DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION—Citation of units----- Section
MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION—Awards----- I

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 220-315 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

1. The Colombian Battalion is cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Sonbyok, Korea, during the period 12 October to 22 October 1951. On 12 October, assaulting elements of the battalion, supported by friendly artillery, moved forward in an attack against known enemy strong points. The foe, disregarding the staggering losses which such an action would inflict upon them, sent large bodies of troops through the artillery fire to meet the friendly battalion and engage it in a bitter firefight. As wave after wave of the enemy continued to charge forward, it became evident that the numerically superior foe might completely smother the small friendly force. Consequently, the battalion disengaged and established a defense line which successfully smashed repeated suicidal hostile attacks. The following day, friendly patrols encountered a large hostile force and the battalion immediately launched a determined assault. So fierce was the friendly attack that the numerically superior hostile force was driven back until the battalion had secured several objectives of vital tactical importance. Forming a new defense line, the friendly troops beat off continuous counterattacks despite repeated enemy mortar barrages of merciless intensity. With an adamant line of resistance established, the battalion engaged in a bitter struggle to take several thousand yards of some of the most fiercely contested territory to be sought in the Korean conflict. For several days and nights the battle flared in sporadic bursts, with first the determined friendly battalion and then the numerically superior foe pressing the attack. At last the enemy, apparently disheartened by the unwavering singleness of purpose with which the small band of friendly infantrymen pursued their objective, began to waver. As the battalion moved forward with relentless determination, the hostile troops retreated in disorder and the area was secured. The Colombian Battalion displayed such matchless courage and outstanding aggressiveness in accomplishing its hazardous mission as to set it apart from and above other units participating in similar actions. The extraordinary heroism, remarkable combat effectiveness, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves and are in keeping with the most esteemed traditions of the military profession. (General Orders 618, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 October 1952.)

2. The Kagnew Battalion, Imperial Ethiopian Expeditionary Force to Korea, is cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Sam-hyon, Korea, during the period 16 September to 22 September 1951. Throughout the day and night of 16 September, the battalion, occupying defensive positions in close proximity to a large hostile force, dispatched a series of probing patrols in an effort to gather information as to the disposition of the enemy. Several contacts were made and, in each instance, the enemy engaged were either killed or wounded. Finally an enemy force was observed preparing positions on the slope of a commanding terrain feature, and the battalion immediately sent two reinforced squads to assault the hill. Fighting with great determination, the friendly troops battled their way up the slope and drove the enemy from their positions with heavy casualties. With the objective secured, observers, utilizing their new vantage point, discovered feverish enemy activity on adjacent slopes and called for an air strike and artillery and mortar fire. After the initial bombardment, assaulting elements of the battalion hit the positions in a whirlwind attack, engaged the foe in hand-to-hand combat, and inflicted exceptionally heavy casualties upon the enemy. Maneuvering with singular skill, the members of the battalion hit the hostile line at its weakest segment, hammered repeatedly until a breach was effected, and poured into the enemy entrenchments. As the foe fell back, confused and demoralized by the swiftness of the assault, the friendly troops secured the strategic area. The Kagneu Battalion, Imperial Ethiopian Expeditionary Force to Korea, displayed such superlative effectiveness in accomplishing its mission as to set it apart from and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism, determination of purpose, and magnificent fighting spirit of the members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves and are in keeping with the most esteemed traditions of the military profession. (General Orders 619, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 October 1952.)

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army and the Republic of Korea Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 1st Company, 101st Engineer Combat Battalion, 1103d Engineer Combat Group, Republic of Korea Army, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in the support of combat operations in Korea during the period 15 August 1951 to 19 February 1952. This company was charged with the supervision of over 8,000 unskilled civilian laborers employed in widening, ditching, repairing, and resurfacing the main supply road from Hamchang to Chungju, from Chungju to Changhowon-ni, and from Chungju to Mokkedong, Korea, a total distance of approximately 100 miles. Despite the myriad, seemingly insurmountable obstacles caused by an acute shortage of modern equipment and a rapid turn-over of civilian personnel, which necessitated the constant training and supervision of unskilled workers, this company consistently carried out its duties in an exemplary manner. Utilizing, with the utmost ingenuity, indigenous tools and improvised material handling devices, the company made countless fills, constructed an entire new system of drainage ditches, and built, repaired, or extended hundreds of culverts. Much of the construction was carried out through solid rock in extremely mountainous terrain, necessitating continuous blasting and drilling. Operating with a bare minimum of equipment, the company demonstrated great ingenuity and resourcefulness in handling explosives and in removing the materials resulting from such excavations. Hampered by the necessity for guarding constantly against attacks by guerrillas, the members of this company nevertheless displayed a selfless devotion to duty in carrying out their assigned tasks. No obstacles were allowed to stand in the way of the successful accomplishment of their mission. As a result of the great technical skill, high standard of excellence, and ingenious application of available facilities demonstrated by this company, the main supply road was transformed from a narrow, winding, often impassable trail into an all-weather, two-lane military road of great strategic value. The resourcefulness in the face of critical shortages, determination of purpose, and singular ability to surmount the most formidable obstacles displayed by this company proved a significant contribution to the cause of the United Nations in its struggle for peace and freedom in Korea. The 1st Company, 101st Engineer Combat Battalion, 1103d Engineer Combat Group, Republic of Korea Army, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The determination, esprit de corps, and undeviating devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the Republic of Korea. (General Orders 494, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 27 August 1952.)

2. The 11th Evacuation Hospital (Semimobile) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 2 May 1951 to 1 June 1952. Throughout this important phase of hostilities, the 11th Evacuation Hospital (Semimobile) operated with unmatched efficiency under the most extreme difficulties, maintaining an enviably high standard of medical and surgical service to combat troops and to units located in its zone of operation. Displaying resourcefulness, outstanding ability, and tireless devotion to duty, the members of this hospital handled vast numbers of patients while simultaneously constructing their own housing with tentage and prefabricated buildings. Of the 17,000 patients cared for by the hospital, approximately 55 percent returned to duty, and the mortality rate remained less than 1 percent. The superior skill of the hospital's personnel earned them the respect and admiration of all those having knowledge of their outstanding work and materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. The 11th Evacuation Hospital (Semimobile) displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The teamwork, esprit de corps, and steadfast determination of purpose displayed by the members of this hospital reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 604, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 6 October 1952.)

3. The 15th Engineer Combat Battalion (second award) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 September 1951 to 29 February 1952. During the United Nations Command's second winter campaign, this unit operated in temperatures consistently below zero over the roughest type of terrain but, despite these difficulties, the support which it rendered to combat units was of such unvarying excellence that it earned a reputation for efficiency which is unsurpassed. The construction of both roads and tramways to mountain top positions permitted the uninterrupted flow of supplies to front line units, and the building of tank and self-propelled gun emplacements on commanding terrain greatly enhanced the tactical position of the United Nations troops. The numerous other engineering feats performed by the members of this battalion consistently elicited the highest possible praise from the support troops who were constantly inspired by the enthusiasm and self-assurance with which seemingly insurmountable obstacles were approached by the members of this unit. The 13th Engineer Combat Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding technical proficiency, esprit de corps, and tireless devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 467, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 16 August 1952.)

4. The 55th Military Police Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 24 November 1950 to 30 September 1952. Shortly after this company's arrival in Korea, the division to which it was attached was encircled by the enemy. The company played an important part in the division's subsequent break-through and withdrawal by acting as a traffic regulating group to insure the uninterrupted movement of essential vehicular traffic. Later, the company patrolled and supervised the flow of traffic in two large cities. At this time the members of the company, maintaining constant vigilance, recovered and returned to proper supply channels well over 1 million dollars' worth of Government property. The 55th Military Police Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other companies with similar missions. The esprit de corps and determination of purpose exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 684, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 9 November 1952.)

5. The 106th Ordnance Heavy Maintenance Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 July 1951 to 31 July 1952. Assigned the mission of processing and repairing combat vehicles and artillery and performing higher echelon maintenance on small-arms and fire-control instruments, this company consistently carried out its exacting duties in an exemplary manner. Despite adverse working conditions, the company's highly trained personnel exploited every potential to the utmost to insure the expeditious and continuous flow of essential arms and equipment to combat troops. Exercising ingenuity and resourcefulness, the company made adaptations which increased the fire power of mechanized equipment and manufactured essential parts despite a lack of facilities and a shortage of materials. In addition, its members processed tens of thousands of small arms, combat vehicles, and artillery pieces, constructed buildings and inclosures, and performed services which were far beyond the score of their normal duties. The 106th Ordnance Heavy Maintenance Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding technical proficiency, willingness to assume additional responsibilities, and steadfast determination of purpose displayed by the members of this company materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea and reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 604, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 6 October 1952.)

6. The 131st Transportation Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 January to 30 June 1952. Charged with the mission of furnishing logistical support to two divisions and one corps, plus elements of other United Nations forces, this company, operating over treacherous mountain terrain under the most extreme weather conditions, consistently carried out its exacting duties in a superior manner. During this period, the members of the company transported thousands of tons of vitally needed supplies and equipment and over 10,000 troops a total distance of more than one-half million miles. Most notable of the troop movements in which the company played a vital part was an operation in which two complete divisions exchange their front-line positions. This operation involved hauling troops and supplies over miles of hazardous terrain, and was carried out with great success despite formidable obstacles. The 131st Transportation Truck Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The resourceful utilization of existing facilities, esprit de corps, and high standard of efficiency exhibited by the members of this company materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea and reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 552, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 16 September 1952.)

7. The 207th Preventive Medicine Survey Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 September 1951 to 31 August 1952. Throughout this period, this detachment successfully completed assignments which normally would have required the services of at least three such organizations. Traveling thousands of miles throughout the combat zone, the members of the detachment collected specimens which contributed materially to the success of the United Nations preventive medicine program. In a pioneer effort, the detachment's personnel searched out and collected the organisms responsible for hemorrhagic fever, even though they realized that they were coming into direct contact with the infectious materials of an often fatal disease for which there was no known cure. By streamlining its techniques, the detachment more than doubled the amount of material processed monthly by its laboratory. In addition, it performed many special missions, the successful completion of which required work of the most painstaking and skillful nature. The 207th Preventive Medicine Survey Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding ability and determination of purpose displayed by the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 684, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 9 November 1952.)

8. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 231st Transportation Truck Battalion (second award) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 February to 31 August 1952. Responsible for coordinating and supervising transportation truck companies charged with rendering logistical support to three corps, this company consistently performed its intricate duties in an exemplary manner. Displaying the utmost resourcefulness, its members overcame formidable obstacles to keep the battalion's vehicles rolling and meet all operational commitments. The company played a vital part in a maneuver which necessitated the planning and supervision of more than 1,000 round trips for a total of over 1 million passenger miles and almost 86,000 ton miles in less than 2 weeks. The company's enviably high standard of efficiency earned for its members the unqualified praise of all those having knowledge of their superior performance and materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 231st Transportation Truck Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The remarkable technical proficiency, esprit de corps, and steadfast determination of purpose exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 670, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 November 1952.)

9. The 329th Communication Reconnaissance Company (Intelligence) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 6 December 1951 to 22 October 1952. Charged with a mission of extreme tactical importance, this company carried out its intricate assignment in an exemplary manner. When valuable technical equipment became inoperative because of adverse weather conditions in the field, the members of the company, displaying great resourcefulness, ingeniously developed workable expedients which made possible the equipment's continued successful employment. Handicapped by a critical shortage of specialist personnel, the company nevertheless performed its duties with such vigor that its mission was accomplished with maximum efficiency at all times. The company's high standard of excellence and ability to overcome seemingly insurmountable obstacles greatly enhanced the position of the United Nations Command as it pressed its battle for peace and freedom in Korea. The 329th Communication Reconnaissance Company (Intelligence) displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The keen judgment, constant dependability, and unwavering determination of purpose displayed by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 670, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 November 1952.)

10. The 504th Transportation Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 March to 31 August 1952. Responsible for transporting troops and material in direct support of front-line United Nations units, this company consistently carried out its assignment in an exemplary manner despite formidable obstacles. Often required to drive for long periods of time over treacherous roads through guerilla-infested territory, the members of the company worked tirelessly to insure the expeditious transportation of critically needed supplies and personnel. Despite a shortage of trained technicians and lack of necessary parts, the company maintained its vehicles in a superior manner at all times. The company's constant resourcefulness and high standard of excellence earned for its members the respect of all those having knowledge of their superior performance. The 504th Transportation Truck Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The esprit de corps and determination of purpose displayed by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 679, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 7 November 1952.)

11. The 519th Military Police Battalion is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 November 1950 to 31 December 1951. Despite the most adverse conditions, this unit operated with maximum efficiency in carrying out its multifarious responsibilities and achieving its many assigned missions. This battalion successfully integrated Republic of Korea police with United Nations military police in many operations to supplement lacking trained personnel and to qualify local Korean authorities in the governing of the civilian population. Many of the methods devised by the battalion to improve operational efficiency of police units in the combat zone were adopted by other units throughout Korea. During the withdrawal from Pyongyang, this battalion was instrumental in effecting an orderly vehicular evacuation of the city and with guiding approximately 1 million refugees to the south. The members of this organization earned the highest praise for the hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Government property they recovered, the exemplary manner in which they maintained both military and civilian security, and the noteworthy reduction which they effected in vehicle accident rates. The 519th Military Police Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding ability, esprit de corps, and conscientious devotion to duty exhibited by the personnel of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 467, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 16 August 1952.)

12. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 520th Signal Base Depot, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 January to 31 July 1952. Charged with providing signal equipment for all United Nations units in Korea, this company consistently carried out its assignment in an exemplary manner. With the tactical situation continually changing and the requirements of United Nations forces constantly increasing, the company expeditiously modified its supply procedures in order to resupply the units which it served in a minimum of time. Because of the rapidly developing tactical situation, it became necessary to expand facilities and to relocate thousands of signal items. Despite the magnitude of their tasks, the members of this company, through tireless effort and exceptional ingenuity, maintained an adequate and continuous flow of vitally needed supplies to combat units. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 520th Signal Base Depot, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The determination, outstanding ability, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of this company materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea and reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy is awarded posthumously to the following-named enlisted man:

Private First Class Reginald D. Smith (Service No. US55024532), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company K, 8th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action near Onnamu-Go, Korea, on 8 October 1951. When his platoon came under withering cross-fire from strongly fortified positions, he moved boldly forward, hurled grenades into an enemy emplacement, and wiped out a machine-gun crew, thereby enabling his unit to move forward. While nearing a second bunker, the valiant group was pinned down by intense enemy fire. Private Smith crept up the fire-swept hill, lobbed two grenades with deadly accuracy, and poured rifle fire into the position, killing all occupants. Although painfully wounded by a mortar burst, he continued forward until hostile fire reached such intensity that his unit was ordered to move back. He voluntarily remained in position, covering the retrograde movement. As he withdrew, he observed his platoon leader wounded and unable to move. He promptly administered first aid and began the slow, tortuous evacuation, crawling toward friendly lines. During this action, both men were mortally wounded by mortar fire. Private Smith's inspirational actions, gallant self-sacrifice, and consummate devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself and the military service.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Lieutenant General Williston B. Palmer, 012246, United States Army. 5 December 1951 to 15 August 1952.

III. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted man:

Major Jean Joseph Coppier, Air Force, French Army, distinguished himself by exceptionally meritorious service and gallantry in France from January to November 1944. With utter disregard for his personal safety during military and clandestine operations against the enemy, he organized and operated an intelligence network in occupied territory. Through his indomitable energy and inspired leadership he succeeded in securing and transmitting valuable information which contributed greatly to the success of Allied operations against hostile forces. Major Coppier's initiative, courage, and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Corporal Theodore R. Hinterschied (Service No. 52054432) (then private), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company C, 23d Infantry Regiment, 2d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Pia-ri, Korea, on 15 and 16 September 1951. After a bitter conflict, repulsing fanatical enemy attacks, his platoon was ordered to withdraw and Corporal Hinterschied covered the movement, throwing grenades and pouring fire into the ranks of the enemy and engaging in hand-to-hand combat before he rejoined his unit. Resupplied with ammunition, the platoon assumed the offensive and forced the enemy to withdraw. Corporal Hinterschied's courageous actions and calm demeanor bolstered morale, contributed significantly to the safe withdrawal of the platoon, and reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Brigadier General Lee Chung Il, 10037, Republic of Korea Army, while serving as Commanding General, 7th Republic of Korea Division, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the enemy near Palmal, Korea, on 23 September 1951. When, during an assault on Hill 1142, the attacking elements of his division were halted, General Lee proceeded to the regimental observation post despite enemy mortar fire falling into the area. Upon his arrival, he personally took charge of the operation and remained with the forward elements with complete disregard for his safety. His enthusiasm and aggressive direction of the operation and his coolness under enemy fire, which caused heavy casualties in the immediate area, inspired his leaders to renew their efforts to accomplish their mission. The gallantry displayed by General Lee is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

Lieutenant Colonel Jaime Polania-Puyo, 0001, Colombian Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action near Kumsong, Korea, on 20 October 1951. As commanding officer of the Colombian Battalion attached to the 21st Infantry Regiment of the 24th United States Infantry Division, he established an observation post well forward in order to observe an assault which was being launched by his battalion on a well-fortified enemy position. Having gained important information about the enemy and his runner having been wounded while attempting to return with the information to his command post, Colonel Polania-Puyo returned over the dangerous route and was seriously wounded while doing so, but refused to be evacuated until he had insured that proper measures had been taken to meet the obstacles confronting his battalion.

The citation reads as follows:

Forward Observation teams 35, 36, and 37, Battery B, 10th Field Artillery Battalion;

are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Kowang-ni, Korea, during the period 23 to 25 November 1951. On 23 November, the 2d Battalion, 7th Infantry, moved into defensive positions on a hill which was of vital importance to the cease-fire talks then in progress. Soon after assuming responsibility for this sector, the battalion was subjected to a heavy barrage of mortar and artillery fire as a prelude to a full-scale enemy attack. Shortly thereafter, an estimated two regiments of the enemy were observed moving fanatically through their own supporting fire in an assault against the friendly positions. Wave after wave of the hostile troops came charging up the slope, only to be beaten back by the heavy fire poured into their ranks by the friendly force. The enemy, determined to take their objective at all costs, concentrated five battalions at one sector of the defense line and, under this tremendous pressure, one of the friendly companies was forced to execute a limited withdrawal to save itself from total annihilation. Although masses of the enemy were hurling themselves at the entire friendly line, the defenders, fighting fiercely against heavy odds, held them back except for this single penetration. The 2d Battalion, 15th Infantry, was immediately ordered to move forward and block the hostile troops attempting to push through the gap in the defense line. Upon reaching the area, one company immediately launched a spirited counterattack. Despite the heavy fire pouring down on them from all sides, the friendly troops pushed the enemy back steadily until the heavy casualties inflicted on them by the numerically superior hostile force made it necessary for them to halt their advance and occupy defensive positions on a newly won ridge. Another friendly company quickly moved through these positions and continued the attack until the enemy was repulsed and the breach in the friendly defense was closed. At this point, a fresh assault company advanced through the other two, who were in the process of consolidating their positions, and drove the enemy completely from the area with heavy casualties. The hostile force immediately launched a fierce counterattack but the friendly troops, exhibiting a matchless fighting spirit, repulsed the enemy repeatedly. Finally, seriously weakened by the tremendous casualties they had suffered, the hostile troops retreated, completely frustrated in their attempt to force the friendly troops from the strategic hill. In this action, approximately 2,000 of the enemy were killed, approximately 3,000 wounded, and 8 taken prisoner. The 2d Battalion, 7th Infantry, and the 2d Battalion, 15th Infantry, 3d Infantry Division, and attached units displayed such superlative effectiveness in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism, singleness of purpose, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of these units reflect great credit on themselves and are in keeping with the most esteemed traditions of the military service. I. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 2d Replacement Company, 2d Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 8 August 1950 to 27 May 1952. Despite its remoteness from rail transportation during most of the period, this company performed services of incalculable value in maintaining a steady flow of replacements to combat elements of the division, using organic and transient vehicles. The necessity of adapting its operations to the tactical situation repeatedly tested the ingenuity and the endurance of the men of the company, who consistently responded in a praiseworthy manner. During this period, the 2d Replacement Company, 2 Infantry Division, processed and dispatched to their assignments 27,010 replacements. Despite the immensity of this task, it was performed with exceptional efficiency. While operating with extraordinary swiftness, the personnel of this company performed their mission without ever sacrificing the principle of adapting the individual capabilities of replacements to the needs of the division. Although beset by serious shortages of equipment, the men of the company worked tirelessly, displaying at all times the spirit of teamwork that enabled them to achieve success. The 2d Replacement Company, 2d Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and zeal in the performance of extremely difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding ability and tireless effort exhibited by the personnel of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 397, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 25 July 1952.)

2. The Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 4th Chemical Smoke Generator Battalion, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 January to 31 July 1952. This small detachment successfully overcame tremendous obstacles to carry out difficult missions normally requiring the services of a full headquarters company. Because of the involved tactical situation, the battalion was divided into separate units which were located at diversified points. As a result of the widespread area over which the battalion operated, the detachment was faced with seemingly insurmountable administrative problems. Undaunted by the complexity of the situation, the members of this detachment performed their duties with the utmost enthusiasm and resourcefulness, earning for themselves a reputation for unwavering efficiency worthy of the closest emulation. The Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 4th Chemical Smoke Generator Battalion, displayed such laudable effectiveness in accomplishing its mission under the most adverse conditions as to set it apart from and above other units having similar missions. The exceptional administrative skill, assiduity, and tireless devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 503, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 30 August 1952.)

3. The 21st Transportation Car Company (second award) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 February 1951 to 30 April 1952. Responsible for providing all vehicular passenger transportation for both the main and advance headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, this company consistently carried out its duties in a manner which earned for its members the highest praise from all those having knowledge of their fine work. With the establishment of the Munsan-ni Base Camp, United Nations Command Advance, the 21st Transportation Car Company, in addition to its other duties, was selected to meet all transportation requirements of the camp, and again demonstrated its dependability by carrying out its newly assigned task in an exemplary manner. Often operating where facilities for the proper maintenance and repair of motor vehicles were either inadequate or completely lacking, the company showed admirable ingenuity and resourcefulness in improvising workable parts and equipment from makeshift, indigenous materials. As a result of its efforts, all transportation needs of the organizations which it served were met with efficiency and promptness, a factor which materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. The 21st Transportation Car Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units having a similar mission. The singleness of purpose, esprit de corps, and outstanding ability displayed by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 503, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 30 August 1952.)

4. The 49th Transportation Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 25 January 1951 to 31 July 1952. Charged with the mission of furnishing tactical and logistical support to three United States Army corps engaged in active conflict with the enemy, the members of this company, through their outstanding technical skill and high standard of efficiency, consistently performed their exacting tasks in a manner which elicited the highest praise from all those cognizant of their fine work. Operating under adverse weather conditions and over hazardous terrain, the 49th Transportation Truck Company overcame seemingly insurmountable obstacles to transport over one-half million cargo tons and nearly one hundred thousand troops to locations where they were critically needed. In February 1951, the company was used as a tactical decoy in a movement designed to deceive the enemy by causing them to believe that large numbers of additional friendly forces were being brought into battle. The successful execution of this intricate maneuver materially aided the progress of the United Nations offensive. The 49th Transportation Truck Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The singleness of purpose, ingenious utilization of existing facilities, and esprit de corps exhibited by the personnel of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 546, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 September 1952.)

5. The 62d Engineer Topographic Company (Corps) (second award) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 21 February to 31 August 1952. Charged with creating and reproducing mosaics, photographs, multicolor maps, and similar essential items, this company consistently performed its difficult mission in an exemplary manner. Displaying outstanding technical ability and a high standard of excellence, its members successfully completed over 600 high priority projects and made over 4 million lithographic impressions. The survey platoon of the company performed services of incalculable value by surveying the Armistice Conference site at Panmunjom, the Inchon Harbor navigation channel, and other areas of great strategic importance. The company's precision equipment was kept in excellent operating condition at all times despite constant use, a shortage of spare parts, and a lack of adequate repair facilities. The 62d Engineer Topographic Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The unwavering determination of purpose, esprit de corps, and matchless confidence when faced by difficult problems displayed by the members of this company materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea and reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. 6. The 68th Chemical Smoke Generator Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 January to 30 June 1952. Responsible for providing passive air defense for the port of Pusan and surrounding installations, this company carried out its mission in a superior manner while simultaneously providing direct support for front-line combat units. Displaying ingenuity, outstanding ability, and constant determination of purpose, its members successfully accomplished missions normally performed by units of more than twice the company's size. The technical skill and high standard of efficiency displayed by this company earned it the respect and admiration of all those having knowledge of its fine work and materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. The 68th Chemical Smoke Generator Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units having similar missions. The dependability, esprit de corps, and skilled and enthusiastic approach to seemingly insolvable problems displayed by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 546, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 September 1952.)

7. The 74th Engineer Combat Battalion is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 December 1951 to 30 June 1952. Constantly operating understrength, this battalion carried out a variety of difficult assignments, the successful completion of which materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. Working over rugged, mountainous terrain under extremely adverse weather conditions, the battalion constructed, maintained, and repaired many miles of essential supply routes leading to the most forward installations. Simultaneously its members expeditiously completed many additional projects, including the construction of 7 semipermanent bridges and more than 300 culverts. Although it experienced a 60 percent turnover in personnel, the battalion was able to maintain its enviable high standard of efficiency by establishing a continuous and thorough on-the-job training program. As a result of the diligence, unusual technical skill, and ability to overcome formidable obstacles which characterized the service of this battalion, highway transportation facilities were greatly expanded and front-line United Nations combat groups were able to receive maximum logistical support. The 74th Engineer Combat Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The vigorous determination, self-assurance, and outstanding engineering ability displayed by the members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 657, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 29 October 1952.)

8. The 92d Chemical Service Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 January to 30 June 1952. Responsible for the operation of a chemical depot, complete with maintenance section, depot section, and field laboratory in direct support of I Corps and units in the Seoul area, the members of this company consistently carried out their multifarious duties in a manner which elicited the highest possible praise from all those cognizant of their fine work. In addition, subsequent developments necessitated the establishment of numerous branch depots, which were operated with the same high standard of efficiency that had become the trade-mark of the parent unit. Through the diligent application of their wide variety of skills and their constant and uncompromising devotion to duty, the members of this company were able to solve problems seeming to offer no solution. Despite the unprecedented magnitude of this company's task, which eventually included the supply of all class II, IV, and V chemical supplies to the entire Korean front, each mission was met by its personnel with the utmost enthusiasm and resourcefulness and carried out with a promptness and precision that earned them a reputation for unvarying excellence, which is worthy of the closest emulation in all future campaigns. The 92d Chemical Service Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The outstanding technical skill, ingenious utilization of available facilities, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 397, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 25 July 1952.)

9. The 401st Chemical Technical Service Intelligence Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 22 March to 27 September 1952. By interrogating prisoners of war, studying captured material, and translating captured documents, this detachment collected vital intelligence information pertaining to chemical, biological, and radiological warfare. Through the skilled evaluation and collation of technical evidence, its members obtained and disseminated valuable information pertaining to the enemy's training, equipment, and capabilities for defense and offense. Although it was already operating over an area much larger than that expected of a unit of its size, the detachment assisted in training United Nations personnel in chemical, biological, and radiological defense while carrying out its normal duties in a superior manner. Displaying determination, outstanding technical skill, and a willingness to assume additional responsibilities, the members of this detachment earned the respect and admiration of all those having knowledge of their work and materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. The 401st Chemical Technical Service Intelligence Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding ability, esprit de corps, and constant resourcefulness exhibited by the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 595, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 October 1952.)

10. The 430th Engineer Construction Battalion (second award) is cited for meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 15 January to 15 July 1952. Charged first with reconstructing and maintaining the highway supply routes for the X United States Army Corps and its attached units, the battalion accomplished this mission in an exemplary manner despite exceedingly adverse weather conditions and a severe loss of key personnel. Working in subzero temperatures, its members constructed bridges at key points and widened and improved miles of roadway, thereby greatly increasing the combat efficiency of the units supported by the battalion. Later, this battalion was assigned the mission of erecting, rebuilding, and strengthening prisoner of war compounds and inclosures. Again displaying exceptional technical skill and exploiting every facility at their command, the members of this battalion allowed no obstacles to stand in the way of the successful accomplishment of their mission. The outstanding engineering ability, matchless confidence when faced by seemingly insurmountable obstacles, and determination of purpose shown by this battalion earned it the deep respect and admiration of the units which it served and materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. The 430th Engineer Construction Battalion consistently displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The ingenuity, esprit de corps, and high standard of excellence exhibited by the members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 512, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 September 1952.)

11. The 521st Signal Base Depot Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 January to 31 July 1952. Responsible for providing logistical signal support for United Nations forces in Korea, this company consistently carried out its difficult assignment in an outstanding manner. In completely modifying existing supply procedures to conform to the increasing requirements of front-line units, the company was able to more than double the speed with which it resupplied the organizations that it served. In a period of great expansion, the company relocated tens of thousands of pieces of signal equipment while simultaneously performing its normal duties with undiminished efficiency. In addition, the company provided invaluable services to the Republic of Korea Army by determining the signal requirements of newly activated units and aiding in the establishment of an effective signal supply system. The technical skill and tireless efforts of the members of this company insured a continued flow of essential communications material to front-line units and significantly furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. The 521st Signal Base Depot Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding ability, esprit de corps, and constant determination of purpose displayed by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 657, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 29 October 1952.)

12. The Signal Service Battalion (VHF), 8189th Army Unit, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 June 1951 to 31 May 1952. Charged with providing radiotelephone communications between Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, and major subordinate commands, this battalion consistently carried out its unprecedented duties in an exemplary manner. Because the battalion could accomplish its mission with maximum effectiveness only by locating its stations on the highest land features available, its members established and operated relay stations on the top of almost inaccessible mountains, even though this required hand carrying all equipment and supplies to each location. As the only unit of its kind, this battalion established new precedents and, by ingeniously increasing the scope and range of its equipment, greatly changed the concept of very high frequency communications. In addition, although already operating understrength, it supervised the installation of operation of the very high frequency communications system of the Republic of Korea Army, which has proved highly effective. As a result of the initiative, outstanding technical skill, and high standard of excellence displayed by the Signal Service Battalion (VHF), 8189th Army Unit, a superior communications system was maintained and valuable knowledge pertaining to the potentialities of very high frequency radiotelephone communications was obtained. The resourcefulness, esprit de corps, and unstinting devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this battalion materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea and reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 512, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 September 1952.)

II. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—1. Paragraph 3, section I, DA General Orders 49, 1951, pertaining to the 35th Infantry Regiment (less Heavy Tank Company), 25th Infantry Division, and attached units is amended to include the 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry Regiment; and so much as reads "35th Infantry Regiment (less Heavy Tank Company), 25th Infantry Division," is amended to read "35th Infantry Regiment (less 3d Battalion and Heavy Tank Company), 25th Infantry Division."

2. Paragraph 2, section II, DA General Orders 88, 1952, pertaining to the 3d Platoon, Heavy Mortar Company, 7th Infantry Division, is rescinded.

Citation

REPUBLIC OF KOREA PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION awarded by citation dated 29 July 1952, by Syngman Rhee, President of the Republic of Korea, for exceptionally meritorious service and heroism during the period from July 1950 to 29 July 1952, inclusive, with citation as follows:

The Far East Command Long Lines Signal Group, 8226th Army Unit (and its assigned subordinate units) is hereby cited for its tireless farsighted efforts, resourcefulness, and skill in assisting the rehabilitation plans of the Republic of Korea. Under the superior leadership of Colonel Wilbert A. Speir, Colonel Louis J. Tatom, Lieutenant Colonel William E. Frame, and the present Commanding Officer, Colonel Alexander S. Edmonston, it has achieved an enviable record of both military and economic accomplishments. This Group, realizing that communications were vital from both military and economic viewpoints, successfully repaired and placed into operation the vital 10-quad underground Mukden Cable; this project involved 3,570 kilometers of 4-wire circuits. Repairs were made under the most adverse weather and terrain conditions on a round-the-clock basis, and in many cases in areas of intense guerrilla activity. The organization successfully trained 600 Republic of Korea Army recruits and formed them into a composite unit of American and Korean soldiers which installed, and still maintains, 6,400 circuit miles of copper open wire over some of the most difficult terrain in Korea under extremely adverse weather conditions. Despite language barriers, the spirit of mutual respect and admiration has done much to aid the common cause of freedom. Utilizing the services of all personnel available, American and Korean soldiers and civilians, this Group further added to their accomplishments by installing 19,650 circuit miles of aerial and underground cable under extremely adverse conditions. The military and economic need for additional communication facilities prompted the planning and installation of a two-thousand-line, thirty-position, two-hundred-trunk switchboard in the Pusan area. This installation known as the "Galveston switchboard" has provisions for an additional one thousand lines. Its operation and maintenance utilizes Korean operators. The Signal Group also initiated, planned, and successfully executed a program to recover damaged and inoperative field wire and various types of cable. This project resulted in recovery of over seven hundred miles of this highly valuable material.

Farsighted planning has resulted in a speedy recovery of most of Korea's communications network. The mutual respect, admiration, and comradeship engendered in these projects have furthered the fight against the Communist aggressors and contributed to our mutual understanding.

Through the initiative, skill, and zealous endeavors of all members, the record of achievement of the Far East Command Long Lines Signal Group reflects most favorably upon the United States Army, the military profession, and the cause of the United Nations.

REPUBLIC OF KOREA PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION awarded by citation dated 1 August 1952, by Syngman Rhee, President of the Republic of Korea, for outstanding and superior performance of duty during the period 20 January 1951 to 1 August 1952, inclusive, with citation as follows:

This unit arrived in Pusan, Korea, 20 January 1951, with the mission of constructing a United Nations Military Cemetery. As a result of careful devotion to duty and tireless efforts of the men of the 114th Quartermaster Graves Registration Company, the dead of United Nations Forces were interred in suitable sites in accordance with the customs of the various member nations. When it was decided to establish one central United Nations Cemetery to accommodate all interments in Korea, the task of preparing and maintaining this cemetery was given to the 114th Quartermaster Graves Registration Company. In an extremely short period of time, while still remaining operational, the company transformed a bleak hill top into a dignified and beautiful cemetery, in keeping with the reverent spirit which the United Nations Forces regard their honoured dead. This organization is still maintaining the proper identification of the United Nations Military dead.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY
 WASHINGTON 25, D. C., 27 October 1952

MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The Eighth United States Army Flight Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 22 March 1951 to 1 August 1952. Responsible for furnishing general observation, limited transport, emergency air evacuation, and courier service for Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, this detachment consistently performed its duties in an exemplary manner, even though the accomplishment of its mission demanded tireless effort and a high degree of technical skill on the part of the maintenance personnel, meticulous planning and coordination by administrative and operations personnel, and frequently operation under extremely adverse and hazardous conditions. The safety record of this organization is outstanding and the skillful manner in which the myriad problems facing it were resolved by its personnel is deserving of the highest praise. Although the mission assigned to the members of the detachment was primarily administrative, they were often called upon to accomplish liaison with units operating in extreme forward areas which normally were considered to be inaccessible to the low performance aircraft assigned to their unit. These missions were, in all cases, undertaken without hesitancy and with the utmost self-assurance and were accomplished with consummate skill. The Eighth United States Army Flight Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of its exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding ability, esprit de corps, and tireless devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 465, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 16 August 1952.)

2. The 10th Special Services Company (2d award) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 November 1951 to 31 July 1952. Charged with the unique mission of providing entertainment for the United Nations forces in Korea, this company traveled thousands of miles and performed before a total audience of more than three-quarters of a million troops. Often working under the most adverse conditions, on improvised outdoor stages without adequate equipment, the members of this company, displaying ingenuity, resourcefulness, and determination of purpose, met an exceptionally difficult schedule without canceling a single performance. In addition, they often gave unscheduled performances for small groups in hospitals and for isolated units with few entertainment facilities. The high standard of excellence maintained by the 10th Special Services Company and the outstanding ability of its members earned for it the deepest gratitude of all the organizations for which it performed. The entertainment which it provided in the combat theater contributed immeasurably to the continued high morale of United Nations troops in Korea. The resourcefulness, esprit de corps, and tireless devotion to duty displayed by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service. (General Orders 508, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 September 1952.)

3. The 51st Military Police Criminal Investigation Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 October 1951 to 1 May 1952. Charged with preventing and investigating crime within the forward elements of the Eighth United States Army, Korea, this detachment had approximately 863 incidents referred to it for investigation during this period. Criminal investigation reports were rendered on 248 criminal incidents. Of the alleged crimes investigated, 62 percent occurred within division boundaries and the agents investigating were forced, in many instances, to perform their tasks under the direct observation of the enemy. Interviews frequently were conducted in line positions under hazardous and difficult conditions. The scenes of the crimes were overrun by the enemy in many cases and the agents were forced to wait until the area was recaptured before conducting their investigation. This difficulty, in conjunction with problems engendered by Korean customs, limited facilities, and the unavailability of witnesses, made the task of this detachment a singularly exacting one, but its members never failed to approach their duties with enthusiasm and self-assurance. The 51st Military Police Criminal Investigation Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units having similar missions. The outstanding ability, esprit de corps, and tireless devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 466, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 16 August 1952.)

4. The 205th Signal Repair Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 15 September 1950 to 31 March 1952. Assigned the mission of repairing and rehabilitating signal equipment used by combat troops in Korea, this company displayed the utmost resourcefulness, technical skill, and determination of purpose in carrying out its duties in an exemplary manner despite seemingly insurmountable obstacles. Operating understrength and often hampered by an exceedingly fluid tactical situation which necessitated constant movement, the company exercised every available facility to succeed in the accomplishment of its mission. Despite a severe shortage of supplies, the company repaired thousands of pieces of valuable signal equipment which resulted in a saving of millions of dollars to the United States. The decisiveness and the matchless confidence when faced by problems seeming to defy solution displayed by this company earned the highest praise from the units which it served and materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. The 205th Signal Repair Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding ability, the ingenious application of available facilities, and the tireless devotion to duty displayed by the members of this company throughout this period reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 508, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 September 1952.)

5. The 558th Military Police Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 27 July 1950 to 10 June 1952. Responsible for carrying out all phases of security functions at the main and advance headquarters of the Eighth United States Army, Korea, at the United Nations base camp at Munsan-ni, and at the site of the armistice conference at Panmunjom, the members of this company consistently attended to the countless, and often hazardous, duties attendant to their mission in a manner which elicited the highest possible praise from all those cognizant of their fine work. The extensive security measures necessitated by the rapid advances, tactical withdrawals, and lateral movements made by the Eighth United States Army headquarters were approached with the utmost self-assurance by the officers and men of this company. Despite the innumerable difficulties arising from personnel shortages caused by rotation, this unit maintained an enviable record of efficiency worthy of the closest emulation in all future campaigns. The 558th Military Police Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The superior ability, esprit de corps, and uncompromising devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this company throughout this period reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 465, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 16 August 1952.)

6. The Hospital Train, 8138th Army Unit, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 August 1951 to 30 June 1952. Although activated in Korea under extremely adverse conditions, this unit acquitted itself at all times in a manner which elicited the highest possible praise from all those cognizant of its exemplary work. Throughout this period, this organization rendered close support to forward medical facilities, evacuated large numbers of battle casualties with speed and precision, and rendered the utmost in medical care. The members of this unit displayed a singular ability to overcome the many trying problems engendered by excessive patient loads and difficult operating conditions, combining commendable attributes such as tireless devotion to duty, extreme versatility, and a comprehensive knowledge of the job to be done—to transport and evacuate over 80,000 patients. The Hospital Train, 8138th Army Unit, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units having similar missions. The outstanding technical proficiency, compassionate regard for the welfare of their patients, and tireless effort exhibited by the members of this unit reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 466, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 16 August 1952.)

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer and enlisted men:

Corporal Charles G. Grice (Service No. US56070049), Infantry, United States Army, an automatic rifleman with Company B, 7th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Kum Choktong, Korea, on 12 December 1951. Corporal Grice's platoon was committed to enter enemy lines and return with a prisoner. After effecting the capture, the cries of the prisoner alerted a hostile force which attempted envelopment of the unit. Realizing that encirclement was imminent, Corporal Grice immediately placed withering fire on the enemy, slowing the advance and enabling his platoon to successfully withdraw. While the unit was disengaging, he selflessly remained in the rear, firing his weapon and walking backward as he withdrew, impeding the progress of the foe. As hostile troops pressed nearer with fanatical determination, he voluntarily continued to cover the withdrawal. Corporal Grice gallantly maintained his stand and poured crippling fire into the ranks of the advancing enemy until he was mortally wounded. Through his courage and inspirational actions, the assault was stemmed and his platoon accomplished its mission with minimum casualties. Corporal Grice's supreme sacrifice and devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself and uphold the esteemed traditions of the military service.

Master Sergeant Arthur P. Hanks (Service No. RA18351123), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company B, 15th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Koyangdae, Korea, on 4 February 1952. While his platoon was counterattacking outpost "Kelly," under heavy enemy small-arms fire, it was ordered to withdraw until friendly supporting fire could be adjusted. When the platoon withdrew, two wounded men were left in a dangerous position. Seeing these wounded men, Sergeant Hanks gallantly exposed himself to enemy small-arms fire and numerous grenades. Fearlessly he charged forward firing his carbine until he was mortally wounded by fragments from an enemy grenade. This action facilitated the evacuation of the two wounded men. Sergeant Hanks's extraordinary heroism reflects great credit on himself and is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

Private First Class Billy A. Krowse (Service No. 33848451), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company G, 311th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy near Honnef, Germany, on 13 March 1945.

Assigned the mission of assaulting and securing commanding terrain known as "Cemetery Hill," his platoon came under intense enemy small-arms, mortar, and artillery fire which inflicted numerous casualties and pinned the unit down. In the initial attack, when the platoon leader and the noncommissioned officers were either killed or wounded, Private Krouse assumed command, ably reorganizing the remnants of the unit, and issued orders for a continued assault. Observing a hostile machine-gun position holding up further advance, he proceeded alone under fire and succeeded in personally eliminating the enemy position. While clearing the area around the gun position, he was killed by a hidden enemy rifleman, but his indomitable courage so inspired his comrades that they surged forward and secured the hill. The consummate determination, exemplary leadership, and heroic self-sacrifice clearly displayed by Private Krouse reflect the highest credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

Sergeant John R. Ruth (Service No. ER17227905), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company L, 23d Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in operations against the enemy near Inje, Korea, on 27 May 1951. As the leader of one of two squads assigned the mission of securing Hill 592, Sergeant Ruth and his squad were approaching the objective when they came under heavy mortar fire which killed two members of his squad. Despite this fire, Sergeant Ruth led his men forward. As he and two other members of his squad gained the crest of the hill, they were met by automatic-weapons and grenade fire of an enemy force well entrenched on the reverse slope of the hill. Sergeant Ruth, although painfully wounded, rushed toward the enemy firing an automatic rifle as he advanced. When he had fired all his ammunition, he continued to advance, throwing grenades and rocks until he fell mortally wounded. Sergeant Ruth's heroic action was chiefly responsible for the subsequent capture of the hill by the remainder of the two squads. After the action, 23 enemy dead were found in the immediate vicinity of Sergeant Ruth's advance. Sergeant Ruth's indomitable courage and inspiring leadership are in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service.

Second Lieutenant Theodore R. Woo, O2202513, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company E, 5th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Mago-ri, Korea, on 3 October 1951. Lieutenant Woo led his platoon to the company objective under intense mortar and small-arms fire. In the initial assault, he outdistanced his leading elements and knocked out an enemy bunker. Although wounded in the arm, he left the hill, reorganized the platoon, and again led them to the objective. Before he could organize to hold the captured hill, a powerful enemy counterattack struck the position. Lieutenant Woo was again wounded, the platoon's ammunition exhausted, and its withdrawal became necessary. While he was courageously directing the withdrawal and the evacuation of the wounded, Lieutenant Woo was killed by an enemy mortar shell. Lieutenant Woo's heroic action and unhesitating devotion to duty are in keeping with the best traditions of the military service.

Chaplain (colonel) John K. Connelly, O337388, Chaplains, United States Army, distinguished himself by exceptional heroism while a member of the 5th Infantry Division at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania, on 14 July 1952. Upon learning that an apparently deranged soldier had climbed to a small platform on the side of a water tower over 100 feet from the ground and was intent upon leaping to his death, Chaplain Connelly voluntarily climbed a narrow ladder to a position beside the soldier. While realizing that the mental condition of the soldier was such that he might offer resistance and that the slightest struggle on the narrow platform would result in both falling to their death, Chaplain Connelly spent almost 1 hour dissuading the soldier from his suicidal intent and persuading him to descend. During the descent on the narrow, vertical ladder, he preceded the soldier by only three rungs in order to block, by the use of his body, any last-minute jump. Chaplain Connelly's utter disregard for safety and his outstanding courage reflect the highest credit on himself and the United States Army.

Private Nathaniel Dukes (Service No. RA12363691), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 505th Airborne Infantry Regiment, 82d Airborne Division, distinguished himself by heroism at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, on 10 July 1952. While participating in a parachute drop, under assumed combat conditions, he noticed a falling fellow soldier whose parachute had collapsed. With complete disregard for his safety and no thought of danger involved, he grasped the suspension lines of the collapsed parachute as his falling comrade passed and clung to it tenaciously. The reserve parachute worn by the falling parachutists also failed to open. The two men then rode to earth supported by the parachute worn by Private Dukes. Through quick thinking and fast action on the part of Private Dukes, his falling comrade was saved from almost certain death. The heroism of Private Dukes reflects distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Private Robert M. Hall (Service No. US52210386), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company A, 2d Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by heroism, on 17 June 1952, at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania. Private Hall was acting as safety man on the grenade range when another soldier dropped an activated hand grenade. Personnel in the immediate vicinity of the impending explosion, including Private Hall, dashed to take cover. Then, realizing the grave danger that threatened, Private Hall, with rare courage, returned to the grenade pit, picked up the grenade, and threw it down range away from the endangered personnel, thus saving his comrades from death or serious injury. Despite Private Hall's heroic action, four men including himself were slightly wounded when the grenade exploded. Private Hall's presence of mind and intrepid action are in keeping with the best traditions of the Infantry and the military service.

The members of this detachment conducted and completed a total of 310 investigations, though the unit operated for many months with less than two-thirds of its authorized strength, and had the responsibility of serving five of the seven American combat divisions in Korea and, in addition, all their attached service units. The individual members of this unit, working with all levels of command, constantly displayed a degree of initiative and sound judgment which earned them the profound respect and admiration of all those having knowledge of their fine work. In addition, numerous tests of experimental equipment were made with great efficiency, shower facilities were provided for hundreds of thousands of United Nations personnel, vast quantities of napalm were supplied, thousands of flame throwers were serviced, and similar quantities of land mines were made available to combat units. From the time of its commitment with the 45th Infantry Division, this company performed a wide variety of difficult missions in an exemplary manner. During the winter months, movement of traffic to and from the front lines was seriously hampered by extremely adverse weather conditions. However, by constant liaison with front-line units and by the extensive use of traffic control points, transportation facilities were utilized to a maximum degree, thus materially increasing the effectiveness of the division's combat troops. Despite rotation losses among key personnel, this company constantly maintained its high standard of efficiency, approaching each problem as it arose with enthusiasm and self-assurance and resolving it with promptness and precision. Consistently adhering to a policy of service, courtesy, and helpfulness, this company established an enviable reputation among units within the division. The 45th Military Police Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units having similar missions. 6. The 56th Army Band is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 23 July 1950 to 29 February 1952. Upon its arrival in Korea, this unit was assigned the exacting mission of providing music for troop ships, ceremonies, parades, concerts, and other entertainments for troops and hospitals located in the Pusan area. When called upon, the members of the band enlarged the scope of their operations to include nearby installations of the United States air and naval forces and troops of all other nations represented in the Korean theater of operations. This unit also traveled to outlying islands to participate in ceremonies and to entertain troops stationed thereon. Throughout this entire period, the personnel of the 56th Army Band performed at least twice each day and often more frequently because they served a command several times the size for which their unit was originally intended. Upon its arrival in Korea, this team was assigned the exacting mission of operating and maintaining the various utilities used by Headquarters I Corps. Because of the fluid tactical situation, it was frequently necessary for the corps headquarters to move from one site while, at the same time, installing new facilities at the selected command post. In addition, duties such as road construction and maintenance, construction of new buildings, rehabilitation of damaged buildings, fire protection, and the installation and maintenance of all utilities were consistently carried out with great efficiency despite the small size of this unit. Although the task assigned to them ordinarily would have been carried out by a much larger organization, the members of this team approached every task with the utmost self-assurance and carried it to completion with such effectiveness as to elicit the highest possible praise from all those cognizant of their fine work. Hampered by the loss of key personnel through the rotation and phase-out programs, this team nevertheless operated at peak efficiency throughout this period and set a standard of excellence which is worthy of emulation in all future campaigns. Team A, 313th Engineer Utilities Detachment, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. Upon its arrival in Korea, this unit immediately set about to accomplish its task of regulating and coordinating all air, rail, highway, and inland waterway traffic with self-assurance and admirable determination. Although confronted by countless obstacles, the members of this group consistently carried out their assignments with singular efficiency. In addition to regulating the flow of trucks in logistical support of the entire United Nations Command highway teams of the unit were charged with supervising the large-scale redeployment of divisional troops in the combat area. As a result of the skill with which harbor movement control work at the port of Pusan was accomplished by the group's water teams, port clearance tonnage was more than doubled. The air teams arranged for critically needed emergency airlifts and expedited the heavy air movement of passengers at major airfields throughout Korea. Also, record tonnages of essential supplies and matériel were transported by rail to combat units, thus insuring their continued effectiveness in the battle for peace and freedom in Korea. The 425th Transportation Traffic Regulation Group displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units having similar missions. The technical proficiency, resourcefulness, and uncompromising devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this group reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 360, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 9 July 1952.)

REPUBLIC OF KOREA PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION.—The Republic of Korea Presidential Unit Citation which was awarded by the Republic of Korea to the following units of the United States Army is confirmed in accordance with AR 220-315:

Units	Citation
The Psychological Warfare Section, General Headquarters, Far East Command Psychological Warfare Division, G-3 Section, Headquarters, Eighth Army First Loudspeaker and Leaflet Company, Eighth Army First Radio Broadcasting and Leaflet Group	REPUBLIC OF KOREA PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION awarded by citation dated 18 May 1952, by Syngman Rhee, President of the Republic of Korea, for outstanding and superior performance of duty during the period 28 June 1950 to 28 April 1952, inclusive, with citation as follows: Since 28 June 1950, when the first leaflet was prepared and dropped over enemy troops, and the following evening when radio broadcasts were begun to the enemy, the personnel of Psychological Warfare have carried out an effective campaign against the enemy. The various operational units of the Psychological Warfare program have, by careful coordination of their efforts and intensive operations, contributed to the cause of peace and the ideals and goals of the Korean people. Psychological Warfare personnel worked out and implemented plans for the complete rehabilitation of the Korean Broadcasting System with additional and more powerful equipment. They aided materially in the procurement and shipment to Korea of thousands of tons of radio equipment until at the present time our broadcasting system has been again restored to its former prominence and its facilities are undergoing constant improvement.

Over one billion leaflets have been prepared and dropped over enemy troops and civilians in north Korea, contributing greatly to the weakening of morale of enemy soldiers and to the improvement of morale of loyal citizens of the Republic of Korea.

Also, loudspeaker teams have been active in carrying out their missions which, despite the hazards of front-line operations, have been highly effective in persuading the enemy troops to desert their units for the safety and protection of friendly forces.

The successes of these psychological warfare operations reflect the highest credit upon the members of the various units, the United States Army, and the United Nations.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant First Class Tony K. Burris (Service No. RA18513674), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company L, 38th Infantry Regiment, 2d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and outstanding courage above and beyond the call of duty in the vicinity of Mundung-ni, Korea, on 8 and 9 October 1951. On 8 October, when his company encountered intense fire from an entrenched hostile force, Sergeant Burris charged forward alone, throwing grenades into the position, and destroying approximately 15 of the enemy. On the following day, spearheading a renewed assault on enemy positions on the next ridge, Sergeant First Class Burris was wounded by machine gun fire, but continued the assault, reaching the crest of the ridge ahead of his unit, and sustaining a second wound. Calling for a 57mm recoilless rifle team, Sergeant First Class Burris deliberately exposed himself to draw hostile fire and reveal the enemy position. The enemy machine gun emplacement was destroyed. The company then moved forward and prepared to assault other positions on the ridge line. Sergeant Burris, refusing evacuation and submitting only to emergency treatment, joined the unit in its renewed attack, but fire from hostile emplacements halted the advance. Sergeant Burris rose to his feet, charged forward and destroyed the first emplacement with its heavy machine gun and crew of six men. Moving out to the next emplacement, and throwing his last grenade which destroyed this position, Sergeant First Class Burris fell mortally wounded by enemy fire. Inspired by his consummate gallantry, his comrades renewed a spirited assault which overran enemy positions and secured Hill 605, a strategic position in the battle for "Heartbreak Ridge." Sergeant Burris' indomitable fighting spirit, outstanding heroism, and gallant self-sacrifice reflect the highest glory upon himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant LeRoy A. Mendonca (Service No. RA10104748), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company B, 7th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Chich-on, Korea, on 4 July 1951. After his platoon, in an exhaustive fight, had captured Hill 586, the newly won positions were assaulted during the night by a numerically superior enemy force. When the 1st Platoon positions were outflanked and under great pressure, and the platoon was ordered to withdraw to a secondary line of defense, Sergeant Mendonca voluntarily remained in an exposed position and covered the platoon's withdrawal. Although under murderous enemy fire, Sergeant Mendonca fired his weapon and hurled grenades at the onrushing enemy until his supply of ammunition was exhausted. Sergeant Mendonca fought on clubbing with his rifle and using his bayonet, until he was mortally wounded. After the action, it was estimated that Sergeant Mendonca had accounted for 37 enemy casualties. Sergeant Mendonca's daring actions stalled the crushing assault, protecting the platoon's withdrawal to secondary positions, and enabling the entire unit to repel the enemy attack and retain possession of the vital hilltop position. Sergeant Mendonca's extraordinary gallantry and exemplary valor are in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Private First Class David M. Smith (Service No. RA15423203), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company E, 9th Infantry Regiment, 2d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and outstanding courage above and beyond the call of duty in action near Yongsan, Korea, on 1 September 1950. Private Smith was a gunner in the mortar section of Company E, emplaced in rugged mountainous terrain and under attack by a numerically superior hostile force. Bitter fighting ensued and the enemy overran forward elements, infiltrated the perimeter, and rendered friendly positions untenable. The mortar section was ordered to withdraw, but the enemy had encircled and closed in on the position. Observing a grenade lobbed at his emplacement, Private Smith shouted a warning to his comrades and, fully aware of the odds against him, flung himself upon it and smothered the explosion with his body. Although mortally wounded in this display of valor, his intrepid act saved five men from death or serious injury. Private Smith's inspirational conduct and supreme sacrifice reflect lasting glory on himself and are in keeping with the noble traditions of the Infantry and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named enlisted men:

Private First Class Willie B. DeHerrera (Service No. 17227071), Infantry, United States Army, while serving with Company I, 31st Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in military operations against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Nae-ri, Korea, on 26 October 1951. Private DeHerrera was the point man of the leading squad of a platoon during an assault on a heavily fortified and well-concealed enemy position. With little regard for his safety, he preceded the platoon up the hill against the enemy position while the enemy was throwing down hand grenades and sweeping the area with small-arms fire. Although apparently wounded twice, he continued to advance by crawling toward the enemy, firing his weapon until he was killed within a few feet of the enemy position. Private DeHerrera's outstanding gallantry is in keeping with the highest traditions of the Infantry and the United States Army.

Corporal Robert P. Knous (Service No. RA12356606), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company I, 23d Infantry Regiment, 2d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Sat'ae-ri, Korea, on 9 and 10 October 1951. While engaged in an assault on a strongly fortified enemy held hill, the attacking elements of his company were met with devastating automatic-weapons and grenade fire which pinned them down. Carrying his machine gun, Corporal Knous maneuvered to a flank of the enemy bunker and although he was subjected to concentrated fire, he brought such effective fire upon the position that it was silenced and his companions were enabled to advance and secure the first objective. During the succeeding 30 hours, the enemy's several counterattacks were repulsed largely because of Corporal Knous' efficient employment of his weapon. When his company resumed the attack, Corporal Knous was again in the vanguard, employing his machine gun as an assault weapon. As the final objective was secured and the enemy fled, Corporal Knous was killed by a sniper's bullet. The aggressive, courageous, and skillful action of this gallant soldier affected the whole course of the action and was a major factor in the success of his unit's mission.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted men:

Corporal DeWitt T. Colvin (Service No. RA14293669), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company B, 19th Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Pyoru, Korea, on 14 October 1951. When the advance of his unit was stopped before a strong enemy position and his platoon leader became a casualty, Corporal Colvin assumed command of the platoon, reorganized it, and led it in a renewed assault, effectively employing his own automatic rifle to destroy a number of the enemy. Observing that fire from an enemy bunker was again delaying the platoon's advance, he crawled toward the position and silenced it with grenades, killing the six occupants. Continuing the advance with his platoon, although now severely wounded, Corporal Colvin repeatedly urged his men forward, employing grenade and automatic-rifle fire to inflict more casualties upon the opposing force until he collapsed from his wounds. Observers estimated that by effective employment of his weapons he alone accounted for more than 30 enemy casualties. Corporal Colvin's courage, leadership, and perseverance inspired his companions to press the attack to a successful conclusion.

Sergeant Edward R. Lederer (Service No. RA15282298) (then private first class), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company L, 38th Infantry Regiment, 2d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Taeu-san, Korea, on 30 July 1951. During an assault on enemy emplacements, Company L was pinned down by heavy small-arms, automatic-weapons, grenade, and mortar fire. Sergeant Lederer, with his machine gun in his arms, leaped from the safety of his position and went forward with his company through the fire-swept area, firing his weapon with deadly accuracy. With fearless determination, he continued this fire, causing many enemy casualties and completely destroying three enemy machine-gun emplacements. This display of valor, in the face of a numerically superior enemy force, inspired Sergeant Lederer's comrades to press the attack, which culminated in the complete destruction of the enemy and attainment of the company's objective. The conspicuous courage and consummate devotion to duty demonstrated by Sergeant Lederer reflect the highest credit on himself and the military service.

Private First Class Demensio Rivera (Service No. RA12346464) (then private), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company G, 7th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Changyong-ni, Korea, on 22 and 23 May 1951. When the outpost area occupied by his platoon was assaulted during the night, Private Rivera, an automatic rifleman, held his forward position tenaciously, although exposed to very heavy fire. With his automatic rifle, he delivered a continuous and devastating fire at the approaching enemy until this weapon became inoperative, whereupon he employed his pistol and grenades and stopped the enemy within a few feet of his position. During a renewed attack, Private Rivera fought the enemy hand-to-hand and forced them back. Finally, as an overwhelming number of the enemy closed in on him, he killed four of them with his only remaining grenade, although they were in such close proximity he was severely wounded by the same explosion. When his position was retaken, Private Rivera was recovered, seriously wounded, and lying with the bodies of the four enemy dead or dying. Private Rivera's fearless performance was a major factor in successfully repulsing the enemy's attacks. His unflinching courage and devotion to duty uphold the finest traditions of the military service.

III. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Major General Lyman L. Lemnitzer, O12687, United States Army. 5 December 1951 to 3 July 1952.

Major General Walter L. Weible, O11308, United States Army. 25 August 1950 to 10 July 1952.

Lieutenant General Willard G. Wyman, O12356, United States Army. 24 December 1951 to 1 August 1952.

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Major General William F. Marquat, O6533, United States Army. 6 December 1945 to 22 May 1952. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit to General Marquat, for service from June 1945 to June 1946, published in General Orders 239, United States Army Forces, Pacific, 28 June 1946).

Lieutenant General John W. O'Daniel, O7342, United States Army. 19 July 1951 to 7 July 1952.

IV. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action on the dates indicated is awarded to the following-named officer and warrant officer:

Warrant Officer (junior grade) Chauncey E. Calvin (W902864) (then private), Artillery, United States Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action at Fort Mills, Corregidor, Philippine Islands, on 23 April 1942. As a result of artillery action directed by the Japanese against Battery Crockett, several casualties were inflicted and a fierce fire started adjacent to the powder magazines. Joining a party of volunteers intent on evacuating the dead and wounded and extinguishing the inferno, Warrant Officer Calvin proceeded immediately to the scene. Successful in evacuating all casualties from the battery, they then attacked the fire which involved an ammunition dump, causing intermittent explosions and endangering the lives of the entire party engaged in carrying water. Warrant Officer Calvin applied intense efforts for more than 2 hours and until forced to leave the scene because of the reopening and profuse bleeding of a shrapnel wound received the previous day. The heroic action, exemplary conduct, and indomitable fortitude of Warrant Officer Calvin in a situation fraught with grave danger reflect marked credit on himself and the United States Army.

Captain Tefera Waldetensye, ETH 221, Infantry, Ethiopian Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action as commanding officer, 1st Company, Kagnew Battalion, Ethiopian Expeditionary Force, United Nations Forces, near Sanyang-ni, Korea, on 21 September 1951. Committed to attack Hill 602, to inflict as many casualties as possible, and to withdraw when ordered, his unit came under heavy hostile machine-gun and mortar fire from well-fortified bunkers located on commanding ground. Spearheading the assault, he was struck by an enemy bullet which hampered the use of his right arm. Refusing evacuation to the rear, he relentlessly pressed the assault throughout more than 3 hours of bitter conflict. Inspired by his courageous action, his troops inflicted numerous enemy casualties before being ordered to withdraw. Captain Waldetensye again refused medical aid until his entire company had withdrawn to its original position. His superb leadership and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the Armed Forces of his native land.

V. LEGION OF MERIT.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. Marshal of France Jean de Latr  de Tassigny. 1946 to 11 January 1952.

VI. LEGION OF MERIT.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (Sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. I, WD Bul. 54, 1952), the Legion of Merit (third Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Colonel Harold K. Johnson, O19187, General Staff Corps, United States Army. 8 February to 20 October 1951.

VII. LEGION OF MERIT.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. I, WD Bul. 54, 1942), the Legion of Merit, in the Degree of Commander, for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Doctor Jos  Maria Bernal y Bernal, Minister of War of the Republic of Colombia. August 1951 to June 1952.

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. Master Sergeant Albert L. Miller (Service No. RA20236873), Artillery, United States Army, a member of Battery C, 320th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroism at Fort Benning, Georgia, on 20 October 1951. While participating in a demonstration of dropping heavy equipment from a flying aircraft, the extraction chute attached to a 105-mm howitzer failed to function properly and necessitated relashing the equipment within the aircraft. During the binding down of this equipment, the howitzer was extracted, causing a shifting of a $\frac{3}{4}$ -ton truck which caught and pinned a member of the demonstration crew against the side of the aircraft. Acting quickly and at the risk of his life, Sergeant Miller moved behind the swaying load and severed the shroud lines of the extraction chute so that the truck could be moved to free the trapped member of the crew. By his prompt and courageous action in this emergency, Sergeant Miller not only prevented possible serious injury to his comrade who was pinned by the truck but also eliminated a danger threatening the aircraft and all aboard.

IX. BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, WD Bul. 3, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted men:

Brigadier General Choi Young Hi, 10051, Infantry, Republic of Korea Army, Commanding General, 8th Republic of Korea Division, distinguished himself by heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Nojon-pyong, Korea, on 14 August 1951. General Choi's command was committed to attack and capture strategic commanding terrain stubbornly defended by fanatical, hostile forces in well-fortified emplacements. Constantly vulnerable to enemy fire, General Choi directed and coordinated tactical operations and when supply routes to the division zone were rendered impassable because of adverse weather conditions, he organized carrying parties to insure a continuous flow of critically needed supplies. His presence in forward areas inspired his troops to a high degree of efficiency and contributed significantly to the success of the division's mission. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION—Citation of units----- I
MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION—Awards----- II

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I. WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 220-315 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 1st Battalion, 7th Cavalry, 1st Cavalry Division, and the following attached units:

- 1st Platoon, Medical Company, 7th Cavalry;*
- 2d Platoon, Heavy Mortar Company, 7th Cavalry;*
- 3d Platoon, Heavy Mortar Company, 7th Cavalry (2d award);*
- Company C, 70th Tank Battalion (2d award for 2d and 3d Platoons only);*
- 77th Field Artillery Battalion (2d award for Battery C only),*

are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Yonchon, Korea, during the period 3 to 12 October 1951. On 3 October, this battalion was assigned the critically important mission of protecting the left flank of the regimental sector, supporting an attack by the 3d Battalion, and preparing to launch an assault through the positions secured by the 3d Battalion to capture strategic objectives farther north. In order to accomplish their primary mission, several intermediate objectives had to be seized by the personnel of this battalion, although the heights to be taken were protected by heavy concentrations of enemy artillery, mortars, and automatic weapons. The friendly troops moved indomitably through the intense hostile fire and launched repeated, determined attacks in an effort to dislodge the foe from the strategic slopes. After several days of bitter fighting, the friendly force secured the commanding hills and immediately set about to organize effective defensive perimeters. The fanatical enemy quickly launched a large-scale counterattack. This assault was repulsed at great cost to the hostile force, but, obsessed with the idea of regaining the vital ground they had lost, the enemy troops attacked again and again. Fifteen separate assaults were launched by the enemy and each was met with the utmost aggressiveness by the friendly troops, who held their positions tenaciously although forced to go without food, water, and sleep. In the valiant defense of their sector, the members of this battalion killed approximately 800 of the enemy, wounded approximately 1,500, and captured 60. As a result of this action, one enemy regiment was completely decimated and two more were depleted to such an extent that it was necessary for the hostile force to replace them with reserve units. The 1st Battalion, 7th Cavalry, 1st Cavalry Division, with its attached units, displayed such superlative effectiveness in accomplishing its mission under extremely hazardous and difficult conditions as to set it apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism, magnificent fighting spirit, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of this battalion reflect the greatest credit on themselves and are in keeping with the most esteemed traditions of the military service. (General Orders 328, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 23 June 1952.)

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 64th Field Hospital is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 24 September 1950 to 1 April 1952. During the early phases of hostilities in Korea, the personnel of this hospital displayed their outstanding skill and versatility by operating their installation first as an evacuation hospital, responsible for utilizing every available facility in the removal of the wounded to rear areas, and later as a mobile surgical unit functioning in direct support of United Nations combat troops. During this period, this hospital cared for over 7,000 casualties, never failing to render the ultimate in modern medical and surgical care to this tremendous influx of patients despite extremely adverse operating conditions. With the advent of the Chinese Communist Forces intervention and the subsequent retrograde movement of the United Nations Forces, the staff of this installation accomplished the evacuation of their entire facility in a manner which evoked the highest possible praise for its matchless efficiency. Upon being instructed to establish a 3,000-bed prisoner of war hospital, the members of this hospital again displayed their exceptional technical skill and unstinting devotion to duty and, by exploiting every facility at their command, soon had their installation ready for operation. Although the staff of this organization numbered the complement usually assigned to a 400-bed hospital, they approached their task with the utmost self-assurance and, to date, have treated approximately 36,000 patients. The 64th Field Hospital displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The diligence, outstanding ability, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of this hospital reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 287, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 4 June 1952.)

2. Team B, 313th Engineer Utilities Detachment, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 15 March 1951 to 24 February 1952. Upon its arrival in Korea, this team was assigned the exacting mission of operating and maintaining the various utilities used by Headquarters IX Corps. Because of the fluid tactical situation, it was frequently necessary for the corps headquarters to move from one site to another. When such a move proved necessary, the members of this team, exercising extreme ingenuity and outstanding skill, maintained the utilities at the old site while, at the same time, installing and operating new facilities at the selected command post. In addition, such duties as road construction and maintenance, fire protection, and building air strips were consistently carried out with great efficiency despite the small size of this unit. Although the task assigned to them ordinarily would have been carried out by a much larger organization, the members of this team, averaging 2 officers and 21 enlisted men, approached each task with the utmost self-assurance and carried it to completion with such effectiveness as to elicit the highest possible praise from all those cognizant of their fine work. Hampered by the loss of key personnel through the rotation and enlisted reserve phase-out programs, this team nevertheless operated at peak efficiency throughout this period and set a standard of excellence which is worthy of emulation in all future campaigns. Team B, 313th Engineer Utilities Detachment, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The technical proficiency, singleness of purpose, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of this team reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 220-315 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

1st Platoon, Tank Company, 7th Infantry;

3d Platoon, Tank Company, 7th Infantry;

2d Platoon, Heavy Mortar Company, 7th Infantry;

Liaison Section 2, Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, 39th Field Artillery Battalion;

Forward Observation Teams 35, 36, and 37, Battery B, 39th Field Artillery Battalion.

are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Kowang-ni, Korea, during the period 23 to 25 November 1951. On 23 November, the 2d Battalion, 7th Infantry, moved into defensive positions on a hill which was of vital importance to the cease-fire talks then in progress. Soon after assuming responsibility for this sector, the battalion was subjected to a heavy barrage of mortar and artillery fire as a prelude to a full-scale enemy attack. Shortly thereafter, an estimated two regiments of the enemy were observed moving frantically through their own supporting fire in an assault against the friendly positions. Wave after wave of the hostile troops came charging up the slope, only to be beaten back by the heavy fire poured into their ranks by the friendly force. The enemy, determined to take their objective at all costs, concentrated five battalions at one sector of the defense line and, under this tremendous pressure, one of the friendly companies was forced to execute a limited withdrawal to save itself from total annihilation. Although masses of the enemy were hurling themselves at the entire friendly line, the defenders, fighting fiercely against heavy odds, held them back except for this single penetration. The 2d Battalion, 15th

Infantry, was immediately ordered to move forward and block the hostile troops attempting to push through the gap in the defense line. Upon reaching the area, one company immediately launched a spirited counterattack. Despite the heavy fire pouring down on them from all sides, the friendly troops pushed the enemy back steadily until the heavy casualties inflicted on them by the numerically superior hostile force made it necessary for them to halt their advance and occupy defensive positions on a newly won ridge. Another friendly company quickly moved through these positions and continued the attack until the enemy was repulsed and the breach in the friendly defense was closed. At this point, a fresh assault company advanced through the other two, who were in the process of consolidating their positions, and drove the enemy completely from the area with heavy casualties. The hostile force immediately launched a fierce counterattack but the friendly troops, exhibiting a matchless fighting spirit, repulsed the enemy repeatedly. Finally, seriously weakened by the tremendous casualties they had suffered, the hostile troops retreated, completely frustrated in their attempt to force the friendly troops from the strategic hill. In this action, approximately 2,000 of the enemy were killed, approximately 3,000 wounded, and 8 taken prisoner. The 2d Battalion, 7th Infantry, and the 2d Battalion, 15th Infantry, 3d Infantry Division, and attached units displayed such superlative effectiveness in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism, singleness of purpose, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of these units reflect great credit on themselves and are in keeping with the most esteemed traditions of the military service. (General Orders 259, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 21 May 1952.)

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 3d Engineer Combat Battalion, 24th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 May to 31 December 1951. Displaying singular technical proficiency and extreme versatility, the members of this battalion consistently approached the multifarious engineering tasks necessary to the continued combat effectiveness of the division with the utmost self-assurance and accomplished them in a manner worthy of the closest emulation in all future campaigns. Fifty-five miles of new roads were constructed over the roughest possible terrain and 50 miles of existing roads, which were little better than trails, were widened and surfaced to support two-way traffic carrying critically essential supplies and matériel to forward units. With great skill, the personnel of this battalion also prepared innumerable mine fields in support of combat troops and constructed vast networks of defensive positions. Because of the extremely mountainous nature of the terrain, many of the positions held by combat units were almost completely inaccessible by road. To rectify this situation, the members of the battalion, manifesting outstanding ingenuity, constructed the first aerial tramway to be used in Korea, which greatly facilitated the transportation of supplies to these units and aided immeasurably in the successful evacuation of their wounded. In addition, many miles of essential roads were maintained and several airstrips were constructed, which greatly enhanced the combat effectiveness of the division. The 3d Engineer Combat Battalion, 24th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units having similar missions. The exceptional technical skill, tireless effort, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 316, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 17 June 1952.)

2. The 4th Machine Records Unit (M) and the 25th Machine Records Unit (M) are cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea from 26 May 1951 to 26 May 1952. These units displayed superior technical skill and efficiency in the establishment and maintenance of various punched-card files, reports, and statistical analyses. Their primary mission was personnel accounting for Eighth United States Army units, but other programs, such as casualty accounting, equipment status reporting, reports control, and central directory service, were successfully implemented and produced additional beneficial results for all elements of the command. Problems such as inadequate supplies of spare parts for electrical accounting machines, availability of only outmoded equipment with limited capacity, loss of technically trained personnel through rotation and reassignment, and lack of adequate space were expeditiously circumvented so that the highest quality of operations continued despite these difficulties. Through such attributes as high devotion to duty, ingenious improvisation of existing facilities, and expert knowledge of the technical tasks to be performed, paralleled by the skillful application of that knowledge, the personnel of these organizations garnered an enviable reputation for efficiency. In addition to their regular duties, these units met heavy demands for special statistical reports required for the successful conduct of military operations. The 4th Machine Records Unit (M) and the 25th Machine Records Unit (M) displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set them apart and above other units with similar missions. The technical and administrative ability of the personnel of these units reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 300, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 10 June 1952.)

3. The 76th Engineer Construction Battalion is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 29 July 1950 to 31 December 1951. Upon arriving in Korea shortly after the advent of hostilities, this battalion immediately set about to prepare the Pusan area to receive the vast quantities of troops and supplies destined for the fighting front. At the same time, its members began the construction of defense-line positions with the utmost speed. So effective were the efforts of the members of this battalion and so proficient and organized were the techniques which they applied, that the Pusan perimeter was successfully completed and the port area equipped to receive the vitally needed men and matériel in a short span of time when the time element was critical. After the United Nations troops had broken out of the perimeter, this battalion was assigned the mission of reconstructing and maintaining roads and bridges along the main route of supply. Numerous railroad and highway bridges were constructed along this route and its arteries, despite shortages of men and materials, through the ingenious improvisation and full utilization of existing facilities by the members of this battalion. The exemplary manner in which these exacting missions were carried out played a significant part in the success achieved by the United Nations Command and materially furthered the bringing of peace and freedom to Korea. The 76th Engineer Construction Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The technical skill, determination of purpose, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 300, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 10 June 1952.)

4. The 590th Quartermaster Technical Intelligence Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 15 October 1950 to 10 May 1952. Upon being activated, the members of this detachment immediately set about to accomplish their singularly difficult and critically important mission with the utmost self-assurance. While still in transit to their base of operations, the personnel of this detachment obtained permission to interrogate enemy prisoners of war and to examine their quartermaster equipment. This was carried out with such thoroughness and precision that they soon had a comprehensive fund of technical information to serve as a foundation for subsequent operations. With a singleness of purpose and abundance of technical skill that was unsurpassed, this small unit performed its vital function in a manner which consistently evoked the highest possible praise from those having knowledge of its fine work. The product of the tireless research and continuous investigation carried on by the members of this detachment was eagerly sought after by using agencies throughout Korea and the intelligence data which they gathered did much to enhance the effectiveness of combat units and materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. The 590th Quartermaster Technical Intelligence Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units having similar missions. The exemplary ability and esprit de corps manifested by the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION—Citation of units-----	I

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 220-315 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

1. The 3d Battalion, 5th Infantry, 25th Infantry Division, and the following attached units:

Headquarters Section, Headquarters Platoon, Tank Company, 5th Infantry;
3d Platoon, Tank Company, 5th Infantry;
3d Platoon, Medical Company, 5th Infantry;
2d Platoon, Heavy Mortar Company, 5th Infantry;
2d Platoon, 72d Engineer Company (C); 555th Field Artillery Liaison Party,

are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Chinju, Korea, during the period 9 to 13 August 1950. On 9 August, under cover of darkness, this battalion embarked upon its mission which was to seize high ground in the vicinity of Kogan-ni, then to continue the attack through Pansong-ni, and finally to make contact with the 35th Infantry Regiment and seize and hold the battalion's assigned sector of the divisional objective along the Nam River. Moving rapidly over mined roads and through enemy-held terrain, the members of this battalion launched an attack against their initial intermediate objective. Advancing through intense automatic-weapons and artillery fire, the personnel of the battalion displayed a matchless fighting spirit and, through their aggressiveness and singleness of purposes, they were able to rupture the numerically superior enemy's defense line, inflicting heavy casualties on the hostile troops. As the battalion struck out for Pansong-ni, the desperate enemy subjected it to fire from almost every conceivable type of weapon, from small arms to artillery, but, with dogged determination, its members pressed forward by forced marches, engaging and defeating the numerous hostile units which attempted to bar their way, regardless of size. Despite the constant harassment of large enemy patrols and individual snipers, an enemy fuel dump, ammunition store, and seven field guns were overrun and captured. After countless ambushes, the members of this battalion, even though hampered by a lack of water and vital supplies, seized and held their objective on the Nam River until ordered to withdraw. In this action, the friendly casualties were relatively light despite the furious fighting, but an estimated 450 casualties were inflicted on the enemy. The 3d Battalion, 5th Infantry, 25th Infantry Division, and attached units displayed such superlative effectiveness in accomplishing its mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set it apart and above other units participating in the campaign. The extraordinary heroism and esprit de corps exhibited by its members reflect great credit on themselves and are in keeping with the most esteemed traditions of the military service. (General Orders, 239, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 6 May 1952.)

2. The 3d Platoon, Company F, 8th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division (second award), is cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Sonbyok, Korea. Late on the night of 21 November 1951, while occupying an outpost position well in advance of the friendly lines, the 3d Platoon, consisting of 1 officer and 47 enlisted men, was attacked by an estimated two battalions of the enemy. As a prelude to their initial thrust, the hostile force saturated the friendly positions with an intense artillery barrage which blasted gaps through the barbed wire entanglements surrounding the perimeter. Up the paths thus created, there charged swarms of the enemy, throwing themselves fanatically against the friendly defenses. Despite the tremendous odds against them, the defenders held firm and poured a deadly volume of fire into the onrushing enemy troops, who fell in great numbers on the slope. Even when the majority of their automatic weapons were rendered inoperative by the incessant shelling, the friendly troops continued to hold their ground, frustrating every attempt by the hostile force to drive them from the slope. Fighting hand-to-hand, they repulsed the enemy and utterly refused to give way. Finally, completely incensed by its inability to destroy the few remaining defenders, the hostile force committed a fresh battalion which, after a tremendous struggle, overran the friendly positions and neutralized the friendly troops still capable of fighting. The 3d Platoon suffered 100 percent casualties in this action, but the enemy force's dead and wounded numbered over 1,500, rendering it unable to exploit its gain. The 3d Platoon displayed such matchless gallantry and esprit de corps in carrying out its hazardous mission as to set it apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism, self-sacrifice, and superlative fighting spirit exhibited by the members of the 3d Platoon, Company F, 8th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, throughout this action reflect the greatest credit on themselves and uphold the most esteemed traditions of the military service. (General Orders 256, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 20 May 1952.)

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 7th Signal Company, 7th Infantry Division (second award), is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 17 March to 17 September 1951. Throughout this critical phase of hostilities, this company provided and maintained signal communications for the division under severe handicaps such as rough and inadequate roads, shortages of essential supplies and equipment, and extremely adverse weather conditions, thus making possible, through the medium of dependable communications, the full and effective utilization of the combat units. The myriad complex problems engendered by the rapid advances, tactical withdrawals, counterattacks, and lateral movements made by the division were approached with the utmost self-assurance by the members of this company, who consistently resolved them in a manner which elicited the highest possible praise from all those cognizant of their fine work. Over 1,500 miles of telephone circuits were installed and kept in a constant state of repair by the personnel of this company and, in addition, approximately

6,000 miles of telephone wire was recovered, often under enemy mortar and artillery fire. This company provided signal repair, maintenance, and supply facilities to all elements of the division and set a record that remains unsurpassed in renovating battle-damaged signal equipment. It also established numerous very high frequency radio relay stations, transmitted thousands of messages, and traveled over 45,000 miles in accomplishing its motor messenger missions. The 7th Signal Company, 7th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult and hazardous tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The superior technical skill, conscientious devotion to duty, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 260, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 22 May 1952.)

2. The 702d Ordnance Maintenance Company (third award) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 18 July 1951 to 18 January 1952. Throughout this period, this company gave direct support to the 2d Infantry Division as it engaged in some of the bitterest battles of the Korean campaign. In addition to the maintenance duties assigned to this company, forward ammunition supply points, in conjunction with maintenance stations for ammunition-hauling vehicles and messing facilities for their drivers, were established and operated with the utmost efficiency. Despite the magnitude of their task, which included the repair of thousands of ordnance items, the members of this company consistently rendered the optimum in ordnance support to the division and its subordinate units, never failing in their mission although the duties charged to them normally would have been assigned to a unit employing twice their number of personnel. Through their versatile talents, outstanding technical skill, and uncompromising devotion to duty, the personnel of this company were able to cope with seemingly insurmountable problems and resolve them in a manner which constantly elicited the highest possible praise from all those cognizant of their fine work. The 702d Ordnance Maintenance Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above units having similar missions. The diligence, resourcefulness, and esprit de corps exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 256, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 20 May 1952.)

3. The Medical Administrative Detachment, 8211th Army Unit (second award), is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 October 1951 to 15 April 1952. Responsible for carrying out all phases of the administrative functions of the Swedish Red Cross Hospital and for maintaining liaison between it and other United Nations units, the members of this detachment consistently attended to the numerous intricate details incident to their mission in a manner which elicited the highest possible praise from all those cognizant of their fine work. Despite the innumerable difficulties arising from barriers in language and the necessity of repeatedly training new personnel in the use of unfamiliar United States Army equipment and supplies, this detachment performed its duties with such skill that the hospital was able to increase materially the effectiveness with which it accomplished its vital mission of caring for sick and wounded United Nations troops in Korea and earn for itself an enviable reputation for proficiency. The Medical Administrative Detachment, 8211th Army Unit, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The matchless skill, rare diplomacy, and uncompromising devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 260, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 22 May 1952.)

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Corporal Jerry K. Crump (Service No. RA 14340978), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company L, 7th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and outstanding courage above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Chorwon, Korea, on 6 and 7 September 1951. During the night, a numerically superior hostile force launched an assault against his platoon on Hill 284, overrunning friendly positions and swarming into the sector. Corporal Crump repeatedly exposed himself to deliver effective fire into the ranks of the assailants, inflicting numerous casualties. Observing two enemy soldiers endeavoring to capture a friendly machine gun, he charged and killed both with his bayonet, regaining control of the weapon. Returning to his position, now occupied by four of his wounded comrades, he continued his accurate fire into enemy troops surrounding his emplacement. When a hostile soldier hurled a grenade into the position, Corporal Crump immediately flung himself over the missile, absorbing the blast with his body and saving his comrades from death or serious injury. His aggressive actions so inspired his comrades that a spirited counterattack drove the enemy from the perimeter. Corporal Crump's heroic devotion to duty, indomitable fighting spirit, and willingness to sacrifice himself to save his comrades reflect the highest credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Corporal Ronald E. Rosser (Service No. RA15248979), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Heavy Mortar Company, 38th Infantry Regiment, 2d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry above and beyond the call of duty on 12 January 1952 in the vicinity of Ponggil-li, Korea. While assaulting heavily fortified enemy hill positions, Company L, 38th Infantry Regiment, was stopped by fierce automatic-weapons, small-arms, artillery, and mortar fire. Corporal Rosser, a forward observer from Heavy Mortar Company, was with the lead platoon of Company L, 38th Infantry Regiment, when it came under fire from two directions. Corporal Rosser turned his radio over to his assistant and, disregarding the enemy fire, charged the enemy positions armed with only carbine and a grenade. At the first bunker, he silenced its occupants with a burst from his weapon. Gaining the top of the hill, he killed two enemy soldiers and then went down the trench and killed five more as he advanced. He then hurled his grenade into a bunker and shot two other soldiers as they emerged. Having exhausted his ammunition, he returned through the enemy fire to obtain more ammunition and grenades and charged the hill once more. Calling on others to follow him, he assaulted two more enemy bunkers. Although those who attempted to join him became casualties, Corporal Rosser once again exhausted his ammunition, obtained a new supply, returned to the hilltop a third time, and hurled grenades into the enemy positions. During this heroic action, Corporal Rosser single-handedly killed at least 13 of the enemy. After exhausting his ammunition, he accompanied the withdrawing platoon and, though himself wounded, made several trips across open terrain still under enemy fire to help remove other men injured more seriously than himself. This outstanding soldier's courageous and selfless devotion to duty is worthy of emulation by all men. Corporal Rosser contributed magnificently to the high traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy on the dates indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officers and enlisted men:

Sergeant George R. Deemer (Service No. 56077131), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company F, 38th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Imokchong, Korea, on 10 October 1951. His platoon was halted in its advance against Hill 800 on "Heartbreak Ridge" by heavy hostile mortar and automatic-weapons fire when Sergeant Deemer, with his 57-mm recoilless rifle and a companion loader, voluntarily took his place in the skirmish line of the assault squad. Firing his weapon from the shoulder, he maintained his place in the advancing line, destroyed several enemy emplacements, and inflicted numerous casualties. After the platoon attained its objective, Sergeant Deemer set up his weapon at the crest of the ridge and, although exposed to hostile fire from both flanks, delivered accurate fire into the counterattacking enemy until his ammunition was exhausted. Organizing two machine-gun crews, he personally directed their fire on the enemy with excellent results and, when ammunition ran low, led his squad back for more ammunition, making three trips under fire to the supply point. While returning to the line with ammunition the third time, he was mortally wounded by enemy mortar fire. By his courage, determination, and leadership, Sergeant Deemer was an inspiring example to his comrades.

Private Laurence Goldstein (Service No. US51104128), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company I, 23d Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Sat'ae-ri, Korea, on 9 and 10 October 1951. As point man in his unit's night assault against heavily fortified enemy positions on "Heartbreak Ridge," he encountered and killed two hostile soldiers manning a listening post before they could spread the alarm. Upon nearing the objective, he accidentally stepped on an enemy mine and suffered serious injuries. The explosion of the mine alerted the enemy, who brought intense small-arms and grenade fire upon the unit and forced its withdrawal. Severely wounded in his legs and head and unable to move, Private Goldstein endured the cold of the long night and, when his unit resumed the attack the next morning, roused himself to warn his comrades of the mine field and to point out the location of two concealed enemy positions. Although Private Goldstein died while being moved to an aid station, the heroic conduct and indomitable spirit of this outstanding soldier always will be an inspiration to those who knew him best.

Second Lieutenant George W. Harvey, O2262406, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company E, 38th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Wonju, Korea, on 15 February 1951. Leading his platoon in an assault to secure Hill 325, the unit met intense enemy fire from three machine guns. Lieutenant Harvey silenced all three machine guns with his grenades and rifle and led his platoon to its objective. While organizing the defense of the secured terrain, Lieutenant Harvey was mortally wounded by hostile mortar fire. His heroic action was an inspiration to his comrades and his performance in combat was a superb example of the finest and best in military leadership.

First Lieutenant Joseph T. O'Donnell, O1659578, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company A, 38th Infantry Regiment, 2d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in military operations against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Mundung-ni, Korea, on 13 October 1951. On that date, Company A launched an assault on a strategic hill strongly defended by a determined enemy. Lieutenant O'Donnell led his platoon until they were halted by a heavy barrage of enemy small-arms and mortar fire. Unhesitatingly and with complete indifference to the intense fire, Lieutenant O'Donnell placed himself at the head of his platoon and led them in a renewed assault, during which he charged and destroyed an enemy position and killed its occupants with his rifle and grenades. Although wounded by an enemy grenade, he continued to lead his men in the attack. Knocked down by a second grenade, he immediately arose and again continued to direct his men in the assault. In the platoon's final charge, Lieutenant O'Donnell was fatally wounded by mortar fragments. His bravery and spirited leadership were an inspiration to all who witnessed his actions and contributed immeasurably in the successful completion of the mission. The courage, tenacity, and devotion to duty displayed by Lieutenant O'Donnell reflect the highest credit on himself, his unit, and the military service.

Sergeant First Class William L. Smith (Service No. NG24534226), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Raider Platoon, Company G, 27th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Kumbwa, Korea, on 4 November 1951. In an attack on a strongly held hostile position, Sergeant Smith commanded the assault squad of his platoon. As the squad approached the main enemy position, heavy small-arms and grenade fire inflicted serious casualties. Sergeant Smith, although wounded twice, continued to lead his unit and directed the attack against the enemy bunkers that were the principal obstacles to the progress of his unit. By almost superhuman effort and despite his wounds, this intrepid leader personally inflicted heavy casualties upon the enemy and continued to lead the advance until he was killed by an exploding grenade. True to the highest traditions of the military service, Sergeant Smith's courageous performance of duty was an inspiration to his comrades.

Private First Class Paul B. Taft (Service No. RA19360008), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company B, 17th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Soju-ri, Korea, on 17 November 1950. The advance of his platoon, with an accompanying tank, was stopped by intense cross-fire from two enemy machine guns flanked by riflemen. Private Taft ran through the fire-swept area and, although seriously wounded twice, succeeded in reaching the tank and directing its effective fire on the enemy machine gun before dying from his wounds. His heroic action resulted in elimination of the hostile positions and routing the enemy by his comrades. His inspiring courage and gallant self-sacrifice will remain forever as a symbol of the utmost heroism among fighting men.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted man:

Private First Class Darrel D. Council (Service No. RA18320708), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company D, 5th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Panghwa-Gol, Korea, on 22 and 23 April 1951. When his unit was forced to fall back under an overwhelming enemy assault, this heroic soldier remained at his machine gun to cover the withdrawal. True to the highest traditions of the military service, Private Council steadfastly manned his weapon alone, delivering a deadly fire into the oncoming enemy masses until his position was overrun.

III. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Major General Thomas J. Cross, O11431, United States Army. 7 May 1951 to 29 April 1952.

A direct hit by a bomb, from an enemy aerial attack, on a gasoline tank located in the regimental motor pool of the 60th Coast Artillery (AA) set fire to the garage and small-arms ammunition storage area. Corporal Lorenzen voluntarily left his place of comparative safety and joined a group intent on removing motor vehicles, shop equipment, and other supplies from the burning garage. Despite Japanese aircraft which continued to bomb and strafe the motor pool area, the group of volunteers succeeded in saving a large amount of valuable Government property. V. LEGION OF MERIT.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. Clayton* (Service No. RA 20444372), Artillery, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroism while a member of the 8353d Army Unit (Arctic Test Branch), near Big Delta, Alaska, on 19 June 1951. During a paratroop of heavy equipment from a cargo aircraft, the extraction system failed to function over the drop zone, delaying the release and presenting the possibility of loss of the valuable equipment by a drop in an inaccessible area several miles from the designated point. Realizing the danger involved to personnel in the cargo compartment should the heavy load break loose, Sergeant Clayton voluntarily crawled over the load, exposed his head and shoulders into the slipstream, retrieved the pilot chute, and made the system ready for a subsequently successful drop. Sergeant Clayton's mental alertness, fortitude, and courageous action in the face of extreme danger reflect the highest credit on himself and the United States Army.

PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION (NAVY).—The following award of the Presidential Unit Citation (Navy) is confirmed in accordance with AR 220-315:

Units	Citation
2d Engineer Special Brigade (following elements only):	PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION (NAVY) awarded, in the name of the President of the United States, by the Secretary of the Navy. The citation reads as follows: For extraordinary heroism in action against enemy aggressor forces in Korea from 15 September to 11 October 1950. In the face of a determined enemy and against almost insurmountable obstacles, including disadvantageous tidal and beach conditions on the Western Coast of Korea, the FIRST Marine Division, Reinforced , rapidly and successfully effected the amphibious seizure of Inch'on in an operation without parallel in the history of amphibious warfare. Fully aware that the precarious situation of friendly ground troops fighting desperately against the continued heavy pressure of a numerically superior hostile force necessitated the planning and execution of this extremely hazardous operation within a period of less than thirty days, and cognizant of the military importance of its assigned target, the Division moved quickly into action and, on 15 September, by executing three well-coordinated attacks over highly treacherous beach approaches defended by resolute enemy troops, captured the island of Wolmi-do, the city of Inch'on and Kimp'o Airfield, and rendered invaluable assistance in the capture of Seoul. As a result of its aggressive attack, the Division drove the hostile forces in hasty retreat over thirty miles in the ensuing ten days, completely severed vital hostile communication and supply lines and greatly relieved enemy pressure on other friendly ground units, thereby permitting these units to break out from their Pusan beachhead and

MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 3d Medical Battalion, 3d Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 15 November 1950 to 20 October 1951. Arriving in Korea during an extremely critical phase of hostilities, this battalion acquitted itself at all times in a superlative manner. For over 11 months, the 3d Medical Battalion provided medical support to the 3d Infantry Division, often performing its mission in close proximity to the enemy in order to expedite the treatment and evacuation of the sick and wounded. It also supported the medical companies and detachments of the division with logistical medical service, carrying out this mission in such an exemplary manner that critically essential medical supplies and equipment were always available. Despite the many trying problems engendered by rough terrain, adverse weather, and difficult operating conditions, the members constantly operated at peak efficiency, rendering the optimum in modern medical treatment to the numerous casualties entrusted to them. The 3d Medical Battalion, 3d Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The superb technical skill, uncompromising devotion to duty, and compassionate regard for the welfare of their patients exhibited by the members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 197, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 April 1952.)

2. The 3d Signal Company, 3d Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 15 October 1950 to 15 April 1951. During this period, the company installed and maintained over 5,000 miles of field wire telephone lines over all types of mountainous terrain. Installing, operating, and maintaining over 60 switchboard installations averaging over 50 telephones an installation, switchboard personnel handled a volume of traffic comparable to that of a corps switchboard installation. The 3d Signal Company's motor messengers, delivering message traffic to divisional units, drove over 54,000 miles without a single accident. The radio and radio relay operations of the company were paramount in the success of the signal communications of the division. The signal maintenance shops received, repaired, and returned 3,944 pieces of signal equipment. For publicity purposes, tactical and technical study, terrain features, intelligence studies of enemy personnel, and equipment and material, the signal photographic facilities took a total of 2,639 ground photographs. In addition, 57 aerial photographic missions were flown over enemy territory taking low level photographs of enemy positions, road networks, and river crossings. The 3d Signal Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding achievements of the 3d Signal Company, 3d Infantry Division, during this period reflect great credit on its members, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States.

3. The 4th Aerial Photo Interpretation Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 June to 30 November 1951. Responsible for collecting, interpreting, and collating aerial reconnaissance photographs and with disseminating this vital information to Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, and its subordinate commands, the members of this company consistently carried out their vital mission in an expeditious and accurate manner. Although their tasks were exacting and often appeared impossible to accomplish, personnel of the 4th Aerial Photo Interpretation Company approached each new problem with the utmost self-assurance and methodically investigated every facet until it was successfully resolved. In this manner, numerous precedents were investigated and either revised or replaced with more efficient ones, thus enabling this company to perform its mission with unsurpassed excellence and making possible the establishment of new operational procedures well worthy of emulation by units of this type in all future campaigns. The 4th Aerial Photo Interpretation Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The diligence, resourcefulness, and high standard of efficiency exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 214, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 23 April 1952.)

4. The 59th Military Police Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 27 November 1950 to 1 March 1952. During the vital Hungnam evacuation in December 1950, the responsibility for evacuating 90,000 refugees fell to the members of this company. Despite the magnitude of their task, they approached it with the utmost self-assurance and carried it out in a manner which elicited the highest possible praise from all those having knowledge of their fine work. Upon arriving in Pusan, this company immediately assumed control of the main supply route carrying supplies to the hard-pressed United Nations troops and policed it in a praiseworthy manner. After being assigned to the city of Taegu, whose 600,000 population previously had been controlled by a composite detachment of a relatively few military policemen, the members of this company set about to bring order to a city which was rampant with black-market activities, narcotics, prostitution, and larceny and which was a haven for military absentees. In the months that followed, the 59th Military Police Company, despite the fact that it was almost continually understrength, exercised every facility at its command and, through the diligence, resourcefulness, and esprit de corps of its members, caused a significant reduction in the incidence of crime in its sector of responsibility. The 59th Military Police Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult and often hazardous tasks as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The outstanding ability and uncompromising devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Military Police Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 223, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 29 April 1952.)

5. The 95th Military Police Battalion with the assigned 142d Military Police Escort Guard Company (Mobile) (then 2d Provisional Military Police Escort Guard Company and the Military Police Prisoner of War Processing Company, 8210th Army Unit), is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 26 October 1950 to 31 December 1951. From the date of its activation and initial commitment at Inchon, Korea, the 95th Military Police Battalion fulfilled its numerous and exacting assignments in an exemplary manner despite the most adverse conditions of weather and terrain and a severe shortage of essential personnel. Assigned the difficult mission of collecting, processing, quartering, messing, and evacuating enemy prisoners of war from the forward areas to United Nations prisoner of war inclosures in the rear, the members of this battalion consistently carried out their tasks in a manner which elicited the highest possible praise from those having knowledge of their fine work. Despite the frequent movement of the four transient camps operated by this battalion, necessitated by the extremely fluid tactical situation, an unusually high standard of efficiency was maintained. Over 120,000 prisoners of war were transported a total of 1½ million miles over rough and guerrilla-infested terrain by the personnel of this battalion in the accomplishment of their mission, thereby earning them a matchless reputation for proficiency. The 95th Military Police Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding skill and determination of purpose exhibited by the members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves, the Military Police Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 223, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 29 April 1952.)

6. The 330th Communication Reconnaissance Company (Intelligence) is cited for meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 9 October 1950 to 1 September 1951. Charged with an extremely important classified mission, the accomplishment of which proved of vital significance to the successful combat operations against the enemy, the members of this company displayed the ultimate in determination and resourcefulness in carrying out their assigned task. Despite the numerous obstacles confronting this unit upon its arrival in Korea, its members approached each problem as it arose with the utmost self-assurance and resolved it in a manner which elicited the highest praise from those cognizant of their fine work. Although necessarily operating considerably under-strength and often lacking in necessary equipment, the personnel of this company maintained a standard of efficiency which is unsurpassed and contributed immeasurably toward furthering the cause of the United Nations' first armed bid for peace. The 330th Communication Reconnaissance Company (Intelligence) displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding technical ability and unstinting devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this company throughout this period reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 214, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 23 April 1952.)

7. The 336th Engineer Utilities Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 9 March 1951 to 30 April 1952. Throughout this period, the members of this detachment consistently discharged their many important assignments with the utmost promptness and precision, never failing to complete a given task before its target date. Despite the most adverse circumstances, countless construction, operation, and maintenance missions were carried out with singular success by this detachment, many of such magnitude that normally they would have required a much larger unit. Although functioning understrength for most of this period, the personnel of this detachment, through their singleness of purpose, resourcefulness, and outstanding technical ability, were able to approach seemingly impossible tasks and surmount them with such effectiveness as to earn themselves the highest praise from all those cognizant of their fine work and a reputation for operational efficiency which is unsurpassed. The 336th Engineer Utilities Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The skill, ingenuity, and constant attention to duty exhibited by the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 270, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 26 May 1952.)

8. The 352d Communication Reconnaissance Company (Security) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 March 1951 to 29 February 1952. Charged with a vitally important and highly classified task, the members of this company carried out their exacting assignments in a consistently exemplary manner. Although the mission of this company was of an unprecedented magnitude, normally calling for three units of comparable size, it was approached with the utmost self-assurance and each problem was met and resolved in a manner which elicited the highest possible praise from all those having knowledge of its fine work. Despite severe shortages of essential equipment and experienced personnel, a high standard of efficiency was maintained and implemented until a peak of effectiveness was reached that was incredible for a unit of this size. The dedication to duty, exceptional technical skill, and esprit de corps displayed by the members of this company did much to enhance the combat effectiveness of the units which they served and materially furthered the cause of the United Nations in Korea. The 352d Communications Reconnaissance Company (Security) exhibited such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The diligence, resourcefulness, and singleness of purpose manifested by the personnel of this company throughout this period reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 270, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 26 May 1952.)

9. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 32d Engineer Construction Group, is cited for meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 12 February to 31 December 1951. Despite adverse conditions, the members of this unit assisted their group commander in directing the efforts of the group in such an effective manner as to earn great praise from all those having knowledge of its operations. Notwithstanding a severe shortage of trained personnel and essential equipment, they overcame all difficulties which arose to earn for the group an enviable reputation for speed and precision. Exercising exceptional planning ability and resourcefulness, they made possible a continuous flow of critically needed supplies to the combat units. Executing their numerous and difficult tasks under hardships imposed by inclement weather and frequent enemy activity, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 32d Engineer Construction Group, displayed outstanding devotion to duty, superior technical skill, perseverance, and esprit de corps, thereby reflecting great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States.

10. Headquarters Company, Eighth United States Army, Korea (second award), is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 February 1951 to 31 January 1952. Throughout this period, this company established and maintained many command posts which contributed immeasurably to the tactical efficiency of the Eighth United States Army. Of particular importance was the part played by the members of Headquarters Company in the historic events attendant to the United Nations armistice negotiations at Kaesong and Panmunjom. Personnel of this unit were among the first to make contact with the enemy forces when the talks began. Charged with the establishment of suitable facilities for United Nations representatives at the conference sites, the members of this company carried out their mission in a superior and expeditious manner, despite extremely adverse operating conditions. In addition, the normal duties of the company, such as providing mess facilities, logistical support and administrative control for the members of Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, and messing and billeting thousands of transient personnel, were carried out with characteristic skill. Headquarters Company, Eighth United States Army, Korea, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The determination of purpose and outstanding ability exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Corporal John Essebagger, Jr. (Service No. ER 16269-483), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company A, 7th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and outstanding courage above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Popsu-dong, Korea, on 25 April 1951. Committed to effect a delaying action to cover the 3d Battalion's withdrawal through Company A, Corporal Essebagger, a member of one of two squads maintaining defensive positions in key terrain and defending the company's right flank, had participated in repulsing numerous attacks. In a frenzied banzai charge, the numerically superior enemy seriously threatened the security of the planned route of withdrawal and isolation of the small force. Badly shaken, the grossly outnumbered detachment started to fall back and Corporal Essebagger, realizing the impending danger, voluntarily remained to provide security for the withdrawal. Gallantly maintaining a one-man stand, Corporal Essebagger raked the menacing hordes with crippling fire. With the foe closing on the position, he left the comparative safety of his shelter and advanced in the face of overwhelming odds, firing his weapon and hurling grenades to disconcert the enemy and afford time for displacement of friendly elements to more tenable positions. Scorning the withering fire and bursting shells, Corporal Essebagger continued to move forward, inflicting destruction upon the fanatical foe until he was mortally wounded. Corporal Essebagger's intrepid action and supreme sacrifice exacted a heavy toll in enemy dead and wounded, stemmed the onslaught, and enabled the retiring squads to reach safety. His valorous conduct and devotion to duty reflect lasting glory on himself and are in keeping with the noblest traditions of the Infantry and the United States Army.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Private First Class Herbert K. Pihlaau (Service No. US50001702), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company C, 23d Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and outstanding courage above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Pia-ri, Korea, on 17 September 1951. The enemy sent wave after wave of fanatical troops against his platoon which held a key terrain feature on "Heart-break Ridge." Valiantly defending its position, the unit repulsed each attack until ammunition became practically exhausted and it was ordered to withdraw to a new position. Voluntarily remaining behind to cover the withdrawal, Private Pihlaau fired his automatic weapon into the ranks of the assailants, threw all his grenades, and, with ammunition exhausted, closed with the foe in hand-to-hand combat, courageously fighting with his trench knife and bare fists until finally overcome and mortally wounded. When the position was subsequently retaken, more than 40 enemy dead were counted in the area he had so valiantly defended. Private Pihlaau's heroic devotion to duty, indomitable fighting spirit, and gallant self-sacrifice reflect the highest credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD. Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Private Billie G. Kanell (Service No. RA17317531), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company I, 35th Infantry Regiment, 25th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and outstanding courage above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Pyonggong, Korea, on 7 September 1951. A numerically superior hostile force had launched a fanatical assault against friendly positions, supported by mortar and artillery fire, when Private Kanell stood in his emplacement exposed to enemy observation and action and delivered accurate fire into the ranks of the assailants. An enemy grenade was hurled into his emplacement and Private Kanell threw himself upon the grenade, absorbing the blast with his body to protect two of his comrades from serious injury and possible death. A few seconds later, another grenade was thrown into the emplacement and, although seriously wounded by the first missile, he summoned his waning strength to roll toward the second grenade and use his body as a shield to again protect his comrades. He was mortally wounded as a result of his heroic actions. Private Kanell's indomitable courage, sustained fortitude against overwhelming odds, and gallant self-sacrifice reflect the highest credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

Chief of Staff, United States Army

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named officer:

Captain Edward O. Krzyzowski, O1310728, Infantry, United States Army, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and indomitable courage above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Tondul, Korea, from 31 August to 3 September 1951 as commanding officer of Company B, 9th Infantry Regiment. Spearheading an assault against strongly defended Hill 700, his company came under vicious cross-fire and grenade attack from enemy bunkers. Creeping up the fire-swept hill, he personally eliminated one bunker with his grenades and wiped out a second with carbine fire. Forced to retire to more tenable positions for the night, the company, led by Captain Krzyzowski, resumed the attack the following day, gaining several hundred yards and inflicting numerous casualties. Overwhelmed by the numerically superior hostile force, he ordered his men to evacuate the wounded and move back. Providing protective fire for their safe withdrawal, he was wounded again by grenade fragments, but refused evacuation and continued to direct the defense. On 3 September, he led his valiant unit in another assault which overran several hostile positions, but again the company was pinned down by murderous fire. Courageously advancing alone to an open knoll to plot mortar concentrations against the hill, he was killed instantly by an enemy sniper's fire. Captain Krzyzowski's consummate fortitude, heroic leadership, and gallant self-sacrifice, so clearly demonstrated throughout 3 days of bitter combat, reflect the highest credit and lasting glory on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy on the date indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer:

First Lieutenant James L. Caldwell, O2005656, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company L, 7th Cavalry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy near Homangi, Korea, on 5 October 1951. Assigned the mission of attacking and occupying commanding ground tenaciously defended by a strongly fortified hostile force, Lieutenant Caldwell's platoon moved up the rugged slope of the hill under devastating small-arms, automatic weapons, and mortar fire. Lieutenant Caldwell led his platoon in a charge and was first to enter the enemy position. Forced to withdraw for lack of ammunition, he reorganized and led a second but unsuccessful charge. Although wounded twice by small-arms fire while rallying and regrouping to renew the assault, he refused medical treatment and continued to lead the platoon through withering fire until he was struck by a mortar burst and fell mortally wounded on the crest of the hill. Inspired by the incredible courage of their valiant leader, Lieutenant Caldwell's resolute troopers stormed forward with such ferocity that the enemy was overwhelmed and the key terrain feature secured. Lieutenant Caldwell's valorous conduct and consummate devotion to duty reflect lasting glory on himself and are in keeping with the honored traditions of the Infantry and the military service.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Lieutenant Colonel Albert Crahay, 23919, Artillery, Belgian Army, commanding officer of the Belgian United Nations Forces, 29th Independent Infantry Brigade Group, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Tong-ri, Korea, from 22 to 25 April 1951. Colonel Crahay's command, assigned the mission of holding a sector in the brigade's front and flank, was viciously attacked and surrounded in one of the initial thrusts of the enemy's stupendous spring offensive. Bitter fighting ensued. Upon receiving orders to withdraw on the night of 23 April, Colonel Crahay, realizing that all planned routes of withdrawal were unfeasible, daringly seized upon a momentary lull in the battle and organized, regrouped, and effected a spectacular lateral withdrawal across the Imjin River. After an arduous, circuitous march, Colonel Crahay's command rejoined the brigade the following day and was committed to cover the displacement of two battalions along the enemy-infested main supply route. Colonel Crahay was seriously wounded while directing and coordinating this stubbornly contested action, but his incredible courage under fire and his intrepid actions inspired his officers and men to fight with unwavering persistency, which contributed significantly to stemming the relentless advance of the numerically superior foe. Colonel Crahay's gallant leadership and exemplary performance of duty reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the cherished traditions of the military service.

III. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the periods indicated is awarded to the following named officers:

Colonel Edgar T. Conley, Jr., O17665, General Staff (Armor), United States Army. 30 June 1950 to 31 August 1951.

Major General Edwin K. Wright, O15475, United States Army. June 1950 to May 1952.

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (First Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following named officer:

Major General Robert N. Young, O15262, United States Army. 26 September 1951 to 4 May 1952.

3. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following named officer:

General Matthew P. Ridgway, O5221, United States Army. December 1950 to May 1952.

IV. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following named officer and warrant officer:

Captain Willard E. Chambers, O1502429 (then first lieutenant), Infantry, United States Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action in Normandy, France, from 6 to 8 June 1944. As a member of a composite detachment of the 507th Parachute Infantry Regiment which parachuted into Normandy on 6 June 1944, became completely surrounded by enemy elements, and cut off from all communications with the parent unit, he volunteered on three occasions to lead a group of men in an attempt to reestablish communications with other friendly units and recover supplies and ammunition. Deprived of contact with other friendly elements by numerically superior hostile forces, Captain Chambers was, however, successful in bringing back a considerable amount of supplies and ammunition. Volunteering on 8 June to proceed alone, cross the Merdercy River, report the hazardous situation to the regimental commander, and obtain instructions, he made his way despite enemy fire through the German lines, succeeded in his mission, and returned to the encircled group. His heroic actions resulted in a coordinated and successful attack against enemy elements holding the bridgehead which facilitated the operations of the 82d Airborne Division in the sector. Captain Chambers' fortitude, exemplary conduct in the face of grave danger, and superb leadership reflect great credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

Warrant Officer (junior grade) Salvador F. Sanchez (W2143292) (then master sergeant), Army of the United States, distinguished himself by gallantry in action at Fort Mills, Corregidor, Philippine Islands, on 2 January 1942. The roof of the command post bomb shelter caved in as a result of bombing from a hostile aerial attack, entombling an officer and several enlisted men. Efforts of a rescue party were halted by explosions from a burning ammunition dump nearby and the party was forced to take shelter in a communication trench. Despite continuous danger from the shifting ruins of the shelter, prolonged bombing by the Japanese, and explosions in the dump, Warrant Officer Sanchez left his place of comparative safety and voluntarily joined three others in an effort to extinguish the fire and rescue the stricken men. The group succeeded in putting out the fire and rescuing the living personnel from under the debris. The heroic action by Warrant Officer Sanchez under conditions of grave danger reflect marked credit on himself and the United States Army.

V. LEGION OF MERIT.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. I, WD Bul. 54, 1942), the Legion of Merit (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Colonel Albert C. Morgan, O15034, Infantry, United States Army. 6 August 1950 to 23 January 1952. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) to Colonel Morgan, for meritorious service from 6 August to 2 November 1950, published in General Orders 89, General Headquarters, Far East Command, 18 April 1951.)

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. I, WD Bul. 54, 1942), the Legion of Merit, in the Degree of Officer, for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

IX. BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, WD Bul. 3, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States on the dates indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted man:

Brigadier General Suk Joo Am, 10222 (then colonel), infantry, Republic of Korea Army, a member of the 1st Republic of Korea Infantry Division, distinguished himself by heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near P'yong-yang, Korea, on 19 October 1950. Assigned the mission of attacking and securing the vital city of P'yong-yang, General Suk's division was committed to dislodge fanatical hostile forces from well-fortified, stubbornly-defended positions on both flanks of the main route of advance. Displaying rare tactical ingenuity and inspirational leadership, he skillfully coordinated the attached armor and artillery with the infantry. Unmindful of his safety and constantly braving intense mortar and small-arms fire, General Suk remained with and moved among the assaulting elements until he was seriously wounded when the vehicle in which he was riding struck an antitank mine. General Suk's unflinching courage and intrepid actions reflect great credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

Captain Mama (Moro), O890532 (then second Lieutenant), Infantry, Army of the United States, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in action on 3 May 1942 while commanding Company A, 103d Infantry Regiment, 102d Division, United States Army Forces, Far East, at Cagayan, Misamis Oriental, Mindanao, Philippine Islands. His unit, in defensive positions with the mission of preventing the landing of Japanese troops on Cagayan Dock, came under a concentrated fire from three enemy airplanes and an escort cruiser. Demonstrating exceptional calmness and courage, despite being constantly subjected to hostile fire, Captain Mama continually maintained personal contact with his troops. Through his inspiring conduct his unit held against great odds, inflicted numerous enemy casualties, and caused the hostile force to abandon the frontal assault on the dock. In the subsequent, ordered withdrawal of the 103d Infantry Regiment, under his heroic example, his men fought a successful rear action, enabling the regiment to regroup for further defensive action at another selected location. Captain Mama's outstanding leadership under fire and steadfast devotion to duty reflect marked credit on himself, the Infantry, and the Army of the United States.

Private First Class Alfred L. Phenes (Service No. 12098465), Infantry, Army of the United States, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in action in the vicinity of Echternach, Luxembourg, on 20 December 1944. An infantry tank team, of which he was a member, had completed its mission and was returning to the parent organization when it came under heavy enemy fire. A comrade was wounded during the action. Private Phenes, without regard for the danger from hostile fire, jumped from a moving tank, dragged his comrade to cover, and bandaged his wounds. In full view and under direct fire from the enemy, he hailed another friendly vehicle, loaded his comrade into it, and both returned with the team. The heroic action taken by Private Phenes, precluding possible capture of a fellow soldier, reflects marked credit on himself, the Infantry, and the Army of the United States.

Second Lieutenant Derk Strikwerda, O2210777 (then sergeant, Service No. 39910747), Infantry, Army of the United States, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in action near Flermerge, Belgium, on 4 January 1945. He was accompanying his company commander and three platoon runners participating in an attack to secure the town when the group sustained enemy artillery and mortar fire. The commander was seriously wounded and unable to walk when Lieutenant Strikwerda assumed charge, directed effective return fire toward the right flank, and shielded his wounded commander's body with his own. Artillery fire had rendered the radio inoperative and Lieutenant Strikwerda, exposing himself to hostile fire, ran across an open field, alerted the support platoon leader of the threatening situation, and led that platoon forward to assist the lead platoons in a subsequently successful assault on the objective. Lieutenant Strikwerda's exemplary conduct and heroic actions reflect distinct credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY
WASHINGTON 25, D. C., 29 May 1952.

MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 4th Signal Battalion, Corps (second award), is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 15 July 1951 to 1 February 1952. This unit, a corps signal battalion, consistently performed duties of a magnitude seldom found below army level. With a minimum of personnel and equipment, the battalion approached each of its tasks with the utmost self-confidence and, despite the most adverse conditions, accomplished each of them in such an exemplary manner as to elicit the highest possible praise from those having knowledge of its fine work. Responsible for the entire communications network connecting the corps headquarters with even the smallest units under its control, the members of this battalion installed, maintained, and repaired signal equipment with unsurpassed efficiency. Their efforts to salvage vital supplies and equipment met with equal success and were responsible for a saving of over 1 million dollars. Construction work was constantly carried out under the handicaps imposed by inclement weather, rugged terrain, and frequent enemy activity but, despite seemingly insurmountable difficulties, the personnel of this battalion, through their determination of purpose and superior technical skill, performed their duties in a manner worthy of emulation in all future campaigns. The 4th Signal Battalion, Corps, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The diligence, resourcefulness, and exemplary conduct of the members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 122, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 March 1952.)

2. The 13th Signal Company, 1st Cavalry Division, is cited for meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 25 July 1950 to 17 December 1951. Assigned the mission of installing, operating, and maintaining communications for the division headquarters and for providing a communications network linking the major subordinate combat elements to their parent organization, the 13th Signal Company consistently performed its many duties in a praiseworthy manner. Despite adverse working conditions, vital wire, radio relay, and teletype circuits were furnished to all units of the command. In addition to laying over 25,000 miles of wire and controlling millions of telephone calls, this company also took more than 10,000 photographs of divisional activities, often under the most hazardous combat conditions. Through their diligence and superb technical skill, the members of this company constantly maintained a high standard of excellence which invariably evoked the highest possible praise from all those having knowledge of their fine work. Through their painstaking efforts a communications system was maintained which contributed immeasurably to the success achieved by the division and its subordinate units in accomplishing its mission of repulsing the forces of aggression in Korea. The 13th Signal Company, 1st Cavalry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions.

The determination of purpose, enthusiasm, and constant attention to duty exhibited by the members of this company throughout this period reflect great credit on themselves, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 145, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 14 March 1952.)

3. The 43d Transportation Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 25 January 1951 to 21 January 1952. Responsible for transporting vital cargo and critically needed personnel over the roughest type of terrain and under extremely hazardous conditions, the members of this company consistently approached seemingly impossible tasks with the utmost self-assurance and carried them out in a manner which elicited the highest possible praise from all those having knowledge of their fine work. When called upon to perform special missions such as playing the part of a decoy within hearing and heavy-weapons range of the enemy in support of a crucial tactical maneuver, this company acquitted itself admirably. During the aforementioned period, the 43d Transportation Truck Company, in addition to hauling tens of thousands of passengers and a like amount of cargo tons over millions of miles of treacherous roads, also accomplished the tremendous task of replacing a veteran combat division with an entirely new division with no appreciable loss in combat effectiveness of troops. The 43d Transportation Truck Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The determination of purpose and outstanding ability exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Transportation Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 187, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 10 April 1952.)

4. The 121st Evacuation Hospital (Semimobile) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 25 September 1950 to 24 November 1951. Throughout this critical phase of hostilities, this unit operated with unmatched efficiency under extremely difficult conditions, maintaining high standards of medical and surgical service to combat troops and to units located in its area of operations. Although it was primarily equipped and staffed to operate as a 400-bed hospital, the continuous stream of patients often made it necessary for this unit to function at twice this capacity. Problems such as inadequate transportation and facilities, frequent changes in location caused by the fluid tactical situation, and an unusually large influx of casualties were approached with unwavering self-assurance by the members of this hospital and consistently resolved with determination and speed. Combining commendable attributes such as steadfast devotion to duty, ingenious improvisation of existing facilities, and comprehensive medical knowledge paralleled by the skillful application of this knowledge, this hospital admitted and treated over 40,000 patients in a manner which elicited the highest possible praise from all those cognizant of its fine work. The 121st Evacuation Hospital (Semimobile) displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The professional skill, tireless effort, and esprit de corps displayed by the members of this hospital reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 162, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 26 March 1952.)

5. During this period, these units instituted and operated an unprecedented replacement system in Korea which provided for the rapid and orderly movement of urgently needed replacements to their destinations. Despite the most adverse operating conditions, efficient policies and procedures were expeditiously evolved for the classification, assignment, reequipping, and transportation of hospital returnees. In addition to their normal duties, these units planned and put into action the rotation program in a minimum of time and in the face of seemingly insurmountable obstacles. With the growth of the rotation program, the processing of rotation personnel reached a position of importance equal only to that held by the processing of replacements for assignment throughout Korea. Recreational facilities, educational and orientation programs, and club and Army exchange facilities were established for all casualties and contributed immeasurably to their continued high morale. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 110th Replacement Battalion, and the 52d, 55th, and 369th Replacement Companies attached displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set them apart and above other units with a similar mission. Throughout the crucial battles for the Wonju, Chechon, and Honchon rail and road centers, this hospital functioned as the most forward defensive type of medical treatment facility, providing the best of care for over 15,000 United Nations casualties entrusted to it. The ability of its members to perform the most exacting tasks contributed immeasurably to the success achieved by the United Nations Command in accomplishing these vital operations. VI. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following unit is cited under AR 220-315 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 3d Battalion, 399th Infantry Regiment, is cited for outstanding accomplishment in action on 18 April 1945 in the vicinity of Beilstein, Germany. Assigned the mission of capturing the isolated, practically inaccessible hill mass of Fohlenberg which dominated the entire 16,000-yard front of the regiment, the 3d Battalion moved out from an assembly area 5,000 yards from the objective and, advancing cross-country over heavily wooded, semimountainous terrain, penetrated the line of enemy outposts to reach the high ground of Steinberg. After charging down the open, precipitous southern slopes of Steinberg under a relentless hail of accurate enemy fire, the 3d Battalion climbed to assault and capture an intermediate objective, the thickly wooded hill of Kubelsteige. The 3d Battalion, determined to accomplish its mission despite numerous casualties and the uninterrupted severity of enemy fire, maintained the momentum of its attack and continued across the open terrain between Kubelsteiger and Fohlenberg, then fought its way up the steep slopes to the summit. A steady downpour of enemy artillery and heavy mortar shells failed to daunt the drive of the 3d Battalion and, although taxed beyond the normal limit of endurance, it met and determinedly repelled a vicious hostile counterattack and proceeded to secure the entire summit of Fohlenberg. The brilliant coordination and teamwork of all elements which characterized the drive of the 3d Battalion resulted in the capture of this important objective, and played a major role in converting the difficult attack of the regiment against a continuous line into a lightning pursuit which completely routed the disorganized enemy and carried the division into the outskirts of the city of Stuttgart. The gallantry, esprit de corps, an unremitting determination of the members of the 3d Battalion, 399th Infantry Regiment, are in keeping with the finest traditions of the United States Army.

VII. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 10th Engineer Combat Battalion, 3d Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 December 1950 to 31 July 1951. During this period, the 10th Engineer Combat Battalion, working in the most adverse circumstances, performed every phase of its diverse duties with unsurpassed excellence. Despite the continual movement of the division and the wide dispersion of its front-line units, the battalion consistently rendered close and effective logistical support. In its combat operations, the battalion was equally proficient. Its implementation of the division's defensive lines during the evacuation of Hungnam and the subsequent strategic destruction of that city proved of material assistance to the division in accomplishing its mission. The superior ability displayed by the men of the battalion in facilitating the crossings of the Han, Imjin, and Hantan Rivers, in the laying and removing of mines, and in the erection of various obstacles calculated to slow the enemy earned them the respect and admiration of all those to whom they rendered service. The 10th Engineer Combat Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The skill, resourcefulness, and indomitable esprit de corps exhibited by the members of the 10th Engineer Combat Battalion, 3d Infantry Division, reflect great credit on themselves, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 868, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 8 November 1951.)

2. The 11th Army Postal Unit (Type F) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 December 1950 to 1 August 1951. Throughout this period the 11th Army Postal Unit (Type F) provided and maintained a thoroughly efficient postal service system for all units assigned and attached to IX Corps. This service included the distribution of mail, processing of money orders, sale of stamps, insurance and registry service, and directory service for countless numbers of troops. During the United Nations Forces retrograde movement and the subsequent advance northward, this unit expeditiously processed large amounts of incoming and outgoing mail, assisting greatly in maintaining a high state of combat effectiveness and morale in all units served. Throughout this period, the unit exhibited extraordinary esprit de corps and determination during extremely critical and rapidly changing combat conditions, successfully accomplishing its morale-building mission in a highly competent and commendable manner. The 11th Army Postal Unit (Type F) displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The high degree of skill, diligence, and steadfast devotion to duty manifested by the members of the 11th Army Postal Unit (Type F) reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 859, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 6 November 1951.)

3. The 15th Replacement Company, 1st Cavalry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 27 July 1950 to 30 September 1951. During this period, the 15th Replacement Company processed 32,325 replacements for the division elements, 20,164 personnel taking part in the rest and recuperation program, and 12,315 rotation personnel. Although constantly hampered by inadequate transportation facilities and frequent location changes brought about by the fluid tactical situation, the high standard of efficiency maintained by the company remained steadfast and contributed materially to the success achieved by the division. In addition to its regular processing duties, the company conducted an effective orientation course for the replacements prior to their commitment to combat. The company also processed replacements for the Republic of Korea Army, the Greek Expeditionary Force, and the Thailand Expeditionary Force attached to the division. The 15th Replacement Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The high degree of skill, zealous application to duty, and unity of purpose displayed by the members of the 15th Replacement Company, 1st Cavalry Division, reflect great credit on themselves and the military service. (General Orders 868, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 8 November 1951.)

4. The 58th Quartermaster Salvage Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 5 November 1950 to 31 July 1951. The 58th Quartermaster Salvage Company initially landed at Wonsan, where it was utilized in unloading ammunition and quartermaster supplies and establishing subsistence and petroleum supply points. The company subsequently moved its supply points to Hamhung and continued operations there until the tactical situation necessitated the evacuation to Hungnam. Later, during the withdrawal of United Nations Forces from Hungnam, the company, by the untiring efforts of its personnel, successfully evacuated large quantities of vitally needed supplies. The company then assisted in the operation of quartermaster supply points at Kyongju. Throughout the period 12 February to 31 July, the 58th Quartermaster Salvage Company effectively established and operated salvage collecting points, receiving and processing winter clothing and equipment and transporting these items to rear areas. The 58th Quartermaster Salvage Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The outstanding initiative, diligence, and steadfast devotion to duty evidenced by all members of the 58th Quartermaster Salvage Company reflect great credit on themselves, the Quartermaster Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 859, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 6 November 1951.)

DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION—Citation of unit----- I
MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION—Awards----- II

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—1. As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 220-315 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

- 3d Battalion, Royal Australian Regiment* (23 and 24 April 1951);
- 2d Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry* (24 and 25 April 1951);
- Company A, 72d Heavy Tank Battalion* (United States) (24 and 25 April 1951),

are cited for extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance of combat duties in action against the armed enemy near Kapyong, Korea, on the dates indicated. The enemy had broken through the main line of resistance and penetrated to the area north of Kapyong. The units listed above were deployed to stem the assault. The 3d Battalion, Royal Australian Regiment, moved to the right flank of the sector and took up defensive positions north of the Pukhon River. The 2d Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, defended in the vicinity of Hill 677 on the left flank. Company A, 72d Heavy Tank Battalion, supported all units to the full extent of its capacity and, in addition, kept the main roads open and assisted in evacuating the wounded. Troops from a retreating division passed through the sector which enabled enemy troops to infiltrate with the withdrawing forces. The enemy attacked savagely under the clangor of bugles and trumpets. The forward elements were completely surrounded going through the first day and into the second. Again and again the enemy threw waves of troops at the gallant defenders, and many times succeeded in penetrating the outer defenses, but each time the courageous, indomitable, and determined soldiers repulsed the fanatical attacks. Ammunition ran low and there was no time for food. Critical supplies were dropped by air to the encircled troops, and they stood their ground in resolute defiance of the enemy. With serene and indefatigable persistence, the gallant soldiers held their defensive positions and took heavy tolls of the enemy. In some instances when the enemy penetrated the defenses, the commanders directed friendly artillery fire on their own positions in repelling the thrusts. Toward the close of 25 April, the enemy break-through had been stopped. The seriousness of the break-through on the central front had been changed from defeat to victory by the gallant stand of these heroic and courageous soldiers. The 3d Battalion, Royal Australian Regiment; 2d Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry; and Company A, 72d Heavy Tank Battalion, displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their missions under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the campaign, and by their achievements they brought distinguished credit on themselves, their homelands, and all freedom-loving nations. 2. Section I, DA General Orders 52, 1951, is rescinded.

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 106th Veterinary Food Inspection Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 24 March to 23 September 1951. Upon its arrival in Korea, the detachment was assigned to the most forward army quartermaster supply point where it immediately established and operated a food inspection station in direct support of combat divisions. These operations were carried out with maximum efficiency, despite the close proximity of the enemy and the necessity of inspecting rations far in excess of the usual capacity of the detachment. Although designed to inspect approximately 10,000 rations daily, the 106th Veterinary Food Inspection Detachment was consistently called upon to process many times that number of rations in a single day. In addition to this heavy work schedule, the detachment operated numerous subordinate inspection points in a network encompassing a 100-mile area. During this period, the 106th Veterinary Food Inspection Detachment efficiently processed 69,000,000 pounds of rations in order to assure the wholesomeness of the food so vitally necessary to the combat effectiveness of the United Nations troops in Korea. The 106th Veterinary Food Inspection Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The superior technical skill and determination of purpose demonstrated by the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves, the Veterinary Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 898, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 November 1951.)

2. The 154th Transportation Port Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 August 1950 to 1 February 1951. Upon its arrival in Korea, this company immediately set about to accomplish its vital and difficult task of supervising the discharge of war supplies and equipment through the Port of Pusan in direct logistical support of United Nations troops fighting in Korea. Although confronted by numerous obstacles engendered by inadequate heavy cargo equipment and a critical shortage of trained personnel, the members of this company approached their assignment with the utmost determination and performed it in such an efficient and expeditious manner that they consistently evoked the highest possible praise from all those having knowledge of their splendid achievements. When the enemy offensive was at its height and the Pusan perimeter was in danger of being breached, the 154th Transportation Port Company trained as a provisional rifle company, with every man ready to function as an infantryman to hold back the aggressor forces if the need arose. After the United Nations Forces had pushed the enemy across the 38th Parallel, this company was chosen to operate the vital northern port of Chinnamp'o in order to insure a continuous flow of supplies to the rapidly advancing troops. With the intervention of the Chinese Communist Forces, Chinnamp'o served as an evacuation port and the company again demonstrated its high standard of efficiency by leaving nothing of value to the enemy in the port when it was recaptured. Upon being returned to Pusan, the members of this company resumed their vital task of supplying United Nations troops with the same effectiveness that has marked all of their accomplishments in Korea. The 154th Transportation Port Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. Following the corps' landing at Inchon, the unit expeditiously established a supply base midway between Inchon and Seoul which functioned so efficiently that it earned the deep respect and admiration of all those units which it served. Because of the rapidly developing tactical situation, the company soon found itself responsible for supplying signal equipment to all forward United Nations units. Despite the magnitude of their task, the members of the 181st Signal Depot Company, through their tireless effort and exceptional ingenuity, continuously maintained an adequate flow of vitally needed supplies to combat units. The 181st Signal Depot Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. Responsible for hauling urgently needed engineer construction material and supplies to forward areas from the Port of Pusan, the 306th Engineer Dump Truck Company achieved an unsurpassed record of tonnage hauled and evoked the highest praise for the constant state of readiness of its vehicles, despite the numerous difficulties engendered by severe weather conditions, the strain of driving over rough and dangerous roads, and the ever-present threat of enemy activity. In the successful accomplishment of their mission, the personnel of this company rendered an invaluable contribution to the expeditious and effective rehabilitation of both railway and highway supply routes supporting the United Nations Command in its campaign against aggression in Korea and earned for themselves the deep respect and admiration of all those having knowledge of their fine work. Throughout this period, the members of the detachment consistently discharged their many important assignments with the utmost promptness and precision, never failing to complete them before the established target date. Performing their assigned duties of construction and maintenance, the detachment personnel earned themselves the highest possible praise and, in addition, found time to operate essential utilities which included the repair of damaged power lines, water mains, and the construction of many temporary and permanent buildings to house the rapidly expanding Headquarters, Eighth United States Army. Despite a constant shortage of essential equipment, construction materials, and trained personnel, the 376th Engineer Utility Detachment, through the steadfast determination and outstanding resourcefulness of its members, earned itself the deep respect and admiration of all those having knowledge of its fine work and contributed immeasurably to the success achieved by the United Nations Command in its campaign in Korea. The promptness and precision with which the 538th Ordnance Medium Automotive Maintenance Company accomplished its many tasks earned it the deep respect and admiration of all those whom it served and materially increased the combat effectiveness of the units which it supported. Although its facilities were constantly overtaxed because of the unprecedented magnitude of its assigned mission, the company uncompromisingly maintained its high standard of efficiency and discharged its many duties in such an exceptional manner as to be worthy of emulation in all future campaigns. The 538th Ordnance Medium Automotive Maintenance Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The determination, ability, and esprit de corps of the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 5, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 January 1952.)

Throughout this period, the 707th Ordnance Maintenance Company was consistently called upon to extend direct support to front-line infantry, artillery, and armored units. Despite the numerous difficulties engendered by fluid tactical situations and a severe shortage of both trained personnel and essential equipment, its members processed all types of vitally needed ordnance equipment with the utmost precision and promptness. Through their ability to overcome the most intricate administrative obstacles, they maintained a well-balanced inventory of parts and major items which enabled them to expedite repairs on all equipment entrusted to them. 8. The 772d Military Police Battalion is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 8 October 1950 to 5 September 1951. From the time of its initial commitment at Wonsan, Korea, the battalion performed a wide variety of difficult missions in an exemplary manner despite extremely adverse conditions and constant shortages of personnel. Following the intervention of the Chinese Communist Forces, the members of the battalion assisted in the withdrawal of combat units from the Chosen Reservoir area into the Hungnam perimeter and were responsible for the establishment of control points in order to prevent the countless refugees from blocking the main supply routes and to keep them from interfering with the operations within the perimeter. The final elements of the battalion departed from the beachhead just before the port was abandoned by the United Nations Forces. Despite the continuous harassment of guerrilla forces, the personnel of the 772d Military Police Battalion effectively carried out their patrolling duties, providing security protection for many miles of railroad and main supply routes in such an efficient manner that they evoked the highest praise from all who were familiar with their work. Despite the seemingly insurmountable problems involved in establishing a headquarters in a combat theater with inadequately trained personnel, severe shortages of vitally needed supplies and equipment, and a lack of familiarity with the techniques and methods necessary to the successful accomplishment of their mission, the members of the company approached their assigned tasks eagerly and aggressively. With the full realization that efficiency on their part meant lives saved among the United Nations troops, the personnel of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 314th Ordnance Group (Ammunition), completely subordinated their personal comforts in order to maintain a high standard of efficiency which contributed immeasurably to the combat effectiveness of the units which they supported. Equally outstanding was the manner in which this company controlled the evacuation of friendly troops, equipment, and refugees from the northern ports subsequent to the unpredicted Chinese Communist intervention. The meritorious achievements of this company earned for it an enviable reputation of efficiency and evoked the highest praise from all those having knowledge of its fine work. Headquarters Company, 2d Logistical Command (C), displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. Assigned the mission of rendering laboratory support to the United Nations medical units serving in Korea, this laboratory performed its unprecedented task in an exemplary manner. Responsible for conducting numerous epidemiological investigations and surveys, the Medical Laboratory, 8217th Army Unit, was required to assign its members into many mobile units in order to carry out its vital mission. This split operation did not diminish the high degree of professional skill consistently manifested by the members of this unit. Instead, the magnitude of the task served to enhance the enviable reputation of dependable efficiency already established by the unit, earning it the deep respect and admiration of the organizations which it served. as it engaged in combat missions against the enemy. Through the diligence and exceptional ability of the members of the Service Battery, 10th Field Artillery Battalion, countless vehicles and pieces of vital equipment, which might otherwise have been lost because of wear and damage, were effectively maintained and held in readiness for use by the battalion. Although it was confronted with grossly inadequate harbor facilities, insufficient personnel, and a shortage of cargo handling equipment, the company, through its determination, discharged record tonnages of essential supplies and equipment for use by the United Nations troops in their battle against aggression in Korea. During its first 2 months of operation, this small unit, with an average aggregate strength of only 277 officers and enlisted men, moved more than 100,000 troops, 8,000 wounded, and over two-thirds of a million tons of cargo, including 19,000 vehicles. During the evacuation of Hungnam, the Transportation Port Company, 8057th Army Unit, serving as a subordinate unit of the 7th Transportation Medium Port, transported an estimated 150,000 personnel and 1,000,000 tons of supplies and equipment in 26 days. AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named officer:

First Lieutenant Lloyd L. Burke, O61246, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company G, 5th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and outstanding courage above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Chong-dong, Korea, on 28 October 1951. Intense enemy fire had pinned down leading elements of his company committed to secure commanding ground when Lieutenant Burke left the command post to rally and urge the men to follow him toward three bunkers impeding the advance. Dashing to an exposed vantage point, he threw several grenades at the bunkers, then returning for an M-1 rifle and adapter, he made a lone assault, wiping out the position and killing the crew. Closing on the center bunker, he lobbed grenades through the opening and, with his pistol, killed three of its occupants attempting to surround him. Ordering his men forward, he charged the third emplacement, catching several grenades in midair and hurling them back at the enemy. Inspired by his display of valor, his men stormed forward and overran the hostile position, but were again pinned down by increased fire. Securing a light machine gun and three boxes of ammunition, Lieutenant Burke dashed through the impact area to an open knoll, set up his gun, and poured a crippling fire into the ranks of the enemy, killing approximately 75. Although wounded, he ordered more ammunition, reloaded, and destroyed two mortar emplacements and a machine-gun position with his accurate fire. Cradling the weapon in his arms, he then led his men forward, killed 25 or more of the retreating enemy, and secured the objective. Lieutenant Burke's heroic action and daring exploits inspired his small force of 35 comrades to overcome an estimated defending enemy force of 300 troops. His unflinching courage and outstanding leadership reflect the highest credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

(This award supersedes the award of the Bronze Star Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) to General Tychsen, for meritorious service from 13 August to 12 September 1950, published in General Orders 15, Headquarters, IX Corps, 17 October 1950.)

II. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action on the date indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Brigadier General Oh Duk Jun, 10059, Republic of Korea Army, Commanding General, 11th Republic of Korea Army Division, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Sachon-ni, Korea, on 21 August 1951. The 1st and 2d Battalions, heavily engaged against a numerically superior hostile force, suffered numerous casualties, and rainy weather and low-hanging clouds precluded employing air support and added to the hazards of battle. Learning that his troops were falling back in the face of overwhelming enemy action and the commanding officer of the 1st Battalion had been wounded and evacuated, General Oh braved intense small-arms and mortar fire and moved over rugged, mountainous terrain, through treacherous enemy-infiltrated areas, and, upon arrival at the attacking battalion observation post, found the unit disorganized and without command. Dominating the critical situation through sheer force of his heroic example, General Oh reorganized the withdrawing elements, directed establishment of a new perimeter, assisted in the evacuation of the wounded, and, through his calm demeanor and unflinching courage under fire, inspired his command to contain the enemy until reinforcements arrived. As a result of General Oh's intrepid conduct and aggressive actions, the objective was subsequently secured, with a heavy toll in enemy dead and tremendous losses of matériel. His superb leadership and consummate devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

- Colonel Choi Kap Chung (then lieutenant colonel), Infantry, Republic of Korea Army. 10 July to 23 August 1950.
- Captain James E. Huff, O362632 (then first lieutenant, Coast Artillery Corps), Corps of Engineers, Army of the United States. 10 August to 18 November 1943.

VI. BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, WD Bul. 3, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States on the dates indicated is awarded to the following-named officer and enlisted man:

Colonel Lee Zon Il, Infantry, Republic of Korea Army, commanding officer of the 16th Regiment, distinguished himself by heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Nojon'pyong, Korea, on 10 August 1951. Colonel Lee's command was committed to secure and occupy strategic commanding ground tenaciously defended by a fanatical hostile force supported by artillery, mortar, and small-arms fire. The mission was further imperiled by inadequate supplies of food and ammunition and with previous torrential storms and swollen rivers rendering roads impassable to vehicular traffic. Colonel Lee supervised the movement of vital supplies to his assaulting units and evacuated the wounded by hand-carrying parties. He was constantly with forward elements bolstering morale, steadying and encouraging the men by his inspiring example, and directing and coordinating tactical operations. Colonel Lee's superb leadership and unflinching courage under fire reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Technician Fifth Grade Donald E. Roux (Service No. 37398809) (then private first class), Cavalry, Army of the United States, a member of Reconnaissance Company, 33d Armored Regiment, 3d Armored Division, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in action near Coutance, France, on 28 July 1944. Having been informed that a wounded infantryman lay in a field under intense enemy fire, approximately 100 yards from his position of partial safety, he rushed to the aid of the stricken soldier. Reaching the wounded man, Technician Roux was pinned down by hostile fire, but started to crawl back to safety, pulling the wounded man with him. Leaping to his feet and lifting the wounded comrade, he ran the remainder of the way to a waiting half-track vehicle, where the seriously wounded soldier was put into the car and brought to a first aid station. The heroic action by Technician Roux, doubtless precluding the capture of his wounded comrade by the enemy, reflects marked credit on himself and the United States Army.

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943); superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 220-315 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

Company K, 19th Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division (second award), and the following attached units:

Machine Gun Section, Company M, 19th Infantry Regiment (second award);
Forward Mortar Observer Team, Company M, 19th Infantry Regiment (second award);

Medical Aid Team, Medical Company, 19th Infantry Regiment (second award), are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Chip'o-ri, Korea, during the period 18 to 23 April 1951. During this period, Company K and attached units were spearheading an attack by the 3d Battalion, 19th Infantry Regiment, to secure the high ground overlooking a suspected enemy build-up area in the Kumhwa valley. Fighting their way over rugged terrain, the company and attached units seized objective after objective and, on 22 April, reached a terrain feature from which they could observe the enemy build-up area. Throughout the day, friendly artillery placed devastating fire in the area with effective results. At 1930 hours, two enemy columns, supported by intense mortar and artillery fire, advanced up the ridge and charged Company K's positions. Two waves of the assaulting enemy were immediately cut down by the accurate fire from Company K's automatic weapons and rifles. The third wave made the top of the ridge, and its overwhelming numbers forced Company K and attached units to withdraw to more tenable positions. The company commander then regrouped and encouraged his men and led them in a bayonet counterattack which, after a fierce hand-to-hand engagement, succeeded in driving off the enemy and regaining the lost positions. From that time until 2330 hours, the courageous and inspired soldiers of Company K and attached units held fast as wave after wave of determined hostile troops hurled themselves at the friendly positions. When the enemy attacked in overwhelming numbers from both flanks as well as from the front, the weary but still aggressive friendly troops were forced to withdraw to another ridge line, where they immediately began preparing for the next assault. Company K and attached units met the fanatical enemy charge with a devastating volume of fire and succeeded in repelling it. As the numerically superior enemy began to envelop Company K and attached units, it was necessary to take up more favorable positions. With ablebodied men carrying their wounded comrades, they successfully withdrew with all casualties. In the course of this action, Company K and attached units inflicted approximately 900 casualties on the hostile forces and displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in performing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the action.

The extraordinary heroism and audacity exhibited by the members of Company K, 19th Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division, and attached units reflect great credit on themselves and uphold the highest traditions of the military service. (General Orders 813, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 23 October 1951.)

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 3d Military Police Company, 3d Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 15 December 1950 to 15 June 1951. During this period, the 3d Military Police Company carried out all its missions in an outstanding manner. Despite the ever present difficulties of weather, poor roads, road nets, climate, and terrain, the logistical support of the division was never interrupted and the division's movements were accomplished efficiently and rapidly. These achievements are the direct result of the careful enforcement of rules and regulations, tireless handling of traffic, the efficient removal of road blocks and damaged vehicles, the immediate marking of hazards, and constant liaison between police road patrols and engineer units. The 3d Military Police Company also ably assisted in the movements of United Nations units attached to the 3d Infantry Division. In addition, the company was outstanding in handling stragglers, large numbers of refugees, and 3,800 prisoners of war, plus the normal policing of villages and towns. During the evacuation of the Hamhung-Hungnam area in December, the entire company worked for hours despite the severe cold and being under extreme pressure to effect the removal of approximately 72,000 refugees, and stayed on the beach-head until the last minute to expedite the final loading of the 3d Infantry Division's troops, matériel, and vehicles. In April, when the enemy launched his western spring offensive, every difficulty and demand were intensified. The 3d Military Police Company once again acquitted itself admirably. A portion of the unit also went to the aid of a cut-off reconnaissance force, and on another occasion assisted in the evacuation of casualties under direct fire of the enemy. The 3d Military Police Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The meritorious conduct of the members of the 3d Military Police Company, 3d Infantry Division, reflects great credit on themselves, the Military Police Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 610, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 August 1951.)

2. The 7th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company (second award) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 25 March to 24 September 1951. During this period, the 7th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company consistently performed its extremely difficult tasks under adverse combat conditions in a superior manner. The company continually rendered ordnance support to front-line infantry and artillery units, performing on-the-spot maintenance of weapons and vehicles. This rapid maintenance was accomplished with minimum delay and added greatly to the efficiency and effectiveness of the units served. In addition, the company maintained a large inventory of spare parts which expedited the repair of combat vehicles and other equipment, thereby enabling their return to combat organizations in a short period of time. The maintenance of such a large inventory obviated the necessity of sending many critically needed items to rear echelons for replacement or repair and permitted the combat units almost continuous use of the items for sustained efficiency and effectiveness. The 7th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The technical ability and high degree of skill exhibited by the members of the company throughout this period reflect great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 832, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 31 October 1951.)

3. The 44th Engineer Construction Battalion is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 26 September 1950 to 30 November 1951. During this period, the battalion was charged with many difficult missions of a widely varied nature. Among these was the tremendous task of repairing and constructing over 500 miles of main supply routes which were vitally needed to insure successful military operations against the enemy. The battalion also constructed some 5,000 feet of permanent bridges and maintained 3,500 feet of floating bridges. Continuously combatting the most adverse weather conditions, critical shortages of supplies and materials, and the sporadic harassment of enemy guerrilla bands, the members of the 44th Engineer Construction Battalion nevertheless displayed great determination in carrying out their assigned tasks in a skillful and expeditious manner, habitually earning themselves the deep admiration and gratitude of the combat units which they supported. Despite the seeming insurmountability of many of the obstacles facing them, the members of the battalion met these problems with confidence and enthusiasm, never failing to set an example of efficiency worthy of emulation throughout the command. The 44th Engineer Construction Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The resoluteness, outstanding technical skill, and esprit de corps of the members of the battalion reflect great credit on themselves, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 33, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 17 January 1952.)

4. The 57th Military Police Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 16 December 1950 to 1 July 1951. During the strategic withdrawal of the United Nations Forces to the south in December, the 57th Military Police Company was charged with controlling an extremely vital main supply route between Yongpong and Mungyang. This task was accomplished in a thoroughly superior manner. When the Chinese Communist spring offensive was initiated, the 57th Military Police Company expeditiously performed the difficult and intricate task of moving a combat division and supporting units through treacherous defiles and rugged mountainous terrain from Chunchon to Hongchon. Despite adverse weather conditions and, on many occasions, hostile action, the members of this company maintained efficient traffic control in guarding bridges, defiles, and numerous other vital points, consistently performing these duties in an outstanding manner. In addition, the company received and processed military stragglers and returned them to their proper organizations, assisted in the evacuation of thousands of refugees from forward areas, and aided in the expeditious evacuation of prisoners of war. The 57th Military Police Company displayed outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The high degree of skill, determination, and steadfast devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Military Police Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 854, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 4 November 1951.)

5. The 69th Ordnance Ammunition Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct and performance of outstanding services in Japan and Korea during the period 26 June to 26 December 1950. With the outbreak of hostilities in Korea, the company rapidly achieved wartime preparedness and assumed its initial mission of conducting the shipment of huge quantities of ammunition from Japan to the combat zone. Landing at Inchon on 26 September, the company, in addition to its primary mission of supplying ammunition for two combat divisions, displayed tenacious endeavor and versatility in performing quartermaster functions, constructing roads, laying telephone communications nets, and loading and off-loading rail cars. Elements of the company served with distinction as infantry near Koto-ri, and, while Pokchong was under siege, succeeded in evacuating 740 tons of ammunition from the very grasp of the enemy. Through superior planning and close teamwork, the company quickly established depots to supply elements of the X Corps immediately after arrival at each new point. During the evacuation of forces from Hungnam by sea, the company remained on the beachhead to coordinate and expedite the outloading of vast quantities of ammunition and furnish supplies to rear-guard elements. The notable achievements of the 69th Ordnance Ammunition Company reflect utmost credit on the United States Army and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service. (General Orders 179, Headquarters, Far East Command, 9 July 1951.)

6. The 88th Military Police Company (Corps) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 27 November 1950 to 30 June 1951. The 88th Military Police Company (Corps) landed at Hungnam and, until 24 December, actively participated in its defense, guarding vital installations in the port area and posting guards outside the perimeter of defense to provide further security measures. In addition, the company secured and evacuated millions of dollars worth of strategic military equipment, effectively directed all traffic entering and leaving the port area, and assisted in the processing and evacuation of approximately 100,000 civilians from the port. This company was the last military police unit to depart from the area as the final elements of infantry completed their evacuation. Later, the company controlled traffic to support the combat divisions of X Corps. This important mission consisted of the effective direction of all traffic to insure maximum combat supply efficiency, the control of main supply routes to prevent loss of personnel and equipment because of hostile activities, the evacuation of prisoners of war, the control of refugees, and the establishment of straggler control points. This assignment was accomplished under increasingly strong pressure from enemy forces. Throughout this period, the 88th Military Police Company (Corps) patrolled and directed traffic over thousands of miles of roads under extremely adverse conditions and was confronted with tasks of such magnitude that normally they would have been delegated to a larger military police organization. The notable achievements, superior skill, and steadfast devotion to duty of the members of this company contributed immeasurably to the success achieved by X Corps in carrying out its mission. The 88th Military Police Company (Corps) displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The diligence and determination with which the members of this company performed their many duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Military Police Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 854, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 4 November 1951.)

7. The 185th Engineer Combat Battalion is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 April to 30 September 1951. Throughout this period, the battalion consistently performed all its assigned missions with extraordinary enthusiasm, vigor, and efficiency, completely disregarding the many difficulties encountered. During the X Corps' advance from Kyongju to the Soyang River, the battalion contributed materially to the logistical support of this corps by its outstanding engineer accomplishments, which included the maintenance of main roads and the construction of numerous permanent and semipermanent bridges. Notable among these accomplishments was the 770-foot triple single Bailey bridge erected across the Soyang River at Umyangni, which was constructed in the record time of 14 days. With remarkable speed, superior ability, and a high degree of skill, the members of this battalion planned the construction of the bridge, secured materials, and, working on a 24-hour basis, successfully accomplished the task. This bridge now forms a vital link in the main supply route, supplying corps troops and four divisions. The 185th Engineer Combat Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and accomplished its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The technical ability with which the members of this organization performed their duties reflects great credit on themselves, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 821, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 25 October 1951.)

8. The 302d Military Intelligence Service Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 5 March to 5 December 1951. During this period, the members of the company provided Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, and subordinate commands with vital and timely intelligence information, and, through G2 Section, Eighth United States Army, disseminated this information to all interested agencies. In addition to the above assigned tasks, the company provided cadre for, and coordinated the activities of, all subordinate intelligence units within the command. Realizing the vital necessity of speed in accomplishing its mission, the members of the unit constantly devised expedients to better their efforts, providing the Eighth United States Army with the bulk of its reliable information promptly and in time to enable units of the command to successfully employ their forces in combat.

The outstanding services which members of the 302d Military Intelligence Service Company performed were over and above the normal duties and functions usually required of so small a unit. The company members displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set the 302d Military Intelligence Service Company apart and above all units with a similar mission. The determination, exceptional efficiency, and professional ability with which the members of this company performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 1026, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 27 December 1951.)

9. The 665th Transportation Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 8 November 1950 to 8 May 1951. Throughout this period, the company rendered outstanding tactical and logistical support to the divisions and other United Nations units attached to I and IX Corps and the 3d Logistical Command. In order to maintain a constant flow of supplies to the various units in Korea, it was necessary for the company to expand its transportation facilities over great distances, far exceeding those normally required of a truck company of this type. Supporting these major command units for extended periods of time under extremely adverse weather conditions, the members of this company diligently and enthusiastically completed all assigned missions in a highly competent and commendable manner. Despite the critical shortage of automotive parts for their vehicles, the personnel of the company devised methods by which they could salvage vitally needed spare parts from abandoned or partially destroyed vehicles which they found along their supply routes. Even though acute shortages of skilled drivers and maintenance personnel existed, the company nevertheless operated and maintained 38 vehicles for dispatch daily, transporting 57,525 passengers and 30,118 tons of ammunition and supplies and registering a total of 432,390 miles in performing its mission. The ingenuity, zeal, and steadfast devotion to duty manifested by the 665th Transportation Truck Company in overcoming almost insurmountable difficulties contributed materially to the outstanding achievements attained by the United Nations Forces. The 665th Transportation Truck Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The initiative, skill, and determination with which the members of this company performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Transportation Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 821, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 25 October 1951.)

10. The Far East Command Liaison Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct and the performance of outstanding services in Korea during the period 15 August 1950 to 15 October 1951. Confronted with a critical demand for specialized intelligence, the detachment devised ingenious expedients for the expeditious development of an effective information gathering system which provided invaluable enemy data for use by United Nations' commanders in the tactical employment of combat forces. Despite unparalleled problems of operation and extremely adverse and hazardous conditions, the unit achieved a remarkably high degree of proficiency. The marked personal courage and unselfish devotion to duty of all members of the detachment culminated in the successful fulfillment of highly classified projects which insured a reliable source of timely, accurate intelligence of utmost importance to the prosecution of the United Nations' campaign for peace in Korea. The meritorious achievements and exemplary conduct of the Far East Command Liaison Detachment reflect great credit on the unit, its members, and the United States Army. (General Orders 282, Headquarters, Far East Command, 26 December 1951.)

11. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 55th Transportation Truck Battalion, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 26 September 1950 to 26 March 1951. During this period, the company rendered outstanding tactical and logistical support to the attached divisions and other United Nations units of I, IX, and X Corps and the 3d Logistical Command. Operating over distances far exceeding the normal capacity of the unit of this type, the company supported these major command units with transportation for prolonged periods of time over supply routes which extended more than 350 miles. Despite far-extending lines of communication, through the ingenuity, versatility, resourcefulness, and untiring efforts of the members of the company, the transportation of supplies and the movement of combat elements were expeditiously and skillfully accomplished. Throughout this period, 208,772 passengers and 264,512 short tons of cargo were transported, a total of 2,303,835 miles. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 55th Transportation Truck Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The steadfast devotion to duty and diligence with which the members of this organization performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Transportation Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 832, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 31 October 1951.)

12. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 67th Ordnance Ammunition Battalion (Second award), is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 April to 1 October 1951. Assigned the mission of rendering ammunition supply support to X Corps and attached units and supervising attached ordnance ammunition companies and explosive disposal squads, Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 67th Ordnance Ammunition Battalion, accomplished this vital mission under the most adverse conditions of weather and enemy activity. Through the diligence and exceptional ability of members of the battalion, many ammunition supply points were effectively maintained in a manner which rendered them capable of issuing ammunition supplies in an efficient and prompt manner. The support rendered had a measurable effect on the combat efficiency of the units concerned. The many problems engendered by inadequate supply facilities and the fluid tactical situation were faced with resourcefulness, skill, and determination by the members of Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 67th Ordnance Ammunition Battalion. Although it was necessary for this unit to maintain liaison with various higher headquarters, further weakening an already under strength organization, the exemplary application to duty of its members made it possible for the battalion to continue to operate with a marked degree of efficiency. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 67th Ordnance Ammunition Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, ability, and esprit de corps of members of this battalion reflect great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 1026, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 27 December 1951, as amended by General Orders 33, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 17 January 1952.)

13. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 83d Ordnance Ammunition Battalion, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 25 November 1950 to 31 October 1951. Upon its arrival in Korea, this unit was assigned the mission of operating an ammunition depot in Ascom City. Because of the fluid tactical situation at that time, it was soon found necessary to withdraw from the area. Prior to this retrograde movement, however, Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 83d Ordnance Ammunition Battalion, successfully evacuated over 20,000 tons of vitally needed ammunition by utilizing every transportation facility available. Despite a severe shortage of trained personnel and essential equipment, the members of this detachment consistently displayed a high standard of efficiency which earned them the deep respect and admiration of all those units which they served. During this period, Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 83d Ordnance Ammunition Battalion, established 36 ammunition supply points in direct support of combat units and operated them with the utmost skill, distributing over 1,000,000 tons of vitally needed ammunition to United Nations troops fighting for peace and freedom in Korea. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 83d Ordnance Ammunition Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, ability, and esprit de corps manifested by the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 33, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 17 January 1952.)

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Corporal Rodolfo P. Hernandez (Service No. RA19324605), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company G, 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Wontong-ni, Korea, on 31 May 1951. His platoon, in defensive positions on Hill 420, came under ruthless attack by a numerically superior and fanatical hostile force, accompanied by heavy artillery, mortar, and machine-gun fire which inflicted numerous casualties on the platoon. His comrades were forced to withdraw because of lack of ammunition, but Corporal Hernandez, although wounded in an exchange of grenades, continued to deliver deadly fire into the ranks of the onrushing assailants until a ruptured cartridge rendered his rifle inoperative. Immediately leaving his position, Corporal Hernandez rushed the enemy armed only with rifle and bayonet. Fearlessly engaging the foe, he killed six of the enemy before falling unconscious from grenade, bayonet, and bullet wounds, but his heroic action momentarily halted the enemy advance and enabled his unit to counterattack and retake the lost ground. The indomitable fighting spirit, outstanding courage, and tenacious devotion to duty clearly demonstrated by Corporal Hernandez reflect the highest credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION—Citation of units----- I
MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION—Awards----- II

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 220-315 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

1. The 2d Battalion, 8th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, and the following attached units:

16th Reconnaissance Company, 1st Cavalry Division;

2d Platoon, Heavy Mortar Company, 8th Cavalry Regiment,

are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Taegu, Korea, during the period 14 to 19 September 1950. During the enemy drive through South Korea, the United Nations Forces strategically withdrew and formed a last ditch perimeter along the Naktong River. On 14 September, the 2d Battalion was ordered to attack and secure Hill 570, the dominating terrain feature in the area of Taegu. This city represented the last remaining road center that led to the vital supply port of Pusan. Under the cover of accurate supporting fire from attached artillery and mortar units, the battalion stormed up the craggy hill under intense enemy fire. After 3 hours of bitter, close combat fighting, the enemy was driven from the crucial ground. Ordered to hold the hill at all costs, the battalion fought tenaciously day and night from 14 to 19 September to repulse desperate hostile attempts to regain the key hill position. During this action, enemy patrols constantly infiltrated the battalion's emplacements in the darkness and hid just below these emplacements. At dawn, the enemy would fanatically attack in banzai fashion, throwing hand grenades. Tremendous mortar barrages and daylight attacks by numerically superior enemy forces were a common occurrence during these seven harrowing days. Despite the overwhelming odds and pressure exerted against the position, the battalion fought with imbued fury to successfully hold the critical ridge. Although the situation was discouraging at times, the officers and men never wavered in their determination to stop the enemy. The battalion's gallant stand staved off almost certain defeat to other units and was materially responsible for preventing the enemy from possibly sweeping on to Pusan. The 2d Battalion, 8th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, and attached units displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their missions under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism of the members of these units reflects great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 612, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 August 1951.)

2. Company K, 5th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, and the following attached units:

2d Section, Machine Gun Platoon, Company M, 5th Cavalry Regiment;

2d Section, 81-mm Mortar Platoon, Company M, 5th Cavalry Regiment;

2d Section, 75-mm Recoilless Rifle Platoon, Company M, 5th Cavalry Regiment;

Regimental Radio Team, 5th Cavalry Regiment;

Detachment, Medical Company, 5th Cavalry Regiment;

2d Platoon, Company A, 70th Tank Battalion (second award), are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in

AGO 3387B—Apr. 950993°—52

action against the enemy in the vicinity of Tokchol-li, Korea, on 6 September 1951. On that date, Company K and attached units were assigned the mission of establishing a patrol base and forming a perimeter defense in a position 6,000 yards forward of the main line of resistance. At 0400 hours, Company K and attached units were subjected to an intense artillery and mortar barrage and then attacked from all sides by an estimated enemy battalion. The initial assault made by the hostile forces was contained and the enemy was forced to withdraw after suffering heavy casualties. During the remainder of the night, six more attacks were launched against the friendly perimeter, but the gallant soldiers of Company K and attached units, undaunted by these fierce onslaughts, consistently repulsed the attackers. At daylight, the enemy was observed deploying an estimated enemy battalion in position between Company K and a ferry site, from which friendly reinforcements were to cross. At 1000 hours, an attack toward the ferry site was contained and Company K and attached units were ordered to fight clear of the perimeter. An armored task force broke through to the company's position to evacuate the casualties and to prepare for the break out. At 1730 hours, the task force, with Company K and attached units in attack formation, successfully fought their way out of the untenable position. During this action, Company K and attached units inflicted approximately 850 casualties on the enemy. Company K, 5th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, and attached units displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the campaign. The extraordinary heroism and steadfast devotion to duty displayed by the members of these units reflect great credit on themselves and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service. (General Orders 754, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 9 October 1951.)

3. Company L, 7th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, and the following attached units:

2d Section, Heavy Machine Gun Platoon, Company M, 7th Infantry Regiment;

2d Section, 75-mm Recoilless Rifle Platoon, Company M, 7th Infantry Regiment;

Forward Observation Team, Battery C, 10th Field Artillery Battalion;

Detachment, Medical Company, 7th Infantry Regiment.

are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Chungmasan, Korea, on 6 and 7 September 1951. On 6 September, Company L relieved Company I which had established a patrol base on Hill 284 approximately 5,000 yards in front of the main line of resistance. During the daylight hours, Company L and attached units prepared defensive positions on the hill. Shortly after dark, elements of two enemy regiments moved into positions from which they could attempt to dislodge Company L from the patrol base. The enemy then placed an estimated two companies along the main supply route to the friendly lines. Sending small probing patrols from its main forces against the perimeter of the patrol base, the enemy built up strength and prepared for its main assault. At 0240 hours, 7 September, the hostile force launched its assault from behind a well-laid smoke screen and, using its superior numbers to press the attack, poured a devastating barrage of small-arms, automatic-weapons, and mortar fire into the perimeter. Undaunted by the vast numbers of enemy troops, the friendly forces engaged them in savage hand-to-hand combat. Although their positions were seriously threatened, Company L and attached units, by shifting the men from one position to another to meet each major threat as it occurred, contained each assault and prevented a serious penetration. At daybreak, the hostile force, now fully exposed in the open terrain, broke contact and fled in panic and disorder, abandoning its equipment and leaving the area littered with casualties. The tenacious resistance and perseverance exhibited by Company L and attached units in defending Hill 284 enabled them to withstand repeated onslaughts and inflict approximately 500 casualties on the enemy. Company L, 7th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, and attached units displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart from and above other units participating in the campaign. The extraordinary heroism displayed by all members of these units reflects great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 761, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 12 October 1951.)

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 220-315, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 4th Signal Battalion, Corps, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 3 September 1950 to 14 July 1951. This unit, a corps signal battalion, continually performed duties of a magnitude normally found only at an army level or higher. The battalion operated equipment far in excess of existing tables of organization and equipment without any increase in authorized personnel. Communications from corps to divisions and separate task forces during this period were consistently outstanding. Construction and operations were performed over excessive distances in a terrain that did not lend itself to good communications and in areas heavily infested by enemy guerrilla forces, causing additional difficulties. The service furnished by this battalion was accomplished regardless of the fact that the unit was understrength in critically needed technicians and less one organic construction company within the battalion. The 4th Signal Battalion, Corps, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The meritorious conduct of members of this organization reflects great credit on themselves, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 600, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 31 July 1951.)

2. The 7th Infantry Division Band is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 September 1950 to 30 June 1951. Members of the band trained long and arduously in both the use of their many musical instruments and in the proficient use of infantry weapons. After the Inchon invasion, the band set aside their musical instruments and actively participated in the defense of the division command post. From time to time, band members were formed into reconnaissance patrols and combed the rugged Korean hills, searching for guerrilla hide-outs. At a time when enemy raiding parties and ambushes were a nightly occurrence and invasion forces were battling to relieve the pressure on embattled United Nations Forces to the south, the band established road blocks, participated in outpost duty, and guarded vital supplies. At the time of the evacuation of Hungnam, band members unloaded tons of essential matériel. On several occasions braving subzero weather and enemy action, the small unit moved through guerrilla infested territory as advance party for the division command group. Working tirelessly, the band organized variety shows and musical combinations for the entertainment of line soldiers whenever the tactical situation permitted. The 7th Infantry Division Band displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The exemplary conduct of the members of this unit reflects great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 600, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 31 July 1951.)

3. The 13th Engineer Combat Battalion, 7th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 11 September 1950 to 10 May 1951. Elements of the battalion went ashore at Inchon on 18 September in support of the 32d Regimental Combat Team and provided effective engineer support during the Inchon-Seoul-Suwon operation in a particularly sedulous manner. In North Korea, the battalion performed prodigious engineering tasks in support of the 7th Infantry Division in its drive from Iwon Beach to the Manchurian border on the Yalu River, to include demolition of bridges, laying and clearing mine fields, assault crossings of rivers, road and bridge repair and construction, and the construction of air strips for light and heavy aircraft. The adeptness and versatility of the unit and theadroitness of its members were conspicuously demonstrated on many occasions and earned the complete confidence of all members of the division's regimental combat teams. A prime example of their versatility presented itself when the hydroelectric and cableway system was captured from the enemy in North Korea. With great speed and skill, this system was repaired and operated by members of the battalion. Covering a distance of approximately 19 miles over terrain which was impassable to vehicular traffic, the operation of this system facilitated the delivery of hundreds of tons of supplies, ammunition, and equipment to front-line units, saving countless precious days and thousands of trucking miles which would have been required to transport these items by truck over precarious mountain roads. Although trained and equipped as combat engineers, exigencies of the service on numerous occasions dictated their being pressed into battle as infantrymen. They took their place in the line without hesitation and with pride and skill which exemplified the highest traditions of the combat engineers. This unit has met every challenge and has performed its primary mission, that of engineer support, with such assiduity as to distinguish it in an exemplary manner. The 13th Engineer Combat Battalion, 7th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The meritorious conduct and professional ability of members of this unit brought great credit on themselves, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 578, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 23 July 1951.)

4. The 21st Military Police Criminal Investigation Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 6 July 1950 to 30 June 1951. This unit, the first military police criminal investigation unit to arrive in Korea at the outbreak of hostilities, supported the combat divisions in all investigative matters in an outstanding manner. The determined spirit of the personnel of the unit contributed greatly to the successful accomplishment of crime prevention and investigation throughout the entire Eighth Army, despite the most adverse conditions. During this period, the 21st Military Police Criminal Investigation Detachment investigated 619 cases, conducted 4 black-market surveys of the vital port of Pusan, and recovered almost $80,000 worth of Government property and $17,600 worth of private property. Their tasks were performed with efficiency and thoroughness and were the greatest single factor in the protection and recovery of supplies so vital to military operations. The 21st Military Police Criminal Investigation Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, skill, and excellence with which this detachment performed its outstanding duties reflect great credit on its members, the Military Police Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 573, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 22 July 1951.)

5. The 25th Military Police Company, 25th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period July 1950 to March 1951. During this period, the company discharged its duties in a superior manner by solving the many problems presented by poor roads and rugged terrain. The company's ability to overcome all traffic problems was demonstrated by its performance at Masan, Chindong-ni, Kumsan, Taejon, Kaesong, Kunu-ri, Pyongyang, Seoul, Suwon, and at the Han River crossings. The motor patrols of this unit worked night and day under the most adverse weather conditions, hazardous road conditions, and danger because of enemy infiltration and road blocks. The company received, processed, and evacuated over 23,000 prisoners of war and 22,000 refugees. In clearing the division's main supply routes of refugees, the company aided the uninterrupted flow of supplies and tactical elements. On many occasions, members of this organization served as infantrymen with task forces and in perimeter defenses in an exemplary manner. The 25th Military Police Company, 25th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, ability, and esprit de corps of this organization reflect great credit on each individual member, the Military Police Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 442, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 20 June 1951.)

6. The 25th Quartermaster Company, 25th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 August 1950 to 31 January 1951. Throughout this period during the Korean campaign, despite shortages in personnel and equipment and serious maintenance problems inherent in the critical tactical situation at that time, the 25th Quartermaster Company continued to support the 25th Infantry Division plus attached army and corps units in an exceptional manner. Through its tenacity and resourcefulness, this company improvised means of augmenting existing supply and service facilities, providing outstanding logistical support under exceptionally difficult conditions. The services rendered by this company went far beyond those required of a company of this type. The superior performance and exemplary achievements of the company materially contributed to the successful operation of the 25th Infantry Division. The 25th Quartermaster Company, 25th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The zeal, discipline, and determination exemplified by members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Quartermaster Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 470, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 28 June 1951.)

7. The 27th Ordnance Maintenance Company, 1st Cavalry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 18 July 1950 to 28 May 1951. Personnel of this company displayed determination and skill beyond that normally expected in the performance of such duties in a combat zone. Under extremely hazardous conditions, the company achieved its high level of efficiency under the difficulties of insufficient supplies, shortage of personnel, adverse weather conditions, and frequent displacement because of enemy action. Each task assigned to the company was performed in an exemplary manner. Vast amounts of ordnance equipment damaged in battle were repaired and returned to using units with a minimum of lost time, thereby materially increasing the combat effectiveness of the 1st Cavalry Division. The 27th Ordnance Maintenance Company, 1st Cavalry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The perseverance, ingenuity, technical ability, use of field expedients, and personal self-sacrifice of all personnel reflect great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 578, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 23 July 1951.)

8. The 76th Engineer Dump Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 16 September 1950 to 30 April 1951. From the initial landings at Inchon to the Chinese Communist Forces intervention at Kunu-ri, this unit successfully supported United Nations military operations in an exemplary manner. Although technically trained as basic army troops, the members of this unit, after only 10 days of training in the operations of amphibious vehicles, successfully engaged in reconnaissance and combat patrol missions in support of the 4th Ranger Company. This contributed in great measure to the tactical success of that unit's mission. The 76th Engineer Dump Truck Company subsequently supported both I and IX Corps simultaneously, not only in engineer dump truck operations, but by serving as engineer troops in the operation of clay pits, rock quarries, rock crushing and screening plants, and in the maintenance and operation of engineer class IV dumps. The company successfully evacuated engineer supplies and equipment and denied to the enemy that which it could not move when its dump position became untenable and it was necessary to evacuate rear guard elements on tanks. The 76th Engineer Dump Truck Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination and esprit de corps of this unit reflect great credit on its members, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 573, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 22 July 1951.)

9. The 164th Military Intelligence Service Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 12 July 1950 to 12 July 1951. During this period, the detachment furnished the Eighth Army with vital and timely information which was obtained from interrogations of prisoners of war and the translation of captured enemy documents. As the only military intelligence unit available to the Eighth Army at the outset of the Korean campaign, the 164th Military Intelligence Service Detachment screened all prisoners of war, completed interrogations, and reproduced and disseminated the information obtained to all interested agencies. In addition to the above assigned tasks, the detachment was utilized to assist in the coordination of activities of newly activated interrogation of prisoner of war detachments. The detachment served as a liaison between the Eighth Army and the Republic of Korea forces on matters pertaining to intelligence information and prisoner of war interrogations.

Realizing the urgent necessity for speed in accomplishing its mission, the detachment, despite the handicap of operating under extremely adverse and often hazardous conditions, devised field expedients to provide the G-2, Eighth Army, with reliable information in order that deployment of units in combat could be accomplished successfully. Through the experience gained in actual field operations, the detachment compiled a series of standing operating procedures for the processing of captured enemy documents and the interrogation of prisoners of war, which have been used as a basis for Eighth Army intelligence instructions.

The 164th Military Intelligence Service Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, effectiveness, and professional ability of the members of this detachment reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 689, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 9 September 1951.)

10. The 565th Quartermaster Graves Registration Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period September 1950 to April 1951. The 565th Quartermaster Graves Registration Company was assigned the missions of establishing and operating military cemeteries in Korea, searching for and recovering United Nations dead, and operating graves registration collecting points. This company was the first graves registration unit to arrive in Korea and, though badly understrength and previously inexperienced in graves registration activities, was placed immediately in charge of all United Nations cemeteries in Korea. The company performed this task in the most outstanding manner, often making identifications and burials under enemy fire. During the cited period, the 565th Quartermaster Graves Registration Company made 4,641 interments, recovered 1,557 United Nations dead from isolated graves and the Korean countryside despite harassment from guerrillas and mine fields, and disinterred 3,264 remains for return to the continental United States. They also operated 10 cemeteries and participated in both the Inchon and Hungnam landings. The 565th Quartermaster Graves Registration Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The consistent high standards of operating efficiency, loyal teamwork, and meritorious conduct displayed by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Quartermaster Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 403, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 5 June 1951.)

11. The Armed Forces Radio Service Detachment, 8214th Army Unit, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 4-October 1950 to 18 May 1951. During this period, the men operated a mobile radio station in Korea and maintained a broadcast schedule for at least 18 hours daily with limited personnel and equipment under most adverse conditions. In addition to normal operation of the station, the personnel of the unit repeatedly volunteered to accompany combat units so that they might bring first-hand reports to their listening audience through actual tape recordings of critical military engagements. Although their facilities were limited, members of the staff produced complete radio shows of such an excellent quality that they have been rebroadcast in many other parts of the world. The superior manner of performance and outstanding devotion to duty of this organization contributed materially to the morale and esprit de corps of the Eighth Army. The Armed Forces Radio Service Detachment, 8214th Army Unit, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The morale, discipline, and devotion to duty exemplified by the members of this unit reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 441, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 20 June 1951.)

12. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 52d Medical Battalion, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 24 September 1950 to 31 May 1951. Although this unit's basic mission was to serve as an administrative headquarters, it assumed the additional responsibilities of medical regulating and evacuation without loss of efficiency of operation. Between 15 January and 3 April, to meet the high casualty influx, all personnel, including clerks, cooks, mechanics, and other administrative personnel, without neglecting their primary duties, operated a 24-hour ambulance shuttle, handling a total of 28,462 incoming and 11,940 outgoing patients, in addition to rendering ambulance service to units in the Pusan area on both emergency and routine status. This was accomplished concurrently with the over-all administration of seven attached medical units. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 52d Medical Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The skill, effectiveness, versatility, and outstanding meritorious achievements of the members of this unit reflect great credit on themselves, the Army Medical Service, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 600, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 31 July 1951.)

13. Service Battery 11th Field Artillery Battalion, 24th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 16 September 1950 to 31 March 1951. Assigned the mission of rendering logistical support to a medium artillery battalion in combat, the battery performed its mission under adverse conditions with outstanding success. Through the untiring efforts of all sections of the battery, equipment, personnel, and vital supplies were furnished in a minimum of time. Personnel of this unit worked willingly and untiringly to insure that ammunition, petroleum products, and rations were sent expeditiously to the forward elements. Ammunition supply points and petroleum dumps were located at great distances and drivers had to make continuous trips over rough terrain to maintain a constant supply of these important items. When vehicular replacements, tools, and spare parts were critically needed, the personnel of the battery alleviated this situation by working greater periods of time, by taking usable parts from abandoned vehicles, and by ingeniously improvising the necessary spare parts. Service Battery, 11th Field Artillery Battalion, 24th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The initiative, tenacity, and devotion to duty displayed by this unit contributed in a high degree to the successful accomplishment of the missions assigned to the battalion and reflect great credit on its members and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 689, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 9 September 1951.)

DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION—Citation of units----- I
MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION—Awards----- II

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

1. The 2d Platoon, Company A, 1st Battalion, 31st Infantry Regiment, 2d Republic of Korea Infantry Division, is cited for extraordinary heroism against an armed enemy on 16 and 17 May 1951 near Chongpyong, Korea. During the night of 16 May, the 2d Platoon was occupying a vital hill when two enemy companies infiltrated to the friendly platoon's right flank. These were immediately put to rout by the deadly accuracy of the platoon's small-arms and adjusted mortar and artillery fire. Simultaneously, an enemy company which was making a frontal attack from the north likewise was dispersed. The remnants of the three enemy companies then joined forces and attacked up the east slope of the hill. Fighting savagely for several hours with small arms and bayonets, the courageous 2d Platoon annihilated more than a company of the fanatical enemy. The intensity of the next enemy attack slowly forced the platoon, whose ammunition was now nearly exhausted, from its position and down the south slope of the hill in savage hand-to-hand fighting. At 0500 hours 17 May, the intrepid platoon leader, his platoon reorganized, called for artillery preparation and mounted a bayonet charge against a still numerically superior enemy. The platoon's assault was stopped at the crest of the hill by a deadly enemy barrage of hand grenades. Realizing the desperate situation, the platoon leader employed a ruse against the enemy. Exhorting his platoon in a loud voice to charge, the platoon remained prone and at the same time yelled and shouted frantically. This resulted in the enemy hurling his grenades prematurely, which exploded harmlessly out of range of the assaulting platoon. Then the inspired soldiers immediately attacked and routed the surprised enemy, inflicting heavy casualties on them in vicious hand-to-hand fighting. This small but gallant group of men succeeded in holding their position until an enemy battalion was discovered infiltrating from the northwest in a flanking movement and they were ordered to withdraw, leaving 193 counted enemy dead plus another 100 estimated to be outside its position. Of the platoon's 31 members, 2 were killed and 15 wounded. The 2d Platoon displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing its mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set it apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism of the members of the 2d Platoon, Company A, 1st Battalion, 31st Infantry Regiment, 2d Republic of Korea Infantry Division, reflects great credit on themselves and the Republic of Korea Army. (General Orders 577, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 23 July 1951.)

2. The 3d Battalion (second award), 7th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, and the following attached units:

- 2d Platoon, Company C, 70th Heavy Tank Battalion;*
- 3d Platoon, Company C, 70th Heavy Tank Battalion;*

3d Platoon, Heavy Mortar Company, 7th Cavalry Regiment;
Intelligence and Reconnaissance Platoon, 7th Cavalry Regiment;
2d Platoon, Company B, 8th Engineer Construction Battalion;
Battery C, 77th Field Artillery Battalion;
339th Radio Team, 13th Signal Company;
3d Platoon Medical Company, 7th Cavalry Regiment,

are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy on the road northward through Ch'ongju, Korea, subsequent to breaking out of the Pusan Perimeter, during the period 21 to 27 September 1950. On 21 September, the 3d Battalion and attached units were assigned the mission of driving north to make contact with friendly forces moving south from Inchon. In order to carry out its task, the battalion was forced to fight its way through elements of three North Korean divisions. As a result of their courageous spirit and unshakable determination, the friendly troops met the hostile forces in a number of decisive engagements and inflicted extremely heavy personnel and equipment losses. Through swift and effective tactical moves, the battalion was able to stab through 137 miles of enemy territory, thus effecting an irreparable split in the main body of the hostile army opposing the United Nations Forces and thereby setting the stage for the ultimate defeat of the North Korean People's Army. The operation was conducted at all times with the utmost aggressiveness, gallantry, and esprit de corps and is deserving of emulation in all future campaigns. The 3d Battalion and its attached units displayed such unsurpassed individual and collective bravery in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism exhibited by all members of the 3d Battalion, 7th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, and its attached units reflects great credit on themselves and upholds the most esteemed traditions of the military service of the United States. (General Orders 87, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 10 February 1952.)

3. Company G, 21st Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division, is cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Kumsong, Korea, during the period 14 to 18 October 1951. On the morning of 14 October, Company G was assigned the mission of attacking and securing a series of interlocking and heavily fortified enemy emplacements located on a strategic hill. As the friendly force moved up the precipitous slope, which was almost completely devoid of cover, it became a target for the heavy small-arms and automatic-weapons fire pouring down from connecting enemy bunkers and trenches extending 1,500 yards in width. Despite the devastating fire being concentrated on them, the friendly troops advanced with dogged determination. As they reached the outlying enemy positions, a fierce battle ensued which caused numerous casualties to be inflicted among the hostile troops and forced them to flee down the reverse slope of the hill. Using machine guns and flame throwers, the friendly force further decimated the demoralized enemy troops as they attempted to escape. Under continuous enemy artillery and mortar bombardment, the members of Company G were then deployed in a defensive perimeter which they held despite the numerous attempts made by the fanatical hostile troops to dislodge them. On the morning of 16 October, the company was again assigned the mission of taking a hill which was defended by a numerically superior enemy force occupying a network of strong fortifications. As the friendly troops advanced across the open terrain toward their objective, a devastating enemy artillery barrage accounted for many casualties. Undaunted, they continued moving forward and, upon reaching the base of their objective, they fixed their bayonets and charged direct up the hill. With great courage, the members of Company G fought their way toward the crest, destroying each enemy position in their route of attack. Fighting hand-to-hand with the enemy, the friendly troops, with indefatigable persistence, moved steadily forward until the objective was secured and the hostile force was annihilated. Then, from forward defensive positions, the members of Company G poured a heavy volume of fire into the remaining adjacent enemy emplacements in support of other attacking friendly units until the entire area was secured. During this 4-day period, the enemy suffered approximately 444 casualties with 162 killed and an estimated 282 wounded. In addition, eight enemy prisoners were captured. Company G displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing its mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set it apart and above other units participating in the action. The indomitable courage and aggressiveness exhibited by the members of Company G, 21st Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division, throughout this action reflect great credit on themselves and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service. (General Orders 52, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 27 January 1952.)

4. Companies I and L, 35th Infantry Regiment, 25th Infantry Division, and the following attached units:

Heavy Machine Gun Platoon, Company M, 35th Infantry Regiment;
75-mm Recoilless Rifle, Platoon, Company M, 35th Infantry Regiment,
are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Tangwon-ni, Korea, during the period 6 to 8 September 1951. On the afternoon of 6 September, Companies I and L and attached units joined in the defense of Hills 682 and 717. As the friendly forces consolidated their defensive positions, they were subjected to a heavy mortar and artillery barrage which could not be returned because of a communications failure between the forward observation team and the supporting friendly artillery. At 0015 hours on 7 September, the tempo of the hostile fire increased, with approximately 1,000 shells landing on the friendly emplacements during a 35-minute period. When the artillery barrage lifted, an enemy force estimated at two reinforced enemy regiments, supported by mortar and automatic-weapons fire, launched a fanatical attack against the perimeters of Companies I and L. Throughout a 6-hour period, the fiercely determined enemy troops hurled themselves again and again at the friendly positions, but were repeatedly repulsed by the valiant units defending the two hills. As the hostile forces were working their way behind the friendly defenses, both companies discovered that their supply of ammunition was almost exhausted and, realizing that it would be suicidal to remain in their present positions because supplies and ammunition could not be brought to them through the encircling enemy, Companies I and L and attached units consolidated forces in an attempt to fight their way back to the friendly lines. Constantly under attack, the friendly forces gathered all of their wounded and began to battle savagely in order to break out of the enemy entrapment. Despite the numerically superior hostile troops, who continuously harassed the friendly forces from all sides, Companies I and L and attached units, expending their remaining ammunition with deadly accuracy, successfully fought their way back to the friendly lines. In the entire engagement, an estimated 600 enemy troops were killed or wounded. Companies I and L and attached units displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in carrying out their assignment under difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the campaign. The extraordinary heroism and steadfast devotion to duty displayed by the members of Companies I and L, 35th Infantry Regiment, 25th Infantry Division, reflect great credit on themselves and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service. (General Orders 968, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 6 December 1951.)

5. The Greek Expeditionary Forces Battalion, United Nations Forces in Korea, is cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Sonbyok, Korea, during the period 3 to 10 October 1951. While attached to the 7th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division the Greek Expeditionary Forces Battalion was assigned the mission of seizing and securing an area of vital strategic importance from a numerically superior hostile force. After an intense, friendly artillery barrage, the Greek Expeditionary Forces Battalion moved forward aggressively toward their objective. Their route of attack led them across a wide expanse of exposed terrain and the leading elements were subjected to a heavy volume of mortar and artillery fire from the well-entrenched and heavily armed enemy. Undeterred by the intense fire, the friendly force continued to advance until they reached the base of the enemy-held hills. Three times they charged up the steep slopes toward the hostile positions, constantly closing with the enemy in savage hand-to-hand combat, but they were repeatedly forced to withdraw because of the overwhelming number of enemy troops which faced them. After manifesting a superb disposition to overcome all opposition during a 3-day period of the most bitter and violent fighting, the Greek Expeditionary Forces Battalion forced the enemy not only to relinquish valuable terrain but also to commit their primary defense force as well as many of their reserve troops in resisting the unrelenting pressure of the friendly force. This action enabled the friendly flanking units to launch a series of attacks which drove the hostile troops from their positions with heavy casualties. With their first objective secured, the Greek Expeditionary Forces Battalion continued to advance until they were halted by fanatical enemy troops occupying a commanding ridge. Once again, the courageous members of this battalion launched a series of assaults up the rugged slopes direct into the devastating volume of fire directed against them by the well-entrenched enemy. Displaying unsurpassed tenacity, they reached the hostile emplacements and, in the bitter battle which ensued, vast numbers of the enemy were killed and wounded and finally forced to abandon their positions. The routed enemy force left behind large stores of ammunition and weapons in their haste to reach safety from the unrelenting fury of the Greek Expeditionary Forces Battalion. The steadfast determination and selfless heroism displayed by the members of the battalion throughout this action earned them the deep respect and admiration of all those with whom they served. The Greek Expeditionary Forces Battalion displayed such gallantry, devotion to duty, and esprit de corps in accomplishing its mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set it apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism displayed by the members of the Greek Expeditionary Forces Battalion, United Nations Forces in Korea, reflects great credit on themselves and the military service of the Kingdom of Greece. (General Orders 16, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 7 January 1952.)

6. Headquarters and Headquarters Battery (less Personnel Section) and Battery A, 213th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Sanghong-jong-ni, Korea, on 26 and 27 May 1951. On 26 May, these batteries in conjunction with Batteries B and C were assigned the mission of providing artillery support for the 21st Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division, which was engaged in an offensive. As the attacking infantry moved forward in an attempt to trap the hostile force, the artillery units were left without protection. During the night, a force of approximately 4,000 enemy soldiers, which had been encircled by the friendly infantry, attempted to break out of its trap and rejoin the main body of the enemy army. The only escape route open to them led direct through the valley occupied by Headquarters and Headquarters Battery and Battery A. During the early morning hours of 27 May, the hostile force suddenly opened fire on these two units. All available men from both batteries were immediately deployed in defensive positions. The enemy fought fiercely to break their way through the valley but, despite the necessity of hand-to-hand combat, the artillerymen held their ground which enabled their comrades to continue firing missions in support of the distant infantry. At dawn, the enemy attacks abated and the men of Headquarters and Headquarters Battery and Battery A organized a combat patrol, using a self-propelled 105-mm howitzer as a tank. Driving down the valley, the friendly patrol engaged the enemy, destroying numerous machine-gun emplacements and inflicting many casualties among the hostile troops. The scattered engagements continued for several hours until the enemy finally withdrew. In the area defended, there were approximately 350 enemy dead and wounded. The retreating enemy force then attempted to climb the surrounding slopes, but they were immediately subjected to an intense artillery barrage. This devastating fire caused the enemy to realize that escape was impossible, and an estimated 830 of the hostile troops turned back and surrendered to the artillery units. Headquarters and Headquarters Battery and Battery A, 213th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, displayed such unshakable determination and gallantry in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism displayed by the members of these units reflects great credit on themselves and upholds the highest traditions of the military service of the United States. (General Orders 1014, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 23 December 1951.)

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 7th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea for a 6-month period from September 1950 to March 1951 in connection with military operations against the armed enemy. During this period, the 7th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company displayed superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks. The unit operated efficiently under all conditions and difficulties, maintaining ordnance equipment and extending support direct to front-line infantry and artillery units by sending maintenance teams to the forward units to perform maintenance at the front. In this manner, front-line maintenance was accomplished with a minimum of delay, thereby increasing the effectiveness of the combat units. The 7th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company has continually maintained a large inventory of parts and major items to expedite maintenance which normally would require the replacement of entire assemblies or evacuation of the vehicle. The skill, effectiveness, and outstanding meritorious achievements of the 7th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Company in the performance of its vital services justify the honors inherent in the Meritorious Unit Commendation and reflect credit on the members of the unit, the Ordnance Corps, and the United States Army. (General Orders 239, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 25 April 1951.)

2. The 24th Quartermaster Company, 24th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 16 September 1950 to 15 March 1951. Throughout the Korean campaign, despite serious personnel shortages and vehicle losses, the 24th Quartermaster Company continued to support the 24th Infantry Division, plus attached corps, army, and other United Nations units in a superior manner. Through its tenacity and resourcefulness, the 24th Quartermaster Company improvised means of augmenting existing supply and service facilities and providing outstanding logistical support for the 24th Infantry Division and all attached units under exceptionally difficult conditions. The 24th Quartermaster Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The excellence with which the 24th Quartermaster Company, 24th Infantry Division, performed its outstanding duties materially contributed to the successful operation of the 24th Infantry Division, and reflects great credit on itself, its members, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 380, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 1 June 1951.)

3. The 51st Signal Battalion, Corps, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period September 1950 through March 1951. During this time, the 51st Signal Battalion was attached to I Corps. Throughout the period, the unit was under constant pressure to maintain continuous communications with the wide-spread units of the corps. The tactical situation was constantly changing and communication problems were magnified accordingly. In addition to the urgency of combat requirements, the battalion was confronted with extreme difficulties of many kinds. Expansive requirements overtaxed signal supplies, trained personnel, and technical equipment. The Korean terrain was a major deterrent to long-line communications and maintenance. Transportation, normally adequate under uniform terrain features, could not reach the remote mountainous areas. Equipment and supplies had to be hand carried in many instances. Every soldier in the battalion worked faithfully in installing, operating, and maintaining the communication channels necessary to implement the tactical control necessary to the corps and subordinate commands. Through day and night, rain, heat, and cold, the signal men carried the communications through. Their contributions, often unheralded, were indispensable to tactical successes. The 51st Signal Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. Personnel of the 51st Signal Battalion, Corps, by their extraordinary achievements, brought deserved credit to themselves, the Signal Corps, and the United States Army. (General Orders 314, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 May 1951.)

4. The 95th Chemical Service Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 30 August 1950 to 2 March 1951. Upon this unit's arrival in Korea, it effectively established and operated the 2d Logistical Command (C) Chemical Depot, acting as a chemical base depot and sole chemical requisitioning agency for the United Nations Forces in Korea, a task far above the normal scope of operations for a unit of its size. Although hampered primarily by a lack of trained personnel, this unit, upon receiving a request for aid from the staff ordnance officer, immediately detached almost half of its officer and enlisted personnel to operate the railhead serving the main ordnance ammunition depot in Korea, where they remained for over 3 months of the period for which cited. In addition to performing its normal duties in an exemplary manner, this unit also supervised the shipping and receiving of a large part of the ammunition used in Korea during this period with the utmost efficiency. The 95th Chemical Service Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The superior technical skill, unusual versatility, and determination of purpose consistently exhibited by the members of the 95th Chemical Service Company throughout this period reflect great credit on themselves, the Chemical Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 87, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 10 February 1952.)

5. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 2d Engineer Construction Group, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 August 1950 to 15 April 1951. During this period, the company had operational and administrative control of assigned and attached units, and was responsible for staff planning, engineering, supply procurement, and direct supervision of engineering projects assigned to the group. Headquarters and Headquarters Company carried out all assigned missions with high efficiency and technical skill. The company functioned as a highly efficient team in supervising the maintenance and repair of hundreds of miles of roads and railroads, construction of highway and railroad bridges, engineer reconnaissance, operation of water points, and other miscellaneous engineer tasks. The planning, design, and direct supervision of construction of a 750-foot railroad bridge (shoo fly) at Seoul in October 1950, a 1,948-foot railroad bridge across the Imjin River from October to December 1950, a 1,694-foot class 50 highway bridge at Taeyong-ni in April 1951, and a 880-foot railroad bridge across the Han River at Seoul in March and April 1951 were examples of outstanding engineering accomplishments. This work was a vital factor in opening and maintaining routes of communication which contributed to supply support for combat operations during a critical period. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 2d Engineer Construction Group, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The superior standard of outstanding achievements by this unit reflect credit on itself, its individual members, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 323, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 17 May 1951.)

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated are confirmed in accordance with AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

1. The 3d Battalion, 7th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, is cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Taegu, Korea, on 12 September 1950. On that date, the 3d Battalion was assigned the mission of capturing Hill Mass 314 which was held by a numerically superior enemy force. At this time, the enemy was exerting a determined effort to capture Taegu, the temporary capital of the Republic of Korea and Hill Mass 314 was a vital point of departure for the hostile troops in pressing their drive on this city. The battalion used frontal assault tactics against the strongly defended hill positions and, by unrelenting and sustained attacks, drove up the steep approaches to the crest of the hill, breaking the resistance of two enemy battalions and inflicting approximately 900 casualties on the hostile force. After securing the crest of the hill, the battalion then delivered flanking fire on adjacent ridges and hills which enabled other friendly units to take their objectives. Upon securing its objective, the battalion found large quantities of ammunition and equipment abandoned by the fleeing enemy. Although the 3d Battalion suffered more than 200 casualties in less than 3 hours of fighting, it nevertheless captured an enemy position which had withstood three previous attacks of battalion-size strength. The accomplishment of this mission by the 3d Battalion in a minimum of time enabled the United Nations Forces to hold the perimeter surrounding Taegu and forced the enemy to relinquish his grip on several other key hill masses, providing a setting from which the United Nations Forces eventually launched their offensive. The 3d Battalion displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing its mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set it apart and above other units participating in the action. The great skill, indomitable courage, and aggressiveness exhibited by all members of the 3d Battalion, 7th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, throughout this action reflect great credit on themselves and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service. (General Orders 770, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 October 1951.)

2. The 3d Battalion (second award for Company L only), 7th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, and the following attached units:

3d Platoon, Medical Company, 7th Infantry Regiment; 1st Platoon, Heavy Mortar Company, 7th Infantry Regiment (second award); 2d Platoon, Heavy Tank Company, 7th Infantry Regiment; 3d Platoon, Heavy Tank Company, 7th Infantry Regiment (second award); Liaison Section 244, Headquarters Battery, 39th Field Artillery Battalion; Forward Observer Sections 1, 2, and 3, Battery B, 39th Field Artillery Battalion,

are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Segok, Korea, during the period 30 June to 4

July 1951. On the evening of 30 June, the 3d Battalion and attached units commenced their assigned mission which was to attack and seize Hill 717, the commanding terrain feature of the Chorwon-Kumhwa-Pyonggang area. A previous attempt by a friendly battalion to secure this vital objective had been unsuccessful because of the numerical superiority of the enemy force. Advancing nearly 7,000 yards over rugged and uncertain terrain in darkness, while continually under intense enemy small-arms, automatic-weapons, artillery, and mortar fire, the battalion and attached units moved up the precipitous slopes and pressed the attack with such aggressiveness, determination, and skill that the enemy was forced to abandon carefully prepared entrenchments. Throughout the night of 1 July, the hostile force savagely counterattacked, attempting to dislodge the battalion and attached units from their precarious positions on the slopes of Hill 717. On the morning of 2 July, the battalion and attached units resumed their assault against the enemy's fortified hill positions. Even though they had suffered severely from the previous night's engagement, these gallant units, imbued with a steadfast determination, continued to advance against vast numbers of the enemy, inflicting staggering losses on the hostile force. In order to supplement its seriously depleted force, the enemy was forced to commit additional reserves to prevent the seizure of this important hill by the friendly forces. The battle continued to rage throughout the night of 2 July, with the enemy force hurling its entire might against the 3d Battalion and attached units, repeatedly charging down on the friendly forces in suicidal waves. In the face of tremendous odds, the valiant members of these units engaged the enemy in hand-to-hand combat with such magnificent tenacity and courage that their positions remained intact and the enemy was repulsed with heavy casualties. The fierce battle went on until, late in the afternoon of 3 July, the stubbornly resisting hostile force was routed from its strongly defended hilltop emplacements. After repulsing several enemy counterattacks during the night, the positions of the friendly units were consolidated on 4 July. Throughout this heroic engagement, more than 1,500 casualties were inflicted on the hostile troops. The 3d Battalion, 7th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, and attached units displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism displayed by all members of these units reflects great credit on themselves and upholds the highest traditions of the military service. (General Orders 769, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 October 1951.)

3. Company G, 32d Infantry Regiment, 2d Republic of Korea Division, is cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Tumok, Kundong-myong, Korea, during the night of 1-2 September 1951. Company G, while occupying outpost positions on Hills 734 and 600, inflicted a total of 333 casualties on the enemy in the course of its aggressive and determined defense of these positions. During this period, five enemy companies, supported by a devastating mortar and artillery barrage, hurled three consecutive assault waves against the greatly outnumbered men of Company G. The valiant troops of Company G not only repulsed these fanatical attacks, but successfully counterattacked. Using bayonets and grenades, they dislodged the enemy before the hostile defensive positions could be prepared. After each attack, the company commander rallied his forces and reorganized them into an effective fighting unit, determined to hold Hill 734 at all costs.

When the company's ammunition was nearly exhausted, these courageous and intrepid soldiers engaged the enemy in hand-to-hand combat, forcing the hostile forces to withdraw after suffering heavy casualties. Throughout this period, reinforcements were unable to reach Company G because of a sustained artillery and mortar barrage laid down by the enemy. When the third enemy attack failed to dislodge the heroic company from their positions, the enemy became demoralized and began to withdraw in a disorganized manner. It was during the final counterattack that the company's indomitable commander was killed by an enemy grenade. The magnificent display of courage exhibited by the members of Company G, in the face of overwhelming odds, denied the enemy access to a commanding terrain feature of vital tactical importance. Company G displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing its mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set it apart from and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinarily heroic conduct manifested by each individual of Company G, 32d Infantry Regiment, 2d Republic of Korea Division, throughout this action reflects great credit on themselves, the Republic of Korea Army, and the military forces of the United Nations. (General Orders 723, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 25 September 1951.)

4. The 61st Field Artillery Battalion, 1st Cavalry Division, is cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against numerically superior enemy forces in the vicinity of Pakchon, Korea, on 5 November 1950. On this date, an estimated regiment of Chinese Communist troops attacked the entire 61st Field Artillery Battalion and succeeded in penetrating to within 100 yards of the perimeters of the individual batteries of the battalion in an attempt to cut off and destroy the artillery and set up a road block behind the friendly elements to the north. Each battery deployed all available personnel as infantry in a tightly knit defense around its area, leaving the gun crews intact to service their howitzers. By firing their artillery pieces direct into the attacking forces as well as bringing to bear all the small-arms and automatic weapons available, the battalion withstood the repeated onslaughts of this superior enemy force for a period of 6 hours. The aggressive defense, coordinated effort, and cool acceptance of a dangerous and unusual situation displayed by the battalion throughout the entire action enabled it to continue as an effective and efficient artillery unit. The outstanding coordination between batteries in providing indirect fire for other batteries within the battalion and the direction to this fire by both air and ground observers was an exceptional accomplishment. When the order for withdrawal was given, all the battery perimeters were still intact and were well capable of continuing to withstand the assaults of the enemy. This withdrawal was made by battery and the superior coordination between all elements of the battalion effected the movement in an orderly manner with a minimum loss of life and equipment, and contributed greatly to maintaining a route of withdrawal for other friendly forces. The 61st Field Artillery Battalion, 1st Cavalry Division, displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing its mission under difficult and hazardous conditions as to set it apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism of the members of this battalion reflects great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 574, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 22 July 1951.)

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 1st Cavalry Division Band is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 22 July 1950 to 22 January 1951. In addition to furnishing music for entertainments and ceremonies for the 1st Cavalry Division and other United Nations units, the band was often called upon to perform assignments entirely out of relation to its primary mission. The members of the band successfully performed tasks such as acting as a security guard for the division rear headquarters, assisting in the movement of supplies and equipment, aiding in establishing bivouac areas and maintaining them, and assumed responsibilities for the many labor details incident to field operations which often necessitated travel into forward areas. In fields other than music, the members of the band performed duties which demanded a high degree of technical knowledge and skill in a highly competent and commendable manner. The 1st Cavalry Division Band displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The exceptionally meritorious conduct of members of the 1st Cavalry Division Band contributed materially to the success and efficiency of the division and reflects great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 757, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army Korea, 11 October 1951.)

2. The 2d Quartermaster Company, 2d Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 31 July 1950 to 31 January 1951. Given the mission of furnishing quartermaster supplies and services to the 2d Infantry Division and other United Nations Forces, this unit, through tireless effort and outstanding ability, provided uninterrupted logistical support despite the most adverse conditions. From the Eighth United States Army's advance across the Naktong River to the Kunu-ri area in North Korea, the rapid movement of the division resulted in splitting the facilities and personnel of the company into four and five separate installations. Despite this separation, the company continued to render such outstanding service as to enable the division to remain tactically operational and continue its advance against the enemy. The company also was confronted, upon occasion, with the operation of port facilities and rolling stock of a narrow gage railroad, although unfamiliar with such operating procedures. Incoming ships were promptly unloaded and all classes of supplies were forwarded to the combat units. Throughout the period, this unit handled thousands of tons of rations, clothing, and equipment and operated its vehicles over poor, treacherous, and sniper-infested roads. The 2d Quartermaster Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The consistently high standards of operating efficiency, leadership, and teamwork demonstrated by members of the 2d Quartermaster Company, 2d Infantry Division, reflects great credit on themselves, the Quartermaster Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 490, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 July 1951.)

3. The 7th Signal Company, 7th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 16 September 1950 to 16 March 1951. The company provided and maintained signal communications for the 7th Infantry Division during its amphibious landing at Iwon and later during the division's advance to the Yalu River. Operating under severe handicaps and extremely adverse weather conditions, the company furnished constant communications for the leading units, which enabled the division commander to be in immediate contact with the spearheading elements. Isolated communications teams repeatedly were forced to fight guerrillas and infiltrating enemy troops to hold strategic relay points. Wire teams often found it necessary to battle their way through uncertain regions to install lines. During the withdrawal from the Yalu River to Hungnam, the company maintained a complete communications network until all friendly troops had departed from the area, and then withdrew without the loss of any equipment. Despite the most adverse conditions, the unit evacuated from Pukchong over 400 tons of vital signal equipment. A signal party from this company remained behind during the Hungnam evacuation to maintain communications until all personnel were safely withdrawn. The rapidly changing tactical situation necessitated frequent displacements, but the unit never faltered in maintaining a network of communications to all units within the division. In addition, the company installed and kept in constant repair over 2,000 miles of telephone circuits throughout Korea. Through the ingenuity, resourcefulness, and high degree of proficiency of the personnel of this company, new advancements in signal communications were achieved, thus contributing immeasurably toward the division's successes in the field. The 7th Signal Company, 7th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The skill and determination with which the members of this unit performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders, 734, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 30 September 1951.)

4. The 10th Special Service Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 April to 31 October 1951. Throughout this period, despite the most adverse field conditions and rapid changes of personnel, the unit displayed unrelenting devotion to duty in such a manner as to establish recognition beyond and above that required by similar units in the performance of like tasks. The 10th Special Service Company consistently provided entertainment of such professional caliber as to earn it the deep respect and admiration of all those who were privileged to witness its many excellent productions. The members of the company were ever willing to subordinate their personal comfort in order to bring entertainment to United Nations troops serving in Korea. In carrying out their mission, the 10th Special Service Company made an invaluable contribution to the success achieved by the United Nations command in maintaining high morale among its forces. The exceptional professional skill, intense desire to provide the best in entertainment, and unstinting performance of impromptu and scheduled acts by the members of the 10th Special Service Company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 988, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 13 December 1951.)

5. The 108th Quartermaster Bakery Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 December 1950 to 31 May 1951. Although required to move their baking installations many times, the members of this unit worked diligently and arduously to overcome adverse weather conditions, lack of adequate sanitation facilities, shortage of trained personnel, and frequent breakdown of equipment. The record established by the 108th Quartermaster Bakery Company, in producing over 5,000,000 pounds of high-quality bread during this period despite the many obstacles encountered, is indicative of the skill, ingenuity, and devotion to duty manifested by its members. The 108th Quartermaster Bakery Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The high degree of skill and determination with which the members of this company performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Quartermaster Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 725, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 26 September 1951.)

6. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 3d Transportation Military Railway Service (third award) (Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 8059th Transportation Military Railway Service (Provisional) from 9 July to 24 August 1950), is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 9 July 1950 to 31 March 1951. This company arrived in Korea during the early stages of hostilities with a minimum of personnel and equipment and acquitted itself nobly in the rapid rehabilitation of the Korean National Railway in order to provide vitally needed rail transportation for the United Nations Forces. The majority of the railway equipment was abandoned or destroyed during the initial North Korean offensive, but by determination and spirit, personnel of the company initiated a well-coordinated system for the transportation of supplies and equipment to combat elements. Performing its mission despite personal discomforts and hazards, the company overcame obstacles caused by the lack of operable equipment, depressing conditions of right-of-ways, shortages of trained personnel, the rapidly changing tactical situation, and the barriers to be surmounted because of language differences. At times the personnel of the company encountered direct enemy fire and were forced to vacate their railway transportation offices, but, despite these adverse and hazardous conditions, they continued to perform their missions efficiently and expeditiously. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 3d Transportation Military Railway Service, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The high degree of skill and determination with which the members of this organization performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Transportation Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 689, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 9 September 1951.)

7. Headquarters Special Troops, Eighth United States Army, Korea, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 25 August 1950 to 31 October 1951. During this period, Headquarter Special Troops performed its duties of housing personnel, supervising mess facilities, providing office space, and supplying indigenous labor and materials to rehabilitate and construct additional buildings for Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, in a commendable manner. Headquarters Special Troops was frequently called upon to establish forward command posts for Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, the most recent one being the base camp for the peace conference delegation of the United Nations at Munsan-ni. In addition to these duties, Headquarters Special Troops exercised administrative control of 47 assigned and attached units and personnel administration of records of approximately 350 officers and 3,300 enlisted men. Administrative actions pertaining to pay, allotments, insurance, investigations, assignments, and rotation were consistently processed in an expeditious manner. The high standard of operating efficiency, loyal teamwork, and devotion to duty displayed by each member of Headquarters Special Troops enabled it to perform outstanding services so as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission and reflect credit on itself and the United States Army. (General Orders 988, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 13 December 1951.)

8. The Quartermaster Parachute Maintenance Detachment, 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, is commended for exceptionally meritorious conduct and performance of outstanding services in Japan and Korea during the period 1 October 1950 to 31 May 1951. Following the outbreak of hostilities in Korea, the detachment accomplished a unique threefold mission of maintenance, manufacture, and supply of vital airborne equipment in support of United Nations' military operations. As the only element in the command with personnel trained in the identification and handling of air-drop matériel, it functioned as a quartermaster depot, competently classifying, storing, and issuing supplies for units throughout Japan. Evincing rare versatility and sustained endeavor, personnel participated in combat jumps at Sukchon and Munsan, recovered a large percentage of drop equipment, and, upon return to Japan, rehabilitated matériel within a period of 1 week for subsequent tactical use. The meritorious achievements and exemplary conduct of the Quartermaster Parachute Maintenance Detachment, 187th Regimental Airborne Combat Team, reflect credit on the unit, its members, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 249, Headquarters, Far East Command, 13 October 1951.)

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named officer:

Second Lieutenant Jerome A. Sudut, O2263203, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company B, 27th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Kumhwa, Korea, on 12 September 1951. His platoon, attacking heavily fortified and strategically located hostile emplacements, was stopped by intense fire from a large bunker containing several firing posts. Armed with submachine gun, pistol, and grenades, Lieutenant Sudut charged the emplacement alone through vicious hostile fire, killing three of the occupants and dispersing the remainder. Painfully wounded, he returned to reorganize his platoon, refused evacuation, and led his men in a renewed attack. The enemy had returned to the bunker by means of connecting trenches from other emplacements and the platoon was again halted by devastating fire. Accompanied by an automatic rifleman, Lieutenant Sudut again charged into close-range fire to eliminate the position. When the rifleman was wounded, Lieutenant Sudut seized his weapon and continued alone, killing three of the four remaining occupants. Although mortally wounded and his ammunition exhausted, he jumped into the emplacement and killed the remaining enemy soldier with his trench knife. His single-handed assaults so inspired his comrades that they continued the attack, drove the enemy from the hill, and secured the objective. Lieutenant Sudut's consummate fighting spirit, outstanding leadership, and gallant self-sacrifice are in keeping with the finest traditions of the Infantry and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant Cornelius H. Charlton (Service No. RA 12265495), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company C, 24th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Hipo-ri, Korea, on 2 June 1951. His platoon was attacking heavily defended hostile positions on commanding ground when the leader was wounded and evacuated. Sergeant Charlton assumed command, rallied the men, and spearheaded the assault against the hill. Personally eliminating two hostile positions and killing six of the enemy with his rifle fire and grenades, he continued up the slope until the unit suffered heavy casualties and became pinned down. Regrouping the men, he led them forward only to be again hurled back by a shower of grenades. Despite a severe chest wound, Sergeant Charlton refused medical attention and led a third daring charge which carried to the crest of the ridge. Observing that the remaining emplacement which had retarded the advance was situated on the reverse slope, he charged it alone, was again hit by a grenade, but raked the position with a devastating fire which eliminated it and routed the defenders. The wounds received during Sergeant Charlton's daring exploits resulted in his death, but his indomitable courage, superb leadership, and gallant self-sacrifice reflect the highest credit on himself, the Infantry, and the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer:

First Lieutenant José M. Artiaga, Jr., O1966, Infantry, Philippine Army, a member of the Tank (Special Weapons) Company, 10th Battalion Combat Team, Philippine Expeditionary Forces to Korea, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Yultong, Korea, on 22 and 23 April 1951. Throughout the night, his platoon was repeatedly assaulted by a fanatical and numerically superior hostile force of Chinese Communists. With utter disregard for his safety and constantly exposed to heavy machine-gun, mortar, and artillery fire, Lieutenant Artiaga moved about the sector held by his men to steady, encourage, and deploy them to insure the best defense of their positions. Despite exhaustion, isolation from other elements of the company, and the disaster which seemed imminent, his troops tenaciously repulsed repeated attacks and inflicted numerous casualties. While tirelessly directing the fire of his depleted force, he was mortally wounded, but his courage and indomitable fighting spirit so imbued his troops with a spirit of irrepressible determination that they held their positions until relief arrived. Lieutenant Artiaga's heroic leadership, consummate devotion to duty, and gallant self-sacrifice reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the Infantry and the Army of the Republic of the Philippines.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

First Lieutenant Ermer O. Canant, O2262856, Artillery, United States Army, a member of Battery A, 10th Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in military operations against an armed enemy near Hurullae, Korea, on 27 September 1951. Observing a member of a combat patrol, which had become pinned down by intense enemy fire, lying wounded and helpless on open terrain, he left his place of safety and rushed to the aid of the stricken man. While returning the casualty to friendly lines, Lieutenant Canant was severely wounded in the lower jaw and was unable to talk. He succeeded, however, in assisting the wounded soldier to a place of safety some 300 yards to the rear and returned to his former position. Refusing evacuation, with motions and gestures, he ably assisted in the reorganization of the patrol and the direction of its successful defense until ordered to retire for medical treatment. The courage, indomitable fortitude, and inspiring leadership displayed by Lieutenant Canant reflect the highest credit on himself and the United States Army.

First Lieutenant Harvey O. Sweeney, O1334373, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company I, 35th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy near Tangwon-ni, Korea, on 7 and 8 September 1951. When his platoon came under intense enemy artillery and mortar attack, Lieutenant Sweeney left his place of safety and moved to an exposed vantage point to better direct the defense. Despite a painful wound, he moved fearlessly among his troops and, by his calm demeanor and unflinching courage, encouraged them to stand firm. Wounded a second time, he refused medical attention and constantly braved withering fire to assist the wounded and coordinate the holding action. Moving to a friendly machine gun which had been silenced, he found the gun inoperative and returned through the fire-swept area to obtain a replacement. Wounded a third time in both legs and no longer able to move, he refused evacuation and ordered that he be carried to a position from which he could direct the defense, thus inspiring his men to contain successive enemy attacks throughout the night. Despite numerous casualties and a dwindling supply of ammunition, he continued to direct the defense, and by his skill and courageous example he enabled his men to ward off the assailants until assistance arrived. Lieutenant Sweeney's inspirational leadership, indomitable courage, and consummate devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

III...DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Brigadier General William P. Ennis, Jr., O16436, United States Army. September 1950 to 17 October 1951. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) to General Ennis, for service from 9 September to 2 November 1950, published in General Orders 85, General Headquarters, Far East Command, 16 December 1950.)

Brigadier General William N. Gillmore O16196, United States Army. February 1951 to 8 February 1952.

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Major General Roderick R. Allen, O4652, United States Army. 8 July 1950 to 18 January 1952.

Brigadier General James F. Brittingham, O5746, United States Army. 1 February 1951 to 23 January 1952.

Brigadier General John S. Guthrie, O18228, United States Army. 15 January to 12 December 1951.

3. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following named officer: Lieutenant General William M. Hooge, 04437, United States Army, 50 March to 23 December 1951.

IV. SILVER STAR. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action on the date indicated is awarded posthumously to the following named enlisted man:

Technician Fourth Grade Andrew Hebburn (Service No. 20600407) (then private first class), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company B, 102d Tank Battalion, Provisional Tank Group, distinguished himself by gallantry in action in the Sayas-Anyasan area of Mindan, Luzon, Philippine Islands, on 7 February 1922. In the course of desperately contested engagements with the enemy, he persisted in repeatedly returning to an immobilized tank entrapped in enemy-held jungle. He steadfastly refused to yield to exhaustion and, with full knowledge of the perils facing him from vicious hostile attack, continued his hazardous attempts to salvage critically needed equipment and to extricate his comrades from the helpless tank. Largely through his selfless action the tank and surviving members of the crew were evacuated under heavy fire and flame-thrower action. While being evacuated the unit commander was mortally wounded. Technician Hebburn's indomitable tenacity, persistent courage, and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

V. SILVER STAR.—I. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following named officers, enlisted man, and civilian:

Colonel Jin Choung, Infantry, Republic of Korea Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action as commanding officer of the 3d Regiment, 7th Korean Division, in the vicinity of Amsudong, Korea, on 16 and 17 May 1951. His regiment, engaged in a delaying action against two divisions of the 20th Chinese Communist Corps, became subjected on several occasions to extreme pressure from the enemy. Completely disregarding grave danger to himself, he constantly moved about in forward positions and, in many instances, personally directed the fire of crew served weapons. On one occasion, when ordering a third counter-attack to clear an enemy road block, he was with one of the battalions of his unit which had been surrounded by the hostile forces. Displaying brilliant leadership and professional skill, he successfully led the battalion in breaking out of this encirclement. Always present at the point of most serious threat, his fearless behavior and resolute determination so inspired his officers and men that they fought successful delaying actions against numerically superior forces in seven different positions in their mission of assisting in the protection of the right flank of X corps. The gallantry, tenacity, and brilliant leadership displayed by Colonel Choung in this critical and decisive action reflect great credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

Lieutenant General Chung Il Kwon, 10005, (then major general), Chief of Staff, Republic of Korea Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Pohang, Korea, on 10 Sep-51.

tember 1950. Learning that the Republic of Korea 3d Division was heavily engaged and the enemy was attempting a break-through toward the vital supply base at Pusan, General Chung traveled by aircraft to Pohang to assume personal control of the critical situation. Fully aware that the Pohang air-strip had been abandoned by friendly forces and realizing the aircraft would attract hostile action, General Chung fearlessly proceeded and, upon landing, the area was immediately subjected to intense artillery fire. Making his way to a waiting jeep and, scorning hits on the vehicle, General Chung drove through a barrage of bursting shells to the division command post. After a short briefing, General Chung went forward and, constantly vulnerable to hostile fire, moved among his foremost elements to direct operations. His safety was further imperiled by the enemy's knowledge of his presence but, undaunted, he continued to maintain close liaison with front-line units. General Chung, dominating and controlling the critical situation through sheer force of his heroic example, inspired both officers and men to hold during 6 hours of bitter fighting under constant, heavy shelling. After the attack was contained, General Chung returned to the air-strip where he was pinned down for more than 1 hour by heavy concentrations of artillery fire. Despite the withering fire, General Chung was preparing to depart when he observed a pilot attempting to evacuate a small aircraft and insisted that the pilot be allowed take-off priority. As the pilot was becoming airborne, an artillery burst blew off a wheel, disabling the aircraft. After assuring himself that the pilot was uninjured, General Chung braved the hazard of becoming airborne and was successfully flown from the area. General Chung's unflinching courage under fire, inspirational leadership, and intrepid, aggressive actions reflect utmost credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

Colonel Paik Nam Kwon, 10069, Infantry, Republic of Korea Army, as commanding officer of the 2d Battalion, Cavalry Regiment, Republic of Korea Capitol Division, distinguished himself by gallantry in action, near Wonsan, Korea, on 10 October 1950. Deployed as an advance guard, his battalion suddenly came under vicious, hostile fire from three camouflaged tanks flanked by well-trenched riflemen. Moving constantly under intense fire to regroup his unit, Colonel Paik then led a counterattack which overran hostile positions and resulted in 40 enemy troops killed and five 76-mm guns captured. Colonel Paik's daring action so inspired his men with confidence and renewed courage that the battalion later played an important part in the capture of Wonsan. The resolute determination, consummate courage, and superb leadership demonstrated by Colonel Paik reflect great credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

Sergeant John L. Massimino (Service No. 20600454) (then corporal), Artillery, Army of the United States, a member of Company B, 192d Tank Battalion, Provisional Tank Group, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the enemy in the Sayasen-Anyasan area on the West Coast of Bataan, Luzon, Philippine Islands, on 7 February 1942. During desperate combat actions against a fanatical enemy, in a heavily timbered and dense jungle area, he unflinchingly faced heavy enemy fire with determined effort to extricate comrades from an immobilized tank. Repeatedly returning to the stranded tanks, with total disregard for his personal safety, he was instrumental in evacuating the surviving crew members, including his unit commander who was mortally wounded while being evacuated. Sergeant Massimino's courageous actions, tenacity, and selfless devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Second Lieutenant Mervin K. Matchett, O1999174 (then staff sergeant) Service No. 36547054, Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company E, 349th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by gallantry in action near Cubiola, Italy, on 4 October 1944. His company, assigned the mission of securing Hill 587, was attacking deeply entrenched enemy positions when his platoon leader was seriously wounded and evacuated. Immediately assuming command, Lieutenant Matchett led the platoon in a successful attack against one of the intermediate ridges. As the friendly elements moved forward toward the objective, enemy resistance stiffened. Lieutenant Matchett's troops came under intense enemy artillery, mortar, and small-arms fire from two parallel hostile positions and were thrown back and became pinned down by vicious hostile cross-fire. Crawling forward, Lieutenant Matchett located the position of two machine guns and a mortar. Returning to his unit, he assembled all automatic rifles available and, taking each in turn, made separate, one-man assaults against the enemy emplacements, silencing the two machine-gun positions and killing at least six of the enemy. He was severely wounded by shrapnel while firing his last weapon, but his courageous and aggressive action permitted the wounded to be evacuated and reinforcements to advance to ease the perilous situation. Lieutenant Matchett's singular bravery, staunch devotion to the mission, and outstanding leadership reflect marked credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

John Randolph, American civilian, as correspondent, Associated Press, distinguished himself by gallantry in action at Ongion-dang, Korea, on 23 April 1951. Voluntarily attaching himself to Company B, 7th Infantry Regiment, during an attack against an estimated regiment of Chinese Communists, heedless of the risk involved, he proceeded four times through heavy enemy fire to pick up and carry wounded riflemen to places of safety. Later, when Company B returned under orders to the assembly area, another soldier was severely wounded by automatic-weapons fire sweeping the terrain occupied by the unit. Again Mr. Randolph braved intense hostile fire, rushed to the aid of the wounded man, picked up and carried him to his jeep, then drove through a hail of enemy fire to the aid station. During this heroic drive, his jeep was spattered by bullets from enemy weapons, but he reached the aid station safely. The courageous and aggressive action taken by Mr. Randolph reflects great credit on himself and the United States Army.

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul 43, 1918), the Silver Star (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for gallantry in action on the date indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Colonel Seo Jung Chul, 10169, Infantry, Republic of Korea Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action near Yangyang, Korea, on 27 March 1951. The 26th Regiment, Republic of Korea Capitol Division, was attacking two battalions of strongly entrenched enemy. The 2d Battalion, leading the attack, had advanced across the Huchon River to the reverse side of a 15-foot dike, where they were pinned down by intense enemy fire. Colonel Seo, as commanding officer of the 26th Regiment, observed that the battalion was suffering heavy casualties and unable to advance. Exposing himself to enemy fire, he moved from his observation post, made his way across open, exposed terrain, and plunged recklessly through the river to where the battalion was held up. He moved up and down the line, in the face of fierce enemy fire, directing the actions of his men. Then, without regard for his personal safety, he jumped on top of the dike, fully exposed to the enemy, and led the battalion in the attack. Inspired by his example of aggressive leadership and outstanding courage, the battalion, following their regimental commander, charged the enemy, overran hostile positions, killed 70, captured 31, and forced the remainder to withdraw, disorganized. Colonel Seo's intrepidity reflects great credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

VI. LEGION OF MERIT.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. 2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 2 July 1926 (WD, Bul. 8, 1926), the Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy on the date indicated is awarded posthumously to the following named officer:

Second Lieutenant Roy C. Shepard, Jr., 01836438, Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company C, 87th Infantry Training Battalion, distinguished himself by heroism at Camp Roberts, California, on 29 August 1945. While conducting a class on the grenade range, he observed that a trainee had activated a grenade and had accidentally dropped the missile on the ground in front of several others awaiting their turn on the range. Running from his position behind the line, Lieutenant Shepard immediately threw his body over the fatal missile, absorbing the subsequent blast with his body. His courageous act, from which he received severe injuries resulting in his death on 5 September 1945, doubtless prevented serious injury and possible death to his comrades in the vicinity. IX. BRONZE STAR MEDAL.

By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. 11, WD Bul. 3, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States on the date indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named enlisted man:

Staff Sergeant *Maurice O. The patrol of which he was a member had been pinned down by hostile fire from a nearby house when Sergeant Burt rushed alone toward the building, threw grenades into the windows, and ordered his men to provide covering fire while he entered the house. His aggressive action prevented the enemy group from gaining the second floor, from which they could have poured increasing fire on his patrol, and resulted in the capture of one German officer and six soldiers. The courage, leadership, and devotion to duty displayed by Sergeant Burt reflect great credit on himself, the Infantry, and the military service.

X. BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, WD Bul. 3, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers, enlisted men, and civilians:

Huston G. Welch, Department of the Army civilian. 1 August to 28 December 1950.

XI. BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, WD Bul. 3, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted men:

Lieutenant Colonel Waller B. Booth, Jr., O887866, Infantry, Army of the United States, distinguished himself by heroic conduct in action near Rambervillers, Vosge, France, on 7 October 1944. While directing the activities of a special intelligence reconnaissance unit operating with the 17th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron, VI Corps, Seventh Army, he learned that one of his fellow officers had proceeded on a dangerous daylight mission behind enemy lines.

Realizing the fruitless hazards of such an attempt, Colonel Booth immediately set out to overtake him. En route, he was informed that his comrade had been killed. On his return he was subjected to intense enemy artillery fire and was thrown to the ground. Starting to resume his return to friendly lines, he found an unconscious and seriously wounded soldier. Realizing he alone could not evacuate the soldier without injuring him further, he made his way rapidly through continued enemy fire to his lines. He then led an evacuation team through the area, which was still under enemy artillery and mortar fire, to the wounded soldier and succeeded in moving him out of the danger zone to an aid station, where he received medical attention. Colonel Booth's quick, selfless, and courageous actions and devotion to duty reflect distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Staff Sergeant Nicasio Lucero (Service No. 6612146), Infantry, United States Army, a rifle platoon leader in Company F, 15th Infantry USAFIP Northern Luzon Guerrilla, distinguished himself by heroic conduct in action against the enemy at Mount Sabtan, Pilar, Abra, Philippine Islands, on 24 and 25 April 1945. His platoon was subjected to intense enemy small-arms automatic-weapons, and mortar fire from a nearby hill crest. Recognizing the superiority of force and fire power of the foe and seeing heavy casualties inflicted on his platoon, Sergeant Lucero called for a concentration of friendly automatic-weapons fire on the enemy positions and manned one machine gun himself, since the machine-gun platoon had suffered severe losses in killed and wounded. This action contributed materially in the reduction of the enemy fire power and preventing their forward movement. The supply of machine-gun ammunition was rapidly depleted, and Sergeant Lucero, realizing the need for more fire power against the enemy, crawled back to the mortar platoon position and furnished information as to the location of hostile positions and probable strength, thereby permitting a concentration of mortar fire which succeeded in reducing their firing capabilities to a minimum. Sergeant Lucero's courageous action and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Staff Sergeant Roy E. Seiffert (Service No. 31033960) (then sergeant), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the Second Company, Second Regiment, First Special Service Force, distinguished himself by heroic conduct on Anzio Beachhead, Italy, on 2 April 1944. Sergeant Seiffert was in charge of a daylight reconnaissance patrol which was subjected to intense enemy small-arms and automatic-weapons fire. Seeing one member of his patrol wounded, he unhesitatingly crawled through heavy enemy cross-fire and succeeded in evacuating his comrade to a place of safety. During this action, Sergeant Seiffert was severely wounded. He ordered the patrol to withdraw and, despite his painful wounds, he remained behind to provide covering fire until the other members of his patrol safely reached friendly lines. The courage, leadership, and devotion to duty displayed by Sergeant Seiffert were a source of inspiration to his unit and reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Colonel Kim Chong Sun, Infantry, Republic of Korea Army, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy as commanding officer of the Korean 23d Infantry Regiment from 20 November to 12 December 1950. Under Colonel Kim's aggressive leadership, the 23d Infantry Regiment spearheaded an infantry division attack in the Hapsu-Kilchu area, inflicted a crushing defeat on the enemy, and forced the hostile troops to retreat. During the ensuing action, Colonel Kim maintained his command post near the front lines and, by his courage, determination, and fine example, greatly inspired his troops to renewed efforts against the enemy. When the Republic of Korea 3d Division was ordered to evacuate the Songjin area, Colonel Kim's regiment was assigned to provide covering action. The stability, resourcefulness, and bravery demonstrated by Colonel Kim contributed materially to the successful evacuation of the 3d Division and reflect distinct credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant Joseph C. Rodriguez, US56068814 (then private first class), Infantry, United States Army, Company F, 17th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Munye-ri, Korea, on 21 May 1951. Sergeant Rodriguez, an assistant squad leader of the 2d Platoon, was participating in an attack against a fanatical hostile force occupying well-fortified positions on rugged commanding terrain, when his squad's advance was halted within approximately 60 yards by a withering barrage of automatic weapons and small-arms fire from five emplacements directly to the front and right and left flanks, together with grenades which the enemy rolled down the hill toward the advancing troops. Fully aware of the odds against him, Sergeant Rodriguez leaped to his feet, dashed 60 yards up the fire-swept slope, and, after lobbing grenades into the first foxhole with deadly accuracy, ran around the left flank, silenced an automatic weapon with two grenades and continued his whirlwind assault to the top of the peak, wiping out two more foxholes. Then, reaching the right flank, he tossed grenades into the remaining emplacement, destroying the gun and annihilating its crew. Sergeant Rodriguez' intrepid actions exacted a toll of 15 enemy dead and, as a result of his incredible display of valor, the defense of the opposition was broken, the enemy routed, and the strategic strong-point secured. Sergeant Rodriguez' unflinching courage under fire and inspirational devotion to duty reflect highest credit on himself and uphold the honored traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Master Sergeant Hubert L. Lee (Service No. RA-6283368), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company I, 23d Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Ip-o-ri, Korea, on 1 February 1951. When his platoon was forced from its position by a numerically superior enemy force, and his platoon leader wounded, Sergeant Lee assumed command, regrouped the remnants of his unit, and led them in repeated assaults to regain the position. Within 25 yards of his objective he received a leg wound from grenade fragments, but refused assistance and continued the attack. Although forced to withdraw five times, each time he regrouped his remaining men and renewed the assault. Moving forward at the head of his small group in the fifth attempt, Sergeant Lee was struck by an exploding grenade, knocked to the ground, and seriously wounded in both legs. Still refusing assistance, he advanced by crawling, rising to his knees to fire, and urging his men to follow. While thus directing the final assault he was wounded a third time by small-arms fire. Persistently continuing to crawl forward, Sergeant Lee directed his men in a final and successful attack which regained the vital objective. His intrepid leadership and determination led to the destruction of 83 of the enemy and withdrawal of the remainder, and was a vital factor in stopping the enemy attack. Sergeant Lee's indomitable courage, consummate valor, and outstanding leadership reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the Infantry and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant First Class William S. Sitman (Service No. RA33571970), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company M, 23d Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Chippyong-ni, Korea, on 14 February 1951. Sergeant Sitman, a machine-gun section leader of Company M, was attached to Company I, which was under attack by a numerically superior hostile force. During the encounter, when an enemy grenade knocked out his machine gun, a squad from Company I immediately emplaced a light machine gun and Sergeant Sitman and his men remained to provide security for the crew. In the ensuing action, the enemy lobbed a grenade into the position and Sergeant Sitman, fully aware of the odds against him, selflessly threw himself on it, absorbing the full force of the explosion with his body. Although mortally wounded in this fearless display of valor, his intrepid act saved five men from death or serious injury and enabled them to continue inflicting withering fire on the ruthless foe throughout the attack. Sergeant Sitman's noble self-sacrifice and consummate devotion to duty reflect lasting glory on himself and uphold the honored traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant First Class Donald R. Moyer (Service No. RA16263096), Infantry, United States Army, assistant platoon leader, Company E, 35th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Seoul, Korea, on 20 May 1951. Sergeant Moyer's platoon was committed to attack and secure commanding terrain stubbornly defended by a numerically superior hostile force emplaced in well-fortified positions. Advancing up the rocky hill, the leading elements came under intense automatic-weapons, small-arms, and grenade fire, wounding the platoon leader and platoon sergeant. Sergeant Moyer, realizing the success of the mission was imperiled, rushed to the head of the faltering column, assumed command, and urged the men forward. Inspired by Sergeant Moyer's unflinching courage, the troops responded magnificently, but as they reached the final approaches to the rugged crest of the hill, enemy fire increased in volume and intensity and the fanatical foe showered the platoon with grenades. Undaunted, the valiant group forged ahead, and as they neared the top of the hill, the enemy hurled a grenade into their midst. Sergeant Moyer, fully aware of the odds against him, unhesitatingly threw himself on the grenade, absorbing the full blast of the explosion with his body. Although mortally wounded in this fearless display of valor, Sergeant Moyer's intrepid act saved several of his comrades from death or serious injury, and his inspirational leadership and consummate devotion to duty contributed significantly to the subsequent seizure of the enemy stronghold and reflect lasting glory on himself and the noble traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant Charles R. Long (Service No. ER37504082), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company M, 38th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Hoengsong, Korea, on 12 February 1951. When Company M, in a defensive perimeter on Hill 300, was viciously attacked by a numerically superior hostile force at approximately 0800 hours and ordered to withdraw, Sergeant Long, a forward observer for the mortar platoon, voluntarily remained at his post to provide cover by directing mortar fire on the enemy. Maintaining radio contact with his platoon, Sergeant Long coolly directed accurate mortar fire on the advancing foe. He continued firing his carbine and throwing hand grenades until his position was surrounded and he was mortally wounded. Sergeant Long's inspirational, valorous actions halted the onslaught, exacted a heavy toll of enemy casualties, and enabled his company to withdraw, reorganize, counter-attack, and regain the hill strong point. Sergeant Long's unflinching courage and noble self-sacrifice reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the honored traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named officer:

Second Lieutenant Darwin K. Kyle, O2262608, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company K, 7th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Kamil-ni, Korea, on 16 February 1951. When his platoon was pinned down by intense fire, he completely exposed himself to move among and encourage his men to continue the advance against enemy forces strongly entrenched on Hill 185. Inspired by his courageous leadership, the platoon resumed the advance, but was again pinned down when an enemy machine gun opened fire, wounding six of his men. Lieutenant Kyle immediately charged the hostile emplacement alone, engaged the crew in hand-to-hand combat, and killed all three. Continuing on toward the objective, his platoon suddenly received an intense automatic-weapons fire from a well-concealed hostile position on its right flank. Again leading his men in a daring bayonet charge against this position, firing his carbine and throwing grenades, Lieutenant Kyle personally destroyed four of the enemy before he was killed by a burst from an enemy submachine gun. The extraordinary heroism and outstanding leadership of Lieutenant Kyle and his gallant self-sacrifice reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the esteemed traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

First Lieutenant Lee R. Hartell, O944579, Artillery, United States Army, a member of Battery A, 15th Field Artillery Battalion, 2d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Kobangsan-ni, Korea, on 27 August 1951. During the darkness of early morning, the enemy launched a ruthless attack against friendly positions on a rugged mountainous ridge. Lieutenant Hartell, attached to Company B, 9th Infantry Regiment, as forward observer, quickly moved his radio to an exposed vantage on the ridge line to adjust defensive fires. Realizing the tactical advantage of illuminating the area of approach, he called for flares and then directed crippling fire into the onrushing assailants. At this juncture, a large force of hostile troops swarmed up the slope in a banzai charge and came within 10 yards of Lieutenant Hartell's position. Lieutenant Hartell sustained a severe hand wound in the ensuing encounter, but grasped the microphone with his other hand and maintained his magnificent stand until the front and left flank of the company were protected by a close-in wall of withering fire, causing the fanatical foe to disperse and fall back momentarily. After the numerically superior enemy overran an outpost and was closing on his position, Lieutenant Hartell, in a final radio call, urged the friendly elements to fire both batteries continuously. Although mortally wounded, Lieutenant Hartell's intrepid actions contributed significantly to stemming the onslaught and enabled his company to maintain the strategic strong point. His consummate valor and unwavering devotion to duty reflect lasting glory on himself and uphold the noble traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

Private First Class Jack G. Hanson (Service No. RA 18359825), Infantry, United States Army, a machine gunner with the 1st Platoon, Company F, 31st Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Pachi-dong, Korea, on 7 June 1951. The company, in defensive positions on two strategic hills separated by a wide saddle, was ruthlessly attacked at approximately 0300 hours, the brunt of which centered on the approach to the divide within range of Private Hanson's machine gun. In the initial phase of the action, four riflemen were wounded and evacuated and the numerically superior enemy, advancing under cover of darkness, infiltrated and posed an imminent threat to the security of the command post and weapons platoon. Upon orders to move to key terrain above and to the right of Private Hanson's position, he voluntarily remained to provide protective fire for the withdrawal. Subsequent to the retiring elements fighting a rearguard action to the new location, it was learned that Private Hanson's assistant gunner and three riflemen had been wounded and had crawled to safety, and that he was maintaining a lone-man defense. After the 1st Platoon reorganized, counter-attacked, and resecured its original positions at approximately 0530 hours, Private Hanson's body was found lying in front of his emplacement, his machine-gun ammunition expended, his empty pistol in his right hand, and a machete with blood on the blade in his left hand, and approximately 22 enemy dead lay in the wake of his action. Private Hanson's consummate valor, inspirational conduct and willing self-sacrifice enabled the company to contain the enemy and regain the commanding ground, and reflect lasting glory on himself and the noble traditions of the military service.

Corporal Clair Goodblood (Service No. RA11171892), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company D, 7th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Popsu-dong, Korea, on 24 and 25 April 1951. Corporal Goodblood, a machine gunner, was attached to Company B in defensive positions on thickly wooded key terrain under attack by a ruthless foe. In the bitter fighting which ensued, the numerically superior enemy infiltrated the perimeter, rendering the friendly positions untenable. Upon order to move back, Corporal Goodblood voluntarily remained to cover the withdrawal and, constantly vulnerable to heavy fire, inflicted withering destruction on the assaulting force. Seeing a grenade lobbed at his position, he shoved his assistant to the ground and, flinging himself upon the soldier, attempted to shield him. Despite his valorous act, both men were wounded. Rejecting aid for himself, he ordered the ammunition bearer to evacuate the injured man for medical treatment. He fearlessly maintained his one-man defensive, sweeping the onrushing assailants with fire until an enemy banzai charge carried the hill and silenced his gun. When friendly elements regained the commanding ground, Corporal Goodblood's body was found lying beside his gun and approximately 100 hostile dead lay in the wake of his field of fire. Through his unflinching courage and willing self-sacrifice, the onslaught was retarded, thereby enabling his unit to withdraw, regroup, and resecure the strong point. Corporal Goodblood's inspirational conduct and devotion to duty reflect lasting glory on himself and are in keeping with the noble traditions of the military service.

Sergeant First Class *Junior D. When his platoon, while assisting in the defense of a strategic hill, was forced out of its position and came under vicious, raking fire from an enemy machine-gun set-up on adjacent high ground, Sergeant Edwards individually charged the hostile emplacement, throwing grenades as he advanced. The enemy withdrew, but returned to deliver devastating fire when Sergeant Edwards had expended his ammunition. Securing a fresh supply of grenades, he again charged the emplacement, neutralized the weapon, and killed the crew, but was forced back by hostile small-arms fire. When the enemy emplaced another machine gun and resumed fire, Sergeant Edwards again renewed his supply of grenades, rushed a third time through a vicious hail of fire, silenced this second gun, and annihilated its crew. In this third daring assault he was mortally wounded, but his indomitable courage and successful action enabled his platoon to regain and hold the vital strong point. Sergeant Edwards' consummate valor and gallant self-sacrifice reflect the utmost glory on himself and are in keeping with the esteemed traditions of the Infantry and the military service.

Volunteering to lead his squad up a hill, with meager cover against murderous fire from the enemy, he ordered his squad to give him support and, in the face of withering fire and bursting shells, he tossed a grenade at the nearest enemy position. On returning to his squad, he was knocked down and wounded by an enemy grenade. Refusing medical attention, he replenished his supply of grenades and returned, hurling grenades into hostile positions and shooting the enemy as they fled. When his weapon jammed, he leaped without hesitation into a fox hole and killed the occupants with his bayonet and the butt of his rifle. He continued to wipe out fox holes and, noting that his squad had been pinned down, he rushed to the rear of a machine-gun position, threw a grenade into the nest, and ran around to its front, where he killed all three occupants with his rifle. Less than 100 yards up the hill, his squad again came under vicious fire from another camouflaged, sand-bagged, machine-gun nest well-flanked by supporting riflemen. Sergeant Brittin again charged this new position in an aggressive endeavor to silence this remaining obstacle and ran direct into a burst of automatic fire which killed him instantly. In his sustained and driving action, he had killed 20 enemy soldiers and destroyed four automatic weapons. The conspicuous courage, consummate valor, and noble self-sacrifice displayed by Sergeant Brittin enabled his inspired company to attain its objective and reflect the highest glory on himself and the heroic traditions of the military service.

At approximately 0200 hours, two enemy battalions swarmed up the ridge line in a ferocious banzai charge in an attempt to dislodge Private Bennett's company from its defensive positions. Meeting the challenge, the gallant defenders delivered destructive retaliation, but the enemy pressed the assault with fanatical determination and the integrity of the perimeter was imperiled. Fully aware of the odds against him, Private Bennett unhesitatingly left his fox hole, moved through withering fire, stood within full view of the enemy, and, employing his automatic rifle, poured crippling fire into the ranks of the onrushing assailants, inflicting numerous casualties. Although wounded, Private Bennett gallantly maintained his one-man defense and the attack was momentarily halted. During this lull in battle, the company regrouped for counterattack, but the numerically superior foe soon infiltrated into the position. Upon orders to move back, Private Bennett voluntarily remained to provide covering fire for the withdrawing elements, and, defying the enemy, continued to sweep the charging foe with devastating fire until mortally wounded. His willing self-sacrifice and intrepid actions saved the position from being overrun and enabled the company to effect an orderly withdrawal. Private Bennett's unflinching courage and consummate devotion to duty reflect lasting glory on himself and the military service.

REPUBLIC OF KOREA PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION awarded by citation dated 16 August 1951, by Syngman Rhee, President of the Republic of Korea, for outstanding and superior performance of duty during the period 23 September 1950 until 2 November 1950, inclusive, with citation as follows:

The Government of the Republic of Korea extends its deepest, most sincere and heartfelt appreciation for the magnificent manner in which Headquarters, IX US Corps and attached units accomplished their most difficult task in Korea. From the first commitment in battle of units of IX Corps on 23 September 1950 until Corps moved North on 2 November 1950 to participate in the United Nations November offensive, the entire Headquarters of IX US Corps and attached units served with marked accomplishment and distinction. The Headquarters assumed operational control of the 2d and 25th United States Infantry Divisions on 23 September 1950. At that time the Headquarters consisted of only a small fraction of the personnel and equipment authorized. Staff sections were between 10% and 25% of authorized strength; signal communications were almost nonexistent and there was only a minute fraction of the authorized Corps troops available. Courageous and determined officers and men found themselves confronted with tactical and logistical difficulties of the most monumental and exacting nature. Command and staff functioning was complicated by the extreme operational handicaps of inadequate personnel, equipment, and communications. In spite of these difficulties, Headquarters IX Corps planned and directed a brilliant offensive that carried the IX Corps across the Naktong and Nam Rivers and swept 175 miles in 6 days to the west coast of Korea. Opposing the IX Corps at this time were 6 of the total of 13 North Korean divisions which were opposing Eighth Army and in addition 2 brigades and 5 separate regiments. Following the stunning breakthrough and exploitation of the enemy's positions, IX Corps carried out a systematic destruction of bypassed elements remaining in Southwestern Korea. During the period 23 September to 2 November 1950, IX Corps units inflicted 16,042 casualties on the enemy and captured 20,011 prisoners of war. The destruction of the enemy forces in Southwestern Korea was complete. During this entire period transportation, communications, evacuation, and logistical support presented problems requiring great skill and adroitness of planning in their solution. Under the most severe military tests and adverse conditions, the determined officers and soldiers of Headquarters IX Corps and attached units worked tenaciously and relentlessly to insure the defeat of the numerically superior and fanatically resisting Communist forces.

The Republic of Korea holds in the highest esteem the gallant, heroic, and meritorious service of the officers and enlisted men of Headquarters IX US Corps and attached units. By their extraordinary actions on the battlefield, they have brought the highest credit on themselves and the forces of freedom throughout the world.

The Government and the people of the Republic of Korea will remember with undying gratitude the truly meritorious services made to sustain their freedom and to thwart despotic aggression in other peace-loving nations.

REPUBLIC OF KOREA PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION awarded by citation dated 16 August 1951, by Syngman Rhee, President of the Republic of Korea, for outstanding and superior performance of duty during the period 15 September to 24 December 1950, inclusive, with citation as follows:

The X Corps and attached units are cited for extraordinary heroism in combat against an armed enemy of the United Nations during the period 15 to 30 September 1950 for the planning and execution of the amphibious landing at Inchon, Korea, the crossing of the Han River and the capture of the capital city of Seoul and effecting the break through enemy lines to link up with Eighth Army forces south of Suwon, and during the period 18 October to 24 December 1950 for the heroic evacuation of X Corps troops and civilian refugees from the Hungnam beachhead.

An amphibious assault at Inchon, Korea, was magnificently effected by X Corps on 15 September 1950, only 30 days after the plan was initiated. The success achieved demonstrated a complete mastery of the technique of amphibious warfare and clockwork coordination between the units and services of X Corps. This successful amphibious assault struck by X Corps into the heart of enemy-occupied Korea liberated its national capital of Seoul enabling the restoration of the city and the reestablishment of the Korean National Assembly in the old capital city.

The arrival of X Corps in northeast Korea brought about the free voting of the citizens of Wonsan to select the civil government for this large port city for the first time in many years. This democratic freedom was the first of many to be experienced by citizens throughout Hangyong-Namdo and Hamgyong-Pukto Provinces during the operations of X Corps. On 8 December 1950, the Commanding General, X Corps was ordered by the Commander in Chief, United Nations Command, to consolidate his troops in the northeast zone Korea into a perimeter defense and to evacuate all United Nations Forces as soon as an orderly evacuation could be effected. The evacuation order presented problems to X Corps Command which had never before faced an American Army. The X Corps evacuation plan called for the movement of all equipment and supplies including some 17,500 vehicles, 350,000 measurement tons of bulk cargo, in addition to approximately 105,000 troops and the maximum number of North Korean civilian refugees.

Although it was known that the time available for the execution plan would depend largely on tactical consideration and how hard the enemy pressed his attack against the perimeter, the estimated time needed to clear the ports from the date that loading out began at Hungnam was approximately 10 days. The stupendous task of extricating the 1st Marine Division and elements of the 7th Division from the Chosin Reservoir Area, the marshaling of transportation and supplies of all types, together with the most difficult task of traffic control of units and masses of refugees during these operations, were solved by heroic efforts on the part of all elements of X Corps troops.

By 1400 hours, 24 December, all United Nations Forces and 98,000 North Korean civilian refugees who had proven themselves loyal to the Republic of Korea were completely evacuated from the perimeter. Many of the key Government officials were brought out by military aircraft while others were evacuated by water transportation.

The outstanding accomplishments of X Corps in the fight against the forces of aggression in Korea rendered a great service to the Republic of Korea and has won the undying gratitude of the Government and people of that Republic.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY
 WASHINGTON 25, D. C., 24 January 1952

The Department of the Army announces with deep regret the tragic death of the Honorable ROBERT PORTER PATTERSON at Elizabeth, New Jersey, on 22 January 1952.

Mr. PATTERSON was born at Glens Falls, New York, on 12 February 1891. Following graduation from Union College and Harvard University, he was admitted to the New York bar in 1915 and entered the practice of law in New York City. His public service began with his appointment as Judge of the United States District Court, Southern New York District, in 1930. In 1939 he was made a member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, and served as such until his selection as Assistant Secretary of War on 31 July 1940.

On 19 December 1940, Mr. PATTERSON was appointed to the newly created office of Under Secretary of War, and served in this capacity until 18 September 1945, on which date he became Secretary of War. He resigned this position on 24 July 1947.

Mr. PATTERSON first entered military service on 21 October 1915 as a member of the New York National Guard. He was mustered into the Federal Service on 26 June 1916 and served on the Mexican Border as a private, Company I, 7th Infantry. Commissioned a second lieutenant, Infantry, at Plattsburg Barracks, New York, 15 May 1917, he served in the American Expeditionary Forces with the 306th Infantry in the Baccarat, Vesle, and Foret-d'Argonne sectors and the Oise-Aisne and Meuse-Argonne offensives. He was wounded 16 August 1918 and was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action on 26 September 1918. Returning to the United States, he was honorably discharged as a major, 27 May 1919.

He was awarded the Distinguished-Service Cross on 8 May 1920 for extraordinary heroism in action on 14 August 1918 and, on 27 September 1945, the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services in the performance of his duties as Under Secretary of War.

Throughout his entire career, whether in office or in private life, Mr. PATTERSON rendered loyal and notable public service. As modest as he was brilliant, he ever sought to avoid the recognition he merited, and enjoyed the admiration and respect of the military service. In his untimely passing the Army has lost a loyal friend and the country one of its most eminent citizens.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named enlisted men:

Private First Class Leonard M. Kravitz (Service No. RA12322776), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company M, 5th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Yangpyong, Korea, on 6 and 7 March 1951. Private Kravitz, an assistant machine gunner attached to Company L, was in a defensive position on strategic key terrain. After the friendly elements had repulsed two earlier probing attacks, the enemy launched a fanatical banzai charge with heavy supporting fire and, despite staggering losses, pressed the assault with ruthless determination. When the machine gunner was wounded in the initial phase of the action, Private Kravitz immediately seized the weapon and poured devastating fire into the ranks of the onrushing assailants. The enemy effected and exploited a breach on the left flank, rendering the friendly positions untenable. Upon order to withdraw, Private Kravitz voluntarily remained to provide protective fire for the retiring elements. Traversing the gun to the left to cover the infiltrating enemy and ignoring the pleadings of his comrades to fall back, he fearlessly maintained his position. Detecting a column of Communist troops moving toward friendly positions, he swept the hostile soldiers with deadly, accurate fire, killing the entire group. His destructive retaliation caused the enemy to concentrate vicious fire on his position and enabled the friendly elements to effect a withdrawal. After the strong point was resecured, Private Kravitz' body was found lying beside the gun he had so heroically manned, and numerous enemy dead lay in and around his emplacement. Private Kravitz' incredible display of valor set an inspiring example for his comrades. His unflinching courage and consummate devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself and uphold the finest traditions of the military service.

Private First Class Wataru Nakamura (Service No. ER36467531), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company I, 38th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations, near P'ungch'on, Korea, on 18 May 1951. Private Nakamura's unit sustained a vicious attack on the night of 17 May which neutralized communications facilities between the 1st platoon and the company command post. At approximately 0430 hours on 18 May, with intermittent rain and fog increasing the darkness of early morning, Private Nakamura volunteered to check and repair the damaged line. Unaware that the enemy had infiltrated and captured heavily fortified friendly positions, he moved forward until he came under a withering hail of hostile fire. Disregarding his safety, he made a one-man assault, silencing a machine gun and its crew with his carbine and bayonet and destroying two other enemy positions with grenades. When his ammunition was expended, he was forced to withdraw in the face of overwhelming odds. After falling back, Private Nakamura met a carrying party, briefed the officer in charge, and, replenishing his ammunition, returned to engage the hostile force. Supported by rifle fire, he wiped out an enemy position and attacked the remaining bunker, killing one and wounding another enemy soldier before he was mortally wounded by grenade fire. Private Nakamura's intrepid actions and consummate devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself and uphold the honored traditions of the military service.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted man:

Private First Class LeRoy St. J. Kauhini (Service No. RA10104661), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company B, 15th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy near Sobangsan, Korea, on 23 and 24 June 1951. After attacking and capturing the southern peak of twin crests on 23 June, Private Kauhini's company readied defensive positions for imminent counterattack. A reinforced enemy company launched a ruthless counterattack, inflicting numerous casualties. Observing a grenade fall into a fox hole and seriously wound and blow a soldier from the position, he dashed through a hail of hostile bullets to within 10 feet of the enemy, brought the man to safety, and then, rushing back up the fire-swept slope, fired his pistol point blank into the enemy until his ammunition was expended. Detecting several hostile troops moving toward an unmanned friendly machine gun, he raced through withering fire, seized the weapon, and inflicted sweeping destruction into the ranks of the fanatical foe, thereby retarding the advance and enabling his company to regroup, counterattack, and regain the hill. Private Kauhini sustained a painful arm wound in this action but, refusing medical treatment, remained steadfast in his position. At approximately 0200 hours on 24 June, the enemy made a ferocious banzai charge, employing an estimated two battalions supported by automatic weapons, small-arms, and grenade fire. Again Private Kauhini advanced alone in the face of vicious hostile fire and, firing his rifle and throwing grenades, halted the attack momentarily and enabled the company to effect an orderly withdrawal. He was last seen standing alone on the crest of the hill, delivering crippling fire into the onrushing assailants. Private Kauhini's incredible courage and consummate devotion to duty reflect lasting glory on himself and are in keeping with the noble traditions of the military service.

III. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action on the date indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer:

First Lieutenant Robert C. Walsh, O445650, Cavalry, United States Army, a platoon leader in the 4th Reconnaissance Troop Mechanized, 4th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the enemy near Meautis, France, on 10 July 1944. While leading his unit on a vital mission to seize and secure a bridge of importance to assaulting friendly troops, Lieutenant

Walsh's platoon came under heavy enemy fire and its advance was halted. He immediately directed his vehicles to move into covered positions. Voluntarily leading a six-man patrol through a heavily mined road block and concentrated artillery fire, they crawled behind the enemy lines in an effort to determine the depth and location of enemy elements which were holding up the attack of friendly units. His patrol was discovered and subjected to intense enemy rifle and automatic-weapons fire. Totally disregarding his safety, he ordered the members of his patrol to withdraw while he remained behind and covered the successful withdrawal. He courageously maintained his position and engaged the enemy in a continuous exchange of fire until mortally wounded. Lieutenant Walsh's initiative, courage, and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

IV. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Major George B. Hafeman, O1284326 (then captain), Infantry, Army of the United States, S-3, 2d Battalion, 20th Infantry Regiment, 6th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the enemy near Kiangian, Luzon, Philippine Islands, on 13 August 1945. His unit, with the 14th Philippine Infantry Regiment attached, was engaged in a series of assaults in rugged mountain terrain and was pressing forward against a fanatical, stubbornly resisting enemy in an effort to dislodge the hostile forces from Antipolo, the unit's major objective. During the advance, one of the forward elements of Major Hafeman's unit was subjected to enemy machine-gun and mortar fire while digging in on an important hill crest, which caused numerous casualties. He observed that the unit was becoming dangerously disorganized. Recognizing the importance of retaining the newly won position at all costs, he rushed from his observation post to meet the situation and to prevent any untimely withdrawal. Acting swiftly on his initiative, he assumed command of the unit and personally directed the consolidation and organization of the position. He was struck in the shoulder by enemy machine-gun fire. Despite his painful wound, he refused to be evacuated until the position was secure. While engaged in this action, he learned that two of his comrades had been seriously wounded, were lying about 50 yards to the front of his position, and were facing the danger of receiving further wounds from enemy fire falling in the area. He organized and led an evacuation party, which successfully evacuated the wounded to a place of safety. When he was convinced that the position was entirely organized and capable of holding on, Major Hafeman then proceeded to walk to an aid station despite his painful wound. Major Hafeman's initiative and prompt, courageous actions reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Colonel Kim Chum Kon, 10115, Infantry, Republic of Korea Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action near Nopo-dong, Korea, from 22 to 25 April 1951. Commanding the 12th Regiment, 1st Republic of Korea Division, through superb leadership and tactical knowledge, he capably directed the successful defense of his sector in the Imjin River area for 3 days against repeated attacks by numerically superior, hostile forces before complying with orders to withdraw. He fearlessly led elements of his regiment on 23 April in a counterattack, inflicting numerous casualties on the enemy and disorganizing and halting their offensive. Launching another attack on 25 April, his unit inflicted heavy destruction on opposing forces, advanced approximately 3,000 yards, succeeded in liberating 43 members of the 29th British Brigade, and provided cover for the withdrawal of the 15th Regiment. Despite fanatical attacks by hostile troops who gained high ground in rear of friendly battalions and raked the regimental observation post with vicious automatic-weapons and mortar fire, Colonel Kim coolly maintained order, supervised the destruction of radio equipment, and personally led his men through enemy-held territory to safety. Colonel Kim's courage, devotion to duty, and gallant leadership reflect great credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

Colonel Ko Baik Kyn, 10250, Infantry, Republic of Korea Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action as commanding officer of the 29th Regiment, 9th Korean Division, near Chinbu Myon, Korea, on 8 February 1951. Spearheading an attack on Hajinbu-ri, the advanced battalion of his unit became pinned down by intense mortar, machine-gun, and small-arms fire from hostile elements emplaced on high ground. Disregarding this vicious fire, Colonel Ko fearlessly reconnoitered the situation to the front, then deployed another battalion around the right flank of the enemy. Inspired by his courage and aggressiveness, despite lack of communications and a shortage of ammunition and food, his regiment killed 399 enemy troops, captured 24, and completely routed the remaining force. Colonel Ko's consistent exposure to hostile fire and his determination, gallantry, and superb leadership reflect the highest credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

V. LEGION OF MERIT.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. I, WD Bul. 54, 1942), the Legion of Merit (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Colonel John W. Donnell, O41431, Adjutant General's Corps, United States Army. 30 June 1950 to 19 November 1951.

A fishing companion fell into swift, turbulent waters and was swept rapidly downstream into the boiling waters and whirlpools below Gatun Spillway. Recognizing that his companion was in dire distress and helpless to extricate himself from his grave danger, Sergeant Barsosky, unhesitatingly and with complete disregard for his personal safety, jumped into the surging waters, fully clothed, in a heroic but unsuccessful attempt to swim to the side of the drowning man and save his life. Brigadier General Shim On Bong, 10022, Republic of Korea Army, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy between Yongwol and Chechon, Korea, on 8 January 1951. Volunteering to deliver an important set of orders promulgated by III

Republic of Korea Corps to divisions in advance areas, he proceeded with a small escort party. Ambushed by hostile troops, the party was forced to abandon their vehicles and seek protective cover. General Shim, determined to complete his vital mission, fearlessly exposed himself repeatedly to enemy fire to direct the fire of his party. Having beaten off the hostile attack, the party continued on and delivered orders enabling new defense lines to be established, which halted the enemy advance. The courageous leadership and devotion to duty exhibited by General Shim reflect credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

Technician Fifth Grade Murray A. Katzen (Service No. 20204405), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company A, 1st Ranger Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States, near Arzew, Algeria, on 8 November 1942. On his first day of combat, armed with an automatic weapon and hand grenades, he sought out and captured single-handed 42 enemy marines by entering and clearing two enemy barracks located approximately $\frac{1}{2}$ mile forward of the nearest friendly troops. Holding a hand grenade, with pin pulled and handle gripped, he forced his prisoners to move ahead of him to outposts where they were in a position to be covered by his fellow soldiers. Technician Katzen's courage and devotion to duty reflect distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Colonel Pak Hyon Su, 10130, Infantry, Republic of Korea Army, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy as commanding officer of the 35th Regiment in Korea from 7 to 10 March 1951. Although seriously ill, Colonel Pak refused hospitalization and, exhibiting a comprehensive knowledge of tactics and strategy, consistently deployed his unit for maximum efficiency and accomplishment. Constantly forward with front-line elements directing operations under hostile fire, his exemplary courage and aggressive spirit inspired his troops to repeated victories. Colonel Pak's tenacity of purpose, superb leadership, and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the Republic of Korea Army.

2. By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, WD Bul. 3, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States on the date indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted man:

Staff Sergeant John W. Dresch (Service No. 33617774), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company K, 413th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by heroic conduct in action near Warburg, Germany, on 30 March 1945. His platoon moved forward slowly but steadily under intense, accurate enemy small-arms and automatic-weapons fire, with the mission of capturing prisoners and dislodging hostile forces manning an effective road block on a nearby wooded hill. As the unit advanced up the hill, the enemy began to withdraw. Realizing the intentions of the enemy, Sergeant Dresch rushed over the crest of the hill, in the face of heavy small-arms fire, set up a machine-gun, and placed such withering fire on the withdrawing foe that the route of escape was cut off, thereby forcing their surrender. Because of his foresight and aggressive action, his unit captured 70 prisoners. Sergeant Dresch's courage and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named officer:

First Lieutenant Robert M. McGovern, O1341808, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company A, 5th Cavalry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Kamyangjan-ni, Korea, on 30 January 1951. As Lieutenant McGovern led his platoon up a slope to engage hostile troops emplaced in bunker-type pillboxes with connecting trenches, the unit came under heavy machine-gun and rifle fire from the crest of the hill, approximately 75 yards distant. Despite a wound sustained in this initial burst of withering fire, Lieutenant McGovern assured the men of his ability to continue on and urged them forward. Forging up the rocky incline, he fearlessly led the platoon to within several yards of its objective when the ruthless foe threw and rolled a vicious barrage of hand grenades on the group and halted the advance. Enemy fire increased in volume and intensity and Lieutenant McGovern, realizing that casualties were rapidly increasing and the morale of his men badly shaken, hurled back several grenades before they exploded. Then, disregarding his painful wound and weakened condition, he charged a machine-gun emplacement which was raking his position with flanking fire. When he was within 10 yards of the position, a burst of fire ripped the carbine from his hands, but, undaunted, he continued his lone-man assault and, firing his pistol and throwing grenades, killed seven hostile soldiers before falling mortally wounded in front of the gun he had silenced. Lieutenant McGovern's incredible display of valor imbued his men with indomitable resolution to avenge his death. Fixing bayonets and throwing grenades, they charged with such ferocity that hostile positions were overrun and the enemy routed from the hill. The inspirational leadership, unflinching courage, and intrepid actions of Lieutenant McGovern reflect utmost glory on himself and the honored traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops, and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officers:

First Lieutenant Marinus Bruinooge, O1334095, Infantry, United States Army, as platoon leader of the 2d Platoon, Company G, 7th Cavalry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Konjiam-ni, Korea, on 14 February 1951. Committed to attack and secure commanding terrain tenaciously defended by a well-fortified hostile force, Lieutenant Bruinooge's platoon was pinned down within 150 yards of its objective by intense automatic-weapons, small-arms, and mortar fire and suffered numerous casualties. After artillery and mortar fire had been placed on the enemy position, he again led his men forward, but was halted by a vicious barrage of fire from two machine guns and an emplacement employing grenades. Making a one-man assault at approximately 1800 hours, he advanced within 20 yards and was wounded, but gallantly forged on and, after lobbing a grenade into the position, closed with the enemy and killed its four occupants. Observing the nearest machine gun was but 25 yards distant, Lieutenant Bruinooge harassed the gunners with grenades and then, fearlessly rushing forward, fired his carbine full automatic into the fox hole until he was mortally wounded. His intrepid actions retarded the onslaught, enabled evacuation of the wounded, and contributed significantly to the subsequent accomplishment of the mission. Lieutenant Bruinooge's consummate valor and willing self-sacrifice reflect the highest credit on himself and uphold the finest traditions of the military service.

First Lieutenant Robert G. Schmitt, O57429, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company M, 31st Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near the Chosin Reservoir, Korea, on 1 December 1950. The regiment was assigned the mission of effecting a withdrawal and attempting a juncture with the 1st Marine Division at Hagaru-ri. Following assembly of a motor convoy with Company M committed to provide security for the right flank, Lieutenant Schmitt, having sustained a severe leg injury in a previous encounter, was ordered to ride in a vehicle with other wounded. After proceeding several miles, the column was halted by a road block, and devastating fire rained down from strongly fortified positions emplaced on three surrounding hills. With mounting casualties and fast dwindling ammunition, the morale of the men was badly shaken. Lieutenant Schmitt, although suffering greatly from his wound, voluntarily left his transportation to rally, organize, and lead an assault against the enemy positions. Giving his carbine to an unarmed man and improvising a stick for a crutch, he struggled forward, and the men, rising to the challenge of their valiant leader, followed him in a determined attack against the fanatical foe.

Progressing with extreme difficulty on his makeshift crutch, he continued to lead the attack through withering fire until he was struck by a machine-gun bullet and fell mortally wounded. Refusing medical treatment, he urged the men to press the assault. Inspired by his incredible display of valor, his resolute soldiers charged with such ferocity that hostile positions were overrun and the enemy routed from the hill. Lieutenant Schmitt's intrepid actions resulted in the elimination of the road block and enabled the convoy to resume its advance. His unflinching courage and consummate devotion to duty reflect lasting glory on himself and are in keeping with the noble traditions of the military service.

Captain Conrado D. Yap, O1914, Coast Artillery Corps, Philippine Army, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy as commanding officer of Tank (Special Weapons) Company, 10th Battalion Combat Team, Philippine Expeditionary Forces to Korea, near Yultong, Korea, on 22 and 23 April 1951. Shortly before midnight on 22 April, his company, occupying defensive positions, came under a vicious, hostile attack which seriously penetrated the perimeter. Exploiting the breach, the enemy launched successive, determined assaults throughout the night. Constantly exposed to machine-gun, mortar, and artillery fire, Captain Yap crawled from fox hole to fox hole, steadying his men and encouraging them to hold firm. Learning that his 1st Platoon had been overrun, and despite orders from his battalion commander to withdraw his unit, he fearlessly led a daring charge in a determined effort to reach the beleaguered platoon. Overwhelming enemy strength and heavy fire received from flanks and to the front notwithstanding, they relentlessly pressed the assault, regained the hill, evacuated the casualties, and rescued the isolated unit. Observing a stricken soldier on the slope of the hill, Captain Yap immediately started toward the man but was mortally wounded by a burst of enemy fire. Inspired by his heroic conduct, his men continued the fight with such determination and skill that the enemy attack was contained and numerous casualties were inflicted. Captain Yap's display of courage, devotion to duty, and inspiring leadership reflect the highest credit on himself and the Army of the Republic of the Philippines.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted man:

Master Sergeant Jimmie Holloway (Service No. RA34201485), Artillery, United States Army, a member of Battery A, 15th Field Artillery Battalion, 2d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy near Saemal and Changbong-ni, Korea, on 12 February 1951. The beleaguered battalion, heavily engaged against a numerically superior foe, was attempting to effect a withdrawal and Sergeant Holloway, constantly vulnerable to hostile fire, directed the defense and retrograde action of his battery. Learning that a wounded soldier had not been evacuated from the area just vacated, he dashed approximately 150 yards across open, fire-swept terrain to rescue him. Later, as the battalion proceeded to move back, it was halted by a road block and came under vicious fire. In the ensuing action, a mortar burst ignited one of the ammunition trucks. Sergeant Holloway, braving a withering barrage of fire, directed removal of the ammunition from the burning vehicle and then pushed it off the road. As enemy fire increased in volume and intensity, forcing the battalion into hasty defensive positions, he again raced through devastating fire and, uncoupling a howitzer from a truck, placed protective fire on a hill to enable a company of infantry to effect a withdrawal. After the executive officer was wounded and unable to respond to a call for artillery fire, Sergeant Holloway rushed forward to an exposed vantage point and, with mortar fire bursting within 15 yards, fearlessly directed deadly accurate fire into the opposing force. Upon orders to secure commanding terrain and establish defensive positions for the night, he volunteered to act as point for the combat patrol and was last seen moving up high ground toward the enemy. Sergeant Holloway's inspirational conduct, intrepid actions, and consummate devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself and uphold the honored traditions of the military service.

Captain Wiley McGarity, 02204129 (then first lieutenant), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company F, 17th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Paengma-gol, Korea, on 1 September 1951. Company F, in defensive positions on a strategic hill, was viciously attacked at approximately 0200 hours by an estimated 300 ruthless, hostile force supported by automatic-weapons and grenade fire. After the enemy penetrated a company position on the west end of the hill, inflicting heavy casualties and gaining control of key terrain, Captain McGarity, armed only with a pistol and several grenades, braved withering small-arms and automatic-weapons fire and, launching a lone-man assault against the fanatical assailants, killed approximately six hostile soldiers before his ammunition was expended. Although wounded by grenade fragments, Captain McGarity grabbed abandoned enemy grenades and a discarded carbine and continued to pour deadly accurate fire into enemy positions until the ammunition was exhausted. Then, seizing an entrenching tool, he closed in hand-to-hand combat, killing two more hostile soldiers. Maintaining his magnificent stand, Captain McGarity inflicted such sweeping destruction that the enemy broke off the engagement and when friendly troops reached the area, he was hurling grenades at the retreating foe. Captain McGarity's inspirational, intrepid actions exacted a toll of approximately 30 enemy dead and as a result of his incredible display of valor the vital strong point was re-secured. His unflinching courage under fire and consummate devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself and uphold the honored traditions of the military service.

Captain Charles L. Wesolowsky, 028704, Infantry, United States Army, a member of the United States Military Advisory Group to the Republic of Korea, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy in Korea on 20 May 1951. He was one of a group of United Nations personnel attempting to evade capture when they were suddenly subjected to heavy enemy fire which caused the withdrawal of the group. Captain Wesolowsky and two companions remained in position and furnished covering fire. During this action, he fearlessly left his sheltered position to go to the aid of a companion who was pinned down by heavy automatic-weapons fire. Charging the enemy in a fierce, bold attack, he bayoneted the gunner and one other enemy soldier and forced the remaining enemy troops to disperse, thereby preventing the over-running of the position. After enemy fire had momentarily subsided, he ordered his two companions to withdraw to safety while he, remaining behind with a critically limited supply of ammunition, covered their withdrawal, fought off enemy patrols, and continued to destroy as many of the enemy as possible. Despite malnutrition and extreme fatigue from his arduous days behind enemy lines, Captain Wesolowsky displayed superb courage against heavy odds in knowingly risking his life to allow his companions to escape unharmed. Captain Wesolowsky's heroic action and willing self-sacrifice reflect the highest credit on himself and uphold the esteemed traditions of the military service.

IV. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Second Lieutenant Albert L. Allen, Jr. (then sergeant), O971003, Army of the United States, a member of Company C, 192d Tank Battalion, displayed gallantry in action on or about 27 December 1941 during the withdrawal of troops from Luzon to Bataan. Lieutenant Allen, dispatched by motorcycle from a forward command post of his battalion, was en route to deliver an urgent and important message to his company commander when he was strafed by a Japanese airplane which made effective hits on both tires and the oil tank of his vehicle. Despite the damaged condition of his motorcycle, he continued forward through a Japanese ambush, in which he was wounded, and completed his important mission by delivering the message to his company command tank commander. Lieutenant Allen's determined and courageous actions reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

Colonel Henri Dumoncel (then lieutenant colonel), Artillery, Army of the Republic of France, as temporary commanding officer of the French Ground Forces of the United Nations, displayed gallantry in action against an armed enemy in Korea from 7 January to 31 May 1951. During the successive battles at Wonju, he was constantly in the thick of battle at the most forward elements of his forces, directing fire support and centering accurate artillery fire on the strong enemy fortifications. His superior direction of supporting fires was a major contributing factor to the success of friendly forces at Wonju. Again at Twin Tunnels, Chipyong-ni, his display of personal courage and heroic leadership was a source of great inspiration and encouragement to all who served under him and spurred the men of his command to take their objectives at any cost. He gave impetus to the French Forces in the attack on the heavily defended Hill 1037, in the offensive actions which took place from Munbang-Ni to Pass 255, from Pass 255 to Umyang-ni to Inje. The gallant conduct of Colonel Dumoncel throughout this period reflects great credit on himself and the military service.

While engaged as an instructor on a hand-grenade range, one of his students pulled the pin from a grenade and accidentally let it drop to the ground. Sergeant Lustig heard the fuse go off and turned and saw his comrade standing with the activated grenade at his feet. With complete disregard for his personal safety, he threw the student to the ground and dropped down in front of him, thereby receiving the full blast of the grenade. As the result, he received multiple injuries and his fellow soldier received only minor injuries. Sergeant Lustig's alert and courageous action in the face of grave danger saved his comrade from serious injury or possible death and reflects distinct credit on himself and the military service.

First Lieutenant James L. Cadigan (then second lieutenant), O1018898, Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company C, 20th Armored Infantry Battalion, 10th Armored Division, distinguished himself by heroic conduct near Zerf, Germany, on 26 February 1945. His company was advancing against well-concealed enemy positions when leading assault elements were pinned down by heavy small-arms and machine-gun fire. Enemy elements, continuing their withering fire and using grenades, attempted to overrun the forward friendly positions. Lieutenant Cadigan, recognizing the critical position of advanced elements of his company, which were hopelessly pinned down, grabbed a light machine gun and crawled forward alone from his position in rear of the company through heavy enemy fire to a forward position of vantage from which he could bring fire on the enemy. He silenced one enemy machine gun and killed or wounded many of the enemy who attempted to infiltrate the company position. The remaining enemy troops fled and became disorganized, thereby permitting friendly troops to evacuate the wounded, withdraw, and reorganize. Lieutenant Cadigan's company then continued its advance. Lieutenant Cadigan's courage and devotion to duty reflect distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Leslie M. Ray, American Red Cross field director, serving with the 15th Infantry regiment, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroic conduct in action near Seoul, Korea, on 3 March 1951. Displaying sympathetic understanding and consummate concern for the mental and physical well-being of the combat soldier, Mr. Ray selflessly braved withering hostile fire to locate seven enlisted men with advance elements deployed along the Han River to deliver messages of critical morale nature. Through his efforts, a link was established between them and their families, which relieved the strain and uncertainty created by emotional upsets involving personal problems and difficulties. Mr. Ray's unflinching courage and devotion to duty were highly inspirational, enhanced the esprit de corps and combat effectiveness of the command, and reflect distinct credit on himself and the American Red Cross.

Major Wilfred C. Ford, O25005 (then first lieutenant), Infantry (Armor), United States Army, a member of Company B, 899th Tank Destroyer Battalion, while attached to the 60th Infantry Regiment, 9th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by heroism in action near Les-Champs-de-Losque, Normandy, France, on 17 July 1944. Major Ford proceeded beyond friendly lines under sporadic hostile fire, heedless of his own safety, to locate an enemy tank reported in the area which was holding up the advance of his unit. He located an enemy 75-mm self-propelled gun, returned to his tank destroyer, and, with great determination, led it into position from which this hostile weapon was destroyed. He then continued forward on foot ahead of leading elements of the attack echelon and located a second 75-mm self-propelled gun with its supporting enemy troops. He successfully directed one of his tank destroyers in a frontal attack to a firing position from which this enemy weapon was left in flames. Major Ford's courageous actions and outstanding leadership were an inspiration to his men and reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

SIGNAL CORPS ENGINEERING LABORATORIES FIELD STATION—Established. Section I
MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION—Awards----- II

I. SIGNAL CORPS ENGINEERING LABORATORIES FIELD STATION.—
Effective 15 December 1951, the Signal Corps Engineering Laboratories Field Station No. 4, Washington, D. C., is established as a class II activity under the jurisdiction of the Chief Signal Officer.

[AG 680.1 (12 Dec 51)]

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Sixth United States Army is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations during the period 17 October 1944 to 30 June 1945 in the Philippine Islands. During this period, the Sixth Army was responsible for conducting two major amphibious landings and subsequent ground operations, which resulted in the destruction of a major part of the Japanese forces on Leyte and Luzon. The forward echelon of the Army Headquarters left Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, on 13 October 1944, with the assault forces for the landing on Leyte arriving in Leyte Gulf on 20 October. The command post was established ashore initially at San José, Leyte, on 24 October. Thereafter, it was displaced successively to Tanauan, Leyte, and Tolosa, Leyte, and then reembarked to accompany the Luzon Attack Force. On Luzon, the command post was established initially at Bonuan, Gueset, later moving to Calasiao, Gerona, and then to San Fernando, Pampagna. During the entire course of the Philippine campaign, the Headquarters and Headquarters Company personnel operated with outstanding skill and efficiency despite the constant threat of enemy air attack and infiltration by ground forces. The professional ability, foresight, and devotion to duty of the individual members of the Army Staff and their never-failing teamwork won the respect and admiration of all with whom they dealt and was instrumental in bringing the operations to a successful conclusion with a minimum loss of lives and equipment by our forces. The outstanding performance of duty of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, Sixth United States Army, reflects great credit on itself and the military service of the United States.

2. The Headquarters Company, 7th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 February to 31 July 1951. During this period, in order to render maximum effective supply and administrative support to the division, this company actively participated in Operation Killer and subsequent combat operations of the division. Headquarters Company furnished security guards for the protection of all division command posts in a commendable and outstanding manner. These posts were set up following rapid and frequent tactical displacements over rough terrain, working under extremely adverse weather conditions and operating in proximity of hostile guerrilla bands.

Through the untiring efforts of the personnel of Headquarters Company, a continuous and adequate flow of vitally needed supplies were transported to the division headquarters, which was accomplished only by the perseverance of drivers making these trips over roads that were at times considered to be impassable. By the ingenuity, vigor, and foresight of the men of Headquarters Company, vehicles were kept in a state of constant readiness, capable of meeting all situations. Despite limited mess facilities, Headquarters Company maintained and operated messes which were feeding 1,600 to 1,800 persons a day, many times the number that the limited mess facilities of the company were designed to accommodate. Headquarters Company also maintained and operated the division's light aviation section, which performed liaison, reconnaissance, and evacuation missions and which contributed greatly to the combat successes of the division. Headquarters Company, 7th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The skill, effectiveness, and determination with which the members of this company performed their tasks reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 701, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 18 September 1951.)

3. The 1502d Engineer Dump Truck Company (Republic of Korea Army) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 17 February to 17 August 1951. Throughout this period, the vehicles of this company were utilized primarily with Ammunition Supply Point Number 1, the principal ammunition storage area in Korea. In addition, this company furnished supply trucks for construction operations in the vicinity of the port of Pusan, where it was necessary to construct facilities vital to the United Nations Forces. Despite overwhelming difficulties encountered while operating in conjunction with other United Nations Forces, the members of this company successfully accomplished all missions assigned to them. Despite the fact that spare parts for the vehicles were unavailable, the members of this company, displaying a high degree of initiative, ingenuity, and devotion to duty, kept their vehicles in operating condition at all times. The difficult terrain over which this company's vehicles were operating imposed a constant threat of breakdowns, but the skill exhibited by the drivers enabled them to complete their mission successfully. The 1502d Engineer Dump Truck Company (Republic of Korea Army) displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The highly competent manner in which the members of this company performed their duties reflects great credit on themselves, the Republic of Korea Army, and the United Nations Forces. (General Orders 770, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 October 1951.)

III. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following unit of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated. The citation reads as follows:

The Ambulance Company, 15th Medical Battalion, 1st Cavalry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 18 July 1950 to 31 January 1951. When the 1st Cavalry Division was committed to combat in Korea against numerically superior enemy forces, this company moved with the division in support of its front-line units. Despite the lack of combat indoctrination of a large majority of the personnel, the Ambulance Company performed its tasks in an outstanding and commendable manner. Working under the most adverse conditions, this company became a smoothly functioning organization that materially contributed to the high standards of medical service attained in the Korean campaign. During the period 22 July to 3 August, the Ambulance Company evacuated over 1,200 patients from front-line aid stations to clearing stations located many miles to the rear. Although the ambulances were unescorted at all times and frequently subjected to intense enemy fire, the drivers never faltered in their mission of evacuating casualties. From 3 August to 22 September, this company evacuated over 10,000 casualties, including civilians and soldiers of the United Nations Forces for further hospitalization in rear areas. When the division launched its offensive to break out of the Pusan perimeter on 22 September, separate platoons of the Ambulance Company accompanied each of its regiments, which created additional hazards and discomforts for its members because of the long routes over which evacuation had to be accomplished. On 1 November at Unsan, and again at Sainjang from 29 November to 2 December, the company evacuated hundreds of wounded from collecting stations to clearing stations. When this evacuation operation proved insufficient owing to the tremendous influx of casualties, the company re-evacuated the wounded to facilities located many miles to the rear. The Ambulance Company, 15th Medical Battalion, 1st Cavalry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The consistently outstanding manner in which the personnel performed their important duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Army Medical Service, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 723, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 25 September 1951.)

MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 19th Quartermaster Subsistence Supply Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 15 October 1950 to 14 April 1951. Upon its arrival in Korea, the company immediately became engaged in establishing and operating quartermaster supply points in direct support of combat divisions. In order to maintain a continuous flow of class I supplies to combat elements, it frequently was necessary for the unit to displace and set up new supply points so that urgently needed supplies could be conveniently procured by forward units. The company willingly accepted around-the-clock schedules. The tireless efforts of the members of this unit resulted in the efficient operation of supply points. The receipt, storage, and issue of subsistence were handled expeditiously. Although this unit was designed to support only 100,000 troops and was operating at only 55 percent of its authorized strength, it nevertheless on many occasions serviced over twice that number. The 19th Quartermaster Subsistence Supply Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The skill and determination demonstrated by members of the 19th Quartermaster Subsistence Supply Company in performing their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Quartermaster Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 734, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 30 September 1951.)

2. The 69th Chemical Smoke Generator Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 25 September 1950 to 1 April 1951. During this period, the unit, while not performing its primary function, assumed tasks far out of relation to its normal scope of duty and accomplished them in a consistently superior manner. After its landing at Inchon, the company manned road blocks in that area, operated the Inchon Prisoner of War Camp, and established a chemical depot at Ascom City. Later, they also furnished security guards for the 7th Transportation Medium Port, and then moved forward once more to assist in handling ammunition and the performance of various ordnance missions in Hamhung. Although the tactical situation frequently made it necessary for the company to fight as infantry, it nevertheless successfully operated transfer and supply points at Pohu-dong and Majandong until the withdrawal of friendly forces from the Chosin Reservoir area was completed. Upon completion of the Chosin Reservoir evacuation, the unit assisted in loading aircraft during the Hungnam evacuation in a highly commendable manner. The unit then was transported by air to Pusan, where it was given the task of preparing napalm bombs for the Air Force. Despite the extreme hazards involved in mixing the napalm by hand, the personnel worked with a high degree of diligence and adeptness that resulted in the maximum effectiveness of bombs processed by them. The 69th Chemical Smoke Generator Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The skill and determination with which the members of this company performed their many nonrelated duties reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 701, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 18 September 1951.)

3. The 82d Ordnance Heavy Maintenance Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 26 September 1950 to 26 March 1951. During this period, the company was assigned the mission of repair and maintenance of combat vehicles and armament of units participating in the Inchon landing and subsequent military operations. In addition to its regular assigned mission of processing, combat loading, and maintaining all tracked and armored vehicles, the unit unhesitatingly and efficiently provided vehicle maintenance for other units in the area, a job which the company was neither equipped nor designed to perform. Through the company's superior initiative, large quantities of ordnance equipment and supplies were rushed to front-line elements on a continuous around-the-clock operation. As a result of the ingenuity, resourcefulness, and zealous attention to duty of the personnel of this company, they were instrumental in organizing an assembly-line technique which resulted in the expeditious manner in which weapons were repaired and returned to front-line troops in a minimum of time. Evacuation teams recovered abandoned and disabled enemy vehicles in the rear of battle lines which were of vital importance for study and evaluation by ordnance specialists. Despite the fact that the personnel of the company were frequently subjected to enemy fire and other adverse conditions, they consistently furnished maintenance teams to forward units to assist and to instruct infantry and tank units in the maintenance of combat vehicles. By working in close contact with the fighting units, the company was able to maintain combat effectiveness of ordnance equipment for extended periods of time, thus increasing the combat efficiency of the units served. When it became necessary for the United Nations Forces to withdraw southward to more tenable positions because of the Chinese Communist intervention, the company successfully evacuated thousands of tons of equipment and supplies. The 82d Ordnance Heavy Maintenance Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The skill and aggressiveness manifested by the members of this unit contributed materially to the success of combat operations in Korea and reflect great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 713, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 21 September 1951.)

4. The 226th Signal Service Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 24 February to 24 August 1951. During this period, the company maintained and operated widespread communications facilities for the Eighth United States Army. Augmenting other signal units with operating personnel at key communication centers and operating many of the essential and vital switchboards, the company assured that maximum communications efficiency was supplied for the successful accomplishment of tactical operations. Although designed and equipped to function as an organization at one specific location, the rapidly changing tactical situation made it necessary for the unit to split into teams and detachments for assignments in various locations so that effective communications and photographic coverage could be maintained throughout Korea. The willingness and initiative demonstrated by the members of this unit in carrying out their assigned missions, despite the fact that most of them had little or no training in certain phases of this work, contributed immeasurably to the superior communications network through the command. The 226th Signal Service Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The high degree of skill and determination with which the members of this organization performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 713, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 21 September 1951.)

5. The 252d Transportation Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 January to 30 June 1951. This unit began operations in support of X Corps with a minimum of previous experience as a transportation truck company. During the period 9 January through 8 March, the unit performed admirably over the difficult roads and rapidly gained the experience necessary to give a performance equal to or better than more experienced truck units. The splendid performance of duty by this unit was credited with contributing materially to the success of the operations of X Corps. During the period 9 March through 8 June, the company was in direct support of combat operations of the 2d Infantry Division. The superior manner of accomplishment of this mission, despite adverse weather conditions and harassing enemy fire, aided greatly in the successful campaign of this division. During this period, the company transported 15,549 passengers and 36,888 tons of cargo a total distance of 780,864 miles. The 252d Transportation Truck Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, efficiency, and esprit de corps of the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Transportation Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 671, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 27 August 1951.)

6. The 476th Veterinary Food Inspection Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 30 August 1950 to 15 April 1951. Upon its arrival in Korea, the detachment was confronted with extremely limited facilities for the storage, refrigeration, and preservation of food products. In many instances, these facilities were in such poor condition that it was necessary to declare them unsanitary. Immediately, the detachment, through the diligent and conscientious efforts of the members, devised and instituted new measures which were instrumental in obtaining a high standard of operating efficiency. In addition to performing its primary mission, the detachment assumed tasks far out of relation to those normally assigned to a unit of this type and performed them in a highly competent and commendable manner. Despite extremely adverse conditions, the members of the detachment worked willingly and enthusiastically to insure the expeditious delivery of wholesome and adequate foods to the United Nations Forces in Korea. The 476th Veterinary Food Inspection Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The ingenuity and determination with which the members of this organization performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Army Medical Service, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 767, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 14 October 1951.)

7. The 529th Quartermaster Petroleum Supply Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 9 October 1950 to 9 April 1951. This company was given the mission of receiving and storing class III supplies and issuing them to I and X Corps. Despite the most adverse weather conditions and the difficulty of operating with considerably less than its authorized strength, the unit successfully established and operated 16 supply points at various locations throughout Korea. On many occasions, because of its nearness to the forward areas, the unit was required to prepare its own defense measures against hostile actions, a task which the unit was neither equipped nor organized to perform. When it became impossible to transport supplies by rail and road to the forward combat elements, the company instituted a plan by which class III supplies could be air-dropped to units in remote areas. Despite the handicaps engendered by a lack of adequate transportation, adverse weather conditions, and an acute shortage of operating personnel, the members of this company nevertheless manifested a high degree of skill, determination, and efficiency in completing all assignments. The 529th Quartermaster Petroleum Supply Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The technical ability and zeal with which the members of the company performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Quartermaster Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 760, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 12 October 1951.)

8. The 532d Signal Construction Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 7 August 1950 to 7 February 1951. During the critical early phases of the Korean campaign, this unit furnished signal construction teams to combat elements of the 24th Infantry Division, 25th Infantry Division, 1st Cavalry Division, and the 1st Provisional Marine Brigade. In addition, the company constructed communications systems for Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, at various locations throughout Korea. Carrying out these construction missions frequently under enemy small-arms and mortar fire, the high standard of communications efficiency never faltered, but was maintained in a superior manner despite the ever-increasing dangers inherent in operating under extremely adverse terrain and weather conditions. The company's personnel devised many field expedients in order to alleviate shortages of signal supplies and constant breakdown of vehicles, manifesting a high degree of ingenuity and a zealous application to duty. The 532d Signal Construction Company displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The skill and determination with which the members of this organization performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 701, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 18 September 1951.)

9. The 533d Engineer Technical Intelligence Team (Research) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 7 November 1950 to 31 August 1951. Throughout this period, the team furnished the Eighth United States Army, Korea, with vital and timely information obtained from the collection of captured enemy engineer matériel, interrogations of prisoners of war, and translations of captured enemy documents. As the only engineer technical intelligence unit available to the Eighth United States Army during part of this period, the 533d Engineer Technical Intelligence Team (research) collected all captured enemy engineer matériel, analyzed it, and provided information concerning it to interested agencies. Realizing the necessity for speed in accomplishing its mission, this unit conducted on-the-spot tests of enemy engineer equipment with maximum efficiency, despite extremely adverse conditions. From experience gained in field operations, the team prepared approximately 100 reports, which contained more than 8,000 photographic prints and over 200 technical drawings of various types of engineer equipment. In addition, it prepared the text and illustrations for a handbook on mines and booby traps for the use of all United Nations Forces in Korea. The 533d Engineer Technical Intelligence Team (research) displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The determination, diligence, and outstanding technical ability displayed by members of this team reflect great credit on themselves, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 760, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 12 October 1951.)

10. The 540th Transportation Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 15 October 1950 to 24 April 1951. During this period, the company never faltered in performing its assigned mission of transporting troops and supplies to the forward combat areas over rough and dangerous mountain supply routes with a limited number of vehicles, many of which were in poor condition upon their arrival in Korea. Disregarding the fact that there was little time to perform much needed maintenance and repair to vehicles, this unit transported the required cargo and troops necessary for a successful operation against the enemy. The 540th Transportation Truck Company performed it, assigned tasks diligently and enthusiastically without regard for personal safety and welfare. Many times under pressure, personnel of this unit abandoned the roles of truck drivers to fire on the enemy in order to protect valuable cargo and lives. The 540th Transportation Truck Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, ability, and esprit de corps of the members of this unit reflect great credit on themselves, the Transportation Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 671, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 27 August 1951.)

11. The 629th Medical Clearing Company (Separate) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 February to 31 July 1951. During this period, the 629th Medical Clearing Company (Separate) rendered outstanding medical support to units of X Corps in the central sector of Korea. While operating in the sector, the company had its three operating platoons and one headquarters platoon working on separate air strips in order to maintain close association with the mobile army surgical hospitals at these strips. Working diligently for prolonged periods of time, the company successfully evacuated over 22,000 patients to hospitals in rear areas. During certain phases of the campaign, the company evacuated as many as 1,000 patients in 1 day. Despite numerous displacements from one air strip to another, the 629th Medical Clearing Company (Separate) never faltered in its mission and was always ready to receive patients with a minimum of delay and with no loss of operating efficiency. The extremely adverse conditions under which the company performed its mission placed great physical stress on its members, but they nevertheless continued to render effective medical care. The 629th Medical Clearing Company (Separate) displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart and above other units with a similar mission. The skill, determination, and versatility exhibited by the members of this organization throughout this period reflect great credit on themselves, the Army Medical Service, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 767, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 14 October 1951.)

12. The Quartermaster Supply Detachment, 8058th Army Unit, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 20 July 1950 to 19 January 1951. This detachment was the first nondivisional quartermaster organization to participate in the Korean campaign. Upon its arrival in Korea, the detachment immediately put into operation a supply point which received, stored, and issued all classes of quartermaster supplies to the 24th Infantry Division. As additional United Nations Forces were committed to the campaign, the detachment furnished vitally needed supplies to three divisions and other attached Eighth United States Army units. In November, the detachment operated forward supply points at Chasan and Kunu-ri, where it was constantly subjected to enemy small-arms, mortar, and artillery fire. Because of the limited number of personnel assigned to this unit, it was necessary for its members to work with great diligence and skill in order to maintain a steady flow of quartermaster supplies to combat elements. The Quartermaster Supply Detachment, 8058th Army Unit, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The efficiency and steadfast devotion to duty exhibited by the members of this organization reflect great credit on themselves, the Quartermaster Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 757, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 11 October 1951.)

III. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 15th Quartermaster Company, 1st Cavalry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 22 July 1950 to 31 May 1951. Although operating at an average of only 85 percent of its authorized personnel strength during this period of the Korean campaign and faced with constantly, fast changing problems in rendering logistical support to the 1st Cavalry Division, attached army, corps, and United Nations member forces, the company gave maximum close support in an unfaltering and outstanding manner. Through its ingenuity, tenaciousness, and indomitable spirit, the company overcame the obstacles of moving supplies over exceedingly long supply routes during the bitter winter. The company met the requirements of fast changing strengths in the troops supported by having the supplies at the proper place on time and by anticipating the needs of the supported troops with unerring accuracy. This unit met its challenges and responsibilities with such forceful energy, loyalty, and devotion to duty that its performance, in the face of many adversities, was exemplary. The 15th Quartermaster Company, 1st Cavalry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The high degree of efficiency, reliability, and determination of the members of this company contributed materially to the successes attained in combat by the 1st Cavalry Division and reflects great credit on themselves, the Quartermaster Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 671, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 27 August 1951.)

2. The Medical Company, 15th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 15 November 1950 to 15 May 1951. During this period, the company rendered medical support to 3d Infantry Division troops in a highly competent and commendable manner. The high degree of initiative and devotion to duty consistently displayed by the members of this company reflected in the large numbers of patients effectively treated and evacuated. The company evacuated 918 battle casualties and 1,594 injury and disease cases. In addition, it treated over 10,000 patients for minor injuries and administered over 20,000 immunizations while in the field, which attests to the diligent and expeditious manner in which the personnel of the company strove to maintain their exceptionally high standard of medical service. Despite the hazards of operating under intense enemy small-arms and mortar fire, litter bearers and vehicles continued to transport casualties to safety and render effective medical aid. Through careful planning and training, the collecting station was capable of dividing into two separate echelons when the situation made such action necessary, thereby assuring that close medical support was always available to the advancing elements. During the evacuation of Hungnam, the company operated a medical installation from a beach position. Through a conscientious application to duty, the company devised and instituted a new practice for the treatment of frostbite and trench foot, which greatly lessened the number of evacuations. The Medical Company, 15th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with a similar mission. The high degree of ability, technical skill, and teamwork displayed by the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Army Medical Service, and the military service of the United States. I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer and enlisted man:

Sergeant Olyde L. Bennett (Service No. RA16210456), Armor, United States Army, a tank commander with Company B, 89th Medium Tank Battalion, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Sandokchong-Ni, Korea, on 21 May 1951. Committed to enter a narrow valley to contact and engage the enemy, Sergeant Bennett's platoon was ruthlessly attacked and surrounded by a numerically superior force. During the bitter fighting which ensued, Sergeant Bennett, detecting one of the half-tracks moving slowly because of mechanical failure, placed his tank direct in the path of hostile fire to shield the disabled vehicle and its exposed crew. When the enemy on the hills to his left and right attempted to flank his position, rendering fire from his tank ineffective, Sergeant Bennett left the protective cover of the armored turret and, braving withering hostile fire, fearlessly manned the .50 caliber machine gun mounted on the rear of the deck. Maintaining his stand, Sergeant Bennett delivered accurate fire into the ranks of the enemy until he was mortally wounded. His courageous action retarded the hostile advance, exacted a heavy toll in casualties, and insured the safe withdrawal of friendly forces. Sergeant Bennett's unflinching courage and consummate devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself and uphold the finest traditions of the military service.

Captain Kenneth E. Brown, O1304844, Infantry, United States Army, as commanding officer of Company L, 3d Battalion, 24th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Idong-Myon, Korea, on 1 and 2 June 1951. On 1 June, when leading elements of his attacking company were stopped by hostile fire, Captain Brown continued the advance. Using his pistol and throwing grenades, he personally eliminated an enemy machine gun and two automatic rifles and killed three and captured one of the enemy. Under his aggressive leadership, his company resumed the advance and secured its objective. Within 2 hours the enemy launched determined counterattacks. Throughout the night, although twice wounded, Captain Brown moved among his men, encouraging them to hold on. When ammunition became low, he gathered and distributed enemy weapons and ammunition. Personally participating in the fighting with any weapon available, and finally with clubbed rifle and his fists, Captain Brown continued to set an inspiring example to his men until he was killed by a burst of machine-gun fire. As a result of his unflinching courage and inspiring leadership, the position was maintained and a heavy toll of dead and wounded inflicted upon the enemy. Captain Brown's heroic action reflects the highest credit on himself and upholds the finest traditions of the military service.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy on the date indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant First Class Eduardo C. Gomez (Service No. RA18157039) (then sergeant), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company I, 8th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations near Tabu-dong, Korea, on 3 September 1950. While readying defensive positions, Sergeant Gomez' company was ruthlessly attacked at approximately 0100 hours by a hostile force comprising an infantry regiment and spearheaded by two T-34 tanks, the foremost of which moved to within 75 yards of the command post before it was immobilized by rocket fire, but its main battery and machine guns continued to rake the company perimeter with devastating fire. Realizing the tank posed a serious threat to the entire perimeter, Sergeant Gomez voluntarily, and fully aware of the odds against him, crawled 30 yards across an open rice field vulnerable to enemy observation and fire, boarded the tank, and, prying open one of the hatches on the turret, dropped an activated grenade into the hull, killing the crew. Wounded in the left side while returning to his position, Sergeant Gomez refused to be evacuated. Observing that the tripod of a .30 caliber machine gun was rendered inoperable by enemy fire, he cradled the weapon in his arms, returned to the forward defensive positions, and swept the assaulting force with withering fire. Although his weapon overheated and burned his hands and his painful wound still bled, Sergeant Gomez maintained his stand and, upon orders to withdraw in the face of overwhelming enemy superiority, remained to provide protective fire. Then, retiring slowly, he continued to pour accurate fire into the ranks of the enemy, which exacted a heavy toll in casualties and retarded the enemy's advance. Sergeant Gomez would not consent to leave his post for medical attention until the company established new defensive positions. Sergeant Gomez' inspirational actions and consummate devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the cherished traditions of the military service.

III. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Sergeant Florentino V. Romano (Service No. RA 10733902), Army Medical Service, United States Army, while serving as an aidman with Company A, 5th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by gallantry in action near Hagagye, Korea, on 25 April 1951. Advancing up a narrow, mountainous draw, Sergeant Romano's company encountered withering fire from both flanks, which halted the advance. During this action, he constantly braved vicious, hostile fire when moving among forward elements shouting words of encouragement and aiding and evacuating the wounded. Later, when the company was ordered to withdraw, he repeatedly traversed the fire-swept area searching for and bringing stricken comrades to safety. Sergeant Romano's calm demeanor and steadying influence bolstered morale, contributed significantly to the orderly withdrawal of the troops, and, through his vigilance and selfless concern, approximately 20 wounded were evacuated to safety. Sergeant Romano's courageous actions reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION—Correction in general orders.....	I
	II

I. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 50th Signal Service Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 2 October 1950 to 23 April 1951. During this period, the 50th Signal Service Detachment performed exceptionally meritorious service in the field of radio communications security. Its mission, which was of a classified nature, was accomplished in such a manner that it rendered invaluable support to the United Nations Forces in Korea. The skill and effectiveness of the 50th Signal Service Detachment in the performance of its vital mission justify the honors inherent in the Meritorious Unit Commendation and reflect credit on the unit, the Signal Corps, and the United States Army.

2. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 69th Transportation Truck Battalion, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 10 August 1950 to 12 February 1951. During the early stage of the campaign, the detachment was delegated to the task of organizing various groups of vehicles into 75- and 100-truck convoys to convey tactical units from reserve status centered around the Taegu perimeter to the most susceptible areas in the United Nations lines. Convoys were ready to meet emergencies as they arose and were responsible for the timely arrival of combat troops, which prevented many serious penetrations in the United Nations defense line. After transporting the 19th and 21st Infantry Regiments to their assigned forward areas in preparation for the United Nations first offensive, the detachment organized and operated the first long-distance and continuous cargo-hauling operation in Korea. Under the detachment's supervision, an average of 1,400 tons of cargo was transported daily to divisions attached to I Corps. Although spare parts for the vehicles were not available, the ingenuity of the personnel fused with their tenacious perseverance and superior technical ability enabled the detachment to maintain an average of 36 operating vehicles daily. During the period, the detachment transported 163,645 passengers and 124,476 tons of cargo, registering a total of 23,625,906 miles. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 69th Transportation Truck Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion to duty and performed its exceptionally difficult tasks in such a superior manner as to set it apart from and above other units with similar missions. The skill, effectiveness, zeal, and determination of the members of this unit reflect great credit on themselves, the Transportation Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 696, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 15 September 1951.)

3. The 518th Signal Radio Relay Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea during the period 19 October 1950 to 1 July 1951 in military operations against an armed enemy in pursuit of its primary mission of installing, operating, and maintaining very high frequency radio circuits as required for use in the General Headquarters Long Lines Communications System in Korea in support of United Nations Forces. Throughout this period, the 518th Signal Radio Relay Company displayed extraordinary devotion to duty in such a manner as to establish recognition beyond and above that normally required of similar units in performance of like tasks. Under the exacting and urgent conditions created by critical combat operations, the company achieved its outstanding effectiveness by overcoming the adverse conditions of bitter cold weather, initial lack of suitable clothing, mountainous terrain, and enemy activity on a 24-hour a day basis. Personnel of the company successfully installed and operated 14 major very high frequency radio sites on mountain tops despite the hardships encountered in reaching these inaccessible points. Upon withdrawal of Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, to Taegu in December 1950, four forward stations were kept in operation in support of corps and divisions until forced to evacuate because of enemy action. These withdrawals were made during subzero weather and snowstorms, with icy mountain trails as an additional hazard. One of these sites was taken under enemy artillery fire, but through the heroic efforts of station personnel all equipment was safely evacuated. Another station was attacked by a guerrilla force which was held off by well-directed machine-gun and rifle fire until arrival of reinforcements. Eleven guerrillas were captured in this action. Despite the necessary withdrawal of stations southward during the Chinese Communist offensive, the sites were operated until the last possible minute. The evacuations were executed so efficiently that in only one case was any property lost, and this was because of mechanical failure of a vehicle which required destruction to keep it from falling into enemy hands. Additionally, the company maintained a troop school to indoctrinate incoming personnel in the various phases of tactical and technical subjects required for proper operation of very high frequency radio systems in the Korean Theater. Their problems were such as are seldom encountered and were successfully solved only by unrelenting attention to duty, outstanding skill, loyalty, esprit de corps, and efficiency displayed by each member of the company. Their exceptionally meritorious service reflects great credit on the 518th Signal Radio Relay Company, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States.

4. The Headquarters, General Headquarters Long Lines Signal Group, 8226th Army Unit, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea during the period 1 November 1950 to 1 July 1951 in military operations against an armed enemy in pursuit of its primary mission of supervising and administering assigned and attached units to provide complete signal communication between General Headquarters, Far East Command; Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers and United Nations; and United Nations Forces in Korea. Throughout this period, this unit displayed extraordinary devotion to duty in such a manner as to establish recognition beyond and above that normally expected of a similar organization in performing like tasks. Under the exacting and urgent conditions created by critical combat operations, the Headquarters, General Headquarters Long Lines Signal Group, 8226th Army Unit, achieved its outstanding effectiveness under adverse conditions of lack of sufficient manpower in support of operational units comprised of a large number of troops situated in widely separated sites, initial shortage of equipment, and insufficiency of transportation. By the untiring perseverance of all personnel on around-the-clock basis, conservation and maintenance practices of a high degree, and extraordinary ingenuity, this unit successfully maintained at a high degree of efficiency the personnel and pay records of over 1,120 American men and officers and 400 Korean civilian personnel of the assigned units who were located at remote and widely separated sites in the theater. This unit organized and supervised all major moves of the command by land, sea, and air with such efficiency as to preclude any appreciable loss of property at any time during the period. By rigid supply discipline, careful and expeditious planning, and astute estimates of priorities and transportation, approximately 20,052 line items of signal and other type items aggregating over 2,396 tons were delivered to unit sites in support of the long lines signal communication mission in Korea without delay. In addition, an operational control system was devised which could be operated by a minimum of personnel, thereby releasing urgently required technicians to field sites. The technical and administrative difficulties were such as are seldom encountered by Signal Corps units of like type, and each problem was successfully solved through the initiative, skill, and untiring efforts of all concerned. The success of the Headquarters, General Headquarters Long Lines Signal Group, 8226th Army Unit, and the outstanding devotion to duty, esprit de corps, and efficiency displayed by each member of the organization reflect great credit on itself, the Signal Corps, and the United States Army.

5. The Signal Service Company Number One, 8226th Army Unit, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea during the period 24 July 1950 to 1 July 1951 in military operations against an armed enemy in pursuit of its primary mission of establishing, operating, and maintaining communications facilities of the General Headquarters Long Lines Communication System in support of the United Nations Forces in Korea. Throughout this period, personnel of the Signal Service Company Number One, 8226th Army Unit, displayed extraordinary devotion to duty in such a manner as to establish recognition beyond and above that normally expected of similar units in the performance of like duties. Under the exacting and urgent conditions created by critical combat operations the company achieved its outstanding effectiveness under the most adverse and hazardous conditions of initial lack of sufficient supplies, equipment, and manpower; difficult terrain; inclement weather; and enemy activity. By selfless around-the-clock perseverance of all personnel, conservation and maintenance practices of high degree, exceptional ingenuity, and technical skill, this unit successfully supported the United Nations Forces in Korea with toll communications facilities over a wide area involving the installation, operation, and maintenance of switchboards, communications centers, keying circuits, radio stations, and pole-line construction work, which comprised an integral part of a toll system employing over 200,000 miles of circuits. In addition, this unit participated in the additional program which resulted in the recovery of over 600 miles of field wire and cable valued at over $300,000. The technical, tactical, and administrative difficulties were such as not encountered previously by Signal Corps troops, and each problem was successfully solved through the combined initiative, skill, and zealous endeavor of all members of this unit. The success of the Signal Service Company Number One, 8226th Army Unit, and the outstanding degree of skill, devotion to duty, esprit de corps, and efficiency displayed by all personnel of this unit reflect great credit on itself, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States.

6. The Signal Service Detachment Number Three, 8226th Army Unit, is cited for particularly noteworthy conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea during the period 1 October 1950 to 1 July 1951 in military operations in support of United Nations Forces in pursuit of its primary mission of organizing and operating a signal construction battalion comprised of United States overhead troops and 2 companies of 400 Republic of Korea troops charged with the construction and maintenance of General Headquarters Long Lines Communication System wire facilities in Korea. Throughout this period, Signal Service Detachment Number Three, 8226th Army Unit, displayed extraordinary devotion to duty in such a manner as to establish recognition beyond and above that normally required of similar units involved in like tasks. Under the exacting and urgent conditions created by critical combat operations, mountainous terrain, frigid weather, guerrilla activity, and initial lack of sufficient personnel, this unit, with untiring effort and ingenuity of all personnel, successfully trained 400 Republic of Korea troops in the art of open-wire construction within a few weeks. This unit then launched into full-scale open-wire construction and rehabilitation in all areas of Korea held by United Nations Forces. During the period 17 November to 8 December 1950, this unit accomplished a major repair and construction project under emergency conditions in Seoul, Korea, during frigid weather on a 24-hour basis. During the period 14 December 1950 to 14 January 1951, this unit, working in mountainous terrain and extreme cold, rehabilitated 1,116 miles of open wire in south and southeast Korea for toll communications supports of Eighth United States Army and Fifth Air Force units. The vital Andong-Yonchon railroad wire lead was rehabilitated as an emergency project during the period 10 to 21 January 1951. This job was accomplished in some of the most mountainous terrain experienced and during extremely cold weather, with guerrilla attacks as an almost daily occurrence. All material was man-handled, because the route was inaccessible to vehicles. In the Chonan-Suwon-Inchon-Yongdong Po-Inchon-Yoju area, the unit rehabilitated 1,296 miles of wire line in snowstorms and under sporadic, guerrilla fire. A completely new open-wire lead of two 8-pin arms, for a distance of 121 road miles, was constructed along the route Chochiwon-Chongju-Chungju-Wonju-Hoensong-Hongchon-Chuncheon during the period 27 March to 30 June 1951. This lead was constructed under the most adverse conditions of mountainous terrain and guerrilla activity, involved 27 major stream and river crossings, and 4,262 cross arms, 75 tons of pins and insulators, and 72 tons of assorted hardware were used in this project. These feats were successfully accomplished only by selfless, around-the-clock perseverance of all personnel, ingenuity, technical skill, and esprit de corps of the highest degree. The technical and tactical difficulties were such as are seldom encountered by Signal Corps troops, and the initiative, untiring efforts, and efficiency displayed by members of the Signal Service Detachment Number Three, 8226th Army Unit, reflect great credit on itself, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States.

II. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—So much of paragraph 2, section I, DA General Orders 72, 1951, pertaining to the 2d Infantry Division and attached units, as reads "52d Transportation Truck Company" is amended to read "252d Transportation Truck Company."

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following unit for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated. The citation reads as follows:

The Signal Service Company Number Two, 8226th Army Unit, is cited for exceptionally meritorious achievement in the performance of outstanding service in Korea during the period 30 September 1950 to 1 July 1951 in military operations against an armed enemy in pursuit of its primary mission of operating and maintaining the landline cable carrier and repeater system for the United Nations Forces in Korea. Throughout this period, the unit displayed unrelenting devotion to duty in such a manner as to establish recognition beyond and above that required by similar units in the performance of like tasks. The fortitude, initiative, ingenuity, and untiring efforts exhibited by the personnel of the Signal Service Company Number Two, 8226th Army Unit, in establishing, altering tactical equipment to work with, and repairing the vital Mukden cable under the most adverse conditions of subzero weather to make operative these toll cable systems, on a 24-hour basis, resulted in making available to the United Nations Forces an efficient toll telephone and telegraph network from Pusan, South Korea, to Pyongyang, North Korea, at a critical period of the campaign. When the Chinese Communist forces intervened in the war, the unit successfully evacuated the equipment from the stations while falling back, showed superior judgment and decision in keeping the circuits in as long as possible before pulling out, and destroyed the remaining fixed-plant facilities which might have been utilized by the enemy. The cable splicers of the unit, working on a round-the-clock basis, experienced not only the elements and hazardous terrain but constant guerrilla activity as well, in order to keep the vital cable operative. Additionally, the unit assisted other units in establishing cable repeater facilities in Iki and Tsushima Islands for a new cable to augment the system to Japan. The unit participated in a project which resulted in the recovery of over 600 miles of cable and field wire valued at $330,000. The technical and tactical difficulties were such as never before encountered by a Signal Corps unit of this type, and the problems confronted by it were solved successfully in each case only through initiative, technical skill, and zealous endeavors of every member of the company. The continued successes of the Signal Service Company Number Two, 8226th Army Unit, reflect fittingly the esprit de corps and devotion to duty of the unit and reflect great credit on itself, the Signal Corps, and the United States Army.

III. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—1. As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following unit in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 200-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The Belgian Battalion and the Luxembourg Corps of Volunteers for Korea (Detachment), United Nations Forces in Korea, are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy on the Imjin River line near Hantangang, Korea, during the period 20 to 26 April 1951. The Belgian Battalion and the Luxembourg Detachment, in the course of their aggressive, courageous action against the Chinese Communists, inflicted more than 30 times their number in enemy killed or wounded. During this period, vast numbers of enemy troops, supported by machine-gun, mortar, and artillery fire, repeatedly conducted maniacal assaults against the positions of the Belgian Battalion and the Luxembourg Detachment, but the valiant, friendly forces continually repulsed these fanatical drives and inflicted tremendous casualties on the hostile troops. When the Chinese Communists succeeded in gaining positions which threatened the main supply route of friendly forces, the gallant troops fixed bayonets and launched a series of daring counterattacks. The hostile forces, surprised by the boldness of these attacks, became disorganized and fled in disorder. Upon receiving orders from higher headquarters, the Belgian Battalion and the Luxembourg Detachment finally withdrew, evacuated their wounded, were resupplied, and then volunteered to be committed to action once again. After returning to the front, hordes of enemy troops and cavalry were observed moving southward. When the hostile forces had moved into close range, the friendly forces delivered a withering barrage of mortar fire with such devastating effect that the area was littered with enemy dead. As the Chinese Communists continued to move overwhelming numbers of troops southward, the dauntless, friendly forces fought successful delaying actions which allowed orderly withdrawals of adjacent friendly units with minimum loss of men and equipment. The Belgian Battalion and the Luxembourg Detachment displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their missions under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the action. The extraordinary heroism displayed by the members of the Belgian Battalion and the Luxembourg Corps of Volunteers for Korea (Detachment), United Nations Forces in Korea, throughout this period reflects great credit on themselves and their homelands. (General Orders 682, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 6 September 1951.)

2. Section V, DA General Orders 86, 1951, pertaining to the Belgian Battalion, United Nations Forces in Korea, is rescinded.

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 62d Engineer Construction Battalion is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 25 September 1950 to 31 May 1951. During this period, the battalion was charged with many difficult missions of a greatly varied nature. These tasks included repair, construction, and maintenance of many miles of main supply routes vital to successful military operations. Both temporary and permanent highway and railroad bridges also were rebuilt or constructed. Although hampered by a critical shortage of equipment and personnel, all technical and constructional problems assigned to the battalion were accomplished on or ahead of schedule. The 62d Engineer Construction Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The high degree of skill, morale, discipline, and willingness with which members of the 62d Engineer Construction Battalion performed the tasks allotted them reflect great credit on themselves, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 465, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 28 June 1951.)

2. The Medical Company, 187th Airborne Infantry Regiment, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 24 September 1950 to 31 May 1951. The Medical Company operated with unusual efficiency under extremely difficult and trying conditions in furnishing medical support for the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team during this period and participated in two parachute assaults into enemy territory. Displaying extraordinary devotion to duty and superior operating ability, the Medical Company met all challenges and successfully accomplished its duties. The speed, efficiency, and diligence with which all tasks were performed contributed to the success of the command in battle and provided confidence that no man would suffer from lack of care or treatment. The Medical Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The morale, esprit de corps, discipline, and devotion to duty exhibited by the members of the Medical Company, 187th Airborne Infantry Regiment, typify efficiency and reflect great credit on the organization and military service of the United States. (General Orders 446, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 21 June 1951.)

3. The Military Police Platoon, 187th Airborne Infantry Regiment, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 24 September 1950 to 31 May 1951. The mobility of the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, which has resulted in its use in many sectors, caused the military police the heavy burden of much detailed road reconnaissance, marking routes, and acting as guides. During engagements in combat, the Military Police Platoon demonstrated skill in handling and processing prisoners of war, control of refugees, internal security, and traffic control. During this period, the Military Police Platoon participated in two parachute assaults into enemy held territory. The manner in which they performed on both occasions established their gallantry and devotion to duty. The Military Police Platoon displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The exceptionally meritorious service of the Military Police Platoon, 187th Airborne Infantry Regiment, reflects great credit on this unit and the military service of the United States. I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918) the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named enlisted man:

Private David A. Hurr (Service No. RA 17268393), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company H, 5th Cavalry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy near Kumch'on, Korea, on 1 and 2 August 1950. During the late afternoon of 1 August, Company E, 5th Cavalry Regiment, to which Private Hurr was attached as gunner, came under furious assault from hordes of enemy soldiers. In the bitter and intense battle that ensued, he was severely wounded in the stomach by a mortar fragment, but refused evacuation and steadfastly continued to man his heavy machine gun and deliver devastating fire into the ranks of the stubborn assailants. In the early morning hours of 2 August, when the unit was finally ordered to withdraw in the face of increased and extremely intense hostile fire from this numerically superior enemy force, Private Hurr voluntarily remained at his position to provide protective fire for his comrades during their withdrawal. With indomitable courage and determination, he continued to sweep the assaulting force until his ammunition was expended. When last seen alive, armed with only his rifle, he was delivering deadly, accurate fire into the charging foe. When the strong point was regained later in the day, the body of Private Hurr was found beside his gun, with numerous enemy dead lying in his field of fire. The voluntary and heroic stand by Private Hurr, in the face of utmost peril resulting in his death, enabled his comrades to make an orderly withdrawal and evacuate the wounded. Private Hurr's outstanding valor, consummate fortitude, and willing self-sacrifice reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the Infantry and the United States Army.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy on the date indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

First Lieutenant Richard F. Lauer, O2021063 (then second lieutenant), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company B, 35th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near the Han River in Korea on 7 March 1951. Following an assault landing across the river by his company, the assault platoon became subjected to intense hostile fire from a small hill some 500 yards to the east. Ordered up the river to draw enemy fire and relieve pressure on the assault platoon, he deployed his platoon and opened fire, only to be pinned down by a vicious cross-fire from two machine guns approximately 75 yards distant. Running 40 yards through the fire-swept area, Lieutenant Lauer secured a rifle and grenade adapter, crawled closer, and fired two grenades into the position on the right and knocked it out. When the gun on the left again pinned down his platoon, he advanced alone and fired three grenades into this hostile emplacement which, because of its construction, proved ineffective. Circling the emplacement, he bayoneted an enemy soldier who was firing on his platoon and, dropping a grenade into the escape vent, silenced the gun and annihilated its crew. Leaping to his feet and shouting orders to fix bayonets and charge, his men, so inspired by his heroic action, made a frontal assault against the hill, killed 21 hostile troops, and completely routed their remaining force. Lieutenant Lauer, in his daring exploits, personally knocked out two machine guns and killed five of the determined enemy. Lieutenant Lauer's courageous conduct, indomitable determination, and outstanding combat leadership reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the Infantry and the United States Army.

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy on the date indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Captain John C. Hughes, O58930, Infantry, United States Army, commanding Company K, 35th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Ung-Pong, Korea, on 27 November 1950. Learning of an enemy breach through the right flank of his company's sector which seriously threatened the perimeter, he led a small force up a slope through mortar, grenade, and small-arms fire. Although wounded, he refused medical aid, gained the crest of the ridge, and recaptured a portion of the lost ground. Later, when enemy machine-gun fire raked his unit, he led a daring charge on the emplacement which annihilated the hostile crew with grenade and rifle fire and routed the remaining enemy from the ridge. Captain Hughes remained on the perimeter, repeatedly exposed himself to heavy fire to direct the defense until daylight, and refused evacuation until assured that the enemy attack was definitely repulsed. The indomitable fighting spirit, intense loyalty to his unit, and outstanding leadership displayed by Captain Hughes during his heroic exploits reflect the highest credit on himself and the Infantry and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the United States Army.

III. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Brigadier General Thomas E. de Shazo, O16479, United States Army. 1 October 1950 to 25 September 1951. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) to Brigadier General de Shazo, for meritorious service from 1 October 1950 to 31 January 1951, published in General Orders 150, Headquarters, Far East Command, 7 June 1951.)

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Brigadier General Rinaldo Van Brunt, O16225, United States Army. 11 September 1950 to 24 October 1951. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit to Brigadier General Van Brunt, for service from 11 September to 2 November 1950, published in General Orders 126, General Headquarters, Far East Command, 20 May 1951.)

3. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Major General Edgar E. Hume, O4033, United States Army. 25 June 1950 to 14 October 1951.

IV..SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted men:

Colonel Celal Dora, 336-37, Infantry, Turkish Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action as commanding officer of the 241st Infantry Regiment, Turkish Armed Forces Command, in the vicinity of Suwon, Korea, from 26 January to 6 February 1951. His regiment had been assigned the mission of attacking and occupying several enemy strong points situated on Hill 156 and were then fiercely engaging a numerically superior and stubborn foe. Repeatedly exposing himself to deadly hostile fire, Colonel Dora remained with the most advance elements of his unit to direct tactical operations. His presence during critical stages of combat provided a strong, steadying influence on his troops and inspired them to destroy the enemy at all costs. The superb leadership, fearlessness under fire, and devotion to duty displayed by Colonel Dora contributed a great deal in the successful accomplishments of his regiment and reflect great credit on himself and the Turkish Army.

Master Sergeant Robert L. Glasgow (Service No. 32274601) (then first lieutenant), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of 4302d Army Service Unit, Louisiana, ROTC Instructor Group, distinguished himself by gallantry in action at Krinkelter Wald, Krinkelt, Belgium, on 17 December 1944. The 3d Battalion, 23d Infantry Regiment, was committed to hold a vital road junction at all costs and Sergeant Glasgow, as weapons platoon leader in Company I, placed his machine guns and mortars in position to support his company. With complete disregard for his safety, Sergeant Glasgow constantly exposed himself to intense enemy fire in moving about the area to direct effective fire and encourage his men to hold firm. Using himself as an aiming stake for his mortar fire and frequently standing erect and in full view of the attacking hostile forces to receive instructions from platoon leaders and to shout orders and encouragement to his men, he contributed much to the successful accomplishment of the company's mission. When ordered to withdraw, he assembled his men and, despite continued fire from German tanks and small arms, executed a successful withdrawal of both troops and weapons of his platoon. The singular bravery and consummate devotion to duty displayed by Sergeant Glasgow during this hazardous and gallant action reflect marked credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

Private First Class Eric G. Johnson (Service No. 36372028), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the 110th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by gallantry in action on or about 30 January 1945 near Orbey, France. While his platoon of pioneers was advancing in an attempt to relieve an encircled friendly infantry company, it was halted by heavy enemy mortar and small-arms fire. Quickly grasping the situation, Private Johnson, with total disregard for personal safety, advanced on an enemy machine gun and silenced it with a hand grenade. This action enabled the pioneer platoon to resume its advance and contact the encircled company. During this action, he was wounded in the leg by a mortar fragment, but, despite the severe pain, insisted on remaining with his platoon until its mission was completed. Private Johnson's determined and courageous action was an inspiration to his comrades and reflects great credit on himself and the Army of the United States. (This award supersedes the award of the Silver Star to Private First Class Johnson for gallantry in action on 27 January 1945, published in General Orders 34, Headquarters, 28th Infantry Division, 9 April 1945.)

Major Clinton W. Kuhns, O325003 (then captain), Infantry, Army of the United States, distinguished himself by gallantry in action near Abucay Hacienda, Bataan, Philippine Islands, on or about 16 January 1942. A numerically superior hostile force attacked and drove back the 52d Infantry Regiment, which was assigned the mission of covering the left flank of the 41st Infantry Division, Philippine Army. Major Kuhns, although serving in an advisory capacity as an instructor, voluntarily took command of a reserve company of the 43d Infantry Regiment and personally led it into battle against the determined Japanese force. Under his courageous and forceful leadership, the unit pressed the counterattack in such a manner that lost ground and weapons were recaptured and the threat to the regimental command post and the left flank of the division was relieved. The singular bravery and consummate devotion to duty displayed by Major Kuhns during this gallant action reflect marked credit on himself, the Infantry, and the military service.

Rezsnyak* (Service No. RA51057905), Transportation Corps, United States Army, a member of Company C, 756th Transportation Railway Shop Battalion, distinguished himself by heroism at Virginia Beach, Virginia, on 1 August 1951. He and a comrade were bathing at the beach when they heard cries for help from a man swimming farther out from shore in deep water. His comrade could not swim and started for shore to secure help. Although he could not swim, Private Rezsnyak nevertheless, with complete disregard for his safety, waded out to give what assistance he could to the stricken swimmer. Another man on shore secured a beach raft, proceeded to the aid of the man in trouble, and brought him to shore, but Private Rezsnyak lost his life by drowning in his heroic attempt to rescue the swimmer. During a battalion attack against a numerically superior hostile force, several riflemen were wounded and lay out between the lines, suffering from shock and exposure to the intense cold. Although other medical aid men considered it too dangerous to attempt rescue, Sergeant Dempsey, with another medical man, voluntarily braved the intense enemy small-arms fire, secured a litter, and crawled out to the wounded men. Finding but two of the soldiers alive, the men made two trips into the treacherous, fire-swept area, rescued both casualties, and returned them to safety. The prompt and courageous action taken by Sergeant Dempsey and his comrade undoubtedly saved the wounded men from death and reflects credit on himself and the military service.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officers and enlisted men:

First Lieutenant Richard O. Eiler, O58140, Corps of Engineers, United States Army, a member of Company D, 8th Engineer Combat Battalion, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Kasan, Korea, on 5 September 1950. Defending the right flank of the company perimeter, his platoon was subjected to vicious hostile fire from 2 machine guns which reduced its strength to 12 men, several of whom were wounded. In order to save his depleted unit from potential annihilation, Lieutenant Eiler crawled 50 yards up a slope, threw two grenades into an emplacement, and silenced one harassing gun. Returning to his platoon, he ordered its withdrawal in the face of a renewed and determined enemy attack, and proceeded to provide covering fire for his men. While assisting the wounded men over a high wall obstructing their withdrawal, he was seriously wounded, but ordered his men to continue on to safety without him. Selecting a position which provided an excellent field of observation, he delivered a withering fire into the hostile ranks until his position was overrun and he was mortally wounded. Lieutenant Eiler's superb leadership, deep concern for the welfare and safety of his men, and noble self-sacrifice reflect the greatest credit on himself and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service.

Captain Roderick S. G. Hall, O1114150, Corps of Engineers, Army of the United States, a member of Company D, 2677th Regiment, Office of Strategic Services, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy in Italy from 2 August 1944 to 27 January 1945. Volunteering for a special mission into enemy-occupied territory, Captain Hall parachuted into the region southeast of the Brenner Pass on 2 August 1944 for the purpose of disrupting enemy communication routes. Remaining as a lone allied officer in this mountainous area and repeatedly exposing himself to capture by an enemy constantly seeking him, he interrupted communications, collected and relayed intelligence information, demolished enemy installations and facilities, and organized and operated with partisan bands intent on inflicting the utmost damage to the hostile occupying forces. Constantly eluding capture and frequently exposed to the severe winter weather, he was reported to have been wounded twice and to have seriously frozen his feet during his gallant ex-plots. Proceeding alone to blow up the electric transformer station at Cortina d'Ampezzo and damage the railway system there, he was captured by the enemy on 27 January 1945 and died in a concentration camp at Bolzano, Italy, on 20 February 1945. The sustained devotion to duty, consummate fortitude, and indomitable courage displayed by Captain Hall in refusing to leave a highly dangerous area while he could still do damage to the enemy and his brave undertaking of an exceedingly perilous operation alone and unassisted reflect great credit on himself and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit to Captain Hall for meritorious service during the same period, published in General Orders 214, Headquarters, Mediterranean Theater of Operations, 31 August 1945.)

Sergeant First Class Burton A. Wagner (Service No. RA16242452), Corps of Engineers, United States Army, a member of Company A, 8th Engineer Combat Battalion, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action near Yopo-ri, Korea, on 2 December 1950. Given the mission of providing security for a crew from his company in the process of building a bridge across the Taedong River, he was checking his positions for maximum defense when suddenly attacked by Chinese Communist troops apparently intent on sweeping through his line of resistance and destroying the bridgehead. He courageously moved forward alone to engage and sufficiently delay the foe in order that the members of the crew might be alerted against surprise attack. Armed only with a carbine, he fearlessly exposed himself to enemy observation and action and delivered a deadly accurate fire into the advancing hostile force until his position was overrun and he was mortally wounded. Sergeant Wagner's magnificent stand alerted the company and enabled the men to contain the enemy attack and save the bridgehead. His courage, fortitude, and noble self-sacrifice reflect great credit on himself and uphold the finest traditions of the military service.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted men:

Private First Class Robert J. Avington (Service No. RA13273276), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company D, 31st Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Hwachon, Korea, on 30 May 1951. The machine gunner in his squad was seriously wounded, when Private Avington, despite a wound in his arm, placed the gun back in operation and successfully turned back an enemy attack in force. Aiding the seriously wounded gunner as best he could, he refused aid for himself and sent for a litter to evacuate his comrade. The enemy again sent a wave of troops to rush his position, and the remaining element of the hostile force attempted to isolate him from assistance by pouring heavy fire on his position. He again poured a relentless stream of fire into the onrushing horde and, while reloading his weapon, was grazed on the head by rifle fire and thrown back from his gun by concussion grenades. Crawling back to his gun, and pausing only to throw out enemy grenades which were lobbed into his position, he again halted the hostile assault with his accurate fire. Several of his comrades sprang forward to render assistance but Private Avington, although bleeding profusely from the head and arm, again refused evacuation and demanded more ammunition for his weapon. When the enemy launched a third assault against his position, though nearly unconscious from loss of blood, he again directed a devastating stream of fire on the assaulting force until they fled in wild disorder. His determined and heroic action resulted in more than 150 dead Chinese Communist troops, numerous others wounded, and in saving the platoon position from being overrun. The indomitable determination, consummate courage, and outstanding devotion to duty displayed by Private Avington in his heroic stand against overwhelming odds reflect the highest credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

Master Sergeant Joseph D. Dick (Service No. RA11187458), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company B, 7th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action near Chungjang-ni, Korea, on 14 February 1951. His platoon, defending Hill 151, had been attacked by numerically superior hostile forces during the night when the platoon leader was seriously wounded. Sergeant Dick, who had left the platoon command post to take up a position on the line in order to more effectively direct automatic-weapons fire on the attackers, crawled through deadly hostile fire and carried his platoon leader to a place of safety. The wounded platoon commander ordered a withdrawal, but Sergeant Dick, nevertheless, returned to the line, reorganized the battered platoon, and continued the defense of the position. When an enemy soldier threw a hand grenade into the midst of the staunch defenders, Sergeant Dick quickly picked it up and threw it back at the thrower, killing him and two other enemy soldiers. Leading an inspired counterattack, he fired continually into the enemy horde until his ammunition was exhausted, then picked up the weapon of a Chinese Communist he had killed and continued to lead the platoon. Again running out of ammunition, he took over the automatic weapon of a wounded man, continued the fierce assault, and succeeded in securing Hill 151. During his daring exploits he was wounded, but refused medical attention until he had assured the defense of the position. Sergeant Dick's heroic action, indomitable courage, and sustained devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and upheld the finest traditions of the military service.

Sergeant First Class Eliseo Garcia (Service No. RA18253274) (then sergeant), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company L, 23d Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy near Changnyong, Korea, on 16 September 1950. The platoon of which he was a member, while participating in a drive to the Naktong River, came under vicious fire from two hostile machine guns which caused the men to falter and pinned them down. Sergeant Garcia leaped to his feet, rushed across the fire-swept area to the emplacement on the left flank, successfully silenced the gun, and killed the crew with his grenades. Ignoring a painful wound sustained in this daring action, he again rushed through withering fire to the emplacement on the right flank of his platoon and neutralized the second gun and its crew with grenades. As a result of his heroic action, eight of the enemy were killed, the defense of the opposition was broken, and his inspired comrades continued the advance with such intensity that the objective was expeditiously taken with a minimum of casualties to his unit. The aggressive and courageous action taken by Sergeant Garcia, in the face of devastating enemy fire and despite his wound, reflects great credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

Corporal Earl C. Phoenix, Jr. (Service No. RA17246652), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company M, 24th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action near Takhyan-dong, Korea, on 27 November 1950. He was assigned as machine gunner on the lead vehicle of a combat patrol committed to recover a vehicle lost in an ambush earlier in the day when the patrol came under heavy hostile fire from mortars, automatic weapons, and small arms that halted its advance. Corporal Phoenix immediately opened fire on the enemy which retarded their attack, limited their fire power, and allowed his comrades to dismount and set up defense positions. When hit by enemy fire and knocked from the vehicle, he struggled back to his position and continued firing. Struck a second time by enemy fire, he ignored his wounds and continued to deliver deadly fire against the assailants until his ammunition became exhausted. He then rendered his weapon unserviceable to the enemy before consenting to be evacuated. His determined action enabled his patrol to contain the enemy attack until aid could be summoned and the wounded evacuated. The heroic actions and sustained devotion to duty exemplified by Corporal Phoenix reflect great credit on himself and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service.

IV. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer:

Lieutenant Colonel Arthur W. Bollard, O21854, Infantry, United States Army, while commanding the 3d Battalion, 169th Infantry Regiment, 43d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the enemy at Lingayen Gulf, Philippine Islands, and vicinity, from 9 to 12 January 1945. Following its successful landing, his battalion was given the mission of proceeding inland and securing the high ground known as Hill 318, beyond the Bued River and east of Binday, Luzon. Consistently disregarding his safety, he led his battalion inland, frequently exposing himself to hostile fire in order to direct fire power each time resistance was encountered by his unit. During the attack against Hill 318, his battalion came under intense fire from rifles, machine guns, and mortars manned by enemy troops, which temporarily pinned the unit down.

Colonel Bollard led one company of the battalion in a wide enveloping movement along an adjoining ridge when the company encountered withering hostile fire and suffered many casualties. Again setting the pattern for his men, Colonel Bollard, from an advanced position, directed mortar fire against the enemy positions, and while thus exposed was mortally wounded. The heroism, outstanding leadership, and gallant self-sacrifice displayed by Colonel Bollard were a source of great inspiration to his troops and reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

V. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officer and enlisted men:

Sergeant Ogilvie H. Davis (Service No. 32046490) (then technician 3d grade), Medical Detachment, 121st Infantry Regiment, Army of the United States, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the enemy on 27 November 1944 in the Hurtgen Forest, Germany. When a medical aid station was completely demolished by a direct hit from an enemy shell, Sergeant Davis organized a volunteer medical supply group and proceeded through a heavily mined area and under enemy fire some 2 or 3 miles forward to the edge of Hurtgen, Germany, where he set up an emergency station. Though wounded in this gallant venture, he remained at his post treating the wounded. The courage, initiative, and heroic action displayed by Sergeant Davis were instrumental in saving many lives that might otherwise have been lost and reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

First Lieutenant Adrian K. Long, O0541548, Corps of Engineers, Army of the United States, a member of the 301st Engineer Combat Battalion, 76th Infantry Division, displayed gallantry in action against the enemy on 1 March 1945 in the vicinity of Glisen and Eisenach, Germany. Leading a reconnaissance patrol, with the mission of securing vital information concerning the road net of the Trier-Bitburg highway, Lieutenant Long encountered a strongly held position consisting of two machine guns flanked on the left by a pillbox and several riflemen on the right. Personally leading his patrol in a short-fire fight, they killed the machine gunners and took 10 prisoners. He then stood up in full view of the enemy in the pillbox and fired on it in order to cover the movements of his men. After continual fire into the embrasures of the pillbox, the enemy displayed a white flag and surrendered, thus neutralizing the entire position. This sustained action resulted in casualties to the enemy amounting to 4 dead and 17 prisoners, 2 of which were wounded. The gallant leadership and inspiring heroism of Lieutenant Long in this decisive action, without a casualty to his patrol and enabling them to capture this strong point and successfully carry out the mission, reflects great credit on him and the military service.

Private Kenneth W. Sells (Service No. ER19242255), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company K, 17th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by gallantry in action near Na-san, Korea, on 20 May 1951. His company, pinned down by enemy mortar and automatic-weapons fire, was launching a strong counterattack when the enemy showered the company's position with concussion and fragmentation grenades. Private Sells, providing flank security for a machine gun, observed a grenade thrown within destructible range of the emplacement and near his position. In picking up the grenade and attempting to throw it back at the enemy, he was seriously wounded when the grenade exploded. The courage and fortitude displayed by Private Sells in this gallant action, which doubtless prevented serious injury and possible death to many of his comrades, reflect singular credit on himself, the Infantry, and the United States Army.

VIII. SOLDIER'S MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 2 July 1926 (WD Bul. 8, 1926), the Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted men:

Sergeant First Class Guillermo B. Garza (Service No. RA38702242) (then corporal), Armor, United States Army, a member of Company C, 44th Tank Battalion, 82d Airborne Division, distinguished himself by heroism on 30 September 1950 at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Hearing a loud crash and an explosion, Sergeant Garza saw that a medium tank had been accidentally driven over a gasoline pump in the tank park, igniting the escaping gasoline which had then enveloped the vehicle in flames. The driver became frightened and jumped from the tank. Whereupon Sergeant Garza ran toward the blazing vehicle and pump, jumped aboard the unmanned, moving tank, gained the driver's hatch, and took control as it crushed and ignited a second pump and headed toward a line of trucks in an adjacent motor pool. He then drove the burning tank out of and away from the fire to a place of safety. The prompt, courageous and determined action taken by Sergeant Garza in the face of grave danger reflects distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Corporal Walter L. Hogan (Service No. RA35082361) (then private first class), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company L, 505th Airborne Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by heroism on 26 May 1950 at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. During a unit parachute jump under assumed combat conditions, a falling parachutist passed closely by Corporal Hogan as he was approaching the ground following his own jump. With complete disregard for his own safety, Corporal Hogan grasped the suspension lines of the collapsed parachute worn by his falling comrade and clung tenaciously to the falling soldier until both reached the ground safely. The alert and courageous action taken by Corporal Hogan undoubtedly saved his fellow soldier from falling to certain death and reflects distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Lieutenant Colonel Ralph E. Jordan, O21911, Artillery, United States Army, a member of the Department of Tactics, United States Military Academy, distinguished himself by heroism on 24 June 1951 at Humarock Beach, Humarock, Massachusetts. His attention was suddenly attracted to two young ladies who were swimming approximately 100 yards off shore, were apparently being carried out to sea by a vicious undertow, and were frantically screaming for help. He immediately ran down the beach and, without hesitation and disregarding the extreme danger from the heavy surf and the strong undertow, plunged in and swam to their rescue. He reached the girls and was in process of bringing the one in greatest need of help toward shore when he was met by the father of the girls in a row boat. The three had secured a grip on the row boat when it became swamped in the rough seas and had started to submerge. The girls' father, screaming that he could not swim, became panic stricken and jumped overboard. Colonel Jordan successfully turned the boat over, got the man safely on top of the boat, started again toward shore with one of the girls, and succeeded in getting her to another boat which had appeared on the scene to assist the stricken group. Upon being towed to shore by means of a rope which had been brought out, Colonel Jordan immediately left the stricken girl in the hands of friends and again braved the surf to assist in completing the rescue of the other two persons. As a result of his gallant endeavors he collapsed on the beach and had to be revived through the use of oxygen, but his alert and heroic action, which was doubtless instrumental in saving the lives of all three from death by drowning, reflects great credit on himself and the United States Army.

Master Sergeant Leonard LaBeur (Service No. RA20239336), Medical Corps, United States Army, a member of the 6516th Army Service Unit, University of Washington ROTC Instructor Detachment, distinguished himself by heroism at Ketchikan, Alaska, on 19 March 1951. A fellow soldier had stumbled in the darkness and fallen over the edge of the Coast Guard dock into the water, striking his head against the side of the United States Coast Guard cutter Citrus as he fell. Without regard for his own safety, Sergeant LaBeur, without hesitation, jumped from the dock, approximately 20 feet down into the icy and debris-cluttered water, found his comrade in the darkness, and held the head of the unconscious soldier above the water until both were pulled up to safety by members of the crew of the Citrus. The prompt and courageous action taken by Sergeant LaBeur in the face of grave danger saved the life of his comrade and reflects great credit on himself and the military service.

Captain Loran A. Pace, O545451, Transportation Corps, United States Army, a member of Headquarters, 6002d Army Service Unit, distinguished himself by heroism on 13 May 1951 at Fort Winfield Scott, California. When an extensive fire broke out in the adjoining apartment occupied by another officer, Captain

Pace crawled out his upper bedroom window to a porch roof and, without thought of personal danger, attempted to enter the blazing bedroom. Beaten back by intense heat, he wrapped himself in a bedspread and forced his way back into the bedroom. Although nearly blinded by heavy smoke and seared by flame in the room, he located his brother officer's 5-year-old child and lowered him to safety into the arms of his daughter on the ground below. Searching for two other children trapped in the house, he was forced from the upper floor by intense smoke and flame and was denied entrance through a lower door because of intense heat. Captain Pace suffered serious burns and shock as a result of his heroic rescue, but his prompt and courageous action in saving the life of the child reflects distinct credit on himself and the military service.

X. BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, WD Bul. 3, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the periods is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted man:

Corporal Charles A. Culp (Service No. 35766421) (then private), Artillery, Army of the United States, a member of Battery B, 274th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic conduct in action near Lorry-Mardigny, France, on 24 September 1944. Corporal Richard P. Barth, a member of the battalion, had been severely wounded during a heavy enemy artillery barrage when Corporal Culp, voluntarily leaving the security of his fox hole, proceeded across the exposed area through the heavy enemy fire and, with another member of his organization, succeeded in moving Corporal Barth to a less exposed area where first aid could be rendered. The courage, calmness, and heroism displayed by Corporal Culp on this occasion were an inspiration to his comrades and reflect distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Major Bill G. McLeod, O36374 (then captain), Artillery, United States Army, commanding officer of Battery C, 333d Field Artillery, 45th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by heroism in action near Shonberg, Belgium, during the period 16 to 19 December 1944. Major McLeod was away from his battery position on a reconnaissance when it was surrounded and attacked by a strong enemy force. Alone and armed only with his side arms, he fought his way through the enemy encirclement to his battery position. Inspiring his men with his complete disregard for his own safety and his superior skill at leading successful counterattacks, they were able, despite reinforcements heavily supported by an artillery battalion and mortars, to continue to deliver fire on assigned targets. Major McLeod's devotion to duty, aggressive and courageous conduct, and outstanding leadership reflect distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Major Manuel B. Syquio, O1603 (then captain), Philippine Army, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an armed enemy in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater on 6 April 1942. A numerically superior enemy force had broken through defensive lines and threatened to overrun and capture the 21st Division command post on the slope of Mount Samat, Bataan, Philippine Islands. Ordered by the commanding general to gather all available headquarters personnel to cover the withdrawal of the command post, Major Syquio, then division signal officer, hastily complied with the order and so deployed his small force of 20 men that the enemy attack was abruptly halted. In the fierce fire fight which ensued, he personally accounted for eight enemy casualties and consistently displayed tactical skill and determined spirit in coordinating the defense of the perimeter. When one of his men was severely wounded, he rushed to his aid and carried him to a place of safety. The courageous actions by Major Syquio in constantly moving about among his men to direct their fire so inspired them that they fought off the attacks and successfully covered the withdrawal. His sheer bravery and unflinching devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the Philippine Army.

IV. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 7th Replacement Company, 7th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 15 November 1950 to 15 May 1951. Despite inadequate motor and rail transportation and the tactical necessity for frequent and prolonged moves, replacement personnel were quickly processed and shipped by the 7th Replacement Company in a constant flow to the front-line elements. Despite being assigned only a limited number of vehicles, the unit utilized both organic and transient transportation to assure the delivery of replacements to their new organizations as rapidly as possible. Although hampered by the complexities of such a large scale operation, the company performed its tasks in a superior and exemplary manner. The company, in addition to the normal processing function, initiated a concentrated training program designed to acquaint replacements with battle-learned lessons from front-line veterans to better equip them for the tasks ahead. Through this period, the 7th Replacement Company processed 14,856 personnel for assignment to elements of the division. The problems attending the tremendous influx of replacements to offset those absorbed in the rotation plan were met with the same high degree of efficiency and spirited teamwork characteristic of the unit in all of its activities and contributed materially to the success of the 7th Infantry Division. The 7th Replacement Company, 7th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. Such arduous and selfless application to duty as displayed by all ranks of this company reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 518, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 6 July 1951.)

2. The 25th Signal Company, 25th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 November 1950 to 1 May 1951. The company was charged with the responsibility of installing, maintaining, and operating communication facilities for the 25th Infantry Division in support of its combat duties. Twenty major division command posts and numerous tactical command posts and switch installations were expeditiously and efficiently established without any major interruption of communications. The shortage of signal equipment and lack of experienced signal personnel presented difficulties which were admirably surmounted by the complete cooperation, untiring efforts, and diligent devotion to duty of each individual member of the company. During this period, more than 8,000 items of signal equipment were repaired for the division and mobile radio relay terminals and radio stations were established to expedite and facilitate carrier communications. On many occasions, construction teams worked under direct enemy fire to establish a critically needed telephone circuit, and messenger schedules were established to augment and assure necessary communications under hazardous combat conditions. The 25th Signal Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding skill and distinctly meritorious achievements of the 25th Signal Company, 25th Infantry Division, reflect great credit on itself, each individual member, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 529, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 9 July 1951.)

3. The 38th Malaria Control Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 15 July 1950 to 15 July 1951. During this period, the detachment performed the dual function of initiating control measures of insect-borne diseases and the organizing and training of Republic of Korea preventive medicine teams. In addition, much preventive medicine work was done by this unit for migrating refugees to alleviate existing hazards. To insure the effectiveness of this program, the detachment also instructed indigenous personnel in correct insect and rodent control. Working in forward areas, the members of this unit endangered their lives, not only by exposure to enemy action but by deliberately and continuously exposing themselves to various infected insects to control the vector of various diseases. They initiated control measures which have undoubtedly prevented many casualties among United Nations personnel. The 38th Malaria Control Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, effectiveness, and professional ability of the members of this organization reflect great credit on themselves, the Army Medical Service, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 641, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 14 August 1951.)

V. UNITS CREDITED WITH ASSAULT LANDINGS.—Paragraph 8c, WD General Orders 109, 1946, as amended by paragraph 2, section II, DA General Orders 23, 1947, is further amended as follows:

8. Western Pacific.

* * * * *

c. Kwajalein Atoll.

Add: 184th Infantry Regiment.

DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION—Citation of units-----	I
MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION—Awards-----	II

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 24, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

1. The 3d Battalion, 32d Infantry Regiment, 7th Infantry Division, and the following attached units:

2d platoon, heavy mortar company, 32d infantry regiment
3d platoon, medical company, 32d infantry regiment
Liaison team, headquarters battery, 48th field artillery battalion
Forward observation team, battery C, 48th field artillery battalion

are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against the armed enemy in the vicinity of Hill 902 and Kuangchidong, Korea, on 23 April 1951. On that date at 0250 hours, an enemy attacking force of undetermined strength struck a heavy blow against the perimeter of Company K. By 0400 hours, the attack had reached a savage intensity and it was estimated that an entire enemy battalion had concentrated its forces in a break-through attempt in this company's sector on Hill 902. By 0455 hours, the right flank of the company had been penetrated by the sheer weight of the attacking force, and the situation became critical. A break-through at that point would have crippled friendly operations in the entire sector of the front. Men of Company K clung doggedly to their positions, slashing counterattacks into the enemy's superior numbers. Company I, outpostting Hills 610 and 680, was attacked on Hill 680 by an estimated enemy force numbering over 400. The enemy storming the hill from three sides was repulsed in his repeated banzai attacks. In an outpost action unparalleled in any campaign, Company I not only blunted the assault of the numerically superior attacking force but, at 1030 hours, launched a vicious counterattack into the enemy's midst. At 0530 hours, when the right flank of Company L came under attack, the enemy hit a veritable stone wall. Troops of Company L clung stubbornly to their positions, battling fiercely. In 30 minutes the assaulting force had not only been stopped but had been beaten off. The machine guns, mortars, and recoilless rifles of Company M engaged the enemy in a manner that will remain exemplary in the history of the role of heavy-weapons companies in the Korean campaign. Gunners remained in positions until guns were destroyed or the enemy assault had been stopped. Hundreds of enemy dead littering the approaches were mute proof of the accuracy, foresight, and battle effectiveness of Company M. The outstanding valor of the entire 3d battalion at a time when other units were falling back under the ponderous force of a powerful enemy drive was inspirational to hard-pressed United Nations forces and prevented a break-through that might well have rendered the positions of friendly forces in the entire sector untenable. The 3d battalion, 32d Infantry Regiment, 7th Infantry Division, and attached units displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the action.

The extraordinarily heroic conduct of the members of these valiant units reflects great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 575, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 22 July 1951.)

2. The 72d Tank Battalion, 2d Infantry Division, is cited for extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance of duty against an armed enemy in the vicinity of Yongsan and Changnyong, Korea, during the period 31 August to 3 September 1950. The battalion was assigned the mission of supporting the 9th and 23d Regimental Combat Teams in their defense zone along the east bank of the Naktong River. On the night of 31 August, the enemy began crossing the river in force at several places and by 0600 hours on 1 September had managed to overrun friendly infantry positions. The 72d Tank Battalion moved forward and engaged the enemy with machine-gun and tank-cannon fire in a well-executed, delaying action that permitted infantry and artillery units time to establish new defensive positions in the vicinity of Yongsan. Often the tank crews had to actually fire on each other with their small-arms fire to kill the enemy swarming over the tanks. The crisis came that evening at 1700 hours when the division commander ordered the battalion to hold at all cost. Stragglers augmented friendly positions so that at dawn on 2 September, when the enemy made repeated banzai attacks into the positions, he was repulsed with heavy losses. At dawn, the battalion launched an attack into and west of Yongsan and in the Changnyong area which forced the enemy to spread out and commit his reserves. The speed, fury, and surprise of this attack completely demoralized the enemy, causing him to abandon his equipment and positions. By 1400 hours, all units were on their assigned objectives. Hurling back repeated attacks made by the enemy throughout the night of 2-3 September, the 72d Tank Battalion was able to hold this position until the next day, when reinforcements arrived. The decisive denial to the enemy of the important Changnyong-Yongsan-Miryang road prevented him from obtaining his goal, a flanking penetration of the allied perimeter between Taegu and Pusan, which, if successful, could have rolled up the entire allied defense line. This cost the enemy an estimated 1,800 casualties and considerable equipment. The 72d Tank Battalion, 2d Infantry Division, displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing its mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set it apart and above other units participating in the action and reflect great credit on its members and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 562, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 19 July 1951.)

Since its arrival in Korea on 25 September 1950, this unit has provided surgical and medical treatment and hospitalization for more than 25,354 patients. Its primary mission was to perform as a 400-bed hospital, but the large stream of patients doubled that at various times. Problems such as inadequate transportation and the unusually large influx of casualties were handled expeditiously. The personnel of this unit have consistently performed their various tasks with outstanding efficiency and cheerful thoroughness, resulting in exemplary medical service and the saving of many lives. The 4th Field Hospital displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The 7th Medical Battalion, 7th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 11 September 1950 to 11 March 1951. Operating under extremely adverse conditions, coupled with difficult and hazardous roads through mountainous terrain, the 7th Medical Battalion maintained three separate clearing stations and provided patient evacuation over a geographical area of approximately 240 miles. This unit was constantly menaced by guerrilla bands. Maintenance of vehicles, both ambulance and 2½-ton trucks, which were in constant 24-hour use, presented an ever mounting task, which was met efficiently and capably by the battalion's maintenance section with such superior results that not one vehicle was lost because of mechanical failure and deficiency. Procurement of medical and general supplies and the resupply of the units over widely scattered geographical sites were achieved in a superior manner. All members of the battalion worked tirelessly to render close medical support. The 7th Infantry Division was able to retain in its ranks fighting men who but for the initiative and vigor of the 7th Medical Battalion would have swollen the casualty lists during the bitter winter campaigns. The 7th Medical Battalion, 7th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The meritorious conduct and determination of its members reflect great credit on themselves, the Army Medical Service, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 641, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 14 August 1951.)

4. The Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 7th Transportation Medium Port, 2d Logistical Command (C), is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in support of combat operations in Korea during the period 1 September 1950 to 28 February 1951. Immediately upon its arrival in Korea, this unit was assigned the all important tasks of operating the port of Pusan with the primary mission of direct logistical support of the United Nations forces. Although confronted with inadequate harbor facilities, insufficient personnel, and material handling equipment, this unit, by sheer determination, discharged a record amount of essential cargo for the hard-pressed United Nations forces. As the United Nations forces withdrew to the Pusan perimeter, this unit established a close-in defense plan contributing toward the defense of Pusan. When the United Nations forces mounted their offensive in late September 1950, the port was responsible for handling thousands of troops and a record tonnage of essential cargo, which were expeditiously moved to our advancing forces. Later, when the United Nations forces were forced to withdraw again, this unit performed a magnificent role in the evacuation of personnel from northern ports. The Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 7th Transportation Medium Port, 2d Logistical Command (C), displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, efficiency, and esprit de corps of the members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Transportation Corps, and the military service of the United States. 5. The 62d Engineer Topographic Company (Corps) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 9 October 1950 to 31 May 1951. Throughout this period, the 62d Engineer Topographic Company supplied the Eighth United States Army with projects ranging from full-scale terrain models for Operation Zebra to multicolored maps and overlays, photo interpretation uncontrolled mosaics, and photo maps. They also performed road reconnaissance and survey work on both Operations Albany and Zebra and provided outstanding survey work for the 1st Field Artillery Observation Battalion. Lithographic projects number well over 400, with 2,000,000 lithographic impressions. All problems of supply and maintenance were overcome by the superior professional prowess of officers and men of this organization, resulting in fulfillment of all assigned missions in a superior manner. The 62d Engineer Topographic Company (Corps) displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. (General Orders 546, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 14 July 1951.)

6. The 377th Transportation Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 26 September 1950 to 25 March 1951. This unit participated in the Inchon invasion and, within 24 hours after landing, engaged immediately in port clearance in an around-the-clock operation. Later, the company again furnished close support to X Corps, assisting it materially in accomplishing its mission of driving to the Yalu River. Despite enemy

ambushes, subzero temperatures, extremely hazardous and difficult conditions, and heavy combat losses of personnel and equipment, the unit responded willingly to assist in the extrication of friendly forces from the Chosin Reservoir area and the evacuation of Hungnam. During the period cited, this unit transported 19,557 passengers and 22,821 tons of cargo over distances totaling 387,412 miles. 7. The 550th Engineer Map Depot Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 16 November 1950 to 31 July 1951. Throughout this period, this unit supplied the Eighth United States Army and all attached units with full map coverage of the entire battle zone. On occasions, air drops of critically needed maps were successfully made to the divisions. The men of this organization worked cheerfully, enthusiastically, and diligently in order to keep units supplied and to replenish the depot's stock. Two forward map depots were set up by the 550th Engineer Map Depot Detachment which were completely mobile and kept in operation immediately behind the combat units. All problems of issue and supply were overcome by the superior prowess of the officers and men of this organization, resulting in the fulfillment, in a superior manner, of all assigned missions. The 550th Engineer Map Depot Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The efficiency, zeal, and determination of the members of the 550th Engineer Map Depot Detachment reflect great credit on themselves, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 660, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 22 August 1951.)

8. The 593d Transportation Traffic Regulation Detachment (Rail) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 October 1950 to 15 May 1951. During this period, the detachment directly controlled the flow of traffic over several hundred miles of railroad, operating under extremely difficult conditions. Directing rail traffic through rail transportation offices that at one time extended from Pusan to Sinanju, this unit performed in such an outstanding manner that vital quartermaster, engineer, and ordnance supplies and equipment, critically needed to support United Nations troops, were transported with a minimum of delay. This unit, through its diligence and perseverance, overcame the problems created by the language barrier and lack of trained personnel, and regulated the flow of rail traffic in such a superior manner that the tonnage transported showed an increase from 205,074 short tons in October 1950 to 466,550 short tons in the month of April 1951. The 593d Transportation Traffic Regulation Detachment (Rail) displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding meritorious achievements of the members of this unit reflect great credit on themselves, the Transportation Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General

9. The 630th Engineer Light Equipment Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 November 1950 to 30 April 1951. This company was confronted with combat hazards, extreme cold weather which hampered operations, and the difficulties of a long supply line. The company constructed two major C-47 airfields in the Hamhung-Hungnam area in November 1950, widened roads for two-way traffic in the X Corps area, and constructed six C-47 airstrips in record time from Kyongju to Chechon to support X Corps tactical operations. This company supported the Eighth United States Army and X Corps supply program by construction work in rail yards at Chechon and by construction of ammunition supply points in Chechon. This most versatile company maintained many miles of roads and constructed many miles of new roads during the period and assisted other engineer units in engineer operations by support with equipment, operators, and technical advice. Such work was a vital factor in opening and maintaining routes of communication, both highway and air, which contributed immeasurably to supply support of X Corps combat operations. The 630th Engineer Light Equipment Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The result of the company's accomplishments exemplifies the effectiveness of a well-organized force and their achievements reflect great credit on the unit, the Corps of Engineers, and the Military service of the United States. (General Orders 660, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 22 August 1951.)

10. The 705th Counter Intelligence Corps Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 26 September 1950 to 25 June 1951. This detachment was originally established as a port team, with the mission of counterintelligence coverage of the port of Inchon, Seoul, Chinnampo, and all adjacent areas. When the tactical situation forced a complete withdrawal of all the aforementioned areas, the detachment reverted to an area-type detachment, with the mission of counterintelligence coverage of Taejon, Taegu, Chongju, Chunju, and all adjacent areas. During this period, in addition to carrying out routine counterintelligence missions, personnel of the detachment established and supervised the operation of refugee screening points, where over 1,000,000 refugees were screened for detection and apprehension of enemy espionage agents and other subversive persons. The unit interrogated approximately 10,000 prisoners of war for information of counterintelligence interest. The missions outlined above were performed despite the large zone of responsibility, which normally requires a much larger detachment, and adverse communications and transportation facilities. The 705th Counter Intelligence Corps Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination of purpose and meritorious achievements of the personnel of the detachment reflect great credit on themselves, the Counter Intelligence Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 651, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 18 August 1951.)

11. The Signal Service Company, (VHF), 8035th Army Unit, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 8 August 1950 to 8

February 1951. Although organized in Japan for the specific purpose of operating fixed very high frequency radio stations, this company was rushed into combat to provide tactical very high frequency communications for the Eighth United States Army. Despite the severe handicap of not having been trained or equipped for such a mission, this company surpassed all expectations and provided vital communications between Eighth United States Army and its subordinate units. The nature of very high frequency communications required installation of small radio stations on remote mountain tops. The small teams operating these radio relay sites frequently were the object of guerrilla attacks, in which they acquitted themselves well. Inasmuch as this small company was not equipped for tactical operations, it was handicapped by shortages of transportation, shelter, and logistical supplies. In sweltering heat and freezing gales, these radio stations were moved, set up, operated, and moved again. Against such hazards and discomforts, this company maintained superior communications for the Eighth United States Army only through use of the most ingenious field expedients and courageous perseverance. The Signal Service Company (VHF), 8035th Army Unit, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The meritorious conduct of the members of this unit reflects great credit on themselves, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 621, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 6 August 1951.)

12. The Signal Service Company (VHF), 8036th Army Unit, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 2 July 1950 to 2 January 1951. Although organized in Japan for the specific purpose of operating fixed very high frequency radio stations, this company was rushed into combat to provide tactical very high frequency communications for the Eighth United States Army. Despite the severe handicap of not having been trained or equipped for such a mission, this company surpassed all expectations and provided vital communications between Eighth United States Army and its subordinate units. IV. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 60th Indian Field Ambulance is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period November 1950 to May 1951. During this period, the 60th Indian Field Ambulance rendered medical support to the American, British, Canadian, and other elements of the United Nations forces in a superior manner. The sick and wounded were speedily and efficiently cared for and treated with superior and professional care, which saved many a life and aided materially the war effort. When an airborne regimental combat team was ordered to land at Munson behind enemy lines, this unit volunteered its services as medical support. Although the services of the entire unit were not needed, a surgical team was selected and rendered exceptional service. Despite the many difficulties of transportation, weather, supply, and numerous movements of this organization caused by the tactical situation, the medical mission was always expeditiously and skillfully accomplished. The spirit of cooperation, devotion to duty, and the unflinching excellence of the work of all members of this unit, as well as their determined policy of remaining as far forward as possible and remaining forward far longer than normally is expected of a unit of this type, contributed essentially to the immediate combat effectiveness and to the general morale of the units it supported. The 60th Indian Field Ambulance displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The individual and collective professional standards and conscientious achievements of members of this organization reflect the highest credit on themselves, their homeland, and the military service of the United Nations. (General Orders 586, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 25 July 1951.)

2. The 581st Signal Radio Relay Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 25 September 1950 to 25 March 1951. While with X Corps during the period 25 September to 27 December, this company was responsible for engineering all very high frequency circuits. It also installed, operated, and maintained most of these circuits from X Corps Headquarters to each of the divisions and separate regimental combat teams, despite enemy action and extremely adverse weather conditions. Between 28 December and 25 March, the same service was performed for IX Corps. Also, during this latter period, the company assisted other very high frequency units to perform their mission by providing teams to work on Eighth Army circuits and IX Corps lateral communications. Elements of this unit participated in amphibious landings with the 1st Marine and 7th Infantry Divisions. After each landing, invaluable communication was immediately established to various headquarters, proving a great asset to the United Nations cause in Korea. The 581st Signal Radio Relay Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, efficiency, and esprit de corps of the members of the company reflect great credit on themselves, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION—Citation of units-----
MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION—Awards-----

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 1st Battalion, 7th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, and the following attached units:

Intelligence and Reconnaissance Platoon, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 7th Infantry Regiment;

1st Platoon, Medical Company, 7th Infantry Regiment;

3d Platoon, Heavy Tank Company, 7th Infantry Regiment;

1st Platoon, Heavy Mortar Company, 7th Infantry Regiment, are cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy near Choksong, Korea, during the period 23 to 25 April 1951. On the morning of 23 April, the 1st Battalion was given the mission of cleaning out enemy pockets in the rear and on the right and left flanks of the 29th British Independent Brigade. After fighting fiercely the entire day, the battalion was ordered to attack an enemy force estimated to be composed of two regiments which had forced the withdrawal of friendly troops resulting in the entrapment of the Belgian United Nations Battalion. Under intense enemy small-arms, automatic-weapons, mortar, and artillery fire, the battalion launched a night attack which was pressed with such aggressiveness, determination, and skill that the enemy was required to commit his entire force to meet the onslaught, thereby relieving pressure on the Belgian Battalion and allowing them to withdraw all equipment and vehicles. Following the withdrawal of the Belgian Battalion, and although surrounded on three sides by enemy troops, the 1st Battalion immediately started a brilliantly executed disengagement. The 1st Battalion inflicted such staggering losses on the enemy that he was unable to continue action in that area. On the afternoon of 24 April, the battalion, after a movement of some 15 miles, took up positions of the 7th Infantry Regiment's main line of resistance with the mission of holding a sector of this line. During the night of 24-25 April, the enemy hurled the might of two whole divisions against the 7th Infantry Regiment's front. Although the enemy had succeeded in infiltrating to the rear of the battalion and its right flank was completely exposed, the 1st Battalion and attached units fought with magnificent tenacity and courage, holding in line until all other units of the 3d Infantry Division had withdrawn. When ordered, the battalion withdrew under a series of enemy attacks. This gallant unit killed over 3,000 enemy troops and wounded an estimated 5,500 of the enemy. The 1st Battalion, 7th Infantry Regiment, 3d Infantry Division, and attached units displayed such gallantry, determination, skill, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the action, and reflect great credit on each courageous soldier thereof and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 560, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 19 July 1951.)

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units of the United States Army for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 3d Station Hospital (known as the 8054th Evacuation Hospital, Semi-mobile, from 1 July to 10 December 1950) is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 July 1950 to 1 February 1951. This unit operated efficiently under all conditions and difficulties, maintaining high standards of medical service to front-line combat elements and to units in the surrounding area. Combining such commendable attributes as high devotion to duty, ingenious improvisation of existing facilities, and a thorough knowledge of the job to be done paralleled by the extreme in skillful application, this hospital has admitted and treated over 50,000 patients. While operating as a 400-bed evacuation hospital, this unit, by maintaining great flexibility, was capable of expanding its facilities to such an extent that even the heaviest stream of casualties was efficiently admitted and treated with the minimum in loss of life. After being reorganized as a 500-bed station hospital, the high standards of medical service continued to be maintained by this unit. The 3d Station Hospital displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The skill, effectiveness, and outstanding meritorious conduct of every member of this hospital in the performance of their vital services reflect great credit on themselves, the Army Medical Service, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 540, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 12 July 1951.)

2. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 66th Ordnance Battalion, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 27 July 1950 to 26 July 1951. This detachment planned, organized, and furnished technical and administrative supervision of field maintenance and supply for Eighth Army and IX Corps in the early phases of the Pusan Perimeter and the subsequent repelling of the Communist forces. Later, in the northwestern offensive and in the withdrawal to south Korea, this detachment consistently performed very difficult assignments in an exceptional manner, contributing materially to the success of IX Corps. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 66th Ordnance Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The ability, determination, and esprit de corps of the members of this unit reflect great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 629, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 10 August 1951.)

3. The 272d Signal Construction Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 11 November 1950 to 11 May 1951. During the early part of the period, the company performed signal construction missions for X Corps in North Korea in the critical evacuation from the Hungnam and Hambung area. Because of tactical reverses, the unit was forced to destroy certain signal installations, yet recovered quantities of critical wire before being forced to evacuate. Subsequently, this company performed many signal construction missions in central Korea for IX Corps and Eighth Army over extremely difficult terrain and under adverse weather conditions. Often performing its missions at great personal discomfort and safety, the company overcame shortages of proper signal supplies and unwarranted wear and tear on its unit transportation by field expedients. The 272d Signal Construction Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The high degree of skill, morale, and determination with which the members of this organization performed their duties reflect great credit on themselves, the Signal Corps, and military service of the United States. (General Orders 534, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 10 July 1951.)

4. The 512th Engineer Dump Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 5 November 1950 to 25 May 1951. During this period, the company was assigned missions in support of the Engineer Construction Group, 8224th Army Unit, as well as separate missions regarding logistical supply and road improvement and maintenance. The company functioned as a highly efficient team to overcome all obstacles met, and accomplished every mission assigned. The support rendered in November and December in the Koto-ri pocket, North Korea, and during the construction of emergency airfields at Hamhung and Hungnam was especially noteworthy. During the period February to May, this company contributed materially to the success of the military operations of X Corps by undertaking, in addition to normal activities, varying amounts of road maintenance and improvements. Also, during April, this company did necessary work to set up and operate needed facilities in support of engineer missions during a critical period. The 512th Engineer Dump Truck Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The superior standard of outstanding achievements by this unit reflects great credit on itself, its individual members, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 506, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 July 1951.)

5. The 515th Transportation Truck Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 7 November 1950 to 6 May 1951. The company operated with marked efficiency and devotion to duty during the period specified, furnishing highway transport support for the X Corps and its attached combat elements. Despite the extreme conditions imposed by subzero weather, difficult terrain, and supply shortages, further aggravated by almost constant exposure to enemy action, this unit successfully transported 28,682 troops and 23,241 tons of supplies, traveling a total of 1,021,170 miles in the accomplishment of its mission. Particular worthy of note is the performance of the 515th Transportation Truck Company during operations at Hamhung where a platoon of this unit, cut off by the enemy for a period of 2 weeks, successfully continued its mission despite casualties and loss of equipment to enemy action. Also outstanding were subsequent operations of this unit in support of the 7th Infantry and 1st Marine Divisions at Hungnam, Tangyang, Wonju, and from Pyonggang to Hamgye. The 515th Transportation Truck Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The morale, discipline, and determination exhibited by the members of this unit reflect credit on themselves, the Transportation Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 534, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 10 July 1951.)

6. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, United Nations Reception Center, 8212th Army Unit, is cited for exceptional meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 5 October 1950 to 5 April 1951. The unit, organized and activated in a minimum of time and with an exceedingly small cadre, was assigned the vital mission of receiving troop units of other member nations of the United Nations, and equipping and training them preparatory to participating in combat as integral units of the United Nations Command. Despite the critical and continued shortages of personnel and equipment, this unit received and processed troop units of eight nationalities, a total of approximately 10,000 troops. During this time, this unit also conducted as coordinate activities the material assistance in the redeployment of the X Corps, the retraining of over 300 United States troops screened from service units in Korea, received and processed over 300 replacement troops of two United Nations member nations, as well as making four successive moves and setting up four new camp sites complete with facilities to continue the assigned mission. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, United Nations Reception Center, 8212th Army Unit, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The efficiency, loyal teamwork, and determination displayed by each member of this unit reflect credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 556, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 17 July 1951.)

7. Headquarters Company, Eighth United States Army, Korea, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea and Japan in support of combat operations during the period 26 June 1950 to 31 January 1951. Throughout this period, Headquarters Company moved the headquarters of the Eighth United States Army from Yokohama, Japan, to Korea and set up forward, main, and rear command posts at numerous locations. Because of the rapidly changing tactical situation, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, has been operational at seven different locations during this 7-month period. This required Headquarters Company in each case to clear areas, prepare office and living space, and install and service stoves during the winter months. Exemplary transportation, mess, and administrative facilities for approximately 1,200 personnel were provided without fail. This unit also assisted in the vital security for the semihostile areas occupied by Headquarters, Eighth United States Army. At numerous times, the headquarters has been operational at three echelons at the same time and in one instance four. To accomplish this, the unit was stripped to a bare minimum and operated under hazardous and extremely adverse conditions. Headquarters Company, Eighth United States Army, Korea, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The ingenuity, resourcefulness, and attention to duty by members of this unit reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 550, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 16 July 1951.)

III. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following unit for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated. The citation reads as follows:

The 19th Military Police Criminal Investigation Detachment is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 20 September 1950 to 1 July 1951. During this period, the detachment participated in the landings at Inchon and Wonsan and members of the detachment performed their duties with front-line units. The detachment served X Corps at Hungnam until 21 December, during which time members of the detachment performed their duties under enemy small-arms fire. Individual members of the detachment, serving with all levels of command in the X Corps, conducted investigations of crimes during tactical operations and displayed a high degree of initiative and good judgment. The achievements made in the suppression of crime and apprehension of offenders and the successful completion of its assigned mission are the result of the superior recognition and exploitation of criminal investigation procedure by each member of the detachment. The initiative and superior skill of each member, frequently under enemy attack, contributed greatly to the ultimate successful completion of the criminal investigation mission in the X Corps. The 19th Military Police Criminal Investigation Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, diligence, and meritorious conduct of every member of the detachment reflect great credit on themselves, the Military Police Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 533, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 25 July 1951.)

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following units in the general orders indicated is confirmed in accordance with AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

1. Headquarters and Headquarters Company and Medical Company, 21st Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division (second award), distinguished themselves by extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance in action against an armed enemy near Sanghongjong-ni, Korea, on 27 May 1951. When forward elements of the 21st Infantry Regiment raced through enemy forces and made contact with units of a friendly division on their right, a large number of the Chinese Communists Army were effectively sealed off within the trap. Headquarters and Headquarters Company and Medical Company formed a joint perimeter defense far from any supporting rifle units of the regiment. At about 0200 hours, this perimeter was attacked by approximately 300 well-armed enemy troops trying to break through to their own lines. A hastily bolstered defense repulsed their attack with heavy losses. The brunt of the initial phase of the first attack was taken by the Medical Company. Here, such deadly fire was placed on the advancing enemy that they were thrown into confusion momentarily, but soon recovered and resumed the assault, finally being thrown back after suffering heavy casualties. Withdrawing to high ground, the enemy placed automatic-weapons fire into the perimeter, bringing the entire area under harassing fire. This fire was lifted from time to time as the enemy made repeated attacks every 30 to 50 minutes until daylight. These attacks increased in strength and determination. Men were shifted to meet each new threat as it developed, turning every attack into a bitter defeat for the enemy. During these encounters, rifle butts, bayonets, fists, and, on one occasion, an axe were used to the best possible advantage. At about 0630 hours, more enemy were observed heading down a valley toward the command post area. Every available man was alerted to stop them and this enemy force was engaged and thrown back. At this time, units of a friendly regiment arrived on the scene and scattered engagements continued until 1100 hours. Enemy casualties were 300 dead, approximately 250 wounded, and 450 prisoners taken. This heroic defense against tremendous odds was accomplished by relatively untrained men, unused to close combat, whose duties were mostly administrative. Headquarters and Headquarters Company and Medical Company, 21st Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division, displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in this campaign, and by their extraordinarily heroic conduct they brought great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 557, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 18 July 1951.)

2. Tank (Special Weapons) Company, 10th Battalion Combat Team, Philippine Expeditionary Force to Korea, is cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in combat against the armed enemy near Sinch'on, Korea, on 23 April 1951. This tank company, because of its shortage of organic vehicles, had been converted into a modified heavy weapons company. On 23 April, the company was holding positions it had occupied only the afternoon before, along with Company B, 10th Battalion Combat Team. At 0100 hours, an estimated enemy regiment, closely supported by artillery, heavy mortar, and machine-gun fire, assaulted in fanatical wave upon wave. Finally, through sheer force of numbers, the left platoon of Company B was dislodged, exposing the Tank (Special Weapons) Company's right flank and rear as the enemy poured through the gap in battalion strength to occupy the high ground south of the company's position. The enemy further worked themselves close into the southern perimeter of the company. Despite repeated assaults, this gallant company of only 70 men inflicted casualties at the rate of 17 to 1, refusing to relinquish any part of the crucial commanding ground it held. When the battalion was ordered to withdraw, the Tank (Special Weapons) Company was ordered to act as a holding and covering force. But as the two flanking units withdrew, the enemy was quick to fill the resulting vacuums, to strengthen their envelopment, and redouble their efforts to eliminate the obstacle to their success. Then, almost simultaneous with the reception of its own withdrawal order, the company was dislodged from a portion of its position by a sudden powerful enemy rush. Realizing that several dead and wounded had been left to the enemy, the company, now critically low in numbers and exhausted, refused to move out and proceeded to reorganize and rally in one last courageous assault to recover their injured comrades. The company then conducted an orderly withdrawal, despite having to run a gauntlet of fire. The tenacity of purpose under the most intense pressure, the courage, the faith with which the Tank (Special Weapons) Company achieved its long bitterly contested stand, prevented a large sector of the United Nations front from collapsing. The Tank (Special Weapons) Company 10th Battalion Combat Team, Philippine Expeditionary Force to Korea, displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing its mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set it apart and above other units participating in the action. The individual and collective heroism of the members of this valiant company reflect the highest credit on themselves, their homeland, and the Armed Forces of the United Nations. (General Orders 569, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 21 July 1951.)

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 25th Evacuation Hospital is commended for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater during the period 20 November 1942 to 30 November 1945. Arriving at Espiritu Santo, New Hebrides, in November, a field hospital was built and started limited operations on 8 February 1943, despite torrential rains, intense heat, tropical diseases, and enemy bombardment. Originally organized as an evacuation hospital, the 25th Evacuation Hospital unit actually served the command as a combined station, evacuation, and general hospital, rendering surgery, treatment, and evacuation during a 2½-year period to more than 20,000 resident patients, 36,000 out-patients, and 68,000 treatment cases not requiring hospitalization or out-patient service. Through the persistent and industrious application to duty by all members of the unit, double the normal capacity of patients were processed and many hundreds of American lives were doubtless saved. In April 1945, the organization moved to Batangas, Philippine Islands, where another hospital was built and where the unit cared for more than 5,000 sick and wounded patients with the same high efficiency and esprit de corps as had been prevalent at Espiritu Santo. The operating efficiency, morale, discipline, and devotion to duty maintained in the 25th Evacuation Hospital throughout this entire period reflect great credit on the unit and the military service.

2. The 60th Naval Construction Battalion is commended for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater during the period 1 July 1943 to 15 March 1944. In July 1943, this unit was assigned the task of constructing an advance airbase on Woodlark Island. In 4 months it had carved a 6,700-foot runway out of dense jungle and constructed the essential accessory facilities, despite every obstacle of terrain, weather, and frequent interference from enemy air attacks. Moving, in November, to Finschhafen, New Guinea, with assistance from an Army engineer battalion, this unit constructed another base, again overcoming difficult terrain and working in incessant rain and under frequent enemy bombardment. Completion of the mission at Finschhafen by 15 March facilitated air operations in support of combat operations and permitted early neutralization of enemy airdromes at Cape Gloucester and Rabaul, New Britain. The prompt and efficient completion of these two missions under adverse and hazardous conditions and the consistently high standards of teamwork, morale, discipline, and devotion to duty maintained by the 60th Naval Construction Battalion reflect great credit on this unit, its individual members, and the United States Navy.

3. The 84th Engineer Construction Battalion is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 20 September 1950 to 20 March 1951. The battalion was confronted with combat hazards, extreme cold weather which hampered operations, and totally inadequate supplies and equipment because of the sudden and unusual demands through military operations. The battalion launched the first major Bailey Bridge in the Korean Theater over the Nakdong River at Waegwan in September, constructed a 1,344-foot low-level railroad bridge over the Imjin River in the vicinity of Munson-ni in October, and a 984-foot low-level railroad bridge was nearly completed over the Taedong River at Pyongyang in November when the evacuation of the area was ordered. This unit prepared all major highway and railroad bridges for demolitions between Pyongyang and Chonan during the withdrawal in December and January. The battalion supported the tremendous railroad rehabilitation program during February and March by repairing or constructing 5,663 feet of bridging and 7 miles of railroad sides and cleared numerous railyards of debris. The ubiquitous battalion maintained hundreds of miles of roads and many highway bridges during this period, and assisted corps in pile-driving missions with loans of engineer equipment and operators. Such work was a vital factor in opening and maintaining routes of communication which contributed to supply support of combat operations. The 84th Engineer Construction Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The battalion's accomplishments exemplify the effectiveness of a well-organized force and its achievements reflect great credit on the unit, its members, the Corps of Engineers, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 469, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 28 June 1951.)

4. Service Battery, 92d Armored Field Artillery Battalion, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 20 September 1950 to 20 April 1951. During this period, this organization performed outstandingly its mission of logistical and maintenance support of a separate self-propelled artillery battalion. Serving with all United States divisions, as well as several Republic of Korea divisions, to meet the changing tactical situation, this battery was faced with many difficult supply and transportation problems, worn-out equipment, and other adverse operating conditions. However, the members of this unit prided themselves in overcoming such obstacles and performed their duties with efficiency, ingenuity, and dispatch beyond that normally expected. The maintenance of equipment, display of military courtesy, and the willingness, cooperation, and appearance of the personnel were superior. Service Battery, 92d Armored Field Artillery Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The esprit de corps and exceptionally meritorious service of this unit reflect great credit on each individual member and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 402, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 5 July 1951.)

5. The 191st Counter Intelligence Corps Detachment, attached to the 1st Cavalry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 18 July 1950 to 18 January 1951. Individual members of the 191st Counter Intelligence Corps Detachment, serving with all levels of command in the division and conducting counterintelligence activities in conjunction with tactical operations in the face of determined enemy resistance, displayed a high degree of initiative and good judgment. The achievements made to the security of tactical troops are the result of the superior recognition and exploitation of counterintelligence targets by each member of the detachment. The initiative and superior skill of each individual agent, frequently under enemy small-arms and artillery fire, contributed greatly to the ultimate successful completion of the counterintelligence mission of the 1st Cavalry Division. The 191st Counter Intelligence Corps Detachment displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The staunch determination and meritorious conduct of every member of the detachment reflect great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 515, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 5 Jul 1951.)

6. The 703d Ordnance Maintenance Company, 3d Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 15 November 1950 to 15 June 1951. Assigned the mission of maintaining ordnance support to the 3d Infantry Division over an extremely wide front, the 703d Ordnance Maintenance Company accomplished this vital mission under the most adverse conditions of weather and enemy activity. While handicapped by shortages of personnel and equipment, the company furnished ordnance and supply support to artillery and infantry units in the division during the heroic withdrawal from the Hamhung-Hungnam area. During this period, the company was called upon to support two armored battalions not normally organic to the division. In performing this additional task, the company displayed exceptional ingenuity and skill. The unit functioned efficiently under all conditions and, regardless of difficulties, maintained ordnance equipment and extended support direct to the front-line units. The support rendered to the front line units had a measurable effect on the combat efficiency of the units concerned. To accomplish this, the company maintained a large inventory of parts and major items to expedite maintenance which would normally require the replacement of entire assemblies or evacuation of the major items. The 703d Ordnance Maintenance Company, 3d Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination, ability, and esprit de corps of members of this company reflect great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 487, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 July 1951.)

III. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—So much of section V, DA General 45, 1950, as reads "The 24th Infantry Division and the attached 441st Counter Intelligence Corps Team" is amended to read "The 24th Infantry Division and the attached 441st Counter Intelligence Corps Team and Company A, 71st Heavy Tank Battalion."

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named enlisted man:

Corporal Charles W. Sherwood (Service No. RA 44 137 634), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company D, 23d Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy near Chippyong, Korea, from 13 to 15 February 1951. When his unit was attacked by a large enemy force during the night of 13 February, Corporal Sherwood, although wounded by enemy small-arms fire, remained in his position and inflicted heavy casualties until his machine gun was knocked out by hostile fire. The enemy closed to within 20 yards, but he coolly held them off with his pistol until another machine gun could be brought up. A second attempt was made to overrun his position, but Corporal Sherwood, heedless of intense hostile fire, accounted for 26 enemy dead before this weapon also was knocked out. On the night of 15 February, a reinforced enemy group made a final attempt to overrun the positions. Corporal Sherwood once more manned his gun and, despite intense hostile mortar, artillery, and small-arms fire, inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy until he was mortally wounded. The courage, tenacity, and devotion to duty demonstrated by Corporal Sherwood reflect great credit on himself and uphold the esteemed traditions of the United States Army.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—1. Major Mindalano intercepted a Japanese patrol returning to Ganassi and, displaying dauntless courage, destroyed 10 hostile soldiers. Later, on 1 April 1945, when Japanese troops had surrounded part of his regiment then operating at Malabang, Lanao, he led a surprise attack from the rear and left flanks and succeeded in penetrating the enemy line, creating havoc among the foe and inflicting heavy casualties on the invaders. During this daring action against a force superior in number, arms, and equipment, Major Mindalano, despite a severe loss of men, rallied his soldiers, dispersed the enemy, and saved the entire regiment from annihilation. Major Mindalano's inspiring leadership and sustained devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the Philippine Army.

While taking part in a demonstration before the Joint Civilian Orientation Conference No. 8, he voluntarily exposed himself to grave danger in securing the extraction system for the dropping of a 105-mm howitzer and ¼-ton truck by parachute from an aircraft in flight. Realizing fully the risk involved and the great danger to all personnel of the aircraft, Sergeant Drew moved behind the loaded equipment, removed his reserve parachute, and lay prone on floor of the ship with head and shoulders outside the plane in the slipstream to recover and reposition the equipment, thus removing a very serious threat to the stability and safety of the aircraft. Had the heavy load broken free while he was behind it he, would have been killed instantly. When the system failed to function the second time, Sergeant Drew repeated the procedure. Sergeant Drew's prompt and heroic action in the face of extreme danger during this emergency reflects distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Dickerson* (Service No. 38415786) (then private first class), Medical Department, Army of the United States, a member of the 25th Medical Detachment, 25th Infantry Division, attached to Company M, 35th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by heroic achievement on 11 May 1945 near Balete Pass, Northern Luzon, Philippine Islands. One rifleman of a patrol had been severely wounded and was going into shock, but was denied medical attention because of heavy enemy fire which had pinned down the patrol. Corporal Dickerson volunteered to assist the soldier. He dragged him into a shallow recess and proceeded to administer blood plasma. Bullets from intermittent bursts of hostile fire were seen to strike around the two men but, despite this hazard, Corporal Dickerson administered the plasma and thereby enabled the badly wounded rifleman to be carried down the mountainside and to return to duty several months later. The voluntary, courageous action on the part of Corporal Dickerson in the face of heavy enemy fire was in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION—Citation of units----- I
MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION—Awards----- II

I. DISTINGUISHED UNIT CITATION.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bull 11, 1942), the following units are cited under AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

1. The 1st Marine Air Wing, Fleet Marine Force, is cited for outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy in the areas of Chosin Reservoir, Hagaru-ri, and Koto-ri, Korea, during the period 22 November to 14 December 1950. The historic role of close-support air missions flown by personnel on land and carrier based aircraft during the operations of the X Corps, United States Army, contributed immeasurably to the successful withdrawal of the X Corps when hordes of Chinese Communist and North Korean troops had encircled their positions endangering the entire operation. In their magnificent employment of close-support doctrine and in their exceedingly effective interdiction missions and night combat air patrols, the 1st Marine Air Wing flew 2,572 day and night sorties during this period, inflicting 10,310 enemy casualties and destroying 723 buildings, 144 vehicles, 17 tanks, 9 bridges, 4 locomotives, 3 command posts, 30 boxcars, 47 gun positions, and 19 supply, ammunition, and fuel dumps. These missions were flown over hazardous mountain terrain under extremely adverse weather conditions and in the face of intense enemy antiaircraft and small-arms fire. The normally ground-based Tactical Air Direction Center was ingeniously improvised into an airborne center in a C-54 aircraft without appreciable loss of efficiency in operations and the responsibility for controlling aircraft was assumed and accomplished in a remarkable manner through day and night operation by controlling personnel. Airborne tactical air coordinators also were established to supplement the airborne center to direct specific strikes in areas not under surveillance of ground control parties, to the end that every available sortie was utilized to maximum effectiveness. In the evacuation of friendly casualties by cargo airplanes, the use of helicopters for rescue of air personnel shot down by the enemy and the evacuation of wounded, and the high state of aircraft availability maintained by ground personnel working under hazardous and extremely adverse conditions because of intense cold, personnel of the entire 1st Marine Air Wing displayed fortitude, courage, and marked esprit de corps. Although suffering a considerable loss of personnel and equipment during this trying period, the morale and effectiveness of the 1st Marine Air Wing were sustained at a constantly high level. The repeated acts of valor and gallantry by the officers and men of the 1st Marine Air Wing, Fleet Marine Force, and their enviable combat record reflect great credit on the members thereof and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

2. The 2nd Infantry Division and the following attached units: 2d Counter Intelligence Corps Detachment; 1st Ranger Infantry Company (Airborne) (second award); 300th Armored Field Artillery Battalion (less Battery B); Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, 937th Field Artillery Battalion; Battery C, 937th Field Artillery Battalion; 196th Field Artillery Battalion; Battery B, 17th

AGO 403B—Aug. 950989—51

Field Artillery Battalion; 1st and 2d Platoons, 92d Engineer Searchlight Company; Air Liaison Officer and Air Control Parties, 2d Infantry Division; 20th Signal Air-Ground Liaison Company Radio Team, 2d Infantry Division; 52d Transportation Truck Company; the French Infantry Battalion, United Nations Forces (third award); and the Netherlands Detachment, United Nations Forces (second award), are cited for extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance of duty in action against the armed enemy in the vicinity of Hongchon, Korea, during the period 16 to 22 May 1951. Defending the critical sector of the Eighth Army battle front, the 2d Infantry Division and attached units faced a hostile force of 12 Chinese Communist divisions with an estimated strength of 120,000 troops. The Third Chinese Communist Army Group drove the full force of its savage assault against the 2d Infantry Division with the specific mission of annihilation of the unit. The right flank of the unit was completely exposed when enemy pressure broke through adjacent United Nations elements. Pressure increased and each night enemy forces bypassed the staunch defenders and occupied positions to their rear areas. Tactical units of the 2d Infantry Division launched fierce counterattacks which destroyed enemy penetrations, successfully extricated themselves, and through readjustment of positions, stopped the onslaught of the Chinese Communist forces. Executing planned withdrawals and extending their flank eastward over extremely rugged, mountainous terrain, the 2d Infantry Division contained and held all enemy attempts to envelop and destroy the Eighth Army. The heroic and determined stand by the 2d Infantry Division and attached units provided critically required time for other Eighth Army units to regroup and block the attempted enemy envelopment. Without thought of defeat, this heroic unit demonstrated superb battlefield courage, knowledge, and discipline and displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing this extremely difficult and hazardous mission as to set it apart and above other units participating in similar operations. Its sustained brilliance in battle, resolution, and extraordinary heroism reflect unsurpassed credit on those courageous soldiers who participated and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the United States Army, the United Nations Forces, and their own homelands. (This citation constitutes additional awards as indicated to the following units: 23d Infantry Regiment (less 3d Battalion) (second award); 3d Battalion, 23d Infantry Regiment (third award); 37th Field Artillery Battalion (105-mm How.) (second award); Battery B, 82d Anti-aircraft Artillery Battalion (second award); Battery B, 503d Field Artillery Battalion (second award); Company B, 2d Engineer Battalion (second award); and 2d Clearing Platoon, Clearing Company, 2d Medical Battalion (second award).)

3. The 27th Infantry Regiment (less Heavy Tank Company and 3d Battalion), 25th Infantry Division (second award), and the following attached units: 8th Field Artillery Battalion (less Battery C) (second award); Company A, 79th Tank Battalion; and Company A, 65th Engineer Combat Battalion, are cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in combat against the armed enemy at Sangnyong-ni, Korea, during the period 23 to 26 July 1950. During this period, numerically superior enemy forces attempted to penetrate the defensive positions along the main supply route. The 27th Infantry Regiment and attached units were subjected to numerous and sustained "banzai" attacks. By countless individual, group, and unit acts of extraordinary heroism, these units engaged, fought, and repelled each concerted assault. The 27th Infantry Regiment and attached units inflicted over 3,000 casualties, destroyed large quantities of equipment of all types, including tanks, and captured valuable military supplies and equipment. The outstanding courage and resolute fighting qualities displayed by all personnel in the repulsion of repeated fanatic attacks during the period of continuous fierce and hand-to-hand combat resulted in the retention of critical terrain. These achievements were major contributions to the success of the defensive operations. The 27th Infantry Regiment (less Heavy Tank Company and 3d Battalion), 25th Infantry Division, and attached units displayed such gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their mission under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units with similar missions. The outstanding battlefield performance reflects the greatest credit on each unit and is in keeping with the recognized traditions of the United States Army.

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following units for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the periods indicated. The citations read as follows:

1. The 3d Airfield Construction Squadron, Royal Australian Air Force, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater in support of combat operations during the period 15 December 1944 to 19 June 1945. Assigned a mission, with the 1874th Engineer Aviation Battalion, of constructing the original runway and dispersals at Hill Field, Mindoro, Philippine Islands, with less personnel and equipment than an engineer battalion, this squadron maintained a production schedule that was an inspiration to other larger and better equipped organizations. Men and officers diligently functioned with an enthusiasm and intensity of purpose to raise the production level of each unit of equipment, with the result that the original deadline of 5 days was successfully met. This notable accomplishment was of vital importance in affording air protection for installations located at this base, a defense against highly probable enemy counterattack, and a base for support and air cover for other vital combat operations. Immediately thereafter, this squadron was assigned the mission of constructing roads and bridges for the base, concurrently with the additional projects of constructing warehouses, hospitals, bomb dumps, and the restoration of power and water systems for the installation. Energetically attacking these projects with the same enthusiasm and steadfast purpose, the personnel of the 3d Airfield Construction Squadron successfully completed the assigned tasks with alacrity, despite frequent enemy air attacks and the necessity of intermittently having to work under black-out conditions. During this outstanding performance, the appearance of the personnel and unit equipment remained at a continued high level, and the singular achievements attained place this unit above and beyond those of a similar type meeting normal requirements. The consistently high standard of operating efficiency, teamwork, morale, discipline, and devotion to duty reflects great credit on the 3d Airfield Construction Squadron and the Royal Australian Air Force.

2. The 3d Quartermaster Company, 3d Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea.

in support of combat operations during the period 15 November 1950 to 15 June 1951. Shortly after its arrival in Korea, the 3d Quartermaster Company was assigned the mission of supporting the off-loading of the 3d Infantry Division, and at the same time resupplying units widely dispersed along the eastern coast of North Korea. When the enemy launched its huge offensive in November, the 3d Quartermaster Company, by its superb efforts, evacuated over 15,000 tons of quartermaster supplies through the ports of Wonsan and Hungnam. Notwithstanding adversities, all quartermaster supplies and equipment were successfully evacuated, and nothing destroyed or abandoned. In addition, the company continued to perform the normal functions of resupplying and servicing the 3d Infantry Division during the crucial periods of defense. Only through the tireless efforts and outstanding energy of all concerned were these tasks completed within a minimum of time and in a highly efficient manner. During the United Nations offensive to the Han River, the company performed all tasks assigned with unflinching determination. When the pace became rapid and many moves were required, the company met the situation and the resupply and servicing continued in the usual outstandingly efficient manner. The 3d Quartermaster Company, 3d Infantry Division displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The enthusiasm, determination, and unity of purpose on the part of the members of this company contributed immeasurably toward the high combat efficiency of the 3d Infantry Division and reflect great credit on themselves, the Quartermaster Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 489, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 July 1951.)

3. The 7th Military Police Company, 7th Infantry Division, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 September 1950 to 1 March 1951. The company landed during the early stages of the Inchon invasion and acquitted itself at all times in a highly commendable manner. In the assault upon and the liberation of Suwon and Seoul, the company was assigned the task of setting up vital traffic control points. Despite such trying problems as narrow roads, shortage of personnel, and being almost constantly under enemy mortar and small-arms fire, this unit insured a vital flow of traffic both to and from the front lines. When X Corps was evacuating from the Hungnam beachhead, the 7th Military Police Company was directly responsible for preventing large numbers of refugees and enemy infiltrators from reaching the beach area, thus aiding in an orderly withdrawal. The 7th Military Police Company, 7th Infantry Division, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The determination and esprit de corps of this unit reflect great credit on itself, each individual member, the Military Police Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 494, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 July 1951.)

4. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 67th Ordnance Ammunition Battalion, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 24 July 1950 to 24 January 1951. Upon arrival in Korea, this detachment was redesignated a headquarters and headquarters detachment, ammunition battalion. The battalion then was given the mission of providing ammunition supply support to all United Nations Forces in Korea through forward ammunition supply points, plus the command of attached ordnance ammunition companies and explosive ordnance disposal squads. The problem of converting this unit was accomplished through resourcefulness, skill, and dexterity while under the handicap of extreme shortages of qualified personnel. The challenge of the new mission delegated to this unit was met with fervor and enthusiasm and carried out in an exemplary manner. On many occasions during the period, the personnel of the detachment were called upon to assist in such extra activities as, the renovation and modification of ammunition, collecting and destroying enemy ammunition and matériel, bomb disposal, and demolition of United States ammunition remaining in supply points during withdrawals. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 67th Ordnance Ammunition Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The superb determination and esprit de corps of this unit reflect great credit on its members, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 497, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 July 1951.)

5. The 289th Military Police Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 5 December 1950 to 15 June 1951. During this period, the company displayed extraordinary esprit de corps and determination during extremely critical and swiftly changing combat conditions and requirements. During the withdrawal from Seoul on 3 and 4 January, it was the efficient manner in which this company controlled traffic crossing the Han River that orderly evacuation was made possible. The 289th Military Police Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The exemplary conduct of members of this company by perseverance, improvisations, skill, and ingenuity insured the successful accomplishment of all assigned missions and reflect great credit on themselves, the Military Police Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 488, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 July 1951.)

6. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 328th Ordnance Battalion, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 24 September 1950 to 23 March 1951. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment planned, organized, and furnished technical and administrative supervision of ammunition supply for X Corps in the amphibious assault of Inchon and subsequent recapture of Seoul. Later, in the offensive in northeastern Korea and in the withdrawal to South Korea, the detachment consistently performed very difficult assignments in an exceptional manner contributing materially to the success of X Corps. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 328th Ordnance Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The ability, determination, and esprit de corps of the members of this unit reflect great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 491, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 2 July 1951.)

7. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 335th Ordnance Battalion, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 11 August 1950 to 11 February 1951. Assigned the mission of the complete administration and operation of the only ammunition depot in Korea, this detachment repeatedly accomplished its vital but seemingly impossible mission of receiving, storing, and shipping ammunition to forward areas under adverse conditions. During the critical period from 11 August to 15 September, the detachment not only continuously received and shipped ammunition to forward areas, but also moved the entire depot from one location to another. There was never a shipping order or requirement which was not promptly and correctly processed. The 350,000 tons of ammunition received, stored, and shipped to forward areas by this depot during the period cited contributed materially to the combat operations of the United Nations troops in Korea. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 335th Ordnance Battalion, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The meritorious conduct of the members of this detachment reflects great credit on themselves, the Ordnance Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 498, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 July 1951.)

8. The 522d Signal Construction Company is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 11 July 1950 to 11 January 1951. As the first signal construction company to arrive in Korea after the beginning of the conflict, extremely heavy missions of installing and maintaining land line telephone communications from Eighth Army to all subordinate units were assigned to this unit. In subsequent months as the adverse tactical situation became more fluid, necessitating the rapid and frequent movement of command posts, the difficulty of maintaining adequate communications facilities became more pronounced. Yet this unit, by working diligently and tirelessly over difficult terrain and under adverse weather conditions, was able to maintain a high standard of communication efficiency. Many shortages of important signal supplies and equipment necessitated improvisation of field expedients. The 522d Signal Construction Company displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The high degree of skill, morale, and determination with which the members of this organization performed their tasks reflect great credit upon themselves, the Signal Corps, and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 504, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 July 1951.)

9. Company B, 532d Engineer Boat and Shore Regiment, 2d Engineer Special Brigade, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 September 1950 to 1 March 1951. During the assault landing at the Port of Inchon, this unit, through its untiring efforts and determination, made a major contribution toward the successful operation of X Corps. In addition to lightering vitally needed war supplies, personnel, and equipment of X Corps during the early stages of the operation, this company was required to furnish boats and coxswains for the successful crossing of the Han River in the capture of Seoul. Later, this unit contributed greatly in the successful evacuation of the Port of Hungnam. Following the evacuation of Hungnam, this unit continued to furnish outstanding logistical support of the United Nations Forces in Korea. Company B, 532d Engineer Boat and Shore Regiment, 2d Engineer Special Brigade, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The spirit, efficiency, morale, discipline, and devotion to duty exemplified by the members of this unit are worthy of the highest praise and reflect credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 503, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 3 July 1951.)

10. The Medical Detachment, 532d Engineer Boat and Shore Regiment, 2d Engineer Special Brigade, is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period 1 September 1950 to 1 March 1951. During the period cited, the detachment operated the beach evacuation stations at Inchon, Iwon, and Hungnam, where battle casualties and injured troops were administered first aid and evacuated to either a hospital ship or Army field hospital. The detachment worked with untiring efforts over periods of long duration to provide comfort for the wounded troops and minimize loss of life. Following the Hungnam evacuation, the detachment operated the beach evacuation station for the Port of Ulsan until 14 February in a superlative manner. On 14 February, the detachment was moved to Inchon, where it operated the beach evacuation station when the port was reopened. The Medical Detachment, 532d Engineer Boat and Shore Regiment, 2d Engineer Special Brigade, displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The spirit of efficiency, morale, discipline, and devotion to duty exemplified by members of this detachment are worthy of the highest praise and reflect credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. (General Orders 515, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 5 July 1951.)

11. By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation with the numeral "2" is awarded to the following unit for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated. The citation reads as follows:

The 304th Signal Operation Battalion is cited for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in Korea in support of combat operations during the period July 1950 to January 1951. During this period, the 304th Signal Operation Battalion was charged with the mission of providing communications from Eighth Army Headquarters to major subordinate commands. However, in the early critical stages of the Korean campaign, this unit not only performed its assigned function, but provided vital radio and wire communication teams to infantry units of regimental and battalion size, despite the most adverse conditions. Despite shortages of personnel and equipment, the 304th Signal Operation Battalion not only performed these additional missions with credit, but accomplished its designated mission of installing, operating, and maintaining the communication facilities at Eighth Army Headquarters during the Pusan perimeter, and later in Seoul and Pyongyang. The 304th Signal Operation Battalion displayed such outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions. The high degree of skill, morale, discipline, and the willingness with which the members of this organization performed the tasks allotted them reflects great credit on themselves and the military service of the United States. AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Private First Class Luther H. Story (Service No. RA14285693), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company A, 9th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action near Agok, Korea. On 1 September 1950, a savage daylight attack by elements of three enemy divisions penetrated the thinly held lines of the 9th Infantry Regiment. Company A beat off several "banzai" attacks but was bypassed and in danger of being cut off and surrounded. Private Story, a weapons squad leader, was heavily engaged in stopping the early attacks and had just moved his squad to a position overlooking the Naktong River when he observed a large group of the enemy crossing the river to attack Company A. Seizing a machine gun from his wounded gunner, he placed deadly fire on the hostile column and killed or wounded an estimated 100 enemy soldiers. Facing certain encirclement, the company commander ordered a withdrawal. During the move, Private Story noticed the approach of an enemy truck loaded with troops and towing an ammunition trailer. Alerting his comrades to take cover, he fearlessly stood in the middle of the road and threw grenades into the truck. When out of grenades, he crawled to his squad, gathered up additional grenades, and again attacked the vehicle. During the withdrawal, the company was attacked by such superior numbers that it was forced to deploy in a rice field. Private Story was wounded in this action but disregarded his wounds and rallied the men about him and repelled the attack. Realizing that his wounds would hamper his comrades, he refused to retire to the next position and remained to cover the company's withdrawal. When last seen, he was firing every weapon available and fighting off another hostile assault. Private Story's extraordinary heroism, aggressive leadership, and supreme devotion to duty reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the esteemed traditions of the military service.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named officer:

Captain Lewis L. Millett, O1540712, Infantry (Artillery), Army of the United States, a member of Company E, 27th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action on 7 February 1951 in the vicinity of Soam-Ni, Korea. While personally leading his company in an attack against a strongly held position, he noted that the 1st Platoon was pinned down by small-arms, automatic, and antitank fire. Captain Millett ordered the 3d Platoon forward, placed himself at the head of the two platoons, and, with fixed bayonet, led the assault up the fire-swept hill. In the fierce charge, Captain Millett bayoneted two enemy soldiers and boldly continued on, throwing grenades, and clubbing and bayoneting the enemy, while urging his men forward by shouting encouragement. Despite vicious opposing fire, the whirlwind hand-to-hand assault carried to the crest of the hill. His dauntless leadership and personal courage so inspired his men that they stormed into the hostile position and used their bayonets with such lethal effect that the enemy fled in wild disorder. During this fierce onslaught, Captain Millett was wounded by grenade fragments but refused evacuation until the objective was taken and firmly secured. The superb leadership, conspicuous courage, and consummate devotion to duty demonstrated by Captain Millett were directly responsible for the successful accomplishment of a hazardous mission and reflect the highest credit on himself and the heroic traditions of the military service. (This award supersedes the award of the Distinguished-Service Cross to Captain Millett, for heroism on the same date, published in General Orders 155, Headquarters, Eighth United States Army, Korea, 20 March 1951.)

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following named enlisted man:

Sergeant Einar H. Ingman (Service No. RA16301580) (then corporal), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company E, 17th Infantry Regiment, 7th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Maltari, Korea, on 26 February 1951. The two leading squads of the assault platoon of his company, while attacking a strongly fortified ridge held by the enemy, were pinned down by withering fire and both squad leaders and several men were wounded. Sergeant Ingman assumed command, reorganized and combined the two squads, then moved from one position to another, designating fields of fire and giving advice and encouragement to the men. Locating an enemy machine-gun position that was raking his men with devastating fire, he charged it alone, threw a grenade into the position, and killed the remaining crew with rifle fire. Another enemy machine gun opened fire approximately 15 yards away and inflicted additional casualties to the group and stopped the attack. When Sergeant Ingman charged the second position he was hit by grenade fragments and a hail of fire which seriously wounded him about the face and neck and knocked him to the ground. With incredible courage and stamina, he arose instantly and, using only his rifle, killed the entire gun crew before falling unconscious from his wounds. As a result of the singular action by Sergeant Ingman the defense of the enemy was broken, his squad secured its objective, and more than 100 hostile troops abandoned their weapons and fled in disorganized retreat. Sergeant Ingman's indomitable courage, extraordinary heroism, and superb leadership reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the esteemed traditions of the Infantry and the United States Army.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named officer:

Captain Raymond Harvey, O1286281, Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company C, 17th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action on 9 March 1951 in the vicinity of Taemi-Dong, Korea. When his company was pinned down by a barrage of automatic-weapons fire from numerous well-entrenched emplacements which imperiled accomplishment of its mission, Captain Harvey braved a hail of fire and exploding grenades to advance to the first enemy machine-gun nest and kill its crew with grenades. Rushing to the edge of the next emplacement, he killed its crew with carbine fire. He then moved the 1st Platoon forward until it was again halted by a curtain of automatic fire from well-fortified hostile positions. Disregarding the hail of fire, he personally charged and neutralized a third emplacement. Miraculously escaping death from intense cross-fire, Captain Harvey continued to lead the assault. Spotting an enemy pillbox well camouflaged by logs, he moved close enough to sweep the emplacement with carbine fire, throw grenades through the openings, and annihilate its five occupants. Though wounded, he then turned to order the company forward. Suffering agonizing pain, he continued to direct the reduction of the remaining hostile positions and refused evacuation until assured that the mission would be accomplished. Captain Harvey's valorous and intrepid actions served as an inspiration to his company, reflect the utmost glory on himself, and uphold the heroic traditions of the military service.

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Master Sergeant Stanley T. Adams (Service No. RA 37 235 036) (then sergeant first class), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company A, 19th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action against an enemy near Sesim-ni, Korea, on 4 February 1951. At approximately 0100 hours, Sergeant Adams' platoon, holding an outpost some 200 yards ahead of his company, came under a determined attack by an estimated 250 enemy troops. Intense small-arms, machine-gun, and mortar fire from three sides pressed the platoon back against the main line of resistance. Observing approximately 150 hostile troops silhouetted against the skyline advancing against his platoon, Sergeant Adams leaped to his feet, urged his men to fix bayonets, and, with 13 members of his platoon, charged this hostile force with indomitable courage. Within 50 yards of the enemy, Sergeant Adams was knocked to the ground when pierced in the leg by an enemy bullet. He jumped to his feet and, ignoring his wound, continued on to close with the enemy when he was knocked down four times from the concussion of grenades which had bounced off his body. Shouting orders, he charged the enemy positions and engaged them in hand-to-hand combat where man after man fell before his terrific onslaught with bayonet and rifle butt. After nearly an hour of vicious action, Sergeant Adams and his comrades routed the fanatical foe, killed over 50, and forced the remainder to withdraw. Upon receiving orders that his battalion was moving back, he provided cover fire while his men withdrew. Sergeant Adams' superb leadership, incredible courage, and consummate devotion to duty so inspired his comrades that the enemy attack was completely thwarted and his battalion saved from possible disaster. His sustained personal bravery and indomitable fighting spirit against overwhelming odds reflect the utmost glory on himself and uphold the finest traditions of the Infantry and the military service.

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Private First Class Robert H. Young (Service No. RA19 255 270), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company E, 8th Cavalry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action north of Kaesong, Korea, on 9 October 1950. Private Young's company, spearheading a battalion drive deep in enemy territory, suddenly came under a devastating barrage of enemy mortar and automatic-weapons cross-fire which inflicted heavy casualties among his comrades and wounded him in the face and shoulder. Refusing to be evacuated, Private Young remained in position and continued to fire at the enemy until wounded a second time. As he awaited first aid near the company command post, the enemy attempted an enveloping movement. Disregarding medical treatment, he took an exposed position and, firing with deadly accuracy, killed five of the enemy. During this action, he was again hit by hostile fire which knocked him to the ground and destroyed his helmet. Later, when supporting tanks moved forward, Private Young, his wounds still unattended, directed tank fire which destroyed three enemy gun positions and enabled the company to advance. Wounded again by an enemy mortar burst, and while aiding several of his injured comrades, he demanded that all others be evacuated first. Throughout the course of this action, the leadership and combative instinct displayed by Private Young exerted a profound influence on the conduct of the company. His aggressive example affected the whole course of the action and was responsible for its success. Private Young's dauntless courage and intrepidity reflect the highest credit on himself and uphold the esteemed traditions of the military service.

Private First Class Richard G. Wilson (Service No. RA17252005), Medical Corps, United States Army, a member of Medical Company, 187th Airborne Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action near Opari, Korea, on 21 October 1950. As medical aid man attached to Company I, he accompanied the unit during a reconnaissance in force through the hilly country near Opari. The main body of the company was passing through a narrow valley flanked on three sides by high hills when the enemy laid down a barrage of mortar, automatic-weapons, and small-arms fire. The company suffered a large number of casualties from the intense hostile fire while fighting its way out of the ambush. Private Wilson proceeded at once to move among the wounded and administered aid to them, oblivious of the danger to himself and constantly exposing himself to hostile fire. The company commander ordered a withdrawal as the enemy threatened to encircle and isolate the company. As his unit withdrew, Private Wilson assisted wounded men to safety and assured himself that none were left behind. After the company had pulled back, he learned that a comrade previously thought dead had been seen to be moving and attempting to crawl to safety. Despite the protests of his comrades, unarmed and facing a merciless enemy, Private Wilson returned to the dangerous position in search of his comrade. Two days later, a patrol found him lying beside the man he returned to aid. He had been shot several times while trying to shield and administer aid to the wounded man. Private Wilson's superb personal bravery, consummate courage, and willing self-sacrifice for his comrades reflect untold glory upon himself and uphold the esteemed traditions of the military service.

Private First Class William Thompson (Service No. RA42259324), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company M, 24th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy near Haman, Korea, on 6 August 1950. While his platoon was reorganizing under cover of darkness, fanatical enemy forces in overwhelming strength launched a surprise attack on the unit. Private Thompson set up his machine gun in the path of the onslaught and swept the enemy with withering fire, pinning them down momentarily and thus permitting the remainder of his platoon to withdraw to a more tenable position. Although hit repeatedly by grenade fragments and small-arms fire, he resisted all efforts of his comrades to induce him to withdraw, steadfastly remained at his machine gun, and continued to deliver deadly, accurate fire until mortally wounded by an enemy grenade. Private Thompson's dauntless courage and gallant self-sacrifice reflect the highest credit on himself and uphold the esteemed traditions of the military service.

Sergeant *George D. While breaking through an enemy encirclement, the vehicle in which he was riding approached an enemy road block and encountered devastating fire which disabled the truck and killed or wounded all the passengers except Sergeant Libby. Taking cover in a ditch, Sergeant Libby engaged the enemy and, despite the heavy fire, crossed the road twice to administer aid to his wounded comrades. He then hailed a passing M-5 artillery tractor and helped the wounded aboard. The enemy directed intense small-arms fire at the driver, and Sergeant Libby, realizing that no one else could operate the vehicle, placed himself between the driver and the enemy, thereby shielding him while he returned the fire. During this action, he received several wounds in the arms and body. Continuing through the town, the tractor made frequent stops and Sergeant Libby helped more wounded aboard. Refusing first aid, he continued to shield the driver and return the fire of the enemy, when another road block was encountered. Sergeant Libby received additional wounds but held his position until he lost consciousness. Sergeant Libby's sustained, heroic actions enabled his comrades to reach friendly lines. Sergeant First Class Loren R. Kaufman (Service No. RA 19 005 070), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company G, 9th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action on 4 and 5 September 1950 near Yongsan, Korea. On the night of 4 September, the company was in a defensive position on two adjoining hills. Sergeant Kaufman's platoon was occupying a strong point 2 miles away protecting the battalion flank. Early on 5 September, the company was attacked by an enemy battalion and his platoon was ordered to reinforce the company. As his unit moved along a ridge, it encountered a hostile encircling force. Sergeant Kaufman, running forward, bayoneted the lead scout and engaged the column in a rifle and grenade assault. His quick, vicious attack so surprised the enemy that they retreated in confusion. When his platoon joined the company, he discovered that the enemy had taken commanding ground and pinned the company down in a draw. Without hesitation, Sergeant Kaufman charged the enemy lines, firing his rifle and throwing grenades. During the action, he bayoneted two enemy and seizing an unmanned machine gun, delivered deadly fire on the defenders. Following this encounter, the company regrouped and resumed the attack. Leading the assault, he reached the ridge, destroyed a hostile machine-gun position, and routed the remaining enemy. Pursuing the hostile troops, he bayoneted two more and then rushed a mortar position, shooting the gunners. Remnants of the enemy fled to a village and Sergeant Kaufman led a patrol into the town, dispersed them, and burned the buildings. The dauntless courage and resolute, intrepid leadership of Sergeant Kaufman were directly responsible for the success of his company in regaining its positions, reflect distinct credit on himself, and uphold the esteemed traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Master Sergeant Melvin O. Handrich (Service No. RA 36 258 213), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company C, 5th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action on 25 and 26 August 1950, near Sobuk San Mountain, Korea. His company was engaged in repulsing an estimated 150 enemy who were threatening to overrun its position. Near midnight on 25 August, a hostile group over 100 strong attempted to infiltrate the company perimeter. Sergeant Handrich, despite the heavy enemy fire, voluntarily left the comparative safety of the defensive area and moved to a forward position where he could direct mortar and artillery fire upon the advancing enemy. He remained at this post for 8 hours directing fire against the enemy who often approached within 50 feet of his position. Again, on the morning of 26 August, another strong hostile force made an attempt to overrun the company's position. With complete disregard for his safety, Sergeant Handrich rose to his feet and from this exposed position fired his rifle and directed mortar and artillery fire on the attackers. At the peak of this action, he observed elements of his company preparing to withdraw. He perilously made his way across fire-swept terrain to the defense area where, by example and forceful leadership, he reorganized the men to continue the fight. During the action, Sergeant Handrich was severely wounded. Refusing to take cover or be evacuated, he returned to his forward position and continued to direct the company's fire. Later, a determined enemy attack overran Sergeant Handrich's position and he was mortally wounded. When the position was retaken, more than 70 enemy dead were counted in the area he had so intrepidly defended. Sergeant Handrich's sustained personal bravery, consummate courage, and gallant self-sacrifice reflect untold glory on himself and the heroic traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named officer:

Lieutenant Colonel Don C. Faith, Jr., O46673, Infantry, United States Army, commanding 1st Battalion, 32d Infantry Regiment, 7th Infantry Division, distinguished himself conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity in action above and beyond the call of duty in the area of the Chosin Reservoir, vicinity Eagaruri in Northern Korea, during the period 27 November to 1 December 1950. When the enemy launched a fanatical attack against his battalion, Colonel Faith unhesitatingly exposed himself to heavy enemy fire as he moved about directing the action. When the enemy penetrated the positions, Colonel Faith personally led counterattacks to restore the position. During an attack by his battalion to effect a junction with another United States unit, Colonel Faith reconnoitered the route for, and personally directed, the first elements of his command across the ice-covered reservoir, and then directed the movement of his vehicles which were loaded with wounded until all of his command had passed through the enemy fire. Having completed this, he crossed the reservoir. Assuming command of the force his unit had joined, he was given the mission of attacking to join friendly elements to the south. Colonel Faith, although physically exhausted in the bitter cold, organized and launched an attack which was soon stopped by enemy fire. He ran forward under enemy small-arms and automatic-weapons fire, got his men on their feet, and personally led the fire attack as it blasted its way through the enemy ring. As they came to a hairpin curve, enemy fire from a road block again pinned the column down. Colonel Faith organized a group of men and directed their attack on the enemy positions on the right flank. He then placed himself at the head of another group of men and, in the face of direct enemy fire, led an attack on the enemy road block, firing his pistol and throwing grenades. When he had reached a position approximately 30 yards from the road block, he was mortally wounded, but continued to direct the attack until the road block was overrun. Throughout the 5 days of action, Colonel Faith gave no thought to his safety and did not spare himself. His presence each time in the position of greatest danger was an inspiration to his men. Also, the damage he personally inflicted firing from his position at the head of his men was of material assistance on several occasions. Colonel Faith's outstanding gallantry and noble self-sacrifice, above and beyond the call of duty, reflect the highest honor on him and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Army. (This award supersedes the award of the Silver Star (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) to Lieutenant Colonel Faith, for gallantry in action on 27 November 1950, published in General Orders 32, Headquarters X Corps, 23 February 1951.)

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

AWARD OF THE MEDAL OF HONOR

By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of the Congress to the following-named officer:

Captain Reginald B. Desiderio, O1301272, Infantry, United States Army, commanding officer of Company E, 27th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the repeated risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty near Ipsok, Korea, on 27 November 1950. His company was given the mission of defending the command post of a task force against an enemy break-through. After personal reconnaissance during darkness and under intense enemy fire, he placed his men in defensive positions to repel an attack. Early in the action he was wounded but refused evacuation, and despite enemy fire he continued to move among his men, check their positions, and make sure that each element was prepared to receive the next attack. Again wounded, he continued to direct his men. By his inspiring leadership he encouraged them to hold their position. In the subsequent fighting when the fanatical enemy succeeded in penetrating the position, he personally charged them with carbine, rifle, and grenades, and inflicted many casualties until he was mortally wounded. His men, spurred on by his intrepid example, repelled this final attack. Captain Desiderio's heroic leadership, courageous and loyal devotion to duty, and his complete disregard for personal safety reflect the highest honor on him and are in keeping with the esteemed traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.

First Lieutenant Samuel S. Coursen, O59419, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company C, 5th Cavalry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action on 12 October 1950 near Kaesong, Korea. While Company C was attacking Hill 174 under heavy enemy small-arms fire, his platoon received enemy fire from close range. The platoon returned the fire and continued to advance. During this phase, one of his men moved into a well-camouflaged emplacement, which was thought to be unoccupied, and was wounded by enemy who were hidden within the emplacement. Seeing the soldier in difficulty, he rushed to the man's aid and, without regard for his personal safety, engaged the enemy in hand-to-hand combat in an effort to protect his wounded comrade until he himself was killed. When his body was recovered after the battle, seven enemy dead were found in the emplacement. As the result of Lieutenant Coursen's violent struggle, several of the enemies' heads had been crushed with his rifle. His aggressive and intrepid actions saved the life of the wounded man, eliminated the main position of the enemy road block, and greatly inspired the men in his command. Lieutenant Coursen's extraordinary heroism and intrepidity reflect the highest credit on himself and are in keeping with the honored traditions of the military service.

This general order will be read to all troops and will be posted conspicuously on the bulletin boards in each unit area.
