individual Red Sox players this year are as follows:

	Times at bat	Hits	Avg.
Johnson, 3rd base	129	59	.457
Haynesworth, shortstop	98	43	.439
Randolph, right field	116	53	.456
Washington, 1st base	131	76	.580
Taylor, center field	85	53	.624
Romby, pitcher	124	66	.532
Swann, left field	113	46	.535
Denley, 2nd base	43	25	.549
Hamrick, catcher	110	43	.390
Williams	32	11	.327
Saunders	32	11	.343
Team average	1004	429	.427

1st STR Golfers Wallop Sabers

The 1st Student Training Regiment golf team continued their winning streak by overwhelming the 300th Infantry Sabers 22 1-2 to 7 1-2 last week. The best score of the day was a par 72 by Buckley of the 300th who sunk a birdie 4 on the 18th to win the team match 1 up. Willoughby, star golfer for the Wolves, had a couple of bad holes and lost to Buckley, the intercollegiate champ, 2 down in a close match.

Wallace, number 2 man of the 1st S. T. R., played an outstanding game to gain all 3 points from Miller who shot an even 80. Moser, number 3 man for the Wolves defeated Howery 2 1-2 to 1-2 and then teamed up with Logan who played a beautiful game to win all 3 points on the team match.

The rest of the 1st S. T. R. continued his winning streak of 3 straight matches by beating Pumker 3-0 while Arnold of the Wolves got hot on the back nine to tie Mullane for the match. Crawford sunk a 23 foot putt on the 18th to clinch 3 points for the team. In the last match between Haezel and Mesaros, Haezel played a good game to win 3 more points and give the 1st S. T. R.'s the grand total of 22 1-2 while the 300th accounted for 7 1-2.

The 1st S. T. R. team which has been growing in popularity and strength as each week progresses will play the 176th Infantry Spirits a return match this Sunday, the 12th. The 176th team and the 1st S. T. R. each have won a match in previous games. Heading the matches will be Kupsick of the Spirits and Willoughby of the Wolves, both par shooters who have won a match each in previous encounters.

Lt. Weiland Named Captain

First Lieut. Robert C. Weiland, past classification officer at Fort Benning, has been promoted to captain, according to word received at Post Headquarters. He has been at Fort Benning since Nov., 1942.

Captain Weiland was employed as a civilian with the Army Engineers Office in Vicksburg, Miss., before entering the armed forces.

Joining the Mississippi National Guard in 1938 as a private, Capt. Weiland won a commission as second lieutenant in May, 1939, and was promoted to first lieutenant one year later.

After entering federal service in November, 1940, Capt. Weiland was first stationed at Camp Blanding, Fla. Following a course in the Adjutant General's School at Fort Washington, Md., he was assigned to the reception center at Fort McPherson, Ga., where he was classification officer. He came to Fort Benning from Atlanta.

PIN-UP GIRL OF THE WEEK

CIVIL SERVICE CUTIE—Mary Louise Childress is our favorite diving girl of the year, and there's no need to ask why, because you should be able to see for yourself. . . . She's a notable representation of the fair state of Virginia to add to our pin-up collection. . . . Born in Lynchburg, she attended Blackstone College in the "Carry-Me-Back" state. . . . While at school, she was a member of dramatic club, home ec club, and Beta Sigma Phi, member of dramatic club, home ec club, and president of the athletic club. . . . Played volleyball, hockey and basketball for deah old Blackstone. . . . Favorite sport, though, is swimming but most of all she loves to dance. . . . Came to Benning two years ago to visit her brother, now a captain overseas. . . . Liked the post so much, she got a job here and stayed. . . . Is now a rating examiner for Fort Benning Civil Service Board. . . . CHILDRESS ON MEN: "As long as they don't get too serious, they're nice to have around and I do prefer soldiers." . . . VITAL STATISTICS: Age—21. Height—5 feet, 4 inches. Weight—120 pounds. Bust—34 inches. Waist—24 inches. Hips—34 inches. Eyes—brown with a delightful glint. Hair—chestnut brown. Complexion—olive with a delicious freckle here and there. A real cutie and a nice girl to have around, this diving girl of the year. (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

Rhine Of 7th Armored Wins Piig Pong Title

Pvt. Wilner P. Rhine of the "Lucky 7th" Armored Division reigns today as ping pong champ of the Fort Benning reservation after trouncing Pvt. Larry Farber, 840th Ord. Depot, in a hotly contested table tennis match at the service club number one last week.

After taking the first two rounds of the singles tournament 21-18 and 21-11, and losing the next two by a slight margin 21-19 and 21-15 to the ordnance star, Rhine rallied in the final round with a series of brilliantly executed shots to snatch the cup from Farber with a score of 21-18.

3RD MAJOR WIN

This was the third major victory for the "Lucky 7th's" 31st Armored Regiment paddlewielder in the past 18 months. Last year he was not only division champ but also top player in both that division and the 11th Armored. Last Sunday he easily took top honors in the 7th for the second year in a row.

Rhine played a colorful game for the post singles championship, displaying a fast attack and a sharp serve which at times seemed to confuse his opponent. It was experience and timing which helped him outpoint his adversary in the final and decisive round of play.

SPIRITS WIN

Teamed with Cpl. Robert O. Snyder, also of the 31st A. R., Rhine then played Pfcs. Irving Suntag and Francis Fanrak, 176th Inf., for the post doubles title. Here the infantrymen took the cake by winning three rounds in rapid succession. The scores were 21-10, 21-13, and 21-17.

So Excited Over Promotion He Forgot 2 Children

They say that everybody gets a bit flustered when a promotion comes through—and even old time officers aren't above getting their share of flustration, as brand new Capt. Salvador Llosa proved a couple of days ago.

When giving details of his personal history to the newshounds in Public Relations Office, he completely forgot to mention two of his children—one being a boy in the Army by the way. So he came back rather shamefacedly to inquire if it was too late to give the details.

Paratroopers Prepare to Make 200,000th Jump

The 200,000th jump by a paratrooper will be made at Fort Benning's Parachute School on Friday, it was announced today by Col. Ridgley Gaither, commandant of the school.

The 200,000th leap is indicative of the vast growth of the school in the past year as it has mushroomed to provide American armies with adequate numbers of qualified paratroopers to rain death and destruction on the enemy.

Bazooka—

(Continued from Page 1)

months, the weapon has been clothed in secrecy until this week.

The new antitank rifle grenade, Col. Oseth said, "is now standard equipment for the American Army. It enables the rifleman to shoot the grenade to considerable distances, with satisfactory accuracy to hit enemy tanks. When it hits it punctures and destroys."

While the rifle grenade proved "quite devastating," according to Col. Oseth, it was then determined that potential enemies would "probably still further increase the thickness of the armor on their tanks."

"A large and more powerful grenade of the same type had been designed to meet this situation," Col. Oseth continued. "The problem with the heavier grenade, however, was to provide a launching weapon which would give adequate range and accuracy but which would still be suitable for the individual soldier to carry and fire in battle."

Since the heavier grenade proved cumbersome to fire in the same manner as the anti-tank rifle grenade, Col. Oseth said it next became important to devise a new type launcher which would be relatively light and easy to handle by one or two soldiers.

"At this point," Col. Oseth said, "someone again came to the rescue with an idea of utilizing a principle of propulsion which had been known for centuries, but the application of which had largely been confined to Fourth of July celebrations and to embellishing the adventures of Buck Rogers.

"This principle was that of the rocket. The military application of the rocket was neither new nor startling. Someone, somewhere, between the United States Army Ordnance, American science and American industry, took the idea of the heavy antitank grenade head and combined it with a rocket taul to propel it.

"The result of that combination is what you see before you. The famed 'Bazooka,' officially known as the Launcher, Rocket, Antitank, 2.36" M4A1, is merely the means of supporting, igniting, and directing the rocket grenade. The power lies in the projectile and not in the launcher."

Then, describing the manner of loading and firing the Bazooka, Col. Oseth declared "it can be stated truly that the American Doughboy is now able to face the onslaught of the one-time invincible tank without a tremor. He needs only to remain under cover until the hostile tanks are close enough to make a hit fairly certain, and then to knock them off, one by one."

Col. Oseth then introduced Col. Myron Leedy, Ordnance Department, who is the Ordnance member of the Infantry Board at Fort Benning. Col. Leedy pointed out that in the Office of the Chief of Ordnance the M-9A grenade, which was a powerful, secret weapon, had ben devised before Pearl Harbor. He sai dthis weapon proved adequate defense against "tank goliaths!".

The need for a bigger and more deadly weapon, Col. Leedy said, led to the development of the M-10 antitank grenade, which had been devised ujst before Pearl Harbor. This was standardized, he said.

Early in 1942, Col. Leedy continued, "the fireworks really started as the Ordnance and science and industry developed and tested rockets which exceeded expectations.

The continued development of the antitank rifle grenade led to the evolution of the "Bazooka," he declared. By such evolution, Col. Leedy said, "it may well be said that the rigle grenade is the father of the "Bazooka."

As science and industry took over the plans for the Bazooka, they soon had factories turning out the weapons in mass production. "Now," Col. Leedy said, "the Bazooka can be found in all theaters of operations."

After the introduction of the weapons, the Test Section of the Infantry Board under the direction of Lieut. Col. William C. Rutherford, chief of the section, put the antitank rifle grenades and Bazooka through their paces.

Major Edward B. Crossman, test officer, described the manner of firing the weapons while the demonstration crews, headed by Lieut. Kenneth Sheldon, of the Test Section, fired at various targets.

The Bazooka first blew up a formidable sandbag fortification. As one well-aimed shot punched the pile of bags, rocking explosion blew the sand and bags high into the air as the cameras recorded the power of the missle. The Bazooka then blasted an improvised truck body.

A battery of three Bazookas then were aimed on a simulated tank, an automobile chassis covered with canvas. The rocketeers, wearing geglasses to kep dust from their eyes, lopped the deadly shells into the tank as it moved across the range. As a finale the Bazookas next were fired on a stationary car body.

The anti-tank rifle grenades and the Bazookas fired against silhouette targets, blasting holes in the range and the noise reverberated around the area.

Newsreel cameramen, who Tuesday night rushed their films on for development and processing before release nationally, included John Muller, News of the Day; Douglas Dupont and Oscar Goodman, Paramount; Tye Sanders, Universal; Webber Hall, Movietone.

Still photographers included B. I. Sanders, Asociated Press; Moe Reed, International News Photos; W. A. Roton, Acme Newspictures; Corporal Mel Stock, of the Signal Photo Laboratory; and Private First Class George Rowen, of the Infantry School's Public Relations Office.

Members of the Infantry Board, in addition to Col. Oseth and Col. Leedy, are Col. Harold G. Sydenham, Col. Charles H. Coates, Col. Edward A. Chazal, and Lieut. Col. Ned Blair, recorder.

Members of the Test Section are, in addition to Col. Rutherford, Major Crossman, and Lt. Shelden, are Major Samuel E. Snyder, Maj. John, C. Brimsmead, Maj. Lawrence Mitzen, Maj. William J. Wade, Capt. Adelbert G. Mutiner, and Capt. William L. Lindsey.

Share—

(Continued from Page 1)

send OPA agents down to conduct a thorough checkup and survey," he said. "They will stop automobiles entering or leaving without passengers and will investigate all coupon books issued. If supplemental books have been issued on the basis that the car driver is sharing rides, it will be taken away.

TOO MANY REGISTRATIONS

"At the same time, many passengers who have registered with one car driver now are being found to be registered with several others. In some cases they have changed into new car pools and have just not thought about notifying us. But every case will be investigated and if there was any trickery, such as signing for several pools in order to allow a driver to secure supplemental coupons — both parties will be held responsible.

"Such a move must be made if we are to keep down the gasoline consumption. At the same time too many drivers at Fort Benning are found to be putting in petitions for new tires, causing Muscogee county to be straining its quota badly. This is because, little by little, the share the ride plan is breaking down and too many automobiles now are being used to carry the load which can be carried by many less vehicles.

"Many new organizations have come to the Post since the first share-ride plan was put into operation, and the personnel of these organizations should take immediate steps to institute plans to utilize every bit of transportation to the fullest extent. Otherwise, drastic reductions in issuance of gasoline coupon books must be instituted and we must reduce the number of tires being issued."

TIRE BLACK MARKET

Sgt. Lipp warned also against purchasing of tires from any possible "black market" source, and against taking delivery on an automobile without being certain that the tires check with the tire inspection records. Several purchasers of automobiles have been victimized recently, he said, and in the future no basic or supplemental gasoline coupons can be issued without the correct tire inspection record, which must check with the tires on the automobile.

The new basic "A" gasoline ration book will be used in the gasoline shortage area after November 21, he said. All vehicle owners are reminded that they must present the covers of their old "A" books, together with tire inspection record, when they apply for the new basic "A" book. Date when applications will be accepted will be announced as soon as they are decided upon, he said.

All-Benning—

(Continued from Page 1)

of a TIS sergeant, and Lieut. A. L. Hart, a Marine Corps officer who is currently pursuing a course of instruction at the Infantry School on an exchange basis. The ingenue has had considerable theatrical experience in and around Chicago, while Hart was president of the Theater Intime at Princeton University last year.

THREE SERGEANTS

Three Fort Benning sergeants, well-known for their radio work on post programs, are also cast in important roles. Sgt. William Cope of the Academic Regiment plays dapper Charley Wilder, St. Sgt. Owen J. Remington of the public relations staff is cast as the executor of the West estate, and St. Sgt. Carl Neu of the same office plays Harry Blythe, one of the expectant heirs.

Lt. Paul J. Beardsley, a Parachute School officer, and his pretty red-headed wife, Bonnie Jean, both of whom are experienced in the arts of the theater, play important roles as the doctor and one of the surviving relatives.

CIVILIAN WORKERS

Also in the cast are two civilian employees of the post engineer office at Benning, Janice Oettinger and Eileen Rubinstein, who are cast as Susan Sillsby and Mammy Pleasant. Lieut. T. D. Hill is cast as Hendricks, the keeper at an insane asylum.

Curtain call for tonight and tomorrow night's presentations of "The Cat and the Canary" will be at 9 o'clock Fort Benning time.

Watch, Clock, and Jewelry Repairing
Quick Service
B & S JEWELRY CO.
Dial 2-1064
1724 Hamilton Rd.

WATCHES For Men and Ladies
All the latest styles and designs in fully jeweled watches —both ladies and men's models ..... 29.75 Up
BRACKIN'S
1210 BROADWAY

CUSTOM TAILORS
TO THE SERVICES
SINCE 1845
SMITH-GRAY
15 WEST ELEVENTH ST.
COLUMBUS, GA.
DIAL 5719
OPP. ARMY-NAVY USO

SLASHES IN PRICES OF LATE MODEL AUTOMOBILES
WE BUY WE SELL
Visit Our Used Car Lot Before Buying.
We have a nice line of late model used cars. We can give you some outstanding prices and trade-ins.
SPEAR-MOORE USED CAR LOT
720 Linwood Blvd. Next to Goo-Goo

O'NEILL'S PLACE
ON LIMITS
To All Military Personnel
DINE and DANCE
SQUARE DANCE
Wed.—Fri.—Sat.
O'NEILL'S PLACE
DIAL 9292 1 Mile on Opelika Highway

Hospital 'Food Pharmacy' Has Novel Role in Feeding Soldiers

Special Diets Served Allergics, Jaundiced, Toothless, Broken-Jawed

Soldiers unable to chew due to a fractured jaw or lack of teeth, G.. I.'s allergic to nine-tenths of the food customarily served, or patients with stomach conditions demanding the personality-less "Eland" diet, all are grist to the mill at Fort Benning's "food pharmacy"—the diet kitchen at the post's Station Hospital.

JAUNDICE CASES

Ambulatory patients eating at the diet kitchen are fed in special groups, A roll chcart above the food line specified which group is being served. The fat-free diet is prescribed for jaundice cases and liver complications. The food must be cooked in a very simple manner—(boiled, baked or broiled)—and contains almost no fat whatsoever. Fried foods, butter, cream, and fat meats, as well as dressings are left off completely "Convalescent Ulcers" are a group who have ulcers which are improving. They are given ground meat, soft desserts and custards, lots of milk and mashed vegetables.. but are denied the use of spicy foods.

Another group of patients is served with "bland" diet. They are given food with soft and soothing qualities while foods which are stimulating or irritating are tabooed to prevent gastric disturbances. Spices and roughage are not included as they are not soft or readily digested.

The "Medical Soft" diet is prescribed by the ward doctors for patients with stomach conditions other than ulcers and who cannot take full diets. Similar to the "dental soft" diet, designed for patients who have bad teeth or none none at all, or who have fractured jaws and cannot chew. Cream soup, mashed potatoes, pureed carrots, and cornstarch pudding are characteristic of the foods served this group.

For soldiers who lack vitamins or are underweight, or for patients who have had long illness and need to build up strength quickly, the "high caloric vitamin, commonly referred to as "hical, hi-vit," is prescribed. This diet calls for more salads and fruit juices, fresh foods, and extra soups. Similar is the "T. B." of tuberculosis diet, although the latter get twice the garrison rations, and are provided with extra milk and eggs, and have, in general, by far the most elaborate diet.

SUPER SPECIAL

In addition to these special diets for certain general groups, there is a "super special" or "extra special" diet group. Each patient is provided by the dieticians with a special individual diet. Most such patients patients suffer from allergies or diabetes. Their regime varies more than the opinions of an undecided woman trying to make up her mind.

Some of the persons tested in the allergy clinic, which is under the direction of Major Marion T. Davidson, are found to be unable to eat any vegetables except rice, and only a few meats. While awaiting desensitation from their allergies by allergy shots, they must stick to a diet containing only the things to which they show no allergy. In such cases, the dieticians exercise their amazing aptitude in preparing the restricted number of foods in every conceivabzie different way so the patient will not grow too tired of it.

The diet kitchen is under the general supervision of Major Wallace M. Johnson, director of dietetics at the Station Hospital, and Lieut. Thos F. Henley, assistant director of dietetics. It is under the immediate supervision of Lieut. George L. Runyon, mess officer, and is staffed by five dieticians: Lieuts. Eleanor McKnight of Milford, Del., Ruth A. Galt of Hale City, Texas, Martha E. Moseman of Atlanta, Ga., Martha Keith of Birmingham, Ala., and Vivian E. Lee of Indianapolis, Ind.

In charge of mess hall operations is Staff Sergeant Samuel E. Carson of Winfield, La., mess sergeant, while Sergeant William C. Cullifer of Geneva, Ala., as hospital mess steward, orders the food for the diet kitchen, as well as for all messes in the hospital.

FOOD PHARMACY

A sort of laboratory as well as a "food pharmacy," the diet kitchen is eternally trying out new recipes and trying to improve on old ones. Even tested recipes are tested again and again in attempts to utilize to the maximum the qualities of the food and the ways in which it can be prepared.

Each hospital ward with bed patients received its food from the diet kitchen in heated "chow carts," which line up in the long corridors to await their turn. Although the food must be measured out carefully to prevent waste and placed in the carts in proper degrees of warmth, under the supervision of a dietician, the diet kitchen has established a smooth-working system whereby 48 of these carts can be completely served and be off for the wards in 25 minutes or less.

In addition to doing a large share in bringing patients back to good health, the diet kitchen also is proud of the fact that its system is part of a program to instruct people along modern dietary principles, and to break down sectional or family food habits whichc they are unaccustomed. Innumerable patients have learned to eat and like foods which they had never touched before, to the benefit of their health and the production of nourishing foods, Major Johnson states.

Food—For Thought

Without exception, everyone is interested in food—good food. Food is required to sustain life but it can be more than just a bare necessity, it can be and is a joy when properly prepared. All this was brought to mind when we overheard a conversation between a company commander and the sergeant in charge of his mess.

Said the Commanding Officer: Come in, Sergeant. I want to have a talk with you.

SERGEANT: Yes, sir.

C. O.: Sit down, Sergeant, this may take a minute or so.

SERGEANT: Yes, sir.

C. O.: You've been doing a fine job in handling the Mess Hall and I want you to know it.

SERGEANT: Thank you, sir.

C. O.: But what you may not know is that in doing more than just preparing good food and running an efficient kitchen

SERGEANT: How's that, sir?

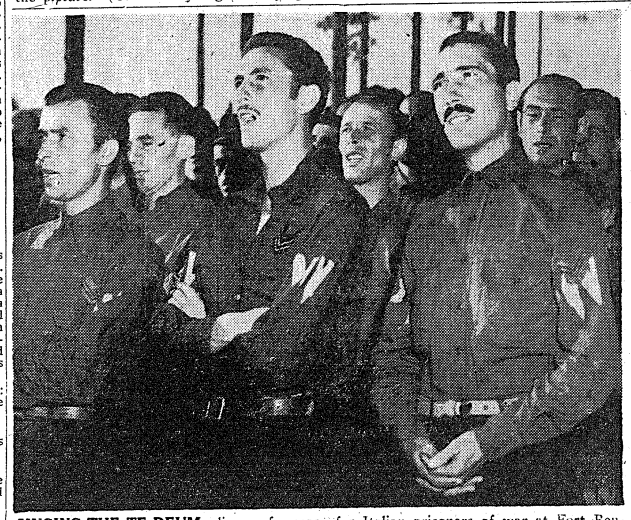
C. O.: Well, the joy that can be derived from eating, the quantity one can eat and how well the food can be digested depends mainly upon the eye appeal and the taste appeal. Therefore, it is important that food not only be cooked well but that it looks attractive when served. You have that knack and that's important.

SERGEANT: Thank you, sir. It's merely a matter of taking an interest in the job. Take cabbage for instance, Sir. It is just as easy to cook cabbage in a way that it will retain its bright green fresh appearance as it is to allow it to get that brownish uninviting color.

C. O.: I'm well aware of that. And while we're on the subject, I want to compliment you on your desserts. Your pastries and puddings are really fine and that means a lot. It's depressing to end a meal with a poor pudding or badly baked pie. A dessert tops off a meal and can make it or break it. By the way, several officer friends of mine have remarked about your salads. They were quite surprised to learn that most of your salads were made with leftovers.

SERGEANT: There's no need for throwing away leftovers when so much can be made from them. We are able to have soups every day simply by using bones, small quantities of meats and vegetables.

C. O.: And it's those extra dishes along with your well prepared menu that help to make the men in our organization contented and pleased with their 'outfit'. You not only are a good cook but you're a morale builder, Sergeant. Nothing can build morale and satisfy men more than a good mess whereas a poor mess will tear an organization down and cause dissension. In my position, I think it's my duty to be certain that my mess is properly operated and that my men are pleased. That's why I called you in, Sergeant, to commend you for the fine job you are doing. You might also like to know there's another stripe coming up for you in the next couple of days.



SERGEANT: Thank you, sir, now you're helping my morale.

WEDS, JOINS SPARS

Miss Charlotte Mae Baxter, employee of the Post Engineer, not only surprised the gang at PE by being the first to enlist in the SPARS from Columbus, but also announced her marriage to Sgt. Robert Frasier of the 53rd General Hospital. The ceremony was held at the Post Chapel Tuesday, Sept. 14.

A FRAMED COMPOSITE PICTURE of the varied activities of Service Club No. 5 in the Harmony Church area is presented to Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, retiring commander of the post. Occasion for the presentation was a farewell dinner for the general with commanding officers of regiments in the Harmony Church area paying tribute. Reading from left to right are: Miss Bernice Smith, director of the club; General Fulton, 1st Lieut. Robert C. Long, assistant special service officer at the club; Miss Louise Harris, cafeteria hostess, and Mrs. Hazel Reed, librarian, who presented the picture. (U. S. Army Signal Corps photo.)

SINGING THE TE DEUM, climax of a mass for Italian prisoners of war at Fort Benning, on Sunday, Sept. 12, are these men who were captured by American forces in Sicily in late July. The prisoners of war asked their chaplain, the Rev. Roderick MacEachern, to perform the mass for them in thanksgiving for the peace between America and Italy. (U. S. Army Signal Corps photo.)

Parachute Paragraphs

PVT. FOUNTAIN MEADOWS

THE HOME OF THE PARACHUTE SCHOOL'S INSTRUCTORS, THE FIRST ACADEMIC COMPANY, was the scene of much good time and cheer last Saturday afternoon. Free Ballantines was available to all the guests as well as pans full of Sgt. Eddie Danziger's masterful butter beer rolls and other such items of cuisine as sit well with the amber liquid. All this came off in the elegant Beer Garden of the company which just recently was piece de resistanced with a peach of a fish pond. This fish pond was the brain child of hardworking, energetic Pvt. George Smith. He drew up the plans for it and was assisted in realizing them by Corp. Hann and Pvt. Deaton. It is our pride and joy and really has fish in it.

Everybody was at the get-together—open collars and relaxation were the orders of the day. Colonel Gaither, School Commandant, spoke briefly to the Enlisted Instructors and Officers present, complimenting them on the bang-up job they are doing in putting twice as many men through training as was originally intended with the present school facilities. Lt. Col. James Coutts, assistant commandant, commented casually on the rigours of staying in good physical condition and the party rolled on with some solid and sweet swing graciously contributed to the proceedings by the Lawson Field orchestra led by T-Sgt. Al Sokol. What would the parachutists be without the troop carriers—Dodo Birds doomed never to fly through with the greatest of ease!

WHILE THFRE weren't many ceremonies to worry about, Sgt. Tom (Malfunction) Kerr was on hand with sonorous sayings and such. He presented that scion of scintillating shag and boogy-woogy, St. William PODGURSKI, son of the Detroit PODKURSKIS, Sub, who filled the air with such piano puttering as has not been heard round' here for ever so long. Sgt. Kerr then rendered a few somber readings relating to horse racing which had the crowd on its feet yelling for Seabiscuit—who wasn't there. These affairs are very pleasant and morale-lifting because they are strictly not G. I. and breed greater unity between officers and men.

BETWEEN PARACHUTE JUMPS, a parachutist carries on all the well-known functions of an average soldier. He has to eat and sleep and have records just like anybody else. TO make sure that the food he gets is properly prepared with skill and knowledge the Parachute School recently added a B. and C. unit to its Specialist Schools. This addition is under the supervision of Lieut. W. C. Comeau, who has been fortunate in obtaining the services of S-Sgt. Chas. Sparks from the Post B. and C. School. The student cooks are getting valuable experience of a practical nature in the companies of the Parachute Training Regiments.

An administrative school has also been added to make sure, no doubt, that furloughs are properly made out. This outfit is being supervised by the C. O. of the First Academic Company, Capt. John B. Spitzer. It will teach all Army administrative procedure. Parapencil pushers.

ANYBODY who says parachutists ignore the cultural side should consult Miss Chandler, librarian at the Main Post Library. She will reveal that fully 60 per cent of all unreturned books at her library are held by parachutists. They become so engrossed in their literary lappings they forget even to bring the book back! Seriously, though, we are grateful for the fine collection of reading matter and the very pleasant and cooperative way of the library. We intend to do better and get those books back on time. If this doesn't work we can always resort to push-ups.

Sgt. Chas. (Make the World Safe for Wheaties) Feuereisen on loan to the U. S. Army from the General Mills people, was on display recently in New York taking a well-deserved furlough. While inn the Big City he met an alumnus of the school—a staff sergeant. This sergeant had been overseas, in Africa and Sicily. He had made many combat jumps and suffered wounds. Sgt. Feuereisen questioned him as to the most trying experience of all his time in the service. His startling reply was "The Indian Clubs in a Stage!" GOSH!

POETRY is not something you might immediately connect with the manful maneuvers of parachuting. However, in the next few weeks, as soon as PVT. Louis Martin Courtney, poet laureate of the Parachute School Dispensary, starts callling the Towers by their first names there will be forthcoming a passel of poetism that'll have 'em lined up for miles around to bribe rides on the startling steel structures. Pvt. Courtney will be ably aided in his creative conjurings by Sgts. Boswell, Kerr, Orbach and S-Sgt. Wasnick, who have seen everything when it comes to the Towers.

There was almost an international tug-o-war that, fortunately did not result in any schism between good neighbors at the school during the quoted visit of General Dutra of Brazil. The Rigging Section whose job it is to keep all parachute equipment in perfect condition had made a special souvenir packet for the general. It was to be presented to him when he went through the Rigging Section. Sgt. Chas. Doerwald, in some way was handed the packet — but not the important item that it was to be presented to General Dutra. As expected, General Dutra inspected the rigging outfit. He had been told of the presentation and, of course, stopped at Sgt. Doerwald's place and held out his hand. Naturally, Sgt. Doerwald handed him the packet but only with the thought that it would be handed right back to him. He did not fully release the souvenir. When General Dutra grasped the present for a moment it looked like trouble but wide-eyed, Sgt. Doerwald saw a signal from an informed colleague and the packet was presented with assurance and aplomb, Viva Dutra! Viva Doerwald!

NEXT WEEK — EAST LYNNE AT 1200 FEET. OR HE WAS ONLY A BIRD IN A GILDED PARACHUTE?

WAC's Celebrate Group Birthday

Pink asters and tuberoses decorated the birthday table, and pink candles the birthday cake in celebration of birthdays in August and September among members of the WAC Detachment, Station Complement, Fort Benning last week.

Lt. Gail Gaines, retiring commanding officer cut the cake for the honorees and those enjoying this special occasion were Second Lt. Avenail Stephenson, T-5's Bertha Godby, Pearl Short, Violet Solasz, Bessie Levin, Arline Hussey, and Mary Blomquist; Pfcs. Ann Zatizalo, Louis Simms and Rose Hart, and T-4 Josephine Rembisz.

Besides the birthday guests seated at this table were special guests for the farewell luncheon given Lieutenant Gaines on the eve of her departure for Washington. They were First Lt. Joyce E. Huff and Second Lt. Eleanor P. Abbott, of the WAC Detachment, Infantry School, and Myrtle M. Joines.

WAC-tions

By MYRTLE M. JOINES

Two of the most thrilled sergeants at Fort Benning Sunday were Sgt. Mary E. East, and Sgt. Mariam M. Myers of the WAC Detachment, Station Complement who had the honor of presenting Miss Alice Mary Marble and Miss Hardwick with their red and white corsages just before the tennis matches.

* * *

The 24 WACs who were included in the special invitation to the party given them by the 515th Parachute Infantry in the Alabama area report one of the best parties since being on the post.

* * *

From "Castles in the Air" to K.P. is the road Louise Martin Lade traveled the day after returning to the WAC Detachment after honey-mooning at Pine Mountain.

* * *

Sgt. Mary S. East is that proud of her platoon as they won the prize for the best platoon at Saturday's formal inspection.

* * *

This is the true story of an aunt and a niece. 2nd Lieut. Ibbie Jones, Mess officer at WAC Detachment, Station Complement and 2nd Lieut. Juanita E. Johnston, assistant special service officer for Lawson Field, 772nd Post Detachment. Lieut. Jones is the aunt, her mother being the elder sister of Lt. Johnston and even during Lieut. Johnston's college days at Auburn, Lieut. Jones her aunt was Dietician at the Institute, so it is but natural that they should spend their army days together—at least on the same post if not in the same outfit.

Colonel Spann Named ASTP Center Chief

Officer Succeeds Col. Tupper Who Continues As Student Brigade CO

The appointment of Col. Wilson McK. Spann as commanding officer of the ASTP Basic Training Center of the Infantry School was announced last Thursday. Col. Spann, former executive officer of the center, succeeds Col. Sevier R. Tupper who held the command jointly with that of the Student Training Brigade.

Col. Tupper remains as commanding officer of the brigade and co-ordinator of all activities in the Harmony Church area which will ainclude those of the Basic Training Center.

Succeeding Col. Spann as executive officer of the Student Training Brigade will be Lt. Col. John G. Hardy who comes up from the Third Student Training Regiment. Maj. Jerome Taylor will succeed Col. Hardy as executive officer of the Third Regiment.

Col. Spann, a native of Suter, S. C., was graduated from The Citadel in 1916 and commissioned a second lieutenant. He saw service in France with the 16th Infantry and in Hawaii with the 35th Infantry. He is a graduate of the Advanced Officers, and Battalion Commanders of Staff Officers courses of the Infantry School.

In October 1942, he received his colonelcy and was assigned to the Infantry School, coming here from an assignment with the 123rd Infantry. He had previously served as a ninstructor in the Weapons Section of the Infantry School from 1920 to 1923.

SICILY.—The "Sgt. York" of World War II is Sgt. Floyd Cravath, 22-year-old Bayside, L. I., resident, who captured 114 Italians in Sicily with a bullet jammed in the chamber of his rifle.

Order Your Coal Early
A Full Ton of Satisfaction
Martin Bros. Coal Co.
29th St. & 4 th Ave. Dial 2-4221

Send Your Portrait So they may see you every day
Proofs for Your Inspection Before You Buy.
Our Price Within the Reach of All.
AIM'E DUPONT
Of Fifth Ave.
MILITARY STUDIOS
1219½ Broadway Tel. 3-1505
Columbus, Ga.
Open 1 to 9:30 P. M.: Sunday 2 to 6 P. M., E. W. T.

RECAPPING — VULCANIZING
We cater to Ft. Benning Personnel
GASOLINE DELIVERY HOURS
10 A M.. to 10 P. M., CWT
THIGPEN
TIRE RECAPPING SERVICE
SHELL STATION PHENIX CITY
1201 - 13TH ST. FIVE POINTS

Saks Fifth Avenue
NEW YORK
Announces
a Fall and Winter Showing of SPORTSWEAR
SIZES 15-20
Debutante and Junior Apparel
DRESSES, COATS, SUITS
Sizes 12 to 20 — 9 to 17
Clothes for Boys and Girls
TODDLERS TO 6
BOYS and GIRLS THRU 'TEEN AGE
THURSDAY and FRIDAY—9 a.m. to 6 p.m.
SATURDAY——9 a.m. to 12 noon
SEPTEMBER 16, 17, and 18
HOTEL RALSTON
Columbus, Georgia

Highest Cash Prices For Used Cars
PHILLIPS MOTOR CO.
PHONE 3-6553
1419 1st STREET

PHOTO FANS
For Better Snap-Shots
Have Your Film
Developed at
Parkman Photo Service
1121½ Broadway Dial 6451
Free Enlargement Given Each Day.
24 - HOUR SERVICE

WADSWORTH
Blue Print Company
Have Copies of Your Marriage License, Power - of - Attorney and Similar Documents Made by Us. Architects and Engineers Supplies.
1231 - 6th Ave.
Phone 2-2381

Levy-Morton Co.
Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps
REPAIRS — DIAL 3-6391
1028—13th STREET

DIRK KNIVES for SOLDIER BOYS
Hand-made from J. B. Henry Disston Steel
by J. B. Henry
In Stock – $3.50
BENTLEY'S SPORT SHOP
1303 - 1305 BROADWAY

Visit . . .
SOUTHERN MANOR
FOR THE BEST ENTERTAINMENT
with the Stars That Fall on Alabama
JIMMY THOMAS
MASTER OF CEREMONIES AND SINGER
GRACE ROSS
ACROBATIC DANCER
ADALADE LAMAR
TAP DANCER
MARIA ZARLINGTON
TAP DANCER and SPANISH JUGGLER
BUDDY HOPP
DANCE ORCHESTRA
TEA DANCE
SUNDAY AFTERNOON
4:30 to 6:30
No Cover Charge
No Minimum Charge
ENJOY FAMOUS SOUTHERN MANOR STEAK AND CHICKEN
Southern Manor
Presenting New York's Radio and Night Club Entertainers
DINE & DANCE — TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY
At Junction of Opelika and Montgomery Highway

Truck Unit Makes Changes In Its Routine

Captain George S. Williamson, adjutant of the Truck Regiment, the Infantry School, has introduced several changes in the daily routine and operation of the Regimental Headquarters personnel.

Clerks, specialists in various phases of army administration, work in sections under competent leaders and, unlike many other setups, have specific duties assigned to them based upon their particular ability and qualifications, rather than handling the many types of paper work that is incidental to the records of the army.

The Message Center, through which incoming and outgoing material is recorded and routed properly, is managed by Corporal John J. McKim, of Columbia, South Carolina, who has as an assistant Pfc. Larry Reid, of Montclair, New Jersey, and who also is the mimeograph operator.

The all important "pay" section has for its section leader, Sgt. Toussant Hundley and as clerks Corporals Richard Perry, Ransom Persons, John Cowan, Vernon Cowart, Albert Long. These men prepare payrolls for all enlisted men in the regiment.

Keeping service records of this large organization up to date is the duty of Section Leader Calvin Frith. Corporal Warren Smyre and Privates First Class Henry Dean and Kermit Wilkins.

Corporal William Hopson handles the morning reports, assisted by Corporal Walter Brown, and Pfc. Herbert Turk—the latter also being the Locator Card clerk.

Corporal Robert Morris is in charge of the Classification Section while Corporal Jesse Hare is responsible for the filing of all material.

COURT STENOGRAPHER

The task of attending all Regimental Courts-Martial, transcribing the happenings as they occur and later typing them in their final form is the assignment given to Corporal Herbert Brown.

Working alongside of the Regimental Motor Officer, Private Ernest Edmondson serves as the Motor Clerk and knows the daily status of the many vehicles within the organization.

Corporal Abner Jay contributes greatly to the morale of the men in his capacity of Furlough clerk. Sergeant Francis Quigley, Acting Regimental Sergeant Major, and Technical Sergeant Whitney Meyers, Personnel Sergeant Major, keep an overall check on the above-mentioned clerks and they, in turn, are accountable to Captain Williamson, the Regimental Adjutant and to Chief Warrant Officer George Goldsmith, the Personnel Officer.

The lone civilian employee, working in Regimental Headquarters, is Miss Mabel Fuller, who serves as the Commanding Officer's stenographer and Special Order typist.

An interesting innovation of the headquarters administration is the Morning Report League—the periodic summary of errors made by companies and detachments on their daily record of personnel. As a continuallY increasing number of good reports go forward on the efficiency of the Regimental Headquarters personnel, Colonel Frank J. Vida, the Regimental Commander, can feel fairly certain that this is but one example of the fine work being performed daily by the units of his command.

West Point Hockey Star Studies Here

One of the prominent West Point athletes now attending the Officers Basic Course at The Infantry School is Second Lieutenant William J. Rey, whose speed on the ice won him fame as one of Army's star hockey players.

After a successful season as center on the plebe team in 1941, he played center on the varsity in all its 1942 and '43 engagements and won his letter in hockey. He also served as captain of the team in 1943.

Playing just as brilliantly and intensively as he prepared for the much harder game ahead, Lieutenant Ivan is a member of the 11th Company 1st Student Training Regiment. He's from Wellesley Hills, just outside Boston, Mass.

With Civilians

Mary Hundertmark can settle down to work again for hed daddy, Master Sergeant H. W. Huhdertmark, has finally arrived home. Her mother received a telegram announcing his arrival in America last week but the sergeant stopped over in Baltimore to visit his daughter, Sister Monica, R. S. M., at Convent of Mother of St. Agnes, and in Atlanta to visit another daughter, Cadet Nurse Helen, at St. Joseph Infirmary. Finally reaching Columbus this week end, Mary is that delighted to have him for a few weeks visit.

Sergeant Hundertmark was stationed at Fort Benning with an Ordnance Company for 16 years before leaving in 1941 for overseas duty. His family is living in Benning Park and will remain there until he is permanently returned to America. Mary, as you know, is in the Billeting Office at Post Headquarters.

* * *

Civilian personnel girls are getting all rested for a hard winter's work. This week finds Ellen Holland in Charleston, S. C.; Mary Summerford and Carolyn Vaughn at Daytona Beach, Fla.; Eugenia Copeland in New Orleans, La.; Ethel Land in Panama City; Bessie Parker chose about the best the best place for a good vacation one can find—home. Nice place to be, I can tell you.

* * *

Josephine Haggard, secretary to General Walter S. Fulton, at headquarters, spent a few days in Pinehurst, N. C., with her sister and brother, Captain and Mrs. F. M. Schauer, aand baby. She visited Camp McCall expecting to say hello to Colonel Orsinger—and believe it or not, he was at Fort Benning that same day and came to say hello to her. So they both missed each other.

* * *

Two vacationists in the Ordnance Branch are Louise Allen, who has gone to Detroit and will detour around to Marion, Ky., and Dorothy Vannatter, who is seeing the sights of Los Angeles.

* * *

The civilians in the office at the Ordnance Branch gave Mary Tracy (Mrs. 'Corporal' William Tracy) a baby shower at the home of Mrs. Eron Buchanon.

* * *

Sgt. and Mrs. C. H. Truen were hosts to all his girls in the Purchasing and Contracting Division, Quartermaster Corps, Saturday night of this week, at their home in Columbus.

Tom Harmon of the University of Michigan, scored more touchdowns than any other big time college football back.

THERE'S THRILLING ACTION in "The Cat and the Canary," the All-Benning production of the famous mystery comedy which is being produced tonight and tomorrow night by the Columbus Civic Theater at Chase Playhouse in the city. In the top scene, Lieut. Howard Hill (bottom) and Lieut. A. L. Hart, Jr., grapple for a gun as terrified Terry Ryder, wife of a TIS sergeant, looks on unaware of the menace of "The Cat" behind her. "The Cat" is also a well-known Benning soldier but you've got to see the play to find out his identity. In the bottom scene, Mrs. Ryder (Annabelle) is carried into a room by Lieut. Hart (Paul) after she has fainted from shock of being surprised by "The Cat." Sgt. Owen J. Remington (Roger Crosby) and Bonnie Beardsley (Sicily Young), wife of a paratroop officer, look on at the left. Special soldier admission prices of twenty-five cents will be charged for the performances which begin at 9 o'clock Benning time both nights. (Signal Lab Photos by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.

Col. Roosma Discusses Oahu

Oahu, key island in the strategic Hawaiian group, was the subject of a talk delivered by Colonel John S. Roosma, Commanding Officer of the 1st Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School, to officers of his command. Six large maps of the island, on the shores of which powerful Pearl Harbor is located, were especially prepared under the direction of the regiment's Public Relations Officer and made Colonel Roosma's highly interesting lecture seem as alive as a personally conducted tour of the stronghold.

CLIMATE IMPORTANT

Its climate provides the key to Oahu's economic importance in the war effort, the Colonel pointed out. Although it is in the tropics, trade winds that blow nine months out of the year keep the heat from becoming enervating. Up in the mountains, the air is invigorating and the summers are usually cooler than in the northeastern United States. Moderate temperature and a freedom from severe storms and cyclones partly explain the island's great productivity.

Heavy rainfall insures bumper sugar-cane and ipneapple crops, Oahu's leading products, Colonel Roosma explained. Rubber plantations, which farsighted growers successfully established a few years before the war, have greatly increased their output since East Indies sources of latex were seized by the Jap. Since practically all of the island's production is exported to continental United States, its contribution to our wartime economy is far greater than Oahu's small size—only 604 square miles—would indicate.

TWO-THIRDS JAPS

Before Pearl Harbor, nearly two-thirds of the island's population of, 400,000 were of Jap origin, some 150,000 having been born in Japan itself. Many aliens have since been evacuated to the United States and sent to the interior. But the thousands of loyal Japanese Americans who remain are willing workers and do more than their part in planting and harvesting the island's war-important crops.

Colonel Roosma's intimate acquaintance with Oahu stems from two years service with the 21st Infantry while it was stationed on the island. Commanding that regiment's 2nd Battalion when the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor, he became Executive Officer of the 21st and supervised conversion of Oahu's defenses to a wartime basis. Transferred to Fort Benning, he assumed command initially of the 3rd aBttalion and later of the entire 1st Student Training Regiment.

Benning Soldier Receives Letter 15 Feet Long

It took 15 feet of paper—180 inches—for a lonesome Pennsylvania farmerette to tell her husband, a soldier at Fort Benning, news about 1,000 chickens, eggs from 500 hens, wheat to be cut and threshed from acres and acres of Pennsylvania farmland, with cows to be milked, butter to be made, and all the other thousands-and-one-odd-jobs about a well-kept farm.

Cpl. James Bentzel, in charge of transportation, at Station Hospital Unit No. 2, Harmony Church Area, is the lucky soldier-husband of Mrs. Dorothy Bentzel, of York, Pa.

He answered the letter with its multitude of questions his wife asked. He described life in the Army, and at Benning, how he spends his leisure time, and how he misses her. It took 47 pages of ordinary writing paper to hold all these answers.

Pointer Socker Ace Attends Infantry School

Before he graduated from West Point and came to The Infantry School for realistic training that's just one step short of actual battle, 2nd Lieutenant Karl E. Wolf kicked a mean soccer ball that frequently made sport headlines. Now he's attending the Officers Basic Course at Fort Benning as a member of the 11th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, under the command of Colonel John S. Roosma.

As a cadet, Wolf played center forward on the West Point soccer team in 1940, 1941 and 1942. He won the varsity letter for '41 and '42 and didn't miss a soccer game either of those years. In 1941 his team was tied for the national collegiate championship. That season he helped break Penn State's nine-year winning streak and beat Navy's soccer team 5 to 3. Wolf was high scorer on the cadet team for two years.

His boundless energy led him to activity in other sports as well during these years. He played right forward on Army's basketball quintet in 1940 and '41, and center fielded in baseball the next year.

Lieutenant Wolf hails from Wethersfield, Conn.

PRO Lt. Tukey Gets Promotion

Second Lieut. Richard E. Tukey, assistant public relations officer at post headquarters has been promoted to first lieutenant.

Lieut. Tukey formerly was in the New York bureau of International News Service and, previous to coming into federal service in 1941, was on the news staff of the White Plains (N. Y.) Daily Reporter. He was inducted into the Army Feb. 10, 1941, with the 207th Coast Guard Artillery (AA), the old Seventh Regiment of the New York National Guard.

Later he was transferred to the Public Relations Divsion of First Army for the 1941 maneuvers. Lieut. Tukey then was assigned to the Public Relations Section, Eastern Defense Command and First Army. While in the latter assignment Lieut. Tukey was a technical sergeant in the press and photo section.

He was commissioned a second lieutenant August 29 last year, after completing the officer candidate course at The Infantry School. He was appointed to the school by the War Department Bureau of Public Relations.

Upon receiving his commission, he was assigned to the Bureau of Public Relations in Washington, D. C. until his assignment to Benning in October last year.

The Citadel at Quebec has been called "the Gibraltar of America."

Lucky 7th Is Buying Bonds

Division Sets Goal Of $150,000 In Drive

Soldiers of the Seventh Armored Division are going "over the top" to back the attack with $150,000 worth of war bonds and stamps as their goal in the Third War Loan Drive, Lt. Col. James G. De LaVargne, division war bond officer announced.

The war bond officer and his assistant, Sgt. Earl Redmond, have drawn up a plan for "invasion" of every wallet in the "Lucky 7th" by driving home the fact that bond and stamp purchases will not only help shorten the road to peace, but will also insure a [illegible], stable postwar America for all.

At a war bond meeting of 200 bond officers and enlisted men, representing every unit in the division, Chaplain De La Vargne stressed the fact that every soldier in the 7th will be "covered" by the plan. This is being accomplished by having each of the 200 officers and non-coms interview 15 men daily during the drive.

Also stressed at the meeting was the promise that buyers will receive their bonds on the day of purchase or the following day. There will be no delay in delivery after the sales are made.

Last year war bond sales averaged $90,000 worth monthly, according to the chief war bond officer.

Incentive for soldiers to dress up and be neat is provided at Drew Field, Fla., where a WAC patrols the field looking for a tidy GI. Upon finding him, she obtains his name and turns it in for a pair of free movie tickets and an interview in the newspaper.

Before the war Japan was the world's largest producer of agar.

Yanks, Germans Make Own Armistice Terms in Sicily

This is the story of an American - German armistice negotiated in an Italian villa during the battle for Sicily. It is contained in a letter to Lt Irving Campbell of the 6th Basic Training Regiment of The Infantry School and was written by Lt. Fred Thomas, who was a party to the armistice.

Lt. Thomas, who was graduated from Officer Candidate School here, also received his parachute training at the post. He was with the American Parstroops during the invasion of Sicily.

On the night of the invasion, Lt. Thomas and 17 others were dropped a considerable distance from their objective. They fought their way through 50 miles of enemy territory toward the American lines. Two miles short of their goal, they were captured by the crews of two German Mark VI tanks.

The Germans had with them, two wounded Yanks and a badly wounded German. The German appeared to be highly regarded by his mates so much so that they offered to free the Americans if the Americans, in return, would procure medical aid for their comrade.

The Americans agreed and Lt. Thomas started for the ical aid. He located a medical sergeant, cornered a jeep and returned to the villa where the Germans and Americans were awaiting his return. There he found all of them enjoying chow served with Italian wine.

After the sergeant had patched up the wounded, the Americans started to leave, only to discover that the Germans had returned to their tank and had their guns trained on the villa. The Germans explained that the Americans were free to go but they must promise to take good care of their German comrade. They added that once the Americans had reached their lines, the armistice was over and it would be a total 'war' if they ever met again.

The Germans added they intended to blow up their tanks and attempt to escape.

That's the story of an armistice in Sicily.

Sept. Hit Kit To Feature Soldiers' Scores

From Lt. Colonel Charles C. Finnegan's Post Special Service Office, comes the word that the September issue of "Hit Kits" to be released shortly, will consist entirely of music and lyrics composed by members of the Armed Forces.

The selections to be included in this novel G. I. edition of the "Hit Kits" will be hand picked by a committee of nationally known musicians and orchestra leaders among the most noted are: Kay Kyser, Tommy Dorsey and Benny Goodman. Musical numbers will be selected on the basis of their appeal to service men.

Bands and dance orchestras may obtain full orchestrations of these selections as well as others, that have appeared in previous issues of the "Hit Kits" by contacting the Post Special Service Office.

USO To Show Prize Movie

Under the auspices of the 9th street USO, Chaplain Anthony F. Czubak of the 176th Infantry will present a motion picture, "The Eternal Gift" in the center of the Spirit cuartel next Monday night, September 20 at 8:45.

The motion picture took two years to complete and has in its cast 35 leading members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, 125 choristers, 50 Georgian chanters, and 1,500 extras. This spectacle and powerful influence toward tolerance and understanding is narrated by Monsignor Fulton Sheen.

Heir-Raid

COMPILED BY CPL. B. KNAUB

31 Aug.-6 Sept. '43

Pfc. and Mrs. Olen Putnam, Hq. Det., Sec. 1, boy, 31 Aug.

Pvt. and Mrs. Beenie Bodiford, Co. B, 11th Engrs., girl, 31 Aug.

Sgt. and Mrs. Richard R. Richards, Co. F, Acad. Regt., ISSC, girl, 1 Sept.

W. O. and Mrs. Isidor Amster, Hq. Basic Trg. Center ASTP, girl, 1 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Lee M. Paschall, Com. Sect., Acad. Dept., girl, 1 Sept.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Arnold Acklinson, Co. M, 3d Bn., 300th Inf. boy, 1 Sept.

Sgt. and Mrs. Orivill Vanderpool, 54th Air Base Squadron, boy, 2 Sept.

Sgt. and Mrs. Hurbert F. Mals, 489th F. A. 7th Armd. Div., boy, 2 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Frederick Krause, Acad. Dept., ISSC, boy, 2 Sept.

T-Sgt. and Mrs. Joe F. Reaves, O. M. C. Det., boy, 3 Sept.

T-Sgt. and Mrs. Lushus H. Priest, Co. D, Acad Regt., girl, 4 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Leonard Molendyke, Weapon Dept., Acad. Regt., boy, 4 Sept.

1st Sgt. and Mrs. Harold Smith, 2nd Co., 1st STR, girl, 4 Sept.

Capt. and Mrs. Paul E. Linn, 2nd Co., 1st STR, boy, 4 Sept.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Hal I. Hart, 10th Co., 5th Trng. Regt., ASTP, girl, 4 Sept.

Sgt. and Mrs. Samuel P. Steel, 10th Co., 5th Trng. Regt., ASTP, boy, 4 Sept.

Capt. and Mrs. Paul E. Morin, 7th Co., 1st STR, boy, 5 Sept.

Major and Mrs. E. Huttebold, Weapons Sect., TIS, boy, 6 Sept.

Cpl. John A. Cuzen, Hq. and Hq. Co., 3rd STR, girl, 6 Sept.

6-13 Sept. '43

1st Lt. and Mrs. Wilfred B. Bendell, 17th Co., 1st STR, boy, 6 Sept.

1st Sgt. and Mrs. Fredrick McNiel, Co. "D," 76th Inf., boy, 6 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. William McConnell, 2d Bn., 1st STR, boy, 7 Sept.

Col. and Mrs. Edward Chazal, Inf. Board, boy, 7 Sept.

2d Lt. and Mrs. Donald S. Myers, Co. "F," 124th Inf., boy, 9 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Berthold W. Broemel, Post Quartermaster, boy, 9 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Richard Purinton, 9th Co., 54th Trng Regt, ASTP, boy, 10 Sept.

Pvt. and Mrs. Randell Lindsey, Co. "F," Acad Regt, ISSC, girl, 10 Sept.

Sgt. and Mrs. Sidney Kirk, Hq. Det., Sec. 1, 4th SC, MP Sec., boy, 11 Sept.

M-Sgt. and Mrs. Wm. C. Thompson, Det. MD, Sta. Hosp., girl, 11 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Richard L. Hennessy, Co. "B," 55th Armd. Engr. Bn., girl, 12 Sept.

Maj. and Mrs. William Corbett, Acad. Dept., TIS, boy, 12 Sept.

Capt. and Mrs. Fredrick R. Lamuth, Hq. & Hq. Co., 322nd Engr. Regt., boy, 13 Sept.

6th Regiment Wives Organize

The first organization meeting of the wives of 6th Training Regiment officers was held last week at the Sand Hill Officers Mess. Luncheon was followed by a business meeting and later a bridge party.

Mrs. Robert Sharp presided and as a result of the meeting announced that the organization would meet on the first Thursday of each month at the Officers Club on the main post. She also announced that Thursday mornings would hereafter be "Sixth Regiment Day" at the Fort Benning Work Room of the Red Cross where the members will busy themselves making surgical bandages and performing other vital Red Cross tasks.

There were 59 ladies present at last week's meeting and the guest of honor was Mrs. Wilson M. Spann, wife of the commanding officer of the ASTP Basic Training Center of which the 6th Regiment is a part.

SORRY, NO SOAP

The commanding officer of one of the Infantry School units recently received the following telegram: HAVING A SWELL TIME STOP WOULD LIKE TEN DAY FURLOUGH EXTENSION. The CO promptly wired in return: HAVING SWELL TIME TOO STOP EXTENSION DENIED.

Personalized
CHRISTMAS CARDS
WITH YOUR NAME ON IT
ORDER YOURS EARLY THIS YEAR
WHITE'S BOOK STORE
1211 Broadway Dial 7701

DAY'S TAXI CO.
1401 1ST AVE.
DIAL 3-3611

PAT PATTERSON
44th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED CHICKEN IN THIS TOWN
No. 1 KANSAS CITY STEAKS THAT'S REALLY TENDER
CAT FISH DINNERS GA. STYLE
COME OUT ON THE NORTH HIGELAND BUS
BRING THE FAMILY TONIGHT!
Try Our Sea Food Course — & Private Dining Rooms

JUST ARRIVED!
A complete new stock of cars, Buicks, Pontiacs, Mercurys, Fords, Chevrolets. Most of these are in '40 and '41 models. We have two or three older models at give awey prices.
Trade now for a good, clean used car, with good tires and lots of extras
AT JORDAN AND HOLMES
"Trade With the Boys"
OPEN UNTIL 9 P. M., C. W. T.
JORDAN & HOLMES MOTOR CO.
17th and 3rd Avenue Dial 8931

DOG & CAT HOSPITAL
Complete Hospital Service
Bathing and Grooming
DR. E. A. DAVIS
1006 - 13th St. Dial 8871

UPHOLSTERING and REPAIRING
KURT LOEB
518—12th St. Dial 3-4281

FURS
Warmth, Wear, Duration, Quality
See this SABLE DYE MUSKRAT worked so the natural markings of each skin are retained in shadowy loveliness. A magnificent fur—at a very modest price — *$249.50 - $295
*Does not include tax.
- Also -
Many other fur "INVESTMENT VALUES" styled and priced to suit your individual tastes.
Kayser-Lilienthal Inc
"The Shop of Original Styles"

Protect Your Clothes Have Them
MONITE
PHILLIPS DRY CLEANING CO.
DIAL 2-4466
2312 Wynnton Rd.

Attention!
Officer Candidates

SEE OUR DISPLAY AT
FORT BENNING
or visit our store for complete
- UNIFORMS
- CAPS—INSIGNIA
- TIES—SLACKS
- SHIRTS
- MILITARY SUPPLIES
- TRENCH COATS
- LUGGAGE
We guarantee 100 per cent delivery of all goods purchased.
We deliver 1 week prior to graduation.
Open Saturday 'Til 10:30 P. M.
Open week days 'til 8:30 P. M.
Fort Benning Time
LEVINSON BROS.
1220 BROADWAY DIAL 3-3051

Jap Radio Packs Wallop For Boys In Alaska, Returned Sergeant Says

Blows Aimed At Morale Really Help

S. Sgt. Herbert E. Berner, at present with the Casual company at Fort Benning, was stationed in Alaska for 11 months and never once saw an igloo.

He stated yesterday that rather than houses made of ice, the Alaskans had modern homes with refrigerators, electric lights, ranges, washing machines, mangles, mixmasters and a great many other conveniences.

Sergeant Berner is 33 years old and originally from St. Louis, Mo. In civilian life he was a private investigator, and after arriving in Alaska on May 21, 1942, the army placed him in the intelligence service.

While relating some of his experiences in the Far North, Sergeant Berner said that on their first arrival the soldiers worked 24 hours a day to build their post. The recreation building was made from piling wood the men had salvaged along the beach. This served as a church, theater and sports arena.

BUILD TINY STATION

He said the only radios they had were small ones until the post commander and special service officer arranged to have a little radio station. This was made by the men out of wire, tin, plywood and scraps. It was a two and one-half watt station and at times the soldiers would have to hold it together with their hands until it worked.

The station, however, picked up broadcasts from Tokyo, Sergeant Berner said, and these were found to be extremely amusing by the men in service.

A Japanese woman who spoke perfect English was the cause of a great deal of laughter. Instead of breaking down the soldier's morale, as she anticipated, she boosted it, the sergeant said.

One story she told over the ether was that the United States was so hard up for scrap iron they had to tear down the Sixth avenue elevated in New York City. (this was torn down long before the declaration of war.)

SERGEANT BERNER
Didn't See An Igloo

She also warned that the 4-F's in this country were stealing all wives and sweethearts of the servicemen.

SEE THE STARS

Musicians and several orchestras also supplied entertainment over the small radio station. Such stars as Bob Hope, Jerry Colonna and Marjorie Reynolds traveled to the post and put on wonderful shows.

"We'd broadcast any kind of an announcement," he added, "even if it was to locate a lost pocket knife, or call for a jeep."

Another form of recreation enjoyed by the soldiers, the sergeant said, was to listen to records donated by the chaplain of the post.

"Our station was in an old shack with a stove in the middle of the floor, and the records were filed in an old box which was thrown under the bed. When we wanted to use the records we dusted them off with a shoe brush."

The clothes worn by the Alaskans were mostly derived from mail order catalogues. They were extremely hospitable people and treated the soldiers with rare dishes of food such as roast porcupines, seal liver, sourdough hotcakes, seagull eggs and jelly made from salmon and moss berries.

RAINY AND COLD

The weather in Alaska was continually cold, rainy and foggy, with constant winds, Sergeant Berner recalled. "When we wanted to see a picture show, we would have to stand in line for hours in 13 below zero weather."

He continued that it wasn't unusual to see a man walking around with five or six thousand dollars in his pocket in Alaska during the fishing season. Some of the women make as high as $1,800 in six weeks and the fishermen make a great deal more than that.

"With so much money in their pockets, they invest an enormous amount in War Bonds. They are also very active in the scrap drives, just as we are here in the States."

The Alaskan feeling against the Japs, he said, is perhaps stronger than ours because they have had so much trouble with them in the past over fishing rights. The Alaskan soldiers is a natural born scout and a sturdy sharpshooter. He is at home on boat or on the trail.

"There used to be an old man near our camp," he related, "who was called 'Chris the Whaler.' No one there ever knew him by any other name. Even his social security card was made out bearing since that time.

"He turned this over to the army and it proved to be of inestimable value to them. This is just one instance of how our Alasgan brothers are aiding the army," Sergeant Berner concluded.

'Goldbricks' Far Fewer Than in 1918

Psychiatrists Try to Weed Out Mental Cases, Cure Habit in Others

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 — In the armed forces of this war, there is a better understanding of the malingerer—the man who feigns disability to avoid military duty—than during the last war.

As a result, military psychiatrists say, fewer malingerers are being classified this time as genuine "goldbricks," or outright liars.

In the last war, says Col. Roy D. Halloran, chief of the neuropsychiatric branch of the army surgeon general's office, most men who fc'.ned illness or injury were labeled as pure, unadulterated fibbers—and put in the ranks anyway.

Now, he says, psychiatrists generally hold to the concept that most malingerers can be classed as mentally sick men ,whose lying is simply a symptom of an unstable personality—and efforts are made to eliminate them from the service either at induction centers or as soon as possible after they enter military life.

SOME 'GOLDBRICKS'

This concept, he said, did not spring up over night. It had a limited acceptance during the first world war. But he said that during the last 25 years it became more generally accepted and applied by psychiatrists as a result of evidence obtained in many cases where civilians feigned illness to get out of difficulties.

But there still are genuine "goldbricks" in the armed forces, he said—men whose lying is not the result of a mental quirk, but rather of laziness, ignorance, homesickness, apathy about the seriousness of war, or a temporary state of fear.

"But their number is almost negligible," he said. "Moreover, some of them can be made into first-class soldiers as a result of heart-to-heart talks with doctors or unit commanders—or the threat of disciplinary action. There are relatively few outright ornery ones who have to be discharged."

LOW IN NAVY, TOO

Navy psychiatrists say the number of true malingerers in that service is also low.

Both ar... and l... doctors declare that in addition to the process of eliminating the psychopathic malingerers, there is another factor that has tended to keep the number of fakers low in both branches of the service.

Potential dodgers ,they contend, apparently have come to realize that examining doctors have ways of finding out trickery. X-ray, the principles of anatomy, a knowledge of the true symptoms of diseases, and a few tricks not found in the medical books—all these are the equipment of the examiner in dealing with the malingerer.

What are some of the "dodges" employed and how do the examiners ferret them out?

Articles appearing recently in the Military Surgeon and the U. S. Naval Medical Bulletin point out some of them.

It is a paradox that while most malingerers are mental misfits, very few of the entire number feign mental illnesses. They try to show leg injuries, back-aches, paralysis, partial or total blindness and deafness.

Some men have been known to inflict wounds on themselves with gun or knife.

Sometimes they consume boxes of cathartics to produce symptoms of dysentery, and at times, men have displayed various bruises as "proof" of shammed epilepsy.

Even when a man is believed to be faking any kind of disability, the examiners give him the benefit of doubt.

"Careful investigation, exercise of psychiatric and psychological judgment must be exerted in all cases," says Major Brussel. "The attitude to be adopted is that the patient is innocent until proved guilty."

A layover at Fort Benning for a few hours gave Private Thomas Buckley an opportunity to visit his brother, Capt. John W. J. Buckley, whom he had not seen in fourteen months.

Private Buckley, member of a Military Police escort company which brought some Italian prisoners of war to the post recently, told his officers he had a brother at the post. Since the group was to leave in a few hours, it called for some hurried work.

Through the cooperation of the Post Public Relations Office and the Infantry School P. R. O., Private Buckley met his brother on Bouton Hill on the reservation where the captain, a member of the advanced officers class, was engaged in a problem.

The captain, a member of the 15th Company, First Student Training Regiment, and private have been separated in service but their meeting here gave them about ten minutes to talk about old times.

When ten minutes were up, the captain had to call the visit short as he had a graded test to face and the private had to rush back to Columbus to meet his outgoing train.

Patients Give Variety Show

"You'll Never Know," as sung by Pvt. Frank Holley, could mean more than just how much "I Love You," to those of you who missed "Harmony Follies," it means you will never know how much fun and entertainment you missed in not being there. This clever "Follies," was written, staged and produced by the patients in Station Hospital Unit No. 2, and ran the gamut of entertainment from hill billy music to clever comedy skits based on the friendship between Hitler and Mussolini.

"Nursie, Nursie," the smash opening skit was one of the hilarious highlights of the evening. Pvt. Felix Strizziere as the nurse with figure "complete" brought joy and consolation, to the patients in her ward.

The receiving ward presided over by "Capt." Pvt. Tom Glawinski disclosed in clever satire the "consideration and courtesy" extended to incoming patients.

The music was good. "I Just Kissed Your Picture Goodnight," as sung by Pvt. George Leventon; "You'll Never Know," by Pvt. Frank Holley, and the "South American Way," danced by the entire ensemble, were numbers not to be easily forgotten.

Special credit for this "Follies" must be given to S. Sgt. Charles Maillet, who originated the ideas for the skits and with Pvt. Charles Nuttall directed and produced the show. Bill A. Tayloe who played for the entire show, Lt. Ben Snipas who staged the dances and Cpl. Maxwell for the lights are deserving of special mention. Property and settings were in the capable hands of Cpl. R. Frailey, Pvt. J. Fernando and Pvt. L. Forness.

Lieut. Llosa Made Captain

First Lt. Salvador Llosa, assistant classification officer at post headquarters, Fort Benning, has been promoted to the rank of captain, according to an announcement made at post headquarters.

Captain Llosa is a veteran of World War I, having enlisted in the old Florida Second National Guard Infantry, later changed to the 124th Infantry and now stationed at Fort Benning. He served 13 months overseas and saw action in the Argonne and Defensive Sector.

In 1929 Captain Llosa accepted a reserve commission and was recalled to active duty in February, 1942, reporting to the Reception Center at Fort Benning where he served as assistant classification officer before coming to post headquarters.

Captain Llosa in civilian life was in the banking business.

John Adams, second U. S. president, was the only president to attain the age of 90.

Colonel Landis Visits Lawson

Colonel Reed G. Landis, recently named commanding officer of the Third Troop Carrier Command with headquarters at Stout Field, Indianapolis, Ind., paid his first visit to Lawson Field, a component of the First TCC, Friday.

Col. Landis' one day visit was for the purpose of making a routine inspection of the local base and troop carrier units stationed at Fort Benning.

He was accompanied by Major Alexander Couch, plans and training officer of the First Troop Carrier Command.

Colonel Landis is the son of Baseball Commissioner Kennesaw Mountain Landis.

It is estimated that 17 million American children have never been to a Sunday school.

GATORS PROMOTED

Promotions affecting the officers of six Gator companies, were announced by Col. John D. Hill, regimental commander. The officers receiving the boosts were First Lt. James E. Manhein (Co. F) to captain, Second Lts. William N. Thomas, Jr., and Thomas J. L. Henson (Cannon Co.), Robert P. Snyder (Headquarers Co., Second Battalion), Thomas R. Potts (Company D), Tom J. Kinney (Company B), and Lewis W. Christie (Company L) to first lieutenants.

PEST CONTROL SERVICE
ROACHES, RATS, BEDBUGS
CREATORS OF EXTERMITATION
ORKIN
EXTERMINATING COMPANY INC.
115—12th ST.
PHONE 6744

Through These Portals...
Pass The Best Soldiers on Earth
P. S. STORES
Just Above The Howard Bus Line
926 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

PIN-UP GIRLS
Are Favorites With the Boys in the Service
BUT PIN-UP BOYS
Are Favorites With the Girls Back Home!

And when you send that Package
Above All
SEND A PICTURE
SPCIAL
9x12 hand painted oil painting. Regular $15.00 value—Now $5.50
Open Every Evening Until 9 P. M., Ft. Benning Time
BON ART STUDIO
5½ 11TH ST. DIAL 2-0571

SALTERS
20c TAXI
CLEAN CARS
COURTEOUS DRIVERS
WHITE PATRONS ONLY
DIAL 5321
1017—1st AVE.

VISIT THE
WONDER BAR and PARADISE CAFE
100-14th Street 213-14th Street in Phenix City
E. V. BOONE, New Manager
MUSIC — DANCING — BEVERAGES

PLAYING AT COLUMBUS THEATRES

—BRADLEY—
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
MICHELE • ALAN MORGAN CURTIS
- in -
"Two Tickets To London".
—SUN. - MON. - TUE.—
BUD • LOU ABBOT • COSTELLO
- in -
"HIT TH ICE"
—WED. AND THURS.—
BARBARA • JOEL STANWYCK McCREA
- in -
"UNION PACIFIC"

—ROYAL—
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
CHESTER • RICHARD MORRIS ARLEN
- in -
"AERIAL GUNNER"
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY—
JOHN • GIG GARFIELD YOUNG
- in -
"AIRFORCE"
—TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY—
Ilona Massey Lon Chaney Bela Lugosi
- in -
"FRANKNESTEIN MEETS THE WOLF MAN"
—THURSDAY ONLY—
Ann Miller Frank Sinatra Bob Crosby
- in -
"Reveille with Beverly"

—RIALTO—
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
Wm. (Bill) BOYD
- in -
"COLD COMRADES"
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY—
DON AMECHE • JACK OAKIE • JANET BLAIR
- in -
"Something to Shout About"
—TUESDAY ONLY—
THE ANDREWS SISTERS
- in -
"HOW'S ABOUT IT?"
—Extra Feature—
"DESERT VICTORY"
—WED. AND THURS.—
JIMMY LYDON
- in -
"Henry Aldrich Swings It"

—SPRINGER—
—TODAY AND FRIDAY—
Fred Waring • Rosemary Lane • Priscilla Lane
- in -
"VARSITY SHOW"
KEN MAYNARD
- in -
"Whirlwind Horseman"
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY—
BETTE DAVIS • PAUL HENREID
- in -
"NOW VOYAGER"
—TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY—
TERESA WRIGHT • JOSEPH COTTEN
"SHADOW OF A DOUBT"

SEARS 57 years of Service to the Nation!
shop at Sears and Save!
YES! YOU CAN MAKE ANY PURCHASE OF $10 OR MORE ON SEARS EASY PAYMENT PLAN

AMERICA'S TOP SWEATER STYLES
June O'Day Sweaters!
Cardigans! Pullovers!

All Wool Cardigan 4.98
Long...Loose...Boxy Cardigans in 100% Virgin Wool. Acclaimed by the sweater crowd as their best buy. Beautifully detailed. Timely tailored. Sizes 32 to 40.
PULLOVER 2.59
Knit of 50% wool and 50% celanese rayon. Becomingly youthful. Ribbon flat-lying neckline. Assorted colors. Sizes 32 to 40.

Bags!
Top Handle and Underarm Styles
All Nicely Fitted 2.98
A new Fall Handbag to add that final touch to your new Fall outfit. Popular shapes and sizes in simulated leather and fabrics.

Womens Rayon Crepe DICKEYS
Pastel Shades and White 98c
Dickeys are still tops for school and business wear. Superbly tailored dressy rayon crepes. Convertible V-neck.

Gay Peracle Prints APRONS
Braid or Ric-Rac Trimmed 49c
Pert little pinafores or coveralls in flower fresh percale prints. Assorted colors. Some with sheer organdy ruffle.
Nu-Back GIRDLE
With Pattented Back
For a Neat and Nimble Figure
2.98
Gives you freedom with a poured-in fit. Won't ride up when you bend. Welboned for effective control. Non-roll top. Sizes 26 to 38.

For FULL FIGURES BRASSIER
Lace Top 1.25
For full figures, a grand brazzier of soft cotton lace and broadcloth. Lastexgores. Wide 5 inch diaphram band. Nude. Sizes 34 to 42.
THE NATIONS BEST BUY
$25 WAR BONDS $18.75
SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.
1225 Broadway Street Floor

Have You Put Every Cent You Can Spare In War Bonds And Stamps?

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 2, NUMBER 2 | Published by The Ledger-Enquirer Co. | FORT BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1943 | For America's Most Complete Post | PRICE FIVE CENTS

Home Grid Opener On October 3

Colonel Meyer Supply Director

Col. Jack L. Meyer, a veteran of 34 years of army service, has assumed his duties as Director of Supply at Fort Benning, succeeding Col. Stephen B. Massey who will retire at the end of the month.

Col. Meyer came to Fort Benning from Washington, D. C., where he had been chief of the Supply Division and liaison officer in the Office of Strategic Services for over a year. He had asked for a return to a regular army unit.

Enlisting on October 12, 1909, he went through the successive grades as an enlisted man in the old Sixth Cavalry. He served on the Mexican border with an Iowa National Guard unit and when America entered the World War in 1917 he was commissioned a captain in the Quartermaster Corps.

SERVED IN FRANCE

He trained the new Motor Supply Train of the 4th Division at Camp Green, N. C., and went to France with this division. After the battle of Chateau-Thierry he was promoted to the rank of major and returned to the States with his outfit in 1919.

On his return he resumed his rank as captain in the regular army and for 10 years was an instructor of the quartermaster regiment of the Nebraska National Guard.

IN PUERTO RICO

He graduated from the Quartermaster School in 1930 and served at Madison Barracks, N. Y., before being sent to Puerto Rico where he served for three years. There he organized a quartermaster corps unit training center, acted as quartermaster of Fort Buchanan in Puerto Rico, and served as QM of the Puerto Rican general depot.

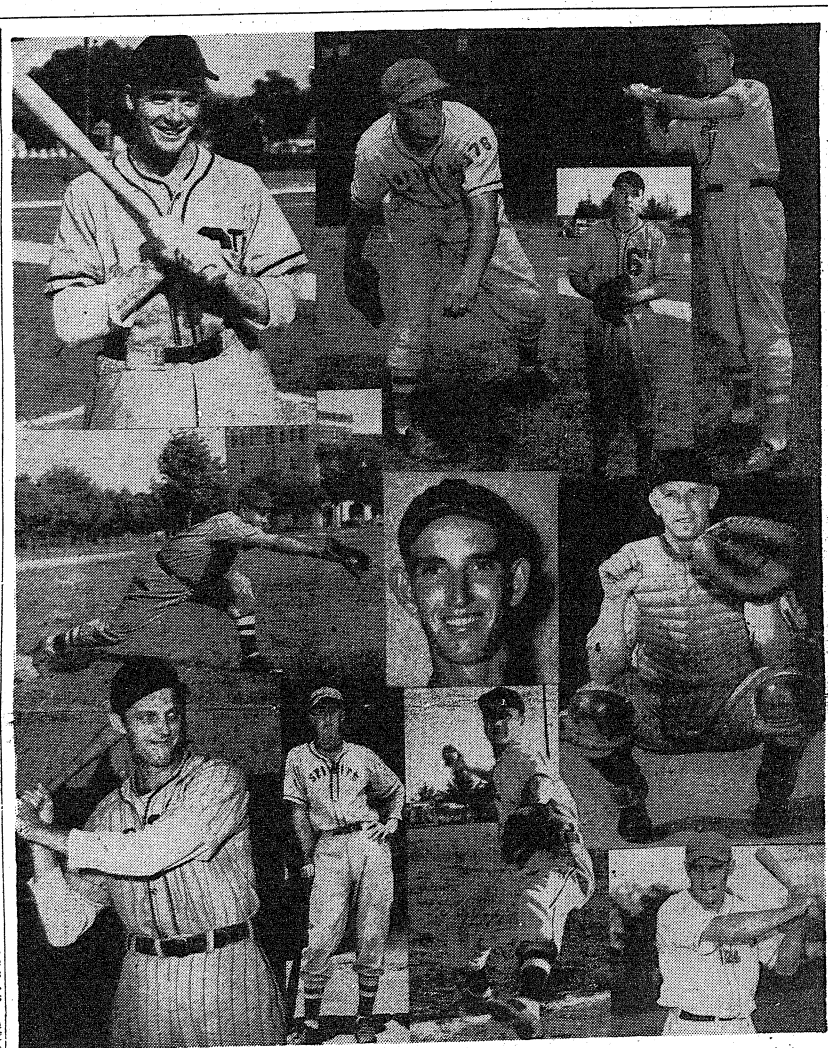
He was promoted to colonel September 28, 1942, while in Puerto Rico and shortly after went to Washington.

Col. Massey plans to leave the end of the month and will reside at his home in San Antonio, Tex.

POST LAWNS MAY NOW BE WATERED

Lawns and gardens on the Fort Benning reservation may be watered each evening between the hours of 6 and 8:30 o'clock, it is announced in the Daily Bulletin, published at post headquarters. The watering of lawns and gardens on the post was indefinitely suspended on August 21. However, Monday's announcement permits the use of water for this purpose for the two-hour-and-a-half period daily until further notice.

Blood Bank Back Soon



Six hundred soldiers and civilians at Fort Benning again will have an opportunity to donate their blood to the Red Cross Mobile Blood Donor Unit when it returns to the post October 13-15, according to Ralph J. Mitchell, field director of the American Red Cross at Fort Benning.

Fort Benning volunteers donated 545 pints of blood when the mobile blood bank visited the post July 14-16, setting a record with an average of 181 pints of blood donated per day, which was the highest average of any community at that time. More than 3,000 soldiers rallied to the call in July, exceeding the quota by more than 2,500.

October 13 and 14 have been set aside for soldiers on the post to donate their blood to the mobile unit, which features the slogan, "Your blood may save your next of kin." The blood will go to the plasma reserves which are destined to give new life to members of the armed forces injured in the course of battle.

Civilians at Fort Benning may donate their blood on October 15. Registration of civilians will be started October 4, at headquarters of the Red Cross at Benning. Quota for civilian donors has been set at 200 persons.

Mrs. Leven C. Allen, chairman of the Fort Benning auxiliary of the Red Cross, will coordinate work of the Motor Corps, the canteen service and clerical help during the registration period and the period when the mobile unit is on the post.

BENNING'S BEST—Here in battle formation are the top eleven ball players at Fort Benning during the 1943 campaign just concluded. At the top from left to right are: Red McClusky, 6th Training Regiment third baseman; Lefty Wissman, 176th Infantry pitcher; Jim Prendergast, 6th Training Regiment pitcher, and Bob Ramazotti, 176th Infantry shortstop. Across the middle you'll see Herb Moore, Academic Prof first-baseman; Ewell Blackwell, 124th Infantry hurler, and George Simmons, 6th Training Regiment catcher. On the bottom row are: Elmer Niebler, Academic right fielder; Larry Richardson, 176th Infantry left fielder; Benny Zientra, Academic second baseman, and Vern Smith, 124th Infantry center fielder. (Signal Lab Photos.)

124th Will Clash With 300th Rival

Football's 1943 campaign, heralded as the greatest in post history, will officially open in Doughboy Stadium on Sunday afternoon, October 3rd, when the 124th Infantry Gators, defending post champs, clash with the star-studded 300th Infantry Sabers in the first home game of the season.

The Gators, their ranks augmented by the addition of a dozen collegiate stars of last fall, will jump the gun on their Saber rivals this Saturday when they engage in a major battle at Jacksonville, Fla., against the Air Raiders of the NATTC. The 300th will warm up with a practice tilt at Draper Prison, humbled last week by the 124th to the tune of 93-0.

When the Gators and Sabers clash some ten days hence in Doughboy Stadium, they will be firing the opening gun of a campaign that will see some of the finest collegiate gridders in the nation digging their cleats into the Doughboy turf.

STARS GALORE

Both rivals as well as the third member of the "Big Three" of Benning football, the 176th Infantry Spirits, list All-Americans, bol heroes and ex-professionals on their rosters for the coming season. Prospects are that the post will have three teams of major calibre.

Besides the conference games here on the post which will occupy the stadium grid for six different Sunday afternoons, a highly-attractive schedule of outside games has also been arranged.

GAMECOCKS INVASION

Big game of the year may be the visit of the South Carolina Gamecocks, who will come here on Saturday night, Nov. 13th, for a clash with the Sabers. Bowman Field from Louisville, Ky., and Daniel Field for Augusta, Ga. will both send powerful Air Force elevens into Benning to do battle with the fighting infantry teams, while Tennessee Tech will send its Golden Eagles here for a tussle with the Spirits.

The Daniel Field Fliers will come in most frequent contact with the Benning elevens, since four of the ten games listed on the Augusta team's card are against post gridmen. They meet the Spirits twice, once here and once in Augusta, and visit here for another clash with the Gators while the Sabers invade the North Georgia city for their game with the Fliers.

TEAMS TO TRAVEL

Benning elevens will also travel away from the post at intervals for games with collegiate and service elevents throughout the southeast. The Gators meet the Memphis Blues, Bowman Field and

See 124TH, Page 7

Bond Drive Gains

With the nation's great Third War Loan Drive nearing a climax, Fort Benning personnel continued to do "double duty" by making purchases this week which brought the post total close to its half-million dollar quota, according to a last-minute survey made by war bond officers at post headquarters Wednesday.

Reports reaching headquarters showed that $227,000 worth of bonds had been subscribed to during the big drive. This figure did not include the regular monthly pay reservations which total another $200,000, bringing the post close to its own self-set quota for the month of September.

While large amounts of the cash purchases have come through investments by organizations, a good percentage of the sales have been of Class E variety, $25 through $1,000 individual subscriptions.

One private attached to the post

See BOND, Page 7

Troop Carrier Command Played Heroic Role To Thwart Jap Fleet

How the Troop Carrier Command of the United States Army Air Forces rushed troops and supplioes to Alaska in the dark days when the Jap fleet was in Bering Sea just after the attack on Dutch Harbor—a story of this war which fully written will rank with the dramatic dash of the famous taxicab army that saved Paris in 1914—was told in part by two holders of the Distinguished Flying Cross now stationed at Lawson Field, Fort Benning.

They are Capt. Ben I. Parker, San Diego, California, now Executive Officer of the Fifth Troop Carrier Squadron, and Capt. Herman J. Pardey, Aurora, Oregon, now Operations officer of the same outfit. Capt. Parker was in the Troop Carrier Command at the time the Japs were rampaging around in the Bering Sea last summer, while Capt. Pardey was in the Bomber Command—and in fact was the only flier in Nome when it was feared that the enemy fleet would strike at that vital center.

"When the Japs hit Dutch Harbor in June of 1942, we had just formed a Troop Carrier Squadron," recalls Capt. Parker, "I flew in with the first five ships that made the trip. There has been a great deal written about the wonderful job done by the carriers in ferrying men and supplies into New Guinea to save Port Moresby—but in Alaska we had no previous experience and nothing to guide us but we did a comparable job about which very little has been written or told.

"Our planes were the only means of getting troops and equipment into Alaska in a hurry. And we went to work. Our 12 planes carried men and equipment 24 hours a day. I made 12 trips from Anchorage to Nome. On my first trip there were two or three huts on the airport. On my last there were thousands of men and plenty of equipment for them.

"The airlines of the United States sent up every available big airplane. I can't say just how many, but I think it safe to say that there were more than 150. These planes and their pilots were put to work as fast as they arrived—I was told that there was a plane landing and taking off every five minutes. I do not know all the work these planes did, but if our 12 carried hundreds of thousands of pounds of freight and hundreds of men you can figure that these hastily impressed civilian airline planes must have done much more. Within two weeks, if the Japs had struck Alaska, they would have found it in shape to make an attack very costly indeed.

"But those were dark days. The officers in command knew they had comparatively few soldiers and less planes. They were praying that the Jap airline carriers would come in close enough for us to take the desperate chance of destroying them—but if they should stay out of range of land based planes in an invasion attempt, we would have been just simply out of luck.

"However, when Kiska was

See TROOP, Page 7

Lefty Wissman and Benny Zientara Are Unanimous Selections for Fort Benning's 1943 'Dream Team'

The Infantry School League's all-star selections, revealed this week, list eleven of the finest ball players to be found in any loop anywhere with Lefty Wissman of the 176th Spirits and Benny Zientara of the Academic Profs being unanimous choices and also sharing the "most valuable player" laurels.

Wissman, the great southpaw pitching ace of the new post champs, is the property of the St. Louis Cardinal chain and pitched last year with the Rochester Red Wings in the International League. Zientara, who has just completed his second year of spectacular second base play for the Profs, 1942 champs, had a brief fling with the Cincinnati Reds before entering the Army and expects to return to the big time at war's end.

GREAT INFIELD

Selected exclusively by the Bayonet on the basis of votes from all eight TIS coaches, the 1943 "dream team" lists an infield that would warm the cockles of any big league manager's heart even today.

At first base is Herb Moore, Prof tutor and a member of the Cardinal chain for ten years. Zientara, of course, is at second with sensational Bob Ramazotti, of the Spirits, an all but unanimous choice at shortstop. The hot corner guardian is Red McClusky, top TIS batter and stellar performer for the 6th Training Regiment Eagles.

FINE GARDEN TRIO

Although not in the same glittering class with the inner corner, the three outfielders chosen are all speedy flychasers and hard hitters. Lacking only vote of being an all-out choice was Elmer Niebler of the Profs, who was chosen for the right field slot. Bill Richardson of the Spirits is in left and Vern Smith, sensational fielder of the 124th Gators, rated the center field position.

Behind the bat, the coaches chose George Simmons of the Eagles whose great work all season both as a receiver, hitter and manager earned him the nomination. Sparky Sahara, the sparkplug of the champion Spirits played great ball in the second-half and rated plenty of votes but could not quite top the total compiled by Simmons.

MOUND STAFF

Three pitchers were selected with Wissman rated as the ace, followed closely by another great southpaw, Big Jim Pendergast, of the Eagles, Ewell Blackwell, Gator right-hander, earned the third spot with his great last-half work which included a no-hit game against the 764th Tankers.

'Town Topics' Here Sept. 27

The new USO Camp Show, "Town Topics," to open at Fort Benning for a six-day stand Monday, Sept. 27, will be novel in two respects: It will be the first of the streamlined Victory Units to reach the post, and it will open in the Harmony Church area.

The Victory Units are smaller, more compact shows with fewer performers in the cast. Accent is on quality rather than quantity, according to an announcement from Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan, post special service officer.

Productions have been streamlined because of housing and transportation difficulties encountered by USO Camp Shows, Inc.

300TH BAND MUSIC

The musical review, "Town Topics," will feature Joe and Jane McKenna, whose broad roughhouse comedy was an outstanding success when they played Benning last season. Other performers are Barbara Long, songstress formerly with Phil Spitalny's Hour of Charm all-girl orchestra, and Peggy Marlow, danseuse.

Music for the show will be provided by the 300th Infantry or-

See TOWN, Page 7

Army Bowlers Form City Loop

The Army-City Bowling league started a 15-week schedule on September 20, after organizing the previous week at a meeting held in Columbus. M. Sgt. Ellis Trott, "bowling king of the post," was elected president of the league.

T. Sgt. Ray J. Becker, of Division Service Company, 7th Armored Division, was named vice-president, and Pvt. George P. Kirkland of the 77th Armored Medical Battalion, of the 7th Armored Division, is secretary and treasurer.

Matches will be arranged between the various units now stationed at Fort Benning and within separate units of the 7th Armored Division.

Five champions from Division Service Company of the 7th Armored Division will begin playing immediately. They are: Pfc. Billie Stutz, T-5 Ramon Vasquez, T-5 Frank Jurgonski, Pfc. Reynold Anderson and T-Sgt. Ray J. Becker.

Col. Burkhalter Slated To Retire

Col. Harry N. Burkhalter, commanding officer of the Academic Regiment, today announced his retirement from his command and the Army, having reached the automatic retirement age of 60 on September 6th.

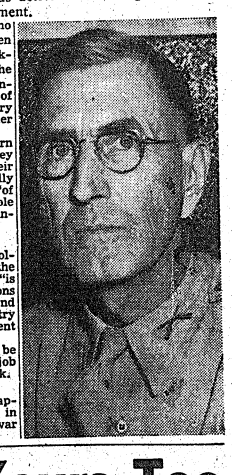
The Colonel plans to leave his command within the next few days on an extended terminal leave until his actual retirement age of 60 on September 6.

He has been in command of the Academic Regiment since August 17, 1942, when it was activated as a regiment from The Infantry School Detachment.

Speaking as a commander who has risen from the ranks and seen action in two wars, Col. Burkhalter expressed the hope that the men of his regiment would continue to realize the importance of their job here and would carry on "their excellent work" under his successor.

The colonel's prime concern over his men, he said, is that they often feel "disgruntled" over their assignment here when actually they are, in their present jobs, "of more value to the army as a whole than they would be overseas as individuals".

PRIME PURPOSE



"Your prime purpose," the colonel told his men through the Mirror, regimental newspaper, "is to assist in teaching the lessons learned from the various wars and the tactical policies of the Infantry School as they apply to current situations.

"Too much emphasis cannot be placed on your doing a fine job in your particular line of work.

TRAINING IMPORTANT

"Many of the men are disappointed because they are not in combat or in a more active war

See BURKHALTER, Page 7

Invest Your Money In America's Future; Remember It's Yours Too

'We Are Awfully Tired' Yank In Solomons Writes

Veteran Relates Difficulties Of Ferreting Out Japanese

"Though every man's head is 'bloody but unbowed,' we are awfully tired."

This is the message received by Sgt. Walter Majewski of the 8th Company, Fifth Training Regiment, ASTP, from Ben Newton, with Sgt. Majewski's old outfit somewhere in the Southwest Pacific. Sgt. Majewski passed Newton's letter on to the BAYONET in the hope that it will serve as an incentive to soldiers and civilians safe on this side of the oceans to buy more war bonds "to keep the supply of men and munitions in a continuous stream to areas" in which our men are fighting.

Soldier Newton's letter dated August 24, 1943, follows:

"I'm writing to several former W—s in the knowledge that each of you will be interested to learn something regarding the fortunes of the Regiment and Division of which you were once a member.

"I take the privilege of announcing to you that the major part of the campaign which broke the back of Japanese resistance on Guadalcanal and drove him from the jungles onto the cape from which he was both liquidated and evacuated, was conducted by your old division, and the spearhead of this attack was borne by the W—s and the C—s, ably supported by the Infantry during the period from Jan. 10-26, 1943.

"Outstanding among their accomplishments were the seizure of Hill 52, overlooking Henderson Field in about three hours' time and the capture of the Jap supply base at Kukumbona.

BAYONET CHARGE

"Though the long period of isolation in this pestilential hellhole has reduced our strength through debility and our skeleton companies through evacuation, these same men seized the Munda airfield on New Guinea island in which operation the —— Infantry made up for lost time by distinguishing itself. Here, too, Company K, —— Infantry, faced with some distance to go and running out of ammunition, resorted to an old-fashioned bayonet up the hill overlooking the airport: this was suicidal in the face of machine gun and rifle fire but luck was with them; they took the hill possession of which decided the issue at Munda. They had many wounded, but only two killed in this display of martial spirit.

"Fighting here is difficult, we believe far worse than anything in Europe or Africa. For example, this Division with its small numbers has had more men killed than the American Army of thousands of men had killed in the entire North African operation, and no one ever knew we were here. As one fellow put it—if you had 10,000 Germans in the jungle, you'd have killed 1,000 of them, wounded maybe 2,000, and the rest would be ready for surrender. But the Jap??? Oh, no!!! If you have 10,000 Japs in the jungle, you have 10,000 tenacious crafty rascals to exterminate; none will surrender—not even when their position is hopeless. Thus you can see the formidability of the problem we are up against.

DON'T FORGET US

"So wherever you are do not forget us and pass the word that the old regiment is well on the way to receiving itis second citation and has covered itself with honor and glory and brought concrete results to the Nation by its gallant fighting.

"A few of those whom you know and for whom you can blow taps tonight are: Lieutenants Green, Smith, McFarland, Hames, Exley, Williamson, and Carrington among the officers; and Greening, Shobe, Delgado, Greco, Godwin, Cross, Gruber, Eby, Oshefko, Will, Harris, Knapp, and Gage among the enlisted men, but I cannot mention them all.

"Though every man's head is 'bloody but unbowed," we are awfully tired.

"Extend 'good luck' to all from your old outfit, somewhere in the Solomons."

Yule Overseas Mail Deadline Drawing Nigh

Although the 30-day period for mailing Christmas packages to soldiers overseas does not end until October 15, persons who intend to mail such packages are urged to dispatch them by the end of September or earlier if possible, according to Robert P. Richardson, superintendent of the Fort Benning branch post office.

Reason for this request, he said, is to prevent receipt of the great bulk of the millions of packages expected at the very last minute. During this period only, the regulation that no packages may be sent overseas without a written request from the soldier himself has been suspended.

In addition to mailing early during the September 15-October 15 period, it is also stressed that packages should be wrapped securely and addressed legibly and completely.

Soldier Killed By Rocket Dud

Technician Fifth Grade Frederick Cantelmi, 24 a member of Company E, 33rd Engineer Battalion of the Seventh Armored Division, died Saturday at Fort Benning's Station Hospital from injuries he sustained when a rocket grenade which he was handling exploded.

The Public Relations Office of the Seventh Armored Division reports that Centelmi had found the live rocket grenade, a type fired by the bazooka, while on a firing range. It is said that the soldier picked it up, thinking it was a dud. While handling the grenade, it exploded and wounded him fatally.

Enlisting in the Army February 10, 1942, Centelmi was a chauffeur in civilian life. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cantelmi, of 801 North 21st Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The body left Columbus by train for Philadelphia Monday, and was escorted by Technician Fifth Grade Paul P. Gladish, Company E, of the 33rd Armored Engineers Battalion.

BOB WATERFIELD, former UCLA football star, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army, having completed his Officer Candidates' Course at The Infantry School. Jane Russell, movie star and favorite Army pin-up girl, who is also Mrs. Robert Waterfield, is shown pinning a lieutenant's bar on her husband. He was a member of the 14th Company, Third Student Training Regiment and has been assigned to the 176th Infantry of The Infantry School Troops at Fort Benning. (He'll play football this fall with the 176th's team)—Official U. S. Army Photo—Shavetail.

Soldier Art Show Opens Thursday At Service Center

An art exhibit, featuring work of Fort Benning soldier-artists will open today at the Presbyterian Service Center, First Avenue and 11th Street in Columbus.

On display will be over 40 individual works, painted during the last six months by local soldier talent, as part of a recreational program sponsored by Service Club Number 1, under the leadership of Miss Mary Farmer, club hostess and Lt. Jack Campbell, club officer.

This exhibit has just returned from a 15-day display at the Atlanta High Museum of Art, where it received considerable acclaim. The local showing will last ten days and admission is free to everybody.

Med Detachment Personnel Slated On ArmyHour Show

The regular weekly Army Hour on Sept. 26, under the sponsorship of the Army and Navy YMCA-USO, Columbus, will feature the Station Hospital Medical Detachment.

An address by Capt. Bradford L. Webster, MAC, supply officer of the Medical Detachment Units No. 1 and 2, and a musical program by the Medico Orchestra, known as the biggest little band at Benning, will highlight the program.

"Army Hospitalization of Sick and Wounded" will be Capt. Webster's subject, with special emphasis on field medical installations.

Captain Webster, an attorney in civilian life, entered the Army from Oakland, Calif., in 1941, following basic training was assigned to the Medical Department, where as an enlisted man he served in all grades from private to master sergeant and was commissioned as 1st Lieutenant, MAC in 1942 while serving as sergeant-major of the Medical Department Training Center at Camp Rucker, Ala. He joined the Station Hospital Medical Unit in November 1942 and was promoted to his present grade of captain in June 1943.

The Medico Orchestra, composed of Cpl. A. J. Morris, pianist; Cpl. H. R. Tate, bass; Pvt. E. G. Swauger, drums; Pvt. E. W. S. Heil, saxaphone, will be under the direction of Sgt. "Nat" Pintello, accordionist.

This will be the third appearance of the Medicos on this program since its inception in 1941 and will be broadcast over radio station WRBL beginning at 5 p. m., Benning time, and 4 p. m., Columbus time.

Medicos Launch War Bond Drive

Following an organization meeting on Sept. 6, the enlisted personnel of Medical Detachment, Sections I & II launched their campaign in support of the 3rd Nation-wide War Bond Sale. The sales todate have averaged better than $1,000 daily.

The Medicos have set their goal at $25,000 for the month of September and every indications are that they will meet this total and in all probability exceed it. Every enlisted man of the two Medical Units has been invited to purchase at least one $25 bond above their usual purchases. The Medico campaign is being conducted by the enlisted men of the unit, headed by a Committee of Non-commissioned Officers from the various departments and dispensaries of the Detachment and Hospital.

Mr. Sgt. W. C. Thompson is serving as Chairman of the drive and Staff Sgt. C. A. Pond is acting as recorder of the sales. It is believed that the Medical Detachments were the first units at this station to start the 3rd War Loan Drive.

The Medico Campaign was the idea of and is being directed entirely by enlisted personnel. To boost sales, the unit will sponsor three War Bond Dances during the month, and close their campaign on Wednesday, Sept. 29, with a big war bond rally.

Dud Injures TIS Soldier

Pfc. Joseph Clark of the Antitank Company, 300th Infantry of The Infantry School Troops, is in Station Hospital recovering from leg injuries received when he picked up a dud during a detail assigned to policing Bickford Range. The dud exploded injuring him so badly that it was first believed his legs might have to be amputated.

He was visited by an officer who said to him, "You're a mighty good soldier."

Private Clark replied, "No, sir, I'm not. If I was a good soldier, I wouldn't have picked up that dud in the first place."

Fulton Praises Jewish Troops On Eve of Rites

"This time all of us as a 'Brotherhood of Free Men' shall plant deeply and cleanly the roots of freedom; vigilantly guarding its cultivation that the weed of intolerance shall never again exact the spade," Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding officer of Fort Benning, said Saturday on the eve of the Jewish New Year, in his annual message to Jewish troops. Sundown Wednesday, Sept. 29, will usher in the High Holy Day season ending with Yom Kippur on October 9.

General Fulton pointed out that many Jewish people are "in our ranks commanding and training, eager to participate in the tough, decisive round not far away. As commanding officer of Fort Benning my message on the celebration of Rosh Hashonah to the Jewish members of my command, to their families, and dependents is: Last year we sowed . . . this year we reap!"

Chaplain Captain Samson A. Shain announces that both New Year's Day and Day of Atonement services will be held in Children's School at the corner of Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road.

The New Year will be observed with services at 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday, Sept. 29 and 30, and at 9:30 a. m. Thursday and Friday, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

In observance of Day of Atonement Kol Nidre services will be held Friday, Oct. 8, at 7:30 p. m. and Tom Kippur and Memorial services for the deceased at 9:30 a. m., Friday, Oct. 8.

Chaplain Shain also announced that regular Holy Day services will be held in downtown Columbus synagogues. The Reform Congregation will worship at Tenth street and Fourth avenue at 8 p. m., and at 10 a. m. (CWT) and the Orthodox Congregation at Seventh street and First avenue. 7:30 p. m. and 7:30 a. m. (CWT).

In addition there will be a New Year's Reception Thursday, Sept 30, at 4:30 p. m., at the Harmony Club. It is located at Twelfth street and Fifth avenue. Soldiers and their wives were invited.

What! Never Heard Of Grits, Squash, Okra!!!

"What is that, is it asparagus? Whoever heard of stewed lemons; okra, squash and grits! Hey, what kind of mess is this?

Most of the men in the Fifth Company, Third Student Training Regiment, commanded by Capt. John D. Austin, had never seen or heard of these strictly southern delicacies before so it is expected that a lot of new tastes for food will be developed during their 17 weeks at the Infantry school.

If salmon weer on the menu, many of the candidates could probably tell you under what ripple in the Columbia river it was spawned, as Oregon leads all other states with a contingent of 45 men. The neighboring states of Washington, California and Montana have 90 men combined.

The "Rebels" in the company are outnumbered about five to one so they can get all the doubles they want on the black-eyed peas and corn bread, unless the "Yankees" in the outfit confuse these foods with beans and cake which has happened.

The "Fifth" is almost entirely an ROTC company, having but two non-ROTC men. One of whom is from an infantry division, while the other is a transfer from the Air Corps, he having lately run out of hats to crush.

The universities and colleges represented in the company are: Alabama, Georgia, Oregon, Oregon State, Montana, Montana State, Idaho, Washington, Washington State, Mississippi, California, Georgetown, Syracuse, Louisiana State, Wofford, Ripon, Wisconsin and Georgia Military. Military academies with men in the company are: Western, St. Johns, Brown, Fork Union, Wasgan Park, Marmion, Riverside, Hill and Massanutten.

CAPTAIN SUTTON

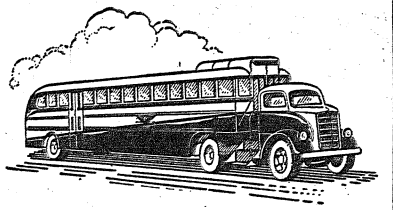
First Lieut. Maurice A. Sutton, Maintenance Officer of the Motor Transport District at Fort Benning, has been promoted to the rank of captain.

A veteran of the first World War, Captain Sutton served for 27 months in that conflict, 24 months of which he spent in Europe. He was a senior grade sergeant (equivalent to the present-day master sergeant) in the Quartemaster Corps, and handled repair shops and travelled as truckmaster with truck trains in Italy, France, Germany and Belgium.

An Army carrier pigeon—badly wounded by a hawk—was found trying to walk home. Shortly after its rescue, the bird laid an egg.

Highest Cash Prices For Used Cars
PHILLIPS MOTOR CO.
PHONE 3-6553
1419 1st STREET

SMALL CHANGE



PLUS DOLLARS WILL BOMB JAPAN!
BUY AN EXTRA $100 BOND THIS MONTH
Georgia Music Co.
1045 6th Ave. Dial 2-2954
DONALD LEEBERN, Owner.

Through These Portals...
Pass The Best Soldiers on Earth
P. S. STORES
Just Above The Howard Bus Line
926 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

Levy-Morton Co.
Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps
REPAIRS — DIAL 3-6391
1028—13th STREET

DOG & CAT HOSPITAL
Complete Hospital Service
Bathing and Grooming
DR E. A. DAVIS
1006 - 13th St Dial 8871

COLUMBUS FT. BENNING
HOWARD BUS LINE
SERVICE TO FORT BENNING FOR 22 YEARS

DOING A WARTIME JOB - - -
UNDER WAR TIME CIRCUMSTANCES
HOWARD BUS LINE
900 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

Have a "Coke" = That's Wizard
(IT'S THE TOPS)

...or how to be liked in London

That's Wizard, says the genial Britisher when he wants to pay you a compliment. Have a "Coke", says the American soldier, and in three words they see things alike. It's as true in a London garden as in a Los Angeles patio. All over the globe, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the happy bond between friendly-minded people.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

—the global high-sign

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

1943 The C-C Co.

O. C. Gives Lowdown On Life On Fiji Isles

Seeking the latest information about the Fiji Islands — especially concerning the famed wine, women, and songs from there?

Then, Officer Candidate Bernard Morris, ex-sergeant in the personnel section of a unit stationed there is your man. Just back from that area to attend OCS, he has much to say about our Fijian outpost in the Pacific.

First as to wine. Liquor was plentiful on the island when the Americans first arrived, "en masse," but it was not long before the stocks disappeared entirely and the transportation bottleneck prevented any replenishment; thereby unintentionally turning the islands into a "dry" area. According to Morris, the bottleneck was finally broken when beer was brought in by the army, and every man was doled out two bottles a day. When asked why a little beer or coke meant so much to a man, Morris explained it my saying "It was the last of the comforts of home."

"Among the hardest things to bear," Morris said, "was the singing of the Fijians." He said "that they had some of the most beautiful songs and voices he had ever heard. In the evenings, one would hear a group singing on one of the hill sides; beautiful refrains that would really make a man homesick."

He gave a vivid description of laundry methods on the islands. "Each man would pay a woman to do his washing; the washing consisting of soaking the clothes in warm soapy water and then whacking the clothes hard against a flat rock." When questioned about the effect of this kind of washing on the buttons Morris commented that "Sewing on buttons was a common leisure time vocation." Tattle gale grey also was a universal feature of clothing washed in this manner."

Has Morris seen any action? Not too much; however, at the end of the winter his unit was transferred to the "X" Islands, where the Japanese sprayed them with bombs several times. "The percentage of the duds was quite high" was all Morris had to say about that portion of his experiences.

Asked whether he was glad to be home, Morris said, "Yes, but now that I am back here on home soil again after being 6,000 miles away, and after being home on a ten-day furlough, I am more homesick than ever!" His home being in Omaha, Nebraska.

Morris has the Fourth Company as his home for the next several months and he will willingly give advice to any officers or men who feel that their next post will be in the Fijis.

Skunk's MLR Undented By OC Class In Bivouac

Officer Candidates of the 20th Company, of the Third Student Training Regiment, recently spent their last bivouac in Shell Creek. Everything ran smoothly until an unwelcome visitor appeared.

The visitor was a skunk which annoyed the camp on no less than three different nights. The first night it set up a MLR in the latrine but was chased out by some brave Candidate. The second night Candidates Restivo and Reichard had just settled down for a night's sleep when Restivo turned and asked Reichard if he was touching his foot and added, "I hope to Heaven you are!" Reichard said he wasn't and after turning on the flashlight found a skunk calmly licking Restivo's foot. When the light struck the skunk's face it slowly retreated unmolested down the path.

The following night the same skunk entered another tent but quickly ran away. The action during the three engagements was purely tactical, no shots being fired by either side—much to the relief of 20th Company personnel.

Medical Officers Rate Promotion

Promotion of six captains in the Medical Corps at the Station Hospital at Fort Benning to the rank of majors and the elevation of two second lieutenants in the Medical Administrative Corps to the rank of first lieutenant was announced today by Colonel Edward A. Noyes commanding officer at the Station Hospital.

Promoted to major were Captains Norman R. Shulack, chief the neuropsychiatric section at the Station Hospital; Peter A. Drohomer, assistant to the chief of surgical service; William Benenson, chief of the officers section of the medical service; John A. Bell, Jr., plans and training officer at Station Hospital Number 2; John T. Vandover, surgeon in the orthopedic section, and Jabez F. Jackson, section chief in medical service.

Second Lieutenants John J. Ciskowski, assistant adjutant at the hospital, and Thomas F. Henley, assistant to the director of dietitics, were promoted to the rank of first lieutenant.

Colored OC Is Scholar, Athlete, Debater

The Third Company, Third Training Regiment, boast among its candidates a combination teacher, debater, football player and man of letters in the person of Thomas Jarrett, colored candidate from Louisville, Ky.

This versatile student of 17th century literature holds an A. B. degree from Fiske University of Nashville, Tenn., and an M. A. degree from the University of Chicago. Now he wants an Lt. from the Infantry school. English is his major.

Four years of high school teaching at Central High school in Paris, Tenn., and four years of college teaching at Louisville Municipal college plus coaching debating at Knoxville college makes him a proficient teacher.

While at Fiske, Jarrett starred as an end on the varsity football team. At Fiske he also received a Rockefeller Foundation Fellowship to advance his studies at the University of Chicago.

He volunteered for the Army in January of 1943 and no sooner donned the garb of a private when he received an offer to be theatrical advisor at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, with a commission thrown in to boot. His previous enlistment, however, prevented him from accepting the offer.

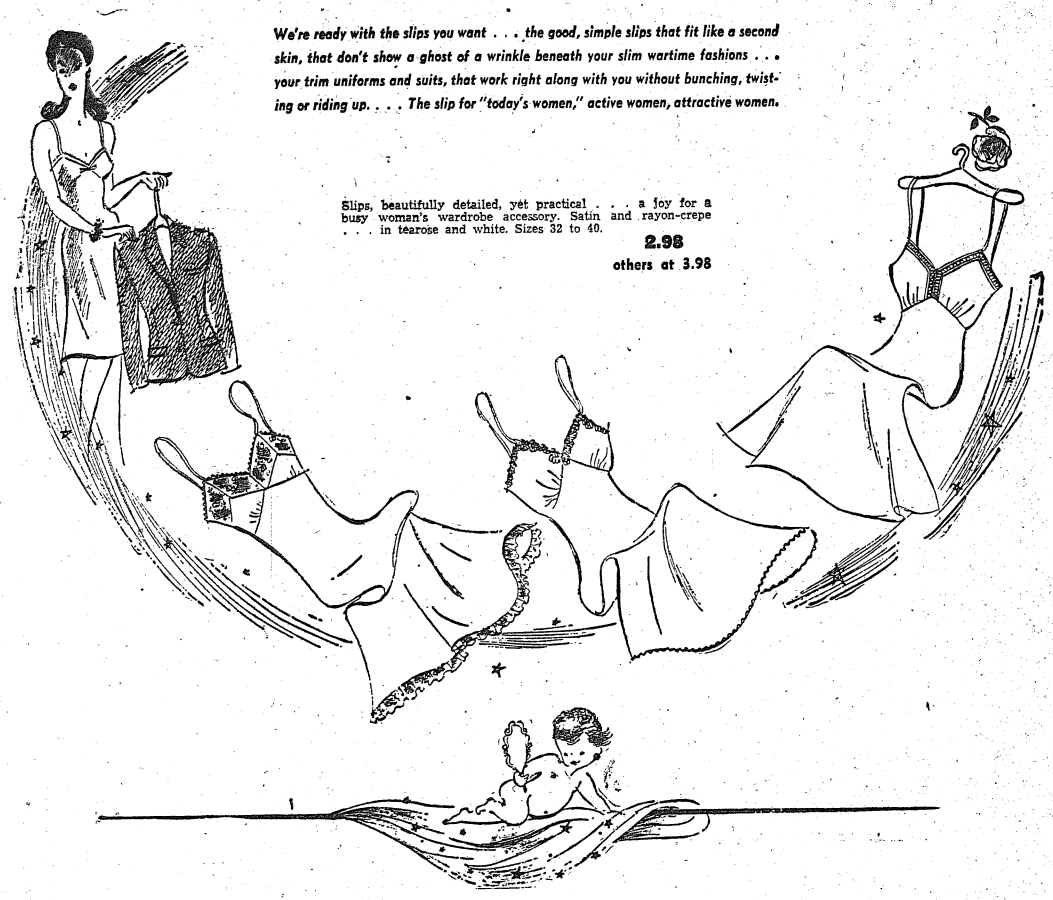
Jarrett received his basic training at Camp Croft, S. C., where he qualified as expert with the M-1 rifle, automatic rifle and light machinegun. He is 30 years of age, married and makes his home in Louisville, Ky.

7 Supply Men Get Promotions

Seven enlisted men of Supply Detachment, Supply Division, Section Two, have been appointed to higher grades upon the recommendation of their commandofficer, according to word from from Post Headquarters.

Sgt. Nobel H. Owens, Jr., has been promoted to staff sergeant, and Technician Fifth Grade Earnest M. Royster has been made technician fourth grade. Pfc. Oscar N. Tillman and Pvt. Sam B. Jackson have been raised to corporal, and Pfcs. Harry Mitchell, Jr., and Robert Turner and Pvt. William L. Shampklin have been promoted to technicians fifth grade.

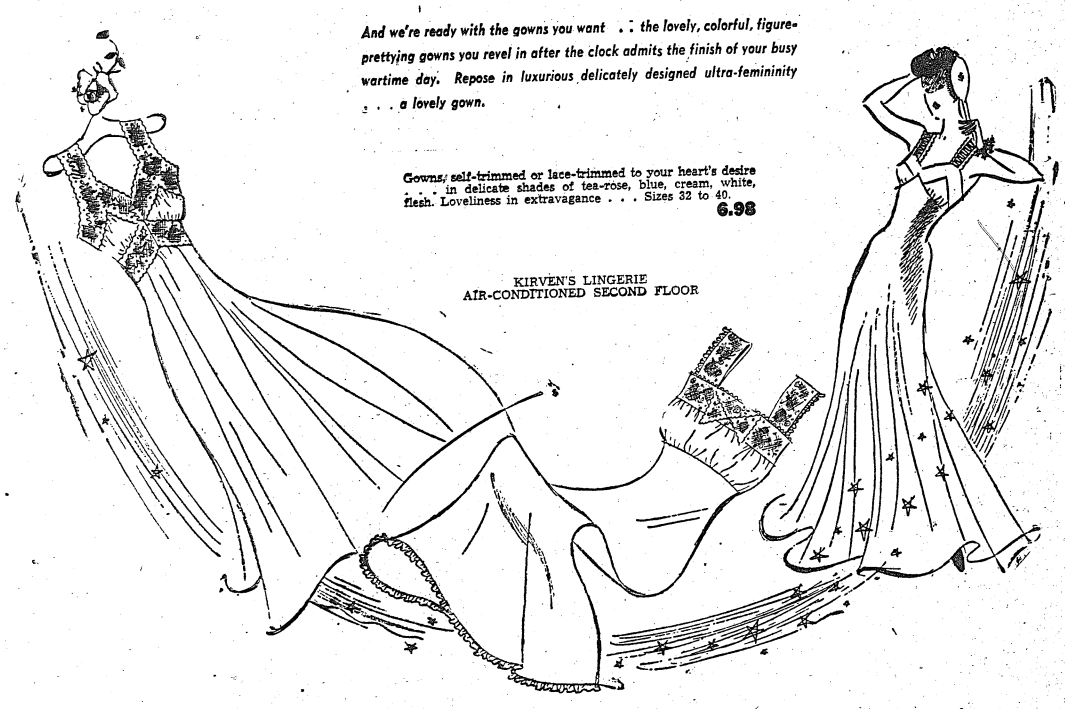
WADSWORTH
Blue Print Company
Have Copies of Your Marriage License, Power of Attorney and Similar Documents Made by Us. Architects and Engineers Supplies.
1231 - 6th Ave.
Phone 2-2381



PIN-UP GIRLS
Are Favorites With the Boys in the Service
BUT PIN-UP BOYS
Are Favorites With the Girls Back Home!

And when you send that Package
Above All
SEND A PICTURE
SPECIAL
9x12 hand painted oil painting.
Regular $15.00 value—Now $5.50
Open Every Evening Until 9 P. M., Ft. Benning Time
BON ART STUDIO
5½ 11TH ST. DIAL 2-0571

Slips for Service



We're ready with the slips you want . . . the good, simple slips that fit like a second skin, that don't show a ghost of a wrinkle beneath your slim wartime fashions . . . your trim uniforms and suits, that work right along with you without bunching, twisting or riding up. . . . The slip for "today's women," active women, attractive women.

Slips, beautifully detailed, yet practical . . . a joy for a busy woman's wardrobe accessory. Satin and rayon-crepe . . . in tearose and white. Sizes 32 to 40.
2.98
others at 3.98

Gowns for Glamour

And we're ready with the gowns you want . . . the lovely, colorful, figure-prettying gowns you revel in after the clock admits the finish of your busy wartime day. Repose in luxurious delicately designed ultra-femininity . . . a lovely gown.

Gowns, self-trimmed or lace-trimmed to your heart's desire . . . in delicate shades of tea-rose, blue, cream, white, flesh. Loveliness in extravagance . . . Sizes 32 to 40.
6.98

KIRVEN'S LINGERIE
AIR-CONDITIONED SECOND FLOOR

J. A. KIRVEN CO.
Your Complete Department Store

FORT BENNING BAYONET

The Benning Bayonet is published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Mon this $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LED GER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

Member of Fort Benning Press Association

"While you've got the other fellow on the run, the more you do to cut him down before he regains his balance, the better it is."—

"I am profoundly grateful that for once in the history of the United States there is suggested the possibility that we may have too much of something or other with which to support our armies."—General George C. Marshall.

Infantrymen Still Bear Brunt Of Battle

Headlines, heroes, movies and medals notwithstanding, the Infantry, as usual, has been handling the bloody end of the Army's combat duties. And, as usual, has been getting the least credit for the hardest, dirtiest, most dangerous job.

With the United States' blood bath apparently near at hand in Europe, the Infantry still is reading about how the Air Corps and the Marine Corps are winning the war. We might digress a moment to offer a sincere "Heaven bless the Field Artillery" for its part in the war and its comparative lack of recognition.

Much ado has been made over cooperation (in the sense of friendly relations) between the various branches of the service.

Perhaps an equal and proportionate distribution of credit for the tasks done would help the situation.

A chart in General Marshall's report to the Secretary of War shows that the Infantry from December 7, 1941, through June 30, 1943, has had TWICE AS MANY MEN KILLED IN COMBAT AS ANY OTHER BRANCH OF THE ARMY and APPROXIMATELY AS MANY KILLED AS ALL OTHER BRANCHES COMBINED, INCLUDING IN BOTH CASES THE AIR CORPS.

The chart revealed that the Infantry's list of wounded in combat thus far in the war is five times as big as that of any other single branch of the Army and greater than all other branches of the Army combined.

Headlines, heroes, movies and medals notwithstanding. . . .

—R. H. C.

'We Have Arrived . . .'? Our Beachhead Secure

"We have arrived at our initial objective—our beachhead is secure."

After many hours of anxious, fearful waiting by the American people for news from Salerno and the fate of the American Fifty Army, this message from Lt. General Mark W. Clark last Thursday was like a cool hand on a feverish brow. The anxiety of the whole nation, epitomized by the tension of officers, enlisted men, and civilians at Fort Benning who asked every few minutes for news from Salerno, was immediately replaced by a feeling of relief mingled with realization that the fight from here out will be increasingly hard.

The picture is also brightened by General Clark's optimistic prediction of the ultimate conquest of Naples, Rome, and all Italy, meaning of course we shall drive the Germans back to their borders.

The success of the American Fifth Army in holding the beachhead under the withering fire of German guns emplaced on hills overlooking the narrow strip held by the Americans is of the utmost importance, tactically and politically.

Ignoring the tactical side of the victory which insured a junction of the Americans with the British Eighth rushing up from south Italy, holding that beachhead followed by the launching of an offensive meant that we have "saved face." Had General Clark's men been forced back to their ships, Herr Hitler would have had a strong talking point to whip satellite Axis nations back into line by pointing out to them that Germany is quite strong enough to take care of her own and that the Allies have small chance of gaining a foothold in Festung Europa.

What effect would this have had on the people of France, Norway, and Greece who are kept alive only by the hope that the forces of the United Nations will soon redeem them from bondage? What effect would it have had on the morale of our troops and those of our Allies on considering the fact that the Germans had been able to throw them back from a not-so-well fortified shoreline and have had months in which to prepare the defenses along the western and northern coasts of Europe? Certainly catastrophe at Salerno would have prolonged the European war for months, perhaps for years.

Months of hard fighting, great losses, and perhaps some set-backs lie ahead of us, but our gallant troops at Salerno have shown that they have the intestinal fortitude to take the hardest blows the Germans can deal out and that they have the best equipment and the finest air and naval support of any army in the world.

All Fort Benning rejoices, and our prayers, our blessing, our moral support, are with our troops wherever they may be. These feelings can be converted into a concrete form by lending also our financial support. Buy, buy more war bonds and stamps. Buy them today!

Italy's Frankenstein Threatens To Devour Her

Week before last the Italian government decided to yield to the overwhelming power of Allied arms, and Italian prisoners of war in the Fort Benning internment camp requested permission to offer a Te Deum in thanksgiving that hostilities between their country and the Allies had finally come to and end. Thus they expressed the sentiment of their people back home who have entered this war without any heart for it and long since prayed for peace with every breath they drew.

Meanwhile the Italian fleet, the commanders of which reputedly were opposed to Italy's entering the war against the British steamed past Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham on their way to surrender after having declined every invitation of the Allied fleet to join battle, as the latter murmured "I rather thought it would end this way."

Unfortunately the war isn't over for Italy. It is rather ironical and at the same time pathetic that a people who showed they just didn't want to fight by not fighting, who missed an opportunity to gain empire in Africa by stopping too soon because they didn't know that only a handful of Britishers stood between them and Alexandria and Suez, now want to get out of the war and return to peaceful pursuits but cannot.

For like a Frankenstein, Italy and Mussolini, the architect of Fascism and its offshoot Naziism, have created a monster which will devour them if it can. For Hitler seems determined, through necessity and through vengeance for what he terms "black treachery," to make Italy one of the bloodiest battlefields in the history of the world. He hopes to fight a delaying action to keep the Allies at bay long enough to strengthen his Festung Europa along its soft underbelly. He has captured Rome, the Eternal City; he has taken the Vatican under his protection, and he will cause Italy to be laid in ruins if by doing so he can keep Allied forces off German soil.

It is indeed unfortunate that the Italians were unable to muster the strength necessary to drive the Germans from their soil. Had they been able to do so, they would have been able to produce enough cereals and foodstuffs to be self-sufficient. As it is and until the Allies can drive the Huns out with Italian aid, the Germans will probably send most of Italy's resources under their control to Germany. They will send Italian soldiers to Germany to do forced labor for the Reich and the "master" race.

And the Allies upon whom Italy was dependent in the pre-war period for most of her imports to feed her industries and against whom she so foolishly went to war are now faced with the gigantic task of proving to the Italians who are really her friends and who in truth is her enemy.

Buy War Bonds; Prevent Inflation

The people back home are in the midst of their Third War Loan Drive as we write this, and the newspapers, radio and moving pictures are appealing to their patriotism in an all-out campaign to sell $15,000,000,000 worth of War Bonds. The appeals for civilian subscriptions in the drive are not based so much on the financial value of War Bonds, although they are undoubtedly the best investment you can make in the world today, as they are on the necessity of getting more guns, planes, tanks and ships overseas immediately and finishing the war.

There is another reason why soldiers, as well as civilians, should buy War Bonds—a reason that has nothing to do with patriotism or getting the war finished. But it has a lot to do with the problems we are going to face after the duration and six months when we will go back into civilian clothes and start buying food and paying rent again for ourselves and our families.

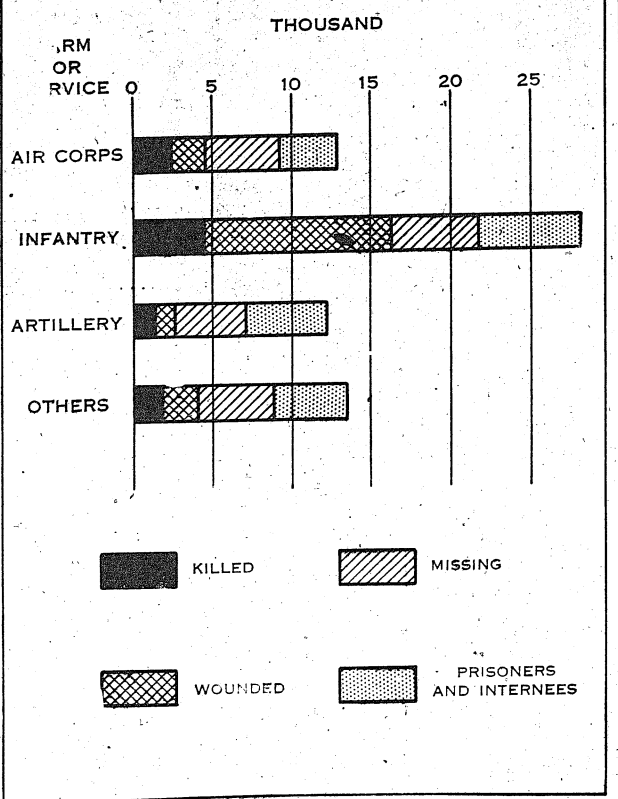
That reason is the danger of inflation in the United States after the war. War Bonds can stop inflation.

When you mention the word "inflation" to the average GI, he backs away and loses interest. "That's something in Washington that's got nothing to do with me," he says. We talk like that because we've never had a taste of it. We don't know what it is to pay $5 for a ham sandwich and a couple of hundred dollars for a pair of shoes as they did in Germany after the last war.

It works like this. The Government has to pay the expense of the war effort. If the people don't lend the Government the money to pay those bills by buying War Bonds, the Government has to pay them with money borrowed from banks. Borrowing from banks raises the supply of U. S. currency in active circulation. The more dollar bills you have in circulation, the less valuable each dollar bill becomes and they you begin to get less for your money. The next thing you know a dollar is only worth a dime or a nickel when you try to buy a meal or a package of cigarettes.

Imagine what it would be like trying to get started again in civilian life under those conditions. If serious inflation ever comes, we'll soon find out that it isn't just something in Washington that has nothing to do with us. It's got plenty to do with us.

Next pay day, if that guy unexpectedly pays back the $20 he borrowed three months ago, invest it in a War Bond. You will get a solid slice of extra money back a few years from now when you'll really need it. And you will also be protecting the value of your money and your family's money against the threat of inflation that would turn it into so muchr worthless green paper.



—'Yank'

You can't be up on your toes and down in the mouth at the same time.

"Lit down with dogs and you get up with fleas." The same is true of minds which play with underdog, dogmatic and other phony philosophies.

There's enough for our need,
But not for our greed,
If we care and we share,
The whole nation will feed.

TOTAL CASUALTIES, BY ARM OR SERVICE

The chart shows United States Army battle casualties from our entrance into the war on December 7, 1941, through June 30, 1943. It appears in General Marshall's report to the Secretary of War.

USO Presents—

'COFFEE-ANDS,' RE CORDING MACHINE, MYSTERY SERIAL, VARIETY SHOW

By PFC. SHELDON A. KEITEL

'Coffee-Ands," long a popular Sunday morning feature at the Ninth Street USO, has been extended, and now the coffee pot is on at all times throughout the week. . . . Staff members of the club recently voted to extend the feature. . . . So now, whenever a serviceman (or woman) is in the Ninth Street unit he may get a free cup of USO coffee.

* * *

The recording machine at the Salvation Army USO at 1323 Broadway in Columbus has been repaired and is now being utilized at the club, Mrs. Kathleen Barrow, program director, announces. . . . No specific hours have been designated as yet for the recording program, and records are cut on request. . . . The week's program at the USO has been enlarged with a regularly scheduled Thursday social at 7:30 p. m. (EWT) with prizes.

The Wednesday night "Movie Oddities" program at the Ninth Street USO is being supplemented by a new serial entitled "The Mystery Squadron." . . . The pictures show at 9 p. m. (EWT) in the club. . . . In addition they are shown here on the post at the Station Hospital on Thursday and at Station Hospital No. 2 in the Harmony Church area Friday.

* * *

The variety show scheduled at the Phenix City USO for last night was postponed. . . . The date will be announced later. . . . More variety shows of that type will be presented at the Phenix City USO, as a joint effort of the Salvation Army USOs in Columbus and Phenix City, are promised in the immediate future by Mrs. Edna Scott, program director at the Alabama unit. . . . The shows use all-soldier talent from Fort Benning.

Kay Says—

SHE FOUND MINNE SOTANS LIVING OFF FAT O F THE LAND

Impressions of one newly returned from a journey back to civilian life and the middle west:

Ripe, red tomatoes, home grown and tasting not at all like the cotton-stuffed variety featured by the PX. Succulent ears of golden bantam corn. A whole pat of butter nestling in a mound of mashed potatoes at a St. Paul restaurant. The prominence of chicken and omelet on dining car menus.

No identification in front of houses, and the American "hello" over the phone sounding foreign to one accustomed to hearing "Major Blank's quarters, maid speaking." Civilians with the mistaken idea that officers and their families are living off the fat of the land, with plenty of butter, beef, liquor and other scarce items. I'd like to have them wait for their meat number at the PX, or go over our scanty assortment of vegetables and fruits.

* * *

The pampered young mother on a packed train, annoyed because her two spoiled brats couldn't have separate seats while soldiers stood in train aisles for six hours, unable to find seats. The old gentleman with cancer of the nose, on his way to the Rochester clinic, who offered to give up his seat so a weary youngster could stretch out for a nap. The impatient woman, on her way to vacation-land, who threatened to sue the railroad because her train wasn't going to make connections.

People with "A" gas cards, newly cut down to three gallons, contemplating putting up their cars for the duration. With winter coming on, three gallons doesn't go far when you have to warm out a cold car, and stop and start on icy pavements. Packed street cars, everyone goodnatured about squeezing in like sardines. Motormen sweating over the prospects of someone getting jammed in the doors, unable to see over the heads of the crowds. Presentable young women taking over their first runs as motormen, very cautious on their stops and a bit uncertain when calling out names of streets.

Service stars and "V for Victory" stickers on front windows. Victory gardens a topic of conversations, as well as how many quarts one had canned that day. The social barriers between the East Side and the West Side, and the smug attitude of some home owners concerning their home town. The steak place still serving succulent steaks, but no longer giving you a choice of "small, medium, or large."

* * *

Skilled workers complaining because they were "frozen" in certain critical areas, without the privilege of moving around as the whim struck them.

County and state fairs still bravely carrying on, sans most of their customary exhibits. Memfree, and children getting the agebers of the armed forces admitted old thrill out of the merry-go-round, rides, floss candy, and hamburgers.

Animals at Como park in St. Paul looking hungry and flea-bitten, contrasted to their usual well-fed appearance. The monkeys on Monkey Island reduced to one family—too hard to feed them and care for them.

People asking eagerly for my opinion as to when the war will end. Figuring I, as an army wife, ought to know even if F.D.R. and Churchill aren't expressing any definite opinions.

Chilly mornings when a fire would have been in order if householders wern't conserving oil and coal for colder weather. Women still appearing in summer clothes, loathe to admit that an all-too-short summer was already on the wan. The prospect of storm windows and snow shoveling in the offing. The return to find Fort Benning basking in its late summer sunshine.

Chaplain's Corner . .

AN UNDERSTANDING HEART

Chaplain F. M. Thompson

That was the prayer of Solomon, "Lord, give Thy servant an understanding heart to judge Thy people."

* * *

It is a good petition. It should be voiced more often, Human relationships hang on a very delicate mechanism and wisdom is needed to see that the mechanism is properly adjusted. The lack of insight into motives, conduct, is the prolific source of disagreements, controversies and smashups. Very prone are we to find meanings never thought of, much less intended.

* * *

A word lightly spoken, an act twisted out of its original setting has broken long-standing friendships, started feuds, enmities which stretched down the years embroiling whole communities. Whereas, all could have been averted by a little thoughtfulness, understanding.

* * *

"Had I known," is a confession most of us have made at one time or another. Had I known, kindness and helpfulness would have been given instead of the harsh words, bitter criticism, stinging rebuke.

* * *

"If I knew you and you knew me,
If both of us could clearly see,
And with an inner sight divine
The meaning of your heart and mine,
I'm sure that we would differ less

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

THE COLONEL BEATS HASTY RETREAT BEFORE ARMY NURSES' COUNTER-ATTACK

BY T. P. SWAMPWATER
Colonel, Infantry

Well, another week has rolled around and the time has arrived for me to use my superior military insight on Sergeant McDonald's column again.

Being rather hard up for interesting things to write about and not being exactly sure where the Sergeant filed my box of "Juicy Fruit", I decided this morning that I would personally pay a visit to the station hospital.

This would give me an opportunity to verify certain assumptions I hold regarding my orderly's condition and at the same time give me an excuse for mingling with the nurses.

This, as you readers must undoubtedly understand, is an attempt on my part to enhance my knowledge of military medicine.

When I arrived at the ward where Sergeant McDonald is quartered, I was accosted by a cute blonde nurse with fire in her blazing blue eyes.

"Soldier!," she commands, "What are you wandering around here outside of visiting hours for?"

"Er ahem, Miss—er I'm Colonel T. P. Smampwater of the Infantry," I replied, slightly abashed.

"I don't care if you're George Washington himself. Visiting hours are from 2 to 4 in the afternoon and from 7 to 8 at night, and here you're wandering around here in the middle of the morning. For all I know, you're probably A.W.O.L. I've a great mind to call up your commanding officer. Who is he?"

"Er, Egad!" I replied. "I'm in command of myself. I represent the United States Infantry. The Queen of Battle. The Acme of the attack. The—

"O.K., O.K., Colonel, just calm down and tell me who sent you up here?"

"Nobody sent me," I thundered, "I came up here of my own free will. I plan my own strategy. I wanna see Sgt. McDonald! I'm his commanding officer!"

"I'm sorry, Sir," she replied, "but it is outside of visiting hours, and further more, Sergeant McDonald is up at the nurses' quarters day room telling them about his experiences at the front.

"Shades of Salome, woman!" I bellowed. "That orderly of mine has never been out of Georgia! This is an outrage! I'm the one that should be up there telling those girls about my battle experiences. Escort me up to that young prevaricator. I must have words with him."

"Nothing doing, Colonel," the nurse replied. "The Sergeant is a patient here, and as such is entitled to certain privileges not available to healthy officers. If you want to see him, you'll have to come back during visiting hours."

"Have a stick of my imported cheming gum?" I answered, at the same time changing my tactics. Perhaps I mused, it will be better to outflank this young lady with kind words and something sweet to chew on.

"No, Sir," she answered rather angrily. "I know exactly what you're up to, Colonel. You're a 'wolf' just like the rest of 'em! You all use the same tactics."

"Sput—Sput!" I exclaimed rather unsettled by her sudden counterattack.

"Don't sput at me, you wolf!," she replied menancingly. "If you don't retreat double quick I'm going to call the major!"

"That won't be necessary, madam!" I howled, 'er I mean I answered, putting on my cap and losing no time making my "orderly withdrawal" from the ward without further ado.

On my way back to the office I arrived at the conclusion that the best policy for officers of my rank was to stay away from army nurses. They're absolutely too well versed in Infantry tactics.

As for Sergeant McDonald, I'm gonna send him to the 'front' of his company kitchen for K. P. just as soon as he returns to duty!

This Khaki'd World

By PVT. G. I. GRIPE

Got a kick out of watching Sgts. Stowe and Hornsby of DEML out digging their own bait the other day in preparation for week-end fishing. It isn't like in the old days, is it, gentlemen?

* * *

Boys in Service Company of 176th are wondering if that really was Harvey Mansfield's aunt that he had visiting him at the company a few days ago.

* * *

Out in the Third Student Training Regiment, Officer Candidate Bernard Morris can be made to talk about the life he led in the Fiji Islands and yet he's homesick for Omaha, Neb.

* * *

And in the Third S. T. R., they certainly do have an exquisite sense of humor, too. They tell of O. C. George Scott, of the 15th company, who was offered one of his favorite brands of cigaret from a pack. It exploded. Thinking it was only one in the pack to be "loaded," he helped himself to another. All of the pack had been doctored, he quickly discovered when that one blew up too. So he went over and got his own pack—and when he laid it down for a second, one of the boys switched on him and he had a third one blow up.

* * *

Lots of the boys in the Academic Regiment are hurting badly these days. They're allowed to keep only the three sets of khakis as issued, and must keep clean with only the issue number of socks and underwear, too. They say the fellows caused a heavy run on Kleenex when the order came out limiting them to four hankies per week in the laundry.

* * *

And speaking of hurting—the lads on second floor barracks of DEML are feeling some righteous hurting. Seems that their latrine is used by some of the men from Second Army who refuse to assist in cleaning it and the boys from DEML are getting plenty sick and tired of getting gigged over it.

* * *

But on the other hand, the MP's are all smiles — the restriction against them for dirty barracks at last inspection was lifted as soon as they got on the ball. Yep, fellows, those boys do have human feelings after all.

* * *

Pvt. Curry and Pfc. Mancini of the 300th Infantry made a trip to Birmingham t'other week-end. Claim that in an eaterie there they saw a sign "half milk fed chicken." What they want us to figger out is what the dickens they fed the other half.

* * *

Swell article by Sgt. Tuite in the 300th "Saber" on the wonderful bus service the monopolistic Howard Bus line provides (?) for Fort Benning. That's a guy after my own heart.

Editors of the Pine-Bur are wondering whether they're publishing a newspaper or a mag, in a little item in last issue entitled "The Dye Has Been Cast." They've doctored up front page with one big pix, with border of Infantry Blue. Whatever it is, editors, it makes for a darned good looking publication—but that word should be "Die" not "Dye" unless you were perchance making a pun because you had dyed the front blue?

TO MY MOTHER ON HER BIRTHDAY

You showed me first the faces in the sky
And called them angels, judges, camels, kings.
You taught me how to love the little things
That live upon the earth, and living die.
You brought me near the humming bird to spy
Its dainty flight, a moment's miracle!
You raised my city to a pinnacle of castle towers rising heaven high.
You saved me from the spirits in the fall
Of evening by the lance of lullaby
And the shield of love beyond the nod
Of still exploring sleep, answ'ring the call
Of fairy dancers. In your teardrops, I
Awoke to see the constant smile of God!

OC John Hunter, 3rd Co., 3rd STR

If you want to vote next month and your state is holding an election, and if you are qualified to vote, your first sergeant will give you a form post card with which you may apply to the Secretary of State in your home state for an absentee ballot.

And clasp our hands in friendliness.
Life has so many hidden woes
So many thorns for every rose,
The 'why' of things our hearts would see,
If I knew you and you knew me."

Physical requirements for aviation cadet training have been relaxed and you can get in now if your vision is 20-30 correctable to 20-20. Hearing and dental requirements also have been lowered. You're eligible if you're between the ages of 18 and 26.

There are no Jewish chaplains at a certain base in England but the Protestant chaplain— James O. Kincannon— sees to it that the Jewish men have a weekly service of their own. He conducts it himself.

Red Cross Stands Ready To Assist Benning Soldier

Operating under the Army Regulation 850-75 in each camp here and abroad, the American Red Cross stands ready to assist the personnel in each branch of our Armed Forces. The men and women chosen for these jobs are picked because of their experience and desire to help our boys in the Armed Forces. These people are assigned to the Military and Naval Welfare service of the American Red Cross and follow the military to the four corners of the world. Several articles have been written about the service that is being rendered by the Red Cross but so few know just what the services really consist of and how they fit into the military set up.

Each day some officer or enlisted man questions the type of service that the Red Cross here at Benning can do. What their duties are and how they can assist in such a worthy cause. It is the writer's desire to clear up some of these questions by pointing out the most important details and connections that involve the Military and the American Red Cross operating day and night on this Post.

MORALE EVERYTHING

Each commanding officer knows that the morale of a soldier means everything to his organization. If he is worried about family conditions, financial needs at home, a lost relative, sickness or distress, then he is of little value until he can get that load off his chest.

Through the thousands of Red Cross Chapters in each community in the United States and through the International Red Cross this organization is able to contact anyone and render assistance where assistance is needed. To offer advice and help the soldier-to free his mind of worries that might cause him to become a handicap to his organization.

HOW RC HELPS

At the request of the Commanding Officer, the American Red Cross stands ready to investigate conditions for confidential information needed in considering questions of discharges and furlough; make loans to soldiers to visit home in cases of need (distress, sickness, death) after verification; secure information needed in considering questions of dedications from pay for payment of rent for soldier's family; help adjust personal or family problems affecting morale.

The American Red Cross assists the service man at personal request of a service man or officer by arranging relief for distress of soldier's family; assisting in locating soldier's family; assisting in securing employment for members of soldier's family; advising in solving business problems of soldier or his family; furnish information on Government's program of insurance. allotments, pensions, etc., and assist soldier in handling any difficulties.

MILITARY VS. RED CROSS

The military can assist the Red Cross by referring problems to the Red Cross stations in your own area. For example:

Main Post — Office located across from Doughboy Stadium.

Harmony Church — Office located on Gentry and Cusseta Roads.

Sand Hill — Office located in Theatre No..7.

Alabama Area — Office located adjacent to Post Exchange Building.

Hospital Main Post — Office located in Row C.

Hospital Harmony Church—Office located in Station Hospital Unit No. 2.

When it is necessary to call the Red Cross to have them investigate a death, or sickness, etc., try to have on hand the following information;

Name of soldier, his organization, name and relationship of person to contact back home, his or her complete address, telephone number, name of doctor attending the case will speed up the investigation.

If the person of contact lives on a rural route, try to get the distance from town, or any land mark will help. as the Red Cross workers very often have to drive out to contact the person, and, especially, night calls are hard to make when incomplete information is given.

When a commanding officer wishes to request the Red Cross to send for a "home condition report" for consideration in a dependency discharge, it will speed up getting a reply if he sends a written authorization to the Field Director so he will be authorized to send for it the same day rather than waiting for the authorization to arrive in the office. This is a confidential report and will be turned over the the Commanding Officer for personal records.

The American Red Cross stands ready to assist in any way possible and wants each officer and man alike to realize that the Red Cross is his organization and a friend. Its door is always open and any questions will be answered at any time. Every request cannot be granted, as regulations limit the Red Cross to emergencies, however, if the request is reasonable it will be granted and assistance rendered.

FORT BENNING'S FIRST PIN-UP BOY is Staff Sergeant Marco La Bianca of the Special Service Office, 513th Parachute Infantry. Sgt. La Bianca was selected this week-end by the Columbus Military Maids during the course of a regimental dance. With him in the above photo are Miss Frances Brantley (left) and Miss Evelyn Lyons, both members of the Military Maids of Columbus. Sgt. La Bianca is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph La Bianca of 1067 Second Avenue, New York City, and has been in the Army since April, 1942 when he enlisted. Unmarried and 25 years old, he is 6 feet, 2 inches tall and weighs in at 185 pounds. His attitude towards women? "I say God bless them; I love them all!" (U. S. Army Signal Corps photo.)

Ex-Berliner Praises Our Brazilian Allies

Going to a former resident of Berlin for information regarding one of our South American allies may seem a round about way of gaining information, but Candidate Franz R. Brotzen of the 12th Company, Third Student Training Regiment, of The Infantry School has proved an exception.

Candidate Brotzen, born in Berlin, Germany, in 1915 when asked to tell a little about life in Germany, dismissed the land of his birth with a wave of the hand and at once started talking about Brazil.

"If you want excitement, and opportunity of an American frontier brand, go to Brazil," was Brotzen's advice to soldiers who feel footloose after the war.

"Precious and semi-precious stones, coffee, cattle, beans, corn are a few of the products of the interior which are ready for development and production. Getting the products as well as iron ore and manganese, out of the interior present a problem which the young adventurer can help to solve," he continued.

"In four and one-half years I traveled 12,000 miles on a mule, and that was the only transportation available in that section," he declared.

"In country where not even a jeep can travel now, are products the world will be wanting, products in which the United States is already investing. In southwest Bahia and northern Minos we have twenty-five year leases on iron and manganese deposits which engineers and geologists must develop.

During 1937 and 1938 no rain fell in the section in which he was located. The population executed a mass movement a few miles and settled in the fertile jungle where rainfall was plentiful.

Brotzgen arrived in Brazil in 1934. After working a short time as a mechanic he went to work in a chemical factory and was later sent to the interior where he worked until 1941. He arrived in the United States seven days before Pearl Harbor. Until ten months ago Candidate Brotzen was working in Cleveland for the Brazilian National Steel Co., under whose sponsorship a large steel mill is being constructed in Brazil. His job terminated when he was drafted for service in the Army of the United States. Since that time he has become a citizen and now is a candidate for a commission in The Infantry School.

The courage and fighting ability of the Brazilian is a point of admiration according to Brotzen. They are extremely conscious of being American and are much more proud of any Indian blood they may possess than of any of their European extraction.

On one point he was emphatic. "There is not a large percentage of Nazism in Brazil," he declared. "I'm safe in saying that the percentage of Germans loyal to the homeland is no greater than that found in the United States."

Mary Reynolds Is New Fiscal Office Chief Clerk

Woman Biggest Check Writer At Fort Benning

Writing checks of from two to four million dollars covering commercial accounts at Fort Benning for one month is only part of the responsibility of Mary Reynolds, newly appointed chief clerk in the post fiscal office.

Functions of the coordinated fiscal organization consist mainly of budgeting and estimating; accounting and reporting; certification of availability of funds; and internal audits.

All decentralized fiscal sections now operated by procuring, obligating and service agencies of this command such as medical, quartermaster ordnance, motor transport district, post engineer, engineer property officer, chemical depot, signal officer, transportation officer, finance officer and civilian personnel branch were discontinued on August 31 and the new fiscal office began functioning Sept. 1.

Miss Reynolds came to Fort Benning in April, 1926, as stenographer and file clerk in the Finance office, located at that time on the present site of Post Headquarters.

During the period from 1926 to 1933 she took over enlisted payrolls, office vouchers, wrote checks and assisted the cashier. In the absence of the chief clerk she was acting chief.

In 1933 the Commercial Accounts Section came under her jurisdiction and with it the responsibility of seeing that all accounts were correctly settled—including in these accounts the paying for all construction that has been made on this mighty Army post.

The holder of five certificates of graduation from correspondence courses given by the U. S. Army Finance School — graduating No. 1 in a class of over 350 enlisted and civilian students of the Finance Department from all over the world, Miss Reynolds has prepared herself well for the high position she holds today in this new Fiscal Office of the Finance Division.

During her years at the Finance Office Miss Reynolds has worked under some of the most outsanding finance officers in the Army today. Colonel Royal G. Jenks who escaped from Corrigidor in a submarine and is now chief of Allied Supply Council of the World with headquarters in Australia. Colonel William T. Johnson, now executive officer under Fiscal Director of the War Department in Washington and Col. L. H. Sims, who went to London with Gen. "Ike" Eisenhower, thence to Africa with the invasion troops in charge of all finance activities in that theater of operations are just a few.

Miss Reynolds has worked under Col. John H. McFall, finance director, until her change on September 1 to the Fiscal office.

ULYSSES GRANT GETS BARS

Ulysses Grant was commissioned a second lieutenant in the United States Army during graduation exercises of the 14th Company, Second Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School. This one is Ulysses J. Grant and he hails from Byars, Okla. He is not related to former President Ulysses S. Grant.

went way back to the Spanish-American war or thereabouts.

Apparently the two sets of records were together in the files and a clerk had taken out the wrong Sgt. Stow's papers.

295 Enrolled In Post School

Two hundred and ninety-five students are enrolled for the fall term at the Children's School at Fort Benning, Lt. Jack H. Campbell, post school officer, disclosed this week.

Of this number, 235 are in the first through seventh grade, and 60 are taking kindergarten instruction. This is a decrease in attendance from last year, but an increase over anticipated enrollment.

The decrease was expected due to opening of Baker Village School, which handles all students in that district in grades up to last year high.

Lt. Campbell said that children of military personnel may register at the Children's School anytime during the semester, as long as there are facilities to take care of them. However, kindergarten classes are now full and no more children can be accommodated during the fall term.

Right Church, Wrong Pew, Stow Learns

When First Sgt. Russell A. Stow, Headquarters Detachment, Section 1, filled out his application recently for longevity pay, he was happy to get a reply from the appropriate bureau in Washington in record time.

But when he looked over the papers closely, he discovered that there were several discrepancies on the records. He checked and found that the Washington bureau had returned papers on his uncle, of exactly the same name, who had served in the same organization—Battery E of the 112th Field Artillery—at the same time as Sgt. Stow—only the uncle's record

He Wants To Be A Paratrooper, And That's That

Private Demosthenes Valkeris wants to be a paratrooper and that's that.

Stationed at Charleston, S. C., Valkeris, of Greek descent who is an ex-welterweight boxer from Boston, Mass., first got the notion several months ago.

Biding his time, he finally secured a three-day pass in order to visit the Parachute School at Fort Benning.

Upon seeing paratroops in action, Pvt. Valkeris knew that this was the life for him. He decided there was no need to report back to Charleston; he'd start training right away. So he reported promptly to school authorities, seeking to enroll. The personnel officer explained there was the little matter of red tape and orders. But Valkeris insisted.

Finally, parachute authorities agreed to wire Charleston to see how his commanding officer felt about the situation. A terse reply followed, "Three day pass up. Return immediately."

But Valkeris has not given up hope as the school encouraged his application providing he trims down a 200-pound frame.

Before starting on a night mission study the details of the area to be covered, in the daylight if possible, and from photographs and maps.

Benning Fiscal Functions Under Single Office

Colonel Homer Wright Named By Gen. Fulton To Administrative Post

All fiscal functions at Fort Benning have been centralized into one fiscal office with Lt. Col. Homer D. Wright, recently assigned to the post, as fiscal officer, Brigadier General Walter S. Fulton, post commander, announces.

Formerly decentralized fiscal sections had operated at the post. Under Col. Wright the Post Fiscal office will be responsible for budgeting and estimating, accounting and reporting, certification of availability of funds and internal audits of post funds.

The new setup will eliminate branch fiscal offices and is in line with policy of the Army Service Forces to consolidate various offices within the Service Force establishment. The branch fiscal offices which have been discontinued are in the Medical Department, Quartermaster, Ordnance, Motor Transport District, Signal Office, Post Engineer, Engineer Property Office, Chemical Depot, Transportation Office, Finance Office and Civilian Personnel Branch.

Second Lieut. Joseph Berlin has been designated as assistant post Fiscal officer.

The Post Fiscal Office is located in the Finance Office Annex on the Main Post. Civilian employes will include a chief clerk, Miss Mary E. Reynolds, and seven others.

All appropriated funds, regardless of source, which are allotted to the Commanding General of the Post, will be administered by the Post Fiscal Officer.

A native of Orlando, Fla., Col. Wright is a graduate of the First Training Camp at Fort Niagara, N. Y., after which he served as a first lieutenant at Camp Meade. After the war, he served from 1935 to 1940 at headquarters of the Southern Texas District of the CCC and before Pearl Harbor was called back to active service in the Army.

He served as assistant adjutant general at headquarters of the 8th Service Command, and from Feb. 1, 1941, to Jan. 10, 1943. He then went to Camp Gruber, Okla., as camp personnel officer, serving until April 30, 1943, when he was sent to the Infantry School at Fort Benning. He is married and lives on the main post.

Station Hospital Men Oversubscribe Own War Loan Goal

During the 12 days between September 6 and 18 soldiers of Fort Benning's Station Hospital detachments purchased over $26,000 in War savings bonds to smash their goal of $25,000 for the Third War Loan Drive.

Major John B. Joyner, commanding officer of the group added that the drive was organized by the enlisted men and successfully put across the leadership of Master Sergeant W. C. Thompson, assisted by representatives from all sections of the Main hospital and outlying clinics. Unit Number 2, on duty with the Harmony Church Hospital, led all others with total cash sales exceeding $10,000.

Money was raised wiith different sales stunts as well as straight purchases. A war bond dance, featuring the medics own band was held for all enlisted men of the detachment, and various prizes for bond sales were offered.

Major Joyner said that as a final wind-up of 3rd War Loan Drive activities another bond rally has been planned for the medics September 30, featuring music, free aats, and drings.

More Lucky EM's Advanced

The following enlisted men in the Seventh Armored Division have received promotions:

Division Headquarters: To staff sergeant, Alton L. Rohrbaugh; sergeant, Christian Stager; private first class, James E. Little.

Supply Battalion: To staff sergeant, Clifford J. Brumfield; technician fourth grade, Charles Stelenski; corporal, James F. Busston; technician fifth grade, Louis E. Munn, Stanley F. Wenglass.

31st Armored Regiment: To sergeant, James R. Fisher; technician fourth grade, Marvin A. Abel; corporal, Richard W. Shoop; technician fifth grade, Zenon M. Aldrete, Howard R. Peterson.

40th Armored Regiment: To master sergeant, Mayne W. Anderson; staff sergeant, Hureter J. McGrath; technician fourth grade, William W. Vitez; technician fifth grade, Alan G. Ebert, Walter Cox, Alfred Castelli, Anton F. Karm.

77th Medical Battalion: To sergeant, George W. Lipp.

440th Field Artillery Battalion: To technician fifth grade, John A. Wisniewski.

Order Your Coal Early
A Full Ton of Satisfaction
Martin Bros. Coal Co.
29th St. & 4 th Ave. Dial 2-4221

SALTERS
20c TAXI
CLEAN CARS
COURTEOUS DRIVERS
WHITE PATRONS ONLY
DIAL 5321
1017—1st AVE.

Visit . . .
SOUTHERN MANOR
FOR THE BEST ENTERTAINMENT
with the Stars That Fall on Alabama
JIMMY THOMAS — Singing Master of Ceremonies
ROD RODNEY — Dancer
MARIA — Tap Dancer and Spanish Juggler
BUDDY HOPP — Orchestra
TEA DANCE SUNDAY AFTERNOON
4:30 to 6:30—No Cover—No Mimimum Charge
ENJOY FAMOUS SOUTHERN MANOR STEAK AND CHICKEN
Southern Manor

PEST CONTROL SERVICE
ROACHES, RATS, BEDBUGS
CREATORS OF EXTERMINATION
ORKIN
EXTERMINATING COMPANY, INC.
115—12th ST.
PHONE 6744

DEPENDABLE WORK
COLUMBUS WATCH REPAIRS
HAROLD PEOPLES
PAUL FAISON
932 Broadway

PHOTO FANS
For Better Snap-Shots
Have Your Film Developed at
Parkman Photo Service
1121½ Broadway Dial 6451
Free Enlargement Given Each Day.
24-HOUR SERVICE

Sure—it's swell to talk with that cute little "eye-ful" on the telephone! And the other fellows enjoy talking to their girl friends just as you do to yours. So whenever you're inside the booth, don't forget the other fellows waiting in line to place their calls. Please be as brief as possible.
If there's a delay on your long distance call, please wait outside the booth. Then someone else can talk while the operator is obtaining a clear circuit for you.
SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY
INCORPORATED

L & M MOTOR CO.
JUST OPENED
MODELS FROM '36 to '42
We have something New to offer
Come, Look and Drive.
The HOLLYWOOD SUPER-CHARGER
T. L. BUCK MILLER, Mgr 16th St.-2nd Ave.

IT'S WISE!
IT'S PATRIOTIC!
IT'S PROFITABLE!
To Buy
WAR BONDS
and
FOREMOST ICE CREAM

RIGHT DRESS—
CALLS FOR RICH'S UNIFORMS
Officers with eyes to the future want a uniform of comfort, exceptional fit, expert tailoring! Regulation uniforms of the finest material by America's outstanding uniform makers! Rich's Military Store has just what you need!
BLOUSE, Elastique, 19-ounce All-Wool 32.50
PANTS, Elastique, Army Regulations 12.00
RICH'S MILITARY STORE
1236 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

Sportscasting

BY SGT. CARL NEU

GRIDIRON BOWL HEROES

Gridiron bowl heroes will sprout all over Doughboy Stadium this fall when the Gators, Sabers and Spirits take the wraps off their super-collection of former collegiate pigskin aces. Right now you don't hear too much about some of these lads, but you can bet your bottom dollar that they are right here at Benning and they'll be parading before your eyes in about another fortnight.

They're the same lads, too, who no longer than last January were grabbing national headlines for their gridiron prowess. Just for example, From the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena to Benning in three army jumps and three tough months at O. C. school have come Georgia's Lamar Davis (124th), Jim Todd (124th), Andy Dudush (176th), George Poschner (176th), and Jim Miller (176th). Then there's U. C. L. A.'s Bob Waterfield 176th), Al Solaro (300th), Marv Lee (176th), and Pete Oxford (124th). Right you are, nine men straight from the Rose Bowl to Doughboy Stadium!

But that's not all. From the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans have come three members of the Tennessee Vols, victors over Tulsa's Golden Hurricanes. They are Ike Peel, Bill Meek and Bill Knowling, and they're all with the 300th and all in the same backfield just as they were a year ago. From the Alabama Crimson Tide eleven which swept to Orange Bowl glory over Boston College, the 124th has corralled Sam Sharp and Jack McKewen, while Hal Edge of the 300th played with Georgia Tech against Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

And that list just includes the '43 bowl games. There are doubtless many others on the roster of the Benning "Big Three" who made New Year's Day visits to a bowl game during the past few years. We'll know about 'em all in due time.

"DREAM TEAM" TO MAJORS

Speaking of stars and super-stars, we'd like to bet our old battered campaign hat, that's been such a constant companion at Gowdy Field this summer, that at least a half dozen of the names listed on the Bayonet's baseball "dream team" this week will be major league stars at war's end.

We're all quite confident that Benny Zientara, who had already embarked on his big league career when Uncle Sam called, will return and eventually be the regular second-sacker for the Cincy Reds. But what about Bob Ramazotti, Elmer Niebler, Red McClusky, and the three pitchers—Wissman, Prendergast and Blackwell? They're all young and still on the way up.

We've left out Moore, Simmons, Richardson and Smith for several reasons. Moore, afters ten years in the Cardinal chain, has decided on a managerial career and will naturally start in the minors after V-day. Simmons renounced a professional career almost ten years ago to go into private business and naturally won't change his mind at this late date. Richardson and Smith made their living in another business previously and will probably return to those occupations.

But those other six lads will be plenty ripe in another year or so. Ramazotti, who had moved up as far as Durham in the Piedmont, should go on up like a skyrocket. Potentially, he's one of the greatest shortstops we've ever seen and a lot of other folks share that opinion. McClusky was ready for Montreal in the International this year after a great 1942 season in the Three-I. He belongs to Brooklyn and will be a Branch Rickey rosebud after the war.

Elmer Niebler, another youngsier, was playing with Salisbury in the North Carolina State loop, but had been called in by Jersey City for a look-see by the International League farm of the N. Y. Giants when his draft number came up. The two seasons he's spent here have helped a lot and he should be ready for Double-A ball in peacetime.

Wissman and Blackwell had already made the grade in the International, Eddie with Rochester (Cardinal farm) and Ewell with Syracuse (Red farm). Their next step is into the National League. Prendergast was with the Little Rock in the Southern, but the Reds had purchased him when he left for the Army.

Maybe it won't be so very long, then, until we'll be reading about the deeds of Zientara, Blackwell and Prendergast with the Reds; Wissman with the Cardinals; McClusky with the Dodgers, and Ramazotti perhaps with the Cubs or Pirates or someone else. Sure hope so, anyway, and it'll be fun to say you knew them when!

ARDENT FAN TO RETIRE

The impending retirement from active duty of Col. Harry N. Burkhalter, Academic Regiment commander, announced elsewhere in this issue, will deprive the post of one of its most ardent sports fans. We can't remember a baseball or basketball game in the last two years that Colonel Burkhalter has missed unless his military duties called him away. Whether the game is good or bad, he's always on the sidelines, and the Prof teams, win or lost, have been his pride and joy.

Not only has the Academic C. O. been a great fan, he's also been a solid booster of post sports. It was only three seasons ago that he coached the Prof baseballers as a lieutenant colonel. Even this year, he occasionally went into the dugout, as in the recent title series, to give the lads an extra boost. Benning sportsdom will miss Colonel Burkhalter, a fine soldier and a splendid sportsman.

SIDELIGHT ON THE SERIES

Little Walt Poland, Spirit southpaw, who emerged as Hero No. 1 of the 176th triumph, pitched for the first time this season since 1940 when he crippled his arm while hurling for Staunton in the Virginia State loop . . . Most admirable figure in the series was Wissman, who stood on the mound in the sixth game after winning ten straight starts and took his licking like a man . . . Johnny Russo's spectacular play at short for the Profs was no fluke. It was simply a return to the old form that he flased last season and early this year . . . Prasse couldn't hit a thing in the first three games, then turned around and knocked the cover off the apple in the last four . . . Roddy Thompson, who started the second game in center for the Profs, is probably the fastest man at the post on the basepaths and proved it by beating out an infield hit his first time at bat . . . Don't ever forget that one big factor in the Spirit victory was Sparky Sahara's knowledge of he batting weaknesses of every Prof prayer. Sahara's knowledge of he batting weaknesses of every Prof prayer. . . . Frankie Schultz ended up with a fractured wrist in the fifth game when he was hit on that member by a Rundus speedball while at the plate . . . Poland's arm was so sore during his fourth-game victory that trainers had to keep working on it between every inning.

Spirits Reign As Baseball Kings After Toppling Profs In Great 7-Game Series

WINNERS AND NEW CHAMPS of Benning baseball are these scrappy members of the 176th Infantry. Bottom row, left to right are: Sodowsky, Dench, Deliman, Cortazzo, Veihmeyer, Poland, and Lukovich. In the middle: Harlow, Harbaugh, Crumpler, Erb, Richardson, Wissman, and Riley. On the top row: Coach Joe Thomas, Spencer, Epstine, Putman, Paytas, Schultz, Geiger, Ramazotti, and Klevan. In the insets at the top are Skeeter Reed and Shuffle Lohr on the left, and Pat Cooper and Sparky Sahara on the right.

Poland Is Hero For Fighting 176th Tossers

Fort Benning's own "world series" reached a smashing climax on Saturday night before a wildly-cheering crowd of 8,000 fans at Gowdy Field when the "never-give-up" Spirits of the 176th Infantry outplayed the Academic Regiment Profs to capture the 1943 post championship.

The final score of the seventh and deciding game was 7-5 with the Spirits roaring back to victory after suffering two humiliating defeats in th fifth and sixth battles which threw the series into a deadlock. Stung by those losses, the 176th grabbed an early lead in the final tilt and never was headed until the game and title had been won.

EARLY LEAD

In the first inning, the Spirits took a two-run lead, but Erwin Prasse blasted a homer for the Profs in the second to cut that margin in half. The Spirits got one run in each of the third and fourth frames, but the Profs tallied in the fifth and the Spirits held but a two-run lead.

At this point Pat Cooper, who was on the mound for the 176th, retired from the hill and handled the initial sack for the balance of the fray. Up to this point, Cooper had allowed just two hits, both round trip clouts by Prasse and Mercer.

POLAND AGAIN

Succeeding the tall right hander was Walt Poland, twice victor in the series, and never was the southpaw more deadly to the Profs. The Academics finally solved his slants in the last half of the ninth, managing to get the tying run on second base, but Poland forced Joe Dickinson to ground out for the final out, the ball game and the series.

FOUR HITS

For the Spirits, it was Larry Richardson, with four hits, including a triple and two doubles, who sewed up the fray for the new champs. His mighty three-bagger came in the eighth with two mates aboard to insure the Spirit victory. Prior to this point, the 176th held a mere one run lead.

The Profs, who refused to quit, came back in the ninth to push a pair across the plate, but Poland's steady hurling turned them back. It was the second time in the past ten years that the Academic Regiment has failed to win the coveted crown, the last time being in 1939.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Spirits won the first, second, fourth and seventh games by scores of 3 to 1, 4 to 2, 6 to 5, and 7 to 5, while the Profs took the third, fifth and sixth by 16 to 6, 6 to 0, and 14 to 1 counts.

In the pitcher's record, Poland was the only undefeated hurler with a pair of wins. Dickinson had two wins and one loss, while Eddie Wissman and Cooper had a one and one record. Rury Rundus garnered one victory for the Profs, while dropping two tests, and Frankie Schultz and Lefty Lehner took one each on the chin.

Gridiron Guesswork

By G. I. Observer

(Note: First named team below is our selected winner.)

124th Infantry vs. Jacksonville—It'll be speed and aerial attack for the Gators versus power for the Air Raiders. We'll string with the soldiers till we're proven wrong.

Georgia vs. L. S. U.—The Bayou Tigers are reputedly loaded for bear, but the Bulldogs looked good against Presbyterian. One doubtful vote for friend Wally Butts and Co.

GeorgiaTech vs. North Carolina—One of the big games of the day. It may be rough going for the Yellowjackets but we think they'll take the Tarheels into camp.

Notre Dame vs. Pitt—One emphatic vote for Frank Leahy and his Navy-strengthened Irish over Clark Shaughnessy and his civilian Panthers.

Southern Cal. vs. U. C. L. A.—Too many Uclans are now playing right here at Benning. They can't have much left. One ballot for the Trojans.

California vs. St. Mary's—The Golden Bears inherited most of the 1942 Stanford squad and look awfully strong. We like 'em.

Army vs. Villanova—The Wildcats might pull a sleeper on the Kaydets but it looks like a West Point year. Army all the way.

Navy vs. North Carolina Pre-Flight—The Middies from Annapolis have more than enough stuff to whip the cadets.

Dartmouth vs. Holy Cross—The Big Green inherited Andrejco and Cheverko, Fordham's touchdown twins. 'Nuff said!

Northwestern vs. Indiana—Despite their terrific losses, the Wildcats should have enough left to topple the Hoosiers who were held to a tie last week by Miami of Ohio.

Duke vs. Richmond—It's a Blue Devil year!

Purdue vs. Marquette—Boilermakers are always tough to handle and this week should be no exception.

Princeton vs. Penn—With four regulars from last year's Quaker varsity now on their side, the Tigers rate the nod.

Yale vs. Coast Guard—The Bulldogs will be on the rebound after that Rochester defeat and should take the verdict.

Rochester vs. Colgate — We're playing a hunch here that the Yale win was no fluke. Rochester, dark horse of the East, should win!

Southern Methodist vs. Tulsa—Without Glenn Dobbs, the Golden Hurricanes will be just another team. A quick vote for the Mustangs.

Great Lakes vs. Iowa — Rebounding from their Purdue defeat, the Navy lads will probably take it out on the depleted Hawkeyes.

Minnesota vs. Missouri—Everyone has the crying towel out for the poor 'ole Gophers, but we learned long ago never to bet against 'em. A hasty vote for the Skiumah gridders!

Former West Point Hurler Taking Course In 1st STR

One of the West Point diamond whizzes attending the Officers Basic Course at The Infantry School is Lieutenant John W. Collins. A resident of Gallion, Ala., he's now a member of the 11th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment.

Rising to fame as a top-notch pitcher for the cadets during 1941, 1942, and 1943, Collins won his monogram in '42 and his varsity "A" this spring. He hurled the Army nine to victory over Columbia, Navy, Lafayette, Swarthmore, and Williams during the 1943 season.

Johnny Vander Meer, fireball pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, flunked his Army physical but teammate Bert Haas passed his and will report for induction in three weeks.

Benning Boxers Lose Decision In Hot Battles At Camp Rucker

Garcia Loses An Odd Decision; Aguirre Wins

BY CORP. JOHN J. FITYGIBBON

A boxing team made up of members from the 300th and 176th Infantry Regiments went down to defeat in a poorly refereed match at Camp Rucker, Alabama, last Friday night. Rucker boys booed lustily two very raw decisions made by their own referee and judges in favor of the local team.

The card called for nine fights, two of them preliminaries. In the first of the latter Ray Smith of the 300th bounced a fusilade of hard body blows off the tattooed chest of Rucker's Fullhart and dropped the fighter to the canvas twice in the short bout. Smith won hands down.

The second preliminary saw Ed Wright of the 300th knock his Rucker opponent to the floor for good in the second round. Wright hit the boy with everything he had and kept him on the floor for most of the two rounds.

AGUIRRE WINS

Freddie Aguirre of the 176th, in the first official fight of the evening, drew a tough opponent in the person of Hare, but Freddie was just a little tougher. The bout went to the Fort Benning team by a unanimous decision.

In the next fight Michael Gill of the 300th spent most of his time in the ring chasing Owens, a jack rabbit fighter for Rucker. No real punches were landed and the decision went to the fleet, long-armed Rucker boy.

DISPUTE DECISION

The flyweight bout was a fast moving affair with Joe Garcia of the 300th boxing for Benning. Joe drew a nopponent taller and heavier than himself but he kept the Rucker fighter busy warding off sharp, stinging mosquito blows. At the end of the third round, Joe and the Fort Benning contingent were all smiles; they figured the decision was in the bag—it was—in Camp Rucker's bag. This was one of the two bouts that brought loud boos from the Rucker audience.

CHAMP TOPS DAVIS

The best fight of the evening saw Dan Davis of the 300th matched against Rucker's Dodd, national champ in the AAU of two years ago. Davis weighed in at 130 while his taller and huskier opponent tipped the scales at 138. With both boys slugging for all they were worth the bout brought the audience consistently to its feet, but Davis lost on a close decision.

Jack Monroe of the 300th bothered Joseph, a champ from Chicago, with his rapier left hand which was in Joseph's face most of the time. Both boys hit hard and fast but Monroe was a little too good for the hairy Joseph.

Going into the final bout the score stood 3 to 3 as the Rucker heavy was disqualified when he failed to pass the last minute physical.

GARCIA ROBBED

Rudy Garcia of the 300th climbed through the ropes with the admonition of Coach Roger Reeves in his ears, "Remember this fight means the match". Rudy knew it altogether too well and he promptly hit his heavy lefthanded opponent with everything but the water bucket.

In the first round a terrific blow on the face rocked the Rucker boy back on his heels. Both boys fought well and the decision looked plainly in Garcia's favor at the end of the bout, but the referee and judges decided otherwise. This decision brought the Rucker fans booing to their feet for the second time in the evening.

A return match between the two teams is scheduled for October 1st here at Benning.

1943 "Dream Team"

1b	Herb Moore	Academic Profs
2b	Ben Zientara	Academic Profs
3b	Red McClusky	6th TR Eagles
ss	Bob Ramazotti	176th Spirits
lf	L. C. Richardson	176th Spirits
cf	Vern Smith	124th Gators
rf	Elmer Niebler	Academic Profs
c	George Simmons	6th TR Eagles
p	Lefty Wissman	176th Spirits
p	Jim Prendergast	6th TR Eagles
p	Ewell Blackwell	124th Gators

UTILITY INFIELDER: Dib Williams, 764th Tanks
UTILITY OUTFIELDER: Chet Dabbs, Academic Profs.
MOST VALUABLE: Lefty Wissman and Ben Zientara.
HONORABLE MENTION: Infielders—Grate (300th), Poland (176th), Silverman (3rd STR), DiBlasi (300th), Inoff (124th), Freeman (300th), Ankrom (124th), Russo (Academic), Haddock (764th), Elsie (3rd STR). Outfielders—Strukel (3rd STR), Prasse (Academic), Lohr (176th), Rogers (124th), Gallivan (6th TR), Kemether (6th TR), Kunkel (300th), Cox (Academic). Catchers—Sahara (176th), Stoker (124th), Bobo (Academic), Cooper (176th).

Pollock Plans on 2 Sets Of Backs in S. C. Battle

"We are planning to have at least two backfields ready by next Saturday," stated Coach Bud Pollock of the 176th Spirits as he looked over a dozen or so backs in a passing drill. "Right now, it's hard to pick 'em out, but we'll know by the first of next week."

At the present time, the Spirit mentor is using Bob Waterfield, Sully Harris, Andy Dudish and Jack McCaughan in one combination, with Forrest Russell breaking into the first quartet at times. "Pat Ronzone is going to do us a lot of good," Pollock continued, "and Marve Mathre and Harry Hartman can really get around."

ENDS NO PROBLEM

On the line, the ends appear to be about the only solved problem, with George Poschner, Harry Hales, Connie Adams, John Lockamy and Marv Lee looking better every day. This quartet will be on the receiving end of many a Waterfield or Harris pass.

"We are getting into trouble due to injuries to our tackles and guards," Pollock went on, "George White just got it, but not so bad and Frank Puttman is back with us now. Warren Souders and Angel Piedolsky are improving a lot, while Jim Miller and John Shea are holding forth. Bill Brantley and Izzy Vallorani are going to make us a good pair of centers."

LINE LOOKS BETTER

There is a considerable improvement in the functioning of the line. And yesterday morning saw some impressive blocking and charging. Doc Herman, team doctor, was on hand and stated "When they get mad, you can see a definite change. They look a lot better than at this time last week."

The opening game still remains on October 2nd, with no game being scheduled for this Saturday. A tentative arrangement had been made with Millsaps College, but the Jackson, Miss.,

300,000 Fans Witnessed TIS Baseball Games

Major Gowdy Estimates Attendance At Tilts During 1943 Season

The Infantry School Baseball League season which closed last week with a thrilling seven-game series for the championship, attracted 300,000 fans to Gowdy Field according to an estimate by Maj. Harry Gowdy, Special Service Officer of the school.

There are no turnstiles at Gowdy Field and therefore no accurate count of attendance could be made. But Maj. Gowdy has been around baseball parks for over a quarter of a century, a fact which makes him well qualified to present a reasonably accurate estimate of the attendance.

50,000 SEE SERIES

Attendance for the seven game championship series was estimated at 50,000. The grandstand at Gowdy Field holds a little over 7,000 and it, and the bleachers, were jammed to capacity for all seven games.

There were 72 games played during the regular season at Gowdy Field and something like 30 at Harmony Church. The Major figures that 250,000 attended these games. In addition to The Infantry School League games, he estimated the attendance at the Academic Regiment-Parachute School three game play-off for the first half post title to be 12,000 with 25,000 watching the five game series between the 176th Infantry and Parachute School for the second half post championship.

BETTER THAN MINORS

The overall total would warm the cockles of many minor baseball league club owners hearts. It wasn't so long ago that the Phillies in the National League and Browns in the American had season attendance figures below that mark. The overall total, too, does not include attendance at the two other leagues' games.

At most of the games, regimental bands were in attendance to enliven the occasion. When the 176th played the 124th, bands from both units alternated in playing and then joined to play under the leadership of first one bandmaster and then the other. Late in the season, the 176th presented a very talented trumpet player who turned in some hot licks to thrill the G.I. jive hounds.

300th Gridmen Gaining Polish

Face Draper Prison Eleven On Sunday

With the opening game of the season only a few days off, the 300th football team rushed through final scrimmages this past week to knock off rough spots on an otherwise clicking eleven.

This Sunday the untried team will receive its first test in a warm-up game with Draper Prison in Alabama. The Sabers don't expect much opposition but are anxious to find out how the team will shape up in actual competition.

Draper Prison fell to the 124th Infantry by a score of 93 to 0 on Friday, September 17th. The Sabers don't promise to equal this feat but hope to make a good showing against the prison.

October 3rd looms as the big test for both the Sabers and Gators when they clash here at Doughboy Stadium in the first big game of the 1943 football season on the home lot.

Now A Ping-Pong Feud's Brewing— '42 Champ Left Out Of Tourney

By PFC. J. C. WOODALL

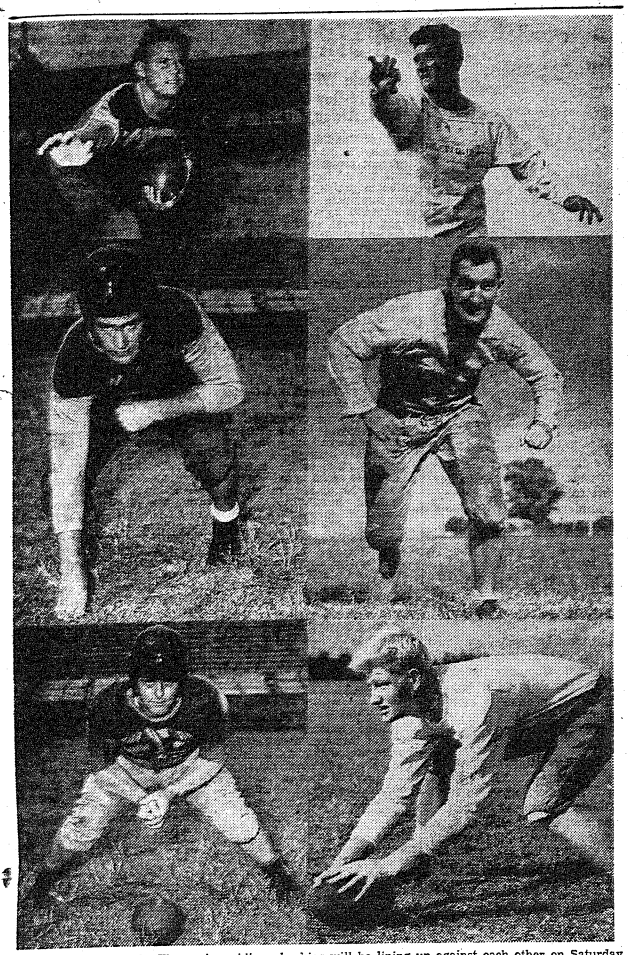
Pvt. Wilner P. Rhine is the "ping-pong champ" of Fort Benning — according to a story printed in last week's Bayonet. This alleged Post championship ostensibly includes the 7th Armored Division, the vast Alabama area and the even more spacious main Post area.

Here in the Academic Regiment area we have a certain T-4, named Lennie Summers, who won the Post crown and trophy in 1942 and was the runner-up in 1943. Briefly, he's a wow at the game, and if you don't believe it, ask the national table-tennis association.

Sgt. Summers unfortunately did not get an invitation to the past tourney that Pvt. Rhine copped.

Heretofore, Sgt. Summers has accepted all challenges from claimants to the Post throne. We do not believe he would refuse a challenge from the 7th Armored Division titleholder.

If Pvt. Rhine wants to be Fort Benning's champ, he would challenge our Academic ace!



BAMA CLUB
Cocktail Bar Open 6 P. M.
TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY—9 P. M. & 11 P. M.
CHICKEN DINNERS, $1.50 . WESTERN STEAK, $2.00
MUSIC BY VERNON YONKERS ORCHESTRA
For Reservations Dial 3-1051
Just Across Lower Bridge. First Building on Right
Admission: Week Nites 50c Saturday Nite $1

SERIES' CROWD—Crowds of better than 7,000 per game jammed Gowdy Field for every night of the Spirit-Prof series. Shown above are spectators and bandsmen in the 176th rooting section going wild when the Spirits staged an early-inning rally in the final game.

Gators Set For Air Raider Game

SATURDAY RIVALS—These six gridiron huskies will be lining up against each other on Saturday afternoon at Jacksonville, Fla., when the 124th Gators invade the lair of the famed Air Raiders. At the top are Lamar Davis (Benning) and Gus Letchas (Jacksonville), both former Georgia Bulldog backs. In the middle you'll see Bob Fitzgerald (Benning), former Fordham guard, and Fred Ellis (Jacksonville), who played for both Wisconsin and the Iowa Seahawks in past seasons at tackle. Below are the rival centers, Bill Corey (Benning), ex-Columbia Lion, and Brad Ecklund (Jacksonville), former University of Oregon star. (Photos of Gators by Sgt. Mel Stock, Post Signal Lab. Pictures of Air Raiders are Officials U. S. Navy Photos.)

124th Invades Florida For Jacksonville Tilt

Fort Benning's 1942 post champs, the 124th Infantry Gators, will officially open the pigskin campaign on Saturday afternoon when they invade Jacksonville, Fla., for an Army-Navy clash with the high-flying Air Raiders of the Naval Air Technical Training Command.

Augmented by a dozen new stars, fresh from the college gridirons of last fall, the Gators will go into their first major battle of the season rated on even terms with the powerful Jacksonville eleven which has several holdovers from the 1942 Air Station Fliers, one of the best service teams in the nation.

The Gator-Air Raider battle will be played on Cadet Field at the Air Station starting at 2:15. A large crowd of sailors, marines and air cadets are expected to watch the big elevens clash at the great naval air base on the Florida east coast.

LEAVE TONIGHT

Major Red Milton, burly ex-Georgia Bulldog line star who is returning for his second year at the Gator helm, will assemble his 45-man squad late this afternoon for the Florida trip. "Big Red" hopes to put his men through a passing and punting drill at Cadet Field tomorrow afternoon and then rest them for the Saturday classic. The 124th eleven will return Sunday.

The Gators will carry Benning's banner into battle against a big, fast team that is coached by Capt. Fred Frink, a Marine officer, once of the University of Illinois. Frink has assembled a likely-looking 40-man squad of sailors, marines and air cadets that bids fair to be among the Navy's top elevens this fall.

INJURED RAIDERS

Reports received from Jacksonville early this week indicated that about 15 of the Air Raiders were suffering from minor injuries that have caused them to miss several practice sessions. However, most of the casualties will be in shape by Saturday.

Major Milton was rather uncommunicative early in the week on his starting line-up, but did state that the big Orange and Blue squad would be in excellent condition for the Air Raider clash.

HALFBACKS NAMED

Two backs who are certain to start for the Gators are Roy Cestary and Lamar Davis at the halfback slots. Cestary, who played one year at Notre Dame, is the big offensive threat of the soldier eleven, operating from the tailback slot where he can pass, run or kick. Last fall, he was the "Mr. Big" of post football circles and promises to be even better this season.

Davis, known the nation over as "Racehorse," was Frankie Sinkwich's running mate last year on the Georgia Bulldogs who romped to Rose Bowl glory. He will run at wingback for the Gators, as he did at Georgia, and will also play in the safety position on defense where his great speed will be a threat on runbacks of punts.

JOOS MAY START

The other two backfield starters are still in doubt, but Milton has plenty of good material to draw upon. Either Leo Joos, a much improved back from the 1942 squad, or Bob White, Indiana's captain last year, will get the call at fullback. Nick Calos and George Chakurda, two veteran holdovers, are battling for the blocking spot at quarterback with Iowa's Bill Stauss certain to see plenty of action. Georgia's Jim Todd will spell Cestary at left half.

Along the line, the Gators will probably have Junie Belin and Alabama's Sam Sharp at the flanks, Bill Tew and Alabama's Jack McKewen at tackles, Fordham's Bob Fitzgerald and Greenville Howard at the guards and Columbia's Bill Corey at center. Belin, Tew and Howard were all regulars on the 1942 eleven. Tom Nash, Indiana end, and Pete Oxford, U. C. L. A. guard, are two more ex-collegians who are expected to play plenty.

LETCHAS IS ACE

Against this sterling Benning array, the Naval Air Raiders will also field a starting eleven boasting many ex-collegians. Probably the best back for the enemy is Gus Letchas, once a team-mate of Davis and Todd at Georgia. Rated as a sure-fire star, he was declared ineligible just before the start of the 1942 Bulldog campaign.

Letchas will run on Saturday at left half in a backfield that packs plenty of speed and blocking. Surrounding the ex-Georgian will be Duke Iverson of Oregon State at quarter, Brad Davis of Arkansas State at wingback and Dominic Sanzotta at fullback.

Sanzotta, a hard-driving line cracker, was the regular fullback for the Detroit Lions in pro circles last fall. He also does most of the passing for the Air Raiders. Another good Jacksonville back is Don Fortier of Tulane who will alternate with Letchas.

STRONG LINE

Along the forward wall, Jacksonville will have Bill Borcher of Oregon and Pete Breceda of San Francisco U. at end with Jim Williams of South Carolina in reserve. Bill Short of Northeast Center Junior College and Fred Ellis of Wisconsin are a pair of 200-pound tackles. Ellis played in 1942 under Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman with the famed Iowa Seahawks.

Starting guards for the Air Raiders will be Lou Campbell of Southwestern and Paul Toth of Western Reserve with Johnny Walker of North Carolina State and John Hanzel of Villanova in reserve. Jacksonville has four good centers but Oregon's Brad Ecklund is certain to be the starter.

Football Summary

BENNING GAMES

124 Infantry vs. Jacksonville Air Raiders at Cadet Field, Jacksonville, Fla. Saturday at 2 p. m.

200th Infantry vs. Draper Prison at Speigner, Ala. Sunday at 2 p. m.

COLUMBUS GAMES

Columbus High vs. Valley High at Memorial Stadium. Tonight at 9 p. m. Benning time.

Jordan High vs. Marist Cadets at Memorial Stadium. Friday night at 9 p. m. Benning time.

Central High vs. Troy High at Martin Stadium (Phenix City.) Friday night at 9 p. m. Benning time.

BENNING RIVALS

Memphis Blues vs. Rosecrans Army Fliers in Memphis. Saturday night.

South Carolina vs. Presbyterian in Columbia, S. C. Saturday afternoon.

Georgia Tech vs. North Carolina in Atlanta. Saturday afternoon.

COL.—

(Continued from Page 1)

area. This is a normal reaction but is an undervaluation of their excellent work here. I have seen some active combat service and I know how important it is to have officers, men and technicians who are well trained. Actually all of the members of the Academic Regiment are doing work which is of as great a value to the army and our country as their work would be if in actual combat.

"The results of the lessons you help to teach here are shown on every battlefront where American troops are engaged.

"The carrying on, under my successor, of the excellent work that you have been doing will be proof to me that our labors together have not been in vain."

Col. Burkhalter began his military career at the turn of the century and has twice quit the army for civilian life. But since 1920, he has concerned himself steadily with a military career.

As a buck private, Col. Burkhalter fought in the Filipino Insurrection in 1902 and received a foot injury which ended that phase of his military career. He then took up the study of medicine at Kansas City Medical School, now Kansas University and played half back on the football team and first base on the baseball team. But with a year to go for his degree, he gave up school, was married and turned to railroading.

GETS LAW DEGREE

He was a brakeman and then a ticket agent; and then he worked in the wheat fields of Kansas until the urge to go to school again got the better of him. This time it was law at the Kansas City Law School and later at Hamilton College of Law in Chicago where he got his degree.

BONDS—

(Continued from Page 1)

quartermaster office, Otis Renner, purchased $5,000 worth of bonds; and another private, Thomas Jones, Co. A of the Infantry Tank Detachment (738th Tank Bn.), bought $4,000 worth.

However, one of the best records of participation was established by the Station Hospital detachments, which set a quota of $25,000 and had already passed it by the 10th of the month. Another organization, the 1st Student Training Regiment, made one outright investment of $39,025.

AID CITY DRIVE

In addition, Fort Benning cooperated with Columbus in the premiere showing of the movie, "Action in the North Atlantic," and sold $1,179 in two nights. Admission was by purchase of a war bond only.

Previously the street dance and war bond rally, held September 2, netted $4,800.

The post goal this month as announced by Major George Fink, post bond officer, was $500,000, and loomed as a near reality with a statement by Mr. Wm. Richardson, local postmaster, that that activity had recorded a cash sale of $96,000.

124TH—

(Continued from Page 1)

Newberry College away in addition to the Jacksonville trek.

The 300th will invade Atlanta for its Georgia Tech battle, visit Birmingham on Thanksgiving day and for a benefit bout with some un-named service team and go to Daniel Field.

SPIRIT SLATE

Capt. Lee Pollock and his 176th machine open their campaign next Saturday, October 2nd, when they oppose South Carolina in Columbia. They also will meet Tennessee Tech, University of Miami and Daniel Field away.

A complete and comprehensive schedule for the "Big Three" will be found on the sports wages of this week's issue.

SPLASH PARTY AND NEW CHAMPS—The title swim meet at Russ Pool Sunday produced plenty of thrilling action as several new post champions were crowned. At top left is a swell action shot of the start in a trial heat of the 50-meter free-style. Two swimmers are already splashing in the water while the middle man is in the midst of a flying leap to catch them. At top right, Lee Croft, new diving champ, is caught by the camera at the height of his perfect backdive. Below, the new individual champs grin happily after their triumphs. From left to right, they are: Henry Zientarski (252nd F. A.), 50-meter freestyle champ; Warren Finke (3rd STR), 50-meter backstroke winner; Hiram Hoelzer (5th TR), 50-meter breaststroke titlist; Olbra Floyd (5th TR), 100-meter champ, and Lee Croft (1st PTR), the diving winner. (Signal Lab Photos by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

3rd STR Collegians Capture Post Swim Title in Hard-Fought Meet

Victory In Relay Earns Triumph For O. C. Lads

Displaying amazing speed in the windswept waters, a husky young group of ex-collegians from the 3rd STR churned to victory on Sunday at Russ Pool to capture the 1943 post swimming title.

Comprised entirely of officer candidates from the 3rd regiment's 12th Company, the winning team swept to first place triumphs in the 150-meter relay and 50-meter backstroke, and took second and third in the 100-meter and a third in fancy diving to pile up its point total of 20 markers.

5TH REGT. SECOND

Close behind in second place, and deadlocked for first until the relay even, was the team representing the 5th Training Regiment, ASTP, while the 252nd Field Artillery and 4th Training Regiment tied for third. Strung out behind were the 1st Parachute Training Regiment, the 6th Training Regiment of the ASTP, the 176th Infantry, and the 1st Academic Co. of the Parachute School.

The 3rd STR entry grabbed the trophy, put up by the F. B. A. A., then their crack relay team of ex-collegians gained a triumph over the 5th Regiment trio in the final event. Dick Allen of Oregon, Walt Gillis of Californiam, and Mal Orent of Syracuse swam in that order for the winners.

FINKE IS WINNER

Allen was a three-year letterman in swimming at the University of Oregon and captained the Beaver team that captured the Pacific Coast League title in 1942. He also finished third in the 100-meter freestyle yesterday. One of Allen's teammates at Oregon, Warren Finke, also of the 3rd STR, captured the 50-meter backstroke in record time. Finke is a former coast champ in the event.

Splashing to victory in the 50-meter dash, which drew 39 entries, was unheralded Henry Zientarski of the 252nd Field Artillery who finished ahead of the pack in the surprising time of 28.5 seconds in the finale.

WATER POLO ACE

The new dash champ is a Chicagoan and swam for one year at the University of Illinois. His real sport though is water polo and a couple years back he was a key figure on the Illinois A. C. team that captured the National AAU title in the rough-and-tumble water game.

The 50-meter breaststroke title went to Hiram Hoelzer of the 5th Regiment when he raced to victory over Bill Smith, 6th Regiment ace and former national prep school titleholder. Hoelzer swam for Mt. Herman Prep in Massachusetts and was New England prep school champ in the breaststroke during 1942 and 1943.

NATIONAL CHAMP

Smith swam for Castle Heights Military Academy in Tennessee and gained the national crown in 1939. He also held the Mid-South title for four years as well as several state crowns. One of Smith's teammates at Castle Heights, Olbra Floyd, captured the 100-meter freestyle on Sunday with a great burst of speed in the second lap. Floyd also holds Mid-South titles in the 100, 220, and 440-yard events.

The fancy diving event went to Lee Croft, a husky paratrooper from the 1st Parachute Training Regiment. His execution of the three set and two optional dives from the 3-meter board was near perfect as he gained the triumph.

Officiating at the 1943 title event was Lieut. Arthur T. Monohan, a former scholastic swim coach around Erie, Pa. Cartons of cigaretes were awarded to all winners in the individual events while the relay victors will receive bronze medals.

Summary:

50-meter Freestyle: 1st — Zientarski, 252nd F. A. 2nd—Anderholm, 4th Regt. 3rd—Schein, 1st Academic Co. Time: 28.5 seconds.

50-meter breaststroke: 1st—Hoelzer, 5th Regt. 2nd-Smith, 6th Regt. 3rd—Pisch, 4th Regt. Time: 31.2 seconds.

50-meter Backstroke: 1st—Finke, 3rd STR. 2nd—Oddo, 252nd F. A. 3rd—Tucker, 4th Regt. Time: 33 seconds.

100-meter Freestyle: 1st—Floyd, 5th Regt. 2nd—McCampbell, 3rd STR. 3rd —Allen, 3rd STR. Time: 63.8 seconds.

150-meter Relay: 1st—3rd STR. 2nd—5th Regt. 3rd—4th Regt. Time: 1 minute and 25.4 seconds.

Fancing Diving: 1st—Croft, 1st PTR. 2nd—Gorney, 176th Inf. 3rd—Lutz, 3rd STR. Winning points: 68½.

Post Bowling Alley To Open October 1

Fort Benning's eight modern bowling alleys, located on the post proper next to the gymnasium, will open for the 1943-44 season on October 1st, it was announced yesterday by Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan, post athletic officer.

DINE WINE

AND BE MERRY

In ATLANTA'S NEWEST and FINEST SUPPER CLUB

Bill Cooper

His Piano and Solovox

Featuring the Best

Steaks • Chops

Seafood • Fried Chicken

AND OF COURSE

Wine • Champagne • Beer

PEACHTREE at ELLIS

OPEN 12 TO 12

SUNDAY DINNER

TO 10 P. M.

TROOP—

(Continued from Page 1)

taken, we knew that instead of a direct invasion of Alaska, the fleet had turned and landed there. That gave us more time and we used it to every advantage."

After the first crisis was over, Capt. Parker and his companions continued to fly men and equipment to fortify the islands of the Aleutian chain and other points in Alaska.

LAND ANYWHERE

At the time that Capt. Parker was flying men and equipment, Capt. Pardey was manning one of the all-too-few planes then in Alaska. He had been sent to Alaska in March, 1941, to help pioneer in putting in fields and to help explore the country by aerial photography. In those days they landed on beaches, flat hillsides, the frozen ocean, or frozen lakes. Maps didn't show elevations. Some lakes and mountains were shown on existing maps as miles from their true positions. As a result of the Army's aerial exploration, however, all of Alaska south of Nome now is accurately surveyed.

After Pearl Harbor, the Army planes began going out on submarine patrols. Capt. Pardey never saw one, but Capt. Parker recalls seeing one that surfaced quickly when its listening devices heard him circling above—and sent up American recognition signals. Great care must be taken, both fliers emphasized, in making every effort to recognize any subs that might be sighted. If the sub doesn't make the proper signals, orders are to bomb first and ask questions after—but American fliers take great pains to identify the subs first.

Shortly after Pearl Harbor, the Army sent B-26 planes up to Alaska for patrols. One day Capt. Pardey was approached by a soldier in ordinary flying coveralls who asked a lot of questions about the efficiency of the planes. Capt. Pardey told him bluntly that the B-26's were handicapped in the fog and ice and general weather conditions that prevailed over much of the ocean. The soldier turned out to be Gen. Kuter, now Major General L. H. Arnold's right hand man in Africa and Sicily. In a short time B-25's were sent to Alaska.

TOWN—

(Continued from Page 1)

chestra. Admission will be free to all military personnel.

Schedule of performances follows:

Monday, Sept. 27, in Harmony Bowl at 8 p. m.; Tuesday, Sept. 28, Third Student Training Regiment Amphitheater, at 8 p. m.; Wednesday, Sept. 29, in Theater No. 7 in the Sand Hill area, at 7 p. m.; Thursday, Sept. 30, in the Alabama area Amphitheater, at 8 p. m., and Friday and Saturday, Oct. 1 and 2, at Gowdy Field, both nights at 8 p. m.

Grid Schedule For "Big Three"

DATE	TEAMS	WHERE PLAYED
Sat. Sept. 25th	—124th Infantry vs. Jacksonville	Away
Sun. Sept. 26th	—300th Infantry vs. Draper Prison	Away
Sat. Oct. 2nd	—176th Infantry vs. South Carolina	Away
Sun. Oct. 3rd	— 124th Infantry vs. 300th Infantry	Here
Sat. Oct. 9th	—300th Infantry vs. Daniel Field	Away
Sun. Oct. 10th	—124th Infantry vs. 176th Infantry	Here
Sat. Oct. 16th	—176th Infantry vs. Tennessee Tech	Away
Sun. Oct. 17th	—124th Infantry vs. Bowman Field	Here
Sun. Oct. 24th	—300th Infantry vs. 176th Infantry	Here
Sat. Oct. 30th	—176th Infantry vs. Tennessee Tech	Here
Sun. Oct. 31st	—124th Infantry vs. Daniel Field	Away
Sat. Nov. 6th	—176th Infantry vs. Daniel Field	Here
Sun. Nov. 7th	—300th Infantry vs. 124th Infantry	Here
Sat. Nov. 13th	—300th Infantry vs. South Carolina	Here
Sun. Nov. 14th	—176th Infantry vs. 124th Infantry	Here
Sun. Nov. 21st	—300th Infantry vs. 176th Infantry	Here
Sun. Nov. 21st.	—124th Infantry vs. Memphis Blues	Away
Thu. Nov. 25th	—124th Infantry vs. Newberry College	Away
Thu. Nov. 25th	—300th Infantry vs. Birmingham	Away
Fri. Nov. 26th	—176th Infantry vs. Miami	Away
Sun. Dec. 5th	—176th Infantry vs. Daniel Field	Here

(Note: All Saturday games at home will be played under the lights in Doughboy Stadium at 8 p. m. All Sunday games will be at 2 p. m.)

BACK THE ATTACK

Buy An Extra $100 Bond This Month and Keep Shells in Their Guns For A Quicker Victory

3rd WAR LOAN DRIVE

BLACKMON-SCARBROUGH, INC.

RECAPPING AND TIRE SERVICE

11th St. and 1st Ave Dial 3 2751

PLAYING AT COLUMBUS THEATERS

BRADLEY

Fri. - Sat.

ANN MILLER — ROCHESTER — JOHN HUBBARD

—IN—

'What's Buzzin' Cuzzin'' .

Sun. - Mon. - Tues.

HUMPHREY BOGART — RAYMOND MASSEY — ALAN HALE

—IN—

'ACTION IN THE NORTH ATLANTIC'

Wed. - Thurs.

Mickey Rooney

—IN—

'YANK AT ETON'

ROYAL

Fri. - Sat.

RICHARD ARLEN — JEAN PARKER

—IN—

'ALASKA HIGHWAY'

Midnite Show & Sun. - Mon.

ALAN LADD — LORETTA YOUNG

—IN—

'CHINA'

Tues. & Wed.

JOHNNY WEISSMUELLER — FRANCIS GIFFORD

—IN—

'TARZAN TRIUMPHS'

—Thurs.—

CHESTER MORRIS — JEAN PARKER

—IN—

'HIGH EXPLOSIVES'

RIALTO

Fri. - Sat.

THREE MUSKETEERS

—IN—

'Riders of the Rio Grande'

Midnite Show and Sun.-Mon.

ROSALIND RUSSELL — FRED McMURRAY

—IN—

'FLIGHT for FREEDOM'

Tues. - Wed.

BRITISH & AMERICAN STARS

—IN—

'FOREVER and a DAY'

Thurs. - Fri. - Sat.

BOY ROGERS

—IN—

'SILVER SPURS'

SPRINGER

Thurs. - Fri.

ANN SOUTHERN — RED SKELTON

—IN—

'PANAMA HATTIE' —Sat.—

Tim McCoy

—IN—

'ACES AND EIGHTS'

Sun. - Mon.

JACK BENNY — ANN SHERIDAN

—IN—

'GEORGE WASHINGTON SLEPT HERE'

Tues. - Wed.

JUDY GARLAND — GEORGE MURPHY

—IN—

'FOR ME and MY GAL'

Friends Dine Fulton On Eve Of Retirement

Brigadier General Walter Scott Fulton, commanding officer of Fort Benning who will be retired September 30 after 43 years of army service, was tendered a dinner at the Ralston Friday night by a group of close personal friends, including directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

T. G. Reeves, president of the chamber, presented General Fulton with a certificate of honorary membership attesting his "distinguished service" to the community of Columbus during his long association with Fort Benning.

"We never expect to have an abler or more understanding commander at Fort Benning than you have been," said Mr. Reeves, "and we all are proud and happy that the severing of an official association means merely the beginning of closer personal associations since you plan to continue living here."

Mr. Reeves also presented to General Fulton a handsome silver tray on behalf of the directors of the chamber.

EXPRESSES THANKS

General Fulton in responding thanked Mr. Reeves warmly, and expressed special appreciation of the close cooperation of the chamber with Fort Benning, "especially through your efficient secretary, Walter Pike."

At the speakers' table besides Mr. Reeves and General Fulton were W. C. Bradley and Frank Lumpkin; Major General Lindsay McDonald Silvester, commanding general of the Seventh Armored; Brigadier General George H. Weems, assistant commandant of the Infantry School, and Colonel John P. Edgerley, post executive officer.

Colonel Edgerley introduced the members of General Fulton's official party which included, in addition to those above named, the following officers: Colonel George E. Jacobs, Colonel Ridgely Gaither, Colonel Stephen B. Massey, Colonel H. E. Potter, Colonel Albert J. Bain, Lt.-Colonel John E. Albert, Lt.-Colonel William C. Coulbourn, Lt.-Colonel J. D. Rosenberg, Captain Jackson, aide to General Silvester, and Lt. Oswald K. Marquardt, aide to General Fulton.

PLANS TO LIVE HERE

General Fulton entered West Point in 1910, and has seen extensive service throughout America and its territorial possessions. He served for four years on the General Staff of the War Department in Washington, coming here as post inspector in 1940.

He became post executive officer, and later commanding officer of Fort Benning, and is among a large number of "retirement age" officers who are now being relieved of duty pursuant of a new War Department policy. He ends his army service September 30, and plans to live here.

Don't answer nature's calls during a gas attack. Blister gases attack the tender sweaty portions of the body most easily.

BECOME AN EXPERT DANCER

Stop pretending you'd just love to sit out dances. Step out on the floor and swing into the front. Just give May and Mason a few hours to show you the latest dances.

Visit the studio today and ask for free dance analysis.

OPEN 'TIL 9 P. M.
WED. - THURS. - FRI.

MAY & MASON
DANCE STUDIO
802 Broadway Dial 2-4469

G. I. Bread 3c Per Pound

It costs Uncle Sam an average of a little over three cents a pound to feed his soldiers at Fort Benning wholesome bread baked by his nephews in the service at his own bakery on the post, according to a report issued by Captain Marcus E. Cooper, Post Sales Officer.

The report, covering the operation of the Fort Benning bakery shows that over 265 tons of flour are used in an average month's operation.

The bakery here is one of the Quartermaster bakeries constructed at the various camps in the southeast to insure that the soldiers in training have sufficient bread without putting too great a load on the commmercial bakeries serving civilians.

The bakery officers in charge of each plant and the sergeants who oversee the actual baking of the bread, are graduates of the bakers and cooks schools established at certain posts to train bakers and cooks for the Army. Students attending these schools are from military personnel and each must been recommended by his by his commanding officer before entering the school. Many of the bakers are graduates of the schools but some are taken from the posts as apprentice bakers.

The report for the month shows that the Fort Benning bakery used 531,258 pounds of flour and produced 790,258 pounds of bread, or 149 pounds of bread for every 100 pounds of flour used, at a cost of .03096 cents per pound of bread produced. Army bread is baked in two-pound loaves while the ordinary commercial loaf weighs about a pound.

This Is The Way We Like Our Bond's, Nofoolin

Staff Sergeant George King, Division Headquarters Company, might be named the smartest war bond salesman in the "Lucky 7th" Armored Division on the strength of a promotion scheme "dreamed up" recently to aid the Third War Loan Drive.

To "doubting Thomases" who hesitated to buy bonds because there had been some delay in receiving them after they were paid for last summer, Sgt. King made the following proposal: "If you pay cash for a bond today and if it is not delivered to you personally the same day, I'll pay you the price of another $18.75 bond."

Pvt. Sebastian Bruno immediately took option on the sergeant's offer and laid $18.75 on the line. Two hours later his bond was handed to him by Sgt. King who sold 13 more bonds on the spot to astonished GI's.

On the first two day of the drive this enterprising enlisted man sold 30 men in his company on the idea of "backing their attack" with bonds. Now more than 50 per cent have invested a share in America and their future.

Sgt. King's home is in Decatur, Texas. He is currently service with the Hq. Co. Medical Detachment.

BUY THAT EXTRA WAR BOND TODAY

BACK THE ATTACK
TO BRING HER DADDY BACK

Join in the 3rd War Loan and buy an extra $100 Bond this month. It will help you and America too...

TINY TOT SHOP
1217 BROADWAY .. Herman Abdala, Mgr. .... Dial 2-2492

—Staff photo by Paul Stewart

FRIENDS HONOR FULTON—Pre-dinner scene at the Ralston Friday night as personal friends honored Brigadier General Walter Scott Fulton. Left to right, T. G. Reeves, president of the Chamber of Commerce; W. C. Bradley, Brigadier General George H. Weems and General Fulton.

MAJ. GEN. JOSEPH SWING, acting commanding general of the Airborne Command, pins wings on Pvt. R. R. Daly, Clarksdale, Ariz., who happened to be the one to make the two hundred thousandth jump at the Parachute School, Fort Benning, Ga.

200,000th 'Chute Jump Made At Fort

It was a soft and happy landing for Pvt. R. R. Daly, parachute school student at Fort Benning, who made the two hundred thousandth jump Friday at the post. He is the son of Mrs. Angela Daly, Clarksdale, Ariz.

There was no ceremony when he bailed out since he was one of 36 men who came out of three planes and others continued to jump throughout the morning.

However, Maj. Gen. Joseph Swing, acting commanding officer of the airborne command; Col. Ridgely Gaither, commandant of the Parachute school; and Lt. Col. J. W. Coutts, assistant commandant, all dashed out through the brush to congratulate Daly. The general then pinned wings on the pleased jumper.

Army parachute training began in May, 1940, but actual jumps were not made until July of that year. The Parachute school, however, was not formed until May, 1942, when the training program was intensified.

During the entire training program at Fort Benning, there have been but six fatalities, these were mainly caused by human errors. Chute officers contend parachuting is the safest method of travel.

Even Shoes Are At Attention In R. C. Inspection

Lt. Clifford A. Brown, company commander, 10th company, Second Battalion, Special Training Regiment, at Fort Benning was making his weekly inspection of enlisted men's quarters.

Row after row of spick and span cots, lockers, and highly shined shoes properly lined under cots with each soldier standing at attention were awaiting him.

Down the aisle he went. Soldier after soldier was inspected and passed until "Soldier, what's wrong with those shoes," he asked pointing to a single pair in the row with heels together and toes out.

"Sir, those shoes are at 'tention," Pvt. Clarence Jones, colored, replied.

FRIENDS MEET AT MESS

While eating dinner at a United States Army Eighth Air Force station in England recently, First Lt. J. F. Neyenhouse, of Plattsburg, N. Y., a bomber pilot, saw a private whose face was familiar, waiting on another table.

At supper that night Lt. Neyhenhouse finally recognized him, rose from the table, and grasped the private's hand. The other man was Private First Class Franklin P. Clark, of Athens, N. Y., who had been principal of Peru High School, Peru, N. Y., when the lieutenant was a student there.

Soldier May Use Victory Pond For Swimming

Swimming is authorized in Victory Pond on the Fort Benning reservation, Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the post, announces. The pond is located on 8th Division Road between the Third Student Training Regiment area and Hourglass Road.

Previous orders from Fort Benning headquarters this year authorizes swimming instruction, under proper supervision, in Upper Kings pond, Lower Kings pond, Special Units pond, and Unnamed pond on Tenth Division Road three miles north of Buena Vista Road on the reservation.

Prior orders also authorize swimming and bathing under proper supervision in Randall Creek, in Upatoi Creek above McBride's Bridge, and in Uchee Creek in the Alabama area. Other ponds and creeks on the reservation, including the section of Upatoi Creek from McBride's bridge to the Chattahoochee River, are "off limits" to all Benning personnel for swimming or bathing.

Spirits Lose Many Officers

In the last few months, several officers of the 176th Infantry, have left for assignments to other posts and in some cases, other branches of the service.

Lt. Col. Robert B. Rose, formerly regimental executive officer recently graduated from Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenvorth, Kan., is now serving in Indiana, while Lt. Col. Luther S. Diggs, a classmate of Col. Rose, is at an overseas station.

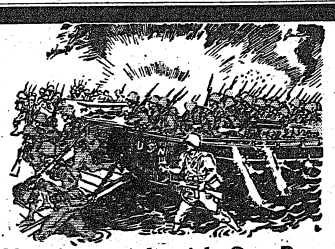
Among those who have joined the Parachute troops are Major John N. Apperson, Capt. Wm. Meanly, Lieut. John Sorrels and Lt. Lloyd Compton. These four officers are all here at Benning, but are awaiting orders to leave.

At Camp Lee, Va., Capt. William W. Mason, who left the 176th in June is now an executive officer of a replacement training battalion. Capt. Dallas Patterson, who was injured in parachute training, holds a similar position in the BIRTC at Fort McClelland, Ala.

Another captain, who conducted the regimental NCO School and also served in several training companies, William R. Carpenter, is now a major at Indiantown Gap, Pa.

Lt. L. D. Meyer, a recent graduate of The Adjutant General's School at Fort Washington, Maryland, is now classification officer at Camp Blanding, Fla.

Five other officers, now overseas, are Captain C. R. Baldassarre, Major T. P. Mathewson, Chaplain Wm. B. Adams, Chaplain V. F. Mallifske, and Chaplain Edwin C. Carter.



Colonel Claypool ASTP Executive

Lt. Col. Burriss E. Claypool has been appointed executive officer for the ASTP Basic Training Center of the Infantry School, according to an announcement by Colonel Wilson M. Spann, commanding officer.

Prior to his assignment with the ASTP, Colonel Claypool was executive officer for the First Student Training Regiment where he served since May 1941, first as supply officer and later as executive. He was called to active duty early in 1941 and his first assignment was with the Infantry School Service Command.

Colonel Claypool was educated at the College of the Pacific and the University of Southern California and at the time of his call to duty was vice principal of the Arcadia High School, Arcadia, Cal. He is also a graduate of the advance officers course of The Infantry School.

OFFICERS! SEE OUR
Gifts - Antiques
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

Hit the Beach with Our Boys
WITH WAR BONDS
Join in the 3rd War Loan and buy an extra $100 Bond this month.
Compliments of
THE GOO GOO
700 LINWOOD BLVD. DIAL 3-4491

G. I. Travels 2500 Miles In 14 Hours To See Girl

It must be love . . .

Pfc. Peter Mueller of Headquarters Company of the 176th Infantry did a bit of travelling in order to keep a dinner date with a lovely young lady of Minneapolis, Minn.

Pete boarded an airplane on a Saturday morning at 7 o'clock and came back to Fort Benning (from Minneapolis) the next day, Sunday, at 5:30 in the afternoon. He travelled a distance of 2,500 miles in 14 hours—and all for a gal.

'Gator Revue Now Off Press

The revue "The 124th Gators at Fort Benning" soon will be available to members of the regiment, it has been announced by Lt. Robert A. Lobdell, 124th special service officer, under whose supervision the book was produced.

The 96-page book, which was created and produced by the staff of The Alligator, regimental newspaper, gives a representative picture of the men and units in the regiment, and includes historical material, human interest stories, and pictures including candid camera shots.

African War Vet Commands 3rd STR Unit

Captain Wight Was On 116-Day Campaign In N. Africa, Sicily

Officer Candidates of the 10th Company Third Student Training Regiment are going to learn a few tricks gained from active participation in prolonged combat with the assumption of the company commanded by Capt. Russell B. Wight, veteran of the North African and Sicilian campaigns.

Captain Wight, a soft-spoken, modest officer, fought the French at Oran, underwent 109 days of continuous fighting in Tunisia and was in Sicily for seven days when his orders came through returning hom to the United States and The Infantry School. He returned wearing the Purple Heart for wounds suffered in the Mateur area and the Silver Star for the part he played in his Division's halting the 10th and 21st German Panzer Divisions.

The Captain commanded a rifle company in his division and his company received two citations during the Tunisian fighting. The captain suffered severe facial injuries when he was hit at Mateur but he declined hospitalization and continued forward with his men. During the fighting at Kasseran Pass, which fon him the Silver Star, Captain Wight was bowled over and deafened by an artillery shell.

"I think I've run out of 'free tickets' now," the captain says with a smile. He recollected that a German 88 shell went 18 inches over his head at El Gattar and he came out of that one without a scratch although he was deafened again and remained deaf for several days.

NIGHT PATROLS' ROLE

As for tips to the officer candidates, the captain declared one phase of training they ought to concentrate on is night patrolling. Some of the French native soldiers encountered, he said, "thought nothing of crawling on their bellies for a half mile and keeping absolutely quiet."

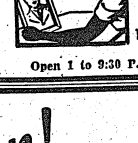
Patrols, he said by way of example, must be used frequently against the Germans even when the enemy is in retreat. "The Germans," he said, "are past masters at rear-guard fighting."

Physical fitness, moreover, can not be overemphasized and an officer must always be consistent in his dealings with his men. "You can not be a hard guy to an enlisted man one minute and be his pal the next," he asserted.

Altogether, Captain Wight was overseas a year. A reserve officer, he obtained his commission upon the completion of his ROTC traininging at Boston University. He entered upon active duty in 1941. Upon coming here, he said, he was favorably impressed with the opportunity future officers have to "break in" before going into the field. Such opportunity was denied him; he went into active service after several years of reserve officer inactivity, the result of his preoccupation with his civilian career as an office manager and personnel man with a Boston concern.

Men's Chorus Gives Sunday Religious Recital

Every Sunday morning between the hours of nine-thirty and ten o'clock, the combined voices of the Third Student Training Regiment Men's Chorus roll gently over the Harmony Church area, creating a very beautiful and religious atmosphere.



Through the cooperation of Chaplain Billman, the chorus presents the broadcast over a loud-speaking system mounted on a jeep outside the stately portals of Chapel five. In addition to the broadcast, the chorus, under the direction of Candidate Tom Milliken of the 22nd Company, presents the special music at the regular Sunday service. With the assistance of the organisht, William Wardlow, the chorus has added much to the service, and it is the hope of the director that any men interested, whether they can read music or not, will report to the chapel at nine o'clock Sunday morning and join in the singing.

To Candidate Mohr and the men of the 15th Company, who graduate this week, goes much of the credit for the organization and success of the group.

Camp Blanding, Fla.—Pvt. Albert Schinder is a sport. After a pill roller had pricked his finger three times without success in a recent blood type test, Schinder made him an offer. "Have another try," he suggested. "They're three for a dime."

CO-OP CABS
DIAL 5511
1318 Broad

Send Your Portrait So they may see you every day
Proofs for Your Inspection Before You Buy.
Our Price Within the Reach of All.

AIM'E DUPONT
Of Fifth Ave.
MILITARY STUDIOS
1219½ Broadway Tel. 3-1505
Columbus, Ga.
Open 1 to 9:30 P. M.; Sunday 2 to 6 P. M., E. W. T.

Attention!

OFFICER CANDIDATES
See Our Display
At
FORT BENNING
And Visit Our Store
For Complete

- Uniforms
- Caps - Insignia
- Ties - Slacks
- Shirts
- Military Supplies
- Trench Coats
- Luggage

We Guarantee 100 Per Cent Delivery of Alll Goods Purchased
We Deliver 1 Week Prior To Graduation

OPEN SATURDAY 'TIL 10 P.M.

OPEN WEEK DAYS 'TIL 8:30 P.M.
Fort Benning Time

LEVINSON BROS.
1220 Broadway Dial 3-3051

Colonel Miller Thrilled Giving Son Diploma

Colonel Robert S. Miller has officiated at many graduations of the officers' advanced course during his tenure as director of training at the Infantry School, but the final exercises of the advanced class in the 2nd Company of the First Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel John S. Roosma, gave him a new thrill.

One of the graduates whom Colonel Miller handed a diploma was his son, Captain R. Milton Miller, who was called to active duty from Auburn College near Opelika, Ala., where he was commissioned a second lieutenant upon completion of reserve officers' training.

Colonel Miller, who resides at Fort Benning, served in North Africa during the present war. His ship, carrying an Allied force from England to Algeria, was torpedoed in the Mediterranean and sunk. During the Tunisian campaign, he was attached to the Allied general staff as an observer.

An outstanding group in more respects than one, the graduating officers of the 2nd were lauded by Colonel Miller. Not one student who was present at the end of the course failed to receive his diploma. And the academic performance of the entire class set a high record which will be reflect in vastly increased efficiency once the officers return to their home organizations.

LAUDS "TACS"

Much credit for the excellence of the class, he pointed out, must go to First Lieutenants Bruce A. Douglas and Edgar H. Heyes, tactical officers of the 2nd Company, First Student Training Regiment, whose tireless efforts kept their charges constantly "on the ball" throughout three long months of training.

Calling attention to the world-famed training given by the Infantry School, the colonel quoted a corps commander in the South Pacific theatre, who declared that "the basic principles of combat taught by the Infantry School . . . are sound as a dollar." A grave responsibility rests on the outgoing officers, Colonel Miller stressed, to develop in their units the strength of character to carry them to victory through the long, hard fight that lies ahead.

Captain Miller, his son, a resident of Columbus, Ga., was called to active duty on September 8, 1941. After finishing the officers' basic course at the Infantry School, Captain Miller remained 15 months at Fort Benning as an instructor in the weapons section. Assigned to the 387th Infantry at Camp Swift, Texas, he assumed command of the regimental anti-tank company. At the conclusion of the advanced class graduation ceremonies and after he had taken leave of his father and the many friend he made at Benning, Capt. Miller returned to Camp Swift.

Twenty American girls are members of the British Air Transport Authority, an organization of 600 girl fliers who deliver planes from the assembly line to Royal Air Force squadrons all over the British Isles.

Twenty-five pounds were gained by Pvt. Harry E. Maura during his 10-month "hitch" in the Army. Maura, who enlisted on his 17th birthday, was discharged from Camp Shelby recently as underage.

T South Plains, Texas, Army Air Field pilot student lost his wallet containing $50. Fellow students passed the hat for him. Contributions totaled $78.47.

DAY'S TAXI CO.
1401 1ST AVE.
DIAL 3-3611

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By Phyllis

If your Fall ensemble happens to be a bit on the tailored side, choosing a complementary chapeau and handbag will be no problem if you shop at the KAYSER - LILIENTHAL, INC., HAT SHOP. For here are hat and bag sets of wool plaid fabrics, each an unusual style. Other equally lovely sets are fashioned of fine twill in luscious colors. One especially attractive set has a hat with a gold chenille crown and a brown felt pompadour - droop brim. A gold colored chenille handbag makes this set indeed a perfect complement for outfits a bit on the tailored side. No two sets are alike and still you're bound to find the style you want, whether your tastes run to sailor brims, large berets, pompadours, pagres or postillion-padre styles. In this outstanding display are several hat and bag sets beautifully designed of fine velvets in melting colors and a number of popular styles. Whatever type hat and whatever shade you seek, you'll find it at this reputable millinery shop and there, too, a matching handbag!

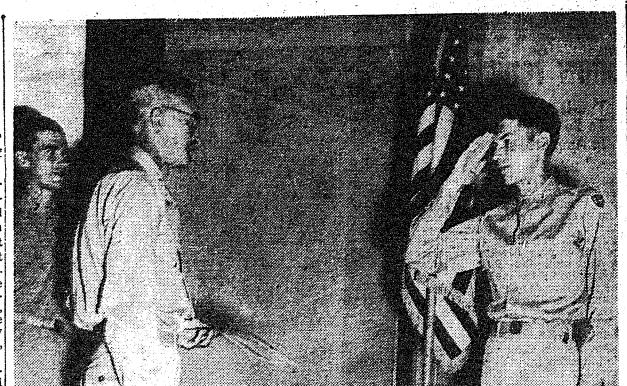
—V—

From pins and needles to spare parts for ones automobile: that's typical of the vast array of needed articles displayed in MONTGOMERY WARDS mail order catalog. This valuable book is a favorite in thousands of homes throughout the nation. It is a favorite pastime of many to pour over the bountiful pages of one of these catalogs to survey the things which might appeal to ones fancy. Those of you who do not have a catalog may utilize those at the Catalog Department in Montgomery Wards in Columbus and place your mail orders there. In short order, these requests will be filled and you'll receive your articles in good condition. However, it is not necessary to utilize the catalog for every little thing you might need. Montgomery Wards store in Columbus abounds with thousands of items which you may purchase right then and there. But, if a certain item is not stocked, you can get it soon through the mail.

—V—

Whether you're an Army Wife living on the Main Post or in Columbus, you no doubt find many times when an attractive and comfortable negligee is indeed an asset. The Lingerie Department of the J. C. KIRVEN Company has an unusual array of housecoats and negligees bound to please no matter what style you prefer. One perky little negligee of red and white checked gingham boasts eyelet embroidery trim around the neckline and the three-quarter sleeves. In larger sizes and especially suitable for older women is a navy blue crepe robe with white braid trimmings on the bodice. Another, for more mature women also, features a dusty pink panel down the front of a rich black crepe robe. In this display there are also other robes, very much on the elaborate side. These negligees, fashioned of satins, lightweight crepes, trimmed with fine lace, and silk jerseys are bound to make one feel like a queen, no less. For more practical moments Kirven's has chintz and rayon housecoats which can be sent first to the cleaners and then washed, affording much use and pleasure.

—V—



If you're thinking about sending a Christmas package overseas in the near future, may I suggest you visit CHANCELLOR'S, INC. For, in this popular men's shop, there are fine 100 per cent wool ribbed socks imported from England. These are available in the regulation O. D. shade or army tan for wear with pinks. Sending abroad a slip-on sleeveless wool sweater will keep out the chill breezes that blow in many spots where your military friends are stationed. These sweaters are available in either a plain or ribbed weave in O. D. color. Hard to find, but available at Chancellor's are several plain cashmere sweaters imported from England by William Locke and Son. These are sleeveless styles. The wool sweaters I mentioned previously also may be purchased in long sleeved styles. Choosing light, medium or heavy weights should depend on whether the climate is freezing or merely cool. One and all of your military friends in foreign service are bound to be most appreciative if you send them one of these sweater styles and a few pair of socks for Christmas.

—V—

"To wear with confidence"... I've said that before, and I say it emphatically again today when quality is ever more important. You can have confidence in the timely collection of suits at KAYSER - LILIENTHAL, INC. Careful workmanship to stand up to the extra demands of wartime is evident in each of these suits. Many of these ensembles are 100 per cent pure wool which is an important point to consider these days. Some suits are of soft fall tones, while others boast unusual plaid combinations. Brown and the ever-popular black materials have been designed in either tailored or dressmaker styles. Minute and careful handstitching decorates several styles while others sport attractive carved buttons down the front of the jacket. The skirts are, for the most part, slim with a single pleat in front and back. Any one or all these unusual suits at Lilienthal's will serve you loyally this season and the seasons ahead.

—V—

Especially for you who cherish the finest possible quality, materials, and designs in footwear, are shoes at the MILLER - TAYLOR SHOE COMPANY. For many years this shop has been catering to the discriminating men and women of Columbus and Fort Benning. Everything about this reputable shop and its merchandise is designed to completely satisfy every suitor. The sales personnel is most courteous and anxious to spend as much time with you as is necessary to be completely certain about the design and comfortable fit of each pair of shoes. The X-ray machine at the store assures a perfect fit and really proves it before your very eyes. Then, too, hosiery to complement your new footwear is displayed with unusually attractive handbags in the front of the shop. Shopping in this manner will leave no doubt about the harmony of stockings and shoes. Taking all these important points into consideration would seem that Miller-Taylor's is the ideal place to use your No. 18 shoe coupon. And, indeed, it is just that!

FROM FATHER TO SON goes a diploma. Col. Robert S. Miller, Director of Training at The Infantry School is shown taking a salute from his son, Capt. Milton Miller before presenting him with a diploma for successfully completing an Advanced Officers' Course. Capt. Miller is returning to Camp Swift, Tex., where he commands an Antitank company in the 387th Infantry. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion 8:30 a. m. Sunday school in the children's school 9:15 a. m. Women's Adult Bible class meets with the Sunday school. (Mothers who bring their children to Sunday school need not join). Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "Beautiful Saviour"—Arr. Caryl Dunen. The Sermon: Chaplain Frank M. Thompson. The offertory: "Come Ye Blessed" J. Prindle Scott—solo, S-Sgt. Thomas Carmitchell. Christian League 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Alfred L. Pollock.

Provisional: Sunday services held for members for the Provisional Truck Regiment are as follows: 1st and 4th Battalions—Bible school at 10:00 a. m. Worship service at 11:00 a. m. Services will be held in Building No. 5315 in the service Battalion area of the Third Student Training Regiment. The 2nd and 3rd Battalions will have Bible school at 10:30 a. m. and worship service at 11:30 a. m. Service held in Building No. 5031, Third Battalion area, Provisional Truck Regiment.

376th Infantry: Sunday morning worship service at 9:15 a. m. in the Main Post Chapel. Chaplain John Traxler.

Parkside School: Chapel No. 1. Morning worship 9:30 and 10:30 a. m. Communion each first Sunday morning. Lutheran service 6:30 p. m. (Communion) each 2nd Sunday. Bible Hour, Thurs., 6:45 p. m. Chaplain Herman A. Milchelkie.

Lawson Field: Sunday morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday evening service at 8 p. m. Chaplain Geo. L. Forney.

Theatre No. 1: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st STR, and Acad. Regt. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Communion service each Sunday at 11:30 a. m. in 4th Bn. Chaplain's office, 1st STR, Chaplain C. S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for the Det. Med. Dept. 9:30 a. m. Also colored Det. Med. Dept. services in colored day room at 9 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Recreation Hall. Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:45 a. m. Chaplain Isaac McDonald.

506th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Evening vespers, 7:45 p. m. Chaplains Robt. D. Jones and Charles O. Daniel.

176th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 9:15 a. m. in main post chapel. Chaplain Arnold Lewis.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Main Post Chapel Tuesday evenings 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 5391.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Lutheran service at 10:15 a. m. General Protestant service at 11:15 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitexer and C. H. Ritchie.

2nd STR: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chaplain William Willingham. Sunday school and worship 8:15 a. m. for Service Bn.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 5. Regimental services at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain A. B. Billman. Also Regimental services at 11 a. m. in "The Chapel In The Grove." Chaplain George Kirshbaum. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 51st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward

Hq., ASTP: Chapel No. 4: Morning worship, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey.

4th Trg. Regt., ASTP: Bldg. 8-16: Services for 1st Bn. 10 a. m. Chaplain Theodore Bachelor; 3rd Bn., Bldg. 4367, 9:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Services 8:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Catholic mass, 8 a. m., 4th Bn., 4th Trg. Regt., Bldg. 4367, Kelly and Axton Roads; Bible class, 9 a. m.; Protestant service, 9:30 a. m. in 4th Bn. in the amphitheater. Geo. A. Ritchey, chaplain.

5th Trg. Regt., ASTP: 9:30 a. m. Catholic mass in The Grove; 10:30 a. m. Protestant services in Theater No. 12, Chaplain Bergen.

6th Trg. Regt.—9 a. m. Catholic mass, Bldg. 8000; 10:30 a. m. general Protestant services, Bldg. 8005. Chaplain Bachelor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Harmony Church Area, Chapel No. 5, Friday evening 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 5391.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4 Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5201, located on the 8th Division Road and Guists Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 9:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 1st Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 3 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said inChapel No. 2 Lawson Field at 9 a. m and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Holy Hour will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the children's school, corner Baltzell Ave. and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service. A reception by the Jewish Welfare Board usually concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd, 4th, and 5th Student Training Regiments, the Infantry School WAC Detachment, A.S.T.P. Headquarters and 725th and 764th Tank Bns.: Every Sunday at 9 a. m. in War Dept. Theatre No. 9 (Bldg. 46), 8th Div. Road.

3rd Student Training Regiment Area.

For men in the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 801st and 244th F. A. Bns., and 2534th Ordnance Company: Every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bldg B-7, 2nd Student Training Regiment Area.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the children's school, corner Baltzell avenue and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service. A reception by the Jewish Welfare Board usually concludes the evening.

For members of the 3rd and 5th Student Regiments, The Infantry School WAC Detachment, Station Hospital No. 2 and A.S.T.P. Headquarters: Every Sunday at 9 a. m., in Bldg. 5786, Fifth Student Regiment Area.

For men in the 4th and 5th Student Regiments, 124th Infantry, 244th and 282nd Field Artillery Bns., and 2534 Ord. Co. Every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Bldg. 4367 4th Student Reg. Area.

For men in the Sand Hill Area: Every Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. in Chapel No. 4.

Women's Activities

RED CROSS WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon. Monday through Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. John McFall; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. William Hufflejer; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes. Mrs. William Denton, chairman.

Sewing and knitting—Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. In charge Tuesday, H. T. Morgan; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver. NOTE: All having portable sewing machines, please bring to Work Room.

STAFF ASSISTANCE CORPS—On duty at Work Room Friday, September 24, Mrs. H. L. Axling and Mrs. M. H. Kibbe; Monday, September 27, Mrs. Robert Loughton and Mrs. Edward Chalgren; Tuesday, September 28, Mrs. R. A. Harris and Mrs. R. J. Hammergren; Wednesday, September 29, Mrs. R. L. Tuttle and Mrs. H. C. Chapman; Thursday, September 30, Mrs. T. R. Dulin and Mrs. B. P. Grimes.

GREY LADIES—On duty at Station Hospital: Friday, September 24, Captain, Mrs. H. Venable; Library, a. m., Mrs. C. C. Finnegan, p. m., Mrs. Hardy; Recreation Hall, a. m., Mrs. Chase; Arts and Crafts Shop, a. m., Mrs. Griffith. Wards: Mesdames Rhine, Rosenberger, Boykin, Overfelt, Chase.

Saturday, September 25: Captain, Mrs. Branstadt; Library, a. m., Mrs. Holton; p. m., Mrs. Whittemore. Wards: Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Miles.

Monday, September 27: Captain, Mrs. McKee; Wards, Mrs. Spann, Mrs. Bess Lewis, Mrs. McCormick; Library, a. m., Mrs. Griffith, p. m., Mrs. R. Lewis; Recreation Hall, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford, p. m., Mrs. McKee; Arts and Crafts Shop, a. m., Mrs. Spann, p. m., Mrs. D. A. Turner.

Tuesday, September 28: Captain, Mrs. Pinnegan; Wards, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Whittemore; Library, a. m., Mrs. Roosma, p. m., Mrs. Griffith; Recreation Hall, a. m., Mrs. Gold; Arts and Crafts Shop, p. m., Mrs. Sanders.

Wednesday, September 29: Captain, Mrs. Perrine; Wards, Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Walter Smith; Library, a. m., Mrs. Stevens, p. m., Mrs. R. W. Smith; Recreation Hall, a. m., Mrs. Dillard, p. m., Mrs. Wright; Arts and Crafts Shop, a. m., Mrs. Venable, p. m. Mrs. Guthrie.

Thursday, September 30: Captain, Mrs. Henry; Wards, Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Gold; Library, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford, p. m., Mrs. Rosenberger; Arts and Crafts Shop, Mrs. Holton. Floor, a. m., Mrs. Richardson.

MOTOR CORPS—Headquarters at the Red Cross Work Room. Telephone 2058 for Motor Corps to pick up discarded magazines. On duty Friday, September 24, Mrs. Sholitt; Monday, September 27, Mrs. Moffett, Mrs. Cikati; Tuesday, September 28, Mrs. Vida; Wednesday, September 29, Mrs. Thorn, Mrs. Norris; Thursday, September 30, Mrs. Powell; Friday, October 1, Mrs. Alverson.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

SEPT. 23

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:55 P.M.—Rarach and the news—WRBL

8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Chorus—WRBL

9:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL

9:30 P.M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS

10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU

11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

SEPT. 24

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

8:00 P.M.—Kate Smith—CBS

8:30 P.M.—The Thin Man—CBS

8:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

9:30 P.M.—That Brewster Boy—CBS

10:00 P.M.—Camel Caravan—WRBL

10:45 P.M.—Elmer Davis, News

SEPT. 25

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

2:30 P.M.—Spirit of '43—CBS

3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii!"—WRBL

4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL

5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC

7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU

7:00 P.M.—Report to the Nation—CBS

7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL

7:30 P.M.—"Enough And On Time"—BLU

8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS

SEPT. 26

5:00 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—WRBL

5:45 P.M.—Doctors Courageous—CBS

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL

7:00 P.M.—The Commando—CBS

7:30 P.M.—The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS

7:30 P.M.—"We, The People"—WRBL

8:15 P.M.—We Cover the Battlefronts—CBS

9:00 P.M.—Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO)—WRBL

9:30 P.M.—Fred Allen—CBS

10:00 P.M.—Take It or Leave It—CBS

10:30 P.M.—Man Behind the Gun—CBS

SEPT. 27

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

9:45 P.M.—Keep the Homefires Burning—CBS

Boys' Activities

Monday through Saturday — Football practice at Doughboy Stadium, 3:45 p. m.

Friday—Scout Troop 11, 7:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Saturday—Cub Pack Number 1, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Ranger Battalion, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Movies

MAIN THEATER AND THEATER NO. 8

Sept. 22-24—JOHNNY COME LATELY—James Cagney and Grace George.

Sept. 25—FIRED WIFE—Diana Barrymore and Robert Paige.

Sept. 26-27—SWEET ROSIE O'GRADY—Betty Grable and Robert Young.

Sept. 28—CLAUDIA—Dorothy McGuire and Robert Young.

Sept. 29—HOLY MATRIMONY — Monty Wooley and Gracie Fields.

THEATERS NO. 2 AND 3

Sept. 23—THE FALLEN SPARROW—John Garfield and Maureen O'Hara.

Sept. 24—MY KINGDOM FOR A COOK—Charles Coburn and Isabel Elson.

Sept. 25-26—JOHNNY COME LATELY—James Cagney and Grace George.

Sept. 27—FIRED WIFE—Diana Barrymore and Robert Paige.

THEATERS NO. 4 AND 5

Sept. 23-24—SWEET ROSIE O'GRADY—Betty Grable and Robert Young.

Sept. 25—THE FALLEN SPARROW—John Garfield and Maureen O'Hara.

Sept. 26—MY KINGDOM FOR A COOK—Charles Coburn and Isabel Elson.

Sept. 27-28—JOHNNY COME LATELY—James Cagney and Grace George.

Sept. 29—FIRED WIFE—Diana Barrymore and Robert Paige.

THEATERS NO. 6 AND 7

Sept. 23—DESTROYER—Edward G. Robinson and Glenn Ford.

Sept. 24—ADVENTURES OF A ROOKIE—Wally Brown and Alan Carney.

Sept. 25-26—BEST FOOT FORWARD—Lucille Ball and Harry James.

Sept. 27—THE FALLEN SPARROW—John Garfield and Maureen O'Hara.

Sept. 28—MY KINGDOM FOR A COOK—Charles Coburn and Isabel Elson.

Sept. 29—JOHNNY COME LATELY—James Cagney and Grace George.

THEATERS NOS. 9 AND 11

Sept. 23—WINTER TIME—Sonja Heine and Jack Oakie.

Sept. 24-25—FROM OF THE OPERA—Nelson Eddy, Susanna Foster and Claude Rains.

Sept. 25—SOMEONE TO REMEMBER—Mabel Paige and John Craven.

Sept. 26—DESTROYER—Edward G. Robinson and Glenn Ford.

Sept. 27—FIRED WIFE—Diana Barrymore and Robert Paige.

Sept. 28—BEST FOOT FORWARD—Lucille Ball and Harry James.

THEATER NO. 10

Sept. 23—SOMEONE TO REMEMBER—Mabel Paige and John Craven.

Sept. 24-25—DESTROYER—Edward G. Robinson and Glenn Ford.

Sept. 26—FIRED WIFE—Diana Barrymore and Robert Paige.

Sept. 27-28—BEST FOOT FORWARD—Lucille Ball and Harry James.

THEATRE NO. 12

Sept. 23—ADVENTURES OF A ROOKIE—Wally Brown and Alan Carney.

Sept. 24—MY KINGDOM FOR A COOK—Charles Coburn and Isabel Elson.

Sept. 25—THE FALLEN SPARROW—John Garfield and Maureen O'Hara.

Sept. 26-27—BEST FOOT FORWARD—Lucille Ball and Harry James.

Sept. 28—THE FALLEN SPARROW—John Garfield and Maureen O'Hara.

THEATRE NO. 13

Sept. 23—ADVENTURES OF A ROOKIE—Wally Brown and Alan Carney.

Sept. 24—MY KINGDOM FOR A COOK—Charles Coburn and Isabel Elson.

Sept. 25-26—JOHNNY COME LATELY—James Cagney and Grace George.

Sept. 27—FIRED WIFE—Diana Barrymore and Robert Paige.

Sept. 28—BEST FOOT FORWARD—Lucille Ball and Harry James.

'Yank' Relates 2d Armored Role In Mediterranean

The part which parachute troops and other airborne soldiers, many of whom were trained at Fort Benning, played in the Allied campaign in Sicily is well known by this time. But the role of another Benning alumnus—the Second Armored Division—is related in the current issue of YANK, the Army Weekly, (Sept. 24) now on sale at the Post Exchange.

Former commander of the Second Armored Division, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., led the victorious American Seventh Army in Sicily. His old outfit was one of the six divisions comprising the army. The six divisions were organized into two corps, one commanded by Maj. Gen. Omar N. Bradley and the other by Maj. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, both formerly of Fort Benning.

The other five divisions in the invasion were the First Division, the Third Division, the 45th Division, the Ninth Division and the 82nd Airborne Division.

The Second Armored Division, which received much of its training right in the Sand Hill area, landed its equipment somewhere between Licata and Gela on the southern coast, or bottom side, of Sicily. From its beachhead the Second pushed northward a few miles beyond Canicatti and then veered westward.

It paralleled the south shore in a northwesterly direction past Aatagona nearly to Castelvetrano where it did almost an about face to drive eastward to Carleone. From there the Second Armored Division drove northward in a race with the Third Division to take Palermo in the north on the shore of the Tyrrhenian Sea.

IMPORTANT MAIL

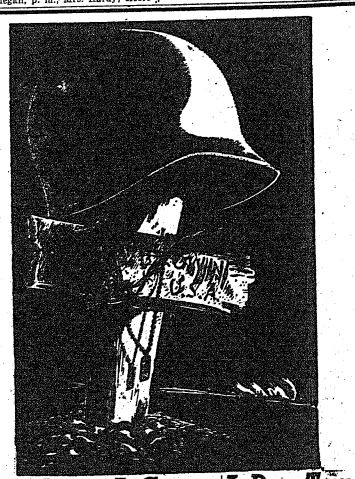
A large official envelope was delivered recently to Lieutenant Jack P. Van Tuil, of Champaign, Illinois, communication officer of a United States Army Air Forces heavy bombardment group, at his station in North Africa. The envelope had followed him to various camps in the United States and finally to his overseas destination. It contained his 1943 Illinois automobile license plates.

Watch, Clock, and Jewelry Repairing
Quick Service
B & S JEWELRY CO.
1724 Hamilton Rd.
Dial 2-1064

STEAMBOAT EXCURSION
ABOARD
STR. GEO. W. MILLER
9:00 P. M., FT. BENNING TIME
DANCING
3-HOUR TRIP!
EVERY WED., FRI. AND SAT. NITE
AVAILABLE FOR CHARTER
DIAL 3-3636
$1.00 $1.00

KIRVEN'S
Clearance!
for YOUNG COLUMBUS

In our Young Columbus Shop, summer frocks are being cleared away to make room for Fall clothes . . . that's why we're staging this clearance! You can buy now at a pittance and and tuck 'em away for next spring and summer.



• FROCKS
• FORMALS
• SUITS
• PINAFORES

SIZES 9 to 17

$2 our ceiling up to 5.98
$4 our ceiling up to 14.98

KIRVEN'S YOUNG COLUMBUS SHOP
AIR - CONDITIONED SECOND FLOOR
J. A. KIRVEN CO.
Your Complete Department Store

MEET YOUR BUDDIES at the
Eagle Army Store
Headquarters For
OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN
Uniforms and Military Supplies
1018 BROADWAY

A Helmet, A Cross, A Dog Tag
Buy an extra $100 Bond this month to speed Victory and bring back more than that of the ones we love.
PEPSI-COLA BOTTLING CO.
926 Front Ave. Columbus, Ga.

Uncle Sam Hounds Poor OC for Equipment He Turned In On Aleutians

Candidate Robertson, of the Third Student Training Regiment, isn't such a happy fellow these days. Besides having to worry about graduation, which is only a week or two off, he has something else very much on his mind.

It seems as though this youthful Sergeant here at the 20th Company was startled by a column of red type under Candidate Robertson's name. It listed 1 G. I. Mortar; 1 G. I. Sight; 1 pair of G. I. field glasses; 6 G. I. cleaning rods; 1 G. I. kit of spare parts, plus several other minor items of government equipment. And buddy when Uncle sam lists these things in red it means that somebody's going to shell out.

Of course Candidate Robertson was immediately called in and asked to explain why he was running around with one G. I. Mortar, etc. and if he'd please unpack that extra barracks bag that he had hidden under his bunk and give the things back to the government like a nice little boy.

HE EXPLAINS

By this time our friend Robertson was a pretty sore candidate and we think his explanation of the enormous bill and the missing G. I. equipment is a pretty gone one.

Before being shipped to the Infantry School from the fair waters of the Aleutians to attend O. C. S., the Supply Sergeant in that northern wasteland was busily checking off Robertson's equipment when he suddenly ran out of black typewriter ribbon and in the last minute rush had to resort to the only kind that was available, which now appears so indelibly in nice red letters besides Candidate Robertson's name.

So as time ticks on and poor Candidate Robertson grows more weary by the constant hounding of the big bad Benning Supply Sergeant he spends his evenings frantically sending telegrams to that far-off Aleutian base and asking them, "Won't they please do something about it!" And in between telegrams our bewildered candidate goes around cussin' and swearing under his breath that life in the army is certainly a bunch of red tape in more ways than one.

IT CAN'T BE SO

The members of Company A, 300th Infantry of The Infantry School troops have now seen 'everything' in the Army. A few nights ago, the company was treated to a roast chicken dinner and beer party. But that wasn't 'everything.' When the affair was over, the non-commissioned officers of the company joined the kitchen police in cleaning up the dishes. And the first sergeant of the company, a kindly soul named Taylor, did a tailoring job on the dishes. He washed them!

Military Personnel Get Ration Book 3 At County Office

Military personnel who are on separate rations but failed for any reason to make application for ration book No. 3 prior to Sept. 11, must now go through the Muscogee County War Rationing Board in Columbus to secure their books, it was announced by Sgt. Louis Lipp, secretary of the Fort Benning branch of the board.

Any member of the family may secure the books, however, he pointed out so that it is not necessary for the soldier himself to appear. Books one and two must be presented before book 3 can be issued, but in cases of newlyweds or others who may never have had necessity for books one and two previously, they can be applied for at the same time in order to secure book 3.

Brazilians Bid Post Farewell

Colonel Agunaldo Caiado de Castro and Colonel Joao de Segadas Viana, leaders of the Brazilian officers currently attending classes here at the Infantry School, acted as hosts to officers of the school and post at an informal farewell reception held at Fort Benning's Skeet club.

The Brazilian officers mingled for the last time amongst their friends and hosts of the past eight weeks. Captain Caio de Ovalle de Lemos, well known for his musical compositions and the presentation to the Infantry School of his musical march "Pelo Brazil, Pela Victoria" was among those present.

The Brazilian officers have been attending special classes and special demonstrations since their arrival in July and have been stationed with the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel John S. Roosma.

Among their many American colleagues present were General Leven C. Allen, General George Weems, General Henry P. Perrine, Colonel Harold E. Potter, Colonel John P. Edgerly, Colonel Joseph C. Addington, Colonel Thornton Chase, Colonel Philip H. Kron, Colonel Robert S. Miller, Colonel Sterling M. Crim and many other school and post notables.

As hosts of the evening besides Colonel Castro and Viana were Lieutenant Colonel Joao Batista Rangel, Lieutenant Colonel Samuel Pires, Major Alvaro Alves da Silva Brago, Major Iracy de Castro, Major Armando Bandeira de Moraes, Captain Mozial da Lima and Captain da Ovalle de Lemos. The convivial gathering illustrated the understanding and deep sympathy that exist between the United States of America and the powerful South American Republic of Brazil. Toasts were drunk, hands were clasped and goodbyes were said with the mutual comprehension that both glorious nations were striving to obliterate a common enemy.

Panthers Slate Show Tonight

Two-Hour Musical To Be Presented In Amphitheater

The Benning Panthers, representing the Service Battalion of the Third Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School, will take over the regimental amphitheatre Thursday evening, September 23, presenting a two-hour musical show. Already popular at the post, the Panthers are drifting from the vein of sports and reaching deep into the entertainment ability of the Service Battalion, coming up with a musical show entitled "Swing High, Swing Low."

Pfc. Joseph Cole, who prior to his induction into the service, appeared with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra as a guest singer, will highlight the show. Cole first won recognition in 1941, when he appeared in New York's Town Hall as a baritone, winning honors over 400 contestants for the leading male role in the opera Carmen. Lena Horn and Dorothy Maynor were among the judges that first recognized the outstanding ability of Pfc. Joseph Cole. From that day on, Cole has appeared in concerts throughout the United States and Canada visiting the White House as a guest singer before the President.

Pvt. Frankie Smith, swing pianist, toured the nation just a few years back, with one of the outstanding swing trios. Smith will present a novelty piano skit. Pvt. James Bailey, who recently gained wide acclaim as a composer and singer of popular music will render a number of his original songs including: "What Will the Neighbors Say," and "Jumpin' on K.P. Time."

Music for the production will be provided by the Panther Dance Orchestra under the direction of Cpl. Harcourt McClean. The Panther Choral Group, consisting of 18 male voices in harmony, will feature Wilbert Powell in spirituals that have already brough much favorable comment for the group.

Others who will appear in the Service Battalion show are: Lewis Simmons, flashy dancer; Alfred Jones, comedian with a style all his own; and James Little's fleet footed dancer.

The production is under the direction of 1st Lt. Jack Gushin, Service Battalion A. & R. officer.

Fort Mitchell Road To Be Paved Soon

The Fort Mitchell road connecting Fort Benning's parachute area in Alabama with Phenix City will soon be paved, it was learned today at Fort Benning.

O. E. Cole, chairman of Russell county board of commissioners, announced that procurement of all right-of-ways for the new highway had been completed and that bids for construction and paving work will be received October 1 by the state highway department.

The new road will be 6.6 miles long, leaving Seale road five miles south of Phenix City and extending southward to the Fort Mitchell community and the Alabama parachute area. This will replace the old dirt road between these points.

First STR EM Get Promotions

Colonel John S. Roosma, commanding officer of the 1st Student Training Regiment, the Infantry School, announced promotion of the following enlisted men:

To staff sergeant: Sgt. Elzo S. Witherington, T-4 Peter A. Cataldo, T-4 Harvey D. Bufkin.

To technician 4th grade: T-5 Artice L. Kraft, T-5 Roosevelt Smith, T-5 Ulysses Tyson, Pfc. William D. Dixon, Pfc. Drewry R. Evans.

To corporal: Pfc. Andrew R. Evans, Pfc. Angelo Morres.

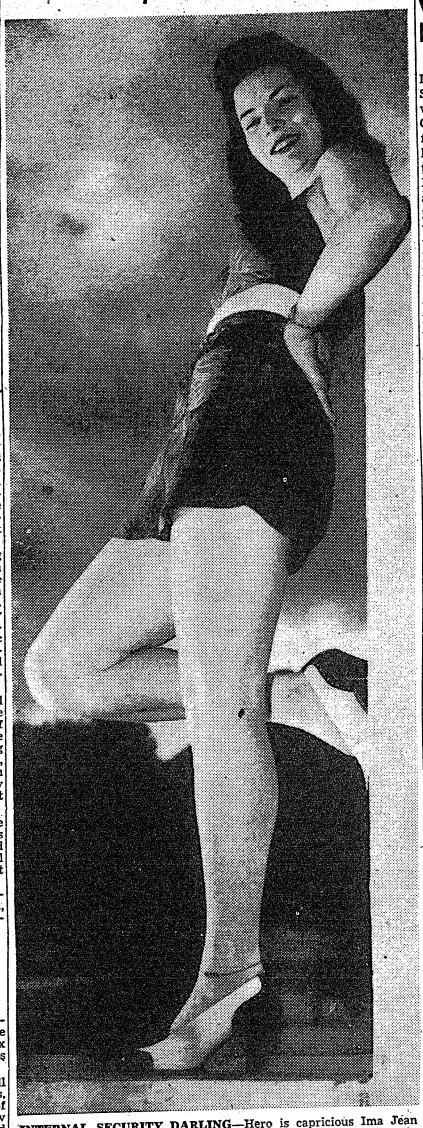
To technician 5th grade: Pfc. Arthur F. Barney, Pfc. Philip C. Campos, Pfc. Joe Caprino, Pfc. William R. Combouzon, Pfc. John DiFusco, Pfc. James S. Turner, Pvt. James Daniels.

To private first class: Pvt. Eugene E. Danner, Pvt. Hubert E. Hoefle, Pvt. Rodolphe L. Jacques, Pvt. Charles E. Maret, Pvt. Joseph G. Thomas.

Theater No. 12 Adds New Stage

Recently opened Theater No. 12, now showing movies, has been prepared for stage shows and entertainment events, and the new stage had its premiere last night when trainees from the First Battalion Fifth Regiment, ASTP, Basic Training Center, presented a show.

The theater has been revamped from a building formerly used as an instruction hall. Much of the material for the new hard-wood floor, stage, curtains and footlights was salvaged by members of the First Battalion.



Included in the show Wednesday were impersonations, vocal numbers, solos and several variety skits.

Members of the Battalion also have formed a Glee Club of 40 members under direction of Earle R. Snow, Port Jefferson, N. Y.

GIRL SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Registration for Brownies and for the Girl Scouts will be held in Recreation Hall of Children's School Friday afternoon, Sept. 24, from 2:30 to 3:30 o'clock.

Pin-Up Girl of the Week

INTERNAL SECURITY DARLING—Hero is capricious Ima Jean Stephens and her "perfect 36 figure." . . . She's a secretary in Internal Security District No. 4 headquarters and the toast of the lads who work there. . . . Born and reared in Phenix City, she attended Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville. . . . Has been at Benning four months. . . . Enjoys dramatics, likes swimming and adores dancing. . . . Also collects poetry and is ardent grid fan. . . . Stephens on men: "When the war's over, I'd like to settle down with the right man and raise a big family, oh maybe seven or eight youngsters." . . . VITAL STATISTICS: Age—20. Height—5' 4". Weight—124. Bust—36. Waist—25. Hips 36. Eyes—gloriously blue. Hair—brown. Complexion—fair. What a girl! (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

4 Officers Join ASTP

Four new officers have joined the 6th Training Regiment of the ASTP Basic Training Center, The Infantry School, it was announced by Col. Robert Sharp, commanding officer. Capt. Stanley Dec has been appointed executive officer of the 3rd Battalion where he will also have the duties of battalion plans and training officer. Capt. Richard F. Allen was appointed commanding officer of the 10th Company. 1st Lts. Aloys H. Vogel and Joseph R. Wilson were assigned to the 9th and 12th Companies respectively.

All four officers recently returned from a tour of duty in Iceland and all are graduates of courses in The Infantry School. Captain Dec, who attended Indiana University, was the only student in that institution's history who was graduated from the advanced ROTC course while a sophomore. He also attended the TIS Motor Maintenance Course in 1941.

Captain Allen, a graduate of Ohio State University, attended TIS in 1940. Lieutenant Vogel, a graduate of the University of Illinois in 1940, attended The Infantry School Basic Course that same year. Lieutenant Wilson, who graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1938, attended Basic Class 8 in 1941.

Promotions of 16 officers of the 176th Infantry have been announced by Col. Edwin Cox, commanding officer. They are: Robert S. Fugate, from 1st lieutenant to captain and Thomas L. Dermady, John M. Calhoun, William L. Aya, Jamie R. Chatlain, Richard G. Gilbert, James H. Keefe, Edward J. Sanborn, Peter J. Marco, Walter J. Wienbrack, James B. West, Jr., Frederick H. McGirr, Bernard M. Yorke, Edmund E. Lemieux, Isadore J. Vallorani and Edwin J. Scherer from second lieutenant to first lieutenant.

Woman's Club

By KATHERINE HAMMARGREN

Officers and chairmen of the Fort Benning Woman's Club are enthusiastically completing plans for the club year. Knowing that the club is an essential part of army life in that it gives newcomers to the army a sense of belonging to the service and acquaints women with the various phases of Red Cross work, every effort will be made to inform officers' wives of the purposes of the club.

First meeting of the year will be the membership drive and traditional tea on Monday, October 4, at 2:30 p. m. EWT in the Officers' club on the main post. All wives of officers stationed at Fort Benning, officers of the WACs and Army Nurse Corps, members of the Hospital Recreation Corps, and teachers of Fort Benning schools are invited to attend. At this time, also, women may sign up for various groups in which they may be interested.

At a recent meeting called by Mrs. Harold E. Potter, president, plans were discussed by the following officers and chairmen: Mrs. Francis J. Heraty, first vice president; Mrs. Gilbert E. Parker, second vice president; Mrs. T. W. Phipps, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George M. Chescheir, treasurer; Mrs. Ridgely Gaither, recording secretary; Mrs. William Denton, auditor.

Mrs. Sevier R. Tupper, program chairman; Mrs. H. P. Perrine, Spanish; Mrs. Benjamin F. Wills, music; Mrs. Gordon D. Johnson, book review; Mrs. George Molony, hospitality; Mrs. Lee Carnes, house; Mrs. R. J. Hammargren, publicity; Mrs. Albert H. Dickerson, membership; Mrs. Wilfred Jackson, bridge; Mrs. M. N. Kadick, exercise class and bowling; Mrs. Isaac Walker, nursery school.

Terms of the Italian surrender were concluded Sept. 3 but did not become effective until a few days later on—Sept. 8.

Chinese Soldier Wants To Avenge Ravaged Home City

Technician 4th Grade Yim F. Look, of the 24th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, who was born in Canton, that great Chinese seaport that Japan seized five years ago, plundering and killing thousands of civilians in the process is now attending the Enlisted Communication Course at The Infantry School, Look is patiently preparing for the day when he can return to China with the Army of the United States and help drive the Jap invader from his ravaged homeland.

Little wonder he's anxious to tangle with the Nipponese again. Living in peaceful Honolulu, Hawaii, on December 7, 1941, Look heard the sneak Jap attack blast the Sabbath morning quiet and saw their planes attack unsuspecting Pearl Harbor.

Next day he volunteered for Territorial Guard duty and the following April enlisted in the Army. Look was assigned first to the 298th Infantry, formerly part of the Hawaiian National Guard and in the early part of this year was sent to the States as a cadre.

Always remember that when scouting close to the enemy at night your best protection from observation is silent movement.

Gifts - Antiques
Shop Early for Christmas!
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

STEVENS Distinctive CHRISTMAS CARDS
For a Discriminating Clientele we offer personal Christmas Greeting Cards of unusual artistic merit and fine craftsmanship. Samples and prices submitted upon request.
J. P. STEVENS ENGRAVING CO.
110 PEACHTREE STREET ATLANTA · GEORGIA

PAT PATTERSON 44th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED CHICKEN IN THIS TOWN
No. 1 KANSAS CITY STEAKS THAT'S REALLY TENDER
CAT FISH DINNERS GA. STYLE
COME OUT ON THE NORTH HIGHLAND BUS
BRING THE FAMILY TONIGHT!
Try Our Set Food Course — 6 Private Dining Rooms

BACK THE ATTACK
Western Steaks, Fried Chicken, Country Style. Vegetable plate luncheon served at all times.
SMITTY'S SANDWICH SHOP
Dial 2-3262 No. 9 - 13th St.

CUSTOM-TAILORING IN THE MILITARY MANNER
Change into a Smith-Gray custom-tailored Officers' Uniform
The difference between the ordinary ready-made Officer's Uniform and a Smith-Gray Uniform custom-tailored to individual measure, is the difference between the rigid pattern of the classroom and the personal initiative of officers in action.
For while we are tough and unyielding as an Inspection Officer in our fidelity to the strictly military features — we unfailingly emphasize the value of individual distinction,
The result is a uniform of ultra-smartness, perfectly fitted to your figure, designed with the refinements and exacting attention to detail essential to command respect for appearance and bearing.
And don't forget to buy an extra $100 bond this month during the 3rd War Loan. Invest today to insure tomorrow's future.

SMITH-GRAY CORP.
CUSTOM TAILORS SINCE 1845
Makers of UNIFORMS
740 Broadway New York City
15 West Eleventh Street Columbus, Ga.
Opp. Army-Navy USO DIAL 5719

ANNOUNCING
Virgil J. Smith, who formerly was Fort Benning representative for the Williams Motor Company is no longer connected with this company.
WILLIAMS MOTOR CO.
J. M. WILLIAMS

SEARS · 57 years of Service to the Nation! shop at Sears and Save!
YES! YOU CAN MAKE ANY PURCHASE OF $10.00 OR MORE ON SEARS' EASY PAYMENT PLAN

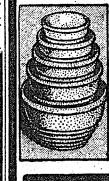
32-Pc. "CAT-TAIL" DINNERWARE SET
Service for 6 Popular Attractive Shapes
549
Universally popular pattern. Every Day American Made Dinnerware. Cheerful decoration of clean cut red cat-tails and black leaves. Bright red lines on edge of plates, handles and knobs. Attractive ivory glaze.

"RICHMOND" DINNERWARE
598
32-Pc. Set
Delicate sprigs of garden flowers in refreshing tones, blue, green, pink, and yellow, form the colorful decoration for this fine grain granitone dinner set.

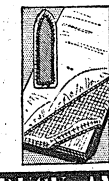
"MONTICELLO" DINNERWARE
698
32-Pc. Set
Colorful floral decoration on pure white background. Fine grained lightweight body. Clean cut Duncan-Phyfe style.

DUST MOP
98c
Big fluffy cotton dust mop. Cleans efficiently, quickly. Can't mar furniture.

BROOM
79c
Sturdy 5-string all corn straw house broom. Firmly sewed. Select quality broom straw.



PUSH BROOM
98c
12-inch size floor brush. Strong durable. Gray horse hair and fiber.



FLOOR WAX
1.79
1-gallon size Merit self-polishing floor wax. Dries to a smooth hard finish. Requires no rubbing.

BOWL SET
89c
5-Pc. earthenware mixing bowl set. Graduated sizes. Brown glazed finish.

PAD AND COVER
59c
Fire restisting ironing board pad and cover set. Fits all standard size ironing boards

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.
1225 BROADWAY Dial 3-4351

GENERAL FULTON RETIRES TOMORROW

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 2, NUMBER 3 — Published by The Ledger-Enquirer Co. — THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1943 — For America's Most Complete Post — PRICE FIVE CENTS

The General . . .

BRIG. GEN. WALTER S. FULTON,
Commanding General,
Fort Benning,
1942-1943

. . . And His Lady

MRS. WALTER S. FULTON,
Epitome of American Womanhood
In the War Effort

Post Commander Climaxes Career

Climaxing a brilliant army career, Brigadier General Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of Fort Benning, retires from active military duty on October 1 after having served 43 years in the regular army.

General Fulton's military service has been highlighted by his assignment at Fort Benning for the past three and one-half years, during which time he has guided the post establishment during its rapid growth as a training center.

As Post Commander, General Fulton became known by and endeared to his thousands of subordinate officers and enlisted men as well as the many civilian employes on the post who work under his jurisdiction.

A graduate of West Point Military Academy, with the Class of 1904, and a veteran of overseas service during World War I, General Fulton has had an Army career full of important assignments in the last two decades.

Outstanding among his assignments has been the General's work for four years in Washington as a member of the War Department General Staff. From 1929 to 1933 in that assignment, General Fulton was in charge of the section charting plans for the present Selective Service legislation. Although later some modifications were made, many of the principles outlined during General Fulton's work in the section are embodied in the present system supplying manpower to the armed services.

Much of General Fulton's Army work has been with the National Guard, both in Washington and in State National Guard bureaus. Before going to Washington to assume duties with the General Staff, he served four years as senior instructor of the Minnesota National Guard.

Immediately upon completion of his assignment in Washington, General Fulton returned to National Guard duty, serving as senior instructor of the Louisiana National Guard. He also has served as executive officer of the National Guard Bureau in Washington.

Coming to Fort Benning on March 15, 1940, General Fulton has served as Post Inspector and also as executive officer of the post. On April 10, 1942, General Fulton, then holding the rank of full colonel, assumed command of Fort Benning.

During his assignment as post commander, General Fulton has cemented relations between the military and civilian population at Fort Benning and in Columbus and environs.

Among the many improvements made in the Columbus-Fort Benning area has been the drive to combat vice. General Fulton and members of his staff launched the successful campaign, the success of which has been lauded by Washington officials.

DIE IN CRASH

Names of four men killed Tuesday when an army transport plane stationed at Lawson field crashed about four miles north east of Seale, Ala., during a routine flight were released Tuesday by the public relations office at the field.

They are Second Lieut. Orville Clarence Hern, of Banning, Cal.; Second Lieut. Melvin Lloyd Jenkinson, of Girard, Kan.; Corp. Vincent James Faggione, of New York City, whose wife lives in Columbus, and Corp. Edward Hugh Jolly, of Asheville, N. C.

Free Post Busses Oct. 4

Vehicles To Stop Only At Signs 'Post Bus Stop'

A motor bus system at Fort Benning involving five routes from various parts of the Main Post to the commissary grocery and shopping center, designed to save thousands of gallons of gasoline consumption each month, will go into effect October 4, it was announced today by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of the post.

The new network of bus lines will be operated under the direction of Capt. Charles W. McKeown, post transportation officer. Busses will be olive drab color, 29-passenger vehicles, and will operate regularly over the five numbered routes. Each bus will display a number, front and rear, to show the route followed.

No fares will be collected, but passengers not in uniform may be required by the driver to show passes or identification buttons, it was stated. The busses will stop only where indicated by signs reading "Post Bus Stop."

While impossible to estimate accurately the amount of gasoline saved by installation of the system, it was pointed out by Capt. McKeown that hundreds of families living on the post because of long distances involved, now use private automobiles to go to the post grocery, the shopping center behind the Howard Bus Station, or the commissary in order to procure necessities for the families. Under the new system, most of that travel can be cared for by the busses.

ROUTE NO. 1

Route No. 1 will leave Howard Bus station, turn right on Ingersoll street, proceed along Ingersoll, turn right on Jenks to the Grocery. On the return trip, it will proceed along Skimmer street, turn right on Yeager, along Yeager and turn left on Ingersoll, along Ingersoll to Vibbett, turn left on Vibbert at Gillespie, along Gillespie to Upton, turn left on Upon and along Upton to the Post

See FREE, Page 8

Bryden to Decorate Two Retiring Officers

Legion of Merit Awarded Gen. Fulton And Colonel Bain

General Walter S. Fulton and Col. A. J. Bain, Post Engineer, will be awarded the Legion of Merit medal at today's ceremony. Major General William Bryden, commanding general, Fourth Service Command, will come to Benning from Atlanta to make these awards.

A guard of Honor composed of the station complement will bid "Hail and Farewell" to Brigadier General Walter S. Fulton, who retires as commanding general of Fort Benning, at 11 a. m., Thursday.

The various units comprising the station complement will form at Post Headquarters to render a final salute to their commander. The Reception Center Band will play for the final review.

Units will include Military Police, Section I, under full arms; Headquarters Detachment, Section I; WAC Detachment Section I; Platoon of Officers; WAC Detachment, Section II; Military Police, Section II; Headquarters Detachment, Section II and Supply Detachment, Section II.

Commander of the Guard of Honor will be Colonel Ulric N. James, commanding officer of the Reception Center. First section will be commanded by Captain Samuel E. Lowry, the second section by Major James A. Mitchell.

All military personnel and civilians on the post are invited to attend.

Every Single Man In Academic Unit To Buy Extra Bond

Special Service Detachment, the first unit of the Academic Regiment to sign up 100 per cent for bond allotments from its payroll, has now set another Regimental record that places them far out in front in the present Third War Loan Drive. Every single member of the detachment has signed up to buy a bond for cash on payday, in addition to his class B reservations.

Counting the allotments, the money for bonds that the detachment will spend this month is well over $2000 or about 64 per cent of the payroll.

The detachment will be paid about $3300 today and on the supplementary payroll day, out of which will come $492 for bond allotments and $1604 already pledged for cash purpose of bonds during the Loan Drive, or a total of $2096 invested in government se-

See EVERY, Page 8

COL. TUPPER

Train Butches' Sales To G.I.'s Given Ceiling

Soldiers Requested To Report Violations To Military Police

Ceiling prices have been established on sandwiches and beverages sold to soldiers by train butches, and enlisted men are not to be required to pay higher prices and are requested to report instances of violations to military police, it was announced at Fort Benning headquarters today upon receipt of a War Department memorandum.

Specific prices for food items offered for sale in day coaches requiring class two railroad tickets set the maximum charge for a cup of coffee, a bottle of milk not less than a half pint, and soft drinks including Coca-Cola and Pepsi-cola at 10 cents each. Prices for individual and sliced pie is set at 10 cents a portion, while two doughnuts, two cup cakes, a package of cookies and fruits including fresh apples and oranges are to be sold at no higher than 10 cents each. Maximum price for bars and pieces of candies and chocolates and for packages of potato chips was set at 10 cents also.

With certain exceptions all sand-

See TRAIN, Page 8

Infantry School Makes Changes

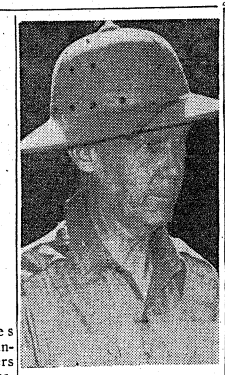
Two important changes within its command were announced at the Headquarters of The Infantry School Tuesday.

Col. Sevier R. Tupper, who commanded the Student Training Brigade, takes command of the 124th Infantry.

For the time being, Col. Robert H. Lord, commanding the Third Student Training Regiment, will assume Col. Tupper's duties at the Brigade in addition to his own.

Col. Tupper was born in Charleston, S. C., in 1893. He was educated at Blair Academy and at St. Andrews in Toronto.

A veteran of World War I, he served with distinction in France and Germany and received the Silver Star for gallantry in action. He was commissioned in 1916, serving with the 38th Infantry at Fort Leavenworth, Clark and Snelling in 1917. From 1918 to 1920, he served in the Headquarters of the 6th Division at Fort Oglethorpe, then overseas and back to Camp Grant. He then spent two years in Hawaii with the 27th Infantry and finished 1922 with the 6th Infantry at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. In 1933, he returned to Hawaii and rejoined the 27th.



TUPPER ORC TEACHER

After two more years with the 27th, he was assigned to the headquarters of the 6th Corps area in Chicago and came to The Infantry School to attend Advanced Officers' Class in 1925-26. After two years with the 2nd Infantry at Fort Brady, he became an instructor in Officer Reserve units in Birmingham. He then returned to the Second for two years more following which he became senior instructor of the Arizona National Guard at Phoenix. From that post he came to The Infantry School, taking over the command of the First Student Training Regiment.

On July 1, 1942, he assumed command of the Student Training Brigade and on May 25, of this year, took on the added duties of commanding officer of the ASTP Basic Training Center.

He supervised the organization of the Training Center, and coordinated its work with that of the Student Training Brigade. The ASTP command was turned over to Col. Wilson McK. Spann, his executive officer, a few weeks ago but he still remained in charge of the coordination of activities in the Harmony Church area.

Col. Tupper is married, has three daughters and resides in Fort Benning. His mother, Mrs. E. R. Tupper, resides in Milledgeville, Ga.

GEN. BONESTEEL
Commandant
The Infantry School

Gen. Fulton Bids Farewell

In a special message today, Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, Commanding General of the Post, bids farewell to members of his command, officers, soldiers, nurses, WACs, and civilians. The message follows:

"Words escape me that would adequately express my sincere appreciation for the splendid cooperation I have received from the personnel who have worked with me at Fort Benning . . . Officer, soldier, nurse, WAC, and civilian.

"We have been joined in performing an important task in the Army. It has been no mean job. But, as I relinquish my position as Commanding General of Fort Benning I am happy to know that I am leaving faithful, well-qualified persons to carry on in their respective assignments. Yours is an important trust; I know you will continue to persevere in your jobs that the war effort will reap the rewards of your work.

"I find leaving my co-workers at Fort Benning one of deep regret. As I part your company, I bid you each a fond farewell. Mrs. Fulton and I have made many fine friends among you all. My career truly is highlighted by my association with you who have so generously been my friends and associates in working together.

"WALTER S. FULTON,
Brig. Gen. U. S. A.,
Commanding."

War Bond Sales Surge Upward

In a last minute spurt, Fort Benning soldiers have invested nearly $100,000 in a week to bring local bonds sales to $312,407.50, with still two more days, one of these pay day, before the 3rd War Loan Drive ends.

Sales and reservations were still moving fast on Tuesday afternoon, and Major George Fink, post war bond officer estimated that local investments would reach $750,000 for September. This includes pay reservation purchases by soldiers and post civilians, which is also expected to rise sharply, over the August total of $200,000.

The Benning post office also reported a record month as Robert P. Richardson, postmaster, announced that 3,004 bonds totaling $140,925.00 had been purchased to date, as compared to purchases of $93,768.25 for April, 1943 during the 2nd war loan drive, and $113,-231.25 in November, 1942 during the first drive. Approximately $50,000 has been invested through the post office in the past seven days.

CASH SALES DOUBLE

At the same time, post finance authorities stated that their cash sales had doubled in a similar period, going from $9,200 to $23,-050; also topping their record for any previous month.

Largest military purchases were reported by the Infantry School whose various units had invested

See WAR, Page 8

New CO Held Icelandic Post

General Allen Gets Important Job Elsewhere

Maj. Gen. Charles Hartwell Bonesteel, former commander of the United Nations forces in Iceland, has been named as Commandant of The Infantry School at Fort Benning.

He succeeds Maj. Gen. Leven C. Allen who has served as commandant since February 1942 and has now been given a new and important assignment.

The new Commandant is a West Pointer and comes from a long line of army men. His father and grandfather were West Pointers and his son, Capt. Charles H. Bonesteel III, also a graduate of the Military Academy, served with him in Iceland.

Gen. Bonesteel has held many commands, the latest of which was that in Iceland which he held from September, 1941, until this summer. He has been attached to The Infantry School before, as a student and later as an instructor. His last appearance here was in early August when he spent six days in a tour of inspection.

He was graduated from The Infantry School Advanced class in 1925, the Command and General Staff College in 1926 and the Army War College in 1932. Upon the completion of his assignment in Iceland, he was awarded the Distinguished Service medal and commended for making permanent the defense of that outpost.

NEBRASKAN

The Commandant was born in Fort Sidney, Neb., April 9, 1885 and was commissioned in 1908. After six years of service at Fort Porter, Buffalo; the Philippines and at the Presidio in Monterey, Cal., he was assigned, in 1914, to border duty at Calexico, Ca., and Yuma, Ariz. In Sept. of that year, he was promoted to first lieutenant and assigned to the 30th Infantry at Plattsburg until that unit was ordered to the Hawaiians. Until 1917, he was an instructor

See NEW, Page 8

BUYING A SHARE IN AMERICA for her brother, an Italian prisoner of war at Fort Benning, is Mrs. Marianna Cacciapaglia, second from left, of Staunton, Va. Col. George M. Chescheir, commanding officer of the prisoner of war camp, is shown above as he hands a $100 War Bond over to Mrs. Cacciapaglia. Third from left is the prisoner of war, and brother of Mrs. Cacciapaglia whom she had not seen in the past 20 years but recognized in a newsreel as an American war prisoner. On the right is Mrs. Camella Cacciapaglia, also of Staunton, Va., another sister who had not seen him in 14 years until they were reunited at Benning. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Italian-American Woman Reunited With Brother After 20-Years' Lapse

Recognizes Face In Film Shot At Post POW Camp; She Presents Him With U. S. War Bond

Last Monday Mrs. Marianna Cacciapaglia of Staunton, Va., met her brother, an Italian prisoner of war at Fort Benning, whom she had not seen in the past 20 years.

The believe-it-or-not story started a few weeks ago in the Dixie Theater in Staunton where Mrs. Cacciapaglia, a newsreel enthusiast, viewed some films showing the capture of Italians by the invading Allied Armies in Sicily.

As Mrs. Cacciapaglia looked on, she gasped as she noted one of the prisoners waving the "V" sign for victory. She was certain the man bore resemblances to one of her brothers whom she had last seen at their home in the city of Santerimo in the province of Bari, Italy, in 1924.

Mrs. Cacciapaglia wrote a letter to the War Department to determine if her brother were an American prisoner of war. On the same day that she received a reply confirming her beliefs, Mrs. Cacciapaglia got a post card from her brother, sent from the internment camp at Benning.

After receiving Army permission to visit her kin, Mrs. Cacciapaglia and her sister, Mrs. Camella Cacciapaglia, also of Staunton, Va., with the latter's young son, started their trip to Benning.

TALK OVER OLD TIMES

Upon arriving here this week, the sisters were reunited with their brother and talked over old times. Mrs. Camella Cacciapaglia had not seen her brother in 14 years, she said.

Climaxing her visit with her brother, Mrs. Marianna Cacciapaglia wanted to give her brother something,—money, a present or anything he needed.

He told his sister he needed nothing, since he was working on on a farm during the day and get sufficient spending money.

Mrs. Cacciapaglia decided then and there the best thing she could do for her brother was to buy him a War Bond. At the headquarters of the Prisoner of War camp, she filled out a bond application and bought a $100 War Bond for her brother. The Bond was given to Mrs. Cacciapaglia to keep for her kin.

An avid advocate of democracy and the American way of life, Mrs. Cacciapaglia asserted: "I want to do everything I can to make it possible for my brother to stay in America."

She related how 20 years ago she left her home in Italy and migrated to America with her husband on their honeymoon. Settling in Staunton, she established a

See ITALIAN, Page 8

General Fulton To Head War Fund Campaign As 'First Major Civilian Job'

Brigadier General Walter Scott Fulton, who retires as commanding officer at Fort Benning September 30, will head the Muscogee War Fund campaign in October, District Chairman A. H. Chapman announced Saturday.

"I am delighted that General Fulton has accepted this general chairmanship as his first major civilian job after he retires from the United States Army," said Mr. Chapman.

"Columbus knows General Fulton's capacity as an army man, and I am sure that Columbus will follow his leadership in raising the $70,000 quota asked of us by the National War Fund.

"General Fulton gave up plans for a vacation in order to serve in this campaign and he will take active charge of putting together a county-wide organization immediately upon his retirement next Thursday.

KNOWS FUND'S VALUE

"He knows the valu of the War Fund in financing the fine activities of the USO and kindred organiaztions, and no man could dramatize this appeal more effectively than he."

Mr. Chapman, who as district chairman is responsible for War Fund organiaztions in Muscogee and seven other counties, said that General Fulton's appointment to other campaign posts would be announced as the organization is perfected.

General Fulton was guest of honor at a Muscogee County War Fund luncheon at the Ralston Friday, at which E. B. Emrey, Georgia chairman of the National War Fund was also a guest.

General Fulton's letter of acceptance, addressed to Mr. Chapman, reads as follows:

"Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of 22 September, 143, informing me that the Steering Committee, appointed for the purpose of organizing the campaign in Columbus and Muscogee County in the interest of the National War Fund, has requested that I act as General Chairman of that committee.

HONORED BY REQUEST

"Being cognizant of the unselfish and patriotic duty upon which the committee is about to embark, and knowing and admiring its personnel as I have learned to do, I feel that it is a very great privilege to be invited to participate in its efforts and a great honor to be asked to serve as its chairman.

"My experience as an officer of the Army in the present emergency has permitted me to witness personally the operation of many of the agencies supported in full or in part by the National War Fund. The whole-hearted and single-minded manner in which these agencies have gone about their allotted tasks has been a course of never ending admiration on my part. The global nature of their enterprises has been limited only by the global need of their services. The opportunity that the National War Fund campaign now affords to every non-fighter to help sustain these enterprises, and to feel that "through his gift he can be there," is one of the most appealing and soul-stirring in the history of an unselfishs nation.

"It is with these thoughts that I request you to convey my thanks to the Steering Committee for the honor they have bestowed upon me and to inform them for me that I shall be most pleased to accept the general chairmanship."

TIS Assistant Secretary Gets Major's Leaves

Captain Paul Wilbur Warren, assistant secretary of The Infantry School, has been promoted to the rank of major. He has been at the school since his return to active duty May 24, 1943.

He was commissioned a second lieutenant at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., in 1917 and was assigned to the 59th Infantry of the Fourth Division and embarked for France in April, 1918.

Maj. Warren was in the Second Battle of the Marne and in Vesle River Defensive. He was awarded the Silver Star decoration and returned to the United States after 15 months in France and the Army of Occupation in Germany.

After his return Maj. Warren was commissioned a captain in the Regular Army and served until October, 1929, when he retired from active duty.

7th Armored Backs Attack With Big Loan

Tankers Lend U. S. $10,000 To Share In Third Bond Drive

Confident that civilians are already investing 10 per cent of their income in bonds through payroll savings plans, Seventh Armored Division men are currently spending approximately $10,000 for "victory insurance" during the Third War Loan drive.

Since the start of the drive Maj. Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silvester's rugged armoraiders have loaned to Uncle Sam $9,078.75 in cash for the purchase of equipment with which they can back their attack overseas.

In the 31st Armored Regiment, War Bond officer Chaplain Alfred B. Claus reported that $7,272 worth of bonds had been bought. To date this is the largest amount reported from any one unit. These men realize that every dollar put into War Bonds is a step near to defeating the Axis. They invest every dollar they possibly can in the country they are fighting for . . . to help preserve the freedom for which they are already willing to give the supreme sacrifice.

As a further stimulus to bond buying during the Third War Loan drive a radio show entitled "Bond Brevities" was broadcast from Service Club No. 2 between 7:30 and 8 p. m. last Saturday over WRBL, in Columbus.

PEP TALK

Lieut. Col. James G. De Lavergne, division chaplain and chief war bond officer, delivered a short pep talk urging the men to invest in more War Bonds with every dollar not absolutely needed for the necessities of life.

Included in the broadcast was a short dramatic sketch called "And Then Came Peace," written and produced by Pvt. Phil Alexander against a musical background provided by Sgt. Tony Borrelli's 48th Armored Infantry Regimental orchestra.

Cpl. Chris Woessner added to the musical enjoyment of the show with his crooning of "Sunday, Monday, or Always."

A new song called "If You See Jean," written by the 48th's Lieut. Arville R. Ousdahl, was introduced on the program by the regimental orchestra.

Seventh Armored Division soldiers are not counting the physical costs that face them in coming battles . . . they are ready to give their all. They aren't asking civilians to shoulder guns, but they do hope that civilians will help win the war by backing the attack with bond purchases. Men of the 7th believe that dollars and cents are small sacrifices when measured in human lives that may be saved. They know . . . for theirs is a two-fisted sacrifice.

OWI Man Swaps Words For Bullets

From fighting a war with words to fighting a war with bullets was the transition made by Wallace B. Ruggles, officer candidate of the 21st Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School, upon his entrance into the army.

Prior to his army service, Ruggles was assistant chief of production, overseas branch of the Office of War Information. In this capacity he served as a master propagandist, staging and directing radio programs broadcast to Japan, Burma, Australia and many Pacific points.

A former news commentator and director of Bob Hope's and other headliners' radio shows, Ruggles was chosen by OWI because of his radio experience to fight Japanese lies with truth.

He left OWI after a year's work to enlist in the army, and was sent to Camp Roberts, Cal., for basic training before he was selected for OCS. His home is in San Francisco.

Chief Jester In Boomerang

T-4 Justin Wagner, Division Service Company's jester and showman extraordinary is ready and willing to increase his insurance. He wants all he can get in the army or out.

Sgt. Wagner, who has a commendation from Maj. Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silvester for his commendable work in "Off Limits" a division play given at North Camp Polk, for some reason or another didn't know that the Division AG Control had a "dead man's" file.

He was duty clerk at Division Headquarters on a recent night. He tried to find a man, couldn't locate him. He called Sgt. Raymond J. Becker, chief of control section and when Stg. Becker said he would look in the "dead man's" file, the champion jester was almost floored. He frankly admitted he'd given up although he has pulled more Houdini's in the 7th Armored Division than there were rabbits in the proverbial hat.

MEDICOS PROMOTED

Two officers of the 53rd General Hospital have been promoted to higher grades, according to an announcement from that headquarters. They are 1st Lt. Robert O. Sauer, supply officer, who was raised to captain and 2nd Lt. Mark A. Cunningham, adjutant, who advanced to first lieutenant.

BRIGADIER GENERAL WALTER SCOTT FULTON (center) accepts the job of heading the Muscogee War Fund campaign from District Chairman A. H. Chapman, right, and Georgia Chairman E. B. Emrey, left.

Colored WAC Adds Personnel

Fort Benning's first colored company of the Women's Army Corps last week increased in size when a group of 44 enlisted personnel reported to duty from Fort Des Moines, Ia. Second Lieut. Lucille I. Mayo, commanding officer of the detachment at Fort Benning, along with a group of Benning officers met the WACs as they arrived here.

Lt. Col. J. D. Rosenberger, Jr., post adjutant; Lt. Col. C. A. Will, director, Training Division; Major W. C. Tippins, executive officer, Reception Center, and 2nd Lieuts. Patricia A. Gunter and Ella L. Clayton of the WAC Detachment were at the station to greet them.

These WACs will take up their duties in the Station Hospital, as well as in the Reception Center. They will be laboratory technicians, cooks and bakers, ward technicians, X-ray developers, clerk-typists, administrative noncoms and surgical technicians at the Station Hospital, while at the Reception Center their tasks will be tailors, classification specialists, statisticians, general clerks, mail clerks, and drivers.

They come from all parts of the United States including from Kentucky, Missouri, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, Louisiana, Alabama, New Jersey and Texas and they are ready for the job ahead of them, and willing to go to any part of the world where they can be of service to their country. They have brothers, sisters, sweethearts, husbands and even fathers doing their part and these WACs want to take their place beside them on the battle front if they are needed there.

Main Theater Projectionist Dies

News of death of T-3 H. M. Campbell, who for several years had been chief projectionist at the Main theater, was received today from the Veterans Hospital at Otteen, N. C.

Sgt. Campbell was born in Jellico, Tenn., July 2, 1904, and was a veteran of 18 years in the army. He had served at Fort Benning for nearly eight years, being assigned to DEML.

He is survived by his widow, of Benning Park, his father, three brothers and one sister. He had left Fort Benning for the Veterans Hospital last spring.

Even A Mine Can't Wipe Off Irish's Smile

He's an Irishman named Mulligan. A smilin' Irishman in the 176th Infantry of the Infantry School.

He entered the Army last December, volunteered. By July he was made a Private First Class; August saw him a Corporal, and early September a Sergeant. They liked his spirit, always smiling with a cheering word for all.

'e's in the hospital today; the victim of an exploded mine. Doc says he'll be all right in a month or two. Doc also said that "You just can't beat him. He still has that grin on his face, and a breezy word for all."

In certain armored units the smallest organiaztion is the four man crew of a scout or combat car.

Army Trucks To Help City With Yule Mail

Trucks from Fort Benning will be used to help the Columbus post office in transportation of mail during the Christmas holiday rush, it was announced at post headquarters today on receipt of notice from headquarters of the Fourth Service Command in Atlanta.

Last year nine trucks were used in Columbus and two on the post at Fort Benning to help distribute the Christmas mail load. This year postal authorities in Columbus said, a request has been presented for 12 trucks for Columbus and two for the Post.

Army vehicles all through the Fourth Service Command will be placed at disposal of local postbasters it was announced by Col. Robert H. McCormack, assistant postal officer Atlanta. Availability is to be determined by the local commanding officers, and tactical vehicles will be loaned only in extreme cases, with services limited to distribution of holiday mail to Army posts, camps and stations, he stated.

Post offices are to carry as much of the extra burden of mail as possible, but when the volume becomes too heavy, the Army will help out, he said.

"We know that the volume of Christmas mail will be heavier than ever this year," Col. McCormack stated. "There are so many more men and women in service and since the Fourth Service Command trains more soldiers than any other command, we must prepare to handle a record number of deliveries."

The Post Office Department will maintain and service the vehicles during their use by the postal service.

Planes Are To Bees As Wings Are To Wings

Two soldiers in the 3rd Company, 6th ASTP Regiment of the Infantry School can be classed as air minded . . . but of different types. One flies a plane and the other raises bees and pigeons.

Private Robert Kitely, of Marlette, Mich., likes nothing better than to grab the stick of a Cub plane and gun the craft through the fleecy white clouds of his northern home. Not only did he fly but at times could be seen leaning over the edge of the cockpit snapping aerial photos.

Then there is Private Al Mastrobatista, who found the perfect answer to sugar rationing in his home town of Bernardsville, N. J. That wasn't the only reason he loved his bees; he has studied bee culture since he was a wee bit of a boy.

Just why he tied in pigeon raising with his apiary business, he's at a loss to explain, except that he likes pigeons, too.

Levy-Morton Co.
—6—
Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps
—6—
REPAIRS — DIAL 3-6391
1028—13th STREET

STEVENS Distinctive CHRISTMAS CARDS
For a Discriminating Clientele we offer personal Christmas Greeting Cards of unusual artistic merit and fine craftsmanship. Samples and prices submitted upon request.
J. P. STEVENS ENGRAVING CO.
110 PEACHTREE STREET ATLANTA · GEORGIA

Through These Portals...
Pass The Best Soldiers on Earth
P. S. STORES
Just Above The Howard Bus Line
926 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

PIN-UP GIRLS
Are Favorites With the Boys in the Service
BUT PIN-UP BOYS
Are Favorites With the Girls Back Home!

And when you send that Package
Above All
SEND A PICTURE
SPECIAL
9x12 hand painted oil painting. Regular $15.00 value—Now $5.50
Open Every Evening Until 9 P. M., Ft. Benning Time
BON ART STUDIO
5½ 11TH ST. DIAL 2-0571

CO-OP CABS
DIAL 5511
1318 Broad

CHEROKEE GRILL
Endorsed by Duncan Hines
Endorsed in 1943 edition of "Adventures in Good Eating"
Southern Cooking in Southern Atmosphere with Southern Hospitality.
Dinner—Every evening from 5:30 to 8:30
Lunch—Sundays only: 12 Noon to 2 P.M.
914 Broadway—Inside the White Picket Fence
ALL SOLDIERS ARE WELCOME

Myra's Beauty Shop
Opening under new management MONDAY, SEPT. 27th.
305 Murrah Bldg.
Phone 3-1097
Elevator Service

Have a Coca-Cola = Welcome, Short-Snorter

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke"
...or how to bring folks closer together
When short-snorters (trans-ocean flyers) meet and compare their autographed dollar bills, the invitation Have a "Coke" is fairly sure to follow. In three short words people strike the spark of comradeship. From the family fireside to far-flung fronts, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become a symbol of those who see things in a friendly light.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY
Coca-Cola
—the global high-sign
© 1943 The C-C Co.

Kasserine Pass Hero Teaches AST Basics

ASTP Basics in the 4th Company, 6th Regiment get their battle information first hand. They're not only learning about infantry weapons and tactical methods, but they're getting a version of modern battle from the lips of a Yankee commando who fought with the British in the Kasserine Pass area in Africa and who would be there now had it not been for a lucky shot by a Messerschmidt pilot.

One of the 4th Company instructors is 21-year-old-Cpl. Gaylord W. McCurdy from Sioux City, Iowa.

McCurdy, who was with an outfit of men reputed to scoff at any job but those of a suicidal nature, proudly wears the coveted Purple Heart.

His job with the commandos was no ordinary one. Equipped with a death-dealing tommy gun, blocks of powerful T.N.T. and a coal-black face, McCurdy spent many a sleepless night behind Nazi lines in Africa, blowing up bridges, destroying tanks, blasting installations and cutting communication lines.

Scared?

"Heck no," said McCurdy. "At least not when we were behind the lines."

TOO BUSY FOR FEAR

But then McCurdy explained that he was too darn busy to be scared. No time for worrying about enemy snipers and machine gun fire when there's a mission to be done. But then he confessed:

"After we got back to our base and started to think of what we did, boy, then we really got scared. Cold chills ran up and down our spines when we thought of going through those lines."

Sneaking through enemy lines isn't as scary as the movies show it to be, McCurdy pointed out. Although bullets were almost constantly whizzing around him, he claimed he still had time for a laugh.

"Funny how men act under fire. . . . We actually laughed at bullets that came so close they almost fanned our cheeks, he recalled.

"But we'd get mad too. Especially when the enemy fire slowed down on treid. I recall one night we spent about an hour crawling up on what we thought were German tanks only to find out they were dummies. Boy, were we mad! But we made up for it when we found the real tanks."

MESSERSCHMIDT STRIKES

For all his raiding in no-man's land, McCurdy didn't get a scratch. He went through weeks of enemy-plane strafing and bombing without even getting his hair mussed.

Then one day a lone Messerschmidt came over and opened up with his 30 mm. cannon through the propeller hub. Right then and there McCurdy's luck ran out. A shell landed near him, showering his leg and side with shrapnel.

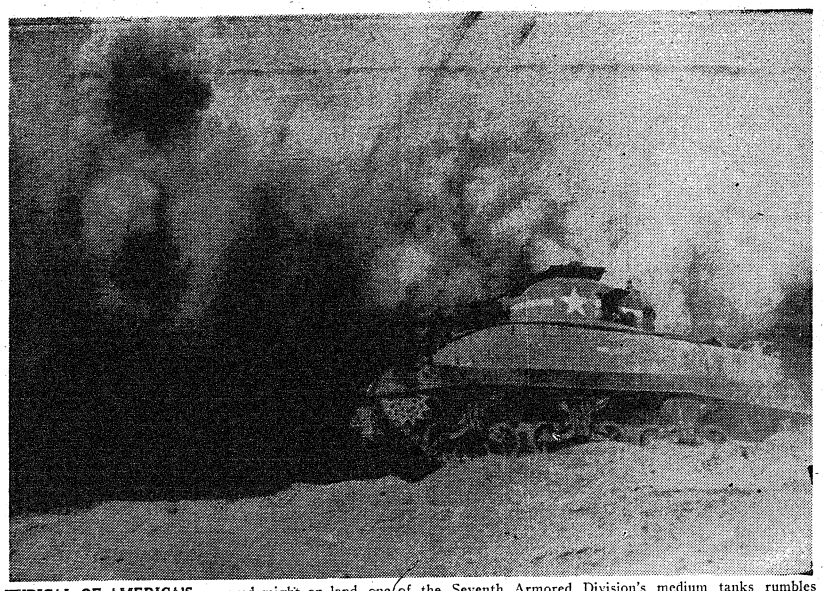
That took care of McCurdy . . . but only temporarily. After two months in eight different British hospitals, he finally was well enough for transfer back to the U.S.A. and a well-earned month's furlough with his mother, Mrs. Esther B. McCurdy.

Now he's teaching . . . and hoping to join the ASTP program himself to complete the education he cut short early in 1941 to join the colors.

Medicos Set New Bond Goal

Men Seek $40,000; Original Objective Exceeded By $6,325

With a quota of $25,000 as their Third War Loan Bond goal, the Medical Detachments on duty with the Station Hospital, have exceeded their goal by over $6,000 according to Major John B. Joyner, M. A. C., commanding officer of the medical detachments. Total sales of bonds on Wednesday was $31,325 and defense stamps totaled $110.00.



The medico bond selling campaign is scheduled to end Thursday and the organizations hope to reach a total sales of $40,000 in bonds and stamps by the time they hold their big bond rally at 8 p. m. on that date. The program for the bond rally will include music by the medico orchestra, free eats and drinks and as a special added attraction the 176th Infantry's famous hillbilly band will highlight the program.

During the bond drive weekly awards in defense stamps have been given to enlisted men selling largest amount in bonds and stamps for the seven day period. Interest in the campaign has been maintained by the holding of two dances for the enlisted personnel of the organization. Sales to date have averaged better than a $25.00 bond for each member of the organization, in addition to any regular purchase of bonds. Also during the campaign the number of payroll deduction purchasers was greatly increased, Major Joyner explained.

PTA TO MEET

The Fort Benning Parent-Teacher's Association will its opening fall meeting at the Children's School Auditorium Thursday, October 7, at 2:45 p. m. A tea will follow the meeting, the mothers being guests of the teachers and room mothers.

Learn the direction of the prevailing wind before starting on a scouting mission. It may help you later to determine your directions.

TYPICAL OF AMERICA'S armored might on land, one of the Seventh Armored Division's medium tanks rumbles through blasts of TNT charges during a training problem in the field. Personnel of Maj. Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silvester's "Lucky 7th" receive intensive training under conditions approximating actual battle as closely as possible. (Official U. S. Army Photo 7th A. D.)

Students Learn Directing Motor Convoys Not Easy

BY LIEUTENANT WILLIAM L. HAMLIN.
14TH CO., 1ST S. T. R.

For the past few days an Officers Motor Class in the 1st Student Training Regiment, command by Colonel John S. Roosma, has been finding out something about motor convoys. The members of this course at The Infantry School have been running the convoys from start to finish, and in pursuance of their labors have found out that there are a number of jobs connected with a motor convoy that are not in the strict sense of the word, desirable—in certain respects.

Take, for instance, the unfortunate guide who stands on his lonely corner, a red flag in one hand, and a flashlight (sometimes) in the other. This singular individual holds his post unwaveringly for hours with his arm at the horizontal, pointing direction, while the trucks roar by.

Now some might think this a pleasant way of passing time, and well it might except for one thing. Overhead the sky is clear (we hope), the ground under foot is dry, but as the trucks flash by a deluge suddenly descends upon the figure of the guide. In seconds he is wholly and completely wet. Now we do not say that this is a result of foul play. Indeed not. But it is a singular fact that the truck passengers are wearing canteens, and since the deluge descends regardless of the clear weather, one suspects the source of water to be anything but heaven sent. So we pity the guide. .

TRAIL OFFICER

Take the Trail Officer on an infiltration movement. This worthy individual takes his post at the Initial Point, watch in hand, and dispatches the vehicles at the proper Time Interval. That is, he hopes he will. He has his eyes on the second hand of his watch. The hand creeps up to zero and his arm flashes down. There is a roar of power from the truck behind him. There is a staccato backfire. And the engine sputters and dies. The Trail Officer tears his hair, weeps, and voice choice expletives. When these have no effect, he prays. And maybe the truck will pass the IP only a minute late.

Now he has to change his dispatching plan. Figures run around in his head as he adds, subtracts, multiplies and divides the little lost minute. He is dizzy, tired, and no little disgusted. Finally he arrives at the correct new Time Interval. Once more the trucks begin to roll. And somewhere down the line another one is sure to die when it reaches the IP. The Trail Officer feels he will go into hysterics. He would tear his hair again but there is none left to tear. So patiently he waits. And we leave him there waiting. And we pity him.

S-1'S JOB

We also have the S-1. This worthy person has the responsibility of finding, and allotting the bivouac area. This he accomplishes with neatness and dispatch. He feels that his job is well done when the convoy is guided safely in the area. With a sense of satisfaction he makes his round of inspection a little later to find; trucks pointed nose end into trees, trucks bunched together like horses in a clover field, trucks parked with complete unconcern in the middle of a convenient clearing. S-1 shouts. His satisfaction is gone. Drivers jump into their vehicles guiltily. Fenders are scraed in the ensuing untangle. And S-1 has a good hour to work ahead of him. He is surely to be pitied.

MAINTENANCE OFFICER

Then there is the Maintenance Officer who thinks his trucks are in A-1 shape, as indeed they are, until they get on the road in the heart of a convoy. Then, and only then, do things happen. Springs break. Bearings burn out. Tires go flat. Water pumps freeze up. Everything happens, in fact, except the motor falling from its mountings to the highway. And he expects this to occur at any instant. All his mechanics are being used and more troubles come up. Up and down the convoy he rushes as the troubles mount. He will finally get it all straightened out, he hopes. But his is certainly not an enviable job. He also we pity.

And thus it goes throughout the convoy. With al, but one job. And that is the desirable position of observer. For the observer sits and watches all these things happen with the greatest unconcern. They must be expected, he muses. They must be tolerated, he thinks. And, in the Army way, they will be conquered, he knows. It's a shame we can't all be observers, but then, as the old saying goes, "It's a hell of a war."

Laundry Changes G. I. From Tanks To The Infantry

Some guys are always singing the blues concerning the often distorted laundry service. It seems the skinny fellows always get back a neatly laundered buncle of clothing—size 42. And the more obese dogfaces almost always inherit drawers that will fit Mahatma Gandhi—snugly. Pvt. James Lewis, late of Division Hq. Co., and just transferred to the 48th Infantry Bn., has no complaints to lodge on that score. In fact, he thinks the laundry is a smooth clicking outfit and slightly ingenious in its methods. Here's why.

Lewis sent in his bundle last week containing the usual items of soiled apparel. His hat, with green piping denoting his Hq. Co., was not put in the bag. Not that it couldn't use a good going over, it was just that he didn't have another to replace it.

Came the following Monday, the day of the great "Division Purge," and Pvt. Lewis' name led all the rest—he was sent to the 48th Infantry, a full - fledged doughboy. The laundry came in while Lewis was packing to leave. He opened the package and commenced to transfer the snow-white garments into his barracks bag. At the bottom of the parcel lay the reason for Lewis' amazement and undying devotion to that grand institution of G. I. laundries. It was a cap, (cotton khaki) in virtually new condition—and replete with a shiny blue braid, the blue of the infantry.

W. D. Asks Public To Use Soldier's ASN In Inquiries

The War Department has asked the public to use a soldier's Army serial number in every case where inquiries are made to official agencies concerning either officer or enlisted personnel, according to headquarters at Fort Benning.

The request was based on a statement from the Methods Management Branch of the Adjutant General's Office which said much time is wasted by War Department personnel and the person making the inquiry—whether oral or written—if the number is not given when the initial inquiry is made.

Many members of the armed forces have identical names and the only method of absolute identification is by serial number. Any other pertinent data included in the request, of course, speeds the inquiry.

In addition to saving much time, much material also would be saved since letters often must be written asking for complete identification before a request can be acted upon.

President Roosevelt recently announced the designation of Gen Eisenhower as a permanent major general in the Army. Gen. Eisenhower now holds the temporary rank of full general.

Officer's Widow Given Silver Star By Gen. Fulton

In a brief ceremony Saturday morning, Brigadier General Walter S. Fulton, post commander, presented Mrs. Winnifred M. Smith, 1028 Lockwood avenue, Columbus, with the Silver Star, posthumously honoring her husband, Major Kenneth C. Smith, who was killed during mopping up operations on Attu Island, May 29.

A graduate of the Infantry School basic course, which he attended from October, 1940 to January, 1941, Major Smith was aide-de-camp to the division commander on Attu, and at the time of his death was leading a night patrol near Cold Mountain.

Major Smith entered service under the Thomason Act in 1940 from his home town, Ladysmith, Wisconsin. While stationed at Fort Benning, he married Miss Winnifred Moon, granddaughter of John E. Minter, prominent Columbus businessman, and is survived by two children, Kenneth, Jr., age 1; and Cynthia, age 5.

Mrs. Smith will also receive the Order of the Purple Heart, honoring Major Smith, at a later date.

Luckies Learn Rubber Saving

A thorough, comprehensive and practical course in rubber conservation and tire maintenance, offered to selected maintenance men in every unit by the Fourth Service Command, will prove invaluable to the "Lucky 7th's" designs to "keep 'em rolling."

Although this tire saving school has been in operation during the past nine months and has served virtually all maintenance personnel at the main post and outlaying districts, last week saw the first group of Armoraiders graduated from the four-day class—with an exceptionally high average. According to Mr. Frank Jenkins, principal tire inspector and "school-teacher," the men from the 7th took readily to the intensive tricks of the trade and averaged the excellent grade of 96 per cent in final written examinations.

Mr. Jenkins and his staff of four civilian tire experts work under the Fourth Service Command at the main post District Motor Transport Branch and are responsible for the rapid repair and turnover of thousands of worn and damaged tires, tubes, and various wheel parts.

The soldiers sent to them to learn how to save rubber, undergo visual training instruction, watch actual repair demonstrations, witness a series of ten special films from the Signal Corps library and finally to make their own tube repairs and valve stem replacements. Two days are spent studying and discussing films; one day is devoted solely to tire inspection; half a day is taken with two written exams and the final afternoon is given to a recapitulation of the entire course.

Classes begin at 8:30 each morning and are over at 4:30. Students carry their lunches as the distance between the main post and the Sand Hill 7th Armored Division area makes dining in their own mess halls impractical.

Upon completion of the course students are awarded a certificate attesting to their ability and their willingness to learn. Proper notations are entered on their service record and they are recommended for placement in positions enabling them to pass on their knowledge to others.

The course is short but completely thorough. Instruction is handled by experts. Classes are practical, the worn and damaged tubes and tires are right there in the shop . . . the men actually make the repairs. It's obvious, the men of the "Lucky 7th" will certainly "keep 'em rolling."

USO SHOW SLATED

The USO variety show, "Personalities on Parade," will be presented Wednesday, Oct. 6, at the Phenix City USO under the joint auspices of the Alabama Salvation Army unit and Columbus club...Miss Edna Scott, program director, announced the show will be directed by Sgt. Justin Wagner of the Seventh Armored Division.

PEST CONTROL SERVICE
ROACHES, RATS, BEDBUGS
CREATORS OF EXTERMITATION
ORKIN
EXTERMINATING COMPANY
115—12th ST.
PHONE 6744

Order Your Coal Early
A Full Ton of Satisfaction
Martin Bros. Coal Co.
29th St. & 4th Ave. Dial 2-4221

PHONOGRAPHS All Types
We install and service music machines in all areas of Fort Benning.
Rhythm Is Our Business
GEORGIA MUSIC CO.
1045 - 6th AVE. DIAL 2-2954
DONALD LEEBERN, Owner.

COLUMBUS FT. BENNING
HOWARD BUS LINE
SERVICE TO FORT BENNING FOR 22 YEARS
DOING A WARTIME JOB - - -
UNDER WAR TIME CIRCUMSTANCES
HOWARD BUS LINE
900 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

OFFICERS! SEE OUR
Gifts - Antiques
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

SALTERS
20c TAXI
CLEAN CARS
COURTEOUS DRIVERS
WHITE PATRONS ONLY
DIAL 5321
1017—1st AVE.

PHOTO FANS
For Better Snap-Shots
Have Your Film
Developed at
Parkman Photo Service
1121½ Broadway Dial 6451
Free Enlargement Given Each Day.
24 - HOUR SERVICE

Highest Cash Prices For Used Cars
PHILLIPS MOTOR CO.
PHONE 3-6553
1419 1st STREET

KIRVEN'S
THRIFT BASEMENT
Robin Hood
SHOES FOR CHILDREN
$3.99
Sizes 4 to 8.....$2.49
Sizes 8½ to 12...$2.99
$3.99
Active, growing feet need sturdy shoes. Sister Sue and Brother Bill can have the shoes they want in the sizes they need . . . to support their active little bodies. Robin Hood has designed sturdy oxfords, dressy pumps, sandals with lasts designed to support and control growing feet . . . In styles your little ones will be eager to wear.
Wise Exchange For Coupon No. 18
Sizes 4 to 8.....$2.49
Sizes 8½ to 12...$2.99
$2.99
$3.99
KIRVEN'S BUDGET SHOE SHOP
THRIFT BASEMENT
Protect Your Children's Future—BUY WAR BONDS

FORT BENNING BAYONET

The Benning Bayonet is published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Mon this $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

Member of Fort Benning Press Association

"This war is going to be won step by step. We can pray that somewhere along the line the people of Germany and Japan will crack, but we can't count on it and we mustn't assume that it will happen."—Eleanor Roosevelt.

General Fulton Retires To Well-Earned Rest

"Farewell! If ever fondest prayer
For other's weal avail'd on high,
Mine will not all be lost in air,
But waft thy name beyond the sky."
—Lord Byron

Today, Sept. 30, Post Headquarters bids farewell to Brigadier General Walter S. Fulton as commanding general of Fort Benning. It is with mingled feelings that we take leave of the general; it is with deep regret that we tell him "au revoir;" but we are happy that it is not "adieu." For the general has stated that he and Mrs. Fulton intend to make their home here.

Even at that, his cheery smile and his vigorous personality will be missed at headquarters. General Fulton has won and retained the affection and admiration of all of those who have had the high privilege of working under him at Fort Benning. He has demonstrated with sincerity and without coddling that he is the friend of every member of his staff, both military and civilian, and that he has ever had the interests of every individual at heart.

We of the Bayonet are particularly indebted to him for the unstinted cooperation he has given the entire staff since its inception over a year ago.

He and his Lady take with them our very best wishes for the future. Although he lays down his burden, we know that he will be ever ready to lend his wise counsel, the fruits of his long experience as an Army officer, to help make our beloved America greater than ever.

So in bidding him goodbye, we reiterate that we are glad that it is "au revoir" and not "adieu."

Infantry May Be Slow, Gets Dar Jest De Same

When General Douglas MacArthur's hard-fighting Infantry and paratroopers culminated a gruelling ten-week push by wresting the key Salamaua Airdrome from the Japs, they gave our Southwest Pacific air forces an advanced base from which Allied fliers can rain down bombs in ever-growing weight upon the little Sons of Heaven.

MacArthur's slugging Americans and Australians provide a striking lesson, if one is needed, of the interdependence of all arms in combat. In seizing this latest stepping stone on the perilous road to Tokio from its tenacious Nip defenders who literally had to be dug out of their foxholes, our ground troops displayed their typical combination of courage, endurance, patience, and sheer fighting ability. Their heroism and determination can well inspire United States Infantrymen in the vital missions they are accomplishing all over the globe.

Salamaua's airfield, with all the prospects it opens up for striking harder blows right at the heart of the ill-gotten Empire of the Rising Sun, was won by men who sometimes rode to battle in swift planes, bouncing jeeps, armored half-tracks, or dropped from the clouds under silken 'chutes, but always fought on foot, on the ground. "The ground," of course, includes anything from treacherous swamps and tropical jungles to beaches swept by the sea and by machine gun fire.

It's not very glamorous, the Infantryman's way of battle. It's a monotonous grind that calls for hours of patient waiting and split seconds of top-speed action, sweating in steamy jungles or freezing in biting Arctic gales, crawling through mud and becoming intimate with insect and reptile life. In addition to the many technical qualifications of the expert at close-in combat, Infantry fighting is mainly a matter of hunger, dirt, fatigue, and plenty of plain guts. And so the foot-fighter doesn't make the headlines or rotogravure as often as other soldiers whose deeds may seem more spectacular.

Now that United Nations planes based on strategic Salamaua are beginning to strafe Jap airfields, bomb his transports, and torpedo his cruisers, Infantrymen rightfully take pride in the truth that they fought through to win the advanced base that makes an aerial offensive possible.

Col. J. R. Roosma,
Co., 1st STR.

Incorrectly Addressed Mail Hard To Deliver

No one knows any better than Private Private how let down a man in the Army is when he doesn't get a letter from the one he loves.

In the 7th Armored Division's postoffice certain T-5's, and privates, too, have many a daily fit trying to find out where and what unit a soldier belongs. Here's the way one of the clerks felt one day:

"I work down at the APO, just a forgotten T-5,
I'm not very big, just 5 feet 5;
Day in and day out I labor away;
Don't even take time off for fun or for play.
I'm the man who addresses all the mail
For the yardbirds and louies, whose letters fail
To have proper addresses placed on the letter;
This happens over and over, 'cause they know no better.
Here's one addressed to a Private John Brown,
And Company "A" is all they've got down;
With 10 Company A's and 20 John Browns,
Betcha this guy will never be found.
I've got one here addressed to a Lt. Mission;
The way it's addressed you'd think he ran the division;
Let's see, here's his card; Mission, Josie S.,
A second lieutenant fresh from O. C. S.
Here's one here addressed with "chicken tracks,"
The address is something that it really lacks;
Some ignorant person wrote this you can bet your life;
Jumpin' Jehosophat!! It's for me from my wife."

Army Nurses Found Wherever Duty Calls

Do you know that Army nurses are now on duty in 537 stations in the United States and in 28 countries outside of the United States and that Navy nurses are on duty in 212 stations, in the United; also in 27 countries outside the Continental U. S., including Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Cuba, the Panama Canal Zone, Australia, Trinidad, the Virgin Islands and many of the islands in the South Pacific?

Nurses of the Army and Navy are flying to distant outposts to bring back wounded soldiers to general hospitals to the rear of the battle-fronts or in this country; they are serving on troop transports which fly through enemy infested waters in every part of the globe; they are working in tent hospitals so close to the fighting that a helmet is an essential part of their uniform.

These women are considered courageous and devoted to duty, they are hailed as good soldiers all over the world.

All civilian hospitals should make adjustments so as to ease the nursing shortage and make it possible for more nurses to be released for military duty without endangering life and health of our civilian population.

1. There should be an increased use of Red Cross Volunteer Nurses Aids.

2. An increased use of part-time graduate nurses who are not able to give full time; this will mean adjustment of schedules so as to suit the convenience of married women with home responsibilities.

3. Use of special nurses for critically ill patients only.

4. Increased use of group nursing so as to allow one special nurse to care for two or more patients.

5. Elimination of all luxury nursing.

6. Nurses should carry on only their professional duties, turning over more non-professional duties to aides.

7. Hospital managements should encourage nurses to join Army or Navy, and put no obstacles in their path, by declaring them essential.

If the above rules are followed, our nursing shortage will not be so acute, and the men who are giving their lives for our country will get the medical attention that they so justly deserve. We all want our wounded to receive the best our country has to offer, not only on war weapons, but also in medical nursing care.

Major F. I. Ciofalo,
Reg't. Surgeon,
1st STR.

We Have A Lot To Gripe About

I imagine that nearly everyone, at some time or another, has felt as I did last night and silently thanked God for His generosity. In the hustle and bustle of the daily grind, we all tend to take the little, normal things for granted and never stop to appreciate their true value.

But, getting back to last night. I dropped in at one of the local theaters in town which was showing a film based on our Army Air Corps. It was a thrilling picture with the usual suspense and action seen in an epic of this type. Scenes of the attack on Pearl Harbor, the Marines at Wake Island, and the Army fighting doggedly from their foxholes in Bataan brought back bitter memories of the early days of the war.

But, what hit me suddenly and forcefully, was not the sufferings and losses of our Armed Forces as a whole; rather, it was the privations, heartaches, and losses which each individual Joe G. I. was undergoing. Starvation, cold, lonesomeness, pain, and, yes, death itself.

I remembered the day a few weeks ago when a number of us boys in the warm, comfortable barracks were complaining about the chow we had just gotten for lunch. Imagine, no butter. And, that corn wasn't cooked enough. And did they expect us to drink that stuff they called coffee.

I'll bet one of those lads at Bataan would have appreciated a steaming sip of coffee as he shivered in his damp foxhole waiting for the next wave of Moto's Midgets. Letters received from friends in North Africa bore the message that a sip of water, at times, was priceless.

I'm not a sob sister, or a tear jerker, or a dramatist and I have no use for anyone who is but the feeling I got when these things were brought home to me made me stop and think how fortunate we boys back here really are. They say it's a healthy sign when a soldier gripes and to watch out for him if he doesn't but if we stopped to realize the situation in which some of our buddies are in, we'd stop just a minute and thank God for the many things we do have. Think it over.

Cpl. James J. Dooley,
Sixth Regiment.

—Sweeney, 1st STR.

USO Presents—

COLD WEATHER A THLETICS, CALL FOR RAZORS, SOCIAL HOUR

BAYONET EDIT—USO Presents. By PFC. SHELDON A. KEITEL

A big autumn and winter athletic program is being planned at the Ninth Street USO this year to include basketball, badminton, boxing, wrestling, etc. . . . The first day's play was inaugurated last Sunday.

The huge auditorium with all its athletic facilities will be available to servicemen (and their wives) this fall and winter season every Sunday from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m. . . . Later organized basketball games will be carded in scheduled league play, and Army units from Fort Benning are invited to enter teams . . . Applications may be secured from the directors at the Ninth Street USO.

* * *

Shaving facilities for servicemen at the local USOs are in danger of being discontinued unless the clubs can obtain razors . . . The Army-Navy YMCA-USO reported last week that they are in need of contributions of safety razors from shavers who can spare "extras." . . . Scarcity of safety razors on the market to provide for replacement of old and, worn-out models is given as the reason for the appeal . . . Several thousand servicemen are loaned shaving cream and razors every month, officials report.

* * *

Bigger GI audiences are invited to attend the Thursday night socials at the Salvation Army USO, 1323 Broadway, Columbus . . . Mrs. Edna Scott, Salvation Army-USO program director, offers a bevy of beauties as hostesses and substantial prizes for inducement . . . The parties are scheduled for 9 p. m. (EWT).

* * *

A Victory Variety program will be inaugurated Sunday at Ninth Street USO . . . It will be featured every Sunday night at 8:15 p. m. EWT) . . . A series of surprises is planned for the new venture to add to the entertainment of the audience . . . One week there may be contests and stunts and another, an amateur program with performers selected from the audience.

This Khaki'd World

According to story in our contemporary, the 124th "Alligator," Sgt. Tennessee (Johnston) Dileo tells about a fellow Tennessee mountaineer who had been calling on a gal for a long time. One night Pappy cornered the hillbilly and drawled "Naow, listen, you've been acourtin' Nelly for abaout a year. What are your intentions, honorable or dishonorable?" Whereupon the young fellow brightened right up and yelled "What, you mean I got a choice?"

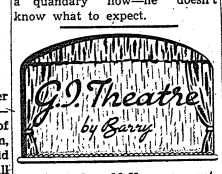
* * *

Well, it's not so bad you have to make faces over it.

* * *

At Theater No. 8 the habitues and sons of habitues are wondering who the guy was, during a tense moment when the rather dubious heroine of "The Fallen Sparrow" was clinching heavily with the hero—called out breathlessly "That so and so dame ain't up to no good."

* * *



This little item comes under head of "It's a Small World"—Capt. Gerson Reichman, coach of the 300th Infantry football team, used to live next door to Harold Van Every, Minnesota football star, but moved away years ago. He and Van Every, now flying a war plane somewheer on America's far-flung battlefronts, kept up a correspondence however. When Capt. Reichman and his old neighbor were both called to play on an Army team last fall, they found themselves roommates after nearly 15 years.

* * *

Corp. Buckley in Message Center at Post H. Q. vastly surprised to have a letter come in the other day addressed to "Corporal Albert Miller, Fort Benning's Most Perfectly Developed Man, Physical Culture Instructor, Fort Benning, Ga." He can't locate the paragon of manly virtues, either.

Corporal Herman Edward Stewart, (sometimes called "Chaplain" because he works in Chaplain Thompson's office,) finally gave up last week. Having been short-sheeted for three days, he decided to jump the gun before he went into Columbus for the evening. Carefully, he took one sheet off his bed and put it underneath the mattress, then he artistically short-sheeted himself, made up his bed, and remarked: "Well, I won't have to wonder tonight whether I've been short-sheeted."

Returning several hours later, hee tore up his bed to make it up again, only to find that some helpful G. I.'s had remade his bed correctly in his absence, and that he had torn up a perfectly well-made bed. "The Chaplain" is in a quandary now—he doesn't know what to expect.

Joe and Jane McKenna currently touring the post in USO Camp Show's, "Town Topics" have been performing at Army and Navy installations for close to two years and probably know as much about Army life as your old top-kick . . . probably.

All soldier show presented by the Service Battalion of the 3rd Student Training Regiment drew a record crowd to that regiment's new amphitheatre. This amphitheatre, one of the finest on the reservation, was constructed practically single-handed by Cpl. Rosacek in less than two weeks time.

A new weekly musical program tentively titled, "Sunday Serenade," is now in the production stage. Watch this column for further details.

And speaking of productions in the making—the boys in the 176th Infantry are planning to unveil a musical-comedy early in November.

Cpl. Johnny Austrian, conductor of the ASTP Band, has just been promoted to sergeant. In addition to his duties with the ASTP, he is slated to conduct the Columbus Symphony Orchestra when that organization reorganizes late this fall.

The boys who frequent the Patio Grill (and who doesn't?) miss the vocalizing of Barney Gerroro formerly one of the Xavier Cugat, rhumba crew. Since he went over Alabama way he don't get around much anymore.

Attention Bandleaders! — Need a good trumpet man? . . . Put in your request now for the nations number one favorite 'cause it'll be Pvt. Harry James in a very little while.

PERSONALITIES OF THE WEEK: Warrant Officer Ellis B. Kohs assigned to the Reception Center Military Band . . . Studied music at Harvard . . . Conducted the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra while stationed on the coast . . . Was first man in uniform to wield baton over that orchestra . . . His own composition, "Concerto for Orchestra" caused mild sensation when offered there . . . Now doing a whale of a job with the R. C. Band but then what a sweet bunch of musicians he has to work with.

—CPL. BARRY STURMER

Chaplain's Corner..

NEGLECTED SPRINGS

Chaplain F. M. Thompson

A pleasant memory of when I was a lad on a farm was a hillside spring. There in summertime we would drink of its cooling waters and lie in the shade of nearby trees and a sweet peace would fill our little world.

Youth changed into man's estate and we wandered far afield. Often in the heat of the day our thoughts drifted back to the old spring—we would return and find the rest and refreshment as in the long ago. Then the time came when we took the familiar path up the hill. To our dismay when we reached the spring we found nothing but a mudhole overrun with weeds—in all a picture of negligence and desolation.

* * *

In other ways we enter into like experiences. The most beautiful things in life come to naught through indifference and neglect.

* * *

Take friendship, the value of which all recognize; the source of most joy and inspiration. Charles Kingsley, when called upon to explain his triumphs, exclaimed, "I had a friend."

* * *

You make friends. You swear eternal fidelity. You separate. Years slip by. You will renew the glad companionship. Alas, how cruel the meeting; how bitter the disappointment! You have nothing in common. You wonder why. No hard words had been spoken. You had done nothing. That's the answer. You did nothing. The letter remained unanswered, the visit was postponed. And neglect, like some mischief-maker, had laid in ruin your fountain of friendship and made uninviting its waters.

* * *

"A man that hath friends Must show himself friendly."

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

T. P. LEARNS CHEW-GUM PRICES ARE SCALED ACCO RDING TO ARMY RANK

By SGT. TOM McDONALD

"Sergeant!" bellowed Colonel T. P. Swampwater. "Now that you've finally come back to work show me a little example of your endeavor. I want you to go over to the first filing cabinet and bring me a stick of that delicious Evergreen mint gum. It's filed under section E, right after that carton of Divine Peppermint that Lt. Jericho found for me out at the ball park."

"Yes, sir," I replied, untangling myself from my swivel chair and ambling over to the cabinet. Upon examining Section E, I discovered that it was entirely devoid of chewing gum.

"It's empty, sir," I reported, totally cognizant of the grim lines that set in about the Colonel's ears as he realized what I was saying.

"Well, Shades of Salome! Sergeant, go get the jeep. I'm a man of action. If my gum's all gone I'll go to town and buy some more!"

"You have an adequate supply of the other 247 brands, sir," I ventured.

"I know it, sergeant. But I've got a yen for Evergreen mint. I'll have a chew if I have to canvass half of Georgia. Go get that jeep and meet me out front on the double!"

* * *

A few minutes later the Colonel and I were speeding hastily toward Columbus. Grimly impatient, the ol' boy pulled his rank on the M. P. at the outpost and thus enabled us to lose no time in getting off the reservation.

After sailing by Baker Village like a "bat out of hell," we soon arrived at the well-known West Georgia metropolis.

* * *

"Park over there by that drug store," the ol' boy ordered, at the same time leaping from the vehicle and heading for the store entrance.

When I had managed to park the jeep and follow him inside, I found my superior in the middle of a heated debate with the cracker proprietor.

"Do you mean, sir, to imply that your price for Evergreen mint is 75 cents a block!" yelled my superior.

"Yere dern tootin', solja," replied the proprietor. "Seventy-five cents a block to full colonels and seventy cents for lieutenant colonels."

"This is an outrage!" stormed Colonel Swampwater. "I'll see the OPA about this! I'm an Infantry colonel. I'm fighting a war. I need chewing gum!"

"Mighty sorry, colonel! But them's our prices. The other stores charge a full colonel 85 cents per pack but we like to treat a man right."

"How much will it cost me to get a pack?" I asked.

"Fifteen cents!" answered the proprietor. "If you was a buck sergeant, we'd sell it to yuh for 10 cents, same as corporals, but we go by the Army salary scale, yuh know. So it'll cost yuh 15 cents."

* * *

"I'll take a pack," I said, totally aware of the strange light that came into the colonel's eyes as he saw what was about to take place.

"Yes, siree!" beamed the proprietor, "all the best soldiers like to chew gum. Why only last week General Quagmire was in an' bought a couple of sticks!"

"He's been holding out on me," piped up Colonel Swampwater, as I reached for my block of gum and started following him out to the jeep. But as we reached the door the colonel turned and said to the proprietor.

"How much do civilians hafta pay for a block of Evergreen Mint?"

"Not nary a thing, Colonel. We give 'em sticks of it whenever they come in the store just to keep up their morale."

"Shades of Salome!" growled my commanding officer as we crawled into the jeep.

"How about a stick of your chewing gum, sergeant?" cajoled the ol' boy.

"I'm sorry, sir, but enlisted men are forbidden to give gifts to officers. That's the regulation, you know."

"Er! Egad, sergeant," replied the ol' boy, rather taken back. "I realize the seriousness of the situation but that Evergreen Mint you're chewing certainly smells delicious."

* * *

"Yes, sir!" I answered, "and it tastes good, too."

"Well, er, how about selling me the rest of the block, sergeant! Here's my nickel."

"Can't do it, colonel," I replied between chews. "The Columbus OPA says its 75 cents per block to full colonels!"

* * *

"Dad gum it, sergeant! This is impredictable. My wife, Kathleen, doesn't give me but 50 cents a week spending money and I've spent 45 cents of it already!"

"One of the fortunes of war, colonel," I replied, smacking my lips and pushing my stick of Evergreen Mint firmly between my teeth.

Kay Says—

SLOPPY MEN LEAR N ARMY TIDINESS BUT SOO N REVERT TO TYPE

A navy officer according to one of the women's page writers, was delighted when he got home after a year's absence to find that his wife had changed from a clinging vine into a "self-sufficient, capable human being." She could balance her check book, close the windows when a storm came up, make her own decisions, 'n' everything.

I'm wondering how long such a metamorphosis is going to last. About as long, I'd say, as it takes a naturally untidy man to revert to normal when he gets back into his own home. We've seen that side of the picture, too, some of us.

* * *

Friend husband, habitually addicted to throwing ashes on the rug, letting his clothes fall where they may and generally having a fine time at the risk of wrecking the peace of mind of any housekeeper, is called into the army. Here he learns to make up his bunk with neatness and dispatch. He sews on buttons, shines his shoes, keeps a press in his trousers. He straightens up his shoulders and sucks in his stomach. He learns to dismantle a rifle and put it together again. He learns that a towel, after it touches the first dish, is no longer clean by Army standards. In short, he knows and does all the things which make him not only a good soldier but an ideal husband.

* * *

Get the critter back to his natural habitat, however, and see what happens. He promptly reverts to normal. Damp towels adorn the bathtubs or are found crumpled up behind doors. Bureau drawers disgorge a chaotic mass of handkerchiefs, mismated socks, metal polish, newspaper clippings, and broken shoe laces. Ash trays overflow, wet rings appear on polished tables, and mantels become catch-alls for hats, broken insignia, and more newspaper clippings.

Hopeful that the army must have made some lasting change in the beast, you console yourself with the reassuring thought that one grown so skillful in dismantling firearms should at long last be able to fix the frayed electric cord or the baby's scooter. No so, my friend. Confronted with such an intricate problem, our soldier promptly assumes an harrassed air, mutters something about the exigencies of his work and promptly vanishes.

* * *

Nor does the military posture hold up under wifely scrutiny. Once into casual clothes or a pair of lounging pajamas, and you note a decided slump in posture on the part of the master. Gone are the manly shoulders and the trim waist, and back once more are the familiar slouch and the comfortable stanch.

In short, the man of the house once more feels himself at home. I wonder if that isn't the reason so many men scurry around finding quarters for their families, after a few months of living in barracks or bachelor's quarters. Perhaps it isn't so much that they miss their families as that they long for a place where they can once more leave a soggy shaving brush on the wash bowl, and scatter their personal paraphernalia about their own rooms.

* * *

Yessir, if women revert to type as quickly as men do, we predict a rude awakening for that naive officer as soon as his wife realizes he's home to look after her.

Hitler Deprived 'Non-Aryan' Of Formal, Military Education

Former German Has No Desire To Return To Europe

"Back in 1937, life in Germany became unbearable. I was advised to discontinue my schooling. Racial differences caused me to lose personal friends. Some of my relatives were put into concentration camps. That is when my father brought our family to the United States."

That's the story of Henry J. Sommer, now a first class private in the 176th Infantry of The Infantry School who first stepped on American soil November 11, 1937, just 16 years after the close of World War I.

"My father was a shoe manufacturer in Cologne," he explained, "and it was there that I attended preliminary and public school. In 1930, when I was 11 years old, I attended the gymnasium, which is the German high school.

"Because of my religion, I was not given any military training. In the last war, my father was a Warrant Officer in the Imperial German Army, as a member of the Motor Korps."

When Sommer was nine years old, Adolph Hitler was just beginning his quest for power and in 1929, came to Ehrenfield in Cologne to make one of his famous speeches. "I can remember the huge crowd," he stated. "They were held back by a strong police force. It was necessary for them to use chains to restrain the cheering people. Finally, in 1933, Hitler became the Chancellor of Germany."

'We Were Luckier'

He went on to describe how one of his uncles had been deported and another put into a concentration camp. "My father and mother were fortunate, so the three of us started for America to live.

"After the usual arrangements, we sailed from Hamburg on the S. S. Washington arriving in New York City. A group of our relatives, who had come over a few months before, helped us get started. We lived in New York City, on Broadway, for about a month, and then moved to the Bronx."

Sommer attended night school, mainly to acquire the fundamentals of English, while working as a factory hand during the day, later becoming a shipping clerk.

Several times, Sommer tried to enlist in the Armed Forces of the United States, but was rejected because of non-citizenship. "At the time, I was an enemy alien and the Army refused me. After many interviews and questionnaires by the F. B. I., I signed a certificate and was allowed to volunteer for the service."

Donning the olive drab on December 2, 1943, he was inducted at Camp Upton, New York.

Two months ago, Sommer received his final papers, which gave him his American citizenship. "My main objective now is to help win this war. When it's over, I am going back to New York to spend the rest of my life. After the things I have seen, there is no desire to return to Europe now or ever."

Sommer is going on another trip pretty soon — this time to New York on a merit furlough awarded him by his commanding officer.

With Civilians

MYRTLE M. JOINES

The French to the rescue! Literally too. The motor transport division's barbecue at Pine Mountain was in full swing just towards dish-washing and cleaning up time when along came about 15 French officers who volunteered to help clean up for dinner for themselves. And was their service welcomed. Louise Bullard was chief cook aided and abetted by Velma Douglas, Nina Miller, James B. McCoy, and the French officers, as cleaner uppers. Certainly must have been a wonderful party from the men. Barbecue, Brunswick stew, potato salad, pickels, coffee, cold drinks, and other things too were plentiful. This party was for civilians and their wife or husband or sweetheart. Officers and their wives or sweethearts.

* * *

The Record Section, the Infantry School is welcoming two new girls. They are Elizabeth Macgill and Catherine Miller.

* * *

We are happy to welcome Mildred Cawthorn formerly of De Funiak Springs, Fla., as director of Service Club No. 3, Harmony Church area, as hostess. Miss Cawthorn comes to the club from Orlando, Fla., where she has been engaged in glee club and choral work. A graduate of Florida Teachers College, Columbia and the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Mildred brings to the club a fresh outlook for its activities and a musical background for distinctive work with the soldiers in this area.

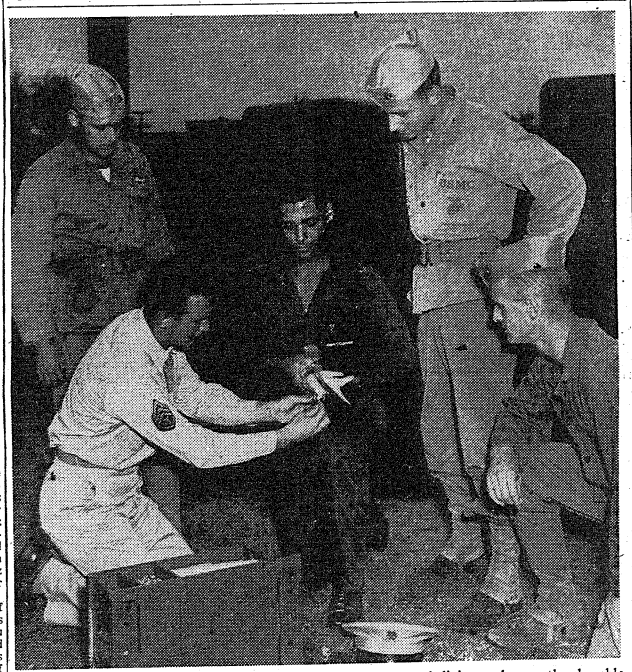
* * *

Awfully glad to see Bessie Parker back at work after that serious illness with her throat. Also lots of the girls in Civilian Personnel back from visiting their family and friends. Ellen Holland has returned from a visit with her father in Charleston, S. C. Edna Dokos returned after a leave of six weeks and with regret we tell of Mary Childres being called to Virginia due to illness of her sister and Mary Thames also called home on account of illness. You knew, of course, that Carolyn Vaughn has transferred to the American Red Cross.

* * *

And speaking of the American Red Cross, did you know that Nellie Mitchell, formerly hostess at Service Club No. 3, was in Washington with the American Red Cross getting ready for overseas duty? You know that has been the one desire of her young life. She made such an outstanding record here at Benning with her club activities that it was hard to give her up. Nellie felt though that she had nothing to hold her from volunteering for overseas duty, that she had the qualifications and certainly the health so we are happy to know that soon our boys somewhere "over there" will be having our little "Nellie" to look after them. The best of luck to you.

* * *



Today is the last day in the Intelligence Division at post headquarters for Inez Key who has been Major Chapman's secretary for more than a year. Later Inez and Bill will be moving to Florida but just at present they will remain in Columbus. It has been nice to know and work with Inez and she will be missed by her many friends.

Lucille Jones is that proud of her saddle oxfords that she has to show them to everyone. You know "saddles" are hard to find these days and when a gal does find a pair they are something of a treasure.

Since it is practically impossible for an American soldier overseas to cash a check, the American Red Cross has advised relatives to send money to servicemen abroad by post office money order. Money orders may be cashed wherever there is an Army post office.

GETTING FOUR FOR THREE is Pvt. Thomas Jones, Co. A Armored Infantry Detachment, Fort Benning, as he invests $3,000 in cash and gets four $1,000 war savings bonds. In addition to this large cash purchase as his part in the Third War Loan Drive, Pvt. Jones subscribes $6.25 monthly under the pay reservation plan. He is a native of Adams Run, S. C., where his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Jones, resides. Shown making the sale is Charles F. Simmons of Columbus. U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

EVEN IN THIS DAY of radio hand-sets pigeon gets messages through when the Army officers, as well as those of other try School at Fort Benning to attend the from carrier pigeons to latest electrical and has taught at The Infantry School for over Robert Andre (holding bird), of the Haitian message to a bird's leg. Watching them are Lt. Thomas J. Costigan, of the U. S. Marine Infantry School.)

BURKHALTERS FETED

Col. and Mrs. Harry N. Burkhalter were guests at a formal farewell given by officers of the Academic Regiment in the Palm Room of the Officers' Club Saturday. The Colonel, former commander of the Academic Regiment, has retired. He spoke briefly to his hosts as did Major Marvin W. Jared, his executive Officer. In charge of the affair were Lts. Clinton G. Hall, Jr., Zack L. York and James E. Warren, Jr.

Haitian Takes TIS Course

Haiti has sent her emissary, in the person of genial Lieutenant Robert Andre, to study at the Officer Communication Course here so he can bring back the latest principles of wire and radio communication to the army of our progressive Caribbean ally. While attending The Infantry School, he is stationed with the 13th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel John S. Roosma.

Andre, who speaks French and English fluently, was born 23 years ago in Maisade, near Port au Prince, Haiti. Keenly interested in radio since his 'teens, he voyaged to New York in 1940 to pursue an intensive 20-month course at the RCA Institute.

Returning to his native land as war clouds began to threaten the Western Hemisphere, he joined the Haitian Army and was assigned to teach radio at an enlisted specialists school at Port au Prince. Swiftly recognized as an expert in his field, Andre was which corresponds to 2nd lieutenant in our Army, and appointed to the communication staff of Haitian Army headquarters.

Anxious to better the electrical nervous system that binds together its many units guarding the Caribbean shores, Haiti's armed forces assigned Lieutenant Andre to the course at The Infantry School, internationally recognized as the finest military communication school. He flew to the United States by Pan American clipper to avoid the possibility of encounters with submarines in the Atlantic. Here at Fort Benning, Andre is acquiring a broad concept of principles and methods that will help improve all phases of communication — wire and radio as well as carrier pigeon, runner, motor messenger, and liaison plane — in the Haitian Army when he returns.

Rigid Exams For Food Handlers Prevent Disease Spread In 1st Regiment

Although our Army buys only foodstuffs that have passed the most rigid sanitary examination, avoiding infection through the hundreds of handlers who must prepare and serve three meals daily to each of the nearly 6,000 members of the 1st Student Training Regiment is a responsibility of no small magnitude.

Assisted by staff of trained technicians, the Regimental Surgeon, Major Frank I. Ciofalo, M. C., keeps tab on the health of the 600-odd food handlers of all description in the 1st S. T. R., which is commanded by Colonel John S. Roosma. Their constant vigilance not only helps reduce food waste through spoilage, but also eliminates what would otherwise be a dangerous source of widespread contagion.

Together with the entire enlisted strength of the organization, totalling over 3,000 in all, noncommissioned mess personnel of all subordinate units undergo a thorough physical inspection each month at the regimental dispensary. They are examined to detect venereal cases or contagious skin diseases, or carriers, those apparently healthy persons who can nevertheless pass on ills like typhoid or dysentery to unsuspecting victims.

CERTIFICATES GIVEN

Food handlers then get their clean bill of health in the form of a food handler's certificate. To these cards are re-stamped and signed by Major Ciafalo each month for six months, after which a new card is issued to the individual through his company commander.

Who must have a food handler's certificate? Every enlisted man working in kitchen or mess hall, from mess sergeants to K. P.'s table waiters, and dining room orderlies, of course. And in the 1st S. T. R. of The Infantry School, anyone who in any way handles food or drink—personnel in the regimental purchasing office, men who distribute rations to battalion and company storerooms, as well as P. X. employes—must pass this stringent monthly examination.

Even barbers working in the regimental area must attain as high hygienic standards as food handlers and display the same certificate. For Colonel Roosma's medical staff, under the direction of Major Ciofalo, is leaving no stone unturned to keep each man in the regiment a healthy, fit-to-fight soldier.

CAPTAIN DETROIT

First Lieutenant Lancelot H. Detroit, plant guard officer, assigned to Internal Security District No. 4, with headquarters at Fort Benning has been promoted to the grade of captain. Formerly a staff sergeant in the regular army, Detroit was commissioned a first lieutenant in August, 1942, while on ROTC duty at North Dakota Agriculture College, Fargo, N. D. He is a graduate of the Provost Marshal General School, Fort Custer, Michigan, and has been on duty with the local district since last August.

UPHOLSTERING and Repairing
KURT LOEB
516—12th St. Dial 3-4261

Headquarters
B. LLOYD'S
Pecan Candies Home-Made Since 1905
Ideal Candy for shipment Overesas. Wrapped for foreign shipment.
CITY PHARMACY
14-13th STREET
Just Off Broad — Opposite Waverly Hotel — Dial 2-2577

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By Phyllis

Superbly interpreted handbags of real alligator have been designed to add a distinctive note of perfection to your fall wardrobe. These bags displayed by the J. A. KIRVEN COMPANY, are painstakingly made of red, light brown, or dark brown genuine alligator leather. Each bag is lined, and beautifully so, with soft suede in dusky tan shades. Modified pouch styles vie with several envelope style bags for your attention. Many of the envelope bags have nice gathers across the front which add a definite rich-looking touch, proving that alligator does not necessarily have to be strictly tailored. Gold metal frames highlight many of these superb quality handbags. You'll fully appreciate one of these bags after you have looked over the pleasing array on display at Kirven's. You'll be in line for many compliments when you carry one of these creations with your new fall ensemble.

—V—

Brisk breezes make one realize 'tis about time our faces, perhaps slightly weather-beaten at this point after a sizzling summer, receive a bit of pampering. Skins dried out as a result of too much sunburn seem to improve almost overnight with regular use of Germaine Monteil beauty products. This famous cosmetic line consists not only of creams and lotions for below-par complexions, but also boasts of exquisite lipstick, foundations and powders to add later for the final touch of loveliness to improved skins. If your summer tan is slowly and unbecomingly fading, you'll certainly notice your improved appearance after using a rosy Monteil foundation to relieve that sallow look. Notice, too, how smooth and easy to apply are all of the Germaine Monteil preparations. As you've no doubt guessed by now, that ever - smart shop—KAYSER - LILIENTHAL, INC., displays these beauty preparations, which are so important in achieving that radiant look for the season ahead.

—V—

Fall housecleaning finds many a housewife feeling like tearing down faded curtains, ripping off the worn slip-covers and throwing them all away. If you're a housewife and you have had this urge—or feel it coming on—why not just up and plan to get some new things to replace the worn and tattered? To get off to a fresh start, though, you'll need yard goods and a seamstress or your own sewing machine. For unusual patterns and definite values in yard goods SEARS ROEBUCK CO. will most certainly be your destination. For here in their large store in Columbus you'll find all types of upholstery or drapery fabrics. Stripes, symmetrical designs, flowers of every garden variety, and some not in the materials certain to harmonize with your other furnishings. These yard goods are reasonably priced and should be an inspiration to "do-over" your drapes or what-have you!

—V—

We should all heed the warning that our shoe rations will be cut next year. In safeguarding ourselves, we should be more interested than ever in selecting the best quality shoes we can buy. For, in choosing quality footwear, we do not only find the most up-to-date styles and the finest workmanship, but we similarly get shoes with guaranteed wearability. We shall henceforth have to make our shoes last about twice as long as we have done so in the past under the present rationing. So, when you spend your shoe ration coupon No. 18 this month, I suggest that you first visit MILLER - TAYLOR SHOE COMPANY in Columbus where quality footwear fills the shelves. Trained shoe salesman will aid you immeasurably at this store in selecting a flattering pair of shoes which, needless to say, will be the best quality footwear. This suggestion goes not only for women's footwear but also applies to men's and children's shoes. When you shop for your next pair of shoes, be sure to stop in at Miller-Taylor's where quality reigns supreme.

—V—

There still is time in which to mail packages to your soldier-friends or husbands overseas before the October 15th deadline on Christmas mailing. And there still is time in which to go to the AIME' DUPONT STUDIO in Columbus and pose for a photograph to include in the package. All of you are probably aware by now of the popularity of photographs as presents to our soldiers overseas. According to an Associated Press poll, photographs rank first in importance as gifts to men and women in our armed forces. Be guided by their wishes, and think about presenting them with a lovely picture as a Christmas gift. When you've decided to be photographed, drop into Aime' Dupont's Studio where skilled technicians will produce a lovely photograph which is bound to please both you and the one to whom you plan to give it. The photograph will be distinctively posed and professionally perfect. The photographers at this popular studio are deft craftsmen. They always produce photographs with distinction!

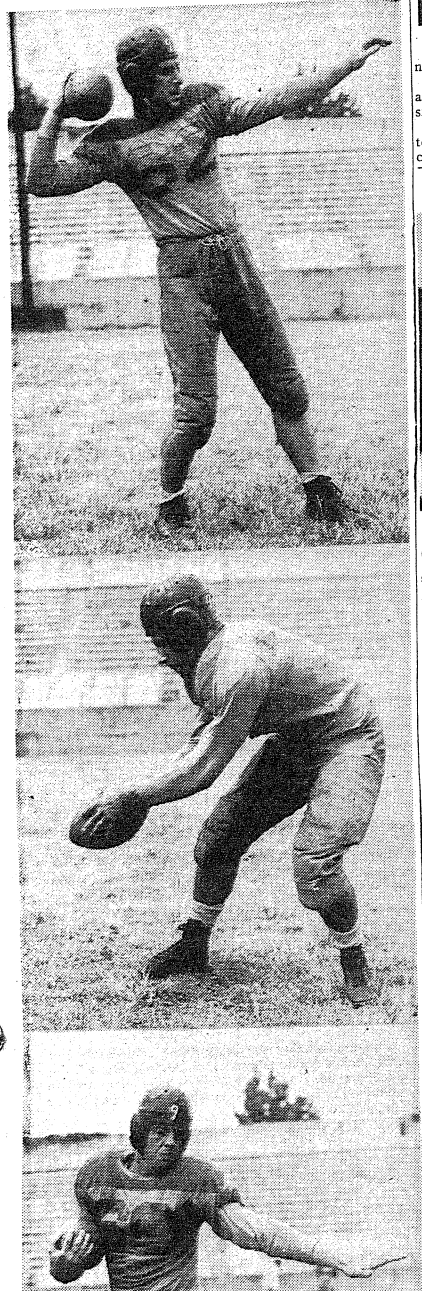
We Pay Highest Cash Dollar for Your Used Car
French Motor Co.
1415 - 1st Ave Dial 8171

NO FASCIST SALUTE FOR THIS BOY!
He isn't snatched away from home and regimented in a military school. He isn't told what he can think or say. He's an American. Being in the newspaper world, he knows the effect of an "extra" upon a free thinking people. He is aware of and prepares himself for the "business world." He strengthens his mind, his body, his character in operating his newspaper route.
Kinnett

DEPENDABLE WORK COLUMBUS WATCH REPAIRS
HAROLD PEOPLES
PAUL FAISON
932 Broadway

WADSWORTH
Blue Print Company
Have Copies of Your Marriage License, Power - of - Attorney and Similar Documents Made by Us. Architects and Engineers Supplies.
1231 - 6th Ave.
Phone 2-2381

STEAMBOAT EXCURSION
ABOARD
STR. GEO. W. MILLER
9:00 P. M., FT. BENNING TIME
DANCING
3-HOUR TRIP
EVERY WED., FRI. AND SAT. NITE
$1.00 AVAILABLE FOR CHARTER DIAL 3-3636 $1.00



FOR YOUR CAR'S SAKE
—we are exerting our every effort to maintain just the kind of Service Department that you like to bring your car to. No job too large—no job too small to receive the best attention possible—and we do it just as quickly as is possible.
ALL KINDS MECHANICAL REPAIRS, EXPERT FENDER AND BODY REPAIRS. SPECIALIZED LUBRICATION SERVICE, EXPERT BEAR MACHINE SERVICE, CORRECT WHEEL BALANCING, DUCO PAINTING, TOPS AND SEAT COVERS INSTALLED, BEST WASHING AND CLEANING IN TOWN, SPECIAL "BLUE CORAL" POLISHING.
Cliff M. Averett, Inc.
BUICK CADILLAC HUDSON
More Automobile For Your Money
1441-43-45 First Ave. Dial 2-1601

GIFTS that PLEASE For Overseas!
MAIL PACKAGES BEFORE OCTOBER 15th

WEMBLEY and BEAU BRUMMEL TIES $1.00
FOWNES GLOVES $2.95 pr.
RUGBY SWEATERS $2.95
ARROW SHIRTS $3.50
LARGE ASSORTMENT OF LEATHER GOODS $1.00 up
COMPLETE UNIFORM DEPARTMENT
MEMBER OF ARMY EXCHANGE SERVICE
CLASSY CLOTHES SHOP
1035 Broadway Dial 7092

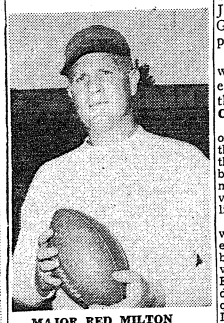
Nation's Finest Grid Battle Slated For Sunday As 124th Collides With 300th Rival In Stadium

124th Backs . . . . .

THREE KEY backs for the defending champs from the 124th are Roy Cestary at top, triple threat tailback; Nick Calos, all-conference quarterback, in the center; and Jim Todd, ex-Georgia Bulldog who can alternate at either tailback or fullback. (Signal Lab Photos by Sgt. Mel Stock.)

Ex-Collegiate Aces From Every Sector Are Listed on Powerful Squads of Arch-Rivals

One of the finest gridiron battles in the nation this week-end will be unveiled in Doughboy Stadium on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock when the 124th Gators oppose the 300th Sabers in the opening game of Fort Benning's 1943 campaign.



The arch-rivals, with squads including ex-collegiate greats from almost every corner of the United States, will go into action with two of the mightiest grid machines ever to represent the post, and the battle-scarred turf of the hallowed stadium will be torn up by some of the most famous players ever to don moleskins.

Pre-game indications are that a record-breaking crowd of more than 15,000 soldiers will watch the game which promises to be a battle-royal for 60-full minutes. Athletic officials are adding temporary stands at both ends of the field to accommodate the onslaught of fans who will be attracted by the Gator-Saber fuss.

Defending their hard-won 1942 championship will be the 124th lads who won seven out of nine games last fall, but dropped their first big 1943 test just last Saturday to a Jacksonville Navy powerhouse. Taking the first crack at the Gator throne will be the 300th, with a brand new eleven reputed to be almost three-deep in every position.

Ever since the first practice call for both teams several weeks ago, all attention has been focused on this early-season encounter of the arch rivals. They'll meet again later on in the campaign, but right now this fuss is all-important.

Gator Mentor

MAJOR RED MILTON

COACHES SILENT

As a result of the crucial aspects of the battle, a veil of secrecy was thrown around both camps early this week, and even by mid-week, both coaches were totally uncommunicative regarding prospects for victory, starting line-ups and the like.

Major Red Milton of the 124th was driving his team harder than ever, hoping that they would rebound from the Jacksonville loss with a vengeance. Capt. Bob Friedlund of the 300th was a bit doleful, too, because his club hasn't quite clicked on all fours against Draper Prison in running up a 65-0 score.

Best bets by mid-week, however, were that both clubs would have a liberal sprinkling of their college greats in the starting line-ups and would surely use them before the game was very far gone.

DAVIS TO START

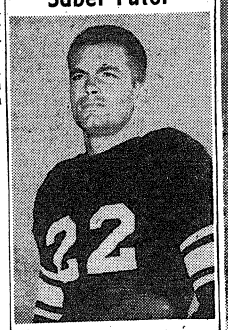
The Gators are expected to field approximately the same eleven that opened at Jacksonville. In that set-up, Nick Calos, Roy Cestary, Lamar Davis and Lee Joos were in the backfield. Davis, the ex-Georgia Bulldog racehorse, is the only newcomer. The other three were vital cogs in the title race last fall for the orange and blue.

Behind these backs, however, Milton has Bill Stauss of Iowa, Jim Todd of Georgia, Harvey Beahm of Penn State, and Bob White of Indiana—as neat a quartet as any eleven in the nation can boast.

FIVE COLLEGIANS

Along the forward wall, the Gators will probably start with Alabama's Sam Sharp and Drake's Jim Gunhus at the ends, Alabama's Jack McKewen and Lulu Davant at tackles, Fordham's Bob Fitzgerald and Mike Aulenti at guards and Columbia's Bill Corey at center. Davant and Aulenti are 1942 holdovers. U. C. L. A.'s Rex Oxford, Western Michigan's Norris Michigan's Norris Layton, and Indiana's John Nash are other ex-collegians certain to see action up front for the Gators.

SABER BACKS



Against this powerful Gator array, Friedlund will be prepared to send even more former college stars into action. Best bets are that the starting backs for the Sabers will be Ike Peel of Tennessee at quarter, Al Solari of U. C. L. A. at tailback, Bill Meek of Tennessee at wingback, and Hank Weller, a Scranton (Pa.) semi-pro, at fullback.

A second quartet would have Frank Warpeha at quarter, Ermal Allen and Noah Mullins of Kentucky at the halves, and Sam DiBlasi of W. and L. at fullback. And there are still more good backs on the Saber squad including Jim Saub, Johnny Simcox, Willard Wirht, Tony Encher, Hal Edge.

In front of these backs, a gigantic line will operate. Probable starters are John Gilmore of Maryland and Bute Simmons of Texas A. and M. at ends, Ed Doyle of Maine and Bill Smithwick of Nevada at tackles, Lloyd Arms of Oklahoma A. and M. and Bob Curry at guards, and Del Brazinski of St. Cloud State Teachers at center.

Other collegiate linemen on the 300th squad include Dean Robinson of Georgetown (Kk.), Ed Geraghy of Notre Dame, Dick Bowers of U. C. L. A., and Bob Parr of Kentucky at ends; Jim Robinson of Baylor, and Manny Frome of Penn State at tackles; Joe Routt of Texas A. and M., Roger Reeves of T. C. U., and John Gilchrist of U. C. L. A. at guards; and Bob Haack of Colorado Aggies at center. A neat assortment of former high school, junior college and semi-pro linemen supplements this list and gives the Sabers a real depth along their forward wall.

Saber Tutor

CAPT. BOB FRIEDLUND

3rd STR Group Boasts Former Gridiron Stars

10th Company Roster Contains Names Of Ex-college Gridmen

The 10th Company of the 3rd STR boasts a new contingent of potential shavetails and is hereby serving notice on the other OC companies to look after their laurels.

It seems, upon closer inspection, that the rejuvenated 10th is replete with athletic possibilities. For proof, here is a list of gridiron threats, taken directly from the company roster.

ILLINI ACE

Consider first Candidate Joseph Pawlowski—"Joltin' Joe" to his friends. For the past three seasons, Powlowski has been a regular guard on the University of Illinois football team. He also appeared in the 1943 edition of the North-South All-Star game. Pawlowski got his college start under the colorful and never-to-be-forgotten Bob Zuppke, the Flying Dutchman.

Another former Illini, now a member of the 10th, is Candidate Robert Wilford. In the fall of 1940, Wilford saw action at center under the sharp-eyed tutelage of "Zup."

SPARTANS GALORE

By far the greatest contribution to a football team for the 10th is made by Michigan State College, last fall's amazing conquerors of the powerful Great Lakes Bluejackets.

Outstanding in this array is Candidate William Rupp, MSC's former captain. Rupp was rated by many who saw him play as one of the best guards in the Middle West.

Close behind Rupp in popularity is Candidate Barney Neubert, MSC guard and fullback. Next in line come Candidates Dave Sniderman, quarterback par excellence, and George Radulescu, MSC tackle, better known as "Rumania's gift to faltering mankind."

Noted Athletes Are O. C.'s In 3rd STR

A new crop of widely publicized athletes has arrived in the Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry school.

In the 10th Company are William (Rebel) Rupp, Jr., captain of last year's Michigan State Spartan football team, recognized by all opposing teams as a formidable guard, and Don Miller, winner of the 1943 NCAA 155-pound boxing crown which he won at the University of Wisconsin.

Two other collegiate boxing stylists are in the Eighth Company in the persons of Bill Richards, formerly of the Penn State team, and Tommy Jones, of Maryland. Richards also fought at 155 while Jones is a 135-pounder.

In the 16th Company is big Gene Hussey, former high-scoring center for the University of Maine basketball team. The Fifth Company presents 20-year-old Tom Clyde, who was pitching in a relief role for the Philadelphia Athletics for three months prior to enlistment.

Sabers To Meet "Older Brother" In Sunday Fray

300th Was Outgrowth Of 124th and 29th Infantry Outfits

By SGT. JAMES TUITE

Chinese mythology includes a tale of a scorpion whose thousandth leg turned renegade and walked in the opposite direction from the other legs until they became involved in a pitched battle.

A modern parallel will be enacted this Sunday when the 300th Infantry, an outgrowth of the 124th Infantry, checks its diapers at the gates of Doughboy stadium and proceeds to engage its older brother in grid combat.

FORMED FROM 124TH

The 300th Sabers, who will soon celebrate their first birthday, originally were formed from cadres of the 29th and 124th Infantry units. Thus the clash with the Gators becomes more than just an opening football game on the home turf.

The Sabers met an unhappy fate on the baseball diamond, after making a brilliant start at a pace they were unable to sustain. Early indications on the pigskin horizon makes a repetition of this tragedy hardly likely.

QUESTION MARK

The Sabers have the potential power of a bazooka rocket, but whether their coordination will become the firing pin, is one of the big question marks of the pre-season dope bucket.

The Gators on the other hand have the advantage of experience as a unit, having carved quite a niche for themselves in the totem pole of post gridiron achievements. But past performance will not carry the weight as a deciding factor in this contest as it ordinarily might.

EXTRA SPIRIT

The spirit and determination of the Sabers to clip the regiment that helped organize them is going to be like putting an extra man in the line. But the intelligence and reconnaissance platoon of the 300th report that it may take more than just one extra man.

The entire cadre of the Sabers who hail from the 124th are rooting for the Saber eleven. They still feel a tinge of local patriotism for their old outfit, but as they say, "We're in the 300th now. And that's our outfit."

Members of the WAC may apply for family allowances for dependant children, mother, father, brothers, sisters and other specified relatives, but a WAC's husband is left out. He doesn't get a dime.

300th Wallops Draper Prison In First Game

Sabers Roll Over Hapless Foe In 65-0 Encounter

BY SGT. FORREST KYLE

Draper Prison gridders furnished the 300th Infantry Sabers with little more than a stiff scrimmage session last Sunday afternoon as the service eleven piled up a 65-0 triumph.

There was no way to guess the real strength of the Sabers as they used only a limited number of plays throughout the game and reserves saw much more action than those who are expected to carry the load against much tougher opposition.

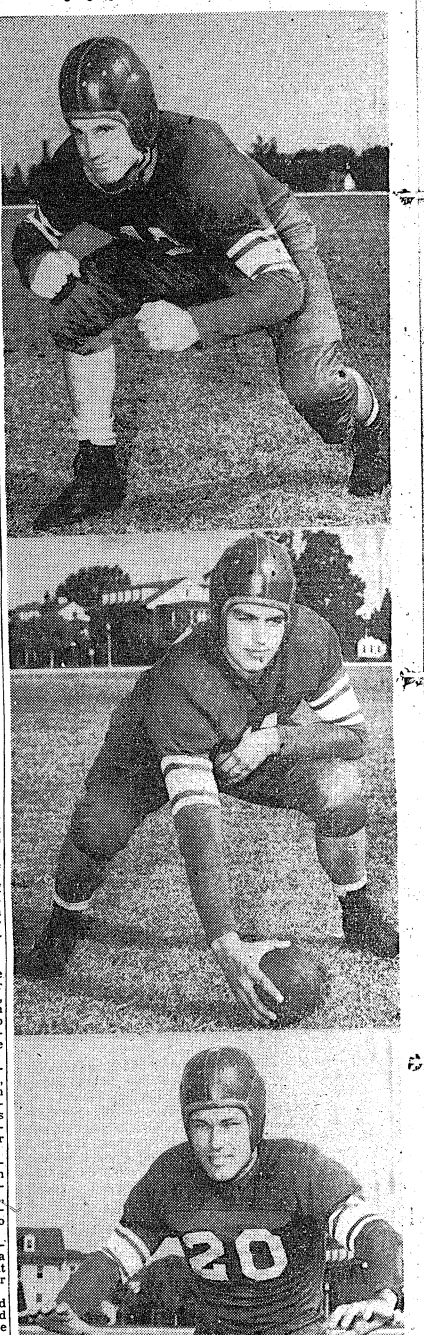
SLOW START

The Sabers had a little trouble getting straightened out in their first regular game of the season, scoring only two touchdowns in the first half. In the last two quarters, however, the Sabers paraded over the Prison goal line regularly, rolling up 51 points.

Ermal Allen, ex-Kentucky halfback, who saw only brief action, made the longest touchdown run in the third period when he speared a punt and zig-zagged 50 yards down the field. Earlier in the period he had raced 12 yards over the goal.

The Sabers tossed a little hipper-dipper into the proceedings in the third quarter when Allen tossed a pass to Coach Bob Friedlund, who flipped a lateral to Bute Simmons, who then raced 18 yards to score.

One of the 300th's eight second-half tallies was the result of a 45 yard canter by Willard Wirht after he had intercepted a Draper aerial.



Eight Saber players contributed at least one touchdown, Allen and Sam DiBlasi registering twice. Joe Routt booted three extra points, "Moon" Mullins one and Henry Weller one.

300th Battle With Tech Is Definite

In the last issue of the Bayonet, the 1943 Grid Schedule of Benning's "Big Three" inadvertently omitted the 300th Infantry-Georgia Tech game to be played in Atlanta on Saturday, October 16th.

Omission of the game on the master schedule immediately gave rise to rumors that plans for the game had fallen through. Herewith, the Bayonet wishes to apologize for its error, and emphatically state that the Sabers definitely will meet Tech on the date as announced previously.

. . . . . 300th Linemen

FOCAL POINT of the 300th Infantry line will be manned by these three husky ex-collegians. At the top is Guard Joe Routt, former Texas A. and M. All-American; in the middle is Del Brzinski, who played for St. Cloud State Teachers; and below is Lloyd Arms, another guard from Oklahoma A. and M. (Signal Lab Photos by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

Pat Ronzone Of Spirits Played At Indiana With Billy Hillenbrand

"You hear a lot about clubs we are going to play, but no team is good until you meet 'em." That comes from a hard running back in the 1-76th Spirit of line-up from University. His name is Pat Ronzone.

3-LETTER MAN

The new 176th gridder hails from Elkhart, Indiana, where he was a high school three-letter man in football, basketball and track.

Following graduation from high school, Ronzone decided to go to college and in the fall of '39 reported to Indiana University at Bloomington where he was a candidate for the freshman football team. We had a swell coach," he continued," in Bo McMillan, who was at Centre College the year they upset Harvard 6 to 0."

WON SEVEN

"As you know, Indiana is in the Big Ten and in '42 we won seven and dropped three, losing to Minnesota 7 to 0 and to Ohio State 32 to 21 in conference play. One of my big thrills was scoring against Kansas State last year."

One of Ronzone's teammates at Indiana was Billy Hillenbrand, one of the country's outstanding backs last season.

Most embarrasing experience of a soldier in the Mediterranean area came after he stepped from a shower into an entrenchment occupied by Army nurses driven thereby an air-raid.

124th Gators Bow To Jacksonville Navy, 13-7

BY CORP. ED FOGG

Opening their 1943 season before a colorful Army, Navy and Marine audience, the 124th Infantry Gators were defeated by the Jacksonville NATTC, 13 to 7, last Saturday at the Naval Station's Marine Field in Jacksonville, Fla.

Catching the Gators unawares with Gus Letchas' talented toe, the raiders set the 124th back against their own goal with a 73-yard quick kick on their opening play of the game. Throughout the tilt Letchas booted the ball away from Lamar Davis with such proficiency that the fleet Gator back never had a chanec to show his wares on a run back as Letchas kicked three better than 70-yards and three into coffin corner.

The Gator passing attack showed up well in spots as Roy Cestary and Jim Todd found the mark. Todd completed three passes in succession, the final one a 45-yard heave to Lamar Davis for the only Gator score.

Winning the toss, the Raiders elected to kick off and Williams booted the ball outside, to be put in play on the Gator 35. After one first down and an incomplete pass, Cestary booted to the Raider 15. Without hestiating, Letchas quick-kicked over Davis' head and the Gators put the ball in play on their own ten. The exchange of kicks gave the ball to the Raiders on the Gator 42.

Bradley Davis, Gus Letchas and Dominic Sanzotta combined to push the ball to the 5-yard stripe, from where Sanzotta scored. Williams booted from placement to make the score 7 to 0. Just at the end of the quarter Gus Letchas put the Gators in the hole again by booting over Davis' head with a 66-yard punt.

FORTIER THREATENS

The Raiders scored again in the second period as Don Fortie took a Gator kick on his own 48 and raced 32 yards behind good blocking to the Gator 20. Fortier got four blockers out in front again and swept to the Gator 5-yard line, from which Sanzotta plunged off tackle for the Raider tally. Johnny Scranton, Gater end, blocked the conversion attempt.

GATORS SCORE

The Gators came back after the kickoff to score in three plays. Jim Todd hit the target with passes, the first to Bill Stauss for 5 yards, the second to Sam Sharp for three and the final one for a touchdown to Lamar Davis, who leaped between two Raiders to snag the pigskin and race 25 yards into pay dirt. Nick Calos took up where he left off last year by booting a place kick between the uprights for the extra point. The half ran out with the ball in Raider possession on their 38-yard line, and the day's scoring completed.

124th Inf. Gators		Jacksonville
Sharp, Alabama	le.	Williams, S. Car.
Davant	lt.	Ellis, Wisconsin
Aulenti	lg	Campbell, Sou'w'n
Corey, Columbia	c	Ekelund, Oregon
Fitzgerald, Fordham	rg	Toth, West. Res.
McKewen, Ala.	rt	Short, N'theast Cen.
Gunhus	re	Boucher, Oregon
Chakurda	qb	Iverson, Oregon
Cestary	rh	Letchas, Georgia
L. Davis, Georgia	lh	B. Davis, Ark. St.
Joos	fb	Sanzotta, Wes. Res.

Gator substitutions: Bill Green, Bill Strauss, Bob White, Hal Keller, Green Howard, Nick Calos, Ed. Bultrowicz, Norris Layton, John Nash, Jim Todd, John Scranton.

Raider substitutions: Charles Johnston, Don Fortier, Bob Yanke, George Cobell; John Hanzel, Tom McMenamy, Pete Breceda, Troy Davis.

124th Gators	0	7	0	0—7
NATTC Raiders	6	0	0	0—13

Officials: Referee, Archie Carter; Umpire, Walter Lynch; Field Judge, H. Wood; Head Linesman, G. W. Tucker.

STATISTICS

	Gators	Raiders
First downs	7	8
Yards gained rushing	79	152
Passes attempted	16	5
Passes completed	6	1
Yards gained passing	96	17
Kicks, average	35	55
Runbacks	0	63
Passed intercepted	2	5

300th Eleven Meets 10th Armored Gridmen In Birmingham Benefit

The 300th Infantry Sabers will play the 10th Armored Division Tankers, formerly of Fort Benning and now of Camp Gordon, Georgia, at Legion Field, Birmingham, Ala., on Thanksgiving Day, November 25th.

The game was arranged last Monday in Birmingham at a meeting held under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce and the Monday Morning Quarterback Club with representatives of the 300th Infantry and 10th Armored.

Representing the 10th Armored at the meeting was Red Maddox, coach and former Georgia All-American guard. Bob Friedlund, Coach, and Lt. John L. Dally, Jr., business manager, handled the details for the 300th.

The scale of prices agreed upon was fifty cents for service men in sections A and AA of Legion Field. Civilians will pay $1.50 and $2.00.

The game that will display two fast, hard-hitting army elevens also takes on an added touch when it is remembered that the 10th Armored was not so long ago a neighbor outfit of the 300th at Fort Benning.

Spirits Meet South Carolina Saturday

Gridiron Guesswork

(Note: In our first week of prognosticating, we came off fairly well. Out of 18 games picked we called the winner correctly in 13 of them. That's not too impressive, but you could win a lot of money if you'd pick that many right every week. Ones we missed on were Georgia's last-minute loss to L. S. U., the Gator defeat by Jacksonville, Rochester's loss to Colgate, the Tulsa win over S. M. U. They were all close, but we really looked bad picking Princeton over Penn because the Tigers got thumped 47-8. Well, here goes for another week. As usual, first named team is our choice.)

176th Infantry vs. South Carolina—This one will be as close as they come, but we expect the Spirits to squeeze through.

Notre Dame vs. Georgia Tech—The Irish still have Bertelli and we doubt if the Engineers can rise to the heights in two weeks running. A faltering vote for the Ramblers.

Memphis Blues vs. Tulane—Coached by Denny Myers, the Fliers are loaded for bear and will probably take it out on the Green Wave.

Navy vs. Cornell—The Big Red's no pushover, but the Middies are three-deep and going to be tough to sink. Navy all the way.

Columbia vs. Princeton — Lou Little got plenty in the V-12 transfers and the Tigers don't growl like we expected. A vote for the Lions.

Penn vs. Yale—Quaker, Quaker, Thou art mighty!

Army vs. Colgate—The Cadets took Villanova with ease while Colgate just squeezed by Rochester. No upset here.

Holy Cross vs. Brown—Despite their Dartmouth loss, the Crusaders outplayed the mighty potent Big Green, and should stop the Bruins.

Rochester vs. Carnegie Tech—We still like that Yellowjacket club which is composed of Temple and Syracuse veterans. One ballot for the camera-town lads.

Perdue vs. Illinois—The Boilermakers now rate as the Nation's No. 1 team and should get by the Illini.

Iowa vs. Wisconsin—This one's a toss-up, but the Hawkeyes have looked better in losing. We like 'em in a close battle.

Michigan vs. Northwestern—The Wolverines are all-powerful while the Wildcats had trouble with weak Indiana last week. Three hurrahs for Michigan's Maize and Blue.

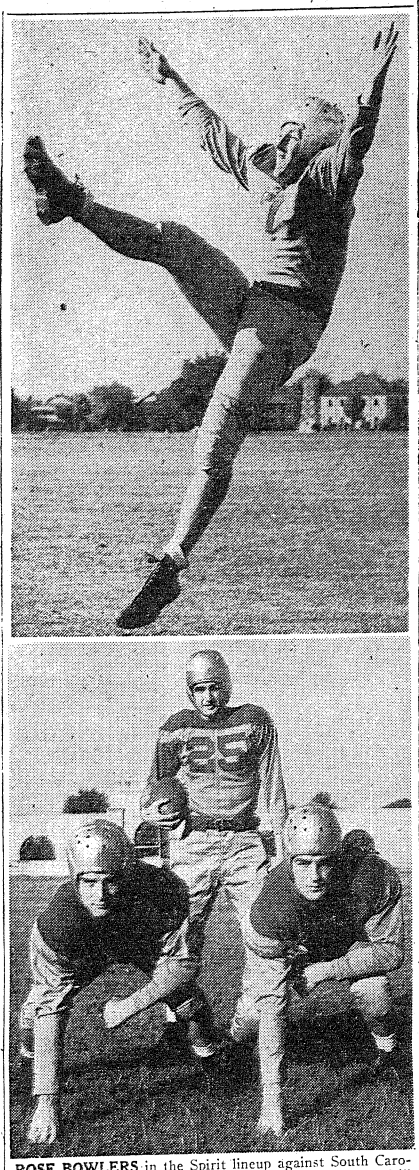
Minnesota vs. Nebraska — The same old story. Pick the Gophers till they do you wrong.

Ohio State vs. Missouri—Don't sell the 1942 leaders short. Buckeyes to win a tough one.

Great Lakes vs. Pitt—The sailors are rolling now. Look out Panthers!

L. S. U. vs. Rice—The Bayou Tigers showed enough against Georgia to rate the nod while Rice dropped its opened to Randolph Field.

Duke vs. North Carolina Pre-Flight—Duke again, but the score won't be so high this time.



North Carolina vs. Penn State—The Tarheels are too good a team to lose two in a row, but the Nittany Lions will be tough.

Southern Cal. vs. California—A hard one to pick, but the Trojans are a weak choice in a real grid dilemma.

Southwestern vs. Texas — Our long shot for the week, but then you see the S. W. boys were mostly Longhorn regulars last fall.

Poking your head out of concealment and breaking the natural outline invites enemy fire. Exposed metal parts and careless movement also are things which will give your position away to the enemy.

When going on a scouting mission, strip for action and carry only essential equipment, for unnecessary items will weigh you down and reduce your speed.

ROSE BOWLERS in the Spirit lineup against South Carolina on Saturday are shown during a practice drill early this week. At the top is the great Bob Waterfield, U. C. L. A.'s superb punter, while below are the Georgia Bulldogs members of the 176th. On the left is Guard Jim Miller, on the right is End George Poschner, and in the center is Wingback Andy Dudish. (Signal Lab Photos by Sgt. Mel Stock.)

Four Rose Bowlers to Start for 176th Team In Gamecock Tussle

Captain Lee D. Pollock will unveil his slick 176th Infantry grid machine on Saturday afternoon in Columbia, S. C., against the Navy-bolstered Gamecocks of the University of South Carolina in what promises to be one of the outstanding battles of the day between service and collegiate elevens.

With four Rose Bowl stars from the 1943 classic ready for the starting line-up, the Spirits left Benning this morning for their week-end safari, determined to return Sunday with gamecock feathers as souvenirs.

The Carolinians opened their campaign last week-end with an impressive triumph over the powerful Newberry College Indians, but they were well scouted in that outing by coaches Joe Thomas and Harry Hales of the Spirits.

IN GOOD SHAPE

All week, Pollock has drilled his big maroon and gray machine against Gamecock formations, and with the squad in excellent physical condition, Spirit victory hopes are running high.

The South Carolina clash will be the opener of an arduous ten-game slate for the new 176th eleven which has assumed the position of a dark horse in the title race for Benning honors. The Spirits play their first post game next Sunday when they oppose the 124th Gators, 1942 champs.

BULLDOG TRIO

The Rose Bowl lads who will start for the 176th are the Georgia Bulldog trio, George Poschner, Andy Dudish and Jim Miller. The fourth refugee from Pasadena is the incomparable Bob Waterfield, U. C. L. A.'s great ball-handling quarterback.

With Waterfield in the driver's seat, the Spirits will flash the mysterious QT formation, used so effectively by the West Coast champs last fall. Since that system is comparatively unknown in the southeast and since the Gamecocks have had no chance to scout the Spirits, Pollock expects the 176th deception to give the collegians no end of trouble.

HARRIS AND HURST

Besides Waterfield and Dudish, who will start at wingback, the Spirits will produce two other brilliant running backs in Sully Harris of L. S. U. and Johnny Hurst of Kentucky. Harris, who may develop into the greatest flashback at the post, is listed as the left half, while Hurst, a real power-runner, will open at fullback.

Behind this quartet, Pollock has another handy backfield in Joe Thomas of Dayton, Pat Ronzone of Indiana, Marv Mathre of St. Cloud Teachers and Forrest Russell, a great line bucker.

GREAT ENDS

Greatest strength in the Spirit line will be at the flanks where the 176th boasts two of the finest terminals in the nation in Poschner and Harry Hales, who played for the North Carolina Tarheels and the Jhilly Eagles in pro circles. Marv Lee, U. C. L. A. product, is another good flankman who is bound to see action.

Eddie Hipp, ex-Davidson Wildcat, is a certain starter at left tackle, while Johnny Shea will draw the assignment at the other tackle berth if his battered nose is in shape. Otherwise Sparky Yalenty, who has come fast in the past week, will get the call.

POLLOCK TO PLAY

The guards will be Georgia's Miller and Virginia's George White, while Bill Brantley, who played at Mars Hill College, is the starting pivot. Pollock himself, a former P. M. C. lineman, will probably play part of the game either at tackle or center, while Izzy Vallorani, Dick McBride, Lee Gehr and several others should get a chance in the forward wall.

With an almost all-collegiate starting line-up, the untested Spirits will at least rate on even terms with the highly-regarded Gamecocks, and the game is expected to produce plenty of fireworks, especially when the 176th aerial circus is unloosed with Waterfield pitching to Poschner.

Football Summary

BENNING GAMES

SCHEDULE

176th Infantry vs. South Carolina at Columbia, S. C., Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

3rd STR Panthers vs. Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Ala., Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

124th Infantry vs. 300th Infantry at Doughboy Stadium. Sunday at 2:00 p. m.

RESULTS

Jacksonville NATTC 13, 124th Infantry 7.

300th Infantry 59, Draper Prison 0.

COLUMBUS GAMES

SCHEDULE

Columbus High vs. Lanier High of Macon at Memorial Stadium. Friday night at 9 p. m., Benning time.

RESULTS

Columbus High 33, Valley High 0.

Marist Academy 20, Jordan High 12.

Central High 41, Troy 0.

BENNING RIVALS

SCHEDULE

Memphis Blues vs. Tulane at New Orleans. Saturday afternoon.

Georgia Tech vs. Notre Dame at South Bend. Saturday afternoon.

Tennessee Tech vs. Georgia at Athens. Friday night.

Daniel Field vs. Georgia Pre-Flight at Athens. Saturday night.

Miami vs. Jacksonville Naval at Jacksonville. Saturday afternoon.

RESULTS

Georgia Tech 20, North Carolina 7.

Memphis Blues 57, Rosecrans Army Fliers 0.

South Carolina 19, Newberry 7.

Panther Eleven Opens Campaign With Tuskegee

3rd STR Gridmen Travel To 'Bama For Tiger Game

Fort Benning gridiron Panthers will travel to Tuskegee Institute this Saturday to inaugurate the 1943 football season. The Panthers have been holding strenuous drills, getting the Service Station eleven in top shape for the opening tilt.

Captain Norman P. Hogenson has a host of men to choose from, however. No doubt, Charles Powell, Hubert Chandler, Henry Kennedy and Danny Williams will see plenty of action in the backfield, while on the line such veterans as Roscoe Burton, William Young, Tim Still, Charles H. Jackson, Joe Davis, Charles Stout and Russell Rickman wil be called upon by the Panther mentor to avenge the defeat of last year at the hands of the Golden Tigers.

MANY NEWCOMERS

Many newcomers to the Third Student Regiment eleven also will see action from the Panther side of the scrimmage line.

Tuskegee Institute, coached by Cleve L. Abbott, has been known for many years as one of the outstanding football teams in the Southeast. Abbott has coached Tuskegee teams for 23 years.

Tuskegee Institute is slated to come to Fort Benning for a game with the Panthers on November 5 at Doughboy Stadium.

Spirit Booters Start Practice

20 Players Report For Soccer Eleven

About twenty men answered Coach A. S. Leckie's call for soccer candidates last week in the 176th Infantry, and practice sessions are being held daily in the cuartel.

Coach Leckie, who has had experience in Scotland, also played with Trenton in the New Jersey League at the center-half position. Another Jersey man is Sam Gray, a prep school booter from Pennington, N. J.

EX-PROS

From New York City comes Dom Diaco, who played with the German-Americans prior to entry into the service. A goalie, Ed Shere, has been in the line-up of Buffalo in the New York State League.

Two men from Philadelphia with considerable experience are Dick Miller, a halfback from West Catholic High and Arthur Knowles, another goal keeper, who played with the Lighthouse Boys' Club. Two other Pennsylvanians are Harry Fenstermacher, who played halfback for West Grove High School and J. G. Podorsky, a forward from Coplay High School.

MARYLANDERS

John Brown from Bethesda-Chevy Chase (Md.) High School and John Waldman from Glen Burnie (Md.) High are two halfback prospects, while Burton Hooker and Van Dyke from Kimball Union Academy and Whitman College are out for the fullback slots.

Another booter, with experience in Ireland, is Les Groarke, who is expected to add power to the forward line.

At present, an attempt is being made to schedule local club and college teams to open the season around the end of October.

Panthers Will Hold Unit Boxing Show

The Amphitheater of the Third Student Training Regiment will be converted into a boxing ring on October 13th when the Service Battalion holds an elimination boxing tournament. Entries in all weights and classes will determine the champ in each division.

It is expected that over 50 boxing opponents will take part in the outdoor arena bouts. For over a year the Panther boxing team of 12 sluggers has seen action in Benning rings.

Paratroopers Capture Post Softball Title

1st Academic Co. Blanks 176th To Finish 2nd Half Undefeated

Behind the air-tight hurling of Earl Varchminn, the 1st Academic Company of the Parachute School swept to the post softball title last Thursday night with a 6-0 triumph over the challenging 176th Spirits.

The win over the infantrymen was the second in ten days for the paratroopers and enabled them to finish their second-half slate without a defeat. 1st Academic won the first-half title in July when they finished with only one loss, thus capturing the 1943 crown without a post-season playoff.

FANS 18

For the chutists, it was too much Earl Varchminn as the famed moundsman limited the Spirits to three hits, while fanning 18 in the seven-inning fray. Only Tederson, Husiar and Malinowski were able to solve his slants for singles.

The winners were off to an early start in the first frame as Anders singled, Wosnick doubled and Haller grounded out to account for a pair of runs. In the second, with two men out, Long singled, advanced to second on an error and tallied on Anders' hit.

SPIRITS THREATEN

With the score 3 to 0, the Spirits put men on first and second in the fourth frame, but Hales and O'Malley fanned to end the rally. Again in the fifth, Malinowski reached first with no one out, but Varchminn went on to strike out the side. In their half of the inning, the Paratroopers banged out three runs to put the fray on ice.

The defeat was the second for the Spirits at the hands of the Chutists. Previously, Varchminn and Joe Novocal had hooked up in a hurlers' duel, with each pitcher allowing one hit. Novocal, however, made the mistake of tossing a home run ball and the 176th lost a 1 to 0 contest.

Touch Football Plans Underway In 300th Unit

The 300th Infantry is planning a regimental touch football league which will feature company versus company. The league is the direct result of an evident desire on the part of the men for some form of contact football.

7th Armored Plans Sports

How will the new organizational set-up in the 7th Armored Division affect the heretofore puny sports program? According to Lieut. Henry A. Wicker, division athletic officer, an all-out "accent on sports" drive is in the offing—providing the tentative plans formulated by division special service are approved by the commanding general, and do not hamper the training schedule.

If the planned schedule gets the go sign, its wide scope should enable every man to participate in at least one major sport, probably more. Inter-unit competition will be stressed and the rivalry should be keen. Here's what special service has to offer:

Football—A six-man football league; transportation to league games at the main post; transportation to Georgia Tech games at Atlanta; distribution of collegiate football facts and figures during the season.

Basketball—An inter-unit loop league, probably staged in Harmony church sports arena.

Boxing — Boxing instructions twice a week and a division elimination tournament.

Golf — Arrangements will be made by the S. S. O. for men to play the main post course and the Lion's course in Columbus. This office will also handle requests for clubs.

Bowling, volleyball and handball are also a part of the new sports scheme.

Nebraska Rose Bowl Back Is With 3rd STR

Soon, down in the Eighth Company, Third Student Training Regiment, there will be a resounding thud and a G. I. football will be getting the ride of its life from the toe of Candidate Dale Bradley. He will be watching it with a satisfied grin and thinking of defenses he caught flatfooted with sensational boots.

In the Rose Bowl thrill fest of 1941, Bradley saw action against Frankie Albert and the other Stanford greats. The next fall he was selected "All Big Six" halfback and received numerous "All-America" honorable mentions.

"Brad," as he is known to his friends, was a triple threat man for Nebraska. He was a consistent ground gainer and became well known as an "off balance" broken field runner. He was hard to stop and harder to spill. Bradley's name was always well up in the Big Six scoring column.

During his pre-career in Lincoln, Nebraska, Bradley was selected as an All-State man in both football and basketball.

Candidate Bradley, who majored in sociology, is a stocky, curly haired fellow. He says he has the blackest, toughest beard in his outfit and admits his brawny legs are "a little bent."

Candidate Bradley was the third of his clan to enter the service. He has one brother who is a captain in the Marines and another serving with the Air Corps.

Benning's Reception Center Tossers Win Southeastern Crown

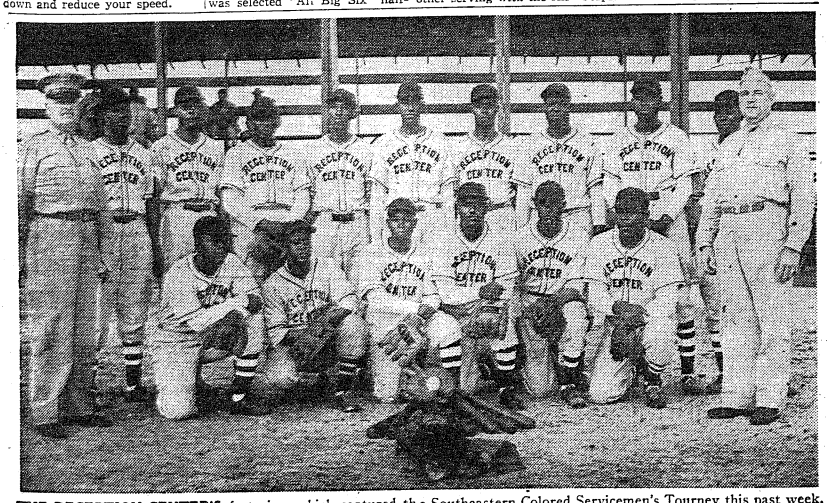
Fort Benning's crack Reception Center nine captured the Southeastern Colored Servicemen's baseball crown on Monday afternoon with a thrilling 3-2 triumph over the 1st STR Red Sox, post champs, in the final tilt of a three-game series at Golden Park in Columbus.

The receptionists won the opening game of the playoff at Fort Benning's Gowdy field Saturday afternoon by a score of 6 to 2. The Red Sox came back at Golden park Sunday afternoon and won over the Orphans, 13 to 4.

In the final game, Roy Wellmaker came back after one day's rest and pitched his team to victory to climax one of the hardest played tournaments ever put on in this section.

The receptionists had a rougher time during the tournament in getting to the finals. They beat the Fort Benning Panthers in their first game, beat the Tuskegee army air field in the second game. These two wins put them into the finals with the Red Sox, who waded right through their bracket winning over the Truck regiment and Camp Wheeler by easy margins.

CHEATHAM HITS



In the final game the Reception Center outhit the Red Sox, 10 to 7, with their shortstop, Cheatham, leading the way with the stick, getting 3 for 4. Wellmaker was right behind, chipping in 2 for 3 and actually was the hero of the tournament, having played perfect ball in the outfield on the days he did not pitch.

Green, behind the plate for the receptionists was outstanding all through the tournament being a bulwark on defense and a constant threat at the plate. John Washington, captain and first baseman for the Sed Sox, played his usual brand of ball all through the tourney and in losing the final game he had two hits for four trips to the plate and stole a couple of bases.

TAYLOR BEATEN

Taylor, pitching for the losers, also helped his team's cause out by collecting three hits for his four trips to the plate.

Teams entered in the tourney, besides the finalists, were Camp Wheeler, Camp Blanding, Tuskegee Army Flying School, Benning Headquarters Detachment, TIS Truck Regiment, 3rd STR Panthers, Academic Pacesetters and the Columbus Globetrotters.

THE RECEPTION CENTER'S fast nine, which captured the Southeastern Colored Servicemen's Tourney this past week, is shown above in squad formation. On the bottom row, left to right, are: Mike Cheatham, Aharte Carter, Will Hackett, Moulton Taylor, Bill Tolbert, and Bill Jackson. In the rear row, you'll see: Roy Welmaker, Oscar Pendleton, Tom Hall, Earl Grant, John McFarlin, Robert Miller, Jim Greene, John Moon, and Manager Gene Heywood. At the extreme left is Col. Ulric N. James, commanding officer of the center, while Maj. William C. Tippins, executive officer is at the far right. (Signal Lab. Photo by Sgt. Mel Stock).

BAMA CLUB

Cocktail Bar Open 6 P. M.

TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY—9 P. M. & 11 P. M.

CHICKEN DINNERS, $1.50 WESTERN STEAK, $2.00

MUSIC BY VERNON YONKERS ORCHESTRA

For Reservations Dial 3-1051

Just Across Lower Bridge, First Building on Right

Admission Week Nites 50c Saturday Nite $1

Visit . . .

SOUTHERN MANOR

FOR THE BEST ENTERTAINMENT

With the Stars That Fall on Alabama

JIMMY THOMAS — Singing Master of Ceremonies

ROD RODNEY — Tap Dancer

CARLA — Ballerina

BETTY GALE — Lovely Singer

BOBBY STAPLES — Novelty Act

BUDDY HOFF — Orchestra

TEA DANCE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

4:30 to 6:30—No Cover—No Minimum Charge

ENJOY FAMOUS SOUTHERN MANOR STEAK AND CHICKEN

Southern Manor

Presenting New York's Radio and Night Club Entertainers

DINE & DANCE — TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY

At Junction of Opelika and Montgomery Highway

Post to Observe National Fire Prevention Week

National Fire Prevention Week set aside by President Roosevelt will be observed at Fort Benning from October 3 to October 9 inclusive with a publicity and educational campaign stressing the importance and methods of fire prevention, it is announced by Joseph L. Hogan, fire chief at Fort Benning.

In an effort to promote this campaign against fire hazards, persons who are in doubt as to whether or not a fire hazard exists at any place on the post are requested to telephone the fire department at FB 2452, and the department will investigate.

If every person at Fort Benning would be alert and make a constant effort to eliminate fire hazards, 90 per cent of all fires on the post could be eliminated before they start, Chief Hogan asserted.

In pointing out the necessity of avoiding carelessness and checking all possible fire hazards, Chief Hogan revealed that more than 300 preventable fires already have occured at Fort Benning during 1943. These resulted from carelessness and represent a debit entry against our war effort due to property damage, and labor and materials needed for replacement, the Chief said.

Fires on this post, according to the fire department, have been caused largely from discarded cigarette butts, lighted matches, the placing of hot ashes in inflammable containers, placing pennies behind fuses or bridging fuses in some manner, tampering with electric wires, careless use of gasoline and other inflammable fuel, or spilling oil or gasoline on a hot motor.

WAR—

(Continued from Page 1)

$186,223.25 in bonds through Saturday afternoon.

For the same period post civilian sales totaled nearly $20,000 in cash. This is in addition to the 10 percent invested monthly from the salaries of 80 percent of the local employees.

Major Fink announced that a bond table would be set up in front of the Post Exchange Cafeteria on Ingersoll street, Thursday, September 30, pay day where war bonds could be purchased for cash. A bond issuing agent furloshed through the courtesy of radio station WRBL will be on hand and bonds will be typed out and delivered immediately. The table will handle purchases between 5:30 p. m. and 9:30 p. m., Thursday.

WORLD-WIDE COMMUNION

World Wide Communion Services in the Post Chapel and Rally Day in the Post Sunday School will be observed at Fort Benning Sunday, October 3, Lt. Col. Frank M. Thompson, chief of the chaplains' branch, announced today.

World Wide Communion Services will be held in the chapel at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. The day is the occasion for the largest single observance held in the Protestant church save Easter and Christmas,

EVERY—

(Continued from Page 1)

curities from the September payroll.

Although many units are expected to report 100 per cent payroll allotment for this month, it seems at this writing that Service will be the only Regimental outfit in which every man has bought an extra bond for this drive.

TRAIN—

(Continued from Page 1)

wiches will be sold at 15 cents and ice cream, sherberts and fruit ices at 10 cents. However, if a proprietor sold a particular type of sandwich at a price higher than 15 cents or ice cream at more than 10 cents during the base period used to compute the regulation, he may continue to sell it at such higher price provided the price is clearly marked on the wrapper as follows: "OPA ceiling price."

The applicable price regulation Appendix A, Restaurant Price Regulation No. 1, dated June 26, 1943, used the period between February 1 and April 10 of this year as the base period to compute the prices.

Enlisted men are to report instances of violations of the regulations to the Military Police representatives. Their reports should state the date, train, badge number of the train butcher, and the items which were sold at prices in excess of ceiling prices.

REPORT VIOLATIONS

The applicable regulation Appendix A, Restaurant Price Regulation No. 1, dated June 26, used the period between February 1 and April 10 of this year as the base period to compute the prices.

Enlisted men are to report instances of violations of the regulations to the Military Police representatives. Their reports should state the date, train, badge number of the train butcher, and the items which were sold at prices in excess of ceiling prices.

ITALIAN—

(Continued from Page 1)

restaurant, Mary's Lunch, at 108 South Augusta Street, which she has operated for the past nineteen years.

Mrs. Cacciapaglia and two of her sisters married three Cacciapaglia brothers, hence the similarity in names.

FAITH IN AMERICA

In 1929 Mrs. Marianna Cacciapaglia became an American citizen. She said her brother, who is the prisoner of war, is 32 years old. When she left Italy in 1924, she asserted that he was about 12 years old.

She resides at 28 South New Street in Staunton and has a son, Frank, in his third year at Notre Dame University. She has three other children.

Mrs. Camella Cacciapaglia resides at 937 Bonaghan Boulevard, Staunton.

The sisters each boasts of having invested $3,000 in War Bonds. They said that the gift of a War Bond to their brother was an expression of their faith in the United States and gave proof of the gratitude they had for the manner in which their brother was being treated.

Mrs. Marianna Cacciapaglia said that her brother, in their conversation in Italian, had told her that he had last seen their parents in Santerimo in June. He said they were both well and would welcome the invading allied forces.

NEW—

(Continued from Page 1)

of National Guard Units during which time he wa spromoted to captain.

At the start of World War I, he was made a major in the aviation section of the Signal Corps and stationed at Kelly Field, Texas. Later he was re-assigned to the Infantry and sent overseas. Following the war, he was returned to his permanent rank of captain and sent to the headquarters of the Port of Embarkation at Newport News, Va., and later to Camp Morrison, Va.

In 1920 he was promoted to the permanent rank of major and sent to West Point as an instructor in Tactics. After four years at that station, he came to Fort Benning and went later to Fort Leavenworth for his Advanced, and Command and General Staff courses.

One of the major appointments in his career occurred late in 1926, when he was sent to Washington and named Chief of Infantry, a post which he filled for four years.

He was promoted to lieutenant colonel in 1932 and returned to The Infantry School as an instructor. His stay here lasted four years, and was followed by a two-year tour of duty at Fort Sheridan, Ill., where he was made a full colonel.

IN HAWAII

The command of the Schofield Barracks in Hawaii was given him in 1938 and in 1940, as a brigadier general, he took over the command of the 6th Corps area with headquarters in Chicago. The following year he assumed command of the 5th division at Fort Custer, Mich., and in April of 1941 was promoted to major general.

His assignment to Iceland as commander of the American A.E.F. to that post followed in September, 1941, when he led his troops to that bleak outpost to reinforce a British army which had established defenses on the island. He took over the command of all Allied troops on Iceland in April, 1942.

Gen. Bonesteel is the 11th Commandant of the School since it was officially named The Infantry School in 1918. His predecessors have been: Col. Henry Ames, Maj. Gen. Charles Farnsworth, Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Gordon, Brig. Gen. Briant H. Wells, Brig. Gen. Edgar T. Collins, Brig. Gen. Campbell King, Brig. Gen. George H. Estes, Brig. Gen. Asa Singleton, Brig. Gen. Omar Bradley and General Allen.

ALLEN'S MESSAGE

General Allen, on his departure from the school, sent this message to his command:

"On my departure from The Infantry School, I wish to commend the entire command on its work at The Infantry School. Every one, on all the various types of duty here, has made a direct contribution to our effort to develop infantry instruction and to train the leaders of ou rarmy for combat. Those on purely administrative or operation work, as well as those engaged in actual instruction or demonstrations, have functioned as a team to insure that the mission of The Infantry School should be carried out. The reputation of The Infantry School throughout our army and and even among foreign armies is the proof of work well done. You who have served with The Infantry School may well take a share of the credit for the success of our troops in actual combat, as you have helped train its leaders.

"I am proud to have had the privilege of commanding such an outstanding organization, and I wish to leave with you this token of my fullest appreciation and best wishes."

Gen. Allen had three previous tours of duty at Fort Benning. He was on the staff of the first school as an instructor from 1920 through 1924 and later served a brief period with the 29th Infantry. He returned in 1940 as commander of the Fourth Antitank Battalion.

He spent all his life around an army post, being born at Fort Douglas, Utah in 1894. His military career began in 1916 when he was commissioned a second lieutenant. He served overseass in World War I as a captain of a machine gun company, was wounded and decorated with the Purple Heart.

Gen. Allen has served in Washington in the office of Chief of Infantry and on the General Staff. At one time, he was Chief of Staff o the Pacific Sector with headquarters in Panama.

FREE—

(Continued from Page 1)

Commissary. From there it will proceed to Vibbert, turn left and along Vibbert to Gillespie, turn right and along Gillespie to Wold Avenue, turn left to Howard Bus station.

Stops on Route One will be made at the Main Theater; corner of Marchant-Pearman Streets; Grocery; Pearman Street; Cafeteria; Ingersoll-Vibbert; Gillespie Vibbert; Post Commissary; Vibbert-Ingersoll and the Howard Bus station.

Busses on Route One will make first trip at 8 a. m. and each 30 minutes thereafter. They will leave the Grocery at 8:15 a. m. and each 30 minutes thereafter, with the last trip from the grocery at 5:15 p. m. On Route one, the bus will not go to the Post Commissary after 1 p. m., but will turn left at Vibbert and Gillespie and proceed to the Howard Bus station.

ROUTE NO. 2

Route No. 2 will leave at 8 a. m. each day and proceed each 45 minutes thereafter, until last trip leaving the grocery at 5 p. m. This bus will go to Ingersoll, turn right to Zuckerman, thence to Lumpkin Road, turn left and go to Madden avenue, turn right to Stewart avenue, turn right at Madden and through to Running avenue, turn left on Running Avenue and through to First Division Road. There it will turn right and go to Zuckerman, turn left on Zuckerman and through to Wickersham avenue, turn left and along to Yeager avenue, right on Yeager through to Baltzell avenue, turn left and along Baltzel to Running avenue, along Running to First Division Road, turn right on First Division Road and along to Madden avenue, then turn left at Madden and through to Lumpkin road, along Lumpkin to Yeager avenue, turn left on Yeager and along to Perkins street, turn right on Perkins street and through to Dial street, along Dial to Lumpkin turn left on Lumpkin and through to Zuckerman, along Zukerman to the Grocery.

Stops will be made at Lumpkin-Dial; Lumpkin-Yeager; Lumpkin-Running; Lumpkin - at Circle; Lumpkin-Madden; Middle Block-Stewart; Stewart-Running; 1st Div.-Running; 1st Div.-Yeager; 1st Div. - Zuckerman; Zuckerman - Wickersham; 1st. Div.-McIver; 1st Div.-Madden; Madden - Stewart; Lumpkin-Madden; Lumpkin-Circle; Lumpkin-Running; Lumpkin-Yeager Yeager-Perkins; Perkins-Dial; Dial-Lumpkin, then the grocery.

ROUTE NO. 3

Buses on Route 3 will leave the dispensary at 8 a. m. and each 30 minutes thereafter until 5 p. m. They will proceed along Wold avenue to Baltzell, then along Baltzell to Main Hospital; from Main Hospital along Baltzell and turn right at Stonewall Drive; Along Stonewall Drive to Rainbow, turn left on Rainbow and along to Baltzell. They will then turn right at Miller Loop and around the Loop to Eames Avenue, right on Eames avenue to Kreis street, turn right on Kreis street to Vibbert; turn left on Vibbert and along to Gillespie, right on Gillespie to Upton, along Upton to Post Quartermaster, thence to Vibbert, right on Vibbert to Dilboy, and left on Dilboy to the Dispensary.

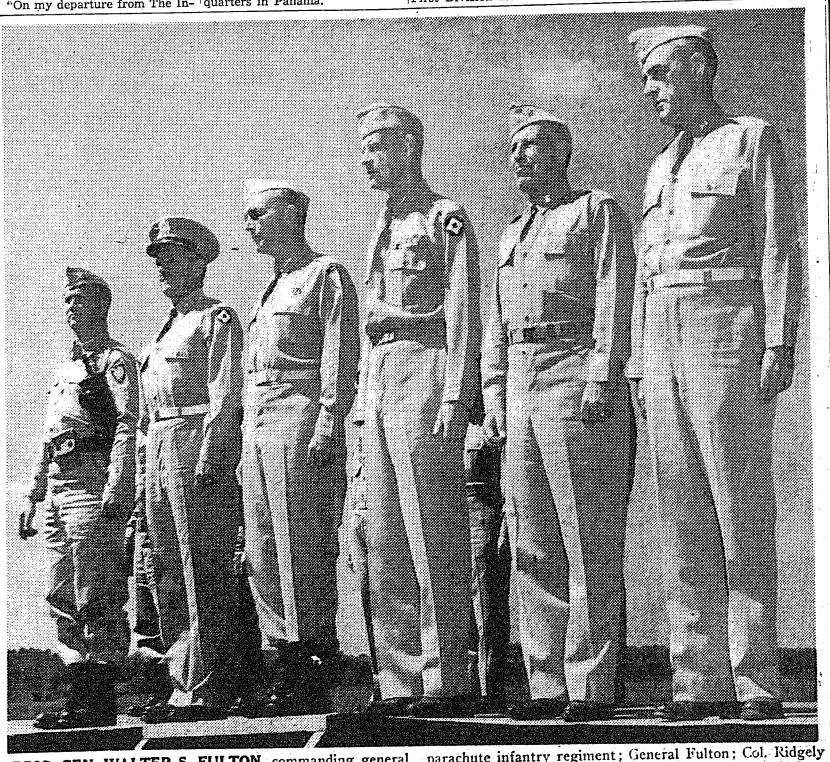
Stops will be made at Wold-Edwards; Wold-Edwards - Howard Bus Station; 1st Div. Baltzell; Lumpkin Baltzell; Miller Loop-Baltzell; Rainbow-Baltzell; Stonewall-Baltzell; Stonewall-Rainbow; Rainbow-Baltzell; Miller Loop-Baltzell; Miller Loop-Eames; Miller Loop-Hintz street; Miller Loop-Center; Miller Loop- Hintz street; Eames-Miller Loop; Middle-Eames avenue; Kreis-Eames Kreis-Vibbert; Vibbert-Sigerfoos; Vibbert-Ingerson; Vibbert- Gillespie; Post Quartermater; Vibbert - Dilboy, then at the Dispensary.

ROUTE NO. 4

Route No. 4 busses will leave the Infantry School at 8 a. m. and every 30 minutes thereafter until the last rip at 5 p. m.

Route for this bus line is from Infantry School Building, on Wold avenue to Baltzell; turn left on Baltzell and along Sigerfoos to Vibbert; turn right on Vibbert to Austin Loop; around the Loop to Bandholtz; right on Bandholtz to Sigerfoos, along Sigerfoos to Vibbert; right on Vibbert to Ingersoll, along Ingersoll to Harris Circle; around Harris Circle, thence around Ingersoll loop and back to Ingersoll and along to Upton, right on Upton to Post Commissary. From there it will proceed to Vibbert, right and along Vibbert to Ingersoll, right on Ingersoll and along to Wold to the Infantry School Building.

Stops are set for Sigerfoos-Vibbert-Austin Loop; Austin-Bandholtz; Center of Loop; Bandholtz Austin; Sigerfoos-Bandholtz; Sigerfoos-Vibbert; Vibbert-Ingersoll-Upton; Ingersoll-Vogel; Beginning Ingersoll Loop; beginning Harris Circle; Center-Harris Circle; Gluck Ingersoll; Post Commissary; Vibbert-Gillespie; Vibbert-Hall; Service Club; Ingersoll-Wold, Infantry School.



ROUTE NO. 5

Route 5 has been established for colored personnel and families living in vicinity of the Colored Reception Center. It will leave Indian Head road and Karker avenue at 8 a. m. and each 30 minutes thereafter, with last trip at 5 p. m. This line will make reverse stops on the return trips. It will proceed from Indian Head road and Karker avenue, along Indian Head road onto Anderson street, thence to Wold avenue, right and along Wold to Ingersoll, turn left and to Upton, left on Upton to Post Commissary, to Vibbert, turn left and to Gillespie, right and along Gillespie to Wold, right on Wold and to Anderson, left on Anderson to the Junction.

Stops will be made at headquarters, Reception Center; Anderson-Marchant; Anderson-Wold; Wold-Dilboy; Edwards; Wold-Gillespie; Wold-Ingersoll; Ingersoll-Upton and the Commissary.

ORDNANCE BOMBSHELL—Imagine a gorgeous strawberry blonde with Betty Grable legs working right here at Fort Benning. . . . Well, it's true and here she is in the person of oomph-girl Marie Bragg, the reigning pin-up favorite of the boys who care for ammunition and armaments. . . . She's an all-wool army lass, too, having been born into the service 22 years ago in Seattle, Washington. . . . Her daddy is Col. C. H. Bragg, who once served here with the 2nd Armored and is now in the South Pacific battle zone. . . . Marie came to Benning about five years ago and finished up her schooling as an Auburn co-ed. . . . Then just a year and a half ago, she embarked on a business career in the post ordnance office where she has remained as secretary to the ordnance auditor. . . . She likes to swim and dance, and adores knitting, believe it or not! . . . We weren't the first to discover her rare beauty since she has previously modelled for fashion shows in Columbus. . . . BRAGG ON MEN: "I like them all, period." . . . VITAL STATISTICS: Age—22. Height—5 feet, 4 and three-quarter inches. Weight—110 pounds. Bust—33 inches. Waist—23 inches. Hips—33 inches. Eyes—mellow green. Hair—truly strawberry blonde. Complexion—fair as fair can be. A slender beauty who's truly delectable and could give La Grable a race any day of the week! (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

BRIG. GEN. WALTER S. FULTON, commanding general of Fort Benning, is shown above as he received the salute of more than 12,000 paratroopers at the post on Saturday as they passed in review signaling the forthcoming retirement of Benning's commandant. Shown above, left to right, are Col. Albert H. Dickerson, commanding officer of the 513th parachute infantry regiment; General Fulton; Col. Ridgely Gaither, commandant of the Parachute School; and three other officers of Benning who will retire: Col. Reginald Kelley, president of the reclassification center; Col. Stephen B. Massey, director of supply, and Col. Albert J. Bain, post engineer. (Signal Corps Photo.)

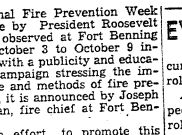
Colonel James Earns Eagles

Officer Heads Reception Center

Lieut. Col. Ulric N. James, who has served as commanding officer of Fort Benning's Reception Center for more than a year, has been promoted to the rank of full colonel, it was announced by Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, the post commander.

Col. James, a former resident of Birmingham, Ala., has been in command of the colored Reception Center since July 4, 1942. Since its inception the center has processed more than 140,000 colored selectees into the armed services.

The Reception Center has grown in size during the past year. A Special Training Regiment recently was formed at the Center, adding a complement of more than 6,000 soldiers to Col James' command.



Col. James assumed the command of the Reception Center in July last year as a major. He was subsequently promoted to lieutenant colonel.

Col. James began his service in the last world war as a non-commissioned officer. Before the war was over, he attended an officer candidate school and was appointed a first lieutenant. He subsequently commanded one of the first divisional trench mortar units. At the end of the war, he was designated to form a demobilization unit to discharge 50,000 overseas casuals from the service.

In 1919 Col. James received his captaincy in the reserves. Retaining this rank, he transferred to the National Guard, where he served until 1927 when he entered the Quartermaster Corps. In the QMC he rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Resigning from military life in 1923, he returned to his civilian profession. He reentered the Army in 1941 and was assigned to the Reception Center at Benning. Before assuming command of the Reception Center, he served as battalion commander and executive officer.

DINE WINE AND BE MERRY in ATLANTA'S NEWEST and FINEST SUPPER CLUB

Bill Cooper His Piano and Soloes

Steaks & Chops Seafood & Fried Chicken AND OF COURSE Wine & Champagne & Beer

PEACHTREE at ELLIS

OPEN 12 TO 12 SUNDAY DINNER TO 10 P. M.

Send Your Portrait So they may see you every day

Proofs for Your Inspection Before You Buy. Our Price Within the Reach of All.

AIM'E DUPONT Of Fifth Ave. MILITARY STUDIOS

1219½ Broadway Columbus, Ga. Tel. 3-1505

Open 1 to 9:30 P. M.; Sunday 2 to 6 P. M., E. W. T.

PHONOGRAPHS

All Types

Amusement Games . .

We install and service music machines in all areas of Fort Benning.

Call On Us When In Need of Music

Columbus Amusement Co.

DONALD LEEBERN

520—12th Street Dial 3-6441 or 3-5731

All Military Alterations Skillfully Done.

CUSTOM TAILORS TO THE SERVICES SINCE 1845

SMITH-GRAY

15 WEST ELEVENTH ST. COLUMBUS, GA.

DIAL 5719 OPP. ARMY-NAVY USO

RECAPPING AND VULCANIZING

FORT BENNING PERSONNEL WELCOME

CITY TIRE & RUBBER CO.

1042 Wynnton Rd. Dial 3-2434

We Realize

it is difficult for Fort Benning personnel to get their cars serviced properly and promptly during these days of shortages.

Remember FIRESTONE has trained personnel to care for the cars of men in service.

Firestone Stores

13th St. at First Ave. Phone 3-3606

'Should Wife Follow Soldier Husband?' Discussion Repeat Slated On Town Hall Program

The Town Hall discussion Sunday at Ninth Street USO on whether Army wives have a definite place being in Army towns near their husbands or whether they are just another type of "camp follower" was so spirited and successful that the topic will be further discussed next Sunday in the USO at 3 p. m. (EWT).

Taking part in the panel of experts were Officer Candidate Crawford Coyner and his wife, Chaplain L. E. Lynch of the 31st Armored Regiment, Seventh Armored Division; Dr. Joseph S. Cook of St. Luke Methodist church, Columbus; Miss Anne Pridmore, USO area representative, and Miss Anna Gray, of the department of public welfare.

Town Hall Moderator Pvt. Harry Dubin was unsuccessful in several efforts to bring the program to a close after it had run overtime. The audience disapproved and would not allow the subject to be closed.

All "experts" agreed that if a wife helped her husband become a better soldier she should by all means join him. They agreed that winning the war is the paramount objective.

Mrs. Coyner explained that the relaxation which her husband enjoyed in his off time with her and their two children meant much to his morale. Candidate Coyner concurred in this assertion but pointed out that a wife should join her husband only when their finances warranted such a move.

"Our own interests are secondary to winning this war, but if in having our families near it is going to help the country — then by all means, do it," he stated. The candidate then cited that a soldier should not bring his family to a town near camp if the children were at a tender age, if housing conditions were deficient, or if a transfer for the serviceman is imminent.

Each inividual case differs, he concluded and one cannot write out a set of hard and fast rules.

Chaplain Lynch declared if a woman's presence helps a man become a better soldiers, she should manage to live near him if it is at all feasible. Miss Gray approached the problem from the side of the children saying that it is not a healthy condition for young ones to be moved about, finding themselves in strange surroundings.

Miss Pridmore pointed out that Army wives can be quite useful in the Red Cross services and other forms of volunteer war work.

One woman in the audience whose husband is now overseas said she is comforted by realizing that she had been with him while he was here "until the last minute." An officer in the audience emphasized the additional "family worries" a soldier has when his wife and children are living with him.

Benningites Switch Tires And Get No Gas Books

Measures Taken To Thwart Black Market Practices

Sixty per cent of military personnel at Fort Benning who purchase automobiles in Columbus are surprised to find they cannot get new gasoline books because tires have been "switched" on their automobiles, according to figured released today by Sgt. Louis Lipp, secretary of the Fort Benning branch of the Muscogee County Ration Board.

New tire inspection records must be presented before the books can be issued—and if the records do not check with the tires on the automobiles, the books cannot be issued, he warned again today.

"Many purchasers of automobiles never think to check the tire records presented to them with the tires actually on the cars," he said. "In this way the black market in tires can flourish.

"We figure that at least 60 per cent of purchasers of automobiles at the post are being mulcted because somebody has switched tires. In some cases, of course, a legitimate mistake has been made in some manner—but in most instances it is a straight switch of tires with knowledge beforehand on the part of the persons who sell the cars."

RULES STRICT

He pointed out rules governing issuing of gasoline coupon books are very strict, and that whenever there is a change in ownership of an automobile, the transferee must turn in the existing tire inspection record to the board issuing the new record for the vehicle.

If the transferee claims that there is no existing record, he must present to the local board a certification, signed by the person who sold the vehicle, stating that he, the seller, owned the vehicle as of Dec. 1, 1942, and that no tire inspection record has ever been issued for the vehicle and that the tires now mounted on the vehicle were so mounted on it on Dec. 1, 1942.

Further, if the transferee claims that he has made a dilligent attempt to obtain the records and he has been unable to do so, he must present to the local board a certification, signed by the transferor, stating the date on which the seller acquired the vehicle, and that no tire inspection record was transferred to him when he acquired the vehicle and that the tires now mounted on the vehicle were mounted on it on the date that he acquired it.

All of that means a lot of time and effort, Sgt. Lipp pointed out, and warned that regulations will be tightened up. Purchasers of automobiles should always check immediately the tires on their new cars against the tire record, he warned.

Hero Lauds Medical Care For Paratroops

Major Moir Says Front-Line Attention Meets Service Standards

Paratroopers in combat are receiving the same excellent front line medical care that is provided for all other American fighting men, according to Major William W. Moir, regimental surgeon of the 513 Parachute Infantry, Fort Benning, and holder of the Distinguished Service Cross for his part in the Tunisian campaign.

Although wounded in the head by a 20 mm shell fragment and in the shoulder by machine gun fire from strafing airplanes, Major Moir, with the help of one sergeant and two company aid men, tended to more than 20 paratroopers injured when three U. S. plnaes were shot down by enemy fighters. They stayed at their post for 24 hours before being relieved.

Joining the parachute troops in December, 1941, Major Moir was assigned to a parachute regiment, and went to England as a jumping medic in June, 1942. Here training was continued until November 7, when his outfit took off on a plane ride which was to end in North Africa near Oran.

"It was a long, boring trip, which lasted 8 to 10 hours. The plane was very crowded and nearly everyone slept."

"Yes, we knew where we were going. We had had a good idea for some time, and when we took off we knew definitely. It was very much like maneuvers, and the men acted as if thy're on a routine hop."

"Our destination was a spot near Oran. Upon arriving there some of the group jumped and others rode down as the planes landed in dry salt lakes nearby.

"We have some difficulty in orienting ourselves, but soon learned that American troops had taken a nearby airport. However, they were hard pressed and in need of reinforcements. Our first job would be to help them.

"One company, including myself, was assigned the mission. We took off again, in three planes, seeking to sneak through the enemy fighters, since the distance was only six miles. This didn't work, and all three ships were shot down. Luckily, all made halt way decent landings. At that there were 20 or more casualties.

"Immediately the fighters started strafing us. It was during this time that I received my injuries.

"When they let us, those who weren't injured set out for the airport. The remainder of us stayed with the wounded. My enlisted medical men did a wonderful job assisting with the casualties, although we had only limited facilities and equipment on hand."

Major Moir was later evacuated to Gibraltar Military Hospital, where he spent the next three weeks recovering from his wounds.

In late November he rejoined his battalion to find that fighting had almost ceased, and shortly afterwards Major Noir was ordered back to the United States.

Sixth Regiment's 1st Battalion Has Crack Band

The 1st Battalion of the 6th ASTP Regiment of The Infantry School has been called a lot of things . . . the "Fighting First," for instance. But the latest is the "Musical First."

Probably in no battalion in the post are there so many musicians who have sent home for their instruments and are organizing into bands and swing groups for their own entertainment.

The 13-piece battalion dance band which went into rehearsals last week sounded like a professional outfit and will represent the brigade at outstanding functions. Each company has now in the organization stage small "jam" groups.

Prominent among the company bands is the 3rd Company unit which has been rehearsing for a week now and already modestly boasts "the best band in Benning." Planned, too, in the battalion is a small symphonic group for light classical music.

PVT. FRANKLIN R. SHYTLE is the sewing soldier of the 7th Armored Division. He learned to sew at home and when the commanding officer of Headquarters Company, 33rd Armored Engineers, found out that he used the sewing machine he was detailed to mend and sew his fellow soldiers' uniforms, and put on their patches. (7th Armored Division photo.)

NEWLY ARRIVED ENLISTED PERSONNEL of the WAC Detachment, Station Complement, are enjoying their first meal on their arrival here. Part of a cadre of 44, these WACs will take over duties of enlisted personnel at the Station Hospital and Reception Center, relieving general service men for active duty. (U. S. Army Signal Corps photo.)

Mother Sees One Son Commissioned Receives Second Son's Air Medal

In a double ceremony at Fort Benning last Saturday, Mrs. Fred E. Graf, of 1010 Washington street, Jackson, Mich., received the coveted Air Medal in the name of her son, 2nd Lieut, Fred J. Graf, reported missing in action in the North Africa theater of operations, and then looked on as a second son, Edward A. Graf, of the 20th Company, Third Student Training Regiment, received his commission as a second lieutenant of Infantry from Officer Candidate School.

The appearance of his mother and also of his father at graduation exercises was a complete surprise to the newly commissioned officer who had not been informed of their intentions of being present.

Mrs. Graf requested that the award be made at Fort Benning in her second son's presence who, Mrs. Graf wrote, "hopes to be in the Air Corps some day."

The presentation of the Air Medal was made by Lieut. Col. John E. Albert, commanding officer of Lawson Field located at Fort Benning. The citation read by Col. Albert pointed out that the recipient, a member of the 12th Air Force, had made five sorties against the enemy in the North Africa theater.

The missing officer was born in Chicago, Ill., July 30, 1919. He graduated from Sullivan High School in Chicago in 1937, where he took three years of ROTC work, and attended Wright College in Chicago from 1937 to 1939.

He enlisted in the army at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and attended West Point Preparatory School. In 1940 he was discharged from the army and immediately enlisted in the Air Corps. He received his training at Parks Air College, Randolph Field, Tex., Las Vegas, Nev., Ellington Field, and received his wings as a bombardier at Albuquerque, N. M., in April, 1941. On May 2, 1942, he sailed for England, and then served with General Spaatz in North Africa, where he was reported missing.

Heir-Raid

13-19 Sept. '43

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Virgil O. Cain, 738th Med. Tank Bn., boy, 13 Sept.

Pvt. and Mrs. Frank A. Woodland, Tank Co., 124th Inf. Regt., boy, 13 Sept.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. John E. Kelly, 13th Airborne Division, boy, 14 Sept.

Captain and Mrs. James A. Seab, boy, 14 Sept.

Pvt. and Mrs. Lois A. Carter, Sup. Det. Sup. Div. Sec. I, 4th SC, boy, 14 Sept.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Harry B. McCullough, Med. Det. Sec. I, Sta. Hosp., boy 14 Sept.

Pvt. and Mrs. Frank Simon, 54th Inf., Camp Gordon, boy, 14 Sept.

T-5 and Mrs. Emanuel Niebauer, Co. E, Acad. Regt., HSSC, girl, 14 Sept.

Sgt. and Mrs. Chester Woleyspz, Co. E, Inf. School, boy, 15 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Jack P. Ellis, 2d Bn., Prov. Truck Regt., boy, 15 Sept.

T-5 and Mrs. Stanley Zaborny, Hq. Co., 3rd STR, boy, 14 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. B. M. Moyrahan, Acad. Dept. Inf. School, girl, 16 Sept.

Pvt. and Mrs. Leotis Gist, Med. Det. Sec. II, 4th S. C., girl, 16 Sept.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Joseph L. Coones, Co. H, Acad. Regt., boy, 16 Sept.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Oran L. Culbertson, 2nd Co., 54th Inf. Regt., ASTP, girl, 16 Sept.

Captain and Mrs. William F. McClure, 1st Co., 1st STR, girl, 16 Sept.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Walter Dannel, B. C. School, boy, 16 Sept.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Andrew J. Adams, GSC, 7th Armored Div., girl, 17 Sept.

Pfc. and Mrs. James Holden, Cook Station Hospital, boy, 17 Sept.

Major and Mrs. John J. O'Conner, Acad. Dept. Inf. School, twins, boy and girl, 18 Sept.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Gene C. Moore, 272rd Engr. Regt., O. S. Camp Claiborne, girl, 19 Sept.

20-27 Sept. '43

Sgt. and Mrs. Roy A. Menashe, Co. A, 1st Prcht. Inf. Regt., boy, 20 Sept.

Cpl. and Mrs. Ralph Culner, Acad. Regt., Co. A, girl, 21 Sept.

Sgt. and Mrs. Herman C. Krohn, 1st Acad. Prcht. School, boy, 22 Sept.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Thomas H. Richey, 53rd General Hospital, boy, 22 Sept.

T-4 and Mrs. Benjamin F. Glass, Med. Det. Sect. I, Sta. Hosp., boy, 22 Sept.

WO and Mrs. Edward M. Golladay, Hq. School Troops Brig., boy, 23 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Camelo Sanfilippo, Station Comp. M. C., girl, 23 Sept.

Major and Mrs. Hugins, Acad. Regt., Inf. School, girl, 25 Sept.

Cpl. and Mrs. James H. Garner, Co. C, 124th Infantry, girl, 25 Sept.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Kenith E. Harsh, 4th Co. S Regt. ASTF, girl, 26 Sept.

Cpl. and Mrs. Murray Stern, 6th Co. 2nd Bn. 4th Trng. Regt. ASTP, girl, 26 Sept.

Capt. and Mrs. Francis A. Sadowski, 738th Tank Battalion, girl, 26 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Charles D. McConnel, Hq. Co. 1st Bn., 515th Prcht. Inf., boy, 27 Sept.

Woman's Club

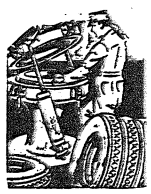
By KATHERINE HAMMARGREN

Mrs. Albert H. Dickerson, chairman of the membership committee of the Fort Benning Woman's Club, completed plans for the annual membership drive at a meeting with her committee Tuesday morning. Wives of officers stationed on the post form the committee, and they will make every effort to acquaint newcomers of the many advantages and privileges they will experience through becoming a part of this important post function.

Members of the committee, who will contact wives through their organizations, are: Mrs. Clifford T. Kershaw, tactical section; Mrs. Leonard R. Nachman, general subjects; Mrs. Bernard A. Byrne, communication section; Mrs. Wendell L. Clemenson, publications section; Mrs. H. G. Elliott, field artillery; Mrs. Frederic W. Oseth, Infantry board; Mrs. W. J. James, 7th Observation Squadron; Mrs. Edwin Cox, 176th Infantry; Mrs. R. N. Hill, 124th Infantry; Mrs. R. N. Hill, 124th Infantry; Mrs. H. J. Hunt, 300th Infantry; Mrs. Louis F. Mercardo, 244th Field Artillery Bn.; Mrs. J. J. Richardson, 764th Tank Bn., Mrs. Sevier R. Tupper, Student Training Brigade; Mrs. John S. Roosma, 1st Student Training Regiment; Mrs. E. P. Passailaigue, 2nd Student Training Regiment; Mrs. R. H. Lord, 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mrs. W. M. Spann, ASTP.

Mrs. K. S. Whittemore, 5th Regiment ASTP; Mrs. H. T. Bynum, 4th Regiment ASTP; Mrs. George H. Molony, 48th Armored Infantry Regiment; Mrs. J. W. Milner, 489th Armored Field Artillery Bn.; Mrs. J. E. Norvell, 440th Armored Field Artillery Bn.; Mrs. V. L. Boylan, 87th Armored Reconnaissance Bn.; Mrs. R. B. Wheeler, 40 Armored Regiment; Mrs. M. M. Beckwith, 538th Armored Infantry; Mrs. L. W. Meyers, 4th Hq. and Hq. Det.; Mrs. W. G. Branstadt, 43rd General Hospital; Mrs. J. F. Albert, Lawson Field; Mrs. E. A. Noyes, Station Hospital; Lieutenant June D. Watson, Chief of Army Nurses; Mrs. G. W. Ford, Bakers and Cooks School; Mrs. M. A. Groff, 1st Parachute Training Regiment; Mrs. A. H. Dickerson, 513th Parachute Infantry; Mrs. J. B. Lindsey, 515th Parachute Infantry; Mrs. H. E. Trice, 541st Parachute Infantry; Mrs. J. W. Coutts, Parachute School; Capt. Mary E. Herman, Lt. Jeanette Miller, and Lt. Doris E. Hough, WAC.

Assisting Mrs. Dickerson with the membership tables at the first meeting of the club will be Mrs. Charles H. Coates, Mrs. H. D. McHugh, Mrs. Charles W. Rich, Mrs. Mrs. P. G. Brill, Mrs. Allen C. Miller, Mrs. Julian B. Lindsey, Mrs. Coutts, Mrs. Holton, Mrs. John R. Weikel and Mrs. D. C. Kingman.



The opening meeting of the year be held October 4 at 2:30 p. m. (EWT in the main lounge of the Officers' Club, is always a brilliant and well-attended affair. At this time all wives of officers stationed at Fort Benning, officers of the Army Nurses Corps, and officers of the WAC are invited to become members of the club. The nominal fee charged for membership also includes participation in all group activities.

NEW CAFETERIA

A cafeteria in Service Club Number 7, in the Alabama area of Fort Benning has opened with the sale of sandwiches. Regular cafeteria meals are slated to be served this week, it was announced today by Miss Sarah Louise Head, director of the Club. Miss Elizabeth Heap, of Knoxville, Tenn., will be dietician of the cafeteria.

Genuine Cow Hide
GOLF BAGS with large zipper pocket
A $25.00 Value
This Week $13.95
GOODRICH
SILVERTOWN STORES
1315 Broadway Dial 2-3561

PAT PATTERSON 14th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED CHICKEN IN THIS TOWN
No. 1 KANSAS CITY STEAKS THAT'S REALLY TENDER
CAT FISH DINNERS GA. STYLE
COME OUT ON THE NORTH HIGHLAND BUS
BRING THE FAMILY TONIGHT!
Try Our Sea Food Course — 8 Private Dining Rooms

RECAPPING—VULCANIZING

We cater to
Ft. Benning Personnel
GASOLINE DELIVERY HOURS
10 A. M. to 10 P. M., CWT
THIGPEN
TIRE RECAPPING SERVICE
SHELL STATION 1201 - 13th ST.
PHENIX CITY FIVE POINTS

We Have the Gifts He Dreams About Over There.
Remember Him on Christmas Day by —MAILING NOW—
TOILET ARTICLES—KHAKI NOVELTY SETS
ALL TYPES OF GIFTS FOR YOUR BROTHERS, BUDDIES OVERSEAS
H. C. SMITH DRUG STORE
1002 BROADWAY DIAL 3-2746

Watch, Clock, and Jewelry Repairing
Quick Service
B & S JEWELRY CO.
1724 Hamilton Rd.
Dial 2-1064

NEW FALL COATS
Chesterfields are starred for this season!

What a wonderful coat! It will be the pride of your wardrobe, and a comfort on the coldest days! They are smart with sporty clothes, and dressy with dress up clothes.
SPORT COATS OF ALL KINDS
Sport coats are the thing for this wartime winter.
BLACKS AND COLORS
Priced at $25.00 to $69.75
Kayser-Lilienthal Inc
"The Shop of Original Styles"

For Benning's Men of Action
Rich's
OFFICERS UNIFORMS
Winter uniforms to provide you with unlimited service, expertly tailored to suit your many needs! They're especially designed to give extra comfort in action and to stand up under long, hard wear!
Elastique Blouse 32.50
Elastique Pants 12.00
Rich's Military Store
1236 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

O'NEILL'S PLACE
ON LIMITS
To All Military Personnel
DINE and DANCE
SQUARE DANCE
Wed.—Fri.—Sat.
O'NEILL'S PLACE
DIAL 9292 1 Mile on Opelika Highway

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

Post Chapel: Communion 6:30 a. m. Sunday school in the children's school house, 8:15 a. m. Women's Adult Bible Class meets with the Sunday school. (Mothers who bring their children to Sunday school invited to join.) Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "From Egypt's Bondage Come"—Page. Holy Communion: Chaplain Frederick W. Heller. Offertory: "Hymn of the Last Supper"—Demarest. Solo by Mrs. B. Franklin Wilson. Christian League 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Arnold K. Lewin.

4TH ARMORED

Protestant: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott) 10 a. m., Chaplain Pomeroy; Chapel No. 2 (13th & Bourg), 9 a. m., Chaplain Lewis; 6:00 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Lewis; Chapel No. 3 (10th & Scott), 8 a. m. (Communion), Chaplain Fell, 10 a. m., Chaplain Claud; 6 p. m. Chaplain Fell (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Claud; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 10 a. m. Chaplain Fell; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), 10 a. m. Chaplain Germak; 6 p. m. Chaplain Fahl; 11 a. m., Chaplain Johnson, 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Johnson; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), 10 a. m. Chaplain De La Vergne, 10 a. m., 6 p. m., Chaplain McLeod; Stockade, 1:30 p. m. Chaplain Germak.

Chapel Masses: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott), 6 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 2 (13th & Bourg), 8 a. m., Chaplain Lynch; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), Chaplain Keating, 11 a. m., Chaplain Keating; Theatre No. 6 (10th & Bourg), 10:30 a. m. Chaplain Lynch.

Jewish Service: Jewish service, conducted by Chaplain Arnold K. Lewin, Monday through Friday at 7:30 at Chapel No. 4, Sand Hill Area.

Provisional: Sunday services held for members of the Provisional Truck Regiment are as follows: 1st and 4th Battalions—Bible school at 10:00 a. m. Worship service at 11:00 a. m. Services will be held in Building No. 5215 in the service Battalion area of the Third Student Training Regiment. The 2nd and 3rd Battalions will hold Bible school at 9:45 a. m. and worship service at 11:30 a. m. Service held in Building No. 5201, Third Battalion area. Provisional Truck Regiment.

156th Infantry: Sunday morning worship service at 9:15 a. m. in the Main Post Chapel. Chaplain John Trotter.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 9:30 and 10:30 a. m. Communion each first Sunday morning. Lenten theme service 6:30 p. m. (Communion) each 2nd Sunday. Bible Hour, Thurs., 6:45 p. m. Chaplain Herman A. Mitchellie.

Lawson Field: Sunday morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday evening service at 8 p. m. Chaplain Geo. L. Forney.

Theatre No. 6, Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st STP, and Acad. Regt. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Communion service each Sunday at 11:30 a. m. in 4th Bn. Chaplain's office, 1st STR, Chaplain G. S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for the Det. Med. Dept 9:30 a. m. Also colored Det. Med. Dept services in colored day room at 9 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Recreation Hall, Sunday school at 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:45 a. m. Chaplain Isaac McDonald.

306th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Evening vespers, 7:45 p. m. Chaplains Robt. D. Jones and Charles D. Daniel.

176th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 9:15 a. m. in main post chapel. Chaplain Arnold Lewin.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Main Post Chapel: Tuesday evenings 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 6391.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

194th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Lutheran service at 10:15 a. m. General Protestant service at 11:15 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and C. M. Ritchie.

2nd STR: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chaplain William Willingham. Sunday school and worship 8:15 a. m. for Service Bn.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 4, Regimental services at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain A. E. Billman. Also Regimental services at 11 a. m. in "The Chapel In The Grove." Chaplain George Kirshbaum. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 8 a. m. in the 862rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 51st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward Hq., ASTP: Chapel No. 4: Morning worship, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey.

4th Trg. Regt., ASTP: Bldg. E-16: Services for 1st Bn. 10 a. m. Chaplain Theodore Bachelor; 3rd Bn., Bldg. 4367, 8:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Services 8:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Catholic mass, 8 a. m., 4th Bn., 4th Trg. Regt., Bldg. 4367, Kelly and Anton Roads; Bible class, 9 a. m. Protestant service, 9:30 a. m., 4th Bn. in 4th Bn. amphitheater. Geo. A. Ritchey, chaplain.

5th Trg. Regt., ASTP: 8:30 a. m. Catholic mass in The Grove; 10:30 a. m. Protestant services in Theater No. 12. Chaplain Bertges.

6th Trg. Regt.—9 a. m. Catholic mass, Bldg. 8005; 10:30 a. m. general Protestant services, Bldg. 8005. Chaplain Bachelor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Harmony Church Area. Chapel No. 5. Friday evening 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 6391.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4 Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 5-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Hospital in Ward 5-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Hospital in Ward 5-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m. in Chapel No. 2, located north of the Headquarters area. Mass at 10:30 a. m. (colored troops) and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, rounding No. 5201, located on the 8th Division Road and Gusseta Road Harmony Church Area at 9 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

112th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 2 Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the children's school, corner Baltzell Ave. and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service. A reception by the Jewish Welfare Board usually concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd, 4th, and 5th Student Training Regiments, the Infantry School WAC Detachment, A.S.T.P. Headquarters and 788th and 764th Tank Bns.: Every Sunday at 9 a. m. in War Dept. Theatre No. 9 (Bldg. 46), 8th Div. Road

3rd Student Training Regiment Area.

For men in the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 801st and 244th F. A. Bns., and 3534th Ordnance Company: Every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bldg. B-7, 2nd Student Training Regiment Area.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the children's school, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service. A reception by the Jewish Welfare Board usually concludes the evening.

For members of the 3rd and 5th Student Regiments, The Infantry School WAC Detachment, Station Hospital No. 2 and A.S.T.P. Headquarters: Every Sunday at 9 a. m. in Bldg. 5786, 5th Student Regiment Area.

For men in the 4th and 5th Student Regiments, 124th Infantry, 244th and 222nd Field Artillery Bns., and 523rd Ord. Co. Every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Bldg. 4367 4th Student Reg. Area.

For men in the Sand Hill Area: Every Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. in Chapel No. 4.

Women's Activities

WOMAN'S CLUB

General meeting of Fort Benning Woman's Club Monday, October 4, at 2:30 p. m. EWT, in main lounge of the Officers' Club.

RED CROSS

Work Room

Surgical dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. J. H. McFall; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. William Hufstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes, Mrs. William Denton, chairman.

Sewing and knitting—Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. James H. McDonough; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

STAFF ASSISTANCE CORPS—On duty at Work Room, Friday, October 1, Mrs. Axling and Mrs. Kibbe; Monday, October 4, Mrs. Creighton and Mrs. Chapman; Tuesday, October 5, Mrs. Herri sand Mrs. Hammargren; Wednesday, October 6, Mrs. Tuttle and Mrs. Chapman; Thursday, October 7, Mrs. Dulin and Mrs. Grimes.

GREY LADIES—On duty at Station Hospital, Friday, October 1, Captain, Mrs. Venable; Library, a. m., Mrs. Finnegan, p. m., Mrs. Hardy; Recreation Hall, a. m., Mrs. Glines; Arts and Crafts Shop, a. m., Mrs. Holton. Wards: Mesdames Shine, Rosenberger, Overfelt, Chase.

Saturday, October 2: Captain, Mrs. Branstadt; Library, a. m., Mrs. Holton, p. m., Mrs. Whitemore; wards, Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Mills.

Monday, October 4: Captain, Mrs. Elliott; Wards, Mrs. Spann, Mrs. D. Lewis, Mrs. McCormick; Library, a. m., Mrs. Griffith, p. m., Mrs. R. Lewis; Recreation Hall, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford, p. m., Mrs. McKee; Arts and Crafts Shop, a. m., Mrs. Spann, p. m., Mrs. Turner.

Tuesday, October 5: Captain, Mrs. Finnegan; Wards, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Whittemore; Library, a. m., Mrs. Roogma, p. m., Mrs. Griffith; floor, Mrs. Gold; Arts and Crafts Shop,* p. m., Mrs. Sanders.

Wednesday, October 6: Captain, Mrs. Perrine; Wards, Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Walter Smith; Library, a. m., Mrs. Venable.

Thursday, October 7: Captain, Mrs. Hardy; wards, Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Gold; Library, a. m., Mrs. Ruther-ford, p. m., Mrs. Rosenberger; *Arts and Crafts Shop, Mrs. Holton, a. m., Mrs. Spann, p. m.

MOTOR CORPS—Headquarters at Red Cross Work Room. Telephone 2058 for Motor Corps to pick up magazines you are discarding. On duty Friday, October 1, Mrs. Davis; Monday, October 4, Mrs. Miles; Tuesday, October 5, Mrs. Bronkhorst; Wednesday, October 6, Mrs. Tarr; Thursday, October 7, Mrs. Tuttle. Lieutenant in charge, Mrs. Tarr.

STANDARD FIRST AID—New standard first aid course will start the last of October. Mrs. H. C. Chapman will instruct. Watch Bayonet for registration dates.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

SEPT. 30

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:55 P.M.—Harsch and the news—WRBL
8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Chorus—WRBL
9:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS
10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU
11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

OCT. 1

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—Kate Smith—CBS
8:30 P.M.—The Thin Man—CBS
8:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU
9:30 P.M.—That Brewster Boy—CBS
10:00 P.M.—Camel Caravan—WRBL
10:45 P.M.—Elmer Davis, News

OCT. 2

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
2:30 P.M.—Spirit of '43—CBS
3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL
4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL
5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC
7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU
7:00 P.M.—Report to the Nation—CBS
7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"Enough And On Time"—BLU
8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS

OCT. 3

5:00 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—WRBL
5:45 P.M.—Doctors Courageous—CBS
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—
6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL
7:00 P.M.—The Commandos—CBS
7:30 P.M.—The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS
7:30 P.M.—"We, The People"—WRBL
8:15 P.M.—We Cover the Battlefronts—CBS
9:00 P.M.—Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO"—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—Fred Allen—CBS
10:00 P.M.—Take It or Leave It—CBS
10:30 P.M.—Man Behind the Gun—CBS

OCT. 4

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—
5:45 P.M.—Keep the Homefires Burning—CBS
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarterhour—WRBL
8:30 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning" Variety show, featuring the 300th Inf. Band—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

OCT. 5

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Sandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:55 P.M.—Harsch and News—CBS
7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Service"—NBC
8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast
9:00 P.M.—Burns and Allen—CBS

OCT. 6

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—Sammy Kaye—CBS
9:30 P.M.—Milton Berle & Co.—CBS

Boys' Activities

Monday through Saturday — Football practice at Doughboy Stadium, 5:45 p. m.

Friday—Scout Troop 11, 7:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Saturday—Cub Pack Number 1, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Ranger Battalion, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Movies

MAIN THEATER AND THEATER NO. 8

Sept. 30-Oct. 1—A LADY TAKES A CHANCE — Jean Arthur and John Wayne.

Oct. 2—SUBMARINE ALERT—Richard Arlen and Wendy Barrie.
THE GOOD FELLOWS—Cecil Kellaway and Mabel Paige.

Oct. 3-4—THANK YOUR LUCKY STARS—All Star Cast.

Oct. 5—HOSTAGES—Luise Rainer and Paul Lukas.

THEATERS NO. 2 AND 3

Sept. 30—CLAUDIA—Dorothy McGuire and Robert Young.

Oct. 1—HOLY MATRIMONY—Gracie Fields and Monty Woolley.

Oct. 2-3—A LADY TAKES A CHANCE—Jean Arthur and John Wayne.

Oct. 4—SUBMARINE ALERT—Richard Arlen and Wendy Barrie.
THE GOOD FELLOWS—Cecil Kellaway and Mabel Paige.

Oct. 5-6—THANK YOUR LUCKY STARS—All Star Cast.

THEATERS NO. 4 AND 5

Sept. 30-Oct. 1—SWEET ROSIE O'GRADY—Betty Grable and Robert Young.

Oct. 2—CLAUDIA—Dorothy McGuire and Robert Young.

Oct. 3—HOLY MATRIMONY—Gracie fields and Monty Woolley.

Oct. 4-5—A LADY TAKES A CHANCE—Jean Arthur and John Wayne.

Oct. 6—SUBMARINE ALERT—Richard Arlen and Wendy Barrie.
THE GOOD FELLOWS—Cecil Kellaway and Mabel Paige.

THEATERS NO. 6 AND 7

Sept. 30—JOHNNY COME LATELY—James Cagney and Grace George.

Oct. 1—PIRED WIFE—Diana Barrymore and Robert Paige.

Oct. 2-3—SWEET ROSIE O'GRADY—Betty Grable and Robert Young.

Oct. 4—CLAUDIA—Dorothy McGuire and Robert Young.

Oct. 5—HOLY MATRIMONY—Gracie Fields and Monty Woolley.

Oct. 6—A LADY TAKES A CHANCE—Jean Arthur and John Wayne.

THEATERS NO. 9 AND 11

Sept. 30—BEST FOOT FORWARD—Lucille Ball and Harry James.

Oct. 1—THE FALLEN SPARROW—John Garfield and Maureen O'Hara.

Oct. 2—MY KINGDOM FOR A COOK—Charles Coburn and Isabel Elson.

Oct. 3-4—JOHNNY COME LATELY—James Cagney and Grace George.

Oct. 5—SUBMARINE ALERT—Richard Arlen and Wendy Barrie.
THE GOOD FELLOWS—Cecil Kellaway and Mabel Paige.

Oct. 6—SWEET ROSIE O'GRADY—Betty Grable and Robert Young.

THEATRE NO. 10

Sept. 30—MY KINGDOM FOR A COOK—Charles Coburn and Isabel Elson.

Oct. 1-2—JOHNNY COME LATELY—James Cagney and Grace George.

Oct. 3—SUBMARINE ALERT—Richard Arlen and Wendy Barrie.
THE GOOD FELLOWS—Cecil Kellaway and Mabel Paige.

Oct. 4-5—SWEET ROSIE O'GRADY—Betty Grable and Robert Young.

Oct. 6—CLAUDIA—Dorothy McGuire and Robert Young.

THEATER NO. 12

Sept. 30—PIRED WIFE—Diana Barrymore and Robert Paige.

Oct. 1-2—BEST FOOT FORWARD—Lucille Ball and Harry James.

Oct. 3—HOSTAGES—Luise Rainer and Paul Lukas.

Oct. 4—WATCH ON THE RHINE—Bette Davis and Paul Lukas.

Oct. 5-6—JOHNNY COME LATELY—James Cagney and Grace George.

2 Medals Given Col. Baughman

Posthumous Award Of Bronze Oak Cluster, Legion Merit Made

Awards of the Bronze Oak Leaf Cluster and the Legion of Merit to the late Colonel Richard L. Baughman, formerly of Fort Benning, has been announced by the War Department. The colonel was transferred to Washington, and he was killed in an airplane accident on a routine flight near Saxe, Va., in June of this year.

The posthumous award was made for exceptionaly meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services. As chief of the officer instructor group covering mechanical training and marksmanship of the M-1 rifle, carbine and sub-machine gun at the Infantry school, Fort Benning, Georgia, from June 24, 1940, to Feb. 10, 1943, Colonel Baughman, through untiring work and originality, was instrumental in developing new and effective training methods and expedients. During his entire service as an instructor there, he exhibited outstanding leadership, ability and initiative. As assistant to the assistant chief of staff, G-3, army ground forces, from Feb. 11, 1943, to June 30, 1943, Colonel Baughman was chief of the infantry branch, training division. In this position he contributed much to the successful training of infantry units, thus insuring their early departure for theaters of operation.

7th Armored 'Ugly' Mascot Passes Away

FORT BENNING, Ga.— "Old Ugly" is dead—and this is one of the saddest stories that has ever emanated from the 7th Armored Division Public Relations Office, because only yesterday she was alive — very much alive. She posed. The photographer, skilled in his business, told us that she had good blood. We believe in good blood, good stock. She had never been in a dog show or won any prizes but she came with a piece of rope dangling from her neck-an-ugly-that's what they first called her—but she became to be a lady—and the 7th Armored Division had, more than less, adopted her as a mascot.

Jol. Jesse P. Bellamy, Division Finance Officer, whose business it is to pay each and every one of the men, took a liking to "Ugly" didn't ever like the name they called her. He saw that she had food and shelter. Every one of the officers of the Division Staff Officer's mess helped to feed her. Lt. John C. Hudson would place her food some place where she would get it. Finally she became tame enough to know that she was at home. She was loyal. She never went away from Headquarters—until she was carried away by the military.

And so it is. Men, important men, men with a mien that counts, still have time enough time to share their friendship with he animals of the world—life and living.

Navy Official's Sons In Army

Sons of an assistant to the secretary of the navy, John G. (Jack) Norris and William B. (Brad) Norris, officer candidates in the Third Student Training Regiment of the infantry school, claim it was their father, not they, who upset family tradition in the choice of military service.

Their father, they explain, was an army captain during the last war. As a business engineer, he went to Washington recently to make an efficiency report on the Navy Department and did such a good job he was kept there.

Jack is an Eighth Company candidate while Brad is sweating out the gold bars in the Third Company.

3rd STR Grads Lauded For Guadalcanal Action

Seven graduates of the Third Student Training Regiment have been listed by a military observer as outstanding among those commissioned through The Infantry School on the basis of their conduct in action on Guadalcanal. The officers mentioned in the report, the companies from which they were graduated and the dates of graduation follow:

Second Lieuts. Martin C. Nelson, 14th Company, Nov. 16, 1942; Russell H. Self, 28th Company, Dec. 12, 1942; Forrest P. Geyer, 29th Company, Dec. 19, 1942; Everett Q. Walters, 16th Company, Nov. 23, 1942 ;Alfred P. Pollick; 23rd Company, Dec. 7, 1942; Everett C. Hamaker, 26th Company, Nov. 13, 1942; Arthur J. Perry, 14th Company, date unknown.

All of the foregoing officers have been attached to the same infantry unit, according to the observer's report, which was sent to the assistant commandant of The Infantry School upon the latter's request. The report goes into considerable detail on the qualities of the officers in the Guadalcanal command and concludes with the following statement:

"In general, it can be safely said that the commanders in the Southeast and South Pacific Theaters are firm believers in the principle of Officer Candidate Schools, that they want junior officers who have undergone such training and that, in particular, they expect a great deal from the graduate of the school at this station. In these high expectations are embodied both their general approval of the training and a standard for the school to live up to."

Some of these Officer Candidate School graduates felt that their course at The Infantry School could have been longer. Since those men were graduated, however, the course has been lengthened to 17 weeks instead of 13.

An interesting observation in the report regarding the quality of Officer Candidate School graduate as junior officers follows: In the time available for carrying out these investigations none of the officers consulted was in a position to give any percentage or any figures concerning the number of failures of OCS graduates in the field.

"It was clear, however, that when compared to the number of officers in the theaters, they were not so numerous as to cast any strong suspicion that the methods of selection or the instruction they had received were radically wrong. In the speed with which officers of this grade had to be produced is taken into consideration."

CAPTAIN WELSH

Jay Miller Welsh, Jr., has been promoted to the rank of captain. Capt. Welsh was inducted in April of 1941 and assigned to the 13th Infantry at Fort Jackson where he was selected in February of 1942, to attend Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning. Upon being commissioned in May of 1942 he was assigned as a tactical officer to the Second Student Training Regiment.

Frankie Phillipson Gets Sports Trophy

At the Third Student Training Regiment's Service Battalion musical show in the Outdoor theater last Thursday night, Frankie Phillipson was awarded a 23-inch trophy by Col. Robert H. Lord, the regimental commander. This trophy was awarded to "Fighting" Frankie for his outstanding achievements in three major sports the past year, football, basketball and baseball.

On the Panther baseball team, Frankie regularly played shortstop and did an excellent job as a relief pitcher on numerous occasions. His power at the bat also broke up a number of baseball games. He was a forward on the basketball team that won the post championship last year and took third place in the Army Conference tournament at Tuskegee Institute. He is quarterback on the Panther football team.

When observing at night, try and get where the object will be silhouteted against the sky and its outline will become clear.

DAY'S TAXI CO.
1401 1ST AVE.
DIAL 3-3611

Attention!
Officer Candidates
SEE OUR DISPLAY AT
FORT BENNING
or visit our store for complete
• UNIFORMS
• CAPS—INSIGNIA
• TIES—SLACKS
• SHIRTS
• MILITARY SUPPLIES
• TRENCH COATS
• LUGGAGE
We guarantee 100 per cent delivery of all goods purchased. . . . .
We deliver 1 week prior to graduation.
Open Saturday 'Til 10:30 P. M.
Open week days 'Til 3:30 P. M.
Fort Benning Time
LEVINSON BROS.
1220 BROADWAY DIAL 3-3061

DIRK KNIVES
For HIM Overseas For Christmas
So don't forget to mail one to him before October 15.
Priced at $3.50, $4.50, $5.95, $7.95
Bentley's
1305 Broadway Dial 7365

Gifts - Antiques
Shop Early for Christmas!
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

Columbus' Only Store
Catering Exclusively to Benning's
Colored Personnel
LEE'S MILITARY STORE
Large Selection of O. D. and Winter Uniforms
Military Watches and Watch Repair
602 - 8th STREET

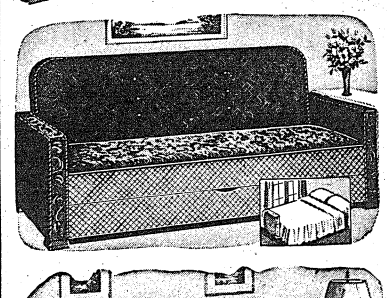
PLAYING AT COLUMBUS THEATERS

BRADLEY
—Fri.-Sat.—
Jane Frazee -in- Alan Jones
RHYTHM of the ISLANDS
—Sun.-Mon.-Tues.—
John Carroll -in- Anne Lee -in- John Wayne
--in--
"THE FLYING TIGERS"
—Wed.-Thurs.—
Gary Cooper -in- George Raft
"THE SOULS AT SEA"

ROYAL
—Fri.-Sat.—
Preston Foster -in- Roddy McDowell
"MY FRIEND FLICKA"
—Midnite Show & Sun.-Mon.—
Ann Baxter -in- Tyrone Power
"CRASH DIVE"
—Tues.-Wed.—
Guy Kibbie -in- Gloria Warren
"CINDERELLA SWINGS"
—Thursday—
"DESERT VICTORY"
—and—
Andrew Sisters -in- Robert Paige
"HOW'S ABOUT IT?"

RIALTO
—Thurs.-Fri.-Sat.—
ROY ROGERS
--in--
"SILVER SPURS"
—Midnite Show & Sun.-Mon.—
Ida Lupino -in- Dennis Morgan -in- Joan Leslie
"THE HARD WAY"
—Tuesday—
DEAD-END KIDS
"KEEP 'EM SLUGGING"
—Wed.-Thurs.—
Simon Simone -in- Dennis O'Keith
"TAHITI HONEY"

SPRINGER
—Thurs.-Fri.—
DEANNA DURBIN
--in--
"AMAZING MRS. HOLLIDAY"
—Saturday—
BOB STEELE
--in--
'DEMON FOR TROUBLE'
—Sun.-Mon.—
Bud Abbott -in- Lou Costello
"WHO DONE IT"
—Tues.-Wed.—
Jeanette McDonald -in- Robert Young
"CAIRO"



DOG & CAT HOSPITAL
Complete Hospital Service
Bathing and Grooming
DR E. A. DAVIS
1006 - 13th St Dial 8871

ATTENTION!!
1941 Plymouth Spec. Dlx. Station Wagon. Radio. Heater. Extra Good Tires. The body and upholstery are absolutely like new.
IF YOU NEED A STATION WAGON DON'T FAIL TO SEE
THIS ONE $50.00 OTHERS TO $2995.00
—OPEN EVENINGS—
JORDAN & HOLMES MOTOR CO.
17th and 3rd Avenue Dial 8931

Daveno Bed Clearance Sale!
YOU ACTUALLY SAVE $10.07 ON EACH ONE

Now is the time to buy that daveno bed or sofa bed you've been wanting! Sears is having a clearance . . . with an actual saving of $10.07 on each one. All have fine quality coverings — some velours — some in tapestry. Three money-saving price groups to choose from.

3-ATTRACTIVE PRICE GROUPS ALL REDUCED FOR CLEARANCE
Reg. $44.95 DAVENO GROUP 34.88
Reg. $$64.95 DAVENO GROUP 54.88
Reg. $69.95 DAVENO GROUP 59.88
THE NATIONS BEST BUY $25 WAR BONDS $18.75
BUY ON SEARS EASY PAYMENT PLAN
PURCHASES AMOUNTING TO $10.00 OR MORE MAY BE MADE ON SEARS EASY PAYMENT PLAN
SEARS ROEBUCK and CO. serving America since 1886
1221 BROADWAY DIAL 3-4351 COLUMBUS, GA.

Help Yourself By Helping Others; Give Generously To The War Fund

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 2, NUMBER 3 — Published by The Ledger-Enquirer Co. — FORT BENNING, GA., OCTOBER 7, 1943 — For America's Most Complete Post — PRICE FIVE CENTS

NEW INNER-FORT BUS SYSTEM gets under way this week on the main post. This stop being made on Wold Avenue is being taken advantage of by three mothers, who plan to save much in gas and tires by the new convenience. Those in the picture are: Left to tright, Mrs. A. F. Suprenant with Andrea and Nancy Suprenant; Mrs. H. S. Lindsay with Gail Lindsay, and Mrs. Edwin A. McPhail with Edwin A. McPhail, Jr. The vehicle pictured is operating on route No. 3 of the five routes. A map showing the streets following by the different routes will appear in the next issue of the Bayonet. The buses are operated under the direction of Capt. Chas. W. McKeown, and are dispatched serviced and maintained by the Post Motor Pool. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Post Doubles Bond Quota During 3d War Loan Drive

$800,000 Cash Sales Set New All-Time High

Surpassing all previous expectations, soldiers and civilians at Fort Benning purchased more than $1,000,000 in War Bonds during the 3rd War Loan Drive to give the post its largest single month of Bond purchases since the program was inaugurated in May, 1942.

Major George Fink, post war bond officer, noted that cash purchases for the 3rd war bond campaign totaled $800,000, which is in addition to the regularly subscribed $200,000 in pay reservations. The million dollar figure doubles Benning's original, self-set quota of $500,000.

R. P. Richardson, local postmaster, announced that cash sales handled by the post office had reached an all-time high during the last month with the total soaring to $176,793. The previous highest month was November, 1942 during the 1st war loan drive, when purchases reached $113,231.25.

At the same time post finance authorities revealed that they had handled their largest single month's sale with purchases totaling $59,425. This more than doubled the figure reported last week, $23,050.

1ST STR LEADS

Best organizational record was established by the 1st. Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School, whose members invested $235,148.80 during the drive, to make up almost one half of the school's $493,332.

Other units with outstanding purchases were the station hospital's medical detachments which reported cash sales of $28,061.50 in addition to pay reservations. Two detachments of the Infantry School reported 100 per cent cash sales, every member buying a bond during September. These were the WAC Detachment, and the Special Service Detachment.

Post civilians during the drive purchased additional bonds amounting to $22,260.65. Most of these are already subscribing 10 percent of their salary regularly under the pay reservation plan.

Major Fink also announced that a steady flow of applications for monthly deductions has been received and these are expected to rise sharply.

Hobson Will Direct Post

Colonel William H. Hobson is expected to arrive at Fort Benning at the end of the week where he will succeed Brig. General Walter S. Fulton, retired, as commanding officer of the post. Colonel Hobson had been previously assigned to duties in Washington. He has served at Fort Benning on previous occasions and is well known by military personnel here.

Colonel Hobson was born September 5, 1888, in Sommerville, Tenn. He is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, class of 1912. In 1924 was graduated from General Staff School and in 1935 from the Army War College.

His first post was in Fort Snelling, Minn., where he served until he was assigned to Fort Thomas in 1914. He then went to Laredo, Texas, in 1916. A year later he was sent to the Panama Canal Zone for a brief tour of duty and then went to the 31st Infantry in the Philippines, where he served through 1917.

COMES SOUTH

In 1916 he was made a first lieutenant; in 1918 he went to the Inspector General's Department in Washington, then to Charleston, S. C., as assistant inspector of the Southeastern Department.

In 1919 he became P. M. S. & T. at Georgetown University, Washington. He became a captain in 1917, major in 1920. He came to Fort Benning in 1934 as executive officer of the Second Battalion of the 29th Infantry. He went to the War College in 1935, when he was promoted to lieutenant colonel. He then returned to

See HOBSON, Page 7

It Was Curtains For Him When She Saw 'Em!

When the 300th Infantry Regiment opened the football season at Fort Benning in a game which it won from the 124th Infantry Regiment Sunday, the traditional Army mule tramped into Doughboy Stadium. In front of the mule marched a soldier, brandishing a long shiny sword—the 300th is nicknamed the Sabers—and over his back was draped a long cape.

The entire get-up made a hit with everybody in the stands — until the parade passed in front of Mrs. Robert Russell, wife of Lt. Russell, the Sabers' Special Service Officer. She let out an anguished scream and shrieked "Those are my good curtains."

Seems she had given the curtains to her husband several weeks ago with the admonition to put them up in his office. Lt. Russell is still trying to explain that he considered the curtains more effectively used in the form of the cape.

Blood Donor Registration Over Oct. 9

7th Armored, TIS To Supply 400 Soldier Volunteers

Registration at Fort Benning of soldiers' wives and civilians who wish to volunteer their blood to the Red Cross Mobile Blood Donor Unit which returns to the post October 13-15, will close Saturday, it was announced today by Ralph J. Mitchell, director of the American Red Cross at Fort Benning.

Registration of civilians on the post began Tuesday at headquarters of the Fort Benning branch of the Red Cross from the hours of nine to five. Quota for civilian donors is set at 200 persons. They will donate their blood on October 15, the last day the Unit will be at the post.

Soldier volunteers from the 7th Armored Division, which is stationed in the Sand Hill area of the post, will fill the quota of 200 donors for October 13, while the Infantry School will furnish 200 volunteers for October 14.

Stressing the importance of blood donations to go to the plasma reserves which are destined to give new life to members of the armed forces injured in the course of battle, Mitchell referred to a recent statement by General Dwight D. Eisenhower who said, "The use of plasma quickly after a fighter is wounded constitutes the most important single advance in the surgical treatment of the wounded in this war."

PROCESSING PROCEDURE

Mitchell, who stated that blood donated here will be sent to Cincinnati, also revealed the procedure by which the blood is processed. As soon as the blod is secured. As soon as the blood is secured and then shipped to the

See BLOOD, Page 7

Post Prepares For War Fund Inc. Offering

Soldiers May Make Free-Will Contributions To Chest Oct. 15-25

Col. Thornton Chase, Adjutant of the Infantry School, has been named chairman of War Fund committee accepting contributions of all elements of the Infantry School, Brig. General Walter S. Fulton announced late Wednesday.

Lt. Col. J. D. Rosenberger, Jr., post adjutant, has been named general chairman of Fourth Service Command, Station Complement for the National War Fund Drive slated for October 15-25, Brig. General Walter S. Fulton, Muscogee County general chairman, announces.

Colonel Rosenberger announced the appointment of Lt. Richard E. Tilley, assistant public relations officer, post headquarters, as chairman for military personnel in the Station Complement, while Alex Sears, civilian employe at post headquarters, will head the committee for civilian personnel in the Station Complement of the post.

PLANS MADE

General Fulton stated that his co-workers at Fort Benning will set up machinery for receiving free-will contributions through the several units assigned to Fort Benning. Chairmen of other com-

See POST, Page 7

Ration Book With Airplane Stamp Must Be Returned

Books To Be Processed At Sixteenth Street School, Columbus

Military personnel at Fort Benning who received war ration book No. 3 with the "airplane" stamps included are required to turn them in immediately, it was announced today by Sgt. Louis Lipp, secretary of the Ft. Benning branch of the Muscogee County ration board.

Instructions to have such stamps turned in were received from headquarters of the county board inn Columbus, he said, when it was learned that many officers and enlisted men living on separate rations had sent in their applications for book 3 together with their families, instead of separately as is required for military personnel.

In some instances, through misunderstanding of the regulations, military personnel had simply included their owns names when applying for the family ration books. When that was done, they received book 3 with the airplane stamps intact, whereas for military personnel, these stamps have been removed.

Sgt. Lipp explained that this particular group of stamps is for shoes and several other things that do not affect military personnel. Those who did receive books with these stamps are required to take them to the offices of the county board at the Sixteenth Street school in Columbus, where the books will be properly processed.

At the same time, it was pointed out that in some cases, military personnel had applied with their families for book 3, and then later had sent in individual applications, under the rules for supplying the books to soldiers. Some therefore received two books. They are requested now to bring in both books so that proper forms may be filled out to keep their records in order. It was pointed out that the soldier may send a member of the family to handle the transaction for him.

Infantry School Makes More Staff Changes

Colonels Hill, Lord, Passailaigue Affected In Major Shifts

Three more changes within the commands of The Infantry School have been announced, one of them involving a transfer which had already been made last week.

Col. John D. Hill, formerly commander of the 124th Infantry, who was assigned to the Academic Regiment, has been reassigned to the command of the Third Student Training Regiment.

He succeeds Col. Robert H. Lord who has now taken over the Student Training Brigade.

The third change involves Col. Edward P. Passailaigue who has been assigned to the Academic Regiment as its commanding officer. Col. Passailaigue is a former commander of the First Battalion in the Third Student Training Regiment but more recently has commanded the Second Student Training Regiment. The latter regiment has now been inactivated.

Col. Hill took over the command of the 124th in November 1942, shortly after he had completed the Battalion Commanders and Staff Officers' course at The Infantry School. He was a reserve officer who gained his colonelcy in 1934 and was recalled to active duty at the BIRTC, Fort McClellan, Ala., early in 1942.

He was born in Castleberry, Ala., in 1890 and was graduated from University Military School in 1908. He attended Vanderbilt for one year and was later graduated from the University of

See TIS, Page 7

Bayonet Sponsors War Bond Contest

All you G. I. versifiers, prosers, and cartoonists sharpen up your individual and collective wits because the BAYONET is going to sponsor another big contest for military personnel on the post.

In November 11 the paper will celebrate the Silver Anniversary of the founding of Fort Benning with a big issue carrying, not only historical information concerning the post and its present components but original contributions submitted by officer and enlisted personnel stationed here.

Six big prizes consisting of War Bonds will be offered under three categories. First prizes will consist of $50 War Bonds for the best cartoon submitted, either serious or comic, for the best piece of verse, and for the best prose offering, be it a feature story, editorial, sketch or short fiction. Three second prizes consisting of $25 War Bonds will also be offered.

All contributions are to be sent to the editor of the BAYONET, care Public Relations Office, Post Headquarters, through channels. That is, contest material must be sent through the Public Relations officer of the various units to which contributors are assigned, and they in turn will see to it that it reaches us. Contributions must be started through channels in order to get to us by noon, Thursday, November 4.

Entries will be submitted to a committee of judges, and successful contestants will receive their prizes some time soon after publication of the special issue.

Okeh, G. I.'s. We're ready in the pits. Commence . . . firing!!!

7TH ARMORED OD

Men of the Seventh Armored Division will discard their cotton khaki uniforms over the week end and will fall out for reveille Monday in their olive drab uniforms.

See APPLICATION, Page 7

Application Due For Gas Books

Military personnel owning automobiles may make application immediately for their renewal of basic "A" ration gasoline coupon books, it was announced this week by Sgt. Louis Lipp, secretary of the Fort Benning branch of the Muscogee county rationing board.

Current "A" books will expire Nov. 8, under the new ruling which cuts down the time on the books from the previous date of Nov. 21. This was done in order to make "A" coupons good for two gallons a week instead of one and a half.

To avoid delay in receiving the ration books, automobile drivers are urged to secure blanks, fill them in, and return them as soon as possible. They may be returned by mail or in person to Sergeant Lipp's office at the Provost Marshal's office at Fort Benning.

Blanks will be made available at the Exchange Garage, filling stations, the Lawson Field Provost Marshal's office, Military Police headquarters at Sand Hill, and at the filling station in Harmony church.

Applications must be completely filled out by the applicant, and the old "A" book must be filled out properly on the reverse and attached. If one or more tires have

See APPLICATION, Page 7

Starnes Named Hospital CO

Col. Noyes Ordered To Take Command Of Cushing Hospital

Colonel William L. Starnes will shortly assume command of the Fort Benning Station Hospital, succeeding Col. Edward A. Noyes who has been ordered to Framingham, Mass., where he will be commanding officer of Cushing General Hospital.

At present Colonel Starnes is commanding officer of Station Hospital Number 2 in the Harmony Church Area. He first came to Benning as a captain in 1929 and has served several tours of duty here during the past 14 years.

Before taking command of the convalescent unit in Harmony Church, Col. Starnes was execu-

See STARNES, Page 7

Ex-German Paratrooper Is Now Yank Jumper; Itches For Action Against Nazis

At 14 he was a German paratrooper. Today, four years later, he became an American paratrooper, having completed the training at the U. S. Army Parachute School at Fort Benning.

His name isn't Fritz, but it might be, and for the sake of relatives still in the old country, it will suffice.

He thinks American parachute training is tops and is itching to get into combat against the Nazis. He wants to avenge the death of his mother and two aunts who recently succumbed in German concentration camps.

"It is going to be a rugged fight, but I am firmly convinced that America is going to win. The main weakness of the American soldier is his good-naturedness. He fails to realize until the last minute that anyons wants to kill him," Fritz pointed out.

"The German soldier is good. We must realize that. He is trained for war, and has good leaders, on the contrary to popular belief, the Nazi enlisted man is trained as a potential leader and can take over at a moment's notice. I know. I trained with them from the age of nine until four years ago, when I left Germany."

TOO RIGID DISCIPLINE

"Their discipline is rigid, too rigid. It is false, not spontaneous as the American. Yet their mor-

See EX, Page 7

Infantry School's Staff Of Current War Heroes Is Gradually Growing Larger

Battle-Wise Men Share Experiences With Uninitiated

The parade of World War II decorations and campaign ribbons is growing ever longer at The Infantry School, and that is a very significant note.

It is significant because these decorations and ribbons indicate that valuable lessons, learned the hard way—by actual battle experience—are being made available to students of The Infantry School.

The School has never been content to confine its curricula to the mechanics of a text book. It has long practiced the theory of learning by doing. And in that vein, it is constantly augmenting its theories of warfare by the practical application of those theories through instruction by men who have had the opportunity to test them out in the current war.

"It is a convincing consolidation of new knowledge that is being instilled in Infantry officers and officer candidates here at Fort Benning.

"Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, the new commandant, brings with him a fresh concept gained as commander of the United Nations forces in Iceland. A veteran of World War I and holder of the DSM, he has held several important commands. Also he was an instructor at the School at one time.

"His predecessor, Maj. Gen. Leven C. Allen, who was given a new and important assignment last week, and Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, assistant commandant, under whose guidance the school has flourished during the period of rapid expansion, fought gallantly in World War I as captains of machine gun companies. Gen. Allen was wounded and awarded the Purple Heart; Gen. Weems was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star and French Croix de Guerre. Since that war, they have been prominently associated with army schools."

There isn't an officer among those returning who cannot contribute something important in instruction to the course to which he is assigned. 'Returning' is used advisedly because all infantry officers have been associated with The Infantry School at one time or other, as instructors or students.

The new instructors have been widely scattered in the various instructional sections of the School. Some have been assigned to the Tactical Section; others to the Weapons, Communications, to Physical Training and General Subjects sections.

They've fought in Tunisia, Algeria, French Morocco and Sicily; at Bataan, Corregidor, Guadacanal, New Guinea and the Solomons. They've been in the Aleutians and Iceland. They've been wherever the United States armed forces have fought and a lot of other places where they're preparing to fight. And it can be expected that a new batch of officers who have taken part in the fighting in Italy will join the faculty before long.

The stories these men have to tell concerning their battle experiences, form an unending series of lessons. For instance, Col. Thomas W. Doyle knows the story of Bataan and Corregidor. He commanded a combat team in that sector until ordered to Australia shortly before the surrender of Corregidor. He made his escape by submarine. Col. Doyle was decorated with the Silver Star with three Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart with an Oak Leaf Cluster.

He was assigned to the General Subjects section where he was associated with Lt. Col. Samuel I. Parker, one of the outstanding heroes of World War I, and who was awarded all the major war decorations including the Congressional Medal of Honor. Col. Parker has developed a course in the leadership of small units.

Lt. Col. Robert R. Moore of Villisca, Iowa, holder of the Silver Star, was with the U. S. forces which landed in North Africa last November. He fought at Faid Pass, Fondouk Pass, Sened Station and Eddo Khila. His units were in some tough spots but he got them out.

Lt. Col. James C. Cooper of Henderson, N. C., had been stationed in Iceland. While there, he learned of the death of his son in action in Tunisia. He knew none of the details, excepting that his son was killed in the fighting at Fondouk Pass. Arriving at the Infantry School, he made inquiries concerning officers who had seen action in that battle. From Col. Moore, he discovered the latter had not only known his son but also knew the details of his death.

In the midst of the amphibious landing operations in Africa was Lt. Col. James Rainier Weaver whose father commanded the Armored forces in the Philippines and is now a prisoner of the Japanese on Formosa Island. Col. Weaver's job was to mark beaches for the landings in the Casablanca sector. The knowledge he gained from that experience will prove valuable.

Maj. William F. Snellman of South Range, Mich., was the executive officer of a battalion whose job was to prevent sabotage and destruction of port equipment at Algiers. He was later in the fighting at Fondouk and occupied a defensive position which protected the storming and cap-

One of the newest arrivals is Capt. Richard Ciccolella of Brooklyn who received the Silver Star, Purple Heart and 18 pieces of shrapnel. He was wounded at Gafsa. His unit landed near Oran and saw action in the Ousseltia Valley, El Guettar and in the struggle for the Gabes-Gafsa road. He was wounded a few days after his outfit had cleaned out or captured 3,000 Italians in a single day.

Capt. Gordon Symmon of Bardstown, Ky., holds the Silver Star and Purple Heart for his part in the African campaign. He was at Safi, El Guettar, Kasserine Pass and Bizerte. The saga of his experiences is long and filled with situations, the solution of which either proved the fallacy or competence of the methods he was taught.

Col. James R. Hamilton of Willow Hill, Ill., spent the better part of two years in Iceland. And there are plenty of lessons he can teach officers who may be stationed there someday. Col. Clifford G. Kershaw from Somerset, Mass., a veteran of the first World War, was with the British 8th army as an observer in the battle of El Alemein. Col. Robert S. Miller, Director of Training of The Infantry School, was aboard a transport that was torpedoed in the Mediterranean while American troops were landing. He was attached to the Allied general command as an observer during the fighting in Tunisia.

Maj. William Lloyd Osborne of Prescott, Ariz., was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for outstanding performance in the defense of South Luzon and Bataan. He was a battalion commander in the 51st Infantry stationed in the Philippines.

This list could go on almost indefinitely.

But this fact stands out: When mistakes in theory are discovered in actual battle, when new stratagems are improvised successfully on the field of battle, The Infantry School will lose no time in indoctrinating its students in these lessons and doing it through the men who were in a position to learn them.

Just as battle theories stem from The Infantry School, so do they return to be overhauled and revised into newer and better theories suitable to the trend of this war.

It might well be said that, insofar as American participation is concerned, the story of World War II could be written at The Infantry School.

Far-Flung Fronts Well Represented On School Faculty

One Officer Has Two Medals Plus 18 Shrapnel Wounds

World's Battlefronts Represented In 8th Company, 1st STR

Fort Benning, Georgia—Gaudalcanal! Attu! Africa!

In the 8th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School, are men from the South Pacific and Hawaii, from Panama and the Caribbean islands. Doughboy feet that have pounded the jungles of Guadalcanal and slogged through the snows and tundra of Alaska and the Aleutians are now marching over Georgia's red rust. Officers from Africa, Iceland and from pre-war China service are now at Fort Benning, learning the latest in infantry weapons and tactics before returning to their stations. Lucky will be the enlisted men to serve under these well-qualified officers, for they know both the theory and the application of infantry warfare.

Alaska and the fog-bound Aleutions lead the list of foreign service officers with 33 returning to the land of sunshine from that desolate outpost closest to Japan. Many of these took part in the various Aleutian landings which thwarted the Nipponese plans of an offensive against North America from the North Pacific. They worked feverishly in blizzards to build the installations from which our Air Force is now traveling far and wide to blast the Nips on Parimushiro.

NEITHER HAVE WE

The torried jungles of the Panama Canal Zone was the last base of operations for 13 members of the 8th Company; some were there so long they have not seen snow since 1941.

Four officers, one from the steaming, pestilential hell-hole that was Guadalcanal, and one who was at Oahu the day the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor, have come from the South Pacific arena. Three officers with pre-war China service now attend school with two from the North Atlantic, two from the Caribbean and one each from Canada, the initial invasion of Africa, and one who fought the Germans in 1918 and served in the army of occupation!

Captain Chester E. Hanover, company commander of the 8th, swells with pride whenever he mentions the many battle-tried righter-leaders in this Officers Basic Class. The true measure of service of these officers from all over the United States who have traveled innumerable miles in ocean-going transports, can be gained from the fact that they together have served a total of 1,290 months at overseas stations, with 1,086 months being logged during this war. That's 107-plus years—brother; that's service!

Many of these officers have been rotated to permanent posts in the states as a reward for overseas service well done. Others will return to their units overseas upon completion of their course on December 18, taking with them the results of their intensive 17-week course in the latest in rough-tough, slashing doughboy tactics.

Response Good To Appeal For Early Mail For Overseas

Response to appeals from Post Office officials to mail overseas Christmas packages before October 15 has been rather satisfying, Robert P. Richardson, postmaster of the Fort Benning branch post office, declared today. But he warned that unless the packages are mailed before the middle October date, the Post Office will give no assurance that the parcels will be delivered by Christmas.

He noted that many servicemen and women are sending packages to relatives and friends stationed overseas. The postmaster stated the parcels have increased considerably the mail load at the Benning branch, and more are expected.

As a special feature for all servicemen and women at the post, all of the USO units in Columbus and Phenix City are maintaining packaging, wrapping and mailing facilities.

The Ninth Street USO wraps and mails an average of 650 parcels per month. Their service is available for soldiers and their wives. The Army-Navy YMCA-USO offers a similar service to soldiers only. Each of the other USO's will also afford like accomodations to servicemen.

In addition stores and shops from which Christmas gifts are purchased will wrap and package them for overseas shipment.

Gifts - Antiques
Shop Early for Christmas!
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

Alabama Area Opens New Amphitheater

The Alabama Parachute Area Amphitheater, which will provide a place in the area for boxing matches, shows, and also be utilized for training purposes, was formally opened last Thursday night with approximately 3800 soldiers attending the event.

Following the performance of the USO-Camp Show "Town Topics," a dance was held in the 515th Parachute Infantry Recreation Hall, with music by the Lawson Field Air Corps dance band.

Highlight of the evening's program was a 30-minute broadcast over Radio Station WRBL in Columbus, and the Georgia Broadcasting System, from 11:30 until midnight. Speakers on the radio program which celebrated opening of the amphitheater were Colonel Albert J. Dickerson, commanding officer of the 513th Parachute Infantry Regiment, and Colonel J. B. Lindsey, commanding officer of the 515th. Lt. Dick Daly, 515th special service officer, announced and emceed the program.

The amphitheater was designed by G. C. Jenkins of Columbus, formerly of the area engineer's office at Fort Benning.

Spirits Donate Cash For U.S. War Prisoners

Ralph J. Mitchell, field director of the American Red Cross at Fort Benning, had difficulty in handling two small but extremely heavy boxes—but he didn't mind when an examination of their contents revealed a substantial contribution for American servicemen now prisoners of war in enemy territory.

Walking into Mitchell's office, a soldier with the insignia of the 176th Infantry Regiment stationed at Fort Benning, handed over the two boxes which were described as being "as heavy as lead." But there were no lead nickels in the boxes which were crammed full of copper, nickel and silver coins totaling $90.97.

The money came as a donation from soldiers in the 176th who had placed boxes in their company areas of their own volition, with the proceeds to go to war prisoners.

Mitchell immediately arranged to send the money to the Red Cross general fund with the stipulation that it be used exclusively for relief of American prisoners of war.

The regiment plans to continue the voluntary contributions, plans for which were suggested and adopted by the enlisted men as a means of "promoting regimental morale."

Because of the brilliant colors it displays in solution, vanadium was named in honor of the Swedish goddess of beauty, Vanadis.

Staff Photo By Vandye Forrester

HIS ARMY UNIFORM replaced with civilian garb, Brigadier General Walter Scott Fulton, seated at desk, entered active civilian service Friday as Muscogee County chairman of the National War Fund. Gathered around him are friends who will be co-workers: left to right, J. Paul Swain, campaign manager; F. B. Patterson, Bryan Collier, C. L. Foster, A. H. Chapman and Jim Woodruff, Jr.

Fulton Ends Retirement; Directs War Fund Drive

Brigadier General Walter Scott Fulton ended another "overnight retirement" Friday, although not in quite the same fashion as in the summer of 1942 when he reached retirement age only to be mustered back the next day into milltary service.

Thursday afternoon General Fulton left the Army as a permanetly retired officer.

Promptly at 9 a. m. Friday he showed up at the new National War Fund headquarters at 1228 Broadway, and assumed active charge of developing a city-wide organization to raise $70,000 as Muscogee's quota in the $125,000,000 national fund.

The only change was that he was in "mufti" rather than a uniform.

In Oxford Grey

His accustomed khaki had been replaced overnight by an oxford grey, single-breasted business suit; his collar insignia with the single silver star had given way to a white shirt with striped tie, and his cap with the gilded shield had disappeared in favor of a smart felt, turned-up all 'round.

The new quarters into which he stepped with a complete and functioning office staff had been given the National War Fund for the duration of the October drive by Robert M. Lewis, owner of the building at 1228 Broadway. J. C. Martin, Sr., who has been assisting the Selective Service Board in those quarters will also be there, having simply moved his desk farther back to make way for three temporary War Fund officers.

Staff In Two Offices

General Fulton's desk had two vases of red roses on it in the special office which bears his name; in the two front offices were the National War Fund staff which will be on hand each day to aid the campaign organization. General Fulton's personal phone at the headquarters is 2-2306; the office phone is 2-1380.

Among many who stopped by Friday to greet General Fulton upon his quick return to active work were A. H. Chapman, district War Fund chairman; C. L. Foster, Walter Richards, Novel Boyd, Walter Pike, F. B. Patterson of Southern Bell, Jim Woodruff, Jr., and others.

Clete (Boots) Poffenberger, who never got along very well with the Brooklyn Dodger management despite the fact that he could throw a high hard one, is getting along better with the Marines at Parris Island, S. C. He's just made peefcee.

Service women who stay at the Women's Military Service Club in New Yorw City draw lots every morning to pick their KP's. The winners are served breakfast in bed.

CO-OP CABS
DIAL 5511
1318 Broad

BUS CAFE CLEAR

The restaurant in the Greyhound bus terminal, 1329 Broadway, Columbus, has been removed from the "off limits" classification for all members of the Army. Placing the restaurant on limits to military personnel was done with approval of the commanding general of the Fourth Service Command, after consultation with senior officers of units and installations at the post, the announcement stated.

STEVENS Distinctive
CHRISTMAS CARDS
For a Discriminating Clientele we offer personal Christmas Greeting Cards of unusual artistic merit and fine craftsmanship. Samples and prices submitted upon request.
J. P. STEVENS ENGRAVING CO.
110 PEACHTREE STREET ATLANTA · GEORGIA

CHEROKEE GRILL
Endorsed by Duncan Hines
Endorsed in 1943 edition of
"Adventures in Good Eating"
Southern Cooking in Southern Atmosphere with
Southern Hospitality.
Dinner—Every evening from 5:30 to 8:30
Lunch—Sundays only: 12 Noon to 2 P.M.
914 Broadway—Inside the White Picket Fence
ALL SOLDIERS ARE WELCOME

ly 250 soldiers took an active part in the discussion.

Following the forum an open discussion on current and post war problems was held.

Music was furnished by two quartettes from Special Training Units—one from the 11th and one from the 18th Company.

Another in the series of Sunday forums will be announced for an early date.

GI'S LEARN TO HAVE FAITH IN GAS MASKS while training with the "Lucky 7th" Armored division at Fort Benning. Here they are learning in routine drills how to uphold that proud division slogan, "Nothing can stop a unit of the 'Lucky 7th'," by crawling through a smoke screen. (Official U. S. Army photo, 7th AD, PRO.)

7th A. D. Learns Chemical War

There's no stopping an armored unit of the "Lucky 7th!" And there's a reason.

The once terrifying cry, "Gas Attack," no longer holds terror for any of Uncle Sam's far-flung fighting units, because they're trained, as the 7th Armored is trained to fight offensively with gas.

American troops are unwilling to unleash the full fury of gas on any nation it first adopts such back-to-the-wall measures, but they're ready for any eventuality.

Gas Training

Seventh Armored division crews at Fort Benning are taught to either ignor gas by driving through or around it, or to render the gas ineffective quickly by smooth-working methods.

One of the methods of protection practiced by the 7th is the laying of smoke screens with pots or planes. As an offensive measure, the armoraiders set off tear gas pots or gas grenades between these to hinder enemy action by making his troops cough, cry, or don masks.

Cellophane capes and chemisuits are almost invaluable against such harassers as poison gas land mines, gas laid by artillery, or that sprayed from aircrafts. In many cases the spray lasts but a short while, but 7th Armored men do not lose that time in accomplishing their missions.

Put On Cape

The cellophane cape is donned by a soldier within a few seconds by unfolding a envelope-sized packet and slipping it over the head.

Used chiefly to keep the blistering gases from touching the body, the capes are destroyed after use, as they are expendable and inexpensive. A man can fire a gun or drive a truck while wearing one.

Other protective devices include chemically impregnated clothing used against vesicants were troops are expected to encounter that type gas.

Seventh Armored men, especially those in reconnaissance elements, don these coveralls and wade right into the fight unimpeded by having to detour gassed areas. Chief value of impregnated clothing is that it prevents the gas from touching or blistering the skin. The suits can be washed several times after use before losing their protective properties.

Protect Trucks

In like manner, gassed vehicles or small bivouac areas can be decontaminated quickly by spraying with neutralizing agents, or by sponging off affected areas in the case of a vehicle.

In any event, Maj. Gen. L. M. Silvester's "Lucky 7th" is prepared. But learning to be so is not easy.

For instance, who knows whether that patch of smoke over there is gas or not?

After you try all the chemical tests the men have available, Lt. Col. Clarence Underwood tells his men, "The old nose is as good as anything for detecting gas."

In training, if a hapless GI with mask doubts that gas is being used, he is run through part of the chamber minus mask to emerge watery-eyed and coughing. From then on, he has unlimited faith in his mask.

"The answer to gas is the armored vehicle," Colonel Underwood declared. "The function of an army is to go forward. To keep driving onward, we can either get through gas or circumvent it, thus rendering its use against us ineffective."

Colored Troops Discuss AEP

"It is the colored soldier's responsibility to take advantage of the Army Educational Program in order better to qualify himself to meet his Army requirements and to take his part in post-war affairs. The better qualified he becomes through education to serve his country now the better qualified he will be to take part in post war activities," said Sgt. Charles L. Turner, in the Forum held at Service Club No. 4, at Fort Benning, Sunday afternoon.

In the general discussion of the subject "The Negro after the War," education was stressed as of paramount importance. The facilities offered by the Special Training Regiments in preparing underprivileged youth for their place in the Army, the various Army Educational courses endorsed by the Special Service office who assist in making applications, etc., for them are two potent factors in this educational program that will be of invaluable assistance to the colored soldier in preparation for his higher place in the Army and civilian life after the war is ended, the Sergeant said.

Another important factor stressed by the speaker was that each soldier should do his job well regardless of its nature because a job well done was a definite contribution to the general betterment of the colored race.

This is the second in a series of Sunday Forums held at this popular Service Club and approximate-

PHOTO FANS
For Better Snap-Shots
Have Your Film
Developed at
Parkman Photo Service
1121½ Broadway Dial 6451
Free Enlargement Given Each Day.
24-HOUR SERVICE

SPOT RIVERS AND HIS NIGHTENGALES
SAT., OCT. 9th at
COVER CHARGE 25c PER PERSON
THE NEW WINSEL CASTLE
2803 Cusseta Road Dial 7373
LOUIS W. PHILLIPS, Mgr.
Steaks - Chicken - Beverages
PRIVATE DINING ROOMS
Officers, Members, and Civilians Only

Attention!
4th Service Command
only 3 days
to Winter Uniforms
We stand ready to serve you with a complete stock of Winter Uniforms.
All-wool 18-oz. O. D. Serge Pants
All-wool O. D. Tropical Weight Shirts
British Green Pants.
British Green Shirts.
O. D. Serge Overseas Caps—All-wool.
O. D. Garrison Caps—All-wool.
Solid Brass Insignia.
Solid Brass Belt Buckles.
Also Accessories and Equipment.
An Expert Tailor on the Premises
For Perfect Fitting
FLOWERS BROS. 1028 B'way Phone 3-7881

92 Pointer Grads Finish TIS Course

Ninety-two second lieutenants who graduated from West Point in June have just received their second diplomas inside of four months. They were members of the 11th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Col. John S. Roosma, which completed the Officers' Basic Course at the Infantry chool the end of last month.

The 92 students included many athletes who brought fame to West Point during the last four years—John W. Collins in baseball; Frank D. Derouin, Robert J. Gilles, Bernard W. Rogers, Harold J. Saine and Arthur W. Van Schoick in track; Alexander R. Bolling, Gabriel A. Ivan and James D. Kidder in lacrosse, and Roger Ray in hockey.

In addition to the West Pointers, the class numbered 17 officers recently returned from foreign service to study at the Infantry School. And two officers of Japanese extraction, 1st Lieut. George K. Iwashita and 2nd Lieut. Kei Tanghashi, trained side by side with two classmates from the Philippines—2nd Lieuts. Rafael M. Ileto and Eduardo T. Suatengco.

Outstanding in accomplishments as well as membership, the class graduated with honors and departed to their far-flung posts bearing the wishes of Capt. David W. Evans, commanding officer of the 11th Company, for success in their future assignments.

Truck Regiment Men Return From QM School

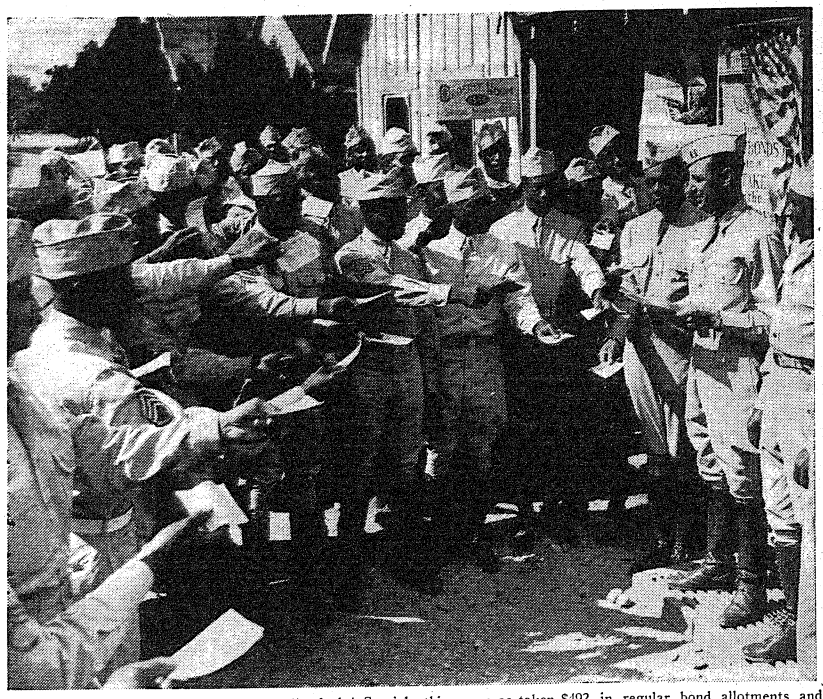
Fresh from the rigors of the Quartermaster Corps intensive advanced Non-commissioned Officers' Course, No. 7 at Camp Lee, Virginia, the Truck Regiments Master Sergeants James R. Keith, of Belton, S. C., and Isaac Joe of Bishopville, S. C., have returned to Regimental Headquarters and have resumed their duties as Regimental Sergeant-Major and Regimental Supply Sergeant, respectively.

Sergeants Keith and Joe took the three months Advanced NCO Administrative and Supply Course, No. 7 at Camp Lee, in which they were given advanced training in both Administrative and Supply along with plenty of drill and field work pertaining to the Quartermaster Corp.

Both men have been stationed at Fort Benning for quite some time, having been transferred from another outfit to the Truck Regime upon its activation, December 16, 1942.

3d STR Adjutant In Advanced Course

Capt. Lyndell F. Keene, Third Student Training Regiment adjutant, has vacated that post to take the Officer's Advanced course at The Infantry School, it has been announced by Col. R. H. Lord.



With Captain Keene, the following other officers of the Third Student Training Regiment are scheduled for the advance course: Major Alanson L. Harris, commanding officer of the 15th Company; Major Ernest L. James, commanding officer of the Sixth Company; and Major Byron F. King, executive officer of the Fourth Battalion.

Succeeding Captani Keene as adjutant is Capt. William L. Roberts who has been assistant adjutant since last May.

The new assistant adjutant is 2nd Lieut. William C. Denny who received his commission last May after graduating from the Third Regiment's Sixth Company. Lieutenant Denny enlisted Sept. 21, 1942, and was formerly engaged in the investment banking business in Pittsburg, Pa.

Scientists believe that the earth's core is almost entirely composed of nickel-iron alloy.

Levy-Morton Co.
—•—
Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps
—•—
REPAIRS — DIAL 3-6391
1026—13th STREET

THERE WASN'T much left of the payroll of the Special Service Detachment Academic Regiment of The Infantry School, when War Bond payments were completed last week. Each member of this Detachment purchased at least one war bond over and above his regular allotment. Payroll for the Detachment amounts to about $3,000. From this sum was taken $492 in regular bond allotments and $1,604, representing cash payments for extra bonds. The total of $2,096 represented 64 per cent of the total payroll of this colored Detachment. In the above photo Capt. C. B. Taylor, Detachment Commander, is shown receiving the final batch of bond applications. (TIS photo.)

7th Armored Private Was Top-Kick In Famed Fighting Rainbow Division

John Naughton Proud Of His Rookies, Now Officers Overseas

Pvt. John Michael Naughton had that far-away horse and buggy look in his eyes when he recalled the days he was a top-kick in a famous fighting outfit which won eternal glory long before the present war clouds loomed.

His buddies in Division Hq. Co., 7th Armored Division call him Jack and he's twice the age of many of them, last month ringing up two score on the slightly graying veteran of the renowned 69th Regiment and 42nd Rainbow Division. The New York-born infantryman served as private and corporal during his first enlistment, and after a five-year layover in civilian ranks, joined up again with his old Service Company unit, serving out his hitch as first sergeant. General John J. Phelan, now boxing commissioner of New York State, was commanding the regiment at that time as colonel, taking over the 93rd Brigade as brigadier general and retired in 1934 as a major general.

Naughton recalls many men in that "Fighting 69th" who have carved quite a niche for themselves since those halcyon days. He proudly beams:

"Why, even now overseas there are officers in that outfit doing a helluva job—and I first taught them their manual of arms."

KNEW FATHER DUFFY

Inevitably, the name of another man in that historical regiment came up. Jack knew his well and loved him as did every doughboy fortunate enough to come under the spiritual guidance and to be brushed by the magnetism that was Father Francis P. Duffy. Jack tried to develop the picture in his mind's eye of the "Fighting Chaplain."

"He was much more than sort of a liaison between God and the soldiers," he said, "he was just a regular soldier himself.

"Father Duffy was around 38 then, tall and rugged. I remember he was a great guy for getting men out of jail. He got me out twice . . . maybe I shouldn't go into that."

FLAG CEREMONY

Ever since activation of the 7th Armored Division at Camp Polk, La., in March 1942 the men of this unit have stood steadfastly by. One of the most impressive sights for anyone who is in anyway interested in Army activity is to observe the trio of MP's that lowed the flag each evening at retreat. Dressed nattily, in white gloves, and with dignity that causes one to meditate in appreciation, the men silently march to Division Headquarters and impressively put "Old Glory" to bed.

Wherever members of the 7th Armored Division's military police unit operate they are favorably known for their intelligence and courtesy to civilians and soldiers alike. The men are disciplined and well informed and perform their work without ado.

S. Sgt. Sherman Mixon, who has had 18 years service in the regular Army, is platoon leader. Other men in the unit are: Sgt. John J. Matthewson, Sgt. Edward Kinsella, Cpl. Joseph Vitulli, Cpl Paul Monteleone, Cpl. Albert Shutta, Cpl. George Vandecamp, Cpl. Walter Tumiati, T-5 Irving Atkinson, T-5 Willard Brunet, T-5 Pascal Glaviano, T-5 Ralph Hunter, T-5 Wayland Keiser, T-5 George Plum, T-5 Raymond Vasquez, T-5 Robert A. Hulen.

Pfc. Earl Bricker, Pfc. Jesse L. Gray, Pfc. Worth S. Green, Pfc. Harry E. Kennedy, Pfc. Stanley R. Nelson, Pfc. Glen K. Scott, Pfc. David Poyorena, Pfc. Ervin H. Roper, Pfc. Leo J. Thiel, Pfc. Wm. A. Thurley, Pfc. Leonard E. Miller, Pvt. Thomas M. Barney. Pvt. Roy W. Daubert, Pvt. Edward H. Dixon, Pvt. Brother Freels, Pvt. Matthew Glogowski, Pvt. Ellis K. Harlan, Pvt. Robert Hicks, Pvt. Bert LaCombe, Pvt. Daniel S. Lentz, Pvt. Raymond J. Manning, Pvt. Cecil H. Noonkesser.

Pvts. Lee R. Phillips, Clarence E. Prevette, Guy U. Prince, Jack D. Ricker, Edward L. Ryall, Finley V. Stith, Wesley C. Thompson, Alvin White, Michael Raymoglia, Milford Stanley and Anthony J. Ashrut.

Also detached to the same unit are G-3 traffic control MP's including Sgts. Caldwell B. Foulkes and Kenneth G. Kennedy, Cpls. Emile A. Pare and Kermit Miller, Pfcs. Oliver U. Foudilla and Andrew J. Fetchik and T-5s Patrick W. Morris and Joseph C. Gartner.

Naughton, Irish as Patty's pet pig, recalls vividly those St. Patrick Day parades along Fifth Avenue when the "Fighting 69th" was honor guard to all the Irish societies in the city. And the time when no officers were present and he had the honor of strutting his stuff down the "main drag" at the head of his company.

He believes that, although the army has become streamlined with the years and the stable sergeant has bowed to the motor sergeant, the duties of the top-kick have for the most part retained a status quo. The paper work is just about the same except the 1st Sgt. today doesn't have the payroll headache the old six-striper did. In those days each unit was responsible for its own payroll.

CHOW GOOD

"The chow was good," says Naughton, "maybe the diet wasn't as scientific but our cooks were on the ball." "Brother," he continued, "where we really shined was on that drill field. Squad movements today don't come near the oldtimers."

Naughton enlisted for this scrap with the 7th Armored Division in August of last year. His old 69th Regiment is in the thick of things and, though he feels that is where he belongs and would like to be, ill health at this time prevents such a move. So, even though his wish to get back with his old gang must remain merely a fond nostalgia, Jack Naughton at least treasures fond memories of days when he was top-kick in the most famous regiment of them all, "The Fighting 69th."

Prior to his enlistment, Pvt. Naughton resided at 3717 107th St., Corona, L. I., with his sister, Mrs. Ann Moore.

Major Veazey Is Lt. Colonel

Maj. Alexander H. Veazey, post mess officer and assistant special service officer, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Colonel Veazey, a native of Creedmoor, N. C., was called to active duty with the Second Ar-

These are so easy that you don't need a classification score of even 110 to get 'em. Mark one answer for each and do it without looking at the right one first.

Atonement Day Rites Slated For Oct. 8-9

The Day of Atonement will be observed by the men of the Jewish faith at Fort Benning from sundown, Friday, Oct. 8, to sundown, Saturday, October 9, with special services at the Children's School, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School.

The services will be conducted by Chaplain Samson A. Shain, assisted by the choir of officers and enlisted men. Opportunity is also given the soldiers to worship in Columbus synagogues, Congregational B'Nai Israel (reform) at Tenth Street and Fourth Avenue, and Congregation Shearith Israel (Orthodox) at Seventh Street and First Avenue.

Yom Yippur, the Day of Atonement is essentially a day for self-examination. It calls the Jews in judgment before the door of his own conscience. The Day of Atonement is regarded as the most solemn day in the Jewish Religious calendar. Its central theme is that of repentance for wrongs committed by the individual, and for the determination on his part to avoid them where possible. It demands on the part of the Jew the recognition of his sin, his confession before God and his own soul of his wrong doings, and wherever possible, the undoing of the wrong that he has done to others. It is intended to make sin hateful to the Jew.

The day is of such importance to the Jew that even those who at other times are not especially observient of religious forms gather to worship the God of their fathers. It is likely this year that thousands of Jews serving in the armed forces will hold services wherever they may be. Traditionally, the day is marked by special prayers and the abstinence from food and drink from eventide to eventide. The purpose of the fast is to turn man's thoughts away from material things and to emphasize spiritual values. The scripture reading for the morning of Yom Kippur is taken from the 58th chapter of the Prophet Isaiah, who says "Is not this the fast that I have chosen? To loose the fetters of wickedness, To undo the bands of the yoke, . . . Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, And that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? When thou seest the naked, that thou cover him, And that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh."

In a sense, this scriptural quotation sounds the keynote to a day that every Jew is taught to hold sacred.

7th Armored Sergeant Has $60,000 in Bonds

Regimental supply parts Sgt. James L. Pierce of the "Lucky 7th's" 48th Armored Infantry is one man who needs no appealing to in order to buy more war bonds. He already has $60,000 invested in victory and is still "backing the attack" with a part of his monthly earnings as a soldier.

Even before the government's war loan drives Sgt. Pierce needed no sales talk to convince HIM that war bonds are the safest investment he could make. As a civilian he bought the limit for three months, spending $20,000 each time until his capital (less expenses) was working for Uncle Sam.

Last year he too went to work for his country as a soldier in the Seventh Armored Division. He left his snug home and wife at 167 Allen avenue, Lynn, Mass. with determination to do his part in winning the war . . . and then some. Assigned to Service Co. of the 48th Armored Infantry regiment, he soon made sergeant and continued to allot a part of his monthly $78 for more bonds.

In spite of the fact that he had a cash stockpile to his credit before he entered the army, Sgt. Pierce lives on what he makes in the service and buys bonds too. "Now I'm buckin' for a raise to buy more," he told his buddies recently.

Before he enlisted the sergeant operated a gas station in his home town, Lynn, Mass.

BUYS FOR FAMILY

When asked whetrer he had made his $60,000 in that business venture, he laughingly explained that the service station merely made him a living and that the $60,000 was from a trust fund set up for him by his grandfather, Mr. James Calhoun of Amesbury, Mass. and made available to Pierce upon his 21st birthday. Mr. Calhoun is a founder of the John Hancock Insurance Co. in the New England States.

Sgt. Pierce had to buy his bonds in three installments because the civilian ceiling on war bond purchases at that time was $20,000 wroth in any one month for any one person.

The first bond batch he bought in March, 1941, listing his wife as co-owner; the next group he bought for his mother and sister in October of the same year; and the last bunch for his father and brother during January 1942.

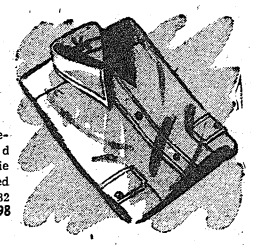
Sgt. Pierce is a graduate of Boston university; class of '34 (bachelro of science degree) and of Swampcott high school (1930) in Lynn, Mass.

The Black Hills of South Dakota are estimated to be nearly a billion and a half years old.

SALTERS
20c TAXI
CLEAN CARS
COURTEOUS DRIVERS
WHITE PATRONS ONLY
DIAL 5321
1017—1st AVE.

STEAMBOAT EXCURSION
ABOARD
STR. GEO. W. MILLER
9:00 P. M., FT. BENNING TIME
DANCING
3-HOUR TRIP
EVERY WED., FRI. AND SAT. NITE
$1.00 AVAILABLE FOR CHARTER DIAL 3-3636 $1.00

Visit . . .
SOUTHERN MANOR
FOR THE BEST ENTERTAINMENT
With the Stars That Fall on Alabama
JIMMY THOMAS
SINGING MASTER OF CEREMONIES
LILLIAN MURRY
Comedian & Singer
MITZI
Dance Sensation
TEA DANCE SUNDAY AFTERNOON
4:30 to 6:30—No Cover—No Minimum Charge
ENJOY FAMOUS SOUTHERN MANOR
STEAK and CHICKEN
Southern Manor



KIRVEN'S

OVERSEAS GIFTS
To Make HER Christmas Merry

The most valiant woman in uniform can feel very blue and lonesome when she's oceans away . . . thoughts from home, little remembrances from her loved ones can be the spark that lightens her heart and brightens her eyes. Whether Mary, Lucy, or Jean is your daughter or previous secretary, remember her with a gift . . . gaily be-ribboned in colorful Christmas paper.

KHAKI TIES in all-wool or silk and rayon mohair and cotton. 1.00

KHAKI SHIRTS in preshrunk broadcloth and poplin, collar made so tie can be worn. Inner-lined collar and cuffs. Sizes 32 to 40. 2.98

ALL-WOOL SLACKS with pleated front, button placket, side pockets. Navy, Brown, Black. Sizes 24 to 30. 7.98.

NURSES' SHIRT of white broadcloth, convertible collar with loop, center front closing. Sizes 32 to 40. 4.50

SPORTS SHOP
KIRVEN'S SECOND FLOOR

FORT BENNING BAYONET

The Benning Bayonet is published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Mon this $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

Member of Fort Benning Press Association

"The National War Fund—like all essential parts of our war effort—must be given prompt support toward its goal. As Commander-in-chief, I ask all our people to remember this—that a share in the National War Fund is a share in winning the war."—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The War Fund Drive Deserves Our Support

On October 15 the National War Fund's annual drive for contributions will get under way with Brigadier General Walter S. Fulton, retired, commanding general of Fort Benning, at the helm.

The General has announced that Fort Benning will be given a chance to make its contribution to this very worthy cause. (Complete plans for the collection of post contributions are announced elsewhere in the BAYONET.) We are sure that Benning, which has always come forward to place its shoulder to the wheel to do its share in war bond drives, blood banks, Red Cross drives, etc., will again respond generously to this call.

Funds contributed to the drive will be divided among 17 member agencies including the USO which will employ its share for the benefit of servicemen Thus by helping the National War Fund military personnel will be helping themselves.

The balance of the money will be used to help that vast army of unfortunates in all parts of the world who have suffered the hell that is war. Among them the Four Horsemen are raging rampant.

Those of us who are still enjoying the blessings of comparative security on this side of the oceans can do no less than share what we have as liberally as we can for on what we do now depends in large measure our winning of the peace as well as the war.

Pick Up Duds And Help The Axis

During the past few weeks there has been an alarming increase in the injuries and deaths suffered because of solders picking up DUDS in impact firing areas on the Post.

Despite the warnings—spoken, printed, and visual, some soldiers, trainees, and O.C. students still persist in allowing their native curiosity to get the better of their common sense. The type of thinking (or lack of it) which impels a man to pick up DUDS is in direct violation of standing orders on the subject, as well as inimical to the best interests of the Army and the Flag we all serve.

Yes, we may well say, "Pick Up a Dud and Help the Axis"—for although the dud picker may wear the khaki uniform as you or I, he doesn't serve anyone but Schikelgruber and his gang. When an overly curious American doughboy stoops to pick up a dud he dons the Nazi or Jap uniform as surely as if he were a soldier of the enemy.

Generally, the d o u g h b o y will pay for his curiosity with his life, while the Axis chalks up another victory—for won't there be just one less American to fight? Just stop a moment and multiply the ONE or MORE dud pickers in every Army camp in the United States by 365 days a year, and the number of Americans our enemies WILL NEVER HAVE TO FIGHT will amount to a BATTALION!

But there is aonther side to this Dud Picking, too. Not only does the dud picker endanger his old life by his actions, but what is far worse, the lives of countless other good soldiers around him. And who among us wants a passport to another planet because of someone else's idiocy? To die in defense of one's Country is an honor—to die stupidly because one violates good common sense is a disgrace.

Curiosity in itself has a definite place on the battlefield, but it is of the type which is WELL PLANNED and WELL DIRECTED. The curiosity of ignorance which pushes men to pick up harmless looking DUDS or SOUVENIRS, either during training or on the field of battle is CRIMINAL. Well directed curiosity pays off big dividends in combat—stupid probing and poking invariably ends in tragedy.

Our enemies know of our penchant for being insatiably curious. They use this as a psychological and death-dealing weapon with considerable success. The man who picks up DUDS in training (and is lucky enough to get away with it), will probably be the same one who gets blown to Hell picking up shiny souvenirs on the battlefield.

As American Infantrymen we have the justly deserved reputation of possessing the soldier's "KNOW HOW." Because of it, a smart doughboy doesn't satisfy a misplaced curiosity and go DUD PICKING. HE LEAVES DUDS STRICTLY ALONE AND REPORTS THEIR LOCATION TO THE PROPER AUTHORTIES who will see that they are neutralized. Because he used good horse sense, this doughboy is ready, willing, and able to play his part in the service of his Country for another day.

SO REMEMBER—DON'T PICK UP DUDS UNLESS YOU WANT TO HELP THE AXIS!

Prepared by the Weapons Section The Infantry School.

Fire Prevention Week Every Week of the Year

The week of October 3-9 has been designated by President Roosevelt as National Fire Prevention Week, and Fort Benning is actively participating in this worthwhile movement with an educational program devised to reduce to a minimum fires caused by carelessness.

Fire Department officials are at the disposal of all post personnel who may have any doubts whether conditions where they work or reside have fire hazard potentialities. Fire Chief Hogan has stated that 90 per cent of the fires at Fort Benning can be nipped in the bud before they ever start if personnel will exercise proper precautions.

War-time booms with attendant expansion of the material plants of all service installations make necessary the erection of innumerable temporary structures which are not as substantial and fire-proof as we would like, but which will have to do under the circumstances.

A moment of laxness or carelessness on the part of any individual, you, I, the Colonel, anybody, could turn one of these structures into an inferno causing the loss of life as well as property.

It behooves all of us to cooperate with our fire officials, not only during the campaign, but throughout the year. Extreme care should be exercised in the disposal of cigarette butts, in eliminating inflammable material from our storerooms in attics and cellars, especially oily rags which constitute a fire menace because of the possibility of spontaneous combustion.

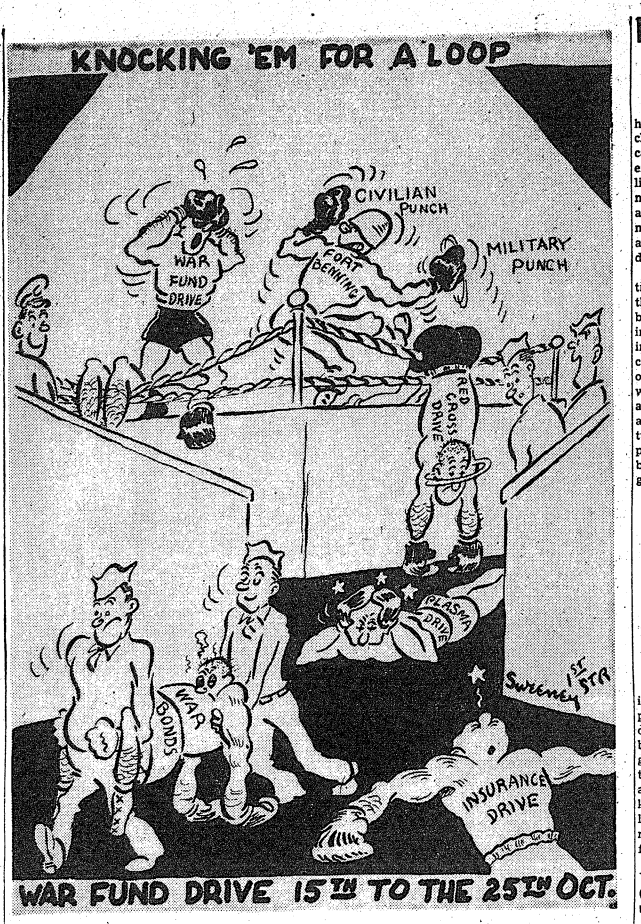
If you are not sure you have a fire hazard on your premises, call the Fire Department for expert advice. It is much better to be safe than sorry.

Dogface Says Post No Place For Wimmen

Have any you guys got a dumb wife? Jeez! . . . Have I ever got a lulu one time! She's got a brain a little larger than a goiter on a canary! She thinks they give me a M-1 every day just to build up me vitamins!

I write her last week and sez Honey, I'm here in radio school takin' code . . . Right back, she sends me a package full of liniment . . . Nose drops and mustard plasters!!! She sez she is coming to Ft. Benning . . . because she is lonely like a chicken on a rabbit farm. I sez right back . . . no!! . . . They is no place to live here! She sez right back . . . You go to blazes! . . . You are going out 'with wimmen, and I'm coming down anyway! She sez ask the kernel to give off so's you can meet me and Junior at the train. Ya . . . sure . . . Me and the kernel is close like paratroopers and tha armored outfit! Waaal! . . . She's down here now and her address is in care of Hooper Plysto, R. F. D. 9 Pigeon Loft No. 3 . . . Columbus. Every time I visit 'em . . . I gotta wade thru feathers . . . pigeon eggs . . . and such sundry stuff as pigeons leave hanging' around!!

One day she sez what do I do down here? I sez, oh, we dig foxholes. She sez, that's silly . . . foxes are perfeckly able to dig ther own holes. I sez, no we dig em for our protection in battle so's we won't get shot at . . . She sez oh, yeah? . . . and do you build cute little houses over 'em like the one in Hooper's backyard? . . . I sez, Honey, that ain't no foxhole . . . tsk, tsk! She sez I want to come out to the post! I sez right back . . . No!!! . . . A army post is no place fer wimmen! She sez you go to blazes . . . You are probably going out with WACS . . . and I'm coming anyway. I sez you are worse'n a fly on a baby's nose She sez, wot! I sez I was thinking of buying ya some hose. She sez, oh, darling . . . Sooo we goes to tha main post . . . We gets offen tha bus in front of the big brick barracks . . . and as we walk past . . . the seemingly dead barracks all of a sudden there is a bunch of whistles . . . phree-K phrewwww! She sez who are they whistling at, Honey? I sez maybe yer slips showing . . . or maybe ya left it home. Y'see . . . we diddent notice a cute chick across tha street . . . The boys was whistling' at . . . She sez Gaw-urge Don't you be fresh with your cracks! . . . And now you tell those fellas to stop whistling at me! So I sez to tha wise guys to stop tweetin' at my wife . . .



They shut up until we got about two steps further when somebody yells . . . awww at ease, Dogface! . . . We wouldn't whistle at yer old sunken battlewagon ift she was 20 years younger even !!! . . . seeeeeee? . . . Well . . . we soon met tha Co. Commander and me wife sez lootenant . . . liik what Junior can do . . . So she sez to Jr. . . show tha looey how daddy salutes him. . . . and tha doggone brat brings up tha snappiest five fingers to a nose ya ever seen !!! We just made the show at tha Main Theatre and got sat down, when some guyin back yelled hey, lady . . . take that fire extinguisher off ya head willya? . . . I felt sooo low . . . a left hook from a cockroach would knock me cold! We went to the cafeteria after tha show. My bittersweet kin eat more'n a Regt. o'mules. When she finished piling her tray wit food . . . all that was missin' was 4 wheels and a Ford motor. At the end of tha counter she sez for me to pay tha woman . . . I sez with wot? . . . She sez well I have no money . . . The woman sez that'll be okay . . . you husband can wash dishes nights here for the next two weeks . . . I sez please Lord get me a boat! My wife sez wot you say? I sez you would look nice in a fur coat. She sez oh, darling . . . Yeah!!! If I could feed her to a Polar bear one time . . .!!!

Corporal George Johnston, 22nd Co., 1st S. T. R.

Maybe you can't teach an old dog new tricks. But any dog can LEARN new tricks—if he wants to.

How can we fight a common cause if we have a divided mind?

If we hung "God's Boss in Our Home" alongside "God Bless Our Home," the framed motto might become something more than wishful thinking.

USO Presents—

SPAGHETTI, BOAT RIDE, TENNIS CLINIC AND GOOD OLE WEINERS

BY PFC. SHELDON A. KEITEL

Mrs. Kathleen Barrow, who has again established headquarters in the Phenix City Salvation Army-USO, announces a spaghetti supper garnished with music by Pianist Edgar White and the Victorettes will be served tonight at the club . . . Festivities will begin at 9:30 p. m. (EWT) . . . Mrs. Barrow invites half a hundred Fort Benning soldiers to attend.

• • •

The USO will sponsor a boat trip down the Chattahoochee River highlighted by a wiener roast at a point downstream next Wednesday night . . . Fifteen servicemen can be accommodated on the cruise if they will make reservations . . . A like number of the feminine sex will accompany them.

• • •

A camera club has been organized at the Army-Navy YMCA-USO . . . Next meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 14, in the office of Mr. G. W. Avison, director, at 8 p. m. (EWT) . . . A darkroom has been built at the club which is large enough to house 10 men at work over their films and printing paper . . . Sgt. Joseph Valerio is temporary chairman of the club which meets on alternate Thursdays.

• • •

A feature of the athletic program of Ninth Street USO is the "tennis clinic" conducted Sunday mornings at Wildwood Park courts under the co-sponsorship of the Columbus Recreation Department . . Corp. Lloyd G. Bates, Jr., of Fort Benning, who is a four time winner of the Hartford (Conn.) tennis tournament and is a low-seeded player in the New England Lawn Tennis Association, instructs in the game's tecchnique.

• • •

A wiener roast especially for the boys of the boys of the Benning ASTP will be given Saturday at 6 p. m. (EWT) by the Salvation Army-USO, 1323 Broadway, Columbus, in Weracoba Park . . . Mrs. Edna Scott, program director, explains that the party will not be restricted to ASTP men but that they will be special guests. She plans to have hostesses at the affair and asks that the boys make reservations.

• • •

The extension of Coffee-Ands at Ninth Street USO from a Sunday morning feature to the inviation to have a free cup of coffee anytime at the club has proved so popular, according to Mr. Eugene Bergman, director, that now a 12-gallon coffee pot must be filled twice a day . . Sunday is considerably higher, he said.

• • •

New Fort Benning area director of the Salvation Army-USO units is Adjutant Victor Tidman . . . He replaced Captain Richard T. Bergren, who resigned to direct USO work in Richmond, Va. . . . Adjutant Tidman comes to Columbus from Anniston, Ala. . . . He has had 15 years of Salvation Army service and two years in USO work.

• • •

More than 525 picture-voice recordings have made at the Army-Navy YMCA-USO since the feature was inaugurated less than a month ago at the club . . . The picture is snapped as the soldier makes the recording, thereby giving the parents, wife or sweetheart a photograph along with the sender's voice.

This Khaki'd World

By PVT. G. I. GRIPE

After watching newsreels of high ranking generals pinning medals on WACS—a lot of soldiers have resolved to be very good boys and grow up to be Generals, themselves.

A GI walked into office the other mornnig after Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general retired, and said "Boy, I just saw General Fulton in a civilian suit. You know, I had almost forgotten what those clothes looked like. Why, he looked like a million dollars." Then he looked around and added "I'll bet I'd look like the national debt in mufti now."

Oh, boy, is our face a bright and brilliant red. Last week we made reference to the coach of the 300th Infantry football team and called him by the wrong name. Our apologies to Capt. Friedlund.

After severely lecturing ourselves, we quizzed us closely. It appears that we had asked Sgt. Carl Neu the coach's name. Then we had asked him about somebody else. We wrote the two names down side by side. And in writing the item, we got the wrong name.

Such things 'll just naturally happen once in a long while. No excuses, of course. But what really got our goat was—nobody razzed us about it. Watsa matter, don't the boys at the 300th know who their coach is? Or can't they read?

Well, anyway, the ysure can play football, what? Looks like a right good season here at Fort Benning.

Reception Center Chorus congratulating itself on having Rawn Spearman back for its r e g u l a r Thursday night broadcasts—and it's now Staff Sergeant Spearman.

Some of the boys in camp don't like the new policy of allowing the organizations whose teams are playing football games, to take the first choice of seats in Doughboy Stadium. On other hand it's pointed out that colleges and schools all give first chance to their own groups. What's YOUR idea on it, soldiers?

Corporal Tabor pretty puffed up these days over having sleuthed out the mystery of the missing bike. Get your technique from the run you're making on mystery thrillers in the Garrison Library, Brit?

The hurtingest guy at the Fort is probably Sgt. E. H. Taylor, 33d Armored Engineers, out in the Lucky Seventh Armored Division. Standing a meager six feet eight and a half inches, he can't get an "A" uniform so he can't get in town. Besides that, his feet stick out of GI beds.

Chaplain's Corner..

A PRESCRIPTION

Chaplain F. M. Thompson

The old Indian medicine wagon has practically disappeared. The radio, however, has multiplied its activities 10,000 fold. By day and night the air is bombarded with nostrums, until one is overwhelmed in an avalanche of pills, ointments, plasters, tonics, liniments, correctives, preventives—all guaranteed to cure everything from dandruff to psittacosis.

• • •

Now if we are to believe the medical profession practically all those panaceas are worthless. The pathetic part of it all is that many suffering people are deceived thereby.

• • •

Certainly there is no question but that the years of many a life could have been lengthened had a reliable physician been consulted and the true condition of the patient been revealed. But there is not much anyone can do about it, people will get sick and the unscrupulous will profit on human misery.

• • •

The following prescription, I am advised, if followed will be as beneficial for what ails you, as most of those advertised.

Take a little rum
The less you take the better,
Pour it in the lakes
Of Wener or of Wetter.
Dip a spoonful out
And mind you don't get groggy,
Pour it in the lake
Of Winnispissiogle.

Stir the mixture well
Lest it prove inferior.
Then put half a drop
Into Lake Superior.
Every other day
Take a drop of water,
You'll be better soon
Or at least you oughter.

Old Testament: "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine."

Kay Says—

A PUPPY JOINS HO USEHOLD AND HAVOC REIGN S SUPREME

We have a new member of the household, a frolicsome, slipper-chewing puppy. The puppy became a member of the family after mature consideration and after listening to innumerable arguments that every boy should have a dog. What friends failed to remind me of was the destruction any lively and healthy puppy can do on short notice.

Our relations with neighbors, tradesmen, and laundresses up to this time have been fairly amiable. Our yardman has taken pride in keeping the lawn presentable in spite of mammoth piles of miscellaneous debris our three-year-old is prone to collect. We had, with our fingers crossed against any prospective move, even managed to buy a few pieces of furniture. With the advent of the puppy, our former comparatively blissful state seems to be undergoing a rapid change.

• • •

The milkman was horrified this mornnig to find that our energetic hound had managed to tip over and break a quart bottle of milk, forcing me to run down the street very much underdressed to inform the milkman of our need. "With milk so scarce, too," the milkman announced indignantly.

• • •

Fanny, the laundress, is muttering indignantly about the puppy's proclivity for chewing the hems of freshly-washed sheets as they billow on the line. Fanny, I am given to understand in no uncertain terms, has four dogs. They are all well-behaved beasties who keep their proper place outdoors, live off table scraps, and would never think of jumping on the furniture.

Not so our puppy. If there's an unmarred inch of upholstery in the house, puppy picks that spot to hide a slightly used dog-biscuit or to curl up for a luxurious nap, oblivious to our dread of fleas or woodticks in the furniture. Table scraps and wholesome dog food are shunned—puppy prefers a diet of dead toads, birds which should have been buried days ago, morsels of apple core, or a mildewed orange rind.

• • •

Shunted out the back door by an indignant adult, puppy is promptly let in the front door by an even more indignant three-year-old. One energetic boy, plus one wirey small dog, equals a constant state of chaos from basement to bedroom. Father's comfortable bedroom slippers, mother's best negligee, the new sofa pillow all bear the marks of vigorous tugs-of-war.

• • •

Moreover, puppy is having a marked effect on the younger generation in the neighborhood. Toddlers who are a bit uncertain as to the friendliness of canines are pounced upon, grabbed firmly by the seat of small pants, and dragged about to the accompaniment of terrorized, ear-piercing screams. Puppy is reprimanded severely and tied up, only to have the abused offspring, now recovered from their fright, lurch up for a closer inspection and a consequent thorough chewing by sharp puppy teeth.

Looming before us is the prospect of shots for rabies, shots for distemper, baths to counteract the inroads of fleas and ticks. Why didn't our friends, while elaborating on the ways of a boy and a dog, give us a hint as to the consequent wear and tear on the adult nervous system?

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

T. P. ISSUES A 5-PA RAGRAPH FIELD ORDER—REA D IT AND ROAR

By S.-SGT. TOM McDONALD

Both Private Sawgrass and myself look upon a trip to town as one of the great experiences—that is, when it becomes our lot to have to accompany our commanding officer, Colonel T. P. Swampwater.

Due to our leader's rank and the "brass shyness" of the Quartermaster Motor Pool, we always have a jeep at our disposal, a factor which eliminates the conveyance problem to a great extent.

To all explicit purposes, our commander was keeping the motive for our trip a complete mystery. Whether he definitely had a reason for going to town or merely wanted to get out of the office, Private Sawgrass and myself were not certain.

On the way in, I was 'pilot' of the jeep. Colonel Swampwater was 'co-pilot' and Private Sawgrass sat in the rear. I didn't know whether to count Sawgrass as cargo or excess baggage. But after listening to him rave about the "Snake Woman of the Carnival," all the way from Baker Village to Fourth Street, I decided that he was "excess luggage."

Although Colonel Swampwater was silent and appeared to be deeply concentrating all the way in, I was inclined to believe that he agreed with my assumption.

After finding a neat little parking space near the most convenient chewing gum store, the three of us alighted.

"Man," says our leader, "prepare for your orders of the day."

After Private Sawgrass and I took out our pads and fountain pens, the ol' boy began.

"There are hazards all around us such as fire plugs, one hour parking limits and excessive penalties for jay walking. Try to be on the alert at all times.

"You will find several nice stores on both our right and left that carry complete lines of peanut brittle and several bands of chewing gum.

"Your mission is to wait here for me to go get a haircut. Sawgrass, you must hold this position at all costs. Sergeant, you may make a reconnaissance and report to me whenever necessary.

"Your security is intact in event of an attack by traffic cops or M.P.'s. You have sufficient gas in the jeep to make an orderly withdrawal.

"Our squad aid station will be the drugstore on THAT corner. In event of mishap, all walking wounded will report there. All neutralized personnel will be where they fell.

"My command post will be the third chair from the front in THAT barber shop. Are there any questions?

"No? Well, move out."

But as Fate would have it, before our unit could get organized, hostile action began. Just as Colonel Swampwater did a right face to head for the barber shop, General Quagmire's grand daughter, Mrs. Rebecca O'Riley appeared from the left flank with her two month's old baby in her arms.

"Why, Colonel Swampwater," she uttered, "How simply delightful to meet you here!"

"Good day, M'am," replied the Ol' Boy. "And how is the baby today?"

"Oh he's fine, Sir," replied its mother. "I do hope you won't mind holding her while I go in the beauty parlor for a little-while."

"Well, 'er, I'm sorry but 'er—"

"Oh I knew you would. You're really a nice old soldier in spite of that look in your eye," she said at the same time thrusting her offspring into Colonel Swampwater's arms.

"I say, Rebecca! I can't do this—'er, sput! 'er, Army officers can't be seen carrying babies or bundles!"

"Well you will just have to hold her anyway," replied the mother. "Grandpa outranks you!" With that she took off for the beauty parlor.

"Shades of Salome!" howled my leader. "She can't do this to me. I'm a man! I'm a full colonel! HERE, Sergeant! Hold this baby! It's an order!"

Reluctantly I took the infant and held it in the position Ready! Load! a howitzer term used in handling high explosives. Presently the brat started to cry.

"WAHIE! WAHATE!"

"This is utterly chaotic," I said to Sawgrass who was grinning from ear to ear. As soon as the Colonel had gotten safely into the barber shop, my mind began to function properly.

"Here, Sawgrass!" I commanded. "Hold this baby! It's an order!"

Sickening disgracefully in the fact, my subordinate accepted the baby. Its crying drowned out the noise for three blocks around.

"Dammit, Sergeant! This is carrying this rank business too far!"

"Sorry, Sawgrass, but orders is orders! I'm going out to make a reconnaissance. You stay here and guard the jeep."

"What about this brat?" he yelled.

"Just sing to her," I replied.

"After walking around the main part of town for about ten minutes, my conscience began to inform me that I should go back and see how Sawgrass was making out.

When I returned, he was sitting in the jeep holding the baby whose tear stained face looked almost as pathetic as Sawgrass's.

"Whattsa matter?" I asked as I came up to the jeep.

"This dawn passing the buck!" growled Sawgrass in a terribly angry voice. All at once the situation became clear to me.

"Wait here," I said. "I'll go make a report to Colonel Swampwater." On arriving at the barber shop, I found the Ol' Boy stretched out in the chair. His face was covered with shaving lather and the barber was talking to him in a very barberishly manner.

"Sir," I said, "we have a casualty in our squad."

"Who is it, Sergeant?" the Ol' Boy replied anxiously, rising as he did, so.

(Continued on Page 7)

Ex-'Yank' Scribe Back From S. Pacific Jungles

O. C. Barschdorf Now Taking Course In 3rd Regiment

Former Yank correspondent, Public Relations and Special Service man, Candidate Arthur Barschdorf of the Fourth Company, Third Student Training Regiment, had a heavy responsibility in helping to maintain morale in his division as it moved through the steaming jungles of the South Pacific. The work went on at times when the men called a foxhole home and under annoying bombardments by the Japs.

Barschdorf recalls getting his program underway on the crowded transport that took his outfit to New Zealand. Life on board he described as "a continual mob scene." However, an amateur band was organized to exude "corn" every night and crossing the equator provided an opportunity for supervised horseplay.

In New Zealand the Yanks were surprised to find a people, who, according to Barschdorf, "were more English than the English." The New Zealanders, however, took the American boys to their hearts and went all out to provide them recreation and comfort.

Guadalcanal was the next stop on the Pacific tour. As the transport neared the beach, eight Jap torpedo bombers closed in and dove. Navy and Army gunners accounted for six of this force. One was blown apart by a direct hit 300 yards away from the troop ship toward which it was headed in a suicide dive.

OMNIPOTENT JAPS

Barschdorf said that in the unloading process everyone pitched in, including clerks and officers. The work had to be speeded up because of the ever-present threat of Jap aircraft.

The Russell Islands, which already had been seized by American forces were next. Air raids were common, Barschdorf said, and the noise from the first attacks was maddening. Barschdorf and his co-workers had first hand views of many stiff air battles.

Barschdorf's divison went into actual combat with the enemy on New Georgia. The divson, he sad, regarded its ntaton nto combat more as a competiton of forward movement with the Japs rather than a game of actual hunting and killing. Because of the strict enforcement of sanitation and field housekeeping rules by the divisional commander, the outfit had the lowest sickness rate in the South Pacific, Barschdorf produly declares.

STARTS NEW SHEET

Where the morale problem called for careful planning and a great expenditure ofenergy. Finally, however, movie projector equipment arrived and "cokes" and beer became available. In addition for writing for Yank during this period, Barschdorf got unit news-sheet started. "There were no circulation problems and we didn't have to 'sell' the sheet to anyone," Barschdorf. "Even the colonel complained if he didn't get his issue."

While he was pleased with the honor of being selected to become an officer candidate in The Infantry School Barschdorf said he suffered a letdown when the orders came through, separating him from his buddies with whom he had had his baptism of fire.

7th Armored Airs Show

After launching a schedule of weekly entertainment features designed to maintain the high morale standard of the "Lucky 7th" Division Special Service office climaxed its new program with a half-hour radio show over WRBL - WGPC, the Georgia Broadcasting System.

The show, entitled the "Army Hour," and broadcast from the 11th street USO, co-featured an original drama by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman plus the 40th Armored Regiment orchestra and the piano team, "The Awful Brothers."

Built around the playlet "Dream On, Private," the broadcast opened with an original number written by one of the bandsmen and entitled "Majave Blues." Cpls. Fred S. Bowen and George Engles, "The Awful Brothers," then took the spotlight with their sparkling keyboard arrangements of "Tea For Two," and "I Want To Be Happy."

"Dream On, Private," adapted for radio by the Special Service Office, was enacted by Cpls. Edward Cary, George Engles and Alta Riffle; Sgt. Justin Wagner and Walter Gluckman (WOJG).

Spl. Alta Riffle of The Infantry School WAC Detachment "doubled" on the program as a singer with her lovely vocalizing of "Ol' Rockin' Chair's Got Me." Sgt. Edmuda of the band took the solos on "At Last," and "The Private Pretends," an original tune from the 7th Armored Division's smash musicomedy hit "Off Limits."

Earlier last week SSO inaugurated a series of bi-weekly service club entertainments which included an army "hit kit" songfest and a variety show with the new 87th Reconnaissance Band.

Pvt. Russell Wallace of Maintenance Battalion emceed the shows and WAC Cpl. Pauline Hodulik assisted. As a "guestar" she received a round of applause for her clever singing of "GI," an original WAC ditty.

A tablespoon top-routine, a bit of novelty whistling, and a pie-eating contest staged by Columbus newsboys rounded out the program.

Artist Duo At Service Club No. 3

Metropolitan Opera Singer, Local Pianist In Monday Recital

Two Columbus artists, Osie Hawkins, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Association, and Eyizabeth Fort Jenkins, pianist, will give a concert at Service Club No. 3, Harmony church area, Fort Benning on Monday night at 8:30 o'clock. The concert is given for soldiers and music lovers of Fort Benning.

The following is the program as it will be given:

I.

Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes ..... Old English
The Bell Man ..... Forsyth
Recitative and Aria: Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves .. Handel
Osie Hawkins.

II.

When The King Went Forth To War ..... Koeneman
Over The Steppe .. Gretchaninoff
The Coming of Spring ..... Rachmaninoff
Song of The Flea .. Moussorgsky
Osie Hawkins.

III.

Three Preludes .....
Nocturne ..... Chopin
Two Etudes .....
Elizabeth Fort Jenkins.

IV.

Aria—Wotan's Abschied from 'DIE WALKUERE' ... Wagner
Osie Hawkins;
Intermission

V.

Andante ..... Gluck-Friedman
Claire de Lune ..... Debussy
Sevilla ..... Albeniz
Elizabeth Fort Jenkins.

VI.

Morning ..... Speaks
Do Not Go, My Love .. Hageman
The Abbot of Derry .... Weaver
Osie Hawkins.

VII.

Deep River ..... Harry Burleigh
Honor! Honor! ..... Hall Johnson
Hangman, Slack on de Line ..... adapted by Harven Enders
(Negro Folgk Song)
Osie Hawkins.

Food—For Thought

People are always talking about food. Just ask someone, "How was your lunch?", and invariably you've started something. If his or her lunch was good, they'll be sure to tell you how delicious it was and of what it consisted. If it wasn't good, you'll hear about that too. It's no wonder people talk so much about food when you stop to realize that nations have fought wars for food, or territories that would produce food.

Let's eavesdrop on a couple of people to whom the matter of food is of great importance, a mess officer and his mess sergeants.

THE OFFICER: This matter of food conservation is of great importance. The need to conserve food is obvious. The means is not quite so obvious but simple enough when the four rules are adhered to. First, we should see to it that no edible food goes into garbage. Secondly, that foods are not spoiled. Thirdly, edible foods should not be left on plates, and last but not least, insure against waste in preparation.

THE SERGEANT: Along with those rules a little ingenuity and common sense can help too, sir. For instance, the other day in another mess I observed the cook using the blades of cauliflower as a green, so I tried it here and it was a very palatable and attractive item. The boys went for it, too.

THE OFFICER: That's the idea. A number of messes are utilizing all beef, pork and lamb fat by rendering it and using it for seasoning and shortening. None of this fat should go into salvage until full use has been made of it in cooking.

THE SERGEANT: That's good, sir, although I have found that some of the mn may object to the taste of the food that has been fried in beef or lamb fat, in which case, it is wise to mix it with regular shortening.

THE OFFICER: So much can be done with meats, fats and bones. One mess had a delicious vegetable soup the other day seasoned with a stock made from beef bones out into small pieces. Another had an excellent dressing seasoned with beef bone stock.

THE SERGEANT: I've used beef bones for stock in making soups with lot of success, sir. I must try it on dressings.

THE OFFICER: About spoilage, Sergeant, some messes allow small amounts of fresh fruits and vegetables carried over from previous issue to spoil. This can be remedied by using them in salads, stews and specially prepared side dishes before the spoilage takes place.

THE SERGEANT: I'm aware of that, sir. More good edible food is wasted in the leftovers than from any other source. I now check my meat counts for each day of the previous week then compare this with the amount of leftovers from last week's meals and that way, I can get a good idea just how much food to cook for the different meals each day of the week. My leftovers have been cut down and these are used in salads, soups and stews.

THE OFFICER: That's the way to do it, Sergeant. All those arrangements and plans go toward making a well operated mess. If all mess sergeants would follow the four rules and add a little common sense they would have the same smooth running, efficient mess that you have. Good work, Sergeant.

THE SERGEANT: Thank you, Sir.

—A. H. V.

The German debt has increased six-fold since the beginning of war and now is 200 billion marks.

The first daily newspaper in England was published by a woman. Elizabeth Mallett, in 1702.

Parachute Paragraphs

PVT. FOUNTAIN MEADOWS

COMBAT JUMP! There are probably no two other words in the newly-formed language of modern warfare that pack such wallop of action. It is toward the realization of just these words that the Parachute School daily works. All the tumbling, double timing, calisthenics and Indian Clubs of "A STAGE", all the work on apparati simulating all phases of the actual jump in "B STAGE", the Towers in "C STAGE" and the live jumping from 'planes in 'D STAGE" have but one end. That end and purpose is the combat jump against the enemy.

TUNISIA — SICILY — NEW GUINEA where airborne troops with parachutists as vanguard meant the bringing to reality of long months of training at Fort Benning and at advanced training camps to the men who took part. It meant fulfillment to them of promises they made themselves when they volunteered for the troops and were sent to the Parachute School to learn the art of jumping. The better we do our job in the school—the better we are able to equip these men aiming at that combat jump—the safer will these men be and the more effective will they be against the enemy.

FROM EVERY state in the union and most countries in this hemisphere men flock into Fort Benning as volunteers for parachute duty. A glance at the roster of a class starting "A Stage" last week will give you an idea of the range of nationalities represented: Scelinsky, Schenck, Schmidt, Salvaggio, Shaffer, Sharp, Siemanowicz, Sirotek, Skiba, Reshetar, Dufresne, Straussberger, Sullivan, Texas, Thompson, Togni, Usery, Van Allen, Vanderveer, Vovak, Yoshida, Youkhanna, West, Weiss, Waterbury, Young, Zarimba, Montoya and twelve assorted Smiths. France, Poland, Holland, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Spain, Mexico, Peru and many other countries have their American sons toiling, sweating and aiming for the day o days when they will make their combat jump. The melting pot works, Adolph, and you will find it flooding your land as molten lead eats through jello!

SGT. FRANK ZACKOWIT, erstwhile Brooklyn housewrecker and champagne connoisseur and Sgt. Rupert Davol, who in the days of Athens and all those muscley statuary made his living modeling as Zeus and such gods were the feature attractions in some motion pictures that were made recently at the school for training purposes. "Zack" engaged in making his "toity toid" tree landing for the camera was a casualty. After landing, deliberately, in the highest tree within miles, he Tarzanned down a rope from his lofty perch and burned his hamsy-wamsys.

Just when he was about to hold the heroine's hand, too. Sgt. Davol of Atlanta, Ga., shy flower of gold that he is made a low-altitude jump and so as to not make it hard on the cameraman, lit plumb on top of him. Southern courtesy no less.

THE FILM ITSELF should prove a valuable aid in the training of new men. It will vividly illustrate all phases of the instruction. The close-ups necessary in it were made at the Signal Corps. Studios at Long Island, N. Y. A special plane made the flight down east to carry the instructors who took part in this work. Under the technical supervision of Lt. John J. McTiernan, Sgts. John Kolchak, Jos. Massimino, Harold Geible, Roy Allard, Robert Schuin, Frank Zackowitz, Philip Campisi, Warren Smith, Charles F. Lance, Aubrey Wells, Francis Arnold, S-Sgt. Gordon Moulton and Robert Dresch made the trip.

GERONIMO DOESN'T live here any more. It's true the cry GERONIMO! is not used in the school at all. A man just doesn't have time to say it. As soon as he leaves the door of the 'plane he starts counting slowly "one thousand, two thousand, three thousand" and just naturally forgets all about Indians or anything else except getting that correct body position. As far as can be learned this War Cry was used by the first parachute outfit, the 501st., but has seen little service since.

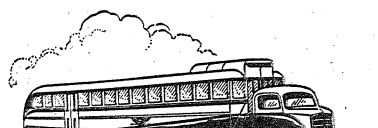
SGT. JOSEPH KNIGHT, 'D Stage" jumpmaster and author of "Paratroopers' Prayer" and many other popular parachute pennings, is leaving the School for Harmony Church and the single gold bar. We're all with you, Joe; luck to you.

SGT. ROY ALLARD passes the following classic on to us: Last Friday, while one of our large classes was busily engaged in a death struggle to get their 'chutes packed for their first thriller: that one considered by many to be the beginning or end of all to come — the end as they file into the plane — the beginning as they trundle in fresh from the first landing on Lawson Field — one of our beloved and highly-prized students rushed up to the 'chute storage room. He was out of breath, panting, excited and all in a fury. He managed to gasp: "Sarge, I've got to get my 'chute out right way. I just turned it in a few minutes ago and I thought it was O.K. But, Sarge, oh gosh, was I wrong! The Sergeant, just a little guy, looked quickly up from his roster, shrank back into his chin away from the sweating, quivering mass of excited flesh towering above him and regaining a little of his composure asked "why?" "Sarge, replied the man, I turned my 'chute in as O.K. for my jump Monday and I, I forgot to adjust the harness on my reserve pack." The Sergeant was mean. He wouldn't let the man draw his 'chute. On Monday, however, the excited student had calmed down and he successfully made his first jump with the 'chute just as it was. It just shows you how you can get excited over nothing. The reserve 'chute does not have any harness. There is nothing to adjust.

"Yank Magazine" recently published the picture of Sgt. Chris Belkas, suggesting that since he could manage sixty push-ups on one hand that he must hold the record. There are several men in the Parachute School who who are just getting warmed up at sixty — Sgts. Campisis and Doxtad, modestly can better that mark by a good twenty-or thirty. The dubious distinction means little but the record should be kept fairly clear.

NEWSHAWK THAT I AM, it was only by sheer good luck that I was hit in the face with the fact that one of the instructors in "A Stage" with whom I luckily have been working — a husky, aquilined-featured young fellow named James W. Smith (really) is the National A. A. U. low-hurdling champion. He holds the national record for 200 meters—running this distance over those tumblesome wooden obstacles in the neat time of 23 seconds. At Randalls Island, N. Y., in July, 1942, Smith won the 200-meter lows and the 400-meter 36" hurdle races. He was a student of the University of Southern California — the school which has won the national title nine times in a row. Sgt. Smith runs the hundred-yard dash in 9.8 seconds. On the U. S. C. track team he was the seventh fastest sprint man with that time. Where does that place you? Personally egg-rolling is where I shine — holding the White House lawn record of 76 minutes and 27 eggs.

Soldier Dies Of Accidental Gun Wounds



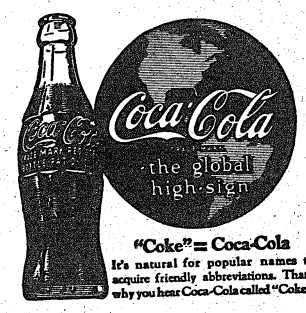
The death of Pvt. Edward B. Mullane, 33, of the 17th Tank Battalion of the Seventh Armored Division was disclosed late last week with the announcement that the soldier had been injured fatally by the accidental discharge from a .45 caliber pistol.

Mullane, a native of Syracuse, N. Y., was a member of Company B of the battalion. He entered military service April 13, 1942. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Winifred Wunderlick of 603 Tompkins street, Syracuse.

A board of officers, appointed to investigate the death of Private Mullane, found that he was killed when a pistol discharged accidentally. The body has been shipped to Syracuse for burial.

PEST CONTROL SERVICE
ROACHES, RATS, BEDBUGS
CREATORS OF SANITATION — ORKIN EXTERMINATING COMPANY INC.
115—12th ST.
PHONE 6744

Through These Portals...
Pass The Best Soldiers on Earth
P. S. STORES
Just Above The Howard Bus Line
926 Broadwey Columbus, Ga.



COLUMBUS & FT. BENNING
HOWARD BUS LINE
SERVICE TO FORT BENNING FOR 22 YEARS

DOING A WARTIME JOB - - -
UNDER WAR TIME CIRCUMSTANCES
HOWARD BUS LINE
900 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

PAT PATTERSON
1210 & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED CHICKEN IN THIS TOWN
No. 1 KANSAS CITY STEAKS THAT'S REALLY TENDER
CAT FISH DINNERS GA. STYLE
COME OUT ON THE NORTH HIGHLAND BUS
BRING THE FAMILY TONIGHT!
Try Our Sea Food Course — 8 Private Dining Rooms

PIN-UP GIRLS
Are Favorites With the Boys in the Service
BUT PIN-UP BOYS
Are Favorites With the Girls Back Home!

And when you send that Package
Above All
SEND A PICTURE
SPECIAL
9x12 hand painted oil painting.
Regular $15.00 value—Now $5.50
Open Every Evening Until 9 P. M., Ft. Benning Time
BON ART STUDIO
5½ 11TH ST. DIAL 2-0571

Have a "Coke" = Happy Days

...or how to feel at home in the Bahamas
Happy Days, they say in Nassau when they want to make you welcome. It's a happy greeting, but no more so than the one the American soldier has made popular. Have a "Coke", says he, and he's as quickly understood in Nassau as New York. From the poles to the equator, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the high-sign of American friendliness 'round the world.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY
©1943 The C-C-C-Co.

Spirit Gridders Who Are Planning A T-Party For Sunday Afternoon

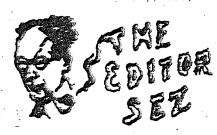
HARRIS OF L. S. U.

RUSSELL OF IDAHO

HALES OF N. CAROLINA

DUDISH OF GEORGIA

HURST OF KENTUCKY



WATERFIELD OF U. C. L. A.

Sportscasting

BY SGT. CARL NEU

LUBAN'S DEPARTURE SADDENS US

The departure from Benning of Sgt. Milton Luban, via a medical discharge from the Army, has considerably saddened us these days. As the number one contributor to these pages for the past many months, Milt has been a constant companion in the press box during great basketball and baseball campaigns. His reports on Prof teams in particular and TIS sports in general have always added to the coverge of Bayonet sports, while his frequent humorous yarns have considerably brightened the local sports scene.

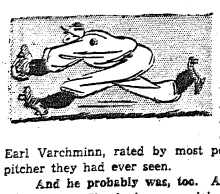
Of late, though, the Sarge hadn't been his usual self. He seemed to be gradually losing his battle with painful sciatica, so finally the Army decided to send him back to the sunny climes of California where he can get back to reasonable health. We hated to see him go because he was a great sports fan, and quite an athlete himself back in the old days when he was a college boxer at Alabama.

He had plenty of guts, too. During the recent Benning world series, with his beloved Profs involved, he refused to even let old Man Sciatica keep him out of that press box. Confined to the station hospital throughout the series, Luban somehow managed to coax a pass out of the authorities each evening along about 6:30 and didn't miss a game. As soon as the last batter went out, Milt would gather up his trusty score book and hustle back to Ward E-5. That's real spirit, which is something we liked best about the Sarge. He's a great newspaperman, too, and we know he'll have real success if he continues in that as his chosen field. Aloha and farewell, Milt!

THEY'LL NEVER DECIDE IT

There's one post baseball argument that is bound to keep the hot stove league busy all winter long, at least amongst colored troops at Benning. That argument is regarding the relative merits of those two fine nines, the 1st STR Red Sox and the Reception Center, who finished up the campaign last week in just about another deadlock for honors of all kinds.

The Sox won the first-half Service League crown, beating the R. C. lads in their only clash. In the second-half, the receptionists topped the Sox in their lone meeting and therefore won the crown. In the five-game playoff, the 1st STR came out on top by winning three-out-of-five. That should have settled it because the post title went to the Sox.



But then along came the Southeastern Tourney and the arch-rivals entered that, too. This time, both rolled through their respective brackets to the finals and a three-game playoff. And this time, the Reception Center took the laurels by winning the final game on Monday, 3-2. Now, the Red Sox are post champs, but the R. C. lads are southeastern champs. In the ten times they met in regular competition, they each won five times. Now, you pick the best team.

The answer, however, is fairly simple. The Red Sox undoubtedly had the best all-around club, but the receptionists had an almost unbeatable battery in Snooky Welmaker and Piggy Greene, both former pros. Whenever Welmaker couldn't pitch for R. C., they took the game. Whenever he didn't pitch, the Sox won with ease. Welmaker this season was the greatest "iron man" we ever saw. In the southeastern tourney, he pitched and won four games in five days and was still grinning as he walked off the mound Monday with the title won.

You must admit there's plenty of room for argument about these two clubs, but then there are plenty of laurels to go around, too, so we'll wind it up by offering congrats to both teams for their splendid play which provided much recreation throughout the year.

PARATROOPERS ALL THE WAY

While we're passing out orchids, it's high time to stop and pay tribute to that great softball aggregation from the 1st Academic Company of the Parachute School.

Recently they won the 1943 post title without dispute by toppling the 176th Spirits for the second straight time to grab the second-half title. They had also captured the first-half laurels in mid-summer with very little trouble. Secret of the parachute success also was a very great pitcher in Earl Varchminn, rated by most post fans as the greatest softball pitcher they had ever seen.

And he probably was, too. All we know is that throughout the season, Varchminn was nigh unbeatable. Most of the time, he hurled no-hitters or one-hitters as he paced his TPS ten to victory. Seldom if ever, did he relinquish more than three or four safeties. He earned the respect of every batter who faced him with his tremendous assortment of "stuff." If ever a man stood out head and shoulders above the rest of the pack, it was Varchminn this season as he simulated a one-man cyclone in guiding the 1st Academic tossers to victory in the post's first major softball circuit.

Waterfield, 176th Mates Will Use T-Formation In Clash With 124th Gators

Former Uclan Standout To Direct Spirit Offense

BY SGT. CARL NEU

There's going to be a T-party in Doughboy Stadium on Sunday afternoon. It's being planned by a chap named Bob Waterfield and some cronies of his on the 176th Infantry football team, and just to be cordial about the thing, the Spirits have invited some other fellows from out Harmony Church way who play football for the 124th Infantry.

The whole deal sound pretty rosy, except that no one's quite sure just how the Gators, who get awfully rambunctious at times, are going to take to this T-business. Unless they sip it gracefully, there is going to be quite a fuss—and the prospects of just such a fuss are expected to attract something like 15,000 onlookers for the T-party which begins at 2 o'clock.

At any rate, the whole affair, which is really listed as a TIS Conference grid battle, is bound to be quite a revelation because it will mark the official introduction of the famed T-formation in all its glory to Benning.

FOREMOST EXPONENT

Most of the local elevens use a variation of the T, but none of them go who-he-hog like the Spirits do with Waterfield as the man "down under" handling the ball on every play. The former U.C.L.A. flash rates right along with Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears and Frankie Albert of Stanford as one of the foremost exponents of the triple-threat T formation.

From his position, smack behind the center, Waterfield reaches down for every pass from the pivotman and then begins his mystery magic. He can either pass to another back slamming into the line, heave a lateral, run the ball himself or fade for a long pass. When it works, it's a most confusing offensive system, and Waterfield and the Spirits have found the combination as attested by their victory over South Carolina last Saturday.

TOUGH JOB

Facing the Gators, though, will be a tougher assignment, because the burly 124th crowd is now boiling mad after having dropped two in a row to Jacksonville Navy and the 300th Sabers. The Gaters feel they are too good a club to drop three in a row, and intend to prove it Sunday, T-party or not.

The game will probably develop into an aerial battle, since both rivals pack a stronger punch through the airlanes than along the ground, despite their affiliations with the infantry. Against the Gamecocks the Spirits clicked for 15 passes in 26 tries, while the Gators completed 7 passes against the 300th for 103 yards.

GREAT PASSER

In Waterfield, however, the Spirits hold a slight edge since the ex-Bruin was just about the finest collegiate leather-slinger in the nation last fall and has lost none of his stuff. Roy Cestary and Jim Todd, the Gator throwers are both good, but not quite as classy as Waterfield.

Also, the Spirit quarterback has a fine corps of potential receivers in All-America George Poschner from Georgia, Harry Hales from North Carolina and the Philly Eagles, Marv Lee of U. C. L. A., Sully Harris of L. S. U. and Johnny Hurst of Kentucky.

ONE-TWO PUNCH

Harris and Hurst are the one-two punch of the 176th ground attack as well, operating from the tailback and fullback slots, respectively. Andy Dudish, another ex-Georgia Bulldog, rounds out a smooth starting backfield for the Crimson and Gray machine.

Along the forward wall, Capt. Lee D. Pollock, the Spirit mentor, will probably start Poschner and Frank Lockamy at ends, Frank Heidel and Johnny Cagle at tackles, Jim Miller and Warren Souders at guards and Bill Brantley at center.

GIANT TACKLES

The 176th coach is considerably encouraged by the presence of the starting tackles, a pair of 215-pound giants. Heidel, who played for Missouri, was injured in an early practice session and has just rejoined the squad, while Cagle is a newcomer to the Spirits. Last year the latter captained a crack Clemson College eleven and was its outstanding lineman.

At mid-week, Maj. Red Milton of the Gators was undecided about his starting ensembled, but "guessed" he'd start about the same team that took the field last Sunday. That combine has Nick Calos, Roy Cestary, Lamar Davis and Bob White in the backfield with Sam Sharp, Lennie Pieton, Lulu Devant, Jack McKewen, Mike Aulenti, Bob Fitzgerald and Bill Corey in the forward wall.

FIVE EX-BULLDOGS

One interesting aspect of the game will be the Georgia vs. Georgia battle. No less than five members of the Bulldog eleven that won in the Rose Bowl last January will see action on the Benning elevens. Lamar Davis and Jim Todd are Gator backfield stars, while Poschner, Miller and Dudish are all listed as Spirit starters.

Sabers Meet Daniel Field Saturday

The 300th Infantry Sabers, fresh from their 19 to 7 victory over the 124th Gators last Sunday, travel to Augusta, Ga., tomorrow to take on a big Daniel Field eleven in a Saturday night slash.

Little is known of the strength of Daniel Field except that last Saturday night it took everything the Athens, Ga., Navy Pre-Flight Skycrackers had to subdue the Army outfit, 19-13.

Anthony DiTomo, one-time Temple OWL gridder, completed seven passes for 195 yards against the Skycrackers, so the 300th will be on the alert for an aerial attack at any moment.

The Sabers, from all reports, came out of the 124th battle suffering from only minor bumps and bruises and should be at full strength for the test.

Football Summary

BENNING GAMES

SCHEDULE

Reception Center vs. Clark College in Atlanta. Tonight at 8 o'clock.

3rd STR Panthers vs. TIS Truck Regiment at Doughboy Stadium, Friday night at 8 o'clock.

300th Infantry vs. Daniel Field in Augusta, Ga. Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

124th Infantry vs. 176th Infantry at Doughboy Satdium. Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

RESULTS

176th Infantry 13, South Carolina 7.

300th Infantry 19, 124th Infantry 7.

Tuskegee Institute 12, 3rd STR Panthers 0.

COLUMBUS GAMES

SCHEDULE

Jordan High vs. Central High at Memorial Stadium. Tonight at 9 o'clock Benning time.

Columbus High vs. Marist Academy at Memorial Stadium. Friday night at 9 o'clock Benning time.

RESULTS

Columbus High 39, Lanier High 7.

BENNING RIVALS

SCHEDULE

Georgia Tech vs. Athens Pre-Flight in Atlanta. Saturday afternoon.

Jacksonville Naval vs. North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Saturday afternoon.

Memphis Naval vs. Southern Methodist at Memphis. Saturday afternoon.

South Carolina vs. Presbyterian at Columbia. Saturday night.

RESULTS

Notre Dame 55, Georgia Tech 13.

Athens Pre-Flight 19, Daniel Field 13.

Georgia 67, Tennessee Tech 0.

Miami 6, Jacksonville Navy 0.

Memphis Naval 41, Tulane 7.

A shaggy-headed private who did not pass an inspection because of his great need for a haircut explained there was no one to accommodate him. He was the company barber.

First Night Battle Set For Friday

Doughboy Stadium's first arc-light clash of the 1943 grid campaign will bring together two crack colored teams at 8 o'clock tomorrow night when the 3rd STR Panthers oppose the TIS Truck Regiment eleven in a Service Conference engagement.

The Panthers, with a good nucleus from last fall's successful team, dropped their opener to Tuskegee last Saturday, 12-0, but outplayed the collegiate Tigers most of the way. The Truckers are a new team, and untested to date.

Both Benning rivals boast rosters studded with former colored collegiate stars from institutions all over the country. The Reception Center, third member of the Service Conference, opens its campaign tonight against Clark College in Atlanta.

Sideline Snapshots

BY SGT. JAMES TUITE

All the spirit, verve and enthusiasm of a regular collegiate tussle was present in Sunday's contest at Doughboy Stadium when the Sabers and Gators came to grips. There was only one element absent that goes to make up an inter-school clash—and that was color.

Instead of a panoramic sea of reds, greens, yellows and blues that ordinarily make up the picture of a collegiate stadium on a Saturday afternoon, both sides of Doughboy Stadium were virtually walls of kahki.

There were many women and girls at the game attired in the traditional brilliant hues of autumn football, but this little ostentation called attention to the lack of the usual ocean of color.

* * *

There was little money changed hands on the contest. Although they had never seen their team play, 300th rooters were waving $20 bills around on the Gator side of the stands—with no takers at even money.

* * *

The Sabers had a character brandishing a long shiny sword as he led the traditional Army mule around the stadium. Over his (the character's) back were draped two long flowing curtains.

Said character amused most everyone in the stadium with one exception. She was Mrs. Robert Russell, wife of Lt. Russell, 300th Special Service Officer. She gave the curtains to her husband several weeks ago for the windows of his office—and then saw the Mule's guardian wearing them.

And what the mule did in front of the Gator stands—well, they still insist that nothing like that had been planned nor rehearsed.

* * *

While most of the high ranking officers of the 300th watched the game with the coldly calculating eyes of military men observing the maneuverings of opposing forces, their wives were not so restrained.

Tuskegee Tops Panther Eleven

Fort Benning's gridiron Panthers, representing the Service Battalion of the 3rd STR, dropped their opening clash of the Fall campaign on Saturday when they bowed to the powerful Golden Tigers of Tuskegee Institute by a 12-0 score on the Alabama grid.

The colored charges of Capt. Norman Hogenson put up a stiff battle against the husky collegians and displayed much promise for their arduous nine-game schedule. Tuskegee meets the Panthers in a return game at Doughboy Stadium on November 5.

The Benning eleven started fast and kept the play during the first half mostly in Tuskegee territory. But the collegians had more reserve strength and gradually wore down the green and white gridmen.

176th Eleven Topples South Carolina, 13-7

Two intercepted passes by John Hurst and heads-up play by the entire Spirit eleven gave the 176th Infantry a 13 to 7 win over the Gamecocks of South Carolina on Saturday in Columbia. The Red and Gray tallied 13 points in the first period and were never headed.

In the opening period, Carolina received the kickoff and attempted a pass, only to see Hurst intercept it and dash to the Gamecock six. On the next play, Sully Harris crossed the line and Bob Waterfield split the uprights for the extra point.

Again the hosts took to the air late in the initial stanza, but Hurst again intercepted, and sped 45 yards to put the Spirits out in front by a 13 to 0 count. The try for the point was blocked.

GAMECOCKS RALLY

The Gamecocks came to life in the third quarter as Neil Allen blocked Waterfield's punt and Dom Fusei recovered on the Spirit six. On the second play, Wagnon drove through the center of the line for the tally and Jack Bradford booted the extra point.

Late in the final period, the Gamecocks threatened again as they recovered a Spirit fumble and fought their way to the one-foot line. Here the 176th forward wall held for four downs and Waterfield booted a 65-yard kick from behind the goal line to ease the situation.

GREAT PASSING

Highlighting the Red and Gray offense was the passing of Waterfield and some great catches by George Poschner, Andy Dudish, Pat Ronzone and Harris. This aerial combination accounted for 164 yards as they completed 15 out of 26 passes.

Defensively, the Spirit line played a steady game with John Lochamy, Ed Hipp, Bill Yalenty, Jim Miller, Warren Souders and Bill Brantley standing out.

Rose Bowler Is In 1st Regiment

Football fans in the 16th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, were discussing gridiron schedules during a rest period when they discovered that one of their classmates, Captain William J. Bowerman, had himself made Rose Bowl headlines.

Bowerman had his day of glory on the field some dozen years ago when he knocked the props out from under the Rose Bowl hopes of the University of Washington Huskies, unbeaten 'til then. As blocking back for his underdog University of Oregon team

DINE WINE
AND BE MERRY
in ATLANTA'S NEWEST
and
FINEST SUPPER CLUB
MacArthur Room
Bill Cooper
His Piano and Solovox
Featuring the Best
Steaks • Chops
Seafood • Fried Chicken
AND OF COURSE
Wine • Champagne • Beer
PEACHTREE at ELLIS
OPEN 12 TO 12
SUNDAY DINNER
TO 10 P M.

Custom Tailors
To the Services
Since 1845

All Military Alterations
Skillfully Done
SMITH-GRAY
15 WEST ELEVENTH ST.
COLUMBUS, GA.
DIAL 5719
OPP. ARMY-NAVY USO

Attention!
Officer Candidates
SEE OUR DISPLAY
AT
FORT BENNING
or visit our store for complete
• UNIFORMS
• CAPS—INSIGNIA
• TIES—SLACKS
• SHIRTS
• MILITARY SUPPLIES
• TRENCH COATS
• LUGGAGE

We guarantee 100 per cent delivery of all goods purchased. . . .
We deliver 1 week prior to graduation.
Open Saturday 'Til 10:30 P. M.
Open week days 'Til 3:30 P. M.
Fort Benning Time
LEVINSON BROS.
1220 BROADWAY
DIAL 3-3061

Largest Grid Crowd In Post History Watches Sabers Smash Gator Machine

18,000 Pack Stadium For Grid Opener As 300th Eleven Shines

Allen and Solari Star In 19-7 Win; Long Run By Lamar Davis Stuns Fans

BY SGT. FORREST R. KYLE

Perhaps it's a little too early to start drawing conclusions, but after what happened at Doughboy Stadium last Sunday afternoon, it's quite possible a new Infantry School conference football champion will be crowned late this year.

The 124th Infantry Gators, Fort Benning grid champions last year, opened the defense of their 1943 title Sunday against the 300th Infantry, but after four thrill-packed quarters before 18,000 howling spectators, the Sabers had darkened the Gator hopes for two titles in a row by powering their way to a 19 to 7 triumph.

The 300th, activated here at the tail end of last year's season, made an auspicious start Sunday in its first campaign. Paced by the light-footed running of Kentucky U's Ermal Allen and the swift, powerful driving of Al Solari, U. C. L. A. Rose Bowl star, the Sabers dominated almost every department of play.

It was Allen who broke loose for runs of 53 and 52 yards in the second half to set up touchdowns which nailed down the decision for the Sabers. Solari followed Allen's 52-yard jaunt in the fourth quarter with a 37-yard excursion through the Gator ranks and three plays later the Sabers punched over the last touchdown.

Sam DiBlasi, once of Washington & Lee, bucked across the goal for two tallies after the Sabers had maneuvered into scoring position.

The almost unbelievable feature of the rousing, bruising battle, however, was a sensational 75-yard return of a punt for a touchdown by Lamar Davis, long-legged Gator halfback from the University of Georgia. The run, which left the fans pop-eyed and breathless, enabled the Gators to tie up the game 7-7 in the third period.

SABERS THREATEN

The Sabers had grabbed a 7-0 lead in the second period. Twice in the first quarter the Sabers pounded deep into Gator territory but couldn't score. A fumble on the Gators' 16-yard line halted one advance and two incomplete passes into the end zone nullified another surge which had penetrated to the Gator seven-yard marker.

A third 300th charge early in the second quarter was stopped when Stubby Nick Calos intercepted a pass and ran it out to the five. Then a Gator punt went only to the 35-yard line. A pass, Solari to Bute Simmons of Texas A. & M., gained the 23 and Jim Saub cut back to the Gator 14. Then, when Solari was unnecessarily roughed up after throwing a pass, the Gators were penalized back to their one-yard line. Solari immediately shot through right guard for the touchdown and Bill Meek of Tennessee booted the extra point.

Before Davis cut loose with his dazzling run in the third period the Gators almost reached the Saber goal. Three straight first downs penetrated to the Saber 10. Davis lost seven on a sweep, Cestary gained back four and then two passes missed connection in the end zone.

DAVIS RETURNS PUNT

A few moments later DiBlasi sent a punt soaring to Davis on the 25-yard stripe along the souther nsideline. He dodged his way straight across the field, attempting to pick up blockers. Suddenly he was trapped near the northern sideline. He spun, reversed his field and swung back as far as the 15-yard line as he headed back for the southern side again. By this time his interference was forming and he took off for the goal. What 300th tacklers his blockers didn't handle, Davis dodged. Johnny Simcox, Saber halfback, tried to fight off two Gators and get at Davis on the 15-yard line, but the big halfback escaper and stumbled on over the goal line.

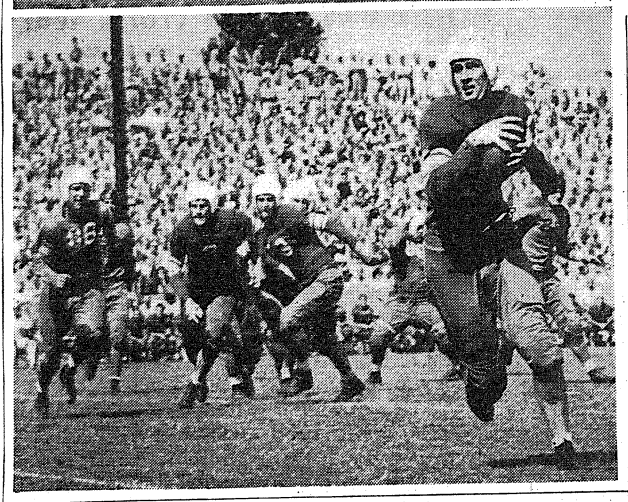
Davis was so exhausted from his run he was helped from the field and didn't re-enter the game until midway in the final period.

Calos threw the game into a deadlock after Davis' run by booting a perfect placement.

SABERS SURGE BACK

Davis' run only spurred on the Sagers. Allen returned the kickoff to his 29 and then slanted through left tackle and picked his way 53 yards to the Gator 19. Allen, Simcox and DiBlasi made a first down on the seven and DiBlasi charged over in two more plays. Meek's attempted placement hit the goal post and bounced back.

The Gators, with Cestary completing three passes, fought their way to the Sabers' 26 midway in the fourth period only to have a 15-yard penalty toss them back. Then Vic Richardson intercepted a pass and the Sabers were ready to go again.



ALLEN AND SOLARI

Allen took off through right tackle and, after fancy stepping and good blocking, arrived at the Gator 35-yard line. Solari took over at this point and after a five-yard penalty against the 300th, the ex-Uclan raced over right tackle and streaked to the three-yard line where he was stopped by Davis. Three plays later DiBlasi slid off right tackle for the touchdown. Meek's attempted conversion was low.

The Gators started passing again but Simcox grabbed one aerial and rambled 34 yards to the Gators' six. Three plays later the game ended with the ball on the Gators' four.

The Sabers rolled up a tremendous advantage in yards gained from scrimmage, amassing 301 yards to 52 for the Sabers. They held a 17-9 margin in first downs. The Gators completed seven out of 25 passes for 103 yards; the Sabers clicked on six of 11 aerials for 52 yards.

GROUND GAINERS of note in Sunday' big stadium clash between the Sabers and Gators were Lamar Davis of the 124th and Bute Simmon of the 300th. At the top, the ex-Bulldog is shown on his 75-yard touchdown run as he makes a miraculous escape from Saber tacklers. The men in blue closing in are Arms (18), Brzinski (17), Jim Robinson (20), and Dean Robinson (21). At the left, Simmons, the former Texas A. and M. flank, is shown just after he took an Ermal Allen pass for a lengthy gain. Forming interference are severalof his mates, Richardson (88), Reeves (3), and Takisch (19). (Signal Lab Photos by Sgt. Jack Newman.)

Banner Turnout Greets Bowling

Fort Benning's eight-alley bowling center opened on Monday with a banner turnout of keglers eager to get the winter pin-toppling campaign under way with a bang.

Although existing facilities will not permit the formation of leagues at the post alleys, enthusiasm is running high and some excellent bowling is expected from the G. I. maple knockers through the next few months.

TWO SESSIONS

The alleys, which are operated by the Fort Benning Athletic Association, will be open daily for two sessions of bowling from 12 noon to 5 o'clock, and from 6 until 10 in the evenings. On Saturdays there will be a morning session for children from 10 to 12. Regular bowling on both Saturday and Sunday will not begin until 1:00 o'clock.

A moderate charge of ten cents per game to cover expenses of pin boys is being made, and all alleys will be assigned on a "first come, first served" basis. Where numbers of people are waiting to bowl, keglers on the alleys will be permitted only three games.

PREFEERENCE TO G. I'S

Although civilians and members of an Army household are invited to use the post alleys, preference at all times will be given to service men and women.

Gridiron Guesswork

Last week's results rather made us look like the prognosticator deluxe, inasmuch as we picked 18 out of 20 games right on the head. However, that's the one lucky week that comes in a season, and don't expect any repeat performances. But that .900 average will sure look good on the season's total. Only games we missed were Wisconsin's 7-5 edge over Iowa, and Princeton's upset win over Columbia. We just can't seem to guage those Tigers. Anyway, here goes on a really tough week, so keep your fingers crossed! As usual, the selected winner is listed first.

300th Infantry vs. Daniel Field—Only Saber weakness appears to be pass defense and that aerial attack is the Fliers' strong point, but Benning power will wear 'em down. Sabers by three touchdowns.

Georgia vs. Wake Forest—The Deacons will give Wally Butts a good scare, but that's about all. Bulldogs with plenty of bite.

Georgia Tech vs. Athens Pre-Flight—Those Yellowjackets are going to rebound—and how! Tech with ease.

North Carolina vs. Jacksonville Naval—A closer scrap than most folks figure, but Tarheel depth should earn the decision.

Memphis Naval vs. Southern Methodist—Denny Meyer's Memphsi Blues may be the best service club in the nation. At least they have got enough to get by the Mustangs.

Cornell vs. Princeton—We can't ever pick Princeton right, so we'd rather flip a coin, but being broke, it's Cornell in a close one.

Columbia vs. Yale—Another toss-up, but Lions are bigger than Bulldogs!

Pennsylvania vs. Dartmouth—One of the best games of the day. Both are loaded with Navy and Marine transfers from other schools. But tradition says stick with alma mater, so Penn is it.

Navy vs. Duke—What a game! Breaks will decide it after a battle-royal. Navy on a hunch.

Penn State vs. Colgate—The Red Raiders took too bad a drubbing to recover in a week. Nittany Lions get one ballot here.

Illinois vs. Wisconsin — Two "not-what-they-used-to-be" elevens in a close one. Illini by a few points.

Indiana vs. Nebraska — The Hoosiers are coming along, and the Cornhuskers have shown very little.

Notre Dame vs. Michigan—If there's a guy in the country who could justify picking one or the other here, I'd like to meet him. But since a decision must be made, we'll gamble on the "luck of the Irish."

Great Lakes vs. Ohio State—The Buckeyes will give the Tars plenty of trouble but Navy experience should win in the end.

Purdue vs. Camp Grant—There might be an upset here, but the Boilermakers still rate the nod.

Texas Aggies vs. L. S. U.—The Bayou Tigers are due to get bumped and this looks like the week.

Tulane vs. Rice—The Green Wave will roll back with a flood-tide of power and engulf the flutery Owls.

South Carolina vs. Presbyterian—Gamecocks learned their lesson from Waterfield and Co. They should win by at least two scores.

St. Mary's Pre-Flight vs. Southern Calif.—The wooden horse of Troy is due to gather splinters when the Navy opens fire.

Texas vs. Oklahoma—The Longhorns should really rare back after that Southwestern loss and trim the Okies.

F. B. A. A. Will Fete Baseballers Sunday

The Fort Benning Athletic Association will hold its 1943 baseball party on Sunday evening at 5 o'clock in the post gym when close to 400 soldiers who played the diamond sport in post competition this past summer will be feted.

Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, TIS commandant; Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, assistant commandant; Brig. Gen. Henry L. Perrine, school troops brigade CO.; and Col. John P. Edgerly, post commander, are expected to attend the function and assist in awarding trophies to the winning teams.

TROPHY TO 176TH

To the 176th Infantry Regiment will go the huge four-foot "victory" trophy, emblematic of the post championship, which the Spirits captured in the recent seven-game series with the Academic Regiment.

Two trophies will be awarded to paratroop aggregations. The Parachute School baseball nine, champions of the Fort Benning League for the season, will earn the award for that loop, while the 1st Academic Co., TPS, monarchs of post softball circles, will receive their award at the party also.

SURPRISE AWARDS

Certain other team and individual awards, intended to be a surprise to the recipients, are also the evening.

All members of the varsity squads of twelve baseball teams and the winning softball crew will attend along with C. O.'s, coach, manager and special service officer.

WARING SALUTES TIS

Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians will salute The Infantry School on their Victory Tunes program over the NBC network Tuesday, October 12. All units of the School recently balloted on the songs they would like to hear.

The Army's old campaign hats which are seen around here in rainy weather are doing fine service in Alaska and the Aleutian Islands where fog and rain are quite common.

Members of the armed forces need not be concerned about filing income tax returns until March 15.

The military bands of the 124th, 176th and 300th units, which contributed so much to the successful season, also will be guests of the F.B.A.A., as will the small group of officers and men who served as umpires during the season.

The baseball party, which is an annual affair, is being tendered by the athletic association as a token of appreciation to the diamond performers who provided so much sports entertainment and recreation for other soldiers at the post throughout the summer months.

HELP WANTED

Young lady experienced in sales and designing for flower shop. Apply in person only.

I. E. PASSMORE, FLORIST
1622-24 13th Ave.

HEADQUARTERS
—OF—
B. LLOYD'S
HOME-MADE PECAN CANDIES
Since 1905
Ideal Candy for Shipment Overseas.
Wrapped for Foreign Shipment.
City Pharmacy
14 - 13th STREET
Just Off Broad. Opposite Waverly Hotel.

EX—

(Continued from Page 1)

ale is high. The German youth is fanatical, not in the same sense as the Japs, but nevertheless, fanatical. They love martial music, strong discipline, military training and war.

"The German youth wants war. They have never known peace as you know it over here. And believe me they will follow Hitler to the end."

Speaking of German Parachute training, Fritz explained that over there, jump training is not always voluntary, but more often compulsory. Nevertheless, it is highly selective.

Only men, with blue eyes or blond hair, six foot tall, and in excellent physical shape are accepted, Fritz declared. Too, they must prove non-Aryan ancestry for at least three generations. These men are the elite of the German army. Every German youth aspires to be a paratrooper.

There is little ground training according to Fritz, only rigorous calisthentics, followed by ten jumps from a transport type ship usually. Junkers Mock-ups and training towers, familiarl to al American jumpers, are not used.

Neither does the German parachutist pack his own chute. A rigger handles that. No reserve is carried, and Fritz said that fatalities are much higher than among our forces.

The Nazis are trained in two separate classes, high altitude and low altitude jumpers. Fritz was a high altitude jumper. These men are the cream of the lot. They must be able to jump from as high as 28,000 feet, delaying their opening until about 1,000 feet. They would be used in case Germany lacked air superiority necessary to drop them at a lower level.

The low altitude jumpers perform similar to American parachutists, jumping as low as 350 feet.

SAME SIZE CHUTE

Otherwise Nazi jumpers use the same size chute as American, but have less control over their canopy. This is due to the harness being attached behind, out of reach.

As for jump pay, Nazi paratroopers receive regular soldiers' pay, about $70 a month, plus a bonus of $10 a jump. In combat, Fritz added, this may be raised to $20.

Speaking further of German attitudes, Fritz said that the Japanese are strongly disliked by the German people and could Germany win this war there would be another war with Japan.

The Italians are not particularly disliked, Fritz added, but no respect is shown to their fighting forces. The Italians despise German arrogance, Fritz declared.

"Even in peacetime a German soldier would never stroll alone at night in Italy. It mean certain death."

For many years Fritz lived in Cologne with his foster parents, wealthy, influential Jews. Here he attended high school and saw the actual outbreak of hostilities between the French and Germans in 1939.

Later his father was warned of his life and fled to Switzerland. His foster mother, too ill to be moved, remained in a Mannheim hospital. She and the two aunts later were placed in concentration camps where they died.

Fritz left the country in December, 1939, going to Casablanca in North Africa, where he was detained for two weeks by French authorities when they learned he was a German parachutist. He was released and proceeded to America.

Right now Fritz is very anxious to get into combat. So anxious he recently passed up a sergeant's rating in order to go sooner.

POST—

(Continued from Page 1)

ponents of the post will be announced later, he said.

Funds contributed by Fort personnel will be divided among the USO, United Seamen's Service, War Prisoners Aid, Russian War Relief, United China Relief, British War Relief Society, Greek War Relief Association, Polish War Relief, Friends of Luxembourg, French Relief Fund, United Yugoslav Relief Fund, Belgian War Relief Society, United Czecholovak Relief, Queen Wilhemina (Dutch) Fund, Norwegian Relief, Refugee Relief Trustees, and the U. S. Committee for the Care of European Children.

This drive represents the coordinated efforts of a campaign for funds by the 17 agencies named above, instead of a like number of separate drives by the member agencies. Thus personnel of Fort Benning will be afforded an opportunity to contribute to virtually all war agencies at one time.

Of interest to the military is the fact that a portion of contributions made here and elsewhere will help finance 1,800 USO clubs, service offices, lounges, mobile service units, community service centers, and maneuver service units, in addition to countless other USO offshore and hemisphere bases at home and abroad.

The national quota for the drive is $125,000,000, while a similar sum will be sought through community campaigns with which to meet local needs.

STARNES—

(Continued from Page 1)

tive officer at Station Hospital. He was promoted to colonel in December 1942.

Col. Noyes has been at Benning since October 1937 coming here from Schofield Barracks, T. H., and was named Station Hospital head in 1940. He is a native of Portland, Ore.

TIS—

(Continued from Page 1)

Alabama with an LL.B. degree. In World War I he served as a battalion commander in the 43rd Infantry. Later he commanded the 345th Reserve Infantry regiment after relinquishing his Reguuar Army commission.

He has taken post graduate work at Northwestern University and at the time of his recall to active duty, was a practicing lawyer in Birmingham.

Col. Lord commanded the Third STR from its activation in March of 1942. At that time, it was a struggling unit, housed in barracks "borrowed" from the First STR and still later in the Bradley area. It moved to its present location in Harmony Church in July of 1942.

He is a native of Delaware, Ohio and was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1913. While a student, he enlisted in the Ohio National Guard and joined the Regular Army in 1917. During the first World War, he rose to the rank of captain. Following the war, he was stationed in Panama.

In 1927-28, he attended and was graduated from the Company Officers' course at the Infantry School. He has served in the office of the assistant secretary of war. Col. Lord returned to Fort Benning in 1941 as executive officer of the First STR from which assignment he was appointed to the command of the Third. He is fond of athletics and played varsity baseball while in college.

GRID STAR

Col. Passailaigue has had a long and interesting career. He played six years of college football at The Citadel and University of South Carolina, captaining the Gamecocks in 1912. He also won letters in baseball and track.

He was graduated with a degree of LL.B. from South Carolina and after his admittance to the bar, was elected to the South Carolina House of Representatives.

In 1916 he saw service on the Mexican border with a cavalry outfit. He served with the A.E.F. and Army of Occupation during World War I, participating in the battles of St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne, Aisne-Marne and Champaign-Marne.

Col. Passailaigue came to the Infantry School from the 349th Infantry at Camp Gruber after tours of duty with various Infantry units and as Professor of Military Science and Tactics at North Carolina State and Tennessee Military Institute.

APPLICATION—

(Continued from Page 1)

been purchased since the original tire registration, Part D of the tire purchase certificate must also be attached. If back cover of pressent "A" book has been lost or destroyed, applicant must then also attach his state registration.

The forms to be filled out are in two parts. Part A is the application form, while Part B is the new Tire Inspection Record. Both must be completely filled in all of the spaces enclosed within the heavy borders on Parts A and B. The old Tire Inspection Record must show that at least one tire inspection has been made and approved. The back cover of the "A" book must be filled in. Both old and old tire inspection record must be attached when sending in the form. The new "A" book, together with Tire Inspection Record and the State Registration Certificate, if that has had to be attached, will be sent back as soon as possible.

HOBSON—

(Continued from Page 1)

Fort Snelling as executive officer of the 3rd Infantry, oldest regiment in the United States Army, after which he served on the General Staff Corps, until returning to the Panama Canal Zone as plans and training officer for forces there, being stationed at Quarry Heights.

He returned to Fort Benning in 1939 to become chief of the tactical section of the Infantry School. He also served for a while as assistant commandant. In October, 1941, he went to the 30th Infantry at the Presidio.

KAY—

(Continued from Page 4)

"Private Sawgrass, Sir. He says we've got to buy him a new pair of pants. It seems he was the victim of a surprise infiltration."

"Fortunes of war, Sergeant! Fortunes of war," grinned my leader as he resumed his horizontal position in the chair.

"Yes, Sir," I replied, grabbing a magazine and heading for the nearest couch.

BLOOD—

(Continued from Page 1)

processing laboratory in a refrigerator. It must reach the laboratory within 24 hours after being taken from the donor. Then the plasma is separated from the red and white corpuscles by centrifugating several bottles at a time in a machine revolving at high speed, the blood cells being packed at the bottom of the bottle, with the plasma above.

The plasma then is mixed in a large container. Tests are made to assure sterility, and the amount from one pint of blood is put into the final container, a special glass cylinder. The plasma in each container is frozen and a vacuum pump draws out the moisture. This leaves the plasma as a cream-colored powder. By mixing it with the bottle of distilled water which is included in the equipment that goes with troops, the plasma is ready for use in a transfusion whenever needed and under any conditions.

On December 16, 1942, Mitchell stated, the Army and Navy made a joint request to the Red Cross to furnish four million additional pints of blood during 1943.

All Military ALTERATIONS
Gibson Tailoring
20 - 13th St. — 2nd Floor

WADSWORTH
Blue Print Company
Have Copies of Your Marriage License, Power - of - Attorney and Similar Documents Made by Us. Architects and Engineers Supplies.
1231 - 6th Ave.
Phone 2-2381

OFFICERS
who want the finest, demand
RICH'S UNIFORMS
The change over from Summer to Winter Uniforms demands that we provide you with a large stock of the very highest quality in winter regulation uniforms! They're expertly tailored to fit you!
Elastique Blouse 32.50
Elastique Pants 12.00
RICH'S MILITARY STORE
1236 Broadway . . . . . Columbus, Ga.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion 8:30 a. m. Sunday school in the children's school 9:15 a. m. Woman's Adult Bible class meets with the Sunday school. (Mothers who bring their children to Sunday school invited to join.) Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "Crown Him With Many Crowns"—Miles. The sermon: Chaplain Alfred L. Pollock. The offertory: "The Great Awakening"—Kramer, Solo, Lt. Archie Winning. Christian League 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain John Troxler.

THE ARMORED

Protestant: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott) 10 a. m., Chaplain Pomeroy; Chapel No. 2 (13th & Bourg), 9 a. m., Chaplain Lewis; 6:00 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Lewis; Chapel No. 3 (10th & Scott), 8 a. m. (Communion), Chaplain Fell, 10 a. m., Chaplain Claus; 11 a. m. Chaplain Fell; Chaplain Claus, 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Claus and Chaplain Fell; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 9 a. m., Chaplain Cermak, 10 a. m., Chaplain Fahl; 11 a. m., Chaplain Johnson, 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Johnson; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), 9 a. m., Chaplain De La Vergne, 10 a. m., Chaplain McLeod, 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain McLeod; Stockade, 1:30 p. m., Chaplain Cermak.

Catholic Masses: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 3 (10th & Scott), 9 a. m., Chaplain Lynch; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.) 8 a. m., Chaplain Keating, 11 a. m., Chaplain Keating; Theatre No. 5 (16th & Bourg) 10:30 a. m., Chaplain Lynch.

Jewish Service: Jewish service, conducted by Chaplain Shain, is held every Monday evening at 7:30 at Chapel No. 4, Sand Hill Area.

Provisional: Sunday services held for members for the Provisional Truck Regiment are as follows: Chapel No. 1, Battalions—Bible school at 10:00 a. m. Worship service at 11:00 a. m. Services will be held in Building No. 5315 in the service Battalion area of the Third Student Training Regiment. The 2nd and 3rd Battalions will have Bible school at 11:30 a. m. and worship service at 11:30 a. m. Service held in Building No. 5031, Third Battalion area, Provisional Truck Regiment.

126th Infantry: Sunday morning worship service at 9:15 a. m. in the Main Post Chapel. Chaplains John Troxler and Arnulf Lewis.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 9:30 and 10:30 a. m. Communion each first Sunday morning. Lutheran service 6:30 p. m. (Communion each 2nd Sunday.) Bible Hour, Thurs., 6:45 p. m. Chaplain Herman A. Milchelick.

Lawson Field: Sunday morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday evening service at 7 p. m. Chaplain Geo. L. Ferrell.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st STR, and 2nd Regt. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Communion service each Sunday, 11:30 a. m. in the 4th Bn. Chaplain's office, 1st STR, Chaplain G. E. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for the Det. Med. Dept. 9:30 a. m. Also colored Det. Med. Dept. services in colored day room at 8 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Recreation Hall, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:45 a. m. Chaplain Isaac McDonald.

300th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Evening vespers, 7:45 p. m. Chaplains Robt. D. Jones and Charles O. Daniel.

176th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 8:15 a. m. in main post chapel. Chaplain Arnold Lewis.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Main Post Chapel Tuesday evenings 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Reth, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 6391.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Lutheran service at 10:15 a. m. General Protestant service at 11:15 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and C. H. Ritchie.

2nd STR: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chaplain William Willingham. Sunday school and worship 8:15 a. m. for Service Bn.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 6. Regimental services at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain A. B. Billman. Also Regimental services at 11 a. m. in the Chapel In The Grove." Chaplain George Kirshbaum. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 85rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 31st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward

Hq., ASTP: Chapel No. 4: Morning worship, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey.

4th Tng. Regt., ASTP: Bldg. B-16: Service for 1st Bn. 10 a. m. Chaplain Theodore Bachelor. 3rd Bn., Bldg. 4367, Chaplain George Ritchey, 9:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Services 8:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Catholic mass, 8 a. m., 4th Bn., 4th Tng. Regt., Bldg. 4367, Kelly and Anton Roads; Bible class, 9 a. m.; Protestant service, 9:30 a. m., 4th Bn. in 4th Bn. amphitheater. Geo. A. Ritchey, chaplain.

5th Tng. Regt., ASTP: 9:30 a. m. Catholic mass in The Grove; 10:30 a. m. Protestant services in Theater No. 12. Chaplain Boergen.

6th Tng. Regt.—9 a. m. Catholic mass, Bldg. 6005. 10:30 a. m. general Protestant services, Bldg. 6005. Chaplain Bachelier.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Harmony Church Area. Chapel No. 5. Friday evening 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Reth, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 6391.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 6-A from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 8 a. m. and 9 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5201, located on the 8th Division Road and Sustenis Road Bromley Church Area at 7 a. m. and 5:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 6, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

54th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel—Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3 Lawson Field at 8 a. m. Confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the children's school, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service. A reception by the Jewish Welfare Board usually concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd and 5th Student Training Regiments, the Infantry School WAC Detachment, A.S.T.P. Headquarters and 738th and 764th Tank Bns.: Every Sunday at 9 a. m. in War Dept. Theatre No. 9 (Bldg. 461, 3rd Div. Road 3rd Student Training Regiment Area.

For men in the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 501st and 544th F. A. Bns., and 2534th Ordnance Company: Every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bldg B-7, 2nd Student Training Regiment Area

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the children's school, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service. A reception by the Jewish Welfare Board usually concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd and 5th Student Training Regiments, the Infantry School WAC Detachment, A.S.T.P. Headquarters and 738th and 764th Tank Bns.: Every Sunday at 9 a. m. in War Dept. Theatre No. 9 (Bldg. 461, 3rd Div. Road 3rd Student Training Regiment Area.

For men in the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 501st and 544th F. A. Bns., and 2534th Ordnance Company: Every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bldg B-7, 2nd Student Training Regiment Area

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the children's school, corner Baltzell avenue and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service. A reception by the Jewish Welfare Board usually concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd and 5th Student Training Regiments, the Infantry School WAC Detachment, A.S.T.P. Headquarters and 738th and 764th Tank Bns.: Every Sunday at 9 a. m. in War Dept. Theatre No. 9 (Bldg. 461, 3rd Div. Road 3rd Student Training Regiment Area.

For men in the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 501st and 544th F. A. Bns., and 2534th Ordnance Company: Every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bldg B-7, 2nd Student Training Regiment Area

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4 Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 6-A from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 8 a. m. and 9 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, Building No. 5201, located on the 8th Division Road and Sustenis Road Bromley Church Area at 7 a. m. and 5:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 6, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

54th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel—Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3 Lawson Field at 8 a. m. Confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For men on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the children's school, corner Baltzell avenue and Lumpkin Road, opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service. A reception by the Jewish Welfare Board usually concludes the evening.

For men of the 3rd and 5th Student Training Regiments, the Infantry School WAC Detachment, A.S.T.P. Headquarters and 738th and 764th Tank Bns.: Every Sunday at 9 a. m. in War Dept. Theatre No. 9 (Bldg. 461, 3rd Div. Road 3rd Student Training Regiment Area.

For men in the 2nd Student Training Regiment, 124th Infantry, 501st and 544th F. A. Bns., and 2534th Ordnance Company: Every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bldg B-7, 2nd Student Training Regiment Area

Women's Activities

RED CROSS WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. John McFall; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. William Hufstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes.

Sewing and knitting—Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. J. B. Simpson; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

STAFF ASSISTANCE CORPS—On duty at Work Room, Friday, October 8, Mrs. Kibler; Monday, Oct. 11, Mrs. Creighton, Mrs. Chaigren; Tuesday, October 12, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Hammargren; Wednesday, October 13, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Chapman; Thursday, October 14, Mrs. Dulin, Mrs. Grimes.

MORTOR CORPS—Headquarters at the Red Cross Work Room. Telephone 2085 for Motor Corps to pick up discarded magazines. On duty Friday, October 8, Mrs. Kuntz; Monday, October 11, Mrs. Vick; Tuesday, October 12, Mrs. Moffett; Wednesday, October 13, Mrs. Alverson; Thursday, October 14, Mrs. Allen. Lieutenant in charge, Mrs. Moffett.

GREY LADIES—On duty Friday, October 8, Captain, Mrs. Venable; library, a. m., Mrs. Finnegan, p. m., Mrs. Hardy; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Chase, p. m., Mrs. Webb; arts and crafts shop, a. m., Mrs. Webb, Ward; Mrs. Shine, Rosenberger, Overfelt, Chase.

Saturday, October 9: Captain, Mrs. Brandstadt; library, a. m., Mrs. Holton, p. m., Mrs. Whittemore; floor, a. m., Mrs. Gordon; wards, Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Miles.

Monday, Oct. 11: Captain, Mrs. Elliott; wards, Mrs. Spann, Mrs. B. Lewis, Mrs. McCormick; library, a. m., Mrs. Griffith, p. m., Mrs. R. Lewis; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford; p. m., Mrs. McKee; arts and crafts shop, Mrs. Spann, p. m., Mrs. D. A. Turner.

Tuesday, October 12: Captain, Mrs. Finnegan; wards, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Runnerson, Mrs. Whittemore; library, a. m., Mrs. Roosma, p. m., Mrs. Griffith; floor, p. m., Mrs. Webb; p. m., Mrs. Sanders.

Wednesday, Oct. 13: Captain, Mrs. Perrine; wards, Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Walker Smith; library, a. m., Mrs. Stevens, p. m., Mrs. R. W. Smith; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Dillard, p. m., Mrs. Wright; arts and crafts shop, a. m., Mrs. Venable.

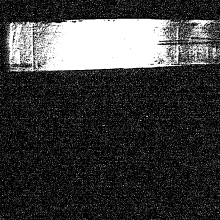
Thursday, October 14: Captain, Mrs. Heraty; wards, Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Gold; library, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford; p. m., Mrs. Rosenberger; arts and crafts shop, Mrs. Holton.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

OCT. 7

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBI



6:55 P.M.—Barsch and the news—WRBI

6:30 P.M.—Reception Center Chorus—WRBI

9:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBI

9:30 P.M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS

Watch, Clock, and Jewelry Repairing
Quick Service
B & S JEWELRY CO.
1724 Hamilton Rd.
Dial 2-1064

"We're Doing Our Best on Your Calls, Soldier!"

"Every telephone operator is anxious to give you the best possible telephone service.

"War conditions cause traffic jams on long distance lines that cannot be expanded now because the necessary materials are going into the shooting side of the war. But you can be certain that all of us are doing everything possible to complete your calls and to do it in the shortest time possible."

DOG & CAT HOSPITAL
Complete Hospital Service
Bathing and Grooming
DR E. A. DAVIS
1006 - 13th St Dial 8871

BAMA CLUB
Cocktail Bar Open 6 P. M.
TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY—9 P. M. & 11 P. M.
CHICKEN DINNERS, $1.50 WESTERN STEAK, $2.00
MUSIC BY VEENON YONKEERS ORCHESTRA
For Reservations Dial 3-1051
Just Across Lower Bridge First Building on Right
Admission Week Nites 50c Saturday Nite $1

Movies

MAIN THEATER AND THEATER NO. 8

Oct. 7-8—SAHARA—Humphrey Bogart and Bruce Bennett.

Oct. 9—DR. GILLESPIE'S CRIMINAL CASE—Lionel Barrymore and Van Johnson.

Oct. 10—ADVENTURES OF TARTU—Robert Donat and Valerie Hobson.

Oct. 11—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Oct. 12—DANGEROUS BLONDES—Edmund Lowe and Evelyn Keyes.

Oct. 13—TOP MAN—Donald O'Connor and Susanna Foster.

THEATERS NO. 2 AND 3

Oct. 7—HOSTAGES—Luise Rainer and Paul Lukas.

Oct. 8—WATCH ON THE RHINE—Bette Davis and Paul Lukas.

Oct. 9-10—SAHARA—Humphrey Bogart and Bruce Bennett.

Oct. 11—DR. GILLESPIE'S CRIMINAL CASE—Lionel Barrymore and Van Johnson.

Oct. 12—ADVENTURES OF TARTU—Robert Donat and Valerie Hobson.

Oct. 13—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

THEATERS NO. 4 AND 5

Oct. 7-8—THANK YOUR LUCKY STARS—All Star Cast.

Oct. 9—HOSTAGES—Luise Rainer and Paul Lukas.

Oct. 10—WATCH ON THE RHINE—Bette Davis and Paul Lukas.

Oct. 11-12—SAHARA—Humphrey Bogart and Bruce Bennett.

Oct. 12—DR. GILLESPIE'S CRIMINAL CASE—Lionel Barrymore and Van Johnson.

THEATERS NO. 6 AND 7

Oct. 7—A LADY TAKES A CHANCE—Jean Arthur and John Wayne.

Oct. 8—SUBMARINE ALERT—Richard Arlen and Wendy Barrie.

THE GOOD FELLOWS—Cecil Kellaway and Mabel Paige.

Oct. 9-10—THANK YOUR LUCKY STARS—All Star Cast.

Oct. 11—HOSTAGES—Luise Reiner and Paul Lukas.

Oct. 12—WATCH ON THE RHINE—Bette Davis and Paul Lukas.

Oct. 13—SAHARA—Humphrey Bogart and Bruce Bennett.

THEATERS NO. 9 AND 11

Oct. 7—SWEET ROSIE O'GRADY—Betty Grable and Robert Young.

Oct. 8—CLAUDIA—Dorothy McGuire and Robert Young.

Oct. 9—HOLY MATRIMONY—Monty Woolley and Gracie Fields.

Oct. 10-11—A LADY TAKES A CHANCE—Jean Arthur and John Wayne.

Oct. 12—DR. GILLESPIE'S CRIMINAL CASE—Lionel Barrymore and Van Johnson.

Oct. 13—THANK YOUR LUCKY STARS—All Star Cast.

THEATER NO. 10

Oct. 7 — HOLY MATRIMONY — Monty Woolley and Gracie Fields.

Oct. 8-9—A LADY TAKES A CHANCE—Jean Arthur and John Wayne.

Oct. 10—DR. GILLESPIE'S CRIMINAL CASE—Lionel Barrymore and Van Johnson.

Oct. 11-12—THANK YOUR LUCKY STARS—All Star Cast.

Oct. 13—HOSTAGES—Luise Rainer and Paul Lukas.

THEATER NO. 12

Oct. 7—SUBMARINE ALERT—Richard Arlen and Wendy Barrie.

THE GOOD FELLOWS—Cecil Kellaway and Mabel Paige.

Oct. 8-9—SWEET ROSIE O'GRADY—Betty Grable and Robert Young.

Oct. 10—DANGEROUS BLONDES—Edmund Lowe and Evelyn Keyes.

Oct. 11—TOP MAN—Donald O'Connor and Susanna Foster.

Oct. 12-13—A LADY TAKES A CHANCE—Jean Arthur and John Wayne.

Army Nurses Do Infiltration Course

First women in the Fourth Service Command to go through an infiltration course, simulating actual front-line battle conditions, were 49 Army nurses, who went through the gruelling test here under the direction of Lieut.-Col. C. A. Will, post plans and training officer.

Covered with mud and wringing wet, the nurses completed the course, one of the toughest in the service command, in near record time. Several completed the run, which includes barbed wire entanglements, aerial bombs, dynamite craters and shell holes filled with water, in addition to continuous overhead firing by machine guns with a maximum clearance of four feet, in under four minutes. Average time is four to 7 minutes.

Accompanying the nurses, all from Lawson General Hospital, Atlanta, were 31 officers and enlisted men, who also took the training.

MAJ. GEN. C. H. BONESTEEL, commandant of the Infantry School welcomed members of the Woman's club at their first meeting of the year Monday. He is shown here with Mrs. Clarence T. Johnson executive secretary of the Muscogee county chapter of the American Red Cross, and Mrs. Harold E. Potter, president of the club (right). (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

FIRST TO DISEMBARK, among the new contingent of WACs who arrived at Fort Benning yesterday afternoon for service with the main post detachment of the Infantry School, was Capt. Janet Nash from Chicago. The detachment, formerly attached to the Second Army Corps, was sent to Fort Benning from Memphis. (Official U. S. Army Photo — Infantry School.)

67 More Wacs Now At Post

Another unit of the Women's Army Corps joined Fort Benning contingents of WACs late yesterday afternoon when a detachment of 67 arrived from their assignment with the Second Army Corps in Memphis. They will form the main post detachment of the Infantry School and will be increased shortly by more arrivals until their full complement of more than 100 is here.

The new arrivals, headed by Capt. Janet Nash of Chicago, were greeted by Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, new commandant of the Infantry School; Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, assistant commandant; Brig. Gen. Henry P. Perrine, commanding general of the School Troops Brigade; Col. Harold E. Potter, executive officer of the school and Col. Thornton Chase, adjutant general.

When their train pulled into the main post, the girls were not quite certain where they were. But when a photographer advised them they were in Fort Benning, they whooped it up. Their shouts, however, quickly died to a murmur when they looked from the windows again and saw three generals waiting to greet them.

'We're Here'

"Whew!" one gasped. "All we need now is MacArthur and I don't mean Charley."

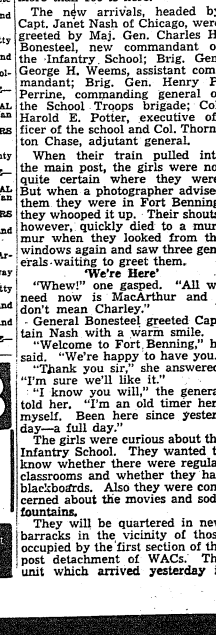
General Bonesteel greeted Captain Nash with a warm smile.

"Welcome to Fort Benning," he said. "We're happy to have you."

"Thank you sir," she answered. "I'm sure we'll like it."

"I know you will," the general told her. "I'm an old timer here myself. Been here since yesterday—a full day."

The girls were curious about the Infantry School. They wanted to know whether there were regular classrooms and whether they had blackboards. Also they were concerned about the movies and soda fountains.



They will be quartered in new barracks in the vicinity of those occupied by the first section of the post detachment of WACs. The unit which arrived yesterday is the fifth now on duty in Fort Benning, and the second detachment assigned to the Infantry School. The other TIS detachment is in Harmony church. Post headquarters has two detachments, the second of which is colored and assigned to duty at the reception center. The fifth detachment is on duty at Lawson Field.

Has Full Day

When General Bonesteel told Captain Nash that he had spent a "full day" in Fort Benning, he was adequately describing his first day as commandant of the school. Starting at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, he made a whirlwind tour of the various units of the School Troops brigade. Before noon, he had visited three infantry regiments, four battalions of the Trucking regiment, two artillery battalions, the Reconnaissance squadron and the brigade headquarters.

After lunch, he visited two tanks batlions, the bivouac area, and the tent camp of the 124th. During his tour, he met the commanding officers of the various units and chatted with enlisted men. As one dogface in the 1[illegible] put it, "He seems like a regular guy."

At 3:30 in the afternoon, he was back at his desk and left it just long enough to welcome the WACs. His inspection tour today wi'l be another rapid one to the various units of the Student Training brigade.

Woman's Club Told Role Wives Play in World War

BY KATHERINE HAMMARGREN

Old and new members of the Fort Benning Woman's Club carried with them from the first meeting of the club Monday afternoon a keen realization of the hardships which women in service and in the United Kingdom are undergoing, and an understanding of the important part women can play as morale builders and in maintaining the stability of the home in time of war.

Maj. Gen. Charles Hartwell Bonesteel, Col. Robert S. Miller, and Mrs. Clarence T. Johnson, speaking before the Woman's Club, explained graphically in which ways army wives can be particularly helpful. General Bonesteel, commandant of The Infantry School, stressed in his welcoming address that we should never forget for one moment that we are fighting for our lives. He urged the utmost caution in guarding confidential details, and warned his listeners to be wary of rumor and gossip.

Mrs. Clarence T. Johnson, executive secretary of the Muscogee county chapter of the American Red Cross, outlined the volunteer services of the Red Cross and welcome all Woman's Club members to participate in those activities in which they would prove most useful, even though they might be able to give but a few hours a week.

Colonel Miller, on the faculty of The Infantry School, in the main speech of the afternoon pointed out that credit should be given that great unorganized group of women, the wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts of the fighting men. He went on to describe the hardships of women in England, where, he said he had never heard a complaint. Food rationing in England is most severe, Colonel Miller said. Clothing is strictly rationed and women appear shabby but wear their shabbiness with pride. There has been no gasoline for private cars for two years, and train travel is an ordeal with first class carriages reserved for those with a rank of colonel and up.

"In England, the people are fighting the war," he said. "They are 'all out' for war in the strictest sense of the word. Everyone whether she holds a job or not, is also registered with Civilian Defense. You are not asked, but told, to give so many hours per month."

"You can still see the horror in their eyes," said Colonel Miller in describing the results of the hundred day blitzkreig of England. "But they are proud that they came through as they did. They have a just right to be proud."

Colonel Miller went on to point out that the first thought in England seemed to be not for oneself or one's family, but to save England. He thinks that we here in America have "good stuff" but have never been badly scared as were the people of England when they went through 100 days of bombing.

Describing the landing of troops in North Africa, Colonel Miller said that on his transport there were 249 women, some of them American. When their ship was torpedoed at 2:30 in the morning the women, whom he had expected to be thrown into confusion, responded with steady, stanch courage. Out of 249 women, only six were lost.

"The homes are temporarily in your hands," Colonel Miller concluded. "You must be father, mother, home manager. Every officer even if still in this country, carries the heaviest load man has ever carried. Lighten his load by keeping up his home. Keep abreast of the war. Above all, be ready to reestablish his home in a peace where the rights of free men may never again be threatened."

Mrs. Harold E. Potter, president, introduced executive officers and committee chairmen of the club. Mrs. Francis J. Heraty, first vice president, explained that the fee of $2.00 for membership in the club also included participation in all group activities. Mrs. Reginald H. Kelley, president during the past year, asked members to volunteer as helpers at the Nursery School, where pre-kindergarten children are cared for during the morning to allow mothers time for Red Cross work and for marketing. Mrs. Kelley, who is leaving the post, expressed her pleasure in the friendships she had formed during her years as president, and bade farewell to members of the club.

The traditional opening tea followed the meeting, at which Mrs. Ridgely Gaither, Mrs. John P. Edgerly, and Mrs. H. P. Perrine presided. Colorful orange-red hawthorne berries, pink magnolia pods, and brown cattails were reflected in a huge brass samovar at one table, while the second table was a contrast with yellow lupins, yellow candles, and silver service. Mrs. George H. Mahony was responsible for the attractive flower arrangements.

PAN-HELLENIC

The Pan-Hellenic group of Fort Benning will have a dinner-dance at the Officers' club on Thursday evening, Oct. 14. Any members of Pan-Hellenic fraterniteis are invited to bring their husbands or dates. New members may call Mrs. Benjamin Thurston, F. B. 2534, or Mrs. Edwin L. Clark, Columbus, 3-5294.

Scrap metal which this country sent Japan is being sent back to the Yanks — but as shrapnel. Army surgeons state pieces of American razor blades and soda pop bottle caps can be identified.

Brazil Decorates General Allen, Former TIS CO

Maj.-Gen. Leven C. Allen, former commandant of the Infantry school, was one of 10 U. S. Army officers decorated by the government of Brazil at a special ceremony in the Brazilian embassy, Washington.

General Allen received the Order of Military Merit of Brazil with the rank of commander. It was presented by Maj.-Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra, Brazilian minister of war who has concluded an extensive inspection of U. S. Army posts and installations.

During his visit to Fort Benning a few weeks ago, General Dutra was the guest of General Allen and was conducted by him on a tour of the Infantry school.

Pfc. Little Heads Sq., 7th Armored As Carbine Shot

Pfc. James E. Little of Headquarters and Headquarter Company, 7th Armored Division, headed the list of expert riflemen in Division Headquarters this week, having scored 182 in firing the .30 caliber carbine. Pvt. William J. Mahowan was runner-up. He scored 179 points from a possible 200 points.

Another private, Ode J. Garner of Combat Command B, made a score of 175, also qualifying as an expert rifleman. Communications. Sergt. Harold D. Wilcox, also of Combat Command B, outscored Private Garner by two points. His score was 177.

There were 10 sharpshooters from Headquarters Division trains, namely: Wayne N. Benedict, Eugene J. Boudreaux, Rex Butler, Mack B. Free, Higinio Fuentes, Richard H. Price, Leo A. Russell, Charlie Whitehead, Jr., Alie P. Vaughan and Winston K. Young.

Seven enlisted men were rated as sharpshooters from Combat Command B during the week. They were Kenneth C. Ferris, John H. Hipsher, Nelson Jean, Sgt. Ray A. Collins, Wilbur L. Wood, James C. Layton and Fred L. Carter.

Pfc. Little is liaison clerk in the offices of the division artillery section. A majority of the experts and sharpshooters represent the various offices and sections at Division Headquarters.

The feat of Warrant Officer Edward Carpenter of Camp Stewart, Ga., who attained his position after seven months as a GI has been bested. Warrant Officer Leo C. Billups of Stinson Field, Texas, beat the record by five days.

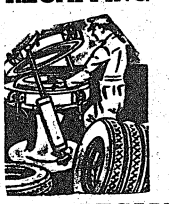
Band Serenades General Silvester On His Birthday

The corporal of the guard was puzzled, yes, entirely amazed, the other morn when he saw various members of the general staff peering around corners, then madly dashing into the woods. He was further impressed when he spotted 56 men advancing in the same direction with musical instruments.

To complicate matters, the staff and the band began advancing stealthily on Division Headquarters. The very confused corporal was on his fay to call the O. D. when he heard the strains of "Happy Birthday to You" echoing from the division area.

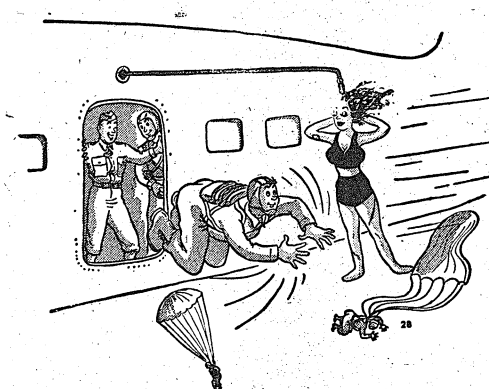
Yes, the commander of the "Lucky Seventh" was having a birthday and Maj.-Gen. Silvester could be seen shaking hands with his staff and receiving theri felicitations.

Sept. 30 marked another gala event, when the Seventh Armored Division band, composed of the old 31st and 40th Armored Regiment bands, made its debut.



Upon completion of the greetings, General Silvester congratulated the band on its fine performance.

Warrant Officers Marvin C. Howe of the 40th and Robert B. Centrick of the 31st Armored Battalions formed the "Lucky Seventh" band. Composed of 56 pieces, this band will play at all reviews and formal occasions. Every Saturday they will play for the reviews to be held at Tiger Field.



Order Your Coal Early
A Full Ton of Satisfaction
Martin Bros. Coal Co.
29th St. & 4 th Ave. Dial 2-4221

MEET YOUR BUDDIES at the
Eagle Army Store
Headquarters For
OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN
Uniforms and Military Supplies
1018 BROADWAY

Send Your Portrait So they may see you every day
Proofs for Your Inspection Before You Buy.
Our Price Within the Reach of All.
AIM'E DUPONT
Of Fifth Ave.
MILITARY STUDIOS
1219½ Broadway Tel. 3-1505
Columbus, Ga.
Open 1 to 9:30 P. M.; Sunday 2 to 6 P. M., E. W. T.

RECAPPING—VULCANIZING

We cater to Ft. Benning Personnel
GASOLINE DELIVERY HOURS
11 A. M. to 11 P. M. CWT
THIGPEN
TIRE RECAPPING SERVICE
SHELL STATION 1201 - 13th ST.
PHENIX CITY FIVE POINTS

AS YOU WERE with Hart Schaffner & Marx

"Corporal, you give us a swell opportunity to compare."

Uncle Sam's got the world skinned to death on making jumpers, but when it comes to clothing—that honor belongs to Hart Schaffner & Marx.

The adventures of Pvt. Jonathan Joop appear regularly in this space. Watch for this feature!

TIS Graduate Describes Casablanca Invasion

A sickening thud as the torpedo hit his transport 10 miles from the shore of Casablanca—the deafening sound of the explosion—the churning sea as the men clambered into the lowered Higgins attack boats—the hell that broke loose when the British and Yank fleet let go a broadside barrage, a scant 15 feet above their heads, into the then hostile French fleet, annihilating it in a sheet of flame and a roar of thunder lifting the iron plated barge he was in clear off the water—the battle cry of the Yanks as they fanned out as skirmishers on landing—such were the first combat experiences of young Lt. Robert Howarth, of Newark, Ohio, fresh out of Officers Candidate School at Fort Benning.

Lt. Howard was with the first U. S. Army contingent to invade Africa. As the convoy of American troops approached the continent, a pack of German submarines, which had escaped detection by cutting their Diesels and drifting with the tide toward shore, suddenly attacked from the back, sinking several transports, but at a terrific cost in the number of their own subs.

THE CANNONS ROAR

Sinking transports, muffled explosions or depth bombs, the roar of cannon from battling fleets, men swimming for boats—all gave a picture of utter confusion, but teamwork and discipline brought order out of chaos. By nightfall they bivouacked on African soil. It was the first Yank victory on the continent.

Asked how his Fort Benning O. C. S. training had stood him in stead in battle, Lt. Howard said it was superb. As he was overseas within a month of his graduation, he had to rely much on what he had absorbed there. He said with a smile that most combat situations, with few minor deviations, resemble the problems presented by the school faculty at Pine and Hourglass Roads. Bpt on one thing, he said, the School is definitely on the ball—and that is in how to throw a hand grenade. His advice is to forget all the school taught you about the shot-put technique. Most Americans are good pitchers—throw them as a baseball, he says, for greater distance and better accuracy.

LEARN TO DIG IN

Once an American soldier has been in one battle, one never again has any difficulty n convincing him of the desirability to dig n. Lt. Howarth further stated. In attacking at Fedala, the company messenger got caught for five hours in cross-fire. When the skirmish was won, the messenger had to be helped out of his foxhole—it was eight feet deep. But as a costly way of learning. They should be "fox-hole conscious" before they reach that first battle.

It was at Fedala, in Africa, that Lt. Howarth was placed in an evacuation hospital, because of internal injures sustained at Casablanca. A shell had exploded a few yards away from him. He had escaped the fragments, but the concussion had caused internal damages of which he had been unawares.

Lt. Howarth has three campaign ribbons, ncluding the Purple Heart, and also two battle stars, one for the battle at Casablanca, the other for the engagement at Fedala.

Lt. Howarth enlisted in February 1941, in the 18th Coast Artillery at Fort Stevens, Oregon, where he was the chief plotter in a mine battery. He graduated O. C. S. September 24, 1942. A month later he was headed for Africa.

Lt. Howarth is now recuperating from hs njures at the Oliver General Hospital in Augusta, Ga. It is the former Forest Hill Hotel, which the army has acquired, golf course and all, and converted into a 1500 bed hospital. The golf course is now used for convalescing G. I.'s who want to relax.

B&C Mess Cited For Excellence Among 4th SC Units

The mess hall of the School for Bakers and Cooks, Section I, at Fort Benning is cited as the most outstanding among those of Fourth Service Command units at Benning for the month of September.

In recognition of the distinction, a flag which is given monthly the recipient of the award is now flying on the front of the school on Vibbert avenue on the Main Post.

The mess halls of the Service Command units are judged monthly by Lieut.-Col. Alexander Vezey, post mess supervisor, and Capt. Arthur L. Anderson, post nutrition officer. All mess halls and kitchens are graded on the quality of food when it is prepared, the appearance of the mess halls, and the efficiency of the mess hall.

Mess officers for the winner last month are Capt. Robert J. Dickson and Warrant Officer Daniel H. Siroty. The mess sergeant is Staff Sgt. Howard L. Holcomb.

For the months of July and August, the mess hall of Section II, of the Bakers and Cooks School, won the coveted award.

New Gas Mask For Desert, Jungle

A new light-weight gas mask for use in desert or jungle warfare has been developed, it was disclosed by Lt. Col. Ralph A. Gould, chief of the Chemical Warfare Branch, Fourth Service Command, in Atlanta.

In addition to supplying every member of the fighting forces with the most improved type of combat gas mask, the Chemical Warfare Service also supplies special masts for troops in training, for soldiers who wear eye glasses, for use with optical instruments and for other special purposes. The non-combatant gas mask program has been completed under Chemical Warfare Service contract and supervision. Under this program, certain masks are supplied to the Office of Civilian Defense for distribution by the agency to civilians on the home front.

The first cows arrived in the U. S. for the Jamestown colony in 1611.

COCKER SPANIEL PUPPIES FOR SALE
ALL COLORS
Litter registered. Sired by International Champion Mistwood Anthony.
$25 and up
We Deliver to Columbus on Approval.
Call Us Collect If Interested.
ALSO THREE EXCELLENT DOGS AT STUD
EUFAULA KENNELS
EUFAULA, ALA.
F. W. HAM, Owner

DEPENDABLE WORK
COLUMBUS WATCH REPAIRS
HAROLD PEOPLES
PAUL FAISON
932 Broadway

October is the Month
Ft. Benning Boys
Change Into Winter Uniform
NOW IS A GOOD TIME TO CHANGE YOUR CAR'S UNIFORM!
FIGHT WINTER! FIGHT WEAR!
CHANGE TO CITIES SERVICE
COOL MOTOR OILS
B. & H. OIL CO.
2835 Cusseta Rd. Dial 9244
1200 Linwood Blvd. Dial 3-7966

"FOLLOW ME" GIRL—Petite, black-haired June Smith hails from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and we're not too sure that her "perfect 34" hasn't helped make that city famous too. . . . Right now she's the darling of the lads at the Infantry School, where she's a steno in the assistant commandant's office. . . . Even though the weather's getting cool, in the photo above, June volunteered at least to go near the water, just so you could see this unusual shot. . . . Also likes to ice skate, dance, and is a rabid baseball fan—especially of the Academic Profs. . . . Went to school at Prospect Hall in Milwaukee where she played hocked and girls' soccer, whatever that is. . . . SMITH ON MEN: "They're a real luxury, sometimes you have them, sometimes you don't. . . . VITAL STATISTICS: Age—19. Height 5'2". Weight—105. Bust—34. Waist—22. Hips—34. Hair—jet black and very striking. Eyes—twinkling brown. Complexion—medium fair. A cute little trick and a very neat addition to our pin-up collection! (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt Don Kortemeier)

Neville Family Cheats Death

Lieutenant Edward R. Neville, Jr., attached to the 9th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, is carrying on his family tradition of cheating death.

One sullen day back in 1903 the full tropic fury of a typhoon struck the launch in which his father and several other Army officers were crossing Manila Bay on their way to Corregidor. Edward, Sr., swam for it and finally clambered ashore to the pleased surprise of his superiors who had already reported him missing.

Forty years later, living in quiet retirement at Lowell, Mass., he received word that his son was missing in action on Guadalcanal. But the charm worked again and Lieutenant Neville, Jr., is now at Fort Benning to tell of his escape.

Although his Army career began the day he was born in Fort Mansfield, outside Wetserly, R. I. whoer his father commanded a coast artillery battery, Lieutenant Neville waited until he reached the legal age of 18 before joining the 186th Infantry, Massachusetts National Guard. He saw active duty during the destructive Merrimac Valley flood in the spring of 1935. That summer he participated in the 1st Army maneuvers at Pine Camp, N. Y., the first large-scale war games since 1918.

JOINS MARINES

Eager for more action than peacetime National Guard service offered, young Neville joined the Marines in 1936. He trained with the Fleet Marine Force, source of the powerful leatherneck divisions of today, and worked at the Naval ordnance factory in Washington, D. C. So proficient did he become that he was soon sent to Annapolis as small arms instructor and coach in marksmanship at the Naval Academy.

When his Marine Corps enlistment expired in January 1941, he re-joined the National Guard and two and one-half months later was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant in the Army of the United States. He settled down to train his men intensively for the war that seemed drawing nearer daily.

It finally came as a sneak attack that fateful Sunday morning. Boarding transports shortly after December 7, Lieutenant Neville's unit formed part of the first American contingent to reach Australia. They left the island continent and sailed to garrison New Caledonia, precariously perched on the edge of the expanding Jap conquests.

IN THICK OF IT

For two months, from November 1942 to January '43, Lieutenant Neville was in the thick of battle on Guadalcanal. After one engagement he found himself and a handful of followers separated from their unit. Their names appeared on casualty lists as "missing." But by cutting, crawling, and climbing, punctuated by swift dashes across clearings, they struggled through the jungle back to the American positions, little the worse for wear. Returning to the United States, Lieutenant Neville was greeted by bantering friends as the "walking ghost," although, during the action, he had failed to see the humor of his predicament.

Particularly interested in training methods that have made The Infantry School known the world over, Lieutenant Neville stressed that instruction here is so practical and up-to-the-minute because the faculty makes full use of information coming back from fighting fronts. Visual aids that simplify even the most difficult weapon or tactical problem, vividly real demonstrations firing live ammunition and high-explosive shells, with tanks and planes taking part, and the emphasis on learnnig through doing, put Infantry School training way ahead of anything he has seen in many years of military service. Leaders who are products of the incomparably thorough preparation they received at Fort Benning are showing our forces the way to victory in all theatres, he said.

Frenchmen Set War Bond Pace

French student officers and candidates wrke reported as outpurchasing their American classmates in the Third War Loan, First Lieut. Frederick Tilney, Jr., bond officer of the 2nd Battalion, 1st Student Training Regiment, declared. The "Fighting French," who are attending the Officers' Basic Course of the Infantry school, came to Fort Benning from all parts of the globe. Many of them have already fought the Axis in Europe and Africa.

Numbering 90 in all, the Frenchmen in the 2nd Battalion of the 1st Student Training Regiment, which is commanded by Col. John S. Roosma, paid cash for bonds totaling $5,380 at purchase value.

1st STR Beautifies Regimental Grounds

Remember when every gust of wind sent red clouds of Georgia sand scurrying across the 1st Student Training Regiment area? And when you couldn't stay on footpaths because it took an expert map-reader to decide where the walk ended and the lawn began?

That was last fall. Since then, under the auspices of Colonel John S. Roosma, commanding Officer, the 1st S. T. R. of The Infantry School has so prettied up its face that the regimental area has an entirely different, and far more attractive aspect.

With the cooperation of battalion and company commanders, Colonel Roosma had the lawns seeded and fertilized. As a result, all summer long the grounds have been covered with an eye-resting carpet of luxuriant green. So carefully have 1st S. T. R. gardeners tended and all members of the regiment avoided trampling the lawns that they are as beautiful as ever at the beginning of another autumn—and the grass is holding down the soil so that there's no coat of dust covering the interiors of barracks, lecture rooms, mess halls, and offices alike.

Colonel Roosma's program, which is approaching completion although the work of improvement never ceases, has also laid fine new cement walks throughout the 1st Student Training Regiment area, erected brightly-painted fences around lawns, and heightened the attractiveness of buildings and fixtures with fresh coats of green and white paint. Not to mention the dressed-up interiors of all mess halls which have already drawn so much praise. And officers and enlisted men of the regiment are finding it a more pleasant and inspiring atmosphere which spurs doing their utmost for the Victory effort.

O. C. Brushes Up For Burmese Action

The Allied thrust into Burma is especially heartening news to at least one officer candidate in the Third Student Training Regiment and he is Candidate Vernelle W. Dyer of the Seventh Company.

Candidate Dyer, now 23 years old, lived in Burma for 13 years where his father was an American missionary. His father has since become a chaplain and is on foreign duty at the present time While in Rangoon and some of the Northern Shan states, Candidate Dyer attended American-sponsored schools and thus received a great deal of his education in the Orient. His college days, however, were spent at Colby College in Maine.

One of Candidate Dyer's favorite sports while in Burma was hunting. However it was not the usual duck, quail or squirrel hunting with which we are familiar. Rather it was the Frank Buck type: Wild buffalo, bear, panthers, wild boars and Indian elephants. He used a special English hunting rifle patterned on the famous English elephant gun. It is approximately a .45 caliber weapon and Candidate Dyer assures us that it has a great deal more "kick" than the M-1.

During his stay in Burma, Candidate Dyer learned to speak four languages: Hindustani, Burmese, Telegu, and Karem. His difficulty now is keeping brushed up on his diction and pronunciation. People speaking these languages are quite scarce in the States.

Besides his stay in Burma, Candidate Dyer has travelled around the world, visiting such places as England, France, Egypt, China and other foreign countries.

At present, Candidate Dyer has two ambitions to fulfill: first to successfully complete the Officer Candidate course at the Infantry School, and second, to return to Burma to take up his favorite sport of hunting, this time to hunt the famous "yellow monkeys" that are infesting the Burmese jungles. And he wants to do this at the business end of an M-1 rifle.

TIS CO. INVESTED

Authority to appoint general courts martial has been invested in the commandant of the Infantry school under a general order from the War Department received this week. Previously, appointments for courts martial within the Infantry school had been made by the commanding general of Fort Benning and prior to that, the authority had been delegated to the Fourth Service Command.

1ST LIEUT. MEADOWS

The promotion of Wade D. Meadows from second lieutenant to first lieutenant was announced here recently by Col. Henry J. Hunt, Jr., commanding officer of the 300th Infantry Regiment, in which Lieutenant Meadows is serving as executive officer of Co. "C."

Col. Littleton Post Engineer

Officer Comes To Fort From Camp Wheeler

Lieut.-Col. Edward L. Littleton has been named post engineer of Fort Benning, succeeding Col. Albert J. Bain, who retired from active military duty. Colonel Littleton, a veteran of World War I, is a native of Henry County, Tennessee.

In his assignment at Fort Benning, Colonel Littleton will direct the vast utilities system on the post which is large enough to service a metropolis of 150,000 population.

Colonel Littleton was transferred to Fort Benning from Camp Wheeler, Ga., where he served as post engineer from May 12, 1941, until his recent appointment to Benning.

The new post engineer is a graduate of the University of Tennessee in 1917. He attended the Second Training Camp for officers in 1917 and received his commission as a lieutenant in the coast artillery. For a year, Colonel Littleton served overseas in World War I, and for six months was under fire with the heavy artillery.

After the war Colonel Littleton served for five and a half years in the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, assigned to the engineering phase of the training and rehabilitating of disabled soldiers. He then served as an engineer with the Florida State Highway Department and later was engaged in the contracting business.

On Nov. 10, 1940, Colonel Littleton was called to active duty and was assigned to the coast artillery at Fort Moultrie. He later was assigned to post engineering work due to his municipal engineering experience.

MAJOR TAGUE

Capt. Robert G. Tague has been promoted to the rank of major, according to an announcement by Col. Wilson McKay Spann, commanding officer of the Basic Training Center of the Army Specialized Training program at the Infantry school.

Catholics Slate Huge Mission

Twelve Redemptorist Fathers To Conduct Services In October

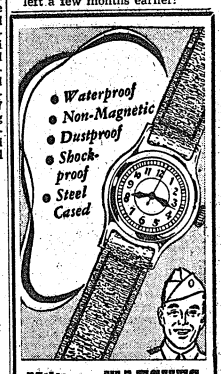
Twelve Redemptorist Missionary Fathers from New York and Philadelphia; headed by the Reverend Mr. Joseph Turner, C.SS.R; Superior of the Mission Band will begin arriving at Fort Benning during the week of October 17 to begin preparations for opening a Catholic Mission on Sunday, Oct. 24.

This Mission for Catholic men will be conducted throughout the entire Post, the Alabama Area, Lawson Field, the Main Post, Harmany Church Area, and 7th Armored Division area, each will have its quota of Missionary Fathers under the supervision of a Chaplain.

Similar to the one conducted here in March; it will be the largest Catholic Mission conducted in any Army Camp in the country. At the Main Post in Chapel No. 4 the hours for services will be as follows: mass in the morning at 5:45 a. m. and 7 a. m. and in the evening there will be services and Missoin Sermons at 7 and 8 p. m. During the morning and afternoon the Missionary Fathers will give consultations and conferences among the personnel of the Post.

Ain't He Heard Man Proposes, Army Disposes?

When Candidate James Kenworthy, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School, left Adak, U. S. Aleutian Island outpost, three months ago he swore he would be the first and the last of the Kenworthy clan to set foot on the barren Aleutians. Imagine Candidate Kenworthy's surprise when this week he received a letter from his younger brother, Clio, telling him that he was on the very island that the candidate had left a few months earlier!



Highest Cash Prices For Used Cars
PHILLIPS MOTOR CO.
PHONE 3-6553
1419 1st STREET

Officers Mess Organized In Truck Regiment

Officers of the Truck Regiment, The Infantry School, have organized the Collins Road Officers Mess, which will be opened with a social affair in the near future.

The club plans to remodel several buildings, including Bachelor Officers' Quarters, Consolidated Mess, Hostess House, lounge with bar and grill, and a Recreation building.

Pending final approval of these plans and selection of a Board of Governors, a committee composed of Lieutenants Charles L. Campbell, Clyde H. Rhinehart, Milton V. Seraile, William H. Webb, Jr., Adolphe J. Peters, and Henry A. Talbert, is supervising arrangements for the club's formal opening.

Military WATCHES
Famous makes, guaranteed accurate and dependable. Handsomely cased. Prices start at $37.50 up
BRACKIN'S
1210 BROADWAY

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus
By Phyllis

Long, black and covered is a perfect way to describe many of the more than perfect gowns for evening wear displayed by KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, INC., 1109 Broadway. This exclusive shop has long been noted for its exquisitely chic and lovely dinner and evening gowns. Several of these outstandingly attractive outfits combine a long-sleeved jacket with a very decolletage sheath of black crepe. Here and there is a bit of dolphin-like drapery tied with a bow. Here and there, too, a perfectly-fitted détachable of bright-colored, stiff taffeta. Slim as a sapling's shadow and becoming to young and old alike are these unusual creations. Indeed, each of these gowns has to be seen to fully appreciate the precise stitching and soft drapery. I know you'll all feel as I did, that the shop of Kayser-Lilienthal, Inc., should be enthusiastically congratulated for displaying such ultra-smart evening wear.

—V—

Our favorite pharmacy in Columbus is CITY PHARMACY, located at 14 13th Street, just across the street from the Waverly Hotel. I have found that this modern, well-stocked pharmacy has a complete line of sundry articles which one might expect to buy at a pharmacy. The store has just announced the appointment of Mr. H. S. Wells, registered pharmacist, as a new member of the staff. He joins Mr. James McKissac, registered pharmacist, who has long handled pharmaceutical and prescription needs. A fine soda fountain, with several pleasant booths in the store, is the meeting place for many Army wives who are in Columbus doing their shopping. When you next plan to meet a friend in Columbus, why not make it at City Pharmacy which is centrally located and is a most appropriate meeting place.

—V—

"Christmas comes but once a year," as the saying goes. And, because of this, you'll want to be certain your friends and relatives in foreign service are given the chance to celebrate this day by opening a Christmas package or two. In order to facilitate mailing abroad, the J. A. KIRVEN CO. has government-approved packages to contain suitable gifts selected from the well-filled counters throughout the store. Handkerchiefs, ties, sweaters, shaving soap and lotions, leather goods of many types, purchased before October 15 and packaged in these approved and practical gift packages are certain to please the most picayune military man on Christmas Day. Kirven's has several different type gift sets already packaged from which you may select, taking into consideration especially the amount of money you wish to spend. Whatever you mail abroad, if it's purchased at Kirven's, you're bound to receive a note of hearty thanks from your friends overseas.

—V—

Now that school days have come again for the hundreds of children on the Post, that perennial problem of properly outfitting the boys and girls for school and for their arduous play periods is before us again. Each year the children usually go back to school well decked out in brand new clothes. Those hardy boys usually have a nifty new pair of shorts or knickers and the young girls usually boast of a new dress or two. However, as the school term grows, and the wear and tear begins to show, mothers usually have to look for some new additions to the youngsters' wardrobes. MONTGOMERY WARD at 1201 Broadway has a fine assortment of such clothing for the youngsters. When young John or Josephine demands a new piece of clothing, be sure and look over the array at Ward's. Reasonably priced, attractive clothing of lasting quality can readily be found at this store.

—V—

One way to get ahead . . . though maybe you're attached to your feet just as they are. And, maybe you aren't: maybe you sigh at your reflection in the mirror and think: "Oh, if I only had a pair of shoes that would do things for my feet." As the wish moves from an idea to real desire, and you still have a shoe ration coupon, try on the lovely shoes at the MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE COMPANY at 1130 Broadway in Columbus. Trimly styled pumps of suede and kid play up the good points of your feet and do their best to hide the bad points. One especially lovely pump made by I. Miller, has a D'Orsay cut vamp above a slightly rounded toe. Perfect for wear with dressy clothes, this particular shoe can be made even loveller for gala occasions by adding a bow-knot of matching soft kid or suede. Now that all are limited, so to speak, to two pairs of shoes each year then shoes which can be dressed up or down as the occasion may demand, are to be highly treasured. Styles, other than pumps, are equally flattering and, like all Miller-Taylor footwear, are fashioned of finest quality materials.

Italian Army Cannoneer Prefers American Way

Pfc. Salvatore Priore of 709 Eagle Street, Utica, New York, a cannoner in Benito Mussolini's Italian army, and at present an important and contented soldier in Company A, of the 33 Armored Engineers of the 7th Armored Division—believes in "getting everything on a straight line." In fact he is "on the ball."

"Everything is better here," the Italian born American said.

The reason Pfc. Priore decided to come to America he thought there were better opportunities for him in this country, and it seems that they were. He told of having made $6, $8, and $12 per day as a brick mason. He learned his trade after having served an apprenticeship of five years in the "old country." Besides building from brick and stone, Pvt. Priore is also a plasterer and cement worker in civilian life.

He was drafted in the Italian Army in 1934 and served 14 months. He was a cannoner in the Italian Army and was in Ethiopia during the war.

The talented and friendly engineer was born in Missanello, Italy, and was inducted into the United States Army on March 12, 1942 and states that "I am an American. I don't care for no one across. It isn't my fault that any of them didn't come to this country too. They'll have to make the best of it."

Priore, who has a brother, Joseph Priore, in the U. S. Army Air Corps, boasts of the "being a private." A number of the fellows in the barracks cheered when he said that. The sergeants, who were intent on getting in on the interview, had nothing to say.

"Yeh, I thought the war was over when Italy gave up. Of course I was happy, but Italy didn't want war to begin with. She was forced into it."

Priore became an American "by priority," he laughingly stated. His father, Fortunato Priore, had found his fortune in the United States. He liked the "new country" and told his sons of the possibilities here. He must have, for it was by his having been a naturalized citizen that our Pfc. Priore became an American. Under the old immigration laws he was permitted to "ride his father's ticket." In other words, children, sons, daughters, and wives were accepted as citizens when their parents had been naturalized.

"In the old country when we learned a trade we learn everything or nothing," Pvt. Priore said. "If I don't get one thing I'll get another," the proud private said. "And he is proud to be a private. His company commander is proud to have him, and the men are proud of their companion.

HAPPINESS REIGNS in "D" company's kitchen of the 87th Rcn. Bn., 7th Armored Division. Lt. James V. Husk and his huskies smile proudly for the photographer. On the right is S. Sgt. LeRoy Brooks. Left to right, front row, are: T-5 William Olsen, Pfc. Wm. J. Cohen, T-4 Arthur Dickson and Pfc. Wm. D. Turpin. They have the "best barracks" and the "best kitchen in the battalion. (Official U. S. Army Photo, 7 A. D.)

Promotion Wave Hits 1st Training Regiment

"What the heck is this, mass promotion week?" complained the confused instructor in Motorized Patrolling when the first three students in an Officers Advanced Class, whom he called on by rank, shyly owned up to brand new promotions announced by Colonel John S. Roosma, Commanding Officer of the 1st Student Training Regiment, since they started the course.

What the bewildered instructor didn't know was that new bars and leaves and things had sprung up with enthusiastic abundance among the studen officers in the 16th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School, during the past month. Captain William E. Huxford, Commanding Officer, says he's going to have a regular morning "shoulder inspection" to keep the roster up to date.

Most impressive of the recent "push-ups" was that of Parks Huntt, whose gold leaves underwent a very welcome bleaching process on September 7. Lieutenant Colonel Huntt, who hails from Atlanta, entered active duty in December, 1940, as G-3, Fourth Corps Area (now Fourth Service Command) in the grade of Captain. He served with the 85th Division and came to Fort Benning after fifteen months with the 4th Motorized Division at Fort Dix.

John G. Dunlop, Jr., Herman M. Levinson and Jack J. Wagstaff got out from under the "railroad tracks" recently and joined the ranks of field officers. Major Dunlop, a graduate of an Officers Basic Course at The Infantry School, has been serving as Battalion Executive Officer with the 271st Infantry at Camp Shelby. His home is in San Francisco, Cal. Major Levinson comes via ROTC from the University of Nebraska. He completed the basic Course here and has been serving with the 276th Infantry, 70th Division. His home is in Omaha, Nebr. Major Wagstaff hails from Camp Shelby, 271st Infantry. He graduated from the University of Oregon and completed the Officers Motor and Division Officers Courses at Fort Benning. His home town is Portland, Oregon.

Obviously disregarding the metal shortage, five more members of the class are suffering from a slight case of droopy shoulders from the added weight of doubling up their silver bars. The new captains include Roswell J. MacMaster of Stamford, Conn.; John F. Marwede of Richmond Hill, N. Y.; Horace W. Miller of Los Angeles, Calif.; Charles E. Nadeau of Houston, Texas; and Arno D. Weatherford of Indianapolis, Ind. With timely admonition to invest some of that extra money in war bonds, the 18th Company heartily congratulated its newly promoted members.

BUCKWALTER PROMOTED

The promotion of George E. Buckwalter from second lieutenant to first lieutenant was announced here recently by Col. Henry J. Hunt, Jr., commanding officer of the 300th Infantry Regiment, in which Lieut. Buckwalter is serving.

When Italian warships began to run the gauntlet of Nazi submarines and bombing planes in the Mediterranean most of the Itie craft escaped to Malta and other Allied bases but one which fell victim to German aircraft was the battleship Roma.

OFFICERS! SEE OUR
Gifts - Antiques
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

DAY'S TAXI CO.
1401 1ST AVE.
DIAL 3-3611

Columbus' Only Store
Catering Exclusively to Benning's
Colored Personnel
LEE'S
MILITARY STORE
Large Selection of O. D. and Winter Uniforms
Military Watches and Watch Repair
602 - 8th STREET

Income Tax Computation Drives Soldiers Haywire

If you are having any troubles this year in figuring your income tax don't fret about it because there are many others in the same boat. However, the members of the 1st Battalion, 1st Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School, are very fortunate in having an expert to help them in their hour of need, namely Mrs. D. K. Straub, Civil Service Stenographer of Lt. Colonel Wilfred Jackson, Battalion Commander.

Judging from the lines in front of the 1st Battalion Headquarters it would seem as though there are many in the Army who are desperately in need of a solution to their income tax problems, and Mrs. Straub is ready and willing to help all in their struggle. There was such a line last week that a second lieutenant stood for two hours before he found out that it was not the place where "The Phantom of the Opera" was playing. At that, before he got away Mrs. Straub decided he owed the Government $1.14 income tax minus his $2 tax for $.23. He was very glad to get the information because he had forgotten all about deducting the $.23.

NOTABLE EXAMPLE

Not all the problems are as difficult as the above mentioned but some need much concentration. Worthy of mention is the man who itemized his income thusly: $1,000 salary, $300 overtime, $4.00 blackjack, $1.75 found in phone-booth, and $.75 cheating on a pin-ball machine. His deductions were listed as such: $600 married man, $50 amusements, $30 taken from pockets by wife, and $25 false teeth, (he is an orchestra leader and who can blow a trumpet without teeth). After some difficulty it was finally decided that he did not owe any taxes because his 1942 tax was equal to the difference between the bonds he bought and the last three numbers on his automobile license plate multiplied by the square root of his Victory Tax, which as anyone can see, is twice as much anyway. It's all very simple—if you can only remember your license plate number. Mrs. Straub also advised him to see Mr. Anthony about his wife taking the money from his pockets.

In returning from the ridiculous to the sublime let us pause for a moment on the facts. Mrs. D. K. Straub is really "hep to the jive" on her income tax regulations and has proven a haven of relief to many members of the 1st Battalion who had been suffering from the strange malady called incometaxitis, a truly insufferable disease these days.

The per capita consumption of cheese last year in the U. S. was slightly more than six pounds.

Myra's Beauty Shop
Opening under new management MONDAY, SEPT. 27th.
305 Murrah Bldg.
Phone 3-1097
Elevator Service

PHONOGRAPHS All Types
We install and service music machines in all areas of Fort Benning.
Rhythm Is Our Business

GEORGIA MUSIC CO.
1045 - 6th AVE. DIAL 2-2954
DONALD LEEBERN, Owner.

PLAYING AT COLUMBUS THEATRES

BRADLEY
FRI. - SAT.
George Sanders — Marguerite Chapman
- in -
"APPOINTMENT IN BERLIN"
Sun. - Mon. - Tues.
Wed. - Thurs.
CLAUDETTE COLBERT
- in -
"SO PROUDLY WE HAIL"

RIALTO
FRI.-SAT.
Johnny Mack Brown — Tex Ruter
—in—
"RAIDERS OF THE SAND"
SUN.-MON.-TUES.
Betty Grable — Victor Mature
—in—
"CONEY ISLAND"
WED.-THURS.
Richard Arlen — Wendy Barrie
"SUBMARINE ALERT"

ROYAL
Fri. - Sat.
Lupe Velez — Eddie Abbot
-in-
"LADIES DAY"
MidniteShow&Sun.-Mon.
Don Ameche — Janet Blair — Jack Oakie
- in -
"SOMETHING TO SHOUT ABOUT"
Tues. - Wed.
Betty Rose — Donald Carey
-in-
"SALUTE FOR THREE"
—Thurs.—
Terese Wraugh — Joseph Cotton
-In
"The Shadow of a Doubt"

SPRINGER
FRIDAY
Chester Morris — Richard Arlen
—in—
AERIAL GUNNER
SATURDAY
William Boyd in Happy Serves a Writ
SUN. AND MON.
Rita Hayworth
Fred Astair
—in—
You Were Never Lovelier
TUES. AND WED.
Lon Chaney, Jr. in
Frankenstein Meets the Wolfman
THURSDAY
Judy Canova
—in—
CHATTER BOX

Germans Think Us Fools, O. C. Asserts

Interested in finding out some of the first-hand information on Germany under the Hitler regime? If so, you can get it by going to the Fourth Company, Third Student Training Regiment. Attending Infantry School OCS there is Candidate C. G. Ward, who was born and lived in Germany until 1937, when he came to the United States on account of religious and racial persecution.

Candidate Ward is of medium height and build, and his blond hair and fair skin bring out his German origin, although you cannot escape the American twinkle in his eyes nor his American joviality and sense of humor. There is no doubt but what he is "solid American." Upon questioning, he said that he particularly liked the friendliness of Americans, the liberal educational system here, and the setup of the average American family.

It seems that Germans have much more reserve and as a result it is much harder to make friends than in the United States. The family relationships also tend to be much more formal, for in Germany "children are seen and not heard" under their patriarchal setup. Candidate Ward says that American children are much more natural with their parents, and that as a result of their comparative freedom mature much more quickly and sensibly.

When Candidate Ward was asked what most Germans thought of Americans, he replied that they thought us very foolish, ignorant, and ostentatious, and that all Americans were wealthy. They got this idea from watching the American tourists in pre-war Germany who were out to have a good time. Candidate Ward himself thought that money was rolling on the streets in the United States and that you had to do practically nothing to have plenty of it. "I soon found out diffferently," he added, with a twinkle in his eye.

ATROCITIES-TRUE

One thing which Americans are particularly interested in is whether the atrocity stories of Hitlerian Germany are true. "For the most part, they are, said Candidate Ward, "and many of the stories never get out of Germany. What with the war and the various purges, almost every family has lost at least one member." Just as we have heard, the youth of Germany are 100 per cent behind Hitler, while many of the older people, who knew Germany in pre-Hitlerian days, are opposed to him. "But what can they do about it?" asked Ward.

Recently Candidate Ward had an interesting experience in an internment camp of Nazi prisoners, where he was doing interrogator work for the Army. He had been in the Army for almost two years and had had naturalization papers for about a year, and in the course of questioning prisoners he met a German with whom he had gone to the same school as a boy.

The prisoner was from the Hermann Goering Division of the Afrika Korps, and in the course of their conversation Ward found out that the former schoolmate was not then too sold on Germany, objecting mainly to the lack of freedom. "However," Ward added, "most of the Germans there were still pro-German and believed in ultimate victory for their side."

Candidate Ward first decided that he was coming to the United States during the 1936 Olympics, held in Germany, when he met and made friends with a number of Americans. In the next year, while working for a German export firm, he was mustered into the German army, but got deferred for a year on the basis of coming to the United States for further education.

Upon arriving here, he soon got a job with a firm in New York, after which he worked in Louisiana and then in Memphis, where from he was drafted in the fall of 1941.

Two Sets Of Twins Confuse 3rd STR 'TACs'

Double tragedy has struck at the lives of two tactical officers in the Fifth Company, Third Student Training Regiment TIS. Not a mental or a physical tragedy, but one that grips you when you can't tell who is who.

When Lieuts. John E. Person, Jr., and Warren L. Prostello called the roll in their respective platoons they got not one but two answers when the names Monroe and Rigg were reached. Ordinarily this would not cause much confusion, but when the candidates who answered were observed, the officers felt they ought to have their eyes checked for double vision.

In Lieutenant Prostello's platoon are the Monroe boys, Pearle and Earle, alike as the proverbial peas in the pod. Naturally both 22, Earle boasts that he saw the daylight in Moscow, Idaho, where they still live, an hour and a half before his "kid" brother Pearle. Of the same physical proportions it is easy for Pearle and Earle to exchange clothes. In high school they were both dash men on the track team and the men judging the winners never knew which one of the Monroes won until he came up and identified himself.

At the University of Idaho where they served as co-managers of the baseball and basketball teams, the coaches and players were always wondering which was Pearle and which was Earle. Often the coach would send one on an errand and seeing the other around would ask why he hadn't left yet.

In high school the Monroe twins had the same scholastic average down to the third decimal point, they admit they might have had the teacher confused and rather than be unfair she gave the same grade to both.

RIGG TWINS

The Rigg twins, who answered to Lieutenant Person, are 23 and got their mail at Havre, Montana, before they came to Benning. Charles, five minutes older than Peter, is married. They are both the same height and used to be the same weight, but Peter is 15 pounds heavier than Charles now; probably the worries of married life got Charles down.

When the boys were freshmen at the University of Montana, Charles was asked to a sorority dance. He became ill the day before the affair and asked Peter to tell the girl he would be unable to keep the engagement. Peter instead took the girl without telling her a thing, and not until three days later when her friends told her did she find out that the wrong Rigg had taken her.

In their dental examination here they both need the same tooth pulled, and for a while there was a bewildered dental officer wondering how "one boy could have two upper right wisdom teeth."

It's all easy when you know the difference, and if somebody does will be come by the orderly room of the Fifth Company and help someone who is having a tough time.

Bonds, Bonds, Bonds, Say General, Sarges, Privates

The General, the first sergeants, and the privates of the 7th Armored Division have purchased bonds during the current 3rd War Loan bond compaign.

General Lindsay McDonald Silvester, always ahead, came into Col. James De La Vergne's, Division Chaplain's office, planked down a $1,000 check. He was unaccompanied and unsolicited in making his purchase.

Likewise, 1st Sgt. Victor S. Badglay, of the 40th Armored Tank Battalion, while on furlough in Detroit, bought a $1,000 bond.

Meanwhile Pvt. William J. McGowan, of Headquarters, 7th Armored Division Trains, buys one bond a month like many another private from the ranks.

Thus far the Division is well on its way "over the top" in reaching the $150,000 goal and with the cooperation that everyone within the 7th Armored Division has enjoyed, the campaign is bound to be brought to a successful finish.

About 23 per cent of the cheese produced in the U. S. in 1942 was used for lend-lease.

Per diem allowances prescribed in travel orders are limited to a period not exceeding 30 days at any one station within the continental limits of the United States.

QUALITY SAVINGS VALUE
SEARS
57 YEARS OF LEADERSHIP

Fluffy COTTON BATTS
Size 72x90 Inches 79c
Weights 2½ and 3 Lbs.
Slumbersound Cotton Quilting Batts. Correctly stitched for easy handling. Opens to 72x90 inches. Partly bleached. Quilting instructions included.

Cotton Warp 37c
Selected American cotton carpet warp. 800 yard spool. Wash fast. Assorted colors.

DRESS SHIELDS 15c Pr.
Nainsook covered, soft, absorbent dress shields. Assorted sizes and shapes.

36-Inch Floral CRETONNE
Colorful Floral Designs 29c
For Covering Quilts and Comforters
Large and small patterns in colorful floral printed cretonne. A perfect covering for homemade quilts and comforters. Fast colors. 36 inches wide.

Wool and Rayon 54-Inch MATERIAL
For women's and misses' suits, coats and dresses. 279
Gay plaids in an array of new and popular Fall colors. 50% wool and 50% rayon material. For Suits, Coats and Dresses. Warm and serviceable. Easy to sew. 54 inches wide.

50x50 Linen Finish
Cotton TABLECLOTHS
269
Yellow, Blue, or Rose
50x72-Inch Size $3.59
Matching Napkins .....39c each
Smooth linen finish cotton crash tablecloths. 50x 50-inch size. Solid colors in rose, blue, or yellow with white borders. Bright and colorful, gay and cheerful. Tub fast colors. Neatly hemmed. Laundered ready to use.

REMNANTS
Large assortment. All popular fabrics. ½ to 3-yard lengths. 1/3 Off
Cotton and rayon prints, wool and rayon suitings, seersucker, percals, and other popular materials at one-third off regular price. One-half to three-yard lengths. Be here early and get the pick of the lot.

Colorful Mattress or Pillow Ticking 57c
New assortment of colorful stripes in blue, green or pink. Tub fast, sun fast. Dustite fabric. 36 inches wide.

FLUFF-NAPS 15c
Box of 12
Cotton covered fluff sanitary napkins. Wrapped in hospital gauze. Safe moisture resistant back.
Box of 72 89c

WATERPROOF SHEETING 89c
Double coated. Waterproofed on both sides. Rayon taffeta Odorless stain-resistant. Cleans with damp cloth. 36 inches wide.

SEARS, ROEBUCK and CO. serving America since 1886
BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS EVERY PAY-DAY
1225 BROADWAY
STREET FLOOR

You Are Your Brother's Keeper; Help Him With A War Fund Gift

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 2, NUMBER 5 — Published by The Ledger-Enquirer Co. — FORT BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1943 — For America's Most Complete Post — PRICE FIVE CENTS

DURING THEIR VISIT to The Infantry School at Fort Benning, Hon. Ronald Tree, members of the British Parliament and Hon. Joseph C. Baldwin, Congressman from New York, having missed luncheon connections, made an emergency stop to share chow with an Officer Candidate Class. Pictured eating in the woods near the field problem on which the students were engaged are Mr. Tree, Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of The Infantry School, Mr. Baldwin, and Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, assistant commandant. "After visiting this school, it is easily understandable why American troops are so well trained," the Member of Parliament reported. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

U. S. Newsmen See Paratroops

England Sees No Easy Victory Over Germany, M. P. Asserts

Ronald Tree Envisions Only Long, Hard Road To Ultimate Nazi Defeat

"There is no feeling in England that the war against Germany is anywhere near over. The Germans have to be beaten and beaten in the field . . . But we do have a very optimistic outlook toward the ultimate outcome. And that is a complete victory for the Allies."

This summed up the "war opinion" of the Hon. Ronald Tree, member of the British Parliament from Leicester after completing a tour of The Infantry School accompanied by the Hon. Joseph C. Baldwin, Congressman from New York. Mr. Tree explained that he had been away from England for several weeks and that he was not familiar with events that had transpired there since his departure. But he suggested that no recent event could seriously alter the general prospect of a long war.

As the Parliamentary Secretary of the Ministry of Information, Mr. Tree was in charge of arrangements for welcoming the American Expeditionary Force to England. Various agencies such as the Y. W. C. A. and Church Army were called in and told that the American soldiers must be given a warm welcome. Their response was great, Mr. Tree said, but things didn't work out so well at first.

The Americans it seemed, were told to be extremely careful not

See ENGLAND, Page 8

Gen. Bethouart Visits Benning

French Chief Inspects Countrymen In TIS

"You represent one more reason why the people of France should be thankful to the United States."

Maj. Gen. M. E. Bethouart, head of the French mission to the United States, and a ranking officer of the French army, made this statement Tuesday to members of the second French class of officers and Aspirants who are training in the First Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School at Fort Benning.

The general, accompanied by Lt. Col. Albert Lebel, chief-of-staff of the French mission, and Maj. Albert d'Amecourt, French air officer, arrived at Lawson Field Sunday for a two-day inspection of the French class. They left Tuesday afternoon.

He told the members of the class, which is the second of its kind to be trained for the French army here, that "you are doing a good job toward the liberation of your country. The training you are receiving here will be of great value to our armed forces. This along with the equipment the French army is receiving constitutes great reason why our country should be thankful to the United States."

At a dinner which the general gave to Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of the Infantry School, in the Officers' Club, he recalled the friendships and cooperation of the two countries during the first World War and expressed the fervent hope that "our relationships will always be as warm and as cooperative."

He thanked the commandant for the hospitality shown his countrymen. In return, General Bone-

See GEN., Page 7

War Bond Entries Begin To Reach Bayonet Desk

The ink of last Thursday's issue of the BAYONET was hardly dry and no sooner was the announcement out concerning the big War Bond prize contest ending November 4 than contributions for the big issue of November 11 began trickling into the editors' office. This quick response to the call for poets, prosers, cartoonists, etc., to get busy assures Fort Benning Silver Anniversary issue of the BAYONET being the best ever.

The paper is offering six big prizes consisting of three $50 and a like number of $25 War Bonds as first and second prizes for the best serious and comic cartoons, the best two pieces of verse, and the best prose offering either of a feature story, editorial, sketch, or short fiction.

The prize winners and honorable mention will be published in the giant issue next month. In addition there are in process of preparation articles on the history of Fort Benning and of all the major units stationed here; sketches of smaller elements connected with the post; biographical material concerning post personalities; together with scores of pictures and layouts depicting

See WAR, Page 7

W. D. Ruling On Holiday Passes, Furloughs Made

A policy of granting furloughs and passes from Thanksgiving Day, November 26, to January 11, 1944, inclusive, has been announced by the War Department, according to information reaching Fort Benning this week.

This procedure is the same as followed last year according to Captain Marvin L. Holland, chief of enlisted personnel at post headquarters.

From Thanksgiving Day up to and including December 10, furloughs may be authorized in accordance to the provisions of Army Regulations 615-275. Furloughs of 14 days may be authorized from Dec. 11, 1943 until Jan. 11, 1944, provided not more than 10 per cent of the strength of the post is on furlough at any one time during the period. However, no furloughs thus authorized will be granted which permit enlisted men to commence their travel from the post or their homes during December 24 or 25.

One day passes only may be granted to enlisted men Thanksgiving Day, not to exceed 10 per cent of the post's strength. Passes granted for Christmas Day will be issued only so as to require enlisted men to begin their travel not later than December 24, and to return to the post not earlier than Christmas Day nor later than December 26. Similarly, passes for New Year's Day will require enlisted men to begin their travel no later than December 31, and return to the post not earlier than January 1, nor later than January 2.

For the period between December 11 and January 11, three day passes will not be granted over week ends to exceed 10 per cent of the strength of the post. The 10 per cent of strength required also holds true on Christmas and New Year's Days passes.

Week end passes will not be consolidated with passes authorized for Thanksgiving, Christmas or New Year's Day.

Monthly Tire Quota Cut 45 Per Cent

Rationing Board Urges Extreme Care In Use Of Rubber

With only about 45 per cent of the previous average monthly quota of tires now available for Fort Benning personnel, greater care of tires than ever was urged on drivers at the post.

A new system of handling applications for tires now has gone into effect, with all applications being submitted now to the Fort Benning Branch of the Muscogee County Rationing Board, it was announced by Sgt. Louis Lipp, secretary of the branch.

At the same time, only about 45 per cent of the previous total that was issued to an automobile owners and drivers at the Fort will hereafter be allowed under this system, he stated.

And if your tires were capable of being recapped a month or two ago, but you just neglected to have it done and now find it's too late—well, it's just too late. You'll be judged to have neglected your tires and your application will have to be turned down. And the same goes for any other evidence of neglect.

Tires should be checked regularly, should be rotated on wheels, should be recapped and then recapped again, should be cared for immediately in case of punctures that may injure the body of the tire if neglected. Those were some of the suggestions made to stretch the use of tires to the ultimate.

Georgia-LSU Tickets Go On Sale At A. A. Office

Football tickets for the Georgia-L. S. U. game, which will be played in Memorial Stadium in Columbus on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23rd, will go on sale at the offices of the Fort Benning Athletic Association this morning. The F. B. A. A. offices are in the bowling alley building on the main post. No reservations for tickets will be made. They will all be sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

QM Civilians Given War Bond 'E' Certificate

95 Pct. Of Employees Subscribe Over One-tenth Of September Salaries

Colonel William H. Hobson, commanding officer of Fort Benning, saluted the 1,220 civilian workers of the quartermaster branch of the Supply and Service Division at ceremonies on Tuesday when he presented them with an "E" award for their outstanding war bond purchase record.

Quartermaster employes have a record of 95 per cent of the 1,220 workers contributing regularly 11 percent of their gross income in bonds. To win the award 90 percent of the workers need have invested 10 per cent in bonds.

Col. Hobson's talk to the civilian workers was the first address he had given at the post since he arrived to assume command last Saturday.

At the ceremonies in front of the quartermaster office on the Main Post, more than 1,500 civilians and military personnel gathered to witness the citation.

Col. Jack L. Meyer, who recently assumed the duties of director of supply, opened the program as he complimented the civilians for their war bond purchase record. He then introduced Maj. George Fink, post war bond officer, who in turn introduced Col. Hobson.

ENVIABLE RECORD

"You employes who have established this enviable war bond record," Col. Hobson said, "have provided an outstanding example of your faith in the government and gives an example of your patriotism. Your war bond record shows you have been 'putting out' and that's all that counts."

The post commander told the civilians that he hoped everyone on the post would follow the example of the quartermaster employes in the purchase of war

See O. M., Pake 7

Soldiers Begin Donating Blood

Bank To Be on Post Again In December

Stout-hearted soldiers of Maj. Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silvester's "Lucky 7th" Armored division opened Fort Benning's second blood bank drive Wednesday by donating 200 pints of blood to the Red Cross mobile unit which arrived Wedensday at the station hospital from Atlanta.

Heading the list of volunteers transported to the bank by Lt. Col. James G. De LaVergne, division chaplain, was Sgt. Robert Watkins of Ulster, Penna.

Sergeant Watkins told his nurse that he thought the bloond bank was "a good deal. I think the least we can do is to give somebody our blood for sometime when he might need it most."

Sergeant Watkins, like the others, said that there was nothing to the task which occupies about 20 minutes. Laughing and talking with Red Cross officials and nurses, he had to be reminded to relax. He insisted he felt no ill effects, and after a brief rest plus

See SOLDIERS, Page 7

BISHOP M'CARTY

Bishop M'Carty Will Conduct Mass At Post

Service To Conclude Redemptorist Visit Week Of Oct. 24

Bishop William T. McCarty, military delegate to the Army and the Navy, will be present at Fort Benning for the Military Pontificial Mass and the conferring of the Sacrament of Confirmation on Gowdy Field on October 31. The mass will culminate the Catholic Mission to be conducted on the post during the week beginning October 24.

The Mission, which will be the largest conducted on any Army post, is composed of 13 Redemptorist Fathers from New York and Philadelphia, and is composed of the clergymen which conducted a like series of religious services on the post last March.

Members of the Missions, of which the Rev. Joseph P. Turner is Superior, are the Very Rev. Mr. Thomas MaCauley, and The Reverend Messrs. Francis Dauenhauer, Alphonse Schumacher, John Prosses, William Chapman, Charles Burckard, Thomas Toche, Francis Murray, Charles Daley, Thomas Waldron, Thomas Wright and Francis Newell.

Catholic chaplains on the post who will assist the Missionary Fathers are William H. Hunt, Ignatius J. McCarty, Luke W. Crawford, Anthony E. Czubak, John D. Janco, John Fitzpatrick, Clement P. Krug, Anthony Robaczewski, Lawrence J. Staubach, Lawrence E. Lynch, Raymond O'Brien, Lawrence H. Keating, R. Leyden

'Chute School Holds Open House For 4th Estate

Crack Scribes Come To Post To See Newest Jump Tactics

Nationally known newspaper and radio figures arrived Wednesday for an "open-house" sponsored by the Parachute School at Fort Benning. The guests are visiting all phases of the training program which has been altered according to lessons learned in foreign combat.

Turtle Teaches Tabby Tail Tweaking Tactics

Myrtle the Turtle doesn't like cats. She was the gift to girls in the cleaner's shop at headquarters of the 176th. Peggy, the pussy cat, was also an intimate of the shop.

During one noon hour when the shop was closed, Peggy went to work on Myrtle the Turtle—to her regret.

Myrtle evidently came from a long line of snapping turtles because she snapped at—and caught—Peggy's tail. The agonizing howls of the cat could be heard in several barracks. They finally ceased but when the shop was reopened, Peggy streaked through the open door like cat out of Hades. And she hasn't been back since, a fact that is pleasing no end to Myrtle the Turtle.

Highlight of the two-day tour will be a tactical jump problem Thursday night at which time the visitors will ride with paratroopers and watch them bail out after first having listened to the pilots' briefing and the jumpers' instructions.

Night training at the towers and visits to the specialists' schools took up Wednesday night. Thursday morning the visitors were taken by plane over to the Alabama area where they witnessed a mass jump under battle conditions with dynamite charges exploding as the men descended to hit the dirt while machine guns loosed overhead fire.

Lunch and the cooks to serve were dropped from the skies over in the Alabama area and the men were then taken in amphibious jeeps up the Chattahoochee and over to the demolition area on the Georgia side. Here they saw a simulated attack on a fortified position. Late this afternoon the men will be shown some captured German films. Supper and the night program will wind up the program.

During their stay here the men are being housed and fed in the

See CHUTE, Page 7

Hobson Assumes Command of Post

Colonel William Hobson arrived at Fort Benning Saturday afternoon and a short while later signed the order which made him the commanding officer of the post. Immediately following he met members of his staff and addressed them briefly.

Col. Hobson told his staff members that Washington officials consider Fort Benning their best military installation and that he hoped it would retain that reputation.

ARDENT SPORTSMAN

Col. Hobson is no stranger to Fort Benning and Columbus. He was here first with the 29th Infantry and then again in 1939 as an instructor in the Infantry School. He became chief of the tactical section of the school and for a time served as its assistant commandant.

Many of the reserve officers are familiar with Colonel Hobson's work, for in 1934 he was cited by General G. H. Estes for the outstanding achievement of the Columbus Reserve Officers whom he had taught.

ARDENT SPORTSMAN

An ardent sportsman he will be welcomed by local men. His hobby is game conservation on army posts. In 1936 at Fort Snelling, Minn., as Conservation Officer he was cited by the Game Birds Association for outstanding achievement in conservation and propagation of game birds.

Col. Hobson has just returned from an overseas mission which took him to West Africa, the entire Mediterranean area, Iceland

See HOBSON, Page 7

WAR FUND DRIVE SET

As the National War Fund campaign gets under way tomorrow military and civilian personnel at Fort Benning will be given an opportunity to contribute to the fund through their organizations, it was announced today by General Chairman Walter S. Fulton, former commanding general of the post.

General Fulton, who is heading the Muscogee county drive, has appeared before several military and civilian groups to explain the purposes of the drive and to encourage voluntary contributions.

As a special impetus to the campaign ,the officers at Post Headquarters, starting their part of the drive early, contributed $343. The post headquarters staff and other officers in the Station Complement assigned to headquarters duties contributed 100 per cent.

Enlisted personnel, it was explained by General Fulton, are not to be solicited individually. H, he went on, the enlisted personnel wish to contribute to the War Fund they may do so through their organizations.

With a national goal of $125,000,000 the National War Fund this year will benefit 17 war relief agencies. Greatest benefactor from the drive will be the USO with the United Seaman's Service and War Prisoners Aid among the other organizations to benefit.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt has urged the nation to support the National War Fund as all of the agencies to benefit have formerly carried on their individual campaigns for funds. This year, by lumping the 17 campaigns for funds into one drive, the donations will be spread proportionately among the benefactors.

All units on the post have established machinery through which contributions may be made, General Fulton pointed out. Civilian employes on the post will be able to contribute their donations through representatives in their organizations likewise.

Military representatives for the drive have been named in the Station Complement, Infantry School, Seventh Armored Division, Parachute School, Lawson Field, and Reception Center.

The means has been set up so that funds to the National War Fund may be collected in one central place, Gen. Fulton points out. He said contributions when collected by chairmen in the several large organizations should be turned in to Lieut. Richard E. Tukey, assistant post public relations officer, who is acting as custodian of the War Fund at Benning. Lieut. Tukey is in the Public Relations Division at Post Headquarters.

COL. WILLIAM H. HOBSON is shown here as he signed the order which made him the commanding officer of Fort Benning Saturday afternoon. Looking on are Lt. Colonel J. D. Rosenberger, Jr., post adjutant (left) and Colonel John P. Edgerly, post executive officer. (U. S. Signal Corps Photo.)

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion 8:30 a. m. Sunday school in the children's school 9:15 a. m. Woman's Adult Bible class meets with the Sunday school. (Mothers who bring their children to Sunday school invited to join.) Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled"—Speaks. The sermon: Dr. Lockard Amerman. The offertory: "The Lord Is My Light"—Edwards. Christian League 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Alfred L. Pollock.

THE ARMORED

Protestant: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott) 10 a. m., Chaplain Pomeroy. Chapel No. 2 (12th & Bourg), 9 a. m., Chaplain Lewis; 6:00 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Lewis. Chapel No. 3 (10th & Scott), 8 a. m. (Communion), Chaplain Fell, 10 a. m., Chaplain Claus; 11 a. m. (Fellowship Hour); Chaplain Claus and Chaplain Fell; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain Cermak; 10 a. m., Chaplain Fehl. 11 a. m., Chaplain Johnson, 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Johnson; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), 8 a. m., Chaplain De La Vergne, 10 a. m., Chaplain McLeod, 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain McLeod; Stockade, 1:30 p. m., Chaplain Cermak.

Catholic Masses: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 3 (10th & Scott), 9 a. m., Chaplain Lynch; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), 8 a. m., Chaplain Keating, 11 a. m., Chaplain Keating; Theatre No. 6 (10th & Bourg) 10:30 a. m., Chaplain Lynch.

Jewish Service, conducted by Chaplain Shein, is held every Monday evening at 7:30 at Chapel No. 4, Sand Hill Area.

Provisional: Sunday services held for members of the Provisional Truck Regiment are as follows: 1st and 4th Battalions—Bible school at 10:00 a. m. Worship service at 11:00 a. m. Services will be held in Building No. 5315 in the Service Battalion area of the Third Student Training Regiment. The 2nd and 3rd Battalions will have Bible school at 10:30 a. m. and worship service at 11:30 a. m. Service held in Building No. 5031, Third Battalion area, Provisional Truck Regiment.

176th Infantry: Sunday morning worship service at 9:15 a. m. in the Main chapel. Chaplains Arnold Lewis and John Troxler.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1. Morning worship 9:30 and 10:30 a. m. Communion each first Sunday morning. Lutheran service 6:30 p. m. (Communion) each 2nd Sunday. Bible Hour, Thurs. 6:45 p. m. Chaplain Herman A. Mitchelitz.

Lawson Field: Sunday morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers at 8 p. m. Wednesday evening service at 8 p. m. Chaplain Geo. L. Forney.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st STR, and Acad. Regt. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Communion service each Sunday at 11:30 a. m. in the 4th Bn. Chaplain's office. 1st STR. Chaplain G. S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for the Det. Med. Dept. 9:30 a. m. Also colored Det. Med. Dept. services in colored day room at 9 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Recreation Hall, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:45 a. m. Chaplain Isaac McDonald.

200th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Evening vespers, 7:45 p. m. Chaplains Robt. D. Jones and Charles O. Daniel.

176th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 9:15 a. m. in main post chapel. Chaplain Arnold Lewis.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Main Post Chapel Thursday evenings 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Reth, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 4391.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Lutheran service at 10:15 a. m. General Protestant service at 10:15 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and C. A. Ritchie.

2nd STR: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chaplain William Willingham. Sunday school and worship 9:15 a. m. for Service Bn.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 4. Regimental services at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain A. B. Bullman. Also Regimental services at 11 a. m. in "The Chapel In The Grove." Chaplain George Kirabaum. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Ground Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 863rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 51st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ware.

Hq. ASTP: Chapel No. 4: Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chaplain George Kitchey.

4th Trg. Regt., ASTP: Bldg. B-18: Services for 1st Bn., 10 a. m. Chaplain Theodore Bachelor. 3rd Bn., Bldg. 4267, 8:30 a. m. Chaplain George Kitchey. Services 6:30 a. m. Chaplain George Kitchey. Catholic mass, 8 a. m. 4th Bn., 4th Tng. Regt., Bldg. 4267, Kelly and Axton Roads: Bible class, 9 a. m.; Protestant service, 9:30 a. m., 4th Bn. in 4th Bn. amphitheater. Geo. A. Ritchey, chaplain.

5th Student Regt., ASTP: Catholic mass in The Grove: 10:30 a. m. Protestant services in Theater No. 12, Chaplain Bergen.

6th Trg. Regt.—9 a. m. Catholic mass, Bldg. 6005, 10:30 a. m. general Protestant services, Bldg. 6005. Chaplain Bachelor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Harmony Church Area, Chapel No. 6, Friday evening 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Reth, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 4391.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Section Hospital in Ward 8-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 3 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between Ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, building No. 5201, located on the 4th Division Road and Gaste Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 9:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 5 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 6, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

84th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 2 Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Holy Hour will be held in Chapel No. 6, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For personnel on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the Children's school, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Rd., opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men assists the service.

For members of the 3rd and 5th Training Regiments, The Infantry School WAC Detachment, Station Hospital No. 2 and A.S.T.P. Headquarters: At 9 a. m. in Building 5786, Regimental Recreational Hall, 5th Training Regiment Area.

For personnel in the 4th, 5th and 6th Training Regiments, 124th Infantry, 244th and 252nd Field Artillery Bns., and 422nd Ordnance Co.: At 10:30 a. m. in Theatre No. 4, near Service Club No. 3.

For personnel in the Sand Hill Area: Every Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. in Chapel No. 4.

Women's Activities

WOMAN'S CLUB

Music Group —Tuesday, October 19, 2 p. m. in Ladies' Lounge of the Officers' Club.

Spanish Group—Every Tuesday in Officers Club. Class for beginners at 2:30 p. m., for advanced at 3:30 p. m.

Exercise Group —Every Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday from 8:15 a. m. to 8:45 a.m. in Ladies' Lounge.

RED CROSS

WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—8 a. m. to 12 noon, through Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. John McFall; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. A. D. McCullough; Thursday, Mrs. William Huffstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes.

Sewing and knitting — Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. S. M. Grim; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver. STAFF ASSISTANCE CORPS —On duty in Work Room, Friday, October 15, Mrs. Axling, Mrs. Kibbe; Monday, October 18, Mrs. Mercado, Mrs. Chalgren; Tuesday, October 19, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Hammargren; Wednesday, October 20, Mrs. Futtle, Mrs. Chapman; Thursday, October 21, Mrs. Dulin, Mrs. Grimes.

MOTOR CORPS—Headquarters at the Red Cross Work Room, Telephone 3058 for Motor Corps to pick up magazines you are discarding. On duty Friday, October 15, Mrs. Dulin; Monday, Oct. 18, Mrs. Miles; Tuesday, October 19, Mrs. Brown; Wednesday, October 20, Mrs. Norris; Thursday, October 21, Mrs. McGinnis. Lieutenant in charge, Mrs. Norris.

GREY LADIES —On duty Friday, October 15, at Station Hospital; Captain, Mrs. Venable; library, a. m., Mrs. Finnegan; p. m., Mrs. Hardy; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Chase, p. m. Mrs Webb; arts and crafts shop, a. m., Mrs. Webb, p. m., Mrs. Griffith. Wards; Shine, Rosenberger, Overfelt, Chase.

Saturday, October 16: Captain, Mrs. Brandstadt; library, a. m. Mrs. Holler; p. m. Mrs. Whittemore; floor, a. m., Mrs. Gordon; wards, Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Miles.

Monday, October 18: Captain, Mrs. Elliott; desk, Mrs. McKee; wards, Mrs. Spann, Mrs. B. Lewis, Mrs. McCormick; library, a. m., Mrs. Griffith, p. m., Mrs. R. Lewis; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford; arts and crafts shop, a. m., Mrs. Spann, p. m., Mrs. D. A. Turner.

Tuesday, October 19: Captain, Mrs. Finnegan; wards, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Whittemore; library, a. m., Mrs. Roosma., p. m., Mrs. Griffith; floor, a. m., Mrs. Sanders, p. m., Mrs. Webb.

Wednesday, October 20: Captain, Mrs. Perrine; wards, Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Venable; Mrs. Stevens; library, a. m., Mrs. Stevens, p. m., Mrs. R. W. Smith; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Dillard, p. m., Mrs. Wright; arts and crafts, a. m., Mrs. Venable.

Thursday, October 21: Captain, Mrs. Hersh; wards, Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Gold; library, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford; p. m., Mrs. Rosenberger; arts and crafts shop, Mrs. Holton.

STANDARD FIRST AID — Registration for Standard First Aid Course Friday, Oct. 15 from 9 a. m., to 12 noon, at the Red Cross workroom. Please bring money for text books. The course will start Monday, Oct. 18 at 9:30 a. m. in the Red Cross Administration Bldg. Mrs. E. C. Chapman will instruct.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

OCT. 14

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:55 P.M.—Harsch and the news—WRBL

8:20 P.M.—Reception Center Chorus—WRBL

9:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL

9:30 P.M.—"Siege Door Canteen"—CBS

9:30 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU

11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

OCT. 15

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

8:00 P.M.—Kate Smith—CBS

8:30 P.M.—The Thin Man—CBS

9:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

9:30 P.M.—That Brewster Boy—CBS

10:00 P.M.—Camel Caravan—WREL

10:45 P.M.—Elmer Davis, News

OCT. 16

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

2:30 P.M.—Spirit of '42—CBS

3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL

4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WREL

5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC

7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU

7:00 P.M.—Report to the Nation—CBS

7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL

7:30 P.M.—"Enough And On Time"—BLU

8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS

OCT. 17

5:00 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—WRBL

5:45 P.M.—Dance Courageous—CBS

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—

6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL

7:00 P.M.—The Commander—CBS

7:30 P.M.—"The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS

7:30 P.M.—"WE, The People"—WRBL

8:15 P.M.—We Cover the Battlefronts—CBS

9:00 P.M.—Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO)—WREL

9:30 P.M.—Fred Allen—CBS

10:00 P.M.—Take It or Leave It—CBS

10:30 P.M.—Man Behind the Gun—CBS

OCT. 18

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—

5:45 P.M.—Keep the Homefires Burning—CBS

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

7:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarterhour—WRBL

8:30 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—Variety show, featuring the 176th Inf. Band—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

OCT. 19

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:55 P.M.—Harsch and News—CBS.

7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Service"—NBC

8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast—

9:00 P.M.—Burns and Allen—CBS WRBL

OCT. 20

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

8:00 P.M.—Sammy Kaye—CBS

9:30 P.M.—Milton Berle & Co.—CBS

Boys' Activities

Monday through Saturday — Football practice at Doughboy Stadium, 5:45 p. m.

Friday—Scout Troop 11, 7:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Saturday—Cub Pack Number 1, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Ranger Battalion, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Movies

MAIN THEATER AND THEATER NO. 2

Oct. 14-15—CORVETTE K-225—Randolph Scott and Andy Devine.

Oct. 16—HI YA, SAILOR—Donald Woods and Elyse Knox.

TEXAS KID—Johnny Mack Brown and Raymond Hatton.

Oct. 17-18—GIRL CRAZY—Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney.

Oct. 19—TORNADO—Chester Morris and Nancy Kelly.

Oct. 20—YOUNG IDEAS—Mary Astor and Herbert Marshall.

THEATERS NO. 3 AND 5

Oct. 14—DANGEROUS BLONDES—Edmund Lowe and Evelyn Keyes.

Oct. 15—TOP MAN—Donald O'Connor and Susanna Foster.

Oct. 16-17—CORVETTE K-225—Randolph Scott and Andy Devine.

Oct. 18—HI YA, SAILOR—Donald Woods and Elyse Knox.

TEXAS KID—Johnny Mack Brown and Raymond Hatton.

Oct. 19-20—GIRL CRAZY—Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney.

THEATERS NO. 4 AND 8

Oct. 14—ADVENTURES OF TARTU—Robert Donat and Valerie Hobson.

Oct. 15—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Oct. 15—DANGEROUS BLONDES—Edmund Lowe and Evelyn Keyes.

Oct. 17—TOP MAN—Donald O'Connor and Susanna Foster.

Oct. 18-19—CORVETTE K-225—Randolph Scott and Andy Devine.

Oct. 20—HI YA, SAILOR—Donald Woods and Elyse Knox.

CASE—Lionel Barrymore and Van Johnson.

Oct. 16—ADVENTURES OF TARTU—Robert Donat and Valerie Hobson.

Oct. 17—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Oct. 18—DANGEROUS BLONDES—Edmund Lowe and Evelyn Keyes.

Oct. 19—TOP MAN—Donald O'Connor and Susanna Foster.

Oct. 20 — CORVETTE K-225 — Randolph Scott and Andy Devine.

THEATERS NO. 9 AND 11

Oct. 14—THANK YOUR LUCKY STARS—All Star Cast.

Oct. 15—HOSTAGES—Paul Lukas and Luise Rainer.

Oct. 16—WATCH ON THE RHINE—Bette Davis and Paul Lukas.

Oct. 17-18—SAHARA—Humphrey Bogart and Bruce Bennett.

Oct. 19—HI YA, SAILOR—Donald Woods and Elyse Knox.

TEXAS KID—Johnny Mack Brown and Raymond Hatton.

Oct. 20—ADVENTURES OF TARTU—Robert Donat and Valerie Hobson.

THEATER NO. 10

Oct. 14—WATCH ON THE RHINE—Bette Davis and Paul Lukas.

Oct. 15-16—SAHARA—Humphrey Bogart and Bruce Bennett.

Oct. 17—HI YA, SAILOR—Donald Woods and Elyse Knox.

TEXAS KID—Johnny Mack Brown and Raymond Hatton.

Oct. 18—ADVENTURES OF TARTU—Robert Donat and Valerie Hobson.

Oct. 19—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Oct. 20—DANGEROUS BLONDES—Edmund Lowe and Evelyn Keyes.

THEATER NO. 12

Oct. 14—DR. GILLESPIE'S CRIMINAL CASE—Lionel Barrymore and Van Johnson.

Oct. 15-16—THANK YOUR LUCKY STARS—All Star Cast.

Oct. 17—TORNADO—Chester Morris and Nancy Kelly.

Oct. 18—YOUNG IDEAS—Mary Astor and Herbert Marshall.

Oct. 19-20—SAHARA—Humphrey Bogart and Bruce Bennett.

Blueprints for tomorrow are no good if men are yellow. Statesmen who think so are green.

COL. WILLIAM HOBSON, commanding officer of Fort Benning, yesterday afternoon cited the 1,220 civilian employes of the quartermaster branch of the supply and service division at Fort Benning for their excellent record in the purchase of war bonds through pay allotments. Colonel Hobson, who arrived at Benning Saturday to assume command of the post, is shown above presenting the "E" award, a certificate signed by the post commander, to Henry B. Hug, civilian administrative assistant to the director of supply, who represents the bond purchasers. Ninety-five per cent of the 1,220 employes are regularly investing an average of 11 per cent of their pay in bond purchases, exceeding the requirements to win the coveted citation. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Medicos Almost Double 3rd War Loan Quota

Investing $40,000 in war bonds during the Third War Loan drive, enlisted personnel of Fort Benning's medical detachments oversubscribed their original quota of $25,000.

The drive, conducted under supervision of Maj. John B. Joyner, commanding officer, and under direct leadership of Master Sgt. William C. Thompson, was officially launched Sept. 6 and featured various sales stunts and a dance, in addition to outright purchases and allotments by the men.

As part of the campaign, a $25 War Bond was offered the soldier making the largest investment. This was won by Master Sgt. William C. Cullifer. Other prizes included $5 in stamps to soldiers turning in the largest amount of cash sales by solicitation. Technical Sgt. William Pevey and Staff Sgt. J. S. Welland were winners in this division.

In addition to cash bond purchases, large gains in payroll allotments were made during the period, according to Major Joyner.

At the close of the drive a dance was held at the Pole Hunt club on the main post, with music by the Medics and a hill-billy orchestra from the 176th Infantry.

Bonesteel Sees 300th Infantry Columbus Day

A regimental parade of the 300th Infantry was witnessed by Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of the Infantry School, on the parage grounds Tuesday evening, Oct. 12.

Although General Bonesteel made a quick inspection of the area last week, this afforded him an opportunity to see for the first time the entire regiment in formation.

The event took on added significance when it is remembered that Oct. 12 commemorated a famous Italian, Christopher Columbus, who opened up the western hemisphere to the world.

With Civilians

MYRTLE M. JOINES

People are talking about "the number of gentle hearts who are giving in the name of bloody Salerno, Salamaua, Guadalcanal and Gela to the Great National War Fund and no surface talks about the 'wonderful kids dying on the beach-heads.'" From Vogue, November issue.

All civilians on the post will be given an opportunity to take part in this drive for funds to support USO, destitute peoples of Europe, China, our own prisoners of war and other worthy activities headed under this one great drive. Don't miss your opportunity to share in this great cause.

* * *

We are glad to see Mary Childress back in civilian personnel after her trip home. Called there on account of the serious illness of her sister, we can be happy with Mary over her recovery. Lorraine Pointer is out with a bad throat. Can you think of anything worse?

* * *

Congratulations are in order for Mildred Cawthon, who has just been appointed director of Service Club No. 3, Harmony Church area. Nice goings, Mildred. Of such things are columns made.

* * *

Did you hear that Effie Monfort's boy-friend (or is it husband?) is on leave in Columbus from the Navy and that Effie is taking leave to be with him? Well, he is and she is.

* * *

Down at the Sub-Depot they're having to get along without Kathleen Slocumb. She's doing Boston with friend husband, who's on leave from the QMC. Their folks live in Boston.

* * *

Horace Greeley said "Go west, young man," but if he were alive today, I am sure he would say "Go west, young lady, and cure your hay fever," for that is exactly what Miriam Denson in the post engineer's office did. Incidentally, she brought her sister back from Idaho with her.

* * *

Sara O'Neal of the Record Section of the Infantry School, is leaving Fort Benning to become the bride of Harman Partridge of Lagrange, Ga. Best wishes to Sara and Harman, but we do hate to see her leave.

* * *

Captain Steck's (the Infantry School's Captain Steck) little lady Frances is one of the new additions to the post engineer personnel. Thanks, captain.

* * *

All that gorgeous Titian hair you see in the civilian personnel section belongs personally to Mary B. Barrett, recently transferred from the War Production Board in Washington. Heard Mary had quite a time finding hair pins to hold up those stray locks but after a visit to the post beauty shop they're all under control, or should I say so?

* * *

We should like to extend our sympathy to Marsha Snow, who has been called to Kentucky on account of the serious illness of her husband. We all hope it is something that will soon be under control and that Marsha will be back with us. And, Mary E. Hamby, who is on sick leave, also from the post engineer, is given hope of an early recovery.

* * *

This and That: Mattie P. Roberts, of the post engineer's office, called home on account of the serious illness of her mother. Lois Franklin is welcomed to the civilian personnel branch and Mabel Parrott will be missed from her usual rounds as her grandmother is ill in Chattanooga and she had to go.

Heir-Raid

COMPILED BY CPL. B. KNAUB

S. Sgt. and Mrs. William F. Goolsby, Co. C, 58th Armd. Engrs., girl, 27 Sept.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Chester L. Samuelson, Med. Det., Sta. Hosp., boy, 27 Sept.

Cpl. and Mrs. Frank Gonzalez, boy, 2 Oct.

S. Sgt. and Mrs. Alfred Cerniella, Co. I, 300th Inf., boy, 2 Oct.

Lt. and Mrs. Boyd F. Wilson, Acad. Dept., Weapon Sect., boy, 2 Oct.

S. Sgt. and Mrs. Henry Bruner, Co. I, Acad. Regt., 1SSC, girl, 3 Oct.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. Kopjusch, 1st Acad. The Parachute School, boy, 3 Oct.

4-11 OCT. '43

S. Sgt. and Mrs. Vran J. Barnes, 3rd STR., Co. E, boy.

Pfc. and Mrs. Henry P. Wells, 11th Bn. 11 Marines, 1st Div., boy.

S. Sgt. and Mrs. Donald P. Preaschl, Co. B, 300th Infantry, girl.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Harold W. Luke, 16th Co., 3rd STR, girl.

Cpl. and Mrs. William Martin, Co. C, 1SSC, boy.

2nd Lt. John Y. Ko, Co. C, 100th Infantry, A. F. O., boy.

Pfc. and Mrs. Oscar Curry, Co. F, 124th Infantry, girl.

Capt. and Mrs. Joseph Varcure, Acad. Dept. Inf., boy.

1st Lt. and Mrs. William C. Goins, 12th Co., 1st STR, girl.

1st Lt. and Mrs. E. Sanders, 3rd Co., 3rd STR, girl.

Capt. and Mrs. Cureton, Inf., 20th Co., 3rd STR, boy.

Capt. and Mrs. Cureton, Inf., 20th Co., 3rd STR, boy.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Joe V. Morey, 5th Co., 1st STR, girl.

S. Sgt. and Mrs. Brady B. Bynum, 7th 7th Airborne Squadron, AAF, girl.

Pfc. and Mrs. Frank D. Woodhouse, 176th Inf., Antitank Co., boy.

Pfc. and Mrs. Robert E. Wright, Co. M, 1st Prov. Trng. Regt., girl.

Major and Mrs. T. F. Jackson, MC, Station Hospital, boy.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Curtis Ramzy, 518th Parachute Inf., Hq. 2nd Bn., boy.

Sgt. Ruby Goldstein, former lightweight fighter, is an assistant on the athletic staff at Camp Shanks, N. Y.

8th Company, 1st STR, Is First TIS Unit To Toss Shorenuf, Live Grenades

Not content with chalking up range scores described as "exceptional" by instructors of the Browning automatic rifle, bayonet and grenade group, the First Student Training Regiment's Eighth Company, of which Capt. Chester E. Hanover is commanding officer, recently distinguished itself by becoming the first class at the Infantry School to throw live grenades.

Lt.-Col. Robert B. Jones, chief of the BAR Committee, commanded the class Friday morning, following the tossing of some 900 grenades without a hitch, for the cooperation displayed by its student officers.

On the range with the autorifle, the basic class in the Eighth Company of the First STR, commanded by Col. John S. Roosma, turned in several notable performances.

Firing on the known distance range, Second Lt. Ray W. Kern of Strasburg, Va., and Capt. John S. Coney, of Cordele, Ga., both shot perfect targets in rapid fire from the 200-yard mark. Group officers said that their feat of pumping 15 bullets into the bullseye in 40 seconds at the range had been accomplished only twice in all previous classes.

On the 1,000-inch range this officers basic class qualified 53 experts, a greater number than most classes, according to the instructors. Twenty-eight members of the class chalked up sharpshooter ratings and 67 qualified as marksmen. High man was Second Lt. Irwin R. Schmidt of Madison, Wis., with 196 points out of a possible 210.

Lieutenant Schmidt had never before qualified as expert and said that his previous low opinion of the BAR had undergone considerable modification. He especially likes the bipod which forms such a prominent feature of the Model 1918A2 but was not part of the old Model 1918.

High man on the known distance range was First Lt. Joseph N. Greiner of New Orleans with a score of 167 out of 175. Lieutenant Greiner, a former member of the BAR committees of the Infantry Replacement Training Centers at Camp Fannin, Tex., and Camp Robinson, Ark., frequently has qualified as expert with the automatic rifle.

On the known distance range, the class recorded 124 experts, 30 sharpshooters and 28 marksmen out of the 186 students firing.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

A weary private sat down for chow one day in Company B mess hall of the 176th Infantry . . . As he started to eat, he was amazed to discover that a certain staff sergeant sitting opposite him was reading his paper upside down.

He observed this phenomenon for a few minutes and tapped the sergeant lightly on the shoulder. "Pardon me, Sarge, but I wonder if you realize that you are reading that newspaper upside down?"

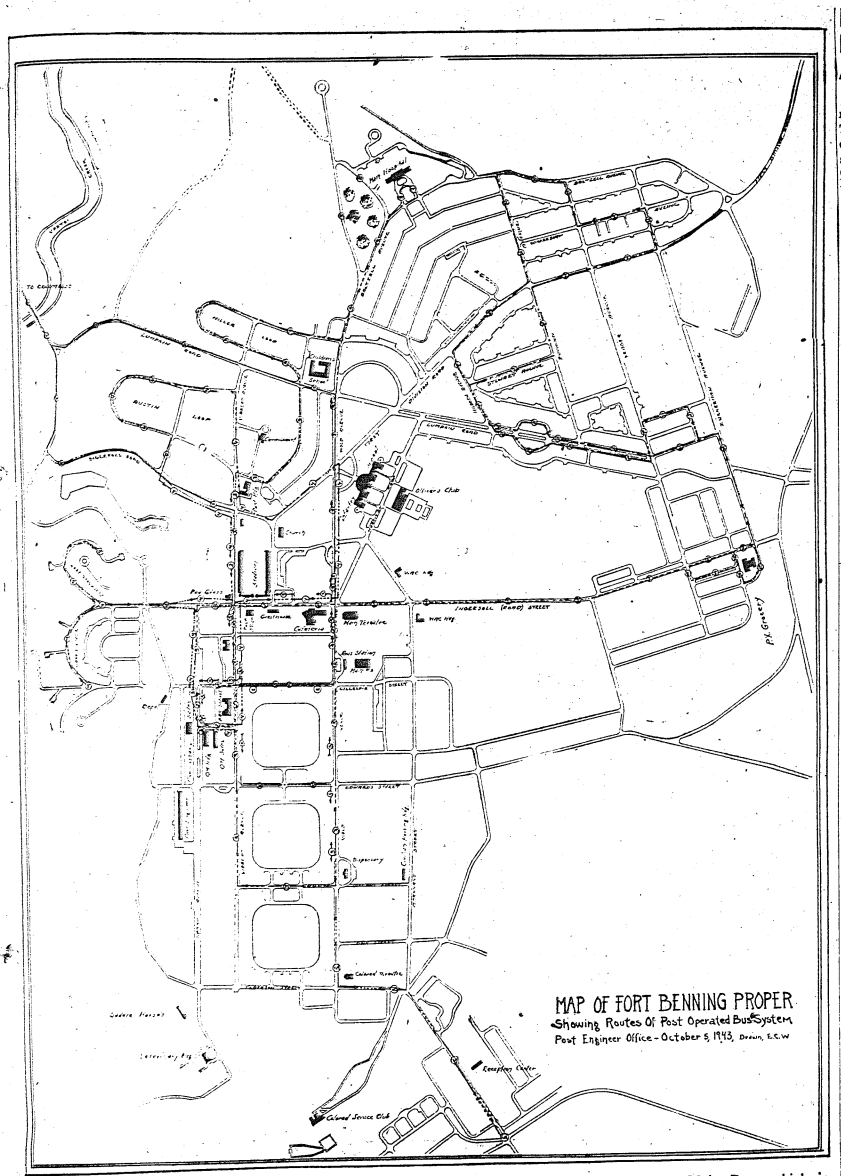
"Of course I realize it, you fool," barked the sergeant angrily. "Do you think it's easy?"

Civilians May Sell Army Insignia Until January 1

Sale of Army insignia by civilian firms, scheduled to be discontinued on October 18, will be allowed until January 1, 1944, it is announced from Washington.

The change in time was allowed to enable retailers to dispose of stocks on hand which were purchased for use with the winter service uniform. At the same time, it was stated that the new deadline does not apply to authorized uniform retail dealers of the Army Exchange Service, who will continue to sell insignia sold to them by the Army Exchange Service for resale purposes. Such insignia is obtained from the Quartermaster General.

Makers of caps and manufacturing tailors who make uniforms can obtain necessary braid and buttons from the Army Exchange Service. Civilian firms are being notified individually by mail of the extension of the insignia-selling period.



Levy-Morton Co.
—o—
Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps
—o—
REPAIRS — DIAL 3-6391
1028—13th STREET

EXCEPTIONAL SAVINGS
On Winter Uniforms and Accessories
At RICH'S MILITARY STORE
OFFICERS OVERCOATS
Were 65.00—Reduced to 44.50
IN THE FOLLOWING SIZES:
4-42 REGULARS • 2-44 REGULARS • 3-42 SHORTS
MACKINAWS
Were 39.50—Reduced to 29.75
3-44 LONGS • 3-46 LONGS • 5-44 LONGS • 3-46 REGULARS
1-40 SHORT • 3-42 SHORT
BLOUSES
Were 44.50—Reduced to 32.50
WE HAVE A FEW REGULARS AND SHORTS
BLOUSE, Elastique, 19-ounce All-Wool.....32.50
PANTS, Elastique, Army Regulations.....12.00
BACK THE ATTACK WITH BONDS
Rich's Military Store
1326 BROADWAY — COLUMBUS, GA.

DINE WINE AND BE MERRY in ATLANTA'S NEWEST and FINEST SUPPER CLUB
Bill Cooper
His Piano and Soloves
Featuring the Best
Steaks • Chops
Seafood • Fried Chicken
AND OF COURSE
Wine • Champagne • Beer
PEACHTREE at ELLIS
OPEN 12 TO 12
SUNDAY DINNER
TO 10 P. M.

Send Your Portrait So they may see you every day
Proofs for Your Inspection Before You Buy.
Our Price Within the Reach of All.
AIM'E DUPONT
Of Fifth Ave.
MILITARY STUDIOS
1219½ Broadway — Tel. 3-1505
Columbus, Ga.
Open 1 to 9:30 P. M.; Sunday 2 to 6 P. M., E. W. T.

PHONOGRAPHS All Types
We install and service music machines in all areas of Fort Benning.
Rhythm Is Our Business
GEORGIA MUSIC CO.
1045 - 6th AVE. — DIAL 2-2954
DONALD LEEBERN, Owner.

THE ROUTES FOLLOWED by the new post operated bus line are shown in the above map of the Main Post which is printed for the convenience of Benning personnel. It is suggested that the map be cut out and mounted on cardboard for study until one has thoroughly familiarized oneself with the routes. The military and families and civilian employes may ride the buses free of charge, the latter having only to show their identification buttons or papers. Post authorities urge that residents of the post utilize the buses and thus save gas and tires.

Federal Prison Personnel Views Army Equipment

A display of mobile army equipment by members of the 764th Tank Battalion, under command of Capt. Frank Paxton, was presented for personnel of the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta last Friday, it was announced today following a letter of commendation received from Joseph W. Sanford, warden of the institution.

A gun motor carriage, M6, and its entire crew participated in the demonstration. Following the display the material, the soldiers went through the prison and ate a typical prison meal.

"Our population has since expressed pride and satisfaction in the equipment and the fine way it was handled by your men," Warden Sanford wrote. "I am assured this will be effective in the further war efforts of our men, and in their behalf I would like to express our sincere thanks to you and your men for having visited us."

WACs are being enrolled at the Army-Navy Hospital school at Hot Springs, Ark., in military hospital training courses. Graduates will be assigned to duty at general and station hospitals.

DEPENDABLE WORK
COLUMBUS WATCH REPAIRS
HAROLD PEOPLES
PAUL FAISON
932 Broadway

Going To Serve On General Court-Martial Board? Then This Will Help You

Lt. William B. Stein, Headquarters, 3rd Student Training Regiment, has written the following article, the first of a series of four, to acquaint young officers with their duties should they ever be selected for a Detail of the Court. Many young lieutenants enter upon their court duties uncertainly and these articles should set them straight as to exactly what the court procedure is and what is expected of them. This first article deals with the functions of the court. Subsequent articles will take up the duties of the Trial Judge Advocate, defense counsel and President of the Court. Lieutenant Stein, an attorney in civilian life, is the investigating officer of the Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School.

That's tough, I know just how you feel.

You have been in the outfit six weeks and no one has paid any particular attention to you. Now some "paragraph trooper," some member of the "Chairborne Infantry," some goof up at Regimental Headquarters that has nothing else to do and does not realize how busy you are, has placed your name on a "Detail for the Court."

You pickup your copy of the Special Orders again, and a little more rational now, you study it soberly. First you notice that there is a President of the Court. You recognize his name as being that of one of the battalion commanders. Next you see the names of a couple of company commanders, then two or three lieutenants and finally your own.

Following your name you see the names of some officers designated as Trial Judge Advocate, Assistant TJA, defense counsel and assistant defense counsel. You casually speculate as to what their duties consist of and then decide to file away the copy of the order and await developments.

The first thing to do is to contact the TJA, and give your telephone number or let him know your whereabouts so that he can reach you through message center. In a few days you will receive a message stating that the court of which you are a member will meet at a certain time and place and prescribing the uniform to be worn at the meeting.

THERE YOU SIT

When the court meets you will find yourself seated farthest away from the President because you are the junior member. The President promptly calls the Court to order; the Trial Judge Advocate stands and, without further ado, the proceedings start.

Providing there is no challenge, you sit tight. Then the TJA declares: "The court will be sworn." Everyone in the courtroom stands, so you stand too. As the TJA calls out each name, that member, including yourself, raises his right hand, listens intently while the oath is read and at the conclusion of the reading you solemnly state: "I do."

Now sit down and listen carefully, taking such notes as you deem pertinent until the evidence is all presented and the court is ready to discuss all matters relative to the guilt or innocence of the accused. Finally the discussion will cease and each member secretly votes "guilty" or "not guilty" on the first specification of the first charge.

This is where you do your stuff.

Each member folds his ballot carefully and you collect them. Now you stand outside the President of the Court and open each ballot. As you do so, you call out in a loud, clear voice, what is written thereon. Then you hand that ballot to the President who checks and records it.

DESTROY ALL BALLOTS

The ballots are returned to you for safekeeping and, by direction of the President of the United States, you must destroy all ballots by burning them.

This procedure of collecting and counting the ballots is repeated for each specification and charge. Finally the balloting is completed and you wait patiently until the President of the Court says: "Lieutenant, announce that the court is open." So you, as gracefully as possible, walk to the door, open it, and state, in your most dignified fashion: "The court is open."

You resume your seat, the TJA announces previous convictions, if any, and reads the personal data from the charge sheet as concerns the accused. The court is again closed and balloting is started by each member of the court, secretly suggesting a sentence. By this time you are again on your feet, doing your stuff until the sentence is decided upon and the court is opened.

The final closing of the court ends your job for the day except for the burning of the ballots as directed.

3rd STR Diamond Ace Nominated Army Air Cadet

Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the Third Student Training Regiment is going to lose a swell guy and the Rifles' baseball team will miss a great player when Cpl. Paul E. Sorrels leaves shortly for the Army Air Forces. Sorrels' a lanky, amiable and easy-going Texan, has been accepted for ntaining as an air cadet and is scheduled to report for duty as such about the 12th of the month.

Sorrels' home is in Fort Worth, Tex. He started his baseball career with the varsity nine of North Side High School, that city, and made a name for himself later with the Texas Christian University nine. He was graduated from TCU with a B. S. degree in business administration, only to be picked up by the Army three months later.

Throughout most of the first half of the Infantry School League baseball season, Sorrels kept his batting average near the .400 level. At third base he was, moreover, an outstanding fielder and strategist. Near the close of the half, however, he suffered an illness which required some hospitalization and he had a little difficulty making a comeback.

Sorrels has been performing the duties of a company clerk with the Eighth Company during most of his service with the Third Student Training Regiment.

DOG & CAT HOSPITAL
Complete Hospital Service
Bathing and Grooming
DR E. A. DAVIS
1006 - 13th St Dial 8871

Highest Cash Prices For Used Cars
PHILLIPS MOTOR CO.
PHONE 3-6553
1419 1st STREET

Myra's Beauty Shop
Opening under new management MONDAY, SEPT. 27th.
305 Murrah Bldg.
Phone 3-1097
Elevator Service

STEVENS Distinctive CHRISTMAS CARDS
For a Discriminating Clientele we offer personal Christmas Greeting Cards of unusual artistic merit and fine craftsmanship. Samples and prices submitted upon request.
J. P. STEVENS ENGRAVING CO.
110 PEACHTREE STREET ATLANTA GEORGIA

SALTERS
20c TAXI
CLEAN CARS
COURTEOUS DRIVERS
WHITE PATRONS ONLY
DIAL 5321
1017—1st AVE.

SERVICE WATCH

Waterproof, shockproof service watches. Ideal for the serviceman. Will stand lots of hard service .... $37.50 up
BRACKIN'S
1210 BROADWAY

KIRVEN'S

"ACTIVATE" Your Wardrobe

Check up on your wardrobe and see that each piece is working "actively" . . . a new blouse here and a new skirt there will give an old suit a new job. Clothes should not be loafing these days, so start reconditioning! Liven your wardrobe with color; strengthen it with durable match-mates; activate it with go-everywhere styles. KIRVEN'S SPORTS SHOP is the starting point and the limits to the results are indefinite.

READY-FOR-FUN
BLOUSE 'n' SKIRT
Two-piece classic with sissy ruffles. Spun rayon checked blouse, velveteen skirt with slit waistband. Sizes 10 to 14 in green, brown, and gold-and-black.
21.98

READY-FOR-WORK
JUMPERS
Whether you're looking for a "certain style jumper with pockets here and tucks there" or are looking for any kind of jumper "just so it's flattering," you'll find it here. Spun rayon materials in sizes 12 to 18.
9.98
others 7.98

READY-FOR-A-CHANGE
BLOUSES
Tailored to smooth perfection, these blouses are ever-ready for a change. Convertible necklines and smart bow-fronts. Sizes 32 to 38 in White, Dusty Pink, Maize. Superb with jumpers and suits.
3.98

Frilly as a valentine . . . blouses in prints you'll love. Delicate detailing with ruffles, tucks and frills. Sizes 32 to 38 in adorable colors. The change they'll make in your wardrobe is remarkable.
2.98

SPORTS SHOP
KIRVEN'S SECOND FLOOR

J.A.KIRVEN CO.
Your Complete Department Store

FORT BENNING BAYONET

The Benning Bayonet is published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

Member of Fort Benning Press Association

"It is not possible in a single day for an accumulation of dignity to reenter the soul through the tiny hole through which it went out drop by drop for 20 years. The fact is that after the last war we were so unworthy of liberty that we deserved the dictatorship . . . Liberty must be deserved."

—"Sette Giorni", Milan, Italy.

Enlisted Personnel Tributes Gen. Fulton

At this time the enlisted personnel, including WACs and soldiers, pay tribute to our former post commander, Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton. This article is a token of our appreciation.

During his period as commandant, many developments were established such as: Patio Grill, for enlisted personnel and their families only; new Post Office and restaurant; paving our main streets and sidewalks in other areas outside the Main Post; the constructing of parachute towers, and other facilities for training, as wess as erecting, improving of wooden cantonements for housing WAC detachments, O. C. S. and other outfits throughout the camp.

Besides putting through many important improvements, he is also responsible for the building up of the morale of the officers, enlisted men and women. He is a man among men, a gentleman and a scholar. It has always been a pleasure to work under him, either directly or indirectly.

Every regiment, detachment, service club, etc., has been under constant check by him, including the inquiring into conditions, how families are getting along, and whether anything of necessity was needed for their barracks or otherwise, though commanding officers of those outfits co-operated with him 100 per cent. It is fully appreciated.

Fort Benning is the keystone of the United States, ambassadors, congressmen and other dignitaries come here more than to any other post in the country. During their brief stay they witness its landscaping, wonderful layout and improvements. They will long remember what is accomplished in his work, both social and military.

The general is not only liked but loved by every soldier and civilian. He is now retired. We shall continue to stand behind him as much as ever. We are glad of the fact that he has a successor of whom he can be proud and who will keep up the good work. Regardless of the general being a civilian, his presence will always be welcome at all times. We wish him best of luck, good health and success in his new venture.

Pvt. Hugh C. Sanderson
Supply Detachment, Supply Division
Section I

Paratroopers Have Got More Brass!

These parytroopers is the world's best sodjers! Natttzzz!! Jeez! . . . That way they walk around with a cock air . . . Ya'd think they could jump up and chin 'emselves on a high-tension wire . . . with a broken leg even! They must think it's sumpin' to jump outta a airyplane with a bunch of bedsheets over their heads . . .

One guy sez to me . . . I'd like to see you try it one time . . . I sez, Hah! . . . any ol' time . . . He sez, Yah . . . They'd need a sledge-hammer and three guys to kick you out of the plane I betcha . . . I sez g'wan . . . we guys in the Infantry is tougher than axles on a trolley car!

He sez, I hear they is using tha Infantry to police up after us parytroopers do all tha tough work . . . I sez, Hah! . . . Youse guys is softer than a egg what ain't been laid yet! . . . He sez, Whadd'ya mean? . . . I betcha ya'd fold up after one day of "A" Stage parytroop trainin' . . . He sez, Ya'd look like a morning glory at midnight . . . all beat and shrivelled! . . . Natttzzz!!! . . .

I sez, Whadd'ya talk about tha night before yo make yer first jump? . . . He sez, Oh, we wonder iffen maybe we diddent pack tha chute right . . . I sez, s'posin' ya diddent pack it correct? . . . He sez, We would get a extra week of training . . . Natttzzz!!! . . .

I sez, an I suppose ya got a answer for how you guys manage to grab all tha good-lookin' chicks? . . . He sez, Oh, most of us is young and good-lookin' . . ? I sez, Most of youse guys I have seen have got faces no different than any choo-choo train . . . I sez, Tha only difference is that yer noses are screwed up more than the Army bulletin boards!

He sez I am jealous because I can't wear them shiny boots . . . I sez, Ah . . . you look like a dude of twenty years back . . . I sez, Only nowadays they don't make 'em with buttons no more . . . Ha! He sez, Ha! . . . But tha gals don't think we look like dudes . . . I sez, Oh, well . . . iffen I needed boots to get me chicks . . . I would buy a pair . . . He sez, Ya cain't buy these unless you is a trooper . . .

He sez, By tha way, how are ya doin' with tha chicks . . . I sez, I still write to one I met last year . . . He sez, Ha! . . . Ya'd better git into tha parytroopers Bud!! . . . Youse are getting around less than blue fatigues!!!

I sez, I betcha ya can't talk about as must as we Infantry guys can . . . He sez, Don't be silly . . . we can tell 'em how we can shoot at a apple with machine gun at 200 yards . . . and hit it! I sez, So what? . . . We Infintry guys can pick off tha stem of tha apple! He sez, Yah, but I tell tha chicks how we shoot so good as to make us some dessert of apple-sauce! Natttzzz!

I sez, Whadda'ya think youse guys gonna do in combat . . . You'll be alone a lot wontcha? . . . He sez, Yeah, but that don't worry us none. We is touch! . . . I sez, I betcha ya are loaded with artillery, Huh? . . . He sez, Nope . . . We just put on some masks what were modeled after tha armored outfit . . . And we scares tha enemy ta death!! Natttzzz!!!

I thinks I'll join up with them parytrooper guys . . . They got more brass than an ammunition dump . . . and they can shoot it, too!! Tsk, tsk!!!

—Cpl. Geo. Johnston,
22nd Co., 1st STR

Venereal Diseases Are Centuries Old

Venereal disease has been known to civilized man for no less than five thousand years. More than any other disease, gonorrhea has changed the course of history, blotted out lines of royalty, caused many innocent to suffer and has produced generations of lame, deaf and blind. It has spared no person, kings and scullery maids alike have been infected, and even today it does not regard social barriers. Venereal disease has been with us since the dawn of history, but it need not necessarily continue with us for it can be eradicated.

Although not under its present name, the Egyptians knew of gonorrhea and mentioned it in their early writings. Moses wrote of it in Leviticus, Hippocrates, the father of medicine, spoke of it as "Strangury." It was Galen, the great medical authority of the second century, who gave it its present game. Gradually it began to be recognized that this disease is acquired largely by sexual contact. Probably the origin of syphilis will never be universally agreed upon any more than the origin of man. The American origin of the disease has many advocates as has also the ancient "Old World Theory." The organism causing the disease, the Spirochaeta Pallida, is an international traveler, who plays no favorites.

Syphilis was not widespread or of epidemic proportions in Europe until after the return of Columbus and his sailors in 1942. This fact alone is singularly significant. Recently many Indian, Mexican and Peruvian skulls and long bones with the stigmate of syphilis, have been taken from graveyards known to antedate the Columbian period.

This disease is supposed to have been brought to Europe by infected sailors, with Columbus, following their discovery of America. The celebration which followed Columbus, return lasted two weeks, and in that time the disease was pretty well started among the inhabitants of Barcelona, Spain.

Columbus returned to Portugal on March 4, 1493. He had six Indians and a few sailors with him. He went to Seville, Spain, on March 15, 1493. The Spanish sailors are supposed to have contacted the disease in Seville, following their visit, and carried it to the women of Calabria and Naples, and these women in turn presented it to the French invaders of Charles VIII, who carried it back to France and all over Europe.

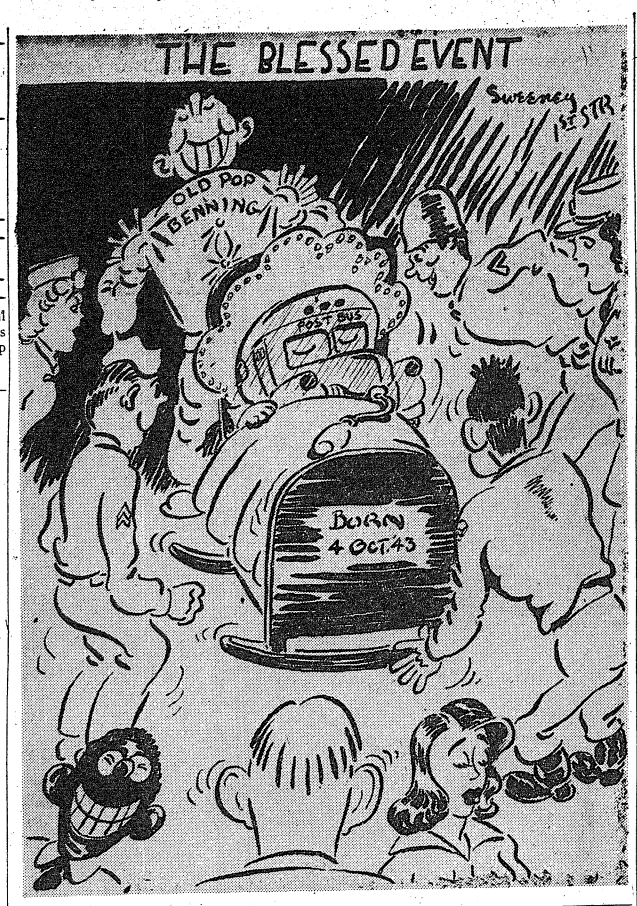
In 1495 the disease appeared in France, Germany and Switzerland, in 1496 in Holland and Greece, in 1497 in England and Scotland, and in 1499 in Hungary and Russia.

The spread of the disease can be traced in chronological sequence not only through Europe, but through all parts of the world, which came in contact with individuals from Europe.

So much publicity has been given the venereal diseases in the past few years, that it might be of interest to those desiring this information pertaining to its origin, and the way it has spread throughout the world.

—F. I. CIOFALO,
Major, M.C., Regt. Surgeon, 1st STR.

What Are We Really Fighting For?



Samuel Adams, backstage father of the American Revolution, thought Independence would bring the return of the Puritan virtues. Honesty, unselfishness, purity of motive and faith in God, he knew, were the necessary basis for a working democracy. Instead of Puritan virtues, however, our freedom seemed to bring the return of primitive vices. We plunged into an orgy of buying frills and furbelows from England. Samuel Adams died a disappointed man.

Something very like this happened after the last war. We plunged into an orgy of buying stocks and bonds—a decade of triviality followed by collapse. Woodrow Wilson died a disappointed man.

Will the same thing happen again? Already a great department store advertises that we are fighting primarily for "a steak in every frying pan," hunks and hunks of butter, oodles of whipped cream, luxury liners with champagne parties and the right "to buy 30 pairs of shoes a year." This is the kind of prosperity that will make us proud, the kind of peace that will make us soft, the kind of happiness that will make us selfish. Freedom and democracy cannot live on such foundations. Peace cannot last.

What then are we fighting for? How about the thing our founders had in mind? The chance, not to sink beyond our depths in indulgence, but to rise to our full stature as a nation. If we are not again to act like a band of liberated savages, using freedom to buy beads and geegaws, we must this time pay the real price of freedom—a mature responsibility in the use of freedom.

"My outfit will supremely disillusioned if they have to come back to the same old unclean atmosphere of greediness," wrote a sergeant from somewhere in Africa. "The important thing will be the attitude of the people, their humbleness of spirit, their friendliness . . . all this will make America a grand place to come back to."

USO Presents—

A PREVIEW INTO F UTURE; MANY BIG EVENTS CALENDARED

By PFC. SHELDON A. KEITEL

With no specially scheduled events looming this week at the Salvation Army USO units in Columbus and Phenix City, Mrs. Edna Scott and Mrs. Kathleen Barrow, program directors at the respective clubs, did a bit of gazing into the future to tell us about some programs which will play the clubs shortly.

* * *

A big Halloween costume party will be given . . . A program featuring ancient music and musical instruments will play in early November under Salvation Army sponsorship . . . Interest in the arts and painting will be stimulated by the inauguration of programs and classes in that field.

* * *

It may or may not be a "long hard winter," but at least the autumn prospects look good . . . Programs at the two units will henceforth be entirely on a point basis, the directors announced, under the direction of the new director, Adjutant Victor Tidman.

* * *

A review of the stable features at the Phenix City USO as released by Mrs. Barrow follows: Old-fashioned ice cream parties alternate on Thursdays at 9 p. m. with spaghetti suppers . . . Friday night socials are a stand-by . . . Saturday afternoon sees games and ping pong with movies Saturday night . . . Dormitory facilities are still available over Saturday night, now with warm blankets . . . Sunday features the Breakfast Club at 9:15 a. m., the quiz at 3 p. m. and vesper services at 6:50 p. m. . . . Nothing in the way of extra-ordinary features is offered Monday or Tuesday nights, when the boys "just drop in to take it easy." . . . A special entertainment is always planned for Wednesday night.

* * *

The winter program schedule released recently by the Ninth Street USO reveals that Sunday night feature motion pictures will be maintained at a high standard . . . All first-rate pictures, and none terribly aged, they play at 9:15 p. m. in the auditorium . . . The October schedule includes "Confirm or Deny," "The Major and the Minor," and "Yank in the R. A. F."

* * *

Another interesting program at Ninth Street USO is the Book Review Club which operates Wednesdays between 2 and 5 p. m. . . . Bridge parties and games are scheduled for Friday at 4 p. m.

This Khaki'd World

By. PVT. G. I. GRIPE

Paratroopers have the oddest occupations! A trooper named Fred Thompson from Minneapolis is reported as having been a "molder in a brassiere factory." Make your own guess on what that was.

* * *

Sgt. Marco La Bianca was picked as "pin-up" boy of the 513th Parachute Regiment recently. Result:—soon as his pictures began appearing in papers through the country, fan mail started pouring in. Now he almost has to hire a secretary to handle it, they say.

* * *

Somebody in the 176th gave a turtle to girls in the cleaning shop there, and considerable of a rumpus was started when the turtle went after the cat that had previously held forth as a mascot. Reports are that the turtle got the cat by the tail and a lot of squalling followed. The old 176th spirit, probably.

* * *

Pet peeve of a certain corporal is an officer who fails to return properly a salute by enlisted men. Said corporal passed a major and a lieutenant in Columbus within a period of five minutes, and one saluted with a cigar in his mouth, while the other returned the salute without taking a pipe from between his teeth. The corporal was really burned up.

* * *

Then again, on the other hand, the habit of saluting on the streets of Columbus has been falling off badly of late, we've noticed on the rare occasions when we've been forced to go to town. And in Atlanta nobody ever seems to salute anybody.

* * *

Thanks to the editors of "Pine-Bur" for the little article about the little article we ran here on them. Sure makes a guy feel good to think somebody reads this corner once in a while.

* * *

And that reminds us again—come on with your gripes and growls and stories, you guys. Some of them can be awfully funny. And we need more stuff from the field. Last week one soldier was pretty peeved over the idea of reserving seats at Doughboy Stadium for personnel of the regiments whose teams were playing—but nobody else seems to come forward with any arguments pro or con. Mebbe they just go and sit in the seats anyway?

* * *

Sgt. Neu considerably ruffled these days because somebody started rumor he was going to sponsor post-wide table tennis tournament. And when he ruffles nowadays, he sure does ruffle.

* * *

In the 300th Infantry they swear that a soldier named Maytorena went to Eufaula and had a room with nice inner-spring mattress on bed—but slept on floor because bed was too darned soft.

Chaplain's Corner..

PASSING THE BUCK
Chaplain F. M. Thompson

Passing the buck is called the old Army game. The general told the colonel, the colonel told the major and so on down the line. However, you must go farther back to find the origin. You will recall that Adam blamed Eve and Eve charged the transaction to the serpent. And there is abundant evidence that passing the buck is not the property of any particular race but that it has been and is a popular indoor sport among all people of all ages.

* * *

It is such a comfortable position to take. Reproved for swearing the man claimed exemption on the ground that he had been reared in the vicinity of the Chicago stock yards. It never occurred to him it was time it was run out of the family. Robert G. Ingersoll attributed his agnosticism to the teaching of his pious Puritan parents.

* * *

Call the roll of all who get in wrong from the lad caught with his hand in his mother's fruit jar to the instigators of the world's war, and all with one accord will make excuses.

* * *

Why all these alibies, these evasions, the unwillingness to take the responsibility? Simply this, we want our friends and associates to think well of us. We make no excuses for our virtues, only for our mistakes, defects, sins.

* * *

In all this no one is deceived, for,

"It matters not how straight the gate,
How charged with punishments the scroll,
I am the master of my fate,
I am the captain of my soul."

It's no use feathering your own nest in a tottering tree. Feather the American Eagle's nest and save tree and all.

When the world looks dark it's not only your glasses that may been cleaning. Viewpoints are colored by personal ambition and moral defeats.

If you don't change life, life changes you.

Use the force of remorse to change your course.

The world needs fighters for the future, not apologists for the present, nor mourners over the past.

Those who say "nothing's too good for our children," don't know what's best for them.

If we thought less of what we could own, and more of what we should own up to, the new world might come into its own tomorrow.

Kay Says—

NEW BUSES INDEE D A BOON TO ENTIRE PERSON NEL OF POST

Last week we spent most of our mornings riding the new post buses. By "we" I mean my small son and I, and a smattering of non-commissioned officers' wives. The buses, it seemed to me after a three-day tour of the post, were driving around pretty well empty. We passed innumerable cars headed for the commissary or the grocery, generally with one or at the most two women in a car. We passed soldiers walking when they could have been riding, still uncertain as to what the buses are for. Perhaps they've gotten the idea by this time that the buses are for the convenience of the entire riding public of Fort Benning, and it won't cost them a cent.

* * *

Personally, we had a very fine time. We saved gasoline, and considerable wear and tear on the tires. We had courteous bus drivers who were willing to tell us where we could make the best connections, and a soldier who was very helpful in assisting a female laden with bundles and a small boy clutching a half-consumed bottle of soda.

* * *

I'm still a bit dazed as to exactly where each bus goes, but there's nothing like taking a morning off to find out. And I discovered parts of the main post I'd never seen before.

The buses seem to catch up with each other at the commissary and at the Exchange Grocery. We started out on No. 4, which takes in most of Austin Loop, Ingersoll Loop, the commissary, post office and cafeteria, the loop around the Infantry School, and back to Austin Loop. For anyone living on Austin Loop it's a grand way to do your shopping at the commissary, see bit of the post and get home in a hurry. If you want to get over to the grocery you get off at the commissary, change over to No. 1 and proceed.

* * *

Chief criticism of the buses so far seems to be their slowness. We waited at the commissary ofr No. 1 and again at the grocery. Our driver on No. 4 was very proud because we'd had to wait less than five minutes for him. The drivers are all colored boys, incidentally, proud of their jobs, aware of their routes, eager to give information about transferring. And they're expert drivers. The way they maneuver between parked cars and trucks is marvelous.

* * *

One thing I learned in a hurry, however. You have to cut down on your marketing list, or you'll have a hard time handling unwieldy paper sacks. It may mean two trips instead of one, and a little additional time in consequence. But think what a saving it is on your gasoline coupons.

Another thing I learned from an informative driver. Buses don't run between noon and 1 p. m. That's the lunch hour for the bus drivers. So don't forget and get stranded someplace, with an armful of groceries and no way to let the family know where you are.

True, the buses aren't as convenient in some ways as driving your own car. But in England there's been no gasoline for private cars for the last two years. There you either walk or take a public conveyance. The post buses are comfortable, convenient, and a lot better than walking. We can't all do our bit by joining one of the women's auxiliaries, but at least we can walk to a bus stop and keep our cars in the garage.

Food— For Thought

The question is sometimes asked, "Why bother about vitamins, minerals and the different food nutriments, when our forefathers got along all right without any knowledge of them." The people who ask this question overlook the fact that our foods today are refined and sometimes refined to the point where the most valuable vitamins and minerals are eliminated. The public has demanded white bread and other highly refined cereal products and refined cooked vegetables and fruits.

There are many ways Army messes can prepare foods so as to retain a larger amount of minerals and vitamins of a potato in the portion immediately under the skin, and the skin itself which is removed by the ordinary way of peeling potatoes. Potatoes should be cooked with the skins on them where practicable. A mess was seen a few days ago, where French fried potatoes were being prepared with the skins on them. These skins did not make the ptotatoes unattractive and added to its nutritive value. Several messes have been baking and boiling potatoes with the jackets on them. Potatoes should be peeled very lightly in preparing them for mashing. Potatoes also lose a large part of Vitamin "C" and some of the nutriments when left in water for a long period of time after peeling. Peeled potatoes should be allowed to stay in water for only a very short period. In preparing carrots for cooking, it is only necessary to scrub them. At one time, apples and tomatoes were pelled before cooking or serving. In most messes, these two items are being prepared without peeling.

I preparing cabbage and other leafy green vegetables, only the burnt or damaged leaves and the very coarsest stems should be thrown in the garbage. Leafy vegetables also lose vitamins when stored in a warm room. Store them in refrigerator or other cool place. The liquid left over frmo cooking vegetables, better known as "pot-licker", should be utilized in soups and stews. This liquid contains vital vitamins and minerals. Leafy vegetables cooked for a short period of time retain a larger quantity of the vitamins and minerals. Bring a small quantity of water to a boil, place in vegetables and cook for around 15 to 20 minutes and serve immediately.

Under war conditions with food becoming less and less plentiful, it is essential that all food nutriments, vitamins and minerals be conserved. In many messes, it will be necessary to change the methods of handling and preparing foods.

—A. H. V.

If you want to cure delinquent children, start with delinquent parents.

Good plans don't make people work. It takes good people to work a plan.

When we don't talk for effect, we are more effective.

G.I. Theatre by Barry

By BARRY

Last week three different battalion shows were presented by the very active special service office of the ASTP. These shows were presented in connection with that outfit's bond drive and gauging by the amount of sales, the way to sell 'em is to say it with music.

Sgt. Ken Jackson and Corp. Don Hasse of the 176th Infantry, have been discovering a lot of new talent in their organization and are now going to exhibit their discoveries in a musical-revue, tentatively titled, "Rest Easy." They have recruited Sgt. Bill Cope of the Academic Regiment, to stage the presentation. . . . Bill has had a load of radio and theater experience and in his capable hands "Rest Easy" should be the best easy.

The boys in the 7th Armored Special Service Office are another very alive group. Visit Service Club No. 2 in the Sand Hill Area any night in the week and you'll see what we mean. . . . Their "Blind Date" program is a wow!

* * *

G. I. movies are getting better and better. . . . Release No. 8 has a sequence featuring Mitzi Mayfair, Kay Francis, Martha Raye and Carole Landis in which they warble "What's the Meaning of Snafu?" as if they didn't know. . . . And the 'special' titled, "Report From the Aleutians," in technicolor, is a reel thriller. . . . Book them now through the Post's Special Service Office—Phone 3411.

* * *

What with every band on the post calling themselves, "the tops," we think the time is ripe for a battle of bands. . . . How about it, maestros?

At the request of servicemen the National Theatre Council has extended the deadline for entries in their playwriting contest to December 1. That gives you exactly 55 days to sit yourself down and write that great American drama. Send it to Playwriting Contest, National Theatre Council, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, and if you have the perseverance to write out an address like that you deserve a cigar, at lesat.

A politician confuses people for his own ends.

A statesman clarifies issues so that people can see and fight for what is right.

Wisecracks from people, like cracks in a wall, may indicate insecure foundations.

If you don't know the number you want when you place a long distance call at the Public Telephone Center, refer to the list of directories on the directory rack and see if there's a directory for the city you're calling. Then if you find the number you want, place your call by number.

3rd STR O. C. Tells Experiences In Japan

If you were going to get into this scrap and on foreign ground, your morale would get a terrific lift if you were to follow a man who has already made a personal reconnaissance of the area you were about to work in, wouldn't it?

Candidate Abbe A. Vederoff, of the 18th Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School, was born in Russia. During the revolution at the time of the First World War, his home town was virtually destroyed and most of his family killed. They moved to Japan, and as Vederoff explains it, under very friendly and favorable conditions. His first impression of that country, viewing the famed Mt. Fujiyama from a boat docked in the harbor of Chimmidsu early in the morning, is one of lasting memory.

The surrounding country represented a fairyland of miniature buildings and regularly cultivated fields with the background of smooth ocean water and salt sea smell. Under these conditions Vederoff learned to know the Japanese as a clean, hospitable and honest people. However, after getting better acquainted with them, he learned how they were made into a ruthless machine under the supervision of the army for a few years.

Talking of the present conflict, Candidate Vederoff cited that the tactics the Japanese used on Pearl Harbor were similar to those used during the campaign of 1905 when they took Port Arthur in Siberia without a formal declaration of war.

All Jap soldiers in camp will practice for hours with the bayonet and their tendency is to fence with the weapon rather than force the issue by aggressive action as we are taught to do. Candidate Vederoff's view of this particular circumstance was from actual witness during his visit to that country in a period after the first World war. Another of the Jap methods of training is actually fencing with long bamboo poles, and this serves not only as training but is a form of amusement and sport. He also believes that the Jap is not a good soldier and cannot compare with our boys as they lack imagination and are tradition and rule-bound.

After finishing his conferences and practical work with The Infantry School's committee on the bayonet, Vederoff is convinced that with our aggressive style we rapidly turn professional and are able to manipulate and out-fight the Japanese at anything they attempt to do.

Abbe received his high school and college education in Shanghai, China, after the above mentioned visit to Japan and feels, as every other American, that our country cannot do too much in our effort to help China combat the invading Japs.

Before entering the Army, Vederoff worked for a luggage manufacturing firm as production manager and spent one and one-half years in the California State Guard prior to serving at Camp Adair, Oregon.

33rd Engineers Can Fight As Well As They Build

Though the 33rd Armored Engineers of Maj.-Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silvester's "Lucky Seventh" might well adopt as their slogan "Build and Destroy," they are also known throughout the division as one of the best-trained combat units in that organization.

Thoroughly trained in such subjects as mine laying, booby trap setting and bridge-building, these engineers are as proficient as any infantryman in ground fighting tactics.

Infantry training is practically a "must" for them, because they are used as combat troops as much as they are as engineers. When an advance is made it is the engineers who move ahead with the reconnaissance to prepare for the movement of a division behind them. While building roads and bridges they are supported by the infantry, by whom they fight.

Sometimes armored engineers are called upon to act as their own reconnaissance and support while keeping the road ahead open for the division.

Thus in the 33rd Armored Engineer Battalion the men aren't taught anything too technical because their work principally requires a good eye, a steady hand, "and damn good judgment," in the words of an engineer officer in the "Lucky Seventh."

Learning lessons taken from front-page newspaper accounts of the war, they keep well informed on enemy tricks with land mines and booby traps. Within recent months they have been devoting their time to training under conditions paralleling those of actual combat. In desert terrain they have laid and picked up 16,000 land mines in varying patterns under actual overhead machine-gun fire.

They have also learned to keep hands off battlefield souvenirs by having booby traps blow up these objects in front of them. A goodly share of this realistic under-fire training took place at night with a blackout in effect.

LIVE AMMUNITION

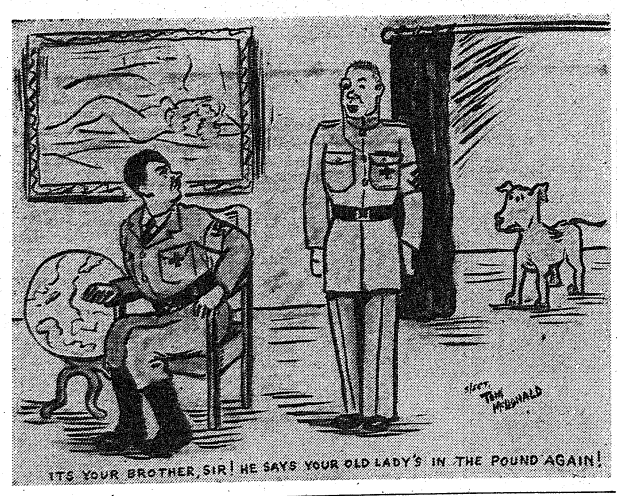
Live ammunition singing overhead and seemingly harmless objects loaded with half-charges of dynamite have taught these armored engineers more in a few weeks than they would have learned in months of classroom instruction, which supplements their "practice warfare."

They "build and destroy" under the toughest conditions available. One example is the locating and clearing of mine fields under night fire. Small arms fire is overhead and every fifth bullet is a tracer, but the "sappers," as they are called, experience a thrill nevertheless as they go prodding and diging for mines. Although these are simulated, they often have booby traps attached which explode with a puff of smoke when they are pushed, pulled or turned.

Among other duties, the 33rd Armored Engineers also construct and maintain short lengths of road and bridgework when the occasion arises. Usually an attached bridge company is used by the division for transportation and maintenance of cranes, trucks, and compressors for bridge-building.

However, line companies in the battalion do most of the actual construction work. Line companies also build small fixed bridges whenever they encounter a bridge too weak for repair and too inconvenient to detour around. Where the stream is narrow they can throw a steel treadway across at several points and move several columns of armored vehicles across with little loss of time.

In fact, the "Lucky Seventh" Armored Engineers seldom suffer from loss of time on a mission. Their duty is to "build and destroy," and move on . . . ever pushing forward.



16 TIS Officers Get Promotions

Five first lieutenants have been promoted to captains, and 11 second lieutenants have been raised to first lieutenants in The Infantry School, according to the public relations office at the school.

Promoted to captains are: Charles James Keenan, cannon group instructor; Robert E. Saunders, basic machine group; Richard R. Garner, Jr., Donald L. Keeler and Larry W. Coker, TIS instructors.

Raised to first lieutenants are: Roscoe F. Seamans, assistant property officer; Oscar R. Feagin, operations office; William F. Schodde, academic department; George A. Patterson, visual aids committee; Paul F. Trieb, Charles G. Nix, Ralph S. Prince and Robert F. Oxnam, weapons setcion; Robert P. Moser, Oliver W. Nelson and Karyl M. Van Benthuysen, TIS instructors.

Navy enlisted men are permitted to wear army uniforms while serving with army detachments. Shore sailors with Army outfits will wear their own insigne on the Army clothing issued to them but otherwise they will dress just like soldiers.

ASTP Corporal Quartet Is Fresh From Alaska

ASTP trainees have quite a genius for asking questions. So—four of the cadre in the 10th Company, ASTP Training Center of the Infantry School, are either going to have to tuck in their chests or spend a lot of time explaining about the row of colored ribbons they're wearing. They are Cpl. Harold Kirchmaier, Cpl. Alvin Netherton, Cpl. Clifford Johnson and Cpl. Bob Lyall, who have all seen service in Alaska.

Although they were in different outfits, they all came back to the States at about the same time and met here at Benning where they could compare notes.

All four men went to Alaska in 1942 and were there for about a year. Their stories run about the same and despite all their modest scoffing, are very interesting.

Corporal Johnson of Los Angeles, in charge of a 37-mm. gun crew, was at Cold Bay for a month and a half and then was among those who established a beachhead on Adak Island. Sometime after his arrival, he saw a Jap Zero and the next night experienced his first bombing. The men were all asleep in their tents when they were awakened by a cry of "air raid."

Johnny says there was quite a scramble but the area was so sandy that they hadn't been able to dig fox holes and he decided he "could die just as easily in a sleeping bag as anywhere else." It was just a hit or miss bombing, so they got orders not to fire and give away their positions.

EXPERIENCE BOMBINGS

Johnny, who was on Adak for nine months, experienced several bombings, and says that life was no bed of roses. The food was generally good, but he remembers Christmas day because he was on guard duty and had to eat C rations. What was the thing he most wanted to see when he started home? You guessed. He'd been away 11 months without seeing a girl!

Corporal Netherton, who comes from Kansas City, didn't see the bombings that Johnson did, but he had quite an oddessy nevertheless. He left Seattle in September of '42, went to Prince Rupert Island and thence to Ketchekan, Juno, Kodiak and to Cold Bay. He left there the last of March for Dutch Harbor and later was sent to Adak. He was in a machine gun section of a weapons platoon.

Corporal Kirshmaier, from St. Louis, the skier o fthe group, was in charge of three .50-caliber machine guns on an A. T. S. boat based at Cordova and got his first taste of the Nips at Unamak Pass, where he was strafed.

MISSES TORPEDO

Corporal Lyall, the newest arrival in the company, who hails from Los Angeles, went to Alaska in the spring of 1942 and "arrived without incident" though probably not without some worry, for a ship just a half-hour behind his was sunk. Bob says that though other units were established not far away, there was nothing in the area where he landed except bare tundra. He was also in a machine gun outfit but says that aside from dusting off the guns occasionally, he spent most of his time in construction work, building roads and putting up the round corrugated iron "Quonset huts" in which they were quartered. These had to be set about five feet in the ground because of the heavy winds.

Their experience in Alaska will serve them well as they apply themselves to their new duties as cadremen.

"I'd rather die on my feet than live on my knees to a tyrant," they are saying in the army. But, perhaps, if we got on our knees to the Lord it might end all this confusion about what we are standing for.

Army Distance Runner Is Here

Lt. Saine Won Several Races For West Point

When Harold J. Saine was graduated from the United States Military Academy last June, West Point lost an outstanding runner on the half-mile, one-mile, and two-mile track as well as the longer five-mile cross-country run.

But the Point's loss proved Fort Benning's gain, for Lieutenant Saine, now a member of the 11th Company in the 1st Student Training Regiment, is taking the Officers Basic Course at The Infantry School.

Saine, who's from Atlanta, Ga., ran for Army every year from 1940 to 1943, and missed hardly a meet. His speed won his West Point's cross-country "A" for 1941 and '42, and track letters in '42 and '43.

His first year on the Academy team saw him victor over Columbia and Fordham in the mile run. From that he went on to win the two-mile meets against Columbia, Nebraska, Maryland, Navy, Princeton, Pittsburgh, and New York University.

Saine also took first place in the two-mile Heptagonal Meet—Columbia, Cornell, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, and Army — as well as in the cross country competition with Colgate, Cornell, and Columbia.

Civilian Buys $1,400 Worth

Raymond S. Campbell, civilian employe at the Wood and Metal Shop of the Quartermaster Reclamation Section, purchased $1,400 worth of war bonds Saturday, with an investment of $1,040, it has been revealed.

Campbell, making the purchase during the course of the current war bond drive, already was having deductions made from his pay for the purchase of war bonds. He resides at 2504 Dawson street in Columbus.

George Selkirk, ex-Yankee outfielder, is now a Warrant Officer stationed at the Newport (R. I.) Naval Station.

TIS Combines 2 WAC Units

Combination of the two Infantry School WAC Detachments under the command of Capt. Janet Nash has been announced at the Headquarters of The Infantry School. At the same time it was announced that the Detachment would be attached to the Academic Regiment for administration.

Capt. Nash was in command of the Detachment of WACs who arrived here Oct. 1 after service with the Second Army in Memphis. The detachments will remain in their present quarters. One of them with a complement of 110 at present, is stationed in Harmony Church and is assigned to duty in the Student Training Brigade. The other, with 68, is stationed at the Main Post and assigned to duty in The Infantry School Headquarters and at the Academic Regiment.

Lt. Frances Van Nice is the executive officer of the Main Post Detachment, with Lt. Gladys Schreck as mess and supply officer.

Lt. Doris Hough is in command of the Detachment at Harmony Church with Lt. Eleanor Abbott as executive officer.

First Sergeant Mildred Smutny is the first sergeant for the entire detachment. Staff Sgt. Dorothy Goodell is in charge of supply and Staff Sgt. Janet Royer is in charge of the mess. The Harmony Church mess and supply problems are handled by Staff Sgts. Mildred Seaton and Grace Hughes respectively. Cpl. Florence Altshuler has been assigned to the Academic Regimental headquarters as personnel clerk.

The WAC Detachment is very similar to the Academic Regiment insofar as it is an "outfit of stripes." The great majority are technicians or have line ratings.

First Lt. Margaret E. Riley, of Columbia, Miss., has begun work with Lt. Horace D. Teal, personnel adjutant of the Academic Regiment, and will eventually take over his assignment completely. A graduate of both WAC OCS and the Adjutant General School, Lt. Riley is typical of the trained WAC administrators being sent into important positions in the armed forces to relieve men for more active assignments.

MAJOR DEANE

Announcement is made of the promotion of James A. Dean to the rank of major. Major Deane is a graduate of Gainsville, Fla., High School and received his BS degree in 1939 from the University of Florida. He completed the Officers' Basic Course at The Infantry School in November, 1940, and the Communications course in May of 1941. Major Deane is now an instructor in the Communications Section of The Infantry School. He is married and makes his home in Columbus, Ga.

1st TR Physical Program Goes Over Big With Men

On any Tuesday or Thursday afternoon, casual passersby are greatly concerned at the sounds of anguish emanating from the environs of the 1st Student Training Regiment, the Infantry School. Rusty old joints creak, breath comes in short pants, and strong men grow pale as long-unused muscles are taken out of storage and stretched tentatively. The occasion is the bi-weekly athletic session of the 1st S.T.R., and the participants are tactical officers of the same regiment, who blink at the unaccustomed sunlight as they emerge from the quiet gloom of their offices.

It was the regimental commander, Colonel John S. Roosma, himself an All-American basketball player at West Point, who instituted the athletic program with the intention of improving the condition of his officers, and also as a means of sweeping away the mental cobwebs which form when a person divorces himself for any length of time from physical activity.

Viewed with alarm at first by some whose waistlines had begun to bulge and whose wind wasn't what it used to be, the periods are now looked forward to with keen anticipation. Each battalion supervises the activities of its officers, and everyone participates. It is not an uncommon sight to see a lieutenant colonel swinging wildly at the pitches of a second lieutenant, and half the fun of the sessions is the good-natured jeering that passes back and forth at inter-battalion contests.

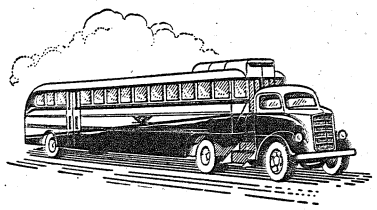
A variety of sports are engaged in—swimming, golf, volleyball and softball have held the spotlight during the summer, and quite a bit of real ability has been built up while waistlines have been whittled down.

With the football season af hand, everyone is looking forward to touch football games as a continuation of Colonel Roosma's program of competitive athletics.

Champion Welter From Point Is In Infantry School

Lieut. Donald C. Pence, boxing champ at West Point before his graduation in June, has been attached to the 11th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel John S. Roosma.

A welterweight, Pence led in United States Military Academy ring activities during 1941, '42, and '43. Last year he fought to give Army a 6 1-2 to 1 1-2 victory over the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, 5 to 3 over Bucknell, 4 1-2 tod 3 1-2 over Syracuse, 5 to 3 over Western Maryland, and 5 1-2 to 2 1-2 over Penn State. He climaxed the '42 fistic season by taking second place in the hotly-fought Eastern Intercollegiate Tourney.



In 1943 he triumphed over Penn State by 5 to 3 and West Virginia, 5 1-2 to 2 1-2. Plenty of victims can warn those Nazis and Japs that they'd better steer clear of Lieutenant Pence's terrible right hook.

Five former major league stars have been shipped from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station to receive further training. They are John Rigney, White Sox ace pitcher; Jack Hallet, Pittsburgh righthander; Tom Ferrick of the Cleveland Indians; Frank Bison, Brownies' pitcher, and Catcher Marvin Felderman of the Cubs.

COCKER SPANIEL PUPPIES
RED and BLACKS
Some sired by
MISTWOOD ANTHONY
$25.00 to $50.00
REAL ARISTOCRATS
On Display
SATURDAY, OCT. 16
VALLEY SEED CO.
1240 Broadway, Columbus, Ga.
EUFAULA KENNELS
Eufaula, Alabdma
F. W. HAM, Owner.

OFFICERS! SEE OUR
Gifts - Antiques
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

HOWARD BUS LINE
COLUMBUS ⇄ FT. BENNING
SERVICE TO FORT BENNING
FOR 22 YEARS

DOING A WARTIME JOB - - -
UNDER WAR TIME CIRCUMSTANCES
HOWARD BUS LINE
900 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

MEET YOUR BUDDIES
at the
Eagle Army Store
Headquarters For
OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN
Uniforms and Military Supplies
1018 BROADWAY

Have a Coca-Cola = Here's tae us

. . . or how to build friendship in Scotland

Toasting a new acquaintance, the friendly Scotsman says, Here's tae us. The American fighting man responds, Have a "Coke", and a new friendship is sealed . . . in Dundee as in Dallas. Around the globe Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the symbol of the friendly-minded.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Coca-Cola
the global high-sign

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

©1943 The C-C Co.

300th Sabers Clash With Georgia Tech Saturday; Spirit Eleven Plays At Southwestern Louisiana

Season's Toughest Foe Confronts Saber Squad In Grant Field Battle

Infantry School Eleven Plans To Shoot Works Against Collegians

BY SGT. FORREST R. KYLE

The 300th Infantry Sabers, undefeated in three games this season, face their severest test of the campaign Saturday afternoon when they clash with Georgia Tech at Grant Field in Atlanta.

It hasn't been any secret that the Sabers started pointing for the Tech game the minute it was added to the schedule. And it's obvious the Infantry School eleven will shoot the works in an effort to make the Engineers its fourth straight gridiron victim.

VAUNTED BACKS

The Sabers have read all about such Georgia Tech backfield stars as Eddie Prokop, Ed Scharfschwerdt, Frank Broyles and Mickey Logan and regard them with due respect. They know there will be no willy-nilly running over such linesmen as John Steber, Manning and Hoover.

But the 300th Infantrymen, many of whom will be whooping it up at Grant Field Saturday, are quite willing to stand or fall with the eleven which Coaches Bob Friedlund, Ermal Allen and Joe Routt will send forth against the Yellow Jackets.

ALLEN FEARED

Allen, who crashed the headlines while performing for Kentucky University, is one of the finest breakaway runners you can find, and when he's not busy the Sabers can offer Al Selari, late of U.C.L.A.; Sam DiBlasi of Washington, and Lee; Noah Mullins of Kentucky U.; Johnny Simcox of Long Beach Junior College; Jim Saub of Newell, S. D., and Bill Nowling of Tennessee. The less glamorous job of being a blocking back usually falls to Bill Meek and Ike Peel, both of Tennessee.

The 300th line has been somewhat overlooked because of the flashy backs, but in three games it has not yielded a touchdown. The 300th has been scored on twice, once by the run-back of a punt and once via the aerial route.

FINE FLANKS

The Sabers are well stocked with fine ends. In addition to Friedlund, there is fleet-footed Johnny Gilmore of Maryland U.; Bute Simmons of Texas A. & M., Dean Robinson of Georgetown, Ky., Thad Chafin of Waynesville, N. C., and Allan Parr of Kentucky.

The tackle positions are adequately cared for by Jim Robinson of Baylor, Bill Smithwick of Nevada, and Ralph Bleich of Columbus, Wis., to mention only three. And you can't overlook such guards as Routt, Parnell Curry of Glendale, Calif., Lloyd Arms of Oklahoma A. & M., and Roger Reeves of Texas Christian.

CENTER TRIO

Three top-notch centers are Vic Richardson of Tallahassee, Fla. Delroy Brzinski of St. Cloud, Minn., and John Murray of Seaford, N. Y.

Georgia Tech, after that stunning 55-13 defeat at the hands of Notre Dame, bounced back nicely last Saturday and overpowered the Athens, Ga., Skycrackers. Hence the Sabers will face an eleven once more operating at top-speed and full of cagey plays dreamed up by shrewd Bill Alexander.

GAME TO BE BROADCAST

The Georgia Tech - 300th Infantry game on Saturday in Atlanta will be broadcast play - by - play direct from Grant Field over Radio Station WDAK at 1340 on your dial. The game will start at 4 p. m., Benning time, and the broadcast will begin a quarter-hour earlier at 3:45 p. m., EWT.

SABER STARTERS—These eleven rugged ex-collegians may be the starters for the 300th Infantry against Georgia Tech in Atlanta on Saturday. Left to right the linemen are: Bob Friedlund (Michigan State), Jim Robinson (Baylor), Joe Routt (Texas A. and M.), Del Brzinski (St. Cloud Teachers), Lloyd Arms (Oklahoma A. and M.), Bill Smithwick (Nevada), and Bute Simmons (Texas A. and M.). The backs are: Bill Meek (Tennessee), Ike Peel (Tennessee), Sam DiBlasi (Wash. and Lee), and Al Solari (UCLA). (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

Sabers Smash Daniel Field Eleven, 39-6

Allen, DiBlasi Score Twice In Win Over Fliers

By SGT. FORREST R. KYLE

The 300th Infantry Sabers, naturally pointing for the Georgia Tech game this Saturday afternoon at Atlanta, didn't make the mistake of stumbling into an ambush by the Daniel Field Fliers of Augusta, Ga., last Saturday night.

Bent on carrying an unblemished record to Atlanta, the Sabers rocked the Fliers with two fast touchdowns in the opening quarter and then tacked on four more in the last half to roll up a 39 to 6 decision. It was the third straight success for the 300th.

DIBLASI GOES 70

Ermal Allen, Saber tailback, opened up right at the start and after runs of 18, 10 and 50 yards, the 300th had a 6-0 lead. Sam DiBlasi checked in with a 70-yard scoring dash and converted the extra point to make it 13-0. The Sabers didn't score again in the first half, although another touchdown by Allen was nullified by an offside penalty.

DiBlasi registered again early in the third period, smacking the line three times from 22 yards out to score.

BLOCKS PUNT

Midway in the period Allen darted over from the six, Joe Routt converting, and near the end of the period Center John Murray blocked a punt and recovered for a touchdown, Routt again converting.

A 10-yard pass from Willard Wirht to Thad Chafin in the last quarter finished up the Saber scoring. The Fliers picked up

Gridiron Guesswork

BY SGT. CARL NEU

Last week's results kept us right on the ball again. We selected 20 winners in the paper, but the Memphis Naval-S. M. U. game was never played and the Penn State-Colgate job wound up in a scoreless tie. Of the remaining 18 tilts, we were correct on sixteen. Only ones we missed were Yale's surprise win over Columbia, and Southern Cal's triumph over St. Mary's Pre-Flight. Otherwise we did all right, which meant calling the correct winner in all the big games as well as the Texas Aggie victory over L. S. U., which most of the experts figured the other way. So far, the Bayonet's prognosticating is right up with the wire services and all the big shots, but soon maybe comes the revolution. Anyway, here goes for another week, with the team named first as our choice.

300th Infantry vs. Georgia Tech—This will be the moment of glory for Friedlund and Co., and we think they've got the stuff to do it.

Georgia vs. Daniel Field—The Bulldogs should win, but not too easily. The Fliers are big and rough.

Duke vs. North Carolina—The Blue Devils are too powerful to lose two in a row. A hesitant vote for Duke in a hot game.

Navy vs. Penn State—It's conceivable that the Nittany Lions might catch the Middies in a letdown, but its not probable. Navy.

Army vs. Columbia — These games are always wild and wooly, but the Cadets should have two scores to spare this year.

Cornell vs. Holy Cross — A couple of up-and-coming elevens in a dogfight. Big Red by a few points.

Pitt vs. Illinois—It's about time for Clark Shaughnessey's T-formation to start the Panthers clicking.

Indiana vs. Iowa — The Hoosiers are rolling now, and doubtless have enough to squelch the Hawkeyes.

Minnesota vs. Camp Grant — Naturally our sentiments are with the Warriors, then too its foolhardy to go against the Gophers. Minnesota in a close one.

Great Lakes vs. Northwestern—You've got to take a flier every week, and this is ours. Navy to stagger through.

Purdue vs. Ohio State—Two powerful elevens, but we'll stick with the Boilermakers because of their more experienced talent, but it may go either way.

Notre Dame vs. Wisconsin—Poor old Badgers!

Iowa Pre-Flight vs. Missouri—The Cadets aren't what they used to be, but they are still too tough for Tigers.

Texas Aggies vs. T. C. U.—The Aggies are in stride after taking L. S. U. and should keep moving.

Southern Methodist vs. Rice—Despite the crying towels, the Mustangs have enough to take the Owls.

California vs. U. C. L. A.—A perfect toss-up. We flipped a coin and the Uclans lost.

Southern Cal. vs. San Francisco—We made a mistake on the Trojans last week, and won't do it again.

College of Pacific vs. Del Monte Pre-Flight—May be the best game of the day. Both are mighty this year. A weak vote for the Stagg legion.

Georgia Naval vs. Newberry—With Harder and Filipowicz in the fold now, the Athens club rates the nod.

Penn vs. Lakehurst Naval—Quakers for fourth in row.

Panthers Clash With Reception Center Eleven In Doughboy Stadium Battle Sunday Afternoon

3rd STR Gridders Lose To Truckers

Smarting from two defeats in as many starts, the Infantry School Panther footballers of the Service Battalion, Third Student Training Regiment, will throw everything they have into their Service Conference test Sunday when they tangle with the Reception Center Orphans in Doughboy Stadium at 2 o'clock.

The Panthers lost their second engagement last Friday to the Truck Regiment, 12-0, after suffering a defeat by the same margin to Tuskegee Institute the previous week.

In last Friday's game, the Truckers scored in the first and final periods, failing to convert on each occasion. Speedy Bob Lawson, former Louisville (Ky.) high school ace, went over for the initial counter from the 32-yard line, making a wide sweep around left end. Reed's attempt to place-kick the extra point was wide.

ONLY THREAT

The Panthers made one threat when Charlie Powell intercepted a Trucker pass on his seven-yard line and romped through a broken field not to be tagged until reaching the Truckers' 11-yard stripe. The quarter ended shortly after his spectacular sprint, however, and the Panthers lost their opportunity.

In the last stanza, the Panthers lost the ball on downs on their 29. The Truckers shoved the pigskin down to the 5-yard line from whence Manuel Costa, former Lincoln Union star, tallied on a run around end.

The Panther lineup should be considerably bolstered in Sunday's encounter with the return to uniform of Jimmy Griffin, fleet back.

Scoreboard Keeps Luckies Posted On World Series

Seventh Armored Division sports fans had no trouble in keeping up with the latest World Series baseball scores as the result of a maneuver by Division Special Service office.

Keeping the men posted on the latest happenings were giant scoreboards placed outside the D. S. S. O. and the division recreation halls, with a scorekeeper for each drawn from Special Service office.

Not contented with featuring just one or two sports, D. S. S. O.

See SCOREBOARD, Page 7

PANTHER PUNTER—Henry Kennedy, 160-pound quarterback, is one of the kicking aces of the 3rd STR eleven which battles the Reception Center in the stadium at 2 o'clock Sunday. The Panther back formerly played both at Xavier University and Dillard College.

OVER THE NET is Sgt. Leonard Summers, table-tennis pride of the Academic Regiment, '42 Benning champ and '43 runner-up, who has officially accepted the challenge and will trot out to face Pvt. Wilner Rhine, 7th Armored title-holder in a three out of five set series for the unquestioned, undisputed Benning championship at Harmony Church Service Club sometime next week.

The forthcoming event will pit two of the greatest exponents of the net game at Fort Benning together in play that is expected to make the rafters rock and the floors wobble. Both of the contestants boast a fancy array of strokes and table-tennis enthusiasts are cordially invited to see the spectacle.

Sgt. Summers is four times D. C. champion and has lost only one tilt in five years. Cpl. Morganroth, former Australian Swaything cup player and one of Europe's best, took the measure of the sarge in a screaming match played this year for the Benning championship. The tilt was so fast and so furious that even the spectators didn't know until the final set exactly who would wear the diadem. Cpl. Morganroth has since left for parts unknown, leaving Summer as the successor.

Pvt. Wilner Rhine, on the other hand, is an A-1 player and is expected to make a battle royal out of the coming fray.

Tigers Triumphant Over Clark College

By PFC. JOHN L. ROBINSON

The Reception Center Tigers toppled the Clark College Panthers 28-6 Thursday night before a large crowd of gridiron followers at Ponce De Leon Park in Atlanta.

The Tigers came from behind to win after the Panthers took the lead in the early part of the first quarter, when Barbee accepted a 35 -yd. pass from Fullback Harper.

The Tigers evened the count early in the second period when Leo Harrison, former Florida A. & M. star, crashed over right tackle for the touchdown, following a well-timed pass from All-American "Body Builder" Williams to Cleveland Johnson.

TIGERS SUPREME

The Tigers completely dominated the second half, marching on a sustained drive from the kick-off to a touchdown, with Franklin Banks, All-American quarterback of Bluefield College, scoring standing up from the Clark 6-yd marker.

The Tigers registered a safety their lone touchdown in the fourth quarter on a short pass. later in the third quarter when a pass from center was downed in the Panthers' end zone to lead 15-6. As the 4th period got underway, Clark drew a slugging penalty, and on the next play "Body Builder" Williams raced 25 yds for a touchdown. Score 22-6.

In the last quarter, Mike Cheatham and Nathaniel Smith, formerly of Alabama State and Alabama A. & M. respectively, ran through the Clark team at will. With the ball in scoring territory Williams clicked off two first downs, then faked a pass and crossed pay-dirt for the final marker.

Clark College looked good even in defeat and should cause quite a few headaches among their conference rivals. The power and experience of the Tigers was definitely the margin of victory which was made possible through the efforts of Captain Charles R. Houghland, head coach and his staff of assistants.

Backfield honors for the Tigers went to "Body Builder" Williams, Leo Harrison, Mike Cheatham and Franklin Banks.

176th Machine Invades Bayou For Hard Game

Searching for their second victory of the seson, the 176th Infantry football squad is now in Lafayette, La., ready to clash with the Southwestern Louisiana Institute eleven on Friday night. The collegians have recently decided to enter into competition this year and little is known concerning their team.

According to R. L. Browne, Southwestern coach, the Spirit opponents will include many college stars of last season from such grid machines as LSU, Rice, Baylor and Tulsa.

Browne has stated that his team is not to be confused with Southwestern University of Georgetown, Texas, the team which recently blasted Texas, 14 to 7.

SEASON OPENER

"We are opening the season against the 176th, but can't say what we are going to have," stated Browne. "Our big game is in a couple of weeks when we face Southwestern University."

After losing a close 13 to 12 test to the 124th Gators last Sunday, the Spirits will be out to stop the Southerners.

Capt. Bud Pollock, 176th coach said: "We're in pretty good shape, except for Georgia White and Bill Brantley. White got it in the shoulder Sunday, while Brantley's knee is badly twisted. He may play on Friday," Pollock continued, "but White needs a long rest."

TO USE "T"

Against S.L.I., the Spirits will present the famed T-formation, with Bob Waterfield presiding. The former UCLA star handled the pigskin with a master's touch against the Gators as he treated the 17,000 fans in Doughboy Stadium to a rare exhibition. In addition to his passing, the Spirit quarterback had a punting average of 53 yards and played an excellent defensive game.

On the flanks, too, the Spirits may be stronger as Harry Hales' leg injury continues to improve. Hales, the victim of an unusual practice injury, may see action Friday night as a starter.

LINE IMPROVES

The interior of the Red and Gray forward wall also improved with time as the newer men round into shape. Frank Heidel and John Cagle, two 220-pound tackles, had their first taste of competition on Sunday, following long lay-offs, the former with an injury.

Guard Bob McBride needs additional work before he will attain his top form. The former Notre Dame lineman fills a big hole in the Spirit forward wall.

Pollock will remain set on his backs, with Cullen Rogers getting an increased share of the work. Waterfield will probably team up with Sully Harris, Andy Dudish and John Hurst in the opening quartet.

George (Bad News) Cafego, All-American halfback at Tennessee University in '38 and '39, will bring good news to the Brooklyn football Dodgers this fall. Cafego received a medical discharge from the Army and is heading back to Brooklyn.

RUARK JOINS 176TH

Walter (Chief) Ruark, for two years an all-SEC guard at the University of Georgia, joined the 176th Spirits on Tuesday, just before their departure for the S. L. I. battle. His addition brings to four the number of ex-Bulldogs on the Spirit squad.

★ IN THE ARMY ★

they say:

"DOG SHOW" for foot inspection
"HALF-CATS" for tractor trucks
"WITH ONION" for anything very good
"CAMEL" for the favorite cigarette with men in the Army

FIRST IN THE SERVICE

The favorite cigarette with men in the Army, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard is Camel. (Based on actual sales records.)

CAMEL

WE PAY TOP PRICES PLUS BONUS FOR CLEAN-AUTOS

We Buy Used Cars

Headquarters for Buying, Selling and Trading.

CONVENIENTLY LOCATED NEXT TO CITIES SERVICE STATION ON YOUR WAY INTO COLUMBUS

BROWN MOTOR CO.

3145 CUSSETA RD. DIAL 7284

Attention!

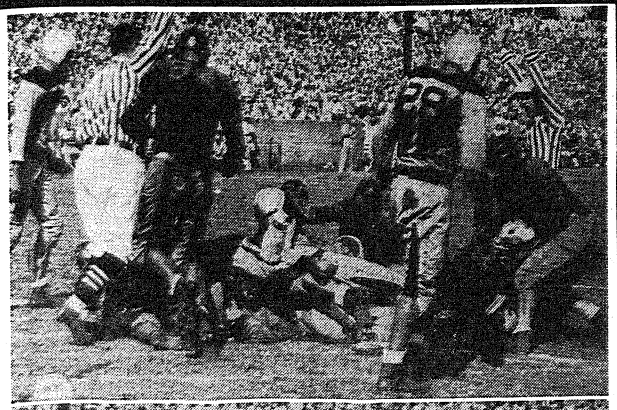
Officer Candidates

SEE OUR DISPLAY AT

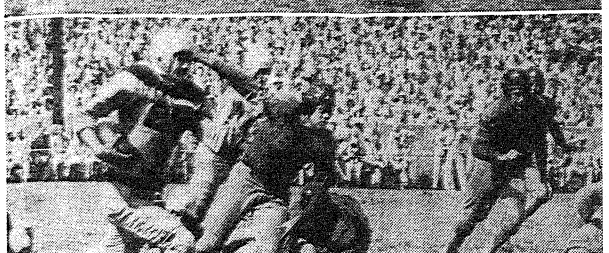
FORT BENNING

or visit our store for complete

- UNIFORMS
- CAPS—INSIGNIA
- TIES—SLACKS
- SHIRTS
- MILITARY SUPPLIES
- TRENCH COATS
- LUGGAGE

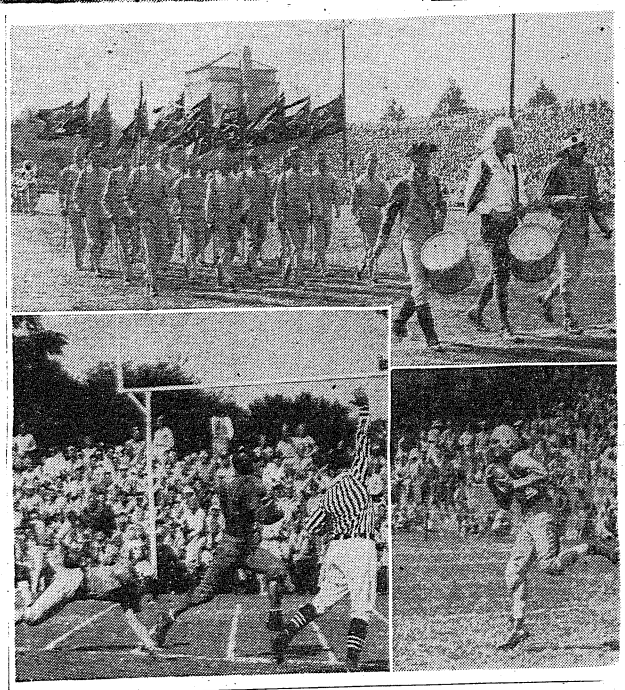


We guarantee 100 per cent delivery of all goods purchased. . . .



We deliver 1 week prior to graduation.

Open Saturday 'Til 10:30 P. M.
Open week days 'Til 3:30 P. M.
Fort Benning Time



LEVINSON BROS.

1220 BROADWAY DIAL 3-3061

ACTION AND COLOR galore made the Gator-Spirit clash Sunday a great spectacle as the 124th edged the 176th by 13-12 before 17,000 spectators. At the top is an unusual shot as Cullen Rogers (Texas A. & M.) plunged over the second Spirit score from the one-foot line. Actually in the picture, he is being pulled back from the goal line by Bob White (Indiana), Gator fullback. But Referee John Hogan (Xavier) has already thrown his hands into the air signifying the score. The standing players are Mogus (Wash. & Redskins), McKewen (Alabama) and Poschner (Georgia). Just below that shot you can see Andy Dudish (Georgia), fleet Spirit wingback, taking off on a reverse. So mystifying was the play that Bill Stauss (Iowa) and Bob Fitzgerald (Fordham), the Gators coming up, actually think one of Dudish's blockers have the ball because that's where they are looking while Andy scampers by unmolested. Just to the right of these lines, you can see part of the half-time festivities with the costumed "Spirit of 176" trio followed by the guidon-bearers. The drummer in the middle of the trio is Sgt. Raymond Cross who conceived the entire show. Below at left, Roy Cestary (Notre Dame) is crossing after his second touchdown run with George White (Virginia) making a futile leap at his flying heels for the Spirits. At far right, Sully Harris (LSU) has just grabbed Waterfield's pass for the 176th touchdown early in the game. (Signal Lab Photos by Sgt. Mel Stock.)

Ex-Red Sox Catcher Is Now At TIS

Herb Bremer Will Assist Gowdy In Special Service

The loss of the Boston Red Sox was the gain of the Infantry School this week when Catcher Herbert F. Bremer, a native of Columbus, Ga., reported for duty with Major Hank Gowdy, special service officer. He has been assigned to Co. A of the Academic Regiment.

Bremer, who was inducted in July, has been stationed at Fort McPherson. After finishing the 1942 season with Little Rock, he was drafted by the Red Sox. He has been playing pro baseball since 1932 when he broke in with Springfield, Mo., in the Western Association.

Bremer has played with Hutchison, Kan., in the Western Association, Columbus, Ga., in the Sally League; Columbus, Ohio in the American Association; and New Orleans and Little Rock in the Southern Association.

The Cards recalled him from Columbus, Ga., in 1938. He finished the season with the Cards and all of the next before being sent to New Orleans. Bremer is a right handed hitter and had his best season in Columbus of the Sally League in 1937 when he hit .305 including 22 home runs, and led the league in runs-batted-in.

176th Infantry Sergeant Planned Intermission Spectacle On Sunday

The man directly responsible for the intricate maneuvers of the 176th Infantry's Regimental Band, Drum and Bugle Corps, and guidon bearers on the field at Doughboy Stadium last Sunday afternoon between the halves of the Gator-Spirit football game, was T-4 Raymond A. Cross of Waterloo, Iowa.

Sgt. Cross worked out on charts and graphs the letter formations, the maneuvers and the necessary steps. He also had a hand in the selection of the music played, music that would time out to the drills.

CIVILIAN CAREER

In civilian life, Cross was music supervisor of the public schools of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and of Tama, Iowa. He was the director of the Cedar Rapids Drum and Bugle Corps that won several national and international contests. They were selected champions at the New York Worlds Fair in 1939, New Orleans in 1941; and at Toronto, Canada in 1942.

Sgt. Cross served in the All-American Drum and Bugle Corps and Band Association as national junior vice-commander; was regional secretary of the National Association of Rudimental Drummers and is a member of the All-American Drummers Association.

Spirit Soccermen to Play Athens Pre-Flight Eleven

With the prospect of a game within the next ten days, the 176th Spirit soccerites are continuing evening workouts in the first battalion cuartel. Coach Art Leckie has added several candidates to his squad of twenty men.

Arrangements are being completed to bring the booters from the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight School at Athens, Georgia, here for the Spirits opening game on October 16th. As yet, plans are still under way and the competition will be on a home and home basis. It is expected that the 176th will meet the Navy eleven later on in the season on the Athens' pitch.

NEWCOMERS

Newcomers on the Red and Gray squad include Pat Mazza, a Philadelphia booter who has played with the Houston AC. Mazza is at present cavorting at outside right for the Spirits.

Another goalie with considerable experience is Orlando Cesca from New York City, while Joaquin Calvett, a forward, has played in Spain.

OPTIMISTIC

Coach Leckie feels optimistic about the coming season. "Although we have about 20 out for the team, I am sure there are more in the regiment who can play soccer. We need every man we can get."

Colonel Meyer Urges Support Of Salvage Day

Col. Jack L. Meyer, new director of supply, has urged continued support of the "Salvage Day" program which is conducted on Thursday of each week for occupants of quarters on the post.

Inaugurated several weeks ago by the salvage branch of the supply division, the program has taken hold fairly well and results so far have been gratifying. However, Colonel Meyer pointed out this week that still more families must cooperate before the plan will accomplish hoped-for objectives.

Considerable time and effort is being spent by salvage officials to make the program as simple as possible for householders at Benning.

The pick-up trucks now make a complete circuit of all quarters on the post every Thursday, instead of on different days as heretofore. Salvaged materials, properly segregated, are to be placed on the garbage racks before 8:30 a. m. each Thursday morning.

Colonel Meyer, in urging increased cooperation by residents of the post, pointed out that considerable savings in gas and tire rubber are being effected by concentrating the salvage pick-up activities on one day of the week.

TO THE VICTOR goes the spoils, and here is Bob Ramazotti, stellar shortstop and field captain of the 176th Infantry Spirits, 1943 baseball champs of Fort Benning, receiving the huge victory trophy from Col. John P. Edgerly, post executive officer. The presentation was made at a baseball party, tendered by the F. B. A. A. to all post teams last Sunday night in the post gym. (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt. Mel Stock.)

Chief Chaplain Is Now Full Colonel

Lt. Colonel Frank M. Thompson, chief of the Chaplains Branch at Fort Benning, was notified Wednesday of his promotion to full colonel. He has been at Benning since August 1941, his first assignment having been with the 4th Division.

Col. Thompson served overseas in World War I with a coast artillery unit and has been in the Army ever since. He has done tours of duty on the Mexican border, in Baltimore, Md., Mitchell Field, L. I.; Ft. McArthur, Calif.; Schofield Barracks, Hawaii; and before coming to Benning was post chaplain at Barksdale Field, La.

HOBSON–

(Continued from Page 1.)

and England. For the past 14 months he has been executive officer of the Munitions Assignment Board in Washington which is a supporting agency of the combined chiefs of staff.

Prior to that assignment he was commanding officer of the 30th Infantry, known as San Francisco's own, and here again he won commendation for the state of training of the unit.

He is a West Point graduate and a distinguished graduate of the Command and General Staff school as well as of the Infantry School and the War College. He holds an honorary doctor's degree from Georgetwon University where for several years he taught military science and tactics.

CHUTE–

(Continued from Page 1.)

Rudy Faircloth, Associated Press; Walter McCallum, Washington Star; Richard Glass, United Press; Sam Adkins and Billy Davis, Louisville Courier-Journal; Fred D. Moon and Laurence Cornett, Atlanta Journal; alph Royle, Office of War Information; Bryan Collier, Columbus Ledger; Al Waldron, Fox Movietone News; Tye Sanders, Universal News Reel; Bill Goodwin, Pathe News Reel; John Muller, News of the Day; and W. A. Roton, Acme News Pictures.

Time magazine is also represented. Others indicating that representatives would be here are the Columbia Broadcasting System and the Chicago Tribune, and still others may be heard from by Thursday.

Parachute School area. Arrangements for the program were made by Col. Ridgley Gaither, commandant of the school, and Lt. Col. James W. Coutts, assistant commandant.

The following men were included among the Parachute School's guests:

Hanson Baldwin, New York Times; Frank Henry, Baltimore Sun; Lowell Limpus, New York Daily News; Jerry Throp, Chicago Daily News; Ralph McGill, Atlanta Constitution; Robert McCormick, National Broadcasting Company; T. M. Davenport and SOLDIER–

(Continued from Page 1.)

a cup of hot liquid he was on his way back to work in Service Battery of the 440th Field Artillery Battalion.

Division Chaplain James G. De LaVergne and a picked crew of 10 unit chaplains provided transportation for the men in groups of 20, and arrived at the hospital every half hour beginning at 7:30 a. m.

After volunteers from the Seventh Armored division in the Sand Hill area filled the quota of 200 donors for the first day, the Infantry School will provide the 200 quota tomorrow.

Friday morning approximately 60 civilian employes at the post will donate blood. Also on Friday 30 volunteers from the 11th company, Third battalion, Sixth Training regiment of the ASTP Basic Training center of the Infantry School will donate their blood. The rest of the day's quota will be filled by soldiers from the 515th Parachute Infantry regiment.

According to Ralph J. Mitchell, field director of the Red Cross at Benning, volunteers at the post readily could have filled the current quota three times over. Mitchell also stated that Mrs. J. B. Suttles, who is in charge of the unit, was highly pleased with the results at Benning. She made arrangements immediately for another three-day stop there about Dec. 15.

WAR–

(Continued from Page 1.)

pictorially all phases of activities on the reservation.

All military personnel of Fort Benning are cordially invited by the editors to participate in the preparation of material for the anniversary issue. Just remember to submit your offering through channels. Turn your work over to your public relations officer who will see to it that contributions continue through channels to reach us by noon Thursday, November 4. But the sooner you get it in the better.

Come on, everybody! Let's go.

SOLDIER DIES

Pvt. Alvin G. Kling, 22, a member of the 129th Ordnance Maintenance Battalion of the Seventh Armored Division, died at the Station Hospital after an illness of three days. The son of Mrs. Martha Kling, Burlington, Wisconsin, Pvt. Kling had been in the army one year and four months.

GENERAL–

(Continued from Page 1.)

steel concluded his remarks with a toast.

During his inspection trip, General Bethouart witnessed numerous demonstrations and problems by the French company. He saw the company run through the famed "blitz" course, saw it man 57-mm anti-tank guns, and engage in scouting and patrolling problems. He gave frequent expression of pleasure over the enthusiasm shown by the students.

The dinner tendered by General Bethouart was attended by officers of the Infantry School, post headquarters, the staff of General Bethouart and members of the French group.

A luncheon which was given General Bethouart by General Bonesteel, was attended by officers of the Infantry School, post headquarters, 7th Armored Division, Parachute School and Lawson Field.

Bob McBride, Spirit Guard, Recalls Experiences on Notre Dame Varsity

On Sunday the name of Bob McBride didn't appear in the program, but when that starting whistle sounded a big number—31—was filling in left guard for the 176th Spirits. The reason for the omission was due to the fact that McBride donned the red and gray just in time for the game.

The 205-pound six-footer hails from Logan, Ohio, where he played high school football, basketball and baseball. In the fall of '40, Bob found his way to South Bend to become one of the fighting Irish of Notre Dame.

FROSH FULLBACK

"That year I managed to make the freshman team," McBride stated, "but we didn't play an outside schedule. Our coach, Elmer Layden, used to teach us our opponents' plays to run against the varsity By the way, as a freshman, I was a fullback"

Came '41 and from Boston College came Frank Leahy to teach the Irish the T-formation He surely did a fine job, because Notre Dame finished the season without a loss, a record marred only by a scoreless tie.

SOPH GUARD

"I was a saphomore that year and played about half of the time. The regular left guard was Bob Maddock, who started most of the games. One of our toughest games that year," continued McBride, "was against Navy as we beat them 21 to 13. The Army games was played in the mud of Yankee stadium and Hank Mazur really did some punting in that game."

In his junior year, McBride had the distinction of playing more minutes than any other man on the Irish squad.

HAILS BERTELLI

"We lost a couple of close ones last fall, but they're making up for 'em now. Angelo Bertelli and Cray Miller are doing a fine job. One game that I'll never forget was the one against Great Lakes last year.

"At the half, they had us 13 to 0, but it was our last game and we couldn't lose it. One play after the Sailors kicked to us, Corny Clatt ran 81 yards to score, and later in the game Miller went for 65 to tie it up. With 30 seconds to go, we tried a field goal, but missed and a tie game looked good enough then."

McBride, who was just 21 the other day, is optimistic about the coming games and is sure the 300th and other Spirit foes are in for a big surprise.

'Streamliners' Hold WAC Lead

Winning three games in league play as they turned in the evening high team game of 664 and top team series of 1,868 for the night, the WAC Streamliners held tenaciously to the lead in the team standings of the loop, following Tuesday's competition.

The Fireflys, Extra Fatigues, Yardbirds and Busy Bees made it a "unanimous" three game victory as they each won a trio of games from their respective opponents.

Rubbert had high single game of the evening with a 167 while Seaton's 453 topped the three game individual totals.

Standings of the teams:

Teams	Won	Lost
Streamliners	14	1
Busy Bees	13	2
Fireflys	11	4
Yardbirds	10	5
Extra Fatigues	10	5
Goldbrickers	4	11
Skyscrapers	4	11
Ten Pins	3	12
Chow Hounds	3	12
Lucky Strikes	2	13

SCOREBOARD–

(Continued from Page 6)

has added, touch football, golf, bowling, volleyball, and wrestling to its already varied athletic program. Each unit will sponsor its own program under one or other of two combat team leagues, C. C. "A" and C. C. "B" League winners will then vie against one another for the division title.

Thus far the combat commands have organized basketball teams which are expected to open the season in the "Lucky 7th" about Nov. 7.

With the 489th Armored Field Artillery boasting a neat crew of golfers, Sgt. Bob Klunk of the athletic department (SSO) is hoping to stage a golf tournament if he can get any competition for the artillerymen.

QM–

(Continued from Page 1.)

bonds. Col. Hobson suggested that the motto of The Infantry School, "Follow Me," might well be adopted in the war bond campaign. He pointed out that he wished others on the post would now follow the example of the quartermaster civilians in buying war bonds.

In concluding his talk, Col. Hobson presented the certificate of excellence to Henry D. Hug, civilian administrative assistant to the director of supply, as representative of the civilian bond buyers. Mr. Hug has been employed at Benning for 21 years.

Receiving the award, which was signed by the post commander and war bond officer, Mr. Hug expressed the gratitude of the employes for the recognition they had received for their bond purchases. He concluded by urging his fellow workers to continue investing in bonds.

The Reception Center Band, directed by Warrant Officer Ellis B. Kohs, furnished music for the ceremony.

Professional football will be less disturbed by the fathers' draft. Most pro football players are either 4F or have war jobs when they're not playing with the pigskin.

Columbus Group Seeks Talented GI Showmen

The Columbus Civic Theater is searching for all talented GIs. Any soldier or WAC who sings, dances, knows music, or does a comedy act is invited to participate in a variety show which the Theater is presenting within the next few weeks.

Tryouts for the production will be held at the Chase Playhouse, corner of Third avenue and Tenth street, in Columbus, tonight, Oct. 14, at 9 EWT. Anyone interested, whether a performer or spectator, is cordially invited to attend.

Football Summary

SCHEDULE

176th Infantry vs. Southwestern Louisiana Institute at Lafayette, La., Friday night at 8 o'clock.

300th Infantry vs. Georgia Tech at Grant Field, Atlanta, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock Benning time.

3rd STR Panthers vs. Reception Center at Doughboy Stadium, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

RESULTS

300th Infantry 39; Daniel Field 6.

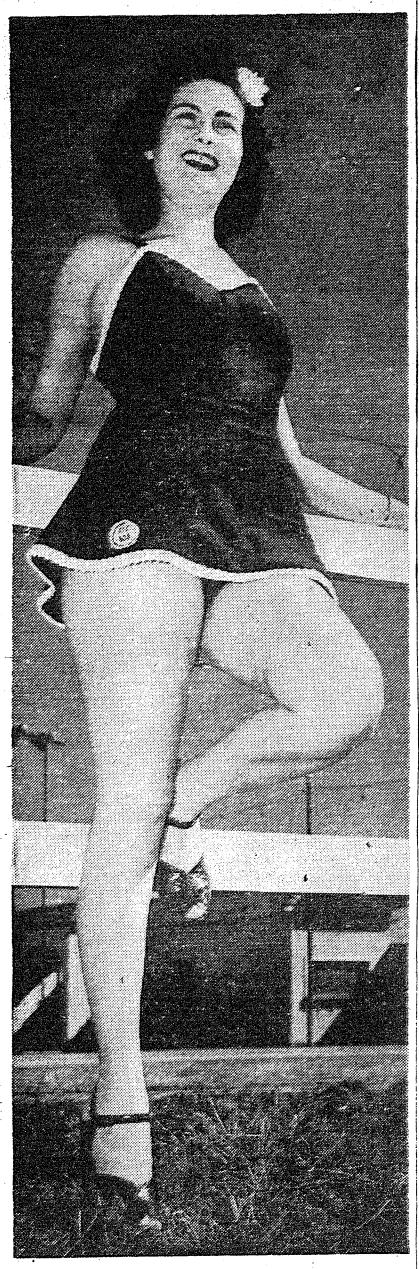
124th Infantry 13; 176 Infantry 12.

Truck Regiment 12; 3rd STR Panthers 0.

Reception Center 26; Clark College 6.

POW MEN PROMOTED

Promotion of three enlisted men of Headquarters Detachment (CMP) Prisoner of War Camp, was announced. They are Huey E. Pennington and Harvey Mercer Hudson, promoted to corporal, and Arthur Louis Burke, promoted to sergeant.



SOUTHERN MANOR
FOR THE BEST ENTERTAINMENT
With the Stars That Fall on Alabama
JIMMY THOMAS
SINGING MASTER OF CEREMONIES
PRESENTS
LILLIAN MURRAY
Comedian and Singer
DE RUBYATTES
Novelty Acrobatic
MITZI
Dance Sensation
BUDDY HOFF
And His Orchestra
TEA DANCE SUNDAY AFTERNOON
4:30 to 6:30—No Cover—No Minimum Charge
2 SHOWS NIGHTLY
ENJOY FAMOUS SOUTHERN MANOR STEAK and CHICKEN
Southern Manor
JUNCTION OPELIKA AND MONTGOMERY HIGHWAYS

COLUMBUS FAIR GROUNDS
AFTERNOON DOORS OPEN 1 & 7
AND NIGHT AT 2:15 and 8:15
TUE. OCT. 26
The GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH
RINGLING BROS. AND BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
Presenting The GREATEST PERFORMANCE in HISTORY
PRODUCED BY
ROBERT RINGLING AUBREY RINGLING Mrs.CHAS. RINGLING
STAGED BY JOHN MURRAY ANDERSON
Magnificent NEW Super Spectacles, Fabulous Features and Amazingly Accomplished Acts and Artists in Amplitudinous Abundance!
TWICE DAILY—POPULAR PRICES
TICKETS CIRCUS DAY AT ARCADE DRUG, 1115 BWAY. ALSO SHOW-GROUNDS. NO PHONE CALLS PLEASE.

PAT PATTERSON
14th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED CHICKEN IN THIS TOWN
No. 1 KANSAS CITY STEAKS THAT'S REALLY TENDER
CAT FISH DINNERS GA. STYLE
COME OUT ON THE NORTH HIGHLAND BUS
BRING THE FAMILY TONIGHT!
Try Our Sea Food Course — 8 Private Dining Rooms

Notice To Our Fort Benning Customers
Due To Circumstances Beyond Our Control It Will Be Necessary TO DISCONTINUE ALL DELIVERY SERVICE
We have 4 branches conveniently located throughout the city to serve you.
No. 1—1520 Wynnton Rd. No. 3—1132 13th St.
No. 2—2400 Cusseta Rd. No. 4—1012 2nd Ave.
WE WILL STILL CALL FOR AND DELIVER RUGS
"We appreciate your kind consideration and assure you the same job on each garment."
MODEL DRY CLEANING CO.
DIAL 2-3375

BAMA CLUB
Cocktail Bar Open 6 P. M.
TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY—9 P. M. & 11 P. M.
CHICKEN DINNERS, $1.50 WESTERN STEAK, $2.00
MUSIC BY VERNON YONKERS ORCHESTRA
For Reservations Dial 3-1051
Just Across Lower Bridge. First Building on Right
Admission Week Nites 50c Saturday Nite $1

RECORD SECTION RAVE—This might well be a farm lass leaning on the barnyard fence, but actually it's smiling Sarah Bridges, pin-up rage of the lads who toil in the record section at post headquarters. . . . And instead of a barnyard fence, that's the picket enclosure at the Officers' club pool, which gave us an excuse to get lovely Sarah into a bathing suit, even though there wasn't any water in the pool! . . . Hope you don't mind, fellows, because you can bet we didn't. . . . Sarah hails from Starkville, Mississippi, the home of Mississippi State College. . . . Went to high school in her home town and married right after graduation. . . . Hubby is now an Air Force captain and was at Benning until recently. . . . She came here with him almost three years ago, and led a life of leisure for the first two years. . . . Tiring of this, she hied herself off to post hq., landed in the record section and has been there ever since—much to the delight of everyone concerned. . . . The girl on the fence is an ardent bowler, and a good one, too. . . . Also rides frequently, adores dancing and enjoys swimming. . . . Finds being an army wife an interesting career. . . . BRIDGES ON MEN: I like men. They're charming, interesting and pretty nice to have around. . . . VITAL STATISTICS: Age—26. Height—5'6". Weight—130 pounds. Bust—35. Waist—26. Hips—36. Eyes—baby blue. Hair—brown (and she always sets it off with a flower a la Hayworth). Complexion—fair with a ruddy tinge. A lovely lass who would adorn even the barnyard fence. (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

PIN-UP GIRLS

Are Favorites With the Boys in the Service

BUT PIN-UP BOYS

Are Favorites With the Girls Back Home!

And when you send that Package

Above All

SEND A PICTURE

SPECIAL

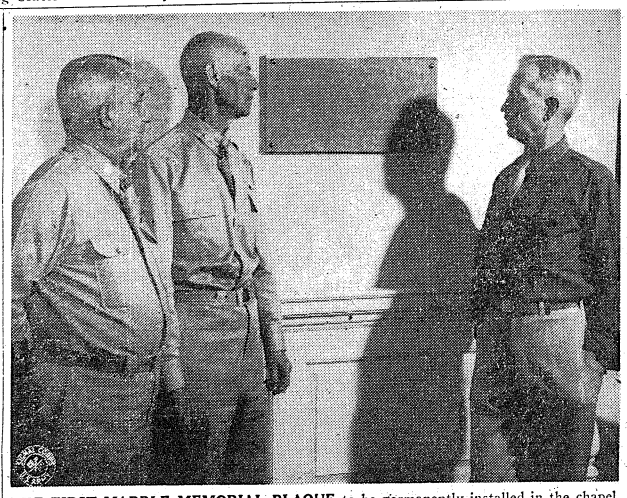
9x12 hand painted oil painting.
Regular $15.00 value—Now $5.50

Open Every Evening Until 9 P. M., Ft. Benning Time

BON ART STUDIO

5½ 11TH ST. DIAL 2-0571

"FOUR CORPORALS FROM ALASKA" can be the title for this picture. Theey are Corporals Alvin Netherton, Kansas City; Robert G. Lyall, Los Angeles; Clifford Johnson, Los Angeles and Harold Kirchmeier, St. Louis. All were sent to Alaska in 1942 and after a year of service, have been returned to the States where they are now assigned to the cadre of 10th Co., ASTP Basic Training Center of The Infantry School. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)



Colonel Wood Commands 4th SC District 4

Lt. Col. Reginald H. Wood, who has been serving as executive officer and sub-district commander of District Number 4, Fourth Service Command, has assumed command of that organization at Fort Benning, succeeding Lt. Col. H. D. Mendenhall, who has retired.

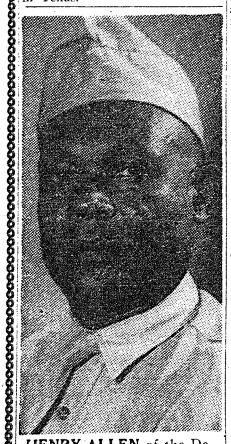
A native Utica, N. Y., Colonel Wood is a graduate of Hobart College, and in 1933 was graduated from the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kan. He saw service on the Mexican Border in 1916-1917 as a sergeant with the 1st New York Cavalry. In the first World War he saw action at Ypres and participated in the Somme and LaSalle offensive. On October 16, 1918, he was decorated with the Order of the Purple Heart.

Colonel Wood has served as commanding officer of Troop B of the 121st Cavalry, commanding officer of the 1st squadron of the 121st Cavalry, and commanding officer of the 801st tank destroyer battalion (the 101st anti-tank battalion).

In civilian life he was a heating contractor. He is a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity and the American Legion.

THE FIRST MARBLE MEMORIAL PLAQUE to be permanently installed in the chapel on the main post was dedicated Sunday at services. The plaque honors the memory of the late Col. Loren Prescott Stewart who while with the 51st Infantry was killed on Bataan, July 15, 1942. Shown here looking at the plaque are three of comrades of Colonel Stewart, a former student at the Infantry School. L.t Col. H. E. McGaffey who served with him at Camp Blanding; Col. Reginald Kelley who served with him in the Philippines; and Lt. Col. Virgil A. Ector who was with him at Blanding. Colonel Stewart was Col. Kelley's executive officer at Blanding. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Junior Haddassah To Give Dance For Jewish Troops



The Columbus Junior Haddassah will give a dinner dance for Jewish soldiers stationed at Fort Benning at 2 p. m. (EWT) Sunday at the Standard Club at 1219 Broadway.

A host of girls from Atlanta, Montgomery, and Birmingham, has been invited to attend the affair.

A nominal admission fee will be charged. Reservations may be made with Miss Shirley Albert at 1039 Broadway.

The Junior Haddassah last Sunday entertained 65 Jewish soldiers from Benning at a Succoth party on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Witt, 1323 Eberhart avenue. Sandwiches, beverages, fruit, candy, and nuts were served.

Bill McCoy, star catcher on Princeton's 1942 baseball team and the best ball player turned out at Nassau Hall since Moe Berg, was killed recently when his Army training plane crashed in Texas.

HENRY ALLEN of the Detachment, Medical Department, Station Hospital, has just completed 30 years service in the army, many of them at Ft. Benning.

ENGLAND—

(Continued from Page 1)

to impose on the British. And the British, anxious to repay the Americans for the kindnesses shown the many children evacuated to America and to welcome the Americans as their new allies, were disappointed at the reticence of the Yanks. This was gradually overcome and a fine feeling of friendship was developed.

YANKS BASHFUL

However, General Eisenhower, who commanded the American troops in England at that time, ordered each to take his own rations whenever he was invited into a private home. Referring to the early reticence of the Americans, Mr. Tree reported that on one occasion, 10,000 invitations were sent out for visits to private homes and there were only two responses.

He cited as another instance of the warm relationships now existing, the Christmas party staged by one American Brigade which had been shipped from one community to another. Remembering their many friends in the first community, this Brigade returned at Christmas time, set up a Christmas tree and loaded it with gifts for the English children.

Mr. Tree was warm in his praise of the American Negro troops. He said they were well behaved and good soldiers.

Mr. Tree, a flier in World War I, has been a member of Parliament for 10 years. He was greatly impressed by the enormity of The Infantry School.

"It's easily understandable now why the American soldiers come over so well trained," he commented. "We don't have the room on our little island for a school such as this. I can say only that its enormity is amazing and the instruction is excellent."

BALDWIN HERE

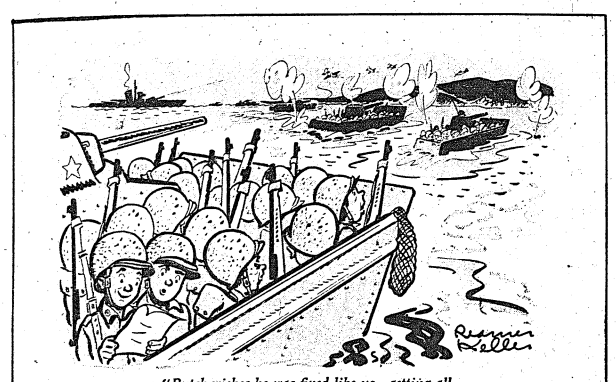
Congressman Baldwin took the occasion to state that he would oppose any amendment that would prevent the induction of fathers and that he would also oppose increased allotments to soldiers with children until the treasury department had means of obtaining the necessity revenue for such allotments. He also said that he would press for a hearing on his soldier's Social Security bill, which includes a sizeable cash discharge fund for each soldier.

During a part of their tour, they were accompanied by Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of The Infantry School, and Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, assistant commandant. On one occasion they arrived late for lunch in the field with an Officers' Advanced class. As they headed back for the Officers' Club in Harmony Church, Lt. Col. Andy Lipscomb, Jr., who was with the party, spied an Officer Candidate class about to begin chow in an area adjacent to First Division Road. The inspection party pulled up and shared chow with the OC's, sitting on the ground with their plates between their knees.

They witnessed 14 demonstrations and problems and also paid a visit to the Parachute School.

The Congressmen and Member of Parliament are old friends, having known each other for over 25 years.

Johnny Mize had a terrific year with the Great Lakes Bluejackets. The old Giant and Cardinal first baseman batted .418 and punched more than 100 runs across the plate in 63 games. The Bluejackets, incidentally, won 52 and lost only 11.



Watch, Clock, and Jewelry Repairing

Quick Service

B & S JEWELRY CO.

1724 Hamilton Rd.

Dial 2-1064

"Butch wishes he was fixed like us—getting all the Dyanshine Liquid Shoe Polish we want"

40 © 1943 - BARTON MFG. CO.

THE ENTIRE PRODUCTION OF DYANSHINE LIQUID SHOE POLISH IS NOW BEING SHIPPED TO OUR ARMED FORCES.

Woman's Club

By KATHERINE HAMMARGREN

The number of women who have designated their interest in group activities of the Fort Benning Woman's Club indicates that the club has again been successful in interesting women of diversified tastes and interests. Group chairmen are phoning all those who have signified their desire to join one or more groups, and are making plans for their first meetings.

The ever-popular Bridge group held its first meeting of the club year Tuesday, and will continue meeting every second and fourth Tuesday of each month. Meetings will be held at 2:30 p. m. in the main lounge of the Officers' Club, with a half hour of instruction beginning at 2 p. m. Mrs. F. W. Pratt, well-known for her ability to give instructions through her work as chairman of the group last year, will again head the group.

Mrs. H. P. Perrine, chairman of the Spanish group, has been successful in persuading Mrs. Sagra De Montgomery to give the Spanish lessons again this year. Mrs. Montgomery, a native-born Spanish woman, is an inspired teacher, and club members feel fortunate in having her. Meetings will be held every Tuesday afternoon in the Officers' Club, the class for beginners starting at 2:30 p. m., and the advanced class meeting at 3:30 p. m. There is a small fee for instruction.

MUSIC GROUP

The Music group will meet for the first time next Tuesday, October 19, at 2 p. m. in the ladies lounge of the Officers' Club. Mrs. Benjamin F. Wills, chairman, has arranged a short musical program to be followed by an organization meeting. Later it is planned to form a music appreciation group and a small chorus.

Mrs. Gordon D. Johnston, chairman of the Book Reviews group, is still contacting the seventy-five women who signed for the group. For the first meeting, to be held the second Monday in November, Miss Peggy Davis will give a reading on "Now In November" by Josephine Johnson. Miss Davis, assistant director of the USO-YWCA, is a graduate of L. S. U. where she majored in speech. The meeting will be held at 2:30 p. m. in the Officers' Club.

The Exercise class, in charge of Mrs. M. N. Kadick, will meet every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday from 8:15 a. m. to 8:45 a. m. Meetings will be held in the ladies lounge of the Officers' Club. A class in bowling, assisted by Mrs. Russell H. Anderson, is also being arranged.

CURRENT EVENTS

Mrs. Harold E. Potter, president of the Woman's Club, promises prominent speakers with pertinent and interesting information for monthly meetings of the Current Events group. The group will meet on the fourth Monday of each month at 2 p. m. in the ladies lounge, its first meeting to be held October 25. Mrs. Warren W. Christian is contacting women interested in forming a Victory Gardens group, which proved very successful last year.

Those attending group meetings are asked to bring membership dues of $2.00, or to mail checks for membership to Mrs. Albert H. Dickerson, membership chairman, post office box 2115. Group chairmen, however, will have membership blanks ready to be filled out. The nominal fee charged entitles members not only to participate in all group meetings and in the monthly meetings of the entire Woman's Club, but also to attend free of charge those meetings arranged for the Main Theatre where fees will be charged non-members. Speaker for the November 1 meeting, to be held in the Main Theatre, will be Dr. Franz J. Polgar. Dr. Polgar is noted for his talks on telepathy, memory feats, and the power of suggestion.

WADSWORTH

Blue Print Company

Have Copies of Your Marriage License, Power - of - Attorney and Similar Documents Made by Us. Architects and Engineers Supplies.

1231 - 6th Ave.
Phone 2-2381

Service Club 2 Adds More Fun

With Cpl. George Engles' Sunday afternoon "tea dance" and "Serenade" proving an established success along with Cpl. Jimmy Dolan's new quiz program and Sgt. Justin (Jester) Wagner's "Personalities On Parade," several more activities have been planned for Service Club No. 2 habitues by SSO and Mrs. Winifred Baker, hostess.

Leading the list is a series of three organizational dances to be held by Division Artillery, the 31st Armored Battalion, and the 33rd Engineer within the next four weeks. In the interest of shorter stag lines Mrs. Baker has engaged a dance instructress to teach bashful GI's to dance.

Other entertainment stunts to be featured at the service club are "Song of My Life," patterned after a current radio show, and "A Night in Coney Island," complete with Wagner and all the trappings peculiar to that section of New York.

Casting is expected to begin shortly for the play "Journey's End," to be staged under the supervision of SSO in one of the division theatres.

FOR HOME USE!

CALIFORNIA and NEW YORK In Winey Bottles WINES

PORT — SHERRY — MUSCATEL
BURGUNDY — SAUTERNE

$1.00 to $1.75

For 4-5 Qt.

City Pharmacy

14 - 13th STREET

Just Off Broad. Opp. Waverly Hotel.

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By Phyllis

In this day of rationing and making ones shoes last longer, it is mighty encouraging to be able to continue to see the styles change nonetheless. The MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE COMPANY at 1130 Broadway in Columbus, has a fine display of new fall shoes for milady. I know that many of you, just like myself, have saved your precious shoe coupons to spend them on new fall shoes. As our husbands bring out their O.D.'s for another season, and possibly add a new pair of shoes themselves, many of us feel justified in scouting about for a pair of fall shoes. At Miller-Taylor's there is a fine array of quality footwear. Florsheim, I. Miller, College Bred, Vitality, Rice O'Neil and Mademoiselle are the famous brands which are on display. Walking shoes, dress shoes, sport shoes and evening slippers are waiting for you.

—V—

How long since you last had a photograph taken of yourself? If it has been some time, why not consider having some made for Christmas presents this year. I could think of no more reliable and no more pleasant a studio to recommend than that of AIME DUPONT at 1219 Broadway in Columbus. Expert technicians, whose photographs are individual works of art, serve you at Dupont's. I know you will be everlastingly proud of your photograph if you stop by this studio and spend a short time before their cameras. There could be no more suitable Christmas present for your loved ones than a fine photograph. And, right here in the midst of Columbus, we have a renowned studio. So do stop by the studio next time you're ambling down Broadway. I know you'll be impressed by the samples of their work and you'll undoubtedly want to have a photograph yourself.

—V—

With but 72 days until Christmas, this is a most appropriate time to survey the Christmas card displays and select an appealing greeting for your own friends this year. The J. A. KIRVEN CO., at 1136 Broadway in Columbus has a most appealing display of Yuletide greetings. Browsing about the Christmas card displays makes one feel that the Yuletide is just around the corner. Kirven's display is especially interesting, as you will readily admit if you hesitate and look through the cards. There are brilliant and subdued colors in a large variety of designs: certainly there's one that will be the card you want this year. A fine array of cards, suitable for your name to be printed on them, is included in the display. For those of you who may not, in years past, have selected cards with your name printed on them, I suggest you do yourself proud this year and select one of Kirven's "to order" cards. Other attractive cards in the display are for youngsters as well as religious cards for various occasions. Why not get the Christmas spirit early? Drop by and view these cards!

—V—

Pots and pans are an important item on every housewife's list of "musts." If there is one thing my mother is proud of (and my mother-in-law, too), why it's their pots and pans. So, having been schooled in cooking where pots and pans are prides in the kitchen, I have come to recognize the value of knowing where good ones may be bought for the Army wife. SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO., at 1225 Broadway in Columbus has a fine display of pots and pans as well as other kitchen utensils. There are so many Army wives who come to Columbus with their kitchen supplies on the meager side (as did I) that I know they will be quite elated when they view this display at Sears. Whenever you think of needs for the kitchen, or for any room in the house for that matter, remember to visit this vast department store and make your selections.

BIG FOOTBALL CONTEST

AFTER THE GAME

COME OUT AND ENJOY

STEAKS-DINNERS
Chicken-in-the-Rough

All Fort Benning Personnel Welcome

NAVY ( ) vs. PENN. STATE ( )

GOO-GOO

700 LINWOOD BLVD. DIAL 3-4491

PICK THE WINNERS WIN $25 IN CASH!

It costs you nothing to enter. All you have to do is mark the scores of the game appearing in the ads on this page. Mail this to the Football Contest Edition, Fort Benning Bayonet, Box 711, Columbus, Ga., or bring it in to Public Relations Office at Post Headquarters. It must be postmarked not later than 12:00 Noon, October 16th. Winners to be announced in next Thursday's Bayonet.

RULES OF THE CONTEST:

1. Only Fort Benning Military personnel are eligible to enter the contest.
2. All scores must be marked in the space indicated in each ad on this page.
3. The person picking the most accurate scores will receive $15.00 in cash as first prize. The person picking the next most accurate scores, will receive second prize of $7.00 in cash. The third prize winner will receive $3.00 in cash.
4. Only one entry may be submitted by each individual.

Name .....

Address .....

CUSTOM TAILORS TO THE SERVICE SINCE 1845

ALL MILITARY ALTERATIONS SKILLFULLY DONE

"May the Best Team Win"

MINN. ( ) vs. CAMP GRANT ( )

SMITH-GRAY
15 W. ELEVENTH ST.
DIAL 5719 OPP. ARMY-NAVY USO

for ALMOST A QUARTER OF A CENTURY

We've been right here on Automobile Row at BUICK—CADILLAC DEALERS—Right now—no new cars to offer you—but do have the most complete stock of real QUALITY USED CARS in Columbus.

Also—we maintain just the kind of Service Department you would want YOUR car to visit—No job too large—none too small.

CLIFF M. AVERETT, Inc.
BUICK • CADILLAC • HUDSON
1461-63-65 1st Ave. Dial 2-1601

ARMY ( ) vs. COLUMBIA ( )

MEET US AT THE GAME!

Royal Crown Cola will meet you there . . . even after the game R. C. will make a delightful refreshment.

ROYAL CROWN
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
COLA
DRINK

ON SALE AT ALL FORT BENNING GAMES

DUKE ( ) vs. NORTH CAROLINA ( )

NEHI Bottling Co.

OCTOBER is the Month to Change into WINTER UNIFORMS

Chancellor's maintains a complete line of military clothing. We meet your needs easily and quickly. On your next trip to town stop in.

GEORGIA ( ) vs. DANIEL FIELD ( )

CHANCELLOR COMPANY
Columbus' finest men's store

SPOT RIVERS AND HIS NIGHTINGALES

SAT. OCT. 16th at

THE NEW WINSEL CASTLE

2603 CUSSETA RD. DIAL 7373
LOUIS W. PHILLIPS, Mgr.

CORNELL ( ) vs. HOLY CROSS ( )

Steaks—Chickens—Beverages
PRIVATE DINING ROOM

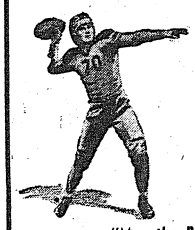
Officers, Members, and Civilians Only

MOVE INTO SCORING POSITION WITH

UNCLE SAM

SUPPORT OUR WAR EFFORT IN EVERY DETAIL

"May the Best Team Win"



TEXAS AGGIES ( ) vs. T. C. U. ( )

Wells
DAIRIES COOPERATIVE

2820 Wynn Rd.
2832 Cusseta Rd.

221 12th St.
1140 13th St.

SPORTS

YOUR FOOTBALL AND ALL SPORTS HEADQUARTERS

"May the Best Team Win"

GREAT LAKES ( ) vs. NORTHWESTERN ( )

Bentley's

1305 BROADWAY DIAL 7365

RANKS HIGH WITH THE RANKS

Be ready to catch that pass—and you'll feel more like it if you drink a refreshing Pepsi-Cola. drink refreshing Pepsi-Cola and often too.

INDIANA ( ) vs. IOWA ( )

PEPSI-COLA
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
Bottling Co.
COLUMBUS, GA.

SERVICE MEN BOWL FOR FUN

Join one of the many Fort Benning Bowling Leagues.

Bowl-Mor is the proud host of the first WAC League in the Southeast, consisting of 10 teams of 5 players each. Tuesday at 7 p. m., EWT.

NOTRE DAME ( ) vs. WISCONSIN ( )

BOWL-MOR
2412 CUSSETA RD. DIAL 3-2020

COLUMBUS BOWLING CENTER
11th Street Next to USO

GEORGIA TECH vs. 300 INF.
FORT BENNING, GA.

DIRECT FROM GRANT FIELD

SAT. OCT. 16th

3:45 P. M.—Station WDAK
E.W.T.

GA. TECH ( ) vs. 300TH INF. ( )

1340 ON YOUR DIAL

Compliments of Columbus Coca-Cola Bottling Co.

Let's WIN The Game!

Your authorized Ford dealer. It's yours for as long as it lasts—Why not protect your car with our first class repair service.

PURDUE ( ) vs. OHIO STATE ( )

"Your Ford Dealer"

HARDAWAY Motors Co.

1514 1st Ave. Dial 7781

Ringling Bros. Circus Shows Here Oct. 26

Men whose happy mission in life is to tell folks that the circus is coming to town were busy this week putting up the gay, familiar posters of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus, which exhibits in Columbus Tuesday, October 26, at the Fair Grounds.

On billboards and buildings, the 30 billposters, lithographers and bannermen were spreading their tidings. And renewing acquaintances around town were Frederick A. (Babe) Boudinot, car manager, and Bernie Head, advance press agent, both circus veterans of many years.

"It's an old fashioned Ringling circus this year," Head enthused. "The reviewers have called it that since we opened in New York in April, and the crowds have been eating it up."

Because so many people are involved in the war effort, the circus has set the opening time of its afternoon and night performance six hours apart, at 2:15 and 8:15 p. m., with the doors opening at 1 and 7 o'clock.

TENT PARADE

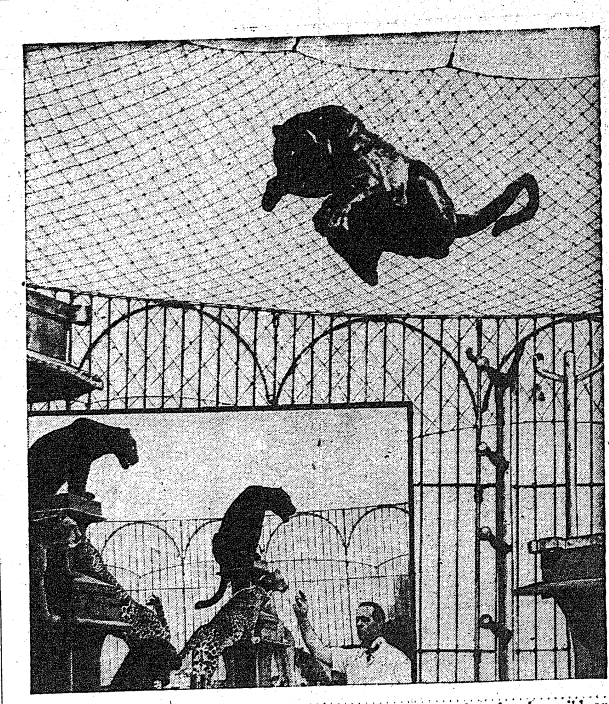
A fond reminder of the circus strett parade of 1898 launches this year's show, and the nostalgic touch has been a high-spot since the circus began its tour. Heading the parade are Merle Evans, famous circus band leader, and his 30 Ringling musicians.

New are the color spectacles, "Let Freedom Ring," which honors the United Nations; the "Changing of the Guard," featuring the great Ringling herd of 50 elephants; the aerial ballet with a new star in Lalage, a French-Swiss girl famous in Europe and South America, and "Drums of Victory," the smashing finale. These productions have been staged by Johnny Murray Anderson, distinguished New York theatrical producer.

Additional new treats for 1943 include the Loyal-Repensky family of bareback riders, the Reynolds & Donegan roller skaters, Dr. Ostermaier and his internationally renowned horse ballet, and the Los Aseveras equestrian troupe.

Back after a seven-year absence is the hilarious Clown Fire House. Back too are Victoria and Torrence, one of the greatest high-altitude acts of all time, and last seen with the Big Show six years ago.

The circus would not be complete without Alfred Court, who this year presents new groups of trained jungle beasts; graceful Elly Ardelty, "the Russian Bird of Paradise;" the Shyrettos, unicycle wizards; the Flying Concellos; the Wallendas, high wire daredevils; the Naitto Sisters, on the tight wire, and Massimilliano Truzzi, juggler, to name only a few of the hundreds of internationally established performers rounded up for this largest circus in existence.



CLOWNS BY HUNDRED

Putting the emphasis on fun are Felix Adler, the King of Clowns, and Emmett Kelly, the great tramp pantomimist. With them are five score more clowns who this year have three production numbers all their own.

The circus now is under direct management of a family whose name is synonymous with sawdust and canvas, with Robert Ringling, for the past six years vice-president, as the new president. He was schooled in the circus of his father, the late Charles Ringling, one of the five famous brother showmen, and himself gained distinction in opera. Active as vice - presidents are Mrs. Charles Ringling and Mrs. Aubrey Ringling, who was the wife of the late Richard Ringling — a son of Alf T.

The big top is also in the Ringling tradition—an all-white, six-pole tent larger than last year's, with three rings and two stages, a longer and wider hippodrome track, and better seating accomodations which total around 13,500.

Food and transportation difficulties have been worked out with wartime agencies in Washington, and at every afternoon and evening performance the circus sets aside an honor section for those who purchase war bonds with their tickets.

LENA, BLACK JAGUAR, a star in one of Alfred Court's groups of performing wild animals, makes a record flying jump of 23 feet during a rehearsal of the middle ring act. Lena is one of the seventy trained jungle beasts presented on the gigantic program of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus appearing in Columbus Tuesday, October 26.

UPHOLSTERING and Repairing
KURT LOEB
516—12th St. Dial 3-4281

Order Your Coal Early
A Full Ton of Satisfaction
Martin Bros. Coal Co.
29th St. & 4th Ave. Dial 2-4221

STEAMBOAT EXCURSION
ABOARD
STR. GEO. W. MILLER
9:00 P. M., FT. BENNING TIME
DANCING
3-HOUR TRIP
EVERY WED., FRI. AND SAT. NITE
$1.00 AVAILABLE FOR CHARTER DIAL 3-3636 $1.00

PLAYING AT COLUMBUS THEATRES

BRADLEY
FRI. - SAT.
Joan Davis — Jinx Falkenburg
—in—
"TWO SENORITAS FROM CHICAGO"
SUN. - MON. - TUES.
MARIA MONTEZ — SABU — JON HALL
—in—
"WHITE SAVAGE"
WED. - THUR.
Randolph Scott — Glenn Ford
—in—
"DESPERADOS"

ROYAL
FRI. - SAT.
Tom Conway — Harriet Hilliard
—in—
"The Falcon Strikes Back"
SUN. - MON.
Rosalind Russell — Fred McMurray
—in—
"FLIGHT FOR FREEDOM"
TUES. - WED.
Ida Lupino — Dennis Morgan
—in—
"THE HARD WAY"
THURSDAY
James Ellison — Frances Dee
—in—
"I Walked with a Zombie"

RIALTO
FRI. - SAT.
Buster Crabbe
—in—
"CATTLE STAMPEDE"
SUN. - MON.
Virginia Dale — William Lunningan
—in—
"HEADIN' FOR GOD'S COUNTRY"
TUESDAY
Stan Laurel — Oliver Hardy
—in—
"JITTERBUGS"
WED. - THURS.
Charles Laughton — Maureen O'Hara
—in—
"THIS LAND OF MINE"

SPRINGER
FRIDAY
Joe E. Brown — Judy Canova
—in—
"CHATTERBOX"
SATURDAY
William Boyd
—IN—
"LOST RANCH"
SUN. - MON.
Bob Hope — Dorothy Lamour
—in—
"Star Spangled Rhythm"
TUES. - WED.
Bud Abbott — Lou Costello
—in—
"IT AIN'T HAY"
THURSDAY
Johnny Weissmuller — Frances Gifford
—in—
"TARZAN TRIUMPHS"

Truck Regiment Beautifies, Landscapes Unit's Area

Units of the Truck Regiment, The Infantry School, have within seven months demonstrated to regimental personnel as well as to numerous visiting friends and officials, the astounding changes in landscaping and general beautification of grounds that can be made possible by well-planned effort and wholesome cooperation.

Taking over four widely-scattered areas in December 1942, the different battalions of this regiment found themselves housed in buildings in areas in various states of homelike atmosphere. These buildings, themselves, were in good shppe for army regulations and administrative orders guarantee such. However, the grounds surrounding barracks and other construction reflected various ideas as to beauty and general upkeep.

GRASS PLANTED

The area in which Regimental Headquarters is located presented a rather depressing view to new soldiers not long removed from homes with shrubbery, flowers, and well kept lawns. Assorted ruts in front of the Headquarters building revealed the fact that every vehicle from the little quarter-ton "jeep" to the giant tractor-trailer vans had been parked there at some time or other. Denoting a twofold use of this area were sticks protruding from the ground at regular intervals which were recognized by old timers as sideline markers for the football field used by members of the organization formerly using the area.

Areas adjacent to the orderly rooms were devoid of grass and gave indications that the former occupants had not anticipated a prolonged stay in that particular area. Consequently, it was with grateful surprise that personnel of the Third Battalion witnessed the early stages of grass planting and additions to the buildings and areas as directed by Lt. Col. Joseph S. Phillips, the battalion commander. Evidences of football and parking were removed from the plot of ground in front of headquarters and other parking lots were constructed throughout the area. Easy to read signs, denoting the various organizations, were placed in such prominent places that any visitor would have no difficulty in ascertainnig his whereabouts.

MESS HALLS INCLUDED

Special attention was given to the mess halls, inside and out, and there general transformation resulted in their presenting a more attractive and inviting appearance.

Little aids toward neatness—mop and broom racks, clothes lines, and trash receptacles—made their appearance over the area and soon all companies were located in surroundings that offered homelike atmospheres.

The Battalion Motor Park witnessed one of the greatest changes. Expert planning was used in assigning parking space adequate to any company's requirements. Maintenance buildings, with repair shops were fitted in such a way that buildings are units complete in themselves and able to perform the normal type of maintenance within their own walls. Additional wash and grease racks were made available and, with a thought toward minimizing the rush-hour congestion one-way traffic lanes were placed in effect. Central supply and storage shops were provided and the dispatch office, scene of much activity, was rearranged so as to function with greater efficiency.

With such a well-kept area in which to live and work, it is not surprising to find many men content to spend off-duty hours on the post and in the regiment that, through its Commanding Officer, Col. Frank J. Vida, (who encourages and welcomes any donations of plants, shrubs and other such items), offers a touch of home to the men in uniform.

Doughboys Teach New Caledonians Jitterbug

"Both good and bad" is the way Candidate William J. Doherty of the 3rd STR of The Infantry School describes life in the Southwest Pacific from which he recently returned after 15 months' duty. Doherty was in the first large American convoy to arrive in Australia after Pearl Harbor and says the people in the "down under" land are very hospitable and the girls are friendly and attractive.

The candidate also hit New Caledonia in the course of his travels and before his outfit quit that island the French girls there had become expert at jitterbugging, according to Doherty. At Noumea, the capital city and port of the island, entertainment consisted mostly of movies, which were enjoyed greatly by the men despite the fact that the films were from four to six years old.

"Life there is no bed of roses on a moonlit beach for the American soldier," maintains Doherty. He spent eight months on the island and throughout this period, the Americans were without electric lights and radios and their only contact with the outside world was through their mail.

The mosquitoes are thick on the island but there is no malaria. Doherty said the natives attribute this healthy condition to the Eucalyptus trees which abound as much as the pines in Georgia.

Doherty, during his travels on "government business," also saw service in the Society and Loyalty Island groups before returning to this country.

McFall President Governors' Board Of Officers Club

Col. John H. McFall, finance officer at the post, has been named president of the board of governors of the Officers Mess, Col. William Hobson, post commanding officer, announced this week. Col. McFall succeeds Col. Alfred Noyes who has left for another station.

Also on the board are Col. Wilson M. Spann, Col. Philip H. Kron, and Col. John S. Poosma representing the Infantry School; Col. Jack Meyer of the station complement; Lt. Col. John P. Oliver of the 7th Armored division; and Lt. Col. Marshall A. Goff of the Parachute School.

World News Bulletinized At Cafeteria

In a concerted morale program to keep the American fighting man well informed on current world affairs, Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan, post special service officer, announced that a bulletin board featuring latest world news will be set up shortly in the main post exchange cafeteria.

The bulletin board, headed, "It's Your War," will contain the weekly Newsmaps released by the Special Service Division in Washington, together with important headlines from the world's news, graphically illustrated by streamers attached to a world map. In addition the display will offer latest digests and interpretations of current events.

Col. Finnegan explained that this is part of the army morale program, designed to enhance each soldier's belief in his mission and its urgency by keeping him well informed. Other media now in use include G. I. movies on combat and homefront activities, which tour the post at regular intervals, and pamphlets, such as "The War in Outline," a continuous looseleaf booklet on the war, which is available to all troops.

It is planned that unit special service officers will arrange displays, similar to the central bulletin board, for their own organizations. These would be featured in recreation rooms, day rooms, service clubs, and other meeting places throughout the post.

Seven Profs Are Warrant Officers

Seven men from Companies A and H of the Academic Regiment removed their stripes this week, changed the cord on their caps, and pinned new insignia on their collars, after having successfully completed the examinations for appointment as warrant officers, Junior grade.

The six signal communications specialists from A Company who will now be called "Mister" are (with their former ranks): Tech Sergeants Irving A. Stannard, Thomas W. Gloystein, Fred R. Greenwood, and Sherman G. Swink; and Master Sergeants Bashan B. Phillips and Alvan A. Sweet, Jr.

The other appointment was awarded to Tech Sergeant Richard D. Hines, motor transport specialist from H Company. All seven of the new WO's were sworn in last Saturday morning by Lt. Horace D. Teal, regimental personnel adjutant.

Confused thinking doesn't come from muddled minds. It comes from muddled morals.

DAY'S TAXI CO.
1401 1ST AVE.
DIAL 3-3611

CHEROKEE GRILL
Endorsed by Duncan Hines
Endorsed in 1943 edition of
"Adventures in Good Eating"
Southern Cooking in Southern Atmosphere with
Southern Hospitality.
Dinner—Every evening from 5:30 to 8:30
Lunch—Sundays only: 12 Noon to 2 P.M.
914 Broadway—Inside the White Picket Fence
ALL SOLDIERS ARE WELCOME

World War I Vet Officer Joins 1st STR

Officer in World War I and active participant in the current conflict, Lt.-Col. Anson J. Smalley has been attached to the Second Company, First Student Training Regiment, pending his assignment to the instructional staff of the Infantry School.

First taking up the fight for Uncle Sam in 1916 when he joined a National Guard unit sent to the Mexican border, Smalley lost little time in rising to sergeant. Little more than a year later, in October, 1917, he landed in France with the 42nd—"Rainbow"—Division, a vanguard of the American millions that were to turn the tide in that earlier struggle.

Picked to attend officer candidate school in France, Anson was graduated as a second lieutenant in June, 1918, and was assigned to the 37th Division. Having fought first in the defensive sector, he took part in the Saint Mihiel, Ypres-Lys and Meuse Argonne drives. He was promoted to first lieutenant in October, 1918, and returned to civilian life the following year.

In 1930, Anson was appointed captain when he organized a rifle company of the California National Guard, which was called to active service a decade later with the onset of the national emergency. He was promoted to major in May, 1941, and has held his present rank since February, 1942.

Colonel Anson served in the Hawaiian department from July, 1942, until returned to the States on "rotation duty" in May of this year. After several weeks at Camp Roberts, California, he went through the tough grind of desert training before his wealth of Army experience and skill as an instructor were placed at the disposal of the Infantry School.

Between wars, Colonel Anson lived with his family in Ontario, Calif., where he taught at Chaffey Junior College as professor of political science. He holds a bachelor of arts degree in history and government from Grinnell College, Iowa, and his A. M. in political science from the University of Southern California. As a cadet in Harvard Military School, North Hollywood, Calif., his son of 18 is folowing Colonel Anson's footsteps as soldier and scholar.

Under the provisions of the act of July 14, 1939, an enlisted man who tenders himself for enlistment within six months after the honorable termination of active duty under his commission will be restored — without loss of seniority—to the permanent grade he held in the Regular Army before he was discharged to accept his commission.

Gifts - Antiques
Shop Early for Christmas!
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

1st Regiment Top-Kick Remembers Benning When—

First Sergeant Louis F. Cody was supervising his crew, laying a cement walk in front of the orderly room of the 13th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment—and doing a not inconsiderable part of the labor himself. Urged to take a breather, he told us about his 23 years' service at Fort Benning in as many minutes.

Top-kick since February or 1st Lieutenant George R. Grant's 13th Company, 1st S. T. R. of The Infantry School, Cody was a member of Company H of the old 29th Infantry from November 10, 1920, the day he first donned Mexican border, Smalley lost little khaki, until July 17, 1942. During those 23 years he rose from recruit to ranking non-commissioned officer of his unit.

Cody, who lists his occupation as "soldier," was born in Webster, Mass. After deciding that Army life was the life for him, he came South to Fort Benning in 1920 to enlist in the 29th. He's remained at the post ever since, except for a few months' temporary duty as Provost Sergeant at Camp Butner, North Carolina, in 1942 and '43. In 1938, Cody became a staff sergeant and by 1940, 1st Sergeant of Company H of the 29th Infantry.

MAIN POST PASTURES

Sergeant Cody remembers the expanse of farms and pastures that covered much of the present Main Post of Fort Benning. He and other rookies of the then-new 29th had to cut down acres of corn-stalks to clear the parade ground that became Gordon Field. After a hard day at this sort of fatigue duty, they sometimes relaxed watching a G. I. flicker in a barn across the way from where Post Headquarters now stands.

In those days even married officers of The Infantry School staff lived under canvas the year 'round. And trails impassable to anything bigger than a mule or cow traced out the paved road net that now links the far-flung areas of this extensive military reservation.

Cody also recalls the day in 1926 when a Second Lieutenant John H. Roosma, fresh from West Point where he had made a name for himself and the Military Academy in baseball, basketball, football and soccer, reported to Company H. On top of his duties as a platoon commander, the new officer found time to revitalize athletics at Fort Benning. Today he's Colonel Roosma, Commanding Officer of the regiment in which Sergeant Cody serves.

We hardly had to ask the Sergeant what he intended to do after the war. "Sign up for another hitch, of course," was his ready response.

TIS Officers Raised In Rank

Five promotions to the rank of major were included in the latest list of promotions announced at the Infantry School. They are:

John Wallace Page of Chattanooga, a reserve officer who is now an instructor on the attack committee.

Robert Arthur of New Orleans and Hartford, Conn., an instructor.

George Bogart Niblock, Jr., of Los Angeles, also an instructor.

Francis Mahler Linn of McAllen, Tex., assigned to duty with the M-1 rifle group.

Maurice Sloan Wilkinson of Burnside, Ky., an instructor in the tactical section.

Promoted to captain was Joseph Vincent Arcure of Owasso, Mich., who is on duty in the automotive school.

Six second lieutenants were promoted to first lieutenants. They were George G. Millett of Farnum, Omaha; Lyle Robert Mariels of Portland, Ore.; Robert Sheldon Merrill, Chicago; Holland P. Norton, Waseca, Minn.; Stanton Whitney, Red Bank, N. J., and Garnet E. Mercer, Thorpe, W. Va.

Lieutenant Millett is assigned to the headquarters of the School Troops Brigade. Lieutenant Mercer is a former professional ball player and company officer in the Academic Regiment.

PEST CONTROL SERVICE
ROACHES, RATS, BEDBUGS
CREATORS OF "SANITATION"
ORKIN
EXTERMINATING COMPANY, INC.
115—12th ST.
PHONE 6744

PHOTO FANS
For Better Snap-Shots
Have Your Film
Developed at
Parkman Photo Service
1121½ Broadway Dial 6451
Free Enlargement Given Each Day.
24 - HOUR SERVICE

QUALITY SAVINGS VALUE
SEARS 57 YEARS OF LEADERSHIP
Sears FINE DINNERWARE

"Mt. Vernon"
32 Pcs. Service for 6 — 7.49
Delicate blue - green and tan wreath frames, pink roses in center of plates. Expensive antique 22-K. gold trim on each piece.
53-Pc. Set $15.49

32-Pc. "MONTICELLO"
6.49
Colorful flower sprigged design of appealing simplicity. Trim white grained American made dinnerware.
53-Pc. Set $13.49

32-Pc. "RICHMOND"
5.49
Meadow flower decoration against a pure white background. Light weight and has bell toned ring of true china. American made.
53-Pc. Set $11.49

Printed Crash Table Cloth
50x50 Inches — 1.89
Fruit and floral design printed cotton crash table cloths. Hand designed. Fast colors.

Linen Finish Table Cloth
50x72 Inches — 3.59
Large size solid color table cloths in hard linen finish. Gold, rose and blue.
Matching Napkins 39c ea.

Bargain! 18-Pc. DINNER SET
Bargain priced. 18-pc. set with 22K. gold design. Services for 4. American made chinaware. 2.88

SEARS ROEBUCK AND CO.
1225 BROADWAY DIAL 3-4351

If You Haven't Yet Made A War Fund Gift, There's Still Time---Act!

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 2, NUMBER 6 Published by The Ledger-Enquirer Co. FORT BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1943 For America's Most Complete Post PRICE FIVE CENTS

TIS RIVALS TO CLASH IN 'BIG GAME OF YEAR'

Ex-Member Says Life In Legion Was No Bed of Roses

By OC DONALD FORBES

"In the French Foreign Legion we never had bayonet training like this—we didn't need it." OC Stephen Brown-Joussard of the Sixth Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School wiped the sweat from his sun-baked forehead and smooth back his fair hair.

"How come? I thought that was the toughest infantry outfit in the world."

"We had a double-bladed bayonet that left a cross-shaped wound, and an Arab who died with the mark of the Cross on him could not go to Heaven. So even the bravest Arab was forced to run. But the discipline . . ."

"REST! ON GUARD!", the instructor yelled.

Later, Brown was cornered at Saturday evening bunk fatigue.

"How was the discipline in the Legion?"

"Well, you can write about the daily rifle inspection and the officer's six white gloves. Won't you have a piece of cheese? My favorite—my wife sent it from New York. If the gloves got soiled, you either landed on the pigsty detail, or the mule stables, where you got badly bitten, or the road gang. Of course, these weren't punishment details, but like KP, they just happen.

"An NCO inspected us every evening before lights out. We had to stand at attention by our bunk in uniform. If a man so much as wavered, his head was shaved and he was thrown in the guard house for drunkenness." Brown-Joussard nibbled at the cheese.

"Before we could leave the camp in the evening, the NCO at the gate inspected us. Our field uniform—we had no dress uniform—had to be perfect, buttons shined, strip leggins properly wound, and our single pair of shoes perfectly shined. If you were sent back the first time, you went back in and tried again."

Brown-Joussard pulled a long strip of khaki cloth out of his footlocker.

"This is the 'cheche.' During the day we would wear it as a scarf, with the end tucked in our belt. Like this. At night we wrapped it around our waists to keep our stomachs warm, or we could use it as a mosquito net. Very useful. We would wash them so often that they got white, and made a beautiful scarf. But that was forbidden, of course.

"In the French army there is no PARADE REST. We had to stand at strict attention when long regimental orders were read, and you were punished if you didn't. If the company didn't MASS LEFT smartly when we came back from marches, we went out and marched another mile and tried again, and if that didn't work we went over the obstacle course.

"The discipline naturally had to be strict. About 60 per cent of the men were criminals, about 25 per cent were adventurers, and the rest youngsters attracted by the prestige Legionnaires enjoyed in France. SOLDATS POUR MOURIR, they called us, soldiers to die. You can imagine, an outfit that would suffer 85 per cent casualties in combat. But in North Africa the civilians would have nothing to do with us.

"They were magnificent soldiers. They were afraid of nothing. Except one thing . . ."

"What was that?"

"Colomb-Bechar. A town in the Sahara where the COMPAGNIE DISCIPLINAIRE was located. Legionnaires who blew up spent two to five years building roads in the Sahara. They were guarded by the famous GOUMIERS—mercenary Moroccan native soldiers who usually spoke no French.

"Life was terrible for those unfortunates. They did everything at the double. They ate standing, and if they didn't finish in time, they had to throw the rest away.

"When new arrivals reached the railroad station in Colomb Bechar, they were shown the nearby cemetery. 'When you finish here', they were told, 'you either come to the railroad station or the cemetery.' Then the men were double-timed over the mile to the prison. They were allowed no handkerchiefs—lest they conceal civilian clothing in the hopes of deserting—so their meager personal belongings fell out of their arms and littered the road, to be filched by the Arabs.

"Conditions in the prison garrison were terrible, but there was no public outcry because not even a general could enter without the permission of the commandant, and a 20-foot high wall hid everything that happened."

"Several weeks of good conduct were rewarded with half a pint of red wine. The men lined up, hopped on one foot to the NCO who dispensed the wine, held out a shined cup, and had to swallow it at one gulp. If they spilt a drop, or if the cup was not clean, they were punished.

"Everything was done to humiliate the men. I saw many who smashed their toes with GI cans so they could be sent to the hospital. One of the ironies of it all was that they were fed the best of food—good food, well cooked and well served; they needed it to stay alive.

"When they were released from the prison, they went back to their units to complete their five or ten year enlistment. By that time they became zombies, with no will of their own. If an officer were to order them to eat those stones on the drill field, they would do it."

Brown-Joussard cut himself another piece of cheese.

"What made you join the Legion?"

"Just before the war I had finished my university studies and was doing scientific research on the psychology of the emotions and its relation to artistic painting. Then I got a job in France as secretary of a refugee committee. Handling about 100 people a day, I soon learned to size them up, and to tell when they were lying, pretending to be poor. We found several planted Nazi agents among them. When war broke out, I felt I owed France something, and, unable to join the French army since I was not a citizen, I joined the Legion, expecting to fight on the Western Front, instead, I landed in North Africa.

"The Legion was stripped of its cadre for the Narvik campaign, so after a few months I was a sergeant instructing new recruits.

"Later I got a platoon of soldiers of fortune who were released from concentration camps in French North Africa to enlist in the Legion. They had little left to live for, so they stole right and left. They even stole their comrades' blankets while they slept, and sold them to the Arabs. And without a blanket you can die of pneumonia on the cold Saharan nights. Things were always missing in barracks.

"One day I lost a toothbrush. So I spread everything I owned—shaving kit, hair brush and similar luxuries of which the Spaniards had none—over my bed, called the platoon in, showed them my belongings, placed them back in my locker, I purposely 'forgot' to lock it. The men's pride was touched by this show of confidence, and none of my things were ever touched.

"I will never forget the time I had them out digging foxholes as training in sinti-aircraft defense—Gamelin foxholes we called them, after that great advocate of defensive warfare. One Asturian miner, who rushed against tanks during the Civil war throwing sticks of dynamite because there was nothing else to throw, pointed out that those foxholes merely served to attract airplanes. I knew he was right, but we went on digging foxholes.

"Then came the fall of France and the Armistice. The French Government knew we war volunteers were not satisfied with the Armistice, so I was called in and told I had been discharged from the army, but would report to a labor company in the Sahara. I had not joined the French Army to build the Trans-Sahara railway, so I decided I was not going to touch a shovel.

"I had an infected toe, and that march from the railroad station to the labor company was the worst of my life. I landed in the hospital. Cured, I decided to get a detail sweeping. Anything to stay in the hospital. Then I got a job ruling out forms—we couldn't get printed ones, and ended up as secretary. That was where our discharge papers were kept. If I could get hold of them, I could escape from the labor company.

"I finally got hold of my discharge papers and got an ambulance driver to take me three stations up the line. I realized what would happen if I were caught. And I did not have a pass to enter Spanish Morocco. I spent most of those three days on the train in the toilet.

"In Casablanca, I got a relative in the United States to fix up my immigration papers. And here I am."

"Brown-Joussard looked at his watch.

"Twenty of ten. Just time for a letter to Mrs. Brown-Joussard."

"See you in the morning, Brown. And thanks for the cheese."

Student Brigade Defunct On Nov. 1

Other Changes Affect ASTP, 7th Recon. Sqdr.

Three important changes affecting its units have been announced at Headquarters of The Infantry School.

They were:

(1) Inactivation on November 1 of the Student Training Brigade.

(2) Transfer of the ASTP Basic Training Center to the direct command of the Replacement and School Command at Birmingham, Ala., with Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of The Infantry School continuing to coordinate the activities of the training center.

(3) Change in the designation of the 7th Reconnaissance Squadron, The Infantry School to the Third Composite Squadron, Third Air Force.

The inactivation of the Brigade ends the existence of a unit which has functioned for more than a year in the training of Officer Candidates and Officers. The two units which remained in the Brigade—the First and Third Student Training regiments—will operate directly under the office of the Executive Officer of The Infantry School.

Col. Robert H. Lord, commander of the Brigade, has been assigned to Headquarters as acting inspector of The Infantry School.

At the heighth of its existence, the Brigade, which was activated early in 1942, consisted of three regiments. The Second regiment was inactivated in September of this year. The Third Regiment, commanded by Col. John D. Hill, is composed of Officer Candidate classes. The First Regiment, commanded by Col. John S. Roosma, is comprised of Basic and Advanced Officer Classes and also classes in the communication and automotive schools for officers and enlisted personnel.

O. C. PROGRAM CUT

Inactivation of the Second Regiment and ultimately the Brigade was due to the reduction in the Officer Candidate program. The Third Regiment can now adequately handle all Infantry officer candidate requirements.

During the Brigade's existence, more than 70,000 men have been graduated from the various schools and courses which its members have attended. The commanding officer of the Basic Training Center will deal directly with the Replacement and School Command, AGF, and the Commanding Officer of Fort Benning. This will relieve The Infantry School of the duties of administration incident to an intermediate headquarters; while still maintaining the co-ordination of the Basic Centers' activities by the Commandant of The Infantry School.

While the new Third Composite Squadron will be administered by the Third Air Force, it will continue its duties of providing the necessary aerial arm for demonstrations and problems connected with Officer Candidate and Officer classes of The Infantry School.

SHE ISN'T WORRIED about losing a sale any more. Staff Sergeant Grace V. Brown of Parkersburg, W. Va., a former salesgirl in a women's dress shop, is now the supply sergeant of the Harmony Church WAC Detachment of The Infantry School. Her stock hasn't much variety but she does her best to please the whims and fancies of her 'customers.' Fashion note—they're wearing tailored olive drab this fall. (Official U. S. Army Photo) (Infantry School)

Mission Band Advance Guard Reaches Post

Pontifical Mass Slated For Gowdy Sunday, October 21

The Rev. Mr. Joseph P. Turner, of Philadelphia, Pa., superior of the Missionary Band who will conduct special services for Catholic soldiers at Fort Benning next week, arrived at the post Tuesday afternoon to make final arrangements for the mission.

The forthcoming mission is to be the largest of its type conducted on a military reservation, according to the Rev. Mr. William J. Hunt, Catholic chaplain at Benning who is arranging the mission.

Twelve more missionaries will arrive on Friday, and the mission will commence on Sunday. The services will be climaxed with the celebration of a Military Pontifical Mass and the conferring of the Sacrament of Confirmation at Gowdy Field on Sunday, October 21. Bishop William T. McCarty, military delegate to the Army and Navy, will celebrate the mass at which several thousand Catholic soldiers are expected to attend at Gowdy Field, starting at 10 o'clock in the morning.

A similar mission was held at the post last March. Several thousand soldiers participated in

See MISSION, Page 7

WAC's Life Resembles Horatio Alger Tale

Twelve years ago at the age of 14, Grace V. Brown was left a homeless orphan in Parkersburg, W. Va. Today she is a WAC, a supply sergeant in the Harmony Church WAC Detachment of the Infantry School at Fort Benning, and a mighty capable one at that.

But she wasn't a homeless girl when she enlisted in the Women's Army Corps. She was a successful business woman, a buyer in one of the larger department stores in Columbus, Ohio. That job, and a good one, she gave up to serve her country.

Until she joined the WACs, she had been a size-stacking engager in a tile concern, a reeler in a rayon company, a waitress, headwaitress, hostess, and a sales girl in a dress shop.

Her work as supply sergeant is reminiscent of her days as a salesgirl.

"My job," she says, "is to satisfy their every want in the matter of clothing. And catering to the whims and fancies of a woman are sort of trying at times."

"And is the customer still always right," she was asked.

"Well, yes, usually. Regardless of whether or not she is, there are some times we can't do anything about it. But I don't worry about losing a sale in the Army.

Staff. Sgt. Brown was never too much interested in men until she met a sergeant from the Academic Regiment at a regimental dance a few months ago. She's married now.

Final Outdoor Show Slated

'Hats Off' To Be At Post Oct. 25-30

"Hats Off," a rollicking, rhythmic revusical, produced by USO Camp Shows, opens Monday evening, October 25 at Gowdy Field and will tour the Post for six days.

In the cast of "Hats Off" are a number of outstanding theatrical personalities. Lynn Kirk, Diane Forrest, Jane Matthews, and Dorothy Brown are but a few of the big names that compose the talent roster of this production.

This presentation is the second Victory Unit to appear at Benning, and is the final outdoor stage attraction of the 1943 season.

The schedule of performances is as follows:

Monday, October 25, Gowdy Field, 8 p. m.; Tuesday, October 26, Gowdy Field, 8 p. m.; Wednesday, October 27, Theatre No. 7, Sand Hill, 7:30 p. m.; Thursday, October 28, Harmony Bowl, 8 p. m.; Friday, October 29, 3rd STR's amphitheatre, 8 p. m.; Saturday, October 30, Alabama area amphitheatre, 8 p. m.

176th Faces 300th In Sunday Battle

Star-Studded Infantry Elevens Expected To Play Before 20,000

The Infantry School's two super-charged gridiron machines will collide head-on Sunday afternoon at Doughboy Stadium when the 176th Spirits and 300th Sabers tie up in what promises to be one of the nation's most thrilling games of the year.

With every slot in both starting lineups manned by a former collegiate grid great, the Spirit-Saber clash promises a thrill-a-minute for the crowd of almost 20,000 that is expected to jam the stadium for the 2 o'clock kickoff.

Even though defeated last weekend by Georgia Tech and Southwestern Louisiana respectively, the 300th and 176th elevens gained a great deal of national prestige, inasmuch as their collegiate conquerors are both rated among the top clubs in the country.

As a result, Sunday's game although merely an intra-mural clash, is attracting nationwide attention. Several prominent sportswriters, in town for the Georgia-L. S. U. game in Columbus, are expected to attend the Doughboy Stadium affair, and have already stated that they consider the Benning game one of the tastiest dishes on the nation's week-end grid menu.

TITLE AT STAKE

Local honors will also be at stake when the star-studded infantry rivals line up for the kick-off, inasmuch as the result of the fuss may go a long way towards determining a 1943 Infantry School champ. The Sabers and Spirits will meet for an encore game in November, but both camps consider this Sunday's affray of prime importance in their title hopes.

Even though defeated on foreign fields last week-end, both the Sabers and the Spirits have gained one notable victory over outside talent. The 300th machine crushed Daniel Field, conqueror last week of Georgia's Bulldogs, by a 39-6 count two weeks ago, while the 176th opened its campaign with a rousing 7-7 win over South Carolina, which hasn't been defeated since.

On the home front, the Sunday rivals have appeared only once each, and that was against the 124th Gators, 1942 champs. The

See TIS, Page 7

Ration Book 4 To Be Issued On Oct. 22-23

School Staffs Will Handle New Coupons For Use Next Month

Ration Book No. 4 will be issued through facilities of the Fort Benning School for families and military personnel on separate rations living on the post, this Friday and Saturday, Oct. 22 and 23, it was announced today by Sgt. Louis Lipp, secretary of the Fort Benning branch of the Muscogee County Rationing Board.

Book No. 4 will become effective Nov. 1. The school will be kept open with a staff to help in filling out blanks and distributing the books, from 8:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. EWT, on Friday, and from 10 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. on Saturday.

HOURS ANNOUNCED

Military personnel who live in Columbus or vicinity may obtain the new book on Friday and Saturday from neighboring schools. City schools will issue books between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. Central War Time on Friday and from 9 a. m. to 12 noon, Central War Time on Saturday. County school will be open only on Friday, from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Central War Time.

Any adult member of the family

See RATION, Page 7

Bayonet Bond Contest Shifts Into High Gear

The Bayonet is pleased to announce that it is able to add an extra $25 War Savings Bond and a $5 stamp to the list of prizes to be awarded in the Silver Anniversary contest; the funds to be provided by an anonymous donor. The bond will be awarded to soldier or WAC submitting the best poster promoting the idea of giving war bonds for Christmas gifts this year. The $5 stamp will be awarded as second prize.

Come on, all you G. I. poets, prose writers, and cartoonists, six beauty United States War Savings Bonds (like Pirandello's six characters in search of an author) are waiting in our vault for some half dozen of you to adopt them.

All you have to do to become a potential parent of one of these bonds is to take your pen and india ink or your typewriter and draw a comic (gag) or serious (editorial) cartoon (all cartoons in black and white), or write an editorial, a feature story, a short piece of fiction, or even a short one-act play.

The prize-winning offerings together with honorable mentions will be published on November 11 in the Bayonet's giant issue commemorating the Silver Anniversary of the founding of Fort Benning.

Copy and pictures for the Bayonet annual are already flowing steadily into our office, and to judge by the advance material coming in, the big issue should be a prize-winner in itself.

November 4 has been set as the dead-line for the receipt of all contest material, but the sooner you get in your entry the better. All you have to do is to produce and then turn your contribution marked "contest" over to your Public Relations Officer with the request that it be routed through channels to us. Everyone wearing a service uniform is eligible to enter the contest with the exception of the several public relation office staffs scattered about the post.

So come on and join us. The exertion of just a little effort may bring you either a $50 or a $25 bond. If you are talented both in writing and drawing, you may win two bonds. If you have an idea, transcribe it to paper tonight! Don't put it off. Have we made ourselves clear? Good. HACTION!!!

Post Makes 552 Donations

Drawing a record amount of blood Friday, 212 pints, the Red Cross mobile blood donor unit which came to Fort Benning last week, completed its visit with a total of 552 donations for the three-day period.

Volunteers from the 7th Armored Division furnished the first 170 pints of body fluid for plasma on Wednesday, and were followed by The Infantry School on Thursday, which likewise contributed 170 pints.

On Friday 60 civilian employes from different offices on the post contributed. These were followed by 30 volunteers from the 11th Company, Third Battalion, Sixth Training Regiment, ASTP. The remainder of the day's quota was filled by soldiers of the 515th Parachute Infantry Regiment.

Ralph J. Mitchell, local field director of the Red Cross, said that Friday's donation of 212 pints represented the largest amount ever drawn during a single day by this particular mobile unit, and that Mrs. J. B. Suttles, in charge of the unit, was highly pleased with results at Benning.

He added that the unit would return to the post December 15-16-17, at which time it was planned to set the quota up to 240 pints per day, which is the maximum possible, since the blood must reach Cincinnati laboratories within 24 hours.

FUND GIFTS MOUNT

Fort Benning's contributions to the National War Fund are mounting as organizations of military and civilian personnel on the post report collections daily to General Chairman Walter S. Fulton, former commanding general of the post and now serving as chairman of the drive in Muscogee County.

Post participation in the National War Fund will conclude on Monday although much of the money which is being pledged to the campaign will not be forthcoming until organizations pay days in the first of November.

Among the first reports are contributions among officer and civilian employe groups on the post. An overall indication of the contributions of enlisted personnel will not be announced until next Monday when organization commanders will make their reports.

At least two groups of civilians employed on the post have reported contributions by 100 per cent of the employes. All of the civilians employed in the quartermaster office and all of those employed in the commissary have contributed to the War Fund which will benefit 17 war relief organizations.

A few reports have been received on enlisted personnel participation, one being from an artillery battalion in the Infantry School which has, to date, contributed $232. Two companies at the Reception Center have reported, one contributing $82.43 and the other $70.77. Officers at the Reception Center have donated $232 but that figure is not complete, according to Col. Ulric N. James, commanding officer of the installation.

"The initial reports from Fort Benning are most gratifying," Gen. Fulton stated yesterday. He expressed his gratitude to enlisted and officer personnel as well as civilians at the post for having taken interest and action in the campaign.

A partial report of officer contributions in the Medical department, 100 per cent complement, turned in by Maj. D. E. Fisher, disclosed they had contributed $666.85, an average gift of $8.24 per officer. A similarly outstanding record was obtained in the Finance Division as Capt. S. G. Harris de-

See FUND, Page 7

The Old Maestro

1891-1943

Ben Bernie, the Old Maestro, died Wednesday at his Beverly Hills home, after a long illness. The epitome of the great service being rendered their country by members of his calling, Bernie disregarded his physician's orders to meet engagements he had contracted to entertain workers in the nation's war plants. To him and his memory the Bayonet awards its own Legion of Merit.

Sabers Rated As 17th In Nation By Williamson

The 300th lost to Georgia Tech but it did them no harm to play a nationally known college.

In the Williamson Ratings, a well-known football dope chart appearing in most papers throughout the country, the 300th is listed this week in place No. 27 with Georgia Tech occupying the No. 11 spot.

The Sabers find themselves rated well above such famous colleges as Ohio State, Tulane, Miami, Marquette, Illinois and Georgia.

No telling where they would have landed if they had knocked over the Yellow Jackets!

Ex-Tobacco Auctioneer Perplexes Barracks Mates By Talking In His Sleep

Talking in one's sleep is nothing unusual for a group of candidates experiencing a second week of bewilderment at The Infantry School. It has been diagnosed by local medics as a common affliction knows as the "GTs." Members of the second platoon of the 14th Company, Third Student Training Regiment, however, were recently aroused from their slumber by the strange, intelligible mumblings of Candidate Robert "Chuck" Click of Johnson City, Tennessee.

No common post bed-time moaning was his. Barracks linguists scratched their heads in amazement. Candidates recently returned from oversear could not recall a similar native dialect. Alas, Candidate Julie Goell from Brooklyn was forced to admit it was not the lingo of an outlaying district in "Greenpernt." A hasty symposium identified the mutterings as that of an expectant father reading a back-azimuth with a wad of taffy in both jaws.

Under cross-examination by his stymied mates the following morning, Click blushingly admitted that his mumblings might have been a bit unusual since he had spent some time in civilian life working as a TOBACCO AUCTIONEER. A stellar athlete from Tennessee State, Click confessed tobacco auctioneering as his first love—even over football. He recalls, with a sigh of nostalgia his happy days chanting at auctions throughout Carolinas under the tutelage of Joe Cottrell, colorful leather-lung of the trade.

"Chuck" lists the advantages of the profession: work for five days a week, seven months a year, and what's more, no GTs to worry about. His secret ambition at OCS is to mix his tobacco chant with a cadence count at a sion. His secret fear—a nearby tactical bidder with a black book.

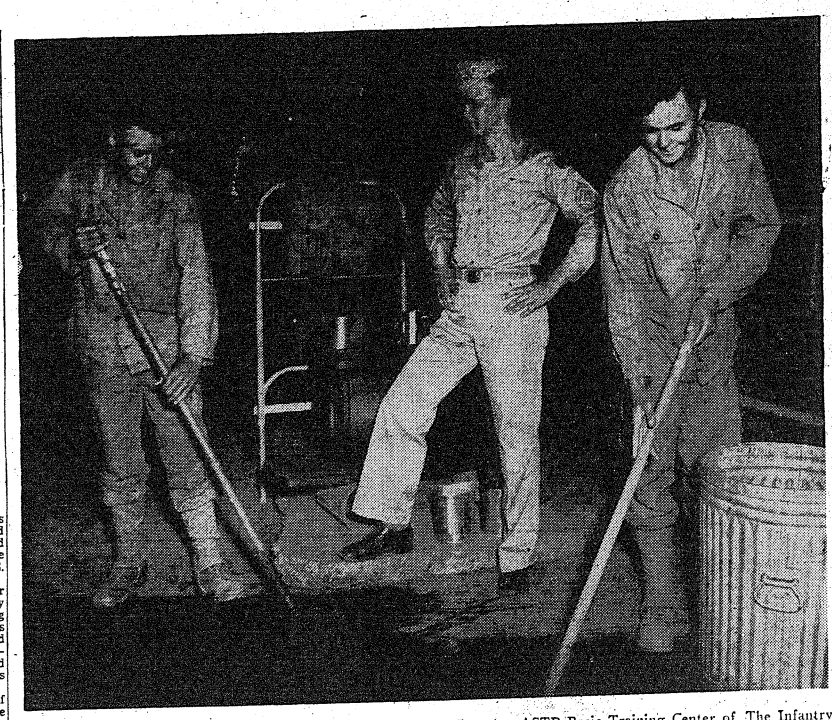
Luckies Stage Formal Review

Hundreds of stalwart soldiers of the "Lucky Seventh" attached to Combat Command "B" staged their finest formal review to date last week before Col. Thomas E. Winstead on Tiger Field.

In speaking to his men after the review, Maj.-Gen. Lindsay MacDonald Silvester, commanding general, told his men that he was proud of the showing they had made on the field. He also complimented the troops on their good behavior of the past few weeks in town.

One of several in a series of weekly reviews, Saturday's parade marked the first formal appearance of the new Seventh Armored Military band under the direction of Warrant Officers Marvin C. Howe and Robert B. Cantrick of the Thirty-first Armored Battalion.

FULTON SPEAKS



Brig.-Gen. Walter S. Fulton, retired commander of Fort Benning and publicity chairman of the local National War Fund drive, made a brief appeal to the sons of the Seventh after the review.

Speaking as one soldier to another, General Fulton was introduced by Major-General Silvester, who described him as a man who wanted to "go instead of whoa" in referring to his recent retirement after 45 years of service to his country.

In making his plea for the National War Fund with its 17 affiliated organizations, the former post commander stressed particularly the wonderful work of the USO, both at home and abroad.

He also touched briefly on the need for financial support to carry on the good work through the fund to Russia, China, Greece and other countries.

With the division commander and General Fulton on the reviewing stand were Brig.-Gens. John B. Murphy and John B. Thompson, commanding combat teams "A" and "B," respectively.

ONE OF THESE MOP WIELDERS is Joseph Riggs of the 5th Company ASTP Basic Training Center of The Infantry School. The other is James Riggs, his twin brother in the sa me company. But for the life of him, S. Sgt. Claud R. Owen, mess sergeant, can't tell them apart. For a time he thought "that Riggs boys is a terrific chow hound." Then he had his glasses changed but he still saw a lot of Riggs. His state of bewilderment ended when he discovered they were identical twins. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

TIS Company Averages 94 Pct. On GT

Infantry School students—advanced students, especially—know what graded tests are. Weight has been lost and hairs turned grey in hours of ceaseless preparation to pass the dreaded "G. T." But the 6th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, seems to have found the solution, and from all indications it must be the elusive "school solution."

Although under way only a few weeks, the company's Officers Advanced Class already shows promise of setting an enviable record. Lieutenant Colonel Howard E. Boyer, Student Company Commander, received commendations for the entire class upon the unusually high score attained in a recent graded test.

Wrote Colonel B. A. Byrne, Chief of The Infantry School's Communication Section: "I believe that it will be gratifying to you and to the members of your class to know that the grades attained by your class in the recent graded test in Signal Communication are the highest attained to date by any Advanced Class. Not only did the class average over 94 per cent, but the lowest papers were 'very satisfactory' and none was deficient.

"While it is not our intention that these tests shall be unduly difficult nor that the student shall be questioned upon anything but matters that should be common knowledge to an effective commander, they are, nevertheless, regarded as reasonably complete and the fact remains that the test given your class was essentially similar to all others, and the resultse described above appreciably higher. The Assistant Commandant has authorized me to inform you of this matter and authorizes you, in turn, to publish it to your class should you so desire."

There's no sign that the 6th Company intends to rest on its laurels. Another exam is on the way—that big test across the sea which WON'T be graded.

Lt. Cdr. Mal Stevens, former NYU grid coach, is grooming a stron, eleven at the Sampson (N. Y.) Naval Station. Big boy on his team is Frank Hrabetin, 6-foot 5-inch, 225-pound guard who played with the Philadelphia Eagles last year.

REPORTED MISSING IN ACTION in Guadacanal, Lt. Edward R. Neville of Lowell, Mass., finally survived his experiences in the brush and returned to the living. Now he's attending a Basic Class in the First Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School. Forty years ago, his father, an Army officer, was reported missing when a boat in which he was crossing Manila Bay to Corregidor, foundered. He swam ashore and managed to rejoin his outfit but not until after he had been reported as lost. Lt. Edward is shown observing mortar fire on Coolidge Range. (Official U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Middle East War Vet Joins TIS Class

West Point graduate Major Noel A. Menard has reported to The Infantry School from a wartime tour of duty in the Middle East, during which he helped supervise the new Allied bases in Eritrea.

Receiving his basic commission in Infantry from the United States Military Academy in 1937, Menard has also served as an officer of the Chemical Warware Service and the General Staff Corps. Here to attend the Officers Advanced Course, he's attached to the 15th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment.

Menard was born in Kankakee, Ill., graduating from high school there before receiving his appointment to West Point. At the Military Academy, says Menard, his principal interest was "learning to be a good soldier and officer."

His first assignment was a post familiar to many shovetails fresh from peacetime West Point—the Philippines, where he was an officer of the 31st Infantry, then stationed at Manila. Insular duty over, Menard was back in the States when Jap treachery thrust us into the war.

In March 1942 he sailed for Cairo to serve as plans and training officer on the staff of our Army forces in the Middle East. After completing a five-month course at the British Middle East staff school in Palestine, Menard assumed his duties in Eritrea, one-time Italian colony.

Key officers of the Chemical Warfare Service are periodically sent to The Infantry School, said Major Menard. This training is particularly valuable because chemical units they command closely support Infantry troops on the battlefields.

Cpl. Joe DiMaggio, pride and joy of the New York Yankees, has been promoted to Sergeant. He's still stationed at Santa Ana (Cal.) AAF in the physical fitness program.

Old Army Vehicles to Be Made Available to Public

1939 Or Older Models To Go On Sale, Post Salvage Officer States

In a move to aid the civilian economy in the present need for automobiles and trucks, the War Department today issued orders to remove from service all motor vehicles of the vintage of 1939 or older and to place them on sale to civilians.

Fort Benning authorities immediately requested all organizations to submit reports as to the number of trucks and automobiles that will be made available under this plan, already partially in effect at the Post where many trucks have been made available to help farmers and others.

NO JEEPS

No jeeps will be available to the public, it was said by Lt. Robert E. McLean, ordnance automotive property officer and Capt. Herman E. Klein, post salvage officer.

Capt. Klein explained that vehicles listed as unserviceable have been sold for the past five months through the salvage office to help relieve civilian needs insofar as possible.

A radiogram from the Chief of Ordnance received at Fort Benning, instructed post authorities to remove from service, both serviceable and unserviceable vehicles, models 1939 or older, as rapidly as possible. Serviceable machines, however, must be retained in service until replacements are available. It is expected to clear all of them by Jan 31, 1944.

A survey of the old vehicles was ordered by Lt. McLean. He then delivers to the salvage officer all vehicles available to the public. Capt. Klein's office then offers them for sale by means of invitations for bids. All sales are by sealed bids, and automobiles and trucks will be disposed of to the highest bidder on each vehicle. All existing O. P. A. regulations in force on the date of sale will govern the sale, it was emphasized.

MAILING LIST

Civilians interested in securing a vehicle may write to the Post Salvage Officer, Fort Benning, Ga., requesting that they be placed on the mailing list for the sale of such vehicles. They will then be notified of subsequent sales and given an opportunity to inspect all that are offered for sale. All vehicles are to be sold "as is" and "where is," Capt. Klein said, without warrantees or guarantees of any kind.

He explained that several hundred persons already are on mailing lists. County agents within the immediate vicinity are always notified of sales of this type as well as others that may interest farmers, who are given an opportunity to purchase vehicles to assist them in the marketing of their crops.

Almost 100 vehicles of various description are expected to be made available within the next few weeks and, more probably will follow when the complete survey has been made. At the same time, with other posts in the country going through the same process, several thousands of vehicles are expected to be made available to civilians.

Class, Co Share Honors

"Gold, gold!" shouted the 19th Company's Enlisted Motor Course students, receiving official word they had earned the Gold Ribbon for march discipline, presented by the 4th Battalion (Enl.), 1st Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School. It was the very morning Colonel John L. Althouse of their battalion received the Purple Heart for gallantry in action.

For march discipline of both Enlisted Motor and Communication classes, the 4th Battalion awards a series of ribbons—the Red first, White, and then Blue. Last and highest honor is the coveted Gold Ribbon.

Gold streamers glinted from the guidon of the Enlisted Motor Course in Captain Eugene C. Worden's 19th Company as they marched to class under a morning sun. And their heads were higher, their backs straighter, than ever before.

CAPTAIN McFADYEN

First Lt. Wayne R. McFadyen, commanding officer of the 283rd Quartermaster Refrigeration company at Fort Benning, has been promoted to captain. Formerly employed by Armour and Co. in Boston, Mass., Captain McFadyen entered service in February, 1941. Rising through the ranks, he attended OCS at Camp Lee, Va., and took command of the 283rd QM company in September, 1942. He was promoted to first lieutenant in February, 1943.

So Y... Of a...

To this second s... articles designed to ...ers with their ... of a Detail of the ... liam R. Stels of Th... takes up the func... Judge Advocate. In ... Lieutenant Stels, w... officer for the Thi... ing Regiment, deal... of a junior member... succeeding articles ... work of the defense ... dent of the Court.

I don't know ... in for things li... articles. My ch... apparently, is th... desk to the Publi... cer. Thus he can... these extra duties ... ing can't help me ... with No. 2 in my...

Let us now pr... been appointed a... vocate to a court... therefore, are kno... cution and the b... prosecution to pr... reasonable doubt ... dence that the of... was committed. ... committed it, the... exquisite criminal... the accused is wi... tion of the court.

That burden ... without bias, pre... ity. Your ability t... den will be gain... study and experi... much for you al... less than two vo... I shall attempt t... of the steps you ... carrying the burd...

The place to s... orders appointing ... extra copy of the... them note the te... and organization ... of the court an... paste this infor... manila folder and ... in big red letteh, ... get your cases pl... folder.

SECOND STEP

The next step ... eral cards, place ... little larger, and ... card for each ... court. Your pr... have to be perfe... ciated. While you ... gather up a suff... scratch pads and ... each member of ... amply provided w... saries. Put the p... and pencils in a ... which you will k... your TJA folder.

By this time ... properly endorse... to you your first ... the President of ... ask his preferenc... time to hold the ... a question regard... to be worn in th... with him then.

Now remove ... charge sheet, one ... pected testimony ... any other pertin... deliver them to the ... sel, advising him ... place and uniform ... While you are ... serve one copy ... sheet on the acc... cate and intervie...

DINE WINE AND BE MERRY in ATLANTA'S NEWEST and FINEST SUPPER CLUB

Bill Cooper
His Piano and Soloves

Featuring the Best
Steaks & Chops
Seafood & Fried Chicken
AND OF COURSE
Wine & Champagne & Beer
PEACHTREE at ELLIS
OPEN 12 TO 12
SUNDAY DINNER
TO 10 P. M.

Myra's Beauty Shop
Opening under new management MONDAY, SEPT. 27th.
305 Murrah Bldg.
Phone 3-1097
Elevator Service

For Benning's Men of Action
Rich's
OFFICERS' UNIFORMS
Winter uniforms to provide you with unlimited service, expertly tailored to suit your many needs! They're especially designed to give you extra comfort in action and to stand up under long, hard wear!
Elastique Blouse 32.50
Elastique Pants 12.00
Rich's Military Store
1256 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

For Pianos and Musical Merchandise See
HUMES CO.
1219 Broadway

CHEROKEE GRILL
Endorsed by Duncan Hines in 1943 edition of "Adventures in Good Eating"
Southern Cooking in Southern Atmosphere with Southern Hospitality.
Commencing October 1st
Dinner—Every evening from 5:00 to 8:00
Lunch—Sundays only: 12 Noon to 2 P. M.
914 Broadway—Inside the White Picket Fence
ALL SOLDIERS ARE WELCOME
*Notice change in serving hours.

Good Barbecued Chicken Found Here
The "New" Linwood Steak Shop
1206 Linwood Blvd.
Ted Lyons, New Prop. Ph. 9594

QUARTER TAXI
DIAL 3-4447
"24-HOUR SERVICE"

Highest Cash Prices For Used Cars
PHILLIPS MOTOR CO.
PHONE 3-6553
1419 1st STREET

MEET YOUR BUDDIES at the
Eagle Army Store
Headquarters For
OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN
Uniforms and Military Supplies
1018 BROADWAY

STEVENS The House of Fine WEDDING STATIONERY
Invites your inquiry when considering the purchase of Engraved Stationery, Wedding Invitations, Announcements, Reception Cards, Informals, Monogrammed Note Paper, Anniversary Invitations, Visiting Cards. Samples and prices submitted upon request.
J. P. STEVENS ENGRAVING CO
110 PEACHTREE STREET · ATLANTA · GEORGIA

The Sarge Knows His Wactics, Jah!

Sergeant Marion O. Anderson, Enlisted Motor Course student in the 1st Student Training Regiment's 20th Company, commanded by Captain Dale K Johnson, believes in meeting his little woman half way.

Before Pearl Harbor the couple dwelt happily in Mankato, Minn. Came war, and Anderson joined the 289th Infantry, Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., whence he was sent to The Infantry School. His wife donned WAC uniform and is now stationed at Camp Forrest, Tenn.

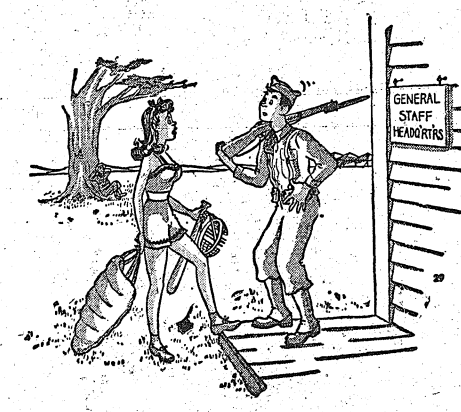
Both received passes last week-end. The martial mates spent their Sunday together in Atlanta, Ga.

What was to be the scene of a happy marriage between a soldier and his sweetheart in Cliffside Park, N. J., was promptly changed into one of woe when the prospective bridegroom's furlough was cancelled on the eve of the great day — and two of the ushers were drafted.

Change Made In Basic Center Administration

Col. Wilson McK. Spann, commanding officer, ASTP, basic training center, announced late last week that orders had been received directing that the basic training center at Fort Benning deal directly with Replacement and School Command, Army Ground Forces, Birmingham, Ala., and the commanding officer of Fort Benning.

This relieves The Infantry School of the duties incident to an intermediate headquarters; however, the commandant of The Infantry School will continue to coordinate all activities of the basic training center.



Routing of all administrative details will be direct to headquarters Replacement and School Command instead of being routed through The Infantry School. This is in accordance with the policy of speeding up administrative procedure throughout the army.

Colonel Spann expressed his appreciation at the assistance rendered by The Infantry School in the organization and operation of the training center from its activation to date.

SEVERAL STARS

Players who have shown up well in early season practice and who are expected to make good showings in the opening game are Howard Hewett, Akron, Ohio, flash, who was selected on the All-Conference team as an end; Clarence Jones, center, who was captain of the Lane College team that played in Columbus' Memorial Stadium last year year; Robert Lawson, quarterback, and high schoolstar from Louisville, Ky., and big Robert Johnson, 200-pound tackle from Oklahoma, who will be one of the bulwarks in a line averaging some 190 pounds.

AS YOU WERE with Hart Schaffner & Marx

"But, Jonathan—the Colonel promised me a job if I'd play ball with him!"

That's all hooey, Jonathan. Take her on yourself. She's like a Hart Schaffner & Marx suit... better than she looks.

The adventures of Pvt. Jonathan Joop appear regularly in this space. Watch for this feature!

So You're a Member Of a Court-Martial

In this second of a series of four articles designed to acquaint young officers with their duties as members of a Detail of the Court, Lieut. William B. Steis of The Infantry School, takes up the functions of the Trial Judge Advocate. In last week's article, Lieutenant Steis, who is investigating officer for the Third Student Training Regiment, dealt with the duties of a junior member of the court. In succeeding articles, he will outline the work of the defense counsel and President of the Court.

I don't know why I let myself in for things like writing these articles. My apparently is the nearness of my desk to the Public Relations Officer. Thus he can haunt me into these extra duties. But this griping can't help me now so here goes with No. 2 in my series.

Let us now presume you have been appointed a Trial Judge Advocate to a court martial. You, therefore, are known as the prosecution and the burden is on the prosecution to prove beyond a reasonable doubt by relevant evidence that the offense in question was committed, that the accused committed it, that he had the requisite criminal intent and that the accused is within the jurisdiction of the court.

That burden you must carry without bias, prejudice or hostility. Your ability to carry this burden will be gained only through study and experience. I can't do much for you along that line in less than two volumes. However, I shall attempt to outline a few of the steps you will take while carrying the burden.

The place to start is with the orders appointing you. Take an extra copy of those orders and on them note the telephone number and organization of each member of the court and counsel. Now paste this information inside a manila folder and label this folder in big red letter, TJA. When you get your cases place them in this folder.

SECOND STEP

The next setep is to secure several cards, place-card size or a little larger, and make a place-card for each member of the court. Your printing does not have to be perfect to be appreciated. While you are at it, also gather up a sufficient number of scratch pads and pencils so that each member of the court will be amply provided with these necessaries. Put the place cards, pads and pencils in a large envelope which you will keep with you in your TJA folder.

By this time the adjutant has properly endorsed and forwarded to you your first case. So, call on the President of the Court and ask his preference for a place and time to hold the trial. If you have a question regarding the uniform to be worn in the court settle it with him then.

Now remove one copy of the charge sheet, one copy of the expected testimony and one copy of any other pertinent matter and deliver them to the defense counsel, advising him of the time, place and uniform for the trial. While you are on your travels serve one copy of the charge sheet on the accused. Then locate and interview your witnesses and instruct them as to the time, place and uniform for the trial.

Next you will arrange for the accused and stenographer to be present and communicate with all other members of the court and advise them as to the time, place and uniform for the trial.

It is now time for your final study of the case and while you are doing this, have sufficient copies of the charges and specifications typed so that you can present one to each member of the court. If convenient, and it should be convenient, list on those copies the proof required for each charge as outlined by the manual.

GOOD BOOKS

Two little books that you must have heard of by this time are The Outline of Procedure for Trials Before Courts-Martial, U. S. Army and A Manual for Courts-Martial, U. S. Army. Secure the latest editions of each and spend all possible time studying them. You'll wish you had weeks before the date of trial instead of the maximum five days.

Finally the day of trial arrives so you are in the courtroom sufficiently early to see that the furniture is properly arranged. Have the prosecution's table on the right, the defense at left and the witness chair between them, directly in front of the court. Then open your envelope and arrange the place-cards as the court will be seated. Seat the President in the middle, the next ranking officer on his right, the third ranking officer at his left, and alternating right to left down to the junior officer. Before each officer place a copy of the specifications and proof and scratch pad and pencil.

Now all you have to do before trial is to check that the accused, the stenographer and all witnesses arrive on time. The members of the court will be on time. THEY ARE NEVER LATE.

Your duties are not over when the verdict and sentence are rendered. You are the officer who must see that the record is complete, signed by yourself and then examined and signed by the defense counsel and President of the Court. Finally you deliver the results to the adjutant, who speeds them on their way to the reviewing authority.

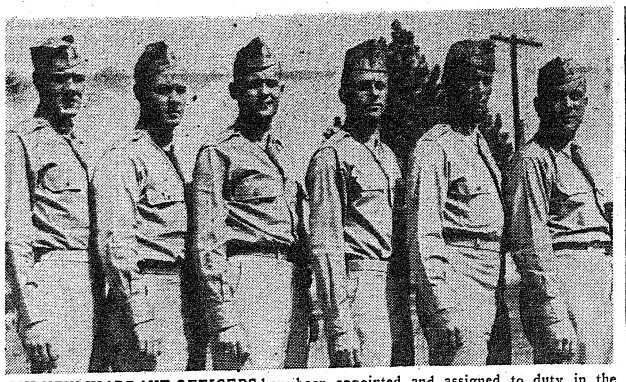
By Lieut. William B. Steis
Investigating Officer,
3rd Student Training Regiment

1st STR Unit Digs Deep For War Loan Drive

According to figures released by Colonel John S. Roosma, Commanding Officer of the 1st Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School, a member of the 8th Company purchased a small fortune in war bonds during the recent drive —$23,000 worth! This hefty block of securities swelled the total for Captain Chester Hanover's company to $34,873.30, or $184 per capita.

Best showing in the entire regiment, this group's efforts are nevertheless typical of the "digging down deep" that put the 1st S. T. R. on top as the Third War Loan reached a successful close Of the $493,332 in bonds taken by all The Infantry School units, the 1st was the first with $231,148.

Heavy cash purchases by the 8th and other companies in the regiment's 2nd Battalion, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Irving Lehrfield, brought its total to $82,553.30 in U. S. war bonds. This doesn't include Dominion securities for which French officers in the 12th Company, residents of Canada, paid $7,150.



Suffer the little children

Of all Greek children born since 1940, less than one in seventy is alive today because of the starvation conditions in that country. Your help is desperately needed. Let your heart decide what you should give. Then DOUBLE your contribution. Give now to the National War Fund — through your own community campaign.

NATIONAL WAR FUND

Kinnett Dairies

SIX NEW WARRANT OFFICERS have been appointed and assigned to duty in the Communication Section of The Infantry School. All were members of Company A. Academic Regiment. Pictured above, they are, left to right, Fred R. Greenwood, Philadelphia; Thomas W. Gloystein, Cincinnati; Irving R. Stannard, Hamden, Conn.; Alvon O. Sweet, Putnam, Conn.; B. B. Phillips, Vidalia, Ga. and Sherman G. Swink, China Grove, N. C. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

63 Luckies Qualify With Tommy-Gun

Sixty-three enlisted men and three officers qualified as expert gunners with the Thompson Submachine Gun on "Lucky 7th" Armored division firing ranges last week in the 40th Tank Battalion.

Pfc. Reno E. Johnson and Sgt. John D. Miller of Co. B shared top scoring honors in the battalion with records of 94 each. The names of 61 other men in the battalion qualified as experts are:

Bn. Headquarters and Headquarters Company—Pvt. Charles W. Stanley, Pfc. Ulus Duncan, T-5 Junius W. Crawley, Sgt. Leo Gerzewski, T-5 James A. Tootle, Sgt. Edward D. Spiers, Pfc. George D. Robinson and 1st Lt. Harvey Karlen.

Bn. Service Co.: Sgt. Lt. John T. Crumley, Sgt. C. B. Kelly, T-5s Rodney T. Barrick, Earnest C. Knaub and Harry F. Leiker and Pvts. Edward W. McNew, Chester A. Thompson and Henry L. Wade.

Company "A": T-4s William V. Viteo, Charles W. Stout, Gordon E. Newth, Cpl. Miguel Ocasio; T-5s Gary C. Hand and John J. Falvey, Pfc. Herbert C. Delosh and Joseph Fecik and Pvts. Frederick J. Neckley, Forrest Thrift, and James Gunville.

Company "B": Sgt. George J. Breen, T-4s Edward F. Demers and Leonard J. Hutchins; Cpls. William T. Holt, Marshall F. Jones and Emilio F. Vernucci; T-5s Daniel J. Granier and Frederick Keil, and Pfcs. Winfred S. Ownby and Don D. Sharp.

Company "C": Capt. Roy W. Nelson; T-4 Stanley J. Kosta; Cpls. Osee J. Curtis, Nicholas N. Doti, Albert S. T. Evans, Thelma C. Gray, Norman C. Leiterman, John M. Michalik, Donald L. Osborne, and Odell Watkins; T-5s Edward F. Martaus, and Homer L. Thomas, Pfc. Ernest W. Mahaney; and Pvts. Kenneth M. Allen, Audie Ballanger, Robert D. Blade.

Company "D": S-Sgt. Edward D. Horn, Sgt. Sidney L. Fishman, Cpl. Edward L. Mukhalian, T-5 Robert E. Gregory, Pfc. Harry P. Chaney, and Pvts. James L. Connelly and Roy L. Bickers.

WACs in North Africa want vitamin pills and calcium tablets for Christmas. The vitamin pills are needed "to offset the depressing climate," a WAC officer explained, and the calcium is to make up for the lack of milk here.

A resolution increasing by $18,620,000 the amount of funds available for the Government emergency maternity aid program has been signed by President Roosevelt. The program provides medical and hospital care for the wives and infants of enlisted men in the lowest four grades in all services.

JUST BEFORE the 4th battalion of the First Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School marched off to its classes the other morning, a guard of honor picked from its ranks, marched in review past Lt. Col. John L. Althouse (right) of Waterloo, Iowa, who had been decorated with the Purple Heart. The decoration, for wounds received in action in North Africa last December, was presented by Col. Robert H. Lord, former commander of the Student Training Brigade who is now serving as acting Inspector of The Infantry School. Col. Lord is shown pinning on the medal. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

Woman's Club

By KATHERINE HAMMARGREN

Continuing its policy of securing several instructive and entertaining lecturers throughout the club year, the Fort Benning Woman's Club has arranged for Dr. Franz J. Polgar to speak Monday, November 1, at 3 p. m. EWT. The lecture promises to be so popular that the Main Theatre has been engaged to accommodate those who wish to attend. The meeting will be open to the public, and tickets to non-members will be sold in the lobby of the theatre.

Dr. Polgar, widely known for his amazing demonstrations of telepathy, memory feats, and the power of suggestion, has given over 1,100 programs in the past three years. His fascinating, novel subject matter should prove a refreshing diversion. One of Sigmund Freud's pupils, Dr. Polgar has had wide experience as a hypnotist in hospitals and criminology work in Europe.

Dr. Polgar, a native of Hungary, came to the United States in 1933 and became a citizen of the United States last year. Since he came to this country he has lectured before numerous educational groups such as Town Halls in Detroit, San Francisco, Portland, Fort Worth, and the Brooklyn Academy of Sciences. He has also been lecturer yearly at sixty colleges and universities.

Basically scientific in character, Dr. Polgar's program is designed both for education and entertainment. His superb showmanship, combined with a sincere and affable personality, make his lectures doubly fascinating.

The first meeting of the Current Events Group of the Woman's Club should also prove of unusual interest. Colonel William H. Hobson, commanding officer of Fort Benning, will give a talk on his experiences overseas. The meeting will be held Monday, October 25, at 2 p. m. in the ladies' lounge of the Officers' Club, and is open to all members of the Woman's Club and to all officers.

Col. Hobson has recently returned from an overseas mission which took him to West Africa, the entire Mediterranean area, Iceland and England.

HOLLAND TRANSFERRED

1st Lieutenant George P. Holland, whose home is in Santa Barbara, California, has been transferred to the 23rd Company, 1st Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School.

If a soldier is taken ill while on furlough, he should report at once to the nearest Army hospital for treatment. His furlough ceases automatically once he is hospitalized, but he may resume it when he is discharged from the hospital: If there is no hospital in his home town area, the soldier should go to the nearest civilian hospital. The bill will be paid by a special fund maintained by the Surgeno General.

TIS Tells It To The Marines

"Tell it to the Marines" is becoming almost as much an Infantry School slogan as "Follow Me." The school is telling it to the leathernecks, and they seem to like it.

Each Officers Communication Course has long had its half-score of shavetails, fresh from Quantico —or the shores of Tripoli. And now Harold C. Howard, major in the Regular Marine Corps, has reported here to the officers advanced class at The Infantry School. He's attached to the 15th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment.

In the United States since August after 21 months in Brazil, Major Howard finds a course a comprehensive review of the principles of close combat, as essential to Marines as to Infantrymen. "Here an officer learns the latest ways of fighting and the most effective methods to pass this information on to troops. Instruction at The Infantry School is intensely practical," he declared.

The Major, whose home is in Patterson, N. J., enlisted in the Marines in 1935 and completed a four-year hitch. In March 1937 he took part in beach-head maneuvers. Storming an "enemy held" islet off the California coast, his detachment rehearsed the drama that the Corps is playing again and again in the South Pacific.

Having been appointed second lieutenant, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve in 1939, he was in charge of a Marine detachment flown to Brazil December 15, 1941, to protect American interests. Major Howard remained on duty with our South American ally until he returned to Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C., on August 9 last.

3d Regiment Unit 100 Per Cent In Bonds

A 100 per cent record for bond and insurance allotments has been hung up in Company C of the Service Battalion, 3rd Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School, commanded by Capt. Jack D. West. The men are insured to the full hilt with National Service Life Insurance and every member of the company has authorized deductions from his pay for the purchase of War Bonds.

The 201 enlisted men in the company are purchasing insurance of a total valuation of $2,010,000, while the deductions for bonds aggregate $1,013.25 a month. Captain West, the company's only officer, rounds out the perfect record with his $10,000 insurance policy and purchase of one bond a month.

It has been computed that more than 50 per cent of the company's payroll goes into deductions for Classes E, E, F, and N allotments.

That the company definitely is in a soldierly groove is shown by the fact that 80 of the men have received the Good Conduct Medal. The separate cadres, moreover, often have been commended by the OC company commanders whose companies they serve.

The company likes to "point with pride" to the high caliber of its personnel, two specific examples being their first sergeant Joseph A. Edward, who was principal of Booker T. Washington High School in Montgomery, Ala., before entering the Army, and the company clerk, Cpl. Rondell H. Rhodes, who was professor of biology at Morris College in Sumter, S. C.

Seventy-five per cent of the personnel come from Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and South Carolina. Other states represented are New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Illinois, California, North Carolina, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Florida, Missouri, and Virginia.

4 Chutofficers Raised In Rank

Four promotions of officer of higher ranks were announced today by headquarters of The Parachute School.

Heading the list was Major Alton R. Taylor, who was raised to lieutenant-colonel, and Captain Robert B. Ellis, raised to major. At the same time First Lieutenants John J. McTiernan and Beryl D. Taylor received their captain's bars.

Colonel Taylor, now director of parachute training, is a veteran parachutist, being a member of the original 501st Parachute Battalion, organized in summer, 1940. He is a reserve officer and reported for duty in August, 1939, from his home town, Greenwood, Miss.

School supply officer is Major Ellis, who has been on duty since November, 1940. He is a native of Maxwell, Texas, and a graduate of San Marcos College. In civilian life he was employed as a topographical engineer by the U. S. Geological Survey.

Captain McTiernan, "B" stage leader, is a native of Bridgeport, Conn., and a graduate of Syracuse University. In civilian life he was football coach at Manlius Military Academy, N. Y., and has been in service since November, 1940.

The other officer promoted, Captain Beryl Taylor, is parachute maintenance officer of the school.

A graduate of the Citadel Military College, Charleston, S. C., Captain Taylor worked as an electrical engineer in civilian life. He is a native of St. Louis, Mo., and entered service in April 1942.

Heir-Raid

Compiled by Cpl. R. Knaub
11-17 OCT. '43

Captain and Mrs. Gabriel Carucci, Med. Det., 124th Infantry, boy, Oct 11.
1st Lt. and Mrs. John M. Karlack, 1st Stud. Trng. Regt., girl, Oct. 12.
Pvt. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Good, Med. Det., Sch. I, girl, Oct. 12.
2nd Lt. and Mrs. Ross G. Taylor, Co. 5, 501st Pcht. Inf., girl, Oct. 12.
T-4 and Mrs. A. L. Bennett, Hq. Co., 656th Tank Bn., girl, Oct. 13.
1st Lt. and Mrs. Robert S. Moyer, 8th Co., 3rd STR, girl, Oct. 13.
S. Sgt. and Mrs. James M. Thompson, Cannon Company, 300th Inf., girl, Oct. 14.
Cpl. and Mrs. William Shenod, 14th Co., 1st STR, girl, Oct. 15.
Pvt. and Mrs. Edward McNamard, 1st Acad. Para. School, girl, Oct. 15.
Sgt. and Mrs. Weaklers, Acad. Co., Parachute School, girl, Oct. 15.
Cpl. and Mrs. George Wing, 18th Co., 1st STR, boy, Oct. 16.
1st Lt. and Mrs. William H. Bewick, Hq. Co., Pcht. School, boy, Oct. 16.
S. Sgt. and Mrs. A. P. Hemphill, Co. H., Acad. Regt., girl, Oct. 17.
S. Sgt. and Mrs. John R. Stouch, Co. C, 164th Tank Bn., Regt., boy, Oct. 17.

The base pay of an aviation cadet is $75 a month. He gets an allowance of $1 a day for subsistence.

Baker Village News

BY MRS. FRANCES LUTZ

It will be of particular interest to the new inhabitants of Baker Village and Benning Park Homes to know that this community is governed by the body consisting of a mayor, four commissioners and fifteen councilmen elected last July by the residents. Since the election, this governing body has been functioning regularly in handling numerous matters which concern the welfare of the community as a whole. The Council meets every two weeks at the Administration building, the next meeting being scheduled for October 26. All of these meetings are open to the public. As it is the purpose to serve those residing in the community they ask that you bring any suggestion to them. They are your officers so let them be of service to you.

TEEN AGERS

The teen age group met in the Auditorium on Monday, Oct. 18, to organize their group into a Young Peoples Club. The purpose of this organization is to carry on many activities of interest to this group. Mrs. DeLone met with this group as their sponsor.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Girl Scouts are meeting regularly now on Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 9 o'clock in the Auditorium. Six new members were added to the troop at the last meeting night. These girls were transfers from other troops. We are happy to welcome these new members to the troop. The Girl Scouts and Brownies are anxious to lend assistance to other organizations and are at the present time doing a grand job of selling War Savings Stamps and to date have to their credit for stamps sold in the two weeks period of $128.45. They are also collecting buttons for the Red Cross. These buttons are to be used on garments that are made by the Red Cross Workers. Buttons of various types can be used and we are asking the ladies of the community to collect what buttons they have and given them to one of the Girl Scouts or Brownies. In case a call is not made at your home and you have buttons to donate, contact Mrs. Lutz at the Recreation office or Mrs. Harolson at 28 Clifton Avenue.

Mrs. Gordon of 50 Clifton entertained a group of friends at the Auditorium on Saturday, October 16 and reports a fine time was had by all.

Calva Smith and a group of her friends gathered at the auditorium on Friday, Oct. 15, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Bridges and Mrs. Barnett. An evening of games and dancing provided the fun and merriment for the group.

BINGO PARTY

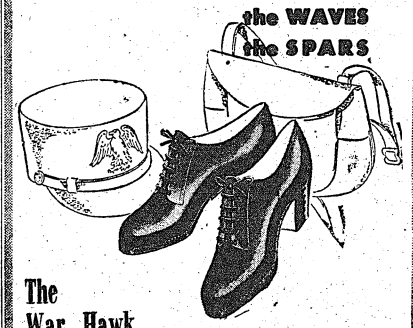
The regularly scheduled monthly Bingo party will be held in the Auditorium on Saturday, Nov. 6, at 8 o'clock (E. W. T.).

NURSERY SCHOOL

The Nursery School reports that they have room for a few more children and the newcomers to the community might be interested in entering their children. Ages of the children in the school range from two to six years. They are provided with fruit juices and hot lunches. At the present time the children are busily engaged in making jack-o-lanterns, and pumpkin faces in keeping with the Hallowe'en season. For further information concerning the Nursery School contact Hrs. Trapp or Mrs. Ray Simpson.

The new officers for the Mothers' Club of the Nursery School are as follows: president—Mrs. R. H. Simpson; vice president, Mrs. Arthur Partridge; secretary, Mrs. J. M. Cox; treasurer, Mrs. Howard Rolls.

The following is a list of newcomers to the community: Lt. and Mrs. Wayne E. Callis, 26 Barry; Lt. and Mrs. Robert C. Finch, 44 Benning Dr.; Lt. and Mrs. Russell C. Lopassa, 10 Benning Dr.; Lt. and Mrs. M. D. Stafford, 1115 Court; Lt. and Mrs. J. A. Lippold, 21 Barry; Lt. and Mrs. O. L. Hess, 43 Roper; Lt. and Mrs. Jacob Greenberg, 114 Fox; Lt. and Mrs. R. B. Holmes, 13 Allison; St. Sgt. and Mrs. F. C. Webb, 154 A; St. Sgt. and Mrs. H. L. Holcomb, 25 B; T. Sgt. and Mrs. Charles E. Myers, 105 C; St. Sgt. and Mrs. R. A. Driver, 73 A; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Bell, 60 D; St. Sgt. C. E. Bock, 110 B; T. Sgt. and Mrs. G. F. Ruben, 1 B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Linus F. Zender, 89 B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Alvin W. Wilker, 151 D; T. Sgt. and Mrs. Paul C. Yoby, 133 B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. J. R. McNeil, 15 A; T. Sgt. and Mrs. B. L. Sanford, 81 B; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Walker, 61 C; 1st Sgt. and Mrs. R. H. Lusk, 90 C; M. Sgt. and Mrs. C. T. Strahan, 112 A.



Levy-Morton Co.

Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps

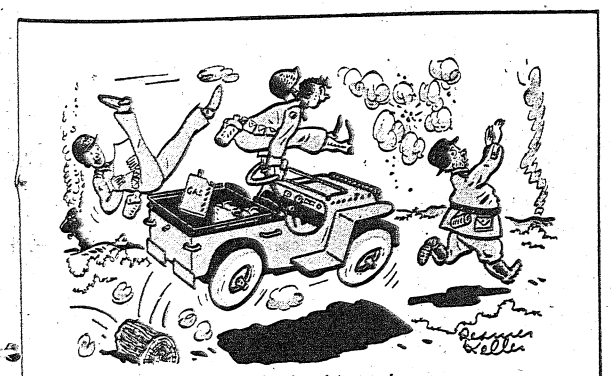
REPAIRS — DIAL 3-6391

1028—13TH STREET

SERVE in the shoe that serves the WAACs the WAVES the SPARS

The War Hawk

Today's active war-time, long-schedule day requires a shoe with "stamina" . . . a comfortable, utterly simple, serviceable oxford with a sole that will wear. Uppers of plump hand-boarded calfskin that mellow and glow with age and polishing. A wonderfully supple shoe that will serve you as capably as it serves its country as the "support" of women-in-uniform.



9.95 pr.

the Dutton

WOMEN'S SHOES
KIRVEN'S SECOND FLOOR

J. A. KIRVEN CO.
Your Complete Department Store

"Joe claims I enlisted just to be sure of getting Dyanshine Liquid Shoe Polish"

THE ENTIRE PRODUCTION OF DYANSHINE LIQUID SHOE POLISH IS NOW BEING SHIPPED TO OUR ARMED FORCES.

© 1943 - EASTERN MFG. CO.

Southern Manor
JIMMY THOMAS
SINGING MASTER OF CEREMONIES
PRESENTS
LILLIAN MURRAY — Comedian and Singer
MITZI — Dance Sensation
DE RUBYATTES — Novelty Acrobatic
DON CORTEZ
AND HIS ORCHESTRA
TEA DANCE SUNDAY AFTERNOON
4:30 to 6:30—No Cover—No Minimum Charge
2 SHOWS NIGHTLY
ENJOY FAMOUS SOUTHERN MANOR STEAK and CHICKEN
Southern Manor
JUNCTION OPELIKA AND MONTGOMERY HIGHWAYS

FORT BENNING BAYONET

The Benning Bayonet is published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

Member of Fort Benning Press Association

"The present joint struggle against our common foe—Hitlerite Germany and our Allies in Europe—will bring about closer collaboration of our countries in the postwar period in the interests of general peace."

—ANDREW A. GROMYKO, Soviet Ambassador to the United States.

Today 'Tis Clever To Be Dumb!!!

Responsibility rests upon each member of the Armed Forces to safeguard the military information which has been entrusted to him.

On the day of his induction, each soldier received information of military value concerning the American Army. Every day since that time, he has learned something new.

The military information which he has acquired is not his personal possession. It is an Army secret. As such it is not to be repeated or related to anyone.

Enemy agents were planted in this country years in advance of the outbreak of World War II. Under one guise or another, they were placed in key positions in different areas.

The German espionage system worked with three objects in view: (1) to cause those of German blood overseas to be loyal to Germany; (2) to secure intelligence reports from Germans overseas; and (3) to organize "fifth-column" activities and sabotage plans in the countries which were giving these enemy agents the benefit of protection.

Some of the foreign agents have been captured by government authorities, but others have not yet been caught and are even now plying their nefarious trade in this country.

These espionage agents maintain a keep lookout for seemingly unimportant, apparently unrelated bits of information. These they hope to gather from one place and another and to piece together until finally they have a picture of our plans and intentions.

The "Treatment of Silence" is a proper treatment for military and civilian personnel to give.

Let us remain silent on military matters and thereby frustrate the espionage agents in their hostile designs, at all points.

In the language of Edgar Guest, in a recent poem:

"If you know something, keep it mum!
Today it's clever to be dumb!"

A Prayer for Men In the Service

O Lord, since first the blood of Abel cried to thee from the ground that drank it, this earth of thine has been defiled with the blood of men shed by his brother's hand, and the centuries sob with the ceaseless horror of war. Ever the pride of kings and the covetousness of the strong has driven peaceful nations to slaughter. Ever the songs of the past and pomp of armies have been used to inflame the passions of the people. Our spirit cries out to thee in revolt against it, and we know that our righteous anger is answered by thy holy wrath.

Break thou the spell of the enchantments that make the nations drunk with the lust of battle and draw them on as willing tools of death. Grant us a quiet and steadfast mind when our own nation clamors for vengeance or aggression. Strengthen our sense of justice and our regard for the equal worth of other peoples and races. Grant to the rulers of nations faith in the possibility of peace through justice, and grant to the common people a new and stern enthusiasm for the cause of peace.

Bless our soldiers and sailors for their swift obedience and their willingness to answer to the call of duty, but inspire them none the less with a hatred of war, and may they never for love of private glory or advancement provoke its coming. May our young men still rejoice to die for their country with the valor of their fathers, but teach our age nobler methods of matching our strength and more effective ways of giving our life for the flag.

O thou strong Father of all nations, draw all thy great family together with an increasing sense of our common blood and destiny, that peace may come on earth at last, and thy sun may shed its light rejoicing on a holy brotherhood of peoples.

Amen.

W. Rauschenbusch

George Is Surprised By Hospital Efficiency

Well, gents, they finally got me in the hospital! I got one furnished room steam heated . . . within walking distance of tha bathroom!!! I wish me wife was that lucky . . . she's still living in that pigeon loft we got just by luck last week!

Lemme tell ya . . . this hospital life is terrific for a soldier . . . Ya don't do nuttin . . .!!! We is gettin soft and bulgy like a silk parachute . . . Which reminds me . . . most of me buddies is paratroopers . . . They is pretty nice guys . . . I would be just as happy iffen they put me in a boarding coop fer roosters.

We gets a new patient last week who was not a paryirooper . . . He sez a statement that the parytroopers is afraid o' anything whut crawls . . . even a measly fly. He shu'nt of said that I guess . . . tha parytroops got red like a Good Conduct Ribbon . . . imagine anybody saying that to a cloud hopper!!!

They was about to bust our hero . . . when good ol' Carter comes to tha rescue . . . Tha boys have nicked him with a tag . . . "malfunction" . . . Wall . . . malfunction sez he ain't going to church no more . . . All ears listened to Carters' sad story about going to church and when collection time comes up . . . The minister asked the service men in tha congregation to stand up . . . Carter was it! . . .

The good man said it was a fine thing that Carter was in church . . . and would he let the minister start off the collection with two dollars Carter sez he gave tha minister tha two bucks he had sneaked from his wife . . . So's he could maybe invest it in "alittle" game of "cubes" . . . But . . . he sez that the minister would put it to much better use . . . so he was just kiddin' about not going to church no more . . .

Then we got a guy what's nicked lightning' . . . . Don Loria is whut his mammy calls him . . . he's harder to move than a regt. L headquarters . . . He gets around slower than a electric meter during a blackout.

And I guess ya notice I don't say much about the nurses . . . we saw one the other day . . . she came thru our ward by mistake . . . She caused more darn excitement that a world series ball batted into tha stands . . .! but dammit she disappeared just as quick!!

We got a supply Sgt. named Carmichael . . . He! He busted his tibia (nope it ain't whar yer thinkin) . . . He busted it kicking a match box out of tha supply room . . . That's our story . . . tain't his'n . . .! . . . He claims he got it when a two and a half tonner rolled over his tootsie . . . He is more cracked than a deserted farmhouse. . .!

It is good to see ol' Carmichael sweep and mop his own stall . . . we think he does as much work as rain hittin' a greenhouse . . .!!

Well, sir . . . I jest can't leave ya without saying a word about the excellent staff of doctors we got . . . no kiddin . . . I was surprised 'cause this is me first time in a hospital . . . and I wasn't so sure about tha good things said . . . but they are sure doin wonders with guys like me . . . How'd I get in here? . . . oh, I jest tole me foist Sgt. He wasn't big enuff to do it . . . heh, heh.

Cpl. George Johnston.
22nd Co., 1st STR

Sound Families One Sure Defense For America

Congress has decided to follow the best military judgment in the matter of drafting fathers. The whole discussion has had a positive value far beyond the immediate issue of whether the family provider should be taken into the Army or not. It has focussed our attention on the importance of homes in the fight to preserve the American way of life.

The sound home is the basis of a happy and workable democracy. The home is the social unit where people lear caring for each other and responsibility for more than themselves. In countries abroad whc·e homes are less highly regarded, democracy has fallen. Without family life to train and hold them together, we get the anarchy of every man for himself or the regimentation of every man for the state.

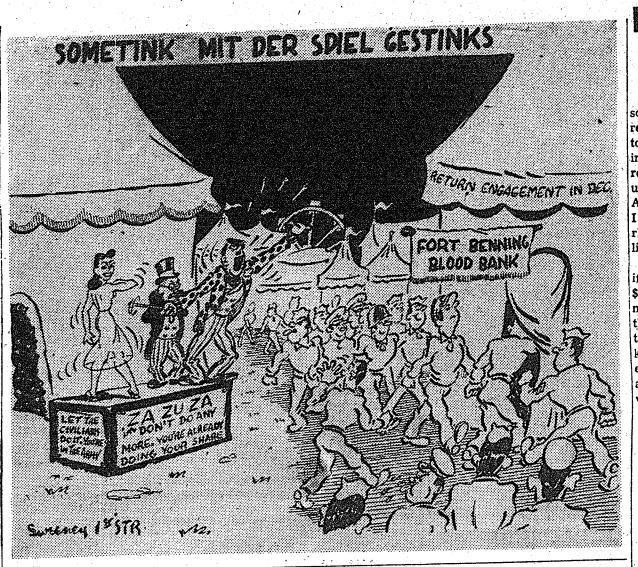
A look at the divorce and juvenile delinquency records, however, shows that American homes began to break up long before there was any talk of drafting fathers. American fathers have always been good wage earners and providers, but there is more to fatherhood than that. The real issue is not only what homes will do when fathers go off to war, but what those fathers do who still have a chance to live with their families.

Senator Harry Truman of the War Investigating Committee says that "raising a family always has and always will be the biggest job any one can tackle."

The father, as head of the family, must provide its fun as well as its funds, its character as well as its cash. He should be a working partner with mother in providing a home where the family hide nothing from one another and help one another to give their best. Where there is plenty of laughter and love. Where meals are not just gulp and go, but where the company and conversation are as good as the food. Where the welcome sign is always out. Where neighbors can drop in to borrow a cup of flour and find real friendship. And courage when times are hard.

No father need wait until his number comes up to be drafted for this job. It is a fight in which every dad should be automatically enlisted—the fight for sound families. It is the one sure defense for America's homes.

It is easier to show up people, or to blow them up, than it is to build them up. But not nearly so effective.



Instead of having to get a different person for the job, you may find it possible to make the person different.

The test of the immortals is both timelessness and timeliness. Abraham Lincoln might have been speaking of now when he said: "You can't escape the responsibility of tomorrow by evading it today."

Just to put a man in uniform doesn't make him a soldier if his mind and heart are AWOL.

The world's most serious inflation—an inflated ego.

Some people's conscience isn't strong enough to keep them from succumbing to temptation but just strong enough to keep them from enjoying it.

USO Presents—

BASKETBALL LEAG UE, LOUNGE FOR TROOPS IN TR ANSIT, MUSIC

All organizations at Fort Benning which intend to enter teams in the Ninth Street USO basketball league are asked to send representatives to the initial Athletic Council meeting Monday at 8:30 p. m. . . . Prediction is for a "rain" of balls from all sides of the courts when the season gets under way.

The league can still accommodate additional teams . . . Monday's meeting will be to determine all questions covering the planning of the basketball tournament, games, referees, fees, etc.

* * *

The U S O - Travelers' Aid Troops-in-Transit lounge at 516 Twelfth Street, was officially opened for use by soldiers yesterday at 7 a. m. . . . From 60 to 100 soldiers can be taken care of comfortably at one time. . . . Approximately 100 women volunteer workers will act as hostesses daily between 7 a. m. and 11 p. m.

Comforts for soldiers in the new lounge include showers, cots, checking and shaving facilities, w r i t i n g materials, magazines, books and coffee and doughnuts . . . The building which houses the lounge has been donated rent-free to the USO for the duration by Maurice Rothschild.

* * *

Music lovers should be delighted at the additions to the already fine music program at Ninth Street SO . . . Club Room No. 4 has been set aside for listening to recordings from the expanded music library . . . An additional classical program has been planned for Monday evenings with classical programs available for radio listening on Sunday afternoons.

* * *

The first public appearance of the Columbus Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Sgt. Murray Austrian of the basic training center of the ASTP and composed of both soldier and civilian musicians, will be given in the latter part of November or the first of December . . . Rehearsals are held every Monday at 8:30 p. m. in the Ninth Street USO.

A need for players of string instruments exists, since musicians from Army bands have directed their talents towards brass and reed instruments. . . . It is hoped to get Columbus civilians to fill in the string section.

Geronimo!

BY PVT. DUANE HYLTON

So you wanna be a Paratrooper, eh, Buster? You've seen the Superman plodding down the streets of Columbus sporting those wings and 10 inch boots and it's brought out the cave-man in you, hey? Sort of appeals to your red-blooded side, doesn't it? Okay, so you wanna know how it's done. Listen:

First, you must prepare yourself for "A" Stage. Alright, we'll start tonight. When you've come in off the field, cleaned your equipment, eaten chow, written home to Mom and gotten ready to plop into bed, don't do it. Double-time to your nearest dispensary, get a thorough physical check-up, make sure the old pump's knockin' on all cylinders, swallow a bottle of assorted vitamin tablets and trot back to the barracks. You're ready.

Now, take the tent pole out of your haversack, break it at the middle and fold the two sections of each remaining end together; this gives you a reasonable sad-facsimile of the Indian Clubs. Stand upright on your bunk, arms outstretched, ignoring the amazed faces of your companions, and start pumping those home-made dumb-bells to and fro. Don't stop until you've fainted. Bravo, you've won the first round.

Next morning, w h e n you're given that first ten minute break, you may start out by throwing odd and sundry G.I.'s first over your right shoulder, then your left, then straight over your noggin'. Clutch them in death-dealing head locks, murderous arm holds, and for good measure throw in the Filipino back breaker. Do this each time you get a break during the day. If one of your buddies has not turned upon you in wrath and completed your demise by nightfall, you should be ready for Judo—and winner of another round.

Into another night. Lights are going out all over Benning. Ooops, don't hit the hay. Those sheets do l o o k inviting, but we must now tear them in strips for the next test. Tie the strips together and loop one end over a beam on top of your day room. Sit down under the end closest the ground and dry-run insects for awhile. When you're worked yourself into a dontgivvadamiffadodie m o o d, grab the lower end of the knotted sheets and start climbing. No, Buster, keep those grabs off the wall; you're going to be a Paratrooper, remember? When you have 1 (reached the top or 2) fallen flat on your face from exhaustion, crawl back to your bunk. You're ready for the 30 foot rope.

Simplicity is the keynote in conquering the remainder of preparations for this stage, such as the daily run, tumbling, calisthenics, push-ups and what's on the supper menu; Gastone. Tell the Topkick what you really think of him, give the CO a hotfoot, put a match to the mess sergeant's room, short sheet every bunk in the barracks. So doing, grab a pair of brass knucks, put your back to a solid wall somewheres in the company area and await developments. You shouldn't have to wait long; by this time every red-hot in the outfit is gunning for you. Fine. Challenge them to form a line on the right and to step out one at a time, swinging from the ankles. When you wake up, flex those pinkies and shout with delight, "A" Stage is in the bag!

Getting "hopped up" for "B" Stage is much the same procedure, with a few minor additions thrown in. But they mean naught to you. Hitler in Hel' those Paratroopers ain't so rugged. So you spend a week walking around with your heels in front of you, climbing ladders with your knees, sans hands, and trimming your fingernails with wire cutters. This prepares you for the Trainasium.

Next, find a Motor Pool with a large grease rack. Walk to the top of the rack, close your eyes, run down as fast as you can. When you've neared the bottom, without letting yourself know that you're d o i n g so, collapse Tumble either right or left, or better, just crumple forward. When the CQ has picked all the gravel out of your face, give him an Ipana smile (featuring those two remaining teeth), and tell him you're going to be a Paratrooper. Which you are, Buster, because you are now capable of braving the Landing Trainer. At least one night must be spent jumping from young bunk and landing on the balls of your feet. This is done merely to keep you "on the ball" and will aid in your Mock Door training. Another little "B" Stage item is the Mock Tower. Simulate this by jumping out a second story barracks window. Naturally, you'll land like a load of "Move it over there" but that will be to your advantage. A pleasant surprise awaits you in actual training, as you don't fall straight down at all—you simply get a helluva jerk and go sliding horizontally down a cable to a sawdust pit, where you are unhooked and left on your own. Don't, please don't, ever, let the instructors know that you feel bad. They'll tell you to die and prove it.

Easy does it in "C" Stage. It's a mtater of thinking. Think, f'rinstance, that those jumps out of the barracks window are from 250 feet and you'll have no worries when the Free Tower descent confronts you. Then, there's the Wind Machine. Tie one end of a rope around your midriff, the other to the trailer hook of any Jeep. Spend the day there. When the driver has completed his daily trips, no doubt he'll clean you up with the rest of his 1st Echelon duties, and tuck you into bed, every piece of you. But the joke's on him. He isn't going to be a Paratrooper.

Oh, yes. Packing the parachute. That's a pinch, Buster. You're already torn your sheets into strips. Sew them together, wad them up in a wall and tie a few borrowed tent ropes to various end which you'll find peering out at you here and there. Go ahead and get those sheets folded, handkerchief size. You've folded diapers before if you're a good Shack Man. And you don't need a blonde in your lap to be able to imagine that the sheets are silk or nylon chutes. So go ahead. The fight's almost over, kiddo, you're gonna win, going away and breezing.

Only one thing left to do. That's to realize the sensation of leaping to the ground from a plane in flight. That can be settled on your first pass night. Start out with Boilermakers, chase these away with a few Whirlaways, down a couple Zombies, ask Pierre to mix you a cool Paratroop Coke and finish those three frozen Daquire's under a corner table. Now you're floating, aren't you, Buster? You're in another world. Something you can't define. Sure, go ahead, break the gawdyam glash over the muckin' waiter's head. You're "in," Flynn. You've got the feel. Man, you're a Qualified Jumper.

—Pvt. Duane Hilton
The Prcht. School.

Chaplain's Corner

HOPE SEES A STAR
Chaplain F. W. Thompson

The writings of Robert G. Ingersoll are in bad repute among the clergy. I wonder though, if outside the Bible you find a more beautiful, a more inspiring line than this which is found in his address at his brother's grave, after portraying life as a narrow veil between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities. Although we cry aloud the only answer is an echo of our wailing cry, he says,

"But in the night of death
Hope sees a star and listening
Love can hear the rustling of a wing."

Hope sees a star. Hope rules the world. It colors all our activities from the cradle to the grave. The suffering will cease, unhappiness will end, crooked paths made straight. That is the fine thing about living, it is always going to be better. Hope sees a star.

"It's the rainbow to the storms of life,
The evening beam that smiles
the clouds away
And tints tomorrow with prophetic ray."

Kay Says—

SHE COULD DO AL L RIGHT ON A NURSERY RH YME QUIZ

Maybe I'm a sentimental old so-and-so. At any rate, I've been reading a book of nursery rhymes, to see what publishers are offering the younger generation for reading material. I see they're still using the tried and true facorites. At least, from my own childhood I remember many of the nursery rhymes found among those published today.

In fact, I've often wondered if I wouldn't do all right on the $64 question, if it concerned nursery rhymes. Amazing, though, the persons who stumble on the third question. For instance, who killed Cock Robin? It seems to me everyone should know that the answer is "I, said the sparrow, with my bow and arrow,"

* * *

My sense of nostalgic loneliness brought on by a perusal of childhood's verses isn't appreciated by the man of the house. He remembers, he says, reading about The Fall of the Alamo, and the like. Either he was literate at a much earlier age than I was, or his memory span doesn't extend back so far. I get a trifle confused as to which was the last of the Mohicans. But give me anything from Robert Louis Stevenson's "Child Garden of Verses" or "Mother Goose" and I go to town.

* * *

Not that I go so much for these simple rhymes. Even our three-year-old, after an eloquent reading on "what are little boys made of," will ask in an off-hand tone, "and what are daddies made of, then." That taxes the ingenuity of any mother to answer.

Looking over these nursery rhymes I can understand why I still sometimes have the night horrors. Take, for example, the Babes in the Woods.

They s o b b e d and they sighed
And they bitterly cried
And the poor little things,
They lay down and died.

* * *

And the one about the spider and the fly. There was a horror story for you.

Up jumped the cunning
Spider, and fiercely held her fast;
He dragged her up his winding stair, into his dismal den,
Within his little parlor—but she ne'er came out again!

* * *

Then there's another one. Tc this little number I feel that I owe my proclivities for putting off everything until the last minute giving it a hasty going over, anc if it proves unsatisfactory, of discarding it in disgust.

Tis a lesson you should heed,
Try again;
If at first you don't succeed,
Try again—
All that other folks can do,
Why, with patience, may no
you?
Only keep this role in view,
Try again.

* * *

But getting back to Robert Louis Stevenson, which is where I started originally. There's his "Bed in Summer", which expressed the inarticulate of every small child forced to go to bed when everyone else is still up and about. And there's "I have a little shadow that goes in and out with me." Do you still remember how to make ducks' heads on the wall, and open your fingers so they go "quack, quack" to the delight of an admiring young audience?

Everyone must have certain associations connected with nursery rhymes. For me it brings memories of a big cane rocker, large enough for a small child to nestle comfortably while being rocked and read to. All except the lulla- by which starts "Sweet and low." We sang that in grade school on the day I appeared dressed for some dancing exhibition. Unfortunately I'd mistaken the day, and my too-short eyelet dress and expanse of white cotton stockings were conspicuous among the ginghams worn for every-day routine. I bore the cruel taunts of school mates until the middle of the singing lesson, when I broke down in hysterical sobs and was ushered out of the class room to the strains of "Sweet and Low."

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

THE KURNEL HELP S SAWGRASS WITH MOST PERPL EXING QUESTION

BY S. SGT. TOM McDONALD

In order to be absolutely fair to Private Sawgrass' personality and future welfare, I sometimes find it necessary to discuss his opportunities with our commanding officer, Colonel T. P. Swampwater.

Due to an invitation—Private Sawgrass had just received from a young lady in Columbus he was in a state of extreme anxiety. The request was for him to accompany the girl to a very swanky dinner party to be given by her Uncle, E. G. Dashwood, one of the city's more notable wholesale grocers.

"Sergeant," pleaded my friend Sawgrass, "for the first time in my twenty years of military service I'm plum scared—I ain't never been out with no society girl before."

"I haven't, either, Sawgrass, so don't ask me for any advice. Suppose we both go in and let the 'ol' man' tell you what do do."

"I reckon we'd better, Sergeant" replied Sawgrass in a doubtful manner. After helping Sawgrass straighten his tie and gain his composure, we went into the inner sanctum.

Colonel Swampwater was tilted back in his swivel chair sound asleep with one foot resting on his wastebasket. Following office custom, I went over and kicked the basket out from him.

With a wild goat-like yelp the ol boy toppled forward and yelled, "Air Raid! Air Raid! Everybody to your foxholes!"—the noise of his warning woke him up, and thus perceiving Sawgrass and myself, he inquired as to our presence?

"Private Sawgrass, Sir,"I said, "has a personal problem of unparalleled significance. It seems Mr. E. G. Dashwood's attractive niece has invited Sawgrass here over to a swanky dinner at the Dashwood estate and Sawgrass is at a loss as to the proper method of conduct.

"Shades of Salome, Sawgrass! This is momentous," howled the ol' boy as he leered into Sawgrass' face. "Did you know that E. G. Dashwood has more chewing gum at his disposal than anyone else in Gawja! This occasion demands tact and commissioned leadership."

"Yes, Sir," replied Sawgrass, "but I don't know exactly how to act. I can't behave with a knife and fork in my hand. We eat with spoons in my mess hall."

"An utter depravity, my boy," the Colonel replied, "but as a lover of fine chewing gum I'm going to see that nothing happens to mar your social career. I personally will take your young lady friend to the dinner myself and sit by E. G. Dashwood myself and see that he carries on an interesting conversation."

"And see that you get wholesale chewing gum prices in addition," I surmised.

"You may leave the room, Sergeant!" the ol' boy scowled.

"Yes, Sir," I answered. As I went through the door the last I heard was:

"O. K. Now, Sawgrass, just give me the young lady's telephone number and I will see that she has an escort for the party. Meanwhile, I'm granting you a three-day pass."

"Yes, Kernal," replied Sawgrass, following me out of the door in a slightly perplexed manner.

"I'm on guard duty, but why in hell do you stay here?"

©ESQUIRE, INC. 1943
©ESQUIRE, INC.

Reprinted from November issue of Esquire

Infantry School Opens New Info Service

A new information service has been established at the Headquarters of The Infantry School and is now functioning from Room 201 in the main lobby. The service, established under the direction of Col. Thornton Chase, Adjutant General, has for its purpose the furnishing of locater information for all personnel connected with The Infantry School and also those visiting the school.

The telephone number is 3422 for those calling from within Fort Benning. Outside of the Post, it will be necessary to dial 6631 which will make connections with the Fort Benning operator who in turn will make the connections with 3422 or the number of any Post phone given her.

The Information Service will maintain complete records of all personnel connected with The Infantry School including the name, rank, army serial number, organization, quarters and telephone numbers of assigned officers and warrant officers, student officers, officer candidates, assigned enlisted men, student warrant officers and enlisted men, visitors and civilian employees.

There will also be available the location of the units of The Infantry School Service Command and School Troops Brigade, company and building location of current classes in the school and a complete room directory of the school.

The staff is headed by Staff Sgt. Carl Weissbord and incjudes Cpls. Alan Jess, Jason Hearn and Donald D. Cameron, all of the Academic Regiment.

TIS AG Has New PO Set-Up

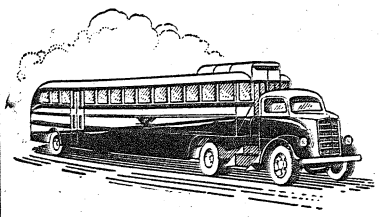
A new post office set-up established by the office of the Adjutant General is now functioning in the Headquarters of The Infantry School. It handles all incoming and outgoing mail of the Academic Department, breaking the former up into various sections for pick-up by mail orderlies.

There is a drop box for outgoing mail in addition to the box in the main lobby. The latter is handled directly by the Fort Benning Post Office but the former is handled by the Headquarters P. O. The difference is that the pick-up of the Headquarters P. O. occurs four times daily while the regular box in the lobby has a pick-up of twice daily.

The Headquarters P. O. is located in room 111 on the ground floor and is operated by Sgts. Charles Coley and Clarence McAloon of the Academic Regiment and T-5 Jane Negola of the TIS WAC Detachment.

MAJOR CAMPBELL

Captain Richard Campbell, Parachute School secretary, has been promoted to major. Entering service in October, 1930, Major Campbell has risen through the ranks to his present grade. During this period he has seen tours of duty both in the U. S. and Hawaii. He is a graduate of the Infantry School, and the Chemical Warfare School.



Officially, the first World war did not end until Aug. 31, 1921, with the peace ratification.

OFFICER'S CLUB CUTIE—Pert Bobbie Gregory is North Carolina's contribution to the local pin-up scene . . . Hailing from Asheville, she completed Lee Edwards H.S. there just last June and came to Benning almost at once . . . A splendid swimmer, she was hired as the only girl lifeguard at the Officer's Club Pool and functioned in that unusual capacity until the pool closed a few weeks ago . . . Now she works in the grille as a waitress where her winning smile is a constant source of enjoyment to the patrons . . . An athletic type, Bobbie swam and played basketball and baseball while in school . . . She loves the great outdoors, and makes a hobby of collecting frogs and bugs, believe it or not . . . Also loves to run about the country in her bare feet—tolerates shoes only because dancing would be difficult without them . . . Her selection as pin-up queen of the club came the hard-way . . . Officials there had so many lovely faces and figures to choose from that they held a bathing beauty contest, and the face and form of La Gregory emerged the winner . . . Winning the contest, incidentally, netted her a $25 war bond and a chance to pose for glamour-photog Don Kortemeier . . . Faced with a popular choice, Kort outdid himself on this picture which we think could give Betty Grable's famous "back pose" a run for the money. . . . GREGORY ON MEN: "They're O.K. I guess, but I'd rather be a tomboy than a glamour girl." . . . VITAL STATISTICS: Age—sweet 17. Height—5 foot, 5 1-2 inches. Weight—115. Bust—32. Waist—24. Hips—32. Eyes—coral green. Hair—dusty blonde. Complexion—fair, with a ruddy tinge. Lithe, lovely and luscious! (Sig Lab Photo by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

PEST CONTROL SERVICE
ROACHES, RATS, BEDBUGS
CREATORS OF CLEANLINESS
ORKIN
EXTERMINATING COMPANY INC.
115—12th ST.
PHONE 6744

COLUMBUS FT. BENNING
HOWARD BUS LINE
SERVICE TO FORT BENNING FOR 22 YEARS

DOING A WARTIME JOB - - -
UNDER WAR TIME CIRCUMSTANCES
HOWARD BUS LINE
906 BROADWAY — COLUMBUS, GA.

Army Wives Employment Service Issues Hurry Call For Additional Workers

Although the Army Wives Employment Service sponsored by the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce has placed approximately 1,500 women in various positions since January 1, the demand for womanpower in the city is great and a call for more registrants has been issued by the Service, Mrs. Joseph N. Wood in charge of the office states.

The AWES office is located in the YMCA USO at 1425 Third Avenue and it is operated without charge to women seeking jobs.

Mrs. Wood said that the greatest demand is for office workers. There is also an urgent call on the part of officers' wives at Fort Benning for enlisted men's wives who desire to work as housekeepers in exchange for room and board.

The Service is not connected with any employment bureau at the post but women are sent out to Benning to contact these services.

Mrs. Wood stated that army wives who expect to be in Columbus only a relatively short period of time but who wish to work are invited to register with the AWES.

There is a need for stenographers, typists, filists, nurses, (practical and registered), bookkeepers, comptometer operators, housekeepers, factory workers, beauty operators, waitresses, receptionists, artists, photographers, sales girls, and general office help. Even women without previous business experience are invited to register.

African War Veteran Added To TIS Staff

Captain Sympson In Heart Of Battle At Kasserine Pass

A former University of Kentucky football star is back in school after the most grueling 'season' of his career. But this time it's not a student and the 'season' had no bearing on football.

He is Capt. Gordon H. Sympson of Bardston, Ky., instructor in tactics at The Infantry School. And the 'season' he has just completed was played in North Africa.

Capt. Sympson is one of the host of infantrymen who have been assigned to The Infantry School as instructors to pass on the first hand knowledge and application of the theories taught them in the School, and which they have had the opportunity to apply in actual battle. Burned by an exploding phosphorous shell, Capt. Sympson was decorated with the Silver Star and Purple Heart.

He learned a lot about Africa. The knowledge he, and others like him, gained in that campaign, will become the legacy of those who have yet to reach the battlefield.

TIS TEACHING SOUND

Of all the truths he learned, these stand out in bold relief: "The doctrines and principles taught at The Infantry School are sound. There we were taught the normal conditions: in battle, it's the abnormal you bump into. But everything we learned is applicable in some way . . . The Germans are good fighters. They're stolid, thoroughly indoctrinated in Nazism and not easily swayed by normal emotions."

Capt. Sympson, and the company he commanded were among the first troops to land at Safi in French Morocco last November. The destroyer they were aboard was fired on as it entered the harbor and was beached. The men then swarmed ashore to begin their first mission—the capture of the port.

Their job was an important one because immediately behind them was a sea train bearing an all important armored outfit. Within a half hour after the landing, the Americans had captured Safi, killing or taking prisoner all of the French Moroccans wdho opposed them.

The next task was the establishment of road blocks outside the city to prevent enemy's artillery from being moved up. While doing this, they captured a battery of 75 mm's, 80 men and two officers. While the blocks established, the company was reorganized and assigned the job of capturing the barracks of the Foreign Legion. The garrison showed signs of fight and Capt. Sympson's unit was obliged to move into high ground. There is set up mortars and dumped some 600 shells into the barracks. Snipers were sent to nearby buildings overlooking the barracks. Late in the afternoon, the garrison surrendered. From that point, the Americans went into a defensive position south of the city to protect it from troops moving up from Marraakech. They were in that position when the French in Morocco capitulated.

That was the last fighting Capt. Sympson did against the French. But in that short time, his outfit had engaged in all sorts of fighting—establishing a beach head, storming a city, setting up road blocks, capturing prisoners, besieging a garrison and finally defending a city.

TO PASSARINE PASS

The outfit's next move was to the Kasserine Pass where it relieved another unit. It then proceeded toward El Guettar and attacked under heavy fire. Casualties were heavy because the Germans held all the high ground around El Guettar and subjected the Americans to incessant artillery fire. One of the casualties was the battalion commander. At this point Capt. Sampson was placed in command of the battalion.

By hand-to-hand fighting the battalion fought its way to a hill at the furthest point held by its division, the Ninth. They were in this stabilized position for 14 days before attacking El Guettar. The following day, the Germans moved out and El Guettar was in the hands of the Americans. The Captain records this engagement as the most terrific he encountered in Africa.

After the fall of El Guettar, the division moved to the Sedejene Valley to relieve a British outfit which had been pretty badly crippled. One regiment was used as a holding force while two combat teams circled to the rear of the enemy which held Baldy, Green Hill and Sugar Loaf. An attack was made on Green Hill which then was taken without casualties. The regiment reorganized and drove up the coast toward Bizerte. There they found the French had been held up and the Americans promptly made another flanking movement to get behind the Germans. Fighting was extremely heavy but the Germans were finally routed and the Americans moved into Bizerte.

The African campaign then, was nearly ended.

TIS WAC's Reorganized

A new reorganization of the WAC Detachment of The Infantry School has been announced at Headquarters, this one separating the commands of the Harmony church and Main Post Detachments.

Capt. Janet Nash who commanded both detachments for a short while, now commands the Main Post Detachment which will be officially known as The Infantry School WAC Detachment, Section Two.

The Harmony Church Detachment will be commanded by First Lieut. Doris Hough. It will be officially known as The Infantry School WAC Detachment, Section One.

Both Sections of the Detachment remain attached to the Academic Regiment for Administration and Rations. The complement of Section One will total three officers and 154 enlisted personnel, while Section Two will have three officers and 121 enlisted personnel.

ESCAPEES SURRENDER

Privates Bowen D. Spurlock and Glenn O. Welch, white soldier-prisoners, who escaped from guard at Fort Benning on October 5, surrendered themselves at the post stockade Thursday night, according to an announcement from the provost marshal's office. The two prisoners along with one other, overpowered their guard and escaped, while out on a work detail. The third escapee was apprehended the same day.

'Spirit' Non-Coms Set Club Election

The Non-Com Club of the 176th Regiment of the Infantry School troops will hold its annual election of officers next Monday. Outgoing officers will be Sgts. Payton Story, Jr., president; Raymond Jones, vice-president; Quinton C. Davis III, secretary and Edwin J. Singleton, treasurer.

All non-coms in the regiment of grade five or higher are eligible for membership. At present there are 250 members. The clubhouse is located two blocks south of the PMG building on Kilgore St., and is open every day from recall to midnight.

The effective silent weapons of a scout's arsenal are a blackjack, bayonet, trench knife, wood club, and a garrote.

OFFICERS! SEE OUR
Gifts - Antiques
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

PIN-UP GIRLS
Are Favorites With the Boys in the Service
BUT PIN-UP BOYS
Are Favorites With the Girls Back Home!

And when you send that Package
Above All
SEND A PICTURE
SPECIAL
9x12 hand painted oil painting.
Regular $15.00 value—Now $5.50
Open Every Evening Until 9 P. M., Ft. Benning Time
BON ART STUDIO
5½ 11TH ST. DIAL 2-0571

PHOTO FANS
For Better Snap-Shots
Have Your Film
Developed at
Parkman Photo Service
1121½ Broadway Dial 6451
Free Enlargement Given Each Day.
24-HOUR SERVICE

Have a "Coke" = Auld Lang Syne

. . . or how to welcome a returning hero

He'll be looking for the old familiar things—the gang at the corner store, his old room, the family radio. That's why Coca-Cola makes such a perfect welcome. He learned to like its ice-cold refreshment in his boyhood. In camp and overseas it helps him make new friends. On his return it says to him, Son, you're home again. In all the world there's no better way to say Auld Lang Syne than that simple American phrase—Have a "Coke".

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke"

© 1943 The C-C Co.

Sportscasting

BY SGT. CARL NEU

THE ATLANTA SAFARI

No need to fret too much about the result of the Atlanta safari of the 300th Sabers. It was a great game, and the Benning lads lost, simply because they met a better ball-club. Despite their top-heavy defeat by Notre Dame, Tech still rates as one of the nation's better collegiate elevens this fall, and this corner thinks they'll prove it in the next two weeks when they meet Navy and Duke, admittedly two of the greatest 1943 machines.

From the press box angle, the final score of the Grant Field clash, 27-0, did not quite measure the difference between the teams. Actually, the game was much closer than the final score indicated. But when the floodgates opened wide in the fatal third period, the Yellowjackets poured through for three scores without a miss. However, an intercepted pass and a bad kick, both of which might be classed as breaks of the game, set up two of the scores and without those happenings, Tech might have won by only a pair of touchdowns.

However, even such a result would have been little solace for this errant reporter, who along with a good many of the Saber players, had put quite a few bucks on a 12-point bet that swept the hotel lobbies two hours before game time. We honestly and sincerely felt that the Sabers were going to take Tech, and that 12 points looked awfully good. Well, we were wrong, and that's football for you.

ALLEN AND ROUTT

Even in defeat, though, there were many bright spots from a Benning angle. Ermal Allen was as great a back as we ever saw on any field, and Joe Routt gave an exhibition of guard play that was superlative. Atlanta sports writers were loud in their praise of these two gridders. Ed Danforth of the Journal called the blond back "the best runner seen at Grant Field this year," and that includes Prokop and Broyles of Tech, a batch of North Carolina aces, and several Georgia Pre-Flight speedsters.

Everett Strupper, a member of Tech's backfield twenty-five years ago, thought that Joe Routt and his Tech opponent, Bob Sieber, put on a show that was "worth sitting six afternoons in zero weather to watch." He said: "I have never seen two guards of such great class opposing one another. Six-footers, 200-pounders and men of class AA, they kept me hypnotized all afternoon. They were a ball-game all by themselves."

"FINE SPORTSMANSHIP"

Perhaps the nicest things said about the Sabers, though, was the comment of Bill Alexander, Tech's brilliant head coach. "Sometimes these service teams tend to switch over to the rough side," he explained. "But these 300th boys showed the best of traditional college spirit. They played their hearts out and took all we could hand out strictly in the way of football as it should be played. It was a fine, clean game from start to finish."

In line with this statement by Alex, O. B. Keeler, grand old gent of the Journal sports staff, kept some interesting statistics on the game. They revealed that there were 145 plays run from scrimmage as against approximately 120 in the average well-played game. Of the 145 play total, Tech ran 80 and the Sabers 65, which also indicates that the 300th was in the game all the way. Considering that Tech punted only three times against 10 for the Sabers, the 300th did all right in the way of speeding its plays. The actual time of the game also was fast, 52 minutes for the first half, 57 for the second.

TOO MUCH YOUTH

Queried after the game in the locker room about possible reasons for Tech's astonishing victory, Capt. Bob Friedlund, Saber coach, stated "they simply had too much youth for us." "We did our best," be added, "but I guess we're just not as fast as we used to be. Erm (Allen) and Joe (Routt) proved, however, that they are two of the greatest players in the nation at their positions. Tech had worlds of good, old-fashioned "go" and they never slowed up. We hung on all right in the first half, but we didn't have enough reserve strength and that third period swamped us."

Friedlund, who gave a fine account of himself at end during most of the fray, was naturally disappointed, but felt there was no disgrace in losing to such a fine team. He shares this writer's opinion, expressed above, that the Jackets are certainly going somewhere this season. He realized that his star-studded eleven made certain mistakes in their first outing against a top-flight opponent, but felt that was to be expected. On the whole he was quite pleased with the Saber showing, and was certain that his team learned much that will profit them in games to come.

OLD-TIMER'S ADVICE

One of the interesting sidelights of the Atlanta trip took place in the lobby of the Robert Fulton Hotel on the night before the game. Friedlund, a young coach on the eve of his most important game, was naturally quite nervous and doing more than his share of floor-walking, trying to dope out strategy and figuring how to outsmart wily Bill Alexander, Tech's grid wizard and one of the nation's great coaches.

Along towards the middle of the evening, Lt. Col. Charles C. Finnegan, post athletic officer and for many years head coach at North Dakota State, strolled into the lobby. Friedlund immediately approached genial "Casey," as he was known in mid-west coaching circles during pre-war days, and the two grid mentors went into a huddle. When the colonel finally left to return to his own hotel, Friedlund had a much-relieved look on his face, some traces of the nervousness had disappeared, and his general outlook for victory was much greater. All of which goes to prove that there's no advice like that which the old-timers in football can dish out to a young coach.

SIDELINE SNAPSHOTS

The chilly blasts which swept Grant Field reminded one of gridiron days up north where it's always that way, but it was something you never anticipated in balmy Atlanta. . . . Tech no longer has a gally-attired band. Instead it has two music-making groups, both service units from the Naval Reserve Corps and the ASTP group in training there. . . . Civilians, as a matter of fact, were a rarity at the game, since almost the entire Tech student body was wearing some kind of a uniform. . . . Most of the Tech soldiers from the ASTP, incidentally, cheered for their brethren in khaki from Benning. . . . Between halves, the naval ROTC unit put on a snappy drill that got rounds of applause from the 300th stands, composed of lads who had saved their three-day passes for months to make the trip to Atlanta. . . . When the Sabers trotted out in their flashy blue uniforms, some of the fans thought they had their dates mixed and that it was Duke's famed Blue Devils, who play at Grant Field two weeks hence, . . . Eddie Prokop, the Cleveland express, looked awful good from the press box and may be one of the backs of the year if Tech keeps moving at its present pace. . . . Even though we lost, it was a great game and a great trip!

Friedlund Lauds Morale-Building Value Of Army Football In Talk

In his talk last Monday before the Atlanta Touchdown Club in the Civic Room of the Ansley Hotel, Captain Robert M. Friedlund, head coach of the 300th Infantry Sabers, stressed the morale building importance of Army football and pointed to the 300th Infantry as an example.

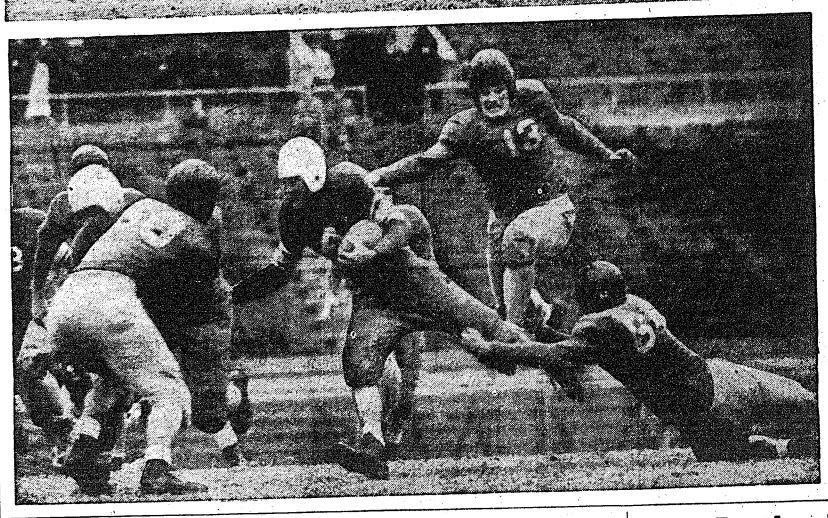
The men of the 300th through the inspiration of a fighting, representative football team have risen to heights of enthusiasm and developed a strong sense of loyalty to and pride in everything 300th. The spontaneous enthusiasm of the men at the Georgia Tech game gave evidence of this new high in morale, he stated.

Capt. Friedlund gave high praise to the authorities at Tech and the people of Atlanta for the way in which they welcomed and feted the team and members of the regiment in the city for the game. He stated the team enjoyed playing Georgia Tech immensely.

Turning to Saturday's contest, it was the Captain's opinion that Tech reserves spelled the Saber defeat and as proof pointed out the fine showing of the 300th in the first half. With limited reserves, the 300th was unable to keep up with the terrific pace and succumbed in the third period.

Ermal Allen, according to Coach Friedlund, played the best football of the day. He did not forget Prokop, Tech's flashy back, when he made the statement either. Summing up the merits of both backs, he gave the nod to Allen.

He also paid tribute to the line play of Tech's Steber, stating that he alone was responsible for stopping Saber backs much too often. Joe Routt of the 300th also came in for some fancy praise for his charging, smart line play that broke up many a Tech rush.



Capt. Friedlund concluded his remarks with the statement that he considered the game the cleanest he has witnessed and played during his football career.

Sabers Bow To Powerful Georgia Tech

Scene of Big Battle

AT GRANT FIELD on Saturday there was plenty of action when the Sabers bowed to Georgia Tech. The top view sohws Harrison, Tech fullback, crashing through center inches shor tof the goal line. At bottom, Ermal Allen, great 300th runner, is off on one of his hop-skip-jump dashes through the Jacket line. (Photos courtesy Atlanta Journal.)

Stubborn 300th Squad Defeated 27-0 by Foe In Battle at Atlanta

Prokop Paces Jacket Attack; Allen, Routt Star For Losers

BY SGT. FORREST R. KYLE

The 300th Sabers of The Infantry School can concentrate on maintaining their position out in front of their own conference race, now that a tricky and tough Georgia Tech eleven has dampened hopes of an undefeated season and nationwide prominence.

The Yellow Jackets, featuring the running and passing of tow-headed Eddie Prokop behind a hard-charging line, stung the Sabers 27-0 last Saturday afternoon in Atlanta before a crowd of 10,000 chilled spectators at Grand Field.

1ST HALF CLOSE

There was no indication the score would reach such proportions after two quarters of slashing play. At half time Tech held a mere 6-0 lead and the fans were witnessing a dog-eat-dog fray with the two forward walls putting on an outstanding performance.

But, in the third quarter, the roof fell in on the Sabers. Three times the Yellow Jackets passed and ran their way to touchdowns, thereby erasing all doubt of the outcome.

ALLEN'S THREATS

Ermal Allen, ace Saber ball-toter, threatened all afternoon to get away for a long touchdown dash but there always was a Techman to intercept him before he broke completely into the clear.

As a matter of fact, the Sabers never penetrated past Tech's 28-yard line. The Benning gridders appeared to have a sustained march underway several times but it always stalled before becoming too dangerous.

PASS TO SCORE

Mr. Prokop made his presence felt from the start and, in the second period, a series of passes from Eddie to Walter Kilzer set up the first Tech marker. The Sabers made a goal line stand but a short pass into the end zone, Prokop to Kilzer, brought the first tally.

It was another Prokop pass whic started the third quarter deluge. Obviously back to pass, Prokop sucked in the Saber secondary when it appeared he was going to run with the ball. But he faded back again and it was a simple matter to loop the ball over the defense into the hands of Jim Dorough for the touchdown. The play covered 33 yards.

RITTER INTERCEPTS

Soon after Prokop broke loose with more passes and dashes and in six plays the Jackets went 37 yards for a touchdown, Harrison bucking over. Tech's last touchdown was fixed up by Tex Ritter, a transfer from Vanderbilt, who intercepted an Al Solari pass and scurried to the Saber 17. Three plays later Ritter cut over for the touchdown.

The best Saber threat came in the second quarter when Joe Routt recovered a Tech fumble on the home 35. A 15-yard penalty against the Sabers was made up by Al Solari, spelling Allen, who shot off tackle and raced to the 33. Another five yards was picked up on a pass, Solari to Bute Simmons. But that was all. Solari failed to make a first down on the 26 and the Jackets took over.

LATE RALLY

The other Saber threat came in the fourth quarter when Allen mixed up several nice runs with two passes to Bob Friedlund. This carried the ball to Tech's 35 but two long tosses to Johnny Simcox missed connections and the threat died.

The shivering 10,000 fans were treated to a great exhibition of line play by two guards—Routt of the 300th and John Steber of Tech. It seemed Routt was everywhere and somewhere in almost every pileup. And Steber, ably assisted by Mutt Manning, was a pain to the Sabers most of the afternoon.

Tech rolled up 20 first downs to 12 for the Sabers and had a 262 to 132 advantage in yards gained from scrimmage. Tech gained 100 yards from passing, the 300th got 47 yards.

Gridiron Guesswork

BY SGT. CARL NEU

The 1943 grid season has been remarkable thus far in that few upsets have occurred, but as far as we're concerned, the "upset season" started last week-end, because after a couple of good weeks, our average slipped a notch when we missed on four games out of nineteen where a decision was reached. One game, the Indiana-Iowa clash ended in a tie, so that's dropped from the books. Of the remainder, though, we called the shot on 15, and if we do as well this week, everyone will be satisfied. Games that floored this prognosticator last week were Tech's win over the 300th, Georgia's surprise defeat at the hands of Daniel Field, Pitt's loss to Illinois, and Northwestern's triumph over Great Lakes. Well, here we go again, with the first-named team as our selected winner.

Georgia Tech vs. Navy—After what we saw Saturday in Atlanta, we like the Engineers despite Navy's great record. Yellowjackets to fly high!

L.S.U. vs. Georgia—They did it before, and they can do it again.

Army vs. Yale—Bulldogs can't bite through G. I. armor-plate.

Penn vs. Columbia—The Quakers are due for their annual mid-season slump, but should pull through this one.

Cornell vs. Colgate—In a battle of red, the Cayugans look the stronger.

Michigan vs. Minnesota—Here's where the Little Brown Jug changes hands. The Wolverines have got Bill Daley now, and the Gophers could sure use him again. A hesitant vote for the Maize and Blue.

Notre Dame vs. Illinois—Now Leahy's claiming the Irish will lose three or four games, but this won't be one of them, although it might be closer than most folks expect.

Purdue vs. Iowa—Undefeated Boilermakers will have too much power for the Hawkeyes, who aren't what they used to be.

Northwestern vs. Ohio State—This should be a great battle, but off their showing against Great Lakes, the Wildcats rate the nod.

Indiana vs. Wisconsin—Just a hunch, but the Badgers took too bad a lacing from Notre Dame, and we doubt if they can recover in time to halt the not-bad Hoosiers.

Tulane vs. Southern Methodist—Although fairly inactive to date, the Green Wave is much heralded and should engulf the Mustangs.

Texas vs. Rice—This was our weekly coin-flipping affair, and Texas drew heads and heads won. The Longhorns in a close one.

Nebraska vs. Kansas—The Cornhuskers can't lose forever, and they love to lick the Jayhawkers.

T.C.U. vs. Oklahoma A. and M.—Horned Frogs lost their first one on Saturday and will rebound with a fury.

Texas vs. Denver—The Golden Hurricane, even without Glenn Dobbs, is still mighty.

College of Pacific vs. Southern Cal.—Sounds screwy, doesn't it, but wait till you hear the scores on Saturday. Ancient Alonzo Stagg really has a ball club and they ought to take the Trojans.

March Field vs. Washington—That Air Force eleven is still unbeaten and has licked some good teams. The Huskies are heading for a bombing attack.

St. Mary's Pre-Flight vs. California—Sounds like a close one, but we like the cadets.

Texas A. and M. vs. North Texas Aggies—Unbeaten cadets from A. and M. shouldn't stumble on this one.

Southwestern Texas vs. Southwestern Louisiana — Two small schools with two whopping big grid teams. Favor the Texans because the game is played there.

Football Summary

BENNING GAMES

Schedule

Reception Center vs. Truck Regiment, TIS. At Doughboy Stadium on Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

176th Infantry vs. 300th Infantry, At Doughboy Stadium on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

3rd STR Panthers vs. Clark College in Atlanta. Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Results

Georgia Tech 27, 300th Infantry 0.

Southwestern Louisiana 20, 176th Infantry 7.

Reception Center 25, 3rd STR Panthers 0.

COLUMBUS GAMES

Schedule

Columbus High vs. Central High. At Memorial Stadium tonight at 9 o'clock, Benning time.

Tuskegee Institute vs. Morehouse College. At Memorial Satdium on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock Benning time.

Results

Richmond Academy 19, Jordan High 6.

Baylor High 31, Columbus High 0.

Central High 25, Valley High 13.

176th Plays Soccer Tilt Friday Night

On Friday night at 6 o'clock, the 176th Infantry soccer squad will play an exhibition contest to introduce the game to members of the regiment. The fray will be played on the field in the cuartel of the Spirit regiment.

Coach Art Leckie, who has been drilling his men for the past four weeks, stated that this contest is a forerunner to inter-camp games to be played at a later date. A game had been booked with the Navy Pre-Flight School at Athens, Ga., but the date has been set back.

Spirits Bow To Mighty Southwestern Louisiana

Nine Former Rice Institute Aces Aid SLI Eleven In 20-7 Triumph

Last Friday night, the 176th Infantry eleven trotted on the turf at Lafayette, Louisiana, expecting to meet the gridders of Southwestern Institute. They did, but in name only, as SLI proved to be this year's edition of the 1942 Rice Institute squad plus a host of other standouts.

After sixty furious minutes, the Spirits came off second best as the home team opened their season with a 20 to 7 win.

JUDD TALLIES

Getting off to an early start, SLI tallied in the initial stanza on a forward pass, with Saxon Judd, Southwestern end, crossing the goal line. Judd, one of the two starters on the SLI eleven not from Rice, put in the '42 campaign with Tulsa, a club undefeated in ten contests.

Regarding the feats of this sturdy terminal, the Football Annual says: ". . . Saxon Judd, tall and lissome pass-snagger extraordinary. Judd's record for receptions—considering minutes played and opposition encountered—was the best in the land last Autumn, including four in a row that led to the first Sugar Bowl touchdown."

SPIRITS RALLY

With the score 7 to 0 against them, the Benning eleven began to roll late in the secondframe, culminating in a tally by Harry Hartman on a lateral. The officials, however, ruled the pass illegal, and the ball was brought back to the ten-yard stripe.

On the next play, with but ten seconds remaining in the first half, Bob Waterfield shot a pass to George Poschner in the end zone for a six-pointer. Sully Harris then booted the extra point to throw the game into a knot.

WIND TOUGH

Shortly after the opening of the second half, the Southwesterners began a ground-aerial drive that again netted them a touchdown. It was in this period that Waterfield got off several booming punts, only to see a strong head wind shorten them considerably.

Again in the final stanza, the hosts chalked up another touchdown, while the Spirits merely threatened several times. Upon one occasion Harris grabbed a punt on the run and made his way past ten SLI players. As he glanced up he noticed just one defensive man between himself and paydirt. It was Al Dark, a '42 teammate at LSU, who knew Sully's style of running and downed him to halt the rally.

WITTE STARS

Warren Witte, filling in at center for injured Bill Brantley, played an outstanding game, as did Roy Binger, a newcomer, who took over left end from Poschner when the latter sustained a fractured nose. Two other Spirits, Johnny Hurst and Slick Rogers, were injured, but should not miss Sunday's game with the Sabers.

ERMAL ALLEN

Brown Farmhand Here At School On Flying Trip

A 2 1-2-day flying trip from West Africa to the United States and the Infantry School interrupted the close association that Candidate George Bender, Jr., of the First Company, Third Student Training Regiment has had with baseball the past nine years. Bender was signed up in the farm system of the St. Louis Browns when he was 17 and still is a member of that club.

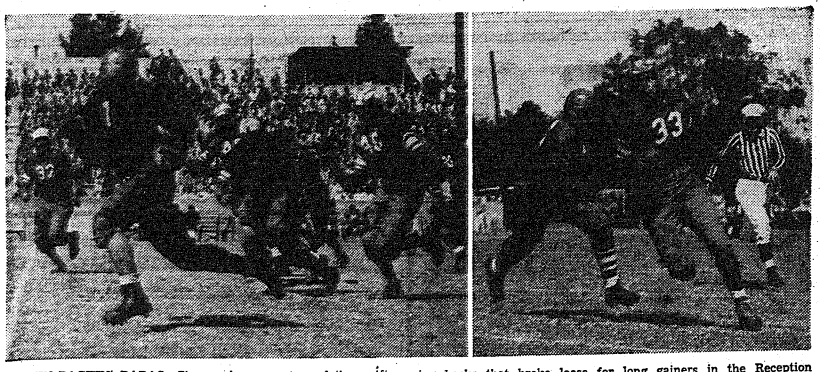
Bender came to the attention of the scouts for the Browns following the four years he played on the O'Fallon (Illinois) High School team. As a member of the Browns, he pitched two years for the Fayetteville (Arkansas) team and was voted the most valuable player in the Arkansas State League in 1939. He also played for the teams at Palestine, Texas, Lafayette, Louisiana, and Youngstown, Ohio.

Bender enlisted in the Army Air Forces shortly after Pearl Harbor. He continued his activity in baseball by managing the post team at Duncan Field, Texas, until he was sent to a port of embarkation in September, 1942.

Bender says he will never forget the 55 days he spent at sea, traveling on three ships, before he arrived at his base in West Africa. Their first boat made the trip across the Atlantic without the protection of a convoy, and they had several submarine scares. Added to the hardship of the long time on the water was the fact that their supplies ran low and they had to live on corned beef, dry bread and water for 17 days.

Bender followed up his interest in baseball in Africa by being athletic director for an air depot group. He relates: "Although I tried to interest the natives in our national pastime, I didn't have much luck. I was surprised to find that many of the natives had been educated in the British schools and spoke English well. I was amazed at the tremendous loads of lumber and other materials that the native laborers carried balanced on their heads."

Although OCS doesn't leave much time to think about baseball, Bender finds an occasional moment to consider his post war plans of managing a minor league team.



Statistics:

ATLANTA, Oct. 16—Statistics of the Georgia Tech-Fort Benning 300th Infantry football game today:

	300th Gs.	Inf. Tech
First downs	8	20
Yards gained rushing (net)	132	262
Forward passes attempted	12	18
Forward passes completed	4	9
Yards by forward passing	47	100
Forward passes intercepted by	0	2
Yards runback intercepted by	0	31
Punting average (from scrimmage)	33.5	33.5
Total yards all kicks returned	84	100
Opponents fumbles recovered	3	0
Yards lost by penalties	34	10

In wartime no enlisted man will be discharged because of fraudulent entry into the Army unless he concealed a previous desertion or unauthorized absence from the armed services, concealed a previous separation from the armed forces with a form of discharge other than honorable.

GIFTS
TOYS—SPORTS—GAMES
BUY ON OUR LAY-AWAY PLAN
GIFTS WRAPPED AND MAILED FOR YOU
Bentley's
1305 BROADWAY DIAL 7365

PIGSKIN-PACKIN' PAPAS—Shown above are two of the swift-moving backs that broke loose for long gainers in the Reception Center-Panther game at the stadium Sunday. At the left, Leo Harrison, Tiger fullback, is powering his way through the line on one of his numerous sorties. At right, John Massenburg ,3rd STR ace, is sweeping the end with the "masked marvel," Honey Smith of the Tigers, about to make the tackle. (Signal Lab Photos ,by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

Reception Center Displays Powerful Backs In 25-0 Triumph Over 3rd STR Panther Foe

Leo Harrison And Mike Cheatham Thrill Fans

By PFC. JOHN L. ROBINSON

The Reception Center Tigers outplayed the 3rd STR Panthers on Sunday at Doughboy Stadium for their 2nd victory of the season, 25-0.

The Tigers kicked off to the Panthers with Harrison holding and W. Baugh kicking. The ball was kicked over the goal line and Chandler, Panther back, returned it to the Panthers' own 25. With 3 unsuccessful attempts to smash the Tiger line, Chandler punted the ball down to the 40 where it was taken by Washington who brought it back to the Panthers' 45.

REVERSES CLICK

On the first down a reverse from Harrison to Hollingsworth picked up 15 yards. Halfback Johnson on a reverse then picked up 2 yards over right tackle, and a fake reverse to the left side of the line completely fooled the Panthers as fullback Leo Harrison went 17 yards. With a first down on the 11-yard line, Harrison handed the ball on the same reverse to Hollingsworth who raced for the first touchdown of the game. Baugh coverted for the extra point.

Early in the 2nd quarter after a touchdown was nullified by a penalty, a series of line plays put the RC on the 3 yard line where Harrison plunged over making the count 13-0. Baugh missed the try for the extra point.

RACES 65 YARDS

On the first play of the second half Mike Cheatham on a fake reverse, behind beautiful downfield blocking, scampered 65 yards to a touchdown. On the run Cheatham eluded 7 or 8 tacklers.

The fourth period found the RC backs, Harrison and Cheatham alternately, gaining yardage through the STR line. On a lateral from Cheatham to Harrison, Harrison ran 12 yards to the Panther 16 where Williams on the next play passed to Cheatham for their last score, 25-0. Baugh missed for the extra point.

ONLY THREAT

The Panthers threatened to score seriously only once; late in the 4th quarter with Chandler and Polk doing the running. The drive carried to the RC 17-yard-line. The stubborn RC linemen refused to yield any yardage, however, and the ball went over to the Tigers on downs.

For the Panthers, Head, Polk, Chandler, Massenburg, Kennedy, and Powell, were outstanding backs. In the line, Still, Irvin and Sims, ends, played a fine brand of ball.

For the Tigers, the backfield stars were Harrison, Cheatham and Hollingsworth. The entire RC line was superb. Their charging and blocking especially, left little to be desired.

STATISTICAL SUMMARY

	Panthers	Tigers
1st downs	4	15
Yds. rushing	37	302
Yds. lost rushing	37	30
Net yardage	53	272
Passes attempted	8	17
Passes completed	2	9
Yds. passing	29	91
No. of kicks	10	7
Avg. yds. kicking	32	30
Yds. lost on penalties	30	55

LINEUPS

Reception Center		3rd STR
D. Harris	LE	Irwin
Chambers	LT	Parker
Martin	LG	Wadlington
S. Smith	C	Stout
R. Baugh	RG	Holmes
Moulton	RT	Still
W. Baugh	RE	Stephens
Harrison	QB	Kennedy
Hollingsworth	HB	Massenburg
Johnson	HB	Chandler
Washington	FB	Head

Gen. John Joseph Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces in World War I, reaffirmed his belief in the necessity of "unconditional surrender" in this war on the occasion of the celebration of his birthday which was his 83rd.

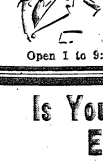
Ex-Grid Rivals Are Now Barracks Pals

War as well as politics makes strange bed fellows. In the Fifth Company, 3rd Student Training Regiment, war has brought two former football rivals together as barracks buddies. These men are Tommy Roblin, University of Oregon, and Frank Parker, Oregon State College, officer candidate in the Infantry School.

Out in Oregon the rivalry of these two is comparable to the Georgia-Georgia Tech relations in the Southeast. And for three successive seasons Parker and Roblin lined up against each other in these intense football battles. This gridiron battling has now been laid aside while the two players take on the bigger job of being OCs.

Parker and Roblin live in the same barracks where they once in a while get together for an exchange of notes on their Coast football days. Both are 1943 ROTC graduates.

Roblin started building his reputation in his sophomore year and by senior climaxed it with an All-Coast rating. He played for the West in the 1943 East-West Shriner game in San Francisco.



Parker, a guard, played in that even more noted institution, the Rose Bowl. In his junior year Parker came east with Oregon State to trounce Duke University in the 1942 transplanted Rose Bowl game at Durham, N. C.

Rolin, a hard-hitting back, when asked if his fellow OC had ever broken up one of his runs said that to his knowledge Parker had never personally encountered him upon the grid. However, the University player had a good respect for Parker's line backing ability.

Star-Studded Lineups

176th Spirits		300th Sabers
Poschner (Georgia)	E	Gilmore (Maryland
Heidel (Missouri)	T	Robinson (Baylor)
McBride (Notre Dame)	G	Routt (Texas A. & M.)
Witte (Okla. A. & M.)	C	Brzinski (St. Cloud's)
Ruark (Georgia)	G	Arms (Oklahoma A. & M.)
Cagle (Clemson)	T	Smithwick (Nevada)
Hales (North Carolina)	E	Simmons (Texas A. & M.)
Water field (U. C. L. A.)	QB	Peel (Tennessee)
Harris (L. S. U.)	LH	Allen (Kentucky)
Dudish (Georgia)	RH	Mullins (Kentucky)
Rogers (Tex. A. & M.)	FB	DiBlasi (Wash. and Lee)

Send Your Portrait So they may see you every day

Proofs for Your Inspection Before You Buy.
Our Price Within the Reach of All.

AIM'E DUPONT
Of Fifth Ave.
MILITARY STUDIOS
1219½ Broadway Tel. 3-1505
Columbus, Ga.
Open 1 to 9:30 P. M.; Sunday 2 to 6 P. M., E. W. T.

Is Your Present Insurance Estate Sufficient?

IF NOT—Let's Talk It Over

FILL IN BLANKS BELOW AND MAIL TO
D. Q. WILSON, COLUMBUS, GA.

Reliance Life Insurance Co.
Over 500 Million in Insurance in Force

NAME .....
ADDRESS .....
DATE AND TIME .....

Paratroop Private Wins Score Guessing Contest

A paratroop private, Leland Lee of Headquarters and Service Co. of the Parachute School, was the winner in the first weekly football guessing contest sponsored by the Bayonet, and thereby walked off with the first prize of $15 over this past week-end.

Second place honors went to Corp. A. C. Holoman, Co. F of the Academic Regiment, while the third position was t aken by a WAC, believe it or not. The score-guessing female soldier was Pvt. Edith Marie Woerner of the WAC Detachment, Station Complement, Section 1.

2,000 ENTRIES

Ye Football Editor was more than surprised along about Saturday morning when more than 2,000 entries poured across the desk. It was a banner entry list, and indicated that even more Benningites would be represented in this week's event.

Everyone from colonels to WAC privates took their chance at picking the winners and guessing the scores. If this week's response continues good, sponsors of the contest have promised to continue it for the remainder of the season, which means plenty of easy cash for Benning personnel.

Reception Center Battles Truckers In Saturday Game

Temporary possession of first place in the race for the 1943 Service Conference grid crown will be at stake Saturday night at 8 o'clock when the Reception Center Tigers collide with the Infantry School Truck Regiment eleven at Doughboy Stadium.

Both clubs already have earned decisions over the 3rd STR Panther machine, third member of the conference. The teams will play one another again later in the season.

The Tiger-Trucker battle, originally listed for tonight, was switched to Saturday night when the Clark College-Panther fray was moved to Atlanta.

Pay-Day Distance Calls Are Popular

You could almost tell when the paymaster pays off by keeping your eye on the public telephones at Fort Benning. Payday usually brings a rush for the telephone to call Mom, the girl friend, or the wife.

And when the rush is heavy, there is usually delay in getting calls placed or getting them completed, or probably both.

As Camp Telephone Manager L. A. Wood points out, the telephone lines and switchboards are crowded even during a normal wartime day, but when there is anything extra like a payday rush, they really have a load to carry. When too many calls are made at the same time, some must wait.

The telephone company cannot build enough lines to handle all calls presto, like before the war, because the raw materials they would use are going to war.

But we can help a little by suggesting that the best plan is to call before payday, or wait until after that glad day, Camp Manager Wood says.

Other suggestions to help: Avoid the busy evening rush periods from 7 to 10 o'clock; and before you talk, plan what you want to say—it will help you be brief and make the lines aavilable for the next call.

SOLDIER TICKETS

Special general admission tickets for enlisted men for the Georgia-L. S. U. game Saturday at Memorial Stadium in Columbus are now on sale at the office of the Fort Benning Athletic Association in the bowling alley building on the post proper. The price, for enlisted personnel only is 55 cents.

'TIS—

(Continued from Page 1)

Sabers smashed their way to a 19-triumph, but the Gators rebounded a week later to edge out the Spirits, 13-12.

Six Rose Bowl players will be on the rival teams Sunday, with the Spirits boasting possession of five of them. Four ex-Georgians, and Bob Waterfield of U. C. L. A. are wearing the crimson and gray of the 176th, while Al Solari, another ex-Uclan, is a Saber star The Waterfield-Solari passing and kicking duel will be a highlight of the game, since the lads were bosom pals a year ago with the Unclans and will be opposing one another for the first time.

SLICK BACKS

Both clubs are well equipped with fast-moving, spectacular running backs. Ermal Allen, ex-Kentucky tailback of the Sabers, and Sully Harris, former L. S. U. flash on the Spirits, are mighty mites who can really step high, wide, and handsome.

It is in the center of the line, though, that the greatest action may take place. In Joe Routt, former Texas A. and M. All-American, the 300th boasts one of the greatest guards of all time. His play against Tech last Saturday rated rave notice.

The Spirits, however, have a pair of 1942 collegians that they feel will give Routt a run for his money. Bob McBride, who played more minutes for Notre Dame last year than any other player, and Walter (Chief) Ruark, Georgia's all-SEC bruiser, are in fine fettle now and have added great strength to the 176th forward wall.

Another colorful factor is that both teams will use the T-formation at least part of the time. The Spirit attack is entirely T-model with expert Bob Waterfield doing the ball-handling, while the Sabers alternate between the T, and a single-wing offense.

The clubs have drilled hard all week, and outside games are completely forgotten as they prepare for Fort Benning's "grid battle of the year."

RATION—

(Continued from Page 1)

may obtain the books. If a maid is to be sent, she must have written authorization. Maids, boarders or others employed in the household who are not related to the householder by blood or marriage must secure separate books.

BOOK 3 CALLED FOR

Book 3, with cover filled out for each member of the family, must be presented before Book 4 can be issued. Military personnel who have recently gone on separate rations, or any others who do not have Book 3, must secure these books from the Ration Board at the 16th street school in Columbus before they can secure Book 4.

Book 4 will not be distributed to members of the armed forces who eat in messes; to persons confined in institutions; or to persons who will be in the county less than 60 days. Book 4 will be much simpler than previous books Sgt. Lipp explained, and is designed to last for perhaps 18 months. Many extra coupons are included for goods or materials that may have to be rationed later.

MISSION—

(Continued from Page 1)

the services, Father Hunt declared. He said that next week's mission will provide for a member of the mission to live, eat and sleep with each of the various larger units on the post so as to be available for talks with soldiers.

FUND—

(Continued from Page 1)

posited $69 in the fund's account, an average contribution of $7.67 per officer.

Although no overall reports have been turned in by the Infantry School, Parachute School, Seventh Armored Division or Lawson Field, a preliminary survey indicates that post-wide interest in the success of the drive t o raise $125,000,000 in the nation is encouraging all at Benning to contribute what they are able toward meeting the national goal.

Gott Sei Dank! Marge Is Finally On Way

Van Dine might have called it "The Case of the Missing Bride." Or was it Conan Doyle? That first thought occurred to us as Lieutenant John W. Richardson of the 9th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment at The Infantry School, unfolded the tale of his meandering Marg.

Three weeks ago, Lieutenant Richardson telegraphed Marge in California. He told her he was making arrangements and they would be married when she arrived at Fort Benning. Marg was delighted and wired back "On the way."

Richardson counted the days, the very hours, 'til she would arrive. His friends laid out their dress uniforms for the wedding.

Five days had passed with no word from Marg, and the lieutenant began to wonder. After writing several letters and sending urgent telegrams, he finally received word from his bride-to-be. She informed him that she had gotten her train ticket and would get here Monday.

His friends prepared anew for the gala event and Lieutenant Richardson again arranged with the chaplain. But Monday and Tuesday passed and still no Marg. Richardson had more patience than his friends and was quite relieved when he finally heard from Marg.

She is on her way.

Cobb Named To Benning Phone Post

Announcement was made today by F. B. Patterson, district manager of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., at Columbus, of the appointment of Oliver W. Cobb of Atlanta as camp manager at Fort Benning to assist L. A. "Jack" Wood, who has been on the post since February.

"A one of the steps to make telephone service to the Armed Forces the best possible under wartime conditions, we have appointed camp telephone managers to handle all telephone matters on the Post," Mr. Patterson said.

"Mr. Wood has handled both administrative and public telephone affairs at Fort Benning since succeeding O. S. Niehuss, early this year, and has become well known to official and enlisted personnel.

"The size of Fort Benning makes it necessary to add another camp manager, and Mr. Cobb was selected for this duty. He has been with the Telephone Company about six years, and is much interested in handling soldiers' telephone problems.

"Both Mr. Wood and Mr. Cobb will assist the men at Fort Benning in all telephone matters, giving particular attention to obtaining the best possible service from available facilities which cannot be supplemented because materials needed in telephone manufacture are going into war weapons, where they will do the most good right now. Their office is located in the Signal Building on the Main Post, but their duties will take them to all telephone locations and to all parts of the reservation. Much of the time, one of them will be found at the Attended Public Telephone room in Doughboy Stadium, where Southern Bell has provided trained attendants to assist soldiers in placing and completing their calls and to provide rate information, or receove payments, thereby eliminating the need for correct change. In addition, comfortable seats, current magazines and a file of telephone idrectories of cities called most often, are provided there. A similar arrangement is provided at the U. S. O. on Ninth street in Columbus.

"The Telephone Company has found that calls between soldiers and their home folks get through more quickly when the soldier places the call instead of having the call placed by the home folks from the other end. Time is saved, too, by avoiding, wherever possible, placing calls during telephone rush hours, which usually begin about 7 p. m. week days, or on Saturdays, Sundays or near paydays. Calls placed outside of such busy hours usually go through faster. Although rates are slightly higher before 7 p. m., Columbus time, on weekdays, service is generally faster then also."

Mr. Patterson asks that Fort Benning men who have telephone problems or who need assistance with telephone matters, feel free to call on Mr. Wood or Mr. Cobb. "You will find them vitally interested in your problems, and eager to help you get the best possible telephone service," he said.

1st STR Officer Saw Action Aplenty With British Commandos In Africa

Capt. Kibler Says Nazis Fight Best In Masses; Lack Initiative

Colonel John S. Roosma's 1st Student Training Regiment boasts an officer whose first-hand knowledge of our Nazi enemies is shared by few Americans. Now a member of the 15th company, Captain Frank N. Kibler operated with British commandos behind German lines during the heat of the battle for Tunisia.

Confirming reports that Hitler's legions don't compare with our men when it comes to individual iniative, Captain Kibler observed that "Germans are at their best in masses. They don't like night fighting or hand-to-hand tussels. But they are very tricky.

"The Nazis used plenty of mortars and automatic weapons. Their artillery time-fire was dangerous, although they seldom controlled it well," he declared.

Heading an American unit attached to the VI Commando, Ibler waded ashore at Algiers to help silence narby Fort Dupere. Two days later they again boarded destroyers and, in the wake of an Allied parachute attack, landed next morning to seize Bone airdrome from the Vichy French.

Captain Kibler remained with the British until February, 1943. Next month he rejoined his old division, and was placed in command of a rifle company. Five days after he had taken over, his unit went into battle.

The combination clicken, and they fought successfully at Green Hill, Sed Jeane, Kef Alahmar Pass, Hadjeb el Aioun, Fondouk and Sidi N Sir. Kibler and his men flirted twice with Lady Death. Once, ME 109's strafed the French train on which they were chugging across the African sands. Another time, a heavy shell landed and burst only six feet from their dugout.

A native of Steubenville, Ohio, Kibler was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Officer Reserve Corps after completing the four-year Infantry course of the CMTC. He came to The Infantry School to attend the Officers Advanced Course.

Writers' Workshop To Meet Tonight

First weekly meeting of a "writers' workshop" will be held tonight at 8 p.m. in the library of Service Club No. 5 in the Harmony Church area, Mrs. Hazel Reed, librarian, announced. The workshop was organized last week by a group interested in creative writing.

Membership will be open to writers of verse, stories, articles, novels or novelettes who aim toward publication. Members may be from Harmony Church or the Main Post.

Aiding Mrs. Reed, a former newspaperwoman, in steering the group will be Sgt. Harry M. Smyles, a free-lance writer before he entered the Army, and Lt. Charles Campbell, former instructor in writing at Howard University. The lieutenant has worked with Professor Sterling Brown, distinguished writer of poetry.

Sgt. Smyles is a graduate of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, and Mrs. Reed holds a degree from the Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern University. Further information about the workshop can be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Reed at Service Club No. 5.

O. C. Kullander Knows The Enemy's Ordnance

The Infantry School's committee on Basic Machine Gun had practically finished its conferences with the 18th Company, Third Student Regiment, and, as a form of acquainting all OCs with enemi weapons, displayed several pieces of equipment for close-up inspection. Candidate Anders N. Kullander's eyes were glued on a particular weapon in front of the stands, namely the Austrian Schwarzlose Machine Gun, and, at the command of "take a ten-minute break," he headed straight for the piece.

The class had been warned that the committee did not know all the technical data there was to know about some of the weapons so Kullander proceeded to demonstrate his ability and knowledge of the Schwarzlose by disassembly of the weapons. . . . he had learned all about it in the Swedish Army and, in fact, had instructed classes in its use and employment Kullander further proved his efficiency with the weapon by tearing it down and putting it back together again in speedy fashion.

Previous to his career in the U S. Army, Kullander had two years of compulsory military service in the Swedish army after his graduation from college in 1932. Upon completion of his military service he spent a year in a bank and from 1937 to 1939 he worked for the Swedish-American line as crew manager of the Gripsholm . . . now the diplomatic exchange ship. Later he was transferred to the Nordvisk Travel Bureau—the Swedish agent for the American Express Company in that country.

IN SWEDISH ARMY

In 1937 the Swedish army was mobilized and Candidate Kullander was called to duty, being sent to a platoon commander's school and later to the Swedish-Norwegian border for field duty. He remained there until the summer of 1940 when he was injured while on outpost duty and was sent to the army hospital. A lung wound he received released him from active duty two months later.

Kullander studied national economy while in college and majored in export and import, and due to this background was given the opportunity to come to the United States in 1941, being employed in the offices of Products From Sweden, New York City. As he was not in this country on a diplomatic visa, Kullander was required to register for the draft, and despite being a neutral subject, joined in the common cause.

The U. S. Army career of Candidate Kullander began in December, 1942, and, until his appointment to The Lnfantry School, he was at Fort Jackson.

On the way for a ski vacation in the Austrian Alps in 1930 Kullander spent several days in Munich and one evening met Field Marshal Herman Goering in the Hofbrau House, that city's famous beer restaurant. Kullander related itself among other organizations to the extent that would warrant the award of the Distinguished Service Cross to an individual according to an official memorandum.

Columbus Colonel Is 'Most Traveled;' In Seven Divisions

Youthful Lieutenant-Colonel Frank P. Norman is something of a G. I. gypsy, having served in no less than seven divisions before becoming the he was intelligence officer of the 80th Division at Fort Benning.

Not yet 30, the West Point graduate served in Hawaii before becoming attached to various infantry and armored divisions, including General Terry Allen's famed First, here in the United States.

Although born in Greenville, Ga., the much-traveled colonel calls Columbus his home and says he "is delighted" to be back.

Private's Order Kayos Sarge

A timid private nearly bowled over 1st Sergeant Talmadge W. Alderman of the 19th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment.

Answering a timid knock on the orderly room door with his hearty "come in," Alderman was momentarily stunned when Private Carl T. Hammonds, Enlisted Motor Course student at The Infantry School, blurted out, "Sergeant, I would like to buy a $1,000 bond." Sergeant Alderan recovered from his joyous surprise and sold Hammonds the security.

Hammond's wife lives in St. Louis, Mo., at 2739 Miami Street. He came to The Infantry School from the anti-tank company of the 346th Infantry at Camp McCain, Miss.

3rd STR Student Has Purple Heart Wound Decoration

Proof of the first aid instructor's statement that "your chances of living are better if you walk into a bullet rather than run away from it," is Candidate Herman J. Tenkman, Jr., of the 14th Company, Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School.

Tenkman, a printer whose home is in Cincinnati, came to the Third Student Training Regiment by way of several hospitals where he was treated for a wound suffered at Guadalcanal. He wears the Purple Heart decoration.

As he tells it, his outfit had been on the offensive for about a month and was pushing the Japs back, hill by hill, toward the tip of the island, when one morning the Nips made an ambush stand. The Americans were forced back across a stream that emptied into the ocean on the right flank.

Tenkman and a detail of men were sent back to establish a command post on the American-held side of the stream and everything was going along in a routine fashion until a Jap machine gun nest started picking off the detail.

After an exchange of shots, Tenkman started jockeying for position by dodging from tree to tree. A Jap burst tore into the tree Tenkman was using for cover and one bullet caught him in the stomach and came out his back. He was picked up and taken back to the Henderson Field Hospital and later evacuated to several Pacific base hospitals before returning to the United States.

The War Department has announced award of a citation to Army units distinguishing themselves by outstanding performance in action. To merit this fecognition a unit must have distinguished itself among other organizations to the extent that would warrant the award of the Distinguished Service Cross to an individual according to an official memorandum.

PAT PATTERSON
21st & 2nd AVENUE

THE BEST FRIED CHICKEN IN THIS TOWN

NO. 1 KANSAS CITY STEAKS THAT'S REALLY TENDER

CAT FISH DINNERS GA. STYLE

COME OUT ON THE NORTH HIGHLAND BUS
BRING THE FAMILY TONIGHT!
Try Our Sea Food Course—8 Private Dining Rooms

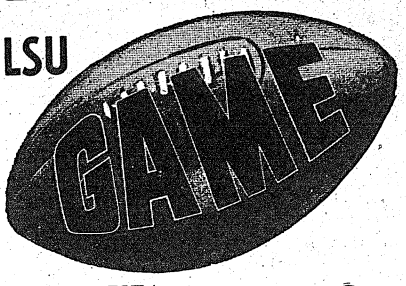
BAMA CLUB

Cocktail Bar Open 6 P. M.
TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY—9 P. M. & 11 P. M.
CHICKEN DINNERS, $1.50 WESTERN STEAK, $2.00
MUSIC BY VERNON YONKERS ORCHESTRA
For Reservations Dial 3-1051

Just Across Lower Bridge First Building on Right
Admission: Week Nites 50c Saturday Nite $1

ATTENTION!
FORT BENNING PERSONNEL

YOU ARE INVITED TO VISIT US AND SEE OUR COMPLETE LINE OF MILITARY NEEDS
MAKE THIS YOUR ONE-STOP STORE



Complete Military Outfitters
Barber Shop
Pressing—While You Wait
Also
Expert Tailoring and Altering
In Rear of Store

MAKE FLOWERS BROS. YOUR STORE WHILE AT BENNING

Flowers Bros.
1028 Broadway Phone 3-7881

BIG FOOTBALL CONTEST

Welcome Georgia vs. LSU

PICK THE WINNERS WIN $25 IN CASH!

It costs you nothing to enter. All you have to do is mark the scores of the game appearing in the ads on this page. Mail this to the Football Contest Edition, Fort Benning Bayonet, Box 711, Columbus, Ga., or bring it in to Public Relations Office at Post Headquarters. It must be postmarked not later than 12:00 Noon, October 21st. Winners to be announced in next Thursday's Bayonet.

RULES OF THE CONTEST:

1. Only Fort Benning Military personnel are eligible to enter the contest.
2. All scores must be marked in the space indicated in each ad on this page.
3. The person picking the most accurate scores will receive $15.00 in cash as first prize. The person picking the next most accurate scores, will receive second prize of $7.00 in cash. The third prize winner will receive $3.00 in cash.
4. Only one entry may be submitted by each individual.

Name .....

Address .....

AFTER THE GAME

COME OUT AND ENJOY

STEAKS-DINNERS
Chicken-in-the-Rough

All Fort Benning Personnel Welcome

MICHIGAN ( ) vs. MINNESOTA ( )

GOO-GOO

700 LINWOOD BLVD. DIAL 3-4491

CUSTOM TAILORS TO THE SERVICE SINCE 1845

"May the Best Team Win"

ARMY ( ) vs. YALE ( )

SMITH-GRAY

15 W. ELEVENTH ST. OPP. ARMY-NAVY USO

DIAL 5719

SEND HER COLORFUL CHRYSANTHEMUMS

FOR THE BIG GAME

WELCOME VISITORS

And a hearty welcome at all times to the boys at Fort Benning.

NORTHWESTERN ( ) vs. OHIO STATE ( )

GURLEY'S FLOWER SHOP
1010 13th St.

RALSTON HOTEL FLOWER SHOP
1210 2nd Ave.

MEET US AT THE GAME!

Royal Crown Cola will meet you there . . . even after the game R. C. will make a delightful refreshment.

ROYAL CROWN
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
COLA
DRINK

ON SALE AT ALL FORT BENNING GAMES

GEORGIA ( ) VS. L. S. U. ( )

NEHI Bottling Co.

OCTOBER is the Month to Change into WINTER UNIFORMS

Chancellor's maintains a complete line of military clothing. We meet your needs easily and quickly. On your next trip to town stop in.

GEORGIA TECH ( ) vs. NAVY ( )

CHANCELLOR COMPANY
Columbus' finest men's store

SPOT RIVERS AND HIS NIGHTINGALES

SAT. OCT. 16th at

THE NEW WINSEL CASTLE

2803 CUSSETA RD. DIAL 7373

LOUIS W. PHILLIPS, Mgr.

Steaks—Chickens—Beverages
PRIVATE DINING ROOM

Officers, Members, and Civilians Only

Closed on Mondays

INDIANA ( ) vs. WISCONSIN ( )

MOVE INTO SCORING POSITION WITH

UNCLE SAM

SUPPORT OUR WAR EFFORT IN EVERY DETAIL

"May the Best Team Win"

NOTRE DAME ( ) vs. ILLINOIS ( )

Wells
DAIRIES COOPERATIVE

2320 Wynn Rd. 2332 Cusseta Rd.

221 12th St. 1140 13th St.

Officer Candidates

SEE OUR DISPLAY IN YOUR REGIMENT AND VISIT OUR STORE FOR COMPLETE

UNIFORMS — CAPS
TIES — INSIGNIA — SLACKS
SHIRTS — TRENCH COATS
MILITARY SUPPLIES
LUGGAGE — SHORT COATS

We guarantee 100 per cent delivery of all goods purchased. . . .

WE DELIVER ONE WEEK PRIOR TO GRADUATION

Open Saturdays 'Til 10:30 P.M.
Open Week Days 'Til 8 P.M.
(Fort Benning Time)

PENN ( ) vs. COLUMBIA ( )

LEVINSON BROS.

1220 BROADWAY DIAL 3-3051

RANKS HIGH WITH THE RANKS

Be ready to catch that pass—and you'll feel more like it if you drink a refreshing Pepsi-Cola. drink refreshing Pepsi-Cola and often too.

CORNELL ( ) vs. COLGATE ( )

PEPSI-COLA
Bottling Co.
COLUMBUS, GA.

WELCOME GEORGIA-LSU

Good for Life and Grid Fans Too

TEXAS ( ) vs. RICE ( )

DR. PEPPER BOTTLING CO.

PHONE 5543

THERE'S FUN IN DANCING

Keep in step with that Soldier! We install and service machines in all areas of Fort Benning. Rhythm is our business.

TULANE ( ) vs. SOUTHERN METH ( )

PHONOGRAPHS OF ALL TYPES

GEORGIA MUSIC CO.

1045 6th Ave. DONALD LEEBERN, Owner Dial 22954

AFTER THE GAME

DINE and DANCE at the

BAMA CLUB.

COCKTAIL BAR OPENS 6 P. M.

2 Floor Shows Nightly—9 P. M. and 11 P. M.

Chicken Dinners $1.50 Western Steaks $2.00

Music By Veron Yonkers Orchestra

For Reservations Call 3-1051

Just Across Lower Bridge—First Building on Right

COLLEGE OF PACIFIC ( ) vs. SOUTHERN CAL. ( )

We Invite You to Inspect Our Shop And Equipment

The only completely equipped shop in town to service your Dodge, Chrysler, DeSoto or Plymouth.

Welcome

GEORGIA and LSU

ST. MARYS PREFLIGHT ( )
vs.
CALIFORNIA ( )

JNO. A. POPE MOTOR CO.

1216 1st. Ave. Dial 5575

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion 8:30 a. m. Sunday school in the children's school across from the Service Club. 9:45 a. m. Woman's Adult Bible class meets with the Sunday school. (Mothers who bring their children to Sunday school are invited to remain.) Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "To Thee We Sing"—Tkach. The offertory: "God Is My Shepherd"—Dvorak. The sermon: Chaplain Frank M. Thompson. Christian League for Service. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Frederick W. Heller.

THE ARMORED

Protestant: Chapel No. 1 (Move & Scott) 10 a. m., Chaplain Pomeroy. Chapel No. 2 (2nd & Bourg), 8 a. m., Chaplain Seward; 9:00 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Lewis; Chapel No. 3 (10th & Scott), 8 a. m. (Communion), Chaplain Pell; 10 a. m., Chaplain Chaix; 11 a. m. Chaplain Pell; 7 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Chaix and Chaplain Pell. Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain Cermak. 10 a. m., Chaplain Kelly; 11 a. m. Chaplain Johnson; 7 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Johnson; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), Chaplain De La Vergne, 10 a. m., Chaplain McLeod; 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain McLeod; Stockade, 1:30 p. m., Chaplain Cermak.

Catholic Masses: Chapel No. 1 (Move & Scott), 9 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 2 (10th & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain Lynch; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), Chaplain Keating, 11 a. m., Chaplain Keating; Theatre No. 6 (10th & Bourg) 10:30 a. m., Chaplain Lynch.

Jewish Service: Jewish service, conducted by Chaplain Shain, is held every Monday evening at 7:30 at Chapel No. 4, Sand Hill Area.

Provisional: Sunday services held for members of the Provisional Truck Regiment are: Chapel No. 1, 4th detachment 8:30 a. m.; 1st detachment 10:00 a. m. Worship service at 11:00 a. m. Services will also be held in B Company, 5315 in the service Battalion area of the Third Student Training Regiment. The 2nd and 3rd Battalions have Bible school at 10:30 a. m. and worship service at 11:30 a. m. Service held in Building No. 5031, Third Battalion area, Provisional Truck Regiment.

194th Infantry: Sunday morning worship service at 9:15 a. m. in the Main Post Chapel. Chaplains Arvid Lewis and John Treiber.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 8:30 and 11:30 a. m. Communion each first Sunday morning. Lutheran service 9:30 a. m. (Communion) and 2nd Sunday. Bible Hour, Thurs., 6:45 p. m. Chaplain Herman A. Milchelkie.

Lawson Field: Sunday morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday evening service at 8 p. m. Chaplain Geo. L. Forney.

Theatre No. 6: Main Post, corner of Weld and Anderson: Mass at 6 a. m. Regt. STR, and Acad. Regt. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Communion service each Sunday. Bible Hour, 7 p. m. in 4th Bn Chaplain's office, 1st STR, Chaplain G. E. Beddoe.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for the Det. Med. Dept. 9:30 a. m. Also colored Det. Med. Dept. services in colored day room at 8 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Recreation Hall, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:45 a. m. Chaplain Isaac McDougald.

506th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Evening vespers, 7:45 p. m. Chaplains Robt. M. Jones and Charles O. Daniel.

176th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 8:15 a. m. in main post chapel. Chaplain Arnold Lewis.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Main Post Chapel Tuesday evenings 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 6321.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

124th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Lutheran service at 10:15 a. m. General Protestant service at 11:15 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and C. H. Ritchie.

3rd STR: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chaplain William Willingham. Sunday school and worship 8:15 a. m. for Service Bn.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 6, Regimental services at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain A. E. Sillman. Also Regimental services at 11 a. m. in "The Chapel In The Grove." Chaplain George Kitchbaum. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Stanmore.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 82nd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 51st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Ordnance area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward

Hq., ASTP: Chapel No. 4: Morning worship, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey.

4th Trg. Regt. ASTP: Bldg. E-16: Services at 8:30 a. m. Chaplain Theodore Bachelor; 3rd Bn., Bldg. 4267, 6:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Services 8:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Catholic mass, 8 a. m. 4th Bn. 4th Trg. Regt., Bldg. 4267, Kelly and Alton Roads: Bible class, 8 a. m.; Protestant service, 9:30 a. m., 4th Bn. in 4th Bn. Administration. Geo. L. Ritchey, chaplain.

5th Trg. Regt., ASTP.: 9:30 a. m. Catholic mass in The Chapel Grove; 10:30 a. m. Protestant services in Theater No. 4. Chaplain Boergen.

6th Trg. Reg't—9 a. m. Catholic mass, Bldg. 8005. 10:30 a. m. general Protestant services, Bldg. 8005. Chaplain Bachelor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Harmony Church Area, Chapel No. 6, Friday evening 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 6321.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4 Main Post, 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and the Lawson Field front 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 a. m.; 12 noon; 4 p. m.; 8:45 p. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between Ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m. in Chapel No. 2, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, building No. 5201, located on 5th Division Road and Quebec. Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 8 a. m. and 9:25 Sunday Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 6, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 6 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 6:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

Chapel No. 3 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3 Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, located on Weld and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Confession will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For personnel on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the Children's school, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Rd., opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the services.

For members of the 3rd and 5th Training Regiments, The Infantry School WAC Detachment, Station Hospital No. 2 and A.S.F.F. Headquarters: At 9 a. m. in Building 5786, Regimental Recreational Hall, 5th Training Regiment Area.

For personnel in the 4th, 5th and 6th Training Regiments, 124th Infantry, 244th and 252nd Field Artillery Bns., and 82nd Ordnance Co: At 10:30 a. m. in Theatre No. 4, near Service Club No. 3.

For personnel in the Sand Hill Area: Every Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m. in Chapel No. 4.

WE HAVE SUCCESSFULLY TRAINED THOUSANDS

Let us train you.

ENROLL NOW!

Gregg Shorthand

Secretarial Training

Touch Typewriting

Bookkeeping and Higher Accounting

Burroughs Machine Bookkeeping

CO-EDUCATIONAL

Rates: for day students $17.50 per month for tuition, use of books and all necessary supplies.

Morning or afternoon students: $12.50 per month, five days a week.

10:30 A.M. to 1:30 P.M., then an hour for dinner, then 2:30 to 4:00 P. M.

Evening students: 7 to 9 P.M. on Mondays and Thursdays only.

Above hours are Benning time.

TRUMAN & SMITH INSTITUTE

1029 Second Avenue

Columbus, Georgia

Dial 2-0914

Free catalog on request.

Gifts - Antiques

Shop Early for Christmas!

ELLEN WORRALL

1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

FAST AND ACCURATE action in the big top by three members of the famous Flying Concellos, featured by the Ringling Bros. and Barnum Z Bailey Circus.

Women's Activities

WOMAN'S CLUB

Current Events Group—Monday, October 25, 2 p. m., ladies' lounge of Officers' Club. Colonel William Hobson speaker.

Spanish Group—Every Tuesday in Officers' Club. Class for beginners at 2:30 p. m., for advanced at 3:30 p. m.

Bridge Group—Tuesday, October 26, Officers' Club. Instruction at 2 p. m. Play at 2:30 p. m. in main lounge.

Exercise Group — Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, from 8:15 a. m. to 8:45 a. m. in ladies lounge of Officers' Club.

RED CROSS WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. John McFall; Tuesday, Mrs. John Magoni; Wednesday, Mrs. Warren Christian; Thursday, Mrs. William Huffstetler; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes.

Sewing and knitting—Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. In charge Tuesday, Mrs. H. R. Morgan; Thursday, Mrs. James Weaver.

STAFF ASSISTANCE CORPS—On duty at Work Room Friday, October 22, Mrs. Kibbe; Monday, October 25, Mrs. Mercado, Mrs. Chalgren; Tuesday, October 26, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Hammargren; Wednesday, October 27, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Chapman; Thursday, October 28, Mrs. Dulin, Mrs. Grimes.

MOTOR CORPS—Headquarters at the Red Cross Work Room. Telephone 2058 for motor corps. Old magazines you are discarding. On duty Friday, October 22, Mrs. Lindsey; Monday, October 25, Mrs. Broadhurst; Tuesday, October 26, Mrs. Olkari; Wednesday, October 27, Mrs. Thorn; Thursday, October 28, Mrs. Dickerson.

GRAY LADIES—On duty Friday, October 22, at Station Hospital: Captain, Mrs. Venable; library, a. m., Mrs. Finnegan; p. m., Mrs. Hardy; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Chase, p. m., Mrs. Webb; arts and crafts shop, a. m., Mrs. Webb, p. m., Mrs. Griffith. Wards: Messdames Shine, Rosenberger, Overfelt, Chase.

Saturday, October 23: Captain, Mrs. Branstadt; library, a. m., Mrs. Holton, p. m., Mrs. Whittemore; floor, a. m., Mrs. Gordon; wards, Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Miles.

Monday, October 25: Captain, Mrs. Elliott; desk, Mrs. McKee; wards, Mrs. Spann, Mrs. Bass Lewis, Mrs. McCormick; library, a. m., Mrs. Griffith, p. m., Mrs. E. Lewis; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford; arts and crafts shop, a. m., Mrs. Spann, p. m., Mrs. D. A. Turner.

Tuesday, October 26: Captain, Mrs. Finnegan; wards, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Whittemore; library, a. m., Mrs. Broome, p. m., Mrs. Griffith; floor, a. m., Mrs. Sanders, p. m., Mrs. Webb.

Wednesday, October 27: Captain, Mrs. Perrine; wards, Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Venable, Mrs. Stevens; library, a. m., Mrs. Stevens, p. m., Mrs. R. W. Smith; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Dillard, p. m., Mrs. Wright; arts and crafts, a. m., Mrs. Venable.

Thursday, October 28: Captain, Mrs. Hersey; wards, Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Gold; library, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford, p. m., Mrs. Rosenberger; arts and crafts shop, Mrs. Holton.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

OCT. 21

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:55 P.M.—Hersch and the news—WRBL

8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Chorus—WRBL

9:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL

9:30 P.M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS

10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU

11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

OCT. 22

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—Kate Smith—CBS

6:30 P.M.—The Thin Man—CBS

6:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

9:30 P.M.—That Brewster Boy—CBS

10:00 P.M.—Camel Caravan—WRBL

10:45 P.M.—Elmer Davis, News

OCT. 23

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

2:30 P.M.—Spirit of '43—CBS

3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL

4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL

5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC

7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU

7:00 P.M.—Report to the Nation—CBS

7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL

7:30 P.M.—"Enough And On Time"—BLU

8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS

OCT. 24

5:00 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—WRBL

5:45 P.M.—Doctors Courageous—CBS

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL

7:00 P.M.—The Commandos—CBS

7:30 P.M.—"The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS

7:30 P.M.—"We, The People"—WRBL

8:15 P.M.—We Speak Up Battlefronts—CBS

9:00 P.M.—Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO)—WRBL

9:30 P.M.—Fred Allen—CBS

10:00 P.M.—Take It or Leave It—CBS

10:30 P.M.—Men Behind the Gun—CBS

OCT. 25

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

5:45 P.M.—Keep the Homefires Burning—CBS

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

7:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarterhour—WRBL

8:30 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—Variety show, featuring the Reception Center Orch.—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

OCT. 26

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:55 P.M.—Harsch and News—CBS

7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Service"—NBC

8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast—

9:00 P.M.—Burns and Allen—CBS WRBL

OCT. 27

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

8:00 P.M.—Sammy Kaye—CBS

9:30 P.M.—Milton Berle & Co.—CBS

Boys' Activities

Monday through Saturday — Football practice at Doughboy Stadium. 5:45 p. m.

Friday—Scout Troop 11, 7:30 p. m. Scout Cabin.

Saturday—Cub Pack Number 1, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Ranger Battalion, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Movies

MAIN THEATER AND THEATER NO. 8

Oct. 21-22—FLESH AND FANTASY—Charles Boyer and Barbara Stanwyck.

Oct. 23-25—EVERYBODY HAPPY—Ted Lewis and Band and Nan Wynn.

Oct. 26-27—PRINCESS O'ROURKE—Olivia De Haviland, Jack Carson and Robert Cummings.

Oct. 28-29—To be announced.

THEATERS NO. 2 AND 3

Oct. 21—TORNADO—Chester Morris and Nancy Kelly.

Oct. 22—YOUNG IDEAS—Mary Astor and Herbert Marshall.

Oct. 23-24—FLESH AND FANTASY—Charles Boyer and Barbara Stanwyck.

Oct. 25—IS EVERYBODY HAPPY—Ted Lewis and Band and Nan Wynn.

Oct. 26-27—PRINCESS O'ROURKE—Olivia De Haviland, Jack Carson and Robert Cummings.

THEATERS NO. 4 AND 5

Oct. 21-22—GIRL CRAZY—Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney.

Oct. 23—TORNADO—Chester Morris and Nancy Kelly.

Oct. 24—YOUNG IDEAS—Mary Astor and Herbert Marshall.

Oct. 25-26—FLESH AND FANTASY—Charles Boyer and Barbara Stanwyck.

Oct. 27—IS EVERYBODY HAPPY—Ted Lewis and Band and Nan Wynn.

THEATERS NO. 6 AND 7

Oct. 21 — CORVETTE K-225 — Randolph Scott and Andy Devine.

Oct. 22—HIYA SAILOR—Elyse Knox and Donald Woods.

TEXAS KID—Johnny Mack Brown and Raymond Hatton.

Oct. 23-24—GIRL CRAZY—Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney.

Oct. 25—TORNADO—Chester Morris and Nancy Kelly.

Oct. 26—YOUNG IDEAS—Mary Astor and Herbert Marshall.

Oct. 27—FLESH AND FANTASY—Charles Boyer and Barbara Stanwyck.

THEATERS NO. 8 AND 11

Oct. 21—ANNEX DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Oct. 22—DANGEROUS BLONDES—Evelyn Keyes and Allyn Joslyn.

Oct. 23—TOP MAN—Donald O'Connor and Susanna Foster.

Oct. 24-25—CORVETTE K-225—Randolph Scott and Andy Devine.

Oct. 26—IS EVERYBODY HAPPY—Ted Lewis and Band and Nan Wynn.

Oct. 27—GIRL CRAZY—Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney.

THEATER NO. 10

Oct. 21—HIYA SAILOR—Donald Woods and Elyse Knox.

TEXAS KID—Johnny Mack Brown and Raymond Hatton.

Oct. 22—ADVENTURES OF TARTU—Robert Donat and Valerie Hobson.

Oct. 23—YANKEE DOODLE DANDY—James Cagney and Joan Leslie.

Oct. 24-25—To be announced.

Oct. 26-27—CORVETTE K-225—Randolph Scott and Andy Devine.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Pine Tree Troop of Girl Scouts, with Mrs. Berkowitz as leader, meets Mondays at 2:45 p. m. in the Girl Scout cabin. All members of the troop are urged to attend.

A pair of WAC officers were sent under secret orders to report directly to Maj. Gen. Ira Eaker at U. S. Eighth Air Force Headquarters in England. The two were so serious about their orders that they would not report to anyone else. Finally a colonel of the Adjutant General's office persuaded them to report to him.

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By Phyllis

Our husbands of the post now have donned their ODs and most of us have our warm tweeds out and look to them for these cool mornings. Come Sundays and football games and weekend walks or picnics, many of us would be delighted to have some of the lovely warm wraps displayed in the Sport's Shop at THE J. A. KIRVEN CO., in Columbus. In "Your Complete Department Store," which rightly describes Kirven's, you can find most anything you wish. You'll be especially pleased with the fine array of sports clothing at Kirven's to add to your Fall wardrobe. Matching sweaters, which give quick and ready "substitutions," are available in slip-over or cardigan styles. These come with long sleeves with hand-finished crew necks: they're 100% wool, too. Fabric bags and wool scarfs included in this display would complement your Fall outfit and be the cause for much admiration by your friends. And, of course, if you're looking for a new Fall suit, by all means inspect the fine expertly tailored garments in the sports shop: they're tops.

—V—

"When you must choose one, it is wise to choose the best" . . . and with that the MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE COMPANY presents their admirable offering of Florsheim women's shoes. These Florsheims are favorites with women who like to walk. And I might say that since all need the exercise and pleasure that walking affords, it is most sensible to select some good shoes with which to do our walking. But Miller-Taylor not only offers Florsheims but also good selections of Bass, College Bred, Vitality, Red O'Neil and Mademoiselle. All of these "name brand" shoes come in a variety of styles and colors. Nowadays when shoe rationing keeps our supply of footwear to a minimum so far as purchases it is apparent that when we select shoes we should seek the neighborhood of 1130 Broadway, why not drop in at Miller-Taylor's? You will also be pleased with the offerings of men's and youngsters' shoes.

—V—

As new Army families come to Columbus and Fort Benning, the new-found Army wife meets many problems. One of the most vexing is the problem of finding a place in which to select incidentals for one's new home: be it an occasional chair, a can of paint for the floor, window shades or a few dishes. MONTGOMERY WARD at 1201 Broadway at the corner of 12th Street in Columbus has an exceptionally vast display of such articles. If your dishes are only the hit and miss style, that is, your everyday dishes, why not think seriously of selecting a new, inexpensive set of dishes. Fine quality sets are offered at Ward's and are bound to please anyone. In Ward's basement, you will also find several counters of kitchen aids: pots and pans and various utensils which go for making cooking all the more pleasurable. Glasswear suitable for casserole dishes are always a "must" on a housewife's kitchen list. Why not take an inventory of your dishes and utensils so that the next time you're in town shopping, you might stop by Ward's and find what you are seeking?

—V—

When you next pass by the "Shop of Original Styles" in Columbus you should certainly go in and look through their enticing new Fall clothes. KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, INC. always has an inviting display of the newest clothes. Inside this shop, which boasts of the latest in women's fashions, you'll now find all types of clothing for your Fall wardrobe. Especially pleasing are the delightful new garments with off-shade colors which are the newest thing this Fall. Kayser-Lilienthal's fashions are the fashions of Fifth Avenue, of Chicago, and of San Francisco. Your tastes are bound to find satisfaction in the shop where only quality clothing is on display. It is so pleasing to go into this shop where the sales personnel is constantly at hand to find whatever you may like. In these days of rushing about, the presence of courteous sales help to serve you is really most important. The fine array of clothing, in addition to the courteous and prompt service one gets, makes Kayser-Lilienthal a favorite on my shopping guide.

Watch, Clock, and Jewelry Repairing

Quick Service

B & S JEWELRY CO.

1724 Hamilton Rd.

Dial 2-1064.

CALIFORNIA AND NEW YORK WINES

WINERY BOTTLED

For Home Use

PORT — SHERRY — MUSCATEL

BURGUNDY — SAUTERNE

$1.00 to $1.75

A Bottle

City Pharmacy

14—13th Street

Just Off Broad — Opp. Waverly Hotel

Trapeze Stars To Thrill Circus Fans Tuesday

We have all heard of passing the buck, but when the three troupes of the Flying Concellos, performing high above the rings of The Greatest Show on Earth, go into their passing trick, there's no passing the buck. Everybody's as busy as the proverbial one-armed paper hanger, for everybody knows what he is doing and does it—in perfect rhythm.

In the photograph the No. 1 troupe—Art Concello, Antoinette and Eddie—are in the fast and accurate action of the passing trick. Art is somersaulting over Antoinette to Eddie's outstretched hands. Antoinette, whom Eddie has just released in full swing, is reaching for the empty trapeze bar. On the next swing, Eddie will release Art, who will grasp the bar alongside Antoinette. Then Art and Anoinette will swing together to the pedestal, far to the left.

The Three Flying Concello troupes are among the outstanding features of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, coming to Columbus, Tuesday, October 26 on its long, silver-enameled, railroad trains, streamlined this year in red, white and blue, with 1600 people, 50 elephants and hundreds of wild animals and horses.

The performances, featuring five new and opulent spectacles, produced at a cost of $200,000, will begin at 2:15 and 8:15 p. m. in the world's largest tent.

The doors will open at 1 and 7.

Kiddies Dance For Luckies

Seventh Armored soldiers were treated to a dance revue in miniature last week when eight youngsters ages 5-13 danced their way into the hearts of scores of GIs at the Sand Hill Service club.

All students at Miss Virginia Ogie's School of the Dance in Columbus, the children staged a remarkably professional show despite their tender years.

Diminuitive Nancy Jean Harris and Sunny Cook, ages eight and nine respectively, stole the show with their well turned performances as a team. Nancy & Sunny, as they were billed, did clever little routines to the tunes "Frankie & Johnnie," and "For Me & My Gal" which they also sang to piano accompaniment. They brought down the house though, when they broke into a rumba routine.

Sharing audience appeal with these two was tiny Toni Wheelis whose Hawaiian hula to "Little Brown Gal" proved to be very popular with the boys.

Nine-year-old Jan Booth emceed the entire show in which Betty Jean and Dottie Booth participated as did little Larry McCormack, Jane & Judy Gullatt, and Jeanie McDonald.

Although this was the children's first appearance before the "Lucky 7th" they have played to other army organizations several times before, according to Mrs. Sue Wheelis, mother of tiny tap-dancing Toni.

Mrs. Winifred Baker, service club senior hostess, said that the pupils of Miss Virginia Ogie had always been popular with service men in Fort Benning.

Classical Music To Be Regular USO Feature

A series of programs of classical music via records has been arranged for Fort Benning soldiers by the 9th Street USO in Columbus.

The club's library of classical records will be available at all times to individuals. Special programs for group listening will be presented each Wednesday night at 8 o'clock EWT and on Sunday afternoon from 4:30 to 5:30.

A radio will be available to receive the broadcasts of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra each Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Broadcasts of the Metropolitan Opera on Saturday afternoons also will be heard when the season begins.

The next examination of applicants for appointment as first lieutenants in the Medical Corps will be held from January 24 to January 27, 1944. Applications must be made to the Adjutant General not later than Jan. 7.

Gen. Bonesteel Says Camp Papers Build Morale

That camp and regimental newspapers contributed greatly to the morale of troops was affirmed by Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of the Infantry School in a short talk to the public relations officers and editors of the weekly papers published by units of the Infantry School.

He expressed himself as being pleasantly surprised at the number and excellence of the papers which he found here.

As an afterthought, he admitted he was a newspaperman himself and showed a copy of a camp newspaper which was published in Iceland where he commanded forces of the United Nations before his assignment to the Infantry School.

Radio Expert Commands Unit

Radio operators-to-be in the 24th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School are fortunate to have as their new company commander a recognized communication expert. He is Captain Charles E. Farmer, Jr., assistant design engineer at the West Lynn, Mass., General Electric plant for six years before he entered active duty in 1942.

Graduate of South Carolina's Clemson A. & M. College in 1936, Farmer received his B.S. degree in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering. Having completed ROTC, he was at the same time commissioned a 2nd lieutenant, Officers Reserve Corps. Captain Farmer is also a February 1943 Officers Communivation Course graduate of The Infantry School.

Called to active service in October 1942, he was stationed first at Camp Croft, S. C., and then at Camp Rucker, Ala. Armed with technical knowledge and troop-leading experience, Captain Farmer's company at Fort Benning is now undergoing its third month of Colonel John S. Roosma's 1st S.T.R. as Commanding Officer of the 24th Company.

1st STR Em's Rate Promotion

Promotions of the following enlisted men of the 1st Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School, were announced by Colonel John S. Roosma, regimental commander:

To staff sergeant: Sgt. Samuel P. Kesterson, T-4 James O. Scott, T-4 Ulysses Tyson.

To sergeant: Cpl. Lester A. Austermiller.

To technician grade 4: Cpl. Leroy Oughton, Cpl. Cecil F. Wallace, Cpl. Alton J. White, T-5 Carl W. Snodgrass, T-5 Gow Go, T-5 Wade L. Letts, T-5 Edwin Presant, T-5 Elton Ramsey, Pvt. Thomas L. Strong.

To corporal: T-5 Anthony L. Calderone, Pfc. Walter P. Boyd, Jr., Pfc. Chester M. Mizerski, Pfc. John B. Burrell.

To technician grade 5: Pfc. John Brown, Pfc. George J. Buffkin, Pfc. Price P. Poore, Pfc. Buell L. Edison, Pfc. Murcer G. Reed, Pvt. Lynn E. Matlock, Pvt. Clifton W. Waldron, Pvt. Woodrow W. Bradley, Pvt. James A. Seymour.

To private first class: Pvt. Billy A. Siler.

EXCELLENT RECORD

Ninety-nine of the 120 students who started the Infantry School Enlisted Motor Course with the 1st Student Training Regiment's 20th Company, commanded by Captain Dale J. Johnson, graduated on October 19. Theirs was the distinction of winnig the 4th Battalion's red, white and blue ribbons for outstanding march discipline.

DOG & CAT HOSPITAL

Complete Hospital Service

Bathing and Grooming

DR E. A. DAVIS

1006 - 13th St Dial 8871

TIS Student Praises Latin American Efficiency

A combination of troop duty through the Americas and military diplomatic service highlights the Army career of Major Charles P. Baldwin of Wayne, Pennsylvania and New Orleans, La. A regular Army officer, he is now a student in the officer Advanced course, 2d Company, 1st Student Training Regiment.

Major Baldwin was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1931 and was given his initial assignment in the 25th Infantry Regiment, then at Eau Gallie, Ariz. Three years with the 25th added practical troop leading experience to Baldwin's military education, following which came promotion to first lieutenant and assignment to an Infantry Regiment in the Panama Canal Zone.

This duty in a Spanish speaking sector of the globe proved the start of Major Baldwin's military diplomatic career for it was here that he attained a working knowledge of the Spanish language by attending conversational classes night after night and spending much of his time in the company of Panamanians. This he garnered as a working knowledge of Spanish and South Americans later to qualify him for observer and attache duty in Central and South America.

THE REGULAR COURSE

After three years of troop-duty at Panama, Major Baldwin returned to the United States and was detailed to a comprehensive nine-months training course at Fort Benning, then entitled the "regular" course. Completion of the work in June, 1937, found Major Baldwin at Fort (then Camp) Dix for two years of troop duty as a company commander, followed by another tour in the Panama Canal Zone.

Once again in Panama, Major Baldwin rounded out his familiarity with Spanish speaking people and succeeded in mastering the Spanish language, first while on duty with an infantry regiment and then as a staff officer in the Panama Canal Department.

June, 1941, found Major Baldwin, then a captain, on his way to observer duty with the Chilean Army in South America. Assigned to a machine gun company, he found the Chilean military force made up of excellent personnel, remarkable well trained and making effective use of limited equipment. According to Major Baldwin, only Chile's officer and non-commissioned officer personnel are professional military men comparable to our Regular Army, all other enlisted Chilean soldiers being drawn for nine months' training from Chile civilian population through a compulsory military training program.

P. C. Z. FLURRY

Major Baldwin returned to Panama for higher staff duty on Dec. 4, 1941, just three days before Pearl Harbor. When the "stab-in-the-back" news broke, anxiety arose among the civilians in Panama but this was dispelled shortly as the Army evidenced its readiness and commenced a far-reaching roundup and internment of Italian, German, and Japanese nationals in the Canal Zone, Major Baldwin stated.

After a short tour of duty at Army Ground Force headquarters in Washington, this hemisphere-trotting major was assigned as military attache to the United States Embassy at Salvador, Central America, where his duty led him to meet government and military officials of that country, including Maximiliano Martinez, then president of Salvador. According to Major Baldwin, Central Americans are a gracious people, the country efficient, Salvadorans clever and industrious.

Back to Washington in the early part of this year and now at the Infantry School as a student, Major Baldwin is assigned to the 2nd Company, 1st Student Training Regiment under the command of Colonel John S. Roosma.

Ex-Jap Captive To Speak Monday

Robert Bellaire, United Press correspondent who was held captive by the Japanese and recently released, will give a free lecture Monday night at 9 o'clock Fort Benning time at the Columbus high school. His subject will be "What Shall We Do With Japan in Defeat." He is speaking under the auspices of the Friedlaender Fund and military personnel of Fort Benning has been invited.

DEPENDABLE WORK

COLUMBUS WATCH REPAIRS

HAROLD PEOPLES

PAUL FAISON

932 Broadway

SALTERS

20c TAXI

CLEAN CARS

COURTEOUS DRIVERS

WHITE PATRONS ONLY

DIAL 5321

1017—1st AVE.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

INCORPORATED

For FASTER SERVICE ...call when lines are Less Crowded

Long distance telephone lines are especially crowded during the evening rush hours which begin about 7 P.M.

Telephone lines are less heavily loaded in the early morning and late afternoon hours. Day rates are in effect during these periods, but you will find that calls generally go through faster than in the busy evening hours.

We can't expand telephone equipment to meet all demands fully, so we hope you'll take advantage of those times when war-burdened lines are less crowded.

NOW OPEN

White's

Game Department

(Upstairs over present location)

WITH TOYS and GAMES for KIDS from 4 to 80

SHOP EARLY

TO INSURE CHRISTMAS DELIVERY

MAIL BY DECEMBER 10th

The WHITE COMPANY

1211 BROADWAY DIAL 7701

Snake Helps Candidate Clear Obstacle In 'O' Flat Without Any 'Koching'

Some candidates have trouble going over the obstacle course in the allowed time, but such is not the case with Candidate Leonard Koch of the Fifth Company, Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School.

Candidate Koch probably broke all records for running the obstacle course, but conditions were such that he never had time to look at his watch.

On Sunday, Koch decided that his obstacle course running could stand some brushing up, so he went to this spot with thoughts of running the course in a good time but what he saw while running changed all of Koch's prearranged plans and accounts for his record.

For the time seven obstacles, Koch's time was fair, but it took the eighth obstacle to provide enough impetus to get Koch around in a hurry.

MID-AIR HISS

The eighth obstacle consists of a ramp and a pit which must be cleared. Well, in this pit on that Sunday morning was something that shouldn't have been there. Candidate Koch was in mid-air when he heard a hissing that was strange for even Harmony Church on this Sunday morning, and looking down into the pit there was an object that was decidedly unfamiliar to Koch, who hails from New York City and doesn't have a great knowledge of the piney woods. It didn't resemble the physical training instructor and it really had Koch puzzled for a while.

But Koch, remembering what the First Aid Committee taught about snakes, combed through his memory and decided that this was a timber rattler, so right then he decided to leave this territory in a hurry and he, in so doing, cleared the next four obstacles in nothing flat.

When he finally got around, Koch thought that his story might be taken as one of those "fish stories," so with a sturdy limb Koch went to the pit and smote this creature a blow so that he would not force other candidates to expend their energy in the manner that he had.

For all who are skeptical, a visit to the Fifth Company, where the skin of this five-foot rattler, its teeth and six rattles are exhibited, should convince the most unbelieving.

TIS Officer Off To Yale

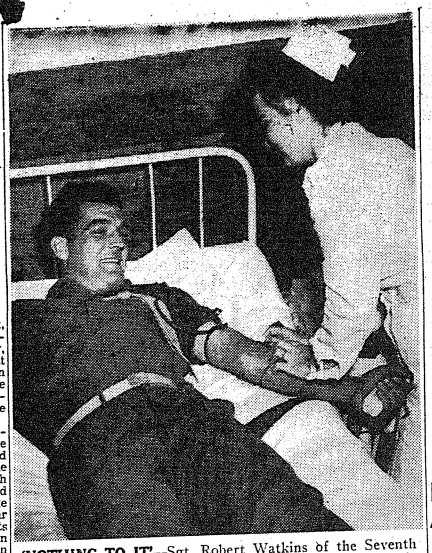
Lt. Yavelak To Study Chinese Language

First Lieut. William Yavelak, commanding officer of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School, has been selected to take a course in the Chinese language at Yale University, to which institution he will report for duty October 31.

An accomplished linquist, Lieutenant Yavelak speaks Chinese and Russian fluently. He acquired his knowledge of the former while stationed in China with the 15th Infantry several years ago and learned the Russian language shortly after the last World War when he accompanied his parents on a visit to their former home in a village i inthe White Russian area.

Lieutenant Yavelak enlisted in the Regular Army 11 years ago and his tours of duty have taken him not only to China but, to Panama, Hawaii and numerous posts throughout the United States. He was in China 22 months, stationed at Tientsin. There he was enrolled in a Chinese language course at an Army school where the son of General Stillwell was an instructor.

He was at Fort Ord when he was accepted for officer candidate training in Fort Benning. Upon completion of his course, he was commissioned Aug. 26, 1942, and served as a tactical officer until April of this year when he was assigned to Headquarters and Headquarters Company. He succeeded Capt. Donald F. Cothran in command of the company a month ago.



Lieutenant Yavelak's home is in Jersey City.

515th Paratroops, Medicos Score High Band Record

Members of the 515th Parachute Infantry and the Medical Detachment, Sections I and II, turned in high records for the war bond campaign drive at Fort Benning, it was reported today by Maj. George Fink, post bond officer.

Personnel of the 515th purchased bonds to the cash value of $16,529, or an average of more than $65, he reported. The Medical Detachment purchased cash value of $31,094 in bonds, an average of almost $60.

Several large individual purchases were recorded by Parachute troop men. Master Sgt. John E. Borom of Company "I" purchased $2,050 worth. T-Sgt. Victor McDonald, Service Company, bought a $1,200 bond, while Corporal P. J. Lannuti and Pvt. R. A. Wadsworth, both of Service company bought nine $100 bonds each.

'NOTHING TO IT'—Sgt. Robert Watkins of the Seventh Armored division, first Fort Benning soldier to donate his blood to the Atlanta mobile unit during the current three-day drive, is shown joking with R. N. Estelle Hodges of Atlanta as she inserts the needle. (Official U. S. Army Photo.)

ONE OF THE FEW SOLDIERS commissioned on the field of battle is Lt. Lloyd D. McGill of Concord, Tenn. As a platoon sergeant in the battle of El Guettar in the Tunisian campaign, he led the advance of the platoon in such a courageous fashion that he earned the Silver Star for bravery and the bars of a second lieutenant. He is now attending officers basic class in the 1st Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School. (Official U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Wonderful Girl, Wonderful Songs Swonderful!

Miss Gloria Grace, blonde song stylist, will give a concert of sweet, swing and semi-classical tunes for paratroopers of the Alabama area in Service Club No. 7 Monday night. She will feature the music of composer-publisher Dave Ringle, who has been writing music especially for her to sing to men and women in service.

Having been starred in supper clubs in the East, Miss Grace is hailed in Army camps as "golden voiced" Gloria Grace. She appears on special programs Sunday nights at Ninth Street USO and has been on "Fort Benning on the Air," a daily presentation over Station WRBL at 6 p. m. (EWT.)

For her Monday night show, Miss Grace will sing one of Ringle's "Songs of the Past" series entitled "There'll Be a Wonderful Time in This Wonderful Town When Those Wonderful Boys Come Home."

Howard Bus Stop At Post Laundry Now Eliminated

The bus stop of the Howard Bus Line of Post Laundry Number 2 at Fort Benning will be discontinued with the exception of a stop at 12:45 a. m. each morning, when it will take on laundry employée passengers only, it was announced at post headquarters.

The elimination of all but one stop at that point went into effect Thursday. It was announced, however, that the scheduled bus stops at the corner of Sightseeing and Indianhead Roads, one block west of Laundry Number 2, and the other in front of Post Theater Number 4, will remain in effect.

Two Chutists Die In Jump Mishap

Two paratroopers at Fort Benning's Parachute School were injured fatally last Thursday afternoon during a routine training jump.

The chutists collided in mid-air, about 100 feet above the ground. The two chutes tangled and deflated and the men dropped to the ground.

Private Andrew J. Kuretich, 22, son of Mrs. Apelonia Kuretich, of 325 East 62nd Street, Los Angeles, Calif., was killed as he struck the ground. The other soldier, Private Roger W. Thomas, 21, died a few hours after the accident in the Station Hospital.

Private Thomas, who was inducted into the army on November 9, 1942, was the son of Mrs. Agnes Thomas, East Troy, Wisconsin. Private Kuretich was inducted into the army on April 19, 1943.

A scout should make a kill quietly so as not to attract the attention of other enemy units.

Army Crack Sprinter Takes TIS Course

Another fleet-footed West Point graduate has come here to attend the officers basic course at The Infantry School is Lieut. Bernard W. Rogers, of Fairview, Kans. He's now attached to the 11th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment in the class of 1926 at the United States Military Academy.

As a cadet, Rogers' lightning-like performance on the cinders earned him his varsitiy letter in track for both 1942 and 1943. Participating in sprints and the mile relay, he remained undefeated during the entire 1942 season.

During 1943, he victoriously represented Army in the meets with the Pittsburgh and Columbia, with Brown, and in the Heptagonal Meet, in which West Point completed against Columbia, Colgate, Dartmouth, Princeton, Yale, and Pennsylvania. Winning the half-mile college relay championship of America was perhaps the climax of Roger's final year at the Military Academy.

Here at Fort Benning, Lt. Rogers is displaying even more the energy and drive that carried him to the front in so many hotly-contested track competitions. He knows it's part of a race for survival against the Axis.

More than 55,000,000,000 quarts of milk were produced in the United States last year.

3rd STR OC Is True World Citizen

Frank R. Bingham can now be reached through the 11th Company, Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School. There's a lot more to that address than just printed information. For instance: He was born in Amsterdam, Holland, where his family still resides. He attended private schools there until he went to Switzerland. At Lausanne, Switzerland, he enrolled in Ecola Germania, a school equivalent to our college. Then he finally got into the study of banking, his future profession.

He completed the course of study in Switzerland and moved on to London, England, where he started to apply the theory he had been studying so many years. He worked there with a Swiss Bank Corporation, Martins Bank Ltd.

His stay in England terminated with theh outbreak of war in 1939 at which time, after trying to join the British Services, he came to the United States. In New York he again took up his activities of student with the Bank of Manhattan Company. Along about this time he met and married an American girl.

Then came the draft. He entered the Army and completed his citizenship papers in February of 1941. From a liittle after February of 1942, he served with the Amphibian Training Command. At this point his speaking, writing and reading knowledge of French, Dutch, and German (besides English) got him into military intelligence.

Frank has, in his course of study in banking, traveled through Italy, Germany, Holland, France and England.

You might think from all this that sports had no place at all in his "M. T. P." Such is not the case for he has been on tennis and soccer teams all the way through school and played the British equavilent of our "esimpro" ball on the bank team.

Canadian soldiers were along with the Yanks to retake Kiska. The Canucks didn't see any more Japrats than our boys did.

Post Civilians Eligible For Three Service Awards

Civilian employees at Fort Benning and other Army installations will be eligible for service awards in three categories authorized by the Congress, with presentation to start in December, it was announced today by Capt. R. A. Parkins, chief of the civilian personel branch at Benning.

The three classes of awards will be Emblem for Civilian Service, the basic pattern for all three decorations, to be conferred on all employees having a record of six consecutive months of satisfactory service; Emblem for Meritorious Civilian Service, for those with 10 years of service and some others; Emblem for Exceptional Civilian Service for exceptionally meritorious service either within or beyond the call of duty.

At Fort Benning, 82 employees are now eligible for the 10 year service ribbon, while about 3,000 are eligible on the six months basis, Capt. Parkins said. Employees eligible for this award are employed in the Area Engineer's office; Infantry School and Infantry Board; 53rd Sub Depot, Lawson Field; Laundry No. 1; Laundry No. 2; Rail Transportation office; Quartermaster Repair Shop; Post Engineer; Quartermaster Office; Ordnance, automotive and armament; Finance and fiscal; and Adjutant General's Department. The decorations are being established, according to a directive from The Honorable Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, "in furtherance of the Department's policy to encourage the continuance of the highest individual effort and to recognize those civilians who have served faithfully, meritoriously and exceptionally." Arrangements for the bestowal are under the direction of the Secretary of War's Council on Personnel.

Secretary Stimson's directive provides that three different classes of awards shall be presented to eligible employees of the Office of the Secretary of War; Office of the Chief of Staff; Army Air Forces; Army Ground Forces and Army Service Forces.

LAPEL RIBBONS

These decorations will be in the form of lapel ribbons, suitable for wear on the coat or dress, and will bear the emblem in colors of the unit issuing the citation. The ribbon is woven in blue and silver colors. Additional strands of braid at each end of the ribbon will denote the two higher awards. When presented with more than one of the awards, the highest will be worn.

Besides those who have served for 10 years, the Emblem for Meritorious Civilian Service will be granted to those who have been responsible for suggesting or developing new methods or procedures; achieved outstanding records of satisfactory and faithful service and devotion to duty; shown initiative in developing the skills of employees or those who have made important contributions to morale-building activities. The award will be given added weight by the reviewing committee if the recipient is recommended for a meritorious in-grade promotion.

The Emblem for Exceptional Civilian Service will be conferred by the Secretary of War or his personal representative and will be accompanied by a letter of commendation or certificate with a specific citation signed by the Secretary. The award will in itself be considered justification for a meritorious in-grade promotion and will be in recognition of exceptionally meritorious service either within or beyond the call of duty.

BASES OF AWARD

In the awarding of this highest emblem, employees will be eligible who have developed and improved methods and procedures on a broad scale which result in substantial improvements in economy in the War Department as a whole; employees who have exhibited courage in the face of danger while in performance of their duty and have shown initiative in the saving of life or Government property and employees who have performed some outstanding service not otherwise covered by the regulations but which in the opinion of the War Department Board on Civilian Awards; merits departmental recognition.

The Secretary of War delegated authority to Commanding Officers of Army installations to confer the Emblem for Civilian Service on eligible employees under their supervision.

COLUMBUS FAIR GROUNDS
AFTERNOON DOORS OPEN 1 & 7
AND NIGHT AT 2:15 and 8:15
TUE. OCT. 26
The GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH
RINGLING BROS AND BARNUM & BAILEY CIRCUS
Presenting The GREATEST PERFORMANCE in HISTORY
PRODUCED BY
ROBERT RINGLING AUBREY RINGLING Mrs. CHAS. RINGLING STAGED BY JOHN MURRAY ANDERSON
Magnificent NEW Super Spectacles, Fabulous Features and Amazingly Accomplished Acts and Artists in Amplitudinous Abundance!
TWICE DAILY—POPULAR PRICES
ADVANCE SALE OPENS TODAY AT ARCADE DRUG, 1116 BWAY. ALSO SHOW-GROUNDS. NO PHONE CALLS PLEASE.

PLAYING AT COLUMBUS THEATRES

BRADLEY

Lee Carrillo — Leon Errol
"Follow The Band"

Sunday—Monday—Tuesday
Mickey Rooney — Frank Morgan
"Human Comedy"

Wednesday—Thursday
Red Skelton — Ann Rutherford
"Whistling In Dixie"

SPRINGER

Friday
Johnny Weissmuller — Frances Gifford
"Tarzan Triumphs"

Saturday
Ken Maynard
"Six Shooting Sheriff"

Sunday—Monday
Pat O'Brien — George Murphy
"The Navy Comes Through"

Tuesday—Wednesday
Errol Flynn — Ann Sheridan
"Edge Of Darkness"

Thursday
Chester Morris — Jean Parker
"High Explosive"

RIALTO

Friday—Saturday
Bill Elliott — Anne Jeffreys
"Calling Wild Bill Elliott"

Sunday—Monday
David Bruce — Harriet Hilliard
"Honeymoon Lodge"

Tuesday
Nora Pilbeam — Phyllis Stanley
"Next Of Kin"

Wednesday—Thursday
Richard Quine — Noah Webster, Jr.
"We've Never Been Licked"

ROYAL

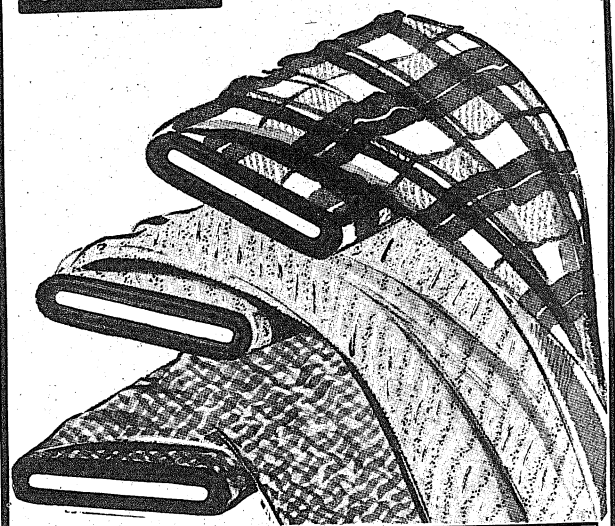
Friday—Saturday
Anna Belle — John Sutton
"Tonight We Raid Calais"

Sunday—Monday
Deanna Durbin
"The Amazing Mrs. Holiday"

Tuesday—Wednesday
Loretta Young — Brian A'Herne
"A Night To Remember"

Thursday
Charles Laughton — Ida Lupino
"Forever And A Day"

DAY'S TAXI CO.
1401 1ST AVE.
DIAL 3-3611



As Little As $685.00 Down
For Military Personnel or Defense Worker.
NEW HOME
in
BENNING HILLS
$4575.00
Two Term Pans:
(a)—$1225.00 cash and $27.27 monthly, after purchaser moves in and gets tax exemption certificate.
(b)—$685.00 cash and $81.27 monthly for twelve months then $27.27 monthly.
The FHA payments include principal, interest, taxes, insurance, but are subject to adjustments to meet changing conditions as to insurance and tax rates
Many people are now renting one room with kitchen privileges at $40.00 per month. This would help to buy it under plan (b).
Plan (b) is available to military personnel only where wife is employed.
ARMOUR REALTY CO., Inc.
115—12th St. Phone 3-4212

WADSWORTH
Blue Print Company
Have Copies of Your Marriage License, Power - of - Attorney and Similar Documents Made by Us. Architects and Engineers Supplies.
1231 - 6th Ave.
Phone 2-2381

All Military ALTERATIONS
Gibson Tailoring
20 - 13th St. — 2nd Floor

We Welcome The
Fort Benning Personnel
To HAYES'
THE BEST STEAK IN TOWN
SOUTHERN FRIED CHICKEN
Hayes' Restaurant
BROADWAY at DILLINGHAM
ACROSS THE STREET FROM HOWARD BUS STATION

SEARS SEWING VALUES
Make Your Own And Save

54-INCH WOOL AND PART WOOL SUITINGS
• STRIPES • PLAIDS • CHECKS • TWEEDS
Warm, rich, fabrics in all wool and part wool suitings. Colorful plaids, checks, stripes, tweeds and solid colors. For coats, suits, dresses, 54 inches wide. Sew and make your own, you'll find it's thrifty wartime economy and lots of fun.
1.98 YARD

COTTON DRESS LENGTHS
Large assortment of cotton dress lengths all reduced for clearance. Prints, Seersuckers, Broadcloths, and Suitings. 1 to 5 yard lengths. Values to 39 cents yard.
22c YARD

Knitting YARN
89c
4-ounce balls all wool knitting worsted. Assorted colors, also black and white.

STEEL OR PLASTIC KNITTING NEEDLES ..... pair 25c
"HOW TO KNIT" INSTRUCTION BOOK 5c
RAYON EMBROIDERY FLOSS ..... 2 for 5c
SIMPLICITY PATTERNS ..... 15 and 25c

GIVE TO THE NATIONAL WAR FUND
SEARS ROEBUCK AND CO.
1225 BROADWAY DIAL 3-4351

This Is Clean-Up Week; Make The Post Spick and Span Now and Ever

FORT BENNING BAYONET

VOLUME 2, NUMBER 7 — Published by The Ledger-Enquirer Co. — FORT BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1943 — For America's Most Complete Post — PRICE FIVE CENTS

131st Infantry Joins TIS

The arrival of the 131st Infantry Regiment from Camp Van Dorn, Miss., for service as a demonstration unit for The Infantry School was announced Monday by Brig. Gen. Henry P. Perrine, commanding general of the School Troops Brigade.

It was also announced that one battalion from the 89th Infantry, also at Camp VanDorn, had arrived and had been inactivated prior to being reactivated as a battalion in the 131st. The reorganization of the regiment to its full strength, is now under way.

The 131st, commanded by Col. John E. Ardrey, will be located in the Harmony Church area in the barracks formerly occupied by the 124th Infantry which has completed its transfer to Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

The latest addition to the Infantry School Troops Brigade is a former National Guard outfit from Chicago. It was mustered into federal service in March 1941 at Camp Forrest, Tenn., as part of the 33rd Division. During the following summer, it took part in the Louisiana Maneuvers and was sent to Fort Brady, Saulte Ste. Marie, Mich., in March of 1942, to guard the vital locks of the Soo Canal.

In September of this year, it was shifted to Camp Van Dorn.

The regiment has seen service on the Mexican border prior to World War I and in the World War as part of the 33rd Division. It also saw service in the Spanish American War.

The unit was originally known as the First Illinois Infantry. Nearly 40 per cent of its present personnel comes from the vicinity of New York City, however.

The 124th, which was a demonstration unit, was formerly a National Guard outfit in Florida and was inducted into federal service in 1940. After participating in maneuvers, the regiment was sent to the Infantry School in December 1941.

COL. J. E. ARDREY commands the 131st Infantry which has moved to the Harmony Church area from Camp Von Dorn, Miss., replacing the 124th Infantry as a demonstration unit for The Infantry School Troops Brigade. The regiment was reorganized this week and absorbed a battalion from the 89th Infantry. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

Gen. McClure Visits School

Officer Describes Pacific Battles To TIS Faculty

Brig. Gen. Robert B. McClure, from the office of the Secretary of War, left Fort Benning early this week following a tour of The Infantry School's installations last week. Highlight of his visit to the School was his address to the faculty during which he described the fighting at Pearl Harbor and on Guadalcanal.

His visit was something of a homecoming for the General who attended Officers' Advance Class here in 1929. He met many old friends among the faculty, some of whom with which he had served in various departments.

At the time of Pearl Harbor, he was on the staff of the Hawaiian Department and later commanded the 35th Infantry. He was transferred to the South Pacific and had charge of the operations which cleaned the Japs out of Guadalcanal. For this he recently received the Legion of Merit.

His military career began in the Naval Academy but prior to the First World War, he shifted his allegiance to the Army. He fought in most of the important battles of that war and was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross and the Purple Heart. Prior to the present conflict, he served on the staff of the Second Division which tested the new triangular division set-up of the Army.

General McClure is well versed in Army Schools. Besides the Officers' Advanced Class here, he was graduated from the Army War College, Command and General Staff School, Tank School and Chemical Warfare Officers' School.

PONTIFICAL MASS

The special mission for Catholic soldiers at Fort Benning will be concluded Sunday with the celebration of a Military Pontifical Mass and the Conferring of the Sacrament of Confirmation. The service will be conducted on Gowdy Field by Bishop William T. McCarty, military delegate to the Army and Navy. The rites will begin at 10 a. m. and several thousands of troops of the Catholic faith will attend.

Lawson Field Crash Kills 20

Twenty United States Army officers and men, including five air corps personnel and 15 paratroopers, were instantly killed at Lawson Field last Friday night when their transport plane crashed and burned.

A board of Army Air Force officers was immediately assigned to investigate every phase of the crash and ascertain its exact cause.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for the post pointed out that the disaster was the first of its kind in the more than two and one-half years that America's corps of paratroopers have been training at Benning.

In that period more than 250,000 jumps have been made, and scores of routine flights similar to the one last Friday night have been made daily.

News of the crash was withheld under a new ruling which requires that accurate identities of casualties must be established and the next of kin notified before the public is informed of such accidents. The stated reason for this ruling is to avoid alarming the parents of thousands of men undergoing similar training, and making them the victims of uncertainty even for a few hours.

LIST OF DEAD

The list of dead:

AIR CORPS PERSONNEL:

Second Lt. Gerald A. Schefer, Pittsburgh, Pa.

First Lt. Milton W. Grieg, Baltimore.

Sgt. Robert W. Farmer, Dayton, Ohio.

Pfc. Donald M. Schroeder, Los Angeles, Calif.

Pfc. Frank J. Slobodo, East Chicago, Ind.

PARACHUTE SCHOOL PERSONNEL:

Sgt. Phillip L. Schoene, Syracuse, Neb.

Sgt. Anthony Fiorito, Norristown, Pa.

Sgt. Angelo Lagrecs, Brooklyn.

Pfc. Angelo L. Alvarado, New York.

Pfc. Clinton E. Argo, Holton, Kansas.

Pfc. Charles B. Barnes, Jr., Galena, Kan.

Pfc. Paul D. Beerbower, Valley Falls, Kan.

Pvt. Louis J. Stuppia, Rochester, N. Y.

Pvt. Claire L. Mock, Ainsworth, Nebraska.

Pvt. John E. Robertson, Newport, Ky.

Pvt. Ralph D. Atwood, Alton, Indiana.

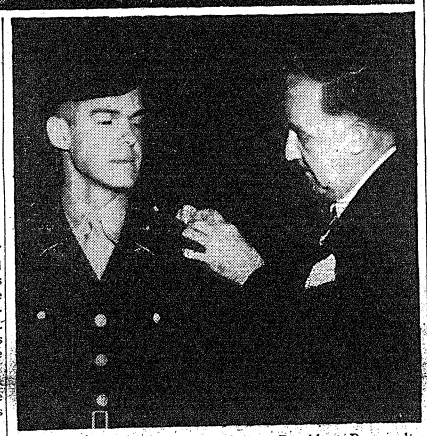
Pvt. John F. Anderson, Jeffersonville, Ind.

Pvt. Kenneth C. Brayton, Livingston, Mich.

Pvt. Murel M. Allman, Landis, North Carolina.

Pvt. Bernard D. Bedell, Port Jervis, N. Y.

Colonel Lord Appointed CO Of First STR



Colonel Roosma Takes Advanced Work; Relieved By Personal Request

Colonel Robert H. Lord, former commanding officer of the Third Student Training Regiment, has been placed in command of the First Student Training Regiment, succeeding Colonel John S. Roosma, Major General Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of the Infantry School, announced.

Colonel Roosma at his own request has been relieved to enable him to attend an advanced class in the School.

Colonel Lord, a regular Army officer since 1917, has served at Fort Benning as executive officer of the 1st STR, relinquishing these duties when the 3rd STR was activated in order to assume its command. He commanded the Student Training Brigade until orders were published inactivating it. He was then named acting Infantry School Insector, holding this job until ordered to the 1st STR as commanding officer.

Colonel Roosma, a graduate of West Point, formerly commanded the 6th ASTP Regiment. He assumed command of the 1st STR this summer.

STEPHEN T. EARLY, secretary to President Roosevelt, visited Fort Benning's Infantry school Tuesday to see his son, Stephen T. Early, Jr., graduate. Pictured (above) on the platform at the close of ceremonies are Chaplain William G. Kirschbaum; Col. John D. Hill, commander of the third Student Training regiment from which young Early was graduated; Col. William H. Hobson, Fort Benning commander; Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, assistant commandant of the Infantry school; Mr. Early; Maj. General C. H. Bonesteel, TIS commandant; Maj. Gen. Alexander D. Surles, director of the War department bureau of public relations; Col. William R. Orton, director of Officer Candidate training and Lt. Col. Charles K. Dillingham, young Early's battalion commander. Below, Mr. Early pins the bars of a second lieutenant on the shoulders of his son. Mr. Early was the principal speaker at the graduation exercises. (Official U. S. Army Photos—The Infantry School.)

Sabers Battle Daniel Field

Augusta Fliers Invade Stadium On Sunday For Return Tilt With 300th

Daniel Field's aerial-minded Fliers, fresh from impressive victories over Georgia and Presbyterian, will invade Doughboy Stadium on Sunday afternoon for a return bout with the 300th Infantry Sabers in the first inter-camp game of the 1943 campaign at Fort Benning. Kickoff is slated for 2 o'clock.

The once-proud Sabers smashed the Fliers into submission three weeks ago at Augusta by a top-heavy 39-6 count, but since that eventful evening at the Richmond Academy stadium, the rival soldier elevens have trod far different paths.

The Fliers rebounded from their loss to the Sabers and rode roughshod over the Georgia Bulldogs the very next week to record an 18-7 triumph. They followed this up last Saturday night with a 40-14 victory over a good, little Presbyterian College machine.

Meanwhile, the Sabers went down before the third-period onslaught of Georgia Tech, one of the nation's ranking elevens, by a 27-0 count and then were upset last Sunday by the 176th Spirits in a 14-0 game.

The 176th Spirits, conquerors of the 300th by 14-0 last Sunday, have an open date on their schedule this week-end and will sit in the stands and watch the Saber-Daniel Field fuss. Next week-end the Spirits travel to Augusta, Ga., to meet the Fliers on their home gridiron at Richmond Academy Stadium.

HARD FIGHT LOOMS

As a result of this unexpected turn of events, Sunday's return match between Daniel and the 300th looms as another big week-end grid extravaganza. The Augusta Fliers boast a lineup studded with almost as many stars as the injury-depleted Sabers will have in uniform.

Coached by Capt. Hefley H. Stovall, LSU backfield star of a decade ago, the Air Force eleven lives up to its traditions by waging most of its grid warfare in the airlanes. Their passing attack, which has gotten better as the season progressed, is now calculated to be one of the best in the nation.

DITOMO IS ACE

In Tony DiTomo, former Temple Owl, they have a crack flipper whose accuracy has been amazing. This 210-pound youth also directs the Flier attack from the quarterback slot. He has compiled a neat record of completions, pitching most of the time to ends John Lomberger of Northwestern and

See SABERS, Page 6

Stephen Early Lauds Infantry In Local Talk

FDR's Secretary Sees Son Graduate From O.C. School

Stephen T. Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, Tuesday told members of an Officer Candidate class graduating from the Infantry school at Fort Benning that the infantry was "America's secret weapon." Among those who heard him was 2nd Lt. Stephen Tyree Early, Jr., a member of that graduating class.

Mr. Early, principal speaker at the graduation ceremony, accompanied by Maj. Gen. Alexander D. Surles, director of the War department bureau of public relations, arrived from Washington by plane Tuesday morning.

He was greeted by high ranking officers from the Infantry school, the post of Fort Benning, and the Parachute school.

The party arrived scarcely more than an hour before the ceremony and Mr. Early didn't see his son until he mounted the rostrum in front of the graduation class. After the ceremony, he pinned lieutenant's bars on the shoulders of his son and said, "It was a moment of which to be proud, proud, as General Bonesteel said, of the faith we had in our sons."

Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of the Infantry school, introduced Mr. Early to the crowd and to friends and relatives who attended the graduation. It was the first opportunity the commandant has had to be present at an Officer Candidate gradua-

See STEPHEN, Page 2

Post Observes Clean-Up Week

Entire Reservation Is Receiving Thorough Beauty Treatment

It's cleanup week at Fort Benning this week, with all organizations and personnel living on the post urged to go over quarters and grounds thoroughly in a fall house cleaning.

Headquarters of all installations, including The Infantry School, Seventh Armored Division, Parachute School and Lawson Field, are co-operating in the campaign, Col. William H. Hobson, commanding officer at the Post, announced.

It was urged that units and householders on the Post save all possible material for the scrap drive while cleaning up quarters during the week. Collections in the scrap campaign now are made regularly on the Post.

All grounds and buildings are to be put in shape and repairs that are necessary should be noted, Col. Hobson stated.

Table of Dependency Benefits

Following is the scale of payments to secondary dependents under the bill which passed both Houses of Congress this week as compared to the old scale:

Dependent	Old	New
1 parent (dependent for chief support):
Where there is no Class A dependent	$37	$50
Where there is class A dependent	30	50
1 parent (dependent for substantial support):
Where there is no class A dependent	47	37
Where there is class A dependent	30	37
2 parents (dependent for chief support):
Where there is no class A dependent	47	66
Where there is class A dependent	30	66
2 parents (dependent for substantial support):
Where there is no class A dependent	47	37
Where there is no class A dependent	30	37
1 parent and 1 brother or sister (dependent for chief support):
Where there is no class A dependent	42	66
Where there is class A dependent	25	66
1 parent and 1 brother and sister (dependent for substantial support)
Where there is no class A dependent	42	37
Where there is class A dependent	25	37
Additional brothers or sisters (each):
Dependent for chief support	5	11
Dependent for substantial support	3	0
1 brother or sister but no parent (dependent for chief support):
Where there is no class A dependent	27	42
Where there is class A dependent	10	42
1 brother or sister but no parent (dependent for substantial support):
Where there is no class A dependent	10	37
Additional brothers or sister (each)
Dependent for chief support	5	11
Dependent for substantial support	3	0
Limitation on allowance to a family consisting or parents, brothers or sisters (dependent for chief support):
Where there is no class A dependent	72	None
Where there is no class A dependent	55	None
Limitation on allowance to family consisting of parents, brothers or sisters (dependent for substantial support):
Where there is no class A dependent	72	37
Where there is class A dependent	55	37

Jane Sees Hubby Play But She Sits In Wrong Stands!

Mrs. Bob Waterfield, formerly Jane Russell of Hollywood fame, came to watch her husband play an Army football game at Doughboy Stadium on Sunday—but she sat in the wrong stands! Arriving from California only the day before, Janie reached Doughboy Stadium just before-game time and wandered into the 300th stands on the north side of the field.

When she realized that Bob was playing for the 176th and that the Spirit rooting section was on the south side of the field, it was kick-off time and too late to change over. So along with Mrs. Andy Dudish, wife of another 176th backfield star, Jane found a seat amidst the Saber rooters and proceeded to try to out-yell the 300th. Needless to say she had an interesting afternoon in alien territory.

Her efforts must have brought results, though, because the Spirits won the game, and Jane's handsome hubby scored his first touchdown of the year to clinch the game in the final period—even though wife was in the wrong stands!

Post Passes $30,000 Mark In War Fund Contribution

Contributions and pledges amounting to more than $30,000 have already been subscribed to the National War Fund by military and civilian personnel at Fort Benning, it was disclosed yesterday by General Chairman Walter S. Fulton, former commanding general of the post and now serving as Muscogee County chairman of the War Fund campaign.

Various chairmen of organizational drives at the post indicate that contributions to the War Fund drive may surpass the record of $33,000 which was subscribed to the Red Cross drive last spring.

General Fulton was high in his praise of the personnel at Fort Benning for their gifts to the War Fund.

"I am especially pleased with the wholehearted response by both military and civilian personnel at Fort Benning for their cooperation in the current War Fund Drive," General Fulton said yesterday. "I hope that Fort Benning will establish another enviable record to match the response that we made in this past year's Red Cross Drive."

On Tuesday afternoon, The Infantry School indicated that pledges then amounted to $6,486. However, officers who are coordinating the drive in the school pointed out that more pledges were forthcoming and that it was hoped that actual contributions would exceed pledges. Officers in the school headquarters have donated $316.50 while civilian employes have contributed $221.25.

Fort Benning's colored Reception Center has contributed a total of almost $2,000, it is reported.

The Seventh Armored Division in the Sand Hill area has pledged a total of $2,741.30, it was announced by Major Lawrence H. Keating, assistant division chaplain.

Officers in the Medical Department have turned in contributions totaling $1,726.90 which is an average of about eight dollars per officer.

Enviable records, according to leaders in the War Fund, are being set up by many groups. Civilian workers in the Post Engineer's Division, who were solicited for contributions by Assistant Fire Chief William T. McCall, contributed $1,066.25 while civilian employes in the Supply Division have donated more than $800.

PARACHUTE SCHOOL

The Parachute School and its units have pledged a total of $6,500, an announcement from there revealed. Most of the enlisted personnel on the post will be able to make their contributions on pay day so that much of the forthcoming contributions currently are in the form of pledges.

Military personnel at Lawson Field have pledged more than $2,500 to the War Fund chest while indications in the ASTP, according to Maj. A. F. Teague are that

See POST, Page 2

Congress Votes Higher Rates For Dependents

First checks to dependants at the increased rates, provided by Congress this week, will probably go out at the end of November, according to word received at Fort Benning.

The rates are effective starting the first of the month after the bill is signed by the President. Unless the President delays signing the bill until after November 1, the higher rates become effective November 1.

The following schedule has been announced:

Dependent	Old	New
Wife	$50	$50
Wife and 1 child	62	80
Wife and 2 children	72	100
Additional children
(each)	10	20
Child but no wife	42	42
Additional children but no wife (each)	10	20
Wife divorced	42	42
Wife divorced and 1 child	54	72
Additional children wife
divorced (each)	10	20

The increased allowances will not affect the serviceman's present contribution of $22 a month toward his family's support.

The first seven grades of enlisted men are eligible for the allowances. Fifth, sixth and seventh grades men, staff, technical and master sergeants, have the option of taking the allowances in lieu of, but not in addition to, their regular allowances for dependents' quarters.

Even the husbands of WACs, WAVES and members of other women's service branches were made subject to the benefits providing they can prove dependency.

SECONDARY DEPENDENTS

A number of other changes in present procedure are included in the legislation. Secondary dependents, parents, brothers, sisters, etc., are divided into three classes according to their ability to contribute partially to their own support.

Pin-Up Girl Contest Reaches Grand Finale

Sweater, Evening Gown Clads Follow; Weather, Don'tcha Know

The weather being what it is these days, the Bayonet is forced at long last reluctantly to announce that this week's bathing beauty pin-up queen will be the last of the series.

But, hold on, fellows because the news isn't as bad as it might be. You'll remember way back when the series started, we promised a contest to decide the 1943 pin-up Queen of Benning. Well, that's on the fire, and that's not all.

As soon as the contest is ended in about three weeks, we'll begin on a new pin-up series, but instead of bathing beauties, they will be sweater girl shots and evening gown poses a la Hollywood stuff. And prospects are that the next pin-ups will be just as eye-filling as the first twelve have been, so be sure and look for the first one in the November 18 issue.

And now for the contest and the big news. Next week, there will be no pin-up. But in our big November 11 edition, making the silver anniversary of Fort Benning, there will be a four-page "pin-up section." In that section, we will re-print the pictures of all twelve beauties—and you can make your choice.

There will also be a ballot, to be filled in by every soldier denoting his choice, and a table of vital statistics to help you make that choice. And incidentally, in case you missed any of the pin-ups presented earlier, this will give you a chance to fill in those open spots on your wall-locker door.

Bayonet Contest Ends Nov. 4

Only one week remains before the deadline in the BAYONET's War Bond contest is reached. All entries must be in the hands of the editors by noon next Thursday, November 4, and all potential competitors are urged to start their contributions through channels.

Three $50 and a like number of $25 bonds are being offered as first and second prizes for the best editorial or gag cartoons, the best editorial essay or feature story and the best piece of verse. In addition a $25 bond and a $5 stamp are being offered by an anonymous donor for the best poster dwelling upon the idea of giving war bonds for Christmas presents this December.

Prize winners will be announced in the Fort Benning Silver Anniversary issue of the BAYONET to be published November 11. The works of the successful contestants will be included in this issue. Worthy entries not awarded prizes will likewise be printed.

There are many talented soldiers at Fort Benning; of that we are certain from past performances. All G. I.'s and WAC's who write or draw are urged to try for one or more of the prizes.

So You're to Serve On a Court-Martial

In this third of a series of four articles designed to acquaint young officers with their duties as members of a Detail of the Court, Lieut. William E. Steis takes up the functions of the President. Lieut. Steis, who is investigating officer for the Third Student Training Regiment, will outline the work of the defense counsel in his fourth and final article next week.

BY LT. WILLIAM B. STEIS

This ought to be good—I'm telling people how to be President of a Court Martial when I have never served in that capacity.

President of a Court Martial is one office that you can acquire without being elected. In fact you might become President of a Court Martial without having been selected for the position. The senior in rank among the members present is the President and presiding officer of the court. Therefore, if all members of a court that rank you have been challenged or excused, you find yourself the President.

First and most important item that much concern a President is to see to it that the accused is present and ably represented by counsel at all times when the court is hearing any matters pertaining to the charges for which he is being tried.

Equally important is the matter of the quorum. Without an accused or a quorum, you just don't function. You adjourn. In order to proceed with a trial, there must be not less than three members of a Special Court Martial and not less than five of a General Court Martial. In a General Court you may proceed without a few members unless it is specifically directed that a law member be present.

As President of a General Court Martial, you act in a dual capacity. As a member of the court you have the duties, powers and privileges of members in general but you also are the voice or agent of the court in that you speak and act for the court. As President of a Special Court Martial you have the additional capacity in performing the functions of a law member.

DIGNITY FIRST

Members of a court martial will be dignified and attentive and a refusal or failure to vote or properly discharge any other duty under his oath is a military offense. Each member has an equal voice and vote in deliberating upon and deciding all questions submitted to a vote or ballot. There is quite a difference in a court martial and ballot and I shall attempt to explain the difference.

Let us presume there is a ruling by the President upon an interlocutor question and some member objects to that ruling. The President then orders the court cleared and closed for the matter is discussed fully and a VOTE is taken on the matter. This vote is by voice and you begin with the junior member, the ranking member voting last. A majority vote decides the question. A tie vote is a vote in the negative and means that the question or motion is denied.

Now to explain the matter of ballots. The court is cleared and closed after all evidence is presented and, after due discussion and deliberation each member casts a secreta ballot, as to the guilt or innocence of the accused. It takes two thirds to declare a man guilty.

I know that right now, before I proceed any further, I must explain what all an interlocutory question might embrace. Here it is. Interlocutory questions are all questions arising during the proceedings other than the findings or sentences, except the question of whether a challenge shall be sustained. Examples of interlocutory questions are questions of admissibility of evidence, incompetence of witnesses, continuances, adjournment, recesses, motions, order of introduction of witnesses and proprietary of argument or statement of counsel, or the Trial Judge Advocate.

THE SENTENCE

One small matter regarding the sentence should be mentioned. Two thirds of the members present and voting agree on a sentence so that's the sentence. However, if the sentence is for more than 10 years, three fourths of the ballots must agree and if the sentence calls for death it must have been by the uninamous ballot.

It all sounds simple, but a few of the incidents that could happen to you as President are: Overruling on an interlocutory question; a "guilty" decree when you believe the accused to be innocent; sentence of the accused to a greater penalty than you feel just. What makes it worse is that you will be compelled to announce these rulings, findings and sentences even though you don't agree with them.

Soldiers Form Radio Team

The 18th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School recommends that you tune in on Staff Sergeant Arthur C. Kusserow and Corporal Dolph Price every Tuesday and Friday evenings from 11:15 to 11:30 EWT over WDAK.

It was just a month ago that Sergeant Kusserow and Corporal Price got together and in that short time have become a very popular radio team. Sergeant Kusserow does the announcing and Corporal Price puts out with some excellent singing.

When not on a night problem—in the field—the Officers of the 18th Company tune in on Price and Kusserow and now call them the "18th Co. Nightingales."

Both of these men have had considerable success in the field of music.

Sergeant Kusserow, from Bellevue, Pittsburg, Penna., played the tuba in his High School Orchestra that won County, State and National honors in the Forensic Music League for three straight years. After High School he organized and directed a dance band that was very successful for over two years.

Corporal Price, baritone, from Greensboro, N. C., studied music under Dr. Ezra Weiss at Guilford College and also under Mrs. Mark Hoffman at Greenboro College. Corporal Price has done a great deal of singing in the past few years — namely — Stations WBIG of Greensboro, N. C., WMFR of High Point, N. C., WALB of Albany, Ga., by remote control from Dawson, Ga., and now sings over WDAK every Tuesday and Friday evenings — and now WRBL in Columbus also wants him. Edgar White, Corporal Price's accompaniest at the piano, is blind but is nothing short of a genius.

Corporal Price is well known at many churches for his outstanding singing. He has sung at the First Baptist Church, St. Luke's Methodist Church, Rose Hill Baptist, and Wynnton Methodist Church in or near the city of Columbus, Georgia.

Men with a new spirit will do more for the new world than men with only a new plan can ever do.

Democracy depends on a common belief that goes deeper than all differences.

We must clean up, own up, make up or give up.

WHEN THE WAC DETACHMENT of The Infantry School was attached to the Academic Regiment, the WACs, whose duties corresponded to those of the men, were given a brief indoctrination of their duties by the men. Paired off with the men whose duties are similar are (left) First Sergeant Mildred Smutny and Regimental Sergeant Major, W. L. Chaffin; S-Sgt. Dorothy Goodell and Master Sgt. Clarence E. Brown, supply sergeants; Corp. Florence Altshuler and Master Sergeant Hubert J. Burson, personnel. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

MRS. WILSON M. STONE and Mrs. Charles A. Hunt who have just been elected president and vice president, respectively, of the Columbus League of Women Voters. Mrs. Stone is the wife of Lieutenant Stone of Fort Benning, and Mrs. Hunt is the wife of Colonel Hunt, retired.

Post Wives Invited To Join Women Voters

The Columbus League of Women Voters is launching a campaign to incorporate in its membership as many wives as possible of Army personnel stationed at Fort Benning, Mrs. Mercer Morris, immediate past president of the League, announced Wednesday.

Mrs. Wilson M. Stone, wife of a Fort Benning officer, has been elected president of the League, and Mrsc. Charles A. Hunt, wife of Colonel Hunt, USA, retired, is the new first vice president.

Mrs. Wilson is a past president of the West Branch of the Los Angeles, Calif., League of Women Voters, where she was quite active, while Mrs. Hunt is active in defense work in Columbus, heading the Nurses Aides course.

The League announces that it is now carrying on a panel study of the probable needs of various nations now engaged in the present conflict or which have been subjugated by the enemy. Members are being assigned roles as representatives of these countries and the discussions deal with the needs of these nations at the peace table. The League is attempting to make a definite contribution to a lasting peace after the war.

The League engages in this study every other Friday. The next meeting is scheduled for the Woman's Club, Friday, Nov. 5, at 11 a. m., EWT., and all interested army wives are being extended a cordial invitation to attend.

"We value the contributions made by Army wives," Mrs. Morris said. "Their contribution in enthusiasm is invaluable."

"The Columbus League of Women Voters is launching a campaign to reach millions of citizens. Their aim is to arouse an intelligent sense of responsibility for government with emphasis on Foreign Policy.

"The League of Women Voters believes that with a margin of three million voters aware of their power and responsibility as citizens of a democracy, a constr uctive foreign policy pointed toward a workable peace, would be insured.

"The objective of the League is to arouse interest, give unbiased information, not to convert to a given point of view but to insure that the American Public holds firmly to a goal of international cooperation."

Lt. Darrell Lester, star grid center at Texas Christian in 1934, has been named director of physical training at Newport Army Air Field, Ark.

Oct. 22 'Yank' To Describe AAF In Greenland

One of the toughest details in the Army—an AAF Security Expedition somewhere on the Greenland Icecap—is described in the October 22 issued of YANK, the Army weekly. Sgt. H. N. Oliphant tells how six G. I.'s spent 35 weeks marooned at an Army Weather and Rescue Station.

Pvt. Bob Bauer, Tomahawk (Wis.) righthander, has won 14 straight for Keesler Field, Miss. He has never been defeated.

STEPHEN—

(Continued From Page 1)

tion since assuming his duties as commandant.

The class also was the first to be graduated under the new 17-week plan which replaced the 13-week course last July.

Lt. Col. Charles K. Dillingham, commander of the Fourth battalion of the Third Student Training regiment of which young Early was a member, certified that the class had satisfactorily completed the prescribed course for commissioning as second lieutenants. The oath was administered by Capt. Herbert George, company commander of the 22nd, and the certificates of commission were delivered by Col. John D. Hill, regimental commander.

Lieutenant Early is a graduate of Staunton Military academy. He completed one-year at the University of Maryland, where he was a captain in the ROTC unit, before being inducted. His basic training was received at Camp Croft where he became a corporal. His classmates described him as one of the quietest members of the class, and very efficient and studious.

POST—

(Continued from Page 1)

contributions in that organization may amount to about $2,300.

Other contributions which were received by Tuesday night were as follows: Officers Post Headquarters, $317.80; WAC Detachment, Station Complement, Section I, $104.15; WAC Detachment, Station Complement, Section II, $74.00; Civilian personnel, Post Headquarters, $170; Officers, Engineer Division, $72; and Officers, Finance Division, $49.

Other contributions already received are Civilians, Exchange, $437; Officers, Exchange, $42; Lawson Field, Sub-Depot Civilians, $317.90; Red Cross workers, Main Post, $83; Headquarters Detachment, Section I, $41.25; and Civilians, Finance Division, $53.75; Officers, Supply Division, $210.

Pledges received by Tuesday included Supply Detachment, Section II, $125.25; Detachment Medical Department, Sections I and II, 6679.35; Prisoner of War Camp, $250; and Headquarters Detachment, Section II, $130.

Heir-Raid

COMPILED BY T-5 H. BERGEE

19-24 Oct. '43

Major and Mrs. Holly A. Cornell, Acad. Dept. Inf., boy, Oct. 19.

Captain and Mrs. Carl Edmondson, 201st Inft. Regt., Alaska, girl, Oct. 19.

T-Sgt. and Mrs. Wade R. Gray, Sv. Co. 54th Prcht. Inf. Regt., boy, Oct. 20.

M-Sgt. and Mrs. Edwin Perkins, Co. I, 3rd Bn., 515 Prcht. Inf. Regt., girl Oct. 20.

Sgt. and Mrs. Carl Camden, 2d Stud. Sq. BAAF School, Flo., boy, Oct. 21.

Pvt. and Mrs. George W. Cope, Co. I, 124th Inf., Regt., Ft. Jackson, boy, Oct. 22.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Winton R. Carter, 2d Co., 1st STR, boy, Oct. 22.

1st Sgt. and Mrs. Roy Jones, 12th Co., 5th Trng. Regt., ASTP, girl, born Oct. 22.

Pfc. and Mrs. Claude Benefield, Co. K, 124th Inf., Regt. boy, Oct. 23.

Sgt. and Mrs. Paul P. Dinning, Co. A, Sv. Bn. 2d STR., girl, Oct. 23.

Cpl. and Mrs. Herman D. Vaughan, Co. H, 124th Inf., Regt., girl, Oct. 24.

1st Lt. and Mrs. John J. Carey, 6th Co. 5th Trng. Regt., ASTP, girl, Oct. 24.

Pvt. and Mrs. William Wall, Hq. Sv., TPS Motors Pool, girl, Oct. 24.

Sgt. and Mrs. Robert P. Daley, Co. A, Acad. Regt. ISSC, twin boys, Oct. 24.

With Civilians

MYRTLE M. JONES

Word from Washington to the effect that Clifford E. Clinton, formerly Lt. Clifford E. Clinton of the Army Exchange Restaurant, Fort Benning, is now a "consultant" in the branch of Mess Supervision, office of the QMC. Of course, this is under the Food Service Section. Recently added to this section is responsibility and supervision of all civilian operated messes under Army jurisdiction, as in Exchange, government buildings, munition plants, etc.

Mr. Clinton will act as liaison with the QMC off of Food Service Section and the War Food Administration-Conservation Division. It is very likely that his duties will bring Mr. Clinton to Benning in the very near future, when all his many friends will be happy to see him.

* * *

Nell Blackshear, former hostess at Service Club No. 4, on leave for several months to complete work for her degree, writes that after 14 days in the hospital in New York, she is home ready for school and feeling fine. Nell is certainly missed by the boys in her area, but it is nice she can complete her work for her degree at the Atlanta University, Atlanta, Ga.

* * *

'Tis a sad time at Library No. 1, main post. Janet Pickering Atwood (Capt. Will Pacific), who has been in the library for two years, has moved to Atlanta, Ga., with her mother and sister to establish a home there. They will be living in Garden Hills, a lovely suburb of Atlanta, and an ideal place to wait for the men in their family to come home from war.

* * *

Hear that LaDelle Meadows is in Detroit. Nice going getting leave in the autumn, of which there is no nicer time to be in Detroit, but how the heck do you get leave? Can the Fiscal section really do without those girls? At any rate, there's a new girl down there this week, Doris Cox, and we would like to welcome her to this column.

* * *

Did Thelma Bryans' husband come home in a C. B.? Well, I heard she was on leave to spend her vacation with him, and you just know he couldn't leave them. Lula Carson and Martha Wood back from Atlanta, as well as Ruth Chpman, who was called home on the account of the illness of her father. He is much better now, and she is back, so Civilian Personnel tells me.

* * *

One of Walter Winchell's biggest orchids to Myra Summerford and Edna Zimmerman. Just one more donation of blood to the Red Cross Blood Bank and they will be awarded a golden button.

* * *

Must tell you boys on the post some sad news. Mary Farmer, hostess of Service Club No. 1, is wearing an engagement ring that is just about this size, and I know it means broken hearts scattered all over.

If more of us carried the nation's future on our hearts fewer of us would have to carry its problems on our shoulders.

Baker Village News

BY MRS. FRANCES LUTZ

The Girl Scouts enjoyed a Halloween party in the Auditorium on Wednesday evening. Each scout invited one other girl as her guest to the party. The evening was spent in playing games, judging costumes and having refreshments. The party ended by their regular custom of singing "Taps."

The total amount of defense stamps sold by the Girl Scouts to date totals $171.10. The past week they have been collecting buttons of all description for the Red Cross workers to use on garments made at the Red Cross rooms. Anyone having buttons that the girls have not picked up, give them to a Brownie or Girl Scout or contact Mrs. Lutz of the Recreation Department or Mrs. Harralson of 28 Clifton avenue.

The auditorium has been used during the week for parties planned by the following people: Mrs. Harris, 22D Monday, Oct. 25; Mrs. Frith, 62A Tuesday, Oct. 26; Girl Scouts Wednesday, Oct. 27; Yvonne Leach Thursday, Oct. 28; Nancy Green, Friday, Oct. 29; Community Halloween party, Saturday, Oct. 30.

NEW COMERS

We are happy to welcome the following newcomers to the community:

Lt. and Mrs. R. B. Holmes, 13 Allison; Lt. and Mrs. R. H. Meade, 4 Fox; W. O. C. J. Tomiced, 41 Barry; Lt. and Mrs. Milton Petkor, 104 Clifton; Lt. and Mrs. R. J. Wiley, 40 Roper; Lt. and Mrs. R. W. Henderson, 6 Barry; Lt. and Mrs. J. M. Yablonowitz, 14 Benning Drive; Lt. and Mrs. Eugene D. Fenher, 47 Clifton; Lt. and Mrs. John L. Berry, Sr., 49 Barry; Lt. and Mrs. R. L. Hailey, 14 Court; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur R. Key, 30 Court; Lt. and Mrs. R. L. Thomas, 126 Clifton; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Alvin W. Wilker, 151D; T. Sgt. Paul C. Yoby, 133B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. J. R. McNeil, 15A; T. Sgt. and Mrs. B. L. Sanford, 81B; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Walker, 61C; Sgt. an dMrs. R. H. Lusk, 90C; M. Sgt. and Mrs. C. T. Strahan, 112A; T. Sgt. and Mrs. R. P. Eastburn, 92A; St. Sgt. and Mrs. W. D. Heath, 39E; St. Sgt. McKinley Criswell, 22C; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Williams, 51G; Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn K. Brizedene, 113C; St. Sgt. and Mrs. J. E. Foster, 50C; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Spikes, 43D; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Newton Bullington, 69C; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kirkland, 24F; T. Sgt. and Mrs. T. F. Ewing, 84F; St. Sgt. and Mrs. E. L. Moon, Jr., 183A; Mrs. Florence K. Todd, 131B; 1st Sgt. and Mrs. J. B. Schultz, Jr., 60C; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Oscar A. Patterson, 42B; 1st Sgt. and Mrs. W. E. Eckstom, 146G; 1st Sgt. and Mrs. John Martin, 133A; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Ralph, 24E; 1st Sgt. and Mrs. R. C. Brown, 4B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Emery C. Douglas, 24A.

The various committees under the leadership of Mayor Hopkins met Wednesday evening in the Recreation room and have final arrangements made for the Halloween celebration to be held Saturday night, Oct. 30. The parade will form and progress on the playground next to the Administration building at 8 o'clock (E. W. T.). The judging for the various types of costumes will be done during this parade by the committee of judges. Prizes will be awarded to the people with outstanding costumes. The costumes need not be purchased costumes but those made up at home will have just as equal chance to take a prize.

The parade will end at the Auditorium where refreshments will be served and a bit of entertainment provided.

Anyone in the community in costume regardless of age is invited to get into the parade and join in the fun.

Yank Slips In Japs' Presence; Lives To Tell

Caution is the watchword in taking a Jap prisoner. That, at least is the opinion of Candidate Tom Haney of the 12th Company, as reported by some of his Guadalcanal buddies.

The story that they tell on Haney is something like this. It seemed that in the area of operations, where Haney was stationed on Guadalcanal, there were some unusual Jap troop movements. The high command was extremely desirous of finding a Jap whom they could question in the hope of obtainnig information regarding these movements.

Haney, who was familiar with the surrounding territory, proceeded to arm himself for some Jap hunting. He slung his everppresent M1 over his shoulder, borrowed a sub-machine gun from a friendly Marine, shined up his bayonet, sharpened his trench knife and filled his pockets with six or seven hand grenades.

After tramping around in the undergrowth for several hours, Haney is reported to have emerged into a clearing and there beside a stream he spotted his objective—a lone Jap. Haney levelled his sub-machine gun and motioned for the Jap to come alone peacefully or be filled with lead. In answer, the Jap held up three mess kits which he had been washing in the stream.

* * *

After 10 or 15 minutes of arm and hand signals, the Jap followed, carrying his three mess kits, while Haney maintained what he believed was a safe distance. Then Haney got lost. Finally, however, he and his prisoner came upon a native guide, who was immediately sent to find Haney's commanding officer.

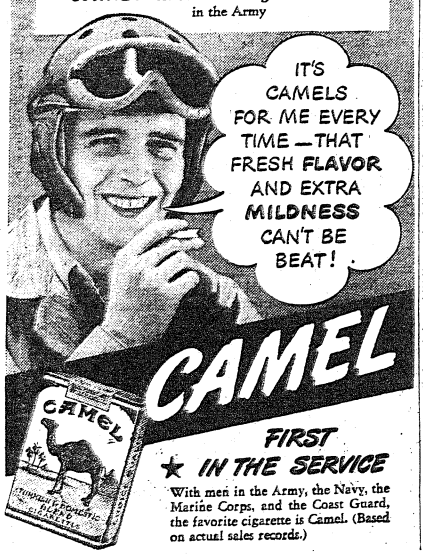
The guide returned at length minus the CO, so Haney decided that he could lead them back to the camp. As they were proceeding on their way, he stumbled over a root and fell, dropping his sub-machine gun. Instantly he reached for his trench knife, as he had a great respect for the deadly mess kits which the Jap carried. He saw the Jap step closer, and thought that now his time had really come. He looked up into the Jap's grinning face just as the Jap extended his hand and helped Haney to his feet.

The rest of the journey was uneventful. Haney got his Jap back but he still insists that had he had a Browning .30 machine gun, watercooled, he would then have been better prepared to cope with the Jap armed with the deadly mess kits.

WAC Changes Both Name And Grade

The picture you saw on the front page of The Bayonet last week was of Staff Sgt. Grace V. Brown. Now it's Staff Sgt. Grace B. Hughes. The papers changing her name (in grade) just came through last week.

Blame it all on Sgt. Frank Hughes, of I Company, Academic Regiment. He married Sgt. Grace last July, and the Harmony Church WACs, of which she is now the supply sarge, were attached to the Academic Regiment in October. This makes him the first Academic to be married to a WAC-ademic.



When payday comes, why get caught in a jam around the public telephones? Make your call before payday if possible—or wait until it has passed. You'll find the call can usually be completed faster. Most times, it saves you and the other fellows from waiting in line.

Remember how busy the public telephones are during that evening rush period from 7 to 10? You can usually get faster service by calling earlier in the day whenever it's possible. Daytime rates are slightly higher, but when lines are less crowded, calls can be completed more quickly.

Planning to place that Long Distance call "collect"? Then tell the operator so when you first place the call.

QUARTER TAXI
DIAL 3-4447
"24-HOUR SERVICE"

IN THE TANK FORCES
they say:
"DOODLE BUG" for Army reconnaissance car
"CANS" for radio man's head phones
"STONE CRUSHERS" for infantry
"CAMEL" for the favorite cigarette with men in the Army

FIRST ★ IN THE SERVICE

With men in the Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps, and the Coast Guard, the favorite cigarette is Camel. (Based on actual sales records.)

Watch, Clock, and Jewelry Repairing
Quick Service
B & S JEWELRY CO.
Dial 2-1064
1724 Hamilton Rd.

Southern Manor
JIMMY THOMAS
SINGING MASTER OF CEREMONIES
PRESENTS
2 SHOWS NIGHTLY
LILLIAN MURRAY — Comedian and Singer
MITZI — Dance Sensation
MOR and CHITA — International Dance Team
DON CORTEZ AND HIS ORCHESTRA
TEA DANCE SUNDAY AFTERNOON
4:30 to 6:30—No Cover—No Minimum Charge
ENJOY FAMOUS SOUTHERN MANOR STEAK and CHICKEN
Southern Manor
JUNCTION OPELIKA AND MONTGOMERY HIGHWAYS

SMARTEN-UP for the INE-UP

All phases of BEAUTY CULTURE in our department
Streamline your figure
We do inch work in removing surplus flesh. No exercising, no dieting. When your doctor says . . there is nothing but heat left for your arthritis . . neuritis, consult - - -
MRS. MARGARET E. BENZ
* Facials—Elizabeth Arden's exclusive cosmetics used
* Specializing in Body Sculpturing
BENZ'S BEAUTY SALON
217-12th STREET
DIAL 9179

OPENING!
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1943
CLUB BALI
Western Steaks — Fried Chicken
2 Floor Shows—9 P. -11 P.M.
316-4th St. Phenix City, Ala.

Col. Hobson Tells Woman's Club of Odyssey

By KATHERINE HAMMARGREN

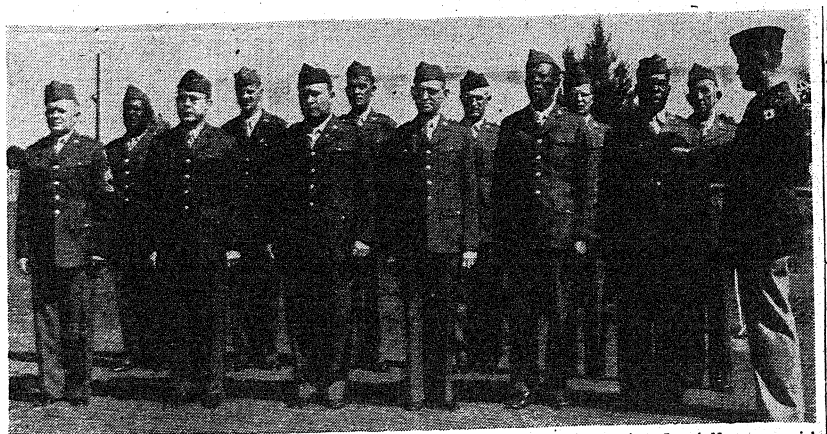
Ninety women listened to vivid descriptions of countries to which their husbands may be sent or in which they have already seen action when Colonel William Hobson, commanding officer of Fort Benning, spoke to the Current Events group of the Fort Benning Woman's Club Monday afternoon. So enthusiastically was his talk received that club members have requested that he appear before the group again to tell more of his experiences overseas.

Talking to the women as members of his post family, Col. Hobson traced his tour overseas from the time he told Harry Hopkins he wanted to go in order to "smell this war" until his plane limped into Miami with one motor gone. He described the scenic grandeur of Iceland as his C-54 landed there at dawn after having taken the northern air route from Washington to Maine and thence to Newfoundland. The soldiers in Iceland, he said, want to see their loved ones again, but their sense of duty holds them to their station just as it does every other American soldier.

Col. Hobson was impressed, on his two hour trip through the center of England to London, to find every inch of available ground under cultivation. In England he lived for a time with the American Eighth air force, talking to the men and watching them as they went on their missions of death.

WONDERFUL RESULTS

"These men are accomplishing wonderful results, with frightful sacrifices," he said. "Sometimes as many as ten per cent don't come back. There is a second front—an air front going on day in and day out. The air man believes he can conquer Germany by air, and is willing to make a sacrifice to prove it. There is an air war going on, but in my opinion you will never defeat the German army until a land army crosses the channel into France . . . I think it is a long, rough road before Hitler and his gang crack up."



Throughout his stay in Great Britain, Col. Hobson went through prison camps and defense centers. He talked to farmers, to soldiers, to girls where, he said, every girl is in uniform and determined to win the war. The standard of living of the poorest Georgia farmer, he explained, is higher than that of the nobility in England at the present time.

SENSE OF HUMILITY

"I left England with a sense of humility and a realization of how far away we are from the war," he said. "We have made no sacrifices compared to the British . . . But when the time comes, no one will make greater sacrifices than the American soldier and the American girl."

Col. Hobson described vividly the contrast between sordidness and luxury in Algeria. He told of Gen. Patton's regiment which marched 56 miles in 36 hours, with American nurses right behind them to look after casualties. He pictured one division which landed in Italy on September 8 to fight one of the bloodiest battles of the war. He took his listeners with him from Dakar to Natal, Brazil, and to beautiful airfields en route to the United States.

"A woman can do a lot for her husband by doing her best while he is here," Col. Hobson reminded his listeners in conclusion. "Go with him, and make a home for him. Make him ready to fight and die for it and you. Get busy at the Red Cross and the P-T-A. I don't mean for you to neglect your babies; but lots of you don't have babies. You could do more than you are doing."

GOOD CONDUCT MEDALS were awarded to 412 members of Medical Detachment, Sections I and II, at a special review ceremony at the Station Hospital at Fort Benning. In four platoons the men lined up and receeived the medals from Maj. John B. Joyner, commanding officer of both detachments. They then marched in review before Col. W. L. Starnes, commanding officer of the Station Hospital. Included in the veterans of army service who received the awards were 14 non-commissioned officers with a total of 280 years of service. Twelve of them are shown in the picture here receiving their ribbons from Maj. Joyner. Front row, left to right, Mr. Sgt. William C. Cullifer, 23 years; Tech. Sgt. Beth Taylor, 18 years; Tech Sgt. Charles P. Shaw, 13 years; Tech. Sgt. Andrew S. Pope, 16 years; Sgt. Mike Henley, 28 years; Sgt. Henry Smith, 18 years. Back row, left to right, Sgt. Henry Allen, 30 years; Staff Sgt. Carlton Rutledge, 13 years; Master Sgt. Paul O. Vance, 23 years; Staff Sgt. Henry J. Huff, 17 years. (U. S. Army Signal Sorps Proto.)

A NEW CONTINGENT of Brazilian officers has arrived at the Infantry School and been assigned to the First Student Training Regiment as observers. Lt. John A. Moore of the U. S. Army, interpreter for the group, is shown orienting the Brazilians upon the arrival at their barracks. Crouched over the map are Capt. Malvino R. Neto, Major Zacharias X. Muller, Capt. Alvaro A. dos Santos, Capt. Floriano P. Correa, and Lt. L. M. Ney da Silva. In the rear are Lt. H. G. S. deAvelar, Capt. R. A. deC. Muniz de Aragao, Capt. W. de Menezes Paes, Lt. Rosalvo E. Jansp, Capt. M. Val Porto de Sa, Capt. Edgar H. De Abreu and Lt. Nicolau J. de Seixas. (Official U. S. Army Photo — The Infantry School.)

Danes Refuse To Accept Tyranny Passively, OC Says

Two and one-half years of travel and residence abroad, cover part of the interesting record compiled by OC Duane A. Hansen of the Fifth Company.

Early in 1936 Hansen went to Denmark as a member of a group representing the Latter Day Saints church. For 27 months Hansen travelled about Denmark, "the land of bicycles."

"Denmark regulates its bicycle traffic with stop signals," Hansen said. "It is not uncommon to see 15 cycles abreast in th street. Everyone from 3 to 80 rides."

One highlight of the Denmark journey was a theater party with the king. Candidate Hansen attended a special production of "Hamlet," the king and his party being in the royal box as honored guests.

Concluding his business with the Danes, Hansen travelled north through Norway and Sweden, back down through Germany across Austria and Switzerland and down to Rome. From the Italian capital the tour lead back to France and Belgium, across the channel to England and finally back to the United States.

"Today's newspapers often carry stories containing many familiar names," observed Hansen. "Many places we visited have been sabotaged by the Danish people, such as their great Diesel engine plant. The Danes are not a race to accept oppression passively," he concluded.

Colonel Walsh Serves As First STR Executive

Succeeding Captain Vernon Rulison as executive officer of the Infantry School's 1st Student Training Regiment is Lieutenant Colonel Charles E. Walsh, Jr., who brings 17 years' experience as an infantry officer to bear on the special problems of his new position. His appointment was announced by Colonel John S. Roosma, Commanding Officer of the 1st S.T.R.

A resident of Albany, New York, Walsh attended the Manlius School at Manlius, N. Y., from 1919 to 1921.

Having enlisted in the New York National Guard, he was commissioned a 2nd lieutenant in 1926. He had risen to major by October 15, 1940, when the guard was inducted into federal service.

With his unit, Walsh served at Fort McClellan, Ala., from October 1940 to December 1941. The day after Pearl Harbor his outfit, then in an advanced state of training, was alerted and entrained for Fort Ord, California.

After three months on the west coast, Walsh boarded a transport for Hawaii. He was stationed at Kamuela from March to October 1942, and at Fort Ruger, on Oahu, from October to March '43.

Colonel Walsh is a graduate of two Infantry School classes. In June 1931 he completed the Company Officers (now the Basic) course, and in July 1941, the Advanced course. Five months later he was graduated from the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Father of Colonel Walsh is Brigadier General Charles E. Walsh, Sr. (ret.), of 128 Western Avenue, Albany, N. Y. Walsh, Sr. enlisted in the New York National Guard back in 1894 and climbed the hard ladder of commissioned as well as enlisted grades all the way from buck private to brigadier general. He fought in the Spanish-American and first World Wars, and for 18 years commanded the 10th Infantry, N.Y.N.G. General Walsh retired in 1935 upon reaching the age limit.

3 LUCKIES PROMOTED

The following enlisted men of the 774th Tank Bn., 7th A. D., have received promotions it was announced today by the "Lucky Seventh" Public Relations Office: To staff sergeant, Albert J. Burch, and Frank C. Klimas; to technician fifth grade, Raymond H. Aden.

Army Has Miniature Infantry School in Africa

A miniature infantry school near Rabat, French Morocco, established by United States Army officers and men, and attended by officers of the French army, including the Goumiers and Spahis, accomplished a lot in familiarizing the French with American weapons and equipment which they are now using.

This is one of the stories brought back by Maj. Robert C. Williams, Jr., of Spring Valley, N. Y., a battalion commander who has been returned to the Infantry School at Fort Benning where the knowledge gained by his experiences is being incorporated into the program of changing the school's instruction to meet the needs of battle. He is one of many officers in this war who have been assigned to the school for this purpose.

The African "Infantry School," which was not it' sofficial name but will serve as a close link for identification, was set up near the Mamorak cork forests. American officers and NCOs conducted their classes on the same pattern as those conducted in the school here. The French were taught the disassembly and assembly and functioning of all the American weapons. They were then given an opportunity to fire them. Major Williams reported the French were very receptive to the instructions, although the procedure was difficult until some aspirants became avajlable as interpreters. All the instruction was translated and incorporated into book form.

For his services in the school Major Williams was made an honorary commandant of Goumiers.

The landing of the American troops at Fedala was no surprise to the French defenders. Searchlights on shore played over the harbor in regular sweeps and everything was apparently serene. The landing boats were far offshore at midnight, the landings not being scheduled until 4 in the morning. Then shortly after midnight, Major Williams heard a radio broadcast beamed from America announcing the landing of American troops in Africa. Almost immediately every light in the harbor went out and tracer bullets began flashing out from the shore. The French had four hours of warning to get prepared for the attack.

Despite this warning, the American forces did not suffer many casualties. They were at a disadvantage, however, in the fatter of fire-power on land. The French had their coastal batteries and navy, while the Americans had only .75-mm. pack howitzers, minus transportation.

After Casablanca surrendered, the Third Division, with which Major Williams had landed, moved up to the Spanish border and from there to an invasion training school at Mostaganem where it underwent weeks of intensive training. It was here that the planes for the invasion of Sicily were worked out and these troops bulwarked the actual invasion. Major Williams at that time was assigned to the plans and training board which mapped the invasion plans.

Of the officers who were in his battalion, Major Williams had nothing but the highest praise. Many of them were commissioned from the Officer Candidate School here at Fort Benning and most of them were former non-coms.

He had high praise also for the combat engineers whose job was to clear away mine fields and neutralize booby traps. "A couple of days on a job like that would drive any man nuts," he said. "Figure it out—you never know but what the next object you touch will turn out to be a booby trap."

The major, who is a West Pointer, class of '39, was evacuated because of a leg injury which he suffered when jumping into a fox hole during an artillery barrage.

The shrapnel didn't bother him but the injury to his leg was aggravated and eventually forced his evacuation. Aboard ship, he suffered an attack of malaria but was treated for pneumonia, all of which didn't enhance his general state of health.

It's strange that, in efforts to build public relations, there is so little public apology.

You can't fire people's minds until you warm their hearts.

1st STR Wac Is Strictly From A Service Family

The Infantry School's 1st Student Training Regiment has acquired its first W.A.C. officer. She's 2nd Lieutenant Madeleine G. Nelson who now serves as assistant personnel officer in charge of the pay section.

In civilian life, Lieutenant Nelson was an executive in the office of the Chief of Ordnance at Washington, D. C. She graduated from the Women's Army Corps OCS at Fort Des Moines, Ia., in April 1943, and was assistant personnel officer at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., before coming to Benning.

Daughter of Mrs. Gertrude G. Smith, of 131-56 226th Street, Laurelton, Long Island, Lieutenant Nelson's is strictly a Service family. She was born on Kauai, one of the Hawaiian Islands. Her husband, deceased in 1932, had risen to chief pay clerk after 20 years in the Navy.

Lieutenant Nelson's son is Technical Sergeant Robert Nelson, 25, who has been in the Army Air Forces since his 18th birthday. He has just returned to the States from three years duty in Panama and Trinidad, and is now station at Muscogee, Okla.

H. C. WAC's Put On Army Hour Radio Show

Twenty members of the WAC Detachment, TIS, Section I, Harmony Church area, appeared Sunday on WRBL's week Army Hour program.

The program included:

Benning Girls, sung by the entire cast and composed by Cpl. Alta Riffle, a former songstress over CBS and NBC air lanes; "Embraceable You," by Pfc. Harriet Rogouy; "Back in the Saddle Again," guitar and vocal by Pvt. Mabel Turner; "Summertime," vocal by Cpl. Riffle; and "Paradise," a piano solo by Pfc. Louise Tait.

The cast put on a skit pertaining to preparation for the Saturday morning inspection and the inspection itself which was well performed.

Pfc. Anna Cartlidge, formerly active in church choirs, sang "In My Garden"; and Sgt. Glenna Popp sang and played with guitar her own composition entitled "Retreat."

Others participating include St. Sgt. Muriel Seaton, Cpl. Eloise Roller, Sgt. Jeanne Nadder, Pfc. Helen Berman, Pfc. Helen Hopp, Pfc. Kathryn Brown, Cpl. Elsie Eklof, Cpl. Mary Foster, Pvt. Mabel Turner; Yolanda Morgando, Marilyn Crum, Sgt. Ethel Drake, and Pvt. Jane Russell.

—Pfc. Hugh Sanderson

Cash For . . .

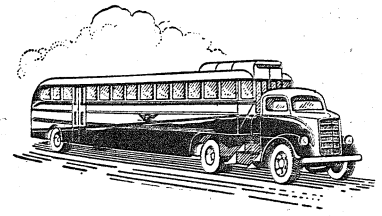
Your Idle Piano will pay up to $300

SEE O. P. HAWKINS

Humes Company

Established 1908 1219 Bdwy.

STEVENS The House of Fine WEDDING STATIONERY



Invites your inquiry when considering the purchase of Engraved Stationery, Wedding Invitations, Announcements, Reception Cards, Informals, Monogrammed Note Paper, Anniversary Invitations, Visiting Cards. Samples and prices submitted upon request.

J. P. STEVENS ENGRAVING CO.
110 PEACHTREE STREET · ATLANTA · GEORGIA

COLUMBUS TO FT. BENNING

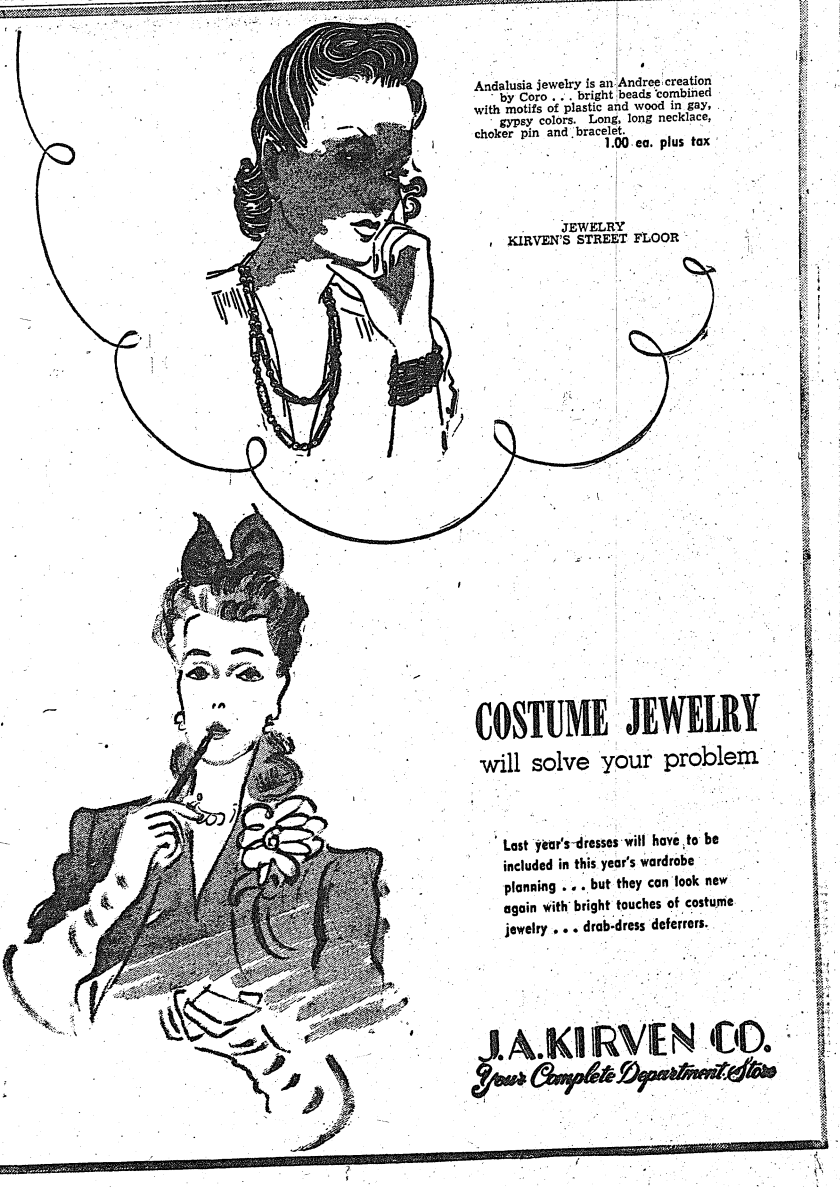
HOWARD BUS LINE

SERVICE TO FORT BENNING FOR 22 YEARS

DOING A WARTIME JOB - - - UNDER WAR TIME CIRCUMSTANCES

HOWARD BUS LINE

900 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.



Myra's Beauty Shop
Opening under new management MONDAY, SEPT. 27th.
305 Murrah Bldg.
Phone 3-1097
Elevator Service

Good Barbecued Chicken Found Here
The "New" Linwood Steak Shop
1206 Linwood Blvd.
Ted Lyons, New Prop. Ph. 9594

WADSWORTH
Blue Print Company
Have Copies of Your Marriage License, Power - of - Attorney and Similar Documents Made by Us. Architects and Engineers Supplies.
1231 - 6th Ave.
Phone 2-2381

DAY'S TAXI CO.
1401 1ST AVE.
DIAL 3-3611

MEET YOUR BUDDIES at the
Eagle Army Store
Headquarters For
OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN
Uniforms and Military Supplies
1018 BROADWAY

Andalusia jewelry is an Andree creation by Coro . . . bright beads combined with motifs of plastic and wood in gay, gypsy colors. Long, long necklace, choker pin and bracelet.
1.00 ea. plus tax

JEWELRY
KIRVEN'S STREET FLOOR

COSTUME JEWELRY will solve your problem

Last year's dresses will have to be included in this year's wardrobe planning . . . but they can look new again with bright touches of costume jewelry . . . drab-dress deferrers.

J. A. KIRVEN CO.
Your Complete Department Store

FORT BENNING BAYONET

The Benning Bayonet is published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LEDGER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

Member of Fort Benning Press Association

"Every night I pray for my 11 fighting sons; I don't pray they shall be kept from all harm, but I do ask God that they be true soldiers, sailors, and marines, and worthy of their father's record in the first World War."

—Mrs. Frances Evans Dyke of Chicago, Ill.

And This Be Our Motto In God Is Our Trust

One of the chief causes of the world turmoil today is the fact that so many humans have forgotten God. If they remembered God, and realized His power and goodness, they would be more apt to guide their lives along the paths of justice, charity and peace.

But Man forgot justice and charity and peace and God—and here we are.

More than any other nation, we Americans are close to God. The principles upon which our government is founded approximate more than any other the Christly ideal. In a democracy there is, by law, justice and charity. Too, there is freedom of thought, expression and (within the bounds of the common good) action. The law of Prohibition didn't last in this country because it denied the people a right guaranteed by our Constitution. Americans are fundamentally just and honest people and elect officers of government who are the same and who represent the common thought.

However, how close to their Creator are the people—the Man in the Street?

History points out the futility of forgetting God. Every nation that has gone against God's Will and Law have wound up behind the eight ball. The Empire of Rome—and more recently, Nazi Germany and the Fascist regime in Italy.

Should not Americans, particularly American soldiers who are in a sense modern crusaders for justice and right and peace, come to and stay close to their Maker? Isn't it a bit futile to sing:

"Then conquer we must, for our cause it is just,

And this be our motto: "In God is our Trust" in the National Anthem, and to inscribe "In God We Trust" on the coin of the realm, if the same sentiment isn't permanently engraven in the heart of every citizen?

Think it over!

Sure, there aren't any athiests in foxholes! Why should there be any athiests in America?

"In God is our Trust."

J. P. R.
4th Co., 1st Bn.,
6th Training Regiment, ASTP

Now Who Said Wimmen Can't Fight

Somebody sez that women would make first class fightin' sodjers . . . Such phooey . . . tsk, tsk . . . They would cause more trouble than newspapers in yer modern plumbing! !

I got me a date with a cute little WAC last night . . . just to see fer myself whether or not I was right . . . First off, she wanted to know why for I was wearing a wedding band . . . I sez it was me grandmudder's and I wore it fer sentiment . . . She sez mm-mm . . . (meaning she thinks I yam full of more potential baloney than tha hills of Virginny . . .)

I sez to her . . . do you think you would make a good fightin' sodjer . . . She sez mm-mmm . . . (meaning certainly, why not) . . . I sez . . . oh, I dunno, wimmen remind me of a juke box . . . Ya never know after ya drop yar nickel in what's gonna come outta that doggone thing! . . . She sez . . . mm-mm with a kitty laugh . . . (meaning don't be gettin' so darn cocksure of yaself, brother) . . .

I sez . . . whut would youse wimmen do on maneuvers . . . I sez ya have as much privacy as a water spigot in a trailer camp . . . I sez ya get more contact with dirt than tha bottom of yer foot-locker . . . and ya try to get some sleep just when that kernel needs a reconnaissance patrol to scout down tha road a piece . . . about fifteen miles ! ! !

And I sez . . . they would clip off that pretty hair of yorn like that branches offen a briarwood pipe ! ! ! . . . I sez whut wimmen would go thru that . . . I sez would you ? ? ? . . .

She sez m-m ! ! . . . (yup ! !) . . . I sez . . . aw, I dunno about that . . . I sez I appreciate the fact that wimmen go thru a lot of suffering in a life time . . . but us men wouldent mind that baby business iffen we had to . . . She sez . . . m-m-m-m-m-mhahaha! (a very embarrassing horse laff ! ! !)

I sez . . . whut would ya do in tha tank outfit . . . Ya'h haffa wear suspenders . . . or a tourniquet or sumpin' to keep yer stockings from falling down . . . She sez . . . mmm . . . (don't get fresh, bub) and I sez tha parytroops is out) . . . ya'd have more trouble than those air holes in that fun house at Coney Island ! ! !

She sez . . . iffen well, mm-mm . . . (mebbe yer right) I sez . . . iffen some barbed wire got too familiar . . . it ain't tha same as walkin' back to a fifth avenoo store and sa ya want yer money back cause they sold ya some defective lingery ! ! ! . . . She sez . . . mm-mm . . . (so what? . . .) I sez . . . well them's my opinions and I don't see how it is possible fer our American wimmen to be as touch as our men . . . I sez and you agree with me don'tcha? . . .

She sez . . . m m . . . (nope!) . . . I sez, why nylon reg't ! ! ! My WAC friend looks up over just two good infintry men could whip a whole me head . . . I sez . . . whattsamatter, da ya see a head-on wreck? . . . She looks back at me and sez . . . mm-mm! (yass-sir ! ! !)

Suddenly I gets a whif of perfume I brought back from South America . . . and me wife is the only woman in tha U. S. that has that certain whif, jessz . . . one second later . . . Tha WAC with her darn jiu jitsoo had me against that wass as useless as a pinup girl ! ! ! . . . I felt so dolgone funny . . . like when tha deacon passed tha collection plate back and sez no bus tokens, please . . .

Me own little howitzer shook me up worse'n a telephone hook in tha PX ! ! ! . . . I finally wobbled outta that place as dignified as a patch on tha seat of a cowboy's pantz ! ! ! . . .

Somebody sez wimmen'd make first class fightin' sodjers . . . m-m ! ! ! . . . (somebody is damtootin' correct ! ! !)

CPL. GEORGE JOHNSTON,
22nd CO. 1ST STR

The Army's Secrets Must Be Protected

Geography takes on new meaning as hardened soldiers, sailors, and marines of the United Statec meet treacherous foes in battle zones scattered around the globe.

Many members of the Armed Forces are fighting for their country in spaces far removed from continental limits—in areas extending from the Pacific to the Mediterranean.

Great numbers of others are in training camps in this country—preparing each day for combat duty or manning the administrative and supply systems, necessarily of vast proporitions.

Whether an individual has been assigned duties which keep him at present in this country or duties which he performs in the front lines thousands of miles away, he bears in any case the same responsible relationship to the security of military information.

He must learn to keep strictly to himself the military information which has been entrusted to his care. He must make the safeguarding of military information a matter of second nature.

It is obvious that no matter how wonderful a soldier's record may otherwise be, he still is of no value to this country, if he undoes his good work by careless talk which results in more loss to our cause than he inflicts on the enemy.

A football back who makes a brilliant touchdown for his team, and then lets the opponents make two through fumbles and poor team-play, has a net score of minus one touchdown, any way you look at it.

His team would have been better off without him just as the baseball team is well rid of the center fielder who comes through with a homer while at bat and then makes a fielding error that lets two runs in to lose the game at the last of the ninth.

Just as each member of the eleven-man football team and each member of the nine-man baseball team must be "on the alert" for the welfare of his team, so each member of the huge American fighting team must keep on the alert for the welfare of his team and his country, now engaged in mortal combat with Axis enemies who are still powerful.

With the enemies on the defensive, they are more than ever anxious to learn our military secrets.

They hope to secure our military information and, making use of this, to turn some of their defeats into victories.

Keep firmly to yourself the military information which is entrusted to your care.

Be an effective member of the big Army team. Defeat the Axis at every turn. Protect the Army's secrets!

WHEN IN DOUBT ABOUT WHAT TO CHATTER BE SURE IT'S NOT A MILITARY MATTER!

TO A CHAPLAIN'S MEMORY

He lies in state. A rugged man of God
Whose simple words and simple acts remain
Half-hidden in ten thousand soldiers' minds.
And you, grey veterans, bowing there before
His bier, remembering that other day,
Do you suppose these youngsters gathered here
Think of those bloody battle fields where he
In utter unconcern has worked and prayed?
A strong man fights with guns and bayonets,
And we reward him with a bit of silk;
But "Padre" walked among you with a grin
And said his say and did his mercy-deeds
And never seemed to know that shells and bullets
Were shouting out his name: his only weapons
His faith and love of man. Well done, old "Padre,"
You are the last who would accept our tears;
But we are weaklings armed; our rifles speak
Our courage and our fears; the flesh must cringe.

You wander past again and call me "farmer";
Your touseled hair and twinkling eyes and homely
Wit are warm with life, and some would say,
"There goes the Second's hero of the Woods."
I say, "There goes a man of God, a friend."

Cullen Jones, Quarters 6-B, Fort Douglas, Utah. In Army-Navy Register

If you kno what you're aiming at, you're more likely to hit it.

Production hold-up sometimes comes from holding back. More willingness can do more than more men.

People somehow feel that, if you believe in the right, everything will come out all right. The truth is that you've got to do right before anything right can happen at all.

If we hold too long to our right to be indifferent, we may lose too soon the right of being free.

Will the future of America be decided without our knowing it? Or do we know what we want and want it enough to stand out and fight for it?

USO Presents—

HALLOWEEN PART Y, GIFT WRAPPING, BASKET BALL LEAGUE

An old - fashioned Hallowe'en party will be sponsored as a joint project of the Columbus and Phenix City Salvation Army-Uso's Saturday at 8:30 a. m. (EWT) in the Phenix City club. . . . Featured will be apple - bobbing, houses of horrors and refreshment booths.

Columbus party guests will meet at the USO at 1323 Broadway from where they will go in a group to the Alabama unit . . . GI pumpkinheads are promised a copious supply of the fair sex for partners at the gala affair . . . The party will be costumed as far as practicable, and servicemen and WAC's will wear masks.

* * *

Another observance of the ancient and honorable October occasion will be a formal dance Saturday night at Ninth Street USO followed by a special goblin contest Sunday afternoon in the auditorium . . . Prizes will be offered at the latter affair.

Victory Varieties Sunday night just before the feature motion picture will carry out the Halloween theme under the leadership of Pfc. Al Shapiro of the 176th Infantry . . . This hour of fun and frolic begins at 8:30 p. m. (EWT) in the auditorium of Ninth Street USO . . . The movie will be "Yank in the RAF."

* * *

Prizes and good refreshments are packing the house Thursday night at the social in the Columbus Salvation Army-USO . . . It starts at 9 p. m. (EWT), Mrs. Edna Scott, program director, announces.

* * *

Inasmuch as those Christmas shopping days are ever shortening, servicemen and women are urged to do their gift buying early so the Shoppers' Service Committee of Ninth Street USO will not be rushed at the last minute . . . The gift-wrapping service will be continued, and a handbook of gift suggestions to save time for men and women in uniform.

* * *

Two divisions in the basketball league at Ninth Street USO will probably be formed to accommodate all the interested cagemen . . . So far 15 teams have entered . . . A very few vacancies are left, and managers of any teams which wish to join are asked to contact either director at Ninth Street USO.

* * *

Col. William H. Hobson, commanding officer of Fort Benning, last night presented USO service pins of recognition to more than 150 volunteer workers at Ninth Street USO who do various jobs ranging from information clerk to receptionist and from librarians and dance chaperons to senior hostesses.

This Khaki'd World—

BY PVT. G. I. GRIPE

Capt. Schweitzer swears this is true story—observed practically bald man in downtown Columbus, scratching fiercely what was left of his thatch. Small boy eyes him for few minutes then sneers "Why don't you drive 'em out into the open, mister?"

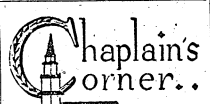
I still think he made that one up.

A classic of understatement in last week's "The Saber," publication of 300th Infantry: "Travel to Atlanta Might be Difficult." Hell's bells, boys, did you ever try traveling to Atlanta by bus when it wasn't difficult? In the first place, getting into Columbus via Howard bus sometimes takes the best part of a day.

Ever hear the story of the cockroaches that "demoted" a two-star General? Seems that the General had a swell pix of himself taken when he was a brigadier. When promotion came through, he thought the photographers might retouch it, painting in the extra star. Well, they did, and made a swell job of it. Very proud, they called the General and said to come and get his picture. Few days later when he did go down to get it, he let out a scream—only one star on the darned thing. Investigation showed that cockroaches had gotten into drawer, eaten off the paint which had a lampblack base. Sounds incredible, probably, but I'd believe anything of these Gawgia cockroaches.

As bevies of beauties danced onto the scene in Busby Berkeley's extravagant finale for "Girl Crazy," we overheard one G. I. remark "Cheez, they're bringin' platoons of 'em on now."

WAC Pvt. Wylie is certain that our little quip about lack of saluting in metropolitan Columbus is responsible:—says she observed two or three-year-old lad, all dressed in soldier uniform, on Broad St., very seriously saluting every soldier passing by.



Understand Sgt. Tom McDonald exchanged his stripes for insignia of Air Force, accepting a transfer as a 7th grader. Know lots of guys who'd trade half a dozen insignia for those stripes, Tom. Whatta ya gonna do, take Col. Swampwater for an airplane ride?

Headline in Atlanta Constitution says "Freeze" Seen for Gum Labor. Probably refers to chilly stenographers?

Lt. Jordan Scotti and Sgt. Paul Diosy of 11th Company of Sixth Training Regiment went over to donate a pint of blood when the mobile blood bank was at Fort Benning. As they headed for the ward porch, a nurse handed each a glass of water, another handed them a small transparent paper envelope, containing a small circular object. Without stopping to investigate, both opened the envelope, started to gulp the object. Just in time another nurse stopped them — objects were lapel medals given by the Red Cross, proclaiming that the wearer had donated blood!

Corporal Holloway, Co. N, First Parachute Training Regiment, astounded all other members of the company by getting up for breakfast the other a. m.—first time in six months, they claim at Co. N. His appearance was greeted by cheers and applause.

Chaplain's Corner..

Chaplain F. M. Thompson

It is good to get dressed up and sit around; makes one feel better. A farmer finds relief in putting on his Sunday clothes. And I've heard of men in prison trying to keep up their morale with a tuxedo. The painful thing is to get dressed up, expecting to go somewhere and finding there is no place to go.

"You know Aunt J.," writes a friend, "was always very active, always going places and now that she has to stay home, because of infirmity, she is very miserable. She seems to have no inner resources. We are all very sorry, but there's nothing we can do about it."

Aunt J. represents a host of people and there is nothing you can do for them. They have to live indoors and they know nothing of an indoor life—the life of reflection and meditation. Thrown back on themselves for enjoyment, contentment—they are restless, helpless, hopeless.

And many who are not infirm are likewise afflicted, young and old alike. For this has to do with our leisure time. How to use it?

Preparation is needful. And the best preparation is in the enrichment of the mind and heart, inner resources, something to draw upon, something that will save us from the emptiness of living.

Try religion!

"Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, lest the evil days come night in which thou shalt say, "I have no pleasure in them."

"My principles aren't so high," said a school boy, "that I can't live up to them."

After a bad break do you go to pieces or pick up the pieces?

The great American alibi—"Everybody else does — why shouldn't I?"

It's cutting corners that dulls our edge.

Kay Says—

SOLDIERS GIVEN L IFTS PROVIDE INTERESTING CON VERSATION TOPICS

On my infrequent trips to town with the car I've been giving a ride to soldiers who wait wistfully for someone to offer them a lift. This good Samaritan impulse is purely selfish. I've found that group riding in sometimes impracticable, especially when I'm rushed for time, and the prospect of driving in solitary splendor while crowded buses can't accommodate the overflow is more than even my hardened conscience can stand.

* * *

Besides salving my conscience, these "lifts" have led to some extremely interesting conversations. Soldiers, I have discovered, are infinite in their variety. They range all the way from the boy with the Harvard accent to the chap with the Texas tang in his voice. They are eloquent on the virtues of the Brooklyn and on the merits of the great plains. I learn the ages of their children and just how hard it is to find living accommodations. My husband, when I return with a mass of varied information, is beginning to wonder just how much information I divulge in return.

* * *

The soldiers, I find, are invariably grateful for the ride, but often comment on the number of women who drive by without offering them a lift. I find that the merits of the car afford an interesting subject of conversation. It is amazing what I know about the various makes of automobiles, as a result of listening to some soldier wax eloquent about his experiences with different cars.

One half-hour's ride was spent in discussing "lady" barbers. It seems that some place in Fort Benning the scarcity of male help has led to the employ of women to do a bit of shearing. My informant, a civilian, was evidently in charge of the barbershop. His desire for travel had led him into most of the states of the union and into a weird assortment of occupations. This same love of change, plus a tendency to enjoy a nip in moments of depression or exhiliration, had, he confided, lost him a "good woman."

* * *

Then there was the soldier who was going to Florida to open up his parents' winter home. I always thought I made a mistake in not pursuing that acquaintance farther; it's not often one meets a person with a winter home in Florida. There was the soldier who was escorting his bride here because she was too little and helpless to ride on the trains by herself. And there was the soldier who wanted suggestions as to what to buy for his wife's birthday. His wife, he said, was pretty well tied down with a small boy, and he thought she deserved something pretty nice.

* * *

I've discussed the proper formula for an ailing baby, the military appearance a winter blouse gives a soldier, the best method of imparting a shine to shoes, the Fortress of Europe, the blood bank, Minnesota's football team, signs of distemper in puppies. So far no one's broached the Einstein theory, thank heavens.

There are persons, I know, who think it's not quite safe to pick up a soldier. After all, there are "all kinds" in the army. Perhaps it's the severe hairdo and the slight shabbiness marking my customary appearance that makes a soldier decide I'm utterly respectable and not worth robbing. Or perhaps our soldiers are inately courteous. Anyhow, my share-the-ride acquaintances have proven founts of information and entertainment.

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

SARGE GOES ON F URLOUGH UNBEKNOWNST T O OLE T. P.

By PVT. ELMER SAWGRASS

As I spun myself around in the Sargint's swiveln chair this mornin' I shore war glad to recollect that he waren't nowheres about. I figgered that with him off I'd have me a wide open chance to buck for PFC. Waren't much to the job. All a guy had to do was keep the ol' man's chaw gum handy and be right smart with the visitors.

Only catch about this here job is having to take the Kernal's hound Carpenter out fer a walk. The Sarge has been having to do it but I reckon I'll have to do hit now while here at his stompin' grounds. I wouldn't mind it too much if that hound wasn't such an individualist.

* * *

Well if my ol' coon huntin' ears ain't a foolin' me I recollect I hears ol' T. P. acoming now! If that ain't his footsteps I'm a barnstormin' hoot owl. I'd better elevate my carcass from this here swivelyn chair. I short don't want to none of them beans and cornbread what they serve over at the guardhouse.

* * *

"Howdy, Kernal," I said as the ol boy come in.

"Howdy er I mean good morning, Sawgrass" the ol' boy replied. How come the Sargeant isn't prevalent in this vicinity?

"He is a headin' fer the high corn, a gittin' his shoe tracks out of Gawja, Kernal."

"Shades of Salome, Sawgrass What am I going to do he's the only one in this office that understands my chewing gum file. He can't do this to me. It's unhuman. After all I have done for him too. I even promised him a weekend pass for the spring of 1945. Isn't that gratitude for you?

"Shore is Sir." I said back. "I never would have done a thing like that, sir, I'm efficient."

"Carpenter will miss him too. They were such friends. The Sargeant was the only one who could analyze Carpenter's personality. This is a severe blow to me, Sawgrass. An emotional catadioptrical elusion.

"I'm a mighty good dog man, Kernal." I replied. "I've been a private in the army for 22 years.

"Sawgrass, I've got to take immediate action. This is all too utterly devastating to my routine."

"Have a piece of your TEEBERRY PEPPERMINT chow gum, Sir," I offered, at the same time reaching into the filing cabinet for it.

"Get outa that cabinet," the ol' boy roared," "Can't you read that sign up there? That compartment is secret and confidential."

"I'm powerful sorry, Sir. But the Sargent chews out of it all the time. He ain't reliable like I am."

"Quit making alibis Sawgrass. An Infantry soldier never alibis. He just answers "Yes, Sir."

"Yes, Sir."

"Shut up."

"Yes, Sir."

* * *

"Now as I was saying, I've got to take action. I must notify the Sargent's Company Commander, the Provost Marshall, and the F.B.I. I've got to find him immediately. It's imperative that I know where he is."

* * *

"He shore has left ain't he, Sir?" I sympathized.

"Yes, Sawgrass. He has. I'm stunned—totally differentiated. I'd give a whole block of chewing gum to know where he is."

"He's on furlough, Kernal."

"Jumping Catfish, man," the ol' boy shouted. "Are you sure? How come he is—who gave him permission? Did Quagmire authorize this? I'll prefer charges against him if he did. I'll—Don't stand there Sawgrass, who gave him permission to go on furlough?"

"You done hit, Sir," I answered.

"I did it?"

"My tongue ain't a rambling, Kernal. You signed the thing day before yestiddy. It air a fact, Kernal." I replied.

"Well, don't just stand there, Sawgrass, go take Carpenter for a ten mile hike. I'm gonna count my chewing gum blocks. Now get out!"

"Yes, Sir," I answered, at the same time wondering whether I oughta say anymore about P.F.C.

Mail-Call

OLIVER GENERAL HOSPITAL
PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICE
Augusta, Georgia
October 15, 1943

THE BAYONET
Fort Benning, Ga.
Sir:

On September 24, 1943, this office released a story on Lt. Robert Howarth, a graduate of Fort Benning O.C.S.

Because of a misunderstanding Lt. Howarth was quoted incorrectly. The statement read: "But on one thing the School is definitely off the ball,—and that is in how to throw a grenade. His advice is to forget all the school taught you about the shot-put technique. Most Americans are good pitchers—throw them as a baseball, he says, for greater distance and better accuracy."

What Lt. Howarth actually said was, that in battle the soldier will forget school techniques and adopt some field expediency that will give him greater speed and accuracy. He did not, however, disparage the school's method of teaching, nor of its value as a basic training aid.

Lt. Howarth has requested this office that if possible to inform you of this missquotatation. It would be greatly appreciated if you were to publish this correction.

Sincerely,
LOUIS C. FINK
1st Lt., Med. Adm. C.

Chapel Forms Junior Choir

The Main Post Chapel has recently organized a Junior Choir composed of 20 children. The organization rehearses Friday nights at 6:30 o'clock and sings at Sunday evening services at 6:30 o'clock.

This Sunday night they will sing Fanny Knowlton's anthem "Lift Up Your Heads" with solo parts to be taken by Eleanor Pollack and Peter Schaertel.

The following are members of the choir: Rodney French, Mary Ann Tuttle, Martena Parker, Patsy Peters, Dorothy Snyder, Peter Schaertel, Betty McNulty, Roddy Parker, Helen Ruth Rester, Joan Goss, Jean Goss, Dorothy Ann Flippo, Clifford Brown, Sylvia Brown, Joce Schillings, Katherene Andis, Daisy Leedy, Mary Lou Jent, Eleanor Pollack, and Elvin Krielick.

Children interested in becoming members of the choir may come to rehearsal on Friday evenings.

Sgt. Bird serves as organist, Mrs. J. O. Methvin is director with Cpl. Betty Harrison serving as assistant.

JWB Director Gets New Job

Edward Korn, director in charge of soldier welfare work for the Jewish Welfare Board at Ninth Street USO, has resigned his position in Columbus to become director of activities of the St. Louis Young Men's Hebrew Association and the Young Women's Hebrew Association.

He will assume his new position in St. Louis Nov. 1. His new assignment will be with one of the largest metropolitan group work agencies in the country, according to JWB spokesmen in Columbus.

Korn has been with the USO since 1941, being one of the pioneer directors in the field. He has been director in the Columbus area 18 months.

Before entering USO work, Korn held social group work positions at Bronx House, Hudson Guild and other settlements in New York City.

Chutists Required To Make Night Jumps to Qualify

Uncle Sam's paratroopers, now going through the Parachute School at Fort Benning make night and technical jumps before gaining their wings and becoming members of the fast growing Airborne Command.

Col. Ridgeley Gaither, commandant of the school, in discussing the change in trainingg, said lessons learned from actual combat jumps were being incorporated in the training course for novices.

Night jumping and two tactical jumps have replaced the former last three straight qualifying jumps, but the fundamentals of the preparatory training for actual jumps remain the same.

"Our troops are ground troops," said Colonel Gaither, "so the tactical jumps are but a continuation of the infantry training.

'Our men jump with a definite mission and we are teaching them how to carry it out. The parachute is but a means of reaching the objective, and once they land, paratroops are foot soldiers prepared to fight it out with the best of them."

All volunteers for that arm of service, the Paratroopers go through three weeks of training before they reach their "jumping stage."

Three parachute regiments in addition to the regular parachute training regiment now are going through the school here.

Colonel Gaither said injuries averaged only one per cent among all the jumpers, a figure that has been consistently low.

LAWSON FIELD LASS—Pin-up queen of the lads who fly "the sky blue yonder" is sultry, curvacious Mary Allen who does a mansized job at the Sub-Depot of the air base . . . Hailing from Hatchechubbee, Alabama, she went to high school at nearby Hurtsboro and like last week's glamourette was also a tomboy . . . Played a lot of basketball and softball at school . . . Came to Columbus soon after graduation and has been round and about ever since . . . Started working at Benning a year ago, and has performed a wide variety of jobs working as a mechanic at motor maintenance shops, a clerical at Officers' Club, a paint-sprayer at Lawson, and now her present task as an apprentice electrician at the Sub-Depot where she actually does miror wire repair jobs on the big planes . . . Lives in the civilian dorms and manages to keep rather busy most of the time in off-duty hours . . . Likes to dance, read, bowl and swim and is also an ardent sports fan, especially football . . . Not strikingly beautiful as pin-ups that have preceded her, she possess the rare ability to pose a la Hollywood . . . Photog Don Kortemeier was delighted with her as a model because she practically fell into this post . . . That sultry expression caught above by the camera would even do movie temptress Gene Tierney justice . . . ALLEN ON MEN: "I like men. They play a pretty important part in my life, and I don't see how I'd get along without them, particularly one that I met here about a month ago" . . . VITAL STATISTICS: Height—5'3". Weight—124. Bust—34. Waist—26. Hips—36. Eyes—Temptingly blue. Hair—Brunette. Complexion — Olive. Yea man! (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

Alert Luckies Quickly Spot 'Nazis' In Camp

The sight of two Nazi corporals nonchalantly strolling through the Seventh Armored Division Sand Hill area last week startled some GIs, but Maj.-Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silvester's armoraiders for the most part were on the alert, and met the situation as befits well-trained troops.

Although a few of the men believed that German prisoners of war might have escaped from a nearby prisoner of war camp, most of them had read the daily orders and knew that the situation was a pre-arranged demonstration staged by G-2 (military intelligence) and Headquarters C. C. "A."

First soldier to act upon the situation was Lt.-Col. Allen Fadness, who roared: "What are you two Germans doing here?" when he noticed Pvt. Vivian Bazzle and Pfc. Paul F. Sadowski in panzer and artillery lance corporals' uniforms. Neither "Nazi" answered nor even slowed his gait, so the colonel called the sergeant of the guard, had the two men arrested, and held at his headquarters pending their removal to the stockade.

He even went so far as to call G-2, asking if someone there wanted to question the "prisoners" before he learned that he was holding two stalwart soldiers from the Seventh Armored Division.

Maj. Joseph Ford from C. C. "A" then stepped in and told the officer that the "Nazis" were really Seventh Armored enlisted men touring the division under his supervision as part of a visual education demonstration. Major Ford praised his superior officer though for his quick thinking in the "emergency."

RESCUED AGAIN

Saved from the stockade, the two Combat Command Nazi impersonators continued on their way, with the major following about 50 yards behind taking notes on enlisted men's reactions.

After appearing in company mess halls and drill fields, the men were again apprehended by a group of officers who trailed the "Nazis" for several yards and then ordered them into a building after arresting them.

Then the major came to the rescue for the second time by explaining what was taking place.

Both Pfc. Sadowski and Private Bazzle said that enlisted men seemed very much interested in the enemy uniforms, and that they asked numerous questions.

According to G-2, both uniforms were "the McCoy" taken from prisoners of war, and not Hollywood studio "props." Privates Bazzle and Sadowski, looking their parts, played their roles convincingly. They also enjoyed the ensuing notoriety immensely, but prefer garb styled by Uncle Sam.

Although they liked their unique assignment, both men confessed that they always worried a bit for fear some guard might get an itchy trigger finger and end their military careers too soon. The major saw to it that they were protected that they might get a crack at a real enemy at a later date.

No one is more anxious to help you get the best possible telephone service than the telephone men and women who are helping provide it. So if your calls are delayed—especially during rush periods—you can know that telephone people are doing everything they can. Facilities can't be expanded to meet all demands at all times, because telephone materials have gone to war too.

Ex-Lawsonite Was First Yank To Land In Sicily

Colonel Jerome B. McCauley of the Troop Carrier Command, and formerly commanding officer of a troop carrier group which was stationed at Lawson Field at Fort Benning last year, was the first man to reach Sicily during invasion of the Italian stronghold, according to advices reaching Lawson Field at Fort Benning.

According to details reaching friends at Fort Benning, Col. McCauley, who left here last Fall, is believed to be the first man to reach Sicily during invasion of that island.

At the head of a long stream of troop carrier planes, he led a five and a half hour flight from an advance air base in North Africa.

Enemy anti-aircraft fire placed hundreds of bullet and shrapnel holes in the carrier, but did not cause any damage that slowed the flight and the men "did a magnificent job." Col. McCauley stated later. He praised the efficiency and high morale of the paratroopers and also praised the job that the Troop Carrier Command did in supplying ground troops and fighter squadrons.

It's good to know diseases since
Some people must endure them;
But diagnosis fails us if
We don't use it to cure them.

Girl Scouts

Girl Scout leaders and assistants: attention, please! There will be a leaders' course given in Columbus Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, November 4, 5, and 6 from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., Columbus time, in the recreation room of Trinity Episcopal Church, on First Avenue across from Kirven's store.

Work shop of the course will be held Thursday and Friday afternoons from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m., Columbus time.

It is hoped that all leaders and assistants can arrange to attend the first meeting, Thursday, Nov. 4, and as many thereafter as possible, also the square dance party Friday evening Nov. 6, at 8 p.m.

Anyone interested in Girl Scouting is cordially invited to attend this course.

The schedule for Girl Scout meetings for the present year will be as follows:

Troop, Pine Tree; leader, Mrs. Berkowitz; day, Mondays, 2:45 p.m.

Troop, Brownies; leader, Mrs. Markel; day, Tuesdays, 2:45 p.m.

Troop, Fifth Grade; leader, Mrs. Donahue; day, Friday, 2:45 p.m.

MONDAY PAY DAY

Pay day at Fort Benning will be Monday, November 1, it was announced today at post headquarters. With the month of October containing five week ends between pay days, soldiers on the post undoubtedly are looking forward with high anticipation to the feel of folding money and pockets jingling with coins.

So the G. I.'s at Fort Benning have only six more days to wait for the highly welcome monthly event.

Can we, with the force of our ideas, hold the people we have conquered by the force of arms?

Benning-Hatched Pigeon Wins Battle Spurs

How "Yank," a pigeon bred at Fort Benning, performed one of the outstanding feats of the war so far in delivering an important message, was revealed today as the personnel of the pigeon lofts of the Signal Corps at the post were informed of their bird's activities.

"Yank" flew 90 miles in an hour and 55 minutes in rainy weather to bring a message of the retreat of Italian armies in Tunisia last March. The message enabled American Army headquarters to estimate an important tactical situation and keep up with what was going on at a distant fighting front.

The bird was hatched at Fort Benning and then sent to Camp Pickett, Virginia, for battle training. It was among a group of Signal Corps carrier pigeons sent to Africa. Whereabouts of the bird and its present duties—if it is still alive—are unknown.

Chapel Choir Begins Rehearsal Of Yule Music

The Fort Benning Chapel Choir has already started work in rehearsing Christmas music, it is announced. The choir is anxious for new members to join the organization. Men and women on the post who have done choir work are asked to attend Friday rehearsals at 8 p. m., and to sing at Sunday morning services beginning at 10:30 a.m. All voices are welcomed, but tenors and sopranos are especially needed.

Heroes Of Two Wars Grace 1st STR Roster

Heroes of both World Wars crowd the roster of the 2nd Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, the Infantry School. Among officers whom the current war has called away from the states is Captain Richard L. Harris, who, at 23 is one the youngest infantry officers of his grade. With the "Fighting First" Division, he fought through seven campaigns in North Africa and Sicily, and wears the Distinguished Service Cross and Silver Star for his exploits there.

Harris was commissioned a second lieutenant, Officers Reserve Corps, in June 1941, when he graduated from Georgetown University, where he had completed ROTC. His gold bars turned to silver in July 1942, and in turn sprouted the double shoulder irons of a captain in May 1943.

Other officers with foreign service are Captain William G. Downey, who was stationed in Iceland, Captain Alfred L. Stevens, from Panama, and Major Wayne G. Springer, who served in Alaska and the Aleutian Islands.

Major Charles P. Baldwin was with our southern neighbors and allies. After eight months as military attache to El Salvador, he was detailed with the Chilean army for six months.

Lieutenant Colonel Anson J. Smalley was on the Mexican border in 1916, later went into combat with the 42nd "Rainbow" Division of the AEF in France. Lieutenant Colonel Roy F. Goggin also served with the AEF in the last war.

Seven Parachute Officers Promoted

The following promotions in the 515 Parachute Infantry were announced by the War Department last week:

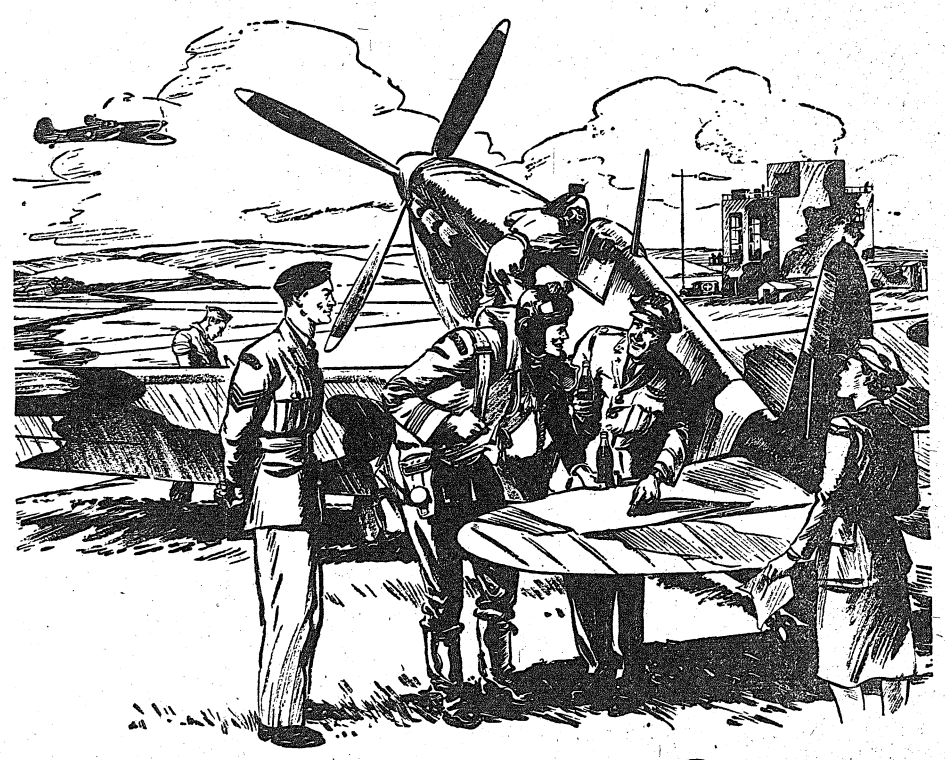
Promoted to the rank of major, Captain Burton N. Everett, Elmira, N. Y., Regimental S-4.

Promoted to the rank of captain, 1st Lieuts. Albert C. Reinert, Forrest Hills, Long Island; Ivan L. Wolfson, Los Angeles, Cal., Joseph N. Rogerkamp, Taunton, Mass., Webster E. Coombs, Whitefield, New Hampshire.

Promoted to the rank of 1st lieutenant, 2nd Lieuts. John K. Grube and William Ricker, both of Chicago, Ill.

Highest Cash Prices For Used Cars
PHILLIPS MOTOR CO.
PHONE 3-6553
1419 1st STREET

TAXI!
DIAL - - 8209
for Super Service
OPEN 24 HOURS
S & S TAXI CO.
2900 -2nd AVE.



RECAPPING—VULCANIZING

We cater to Ft. Benning Personnel
GASOLINE DELIVERY HOURS
11 A. M. to 11 P. M., CWT
THIGPEN
TIRE RECAPPING SERVICE
SHELL STATION
1201 - 13th ST.
PHENIX CITY
FIVE POINTS

DINE WINE AND BE MERRY
in ATLANTA'S NEWEST and FINEST SUPPER CLUB

Bill Cooper
His Piano and Soloves
Featuring the Best
Steaks & Chops
Seafood & Fried Chicken
AND OF COURSE
Wine & Champagne & Beer
PEACHTREE at ELLIS
OPEN 12 TO 12
SUNDAY DINNER
TO 10 P. M.

IF YOU'RE IN A HURRY FOR YOUR PRINTING... see
JOHNSTON PRINTING CO.
K. A. JOHNSTON, Prop.
302 - 15th ST.
PHENIX CITY

Have a Coca-Cola = Na Zdravi
(HERE'S TO YOU)

...or how to greet a visiting Czech
Everyone knows that the way to make friends is to be friendly. Have a "Coke", says the American airman, and Here's to you, replies the Czech flyer with instant understanding. This simple gesture is a world-wide high-sign of good intent. Around the globe Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the symbol of welcome among the kindly-minded.

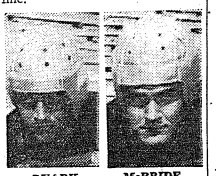
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY
© 1943 The C-C Co.

Sportscasting

BY SGT. CARL NEU

A GREAT TEAM IS BORN

A great football team came into being on the battle-scarred turf of Doughboy Stadium on Sunday afternoon. Wearing the colors of the 176th Infantry, famed old regiment whose history dates back to the days of George Washington and Patrick Henry, a group of highly-touted former collegiate gridmen suddenly developed into a well-knit eleven in the midst of battle. Up until Sunday, the Spirits were just another all-star team, capable of playing great ball for short periods and somewhat lackadaisical ball for longer periods. In their first three games, they had shown promise and little else as they won one and lost two.



But against the 300th Sabers, their arch rivals on the gridiron, the Spirits became a great team. They were well organized. They played together not like all-stars but like a college eleven that had trained and played together for a couple of seasons. To this writer it was a revelation to watch eleven men coordinate their efforts so magnificently. This despite the fact that a couple of the outstanding players had joined the team only ten days before.

Much of the credit for this teamwork and the splendid fighting spirit which the Spirits used to such great advantage in toppling the 300th must go to mild-mannered, popular Bud Pollock, the head man of 176th grid destinies. More formally he's Capt. Lee D. Pollock, a graduate of Pennsylvania Military College and one of the best-liked officers in the Spirit regiment. Up until now, he's been in the background, which he definitely prefers, but the performance of his team spoke for him to the tune of 14-0 Sunday. He's the kind of a coach that pigskinners really like to play football for. After that victory, he was the happiest guy in the world, and had the highest praise for every man on the team. With Pollock at the helm, the Spirits may go a long way on the gridiron this fall.

LINE-PLAY MAGNIFICENT

Magnificent is the only word we know of that could adequately describe the performance of that 176th line against a Saber forward wall that was considered as tough as any in the nation. With a couple of Professor Wally Butts' most apt pupils, George Poschner and Walter Ruark leading the way along with Notre Dame's Bob McBride, the Spirit forwards just simply outcharged and outsmarted their Saber rivals. Joe Routt, the great All-American from Texas A. and M., was as usual a Rock of Gibraltar in there for the 300th, but even his fine work was overshadowed by the over-all performance of the entire Spirit rush line.

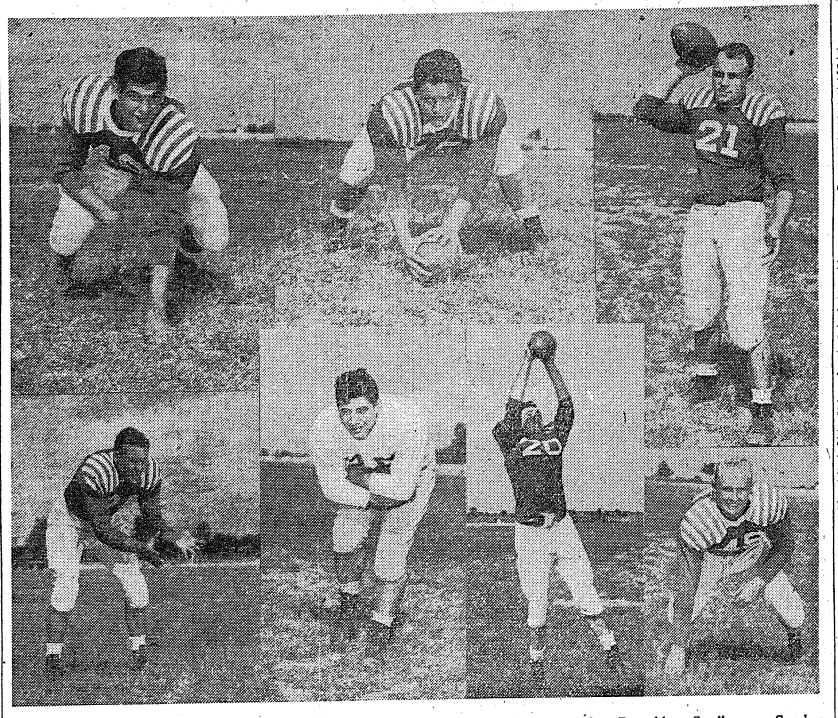
RUARK McBRIDE

Those big tackles, Johnny Cagle from Clemson and Frank Heidel from Missouri, were towers of strength. Heidel blocked two punts himself, one of them resulting in the first touchdown. The second he not only blocked, but also recovered near midfield at a crucial point in the game. Cagle was all over the field, playing brilliantly on offense as well as defense. Poschner was simply an All-American every minute he was in there. The other ends acquitted themselves well and Warren Witte, backing up the line, was a reliable pivotman.

But in the final analysis it was the guards who stole the show. We seriously doubt if there are two more courageous guards anyplace in the nation than Ruark and McBride. The ex-Bulldog, who joined the 176th just ten days before the game gave the great Routt a tooth-and-nail battle. McBride, who served as field captain of the winners, was all over the gridiron. He was truly a Notre Dame performer. The rugged Irishman never gives up. If he's taken out of a play, he's up again in a flash and following down field. His blocking is vicious and his tackling is tooth-rattling. He's as fine a competitor as we ever watched in moleskins.

WATERFIELD AND ROGERS

In dishing out plaudits to the Spirit line, however, one cannot overlook the performances of 176th backs, particularly Bob Waterfield and Cullen (Slick) Rogers. Some fans seem to misunderstand Waterfield's mission as pilot of the T-formation. They seem to think he should mix it up more, do more blocking and the like. That's okay to presume, but it doesn't work that way. The man-at-the-switch of the T-model offense has a peculiar job. He's a craftsman who usually has to play the entire game. He's got to save himself. Without Waterfield, the Spirits would be a ship without a rudder. He played all but three minutes Sunday, 60 minutes against the 124th. And his kicking and passing were just as fine at the close of the game as the start.



Also, he's the key figure in the deception of the system. To the uninitiated, it may seem he does a lot of running away from the play after handing the ball to another back crashing into the line. Well, my friends, it's designed that way. He's the decoy. But Sunday, when the Sabers least expected it, the decoy suddenly turned up with the ball slyly tucked behind his hip and streaking towards the goal line. And he made it on the prettiest hidden-ball play we've ever tried to see. That one play paid off for an afternoon of decoy work because it sewed up the ball-game. That's the T-formation, and we'll take Waterfield as the pilot any day, any place. He's a past master of a grid game that few can even comprehend.

All of Bob's skill, though, would be wasted if he didn't have clever helpers in the backfield. Fortunately with the Spirits, he has them. Rogers, the former Texas Aggie lad, is a natural faker. So is Sully Harris, the former LSU flash. Many times Sunday, fans or Sabers could not find the pigskin. Rogers, too, played a great defensive game. He backed up that line like a demon, and when he carried the apple himself, you almost heard the Saber wall wince. He hits like a rocket and really explodes with speed in the open as he did on the pass interception which led to the second and final score.

Daniel Field Fliers Invade Stadium On Sunday For Return Tilt With Saber Foe

High-Fliers From Daniel Field

THESE SEVEN pigskin aces from the Augusta, Ga., flying field will romp on the turf at Doughboy Stadium on Sunday afternoon when they seek revenge for an early season defeat against the 300th Sabers. At the top, left to right, are: Vince Secontine, ex-Michigan tackle; George Hebson, former Illinois star; and Johnny Predl, one of two passing aces in the Flier backfield. Below you can see Johnny Sylvester, flashy tailback from Temple; Joe Liscio, former Brooklyn College line-bucker; John Holmes, ex-North Carolina State pass-snagger; and John Higgins, former Centre College lineman. (Photographs by U. S. Army Air Corps.)

Augusta Air Base Eleven Boasts Array of Ex-Collegiate Player

PROBABLE STARTING LINEUPS

Daniel Field		300th Infantry
Holmes (N. C. State)	LE	Gilmore (Maryland)
Secontine (Michigan)	LT	Smithwick (Nevada)
Hebson (Illinois)	LG	Routt (Texas A. & M.)
Ballard (L. S. U.)	C	Brzinski (St. Cloud)
Sedlewicz (Villanova)	RG	Arms (Oklahoma A. & M.)
Busby (Santa Barbara State)	RT	J. Robinson (Baylor)
Lomberger (Northwestern)	RE	Simmons (Texas A. & M.)
DiTomo (Temple)	QB	Peel (Tennessee)
Sylvester (Temple)	LH	Allen (Kentucky)
Crossland	RH	Simcox (Long Beach J. C.)
Predl	FB	DiBlasi (Wash. & Lee)

RECORDS OF RIVALS

DANIEL FIELD		300TH INFANTRY
13 Georgia Naval Pre-Flight	19	65 Draper Prison	0
6 300th Infantry	39	19 124th Infantry	7
18 Univ. of Georgia	7	39 Daniel Field	6
40 Presbyterian Col.	14	0 Georgia Tech	27
—	—	0 176th Infantry	14
77	79	—	—
		123	54

(Continued from Page One)

Jack Holmes of North Carolina State.

Lending versatility to the Daniel Field offense is another former Temple Owl, Johnny Sylvester at the tailback post. A slick breakaway runner, he starred in the touchdown romp against Presbyterian. Hal Crossland at wingback and Dick Predl at fullback will probably complete the Flier backfield quartet.

LISCIO READY

Joe Liscio, the regular first-string fullback from Brooklyn College, is still nursing a bad knee but is expected to be ready for considerable action against the Benning eleven.

The center of the Daniel Field line boasts plenty of heft and experience and expects to give the Saber front wall a real battle this time. At tackles, Stovall can choose between Ken Busby, 252-pounder from Santa Barbara State; Vince Secontine, ex-Michigan line star; and Bob Berryman, giant Stanford tackle of a few years ago.

200-POUND LINES

Joe Sedlewicz from Villanova and George Hebson from the University of Illinois are the starting guards, while either LSU's Shelton Ballard or Minnesota's Earl Nelson will get the call at center. There is little to choose between the two pivots. The Flier line averages 200 pounds while the backs go about 190 which gives them a weight advantage over the 300th behind the line, since the Saber wall is just as big as the visitors.

The humbled 300th eleven is expected to come up for Sunday's game fighting mad after its two recent defeats. The Big Blue is still hampered by injuries, however, which may weaken it some. Bill Meek, Moon Mullins and Bill Nowling, three of the best Saber backs, did not see any action against the 176th, and are expected to be used only sparingly against the Fliers.

One thing is sure it is bound to be a hard fought game all the way with a team that has suddenly found its stride trying to fight off a once-mighty eleven that is rebounding after two stinging defeats.

Red Sox Squad Will Be Feted Friday Night

All Service Loop Teams To Attend F. B. A. A. Party

The 1st STR Red Sox, 1943 diamond champions of the First Benning Service League, will be honored at a baseball party tomorrow night which will be attended by members of all teams that participated in the circuit.

Tendered by the Fort Benning Athletic Association, sponsors of the eight-club loop, the affair will be held in the old 24th Infantry rec hall on the main post from 7 until 9 o'clock.

PRESENT TROPHY

Midway in the party, the championship trophy will be presented to the Red Sox by the post commander or his representative. The 1st STR nine captured the laurels in a five-game playoff series with the Reception Center.

Teams besides the Red Sox and the Reception Center which will attend the party are: the 3rd STR Panthers, the Truck Regiment Reds, the Medical Detachment, Headquarters Detachment, and the Academic Regiment Pacesetters.

ASTP Cage Loop Gets Under Way

Basketball, the "Queen of Indoor Sports," opened for the fall season at the Harmony Church Sports Arena last Thursday night with 10 ASTP teams battling from whistle to whistle.

The huge arena was filled with teams and more teams, some in gaudy red uniforms, sedate black and whites and various assortments of color. Some not so fortunate were clad in odds and ends and GI underwear, but all in all it was a good show and the quality of ball played was above the average for this early stage of the season.

Results of the first games:

3rd Battalion, 5th Reg. 15; 1st Bn, 4th Reg. 6. Azabez was high scorer for the winners with seven points.

3rd Bn 6th Reg. 33; 1st Bn 6th Reg. 21. Shannon and Ticco were high scorers for the winners with 12 points each while Ward led the losers with 14 points.

1st Bn 5th Reg. 35; 3rd Bn 4th Reg. 22. Fisk led the winners with 10 points and Palm was high for the losers wit h6 points.

2nd Bn 4th Reg. 62; 2nd Bn 5th Reg. 22. Briggs and Hartman paced the winners with 22 and 18 points respectively. Briggs 22 was high for the evening. Swords shot 9 points to lead the losers.

4th Bn 6th Reg. 24; Hq. & Hq. Co. 31. Scott was high for the winners with 11 points and White led the losers with 9 points.

GRID PAIR—Sgt. John (Jazz) Magoni is shown above discussing gridiron strategy with his son, Chuck, star quarterback for the Columbus High School Blue Devils, one of the best prep elevens in the southeast. (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

Jazz Magoni's Son Makes Good As Quarterback For Star Columbus High Team

BY CPL. JOHNSTON C. WOODALL

Master Sgt. John (Jazz) Magoni of the Weapons Section, I.S.S.C., and Charles (Chuck) Magoni, Columbus High School Blue Devil quarterback, are not only a father-son strategy board but a football pair as well!

"Chuck" is the powerhouse blocker for the Blue Devils who are dynamiting their way towards the G. I. A. A. throne and an invitation to play in the huge Orange Bowl at Miami. The Floridians have formally invited the Columbus team for the post-season attraction and the Georgians have accepted the bid. The game is scheduled for November 12. (All Southern high schools vie yearly for the privilege of playing in the well-known bowl. Palms, beaches and beauties all go with the Miami affair.)

"Sorta proud to be on this team and thrilled to death over the invitation" is the way Magoni feels about it.

NOT HUSKY

Charles Magoni is no husky kid—he weighs exactly 140 pounds and is only 15 years old, but he has a fighting spirit that won't be stopped. Time after time, youthful Magoni has thrown his 140 pounds into a terrific block against players with far more weight to smash them down clean as a whistle. Magoni starts every Blue Devil game and generally plays the full 60 minutes without substitution.

"Magoni may not make the big headlines but with his fierce blocking paves the way for his teammates," claims Rudolph Stuart, another Blue Devil. Stuart, incidentally, is the son of another army sergeant—Master Sgt. Elton Stuart.

EX-JEEP STAR

The junior Magoni gives these three credit: Lt. Col. Virgil Ney, head of boy's activities here; Capt. Bob Ayers, who coached him as fullback on last year's "Jeep" eleven; and Alex Truitt, C. H. S. mentor, who have all combined to teach him football.

"Like most army kids, he's shooting for West Point," the father said earnestly when queried about his son's future wish.

POP PLAYED TOO

Now for Magoni the elder—the sarge "played" football on the 1923-24 I. S. D. team as a tackle; played aside T. Sgt. W. J. Cochran (now in Co. G, Academic Regiment) who was the guard.

"We're the only two left on the Post that played on the team—guess we're the last of the Mohicans," said the M. Sgt.

SURPRISES DAD

The sarge's face lightened up as he got back on the subject of his son—"I didn't know he was taking football seriously—he surprised me greatly when he came out on the field as starting quarterback."

Once upon a time as the story goes (it's verified by many a non-com), a noted general was paying his respects to Fort Benning. He was asked if there was anyone he wished to see or if they could do anything to make his visit a pleasure.

"Let's go see Sgt. John Magoni," was his reply.

SANTA CLAUS

In no field of post activities is there any man who has given so unselfishly or so generously as Sgt. John Magoni. He is loved by the children of Fort Benning for it is he who puts on the Santa Claus whiskers and suit to amuse the juveniles each Xmas at the Post theater. He is one of the ideal sergeants of the Post, admired by all his fellow soldiers.

All Benning is back of "Chuck" too. We wish both Magonis happy touchdowns. Go get 'em, Magonis!

Panthers Bow To Clark Foe In Hard Game

3rd STR Eleven's Blocked Kick Is Deciding Play

A stubborn Panther eleven from the 3rd STR went down before a last-ditch rally of Clark College in Atlanta last Thursday night to lose its fourth straight tilt, 12-7.

Even in defeat, though, the Benning soldiers played their best football of the season against an outstanding collegiate array. A Blocked punt with only two minutes of play remaining proved the break in the game.

BLOCKED PUNT

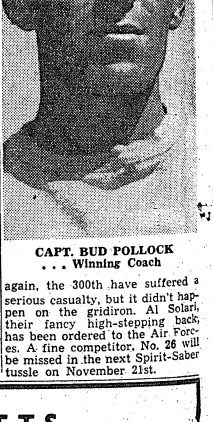
Near the close of the tilt with the Panthers leading, 7-6, Othello Renfroe, Clark pivotman, broke through to smear Kennedy's kick and recover the ball on the 3rd STR's 16-yard stripe. Harper and Thomas then drove through the Panther line for the needed yardage with Harper sliding off tackle for the score.

Harper, an all-Southern fullback, also was the big gun in the first Clark score which came in the second period. Leading a drive from the Panther 44 where a bad punt had gone out of bounds, the big collegian passed to Thomas from the 6-yard line for the tally. Harper's placement try went wide, however.

The Panthers came back fighting, though, and proceeded to drive 80 yards for a score. Big John Massenburg, hefty fullback, was the leading ground-gainer along with Ray Head, elusive ex-Tuskegee ace. The Benning team capped the drive with a 23-pass play from Henry Kennedy to Head which resulted in a touchdown. Massenburg drive through the line for the extra point to give the Panthers a halftime lead.

3rd STR Sergeant Picks Grid Winners

Staff Sgt. William V. Jackson of the 9th Company, 3rd Student Training Regiment, was the winner of the $15 first prize in the Bayonet's big football score guessing contest for the games played last week-end.



Second prize of seven dollars went to Pvt. Edmund Tracz of Company A, 653rd Tank Destroyer Battalion, and third prize of three dollars was won by Pfc. Wesley F. Roth of Battery B of the 440th Field Artillery Battalion.

Due to an inadvertent typographical error in the ad printed last Thursday, the dead-line was given as noon, October 21. Although the error was corrected in the Daily Bulletin and over the radio, it was responsible for a decrease in the number of entries last week. The dead-line will always be noon on the Saturday the games are played, and the letters must bear such a postmark.

All military personnel at Fort Benning is invited to join the fun, and guess for cash. The contest will continue through the current football season. This week's entry blank will be found in page nine. Come on, boys and girls, it doesn't cost anything to try; your guesses may pay off in cabbage.

Spirits Were "Team That Wouldn't Be Beaten" In 300th Battle

A team that can't be beat, won't be beat. That was the feeling of the 176th football team before Sunday's game with the Sabers and after the smoke had cleared away they had proved their point. There was little doubt in the minds of those 20,000 pigskin fans, as to the most powerful grid machine at Fort Benning.

CAPT. BUD POLLOCK
. . . Winning Coach

While there was no outstanding individual player, there were many who can be singled out as important contributing factors. On the line, the play of George Poschner was a sight to behold as he was the fifth man in the Saber backfield. Time and time again, the Spirit end knifed through the 300th forward wall to halt a play before it got underway.

In the tackle slots, Coach Bud Pollock couldn't have had a more durable pair than Frank Heidel and Johnny Cagle. While the praises of guards Bob McBride and Chief Ruark have been justly sung to the sky.

It was a game worth winning—a game well won. A game where a vastly superior line showed a packed house how to play real football.

Following the Spirits' fray with Southwestern Louisiana Institute a couple of weeks ago, a lot of fans asked the question: "Who is SLI—We've never heard of them?" Well, that is the way a lot of us felt until we heard another score on Sunday. Over in Georgetown, Texas, that same SLI eleven blasted a heretofore unbeaten Southwestern University juggernaut by a score of 27 to 6.

Getting back to local football again, the 300th have suffered a serious casualty, but it didn't happen on the gridiron. Al Solari, their fancy high-stepping back, has been ordered to the Air Forces. A fine competitor, No. 26 will be missed in the next Spirit-Saber tussle on November 21st.

"Lucky 7th" Armored Medics Down Officer Rivals In Disputed Tilt

There's always two sides to a story. The winning team summed it up thusly, according to one of their players: "We were outranked, but never outfought." The team on the lower end of the score was reluctant to concede a bona fide defeat. "That touchdown pass was somewhat of a fluke," opined one of the gridders. "We haven't quit by any means. We're angling for another crack at those guys."

All of which makes prospects bright indeed for a return tussle between the 77th Armored Medical officers and the officers of Combat Command "B," Lucky 7th" Armored Division. Despite considerable quibbling on either side the final score went into the books 7-0 in a hotly contested, 8-man touch football game played recently on a hastily laid out gridiron opposite Gill Range.

The play causing much controversy and resulting in the Medics' lone tally and margin of victory came late in the second period. A CCB back, on an attempted interception of a pass by Person, succeeded only in deflecting the ball into the waiting arms of Partridge, who romped the remaining yardage without any trouble. Person then flipped to Malloy for the point after touchdown.

The Combat Commanders pulled an iron-man stunt, using but eight players from whistle to whistle — either through design or necessity. Reports have it that Maj. Gammill thought he was back in that rough Fort Sam Houston league an dthrew bruising blocks accordingly. Chaplain O'Brien was described as "a darn good center," holding down a difficult pivot post with plenty of zip.

GIFTS
TOYS—SPORTS—GAMES
BUY ON OUR LAY-AWAY PLAN
GIFTS WRAPPED AND MAILED FOR YOU
Bentley's
1305 BROADWAY DIAL 7365

Tigers Meet Florida A. & M. In Columbus

Reception Center Seeks Fourth Win In War Fund Battle Against Rattlers

Fort Benning's all-winning Reception Center Tigers will go after their fourth straight grid triumph of the season on Saturday night when they clash with the Florida A. and M. Rattlers at Memorial Stadium in Columbus in a National War Fund benefit, with the kickoff at 9 o'clock Benning time.

Coached by Capt. Charles R. Houghland, former Notre Dame luminary, the powerful Tigers have bowled over Clark College, the 3rd STR Panthers, and the Truck Regiment Rockets with ease. In their trio of victories, the R. C. gridders amassed 86 points to their opponent's six.

STERN OPPONENT

In the Florida Rattlers, however, the Tigers will face their sternest opposition of the early season. SIAAC champs in 1941 and 1942, the Floridians will be gunning for a third straight flag this year. And for the past ten years, the Rattlers have bowled over all CIAA opposition.

This year, with five returning veterans from the 1942 cast, the Rattlers have laced Alabama A. and M. and been deadlocked by a powerful Morris Brown contingent. They will invade Columbus for the Tiger tilt at full strength and raring to go against what may be the strongest colored service team in the nation.

EX-RATTLERS

Against the Rattlers, the Reception Center will present a powerful backfield, led by a pair of former colored All-Americans who will be playing against their alma mater for the first time.

In 1941 and 1942, Leo Harrison and Macon (Body-Builder) Williams were the mainstays of the Rattler attack and both gained mythical honors of all sorts. Now they are performing at quarterback and fullback for the Tigers and in the games to date have flashed their All-American form.

WILLIAMS STARS

Harrison does a great deal of ball-handling besides calling signals and is the best line-plunger for the R. C. machine. Williams is a brilliant passer and open-field runner and played a great game last Saturday against the Rockets as he passed to four scores and tallied the fifth himself on an off-tackle slash.

Along with these two ex-Rattlers, the Tigers boast several fleet backs in Hollingsworth, Johnson, Cheatham and Screws and a big, powerful forward wall.

With all proceeds of the Tiger-Rattler battle to go to the National War Fund, a banner crowd is expected for what will be a red-hot grid battle.

Tickets for the Reception Center-Florida A. and M. game are now on sale at the office of the Fort Benning Athletic Association in the bowling alley building on the main post. Soldier tickets are priced at 25 cents, while regular admission will be one dollar. Only military personnel in uniform will be admitted on the soldier tickets. All proceeds of the game will be to the National War Fund.

Tigers Trounce Rocket Eleven By 32-0 Score

Macon Williams Star In Easy Triumph Over Truckers

By PFC. JOHN L. ROBINSON

Before a slightly chilled crowd of 6,500 gridiron fans, the rampaging Tigers of the Reception Center continued along their victory march by turning back the Truck Regiment, 32-0, on Saturday night.

Led by "Body-Builder" Williams, Cheatham, and Crews, all backs, who were aided no little by the sparkling line plays of the entire Reception Center forward wall, the Tigers scored five touchdowns and held the Rockets far down deep in their own territory after a series of bad breaks had set them back on their heels.

EARLY THREAT

Early in the first quarter a kick was touched by an RC halfback and downed on their 26-yard line by an alert Rocket lineman. The Tigers regained possession of the ball by virtue of an intercepted pass only to lose it again when a fumble was recovered by the Truckers on the Reception Center eight-yard line. At that point the sturdy forewall stiffened and yielded not a yard and there was no score in the first period.

At the beginning of the second quarter with the RC in possession, Hollingsworth picked up seven yards around left end; two more line plunges gained little yardage; Williams then rifled a beautiful 29-yard pass to Warren Baugh, who leaped high in the air to make the catch in the end zone. Baugh missed the try for extra point.

CHEATHAM SCORES

With Smith, Williams, and Hollingsworth alternately gaining through holes opened up by Moulton and Chambers, their tackles, the ball was carried down field to the 10-yard line. Mike Cheatham, the Tigers' swivel-hipped halfback, then entered the game and on the first play caught a 10-yard pass thrown by Williams for a touchdown. Williams missed the try for extra point

Late in the second quarter after receiving another 10-yard pass from Macon Williams, Cheatham gave the fans an exhibition of fine broken-field running by galloping 55 yards to another score. Williams kicked the extra point, making the count 19-0.

In the second half, the TR kicked off to the RC, who took the ball on their own 20 and returned it to their 38.

62-YARD MARCH

The Tigers then put on a 62-yard march, sparked by Williams and Crews, to the TR 12-inch line, where Williams plunged over tackle for the score. Baugh converted for the extra point.

The Truck Regiment showed signs of making a score by driving 50 yards down the field to the Tigers' 15-yard line, with Wilson doing most of the carrying. However, G. Points, Tiger guard, intercepted one of Costa's passes and the Reception Center took over.

The final quarter found the Tigers plowing through and passing over the "Truckers." With Crews receiving a pass from Williams on the 13-yard line, Crews went over for the final marker, 32-0. Extra point was missed.

STATISTICAL SUMMARY

	RC	TR
1st Downs	14	10
Yds. Rushing	184	121
Yds. Lost Rushing	9	76
Passes Attempted	17	12
Passes Completed	7	5
Yds. Passing	173	51
Total Net Yds. Gained	348	106
Passes Intercepted	2	1
Punts Av. Yds	34	36
Fumbles	3	1
Yds Penalties	40	15

TIGERS	LINEUPS	ROCKETS
W. Baugh	LE	Duggins
Chambers	LT	Johnson
Martin	LG	Bennett
Teal	C	Jones
R. Baugh	RG	Cobb
Moulton	RT	Mayo
Gainer	RE	Celestin
Harrison	QB	Costa
Hollingsworth	HB	Wilson
Smith	HB	Costa
Williams	FB	Dismond

VICTORY INDEED

Sgt. Dean Robinson of Company E of the 300th Infantry has the knack of digging up the oddest items in the queerest places. His recent brainchild was again culled from the company roster:

"Privates Vance, Ingram, Childers, Todd, O'Neil, Ronca, Yost."

Take the first letters in their names and they spell what we all look for very soon.

Football Summary

BENNING GAMES

SCHEDULE

300th Infantry vs. Daniel Field, Doughboy Stadium at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

RESULTS

176th Infantry 14, 300th Infantry 6.

Reception Center 32, Truck Regiment 0.

Clark College 12, 3rd STR Panthers 7.

COLUMBUS GAMES

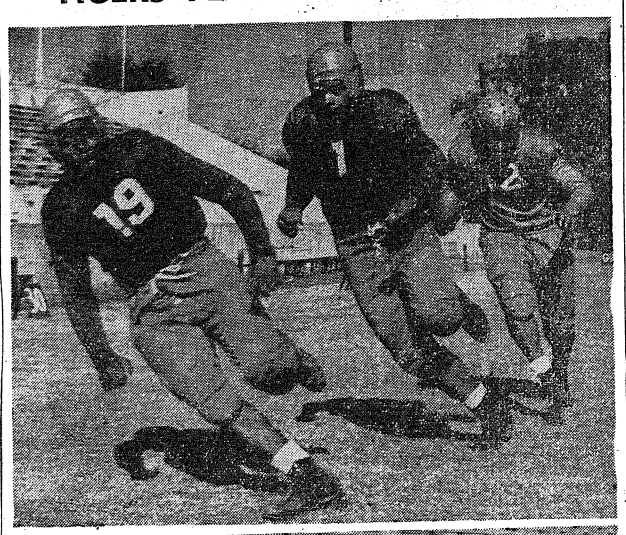
SCHEDULE

Central High vs. Lanett High, Martin Stadium in Phenix City at 8 o'clock Benning time on Friday night.

Reception Center vs. Florida A. & M. Memorial Stadium in Columbus at 8 o'clock Benning time on Saturday night.

RESULTS

Columbus High 13, Central High 6.



Tuskegee 12, Morehouse 6.

L. S. U. 27, Georgia 7.

This week is an open date for the 176th gridders, but on November 6th, they travel to Augusta, Ga., to face the Flyers of Daniel Field. The Airmen have been strengthened by the addition of several players and have come fast following a beating by the Sabers. In their last two starts they have laced the Georgia Bulldogs 16 to 6 and Presbyterian 40 to 14.

PAT PATTERSON
Peachtree & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED CHICKEN IN THIS TOWN
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY STEAKS THAT'S REALLY TENDER
CAT FISH DINNERS GA. STYLE
COME OUT ON THE NORTH HIGHLAND BUS
BEING THE FAMILY TONIGHT!
Try Our Sea Food Course—8 Private Dining Rooms

TIGERS PLAY FOR WAR FUND

READY FOR RATTLERS are these members of the fast Reception Center eleven, which battles Florida A. and M. at Memorial Stadium in Columbus on Saturday night. Above are three speedy backs: Mike Cheatham (Alabama State), Leo Harrison (Florida A. and M.), and Louis Screws (Alabama A. and M. Alongside you can see the famed Baugh brothers, Warren and Richard, who play end and guard, respectively, for the Tigers. (Signal Lab Photos by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

Sabers Lose But Advance To 25th Spot In Ratings

Even though they were upset Sunday by the 176th Spirits, the 300th Sabers rose to 25th in the national gridiron rankings issued by the Williamson system. All of which goes to prove that every cloud has a silver lining.

Prior to Sunday's stadium battle, the Sabers were rated 27th in the nation, and the Spirits were in the 54th spot. After Sunday, the Sabers jumped to 25th, but the Spirits moved up only one notch to 53rd.

Question of the week on the part of the 176th, therefore, is, "what do you have to do to gain recognition, win or lose!" At any rate, despite the vagaries of the rating system, it's all in the same backyard which means that the Infantry School has two teams which rank high throughout the nation.

Sport Slants On The Camps

Although the Navy took top honors in the National Tennis tournament when Lt. (jg) Joe Hunt stopped Coast Guard Seaman Jack Kramer, 6-3, 6-8, 10-8, 6-0, to win the National Singles title, the U. S. Army was in there punching all the way.

Cpl. Frank Parker, former Davis Cup star, reached the semi-finals in the singles competition before bowing to Kramer and, paired with Kramer, won the national doubles crown from William Talbert and PFC Dave Freeman of the Army Air Forces.

Other GIs who participated in the goings-on were PFC Bitsy Grant, A-C Tom Falkenburg, Pvt. Bob Odman of Seattle, Cpl. Charles Hare of Ft. Meade, Md. and Pvt. Vincent Paul of Camp Stewart, Ga.

PFC Ed (Lefty,) McFadden sports editor of the Tailspin, Tinker Field, Okla., reports that the best team his Field met this season was the Navy Skyjackets, Norman, Okla. The Skyjackets are coached by Lt. Charley Gelbert, former Cardinal shortstop. Their top pitcher is Al Benton, ex-Detroit righthander, and their leading hitter is Johnny Rizzo who used to play for the Phillies, Pirates, Reds and Dodgers.

Camp Davis, N. C. has a tough 9-game football schedule set up for this fall. The Camp Davis eleven will tackle Wake Forest, North Carolina State, North Carolina Navy Preflight, Davidson College, Camp LeJeune, Ft. Monroe, Presbyterian College, Daniel Field, and the University of North Carolina on successive Saturdays.

Majors Curtis H. Rankin, Ouachita College (Ark.) and James G. Dubisson, United States Military Academy; Captains Arthur J. Decker, Jr., Univ. of Mich.; William M. Skillman, Central College (Mo.); Sydney F. Frazier and James P. Daniel, Furman ,Tenn.) and Lieutenants Robert P. Evans, U. of Ky.; Milton S. Katz, Clark College; Virgil N. McCrary, Centenary College of La.; James Dugan, Southern Calif.; Henry A. Wicker, Springfield (Mass.) College and Thaddeus H. Harvey, Notre Dame.

Now training for combat with the Seventh Armored Division, these men would be the answer to a coach's prayer if time and training permitted, but duty comes first with the "Lucky 7th."

Shredded tin cans are used in copper mines to precipitate copper from impregnated mine waters.

Spirits Upset 300th Foe

176th Line Outstanding In 14-0 Win; Stage Set For November Tilt

BY SGT. FORREST R. KYLE

There will be quite a clambake in Doughboy Stadium come Sunday afternoon, Nov. 21.

That's the day the 176th Spirits and the 300th Sabers of The Infantry School clash for the 1943 football championship of The Infantry School conference.

The importance of the battle was arranged in the Stadium last Sunday, when the Spirits throttled the Sabers 14 to 0 before another capacity crowd of 20,000 spectators.

Both teams now have won one and lost one game in the conference, so everything will be at stake when the two classy elevens tangle for the second time this season.

A hard-charging, alert exhibition of football by the Spirits' line was too much for the Sabers last Sunday. The 300th backs were so completely shackled throughout the game they netted only 43 yards from scrimmage.

But that was only part of the story. All afternoon the 176th forwards surged past the Saber defenders to make life miserable for the 300th backs attempting to punt and pass. Two punts were blocked, the first for a touchdown in the opening quarter.

Even though the Sabers completed eight of 25 passes for 162 yards, often the 300th passer was slammed to the turf before he could find a receiver.

Outstanding along the Saber line were Walter Ruark, guard, and All-American George Poschner, end, both of Georgia; Bob McBride of Notre Dame, another guard; tackles John Cagle of Clemson and Frank Heidel of Missouri.

Of this quintet it was Poschner who sparked the brightest spot in the fifth man in the Saber backfield from start to finish. And it was Heidel who barged into a punt off the toe of the Sabers' Ermal Allen in the first quarter. The ball bounded into the end zone and Harry Hales, end from North Carolina, plopped on it for a touchdown.

ROUTT STARS

As brilliant as the play of Poschner was, that of the Sabers' Joe Routt, All-American guard from Texas A. and M., with sturdy assistance from Jim Robinson of Baylor and Lloyd Arms of Oklahoma A. and M., Routt was all over the field bringing down Spirit ball-toters before they could get completely in the open.

Allen, the Sabers' ace offensive threat, broke open the game with a 64-yard runback of the opennig kickoff and twice ran and passed the Sabers within the Spirits' 10-yard line, but the touchdown punch was lacking. He did complete a pass to Dean Robinson which, but for a yard, would have been a touchdown. The aerial was long and Robinson grabbed it a step outside the end zone.

The Spirits' first touchdown came suddenly after the Sabers had halted a 167th scoring threat. Stopped on two running plays and two incomplete passes after making a first down on the Sabers' 14, the Spirits immediately gummed up two 300th line thrusts. The Heidel went slamming through the line and blocked Allen's punt. It was a simple matter for Hales to recover the ball in the end zone for a touchdown. Sully Harris obliged with a perfect placement to make the score 7-0.

Bob Waterfield, who bossed the "T" formation for U. C. L. A. in the Rose Bowl tilt last year and does same for the Spirits, executed a nifted reverse with perfection to account for the Spirits' second touchdown in fourth quarter.

The Spirits arrived in scoring territory as the result of Cullen Rogers grabbing a Saber pass and running it back 22 yards to the 300th 18-yard line. Harris picked up two yards at right tackle. Then Waterfield pulled the play which doesn't work often, but when it does, it's murder.

As usual, he got the ball from center, spun and faked the ball to another back running toward the right. Waterfield kept the ball hidden and nonchalantly trotted off to the left. Then he took off full tilt for the goal unescorted by any blockers. He wasn't touched until he hit the goal line. Harris again converted.

Except for the blocked punt, this was the only time the Spirits seriously threatened, the Saber goal, but twice they had to make stout stands to prevent 300th tallies.

AERIAL BARRAGE

A Saber aerial barrage in the second quarter, featuring Allen passes to Ike Peel and Jim Saub, penetrated to the Spirits' 19. Allen ran nine yards to the 10 and Allen Mai, new Saber back from Kansas State, made it a first down on the six. Two plunges later the ball was still on the six, a pass was blocked, and then Allen passed to Dean Robinson behind the end zone.

Early in the fourth quarter Sully Harris interfered as Bute Simmons, Saber end, tried to catch a pass on the Spirit 18-yard line and the aerial was ruled complete. Allen darted to the 13 and Mai, in two attempts, made a first down on the seven. Mai went on to the five through center, then Allen hit right tackle to the three. But the Spirits' line rose up and smacked Mai for a yard loss and

Gridiron Guesswork

By SGT. CARL NEU

Woe are we! This guessing gridder business gets tougher and tougher each week. We hit an all-season low last week-end, missing on five games. The Texas Aggie-North Texas affair was a tie, so we actually picked 14 winners out of nineteen. Games that tripped us up were Southern Cal's win over College of Pacific, Colgate's upset of Cornell, Tech's loss to Navy, March Field's defeat at the hands of Washington, and Southwestern Louisiana's win over Southwestern of Texas. Well, here goes on another week of prognosticating. First named team is our choice.

300th Infantry vs. Daniel Field—I'll be much closer this time, but the Sabers should repeat.

Georgia vs. Howard—The Alabamans are plucky, but the Bulldogs should rebound—and then some!

Duke vs. Ga. Tech—The Jackets have lost too many stars to get reorganized in time. Blue Devils all the way.

Notre Dame vs. Navy—It's Bertelli's farewell, and he's not likely to flub it. The Irish in a battle royal.

Penn vs. Army—Here's where someone loses their first, and we'll take a flier on the old alma mater. Quakers by a hair.

Colgate vs. Holy Cross—Red Raiders hit their stride against Cornell.

Northwestern vs. Minnesota—Now that Gopher buble has burst. Wildcats ought to crash through with Graham.

Tusla vs. Southwestern of Texas—Just a hunch, but the Hurricanes are mighty potent.

L. S. U. vs. T. C. U.—Van Buren to keep up his scoring parade!

Dartmouth vs. Yale—The Indians from Hanover in an Ivy League thriller.

Purdue vs. Wisconsin—The Boilermakers will remain unbeaten.

Texas Aggies vs. S. M. U.—A close game all the way. A. and M. by a touchdown.

Southern Cal. vs. California—No choice here. Trojans in an easy one this year.

Tulane vs. Ga. Pre-Flight—The Fliers are rolling now, but haven't got quite enough to halt the Green Wave.

Ohio State vs. Indiana—It's time for the Buckeye youngsters to win a big one. Playing a hunch, we'll take State.

Many Stars But No Grid Eleven In 7th Armored

29 Ex-collegiate Gridders Yearn For Action

With the football season already swinging into high gear, 29 ex-pigskin toters in the Seventh Armored Division are following the ball via the newspapers this year. At the present time they have more important work to do, training for "the big game" abroad.

Representing colleges and universities from coast to coast, these former gridsters are from nearly every organization within the division. Even though duty comes before pleasure it still won't prevent these pigskiner-packin' huskies from burning up the sidelines.

In the event that Division Commander, Maj. Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silvester, should suddenly decide to build up a grid machine for the greater glory of the "Lucky 7th," he could select a formidable first-string line-up from the following former college players which would include:

Maxey V. Haverland, Austin (Texas) State Teachers' College; Herman J. Belgrad, University of California; Byron E. Schofield, Butler (Ind.) U.; Deaver G. Shell, Guilford (N.C.) College; Joe W. Davis, Murfreesboro (Tenn.) State Teachers' College; Ensor J. Monette, River Falls (Wis.) Teachers' College; David E. Hall, King College (Tenn.); Haywood P. Waller, Tennessee State U.; George W. Rainer, Mississippi College; Harry Moore, University of Louisville; G. P. Greer, University of Missouri; and Roy M. Bickett, Catawba College (N.C.); Bracie C. Smith, Missouri Southern College; John Tucker, Penn State; Arvid W. Smith, Wayne University and Isadore Karchmer, Washington University (St. Louis, Mo.)

Poschner polished off the stand by snagging Allen back on the 15-yard line as he tried to pass.

It was only moments thereafter that Rogers intercepted Allen's pass and started the Spirits toward their second touchdown.

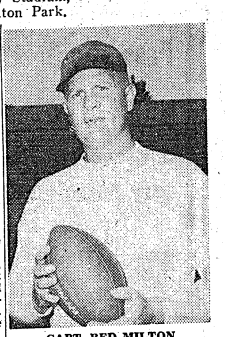
The Sabers had a slight edge in first downs, 14-8, but were outgained from scrimmage, 119-43. The Spirits completed two out of 11 passes for 20 yards. The Spirits intercepted four Saber passes and only one of Waterfield's tosses was snatched by the Sprits.

SGT. FORREST R. KYLE.

Burly, Gruff Red Milton Shed Tears After Final Doughboy Stadium Game

Perhaps the most poignant drama of the football season was enacted at Dougtboy Stadium a few weeks ago after the 124th Infantry eked out its 13-12 victory over the 176th Infantry Spirits.

Central figure in the drama was Mapor Harold "Red" Milton of the 124th. It was Red's last game at Benning. His team had battled fiercely in two seasons of Infantry School Conference games. Doughboy Stadium, scene of these battles, had become for him Milton Park.



After the crowd had departed, Big Red walked slowly to the center of the field. In his arms he carried a football which had been presented to him as a remembrance of his work in Fort Benning athletics. In his ears rang the clamor of many crowds. In his heart were memories too deeply engraved ever to be eradicated. And this was the end of it.

As he stood there in midfield, a lonely, solitary figure gazing at the empty stands, tears came into his eyes. He tried to brush them away. But affections are deeper than a brush of the hands. The tears would not be brushed away.

Red Milton remained on the field for all of ten minutes. They were ten minutes of tight-packed emotion, and out of the silent stands came mute approval of Red Milton. No handclapping. No hallooing. These were history. Nothing, just the supreme tribute of silence.

You are gone, Red Milton. But your memory lives on at Benning.

Sports figures are flocking to the Armored Force Replacement Center at Ft. Knox, Ky. Among those signed up for the next lively basic training program are Pvt. John Robinson, Notre Dame center in 1934; Pvt. Dominic DeLillo, sparring partner for Barney Ross, Tony Canzoneri, Lou Ambers and Henry Armstrong, and Pvt. Meyer Ackerman, feature writer for Ring magazine, Bible for the beak-buster business.

CAPT. RED MILTON

AWARD FUR COAT IS AN INVESTMENT IN LASTING BEAUTY

...SO MANY WOMEN

ASK US FOR OUR

SEAL-DYED CONEY

Know why? Because it's such a sleek, slenderizing ... soft and warm and infinitely flattering. Made of sturdiest Australian buck skins dyed the shining black of seal, ideal fur for the not-so-slim! You'll like its classic lines and gleaming luxury look ... its deep turn-back cuffs. You'll like its low price, too!

SIZES 38 TO 44 $89 PLUS FEDERAL TAX

If you wish, you may pay $5 down plus regular payments.
We'll hold your coat 'til Nov. 15th.

Montgomery Ward

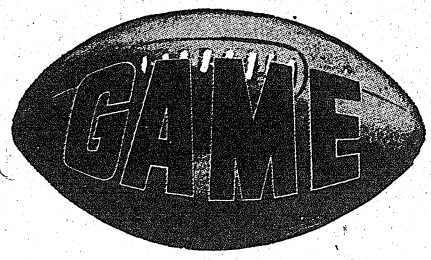
12TH AND BROADWAY DIAL 7761

BAMA CLUB
Cocktail Bar Open 6 P. M.
TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY—9 P. M. & 11 P. M.
CHICKEN DINNERS, $1.50 WESTERN STEAK, $2.00
MUSIC BY VERNON YONKERS ORCHESTRA
For Reservations Dial 3-1051
Just Across Lower Bridge. First Building on Right
Admission: Week Nites 50c—Saturday Nite $1

BIG FOOTBALL CONTEST

Through These Portals . . .
Pass The Best Soldiers On Earth

And for those Soldiers we carry a complete line of Quality Military Merchandise.



P. S. STORES

926 BROAD ST. COLUMBUS, GA.

Just Above the Howard Bus Station

NAVY ( ) vs. NOTRE DAME ( )

PICK THE WINNERS
WIN $25 IN CASH

It costs you nothing to enter. All you have to do is mark the scores of the game appearing in the ads on this page. Mail this to the Football Contest Edition, Fort Benning Bayonet, Box 711, Columbus, Ga., or bring it in to Public Relations Office at Post Headquarters. It must be postmarked not later than 12:00 Noon, October 30th. Winners to be announced in next Thursday's Bayonet.

RULES OF THE CONTEST:

1. Only Fort Benning Military personnel are eligible to enter the contest.
2. All scores must be marked in the space indicated in each ad on this page.
3. The person picking the most accurate scores will receive $15.00 in cash as first prize. The person picking the next most accurate scores, will receive second prize of $7.00 in cash. The third prize winner will receive $3.00 in cash.
4. Only one entry may be submitted by each individual.

Name .....

Address .....

CUSTOM TAILORS
TO THE SERVICE
SINCE 1845

"May the Best Team Win"

TEXAS AGGIES ( ) vs. SO. METHODIST ( )

SMITH-GRAY

15 W. ELEVENTH ST.

DIAL 5719 OPP. ARMY-NAVY USO

for ALMOST A QUARTER OF A CENTURY

We've been right here on Automobile Row at BUICK—CADILLAC DEALERS—Right now—no new cars to offer you—but do have the most complete stock of real QUALITY USED CARS in Columbus.

Also—we maintain just the kind of Service Department you would want YOUR car to visit—No job too large—none too small.

CLIFF M. AVERETT, Inc.

BUICK • CADILLAC • HUDSON

1441-43-45 1st Ave. Dial 2-1601

INDIANA ( ) vs. OHIO STATE ( )

MEET US AT THE GAME!

Royal Crown Cola will meet you there . . . even after the game R. C. will make a delightful refreshment.

ROYAL CROWN
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
COLA
DRINK

ON SALE AT ALL
FORT BENNING GAMES

300th Infantry ( ) vs. Daniel Field ( )

NEHI Bottling Co.

GALA OPENING
—ON—
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1943

featuring
Western Steaks
and Fried Chicken

WIS. ( ) vs. PURDUE ( )

MUSIC BY
J. C. ROWE and His SWINGTETS

2 Floor Shows Nightly
9 P. M. and 11 P. M.

For Reservations
Phone 5233

CLUB BALI

2 Blocks Across the 14th Street Bridge
316 - 4th ST., PHENIX CITY

SPOT RIVERS AND HIS NIGHTINGALES
SAT. OCT. 16th at

THE NEW WINSEL CASTLE

2803 CUSSETA RD. DIAL 7373
LOUIS W. PHILLIPS, Mgr.

Steaks—Chickens—Beverages
PRIVATE DINING ROOM

Officers, Members, and Civilians Only

Closed on Mondays

COLGATE ( ) vs. HOLY CROSS ( )

ANNOUNCEMENT
to
COMPANY COMMANDERS

WE ARE NOW IN A POSITION
TO HANDLE COMPANY WORK

Phone 23375
For Further Information

YALE ( ) vs. DARTMOUTH ( )

MODEL
DRY CLEANING CO.

24 Years Experience In Handling Military Work

VISIT OUR STORE OR SEE OUR DISPLAY IN YOUR REGIMENT FOR COMPLETE OFFICERS' UNIFORMS

Slacks, Shirts, Ties, Hosiery, Caps, Hats, Insignia and All Other Accessories Required By You.

Ideally located in the city for 30 years.

We guarantee a perfect fit as well as 100% delivery in all goods ordered.

Open til 8 p. m. week days and 10:30 p. m. Saturdays—Ft. Benning Time.

WE APPRECIATE YOUR PATRONAGE

ARMY ( ) vs. PENNSYLVANIA ( )

LEVINSON BROS.

1220 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA. DIAL 3-3051

RANKS HIGH WITH THE RANKS

Be ready to catch that pass—and you'll feel more like it if you drink a refreshing Pepsi-Cola. drink refreshing Pepsi-Cola and often too.

SOUTHERN CAL. ( ) vs. CALIFORNIA ( )

PEPSI-COLA
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Bottling Co.
COLUMBUS, GA.

PIN-UP GIRLS
Are Favorites With the Boys in the Service
BUT PIN-UP BOYS
Are Favorites With the Girls Back Home!

And when you send that Package

9x12 hand painted oil painting.
Regular $15.00 value—Now $5.50

Open Every Evening Until 9 P. M., Ft. Benning Time

SPECIAL

MINNESOTA ( ) vs. NORTHWESTERN ( )

BON ART STUDIO

5½ 11TH ST. DIAL 2-0571

THERE'S FUN IN
DANCING

Keep in step with that Soldier! We install and service machines in all areas of Fort Benning. Rhythm is our business.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN ( ) vs. L. S. U. ( )

PHONOGRAPHS OF ALL TYPES

GEORGIA MUSIC CO.

1045 6th Ave. DONALD LEEBERN, Owner Dial 22954

AFTER THE GAMES
and Whenever You're in Town

DINE AND DANCE
AT THE
CLUB MATAG

HELD OVER BY POPULAR DEMAND

"GOLDIE"

Ace Trumpeter for Paul Whiteman and His Band

TULANE ( ) vs. GA. PRE-FLIGHT ( )

Let's WIN The Game!

Your authorized Ford dealer. It's yours for as long as it lasts—Why not protect your car with our first class repair service.

GA. TECH ( ) vs. DUKE ( )

"Your Ford Dealer"

HARDAWAY Motors Co.

1514 1st Ave. Dial 7781

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion 6:30 a. m. Sunday school in the children's school at 9:30 a. m. Woman's Adult Bible class meets with the Sunday school. (Mothers who bring their children to Sunday school invited to join.) Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked"—O'Hara. The sermon theme by Chaplain Frederick W. Heifer. The offertory: "Praise The Lord, O My Soul"—Mercy-words. Christian League, 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Frank L. Thompson.

THE ARMORED

Protestant: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott) at 9 a. m., Chaplain Pomeroy; Chapel No. 2 (12th & Bourg), 8 a. m., Chaplain Lewis; 6:00 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Lewis; Chapel No. 3 (10th & Scott), 8 a. m. (Communion), Chaplain Fell, 10 a. m., Chaplain Claus; 11 a. m., Chaplain Fell, (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Claus; 5 p. m., Chaplain Fell; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain Cermak, 10 a. m., Chaplain Fehl, 11 a. m., Chaplain Johnson; 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Jacobson. Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), Chaplain De La Verge, 10 a. m.; Chapel No. 6 (Div. Hq. Co.), Chaplain McLeod, 5 p. m. (Fellowship Hour); Chaplain McLeod; Stockade, 1:30 p. m., Chaplain Cermak.

Catholic Masses: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 2 (10th & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain Lenz; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), 8 a. m., Chaplain Keating, 11 a. m., Chaplain Keating; Theatre No. 6 (10th & Bourg), 10:30 a. m., Chaplain Lynch.

Jewish Service: Jewish service, conducted by Chaplain Shain, is held every Monday evening at 7:30 at Chapel No. 4, Sand Hill Area.

Provisional: Sunday services held for members for the Provisional Truck Regiment are as follow: 1st and 4th Sellstead—Bible school at 10:00 a. m. Worship service at 11:00 a. m. Services will also be held in Building No. 8215 in the service Battalion area of the Provisional Sixth Training Regiment. The 2nd and 3rd Battalions will have Bible school at 10:30 a. m. and worship service at 11:30 a. m. Service held in Building No. 3021, 3rd Battalion area, Provisional Truck Regiment.

156th Infantry: Sunday morning worship service at 9:15 a. m. in the Main Chapel. Chaplains Arnold Lewis and John Trosler.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1, Morning worship 9:30 and 10:30 a. m. Communion each first Sunday morning. Communion each third Sunday. Bible Hour, Thurs., 6:45 p. m. Chaplain Herman B. Whitlatch.

Lawson Field: Sunday morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Evening vesper at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday evening service at 8 p. m. Chaplain Geo L. Forney.

Theatre No. 1: Main Post, corner of Wold and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn. 1st ETR, and 42nd Regt. Sunday Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Communion service each Sunday at 11:30 a. m. Chaplain Christian Kettler, 1st ETR. Chaplain G. E. Rector.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in library room for the Det. Med. Dept. 9:30 a. m. Also colored Det. Med. Dept. services in colored day room at 6 p. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Recreation Hall, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:45 a. m. Chaplain Isaac McDonald.

86th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 9 a. m. Evening vesper, 7:45 p. m. Chaplains Robt. D. Jones and Charles O. Daniel.

104th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 9:15 a. m. in main Post chapel. Chaplains Arnold Lewis and John Trosler.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Main Post Chapel: Tuesday evenings, 7 o'clock. For further information call Wilson V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 6351.

HARMONY CHURCH AREA

176th Infantry: Chapel No. 1, Lutheran service at 10:15 a. m. General Protestant service at 11:15 a. m. Evening worship 7:30 p. m. Communion each first Sunday. Chaplains A. W. Whitaker and C. H. Ritchie.

2nd ETR: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 8:45 a. m. Chaplain William Willingham. Sunday school and worship 8:15 a. m. for Service Bn.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 4, Regimental services at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain A. B. Billman. Sacramental services at 11 a. m. in "The Chapel in The Grove." Chaplain George Kirchbaum. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Lee Sinanis.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 663rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 51st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bilingual area mess hall. Chaplain Arthur E. Ward.

Hq., ASTP: Chapel No. 6: Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey.

4th Tng. Regt., ASTP: Bldg. B-10: Service for 1st Bn. 10 a. m. Chaplain Theodore Bachelor; 3rd Bn., Bldg. 4367, 6:30 p. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Services 8:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Catholic mass, 6 a. m. 4th Bn. 4th Tng. Regt., Bldg. 4367, Kelly Chapel Road: Bible class, 9 a. m.; Protestant service, 9:30 a. m., 4th Bn. in 4th Bn. amphitheater. Geo. A. Ritchey, chaplain.

5th Tng. Regt., ASTP: 9:30 a. m. Catholic mass in The Grove; 10:30 a. m. Protestant services in Theater No. 12. Chaplain Baergen.

6th Tng. Reg't—5 a. m. Catholic mass, Bldg. 8005; 10:30 a. m. general Protestant services, Bldg. 8005. Chaplain Bachelor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Harmony Church Area, Chapel No. 6, Friday evening 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 6391.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4 Mass Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward C-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. and in the chaplain's office of the 24th General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. at Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 8 a. m. and 6 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 3, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, building No. 8201, located on the 8th Division Road and Chisels Road Harmony Church Area, at 8 a. m. and 5:30 p. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

174th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 4, Lawson Field at 8 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Also held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For personnel on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Units in Harmony Church Area, 7:30 p. m. at the Children's school, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Rd. opposite the Infantry School. Choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service.

For members of the 3rd and 5th Training Regiments, The Infantry School WAC Detachment, Station Hospital No. 2 and A.S.T.P. Headquarters: At 9 a. m. in Building 5786, Regimental Recreational Hall, 5th Training Regiment Area.

For personnel in the 4th, 5th and 6th Training Regiments, 124th Infantry, 244th and 552nd Field Artillery Bns., and 552nd Ordnance Co.: At 10:30 a. m. in Theatre No. 4, near Service Club No. 3.

For personnel in the Sand Hill Area: Every Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. in Chapel No. 4.

Women's Activities

WOMANS CLUE

General meeting of Ft. Benning Woman's Club Monday, Nov. 1 at 3 p. m., Main Theater.

Dr. Franc I. Polgar will speak, open to general public.

Spanish Group—Every Tuesday in Officer' Club. Class for beginners at 2:30 p. m. for advanced at 3:30 p. m.

Exercise Group—Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, from 8:15 a. m. to 8:45 a. m. in ladies lounge of Officers' Club.

Music Group—Tuesday, November 2—at 2 p. m. in ladies lounge of Officers' Club.

RED CROSS WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. John McFall: Thursday, Mrs. John Magon; Wednesday, Mrs. Warren Christian; Thursday, Mrs. William Huffsteller; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes. Mrs William Denton, chairman.

Sewing and knitting—Thursday morning, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. Mrs. James Weaver in charge.

STAFF ASSISTANCE CORPS—On duty at Work Room Friday, October 29, Mrs. Kibler; Monday, November 1, Mrs. Creighton, Mrs. Chalgren; Tuesday, November 2, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Hammargren; Wednesday, November 3, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Chapman; Thursday, November 4, Mrs Dulin, Mrs. Grimes.

MOTOR CORPS—Headquarters at the Red Cross Work Room. Telephone 2058 for Motor Corps to pick up magazines you are discarding. On duty Friday, October 29, Mrs. Davis; Monday, November 1, Mrs. Tarr; Tuesday, November 2, Mrs. Miles; Wednesday, November 3, Mrs. Coates Thursday, November 4, Mrs. Allen.

Gray Ladies—On duty at Station Hospital: Friday, October 29, Captain, Mrs Venable, library; a. m., Mrs. Finnegan, p. m., Mrs. Hardy; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Chase, p. m., Mrs. Webb; arts and crafts shop, Mrs. Holton. Monday, p. m. Mrs. Griffith. Wards: Mesdames Shine, Rosenberger, Overfelt, Chase.

Saturday, October 30: Captain, Mrs Brandstadt; library, a. m., Mrs. Holton p. m., Mrs. Whittemore; floor, a. m., Mrs. Wards, Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Miles Gordon; wards, Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Miles

Monday, November 1: Captain, Mrs. Elliott; desk, Mrs. McKee; wards, Mrs Spann, Mrs. Bess Lewis, Mrs. McCormick; library, a. m. Mrs. Griffith, p. m. Mrs. R. Lewis; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford; arts and crafts shop, a. m., Mrs Spann, p. m., Mrs. D. A. Turner.

Tuesday, November 2: Captain, Mrs Finnegan; wards, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Whittemore; library, a. m., Mrs. Rosenberger, p. m., Mrs. Griffith; floor, a. m., Mrs. Sanders, p. m., Mrs. Webb

Wednesday, November 3: Captain, Mrs. Perrine; wards, Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Lynch. Mrs. Venable, Mrs. Stevens; library, a. m. Mrs. Stevens, p. m., Mrs. R. W. Smith; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Dillard, p. m., Mrs. Wright; arts and crafts, a. m. Mrs. Venable.

Thursday, November 4: Captain, Mrs. Herail; wards, Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Gold; library, a. m., Mrs. Ruhlerford, p. m., Mrs. Rosenberger; arts and crafts shop, Mrs. Holton.

Boys' Activities

Monday through Saturday — Football practice at Doughboy Stadium, 5:45 p. m.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

OCT. 28

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:55 P.M.—Harsch and the news WRBL

6:30 P.M.—Reception Center Chorus—WRBL

9:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL

9:30 P.M.—"Eggs Over Canteen"—CBS

10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU

11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

OCT. 29

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

8:00 P.M.—Kate Smith—CBS

8:30 P.M.—The Thin Man—CBS

6:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

9:30 P.M.—That Brewster Boy—CBS

10:00 P.M.—Camel Caravan—WRBL

10:45 P.M.—Elmer Davis, News

OCT. 30

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

2:30 P.M.—Spirit of '43—CBS

3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL

4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL

5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC

7:00 P.M.—"Over There"—BLU

7:00 P.M.—Report to the Nation—CBS

7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL

7:30 P.M.—"Enough And On Time"—BLU

8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS

OCT. 31

5:00 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—WRBL

5:45 P.M.—Doctors Courageous—CBS

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—

6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL

7:00 P.M.—The Commandos—CBS

7:30 P.M.—The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS

7:30 P.M.—"We, The People"—WRBL

8:15 P.M.—We Cover the Battlefronts—CBS

9:00 P.M.—Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO)—WRBL

9:30 P.M.—Fred Allen—CBS

10:00 P.M.—Take It or Leave It—CBS

10:30 P.M.—Men Behind the Gun—CBS

NOV. 1

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—

8:45 P.M.—Keep the Homefires Burning—CBS

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

7:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarterhour—WRBL

6:30 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning Variety show, featuring the Lawson Field Orch.—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

NOV. 2

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:55 P.M.—Harsch and News—CBS

7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Services"—NBC

8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast—

9:00 P.M.—Burns and Allen—CBS WRBL

NOV. 3

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

8:00 P.M.—Sammy Kaye—CBS

9:30 P.M.—Milton Berle & Co.—CBS

Movies

MAIN THEATER AND THEATER NO. 8

Oct. 28-29—THE MAN FROM DOWN UNDER—Charles Laughton and Richard Carlson.

Oct. 30—HERE COMES ELMER — Al Pearce and Frankie Albertson.

THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME — Chester Morris and Jeanne Bates.

Oct. 31—Nov. 1—TRUE TO LIFE —Mary Martin and Dick Powell.

Nov. 2-3—LASSIE COME HOME —Roddy McDowell and Donnld Crisp.

THEATRES NO. 2 AND 3

Oct. 28-29—To be announced.

Oct. 30-31—THE MAN FROM DOWN UNDER — Charles Laughton and Richard Carlson.

Nov. 1 — HERE COMES ELMER — Al Pearce and Frankie Albertson.

THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME — Chester Morris and Jeanne Bates.

Nov. 2-3—TRUE TO LIFE—Mary Martin and Dick Powell.

THEATRES NO. 4 AND 5

Oct. 28-29—PRINCESS O'ROURKE — Olivia de Havilland, Robert Cummings and Jack Carson.

Oct. 30-31—To be announced.

Nov. 1-2—THE MAN FROM DOWN UNDER — Charles Laughton and Richard Carlson.

Nov. 2—HERE COMES ELMER —Al Pearce and Frankie Albertson.

THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME—Chester Morris and Jeanne Bates.

THEATRES NO. 6 AND 7

Oct. 28 —FLESH AND FANTASY — Charles Boyer and Barbara Stanwyck.

Oct. 29—IS EVERYBODY HAPPY —Ted Lewis and Band and Nan Wynn.

Oct. 30-31—PRINCESS O'ROURKE — Olivia de Havilland, Robert Cummings and Jack Carson.

Nov. 1-2—To be announced.

Nov. 2—THE MAN FROM DOWN UNDER—Charles Laughton and Richard Carlson.

THEATRES NO. 9 AND 11

Oct. 28 — GIRL CRAZY—Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland.

Oct. 29—TORNADO — Chester Morris and Nancy Kelly.

Oct. 30 —YOUNG IDEAS —Mary Astor and Herbert Marshall.

Oct. 31-Nov. 1—FLESH AND FANTASY —Charles Boyer and Barbara Stanwyck.

Nov. 2—HERE COMES ELMER — Al Pearce and Frankie Albertson.

THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME — Chester Morris and Jeanne Bates.

THEATRE NO. 10

Oct. 28 —YOUNG LADIES — Mary Astor and Herbert Marshall.

Oct. 29-30—FLESH AND FANTASY — Charles Boyer and Barbara Stanwyck.

Oct. 31—HERE COMES ELMER — Al Pearce and Frankie Albertson.

THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME —Chester Morris and Jeanne Bates.

Nov. 1-2—PRINCESS O'ROURKE —Olivia de Havilland, Robert Cummings and Jack Carson.

Nov. 2—To be announced.

THEATER NO. 12

Oct. 28—IS EVERYBODY HAPPY —Ted Lewis and Band and Nan Wynn.

Oct. 29-30—GIRL CRAZY—Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland.

Oct. 31-Nov. 1—LASSIE COME HOME—Roddy McDowell and Donald Crisp.

Nov. 2-3—FLESH AND FANTASY — Charles Boyer and Barbara Stanwyck.

Friday—Scout Troop 11, 7:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Saturday—Cub Pack Number 1, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Ranger Battalion, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

CALL SALTER'S TAXI CO. DIAL 5321

White Patronage Only

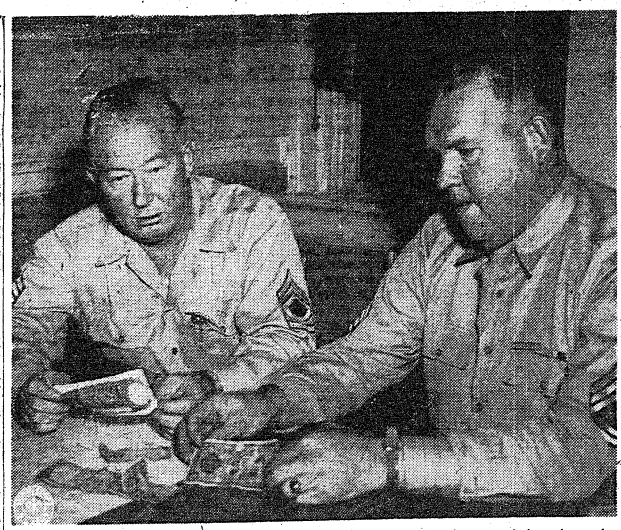
CLEAN CARS — COURTEOUS SERVICE

Open All the Time

For Benning's Men of Action

Rich's

OFFICERS UNIFORMS



Winter uniforms to provide you with unlimited service, expertly tailored to suit your many needs! They're especially designed to give extra comfort in action and to stand up under long, hard wear!

Elastique Blouse $2.50

Elastique Pants 12.00

Rich's Military Store

1236 Broadway Columbus, Ga.

MEMENTOS OF HIS EXPERIENCE with the Japs on New Guinea are being shown by Sgt. Richard C. Cary (right), formerly of Company E, 29th Infantry once stationed here, to Sgt. "Red" Burns, post headquarters supply sergeant, and an old friend of Sgt. Cary. Sgt. Cary is now a patient in Oliver General Hospital, Augusta, Ga., recovering from wounds received on New Guinea. There he is also awaiting his retirement scheduled for October 30. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Italians Apathetic Towards Germans

"The Italian people never wasted much love on their German allies. A peace-loving folk, they weren't enthusiastic over the prospect of dying to establish a new Roman Empire."

So commented a soldier of the 19th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, who traveled throughout Italy from 1936 to 1939 and recently came to The Infantry School to attend the Enlisted Motor Course. To protect relatives still residing in Germanheld lands, his name must be withheld.

Living at Rome for three years until he came to the United States in November, 1939, this student also visited Milan, Trieste, Florence and Venice, and vacationed at Lake Como. After nearly two decades of Mussolini's attempts to cultivate a warlike spirit, he observed, it still failed to take root among the people of the peninsula.

Some student hot-heads staged anti-British demonstrations after Italy and Germany got together in '36 to form the Rome-Berlin Axis. They hissed visiting English visitors and artists and bombarded them with rotten fruit.

But little spontaneity could be noticed in most of the large anti-Allied demonstrations. They were forced by Fascist Party organizers, who had no too-convincing job of whipping up an artificial frenzy for all things totalitarian.

Outbreak of the Second World War in September, 1939, was greeted with almost total apathy by the citizens of Rome. They seemed relieved that Italy was still out of the war and hoped she would stay out. These simple Italians didn't give a hang what happened to their Axis partners.

MAJOR DORNENBURG

James R. Dornenburg, of Carnegie, Pa., has been promoted to the rank of major in the Medical Corps. Since January 1942 Major Dornenburg has been assigned as a medical instructor of the Academic Department at the Infantry School. His last promotion was in June 1942, at which time he became a captain.

Chaplain Olsen Claims Post Checker Crown

The Bayonet has what it thinks is BIG news.

When an Army chaplain walks into a newspaper office and announces he is looking for a fight—well, what else is it?

Perhaps "fight" should be changed to "joust" or "contest" because Chaplain John H. Olsen of the 53rd General Hospital wishes to match his prowess on the checkerboard.

The chaplain has proclaimed himself checker champion of Fort Benning but solicits all the competition he can get. Would-be adversaries should telephone Chaplain Olsen at 3153 or may call the Public Relations office in Post Headquarters at 3535.

Chaplain Olsen has played in Maine tournaments and has had games by correspondence. His home is in Brooklyn, N. Y. His last pastorate before joining the Army was in Copenhagen, N. Y.

513rd Wins Prize For Firing M-1 In Bn. Compete

High man in record firing and winner of a $25.00 battalion award was Pvt. William G. Sexton of Co. D, 513th Parachute Infantry when he made a score of 196 out of a possible 210 with the M1 Rifle. The score was highest for the regiment, as well as the second Battalion.

High scores for the Second Battalion included Corp. Francis W. Javery, 195; S-Sgt. John D. Stout, 194; in E Company; Pvt. James J. Penwith 193 in E Company and Pvt. George H. Van Dyke, 193 in F Company.

Scores made with the carbine included Corp. Walter M. Katai, 185 and Pvts. Prentiss L. Norcross, 189; Lauron J. Hungerford, 186 and Theodore R. Ivancich, 184, all of Headquarters Company.

Corp. Michael J. Ostrosky of Headquarters Company scored 100 out of a possible 100 with the submachine gun. Other high scores included S-Sgt. Eugene E. Ring, 96 and Pvt. Richard D. Stout, 96, both of Company D; Pvt. Wilmer T. Brewer, 98, of Company F.

Children's School Pupils See Circus

Approximately 250 pupils at the Fort Benning Children's School attended the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus in Columbus Tuesday afternoon. The event was arranged by Lt. Col. Virgil Ney, Infantry School instructor, in co-operation with Lt. Jack Campbell, school officer, and Miss Annie Lou Grimes, principal at the school.

Transportation was furnished by Lt. Campbell, and teachers accompanied their classes. Boy Scouts of Troop No. 41 and Cub Scouts of Pack No. 1 assisted in the supervision of the children in their reserved section at the circus.

DOG & CAT HOSPITAL

Complete Hospital Service

Bathing and Grooming

DR E. A. DAVIS

1006 - 13th St Dial 8871

ASTP Theme Is On The Way

ASTP may, before long, have its own theme song.

Plunking away on a piano during after-hours now with an ASTP theme song as his objective is Pvt. Fred Greenbaum of the 2nd Company, 6th ASTP Regiment, pianist with the 1st Battalion dance orchestra and music writer with some 50 compositions to his credit.

Just what the name of the new melody will be . . . or whether it will be a march or not, hasn't apparently yet been decided but Pvt. Greenbaum has let the rumor out that "there'll be something cooking on it within a couple weeks." He promises complete band arrangements for it with the 1st Battalion band getting the debut honors.

Composing, however, is nothing new to the 2nd company trainee. Three senior class musicales at Brooklyn College owe their melodies to the pen of Pvt. Greenbaum. He thinks them up just like that (snap fingers quickly.) On the way to Ft. Benning for his basic training, Pvt. Greenbaum composed two songs that have already made a hit at 1st Battalion shows: "Watch the Hooks" and "Take a Salt Tablet."

His real specialty, he claims, is swing. Fellow classmates from Brooklyn College peddle the story around about him that when back at school, he amazed the heck out of his music professors by occasionally breaking the stuffy atmosphere to Beethoven and Bach with delightful interludes of boogie-woogie.

Big Halloween Series Slated

The old mother witch is coming to town

Riding her broomstick upside down

A flock of goblins follows her flight,

When she rides to town on Halloween night

A jack o' lantern lights her way

And witches and goblins meet to play

Black cats holler just to be merry

That's what makes Halloween so scary!

Witches, goblins and black cats will be at large on Friday, October 29, at the Polo Hunt Club. Under the capable chairmanship of Mrs. J. Richardson, the Fort Benning P.-T. A. will sponsor a Halloween costume party for the children of the Fort Benning School. The kindergarten, first, second and third grades' party will be from 2:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. The fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh grade party will be from 4 to 5 p. m. Favors will be given to all children, and prizes for the most original and funniest costumes will be awarded.

Capt. James Guthrie, stewart of the Officers' Club, has assisted greatly with suggestions, cornstalks for decoration, and favors.

The Post Exchange Grocery, is donating all the apples, while Lieutenant J. H. Campbell, Post Theatre Officer, is donating 300 boxes of popcorn and the invitations. The Red Cross Recreation Center, Station Hospital, under Miss P. McKinley is loaning decorations made by patients and Gray Ladies for their Halloween party. All expenses otherwise incurred are being paid by the Post Recreation Office, Lt. Col. C. C. Finnegan in charge.

A hayride party is planned for all the high school girls and boys of Fort Benning under the sponsorship of the Officers' Club. This is to take place on Halloween night, October 31. All boys and girls are to meet on Rice Road (street between the garage and stadium) at 8 p.m. Refreshments served at the Horseshow Club will climax the hayride." Mrs. Gilbert Parker has charge of the arrangements. She is being assisted by Sgt. A. Ford.

SOLDIER KILLED

Pvt. Gardner E. LaPole, 22, a member of the 738th Tank battalion was killed Tuesday night of last week when a tank in which he was riding overturned during a problem. The son of William A. Gardner, Route 1, Hagerstown, Md., Private Gardner was inducted into the army November 1, 1940.

Chubby Hugh Casey, ex-Brooklyn Dodger relief pitcher, won three games for Norfolk Naval Air Station in its series with the Naval Training Station at Norfolk.

OFFICERS! SEE OUR

Gifts - Antiques

ELLEN WORRALL

1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

As Little As $685.00 Down

For Military Personnel or Defense Worker.

NEW HOME in BENNING HILLS

$4575.00

Two Term Plans:

(a)—$1225.00 cash and $27.27 monthly, after purchaser moves in and gets tax exemption certificate.

(b)—$685.00 cash and $81.27 monthly for twelve months then $27.27 monthly.

The FHA payments include principal, interest, taxes, insurance, but are subject to adjustments to meet changing conditions as to insurance and tax rates

Many people are now renting one room with kitchen privileges at $40.00 per month. This would help to buy it under plan (b).

Plan (b) is available to military personnel only where wife is employed.

ARMOUR REALTY COMPANY, Inc.

115—12th St. Phone 3-4212

Nurses' Promotion Speed Up Planned

More rapid promotion for Army Nurses is now possible under a new table of allowances which makes first lieutenants as well as second lieutenants available for ward duty, according to a War Department ruling received at post Headquarters today.

Previously first lieutenants were eligible only for duty in the chief nurse's office or as heads of operating rooms or nurses' quarters. However, under the new ruling, first lieutenants may have charge of a ward or section, or a complete nursing service, such as chief of surgical nursing service, chief of medical nursing, chief of psychiatric or a similar unit.

This change was effected to give qualified nurses more opportunity to advance, and was felt justified because of the importance of bedside care for the sick and wounded.

Along with the new advancement came another that nurses over 45 were not being sent overseas for duty, but would be retained in general hospitals in the continental United States.

We Welcome The Fort Benning Personnel To HAYES'

THE BEST STEAK IN TOWN

SOUTHERN FRIED CHICKEN

Hayes' Restaurant

BROADWAY at DILLINGHAM

ACROSS THE STREET FROM HOWARD BUS STATION

CALIFORNIA AND NEW YORK WINES

WINERY BOTTLED

For Home Use

PORT — SHERRY — MUSCATEL

BURGUNDY — SAUTERNE

$1.00 to $1.75

A BOTTLE

City Pharmacy

Just Off Broad 14—13th Street Opp. Waverly Hotel

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

By Phyllis

Present day rationing makes it almost essential that every housewife do some canning at home, whether it be a little or a great deal. Whatever the amount, canning of fruits and vegetables will assure a plentiful supply throughout the winter season. Ideal equipment to simplify home canning and to assure unspoiled vegetables after canning is a steam-pressure canner. The MONTGOMERY WARD COMPANY has a large supply of Magic Seal pressure canners with a capacity of seven quarts. They're made with an eye toward practical use and not covered with queer-looking gadgets like many a mechanical monstrosity I've seen. These particular cookers at Ward's are simple and satisfactory to use. Their sale price is surprisingly reasonable, too. The standard 1-quart or 2-quart Kerr self-sealing Mason jars are sold here also. Ball Mason jars with glass lids and screw tops have the necessary rubber rings included in their sale price. And last, but most important for owners of a "sweet tooth" are the ½-pint glass jelly jars included in this display.

—V—

Christmas is still for enough in the future that many of us are just thinking rather vaguely about that important holiday. May I suggest that unless you want disappointed children on your hands on Christmas morning, you'd best do toy shopping early. Children's toys are just a few of the manufactured articles whose supply has been limited due to production and shipping difficulties. Presently, however, the J. A. KIRVEN COMPANY has its Toy Center stocked with suitable gifts to intrigue youngsters of every age. Dolls for little girls and military playthings designed to please many a military-minded young boy. Mechanical toys, games of every imaginable type, picture books, puzzles, in fact one or all of these gifts will be found to open wide the delighted eyes of many a youngster on Christmas morning. If you want to please your children or any young tot, you'll find Kirven's Toy Center is the perfect place to shop for perfect gifts designed to fill young hearts with Christmas cheer.

—V—

Now that there's a real "bite" and "snap" in the chill air one of the most popular outfits with women of all ages is a sweater and skirt. KIRALFY'S, catering to popular demand, has an enormous supply of 100% pure wool sweaters in all the eye - appealing candy colors plus black, white, navy-blue and dark brown. "Sloppy Joe" boxy styles and cardigans all feature the regulation round neck and many have the hand - fashioned sleeves which are a sure sign of a superior sweater. To mix or to match with these luscious, soft and warm sweaters are wool skirts with pencil slim lines. Solids, plaids and checks are beautifully tailored in shades of tan, turquoise, red, yellow, blue, black, green mustard, grey; in fact, any color combination you could possibly want. For variety you might want several of the wool jersey shirtwaist style blouses or a blouse or two of cotton gabardine or shantung. Any and all of these skirts, sweaters and blouses assure you a well-dressed look and will keep you cozy and warm in the bargain.

Residents of Columbus and nearby Fort Benning are indeed fortunate in having a branch of the famous AIME DUPONT STUDIOS at their service. The workmanship of the studio in Columbus is every bit as excellent as that of the New York office. I can say this with conviction for less than three weeks ago while in New York, I visited the DuPont Studios on Fifth Avenue. I found, as I fully expected that the Columbus branch compares most favorably with the main studio in New York. A great deal of this favorable comparison is due the painstaking efforts of Mr. Almchuck, who oversees each and every part of photographic artwork at the studio on Broadway. Here, as in New York, every effort is made to obtain a truly realistic and complimentary likeness, not just ordinary photograph. I'm sure you'll agree with me that the Aime DuPont Studio in Columbus is just the place, to be photographed. If you want an honest photographic likeness to give friends or simply admire yourself.

—V—

Any of the footwear at MILLER-TAYLOR SHOE COMPANY is worthy of your important shoe coupon. Each pair of shoes has been styled to preserve quality and to serve you faithfully. Many are fashioned of soft-as-butter calfskin and have an adaptability that makes them an all-day standby. Especially for dressy moments you'll like the glove-fitting plushy suede slippers in either inky black or a rich shade. Several styles have tailored bow knots or other toe-tantalizers which are easily removable. Regardless what shoes you may choose the sales personnel of Miller-Taylor is extremely anxious to give you positive proof of perfect fit. The X-ray machine is recommended for each pair of shoes you try on. In this way there will be not a single doubt in your mind. Whether you plan to use your shoe ration coupon for dressy or more tailored footwear shopping at this popular store assures you courteous co-operation, exacting fit and fashionable lines.

—V—

You'll have no shadow of doubt when you select a new handbag at KAYSER-LILIENTHAL'S, INC. For here you'll find quality that meets exacting standards and value that is honest, plus, of course, designs conceived by unique fashion minds. An unusually rich shade of dark brown broadcloth combined with a shell handle makes a large softly draped pouch-style bag outstanding in this display by Columbus' quality shop. Another pouch-style is fashioned of fine faille, also in a dark brown shade and topped by a polished wooden handle - frame. Still another pouch - style is made of 100% virgin wool, black as midnight and lighted only by a copper and lucite clasp. Another unusual style bag is one of soft and smooth black broadcloth with ever-so-long lines giving it an uncomplicated "envelope" appearance. A full knot of self material forming gathers at either extreme end is the only decoration on this unusual handbag in this well-styled array of costume accessories.

Life In Blitzed Hawaii Back To Normal After Pearl Harbor, Nurse Says

Life on Hawaii and in blitzed Pearl Harbor has once again returned to as normal as possible and all is quiet out that way, according to Lieutenant (jg) Ruth Styron, navy nurse, who is visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Captain and Mrs. Robert C. Weiland, at Fort Benning. Captain Weiland is post classification officer.

Although there is no worry on the island and all feel safe, Lt. Styron said, blackouts still continue, commencing every night at six. "After that there just isn't anything to do, so everyone goes to bed," she added. "Also there is no rationing on the island. Never has been. Always plenty of coffee, meat and sugar . . . that was the best part of our life out there."

Nurse Styron explained that a navy nurse's work differs considerably from that of her army counterpart, in that the navy nurse does not tend to the sick. Her job is to train others, sailor corpsmen, to do the actual job of nursing. Aside from land duty, navy nurses are stationed on transport and hospital ships only. On board fighting ships, the corpsmen, who correspond to the army enlisted medics, tend the sick and wounded, and aid doctors in operations. Lt. Styron worked in the chief nurse's office.

On the dating situation, Nurse Styron said that there are approximately 500 men to every woman in that area, which, according to her, was difficult to say the least. Too, navy nurses are not allowed to date enlisted personnel, which the corpsmen do not like or want to understand.

Lt. Styron entered the navy nurse corps at Mare Island near San Francisco, in October, 1941, and went to Hawaii shortly after Pearl Harbor to aid in evacuating families of navy personnel. On her blouse she wears three decorations, the pre-Pearl Harbor ribbon, Pacific Theatre bar, and a transport duty award, all of which she won during her two years' service.

South Sea Isles Nothing Like Hollywood Variety

BY OC ARTHUR BARSCHDORF
Fourth Company, 3rd STR

Here in the comforting atmosphere of The Infantry School most OCs probably draw a beautiful picture of the South Seas—gentle breezes, romantic, breath-taking scenery, saronged and shapely native beauties and all that stuff.

It's only rumor, my man. If the native women only slightly resembled the movie version it would have helped sustain our memories of American girls. The scenery, bathed in the magic of a tropical moon is romantic enough, but what good is romance if there is no sweet young thing to share it with?

Imagining just made us feel worse, and we'd take out a month-old letter from the "one and only" and read it for the 100th time. Yeah, we could dream, but it was mostly a nightmare.

Our food wasn't so bad. Nobody built himself into a Johnny Weismueller, but canned rations kept our stomach comfortably filled. Every one of us will just habitually carry a can-opener after this war is over.

With semi-wild cattle on the islands it naturally followed that the Texas men in our outfit should form a 'russlin'" unit to get us fresh meat. Once a week we would have either a big, juicy but rather tough steak or some not-so-tender roast beef. However, mixed with occasional culinary delicacies from inspired cooks and bakers, our homely mess-wits oft times took on the appearance of a banquet spread.

During the days we worked. Our week was short, only a 10 or 12-hour day, seven days a week.

STRIKES BURN US UP

Learning of strikes back in the States used to burn us up but probably wouldn't have bothered us so much if we could have gotten a good night's sleep. If it wasn't an air raid, it was our bovine friends munchin' and moanin' under our bunks, practically.

Then one night there isn't a single moo or blast of the air raid horn. So that night the artillery decides to do a little night firing; maybe the quartermaster has to move barge loads of supplies on those "quiet" army trucks.

But we almost had a night's sleep once. We weren't awakened until 2:30 a. m., when we learned that a poor 'lil peep had got struck in the mud. It got unstuck at 5 a. m.

When people here think of the Solomons they immediately think of Japs and killing and bombing. We worried only about the bombs most of the time, but only a little bit because we had a good dug out. Two weeks of sweating and shoveling, but it was worth it to feel safe. Only trouble was that the dugout filled with water every time it rained.

"Every time it rains" doesn't mean very often here in Georgia but in the Solomons it means every day, and that's how often we bailed out our dugout.

The army says our tents are waterproof but I guess no one figured on tents being exposed to the rains of the South Seas. The lizards liked it though. One of the reptiles, a friendly little cuss, used to take his daily bath right in the middle of our bunk.

Speaking of lizards reminds us that they were another cause for sleepless nights. They had an annoying habit of crawling all over us and the bunks just about the time we tried to go to sleep.

NO GAS RATIONING

There wasn't any gas rationing to worry about but we didn't care to go for rides. 'Course, a motor trip would have been valuable for a man training for a rodeo but we didn't want to punch cows, or anything like that.

The accumulation of mud forced us to wash clothes almost daily. It would have warmed the heart of many a wife to watch us daintily scrubbing our denims.

For a shower we merely filled our steel helmets with water, soaped up and then poured the water over our head and body. There was no warm water which didn't bother us except that shaving became both a chore and a task.

Finding card-playing a little too expensive we confined our gambling to betting on the frequent dog fights between American and Nipponese plane. It was fun, but to see who would lose we would have to flip a coin to find out who would draw the Japs. At night we would wager as to whether the "ack ack" would loose a barrage on "Washing Machine Charlie" as we affectionately called one or more Nip raiders who flew at night.

The bright spot in our life aside from the letters we got from our girl was the bimonthly movie. Naturally on that night it would rain or we'd have an air raid. We'd pray for rain, because then we could continue to watch the show, even if we did get soaking wet.

With no civilization and its traffic, one would think there was nothing for a pedestrian to worry about. We thought that too, until we got clouted on the head with falling cocoanuts and palm branches.

It's amazing how much money we spent. Why one month we splurged a total of 15 cents on two bars of soap. But usually we didn't spend that much because there was nothing to buy.

We didn't have to worry about over-indulgence in beer or candy then, because there wasn't any. We were probably better off, but many a time we'd liked to have experienced the after-effects of over-indulgence.

We didn't worry about our girl because we remembered when we were in the States that no girl we ever met ever showed the slightest inclination to change her mind in our favor. After all, aren't women what cause men the most worry?

PVT. NINA DAVIS, of WAC Detachment, Station Complement, has the weeps but not because her feelings were hurt. She is just emerging from the tear-gas chamber after a test of her gas mask. Just before coming out the mask is removed for a moment just to show how effective it really is. (Signal Lab Photo.)

Infantry School PRO Assistant Is Sergeant

Technician Fifth Grade Charles Voorhis, veteran sports writer and newsman, now of the Public Relations Office of The Infantry School, Fort Benning, has been promoted to technician fourth grade.

Sgt. Voorhis began his newspaper career by leaving his home in Addison, N. Y., in 1922 to take a sports writing job with the Binghamton (N.Y.) Sun. He later worked for the old Syracuse (N.Y.) Telegram.

Sgt. Voorhis was with the Fort Pierce (Fla.) News-Tribune and the Palm Beach (Fla.) Times before joining the Philadelphia Evening Ledger, where he conducted a sports column for nine years under the by-line of "Chuck Voorhis." He left the Ledger to become assistant make-up editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer. Sgt. Voorhis also wrote a syndicated sports colmn.

Leaving the New York Post in March, 1942, Sgt. Voorhis enlisted in the Army and took basic training at Fort Bragg, N. C. He has been at Fort Benning since August, 1942.

His first assignment at this post with The Infantry School was as an enlisted instructor in the cannon officers' course. He joined the school Public Relations Office after he won a sports writing contest in the Bayonet, camp newspaper, last spring.

Woman's Club

By KATHERINE HAMMARGREN

Members of the Fort Benning Woman's Club are anticipating an outstanding meeting on Monday, November 1, when Dr. Franz J. Polgar will demonstrate "Miracles of the Mind." In order to accommodate a record attendance of both members and the general public, the meeting will be held in the Main Theatre, beginning at 3 p. m.

Members are to present their membership cards for admission. Tickets to the general public will be on sale at the box office for fifty cents. There will also be tables conveniently placed for those who wish to pay membership dues before the meeting.

Dr. Polgar, whose reputation as a hypnotist and mental telepathist is famous throughout this country and Europe, lays no claims to being supernatural. He can't explain himself why he possesses the powers he does, which include such things as his ability to read the minds of others, to perform memory feats such as memorizing the contents of a national magazine or a telephone directory.

Dr. Polgar, who served as first lieutenant in the Hungarian army in the last war, only knows that after being buried alive for three days he found himself capable of doing these feats after months where he suffered complete loss of memory and could neither speak nor write.

Hypnotic demonstrations presented on the stage in the last few years have usually been branded as "hokum" when reviewers revealed the exhibitions were really put on by vaudeville actors working with well-trained "stooges," Dr. Polgar says. Such acts, he believes, have nothing to do with the fascinating art of power of suggestion.

It is remarkable, frequently amusing, he admits, what a person will do while under a hypnotic spell. But no one, he believes, can be forced to do anything that might hurt his health, morals, or interest.

The lecture is sure to be filled with the unusual, demonstrations of things heard of, read about, but never actually seen.

Post Red Cross Workers Are Former Army Men

Many soldiers at Fort Benning have had occasion to contact the American Red Cross for help, but few have realized the background and experience of the various representatives, the men who sit across the table and listen to the myriad of daily problems encountered by men in the army. What suits them particularly for their jobs and what is used and the basis for selection?

An interview with an average Red Cross group training at Fort Benning disclosed that three out of five had military experience. One, Jack Thompson, of Bloomsburg, Pa., is a former army major, with certificates from the Infantry School, and the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas and the Adjutant General's School in Washington, D. C. He is a veteran of this war and the World War I. Out of the service for physical reasons, he volunteered for Red Cross work to get back into conflict.

Another trainee is an Annapolis graduate and ex-marine captain, having spent seven years in service, which included one year in China, proudly wears three regimental citations. He is Thomas Collins, native of Cleveland, Ohio and Glasgow, Scotland. Mr. Collins still sports a Scotch brogue and is an expert at ju-jitsu.

The third ex-soldier is Ivan S. Siegel, of New Orleans, La., who is a former first lieutenant in the Quartermaster Corps, also discharged for physical reasons, but not satisfied to remain inactive.

FORMER SENATOR

Of the other two trainees interviewed, one was a former Ohio state senator and one-time candidate for lieutenant-governor, R. John Taylor, of Solem, O., and the other, Robert A. Neely, of Philadelphia, Pa., was a resident oenter director for the NYA and business man.

The average age of the group ran between 30 and 40 years and nearly all were college graduates. Surprisingly enough not a single man in the group was a professional social worker, minister, YMCA secretary, or sociology professor. However, each had had experience in leadership and in fields requiring an understanding of the personal problems of the average man.

Another little known face was brought out by Mr. Ralph J. Mitchell, local field director. All men being taken in are either 4-F, over age or men with families who are at present draft-exempt. And Mr. Mitchell further disclosed that the Red Cross is continually losing members of its staff to the armed forces as they may be reclassified and called up.

After being selected as Red Cross trainees, the men are first sent to Washington for an orientation course and later farmed out to various army camps where they receive several weeks of training before being appointed assistant field directors and given their first assignment.

Medicos Give War Fund $528

The Medical Detachment, Station Hospital backed up the War Fund drive with a gala Smoker which netted $548 in gifts to the war fund drive.

The program opened with inspiring talks by Major John B. Joyner commanding, and M-Sgt. William C. Thompson on the importance of the present drive. Contributions were made immediately afterwards by the enlisted men.

The entertainment featured music by the "Biggest Little Band at Benning" and the 176th Infantry "Hill-Billies". Boys from above and below the Mason and Dixon line both enjoyed the music of the two bands.

Three fast and furious boxing bouts kept the boys cheering and yelling for their favorite pugilist. The refereeing was handled by T-Sgt. Seth Taylor from Unit No. 2. The master of ceremonies was in the capable hands of Lt. Peter V. Kilian, special service officer.

Beer, soft drinks, sandwiches and free cigarettes helped immensely in putting over the program, this being under the management of M-Sgt. William C. Cullifer and non-coms from the Detachment mess halls.

After the fights, the two bands combined their talents to put on a combination "Jam Session" and "Hill-Billy Jive".

Major John B. Joyner complimented all participants in the program for their cooperation in making the Smoker a grand success.

PEST CONTROL SERVICE
ROACHES, RATS, BEDBUGS
CREATORS OF "SANITATION"
ORKIN EXTERMINATING COMPANY INC.
115—12th ST.
PHONE 6744

Send Your Portrait So they may see you every day
Proofs for Your Inspection Before You Buy.
Our Price Within the Reach of All.
AIM'E DUPONT
Of Fifth Ave.
MILITARY STUDIOS
1219½ Broadway Tel. 3-1505
Columbus, Ga.
Open 1 to 9:30 P. M.; Sunday 2 to 6 P. M., E. W. T.

Gifts - Antiques
Shop Early for Christmas!
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

UPHOLSTERING and Repairing
KURT LOEB
516—12th St. Dial 3-4281

DEPENDABLE WORK
COLUMBUS WATCH REPAIRS
HAROLD PEOPLES
PAUL FAISON
932 Broadway

PHOTO FANS
For Better Snap-Shots
Have Your Film Developed at
Parkman Photo Service
1121½ Broadway Dial 6451
Free Enlargement Given Each Day.
24-HOUR SERVICE

PLAYING At The COLUMBUS THEATRES

BRADLEY
—FRI.-SAT.—
Lionel Barrymore —IN— Susan Peters
"Dr. Gillespie's New Assistant"
SUNDAY thru THURSDAY
Bob Hope —IN— Betty Hutton
"LETS FACE IT"

SPRINGER
—FRIDAY—
Chester Morris —IN— Jean Parker
"HIGH EXPLOSIVE"
—SATURDAY—
Roy Rogers —IN—
"THE SONG OF TEXAS"
—SUN.-MON.—
Humphrey Bogart —IN— Ingrid Bergman
"CASABLANCA"
—TUES.-WED.—
McDonald Carey —IN— Betty Rhodes
"SALUTE FOR THREE"
—THURSDAY—
Edward Arnold —IN— Ann Harding
"EYES IN THE NIGHT"

RIALTO
—FRI.-SAT.—
Don "Red" Barry —IN— Lynn Merrick
"CARSON CITY CYCLONE"
—SUN.-MON.-TUES.—
Bing Crosby —IN— Dorothy Lamour
"DIXIE"
—WED.-THUR.—
Dennis O'Keefe - Margo
—IN—
"LEOPARD MAN"

ROYAL
—FRI.-SAT.—
Buster Crabbe —IN— Rochelle Hudson
"QUEEN OF BROADWAY"
—SUN.-MON.—
Betty Grable —IN— George Montgomery
"CONEY ISLAND"
—TUES.-WED.—
William Lundigan —IN— Patricia Dane
"NORTHWESTERN RANGE"
—THURSDAY—
"Dead End Kids" —IN—
"KEEP 'EM SLUGGING"

Levy-Morton Co.
Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps
REPAIRS — DIAL 3-6391
1028—13TH STREET

Craftsman CROSS CUT SAW
3½-FT. LENGTH 4.29
Tough carbon steel. Easier, faster, more flexible cutting. Won't bind or choke. Holds edge.

Hammer Handles 19¢
Genuine White Hickory Handle. Keep old hammers and hatchets working. Replace worn out handles.

SASH CORD 59¢
strong cotton sash cord. 100-ft. lengths. Tightly woven. For clothes-line, general use.

DUST MOPS 98¢
Soft, fluffy cotton yarns. Won't scar furniture. Washable heads.

CREME POLISH
HALF PINT 29¢
PINT 49¢
QUART 69¢
Maid of Honor quality. Cleans as it polishes. For furniture and woodwork.

WHEELBARROW 10.95
Hardwood frame, handles strongly braced. Removable side boards. Weather-resisting paint.

5 LB. PKG. KALSOMINE 39¢

QUALITY SAVINGS VALUE
SEARS 57 YEARS OF LEADERSHIP

Self-Polishing WAX and Applicator 39¢
Liquid wax for floors, woodwork, furniture. Polishes to high luster. Applicator spreads wax easily.

Waterless Cleaner
5 LB. CAN 69¢
All purpose cleaner for home or shop use. Easy to use.

CROSS COUNTRY BATTERIES
$1.50 Trade-In Allowance For Your Old Battery
6.70 With Old Battery
GUARANTEED 24-MONTHS
Install a Cross Country for quicker, positive starting power. 100 amphere hour capacity, 45 full sizes plates. Specially molded, larger capacity grids.

Allstate TRUCK TIRES
GIVE YOU MORE FOR YOUR RATION CERTIFICATE
SIZE 32x6 WITH YOUR OLD TIRE 41.29
Famous Allstate truck tires, favorites from coast-to-coast for long life. Geared to the road, quick stopping. Built-in qualities for hard wear.
OTHER SIZES AT PROPORTIONATELY LOW PRICES

200-Ft. Rolls WALL PAPER
Can Be Pasted Or Tacked To Wall 1.79
Heavyweight, protection from cold, wind, dust, heat. One roll covers 200 sq. ft. Choice of six lovely patterns. 18 in. wide. Easy to hang.
2 Lb. Pkg. Papering Paste, Good Value 30¢
Complete Paper-Hanging Kit. 98¢

ROLL ROOFING
90 Lb. Rolls 2.35
Honor-Bilt roofing, surfaced with real slate! Saturated with pure asphalt. Cement, nails included.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.
1225 BROADWAY DIAL 3-4351 COLUMBUS, GA.

FORT BENNING BAYONET

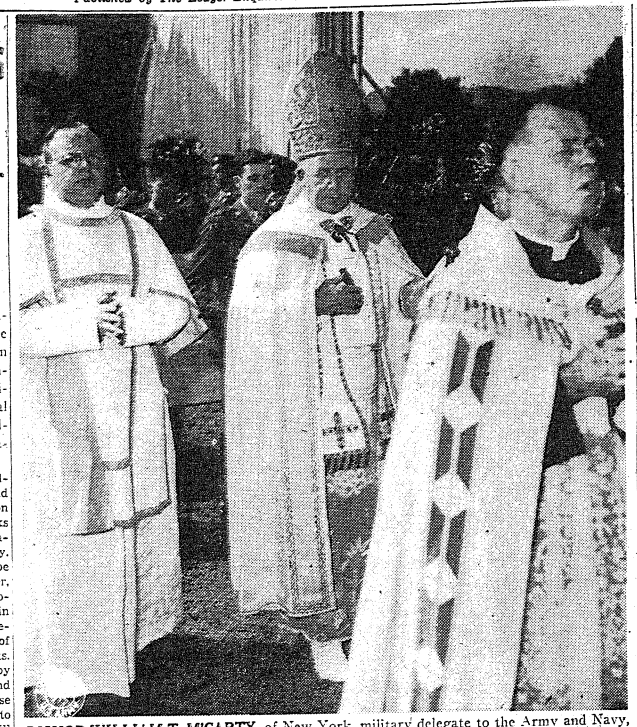
VOLUME 2, NUMBER 8 | Published by The Ledger-Enquirer Co. | FORT BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1943 | For America's Most Complete Post | PRICE FIVE CENTS

BENNING REDEEMS WAR FUND PLEDGES

Railroads Prepare For Yule Rush

Preparations to handle holiday furlough rail traffic were under way today as Captain Charles W. McKeown, Ft. Benning rail transportation officer, was designated as special liaison officer between the military and railroad representatives.

Railroads will set up ticket selling facilities between Dec. 6 and Dec. 11, in the post transportation offices, located across the tracks from the Ft. Benning railroad station, behind the post commissary. Exact time for the offices to be opened will be announced later, and Capt. McKeown requested today that military personnel refrain from calling in person or by telephone except during the hours of business for the selling of tickets.



Military personnel traveling by rail between Dec. 11, 1943, and Jan. 11, 1944, are to purchase tickets at least three days prior to date of departure. All tickets will be sold on a cost basis only and personal checks will not be accepted. After tickets are purchased, there will be no refund except where cancellation is made due to conditions beyond the control of the individual and the cancellation is certified by the immediate commanding officer in writing.

REPORTS MANDATORY

Organizations and units on the post are requested to submit reports to Capt. McKeown, on or before noon, November 15, as to the number of men who are being granted furloughs or passes and who will be travelling by rail during the holidays. The reports are to indicate whether one-way or round-trip tickets are desired, and to indicate the number of men who are expected to leave on various trains, and indicate destinations as well.

For benefit of military personnel planning on holiday travel, times of trains leaving Columbus are listed here. All are Eastern War Time. Train leaves for Montgomery and New Orleans at 7:45 a.m.; for Chicago-St. Louis, 8:15 a.m.; for Atlanta-New York, 9:50 a.m.; for Macon, 3:10 p.m.; for Chicago-St. Louis, 4:05 p.m.; for Jacksonville, 10:45 p.m.

Exact hours for the ticket selling facilities to be opened will be announced as soon as it has been worked out with the railroad representatives. Capt. McKeown announced. Installation of such services on the post will relieve the burden of handling holiday travel tickets in Columbus and save personnel on the post from making a trip in to town.

BISHOP WILLIAM T. M'CARTY, of New York, military delegate to the Army and Navy, is shown above, (center), as he left the altar at Fort Benning's Gowdy Field Sunday after celebrating a Military Pontifical Mass before 7,000 soldiers. On the left is Chaplain William Hunt, chief of the Catholic chaplains at Fort Benning, and on the right is Chaplain Raphael O'Brien of the 7th Armored Division. (U. S. Army Signal Corps photo.)

Impressive Religious Rites At Gowdy Sunday Attract Seven Thousand Soldiers

As Bishop William T. McCarty of New York, military delegate to the army and navy, celebrated a Military Pontifical Mass at Gowdy Field, Fort Benning, Sunday, 7,000 Catholic soldiers joined in the ceremonies to culminate a week-long mission at the post, the largest held at an army camp.

More than 1,000 enlisted men and officers received communion during the mass from Bishop McCarty while more than 300 later received the Sacrament of Confirmatino from the Bishop.

In a brief talk to the soldiers, Bishop McCarty hailed the occasion of the mass as a special tribute to the principles of our country which guarantees religious tolerance.

"There is no country in the world as generous as our beloved country, which provides all men the opportunity to worship God according to the dictates of their conscience," Bishop McCarty said.

"That is one of the most important things we are fighting for," he continued, "and this mass today is a practical demonstration of the principle. We demand and give the same liberty of worship to every member of our beloved country."

3,600 PRIESTS

Bishop McCarty disclosed that there are 3,600 Catholic priests serving with the United States armed forces both in this country and overseas.

"Before the end of this year," he declared, "we must provide one thousand more priests as chaplains for the armed forces. We hear cries day after day for more priests, and I am sure we shall be able to fill the quota."

At the opening of the Mass, Bishop McCarty and his honor guard marched into Gowdy Field and onto the altar. Music for the mass was furnished by the 176th Infantry Band of the Infantry School under the direction of Sgt. Duke Rotundi. The color guard as well as the honor guard for the mass was made up of the

See IMPRESSIVE, Page 8

Servicemen May Receive Free Post-war Education

For the men and women in service who put away their school books for the duration and six months, continued education in post-war days with Uncle Sam paying the bill has been proposed, according to word reaching Fort Benning from Washington.

President Roosevelt has recommended a billion-dollar educational program for discharged service men and women who have served six months or more to Congress, and judging from the attitude Congress has assumed on service problems, the money will be waiting when the all-clear signal is sounded.

Mr. Roosevelt, in his message, stated that "lack of money should not prevent any veteran of this war from equipping himself for the useful employment for which his aptitude and willingness qualify him."

"We must replenish our supply of persons qualified to discharge the heavy responsibilities of the post-war world," Mr. Roosevelt said. "We have taught our youth how to wage war; we must also teach them how to live useful and happy lives in freedom, justice, and decency."

TWO MAIN PROPOSALS

Based on the preliminary report of a special committee on educational rehabilitation headed by Maj. Gen. Frederick H. Osborn, the President set forth these two principal proposals:

"1. The Federal Government should make it financially feasible for every man and woman who has served honorably for a minimum period (six months) in the armed forces since September 16, 1940 (effective date of selective service), to spend a period up to one calendar year in a school, a college, a technical institution, or in actual training in industry so that he can further his education, learn a trade or acquire the necessary knowledge and skill for farming, commerce, manufacturing, or other pursuits.

"2. In addition, the Federal Government should make it financially possible for a limited number of ex-servicemen and women, selected for their special aptitudes, to carry on their general, technical, or professional education for a further period of one, two, or three years."

The Education-Study Committee was appointed by Mr. Roosevelt last November when he

See SERVICEMEN, Page 8

Portion of New Cusseta Road Is 'Off-Limits'

Both military and civilian personnel of Fort Benning were forbidden the use of the part of the new super-highway paralleling Cusseta road, from the bridge over the Upatoi creek to the vicinity of the outpost of Cusseta, according to an order issued at post headquarters today.

That portion of the new road was declared "off limits" because of the fact that under terms of the contract the contractor must guarantee a stand of grass in the parkway between the concrete lanes and on the shoulders, but crews have been unable to comply with that provision because of careless and thoughtless use of shoulders and parkway by automobile drivers.

The contractor's work also has been interfered with by vehicles making indiscriminate entrance on to the highway, the order states. All personnel of Fort Benning were instructed to use only the regularly-installed crossings when driving across the road. Both pedestrian and vehicular is forbidden on the road.

So They Call Him Murphy For Short, Eh?

The new cook stood before his first sergeant in the First Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School at Fort Benning.

"You're, er, ah—"

"Yes, that's me," the new cook supplied. "Kinda tough name to spell. It's Konstamtyplotanczykowski, Private Karzymerz J."

"What's the 'J' for?"

"I rightly don't know for sure."

"What do they call you for—er short?"

"Mostly Kon—owski."

"Well, Murphy, you're assigned to the 20th company."

And so Konstamtyplotanczykowski, possibly the longest name in the army, became Murphy.

Signal Center Opened

A new Signal Center consolidating telegraph and radio communication facilities on the main post at Fort Benning was opened at noon Sunday at the south side of Doughboy Stadium next to the Thrift Shop.

The telegraph office located in Room No. 203 in the Infantry School building and the radio station at Post Headquarters was moved to the new Signal Center Sunday.

Henceforth all telegrams and cablegrams will be sent and received at the new location, Lt. Col. A. W. Young, chief of the signal branch here said. He emphasized that all personal telegrams will come in and go out there.

Establishment of the Signal Center will improve service and be more convenient for personnel on the post, Colonel Young stated. The new center will have considerably more space than that now occupied by both the radio station and the telegraph office.

The radio station equipment includes teletype and TWX machines, as well as radio. Both government and commercial telegraph and cable operations will be combined under the new setup.

Warrant Officer Richard L. Maurehan will be officer in charge of the Signal Center, and Sgt. Paul F. Cunningham will be chief operator and non-commissioned officer in charge.

Six Men Killed In Plane Crash

A routine training flight ended in tragedy Wednesday night a week ago when an army transport plane crashed in Alabama about five miles from Lawson field, Fort Benning, fatally injuring all six of the occupants. The plane had taken off at 7 p. m., EWT, and the crash occurred at 9:45 p. m., EWT.

The following is a list of the fatalities and their next of kin:

First Lieutenant Ben William Herr, Air Corps, whose wife, Marjorie Herr, lives at 3445 Ethel street, Columbus, Ga.

Second Lieutenant Howard Wendell Hand, (A. C.) whose wife Louanna Hand lives at Elm Grove, West Va.

Sergeant Andrew Sozanski, Jr., (A. C.), whose mother, Mary Sozanski, lives in Jersey City.

Corporal Ferdinand Stumpf (A.

See SIX, Page 8

General Fulton Praises Post's Role In Current War Fund Drive

In letters to the commanding officers of various units at Fort Benning, General Chairman Walter S. Fulton, head of the National War Fund Compaign in Muscogee County, today expressed the gratitude of the War Fund Committee for the generous contributions made by military and civilian personnel at Fort Benning.

Writing to Col. William H. Hobson, commanding officer of the post, General Fulton declared, "how greatly we appreciate the generous and patriotic contributions made to our fund by the personnel of the Station Complement and all its units, including the civilian employees. We thank you all ever so much."

Fort Benning's gifts to the War Fund, including cash on hand and outstanding pledges, now amounts to more than $30,000. It is expected that by tomorrow night, Friday, most of the remaining contributions will be forthcoming so that an inclusive report can be rendered.

Minister, Rabbi, Priest Plan Lecture Series Here

A series of lectures under the auspices of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Inc., will bring three well known church leaders to Fort Benning beginning November 8. The lectures will run through November 15 and have been arranged to be presented so that personnel in all parts of the post may have the opportunity of attending.

Dr. Theodore Cuyler Speers, Central Presbyterian church, New York, will be the Protestant lecturer. Representing the Catholic faith will be Father John J. Redden, Oblate House of Philosophy, Newburgh, N. Y., while Dr. William F. Rosenblum of Temple Israel, New York, will speak for the Jews.

Rev. Speers is a veteran of World War I, having left Princeton to volunteer in the field artillery. He served overseas for a year and saw action in the Argonne. Returning, he played on the Princeton football team and was a member of the First International Track meet between Princeton and Oxford, England. He then taught school in Peking, China, at Princeton Center, 1921 and 1922, coaching a Marine football team while there. In 1925 he graduated from Union Theological Seminary, N. Y., and now is a member of the board of trustees of the seminary. He is now pastor of Central Presbyterian church and has written a book "The Power of the Commonplace." He has been a speaker in many camps and Naval stations throughout the country. His son, T. C. Speers, Jr., now is a private in the ASTP here at Fort Benning.

MANY LECTURES

Father Redden has preached missions in over 35 dioceses and for the past four months has been speaking at Army camps and Naval stations for the National Conference of Christians and Jews. He has taught at the Oblate Theology House; the Newburgh House of Philosophy Holy Angels Collegiate Institute, St. Mary's Seminary and Mount Mercy Academy, all in Buffalo, N. Y.

Rabbi Rosenblum is a graduate of the public schools of New York and the College of the City of New York, a graduate of Tulane University Law School and of Hebrew Union College with degree of Rabbi in 1926. He has engaged in social work and teaching in Cleveland, New Orleans, Chicago and Nashville and after his ordination served in Washington, going to Temple Israel in New York in 1930. He is a member of many Hebrew associations and organi-

See MINISTER, Page 8

FATHER J. J. REDDEN

THE REV. DR. T. C. SPEERS

RABBI WM. F. ROSENBLUM

Cash Bulges Coffers

A flood of brand new dollar bills and shining change swelled the coffers of the National War Fund at Fort Benning this week as soldiers redeemed pledges they had made toward a $30,000 goal at Fort Benning. It now seems likely that post War Fund donations will surpass those of the Red Cross drive last spring when more than $32,000 were contributed.

General Chairman Walter S. Fulton, head of the National War Fund Drive in Muscogee County, reiterated his gratitude for the support given the fund by Benning military and civilian personnel. "The response by Benning was magnificent," General Fulton said, "I am very proud of the results obtained at the post."

One of the highest averages of per capita gifts came from the officers of the Medical Department, Station Complement, General Fulton disclosed. He said that of 312 officers in the department who contributed a total of more than $1,905 the average donation was about $6.10 per officer. Maj. D. F. Fisher, of the Medical Department who solicited the contributions, pointed out that the 312 officers included 103 nurses, dieticians and physical therapists; 33 Red Cross workers; and 176 medical, sanitary and other officers.

Civilian employes of the post have contributed more than $3,700, Alex Sears, chairman of the civilian branch, announced. Post headquarters employees contributed $170 of this amount.

POST BREAKDOWN

The breakdown of contributions received so far is as follows: Infantry School, $10,000; Parachute School, over $6,500; ASTP, $3,436.40 with more to come; Lawson Field, $1,661.01 with approximately $500 more expected; WAC Detachment, Section 1, $104.15; Post headquarters officers, $317.80; Engineer officers, $72; Finance Department officers, $68.

Contributions of the Seventh Armored Division reached $3,420.50; the Reception Center, $1,613.79; civilian employees of the Engineers, $1,123.85; WAC Detachment, Section 2, $25.50 with approximately $50 more expected; Post Exchange civilians, $653.01; Exchange officers, $42; Supply Division civilians, $996.01; Lawson Field sub-depot, $339.90; Red Cross employees, $83; Headquarters Detachment, Section 1, $95.75; civilian employees of the Finance Department, $53.75; officers of the Division of Supply, $210; civilian employees of the Infantry School, $225.25; Infantry School officers, $316.50.

Prisoner of War Camp, $124.50 with an additional $200 pledged; Officers Club, $104; Supply Detachment, Section II, $153.75; Medical Detachment, Sec. I and II, $1,038.61 for enlisted personnel only averaging more than one dollar per man.

Bonds As Yule Presents Urged

"Give a War Bond for Christmas" and launch Fort Benning into its biggest year of participation in this nationwide program, Major George Fink, post War Bond officer, urged today.

"Fort Benning has had its best year ever in War Bond sales," he said. "The Third War Loan Drive saw post personnel investing $1,043,145.85 in one month, and we are closer than ever to the 90-10 per cent civilian goal. Our mark stands at 81 per cent of the War Department employes giving 8 per cent of their salaries."

Results of the Third War Loan set Fort Benning well on the way to purchasing $5,000,000 worth of War Bonds in 1943, and it was noted by Major Fink that the post's $1,043,145.85 was one-sixth of the total amount sold in the whole Fourth Service Command during that drive.

Since the close of the drive, Post Office sales have held on unusually well with R. P. Richardson, local postmaster, reporting $125,000 for October as compared to $175,000 for the drive period. In order to reach the $5,000,000 mark Bennng must average $500,000 a month in bond sales for November and December, which would include pay reservations as well as cash sales.

"WELL, DO TELL," exclaims Jakie, mascot of the Post Signal Detachment, Fort Benning, as Sgt. Carl Hahn, Allentown, Pa., shows him an egg and explains that these are what little pigeons come from. Jakie, a male raccoon, was found by Signal Corps linemen about four months ago and adopted into the detachment. He is attached to the pigeon section for rations and quarters. On pigeons, Jakie says, "Those boids are plenty smart, but they are always misunderstanding my intentions . . . which, of course, are nothing but the best." (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Antilles CO Visits School

Maj. Gen. Henry Conger Pratt commanding general of the Antilles Department with headquarters in San Juan, Puerto Rico, was a visitor at The Infantry School last week. Gen. Pratt, on leave from his command, is making an inspection trip of a limited number of army installations.

He had not been in Fort Benning for some time and was agreeably surprised and pleased by the changes that had been made in The Infantry School. Gen. Pratt was tremendously impressed by the battle realism that has been injected into the training of officers and officer candidates.

"Another item extremely helpful in the training," he said, "is the instruction given by officers who have had actual battle experience in this war. There is nothing more forceful than to hear first hand how and why a certain maneuver has worked. Specific instances are mighty convincing."

Gen. Pratt was also deeply interested in the latest infantry weapons particularly the bazooka and grenade launcher, and also the improvements in tactics and technique which have been made as the result of experiences in this war.

So You're to Serve On a Court-Martial

In this last of a series of articles written to acquaint young officers with their duties as members of a detail of the Court, Lieut. William E. Stein outlines the work of a defense counsel. In previous articles, Lieutenant Stein, who is investigating officer of the Third Student Training Regiment, described the duties of the junior member of the court, President of the Court and the Trial judge advocate.

Having spent several months as Defense Counsel before a court martial, I think I know whereof I speak. Your work as defense counsel is the most difficult and unappreciated task that your military career will embrace. As defense counsel in civilian life, you have that small matter of the fee to console you should you encounter a particularly obdurate jury. However, even that small consolation is denied the defense counsel before a court martial.

When you receive your copy of the charge sheet and other pertinent matter from the trial judge advocate your labors begin and they continue until the record of the trial has been forwarded.

As soon as you receive the charge sheet, look over the charges and specifications. Next consult the Manual for Courts Martial and study the proof required to sustain a finding of guilty under these charges and specifications. When you have both those matters fixed firmly in your mind, hold a conference with the accused. (This is not always true but many times the accused will be more disappointed when he see you than you are when you get your first look at him.)

With the shock of the first meeting over, you hunt a secluded spot and hopefully ask the accused if he has communicated with individual counsel. If he has individual counsel, your work is considerably lightened although your responsibility remains as great.

YOU TAKE OVER

For the purpose of this column, there is no individual counsel so you as regularly appointed defense counsel, take over and get the accused started to talking. Get every bit of information you can from the accused regarding the offense charged. Make notes if you desire (it always looks good, anyway.)

After you get all the facts from the accused, compare them with the proof required and decide whether or not you should advise the accused to plead guilty. (About half of the accused, after one look at me, decided to plead guilty.) If your accused agrees that the wise thing to do is plead guilty then you spend all your effort building up the accused's good character and previous excellent record together with outlining mitigating circumstances.

However this accused is not guilty so you plan the defense to be used at the trial. Right then and there go over the list of the prosecution's witnesses with the accused. Ascertain how many of them are interested and disinterested.

One or more might have shown some animosity toward this accused. Some of them might be his best friends. All of this you will want to learn. Now take the summary of expected testimony of the prosecutor's witnesses and go over this in detail with the accused, planning the questions to ask each when you cross examine.

DON'T GET ON A LIMB

The accused perhaps knows some witnesses that want to appear in his behalf so you locate these persons and with them go over the incident that give rise to the charges. Also questions them at length regarding all circumstances and facts leading to this incident. You must be familiar with the entire picture or you will probably find yourself out on a limb. You can't afford that.

Finally you have completed your investigation so you brush up on the law — especially that regarding the admissibility of evidence.

Now go back to the accused and tell him just what to expect. Tell him the facts, the law and what the findings probably will be. Now make the final plan for the defense in the case. For the first 100 or so trials have every detail written down so that your conduct of the defense will be smooth. Have each little part fit right into the entire plan. Every question you ask, every bit of evidence you produce, every argument you must make must point to the one general idea you are building before the court.

Although bombast, insinuations and rare eloquence are more spectacular, a well-planned, smoothly-functioning defense is your best procedure.

Here is one final observation. Regardless of how hard you work and plan and question, there will be witnesses who will surprise you by telling a different story to the court than they told you. Not only that but now and then the accused will take the stand and tell a tale that will knock your orderly plans sky high.

But that's life.

BROTHERS IN ARMS but not in the same army are Cpl. Ronald Beech of the famous Essex Canada Regiment and T-5 Albert Beech, of the 7th Armored Division now garrisoned in Georgia. The brother soldiers were born in Canada and met this week at Ft. Benning, for the first time in three years. (Official U. S. Army Photo.)

Allies' Beech Brothers Meet Here After 3 Years

The Beech brothers — Cpl. Ronald Beech, of the famous Essex Scotland Regiment, Canada, and T-S Albert Beech, Division Headquarters Company, 7th Armored Division, born at Barrie, Ontario, educated and reared in Detroit, Michigan, met for the first time in three years at Fort Benning Wednesday.

When the war call came, T-S Albert Beech was successful in enlisting in the United States Army. Ronald was not. Albert had naturalization papers, and in due time was assigned to the 7th Armored Division.

After having tried every branch of service for enlistment, Ronald, who was classified as an "undeclared alien" in the United States because he had not applied for naturalization papers, hied himself back to his place of nativity, Ontario, Canada. He was accepted at Windsor, Ontario, in April, 1942, and received his basic training at Chatham, Ontario.

T-S Albert Beech, two years older than his Canadian-born soldier-brother, enlisted earlier having entered the United States Army in June, 1941. He is an experienced half track driver in Headquarters Company, of Maj. Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silvester's "Lucky Seventh" Armored Division.

When Ronald came to Division Headquarters Company about noon Wednesday, October 20, his brother, Albert, was on the range. Members of the company invited the Canadian soldier to "chow," and, already attracted to him, his conversation, the strangeness of his uniform, and interested altogether in the newcomer — he was entertained until his brother's return.

Training in the Canadian Infantry would be analogous to the 7th Armored Division infantry regiments with few exceptions, Cpl. Beech explained. The infantry regiment from which Cpl. Beech comes walks and hikes plenty, but the bag pipers are ever present to boost morale of the men as they go hiking along. The usual infantry gait is 110 paces a minute. After a day's work, with hiking in between, the bag pipers will meet the men—start playing—and the hike becomes easier, according to the corporal.

IS INSTRUCTOR

There are a great many night classes in the Canadian Infantry, Cpl. Beech continued. He is an instructor in his regiment. Passes are provided for the soldiers who successfully pass examinations. Complete training in guns and tactics is given at intervals of two months apart. The passes are issued about every three weeks, either for 36 or 72 hours each, depending upon the soldier who receives them.

"There's a bit of difference between a private and a "non-com" in the Canadian Army," Cpl. Beech stated. "It is tradition in the Canadian Army that holds full sway. In some places there are sergeants' messes separate and apart. A stripe means something and is regarded as belonging to an Army man. A corporal's stripe in the Canadian Army is equivalent to that of a sergeant's in the United States Army. You don't get stripes dished out to you, either," he further emphasized.

There are four of the Beech brothers in service. T-Sgt. William Stanley Beech, who received early training in the National guards is in Australia. Another brother, Robert, a second class seaman, is stationed at Pearl Harbor.

"I find the American soldiers a friendly bunch of chaps. They really have made me long to be back among them, for after all this is America — and my home. I feel that I am at home with these fellows of the 7th Armored Division, too," the Canadian-soldier and visitor added.

Radio Set-up Slated For HC

Officers and enlisted personnel of Special Services Offices of Harmony Church commands met last Thursday in the SSO of Headquarters, Basic Training Center, to discuss policy and plans for the local connection being established for the area.

Studio facilities will be set up at two points in HC, according to plans already worked out. The major point of operation will be from Service Club No. 3. Shows to originate from Harmony Church will go out over WDAK Columbus Blue and Mutual network station.

All units in Harmony Church have been invited to participate in the shows to be produced and presented here, and time allotted to the area by WDAK will be used on an equitable basis by the commands in the area. However, the actual operation of the local outlet will remain within the control of BTC.

Access to the ether-waves by personnel stationed in the area will mean that a great deal of very fine talent will find a medium for presentation for the first time under Army auspices. And although other units will definitely participate in the programs planned, ASTP regiments will naturally be expected to take the initiative.

Maj. John G. MacFarlan, Special Service Officer for Basic Training Center, is certain that the many men in ASTP regiments who have had some radio experience, or experience of a similar nature, will be able to produce a great number of really creditable radio productions. However, he pointed out, it is sometimes difficult to find just the men you want who also want to do the job.

CENTRAL CLEARING HOUSE

In order to facilitate the production of radio shows a central talent clearing house is being set up to produce programs. The central clearing house will be known as the ASTP radio workshop. Its purpose, besides the actual production of its own shows, will be to assist ASTP regiments and battalions with auditions and technical details they may encounter in staging their programs. The Workshop expects to discover some really exceptional announcer and dramatic talent, and men with technical background among the personnel of the regiments.

Operation of the Harmony Church Studios of WDAK is expected to begin sometime shortly after the first of November. Programs will be announced in the ASTP PINE-BUR, in the BAYONET, and in the 131st Infantry NEWS.

At Last He Can Just Once More See A Poem As Lovely As A Tree

If someone were to tell you the most thrilling moment in this life was to see a tree again, you might be a little skeptical, but that is the case with Cpl. James A. Nance of Headquarters Company, the 300th Infantry, of The Infantry School.

After spending a year on the bleak waste lands of Iceland, Nance's heart jumped with joy when he spied his first tree upon landing in the United States again. Nance, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin also holds the degree of L.L.B. He practiced law for a short time before making his entry into the armed forces.

Inducted in November of 1941, Nance did his basic training at Camp Croft and then to his delight received an assignment up north in Fort Custer, Michigan, fairly close to his home in Evansville, Wisconsin. But his joy was short-lived because the day he landed at Custer, he received the sober information that his outfit was already alerted for overseas.

Rushed through the preliminaries of an overseas movement, Nance found himself in a boat on the tossing cold Atlantic and shortly thereafter in Iceland. Relieving an English Regiment his outfit set to work making the barren isle more habitable. Living in tents at first, they set to and built, a camp and an airport. But they were not to rest on their laurels. The outfit was pushed out to a lava bed and told to build another camp. In between times, Nance and his buddies did guard duty and dock detail.

The weather? It was cold, but not near as much as you expect. The worst factor of Iceland according to Nance was the almost complete absence of trees—a barren waste, reminiscent of the locale of the "Hound of The Baskerville."

No account of a place is complete without a mention of entertainment—and of course tops on the list is girls. Nance side-stepped this item neatly and went on to speak of phonographs and records. The principal amusement for G.I's in Iceland at this time was records. Old fashioned phonographs brought a terrific prize in the nearby town and the boys ate up all kinds of records no matter how ancient. The Red Cross moved in later and things are much better.

As far as the war is concerned, Nance did see a few German planes, but apparently they didn't get close enough because he appeared apathetic about the subject. While in Iceland, Nance had as his chief commanding officer the present commandant of The Infantry School, Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel.

A loud noise to frighten away evil spirits and a few chords of music from Louis Berlioz' La Damnation de Faust are the background for "Retreat"—the bugle call familiar to all GI's. The melody from Berlioz' opus dates back to the Crusades. The loud noise—discontinued now to save valuable gun powder—is a throwback to an ancient custom.

6 Chutofficers Rise In Rank

Six officers of the 515th Parachute Infantry have been promoted, according to an announcement by the regiment.

Major William H. Hendrickson, commanding officer of the Second Battalion, has been promoted to lieutenant colonel.

Captain Gordon C. Avery has been promoted to major, and Lieutenant John H. Cudmore, commanding officer of Co. "D," has been promoted to captain.

Second Lieutenants John K. Grube, adjutant of the Second Battalion; John Laptoka, officer of Headquarters Company of the Second Battalion, and Arthur F. Miller, packing officer of the Service Company, have been promoted to first lieutenants.

It isn't done by GI's, but GI's saw it done—on the front page! They forgave the wrong-doer on the grounds that he could do anything he wanted as far as they were concerned. The offender and the offense? General Marshall saluting—palm out!

Mighty Mob Misses 'Mess' Moving Madly

"Why ain't there more doors in the mess hall?" Sprained ankles, broken legs, dislocated shoulders, and assorted sprains, bruises and cuts are among the minor injuries inflicted on men of the 4th Battalion of The Infantry School's 1st Student Training Regiment when they make that wild break for freedom after movies every Thursday evening.

Once a week the battalion shows pictures in its mess hall, drawing a large audience. At the close of the evening's entertainment, the crowd rises and, storm-like, rushes for the nearest exit. At the storm's height, men climb over one another to get out the doors, others try to tunnel their way out, while some resignedly run about in confusion like trapped rats.

Reason? The last few men left in the hall are nabbed for clean-up detail.

Furnishing a receipt bearing the name, grade, serial number and organization of GI's, disbursing officers will accept for deposit and savings any sum of $5 or more. The date, place and amount of the deposit appear also on the receipt.

QUARTER TAXI
DIAL 3-4447
"24-HOUR SERVICE"

DINE WINE
AND BE MERRY
in ATLANTA'S NEWEST and FINEST SUPPER CLUB
Bill Cooper
His Piano and Solovox
Featuring the Best
Steaks & Chops
Seafood & Fried Chicken
AND OF COURSE
Wine & Champagne & Beer
PEACHTREE at ELLIS
OPEN 12 TO 12
SUNDAY DINNER
TO 10 P. M.

OFFICERS! SEE OUR
Gifts - Antiques
ELLEN WORRALL
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

COLUMBUS TO FT. BENNING
HOWARD BUS LINE
SERVICE TO FORT BENNING FOR 22 YEARS
DOING A WARTIME JOB - - -
UNDER WAR TIME CIRCUMSTANCES
HOWARD BUS LINE
900 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

CALL
SALTER'S TAXI CO.
DIAL 5321
White Patronage Only
CLEAN CARS COURTEOUS SERVICE
Open All the Time

Watch, Clock, and Jewelry Repairing
Quick Service
B & S JEWELRY CO.
Dial 2-1064
1724 Hamilton Rd.

PEST CONTROL SERVICE
ROACHES, RATS, BEDBUGS
CREATORS OF SANITATION
ORKIN EXTERMINATING COMPANY INC.
115—12th ST.
PHONE 6744

PHOTO FANS
For Better Snap-Shots
Have Your Film Developed at
Parkman Photo Service
1121½ Broadway Dial 6451
Free Enlargement Given Each Day.
24-HOUR SERVICE

As Little As $685.00 Down
For Military Personnel or Defense Worker.
NEW HOME in BENNING HILLS
$4575.00
Two Term Plans:
(a)—$1225.00 cash and $27.27 monthly, after purchaser moves in and gets tax exemption certificate.
(b)—$685.00 cash and $81.27 monthly for twelve months then $27.27 monthly.
The FHA payments include principal, interest, taxes, insurance, but are subject to adjustments to meet changing conditions as to insurance and tax rates.
Many people are now renting one room with kitchen privileges at $40.00 per month. This would help to buy it under plan (b).
Plan (b) is available to military personnel only where wife is employed.
ARMOUR REALTY COMPANY, Inc.
115—12th St. Phone 3-4212

Have a "Coke" = Good winds have blown you here

... a way to say "We are friends" to the Chinese

In far-off places, when Coca-Cola is on hand, you find it cementing friendships for our fighting men. China knew Coca-Cola from Tientsin to Shanghai, from Hong Kong to Tsingtao. To Chinese and Yank alike, Have a "Coke" are welcome words. They belong with friendliness and freedom. From Atlanta to the Seven Seas, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become a symbol of good will among the friendly-minded.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Coca-Cola
-the global high-sign
"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

© 1943 The C-C Co.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion 8:30 a. m. Sunday school in session; children's school 9:15 a. m. Woman's Adult Bible class meets with the Sunday school. Members who bring their children to Sunday school invited to join. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "For Thee We Sing"—Tkach. Offertory: "Adagio"—H. Wieniawski, Bolo—Laurence Moon. The sermon: Chaplain Alfred L. Pollock. Christian League: 5:30 p. m. Evening worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain Arnold L. Lewis.

THE ARMORED

Protestant: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott) 10 a. m., Chaplain Pomeroy; Chapel No. 2 (19th & Bourr) 9 a. m., Chaplain Lewis; 11:00 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Lewis; Chapel No. 3 (10th & Scott), 8 a. m. (Communion), Chaplain Fell, 10 a. m., Chaplain Claus; 11 a. m., Chaplain Claus; 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Claus; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 9 a. m., Chaplain Cermak, 10 a. m., Chaplain Fell; 11 a. m., Chaplain Johnson; 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Johnson; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), 9 a. m., Chaplain De La Vergne, 10 a. m., Chaplain McLeod, 7 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain McLeod; Stockade, 1:30 p. m., Chaplain Cermak.

Catholic Masses: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 3 (10th & Scott), 9 a. m., Chaplain Linton; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), 8 a. m., Chaplain Keating; No. 11 a. m., Chaplain Keating; Theatre No. 6 (10th & Bourg), 10:30 a. m., Chaplain Lynch.

Jewish Services: Jewish service, conducted by Chaplain Shain, is held every Monday evening at 7:30 at Chapel No. 4, Sand Hill Area.

Provisional: Sunday services held for members, for the Provisional Truck Regiment are as follows: 8 a. m. and 4th Battalion—Bible school at 10:00 a. m. Worship service at 11:00 a. m. Services will be held in Building No. 5215 in the Service Battalion area of the Third Student Training Regiment. The 2nd and 3rd Battalions will have Bible school at 10:30 a. m. and worship at 11:30 a. m. Third Service held in Building No. 5031, Third Battalion Area, Provisional Truck Regiment.

176th Infantry: Sunday morning worship service at 9:15 a. m. in the main chapel. Chaplains Arnold Lewis and John Trosler.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1. Morning worship 9:30 and 10:30 a. m. Communion each first Sunday morning. Lenten service 6:30 p. m. (Communion) each 2nd Sunday. Bible Hour, Thurs., 6:45 p. m. Chaplain Herman A. Michelet.

Lawson Field: Sunday morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Evening vespers at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday evening service at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Geo. L. Forney.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of 42nd and Anderson: For men of the 4th Bn., 1st STR, and Acad. Regt. Morning worship and Communion service each Sunday at 11:30 a. m. in 4th Bn. Chaplain's office, 1st STR, Chaplain G. E. Bedford.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for Del. Med. Dept. at 9:30 a. m. Also colored Del. Med. Dept. services in colored day room at 2 p. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Recreation Hall, Sunday school: 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:45 a. m. Chaplain Isaac McDonald.

500th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Protestant service, 7:45 p. m. Chaplains Robt. D. Jones and Chester Chmielewski.

176th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 9:15 a. m in main chapel. Chaplains Arnold Lewis and John Trosler.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Main Post Chapel Tuesday evenings 4 o'clock. For further information call William V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 8391.

2nd STR: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chaplain William Willingham. Sunday school and worship 8:15 a. m. for Service Bn.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 5 Regimental services at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Chaplain A. B. Bullman. Also Regimental service at 11 a. m. in Post Chapel in "The Grove." Chaplain George Kirshbaum. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Levi Swanson.

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 852nd Ordnance dep room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 31st Ordnance dep room. Worship at 11 a. m. in the Bivouac area mess hall Chaplain Arthur S Ward

Bn., ASTP: Chapel No. 4: Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey.

4th Tng. Regt., ASTP: Bldg. E-4: Services for 1st Bn. 10:45 a. m. Chaplain Theodore Bachelor; 3rd Bn., Bldg. 4367, 10:45 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Services 8:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Catholic mass, 8 a. m., 4th Bn., 4th Tng. Regt., Bldg. 4367, Kelly and Axton Roads: Bible class, 9 a. m.; Protestant service, 10 a. m., 4th Bn. in amphitheater. Geo. A. Ritchey, chaplain.

5th Tng. Regt., ASTP.: 9:30 a. m. Catholic mass in Theatre No. 10; 10:30 a. m. Protestant services in Theater No. 12. Chaplain Bachelor.

6th Tng. Reg't—8 a. m. Catholic mass, Bldg. 8005. 10:30 a. m. general Protestant services. Chaplain Bachelor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Harmony Church Area, Chapel No. 6. Friday evening 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Rath, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 8391.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4 Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 6-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 2nd General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 8 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 2, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, building No. 5201, located on the 5th Division Road and Gaillard Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 9:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 9 a. m. for the companies of the 5th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 154th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

84th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 3, Parachute School Chapel (Lawson Field): Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 3, Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wold and Anderson Avenue: Mass at 8:30 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For personnel on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Parachute Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the Children's school, corner Bullard Avenue and Dumpkin Rd., opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men leads the service.

For members of the 3rd and 4th Training Regiments in the Infantry School WAC Detachment, Station Hospital No. 2 and A.S.T.P. Headquarters: At 9 a. m. at Building 5786, Memorial Recreational Hall, 5th Training Regiment Area.

For personnel in the 4th, 5th and 6th Training Regiments, 124th Infantry, 244th and 252nd Field Artillery Bns., and 328th Ordnance Bn.: At 10:30 a. m. in Theatre No. 4, near Service Club No. 3.

For personnel in the Sand Hill Area: Every Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. in Chapel No. 4.

Radio

Programs with a G. I. twist.

NOV. 4
6:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK
3:45 P.M.—Full Speed Ahead—WDAK
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:30 P.M.—Fighting Coast Guard—WDAK
6:30 P.M.—Hirsch also the news—WRBL
8:15 P.M.—Gracie Fields' Victory Show—WDAK
8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Chorus—WRBL
9:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarter Hour—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS
10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU
11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

NOV. 5
6:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
8:00 A.M.—Breakfast Club—WDAK
3:45 P.M.—Full Speed Ahead—WDAK
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—Meet Your Navy—WDAK
8:00 P.M.—Kate Smith—CBS
8:30 P.M.—The Thin Man—CBS
8:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU
9:30 P.M.—That Brewster Boy—CBS
10:00 P.M.—Camel Caravan—WRBL
10:45 P.M.—Elmer Davis, News

NOV. 6
6:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
2:30 P.M.—Spirit of '43—CBS
3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL
4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL
5:00 P.M.—Navy Bulletin Board—WDAK
5:00 P.M.—"Doctors At War"—NBC
6:00 P.M.—Over To You—BLU
7:00 P.M.—Report to the Nation—CBS
7:30 P.M.—"Thanks to the Yanks"—WRBL
7:30 P.M.—"Enough And On Time"—BLU
8:00 P.M.—"American Eagle Club" (from London)—MBS
8:30 P.M.—Spotlight Bands—WDAK
8:15 P.M.—A. S. F. Presents—WDAK

NOV. 7
8:15 A. M.—Music for Sunday—WDAK
4:00 P.M.—All Request Hour—WDAK
5:00 P.M.—"The Army Hour"—WRBL
3:45 P.M.—Doctors Courageous—CBS
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:30 P.M.—Sgt. Gene Autry—WRBL
7:00 P.M.—The Commandos—CBS
7:30 P.M.—The Stars and Stripes in Britain (from London)—MBS
7:30 P.M.—"We, The People"—WRBL
8:15 P.M.—We Cover the Battlefronts—CBS
9:00 P.M.—Army Hour" (from Army-Navy YMCA-USO—WRBL
9:30 P.M.—Fred Allen—CBS
10:00 P.M.—Take It or Leave It—CBS
10:30 P.M.—Men Behind the Gun—CBS

NOV. 8
6:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK
3:45 P.M.—Full Speed Ahead—WDAK
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—
9:45 P.M.—Keep the Homefires Burning—CBS
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
7:15 P.M.—Quartermaster Quarterhour—WRBL
8:15 P.M.—Gracie Fields' Victory Show—WDAK
8:30 P.M.—"Listen, It's Fort Benning"—Variety show, featuring the 300th Inf. Orch.—WRBL
10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

NOV. 9
6:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
3:45 P.M.—Full Speed Ahead—WDAK
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
6:55 P.M.—Hirsch and News—CBS
7:30 P.M.—"It Happened In the Service"—NBC
8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Broadcast—
8:30 P.M.—Spotlight Bands—WDAK
9:00 P.M.—Burns and Allen—CBS

NOV. 10
6:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK
7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL
8:00 A.M.—Breakfast Club—WDAK
3:45 P.M.—Full Speed Ahead—WDAK
6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL
8:00 P.M.—Sammy Kaye—CBS
8:30 P.M.—Spotlight Bands—WDAK
9:30 P.M.—Milton Berle & Co.—CBS

Women's Activities

WOMAN'S CLUB

Book Review Group—Monday, November 8, 2:30 p. m., in ladies lounge of Officers' Club.

Bridge—Tuesday, November 9, 2 p. m. in ladies lounge.

Spanish—Every Tuesday in Officers' Club. Beginners' class at 2:30 p. m. advanced at 3:30 p. m.

Exercise Group — Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, 8:15 a. m. to 8:45 a. m. ladies lounge.

RED CROSS

WORK ROOM

Surgical dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday, in charge Monday, Mrs. John McFall; Tuesday, Mrs. John Mangoni; Wednesday, Mrs. Warren Christian; Thursday, Mrs. William Shuff; Friday, Mrs. E. A. Noyes. Mrs. William Denton, chairman.

Sewing and knitting—Thursday mornings, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. Mrs. James Weaver in charge.

STAFF ASSISTANCE CORPS—On duty at Red Cross Room Friday, November 5, Mrs. Kibbe; Monday, November 8, Mrs. Creighton, Mangoni; Tuesday, November 9, Mrs. Hayris; Mrs. Hammergren; Wednesday, November 10, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Chapday, November 10, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Chapman; Thursday, November 11, Mrs. Grimes.

MOTOR CORPS—Headquarters at the Red Cross Work Room. Telephone 2058 for Red Cross Work Room. Telephone 2058 for Motor Corps to pick up magazines to visit hospitals. On duty Friday, November 5, Mrs. Tarr; Monday, November 8, Mrs. Coates; Tuesday, November 9, Mrs. Bullard; Wednesday, November 10, Mrs. Moore; Thursday, Nov. 11, Mrs. Allen.

GRAY LADIES—On duty at Station Hospital: Friday, November 5, Captain, Mrs. Venable; library, a. m., Mrs. Finnegan; p. m., Mrs. Whittemore; recreational hall, a. m., Mrs. Guthrie, Mrs. Whitney; p. m., Mrs. Webb; arts and crafts shop, a. m., Mrs. Webb, Wards, Meadames Shine, Rosenberger, Quarrell, Chase, Boykin.

Monday, November 8: Captain, Mrs. Branstadt; library, a. m., Mrs. Helton, Mrs. Miles, floor, a. m. Mrs. Gordon; wards, Mrs. Perrine.

Tuesday, November 9: Captain, Mrs. Elliott; desk, Mrs. McKee; wards, Mrs. Span, Mrs. Bass Lewis, Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Mc-Cormick; library, a. m., Mrs. Miles, p. m., Mrs. R. Lewis; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Shine, Mrs. Rutherford; arts and crafts shop, a. m., Mrs. Spann, p. m., Mrs. D. A. Turner.

Wednesday, November 9: Captain, Mrs. Finnegan; wards, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Hardy; library, a. m., Mrs. Thomas, p. m., Mrs. Hardy; floor, a. m., Mrs. Gold and Mrs. Sander, p. m., Mrs. Webb; arts and crafts, a. m., Mrs. Webb.

Wednesday, November 10: Captain, Mrs. Perrine; desk, Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Venable, Mrs. Stevens; library, a. m., Mrs. Stevens, p. m., Mrs. Hardy; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Dillard, p. m., Mrs. Wright; arts and crafts, a. m., Mrs. Venable.

Thursday, Nov. 11: Captain, Mrs. Herring; wards, Mrs. Hardy, Richardson, Mrs. Gold; library, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford, p. m., Mrs. Rosenberger; arts and crafts, Mrs. Holton; recreation hall, a. m. Mrs. Sander, p. m., Mrs. Power.

Boys' Activities

Monday through Saturday — Football practice at Doughboy Stadium, 5:45 p. m.

Friday—Scout Troop 11, 7:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Saturday—Cub Pack Number 1, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Ranger Battalion, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Movies

MAIN THEATER AND THEATRE NO. 8

Nov. 4-5—CRAZY HOUSE—Olsen and Johnson.

Nov. 6—FIND THE BLACKMAILER—Jerome Cowan and Faye Emerson.
MR. MUGG STEPS OUT—Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall.

Nov. 7-8—THE IRON MAJOR—Pat O'Brien and Ruth Warrick.

Nov. 9—NEVER A DULL MOMENT—Ritz Brothers and Frances Langford.

Nov. 10—SON OF DRACULA—Lon Chaney and Louise Albritton.

THEATERS NO. 2 AND 3

Nov. 4-5—LASSIE COME HOME—Roddy McDowall and Donald Crisp.

Nov. 6-7—CRAZY HOUSE—Olsen and Johnson.

Nov. 8—FIND THE BLACKMAILER—Jerome Cowan and Faye Emerson.
MR. MUGG STEPS OUT—Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall.

Nov. 9-10—THE IRON MAJOR—Pat O'Brien and Ruth Warrick.

THEATERS NO. 4 AND 5

Nov. 4-5—TRUE TO LIFE—Dick Powell and Mary Martin.

Nov. 6-7—LASSIE COME HOME—Roddy McDowall and Donald Crisp.

Nov. 8-9—CRAZY HOUSE—Olsen and Johnson.

Nov. 10—FIND THE BLACKMAILER—Jerome Cowan and Faye Emerson.
MR. MUGG STEPS OUT—Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall.

THEATERS NO. 6 AND 7

Nov. 4—THE MAN FROM DOWN UNDER—Charles Laughton and Richard Carlson.

Nov. 5—HERE COMES ELMER—Al Pearce and Frankie Albertson.
THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME—Chester Morris and Jeanne Bates.

Nov. 6-7—TRUE TO LIFE—Dick Powell and Mary Martin.

Nov. 8-9—LASSIE COME HOME—Roddy McDowall and Donald Crisp.

Nov. 10—CRAZY HOUSE—Olsen and Johnson.

THEATERS NO. 9 AND 11

Nov. 4—PRINCESS O'ROURKE—Olivia de Havilland and Robert Cummings.

Nov. 5-6—To be announced.

Nov. 7-8—THE MAN FROM DOWN UNDER—Charles Laughton and Richard Carlson.

Nov. 9—FIND THE BLACKMAILER—Jerome Cowan and Faye Emerson.
MR. MUGG STEPS OUT—Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall.

Nov. 10—TRUE TO LIFE—Dick Powell and Mary Martin.

THEATER NO. 10

Nov. 4—To be announced.

Nov. 5-6—THE MAN FROM DOWN UNDER—Charles Laughton and Richard Carlson.

Nov. 7—FIND THE BLACKMAILER—Jerome Cowan and Faye Emerson.
MR. MUGG STEPS OUT—Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall.

Nov. 8-9—TRUE TO LIFE—Dick Powell and Mary Martin.

Nov. 10—LASSIE COME HOME—Roddy McDowall and Donald Crisp.

THEATER NO. 12

Nov. 4—HERE COMES ELMER—Al Pearce and Frankie Albertson.
THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME—Chester Morris and Jeanne Bates.

Nov. 5-6—PRINCESS O'ROURKE—Olivia de Havilland and Robert Cummings.

Nov. 7-8—NEVER A DULL MOMENT—Ritz Brothers and Frances Langford.

Nov. 9—SON OF DRACULA—Lon Chaney and Louise Albritton.

Nov. 9-10—THE MAN FROM DOWN UNDER—Charles Laughton and Richard Carlson.

Magician Haskell Is In TIS Advanced Course

If magic is what is needed to help solve tough problems confronting officers attending The Infantry School's advanced courses, then 1st Lt. Haskell Schweidel of second company is well equipped.

Better known in civilian life as "Haskell, the Magician," Schweidel had top billing from coast to coast, in Canada and the Bahamas as a slight-off-hand artist, having appeared at leading hotels, nightclubs, and resorts, places in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Montreal, Canada, and Nassau in the Bahamas as well as many other places.

Now a Signal Corps officer from Fort Monmouth, N. J., Schweidel began his Army career as a private. Magic or magic, he was one of the first inducted men called to the colors under the Selective Service Act of June, 1941. His draft number was 96, and according to Schweidel, his draft card was one item he couldn't make disappear.

In the first group of Selective Service men to be assigned to the Air Force, Schweidel was stationed at Moffett Field in California, and placed on duty in the Athletic and Recreational Office. He organized and produced several all-soldier-talent shows for the men of Moffett Field, and staged several acts there himself.

March, 1942, found Schweidel at Fort Monmouth, N. J., enrolled in the Signal Corps, Officer Candidate School from which he graduated in June of that year. Until coming to Benning, he served at Monmouth as an instructor in weapons used by Signal Corps personnel.

Schweidel began playing with "magic" when he was 14 years old, was fired from several less spectacular occupations for entertaining employees and customers with card, cigarette, and rope tricks. His show business career began in San Francisco at the bottom of the entertainment ladder, playing waterfront dives while he waited for a break.

A one-day trial that stretched into a three-week engagement led to billing at Los Angeles' Mark Hopkins Hotel. Following this came an engagement by request in Detroit, and from that time on "Haskell the Magician" became a known name in show business, rated high in the magic field.

A member of the American Society of Magicians, Lt. Schweidel made an appearance before the Atlanta Chapter of the organization on Sunday, Oct. 24, in Atlanta.

Saber Unit Sets New Record For Double-Time

Thirty-five men from Company I of the 300th Infantry, under the leadership of Lieutenants Evert Heath, Donald Brill, and Theodore Gates, cracked the known existing regimental record among Infantry School Troops for endurance double-time. Company K with Lt. Thomas Broskie set the first record a few weeks ago on a morning run, traveling five times around the Regimental area as a physical training program. The distance is six and one half miles.

However, Company I romped over a course nine and one half miles in length.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

Beautiful assortments; plain or with name imprinted. Also birth announcements, engraved or printed wedding invitations, announcements, and visiting cards.

Columbus Advertising Service
200 1st Nat. Bank Bldg. Dial 8141

Good Barbecued Chicken Found Here
The "New" Linwood Steak Shop
1206 Linwood Blvd.
Ted Lyons, New Prop. Ph. 9594

SPECIAL GIFTS
For That
Special Girl Back Home
Hurry! Christmas will soon be here. Get her that gift she will always remember. Come in and select from our fine assortment.
- Pearls
- Compacts
- Necklaces
- Spray Pins
- Silverware
- Birthstone Rings
- Lapel and Wrist Waches

V. V. VICK . Jewelers
10 - 12th STREET

Is Your Present Insurance Estate Sufficient?
IF NOT—Let's Talk It Over
FILL IN BLANKS BELOW AND MAIL TO
D. Q. WILSON, COLUMBUS, GA.
Reliance Life Insurance Co.
Over 500 Million Dollars in Insurance in Force
NAME .....
ADDRESS .....
DATE AND TIME .....

This Label ... ...ON LAND AND SEA... Has Served with Distinction in 5 Wars

The obvious distinction of made-to-measure
SMITH-GRAY
Officers' Uniforms
is due to individual cutting and expert fitting to your figure

But that's not all! When you stand before a mirror and admire the smartness of your Smith-Gray uniform, remember—you are really admiring the things that don't meet the eye. For it's the superb needlework in the vital hidden parts and the masterly "foundation building" that give S-G Officers' Uniforms their shape-retaining qualities for long and vigorous service. Traditionally, since 1845, garments bearing the Smith-Gray Label have made the "best front" on every front!

Complete line of accessories for officers

SMITH-GRAY CORP.
CUSTOM TAILORS SINCE 1845
Makers of UNIFORMS

15 West 11th St., Columbus, Ga.
New York City — Columbia University
Cambridge, Mass. — U. S. S. Prairie State
New Haven — Fort Monmouth

1340
ON YOUR DIAL
WDAK
'COLUMBUS' 2 NETWORK STATION
Blue——Mutual

Aimé DUPONT of Fifth Avenue
Portrait Photographers Since 1884
1219½ Broadway — Columbus, Ga. — Tel. 3-1505

SEND YOUR PORTRAIT
So They May See You Every Day!
This is the time to spend wisely. A DUPONT photo costs no more . . . but the quality of our work requires time and care.
SIT NOW FOR YOUR XMAS PORTRAIT
"Our Prices Are Within Reach of All"
STUDIO HOURS: 1 P. M. UNTIL 9:30 P. M., E. W. T.
SUNDAYS 2 to 6 P. M.

Rail People Have High Bond Average

A War Bond investment of $34.15 per employee for the period September 25 to October 25 was the report of the Rail Transportation Branch of the Supply Division at Fort Benning, under the supervision of Captain Charles W. McKeown.

The total purchases of $574.70 by the 18 transportation office members was the result of a contest conceived by civilian employee Vivian Foster. The office was divided into two teams which competed against one another in the purchase of these securities.

Civilian employees participating included Oscar Nance, Grady G. Sullivan, Jesse E. Stewart, Pearl Webb, Mary Ann Bolton, Bettie Folks, Pauline Phelps, Helen Schoennaker, Francis Willingham, Alberta Revell, Norma Rundus, and Vivian Foster.

KIRVEN'S

If it's Sporty it's Splendid

GIFT TO MAKE A HIT . . .
Sports-Minded JUMPERS
You'll take a gift-idea right out of her heart . . . if you give her something sporty like this Jumper. Solid rayon flannel in Cherry, Gold, Green . . . or grey striped flannel. Sizes 9 to 17; 12 to 18.
9.98
others 7.98

SPLENDID GESTURE . . .
Sporty BLOUSES
You're sure to pick a "splendid" gift . . . if it's sporty. And what could be sportier than a neat, trim blouse . . . White, Blue, Pink in sizes 32 to 38. The nifty bow will win her heart, too.
3.98

MAIL GIFTS BEFORE DEC. 10th

SPORTS SHOP
KIRVEN'S SECOND FLOOR

FORT BENNING BAYONET

The Benning Bayonet is published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorial represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LED GER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

Member of Fort Ben ning Press Association

*All roads lead to Rome. I won't argue that. But unfortunately all the roads are mined.
—General Sir Harold Alexander, CO, Allied Ground Forces in Italy.

Yas, Thas What Sodjers Think Of

Do ya know whutsodjers think aboot before going overseas?

Ya think about the last time ya got seasick... and you asked somebody to please conk ya on the head wit an oar! Ya wonder whut tha guys in combat is doin' now...Ya wonder if they is any snakes or worms in Europe!...Ya wonder if there'll be any likker left when ya come home!!!...

Ya think aboot yer wife,..will she stay nice 'n cute or wil she git big, and stick out all over like a ocean mine?

Ya wonder iffen tha war wil end before yau make corporal...Ya wonder if they was kiddin' when they said yer PFC rating is only temporary!!!...

Ya wonder why they ain't more WAC's in tha Army...Ya wonder when ta'll put yer arm around a real evenin' kown again...

Ya wonder iffen yer nephew'll get transferred to your outfit!!!...Jeez!!...It seems only last week when ya was changin' diapers on him... Ya think it would be good if ya was wearin' glasses then, heh, heh...And now he's grown up!!...He tole his draft board two years ago that he was workin' in a bomb factory...Ya wonder whut they said to him when they found out he was workin' in a place what made them little old stink-bombs!!!?...

Ya wonder why some guys are so conceited they think they can win this war without tha Wac's...or anybody else...They are a worse drag than sand bags in a balliioon!!!

Ya wonder aboot yer wiffee again...Ya hope she won't always look like a elephant standing on its hindlegs!...Ya wonder should ya shoot craps next payday?...Whut can ya lose???..50 clams...Thas all...Ya think you'll lose only five clams and quit...Ya know yau is as wrong as Hitler and'll mussup!!

Yawonder what ya'd dowith all tha dough if ya was a 2nd Looey...Ya think it would be nice to be a Looey...Then when six p. m. came around...Ya'd git in somebody's car...and just as ya approach tha main gate ya could say boy o' boy!!...Just one more salute, and we can beat it likell fer home!!

Ya think about tha last hike ya made...Ya wonder what kind of a mirage it was that made that sewer ya passed smell like a hamboig joint?!.

Ya wonder if they'll have reveille in combat???..Ya wonder iffen ya'll geta whift of them wine cellars?...Ya' wonder if yer gonna be scared much?..Ya wonder where ya'll be next Christmas!...Ya wonder iffen ya'll ever figger that doggone income tax again???..

Ya wonder why yer mom'n dad think Mr. Roosevelt is responsible fer you being in tha Infintry...Ya think ya'll remind Mom that it's like tha time ya asked her why she married dad...and she sez...Oh, yer father was just around a lot then...And no matter what political outfit they is in...Ya sort of glow with a warm feeling when ya think of the terrific faith of all the mothers of yer buddies!!..

Ya get to thinkin' aboot tha little romances ya had...why in tha dickens did ya give that little chick in Nobs Creek yer ring???...Yer wife'll hit ya like tha recoil of a seventy-five whin she finds it out...and don't worry, she will!!..

Ya think of tha parytroopers and wonder whut'd happen iffen they landed on a greenhouse...They would get tha break of a lifetime ...heh, heh,...I'm sorry...But I can't resist tellin' ya they would look as surprised as iffen they saw a armored outfit guy wearin' high boots!!...

Ya wonder what change yer gonna have to write letters overseas...maybe yous'll run outta regular writin paper...oh, well...Tha Supply Sgt. should always have some paper around and then ya can sell or trade yer fountain pen maybe!!...Tsk, Tsk.

Ya hope if ya gets poison ivy...It's restricted to yer hands only!!..Ya think of yer wife again ...Why didn't she have any dough when yau married her?..Awww, she's tha best chick in tha world, dough or no...Ya think ya better clean out year billfodder & git rid of them old addresses...Ya'll just keep one old one fer sentiment sake...heh, heh, heh, heh.....

Cpl. Geo. Johnston,
22nd Co., 1st. STR.

Kept Military Secrets Are Security Weapons

The subject of secret weapons has been a topic of great interest during the course of the tremendous struggle now raging around the world.

Much has been said and published dealing with this matter since pre-Pearl Harbor days.

But had you realized that little drops of information which you could give away—with no intention whatever of imparting vital information—could be picked up by enemy agents, pieced together with other small bits of data similarly collected, and used as secret weapons against our forces?

Such is the fact. One can never be sure where the spoken or written word will go in its long travels. The only secret is the one that is never told.

It is also true that when we keep absolutely safe all of the Army's secrets which are entrusted to our care, we aid in the construction of a powerful secret weapon—the weapon of security.

The outstanding victories of this world struggle, increasing in fury each day on more than a half hundred battlefronts, have been accompanied by secrecy concerning movements, plans, and operations.

A recent government publication—in emphasis of the urgent necessity for making full use of the elements of surprise and secrecy—lists four principal causes of indiscretions: "Conceit, Faith, Enthusiasm, and Ignorance".

Continuing, this publication says:

"Conceit. Most men will 'hand out a line' to impress a woman. When you hand out yours, be sure it isn't a military secret. Be sure the line doesn't make a noose that fits around Uncle Sam's neck.

Faith. Personal secrets are yours to share with whom you please. Those that belong to the Armed Forces are not. The more people who know a secret, the less chance there is of its ever being kept.

"Enthusiasm. Everyone interested in his job finds it hard not to talk about it. When you're about to go into action, it's even more difficult. That is when you are 'easy pickings' for the clever enemy operative.

"Ignorance. Enemy agents do not go around looking like old style movie villains and vamps. They are hard working, meticulous investigators who can put bits of information together wherever ignorant people drop them."

All Great Men Meet With Failure

This is the advice of failure—advice that may seem out of place here in The Infantry School where every will and effort is bent in the direction of success. And yet, because most men have known or will know failure intimately, these words are passed on to all officer candidates.

Our publications and editorials generally relate ways of becoming successful here at school—generally speak of what is expected during the courses and after their successful completion. This is no exception only this article speaks of what is expected should the course not be successfully completed; for just as the school has a "code" for success so does it expect certain ethical reactions to failure.

The most natural thing in the world for a man to do is to attempt to justify his inability to "measure up" to certain standards—how honest he is in this self-justification is the difference between a successful failure and an out and out "washout." There have been men who felt it necessary to make untrue and sometimes ridiculous statements about being dismissed from the school—these men and their excuses are not "real" and they do an injustice not only to the best Officer Candidate School in the country but also to their Army and themselves.

Perhaps you're wondering how I know so much about failure—well I'm one of those fellows who didn't "measure up"—there are a lot of us. Some of us tried,' some just hoped, others didn't give a darn but all of us had one thing in common, namely, we lacked some important ability or characteristic that the school deemed necessary for successful leadership. A soldier's value, however, doesn't suddenly become nil after a failure—soldiers win wars and I daresay that many of our present leaders who play great roles in this conflict have rolled the dice with failure—men who have the guts to admit and realize their mistakes are men who will stand up beside the successful leader and fight the good fight.

Let there be no man who had the honor of being considered "officer material" ever to lower or spot that honor by deliberately misplacing the cause behind his failing—do not besmirch your Army, self or The Infantry School for a few thoughtless words. Nothing is so completely unconvincing as such statements as "I washed-out because my T. O. didn't like the way I parted my hair"—yet I have heard men make such remarks. These men are really failures in every sense of the word.

How much of a man you are—how truthful you are with yourself is what makes your failure important or unimportant. It is very easy to say honestly and directly "I didn't meet the standards." You'll find yourself a better soldier through saying those words. Longfellow wisely advises us thusly: "Not enjoyment and not sorrow is our destined end or way—But to act that each tomorrow find us further than today." So no matter when or where you may fail—whether it be before you're commissioned or afterwards—remember the way you account for that failure may mean the difference between "failing successfully" or just plain failing.

—Anonymous
—3d STR

The privilege of voting carries with it the responsibility to use it.

"Small Vote Expected," says the paper. A small vote means small caring. Smaller caring cannot lead to a great future.

We speak of "a government of laws, not of men." But the fact is that the physical courage, mental breadth and moral character of our leaders makes all the difference between order and chaos.

The fundamental issue of today isn't: "Who is going to hold office for the next two years?" It's: "Who's going to decide the whole future of mankind?"

Democracy, as has often been said, substitutes the counting of heads for the breaking of heads. But nothing can be substituted for using our heads to see where we are headed

USO Presents—

MUSICOLOGIST W HO SAYS NERO DIDN'T FIDDLE WHILE RO ME BURNED—NO FIDDLE

Best bet of the week at the USO's will be an exhibition tonight at the Phenix City USO by Musicologist J. Phillips-Robertson...The program will be built around ancient song and instrumental music.

Mr. Phillips-Robertson quotes the old saying about Nero's fiddling while Rome burned but adds that Rome burned in 64 A. D., and the first violin appeared about 1550...Therefore, he says, if Nero fiddled at all it must have been on some other instrument.

His lecture-demonstration is given in costumes appropriate to the archaic instrument he plays ...He has reconstructed harps, horns, fiddles, flutes and drums and makes them tell their own thrilling stories about our musical ancestry in his unique program.

This program of the music of the early civilizations in Syria, Palestine and Egypt will be in the Phenix City USO tonight at 9 p. m. (EWT).

* * *

Thousands of servicemen and women have already been served by the new USO-Travelers' Aid Troops-in-Tranist Lounge located at 516 12th Street, Columbus, and the "welcome mat" will stay out for the duration...Facilities are provided for reading, writing, resting, cleaning and freshening up, telephoning and checking parcels and baggage ...Free coffee and doughnuts are served.

* * *

Ping pong tournaments are held every Saturday at 6 p. m. (EWT) in the auditorium at Phenix City USO, Mrs. Kathleen Barrow, program director, announces.

* * *

The Army-Navy YMCA-USO on 11th Street between Broad and Front Streets in Columbus is sponsoring a "USO Photo Studio," under the direction of Corporal Joseph L. De Laney of the Receiving Company of The Parachute School at Fort Benning...Featured are pictures of service men, Christmas photo cards and folders and the new famous photographs which are taken while the soldier makes a recording.

The Phenix City USO last night inaugurated a new feature which should prove successful . . . The first group of Army clubbed together to use the kitchen facilities at the club and prepared their own dinner.

Other soldiers' wives who might want to do the same thing may arrange to use the USO kitchen by calling Mrs. Kathleen Barrow, program director, at Columbus 3-2256.

This Khaki'd World—

BY PVT. G. I. GRIPE

176th Infantry Spirit carried story last week asking for descendants of famous Americans to get in touch with the paper. Hey, fellers, one of our ancestors was a pirate which went and got himself strung up from the yardarm—would that entitle us to enter? He was the son of an old gal that got burned in the witchcraft epidemic up in New England. That made him the biggest son of a witch in our whole family.

Well, it's just an innocent little Halloween joke...

They say over in the 176th that John W. Clark went to Atlanta and couldn't remember the hotel he was staying in. Also they're looking for the culprits over in Co. B who broke an axe. Let us all in on the yarn, fellers.

Pvt. First Class Keitel says he heard Frank Sinatra for the first time the other nite—and he swooned but doggone it, he could still hear him. Aw, you're just jealous, Sheldon.

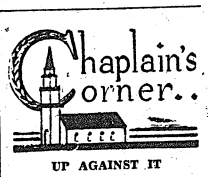
They're calling Sgt. Bates of DEML the WAC's Pin-Up Boy No. 1 these days.

Just got in "Alligator", published by the 124th Infantry, now at Fort Jackson, S. C. Are those boys modest—subhead on the title of "Alligator" reads "The Best Paper In the World for the 124th Infantry." First camp or regimental paper we ever saw that didn't claim to be very best in world.

"Scoop" O'Connor, who runs a column in the paper, recounts one that ought to be relished by every G. I. guy in his company had just received two thin slices of meat in the chowline. Looking at the cook, he said, "Who cut that?" The cook replied he did. "Well," said the G. I. "You damned near missed, didn't you?"

In case you read this, Mess Sgt. Jackson, it doesn't apply to you or any of your boys.

Corp. Tabor was looking all over hell's half acre Monday a. m. for his field cap. He was sure he had stuffed it into his shirt but it was nowhere to be found. He had lost a cap just a few days earlier. He was pretty mad. Suddenly he began to squirm, writhe—felt below belt line, and there the durned thing was. . . . . .



Headline in "Pine-Bur" says "Dental Clinic Staff Pulls Together to Make Life Palatable for HC GIs." Yep, but if they pull too much, too many and too often—they'll sure fix it so the GIs can't chew. . .

The machine age, which has also become the political machine age, is now setting up social machinery too. In time, perhaps, the whole course of life, could be made mechanical. But are we fighting for freedom simply to become cogs in a machine?

Do we bring up our children to fit into place in the world or to change the world and make it a fit place for their children?

Because some people have just wanted to get on in life without regard for others there are others now just wanting to get even.

Chaplain's Corner..

UP AGAINST IT

Chaplain F. M. Thompson

"All these things are against me," was the lament of the old patriarch, Jacob. Today a like cry may be heard from multitudes. Savings swept away, business ruined, occupation gone, their portion storm and earthquake. No Pollyanna attitude will change this stark, grim truth. "All things are against me."

No, not all things. The Nation's health bill is being lowered. We are living more wholesome lives. The church has increased its membership over a million in the last year. We are finding some real values among the debris. The enduring satisfactions of life are being discovered.

Things, after all, were not against Jacob but for him. The future was never more rosy than when it looked the darkest. And what was true in the life of Jacob will be true in the life of the overwhelming majority. It will always be better than it seems. The supreme thing is to carry on.

I like the philosophy of the frog the farmer dished up out of the watering trough in the early morning. The frog to his dismay found himself in a milk can with the lid clamped down. There were two of them. But one swore that he had not been fashioned to make his living in that kind of an environment. So he turned up his toes and gently died. The other one said that it made little difference where he was put. So he began to struggle, kick and sputter.

"Then with joy too great to utter
He found he'd churned a chunk of butter.
And climbing on this chunk of grease
He floated around with the greatest ease."

Moral—

"When times are hard, no trade in town,
Don't get discouraged and go down,
But kick away, no murmur utter;
Another kick may bring the butter."

The only irreparable loss in this world is the loss of courage.

Unselfish people may get down to nothing in their funds. But that never seems to get them down.

We speak of "curbing the rapacity of people." Why not, for a change, set out to cure it—starting with ourselves?

The battle against moral breakdown at home is no less urgent than the battle to break through in Europe.

Kats Kadlic, a great passer, kicker and field general was quarterback on those powerful Princeton teams of the middle 30's. His backfield mates were Pepper Constable, Gerry LeVan and Homer Spoffard.

Kay Says—

HALLOWE'EN JUST ISN'T WHAT IT USED TO BE WH EN SHE WAS YOUNGER

Escorting small fry to a Halloween party always brings back the days when Halloween was a big event in my life. Not that I had the elaborate costumes some of the modern-day youngsters sport. If memory serves me right, my favorite costume—or my mother's idea of an economical little number, perhaps—was an old sheet. Shrouded in that, I always thought I made a pretty respectable appearing ghost. In fact, after prowling about on a dark night scaring people, I sometimes got so frightened myself I ran for sanctuary.

* * *

Times have changed from the long-ago days when I played Halloween pranks, however. At least, I don't see the soaped and waxed windows which used to be my special joy as a youngster. Nor do the boys go in for those robust sports so popular before modern plumbing made its appearance. Which reminds me that I'd better, after this is written, take down the infant's moveabe swing and see that the car is safely ensconced in the garage. No use making temptation too alluring.

* * *

There was one Halloween night, I remember, when some well-meaning adult decided to hold our attention with stories. They were ghost stories of the first water, especially one which ended up in a weird moaning "who has my golden arm." For weeks after that delightful episode mother had to leave a night-light in the room. I wasn't taking any chances of someone sneaking up on me in the dark and accusing me of the macabre theft.

Another custom' not too deeply ingrained in Fort Benning army children is that of ringing doorbells and demanding "handouts." There are a few half-hearted visitors, thinly disguised, who know from other visits and the generosity of our own pawn to destiny that there is a good chance of finding a full cooky jar. But the "hand-out" habit hasn't reached the heights it has in some communities.

* * *

In Denver, for example, one makes preparations well in advance for Halloween. The stores are well supplied with assorted delicacies, and one holds earnest conversations with one's grocer as to how many can be expected, what the children may prefer, and how far a certain bag of cookies or box of candy may be expected to stretch. From 5 p. m. on the night of Halloween, until the small hours, there is an almost uninterrupted procession to the homes in more prosperous sections of the city, unending cries of "hand-out", and frequent threats of dire consequences if none is obtainable. Woe betide the home-owner who leaves his home unlighted and unguarded.

* * *

From sixty to seventy-five hand-outs is considered an average evening. Where the youngsters come from one never knows; many of them, I imagine, from the poorer neighborhoods. Nor can your seventy-five contributions consist of a lowly gingersnap or the common variety of apple. They had bettër be something good, or life during the next week will be spent cleaning the yard and washing soap off windows.

All this, of course, was in prewar days. Perhaps the custom has been frowned upon since rationing began and prices have leaped. It may be one of those customs already relegated to the past, along with the firecrackers which preceded a safe-and-sane Fourth of July. If so, much wear and tear on the nerves and pocketbooks of householders will be avoided. But think of the fun thousands of youngsters are going to miss.

The Ol' Sarge Says—

YOU CAN'T GIVE C OMMANDS IN ENGLISH LANG UAGE AND SUCCEED

BY SGT. JAMES TUITE
300th Inf., The Infantry School

We thought we understood pure unadulterated English when we joined up with this Army, but it didn't take long to find out how wrong we were. Now we know that to get along you've got to be able to speak in such a way that nobody understands you before anyone does understand you.

The longer you're in, the worse it gets. Just for an example let's take the case of Joe Snerd and follow his meteoric rise from private to first sergeant. Joe is an ordinary sort of guy when he comes in the Army, just like you and us.

So in his first few days (when he thinks some corporal is God Himself and He salutes Pfc's) they let Joe drill a squad. He looks like good non-com material because he has a larger stack of superman books and laughs at the Topkick's jokes. Joe goes out before the squad and in clear ringing tones, snaps out commands in a perfectly understandable voice.

* * *

That is when Joe learns about life. He finds out that there is no such command as "Forward March" and "By the right flank, March." Just like being told that there is no Santa Claus, or that the PX is closed for inventory, this almost breaks Joe's heart, but he holds up under the strain and decides he will adjust himself to the Army way.

* * *

After six weeks or more of singing "Pistol Packin' Momma" while gargling, and imitating the calls of the beasts of the jungles, Joe is ready to try his luck again. He goes out on the drill field with a squad and puts them through their paces.

"Hooerd Hunngh", roars Joe, and the squad begins to march. The face of the sergeant lights up, for Joe has made the grade. He will become a corporal, because he can no longer speak like a human being. The sergeant glows swith ecstacy as Joe continues to drill the squad.

"Bthrat Hank Hunngh", cries Joe and the squad does a flank movement to the right.

"Thrip Hunngh", he commands, and they go to the rear.

"Lef sholop Haaugh", yells Joe, and their rifles go over to the left shoulder.

* * *

As the months go on, Joe becomes more and more less understandable until he finally becomes a first sergeant. Then he has reached the peak of proficiency. Merely by shouting "Colmite Hnnnnn" his company can do a column right, and when he says "Zent Humph" they come to present arms.

If Joe had gone to O.C.S. he would have had to mend his ways. For some unknown reasons, First and Second Looies can be understood when they give commands. Captains can be only partly understood, while Battalion Commanders can be as unintelligible as First Sergeants.

For instance, you may have heard your battalion commander during a parade give the command:

"Colmof ploons frmite, riteploon colmrite hunnnngh", which of course translated means "Column of platoons from the right, right platoon, column right, march." Nobody ever knows what he's saying, but they do it anyway, because they rehearsed it in the morning.

G. I. Theater

The soldier show, "Rest Easy," which was to be presented by the 176th Infantry has been shelved temporarily. . . . Ditto "Sunday Serenades." . . . Bands around and about the post have too many previous commitments.

The Columbus Civic Theatre is still on the lookout for talent for their forthcoming 'revusical' . . . so if you can act, dance, sing or strip drop down to the Chase Playhouse, Tenth street and Third avenue. . . . Incidentally S-Sgt Carl F. Neu has withdrawn as production chief and the chore is now in the hands of Miss Janice Oettinger of the Post Engineer's office and Lt. Mortimer Dank of the Post Public Relations office.

Big News of the Week!!! The forming of the ASTP Radio Workshop which will serve as a clearing house for talent to be used to produce programs for their forthcoming series of air-shows. . . . The SSO of ASTP Hqs. under the supervision of Major John G. Macfarlane plan to present these programs from Service Club No. 3 in the heart of the Harmony Church Area, relayed to WDAK. Columbus, a Blue and Mutual Network station. . . . Men with radio experience are requested to contact Sgt. John Naylor—Phone 6121.

Last week the Special Service Staff of the 7th Armored Division staged a Night Club dance at Service Club No. 2 in Sand Hill.

They called the simulated bistro, "Seventh Heaven." . . . Talent was tops what with the Reception Center Band and Chorus being recruited for the affair. . . . A whale of a time was had by all.

Two new USO Camp Shows have been booked to play the Benning circuit. . . . "It's A Pleasure" will pull in Nov. 16th for a seven-day stay. . . . "Hold Tight" comes in Dec. 21st and will tour for six days. . . . These shows will play indoors.

Attention Musicians!!! — It is not too late to join the reorganized Columbus Symphony Orchestra. They hold forth every Monday evening at the Ninth Street USO Club in Columbus. This orchestra has done marvelous work in the past and has hopes of doing even bigger and better things this season.

By Cpl. E. B. Sturmer

Baker Village News

MRS. FRANCES LUTZ

The regular monthly meeting of the Mother's Club will be held Friday morning Nov. 5 at 10:30 (E. W. T.) in the Recreation room. Every mother is requested to attend.

A child's light tan coat is lost and anyone knowing anything about it contact Mrs. Curtis Herbert at 35C. A reward will be given for its return.

BINGO

The regularly scheduled Bingo will be held in the Auditorium Saturday, Nov. 6, at 8 o'clock (E. W. T.). Everyone is invited to attend.

Sgt. and Mrs. R. F. Gill are the proud parents of a son born Nov. 1.

ENLISTED MEN'S DANCE

Committees and plans for the Enlisted Men's Dance for Saturday, Nov. 13, are under way and everyone is urged to reserve this date on the calendar.

NEWCOMERS

We extend a most hearty welcome to the following newcomers: Lt. and Mrs. Richard L. Thomas, 126 Clifton; Lt. and Mrs. George R. Grant, 24 Keating; Lt. and Mrs. Harold L. Lawson, 110 Fox; Lt. and Mrs. Boyd T. Wilson, 12 Court; Lt. and Mrs. Dean W. Clapsaddle, 10 Barry; St. Sgt. and Mrs. W. G. Wooten, 105B; St. Sgt. and Mrs. Wm. C. Younger, 79B; Tech. Sgt. and Mrs. Ray T. Horwath, 48A; St. Sgt. and Mrs. George Stinson, 3B; Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Richardson, 96H; Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Connell, 132C; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Robinson, 68H; Mr. and Mrs. Clinton R. Peacock, 69G.

Three Arts Tickets To Go On Sale At Officers Club

Tickets to the Three Arts League concerts may be secured at the Officers' Club on Friday through Mrs. Bass Lewis, president of the organization, and Mrs. Edgar Bullock, membership chairman.

The first concert will be given on November 18 by James Melton, Georgia tenor, who made a sensational debut at the Metropolitan last winter. The series will also include a concert by Helen Howe, solo dramatist, on December 10; one by Draper and Adler, famed tap dancer and harmonica player, on January 11, and will conclude with a concert by Sanroma, pianist, on February 14.

All concerts will be held at the Jordan high school auditorium.

Further details may be secured from Mrs. Lewis or Mrs. Bullock, who will be at the Officers' Club on Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

PERFECT RECORD

Another perfect record was registered by the Second Battalion of the 300th Infantry which qualified every one of the 63 men sent out to the known distance M-1 range of The Infantry School. The range contingent of the Second Battalion, which received its preparatory marksmanship instruction from Lt. Robert P. Post of Co. E, included nine experts, 17 sharpshooters.

Levy-Morton Co.

—6—

Repairs to Electrical Apparatus, Bed Lamps

—6—

REPAIRS — DIAL 3-6391

1026—13TH STREET

Myra's Beauty Shop

Opening under new management MONDAY, SEPT. 27th.

305 Murrah Bldg.

Phone 3-1097

Elevator Service

CALIFORNIA AND NEW YORK WINES

WINERY BOTTLED

For Home Use

PORT — SHERRY — MUSCATEL

BURGUNDY — SAUTERNE

$1.00 to $1.75

A BOTTLE

City Pharmacy

14—13th Street

Just Off Broad — Opp. Waverly Hotel

An Army Wife Shops In Columbus

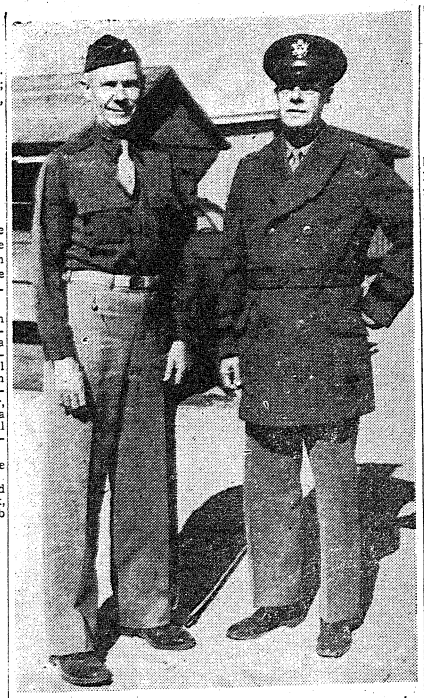
By Phyllis

When you're shopping or meandering about the town of Columbus do you often wish for a cozy and clean place in which to sip a soda or a "coke," or have an appetizing luncheon. If you're new in town, I'll tell you where to go for snacks of every sort. For you, as well as old-timers, the perfect place is the CITY PHARMACY, directly across the street from the Waverly Hotel. Quiet and neat, with extra-quick service, by attractive waitresses, luncheonette section serves well-prepared food, ranging from toasted cheese sandwiches to a luncheon complete from consomme to dessert and coffee. One of the many thoughtful features here is the popular Shopper's Tea, served every afternoon for those in need of a bit of refreshment. After enjoying your snack, I suggest you meander a bit and see all the other interesting displays of the many sections of this most popular complete pharmacy in Columbus.

—V—

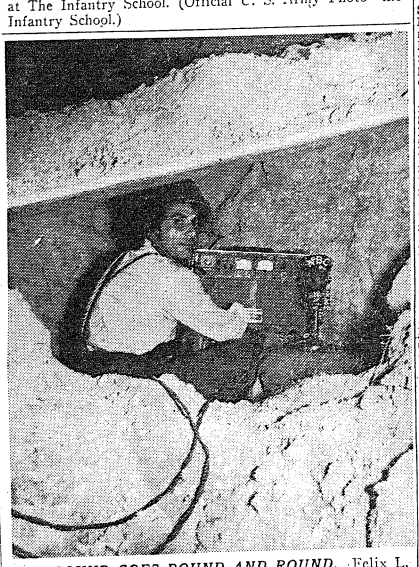
Corduroy, with all its appealing colors, is still one of the most practical and most popular materials used for children's wear. The ever practical department store, namely SEARS, ROEBUCK AND COMPANY, is recommending corduroy dresses and trousers for active children between the ages of five and fifteen. Wearing corduroy frocks young girls have an attractive appearance plus an outfit which will withstand every sort of wear and tear. The dresses at Sears are, for the most part, designed to do double duty. By that I mean, they're ideal for play and yet most suitable for parties, Sunday school classes and school. Maroon, pine green, and navy blue frocks for the girls match the trousers and jackets for boys. So if you have both boys and girls, your clothing problems are pretty much solved for you right now. You'll be delighted, too, with the low price tags on each of these garments displayed on the main floor of Sears, Roebuck and Company.

—V—



Military families will fill the air with huzzahs when they see the new Military Post dedicated to them by the J. A. KIRVEN COMPANY. This section is located in the Men's Shop on the 12th Street side of the store. Here is an appropriately decorated display brimming over with articles designed to please all service men. Shirts, ties, scarves, hosiery, dog tags, sweaters, gloves, shaving kits, junior size duffle bags, comb and brush sets and so on . . . ad infinitum. Each piece of merchandise is correct as authorized by army officials, so you can't possibly purchase anything which will be inappropriate. You'd best keep in mind, however, the mailing deadline for guaranteed Christmas delivery is the 10th of December. Whether you plan to give an inexpensive, but practical knick-knack, or a more elaborate gift or two, you'll see just what you want at Kirven's new Military Post.

—V—



After studying your face in the mirror these days are you completely satisfied that your complexion and makeup is perfect enough for active winter days ahead? If, there is, perhaps, a bit of doubt in your mind, be assured that once you visit the renowned shop of KAYSER-LILIENTHAL, INC., you will harbor no further beauty worries. For here is a most complete and attractive display of all Germaine Monteil beauty products to suit every type coloring and every complexion. Lotions, creams, and makeup equipment for definite repair work or a final beautifying touch to an already radiant appearance. When selecting the proper shade of powder, lipstick, rouge, foundation creams and lotions, you'll have the complete co-operation of counsellors skilled in the intricate and age-old ways of beauty. To add the final glamorous touch to your "new" person, Kayser-Lilienthal's has the attractively bottled perfumes and colognes of Germaine Monteil.

—V—

Masterpieces to magnetize slim ankles are yours to try on and purchase with the utter confidence that your footwear is the best available. MILLER-TAYLOR masterpieces are made only of the finest kid leathers, suedes, and other attractively durable fabrics. Each step of building each pair of shoes is painstakingly handled by mastercraftsmen, determined to obtain perfection. Of course, you really don't have to take just my word for this . . . inspecting any pair of shoes from the Miller-Taylor Shoe Company will positively prove my point. Walking shoes with comfortable low or medium heels are certain to give your feet the utmost support and smart, sporty appearance. Other footwear, equally smart, includes suedes and smooth kid slippers for wear with dressy clothes and play shoes for more active moments. Whatever type new shoes you plan to own, you'll be proud and completely satisfied if you shop for them at Miller-Taylor's.

MAJ. GEN. HENRY CONGER PRATT (right) commanding general of the Antilles Department is shown with Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of The Infantry School, during the former tour of the School's installations last week. Gen. Conger was enthusiastic about the battle realism that has become a part of the course of instruction at The Infantry School. (Official U. S. Army Photo—the Infantry School.)

THE SOUND GOES ROUND AND ROUND. Felix L. Ghirlando of the National Broadcasting Company's crew of radio technicians is shown in an especially prepared dugout where he handled the sound controls of last Sunday's Army Hour Broadcast from The Infantry School. The broadcast which involved the firing of howitzers as well as small arms, originated at Holliday Hill and Hook range. Mr. Ghirlando was moved up close to the impact area to catch the full effects of the explosions. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

Classification Team Interviews ASF EM's

Ten Army classification assignment experts from the Fourth Service Command arrived at Fort Benning Monday to interview all enlisted personnel in the Army Service Forces at the post to determine if they are properly assigned so as to fully utilize their individual skills and potentialities and to locate critically needed specialists.

The classification assignment team was composed of two officers and eight enlisted men. This is a part of a survey of all assignments of military personnel at Army Service Force posts in the Fourth Service Command, and is an integral part in placing all enlisted men in positions which will use to the full their actual and potential skills, Captain Robert Weiland, post classification officer, said. It is part of the Army's conservation of manpower program, he added.

Enlisted men were interviewed by organizations, and the interviews themselves were conducted by the enlisted men of the team assisted by selected classification personnel who aided in the verification of information on the Form 20 classification cards. Selection of the Fort Benning enlisted men to assist in interviewing was made by the unit commanders with the assistance of personnel officers, classification officers and the team officer.

As a result of the interviews, soldiers found now to be assigned to jobs on which they are best qualified may be reassigned locally, or in case of particular abilities which cannot be profitable and locally utilized, a report of the soldier's availability to transfer may be made to the service command and then to the War Department.

The team also sought any personnel skilled in the following critical military occupations: Diesel mechanic, construction carpenter, mail clerk, dental laboratory technician, meat and dairy inspector, engineman operating, key punch machine operator, tabulating machine operator, tabulating machine repairman, demolition specialist, high speed radio operator, low speed radio operator, fixed radio station operator, dental technician, medical laboratory technician, surgical technician, ground munition worker, aviation munition worker, hand and shoulder weapons mechanic, track vehicle chassis and light artillery mechanic.

Members of the Women's Army Corps at Fort Benning were interviewed individually this week by WAC classification assignment experts.

The program is to place each enlisted man in a position in which he can be of the greatest possible use to the war effort, Captain Weiland said.

TIS Student Is Just Back From Liberia

"Our ally Liberia, important base on the air route to the Middle East, has a small but formidable fighting force," declared Captain William D. Nabors of the 4th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, who recently returned from duty in that country to attend The Infantry School's Advanced Course.

"Liberian army units are organized, trained and equipped along American lines. Armed with Browning machine guns, B. A. R.'s and Garand rifles that we have taught them to use, the Liberians add a hard-hitting force to United Nations strength in West Africa. And the native soldiers' outlook and reactions hardly differ from those of our own doughboys."

Captain Nabors knows Liberian fighting men. In the United States Army since 1912, he instructed them from 1919 to 1925, and again from 1936 until '41.

In 1912 Nabors enlisted in the old 9th U. S. Cavalry and rose to three-striper by the time his three years were up. Transferring to the Medical Department, he served as sergeant 1st class—corresponding to staff today—with the AEF in France and Germany.

When World War I ended, Nabors was sent to Liberia as Infantry member on the staff of Brigadier General Benjamin O. Davis. Under an agreement reached with the United States in 1910, the African republic's army was to be patterned after our own. General Davis, who interrupted his supervision of the conversion job to fight in France, returned in 1919 with his staff of experienced Army instructors.

Nabors remained in Africa until 1925. Back in America, he became a captain in the New Jersey National Guard from 1931 'til 1936.

That year he again left as United States Military Adviser to Liberia. From his headquarters in Monrovia, Nabors, as a major on the Liberian staff, made endless rounds of army posts to supervise physical training and military education.

Captain Nabors was taking refresher studies at The Infantry School when the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor again plunged us into war. He shortly went back to Liberia, this time as Liaison Officer and psychological expert of the staff of the American task force establishing bases there.

Active in veterans' affairs between wars, Nabors is a Past Commander of the Orange Post, V. F. W. His wife, Mrs. N. E. Nabors, lives at 31 Webster Place, Orange, N. J.

CAPTAIN HORLOCK

Fred H. Horlock, for many years a resident of Gulfport, Miss., and soldier in its local National Guard, has been promoted to captain. Attached to the 4th Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel Robert H. Lord, he is attending the Officers Advanced Course at The Infantry School.

Don't fire too long from the same position. Move frequently so the enemy will not be able to attain accurate aim.

Be sure of your target before you shoot. Ineffective firing will reveal your position and draw enemy fire.

Southern Manor

JIMMY THOMAS

SINGING MASTER OF CEREMONIES

PRESENTS

2 SHOWS NIGHTLY

LILLIAN MURRAY — Comedian and Singer

MITZI — Dance Sensation

MORO and CHITA — International Dance Team

DON CORTEZ AND HIS ORCHESTRA

TEA DANCE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

4:30 to 6:30—No Cover—No Minimum Charge

ENJOY FAMOUS SOUTHERN MANOR STEAK and CHICKEN

Southern Manor

JUNCTION OPELIKA AND MONTGOMERY HIGHWAYS

Maurene, Violin To Be Heard In Chapel Sunday

Maurene Moon, concert violinist, will play the offertory for the 10:30 a. m. service at the Main Post Chapel Sunday.

Mrs. Moon is an artist of international reputation, having appeared in this country and in Europe with major orchestras. Mrs. Moon will play the slow movement from Wieniawski's concerto.

The choir will sing a Russian anthem by Tkack: "To Thee, We Sing". Many fine singers have recently joined the choir, including a good number of sopranos and altos from the WAC Detachments.

Mrs. J. O. Methoni is extending a cordial invitation to tenors and basses to join the choir, as they are badly needed.

The new Children's Choir meets for rehearsal Friday at 6:30 p. m., and sings every Sunday evening at the 9:30 services. Adult choir rehearsals are held on Fridays at 8 p. m. and the choir is already preparing the Christmas musical program, it was announced.

709th Tankers Prove Excellent Rifle Marksmen

They're generally wide and open spaces, but no deer and buffalo roam there. A red flag let's it be known that there's "danger" "men at work". When the bull's pan remains unmarked and the sight of "Maggie's drawers" appears afore its face, it's the men who see "red".

A man has to knock a number of bulls between the eyes in order to qualify as marksman or better. Quite a few men of this battalion have proved their ability under the guidance and supervision of their officers. The men have proved themselves quite "at home" on the ranges.

Two enlisted men who have qualified as experts with a near perfect score of 96 on the TSMG range are: T-5 Jesse E. Newman, Service, and T-5 Van D. Lucas, Hq. Co. An additional two hundred and nineteen men of the 709th Tank Battalion have qualified as "experts" on the .45 Cal. Thompson sub-machine gun range.

Others who showed exceptional ability on the .30 Cal. carbine ranges are: 1st Sgt. Kenneth P. Rountree, Co. "C", with a score of 181; and Sgt. Jack Latham, Co. "D", and Sgt. George W. Smith, Service Company, with a 176 of a possible 200 score. Thus far in course of this firing, seventeen additional men have qualified as sharpshooters, and thirty-seven men as marksmen.

Gifts - Antiques

Shop Early for Christmas!

ELLEN WORRALL

1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

B&C Mess No. 1 Wins First Again

For the second month in a row, the mess h all of the Bakers and Cooks School Number 1 has been cited as the most outstanding of those of the Fourth Service Command units at Fort Benning. Yesterday the unit received the award of the "E" flag for the month of October.

The B and C school number 1, on Vibbert Avenue won the award for the month of September also as a result of judging which takes place each month by Lt. Col. Alexander H. Veazey, post mess supervisor, and Capt. Arthur L. Anderson, post nutrition officer.

Mess oficers for the school are Capt. Robert J. Dickson, assistant commandant of the school, and Warrant Officer Daniel H. Siroty, chief of the military personnel branch of the Fourth Service Command Bakers and Cooks Schools. The mess sergeant is Staff Sgt. Howard L. Holcomb.

Bakers and Cooks School No. 2 for colored personnel which is under the immediate direction of Major Abraham Pfefer, assistant commander of the school, won the award during the months of July and August.

New Inside-out Shoe Comfortable, Is Water-resistant

Those new-type shoes with the leather inside-out will not only be more comfortable, but also more water-resistant, Col. Jack Meyer, post director of supply, said this week. Quartermaster has issued specifications for the chrome-vegetable retanned upper leather of the shoes, known as Type III, which were first announced last April.

The new shoes will replace all others, except special-purpose service shoes. They are made with the flesh side of the leather on the outside. This permits the absorption of more "dubbing," or waterproof dressing, and affords greater comfort to the wearer, who has the smooth, grain side of the leather toward his feet.

We Pay Highest Cash Dollar for Your Used Car

French Motor Co.

1415 1st Ave. Dial 8171

Heir-Raid

COMPILED BY T-5 H. BERGER

26-31 Oct., '43

Lt. Col and Mrs. Langdon A. Jackson, Hq. Dept., Inf. School, girl, born Oct. 26.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Lawrence A. West, 12th Co., 6th Trg. Regt., ASTP, girl, born Oct. 26.

T-4 and Mrs. Perley E. Thompkins, Sup. Det., Sup. Div., Sec. No. 1, boy Oct. 26.

Capt. and Mrs. Louis J. Christian, Co. A, 33rd Engr Bn., boy, Oct. 27.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Walter H. Ansley, Co. D, 300th Inf, boy, Oct. 28.

T-4 and Mrs. Harry Haines, Hq. Co., Regt. ISSC, boy, Oct. 24.

Captain and Mrs. Donald J. Anderson, 2nd Co., 1st STR, boy, Oct. 29.

1st Lt. and Mrs. James L. Lane, 813th Inf., Prcht. Regt., boy, Oct. 29.

Pvt. and Mrs. Edward J. Garrity, Post Military Police, girl Oct. 29.

Sgt. and Mrs. Arlo B. Robinson, 1st Acad. Co., PTS, girl, Oct. 29.

Corp. and Mrs. Harvey D. Bufkin, 21st Co., 1st STR, boy, Oct. 30.

Capt. and Mrs. John W. Tomlin, Hq 1st Bn., 176th Inf., girl, Oct. 30.

Sgt. and Mrs. Will O. Brogden, Co. C, 300th Inf., boy, born Oct. 31.

1st Lt. and Mrs. Richard O. Vallrath, 11th Co., 3rd STR, boy, Oct. 31.

DAY'S TAXI CO.

1401 1ST AVE.

DIAL 3-3611

Why Not Study

Gregg Shorthand Bookkeeping and Higher Accounting Touch Typewriting and other office work under the supervision of competent instructors.

ENROLL NOW

Day Students: $17.50 per mo. Morning or Afternoon students $12.50 per month, five days a week, Mondays through Fridays.

EEvening Studnts: $10.00 per month, Mondays and Thursdays only. 7 to 9 P. M. E. W. T.

Hours for day students: 10:30 A.M. to 1:30 P.M. then 2:30 to 4:00 P.M. Benning time.

Free catalog on request.

CO-EDUCATIONAL YOUTHS and ADULTS

Truman & Smith Institute

1029 Second Avenue

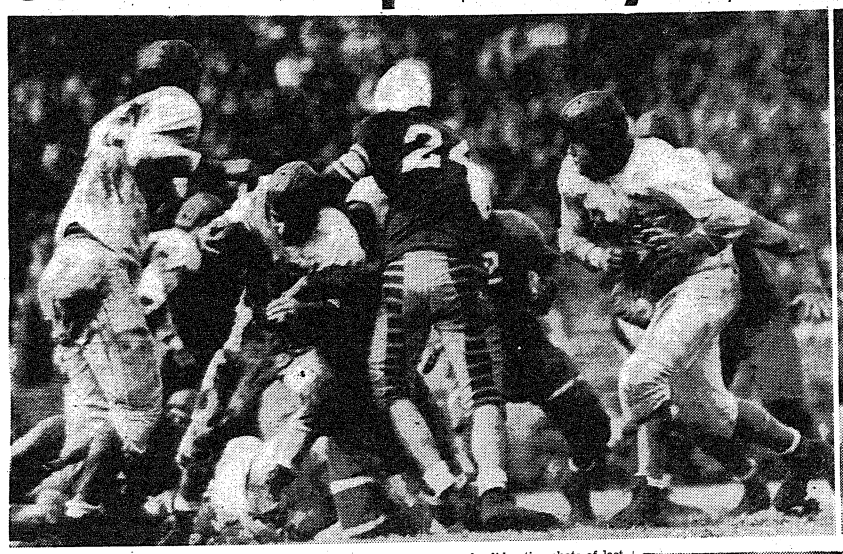
Columbus, Georgia

Dial 2-0914

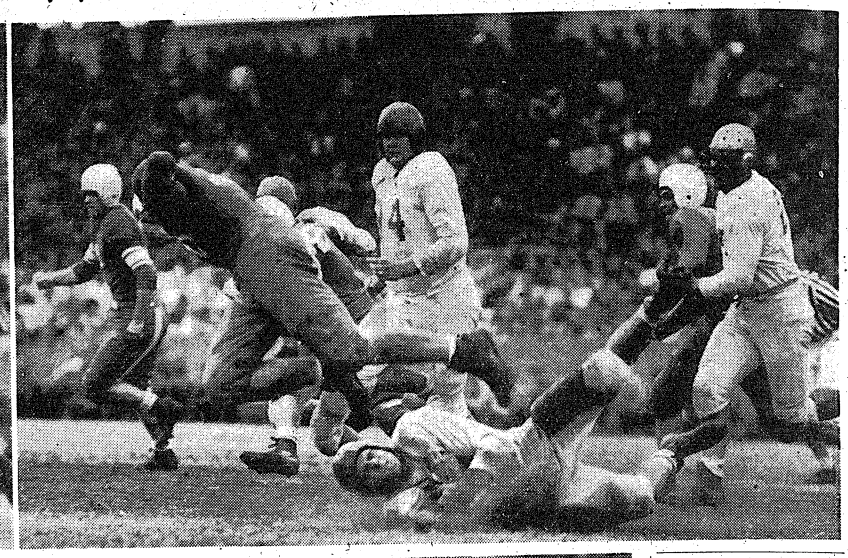
RIGHT DRESS—

CALLS FOR RICH'S UNIFORMS

Officers with eyes to the future want a uniform of comfort, exceptional fit, expert tailoring! Regulation uniforms of the finest material by America's outstanding uniform makers! Rich's Military Store has just what you need!

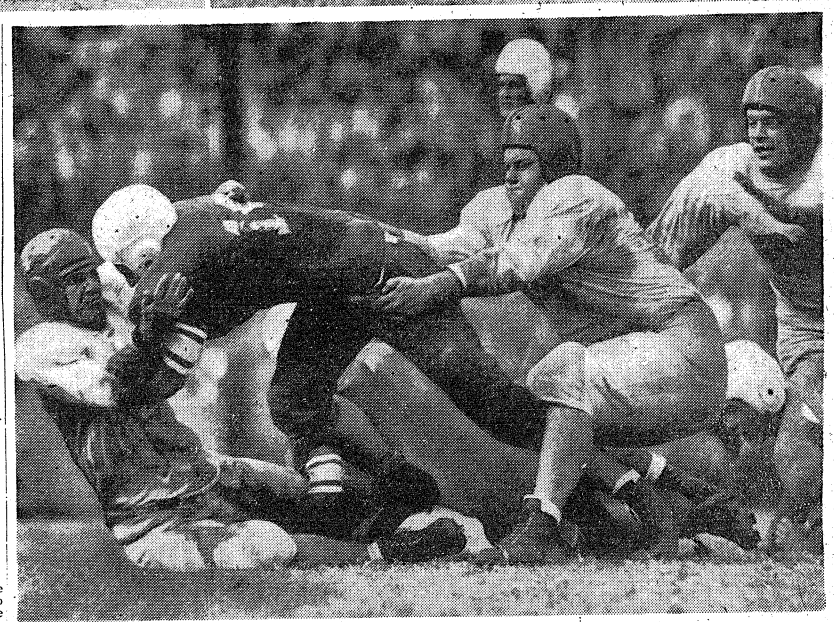


BLOUSE, Elastique, 19-ounce All-Wool 32.50



PANTS, Elastique, Army Regulations 12.00

RICH'S MILITARY STODES



1236 BROADWAY — COLUMBUS, GA.

Sabers Romp to Easy 47-7 Win Over Daniel Field Foe

ARMY FOOTBALL'S ROUGH AND TOUGH as evidenced by these three splendid action shots of last Sunday's 300th-Daniel Field fuss at Doughboy Stadium. Above is Johnny Predl, Flier fullback, gaining three yards through the Saber line and about to be halted by Vic Richardson (partly hidden) and Hank Weller (24) of the victors. Lomberger (22) and Busby (34) are the other Fliers shown. At the above right Tony Encher of the Sabers is about to hit the turf after a wide end sweep. Note the grimace on the face of the Flier on the ground who has partly missed the tackle. Encher was finally downed by the ever-present Mr. Busby (34) coming up in the center. Ike Peel is the Saber off to the left leading the interference. The picture at the immediate right is what we consider the finest football shot of the year. It might be entitled "Hey, come back here" since that's just about what Busby (the 235-pound Flier tackle) is saying as he tugs at the hips of Roger McCommons, new 300th back. The Saber speedster is about to fall into the arms of Sedlewicz while Hebson is the other Flier coming up. (All photos by Paul Stewart.)

Surprise Aerial Attack By 300th Too Much for Rival

DiBlasi, Mullin, and Allen Shine In Infantry School Eleven's Win

BY SGT. FORREST R. KYLE

The 300th Sabers very obligingly took to the airlanes last Sunday afternoon at Doughboy Stadium—perhaps just to make the visiting Daniel Field Fliers of Augusta, Ga., feel at home—and the results were so successful The Infantry School eleven overwhelmed the Fliers, 47 to 7.

Beaten their last two times out by Georgia Tech and the 176th Spirits, the Sabers bounced back Sunday before another capacity crowd of 18,000 fans with an impressive offensive exhibition. Their net yardage gained was an astonishing 519 yards, 274 by land and 245 by air.

The score might have been much larger had the 300th "varsity" not sat out the third period. The reserves were unable to register against the Fliers. The regulars scored three fast touchdowns in the first quarter, two in the second and two in the fourth.

ALLEN SHIFTS TO AIR

Ermal Allen, ex-Kentucky halfback, who has been the spearhead of the Sabers' ground attack all season, spent most of his time Sunday tossing passes. Twice he hurled touchdown aerials from midfield and once connected for a 40-yard tally.

Noah (Moon) Mullins, Saber halfback injured in the first quarter of the first game this season, roared back into action Sunday and the former Kentucky gridder snake-hipped his way to two touchdowns. Johnny Simcox was in top form, too, running smartly from the tailback slot and tossing one of the three touchdown passes which dropped into the hands of Sam DiBlasi, W. & L. back.

The charging Saber line bottled up the Fliers' running attack, which was built on the "T" formation, and heckled big Tony Di-Toma so much he could complete only six out of 24 passes. One to Johnny Lomberger, late of Northwestern, was completed on the Saber 14-yard line in the second quarter and set up the Fliers' only touchdown. A five-yard penalty moved the ball to the nine and after John Sylvester charged to the two, Johnny Roan plunged over. Bob Anderson added the seventh point.

PAY-DIRT EARLY

The Sabers received the opening kickoff and rolled 57 yards in eight running plays for a touchdown. Tennessee's Bill Nowling and Mullins powered the march with Mullins breaking off right tackle on a reverse for the last 10 yards.

It took three plays for the second tally after DiTomo punted out of bounds on the Saber 37. Nowling hit left tackle to the 42 and Allen skirted end to the 50. Allen then dropped back and hurled a long pass to DiBlasi, who speared the ball on the 25 and galloped across the goal.

The third Saber touchdown in the opening period was helped along when pass interference was called on Daniel Field on its 13-yard line. On the next play Simcox passed into the flat to DiBlasi, who scurried 10 yards to pay dirt.

The Sabers marched 60 yards for their first of two touchdowns in the second period with Allen eating up the yardage with a delayed buck on which the Fliers' guards were mouse-trapped time and again. Allen suddenly switched to the air and flipped a pass to Mullins, good to the Fliers' 11. On a double reverse Mullins scampered through right tackle, shook off two tackles and raced into the end zone.

Shortly thereafter Allen, from the Flier's 40-yard line, flipped a short screen pass to DiBlasi, who ran straight down the middle of the field for another touchdown.

PEEL SCORES

Ike Peel, Tennessee blocking back, produced the sixth counter, sliding off left guard from the one-yard line after Allen had passed to Allan Parr and Mullins to set the stage.

A few minutes later Allen wound up his passing display by sailing a 35-yard pass to Bute Simmons, who made a great catch on the 15-yard line and legged it to the goal.

Joe Routt booted three points after touchdown and Peel and Mullins each kicked one.

The Sabers had a 19-10 edge in first downs and completed 11 out of 18 passes. The 300th had to punt only twice; both were quick kicks, and averaged 55 yards.

Ted Coy, greatest of all Yale backs, played fullback for the Blue in 1909, key man of a backfield that included Al Howe, S. H. Philbin and F. J. Murphy. All but Murphy were named to Walter Camp's 1909 All-American team.

Elmer Layden, lightest of the Four Horsemen, was Rackne's fullback in 1924. The other three Horsemen were Harry Stuhldreher, Jim Crowley and Don Miller. Miller once ran 88, 60 and 30 yards respectively for touchdowns against Georgia Tech, just in case you are interested.

Gridiron Guesswork

By SGT. CARL NEU

Well, we managed to skid through last week's tough Pickings in fair shape. Two games ended in deadlock, and of the remaining 13 which went to a decision, we called the winner eleven times. Could do worse, you know. Anyway here are 'i tough nuts to crack for this weak-end. First named team is our choice.

Notre Dame vs. Army—"The game of the day" and it may go either way but we'll stick to the "luck of the Irish."

Penn vs. Navy—A hard one to judge. Quakers are due for a letdown, and Middies are due to rebound—but we still like Old Penn.

Dartmouth vs. Columbia—Indians have too much, including a couple of 1942 Lion stars.

Cornell vs. Penn State—The "in-and-out" Big Red should be "in" this week.

Yale vs. Brown—The Elis are not really as bad as their record.

Ohio State vs. Pitt—A couple of civvie teams with our vote going to the Buckeyes.

Illinois vs. Iowa—Just a guess.

Michigan vs. Indiana—The Wolverines will steam through an other one.

Purdue vs. Minnesota—This is the first time in many years that the Boilermakers have rated the nod.

Northwestern vs. Wisconsin—Easy for the Wildcats.

Great Lakes vs. Camp Grant—Hate to pick the Navy over the Army, but that's the way we see it.

Georgia Tech vs. L. S. U.—Prokop vs. Van Buren and Eddie has the best support so we like the Jackets.

North Carolina vs. South Carolina—Ought to be a battle-royal with the Tarheels by a touchdown.

Texas Aggie vs. S. M. U.—Despite their youth, A. and M. is too much for the Mustangs to handle.

Southern Cal. vs. San Diego Naval—The Rose Bowl-bound Trojans won't stumble here.

Spirits Travel To Augusta For Battle With Daniel Field

In preparation for this Saturday's clash with Daniel Field at Augusta, Coach Bud Pollock put his 176th Infantry Spirits through rugged sessions this week. The Spirits at present are tied for first place in The Infantry School Conference with the Sabers of the 300th Infantry.

Pollock shifted his first string backs around this week, using an ex-Dayton gridder, Joe Paluzzi, in the number one spot in place of Bob Waterfield. "You can never tell when we'll need a man to fill in for Bob," explained Pollock, "and Joe can handle the ball fairly well. He's still a bit clumsy, but should shape up in time."

Pat Ronzone, an ex-Indiana backfield star was also given a chance to win a starting berth at number four.

Yesterday, Coach Pollock devoted the afternoon to pass defense, as he realizes the potent arm of Tony Di Toma may cause the Spirits no end of bother. The duel between Waterfield and Di Toma should prove interesting.

Tigers Smash Rattlers In Benefit Game, 21-6

Undefeated Reception Center Wins Fourth Straight In Columbus Tilt

BY PFC. JOHN L. ROBINSON

The Reception Center Tigers continued their victory march Saturday night before an enthusiastic crowd of gridiron fans by toppling the Florida A. & M. Rattlers, 21-6, at Memorial Stadium.

The Tigers now have piled up an aggregate total of 106 points to their opponents' 12, and are determined to keep their slate clean as the season rolls along.

To open the game, the Tigers kicked off to the Rattler 8-yd. line where the ball was taken by Gant and returned to the 20. The Rattlers, unable to gain yardage, kicked to the RC 38. Williams, Tiger back, returned the kick 5-yds. to his own 43.

SCORE ON PASS

After an exchange of punts the Tigers were in possession on the Rattler 28-yd. stripe. N. Smith smashed over tackle for 17-yds., three line plays picked 8-yds. more and the ball was down on the Rattler three. A short pass, Williams to Crews, scored the first tally of the game. Williams added the extra point.

There was no further scoring in the first quarter, although Florida A. & M. penetrated deep into Tiger territory by virtue of some classy running by their fullback, Quarles.

The second period, was featured by brilliant line play, as both teams were unable to score until the waning minutes of the period when with Williams, Banks and Cheatham carrying the mail, Williams plunged over from the one-yd. line for a second Tiger touchdown. Williams again added the extra point.

LINE OUTSTANDING

The Tiger line, led by Gaines, Smith, and Moulton was outstanding during the drive. Not to be overlooked, however, was the vicious tackling of J. Noble, Rattler guard and captain, and Tamson at end.

In the 3rd. the Tigers scored again on a 28-yd. pass from "Body" Williams to Larry Gaines. Gaines, easily the outstanding lineman of the game, made a spectacular catch of the ball for the score.

It was not until the 4th cauto that the Rattlers started a determined bid for a touchdown. Gnat, their halfback, began hitting his receivers with passes as the Rattlers moved downfield but the drive died on the 3-yd. line as the Rattlers failed to produce a scoring punch. The line backing of Harrison, Tiger back, at this point, was superb.

RATTLERS TALLY

Williams kicked out of danger for R. C. to Albury on the Tiger 37-yd. stripe, who returned the kick 7 yds. to the 40. On the first play, a 15 yd. pass, interference was called and the Rattlers had a 1st down on the R. C. 15. Not to be denied this time. Gant then tossed a pass to Alibury who crossed the double stripe untouched. The try for extra point was missed.

The game ended a few minutes later with A. & M. in possession of the ball on the R. C. 32 yd. line.

Too much praise cannot be given J. Noble, the Rattler guard, who displayed the same type of play that won him All-American honors last year. Albury, Gant and Quarles were the best backs for the Rattlers.

STATISTICAL SUMMARY

R. C.		A. & M.
16	First Downs	5
188	Yds. Rushing (Net)	39
283	Total Yds. Passing and Rushing	97
19	No. Passes	11
6	Passes Completed	4
3	Passes Intercepted By	2
1	Fumbles	3
38.2	Punting Average	33.6
20	Penalties, Yds.	0

LINE-UPS

R. C.	FLA.	A. & M.
W. Baugh	LE	Lamar
Chambers	LT	Johnson
Martin	LG	Bailey
Hall	C	Twine
R. Baugh	RG	Noble (c)
Moulton	RT	Lee
B. Johnson	RE	Lawson
Harrison (c)	QB	Albury
N. Smith	LH	Mourke
Crews	RH	Gant
Williams	FB	Quarles

Marty Brill was blocking back for Rockne's 1929 and 1930 teams. Rockne called him "the best blocking back who ever played for me," but, like most blocking backs, he saw few headlines, which instead went to the canny Carideo, the brilliant Schwartz and the erratic but colorful Savoldi.

Hebenstreit To Coach Saber Hoop Team

Lt. Frank A. Hebenstreit of Company I. has been appointed basketball coach of the 300th Sabers of The Infantry School and will go to work Monday afternoon fashioning a team to represent the Sabers this season in The Infantry School league.

Selected from a list of between 20 and 30 officers with collegiate basketball experience, Lt. Hebenstreit hails from Creighton university of Omaha, Neb.

Last year the 300th mentor not only played on the Creighton team, but coached the freshman squad and assisted in tutoring the varsity quintet. He was a member of the Creighton squad which invaded Madison Square Garden.

Two or three enlisted men from each company in the regiment will report for basketball and later a call will be made for officers to report. From this list of candidates a permanent squad will be selected.

In the meantime, at least four company teams from the 300th will compete in the Ninth Street U. S. O. tournament in Columbus. Quintets from Companies A, D, F and I already have entered and late starters may swell the list. Company A is being coached by Lt. Dan Leary.

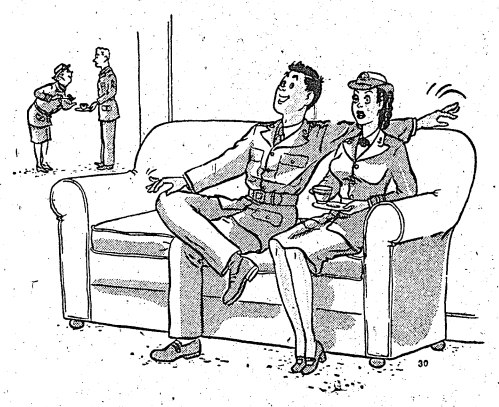
Plans also are being made for intra-company competition in the 300th.

Sgt. Simkowski Contest Winner

The Bayonet's weekly grid guessing contest was won last week by Sgt. Walter Simkowski of Co. B, 40th Tank Battalion.

Second place went to an officer for the first time, when Lieut. W. C. Robinson of the 176th Infantry came in as runner-up. Third place laurels went to Pfc. Peter R. Ott, 23rd Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment. a student in one of the enlisted communications classes.

WADSWORTH
Blue Print Company
Have Copies of Your Marriage License, Power - of - Attorney and Similar Documents Made by Us. Architects and Engineers Supplies.
1231 - 6th Ave.
Phone 2-2381



STEVENS Distinctive CHRISTMAS CARDS
For a Discriminating Clientele we offer personal Christmas Greeting Cards of unusual artistic merit and fine craftsmanship. Samples and prices submitted upon request.
J. P. STEVENS ENGRAVING CO.
110 PEACHTREE STREET ATLANTA · GEORGIA

GIFTS
TOYS—SPORTS—GAMES
BUY ON OUR LAY-AWAY PLAN
GIFTS WRAPPED AND MAILED FOR YOU
Bentley's
1305 BROADWAY DIAL 7365

DOG AND CAT HOSPITAL
Complete Hospital Service
Bathing and Grooming
DR. E. A. DAVIS
1006 - 13th S t. Dial 8871

LOOK YOUR BEST
Have Your Clothes Cleaned Regularly.
We Specialize In ★ Quality Cleaning
★ 2-Day Service
Lafkowitz Bros.
Tailors-Cleaners
1208 1st Ave. Phone 7062

AS YOU WERE with Hart Schaffner & Marx

Who said that the Army and Navy couldn't get along?

"Jonathan, you want to neck; I want to drink my coffee. Let's do a Hart Schaffner & Marx: one thing at a time... take everything in stride."

The adventures of Pvt. Jonathan Joop appear regularly in this space. Watch for this feature!

BIG FOOTBALL CONTEST

AFTER THE GAME
Dine At
SMITTY'S
Good Food Is Our Specialty
★ STEAKS
★ CHOPS
★ CHICKEN ★ VEGETABLE PLATES
★ SANDWICHES
Just Newly REMODELED
PENN ( ) vs. NAVY ( )
SMITTY'S
SANDWICH SHOP
Two Doors From Waverly Hotel
9 13TH ST.

PICK THE WINNERS
WIN $25 IN CASH

It costs you nothing to enter. All you have to do is mark the scores of the game appearing in the ads on this page. Mail this to the Football Contest Edition, Fort Benning Bayonet, Box 711, Columbus, Ga., or bring it in to Public Relations Office at Post Headquarters. It must be postmarked not later than 12:00 Noon, November 6th. Winners to be announced in next Thursday's Bayonet.

RULES OF THE CONTEST:

1. Only Fort Benning Military personnel are eligible to enter the contest.
2. All scores must be marked in the space indicated in each ad on this page.
3. The person picking the most accurate scores will receive $15.00 in cash as first prize. The person picking the next most accurate scores, will receive second prize of $7.00 in cash. The third prize winner will receive $3.00 in cash.
4. Only one entry may be submitted by each individual.

Name .....
Address .....

A-TTEN-SHUN
THE
HORSTMANN UNIFORM CO.
OF PHILADELPHIA
WILL NOW BE REPRESENTED BY Metz—Jowers
MILITARY AND CIVILIAN TAILORS
117½ 12th Street
OPPOSITE POST OFFICE PHONE 3-2783
INDIANA ( ) vs. MICHIGAN ( )

Through These Portals . . .
Pass The Best Soldiers On Earth
And for those Soldiers we carry a complete line of Quality Military Merchandise.
P. S. STORES
926 BROAD ST. COLUMBUS, GA.
Just Above the Howard Bus Station
ARMY ( ) vs. NOTRE DAME ( )

MEET US AT THE GAME!
Royal Crown Cola will meet you there . . . even after the game R. C. will make a delightful refreshment.
ROYAL CROWN COLA
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
DRINK
ON SALE AT ALL FORT BENNING GAMES
GEORGIA TECH ( ) vs. L. S. U. ( )
NEHI Bottling Co.

PIN-UP GIRLS
Are Favorites With the Boys in the Service
BUT PIN-UP BOYS
Are Favorites With the Girls Back Home!
And when you send that Package
9x12 hand painted oil painting.
Regular $15.00 value—Now $5.50
Open Every Evening Until 9 P. M., Ft. Benning Time
SPECIAL
YALE ( ) vs. BROWN ( )
BON ART STUDIO
5½ 11TH ST. DIAL 2-0571

for ALMOST A QUARTER OF A CENTURY
We've been right here on Automobile Row as BUICK—CADILLAC DEALERS—Right now—no new cars to offer you—but do have the most complete stock of real QUALITY USED CARS in Columbus.
Also—we maintain just the kind of Service Department you would want YOUR car to visit—No job too large—none too small.
CLIFF M. AVERETT, Inc.
BUICK • CADILLAC • HUDSON
1441-43-45 1st Ave. Dial 2-1601
CORNELL ( ) vs. PENN STATE ( )

SERVICE MEN BOWL FOR FUN
Join one of the many Fort Benning Bowling Leagues.
Bowl-Mor is the proud host of the first WAC League in the Southeast, consisting of 10 teams of 5 players each. Tuesday at 7 p. m., EWT.
MINNESOTA ( ) vs. PURDUE ( )
BOWL-MOR
2412 CUSSETA RD. DIAL 3-2020
COLUMBUS BOWLING CENTER
11th Street Next to USO

MOVE INTO SCORING POSITION WITH
UNCLE SAM
SUPPORT OUR WAR EFFORT IN EVERY DETAIL
"May the Best Team Win"
NORTHWESTERN ( ) vs. WISCONSIN ( )
Wells DAIRIES COOPERATIVE
2320 Wynn Rd. 2332 Cusseta Rd.
221 12th St. 1140 13th St.

The smart military appearance that
SMITH-GRAY UNIFORMS
gives you will help you "carry the ball" in the military career you are playing.
SMITH-GRAY
15 W. 11th St. Dial 5719
Opp. Army-Navy USO Columbus, Ga.
IOWA ( ) vs. ILLINOIS ( )

THERE'S FUN IN DANCING
Keep in step with that Soldier! We install and service machines in all areas of Fort Benning. Rhythm is our business.
DARTMOUTH ( ) vs. COLUMBIA ( )
PHONOGRAPHS OF ALL TYPES
GEORGIA MUSIC CO.
1045 6th Ave. DONALD LEEBERN, Owner Dial 22954

AFTER THE GAME
DINE and DANCE at the
BAMA CLUB
COCKTAIL BAR OPENS 6 P. M.
2 Floor Shows Nightly—9 P. M. and 11 P. M.
Chicken Dinners $1.50 Western Steaks $2.00
Music By Veron Yonkers Orchestra
For Reservations Call 3-1051
Just Across Lower Bridge—First Building on Right
NORTH CAROLINA ( ) vs. SOUTH CAROLINA ( )

SPOT RIVERS AND HIS NIGHTINGALES
SAT. NIGHT at
THE NEW WINSEL CASTLE
2803 CUSSETA RD. DIAL 7373
LOUIS W. PHILLIPS, Mgr.
Steaks—Chickens—Beverages
PRIVATE DINING ROOM
Officers, Members, and Civilians Only
Closed on Mondays
PITT ( ) vs. OHIO STATE ( )

VISIT OUR STORE OR SEE OUR DISPLAY IN YOUR REGIMENT FOR
COMPLETE OFFICERS' UNIFORMS
Slacks, Shirts, Ties, Hosiery, Caps, Hats, Insignia and All Other Accessories Required By You.
Ideally located in the city for 30 years.
We guarantee a perfect fit as well as 100% delivery in all goods ordered.
Open til 8 p. m. week days and 10:30 p. m. Saturdays—Ft. Benning Time.
WE APPRECIATE YOUR PATRONAGE
LEVINSON BROS.
1220 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA. DIAL 3-3051
S. M. U. ( ) vs. TEXAS A. AND M. ( )

TIS Officer Spent 35 Bathless Weeks On Vigil In 'Coldest' Greenland

1st Lieutenant Randolph P. Eddy of the 1st Student Training Regiment, famed for his lonely vigil in Greenland, again found himself in the limelight when a two-page article in "Yank" featured him as performer of the "Toughest Assignment in the Army."

Eddy, a member of Captain E. M. Kenney's 6th Company, is attending the Officers Advanced Course at The Infantry School. Duty in the jungles of Panama preceded his Arctic adventure.

The story told in detail how Lieutenant Eddy, in command of six men, spent 35 weeks on the Greenland ice cap without seeing a woman, receiving any mail from home, or even having a bath. Altogether. Lieutenant Eddy spent about 18 months in Greenland. About half that time was at the base command, which was like luxury compared to life on the ice cap.

This is Lieutenant Eddy's second stay at The Infantry School. From Panama he was chosen to attend Officer Candidate School and was graduated in April 1942.

Lieutenant Eddy's home is in Boston, Mass. Before the bugles sounded, he was a student at both Dartmouth and Harvard.

The loganberry, regarded as a hybrid of the wild blackberry, first appeared in a private yard in Santa Cruz, Calif.

At the beginning of 1942 there were an estimated 13.4 million vacuum cleaners in American homes.

DEPENDABLE WORK
COLUMBUS WATCH REPAIRS
HAROLD PEOPLES
PAUL FAISON
932 Broadway

Visit The RAINBOW ROOM
in
DICKS CAFE
DANCE TO THE MUSIC OF RED FARRAR
and His Orchestra
OPENS 6 P. M. DAILY
4:30 P. M. SUNDAYS
1110 14th St. Phenix City

Cancellations Will Keep Stadium Idle On This Week-End

All games originally scheduled for Doughboy Stadium this coming week-end have been cancelled which leaves the post without a grid tussle for the first time this season. The Panther-Tuskegee clash, set for Friday was called off when Tuskegee found it would be unable to return from Detroit in time for the game.

The Reception: Center-Alabama State game for Saturday was cancelled at the request of the 'Bama school which has had to discontinue football due to lack of material. The 124th - 300th game, of course, was marked off the books three weeks ago when the Gator regiment left for Fort Jackson.

Only Benning team that will be in action therefore is the 176th which journeys to Augusta to meet the Daniel Field Fliers on Saturday night.

Woman's Clubs

By KATHERINE HAMMARGREN

Miss Peggy Davis, assistant director of the Columbus USO-YWCA, will give a condensation of "Now in November," by Josephine Johnson, at the first meeting of the Book Review group of the Fort Benning Woman's Club. The meeting will be held Monday, November 8, at 2:30 p.m. in the Ladies' Lounge of the Officers' Club.

Miss Davis, a graduate student in speech of Louisiana State University, gave "Now in November" as her graduate recital. An organization meeting, at which suggestions from members will be welcome, will follow the recital.

TURKEY TOURNEY

The qualifying round for the Turkey Tournament of the 300th Infantry will be played on Monday or Tuesday, Nov. 9. The first round will be played on November 10th, and the second round on Thursday the 11th. The finals will be played on Friday the 12th.

The entrance fee will be 50c, and it will be a handicap tournament, so that everyone will have an equal chance.

Those interested may contact Major Russell J. Townsend of the 300th.

TAXI!
DIAL - - 8209
for Super Service
OPEN 24 HOURS
S & S TAXI CO.
2900 -2nd AVE.

HELP WANTED
Young lady experienced in sales and designing for flower shop. Apply in person only.
I. E. PASSMORE, FLORIST
1622-24 13th Ave.

PLAYING AT THE COLUMBUS THEATRES

BRADLEY

FRI. - SAT.
Eric Fortman —IN— Ann Dvorak
"SQUADRON LEADER X"

SUN. - MON. - TUES.
Dorothy McGuire Robert Young —IN—"CLAUDIA"

WED. - THURS.
Barbara Stanwyck Michael O'Shea —IN—
"LADY of BURLESQUE"

SPRINGER

FRIDAY
Edward Arnold Ann Herding —IN—
"EYES IN THE NIGHT"

SATURDAY
BOB LIVINGSTON —in—
"RAIDERS OF RED GAP"

SUN. - MON.
Benita Granville Tim Holt —IN—
"HITLER'S CHILDREN"

TUES. - WED
Sidney Greenstreet Geo. Raft —IN—"Background To Danger"

THURSDAY
Edward Arnold Fay Bainter —IN—
"War Against Mrs. Hadly"

RIALTO

FRI. - SAT.
Charles Starrett Kay Harris —IN—
"Robin Hood on the Range"

SUN. - MON.
Cary Grant Loraine Day —IN—
"MR. LUCKY"

TUES. - WED.
George Montgomery Annabella —IN—
"BOMBER'S MOON"

THURSDAY
ROY ROGERS —in—
'Man from Music Mountain'

ROYAL

FRI. - SAT.
Basil Rathbone Nigel Bruce —IN—
"SHERLOCK HOLMES IN WASHINGTON"

SUN. - MON.
Bud Abbott Lou Costello —IN—
"IT AIN'T HAY"

TUES. - WED.
Errol Flynn Ann Sheridan —IN—
"EDGE OF DARKNESS"

THURSDAY
Stan Laurel Oliver Hardy —IN—
"JITTERBUGS"

Loose Talk Did This!!! Beware of It

There are times when a hapless GI makes a promise that backfires. Pvt. Gordon Markstrom of the 300th Infantry, The Infantry School troops, made one recently and now he is paying through the nose.

He promised the little woman, Mrs. Markstrom, that he would answer all of her letters twice as long as she wrote them.

The other day to his consternation, he received a bulky envelope containing a forty-page letter.

Famed Jumper Is Lt. Colonel

Major E. Verne Stewart, director of specialized training at the Parachute School at Fort Benning, has been promoted to lieutenant-colonel.

A veteran of 23 years in civilian and army parachute jumping, Major Stewart has 435 jumps to his credit. Most of these were amassed during his career as a professional parachutist, when he traveled the country-round, jumping at air shows, country fairs, and generally barnstorming. Later he operated a parachute school of his own in Chicago, where he taught rigging and jumping technique.

As a first lieutenant in the National Guard, Col. Stewart entered the army in 1940. Shortly afterward he transferred to the parachute troops, with whom he has risen to his present grade.

Col. Stewart boasts a colorful career, having served during the last war as a mechanic to the late General Billy Mitchell, then chief of the Army Air Corps. He also is a member of the Caterpillar Club having used a parachute to save his life.

Three Arts League Offers 200 Free Soldier Tickets

The Three Arts League will give 200 free memberships to the 1943-44 concert series to soldiers. The concert series will be opened on November 18 by James Melton, Metropolitan tenor; and will include one by Helen Howe, solo dramatist on December 10; by Draper and Adler, world famous tap dancer and harmonica player on January 11 and by Sanroma, pianist, on February 14.

Any soldier desiring to secure a ticket may do so by applying to his area hostess or by phoning Mrs. Edgar Bullock in Columbus.

All concerts will be held at the Jordan high school auditorium.

The Three Arts League regrets that a smaller seating capacity at the Jordan auditorium makes it impossible to give complimentary tickets to wives of soldiers. However they may secure tickets through Mrs. Edgar Bullock in Columbus.

Mr. Sgt Crabb Is Warrant Officer

M.-Sgt. Jesse L. Crabbs, former Hanover, Pa., lawyer, and now of the 7th Armored Division Supply, was promoted to warrant officer, after having been in the service of the United States Army 20 months.

Mr. Crabbs has served a majority of the time he has spent in the Army in the Division Supply Headquarters office. He is also the only soldier in the 7th Armored Division to have received a promotion to warrant officer, since the "Lucky Seventh" Armored Divisian came into garrison.

LT. ROSE PROMOTED

Second Lieutenant Elmer E. Rose, adjutant of Headquarters, District No. 4, Fourth Service Command, stationed at Fort Benning has been promoted to First Lieutenant. A native of Golden City, Missouri, Lt. Rose has been in the service 11 years, having previously served with the 13th and 11th Cavalry. He was commissioned in January, 1943, and attended Provost Marshal General School. Fort Custer, Michigan.

Six-

(Continued from Page 1)

C.), whose mother, Mrs. Stumpf lives at Fresno, Cal.

Corporal Vowell G. Parrish (A. C.), whose mother, Mrs. Ethel Parrish lives at Warren, Ark.

Private William Neil Copeland, (A. C.) whose father, Walter D. Copeland, lives in Raymondville, Mo.

A board of qualified army air force officers has been appointed to investigate and determine the exact cause of the crash.

Hurry Up Folks!
Order your Personalized Xmas Cards Now
WHITE CO.
1221 BROADWAY

CAPTAIN TALBOTT

George M. Talbott has been promoted to captain. He is attending the Officers Advanced Course at The Infantry School as a member of the 16th Company, the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel Robert H. Lord. Talbott served with Company E of the 66th Infantry, a light tank unit at Fort Benning, from 1936 to 1939 before entering Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, Ga. He managed Oglethorpe's '42 football team.

Servicemen-

(Continued from Page 1)

signed the bill authorizing the drafting of 18 and 19-year-old youths.

SCHOOL IS CHEAPER

It has been estimated that it will be cheaper keeping a soldier in school for a year, $900, than to keep him in the field, $1,500.

The committee, on the basis of 12,000,000 in the armed forces, estimated that a minimum of 1,000,000 persons might be expected to return to school or take up new courses.

Although plans for administrating the program have not been completely formulated it will probably be worked out with state cooperation.

Servicemen and women, who desire the additional schooling, will be surveyed, and it is possible that they and instructors will be among the first persons discharged from the armed forces.

LONG-RANGE PROGRAM

The proposal is part of a long-range program to ease the problem of post-war readjustment of service men and women. It has been stressed that the government is providing excellent care for those in uniform during the war and that it owes the same responsibility after the war.

The schedule of allowances for the students—in addition to tuition—proposed by the committee is $50 monthly for single persons, $75 for married men, and $10 for each child.

Impressive-

(Continued from Page 1)

personnel of the 176th Infantry Regiment.

The choir which sang during the Mass care from Holy Trinity Seminary in Alabama.

During the past week 13 Redemptorist Missionaries, led by the Rev. Joseph P. Turner, of Philadelphia, were at Benning providing special occasions for worship by the Catholic soldiers on the post. The mass Sunday climaxed the mission.

EXPRESSES THANKS

After the mass Colonel William H. Hobson, commanding officer of Fort Benning, extended the gratitude of the post to Bishop McCarty for coming to the camp for the ceremony. He also expressed gratitude to the missionaries who have been at the post to counsel the Fort Benning Catholic soldiers.

Deacon of honor on the altar, serving with Bishop McCarty, was the Rev. Anthony Janco, Catholic chaplain of the 300th Infantry regiment, while the sub-deacon was the Rev. William Hunt, chief of the aCtholic chaplains at the post.

Arch priest for the mass was the Rev. Raphael O'Brien of the Seventh Armored division; the Rev. Lawrence eKating of the Seventh Armored division and the Rev. William Chapman served as masters of ceremony; deacon of the mass was the Rev. Ignatius McCarthy of the station hospital; the Rev. Clement Krug of the Student Training Brigade was narrator; the Rev. Anthony Czubak of the 176th Infantry was field director of the mass; while the Rev. Ramien Breen, of Holy Trinity, was director of the choir.

Minister-

(Continued from Page 1)

zations and in 1937 he was appointed Grand Chaplain of Masons of Grand Lodge of the state of New York, being reappointed annually since. He also is a veteran of World War I, having served in the Navy in 1917-1918, and was chaplain of Camp Edwards in 1941 and civilian chaplain of the U. S. N. R. Midshipman's school in New York in 1942.

THE SCHEDULE

Conferences were conducted with representatives of all the commands and activities at the Post before the schedule of meetings was drawn up. As now arranged, three lectures will be delivered Monday, November 8, at Theater No. 8, one at 11:30 a. m., one at 3 p. m. and one at 6 p. m., the first two for enlisted communications classes and the third for advanced classes, in The Infantry School.

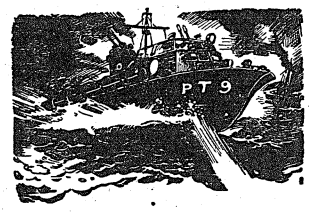
On November 9, there will be three lectures also. The first at 3 p. m., will be conducted in Doughboy Stadium for School Troops, the Academic Regiment, Supply Detachment, Sec. I; Station Complement Headquarters Det., Sec. I; half of the Medical Personnel at Station Hospital. The second will be presented at 5:30 p. m. in Theater No. 11, for personnel of Officer Candidate School and the third at 8 p. m. at the 131st Infantry Drill field for school troops of the ASTP, half of Medical Det., from Hospital Unit 2 and elements of the 2nd Army troops in Harmony Church area.

NOVEMBER 10

Four lectures are scheduled for November 10. The first at 10:30 a. m. will be conducted in Doughboy Stadium for Reception Center, Headquarters and Supply Detachments, Station Complement, Sec. 2, and WAC Detachment Sec. 2. At 3 p. m. the lectures will be conducted at the 131st drill field for school troops; at 5:30 in Theater No. 11 for Officer Candidates and the last one at 8 p. m. in Doughboy Stadium for school troops and officers' communication classes and half of the medical personnel from Station Hospital.

On November 11, four lectures also will be presented. The first will be at 10:30 a. m. for Lawson Field at the field; the second at 6 p. m. at Theatre No. 8 for Infantry School advanced classes and the last 2 at 8 p. m. and 9 p. m. in the Third Student Training Regiment bowl, for the Academic Regiment, Third Student Training Regiment and elements of ASTP.

Three lectures are set for November 12. The first will be at 3:30 p. m. in Hite Bowl, Alabama area, for parachute troops; the second at 5:30 p. m. at Theater No. 11 for Officer Candidates and the third at 8 p. m. in the Sixth Training Regiment open air theater for personnel of ASTP.



Five lectures are scheduled for November 13. First will be at 11 a. m. in Doughboy Stadium for the Parachute School. Second will be given at 2 p. m. in the Seventh Armored Division, for the 7th Armored Division, 3d corps troops, 2nd Army troops and school troops in the Sand Hill area, unless otherwise directed by the commandant of the Infantry School. Then will come three talks in Theatre No. 8, one at 3:30, one at 4:30 and one at 6:00 p. m. for Automotive classes and advanced classes.

One lecture will be presented at 7:30 p. m. in Doughboy Stadium on November 15 for WAC Detachment Station complement and WAC Detachment Sections I and II of the Infantry School; 2nd Army Troops quartered on the Main Post; Army Service Force Units; Bakers and Cooks School.

Highest Cash Prices For Used Cars
PHILLIPS MOTOR CO.
PHONE 3-6553
1419 1st STREET

MEET YOUR BUDDIES at the
Eagle Army Store
Headquarters For
OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN
Uniforms and Military Supplies
1018 BROADWAY

PAT PATTERSON
12th & 2nd AVENUE
THE BEST FRIED CHICKEN IN THIS TOWN
NO. 1 KANSAS CITY STEAKS THAT'S REALLY TENDER
CAT FISH DINNERS GA. STYLE
COME OUT ON THE NORTH HIGHLAND BUS
BRING THE FAMILY TONIGHT!
Try Our Sea Food Course—8 Private Dining Rooms

TORPEDO THE AXIS with
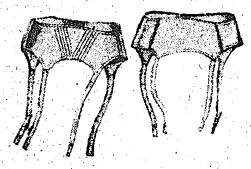
WAR BONDS
Your War Bond money does that—keeps America's factories turning out war material that are doing effective service on the fighting fronts. But that's not all that happens! You're doing yourself a favor, too, that you'll appreciate after the war is over. Then your Bonds will buy many things that are unobtainable today.
Kinnett's DAIRY
1237 6TH AVE. DIAL 3-4371

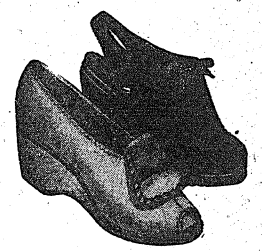
BAMA CLUB
Cocktail Bar Open 6 P. M.
TWO FLOOR SHOWS NIGHTLY—9 P. M. & 11 P. M.
CHICKEN DINNERS, $1.50 WESTERN STEAK, $2.00
MUSIC BY VERNON YONKERS ORCHESTRA
For Reservations Dial 3-1051
Just Across Lower Bridge First Building on Right
Admission Week Nites 50c Saturday Nite $1

IT'S NOT TOO EARLY TO BUY CHRISTMAS GIFTS AT SEARS



Womens' Wool Lined Kidskin Gloves
RABBIT-FUR TRIMMED 1.59
Soft, supple kidskin, warm, wool lining. Fur-trimmed cuffs. Just the thing for winter days. Black. Sizes 6½ to 7½.

Lace Collar and Cuff Sets
ALSO STYLED IN PIQUE 98c
Youthful round collars, smart V necks in dainty lace and crisp pique. Buy several at this low price to freshen your dark clothes.



Lovely Multi-Filament RAYON SLIPS
★ FAMOUS 'CHARMODE' QUALITY
★ TAILORED OR LACE-TRIMMED STYLES
1.98
Deluxe classics that combine exquisite beauty with excellent service and long wear. Bias cut . . . won't ride-up. Some flowered styles. White, tearose. 32 to 40.

Glove Knit PANTIES
Small, medium, large. Button waistband. Cuff bottom. Fit snug and smooth. Tearose. 89c

'All-In-One' FOUNDATION
Famous "Nu-Back," garment for perfect curve control. Won't ride up. Patented sliding back. Sizes 34 to 44. 3.98

Sheer... Light GARTER BELTS
FOUR ADJUSTABLE LONG GARTERS
LACE-TRIMMED RAYON VOILE 1.98
Your rayon hose will fit better with this garter belt of sheer rayon voile. No bones, can't bulge. Nude. Sizes 24 to 30.

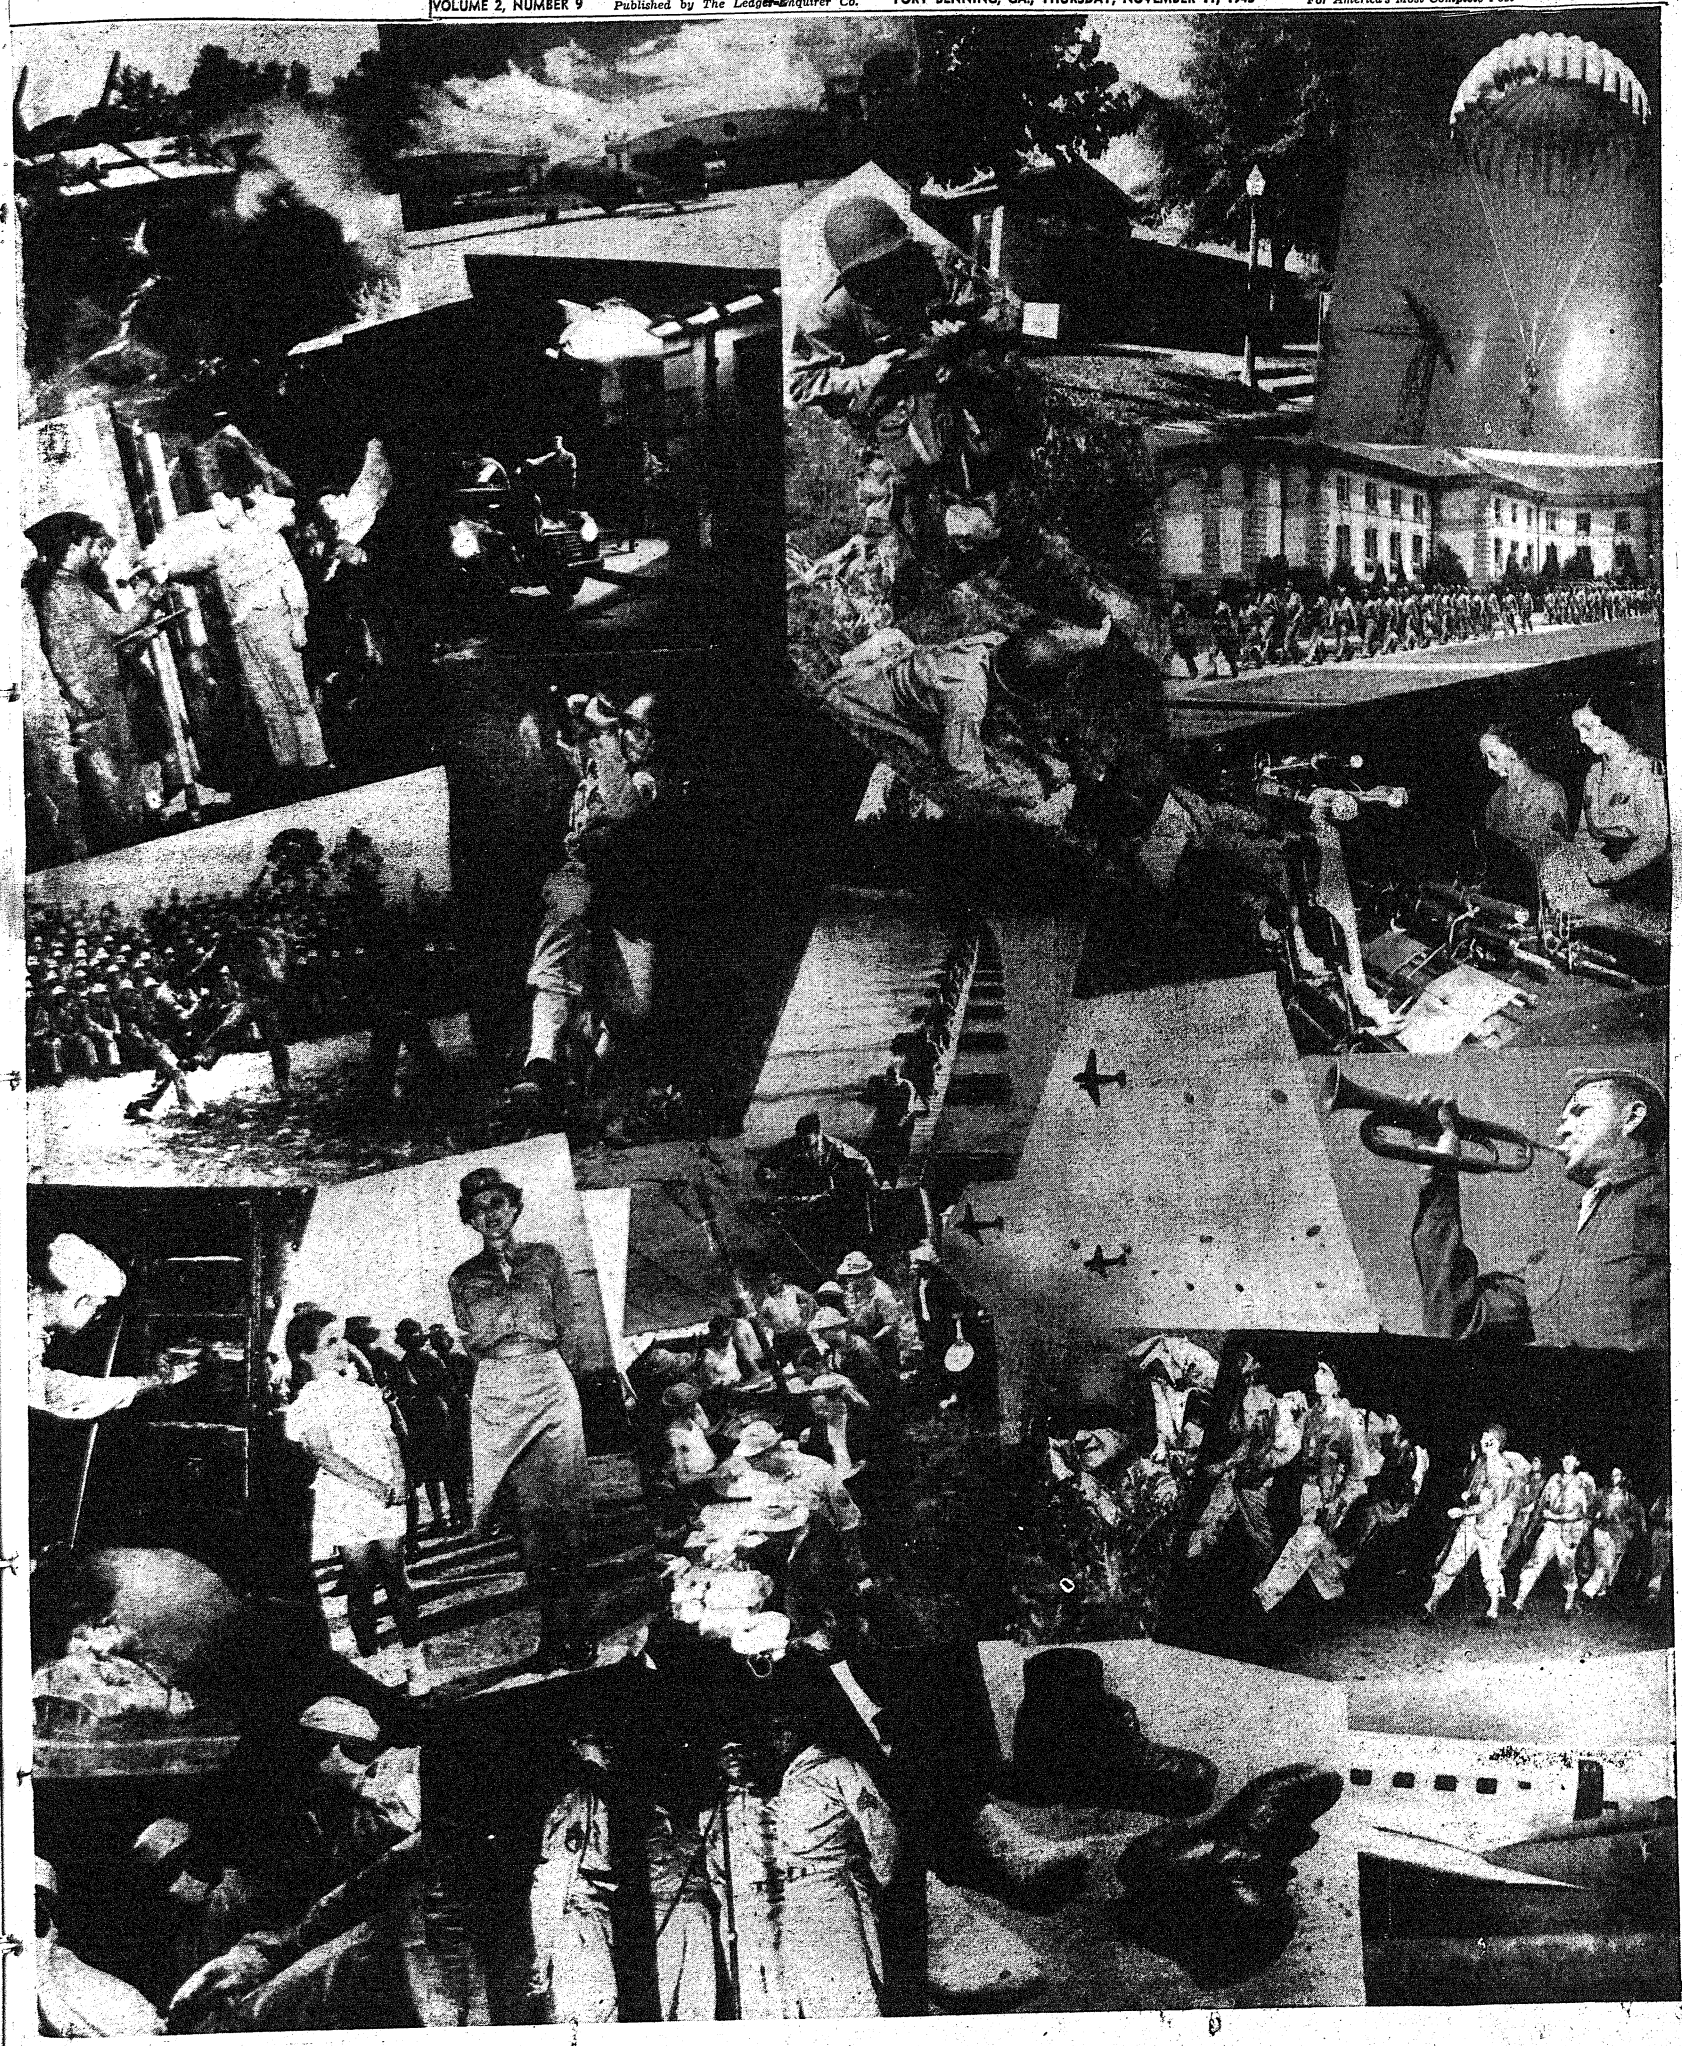
Women's Non-Rationed PLAY SHOES

Save Your No. 18 Coupon 3.30
Popular wedgies in brown or black. Comfortable cloth uppers, sturdy composition soles. Smart bow trim. Sizes 4 to 9.

Children's BILTWELLS

Designed For Young Growing Feet 2.29
America's favorite shoe for children. Wear long, are scientifically designed for youngsters' feet. Sturdy leathers, yet flexible. Styles for dress, school, play. Black or brown. Sizes 8½ to 3.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.
1225 Broadway Dial 3-4351



Fort Benning Celebrates Silver Anniversary

All This In 25 Years!!!

In the relatively brief span of 25 years Fort Benning has grown from a small training camp to what many army men regard as America's most complete post and as one of the nation's model military installations. On this page the camera has recorded a quick panoramic view of some of the many activities which are routine at Fort Benning illustrating why Benning occupies its unique position in military affairs.

THE BAYONET

VOLUME 2, NUMBER 9 — Published by The Ledger-Enquirer Co. — FORT BENNING, GA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1943 — For America's Most Complete Post — PRICE FIVE CENTS

Infantry School Is Prima Mobile of All U.S. Ground Forces

Past Year Has Been One of Change for TIS

COLONEL WILLIAM H. HOBSON
Commanding Officer, Fort Benning, Ga.

Colonel Hobson Extends Greetings

It is with pleasure that through the medium of THE BAYONET I, as commanding officer, have this opportunity to greet the thousands upon thousands of military and civilian personnel who go to make up this mighty army post.

This is the third time that I have been stationed at Fort Benning and consequently I feel very much at home on this post, one of the largest and most complex training centers in the world.

It is with pride, therefore, that as Fort Benning celebrates its 25th anniversary, I find myself in a position to work with all of this large garrison in maintaining our post as the best one in our army.

There have been many changes in The Infantry School in the last year, just as there have been in most Army commands.

The turnover in units attached to the School has been almost 100 per cent. Gone are the 29th, 117th and 124th Infantry Regiments. In their places are the 131st, 176th and 300th, the latter activated at this station in December 1942.

The 802nd Field Artillery battalion and battery "A" of the 801st have been replaced by the 244th, 252nd and 25th Field Artillery battalions, the latter just recently arrived.

The 528th Engineers Light Pontoon Company has succeeded to the role of a demonstration unit held by the 71st Engineers and for a short period by the 507th Engineers. The 709th Tank Battalion has taken over for the 764th, 760th and 191st tank battalions which have seen service here at various times during the year.

There was a change also in the Truck Regiment assignment. The 21st Quartermaster Regiment (Truck) was succeeded by the Provisional Truck Regiment which was activated at this station. The name of the latter has since been changed to the Truck Regiment, The Infantry School.

The Student Training Brigade was inactivated along with the Second Student Training Regiment, leaving the First and Third Student Training Regiments to carry on as student regiments.

ASTP ARRIVES

The ASTP Basic Training Center was activated in Harmony Church as a part of The Infantry School. Just recently, this unit was placed in the direct command of the Replacement and School Command at Birmingham with Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, Commandant of The Infantry School, remaining as the coordinator of its activities.

The 7th Reconnaissance Squadron attached to The Infantry School was redesignated as the Third Composite Squadron attached to the Third Air Force but still serves the school as a demonstration unit.

Throughout the year, constant changes were made to keep the instructions given in the school up to the minute to meet the ever changing requirements of war. In this connection, many officers who have had experience in the battles of this war, have been added to the faculty.

It was during this last year that the School was sufficiently able to meet the demand for officers so that it was no longer necessary to train officer candidates in the volume and at the speed formerly required. The material result of this accomplishment was the inactivation of the Student Training Brigade and the Second Regiment and the lengthening of the Officer Candidate course from 13 to 17 weeks.

During the year, two Detachments of WACs were assigned to The Infantry School, one in Harmony Church and the other on the Main Post.

PERSONNEL SHIFTS

Changes in personnel were also numerous, chief of which was the assignment of Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, former commanding officer of the United Nations' forces in Iceland, to succeed Maj. Gen. Leven C. Allen as Commandant of The Infantry School.

Col. Robert H. Lord moved from the command of the Third Student Training Regiment to the command of the First after briefly commanding the Student Training Brigade until the time of its inactivation.

Col. Edward P. Passailaigue, former commanding officer of the Second Student Training Regiment became the commanding officer of the Academic Regiment, succeeding Col. Harry N. Burkhalter, retired.

Col. Wilson McK. Spann succeeded Col. Sevier R. Tupper as commanding officer of the ASTP Basic Training Center, Col. Tupper taking over the command of the 124th Infantry.

Col. John D. Hill took over the command of the Third student Training Regiment, relinquishing the command of the 124th Infantry.

Col. Henry J. Hunt, Jr., succeeded Col. Richard G. McKee as commanded officer of the 300th Infantry. The latter was transferred to the Third Army.

There were also many changes in the faculty.

The accomplishments of the last year further established The Infantry School as the world's greatest institution for military education and the development of military leaders. That the school has become great in a distinct tribute to those Army officers who fought for it during its dark days that followed World War I. Theirs was not an eask task.

THE BEGINNINGS

The first school of this kind in the United States was established in Jefferson Barracks in 1826 and was known as The Infantry School of Practice. Indian wars interrupted the School and it was closed after two years.

In 1907 Gen. Arthur MacArthur, commander of the Pacific Division, realized the need for co-ordinating the training of Infantry and established, within his department, the School of Musketry at the Presidio in Monterey, California.

The success of the school resulted in efforts to have it taken over as an Army institution. This was effected in 1913 when the School was moved to Fort Sill, Oklahoma and its name was changed to The Infantry School of Arms.

The first World War created serious problems at Fort Sill. To begin with, both the Artillery School of Fire and The Infantry School of Arms grew too big for that station. The Artillery being there first, The Infantry School was, in effect, an unwanted stepchild.

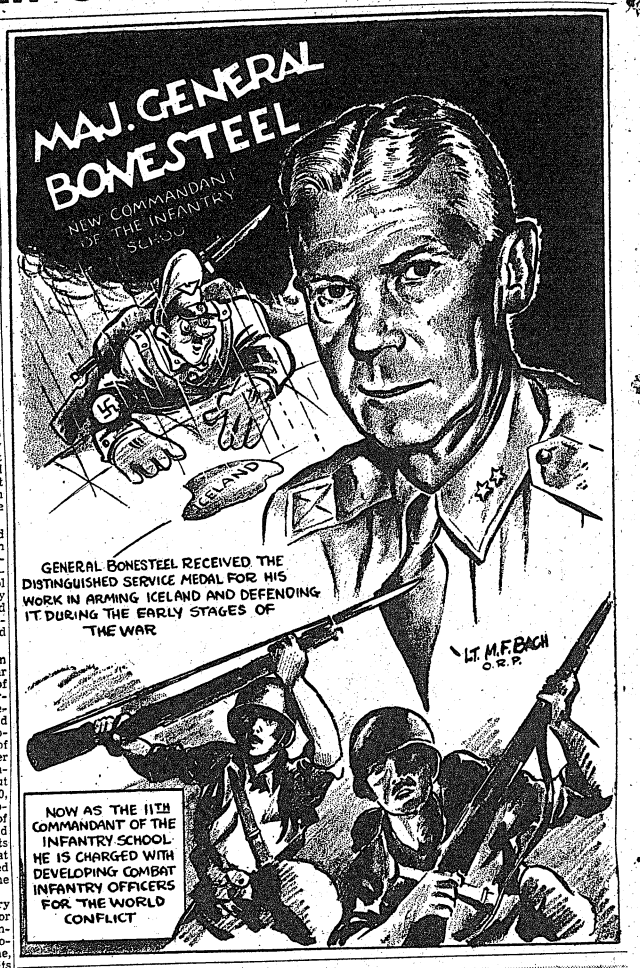
In an effort to relieve the congestion, The Small Arms Firing School was established at Camp Perry, Ohio, and a short time later, the Machine Gun School was set up at Camp Hancock near Augusta, Georgia. The Infantry School of Arms continued to function at Fort Sill.

However, the three widely separated units provided a situation that was not satisfactory and steps were taken to select a site where all three could be combined. Several sites were taken into consideration and the choice finally narrowed down to two, one at Fayetteville North Carolina and the other at Columbus, Georgia. The Artillery was also seeking a new location for a training center. The site at Fayetteville was assigned to the Artillery which established what is now known as Fort Bragg.

FIRST CONTINGENT

The Infantry was alloted the Columbus site. Work was begun on frame buildings at a temporary location along Macon Road, eight miles north of the present school headquarters. The first contingent of troops arrived from Fort Sill on October 4, 1918, 23 days before the Armistice.

The Macon Road site proved inadequate and work was begun at a second location on the reservation. That location is the present home of The Infantry School and was known as the old Bussey Plantation. The post was named Camp Benning after General Henry L. Benning, a distinguished Confederate officer.



Shortly after work had begun at the second location, the War Department ordered a revision of plans which provided for the purchase of 115,000 acres. The acreage authorized to be purchased was cut to 98,000 with accommodations for 10,000 men instead of 24,000. This was in December 1918. Then in the following January, the appropriation was cut again to provide for only 5,040 men. From that point, the project moved swiftly until June of 1919 when the School was moved from the Macon Road site to its present location. At about that time the War Department directed the the purchase of land and the construction of buildings cease.

The fate of The Infantry School swung in the balance for the next nine months while Congress wrangled over the appropriation. At the end of that time, the War Department proved its case and Congress decided to continue the project. The schools at Camp Perry and Camp Hancock had some time previously been moved to Camp Benning and the combination was named The Infantry School. However, the School itself was not made a permanent institution until 1922 at which time it was called Fort Benning. From that point, the School grew steadily.

MOST COMPLETE POST

The School is now the most complete Army post in the country. The classrooms extend over 220,000 acres of ground including all type of terrain. Making use of its woods and open spaces, its creeks and rivers, hills and level places, the School is able to simulate a wide variety of battle conditions.

The Infantry School has had 12 Commandants, the first of whom was Col. Henry E. Eames, who was appointed October 5, 1918.

Following him were Maj. Gen. Charles Farnsworth, Brig. Gen. Walter H. Gordon, Brig. Gen. Briant H. Wells, Brig. Gen. Edgar T. Collins, Brig. Gen. Campbell King, Brig. Gen. George H. Estes, Brig. Gen. Asa L. Singleton, Brig. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, Brig. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Major General Allen and Major General Bonesteel.

For many years, all military activities of the Post of Fort Benning were under the direction of the Commandant of The Infantry School, as there was little else on the Post besides the School.

But in 1940 The Infantry School was growing fast under the existing emergency and the Commandant found himself taxed to handle all the affairs of the Post. Under Army regulations at that time, the ranking officer of any installation was the commanding officer unless a separate officer was specifically designated for such duty.

On November 30, 1940, a separate headquarters was established and a Station Complement for the Post was activated.

POST COMMANDERS

At that time, Maj. Gen. Charles C. Scott, commanding general of the 2nd Armored division which was stationed here, was the senior officer on the Post and took over as Post Commander. During the next ten months, the Post command was variously held by Brig. General Hodges, who was also Commandant of The Infantry School, Maj. Gen. Lloyd F. Fredendall, commanding the 4th Division and Maj. Gen. George S. Patton, who succeeded to the command of the 2nd Armored Division.

Gen. Patton was commanding officer for only a short while until August 9, 1941 when a new ruling decreed that the commanding officer would be the senior officer not commanding a tactical unit on the post. The command was then shifted to Brig. General Bradley, The Infantry School Commandant. He was succeeded as Commandant of The Infantry School and Commanding Officer of Fort Benning by Major General Allen in February, 1942.

Two months later on March 30, a rule was adopted which decreed that the Commandant or Assistant Commandant of a special service school could not serve as the commanding officer of a Post.

Col. Walter S. Fulton, later a Brigadier General, who had been the Post executive officer was specifically designated by the War Department on April 8 as the commanding officer of the Post.

TRAINNER REGIMENTS

In addition to the Headquarters and Academic Department, The Infantry School is composed of the First and Third Student Training Regiments, the School Troops Brigade and the Academic Regiment.

The First Student Training Regiment consisting of officers and enlisted students, is located on the Main Post. Its officers' course include Basic, Advanced, New Division, Officers' Motor and Officers' Communication courses There are also Motor and Communication courses for enlisted personnel.

The Third Student Training Regiment in the Harmony Church area is composed of Officer Candidates who are studying for commissions as Infantry Officers and officers who are taking the Officers' Cannon Course.

The School Troops Brigade plays a most important part in The Infantry School. Its troops assigned to Headquarters of The Infantry School, the Academic Department of The Infantry School and the Range Detachment. Included in the personnel of the regiment are two Detachments of WACS and the Special Service Detachment.

This regiment can trace its history to the founding of the School itself in Monterey. At that time, it was a detachment with a complement of five men. At its peak, it boasted a strength of some 2,300. It is the most 'highly rated' regiment in the army, having an authorized strength of only 270 privates.

In general, the work of The In-

See PAST, Page 31

Bayonet Records Changing Scenes Of By-Gone Year

COMPILED BY SGT. O. J. REMINGTON

In the 12 months since the special issue of the Bayonet was published to mark the 24th anniversary of the establishment of Fort Benning, many eventful stories have been published. Changes have been made in administrative personnel, units have moved out and others have come in to train here for the great and grim tasks ahead. Everything that has happened on this mighty Army post has been chronicled in the Bayonet. Here in capsule form is a resume of the bigger events that have occurred.

NOVEMBER, 1942

First Canadian Parachute Battalion formed at Ft. Benning.

Bond breakfast addressed by Pvt. (now war correspondent) Pierre J. Huss; goal of $30,000 is oversubscribed by 555 per cent.

124th Infantry Regiment Gators win football title.

Twenty-five high ranking Latin American army and navy officers visit Ft. Benning.

DECEMBER 1942

Automatic telephone service installed in Alabama area.

"Max," boxer dog, mascot of 505th Parachute Infantry, gains nation-wide fame for his jumping.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Ambrose O'Connell comes from Washington to help dedicate new Post Office Building.

Six station complement units, all members Fourth Service Command, merged to form new Supply Detachment under command of Captain Walter H. Cook.

JANUARY 1943

Activation of 300th Infantry Regiment announced by The Infantry School.

Provisional Truck Regiment (later changed to Truck Regiment) is activated.

"Twister" hits Fort, takes one life, causes heavy property damage.

New Exchange Soda Fountain

See BAYONET, Page 5

RECEPTION CENTER READY

Shoe sizes from 3s to 17, pants from 26-28 to 39-42, and caps 6 1-2 to 7 5-8 give some idea of the range in fitting up colored men at the Reception Center opened up in April 1941. Twenty-six items are listed in each man's equipment.

This work is being carried on by a captain and two lieutenants, assisted by 11 non-commissioned colored officers and men. The officers are: Captain George E. Fogle, Jr., 2nd Lt. Ernest Baumbach, and 2nd Lt. Henry L. Pickle. The two ranking non-commissioned men are: Tech. Sgt. Alexander Smoot and Staff Sgt. Eddie E. Green.

Contest Winners—

Members of the Academic Regiment, ISSC, lived up to their professorships by winning four of the eight war bonds offered by the BAYONET for outstanding contributions to its Ft. Benning Silver Anniversary issue.

The complete list of prize winners included:

CARTOONS

1. First prize of a $50 war bond to Cpl. H. B. Moon, Company E, ISSC, for his serious effort "The Jury," published on the editorial page.

2. Second prize of a $25 war bond to Pvt. Edith M. Woerner, Visual Aids Section, The Infantry School, for his cartoon, "Best Laid Schemes of Mice——"

3. First prize of a $25 war bond offered by an anonymous donor for the best "Bondsh for Christmas" poster to Captain James B. Sweeney, S-2 of the First Student Training Regiment.

4. Special prize of a $25 war bond for general excellence and his cartoon "Hitler Keeps Rollin'; Keeps Losin'" to Paul Batovsky, Company B, Academic Regiment.

PROSE ENTRIES

1. First prize of a $50 war bond to S. Sgt. Wayne Harbert, Company E, Academic Regiment, for his essay "The Greater Americre."

2. Second prize of a $25 war bond to Pvt. Edith M. Woerner, WAC Detachment, Station Complement (1) for her story "Human Derelicts."

VEESE

1. First prize of a $50 war bond to O. C. John Hunter, 3rd Company, 3rd STR., for his sonnet collection "Creeping Shadows."

2. Second prize of a $25 war bond to Sgt. Leonard Summers, Hq. Company, Academic Regiment, for his poem "The Sleeping Men."

All prizes will be ready for distribution by Thursday, November 18. A definite announcement will be made in next week's issue of the BAYONET.

Benning Celebrates Its Twenty-Fifth Birthday

This month Fort Benning is celebrating its Silver Anniversary as a United States military installation, and never before in the 25 years of its history has this reservation been such a bee-hive of activity as its personnel grimly prepares to carry the war to our enemies on all fronts.

Fort Benning — originally the home of the Infantry Schoool and the Infantry Board—has mushroomed from a camp of a few acres in 1918 to what is now considered the most complete Army post in the continental United States, embracing approximately 218,368 acres. First located about 3 miles east of Columbus, Fort Benning now sprawls 22 miles south over the pine-covered hills of Georgia, with other important installations on the west shores of the Chattahoochee.

As the Post grew in size, new Army activities blossomed forth. Parachute troops, air-borne Infantry, air borne artillery, armored units — the latest adaptations of warfare are among the newest branches which have been assigned to Benning for training Armored units in the Middle East, paratroopers in England and Italy, Infantrymen in the New Guinea, Australia and Italy; many of them at one time or another learned and practiced their art while training at Fort Benning.

"POTENT" TRAINING CENTER

Although wartime censorship naturally has shrouded many of the training activities of the post from description in the press, the Axis well knows from the history of the past that Fort Benning is one of the most potent training centers of Uncle Sam's Army. Although training for warfare is the primary objective of the post, Fort Benning has diversionary activities for sports and recreation for the troops here to balance the program for the men. Football and baseball stadiums, swimming pools, tennis courts, several theaters, Service Clubs and field houses are among the so-called "extra-curricular" activities which provide diversion for the soldiers when they have occasion for recreation at the post

Fort Benning is literally a metropolis within itself. The vast number of troops here necessitates a large utility system which would dwarf those available to many communities with a like population. The water supply and drainage systems, heating and lighting systems, transportation and living facilities, offices and recreational facilities are so planned and directed that Fort Benning has come to be known as "the most complete post in the United States."

In October, 1918, Camp Benning was first established about three miles east of Columbus, as the home of the Infantry School. In 1919 the principal administrative center of activity, which today is known as the post proper, was moved to its present location, nine miles south of Columbus.

NATURAL TERRAIN

Natural terrain features adjacent to the present location, which were considered especially suitable for training of troops and the needs of the school, were among the factors which brought about the change in location. In 1922, the reservation having been designated a permanent military establishmhent, the War Department changed the post's name from Camp Benning to Fort Benning.

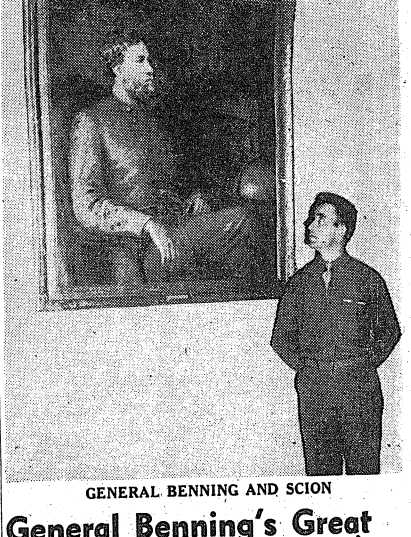
During the two decades in which Fort Benning existed primarily for the use of the Infantry School and the Infantry Board the reservation embraced an area of 97,245 acres. Additional land recently acquired gives it a total of 218,368 acres. The enlarged reservation measures about 30 miles north and south and about 27 miles from east to west. The post lies within two counties in Georgia and one in Alabama, the Chattahoochee River dividing the portions in each state. Today—as the various branches of service are engaged in training units from all over the post utilize the far corners of the reservation for field exercises and firing ranges.

The first buildings erected on the reservation were of the wooden cantonment type used in the first World War. There were hundreds of them. By 1938 practically all of these wooden buildings had been replaced by permanently constructed buildings of steel, concrete, and brick. There were at that time approximately 1,500 of these buildings. Included were large modern houses and apartment buildings to provide accommodations for the approximately 6,000 officers and enlisted men that then made up the reservation's population. Today with the influx of more troops and units, hundreds more buildings have been erected any many are in the process of building as construction still goes on.

NEW PROJECTS COMPLETED

Among the most recent projects completed is a modernized main exchange store, barracks and warehouses, a new restaurant, cafeteria, and soda fountain built on Ingersoll avenue, and several dormitories to house some of civilian personnel working on the post. A new post office large enough to serve 100,000 persons is now functioning.

The post takes it name from Brigadier General Henry Louis Benning, one of the outstanding battle leaders of the Confederate Army, who spent practically all of his life, except during the period of the War Between the States, as a lawyer and jurist in Columbus.



Lawson Field, the post's airport, is located on the edge of the post proper. It derives its name from Captain William Ross Lawson, of the Air Corps, who died in an airplane crash at Wright Field in 1923, after a distinguished record in the first World War.

"BIGGEST LITTLE RAILROAD"

Fort Benning has the biggest "little railroad" in the world and on that fact hangs an amazing tale of amazing transportation problems. The Fort Benning Railroad, which is recognized as one of the longest narrow guage railroads in the world, is an important and integral part of the transportation system at the post. The railroad's tracks cover about 18 and a half miles.

Fort Benning has one permanently constructed Chapel on the post, which was built several years ago at a cost of $70,000. It's protype is one of the oldest of the churches in Savannah, Ga. With the increase of personnel at the post, several additional wooden chapels have been constructed in various parts of the post to accommodate troops at services. In any of these chapels, soldiers of the Protestant, Catholic or Jewish Faiths can worship in amity and accord.

Among the 12 motion picture buildings, one — known as the Main Theater —is of permanent type of construction, built in 1938 at a cost of $240,000.

GENERAL BENNING AND SCION

General Benning's Great Grand-Nephew Is TIS OC

His selection as an officer candidate at The Infantry School in Fort Benning meant a couple of things more to Sgt. Bill D Benning of St. Louis, besides the opportunity to become an officer.

Coming as it did when he was on duty in the Aleutions, it meant he was going back to the States. It meant also the fulfilling of an Army ambition to be stationed at Fort Benning which was named after the Confederate General Henry L. Benning, whose brother was young Bill's great grandfather.

Sgt. Benning's father, Henry Oscar Benning, resided in Columbus until after the turn of the century. It was through correspodence with Mrs. Augusta Crawford Burgard of 2000 Poplar Drive, Columbus, a great granddaughter of General Benning, Mr. Benning has traced his ancestry.

Young Bill' (he's 25 and it's Bill —not William) was inducted into service in 1940 and was sent to Camp Robinson assigned to the 120th Infantry. From there he was sent to Fort Ord and Fort Lewis and wound up in the Aleutions. He had been promoted to sergeant before he left the States. That was in 1942.

Cold Bay on the tip of the peninsula, lives up to its name according to Sgt. Benning. He describes it as the worst place in Alaska where the wind never stops blowing. He saw no combat in Alaska. The job up there was outpost duty plus the usual amount of construction work.

From Alaska he was returned to Fort Lewis and placed in the Alaskan O.C.S. pool, waiting for an opening to come to The Infantry School.

It was a couple of months before he was ordered to Fort Benning. At that he was the last man to be sent to the school from the pool, which was then closed.

Creeping Shadows

1st Prize, Verse, $50 War Bond

C. C. JOHN HUNTER, 3rd Co., 3rd STR

I

You showed me first the faces in the sky
And called them angels, judges, camels, kings.
You taught me how to love the little things
That live upon the earth, and living die.
You brought me near the humming bird to spy
It's dainty flight, a moment's miracle.
You raised my city to a pinnacle
Of castle towers rising heaven high.
You saved me from the spirits in the fall
Of evening by the dance of lullaby
And the shield of love beyond the nod
Of still exploring sleep, answering the call
Of fairy dancers. In your teardrops I
Awoke to see the constant smile of God!

II

I spy my lady's powder puff above
e in the sky, so graceful and so fair.
I wonder how it chanced to journey there
Was the moon so jealous of my love
She stole the puff? Or did some queenly dove
Behold my lady, and her envy flare
Into a passion, being then aware
How usual she was, and knowing of y darling's beauty, instantly she flew
Upward with the purloined powder puff,
Far distant to a hidden hideaway,
But dropped it from her Boudoir in the blue?
I spy it floating homeward on the fluff
Of an evening Zephyr—blown away!

III

Symphony! I hear the singing sound
Of Heaven's choir whispering a song
Of painted threnody. How sweet and long
The fainting measures curl and fall around
The brow of Earth and perish on the ground
Beneath my feet without an orison!
Beautifully a heart has heard among
The silence a straying chime and found
The orchestra of Heaven playing full
And matchless music. 'Till the day I die
No more, my heart will stay to listen there.
To love the evening cloud, the circling Gull,
The speechless prayer against the silent sky!
And after death, to find it twice as fair.

IV

At night the lullaby of Theta Xi
Ascends to me. I hear the brother's song
Sounding up the stair, and oft long
The pictured halls a brother's face I spy,
Familiar from the past; Jacket, bow tie,
And sober scholar's smile. Oh happy throng.
These faces, and the laughter loud and long,
In pleasant plays of youth's hilarity!
Jack upon the keys, and Warren's frown,
And Arnold's quip, and Blackie's studied scorn.
And maybe Davy with a glass of beer!
How brilliant in the quiet college town
Our noisy room! How early comes the morn,
And ivy'd halls, and partings full of cheer!

V

An ancient smoking bowl of bitter bite
Rested on its stem, long in his hand,
And graced the air with heavy haze, the bland
Smoke fairies danced into the night!
A bulky volume spread beneath the light
Upon his quiet knee, a mute expand
Of history and heroes and the grand
Linguistics of a poetry aflight.
He coughed and turned the page and looked away
Into the hollow kingdom of the air,
And, tasting from his pipe the musty seep,
He visioned armies clashed in bright array,
Wild mountainsides, and maidens dancing fair.
He sighed his sigh, and softly fell asleep.

VI

Comus in his labyrinthine lair
Heard the wary feet of passers-by
Avoid his darkling haunt, and seek the sky
Above them unobstructed. breathe the air
Of virgin breezes cool and fresh and fair,
Whither uninhibit sunbeams fly
Downward to the earth. But oft an eye
Explored the forest pleasures, took the dare
Of devil's colors, trod the mystic while
With careless feet. A bawdy, restless tongue
Hellowed from the depths of jollity
As victors sometime passed without a smile,
And victims, ultimately happy, hung
Cadavers on the way—this moment we.

VII

Where I am weak your love has made me strong,
Your hands have led me in the sightless way
Of pilgrimage. I bow my head and pray.
When I am sad your lips have lent me song
More resonant than the beaten gong
Of primitive ambitious, and the sway
That fortune's drums incessantly betray
In their uncanny master. All along
The mystic paths perfidity has wrought
For legions, I have found constant, near
My aching head, re'suring harmony,
Unperjured, impervert, impeccant, and unbought
By gold or fickle time, yet ever dear
To men, Oh peerless darling Liberty!

VIII

Clever understudy of the mind
That rules Hell, ungodly, cruel greed!
How often does your pouting belly feed
Upon the blood of innocence and find
It pleasant gruel! Your grimy talons bind
The spotless skin, and make the virgin bleed
In ravished pain! No thoughtless, heartless deed
Is lawless when your firey jowels grind
Upon their meat. Your cunning planning raised
The smoking stomachs, fertile industries
Bonding free men. nor recognize the loss
That silver shuns. How grandly were you praised
As your brother hearkened Hitler's cries
And gave the perfect democrat a cross.

IX

Be warned of this, America, of all
Your manly powers malice must be least,
Even when the rumblings in the East
Announce your wound. The noble social wall
Of order, having trembled to its fall,
May be rebuilt most firmly of the best
Construction, letting wanton weapons rest,
Drawing cankerous vinegal and gall.
If Hate is lacking, Hate who undermined
The sweet foundations firstly with his flow
Of bitter wine, and left no pinion strong.
If we would build the wall, we must be kind;
Its strength is in the natural human flow
Of understanding, and its life is long.

X

We the hearts that sheathe the flesh in steel
And beat our cadence on the smoky stree;
We the hearts that taste the minute, sweet
Between the hours of battle; We who feel
The trembling palm of earth beneath, who reel
Upon the rising dust, and kiss the fleet
And burning bullett. We who fall to meet
The humid shirt of grass with joy, and deal
Our dim and ragged cards to destiny
Without a middleman to cut the pack,
Or help the swirling fall of fate be fair;
We know in aching heart a mystery.
We see the infant blue through ancient black,
And find a cheerful teardrop in dispair.

XI

My Mary, dear, how fond the faded day
We wandered last in springtime's verdure green
Along the hilly avenue! I ween
That my troubled hours have passed away
From bright experience since the careless play
Of youthfull jollity our eyes have seen
In our beloved town. The mystic sheen
Of Nichol's Arboretum and the stream,
The Pretzel Bell, and Floutzes, and a nook
Hidden in the Parrot's sunken eye
Where the smoky hours dreamed a dream
Of wonder days, the pencil and the book
Momently forgotten for a sigh!

XII

When the fire life has left me cold
And I am no more conscious of the day,
Nor hear the chimes the carrillon will play,
When I am dead and cannot feel the hold
Of your familiar hand, or know the mould
Of my own form; When I cannot say
The words that sing my poems and betray
My thoughts and love to lovers as of old,
Still you will find me ever by your side,
Whispering from winding roads and flowers
That blossom in the spring, and from the sea
That dashes on the shore, and gulls that glide
Homeward in the spray to drying bowers,
So commonplace when I have ceased to be.

XIII

'Till time has closed my eyes I'll look on you
As early as the mystic summer rain
That wakes the flowers to morning life again,
I'll hold you closely as the rose the dew.
'Till death has closed my ears, I'll listen to
The symphony of your sweet lip's refrain,
Far sweeter still than Earth's sublimest strain
Might in its most inspired hour pursue.
Though you are gone, I see you in the snow
That rests its mantle on the mountain's brow
And lifts its soft white lips to God above;
And, in my sweetest, dearest dream, I know
That you could never be more near than now.
I have you yet, through time and death, my love!

XIV

Death has spoken from his silent halls,
Hissing solemn syllables, the boy
Listens; whispers interrupt his joy
And tell him of a chamber without walls,
Infinitesimal, the minute calls
Of morning birds excluded, their deploy
Too sweetly vast. No horrid blast's annoy
Invades the tiny closet of the palls.
Silent retrogression of the years
Sends him out of living's crowded room,
Form friendly hands and eyes, and from the girl
Whose laughter cheered him and whose silent tears
Follow toward a long forgotton womb
Reentered past the germ's primeval swirl.

OC JOHN HUNTER,
3 CO. 3 S. T. R.

The Sleeping Men

2nd Prize, Verse, $25 War Bon:

SGT. LEONARD SUMMERS, Hq. Co., Acad. Reg't.

Across the sea, across the sea,
Beneath a once-green lawn,
Where flowered beds are ripped to shreds.
There lies a human pawn;
And while he lies in death's dark guise,
The war goes on and on.

On sleeping men, oh sleeping men,
You men who still have life,
Who have not stayed the evil blade
Of famine, fear and strife,
Arise, dull youth! Arise to truth!
Lest you beget the knife!

The men who sleep across the deep,
Have had their taste of lead;
They fought in mud, and with their blood,
They painted sabers red;
And while they sleep, their mother's weep,
Because these men are dead.

But over here, we drink our beer,
And golf and swim and dance;
We laugh, get married, and play the varied
And sundry games of chance;
And then we creep in bed and sleep,
And dream of sweet romance.

We sleep too light, we sleep too tight,
We sleep with open eyes;
We sleep with dense indifference
To war. We are not wise,
For while we jest, and have our rest,
Another soldier dies.

And so it seems in life and dreams,
We all are sleeping men;
Across the deep, the dead men sleep—
But we sleep too; and when
We twiddle thumbs and turn out crumbs
Of work, we sleep again.

Oh sleeping men, oh sleeping men,
You men who still have life,
Who have not stayed the evil blade
Of famine, fear and strife,
Arise, dull youth Arise to truth!
Lest you beget the knife!

ODE

To an Airman and His Craft

Upon a ship of war, you rise and soar
Above this low magnetic ground;
In unison your motors hum and roar
Protection, staunch, to us earth-bound.

Your wings with fury rend and slash
The clouds in their cool atmosphere;
With daring aim you climb and flash
Toward greater height of blue frontier.
In silhouette on earth's high ceiling,
Your mighty frame is now in flight
A microscopic bird just stealing
Beyond the rim of our short sight.

We watch until we see your ship no more
With hearts that trail the distant sky;
You dare where man has never fought before
Into the stratosphere you fly!

—Camelia Moore
Columbus, Ga.

Lead crayons were used by the Aztecs at the time of Cortez.

A small quantity of pure alcohol in your gasoline will eliminate many of the winter driving complaints, such as frozen gasoline lines, fuel pumps, and carburetors.

The proper position for a driver is to sit squarely behind the wheel and to keep erect. Look over the wheel instead of through the spokes.

We Are Happy
To Extend
Our Best Wishes
to
Fort Benning
On Your
Silver Anniversary
PITT'S
SERVICE STORE
1024 13th Street
Phone 5409

JANE MOXON

'Itsa Pleasure' Opens Nov. 16

A breezy new musical hit, "It's A Pleasure," has been booked as the next stage attraction to play the Benning circuit, and the opening date has been set for Tuesday, November 16. "It's A Pleasure" promises to be one of the most pleasurable shows ever to appear here at Fort Benning.

Although music is emphasized, both instrumental and vocal, this revue also presents the dance in all its contrasting styles as well as plenty of rib cracking comedy. A dazzling and clever novelty act adds the proper touch to round out the bill.

In the cast are Jane Moxon, known as the "Sophisticated Singer of Songs;" Maryette Evans and Family in "Dances New and Old." Maryette is truly one of the nabatic dancers. Gene Clayton does "Bits of Prestidigitation" and Red Pepper is the master of ceremonies. Music will be supplied by the 300th Infantry Dance Band under the direction of Sgt. Al Krosic.

Following is the schedule of performances:

Tuesday, Nov. 16—Main Theatre—7:00 and 8:45 p. m.

Wednesday, Nov. 17—Main Theatre—7:00 and 8:45 p. m.

Thursday, Nov. 18 — Theatre No. 3—7:30 and 9:15 p. m.

Friday, Nov. 19—Alabama Area Gym—7:00 and 8:45 p. m.

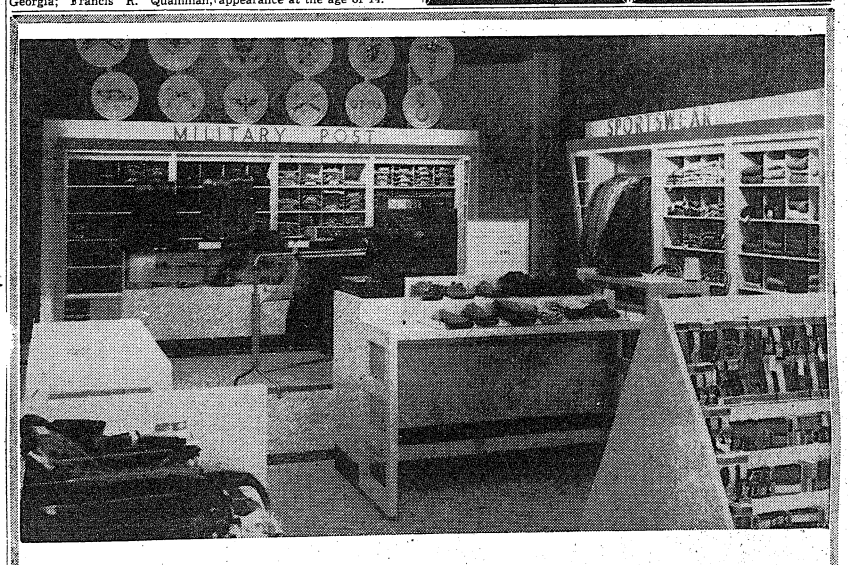
Saturday, Nov. 20 — Theatre No. 7—7:30 and 9:15 p. m.

Monday, Nov. 22—Theatre No. 11—7:00 and 8:45 p. m.

Tuesday, Nov. 23—Theatre No. 4—7:00 and 8:45 p. m.

NEW CAPTAINS

Five men attending The Infantry School's Officers' Advanced Course, and two tactical officers of the Infantry School staff were promoted to the rank of captain, it was announced yesterday. They are: George M. Talbot, Atlanta Georgia; Francis R. Quamman, Velva, N. Dak.; Fred H. Horlock, Gulfport, Miss; Frank S. Alexander, Charlotte, N. C.; Robert Harry Liedike, Englewood, Colo.; and William H. Greene, Plant City, Fla.



Brahms made his first concert appearance at the age of 14.

ALL-AMERICA GEORGIA

"Georgia the All-American State," says a slogan on a local car. Fort Benning is helping out. A check of a barracks, chosen at random, showed 36 States represented in the 48 men living there.

CALL
SALTER'S
TAXI CO.
DIAL 5321
White Patronage Only
CLEAN CARS
COURTEOUS SERVICE
Open All the Time

MEET YOUR BUDDIES
at the
Eagle Army Store
Headquarters For
OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN
Uniforms and Military Supplies
1018 BROADWAY

KIRVEN'S New MEN'S SHOP
Serves the Military, too

It doesn't take long for a man to know just the clothes he wants . . . the trouble comes in finding a PLACE to buy them. Well, sir, relax! KIRVEN'S new MEN'S SHOP is the answer.

Surrounded by manly-fashions . . . spiked with a "tomorrow-trend" atmosphere, the BEST in a man is encouraged.

You consider yourself hard to please in quality, styla end price, don't you? . . . . KIRVEN'S has what you want to satisfy your discriminating taste.

Aside from the counters for Civvies, the new MEN'S SHOP proudly boasts its "MILITARY POST," exclusive articles for Army and Navy men. Make it your hangout for holiday shopping sprees.

KIRVEN'S New MEN'S SHOP
(ENTER THRU MAIN STORE OR 12th ST.)

MAIL GIFTS BY DEC. 10TH

J. A. KIRVEN CO.
Your Complete Department Store

THE BAYONET

The Benning Bayonet is published by the Ledger-Enquirer Company in the interest of the officers and enlisted men of Fort Benning and distributed to all units that make up Greater Fort Benning.

Policies and statements reflected in the news columns or editorials represent views of the individual writers and under no circumstances are to be considered those of the Army of the United States.

Advertisements in this publication do not constitute an endorsement by the War Department or its personnel of the products advertised.

All news matter for publication should be sent to the Public Relations Officer at Fort Benning. News furnished by Public Relations Office is available for general release.

National advertising representative: The Inland Newspaper Representative, Inc., Wrigley Building, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bayonet (By Mail Only) 1 Year $2; 6 Months $1.25; 3 Months 75c—Payable in Advance.

PUBLISHED BY THE LED GER-ENQUIRER COMPANY

Columbus, Ga. Telephone 8831

Member of Fort Benning Press Association

"This is our first aim that the peoples of Europe must have freedom to choose their own government. We must also see that there is not in the future any chance for aggression by Germans."

—Joseph Stalin.

Dedicated To Benning Alumni The World Over

Today, November 11, 1943, THE BAYONET is marking a dual anniversary—that of the 25th birthday of Fort Benning and that of cessation of hostilities of the First World War.

A quarter of a century ago this day was marked by the gladsome news that Germany had laid down her arms in the face of the overwhelming might of the Allies; factory whistles and madly tolling church bells provided the turbulent orchestration for the hymn of thanksgiving to Almighty God on high entoned throughout the land that the dogs of war had at long last been muzzled and that Peace had returned.

Now we are engaged in another war and Benning alumni, Infantrymen, subjects of the Queen of Battles, prepared for combat in Fort Benning's great Infantry School; tankmen trained in the dust and mud of Benning's Sand Hill area; bold and fearless paratroopers who graduated from Benning's magnificent Parachute School; airmen who added to their experience as troop carriers at Lawson Field, are carrying the fight to the enemy on all of the far-flung battle fronts of the globe. Thousands who are still in training here will soon add their bit to the armed and irresistable might of the United Nations.

To these men THE BAYONET and Fort Benning send their greetings; for the success of our arms in the present we entone again a prayer of thanksgiving; for a glorious victorious conclusion we fervently offer a prayer of supplication; and to our alumni we gratefully dedicate this Silver Anniversary issue commemorating the founding of Fort Benning.

Our Game Is Desperate So Zip Your Lip

Our national existence and our liberty are at stake. They can be preserved only by dependence upon the efficient operation of our military intelligence and our counter-intelligence services.

The first of these jobs involves finding out everything we can about the enemy. We are taking care of that! The second one consists of keeping our enemies from finding out what our plans are. That's harder! That is harder because we make it hard for ourselves. We have not learned yet to keep our mouths shut.

Everyone of us knows some facts that the enemy would like to know. Individual facts may not seem to be important, but if the enemy gets all of these, he can piece them together and have a picture of all our plans and intentions. Regard each of these facts as you would a gun. Do not be placed in the position of saying: 'I didn't know it was loaded'.

We are playing a desperate game. We are playing it for keeps—with only one currency, human lives, your life and mine!

The enemy has long ears. He's keen on getting information. He stops at nothing to get it. But getting information is something in which—if he makes the effort—you may contribute and help him out. We must avoid this by keeping our mouths shut. If we say nothing, the enemy cannot hear. Let us keep our mouths shut!

Major General Geo. V. Strong.

Great Leaders Come From Great Homes

The Reader's Digest, a while back, told the story of a voter approached by heelers from both parties on his way to the polls. One party offered him seventy-five cents for his vote. The other offered only fifty cents. He pocketed both offers but voted for the fifty cent proposal because it was "less corrupt." Voting for the lesser of two evils has long been the practice of America's political disillusion. In the new world we are fighting for we might aim to be able to vote always for the greater of two goods.

"But good men don't always run," as some reader may protest. Whose fault is that? Responsibility in a democracy is not simply to choose the better of two men but to see that good men offer themselves and, even back of that, to see that men are good.

We try to do this on the cheap by hiring school teachers and ministers to produce good men for us. But it doesn't work that way. School and church seldom undo the prior training of a home. The only way to make sure of a good man in the White House is to make sure of good men in every house—starting with your house and mine.

"But we know nothing about politics," some family may suggest. "How can we train statesmen in our home?" Lincoln's father and foster mother knew nothing about politics. But they did teach him the great truths of the Bible and the simple principle of honesty. Great statesmen learned at home to put their country first and think of themselves last. The moral character of our leaders—even more than the laws they uphold—makes the difference between order and chaos in municipal, state and national affairs.

Every home of character which produces men of character is an incubator for the leadership our country needs. Even when our own home has no man available we can influence the home next door or down the street. Election day in the new world we're wanting must be every day in every home across America. Then "we the people" can nominate, elect and stand behind worthwhile representatives because we have given them something worthwhile to represent.

Failure No Shame If You Keep Trying

So you busted O. C. School? How many times have you been asked this question and had to fumble for a suitable answer. Sort of apologizing for yourself. Well you needn't be ashamed because the fact you were chosen to go to the school shows you have some qualifications that others do not possess and it doesn't mean you won't have another chance if you desire it. You have been fortunate in that you were given training that in a few months that the average soldier would take a year or longer to receive, and then, the type of training that you received cannot be duplicated anywhere.

The 300th considers itself fortunate in having a number of these men in its ranks and welcomes them.

The fact that you were chosen and didn't make the grade should make you mad and perhaps give you a feeling of being wronged, but don't be too hasty in your judgment. If the first judgment was correct you will quickly adapt yourself to your new environment and prove to your fellow soldiers that you do have the stuff and when your second chance comes and it will help you make the grade. Don't live in the past, lamenting, but rather remembering the knowledge you gained and put it to practical use. Your abilities will soon be recognized and once again you will start that climb up the ladder of success. Think what would happen to a football player if every time he was tackled he gave up. Remember that you are carring the ball and are in a pretty tough league so do your best and you are bound to come out on the winning side.

Sgt. Dean Robinson,
Co. E, 300th Inf.

The Army Chaplain—Your Friend And Mine

Quoting General Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander in the South Pacific, "there are no athiests in fox-holes". This is not surprising when we consider the emphasis placed by the Army leaders upon religion. In most cases is is probably true that soldiers attend church more in the Army than when they were civilians.

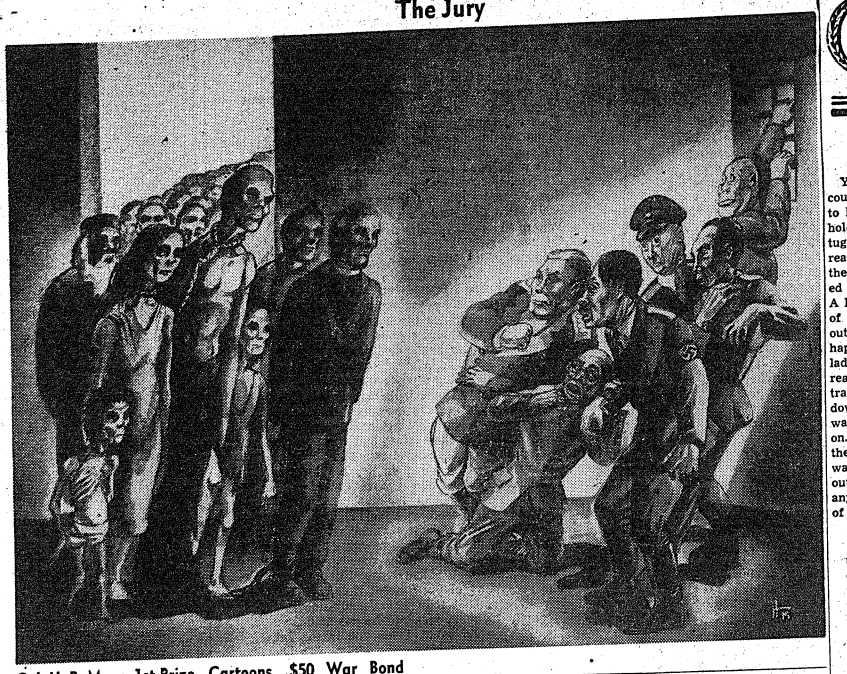
The sterling qualities of the Chaplains and the painted unsectarian sermons they preach could be a lession to many civilian ministers, who become so involved in tricky doctrianl points that they forget the fundamental Christian tenets. In the Army the soldier is faced with two choices; one is to continue living by his former Moral standards and second to throw overboard all the teachings of his childhood and let his desires and impulses assume command of him. the fact that so few men do this is due in large part to the kindly, expert advice of the Army Chaplain.

The Chaplain goes into battle alongside our brave troops, doing all within his power to see them safely through the mental and moral turmoil of battle. His is the job of administering the last rite to the dying and seeing to it that they leave the world in peace. It is the purpose of the Army Chaplain to render services to the men and to organize church facilities for their use.

The duties of the Chaplain are of many varied types. They range from delivering funeral services and wedding ceremonies to acquiring money and help for the needy soldier. Our Chaplain is a friend of all. He is the one who can find the answer to most problems confronting a soldier. If you need advice concerning some phase of your training or army career, see your Chaplain. He can help you, and most likely he will find a plausible explanation, or remedy for your situation. "Holy Joe", as he is sometimes called, is a valuable asset to any Army organization. He is a decided morale builder. Men must be up in their spirits and their morale must be high before they can fight as they should. It is the job of the Chaplain to keep this morale up. He uses his own kind spirit and ability to lead men, to accomplish this mission.

The Army Chaplain Corps is made up of competent men, who have been schooled for many years in the way of life and religion. They are there because they know their job and know it well. Do not hesitate to see your Chaplain when you are in need of guidance. He is there to help you and he will help you.

Pvt. Howard J. Nelson,
13th Co., 6th Regt., ASTP.



To try for a new world without a fresh spirit in its people is like trying to make an omelet with outdated eggs.

The "new system" we need most is a new nervous system—nerve to do what's right.

Men cannot live without fighting. But when they fight for different things it's war. When they fight for the same thing it's peace.

If we think of peace simply as getting back to the old days and ways, victory won't get us ahead.

The Jury

—Cpl. H. B. Moon, 1st Prize, Cartoons, $50 War Bond

USO Presents—

FREE PHONE CALLS HOME; TURKEY DAY PARTY, AND ROLLER SKATING

By PFC. S. A. KEITEL

Three free long-distance telephone calls home will be awarded soldiers every week from the Salvation Army USO's in Columbus and Phenix City, Mrs. Kathleen Barrow and Mrs. Edna Scott, program directors, announced . . . Two of the calls will be awarded at the Phenix City unit, one to the winner of the movie quiz Wednesday at 9 p. m. and one to the winner of the Sunday afternoon quiz . . . The other call will be given some lucky serviceman or woman who attends the new open house program Wednesdays at 7 p. m. in the Columbus Salvation Army USO.

* * *

Two hundred servicemen are invited to a Thanksgiving Eve party at the Columbus Salvation Army USO . . . Making a reservation beforehand will assure a place at the buffet that night of Nov. 24.

* * *

Big news from Ninth street USO:—The USO basketball league will open Monday, Nov. 15, and the Christmas gift headache will be eased by a "soldier-shopper" committee and the usual Christmas wrapping service, which will be inaugurated there today, Nov. 11.

* * *

The first four teams of the 10-team leagues will take to the hardwood of Ninth street USO auditorium on Monday night . . . Rules and regulations for the leagues have been adopted, and schedules are being completed . . . All of Fort Benning is represented in the cage play, and the roster of almost every team includes some well known college basketball stars.

* * *

The word is that a "Lucky Seventh" Armored Division GI is quite a fellow at telling fortunes with playing cards . . . Scene of his activities is the Phenix City USO, where 'tis said he specializes in reading the future of femmes . . . His name, T-5 Martin Powers of "E" Company, 87th Recon.

* * *

A quick glance at the program of Mr. G. W. Avison, program director at Army-Navy YMCA-USO, reveals there is roller skating on the patio at the club Thursdays from 8 p. m., Sundays from 2 to 5 p. m. and Sunday between 7 and 10 p. m. . . . Other highlights besides the stable features include a dance Saturday at 8:30 p. m., Mother's Corner Sunday at 4 p. m. with punch and homemade cake, the Silhouette Hour at the same time Sundays and the recorded program of classical music Mondays at 8 p. m.

Kay Says—

SHE ENCAUNTERS GASTRONOMICAL DIFFICULTIES PLEA SING HUBBY

Time was when I could put a meal on the table and feel sure of uncritical participants, when a dish of hash was considered by the man of the house as fine a dish of hash as he had ever put fork to, and when a leg of lamb, offset with a mealy baked potato, was enough to keep a husband contented for a week, in reminiscense.

But that was before my particular male of the species started to sample the gastronomical delights found in various part of the United States. Since then my good, plain cooking—plain, anyhow—has met with untold criticism, and I have received innumerable hints as to how it might be improved.

* * *

This is doubly aggravating because I've been hewing to the line, trying to get the most of those mysterious vitamins out of the greens and remembering that the most valuable part of the potato is that next to the skin. I have my rules down pat. Two or more servings of leafy green or yellow vegetables, and all the rest of it. Maybe we're getting more healthy, but I must admit it gets a bit uninteresting.

* * *

If my husband were also one who abides by the book, all would be well. But alas, I'm cursed with a spouse who has an insatiable desire to experiment, to better the already perfect, to cast a wary eye on the blunt fact and the unanswerable argument He goes on the same theory as does a southern friend who, when approached on the inadvisability of fried chicken and hot biscuits for breakfast, answered "it may be dietetically unsound, but gastronomically it's swell." He also goes on the theory that if you eat enough of everything, eventually you're going to have a balanced diet.

Throughout the years I have laboriously learned to make enchiladas, Italian spaghetti, chop suey, rum-tum ditty, kroppkakor, ragmunk, and whatever else happened to be "gastronomically swell" at the moment. With the advent of rationing I thought my troubles were over. After all, you can't do much if you don't have the proper ingredients. I'm inclined lately to believe that food should be a matter of nourishment rather than a source of enjoyment.

* * *

However, my alibi is broken down by certain mess sergeants around the post, from whose meals my husband returns with ecstatic descriptions of fried chicken, hot biscuits, turnip greens, and the like. From various adventures throughout the vicinity I am regaled with tales of how appetizing rice can be if properly cooked, how even the humble yellow squash can be a thing of pleasure if it's properly prepared, and how the south does something with cornmeal and grits which make subsequent dishes fit for a king.

There are two ways out of my dilemma. I can learn to fry chicken as a particular mess seems to have done; I can learn to cook turnip greens with "white meat," devise a new recipe for corn broad, and stand at someone's elbow learning the exact recipe for certain succulent dishes. Or I can run an advertisement in the Daily Bulletin: "Wanted, cook. Must have knowledge of Mexican, Swedish, Italian, German, middle-west, western, and southern cookery. Must not be adverse to criticism, and eager to please. Price no object."

Will anyone settle for beef pot roast, browned potatoes, sweet-sour beans, and apple pie with cheese?

Sgt. McDonald's Basket

COLONEL SWAMP WATER GOES ON HIS VERY FIRS T FOX HUNT

By 1-SGT. TOM McDONALD

"Colonel Swampwater's First Fox Hunt"

Among the outstanding events here at Fort Benning is the officers' club annual Fall Fox Hunt. As a recreational feature, its politico-military significance is unsurpassed. Here an officer may rise to the heights in the eyes of his fellows or he may equally sink to the point where he will be adjudged a place on their "lists."

On this occasion the promising young officers are allowed to rub elbows with the more refined element of the "higher brass" and thus generally be reeking in opportunity to better themselves.

The scene of this event is the spacious golf links of our fair post. Here the officers and their ladies and the W.A.C. officers and their friends from the Corps of Engineers are mounted on practically all of the Infantry School stable's available nags.

When the "imported Fox" is turned loose near hole one, the gala affair begins. Due to the fact that Colonel Swampwater's dog "Carpenter" had been selected to enact the role of "the fox," General Quagmire had extended a special invitation to my commanding officer to attend the Hunt.

As the afternoon of the Hunt finally arrived, I was accosted in the hall by my leader, when I was returning from lunch. The ol' boy was attired in an outfit that would have put any peacock to shame. Besides his flaming red coat and leather puttees, he had a fatigue hat of herringbone quill cocked rather precariously on his head. A long white feather stuck out of the hat, reminding me of a radio antenna. There was no sign of rank anywhere on his person.

"Sergeant! he beamed, "This afternoon is going to be an event in your young life. I'm going to let you act as my groom."

"Does that mean I have to get married?" I gulped.

"Of course not!" he retorted. "All you will have to do is attend the Hunt, partake of the refreshments according to rank, act as a sort of valet, and help me on and off my horse."

"It's a deal!" I replied, sensing excitement.

After arriving at the scene of the Hunt and following my leader about the grounds as he greeted all of his friends and gave them a chance to see one of his more stunning sport costumes; the horses were brought together and as soon as their riders were present, we "grooms" set to work.

Being surprisingly agile for an "office officer", Colonel Swampwater managed to get on his horse ten minutes ahead of General Quagmire. It appeared that the General was too modest to step up on his horse by way of his groom's neck, as my commanding officer had done.

I noted during the excitement that there were no fox 'hounds present. I later learned from one of the other "grooms" that they had just recently gone overseas as officers in the K9 corps. Since all the Georgia foxes were on duty as Demonstrators at the Infantry School in Hasty Field Fortifications, "Carpenter" was the only animal present besides the horses.

Although the poor dog didn't seem to have his heart in the task ahead, he did put up a gala front. Being rather small in size, he had been dyed a bright orange color so as to resemble a fox. It was evident that one of his lop ears had been overlooked in the process.

He was brought out in a box and set down about thirty yards in front of the Hunting party. When the box door was open so as to release him, "Carpenter" refused to appear. All of the gay lords and their ladies, the impatient grooms, and the prancing horses tended to give him "buck fever." He later confessed to an airdale friend of his that he felt like "the target for tonight!"

Due to General Quagmire's great impatience, "Carpenter's" groom reached in the box and grabbed the pup by the tail. A bite on the hand soon convinced said groom that he had made a hasty decision. Not to be outdone by this act, he then tilted the box upside down and "Carpenter" came rolling out.

Utterly unaware of the momentum of the occasion, "Carpenter" instead of bounding into the bush to start the chase, walked amiably over to Colonel Swampwater and wagged his tail. The ol' boy gave the poor canine a look that no man should ever bestow on man's best friend.

General Quagmire opened his mouth to put in his two cents worth, but before he could express himself, a south Georgia swamp rabbit came bounding out of a nearby thicket. With a wild and happy howl, "Carpenter" took out after him in hot pursuit.

"Yippee!" yelled Colonel Swampwater, and the Hunt was on. Galloping over green and hazard, the party followed "Carpenter" with high glee.

That evening after a rather successful hunt (in which Carpenter had finally caught the rabbit), a party was given in one of the more spacious homes near the golf course to honor the occasion. We grooms were elected to serve and act as "butlers." I had the honor of being stationed near the door.

After everyone had arrived and the party began to take on great stimulus, I noted that my commanding officer had not yet appeared. I was wondering whatever had become of him, when suddenly the front door swung open and there he was.

"Where have you been Sir?" I inquired.

"I had to take the rabbit away from Carpenter, Sergeant! You know how the meat shortage is?"

"Yes, Sir," I answered.

"Well here I go, Sergeant!" he grinned, and with an ambling sort of swagger, he approached the nearest group which consisted of three officers and their ladies.

"Well; Well! Well;" greeted Colonel Swampwater.

Humpt! sneered the party, turning their backs on him and going off in a different direction. The ol' boy stood there scratching his head for a while. Then he shrugged his shoulders and walked over to General Quagmire's party.

Egad! retorted the General. And the rest of his party sneered and took off. Colonel Swampwater got red in the face, scratched his head, and then went to several more groups. Each time they gave him the cold shoulder and walked off. Meanwhile I learned from one of the other "butlers" exactly what the trouble was. So when the ol' boy finally came back over to where I was, I turned up my nose and started to walk off.

"Dammit, Sergeant!" Come back here! I demand to know what I'm being ostracised for!" he bellowed.

Not replying, I drew back and looked at him along the ridge of my nose.

"So help me, I'll bust you if you don't explain this situation," he glared.

"Well, Sir," I said, "if you must know, when one is out with a formal group of lords and ladies riding to the hounds, as the saying goes, upon sighting the objective one says "Tallyho! the fox!—not "Hey Quagmire, there goes the little lopeared son uv a—

Chaplain's Corner...

HOLD ON, BILL

Chaplain F. M. Thompson

Years ago while passing along a country road I saw a lad trying to lead a cow up a hill. He had hold of a rope and after much tugging and persuading he almost reached the top, when, to his grief the cow whirled around and rushed pellmell down to the bottom. A little toddler seated on a stump of a tree jumped up and piped out, "Hold on, Bill, hold on!" This happened three or four times. The lad would succeed in almost reaching the top then the contrary beast would make a break down again. The little fellow always crying "Hold on, Bill, hold on." At last Bill got the cow to the top. Then the little chap wabbled over to me and sticking out his chest said, "I'd like to see any darned old cow get the best of me and Bill."

* * *

Many days passed before the philosophy of the incident came to me. But one of the tragedies of life is the frustration of one's hopes and desires,—the failure to get the old cow to the top of the hill. We plan on a large scale and the performance is very meager. We think of gold and marble, and build with sticks and mud. The songs we would sing are never written. The good cause we advocate comes to naught. The reforms for which we labor, fail. Our highway is littered with broken hopes and unrealized ambitions.

* * *

However there are compensations. Some do get the old cow to the top of the hill,—some do come to place and honor. What the father could not do his son accomplishes. The mother's ambition is realized in the daughter. The people we help and inspire bring things to pass. The good causes in which we failed are consumated in the lives of others. All because, and only because, in some dark hour, in the night of heartache and discouragement some one has been kind enough to say, "Hold on, Bill, hold on."

* * *

"Others shall sing the song,
Others shall right the wrong,
Finish what I begin,
And all I fail of win."

G. I. Theater

BY BARRY

Those brilliant, spectacular between-the-halves exhibitions executed by the 176th Infantry Band and Drum and Bugle Corps are conceived and coached by Sgt. Raymond Ariel Cross who prior to his enlistment was drum-major of the Coe College ROTC Military Band and as coach of the Cedar Rapids Drum and Bugle Corps won the Lions International and the highest Worlds Fair awards for his splendid formations.

Sgt. Justin Wagner, the genial M. C. who conducts the 'blind date' and Variety Night programs at Service Club No. 2 is leaving for Washington and Lee University in Virginia where the Army's Special Service School is located. He has a lot on the ball and should pick up a few new curves while there.

* * *

The 300th Infantry Band has a five piece dance combo that is strictly solid. Book them through their Special Service Office . . . Incidently these lads are cooking up something for the boys that should be ready to serve around and about Xmas time. Watch this column for further imfo.

* * *

OFF THE RECORD — We can't all performers be like Jo and Jane McKenna who appeared with the USO Camp Show "Town Topics?" . . . Gee, they were swell people! . . . Too bad those proposed "Sunday Serenade" programs didn't materialize . . . Bad case of 'canditis' layed 'em lower than that even . . . Does anyone know where a G. I. magician can be found? . . . If you do, please, phone 3411.

Philip Morris Sportsreels may be obtained along with your G I. Movies to round out your evenings' film program. Contact the Post Special Service Office for bookings.

Moto... Furlo...

A Navy... and spends... boat! An Ad... tor school... lough. Wha... spends an e... half-track g...

Play, rec... tered the... Krosskove... School Serv... left Fort... Atlantic Ci... feminine cu... famous Boa... beaches.

He was... acrid scent... and daily to... try engine, ... resort city,...

But not... was staging... War Loan...

What it... two GIs, s... rines, who... licenses. Ou... and was im...

The city... the other d... the hospital... had been in... This GI w... least fit en...

The Thr... arrived and... ging down... at the heir... track gun c... thousands... streets to w...

THERE HE...

In the pa... out over a... American... snappy drum... coast guart... navy, the a... the Red C... a whole bu... diers, and o... sergeant.

Queried a... ic soldier re... from differ... geant respo... only infant... parade." T... well as th... was solely... geant Kross...

The serge... a big kick... to countless... procession. ... body I kne...

"The half... I had to dri... he said, "b...

Sergeant... doing his b... even on fur...

We co... ments... on eve...

It has... value t... years.

Broadw...

Motor School Sergeant Furloughs Driving Truck

A Navy swob gets a furlough and spends half his time rowing a boat! An Adademic Regiment motor school sergeant gets a furlough. What do you think? He spends an evening driving a huge half-track gun carrier!

Play, recreation and fun entered the mind of Sgt. Harry Krosskove, Company H, Infantry School Service Command, as he left Fort Benning recently for Atlantic City, the city with its feminine curves, the scene of the famous Boardwalk and beautiful beaches.

He was far removed from the acrid scent of smoking gasoline and daily toil over a hot and sultry engine when he arrived at the resort city, his home town.

But not for long—Atlantic City was staging a tremendous Third War Loan drive parade.

What it lacked, it seemed, was two GIs, soldiers, sailors or marines, who had military driver's licenses. Our sergeant volunteered and was immediately accepted.

The city finally kept looking for the other driver and procured at the hospital there a soldier who had been injured in overseas duty. This GI was pronounced fit—at least fit enough for the parade.

The Third War Loan drive day arrived and our hero came chugging down the famous Boardwalk at the helm of a gigantic half-track gun carrier to the cheer of thousands who had lined the streets to view the huge show.

THERE HE WAS

In the parade that was "spread out over a mile long" were the American Legion with its two snappy drum and bugle corps, the coast guards, the marines, the navy, the army air corps aviators, the Red Cross, the Boy Scouts, a whole busload of wounded soldiers, and one Academic Regiment sergeant.

Queried as to how one Academic soldier felt in the mass of men from different services, our sergeant responded that "he was the only infantryman in the whole parade." The U. S. Infantry as well as the Academic Regiment was solely represented by Sergeant Krosskove.

The sergeant admits that he "got a big kick out of it" and waved to countless friends during the procession. That way I saw everybody I knew."

"The half-track was hot because I had to drive it at a slow speed," he said, "but it was worth it."

Sergeant Krosskove is not only doing his bit here at Benning but even on furlough he took time out in a patriotic gesture to help Atlantic City go "way over the top" in its Third War Loan drive!

BAYONET—

(Continued from Page One)

opens at Ingersoll St. and Wold avenue.

FEBRUARY 1943

Capt. Hank Gowdy, after whom Gowdy Field was named, arrives to assume duties as special officer for The Infantry School.

Ft. Benning branch of Muscogee County Ration Board set up on Post to facilitate handling of rationing problems for military personnel. Corp. Louis Lipp (Now Sergeant Lipp) placed in charge.

Fort Benning remains on Eastern War Time as Columbus and surrounding territory go on Central War Time—and it's still confusing.

New Post Office opened.

MARCH 1943

Service Club No. 1 reopens following repairs after fire last last November.

Columbus-Phenix City, post officials stage luncheon to mark success in battle against venereal disease and vice.

First WAAC (Now WAC) contingent arrives.

Post soars over top in Red Cross fund drive.

513th Parachute Infantry Regiment set up as training regiment for graduates of The Parachute School, under command of Lt. Col. Albert H. Dickerson.

Catholic Mission held on Post.

Second Student Training Regiment beats out Academic Profs for second half basketball title in Ft. Benning Conference, then defeat 55th Engineers, 10th Armored Division champs.

Anthony Eden, General Sir John Dill, General George C. Marshall, tour post.

APRIL 1943

Baseball season opens.

Band at Reception Center authorized on full-time basis.

Col. Henry P. Perrine, executive officer of The Infantry School, made brigadier general. Soon after is named C. O. of School Troops Brigade.

Captain Ruth Anderson, chief nurse at Station Hospital, made major, one of few in Army Nurse Corps.

Second WAAC unit assigned to duty in The Infantry School.

New cafeteria opens, Wold Ave., and Ingersoll St., to relieve situation on Main Post.

176th Infantry, famous old Virginia regiment, comes to Post.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt pays surprise visit, inspects Fort Benning.

MAY 1943

Pathe completes filming of new Army short "Lieutenant Smith," at The Infantry School.

Twenty-one mothers are honored as guests of Post on Mother's Day.

CBS "Church of the Air" broadcast from Ft. Benning, featuring Chaplain Frederick S. Zeller.

A. S. T. P. Basis Training Center for 18 year old selectees, activated. Col. S. R. Tupper, commander of the Student Training Brigade, named in charge.

High ranking Brazilian officials tour fort.

After 25 years on post, 29th Infantry leaves.

JUNE, 1943

Thirty 176th Infantrymen staged forced march from Atlanta.

Brig. Gen. Robert W. Grow, commander of Combat Force A of 10th Armored Division, leaves for California to assume command of 6th Armoured Division at Camp Cooke.

First contingent of 12,000 ASTP youths arrive.

Officer Candidate Course lengthened from 13 to 17 weeks.

Col. Arthur C. Blain assumes command of Second Student Training Regiment, succeeding Col. Edward B. Jackson, who takes command of the Fourth Basic Training Regiment.

WAAC company assigned to Lawson Field, making third for the Post.

Five 124th Infantry enlisted men and an Infantry School officer decorated for heroism in saving lives of a contingent of South American journalists earlier in spring.

An Army Specialized Training Center to handle approximately 6,000 colored troops placed under Lt. Col. (now full Colonel) Ulric N. James, commanding officer of the Colored Reception Center.

Self-government plan adopted for Baker Village and Benning Park.

Congressman Joseph C. Baldwin of New York, author of Second World War Veterans' Fund bill, inspects post.

Col. Robert Sharp, commander of First Student Training Regiment, becomes commander of Fifth Regiment, ASTP; Lt. Col. John S. Roosma, commander of Fifth Regiment becomes commander of First Student Training Regiment; Lt. Col. William B. Forse, commander of Sixth Regiment, ASTP, returns to Academic Department of The Infantry School.

Academic Profs capture first half baseball title of Infantry School league.

Order of Pulple Heart awarded to Aux. 1st Class Elsie Fechner Eklof, in honor of her husband, killed in Tunisia.

Patio Grill, outdoor refreshment garden for enlisted men, opened in conjunction with Exchange Cafeteria.

Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, commanding general of the United States Army Ground force, inspects The Infantry School.

Lieut. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, commanding general of the 2d Army, hero of American landing at Oran, inspects units of 2d Army at Fort Benning.

Jane Russell, hailed by Connoisseur Sgt. Carl Neu as America's loveliest and No. 1 pin-up girl, arrived in Columbus to cause hearts of every G. I. to flutter. Bayonet, despite shortage of materials, takes 22 pictures of her, goes completely ga-ga with palpitation. (Ed's Note—And we'd like 22 more.)

The Infantry School activates Sixth Regiment, ASTP. Col. Robert Sharp assumes command.

Six months course as laboratory technicians offered young girls at Unit 2, Station Hospital.

JULY, 1943

Special Service Office inaugurates new series of G. I. Movies.

First visit of Red Cross Mobile Blood Bank at Porst.

War Department establishes Italian Prisoner of War Camp at post.

Lt. Col. Julian B. Lindsay named Commanding officer of newly activated 515th Parachute Infantry Regiment.

Five officers, one non-com, killed in crash of an Army Transport plane from Fort Benning near Saxe, Va.

First WAAC-soldier wedding celebrated when Corp. Claire Parton was married to Sgt. Ben Yuter by Chaplain Samson Aaron Shain.

Academic Profs sweep series over The Parachute School to take Fort Benning baseball title.

Bill is approved to make WAACs part of Army; goes into effect Sept. 1.

Col. Ridgely Gaither assumes command of The Parachute School, replacing Brig. Gen. George P. Howell, who had served since its establishment.

Lt. Col. Francis L. J. Johnston commands 4th Battalion of 6th Training Regiment, ASTP.

Charles P. Taft, director of Office of Community War Services of the Federal Security Agency, visits the Fort.

First S. T. R. "Red Sox", take first-half title in the Service league baseball championship race.

Maj. Gen. H. F. Hazlett, commanding general of the Replacement and School command, visits post.

Lt. Col. I. Mims Gage, chief of surgical service, 24th General Hospital, ordered to Fourth Service Command headquarters, Atlanta, as consultant surgeon for the Service Command.

General Henri Honore Giraud, commanding general of the French armies in North Africa, pays surprise visit to Fort.

A Fort Benning soldier was killed, two others recaptured, one injured seriously when the trio made a desperate attempt to escape from the stockade where they were confined.

Chaplain Robert G. Alexander, San Saba, Tex., named regimental chaplain of the Fifth Training Regiment, ASTP.

Five officers of The Infantry School are made full colonels: Vincent S. Burton, commanding officer, Second Student Training Regiment; Paul Cooper, executive officer, the Tactical Section; Col. Harry D. McHugh, group chief, training of the Individual Soldier; Edward P. Passailaigue, commanding officer, first battalion, Third Student Training Regiment; John S. Roosma, commanding officer, First Student Training Regiment.

All-dial telephone system installed on Post.

The Second Student Training Regiment inactivation announced for August 1.

Orders were received for retirement of six high ranking officers under the age limit. Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, commanding general of Fort Benning is one. Others are Col. Stephen Massey, director of supply; Col. Reginale Kelley, reclassification officer; Col. Albert J. Bain, post engineer; Lt. Col. H. D. Mendenhall, sub-district commander, and Capt. Walter Cook, supply detachment.

"Limited Service" status of soldiers is ordered abolished by War Department order.

300th Infantry gets recreation hall.

Brig. J. P. Archambault and Brig. G. E. McQuaig, co-chairmen of the official selection and appraisal board of the Canadian armed forces, visit The Infantry School.

Post mess launches drive on food waste, seeking to cut down waste of edible food to 8 ounces per man per day.

Col. Richard R. Coursey, director of Officer Candidates of the Infantry School for last 10 months, appointed to G-1 Division of the War Department in Washington.

AUGUST 1943

New branch post office opened in Parachute School area.

Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, former commanding general of U. S. troops in Iceland, inspects Fort Benning.

Third Student Training Regiment dedicates new amphitheater.

Maj. Gen. Leven C. Allen, commandant of The Infantry School, announces that 68,307 have been graduated during past 19 months from officers and enlisted men's schools.

The recently activated 5th Training Regiment of the ASTP is planning to receive group of 2,230 ROTC cadets.

Lt Clifford Clinton, nationally known restaurant man, assistant mess officer at Fort Benning, leaves to direct Citizens Food Conservation program from Washington.

Gridiron practice starts as baseball still holds sway.

Col. Thomas W. Doyle, one of last officers to leave Bataan, technical director of war film "So Proudly We Hail," joins The Infantry School.

Nursery school established on Post to release mothers for various phases of war work.

Service Club No. 7 opened in the Alabama area for paratroops.

Largest graduating class in history of Parachute School receive wings.

Seventh Armored Division comes into Sand Hil area to replace 10th Armored. New division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silvester, just finished several youths training in depths of West Coast desert training center. Brig. General John B. Murphy is leader of Combat Command "A" and Brig. Gen. John B. Thompson commands Combat Command "B."

Lt. Col. John R. Weaver now of The Infantry School, awarded Silver Star for gallantry in action in North Africa.

Alice Marble, tennis star, stages exhibition match with Mary Hardwick at Officers Club tennis courts.

Col. R. M. Rooks, commandant of Bakers and Cooks School, named to act as assistant in a plan to co-ordinate all activities for the distribution and conservation of food in Fourth Service Command.

Col. Albert La Bel, head of French military mission to the United States, visits French officers and aspirants in training here.

During past fiscal year, almost half a million dollars saved through reclamation and salvage shops at Fort Benning.

Pvt. Albert W. Kissell found guilty and death sentence imposed by a general court-martial in connection with murder of his former companion, Pvt. Claude A. Alexander, Valparaiso, Ind., last winter.

Lt. Col. Robert E. Moore, decorated with the Silver Star for gallantry in North Africa, comes to The Infantry School.

SEPTEMBER 1943

Brig. Gen. Eric Fisher Wood, commanding general of Internal Security District 4 for the past 18 months, transferred to Headquarters Fourth Service Command in Atlanta.

Capt. Joseph F. Twohig, who gained national fame for administration of Army Post Office here, transferred to New Orleans.

First colored comapny of WACs arrive.

Swimming and diving championship meet held in Russ Pool.

Lt. Col. William T. Ryder, one of original officers of 501st Parachute Battalion at start of parachute training, later participant in African and Sicilian campaigns, returns to head 542nd Parachute Infantry.

Lieut. Col. James C. Hiter 29, commanding officer of the 515th Parachute Infantry, killed in a routine jumping accident.

Col. Wilson McK. Spann named commanding officer of the ASTP Basic Training Center.

More than 100 WACS awarded ribbons for service while the Corps was still Auxiliary Corps.

War Department removes wraps from "Bazooka," deadly anti-tank weapon, and pictures also permitted of anti-tank rifle grenades. Movie cameras record pictures of deadly weapons at Bickford range.

Italian prisoners of War celebrate capitulation of Italy with Te Deum mass.

176th Infantry Spirits climax second half baseball season by defeating Academic Profs in Ft. Benning's own "world series" to capture 1943 crown.

Lt. Col. Homer D. Wright named fiscal officer for post.

Col. Harry N. Burkhalter, commanding officer of The Academic Regiment, announces retirement, having reached automatic retirement age of 60.

Col. Jack L. Meyer, veteran of 34 years of Army service named Director of Supply, succeeding Col. Stephen B. Massey.

Lt. Col. Ulric N. James, commanding officer of Colored Reception Center, promoted to full colonel.

Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton, retiring commanding general of Fort Benning, heads Muscogee County War Fund Campaign as first major civilian job."

Maj. Gen. Charles Hartwell Bonesteel, former commander of the United Nations forces in Iceland, is named as Commandant of The Infantry School, succeeding Maj. Gen. Leven C. Allen, who had served since February, 1942.

OCTOBER 1943

Lieut. Col. Edward L. Littleton named post engineer, succeeding Col. Albert J. Bain, who retires.

Football season gets under way with match between 300th Sabers, 124th Infantry, 300th winning 19-7.

Post doubles bond quota during 3d War Loan drive, with almost a million dollars in sales.

Colonel William H. Hobson is named to succeed Brig. General Walter S. Fulton as commanding officer of Fort Benning. He comes here from duties in Washington, D. C.

First marble memorial plaque permanently installed in Post Chapel, honoring memeory of late Col. Loren Prescott Stewart, killed while with the 51st Infantry on Bataan.

Five free bus-lines inaugurated for service of families living on Main Post.

Parachute School holds open house, with big-time journalists, photographers as guests.

Maj. Gen. M. E. Bethouart, head of the French mission to U. S. visits Fort Benning.

DAILY NEWS SERVICE COMPLETE with maps, charts, and interpretations from the best sources, is available at the recently finished display in Service Club No. 1, which is being examined by Lt. John W. Inzer, post orientation officer. This is part of an intensified program to keep American soldiers well informed on progress of the war and current international affairs. Pointing out the various features of the display to Lt. Inzer is Corp. Barry Sturmer of the post special service office, in charge of the layout. In the foregr ound is Sgt. Donald B. Johnson of the Reproduction Plant, who designed and constructed the signs and posters. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

We congratulate each of you on the great achievements you have made and wish you best of luck on every undertaking.

It has always been a pleasure to serve you and we value the many fine associations made through the years.

Maxwell Bros. & McDonald Furniture

Broadway at 13th St. Tel. 3-6871

FORT BENNING

WE JOIN OUR NEIGHBORS

In Extending Our Sincere

Good Wishes on your

25th ANNIVERSARY

Montgomery Ward

Congratulations TO FT. BENNING AND ITS PERSONNEL ON THIS—YOUR SILVER ANNIVERSARY

PERMANENTS — SHAMPOOS — SETS
WAVES — MANICURES

We especially invite the wives and daughters of the officers and personnel of Fort Benning to visit our modern up-to-date parlors.

LINDSEY'S BEAUTY PARLOR

206 GILBERT BLDG. DIAL 9477

OUR BEST WISHES go to FORT BENNING on their 25th Anniversary

Military Men who Know choose FURS for her Christmas Gift

For years Kayser-Lilienthal, Inc., has been known as headquarters for fine furs.

You can buy here with the assurance you're getting the finest quality obtainable and this considered our prices are as low as those to be found anywhere.

FUR COATS
$69.75 to $595.00
FUR SCARFS
$69.75 up

A wide choice of different Furs to select from. It will be a pleasure to show you. Inexpensive, Yet Always Appreciated

HAND BAGS
$2.98 to $25.00

Smart leathers in colors to match every outfit. Many different styles she'll adore.

Kayser-Lilienthal Inc

"The Shop of Original Styles"

CAPTAIN WILTON G. GAEFE, assistant transportation officer at Fort Benning, is at the throttle of Engine No. 5 on the "Chattahoochee Choo-Choo," dinky railroad line at the post. Coupled at the rear is a special observation car with both indoor and outdoor seats constructed in 1935 primarily to conduct visiting dignitaries over the system. Signaling the captain is Staff Sergeant John W. Smith, chief dispatcher on the railway. He is from Slocomb, Alabama. Seated on the rail of the observation car is Technician Fifth Grade William M. Jackson of Troy, Ala. Both are enlisted men who work on the "Chattahoochee Choo-Choo." They are members of the Transportation Corps sub-section of the Supply Detachment, Supply Division, Section One, Fort Benning. (Official U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Benning Chattahoochee Choo-Choo Is One of Many Wonders of Post

Miniature Railways Play Vital Role In Transportation System

Though well-known to officers and officer candidates of Fort Benning's Infantry School, who ride it frequently, the post's miniature railroad system is the cause of astonishment and sometimes even envy to soldiers of the Sand Hill area and many a man stationed on the Main Post.

Fort Benning's GI's often stop and gaze with awe as the tiny engines pulling their load cross roads and highways. Few people know much about the railroad, which is the only one of its type on a military reservation in the United States.

In charge of operations are Capts. Charles W. McKeown and Wilton G. Gaefe, post transportation officer and assistant transportation officer, respectively.

The railway, known as the "Chattahoochee Choo-Choo," takes its name from the Chattahoochee River which divides the Georgia area of the post from the Alabama sector. Tread of the railroad is 60 centimeters, or 23 and five-eighths inches between tracks.

History of the road runs like a legend, Captain Gaefe said. The 19 locomotives and hundreds of cars in the rolling stock were intended for use in France in World War I to transport troops and supplies up to the front from where the French rails ended.

After the Armistice, much of the equipment was left in this country ready for shipment. Costing about $15,000 each, the engines, which are about one-tenth the size of a standard guage railroad engine, were retained by the Army.

The Seventh Engineers, stationed at Fort Benning at the time, laid the track for the miniature line in 1921. After the track was down, the rolling stock was brought in and pressed into service in its new job.

ROLLING STOCK

The line boasts a rolling stock of 32 coaches, 53 flat cars, 105 gondolas, four tank cars, one work car and one special observation car.

The latter car, constructed in 1935, has indoor and outdoor seats and is used primarily to conduct visiting dignitaries over the line at Fort Benning. Practically every general officer in the infantry has ridden on the railway, according to old-timers at the roundhouse.

Locomotives on the line operate exactly like standard guage engines, except that braking power is furnished by live steam. The tiny locomotives have six driving wheels, two pilot and two trailer wheels. They weigh 17 tons.

All cars have double truck and hand-operated mechanical brakes. Coupling is by means of a pink and pin system.

Biggest job of the "Chattahoochee Choo-Choo" is the transportation of student officers and officer candidates at Fort Benning's Infantry School to field problems. But the line also hauls logs, loads of finished wood, cinders and coal.

Although there are only 13.4 miles of track along the "main line," the trains average more than 25,000 miles per year, and in a three-month period have handled as many as 130,000 troops. Sometimes eight trains a day have been dispatched from the yards, but the average is five, according to Staff Sergeant John W. Smith, of Slocomb, Alabama, who is chief dispatcher.

The dispatcher's job is a big order with much responsibility attached to it. Sergeant Smith has an assistant, Henry Lowe, a civilian, who is also an engineer on the railroad. Mr. Lowe came to Fort Benning an experienced railway man.

Spurs from the main line run to the numerous firing ranges at Fort Benning. Side tracks have been laid at points where troops disembark for classes in the field.

Unique feature of the railroad and its only dis-similarity to standard guage roads is the fact that there is no block or semaphore system on the route. Telephones have been placed at strategic intervals along the track, and trainmen call the dispatcher from these boxes before entering a new stretch of track.

GREAT SAFETY RECORD

An outstanding safety record has been attained by the "dinky" line, which is a single track road. Occasional wrecks and accidents have occurred, but no fatality on the "Chattahoochee Choo-Choo" has ever been recorded, according to Captain Gaefe.

Ten enlisted men, besides Sergeant Smith, and approximately 30 civilian employes man the railroad. The majority of them were railway employes before starting to work on the miniature Fort Benning line.

At the present time a "Y" is being layed at the terminus in Harmony Church. When the section is down, trains will be able to turn around, instead of running forward one way and backing in the other direction.

Maintenance of way along the line is handled by the post engineer. The engines and rolling stock are kept in condition by the Fort Benning roundhouse, which, at one time, was the only such military shop in the United States.

Now there is another at Holsbird in Baltimore, Maryland, but the shop on the Georgia post still services all of the government locomotives in the Fourth Service Command, which is composed of the Southeastern states.

MASTER MECHANIC

Master mechanic at the Benning railroad shops is Fred Whitaker, who has been at the post more than a score of years. Prior to coming to Fort Benning he had worked as master mechanic at the Norfolk (Virginia) Army base and had been general foreman of the Seaboard Railway and roundhouse foreman of the Illinois Central system.

The shops also employ mechanics, blacksmiths and expert tool and machine men.

Three other standard guage locomotives under the supervision of Captain Gaefe are also serviced in the roundhouse. These engines, two "2-8-0" type Limas and one "2-6-0" Baldwin, switch standard guage railroad cars in the Fort Benning yards and operate over the 13.7 miles of track from Fort Benning Junction to the Seaboard and Central of Georgia main lines, Captain Gaefe stated.

Death Rate of American Wounded Extremely Low

The death rate among American wounded in combat theaters is but 2 1-2 per cent, it was disclosed by Capt. William C. Tobin, orthopedic specialist at the Fort Benning station hospital. Capt. Tobin figures given by Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general of the U. S. Army, at the annual meeting of the Association of Military Surgeons, from which he was quoting has just returned.

Captain Tobin said that these figures were given in reply to the all-familiar question of the service man, "What are my chances for survival?"

He added that the answer amounted to this: the American fighting man has the best chance of survival of any soldier in history, due to development of sulfa drugs in combating infections, and use of blood plasma in combating shock and hemorrhage.

Again quoting General Kirk, Captain Tobin said that the use of sulfa drugs has also reduced the number of amputations as compared to World War I.

Captain Tobin, himself, presented a paper on "Parachute Injuries" in which he revealed that only 35 fatalities have occurred in more than 250,000 jumps at the U. S. Parachute School, Fort Benning, Georgia, and that the per cent of injuries in jump training had been reduced from 1.54 per cent during the first two years to 1 per cent at present.

COMMON CAUSES

He outlined the five most common causes of injuries as (1) cross wind currents; (2) uncontrolled oscillation; (3) irregularities of the terrain; and (4) landing in either a relaxed or too tense condition; and (5) ill-timing of the jumped for contact with the ground. Captain Tobin also predicted further reduction of injuries with development of a new landing technique in which the feet are held together, ankles touching. This enables jumpers to evenly more distribute landing impact.

In conclusion he remarked that the injury rate, as a whole, was almost incredibly low considering the apparent hazard of parachute jumping.

Speaking further of this meeting of some 2,000 prominent army, navy and civilian doctors held at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia, Captain Tobin said that reports from the South Pacific area listed malaria and dysentry as incapacitating more of our soldiers than Jap bullets.

Another report, he stated, told of the success of air evacuation, revealing that 125,000 of our casualties had already been removed in this manner. The report also told of 25,000 being air evacuated from Africa and Sicily without a single accident and only one patient dying en route.

Captain Tobin said that civilian medical care was due to drop to absolute minimum, with as few as one doctor to 3,000 civilians, since the army still needs 7,000 doctors. He added, though, that Germany now has but one doctor to every 12,000 civilians.

CAPTAIN ALEXANDER

Frank S. Alexander has been promoted to captain. A company commander in the 424th Infantry, 106th Division at Fort Jackson, S. C., he came here to attend The Infantry School's Officers Advanced Course and is attached to the 16th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment.

TIS Men Want Wives With 'Em Now and Forever

Fifty-one members of the 10th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, answer an emphatic "Yes" to that favorite on recent Fort Benning quizes, "Should Army wives follow their soldier spouses?"

They are the company's married students, here to attend the Officers Basic Course at The Infantry School, who have taken the housing bull by the horns and report meagre, though none the less real, victories. These fortunates jotined battle aggressively in Columbus and emerged with modest quarters for their wives and families.

Family men in the 10th believe that the aid to morale in having loved ones nearby more than offsets the sacrifices all must make moving into humble homes in crowded Army centers. And the approach of Christmas adds an incentive to student officers who hope to play Santa to their little ones.

We take pride in having Fort Benning our Neighbors and Congratulate each of you on your great work in our Fight for Freedom.

RUGS and UPHOLSTERY SCIENTIFICALLY DETERGED

MAGIC CARPET
CLEANING SERVICE
Georgia's Largest

A. ROY HINES, Management
1040 Wynnton Rd. Tel. 2-0948

In peace and war . . .
FORT BENNING carries on

Yes, it is twnety five years since the end of World War I, and we commemorate that Armistice in the middle of another, more critical, world wide conflict. A whole new generation has grown up since 1918–to find themselves living through the pages of history books. Nevertheless, that generation and the rest of us hae been living all these years as free individuals, while across the seas have grown up terroristic dictatorships. We have learned to value true democracy more highly than ever before, and those who have threatened it causing this bitter batle, will never again dare risk the overpowering reproach we are visiting upon them.

This war is demanding more of us than the last war; it is the business of every democracy-loving citizen of the United States! Our goals are more clearly defined, and our staunch belief in the rightness of our cause is daily more intensified. We are determined that no matter how much it takes we and our Allies are going to be the victors! For that reason we are devoting our energies to the fullest capacity in workin gand serving on our home and production fronts. That task, and our purchases of War Bonds and Stamps are our across-the-earth handclasp with our courageous boys who are sacrificing so much more—fighting and dyingon faraway battle fields.

We are set on making the Armistice to come more secure, than the Armistice of 1918. It must be the inauguration of a new and better, truly lasting peace. That is our pledge this November 11th to our democratic way of life, and to all our heroes who have fought in years past and are fighting now to preserve it.

WILLIAMS LUMBER CO.

WILLIAMS CONSTRUCTION CO.

Post Farm Returns 1,000 Pct. Profit On $20 Outlay

A far greater than 1,000 per cent profit will be realized from the victory garden planted by Headquarters Detachment, Section Two, Fort Benning. From an outlay of $20 from company funds for seeds, produce to the equivalent of more than $230 in commissary prices has already been harvested.

And the whole crop is not yet in, nor will it be for some time. The sweet potato patch is only now being dug up, and the winter garden is growing.

Huge sweet potatoes have been grown in the fertile soil. One weighed four pounds and four ounces, and another more than three and one-half pounds.

The project is conducted under the joint supervision of Maj. James Mitchell, commanding officer of Headquarters Detachment, Section Two, and Lt. Col. Clarence A. Will, director of training at Fort Benning.

Yield from the garden is served on the mess tables of the detachment in addition to the regular rations drawn from the quartermaster. The summer's produce included such delicacies as watermelons and honey dew melons for men of the detachment, Col. Will related.

The garden is under the supervision of Staff Sergeant Merrel Simpson and Sergeant William Frazier, chief gardener. It is located on the Main Post at Fort Benning between the Infantry School stables and the post incinerator.

Reception Center Chaplain Forced to Work Very Fast

Two chaplains at the colored reception center, with an assistant, have imparted words of hope and faith in God as well as to thousands of negro troops themselves during the past year.

With the troops arriving and departing constantly the chaplains have a job at this big reception center not found in ordinary chaplain's work. They must contact the men at once and get them to understand what a religious life can mean to them in the army as well as elsewhere. Not only must this be done soon, but it must be done thoroughly, or the men will not benefit from it in time.

On the religious side the chaplains are primarily concerned with bringing this service to the men, no matter what their faith may be. These services are held in the reception hall, the mess hall, and out of doors during the warmer months. Wherever the place the army religious leader attempts to bring to the soldiers the Word of God as a way of life that brings the most to life and the best assurance of individual peace and happiness. Men wishing to join a church are baptized and their churches at home notified of their affiliation with the particular church that the soldier has chosen. His home is also notified of the step the man has taken.

LT. COL. C. A. WILL, director of training at Fort Benning, holds in his left hand a sweet potato which weighed four pounds and four ounces and was grown in the victory garden of Headquarters Detachment, Section Two. Sergeant William Frazier, Route 2, Box 29, Sumpter, S. C. (kneeling) hands the colonel another which was found to weigh more than three and one-half pounds. Some idea of the enormity of the sweet potatoes can be gained by contrasting them with ordinary-sized potatoes still lying on the ground. Corporal Arthur McCray, Route 3, Box 63, Crandall, Miss., is at the plow on the left. (Official U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

BOOST TO MORALE

This helps the men to connect their new life with their home life, and so is a boost to morale that almost nothing else can bring. Coupled with this, too, is a lot of less spectacular work by the chaplains. They listen to the ordinary troubles of the soldier, his hopes, his disappointments, they urge him to write home often, to save his money, take care of his body, and feed his mind with thoughts and literature that will uplift him.

Added to this is the usual run of work with the soldiers in the center, arranging financial aid, getting emergency furloughs, caring for army misfits, helping choose a wife from two or three prospects, and caring for a wife who has been stranded because she followed her husband to camp.

Then there is the work at the hospital where the men need the most that they can get in cheer and uplift. The two chaplains doing this are 1st Lt. Charles B. Hodge and 1st. Lt. William Dickerson, assisted by Sgt. Van J. Malone, under the general direction of Col. Frank M. Thompson.

Army Travels On Its Stomach So Benning Raises Some Food

Fighting men and civilian personnel at Fort Benning believe in backing every single phase of the war effort, even when it comes to following horticultural pursuits in their off-time to produce "food for victory" in victory gardens.

Not satisfied with engaging solely in training activities which prepare them for combat in tanks or planes, on foot or via parachute, nor with going far over the top in war fund and war bond drives and blood donations, personnel at Fort Benning have met a remarkable production record in gardening during their spare time.

Typical of victory gardens at the post are those of five different units, one an enterprise of civilian employes of the exchange, three of them by colored organizations, and one by the convalescent patients at Station Hospital Number 2.

A 30-acre farm is the working project of the Service Battalion of the Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School, which is run under the supervision of Captain Jack D. West, commanding officer of Company C of the battalion. No less than 11,000 ears of corn were harbested by the group, with 50 bushels of the corn dried and made into corn meal. Five hundred watermelons, traditionally a favorite food of colored troops, and two bushels of canteloupes were produced this summer to tickle the palates of soldiers in the battalion during the month of August, while two bushels of tomatoes and beans were gathered during the same period. Four acers of beans and snap beans and an acre of onions, black-eyed peas, watermelons and mustard greens were cultivated. Other vegetables grown include butterbeans, lettuce, carrots, beets, spinac, rutabegas, turnips and radishes. New plantings were made during the month of September to provide additional fresh vegetables for soldiers during the fall months.

SOLDIER FARMERS

Mess halls of Headquarters Detachment, Section II, Fourth Service Command, a colored unit at Fort Benning, were provided with vegetables valued at several hundred dollars from a Victory Garden tended by the enlisted men of the organization. Seeds for the garden were bought out of company funds. According to Major James A. Mitchell, commanding officer of the deatchment, 100 pounds of butter beans, six hampers of snap beans, two sacks of beets, six crates each of cabbage and canteloupes, seven bushels of sweet corn, four bushels of cucumbers, two crates of lettuce, 15 bushels of okra, 100 pounds of black-eyed peas, one crate of peppers, a good yield of sweet potatoes which have not been harvested entirely, five bushels of squash, 12 lugs of tomatoes, four hampers of turnips and 200 watermelons have been grown. The garden is under the direction of Major Mitchell and Lt-Col. C. A. Mills, director of training at the post.

The other colored unit on the post having an outstanding Victory Garden is the Reception Center, whichm is commanded by Col. Ulric N. James. Vegetables harvested include six bushels of green onions, eight bushels of eggplant, five bushels of beets, 35 bushels of green beans, eight bushels of okra, 50 bushels of green corn, 65 bushels of tomatoes, 15 bushels of cabbage, 21 bushels of peas, eight bushels of summer squash and two bushels of green peppers.

The vegetables harvested were used in the Reception Center Mess Number 3, which is maintained for the permanent cadre. The permanent cadre and officers in the organization tended the garden after their regular daily tasks wer done. Due to a great influx of troops in the ASTP program, the garden space will be utilized for housing troops rather than for agricultural troops this winter.

BUMPER CROP

Typical of individual Victory Gardens by officers and enlisted men on the post is the garden of Colonel James, who never before had grown a vegetable, and to whom gardening was a new and strange enterprise. Nonetheless, the colonel had difficulty in convincing his neighbors that he was not an experienced gardener when he began bringing in his crop. One egg plant, for example, was eight inches in diameter, which—to this farm editor at least—is a whale of an egg plant.

Canned by the Colonel were 11 cans of peppers, 23 cans of tomatoes and two cans of onion relish, for those of his guests who might relish onions. In his garden plot of 50 by 100 feet, he also was able to furnish several of his neighbors with radishes, onions, squash, tomatoes, string beans and okra, as well as cabbage and lettuce for the Reception Center's Officers' Mess. Now a gardening enthusiast, the colonel has planted a winter garden of turnips, greens, collars and tomatoes.

Civilian employes of the Fort Benning Exchange are cultivating a 25'-acre garden which already has produced 500 bushels of vegetables of different kinds which were delivered to the Exchange Grocery and the Exchange Cafeteria.

Harvested by the end of August were 2,200 pounds of Irish potatoes, 1,000 pounds of tomatoes, 100 bushels of egg plants, 100 bushels of beans, 50 bushels each of corn and peppers, 60 bushels of okra, 15 bushels of peas, 50 bushels of squash, and 40 bushels of cucumbers. Fall acreage under cultivation include 10 acres of sweet potatoes, one acre each of turnips and spinach, half an acre each of onions and carrots, and a quarter acre of beets, rutabagas and mustard.

Success of the garden, according to Exchange officers, is due to the efforts of Samps K. Bell, foreman, who has been an Exchange employe for 10 years and who operates an Exchange Farm on what was known as the Old Bradley area, known today as the Lawson Field area.

Convalescent patients at Station Hospital Number 2 at Fort Benning spend at least part of their time and energy in reconditioning themselves by cultivating an acre and a half plot to provide fresh vegetables for the Patients' Mess. By the latter part of August the patients had harvested 784 ears of corn, 234 pounds of lima beans, 774 pounds of tomatoes, 38 pounds of bell peppers, 40 pounds of squash and 188 pounds of field peas.

Captain John A. Bell, Jr., director of the reconditioning program for convalescent patients, estimates an additional 40-50 pounds of bell peppers, around 200 pounds of lima beans, 100 pounds of egg plants, 400-500 pounds of sweet potatoes, 300-400 pounds string beans, plus turnip salad.

As soon as the crop is completely harvested, the patients begin preparing the ground for another crop, which is planted as soon as the ground is ready. Plans are made to have a year-round garden, planting as large a variety as possible within any one season.

ARMISTICE DAY
Dedicated to VICTORY
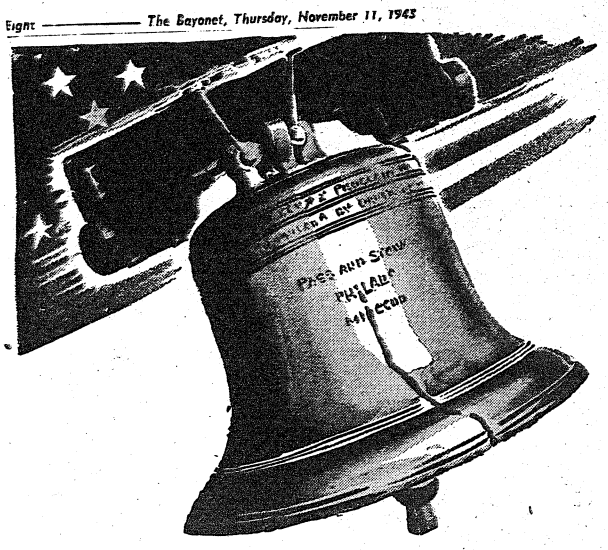
and the best wishes for
FORT BENNING

which is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary . . . and doing an excellent and thorough job of training our soldiers to be the best in the world!



Yes, it is twenty-five years since the Armistice was signed . . . twenty-five years since Camp Benning was begun. And we wish the Fort and all its personnel the tops in everything.

FEFFER JEWELRY CO.
RELIABLE JEWELERS
1144 BROADWAY

SILVER'S
congratulates
FORT BENNING
on its Silver Anniversary
Twenty-five years of training the best men for the toughest jobs. The largest infantry school in the world.
BROADWAY at ELEVENTH

Nice Going, Fort Benning!
That's what we say, and we're in a position to know—we're 106 years old! Yes sir, and we've been watching the great strides you're making in turning out soldiers who are the best in the entire world.
You are doing a beautiful job in training our men to wage winning battles. And we wish you good cheer and the best of everything!
We may be oldsters but we're young in spirit and we're marching side by side with you today and every day.
Drop by our Store
YOU'RE ALWAYS WELCOME
—no matter how small or how large the purchase!
Wm. BEACH HARDWARE
1010 BROADWAY DIAL 3-4329

FORT BENNING —we send our best wishes!
and greet your men with our complete new stock of uniforms and accessories!
We're proud to offer you this stock . . . we think it's the smartest collection in Columbus . . . wait till you see it.
A complete line of clothes and accessories that will make you feel like a new soldier from head to toe.
Stop in today . . . or the first chance you have to get in town.
Easy-to-use Shaving Kits. Compact and smart.
An expert fitter is in attendance for any ALTERATIONS
SHIRTS 'n SHORTS warm, lightweight
Compacts which flatter the ladies.
Leather Wallet with secret compartment.
Fully fitted dresser sets in gift chests.
NATIONAL MILITARY STORES INC.
two stores
900 and 941 B'way

Meet Your Friends at the PX

the newest, up-to-the-minute Military Store in Columbus with a raft of the latest supplies and accessories that will make you whistle with joy, Benning men, when you see them. Come in . . . look around . . . see what you like . . . and buy!

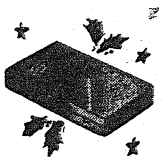
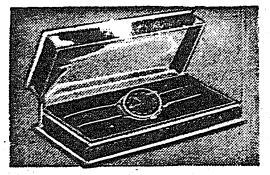
And may we extend congratulations to the personnel on the silver anniversary of Fort Benning! Twenty-five years of training our Army so they're the best in the world! We welcome you to our home, come and visit us the next time you're in town. Make PX your headquarters for your needs . . . we'll be glad to serve you.

GARRISON CAPS
Sturdily built, smartly styled

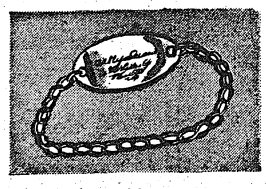


OVERSEAS CAP
Trim and neat

ALL WOOL SLIP-ON SWEATERS IN KHAKI
All sizes



RINGS, BRACELETS, TRINKETS
All guaranteed to please



Lovely COMPACTS
To reflect her charm

Get the PX Habit!

Smart New MILITARY WATCHES

Gold or Silver IDENTIFICATION BRACELETS

Necklaces galore with earrings to match

STOP AT OUR GIFT BAR

and make your selection from a large and varied assortment of the latest and freshest stock . . .

DON'T DELAY

Christmas is around the corner

make PX your headquarters in town

936 BROADWAY

THIS IS ENL

Comm
Pride

Most M
To Giv

A section proud is its two of the Sc
Enlisted Cor
mmunicatio
n is about equipment.

The physic elaborate, and Housed in a la their classes a lecture halls model of effi
itors.

The Infantry S
code instruction by graph records has pl cessful that it has
as a standard
Army. Even the branch which sp munication, had fantry School m
the subject.

The method is reaching arrange tical in a large
ograph takes the dividual instruct lessons the man gives the phoneti
and then signs that letter so learns to associa rhythm wit tter. On the
the more advanc structor uses a
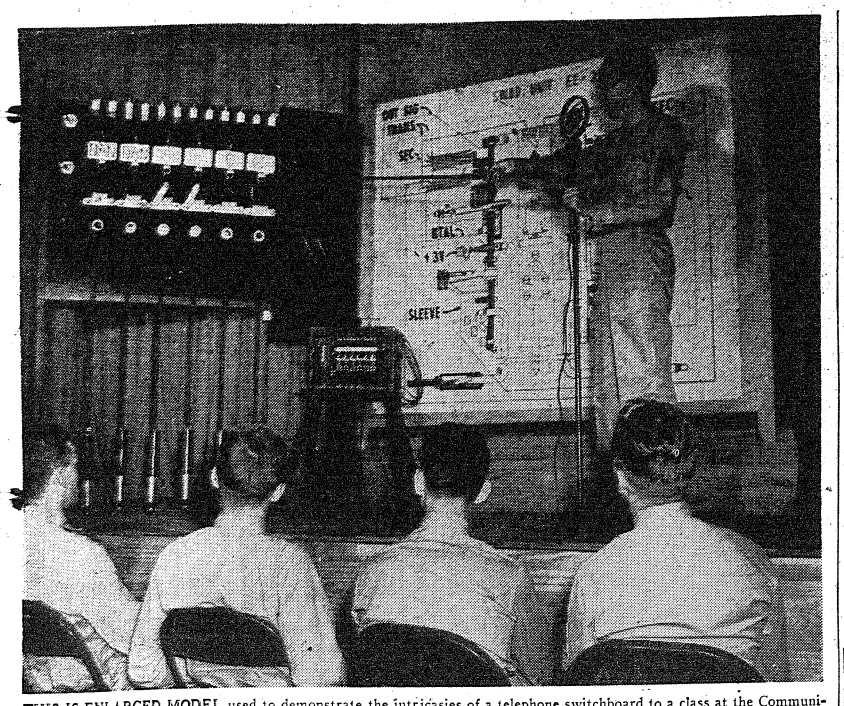
of signing the co

CODE ROOM



The code roo
rows of tables
dents sit. By me
titions, the tables individual booth
with a set of ear
Through these p receive code sent graph records, fr lapped out on a instructors. Freq sent by other picked up off receiving sets an tables. This gi

COME IN CLA
Sing
103—12th St

We Telegraph
Flowers
Everywhere

1205 1ST
(Next to W
Phone

THIS IS ENLARGED MODEL used to demonstrate the intricasies of a telephone switchboard to a class at the Communication Section of The Infantry School. (Official U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Communications Section Is Pride of the Infantry School

Most Modern Equipment Provided To Give Trainee Every Advantage

A section of which The Infantry School is exceedingly proud is its Communication Section under whose direction two of the School's courses are presented. These are the Enlisted Communication Course and the Officers' Communication Course. A course for Enlisted Radio repair men is about to open in additional buildings with excellent equipment.

The physical setup for the Communication Section is elaborate, and its equipment is the most modern obtainable. Housed in a large group of new buildings on the Main Post, their classes are conducted in well lighted, up-to-the-minute lecture halls and laboratories. Their new code room, a model of efficiency, is a source of admiration to all visitors.

The Infantry School's method of code instruction by use of phonograph records has proven so successful that it has been adopted as a standard method for the Army. Even the Signal Corps, the branch which specializes in communication, had adopted the Infantry School method of teaching the subject.

The method is simple. An ideal teaching arrangement is not practical in a large school. The phonograph takes the place of that individual instructor. For the earlier lessons the man cutting the record gives the phonetic name of a letter and then signs the code sound of that letter so that the student learns to associate the code sound and rhythm with the appropriate letter. On the records used for the more advanced lessons, the instructor uses a code key instead of signing the code vocally.

CODE ROOM

The code room is set up with rows of tables at which the students sit. By means of small partitions, the tables are divided into individual booths, each equipped with a set of ear phones and a key. Through these phones the students receive code sent from the phonograph records, from code tapes, or tapped out on a key by one of the instructors. Frequently, code copy sent by other radio stations is picked up off the air by radio receiving sets and rerouted to the tables. This gives the students practice in receiving messages punctuated with static and other outside interferences. Sometimes two different radio stations are picked up simultaneously sending different messages while ignoring the other.

By means of a control panel containing 2,448 electric switches, it is possible to send 36 different types of code messages and different speeds to 68 outgoing lines hooked up to 34 tables in the code room. Thus, no student is held back by slower men in his class, nor would he be shoved ahead to a more advanced lesson before he had mastered the one he was doing. Tests are given every hour, and those who pass that lesson move on immediately to the next lesson.

TWO COURSES

The two communication courses taught here differ widely in requirements, scope, and content. The Enlisted Communication Course is actually a course for field operators and places greatest stress on code speed with 13 words per minute as the minimum requirement for graduation. Many of the operators reach 18 or 20 or even 22 words before they complete the course. Enlisted men are also required to pass a stiff performance test in the field, after 116 hours of outdoor radio operation performed regardless of weather and partly at night. The officers, on the other hand, are required to receive and send only eight words per minute. The reason for this difference in requirement is that the Officers' Communication Course devotes only 70 hours to code practice as against 216 hours for the enlisted men. The officers devote much of their time to wire communication and tactical application, of which the E. C. C. men get little. In general, the enlisted operators are concerned with the technical and operational aspects of radio, whereas the officers deal more with tactical details. In order to train the large number of radio operators required for modern warfare, the enlisted classes are trained in two shifts, with training in progress from 0545 to 2130 daily, except Sunday.

The standards of the Communication Section of The Infantry School are high. Code is sent in groups of five characters numbers mixed with letters. A man who qualifies as a 13-word operator at this school using these mixed groups is able to handle 20 to 24 words per minute easily in most field units. Students who were credited as 16-word operators in their permanent regiments before coming to the school find they are unable to handle 10 words a minute with the mixed groups when they first get here.

SIGNAL LENGTH

The reason for this disparity is that there are several methods of determining "words per minute." The Basic Signal Length, which is used by most schools, uses as its standard length the word "PARIS." The Infantry School uses as its basic group "B7FG4." The difference in length of these two groups can be shown graphically thus:

PARIS . — — . . — . — . — . . .

B 7FG 4 — . . . — — — . . . — . — — — . . . . —

In other words, the basic word used at The Infantry School is 1.775 times as long as the Basic Signal Length word. Therefore 13 words per minute here is equal to 23.075 words by the Basic Signal Length method. Although 13 words per minute is sufficient for graduation, the average graduation speed of all Enlisted Radio Operators over a long period of time is 16.41 words, the equivalent of 29 words by B. S. L. Twenty words a minute by The Infantry School method (35 1-2 by B. S. L.) is just about as fast as a man can copy.

The students in the Enlisted Radio Operators' course are enlisted men selected in the various Infantry regiments who have a high code aptitude or previous communications experience, either civilian or military. They are supposed to have attained at least five words per minute before they are sent here. They come to Fort Benning on detached service from their permanent units, and they return to those units after completing the course. This is officially known as an advanced service school, and all men sent here as privates are given the rank of Private First Class automatically. If they fail to pass the course, they may be subsequently disrtaed.

OFFICERS COURSE

The Officers' Communication Course is made up of commissioned officers who have been selected to become communication officers of their regiments or battalions, and they too return to their permanent stations at the end of the twelve weeks' training. Some officers are taken directly from the Officer Candidate School. Usually these are former communication men whose ability and experience warrants giving them another three months of a school.

Greatest stress in the officers' course is placed on tactical application. Officer students receive training in tactics and communication for every form of operation an infantry regiment may make, such as attack, defense, river crossing, night withdrawal, and pursuit. They learn to select command posts and axes of signal communication. They study the laying of wire lines to supporting and subordinate units, and the interior arrangement of command posts. Twenty-two hours of the course are devoted to map an aerial photograph reading, and practical work in map reading is included in all tactical exercises. The school encourages these officer students to use their own initiative in solving all problems and will accept any plausible solution as correct. At the end of the course they spend almost 100 hours in the field performing every duty that enlisted men under them will later perform.

Eight hours of the course are spent in automotive instruction. This covers all types of Infantry motor vehicles and the proper method of loading them. It includes the selection and training of drivers. Lectures are given on field expedients with motor vehicles, and the maintenance and inspection of those vehicles.

FIELD TRAINING

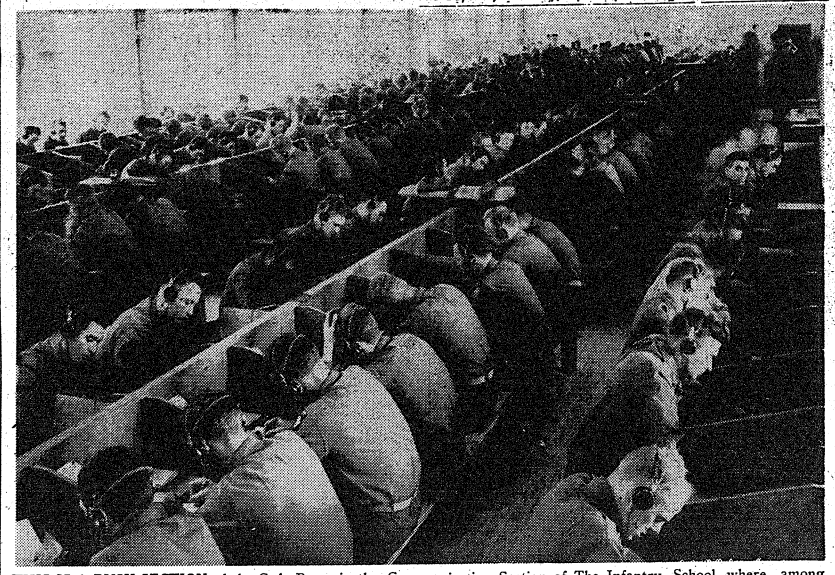
During the field net training, all students in both courses actually operate the radios over an extended area. Ground to air communication is maintained with some of the students riding in an airplane and communicating with other students on the ground. A few hours are spent on visual and sound signalling, including panels, pyrotechnic signals, and flags and lamps. The use of sound as a means of communication is discussed.

Consequently, students in both courses under the Communication Section get the best possible training in communication. When they graduate from this school, the E.C.C.s return to their units as expert enlisted operators or radio chiefs, and the Officer Communication graduates are capable communication officers. In order to get the benefit of experience and to learn how their graduates perform, the school has sent observers out to all maneuvers conducted by the army to check on the efficiency of its graduates and the operation of Infantry communication materiel.

THE STAFF

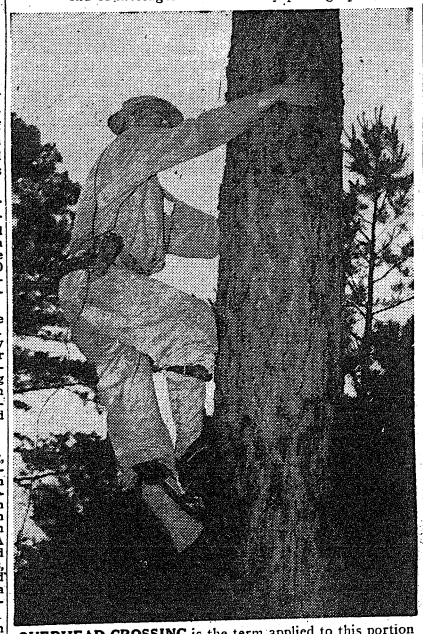
Chief of the Communications Section is Col. B. A. Byrne. His executive officer is Lt. Col. T. J. Moran. Capt. G. W. McLellan is secretary of the Section and Mr. F. C. Benfield, CWO, is assistant secretary.

Lt. Col. R. R. Creighton heads the Radio and Visual committee; Capt. T. H. Monroe, Jr., the Wire and Message Center committee and Lt. Col. B. T. Workizer, the Tactical Application committee.



The Supply personnel is headed by Capt. T. Tedesco assisted by Tech. Sgt. H. E. Polk.

Instructors mainly concerned with the enlisted students are Mr. L. C. Tyler, WO, and Mr. J. M. Hammond, WO, in the radio section; Mr. Y. T. Newberry, WO, in the Wire section and Mr. J. E. Prince, WO, in the Message Center.



Six newly appointed Warrant Officers who are also assigned to the enlisted section are Mr. F. R. Greenwood, Mr. B. B. Phillips, and Mr. T. W. Gloystein, Radio Field Nets; Mr. A. A. Sweet, Jr., Radio Repair Shop; Mr. I. A. Stannard and Mr. S. G Swink, Code Room.

Non-commissioned shop personnel who hold key jobs are M-Sgt. E. M. Juneau, T-Sgts. L. E. Cham and E. R. Rapp, Radio Shop, and T-Sgt. W. G. Thornell, Wire Shop.

These are the men behind the scenes.

THIS IS A BUSY SECTION of the Code Room in the Communication Section of The Infantry School where, among other things, officers and enlisted personnel learn to receive and send in the Morse Code. This group is on the receiving end of messages transmitted by phonograph records. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

OVERHEAD CROSSING is the term applied to this portion of the Communication Course of The Infantry School in which pupils are taught to string wires from tree to tree to prevent them from being broken through movement of troops or vehicles on the ground. (Official U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

'Chute School Promotes 17 Enlisted Men

Seventeen enlisted men of the Parachute School have been promoted to higher grades, according to an announcement of the Parachute School.

Eleven of the promotions were enlisted men of Headquarters and Service Company. Corporal Grant Green, technician fourth grade, Robert H. Stafford and Sergeant Thomas A. Kepner were raised to staff sergeants. Technician Fourth Grade Lawrence P. Fitzsimmons was elevated to technician third grade, and Technician Fifth Grade Sotirios I. Eleftheriou and Privates First Class Edward S. Saroka, Raymond C. Randall, Charles P. DeCarlo and Joseph W. Tirpok were promoted to technicians fourth grade. Private Beverly K. Anderson was raised to corporal, and Private Owen W. Prescott was promoted to technician fifth grade.

Four promotions went to men of Headquarters of The Parachute School. Staff Sergeant Richard E. Zimmerman was promoted to technical sergeant and Private First Class John A. Crane was elevated to sergeant. Private Russell J. Koutal was promoted to teachnician fourth grade, and Private David Ross made technician fifth grade.

In the Receiving company on the Parachute School, Sergeant Leonard R. Schwer was promoted to technical sergeant, and Technician Fourth Grade Lawrence Stratton was raised to staff sergeant.

There is no use discussing a post-war world unless we demonstrate. We will not provide a working code for other nations so long as our natural allies, management and labor, behave like natural enemies. No so long as classes clash, political parties hold vendettas, arm chair critics take a point of view, parties argue, children wrangle and "in-laws" dispute.

The Navy has 4,000 dental officers.

The Army has a dental corps of 13,000 officers.

DANGER!

You are in danger of not being able to assist your country in this time of crisis, if you are not properly trained to do some definite work.

LET US TRAIN YOU TO DO HIGH-CLASS OFFICE WORK

We have successfully trained thousands.

Stenographic Training in military lines as well as civilian.

Secretarial Work
Bookkeeping and Accounting
Office Machines

ENROLL NOW!

Hours: 10:30 A.M. to 1:30 P.M. then 2:30 P.M. to 4:00 P.M. Benning Time.

for day students, five days a week.

RATES: $17.50 for morning and afternoon, and $12.50 per month for morning, or afternoon.

Yes, you may take typing only, if you wish. Information on request.

We also have a course in STENOSCRIPT

(shorthand in twenty lessons) on a contract basis only, $110. This is a standard course. Evening Students: $10.00 per month. Hours 7 to 9 on Mondays and Thursdays only.

These prices include the tuition, the use of the textbooks, and all the necessary supplies.

CO-EDUCATIONAL YOUTH and MATURE

Truman & Smith Institute

Pearl Smith Truman, Pres.

1029 Second Avenue COLUMBUS, GA.

In Recognition of the untiring efforts of the officers and men at Fort Benning—we congratulate you on the Post's

25th Anniversary!

SOL LOEB

Wholesale Grocers

Columbus, Ga.

Established 1868

Congratulations Fort Benning!

We extend

BEST WISHES and a

CORDIAL WELCOME

to our

MEN

in

SERVICE

HARTS

1021 BROADWAY

DEALS

1041 BROADWAY

MILITARY STORES

GREETINGS to Fort Benning on its Silver Anniversary

BROWN FURNITURE CO.

16-18 E. 11 STREET

CONGRATULATIONS TO FT. BENNING ON THIS—YOUR SILVER ANNIVERSARY

TO THE ARMY WIVES:

COME IN AND JOIN OUR BUDGET SEWING CLASSES—CLASSES NOW FORMING.

Singer Sewing Center

103—12th St. Dial 3-5381

We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere

FORT BENNING 25th Anniversary 1918 - 1943

J. E. PASSMORE

FLORIST

1205 1ST AVE. (Next to Western Union) Phone 6460

1622-24 13TH AVE. PHONES: 7881 — 5631

(Closed on Sundays)

With Hearty Congratulations to Fort Benning on their 25th Anniversary

E. OREN SMITH

ARCHITECT

TRUST COMPANY OF COLUMBUS BUILDING

for Victory

Congratulations on the 25th Anniversary of

FORT BENNING

We are proud of the men who are engaged in the intensive training program designed to fit them for the fighting necessary to the winning of this war. Keep up the good work—to KEEP AMERICA FREE!

AMERICA'S BEST BUY IS WAR BONDS

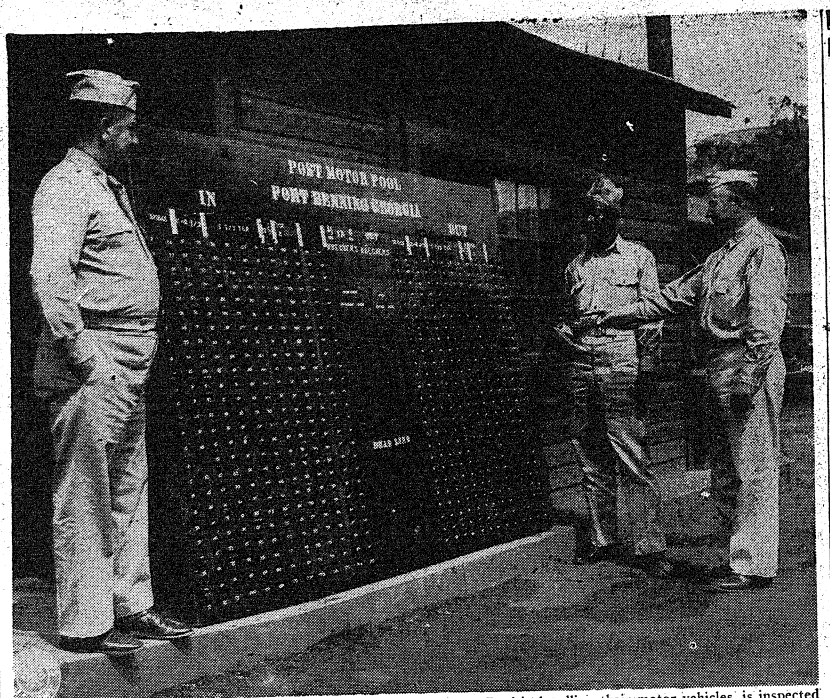
10 12th St. V. V. VICK 10 12th St.

FINE DIAMONDS, WATCHES, JEWELRY

'New Order' Effected At Post's Motor Pool

Revitalized and efficiently organized, with a personnel that has been put strictly "on the ball." That describes the Post Motor Pool as it is now conducted, according to the expressed judgment of all who use this necessary service. The drivers say they are as much sold on the "new order of the Pool" as are the heads of departments who use the service.

Many changes in organization and physical equipment has brought this out, with little initial cost and much saving in manpower and overhead, it is pointed out.



Careful marking of the driveways, and the definite spotting of vehicles, together with carefully planned arrangement of equipment has brought order from a hit-or-miss system employed for some time in the past, drivers state. They are enthusiastic over the new idea of enforcing the rules and regulations posted in the pool, without exception to those favored with rank, and say that it adds much to the efficiency of the whole place. Climaxing the changes for smoothness of operation of the whole place, however, was the installation of the new dispatching board at the entrance station.

Non-commissioned officers, drivers, and other enlisted personnel in the pool, as well as the civilian mechanics are all colored, and to these men the director, First Lieutenant Armando Vinciguerra, pays especial tribute for their fine spirit and cooperation with him in making the place gain the enviable reputation that it now holds. Lt. Col. Charles Carlton, assistant chief of the ordinance branch, under which the pool operates, expressed himself as highly pleased with the wonderful showing that the pool is making.

"We supply motor vehicles for the Post departments," Lt. Vinciguerra states, "upon proper orders; anything from a half-ton to a 'cattle' van. I think our biggest contribution to a better condition here is our improvement in accident conditions and our cut in the number of vehicles now used to do an increased amount of work. For the past 30 days there has been no major accident at all, and we are using only 200 vehicles to do what 250 vehicles were doing two months ago."

KNOWS JOB

Lt. Vinciguerra, according to Colonel Carlton, was picked to do this job here because of his record in civilian life and in his army showing on the same kind of a job at Camp Rucker, Ala. The records show that the lieutenant was conducting a service station

MODERN, EFFICIENT DISPATCH BOARD, used by the Post Motor Pool in handling their motor vehicles, is inspected by Lt. Col. Charles Carlton, assistant chief of the Ordnance Branch and in charge of motor pools. First Lieutenant Armando Vinciguerra, director of the Post Pool, orders a change made by Dispatcher Derrett Rawls, as a vehicle starts out of the pool for service. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo)

Long Distance Calls Are Sure Index To Pay Day At Benning

You could almost tell when the paymaster pays off by keeping your eye on the public telephones at Fort Benning. Payday usually brings a rush for the telephone to call Mom, the girl friend, or the wife.

And when the rush is heavy, there is usually delay in getting calls placed or getting them completed, or probably both.

As camp telephone manager, L. A. Wood points out the telephone lines and switchboards are crowded even during a normal wartime day, but when there is anything extra like a payday rush, they really have a load to carry. When too many calls are made at the same time, some must wait.

The telephone company cannot build enough lines to handle all calls presto, like before the war, because the raw materials they would use are going to war.

But we can help a little by suggesting that the best plan is to call before payday, or wait until after that glad day, Camp Manager Wood says.

Other suggestions to help: Avoid the busy evening rush peroids from 7 to 10 o'clock; and before you talk, plan what you want to say—it will help you be brief and make the lines available for the next call.

fifth grade, Miss Rachael Marshall; sixth grade, Miss Josephine Halliday; seventh grade (low), Mrs. Lois Wells Moore, and seventh grade (high), Miss Lillian Wells.

Manual training, Master Sergt. Russell B. Wall (retired); domestic sciences, Mrs. B. K. Harris; art, Mrs. G. K. Reiney. T-4 E. G. Young has charge of the grounds and buildings, with colored help, while Cpl. Lois Matthesen (WAC) is in charge of the school bus transportation.

Communications Adopt Two A-Day Schedule

Welcomed to The Infantry School by Col. Bernard A Byrne, chief of the Communication Section, Lt. Col. William B. Zeller, Fourth Battalion commander, and Capt. Charles E. Farmer, commander of the 24th Company, First Student Training Regiment, the latest enlisted radio class took off to a flying start. It turned out to be blind flying, though, when the future communication specialists were turned out of warm bunks long before dawn and marched to their "swing shift"—0545 to 1245—classes.

Colonel Byrne explained the necessity for "two-a-day" schedules. In response to an urgent need for qualified radio operators in combat, he said, The Infantry School is now turning out the best radio men on a mass production basis.

With a maze of vari-colored shoulder patches and the interesting collection of regimental insignia adorning their uniforms, the "eager beavers" showed themselves a cross-section of our expanded Army. Campaign ribbons were in abundance, many with the familiar star earned in combat. While the Infantry claims most of the class, Field Artillery, Ski Troops and Paratroopers were represented, all ready, willing and eager to delve into the mysteries of walky-talkies and wire nets.

"A likely looking group," agreed both company officers and instructors. "These doughboys will soon help win battles on the wave lengths."

It takes hard work to produce food, the Extension service asserts. There is no other way.

Seventy-five percent of the country's food production for this year has been allocated for civilian use.

---

and a new car agency when he joined the New Jersey National Guard in 1936. He just couldn't keep out, he said, because the new war was coming, and he had spent 14 months overseas in the 83rd Division in World War I. Because of his previous service and his knowledge he soon became a sergeant, and later a first sergeant in the Field Artillery, 44th Division.

The new war came on in earnest after Pearl Harbor, and motor experience was very much needed. Sergeant Vinciguerra was not only trained in motor transit, motor mechanics, and motor vehicle executive things, but knew the army language and quirks to go with it. This placed him in line as an expert, so he was commissioned a first lieutenant and sent to the Army Graduate Specialist's School of Motor Transport at Halobird, Baltimore, Maryland, from which he graduated and was sent to Camp Rucker.

Both Colonel Carlton and Lieutenant Vinciguerra agree that another factor in the setup should not be overlooked in the credit for the splendid showing of the pool, and that is the office force. These four civilian women, headed by Mrs. Margaret Hensberger, and including Mrs. Evelyn K. Brizendine, Mrs. Beatrice Super, and Miss Marie Daniels; two civilian men clerks, Henry Peagler and G. Z. Akridge; the inspector, Warren Walker, and the shop foreman, C. C. Kay, with the officers, make up the only white personnel in the 210 men connected with the pool organization.

Whereas the Lieutenant said that every last man was doing his part to keep the pool up to the new standard set, he felt that special mention should be made of certain key leaders among the colored personnel. Included in this group are: Staff Sgt. Guss Reynolds, truck-master; Staff Sgt. Edward Whitefield, charge of buses; Staff Sgt. E. L. Colbert, section leader; Staff Sgt. Booker T. Cole, section leader; Staff Sgt. John Goodwin, Jr., inspection department; Cpl. Sam B. Jackson, chief dispatcher; Pvt. Robert N. Fayne, night dispatcher, and Sgt Derrett Rawls, gas tank.

Post's Inspector General Is Fact-Finding Agent for Army

The Post Inspector General for Fort Benning is Lt. Col. James R. Johnson, the man whose business it is to find the facts about everything on the post and to know the laws and regulations governing these facts so found.

It is an exacting job, but in no way spectacular, and the man at the head of it here has been well trained in Army things generally to do his work well and without ostentation.

The Colonel is a veteran of World War I, and came into the service in this war in January 1941, reporting to Camp Shelby, then to Benning for advanced training. In 1942 he returned from Atlanta to Benning as Police and Prison Officer. In April of this yeas he was appointed to the present position, and went to Washington to get training under Maj. General Virgil L. Peterson. He returned about three months ago and is writing history in efficiency in this all-important assignment in Fort Benning.

To the average soldier inspectors and inspections are things to be abhorred in the way of something though that must be taken with service in the Army and endured in some way or other.

NECESSARY EVIL

But without in spections, in the broader sense of the word, and the heading up of all post inspections in the person of one ranking officer, a great military post would not function smoothly and not at all after a short time.

The matters to which the Post Inspector attends include inquiring into all matters pertaining to the efficiency of a command, and to assist the commander and his troops in the performance of their duties, He learns the nature of the conduct, discipline, living conditions, and morale of units and individuals; the condition of arms, equipment and supplies; and the ecohomical, efficient and lawful expenditure of funds and property. An inspector general must do all this without fear or favor and be entirely impartial in all judgments, basing his decisions on fact and not on opinions of his own or others.

I. G's JOB

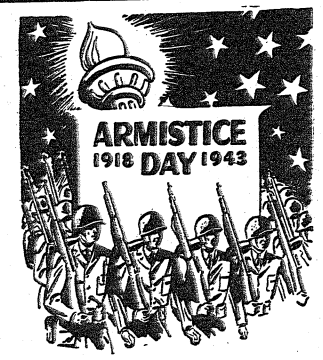
In particular and in detail this duty includes attention to such matters as proper handling of company funds; why a certain soldier on guard wears civilian shoes when he should wear regulation ones, are all the fire extinguishers filled so they can be used in the emergency that may arise any time? Are all the boxes in the warehouse filled with merchandise as labeled or are they dummies? Are kitchens clean? Is the food served clean? Does grit and dirt get into cans used to measure out oil? Are all weapons in shape mechanically for use? Are GI cars used only for GI purposes? Do old rags or trash lay in corners where they might start a fire? And many other of the thousands apparently small matters that must concern the inspector general if he is to prevent an accumulation of small disorders from becoming a big disorder that will break down the Army's effectiveness.

Most Modern Methods Employed In Post School

Officials Kayo Hit and Miss Plan For Real Efficiency

Fourteen teachers, under the supervision of Principal Annie Lou Grimes, are handling the 300 children in the Fort Benning Children's School this fall.

Attendance is down about 100 pupils from last year due to the fact that Baker Village now has a school of its own to care for a large group of students who formerly attended school at Fort Benning.



This school was established in 1922 with three teachers and 60 children, but many of the children of that time were heirs to great names that flash across the world now as their fathers gather fame leading the American armies of this global war. The children also have grown to leaders in their own right, such as Major Joseps Stillwell, Jr., and Major Wood Joerg, and a long list of captains and lieutenants now in the conflict.

These men, and the women who were little girls then, all remember Miss Grimes and frequently visit her on their return to Fort Benning for the many reasons that military men come to the post and bring their wives.

PHYSICAL PLANT

In this modern school is modern equipment that includes such aids as visual and auditory education. The new school auditorium is used for assemblies to put these devices of light and sound into effect. The building itself is very modern with eight classrooms, a manual training shop, domestic science rooms, an art room, office and reception rooms, and the auditorium. Teachers and their assignments this year include: Kindergarten, 4 years old, Miss Virginia Jones, and 5 years old, Miss Nellie Porter.

First grade, Miss Margaret Ellison; second grade and music, Miss Emily Stephenson; second and third grade, Mrs. J. W. Matthews; third grade, Miss Susan Colquitt; fourth grade, Mrs. Bess Lockhart;

Hearty best wishes to you,
FORT BENNING
on your Silver Anniversary!

We want to join in with enthusiastic congratulations . .
You're doing a grand job!

AMERICAN SERVICE CO.
ICE—COAL
846 FRONT ST.

We Are Proud of the Great Work Fort Benning Is Doing

And of the service we have been able to render the army personnel throughout the years.

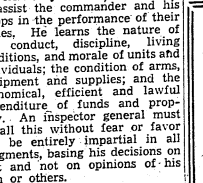
It is Always a Pleasure to Serve You.
Branch Store in Sand Hill Area.

BOSTON
SHOE FACTORY
Serving Columbus and Vicinity
Over 36 Years
1234 Broadway Tel. 3-4682

Congratulations
to
FORT BENNING
And Its Personnel On Your
SILVER ANNIVERSARY

We have confidence in our armed forces, and our nation, and know that with the help of God we will come out victorious!

COULTER FURNITURE COMPANY
(Formerly Gullatt Furniture Company)
L. A. COULTER, Owner
"FURNITURE IS THE HEART OF THE HOME"
Phenix City, Ala.
Dial 3-5351 1409 Third Ave.



Congratulations
FORT BENNING
from
The Sensational
WILLYS AMERICAR
THE MILITARY "JEEP"

Both CARS and JEEP
Are Powered by the Same Amazing
FUEL SAVING
Willys
GO DEVIL ENGINE

We have a few REALLY GOOD USED CARS. They are clean and in perfect condition. Before buying give us the courtesy of a 'look-see.'

H. DENT PRICE MOTOR CO.
Authorized Sales and Service
Ala. End of Dillingham St. Bridge PHONE 3-6763

BEST WISHES TO FT. BENNING
ON YOUR
SILVER ANNIVERSARY

CUSTOM BUILT
SOUTHERN BEAUTY
VENETIAN BLINDS

SOUTHERN VENETIAN BLINDS
MANUFACTURING CO.
2320 12th Ave. Dial 7641

Our Sincere Congratulations
to
FORT BENNING
And Its Personnel
On This—Your
SILVER ANNIVERSARY

We Appreciate Your Patronage and Ask You Make Our Two Stores Your Headquarters.

TWO MODERN UPTO-DATE
DRUG STORES
Fully Stocked With New Seasonable Merchandise

SULLIVAN'S
4TH AVE. AT 14TH STREET DIAL 2-3386
FAST FREE DELIVERY

LINWOODS
FAST FREE DELIVERY
1120 LINWOOD BLVD. DIAL 7325

Post Director of Training Has Dawn to Dawn Task

While the argument between the "chairborne command" and the line soldier rages, Lt. Col. Clarence A. Will, director of training on the staff of Col. William H. Hobson, post commander, prepares plans and policies for and supervises the training of all elements of the Station Complement to make those troops as good as any.

In addition to supervising the training of Fourth Service Command outfits, Col. Will is also charged with the same task for tactical units assigned to the service command here at the post for training. These troops are Army Service Forces units and include medical, quartermaster, ordnance, military police, and Army postal organizations.

The director of the training division, or S-3, maintains records of the status of training of all units, both soldier and WAC, under the control of the post commander. Organizations submit training schedules to his office for approval and forwarding to headquarters in Atlanta, Ga. Col. Will is assisted in this paper work by his secretary, Miss Christine Stewart.

The colonel's work also calls for the conduction of barracks and field inspections and supervision of reviews of troops under the jurisdiction of the post commander. Other phases of the training division's task specify for periodic drills and the exhibition of training films.

CONSTRUCTION WORK

Col. Will makes arrangements for additional construction required for training and for training aids. A new gas chamber was constructed recently, and now, under the direction of Capt. Charles S. Black, post chemical warfare service officer, troops pass through it every 90 days.

Training in the use of Army weapons is by no means neglected. A group of more than 30 officers from Post Headquarters recently fired the Army pistol for record, and last spring Station Complement troops, including men from D. E. M. L. and the Quartermaster, qualified with the rifle. Training ammunition is estimated and alloted by Col. Will.

Frequently ASF units stationed in Atlanta, where there are not adequate range facilities, come to Fort Benning for their training in that phase of Army life. Here they fire on the rifle, pistol, anti-aircraft, moving target and machine gun ranges and qualify on the infiltration course.

On the latter course officer and enlisted personnel are given mental conditioning under simulated battle conditions. Machine guns spray bullets little more than three feet above the ground, and soldiers crawl beneath this and between exploding dynamite charges and bomb craters to their objective.

A group of nurses from Lawson General Hospital in Atlanta was put through the course recently. More than 3,000 officer and enlisted personnel have qualified on the course, under the supervision of Col. Will.

BUSY DAYS

His day is obviously quite a busy one, but director of training at Fort Benning is not Col. Will's only job. He is also permanent field officer of the day, charged with securing troops for the Main Guard and seeing that the guard fulfills its duty. He is seen at guard mount every morning at 9 o'clock.

The colonel's energies are also directed toward the drive for the collection of vital scrap metals, of which 1,100 tons have been gathered from all over Fort Benning. Col. Will is proudest, however, of his discovery of the "Benning iron mine," an old dumping place near the post incinerator from which 471 tons of metal were extracted. Three and three-quarter tons of this were found to be old copper, brass and aluminum, much of which had to be sluice-mined.

The Red Cross water safety classes conducted last summer were a part of the plans and training work of Col. Will. In these classes men were taught to swim with a full field pack; to swim through burning oil floated on top of water; how to inflate barracks bags, GI shirts and trousers for buoyancy, and many other bits of information on water safety which may mean the difference between life and death.

And so the work of transforming men and women from all walks of life into good soldiers and WACs goes on. That is the mission of the training division—"to prepare plans and policies for, and to supervise the training of, all elements of the Station Complement and also for the tactical units assigned to the Service Command for supervision of training."

IN ONE OF HIS VARIOUS DUTIES, Lt. Col. C. A. Will is shown above functioning as range officer on Simpson pistol range where more than 30 officers in the Fourth Service Command fired for record.

1st STR Unit Claims Food Waste Record

Capt. Arthur L. Anderson, post food and nutrition officer, proudly announced that the Second Company of the First Student Training Regiment had set a record in food wastage of all officers messes in the United States. This company, which feeds 196 officers had .23 pound edible waste per day, per man, which is one of the lowest percentages ever attained by any officers mess in the United States Army.

This record was outstanding in view of the fact that it was a spot-check and not one for which everybody was prepared. In addition to that fine record, in a nutritional analysis this company proved to have food quality far surpassing Army standards. This "good-food intake" showed that the men were very well fed considering the fact that they had thrown away such a small percentage of food.

Captain Anderson said in his report: "Food preparation in the company was excellent during the period of the survey. The mess sergeant is a capable manager and the cooks are extremely skillful in the preparation of palatable dishes. They take considerable pride in their work; as a consequence, the meals are attractive and tasty. The kitchen and mess halls are clean, orderly and attractive."

Fite Fights Slithering Snake Storming Sleeve

Candidate Kelly V. Fite of the Seventh Company, Third Student Training Regiment, had something up his sleeve. It was the map reading problem and the hour was 2300. The night was black and the silence in the woods was disturbed only by an occasional snapping of a twig under the foot of some cautious candidate.

Suddenly there was a sharp utterance of surprise and amazement. Fite began dancing and stripping off his clothes. In stunned silence the other two candidates watched for a few seconds and then began trying to ascertain their fellow-candidate's difficulty. But all in vain—he kept stripping.

Finally there was a sigh of relief—an emphatically real one. The candidate sat down on the ground, underwear half on, half off. Then the truth came out. As Fite had reached for a long branch to pull himself out of a small ditch, a snake had slithered up his sleeve. The unusual actions had been satisfactorily accounted for. The trio moved off on their azimuth.

QUEER PROMOTED

The promotion of Harry E. Queer from second lieutenant to first lieutenant was announced here recently by Col. Henry J. Hunt, Jr., commanding officer of the 300th Infantry Regiment, in which Lieutenant Queer is serving as platoon leader of Co. H.

'Human Slide Rule' Baffles Mates With Numbers Tricks

Mathematics, the nemesis of many newly-arrived candidates, seems to have met a master at Fort Benning in the person of Candidate Aubrey M. Kemper of the 14th company, Third Student Training regiment of the Infantry school. A personified combination of slide-rule and adding machine, Kemper has bewildered his buddies with the art of black magic in figures beyond the realm of cadence count since his arrival at The Infantry School.

Local classification experts have likewise scratched their heads in amazement at the results of Kemper's two meetings with the Army General Classification test. At his reception center and at the latest Infantry school test, Kemper answered every question. To prove the first success was not a hit-or-miss affair, Kemper finished the second with five minutes to spare.

Bewildering people has its moments of monotony. So, a week ago Candidate Kemper decided to roll down his sleeves and give up the role of a Houdini number man. Much to the comfort of his barracks buddies, he resolved to share his knowledge of mathematics by coaching the boys for the coming platoon leader's computation test. Every session in the improvised barracks school has been packed with candidates eager to re-learn their grade school lessons on fractions, decimals and proportions.

The "numbers racket" is an old game for Candidate Kemper. At his birth, so the story goes, he gurgled the attending doctor's license plate number. For six years before his induction into the army, Kemper taught mathematics in Finderne school, Raritan, N. J. He spent part of his sixth year as principal of that institution. During that time he composed several texts on mathematics and courses of arithmetic study now used in the local educational system. He is a graduate of Jersey City Teachers' college and holds an M.A. in education administration from Columbia university. His spare moments he devoted to organizing boys clubs in Jersey City and Raritan, N. J.

Kemper is modest in his explanation of his grasp of a subject that has bewildered so many of his friends. He would rather talk of his work as basketball coach of his boys' club.

BE PATRIOTIC

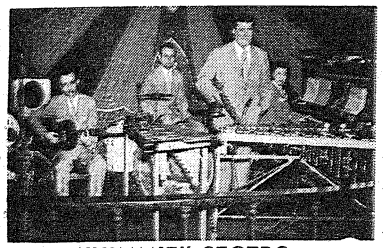
By Lieut. ANTONIO JERICHO

Don't stay too long
When you're dating a Swiss.
Think of the manpower
Your country will miss.
Wake up soon
When you lay for a nap
Every minute you sleep
Prolongs the life of a Jap.
Get on the ball
And stay on your feet
You can't win a war
On your blankety seat!

The oil of the castor bean is used as a binder for incendiary bombs, according to the Georgia agricultural extension service.

First pre-Pearl Harbor father facing the draft is Al Zarilla, St. Louis Browns outfielder recently classified 1A by his Los Angeles Draft Board. If Zarilla, the father of a 3-year-old daughter, appeals his reclassification it will be up to the appeal board to determine whether he is an "essential" man in an "essential" industry.

Congratulations!
and best wishes on your silver
Anniversary



The butcher, the baker . . . and FEDERAL BAKE SHOP all join in with hearty good wishes . . . and a cordial invitation to visit our store. Just come in . . . sniff the delicious aromas . . . and look over the tempting pastries and cakes . . . the home-baked breads and muffins, piping hot from our ovens. Buy them . . . try them . . . and you'll be back for more!

Federal Bake Shop
109 Twelfth — Phone 7942

Congratulations TO FT. BENNING ON YOUR SILVER ANNIVERSARY

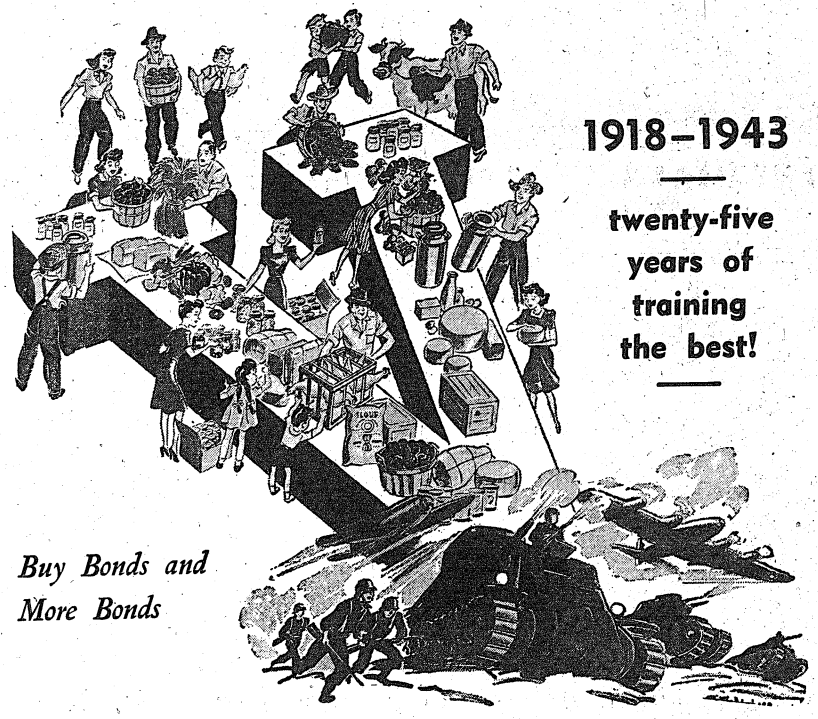
COME OUT TONIGHT AND ENJOY

"JIMMIE" SEGERS
AND HIS ORCHESTRA
FOR YOUR DANCING PLEASURE
3 Men and a Girl—"That Really Turn Out Tunes"
A LA CARTE SERVICE OF DELICIOUSLY PREPARED FOODS
CHICKASAW GARDEN
For Reservations—Dial 2-4291 — 5 Miles Out Macon Road
ORCHESTRA—DANCING—DINING—BEVERAGES
OPEN 5 P. M. DAILY—CLOSED ON SUNDAYS

In peace and war . . .

FORT BENNING

carries on



We're proud of the way you're training your men! Today is your Silver Anniversary . . . 25 years of teaching soldiers to know their jobs . . . every single one of them . . . and to go ahead and do those jobs no matter what the cost. There's no middle road!

You performing your task with great skill, and we hasten to wish you all the best in the world . . . all the success in battle . . . and more credit to your name.

We civilians can stay home and buy bonds and more bonds . . . to help feed you the guns and ammunition . . . the tanks, the planes, the weapons of attack.

H. ROTHSCHILD, Inc.
The Leading Furniture Store In Columbus For Over 40 Years

Congratulations, Fort Benning

FOR the outstanding achievements you have made in the task which is yours we felicitate you.

Your work merits the highest praise and we are proud of the immense strides you have taken in turning out an alert, aggressive force of men, the best soldiers in the world.

It is our privilege to be able to serve you . . . even though indirectly . . . through the wives and families of your men living off the Post.

Our nine conveniently located stores are at your service. We bring you the best at the right prices.

GROCERIES
FRUITS VEGETABLES

HOME OWNED—HOME OPERATED Kings
SELF SERVICE STORES

ALL CUTS OF FRESH MEAT

2300 Wynnton Road
2671 Hamilton Road
422 Eighth St.

1116 Linwood Blvd.
117 Seventh St.
2204 Second Ave.

1237 Broadway
215 Thirty-eighth St.
511 Sixteenth St., P. C.

HERE'S A ROUND-TABLE DISCUSSION among editors of regimental newspapers and representatives of Public Relations Units, all members of the Fort Benning Press Association. It's a typical meeting of enlisted men who get together to discuss their problems, exchange ideas and negotiate working agreements. Left to right around the table are Sgt. Charles W. Voorhis of The Infantry School Public Relations Office; Pfc. S. A. Keitel, representing the Post Public Relations Office and the BAYONET, weekly newspaper for the entire Post of Fort Benning; Sgt. John Naylor, President of the FBPA and editor of the PINE BUR, paper for the ASTP Basic Training Center; Cpl. John Fitzgibbons, editor of the 300th SABER; S. Sgt. N. A. Rankow, sports editor of the PINE BUR and Pfc. Aleon Shapiro, representing the 176th SPIRIT. Representatives of the REGIMENTAL MIRROR, 124th ALLIGATOR, THE SHAVETAIL and TAILSKID are missing from the photo. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

Fort Benning Press Association Coordinates Coverage of Entire Post

Papers Exchange News, Engravings; Regular Meets Feature Idea Trading

Almost a year ago, when it was recalled that there were some five Regimental weeklies published at Ft. Benning, it was decided that it would definitely be in the interest of all these papers if some plan for closer co-operation might be worked out. With this in mind, a meeting of the papers then being published on the "World's Most Complete Army Post" was called. The Benning Inter-Regiment Press Association was formed.

Because Ft. Benning is a large post, and the various commands supporting weeklies were remotely located one from the other, meetings were held at irregular intervals. However, the degree of cooperation hoped for was achieved. An exchange of stories and art and photographic work resulted. A credit to the paper originating the work followed the initials BIRPA. The only other single outstanding accomplishment of the original association was the joint sponsorship of a cartoon and art show featuring the best work of soldier artists appearing as regular features in the member papers. More than 100 items were collected for the show, which toured sections of the Post for about six weeks.

But the Benning Intra-Regiment Press association was not quite the answer to the ever present problem of more and better co-operation among the Ft. Benning weeklies. For one thing, many of the original member commands were transferred out. For another thing, the all-post weekly, the "Ft. Benning Bayonet" was not included in the membership because it was civilian owned. It was felt that the "Bayonet" should definitely be a part of the association because all commands on the Post were expected to contribute to the all-Post weekly. Then too, there were a number of new papers cropping up at Ft. Benning that had never become members.

NEW BODY FORMED

Although the old association was a free for all, operating without benefit of officers, Sgt. John Naylor, editor of the Pine-BUR was asked to call a special meeting of all Ft. Benning weeklies for the purpose of forming a new body. The meeting was called in July of this year. Invited beside the enlisted men—the Press Association was and still is entirely made up of Ems, although Special Service Officers are invited to attend meetings to "listen in"—of the weeklies were Signal Corps and Infantry School photographers, special service and public relations enlisted personnel of both the Post proper and the Infantry School, Post Athletic Office personnel, and any others who might conceivably have business to do with Ft. Benning weeklies.

A new association was formed called the Fort Benning Press Association (FBPA.) The eight Benning newspapers and other units became a part and committed themselves to sending delegates to the regular meetings. In all there are some 50 odd enlisted men now carrying Fort Benning Press Association press cards.

A charter was drawn up to outline the scope and purpose of the new association. Officers were elected with Sgt. Naylor picked to head the organization and Cpl John Fitzgibbons of the 300th Infantry "Saber" appointed secretary. It was decided that meetings should be held every third week on the Main Post—the most central point for all units stationed at Ft. Benning. Of the charter members of the old association it is interesting to note that only two remain as a part of the new body—the "Pine-BUR" now being published for the ASTP Basic Training Center at Benning, and the "Mirror," published for Academic Regiment of The Infantry School.

GENERAL COVERAGE

As the Ft. Benning weeklies matured, each seemed to feel that more space should be devoted to general Ft. Benning news in addition to news exclusively about the paper's own command. So one of the first steps taken was the establishment of a clearing house for the exchange of news. Cpl. Charles Voorhis, Public Relations non-com of The Infantry School undertook the job of boiling down the strictly local news items carried by the unit weeklies into brief stories and saw

Continued on Page 13

Orchids to you, Fort Benning

on your 25th anniversary

—we don't sell orchids—
but we do sell fine quality
Officers' Uniforms by authority of the Army Exchange Service

BLOUSE—19-oz. elastique all-wool $32.50

SLACKS—to match blouse, pinks and greens $12.00

SERVICE CAP—same fine quality as above $5.00

SHORT COAT—26-oz. doeskin $29.75

OVERSEA CAP—excellent quality—all styles $2.75

also a complete line of insignia and accessories

Authorization No. 472

STYLE SHOP

1031 Broadway Dial 6577

DSC Winner From Pacific Takes Course

After nine months' action in the Asiatic-Pacific Theatre, where he won both Purple Heart and Distinguished Service Cross on Guadalcanal, 1st Lieutenant Frederick A. Schaefer III has reported to The Infantry School to pursue the Officers Advanced Course. He will be attached to the 1st Student Training Regiment's 4th Company, commanded by Captain Sam H. Barrow.

Schaefer, a reserve officer only 22 years old, entered active service in June 1942 and lost little time getting into the thick of fighting in the Solomons.

Assaulting the final Jap stand on Guadalcanal, Lieutenant Schaefer led his unit to break their desperate last-ditch resistance. Successful, his attack helped end the threat to the island and Henderson Field and brought him the coveted decorations.

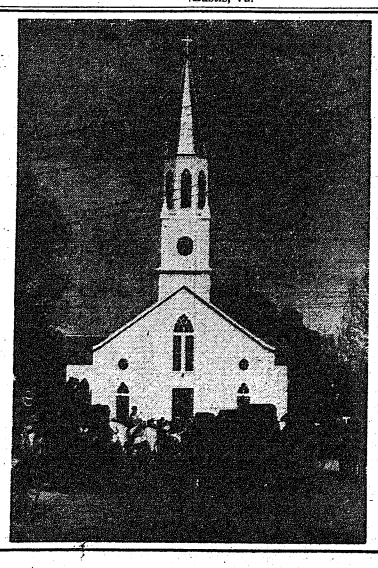
During the final five days of the fight, his battalion had been pinned down by heavy Jap machine gun fire. At the head of his rifle platoon, Lieutenant Schaefer was seriously wounded while wiping out the enemy gunners. But he carried on until they had been silenced and his battalion could fulfill its mission of driving the last Nips from Guadalcanal.

Lieutenant Schaefer led many patrols which penetrated Japanese positions and came to know them from intimate contact. "Japs are inhumanly tenacious and fanatical. They should be treated as animals," he observed.

"Tricky, they are experts at camouflage. Although inaccurate rifleshots, the Japs use mortars effectively, both their own small grenade projectors and 60-mm's they had captured from us."

Lieutenant Schaefer is the son of F. A. Schaefer, Jr., of Honolulu, T. H.

CAPTAIN IMHOFF



Lt. Christian W. Imhoff, Jr., classification officer at The Parachute School, has been promoted to captain. Captain Imhoff entered the Army January 23, 1942, and graduated in the fourth Officer Candidate Class at The Infantry School, Fort Benning. He attended the Adjutant General's School, Fort Washington, Md., and later served as testing officer at the anti-aircraft center at Fort Eustis, Va.

The following churches of Columbus extend greetings to Fort Benning and cordially invite the men of the Service to worship in the church of their choice whenever they are in Columbus.

BRING YOUR FRIENDS TO CHURCH

First Baptist Church
First Presbyterian Church
St. Luke Methodist Church
St. Paul Methodist Church

Consult bulletin boards for hour of services.

For a job well done

we congratulate you, Fort Benning, and wish for you and your personnel continued excellence of performance in the years to come. Twenty-five years have passed since the opening of the Fort — years filled with training and preparation of an Army keyed to the present and to the future.

You have done much to change the character of this war from defense to attack. You will do still more to put an end to the present strife.

May we remind you that the banks of Columbus stand ready to assist your personnel in every proper way. We are always at your service.

the
Columbus Clearing House Association

Hands of Magic Fashion Delicate Surgical Tools

Hospital Technician Learned His Art In His Native Poland

Practicing a trade which is virtually a lost art in America, Technician Fourth Grade Charles Atkin uses hands of seeming magic to make delicate and almost unobtainable surgical instruments for doctors at the Station Hospital at Fort Benning.

Using a skill which he learned in his native Poland and practiced in Palestine, Sergeant Atkin takes an old discarded file and from it makes gouges, chisels and ostotones — complicated instruments used by orthopedists—as good or better than those made commercially of the finest Swedish steel.

Sergeant Atkin, a member of the Medical Detachment, at the Hospital and who works in the Utilities shop there, learned his trade in his native Brzostowica, W. Poland, after three years in a trade school, and left for Palestine in 1934 seeking greater opportunities. He came to this country in 1938 and became a naturalized citizen a little over a year ago.

In Europe, his work is called the locksmith trade, but has a far wider meaning that the specialized trade of a locksmith in this country. An artisan, his work by hand would probably be called that of a tool maker in this country, with the difference that each tool is an individual work of art and not a result of mass production.

Although as a worker in the Utilities shop where he does all sorts of repairs for the hospital, he specializes in metal work. A little over a year ago, a "dentist's office on wheels," which he built for the dental office at the hospital so bed-patients could have the dentists come directly to them, received national publicity, not only in newspapers, but in "Popular Mechanics" magazine as well. A compact cart equipped like a modern dentist's office, the cart had an electric drill, spotlight, sterilizer, air syringe and two spray bottles on top, with plenty of room left for use as a work table.

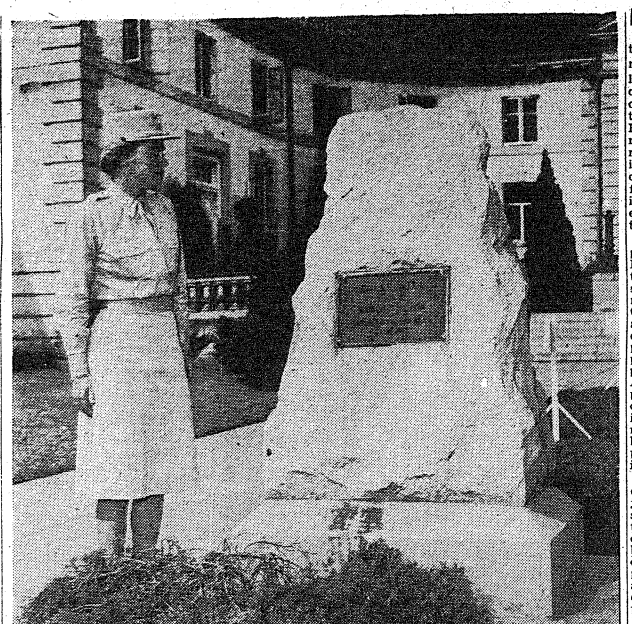
The interior contains compartments and drawers to hold the necessary instruments and supplies such as cement for fillings and clean linen. The cabinet is made of wood, Masonite and angle iron, and is still in use by the dental department.

PROUD POSSESSION

One of the proudest possessions of Major Roy Ciccone, chief of the orthopedic section at the Station Hospital, is a group of 12 surgical instruments of various sizes and shapes, each an individual work of art. Perfectly balanced, smoother than silk, an outstanding example of shiny and polished workmanship, the instruments are used for grafts, surgery, reconstruction of joints, shaping of bones, and doing away with splinters or bone tumors.

According to Major Ciccone, these gouges, chisels and osteotones are almost impossible to obtain, while the ones made by Sergeant Atkin are the equal or superior in craftsmanship to the finest obtainable. The sergeant makes the blades of chisels and instruments from worn out files, which he re-tempers and shapes out with an ordinary file—using emery paper to make it as smooth and shiny as expensive silverware. He obtains aluminum and other material for the handles from the Fort Benning Ordnance shops, which assist him at times in providing tools and equipment. In addition, Sergeant Atkin has made a portable plastic cabinet as well as special braces for the orthopedic section.

From worn out files, he also makes such prosaic things as blades for can openers. For the physiotherapy section, he has made instruments by which convalescent patients may exercise their wrists or other portions of their anatomy which may be weakened after staying for prolonged periods in casts. For the obstretic ward he has made a portable carriage in which ten babies can be carried. Ever on the lookout for additional ways in which he can make useful things for use in the hospital, he is repeatedly called upon by medical officers who highly praise his work.



IT'S A HOBBY

Sergeant Atkin, who considers his work as a sort of hobby which he enjoys to the fullest, says he has always enjoyed working with his hands, and creating things both useful and beautiful. At the age of 13, he became interested in the work of some men in Poland who repaired scales, and within a period of two weeks learned to adjust the delicate mechanisms as well as his professional mentors could. From then on, his great aim was to make ornamental metal novelties, jewelry and instruments.

After graduation from high school, he started on his career by attending the Polish trade school, and then followed his trade in Poland, Palestine and this country. Inducted into the Army in July, 1941, he spent four months at Camp Lee, Va., and then came to Fort Benning where he eventually was assigned to duties which enable him to follow his craft.

Happy in his work, he merely wishes to have greater opportunity to do more, and to obtain such opportunities as will enable him to advance his talents in this field.

Thus, despite the mechanics of war and the use of mass-production equipment both for training and actual warfare, there is at Fort Benning at least one man capable of creating things by a virtually lost art—the art which even in Europe is passing with the times. The age of the individual artisan is not past, even at America's most complete military post—mighty Fort Benning.

MANY NEW ARRIVALS at Fort Benning are intrigued by the stone monument standing to the rear of the Infantry School building which is dedicated to "Calculator", a non-descript cur that wormed his way into the hearts and affection of many officers and enlisted men at the post. Shown above is Captain Janet Nash of Chicago, Ill., commanding officer of the WAC Detachment, Infantry School, Main Post, admiring the stone. The inscription reads "Calculator, Born ? Died Aug. 29, 1923; He made better dogs of us all." (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo)

Monument Behind TIS Building Pays Tribute to Dog's Memory

Many new arrivals at Fort Benning have their curiosities aroused by a stone monument bearing a bronze plaque dedicating the shaft to "Calculator." The monument stands on the lawn just to the rear of the Infantry School building, across from the Officers' Club.

Calculator, so named because he put down three and carried one (leg) when he trotted after soldiers at Fort Benning, invaded the reservation with his game leg back in 1924. He wandered about the post, decided he liked it, and made it known that he had come to stay.

Rapidly he made friends with soldier buddies, and he liked to be with them in camp and out. When the day's work was done, he would accompany the soldiers to town for a taste of the bright lights. And he would stay until the last man had left for the post.

Calculator was a smart pup. He would bum around town with the enlisted men, but when curfew time approached he would hot-foot it on three cylinders to a well-known hotel to catch a ride back to Benning with a colonel or a captain, having found a private auto more comfortable for a lame hound.

When Calculator died, the entire garrison mourned and contributed to a fund for the monument to his memory. The monument also stands as a tribute to man's best friend, the Dog.

3rd STR OC Breeds Dog Show Winners

How he does it, work and drill-burdened fellow candidates of the Seventh Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School, don't comprehend, but somehow, OC Erle J. Ferguson finds time to care for two dogs and to display winning canines in regional dog shows.

A former accountant in Detroit, Ferguson training sporting dogs for six years prior to entering the Army and an English Setter owned by him, Parpoint Problem, copped 15 firsts in 18 showings in Detroit, Toledo, and Cleveland. Last spring he put 10 dogs through their paces for other owners at the Columbus Field Trial Association exhibition and earned eight firsts and two seconds.

At the present time, Ferguson has two dogs quartered in Columbus kennels.

FORT—

Continued From Page 12

that they were distributed to all members of the association publishing weeklies. All weeklies in order to expedite the exchange of news filed carbon copies of their stories with Cpl. Voorhis. However, the right to indicate a release date on stories was recognized. The news clearing house is functioning with beautiful precision, serving exactly the purpose for which it was set-up. Contact is made either direct or through efficient Ft. Benning message centers.

With the critical shortage of photographic materials facing all Benning papers and Public Relations offices the matter of conservation of film supplies was next tackled. Both the Signal Corps unit stationed on the Post and The Infantry School Reproduction Plant had been making pix for the papers, with a few papers having their own independent photographic set-ups. Again it was decided to clear all photographic orders through a central office. Further than that, it was decided that some types of routine shots would become taboo. As an nexample, no routing parades no wrate a "photographic study."

No longer will weddings be classed as Public Relations projects unless certain circumstances surrounding them give them pertinent news value and other everyday subjects are marked off bounds. Further than this Association members were advised to plan their picture work in such a fashion that Post photographers could cover the assignment with the greatest dispatch.

And as a final clincher, it was decided that under no circumstances would extra copies of official photographs be provided for persons in the picture unless provisions were made to replace the critical material used to make the prints. The result—a greater reduction in the use of Fort Benning photographic facilities for purposes non-essential to producing a good Public Relations and Special Service job.

MAN-POWER CONSERVED

Next tackled was the matter of conserving man-power and time in the handling of routine details necessary with the distribution of Fort Benning papers. Worked out is a plan to handle all exchanges of Fort Benning weeklies from a central point. All weeklies designed for exchange will be collected at this point, placed under one cover, and mailed out to exchanging papers. The Fort Benning Press Association, in consolidating its exchange lists, has compiled a formidable number of papers designed to receive Benning sheets. So that Benning weeklies will not wind up publishing for the single purpose of maintaining a large exchange, the list has been broken down into a number of shorter lists.

Benning weeklies have recognized the shortage of paper. One paper, for instance, is planning to convert to a bi-monthly, other papers have cut drastically into their circulation by printing one paper for every two men instead of one for one. But largely, the matter of conservation is a matter the individual paper is meeting in its own way.

In the matter of keeping the budget within hand, the exchange of cuts has helped a great deal. Almost all cheese-cake is passed from hand to hand, and many special engravings appear in more than one or two of the weeklies in turn. The exchange of engravings works itself out naturally inasmuch as the member papers come out on a staggered schedule. The first paper to appear comes out on a Tuesday—the last on a Wednesday. Of note-worthy interest in line with these staggered publishing dates is the absence of cut-throat competition for newsbeats. Newsbeats are not possible, hence, greater co-operation results.

CARTOON SHOW

Then there are a large number of other projects being entertained by the Association. Another cartoon show is in the offing. Art shows and photography exhibits are being scheduled to display the work of Fort Benning personnel. But principally of interest is the way members stand together behind such large projects as the Third War Bond Drive, the collection of Blood Plasma by the Red Cross, the support given to a local (Columbus) United War Fund Drive. Speakers and organizers behind these drives have elected to attend the meetings of the Association to present their views to the members and to solicit their support.

Naturally, all this business can not be taken care of at the regular meetings, so committees are appointed to "act" for the Association. They do act, and when they report to the meetings their plans are expected to be complete in detail. The members are asked to give a vote of approval to the findings and plans of the committees. Plans once approved are put into immediate action.

Present membership in the Fort Benning Press Association includes "The Benning Bayonet," "The Shavetail," "The Mirror," "The Saber," "The Thirteener," "The Spirit," "The Tail Skid," and "The Pine-Bur." These are the Fort Benning weeklies, but in addition to these, other members include the enlisted personnel of U. S. Army Signal Corps Laboratories (Photographers), and The Infantry School Reproduction Plant (Photographers), Public Relations Office, The Infantry School, Public Relations Office and Special Service Office, Post Headquarters, and the Athletic Office.

HOME-TOWN NEWS STAND

congratulates

Fort Benning

on its 25th Anniversary

PAPERS FROM ALL THE PRINCIPAL CITIES

Next to A & P

937 Broadway Dial 7441

ALBRIGHT'S

2031 HAMILTON AVE. DIAL 2-0681

Best Wishes to FORT BENNING On Their SILVER ANNIVERSARY

A modern neighborhood Grocery Store completely stocked—with High Grade Nationally Known brands.

THE FINEST OF MEATS-CHICKENS-FISH-OYSTERS

ALBRIGHT'S

2031 HAMILTON AVE. DIAL 2-0681

Armistice Day • 1943

Today marks the 25th anniversary of the opening of Fort Benning. We are proud of the Fort and the high spot it occupies in the Army. We're justly proud, too, of the job we have done in its construction—without a single strike—without a minute lost—a record of real whole-hearted cooperation. We wish Fort Benning and its men continued success in the outstanding work it is doing. We pledge ourselves to the utmost effort for Fort Benning . . . we're ready ot any time—and willing.

Columbus Central Labor Union

13½ WEST 11TH ST. PHONE 3-2392

Boys' Activities Ready For Any Job Anytime

Whether there is a job furthering the war effort or merely a good deed for the day to be done, you can count on the fellows of the Fort Benning Boys' Activities to be in there pitching.

Building young minds and bodies, Fort Benning Boys' Activities is under the direction of Lt. Col. Virgil Ney, Infantry School instructor, and offers citizen-making and recreations to sons of officers and non-commissioned officers who reside on the Army reservation.

Boys' activities at Fort Benning embrace many fields. There are the Boy Scout troops, the Cub Scout pack, the Air Scout Squadron, the Ranger Battalion and the Boys' Activities Athletic Association. The latter activity provides for sports and recreation and includes the Jeeps and Gremlins football teams, swimming classes and baseball and basketball games.

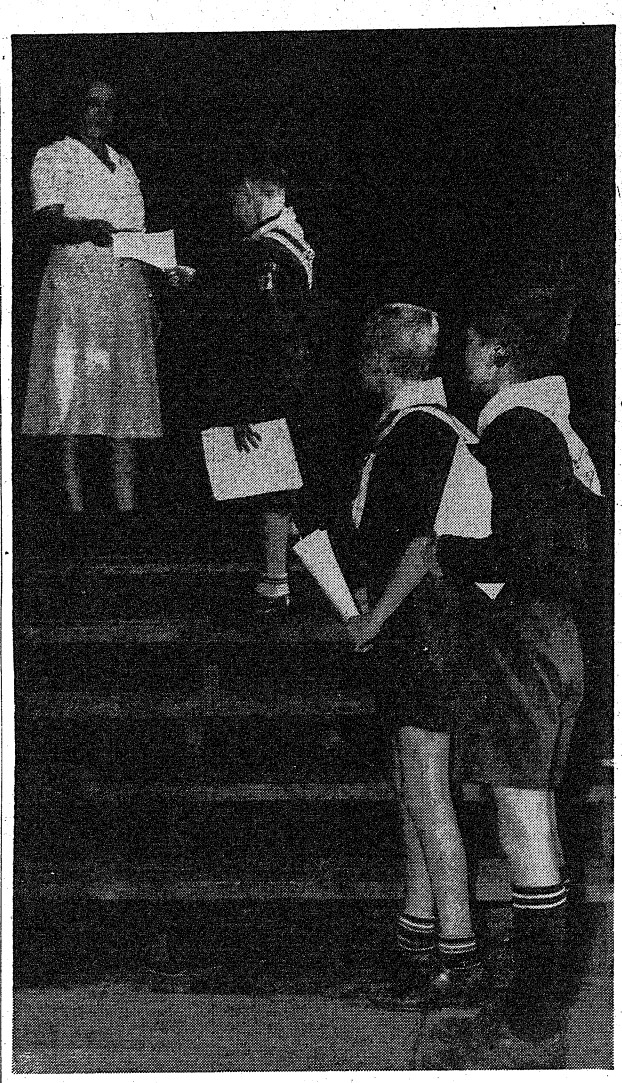
Air Scout Squadron No. 1 is for boys from 15 to 18 years old and offers pre-flight training, instruction and leadership by Air Corps officers from Lawson Field. During a recent scrap drive, the Air Scout squadron received national recognition in the scouting magazine, according to Col. Ney.

VARIED ACTIVITIES

Boy Scout Troop No. 11 is dismounted and has a membership of boys who range from 12 to 14 years. The troop takes hikes, boat trips, has numerous constructive projects and makes educational trips. Meetings are held in the Scout Cabin.

Scout Troop No. 12 is an innovation at the post, being a cavalry outfit. Boys from 13 to 18 years of age meet at The Infantry School Stables under the leadership of Captain Charles B. Taylor, stable officer.

Cub Scout Pack No. 1 is a supplement to Scout Troop No. 11 and is for boys not yet old enough to become Boy Scouts. The youngsters, who are from 9 to 12 years old, go along with the Scouts and do as much as they are able.



In addition, there is the Ranger Battalion for boys from 6 to 9 years of age.

JOHNNIE ON SPOT

"Whenever there is a job to be done," Col. Ney said, "all the fellows join in and do it." The boys have distributed fire prevention literature, assisted in the scrap drive and have helped the Red Cross on occasion.

At the present time with King Football reigning, the Jeeps are the senior boys' gridiron team on the post, and the Gremlins, the juniors. A swimming instruction and life saving class was conducted last summer, and baseball and basketball are played in season.

Occupying the youngsters with

BOYS OF FORT BENNING are always on the job when there is work to be done. During the recent observance of National Fire Prevention Week, Boy Scouts of Troop No. 11 and Cub Scouts of Pack No. 1 assisted Fire Chief Joseph L. Hogan in the distribution of fire prevention literature to homes on the Main Post. In the above picture Don Ruff, a Cub Scout, hands one of the pamphlets to Mrs. Eleanor Schaertel, wife of Chaplain Elmer G. Schaertel, at their home in Fort Benning's Block 23. Helping young Ruff cover the territory were Douglas Peters (second from right) and Jerry Holmes. Boys' activities are under the direction of Lt. Col. Virgil Ney, Infantry School instructor. (Official U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Globe-Trotting G. I. Served In Army, Navy

Soldier, sailor, world traveler, and officer candidate is a short but complete description of Candidate Charles H. Binns, of the Fourth Company, Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School, for he has served in the Infantry, Coast Artillery, a Tank Company, and the Navy and has traveled through the Far East from the Great Wall of China to Colon in Panama.

Born in Sandusky, Ohio, on March 16, 1914, Candidate Binns claims now to be a "native son by adoption" of Monterey, Cal. It was there that he attended high school, graduating in 1931. His military career had begun in 1930, when he had attended a CMTC camp, choosing the Infantry. The following year he returned to the CMTC, this time to the Coast Artillery. Soon thereafter he was seized with the wanderlust, and joining the Navy, went away to sea in 1932.

His first year with his services was spent with the Pacific Fleet. In 1933 he was transferred to a destroyer in the Asiatic Fleet and stationed at Manila, P. I. The flagship of the squadron was the USS John Paul Jones, on which Binns served for a time, and which later became famous as the savior of an aircraft carrier from a Jap torpedo.

CRUISE TO CHINA

The following year his travels really began with a cruise to China. Throughout the entire summer the fleet was operating along the coast of China out of Shanghai. In those days liberties were more than just a sailor's pipe dream and Sailor Binns found time to visit the Great Wall, the Forbidden City, and a great many resorts from Pekin to Tiensia.

One of the most ticklish incidents of his life occurred one morning when the entire Asiatic Fleet was anchored in the inner harbor of Cheefoo, China. Early in the morning the fog lifted to disclose the startling fact that the Seventh Imperial Fleet of Japan had anchored across the outer harbor during the night, thus cutting the U. S. fleet off from the open sea with a force that outnumbered them five to one. Although Japan was not then the menace it was later to become, Binns recalls several anxious hours before it became clear that for once Japanese intentions were peaceful.

In 1935 Binns went on a "good will" cruise to Japan, visiting Yokahama, Toko, Nagasaki, and Kobe. During this time he visited the "sacred" Mt. Fujiamo, a Jap opera, and many amusement centers. One of these visits was made in the company of a Jap marine and a Jap sailor, whom Binns recalls to have been treacherous in the matter of money, a fact that is no surprise at all. He also visited in Japanese homes on several occasions.

After Japan came the Philippines. This cruise took Binns to Corregidor, Bataan, Zamboanga, down across the equator to some of the lesser islands, and at one time to Colon.

Binns was discharged from the Navy in 1936, after having returned to this country via Guam, Midway, Wake and Honolulu. He then went to work for the public relations department of a utilities concern. From 1938 until 1940 he served as a sergeant in the Tank Company, 40th Division, California National Guard.

Binns states that about 50 officers and men of this outfit who are his personal friends are now prisoners of war, this being one of the reasons why he is so anxious to return to Tokio, this time on an ill will cruise. So anxious, in fact, was he that in March, 1943, he volunteered for induction as a VOC. When he entered the Army he chose the Infantry, thus returning after a dozen years to his first love of all the services. After spending four months at Camp Roberts, California, he was sent to The Infantry School.

1st STR Colored Officers Get Club Building

A new Colored Officers Club has been opened in the First Student Training Regiment area at the corner of Jenks Avenue and Monk Street on the Main Post. Captain Howard G. Jones, Supply Officer of the First S. T. R. The Infantry School, supervised refurbishing and refurnishing the club building.

Cream-colored ceiling and walls and a gray floor brighten the new club-room, trimmed in Nile green. All windows have Venetial blinds. At one end of the raised, walnut-stained dance floor is a large counter. Both rooms have been furnished with modern chromium-finished tables and chairs.

Operated by the Officers Club, this new branch provides the usual recreational facilities and carries a complete line of sandwiches and beverages.

FORT BENNING — No. 1 ARMY POST

Congratulations

to

FORT BENNING

On Your 25 Years of Achievement!

★★★★★

SCHULTE-UNITED

1141 Broadway

Columbus, Ga.

Congratulations

FORT BENNING

on your

Silver Anniversary

1918–1943

Be Well Dressed In Uniforms From

Levinson Bros.

★ ★ ★

We are proud of the officers we have outfitted, and we know they have a feeling of being well dressed. Our uniforms are styled and fitted right. They give you that well groomed appearance.

COMPLETE LINE of ACCESSORIES

★ ★ ★

Trench Coats, Mackinaws, Field Jackets
Freeman Military Shoes

LEVINSON BROS.

1220 Broadway — Dial 3-3051

'Breathes there the fool with soul so dead Who never to himself hath said This is my Home, My Native Land?'

Among the many men in the OC class of the 13th Company, Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School who came from far-flung outposts of American military strength, few can boast of coming from a more picturesque land than OC Floyd Alexander.

Alexander, the only OC sent to the 13th Company from the Trinidad sector, ended 19 months' straight service on a small island off the north coast of South American to come to OCS.

This, until the war, was a peaceful island with an extremely heterogeneous population. The regular language spoken by the natives and foreigners working there was as mixed up as the population. In one sentence, Alexander reported, the natives would use as many as five different languages — Spanish, German, Dutch, English and Portuguese. And the arrival of GIs with their ever-present American slang didn't do anything but make conversation that much more difficult, Alexander said.

While life was a little dull on the island at times no one could ever complain about the weather, the new OC said. Trade winds gave it a year-round temperature on the average of from 83 to 89 degrees. And no man could ask for much more.

Alexander arrived here to get in on the first cold spell to hit the sunny south this season. Although he found it a little difficult to adjust to ODs, Alexander declares that there is no thrill quite like that of getting back to the good old United States. He is a native of London, Ohio.

Japanese Yank Fought Nipponese On Guadalcanal

A. U. S.-born youth of Japanese extraction who did his bit for the Americtns against the Sons of Nippon at Guadalcanal is Candidate Takeo Kubo, of the 13th Company, Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School. At the present time Kubo is in Fort Benning's Station Hospital with a recurrence of the malaria with which he was stricken when he was in the Pacific campaign.

Kubo's parents were born in Japan but the candidate, while he speaks the Japanese language fluently, is as American as baseball or ice cream. He was graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles, and was engaged in a profitable fruit and vegetable business before entering the Army, six months prior to Pearl Harbor.

As might be expected as the result of his comparatively rare ability, Kubo worked with the American Forces as an interpreter during the Guadalcanal campaign. He had attained the rating of Technician, Third Grade, before qualifying for OCS.

Tom Hathaway, British seaman, put into the Boston USO, there met Bill Ellis, Canadian seaman. After a chat and learning that Bill's home was Montreal, Tom took from his pocket a picture, showed it to Bill. Did he know her? He certainly did—but what he didn't know was how Tom came by a picture of his wife. Legitimately—she was his sister.

constructive avocations and projects, Fort Benning Boys' Activities have cut juvenile delinquency at the post to an utter minimum, Col. Ney stated.

He is proud of Benning youths, proud of their fine accomplishments, but especially gratified at their clean and straight living.

. . . To The

Infantry School

for our fine Officers

. . . To The

Officers

for our well trained men

We Are Glad to Join you in celebrating your

25th Anniversary

Good Luck and Best Wishes in all your efforts.

D. A. STRIFFLER

MORTICIAN

1015 13th St. — Dial 2-3341

"I say," sez Monahan

"it's our birthday today!"

And When We Finish Our Spuds Let's Take Off For The S and S Cafeteria For A Delicious, Wholesome Meal. It's Inexpensive, Too!

S AND S CAFETERIA

COLUMBUS' FINEST — 1232 BROADWAY

BUYING CLOTHES AT THE THRIFT SHOP are these two GIs who are anticipating the cold weather that is coming up. Good garments to replace losses or to give extras when clothes are being cleaned send men to this thrifty place. The men are: (left) Jack S. Odum, and (right) Bill Smith, while the saleslady is Mrs. J. H. Drum, volunteer. (Signal Lab Photo.)

Thrift Shop Sells Everything From Toys to Outboard Motors

A "thrift" shop in name and in fact—that is what the Post Thrift Shop is living up to, according to the many enlisted men and officers and their families who patronize the place.

This thrift goes both ways. If a man or woman on the Post has an article to sell, it is sold at a fair price to some one, less 10 per cent for handling. If some one on the Post wants such ar article he or she may buy it at a fair price that has been arrived at by starting with the original pre-war price and reducing to a price based on the condition of the article at the time it is sold.

"We'll sell everything from toys to outboard motors" states Mrs. Walter Scott Fulton, manager of the store. "But one of the most popular lines that we handle is the baby outfitting. As a great part of King Baby's equipment is off the market for the war, the demand for used equipment, such as baby buggies, bassinets, bathtubs, etc., is enormous and the supply small. So this type of article, when in good shape, is sold almost at once.

"Another line of equipment constantly in demand," Mrs. Fulton continued, "is the electrical household one. Refrigerators, radios, and like things have standing orders waiting to be filled. And the demand for electric irons is so strong that many maintain almost a constant vigil on the shop to get an iron."

FURN'TURE SOLD

One of the biggest contributions to the war effort, the actual helping of the Army man when on the Post, is the sale and re-sale of furniture, Mrs. Fulton pointed out. Many articles of furniture have been consigned to the shop, and then sold to someone to make an apartment more homey or to someone trying to fit up a house for use. Soon the usual fortunes of war send this family elsewhere, and the goods are again handled through the thrift shop. In this way good buys are given persons coming in and small losses are taken by persons moving out, the loss being generally only the ten per cent where the family has taken good care of the household articles.

All profits from the 10 per cent sales charge on articles and from the full sale price of donated articels goes to the obstetric ward of the hospital and to other charities as chosen by the general sponsor, the Fort Benning chapter, Daughters of the U. S. Army.

The Post Thrift Shop started out as a little place near the Quartermaster's offices nearly three years ago, and a few months later was taken over by the Army Daughters and moved onto Anderson Avenue, where it was under the management of Mrs. Hamilton Thorn She continued to handle the place for 15 months with the volunteer help of the many Army wives and daughters who gave their services to continue something worthwhile to the welfare of the families connected with the Post. It was moved to a place on Gold and finally to the present nice location at Doughboy Stadium, just a few doors from the Post Library.

The new location gave the shop the necessary position to expand, and a 50 per cent increase in business was one of the immediate results, the Army Daughters officers report.

Last August the management of the store passed to Mrs. Walter Scott Fulton. She expresses herself very delighted with the personnel and the organization of the place, and welcomes the opportunity that it affords her to serve people of the Post in a very broad and practical way.

COZY CORNER IN THE THRIFT SHOP where nice pieces of furniture are being offered for sale This nifty porch settee is being inspected by Mrs. William H. Hobson, wife of the Post Commander, while Mrs. James L. Tarr, whose husband is now in overseas service, is offering it for sale as one of the volunteer sales force of the shop. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Headed by Miss Constance S. Oseth as president and treasurer, the officers of the local Chapter of the Army Daughters are: Mrs. J. W. Coutts, vice president, and Miss Katy Knight, secretary.

Mrs. Fulton states that there is a list of Army wives and daughters who have placed themselves on the volunteer list as salesladies for the place, and that their work is as carefully, faithfully and painstakingly done as any group of high-salaried clerks. A list of these unsung heroines include: Miss Martha Chase, Mrs. Gill, Mrs. McNamee, Mrs. Forgason, Mrs. Supensky, Mrs. Griffith, Mrs. Mercado, Miss Pat Maloney, Mrs. Jas. L. Tarr, Mrs. DePreimer, Mrs. Thorn, Mrs. Betty Drum, Miss Knight, Mrs. Coutts.

1st STR Gets Its 1st W. O.

When Sergeant Alex T. Sintetos took the oath of office that made him "Mr. Sintetos," he also gained the distinction of becoming the first warrant officer on the staff of the 1st Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School. W. O. (J.G.) Sintetos had been an enlisted member of the regiment since February 1942.

An accountant in civil life, he had supervised preparation of payrolls for several 1st S.T.R. companies. His new position will be Assistant Regimental Mess Purchasing Officer.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Sintetos of 1351 Ingraham Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., he attended Strayer Business College and Benjamin Franklin University there, graduating with a Bachelor of Commercial Science degree in accountancy.

An accountant at the Washington Navy Yard when the national emergency became acute, he enlisted in the Army in September 1941 and completed basic training at Camp Croft, S. C., where he also attended post administrative school. Transferred to the 1st S.T.R. at Fort Benning, he was promoted to corporal in April 1942 and to sergeant two months later.

His wife, Mrs. Agnes L. Sintetos, expects to leave Washington for Columbus, Ga., to join the newly appointed warrant officer.

Clean-Up Order Of Day Versed By Wac Poet

When Col. William H. Hobson, commanding officer of Fort Benning, proclaimed Clean Up Week for the post, Henry Bishop of the WAC Detachment, Station Complement, Section I, at the fort, prepared for his approval an "order of the day" verse.

Col. Hobson liked the order so well he had it published in the Daily Bulletin that goes out over his signature each day to various commands and units of the post. The Order of the Day—is CLEAN UP.

Get the trash out of the way—and
CLEAN UP.

You do not have the right
To let trash create a sight
When your effort is so slight—so
CLEAN UP!

There's a campaign going on—it's
CLEAN UP!

Give it a boosting that is strong—
And CLEAN UP!

If you clean-up the right way
And it's done from day to day
What a profit it will pay—when we CLEAN UP!

NEW TOP-KICK

First Sgt. Oliver L. Green, of Huntsville, Alabama, is the new topkick of F Company, Academic Regiment of The Infantry School. Green, who sports six hash marks, organized Headquarters Company of the Second Student Training Regiment in January, 1942, and served as its first sarge until the regiment was inactivated a few months ago. He resides in Baker Village with his wife and three children.

The War Department has authorized soldiers to take such employment as farm or food processing labor whenever they are "off duty."

Capt. Cunningham Takes Command Of 1st STR Unit

Over 250 officers and men of the 1st Student Training Regiment's Headquarters Company mettheir new company commander, Captain Albert P. Cunningham, Jr., at an informal evening get-together recently.

Captain Cunningham came to this Infantry School unit from Fort Jackson, S. C. This is the third time within the past 18 months he has been on duty at The Infantry School, having competed its Officers Motor Course in June 1942 and New Division Officers Course in February 1943.

THE MAJOR BUYS A HORSE. That's what that little thing in his hand is to little Jimmie. Now the problem is to convince Mrs. Weeks, manager of the Craft Shop, that she should hide it somewhere around the place so Junior won't see it until Christmas, no place being safe from the "look see" of the lad around home. The officer's smile seems to be having the right affect. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Post Craft Shop Provides Source for Unusual Gifts

A gift shop for men, with a lot of things for men, and a lot of things for men to buy women, or children.

That's the PX Craft Shop, near the Cooks and Bakers School, Vibbert Avenue, and Mrs. Harriet Weeks, the manager, with a group of assistants, is there to see that the soldier gets the gift he is looking for. She also sees that it is wrapped and prepared for shipping, or fixed up for presentation if he can deliver it.

True the shop is run by women, but there is no high powered salesmanship nor any nosey clerks who look on while the GI tries to pick out some gift for the girl friend or wife or the kids. However, courteous service is always at his call, and the prices are in many cases half the prices in outside stores.

Man's stuff includes pipes, lighters, tobacco pouches, lighter fluids and flints, cigarette cases, leather wallets, locker file cases, letter paper in cases, pennants, brief cases, toilet article cases, etc. Then the gift lists for the GI to buy for his women, include a variety that covers all the tastes that the girl friend or wife could possibly think about. There are gifts in perfumes, dresser sets, jewelry of the Army motif, novelty and costume jewelry, beautiful utility boxes for dressers, playing cards, stockings, cosmetics, and a great variety of decorative small articles.

Pins of rank, non-com, and commissioned, in gold and silver, to be worn by the women of men holding these ranks, are featured.

Of course, there is a toy room where men can satisfy their children's wants in all sorts of toys and books, for little tots and Pre-Pearl Harbor children, too.

Then there is a baby shop off to the side where the GI can let his wife enjoy herself, if she is along or in the Fort Benning vicinity.

For a strictly "made in Georgia" gift Mrs. Weeks offers the Shucknanny family—maw, paw, the kids, and the pooch—all made of corn shucks and kernels mounted on a board for shipping in a small box. And this is not a "corny" seller, Mrs. Weeks points out, for it goes over big with GI patrons who want something peculiar to this section to send back home.

The Craft Shop, also known as the 'Gift" shop among people on the Post, is near the Postoffice and bank, and is open from 8:30 to 5 o'clock each day except Sunday.

"Christmas is only a little over a month away," Mrs. Weeks stated this week, "and the early customer is sure of a larger choice. Should I urge you to shop early in these days of limited stocks in all lines of merchandise?"

Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg, who now plays for the Chicago Cardinals in the National Pro football league, was the fullback star of Pittsburgh's great teams of 1937 and '38. Other members of that "dream" backfield were John Chickerneo, Dick Cassiano and Harold Stebbins.

Our Best Wishes and Congratulations to FORT BENNING ON YOUR
25TH ANNIVERSARY
L. J. RADIO SHOP
All Kinds of Radios Repaired and Serviced
"We Guarantee Our Work"
2001 CUSSETA RD. DIAL 7572

YOU'VE EARNED YOUR STRIPES
Fort Benning, by the superhuman way you're doing your job. You really deserve five stars . . . but we can't do a thing about that!
★
However, what we can do is offer to your personnel and their families attractive, well-styled feminine apparel at prices that are unbelievably low.
★
Our bright and shining suggestion is that you pay us a visit when you're shopping. Look over our selection of fresh, useable gifts . . . and let our attractive sales staff help you solve your problems.
DIXIE SHOPS
1106 BROADWAY

INSURANCE brings security
AUTOMOBILE—comprehensive, public liability, property damage and collision. Drive safely, free from worry . . . at costs lower than your tires and tubes, or gasoline.
PERSONAL EFFECTS POLICY—covers everything, anytime, anywhere, any cause—with minimum exclusions and the least amount of fuss.
PREMIUMS AT WARTIME LOWS
St. Paul Mercury Indemnity Co.
The Travelers Fire Insurance Co.
National Ben Franklin Insurance Co.
Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co.
JEFFERSON CO.
FLOWERS BLDG. PHONE 5422

PEST CONTROL SERVICE
ROACHES, RATS, BEDBUGS
CREATORS OF SANITATION ORKIN EXTERMINATING COMPANY INC.
115—12th ST.
PHONE 6744

Ft. Benning
CONGRATULATIONS
On Your
25th Silver Anniversary
WADE DRY CLEANING CO.
1302—17TH ST. DIAL 7231

25 Years
Geared to Victory
You're doing a glorious job training soldiers to win the fight. We hope we help by killing the thirst that goes with the grind.
ROYAL CROWN COLA
NEHI BOTTLING COMPANY
COLUMBUS, GA.
DIAL 3-6461
FORT BENNING
1918-1943

Post Engineer In Role Fort's Trouble Shooter

Col. Littleton's Office Has Job Of Metropolis Of 150,000

When Lieut. Col. Edward L. Littleton was appointed Post Engineer, coming to Fort Benning from Camp Wheeler, Ga., he assumed command of an organization that "does everything from fixing a leaky faucet to maintaining the utilities and making repairs on installations that are equal to those of a metropolis of more than 150,000.

No stranger is directing such work is Colonel Littleton, either, for he says he did a little road building and highway engineering for the Fla. State Highway department and was engaged in the contracting business. He has several years' experience as city engineer.

He is a veteran of World War I, serving with the Heavy Artillery, he was recalled to active duty on Nov. 10, 1940 and assigned to the Engineers because of his wide municipal engineering experience.

Here at Fort Benning the Post Engineer's office performs all of the duties of the city engineer's office of a large city in addition handles the same work as the utilities—gas, light and water departments.

A crew of almost 1,000 civilian employes perform the various tasks of the office. Heading the civilian staff is W. A. Ford, administrative officer, who has had 21 years of experience in the office at Fort Benning.

VARIED JOBS

In the course of a day's routine work, the Post Engineer's office will repair a leaky faucet, put up a name plate on an officer's house, fix a gas main, install some wiring for a new barracks, open some G. I.'s wall locker, give advice on landscape gardening, run a sawmill, repair a bridge damaged by storm, fix a sewer, patch a leaky roof, clean up debris, put in a new piece of water main,—the list might go on for several pages.

It's Colonel Littleton's job to see that everything is kept running smoothly. The Post Engineer is charged with maintenance, repair and changes in all Army installations on the Post, and keep The Historical Record on those changes.

In addition, the office maintains a department that analyzes water for the Fort and for several other posts in Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

Miles of water mains, ranging from 13-inch pipe down to the small pipe line supplying smaller quarters, must be maintained. And other miles of gas mains and sewer mains are maintained by the Post Engineer's office.

Current for lighting and cooking in many mess halls comes from the Georgia Power Company, with the Engineer's office maintaining 326 miles of electric lines.

Then, too, the office must determine the need, specification and quantity requirements and requisition coal, coke, fuel oil or other fuel for installations on the Post. Gasoline must be secured for motor vehicles assigned to the office, including heavy road machinery, shovels, graders, bulldozers, tractors, pumps.

250S HEATING PLANTS

The Office maintains three large central heating plants and a total of 3,500 smaller units. There also are five ice and refrigeration plants maintained. The office even services the ice boxes in homes, as well as the large kitchen refrigerators and coils. Two hundred men are employed in plants alone.

After worrying about the preservation of food, the office has to collect and dispose garbage after thousands of hungry men have finished eating every day. To dispose of garbage and trash, the office maintains three large incinerators.

The Post Engineer also is in charge of the fire department, with a crew of over 170 men, maintaining 19 fire engines. The office provisions, maintains, repairs and operates the fire protection system, sprinkler systems and the alarm system, as well as providing and training the personnel, checking, recharging fire extinguishers and inspecting for fire prevention.

An important phase of the work of the office is vermin and mosquito control. Over 100 men are kept busy on this job alone. Thousands of gallons of mosquitoe destroying material is sprayed on water and swamp lands annually, and some areas even are drained to keep down the mosquitos and thus maintain the health of men on the Post. This work is accomplished under close scrutiny by the medical authorities who must decide whether the work is accomplishing results.

Another major project of course is the maintenance, repair and construction of roads, walks, parking areas, culverts, ditches and the forestry on the post. There are more than 75 miles of paved roads and 200 miles of unpaved roads, plus 40 miles of paved roads.

FOREST RESERVES

In maintaining the forest reserves of the Post, trees are "harvested" when they could be cut and trees that may be blown down during storms or otherwise damaged are cleared away. Three sawmills are maintained to saw up logs into timber and lumber and also to supply firewood so that there is no waste of natural materials.

Under the Post Engineer's jurisdiction also comes maintenance of the right of way on the 20 miles of narrow guage "Chattahoochee Choochoo" and about 12 miles of standard gauge track.

Soil erosion problems also require attention on the post, and the experts of the department plant vegetation to cover bare areas to and protect road shoulders against erosion.

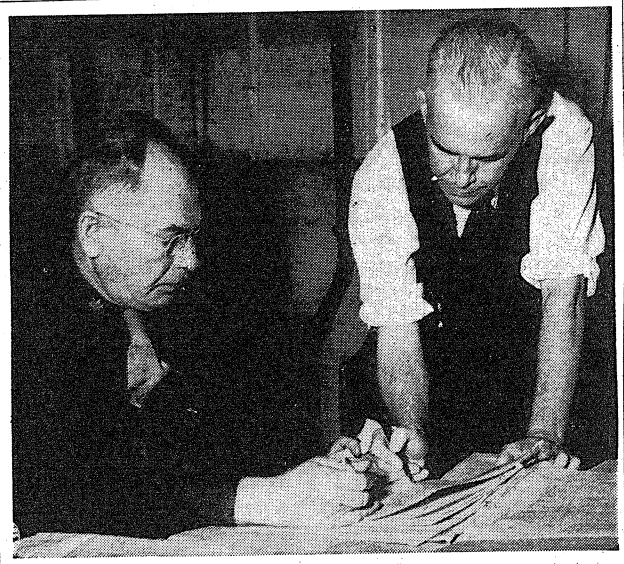
The office replaces, maintains and repairs all the power-operated equipment on the post. A large warehouse and storage yard, together with plumbing, carpenter, electrical roofing, sheet metal and paint shops are maintained.

The only metal which is liquid in its natural state is mercury.

The wing of a fly makes 330 movements per second.

Our Best Wishes to You Fort Benning on Your 25th Anniversary
PHILLIPS Dry Cleaning Co.
2312 Wynnton Rd.

Congratulations
FORT BENNING
You have a cordial welcome to our exclusive yard goods store for all types of dependable yard goods.
HAYNIE'S
1207 BROADWAY



In Celebrating The 25th Silver Anniversary of Fort Benning
And especially do we congratulate Fort Benning on the great job they are doing to train men in the defense of our country.
BARBECUE — CHICKEN — OYSTERS
STEAKS — SANDWICHES — DRINKS
COPELAND'S BARBECUE
3301 Hamilton Ave. Dial 9620

CAPT. NELSON L. BRACKIN
Founder and Owner
Congratulations
FORT BENNING
On Your
25th ANNIVERSARY
Never have I or would I let the opportunity to salute Fort Benning on its anniversary pass by.
I hope my employees are continuing to make friends of Fort Benning's personnel.
We welcome all U. S. Army men to use our convenient terms.
BRACKIN'S
Jewelers—Opticians
1210 BROADWAY

Snake-Eyes Again—Keep'Em Rolling!

Special Prize, Cartoons, $25, War Bond

GOING OVER PLANS AND FIGURES for a major job by the personnel of the Post Engineer's office are Lt. Col. Edward L. Littleton, post engineer and W. A. Ford, civilian chief of the office. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

SEND YOUR PORTRAIT
So They May See You Every Day!
This is the time to spend wisely. A DUPONT photo costs no more . . . but the quality of our work requires time and care.
SIT NOW FOR YOUR XMAS PORTRAIT
"OUR PRICES ARE WITHIN REACH OF ALL"
AIM'E DUPONT
Of Fifth Ave. MILITARY STUDIOS Columbus, Ga.
1218½ Broadway Tel. 3-1505
STUDIO HOURS: 1 P. M. UNTIL 9:30 P. M., E.W.T.
SUNDAYS 2 TO 6 P. M.

Uniform Regulations Harass Poor Private

BY CPL. WALTER MILLER
Academic Regiment

Pvt. Chowhound—who never understands regulations about wearing woolens until it's time to change into cottons—has some new "wrinkles" in the rules to worry about this fall. Only this time the "wrinkles" are creases—two neat creases he had put into the front and back of his woolen shirts just before they were tucked away among the mothballs. And Pvt. Chowhound, alas, didn't have his creases put in with an iron or a tailor's pressing machine.

Poor Chowhound had his sewn in!

Imagine Chowhound's untold woe when he asked:

"Why the line outside the tailor's?"

Because the answer, quoted to him by a company clerk who was very much on the ball, was:—

"The wearing of shirts, the fronts or backs of which have been specially creased, is forbidden."

Ouch!

Bored with his direct contact with Washington, the company clerk sighed and added: "War Department Circular 122, paragraph II, 2."

COTTON SHIRT

Chowhound began to wonder how he could get a priority rating in Stein's regimental tailoring establishment. But it occurred to him that while he had the company clerk cornered, he might as well hear the other regulations on the wearing of the woolens.

"What about when I wear the blouse—do I have to wear a cotton (khaki) shirt under it?"

"No. The cotton shirt under the blouse is optional. You're perfectly in uniform when you wear a woolen shirt under your blouse."

"Well, when do I have to wear the blouse?"

"At social affairs, dances, in the Main Theater, and whenever you go off the post," recited the clerk. "And if you do happen to be wearing a cotton shirt, be sure you've got the blouse with you."

"You know, the field jacket is something I always get mixed up on."

"Regulations on the field jacket are very simple, Chowhound," the clerk yawned. "You can wear it within the limits of the post, with only two exceptions. It's permissible to wear it if you live in town and are on your way to or from work. But have your A pass with you to prove it! And the jacket can also be worn off the post when you are on an authorized mission, during duty hours."

BLACK TIES

"I'm also worried about those black ties I still have—"

"Well, frankly, Chowhound, men have been stopped at the outpost for wearing them. Don't turn them in, but, until the tie situation is fully settled, wear your khaki ties."

Chowhound looked around furtively and then whispered:

"What's the real lowdown on my garrison cap—with visor?"

"Why Chowhound, you're playing with dynamite! Turn it into the supply sarge at once, or send it home! Don't wear it, and don't get caught with it in your possession! That's a straight tip."

Chowhound beat it upstairs to lord his newly-gained info over the latrine orderly. (Instead he bumped into the CO and got gigged for the creases in his shirt). The company clerk decided—now that the line had moved up to the door—that it was time for him to cook up a corker to get Harry the tailor to give him a priority rating. Should he tell him he was going on furlough tomorrow? No, he used that one last week. He'd have to get another one, fast.

TOBACCO OUTLOOK

The supply of flue-cured tobacco at the beginning of the season is somewhat lower than a year ago due to a slight reduction in the 1943 crop and to increased consumption of the leaf. The season average farm price, this year and last, broke all records since 1919.

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A SOLDIER

By S-Sgt. Tom McDonald

Reveille! Brisk reveille!
The first damned call you hear
Up and at 'em, soldier
Don't sleep the whole blame year

Chow Call! Chow Call!
You'd better come and get it.

Roll Call! Roll Call!
No company can omit it.

First Call! First Call!
Everybody be there.

Church Call! Church Call!
On Sunday isn't rare.

Fall in! Parade rest!
The day is near its end
But for the weary bugler
The calls will just begin.

Recall! Recall!
The troops come marching back
With every trudging private
Beneath a heavy pack.

Column right! Column left!
Private Smith, get in step!

Right oblique! Forward march
The louie's shirt is full of starch
The mind is strong, the back is weak
That hill ahead has quite a peak

Fire Call! Water Call!
Corporal Jones is too damned tall
Eyes right! and ready front!
Stick out your chest-yuh little runt!

To the colors! Music charms
Company tenshun! Present Arms!

Containers for dried foods should be air-tight, moisture proof, light proof, puncture proof, insect proof and rat proof, the Extension Service says.

CONGRATULATIONS
FORT BENNING
ON YOUR 25 YEARS OF SERVICE
TUNE IN WDAK DAILY 12:15 A. M. SUNDAY 3 P. M.
We're celebrating our anniversary also—come and worship with us Sunday.
FREE DINNER WILL BE SERVED AT THE CHURCH.
East Highland Assembly of God
12th Ave. & 22nd St. Jimmie Mayo, Pastor

Make It Last
KURT LOEB
UPHOLSTERING
Dial 3-4281 518 - 12th St.

WE PAY OUR RESPECTS
Congratulations to Fort Benning, our good neighbor, on your Silver Anniversary. For a quarter century—in the uneasy interval betwen World Wars—Fort Benning was one of the few reminders that our nation had not quite forgotten its armed forces. It was one of the few evidences that our people remembered the first obligation of a government—to defend itself against attack.
If we may speak plainly—our nation would have been vastly better off on December 7, 1941, and would be better off today, if the Army, and the Navy too, had had more Fort Bennings.
If Armistice Day can teach us anything, it is this: never to let our national defense so lapse that an enemy can be tempted to attack us under any conditions.
GEORGIA POWER COMPANY
A Citizen Wherever We Serve

Medical Detachment Is One of Post's Live Wires

Celebrating its 25th anniversary last October 7, the Medical Detachment at the Station Hospital has established during the past year an enviable record in various drives on the post, and is proud of being one of the most "live wire" units at Fort Benning.

The detachment, which is commanded by Major John B. Joyner, purchased $40,000 worth of war bonds during the Third War Loan Drive in September, far above its quota of $25,000, and reached that figure by September 18. In the current War Fund Drive, enlisted personnel of the detachment have contributed in excess of $1,000, donating an average of something over a dollar per man. They also have given liberally to such organizations as the Red Cross, War Emergency relief, and the U.S.O.

The detachment, which consists of Section 1 for white personnel and Section 2 for colored soldiers, furnishes the enlisted personnel for the administrative offices and wards in the Station Hospital and outlying dispensaries, providing 24 hour service in all these jobs. Ward boys are on duty in every ward of the hospital every hour of the day and night to answer needs of patients.

In addition to furnishing personnel to the Station Hospital, the detachment also furnishes trained men to the First Student Training Regiment, the 3rd STR, the Harmony Church Dental Clinic, the Sand Hill Dental Clinic, the Attending Surgeon's office in Columbus, the Veterinary Detachment Hospital Number 2 in Harmony Church, the Reception Center, the Alabama Area Dental Clinic, the Induction Station and the Internment Camp.

ARRIVED IN 1918

First personnel of the detachment served at Fort Benning on Oct. 7, 1918, when a temporary camp hospital was organized at the east end of the Station Hospital grounds, and consisted of three squad rooms, a kitchen and a mess hall. This was the foundation of the now nationally known Station Hospital at Fort Benning. Starting with a mere handful of men, the detachment now has more than 1,000 members.

Performing duties which include taking care of the large number of patients admitted to the hospital is no child's play, especially with long, hard and oftimes trying hours. As a result, the detachment special service officer, Lt. Walter K. Johnston, and his non-com assistant, Sgt. Natale Pintello, provide an extensive and well rounded program of recreation and relaxation for the men in the detachment.

Each section of the detachment has a dance or a smoker every two weeks, and through the cooperation of the U. S. O., girls are obtained to attend these parties, which tend to create a "team spirit" between the officers and enlisted personnel. The special service office also obtains movies twice a week which play in their "playhouse theatre" are free of charge to detachment personnel.

The athletic and recreational program includes sports of all types and features frequent tournaments with each of the 12 barracks serving teams to compete in each event. Among the tournaments are those of ping-pong, basketball and touch football. The detachment also puts strong teams in the competitions on the post and in Columbus. Many of the outstanding athletes on the post can be found in the detachment.

Among the other sports for the enlisted personnel after hours are tennis, volley ball and golf, softball, and baseball.

The detachment also possesses three day rooms, one of which is reserved for the colored personnel. Here they play billiards or pool, listen to the radio, play the piano or listen to popular or classical records on the phonograph.

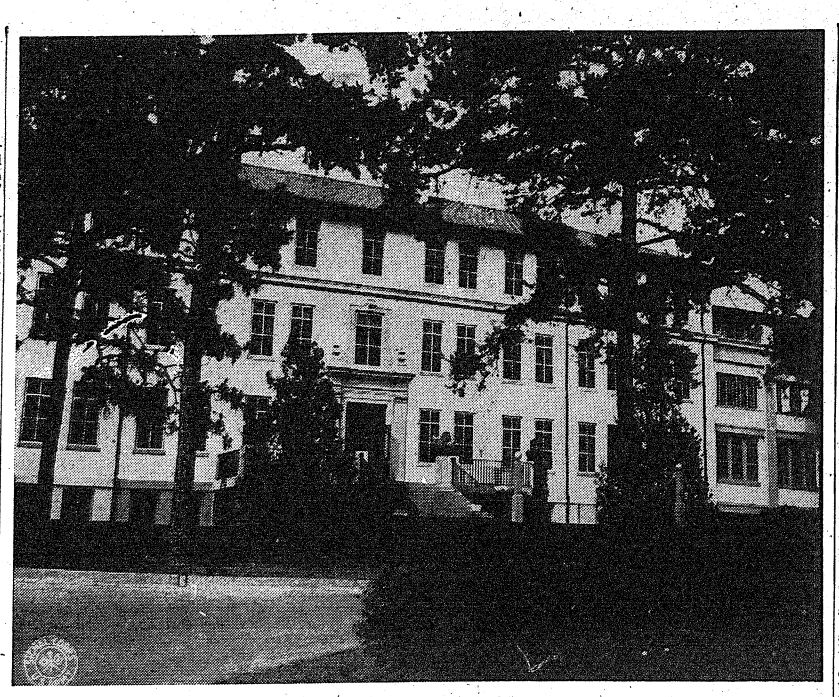
SPECIAL WEEKLY PROGRAMS

Each week, a special program is presented and consists of music, stunts, quiz programs and boxing. Once a month outside talent is invited to perform for the detachment personnel.

"The Biggest Little Band at Fort Benning", under the direction of Sgt. Pintello, also provides much entertainment for the detachment as well as for various wards in the hospital. The band, which has appeared on many post radio programs and at the Patio Grill, has played on quite a few programs at the Columbus USO units.

Members of the band are Cpl. Allen Morris at the piano, Sgt. Mike Sowa on the bass, Pvt. Clarence Davis on the trumpet, Pvt. Ernest Heil on the saxaphone, Pvt. Earl Swauger on the drums and Sgt. Pintello on the accordian.

The colored troops have a spiritual quartet called the "Famous Four", which also has entertained during programs on the post and in Columbus.



The special service also publishes twice monthly a publication called "Medicos", which ranks high among publications of its nature. Its editor is Sgt. Pintello, who works under the supervision of Lieutenant Johnston.

Other officers in the detachment are Captain Bradford Webster, supply officer, and Lt. Dominic Dionisio, plans and training officer. Three first sergeants are connected with the detachment. Sgt. Audrey C. Bittle is first sergeant for Section 1, while Sgt. Granville Monroe is first sergeant for the barracks area. Topkick for Section 2 is First Sergeant Henry Allen, a veteran of 30 years service in the Army.

MAJOR ALVERSON

Captain Richard C. Alverson, Maintenance Officer of the Parachute School, has been promoted to major, it was announced today.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Alverson, Spokane, Washington.

STATION HOSPITAL is noted for its efficient corps of me dical officers and nurses and its splendid equipment. This building is one of the most beautiful on the reservation and wins the admiration of all who behold it. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo).

Uncle Sam Puts 'Good Teeth' In His Fighters

Uncle Sam has teeth in his fighting army and often as not these are good G. I. teeth, designed by army dentists and constructed in army laboratories at places like Fort Benning, it was disclosed today by the post dental surgeon, Colonel Melville A. Sanderson.

"Soldiers, throughout the service, are offered the same dental care that was available in civilian life, only now it is more extensive and best of all it is free," he said.

Briefly outlining the post dental program, Colonel Sanderson revealed that the eight local clinics averaged 18,000 to 20,000 sittings for September and October. Seventeen thousand five hundred of these patients received permanent fillings, our largest single activity. Other work included construction of 445 partial and 140 full dentures, not to mention prophylactics, treatments of the gums, and extractions. The latter operation is performed only when other measures fail, and it is clearly deterimental, from a health view point, to leave the tooth. Parodoxically enough, the number of replacements exceeded the number of extractions by at least 25 percent during 1942. However, the answer is understandable. Draftees are now taken without regard to number of teeth, and later visit army dental clinics for supplements, or full plates.

EIGHT CLINICS

To take care of Benning's dental needs there are eight separate clinics on the reservation, each responsible to Colonel Sanderson, with a dental officer directly in charge.

Clinic locations and chiefs of service include, Dispensary "A," Lt. Col. Albert L. Bartlett; Main Hospital Unit No. 1, Major Benjamin Rubin; Sand Hill Dispensary, Lt. Col. Chester Fordyce; Harmony Church Hospital Unit No. 2, Captain Frank L. Pita; Harmony Church Unit, ASTP area, Major Nathan Alderstein; 3rd Student Training Regiment, Major F. W. Summers; and the Parachute clinic, Alabama area, Major Rex Matheny.

Caring for dental needs of the Italian prisoners of war interned at Fort Benning is Lt. Joseph E. Fidanza, himself of Italian descent and a master of the language.

POST LABORATORIES

To manufacture and repair necessary dentures, Fort Benning maintains its own dental laboratory, which is as complete as the average civilian labratory. For speedier service a production line system of denutre construction is in operation under the supervision of Major William F. Maury, chief of laboratory services. Work of the laboratory includes construction of dentures, both full and partial; construction of fixed bridges; and preparation of inlays.

Major Maury explained that rubber is no longer used here in the construction of dentures, although it is still available for repair purposes. As in modern metropolitan laboratories acynlier acyrilics or or resin-based plastics are now used, exclusively, in the making of new dentures.

Assisting in the laboratory are one civilian employee, Florence Reed, dental technician and veteran of World War I, and ten enlisted men, including Sgt. Cramer Griffith, who in civilian life, had his own laboratory at Birmingham, Ala. Rounding out the staff is one WAC, who performs a specialized clerical task.

TRAINS MEN

The laboratory also buises itself with the training of enlisted personnel of old hospital units destined for overseas duty. During their stay here, these men are taught specialized and technicial tasks which they may be called upon to perform in a theater of operations or actual combat area. These trainees average about 10.

Speaking of the duties of these men and their officers, Colonel Sanderson noted that the dental officer in combat is used as an auxiliary medical officer, helping to treat those with battle injuries. In the hospital, he added, the dental officer is trained to handle fractures to the jaw, including wiring; to perform dental surgery in case of injuries or lesions about the jaws; other minor surgery of the mouth, in addition to general operative dentistry.

Aside from dentistry as a health measure and necessity, Col. Sanderson added that it can become an influencing morale factor. A missing front tooth may differentiate between a self-confident fighter and a self-conscious failure. That tooth is the dental corps' opportunity.

COMPULSORY ATTENTION

He added that the army is affording dental care to many persons who never before had known treatment. Of the civilian population, only about 12 percent avail themselves of dental care and inspection. In the army, every man is extended this advantage and given some compulsory attention; however, each soldier must take a personal pride in his teeth and keep a watchful eye to their care. Local dental facilities are crowded and rushed due to added loads, but any man can obtain necessary treatment by making an advance appointment. For emergencies, a dental O. D. service is maintained at the station hospital and by certain field clinics.

All soldiers about to be shipped overseas are given a thorough check, including filling of cavities, removal of infected teeth, construction and fitting of needed dentures, and recheck of old dentures. Many men, Col. Sanderson said, are salvaged for full field service by giving them teeth.

"If an army fights on its stomach, it must have teeth," he said.

FOR THE BED-RIDDEN

But what of the bed-ridden soldier, unable to go to the dentist's chair? What dental treatment can he receive? Thanks to a unit designed a year and a half ago by Major Ralph D. Watkins, long-ailing patients have their dental work a la carte. The unit, a portable dentit's workshop, is complete in every way, and can be wheeled from ward to ward with the greatest convenience. All it lacks is an X-ray machine.

Of X-ray machines, there is one in each of the eight dental clinics, along with other dental equipment of the latest and best type available. The same is true of materials used in fillings and manufacture of dentures. For fillings, silicates and silver amalgams are normally used; for inlays acyrilics and gold; for crowns, gold; and for dentures, as previously noted, acyrilics and resin-based plastics are used.

Work in all of the larger clinics is sub-divided into various categories. In addition to the clinic head, there is the chief of oral surgery, who handles all fractures, and splints work and mouth surgery; the chief of prosthetic services, who is charged with all denture work; and the chief of operative services, in charge of all routine operative dentistry besides there are several civilian dental hygenists, whose duties are to clean teeht; and recently WACs too, have been trained in this sub-dental task.

At present the dental clinics are open 8:30 to 5:30 daily from Monday through Saturday, with emergency service available at other times. Col. Sanderson said that the clinics are busier than ever before and added that an increase in work is expected and anticipated.

Some of the old cattle drives from Texas to the northern plains involved 8,000 cattle and took four or five months.

Ernest Poole's "His Family" won the first Fulitzer prize in letters.

The growing of tulip bulbs has been a leading industry in Holland since the 17th century.

The first friction match was manufactured in 1816.

G. I. Movies Popular on Post

G. I. Movies are in fact Government Issue films containing current events; musical sequences; sports shots and cartoons. They are produced exclusively for showing to the personnel of the armed forces.

These films are booked by the Chief of Special Service Branch, Lt. Colonel Charles C. Finnegan for 30 days and in turn the Special Service Officers of the various military organizations stationed at Fort Benning schedule their exhibitions of G. I. Movies through Colonel Finnegan's office. It has been estimated that in a 30-day period a G. I. Movie is viewed by over 16,000 men.

The purpose behind G. I. Movies is threefold: 1—To inform the soldier on current events by increasing his understanding and knowledge of the history, institutions, peoples, customs, resources and terrain of the world at war.

2. To provide a supplementary movie service for regular weekly off-duty showings in those commands which cannot be served with standard paid admission film entertainment.

3. To provide a means for non-compulsory showings of orientation films and other educational productions.

G. I. Movies are intended expressly for 16mm projectors each release comes as a single 1600-foot film. The running time is approximately 45 minutes.

New Saturday Banking Hours

Banks at Fort Benning will close at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoons, it was announced Saturday at the post.

The change was made effective on Nov. 6, and in the future the banks will be open from 11 a. m. until 2 p. m. (EWT) each Saturday. However, on week days the banks will continue to be open during their regular hours of from 11 o'clock until 3 o'clock. The closing of the banks an hour earlier on Saturdays will coincide with the Saturday closing hours of Columbus banks.

Congratulations
FORT BENNING
We're Proud to Have the WORLD'S LARGEST INFANTRY SCHOOL Our Neighbors for 25 years
L. W. McPHERSON, POSTMASTER
Columbus, Ga.

SINCE FORT BENNING WAS ESTABLISHED
We've been right here on Automobile Row as BUICK—CADILLAC DEALERS—Right now—no new cars to offer you—but do have the most complete stock of real QUALITY USED CARS in Columbus.
Also—we maintain just the kind of Service Department you would want YOUR car to visit—no job too large—none too small.
CLIFF M. AVERETT, Inc.
BUICK • CADILLAC • HUDSON
1441-43-45 1st Ave. Dial 2-1601

RECAPPING AND VULCANIZING
— • —
FORT BENNING PERSONNEL WELCOME
— • —
CITY TIRE & RUBBER CO.
1062 Wynnton Rd. Dial 3-2434

Best Wishes To All Our Friends in the Service.
WILKERSON Service Station
100-11th St. Dial 2-1071

DAY ROOM EQUIPMENT
Phone 3-5821
HECHT COMPANY

Congratulations Neighbor
on your
SILVER ANNIVERSARY
The Columbus Chamber of Commerce is proud to take this opportunity to congratulate you on your 25th Anniversary. Your growth has exceeded our greatest expectation. Little did we know 25 years ago when we worked diligently to secure Fort Benning for Columbus that it would play such an important part in a war for Freedom and Democracy. . . . You have been a great neighbor and we appreciate the fine cooperation which has always been extended generously.
COLUMBUS CHAMBER of COMMERCE
T. G. REEVES, President — WALTER P. PIKE, Secretary

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS
HOFFLIN & GREENTREE
FOR 55 YEARS WE HAVE BEEN OUTFITTING MEN AND BOYS!
COMPLETE MILITARY DEPT. — SECOND FLOOR
Featuring these Nationally Advertised Lines—
HICKEY-FREEMAN
KUPPENHEIMER
BROWNING KING
DOBBS — MANHATTAN
and a Complete Line of Military Accessories
FORT BENNING 25th Anniversary 1918 - 1943
SINCERE GOOD WISHES to FORT BENNING on their 25th ANNIVERSARY
HOFFLIN & GREENTREE
BUY MORE BONDS
Columbus' Leading Clothiers Since 1888

Benning Red Cross Branch Is Largest of Kind In Eastern U. S.

Chapter Has $70,000 Revolving Fund; 63 Aides Serve G. I. Needs

Considered one of the largest Red Cross installations at a military post in the eastern United States, the Fort Benning Branch of the American Red Cross now has a personnel of 63 persons and a revolving fund of $70,000, according to Ralph J. Mitchell, director.

The revolving fund alone has leaped $15,000 during the three months following the end of the fiscal year on June 30, at which time it was $55,000, Mitchell stated.

Established shortly after Fort Benning itself became a military installation, the Red Cross here has grown from a one-room installation as late as 1925 when it was located in the present Bank building, to a degree that it now has six offices. The chapter now has its present large and commodious headquarters building on the Main post, three field offices and two hospital offices. The field offices are located in the Sand Hill area, the Harmony Church area and the Alabama area, while the hospital offices are located in the Station Hospital, and Station Hospital No. 2 in the Harmony Church area, where convalescent patients are sent to recuperate.

In addition, Mitchell revealed that the chapter is contemplating the erection of a new Red Cross building in the Sand Hill area sometime in the future.

The multifarious activities of a Red Cross unit on an Army post, and especially at Benning, has called for a continuous increase in personnel. Of the 63 workers currently active at Fort Benning under Mitchell's general direction, eight are assistant field directors at the Fort Benning Headquarters of the Red Cross, where there also are 10 clerical workers.

ASSIGNMENTS

Two field workers are assigned to the Alabama area Red Cross field office, which has one clerk, while three field workers are in the Alabama area, which has one clerk. Four Red Cross workers and two clerks are with the Seventh Armored Division in the Sand Hill area. Actually under the jurisdiction of the commanding general of the division, these workers make their reports, and handle their fiscal activities and draw supplies from the Benning Red Cross headquarters.

At the Station Hospital, the Red Cross workers are under the immediate direction of Mrs. Frances Hattaway, an assistant field director. Hospital Red Cross workers are concerned primarily with sick soldiers and providing recreation for them, while field Red Cross workers are concerned with able bodied troops.

Fourteen professional Red Cross workers, including one at Station Hospital Number 2, are assigned to the Station Hospital under Mrs. Hattaway, while a total of eight persons are employed as clerical workers.

Because Fort Benning is considered by the American Red Cross as the model military post at which all types of army functions may be illustrated in theory as well as in practice, a training school for assistant field directors is operated here, Mitchell said.

Trainees for positions as assistant field directors are sent here from the National Training Schools for practice in the field before assignment to other stations. Usually there are five of these trainees at Red Cross Headquarters here for a two weeks training period. These trainees work out of Benning Red Cross headquarters, and each day are assigned a different job so that they may obtain a comprehensive view of Red Cross operations on a military post.

Training supervisor for these trainees here is Donald Vanderbilt, who is an assistant field director in Mitchell's office.

26,740 CASES

During the fiscal year ending last June 30, the local branch handled 26,740 cases, made 5938 loans totalling $148,272.45, and made 20 grants totalling $765.83. During the three-month period following the June 30, 1943 report, 8423 new cases have been handled, including 1774 loans totalling $35,097. During this same three-month period ending September 30, seven grants were made totalling $230.50.

During the three-month period, the most frequent cause for calls on the Red Cross were situations involving emergency furloughs, with 3069 of the 8423 cases coming under this heading.

Family problems, personal problems, reports concerning home conditions, and cases involving health and welfare, allotments, claims, and pensions are among the things which the Benning Red Cross chapter is called upon to handle.

The local chapter also was in charge of obtaining the blood donors for the Red Cross Mobile Blood Donor Unit during its two trips to the post. Officials of the unit were so highly pleased at the successes of the stays at Fort Benning that Mitchell was told that Benning is considered the Unit's best stop in the area.

The Red Cross also conducts Life Saving Schools, such as was held on the post this summer in cooperation with the Fort Benning Athletic Association, and first aid programs for training soldiers how to act as first aid instructors for men in their own units.

Mitchell, who succeeded Eugene Bussey as field director of the Benning Branch of the American Red Cross, has directed Red Cross activities on the post since his arrival from Camp Van Dorn, Miss., April 16, 1943.

Fort Benning Is Billion Dollar Industry

Almost $9,500,000 is disbursed monthly by the Post Finance Office and the Seventh Armored Division, a great portion of which is spent in the Columbus area.

This is the highlight of a report made by Col. J. H. McFall, Finance Officer, this week. It shows a growth in three years (from an average monthly disbursement of $3,300,000 in 1941 to $8,300,000 in 1943) that is an index of what Fort Benning is doing for this area of Georgia.

"Maximum disbursements for any one month totaled $10,345,601.60 with vouchers computed and processed for payment totaling 13,387," Col. McFall reports. "By comparing these figures with normal peace time monthly disbursements of $654,763.43, involving 1702 vouchers and 17 employees for Army requirements at Fort Benning five years ago, when well trained experienced finance personnel was available to perform duties, one can somewhat appreciate the magnitude of present day disbursing requirements."

The Finance Office of the Seventh Armored Division adds approximately $1,000,000 monthly to the amounts reports above and most of it is payroll money.

NEVER DULL

"There is never a dull moment in a large disbursing office during a war period," states Col. McFall.

"Besides providing finance service for thousands and thousands of officers and enlisted men and several thousand civilian employees, a large Prisoner of War Camp is rendered finance service; also, obligations incurred by Purchasing and Contracting Officers at Fort Benning and by the Columbus Marketing Center for supplies and subsistence aggregating between two and three million dollars are paid by this office. The Finance Office also issues War Bonds mainly to numerous civilian employees having pay roll deductions for bonds as well as to others desiring to make cash purchases. This service was authorized last February and 335 War Savings Bonds, amounting to $7,775.00, were issued the first month. A continuous increase has been made in the number of bonds issued each month reaching a total of 3,232 issued during the month of October, amounting to $110,900.00. Many War Bonds are also issued by the Fort Benning Post Office. All War Bonds purchased by Military Personnel through pay roll and pay voucher deductions are issued by the War Bond Division, ASF, 368 West Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

"Each day produces new problems to be solved and additional headaches for Finance Personnel as a result of the endless flow of changes in organization, new laws, regulations, decisions of the Comptroller General, and administrative instructions to be observed in addition to taking care of the requirements of personnel comparing favorably in number with the size of a former peace time Army. However, we are here to render efficient finance service and exert every effort to do so within the limitation of available funds and laws to be observed to prevent viewing the future outside world through iron bars.

"All of the Columbus banks, especially the First and Fourth National and the Columbus Bank and Trust Company render every possible assistance in connection with the war effort and cooperate 100 per cent with Finance Officers at Fort Benning in obtaining and providing an enormous amount of funds without expense to the Government to enable us to function and satisfy the requirements of one of the largest, most important and finest ports in the Army," concludes the report.

COLORFUL CAREER

Col. McFall, who heads this Post Finance Office, has been in the army 26 years and has served at many stations, including four years in Europe in World War I and afterwards, (France, Belgium, Germany, Poland); five years at headquarters, 7th Corps Area, Omaha, Neb.; (temporary duty at all large posts in that area); one year at Ft. Eustis, Va.; four years Office of Chief of Finance, Washington, D. C.; five years at headquarters, 8th Corps Area, Fort Sam Houston, Texas; three years in the Philippines, involving travel in China, Japan, Hawaii, and through the Panama Canal; and during the past two and one-half years Finance Officer here.

Col. McFall considers his phase of Army life an interesting one, and enjoys the important work he is doing now for his country.

Recipes for making ice cream go back as far as 1862.

In the first two years of its life, the little blue heron is white.

There are about 1,900 varieties of milkweed in the world.

A single hawk may devour hundreds of mice daily.

Shakespeare was the father of twins, Hamnet and Judith.

THIS IS NOT A REGULAR RED CROSS INTERVIEW, for the two men pictured above know all about one another. They are Fort Benning's latest father-son combination . . . R. John Taylor, of Salem, Ohio, assistant director of the post Red Cross chapter and his son, John, Jr., of the 13th Company, 4th Regiment, ASTP. John, Sr., is a former advertising man and Ohio state senator, and was a candidate for lieutenant-governor of Ohio in 1940. During his term in the senate John, Sr., was president of the Ohio Senate Hatchet Men, a political reform organization. At present he is undergoing training at Fort Benning, before receiving his first assignment. The younger Taylor, age 22, attended Carnegie Tech until 1942, when he was inducted into the army. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

3rd STR Is Only TIS Unit Still Training Officer Candidates

Regiment Gives ROTC Boys, Enlisted Men; 17-Week Course

Last student training unit to be activated in The Infantry School, the Third Student Training Regiment is the only remaining organization in the school where enlisted men and ROTC youths are prepared for commissions as second lieutenants of infantry. While the regiment can not point to as many classes as it did at the peak of its activity it continues to receive and graduate a steady supply of officer candidates.

The regimetnt reached its greatest strength last January when the national training program for officers caught up with the officer strength requirements set up in the Army expansion program. At that time the regiment had five full battalions working overtime in collaboration with the national program.

Once the national goal was achieved, the requirement began to stress individual training rather than production. The Fifth Battalion was inactivated last spring and during the summer the candidate course was extended from 13 to 17 weeks. On Oct. 26 last, teh first 17-week officer candidate class in The Infantry School was graduated from the 22nd Company of this regiment.

The Third Student Training Regiment was activated in March, 1942, and came into being without a single installation—not even a headquarters. Col. Robert H. Lord, at present commanding officer of the First Student Training Regiment, assumed command of the new unit upon its activation.

BORROWED QUARTERS

During the first few days of the regiment's life, it had to set up headquarters in space borrowed from the First Student Training Regiment. First Regiment cadre was used until the Third received its allotment of clerks and cooks, shipped down from the training center at Camp Croft, S. C.

Next move of the regiment was to the paratroopers' training area but it actually took on the functions of a training unit upon its subsequent removal to the Bradley area where two battalions of classes were speedily built up. The First Battalion of the regiment received the first class of officer candidates on April 6, 1942. Soon thereafter, the regiment absorbed two more battalions which had been operating under the Second Student Training Regiment's command.

Occupation of the present area in Harmony Church took place in July, 1942. Improvements to the area have been made rapidly. In addition to the usual barracks, headquarters and other military structures, the regiment boasts two dispensaries, a dental clinic, a gymnasium, two exchanges and an amphitheater where outdoor boxing shows and entertainments are staged. Planned for the area as well is a sports field which will accommodate a football gridiron, baseball and softfall diamonds and tennis courts.

Col. John D. Hill assumed command of the regiment in October from Colonel Lord upon the latter's assumption of the command of Student Training Brigade. Preceding Colonel Lord to Brigade several weeks before was Lt. Col. John G. Hardy, executive officer of the Third Regiment since its activation. Succeeding Colonel Hardy in this post was Major Jerome G. Taylor, former Intelligence Officer.

Colonel Hill came to the Third Regiment from the command of the 124th Infantry. He has an outstanding military record, having commanded an infantry battalion in the World War. In civilian life, the colonel was an attorney in Birmingham, Ala.

Why Don't The Germans Quit?

—Honorable Mention

By S-SGT. WAYNE HARBERT
Co. B, Acad. Reg't., ISSC

Germany is retreating on every front. Hitler is being beaten. Only the date of his eventual downfall remains unfixed. Whether it be next month or next year, Germany will be crushed. Even the Germans know that. All the aces are against them. Why don't the Germans quit now?

Why do Germans fight their retreating battles, leaving absolute desolation and suffering wherever they pull up the tent pegs of the Wehrmacht?

Germany retreats in Russia. It is not a rout, but she is losing the Russian war she was so certain she'd win during that first drive on the Kremlin. Germany retreats in Italy. This is not a rout either. But she'd lost the battle of Italy as soon as Allied soldiers had consolidated their Sicilian beach heads. Here again, it is just a matter of time. And in the wilderness of chaotic Yugoslavia, poorly organized and ill-equipped guerrillas are having holidays protesting against the "master race." The Germans are losing the Battle of the Atlantic, just as they are losing the Battle of Germany in their own skies. Submarines still sneak under the watery highways of the Atlantic and fighter planes are fighting with fierceness over the Reich. But even here Germany has been forced on the defensive. On the other side of the Eurasian land mass, Germany's only major remaining ally is losing even the initial skirmishes in the Battle of Japan. It has hardly begun. But the delaying tactics of a "slug-here-and-a - poke - there" against the outer ring of Japanese defenses have resulted in retreats by the hard-fighting monkey men from Tokyo.

It might be asked if Germany is in any worse situation now than England after Dunkirk. France had fallen. Italy had joined the enemies. Powerful Russia (Hitler thought) and Japan were signed and sealed friends of Berlin. America was impotent and isolationist. Every day England was being smashed by the terrible luftwaffe. England, and Winston Churchill, stood alone. Why didn't they give up? Their darkest hour passed and England came through. Isn't there room for hope in Germany of Hitler muddling his own way? Isn't there as much place for the Germans to hold that hope on Unter den Linden today as there was yesterday for the Englishmen on Park Lane and Piccadilly Circus? Might not time and chance pay off? Even Hitler's not that crazy.

The England of two years ago was still an unprepared democracy. Though alone in the world, she realized the possibilities which time could give her. The Germany which beat her back to her own beaches had realized her potential strength in the long preparation which started with Hitler in 1933. England knew she only had to coordinate her war might to win. All England needed was time, along with Churchill's "blood, sweat and tears." She knew time would give her the materiel and the men to take the offensive. England knew time would also give her new allies.

England won that time. She consolidated her own empire and found allies. Russians gave her even more time by refusing to be destroyed and sweeping back so strongly the western allied world has been able to choose as much as it needed for every offensive blow since North Africa was invaded and claimed from the Axis.

That same precious time has been against Germany since the African campaign and its tide-turning blows. Germany has long been operating at maximum war capacity. Her own military and industrial machines were ready in 1939 and Europe has been licking Hitler's boots long enough for him to have squeezed the maximum slave assistance from the occupied nations. Germany has no chance of gaining new allies. Italy has been lost. The world—excepting the Japanese Empire—is against her. Even the neutrals have realized Germany cannot win and will not hitch their futures to Hitler's falling star. Germany is encircled and that circle is drawing in on her. Germany is beaten. Germany is undoubtedly fighting on with the terrible but hopeless hope she may win the peace. Germany would like to divide her enemies and make peace on the best terms possible with the first to offer it, whether it be Russia on the east or the British Empire and America on the west.

After the crimes of Hitler, however, from the purging of the Jews to the civilian-slaughtering and town-destroying retreats of Russia and Italy, the Allies will long note and long remember there can be nothing for Germany but complete and unconditional surrender, whether it be today or tomorrow.

By waiting, Germans are ruining the world, her allies and her enemies alike, the continent of Europe, and finally, which should be most important to Germans, their own nation. Why don't the Germans quit?

WHAT THE ARMORED PATCH MEANS TO THE JAPS

The yellow is for your color,
The blue is the way you'll feel,
The red is for your blood
That we're goilng to sjill on Soldier's Field.

The Streak of lighting is our Fire power, which we have plenty
of,
The 75 on the tracks means that
We won't take any of you alive.

You laughed at us because we Came from a farm, but we're not
In her to do you any good, but
To do you a lot of harm.

We have Clerks, Cooks, Farmers,
Stalesmen, and men from all walks
Of life; but when they sight the 75 there won't be any more Japs to fight.

The Tankers are like the Tanks,
Tough as any steel,
And they are just aching to get
A hold of a bunch of heels.

Listen, little rats, you've had
A busy day; so here is where
The pay off comes, we're coming
Over to put you away.

You may try to stop us, but
You won't even make a dent;
For we're from Uncle Sam,
And we're hell bent.

You think you know your Jiu
Jitsu,
And you have your Oriental ways,
But when you buck the Tankers,
You'll find that crime doesn't pay.

By Cpl. Wm. B. Thompson,
Co. C, 160th Tank Bn. (M).

Harvesting tools used in the U. S. as late as 1830 were of the same type used in Biblical days.

The Gideons and the American Bible society have issued over 7,000,000 Bibles and Testaments to servicemen since Pearl Harbor.

Fiji Fire-Walkers Are Original 'Hot-Foots'

The Fiji natives' fire-walking ceremonies are no hokum. OC William Vassel of the Sixth Company, Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School is emphatic on this point.

"The fire-walkers are trained natives. They start walking across the heating rocks several days before the ceremony to get conditioned. Then when the ceremony starts they can walk across 20 yards of burning-hot rocks without so much as a blister.

"The reason is that they walk barefoot all their lives. Their feet are flat as a pancake and calloused as an elephant's hide. When American soldiers throw butts on the ground, the natives will grind them out with their bare feet."

"Red" Bill Vassel came to OCS the hard way. In three years of Army life he did more traveling and saw more excitement than most people get in a lifetime. The beginnings were unspectacular. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. James J. Vasse of 3303 West 94th Street, Cleveland, Ohio; in Cleveland he was graduated from the Spencerian Business College, majoring in accountancy and secretarial work, and then took a job as secretary in a steel and wire company. The January, 1941, draft blew him into Camp Shelby, Miss., Indiantown Gap, Pa., and then overseas half way across the world.

May, 1942, found him in Melbourne, Australia, buck sergeant secretary to a colonel in an advanced detachment. He enjoyed his brief stay. "The people are friendly," he explained. "They invited us to their homes for what they called 'tea' but we called 'supper.' They drive on the left side of the road, and the first time I was nearly killed crossing the street because I failed to look the wrong way first.

"Private cars practically always are charcoal - burners. At night they have a 'brown-out' which keeps you bumping into the gals. The popular songs are the ones we heard in the United States four years ago. And the proverbial black Chamberlain umbrella is omnipresent.

"Our next stop was Auckland, New Zealand, across the Tasman Sea, the roughest in the world. Everybody was sick. We got a great reception there."

One of "Red's" prized treasures is a half-page picture from a magazine, taken at the reception and showing him in the process of loading an enormous portion of delicious New Zealand food into his mouth. "I am no chow-hound," he hastens to explain. "That picture was posed."

"We arrived in Fiji on the President Coolidge, later sunk. No sooner did we hit the beach, than we started digging foxholes. That was in June '42. The alert lasted six months. Someone was in the foxholes manning machine guns 24 hours a day.

"For recreation, we had football and baseball games in the park. We started league games, and when one outfit won the trophy, we'd start all over again with another trophy. We had two small theatres — saw pictures six or seven years old, such as 'beau Geste' and the old 'Hunchback of Notre Dame.' The New Zealanders gave some concerts, but they would be full of New Zealand jokes.

"Otherwise there was not much to do. We spent our free time in town buying souvenirs. Our menu for Christmas dinner sounded like something out of the Waldorf, but actually it all came out of cans.

"Then in February the Special Service got busy—they provided a projector and we had the world premiere of 'Stage Door Canteen.' We saw 'Casablanca' and 'Random Harvest' before they were ever shown in the States.

"We also formed the 'Zebra Club' of NCOs with four or more stripes, and fixed up programs including hotel dinner, drinks and a show.

"But better than the fire-walking ceremony was the Cava ceremony. Cava is a native drink, and one coconut bowlful will just about paralyze you. However, the natives can drink it all day without any effects. The guests are presented with a whale's tooth, and with that they can pick out anything in the village and it will be handed to them as a gift. I picked out a beautiful spear. But when they shipped me back to San Francisco they made me leave it behind. Security reasons. You see, it had 'Fiji Islands' engraved on it." Red Bill's face lit up with a wistful reminiscent smile. "Yeah, that was a swell spear."

OC Thinks M1 Is World's Best Rifle

OC James Richard Jones of the Fourth Company, Third Student Training Regiment, thinks that the M1 is the best rifle in the world. And the candidate should know whereof he speaks after months of duty in the South Pacific alongside battle experienced Marines.

Jones arrived on Guadacanal with the second wave of Army forces after the Marines were relieved from combat. His outfit immediately was assigned to patrol duty.

His patrolling experience taught him many important lessons in supply. Patrols were never larger than a squad and each group was assigned an area to cover in six days and that amount of provisions was issued. However, it always seemed to take from seven to ten days to complete a mission and supply loomed pretty threateningly throughout the trip.

Initially, each man had only one canteen of water but this was replenished from time to time by water from the jungle streams purified by chemicals carried as part of standard supplies.

On one such expedition, Jones was going down the Lunga River on a raft when it capsized. Two of the men were being taken back to the base, one suffering from malaria and the other from a lacerated knee.

RAFT OVERTURNS

When the raft overturned, Jones and the others, after making the ailing men comfortable, went for help. Upon their return they discovered one solution to the supply problem. The disabled men had procured fish by shooting them with a tommy gun and had eaten them raw.

The Japs usually bothered Jones most from the air. The Nips didn't have any respect for inspections, either. "Sometimes they would attack during a rifle inspection and we would jump into our foxholes and after they were gone we'd resume the inspection", the candidate disclosed.

The Army Air Forces were praised and thanked by Jones when he was caught in a landing boat by a wave of Jap fighters. His outfit returned fire with anti-aircraft and rifles but the decision was reached when the strafing planes were driven off by American P38s.

LIKE WASHING MACHINES

This incident occurred just prior to the New Georgian invasion. Incidentally, Jones and his buddies referred to the Jap planes as "washing machines Charlies" because of the peculiar sound of their motors.

Milder events were experienced by the candidate in his time off. The battle fields had to be policed and there also were occasional opportunities to bargain with the natives for souvenirs.

"One of our favorite hobbies", he said, "was collecting aluminum from fallen Jap planes to make knives", he added.

On Easter Sunday, Jones was helping unload a ship's supplies when the craft was attacked. The ship put out to sea with his party aboard and rumors had it that the group would end everywhere from New Caledonia to last, but not least, the good old U. S. A.

He wound up right back on Guadacanal.

The smiling OC advises every soldier about to go on foreign duty to learn how to play poker as this affords about as much time-killing recreation as any other activity.

Luckies Enjoy Classical Music On Electric Organ

The Seventh Armored Division, realizing that music makes morale, is currently enjoying an hour weekly of classical and semi-classical music played on the electric organ in one of the division chapels.

One of the top entertainment features within the division, the Sunday evening musicale fills a void in lives of music-hungry GIs.

The idea originated a few weeks ago when Lt. Jack Rogers of 817 Franklin, Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., and Chaplain Alfred B. Claus of nearby Pittsburgh renewed an old acquaintance of pre-war days.

Lt. Rogers was a professional organist then at Pittsburgh's Cavalry Episcopal church, studying under Dr. Harvey B. Gaul there and Chaplain Claus was pastor of another church at which the young organist occasionally played.

The two men got together again when both happened to be assigned to the "Lucky 7th," and they decided then that something should be done to satisfy the enlisted men's appetite for good music.

Noting that the men had little opportunity to relax and enjoy good music in comfortable surroundings, they arranged for a Sunday evening interlude of organ music in Chapel No. 4.

UNIVERSAL FAVORITES

The program plans progressed under the title "The Album of Familiar Music" with the lieutenant carefully picking universal favorites such as Liszt's "Liebestraum," Debussy's "Clair de Lune," and always a Strauss melody.

"Now an all-request program, the first venture's publicity was handled by the chaplain through distribution of mimeographed posters calling attention to "an hour of organ music featuring your favorite numbers."

In succeeding weeks the crowds grew as the news spread by word of mouth. Striking a happy medium between "longhair" and popular music, the program's popularity grew by leaps and bounds. Soldiers began turning in requests to the chaplains for nostalgic musicomedy tunes of happier days. After the recitals they often swarm up to the organ loft to make further requests and to discuss music with the lieutenant who plays as many of their favorites as he can on a program.

Programs vary with the men's tastes from Sunday to Sunday, ranging from Tschaikowsky and Grieg to Oscar Hammerstein, Victor Herbert or Jerome Kern.

Except for a brief opening announcement by the chaplain there is a solid hour of music from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. broken only by a 15-second interval between numbers for the convenience of those who cannot stay the whole hour.

From time to time the organist presents soloists or instrumentalists, adding variety to the scene. When asked by soldiers how long the feature was to be continued the organist answered, "As long as the men want it." Judging it by present popularity, the program should continue indefinitely.

Benning MP's Think They're Nation's Best

The best organized and most efficient Military Police department in any Army camp in the United States with the best equipment for their use.

That's the boast of the men in the seven departments of the Provost Marshal's Office on Wold Avenue, and Provost Marshal Maj. W. D. Veal admits that his enthusiastic crew have "something."

To begin with the setup is geared for a population of considerable size, and by any standards normally used would accommodate a city of 150,000, with GI variations that are necessary because it is part of the Army.

The Army variation is seen in the ration board as a part of this rather than a separate Federal agency as it is in cities; the issuing of licenses to cars, bicycles, cameras and hunters which is a normal state function; and the fire fighting in the woods and undeveloped parts of the reservation, which is generally a fire department's job.

Aiding the Provost Marshal, who is a member of the staff of the Commandant of the Infantry School, are two Assistant Provost Marshals, Capt. W. W. Sidwell and First Lt. Clifford B. Shaw, and a complement of enlisted men.

ORGANIZATION

The MPs themselves are under the immediate direction of the detachment commander, 1st. Lt. Shaw. This includes the Main Post and Harmony Church, and the two stations in Columbus, white and colored, and the station at Phenix City. However, the man in immediate charge of the three off-post stations is First Lieut. Wm. J. Lynch.

"One of the things that adds to the work of my office here," states the Marshal, "is the variation of the policing that we have to do. This Post has a large list of different activities, greater than any other post in the United States as far as I know. We have the big Infantry School, the largest Paratroop School, mixed in with all the odd things that make combat teams in action such as the 7th Armored outfit, the Lawson Field setup, and a Negro induction center, radio school, motor school, ASTP outfits, and Officer Candidate regiments. This is on our reservation of 218,000 acres. Then we have ten counties in Georgia and one in Alabama to police for our military personnel, off reservation. You see why I am proud of the job my outfit is doing."

The Marshal's crew all agreed that if they had a radio car setup, in conjunction with the Columbus police transmitter, that Utopia in policing would have been reached.

STAFF TOPS

The investigation bureau, headed by Capt. Harry C. A. Hoegemann, has a setup that leaves nothing undone in this end of the effort to ferret out crime and place the blame where it belongs. The staff working with the captain is "tops", he says, and the equipment all that it should be for the work.

The identification and finger-printing bureau, headed by Staff Sgt. William O. Mooring, keeps that side of the police work up to date, while the ration board dishes out permits for civilian shoes and mileage for gas books. Sgt. Louis Lipp heads the latter group.

The photographic section, under Cpl. William Bode, has a fine array of equipment both in the laboratory and "dark room" and in machines to take pictures. While a lot of the corporal's art goes into rather gruesome subjects, he knows his "pictures", the boys claim.

Master Sergt. Thomas Tweed is chief of the range guard, and it is on him and his crews that the safety of much of the forests rests. Whereas the fire hazard is not as great in Georgia as in drier forest countries, still the dud ammunition in the woods makes firefighting here something dangerous to men, and puts much more responsibility on the chief and his assistants.

The registration bureau, under Sgt. Barslow Gibson, assisted by Pvt. Edward Aiello, is now issuing camera permits (starting Sept. 11), both to individuals and to organizations for the taking of pictures within certain limitation stated on the permits.

VICTORY MARCH

By Jack Kamenitzer

A Native of Vienna Austria

March, Yankee, march
To secure our liberty,
March, Yankee march
Down the route to victory.
Trample over the beast of horror,
Trample over the land of dirt,
Trample over the world's oppressor,
Wipe him off from free men's earth.
Make Berlin the courtroom,
The claughter house Italy,
The graveyard Tokyo;
Our work will then be free.
Show the world that we want freedom,
Show the world that we are brave;
Show the world that we are grateful
For the land which God us gave!
God gave our father's freedom,
God made our fathers brave,
What they lived, and what
They died for
Let us Yankees watch and save.

Fort Benning Calendar

Chapels

PROTESTANT SERVICES

Post Chapel: Communion 8:30 a. m. Sunday School in the Children's School 9:15 a. m. Woman's Adult Bible Class meeting with the Sunday School. (Mothers who bring their children to Sunday School invited to join.) Morning Worship 10:30 a. m. Anthem: "Prayer"—Mascagni. Offertory: "Arioso", Flute solo, Maj. Benjamin Glaser. The Sermon: Guest Speaker. Christian League: 5:30 p. m. Evening Worship 6:30 p. m. Chaplain John L. Troxler.

THE ARMORED

Protestant: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott) 10 a. m., Chaplain Pomeroy; Chapel No. 2 (12th & Bourg), 9 a. m., Chaplain Lewis; 6:00 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Lewis; Chapel No. 3 (10th & Scott), 8 a. m. (Communion), Chaplain Pell, 10 a. m., Chaplain Claus; 11 a. m. Chaplain Pell. Chapel No. 4 (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Claus; 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Pell; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain Cermak. 10 a. m., Chaplain Fahl. 11 a. m., Chaplain Johnson, 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain Johnson; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), 8 a. m., Chaplain De Le Vergne. 10 a. m., 6 p. m., Chaplain De Le Vergne. 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain McLeod; 6 p. m. (Fellowship Hour), Chaplain McLeod; Stockade, 1:30 p. m., Chaplain Cermak.

Catholic Masses: Chapel No. 1 (Moye & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 2 (10th & Scott), 8 a. m., Chaplain Lynch; Chapel No. 4 (3rd & Scott), 6 a. m., Chaplain O'Brien; Chapel No. 5 (Div. Hq.), Chaplain De Le Vergne, 11 a. m., Chaplain Keating, 11 a. m., Chaplain Keating; Theatre No. 6 (10th & Bourg) 10:30 a. m., Chaplain Lynch.

Jewish Service: Jewish service, conducted by Chaplain Stein, is held every Monday evening at 7:30 at Chapel No. 4, Sand Hill Area.

Provisional: Sunday services held for members of the Provisional Truck Regiment are as follows: 1st and 4th Battalions—Bible study at 10:00 a. m. Worship service at 11:00 a. m. Services will be held in Building No. 5201 in the Service Battalion area of the Third Student Training Regiment. The 2nd and 3rd Battalions will have Bible school at 10:20 a. m. and worship service at 11:00 a. m. Service held in Building No. 5021, Third Battalion area, Provisional Truck Regiment.

176th Infantry: Sunday morning worship service at 9:15 a. m. in the Main chapel. Chaplains Arnold Lewis and John Troxler.

Parachute School: Chapel No. 1. Morning worship 8:30 and 10:30 a. m. Communion each first Sunday morning. Lutheran service 6:30 p. m. Communion each 2nd Sunday. Bible hour, Thurs., 6:45 p. m. Chaplain Herman A. Milcheker.

Lawson Field: Sunday morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Evening vesper at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday evening service at 7:30 p. m. Chaplain Geo. L. Forney.

Theatre No. 2: Main Post, corner of Wolfe and Anderson: For men of the 1st Bn., 1st STR. Sunday, Sept. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Communion service each 2nd Sunday, Sept. 12 at 11:30 a. m. Chaplain's office, 1st STR, Chaplain G. S. Reddick.

Station Hospital: Morning worship in large day room for the Del. Med. Dept. 8:30 a. m. Also on second Sat. Mass services in colored day room at 9 a. m. Services for patients and nurses in Red Cross Bldg. at 10 a. m. Chaplain T. G. Proctor.

Reception Center: Recreation Hall, Sunday school 9 a. m. Morning worship 10:45 a. m. Chaplain Isaac McDonald.

500th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. Evening vespers, 7:45 p. m. Chaplains Robt. D. Jones and Charles O. Dennis.

176th Infantry: Sunday morning regimental service at 11 a. m. in main Post chapel. Chaplains Arnold Lewis and John Troxler.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Main Post Chapel Tuesday evening 8 o'clock. For hour information watch bulletin. V. Reth, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 5291.

2nd STR: Chapel No. 2. Morning worship 10:30 a. m. Chapel No. 3, 9:45 a. m. Chaplain William Willingham. Sunday school and worship 9:15 a. m. for Service Bn.

3rd Stud. Train. Regt.: Chapel No. 7 Regimental service: 11:10 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain A. B. Billman. Also Regimental services at 11 a. m. in "The Chapel In The Grove." Chaplain George Kirnbauer. Colored services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Chaplain Sherman. ✠

Fourth Detachment Special Troops, Second Army: Worship at 9 a. m. in the 83rd Ordnance day room. Worship at 10 a. m. in the 51st Ordnance day room. Worship at 11:15 a. m. in the Bivouac Area, meet hall. Chaplain Arthur S. Ward

Hq. 4ATF: Chapel No. 4. Morning worship, 10:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey.

4th Trg. Regt., ASTP: Bldg. B-16: Services for 1st Bn. 10 a. m. Chaplain Theodore Bachelor; 3rd Bn., Bldg. 4367, 8:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Service 8:30 a. m. Chaplain George Ritchey. Catholic mass, 8 a. m., 4th Bn., 4th Trg. Regt., Bldg. 4367, Kelly and Amoth Roads; Bible class, 9 a. m.; Protestant service, 4:30 p. m., 4th Bn. in 4th Bn. amphitheater. Geo. A. Ritchey, chaplain.

8th Trg. Regt., ASTP: 8:30 a. m. Catholic mass in The Grove; 10:30 a. m. Protestant services in Theater No. 12. Chaplain Bergren.

4th Trg. Regt.—8 a. m. Catholic mass, Bldg. 6005. 10:30 a. m. general Protestant service, Bldg. 6005. Chaplain Bachelor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Harmony Church Area, Chapel No. 4, Friday evening 8 o'clock. For further information call William V. Reth, Christian Science Wartime Minister, Columbus 5291.

CATHOLIC SERVICES

Saturday: Confessions in Chapel No. 4 Main Post, from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. on; in the Station Hospital in Ward 5-A from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.; in the chaplain's office of the 3rd General Hospital from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.; in Chapel No. 1 and No. 2 Lawson Field from 7:30 p. m. on until all are heard.

Sunday: Mass in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7 a. m.; 8 a. m.; 9 a. m.; 9:45 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Station Hospital: Mass in the Red Cross Building, Corridor C (between ward 12 and 13) at 6 a. m. and 8 a. m.

2nd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 2 at 8 a. m.; in Chapel No. 2, located north of the Headquarters at 7 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. (colored troops); and at 11:30 a. m.

3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass in Chapel No. 5, building No. 5201, located on the 8th Division Road and Goodwin Road Harmony Church Area at 7 a. m. and 9:30 a. m.; and in B-25 Study Hall at 8 a. m. for the companies of the 6th Battalion.

Chapel No. 4, Harmony Church Area, located between the 2nd and 3rd Student Training Regiment: Mass at 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Chapel No. 1, 124th Infantry Area: Mass at 8:15 a. m. and 10 a. m.

24th General Hospital: Mass will be said in the Officers' Mess Hall at 10:30 a. m.

Reception Center: Mass will be said in the Recreation Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Chapel No. 2, Lawson Field: Mass at 9 a. m.

Chapel No. 1 (Parachute School Chapel) Lawson Field: Mass at 8 a. m.

117th Infantry Area: Mass will be said in Chapel No. 2 Lawson Field at 9 a. m. and confession will be heard beginning at 8:30 a. m.

Theatre No. 2, located on Wolfe and Anderson Avenues: Mass at 9 a. m.

Benediction and Rosary will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Miraculous Medal Novena will be held in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

Holy Hour in Chapel No. 4, Main Post, at 7:30 p. m.

JEWISH SERVICES

For personnel on the Main Post, Lawson Field Organizations, and all Paratroop Infantries: Every Friday evening at 7:30 at the Children's school, corner Baltzell Avenue and Lumpkin Rd., opposite the Infantry School. A choir of officers and enlisted men chants the service.

For members of the 3rd and 5th Training Regiments, The Infantry School WAC Detachment, Station Hospital No. 2 and A.S.T.P. Headquarters: 8 p. m. in Building 5786, Regimental Recreational Hall, 5th Training Regiment Area.

For personnel in the 6th, 5th and 6th Training Regiments, 124th Infantry, 244th and 255th Field Artillery Bns., and 622nd Ordnance Co.: At 10:30 a. m. in Theatre No. 4, near Service Club No. 3.

For personnel in the Sand Hill Area: Every Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. in Chapel No. 4.

Radio

Programs with c. G. I. twist.

NOV. 11

7:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK

4:45 P.M.—Full Speed Ahead—WDAK

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:55 P.M.—Harsch and the news—WRBL

7:00 P.M.—Fighting Coast Guard—WDAK

8:30 P.M.—Reception Center Chorus—WRBL

9:15—P.M.—Gracie Fields' Victory Show—WDAK

9:30 P.M.—"Stage Door Canteen"—CBS

10:00 P.M.—"The First Line"—WRBL

10:30 P.M.—"Wings To Victory"—BLU

11:30 P.M.—"Music of the New World"—NBC

NOV. 12

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

7:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK

8:00 A.M.—Breakfast Club—WDAK

2:45 P.M.—Full Speed Ahead—WDAK

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

8:00 P.M.—Kate Smith—CBS

8:30 P.M.—Meet Your Navy—WDAK

9:30 P.M.—The Thin Man—CBS

9:30 P.M.—That Brewster Boy—CBS

9:30 P.M.—"Meet Your Navy"—BLU

10:00 P.M.—Canteen of Stars—WRBL

10:45 P.M.—Elmer Davis, News

NOV. 13

7:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

2:30 P.M.—Spirit of '43—CBS

3:30 P.M.—"Hello From Hawaii"—WRBL

4:15 P.M.—Report From London—WRBL

6:00 P.M.—Navy Bulletin Board—WDAK

10:30 P.M.—"Lands of the Free"—NBC

NOV. 16

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

7:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK

4:45 P.M.—Full Speed Ahead—WDAK

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

6:55 P.M.—Harsch and the News—WRBL

9:00 P.M.—Burns and Allen—CBS

9:30 P.M.—Spotlight Bands—WDAK

NOV. 17

7:00 A.M.—"Benning Bandwagon"—WRBL

7:30 A.M.—Benning Bulletin Board—WDAK

9:00 A.M.—Breakfast Club—WDAK

4:45 P.M.—Full Speed Ahead—WDAK

6:00 P.M.—"Fort Benning On the Air"—WRBL

8:00 P.M.—Sammy Kaye—CBS

9:30 P.M.—Spotlight Bands—WDAK

9:30 P.M.—Milton Berle & Co.—CBS

Women's Activities

Music Group—Tuesday, November 16, 2 p. m., ladies lounge of Officers lounge of Officers' Club.

Spanish—Every Tuesday, Officers' Club. Beginners at 2:30 p. m., advanced at 3:30 p. m.

RED CROSS

WORK ROOM

Surgical Dressings—9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday. In charge Monday, Mrs. John McFall; Tuesday, Mrs. John Megoni; Wednesday, Mrs. Warren Christian; Thursday, Mrs. William Bestettler; Friday, Mrs. C. A. Noyes. Mrs. William Denton, chairman.

Sewing and knitting—Thursday mornings, 9 a. m. to 12 noon. Mrs. James Weaver in charge. Yarn for knitting may be obtained at Work Room any morning, Monday through Friday.

STAFF ASSISTANCE CORPS—On duty at Work Room Friday, November 12, Mrs. Reaves and Mrs. Kibbe; Monday, November 15, Mrs. Mercado, Mrs. Chalgren; Tuesday, November 16, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Hammargren; Wednesday, November 17, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Chapman; Thursday, November 18, Mrs. Grimes, Mrs. Norris.

MOTOR CORPS—Headquarters at Red Cross Work Room. Telephone 2058 for Motor Corps to pickup magazines you are discarding. On duty Friday, November 12, Mrs. Mallett; Monday, November 15, Mrs. Jacobs; Tuesday, November 16, Mrs. Dulin; Wednesday, November 17, Mrs. Bronkhurst; Thursday, November 18, Mrs. Norris.

GRAY LADIES—On duty at Station Hospital: Friday, November 12, Captain, Mrs. Hatcher; desk, Mrs. Mims; wards, Mrs. Finnegan, p. m., Mrs. Whittemore; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Guthrie, Mrs. Chase, p. m., Mrs. Webb; arts and crafts shop, a. m.; Mrs. Webb. Wards, Mesdames Shine, Rozenberger, Overleit, Chase, Boykin.

Saturday, November 13: Captain, Mrs. Brandstadt; library, a. m., Mrs. Holton, p. m., Mrs. Miles; floor, a. m., Mrs. Gordon; wards, Mrs. Perrine.

Monday, November 15: Captain, Mrs. Elliott; desk, Mrs. McKee; wards, Mrs. Spann, Mrs. Bass Lewis, Mrs. Whittemore, Mrs. McCormick; library, a. m.; Mrs. Miles, p. m., Mrs. R. Lewis; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Shine, Mrs. Rutherford; arts and crafts shop, a. m., Mrs. Spann, p. m., Mrs. D. A. Turner.

Tuesday, November 17: Captain, Mrs. Finnegan; wards, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Whittemore; library, a. m., Mrs. Roosma, p. m., Mrs. Hardy; floor, a. m., Mrs. Gold and Mrs. Sanders, p. m., Mrs. Webb Arts and crafts, a. m., Mrs. Webb.

Wednesday, November 17: Captain, Mrs. Perrine; wards, Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Venable, Mrs. Stevens; library, a. m., Mrs. Stevens, p. m., Mrs. W. Smith; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Dillerd, p. m., Mrs. Wright; arts and crafts, a. m., Mrs. Venable.

Thursday, November 18: Captain, Mrs. Heraty; wards, Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Gold; library, a. m., Mrs. Rutherford, p. m., Mrs. Rosenberger; arts and crafts shop, Mrs. Holton; recreation hall, a. m., Mrs. Sanders, p. m., Mrs. Power.

Boys' Activities

Monday through Saturday — Football practice at Doughboy Stadium, 5:45 p. m.

Friday—Scout Troop 11, 7:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Saturday—Cub Pack Number 1, 2:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Ranger Battalion, 3:30 p. m., Scout Cabin.

Girl Scouts—Pine Tree troop with Mrs. Burkowitz and Mrs. Murphy: Monday at 2:45 p. m.

Brownies with Mrs. Boylan and assistant: Tuesday at 2:45 p. m.

Cardinal Troop with Mrs. Donahue and Mrs. McGinness: Friday at 2:45 p. m.

Dogwood Troop with Mrs. Heraty: Friday at 3:00 p. m.

Movies

MAIN THEATER AND THEATER NO. 6
Erroll Flynn and Julie Bishop.

Nov. 13—HENRY ALDRICH HAUNTS A HOUSE—Jimmy Lydon and Jean Mortimer. GILDERSLEEVE ON BROADWAY—Harold Peary and Billie Burke.

Nov. 14-15 — THOUSANDS CHEER — Kathryn Grayson and Gene Kelly.

Nov. 16-17—IN OLD OKLAHOMA — John Wayne and Martha Scott. (USO-Camp Show at Main Theater.)

THEATRE NO. 2 AND 5

Nov. 11—NEVER A DULL MOMENT—Eric Brothers and Frances Langford.

Nov. 12—SON OF DRACULA — Lon Chaney and Louise Albritton.

Nov. 13-14—NORTHERN PURSUIT—Errol Flynn and Julie Bishop.

Nov. 15—HENRY ALDRICH HAUNTS A HOUSE—Jimmy Lydon and Jean Mortimer. GILDERSLEEVE ON BROADWAY—Harold Perry and Billy Burke.

Nov. 16-17 — THOUSANDS CHEER — Kathryn Grayson and Gene Kelly.

THEATRES NO 4 AND 5

Nov. 11-12—THE IRON MAJOR— Pat O'Brien and Ruth Warrick.

Nov. 13—NEVER A DULL MOMENT — Eric Brothers and Frances Langford.

Nov. 14—SON OF DRACULA — Lon Chaney and Louise Albritton.

Nov. 15-16—NORTHERN PURSUIT—Errol Flynn and Julie Bishop.

Nov. 17—HENRY ALDRICH HAUNTS A HOUSE—Jimmy Lydon and Jean Mortimer. GILDERSLEEVE ON BROADWAY—Harold Perry and Billie Burke.

THEATRES NO. 6 AND 7

Nov. 11—CRAZY HOUSE—Olsen and Johnson.

Nov. 12—FIND THE BLACKMAILER—Jerome Cowan and Faye Emerson. MR. MUGG STEPS OUT—Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall.

Nov. 13-14—THE IRON MAJOR—Pat O'Brien and Ruth Warrick.

Nov. 15—NEVER A DULL MOMENT — Eric Brothers and Frances Langford.

Nov. 16—SON OF DRACULA — Lon Chaney and Louise Albritton.

Nov. 17—NORTHERN PURSUIT — Errol Flynn and Julie Bishop.

THEATRES NO. 8 and 11

Nov. 11—TRUE TO LIFE — Mary Martin and Dick Powell.

Nov. 12-13—LASSIE COME HOME—Roddy McDowall and Donald Crisp.

Nov. 14-15—CRAZY HOUSE—Olsen and Johnson.

Nov. 16—HENRY ALDRICH HAUNTS A HOUSE—Jimmy Lydon and Jean Mortimer. GILDERSLEEVE ON BROADWAY—Harold Peary and Billie Burke.

Nov. 17—THE IRON MAJOR — Pat O'Brien and Ruth Warrick.

THEATER NO. 10

Nov. 11—LASSIE COME HOME— Roddy McDowall and Donald Crisp.

Nov. 12-13—CRAZY HOUSE— Olsen and Johnson.

Nov. 14—HENRY ALDRICH HAUNTS A HOUSE—Jimmy Lydon and Jean Mortimer. GILDERSLEEVE ON BROADWAY—Harold Peary and Billie Burke.

Nov. 16—THE IRON MAJOR — Pat O'Brien and Ruth Warrick.

Nov. 17—NEVER A DULL MOMENT — Eric Brothers and Frances Langford.

THEATER NO. 12

Nov. 11—FIND THE BLACKMAILER — Jerome Cowan and Faye Emerson. MR. MUGG STEPS OUT—Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall.

Nov. 12-13—TRUE TO LIFE — Marty and Dick Powell.

Nov. 14-15—IN OLD OKLAHOMA—John Wayne and Martha Scott.

Nov. 16-17—CRAZY HOUSE—Olsen and Johnson.

THIS IS THE STAFF OF MAJ. GEN. CHARLES H. BONESTEEL, new Commandant of The Infantry School, pictured in the Commandant's office a few days ago. Standing behind the General are (left to right): Lt. Col. Philip A. Dickey, Fiscal Officer; Lt. Milton B. Delcher, aide to General Bonesteel; Col. John D. Hill, Commanding Officer of the Third Student Training Regiment; Capt. Donald Ross, aide to General Bonesteel; Col. Edward P. Passailaigue, Commanding officer of the Academic Regiment; Brig. Gen. Henry P. Perrine, Commanding General of the School Troops Brigade; Col. Wilson McK. Spann, Commanding officer of the ASTP Basic Training Center; Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, Assistant Commandant; Col. Robert H. Lord, commanding officer of the First Student Training Regiment; Col. Thornton Chase, Adjutant General; Col. Harold E. Potter, Executive Officer; Maj. Harry Gowdy, Special Service Officer; Lt. Col. Lewis A. Minichiello, Range Officer; Col. Joseph C. Addington, Assistant Executive Officer and 1st Lt. Gordon Gray, Intelligence and Public Relations Officer. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

Cameraman's Life No 'Snap' Signal Corps Photogs Affirm

The fellow who said a cameraman's life is "a snap" was better at turning a pun than describing occupations.

Army photographers at Fort Benning have a huge task pictorializing military activity and the many news stories which materialize on the post.

Perhaps some of the best known photographers at Benning are from the post Signal Corps Photographic Laboratory. There, under the direction of Lt. Col. Alexander W. Young, chief signal officer, and his assistant, Captain Herbert W. Cooley, a crew of trained technicians perform a multitude of pictorial jobs.

Two sergeants, Technicians Fourth Grade Donald Kortmeier and Melvin Stock, are full time photographers and cover assignments ranging from news and sports events to pitcuring unusual accidents and operations at the Station Hospital.

The Signal Corps Photographic Laboratory also makes pictures for the Post Engineer, the service clubs, the special training program at the Reception Center, activities at The Parachute School and other post organizations.

Studio work includes making identification pictures for officers and warrant officers and the reproduction of legal documents and papers.

Lieutenant Francis D. McGuire is visual aid co-ordinator, and Technician Fourth Grade Jack Newman is non-commissioned officer in charge of the photographic laboratory. Private First Class Robert Ruiter is in charge of developing and printing in the darkroom besides making pictures on assignment.

Rounding out the complement at the Signal Corps Photographic Laboratory are Private Anthony Carrington, who does darkroom work and takes picture assignments; Private Harley Ferguson, who photographs Parachute School activity, and a WAC, Private Ann Dean, who makes identification photographs in the studio.

500 PICS MONTHLY

An average of 500 such pictures have been made in a month, according to Sgt. Newman.

During the month of July, 1943, before a 50 per cent cut in photographic supplies was made, 800 pictures were made by the Signal Corps Photographic Laboratory staff, Sgt. Newman stated. Approximately 300 photographs were made during October. An average of 1,500 eight by ten inch prints are made per month.

The negative and one contact print of every photograph made by the laboratory is filed by Sgt. Newman.

The Air Base Photographic Laboratory at Lawson Field makes not only still pictures but also moving pictures. Much of their work is for The Parachute School, and recently a training film for paratroopers was completed.

There are two motion picture cameras at the air base photo laboratory. Films are not processed or printed at the field, but are edited and sub-titled there.

Lieutenant Lawrence Anspaugh is in charge of Lawson Field's picture work, and Technical Sergeant Arden F. Rbots is his assistant.

News pictures are made for the public relations offices of Lawson Field and The Parachute School. Besides making photographs for Tail Skid, field publication, the laboratory photographs the pages of the paper before they are printed by the offset process. Still training pictures are made for The Parachute School, and identification pictures for civilian employes at Lawson Field are made in the studio.

OWN FACILITIES

A newspaper at Fort Benning which has its own photographic facilities is the ASTP Pinebur published by the special service office at the Basic Training Center. Three enlisted men have camera permits and make pictures not only for the newspaper but for all public relations work in the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Training Regiments.

The cameramen are Sergeant John Naylor, editor of the Pineburr, and Private Leonard Fryweller. Auxiliary cameraman is Sergeant Carlton Brown. Besides a darkroom there is a studio and lighting facilities for both outside and inside jobs.

Another pictorial agency at Fort Benning is the photographic section at The Infantry School's Reproduction Plant. Master Sergeant Eugene C. Tinsley is in charge of the section, and Staff Sergeant Jack Lieberman is assistant.

The section makes training photographs for field manuals and for various publications in Fort Benning. Pfc. George Rowen, on assignment to the Public Relations Office of The Infantry School, makes the majority of the news pictures.

Patio Grill Wins Soldiers' Favor

Probably unique in all the army camps in the country is Fort Benning's Patio Grill.

Established late in June after the opening of the new cafeteria, the Patio Grill was built contiguous to the cafeteria, a large open air soft drink and beef garden with brilliantly colored benches and tables with umbrellas, with a capacity of about 500 seats.

But it wasn't long before the seating capacity wasn't anywhere near the measure of the crowds that came to the Patio Grill, so popular did the place prove with the enlisted men and their friends and families.

There the GI's found that they could relax of an evening and meet their friends and the general effect of the new place as an addition to the recreational facilities of the post was quickly noted.

The grill is under the exchange, and Lt. Col. Harold E. McGaffey, whose brainchild the new place largely was, took an interest in it and in seeing that the enlisted men's open air club was realized. He hit on the idea of putting in a band or dance orchestra or some other musical combination twice a week and the plan was inaugurated in July, with the idea of running a couple of weeks just to see what the reaction was.

The reaction was immediate. The soldiers liked it. The WAACs and later WACs, liked it. Enlisted men's families visiting the Post thought it was wonderful.

And the orchestra and bandmen liked it, too. They liked the enthusiasm with which they were received and they asked to be booked in again and again.

After a month's trial period, it wouldn't have been possible to stop the musical nights at the Grill, for the soldiers kept yelling for more. So Colonel McGaffey and James D. Brooks, Atlanta restauranteur, who manages the Grill, agreed to keep it open, complete with the music, until it gets just too cold for both players and audiences.

Mr. Brooks was brought in to manage the Grill to succeed Jack Joines, veteran Exchange manager who came over from the Atlanta area to get it started. Brooks had considerable experience in Atlanta where he left his own establishment there in the hands of relatives to come to Benning to manage the Grill. Assisting him are Lewis Bradley, of Columbus, assistant manager; six cashiers, a colored supervisor and even busboys. Capt. L. B. Baynerd is supervisor for the Exchange.

PAST—

(Continued from Page 2)

fantry School may be divided into four main categories.

O. C. PROGRAM

First there is the Officer Candidate program devoted to the task of developing Infantry combat officers from enlisted personnel in the Army. The candidates are the outstanding privates, corporals and sergeants who have demonstrated necessary qualities of leadership and intelligence. Here, largely through practical work, they are given training in Infantry weapons and tactics, and their leadership ability developed.

Next there are the Basic, Advanced and New Division courses for Officers.

The Basis classes are composed of officers of junior grade who are given infantry rifle and heavy weapons company training. The advanced course concerns itself primarily with the functions and duties of battalion commanders and staff officers, and includes training in tactics and logistics. The New Division Officers course brings together officers who are to head Infantry components of new divisions to be activated, and facilitates the preliminary organization of their staffs. It also reviews previous training and coor-

Then there are the technical courses. The Automotive School presents two similar 12-week courses, one for officers and one for enlisted men. Known respectively as the Officers' Motor Course and the Enlisted Motor Course, their mission is to produce qualified transport and maintenance officers, and also skilled mechanics capable of performing and supervising second echelon maintenance and the operation of all vehicles organic in the Infantry Regiment.

The Communication School offers the Officers' Communication Course and the Enlisted Communication course. The former is designed to produce qualified Communication Officers for Infantry units, and qualified instructors in signal communication. The latter mission is the development of qualified operators for all types of radio sets used within the Infantry, the standardization of operational procedure, and the training of radio instructors.

OTHER COMPONENTS

The picture of the Infantry School is not complete without mention of the Reproduction and Army Field Printing Plant and the Publications Section. The former has as its job the production of mimeographed and printed instructional matter, the production and procurement of maps for instructional purposes and the production of charts and other visual aids. It does work for The Infantry School, the Army Ground Forces and for all units of the Fourth Service Command. It is equipped to produce any complete book without any commercial assistance.

The Publication Section compiles, edits and processes much of the instructional material prepared for The Infantry. The material consists mainly of field manuals, Conference Course Training bulletins, and visual aids in training. Training literature and visual aids are being revised continually under the direction of Headquarters Army Ground Forces in order that our Army may be kept informed of the latest developments in the tactics and technique of Infantry combat.

The Infantry Board, of which the Commandant of The Infantry School is president, was created shortly after the end of the first World War as the official agency charged with studying the requirements of the Infantry arm, and, advising the War Department on all matters relating to organization, technique and equipment of Infantry troops. It works in close harmony with the School. Its members are senior Infantry officers specially selected for broad experience and knowledge of Infantry matter.

White, Myers Get New Jobs

Two changes in assignments at Fort Benning Post Headquarters were announced by Col. William H. Hobson, commanding officer of the post.

Capt. John White, who has served as billeting officer, was named assistant to the Post Executive Officer, Col. John P. Edgerly. Succeeding Capt. White as billeting officer is First Lieut. J. W. Myers, Jr., an assistant public relations officer.

Capt. White, a native of Bishopville, S. C., was first assigned to Benning May 3, 1942. He had received his commission as a reserve officer in 1941 and was called to active duty with the Ninth Division at Fort Bragg in August, 1941. While at Benning, Capt. White has been assistant billeting officer, assistant adjutant, and until today, billeting officer.

Lieut. Myers, called to active duty in May, 1942, is a native of New Orleans. He was commissioned a reserve second lieutenant in the field artillery upon his graduation from Louisiana State University with the degree of bachelor of science in forestry. Lt. Myers also serves as post assistant War Bond Officer.

1340
ON YOUR DIAL
WDAK
COLUMBUS' 2 NETWORK STATION
Blue—Mutual

CONGRATULATIONS!
FORT BENNING
ON YOUR
25TH ANNIVERSARY
THE COLUMBUS THEATRES

BRADLEY
FRI.-SAT.
BLONDIE AND THE BUMSTEADS
—in—
"FOOTLIGHT GLAMOUR"
SUNDAY THRU THURSDAY
PRESTON FOSTER — LLOYD NOLAN
"GUADACANAL DIARY"
FRIDAY
EDWARD ARNOLD — FAY BAINTER
—in—
"War Against Mrs. Hadley"

SPRINGER
SATURDAY
"TEX" O'BRIEN — JIM NEWELL
—in—
"FIGHTING VALLEY"
SUN.-MON.
CARY GRANT — GINGER ROGERS
—in—
"Once Upon a Honeymoon"
TUES.-WED.
BLONDIE AND THE BUMSTEADS
—in—
"IT'A GREAT LIFE"
THURSDAY
VERA VAGUE AND LULA BELLE
—in—
"SWING YOUR PARTNER

RIALTO
FRI.-SAT.
ROY ROGERS—IN—
"Man From Music Mountain"
SUN.-MON.-TUES.
DON AMECHE — GENE TIERNAN
—in—
"HEAVEN CAN WAIT"
WED.-THURS.
EVELYN ANKERS — JOHN CARRADINE
—in—
"CAPTIVE WILD WOMEN"

ROYAL
FRI.-SAT
LUPE VELEZ
—in—
"Red Head From Manhattan"
SUN.-MON.-TUES.-WED.
THURS.-FRI.-SAT.
GARY COOPER — INGRED BERGMAN
—in—
"FOR WHOM THE BELLS TOLL"

CELEBRATE
FORT BENNING'S
SILVER ANNIVERSARY
AT THE MOST POPULAR NIGHT CLUB IN THE CITY
JIMMY THOMAS
—presents—
2 FINE SHOWS NIGHTLY
9 P. M. and 11 P. M.
—MUSIC BY—
DON CORTEZ
AND HIS ORCHESTRA
TEA DANCE
SUNDAY 4:30 P. M.
Southern Manor
JUNCTION OPELIKA AND MONTGOMERY HIGHWAYS

CBS Network—Radio's Finest
WRBL
1230 on your dial
O'CONNOR'S Nitwork.....
WRBL'S CORNIEST!
Here are the programs you'll enjoy—
Times quoted are Benning time—
SUNDAY—
3:00 P. M. N. Y. Philharmonic
4:30 P. M. Pause that Refreshes
6:30 P. M. America in the Air
7:30 P. M. We the People
8:30 P. M. Crime Doctor
9:00 P. M. Reader's Digest
9:30 P. M. Star Theatre
10:00 P. M. Take It or Leave It
MONDAY—
8:00 P. M. Vox Pop
8:30 P. M. Listen, It's Fort Benning
9:00 P. M. Lux Radio Theatre
10:00 P. M. Screen Guild Players
10:30 P. M. Blondie
TUESDAY—
7:15 P. M. Harry James
8:00 P. M. Big Town
8:30 P. M. Judy Canova
9:00 P. M. Burns & Allen
9:30 P. M. Report to the Nation
10:00 P. M. Suspense
WEDNESDAY—
8:00 P. M. Sammy Kaye
8:30 P. M. Dr. Christian
9:00 P. M. Mayor of the Town
9:30 P. M. Jack Carson
THURSDAY—
7:45 P. M. Calmer & Elliott
8:00 P. M. Roma Show
8:35 P. M. Reception Center
9:00 P. M. Major Bowes
9:30 P. M. Roma Wine
FRIDAY—
7:15 P. M. Dateline
8:00 P. M. Kate Smith
9:00 P. M. Playhouse
9:30 P. M. Brewster Boy
10:00 P. M. Durante & Moore
SATURDAY—
7:00 P. M. Man Behind the Gun
7:30 P. M. Thanks to Yanks
8:00 P. M. Blue Ribbon Town
8:30 P. M. Inner Sanctum
9:00 P. M. Hit Parade
Mrs. O'Connor's Pride and Joy . . . her little boy
J-A-C-K-S-O-N !
and all his satellites say,
"SNAPPY BIRTHDAY FORT BENNING . . .
You're a swell bunch of gals and guys, so please send me some more requests."
For further enlightenment tune in on WRBL's Benning Band Wagon 6:00 A. M. and O'Connor's Musical Clock 8:15 A. M.

AT THE BAMA CLUB

ALL-GIRL REVUE PRESENTED AT THE BAMA CLUB include Claire Ray Dancers, six beautiful girls, Jane Carlson, Patty Lane, Jane Fox, Rita O'Brien, Laverne Christoff and Claire Ray. Other acts that make this the show of the year, Helde Simmons, the queen of the "Boogy Woogy" piano and singer; Marianna and her Marionettes, and Anne Russell, beautiful singer of popular songs, and of course the finest dance music in the South by Vernon Yonkers and his Dixieland Band. Don't miss the show of the year at the Bama Club.

Hospital Unit No. 2 Helps Convalescent Doughboys

Salvage of injured soldiers who otherwise would be disabled permanently or face a long and painful convalescence is the business of Station Hospital Unit No. 2 in the Harmony Church area of Fort Benning.

This unit for convalescents takes patients discharged from the Station Hospital who are still suffering from the after effects of injury or illness. Here a scientific program of reconditioning speeds the process of recovery so that the men are able to return to duty when they are discharged from Unit No. 2.

This is no hospital of bathrobes and pajamas. The soldiers in this unit are up and dressed and seriously about this business of effecting a complete recovery in order to return to their home units for active duty.

Consequently, a program designed to restore both physical and mental health has been perfected by various officers in this united headed by Colonel William C. Kennedy, commanding officer. A program of work and play; good food; the finest medical care the Army can provide with the newest in equipment; comfortable living conditions; absolute freedom for expressing any constructive idea, and always the co-operation, understanding and wise counseling of their superior officers has made possible recovery of more than 1,100 patients since the unit's opening in March of this year.

Working on the theory that "something for nothing" is always a challenge to man, Captain Clifford K. Okuno, chief of laboratory service at this unit, has worked out plans of construction with soldiers convalescing in this area that give the mind employment, the body needed exercise and valuable sun rays.

A field sanitary area composed of 12 units consisting of an underground trench incinerator; human waste vaults; garbage disposal plants; improvised outdoor showers; latrines; and outdoor incinerator and an underground food storage vault are among the important projects constructed under Lt. Okuno's supervision. Materials salvaged from scrap piles left from the construction of the area were used. Rocks were brought from nearby streams and fields.

The convalescent soldiers work only such time as doctors allow and have made this model sanitary area as preparation for the day when they will be doing "field duty" in some battle zone.

GOOD EARTH POLICY

Plans and training officer of the reconditioning program is Second Lieut. Harold W. Lenhart.

Activities under the plans and training officer include the showing of the latest news and orientation films each day, provided through the co-operation of Lt. Col. Clarence A. Will, post plans and training officer. Films showing every organization on the post are shown at some time or other to these men who are representatives from every outfit in this convalescent group. Once each week round table discussions are held with the officers and men participating when world problems are debated and settled, at least to their own satisfaction.

ARMS INSTRUCTION

There are line officers to instruct in arms. An infantry and a field artillery officer keep these men in practice in the rudiments of their separate branches. One thought is ever uppermost in the minds of the officers responsible for the convalescence of these men: prepare them to take thier place with their own orgaization strong in body, active in mind, with a clear idea of their responsibility to their organization, and to better equip them for the arduous task confronting them.

"Making little ones out of big ones" so to speak has resulted in the neat little white picket fence around the administration building. Old fruit and vegetable crates were the source of the material, split and trimmed to the exact dimensions for this fence enclosing a "V" bed planted with flaming scarlet salvia.

Along with nature, physical therapy is the miracle worker in this hospital. There are a number of ingenious devices invented or constructed by Captain Samuel Sherman, formerly of New York City, in charge of physical therapy. These run the gamut of one's imagination from a finger-ladder to a foot rocker. In addition to these home made miracle workers are all the most modern scientific inventions for the care of Uncle Sam's boys.

The finger ladder is of interesting construction. Nailed perpendicularly to the wall is a narrow strip. On this strip are built little steps, each with a number to see how much progress is made each day. For an injury that leaves stiffened fingers, a man runs his fingers up and down these little steps—first maybe just one or two, but up and down, up and down, until they can go as high as the arm can reach and before long that trigger finger is just as good as new.

"The wheel of chance" copied from its predecessor on the state fair midway is just that—lacking numbers of course and the inevitable "kewpie doll" prize—but the stakes are much higher. Complete use of shoulder and arm put out of use by breaks or sprains is the goal of this machine. A man grabs hold of a knob built onto this wheel and starts turning. Round and round it goes, and you know that with every turn of that wheel the injured member is getting more and more limber and the stiffness is being gradually worked out, restoring it to full use again. That is the prize from this wheel.

A "foot rocker" is still another device. It is more like a shoeshine box than anything else. A man places his foot on the last and rocks back and forth and the soreness in a broken or sprained ankle is soon worked out.

BAKING CABINET

But these are just a few of the things accomplished for soldiers with sick muscles. There is the electric baking cabinet with a controlled temperature of 110 degrees. While the patient is in this cabinet having all body soreness and stiffness steamed out, he is given salt water continuously to drink to replace the chloride in his system lost by perspiration. Ultraviolet machines used are so powerful that five minutes is equal to one hour in the sun. The infra-ray lamps are used for "deep under the skin" treatment.

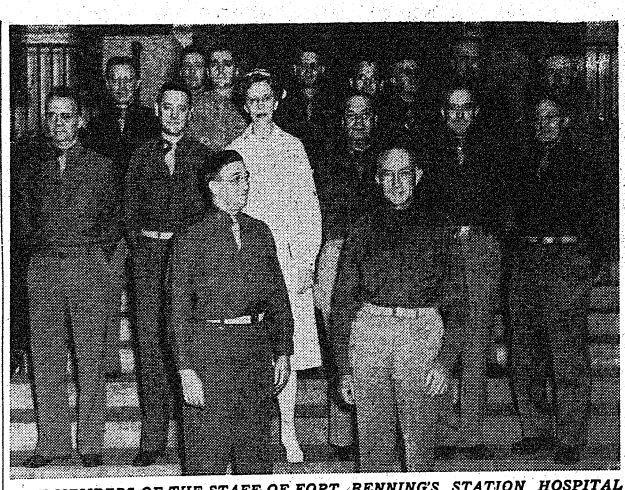
For stiffened joints and limbs the whirlpool bath is the quickest method for aiding nature. The limb or joint is placed into a washing machine-like device. Water, electrically controlled as to heat, is flooded into the tub. A motor sets in motion the water with a terrific force that duplicates therapeutic action and hastens recovery to these joints and limbs.

You find here a new use for the medicine ball. Patients lie flat on the ball ano roll round and round, exercising stomach muscles that have become inactive from operations—maybe bayonet stabs. That ball is also used in a home-made punching bag. It is placed in a discarded fruit sack, hung from a rack, and there is a punching bag for building muscles that have become flabby from inaction.

Naturally—this ward has all the latest, modern equipment such as a Diathermy machine used in treating pneumonia patients that have not fully recovered. This same machine is used in giving the boys "beauty treatments." It removes molds, scars and any disfiguring marks from the face.

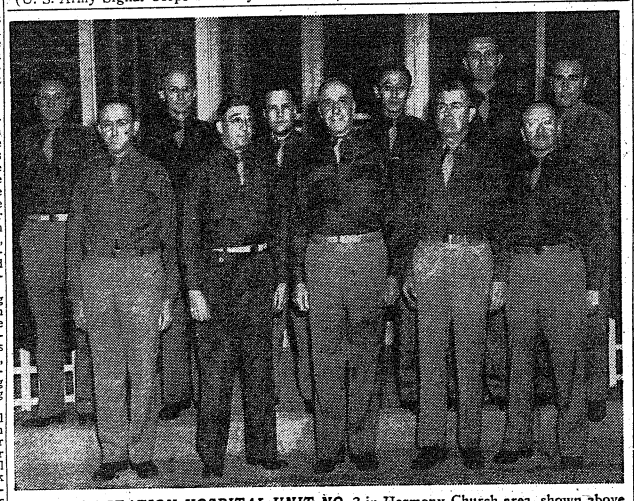
Recreation in its fullest sense is capably handled by Aileen Miner in charge of Red Cross activities at the unit. Housed in a separate building with rooms for visiting mothers, sweethearts or any member of the soldier's family, this building also has a large reading room, a recreation hall with a piano, a completely equipped stage where movies are shown every night, a special room for the Arts and Crafts, and a game room.

All outdoor sports are encouraged and at one time there may be in progress a badminton game, croquet, volley ball or horse shoes. Included in the outdoor program is the immense grill and oven constructed by the men with material for which they combed the hillsides, fields and streams. Outdoor parties are encouraged around this grill and Military Maids from nearby Columbus invited as special guests.



But don't get the idea this convalescent hospital has been all easy sailing. The first 50 patients sent out from the Station Hospital on the Main Post were a pretty rebellious lot, feeling that the War Department "snatched" their 30 days' sick leave from under their nose.

As the number one patient of this group wrote, "You didn't make the mistake of throwing the whole book of Army Regulations at us when we were so rebellious. Instead, you and your staff recognized the cause of the feeling and set to work to make up to us for the lost furlough.



"All in all, Sir, I think that Unit is a tremendously successful experiment. I enjoyed immensely my stay there; I made some friends that I will always remember, and my stay there was an experience that will always be one of the highlights of my Army life."

Capt. Willie Ruff is adjutant for the hospital. Members of the staff include Major William O. Williams, Surgical Service; Capt. Frank L. Pita, Chief, Dental Service; First Lieut. Edward W. Bernatowic, commanding officer of the detachment and supply officer; Second Lieut. William P. Vandiver, mess officer; First Lieut. Leonard R. Levy, assistant to the chief of dental service; and Second Lieuts. Harold W. Lenhart, Herbert A. Bergt, Joseph Sanfilippi, Jacob A. Hartisfield, Thomas J. McGinley and Warner B. Frohman, member of the staff of reconditioning section. Lieut. Lenhart is also commanding officer of the detachment of patients and plans and training officer.

First Lieut. Walter H. Shine is chaplain, and Second Lieuts. Benj. J. Snipas and Gordon O. Merkel are in charge of athletics.

KEY MEMBERS OF THE STAFF OF FORT BENNING'S STATION HOSPITAL include, (Left to right): Colonel William Denton, station surgeon; Colonel William L. Starnes, commanding officer, station hospital; 2nd row (left to right) Lt. Col. Donahue L. Emerson, adjutant; Major John B. Joyner, commanding officer, detachment medical department; Major Ruth C. Anderson, principal chief nurse; Lt. Col. Louis Ochs, Jr., chief Buettner, chief of laboratory service; 3rd row; Major Delphia F. Fisher, custodian hospital fund; Major Burton P. Grimes, executive officer; Major Benjamin Rubin, chief hospital dental clinic; Lt. Col. Alphonsus M. McCarthy, chief of surgical service; Major Fred J. Duncan, medical supply officer; 4th row, Captain Lewis E. Martin, registrar; Captain Richard L. Martin, hospital inspector; Major Wallace M. Johnson, director of dietetics. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo by Kortemeier).

STAFF OF STATION HOSPITAL UNIT NO. 2 in Harmony Church area, shown above includes (left to right): Captain Willie A. Ruff, MAC, adjutant; Colonel William Denton, station surgeon; Lt. Col. William C. Kennedy, unit no. 2, commanding officer; Major William O. Williams, surgical service; Captain Samuel Sherman, medical service and physical therapy; 2nd row (left to right) Lt. Harold W. Lenhart, M. A. C., commanding officer, patients detachment; Chaplain (1st Lt.) Walter H. Shine, hospital chaplain, Lt. William P. Vandiver, M. A. C., mess officer; Captain Clifford K. Okuno, sanitary corps, laboratory officer; Lt. Edward W. Bernatowicz, M. A. C., commanding officer, medical detachment and medical supply officer; and Captain Frank L. Pita, D.C., dental service. (U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo by Kortemeier).

Medical Care For Families Still Growing

Now serving an average of 3,334 persons a month, the Columbus Army Dispensary is rapidly expanding in its care of armed-forces personnel and their dependents living in and around Columbus, thus helping to answer the rapid growth of Fort Benning and the overloading of the post dispensary.

Under the present command of Major Cyril F. Floyd, the Columbus Dispensary is unique in that personnel and dependants of all branches of the services are cared for, and for this reason might well be called the cross-roads of treatment centers.

Opened in the latter part of January, 1941, the dispensary's patients include personnel and dependents of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Sea Bees, as well as French and other foreign officers, and retired personnel of the Army. Located in the Doctors Building in downtown Columbus, the dispensary's first record for a full month in 1941 showed the handling of 1445 cases. In September of this year, 3685 cases were handled—an indication of the dispensary's rapid growth.

MAJOR AT HEAD

Directing the work of the clinic is Major Floyd, a veteran of World War I, when he saw service with the Naval and Marine forces. A native of Alabama, Major Floyd was in charge of Dispensary A at Fort Benning for more than three years, and during his 10 years of active service with the Army has served at Fort Barrancas, Fla., and been in charge of the outpatient service at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Major Floyd's staff consists of three medical officers, one Army nurse, nine enlisted personnel and one civilian. Captain Luke J. Berardi of the 7th Armored Division and a native of New York is one of the three medical officers assisting Major Floyd in caring for the patients, and is the second in length of service at the dispensary. Other members of the staff, on duty by the courtesy of their respective organizations, are Capt. Richard W. Munz, of the 176th Infantry Regiment and a native of Pennsylvania, and Capt. F. L. Lam of the newly arrived 131st Infantry.

VETERAN NURSE

1st Lieut. Alice Johnson a member of the Army Nurse Corps for more than 25 years, has charge of the dressing and treatment rooms supervises formulae, weights and immunizations for babies. A native of New York, Lieutenant Johnson served in France in the last war, and since then has not only served at many posts in this country but has been on duty in Hawaii and the Philippines.

Staff Sgt. J. E. Lee, of Columbus, is chief of the enlisted personnel and the office files. He is assisted by Sgt. Arnold C. Satterfield of Chattanooga, Tenn. Technicians Fifth Grade T. J. McGinnis of New York, and E. G. Barney of Oklahoma are on night service. Sgt. W. R. Reynolds, a native of Florida, is laboratory technician, while Sgt. P. A. Wheelis of Alabama is pharmacy technician. Drivers for the dispensary are Cpl. C. McSwain of Florida, T-5 J. Neely of North Carolina and Pfc. R. Lozowski of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Mabel Farrar, a civilian and a native of Alabama, assists Lieutenant Johnson in her work at the dispensary.

Post Red Cross Opens Sub-office

Opening of a Red Cross sub-office for the exclusive use of Parachute School troops, was announced by Ralph J. Mitchell, Fort Benning field director.

The new office, which opened Monday morning, will be located on Waite street in the parachute school area. In charge will be Charles McKagen, assistant field director, aided by two other Red Cross representatives, and two clerks.

Mr. Mitchell announced that all affairs for the school proper will be transacted through this office. Files on all parachute school personnel will be transferred to the new office. However, he stressed that other organizations, not members of the Parachute School, in that area must still come to the main Red Cross office for assistance.

This sub-station will not replace the Red Cross office in Alabama area, which will continue to function as usual.

The sandal was the everyday shoe of the ancient Greeks, subject originated in Finland in 1858.

Land's End, a group of granite cliffs in Cornwall, is the most westerly point in Great Britain.

BEST WISHES
ON YOUR
Silver Anniversary
★
See us for your tire recapping, vulcanizing and battery service.
★
BLACKMON SCARBROUGH
Service Station
Cor. 1st Ave. and 11th St.

PHOTO FANS
For Better Snap-Shots
Have Your Film
Developed at
Parkman Photo Service
1121½ Broadway Dial 6451
Free Enlargement Given Each Day.
24-HOUR SERVICE

BEST WISHES
TO
FT. BENNING
THE INFANTRY SCHOOL
"A Quarter Century of Service"
From
WILLCOX-LUMPKIN CO.
INSURANCE SINCE 1848
"95 Years of Service"
11-W. 12th St. Phone 3-3613

Through These Portals . . .
Pass The Best Soldiers On Earth
And for those Soldiers we carry a complete line of Quality Military Merchandise.
P. S. STORES
926 BROAD ST. COLUMBUS, GA.
Just Above the Howard Bus Station

Congratulations
to the World's Largest Army Post
On This, Your
SILVER ANNIVERSARY
FORT BENNING 25th Anniversary 1918 - 1943
THE DINE-A-MITE RESTAURANT
Cusseta Road
1918 OPEN DAY AND NIGHT 1943

FORT BENNING No. 1 ARMY POST
Congratulations
Ft. Benning
ON YOUR
25th Silver Anniversary
WE APPRECIATE YOUR PATRONAGE
A COMPLETE DRUG STORE
FOR YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD AND CONVENIENCE
Benning Park Pharmacy
L. C. CAULEY, Prop
Ft. Benning and Baker Village Nearest Drug Store
Carrying the Most Complete Stocks in Columbus
PROMPT DELIVERY
DIAL 3-5423 9146

Here is the BEST DRESSED MAN in the WORLD
A United States Fighting Man
. . . tailored to Uncle Sam's exclusive specifications . . . made to fit . . . to wear well. The best materials, the best tailors get together to produce a uniform that will make our "average" soldier look the tops.
Here at Schwobilt we're well aware of the fact that the Fort Benning men are the tops . . . and we want you to know it. Cherro, Fort Benning, and keep on with the excellent work.
SCHWOBILT CLOTHES REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
BROADWAY AT 10th ST. BROADWAY AT 13th ST.

20,000 Passenger Cars Issued Benning Permits

Twenty thousand passenger car permits have been issues to date to private vehicles to pass through the No. 1 Outpost of the Fort, according to information released this week by the Provost Marshal's office.

And this does not include the great number of Army vehicles that pass through daily, carrying from four to twenty-five passengers each.

With rare exceptions, such as men who must carry on their work at odd hours of the night, no private sedan can get gas unless it carries four people, nor a coupe unless it carries three people. Small private trucks carrying laundry, quartermaster, and ordinance help are often loaded with as many as 15 persons, thus bringing up the per capita load to more than four persons per car, it is stated.

"It takes 25,000 ration books to handle this necessary gas servicing of the cars of people who work on the Post during the day and live in Columbus," stated a spokesman for the Marshall's office, "and, of course, many additional people travel in the public carriers and in the Army trucks back and forth daily through the Outpost."

NEW HIGHWAY

Traffic between the Post and Columbus has been greatly improved during the past year by the newly completed three-mile section of the Cusseta super-highway. This double-way four-lane modern traffic artery, being built from Columbus across the Fort Benning reservation to Cusseta is graded and bridged for 12 miles and paved completely over half that distance. As it is completed all civilian traffic will be required to run on it, thus relieving a lot of congestion on the strictly military highways of the Post.

Other roads graded or otherwise improved and so greatly aiding the easy flow of traffic within the Post during the past year include three miles of the Tenth Armored Road, six miles of the Red Arrow Road, and three miles of the Red Diamond Road, according to infoneers' Office.

2nd Army Special Troops Officers Get Promotions

Promotion of 1st Lt. Carl S. Brown, commanding officer of the 840th Ordnance Depot Company to the rank of captain, and Lt. Charles M. Patton, assistant adjutant of the 4th Detachment, Special Troops, Second Army, to the rank of first lieutenant, is announced by Colonel George E. Jacobs, commanding officer of the Second Army Special Troops.

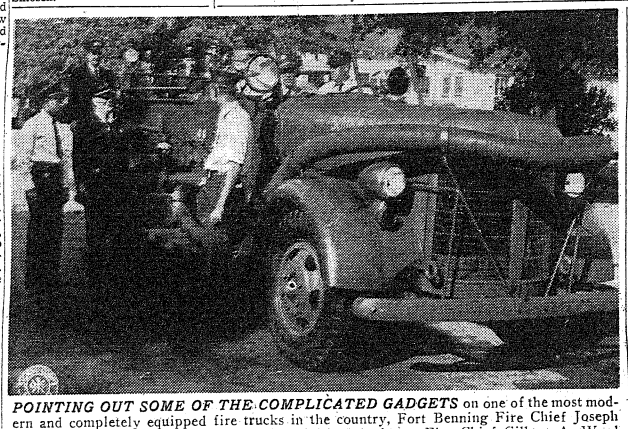
Captain Brown, a native of Encinitas, Calif., attended the university of California, and before entering the services was employed by the Berkeley Board of Education.

Lieutenant Patton, a native of Cincinnati, O., was commissioned from the Adjutant General's school at Fort Washington, Md., and before entering the service was employed by a firm of certified public accountants in Cincinnati.

'Pistol Packin' Mama' Is 7th Armored Favorite

"Pistol Packin' Mama," "Put Your Arms Around Me, Honey," and "People Will Say We're In Love" are the three favorite song hits among the gun-totin', hard-workin' 7th Armored Division's soldiers, a survey of the 10 post exchanges revealed.

The nation-wide favorite "Pistol Packin' Mama" was considered in the lead. But there were others that have gained popularity with "Lucky Seventh" fellows, such as "Ferryboat Serenade," "Murder," "Star Dust," "Velvet Moon" and "Something To Remember You By."



After the day's work is ended soldiers stroll to the PX nearest them. They exchange jokes, drink beer and sodas, play the juke boxes. Thoughts of home and love, delight and anger, humor and appreciation, all these moods and fancies pop up—and then music, music as long as the doors are open.

335th Ordnance Bn. Activated

The 335th Ordnance Battalion, which has been recently activated, has been attached to the Headquarters Fourth Detachment, Special Troops, Second Army at Fort Benning. it was announced by Colonel George E. Jacobs, commanding officer of the Second Army Special Troops at Fort Benning. The unit is located in the Pine Woods area of the post, and is commanded by Major F. J. Sikosek.

SUNSET AND EVENING STREAM OF CARS of Fort Benning workers headed for their homes in Columbus, as seen by the camera from Outpost No. 1. Twenty thousand of these private vehicles have been granted permits to pass through this major gate of the Post, but they must pass through in single line on this one-way street so that they may be checked. (Photo by U. S. Army Signal Corps.)

POINTING OUT SOME OF THE COMPLICATED GADGETS on one of the most modern and completely equipped fire trucks in the country, Fort Benning Fire Chief Joseph L. Hogan (center) discusses the vehicle with First Assistant Fire Chief Gilbert A. Ward (left) and Second Assistant Fire Chief W. T. McCall (right). Capable of speeding to a fire at the rate of 100 miles per hour, the vehicle is an American La France Triple Combination 750 gallon fire truck with 190 horsepower. Equipped with four sets of batteries and two self starters, as well as almost every known modern type of fire fighting equipment, the truck reputedly rides smoother than a sedan. (Credit U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo.)

Post Has Largest Fire Department in Army; Second Largest in State

Even in the dead of night it takes less than 30 seconds after a fire alarm rings for Fort Benning firemen to dress and start speeding to the scene with all needed equipment from the Fort Benning fire department, which, according to Fire Chief Joseph L. Hogan, is the largest and modern in the Army, and the second largest fire department in the state of Georgia.

Sleeping with trousers legs within their fireman's boots, the firefighters rouse themselves in a flash when they hear the alarm, thrust their feet inside their boots, and with their pants therefore already on, they throw their suspenders over their shoulders, and board the truck to finish putting on their coat and hat and belt while the truck is speeding on its way.

Equipped with almost every known piece of equipment for fighting fire, including gas mask, fog nozzles, and the finest of searchlights to penetrate the thickest smoke, the firemen also go into the fray with the same thorough and complete training they would obtain were they a member of the New York or Chicago fire departments, except for the drill tower experience which is not needed at the post.

GO TO SCHOOL

For these firemen spend approximately six hours every day in "school" at their stations where they learn and practice the methods of forcible entries to fires, salvage, laying lines and fire streams, fire protection and fire prevention, fire fighting, first aid, rescue work, lowering people from buildings, hoisting equipment, how to tie the various kinds of knots needed in their trade, and how to use all their equipment. Further, they spend 30 minutes every morning doing calisthenics so they will be in tip-top physical shape for the strenuous work that frequently arises for them to do.

One of the two oldest fire chiefs in the Army—the other is a brother who is fire chief at McDill Field, Tampa, Fla.—Chief Hogan believes in having firemen who are trained to the highest possible degree. Sent to Fort Benning in October, 1936, to reorganize the Benning fire department, Chief Hogan found it difficult to obtain experienced men, so he started training them himself. Proving highly successful, the training program has been continued and expanded by the chief, and has been used as the model for the establishment of a school for firemen by the service command.

26 VEHICLES

The rapid expansion of the Fort Benning Fire Department until only Atlanta has a larger department in the state of Georgia is shown by the fact that when Chief Hogan came to Benning in 1936, the post had only two 750 gallon pumpers and 36 men to take care of fire protection and fire fighting on the post. At the present time, the department has 171 civilian firemen, 26 motor vehicles and 11 stations on the post. In addition there are several enlisted men assisting in the work.

Fire trucks total 19, while the seven other trucks and vehicles are for the use of the assistant fire chiefs. Of the 11 stations on the post, four are on the main post, one at Lawson Field, two in the Sand Hill area, three in the Harmony Church area, and one in the Alabama area.

Chief Hogan has eight assistant fire chiefs, of whom Gilbert A. Ward is first assistant chief, and W. T. McCall, stationed at Sand Hill at present, is second assistant chief. Stationed also at the main post is James A. McGarrah. The other assistant fire chiefs are Hansel Davidson at Sand Hill, S. L. Kitchens and C. W. Henderson in Harmony Church, and George W. Vein and Frank L. McEacheen in the Alabama area.

Lt. Col. Edward L. Littleton, as post engineer, is fire marshal of the post.

AIDS BAKER VILLAGE

In addition to Fort Benning, the post fire department also answers all calls for Baker Village. Further, the Columbus and Fort Benning departments have worked out reciprocal agreements whereby either will respond to the call of the other in case of emergencies.

Both the stations and the trucks are equipped like those in a city. There are night bells and lights in the stations. The fire alarm system consists of 272 fire phones scattered throughout the entire post, and connect directly to the fire alarm offices. In addition, the post has automatic fire alarm system in the Station Hospital Annex, in Station Hospital Number 2, and in the prison camp. The automatic fire alarm systems consist of a sprinkling system and manual boxes, and have thermoscopes, which transmit an alarm when a sudden rise of heat expands the air in the tubing.

Of the 272 fire phones, 116 are located on the main post, 84 in Harmony Church, 46 in Sand Hill and 26 in Alabama. All fire phones are tested and maintained by the fire department, which also takes care of fire plugs, flushing them and keeping them in perfect working order at all times.

Educational work is one of the important activities of the department, which has put on demonstrations for approximately 49,000 soldiers within the past 60 days. This educational work includes lectures on fire prevention, demonstrations of different types of fire extinguishers and their use, and the kinds of fires for which the different types of extinguishers are used. Further, they demonstrate with a model how short circuits in electric fuses cause fires, and how the use of pennies in fuse boxes result in fires from overloaded electric lines.

FIRE PREVENTION

Prevention of fires is an activity which the fire department stresses and works upon with every available ounce of energy. They are always on the lookout for any sort of fire hazard, and there is a continuous inspection of all areas of the post to search out these hazards and eliminate them before they can cause trouble. Pvt. George Bender of the Medical Detachment is fire prevention engineer, and has 20 civilian inspectors under him to concentrate on this work. In addition, the fire department has consistently appealed to residents on the post to telephone the department any time they are in doubt as to whether a fire hazard exists. The department can have an inspector at any part of the post within five minutes to check on these matters, Chief Hogan says.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Members of The Infantry School staff are going back to school for advanced studies. Forty of them are now in the 1st Student Training Regiment's 15th Company, to which 1st Lieutenant Wesley B. Frace, for ten months Infantry School librarian, has been assigned as tactical officer. He is a resident of Columbus, Ga.

WACs at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., call their mail orderly "Postal Packin' Mama."

Fiscal Functions Are Now Centralized

Centralization of all fiscal functions of the Post were accomplished in September this year when Lt. Homer D. Wright, a new addition to the staff here, was made fiscal officer.

Colonel Wright and his office are now responsible for all budgeting and estimating, accounting and reporting, certification of availability of funds, and internal audits of post funds, in this new setup.

Eliminated are the branch fiscal functions in the Medical Department, Quartermaster, Ordinance, Motor Transport District, Signal Office, Post Engineer, Engineer Property Office, Chemical Depot, Transportation Office, Finance Office, and Civilian Personnel.

Assisting the Colonel are 2nd Lt. Joseph Berlin, assistant post fiscal officer, and Miss Mary E. Reynolds, chief clerk, with seven other civilian employees.

The office is located in the finanoeoffice annex, on Vibbert Avenue, near the Main Post Post Office.

CLUB BALI OKEHED

The Club Bali on 14th street above Third Avenue in Phenix City, formerly called Jim Harris' Cafe, has been declared "on limits" to all military personnel, according gto an order issued at post headquarters. The former establishment has previously been one of many cafes in Phenix City on the off-limits list.

BEST WISHES FORT BENNING
ON YOUR
25th ANNIVERSARY
WE HAVE APPRECIATED YOUR PATRONAGE IN THE PAST AND WILL STRIVE TO PLEASE YOU IN THE FUTURE
COME EARLY FOR XMAS SHOPPING!
See Our Fine Selection of GIFTS, JEWELRY, AND NOVELTIES
Free Wrapping and Mailing
VICTORY NOVELTY SHOP
1302 BROADWAY PHONE 3-7808

Sealys
Hats · Gowns · Wraps
Warm Greetings To Our Army Women
Dress with distinction, supremely confident of the impression you make. It is our sincere desire to serve you well for the duration and after victory
CONGRATULATIONS FORT BENNING On Your 25th ANNIVERSARY
Sealys 1213 Broadway

BEST WISHES TO FORT BENNING
We Appreciate Your Patronage
Lt. FARMER
PICTURE FRAMES KEYS
1026 - 1st AVE.

Congratulations to Fort Benning
The No. 1 Army Post On Your
SILVER ANNIVERSARY
We have confidence in our armed forces, and our nation. And wtih the help of God, we will come out victorious!
COULTER FURNITURE CO.
(Formerly Gullatt Furniture Co.)
1408 Third Ave. Phenix City Dial 3-5351

HEALTH SPOT SHOES
The person wearing Health Spot Shoes is given a measurable degree of protection against many kinds of foot ailments.
Also
Military Styles For Dress and Field Wear
Styles and Sizes To Fit Everyone.
We have added two more experienced chiropodists to our staff, Dr. Omar C. Sanford and Dr. Elizabeth Sanford.
Congratulations, FORT BENNING!
Dr. W. Laird Miller
CHIROPODIST
17 E. 12th St. Tel. 7121

MORE POWER TO YOU, FORT BENNING
We're Glad to Have You in Our Home Town
You'll love 'em, too!
CRISPY, GOLDEN PEANUTS, SKILFULLY TOASTED TO THAT CRUNCHY APPETIZING FLAVOR FOUND ONLY IN TOM'S WHEN YOUR APPETITE CALLS FOR A SNACK THAT'S DELICIOUSLY DIFFERENT, ASK FOR Tom's TOASTED PEANUTS
Always Fresh!
TOM HUSTON PEANUT COMPANY
EIGHTH STREET AND NINTH AVENUE
COLUMBUS, GEORGIA

244th F. A. Battalion Shows TIS Students Effect of Fire Power

The devastating effect of field artillery fires shown in The Infantry School demonstrations held at Fort Benning has been furnished by twelve 105 mm howitzers manned and fired by the 244th Field Artillery Battalion. This Field Artillery unit, which is a part of the School Troops Brigade, of the Infantry School, has for the last six months participated in Infantry School demonstrations for the purpose of giving the students a chance to see, in actual operation, the different artillery techniques.

The 244th Field Artillery Battalion was activated August 8, 1942 at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, under the command of Lt. Col. George E. Cook. The original cadre came from the 172nd Field Artillery, a National Guard Regiment from the State of New Hampshire.

Men came to the newly activated unit from the states of Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida and Pennsylvania. Basic training was completed at Camp Shelby and in April 1943 the Battalion was assigned to The Infantry School Troops Brigade.

Soon after arrival at Fort Benning, Lt. Col. Cook left for an important assignment on the West Coast and Lt. Col. Luis Mercado assumed command. For the past seven months the Battalion has been under the able and efficient guidance of Colonel H. G. Elliott, Commanding Officer, Field Artillery School Troops at Fort Benning.

PRESIDENTIAL SALUTE

The 244th Field Artillery Battalion was a member of The Infantry School Baseball League and in spite of the fact that the team was inexperienced, they gave all the opposing teams a good fast game. Pvt. Norbert Schulte, versatile shortstop for the 244th was awarded a $50.00 War Bond for being the most valuable player on the team.

Headquarters Battery, 244th Field Artillery Battalion was given the honor of firing a 21-gun salute for President Roosevelt on his arrival here at Fort Benning this summer. They did the honors again a short time later when General Henri Giraud of France arrived here for a short visit and later for Maj. Gen. Dutra, Brazilian Minister of War.

On Sunday, August 8th, the first anniversary of the 244th Field Artillery Battalion was celebrated at the Student Training Brigade Rest Camp with a Battalion party that was enjoyed by a large crowd. On Saturday, October 2nd the 244th participated in a joint Field Day with the 252nd Field Artillery Battalion. This successful event included individual and group contests and brought the two Field Artillery Battalions together for a sports even that was packed with plenty of thrills.

Racoons 'Take Up' With Luckies; Are Now Pets

Two racoons captured last week by Privates Hubert Coley and Arvel McGhee are attached to Division Staff Officers' mess for food and shelter. The animals were caught in a hollow log a few feet away from the mess, and as they get better acquainted with the mess sergeant and cooks they are becoming more and more domestic—and have found a home in the 7th Armored Division.

The pair of pets were seen the day before they were caught as the cook's helpers went to and from their company. They were later discovered in the tree where they evidently had been hidden by their mother.

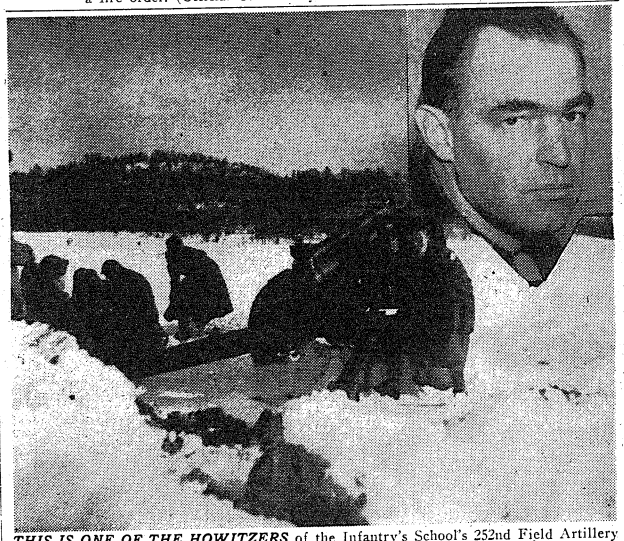
The 'coons, as they are known throughout the Southland, seem to be contented as they eat. They eat green vegetables, syrup, fish and any number of edibles. They have apparently become accustomed to their new environment.

A male and female, the 'coons have not as yet been named. They have been named mascots of the Officer's staff mess, however, and between meals are taking basic training every day now.

Lawson Field Officers' Wives Organize Club

In an effort to give newcomers a feeling of belonging, and to acquaint the women with the various phases of work at Lawson Field and Fort Benning, the wives of the officers at Lawson Field met last week at the Lawson Field Officer's club.

The women were welcomed by Mrs. John E. Albert, who, with Mrs. W. A. Capers, was hostess at luncheon.



During a discussion of business, plans were made for meetings on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, and for taking part in the Red Cross activities at Fort Benning.

The following officers have already begun their duties: Mrs. John E. Albert, president; Mrs. Donovan C. Maffett, vice president; Mrs. Ormond, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George A. Key, recording secretary; Mrs. William J. Jones, treasurer; Mrs. B. H. Tucker and Mrs. J. W. Christener in charge of transportation.

Each organization at the Field is represented on the Board of Governors: Mrs. William A. Capers, 54th Base Hdq. and A. B. Sqdn.; Mrs. Ormond, 5th I. C. Sq.n.; Mrs. Christmas, 307th I. C. Sqdn.; Mrs. Schumacher, 308th T. C. Sqdn.; Mrs. William J. Jones, 7th Recn. Sqdn.; Mrs. William Chopin, 53rd Sub Depot.

THERE ARE TIMES when the Infantry runs into a problem that is a little too much for its own fire power whereupon it calls upon the artillery for assistance. To demonstrate how this assistance is rendered, The Infantry School has an artillery battalion available for demonstrations before Officer Candidate and Officer classes. Top photo shows a 105 mm. howitzer in a concealed position, ready for action. Crew in the bottom photo is waiting for a fire order. (Official U. S. Army Photos—The Infantry School.)

THIS IS ONE OF THE HOWITZERS of the Infantry's School's 252nd Field Artillery in action—but the action did not take place in Fort Benning. The photo was taken at Camp McCoy in Wisconsin where the artillery battalion was activated a little over a year ago and where the troops trained in sub zero weather. (Official U. S. Army Photo—131st Infantry.)

252nd F. A. Men Learned To Handle Guns Quickly

One of the highlights in the brief history of the 252nd Field Artillery battalion of The Infantry School Troops Brigade occurred just about a year ago this week. The battalion had been activated at Camp McCoy in Wisconsin, October 26, 1942, and three weeks later, it had gone on the range and fired its 105 howitzers.

Firing of howitzers is, of course, not unusual even three weeks after the activation of an artillery unit. But it is unusual to take a batch of civilians fresh from their draft boards and train them sufficiently well enough so that they can man a battery of howitzers three weeks from the day they exchanged their civilian clothes.

That's what the 252nd did up in Wisconsin. Its personnel consists largely of men from Wisconsin. The exceptions are the officers, most of whom were newly graduated from Fort Sill, and the non-commissioned officers who were sent east from Fort Lewis, Washington.

All of the basic training was given within the battalion, which points up the remarkable feat of range firing while still in the early stages of basic training.

AWAIT WINTER

The 252nd, now located in the Harmony Church area, is looking forward to the winter months and the changes which they offer in living conditions from those experienced last winter. All last winter, which was one of the coldest in Wisconsin's history, the troops drilled in sub-zero weather. They often took 25-mile hikes with the temperature 10 below. On one occasion, it reached 32 below zero.

Just before the battalion was ordered to The Infantry School, it passed its battery and battalion tests with high marks.

The battalion boasts a drum and bugle corps. With the 244th Field Artillery, it fielded a baseball team during the last half of The Infantry School league here last summer.

The 252nd is commanded by Lt. Col. L. M. deRiemer, a graduate of West Point in 1929. Col. deRiemer is a former cavalry officer and a graduate of the Training Officers' course of the Cavalry School. He transferred to Feild Artillery in 1937 and was graduated from Fort Sill in 1940. He is a native of Washington.

The motto of the battalion is "On les Aura," a battle cry of French origin, meaning, "We'll Get Them."

COMMANDING THE 252ND FIELD ARTILLERY, one of the demonstration units of The Infantry School is Lt. Col. L. M. deRiemer, (inset) a former cavalryman who transferred to artillery in 1937. He is a West Pointer, class of 1929. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.

A soldier's ability to interpret sounds often determines the information he acquires as a scout, as well as his security while on patrol.

Cupping the hands around the eyes enables a scout to focus better in the area he is observing at night.

1st STR Unit Wins 2 Honors

Returning to their area to find two flags prominently displayed for "Honor Mess" and "Honor Barracks", officers of the 10th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, applauded vigorously when Captain Arthur R. Barry, company commander, announced the 2nd Battalion's Commanding Officer, Lieutenant Colonel Irving Lehrfeld, had awarded them both banners.

Any casual observer of this class can spot instantly the high level of esprit de corps and morale reached in three weeks of schoolsoldiering. Litrine lawyers are few and far between; beefing is seldom heard. The men just take their assignments, duties and chores, and do them as best they can.

It's two down and an unknown quantity to go now as the second "Graded Test" has become past history. After taking over their "GT" in map-reading, the class strode into position and outflanked the rifle committee as it threw its dreaded test. Several high scores were made on the range ran high as student officers went through their dry shooting.

Members of this Basic Class are favorably impressed by the practical manner inwhich The Infantry School presents its subject. Experienced instructors, visual aids, demonstrations, critiques and practical applications force home the topic of discussion.

The weather's sudden change caught several officer-students napping. But not for long. Woolen undershirts blossomed in Georgia's sunny clime, and no one complained of the heat that day. When the changeover to winter-wear brought the order for woolens, students bade a fond adieu to khaki for the duration of their course.

The Band Played On As Musico Becomes A Papa

Sgt. Harry Haines' Academic Regiment band was entertaining at the Main Officers's Club last Thursday night —but for the first time in the history of the band, Haines was not there.

Haines was stamping up and down the hall at the Main Post Hospital. At ten p. m. he was a father. The safe arrival of Harry, Jr., means that Haines will be back with his Infantry School orchestra when it plays at the Polo Hunt Club Saturday night and at the Main Officers' Club Sunday.

"I'll let Harry be a senator from Virginia first," the regiment's file clerk and band leader says, "until he's 35 when naturally he'll be president . . . unless he wants to be a famous band leader."

The Fort Benning soldier who plans his conversation beforehand can say a lot in three minutes. And the briefer his conversation, the more calls can be completed—which means better service for everyone.

Voters' League Urges Army Wives To Join Unit

More Army wives are urged to join the ranks of those who have already affiliated themselves with the Columbus League of Women Voters. A study group of the problems of foreign policy and post-war planning is being conducted by Mrs. Wilson M. Stone, an Army wife who was recently elected president of the League.

CONGRATULATIONS TO FORT BENNING ON THIS YOUR TWENTY-FIFTH SILVER ANNIVERSARY

May your future be even greater than your first 25 Years of Service.

D. L. THOMASON
MEATS AND GROCERIES
1546 Fourth Avenue

We congratulate you on your many years of progress and the untiring effort every officer and man is making in our fight for world freedom.

DAVID ROTHSCHILD COMPANY
Manufacturers and Converters of Upholstery Fabrics
HOME OFFICE—COLUMBUS, GA.

We Congratulate You for Your Many Years of Service to Our Country

FLOURNOY REALTY CO.
5 13th St. Tel. 3-6456

We Are Glad to Congratulate the Officers and Men of FORT BENNING on the Great Job They Are Doing.

It Is a Pleasure to Serve You

4 CONVENIENT BRANCHES
No. 1—1520 Wynnton Rd. No. 2—1012 2nd Ave.
No. 3—2400 Cusseta Rd. No. 4—1132 13th St.

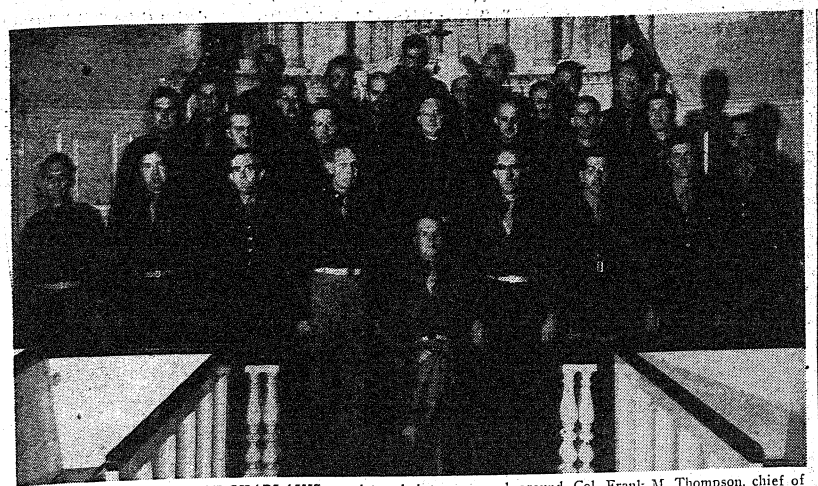
Stop By—There's One Near You

MODEL DRY CLEANING CO.
Main Plant 2400 Hamilton Tel. 2-3375

Congratulations FORT BENNING

We are Proud of Our Neighbors and the Great Achievements you have made during the past 25 years—

BRITTON & DOBBS
MORTICIANS
AMBULANCE SERVICE
1114 1ST AVE. TEL. 3-2731



25 YEARS OF SERVICE— TO OUR COUNTRY

Silver Anniversary 1918 — 1943

We pay Tribute to FORT BENNING and its FIGHTING MEN

WHITE'S BOOK STORE
BOOK DEPARTMENT—DIAL 3-2691 OFFICE SUPPLIES—DIAL 7701
1211 BROADWAY

FORT BENNING'S CORPS OF CHAPLAINS are pictured above grouped around Col. Frank M. Thompson, chief of chaplains. From left to right are: Front row: Chaplains A.F. Robaczewski, first lieutenant, Station Complement; Luke W. Crawford, first lieutenant, Lawson Field; Glenn S. Reddick, first lieutenant, First Student Training Regiment; Alfred L. Pollock, major, assistant chief of chaplains; Col. Thompson; Frederick W. Helfer, captain, First Student Training Regiment; Robert Alexander, first lieutenant, First Parachute Training Regiment; John F. Fitzpatrick, first lieutenant, 53rd General Hospital, and John Baergen, first lieutenant, Fifth Regiment, ASTP. Second row: Chaplains George A. Ritchey, captain, Fourth Regiment, ASTP; Theodore Bachelor, first lieutenant, Sixth Regiment, ASTP; Herman A. Michelke, first lieutenant, First Parachute Training Regiment; William H. Hunt, captain, assistant to chief of chaplains; Norman L. Davidson, first lieutenant, Fourth Regiment, ASTP; Thomas G. Proctor, captain, Station Hospital, and George L. Forney, first lieutenant, Lawson Field. Third row: Chaplains R. A. MacEachen, first lieutenant, 53rd General Hospital; Prince E. Turner, first lieutenant, 269th Station Hospital; Samson A. Shain, captain, Jewish chaplain, and Charles Daniels, first lieutenant, 300th Infantry. Back row: Chaplains A. B. Billman, captain, Third Student Training Regiment; Edwin C. Willson, captain, Sixth Training Regiment, ASTP; Walter A. Shine, first lieutenant, Station Hospital No. 2, and J. D. Janco, first lieutenant, 300th Infantry. (Official U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo).

Post Chaplain's Corps Mushrooms During Past Thirty-Month Period

Ten Chapels, 25 Chaplains Now Serve Benning's Spiritual Needs

When Colonel Frank M. Thompson assumed his present assignment as chief of chaplains less than two and one-half years ago at Fort Benning, there was but one chapel on the Main Post having a complement of three chaplains and serving all faiths.

Today Col. Thompson supervises a staff of 25 chaplains, and there are 10 chapels on the Main Post. In addition, the colonel has another 15 chaplains who are assigned to units stationed on the post who look to his office for guidance.

Chaplains of all faiths work under Col. Thompson. Father William H. Hunt, holding the rank of captain, supervises the work of Catholic chaplains on the post.

His headquarters are in the chapel at Sigerfoos road and Vibbert avenue.

Chaplain Hunt has been on active service in the Army more than a year and has been in the reserve 21 years. There are 10 other Catholic chaplains on the post, including one at the Station Hospital.

Rabbi Samson A. Shain, holding the rank of captain, ministers to men of the Hebrew faith at Fort Benning. He conducts five services weekly: two on the Main Post, two in Harmony Church and one in Sand Hill. Chaplain Shain has been on active duty since July 29, 1942.

NO DISTINCTION

Army chapels know no religious distinction. Services of all faiths are conducted in the same chapels. But due to the large numbers of troops on the Main Post and to make for greater facility in conducting services, the Main Chapel offers only Protestant rites, and the chapel at Sigerfoos Road and Vibbert Avenue has been designated as the Catholic chapel.

Col. Thompson is especially proud of the chapels where Fort Benning soldiers worship. All built and decorated during his stewardship, he describes them as the "finest, best decorated and appointed" chapels on any Army post. Carpets have been placed on the floors, and Venetian shades have been hung on the windows.

The Main Chapel is an imposing white stone structure with a steeple which towers 100 feet heavenward. It was built at a cost of $70,000 and is a replica of a well-known Savannah (Ga.) house of worship.

7-DAY WEEK

The Army chaplain emphatically does not have a one-day-a-week job. Sunday chapel services are always well-attended, and soldiers are often found in them during the week. There are choir practices, week-day services and weddings to name only a few activities.

Chaplain Hunt explains much time is taken up with baptismals, consultations, correspondence and religious instruction classes in Catholic chapels.

Chaplains visit men who are ill or recuperating at the Station Hospital and conduct services at the post stockade. Every Army newspaper devotes space to the chaplain where they write spiritual messages to the men.

"The average soldier today is a much better man than the Yank in 1917-18," Col. Thompson says, "since his spiritual needs and morale are given more stress."

He entered his Army career in 1917 and was overseas with a coast artillery unit in World War I. Later he was stationed with a cavalry troop on the Mexican border; in Baltimore, Md.; Mitchell Field, Long Island, N. Y.; Fort McArthur, Calif.; Schofield Barracks, Territory of Hawaii, and Barksdale Field, La., where he was post chaplain.

Coming to Fort Benning as chaplain in the Fourth Division, Col. Thompson became chief of chaplains on this post in August, 1941. He was recently promoted to full colonel.

WELFARE FUND

More than the spiritual needs of soldiers is attended to at the Main Chapel. Recognizing material needs of the men, Chaplain Alfred L. Pollock, a major who is assistant post chaplain, is custodian of the Welfare Council Fund.

The fund was raised some years ago by popular subscription on the post to provide money for men who needed it quickly in the event of an emergency. While Army Emergency Relief and the Red Cross are now handling the majority of such cases, the Welfare Council Fund still operates.

Chaplain Pollock still lends sometimes as much as $5,000 to soldiers in one month. There is almost $30,000 in the fund at the present time, including almost $6,000 net value in War Bonds and outstanding debts.

Loans are, for the most part, small, and through the shrewd policy of Chaplain Pollock in making loans, there has been little loss or shrinkage in funds.

Five chapels are situated in the Harmony Church area serving the men of the ASTP basic training center, the officer candidates and men of other units stationed in that region. In addition, there is the "chapel in the grove," outdoor worshiping place.

Four chapels operate in the Sand Hill area, supervised by Lt. Col. James De La Vergne, division chaplain of the Seventh Armored division.

West Point Star Athlete Enrolled In 1st Reegiment

One of the leading West Point athletes now attending the Officers Basic Course at The Infantry School is Lieut. Alexander R. Bolling, of the 11th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, of which Colonel John S. Roosma is commanding officer.

Coming from the Nation's capital, Bolling gained prominence as an Army lacrosse midfield during the 1941, '42, and '43 seasons, winning his major "A" in that sport for 1943. His nimble playing contributed to the cadets victories over Loyola by 9-3, Cornell 11-2, Yale 15-1, Penn State 5-3, and Rutgers 9-6 during '43.

Bolling also played backfield in the Army football line-up from 1940 until 1942. In the latter year he won varsity numerals for football.

O. C. Reminisces Over His Alaska Duty Tour

It was cold in the "reading room" of the barracks after lights out, even with all the windows closed.

"If I flunk out, hope they send me back overseas," OC Elmo Gelini of the Sixth Company, Third Student Training Regiment of The Infantry School, pipes up.

"Where were you?" asks one OC, continuing to stare fixedly at the wall.

"Alaska." A general shiver went down the rows.

"In Amchitka, 60 miles from Kiska it was worse. We got 25 pounds of coal a day to heat a five-man frame tent," OC Gelini added, enjoying himself. Incidentally, he pronounces it Jellinny "but call me anything you like, as long as you don't call me late for supper."

"We had some swell flying on Amchitka. One Liberator had the front wheel of his tricycle landing gear shot off and if she tried to land, she would bounce on her nose and turn, so the pilot got orders to bail out with the crew and let the plane go. The insistent pilot was finally given a reluctant OK over the radio to try to bring her down with the crew packed in her tail as a counterweight. The pilot made eight turns over the field—and those five-mile turns burn up a lot of gas. The ninth time, he made it—swell landing. Both the ambulance and the fire-wagon were ready, but luckily they weren't needed.

"One guy who deserved the Congressional medal was the pilot of a PHY patrol plane—one of those slow, fat ducks. He picked up seven survivors from a plane in Kiska harbor, with Jap guns blazing around, and never a scratch.

GAVE 'EM HELL

"The Japs really got hell on Kiska one time from one of our lieutenants.

"They gave him permission to take out a dozen planes to try out a hunch. The Japs, naturally, had all their AA defenses pointing out over Kiska harbor and toward Amchitka. The lieutenant took the planes out around and past Kiska—when Jap detectors heard them, they assumed the planes were headed farther west for Attu. Then the lieutenant doubled back, and came in for a low-altitude attack on Kiska from the rear, through a valley between two mountains. The Jap AA guns were all pointed the other way. That attack did as much damage as the last dozen raids.

"It was really cold when we first got to Kodiak, Alaska, two months before Pearl Harbor—we nearly got sent to the Philippines. They didn't expect us at Kodiak; there were no rations and no quarters, so we slept in garages until we put up our own frame tents. Then the weather went one better than the Bible and it dripped for 46 days.

"The local inhabitants, really hated the Japs. They stole their fish and their seals. Even the Eskimos hated them. The Saturday before Pearl Harbor we had a party for two dogfaces who were quitting the Army because they were over 28. When we heard the news next day that Pearl Harbor had been bombed we couldn't believe it. Things started humming then.

Only 1200 people live in Kodiak, and prices went sky-high. You paid as much as two or three bucks for a meal. We did some bear-hunting in our spare time. The Kodiak bear is the largest bear in the world—it stands 10 feet on its haunches. Esquire's Petty was up there for some hunting.

"From there we went to Adak and then to Amchitka. We had our first bombing attack as the ship came into the harbor. Two Jap bombers came over. We were below deck and feeling pretty tense. Then some of the guys started wisecracking, and we started taking the bombing as a big joke—some of the boys were even laying bets as to whether we would be hit.

"We wore wet clothes for six days after the landing, until supplies started to come in. The Japs bombed us 13 times during the first month, with planes based on Kiska.

LITTLE RECREATION

"Recreation was hard to come by. We were 1800 miles from the nearest woman, or PX, or even tree. We had some books, and my month-old copy of LIFE was a prized treasure in the whole company.

"Duck-hunting was forbidden, because the shots would put the whole island on the alert. But when those Jap planes came over a bunch of guys would go down to the beach and shoot ducks—while those AA guns were blazing, no one could hear a few rifle shots. Good eating.

"In August I was chosen for OCS and sent back to Seattle by plane. Was good to get back to some warm weather. But I was disillusioned in Seattle. There was none of that comradeship among soldiers and civilians we had gotten used to up north.

"Although I have 75 days' leave coming to me—and if I graduate I will never get them—I got five days" delay en route to see my family in Holliday's Cove, W. Va., after 26 months. I was graduated there from Weirton High in 1933 and turned down a football scholarship because I wanted to be "independent." We were four brothers, and from 1926 to 1940 a Gelini played football every year for Weirton High—the youngest is now at West Point."

Gelini was feeling for a cigarette when one GI asked whether he had been given any decorations.

"Yes. They gave me the American Defense bar, the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign bar, the Food Conduct Medal and the American Theatre of Operations bar. When I was a staff sergeant I could wear them, but not here. You'd think I'd have some scars to show after all those months. But all I have is this cut here on my lip—and I got that in Seattle a couple of months ago playing volley ball when a guy bashed his head into my teeth."

The GI wanted to know whether Gelini really wanted to go back to Alaska.

"Well, as a matter of fact I would like to see Europe. The folks came from Italy before they became Americans 40 years ago, and it would be nice to see what the old country really looks like."

"Yeah," the GI commented, "It would be a lot warmer than Alaska . . . or even this durned place."

TIS Wac Detachment Completes 1st 6 Months

The first WAC Detachment to be assigned to The Infantry School completed its first eight months of service here yesterday and the second detachment is now in its sixth week at this station.

In the time they have been here, they have demonstrated efficient aptitude for the duties assigned them.

Up until a few weeks ago, the WACS were assigned to duty in the Harmony Church installations of The Infantry School. But when the new detachment arrived, it was promptly put to work at the Headquarters of the School.

Under a new re-organization, the Harmony Church Detachment is known as Section One, WAC Detachment of The Infantry School. The Detachment located on the Main Post is known as Section Two, WAC Detachment of The Infantry School. The latter is not to be confused with the Second Section of the Main Post WAC Detachment.

ARRIVED APRIL 10

The Harmony Church Detachment, formerly the 84th, was first commanded by Lt. Letitia Gentile when it arrived April 10. It numbered over 100. Its members were assigned to duties in the various offices of the Student Training Brigade and Second and Third Regiments, at the Officers' Club, guest houses, Service Club and Dental Clinic.

Lt. Gentile was succeeded by Lt. Eleanor Wildes and still later by the present commander, Lt. Doris Hough. It was formerly assigned to the Third Regiment for administration and rations but, like the Number Two Section, is now assigned to the Academic Regiment.

The Second Section, commanded by Capt. Capt. Janet Nash, arrived Oct. 1, after a tour of duty with the Second Army at Memphis. It was at first assigned to the First Student Training Regiment for administration and supply. Under a tentative organization, Captain Nash commanded both the Harmony Church and Main Post units. She now commands the Main Post, or Number Two, Detachment only.

Neither of the units is up to its full strength.

Drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, which is scheduled to start soon, is going to give Big League baseball an awful boot in the bunion.

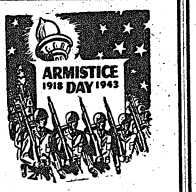
Here's to you on your 25th anniversary! You're doing a grand job of making our Army the best fighting force in the world. Carry on your good work!

FRANK FRIEDMAN
MILITARY SUPPLIES 1029 BROADWAY

We Salute Your ★ 25 ★ Years of Service To Our Country— FORT BENNING

Our first concern, and yours, is . . . VICTORY until it it won—"things can't be the same" for any of us. May your efforts and ours speed the day of Freedom for the world.

Columbus Hardware Inc.
1222 Broadway Dial 7252



ARMISTICE DAY
Dedicated to VICTORY

CONGRATULATIONS FORT BENNING ON YOUR 25th ANNIVERSARY

We are happy and proud to serve the Personnel of Fort Benning and we appreciate your patronage.

COLUMBUS GRILL
1208 BROADWAY DIAL 3-6591

We are glad to extend BEST WISHES on your 25th ANNIVERSARY Let Us Show you our ANTIQUES

Nothing Finer For Gifts

THWEATT & SON
1242 Broadway

TIME IS GROWING SHORTER

DON'T FORGET Only 36 SHOPPING DAYS 'til CHRISTMAS

Grand Selection of Merchandise Now Available

SHOP NOW

BEST WISHES to FORT BENNING its PERSONNEL and FAMILIES

MY SHOP
1107 BROADWAY

We Congratulate
FORT BENNING
On Your
25th Anniversary

- Exclusive Lines of MILLINERY
- Complete Line Infants' Wear
- Junior Dresses, Coats

GODWIN WELLS POPE
1212 BROADWAY

Star-Spangled BANNER

"Long may it wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!"

We Congratulate Each of You on Fort Benning's 25th Anniversary and the untiring efforts of

Officers and Men

To Keep Our Flag Proudly Waving

J. T. KNIGHT & SON INC.
SCRAP IRON—METALS—HIDES

Forty-two Years Satisfactory Scrap Service
Home Office Columbus, Ga.
Branches—Birmingham, Ala.—Atlanta, Ga.—Savannah, Ga.

Best Laid Schemes of Mice, Adolf—

Sgt. J. W. Eaton, 2nd Prize, Cartoons, $25 War Bond

Billeting Office Proves There's Always Room for One More

It's true that there's always room for one more. The Billeting Office of Fort Benning proves it several times a day by squeezing one more person and the another and still another into overflowing Columbus.

Washington gets all the publicity about over-taxed housing facilities, but conditions around Fort Benning equal anything in the war-crowded capital. And it's up to the Billeting Office to solve the housing problem as it affects personnel at the post.

Capt. John A. White, Billeting Officer, and his staff have the job of finding quarters for military personnel stationed at Fort Benning. That includes everything from barracks, tents and hutments for troops, to rooms, houses and apartments for married officers, non-coms and soldiers.

The post's war-boom population long ago overflowed from the post itself into Columbus and vicinity. There are still no more family quarters on the post than there were when only 5,000 men were stationed here, so the large majority of the married officers and non-coms must live off the post.

Family quarters on the post are assigned according to the officers' jobs. Those who must be on call at all hours, such as doctors, are given precedence.

SATURATION POINT

By any peacetime measurement, the saturation point in housing in Columbus was reached a long time ago. Even by wartime standards, the town is classed as badly overcrowded. Vacant houses and apartments are unheard of—they are rented well in advance of their occupants' moving. The best that a new resident can hope for is a furnished room, usually without linens or maid service.

But new officers and their families and the wives of soldiers continue to arrive, and they have to have a place to live. To find rooms for them, the Billeting Office has a downtown office at 12th Street and Broadway.

This is the focal point for army wives seeking rooms for themselves, and for officers and soldiers hunting quarters for their families. The office keeps lists of rooms for rent in Columbus, with notations of any restrictions imposed by landlords. Many rooms are barred to couples with children or pets, so parents and pet owners are sent to see only the rooms where no such objections are raised.

The list of available rooms is always woefully short, but so far the office has always been able to find shelter of some kind for every person who has appealed for help. The USO-Travelers' Aid cooperates in finding rooms for transients, and in getting temporary quarters for new residents until they locate permanent rooms.

NEAR MISSES

But in maintaining its perfect record of always finding rooms, the Billeting Office has had some near misses. Some people have had to go to other towns as far away as 40 miles to find living quarters.

The closest thing to complete failure involved a soldier's young wife and baby. She arrived in Columbus late one afternoon, worn out from two days of traveling in a crowded train. It was one of those times when the supply of rooms had almost disappeared, and neither the Billeting Office nor USO could locate a landlord who would take in a small baby, even for one night.

Finally the girl remembered the name of a Columbus minister who was a friend of someone in her home town. The Billeting Office staff got in touch with him and explained the circumstances, and the minister and his wife took the girl and her baby into their home until they could locate a permanent room.

For some time, the office had a system of assigning numbers to room-seekers, in the order in which they appeared at the office. These people would come to the office early in the morning and wait until a landlord called in to list a vacant room. Many of them had to sit all day waiting for their numbers to come up, and often they had to come back several days before they finally located living quarters.

To eliminate the waste of time and the inconvenience of this method, the office has started a waiting list. Applicants now register, listing their family status, number of children, and any other information that would affect their status as tenants. They leave the telephone numbers and addresses of their temporary quarters, and when rooms are listed, the applicants are notified in the order in which they registered.

GET ROOM FIRST

When a landlord lists a room and states that he will accept tenants with children, that listing is given to the first person with children on the renters' list.

The Billeting Office staff strongly recommends that a soldier find a room before he sends for his wife or family. In most cases, however, the wife comes to Columbus without any prospect of a room and spends a long and uncomfortable period of time looking for a place to stay.

In its work on the post proper, the Billeting Office is faced with the problems common to all landlords, plus a number that are strictly army. It must, for example, house large numbers of troops who come into Fort Benning for a few days for special training, as well as the housekeeping units which are assigned for permanent duty and the troops which spend extended periods of trainnig here.

Officers' quarters are divided among units according to officer strength, and questions of rank and type of duty are considered in assigning the individual quarters. Although a change in rank entitles an officer to larger quarters, most of them realize they are lucky to be able to live on the post, and they do no bother to ask for a change unless they are housed in the older buildings or are badly crowded.

The Billeting Office also is in charge of quarters for bachelor officers and of dormitories for civilian workers. It passes on applications for Baker Village and Benning Park Homes, to make sure that the applicants meet requirements for occupancy.

Tunisian Hero Reports To TIS

Captain Harris Has Silver Star And DSC

Capt. Richard L. Harris, hero of Tunisia and Sicily, has reported to the Second Company of the First Student Training Regiment to attend the officers advanced course at the Infantry School.

Recipient of the Silver Star and Distinguished Service Cross in North Africa, Harris sailed from England last November and led a platoon of American troops ashore to establish the first African beach-head at Oran. As platoon leader and later company commander of a heavy weapons unit in the highly trained "Fighting First" Infantry Division, he turned from the subdued Vichy French to fight the bitterly resisting Germans in Tunisia.

Driving the Afrika Korps steadily toward its doom on the bloody beaches of Bizerte, Captain Harris was in the thick of the Tunisian battles—at Ousseltia, Kasserine Pass, Gafsa, El Guettar and Mateur.

As a front-line officer of the American Fifth Army that helped push the Axis out of Sicily, he fought without let-up for 28 days, from the initial landing at Gela until U. S. troops stormed and seized the key city of Troina.

GERMANS GOOD

What kind of fighters are the Germans? "They're good, and we have to train hard to beat them. But we can and are licking them, daily." The captain speaks from the experience of hand-to-hand combat.

Harris was born 23 years ago in New York City. Before war clouds darkened the continent, he spent sumer vacations touring France, Germany, Switzerland and Italy. Coming from Rye, N. Y., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Harris, reside on Dogwood Lane, he was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduating from Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., in June, 1941. A month later, he was called to active duty and has been in uniform ever since. He was promoted to first lieutenant in July, 1942, and attained his captaincy on the battlefields of Tunisia in May of this year.

We Salute You
Fighting Men
Of Benning
on your
Silver
Anniversary
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS
Brannon & Carson

DEPENDABLE WORK
COLUMBUS WATCH REPAIRS
HAROLD PEOPLES
PAUL FAISON
932 Broadway

RECAPPING—VULCANIZING

We cater to
Ft. Benning Personnel
GASOLINE DELIVERY HOURS
11 A.M. to 11 P.M., CWT
THIGPEN
TIRE RECAPPING SERVICE
SHELL STATION
1201 - 13th ST.
PHENIX CITY
FIVE POINTS

WADSWORTH
Blue Print Company
Have Copies of Your Marriage License, Power - of - Attorney and Similar Documents Made by Us. Architect's and Engineer's Supplies
1231 - 6th Ave.
Phone 2-2381

Post Exchange More Than Doubles Personnel To Meet Fort's Need

Physical Plant Also Expanded To Overcome Manpower Shortage

The Post Exchange management the past eighteen months has geared an ever-expanding program to meet the needs of an ever-expanding population at Fort Benning, according to information released this week by Lt. Col. H. E. McGaffey, chief of the local branch of Army Post Exchanges.

In April, 1942, the report states, there were 48 branches, 456 civilian employes, and they did a little less than half the volume of repeat business they are doing now. From April to December, 1942, the trend was upward, averaging almost a third more per month. From January to August, 1943, inclusive, the business moved up another 33 per cent, August showing a heavy gain over the average of the year to that date, with 1,054 civilian employes.

At this time there are 1,260 civilian employes and the business has advanced another 10 per cent.

During the latter part of 1942, the report states, several definite improvements were made including the reopening of the grocery store June 8, in the old Biglerville mess hall, following its destruction by fire May 26; establishment of the watch and jewelry repair shop and the purchase of modern fixtures for the main post branch in July; and the authorization, in October, of the new cafeteria, soda shop and office building on Ingersoll and Wood avenues.

Improvements and changes were even greater for Fort Benning's PX in 1943 than the previous nine months, the report continues. All activities have been moved out of the south stands and north tower of Doughboy Stadium.

The exchange office is now housed in the new office rooms over the new cafeteria, the soda shop is on the ground floor of the same building, with entrances on Ingersoll and on Wold avenues, while the old restaurant in the Service Club building is now the new cafeteria in its own building.

CHANGES MADE

The uniform store, tailor shop, watch repair shop, beauty parlor and the shoe and hat repair shop are now located near the Main PX in a converted warehouse building. The carpenter shop and general PX maintenance department is now located just north of the old Main Theater building, and the beer warehouse has been segregated from the old stock room and occupies a new building of its own, allowing a necessary expansion of the warehouse for the increased business.

A uniform department has been added to a branch in the Harmony church area, rendering a very fine service for the OC students, officers and men of that area, it is stated.

A victory garden, started in March, is now furnishing vegetables for the PX grocery.

The Patio Grill, an outside drink and entertainment place, completed this summer, has been very helpful in adding a good amusement spot for the main post, with Harmony Church, Sand Hill, the 300th Infantry area, and the Alabama area have been provided with beer gardens that are doing the same for those parts off the main post itself.

The Post Exchange GI's has a unique place in a great concentration of population that is primarily men. With public utilities for a population of 150,000 people Fort Benning as a city would have a shopping district of some magnitude and stores and shops covering a variety of wants and needs, for both hales and female. Here on the Post a government-owned chain store does the work of that shopping district.

DECENTRALIZED

The branches of the PX are very decentralized and scattered all over the populated parts of the 200,000 acres of ground that make this reservation quite a place. They are flexible, too, and whenever and wherever a new unit moves into the expanding military setup here a PX is located in some sort of a building or tent that the men may be able to buy, and if there is no tent or building, a truck is used so that the GIs will have their food luxuries, drinks, toilet articles and small daily needs.

In spite of this general decentralization, however, during the past year there has been a decided move toward having a convenient shopping district located on the Main Post, and the area selected is one on Wold Avenue which at the time included only the Howard Bus Depot. To that locality came the Main PX, a store with modern fixtures and display cases; then another building housing the new clothing store, watch and jewelry repair shop, a barber and beauty shop, and a hat and shoe repair shop. This will be expanded as need and convenience dictate, it is stated.

"Three departments," Colonel McGaffey states, "are particularly outstanding in our expanded setup. They are the uniform department where OC students, officers, and men have a chance to get a big cut in the price of uniforms; the grocery department where officers living on the post with their families have a chance to get some dividends; and the Patio Grill, with the beer gardens, which have done so much in keeping the men on the post with good entertainment."

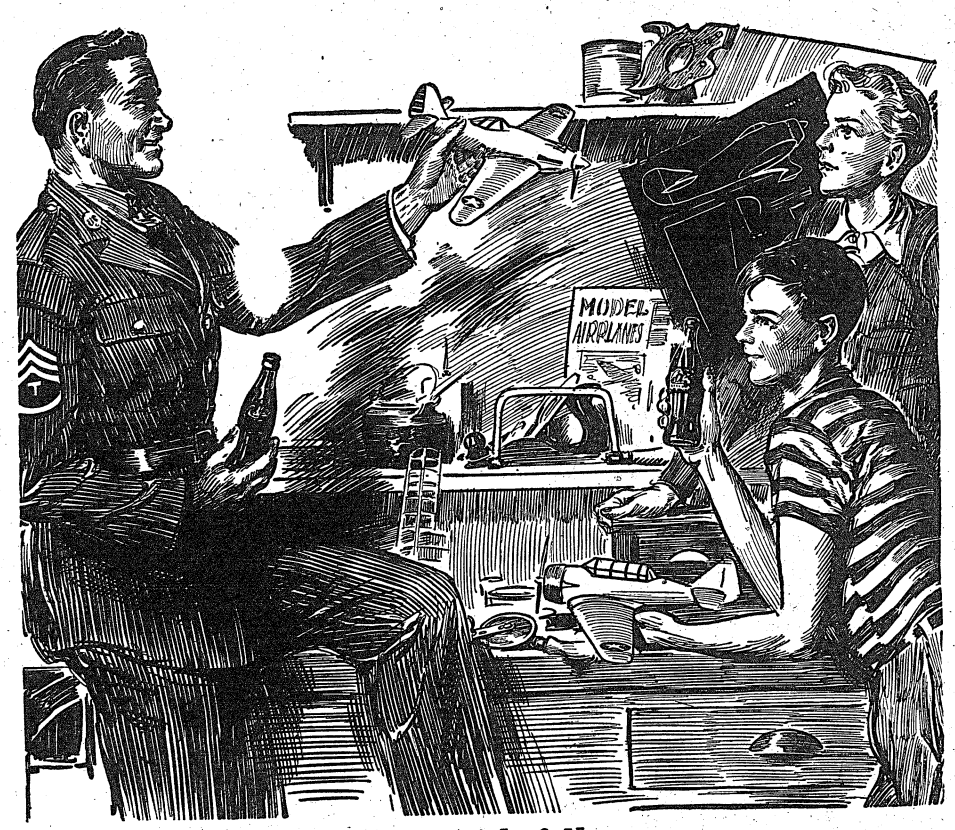
Good Barbecued Chicken Found Here
The "New" Linwood Steak Shop
1206 Linwood Blvd.
Ted Lyons, New Prop. Ph. 9594

Luckies To Be Guests of Three Arts League

With the distribution of 200 free season tickets to Fort Benning soldiers on a pro rata basis, some 30-40 music-lovers of Maj. Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silvester's "Lucky 7th" Armored division will have the opportunity of enjoying this winter's series of the Columbus Three Arts League concerts in Jordan high school auditorium.

Mrs. Winifred Baker, senior hostess at the Sand Hill service club will have a limited number of tickets for 7th Armored music lovers after Nov. 12, although season tickets may be secured from either Mrs. Bass Lewis, president of Three Arts League or Mrs. Edgar Bullock, membership chairman; before that time.

Program for the series is: Nov. 18—James Melton, Metropolitan tenor; Dec. 10—Helen Howe, solo dramatist; Jan. 11—Ruth Draper and Larry Adler, world famous tapdancer and harmonica player; Feb. 14—Sanroma, pianist.



Catherine de Medici is credited with the establishment of the French perfume industry in Grasse.

Quill pens were first used in the sixth century.

Not recognized as a ground for occupational deferement, baseball is in a No Man's Land between the list of essential industries and the non-deferable occupations.

Congratulations
FORT BENNING
on your
25 YEARS OF Achievement
GET THE LATEST MAGAZINES AND Quality Christmas Cards complete line
Davis NEWS Stand
1008½ Broadway

Have a Coca-Cola = What's the good word?

...or how to get along with folks

Your American soldier carries the keys to comradeship wherever he goes. Have a "Coke", says he to the eager youngsters at home, and it's like saying, What's the good word? It's a phrase that's understood in New Zealand or Newport, at home or in far-off places. Around the world Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes, —has become the gesture of good will, saying Let's be friends.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY
©1943 The C-C Co.

TO CONGRATULATE IS NOT ENOUGH!
TO PRAISE IS NOT ENOUGH!
WE APPRECIATE FORT BENNING AND ARE PROUD OF THE 25 YEARS COLUMBUS HAS BEEN ITS NEIGHBOR
COLUMBUS COCA-COLA CO.

Women Keep 'em Rolling In Ord nance MM Shop

Ladies in Overalls Enlisted As Boom Hits Fort Benning

The grease-stained, overalled figures under the trucks in the Ordnance automotive group shops at Fort Benning look pretty much alike at a casual glance. But look again. The one under that ton-and-a-half is a woman. So is the one further down the shop who is working on a jeep.

There are others in the electrical department, in the parts and tool rooms, in the tire warehouse. Still more are in the upholstery department, the radiator repair shop, and the paint shop.

Throughout the maintenance department, women are helping to "Keep 'Em Rolling."

They are a part of the force which services Fort Benning's big fleet of trucks, army cars and sedans, jeeps, peeps, and trailers. The shops, which are operated under the general direction of Col. Charles Carlton, commanding officer of the Motor Transport District, and under the immediate supervision of Capt. M. A. Sutton, maintenance officer, repair all wheeler vehicles on the post.

The shops first hired women as machinists in March, when it became impossible to get sufficient men. Now they are being employed in jobs ranging from messengers to mechanics, and the quality of their work earns them high praise from their male bosses.

As mechanics' helpers, they are tops with O. O. Goodroe, superintendent of maintenance, who would "rather have women than men" for the job.

The women, who range in age from 18 to 50, are civil service employees. Many are wives of soldiers, and one has two sons in the navy.

A few of them learned their trades working in the shop, but most have attended some kind of technical or vocational school. Some of the most satisfactory workers in the shops are women from Columbus and nearby towns who were sent to an army auto mechanics school at Cisco, Texas, and returned a few weeks ago to take over jobs in the plant.

They fit one of the shops' main needs—trained workers who may be expected to stay on the job. Many of the first women employed were wives of soldiers stationed temporarily at Fort Benning, and when their husbands left, they followed, leaving serious gaps in the personnel ranks. Now, though there is a place in the shops for more women, the preference is for permanent residents of the area.

Two Columbus sisters, Mary and Edna Dill, attended the school at Cisco and are now engaged in general repairs, especially motor and chassis work. Both are rated as mechanics' helpers, like their work, and intend to stay with it.

MORE ADEPT THAN MEN

Mrs. Edith Eubanks does one job in the electrical repair shop at which women have proved much more adept than men. This is the cleaning, testing and adjusting of voltage regulators, which keep the electricity in a truck at the proper voltage. The job involves tedious precision work of the type which men dislike and for which women generally are better suited.

Mrs. Eubanks also does motor tuning and operates the motor analyser, a master mind machine for complete testing of a motor to spot any trouble.

Mrs. Leola G. Hancock of the parts room holds a job which helps to determine the pace of the entire shop. No vehicle is allowed to enter the shops for repair until the parts needed for installation are actually in the parts room. This procedure prevents a jam-up of the shops' facilities by keeping out any vehicles except those which can be repaired in the shortest time possible.

It is Mrs. Hancock's job to requisition parts needed for each repair job, to see that they are obtained, if available, from the parts warehouse, that they are allotted to the proper vehicle, and that all the necessary parts for a vehicle are on hand before it is admitted for repair.

ISSUES TOOLS

In the tool room, Mrs. Mary B. Kay issues tools, nuts and bolts to the shops' mechanics. Each mechanic must sign for a tool as he needs it, and Mrs. Kay is responsible for handling this paper work, as well as making out and filing requisitions.

A large scale adaptation of one of women's traditional jobs keeps Mrs. Edna Ring busy in the upholstery department. She helps to make and install seat covers, patch side curtains for trucks, and cover truck seats. Much of the work is done on a big sewing machine, similar to home models but much larger and designed for use on the leatherette and heavy fabrics used in army vehicles.

Mrs. Cora Thornton helps to clean and repair radiators and gas tanks. The work often involves only minor leaks, but trucks which have been wrecked sometimes are brought in with smashed grills. The damaged sections must be removed and replaced, a big mechanical operation.

Mrs. Thornton's husband is stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C., and though she would like to be with him there, she has stayed at her home in Columbus and considers that her job makes her "much more useful to the war effort" here.

LET US SPRAY

Miss Gladys Walden, who first was employed in the electrical department, now works in the paint shop. Before a vehicle is painted, she sprays a compound on the windshield and windows that keep the paint from sticking to the glass. After the paint job is finished, she removes the compound and cleans the glass.

Other women in the shop paint stars and W-numbers on vehicles.

Mrs. Irene Glass, who has two sons in the navy, repairs tubes in the tire shop. Other women in the shop do tire "spotting" (repairing holes in the sides of casings.)

Women are no novelty in the district's offices, where they hold important jobs. The chief clerk is Miss Dorothy Morris, oldest woman employee in point of service.

These and the other women employed in the shops have taken on the important job of helping to keep Fort Benning and 17 outlying posts mobile. The Ordnance Automotive Group for Fort Benning operates on a dual capacity: As an Ordnance Service Command shop for the nearby posts, for whom it does all third and fourth echelon repairs, and as the center of all repairs for this post's wheeled vehicles.

Wrecked cars and trucks are restored to service, or, if they are too badly damaged, the serviceable parts which remain on them are salvaged for use on other vehicles. The hard use which a mechanized army imposes on its vehicles sends many of them to the shops, muddy, rusty or drowned out from crossing streams, or battered from miles of driving across rough country.

The shops have a steam cleaning department which takes grease off vehicles which cannot be cleaned by water. The carpenter shop does 90 per cent of the carpenter work needed by the plant.

The reclamation department functions in cooperation with the repair shops and receives all worn parts and units for inspection to determine if they are fit to be repaired. Such items as motors, transmissions, rear axle assemblies, transfer cases, clutch assemblies, generators and starters are inspected and segregated. About 99 per cent of the items can be salvaged.

Several hundred soldiers have worked in the shops for training and experience, and have been sent out to various units to do advanced repair work on vehicles.

Overall command of the Ordnance Automotive Group Ordnance Service Command shops is vested in Col. Myron Leedy, chief of the ordnance branch at Fort Benning. Col. Carlton is assistant chief of the ordnance branch and commanding officer of the shops, and his executive officer, who is also in charge of personnel, is Major B. F. Delany.

Lt. Robert E. McLean is property officer and Lt. Joseph Rothman is purchasing and contracting officer. Lt. Grant L. Ray is reclamation officer and Warrant Officer Richard J. Kitts, tactical pool officer.

"WHO DO I SEE FOR A FURLOUGH?"

Mrs. Hobson No Stranger To Ft. Benning

Mrs. William H. Hobson, wife of the commanding officer of Fort Benning, is no newcomer to the post. She has been stationed here twice before, once when Col. Hobson was with the 29th Infantry, and again when he served as assistant commandant of The Infantry School. During those years she has grown to love the post, although she misses many familiar faces as she returns.

Active in the surgical dressings section of the Red Cross during her last stay at Fort Benning, Mrs. Hobson has widened the scope of her activities to become vice chairman of the Fort Benning Auxiliary of the Muscogee County Chapter of the Red Cross, and chairman of the Volunteer Services. She took over her duties at a staff meeting November 2.

Mrs. Hobson and her daughter, Miss Mary Hobson, were instrumental in starting the surgical dressings section here on the post in 1939, in conjunction with several other women. Surgical dressings were made at the Polo Hunt Club, where Miss Hobson supervised workers after she had completed a course in the work. Miss Hobson accompanied her parents to Fort Benning and is now working as a secretary at the Red Cross Administration Building.

Before coming here, Mrs. Hobson was a member of the American Women's Volunteer Service in Washington, D. C. She served at a canteen near the Munitions Building, where over 2,000 luncheons a day were served to officers, enlisted men, and government employes from nearby government buildings.

A native of St. Paul, Minnesota, Mrs. Hobson met her future husband while he was stationed at Fort Snelling.

434th Armored F. A. Knows Enemy Planes

The 434th Armored Field Artillery Battalion made 99 per cent in identification of aircraft during a recent Divisional test in the 7th Armored Division, and the highest score in the entire Division.

Two companies, Headquarters Company of Combat Command B and Train Headquarters and Headquarters Company scored 92 per cent on the same test which is held periodically under the supervision of G-3 Air.

Silhouettes of the various types of planes now being flown are used by staff members of the G-3 Air section, under the immediate command of Capt. W. G. Moeller.

TO MY BUDDY PARA-TROOPERS

By Pvt. Marshall Kuriger

Oh, what a life for a Para-Trooper;
He is brave and knows no fear
Sailing high above the clouds
Where the air is pure and clear.

They say there's a thrill in a parachute
While floating in the sky;
With all the world below you,
You smile as the clouds go by.

We have a job to do, boys,
A tough one, you all know;
We'll do this job for Uncle Sam
Regardless where we go.

If he sends us to Germany,
Or if we go to Japan,
We'll show those "skunks", you "betcha",
We'll show them when we land.

Where those German planes come "whizzin'",
That's where I want to be,
For every one that hits the ground
Just means another V.

I couldn't help it, pals,
I tried to keep my "chute",
But I got a medical discharge
And lost my "wings and boots."

You will think of Betty and Daisy
In the U. S. all alone;
You will think of your dear old mother
And your father there at home.

But cheer up, Jack and Wayne;
I'll rush right back to the farm,
And if those loved ones need me
I'll give them a helping arm.

Woman's Club Looks Back On 20 Years of Service

The second woman's club to be organized on any army post, the Fort Benning Woman's Club has for twenty years successfully endeavored to foster a spirit of friendliness and comradeship among army women. Throughout the years since its organization it has reflected the changing interests of army wives, just as its scrap book shows the growth of Benning from a "temporary camp of shanties and tents" to the mighty Fort Benning of today.

The club started out as a small study club composed of twelve members who found their afternoons of reading and discussion "quite worth while," according to a resume of the club written in 1928 by Mrs. W. H. Vincent. In the fall of 1923 it was formally turned into a Woman's Club with Mrs. Alfred Bjornstadt as president.

As the club grew in membership, it also grew in scope. In 1925 departmental groups were formed, where women of kindred interests could study and work together. An Arts and Crafts Group was organized under the leadership of Mrs. Albert Helsley. The Home Economics Club under the leadership of Mrs. Butler Knight and Mrs. Walter T. Scott studied the theory and practiced the "art of home management and cookery." The Literary Club, under the direction of Mrs. Philip B. Peyton, studied contemporary literature of that time.

CHILD STUDY

A group in child study, under the direction of Mrs. Edwin T. Bowden, skilled child psychologist, was also formed in 1925. Interest led directly to financial aid to the Children's School. The club contributed liberally, sometimes buying playground equipment and at other times donating money.

This interest led, in turn, to the founding of the Nursery School in the fall of 1942. Mrs. Reginald H. Kelley, president of the Woman's Club for 1942-43, had the fullest cooperation from Brig. Gen. Walter Scott Fulton, then Commandant of the Post. A set of quarters was put aside for this important post activity, freshly painted, and the school started operating October 15, 1942. The Woman's Club had additional assistance and support from the Pan-Hellenic Club and the Army Daughters' Association. The Nursery School continues to care for children of pre-kindergarten age each morning except Sunday, releasing mothers for other duties and giving children a chance to learn to play with others of their own age.

During the years the Garden Section of the club was active in increasing the beauty of Fort Benning. An annual flower show was held, at which persons vied to display the results of intensive work. With the advent of war, however, it was felt that the emphasis should be changed, and in the year 1942-43 members of the club labored as vigorously over Victory Gardens as they had hitherto done over prized rose bushes.

The group in Interior Decoration, which achieved its greatest popularity in 1941-42 when Mrs. Walter Scott Fulton gave practical suggestions on how to convert temporary quarters into a home, was continued in 1943 as the Practical Home Making Group. As its name implies, emphasis was placed on practical helps, such as slip covering and war-time recipes. Sudden moves, however, and the decision of many army wives to place their furniture in storage, has caused a decrease in interest in interior decoration and that section has temporarily been discontinued.

SERIOUS HANDICAPS

The club officers for the year 1943-44 are working under serious handicaps. Personnel changes rapidly, both in membership and among officers and group chairmen. Mrs. Harold E. Potter, president, and club members feel that the Woman's Club is an integral part of Fort Benning, and should be continued against any odds. The club actively sponsors Red Cross activities, many of its most prominent members being also the most faithful Red Cross workers. It continues to hold a general meeting on the first Monday of each month, when officers' wives hear outstanding programs and where those old and new to the army have an opportunity to become acquainted.

Instrumental in keeping the Woman's Club active throughout the years are the following women, whose wise and inspiring leadership as presidents of the Woman's Club of Fort Benning has done much to bring the club to its present position: Mrs. Alfred Bjornstadt, 1923-24; Mrs. Frank Cocheu, 1924-5; Mrs. William McKendry Scott, 1925-26; Mrs. Ralph Kingman, 1926-27; Mrs. Wait O. Johnson, 1927-28; Mrs. Edgar S. Miller, 1928-29; Mrs. Oscar W. Hood 1929-30; Mrs. D. G. Berry 1930-31; Mrs. Charles Hunt, 1931-32; Mrs. E. G. Peyton, 1932-33; Mrs. Philip Woodall, 1933-34; Mrs. Maxon Lough, 1934-35; Mrs. W. A. McCullough, 1935-56; Mrs. W. G. Livesay, 1936-37; Mrs. J. W. Moreland, 1937-38; Mrs. A. M. Patch, 1938-39; Mrs. John R. Eden, 1939-40; Mrs. Roger B. Harrison, 1940-41; Mrs. Charles H. Owen, 1941-42; Mrs. Reginald H. Kelley, 1942-43.

Mrs. Bonesteel At Red Cross Auxiliary Helm

First lady of The Infantry School and mistress of the stately colonial home where generals have been housed for years, Mrs. Charles H. Bonesteel enters on her new duties as chairman of the Fort Benning Auxiliary of the Muscogee County Chapter of the Red Cross with enthusiasm, undaunted by the fact that she has but recently recovered from a year's illness. Most of last year was spent in a hospital in Tampa, Fla., where she was living with her daughter, and she is eager to catch up on her war work.

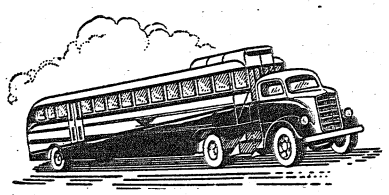
Mrs. Bonesteel, wife of Maj. Gen. Bonesteel, commandant of The Infantry School, is amazed and pelased at the development of the Red Cross on the post. This is her third stay at Fort Benning, where she had been active previously in the literary section of the Woman's Club and in the surgical dressings section of the Red Cross.

Major General and Mrs. Bonesteel have two children. Their son, Charles Hartwell Bonesteel, III, is a lieutenant colonel in the Engineers, and is now serving overseas. Mrs. N. C. Ohman, their daughter, is married to a colonel in the air corps, and now lives in Washington, D. C. A niece, Miss Margaret Hudson, accompanied Mrs. Bonesteel to Fort Benning and will spend the winter here.

Mrs. Bonesteel is a native of Plattsburg, N. Y.

More than 12,300 New York state dairy herds are enrolled in the Bang's disease control program.

Grown for thousands of years in the Orient, citrus fruits were established in Florida by 1579, and in California by 1769.



"UNITED We Stand"—
★
A Cordial WELCOME Awaits You at UNITED LOAN OFFICE
1037 BROADWAY

Let's Keep Her Over Here By Supporting Our Boys Over There
1918 1943

Armistice Day
"Your Authorized Ford Dealer"
HARDAWAY MOTOR CO.
1541 1st Avenue Dial 7781

Style Goes to Your Head

With busy days ahead, get that PERMANENT WAVE now.
All phases of Beauty Culture—Body Sculpturing.
BENZ'S BEAUTY SALON
SALUTES---FORT BENNING
DIAL 9179 217 - 12th STREET

HOWARD COLUMBUS FT. BENNING BUS LINE
CONGRATULATIONS
FORT BENNING
On Your
25th ANNIVERSARY
SERVICE TO FORT BENNING FOR 22 OF THESE 25 YEARS

HOWARD BUS LINE
900 BROADWAY COLUMBUS, GA.

CUSTOM-TAILORING IN Smith-Gray THE MILITARY MANNER
★ BUY MORE BONDS ★
98-YEAR-OLD
SMITH-GRAY
1845 – 1943
SALUTES
FORT BENNING
1918 – 1943
ON HER
Silver Anniversary

For 25 years Fort Benning has been training the finest officers of the United States Army.
For 98 years, through 5 wars, Smith-Gray has been outfitting the Officers of the United States Armed Forces with the finest in Cut-to-Individual-Measure, Custom-Tailored Uniforms. May Fort Benning and Smith-Gray continue in peace as well as in war to make their officers present the "best front" on Every Front.

★ BUY MORE BONDS ★
SMITH-GRAY CORP. CUSTOM TAILORS SINCE 1845 Makers of UNIFORMS
New York City
Pensacola, Fla.
Fort Monmouth
15 West 11th St., Columbus, Ga.
Harvard University
Yale University
Columbia University

131st Infantry Is Baby Of TIS Demonstrators

'Dandy First' History Offers Catalog Of Well-Done Duties

Latest of the infantry units to be assigned to the School Troops Brigade as a demonstration unit is the 131st Regiment, a national guard outfit from the Chicago district. It has, however, a large number of men from Metropolitan New York.

The 131st is quartered in Harmony Church in the old 124th Infantry area.

The history of the 131st is a catalog of ideals, of duty well performed. The organization of the 131st Infantry, then known as the First Illinois Infantry, was started in August, 1874, and completed in December, 1875. Later it was redesignated the First Illinois Volunteers.

"The Dandy First" has played a glorious part in every call to duty since it came into being, and its well beloved dead rest on battlefields in Cuba and in France wherever the defense of our Star Spangled Banner called them. God's blessing on them. Their names are inscribed in shining letters on the Honor Roll of heroic dead.

The first meeting looking to the organization of a regiment in Chicago in 1874 was in response to a call in the newspapers inviting all young men interested in the formation of a military organization to meet at the Grand Pacific Hotel. At the next meeting, two weeks later at the Sherman House, three companies, later called A, B, and C, reported their organization complete. Next came Co. D. In October of the same year Companies E and F were admitted. In December, Company G was added. General Sherman, who had been the colonel commanding, having resigned, Alexander C. McClurg was elected Lt. Colonel. In March, 1875, Company H was added.

When the battleship Maine was blown up in 1898, this regiment was so well and favorably known that there was a rush to join it, which rapidly filled up the companies to a war footing and left a waiting list besides.

FIGHT SPAIN

On the 18th of May, 1898, the regiment was sent to the central camp of mobilization at Chickamauga, Ga. On June 30, the regiment embarked for Cuba. On July 10th they marched into the battle line and stayed there amid the mud and constant rain until the Spaniards recognized the inevitable and surrendered. The regiment was sent back to the United States on the 25th of August and was mustered out of service in November, 1898.

June 19, 1916, when intervention seemed imminent in Mexico, the "Dandy First" answered the call, was mobilized and sent to Texas. On October 5, 1916, the regiment was returned to Chicago. Five months later, on March 26, 1917, another call came for Federal duty. On October 10th, 1917, the regiment was redesignated the 131st Infantry and went into training for overseas duty. It arrived in France May 30th, 1918, and wasn't mustered out of service until June 6, 1919. Reorganized as the First Infantry and redesignated the 131st Infantry, December 13, 1921.

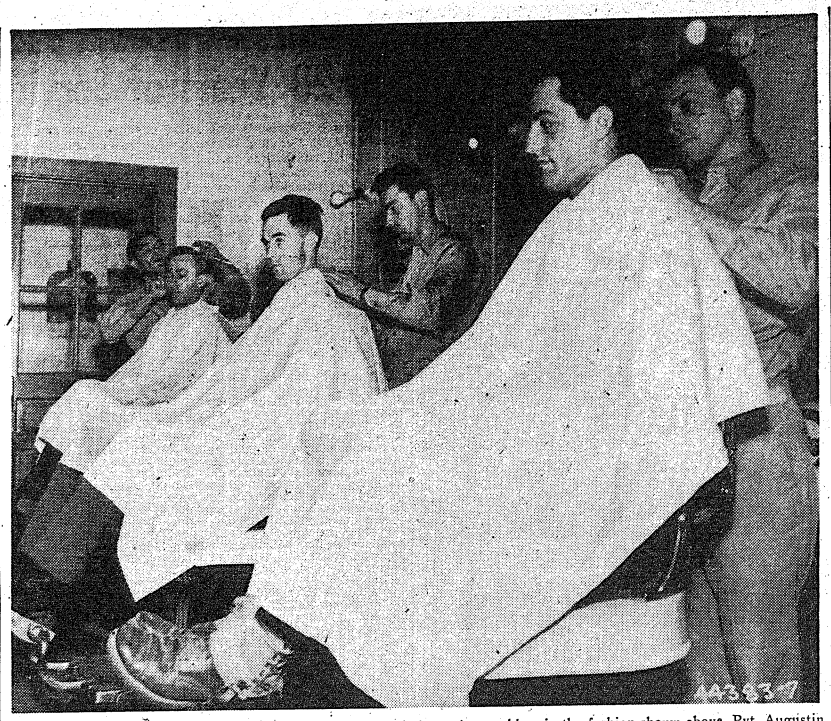
WORLD WAR RECORD

The regiment's record in the World War is memorable. It served along the entire front in the following armies and corps: First, Second, and Third American Armies; Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth American Corps; British Fourth Army; British 19th and 111th Corps; Australian Fourth Corps; French Second Army; French 17th Corps, and French 11th Colonial Corps. Twenty-four engagements and local operations were recorded; 13 officers and 262 men killed in action; 62 officers and 2,245 men wounded or gassed; 2 officers and 17 men were captured by the enemy and returned after the armistice.

The advances gained by the regiment totaled 24,615 meters. Twelve German officers and 2,088 other ranks were captured, as were five pieces of heavy artillery, 57 pieces of light artillery, six trench mortars, 210 machine guns, 266 rifles and one German airplane. Also captured were thousands of high explosive shells, an enormous quantity of material, including narrow gauge railroad, hand grenades, lumber, ambulances, signals, Lewis guns, clothing and other articles used by the Germans.

BACK TO WAR

March 5, 1941, found the 131st Infantry in their armory in Chicago, being sworn into Federal service again. Under the command of Col. John M. Richmond the regiment reported to its armory to take physical examination. War was not in the thoughts of the majority of the men as they reported for service. But there was an emergency decreed by the President, and the Dandy First Regiment responded to the call to duty as it had done in the Spanish American war, the Mexican Border Campaign and World War I.



The first few weeks of service found the regiment in Chicago preparing for their initial move to Camp Forrest, Tenn., where they were to join the 33rd Division. An advance detachment left Chicago on March 18th to prepare the way for the main body, which arrived about a week later. Mud was the order of the day at Camp Forrest for the first month, as the regiment settled into its new area and prepared to undertake an intensive training program.

With the arrival of the first group of recruits in April, the "131st" settled down to serious training. This lasted until August when the Dandy First broke camp with the rest of the division to take part in the Second Army maneuvers. For two months the 131 boys traveled through Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas, making heroic marches, and rainy bivouacs, practicing the art of war.

Returning to Camp Forrest early in October, the regiment greeted a new commanding officer, Lt. Col. John McAnsh. Under his command the regiment entrained for Chicago in November to take part in a divisional parade down Michigan Avenue on Armistice Day.

GRIM BUSINESS

Back in Forrest the regiment reacted to the news of Pearl Harbor with a grim determination to prepare to fight. Gone were the thoughts that "we'll get our year

G.I.'s IN THE 131ST INFANTRY take care of their own hair-cutting problem in the fashion shown above. Pvt. Augustin Guiterrez, Pvt. Angelo Favuzza and T-5 Carroll Swecker are the G.I. barbers shown operating on the locks of soldier customers on the regiment's PX barber shop, one of two maintained within the regiment. Profits from the shop go into the Special Service Fund. (Official U. S. Army Photo—The Infantry School.)

131st Infantry Settles Down to Its Chores

Service as instructors and demonstration troops will be the primary mission of the 131st Infantry for the next six months or more, it was announced by Major Evert S. Thomas, Jr., Plans and Training Officer. The 131st is the newest regiment to be added to The Infantry School Troops.

"We are school troops of The Infantry School, Major Thomas informed the troops. "We will be used to assist the school in teaching Officers and Officer Candidates in the latest approved method of combat and instruction."

Stressing the vital importance of our mission and the honor attached to being chosen as a demonstration regiment in the largest and best Infantry School in the world, the Major made an appeal for all members of the Regiment to pay strict attention to detail at all times.

"We must endeavor to get everything exactly as the instructor wants it. He has a reason for every move, which may drive home a vital point. These instructors are experts in their fields and spend considerable time developing new tactics."

The Major told how the tactics taught at the school had been tested on the field of battle. "All new lessons learned on the field of battle have been incorporated in the teachings here," he said. "This provides the regiment with an unequalled opportunity to learn the latest infantry tactics," the Major pointed out.

MEN TUNE UP

Explaining how the men would work, he gave as an example the work taking place this week. Groups of 50 to 150 men have been receiving training in the bayonet, the BAR, the M-1 Rifle, Hand Grenades, Machine Gun, Mortar, A-T Gun, and Cannon. When they have received the final polish in their technique they will be used as assistant instructors in classes or as demonstration units.

At first, the work will be chiefly with individual weapons. Later tactics will be included working up from squad to Battalion demonstration problems. In this phase of the work the Regiment will work in cooperation with artillery and tank outfits.

The Major stressed five rules that must be observed "if we are to accomplish our mission."

They are:

1. Be punctual.
2. Be in prescribed uniform with required equipment.
3. Watch all the details of military courtesy.
4. Cooperate fully with the instructor in every detail.
5. Maintain a soldierly appearance before the students. Remember that hundreds of Officers of all ranks will watch you in action and discuss your faults and mistakes.

Two other Regiments are sharing this duty with our Regiment, the 300th Infantry and the 176th Infantry.

of training done early and then get out." Characteristic of the new spirit in the regiment was the full training schedule on New Year's Day.

In March the regiment received orders to move. Under the command of Colonel James J. Pritle the regiment moved under sealed orders, to find that it had been assigned to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Preparation for combat, combined with the mission of guarding the locks was the order of the day. Under the inspiring leadership of Colonel J. E. Ardrey, the regiment fulfilled its missions in a manner worthy of a regiment with battle streamers from campaigns flying from its colors.

The regiment left Fort Brady September 22nd for Camp Van Dorn, Mississippi, where we remained until October 18 before leaving for Fort Benning, Georgia, to fulfill an assignment with The Infantry School as demonstration troops.

The regiment has participated in the quelling of seven instances of uprisings throughout Illinois, and has represented the state at seven celebrations, as follows: World Columbian Exposition, Atlanta Exposition, Pan-American Exposition, Louisiana Purchase Exposition, Crown Point Auto Races and the Panama Pacific Exposition.

The following colonels have commanded the regiment: Price G. Sherman, A. C. McClurg, George R. Davis, William G. Shere, Act., Edgar D. Swain, Charles Fitzsimmons, E. B. Knox, Joseph B. Sanborn, Anson L. Bolte, Francis M. Allen, John M. Richmond, Andrew T. McAnsh, James J. Pirtle and J. E. Ardrey, the present commander.

O. C. Lived Under Nazi Threat In Cairo, Egypt

When Candidate E. J. Doyle, of the Seventh Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School, left New York harbor on that troop transport in June, 1942, for duty in the Middle East, Rommel and his famed Africa Krops were several hundred miles from the banks of the Nile. But by the time Doyle's ship docked at Suez, the "Desert Fox" had fought his way to El Alamein, less than 60 miles from Alexandria.

Doyle's small group was rushed from Suez to Cairo and was billeted at an airfield on the outskirts of the city. During Doyle's second night in Egypt, Jerry sent over a small bombing force to smash up the airfield. Doyle said that within a few seconds after being snapped out of a sound sleep by the raid sirens, bombs started to crash on the field.

"The raiding force was pitifully small," Doyle said, "less than 10 planes, but it seemed to me the greatest air armada in the world was hell-bent on giving me a noisy welcome to Egypt."

Doyle says Cairo is an exciting place any time, but during the period that Rommel's shadow was on the gateway, the city was a virtual madhouse of activity. Soldiers from every Allied nation were there, some recently arrived reinforcements and others part of the force which had fallen back from Rommel's advance.

Military personnel went armed at all times, Doyle said. It was not uncommon to see soldiers going into restaurants, theaters and other public places wearing sidearms or carrying rifles and tommy guns — all preparation against any attempted landing of Nazi paratroops.

Tension was dissipated with Rommel's defeat at El Alamein and while Cairo still was full of soldiers, the city lost much of its grim spirit and nervous anxiety. Americans were everywhere and Doyle hazards the prediction that an archaeologist at some future date will be puzzled to find a GI overnight-pass among ancient documents in some Pharaoh's tomb.

"If you drink of the Nile you will return," goes an old saying and Doyle says that applies to him. He hopes for the arrival of the day when he can return to Egypt to visit friends he made there and witness again the glorious desert sunsets.

EARLY ASSIGNED HERE

Stephen Tyree Early, Jr., 21-year-old son of the secretary to President Roosevelt, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army of the United States at The Infantry School this week. And the proudest person in the assemblage which witnessed the graduation of young Early's class was his father. Lieut. Early has been assigned to 4th Training Regiment.

Sergeant Floyd Off to School

Staff Sgt. Robert L. Floyd, operations clerk of the 4th Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Special Troops, Second Army, at Fort Benning, has been selected by his commanding officer, Major Neil R. Maxey, to attend the advanced administration enlisted course at the Adjutant General's School at Fort Washington, Md., it was announced by Colonel George E. Jacobs, commanding officer of the Fourth Detachment, Special Troops, Second Army at Fort Benning.

Before enlisting in the service, Sgt. Floyd was employed by a supplies company in LaGrange, Ga.

BE ARMY WISE and ECONOMIZE at LAFKOWITZ Cash and Carry Cleaning and Expert Tailoring
1208 - 1ST AVE. DIAL 7062
Lafkowitz Bros.
CLEANERS and TAILORS

CONGRATULATIONS FORT BENNING on your 25th ANNIVERSARY
1918-1943
Perfection
In Our Military Forces Is What We Hope For Perfection
In Dry Cleaning Is What We Strive For Perfection CLEANERS
407 12th ST. DIAL 5812

CONGRATULATIONS
To the Men in Our Army
at
FORT BENNING
We Invite You to Visit Our MILITARY DEPT.
COMPLETE UNIFORMS
MILITARY SUPPLIES
Member of Army Exchange Service
CLASSY CLOTHES SHOP
1035 BROADWAY DIAL 7092
BUY WAR BONDS

We Congratulate Fort Bening on the great service you are rendering our nation.
All Types of Motor
Rewinding — Repairing — Rebuilding
MOTOR REPAIR & ELECTRIC CO.
J. F. SMITH LILLIAN COOK
220 - 9th Street Dial 3-5676

Congratulations Fort Benning!
We Welcome The Army Personnel
WE ASSURE YOU PROMPT AND COURTEOUS SERVICE
Experienced Barbers
4 Chairs
RALSTON BARBER SHOP
Manicuring Service
Chas. M. Parker, Prop.

FORT BENNING 25th Anniversary 1918 - 1943
We Are Glad to Extend Greetings at This Time
In Recognition of Your Great Service to Our Community and Nation
PRIVATE AMBULANCE SERVICE
★
Air-Conditioned
Licensed Lady Attendant
Complete Service for Every Religion
OAKLAWN CHAPEL
AVERITT, Inc.
MORTICIANS
1 Block West of Hamilton Between 20th and 21st Sts.
2015—6TH AVE. DIAL 7371

Working Together FOR VICTORY
Congratulations! Ft. Benning on Your 25th Anniversary
HARDAWAY CONTRACTING COMPANY
DAMS BRIDGES POWER PLANTS GENERAL CONSTRUCTION
HOME OFFICE—COLUMBUS, GA.

Army Wives Render Red Cross Great Assistance

Ever-changing, yet ever-growing, the Fort Benning Auxiliary of the Muscogee County Red Cross goes on aiding those who need its aid. Each one of the Volunteer Special Services of the Auxiliary is performing a real and definite service, and performing it well.

An added impetus has been given the hundreds of women who compose the Auxiliary by the enthusiasm of their new chairman, Mrs. William H. Hobson and Mrs. C. H. Bonesteel. Mrs. Bonesteel, wife of Maj. Gen. Bonesteel, commandant of The Infantry School, is chairman of the Auxiliary. Mrs. Hobson, wife of Col. Hobson, Post Commander, has taken over the duties of chairman of Volunteer Services.

GRAY LADIES

Trim in their gray uniforms, the Gray Ladies provide friendly and helpful services for the sick and convalescent in the Station Hospital. There is no glamour about their work; they are bound to professional secrecy, and are warned before they take the arduous course that hard work is expected of them. There is no glamour about their work; they are bound to professional secrecy, and are warned before they take the arduous course that hard work is expected of them. There is no glory attached to their endeavours to make the lives of shut-ins more pleasant, but they have, as their reward, the deep appreciation of many a soldier.

Headed by Mrs. H. G. Elliott, thirty-three Gray Ladies a week devote their time to being recreational helpers, under professional supervision. The preliminary course of sixteen hours is followed by a probationary period of twenty-four hours before they are allowed to don the Gray Lady cap, grey with a white front. Each person taking the course must be sponsored by a senior Gray Lady, must be an American citizen and a member of the Red Cross and must have the well-balanced type of personality that is so necessary in building the morale of the sick and convalescent.

STAFF ASSISTANCE

Twenty women, under the supervision of Mrs. Marinus Bronkhorst, act as volunteer workers in the Staff Assistance Corps. Dressed in the regulation commando blue uniform with the yellow epaulet of their corps, they are found behind the information desk at the Red Cross work room, doing clerical or stenographic work at the Red Cross Administration Building, or filling out applications at the blood bank. Their preliminary course involves all the workings of the Red Cross, in order that they may answer questions accurately, and they must put in seventy-five hours of duty a year in order to maintain an active status.

MOTOR CORPS

Driving mothers and new babies home from the Station Hospital, driving convalescent surgical patients, picking up donors to and from the blood bank, driving expectant mothers from outlying towns to the clinic, picking up discarded magazines and delivering them to day rooms and service clubs—these are some of the many services performed by members of the Motor Corps. Before being permitted to wear their smart blue-gray uniforms and overseas caps, these women must have taken courses in Standard and Advanced First Aid, and a course in Motor Maintenance. In addition, they are asked to take supplementary courses in map reading, ambulance drill, and attend lectures on gases and bombs.

The Motor Corps is headed by a captain and four lieutenants, who have been chosen for their good judgment, resourcefulness, and qualities of leadership. Mrs. W. L. Starnes is now serving as captain. Their ranks thinned to twenty by recent departures, the Motor Corps plans another course soon to increase the number of those qualified to wear the green epaulet of its corps.

PRODUCTION

Sewing or knitting steadily, post women under the direction of Mrs. J. R. N. Weaver turn out an amazing number of articles for use of our soldiers, and for the needy. Olive drab or blue yarn, given out at the Red Cross work room with full knitting instructions, is turned into post guard caps, watch caps, mufflers, socks, sweaters—all articles appreciated by soldiers stationed in cold countries. With the demand for such articles steadily increasing, and with supplies soon to be increased, Mrs. Weaver has issued a call for more knitters.

All knitting is done at home. However the group meets to sew on Thursdays, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon, at the Work Room. Boys' shirts are now being made, and 500 pairs of slippers for men in the Station Hospital have been requested.

Realizing that ninety per cent of surgical dressings for combat forces must be made by volunteers, the surgical dressing unit works skillfully week in and week out. So far in 1943, its members have made over 173,506 dressings, which have gone to army medical supply depots for distribution, and to the Station Hospital. Women drop in for an hour or two, or perhaps come in groups to spend the entire morning on a task which requires meticulous, painstaking work.

Workers, who must wear cotton dresses and a cotton covering for their hair, are under the direction of supervisors and inspectors, who inspect all dressings before they are apcked by a head packer and her assistants. In order to wear the commando blue uniform and navy epaulets of the surgical dressings section, workers must put in 100 hours making dressings. Their cap is a square of white material, centered with a red cross. Mrs. William Denton is chairman.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

Most of the work of the Junior Red Cross is done for the Station Hospital. Under the direction of Mrs. J. D. Rosenberger, Fort Benning grade school children make holiday favors for sick and convalescent soldiers, and are now busy on docerations for the Christmas trees. The children have also packed thirty Christmas boxes to go to children overseas. The boxes are donated by the Red Cross, but the contents are given by the children. They consist of toys, soap, wash rags, tooth paste, hard candies, and other articles that children in less bounteous countries may lack. The Junior Red Cross enrollment drive, held November 1 of each year, finds each child bringing his penny, dime, or dollar for a 100 per cent enrollment.

HOME NURSING

Courses in Home Nursing are also given by the auxiliary. These courses are of great benefit in these days when the supply of nurses and doctors is inadequate, and have proven of great help to many a mother when confronted with illness in the family. Mrs. Isaac G. Walker, secretary of the auxiliary, is arranging for another course to be given in a short time.

First Aid courses, to aid in reducing the number of accidents and to educate persons in a knowledge of first aid, are also given by the Fort Benning Auxiliary. A course in Standard First Aid and one in Advanced First Aid have recently been completed, and further courses will be given as the need arises. Mrs. R. L. Tuttle is chairman.

BLOOD BANK

The Fort Benning Auxiliary has twice brought the mobile unit of the blood bank to the post. So successful has been each visit that on its next visit, December 15, donations will be increased from 170 pints of blood daily to 240 pints. A larger force of workers will be brought from Atlanta, and beds will be increased from ten to twelve.

It is during the blood bank that Red Cross volunteer workers best demonstrate that they can work efficiently, and work together. Paid workers are supplemented by an equal number of volunteers, who go about their appointed tasks with dispatch. Gray Ladies, staff assistants, motor corps workers—all work long hours, and are eager to contribute their services the next time the blood bank comes around. In addition, canteen workers and nurses aides working through the Muscogee county chapter give their time and labor.

DAIRY PRACTICES

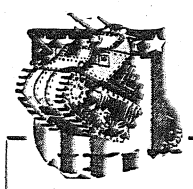
Home demonstration club members in Greene county are interested in improving their dairy practices, Miss Nell Thrash, home demonstration agent, says. Eight clubs have had demonstrations in making good butter and in care and cleanliness in handling dairy products.

Compliments to FORT BENNING

On Your 25th Anniversary

BISHOP THEATERS

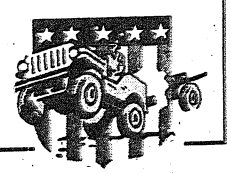
Operating



DIXIE and LIBERTY

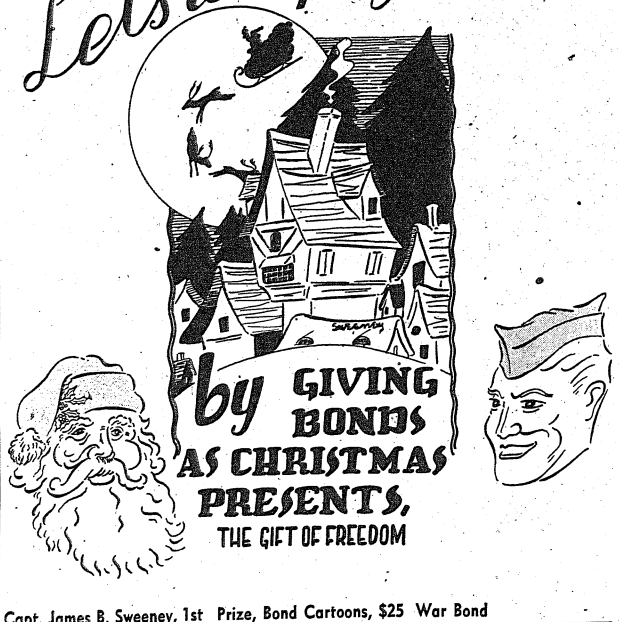
We Salute You—Fort Benning ON YOUR SILVER ANNIVERSARY

Visit Us for a Thick, Juicy Steak or Your Favorite Sea Foods.



HARVEY'S

Congratulations



FORT BENNING

Our best wishes on the Fort's 25th Anniversary to its wartime personnel. As in normal years we make every effort to satisfy your needs in feminine apparel with a wide selection in every department. And our usual courteous service prevails, of course.

WE SELL BONDS

Kirallyja

Capt. James B. Sweeney, 1st Prize, Bond Cartoons, $25 War Bond

Man About Benning Is Popular Sgt. Neu

When it comes to championships of various kinds, Fort Benning probably has one that can't be equalled by any other Army post in the country or foreign lands either for that matter.

It's the "knows-more-persons-officers,-enlisted-men-and-civilians-than-anybody-else-in-the-whole-Army" and the holder of the title is Staff Sergeant Carl Neu.

A close runner-up at Fort Benning these days is probably Sgt. Louis Lipp, secretary of the Fort Benning Branch of the Muscogee County Rationing Board, with whom thousands of officers and members of their families, and thousands of enlisted men as well, come in contact now that rationing of various items becomes more of a factor even among military personnel.

SGT. CARL F. NEU, JR.

IN MANY FIELDS

But Sgt. Neu's various jobs at the post bring him into contact on a different field—or a lot of different fields — with different people and he has been at the hard work of acquiring the title longer than Sgt. Lipp. So the nod goes to the ubiquitous Sgt. Neu. A word he doesn't like particularly, by the way.

At Fort Benning, indeed Sgt Neu might be said to be all things to all men. To the Quartermaster Corps, where he is actually assigned, he is the liaison non-commissioned officer, so to speak, with the rest of the post. He knows all the ins and outs of the many intricacies of the immense Supply Division and all its ramifications and sees to it that the world hears all about the activities of Col. Jack Myer and his officers and men. He started on that job a little more than two years ago and because his duties brought him into contact with the Public Relations Division, and because he had a health of experience in writing sports and working in sporting goods for Macy's, which he tells all the sundry is a store in New York, he soon was being called upon to cover sports events all over the camp for that office.

Then, when the Bayonet was established a little over a year ago, he just sort of naturally became its sports editor.

ATHLETICS, TOO

It wasn't long before his knowledge of sports around the camp brought him into contact with Lt. Col. Charles C. (Casey) Finnegan, who in his own right holds nearly as many jobs on the post as Sgt. Neu. One of them is that of Post Athletic Officer and before long Sgt. Neu was installed as his chief assistant, too.

Well, anybody can see how Sgt. Neu began to know more and more people. He has to know all the officers and most of the men in the Quartermaster's departments, of course.

Then, in the athletic office, he soon was meeting coaches and players of football, baseball, basketball, soccer, soft ball and yes, even table tennis teams.

His work in the Public Relations office didn't stop always at handling sports assignments either, and he covered scores of other events. So he soon had his fingers in practically everything that went on at Fort Benning. He knew more officers and knew all about what they did than any two or three other persons and whenever anybody wants to know the title, proper spelling and initials of just about any officer on the Post, chances are about 10 to one that Sgt. Neu can tell him. And probably the phone number, too.

ALSO IN TOWN

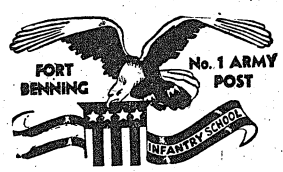
Naturally his work brought him into contact with many persons in Columbus, so that he extended his acquaintance far beyond the limits of Fort Benning. And when the Public Relations Office was able to put more emphasis on radio programs, naturally Sgt. Neu was right on hand because he was one of the few persons on the post at the time who had had any experience with the ether waves. So he soon found himself with another job—that of being the more or less official voice of Fort Benning in broadcasting news and interviewing celebrities and helping to stage the radio programs.

And of course that meant that he became acquainted with all of the radio people as well as the newspaper people in Columbus.

A fairly typical day in the life of the Sergent goes about like this—up to sweep and police, just like any other soldier, of course, and then off to have a conference with Col. Meyer on the radio show "Quartermaster Quarter Hour" and pick up half a dozen news items about the Supply Division. Then a quick skip to the Athletic Office, where he probably finds a dozen phone calls waiting for him. He works on the schedule for the coming basketball season, sees that details are out watering Doughboy stadium; has to find a new referee for the football game coming up this week end; calls the electricians to put in some new lights on the field; gathers up half a dozen sports stories, and covers 10 or a dozen various and assorted chores.

WRITES SPORTS

Then he dashes for the Public Relations Office, writes his stories and a sports column; goes over some radio script; and answers a few more telephone calls from persons from Alabama to Harmony Church who have been trying to catch up with him.



Then he probably runs on down to Columbus to help straighten out a few tangles with the printers and see that the sports pages are put to bed properly for the forthcoming issue of the Bayonet. While there the Associated Press or some other wire service probably catches up with him and requests coverage on the forthcoming football game.

Then he rushes back to Fort Benning to broadcast the news on the 6 p. m. radio show "Ft. Benning on the Air."

But he isn't finished yet. If there's any othletic activity going on that evening, he is there to help stage it, and then to announce the event on the loudspeaker system.

After which he probably runs back to Columbus to read some proof or to attend a rehearsal of the Columbus Civic Theater, for with all his other work he manafes to keep his hand in at doing a bit of acting, too. And incidentally, to meet and know several score more people.

No wonder that Sgt. Milt Luban, (now a poor benighted civilian through a CDD) called him "The guy who owns Ft. Benning." Much to Sgt. Neu's great disgust, incidentally.

CONGRATULATIONS To FORT BENNING

AND THE ARMED PERSONNEL ON THIS THEIR

25th Silver Anniversary

On this most auspicious occasion the entire staff of The Friendly Roosevelt Cafe Salutes You.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

That we may serve you as efficiently as you serve us shall always be our aim.

ROOSEVELT CAFE

1027 BROADWAY

"DAD AND MA"

MAX MENDEL AND MRS. MAX MENDEL

UNEXCELLED CUISINE | COURTEOUS SERVICE | FRIENDLY ATMOSPHERE

515ers Feast Ala. Farmers

Eating just ordinary Thanksgiving isn't going to be the same after the pre-Thanksgiving picnic The 515th Parachute Regiment is giving for the farmers of the Alabama Training Area today. A regular full course meal will be dropped by parachute for the informal party who will then sit down to the sky-borne cuisine just as though they had eaten such a way all their lives.

Col. J. B. Lindsey, commanding Officer of the 515th, has invited all the farmers located in the Alabama Training Area to attend a Parachute Demonstration and picnic today, Thursday, November 11. To assist the guests to the Area, special guides have been posted at all entrances. The approximately one hundred Alabamians will then move from the rendezvous point to Theater No. 10 where, at 10:45 they will see regular Parachute Training films.

AIR SHOW SALUTE

From the theater they will move back to the Alabama Area and watch students make jumps, their fourth, from the familiar C-47s. At each phase the goings-on will be explained to the farmers in full. Daily these people watch the training jumps of students of the School — who sometimes find it necessary to land in one of their fields. This will be the first time they have been shown the inner workings of the school.

Pre-Thanksgiving dinner will be parachuted to the party at 12:45 and they will eat it, soup and all, at Bonacre Landing, At 1:30 they will go to the Demolition Area of the Parachute School and watch a simulated combat jump with bombs bursting and overhead fire. Col. Ridgely Gaither, Commandant of The Parachute School and Col. John P. Edgerly, Post Executive Officer, are expected to partake of this exceptional repast.

The farming members and Mr. Leighton McPherson, P. M. of Columbus, Ga., of the Alabama Area community were invited to the doings by formal invitation which was supervised by a committee composed of Lts. A. D. Saker, Arthur F. Miller and Chas. W. Harris.

COTTON SITUATION

Production of cotton having a staple length of less than 15-16-inch is much more important in Texas, Oklahoma, Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee than elsewhere in the belt, according to the Extension Service. Of the total short staple produced during the past three years, more than 90 per cent of it was from these five states.

Mental fog arises from an "all-wet" moral climate.

The finest post-war plan in sight Is—plan to change, unite and fight.

MILK PRODUCTION

Total milk production increased fairly steadily from 1924 through 1942, the Extension Service says. In 1943 and 1944, however, the limited supply of feed concentrates in deficit feeding areas is expected to bring about some reduction both in milk production per cow and total production.

What a man is speaks more plainly than anything he can say.

We might stop explaining what kind of people we are and begin thinking about the kind we really could be.

Gifts - Antiques

Shop Early for Christmas!

ELLEN WORRALL

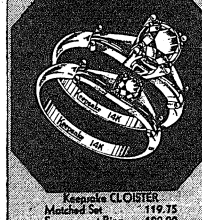
1143 - 1st Ave. Dial 3-1413

Congratulations . . .

FORT BENNING ON YOUR SILVER ANNIVERSARY AND BEST WISHES TO YOUR ENTIRE PERSONNEL

We have enjoyed the business the officers, men and their families have given us the years we have been in Columbus, and hope our friendly relations will remain the same always.

NEWBERRY'S



from GEM JEWELERS

Keepsake MONTROSE
Matched Set 94.75
Engagement Ring 75.00

To her . . . that "Keepsake" on her finger is a constant reminder of your love. To you . . . it means that there is a girl back home who really cares — and eagerly awaits your return.

Keepsake CLOISTER
Matched Set 119.75
Engagement Ring 100.00

★ Best Wishes to Fort Benning

Keepsake IRVING
Matched Set 89.25
Engagement Ring 62.50

for VICTORY

GEM JEWELRY CO
1200 BROADWAY

Benning Soldier Provided Plentiful Balanced Diet

"Every soldier stationed on Fort Benning's 218,000 acres of land gets food provided for him by the United States Army in quality and in quantities sufficient for his every need, both as to health and appetite," states Lt. Col. Alexander H. Veazy, chairman of the local menu planning board.

"If he does not get it at the table where it is served it is the fault of his mess personnel. They are provided the best that can be obtained, and that is much better than commercial food-serving places or private homes can buy on the market. All it takes is skill and proper planning to get good meals from the food stuff so provided."

The Columbus Market Center provides the fruit and vegetables for the Post and some meats, while the Chicago Market Center provides the bulk of the meat that is bought for local consumption. Grocery staples are provided by different market centers, and this is all contracted for 90 days ahead of time, or more.

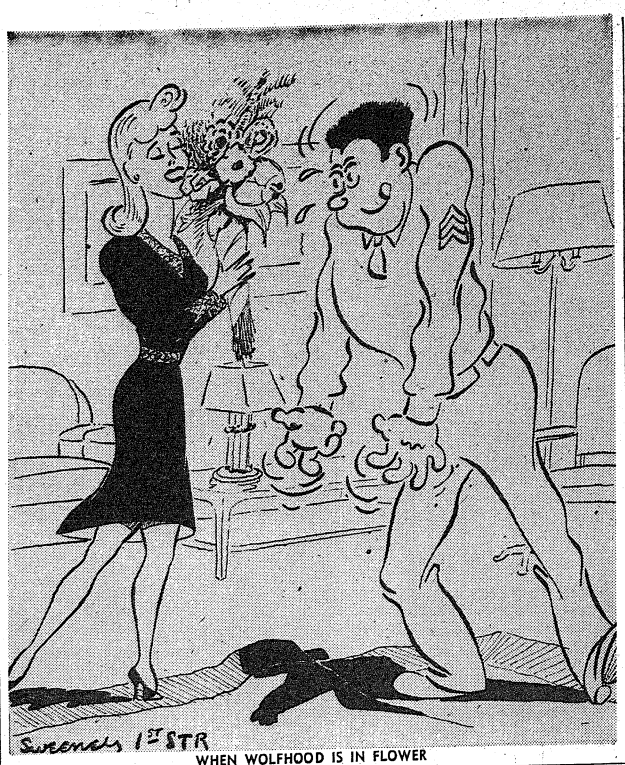
Of course, the meats, fruit and vegetables selected this far in advance are not always available at the times asked for and some substitutions have to be made, but the markets have so far held up their part in a very creditable manner, Colonel Veazy points out.

Field ration menus, which are now being served to all Army units on the Post, except the Station Hospital, are prepared 15-30 days in advance by the local board, using the master menu of the Quartermaster General's office as a guide. Then these are submitted to the Director of Food Service of the Fourth Service Command at Atlanta, where they are analyzed and recommendations made for necessary changes. The next January menu had been made up on October 15, nearly a month ago, by the local board.

MESS ASSISTANTS

Those assisting Colonel Veazy on the menu board are: Maj. Marvin W. Jared, Inf., TIS; Maj. Paul F. McCarthy, QMC, 7th Armored Div.; Capt. Marcus E. Cooper, Inf., Post QM Office; Capt. Robt. L. Dowell, Inf., 1st Pcht. Tng. Regt.; and Capt. Arthur L. Anderson, Sn. C., Station Hospital.

Whereas the menus selected by this committee get few changes at Atlanta, some of the menus turned in there from other posts are changed quite materially, according to word from Capt. Milton O. Lee, the Nutrition Officer there. It's a job of studying the number of calories ,the vitamin content and the general nutritional value of each day's menu, substituting where necessary and cutting down where the amount of specified items is more than adequate, the captain explains.



Some organizations, he says, will require more and some less food, according to the type of activity and training program. The amount of meat in some instances can be reduced and more grain products, bread and flour, legumes, nuts, and potatoes added, with plenty of fresh vegetables and fruits to incerase the needed vitamin content.

$75.00 SAVED MONTHLY

About five and one-half pounds was the per man issue of food per day until a new program cut that to just over five pounds, saving one-half pound per man, or a total of 2,500 pounds per camp of 50,000 men that had been going into garbage pails. This is a money saving of $250 a day, or $75,000 per month, counting the food at 10 cents per pound, the Nutrition Office shows. In Southwest camps, alone, this totals more than a million dollars.

A big saving was effected in the WAC mess, for their ration, started the same as men, proved to be an excess of about a full pound, so it was accordingly reduced.

"Both the WACs and soldiers are getting an adequate amount of food," Captain Lee says. "Nobody wants them to have less than they want, but to put before them more than they can eat is wanton wste, and that is what is being eliminated by the menu analysis method of the Army's food conservation program."

WHEN WOLFHOOD IS IN FLOWER

Hollywood Physical Ed Expert In TIS Course

Lieutenant Harry J. Petersen, streamliner of a dozen Hollywood figures, has been promoted to captain. From Camp Buttner, North Carolina, where he has been in charge of physical training for the 78th Division, he came here to attend The Infantry School's Officers Advanced Course which will prepare him for ven bigger things as ilne or staff officer. He's going to classes with the 4th Company, 1st S. T. R.

This is Captain Petersen's second sojourn at Fort Benning since he left the movie capital in the middle of 1941 to sign up with Uncle Sam. After an uninterrupted rise from rookie to master sergeant, highest enlisted grade, he attended Infantry Officer Candidate School and won his shavetail's bars in October, 1942. This February he exchanged them for the silver bars of a first lieutenant.

Way back in his 'teens, Petersen had set out to do something about his urge to become a physical instructor. During 1933 and 1934 he studied "Physical Ed" at Columbia University and began to train with the Lions' aquatic team. When he slipped on a wet pool floor, the fall sprained his leg badly enough to keep him out of the swimming for the time being.

But he could still wrestle. And wrestling was to start blond, genial, stocky Peterson on his oddyssey through Latin America that led finally to the golden gates of movieland. First, however, came the Wall Street interlude.

RING CAREER

A ring career was against the Petersen family's wishes, who wanted Harry to follow in his brother's footsteps as partner in a prominent New York investment house. He did get so far as to appear on the floor of the Stock Exchange as broker. For several months he struggled manfully but without enthusiasm to the daily grind of commissions, trades, and sixteenth-point differentials.

High finance held little interest for Petersen, who more and more frequented downtown gyms to develop his prowess in wrestling. He finally left New York and headed for the land of promise below the equator. Mat tussles in Rio, Buenos Aires, Montevideo and smaller South American cities during 1937 built up his fame as a professional. He fought matches in Mexico, Cuba, Canada, and Hawaii before Paramount called him to Hollywood as physical training director.

There, working closely with the studio's dieticians and physicians to keep screen favorites down to a becoming slimness, Petersen was in his element. During two years Madeleine Carroll, Fred McMurray, Sterling Hayden, Paulette Goddard, Bing Crosby and other astrals were under his care.

Each of Petersen's cases brought special problems, none of them so simple a matter as mere weight reduction. A neckline would have to be reduced, waist or hips slenderized. By a skillful combination of diet, massage, and exercise, Petersen took 28 pounds off one film favorite—and removed the flesh from the right places.

FIGURES ON LINE

When his charges traveled far and wide on location, Petersen went along to keep their figures in line. He flew north to Canada with Gary Cooper and Madeleine Carroll when they filmed "Northwest Mounted Police" and winged across the continent with Fred McMurray and Madeleine to shoot sequences of "Virginia" amid the Mother of Presidents' historic settings.

Conditions permitting, Petersen prescribed an hour's calisthenics a day for each star under his care. Periods for exercise had to be cut down when camera schedules took most of a player's time. During the filming of one picture, Petersen was able to keep McMurray in top shape with a few minutes' handball each day.

His years of experience in physical education are a distinct advantage, although Army training poses an entirely different problem. Once reserved to keep in trim those priceless assets of a major studio, Petersen's talents now worked "all out" for the benefit of every $50-a-month doughboy on his post.

Gone for the duration are the days of individual attention to a handful of luminaries. Every day now is to devise a program that will best build up each of 10,000 soldiers, and then carry it through," he observed.

And Captain Peterson has carried it through. He built obstacle courses at Camp Buttner and trained men of the 78th Division until they could skim over the hurdles like died-in-the-wool commandos. Under blazing sun or blinding rain he supervised mass calisthenics, competitive games and hand-to-hand wrestling that will make the 78th a tough pill for any Axis army to take.

2,600 IN 8 WEEKS

Major General Fulton Q. C. Gardner, commander of the 78th Division, called Petersen into his office one morning late last spring. "Make competent swimmers of 2,-600 men of the division," he ordered, "and make it in eight weeks."

With the chosen 2,600, Captain Petersen entrained for a bivouac area near Camp Pickett, Va. His decade-long experience as a swimmer came in handy. Assisted by a corps of skilled instructors, he taught his pupils simple strokes in the waters of a state park lake, and then, through constant practice, built up their speed and endurance. When eight weeks were up, each of the 2,600 soldiers could make a minimum of 50 yards with equipment. There'll be few drownings when his boys hit an enemy beach.

Notebook, maps and manuals under his arm, Captain Petersen is now attending lectures, watching demonstrations with live ammunition and bursting artillery shells, and working out practical problems in tactics and logistics at the Infantry School. Four months of these advanced studies are fitting him to command a unit as large as a battlion or take on staff responsibilities for still larger fighting teams.

Back in Quincy, California, his wife, who was Janel Cotter before they married in 1940, is doing her best to keep up the Petersen home —when she can get off duty from 10 or 15 minutes. But most of Mrs. Petersen's time is occupied patrolling the skies above California's coast as a C. A. P. pilot.

By Cpl. Rodney E. Adler, 1st STR.

The ibis always travels in large flocks, each one sometimes containing as many as 15,000 birds.

The British gallon is almost 20 per cent larger than the U. S. gallon.

More than 18,000,000 tons of cargo, twice that shipped in World War I, have been sent overseas in this war.

It is estimated that an acre of meadowland contains some 15,-000,000 insects.

Benning-Bred Carrier Pigeons Distinguish Selves in War Zones

Hundreds of carrier pigeons bred at Fort Benning now are seeing service on far-flung battle fronts wherever American troops are fighting.

The breeding lofts at Fort Benning are one of three main breeding grounds under a plan whereby patriotic American pigeon fanciers and trainers have turned over thousands of their finest birds to the army for purposes of providing sufficient young birds to be trained in the ways of warfare.

There now are nearly 1,500 birds in the lofts. They are used for breeding purposes and the young birds are given a "basic training" course here before being sent to join a combat unit for further intensive training. At least one bird known to have been bred at the post has gained fame and honors for his work in carrying messages in battle. He is "Yank," who was cited for carrying an important message 90 miles in an hour and 55 minutes in rain weather in Africa.

LARGE STAFF

The pigeon loft at Fort Benning started a little more than a year ago with one man in charge of 26 birds. Today Lt. Arthur M. Lehman, formely of Columbiana, Ohio who had made a hobby of raising life, is in charge of the enlarged and training pigeons in civilian loft and the enlarged training program, assisted by 16 enlisted men. One of the men is Sgt. Lester Bolander, Baltimore, whose grandfather brought over a strain of famous racing birds from Europe, and whose father crossed strains and built up new ones until today the family is one of the best known in the pigeon breeding world.

In spite of radio, telephone, and other new and modern means of swift communication, the pigeon is assuming increasing importance in modern warfare, being just as useful—if not more so—than in the days of Alexander the Great.

They have been credited with saving the lives of many English pilots shot down in the Channel, and were used to carry back messages from the Dieppe raid. Today they are in use on American bombers and in blimps watching out for submarines, and in coast guard vessels and with land units everywhere.

PARAPIGEONS

A new and important use is with the paratroops, and here at Benning two members of every class going through the Parachute School are being intensively trained in care and handling of the birds. Special equipment has been devised to land birds from planes, and other equipment has been perfected to release the birds from speeding planes by means of a "parachute bomb" effect which assures their going clear of the plane before being released to fly back with messages.

The birds begin training almost immediately upon weaning, being taught to recognize signals such as whistle, rattling of a tin can or chow time, and so on. They are taught immediately to come through the "trap" into the loft. After the "induction period," they go to combat unitis where they are given training in flying and finding their way back to mobile units.

The birds are highly complex, and raising them is just as intricate a process as breeding racehorses. They are loyal family creatures. The family instinct is utilized, together with the knowledge that the home loft is where the feed bag is put out regularly, in training the birds to return home from long distances. The female generally lays two eggs, which hatch after 17 days, usually resulting in a cock and a hen. The young pigeon requires as much care in comparison as a new human baby. The bird must be fed by regurgitation by the mother, and cannot eat grain or be fed live food, like the young of most other birds. After 28 days they are weaned and taught how to pick up grain.

600 MILES A DAY

In actual tests the birds have flown 1,500 miles, and can easily cover 600 miles in a day. In actual practice, however, the Army tries not to use them for distances of more than 200 or 300 miles—because a bird forced down through exhaustion or to seek water may never deliver its message. And getting that message there is the important thing.

The birds are banded on both legs so that frequently in cases of bringing in messages from, say, a ship at sea, the message may be lost on shot away and the very fact that the bird returns denotes that the ship is probably in trouble. And witih the general position of the patrol vessel known, rescuers can find it.

A new type of message carrier, of plastic, even lighter than the old aluminum type has been devised so that larger messages now are used. Use of the birds is of special value in sending back sketches and maps, impossible to do so by radio. And they are widely used when radio silence must be maintained.

Army Pay-Table

Army personnel pay schedules, about which some confusion has been engendered by changes during the past 18 months, are presented here. The information is from "Army Pay Tables" as revised to June 16, 1942, and from officers of the Post Finance Office, corrected to November 1, 1943. This is base pay:

Private	$ 50
Private, first class	54
Corporal and T-5	66
Sergeant and T-4	78
Staff Sergeant and T-3	96
Technical Sergeant	114
First Sergeant	138
Master Sergeant	138

The four bottom EM grades draw family allowances for wives and children, while the top four do not. However, the top four do draw housing and rations if they live off the Post.

Nurses, according to rank, up from	$1800
WAC, according to rank, up from	1800
Warrent Officer, junior grade	1800
Chief Warrent Officer (called senior)	2100
Other W. O., but not on Post, $1950 to	3000
Second Lieutenant	1800
First Lieutenant	2000
Captain	2400
Major	3000
Lieutenant Colonel	3500
Colonel	4000
Brigadier General	6000
Major General	8000
Lieutenant General	8000
Generai	8000
General of the Armies of the U. S.	13,500

Transportation Office Keeps Things on Move

Handling all shipments to and from Fort Benning, the post transportation office is a tremendously important but little publicized enterprise. The transportation office handles all shipments to the post from a can of milk to moving troops, according to Captain Charles W. McKeown, transportation officer.

Other functions of the office of the transportation office include the operation, maintenance and control of the intra-post bus system, the celebrated Chattahoochee River ferry to the Alabama area and the famous narrow gauge railroad line, which is described elsewhere in this issue.

Four railheads are operated in the Fort Benning area. There is one on the Main Post known as Fort Benning Junction, one at Fort Mitchell in Alabama, one in Sand Hill and one at Ochillee in the Harmony Church area. From these railheads the transportation office moves all government freight, government express and troops.

All rail freight to the post is received, unloaded and delivered by the post transportation office except that consigned to the Officers' Club and the Post Exchange. The office is completely independent under Transportation Corps management and keeps its own property and purchases its own supplies and stocks.

FOUR SECTIONS

The office of the transportation office is broken down roughly into four sections. One section handles nothing but passenger traffic. Lieutenant Harold Hyde is chief of the passenger section and arranges and provides transportation for troops ranging from one or two soldiers up to large movements such as a battalion or a division.

The freight section, under the direction of Captain Wilton G. Gaefe, loads and unloads or ships and receives all goods and supplies consigned to or being sent from units and installations at Fort Benning.

The administrative section which Captain McKeown himself heads, co-ordinates the work of the other departments and also handles the movement of household goods and furniture to and from the post.

Captain McKeown or one of his staff of officers personally supervises every shipment from this reservation and are present as it leaves. When large shipments of freight or troops are scheduled to arrive, they meet them.

With the huge tasks of packing, crating and marking of shipments from Fort Benning completed, the transportation office is also responsible for the loading of cars. Flat cars, which are employed to move Army vehicles, are not only loaded but also blocked to prevent slippage or movement of the machines.

TROOP MOVEMENTS

The biggest and most important job of the office, according to the transportation officer, is the movement of troops for overseas destinations. All barrack bags, luggage and equipment must be clearly marked.

In connection with troop movements, baggage cars must be converted for kitchen use and equipment installed. That task is attended to by the post transportation office.

All travel of men and troops to and from the post is guided by the office except in the case of air travel. Then, if so directed by the War Department, Captain McKeown can write a priority on a transport plane and arrange the necessary details for the trip.

More than 130 civilians are employed by the Transportation Corps at Fort Benning. They fill many jobs. Some are clerks in the office, others are railroaders, mechanics and stevedores and laborers. More than 45 enlisted men of the Transportation Corps work under the direction of Captain McKeown. They work on the dinky railroad—the "Chattahoochee Choc-Choo," the ferry to Alabama, the intra-post bus system and in many other activities of the corps.

ALABAMA FERRY

The ferry to Alabama, which is the only connection between the Georgia section of the reservation and that state without journing into Columbus to cross the Chattahoochee River, has recently been improved. A motor winch has been installed to facilitate its movement across the river. Formerly it depended entirely upon the river current to cross.

Quartermasters Kept Plenty Busy Feeding and Clothing Entire Post

Col. Jack L. Meyer Is Odd-Job Man Of Benning As Director Of Supply

One of the greatest responsibilities in the daily operation of Fort Benning is that borne by the quartermaster branch of the cast supply and service division which must feed the post's thousands of troops three times daily.

Not only does it perform that job in a manner which makes Johnny Doughboy the "best fed soldier in the world," but in addition the Q. M. C. provides practically all of the clothing and equipment needed by every G. I. at the post.

These two tasks alone would be sufficient to burden any branch, but along with these all-important jobs, the busy quartermasters also find time to operate laundries, maintain the cemetery, run the fuel stations and ice house, do the bulk of the purchasing and contracting for the entire post, run reclamation and repair shops, and operate a salvage business.

MEYER AT HELM

At the helm of this vast network of daily activity is Colonel Jack L. Meyer, a veteran quartermaster officer, who administers many jobs in his duel capacity as director of supply and post quartermaster.

As supply chief, he is also directly responsible for the proper functioning of the transportation, ordnance, motor transport, communication, chemical warfare and engineer property branches of the huge Supply and Service Division.

In the few weeks since he arrived at the post to succeed Col. Stephen B. Massey as head of this vast organization, Cpl. Meyer has shown an aggressive leadership in the clock-like precision operation of the Quartermaster Corps.

ODD-JOB MAN

As post quartermaster, Col. Meyer is truly the odd-job man of Fort Benning. At one and the same time, he is marketer and groceryman, laundryman, haberdasher, milkman, filling station operator, junk disposal man, iceman and shoe repairman.

Headquarters of the Q.M.C. at the post are in the quartermaster office which is ever a bee-hive of activity. From this office, the quartermaster activities fan out all over the reservation with buildings located in many sections.

Scores of huge warehouses are strung out over a length of almost a mile along the railroad spurs. The two modern laundries are located in different areas, the repair shops are in yet another sector, yet everything clears through the central office and the daily functions are performed with amazing efficiency.

FOOD BIG ITEM

Food, of course, is the principal item of supply. All food, not only for daily ration issues, but also for the sales commissary is procured and distributed by the subsistence branch of the Q.M.C. Carloads of foodstuff arrive daily to feed Benning's hungry thousands. While large stocks are carried in the warehouses, all perishables arrive only the day before and are stored temporarily in the huge refrigeration plants until unit trucks arrive in the morning for the ration breakdown.

Although the food is foremost in interest, clothing and equipage come in for equal attention from the Quartermaster Corps. Almost every conceivable item of Army issue is stocked by the Benning quartermasters. The variety runs from tentatige to insignia, and the hourly flow of supplies in and out of the property warehouses is gigantic in proportions.

SUPPLIES FUEL

The Q.M. also provides coal and wood in vast quantities for both heating and cooking purposes. Oil houses and filling stations are located at strategic points on the reservation for the daily distribution of the thousands of gallons of gas and oil needed to operate the Army's mechanized equipment. As a sideline, a forage shed is also maintained to care for the animals in the Infantry School stables.

Also supplied by the Quartermaster Corps is stationery, printed forms typewriters, office machines, office supplies and a thousand - and - one other items needed in the daily operation of the post. Stock reply around Benning is "if you can't get it anywhere, try the Quartermaster Corps."

The quartermaster laundries take care of all soldier washing and also do bulk work for the hospitals. They are modern, up-to-date cleaning plants which turn out a tremendous volume of work every week.

SALVAGE EFFORT

As leader of the post's continuous conservation and salvage campaign, the Q.M.C. has done a remarkable job. Practically nothing is ever wasted nowadays. If an item cannot be repaired for reuse in one of the reclamation shops, it is sold for salvage, with Uncle Sam getting a return of some kind on it. The large shoe repair unit does nothing but resole G.I. brogans.

"Keep 'Em Supplied" is but one of many slogans adopted by the Quartermaster Corps, but at Benning it is more than just a slogan. It is a creed to do which hundreds of officers, enlisted personnel and civilian employees solemnly adhere as they work together in a smooth-operating, wartime organization.

Tons Of Metal Salvaged Annually At Ft. Benning

Thursday of each week is Salvage Day at Fort Benning, it having been so designated on Oct. 1, 1943, for the duration of the war, by Gen. Walter Scott Fulton, commander of the Post at that time, and concurred in by Col. William H. Hobson, the new Commanding Officer.

Approximately 10,500,000 pounds of metal, including 1,265,-000 pounds of tin cans, have been shipped out of salvage since April of last year, according to a report made by Capt. Herman E. Klein, salvage officer, operating under the supervision of the Director of Service and Supply, Col. Jack L. Meyer. This is only one kind of salvage, although this poundage has a value in excess of $90,000 when used for remelting and detinning purposes.

"Before going into the matter of salvage," the Captain states, "it is well that we get the Army's definition of this word which is so important in the war effort. The word is used commonly as synonymous with junk or scrap, but the military meaning is more embracing, and has two parts, "reclamation" which is the process of recovering and reclaiming property and component parts thereof for re-use by organizations, and "scrapping", which is the process of separating, preparing and segregating salvaged articles for the purpose of sale as scrap or waste material."

EQUIPMENT SAVED

Under this plan on the reclamation side, the 700,000 pounds of equipment and metals returned to organizations for re-use, and the 500,000 pounds of unserviceable clothing that organizations have used as rags for cleaning purposes, is considered a creditable showing in this field.

The food salvage experiment on the scrapping side, started in July a year ago, and has resulted in the sale of 825,750 pounds of cooked and trap grease and 2,-130,000 pounds of raw bones and meat trimmings, and an enormous

The greases are processed into glycerine for explosives and soap, the raw meat bones and scrap into fertilizer and chicken feed, and the edible food waste of meal leftovers goes direct to hogs on a nearby farm.

Rubber tires and tubes, no longer serviceable to the Army, are disposed of through governmental agencies to rubber companies. They use some of them as reclaimed tires and melt the rest up to make rubber products. All Army miscellaneous rubber scrap is sold into civilian channels.

CIVILIANS HELPED

Vegetable hampers, egg crates, bags, bottles, paper of all kinds, and a lot of other articles that the Army cannot use further find their way back into civilian channels. Farmers and produce markets re-use the hampers and crates and are glad to get them, for new materials to make them are scarce.

The construction of a railroad spur track into the salvage yards this year by the engineers has already paid for itself materially and otherwise, the report states. It is a great factor in expeditiously handling the huge amount of heavy metal that goes through salvage at the Post.

Whereas salvage work is an old Army custom, its great expansion since Pearl Harbor has placed it in one of the first positions on the home front and the battle front, the report points out. The Army wants to save everything that can be of use, because that will give material to win the war and also get revenue to help foot the bills.

"It must be stressed that the little each person saves, multiplied by millions," the captain's report concludes, "will constitute one of the important factors in the winning of this World War II. This applies to civilians as well as those in the military service; to military organizations as a whole, and to each and everyone of us."

Blood Given RC Becomes Army, Navy Property

Field Director Says Unit Has No Control Over Plasma Distribution

Frequent requests made to the American Red Cross to supply whole blood or blood plazma to individuals, hospitals or Army and Navy medical units in the country are based largely upon misunderstandings of the ufnctions of the Red Cross Blood Donor Service, declares Ralp J. Mitchell, director of the Fort Benning branch of the American Red Cross.

All blood procured by the Red Cross Donor Service is delivered immediately to processing laboratories, where it becomes the property of the Army and Navy, Mitchell said. The Red Cross thus has no jurisdiction over the distribution of the blood, or the blood substitutes after processing, after it is delivered to the laboratory, and therefore cannot furnish them to anyone.

Likewise, Mitchell stated, no facilities are provided for procuring whole blood from volunteer or paid donors for transfusion to be used, either by the public or by the Army and Navy medical personnel, as the Red Cross Blood Donor Service is not a blood bank service.

However, he pointed out, the Red Cross Blood Donor Service is the only agency through which the people of this country may give their blood to the armed services for the production of dried plasma or serum albumin.

Most of the blood procured by the Red Cross is processed after it reaches the laboratories into dried plasma or serum albumin for the armed forces in foreign service or on naval vessels. Some of the blood however is processed into liquid plasma for use in military hospitals in this country. Over distribution of this, the Red Cross has no jurisdiction.

This is a message from a soldier to YOU THE PEOPLE. To you who form a vast majority who have not as yet keenly grasped the seriousness of this war do I humbly dedicate this poem.

YOU THE PEOPLE
Cpl. Lester Greenfield

Our boys are over there fighting for a new life,
To end forever the causes that instigate strife.
It's up to each of you at home to help do your share,
So freedom will once again ring
out everywhere.

You can't do it quibbling about this and that,
Or keep on thinking of making your pocketbook fat.
War is a serious thing, you can see as time passes by.
So it's either get serious or watch Democracy die.

No nation has so dedicated itself to the aims of justice and peace,
The reasons we now find ourselves so engaged in effecting its release.
That once more men may walk
freely through life,
And forever forget there is such a thing as strife.

You the people are complete masters of your fate,
Don't wait until it becomes too late.
Our boys are over there we hope not in vain,
It's up to all of you to help carry the burden of pain.

An appeal through the nation
rings out everywhere,
So simple an expedient does not exist over there.
Work hard and help, and by the satisfaction in so doing that you attain.
You do so much to relieve all the suffering and pain.

You will see drives and appeals
by the score,
Perhaps to you they may become a bore.
Remember when you hesiate, that many have given their lives,
And with your help Democracy
both endures and survives.

You the people must of necessity share the fight,
To help maintain our arms and show our might.
With God's help we shall win this
war,
So tyranny never shall reign anymore.

You the people take heed of our plight,
And follow faithfully the guiding light.
Make not of these so many words that may seem terse,
Or think them to many phrases which happen to make verse.

Share in the glory which freedom will give,
And build a tradition which will forever live.
It is to you the people we fighting men look for our faith,
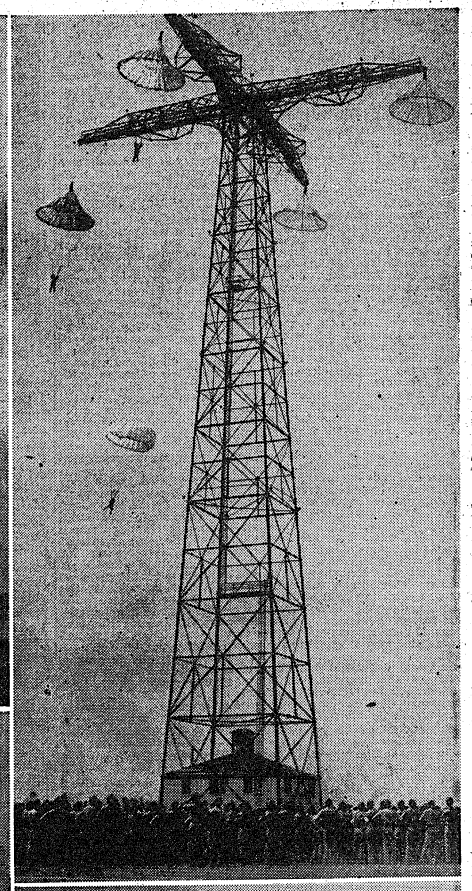
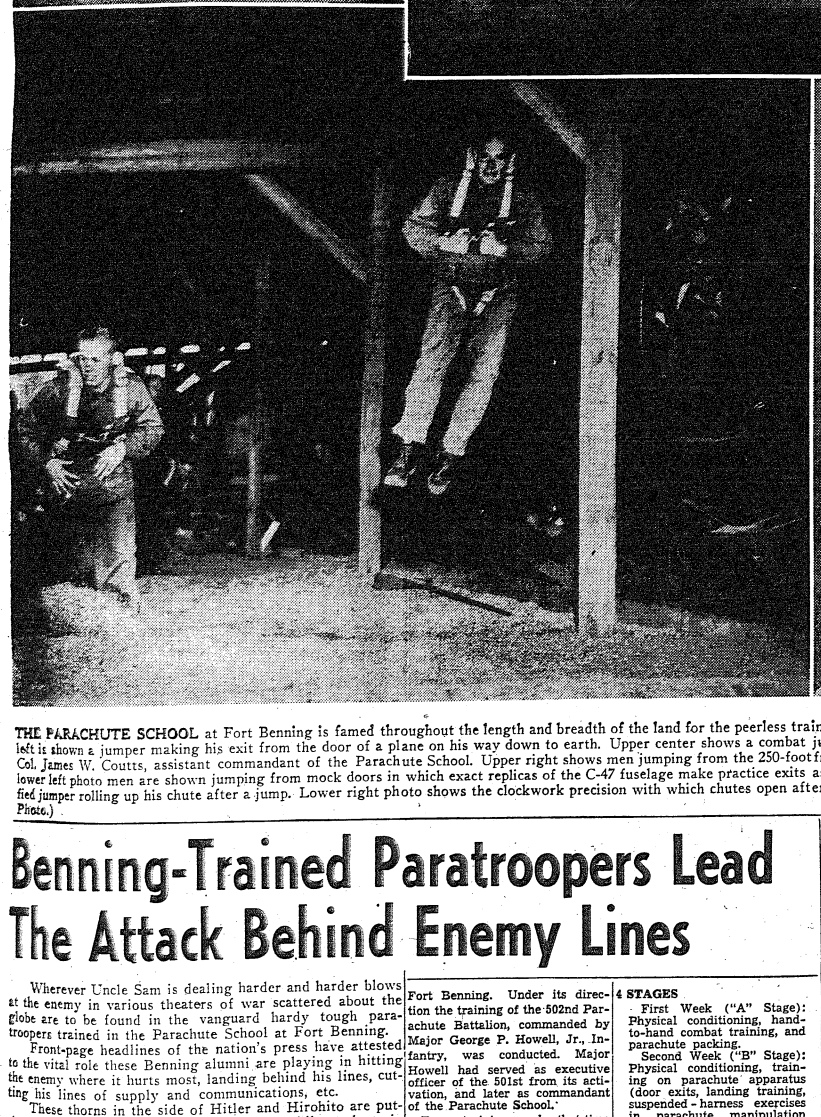
Don't let us down ere we mis-
judge—YOU THE PEOPLE.

About eight tons of quinine bark can be harvested from one acre of cinchona trees.

As many as three female turkeys may use the same nest during the incubating period.



When frightened, the mother woodcock often flies off with a chick between her legs.



The marbled godwit, 21 inches long, is one of the largest shore birds.

Parachute Training at Fort Benning Is Prelude to Combat

THE PARACHUTE SCHOOL at Fort Benning is famed throughout the length and breadth of the land for the peerless training it is giving American paratroopers. The action shots above show some of the phases of training given. In the upper left is shown a jumper making his exit from the door of a plane on his way down to earth. Upper center shows a combat jump (simulated) with land mines exploding and overhead gun fire. This jump is part of the demolition course. Inset Lt. Col. James W. Coutts, assistant commandant of the Parachute School. Upper right shows men jumping from the 250-foot free towers in "C" stage, designed to acclimate the men to the identical operation and technique of the plane jump. In the lower left photo men are shown jumping from mock doors in which exact replicas of the C-47 fuselage make practice exits as close to the real thing as possible. Next is seen Colonel Ridgely Gaither, commandant of the Parachute School, a qualified jumper rolling up his chute after a jump. Lower right photo shows the clockwork precision with which chutes open after the men bail out. All phases of the parachute opening are shown in excellent detail in this pix. (U. S. Army Air Force Photo.)

Benning-Trained Paratroopers Lead The Attack Behind Enemy Lines

Wherever Uncle Sam is dealing harder and harder blows at the enemy in various theaters of war scattered about the globe are to be found in the vanguard hardy tough paratroopers trained in the Parachute School at Fort Benning.

Front-page headlines of the nation's press have attested to the vital role these Benning alumni are playing in hitting the enemy where it hurts most, landing behind his lines, cutting his lines of supply and communications, etc.

These thorns in the side of Hitler and Hirohito are putting into practice the lessons they learned while students in the Parachute School, and when their deeds in the School of Battle Experience are finally recorded that history will not be complete without a chapter incorporating the history and development of the Parachute School at Fort Benning itself.

The training of troop parachutists has been underway continuously in the United States Army since July 1940. Hence the Parachute School, Airborne Command, existed in principle long before its formal activation at Fort Benning on May 15, 1942.

The first volunteer accepted for parachute training was the then First Lieutenant William T. Ryder, 29th Infantry, Fort Benning. At Fort Benning's Lawson Field in the summer of 1940, he was put through the then-tentative qualification course of six plane jumps by Warrant Officer Harry ("Tug") Wilson, director of the Parachute School at Chanute Field, Illinois. Lieutenant Ryder in turn trained the original test platoon, which was activated in July 1940 at Fort Benning, consisting of Lieutenant Ryder as platoon commander, First Lieutenant James Bassett as second-in-command, and 48 enlisted men—all volunteers from the 29th Infantry. After qualification training, which included a trip to Hightstown, N. J., for work on the parachute towers of the United States Navy there, this platoon served as the cadre of the pioneer 501st Parachute Battalion, which was organized at Fort Benning in November 1940, under the command of Major William M. Miley (now a major general in command of an airborne division).

Colonel Ryder supervised the parachute training of the 501st. At that time many of the training devices now in use had not been developed; the towers which are now in operation at the Parachute School were under construction, but not yet completed, so the members of the 501st had no tower training. The program consisted of physical conditioning, orientation flights, rudimentary apparatus training, parachute packing, and six qualification jumps from transport planes of the old C-33 type. Qualification of the original personnel of the 501st was completed in March 1941.

In May 1941 the Provisional Parachute Group was activated at Fort Benning. Under its direction the training of the 502nd Parachute Battalion, commanded by Major George P. Howell, Jr., Infantry, was conducted. Major Howell had served as executive officer of the 501st from its activation, and later as commandant of the Parachute School.

Tower training was by that time available, so the number of plane jumps required for qualification was reduced to five, with the novice jump of the original six being replaced by several tower jumps. At that time all parachute-qualification training was delegated by the Provisional Parachute Group to a newly-established school at Fort Benning with Captain John B. Shinberger as director, and three other officers and 15 enlisted men as his staff of instructors.

SECTION FOUNDED

With expansion of the Parachute arm in immediate prospect, qualification training was made a responsibility of the Infantry School at Fort Benning, on July 10, 1941. The Infantry School established a Parachute Section, with Captain Ryder as chief, and eight other officers and 47 enlisted men assigned.

Initially the parachutist's qualification training period consisted of six weeks. It was soon reduced, however, in view of the increasing demand for qualified parachutists, to a four-weeks period, which is now considered the minimum practicable time for proper training. Each week is designated as a "stage," and the time of the course is occupied substantially as follows:

4 STAGES

First Week ("A" Stage): Physical conditioning, hand-to-hand combat training, and parachute packing.

Second Week ("B" Stage): Physical conditioning, training on parachute apparatus (door exits, landing training, suspended-harness exercises in parachute manipulation and control, etc.) and parachute packing.

Third Week ("C" Stage): Physical conditioning, tower training (controlled and free descents, controlling and collapsing the parachute after landing, opening-shock simulations, etc.), and parachute packing.

Fourth Week ("D" Stage): Qualification jumping, normally consisting of one plane jump per day for five days, with repacking of the parachute for use on the following day. The sixth day of the final week is devoted to graduation exercises and assignment to units or specialist courses.

The Parachute Section of the Infantry School became a separate unit—The Parachute School, Airborne Command—on May 15, 1942. Colonel Howell (promoted to lieutenant colonel in December, 1941, and to colonel in February, 1942, upon the expansion of the 502nd Parachute Battalion into the 502nd Parachute Infantry Regiment) was appointed commandant. By that time the training had been expanded, subdivided, and specialized so that the qualification course could be followed by training in parachute rigging, parachute demolitions, and parachute communications. The attendant increases in academic and administrative personnel made the school's authorized totals upon activation 82 officers and 140 enlisted men. The school also had attached for its use in qualification jumping a troop-carrier squadron from the Army Air Forces' Troop-Carrier Command.

Establishment of the various specialist courses at the Parachute School followed this schedule:

Communications: First class started March 9, 1942, with Captain Julian Ewell, Infantry, in charge, Second Lieutenant John Almeida, Infantry, assistant.

Demolitions: First class started May 2, 1942, with 29 students. First Lieutenant Ray O. Phillips, Infantry, in charge.

Riggers: First class started July 20, 1942, with First Lieutenant Emry V. Stewart, Infantry, in charge.

Camouflage: First class started March 15, 1943, with 12 students, Second Lieutenant W. H. Crook, Corps of Engineers, in charge, Second Lieutenant W. A. Nielson, Infantry, assistant.

Colonel Howell divided the Parachute School into two major units—the 1st Parachute Training Regiment and the Academic Section. In Special Orders No. 1, he named Major Ryder as assistant commandant and chief of the Academic Section (responsible for the training of students), and Lieutenant Colonel Harvey T. Morgan, Infantry, as commanding officer of the 1st P.T.R. (responsible for the housing, messing, and non-academic administration of the students).

In August, 1942, Colonel Howell was promoted to brigadier general and the 1st Parachute Brigade was organized, with Howell as commanding general in addition to his duties as commandant of the Parachute School.

When Major Ryder was ordered to duty with the Airborne Command as parachute officer, he was succeeded as assistant commandant of the Parachute School by Colonel Garland H. Williams, Infantry, effective September 21, 1942.

Up to November 23, 1942, students entered the Parachute School as individuals, received their qualification training, and were then assigned individually to the various parachute units of the Army, both as replacements and as activation personnel. On that date the 506th Parachute Infantry enrolled at the school as a unit the first such case in the history of the school. The 506th had been formed some four months before, around a cadre of qualified parachutists, from selected volunteers direct from civilian life. They received their basic military training as a group, and then entered the Parachute School for qualification training immediately upon completion of this recruit instruction.

Since the personnel assigned to the 506th upon its activation had received special physical conditioning throughout its recruit training, aimed toward eventual parachute qualification training, it was deemed practicable to eliminate the first week of the usual qualification course. The regiment began its training in "B" Stage. Subsequently, other units have been enrolled as a group for parachute qualification under the same circumstances, and accordingly the school now offers two jump-training courses:

The "A" Course, of four weeks, for individuals with no preliminary pre-jump training.

The "B" Course, of three weeks, for units organized and trained before enrollment with a view to eventual jump training. The "B" Course is virtually the same as the "A" Course without the initial week of general physical conditioning.

FURTHER EXPANSION

Further expansion of the Parachute School led to the appoint-

(Continued on Page 30)

Parachute Training Is For Mentally-Alert Only

Parachute Prelude to Combat.

There is but one reason for the existence of The Parachute School of The Airborne Command here at Fort Benning; To equip soldiers with the fundamentals of parachute jumping which they will use in combat against the enemy. Everything that is done in the School has that Combat Jump as its goal.

As Colonel Gaither, Commandant of the School said "the actual parachute jump is just about one per cent of the work of the Trooper. The other ninety-nine is highly-trained and alert doughboy." The jump itself is simply a means of debarking from a vehicle of transportation. It is the most modern adaption of the oldest and most dependable fighting unit in warfare—the determined foot-soldier. So it is emphasized to the aspiring Parachutist that his job is only beginning when he hits the ground in alien territory. His duty is to get there safely and with plenty of enemy hurting equipment—which means no broken bones and plenty of guts and spirit. In the Parachute School each man is taught exactly that: How to jump from the moving airplane and land primed and in A-1 physical shape to do his work on the ground. An ambulance full of wounded men presents very little worry to an opponent. To be effective a jumper must have learned and learned well the basic technique of the jump.

KEEP AWAKE

The most important single factor in the parachute jump is mental alertness. This disproves the "strong back and weak-mind" theory. Charles Atlas himself would not make a successful jumper without being on the ball mentally. The parachute trainee is made conscious of this need every second of his time in the Parachute School. It is brought vividly home to him in dozens of different ways. He has nothing to worry about so long as he keeps thinking in everything he does. This mental alertness coupled with determination and normal physical equipment produces the unbeatable Parachuting Infantryman.

Volunteers are the only men in the Parachute Troops. This is the only completely volunteer outfit in the United States Army. Why does a man volunteer? Well, back in the frontier days they called such desire for accomplishment the pioneer spirit. And that's what it is today. The men who volunteer their services for parachute duty do so to be a part of the most modern form of military work. They do so because they like a challenge to themselves and they like to win. The spirit of the Paratroopers is well-reflected in the song "The New Infantry March":

It used to be the Infantry did nothing but march all day
Dusty guys with mud in their eyes
Went slugging along the way,
But times have changed and now we range
The sky and a sea of blue
We fly a bit and then we hit the silk of a parachute.
Oh . . . . .

CHORUS

Airborne we fly the sky
Paratroopers do or die
Speed troops like the wind we go
We're sons o'guns! We're sons o'guns!
We won't take no for an answer,
Can't stop those paratroopers
Jumping down into the fray.
Oh it's not the way it used to be,
A bigger and better infantry
comes in by air today!

Parachute Medicos Keep Jumpers In 'The Pink'

PVT. MARTIN COURTNEY
The Parachute School

In every walk of life there is a need for adequate and sensible medical care. This is especially true of the rigorous training of a combat soldier. Moreover, in tny type of athletic endeavor there is a necessity for thorough attention to any injuries which may be sustained.

The Parachute School, basis for one of the newest and possibly the most strenuous of our fighting forces, has taken care of both of these factors for the maintainence of good health.

Paratroopers combine the best points of regular soldiering with new methods and equipment not to be found in any other branch of service. So it is with the Parachute School Dispensary.

Directed, and very capably so, by Major Charles Lord, this dispensary holds a unique position. Incorporating all the best features of previous examples, it has many facilities which are available to no other dispensary. The most modern and complete dispensary in Army circles, it is the finest, in fact the only one of its kind in all America. No medical center beyond the walls of a hospital can boast of such an array of equipment, technicians, and medical skill for use in the rehabilitation of the injured soldier. As evidence of this there are four physicians on permanent assignment. Captains Richard Karr, Paul Sparks, Robert Axtell, and 1st Lt. Harold Megibow. Six more are on attached duty. They are Captains Samuel Lerro, Joseph Wharton, Morton Ritter, Alfred Slotta, and Lts. L. C. Odorozzi and John Stenner. They include two dentists who check the teeth of every man undergoing examination. This insures permanent identification. Moreover, there are forty-two enlisted men to complete the staff.

An actual visit would prove the merits of this institution; however, since this is not feasible for everyone, a word tour or description may clarify the picture.

THE FRONT-OFFICE

The building itself is rectangular in form and may be encircled completely from within. On the right side just beyond the entrance, the front-office is located. In this is the record section and a staff of clerks who handle these records.

All details essential for an accurate check of the men who report here, their complaints and treatment are written up and filed for permanent reference.

A momentary check on any Joe Soldier in all that is needed to reveal his case history. Here too is the waiting room with benches for those sick call. Sick call begins at 9:00 a. m. Each Co. has its individual book with the names of its ailing members. These books are arranged in alphabetical order.

Progressing down the corridor, four rooms will be found, each having two doctors and an additional clerk. Four companies at a time enter these rooms in systematic order. The men are examined by the Medical Officers in charge and each case is carefully diagnosed. Medication or treatment may be prescribed and the individual is sent to the various other sections to receive this attention, should Hospital care be deemed necessary, one of the ambulances on duty is summoned at once. Of course, if any emergency arises that man will be given preference. His treatment will be immediate and separate from other cases. This procedure is followed daily until every one has been interviewed and examined. It is inclusive seven mornings of every week. Afternoons are given over to physical examinations of those who wish to qualify for Paratrooper Training.

As Our tour of investigation leads us to the laboratory and pharmacy rooms. In the lab, microscopic work is done. Blood counts are taken and Hemoglobin tests are run. These serve to indicate a normal, healthy system and guard against any weakness or disease which might become prevalent. It may be noted at this point that the technicians in charge and those in the pharmacy are competent, having had considerable experience in this capacity, prior to service here.

It is the duty of the pharmacists to compound and dispense the medicines prescribed by the Medical Officers. This work must be done with precision and accuracy and this department is equal by comparison to that of any average Army Hospital.

SURGICAL ROOM

Next in line is the surgical or treatment room. A multitude of activities is performed. Minor operations, hot soaks, and routine dressings are part of the work. Vaccines, toxins, and anti-toxins are administered. Field cases as well as those sent by the doctors are handled. There is, in addition, excellent equipment for examination and treatment of the eye, ear, nose, and throat. This sector is truly a vital cog in the smoothly running machinery of the Infirmary.

At the rear entrance is the drive in use for the ambulances and their patients.

