I. GENERAL COURTS MARTIAL.—By direction of the President, the commanding officer, Eastern Pacific Wing, Pacific Division, Air Transport Command, is empowered, pursuant to the eighth article of war, to appoint general courts martial.

[AG 250.4 (9 Dec 46)]

2. So much of section IV, WD General Orders 146, 1946, as pertains to the Missouri Military Academy, is rescinded.

[AG 000.8 (23 Dec 46)]

III. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9896 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following unit in the general orders indicated is confirmed under the provisions of section IV, WD Circular 333, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 1st Battalion, 143d Infantry Regiment, is cited for extraordinary heroism, gallantry, and outstanding achievement in combat from 15 to 17 March 1945 in France. When the forward advance of the assault elements of the 36th Infantry Division and adjacent units were halted, as a result of stubborn enemy resistance, one rifle company and the heavy weapons company of the 1st Battalion executed a bold maneuver and attacked the strongly defended town of Mietesheim, France. After a 2-hour battle, they had secured the town, captured 70, killed and wounded an estimated 30 of the enemy, and destroyed an enemy antitank gun. Then, spearheading the division attack, they drove forward and, although having both flanks completely exposed, attacked in the face of intense enemy machine-gun and mortar fire to smash all enemy resistance and seize a bridgehead over the Falkenstein River. When the determined enemy attempted to overrun and annihilate the elements of the 1st Battalion at the newly seized bridgehead, one company fought tenaciously in the face of severe enemy tank, small-arms, mortar, and hand-grenade fire to hold their positions, while another company fought bitterly to gain contact with the other company and to completely destroy the enemy effort. Having secured the bridgehead, the 1st Battalion continued its attack against the enemy stronghold of Greisbach and, after crossing the flat fields to the front and encountering unusually heavy enemy artillery and machine-gun fire, reached the western edge of town, destroying 2 enemy machine guns and capturing 20 of the enemy. Whereupon the remainder of the 1st Battalion, in a swift and bold attack, advanced forward and seized the southern portion of the village. By bitter house-to-house fighting, the 1st Battalion had cleared the town, captured 100 of the enemy, and killed or wounded 50. Continuing forward, the 1st Battalion advanced swiftly, despite enemy tank, artillery, and small-arms fire, to drive toward Gunstett, the last enemy stronghold before Wissembourg. One company, in a brilliant maneuver, completely overwhelmed a vastly superior enemy force and succeeded in seizing a dominant terrain feature overlooking the town, destroying 1 enemy Mark VI tank, capturing 3 enemy machine guns, and killing and wounding an estimated 30 of the enemy. With both flanks exposed, the 1st Battalion reorganized swiftly and launched its attack. Having no artillery support, units of the 1st Battalion battered strong enemy defenses in Gunstett under intense small-arms and defensive artillery fire, while other elements of the 1st Battalion drove the enemy off the high ground overlooking Gunstett, taking 70 of the enemy as prisoners and killing and wounding 50. After a stubborn house-to-house fight, the 1st Battalion, by late afternoon, had cleared the town, allowing the remainder of the 36th Infantry Division and the armored units to cross the river and continue to the Siegfried Line. As a result of the sustained aggressiveness and determination exhibited by every man, the 1st Battalion, 143d Infantry Regiment, completely crushed all substantial enemy resistance along the division's axis of advance and so thoroughly disorganized the enemy that he was compelled to fall back to the Siegfried Line. (General Orders 403, Headquarters 36th Infantry Division, 15 September 1945.)

[AG 334 (4 Nov 46)]

II. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), citation of the following unit in the general orders indicated is confirmed under the provisions of section IV, WD Circular 333, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 1st Battalion, 141st Infantry Regiment, is cited for heroism, gallantry, and esprit de corps during the period 15–16 August 1944 in France. During the 2 days of this action, the 1st Battalion successfully assaulted the most difficult beach in the 36th Infantry Division sector in a hazardous amphibious operation. Overwhelming the strongly fortified enemy beach defenses, the battalion moved forward rapidly in the face of concentrated machine-gun and mortar fire to seize the high ground dominating the beach. Killing or capturing all Germans in their path, the men of this battalion pressed on to seize immediate objectives with such speed and aggressiveness that the enemy soon became completely disorganized. Then moving east along the coastline, the 1st Battalion assaulted and captured numerous strongly manned German pillboxes, casements, and entrenchments. Capturing over 1,200 prisoners and killing 150 of the enemy, the 1st Battalion, 141st Infantry Regiment seized the bridges on the coastal highway, which were the final objective of this assault, and broke the enemy's power within the sector so effectively that the Germans were never able to reorganize their forces for a counterattack. I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated was awarded posthumously by the Commanding General, European Theater, to the following-named enlisted man:

Private First Class Lawrence D. Henry (Army serial No. 37509165), Cavalry, Army of the United States, a member of Troop B, 3d Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron (Mechanized), distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy at Riol, Germany, on 16 March 1945. His platoon came under artillery and small-arms fire which struck with devastating effect. All five tanks were wrecked, many men were killed and wounded, and the remainder were left under continued enemy fire. To cover the withdrawal of his comrades, Private Henry mounted alone to the deck of a wrecked tank and manned the machine gun alone until killed at his post. His heroic sacrifice, an act of supreme gallantry and in keeping with the highest military traditions, enabled many of his comrades to withdraw.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officer:

Major Floyd M. Paxton, O350372 (then captain), Infantry, Army of the United States, while commanding Company B, 550th Infantry, Airborne Battalion, on 3 and 4 January 1945, displayed extraordinary heroism at Renuumont, Belgium. He directed an attack against the enemy-held town and, in the hard and bitter fighting, killed three enemy snipers. Before he could reorganize his forces in the town, the enemy launched a counterattack with a platoon of tanks and a battalion of infantry. Without antitank weapons, Major Paxton directed artillery fire on the foe by radio and, under the continuous enemy fire, moved from group to group, encouraging the men to fight on as they turned back successive enemy attacks. Wounded by a shell fragment, he refused to be evacuated and when the enemy greatly outnumbered his forces, he spurned demands to surrender, but directed his men in a reply of concentrated artillery and small-arms fire. Finally, with less than 100 effective men on the line, after long facing the enemy's heavy assaults, his unit was without hope of aid or possibility of breaking through the encirclement. Through the courageous example and determined leadership of Major Paaton, his forces inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy and enabled other units to withdraw and consolidate for a later attack.

III. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services in the performance of duties of great responsibility during the period indicated was awarded posthumously by the War Department to the following-named officer.

Without regard for his own safety, he remained at the controls, keeping the airplane level until all the crew members had jumped safely. Captain Dickson lost his life when the airplane crashed. XVII. MEDAL OF FREEDOM.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9586, 6 July 1945 (sec. II, WD Bul. 12, 1945), the Medal of Freedom for meritorious services which aided the United States in the prosecution of a war against an enemy during the periods indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named individuals:

Frederick F. Fennema, American civilian member of Operations Analysis Section, Headquarters Twentieth Air Force, performed meritorious services from December 1944 to September 1945. On the Islands of Guam, Saipan, Tinian, and Iwo Jima and in combat bombing operations over Truk and Nii Shima, he displayed courage and devotion to duty over and above that expected in the performance of his normal duties. Through his thorough knowledge of the airplane, his long hours of effort day after day, and his cheerful persistent preaching and writing the doctrine of scientifically controlled flight plans, he influenced all echelons of the Twentieth Air Force. The resulting reduction in gasoline consumption, increase in bomb load, and reduction in B-29 losses must, in no-small measure, be credited to him. The success of Mr. Fennema's efforts reflected great credit on himself and the military service.

J. Virgil Proctor, American civilian member of Operations Analysis Section, Headquarters Twentieth Air Force, performed meritorious services from January to September 1945. In the Marianas Islands during these months, in which operations expanded tremendously, as a member of the Mission Planning Group, he kept pace with the operations, furnishing recommendations for weapons and force requirements for target after target, day after day. Mr. Proctor introduced a mathematical method of determining the optimum combination of high-explosive and incendiary bombs for a target. He expanded and developed the weapon analysis subsection of the Operations Analysis Section to determine effectiveness of weapons by post-attack analysis of damaged targets. He made important critical analyses of the practice bombing missions of the 509th Composite Group over Japanese targets in preparation for the atomic bomb attacks. Mr. Proctor's diligence and quality of leadership contributed materially to the success of the air war against Japan.

XVIII. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL (OAK-LEAF CLUSTER).—Paragraph 4, section III, WD General Orders 79, 1945, pertaining to Major General Ernest N. Harmon, United States Army, is rescinded.

XIX. MEDAL OF FREEDOM.—So much of section XV, WD General Orders 106, 1946, as pertains to Belle M. Norton, American civilian, as reads Belle M. Norton is amended to read "Nancy Belle Norton."

II. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. II, 1942), the following units are cited by the War Department under the provisions of section IV, WD Circular 333, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

THE 405th INFANTRY REGIMENT and the following supporting units:
1276th Engineer Combat Battalion; COA, 327th Engineer Combat Battalion; Company A, 327th Engineer Combat Battalion; Company B, (less one platoon), 327th Engineer Combat Battalion; Forward Observation Parties, 379th Field Artillery Battalion; Forward Observation Parties Company A, 3d Chemical Mortar Battalion,

are cited for outstanding performance of duty in action on 23 and 24 February 1945, during the crossing of the Roer River at Rurdorf, Germany, and the establishment of a bridgehead in that vicinity. With only two possible crossing sites in the sector, one of which was rendered useless by the destruction of a dam and the resulting inundation of large portions of the river valley, the regiment was forced to cross in column of companies on a one-company front. When leading elements started crossing in assault boats at 0830, 23 February 1945, the enemy reacted quickly and laid down a terrific barrage on the single crossing site. Braving this deadly hail of fire and struggling against the treacherous current of the flooded river, the regiment succeeded in crossing by sheer courage and determination. Despite the loss of men and equipment in the icy waters, units were assembled quickly on the far bank and started for their objectives. Traversing over 2,000 yards of flat, soggy, partially inundated river valley, overrunning and capturing, frequently by hand-to-hand combat, a maze of strongly defended emplacements and trenches, passing through numerous mine fields and barbed wire entanglements, and constantly under direct fire and observation from the escarpment beyond, assault elements succeeded in capturing the town of Tetz and the high ground beyond the river valley. Beating off a strong counter-attack, the regiment continued its attack, driving through the Tetz-Boslar Valley and capturing the town of Boslar and the high ground to the northwest. Unable to proceed beyond Boslar because of withering fire from enemy tanks and infantry on the high ground to the northeast, the regiment dug in, with orders to hold at all costs pending the arrival of tanks, tank destroyers, antitank guns, and other supporting weapons, which had been unable to cross the river. Quickly launching a counterattack against Boslar, the enemy succeeded in penetrating the forward positions, but, after a vicious fight, was forced to withdraw. Later, another attack was launched against Boslar, but was stopped before it reached the town. Still later, a third attack was launched against the same sector, which was led by some 30 tanks and self-propelled guns, followed closely by about 200 infantrymen. Striking with great force, the enemy quickly overran forward positions and penetrated as far as the battalion reserve line. Forward elements and company supports, refusing to yield an inch of ground, allowed themselves to be overrun and then emerged from their positions to engage enemy infantry from the front, flanks, and rear. Fierce fighting raged throughout the town. Calling for artillery fire to be laid on their own positions, the defenders finally succeeded in clearing the town and forcing the enemy to withdraw. The enemy launched four additional attacks against Boslar during the night. Three were thrown back before reaching the town and the fourth, although penetrating it slightly, was finally repulsed by the same relentless, unwavering determination and repeated individual feats of heroism which characterized the entire action. Throughout the remainder of the regimental sector, the enemy launched numerous smaller counterattacks during the night, but all were thrown back with heavy losses. By dawn, all positions were completely restored and intact. Despite continuous and savage fighting without rest or respite for over 27 hours, members of the regiment climaxed a brilliant initial success by jumping off at dawn in continuation of the attack, which never once failed to capture a single objective. The conspicuous gallantry, esprit de corps, indomitable fighting spirit, and determination displayed by the members of the 405th Infantry Regiment and its supporting units are in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Army.

II. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. II, 1942), the following units are cited by the War Department under the provisions of section IV, WD Circular 333, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 3d Battalion, 330th Infantry Regiment, with Company C, 774th Tank Battalion, and Company B, 629th Tank Destroyer Battalion, attached, are cited for outstanding performance of duty in armed conflict with the enemy. On the morning of 10 December 1944, from an assembly area near Grosshau, Germany, the battalion and attached troops attacked with the mission of capturing and securing the town of Strass, Germany, thus permitting the 5th Armored Division a place of debouchment from the Hurtgen Forest in its drive to the Roer River. Taking advantage of darkness, the battalion entered the town of Strass, completely surprising the enemy, but, when the enemy discovered the battalion had entered the town, intense resistance was encountered. The enemy maneuvered its supporting forces until it had sealed off the assault companies by completely surrounding the town. Despite constant artillery, mortar, and machine-gun fire, the 3d Battalion threw back daily counterattacks by numerically superior forces of enemy infantry supported by tanks and assault guns. During the 4-day period, which saw six battalion commanders in command because of wounds or death incurred in action, the battalion displayed its superb fighting spirit by refusing to allow itself to be defeated. Although without food for 3 days and without sufficient medical supplies to treat the ever increasing number of its own and enemy wounded, the battalion never lost its determination to succeed in the face of what appeared to be a desperate and hopeless situation. During this period, the 3d Battalion and attached troops lost 354 men killed, wounded, and missing, while the enemy suffered an estimated 550 casualties. Five enemy tanks were destroyed by our forces during this period. As a result of the outstanding courage and determination to succeed displayed by every fighting man of the 3d Battalion, 330th Infantry Regiment, Company C, 774th Tank Battalion and Company B, 629th Tank Destroyer Battalion, from 10 through 13 December 1944, a strong enemy force was repeatedly driven from the town of Strass, which enabled the 5th Armored Division to execute its drive toward the Roer River and seal off the vitally important Roer River Dam area. The aggressiveness and superb devotion to duty displayed by the 3d Battalion and attached troops against overwhelming odds and under extremely difficult conditions merit much praise and are in keeping with the finest traditions of the armed forces of the United States. (This citation supersedes the citation of the 3d Battalion, 330th Infantry Regiment, as published in General Orders 230, Headquarters 83d Infantry Division,

II. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following unit is cited by the War Department under the provisions of section IV, WD Circular 333, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 417th Regimental Combat Team, consisting of the 417th Infantry Regiment, 901st Field Artillery Battalion; Company C, 301st Engineer Combat Battalion; Company C, 301st Medical Battalion; and Company B, 160th Engineer Combat Battalion, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy from 7 to 12 February 1945 in the vicinity of Echternach, Luxembourg. Members of this combat team led an assault across the swollen Sauer River into one of the deepest portions of the Siegfried Line. The river was at flood stage, the current so swift that attempts by engineers to erect a footbridge proved futile, and the crossing had to be made in assault boats. The alerted enemy covered the area with heavy artillery, mortar, and machine-gun fire. Many of the boats were overturned before reaching the far shore and heavy casualties were suffered. Despite all difficulties, the major portion of the 1st Battalion, 417th Infantry Regiment, succeeded in making the crossing on the first night. Under heavy fire, members of this battalion scaled the muddy, steep, pillbox infested cliffs, whose every approach was heavily sown with mine fields, and succeeded in capturing the high wooded ground near the river bank. Two strong infantry counterattacks, supported by armor, were launched by the enemy, but both were repulsed after bitter encounters. Although this was the combat team's first engagement in combat, the 1st Battalion was the only unit in this vicinity to reach its objective on its initial assault and hold the ground gained. By similar aggressive action, the remainder of the 417th Infantry Regiment made the river crossing on the second and third nights and established contact with the initial force. The swiftly flowing river prevented supplies being crossed by boat and it became necessary to supply isolated groups by air. Despite violent enemy attempts to dislodge it, the combat team held tenaciously to the bridgehead it had wrested within the Siegfried Line and secured a strong foothold, which facilitated the movement of other forces across the river and insured the success of an operation of major importance. In its initial appearance in combat and in the face of conditions which at times appeared prohibitive, the 417th Regimental Combat Team displayed outstanding heroism, determination, and an indomitable fighting spirit, which reflect great credit on all participants and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces of the United States.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officer:

Colonel Wayne L. Johnson, O333366 (then lieutenant colonel), Infantry, Army of the United States, commanding the 1st Battalion, 179th Infantry Regiment, displayed extraordinary heroism in action at Anzio Beachhead, Italy, from 16 to 20 February 1944. His forces were under continual enemy attack and artillery fire, and, on 18 February, when two battalions on his right were depleted in strength and forced to withdraw, he immediately went to the front, steadying the lines there while his battalion organized new positions. Crawling from place to place under the terrific enemy fire, he constantly reorganized the lines and encouraged the men to hold their positions against two more fierce infantry and tank assaults. Enemy shelling continued throughout the next day, and on the following day, believing another enemy attack imminent, Colonel Johnson was again at the front lines when they were subjected to a deadly enemy artillery barrage. Working to secure the defense against the expected attack, he was wounded severely by an exploding shell, but realizing the value of his knowledge of the situation, he continued, disregarding his terrible pain, to direct operations of the battalion until he could personally communicate his information to the regimental commander. Colonel Johnson, by his extraordinary heroism, skillfully secured the defense of his battalion and provided inspiration for his men as they turned back repeated enemy attacks during the critically important operations at Anzio Beachhead. (This award supersedes the award of the Silver Star to Colonel Johnson, for services on 18 February 1944, as published in General Orders 80, 45th Infantry Division, 18 April 1944.)

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services in the performance of duties of great responsibility during the period indicated was awarded posthumously by the War Department to the following-named officer:

Brigadier General Guy O. Fort, O952305, Army of the United States. 8 December 1941 to 10 May 1942.

He successfully proved the ability and usefulness of new instruments of warfare under the most difficult circumstances. Mr. Schrader performed acts of the highest importance to the military forces of the United Nations and to the starving populace of Europe.

ATLANTA GENERAL DEPOT, ATLANTA, GEORGIA—Ordnance and Transportation Sections established.....	I

I. ATLANTA GENERAL DEPOT, ATLANTA, GEORGIA.—Effective as of 1 February 1947, the Ordnance Section, under the jurisdiction of the Chief of Ordnance, and the Transportation Section, under the jurisdiction of the Chief of Transportation, class II activities, are established at the Atlanta General Depot, Atlanta, Georgia.

[AG 323.31 (5 Feb 47)]

II. PERSONNEL CENTER.—Effective 15 February 1947, the War Department Personnel Center, Fort Sheridan, Illinois (exclusive of the Separation Center), is discontinued.

[AG 354.1 (3 Feb 47)]

III. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bull. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bull. II, 1942), the following units are cited by the War Department under the provisions of section IV, WD Circular 333, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 121st Infantry Regiment and the following attached and reinforcing units:

- 1st Battalion, 13th Infantry Regiment;
- Company C, 8th Medical Regiment;
- 12th Engineer Battalion;
- 56th Field Artillery Battalion;
- Company B, 86th Chemical Battalion;
- Company C, 86th Chemical Battalion;
- 644th Tank Destroyer Battalion (less Company B);
- 709th Tank Battalion (less Company C), are cited for extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance of duty in action from 21 to 28 November 1944. During this period, they made a relentless and determined drive to overcome bitter opposition in the Hurtgen Forest and capture the town of Hurtgen, Germany. The bloody and bitterly contested advance, which taxed individual fortitude and stamina to the limit, represented the major offensive effort of the 8th Infantry Division and V Corps in effecting a break-through in this heavily defended sector, in order that further offensive action could be undertaken in the clearing of woods and towns west of the Roer River. Throughout the operation, the progress of the regiment was seriously impeded by an unusual combination of inclement weather and difficult terrain, with continuous rain and damp, penetrating cold constantly endangering the health of all personnel. The terrain was characterized by densely forested hills and deep mud, which retarded all movement of troops and vehicles. Fully aware of his defensive advantages, the enemy had prepared an elaborate system of mutually supporting fortifications, with extensive mine fields and well-placed booby traps claiming a heavy toll during the advance. Enemy artillery and mortar fire was made more effective by frequent tree-bursts in the heavily wooded area. Because of narrow muddy roads and other natural obstacles which prevented the effective employment of motorized support, the burden of assaulting fanatically defended fortifications was left to the determined infantrymen. Yet at no time did the regiment fail to advance, nor did it yield a foot in the numerous counterattacks launched by the enemy. Foot by foot and against great odds, the regiment and its attached and reinforcing units drove the enemy from log bunker and pillbox, passing through concentrations of artillery and mortar fire estimated at 3,500 rounds per day at the height of operations, and finally captured the strategically important town of Hurtgen in fierce house-to-house combat. Under some of the most difficult and hazardous combat conditions experienced during the war in Europe and despite its high casualty rate, the 121st Infantry Regiment and its attached and reinforcing units displayed extremely courageous fighting qualities in attacking a strongly fortified enemy in Hurtgen Forest. This gallant action contributed greatly to the eviction of the enemy from and around the town of Hurtgen, Germany, and later to the complete annihilation of the Germany Army.

I. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated was awarded posthumously by the War Department to the following officer:

Major Albert P. Dewey, O911947, (then captain), Air Corps, Army of the United States, from 20 to 22 August 1944, displayed conspicuous gallantry in action in southern France. Commanding a special mission behind the enemy lines, he and members of his unit, operating among elements of the German forces in the area, captured enemy prisoners and important equipment during sharp local engagements. Making a reconnaissance of the tactical situation, he traveled in a captured German staff car among formations of hostile forces in order to spot and report German columns and formations in movement. Despite the serious danger of discovery and apprehension, he infiltrated and marked German columns and reported locations of ammunition dumps for strafing by Allied aircraft. Through his exceptional leadership and outstanding personal courage, Major Dewey made a notable contribution to the conduct of Allied operations in southern France.

II. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officer and chief warrant officer:

Gordon*, O749689 (then second lieutenant), Air Corps, Army of the United States, a member of the 331st Bombardment Squadron, 94th Bombardment Group, distinguished himself as a pilot on a heavy bombardment mission to Berlin, Germany, on 18 April 1944. During the course of the action, the airplane was severely damaged and set on fire by four successive waves of enemy fighters. Despite the flames which licked about his hands and face, he remained at the controls, holding his aircraft in level flight throughout the enemy attacks, while members of his crew made their escape. Only after the last living member had bailed out did he relinquish the controls and make his escape. The courage, skill, and conspicuous gallantry displayed by Lieutenant Gordon reflect great credit on himself and the armed forces of the United States.

Chief Warrant Officer Charles R. Jackson (212786) (then sergeant major), United States Marine Corps, displayed gallantry in action on 13 April 1942 following a heavy Japanese artillery barrage upon Battery James, Fort Mills, Corregidor, Philippine Islands. When personnel of the battery were trapped as they sought shelter in nearby tunnels, he readily volunteered to rescue his comrades although the position was under close enemy observation and steady fire. Disregarding the imminent danger of collapsing walls and roofs, Warrant Officer Jackson heroically entered the tunnels, assisted in extricating trapped soldiers, and gave first aid to the wounded.

AGO 1926B

Platoon Sergeant Frank W. Constantineau (280721) (then corporal), United States Marine Corps, performed heroic services on 29 April 1942 while attached to Company F, 2d Battalion, 4th Marine Regiment, at Corregidor, Philippine Islands. During a heavy enemy bombardment, he voluntarily left a place of comparative safety to aid the occupants of an ambulance which had been hit in the open by shell fire. Although not a truck driver, Sergeant Constantineau obtained a truck and, at great personal risk, courageously drove the wounded men to the Malinta Tunnel Hospital.

Private First Class Dale D. Coulson (273590), United States Marine Corps, a member of Company M, 3d Battalion, 4th Marine Regiment, displayed heroism on 3 May 1942 in helping to extinguish an ammunition-dump fire at Corregidor, Philippine Islands. Private Coulson's heroic achievement prevented serious damage to beach positions and made the area more tenable for the necessary movement of personnel.

Private First Class Arthur W. Jones (278393), United States Marine Corps, performed heroic services on 20 April 1942 while attached to Company F, 2d Battalion, 4th Marine Regiment, at Corregidor, Philippine Islands. During a heavy enemy bombardment when six men were killed and many wounded, he left a place of comparative safety to administer first aid to his fallen comrades. Following this heroic act, Private Jones voluntarily drove a truck through the artillery fire to take four serious stretcher cases over a mile of open territory to the Malinta Tunnel Hospital.

Sergeant Richard H. Olson (278027) (then private first class), United States Marine Corps, performed heroic services on 29 April 1942 while attached to Company F, 2d Battalion, 4th Marine Regiment, at Corregidor, Philippine Islands. He voluntarily left a place of comparative safety to aid those wounded when an ambulance was hit by an enemy shell in the open during a heavy bombardment. Sergeant Olson then courageously attended the disabled men as they were being transported over open terrain in the face of further enemy fire to the Malinta Tunnel Hospital.

Captain Joseph J. Reardon, O10107 (then first sergeant), United States Marine Corps, displayed heroism in action on 28 March 1942 during an enemy aerial bombardment of the James Ravine Area, Corregidor, Philippine Islands. When one of the beach defenses received a direct hit, Captain Reardon seeing that those injured could not leave the danger area, voluntarily and without regard for his own welfare and with Japanese airplanes still overhead, left his position of safety, assisted in rendering first aid to the wounded, and in removing them to cover.

Lieutenant Colonel William B. Reardon, O277800 (then major), Coast Artillery Corps, Army of the United States, as an officer courier for the Philippine Provisional Coast Artillery Brigade, distinguished himself by heroic achievement on 8-9 April 1942 at Bataan, Philippine Islands. Displaying great courage and outstanding devotion to duty in the face of heavy artillery, aerial bombardment, and strafing attacks, Colonel Reardon performed his duties with high efficiency and assured the prompt delivery of dispatches important to the defense of the Philippine Islands.

Platoon Sergeant Claude E. Simpson (285489) (then corporal), United States Marine Corps, while attached to Headquarters Company, 2d Battalion, 4th Marine Regiment, displayed heroism on 10 April 1942 in extinguishing an ammunition-dump fire at Corregidor, Philippine Islands. Sergeant Simpson's heroic achievement saved an important communications cable and minimized the loss of important ammunition supplies at a very critical period.

Private First Class David R. Spooner (280716), United States Marine Corps, a member of Company M, 3d Battalion, 4th Marine Regiment, displayed heroism on 3 May 1942 in helping to extinguish an ammunition-dump fire on Corregidor, Philippine Islands. Private Spooner's heroic achievement prevented serious damage to beach positions and made the area more tenable for the necessary movement of personnel.

Staff Sergeant Wilber E. Volz (Army serial No. 36448133) (then sergeant), Air Corps, Army of the United States, a member of the 710th Bombardment Squadron, distinguished himself on 27 March 1944. While under constant fire from German shore defenses, when the bomber in which he was a waist gunner crash-landed off shore in the Bay of Biscay, he assisted all other crew members to escape and then administered first aid to the wounded navigator. The courage and unselfish devotion to duty displayed by Sergeant Volz reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Captain William E. Walter, O393366 (then first lieutenant), Signal Corps, Army of the United States, a member of the 12th Signal Company, Philippine Scouts, performed heroism in action at Bataan, Philippine Islands, on 5 and 6 April 1942. When a heavy enemy attack outflanked friendly positions, he personally organized points of resistance, led patrols against Japanese locations, and exposed himself to enemy rifle fire beyond the call of duty. Remaining in rear of withdrawing troops in disregard for his own safety, Captain Walter did much to bolster the morale of his troops and contributed materially to the defense of the area.

III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following unit is cited by the War Department under the provisions of section IV, WD Circular 333, 1943, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 5th Ranger Infantry Battalion is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy in Germany between 23 February and 4 March 1945. The officers and men of the 5th Ranger Infantry Battalion demonstrated steadfast courage, exceptional physical endurance, and an unswerving determination to overcome incalculable odds while executing a battle mission of great consequence to the success of Allied operations in the Saar River area. Effectively utilizing the element of surprise, the battalion infiltrated, under cover of darkness, through the enemy front-line positions and seized ground commanding the main German military supply route west of Zerf. Though strong hostile patrols had repeatedly been encountered and routed during the advance, the enemy, overcoming their initial surprise, unloosed a furious counterattack and pounded the rangers with intense mortar, artillery, and rocket bombardments. Launching two seemingly irresistible drives, one from the south with a strength of 200 men and another from the northeast with 400 men, the fanatical Germans drove forward to the very fox-hole positions of the defenders. The unconquerable troops of the 5th Ranger Infantry Battalion, manning every available weapon, cut down the foe and successfully repulsed both assaults, killing 100, wounding countless others, and capturing 75. Although suffering a 50 percent casualty loss and weakened by depleted ammunition and food supplies, the courageous rangers, after 5 days of fierce fighting, during which time their positions were incessantly shelled and assaulted, once more assumed the offensive. They unhesitatingly advanced through intense fire and seized the terrain key-point south of their former positions. In addition to accomplishing its primary mission, the 5th Ranger Infantry Battalion killed 378 enemy, wounded an estimated 550, captured 562, and destroyed 2 German armored vehicles. The unit's daring thrust through hostile lines and successful seizure of its assigned objective gave impetus to an armored break-through which overran Trier and brought elements of the XX United States Army Corps to the banks of the Rhine River. The matchless bravery, esprit de corps, and combat proficiency of the fighters of the 5th Ranger Infantry Battalion are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

XII. MEDAL OF FREEDOM WITH BRONZE PALM.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9586, 6 July 1945 (sec. II, WD Bul. 12, 1945), the Medal of Freedom with Bronze Palm for meritorious services which aided the United States in the prosecution of a war against an enemy during the periods indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named individuals:

Hassain Naftci, Iranian civilian, as Director General, Iranian State Railways, from January 1943 to May 1945, was responsible for the installations, equipment, and 33,000 employees throughout the railway's 1,400 miles, over which 3,000,000 tons of supplies were shipped to Russia. Although obligated to adhere to Iranian regulations, and under pressure from Americans, British, and Russians alike, Mr. Naftci performed his duties so successfully that the railway's mission was completed with a minimum of friction.

Mohamad Saidi, Iranian civilian, contributed materially to the mission assigned the Military Railway Service as Under Secretary, Iranian Ministry of Roads, from January 1943 to May 1945. He was a member of the Board of Control and for 12 months was acting minister. As a responsible party in the formulation of policies of the railway, Mr. Saidi so successfully sponsored and supported recommendations of the Military Railway Service that none was ever disapproved by the Iranian Government.

Doctor Geroid T. Robinson, American civilian, performed exceptionally meritorious services from December 1942 to May 1943. During this period Doctor Robinson served as chief of the division, Research and Analysis Branch, Office of Strategic Services, in the European Theater of Operations. Directly as a result of his foresight and stimulating and vigorous leadership, there was achieved the first major preparation of objective studies for the purpose of implementing military and strategic planning among the Allies and contributing to their mutual understanding and harmonious relations.

James R. Wilson, American civilian, performed meritorious services in Italy from 12 August 1944 to 12 January 1946. As assistant field director for the American Red Cross and later as field director and liaison representative for Headquarters Mediterranean Theater of Operations, Mr. Wilson directed his energies unceasingly and untiringly in behalf of the thousands of soldiers in Caserta and outlying areas. His genuine interest and sympathy in the homesick and perplexed soldiers with personal troubles at home and his diligence and willingness to render service at all times, as well as his interest in providing dayrooms and procuring supplies for outlying units, proved an unbelievable stimulus for the enlisted men and a great morale-building factor. Mr. Wilson's ability, sound judgment, foresight, tireless energy, and insatiable desire to provide the ultimate in service to all military personnel and his selfless devotion to duty at all times reflect great credit on him and his organization.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated was awarded posthumously by the Commanding General, European Theater, to the following-named enlisted man:

Staff Sergeant Isadore I. Jackman (Army serial No. 13136814), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company B, 513th Parachute Infantry Regiment, on 4 January 1945, displayed extraordinary heroism in action at Flamierge, Belgium. His company was pinned down by enemy artillery, mortar, and small-arms fire, when two enemy tanks then moved up and began firing on the stricken defenders. Sergeant Jackman seized a bazooka from a fallen comrade, crossed open ground through the hail of enemy fire, and stopped squarely in front of the hostile tanks. Holding his exposed position before the vehicles, as enemy bullets now concentrated on him, firing his weapon alone, he damaged one of the tanks, while the other quickly withdrew before his lone assault. By his heroic action, in which he made the supreme sacrifice under the fatal enemy fire, Sergeant Jackman relieved the dangerous plight of his comrades and disrupted the entire enemy counterattack on the company positions.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services in the performance of duties of great responsibility during the period indicated was awarded posthumously by the War Department to the following-named officer:

Colonel Earle L. Johnson, O901581, Air Corps, Army of the United States. April 1942 to 16 February 1947. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit to Colonel Johnson, for services from April 1942 to January 1946, as published in General Orders 12, Headquarters Army Air Forces, 22 January 1946.)

III. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services in the performance of duties of great responsibility during the periods indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officers:

Brigadier General Robert M. Cannon, O16163, United States Army. April 1943 to March 1945. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit to Brigadier General Cannon, for services from 1 April 1943 to 1 July 1944, as published in General Orders 115, Headquarters United States Army Forces, China-Burma-India, 1 September 1944.)

Colonel Frank Dorn, O15278 (then brigadier general), Field Artillery, United States Army. May 1943 to October 1944. (So much of sec. II, WD General Orders 104, 1946, as pertains to the award of the Distinguished-Service Medal to Colonel Dorn, for services from April to October 1944, is rescinded.)

Colonel Ray G. Harris, O11686 (then brigadier general), Air Corps, United States Army. March 1942 to July 1945.

Colonel James H. Stratton, O12656 (then brigadier general), Corps of Engineers, United States Army. November 1943 to March 1945.

IV.—SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated was awarded posthumously by the War Department to the following-named officers and enlisted men:

Staff Sergeant John L. Albers (Army serial No. 32881059), Air Corps, Army of the United States, a member of the 549th Bombardment Squadron, 385th Bombardment Group, distinguished himself by gallantry in action as a tail gunner of a B-17 aircraft on a combat mission to Berlin, Germany, on 6 October 1944. While over the target, Sergeant Albers was seriously wounded when enemy fighters attacked the airplane. Despite his wounds, he remained at his gun and probably destroyed two enemy aircraft. The outstanding courage, determination, and heroic devotion to duty displayed by Sergeant Albers reflect great credit on himself and the armed forces of the United States.

First Sergeant Richard Duncan (163184), United States Marine Corps, displayed gallantry in action on 13 April 1942 following a heavy Japanese artillery barrage upon Battery James, Fort Mills, Corregidor, Philippine Islands. When personnel of the battery were trapped as they sought shelter in nearby tunnels, he readily volunteered, although the position was under close enemy observation and steady fire, to rescue his comrades. Disregarding the imminent danger of collapsing walls and roofs, Sergeant Duncan heroically entered the tunnels, assisted in extricating trapped soldiers, and give first aid to the wounded.

First Lieutenant Harry J. Hogue, O364987, Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company D, Twelfth Quartermaster Regiment, Philippine Scouts, distinguished himself by gallantry in action on 20 March 1942 at Sainsain Point, Bataan, Philippine Islands. During a severe aerial bombardment and strafing attack by enemy aircraft, he voluntarily left a place of comparative safety to conceal equipment which was disclosing the bivouac area to the enemy. The gallant and prompt action displayed by Lieutenant Hogue lessened materially the damage inflicted upon the area and reflects great credit on himself and the military service.

First Lieutenant Michael E. Peshek, O6169, United States Marine Corps, displayed gallantry in action on 13 April 1942 following a heavy Japanese artillery barrage upon Battery James, Fort Mills, Corregidor, Philippine Islands. When personnel of the battery were trapped as they sought shelter in nearby tunnels, he readily volunteered, although the position was under close enemy observation and steady fire, to rescue his comrades. Disregarding the imminent danger of collapsing walls and roofs, Lieutenant Peshek heroically entered the tunnels, assisted in extricating trapped soldiers, and gave first aid to the wounded.

V.—SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officer, enlisted men, and individual :

Staff Sergeant Robert F. Adams (Army serial No. 35318775), Air Corps, Army of the United States, a member of the 336th Bombardment Squadron, distinguished himself by gallantry in action as a waist gunner of a B-17 aircraft on a heavy bombardment mission to Amiens, France, on 30 December 1943. Damaged during the bomb run, the crippled aircraft fell behind formation and was attacked by enemy fighters. During one of the attacks, Sergeant Adams was shot through the stomach by a 20-mm shell and knocked across the airplane. Forcing himself to get up, he went back to his gun and continued firing at the enemy, probably destroying an enemy airplane. The courage and grim determination displayed by Sergeant Adams reflects great credit on himself and the armed forces of the United States.

Major Stockton D. Bruns, O328563 (then captain), Coast Artillery Corps, Army of the United States, commanding Battery I, 59th Coast Artillery, on 12 April 1942, displayed conspicuous gallantry in action at Corregidor, Philippine Islands. He received a call from a battery position informing him that the kitchen had been hit by enemy artillery and that several men were wounded and were lying exposed to the enemy fire. Immediately he organized a party to go to the rescue of the wounded men. In the face of continued enemy shelling, crossing open terrain exposed to the enemy fire, Major Bruns helped place the wounded men on improvised stretchers and directed their return to the comparative safety of Battery Leach.

Staff Sergeant Wendell N. Garden (27875) (then corporal), United States Marine Corps, displayed gallantry in action on 13 April 1942 following a heavy Japanese artillery barrage upon Battery James, Fort Mills, Corregidor, Philippine Islands. When personnel of the battery were trapped as they sought shelter in nearby tunnels, he readily volunteered, although the position was under close enemy observation and steady fire, to rescue his comrades. Disregarding the imminent danger of collapsing walls and roofs, Sergeant Garden heroically entered the tunnels, assisted in extricating trapped soldiers, and gave first aid to the wounded.

Jack T. Nile, as an agent with Strategic Services Section, Headquarters 3d Infantry Division, in action from 27 August to 1 November 1944 during the campaign in France, repeatedly distinguished himself by heroic accomplishments in a series of resourceful and courageous infiltrations of himself and others through enemy lines. The accuracy and volume of intelligence information Mr. Nile obtained through skillful performance of many hazardous missions was of great value in determining the enemy situation and was of material assistance in the rapid advances made by the division.

VI. LEGION OF MERIT (OAK-LEAF CLUSTER).—By direction of the President, in addition to the Legion of Merit awarded to Colonel Benjamin B. Talley, as published in General Orders 78, Headquarters European Theater, 3 August 1944, a bronze Oak-Leaf Cluster for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services during the period indicated was awarded to him by the War Department under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. The citation reads as follows:

Combat Command R, 5th Armored Division, composed of the following units:

Headquarters Reserve Command, 5th Armored Division;

Detachment A, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 3d Armored Group;

10th Tank Battalion;

47th Armored Infantry Battalion;

95th Armored Field Artillery Battalion;

Company C, 387th Antiaircraft (AW) Battalion (SP);

Company C, 75th Medical Battalion (Armored);

Detachment, Company C, 127th Ordnance Maintenance Battalion,

is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action from 29 November to 8 December 1944 in Germany. During the severe battle of the Hurtgen Forest, this combat command played a heroic and highly essential part in the operation aimed at capturing the vital Roer River dams. Combat Command R, 5th Armored Division, spearheaded three important advances during the period, capturing Kleinhau on 29 November, Brandenburg on 3 December, and Bergstein on 5 December. In each instance, the men of Combat Command R, 5th Armored Division, were sent out front to capture the fortified town and hold it until friendly infantry could clear the adjacent woods. Under extremely unfavorable weather conditions and over terrain emphatically not suited to armored action, this command gallantly attacked through deadly mine fields against a determined enemy, well-intrenched, fortified, and supported by intense artillery and mortar fire. In conjunction with friendly infantry on the flanks, Combat Command R, 5th Armored Division, successfully captured the three important towns and cleared a fortified zone of enemy resistance on the Vossenach Ridge. Since Bergstein was most important to the Germans in connection with the defense of the Roer River dams, they defended it bitterly and made fanatic efforts to recapture it, once it had fallen. However, Combat Command R, 5th Armored Division, although reduced to 8 effective tanks and some 20 effective riflemen per company, employed the last available man, and heroically repelled almost continuous combined armored and infantry counterattacks against the heights of Bergstein for a period of 36 hours. In keeping with the highest traditions of the military service, the entire Combat Command R, 5th Armored Division, and attached units, by its undaunted determination, outstanding courage, and grim tenacity, captured and held, against the strongest German resistance, the important heights which dominated the Roer River dams.

V. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. The citation reads as follows:

The 3d Battalion, 28th Infantry Regiment, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy from 1 to 6 December 1944 in Germany. On 1 December 1944, the 3d Battalion, 28th Infantry Regiment, launched an attack in conjunction with other divisional units and advanced steadily against stiff enemy resistance. Two vicious enemy counterattacks failed to halt the battalion's forward movement and, subsequently, the objective was seized. The reserve company, attacked from the rear by strong hostile forces, fought desperately and repulsed the attack, suffering the loss of its commanding officer and an entire platoon. Isolated and cut off from adjacent units, the 3d Battalion, 28th Infantry Regiment, repelled repeated counterattacks for a 2-day period and assisted the advance of friendly units on the flanks with heavy fire. On 4 December, the battalion launched a strong attack in the vicinity of Bergstein. This attack proved to be of material value to friendly armor which captured the town the following day. The 3d Battalion, 28th Infantry Regiment, by expert supporting fires on the right flank, gave very valuable assistance in the capture of Bergstein. One of its companies, which followed the tanks into town, repulsed a severe counterattack on 6 December and inflicted such heavy losses that the enemy fell back in disorder. A fanatic counterattack was launched by the enemy, with innumerable foot troops following closely behind supporting tanks, against the battalion's positions. Courageously, the machine gunners and riflemen held their fire until the hostile force reached a position approximately 25 yards to their front. Devastating artillery, mortar, machine-gun, and small-arms fire was placed upon the enemy, resulting in 150 Germans killed and 35 captured. During the 6-day battle, the 3d Battalion, 28th Infantry Regiment, suffered heavy casualties, but, displaying an indomitable fighting spirit, the officers and men held their ground and killed, wounded, or captured a total of 800 Germans. The extraordinary heroism, tenacity of purpose, and esprit de corps displayed by the personnel of the 3d Battalion, 28th Infantry Regiment, are worthy of the highest praise. (Par. 5, sec. IX, WD General Orders 26, 1945, is rescinded.)

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officer and enlisted man:

Lieutenant Colonel Elliott B. Cheston, O31976, Infantry, United States Army, while commanding the 3d Battalion, 319th Infantry Regiment, 80th Infantry Division, on 6 and 7 September 1944, displayed extraordinary heroism in action in France. During an attack by his battalion on Villey-le-Sec, a concrete fortress topped by a steel revolving turret and defended by many machine guns and one 75-mm gun, he found his troops stopped by a concrete dry moat 12 feet wide and 20 feet deep. From a position on the left flank of his troops he ordered a withdrawal to covered positions and, remaining himself in his advanced position, personally directed machine-gun and artillery fire on the enemy. Without regard for his own safety, he stood erect, drawing the hostile fire on himself to allow his troops to reach safety before he finally withdrew with his command group. The next morning, in a renewed attack supported by tanks, he again advanced with his leading scouts, designated, with tracer bullets, enemy machine-gun emplacements as targets for the tanks, and continued to lead his men in the successful storming of Fort Villey-le-Sec. Colonel Cheston's leadership and heroic actions are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

Technician Fifth Grade Jack L. Evans (Army serial No. 17153073) (then private), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company K, 357th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself on 10 July 1944 by extraordinary heroism in action near Beau Caudrey, France. Although severely wounded, he refused evacuation to remain in defense of his company's hard-pressed position. Under enemy fire, and in complete disregard for his own safety, he crawled between the lines to bring one of his wounded comrades to safety. When a heavy German attack forced his company to withdraw to the next hedgerow, Corporal Evans remained in his forward position and continued to fire on the advancing enemy, even though he was weak from exertion and loss of blood. Feigning death, he succeeded in evading capture and after dark crawled to the protection of his company's new position. The courage, determination, and devotion to duty displayed by Corporal Evans brought great credit on himself, his organization, and his country.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services in the performance of duties of great responsibility during the period indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officer:

IV. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officers:

Captain George W. Everett, O1302286 (then first lieutenant), Infantry, Army of the United States, displayed conspicuous gallantry in action from 15 to 17 April 1945, near Flein, Germany. Seeing a patrol from his company pinned down by heavy enemy automatic and machine-gun fire, he commandeered a medium tank and, with two volunteers, immediately moved to relieve the unit. Standing atop the tank, he directed it over a wide and open field as the hostile fire ricocheted about him, manning the turret machine gun himself and directing operation of the tank cannon. Keeping up his fire as the tank moved between the patrol and the enemy, he diverted the hostile fire. The pinned-down patrol rejoined its platoon and capture of the hill was completed. On 17 April, during a night attack on Gagenberg when stopped by intense enemy fire, he flanked the leading platoon and exhorted his men to action in a bold advance. Overrunning two enemy machine-gun positions and continuing the advance, capture of the town was completed. Captain Everett's personnel courage and leadership reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Lieutenant Colonel Charles B. Hazeltine, Jr., O22896, Cavalry, United States Army, as commanding officer, of the 3d Squadron, 124th Cavalry, on 19-20 January 1945, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the Japanese near Namhpakka, Burma. During the late afternoon of 19 January, leading elements of his squadron gained a foothold on a large hill mass which was the key terrain feature in the tactical plan to cut the Burma Road and deny its use to the enemy. Darkness set in before the hill could be captured and realizing that the Japanese would reinforce the position during the night, he quickly and skillfully organized a night attack and personally led it through heavy enemy artillery, mortar, and small-arms fire to capture the objective. The gallant and courageous leadership displayed by Colonel Hazeltine greatly inspired his troops and contributed directly to the successful accomplishment of the mission.

VII. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following units are cited by the War Department in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 1st and 3d Ranger Battalions, with the following-attached units:

319th Glider Field Artillery Battalion;
Headquarters Battery, 80th Airborne Antiaircraft Battalion;
Battery D, 80th Airborne Antiaircraft Battalion;
Battery E, 80th Airborne Antiaircraft Battalion;
Battery F, 80th Airborne Antiaircraft Battalion;
Medical Detachment, 80th Airborne Antiaircraft Battalion;
Company H, 504th Parachute Infantry Regiment;
2d Platoon, Company A, 307th Airborne Engineer Battalion,

are cited for outstanding performance of duty in action during the period 10 to 18 September 1943. These units, comprising a single ranger force, landed at Maori, Italy, with the mission of seizing the high ground controlling Chiunzi Pass and of securing the left flank of the Fifth Army in its push northward into the plain of Naples. The position held by this force was vital not only for flank security, but also for observation of the plain and of the German supply routes and communications lines to the Salerno battlefield. During this period, the ranger force was subjected to almost continuous mortar and artillery fire and was repeatedly attacked by a determined enemy. Hostile forces were estimated to outnumber the rangers and attached units by approximately eight to one, but despite superior enemy numbers, the ranger force heroically fought off every attempt to dislodge it. Because of its limited strength and the large area assigned to it for defense, the force held the line thinly, marked by strong points with gaps covered by fire. Seven major counterattacks were repelled during the period and numerous enemy patrols were stopped, often in bitter, close-in fighting, with the ranger force using its mortars, artillery, automatic weapons, and grenades with devastating effect. The officers and men of these units fought without rest or relief and with limited food and water supplies. The continuous nature of the enemy fire and activity was such as to try the men to the limit of their endurance. Although overwhelming enemy forces drove almost constantly at the sparsely held positions, the determination and courage of the members of the 1st and 3d Ranger Battalions and their attached units offset the enemy superiority in numbers and made possible the successful accomplishment of a vital mission. (So much of par. 1, sec. XII, WD General Orders 36, 1944, as pertains to the citations of the 1st Ranger Battalion and the 3d Ranger Battalion, is rescinded.)

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officer:

Captain Edward J. Downs, O1061038, Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the 3d Battalion, 28th Infantry Regiment, displayed extraordinary heroism on 14 April 1945 at Schwelm, Germany. Leading his platoon in an attack against heavy enemy opposition, he spotted a group of Germans, armed with bazookas, entering a house just as the battalion tanks were starting down the street. Knowing that the enemy would easily be able to knock out the tanks, block the road, and delay the attack, he immediately began to warn the tank operators. Moving forward quickly through the hostile fire to the lead tank and exposing himself to the heavy enemy fire now concentrated on him, he successfully warned the tankmen of the trap. Severely wounded by an enemy shell during this heroic action, in which he helped the lead tank to spot and destroy the house harboring the enemy, Captain Downs prevented the loss of any tanks in the column and enabled the battalion to proceed to its important attack objective.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS (OAK-LEAF CLUSTER).—By direction of the President, in addition to the Distinguished-Service Cross awarded to Lieutenant Colonel Elton W. Ringsak, as published in General Orders 71, Headquarters Fifth Army, 30 September, 1943, a bronze Oak-Leaf Cluster for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated was awarded to him by the War Department under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918). The citation is as follows:

Lieutenant Colonel Elton W. Ringsak, O21409, Infantry, United States Army, while commanding officer, 2d Battalion, 6th Armored Infantry Regiment, on 4 January 1944, displayed outstanding gallantry and heroic leadership while participating in combat against the enemy in the vicinity of Mount Porchia, Italy. When his battalion was pinned down as a result of accurate enemy fire, he personally visited the units of his command, inspiring the officers and leaders, reorganizing the battalion, and directing their operations to a successful conclusion. Painfully wounded, he refused to be evacuated and conducted the reorganizing of the battalion until the objective was reached. While directing the preparation for the defense, Colonel Ringsak was gravely wounded, as a result of enemy artillery, and evacuated. By his gallant leadership and heroic disregard for danger, Colonel Ringsak was a source of inspiration to the officers and men of his battalion and his personal conduct of the operations assured the success of the attack.

III. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services in the performance of duties of great responsibility during the periods indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officers:

Major General William C. Chase, O4739, United States Army. February 1945 to March 1946.

Colonel Rea V. D. Corput, Jr., O12700, Signal Corps, United States Army. September 1944 to December 1946. (This award supersedes the awards of the Bronze Star Medal, for services from 20 September 1944 to 25 January 1945, and a bronze Oak-Leaf Cluster to the Legion of Merit, for services from 27 January to 30 September 1945, to Colonel Corput, as published in General Orders 15, Headquarters Eighth Army, 16 February 1945, and General Orders 69, Headquarters United States Army Forces, Pacific, 23 February 1946, respectively.)

IV. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated was awarded posthumously by the War Department to the following-named officer:

Captain Clinton W. McKinley, O377719, Infantry, Army of the United States, while commanding Company A, 1st Battalion, 45th Infantry, Philippine Scouts, on 10 February 1942, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the enemy on Bataan, Philippine Islands. During a coordinated attack against a strong Japanese force, he skillfully directed a flanking maneuver and personally led a platoon of the company through intense mortar and machine-gun fire to capture the enemy strong point which had been holding up the attack. By his courageous action and inspiring leadership under fire, Captain McKinley upheld the highest traditions of the service and brought great credit to himself and the armed forces of the United States.

V. SILVER STAR.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officer and enlisted men:

Corporal Harrison L. Avery (Army serial No. 19030274) (then private), Coast Artillery Corps, Army of the United States, on 21 March 1942, displayed conspicuous gallantry at Fort Frank, Philippine Islands. When an enemy shell, penetrating a lateral tunnel, exploded inside causing many severe casualties, he immediately went to the aid of the wounded. During the continuous enemy shelling, he entered the tunnel, carefully moved the wounded to more comfortable places, administered first aid, and carried food and water to the victims, doing everything possible to alleviate their distress. By his calm and courageous acts, Corporal Avery displayed soldierly conduct which reflects great credit on himself and the military service.

Sergeant Mario A. Jurisprudencia (O66249) (then private), Philippine Army, displayed gallantry in action at Bataan, Philippine Islands, on 21 January 1942. During a critical period of operations, the enemy made a deep penetration of the front of the 71st Division, Philippine Army, cutting lines of communications. Sergeant Jurisprudencia, a telephone operator, headquarters 71st Field Artillery, volunteered to take a vitally important message from the division artillery commander to a regimental commander, although the mission necessitated his crossing hostile lines. He skillfully completed his dangerous task despite the gravest danger. By his unflinching devotion to duty, Sergeant Jurisprudencia contributed in noteworthy degree to the courageous tradition of the defenders of Bataan.

Staff Sergeant Robert G. Quinn (Army serial No. 35631761), Infantry, Army of the United States, a mortar squad leader in Company H, 422d Infantry Regiment, 160th Infantry Division, on 19 December 1944, displayed conspicuous gallantry in action near Schonberg, Belgium. Under direct enemy artillery, small-arms, and automatic fire, he directed mortar fire on enemy forces and heavy weapons located directly across the valley. From the bare, forward slope of the hill, a position without cover or concealment of any kind, he continued to direct damaging fire on the enemy until, hit directly, his weapon was destroyed. Despite his severe wound caused by the enemy shell, Sergeant Quinn, then helping to organize remnants of several units into new fighting groups, demonstrated courage and determination in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

Second Lieutenant Jack W. Stallings, Jr., O1341374 (then sergeant), Infantry, Army of the United States, 1st Company, 1st Regiment, 1st Special Service Force, on 23 May 1944, displayed gallantry in action against the enemy near Littoria, Italy. When three members of his unit were seriously wounded while disarming enemy mines during the drive out of the Anzio Beachhead, he immediately entered the mine field and, while under enemy small-arms and sniper fire, rendered first aid to the wounded. He disarmed a number of mines which facilitated evacuation of the wounded and, although painfully wounded himself, refused to be evacuated and continued in the attack. The courageous actions and devotion to duty displayed by Lieutenant Stallings reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated was awarded by the Commanding General, European Theater, to the following-named enlisted man:

Corporal Lawrence W. Post (Army serial No. 36810792) (then private first class), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of a machine-gun squad in Company H, 422d Infantry Regiment, 106th Infantry Division, displayed conspicuous gallantry in action on 19 December 1944, near Schonberg, Belgium. Under direct enemy artillery, small-arms, and automatic fire, he manned his machine gun, directing fire on the enemy forces to the front. From the bare, forward slope of the hill, a position without cover or concealment of any kind, he continued firing his weapon until out of ammunition and seriously wounded. He then helped destroy the gun before it fell into enemy hands. Corporal Post's courage and leadership are in keeping with highest traditions of the military service.

VI. LEGION OF MERIT.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named officer:

Major Philip B. Larimore, O511609 (then first lieutenant), Infantry, Army of the United States, commanding Company L, 30th Infantry Regiment, on 8 April 1945, displayed extraordinary heroism in action near Rottershausen, Germany. Leading his company's attack, he miraculously eluded the hail of enemy bullets concentrated on him and, in hand-to-hand fighting of which he was the center, killed a German officer at point-blank range. With the unit objective taken, he sent out a patrol. Learning soon after that it was surrounded by enemy forces, he determined to go to its relief. As he ran toward a tank in which to move up, enemy snipers opened fire, but leaping on the back of the vehicle, he ordered it forward and manned the turret machine gun. Firing into the woods and killing several of the enemy, he drew hostile fire on himself as his patrol used the diversion to withdraw. Moving across a clearing with the tank, firing and being fired on all the way, he was struck on the helmet by a sniper bullet and momentarily stunned. Leaping from the tank, he was again hit by enemy fire and severely wounded. Major Larimore, by his heroic leadership and courageous action in diverting the enemy, delivered his comrades from encirclement and greatly aided in securing the battalion objective. (This award supersedes the award of the Silver Star (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) to Major Larimore, for services during the same period, as published in General Orders 168, Headquarters 3d Infantry Division, 20 May 1945.)

By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) is awarded to Brigadier General Marshall S. Carter, O18359 (then colonel), United States Army, for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility from 20 March 1946 to 21 January 1947.

By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) is awarded to Major General Ernest N. Harmon, O5282, United States Army, for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility from 10 January 1946 to 30 April 1947.

7. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) is awarded to Major General Bryant E. Moore, O8633, United States Army, for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility from 22 February to 8 May 1945. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) to Major General Moore, for services from 25 February to 11 May 1945, as published in General Orders 236, United States Forces, European Theater, 10 September 1945.)

III. SILVER STAR.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated was awarded by the War Department to the following-named enlisted man:

Technical Sergeant Arnold W. Almond (Army Serial No. 7086652) (then staff sergeant), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company H, 422d Infantry Regiment, 106th Infantry Division, from 16 to 19 December 1944, displayed conspicuous gallantry in action near Schonberg, Belgium. In an outpost, as observer with the mortar platoon when the German offensive was launched, under great danger from the enemy at close range, he called for and directed mortar fire almost on his own position, delaying and helping to repel a strong enemy attack. On 19 December, under direct enemy artillery, small-arms, and automatic fire, he displayed further courage and leadership in action. On the bare forward slope of the hill, a position without cover or concealment of any kind, he encouraged and directed his squads and, in several heroic actions, demonstrated outstanding courage in the face of the enemy. Sergeant Almond's leadership and heroic efforts are in keeping with highest traditions of the military service.

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated was awarded by the Commander in Chief, European Company, to the following-named officer:

Lieutenant Colonel Marion W. Schewe, O29749, General Staff Corps, (Infantry), United States Army, while serving with the 225th Infantry Regiment, displayed conspicuous gallantry in action near Bliesbenschrook, France, on 12 February 1945. While Colonel Schewe was supervising the reorganization of Company C, 255th Infantry Regiment, the Germans launched an attack with artillery and mortar preparation. Disregarding his own personal safety, he quickly reorganized the members of Company C for defense and, in the absence of an artillery observer, crawled forward to an advanced observation post and adjusted fire on the advancing Germans. As the result of Colonel Schewe's prompt action and personal example, this attack was repulsed when it had advanced to within a few yards of the position.

The 112th Infantry Regimental Combat Team, consisting of the 112th Infantry Regiment with the 229th Field Artillery Battalion, Company C, 103d Engineer

AGO 75B—July 750702*—47

Battalion, Battery C, 447th Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion, and Company C, 630th Tank Destroyer Battalion attached, is cited for extraordinary heroism, efficiency, and achievement in action against the enemy during the Battle of the Ardennes from 16 to 24 December 1944. On 16 December 1944 the 112th Infantry Regimental Combat Team from Lutz Kampen, Germany, to Leller, Luxembourg, was holding six and one half miles of the front line sector assigned to the 28th Infantry Division. During the period 16 to 18 December 1944, despite repeated enemy infantry and tank attacks involving the elements of nine enemy divisions, the 112th Infantry Regimental Combat Team held its ground. In this period it inflicted estimated casualties on the enemy of 1600, including over 200 prisoners taken and successfully evacuated. All elements of the 112th Infantry Regimental Combat Team were involved in this action. The 229th Field Artillery Battalion was engaged in direct fire on the enemy at a range of 150 yards. The Cannon Company of the 112th Infantry Regiment and Company C, 630th Tank Destroyer Battalion, by direct fire, succeeded in disabling 18 enemy tanks. Company C, 103d Engineer Battalion together with the 2d Battalion, 112th Infantry Regiment, repeatedly counter-attacked enemy penetrations. The Headquarters, Headquarters Company, and Service Company manned the lines and drove off by fire a number of groups of the enemy which had infiltrated into the rear areas. The kitchens, being overrun on night of 16-17 December 1944, the kitchen personnel fought with rifles to recover the positions. All this was done under withering small-arms and artillery fire from enemy positions throughout the entire front. On the night of 17-18 December 1944 under orders from higher headquarters, the 112th Infantry Regimental Combat Team was withdrawn to the high ground west of the Our River. This withdrawal was accomplished successfully in spite of strong enemy infiltrations throughout the entire sector. From 18 until 23 December 1944, the 112th Infantry Regimental Combat Team was continually engaged in rear guard action covering the withdrawal of the right flank of the First American Army. On the night of 23-24 December 1944 the action of 112th Infantry Regimental Combat Team was especially notable. Being ordered by higher headquarters to act as a covering force for units withdrawing to the American lines it held its position under furious enemy infantry and tank attacks until the Regimental Headquarters and 1st Battalion, 112th Infantry were surrounded. The 1st Battalion then fought its way clear to friendly lines bringing with it a number of vehicles and personnel of other units. The gallantry under extremely hazardous and physically trying conditions, the stubborn defense of the sectors assigned them, and the heroic conduct of all personnel of the 112th Infantry Regimental Combat Team, in 9 days of continuous fighting, exemplify the highest traditions of the armed forces of the United States.

II, 1942), the following units are cited by the War Department under the provisions of AR 260-15, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 6th Armored Infantry Regiment, with Company A, 16th Armored Engineer Battalion, attached, are cited for extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy at Mt. Porchia, Italy, from 31 December 1943 to 12 January 1944. This regiment was assigned the mission of seizing and holding Mt. Porchia, a key outlying stronghold before Cassino. The position's obvious tactical value made a stubborn enemy defense a foregone conclusion. Preliminary reconnaissance was meager since the enemy was particularly sensitive to any activity in the area; however, at 2000 hours on 4 January, the regiment attacked. Enemy resistance exceeded expectations, and from H-hour until 0600 hours on 8 January, two powerful forces exchanged murderous blows. By sheer determination, refusing to stop at anything less than complete possession of the objective, the 6th Armored Infantry Regiment, with Company A, 16th Armored Engineer Battalion, attacked, drove back the enemy and held the bitterly won ground. This action adds further laurels to a distinguished infantry regiment and reflects great credit on the United States Army.

The 1st Battalion, 180th Infantry Regiment, is cited for extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance of duty in crossing the Mortagne River near Fremifontaine, France, between 15 and 25 October 1944. This battalion, heavily engaged during this period, encountered small-arms, mortar, tank, and artillery fire from a strongly defending and heavily entrenched enemy. Although worn by more than 8 weeks' continuous operation, in which it had advanced more than 400 miles, and suffering from exposure to cold and rain, the battalion attacked boldly and aggressively under enemy observation and intense fire and forced a crossing over the icy, deep, and swift Mortagne River. Despite heavy casualties, unfavorable weather conditions, and strong enemy resistance, the battalion attained the objective, secured the position, and successfully repulsed determined enemy counterattacks, thereby facilitating the main attack of the VI Corps in the direction of Beria-St. Die. The individual courage, high combat efficiency, and performance of duty of each officer and men of the 1st Battalion, 180th Infantry Regiment, in these hazardous operations are in the highest traditions of the United States Army and reflect great credit on themselves and the armed forces of the United States.

2. Company B, 11th Armored Infantry Battalion, is cited for exceptional heroism in action, during the period 29 October to 3 November 1944, near Palazzo, Italy. Having previously gained new positions atop Hill 721, Torre de Nerone, Italy, Company B successfully repelled six strong enemy counterattacks. During the first of these attacks, the enemy in battalion strength succeeded in almost completely surrounding the company command post, with enemy infantrymen penetrating to within 10 yards. Fighting aggressively and with grim determination, the officers and men of Company B gradually forced the enemy back down the steep slopes of Torre de Nerone, inflicting heavy casualties. The enemy attacked Hill 721 four more times during this period in approximate company strength, but because of the instantaneous and vigorous reaction on the part of the riflemen and machine gunners of Company B, and the closely knit defensive barrage, the enemy infantry did not penetrate the company's lines. On 3 November 1944, the enemy instituted a final effort to retake Torre de Nerone. The attack was accompanied by a 2-hour and 35-minute preparatory artillery and mortar barrage. When the barrage lifted and enemy infantry moved in to occupy the positions, they found a small band of officers and men, who in close combat forced them down the steep slopes for the last time. Company B suffered 79 casualties during the 5-day siege and inflicted an estimated 200 casualties on the enemy. The successfully heroic action displayed by Company B, 11th Armored Infantry Battalion, against a stronger and determined enemy force exemplifies the highest type of courage, leadership, and esprit de corps, and is in keeping with the finest traditions of the Army of the United States.

Company K and the 2d Platoon, Company M, 7th Infantry Regiment, are cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy on 29 February and 1 March 1944 in the vicinity of Ponte Rollo, on the Anzio Beachhead, Italy. Under pressure of a savagely prosecuted attack by numerically superior forces, which forced back adjacent elements, Company K held its ground. The initial hostile attack in the night by infantry and tanks was dispersed by the combined arms of the company, as were subsequent attacks the next day. Enemy forces succeeding in infiltrating into the company's position were destroyed or captured by company headquarters personnel. During this action, enemy losses were 35 prisoners of war, an estimated 300 wounded, and 3 enemy tanks disabled. In refusing to give ground, even when forward elements were overrun, Company K and the 2d Platoon, Company M, 7th Infantry Regiment, showed true courage and determination worthy of the finest traditions of the military service.

During an attack by units of the 57th Infantry Regiment at Longos, Kawayan Point, Bataan, he served with outstanding courage and resourcefulness in leading his squad against the enemy. Bravely moving forward despite the fire superiority of the foe, he threw numerous hand grenades with telling effect. When a Japanese machine gun began to cause severe casualties, he gallantly moved toward it and threw a grenade which completely wiped out the enemy gun crew. By his exemplary conduct and unfaltering devotion to duty, Technician Balmediano made a noteworthy contribution to the intrepid stand of the 57th Infantry Regiment on Bataan.

During intensive counterbattery shelling, reaching an ambulance sitting in an exposed position, he personally drove it through the barrage of enemy shells for use in evacuating patients. The citation reads as follows:

The 6th Armored Infantry Regiment, with Company A, 16th Armored Engineer Battalion, attached, is cited for extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy at Mt. Prochia, Italy, from 31 December 1943 to 12 January 1944. This regiment was assigned the mission of seizing and holding Mt. Prochia, a key outlying stronghold before Cassino. The position's obvious tactical value made a stubborn enemy defense a foregone conclusion. Preliminary reconnaissance was meager, since the enemy was particularly sensitive to any activity in the area; however, at 2000 hours on 4 January, the regiment attacked. Enemy resistance exceeded expectations, and from H-hour until 0600 hours on 8 January, two powerful forces exchanged murderous blows. By sheer determination, refusing to stop at anything less than complete possession of the objective, the 6th Armored Infantry Regiment, with Company A, 16th Armored Engineer Battalion, attached, drove back the enemy and held the bitterly won ground. This action adds further laurels to a distinguished infantry regiment and reflects great credit on the United States Army.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded posthumously by the War Department to the following-named officer:

First Lieutenant Harry B. Colburn, O534287, Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company E, 10th Infantry Regiment, on 8 February 1945, displayed extraordinary heroism in action near Weilerbach, Germany, while leading an assault platoon to spearhead a regimental attack on the Siegfried Line. Under enemy machine-gun and artillery fire which blanketed the area, he successfully held his platoon together as it made a rubber-boat crossing of the swollen Sauer River. Organizing his defense on the other side, he saw enemy machine-gun fire, from a pillbox on his flank, inflict heavy losses on the platoon following his across the river. Immediately he determined to neutralize the enemy strong point and was joined by several volunteers for the attack. Running across wide-open terrain in the face of withering machine-gun fire, he and several of the men gained positions near the pillbox. While two men covered him with rifle fire he suddenly rushed the door, forcing the enemy back into an inner room. With a demolition charge, he started through the opening, but as he entered, the hidden enemy again opened fire, mortally wounding him. Lieutenant Colburn, by his fearless charge, enabled the men to surround the pillbox and force its surrender. Through his supreme sacrifice, he enabled the other elements of the regiment to cross the river and enlarge the important bridgehead.

V.—SOLDIER'S MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 2 July 1926 (WD Bul. 8, 1926), the Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded by the War Department to the following-named officer and enlisted men:

Technical Sergeant William E. Branaman (Army serial No. 19078048), Cavalry, Army of the United States, a member of Headquarters Troop, 2d Constabulary Regiment, on 11 March 1947, distinguished himself by heroism in the railroad yard at Freising, Germany. While engaged in supervising the unloading of a tank car of gasoline, a fire suddenly broke out in the pump, exploding some nearby containers and scattering fire to within 2 feet of the open manhole on top of the tank car. With complete disregard for his own safety, Sergeant Branaman grasped a fire extinguisher, climbed to the top of the car, grabbed the blazing hose with his bare hands, painfully burning himself, and cast it away from the car. By his courageous action at the risk of his life, Sergeant Branaman brought great credit to himself and the military service.

Captain Harold H. Macurdy, O673400, Air Corps, Army of the United States, a member of the 36th Fighter Group, on 12 March 1947, displayed heroism at Borinquen Field Beach, Puerto Rico, where he and several other men were swimming. An officer, carried out to sea by the very strong undertow, became weak and called for help. Captain Macurdy, swimming through the treacherous waters with several of the others, finally reached the stricken man. By sheer courage and strength, he alone was able to stay with the officer and, unable to buck the undertow, swam parallel to the shore to prevent the two from being carried out to sea. Finally, seeing boulders that extended into the water, he successfully propelled to the protection of the rocks. Exhausted by the extent of his physical efforts, Captain Macurdy, in saving his comrade, demonstrated courage that reflects great credit on himself and the military service.

Technician Fifth Grade Robert D. Newcomb (Army serial No. RA44117427), Field Artillery, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroism at Sendai Municipal Airport, Honshu, Japan, on 8 January 1947. During a jump operation, the parachute of a participant failed to open and he fell into the parachute of Technician Newcomb, causing the canopy to temporarily collapse. With full knowledge that his life was in danger, Technician Newcomb fearlessly grasped the suspension lines of the parachute of the falling man with his hands. When he could no longer hold the additional weight, he resourcefully wrapped the suspension lines and canopy about his legs and both men descended safely to the ground. Through his quick thinking, heroic action, and complete disregard for personal safety, Technician Newcomb saved his comrade from certain death and upheld the finest traditions of the military service.

Company, 423d Infantry Regiment on 16 and 17 December 1944, distinguished himself by heroic achievement. As driver in a rations convoy that was fired upon by German infantry as it drew near Auw, Belgium, Sergeant Decker ran to a nearby farmhouse and with small-arms fire helped to beat off repeated assaults by enemy infantry until the position was attacked by four German tanks. Breaking away from this overwhelming attack, he returned with one other man to St. Vith, where they again obtained trucks, loaded them with rations, secured armored escort, and set out over a different route. The convoy was attacked by German armor and the trucks lost, but Sergeant Decker and his companion successfully returned to St. Vith and, further demonstrating outstanding courage and determination, loaded trucks with rations to attempt again to reach the regimental position.

Major Ace E. Faulkner, OS08907 (then captain), Corps of Engineers, Army of the United States, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in connection with military operations against the enemy on Luzon, Philippine Islands, from 17 to 21 January 1942. While serving with the 14th Engineer Battalion, Philippine Division, in the vicinity of Abucay Hacienda, Bataan, he displayed outstanding courage and initiative in voluntarily and alone reconnoitering an area in which the enemy had forced a gap between the Philippine Division and the 41st Division. Despite heavy aerial bombardment and artillery fire, Major Faulkner courageously made contact with two isolated regiments and gained information of importance to the combat operations.

Master Sergeant John L. Hall (Army serial No. 12003780), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the Service Company, 423d Infantry Regiment, on 16 and 17 December 1944, distinguished himself by heroic achievement. In charge of a rations convoy that was fired upon by German infantry as it drew near Auw, Belgium, Sergeant Hall ran to a nearby farmhouse, set up a machine gun, and beat off repeated assaults by enemy infantry until his position was attacked by four German tanks. Breaking away from this overwhelming attack, he returned with one other man to St. Vith, where he again obtained trucks, loaded them with rations, secured armored escort on his own initiative, and set out over a different route. The convoy was attacked by German armor and the trucks lost, but Sergeant Hall and his companion successfully returned to St. Vith and, further demonstrating outstanding courage and determination, loaded trucks with rations to attempt to again reach the regimental position.

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. Corporal Millard F. Grandstaff (Army serial No. 35762069) (then private), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the Medical Detachment, 411th Infantry Regiment, performed heroic service in France. He crossed more than a mile of open terrain under direct enemy mortar, artillery, and sniper fire to evacuate a seriously wounded man. Crawling the last 200 yards through a dense mine field, he found the soldier in a critical condition and, after giving him first aid, helped to return the man across the open terrain under continuous enemy fire to the forward aid station. Corporal Grandstaff's courageous action and devotion to a wounded comrade reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

II. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following units are cited by the War Department under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 2d Battalion, 328th Infantry Regiment; Company C (less one platoon), 735th Tank Battalion; one section, Company A, 101st Engineer Combat Battalion; one section, Battery C, 390th Antiaircraft Artillery (AW) Battalion; and one platoon, Company A, 818th Tank Destroyer Battalion (SP), all comprising Task Force Hamilton of the 26th Infantry Division, are cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy on 23, 24, and 25 December 1944, in Luxembourg. The force was assigned the mission of taking the strongly held town of Eschdorf, Luxembourg, the possession of which was vital to further operations into the northern portion of Luxembourg. Moving out of Arsdorf in a motorized column, personnel of the force detrucked when met with direct, hostile tank fire and engaged in a marching fire fight. They moved steadily forward through a screen of machine-gun and artillery fire, destroying five enemy tanks and knocking out two others. On the following day, with aggressive bazooka teams leading the way, the 2d Battalion, 328th Infantry Regiment, and other units of the force accounted for five more enemy tanks and advanced to within 800 yards of the objective. On the dark morning of 25 December, with two tank-supported rifle companies spearheading, a surprise attack was launched on the town and, despite a hail of hostile fire, the assault elements fought their way to the edge of the town. At daylight, the enemy counterattacked heavily and virtually cut off the two leading companies. Although hostile tanks prowled through the town, firing point-blank into buildings held by the rifle companies of the 2d Battalion, and infiltrating bands of enemy foot troops used flame throwers, grenades, and automatic weapons in an effort to dislodge the two units, the heroic troops stubbornly held their positions from 0730 until 1800, inflicting heavy casualties among the enemy grenadiers and tank crews. Meanwhile, one other company had engaged the enemy and prevented the foe from completely surrounding the units in Eschdorf. Although in the 72-hour offensive the 2d Battalion, 328th Infantry Regiment, was reduced in strength by 30 percent, the personnel of the gallant task force fought through cold and snow with such courage and aggressiveness that the foe was driven from the town and the important objective taken, insuring the division's subsequent successful assault of the Sure River. In this combat operation, the men of the units making up Task Force Hamilton, through their extraordinary heroism, bold courage, and fighting determination, reflected the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

III. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of War, under the provisions of paragraph 14, AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following unit of the Army of the United States for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services during the period indicated. The citation reads as follows:

The Medical Laboratory, Army Ground Forces, Pacific (formerly the 18th Medical General Laboratory and the 6279th Middle Pacific Medical General Laboratory), is commended for outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks on the Island of Oahu from 1 January 1945 to 15 September 1946. Assigned the mission of a general medical laboratory for the Middle Pacific Area, personnel of this organization diligently and skillfully performed their duties. Regardless of detrimental personnel losses, a high standard of scientific research and accomplishments was maintained. Personnel of this organization at all times maintained high standards of efficiency, discipline, military courtesy, and fidelity. Through the outstanding manner of performance of the Medical Laboratory, Army Ground Forces, Pacific, benefits of great value accrued to the Middle Pacific Area, the Medical Department of the Army of the United States, and the field of medical science.

V. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following unit is cited by the War Department under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 1st Battalion, 28th Infantry Regiment, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy on 26 and 27 July 1944 in Normandy, France. The battalion played an aggressive and important role in the spearhead operation of the corps attacking in the western sector during the break-out west of St. Lo. Although it was at once opposed by heavy machine-gun fire and extensive mine fields on the first day of the attack, the battalion utilized its skill and courage to the utmost and advanced successfully to its objectives. By dawn of the second day, substantial gains had been made and held against furious counterattacks launched against the flanks of the battalion. Halting only long enough to allow a flank unit to come abreast, the battalion resumed the attack and drove stubbornly on to accomplish its mission of opening a vital gap in the enemy lines. In 2 days of combat, this fighting unit advanced 5,000 meters through strongly organized positions, spearheading a regimental attack that created a penetration through which all, or elements of, three infantry divisions and one armored division passed to initiate the rout of the Germans toward Coutances and Avaranches. The heroic action of the 1st Battalion 28th Infantry Regiment, is worthy of the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

VI. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of War, under the provisions of paragraph 14, AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following unit of the Army of the United States for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services during the period indicated. The citation reads as follows:

The 1639th Engineer Utilities Detachment is commended for superior performance of duty in Japan from 1 February to 15 September 1946. Although hampered by shortage of materials and a continuous turn-over of personnel, the unit accomplished difficult missions such as the installation of a 500-bed hospital laundry, installation of boilers and heating system in a group of 13 buildings, installation of an air conditioning system, modern sewage system, and renovation of a large theater at Zama, Japan. Despite many difficulties, the unit cheerfully accepted all assignments and maintained a high quality of workmanship. The excellent performance of the 1639th Engineer Utilities Detachment was due to exceptional esprit de corps and devotion to duty and has reflected much credit on the Army of the United States.

III. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. (11, 1942), the following unit is cited by the War Department under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 60th Field Artillery Battalion, with the 60th Infantry Cannon Company attached, is cited for conspicuous gallantry and heroism in battle on 21, 22, and 23 February 1943, in repelling an attack by vastly superior forces which were attempting to break through the Allied lines in the vicinity of Thala, Tunisia. The 60th Field Artillery Battalion with the 60th Infantry Cannon Company attached, completed a 100-hour forced march from Tlemcen, Algeria, in bitter weather, over tortuous and almost impassable mountain roads, a total distance of 735 miles, on the night of 21 February 1943. Without prior reconnaissance and adequate maps, under enemy fire, and maneuvering through a congested single, narrow road, the battalion immediately occupied battle positions, set up communications, established emergency observation posts, and was ready to deliver fire by daylight. Although enemy forces were established only 2,500 yards from battery positions, and there were but three platoons of friendly infantry in front of the artillery, its units maintained constant and steady fire on repeated enemy tank thrusts with such deadly effect as to disrupt them and beat them back. The cool and determined manner in which the 60th Field Artillery Battalion, with the 60th Infantry Cannon Company attached, entered into battle, after the accomplishment of an almost incredible forced march and despite the lack of reconnaissance and visibility, contributed in no small measure to the defeat of the enemy's attempt to break through the Thala defile. This gallant entry into battle and heroism with which fire was maintained, despite terrific enemy fire, are in keeping with the highest traditions of the American military service.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Colonel Loren G. Windom, O275591 (then lieutenant colonel), Infantry, Army of the United States, executive officer of the 145th Infantry Regiment, on 23 and 24 February 1945, displayed extraordinary heroism in action at Intramuros, Manila, Philippine Islands, where a portion of the south wall was held by a strong Japanese force that had stood under repeated battalion attacks. Under enemy rifle, machine-gun, and mortar fire, he worked forward by quick rushes over the rubble and debris and reached a position from which he observed the enemy only 15 yards away. From the exposed position under the continuing enemy fire, Colonel Windom formulated a plan of attack against the wall, then, creeping among the debris, dashed to another wall and climbed up the rubble to the top. Running along to a point directly above the Japanese-held passages, he observed the placements and formulated a plan of attack against the south bastion. Retracing the fire-swept route, he returned to the regimental command post and arranged for supporting fire and a smoke screen. Again going forward, Colonel Windom assumed personal command of the forces attacking under his plan and, again scaling the south wall under continuing enemy fire, directed the successful attack against the strongly entrenched enemy force. Through his gallantry and brilliant leadership, Colonel Windom was an inspiration to his troops and upheld the finest traditions of the military service.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Colonel William S. Biddle, O15180, Cavalry, United States Army. 15 September 1944 to 8 May 1945. (This award supersedes the awards of a Bronze Star Medal (first Oak-Leaf Cluster), for service from 8 to 30 November 1944, a Bronze Star Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for service from 23 to 28 February 1945, and a Bronze Star Medal (third Oak-Leaf Cluster), for service from 3 to 30 April 1945, to Colonel Biddle, as published in General Orders 64, Headquarters XIII Corps, 30 November 1944, General Orders 47, Headquarters 30th Infantry Division, 1 March 1945, and General Orders 83, Headquarters 83d Infantry Division, 30 April 1945, respectively.)

Major General Russell P. Hartle, O2914, United States Army. April 1942 to March 1943.

Colonel Wallace W. Millard, O7613, Air Corps, United States Army. August 1944 to December 1945.

III.—SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer:

Captain Noel C. Castle, United States Marine Corps, displayed gallantry in action at Corregidor, Philippine Islands, on 5-6 May 1942. As commander of Company D, Fourth Marines, Captain Castle was supervising the reinstallation of damaged beach defense weapons in the east sector, Corregidor, at the time when the Japanese launched their landing attack against the island. During the intense bombardment supporting the attack, Captain Castle, by his example of personal bravery and outstanding leadership, encouraged his men to resist to the utmost against overwhelming odds, with the result that a larger number of casualties were inflicted on the enemy. When the crew of a machine gun, which had been firing against the advancing enemy, was so reduced by casualties as to be unable to continue to man its gun, Captain Castle personally manned the gun and continued firing until he was killed.

IV.—SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), a Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted man:

Second Lieutenant Vincente A. Hormillosa (O22217), Philippine Army, exhibited gallantry in action at Bataan, Philippine Islands, on 21 January 1942. During a critical period of operations, the enemy made a deep penetration of the front of the 71st Division, Philippine Army, cutting lines of communication. Lieutenant Hormillosa, a member of the Division Artillery Section, 1st Regular Division, Philippine Army, volunteered to take a vitally important message from the division artillery commander to a regimental commander, although the mission necessitated his crossing hostile lines. He skillfully completed his dangerous task despite the gravest danger. By his gallant performance of duty, Lieutenant Hormillosa contributed in noteworthy degree to the courageous tradition of the defenders of Bataan.

First Lieutenant Edmund W. Hughes, O1319112, Infantry, Army of the United States, a platoon leader in Company G, 116th Infantry Regiment, 29th Infantry Division, displayed gallantry in action against the enemy on 27 February 1945 in the vicinity of Hockenukirchen, Germany. During an attack on this village, Company G was halted temporarily by enemy fire. Lieutenant Hughes, disregarding his personal safety while others were seeking cover, stayed on his feet and inspired his men to continue their attack. His unstinting devotion to duty, gallant action, and enthusiasm inspired the men of his battalion to rush into battle and take this village with a minimum of casualties. Lieutenant Hughes' actions are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

Sergeant José Salindong (then private first class), Philippine Army, displayed gallantry in action at Mount Natib, Barrio Guitol, Balanga, Bataan, Philippine Islands, on or about 16 January 1942. He courageously volunteered to join a patrol on a mission to locate and destroy artillery and ammunition dumps of an enemy column which had been inflicting heavy casualties upon the reserve divisions of the I Philippine Corps. He displayed exceptional daring and resourcefulness in participating in the attacks against the objective, which was successfully destroyed. Through his valiant actions and devotion to duty, Sergeant Salindong made a noteworthy contribution to the heroic defense of Bataan.

V. LEGION OF MERIT.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. BRANCH UNITED STATES DISCIPLINARY BARRACKS—Fort Hancock, New Jersey, established; Green Haven, New York, discontinued.....	Section I
BATTLE HONORS—Citation of unit.....	II

I. BRANCH UNITED STATES DISCIPLINARY BARRACKS.—1. Effective as of 1 October 1947, the Branch United States Disciplinary Barracks was established as a class I activity at Fort Hancock, New Jersey.

2. Effective 31 December 1947, the Branch United States Disciplinary Barracks, Green Haven, New York, will be discontinued.

II. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following unit is cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 363d Infantry Regiment is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action from 12 to 19 September 1944 in the assault upon the German Gothic Line near Monticelli, Italy. Chosen to make the main effort to penetrate the Gothic Line in the area of Il Giogo Pass, in order that the divisions of the American II Corps could debouch into the Po Valley and outflank the vaunted Futa Pass positions along the Florence-Bologna highway, the 363d Infantry Regiment stormed the bastion of Monticelli. The strongly prepared defenses on this rocky, rugged, and steep mountain feature guarding the pass were manned by the elite German 4th Paratroop Division. Supported by air bombing and intense artillery concentrations, two battalions struck initially without dislodging the enemy from their deeply dug, fortified positions. Small units began the slow, tedious process of working around one enemy position after another to gain a foothold. The 1st Battalion made the initial penetration and held out against strong counterattacks. Despite the fanatical defense, the enemy was driven back as elements of the division maintained constant pressure and cracked one strong point after another. With all battalions in the line, the 363d Infantry Regiment withstood the intense enemy fires and counterattacks. As the mountain mass of Monticelli fell to the 363d Infantry Regiment and the companion Mt. Altuzzo capitulated to units of a neighboring regiment, all enemy resistance in this portion of the Gothic Line collapsed and the road to the north was open. In gaining the vital objective, the 363d Infantry Regiment displayed heroism, endurance, and teamwork in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States. (This citation supersedes the citation of the 3d Battalion, 363d Infantry Regiment, as published in General Orders 89, Headquarters Fifth Army, 10 July 1945, as approved by the Commanding General, United States Army Forces, Mediterranean Theater. Par. 3, WD General Orders 123, 1945, pertaining to the citation of the 3d Battalion, 363d Infantry Regiment, is rescinded.)

III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following unit is cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The 338th Infantry Regiment, 85th Infantry Division, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy from 13 to 18 September 1944 in overcoming the German defenses on Mount Altuzzo, the key point of the Gothic Line in the division sector. Spearheading the penetration of this formidable barrier, the 338th Infantry Regiment waged a bitter hill-to-hill struggle against an enemy stubbornly defending and counterattacking again and again. This hard-fought, grim, and bloody operation, culminating in capture of Mount Altuzzo, and the stern determination of the 338th Infantry Regiment to hold this objective against powerful and fanatical counterattacks were outstanding contributions to the break-through of the Gothic Line, setting the stage for the final defeat of the Axis forces in Italy. By its actions in gaining its vital objective against the bitterly resisting enemy, the 338th Infantry Regiment, 85th Infantry Division, displayed heroism, determination, and teamwork in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States. (This citation supersedes the citation of Company B, 338th Infantry, as published in General Orders 24, Headquarters Fifth Army, 7 March 1945, as approved by the Commanding General, Mediterranean Theater of Operations. Par. 3, sec. IX, WD General Orders 26, 1945, pertaining to the citation of Company B, 338th Infantry, and par. 15, WD General Orders 68, 1945, pertaining to the citation of Company C, 338th Infantry Regiment, are rescinded.)

II. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Major Lester I. Fox, O368002 (then captain), Medical Corps, Army of the United States, on 24 April 1942, displayed gallantry in action at Corregidor, Philippine Islands, during an enemy artillery bombardment of Battery Crockett, where he operated a battalion first-aid station. When a shell crashed through the hoist room wall, setting fire to bedding and equipment and injuring several men, he left his station to aid the wounded. At the same time, assuming command of the battery, Major Fox organized the able-bodied men to beat back the flames which dangerously threatened the powder rooms. Two more shells burst within the battery, wounding most of the remaining men and severely injuring him; and destroying his medical kit. Doggedly, he dragged himself about, helping the injured and trying to smother with a blanket the fires raging nearest the powder room doors, when another shell burst and further injured him. Through his outstanding courage and determination, as seen by a rescue detail who later entered to find him semiconscious and still by the doors to the powder room, Major Fox did much to prevent a terrible explosion and loss of life in the battery emplacement.

Accompanying a patrol into enemy territory, where they encountered strong enemy resistance and withering fire which inflicted heavy casualties, he worked to reorganize elements of the patrol. Under fire of an enemy counterattack supported by tanks, artillery, and heavy mortars, he, with a medical corpsman, reconnoitered a route for casualty evacuation, then led a medical section through an exposed area to an aid station. Later, driving through enemy territory in 2 jeeps to get 12 very seriously wounded men to medical care, Lieutenant Long and the soldier encountered heavy German automatic small-arms fire. Boldly breaking out and relying on speed and evasion, they daringly passed an alerted German outpost. Suddenly a barrage of enemy mortar fire bracketed the vehicle, fragments punctured a tire, and, unable to drive on, the group was overtaken by the enemy patrol and captured. Lieutenant Long, in his determination to aid the casualties, demonstrated outstanding initiative and personal courage that reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

INDUSTRIAL MOBILIZATION PLANNING FIELD UNIT—Established..... I
BATTLE HONORS—Citation of units..... II

I..INDUSTRIAL MOBILIZATION PLANNING FIELD UNIT.—Effective as of 1 November 1947, the Industrial Mobilization Planning Field Unit was established at the Columbus General Distribution Depot, United States Army, Ohio, as a class II activity under the control of the Chief of Transportation.

[AG 323.31 (13 Nov 47)]

II..BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following units are cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 2d Battalion, 119th Infantry Regiment, and the following- attached units:

Company A, 66th Armored Regiment;

2d Platoon, Antitank Company, 119th Infantry Regiment.

are cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy on 2 and 3 April 1945 in the vicinity of Pivitschied, Germany. Fatigued from previous action and badly in need of rest, late on 2 April the battalion launched a night attack up the steep and wooded slope of Teutoberger Wald, a formidable natural barrier, to seize and secure a pass through the enemy held obstacle and permit passage of elements of the 2d Armored Division in its drive to the Elbe River. The attack was launched in a cold, driving rain against a well-equipped and stubborn enemy force fighting from a cleverly prepared defensive position. After bitter hand-to-hand fighting accompanied by intense enemy fire, the battalion seized a position on the crest of the ridge and there turned back repeated counterattacks by the determined enemy. On 3 April, the battalion launched a combined infantry-tank attack, and, penetrating the final positions, inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy and seized a town on the enemy-held side of the ridge. In this heroic action, which contributed greatly to the subsequent rapid advance to the Elbe River, the men of the 2d Battalion, 119th Infantry Regiment, and attached units, distinguished themselves by outstanding aggressiveness, determination, and indomitable courage in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

BATTLE HONORS—Citation of unit..... Section I
UNITS CREDITED WITH ASSAULT LANDINGS—General Orders 70, War Department, 1945, and General Orders 109, War Department, 1946, amended..... II

I. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following unit is cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 3d Battalion, 28th Infantry Regiment, is cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy in crossing the Roer River and seizing a position in the vicinity of Stockheim, Germany, on 23 and 24 February 1945. This battalion, having accomplished the difficult crossing prior to other elements of its corps, and having suffered heavy casualties from enemy fire, in addition to personnel and individual weapons lost when several assault boats overturned in the torrential stream, attacked and seized an enemy-held trench system near the bank of the river. An immediate distribution of captured arms and ammunition was made to all unarmed personnel. The battalion, without hesitation, continued the attack through wooded areas containing enemy-held trenches and emplacements and on to the dominant terrain northwest of Stockheim, where a perimeter defensive position was organized. On 24 February, completely isolated and surrounded, this unit repelled six determined counterattacks by superior forces, which included tanks and self-propelled guns supported by intense artillery and mortar fire. Heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy. On being reached and relieved by other elements of the regiment, the determined battalion seized and secured three other enemy-held towns in rapid succession, further securing the exposed right flank of the division and corps and contributing directly to the rapid advance to the east of other attacking troops. Throughout this heroic action, the men of the 3d Battalion, 28th Infantry Regiment, distinguished themselves by great determination, outstanding aggressiveness, high combat efficiency, and indomitable courage in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

Placed under the command of General JUIN, Chief of the French Army Detachment, at the beginning of the Tunisian Campaign in 1943, distinguished itself in the Ouseltia valley, supporting effectively the French 19th A. An elite unit which landed on the beach of Colleville, 6 June 1944, in spite of stubborn resistance of the coastal fortifications and of the enemy reinforcements. In the afternoon of the same day it seized the crest overhanging the beach and, pushing toward the interior, occupied strategic positions in spite of the furious German counterattacks. In spite of its heavy losses, it succeeded in establishing and consolidating a strong bridgehead, thus contributing to the decisive victory of Normandy.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 1395, 20 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

From 3 to 5 September 1944, the Division and the attached units in the area of Mons, under heavy pressure, destroyed an enemy pocket, including approximately 9,000 men of the 348th Infantry Division of the 18th German Air Army, and of the 6th Parachute Division. During this operation, the 1st Infantry Division of the United States Army and the attached units, after valiant efforts, captured more than 5,000 prisoners, killed or wounded 4,000 enemy soldiers and captured or destroyed more than 1,500 vehicles and 40 tanks. The Division also took the Commanding Officer of the 6th German Airborne Division, prisoner.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 1395, 20 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The Division fought against the enemy in the northern flank of the German counteroffensive in the Ardennes in the area of Eupen-Malmedy. These counterattacks were launched by the enemy on 28 and 30 December 1944, but they were repulsed after heavy combat. This action prevented the expansion of the critical break-through. Independently of the strenuous defense, a strong base was established that later formed the pivot of attacks against western penetrations of the enemy. After the enemy counterattacks were efficiently stopped, the 1st Infantry Division of the U. S. Army and the attached units pushed forward to reduce the pockets and throw the enemy out of Belgian territory.

2D ARMORED DIVISION

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 514, 22 May 1945, as amended by Decree No. 3864, 28 April 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

On 2 September 1944, at 0930, its reconnaissance elements crossed the Belgian border near Rume. These were the first American troops to enter Belgium and this marked the beginning of the liberation of the country. The Division fought violently and threw back the enemy on the Albert Canal. This Division liberated the towns of Tournai, Wavre, Tirlemont and Hasselt.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 514, 22 May 1945, as amended by Decree No. 3864, 28 April 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

During the German offensive in the Ardennes, in December 1944, the 2d Armored Division was located in Germany, on the banks of the Roer River between Linnich and Julich. On 21 December 1944, it received orders to proceed to the region of Havelange, Avin Clavier. This movement of more than 100 miles was accomplished in less than 24 hours and on 23 December 1944, the Division established contact with hostile forces at Celles. From the 23d to the 28th of December 1944, violent engagements developed in the Celles salient and brought about the total destruction of the spearhead division of the Fifth Panzer Army. This victory blocked the German advance and prevented it from reaching the Meuse. From thence on, the Division pushed back the enemy forces and, after having retaken many communities of the Ardennes region, it liberated the town of Houffalize.

BELGIAN FOURRAGERIE (1940), awarded under Decree No. 514, 22 May 1945, as amended by Decree No. 3864, 28 April 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER STAR, awarded under Decision No. 246, 15 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

41st Armd Inf Regiment, 2d Bn

A unit inspired by the highest sentiments of duty. On 8 August 1944, it was charged with destroying a bridge 5 kms. back of the enemy lines, in the region of Lonlay l'Abbaye. It accomplished its mission with the most absolute contempt for danger. Finding the bridge occupied, the 2d Platoon attacked and accomplished its task under enemy fire, evincing the finest qualities of bravery and army discipline.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER-GILT STAR, awarded under Decision No. 247, 15 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation :

This magnificent Battalion is animated by the greatest sacrificial spirit. During a long offensive, which lasted from 14 to 28 November 1944 and which was to lead the 2d Armored Division from the Puffendorf to the Roer, they courageously attacked a powerful antitank pit, heavily mined and protected by heavy artillery. In spite of serious losses, they crossed the pit and followed up their initial success by seizing Ederman, Mertzzenhausen and Barmen, thus permitting the 2d Armored Division to attain its objectives.

41st Armd Inf Regiment, Co H

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER STAR, awarded under Decision No. 246, 15 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation :

A fine unit inspired by the best qualities of courage and combativeness. It was particularly outstanding during the period from 8 to 14 August 1944, during the combat in the neighborhood of Mortain. Isolated and lacking supplies, it gallantly supported numerous counterattacks and took by storm positions of vitally strategic importance:

41st Armd Inf Regiment, Co I

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation :

A fine combat unit, spirited and animated by exceptional courage. It distinguished itself particularly during the operation in Normandy, near Grimesnil, on 29 and 30 July 1944. Its mission was to capture a road by which the German forces were withdrawing. It withstood, without weakening, the attack of an enemy column of 2,500 men and 90 vehicles, during more than 6 hours of fierce hand-to-hand fighting. In spite of the enemy numerical superiority of 4 to 1, it destroyed this enemy force, killing 450 men and taking 900 prisoners. This brilliant action contributed to the annihilation of the enemy forces in Normandy and success of the Allied landing.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent unit, very combative and possessive to the highest degree, the qualities of fighters. It distinguished itself by its series of bold actions from 20 July to 12 August 1944, in the region of St. Lo. It overcame successively strong resistance at Willebaudon, Tessy-Sur-Vire and Gathemo, taking many prisoners and destroying a considerable amount of war material. This unit aided in securing, in a brilliant manner, the success of the Allied landing.

2D INFANTRY DIVISION

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 2509, 17 June 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

During the period 13 to 19 December 1944, the 2d Infantry Division with attached units received the order to cease its participation in the great attack in which it was completely engaged. It was ordered then to play the principal part in the constitution of the "North Shoulder" of the Ardennes. This was accomplished by resistance, as a stone wall, the enemy attack, in a way to limit and check it and to give our forces the time and the opportunity to organize the struggle against the German plan. Its operation led to an absolute success under the most difficult conditions of pressure and climate.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 2509, 17 June 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

During the period of 19 to 30 December 1944, the 2d Infantry Division with attached units engaged the enemy with success and occupied the position of the Elsenborn crest, from which it was never removed. In this position, it formed the angle of the "North Shoulder" of the Ardennes. All this was accomplished with a tactical cleverness so remarkable, with constant courage from all the noncommissioned officers, and such a power of resolution and judgment from the command that the operation of the Division became a force stimulating the confidence of higher echelons.

In spite of the strenuous return fire of the enemy, it seized the peninsula of Daoulas, the support of Plougastel, and plunged into Brest next, driving from it a strong force that defended itself by fighting street by street, house by house.

3D ARMORED DIVISION

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

This is a magnificent Divisional Headquarters which showed an exceptional combat spirit. Setting up its "Command Posts" very close to the line of fire, it came into contact several times in the course of rapid Allied advance from the Seine to the Siegfried Line, with German elements and engaged them in battle. They threw back the enemy, liberating several towns and villages, namely: Quincy, Brye-Comte Robert, Mangy le Hongre, Levignan and Villers Cotteret. At Mons, in Belgium, the Headquarters of the 3d Armored Division bore, for 36 hours, the brunt of the attack of the elements of the Seventh German Army in retreat, and in spite of these attacks, it succeeded in holding them in, taking numerous prisoners and destroying a large amount of matériel.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 1330, 7 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

Operating from 3 to 13 September 1944, under orders of the VII U. S. Army Corps, it constituted the advance guard of the Infantry advance in Belgium. Crossing the border in the surrounding of Mons, this Division and the attached units cleared the way through the center of Belgium to the German border, overcoming the strong enemy resistance. It forced the enemy to fall back to the Siegfried Line. These operations permitted the liberation of Mons, Charleroi, Namur, Huy, Liege, Verviers, Limbourg, and Eupen.

From 20 to 25 December 1944, the Division and the attached units effectively resisted the enemy in the course of the first phase of the Ardennes offensive. From 26 December 1944 and during all the month of January 1945, these units were broken up into task forces and attached to the infantry divisions. They fought obstinately, cleared roads,

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 508, 15 March 1945, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation :

An elite Division which has remained faithful to the traditions of courage and sacrifice which it had already made during the last war, when it won the nickname "Rock of the Marne." Under the vigorous impetus of an energetic chief and skilled maneuverer, General O'Daniel, it fought without interruption for 169 days, from the Mediterranean beaches to the banks of the Rhine. Placed under the command of the Commanding General of the 1st French Army, for the operations of the Alsace pocket, it contributed greatly, by the power of its repeated attacks, to the victorious battle of Colmar. During the night of January 23 to 24, 1945, it succeeded in crossing, by surprise, the Focht and Ill and in taking the first enemy position, in spite of a violent snowstorm and a field of action sown with obstacles. Allowing the adversary no respite and pushing its action harder and harder, it crossed the Colmar Canal in order to circle and conquer by sheer fighting, the city of Neuf-Brisach, thereby cutting one of the two remaining routes of retreat left to the German troops still defending the Colmar region. It captured during these actions, more than 4,000 prisoners thus concluding brilliantly the series of glorious operations which took place from the Mediterranean to the Rhine.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 270, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent unit possessing the highest military virtues. During the furious combat of 27 to 30 July 1944, the unit broke the German defense and captured Coutance, then the key position of Avranches. Immediately exploiting the break-through by a maneuver of great boldness, it plunged into the break in the enemy's rear lines. In less than 10 days, the unit decisively overcame the German counterattacks, freed Rennes, Vannes, and Nantes and confined the enemy to Lorient. Continuing its advance on a 300-kilometer front, it reached the Loire and seized Nantes on 11 August 1944. Its crushing action largely contributed to the success of the campaign in France.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 271, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent unit, inspired by savage energy, which has already established its reputation in Normandy. From 12 to 29 September 1944, preceding the advance of the Third Army across the Moselle, it seized several key positions and inflicted extensive losses on the enemy. By its bold and aggressive action, the unit contributed in a large measure to the success of the Allied Armies, which drove the enemy out of France.

9TH INFANTRY DIVISION

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 1391, 20 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

Operating under the command of the VII U. S. Army Corps, the 9th Infantry Division of the United States, and attached units, crossed the Belgian border and during the period from 3 to 13 September 1944, defeated the German Army in a decisive manner, in the sector of Florennes-Namur-Dinant-Givet, liberating all the Belgian territory included in this zone. During that time also, the passage of the Meuse was forced at Dinant and they advanced on the Huy-Theux axis. The division and attached units then pushed back the enemy beyond the German border to within the Seigfried fortifications.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 1391, 20 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

From 20 December 1944 to 26 January 1945, in the course of the German offensive in the Ardennes, the 9th Infantry Division of the United States and the attached units received the mission to defend the north flank of the counter-offensive led by the V Corps of the United States Army in the sector of Eupen (Belgium)-Montjoie (Germany). Facing an obstinate defense, it attacked without respite. The enemy counterattacked but was unable to enlarge the breach caused by its break-through. After the enemy attack was unsuccessful, the 9th Infantry Division and the attached units attacked and forced the German Army to retreat and abandon the Belgian Territory in that region.

BELGIAN FOURRAGERE (1940), awarded under Decree No. 1391, 20 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom.

Nehou. Attacked by elements of the 7th German Division, it heroically withstood the impact of an enemy which was very keen and greatly superior in numbers. In spite of an intense fire, it immediately countered with all its resources and succeeded in throwing back the enemy beyond the Seve, thus permitting the 9th U. S. Infantry Division to take possession of St. Christophe du Foc.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent battalion which engaged in the battle of Normandy, previously cited for its action on 18 June 1944. During the days from 6 to 9 August 1944, in the region of Cherence Le Roussel, it was attacked and encircled by a greatly superior force that was resolved to conquer at any cost. It inflicted heavy losses on the enemy in combat which involved hand-to-hand fighting. It forced the enemy to withdraw beyond the Mortain-Avranches road, leaving 10 tanks on the terrain.

39th Inf Regiment, 3d Bn

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A battalion animated by remarkable combat spirit and dash. It rushed into the battle of Normandy and distinguished itself particularly on 13 and 14 June 1944, during the capture of Quineville by attacking a solidly fortified enemy. By a bold maneuver, it rushed without hesitation into a mined terrain. After a quick artillery barrage, it surprised the enemy, inflicted serious losses, and took 336 prisoners. With its offensive spirit, it contributed effective aid in an operation decisive for the success of the Allied landing.

47th Inf Regiment

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent unit which played an important part in the capture of Cherbourg. Thrown into the battle at the most critical moment, it carried on offensive combat against a powerfully organized enemy from 20 June to 1 July 1944. After having mopped up the coast west of Cotentin, it reached, on 24 June, the outer defenses of Cherbourg, occupied Fort Equeredeville on 25 June, then, exploiting its success, liberated the towns of Orville, La Hague, Greville, and Grouchy, after violent combat. In spite of heavy losses, it entered Cherbourg after having captured more than 3,000 prisoners, 40 antiaircraft guns and a large amount of matériel. It thus demonstrated the highest military qualities and contributed, with exemplary bravery, to the outcome of the battles which liberated France.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A battalion of remarkable dash and combat spirit. It was engaged from 24 to 28 November 1944, in the region of the Roer, after having mopped up Northberg, and defeated the principal line of enemy resistance. Exploiting its initial success it continued its attacks, without letting up, under a murderous mortar barrage, in the direction of Hucheln which was captured by stubborn house-by-house fighting. Stopped at the Chateau of Freuzenberg by an enemy greatly superior in numbers, it nevertheless continued its attacks in the face of a very heavy artillery barrage and succeeded in winning the positions. Due to magnificent courage and high conception of duty, it captured more than 450 prisoners in 5 days of deadly combat, destroyed almost three enemy battalions and captured a large amount of matériel. It contributed to the defeat of the enemy in a particularly difficult action.

60th Inf Regiment

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent unit which is skilled in maneuvers. It was engaged in the operations of Cotenin from 11 to 18 June 1944. It accomplished magnificently the mission that had been assigned to it. After having taken possession of Orglandes, it crossed the Douve at St. Columbe, then Valdecie and captured the neighboring heights. In 5 days of uninterrupted fighting, it attacked a powerfully organized enemy filled with the resolve to conquer. It thus contributed in a great measure to the fall of Barneville.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 2509, 17 June 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The 26th Infantry Division of the United States Army, operating in the 3d U. S. Army, crossed the Belgian border in the neighborhood of Arlon and Bastogne between 20 December 1944 and 26 January 1945, during the German offensive of the Ardennes. In spite of the tenacity of the enemy defense and the difficulties of the ground, in order to diminish the pressure made by the enemy forces on the vital center of communications of Bastogne, the division attacked with success. It then continued its attack and forced the German forces to withdraw from Belgian soil in that sector.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 1286, 3 November 1945, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A valiant regiment, already cited during the war of 1914-18. It was the decisive element in the attack launched by the 26th Infantry Division from 8 November to 11 December 1944, in Lorraine. During a night attack on 8 November 1944, the 104th Infantry Regiment broke through a long line of resistance toward Vic-Sur-Seille. Regardless of enemy reinforcements, it took Benestroff on 19 November 1944. The next day after heavy fighting, it took Hill 334, a heavy point in the enemy system of defense, and forced them to evacuate this strong line of defense. It took Guebling, Schwiex, and several fortified positions on 24 November 1944, after crossing several mine fields. On 8 December 1944, it broke a working system of the Maginot Line by taking Kalhausen, liberating the last French piece of ground occupied by the enemy in that sector. The 104th Infantry Regiment inflicted heavy losses on the enemy during these actions, including 1,428 prisoners, more than 3,000 wounded and about 700 dead.

Rudder, it participated from 28 January 1945 onward, in close collaboration with the French armored formations in the operations of the siege of Colmar. During all the time of the hard engagements against a tenacious enemy, its efforts and sacrifices contributed in a great measure to the success of the maneuver which was to end 2 February 1945, in the capture of Colmar, and spared the city of the consequences of street fighting. It fought side by side with the French units, and demonstrated a comradeship in all instances which gave the best example of fellowship in arms and community ideals.

The division and its attached units pushed back the violent and repeated attacks of the enemy and prevented the continuation of the breakthrough in the direction of Spa and Liege, the conquering of which would have

An elite unit which, from its landing in the south of France, did not cease to give proof of the highest combat valor and of the finest offensive spirit. It particularly distinguished itself from 24 November to 2 December 1944 in the Vosges, where it contributed in a decisive fashion to the victory in Alsace. Executing a daring maneuver, it seized by surprise attack, the pass and town of Sainte-Marie-aux-Mines, in spite of a very difficult terrain and the savage resistance of the enemy. Following up immediately, it occupied Ste.-Croix-aux-Mines, Rombac-Le-Franc, and Haut-Koenigsburg, broke into the place of Alsace and seized Selestat 2 December 1944, at the cost of hard fighting. This established a wide breach in the German defense system. Next, with untiring ardor and energy, and in spite of desperate counterattacks, the unit carried on daily combat, which completely broke up the defensive organization of the enemy. In the course of these actions, it took more than 3,000 prisoners and seized a large amount of matériel. Worthy of the finest traditions of the American Army, the unit opened an important penetration route towards Colmar and for the 2d Army Corps, prelude to the complete liberation of French soil.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 273, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A remarkable unit which displayed splendid endurance and exceptional fighting zeal. It distinguished itself brilliantly from 21 to 24 November 1944 in hard combat. It mopped up in the forest of Parroy and materially aided the 2d Armored French Division to break through to the Col de Saverne. In spite of heavy losses, it fought stubbornly against a dashing and fanatical enemy, preventing it from reappearing in the Vosges. It thus contributed greatly to the liberation of Baccaret, Phalsbourg, and Saverne.

A crack unit that brilliantly distinguished itself during the dropping of the 82d Airborne Division over France in the night 5-6 June 1944. In spite of the stiff resistance of the enemy and its very heavy losses, it managed by its military qualities and the gallantry of its personnel, to occupy the important position of Saint Mere l'Eglise, thus making possible the success of the landing in strength of the Allied liberating troops.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 160, 6 April 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A splendid unit, renowned for the gallantry and the spirit of sacrifice of its fighting men. It displayed the finest military qualities during the battle of Normandy. It formed part of the 82d Airborne Division and occupied central road points and river communications commanding the access to the landing beaches of the Cotentin. It sacrificed itself on the banks of the Merderet and the Douve, at Saint Sauveur le Vicomte and at Etienneville from 6 to 20 June 1944, in order to stem at all cost the advance of the German reinforcements which far outnumbered them in strength and fire power. It forced the enemy to remain on the defense, thus permitting the arrival of the main Allied force.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 1084, 4 October 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

This elite division which had gone with great elan through the campaigns of Tunisia, Sicily, Italy, Holland, and France, again distinguished itself particularly in the battle of the Ardennes from 17 to 31 December 1944. Called upon as a reinforcement by the Allied High Command in the evening of 17 December at the time when they were in the vicinity of Reims, the division was able to take up combat positions in the region of Werbomont only 24 hours later and this under very severe climatic conditions. Progressing toward Ambleve and the Salm, the division opened and maintained a corridor for the elements of four American divisions which were surrounded in the vicinity of St. Vith, thus giving new courage to the engaged units. The division had prevented the enemy from piercing the north flank of the pocket created by the offensive of Von Rundstedt and thus succeeded in saving the city of Liege and its surroundings from a second occupation by the Germans.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 1084, 4 October 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

After having excelled in defensive warfare at the banks of the Salm and the Ambleve, and after having repelled successfully the repeated attacks of the best German shock troops, the 82d Airborne Division with the 508th Parachute Infantry Regiment attached, in spite of extreme cold and excessively deep snow, went on the offensive themselves and advanced to the German border, capturing 2,500 German prisoners, including five battalion commanders. This fighting was extremely valorous as the organic composition of the division handicapped the unit considerably, not having at their disposal, as any other infantry division would have, heavy weapons to support their attack. During 23 days, under most painful and adverse conditions, the veterans of the 82d Airborne Division did not cease to give a wonderful example of courage and heroism, exemplifying their fighting spirit by several remarkably brilliant actions. By its valor, the division wrote another page in heroic annals of Allied airborne troops and rendered an important service to Belgium and to the Allied cause by establishing the necessary basis for the new pursuit of the enemy toward the Rhine River.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 367, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A splendid airborne unit which gave proof of extraordinary heroism in the course of the Normandy landing operations on 6 to 8 June 1944. It parachuted before dawn on the assault beach on 6 June and in spite of all sorts of difficulties, succeeded in regrouping. Attacked by important forces with violent fire, it nevertheless occupied positions of strategic importance for the landing of friendly troops. This action opened the way to La Douve and the Carentan road for the assault troops. In this way, it greatly contributed to the first phase of the liberation of France.

By its glorious resistance from 22 to 27 December 1944, in the hardest time of the Battle of the Ardennes, it kept, completely isolated, the key position Bastogne. The 101st Airborne Division with its attached units caused the failure of the enemy's plan. This required a deep penetration into Belgium and this division served as a pivot to the operations of the counteroffensive which liberated the invaded territories. During these operations, because of its courage, endurance, discipline and experience in fighting, the 101st Airborne Division pushed back the unceasing attacks of the elements belonging to eight German divisions, in spite of scarce supplies. These troops and their chiefs wrote one of the most beautiful pages of military history and earned the admiration of the world and the everlasting gratitude of Belgium.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 1196, 22 October 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The 101st Airborne Division of the U. S. Army landed by parachute, seaplanes and small boats on 6 June 1944, on the seashore of France, and was one of the first units ready to attack the enemy in the campaign which later liberated Europe which was occupied by the Germans. It was necessary that small detachments enter into hard combat at many places to reunite themselves at the assembly points. They inflicted big losses to the enemy and the division had many losses itself while winning back important points, attacking and keeping centers of communication, bridges and high positions. The success with which these missions were performed prevented the enemy from using reinforcements which could have succeeded in preventing the landing of the VII Corps of the U. S. Army which finally participated in the liberation of Belgium.

A remarkable battalion whose brilliant conduct was greatly valued during the battles of Saint Vith and Manhay on 16 to 23 December 1944. Attacked by an enemy operating in force but filled with the desire to conquer at any cost, it remained in position and, with direct and accurate fire, kept the attackers from access to vital communications south of Manhay. Short of food, water and pharmaceutical products, the 589th Field Artillery Battalion endured three attacks without flinching, inflicted heavy losses on the enemy and forced him to retire.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 2509, 17 June 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The units of the Antwerp X Antiaircraft Artillery Command played a heroic part in the organization and maintenance of the antiaircraft defense, with a view of opening the Antwerp Port on 28 November 1944. They caused the failure of the supreme attack of V-1 bombs thrown by the Germans located in the Trier area, as well as of the areas situated at the northwest of Nimegue. Due to the unceasing efforts of the personnel belonging to these units, the matériel destruction and loss of lives for the Belgian civilians as well as for the Allied troops was held to the minimum. Fighting day and night, these military personnel performed their duty in a remarkable way. This resulted in the liberation of the harbor of Antwerp and the forwarding of supplies of ammunition to five Allied armies. The heroic behavior of these units honors very much the Antwerp X Antiaircraft Artillery Command and the Allied forces.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 2509, 17 June 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The units of the Antwerp X Antiaircraft Artillery Command, at the moment of the supreme offensive thrown by the Wehrmacht on 16 December 1944, established, without precedent against the attempts of destruction, an antiaircraft defense system of the harbor of Antwerp. The results of this heroic action, the success of which was of vital importance to the Allied cause in general, and for the maintenance of the liberation of Belgium in particular, proved so effective that the utilization of the harbor was never interrupted. The action of the officers and men, together with their unceasing efforts and their technical ability, closed the campaign with a result that outstanding success was obtained by the destruction of 97 percent of the pilotless aircraft engaged by the command.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER-GILT STAR, awarded under Decision No. 128, 22 July 1944, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

An outstanding observation and spotting unit under the command of Col. J. D. Ellerson. This unit completed its observation and listening posts during the winter campaign on the rain and snow-swept peaks of the Mainarde, Monna Casale, and Monna Acquafondata. From these positions they furnished, in day and night operations, extremely valuable information to the Allied counter-battery staff. From 11 May 1944, it supplied the artillery unit of the French Expeditionary Corps with an exact lay-out charted by the sound and flashes of numerous enemy guns and, in spite of losses in personnel, carried out its difficult task with admirable zeal.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A remarkable unit characterized by a spirit of collaboration, zest for battle, and magnificent military qualities. From 14 September 1944 to 8 February 1945, it operated with the I Corps of the First French Army. In spite of the violent enemy attacks, the difficulty of the terrain, and the atmospheric rigors, it tirelessly furnished the most valuable information. Thanks to this unit, more than 700 enemy artillery positions and other installations were located. Their magnificent aid contributed in a large measure to driving the Germans from the Belfort Gap and to the liberation of Alsace.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER-GILT STAR, awarded under Decision No. 127, 22 July 1944, by General of the Army JUN, Commanding the French Expeditionary Corps, with the following citation:

Subject to the orders of the Commanding General of the French Expeditionary Corps during the entire period from 11 May to 23 June 1944, it never failed to contribute, with the finest spirit of cooperation, devotion and self-sacrifice, to the victorious operations conducted with the French troops. It particularly distinguished itself on 11 May 1944, at Castelforte, and in the lower Garigliano, and on the following days at Ausonia, Esperia, and Pice. It took part in the brilliant and victorious operations of Roccajera, Lenola, Colferro, from May to June 1944, as well as in pursuit of operations up to Siena.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER-GILT STAR, awarded under Decision No. 247, 15 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

This shock unit particularly distinguished itself in the course of the landing operations in Normandy, 6 June 1944. At Pointe du Hoc, in spite of great losses, the unit captured, by storm, cliffs commanded by heavy guns which were captured and destroyed, thus permitting the main body of the Allied forces to land.

It attracted particular notice while engaged in the battle of Normandy from 21 June to 1 July 1944, at Pointe de la Hague. Attacked day and night by forces greatly superior in number and subjected to very violent artillery fire, it nevertheless occupied positions vital to the protection of Cherbourg, occupying Vauville, Thiebot, Bouchard, and Dannery. BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 3311, 3 January 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The 18th Field Artillery Battalion was assigned to the 3d Armored Division from 1 to 8 September 1944, and during that period contributed in an important degree to the liberation of Belgium. On 2 September 1944, it resisted a Battalion of SS troops on the Mons road, which resulted in not only the defeat and surrender of the German unit, but also prevented a later attack upon the supply trains. On 3 September the members of the 18th Field Artillery Battalion acted as infantry to lead a tank attack against a strongly entrenched force on the outskirts of Mons.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 3311, 3 January 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The 18th Field Artillery Battalion again distinguished itself during the battle of the Ardennes in December 1944 and January 1945. From its position on the north flank of that zone, it hurled back the German troops and advanced swiftly toward Malmedy and Stavelot in support of the 30th Infantry Division of the U. S. Army. It resisted the constant and fanatical break-through attacks of the enemy. On 24 December 1944, this unit received the command to go immediately into the Manhay-Grand Mesnil zone, to halt the advance of the German attack. By a night march in the snow, the battalion reached the position indicated and was attached to the 75th Infantry Division and placed in support of the 13th Armored Division. By its effective and accurate fire, the 18th Field Artillery Battalion helped localize the break-through and contributed in an invaluable manner to definitely stopping the German attack. Throughout the entire campaign, fighting to the limit of their endurance in adverse weather conditions and against constant attacks, all the members of the 18th Field Artillery Battalion conducted themselves with gallantry, devotion and determination, and contributed to the defeat of the common enemy.

A crack unit which successfully completed the Tunisian, Sicilian, Italian, French, and Dutch campaigns, and distinguished itself in the battle of the Bulge from 17 to 31 December 1944. In the evening of 17 December, when the division was in the vicinity of Reims, it was called out as a reinforcement by the Allied High Command; 24 hours later, under extremely severe climatic conditions, the division had assumed positions in the region about Werbomont. Advancing toward the Ambleve and Salm, it opened a corridor and kept contact with elements of four American Divisions trapped in and about St Vith, and by its magnificent courage, raised the morale of the units concerned. It prevented an enemy thrust in the north flank of the pocket created by von Rundstedt's offensive and thus saved the town of Liege and its approaches from another enemy occupation.

It progressed, in spite of the added difficulty of cold weather and a deep fall of snow, to the German frontier, capturing 2,500 prisoners, 5 of which were Battalion Commanders. Some deeds were extremely valorous, since its table of equipment presented a serious handicap, in not being able to utilize heavy equipment meant to support them in action like a normal division. A magnificent group, whose brilliant operational successes during the period from 20 August 1944 to 10 February 1945, while fighting with or in support of the 2d Armored Division (French), impel admiration. Boldly thrusting out deep reconnaissances east of the Mouldre around Crespieres and up to the Moselle near Charmes, it established a bridgehead and held it all alone. Toward Luneville and Baccarat, it engaged in protective and advance guard missions, first at Andelot and then from the Marne to the Moselle and in the La Mortagne area. It took the village of Mont, overran Vancourt and reached the Emmersville, Gieslautern, Wadgassen line, where it held out stubbornly in spite of violent German counterattacks on 31 December 1944 and 1 January 1945. During the course of these operations, the 106th Cavalry Group showed tenacity and spirited operating efficiency of the highest praise. Never letting up in its drive, even when it had to battle against a determined enemy superior in numbers, it carried out all its assigned missions, seeking contact which the enemy was attempting to elude. This unit demonstrated the finest military attributes and incomparable battle attainments.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 873, 24 June 1945, as amended by Resolution No. 469, 18 February 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

Outstanding for its devotion to duty and fighting spirit, the 106th Cavalry Group successfully accomplished all missions with which it was entrusted from 5 to 20 August 1944, in cooperation with the 2d French Armored Division. On 8 October 1944, in particular, on the outskirts of Mons, three of its squadrons for more than 6 hours engaged an infantry regiment, which was supported by artillery, engineers and tanks, and inflicted heavy casualties. It took 218 prisoners and captured 40 vehicles. In a bold attack on 12 August 1944, on the flanks of an organized and determined enemy, it made a great contribution in the Caen-Falaise sector to the advance of the XV Corps easterly to the Seine. The esprit de corps and the heroism, both individual and collective, demonstrated by the 106th U. S. Cavalry Group exemplify the highest military traditions.

(Attached Infantry units are listed under Organic Division in par. 1 and attached nondivisional units are listed in numerical sequence in this paragraph)

In a brilliant military operation of four days, the 113th Cavalry Group progressed 130 miles on a front of 20 miles, crossing Belgium between Charleroi and Brussels, in order to reach the Albert Canal and the Meuse in the Tongres area, on a mission of combat reconnaissance, without the continuous support of the other combat units of the XIX Corps, who were temporarily immobilized because of the lack of gasoline. In spite of the unknown position of the enemy, the danger of being cut off from their Corps or immobilized in enemy territory because of the lack of fuel, the firm resolution of the 113th Cavalry Group to carry on its mission was never shaken for an instant. The bravery and intelligence with which this advance was effected permitted the Allies to seize the Albert Canal line rapidly, reconnoiter the fort of Eben-Emael, the Meuse, and thus free from German domination an area of about 2,500 square miles, including hundreds of Belgian villages and towns.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 3865, 28 April 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

By a brave maneuver, the 113th Cavalry Group, under the XIX Corps, entered into the combat sector of the VII Corps and cleared a path, while contending with the stubborn resistance of the enemy on a particularly unfavorable terrain for mechanized cavalry operations. In spite of the difficulty of the mission, the presence of two important obstacles, the Albert Canal and the Meuse, and of being separated from the XIX Corps, the 113th Cavalry Group, operating with bravery and confidence, cleared the east bank of the Meuse and thus made possible the construction of a bridge, its crossing by the 30th Infantry Division, and the attack which ensued toward the northeast to skirt the defensive works of the enemy on the Meuse.

Army, it made a successful landing on the beaches of Ste. Maxine and St. Tropez. On the second day, it demonstrated the finest qualities of skill in maneuvering and contributed to the success of the action of this group, especially the annihilation of important enemy forces in the region of Montelimar. Under the forceful direction of an energetic chief and with remarkable daring, it preceded its group by more than 180 kilometers without hesitation. It occupied, by surprise, important positions and a network of communications in this region, inflicting on the enemy important losses in matériel, and captured more than 2,500 prisoners, three of whom were generals. During this period, it worked in close liaison with the local resistance elements and coordinated the activity of the Marquis who were associated with it.

A crack unit which successfully completed the Tunisian, Sicilian, Italian, French, and Dutch campaigns, and distinguished itself in the battle of the Bulge from 17 to 31 December 1944. In the evening of 17 December, when the division was in the vicinity of Reims, it was called out as a reinforcement by the Allied High Command. Twenty-four hours later, under extremely severe climatic conditions, the division had assumed positions in the region about Werbomont. Advancing toward Ambleve and Salm, it opened a corridor and kept contact with elements of four American divisions trapped in and about St. Vith, and by its magnificent courage, raised the morale of the units concerned. It prevented an enemy thrust in the north flank of the pocket created by Von Rundstedt's offensive and thus saved the town of Liege and its approaches from another enemy occupation.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 2086, 3 April 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

A crack unit which successfully completed the Tunisian, Sicilian, Italian, French, and Dutch campaigns, and distinguished itself in the Battle of the Bulge from 17 to 31 December 1944. In the evening of 17 December, when the division was in the vicinity of Reims, it was called out as a reinforcement by the Allied High Command. 24 hours later, under extremely severe climatic conditions, the division had assumed positions in the region of Werbomont. Advancing toward the Ambleve and Salm, it opened a corridor and kept contact with elements of four American divisions trapped in and about St. Vith, and by its magnificent courage, raised the morale of the units concerned. It prevented an enemy thrust in the north flank of the pocket created by Von Rundstedt's offensive and thus saved the town of Liege and its approaches from another enemy occupation.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 2086, 3 April 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The 82d United States Airborne Division, with its attached units, after having delivered a marvelous counteroffensive thrust along the Salm and Ambleve, and after having withstood repeated attacks of the best German units, put up a stubborn resistance to all hostile measures. It progressed, in spite of the added difficulty of cold weather and a deep fall of snow to the German frontier, capturing 2,500 prisoners, 5 of which were battalion commanders. Some deeds were extremely valorous, since its table of equipment presented a serious handicap, in not being able to utilize heavy equipment, meant to support it in action, like a normal division. For 23 days, under the most trying circumstances, the veterans of the 82d Airborne Division did not cease to be an example of heroic courage, distinguishing their combat with several brilliant actions. With its valor enhancing the traditional spirit of the Allied airborne troops, it has rendered immense services to Belgium and to the Allied cause, in establishing bases necessary for a new drive against the enemy and the Rhine.

A unit animated by the finest military qualities. It demonstrated an unshaken will not to yield to the enemy in the course of violent battles which developed from 12 to 14 November 1944 at Sanry-Sur-Neid. Capturing this town on 12 November, it had to meet, one after the other, six furious counterattacks carried out by doubled forces which brought the enemy, after street battles, to the interior of the town. It remained in possession of the town by totally destroying the attacking enemy forces. It inflicted more than 500 casualties, including those killed, wounded or prisoners.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER STAR, awarded under Decision No. 246, 15 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A battalion animated by the greatest qualities of courage and combativeness. It distinguished itself in a remarkable manner during the offensive operations in the Mortain sector during the period between 10 and 13 August 1944. It was given the mission of reestablishing contact with units momentarily encircled and, heedless of losses, broke through the enemy lines and was successful in extricating a battalion that was in a critical situation. Counterattacked in turn by forces greatly superior in number, notably by SS elements, it valiantly bore the blow, thus making possible the arrival of reinforcements, which, after 5 hours of furious fighting, broke the German resistance.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 2086, 3 April 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

A crack unit which successfully completed the Tunisian, Sicilian, Italian, French, and Dutch campaigns, and distinguished itself in the Battle of the Bulge from 17 to 31 December 1944. In the evening of 17 December, when the division was in the vicinity of Reims, it was called out as a reinforcement by the Allied High Command. 24 hours later, under extremely severe climatic conditions, the division had assumed positions in the region of Werbomont. Advancing toward the Ambleve and Salm, it opened a corridor and kept contact with elements of four American divisions trapped in and about St. Vith, and by its magnificent courage, raised the morale of the units concerned. It prevented an enemy thrust in the north flank of the pocket created by Von Rundstedt's offensive and thus saved the town of Liege and its approaches from another enemy occupation.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 2086, 3 April 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The 82d United States Airborne Division, with its attached units, after having delivered a marvelous counteroffensive thrust along the Salm and Ambleve, and after having withstood repeated attacks of the best German units, put up a stubborn resistance to all hostile measures. It progressed, in spite of the added difficulties of cold weather and a deep fall of snow, to the German frontier, capturing 2,500 prisoners, 5 of which were battalion commanders. Some deeds were extremely valorous, since its table of equipment presented a serious handicap, in not being able to utilize heavy equipment meant to support it in action like a normal division. For 23 days, under the most trying circumstances, the veterans of the 82d Airborne Division did not cease to be an example of heroic courage, distinguishing their combat with several brilliant actions. With its valor enhancing the traditional spirit of the Allied airborne troops, it has rendered immense services to Belgium and to the Allied cause, in establishing bases necessary for a new drive against the enemy and the Rhine.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent unit, tireless and full of bravery. During 1944, in spite of sharp resistance on the part of the enemy, it performed over 2,900 photographic missions at low altitude in unprotected planes. This action brought to the Allied Command the elements essential to the success of the landing and then of the Allied ground operations. This unit facilitated the rapid destruction of enemy communication lines and military installations. By its ability and spirit of sacrifice, it contributed greatly to the liberation of French territory.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 1392, 20 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

Exceptional heroism was displayed in combat during the period of 6th of June 1944, to the 30th of September 1944. During this time, the IX Tactical Air Command had the enormous task to assure the air-land cooperation for the benefit of the ground forces of the American and Allied Armies, at the moment of their victorious advance, which, from the Normandy beaches, led them to the initial phases of the liberation of Belgium. All along the hard period of combat operations, the intrepid pilots of the IX Tactical Air Command operated from bases situated immediately in the rear of the advance echelons of the ground forces, contributed strongly in opening a way for the land units in march, destroying the enemy centers of communication, harassing the concentrations of troops, machine-gunning and bombarding the columns of tanks and sweeping the sky of the enemy planes. The pursuit-plane bombardiers of the IX Tactical Air Command, in particular, displayed exceptional technical cleverness and science of combat at the time of their operations above Belgium. Due to their brilliant qualities and to their perseverance, they contributed in a large part to the rout of the enemy forces in Belgium.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 1392, 20 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

Exceptional services were performed from the 16th of December 1944 to the 25th of January 1945. Its staff settled at Verviers and its tactical groups were distributed on the Belgian airfields or on airfields in the north of France. The IX Tactical Air Command bore all the weight of the Ardennes counter-offensive in December 1944. Without stopping, it sent its planes away on reconnaissance missions, in very perilous atmospheric conditions, directed formations of pursuit planes and pursuit-plane bombardiers against the enemy, throwing, ceaselessly, its intrepid pilots against the concentrations of troops, the communications, the columns of tanks, and the enemy lines of supply. During these operations, it succeeded in destroying a great quantity of planes, troops, and matériel of the enemy. The increasing efforts of the pilots and of the heroic airmen of the IX Tactical Air Command, as well as the heroism and military perspicacity of their chiefs, contributed in a large measure in pushing back and defeating the enemy.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 717, 7 July 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

It established its headquarters at Arlon on 1 October 1944, and its groups of pursuit planes, reconnaissance and light bombers were installed in the airfields of Beauvechain, Le Culot, La Bruyere, St. Trond, Ophoeven, and Asch. From all of these operation bases, situated in Belgium, the XXIX Tactical Air Command was able to organize and execute, under extremely difficult atmospheric conditions, missions of protecting the land forces, harassing columns and concentrations of enemy troops, and destruction of matériel, food and centers of communications used by the enemy.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 717, 7 July 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

At the moment of the counter-offensive of the enemy in the Ardennes, the XXIX Tactical Air Command entered action on 18 December 1944, demolishing vast concentrations of German Armored troops in the region of Malmedy. From 24 to 28 December 1944, the XXIX Tactical Air Command distinguished itself by the unceasing support it gave the land forces. In these 4 days, it made 145 sorties against the enemy, destroying 27 enemy planes, 34 tanks, 391 car transports, 31 armored tanks, 14 staff cars, 12 locomotives and 102 trains, including tank loadings. 556 tons of bombs were dropped on the enemy during these operations which took place in Bastogne, St. Vith, Houffalize, St. Hubert, and Celles. From 1 to 15 January 1945, the planes of the XXIX Tactical Air Command pursued the enemy stubbornly in his retreat from Belgium, harassing

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 44, 8 August 1944, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

During April, May, and June 1944, it performed a very important part in the preparation and support of the Allied offensive actions which opened on 11 May 1944, in central Italy. It attacked the rear lines of the large opposing German forces in order to aid the French Army and particularly distinguished itself by the following actions: (1) On 12 May 1944, participated in the attack and destruction of an enemy division command post; (2) on 18 May 1944, attacked bridges and important communications lines; (3) on 24, 25, and 30 May 1944, it destroyed bridges completely, preventing any movement of enemy troops. Within that period, during which it flew more than 5,000 sorties, it dropped upon the enemy more than 10,000 tons of bombs, downed several fighter planes, and lost only 20 planes to the enemy due to antiaircraft. Skilled and formidable fighters, their results testify to the efficiency and tactical skill of the personnel and to the high competence and the experienced technique of the command.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A remarkable combat unit, possessing the finest military and professional qualities. It distinguished itself brilliantly from 25 June to 31 December 1944, during the massive raids on Germany, by accomplishing numerous hazardous missions and dropping over 13,000 tons of explosives on vital enemy centers which were stubbornly defended by numerous fighter planes and by a concentrated and murderous anti-aircraft defense. In addition, it boldly parachuted supplies for the use of the French forces of the interior. By its sustained and effective action, it thus contributed to the collapse of the common enemy and to the liberation of France.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A remarkable reconnaissance unit, which was present on every Mediterranean battlefield from December 1942 to July 1944. The 111th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron contributed greatly to the destruction of enemy personnel with the number of reconnaissance missions executed over enemy lines in spite of heavy anti-aircraft fire, with the value and accuracy of the information gathered, and with the adjustment of friendly artillery fire while in flight. Its excellent work made itself felt in the most critical situations in the battle in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations, notably in the early part of 1943. It protected ship convoys by taking bearings and destroying enemy submarines. During the campaign in Sicily, in 1943, at the time of the landing at Salerno and especially during the campaign in Italy, it gave excellent protection to the victorious advance of the French Expeditionary Corps from the Garigliano to Siena. It performed a series of brilliant feats of arms, the principal ones which were during the break-through north of Cassino. It destroyed enemy communication lines and numerous bridges, among others, that of Pontecorvo which was of capital importance, before and after the large scale offensive against the Hitler line. Moreover, in the midst of combat, it trained the French reconnaissance group 2/33 of which profited by methods that had proven their effectiveness. Through the courage and ability of its crews during the course of 2,350 missions, totaling 9,250 flying hours, it contributed greatly to the collapse of the Axis forces in the Mediterranean Theater.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 236, 8 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

This is a brilliant American Fighter Group. Under the stimulus of its commander, Col. Leonard C. Lydon, it contributed especially valuable and effective aid to the French Expeditionary Corps during the campaigns of Italy and France. Due to the skill and courage of its pilots, many vital enemy objectives were destroyed in the break-through of the sector of the lower Garigliano. Their action permitted the French troops to accomplish their mission which was to capture Rome. On 20 May 1944, it dealt severe blows to the enemy communications system between Vallecorsa, Frosinone, and Ceprano. This prevented the enemy transports from escaping the combined Franco-American attack. By murderous attacks of its fighter-bomber Thunderbolts on the day of the invasion of the south of France, it collaborated brilliantly with the French troops, in spite of the desperate resistance of the enemy. From 20 January to 9 February 1945, it participated in the reduction of the pocket of Colmar, permitting the First French Army to drive the enemy from the left bank of the Rhine. This unit is cited as an example of successful work and continued collaboration between the French and American units.

A splendid fighter group, distinguished for its heroism and its dash. During a surprise air attack (1 January 1945) on the airdrome occupied by this unit, it took off with courage and resolution under the machine-gun fire of German planes. Thanks to its remarkable combativeness, it succeeded in stopping the enemy attack by shooting down 23 of the assailants. Through this brilliant feat of arms, it restored to normal a situation that was considered critical and pregnant with consequences for the Allied forces, thus contributing to the maintenance of Allied pressure on the German Army and to a more rapid liberation of France.

in spite of difficulty in supply and repair. It escorted bombers to Germany over great distances, destroying during the course of these raids, 324 enemy planes. In a bitter struggle, conducted often in the ratio of 10 to 1, it shot down 51 and 39 enemy planes, respectively, in the skies of France on 25 August 1944 and 12 September 1944. While on missions to machine-gun and bomb military objectives, it caused the additional destruction of 560 military transports, 490 locomotives, 1,120 cars, 14 bridges and 609 factories and military buildings. It greatly contributed to the collapse of the enemy forces and to the liberation of French soil.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A remarkable unit that is ardent and animated with the finest spirit of sacrifice. It distinguished itself brilliantly during the period from 11 February 1944 to 15 January 1945, by performing numerous and perilous escort missions involving machine-gun fire on ground targets and dropping equipment by parachute. The principal builder of Allied air supremacy had, by 18 November 1944, shot down the impressive number of 426 enemy planes and inaugurated new combat tactics by machine-gunning ground targets in the heart of Germany. By its military valor and its remarkable courage, it hastened the liberation of French territory.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 1387, 15 November 1945, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

An elite group which entered the operations on 20 October 1943, until 1 March 1944, and protected the extensive strategical bombardment of the 8th Air Force. It established the magnificent record of never permitting the loss of an escorted bomber by an enemy plane. From 1 March 1944, to 6 June 1944, this group attacked all important centers of communication in northern France, especially the bridges of the Seine River and of the Loire River and the airports of Gael, Saint Omer, and Abbeville. It actively participated in the battle of Normandy and in the surrender of St.-Lo and Vire, including the capture of 20,000 German soldiers in the south of the Loire River. From 1 until 10 January 1945, which was a very critical period, it performed a great number of very successful missions in direct support of the 2d Armored Division. During that difficult period, it brought down 20 enemy planes and damaged 6 others.

A magnificent combat unit, remarkable for its extraordinary heroism, its highly developed sense of duty, and a great tenacity in performing missions. It distinguished itself during the campaign in France. On numerous combat missions brilliantly conducted, especially from 1 to 10 August 1944, it hammered the enemy rear relentlessly, enabling the forces of liberation in Normandy to break through the Normandy front. From 11 to 15 August 1944, it neutralized the Falaise pocket with a deluge of fire and steel, always keeping planes in the air, in spite of difficulties of all kinds. On 17 August, it protected the French 2d Armored Division and opened for it the road to the capital. During the month of August 1944, it destroyed 36 enemy planes, 421 vehicles, 52 tanks, 22 locomotives, 899 cars, 12 bridges and ammunition dumps. It greatly contributed to the collapse of the German forces and to the success of the decisive campaign in Normandy.

It played an important role in the Allied victory by rapid and timely actions during the course of more than 2,500 sorties, notably from 6 June 1944, to 14 September 1944. It paralyzed the enemy reinforcements on their way to the Normandy beaches with its destructive power and hastened the enemy defeat by its offensives in support of the Allied ground forces which were driving through France. Within a little over 3 months, it destroyed 17 bridges, 17 gasoline dumps, 9 fortifications, and attacked 5 troop concentrations, 4 classified yards, and other important targets. Through the valor and effectiveness of its bombings, it contributed greatly to the success of the Allied forces of liberation.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation :

A magnificent fighter unit, full of dash, tenacious and brave beyond all praise. It distinguished itself brilliantly during the campaign of Normandy on 29, 30, and 31 July 1944, by continuously providing air cover and protection for the shock columns of four armored divisions. In spite of losses and enemy anti-aircraft fire which was very dangerous by reason of a low ceiling, it contributed greatly to the success of the decisive break-through of the American First Army to the west of St.-Lo. During these 3 days, it attacked numerous targets on the ground, destroying 94 tanks and over 300 vehicles, and stopped the enemy attack by destroying 13 Focke-Wulf 190's and Messerschmitt 109's. Besides, in response to the appeals of the French forces of the interior, in Brittany, it furnished aid and protection. By its presence in the sky above Brittany, it gave encouragement to the resistance forces in the peninsula.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation :

A splendid unit, distinguished for its exceptional heroism, military valor and profound sense of duty. Its mission was to transport by plane-towed gliders, airborne troops charged with invading Normandy. It accomplished this dangerous, delicate, and essential task with sureness, precision, and speed, on the nights of 5 to 6 June 1944, and during the next 2 days. In spite of violent enemy resistance and numerous ground obstacles, it attained the specific ground objectives, with very light losses, thanks to the ability of the pilots. It made it possible for the airborne troops to regroup rapidly and inject timely confusion into the enemy zone exposed to the frontal attack of the bulk of the landing forces. Through the courage and ability of its pilots, it executed its mission brilliantly and contributed materially to the collapse of the Atlantic wall and to the liberation of France.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation :

again distinguished itself from 20 to 28 August 1944, during the famous dash of the American 3d Army through France. It provided constant supplies of all kinds for the armored units dashing like arrows in pursuit of the enemy who was falling back of Metz. It piloted unprotected planes without armor or armament and landed on fields that had barely been liberated which were still full of mines, obstacles and shell holes. The crews of the 434th Troop Carrier Group completed 520 sorties and transported by night and by day in all sorts of weather about 3 million liters of gasoline, heavy oil and ammunition, and evacuated about 2,000 seriously wounded men from the front. Through their energy, their magnificent skill as aviators, and their coolness, these crews made a great contribution to the rapid liberation of the soil of France.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent formation which was animated with splendid courage and which gave proof of exceptional heroism and military valor. It distinguished itself brilliantly on the nights of 5 June and 7 June 1944, when the Allies landed. It successfully executed its delicate and dangerous mission on which depended the success of the airborne troop attack on the enemy rear lines in Normandy. It piloted planes with gliders without armor or armament. It arrived over the ground objectives in close formation, thus making it possible for the airborne troops to regroup rapidly and open combat immediately with all their means, in spite of a sharp enemy resistance. Through the courage and ability of its pilots, it made a remarkable contribution to the initial effort for the liberation of French territory.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A remarkable unit which proved its worth by opening the invasion route to the Allied forces on 6 June 1944, in Normandy, in a brilliant feat of arms. This exploit was repeated on 15 August 1944, when the Allies landed in Provence.

The airborne invasion troops were transported in two missions. With unarmed and unprotected planes, towing heavy gliders, it took off from its base in Italy and crossed the Ligurian Sea. In spite of sharp enemy resistance, it crossed the coast of Provence and flew deep into the country in close formation, landing parachutists and gliders in a rather narrow zone which facilitated their essential regrouping for the success of the operation. Thus it was possible, through the ability and coolness of its crews, to hurl at the enemy's rear an important force consisting of 1,500 men, 70 pieces of artillery and several tons of ammunition and equipment, which contributed greatly to the rapid conquest of southern France.

A splendid unit, animated by the finest spirit of courage and tenacity. It distinguished itself brilliantly in air operations over occupied territories and Germany from 1 December 1943 to 1 February 1945. It made 225 combat missions and dropped over 13,000 tons of bombs on vital German centers, in spite of sharp enemy resistance, which cost it 97 planes as against 142 enemy planes shot down or damaged. By its sacrifices, its tireless devotion, and its excellent crew work, it made a great contribution to the liberation of French territory.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A fine fighter unit, animated by exceptional fighting spirit and extraordinary heroism. Of recent formation, active ever since its arrival in Europe, it immediately achieved a brilliant feat of arms by making over 830 sorties between 5 and 15 June 1944, to support and protect effectively the Allied invasion forces in the attack on the continent. It then continued its action by escorting heavy bombers, pursuing enemy aircraft and machine-gunning enemy ground installations, contributing greatly to the success of the Allied forces in liberating France.

III. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), citations of the following units under the provisions of AR 260-10, as approved by the Commanding General, Sixth Army, are confirmed by the Department of the Army in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

1. Company F, 136th Infantry Regiment, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy during the period 9 to 11 April 1945 on Northern Luzon, Philippine Islands. At 1600 on 9 April 1945, Company F completed relief of a much larger unit in position on Skyline Ridge, Neuva Viscaya Province, Northern Luzon. The position was on a high, barren ridge, well out in advance of all other forces of the regiment in that sector, and constituted the right flank of the division. Three miles to the southeast was the left flank of the adjacent division. In front, were strong forces of the enemy. Company F was still engaged in consolidating its new position when the enemy, who had been watching from adjacent heights, suddenly opened up with heavy machine-gun and mortar fire in preparation for an attack. Throughout the remaining daylight hours, the men were pinned to their fox holes by the fierceness of the enemy fire. At nightfall, the company braced itself for the inevitable attack. At midnight, the enemy struck on the right flank of the position. Although the men of Company F laid down a barrage of artillery, mortar, rifle, and grenade fire, some of the fanatical enemy, attacking in superior numbers, succeeded in penetrating the position with light machine guns, fixed bayonets, grenades, and demolitions. The attack continued with unabated fury throughout the night.

Only as dawn came, were the men of Company F, by the toughest type of hand-to-hand fighting and heavy supporting fires of friendly 81-mm mortars and artillery, able to stop the attack and expel the enemy from the position. Many enemy had been killed, but as daylight came, it could be seen that the enemy had surrounded the position on all sides. Wire communications and supply lines had been cut and the company was completely isolated. The supply of food, water, ammunition, and especially grenades was nearly exhausted. The only means of resupply was by air. Although this means was utilized, many of the supplies fell into the hands of the surrounding enemy, and although the company did receive some water, small arms, and mortar ammunition, food and grenades were still lacking. Throughout the day, despite constant harassment by the enemy, the company labored in the sweltering heat to reorganize its position and prepare for further attacks. Reinforcements were on the way, but the men knew that they must hold the vital position alone until help could arrive. On several occasions, sorties were made to dislodge strong groups of enemy who had dug in near the flanks of the position. It was vital that these enemy be destroyed before nightfall and, with ferocious courage, small groups of Company F sallied forth. So fierce were their attacks that in one of these sallies 32 of a total enemy force of 40 were killed in their positions and the remaining 8 were forced to flee. As night fell, the company crouched in its fox holes awaiting the attack, outnumbered, but unafraid. At 0100, the blasting of grenades, mortars, and demolitions covered the entire position. The enemy swarmed in, only to be met with withering fire of friendly artillery and mortars and the ready bayonets of the heroic defenders. Using every means of fighting at their disposal, the men of Company F destroyed the enemy in such numbers that once more he was forced to withdraw. One hundred thirty-seven enemy lay dead before the position, however, the company had also suffered. Only a little more than half of the original 97 men were still in condition to fight. Throughout the next day, the gallant company withstood incessant hammering by enemy machine guns and mortars. Although completely surrounded and short on supplies, the company, realizing the importance of its position, prepared itself once more to withstand all the assaults the enemy could launch. Meanwhile, friendly reinforcements had moved into other commanding positions in the area and orders were issued to the battered but unbeaten men to withdraw. At dark, on 11 April, under a heavy artillery barrage, the company began its movement out of the position which it had held at so great a cost. The courage of the heroic company had succeeded in destroying twice its number of enemy, had held vital terrain protecting the flanks of two divisions and had prevented enemy interference with other friendly operations in that sector. The determination, unflinching devotion to duty, and superb courage displayed by each man of Company F, 136th Infantry Regiment, were major factors in the success of operations in Northern Luzon and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces of the United States.

2. Company G, 136th Infantry Regiment, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy during the period 20 to 26 March 1945, on Northern Luzon, Philippine Islands. An important bridge had been blown out by an enemy demolition crew in the vicinity of Camp 3. To secure the area near the bridge in order that the engineers could construct a crossing, it was necessary to occupy high ground on both sides of the Bued River. Company G was given the mission of securing the right flank, by blocking the enemy movements from down the Piggan and Hill BM Middle area. In the late afternoon of 23 March 1945, the enemy made a determined attack upon the position occupied by Company G. They set fire to the dry cogon grass and forced temporary evacuation of the area. When the company returned, the enemy had occupied their positions and opened up with mortars, machine guns, and rifles. Company G immediately assaulted and, after a bloody, close-range fight, drove the enemy out and again occupied the position. The fight had been costly as Company G had suffered 16 casualties. At 0400 on 26 March 1945, approximately 50 enemy, armed with grenades and small arms, again hit Company G. They were supported by long-range mortars and artillery fire from enemy positions on commanding ground. Endeavoring to stop the fanatical rushes of the enemy, Company G brought intense protective mortar fire close in around their positions and shelled adjacent wooded areas. Despite the wall of mortar fire, the enemy continued their charges. Finally they set fire to the cogon grass in an attempt to drive Company G from the security of their fox holes and burn out machine-gun positions, but a sudden shift in the wind rendered the fire ineffectual. The men of Company G fought on stubbornly, hurling the enemy back each time he attacked. Not until 0700 was the attack completely repulsed. Within 20 yards of Company G's position, the bodies of 25 enemy dead, rifles, machine guns, and mortars were found. The determination, unflinching devotion to duty, and superb courage displayed by each man of Company G, 136th Infantry Regiment, were major factors in the success of operations in Northern Luzon and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces of the United States.

3. Company I, 136th Infantry Regiment, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy during the period 26 to 28 March 1945, in the vicinity of Baguio, Northern Luzon, Philippine Islands. On 26 March 1945, our forces were making a drive on the city of Baguio in Northern Luzon, along the Kennon Road, which ran up a narrow defile bordered by towering mountains on either side. The positions of our troops were seriously threatened by enemy forces on a well-defined ridge east of the Kennon Road. This ridge was strongly fortified and was used by the enemy as a base from which to launch counterattacks on our forces. To relieve this situation, a battalion was ordered to seize this position and annihilate the enemy. Company I, an assault company, began its movement on the night of 25 March 1945. In order to reach positions from which it could attack, it was necessary for the company to scale the heights of a 5,500-foot mountain, and then proceed down the other side to the enemy position. All that night and all the next day, the company worked its way forward, despite the ever present menace of enemy observation. At 1215 hours, after 36 hours of movement over difficult terrain, the company found itself confronted with strong enemy opposition, honeycombed with fox holes and caves, defended by a company of the enemy. Because of the nature of the terrain, it was impossible to place artillery fire on the enemy strong points located on the crest of the objective. Only 60-mm mortars and light machine guns could be used in support. Later, when the men of Company I launched their attack, they encountered the full fury of the enemy's machine guns, rifles, and grenades from concealed positions commanding the crest of the hill. At 1630 hours, after a continuous fire fight which had lasted 3½ hours, Company I halted its attack and began reorganizing. During the night, the exhausted men were harassed by numerous infiltration attempts on the part of the enemy. On the following morning, the company, with renewed determination, moved forward and secured its objective, killing over 52 of the enemy. The determination, unflinching devotion to duty, and superb courage displayed by each man of Company I, 136th Infantry Regiment, contributed immeasurably to the success of operations in Northern Luzon and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces of the United States.

The Provisional Reconnaissance Platoon, 11th Airborne Division, and Company B, 511th Parachute Infantry Regiment, are cited for outstanding performance of duty in action at Luzon, Philippine Islands, on 23 February 1945. These units demonstrated exceptional courage, resourcefulness and determination in skillfully undertaking a coordinated thrust 25 miles behind enemy lines, which made possible the liberation of 2,147 Allied civilians and prisoners of war interned at Los Banos Internment Camp, Los Banos. Company B landed by parachute near the camp and joined the Provisional Reconnaissance Platoon, which had previously infiltrated to within a few yards of the objective in order to silently kill the sentries and join the attack at the proper time. A rescue party traveling by "Amtracs" across Lunga De Bay landed on the shore opposite the camp at the moment the assault began. At 0700, paratroopers and ground elements initiated an attack which quickly overwhelmed the Japanese guards and made possible the swift embarkation of the internees on the "Amtracs." By their brilliant execution of a most difficult and hazardous mission, the Provisional Reconnaissance Platoon, 11th Airborne Division, and Company B, 511th Parachute Infantry Regiment, made the outstanding contribution to the operation which resulted in the liberation of the Los Banos internees.

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted man:

Technical Sergeant Eugene J. Bigda (Army serial No. 32017934) (then staff sergeant), Infantry, Army of the United States, as squad leader in Company B, 106th Infantry Regiment, on 28 May 1945, performed extraordinary heroism in action at Onna Taka, Okinawa, when he destroyed five of the enemy who had infiltrated behind his company and set up a position blocking its supply route. Moving along a narrow ridge until opposite the enemy machine-gun position on a second ridge, he then turned down into the precipitous gulch between them. Taking over an hour, he finally reached the floor of the ravine and started up the other side, climbing an almost perpendicular slope, working his way up in a driving rain which made the cliff a mass of slippery, sticky mud. Slipping and falling at almost every step, literally pulling himself up the side of the cliff by weeds and bush roots, he finally reached the top. Raising his head over the edge and immediately finding himself staring straight into the muzzle of the Japanese gun, Sergeant Bigda ducked below the ridge just as the enemy gunners opened fire. Hanging to the cliff with one hand, desperately digging a toe hold, he took grenades from his pocket with the other hand, pulled the pins with his teeth, and lobbed them over the crest into the enemy position one after another, until the gun was silenced and the enemy killed. Eliminating this dangerous enemy position by his heroic and determined action, Sergeant Bigda upheld the highest traditions of the military service.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provision of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1919 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Major General Frederick L. Anderson, Jr., O17175, United States Army. June 1945 to August 1947.

III. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer:

Second Lieutenant Harold D. Wilson, O1326437, Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company I, 274th Infantry Regiment, displayed gallantry in action against the enemy in France on 3 March 1945. During the attack on Styring-Wendel, as executive officer, he was with the forward element of his company. Although wounded in the head, and after losing two platoon leaders and numerous noncommissioned officers, he led his men forward through heavy artillery, mortar, machine-gun, and small-arms fire to knock out two well-fortified pillboxes and to clear the enemy from fortified buildings. He continuously exposed himself to enemy fire in order to encourage and lead his men to safety in buildings. Lieutenant Wilson was shot and killed by an enemy sniper.

IV.—SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers, enlisted men, and individual:

Technical Sergeant Eugene J. Bigda (Army serial No. 32017934) (then staff sergeant), Infantry, Army of the United States, as squad leader in Company B, 106th Infantry Regiment, on 21 April 1945, displayed gallantry in action near Iso Village, Okinawa. While attempting to cross a small ridge in its line of advance, his company was halted by enemy fire from a position which could not be destroyed by rifle or machine-gun fire. Sergeant Bigda crawled forward alone to the crest of the ridge, made a quick check of the enemy position, then crawled back to his platoon. Quickly gathering several grenades, he again worked his way to the crest and, reaching it, charged the enemy position. Throwing his grenades into the openings, he accounted for eight of the enemy and destroyed the gun. Demonstrating great personal courage in his lone assault under concentrated hostile fire, Sergeant Bigda completely eliminated a strong enemy position and facilitated the company's advance.

Captain John W. Brokaw, O1291772 (then first lieutenant), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the 184th Infantry Regiment, displayed gallantry in action against the enemy on Okinawa Shima on 11 April 1945. Company F, which he commanded, was ordered to attack a group of hills. As the attack started, the enemy immediately covered the area with intense artillery, mortar, and small-arms fire. When all other officers were either killed or wounded, Captain Brokaw took personal charge of the 3d Platoon and led it in an attack against the key emplacement on the objective. He then returned to his other platoons, reorganized them under enemy fire, and led them in an assault which secured the objective. Twice again he led forward platoons which had been pinned down by determined enemy opposition. The determination of their leader to push on was instilled into the men who followed him in an assault of such fury that the enemy broke and ran. The successful completion of the attack was due to the personal courage and iron will of Captain Brokaw.

Captain Karel Hora, Czechoslovakian Army, displayed gallantry in action against the enemy while serving with a French Commando from 6 to 13 April 1945. The Commando, assigned to an American unit, penetrated the enemy lines, ascertained the disposition of the German forces, captured many prisoners, and returned with important information. Captain Hora then acted as guide for the American unit in its attack on this sector. His heroic services were of great assistance to the Ninth United States Army.

Henry L. Laussucq, civilian employee of the United States Government, from 20 March to 11 September 1944, having been infiltrated into France, successfully established a number of safe hideouts for use as meeting places for secret agents and leaders of the French underground. After accomplishing this mission, Mr. Laussucq, acting on his own initiative, rendered valuable service in the organization of resistance forces and in the gathering and supplying of data and information which was of great value to the Allied cause. The actions of Mr. Laussucq on this dangerous mission reflect great credit on himself and the armed forces of the United States.

Colonel Tseng Chi, Chinese Army, commanded the 89th Regiment, 30th Division, Chinese Army, in India. On 9 February 1945, despite a painful wound, he gallantly continued to lead his regiment in repulsing fierce attacks launched by a superior Japanese force at Namhpakka, Burma. During this action a great many of the enemy were killed and much material was captured. The courage and leadership displayed by Colonel Tseng reflect great credit on himself and the Chinese armed forces.

Colonel Yang I, Infantry, Chinese Army in India, displayed gallantry in battle during December 1944 and January 1945. Serving as a regimental commander, he personally led two of his battalions in a frontal attack on a strongly entrenched enemy force of two regiments at Namyu. After a continuous 5-day struggle, his command reduced that strongpoint, killing more than 400 of the enemy. Subsequent to the capture of Kaihtik, at the risk of his life, he again personally led his troops in a series of forced marches toward Mong-Wing to clear up the points of enemy resistance along the north bank of the Shweli River and to cover the river crossing of another regiment. By his personal leadership, Colonel Yang inspired his troops in the achievement of these victories, thereby reflecting great credit on himself and the Chinese armed forces.

From his unit's location on the left rear of the main body of Combat Command R, 2d Armored Division, Major Greer observed the formation of an enemy attack in Irxleben, just prior to dark. Realizing that a successful attack by the enemy would cut off and probably destroy the gas, oil, food, and ammunition of the main body, and would greatly hinder the planned attack in Madgeburg by Combat Command A, 2d Armored Division, Major Greer organized, with the men he had available, and personally led a counterattack which was successful in pushing back the enemy. He inspired his men, who were, in the main, cooks, drivers, mechanics, and clerks, by being at all times at the head of the advance, personally directing all movement and fire. I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Captain Michael J. Auer, O2006838 (then staff sergeant) (Army serial No. 37339680), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company A, 19th Armored Infantry Battalion, displayed extraordinary heroism in action near Hatten, France, from 13 to 20 January 1945. When his battalion was forced to withdraw and covering unit was cut off by the enemy, he moved about from group to group under intense enemy artillery, mortar, and small-arms fire and, organizing and encouraging the troops with him, did much by his aggressive and fearless leadership to save the covering force. With the battalion again on the offensive, Captain Auer manned a machine gun, and, in addition, hurled grenades into the enemy position and broke up a German attack single-handed. Then, fighting a rear guard action, he enabled a surrounded and outnumbered company to withdraw from threatened enemy encirclement. The exemplary heroism and constant fearless leadership of Captain Auer reflect great credit on himself and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Lieutenant Colonel John W. Bowen, O18904 (then colonel), General Staff Corps (Infantry), United States Army. November 1944 to February 1948. (Par. 1, sec. VIII, General Orders 88, WD, 1945, pertaining to the award of the Legion of Merit (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) to Lieutenant Colonel Bowen (then colonel), for service from November 1944 to August 1945, is rescinded.)

III. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted men:

Colonel Franciszek Demel, Polish Army, commanded the 4th Wolynska Brigade attached to the 15th Army Group in an encircling movement at Bologna, Italy, on 21 April 1945. To reduce a series of mutually supporting strongpoints, he led his men in several assaults across flat, heavily mined terrain, forcing the enemy to abandon one position after another, despite the fact that the attack was carried out under heavy artillery, mortar, machine-gun, and small-arms fire. Colonel Demel's disregard for personal safety, his inspiring leadership, and great tactical skill contributed in large measure to the liberation of Bologna.

Sergeant Albert T. Gerritsen (Army serial No. 37036768) Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company I, 133d Infantry Regiment, 34th Division, on 4 November 1943, displayed gallantry in action against the enemy at Santa Maria Oliveto, Italy. In a desperate defensive stand against a heavy enemy attack, he was at the fore of a squad of men, helping and inspiring them to hold against the greatly superior enemy force. He maintained constant contact among the men throughout the night. The next morning, as the Germans launched their attack on the defenders, he quickly moved from spot to spot, wherever the fight was heaviest, to face the enemy attackers. Later, going down the mountain through a heavy barrage of mortar shells, machine-gun, and artillery fire, he and two other men obtained a machine gun and a 60-mm mortar and returned with their clothing loaded with ammunition and grenades. Using the mortar to break up gatherings of the enemy force, he then took up the machine gun and, always making for the hottest spot of the fighting, provided a constant source of strength in the desperate defense. Through his courage, daring, and indomitable fighting spirit, demonstrated in his heroic actions in meeting the overwhelming enemy attack, Sergeant Gerritsen did much to aid in holding this important break in the German Barbara Line in Italy.

Master Sergeant Hiram W. Lane (Army serial No. 20361292) (then staff sergeant), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the 121st Infantry Regiment, displayed gallantry in action in Germany on 22 December 1944. During a strong counterattack by a very determined enemy in the fierce battle of the Huertgen Forest, Company G was subjected to murderous machine-gun and mortar fire followed by an overwhelming assault on the company position. Sergeant Lane, in the absence of a platoon officer, took command of his platoon. With a light machine gun, he moved from one hole to another to return the enemy fire and inspire his battle-weary men to hold and repulse the enemy attack. He then rallied his men and led an assault on the enemy, and, in the vicious hand-to-hand combat that followed, was instrumental in killing many of the enemy and capturing 14 prisoners. The courageous, fearless, and conspicuous leadership of Sergeant Lane was in keeping with the highest military traditions.

Staff Sergeant Norbert W. Rowenhorst (Army serial No. 20703002) (then sergeant), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company I, 133d Infantry Regiment, 34th Division, on 4 November 1943, displayed gallantry in action against the enemy at Santa Maria Oliveto, Italy. In a desperate, defensive stand against a heavy enemy attack, he led a platoon of men, aiding and inspiring them to hold against the greatly superior enemy force. Placing the men for most effective use of their firepower, he maintained constant contact among them throughout the night. The next morning, as the Germans launched their attack on the defenders, he moved quickly from spot to spot, in the hail of enemy fire and explosives, to face the enemy attackers. Demonstrating exceptional courage, calm judgment, and superior leadership ability, Sergeant Rowenhorst led his unit in securing the regimental objective and in completely beating and disorganizing the almost overwhelming enemy attacking forces, making it possible for the battalion soon to take up the attack.

against an enemy of the United States during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Lieutenant Colonel Stanley H. Hankins, O51100 (then major), Signal Corps, United States Army. 23 February to 9 April 1942.

VI. BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers, warrant officer, and enlisted men:

Second Lieutenant Ernest Afed (O28891), Infantry, Philippine Army, as platoon commander, Company G, 11th Infantry, Philippine Army, on 29 January 1942, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in Bataan, Philippine Islands. As he led his platoon toward the position of an infiltrated enemy force, the men suddenly came under heavy enemy machine-gun and small-arms fire. Immediately stopping the unit, he then began a reconnaissance, crawling through the heavy jungle, coming under repeated enemy fire as he penetrated the hostile lines, and returned with valuable information. Leading his platoon in the following attack, continuing to demonstrate outstanding leadership and determination, Lieutenant Afed contributed substantially to the success of his unit and to the disruption of the enemy advance in that important sector.

Corporal Colin C. Francis, Australian Imperial Forces, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in the Southwest Pacific Area from January 1942 to September 1945. As radio operator and mechanic attached to the Royal Australian Naval Coastwatching party, which operated inside enemy-occupied Bougainville, Solomon Islands, he displayed exceptional technical skill and fortitude throughout a 16-month mission as he furnished regular, accurate reports of enemy sea, land, and air movements to Allied commands during a most critical phase of operations. Later, as a member of an Allied Intelligence Bureau Party, which landed by airplane behind enemy lines in the Sepik River area of New Guinea, he rendered invaluable and gallant assistance in prosecuting field intelligence and native guerrilla activities. Again, in the islands northwest of enemy-held New Ireland, he served with a coastwatching party which gained vital information for the Allied commands. Through his outstanding skill and courage and his resolute devotion to duty, despite trying jungle conditions and the continual risk of life, Corporal Francis made a noteworthy contribution to the continued effectiveness of intelligence activity in the Southwest Pacific Area.

Lieutenant (acting) John F. Lewitz, Australian Imperial Forces, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in Sanananda, New Guinea, from 2 to 19 January 1943. As forward observer of an Australian artillery unit in defense of the Huggins Perimeter, he repeatedly braved enemy fire to direct supporting artillery fire. During the operation, he volunteered to accompany two other men on a patrol to secure information concerning enemy strength and dispositions. While on this mission, the patrol encountered four enemy pillboxes and several snipers. Although pinned down by heavy enemy fire, Lieutenant Lewitz made maps and took azimuths of the enemy positions. He then led a withdrawal and brought the required information back to headquarters. Using this information, the troops broke through the enemy lines and captured one of the strongest enemy positions on Sanananda Track.

Captain John S. Milligan, Australian New Guinea Administrative Unit, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in Dutch New Guinea, on 15 March 1944. He volunteered to act as interpreter for a small reconnaissance patrol charged with locating a site for a proposed air strip on Maty Island, then believed to be held by the enemy. Equipped only with small arms, the patrol took off by seaplane, landed at the island before dawn, located potential sites for the air strip, took soil samples, tested areas of soft ground, and determined the most suitable location. Throughout the operation, Captain Milligan's knowledge of native languages and customs was of great service in securing from local inhabitants information not otherwise obtainable. After completing its reconnaissance, the patrol was recovered by seaplane and returned to its base, where it furnished information vitally important to future operations. Captain Milligan's courage in voluntarily exposing himself to danger contributed markedly to the success in the New Guinea Area.

Leading Aircraftsman David N. Moore, Royal Australian Air Force, distinguished himself by heroic achievement at Manus Island, Admiralty Group, on 22 March 1944. A strong enemy counterattack had forced the 2d Brigade Combat Team, to which Leading Aircraftsman Moore was attached, to withdraw from the area north of Rossum Village. Upon resuming the attack, it was found that the enemy had mined the intervening area, making it impossible for tanks to move forward in support of American troops. Leading Aircraftsman Moore, a member of a bomb disposal unit, was charged with clearing the mine field. He crawled forward with a mine detector and, while in a prone position exposed to heavy enemy automatic fire from a distance of 50 yards, located and removed the mines by hand. Leading Aircraftsman Moore's heroic action in the face of grave danger opened a route for the tanks to move forward against the enemy.

Leading Aircraftsman Ernest C. Morrison, Royal Australian Air Force, distinguished himself by heroic achievement at Manus Island, Admiralty Group, on 22 March 1944. A strong enemy counterattack had forced the troops to withdraw from the area north of Rossum Village. Upon resuming the attack, it was found that the enemy had mined the intervening area, making it impossible for tanks to move forward in support of the troops. Leading Aircraftsman Morrison, a member of a bomb disposal unit, charged with clearing the mine field, crawled forward with a mine detector and, while in a prone position exposed to heavy enemy automatic fire, located and removed the mines. Leading Aircraftsman Morrison's heroic action in the face of grave danger opened a route for the tanks to move forward against the enemy and contributed markedly to the success of operations on Manus Island.

Sergeant Allan P. Nison (then corporal), Royal Australian Air Force, distinguished himself by heroic achievement at Manus Island, Admiralty Group, on 22 March 1944. A strong enemy counterattack had forced the troops to withdraw from the area north of Rossum Village. Upon resuming the attack, it was found that the enemy had mined the intervening area, making it impossible for tanks to move forward in support of the troops. Sergeant Nison, a member of a bomb disposal unit, was charged with clearing the mine field. He crawled forward with a mine detector and, while in a prone position exposed to heavy enemy automatic fire, located and removed the mines. Sergeant Nison's heroic action in the face of grave danger opened a route for tanks to move forward against the enemy.

Lieutenant Colonel Keith E. O'Connell, Australian Imperial Forces, distinguished himself by heroic achievement near Sanananda, New Guinea, from 2 to 22 January 1943. As commander of an Australian field artillery regiment, which was supporting an American infantry regiment, he planned, coordinated, and effectively controlled the artillery fire of his unit. Under intense enemy fire, he frequently accompanied his troops into the front lines and personally directed operations. Colonel O'Connell's superior services in cooperating with American forces were of importance in destroying the strongest point of enemy resistance between Soputa and Sanananda Point, New Guinea.

First Lieutenant Zostimo J. Paredes, Philippine Army, distinguished himself by heroic achievement on Bataan, Philippine Islands, from 29 January to 12 February 1942, while commanding Company G, 11th Infantry, Philippine Army. Being directed to move his unit to the junction of Trails Nos. 5 and 7, and to attack an enemy force of unknown size advancing up the valley of Toul River, he led his men through heavy jungle and attacked with such skill and daring that the progress of the enemy was brought to a complete halt. The enemy was then held in place for nearly 20 hours until additional reinforcements could be brought from the rear. This successful operation was due, in a very considerable degree, to the skill, leadership, loyalty, and heroism in close contact with the enemy displayed by Lieutenant Paredes.

Leading Aircraftsman Harold J. Pares, Royal Australian Air Force, distinguished himself by heroic achievement at Manus Island, Admiralty Group, on 22 March 1944. A strong enemy counterattack had forced the troops to withdraw from the area north of Rossum Village. Upon resuming the attack, it was found that the enemy had mined the intervening area, making it impossible for tanks to move forward in support of the troops. Leading Aircraftsman Pares, a member of a bomb disposal unit, charged with clearing the mine field, crawled forward with a mine detector and, while in prone position exposed to heavy enemy automatic fire, located and removed the mines. His heroic action in the face of grave danger opened a route for the tanks to move forward against the enemy and contributed markedly to the success of operations on Manus Island.

Corporal Coy L. Wade (Army serial No. 18038606) (then private), Coast Artillery Corps, Army of the United States, a member of the 59th Coast Artillery (AA) Regiment, displayed heroic action at Corregidor, Philippine Islands, on 4 May 1942. Immediately after bombs had fallen in his area, killing and wounding men of his battery, Corporal Wade, while under enemy artillery fire, left a place of shelter and aided and transported the wounded personnel to the hospital.

Warrant Officer Robert B. Waterson, Australian New Guinea Administrative Unit, Australian Imperial Forces, performed heroic service at Bougainville, Solomon Islands, from 20 to 29 September 1944. With six native police boys, he was attached to American forces on Bougainville, Solomon Islands, during American operations in the Reintekessi River sector. He led reconnaissance patrols and collected much valuable information concerning enemy strength, dispositions, and equipment. Leading two combat patrols on successive missions, he made a thorough reconnaissance, which enabled American forces to ambush and kill 19 of the enemy. Warrant Officer Waterson's skill, efficiency, and aggressiveness contributed much to the success of operations in the Northern Solomons area.

Captain Sidney M. Wilson, Australian Imperial Forces, distinguished himself by heroic achievement near Sanananda Point, New Guinea, from 2 to 16 January 1943. As forward observer for an Australian artillery unit attached to an American infantry regiment, he repeatedly braved enemy fire to coordinate and direct his artillery. On 16 January, while in the forward command post directing fire in support of an infantry attack, he was wounded by an enemy grenade. By refusing to be evacuated and successfully executing his mission, Captain Wilson contributed markedly to the destruction of the strongest point of enemy resistance between Soputs and Sanananda Point, New Guinea.

II. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. 1, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following unit is cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

Company L, 383d Infantry Regiment, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy, on 9 April 1945, in the vicinity of Kakazu Ridge, Okinawa Island. This company was assigned the mission of assaulting a heavily fortified T-shaped ridge spur in the northwest extremity of the town of Kakazu, which gave the enemy complete observation and flanking fire on the entire regiment. The occupation of this spur, which provided observation of the main enemy strong point along the entire ridge, was of vital importance to the entire command. Company L gained complete surprise and, with bayonets fixed, boldly and fearlessly charged the heavily defended position and attained the assigned objective. Company G, 383d Infantry Regiment, on the left and Company I, 383d Infantry Regiment, on the right encountered withering machine-gun cross fire and intense mortar and artillery barrages and were unable to take the ridge in their sectors, thus imperiling Company L's security. Superior enemy forces supported by heavy mortars and massed artillery launched four powerful and determined counterattacks. Company L, although weakened by severe losses, displayed unexcelled courage and prowess in arms by gallantly holding its objective through the grimly raging battle until, ultimately, the enemy was repulsed. Company L held this strategic position all day until forced to withdraw at 1630 because of severe flanking fire and a critical shortage of ammunition. This company killed 160 of the enemy, including 1 colonel and 1 major and destroyed a 320-mm mortar which had been harrassing the regiment. Company L's losses included 10 killed in action, 5 missing in action, and 30 wounded. The conspicuous aggressiveness, valor, extraordinary heroism, and profound devotion to duty displayed by this company were an inspiration to the regiment. The eminently significant accomplishment of this gallant and cohesive fighting force

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant Frank F. Aiello (Army serial No. 32002089), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company M, 39th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action at Kasserine Pass, Tunisia, on 20 February 1943. While serving as leader of a section of machine guns, he was painfully wounded by an enemy grenade. Although ordered to seek first aid, he refused to leave his position, which was under heavy enemy attack, but continued to direct his section in repelling those attacks. Several hours later, when the platoon sector became untenable as a result of enemy penetrations and withdrawal to a new position though heavy machine-gun fire was ordered, Sergeant Aiello elected to remain behind, firing a machine gun at the advancing enemy to protect the withdrawal of his men by drawing to himself the fire and attention of the enemy. In so doing, he was mortally wounded.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (third Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility is awarded to the following-named officer.

General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, O3822, United States Army. As Chief of Staff, United States Army.

III. SILVER STAR.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

First Lieutenant Juan M. Duyan, O28883 (then second lieutenant), Infantry, Philippine Army, commanding the 3d Platoon, Company F, 11th Infantry, Philippine Army, from 7 to 9 February 1942, displayed gallantry in action near Pilar-Bagac Road, Bataan, Philippine Islands. He led his platoon in a counterattack against a greatly superior enemy force, but unable to reestablish contact with the regiment, he directed the men to organize for defense. Digging fox holes with bayonets and sharpened bamboo, and with few rifles, little ammunition, and no food, the platoon held the position against repeated Japanese attacks. For 2 days Lieutenant Duyan led the valiant unit in a desperate defense until, finally, other units fought through. Then, resupplied with food and ammunition, the platoon immediately joined in a series of attacks and destroyed the enemy who penetrated the position. Courageously leading the platoon through a 2-day siege under repeated enemy infantry and fire attacks, Lieutenant Duyon aided greatly in limiting the hostile penetration and contributed to the destruction of the enemy force.

Captain William W. Jean, O1030680 (then first lieutenant), Cavalry, Army of the United States, as platoon leader, Troop F, 7th Cavalry, on 19 March 1944, displayed gallantry in action on Manus Island, Bismark Archipelago. Leading his unit on combat reconnaissance, he suddenly ran into heavy enemy machine-gun fire, which killed or wounded several of the platoon. Quickly, he made a check of the terrain under the continuing fire. Discovering a large bunker as the key to the enemy location, he designated positions for the platoon and, with one other man, crawled forward. Suddenly, he signaled the other man to open fire on the enemy position. With a grenade in each hand, Captain Jean made a lone assault on the enemy bunker, throwing the grenades through the gun slit and dropping to the ground. Crawling back quickly to the platoon, he assembled his men and directed the systematic clearing of the remaining enemy force. Through his personal courage and outstanding leadership, Captain Jean accomplished the elimination of the dangerous enemy position, which enabled the platoon to continue its advance.

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated was awarded by Headquarters, Philippine Coast Artillery Command, Fort Mills, Philippine Islands, to the following-named enlisted man:

Technical Sergeant Walter J. Wasilewski (Army serial No. 7031498) (then corporal), Medical Department, United States Army, a member of Company A, 803d Engineer Battalion (Aviation), on 24 March 1942, displayed gallantry in action at Corregidor, Philippine Islands. During a heavy Japanese bombardment and shelling of Kindley Field and vicinity, in which several men were severely wounded, he moved without regard for his safety through the barrage of enemy shells to aid the fallen men. Passing through an area of tall grass blazing among stacks of bombs in imminent danger of exploding, he helped move the wounded soldiers to the hospital in Malinta Tunnel. Sergeant Wasilewski's outstanding courage and determination are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

IV. LEGION OF MERIT.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. V. SOLDIER'S MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 2 July 1926 (Bul. 8, WD, 1926), the Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted men:

Private First Class Edwin A. Lynch, Jr. (Army serial No. 13249528) (then private), Cavalry, Army of the United States, a member of Troop C, 7th Cavalry Regiment, displayed outstanding heroism at the risk of his life on 15 June 1947. Seeing a soldier struggling desperately in the Sumida River and calling for help, without hesitation and with total disregard for his personal safety, Private Lynch plunged into the river and swam to his assistance. He reached the drowning man about the same time as another soldier and together they managed to reach shore safely. The drowning man was then revived by artificial respiration.

Seeing a soldier struggling desperately in the Sumida River and calling for help, without hesitation and with total disregard for his personal safety, Private O'Leary plunged into the river and swam to his assistance. He reached the drowning man about the same time as another soldier and together they managed to reach shore safely. The drowning man was then revived by artificial respiration.

VIII.—BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the periods indicated is awarded the following-named officers and enlisted men:

Sergeant Ramon Abalon (123233), Infantry, Philippine Army, a member of Company E, 11th Infantry, Philippine Army, on 9 February 1942, distinguished himself by heroic achievement near Pilar-Bagac Road, Bataan, Philippine Islands. Seeing that the tanks soon lost direction in the dense jungle growth, in a tank and infantry attack against a strong enemy force, he voluntarily climbed atop one of the vehicles and guided it through the jungle. Exposed to the full range of enemy fire atop the advancing tank, he sent a stream of bullets into an enemy machine-gun nest from the tank antiaircraft gun. Then, seeing one of the tanks disabled and surrounded by hostile soldiers, he led a group of men and, with a captured enemy mortar, killed several of the enemy and dispersed the remainder, thereby saving the tank and its crew from capture. Despite a serious wound suffered in the attack, Sergeant Abalon continued to demonstrate his outstanding courage, leadership, and determination and contributed greatly to the success of the attack until relieved by a supporting force.

First Lieutenant Carl M. Blevins, O1290884 (then second lieutenant), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company L, 39th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in Tunisia, French North Africa, on 21 February 1943. The mission of the company was the defense of a mountain ridge west of Kasserine Pass. During the morning, the enemy overran the position and the remnants of Company L were forced back, leaving the 2d Platoon to cover the withdrawal. Lieutenant Blevins, although painfully wounded, retained control of his platoon and, showing great courage and heroism, enabled the remnants of the company to fall back and reorganize in a new position. After completing his mission, he ordered what few men were left in his platoon to retire and covered their withdrawal. Lieutenant Blevins sacrificed his safety for his men and was captured. His courageous actions were highly commendable.

Sergeant Johnie T. Carter (Army serial No. 6896200) (then private first class), Chemical Warfare Service, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in the Philippine Islands on 7 April 1942. During the defense of Bataan, when one of his comrades was wounded by enemy mortar fire and unable to walk, he carried this soldier for a mile through the jungle to where five other soldiers lay wounded. He then attracted a passing jeep and evacuated all six to a hospital through enemy fire. Sergeant Carter's actions reflect great credit on himself.

Major George J. Heil, Jr., O39109 (then captain), Infantry, United States Army, a member of the 16th Infantry Regiment and commanding Company F, on 22 March 1943, distinguished himself by heroic achievement near El Guettar, Tunisia. With his company leading an assault in the face of intense enemy mortar, artillery, and small-arms fire, and seeing the danger to the men and possible failure of the attack if the unit became pinned down by the curtain of fire, Major Heil quickly placed himself at the head of the company and, though wounded, courageously led the men forward through the narrow pass. Reaching the other side and placing the men in effective positions under the continuing enemy fire, he was again wounded seriously and was evacuated. Major Heil demonstrated outstanding courage and aggressive leadership in leading his company in the face of heavy enemy fire.

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Major Leonard R. Genserson, O494705 (then captain), Medical Corps, Army of the United States, distinguished himself by heroic achievement, on 15 August 1944, during the invasion of southern France. During the landing, an LST carrying heavy elements of the assault force was hit by a guided missile. Fire broke out and ignited vehicles loaded with gasoline and ammunition. The ship was beached and abandoned. Major Genserson, who had previously landed, returned to the beach and throughout the imminent hazards of mines, enemy airplanes, and artillery fire, together with ammunition from the exploding LST, continued to search the area for wounded, and to give them quick and efficient medical aid. His heroic action, quick thinking, and professional skill were an inspiration to those working with him and reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

3. By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Major Gordon O. Fraser, O378031 (then captain), Field Artillery, Army of the United States, a member of Headquarters, 863d Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroic achievement, on 4 March 1945, in the vicinity of Bubingen, Germany. As liaison officer with the battalion, he was following a company in an attack. In the course of this attack, the company advanced across open ground and the enemy fired on them, disorganizing the company. Major Fraser, disregarding his personal safety, immediately exposed himself to heavy enemy fire to talk to the leaders and the men, restore their confidence, and reorganize the company. The courage and leadership displayed by Major Fraser reflect credit on himself and the armed forces of the United States. (This award supersedes the award of the Bronze Star Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for meritorious achievement to Major Fraser, during the same period, as published in General Orders 633, 63d Infantry Division, 30 August 1945.)

In the course of the period from 27 November to 14 December 1944, the 31st AAA Group and its attached units provided the antiaircraft defense of the City of Liege against numerous attacks from the German air force. The ardor displayed by these units in the accomplishment of their mission was outstanding in the protection of property and human lives among the civilian population of Liege, as well as among the Allied troops.

BELGIAN CROIX DE GUERRE, awarded under Decree No. 4309, 26 September 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Realm, with the following citation:

At the time of the Ardennes offensive, and in spite of the efforts made by the German army to seize the City of Liege, the units forming the 31st AAA Group set up a particularly effective antiaircraft defense. During the period from 16 December 1944 to 25 January 1945, these units fought without respite against the most violent attacks of the German air force, thus contributing to the annihilation of every attempt by the enemy to secure possession of this particularly important center of communication and to effect a deep penetration into Belgium. The units of the 31st AAA Group displayed such an aggressive and effective defense that the Luftwaffe was unable to interrupt the continual stream of the supply trains bound for the front lines along the sole railway and over the single important bridge crossing the Meuse. These actions contributed in a large part to the liberation of Belgium.

2. Section III, General Orders 24, Department of the Army, 1947, is added as follows:

III. WEARING OF FOREIGN DECORATIONS.—The wearing of the French and Belgian Fourrageres and the Netherlands Orange Lanyard, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 18, AR 260-15, will be governed by the following:

1. French and Belgian Fourrageres.—Normally, two awards of the Croix de Guerre are required before a unit becomes eligible for the award of the Fourragere. The award of the Fourragere is not automatic, but must be specifically authorized by decree of the respective foreign government. The award of the Croix de Guerre to a unit does not authorize the wearing of the decoration by an individual. Likewise, no award of the Croix de Guerre to an individual is considered in determining eligibility to wear the Fourragere. The Fourragere may be worn permanently only by those individuals who were assigned, or permanently attached, to and present for duty with a unit during both actions for which the unit was cited for the Croix de Guerre. The French Fourragere may be worn temporarily by those individuals assigned, or permanently attached, to such unit, but who were not present for duty with the unit in both actions for which it was cited, only so long as they remain with such unit. Temporary wearing of the Belgian Fourragere is not authorized.

2. Netherlands Orange Lanyard.—The Netherlands Orange Lanyard may be worn permanently only by those individuals who were assigned, or permanently attached, to and present for duty with a unit during the action for which it was cited. Temporary wearing of the Netherlands Orange Lanyard is not authorized.

III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following unit is cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 2d Battalion, 47th Infantry Regiment, is cited for conspicuous battle action during the 5-day period between 24 and 28 November 1944, during which time it assaulted and completely penetrated the enemy main line of resistance guarding approaches to the Roer River. After clearing scattered resistance in Nothberg, on 23 November 1944, the 2d Battalion launched its main attack, at 1000 on 24 November 1944, toward Hucheln, Germany. Coming under murderous barrages of mortar, artillery, flat-trajectory, and machine-gun fire about 300 yards west of Hucheln, the 2d Battalion, using its attached tanks, closed on the enemy and in fierce hand-to-hand fighting forced their way into the town. They immediately engaged in house-to-house fighting throughout the entire night, capturing over 60 prisoners, 2 tanks, 18 machine guns, and many bazookas and small arms. Continuing their drive forward, on 25 November, they assaulted one of the strongest positions in the enemy's belt, the town of Wilhemshohe. The cellars of all houses had been strongly reinforced and reconverted into individual pillboxes. Following a heavy artillery barrage, the 2d Battalion closed swiftly with the enemy and, again in violent hand-to-hand fighting which lasted until midnight, forced the capitulation of the town. Over 300 of the enemy were taken alive, in addition to much equipment including 2 antitank guns, six 20-mm antiaircraft guns, 20 machine guns, and many bazookas and small arms. On 26 November, the 2d Battalion, reinforced, resumed the attack on the castle of Frenzenbert. Since the battalion had completely broken through the enemy's main line of defense, the enemy, in desperation, threw a company of paratroopers into the castle to halt our advance. In the face of extremely heavy artillery and mortar barrages, Company K succeeded in gaining a foothold in the outer buildings of the castle, putting up a savage battle until Companies F and G were able to force their way to the castle and assist them. For 2 days, a violent hand-to-hand battle continued in the castle, during which time the enemy launched repeated counter-attacks from the northeast and southeast to relieve the hard-pressed paratroopers holding out in the castle. On the third day, the castle was completely cleared of the enemy after more than 60 of the defenders had been killed. Within the 5 days from 24 to 28 November, the 2d Battalion assaulted and captured 3 heavily fortified positions, over 450 prisoners, twenty 20-mm antiaircraft guns, 2 tanks, 2 antitank guns, and hundreds of automatic weapons and small arms. In addition, the 2d Battalion completely destroyed one battalion of enemy infantry, one company of paratroopers, and parts of two other infantry battalions. Without ever having flank protection from units on its right and left, suffering severe casualties from the constant heavy barrages rained upon it, and having to cross more than 5 kilometers of heavily fortified and difficult terrain, the 2d Battalion, 47th Infantry Regiment, engaged and defeated a fanatical enemy by a magnificent display of courage and devotion to duty. (General Orders 22, Headquarters 9th Infantry Division, 3 February 1945, as approved by the Commanding General, First Army, 21 January 1945.)

I. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted men:

Technical Sergeant Abraham Jamail (Army serial No. 18114594) (then staff sergeant), Infantry, Army of the United States, as section sergeant of Weapons Platoon, Company G, 359th Infantry Regiment, displayed extraordinary heroism in action in the vicinity of St. Suzanne, France, on 4 July 1944. Locating an enemy machine gun which was holding up the company's advance, he fired a rifle grenade into the position, routing the crew of three which he then killed by rifle fire. Receiving fire from the left, he then crossed a heavily mined field to a hedgerow which had been cleared by the enemy to give them better fields of fire. Moving along its embankment, he destroyed another machine gun with grenades and forced the surrender of four others. Reaching the enemy command post, Sergeant Jamail killed, wounded, and captured the remainder of the group. (This award supersedes the award of the Silver Star Technical Sergeant Jamail, for gallantry in action on the same date, as published in General Orders 38, Headquarters 90th Infantry Division, 16 August 1944.)

Staff Sergeant Gaudencio Licerio (Army serial No. 6866189) (then sergeant), Infantry, Philippine Scouts, United States Army, a member of Company A, 57th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism at Bataan, Philippine Islands, on 28 March 1942. During the battle of Anyasen Point, he was designated by his company commander as leader of a suicide squad. Under heavy enemy fire, Sergeant Licerio engaged the enemy with hand grenades, thereby enabling his battalion to go forward and later to take the enemy position.

GENERAL COURTS MARTIAL—Authority to appoint granted-----	I
SECTION 55C, NATIONAL DEFENSE ACT, UNIT—Inactivated-----	II
BATTLE HONORS—Citation of unit-----	III

I. GENERAL COURTS MARTIAL.—By direction of the President, the commanding officer, Yokohama Command, is empowered, pursuant to the eighth article of war, to appoint general courts martial, effective as of 16 April 1948.

[AG 250.401 (15 Apr 48)]

II. SECTION 55C, NATIONAL DEFENSE ACT, UNIT.—Effective 19 April 1948, the section 55c, National Defense Act, unit located at Porterville Union High School and Junior College, Porterville, California, is inactivated.

[AG 000.8 (7 Apr 48)]

III. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following unit is cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

Combat Command B, 2d Armored Division, composed of the following units:

- Headquarters and Headquarters Company;*
- 67th Armored Regiment (less 3d Battalion);*
- 1st and 3d Battalions, 41st Armored Infantry Regiment;*
- 78th Armored Field Artillery Battalion;*
- Company B, Detachment E, 17th Armored Engineer Battalion;*
- Company B, 702d Tank Destroyer Battalion (SP);*
- Company B, 48th Armored Medical Battalion;*
- Detachment, 2d Armored Maintenance Battalion; and*
- Battery A, 195th Antiaircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion (SP),* is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action from 27 to 30 July 1944, inclusive, during the critical break-through of German positions west of St. Lo, France.

Following the saturation bombing on 25 July, Combat Command B moved to Canisy as a part of the division column, advancing with considerable difficulty over terrain characterized by sunken roads, hedgerows, and bomb craters. Upon reaching Canisy, the command pivoted to the southwest and drove for its assigned objective of St. Denis le Gast and the Sienne River. Crack German troops were caught in the pocket created by this maneuver. The enemy endeavored to break through the extended lines of the command with a series of vicious and determined attacks. All of these failed, though well-supported and organized, by reason of innumerable acts of individual heroism on the part of the members of Combat Command B and the teamwork and indomitable ability of the command as a unit. Eight successive enemy assaults at Pont Brocard, Notre Dame le Cenilly, la Penetiere, St. Denis le Gast, and on the road northwest of Grinesnil were beaten off in vicious hand-to-hand fighting and by direct fire from artillery and antiaircraft guns.

In less than 48 hours, Combat Command B forged its way from Canisy to the Sienne River and completed the encirclement of all German troops remaining in the area: Marigny, Coutances, and Cerences. This operation was a major factor in ending the hedgerow warfare of Normandy and opened the way for the subsequent rapid advance of the Third United States Army. The entire command was operating over a greatly extended front and its units frequently were nearly surrounded by larger German forces. From reconnaissance elements to supply services, all were almost constantly in contact with the enemy, owing to the situation created by the break-through into the enemy's rear areas.

However, all members of the command, clearly conscious of the importance of their own particular mission to the success of the entire operation, displayed the highest degree of initiative and enthusiasm, coupled with a complete disregard for their personal safety. The superb efficiency and fighting qualities of Combat Command B, 2d Armored Division, in this action are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States. (The foregoing citation supersedes those already made to subordinate units for action included in the above-cited period, and does not constitute an additional citation authorizing the wearing of an Oak-Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Unit Emblem to personnel cited in paragraph 7, section X, General Orders 2, War Department, 1946, citing Company I, 41st Armored Infantry Regiment, and the following units of the 67th Armored Regiment: Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 2d Battalion (less the Assault Gun Platoon); Company E, and the 3d Platoon, Company B; and section II, General Orders 54, War Department, 1946, citing the 78th Armored Field Artillery Battalion.)

II. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following unit is cited under the provisions of AR 280-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

Combat Command B, 7th Armored Division, composed of the following units:

Headquarters and Headquarters Company;

17th Tank Battalion;

31st Tank Battalion;

23d Armored Infantry Battalion;

38th Armored Infantry Battalion;

87th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron Mechanized (less Troop D);

3d Platoon, Company F, 423d Infantry Regiment; Company B, 33d Armored Engineer Battalion; and Company A, 814th Tank Destroyer Battalion (SP),*

is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action from 17 to 23 December 1944, inclusive, at St. Vith, Belgium. Combat Command B, 7th Armored Division, was subjected to repeated tank and infantry attacks, which grew in intensity as the German forces attempted to destroy the stubborn defenses that were denying to them the use of the key communication center at St. Vith. By the second day, the flanks were constantly threatened by enemy forces that had bypassed the St. Vith area and pushed far to the rear in an effort to encircle the command east of the Salm River. The attacking forces were repeatedly thrown back by the gallant troops who rose from their fox holes and fought in fierce hand-to-hand combat to stop the penetrations and inflict heavy losses on the numerically superior foe. As the command continued to deny the important St. Vith highway and railroad center to the Germans, the entire offensive lost its initial impetus and their supply columns became immobilized. By 21 December, the German timetable was so disrupted that the enemy was forced to divert a corps to the capture of St. Vith. Under extreme pressure from overwhelming forces, this command, which for 6 days had held the St. Vith area so gallantly, was ordered to withdraw west of the Salm River. By their epic stand, without prepared defenses and despite heavy casualties, Combat Command B, 7th Armored Division, inflicted crippling losses and imposed great delay upon the enemy by a masterful and grimly determined defense in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

I. MEDAL OF HONOR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded by the Department of the Army in the name of Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Staff Sergeant John R. Crews (Army serial No. 38397573), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company F, 253d Infantry Regiment, displayed conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty on 8 April 1945, near Lobenbacherhof, Germany. As his company was advancing toward the village under heavy fire, an enemy machine gun and automatic rifle with rifle support opened up on it from a hill on the right flank. Seeing that his platoon leader had been wounded by their fire, Sergeant Crews, acting on his own initiative, rushed the strong point with two men of his platoon. Despite the fact that one of these men was killed and the other was badly wounded, he continued his advance up the hill in the face of terrific enemy fire.

Storming the well dug-in position singlehandedly, he killed two of the crew of the machine gun at point-blank range with his M1 rifle and wrested the gun from the hands of the German whom he had already wounded. Then, with his rifle, he charged the strongly emplaced automatic rifle. Although badly wounded in the thigh by cross-fire from the remaining enemy, Sergeant Crews continued and silenced the entire position with his accurate and deadly rifle fire. His actions so unnerved the remaining enemy soldiers that seven of them surrendered and the others fled. Sergeant Crews' heroism caused the enemy to concentrate on him and thus permitted his company to move forward into the village.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named individual:

Doctor Thomas Parran, Jr., United States Public Health Service. December 1941 to December 1946.

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (second Oak-Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Lieutenant General Delos C. Emmons, AO2617, United States Air Force. August 1946 to June 1948.

III. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officer and enlisted men:

AGO 120B—July 800527—48

Corporal Eugene P. Gosline (Army serial No. 17027429) (then private first class), Coast Artillery Corps, Army of the United States, a member of Battery E, 80th Coast Artillery, displayed gallantry in action on 16 April 1942. During a heavy artillery bombardment of Corregidor, an enemy shell exploded within Middleside Barracks. Corporal Gosline voluntarily left a place of shelter and without regard for personal safety assisted in treating the wounded who were in an exposed position. On his own initiative, he procured a vehicle and evacuated the more serious cases to the hospital at Malinta Tunnel. The distance covered was almost 1½ miles and the entire route was under heavy shell fire. Corporal Gosline made the trip successfully and returned immediately through the continued bombardment to evacuate the remaining casualties.

Major William R. Nealson, O34407 (then captain), Infantry, United States Army, as supply officer and instructor of Division Special Units, 41st Division, Philippine Army, distinguished himself by gallantry in action on 27 December 1941. He volunteered to take charge of a convoy of miscellaneous vehicles to move critically needed supplies to the 42d Infantry Regiment, which was fighting a delaying action against the Japanese south of Manila, and to evacuate wounded. When the convoy was subjected to aerial bombardment, Major Nealson displayed notable leadership and disregard for personal safety in assembling it, calming the personnel, and continuing the journey to a successful accomplishment of the mission.

Technician Fourth Grade Marcos Redoble (Army serial No. 6613330) (then private first class), Infantry, Philippine Scouts, United States Army, a member of Company A, 57th Infantry (Philippine Scouts), distinguished himself by gallantry in action at Southwest Bataan, Philippine Islands, in February 1942. When the machine-gun squad of which he was the leader became separated from the company in the jungle fighting near Anyasan Point, Technician Redoble displayed able, exemplary, and gallant leadership in continuing the attack and advancing his positions until he attained the objective on the beach at Anyasan.

IV. LEGION OF MERIT.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, Bul. 40, WD, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. I, Bul. 54, WD, 1942), the Legion of Merit for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Colonel Francis M. Brannan, O3721, Infantry, United States Army. 1943 to 1948.

V. SOLDIER'S MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 2 July 1926 (WD, Bul. 8, 1926), the Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted men:

Technical Sergeant Thomas B. Brydson (Army serial No. RA19293340), Coast Artillery Corps, United States Army, a member of the crew of the Distribution Box Boat L-73, displayed outstanding heroism at the entrance to San Francisco Bay on 29 January 1948. When an accident occurred aboard the United States Army Mine Planter "Horace F. Spurgin", which caused a deckhand to be struck unconscious and thrown overboard, Sergeant Brydson immediately plunged into the hazardous, treacherous waters with utter disregard for his safety, rescued the unconscious man, and, without consideration of his personal welfare after being exposed to cold water, administered first aid.

Corporal Charles E. Smith, Jr. (Army serial No. RA38630647) (then private first class), Air Corps, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroism on 2 July 1945. While swimming in the Gulf of Mexico, off the shore at Galveston, Texas, Corporal Smith voluntarily and at the risk of his life went to the aid of three men who were in danger of drowning. Despite the strength of the powerful undertow and the large breakers, Corporal Smith dived and brought one of the swimmers to the surface and safely to the shore. The courage, alertness, and tenacity of purpose in the face of great personal danger exhibited by Corporal Smith in effecting the rescue of the drowning man are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

VI. BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted men:

Major Joseph L. Amell, Jr., O24136, General Staff Corps (Field Artillery), United States Army. October 1944 to June 1945.

First Sergeant Elmer G. Guthrie (Army serial No. 20954941), Coast Artillery Corps, Army of the United States. June 1944 to May 1945.

Major Charles H. Phaup, Jr., O371632 (then captain), Ordnance Department, Army of the United States. September to October 1944.

Sergeant Kenneth L. Robb (Army serial No. 17043323) (then corporal), Ordnance Department, Army of the United States. September to October 1944.

Captain Raymond V. Songaylo, O1554824 (then second lieutenant), Ordnance Department, Army of the United States. September to October 1944.

Colonel Floyd E. Thomas, O120717, Infantry, Army of the United States. September 1944 to August 1945. (Par. 12, sec. X, General Orders 61, WD, 1947, pertaining to the award of the Army Commendation Ribbon to Colonel Thomas, for service from April to August 1945, is rescinded.)

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, AO15355 (then lieutenant general, United States Army), United States Air Force. 9 to 27 March 1945.

3. By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal (First Oak-Leaf Cluster) for meritorious service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Lieutenant Colonel Harrell G. Hall, O51580 (then major), Quartermaster Corps (Transportation Corps), United States Army. January to June 1943.

VII. BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, Bul. 3, WD, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

First Lieutenant George W. Connell, Jr., O41326 (then second lieutenant), Chemical Warfare Service, United States Army, a member of Company B, 89th Chemical Mortar Battalion, distinguished himself by heroism in action near Sterkrade, Germany, on 24 March 1945. As forward observer with the 2d Battalion, 314th Infantry Regiment, 79th Infantry Division, he made his way alone to an exposed water tower despite continuous enemy machine-gun and rifle fire and, climbing up the tower, he remained there under fire until he had given directions for and observed the quick and successful laying of a smoke screen required to cover the withdrawal of an assault company. Later that evening, although wounded, he refused to be evacuated until he had arranged a difficult defensive fire as a protection for the battalion against counterattack. Lieutenant Connell thereby made noteworthy contributions to its successful operations.

VIII. COMMENDATION RIBBON.—1. By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under the provisions of paragraph 17.1, AR 600-45, the Commendation Ribbon for meritorious service during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers and enlisted men:

[AG 000.8 (24 Jun 48)]

III. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following units are cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 105th Infantry Regiment (less 3d Battalion and Company G) and the Spears Detachment, 762d Provisional Tank Battalion, attached, are cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty in combat against the enemy at Saipan, Marianas Islands, on 7 July 1944. The regiment attacked north toward the village of Makunsha on the west coast of Saipan, against increasing enemy resistance. At dawn on 7 July, this unit was subjected to one of the greatest Japanese mass attacks attempted in the Pacific Theater. The 1st and 2d Battalions fought furiously, as the enemy, attacking in great numbers and with fanatical fury, penetrated the combined perimeter defense and inflicted overwhelming casualties on the units. Forced to yield, the survivors of that fierce assault formed successive defensive positions and continued to engage the attacking forces. These units, faced with a dwindling supply of ammunition, water, and medical supplies, fought off incessant enemy attacks throughout the day. Meanwhile, the Japanese drive had carried on to the regimental command post where it was completely stopped and contained by the determined stand of Regimental Headquarters and Special Units. Every available man engaged in the action. Through the courage, tenacity, and endurance displayed by all ranks, this unit and its attachment, suffering severe casualties, repulsed the powerful assault launched by a numerically superior enemy and contributed materially to the defeat and destruction of the Japanese forces at Saipan. The conduct of the 105th Infantry Regiment (less 3d Battalion and Company G) and the Spears Detachment, 762d Provisional Tank Battalion, attached, throughout the battle reflects great credit on itself and is in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces of the United States. (The foregoing citation supersedes the citation made previously to a subordinate unit for action included in the above-cited period, and does not constitute an additional citation authorizing the wearing of an Oak-Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Unit Emblem to personnel of Headquarters Company, 105th Infantry Regiment, cited in paragraph 4, section VII, General Orders 45, War Department, 1946, which is rescinded.)

III. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following units are cited under the provisions of AR 260-15, in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 3d Battalion, 117th Infantry Regiment, and the 3d Platoon Antitank Company, 117th Infantry Regiment, attached, are cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy, on 3 and 4 October 1944, in the vicinity of Ubach, Germany. Passing through other elements of the 117th Infantry Regiment to further expand the initial penetration of the Siegfried Line and to seize and secure the town of Ubach, the battalion encountered stubborn resistance and engaged in bitter house-to-house fighting. Beginning at dawn on 4 October, the battalion was subjected to a series of three determined counterattacks by strong enemy forces, supported by tanks, self-propelled guns, and intense artillery and mortar fire. Every available man was employed in repulsing these enemy thrusts. Even though severe casualties were inflicted on this unit, it accomplished its mission successfully and contributed materially to the complete penetration of the formidable Siegfried Line defenses, as well as the subsequent successful offensive action by other troops in adjacent areas. Throughout this heroic action, the personnel of the 3d Battalion, 117th Infantry Regiment, and the 3d Platoon Antitank Company, 117th Infantry Regiment, attached, distinguished themselves by displaying determination, aggressiveness, high combat efficiency, and indomitable courage in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

[AG 000.8 (13 Sep 48)]

III. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, Bul. 22, WD, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following units are cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 1st Battalion, 415th Infantry Regiment, and the following attached units:

- Company C, 329th Engineer Combat Battalion;
- 1st Platoon, Antitank Company, 415th Infantry Regiment;
- Company C, 750th Tank Battalion;
- Company A, 555th Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion (AW);
- 1st Platoon, Company B, 692d Tank Destroyer Battalion, are cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy from 23 through 25 February 1945 in the vicinity of Birkesdorf and Arnoldsweller, Germany. On 23 February, the battalion forced a predawn crossing of the violent, flood-swollen Roer River and overran a well-established and heavily mined enemy position. Devastating counterfire failed to halt the attack on Birkesdorf and the adjacent high ground to the north. With these objectives well in hand, the battalion was committed to a night assault across unfamiliar ground to capture Arnoldsweller. Advancing without hesitation, the unit met deadly artillery fire, but secured a portion of the town by dawn. At this point, the enemy launched six furious counterattacks heavily supported by artillery and self-propelled guns. The battalion frustrated all of these thrusts, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy, and, after 2½ days of furious fighting, secured Arnoldsweller. The conspicuous gallantry, indomitable fighting spirit, and outstanding performance of duty exhibited by the 1st Battalion, 415th Infantry Regiment, and attached units, enabled the Roer River bridgehead to be firmly established and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

Americal Infantry Division, Headquarters and Headquarters Company.	PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION (NAVY) awarded, in the name of the President of the United States, by the Secretary of the Navy. The citation reads as follows: The officers and enlisted men of the First Marine Division, Reinforced, on August 7 to 9, 1942, demonstrated outstanding gallantry and determination in successfully executing forced landing assaults against a number of strongly defended Japanese positions on Tulagi, Gavutu, Tanambogo, Florida and Guadalcanal, British Solomon Islands, completely routing all the enemy forces and seizing a most valuable base and airfield within the enemy zone of operations in the South Pacific Ocean. From the above period until 9 September, 1942, this Reinforced Division not only held their important strategic positions despite determined and repeated Japanese naval, air and land attacks, but by a series of offensive operations against strong enemy resistance drove the Japanese from the proximity of the airfield and inflicted great losses on them by land and air attacks. The courage and determination displayed in these operations were of an inspiring order.

PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION (NAVY) awarded, in the name of the President of the United States, by the Secretary of the Navy. The citation reads as follows:

For extraordinary heroism in action against enemy Japanese forces during the invasion and capture of Okinawa Shima, Ryukyu Islands, from April 1 to June 21, 1945. Securing its assigned area in the north of Okinawa by a series of lightning advances against stiffening resistance, the First Marine Division, Reinforced, turned southward to drive steadily forward through a formidable system of natural and man-made defenses protecting the main enemy bastion at Shuri Castle. Laying bitter siege to the enemy until the defending garrison was reduced and the elaborate fortification at Shuri destroyed, these intrepid Marines continued to wage fierce battle as they advanced relentlessly, cutting off the Japanese on Oroku Peninsula and smashing through a series of heavily fortified, mutually supporting ridges extending to the southernmost tip of the island to split the remaining hostile force into two pockets where they annihilated the trapped and savagely resisting enemy. By their valor and tenacity, the officers and men of the First Marine Division, Reinforced, contributed materially to the conquest of Okinawa, and their gallantry in overcoming a fanatic enemy in the face of extraordinary danger and difficulty adds new luster to Marine Corps history and to the traditions of the United States Naval Service.

PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION
(NAVY) awarded, in the name of the President of the United States, by the Secretary of the Navy. The citation reads as follows:

For extraordinary heroism in action against enemy Japanese forces at Peleliu and Ngesebus from September 15 to 29, 1944. Landing over a treacherous coral reef against hostile mortar and artillery fire, the First Marine Division, Reinforced, seized a narrow, heavily mined beachhead and advanced foot by foot in the face of relentless enfilade fire through rain-forests and mangrove swamps toward the air strip, the key to the enemy defenses of the southern Palaus. Opposed all the way by thoroughly disciplined, veteran Japanese troops heavily entrenched in caves and in reinforced concrete pillboxes which honeycombed the high ground throughout the island, the officers and men of the Division fought with undiminished spirit and courage despite heavy losses, exhausting heat and difficult terrain, seizing and holding a highly strategic air and land base for future operations in the Western Pacific. By their individual acts of heroism, their aggressiveness and their fortitude, the men of the First Marine Division, Reinforced, upheld the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service.

PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION
(NAVY) awarded, in the name of the President of the United States, by the Secretary of the Navy. The citation reads as follows:

For outstanding performance in combat during the seizure of the Japanese-held islands of Saipan and Tinian in the Marianas from June 15 to August 1, 1944. Valiantly storming the mighty fortifications of Saipan on June 15, the Fourth Division, Reinforced, blasted the stubborn defenses of the enemy in an undeviating advance over the perilously rugged terrain. Unflinching despite heavy casualties, this gallant group pursued the Japanese relentlessly across the entire length of the island, pressing on against bitter opposition for twenty-five days to crush all resistance in their zone of action. With but a brief rest period in which to reorganize and re-equip, the Division hurled its full fighting power against the dangerously narrow beaches of Tinian on July 24 and rapidly expanded the beachheads for the continued landing of troops, supplies and artillery. either natural obstacles or hostile fire, these indomitable men spearheaded a merciless attack which swept Japanese forces before it and ravaged all opposition within eight days to add Tinian to our record of conquests in these strategically vital islands.

PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION (NAVY) awarded, in the name of the President of the United States, by the Secretary of the Navy. The citation reads as follows:

For extraordinary heroism in action against enemy Japanese forces during the assault and capture of Okinawa, April 1 to June 21, 1945. Seizing Yontan Airfield in its initial operation, the Sixth Marine Division, Reinforced, smashed through organized resistance to capture Ishikawa Isthmus, the town of Nago and heavily fortified Motobu Peninsula in 13 days. Later committed to the southern front, units of the Division withstood overwhelming artillery and mortar barrages, repulsed furious counterattacks and staunchly pushed over the rocky terrain to reduce almost impregnable defenses and capture Sugar Loaf Hill. Turning southeast, they took the capital city of Naha and executed surprise shore-to-shore landings on Oruku Peninsula, securing the area with its prized Naha Airfield and Harbor after nine days of fierce fighting. Reentering the lines in the south, Sixth Division Marines sought out enemy forces entrenched in a series of rocky ridges extending to the southern tip of the island, advancing relentlessly and rendering decisive support until the last remnants of enemy opposition were exterminated and the island secured. By their valor and tenacity, the officers and men of the Sixth Marine Division, Reinforced, contributed materially to the conquest of Okinawa, and their gallantry in overcoming a fanatic enemy in the face of extraordinary danger and difficulty adds new luster to Marine Corps history, and to the traditions of the United States Naval Service.

not be forgotten so long as gallantry and heroism are respected and honored. They are commended for their devotion to duty and splendid conduct at their battle stations under most adverse conditions. With limited defensive means against attacks in great force, they manned their shore installations and flew their aircraft so well that five enemy warships were either sunk or severely damaged, many hostile planes shot down, and an unknown number of land troops destroyed.

PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION
(NAVY) awarded, in the name of the President of the United States, by the Secretary of the Navy. The citation reads as follows:

For extraordinary heroism in action against enemy Japanese forces during the Okinawa Campaign, from April 4 to July 14, 1945. Bearing the entire burden of land-based aircraft support during the early part of the Okinawa Campaign, the Second Marine Aircraft Wing established facilities and operated its aircraft under the most hazardous field conditions with a minimum of equipment and personnel. Undeterred by either the constant rain during April and May or by heavy enemy artillery shelling and repeated day and night aerial bombing of the air strips, the unit succeeded in carrying out highly effective aerial operations against the enemy from Kyushu to the southernmost islands of the Ryukyu Group, flying picket-ship and anti-submarine patrols, fighter sweeps, day and night fighter and bomber strikes, reconnaissance and search missions, escort missions, and minesweeper and photographic plane cover, in addition to paradrop missions to move essential supplies to our forces. Blasting night and day at the enemy's dug-in infantry and artillery positions and executing some of the most successful night fighter operations of the Pacific War, the unit furnished close air support for our ground forces, shooting down 495 Japanese planes during this period. A gallant, fighting unit, complemented by skilled officers and men, the Second Marine Aircraft Wing played a major role in achieving the air superiority essential to our success in the Okinawa operation.

Army Garrison Forces, APO 86, Detachment, Headquarters.	NAVY UNIT COMMENDATION awarded by the Secretary of the Navy. The citation reads as follows: For outstanding heroism in support of Military Operations during the seizure of enemy Japanese-held Iwo Jima, Volcano Islands, February 19 to 28, 1945. Landing against resistance which rapidly increased in fury as the Japanese pounded the beaches with artillery, rocket and mortar fire, the Support Units of the Fifth Amphibious Corps surmounted the obstacles of chaotic disorganization, loss of equipment, supplies and key personnel to develop and maintain a continuous link between thousands of assault troops and supply ships. Resourceful and daring whether fighting in the front line of combat, or serving in rear areas or on the wreck-obstructed beaches, they were responsible for the administration of operations and personnel; they rendered effective fire support where Japanese pressure was greatest; they constructed roads and facilities and maintained communications under the most difficult and discouraging conditions of weather and rugged terrain; they salvaged vital supplies from craft lying crippled in the surf or broached on the beaches; and they ministered to the wounded under fire and provided prompt evacuation to hospital ships. By their individual initiative and heroism and their ingenious teamwork, they provided the unfailing support vital to the conquest of Iwo Jima, a powerful defense of the Japanese Empire. of extremely adverse conditions, the unit penetrated forward areas where our assault troops were engaged and, with limited men and material, began investigations, developed methods for suppressing the disease and organized and carried out the control operations. Faced with the problem of malaria in serious proportions during the early occupation of Guadalcanal, this unit employed effective measures to crush the epidemic. Later, during the landing of the first assault troops on Munda, the unit sent ashore a combat malaria control team which attacked the source of the disease and brought it under almost immediate control before an epidemic could develop. Successful in its mission on some of the most highly malarious islands in the world, the Malaria and Epidemic Disease Control Unit rendered invaluable service in preventing the loss of manpower and, by the efficiency and cooperation of its entire company, contributed materially to the success of our South Pacific Campaign.

NAVY UNIT COMMENDATION
 awarded by the Secretary of the Navy. The citation reads as follows:

For outstanding heroism in support of military operations in the forward areas of the South Pacific from December 10, 1942 to July 15, 1944. Flying unarmed, land-based planes without escort despite dangers from Japanese land, sea and air forces, treacherous tropical storms and mechanical failures at sea far from base, the South Pacific Combat Air Transport Command delivered bombs, ammunition, gasoline and vital supplies to combat troops in close and direct contact with the enemy. Frequently taken under fire by hostile antiaircraft guns and fighters while airborne, and by Japanese artillery and Naval gunfire while on the ground at advanced fields, the pilots, aircrewmembers and ground echelons served with courage, skill and daring in maintaining uninterrupted support of our forces in the forward areas and contributed essentially to the rout of the Japanese from strategically important bases in the South Pacific. This gallant record of achievement reflects the highest credit upon the South Pacific Combat Air Transport Command and the United States Naval Service.

I. MEDAL OF HONOR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 48, WD., 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of Congress to the following-named enlisted men:

Staff Sergeant Gus J. Kefurt (Army serial No. 35235413), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the 15th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty on 23 and 24 December 1944, near Bennwihr, France. Early in the attack, Sergeant Kefurt jumped through an opening in a wall to be confronted with about 15 Germans. Although outnumbered, he opened fire, killing 10 and capturing the others. During a seesaw battle which developed, he effectively adjusted artillery fire on an enemy tank close to his position, although exposed to small-arms fire. When night fell, Sergeant Kefurt maintained a three-man outpost in the center of the town, in the middle of the German positions, and successfully fought off several hostile patrols attempting to penetrate our lines. Assuming command of his platoon the following morning, he led it in hand-to-hand fighting through the town until blocked by a tank. Using rifle grenades, he forced the surrender of its crew and some supporting infantry. Sergeant Kefurt then continued his attack from house to house against heavy machine-gun and rifle fire. Advancing against a strong point that was holding up the company, his platoon was subjected to a strong counterattack and infiltration to its rear. Suffering heavy casualties in their exposed position, the men remained there because of Sergeant Kefurt's personal example of bravery, determination, and leadership. He constantly exposed himself to fire by going from man to man to direct fire. During this time, he killed approximately 15 of the enemy at close range. Although severely wounded in the leg, he refused first aid and immediately resumed fighting. When the forces to his rear were pushed back 3 hours later, Sergeant Kefurt refused to be evacuated, but, during several more counterattacks, moved painfully about under intense small-arms and mortar fire stiffening the resistance of his platoon by encouraging individual men and by his own fire until he was killed. As a result of Sergeant Kefurt's gallantry, the position was maintained. (This award supersedes the award of the Silver Star to Staff Sergeant Kefurt, for gallantry in action on 23 and 24 December 1944, as published in General Orders 59, Headquarters 3d Infantry Division, 23 February 1945.)

Staff Sergeant John W. Minick (Army serial No. 33514160), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the 121st Infantry Regiment, displayed conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty in action involving actual conflict with the enemy on 21 November 1944, near Hurtgen, Germany. Sergeant Minick's battalion was halted in its advance by extensive mine fields, exposing troops to heavy concentrations of enemy artillery and mortar fire. Further delay in the advance would result in numerous casualties and a movement through the mine field was essential. Voluntarily, Sergeant Minick led four men through hazardous barbed wire and debris, finally making his way through the mine field for a distance of 300 yards. When an enemy machine gun opened fire, he signalled his men to take covered positions, edged his machine gun alone toward the flank of the enemy weapon, and opened fire, killing two members of the gun crew and capturing three others. Moving forward again, he encountered and engaged single-handedly an entire company, killing 20 Germans and capturing 20, and enabling his platoon to capture the remainder of the hostile group. Moving ahead and spearheading his battalion's advance, he again encountered machine-gun fire. Crawling forward toward the enemy weapon, he reached a point from which he knocked it out of action. Still another mine field had to be crossed. Undeterred, Sergeant Minick advanced forward alone through constant enemy fire and while thus moving, detonated a mine and was killed instantly.

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant John G. Lally (Army serial No. 17019543) (then private), Medical Department, Army of the United States, displayed extraordinary heroism in combat against the enemy, on 20 January 1942, in the Philippine Islands. As a member of the Medical Detachment, 31st Infantry Regiment, Sergeant Lally, at the risk of his life, evacuated many of his wounded comrades from the firing line under heavy mortar and incessant sniper fire. Because of Sergeant Lally's heroism at that time, many were evacuated to a place of safety and some owed their lives to his courageous actions.

III. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Colonel Clyde C. Alexander, O5974 (then brigadier general), Field Artillery, United States Army. July 1942 to November 1944. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit to Colonel Alexander, for service from 5 October 1942 to 24 April 1943, as published in General Orders 50, Headquarters, United States Army Forces in the Far East, 28 August 1943.)

IV. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officer and enlisted man:

Corporal Earl S. Crimmins (Army serial No. 33510372) (then private), Field Artillery, Army of the United States, a member of the 19th Field Artillery Battalion, displayed gallantry in action on 24 March 1945, near Trebur, Germany. When enemy infantry and tanks counterattacked the area, Corporal Crimmins, a driver, heedless of the great danger, left his place of cover and moved his vehicle to safety under heavy enemy automatic-weapons fire. Returning he manned a machine gun and fired until his ammunition was exhausted. He then continued to fight with his carbine. During a particularly heavy barrage of shell fire, he rushed out to rescue a wounded comrade. Through his untiring efforts, Corporal Crimmins assisted greatly in smashing the enemy counterattack.

Major John J. Luther, Jr., O25597 (then first lieutenant), Infantry, United States Army, a member of the 83d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by gallantry in action near Coulot, France, on 6 July 1944, while in command of Company B, 329th Infantry Regiment. When the enemy made an unexpected heavy counterattack during his absence at the battalion command post, he returned to his company, seized a Browning automatic rifle, and personally launched and led a small group of his men in a daring sortie against the flank of the hostile attack which repelled it. Returning to his lines, Major Luther was painfully wounded by enemy mortar fire. He refused to go to the aid station, but reorganized his company, reorganized the lines, and reestablished the positions, despite heavy enemy fire. As a result of Major Luther's aggressiveness, disregard for personal safety, and leadership, the entire battalion position was saved.

V. LEGION OF MERIT.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, Bul. 40, WD, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. Sergeant Adams made this attempt fearlessly, without hesitation, and with full cognizance of the risk entailed, in an effort to save the lives of fellow soldiers. As a direct consequence of this action, Sergeant Adams was mortally wounded. His display of gallantry and courage reflects great credit on himself and the armed forces of the United States.

III, Bul. 11, WD, 1942), the following units are cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citations read as follows:

1. The 2d Battalion, 143d Infantry Regiment, is cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy from 6 to 9 December 1944 in the vicinity of Mount De Sigolsheim and Fme Boux, France. On 6 December, the battalion attacked across 2,000 meters of open terrain and captured the key terrain features of Mount De Sigolsheim and Hill 351, securing strong positions from which fire could be directed on vital enemy targets. Determined to regain these important heights, the enemy launched five strong, heavily supported counterattacks. The battalion successfully repulsed all of these assaults, fighting the enemy to a standstill and holding its positions. The exceptionally outstanding achievement and extraordinary heroism displayed by the 2d Battalion, 143d Infantry Regiment, during 4 days and 3 nights of unremitting and successful combat against skillful, determined, and vicious enemy forces reflect great credit on itself and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

2. The 3d Battalion, 143d Infantry Regiment, and the following attached units:

Cannon Company, 143d Infantry Regiment;

Company C, 111th Engineer Combat Battalion;

are cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy from 2 to 6 December 1944 in the vicinity of Ribeauville, France. Passing through other elements of the regiment, the battalion launched a sustained attack which forced a passage through the mountainous country between Walbourg and Ribeauville, expanding the division's area and permitting access to the Colmar Plain at Ribeauville, France. The enemy in this sector being steadily reinforced employed aggressive and fanatical efforts to halt the rapid advance of the battalion. Continuing the attack eastward, the unit destroyed the enemy bridgeheads across the Fecht River at Guemar and Ostheim, against increasingly large enemy forces fighting with a skill and determination seldom encountered. During this attack, the 3d Battalion was gallantly supported by the Cannon Company armed with light tanks and acting as armor and the engineers who performed the hazardous tasks of removing several kilometers of booby trapped and cleverly mined road blocks. The indomitable fighting spirit and outstanding achievement of the 3d Battalion, 143d Infantry Regiment, and attached units, were major contributions to the success of the 36th Infantry Division in the

On 16 August, elements of the 1st Battalion in Le Bourg St. Leonard were attacked by a superior enemy force, attempting to clear the area of an escape route for their entrapped forces. The battle raged all day, tanks battled furiously throughout the encounter, and by evening the 1st Battalion had regained part of the lost ground. The following morning, the enemy attacked in regimental strength and seized the town. Late in the afternoon, the 1st Battalion, reinforced by tanks and tank destroyers and inspired by superior leadership, launched a determined attack

The citation reads as follows:

The 5th Cavalry Regiment and the following attached units:

- Detachment, Headquarters and Headquarters Troop, 1st Cavalry Brigade;*
- 99th Field Artillery Battalion;*
- Troop A, 8th Engineer Squadron;*
- 1st Collecting Troop, 1st Medical Squadron;*

Battery A, 211th Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion (AW); 12th Air Liaison Party, Fifth Air Force; and the 30th Portable Surgical Hospital

are cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty in action on Los Negros Island, Admiralty Group, during the period 29 February to 4 March 1944. On 29 February, elements of the 5th Cavalry Regiment landed on Los Negros Island for a reconnaissance in force of this Japanese-held base. The rapid and aggressive movements of the assault overwhelmed the defenders and enabled the landing force to seize a portion of Momote airstrip and establish a beachhead. For 3 days and 2 nights this small force held the beachhead, repaired the airstrip, and repulsed several strong enemy attacks. On 2 March, the remainder of the 5th Cavalry Regiment and supporting forces landed, expanded the beachhead, and secured the entire airstrip, thereby permitting reconstruction of this essential airdrome. However, the Japanese commander assembled his forces and launched an all-out attack on the night of 3-4 March. Wave after wave of screaming, fanatical Japanese, supported by artillery and mortar fire, charged the thinly held perimeter of the 5th Cavalry Regiment. Infiltrating parties cut all communication lines and attacked command posts, artillery, and automatic-weapons positions. Many hand-to-hand fights took place within the perimeter. Every attack was repulsed with heavy loss to the enemy and by dawn the shattered remnants of the Japanese forces withdrew into the jungle. When a new outpost line was established, over 750 enemy dead were counted. The indomitable fighting spirit and outstanding achievement of the 5th Cavalry Regiment and attached units were major contributions to the success of the Admiralty campaign and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States. (This citation supersedes the citation made to a subordinate unit for action included in the above-cited period, but does not constitute an additional citation authorizing the wearing of an Oak-Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Unit Emblem to personnel of the 2d Squadron, 5th Cavalry Regiment, cited in par. 2, sec. XI, WD General Orders 50, 1944).

V. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following units are cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 17th Infantry Regiment and the following attached units:

Company A, 767th Tank Battalion;

91st Chemical Company (less 1st and 3d Platoons);

Company A, 7th Medical Battalion; and

Company A, 13th Engineer Battalion,

are cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty in action on Leyte, Philippine Islands, during the period 23 to 30 October 1944. On 23 October, the regiment launched an attack that secured the barrios of Julita, Tanganon, San Pablo, and the vital airfield at San Pablo. Continuing the attack against fanatical resistance, the combat team, with its flanks exposed, advanced on Dagami. Approaching the town, violent and bitter resistance was encountered in the "Battle of the Stone Bridge." This enemy position dominating and guarding the approaches to Dagami consisted of numerous pillboxes fully manned, protected by tank traps, mines, and rice paddies. Driving forward, the battalions, by aggressive and courageous fighting, overcame this last major obstacle protecting the town. In one of the hardest fought and bloodiest actions of the Leyte campaign, the regiment and its attached units annihilated elements of three enemy regiments, captured two airfields, and secured the corps beachhead line in its zone. The invincible fighting spirit and outstanding achievements of the 17th Infantry Regiment and attached units were major contributions to the success of the Leyte campaign and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following unit is cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 19th Infantry Regiment is cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty in action on Mindanao, Philippine Islands, during the period 29 April to 30 June 1945. After landing on the west coast at Parang and completing a 144-mile advance across the jungle terrain of the island in 17 days, the regiment reached Davao Gulf and prepared to close with the main enemy defenses. On 3 May, it turned north, made an assault crossing of the Davao River, and seized the strategic city of Davao. Expanding its hold on the city, the regiment again drove north to establish contact with guerrilla forces at the head of the gulf, then pushed westward along the Davao River to crush the Sacred Hill—Mandog defense line. The enemy in the Mandog area resisted every attack from well-fortified positions, but the battalions, by costly and determined assaults, routed the defenders. The 19th Infantry Regiment then joined the division to eliminate the last organized resistance near Mount Monoy. During these drives, 21 large naval coastal guns were seized and destroyed, 5 large airfields secured, and Pakiputan Straits opened. The sustained fighting qualities and the outstanding achievements of the 19th Infantry Regiment were major contributions to the success of the Mindanao campaign and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army of the United States.

During the crucial period of the general offensive of the Ardennes, in 1944, the 7th Armored Division and the units attached to it were attacked by enemy forces estimated at eight divisions, five of them armored. They held the important junction of St. Vith and prevented the German advance and exploitation of this axis. In this manner, it doomed the German offensive by checkmating it and permitted, through its sacrifice, the allied forces to undertake a general counteroffensive. In assuming the attack on 20 January 1945, these units took an active part in the counteroffensive by driving the enemy out of their positions and away from our boundaries. They inflicted severe losses upon them and, more particularly, they captured more than one thousand prisoners.

II. MERITORIOUS UNIT COMMENDATION.—By direction of the Secretary of the Army, under the provisions of paragraph 14, AR 260-15, the Meritorious Unit Commendation is awarded to the following unit of the Army of the United States for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated. The citation reads as follows:

The 824th Engineer Aviation Battalion is commended for exceptionally meritorious conduct and performance of outstanding services in Iceland from January to July 1944. Given the mission of preparing airfield facilities at that important base, the unit constructed and maintained Meeks and Patterson Fields during unusually trying weather conditions. In addition, the battalion performed many other essential engineer tasks on the island. III. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following unit is cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

Company I, 28th Infantry Regiment, is cited for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy on 23 November 1944 in the Hurtgen Forest, Germany. Given the mission of reducing a well-fortified and supported enemy position, the company launched two attacks which were repulsed. Determined to take the position, the company commander deployed his entire company and ordered a bayonet assault. Springing to their feet, shooting and yelling, the men were upon the enemy before they could bring down defensive fire. This ferocious attack so disorganized the defenders that they were driven from their emplacements and surrendered in groups. Over 100 prisoners were taken in addition to many killed and wounded. The extraordinary courage, initiative, and determination to close with the enemy exhibited by the personnel of Company I, 28th Infantry Regiment, reflect great credit on this unit and the Armed Forces of the United States.

I. MEDAL OF HONOR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty during the period indicated is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of Congress to the following-named enlisted man:

Staff Sergeant Isadore S. Jachman (Service No. 13136814) Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the 513th Parachute Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty at Flamierge, Belgium, on 4 January 1945. When his company was pinned down by enemy artillery, mortar, and small-arms fire, two hostile tanks attacked the unit, inflicting heavy casualties. Sergeant Jachman, seeing the desperate plight of his comrades, left his place of cover and, with total disregard for safety, dashed across open ground through a hail of fire. Seizing a bazooka from a fallen comrade, he advanced on the tanks, which concentrated their fire on him. Firing the weapon alone, he damaged one tank and forced both tanks to retire. Sergeant Jachman's heroic action, in which he suffered fatal wounds, disrupted the entire enemy attack, and reflects the highest credit on himself and the 513th Parachute Infantry Regiment. (Sec. I, WD General Orders 25, 1947, pertaining to the award of the Distinguished-Service Cross (posthumous) to Staff Sergeant Jachman, for extraordinary heroism in action on the same date, is rescinded.)

II. DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named enlisted man:

Private First Class Caliste A. Callahan (Service No. 434002), United States Marine Corps, distinguished himself by extraordinary heroism in action in the Southwest Pacific area on 28 December 1943. When heavy enemy mortar, machine-gun, and rifle fire from a heavily fortified series of concealed pillboxes and rifle pits held up the advance of a combat patrol of the 1st Marine Parachute Battalion, whose mission was to destroy an enemy outpost ½ mile east of the Borokina River, Bougainville, Solomon Islands, Private Callahan and a comrade moved forward in the face of the hostile fire and quickly destroyed two emplacements with grenades and demolition charges. Then, on his own initiative, he charged forward to the remaining positions, where he engaged in fierce hand-to-hand combat and inflicted severe casualties before he was killed. Through his intrepid, voluntary assault without regard for his safety and at the cost of his life, Private Callahan enabled his patrol to overcome the enemy and continue the advance, thereby setting a lasting example of heroism for his comrades-in-arms.

III. SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded posthumously to the following named officers:

First Lieutenant Carl F. Cooke, O1012409, Cavalry, Army of the United States, a member of Troop C, 87th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the enemy at Meijel, Holland. On 27 October 1944, Lieutenant Cooke's squadron received the brunt of a powerful German attack consisting of armor and infantry in at least brigade size aimed at splitting British and American forces. The point of the attack struck his troop and forced the leading platoons to withdraw. Realizing the critical situation, he volunteered to lead his platoon in a counterattack. His unit stalled the attack and forced the enemy to withdraw with heavy casualties. During the action he was killed by an enemy sniper. Lieutenant Cooke's courage and leadership were an inspiration to the entire squadron and reflect great credit on himself and his organization.

First Lieutenant Daniel W. Griswold, O391006, Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company K, 31st Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by heroic action against the enemy on 21 January 1942 near Abucay Hacienda, Bataan. As company commander, he led his unit forward, contacted the enemy, and wiped out a Japanese force that had penetrated the stabilized line. Lieutenant Griswold's heroic actions during this engagement reflect great credit on himself and his company.

IV. SILVER STAR.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted man:

Technical Sergeant William H. Costello (Service No. 13021331), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of Company C, 26th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by gallantry in action near Ellendorf, Germany. On 28 October 1944, he was directing mortar fire in support of a patrol assaulting an enemy pillbox. Antipersonnel mines and mortar fire stalled the patrol and forced its withdrawal, leaving a wounded man in the mine field. Seeing the man helpless, Sergeant Costello, with utter disregard for his safety, dashed to the man's aid and while carrying him to safety was severely wounded. Sergeant Costello's daring rescue of a comrade in arms was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Infantry.

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for gallantry in action during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Colonel Floyd E. Dunn, O16261 (then lieutenant colonel), Infantry, United States Army, a member of the 182d Infantry Regiment, displayed gallantry in action against the enemy on Bougainville, British Solomon Islands, from 21 to 27 March 1944. Upon taking command of the regiment, then engaged in close contact with the enemy, he immediately made a personal reconnaissance of the regimental lines, including the most forward positions, literally in the face of the enemy. He repeatedly exposed himself in visiting forward elements, personally inspecting and test-firing weapons under close observation of the enemy. His presence in the most forward areas, as well as the supervision he gave to all details of the tactics of his regiment, was an inspiration to the men, and greatly improved the positions and effectiveness of the units during their stubborn holding efforts and subsequent annihilation of the enemy on Hill 230. Colonel Dunn's courageous leadership, tactical ability, and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the United States Army. (This award supersedes the award of the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device to Colonel Dunn, for heroic achievement during the same period, published in sec. I, General Orders 56, Headquarters, Americal Division, 13 April 1944.)

V. LEGION OF MERIT.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 20 July 1942 (sec. III, WD Bul. 40, 1942) and Executive Order 9260, 29 October 1942 (sec. I, WD Bul. 54, 1942), the Legion of Merit for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service during the period indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer:

Private First Class Roland E. Burley (Service No. RA33574550), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company E, 31st Infantry Regiment, displayed heroism while on a beach party at Ishikari Beach, Hokkaido, Japan, on 17 July 1949. Upon hearing cries of distress from a group of Japanese nationals who were swimming, Private Burley, with four of his companions, plunged into the sea. With complete disregard for safety, he fought through 100 yards of rough sea and heavy breakers and succeeded in bringing one of the Japanese safely to shore. The heroism and quick thinking displayed by Private Burley reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Private First Class Royce H. Clafin (Service No. RA11202027) (then private), Cavalry, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroism off Vieques Island, Puerto Rico, on 5 March 1950. While on a swimming party, he saw one of his comrades struggling in treacherous waters. Although tired from a long swim in the dangerous current, he swam to the exhausted man and, by great physical effort, towed him to shore. Private First Class William C. Leathers, Jr. (Service No. 21283200), Field Artillery, Massachusetts National Guard, a member of Battery A, 102d Field Artillery Battalion, distinguished himself by heroism on Long Island Sound on 19 July 1949. When a fellow member of his battery fell overboard during a fishing trip, Private Leathers unhesitatingly dived overboard, fully clothed, to swim to his rescue. Although the victim was unable to swim and had gone down several times, Private Leathers skillfully managed to overcome his struggles and keep his head above water until a boat reached them. By his conspicuous courage and disregard for personal safety, Private Leathers upheld the finest traditions of the military service.

Private First Class William H. White. (Service No. RA14328369), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 30th Infantry Regiment, displayed heroism while participating in Operation Portrex, near Isla Vieques, in the Caribbean Sea on 8 March 1950. During invasion exercises, Private White and his section were aboard a landing craft approaching the beach at Vieques. About 150 yards from the beach, the craft sank, leaving the combat-equipped troops floating. Relief boats were sent immediately to the scene, but because of the excitement and sudden sinking some of the men were unable to discard their equipment. Private White, seeing a soldier in difficulty, swam to him, gave him his life preserver, and assisted him to the nearest rescue boat. Private White's disregard for personal safety, his initiative, and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

GENERAL .....	Section I
LIST OF UNITS AND CITATIONS .....	II
RESCISSIONS .....	III

I. GENERAL.—1. Confirmation.—The following list of units of the United States Army to which decorations have been awarded by cobelligerent foreign governments during World War II, together with the citations therefor, is confirmed in accordance with current regulations.

2. Wearing of foreign decorations.—The wearing of foreign decorations by individuals will be in accordance with AR 260-15 and the following:

a. French and Belgian Fourrageres.—Normally, two citations are required before a unit becomes eligible for the award of the Fourragere. The award of the Fourragere is not automatic, but must be specifically authorized by decree of the respective foreign government. A citation in orders or award of the Croix de Guerre to a unit does not authorize the wearing of the decoration by an individual. Likewise, no award of the Croix de Guerre to an individual will serve to constitute eligibility to wear the Fourragere. The Fourragere may be worn permanently by individuals who participated with the unit in both actions for which the unit was cited. The French Fourragere may be worn temporarily by individuals assigned to the unit subsequent to the time the award was made, but only so long as they remain with such unit. The Belgian Fourragere is not authorized to be worn temporarily.

b. Netherlands Orange Lanyard.—The Netherlands Orange Lanyard may be worn permanently by individuals who participated with the unit in the action for which it was cited and temporary wearing of the Lanyard is not authorized.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 279, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

An elite unit, heir of the noblest traditions of the U. S. 1st Infantry Division, which covered itself with glory during the war of 1914-18. Placed under the command of General JUIN, Chief of the French Army Detachment, at the beginning of the Tunisian Campaign in 1943, distinguished itself in the Ouseltia valley, supporting effectively the French 19th A. C., and repulsing a strong German offensive. In March 1943, it received the shock of the enemy offensive at Kasserine, and after hard fighting, stopped the German armor and took successively Gafsa and El Guettar, at the price of great sacrifices. In April 1943, it strongly attacked near Beja and menaced Mateur in such a way that at the beginning of May, Mateur fell, opening the way to Tunis.

of Mons, under heavy pressure, destroyed an enemy pocket, including approximately 9,000 men of the 348th Infantry Division of the 18th German Air Army, and of the 6th Parachute Division. During this operation, the 1st Infantry Division of the United States Army and the attached units, after valiant efforts, captured more than 5,000 prisoners, killed or wounded 4,000 enemy soldiers and captured or destroyed more than 1,500 vehicles and 40 tanks. The Division also took the Commanding Officer of the 6th German Airborne Division, prisoner.

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Decree No. 1395, 20 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The Division fought against the enemy in the northern flank of the German counteroffensive in the Ardennes in the area of Eupen-Malmedy. These counterattacks were launched by the enemy on 28 and 30 December 1944, but they were repulsed after heavy combat. This action prevented the expansion of the critical break-through. Independently of the strenuous defense, a strong base was established that later formed the pivot of attacks against western penetrations of the enemy. After the enemy counterattacks were efficiently stopped, the 1st Infantry Division of the U. S. Army and the attached units pushed forward to reduce the pockets and throw the enemy out of Belgian territory. Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

During the German offensive in the Ardennes, in December 1944, the 2d Armored Division was located in Germany, on the banks of the Roer River between Linnich and Julich. On 21 December 1944, it received orders to proceed to the region of Havelange, Avin Clavier. This movement of more than 100 miles was accomplished in less than 24 hours and on 23 December 1944, the Division established contact with hostile forces at Celles. From the 23d to the 28th of December 1944, violent engagements developed in the Celles salient and brought about the total destruction of the spearhead division of the Fifth Panzer Army. This victory blocked the German advance and prevented it from reaching the Meuse. From thence on, the Division pushed back the enemy forces and, after having retaken many communities of the Ardennes region, it liberated the town of Houffalize.

BELGIAN FOURRAGERE (1940), awarded under Decree No. 514, 22 May 1945, as amended by Decree No. 3864, 28 April 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER STAR, awarded under Decision No. 246, 15 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A unit inspired by the highest sentiments of duty. On 8 August 1944, it was charged with destroying a bridge 5 kms. back of the enemy lines, in the region of Lonlay l'Abbaye. It accomplished its mission with the most absolute contempt for danger. Finding the bridge occupied, the 2d Platoon attacked and accomplished its task under enemy fire, evincing the finest qualities of bravery and army discipline.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER-GILT STAR, awarded under Decision No. 247, 15 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

This magnificent Battalion is animated by the greatest sacrificial spirit. During a long offensive, which lasted from 14 to 28 November 1944 and which was to lead the 2d Armored Division from the Puffendorf to the Roer, they courageously attacked a powerful antitank pit, heavily mined and protected by heavy artillery. In spite of serious losses, they crossed the pit and followed up their initial success by seizing Edernan, Mertzhausen and Barmen, thus permitting the 2d Armored Division to attain its objectives.

During the period 13 to 19 December 1944, the 2d Infantry Division with attached units received the order to cease its participation in the great attack in which it was completely engaged. It was ordered then to play the principal part in the constitution of the "North Shoulder" of the Ardennes. This was accomplished by resistance, as a stone wall, the enemy attack, in a way to limit and check it and to give our forces the time and the opportunity to organize the struggle against the German plan. Its operation led to an absolute success under the most difficult conditions of pressure and climate.

French Republic, with the following citation:

An elite Division which has remained faithful to the traditions of courage and sacrifice which it had already made during the last war, when it won the nickname "Rock of the Marne." Under the vigorous impetus of an energetic chief and skilled maneuverer, General O'Daniel, it fought without interruption for 169 days, from the Mediterranean beaches to the banks of the Rhine. Placed under the command of the Commanding General of the 1st French Army, for the operations of the Alsace pocket, it contributed greatly, by the power of its repeated attacks, to the victorious battle of Colmar. During the night of January 23 to 24, 1945, it succeeded in crossing, by surprise, the Fecht and Ill and in taking the first enemy position, in spite of a violent snow-storm and a field of action sown with obstacles. Allowing the adversary no respite and pushing its action harder and harder, it crossed the Colmar Canal in order to circle and conquer by sheer fighting, the city of Neuf-Brisach, thereby cutting one of the two remaining routes of retreat left to the German troops still defending the Colmar region. It captured during these actions, more than 4,000 prisoners thus concluding brilliantly the series of glorious operations which took place from the Mediterranean to the Rhine.

In less than 10 days, the unit decisively overcame the German counterattacks, freed Rennes, Vannes, and Nantes and confined the enemy to Lorient. Continuing its advance on a 300-kilometer front, it reached the Loire and seized Nantes on 11 August 1944. Its crushing action largely contributed to the success of the campaign in France.

LUXEMBOURG CROIX DE GUERRE, 1940-1945, awarded by Decree dated 31 October 1949, by the Minister of the Armed Forces, Luxembourg, with the following citation:

The 28th Infantry Division, Army of the United States, is cited and awarded the Croix de Guerre, 1940-1945, for military operations during the month of September 1944 in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg which resulted in the driving of the German Army from Luxembourg soil and the liberation of Luxembourg from the Nazis, thereby restoring to the citizens of Luxembourg their basic individual rights. During these operations, the 28th Infantry Division swept on a north-south line through Luxembourg, liberating the Esleck, including the towns of Wiltz, Clervaux, Weiswampach, and Trois-Vierges. One combat team of the division, the 112th Combat Team, took part in the liberation of Luxembourg City on 10 September 1944. Later, during the month of December 1944, the same Division, suffering extremely heavy casualties, gallantly defended Luxembourg soil in the Battle of the Bulge, taking the full impact of the German assault on its division front, and delaying the advance of elements of nine German divisions for four days, thereby allowing reinforcements to assemble at Bastogne, Belgium, and stop the German advance.

During the last part of this period, the division and its attached units attacked and chased the enemy from the whole Belgian territory in its zone.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent infantry battalion with a very high morale and which possessed the finest military qualities. In the course of the German attack on Mortain, on 7 August 1944, it withstood without weakening, the desperate impact of the enemy which was attempting to cut the communications between the American forces in Normandy and Brittany by trying to reach Avranches. Under an avalanche of fire which decimated the 1st Battalion, the survivors remained at their posts skillfully manipulating their antitank arms. They stopped the wave of enemy armored forces and neutralized the enemy which had penetrated into friendly lines after heavy hand-to-hand fighting.

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Deerce No. 3865, 28 April 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom (for citation, see "113th Cavalry Group," second citation only).

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER-GILT STAR, awarded under Decision No. 247, 15 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

This regiment is inspired by the purest spirit of self-sacrifice and has very high morale. From 17 to 25 December 1944, it endured, without weakening, dangerous enemy infiltrations into the region of La Gleize and of Stoumont, in Belgium. Drawn up in two columns, one at Stoumont, the other at Habiemont, their mission being to stop the German forces, the regiment engaged in hard and bloody combat, succeeding in maintaining its position, thus permitting the arrival of reinforcements. As a result of a series of maneuvers, it contributed to the encirclement and destruction of the attacking forces.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A spirited unit animated by the finest military qualities and with exceptional courage. It acted magnificently from 6 to 12 August 1944, in the battle of Mortain, the possession of which secured the liaison between the Allied forces in Normandy and Brittany. Subjected to continual strong enemy attacks, and in spite of the encirclement, lack of provisions, medical care, and the enemy summons to surrender, it dug into the terrain and thus maintained intact the position of the Allied armies.

Charged with holding a vital position, it dug into the terrain in spite of incessant attacks from the enemy, which succeeded in encircling Hill 314. A magnificent unit which engaged in the battle of La Manche. It stood out especially because of its bravery and fighting spirit at the time of the attack on Hill 122, on 15 July 1944. After having taken this position, which was heavily fortified, mined and occupied by an enemy which was greatly superior in numbers, the 134th Infantry Regiment, exploiting its initial success, broke into St. Lo and engaged for 1 week an enemy who had resolved to resist at any cost.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER STAR, awarded under Decision No. 246, 15 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A battalion animated by the greatest qualities of courage and combativeness. It distinguished itself in a remarkable manner during the offensive operations in the Mortain sector during the period between 10 and 13 August 1944. It was given the mission of reestablishing contact with units momentarily encircled and, heedless of losses, broke through the enemy lines and was successful in extricating a battalion that was in a critical situation. Counterattacked in turn by forces greatly superior in number, notably by SS elements, it valiantly bore the blow, thus making possible the arrival of reinforcements, which, after five hours of furious fighting, broke the German resistance.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 277, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

An elite unit which, from its landing in the south of France, did not cease to give proof of the highest combat valor and of the finest offensive spirit. It particularly distinguished itself from 24 November to 2 December 1944 in the Vosges, where it contributed in a decisive fashion to the victory in Alsace. Executing a daring maneuver, it seized by surprise attack, the pass and town of Sainte-Marie-aux-Mines, in spite of a very difficult terrain and the savage resistance of the enemy. Following up immediately, it occupied Ste.-Croix-aux-Mines, Rombac-Le-Franc, and Haut-Koenigsburg, broke into the place of Alsace and seized Selestat 2 December 1944, at the cost of hard fighting. This established a wide breach in the German defense system. Next, with untiring ardor and energy, and in spite of desperate counterattacks, the unit carried on daily combat, which completely broke up the defensive organization of the enemy. In the course of these actions, it took more than 3,000 prisoners and

A remarkable unit which displayed splendid endurance and exceptional fighting zeal. It distinguished itself brilliantly from 21 to 24 November 1944 in hard combat. It mopped up in the forest of Parroy and materially aided the 2d Armored French Division to break through to the Col de Saverne. In spite of heavy losses, it fought stubbornly against a dashing and fanatical enemy, preventing it from reappearing in the Vosges. It thus contributed greatly to the liberation of Baccaret, Phalsbourg, and Saverne.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 5, 14 January 1949, by the Minister of National Defense, with the following citation:

Splendid unit incited by savage vigor, landed in Normandy in June 1944. Covered itself with glory in the battles of Saint-Lo and at Haye-du-Puits. Participated in the capture of Fougères, Laval, and Le Mans, then crossing the Seine at Maintes-Gassicourt, on 19 August 1944, inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy before marching triumphantly into Paris on 27 August 1944. By its bold actions, contributed largely to the success of the Allied armies and the liberation of Paris.

Normandy. It formed part of the 82d Airborne Division and occupied central road points and river communications commanding the access to the landing beaches of the Cotentin. It sacrificed itself on the banks of the Merderet and the Douve, at Saint Sauveur le Vicomte and at Etienneville from 6 to 20 June 1944, in order to stem at all cost the advance of the German reinforcements which far outnumbered them in strength and fire power. It forced the enemy to remain on the defense, thus permitting the arrival of the main Allied force. FRENCH FOURRAGERE in the colors of the Croix de Guerre, awarded under Decision No. 161, 6 April 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic.

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Decree No. 1034, 4 October 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

This elite division which had gone with great elan through the campaigns of Tunisia, Sicily, Italy, Holland, and France, again distinguished itself particularly in the battle of the Ardennes from 17 to 31 December 1944. Called upon as a reinforcement by the Allied High Command in the evening of 17 December at the time when they were in the vicinity of Reims, the division was able to take up combat positions in the region of Werbomont only 24 hours later and this under very severe climatic conditions. Progressing toward Ambleve and the Salm, the division opened and maintained a corridor for the elements of four American divisions which were surrounded in the vicinity of St. Vith, thus giving new courage to the engaged units. The division had prevented the enemy from piercing the north flank of the pocket created by the offensive of Von Rundstedt and thus succeeded in saving the city of Liege and its surroundings from a second occupation by the Germans.

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Decree No. 1034, 4 October 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

After having excelled in defensive warfare at the banks of the Salm and the Ambleve, and after having repelled successfully the repeated attacks of the best German shock troops, the 82d Airborne Division with the 508th Parachute Infantry Regiment attached, in spite of extreme cold and excessively deep snow, went on the offensive themselves and advanced to the German border, capturing 2,500 German prisoners, including five battalion commanders. This fighting was extremely valorous as the organic composition of the division handicapped the unit considerably, not having at their disposal, as any other infantry division would have, heavy weapons to support their attack. During 23 days, under most painful and adverse conditions, the veterans of the 82d Airborne Division did not cease to give a wonderful example of courage and heroism, exemplifying their fighting spirit by several remarkably brilliant actions. By its valor, the division wrote another page in heroic annals of Allied airborne troops and rendered an important service to Belgium and to the Allied cause by establishing the necessary basis for the new pursuit of the enemy toward the Rhine River.

101ST AIRBORNE DIVISION

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 367, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A splendid airborne unit which gave proof of extraordinary heroism in the course of the Normandy landing operations on 6 June to 8 July 1944. It parachuted before dawn on the assault beach on 6 June and in spite of all sorts of difficulties, succeeded in regrouping. Attacked by important forces with violent fire, it nevertheless occupied positions of strategic importance for the landing of friendly troops. This action opened the way to La Douve and the Carentan road for the assault troops. In this way, it greatly contributed to the first phase of the liberation of France.

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Decree No. 828, 30 July 1945, as amended by Decree No. 1196, 22 October 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

By its glorious resistance from 22 to 27 December 1944, in the hardest time of the Battle of the Ardennes, it kept, completely isolated, the key position Bastogne. The 101st Airborne Division with its attached units caused the failure of the enemy's plan. This required a deep penetration into Belgium and this division served as a pivot to the operations of the counteroffensive which liberated the invaded territories. During these operations, because of its courage, endurance, discipline and experience in fighting, the 101st Airborne Division pushed back the unceasing attacks of the elements belonging to eight German divisions, in spite of scarce supplies. These troops and their chiefs wrote one of the most beautiful pages of military history and earned the admiration of the world and the everlasting gratitude of Belgium.

1196, 22 October 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The 101st Airborne Division of the U. S. Army landed by parachute, sea-planes and small boats on 6 June 1944, on the seashore of France, and was one of the first units ready to attack the enemy in the campaign which later liberated Europe which was occupied by the Germans. It was necessary that small detachments enter into hard combat at many places to reunite themselves at the assembly points. They inflicted big losses to the enemy and the division had many losses itself while winning back important points, attacking and keeping centers of communication, bridges and high positions. The success with which these missions were performed prevented the enemy from using reinforcements which could have succeeded in preventing the landing of the VII Corps of the U. S. Army which finally participated in the liberation of Belgium.

Considering that the outstanding performance of duty of the 101st Airborne Division, United States Army, during the airborne operations and the ensuing fighting actions in the southern part of the Netherlands in the period from 17 September to 28 November 1944, has greatly contributed to the liberation of that part of the country; considering also, that it is desirable for each member of the division, who took part in the aforesaid operations, to possess a lasting memento of this glorious struggle; decrees: That each member of the personnel of the 101st Airborne Division, United States Army, who took part in the operations in the southern part of the Netherlands in the period from 17 September to 28 November 1944, is authorized to wear the Orange Lanyard of the Royal Netherlands Army.

A remarkable battalion whose brilliant conduct was greatly valued during the battles of Saint Vith and Manhay on 16 to 23 December 1944. Attacked by an enemy operating in force but filled with the desire to conquer at any cost, it remained in position and, with direct and accurate fire, kept the attackers from access to vital communications south of Manhay. Short of food, water and pharmaceutical products, the 589th Field Artillery Battalion endured three attacks without flinching, inflicted heavy losses on the enemy and forced him to retire.

CROSS OF WAR MERIT, awarded under Royal Italian Army Order No. 927, 17 November 1945, by the Minister of War, with the following citation:

In testimony of the personal courage, abnegation, capacity for organization and realization of the officers and men of the Allied Military Government, Fifth Army, shown in the course of the campaign of liberation, to the benefit of the civil population so long bound by hard servitude and disastrously injured by the devastation of war. The generous military spirit and high and humanitarian sense of responsibility, inspired by the most noble traditions of the American people, contributed in a decisive manner to reinforce the bonds of admiration, of respect, and of friendly understanding between the two peoples.

NONDIVISIONAL UNITS—Continued

The units of the Antwerp X Antiaircraft Artillery Command played a heroic part in the organization and maintenance of the antiaircraft defense, with a view of opening the Antwerp Port on 28 November 1944. They caused the failure of the supreme attack of V-1 bombs thrown by the Germans located in the Trier area, as well as of the areas situated at the northwest of Nimegue. Due to the unceasing efforts of the personnel belonging to these units, the matériel destruction and loss of lives for the Belgian civilians as well as for the Allied troops was held to the minimum. Fighting day and night, these military personnel performed their duty in a remarkable way. This resulted in the liberation of the harbor of Antwerp and the forwarding of supplies of ammunition to five Allied armies. The heroic behavior of these units honors very much the Antwerp X Antiaircraft Artillery Command and the Allied forces.

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Decree No. 2509, 17 June 1946, as amended by Decree No. 4309, 26 September 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The units of the Antwerp X Antiaircraft Artillery Command, at the moment of the supreme offensive thrown by the Wehrmacht on 16 December 1944, established, without precedent against the attempts of destruction, an antiaircraft defense system of the harbor of Antwerp. The results of this heroic action, the success of which was of vital importance to the Allied cause in general, and for the maintenance of the liberation of Belgium in particular, proved so effective that the utilization of the harbor was never interrupted. The action of the officers and men, together with their unceasing efforts and their technical ability, closed the campaign with a result that outstanding success was obtained by the destruction of 97 percent of the pilotless aircraft engaged by the command.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER-GILT STAR, awarded under Decision No. 128, 22 July 1944, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

An outstanding observation and spotting unit under the command of Col. J. D. Ellerson. This unit completed its observation and listening posts during the winter campaign on the rain and snow-swept peaks of the Mainarde, Monna Casale, and Monna Acquafondata. From these positions they furnished, in day and night operations, extremely valuable information to the Allied counterbattery staff. From 11 May 1944, it supplied the artillery unit of the French Expeditionary Corps with an exact lay-out charted by the sound and flashes of numerous enemy guns and, in spite of losses in personnel, carried out its difficult task with admirable zeal.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A remarkable unit characterized by a spirit of collaboration, zest for battle, and magnificent military qualities. From 14 September 1944 to 8 February 1945, it operated with the I Corps of the First French Army. In spite of the violent enemy attacks, the difficulty of the terrain, and the atmospheric rigors, it tirelessly furnished the most valuable information. Thanks to this unit, more than 700 enemy artillery positions and other installations were located. Their magnificent aid contributed in a large measure to driving the Germans from the Belfort Gap and to the liberation of Alsace.

On 2 September 1944, it resisted a Battalion of SS troops on the Mons road, which resulted in not only the defeat and surrender of the German unit, but also prevented a later attack upon the supply trains. On 3 September the members of the 18th Field Artillery Battalion acted as infantry to lead a tank attack against a strongly entrenched force on the outskirts of Mons.

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Decree No. 3311, 3 January 1947, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The 18th Field Artillery Battalion again distinguished itself during the battle of the Ardennes in December 1944 and January 1945. From its position on the north flank of that zone, it hurled back the German troops and advanced swiftly toward Malmedy and Stavelot in support of the 30th Infantry Division of the U. S. Army. It resisted the constant and fanatical break-through attacks of the enemy. On 24 December 1944, this unit received the command to go immediately into the Manhay-Grand Mesnil zone, to halt the advance of the German attack. By a night march in the snow, the battalion reached the position indicated and was attached to the 75th Infantry Division and placed in support of the 13th Armored Division. By its effective and accurate fire, the 18th Field Artillery Battalion helped localize the break-through and contributed in an invaluable manner to definitely stopping the German attack. Throughout the entire campaign, fighting to the limit of their endurance in adverse weather conditions and against constant attacks, all the members of the 18th Field Artillery Battalion conducted themselves with gallantry, devotion and determination, and contributed to the defeat of the common enemy.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

An engineer unit possessing a remarkable combative value and a very pronounced sense of heroism. From 17 to 19 December 1944, during the violent German offensive of the Ardennes, it attacked and occupied the key position of Wiltz, Luxembourg, using extremely varied fire, despite heavy losses, and in spite of enemy attacks, thus turning aside the first German elements from the road leading to their objective of Bastogne.

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Decree No. 2086, 3 April 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

A crack unit which successfully completed the Tunisian, Sicilian, Italian, French, and Dutch campaigns, and distinguished itself in the battle of the Bulge from 17 to 31 December 1944. In the evening of 17 December, when the division was in the vicinity of Reims, it was called out as a reinforcement by the Allied High Command; 24 hours later, under extremely severe climatic conditions, the division had assumed positions in the region about Werbomont. Advancing toward the Ambleve and Salm, it opened a corridor and kept contact with elements of four American Divisions trapped in and about St. Vith, and by its magnificent courage, raised the morale of the units concerned. It prevented an enemy thrust in the north flank of the pocket created by von Rundstedt's offensive and thus saved the town of Liège and its approaches from another enemy occupation.

The 82d United States Airborne Division, with its attached units, after having delivered a marvelous counter-offensive, thrust along the Salm and Ambleve, and after having withstood repeated attacks of the best German units, put up a stubborn resistance to all hostile measures. It progressed, in spite of the added difficulty of cold weather and a deep fall of snow, to the German frontier, capturing 2,500 prisoners, 5 of which were Battalion Commanders. Some deeds were extremely valorous, since its table of equipment presented a serious handicap, in not being able to utilize heavy equipment meant to support them in action like a normal division. For 23 days, under the most trying circumstances, the veterans of the 82d Airborne Division did

During the period from 12 to 22 December 1944, it was thrown into the breach, with the mission of holding the enemy advance in the Ligneuville-Stavelot-Trois Ponts areas. In spite of a lack of heavy arms and being attacked by an adversary greatly superior in number, it held the position which had been assigned to it, thus giving proof of the finest qualities of courage and military discipline.

In the course of the period from 27 November to 14 December 1944, the 31st AAA Group and its attached units provided the antiaircraft defense of the City of Liege against numerous attacks from the German air force. against the most violent attacks of the German air force, thus contributing to the annihilation of every attempt by the enemy to secure possession of this particularly important center of communication and to effect a deep penetration into Belgium. The units of the 31st AAA Group displayed such an aggressive and effective defense that the Luftwaffe was unable to interrupt the continual stream of the supply trains bound for the front lines along the sole railway and over the single important bridge crossing the Meuse. A magnificent group, whose brilliant operational successes during the period from 20 August 1944 to 10 February 1945, while fighting with or in support of the 2d Armored Division (French), impel admiration. Boldly thrusting out deep reconnaissances east of the Mouldre around Crespières and up to the Moselle near Charmes, it established a bridgehead and held it all alone. Toward Luneville and Baccarat, it engaged in protective and advance guard missions, first at Andelot and then from the Marne to the Moselle and in the La Mortagne area. It took the village of Mont, overran Vaucourt and reached the Emmersville, Gieslautern, Wadgassen line, where it held out stubbornly in spite of violent German counterattacks on 31 December 1944 and 1 January 1945. During the course of these operations, the 106th Cavalry Group showed tenacity and spirited operating efficiency of the highest praise. Never letting up in its drive, even when it had to battle against a determined enemy superior in numbers, it carried out all its assigned missions, seeking contact which the enemy was attempting to elude. This unit demonstrated the finest military attributes and incomparable battle attainments.

In a brilliant military operation of four days, the 113th Cavalry Group progressed 130 miles on a front of 20 miles, crossing Belgium between Charleroi and Brussels, in order to reach the Albert Canal and the Meuse in the Tongres area, on a mission of combat reconnaissance, without the continuous support of the other combat units of the XIX Corps, who were temporarily immobilized because of the lack of gasoline. In spite of the unknown position of the enemy, the danger of being cut off from their Corps or immobilized in enemy territory because of the lack of fuel, the firm resolution of the 113th Cavalry Group to carry on its mission was never shaken for an instant. The bravery and intelligence with which this advance was effected permitted the Allies to seize the Albert Canal line rapidly, reconnoiter the fort of Eben-Emael, the Meuse, and thus free from German domination an area of about 2,500 square miles, including hundreds of Belgian villages and towns.

It was attacked by important enemy elements which, hard-pressed by the 3d Armored Division, were endeavoring to break through at any cost. It put up a magnificent resistance and compelled the enemy to break off combat, leaving numerous dead on the field.

Operating under the orders of the XVIII U. S. Airborne Corps, it resisted the enemy break-through in the south of Spa, at the same time preventing an advance toward the north. From 20 to 25 December 1944, the division and the attached units effectively resisted the enemy in the course of the first phase of the Ardennes offensive. From 26 December 1944 and during all the month of January 1945, these units were broken up into task forces and attached to the infantry divisions. They fought obstinately, cleared roads, obstructed others, and succeeded also in preventing any new penetration by the enemy.

A gallant unit, which attracted special attention at the time of the landing operations of 6 June 1944. It was given the mission of clearing the beaches in advance of the Infantry and did its job under terrific enemy fire, on heavily mined ground. It continued to serve with the same ardor and with the utmost disregard of danger in the operations that followed. This unit displayed the finest qualities of valor and discipline.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 267, 22 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A fine combat unit spirited and animated by exceptional courage. It distinguished itself particularly during the operation in Normandy, near Grimesnil, on 29 and 30 July 1944. Its mission was to capture a road by which the German forces were withdrawing. It withstood, without weakening, the attack of an enemy column of 2,500 men and 90 vehicles, during more than 6 hours of fierce hand-to-hand fighting. In spite of the enemy numerical superiority of 4 to 1, it destroyed this enemy force, killing 450 men and taking 900 prisoners. This brilliant action contributed to the annihilation of the enemy forces in Normandy and success of the Allied landing.

A crack unit which successfully completed the Tunisian, Sicilian, Italian, French, and Dutch campaigns, and distinguished itself in the battle of the Bulge from 17 to 31 December 1944. In the evening of 17 December, when the division was in the vicinity of Reims, it was called out as a reinforcement by the Allied High Command. Twenty-four hours later, under extremely severe climatic conditions, the division had assumed positions in the region about Werbomont. Advancing toward Ambleve and Salm, it opened a corridor and kept contact with elements of four American divisions trapped in and about St. Vith, and by its magnificent courage, raised the morale of the units concerned. It prevented an enemy thrust in the north flank of the pocket created by Von Rundstedt's offensive and thus saved the town of Liege and its approaches from another enemy occupation.

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Decree No. 2086, 3 April 1946, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

The 82d United States Airborne Division, with its attached units, after having delivered a marvelous counteroffensive thrust along the Salm and Ambleve, and after having withstood repeated attacks of the best German units, put up a stubborn resistance to all hostile measures. It progressed, in spite of the added difficulty of cold weather and a deep fall of snow, to the German frontier, capturing 2,500 prisoners, 5 of which were battalion commanders. Some deeds were extremely valorous, since its table of equipment presented a serious handicap, in not being able to utilize heavy equipment meant to support it in action, like a normal division. For 23 days, under the most trying circumstances, the veterans of the 82d Airborne Division did not cease to be an example of heroic courage, distinguishing their combat with several brilliant actions. With its valor enhancing the traditional spirit of the Allied Airborne troops, it has rendered immense services to Belgium and to the Allied cause in establishing bases necessary for a new drive against the enemy and the Rhine.

A unit which distinguished itself particularly during operations of the Vosges from 17 September to 13 November 1944. It was charged with supporting the II Corps of the French Army, and rendered valuable assistance in disorganizing the enemy by its fire behind the lines. Participating in the offensive of Belfort, it distinguished itself again from 14 November 1944 to 10 March 1945, by aiding with all of its fire the I Corps of the French Army, thus permitting the infantry to advance with the minimum of losses.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH SILVER-GILT STAR, awarded under Decision No. 128, 22 July 1944, by General of the Army JUIN, Commanding the French Expeditionary Corps, with the following citation:

Under the command of Lt. Col. Henry P. Ward, this unit took part in all the operations of the French Expeditionary Corps, with magnificent zeal, from the month of February 1944. On the occasion of the attack of 11 May, it contributed in a great measure by the accuracy of its shooting to the neutralizing of the enemy artillery. During the pursuit of the enemy, it contributed to their disorganization by pushing forward its batteries and by rapid and outright firing. Its actions afforded the French forces particularly efficient support.

A crack unit which successfully completed the Tunisian, Sicilian, Italian, French, and Dutch campaigns, and distinguished itself in the Battle of the Bulge from 17 to 31 December 1944. In the evening of 17 December, when the division was in the vicinity of Reims, it was called out as a reinforcement by the Allied High Command; 24 hours later, under extremely severe climatic conditions, the division had assumed positions in the region of Werbomont. Advancing toward the Ambleve and Salm, it opened a corridor and kept contact with elements of four American divisions trapped in and about St. Vith, and by its magnificent courage, raised the morale of the units concerned. It prevented an enemy thrust in the north flank of the pocket created by Von Rundstedt's offensive and thus saved the town of Liege and its approaches from another enemy occupation.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent unit, tireless and full of bravery. During 1944, in spite of sharp resistance on the part of the enemy, it performed over 2,900 photographic missions at low altitude in unprotected planes. This action brought to the Allied Command the elements essential to the success of the landing and then of the Allied ground operations. This unit facilitated the rapid destruction of enemy communication lines and military installations. By its ability and spirit of sacrifice, it contributed greatly to the liberation of French territory.

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Decree No. 1392, 20 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

Exceptional heroism was displayed in combat during the period of 6th of June 1944, to the 30th of September 1944. During this time, the IX Tactical Air Command had the enormous task to assure the air-land cooperation for the benefit of the ground forces of the American and Allied Armies, at the moment of their victorious advance, which, from the Normandy beaches, led them to the initial phases of the liberation of Belgium. All along the hard period of combat operations, the intrepid pilots of the IX Tactical Air Command operated from bases situated immediately in the rear of the advance echelons of the ground forces, contributed strongly in opening a way for the land units in march, destroying the enemy centers of communication, harassing the concentrations of troops, machine-gunning and bombarding the columns of tanks and sweeping the sky of the enemy planes. The pursuit-plane bombardiers of the IX Tactical Air Command, in particular, displayed exceptional technical cleverness and science of combat at the time of their operations above Belgium. Due

CITED IN THE ORDER OF THE DAY of the Belgian Army, by Decree No. 1392, 20 November 1945, by Charles, Prince of Belgium, Regent of the Kingdom, with the following citation:

Exceptional services were performed from the 16th of December 1944 to the 25th of January 1945. Its staff settled at Verviers and its tactical groups were distributed on the Belgian airfields or on airfields in the north of France. The IX Tactical Air Command bore all the weight of the Ardennes counter-offensive in December 1944. Without stopping, it sent its planes away on reconnaissance missions, in very perilous atmospheric conditions, directed formations of pursuit planes and pursuit-plane bombardiers against the enemy, throwing, ceaselessly, its intrepid pilots against the concentrations of troops, the communications, the columns of tanks, and the enemy lines of supply. During these operations, it succeeded in destroying a great quantity of planes, troops, and matériel of the enemy. The increasing efforts of the pilots and of the heroic airmen of the IX Tactical Air Command, as well as the heroism and military perspicacity of their chiefs, contributed in a large measure in pushing back and defeating the enemy.

From all of these operation bases, situated in Belgium, the XXIX Tactical Air Command was able to organize and execute, under extremely difficult atmospheric conditions, missions of protecting the land forces, harassing columns and concentrations of enemy troops, and destruction of matériel, food and centers of communications used by the enemy.

vast concentrations of German Armored troops in the region of Malmedy. From 24 to 28 December 1944, the XXIX Tactical Air Command distinguished itself by the unceasing support it gave the land forces. In these 4 days, it made 145 sorties against the enemy, destroying 27 enemy planes, 34 tanks, 391 car transports, 31 armored tanks, 14 staff cars, 12 locomotives and 102 trains, including tank loadings. 556 tons of bombs were dropped on the enemy during these operations which took place in Bastogne, St. Vith, Houffalize, St. Hubert, and Celles. From 1 to 15 January 1945, the planes of the XXIX Tactical Air Command pursued the enemy stubbornly in his retreat from Belgium, harassing the infantry columns and machine-gunning the tanks. They inflicted irreparable and decisive losses on the enemy at St. Vith and Vielsalm and Houffalize. The unceasing and heroic efforts of all the officers, warrant officers, and soldiers, from all the units of the XXIX Tactical Air Command, permitted this command to organize and execute the missions which were assigned to it. A glorious and decisive part belongs to them in the defeat of the enemy during the battle of the Ardennes. They contributed in a large part, because of their military virtue, to the liberation of Belgium.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 44, 8 August 1944, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

During April, May, and June 1944, it performed a very important part in the preparation and support of the Allied offensive actions which opened on 11 May 1944, in central Italy. It attacked the rear lines of the large opposing German forces in order to aid the French Army and particularly distinguished itself by the following actions: (1) On 12 May 1944, participated in the attack and destruction of an enemy division command post; (2) on 18 May 1944, attacked bridges and important communications lines; (3) on 24, 25, and 30 May 1944, it destroyed bridges completely, preventing any movement of enemy troops. Within that period, during which it flew more than 5,000 sorties, it dropped upon the enemy more than 10,000 tons of bombs, downed several fighter planes, and lost only 20 planes to the enemy due to antiaircraft. Skilled and formidable fighters, their results testify to the efficiency and tactical skill of the personnel and to the high competence and the experienced technique of the command.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A remarkable combat unit, possessing the finest military and professional qualities. It distinguished itself brilliantly from 25 June to 31 December 1944, during the massive raids on Germany by accomplishing numerous hazardous missions and dropping over 13,000 tons of explosives on vital enemy centers which were stubbornly defended by numerous fighter planes and by a concentrated and murderous anti-aircraft defense. In addition, it boldly parachuted supplies for the use of the French forces of the interior. By its sustained and effective action, it thus contributed to the collapse of the common enemy and to the liberation of France.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A remarkable reconnaissance unit, which was present on every Mediterranean battlefield from December 1942 to July 1944. The 111th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron contributed greatly to the destruction of enemy personnel with the number of reconnaissance missions executed over enemy lines in spite of heavy anti-aircraft fire, with the value and accuracy of the information gathered, and with the adjustment of friendly artillery fire while in flight. Its excellent work made itself felt in the most critical situations in the battle in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations, notably in the early part of 1943. It protected ship convoys by taking bearings and destroying enemy submarines. During the campaign in Sicily, in 1943, at the time of the landing at Salerno and especially during the campaign in Italy, it gave excellent protection to the victorious advance of the French Expeditionary Corps from the Garigliano to Siena. It performed a series of brilliant feats of arms, the principal ones which were during the break-through north of Cassino. It destroyed enemy communication lines and numerous bridges, among others, that of Pontecorvo which was of capital importance, before and after the large scale offensive against the Hitler line. Moreover, in the midst of combat, it trained the French reconnaissance group 2/33 of which profited by methods that had proven their effectiveness. Through the courage and ability of its crews during the course of 2,350 missions, totaling 9,250 flying hours, it contributed greatly to the collapse of the Axis forces in the Mediterranean Theater.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 236, 8 July 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

This is a brilliant American Fighter Group. Under the stimulus of its commander, Col. Leonard C. Lydon, it contributed especially valuable and effective aid to the French Expeditionary Corps during the campaigns of Italy and France. Due to the skill and courage of its pilots, many vital enemy objectives were destroyed in the break-through of the sector of the lower Garigliano. Their action permitted the French troops to accomplish their mission which was to capture Rome. On 20 May 1944, it dealt severe blows to the enemy communications system between Vallecorsa, Frosinone, and Ceprano. This prevented the enemy transports from escaping the combined Franco-American attack. By murderous attacks of its fighter-bomber Thunderbolts on the day of the invasion of the south of France, it collaborated brilliantly with the French troops, in spite of the desperate resistance of the enemy. From 20 January to 9 February 1945, it participated in the reduction of the pocket of Colmar, permitting the First French Army to drive the enemy from the left bank of the Rhine. This unit is cited as an example of successful work and continued collaboration between the French and American units.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A splendid fighter group, distinguished for its heroism and its dash. During a surprise air attack (1 January 1945) on the airdrome occupied by this unit, it took off with courage and resolution under the machine-gun fire of German planes. Thanks to its remarkable combativeness, it succeeded in stopping the enemy attack by shooting down 23 of the assailants. Through this brilliant feat of arms, it restored to normal a situation that was considered critical and pregnant with consequences for the Allied forces, thus contributing to the maintenance of Allied pressure on the German Army and to a more rapid liberation of France.

its extraordinary endurance. It has to its credit more than 1,000 enemy planes destroyed or damaged. From the time it reached the line, on 1 December 1943, until 31 December 1944, it distinguished itself by its brilliant feats of arms. It furnished efficient and incessant air cover for the troops which landed in Normandy and advanced victoriously into central France by making 519 sorties, in spite of difficulty in supply and repair. It escorted bombers to Germany over great distances, destroying during the course of these raids, 324 enemy planes. In a bitter struggle, conducted often in the ratio of 10 to 1, it shot down 51 and 39 enemy planes, respectively, in the skies of France on 25 August 1944 and 12 September 1944. While on missions to machine-gun and bomb military objectives, it caused the additional destruction of 560 military transports, 490 locomotives, 1,120 cars, 14 bridges and 609 factories and military buildings. It greatly contributed to the collapse of the enemy forces and to the liberation of French soil.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A remarkable unit that is ardent and animated with the finest spirit of sacrifice. It distinguished itself brilliantly during the period from 11 February 1944 to 15 January 1945, by performing numerous and perilous escort missions involving machine-gun fire on ground targets and dropping equipment by parachute. The principal builder of Allied air supremacy had, by 18 November 1944, shot down the impressive number of 426 enemy planes and inaugurated new combat tactics by machine-gunning ground targets in the heart of Germany. By its military valor and its remarkable courage, it hastened the liberation of French territory.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 1387, 15 November 1945, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

An elite group which entered the operations on 20 October 1943, until 1 March 1944, and protected the extensive strategical bombardment of the 8th Air Force. It established the magnificent record of never permitting the loss of an escorted bomber by an enemy plane. From 1 March 1944, to 6 June 1944, this group attacked all important centers of communication in northern France, especially the bridges of the Seine River and of the Loire River and the airports of Gael, Saint Omer, and Abbeville. It actively participated in the battle of Normandy and in the surrender of St-Lo and Vire, including the capture of

From 1 until 10 January 1945, which was a very critical period, it performed a great number of very successful missions in direct support of the 2d Armored Division. During that difficult period, it brought down 20 enemy planes and damaged 6 others. It destroyed numerous buildings, vehicles, trucks, and routes of communication of the enemy. This unit contributed greatly to the liberation of France and the final victory.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent combat unit, remarkable for its extraordinary heroism, its highly developed sense of duty, and a great tenacity in performing missions. It distinguished itself during the campaign in France. On numerous combat missions brilliantly conducted, especially from 1 to 10 August 1944, it hammered the enemy rear relentlessly, enabling the forces of liberation in Normandy to break through the Normandy front. From 11 to 15 August 1944, it neutralized the Falaise pocket with a deluge of fire and steel, always keeping planes in the air, in spite of difficulties of all kinds. On 17 August, it protected the French 2d Armored Division and opened for it the road to the capital. During the month of August 1944, it destroyed 36 enemy planes, 421 vehicles, 52 tanks, 22 locomotives, 899 cars, 12 bridges and ammunition dumps. It greatly contributed to the collapse of the German forces and to the success of the decisive campaign in Normandy.

A magnificent combat unit, distinguished for its valor, determination, endurance and exceptional courage. It played an important role in the Allied victory by rapid and timely actions during the course of more than 2,500 sorties, notably from 6 June 1944, to 14 September 1944. It paralyzed the enemy reinforcements on their way to the Normandy beaches with its destructive power and hastened the enemy defeat by its offensives in support of the Allied ground forces which were driving through France. Within a little over 3 months, it destroyed 17 bridges, 17 gasoline dumps, 9 fortifications, and attacked 5 troop concentrations, 4 classified yards, and other important targets. Through the

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent fighter unit, full of dash, tenacious and brave beyond all praise. It distinguished itself brilliantly during the campaign of Normandy on 29, 30, and 31 July 1944, by continuously providing air cover and protection for the shock columns of four armored divisions. In spite of losses and enemy anti-aircraft fire which was very dangerous by reason of a low ceiling, it contributed greatly to the success of the decisive break-through of the American First Army to the west of St.-Lo. During these 3 days, it attacked numerous targets on the ground, destroying 94 tanks and over 300 vehicles, and stopped the enemy attack by destroying 13 Focke-Wulf 190's and Messerschmitt 109's. Besides, in response to the appeals of the French forces of the interior, in Brittany, it furnished aid and protection. By its presence in the sky above Brittany, it gave encouragement to the resistance forces in the peninsula.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A splendid unit, distinguished for its exceptional heroism, military valor and profound sense of duty. Its mission was to transport by plane-towed gliders, airborne troops charged with invading Normandy. It accomplished this dangerous, delicate, and essential task with sureness, precision, and speed, on the nights of 5 to 6 June 1944, during the next 2 days. In spite of violent enemy resistance and numerous ground obstacles, it attained the specific ground objectives, with very light losses, thanks to the ability of the pilots. It made it possible for the airborne troops to regroup rapidly and inject timely confusion into the enemy zone exposed to the frontal attack of the bulk of the landing forces. Through the courage and ability of its pilots, it executed its mission brilliantly and contributed materially to the collapse of the Atlantic wall and to the liberation of France.

332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent unit which nobly distinguished itself by opening hostilities against the Fortress Europe on 6 June 1944, in a brilliant feat of arms. It again distinguished itself from 20 to 28 August 1944, during the famous dash of the American 3d Army through France. It provided constant supplies of all kinds for the armored units dashing like arrows in pursuit of the enemy who was falling back of Metz. It piloted unprotected planes without armor or armament and landed on fields that had barely been liberated which were still full of mines, obstacles and shell holes. The crews of the 434th Troop Carrier Group completed 520 sorties and transported by night and by day in all sorts of weather about 3 million liters of gasoline, heavy oil and ammunition, and evacuated about 2,000 seriously wounded men from the front. Through their energy, their magnificent skill as aviators, and their coolness, these crews made a great contribution to the rapid liberation of the soil of France.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent formation which was animated with splendid courage and which gave proof of exceptional heroism and military valor. It distinguished itself brilliantly on the nights of 5 June and 7 June 1944, when the Allies landed. It successfully executed its delicate and dangerous mission on which depended the success of the airborne troop attack on the enemy rear lines in Normandy. It piloted planes with gliders without armor or armament. It arrived over the ground objectives in close formation, thus making it possible for the airborne troops to regroup rapidly and open combat immediately with all their means, in spite of a sharp enemy resistance. Through the courage and ability of its pilots, it made a remarkable contribution to the initial effort for the liberation of French territory.

A remarkable unit which proved its worth by opening the invasion route to the Allied forces on 6 June 1944, in Normandy, in a brilliant feat of arms. This exploit was repeated on 15 August 1944, when the Allies landed in Provence. The airborne invasion troops were transported in two missions. With unarmed and unprotected planes, towing heavy gliders, it took off from its base in Italy and crossed the Ligurian Sea. In spite of sharp enemy resistance, it crossed the coast of Provence and flew deep into the country in close formation, landing parachutists and gliders in a rather narrow zone which facilitated their essential regrouping for the success of the operation. Thus it was possible, through the ability and coolness of its crews, to hurl at the enemy's rear an important force consisting of 1,500 men, 70 pieces of artillery and several tons of ammunition and equipment, which contributed greatly to the rapid conquest of southern France.

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded by Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A splendid unit, animated by the finest spirit of courage and tenacity. It distinguished itself brilliantly in air operations over occupied territories and Germany from 1 December 1943 to 1 February 1945. It made 225 combat missions and dropped over 13,000 tons of bombs on vital German centers, in spite of sharp enemy resistance, which cost it 97 planes as against 142 enemy planes shot down or damaged. By its sacrifices, its tireless devotion, and its excellent crew work, it made a great contribution to the liberation of French territory.

A fine fighter unit, animated by exceptional fighting spirit and extraordinary heroism. Of recent formation, active ever since its arrival in Europe, it immediately achieved a brilliant feat of arms by making over 830 sorties between 5 and 15 June 1944, to support and protect effectively the Allied invasion forces in the attack on the continent. It then continued its action by escorting heavy bombers, pursuing enemy aircraft and machine-gunning enemy

FRENCH CROIX DE GUERRE WITH PALM, awarded under Decision No. 332, 17 September 1946, by the President of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, with the following citation:

A magnificent unit, distinguished by its dash, courage, and spirit of sacrifice. From 4 January to 17 September 1944, it flew over 2,000 night and day combat missions, in unprotected planes, over French territory that was still occupied. It dropped, by parachute, many arms and much equipment for the use of the French forces of the interior, under conditions which were rendered perilous by fighter planes and by a very vigilant antiaircraft. It thus made a great contribution to the Allied war and to the liberation of French territory.

V. BATTLE HONORS.—As authorized by Executive Order 9396 (sec. I, WD Bul. 22, 1943), superseding Executive Order 9075 (sec. III, WD Bul. 11, 1942), the following unit is cited under the provisions of AR 260-15 in the name of the President of the United States as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction. The citation reads as follows:

The 24th Infantry Division and the attached 441st Counter Intelligence Corps Team is cited for exceptionally outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in combat against numerically superior enemy forces in Korea during the period 2 July to 15 September 1950. When the gravity of the military situation in South Korea, and shortage of immediately available transportation necessitated piecemeal commitment of the division, despite its one-third shortage in all essential elements, the division faced an enemy force estimated to be a completely equipped corps, delayed this force and limited its advance. Stubbornly resisting the enemy's drive from Osan, where the advance force of two companies bravely blunted the driving onslaught, the division, though outnumbered, outgunned, and outarmored in the face of continual frontal attacks, intense guerrilla activities and infiltration of exposed flanks, succeeded in delaying the enemy's main effort until United Nations reinforcements arrived in the critical combat zone. Fighting in the streets of Taejon, where the Division Commander himself led rocket launcher assaults, the enemy was made to pay dearly for every mile gained. Time and time again fierce fighting took place throughout the delaying action when front line units decimated waves of attacking enemy with rifle, machine-gun and artillery fire, then killed the remnants that reached their position with bayonet and grenades. On 24 July, when a grave threat to the vital port of Pusan was made by superior enemy forces from the west, the division was called upon to meet this crisis. With only 2 days rest, the 24th Infantry Division met this critical menace and foiled the enemy's attacks; battalions and companies tenaciously gave ground, exacting a heavy toll of enemy dead and stopped this advance. Moving to a sector on the central Naktong River front it resisted and later eliminated a dangerous enemy bridgehead that threatened the entire United Nations beachhead. This determined and successful attack completely destroyed one enemy division as a fighting force. The division again distinguished itself in early September when it reinforced a Republic of Korea unit whose lines had been breached in the Kyongju-Pohang sector. By skillful strong attacks this last serious threat to the final defensive area was eliminated. Throughout the entire period of this heroic action, officers and men distinguished themselves by conspicuous gallantry and courage. Service troops fought side-by-side with rifemen, supply and medical personnel performed their missions despite enemy infiltration and flank penetrations. Engineers fought as infantry and stopped hostile assaults with mines and demolitions. Artillerymen fought off attackers to keep their guns in action, in fact every man in the division was engaged in battle. The individual and collective heroism displayed by all ranks of the 24th Infantry Division in its valiant stand against great odds reflect the highest credit upon itself and the Armed Forces of the United States.
