29th Infantry News Notes

1st BN. HQ. CO.

The members of the Communications Platoon of this organization were delightfully entertained at a seance on the south slope of Rivet Ridge Monday morning. Private Huber G. Rood, alias "Dead Eye Dick," unwound his six feet of stature and gave himself up to his wild whims with a perfect abandon. Observing him in this mood, I immediately dropped into the nonchalence of a nonagenarian as he commenced to discourse. At this juncture the medium after communicating with the spirits informed us that he was a direct descendant of the late Professor La Trousis, the famous zoological explorer, and that he had been smuggled into this country in two cigar boxes from the wilds of jungle Africa. "Dead Eye Dick" is a young man of uncultured temperament, romantic hair, pearly eyes, dreamy teeth, prominent ears, a Roman nose and has numerous feminine habits and traits of character concealed under a masculine exterior which accounts for his social achievements among the feminine portion of creation of Columbus, Ga.

In conclusion, I beg pardon for the brevity of these lengthy notes. I will write more when time is unavailable, however, because of the preponderance of the availability of time at the present, I am in a conflagration of thought, and because of the availability of time I will have to close in order to fail to pursue my duties as non-efficiency expert over this organization through which I preside.

HEADQUARTERS CO., 2nd BN.

Why Not A School For Reporters?

The news notes of this organization have for the past three weeks, from the time of composition to date of printing, dwindled to about half the original quantity submitted. Don't know where to look for sufficient encouragement to write the news this week, not knowing when and where the unknown censor will leave his mark and the why or wherefore of it all, now how to overcome the difficulty.

The reporter for this Company handles the contributions of four other organizations in this Battalion each week, and has never noticed the slightest change having been made when the notes come forth in print.

Taking the above into consideration, also the reduced space limit of the current 8-page issue, the news of this organization was first written in pencil. Approximately one-half of the items were then struck out( in this manner it is hoped to save someone the inconvenience of making the usual alterations) the remainder appearing below.

(Looked it up in the CMM but could find nothing preventing free speech.)

News Notes.

Our Company always has been a trifle modest and retiring. Even at last Tuesday's review they affected a disguise by marching so well that it was impossible to distinguish them from the rifle companies.

Incidentally, Conley was out with the Company and was in no small degree responsible for the splendid appearance of our outfit.

We didn't know that we had any fatalists in our midst but now that a certain Corporal, and perhaps also a Sergeant, who lately have run short of extra chevrons, don't seem to be in any hurry about replenishing their store, we can't help but wonder—why is a $21 soldier?

The Private Herbert Roth whose name appeared in the Columbus daily as a prominent factor of the Salvation Army activities in the post is a member of Hq. Co. 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry. He is also famous for his ability as a K. P.

COMPANY "E."

Cpl. Nelson was seriously hurt the other day while taking a bath. He forgot to wear his spurs, and fell down while under the showers. But like all good men, he couldn't be kept down.

"Gob" has a noble head, so has a tack. What would you do if you could see Army Regulations? You wouldn't know what they were. "NO" is the opposite of "YES." Now don't forget that, Chester.

Sgt. Guilford has joined the Salvation Army. He says that he can't seem to keep away from anything that has ARMY in it. Poor fellow!

Say, you don't know who I am, do you? Weel, I'm Cpl. Carpenter, don't fool with me. You win the radio operated rifle, son.

Pick it up. Set it down. Pick it up. Set it down. Sit on it. Stand up. Pull in your chin. Does anyone remember when that happened? I think it was somewhere along the Hudson river.

Company "E" society hounds, Bendinelli and Robarge. They don't think the "Snuff Chewers" have enough dances. Since they have entered society they like to strut their mess.

Tea Hound Teddy is a mean basketball player. He sure started a riot the other night while playing the First Battalion when he made three baskets in as many seconds.

Daniel Boone is a mean hunter. He went to bed the other night at 4:30, intending to get up at 4 a. m. to go hunting. But he didn't get up until 8 o'clock. There goes your dinner, "Horse."

By the shades of the great horn spoon. Sgt. Comeau turned out for baseball practice the other day.

We like opera, but if those birds in Tent 16 like to sing in the mornings, we wish they would go to darkest Africa. We like it, but the farther off the better.

COMPANY "F."

In compliance with existing orders report is made that there is no news for the Fort Benning Weekly News from this organization.

COMPANY "G."

The following is the news submitted from this organization for publication in the Fort Benning News:

2nd Bn. 29th Inf., defeats 1st Bn. twice and Special Units once during past week. There can be no doubt in anybody's mind, who witnessed any of the contests of the past week, as to where the winning teams of soccer and basketball are coming from this season. Lt. Raaen's eleven met and defeated with ease the 1st Battalion aggregation of soccer players on Jan. 24th, 1923. Only twice was the 2nd Battalion's goal threatened and then star goal keeper Clinkenbeard decided to take off his overcoat for a few minutes and go to work. Owing to the fact that the 1st Battalion was late to arrive on the field, the score was only 3-0, the game being played with fifteen minute periods.

Equally easy was the defeat of the Special Units on January 31st, the score in this case being 7-0. The team as a whole is an excellent team. There are few forwards of the calibre of Clarke, Stevenson, Yensen and Nault, and as for fullbacks, Lucas and Lehman are hard to beat, while halfbacks Araya, Crane and Otalvaro were always where most needed. In picking Clinkenbeard for goalkeeper, Lt. Raaen made a wise pick, and it is the case of the man fitting the shoes. For the special units, Barrick and Reilly were the best players and played an excellent game. The next game will be between the 1st and 2nd Battalions on Sunday, Feb. 4th, at 2:00 p. m.

1st Battalion Quintet Swamped.

Monday night saw the 2nd Battalion basketball team in action for the first time, when they trampled on the famous 1st Battalion basketeers to the tune of 38 to 7. To say it wasn't a good game would be wrong, for the 1st Battalion fought hard, but they were no match for Lt. Sims' warriors. The 1st Battalion was clearly outplayed in every respect. At no time during the game was there any question as to who would win, although the 2nd Battalion did not play up to the standard in the first half, the half ending with a score of 14 to 2. Both teams did much better work in the second half and some very fine team work was witnessed. The outstanding players were Kjelstrom, Brown, and Davis. Franz, although playing a good game, was not up to his usual form.

COMPANY "H."

Johnnie Helms was knocked out by Boots Antley last week at Columbus. He is now at the Post hospital as the result of it. It is not known yet whether he has a broken rib or not. We hope it isn't anything serious. John fought a good fight and if Boots hadn't had such long arms and superior altitude, the result would have been different.

There's a question we would like someone to enlighten us on. We'd like to know what two men it is that go down-town right atfer pay day, and get a room at a certain hotel, and what their mission is.

The demonstration that this Company took part in last week was a success. The men showed what good training will do for a Company.

Work will be started on the recreation room in a week or so. The books and papers are being ordered and should be here about the time it is finished.

The Company Commander is contemplating on putting in a radio outfit if it meets with the approval of the men. It will cost a fraction over a hundred dollars. This has a distinct advantage over a phonograph, as no records need to be bought for it. Concerts can be heard from all parts of the country. It will take up no more room than a phonograph and all that it needs is an antenna put up on the roof.

Compliments From Brazil

The Secretary of war is in receipt of the following cable from General Stembrino de Carvalro, Minister of War of Brazil:

"On the occasion of visiting the exposition pavilion at which your friendly nation has honored my country, I have the honor to compliment and facilitate you as Minister of War and to express my most sincere homage of the valiant American Army.

The Secretary of War has cabled the following reply:

"The Secretary of War and the American Army extend cordial greetings to the Minister of War and the Brazilian Army and sincerely thank them for the friendly expression of appreciation inspired by the American exhibit at the great Brazilian exposition which is promoting such mutual esteem between our countries.'

Civil Service Examination

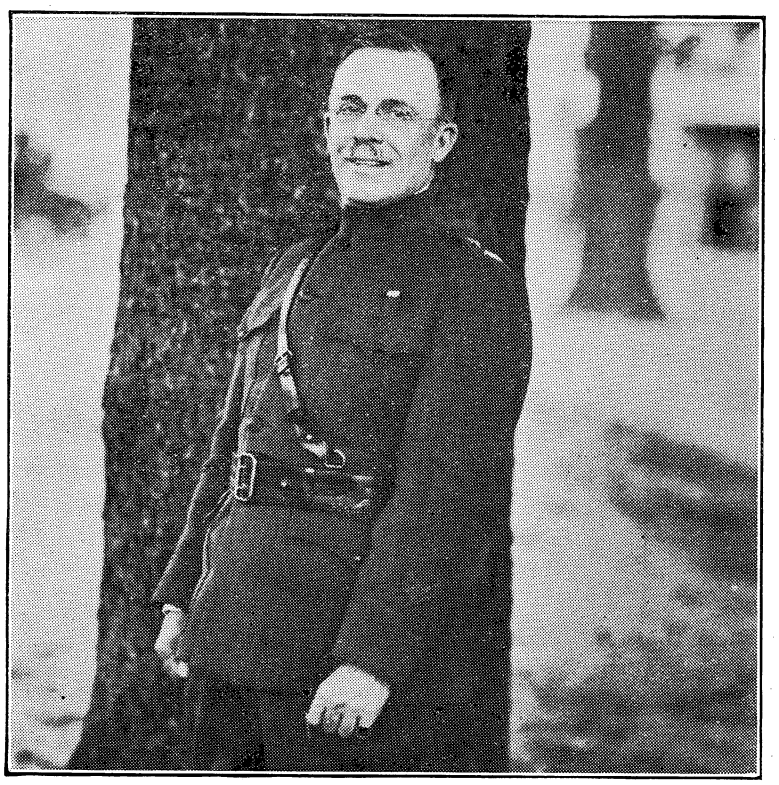
Such persons as believe that they are qualified for the position of CONTACT REPRESENTATIVE should apply to the United States Civil Service Commission, or the Postoffice at Atlanta, for Information. All applications must be on file not later than March 13th, 1923.

The duties of a contract representative are principally to establish contact with ex-service men entitled to privilages under the War Risk or Rehabilitation Acts or the Acts creating the Veterans Bureau.

The pay ranges from $1,800 to $2,400.



THE GENERAL IS SMILING BECAUSE OF THE MANY COMPLIMENTS WHICH THE CHIEF OF INFANTRY PAID FT. BENNING ON HIS RECENT VISIT.

Col. Munro C. Kerth Is Decorated

GETS THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL.

While General Farnsworth, Chief of Infantry, was here, he took the occasion to decorate Colonel Monroe C. Kerth with the Distinguished Service Medal. The decorating took place at Post Headquarters in the presence of nearly all of the officers of the Post, who afterwards complimented the Colonel on his award.

The citation follows:

Distinguished Service Medal Citation.

"Monroe C. Kerth, Colonel, Infantry, then Colonel, General Staff Corps, United States Army, for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service, as Military Attache at Petrograd, Russia, from September 1, 1917, to February 1, 1918. He performed his exacting duties with marked ability under most trying circumstances, as Director of the Army General Staff College, American Expeditionary Forces. By his high professional attainments and unfaling energy, he rendered service of inestimable worth in connection with the instruction and training of officers for General Staff duty. Later as a member of the Training and Instruction Branch, War Plans Division, General Staff, he demonstrated sound judgment, great breadth of vision and keen foresight in the solution of the various difficult problems with which he was confronted."

Now it can readily be seen from the above citation that a man can do exceptional service for his country that may be far more hazardous than service in the presence of an armed enemy.

The following is a brief history of Colonel Kerth during the World War:

From November, 1916, to May, 1917, Military Observer with the Ru-

General Gordon Receives Letter Of Commendation From the Surgeon General

General Gordon recently received a letter from the Surgeon General of the Army (Thru Channels) commending this Post for the excellent progress made in sanitation and disease control.

General Gordon states that this this would have been impossible had it not been for the whole-hearted co-operation of every individual working under the direction of the Medical Staff of this Post.

We take great pleasure in quoting the Surgeon General, W. M. Ireland:

. I desire, through your office, to express to the Commanding General, Fort Benning, Ga., and to the officers under his command., my great appreciation of the excellent constructive work being done at that station in sanitation and disease control, more particularly their accomplishments in the control of venereal diseases.

.2 Prior to the spring of 1921, the venereal situation at Fort Benning was a most serious one. As a result of energetically attacking this problem in a comprehensive manner, annual rate of admission for venereal diseases at Fort Benning has been reduced from a ratio of 138.2 per 1,000 men to ratio of 53.2 per 1,000 men in 1922. The rate for 1922 is less than the rate for the Army as a whole for the same period. Equally good results have been accomplished in the control of malarial fever.

Gen. Farnsworth Leaves

WELL SATISFIED WITH THE POST.

General Farnsworth, the Chief of the Infantry, completed his inspection here last Monday, and departed Monday night for Savannah.

The Chief expressed himself as being well satisfied with the condition of the personnel of the Post and with the Post itself.

On Monday morning he gave a short talk to all of the officers of the Post and related how the Infantry was co-operating with the other branches of the Service and thereby saving considerable money for the Government.

The Chief also mentioned briefly some of the improvements that had been accomplished by the Infantry for the Infantry.

Men Get Chance For West Point

During the past week several Georgia men have been designated for the Military Academy entrance examination. These examination will be held commencing March 6th 1923, and the successful candidates will be admitted on July 2nd, 1923.

The following are the lucky men:

Nathan Alton McLamb, Atlanta.

Barney Avant Doughtry, Register,

James McDonald Allen 1st Alt., Zebulon.

John Campbell Butt, Jr, 2nd Alt., Buena Vista.

Among the enlisted men, Corp, Cyril J. McGloughlin of Co. "A" 7th Engineers of this Post is one of the lucky one. Go to it Corp and the News wishes you success.

15th Tank Battalion News

It is enough to recall the two and a half hours we spent, dreamily gazing at the passing panorama of the program presented, but all too soon came to an end. Those who honored us with their presence at the stag and smoker January 25th smiled with contentment. What is so rare as an evening well spent. Ask the poet? No! Ask the scribe and he will surely reply "Home Talent Night."

Chairman Sgt. Dennis welcomed us with a warmth altogether consistent with his full gentlemanly rearing, and kept us well informed as to what came next.

General Gordon, when called upon for a few remarks, very kindly came forth and spoke on the good work done and accomplished by the battallion. He was accorded a wonderfu reception and at the conclusion of the talk received an inspiring note of thanks.

But Garrison, of Co. "C" possessing the ability of an orator gave a reading of "Love." Sgt. Hicks, Rollins, and several other members of Co. "C" presented a sketch entitled "Justice in Columbus," They did not surprise us with their art. Judging from the applause the number proved a wonderful success.

Hunt and Segrist, of Co. "A", with a song and stories, gave us the opportune and gifted calibre. We all appreciated the swell selection of music and good sounding stories, and therefore were not disappointed.

Lieut. Gallagher in the "Tin Soldier," received round after round of applause. As far as the scribe knows it was his first appearance for the Tank Battalion. Let us all hepo that it will not be his last.

Sarri and Flavio, well known entertainers, in their number created an atmosphere of pure delight, and one could hardly help keep their feet from getting into motion in rhythm to their music.

DeNapoli and Head, the old time ministrels, in songs and stories known from coast to coast, did not lag behind, but came forth with their rapid fire fully equipped machine gun of jokes and smiles from all corners of the globe. They surely are Johnny on the Spot to lift the lid and put pep and spice into life.

Sgt. Mason, and old standby dancer was at his best, and we sincerely hope to see more of him.

And at last, but not least, Reeves-pianist-hushed the sombre gray of the evening,

Sgt. Kelly then took charge, chow call was blown and all lined up for their guaranteed "ros biff" and hot puppie sandwiches.

Not knocking the efforts of previous committees, but Sgt., Dennis chairman of the Log Hut committee has announced a policy of entertainment for the next year which makes Andy Gumps pre-election promise sound like an undertakers trade journat. Sgt. Dennis appreciates the importance of his position and wants to make it of utmost benefit to the batallion.

EXTRA! EXTRA! EXTRA!

You may have attended high class entertainments and felt that you had the time of your uneventful life; you may have attended some wonderful shows of the past few years in our large cities and felt that they were the codfish's cravat, the elephant earmuffs (what ever they or any of them may be), but brothers, in the words of the famous classical poet, Al Jolson, "You aint heard nothin' yet," or heard it either to encompass everything possible to occur. The show to be staged the first week in March, and what happens on that never to be forgotten night, will turn Al Jolson, Eddie Cantor, Ed Wynn, Will Rogers, Jim Hicks, Red Head and the rest of the entetainment manipulators so green with envy that we fear they will all go out en-masse and commit hari-kari (that Japanest thing, you know what I mean) evacuating yoursel ffrom the mortal coil, as our deceased brother William Hasenpheffer Shakespear, Esquire, would very facetiously remark.

We most respectfully admit that it will be the most magnificentier, magnificentiest congregation and assemblage of reknowned stars ever unleshed in our time.

The cast as they appear:

The Cowboys Sheriff—Jim Hicks.
You Kee (Chink—Spark Plug Mason.
Fawn Afraid (Young Indian—DeNapoli.
Young Uu (orphan girl)—Red Head.
Mrs. Bragg—Thomas.
Charlie Blackshear—Garrison.
Nonage (Indian Chief)—Squirrell.
Duke Black Shear (Villian—Baltzell.
Grizzly (Cattle Thief)—Gardner.
Mr. Bragg (Liar)—Hunt.

| Equipment Fund | 77.69 |
| Total | $602.47 |

To include February 3rd, $475.83 had been received from the gate receipts of football games. This $475.53 is known as the Reduction Fund and has greatly reduced the burden of enlisted men whose children attend the school.

The regular monthly tuition for each child is $5.50. For December this was reduced to $4.50 for each child of enlisted men, and for January and February it was further reduced to $3.50.

Further reduction of the amount of tuition for the children of enlisted men for the latter part of the school year is assured.

The uition fo children of officers and civilians remains $5.50 for each child per month.

IN HONOR OF GENERAL FARNSWORTH.

Among other military and civilian affairs given in honor of General Farnsworth on his latest visit, special notice should be given the reception and dance tendered our distinguished guest on last Friday evening at the Biglerville hall. Higher officers of the post and representative citizens of Columbus formed the receiving line and nothing was omitted which might add either to the compliment so rendered the visiting General or to the enjoyment of the guests. Music was furnished by the 29th Infantry band and fruit punch and salad was served during the course of the evening. The assemblage was the largest and most brilliant this post has offered for some time and General Farnsworth most graciously expressed his appreciation of our effort to do him honor.

HARD TIMES PARTY

On Friday, February 16th, the Officers Club will throw a Hard Times party at the Hophouse, festivities opening at nine dongs of the cowbell. Anyone that comes with any decent looking clothes on will be asked to hang him or herself on a hatrack and watch the fun from afar. The first intimation of this gala occasion appeared in a special bulletin originating with the Entertainment Committee of the Club, which read, in part: "Get out your old duds and air 'em." Many loud guffaws greeted this announcement. What, with recent reversals suffered by most of us at the calloused hands of ole lady Feight, we don't have to get out any ole duds to air 'em. Weve been airing 'em all the time, wearing 'em every day in every. At last we can go to a party without sinking no small sum in a few tonsorial improvements and a visit to Jawn the Tailor. We can go jest as is, thank hevings. The oldest clothes, longest whiskers, frowziest hair and worst appearances will be the vogue. Some of us are even considering arriving at the scene of the blow out in an old rickety escort wagon we've heard squeaking around these parts. A handsome loving cup will be presented to the worst looking individual at the shin dig. A committee of eagle eyed ogres has already been appointed to sit in judgement and present this elegant token to the winner. Heaps of eats will be served thru out the evenings entertainment. Apples, doughnuts, cider, pretzels, pickles, all the grub incident to a poverty stricken affair will be served. In the receiving line will be six of Fort Benning's most handsome and eligible, of course young bachelors. So come on folks, the most the wilder.

MRS. McCASKEY AND MRS. LOCKWOOD ENTERTAIN.

Last Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock, Mrs. W. B. McCaskey and Mrs. B. C. Lockwood entertained at a delightful bridge luncheon at the Officers' Club Mess.

The entertainment was given as a honor to Mrs. P. B. Malone, who is leaving soon for Texas, where she will join her husband, General Malone, Mrs. Dunkle, who is the house guest of Colonel and Mrs. McCaskey, and Mrs. Muecke, the mother of Mrs. Butler.

After the excellent luncheon consisting of creamed chicken, potato chips, green peas, hot rolls, olives, ice cream, cake and coffee, four frames of bridge were indulged in.

Mrs. Garrison won the high prize, consisting of one-half dozen Madeira napkins, and the second prize, a gold Eversharp pencil, was won by Mrs. Schoeffel. Mrs. Lawrence drew the consolation prize, a Lady Baltimore cake. Each of the honor guests received a lovely box of correspondence cards.

Artistically arranged decorations, consisting of pine branches around the wall and small groups of white streamers with red hearts suspending from the various chandeliers, were used.

One hundred ladies were present.

Mrs. Frank Dunkle, who has been the guest of Colonel and Mrs. McCaskey for the past few weeks, will leave Monday for Marfa, Texas, to join her son.

OUR DISAPPOINTMENT.

The entire post was elated last week when news came of the promotion of the Commanding Officer to the well deserved grade of Major-General. The ovation which greeted General Gordon on the receipt of these tidings was most spontaneous and the congratulations he received came deep from the hearts of us all. Each felt then a personal triumph in his promotion as each feels now a personal loss that the good news was not true. We criticize no one and we make no comparisons—we do know, however, that no mistake could be made by his promotion and we all hope that his nomination will soon be submitted.

DID YOU EVER THINK OF IT THIS WAY?

"The poetry of earth is never dead". So wrote Keats in kindling phrase of lyric beauty, reflecting that always, night and day, some of earth's creatures are singing in the sheer joy of existence. The poet's thought could be well paraphrased and applied to that equally wakeful spirit of "patriotic service which prevades Fort Benning—this spirit, likewise," is never dead."

Reveille sounds and the air is alive with the vibrant murmur of the waking camp—the day wears on and the song of the service swells ever louder and more intense. From the surrounding hills the staccato of the machine gun; from the air, always inspiring, the winged rush of mighty motors; from the highways, the tramp of busy men, who, tho they be heavy-laden are in spirit as cheerful as the lilting tunes they whistle at their toil—all these sounds and many more blend daily into one fine harmony, our hymn of helpfulness to that republic we are so proud to help.

The day dies away in the sky, the bugles sweetly bid it God-Speed for the service it has rendered and, like a cloud of descending glory, the flag comes down. Darkness settles and in a little while all seems at rest. Yet some there are who sleep not and all night long beneath the silent star the guardian tread of sentries prolongs, till a new day dawns, the keynote of the camp "Service." Truly may it be said of Fort Benning and its atmosphere of patriotic endeavor. "The poetry of this post is never dead."

HOW GOSSIP GROWS AND SCANDAL SPREADS.

"I hear' or 'They say' becomes by the time it has passed over a few lips a full-fledged indictment, garnished and trimmed with imaginary circumstances. A story that began 'I wonder' or 'perhaps' takes the shape of 'Everybody says' or 'It is the common report,' or 'It is understood now;' the second says 'I heard;' the the first gossip says, I wonder third says, 'It is reported'; the fourth says, 'People are saying;' the fifth asks with surprise, 'Did you hear?' Oh, yes, everyone says so'; the sixth says, 'It is so.' Long before the victim of the charge has a chance to deny, it, if he ever gets such a chance the thing is settled. Someone ventures to suggest that perhaps there is no truth in it and mildly asks for some proof. He is laughed at. It is hinted to him that he is soft, credulous easily deceived. A dozen reasons are produced, founded on nothing, why the charge is probably true. One objects that nothing was ever said against this person. The others pounce him; 'that is always the way; the sly ones are the worst. But I always had my doubts about that person,' etc. etc., etc. Do you recognize the procedure? Of course, you do. It is as familiar as breakfast, dinner or supper, almost as common as the wearing of shoes."

COL. MUNRO C. KERTH IS DECORATED

manian Armies.

From May, 1917, to Feb. 1918, on duty with the Military Mission in Russia.

In March, 1918, he went to General Headquarters in France.

He was one month with the 26th Division in the Mont Sec Sector.

From June, 1918, to Jan. 1919, on duty at the Army General Staff College at Langres.

This certainly shows a variety of duties, and he made good on all of them.

At present Colonel Kerth is a member of the Infantry Board here at Benning.

SONGS OF THE PAST.

I remember, I remember, the day day they "swore me in"
I don't know yet what 'twas they read, amid the office din,
They weighed each toe and finger and measured both my ears.
And then I signed the dotted line for three (.3.) eternal years.
Signed A JOHN RECRUIT, (Seal)

I remember, I remember, the tent in which i Flopped,
The rain came down in torrents and filtered thru the top;
The pillow bruised my head and scant, my mattress was, of hay,
O, the floor beneath was softer than the bunk on which I lay!

I remember, I remeber, the first day of K. P.
The salt fell in the coffee and the pepper in the tea,
I spilt ketchup in the gravy and, when the sergeant called,
I got so scared I stumbled in the can where dishes scald.

I remember, I remember, the first salute I gave,
I thought it was an officer so dignified and grave;
First with one hand, then the other, I guess he thought me daft—
I've hated field clerks ever since—I still can hear him laugh.

I remember, I remember, the rifle that I drew.
'Twas thick with Ordance marmalade in beads of yellow dew,
The more I cleaned, the more there was. Instead of "oil", I ween,
What the widow's famous cruise contained was Ordance Cosmolene.

I remember, I remember, the first time I did guard,
"Two hours on and four hours off," that didn't seem so hard;
Until I started to walk post when the Corporal said "Now Kid"
Instead of walking; double time to get it over with!"

Now you have the idea, gentle reader. To any old timer who kin "remember" any similar experiences and sends us a verse like the above we will give one salvaged waist belt, complete with spare parts. Think of it! On account of the fact that salvage will so soon be discontinued and the supply curtailed we must limit this offer by awarding only one to each contributor, no matter how many verses he submits.—The News.

SHOULDER INSIGNIA FOR FORT BENNING PERSONNEL

A shipment of the attractive shoulder insignia now authorized for wear by Fort Benning's permanent personnel has recently arrived and is now on sale at the Post Exchange at a most reasonable price. This device which is a replica of the official "coat of arms" of the Infantry School represents a bayonet, white, on a shield-shaped field of blue. To start us off right and for the benefit of those tailors who may be unacquainted with the regulations concerning the proper location of these insignia on the sleeve, we shall reprint from the uniform regulations: "Shoulder insignia will be worn on the upper part of the left sleeve of the service coat or overcoat, the top of the insignia to be one-half inch below the top of the seam joining the sleeve to the coat or overcoat."

As far as we know, Fort Benning is the only station which is authorized a distinctive shoulder insignia for all permanent personnel irrespective of organization, and it goes without saying that we are duly appreciative of this opportunity of proclaiming our connection with this favored post.

Ancient Manuscript Unearthed at Fort Benning!

IMPORTANT FIND HAS JUST BEEN TRANSLATED.

The Archaeological Department of The News takes pleasure in announcing that recent excavations at the Upatoie Bridge by a delegation from the 24th Infantry Antiquarian Society were recently rewarded by the discovery of an age-old bottle, most securely corked. The exterior of this vessel bearing, as it did, the figure of an antique raven so aroused the curiosity of the excavting committee that they proceeded immediately to pull the stopper, not even pausing to inquire if Capt. Teachout were coming. Imagine then their surprise and disappointment when all they found therein was a manuscript, tightly rolled and inscribed in Hebraic characters. This on being translated proved to be "The Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon." These, the manuscript avers, were dictated to the Company Clerk by Pvt. Solomon, "In the 83rd year of his enlistment, when the day of his discharge was already close at hand," and so astute are the observations contained therein that we publish them, tho in installments, for the information and guidance of all concerned.

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

CHAPTER I.

(Translated by J. B. S.)

On ne'er-do-wells: the recording of their misdeeds: the effect of infra: the effect of supra: the manner of their service: their discharge.

1. Some soldiers there be who drill not nor prosper but labor by persuasion of armed men.

2. The days of their service seem endless and are full of trouble; the entries in the records of their service are in number as the sands of the sea.

3. Yea, their goings and comings are without number and their service records wax in bulk as dictionaries yet is the half not told and the 1st sergeants wearieth from oft recording of their misdemeanors.

4. All manner of misdoing is theirs and tho they drill it is with a gun rust-corrupted and tho they parade it is with blouse half-buttoned.

5. In the twilight, in the evening, in the black and dark night do they gird up their loins, binding also their sandals upon their feet and depart in their stealth to the nearby city for they have no pass to depart openly.

6. Where they affront all by their manner and bring contempt upon us who seek to wear the uniform aright.

7. They become drunken and are cast into prison with civilians of low repute; reville cometh and their voice answereth not to roll call nor can any man say where they have spent the night.

8. Then doth the wrath of the captain enkindle mightily against them yet on their return he preferreth no charges for that it is too much work in these days; moreover he hath at hand no plate of wrought silver on which such must be duly served to those accused.

9. So he admonisheth them greatly and doth menace them with many words: they smile in their hearts thereat and even up their sleeves do they laugh without stint or limit.

10. For an angry captain is a funny sight.

11. So are their days spent in company punishment and their nights in town and this manner of service cometh throuout the length of their enlistment.

12. At length the day of their discharge cometh and the captain is rejoiced, the company clerk whistleth as he prepareth the papers and the heart of the first sergeant is made glad at inscribing their exit on the morning report.

13. For of all things beneath the sun which cause travail and labor to better men the worst is a soldier who hath no pride having enlisted to avoid work. Selah!

Field Artillery News Notes

An extra five minutes perior was necessary in order to decide the relative merits of the I. S. D. and Artillery Bsketball teams who met last Saturday night, and parted, with the I. S. D. towing the longer end of 21 to 18 score.

Assuming that the praises of the slightly better team will be sung in another corner of this publication, as they deserve to be, this account will deal only with the cannoneers, among whom, Pieffer with three field goals, Mann with an equal number, and Goldberg with the same, and two foul throws in addition, divided the honors. Owens, substituting for Goldberg tossed a neat foul throw, and the guards, Mizwa and Piazza, held their opponents to a reasonable number of counters. Reckcastle, subbing at center for Peiffer, and Piazza, are both from B Battery, while the rest hale from Battery 'A'.

Odd organizations run to favorite sports. Headquarters is a baseball outfit, "A" and "B" run to football and basketball. "C" Battery has its representatives on most teams, but favors boxing. Apropes of which, and of the bataiion's prominence in fistic arts, the writer has attempted leave the "r" out of "First" in the "First Batallion of the 83rd Field Artillery," on several occasions, but an alert copyreader has always inserted it.

The same copyreader went in over his head on this column last week. The copy read; "Than which we are prouder of nothing." when it appeared in print, the copy reader had fixed it as follows: "of which there is nothing that we are prouder of," thus laboriously crawling right back into the same hole from which he had just extricated himself.

Distinctive regimental insignia will be a feature of the uniform of this unit in the near future, if plans being submitted to the Chief of Field Artillery for such a design are approved. The details of the designs are a military secret at this time, but it may be added that the Latin Motto; "Chase Me" is NOT a feature of the insignia.

This Column Closes with a note of warning. Misguided individuals inclined to bet their wearing apparel against the artillery pole team are advised not to do so; this in the interest of public decorum.

New Department in the Post Exchange

The Post Exchange has opened, in its Main Store, adjoining the Grocery, a Shoe Department which carries a complete stock, at very reasonable prices, of all up-to-date patterns and styles of Ladies, Childrens, and Mens shoes and hose.

A trial will be convincing that the quality and prices are right, and further, that it is more economical from both a financial and physical view, to purchase your shoes and hose from the Exchange, than to go over the AUTO-BUSTING ROAD nine miles to get them.

Think it over and at least give us a trial.

29th Infantry News Notes

HEADQUARTERS CO., 2nd BN.

Sergeant Harvey has had his little hard luck again. This time it was a soccer game. Wonder if he plays baseball.

Corporal Hopkinson is still popular in town. But it was postponed because a dozen prominent citizens want to meet him.

Corporal Quinley is thinking of leaving us to try and improve the Army by giving the embryo soldiers the right steer in the soldiering game at the Recruit Center.

It is so prophesied that there shall come a time, when there shall be no Light, and there will be a great destruction of cattle, and the Regimental Exchange will sell tallow candles and men will literally burn the midnight oil for their card games. And so shall they be afflicted until an Authority of the land shall rise and proclaim another Appropriation, whereby there shall again be Light.

COMPANY "C."

News is scarce in the Company at present, very little has been done this week on account of the rough weather.

Cpls. Bell and Corley are back for duty, after a week or 10 days in the hospital.

Private Hames returned Saturdy fom his long extended fulough and AWOL. He looked like he had walked back, pehaps that's why he was 27 days late.

COMPANY "E."

What's the matter with Tent 43? Smoke was seen issuing from the stove pipe on the morning of Feb. 7 for the first time this winter. Was it a case of cold feet or just a question as to who should chop the wood?

Privates Crane and Lucas are certainly playing a fine game of soccer with the 2nd Battalion team.

Two of our prominent members, Cpl. DeRose and Cook Denison joined the Modern Woodmen, Feb. 6th, and from all accounts the initiation was very interesting—that is, to those who witnesed it.

Pvt. Russo states that being a member of the demonstration platoon is much more pleasant than barbering.

Five new phonograph records were added to our collection last week, and they are certainly good.

COMPANY "F."

At this writing the 2nd Battalion Soccer Team has won three of its four games, the first game between 1st Bn., 29th Inf. and 2nd Bn., 29th Inf., was won by the 2nd Bn., score 4 to 0; the second game, Special Units vs. 2nd Bn., won by 2nd Bn., score 7 to 0; third game, 1st Bn. vs. 2nd Bn., won by 2nd Bn., score 5 to 0. Of course, this means that we have won the championship although we have another game to play Wednesday Feb. 7th, but without a doubt the score will be something similar to the above three scores. It is the belief of the writer that there is not a Soccer Team in the South that can beat the present 2nd Bn., 29th Infantry Soccer Team.

We wondered what the trouble was with Otalvaro, one of our star Soccer players, in last Sunday's game. He did not seem to be able to kick the ball straight at all. Suddenly I discovered from the side line that he had two left shoes on. After a very short time he was able to borrow a right shoe from one of the Subs. How can you be so absent-minded, Otalvaro?

Pvt. Nicolella has recently been placed in charge of the Company Recreation Room. Of course, "Nick," you will now be able to increase that monthly deposit, with the Finance.

Cpl. Sikes is somewhat of a checker and domino player. Look out, George Washington, there are a lot of dark horses that know those games.

By the looks of things, one would think that Co. "G," 29th Infantry, has gone into the dog catching business; any time during the day one can see dogs of all description keeping the boys busy in all ways, such as separating fights, throwing stones, using a wicked right toe, etc.

Sgt. Jones will be discharged on Feb. 13th. He is not going to re-up, nope, he is going back to the farm in Carolina, after 6 years of absence. We wish you luck, "Vester."

I wonder why Pvt. Perry takes that walk down the track every now and then. Are you practicing up, Francis? That "Weary Willie" stuff is the bunk. We thought you were not going back on the road. If you are, take it from me, buddie, go North for the freights are far and few between down in this part of the country.

Cpl. Williams is now ready to play any one person in the Post a game of pool, no one barred. Sometime in the near future we expect to see the name of Williams ranking with Willie Hoppe, the pool expert, also Wayne E. Leonard, the billiardist.

We have three men who will soon be discharged. They have hopes of signing up for 60 weeks with Keith's Circuit on the Vaudeville Stage. Any Company desiring the service of this famous trio may apply to Cooks Derbyshire and Mancuso and Mech. Trogden.

Mech. Trogden without a doubt is the best tenor singer in Tent No. 3. (Yep, Trogden, is the only occupant of Tent No. 3.)

A famous saying by a famous man (Cpl. Metzinger). "If it's not arskin too much, Judge, will you put the Dago in the same cell wid me."

"Pop," our company tailor, offered any man in the company 10 cents for a load of wood the other day, stop kidding us, "Pop," but come again about the latter part of the month. 10 cents is a whole lot of money at that time.

Cpl. Warner, your name is now Werner, don't forget that.

Cpl. Lance, can you play Carom??

The reason that our company did not submit any material for the "News" last week, our Company Reporter had to try and learn to soldier duing the time that the "News" should have been submitted. Second, my time was occupied trying to locate Private Pawlak's laundry (SOCK) if he was to lose two socks, I suppose he would tear down the Quartermaster Laundry. You're good, Pawlak, the world's wrong.

As was mentioned in the News a few weeks ago about Private Lingel going to town and posing at the bus station—well, he is off again. Just now came in the Orderly Room after his pass. Why don't you buy a "Henry?" You would save quite a lot of money.

Private First Class Allen Parrish, who was to be married next month, met with a very serious accident. The jug broke, and of course, his future better half was present at the time, so it was all off for Allen. He was posing as a Prohibition Officer. Do you realize how lucky you are, Allen?

COMPANY "H."

Our model platoon is being highly praised by officers and student officers every day. Captain Allen has said that it is the best Machine Gun Platoon in the Army.

All men are asked to donate some news to the Company Reporter.

"Who" were the chocolates for, Mac?

Sgt. Parris beat us making up his bed this morning. Why all the ambition?

Parris, Cobb and Company will stage all our musical operas in the future.

Our soccer ball players are still going strong. So far, they haven't had a goal scored on them. We expect them to come out on top.

IT IS GENERALLY admitted by all automobile dealers and manufacturers that the has the highest resale value of any car on the market.

THIS FACT should be carefully considered by Officers expecting to be transferred to other posts.

1. Under the provisions of Cablegram No. 2830, received from the War Department, March 1st, 1919, the Commander-in-Chief, in the name of the President, has awarded the Distinguished Service Medal to you for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services as set forth below:

Colonel Earl G. Paules, U. S. A.

For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services.

As a member of the American Military Commission in Italy from April to July, 1918, he displayed tact and diplomacy in making a preliminary investigation of the Czecho-Slovak situation. Later, as Commanding Officer of the 7th Engineers, he participated creditably in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensive, materially aiding in the operations of the Fifth Division by his skill in constructing bridges across the Meuse River in the face of desperate hostile resistance.

WAR DEPARTMENT.
Washington, January 30, 1919.
General Orders
No. 20.

VI—Awards, psothumous, of the distinguished service cross—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved July 9, 1918 (Bul. No. 43, W. D., 1918), the distinguished service cross was awarded posthumously by the Commanding General, American Expeditionary Forces, for extraordinary heroism in action in Europe, to the following named officers and enlisted men of the American Expeditionary Forces.

CHARLES J. MOORE, Captain, 7th Regiment of Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action on the Andon River, France. Capt. Moore went forward under heavy artillery fire, reorganized his men, who were in scattered units, after they had laid bridges across the Andon River. After being severely wounded he gave instructions to his subordinates for carrying out the work.

Service Club No. 1 Notes

The ladies of the post held their second meeting last Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock when plans were completed for the dinner to be given the Husbands next Thursday evening, February 8th. The recently acquired kitchen will be used in the preparation of the dinner and the husbands are asked to be on hand early to "shovel col".

Last Friday evening the prize poems were read aloud before the open fire in the south room of the Service Club and the prize was awarded a man calling himself Charlie Chumley but no one hs been able to locate this Charlie. Nevertheless, we wish to say that a perfectly good prize is awaiting him—Step forward Charlie and reveal your identity.

Last Sunday evening the men who chanced to be at the Service Club enjoyed a Marshmellow roast in front of the big open fire place in the south end of Service Club. Boys it will pay you to stick around the club as there is always something of interest going on.

Last Sunday evening the Service Club Committee enjoyed a Beefsteak Spread in their club room in the south of the Service Club. Everything was going good until Corp. Myers put six mints in his coffee thinking it was sugar and Corp. Mann stepped on Sgt. Sigmund's foot and made him swallow a piece of steak whole.

Immediately following the spread and while enjoying the after-dinner mints the Committee transacted the business of the evening with vice-Pres. Mann presiding in the absence of Pres. Bjonstol.

Tuesday evening at seven o'clock the second meeting of the men's chorus was held and it was decided to turn it into a Soldiers Glee Club. This club will organize next Tuesday evening at seven o'clcok and any man capable of carrying a tune will plese be there.

The Box-Dance last Wednesday evening was a decided success. The room was packed with ladies both of the post and Columbus and a total of twenty-four nice delicious boxes were sold. The committee appreciates the interest that the ladies taken in making this one of the best enjoyed dances that we have had so Far.

I. S. D. (White) News Notes

The I. S. D. Basketball team has started out right, winning their first tournement game from the 83rd F. A. Score 21-18. The I. S. D. rooters could easily be counted. Let's all see the game this Saturday.

Detachment dance Saturday night, February 10th, 1923. Place I. S. D. Mess Hall. Time 8 P. M. Let's go. Married men are cordially invited to bring their families.

The baseball fans and players of the Detachment held a rousing meeting in the Recreation room Wednesday, and from what the writer heard the other Post teams better be up to snuff.

Where was Private First class Otis R. Glenn Wednesday night?

Don't you know a Non-Commissioned Officer when you see one, wipe that smile off your face. Don't you know a Corporal. What Sergeant got this balling out last week.

Well boys things do look as if we are going to lose Frankie Smith (the Jaw Bone Clerk.) Do believe he is going to get married.

Jazz Magoni, shipped another chicken Wednesday, this one had feathers.

Medical Department Notes

Sergeant George F. Orr, Medical Department, received his discharge Saturday, February 3rd. Believing that the Army offered more advantages than civil life, he re-enlisted the following day. He is now enjoying a thirty-day furlough in Massachusetts.

Captain R. T. Arnest, M. C., left Wednesday on a seven-day leave of absence, being called home on account of illness in his family.

Sgt. V. E. Thompson and Private Hunt recently returned from acting as attendants for patients going to Walter Reed General Hospital. Thompson thinks that men going on trips involving train travel should be instructed before starting, as one of them went for a cup of water and brought back a cup of liquid soap.

Staff Sergeant and Mrs. P. H. Risley spent the week-end with the latter's parents at Hawkinsville, Ga.

RENTAL ALLOWANCE.

1. The following information relative to rental allowance, received from the Chief of Finance, is published for the information of all concerned:

"1. Under decisions of the Comptroller General, interpreting the Joint Pay Act of June 10, 1922, Finance Officers are authorized to make payments carrying rental allowance when the facts in the case conform to the requirements as set forth below. While the conditions set forth do not fully cover all cases where, in the opinion of this office, officers are entitled to the rental allowance, no payments other than those described herein may properly be made until such time as the Comptroller General may modify or amend existing decisions:—

a.—On Leave.

(1). Relieved from duty, granted leave, no future station being designated. (Dec. Comp. Genl. Dec. 26, 1922.)

(2). Relieved from duty, granted leave, at the termination of which, officer is to report to another station. (Dec. Comp. Genl, Jan. 2, 1923).

(3). On rental allowance status, granted leave, at the termination of which, officer returns to same duty station. (Decs. Comp. Genl., Aug. 30, 1922, and Dec. 26, 1922).

(4). On rental allowance status, granted leave, during which officer is relieved from duty and ordered to another station. (Dec. Comp. Genl. Jan. 10, 1923.)

b.—Sick Leave.

(1). Relieved from duty, granted sick leave (Decs. Comp. Genl. Jan. 2 and 9, 1923).

(2). Relieved from duty, ordered to hospital, and later granted sick leave. Decs. Comp. Genl., Jan. 2 and 9, 1923).

(3). On rental allowance status, granted sick leave without change of status. (Dec. Comp. Genl., Dec. 26, 1922).

(4). On rental allowance status, granted sick leave, and subsequently relieved from duty. (Dec. Comp. Genl., Jan. 10, 1923).

c.—Sick in Hospital.

(1). Relieved from duty, ordered to hospital for observation and treatment. (Dec. Comp. Genl., Jan. 9, 1923).

(2). On rental allowance status, ordered to hospital for observation and treatment, without change of status. (Dec. Comp. Genl., Dec. 26, 1922).

d.—Field Duty.

(1). The law grants rental allowance to an officer having dependents, if they are not occupying public quarters. It expressly denies rental allowance if the officer on field duty has no dependents. (Dec. Comp. Genl., Dec. 26, 1922.)

e.—Temporary Duty Away From Permanent Station.

(1). On a rental allowance status, ordered to temporary duty away from permanent station where personal shelter only is furnished officer. (Dec. Comp. Genl., Dec. 26, 1922).

(2). On rental allowance status, ordered to temporary duty away from permanent station, where personal shelter only is furnished officer, later relieved from permanent station. (Decs. Comp. Genl., Jan. 10 and 12, 1923).

(3). On duty at station where public quarters in kind are furnished, ordered to temporary duty away therefrom at a place where no quarters are available. Entitled rental allowance provided quarters are absolutely and unconditionally relinquished at permanent station. (Dec. Comp. Genl., Dec. 26, 1922, in connection with 20 Comp. Dec., 518.)

f.—Duty At Station Where Public Quarters Are Not Available.

"2. It should be understood that rental allowance does not acrue under any conditions cited above if the officer's dependents are occupying public quarters."

2. Officers who have been on leave of absence, sick leave, sick in hospital or on temporary duty and whose cases come clearly under any of the conditions above cited, may now submit proper claims for rental allowance, supported by certified copies of orders, in duplicate, to the local finance officer.

Take A Look At This

SPLENDID ROMANCE IS "THE PRISONER OF ZENDA"

"The Prisoner of Zenda", which has thrilled thousands who have read the book or seen the play, has been made into a photoplay by Rex Ingram the man who leaped into the front rank of motion picture directors by his production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse". This Metro picture, which comes to the war Department theatre on Sunday February 11, preserves all those elements which made the Edward Rose stage version of the novel by Anthony Hope, on which the photoplay is based, so popular.

It is a story of the adventures of Rudolf Rassendyll, a young Englishman who for a time became the king of the mythical country of Ruritania and who won the love of the Princess Flavia, after a series of plots and counterplots during which he is compelled to fight for his very life. Beautiful settings, gorgeous costumes and an exceptional cast contributes to make this romance one which will be talked about by all lovers of good pictures.

In the cast are Lewis Stone, Robert Edeson, Alice Terry, Stuart Holmes, Ramon Navarro, Barbara La Marr, Malcolm McGregor, Edward Connelly and Lois Lee. The adaption was done by Mary O'Hara and the photography by John F. Seitz.

LAUGHS IN NEW FILM DUE TO NOVELTY OF PLOT AND ACTION

The day of the hackneyed motion-picture plot is passing, according to the critical New York newspaper reviewers. Originality is what is demanded over everything else by present-day audiences; and if the story of a picture does not measure up to that standard the fact is quickly known to all who follow the printed criticisms, if, indeed, it has not already become known through word of mouth.

Coming to the War Department Theatre, Tuesday, February 13, is a photoplay which has received high praise on the score of its very uncommon originality of story content. Simple, unpretentious with no bizarre costumes or gilded settings, "Fools of Fortune," is nevertheless an outstanding attraction purely on the strength of the originality of its story. To this merit should be added the the capital acting of Marguerite De La Motte and Jack Dill in the principal roles, with the able assistance of those screen veterans, Tully Marshall, Frank Brownlee and Russell Simpson.

The story involves four amusing cowboy characters. One of their number decides to present himself to a wealthy Eastern family as its long missing heir, on the strength of a newspaper story he has read. This serious impulse is, however, begun in a spirit of harmless fun. The attitude of the three who are forced into the deception adds materially to the hilarious complications ahead of them. How this situation leads to other more serious ones; finally to reach a dramatic climax, unlooked for and amazing, will, it is expected, repeat the New York success of the picture.

"THE COWBOY AND THE LADY" FOUNDED ON CLYDE FITCH'S BIG SUCCESS

With a famous play by Clyde Fitch as a foundation, and featuring Mary Miles Minter and Tom Moore, "The Cowboy and the Lady" has been screened by Paramount. Supporting the featured players is a cast of popular players, prominent among whom are Robert Schable, Viora Daniel and Patricia Palmer. Charles Maigne was the director.

The story tells of a wife who remains faithful to her cad of a husband until fate points the way to a finer love. Jessica Weston, sickened by her husband's escapades, goes to her ranch in Wyoming. Releuctantly her husband accompanies her. Out there, however, he has an affair with another woman, while a neighboring gentlemanly rancher, Teddy North, falls in love with Jessica. Interesting developements follow, and there is a murder mystery which threatens to shatter the happiness of all concerned. But at the last moment justice and happiness prevail.

"The Cowboy and the Lady" which was filmed in Wyoming, comes to the War Department Theatre on Thursday, February 15.

100 BATHING GIRLS IN SUPERB PICTURE

Will Be Seen in Beach Scenes of "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew."

Swimming scenes in "The impossible Mrs. Bellew," the new Gloria Swanson Paramaount picture coming to the War Department Theatre next Friday, February 16, are said to have been given added realism because of the fact that one hundred beautiful bathing girls appearing therin were specially coached for the sequence by Duke Kahanomoku world's champion speed swimmer.

The Duke, then on a tour of the United States, visited the Paramount studio in Hollywood, Cal., just as Director Sam Wood was entering upon the task of training Miss Lura nson and the bevy of bathing girls she heads in scenes about Miss Swanson, whose own particular bathing suits are said to be the latest word in beach attire. The locale of the scenes is Deauville, France, home of the one-piece bathing suit and the liveliest and most publicized beach in the world.

When Director Wood found Kahanomoku was in the studio, the noted Hawaiian was pressed into service for several hours' intenseive instruction of the bathing contingent.

"The Impossible Mrs. Bellew" is said to offer a real novelty in the Deauville scenes. Monte Carlo, a winter resort, has been "shot" many times, but this is believed to be one of the first occasions for the use of the world's most famous summer watering place. Conrad Nagel is leading man.

"MOONSHINE VALLEY" WITH FARNUM COMING SOON

William Farnum, the noted Fox star, will be seen at the War Department Theatre next Monday, February 12, in a story of the foothills called "Moonshine Valley," from the pen of Mary Murrillo. It is said to be a picture with many thrilling incidents and striking photoplays.

During the picture Farnum stages two thrilling fights with Holmes Herbert, an old screen favorite, who is a member of the excellent supporting cast.

Dawn O'Day, a tiny three-year-old commedienne, and Sadie Mullen, who is playing her first leading role, are prominent members of the cast. Jean the famous moving picture dog, shows off to a good advantage.

The fact that Herbert Brenon directed the picture is the best assurance that "Moonshine Valley" is a photoplay out of the ordinary run by moving pictures, this director being noted for his human touches and startling effects.

CAPT. ELLIS RETURNS.

Capt. W. A. Ellis, Post Personnel Adjutant, returned Wednesday from a leave of absence spent for the most part in Illinois, and has resumed his duties at the Headquarters Building. Mrs. Ellis, who accompanied Capt. Ellis, will return about March 1.

SECOND BATALLION ATHLETIC NEWS

Second Batallion Again Victor in Basketball and Soccer.

Monday night saw the overwhelming victory of the Freebooters basketball team at the hands of the second battalion, 29th Infantry. The first half ended with a score of 42-2, so Lt. Sims decided to let his second stringmen play the second half. The final score was 48-7. It looked as if the 2nd Bn. is going to the top of the ladder with little opposition.

The next fray will be between the second battalion and the Tanks on next Wednesday.

SECOND BATTALION SOCCER CHAMPIONS

By beating the 1st Bn. last Sunday by the score of 5-0, the 2nd Bn. became the champions of the post in Soccer football. Just to put on the finishing touches, the Freebooters were also defeated by exactly the same score last Wednesday. This was the only game that the Second Battalion's goal was actully threatened, when the Freebooters missed making a goal by a few inches. However, a miss is as good as a mile, and the 2nd Bats emerged from a triumphant season with four straight games won, and have never been scored on. It is sorrowful that other units in this post did not place a team in the field this season, as it would have given the Second Battalion Champions great pleasure in winning from both the 83rd and Tanks. As it is, the basketshooters will have to do the winning from these organizations for the soccer boys. The present plan is to play the Student Officers at an early date, possibly next Wednesday. This certainly will be a most interesting game.

The turnouts at both basketball and soccer have been altogether too small, possibly caused by the inclement weather, but it is hoped that a record crown will support the team hereafter.

I. S. D. DEFEATS THE 83rd F. A.

On Saturday night the Infantry School Detachment (white) and the 83rd F. A. met in a basketball game that was an excellent imitation of a good football. Roughness was a distinct feature of the game. Team work and science were conspicuous by their absence. However, it was a good game, and to finally decide who the winners were an additional five minutes of play were necessary. This additional five minutes showed that the powers that be favored the I. S. D., and the final score stood 21 to 18.

Line-Up.

| 83rd F. A. | Pos. | I. S. D. (W) |
|---|---|---|
| Goldberg | | Highland |
| | Forward | |
| Mann | | Carroll |
| | Guard | |
| Mizwa | | Ellis |
| | Guard | |
| Peazza | | Valentine |
| | Center | |
| Peiffer | | Collins |

Rockcastle substituted for Peiffer in the last five minutes of play. I. S. D. substituted Kato for Ellis, Bays for Kato, Ellis for Bays.

Kid Suby , the middle weight champion of the fourth corps area adds another victory to his credit by the K. O. route. This was the outcome of a scheduled ten round bout in Burlington, Vermont.

2ND BATTALION 29TH INF. DEFEATS FREEBOOTERS, 29TH

In a one sided game in which the Freebooters never even got an excellent start, the 2nd Battalion Basketball team gave Freebooters of the 29th an awful walloping to the tune of 48 to 7.

However, the Freebooters have some excellent material and with a little more hard work for condition and more playing together to develop team work the Freebooters could develop a team that would be the par of any on the Post.

| Freebooters | Position | 2nd Bn. |
|---|---|---|
| Duqdtte | Guard | Frantz |
| Rothfarb | Guard | Burt |
| Harrison | Center | Davis |
| Lotz | Forward | Kjelstrom |
| Hardesty | Forward | Brown |

Shaffer substituted for Harrison.

2nd Bn. Sub. Johnson for Frantz; McCord for Burt; Akers for McCord; Brady for Brown.

"THE FIRST YEAR AT THE SPRINGER OPERA HOUSE TWO NIGHTS AND MATINEE

Young housewives whose husbands are just starting out in life and not making any too much money, know the tribulations that beset them when company comes for dinner, especially when that company comprises strangers. They will be able to appreciate, therefore, the feelings of Grace Livingston in "The First Year," Frank Craven's eminently successful play which will have its local hearing at the Springer Theatre February 14 and 15—Matinee 15th,

In this delicious "comedy-tragedy" of married life, produced by John Golden and staged by Winchell Smith Tommy Tucker, Grace's husband, invites a business man and his wife to dinner. Poor Grace has been having a hard time of it. She is a small-town girl who had never been away from home and mother before in her life. Here she is, in a strange town that she doesn't like, although her longing for chance had urged her to compel Tommy to bring her to it. The weather is hot. The cook fails to appear, said cook being a temperamental colored woman who cannot always be counted on. And she has to dress, as well as prepare the dinner.

Then Tommy comes home and makes matter worse in his well-meaning, but clumsy, attempts to help. When finally he picks up a glass of water that Grace had just filled and put on the table, and drains it, Grace goes to pieces. It looks like a little thing, but young housewives on a hot day and under such circumstances know how the little thing counts.

24th Infantry Notes

COMPANY "A."

The Company Clerk, Co. "A," has the writing fever. He is forever writing up the doings of other people, but I notice he overlooks himself. Be careful, Corporal, the boys are looking you up. Where there is smoke there is fire somewhere, and I think you are in the midst of the blaze.

Pvt. Churchill went to town last night with the expectation of meeting his new loved one, but his old love met him and turned him shortly around. Poor Church, it's hard but it is fair. We were lucky just the same, for he caught an automobile on the fly that was going 30 miles an hour. Oh, boy, you sure are swift.

COMPANY "B."

Bugler Hall, you seem to be undecided. You had better hurry and decide what you intend to do, as you are getting to be a short timer. We heard you say sometime ago that you were going out in the life, get married to a wife, and settle down. We advise you to stay in the army and settle up.

Robinson (the Cruel Hombre) says that he is going to crush a man bright and early Sunday morning.

Happy Rollins, we advise you to stay at home all day next Sunday.

Well, Sergt. Freeman, you got a letter at last! What did she have to say?

Willie P.—You lost your last battle and you are promised a return bout. Say, boy, you had better get "Do Belly" to train you for the big fight.

COMPANY "D."

Company "D" has just begun to prepare for the coming Target Season. We intend to break all previous high qualification records. Not only Co. "D's" high record, but the high record of the Army; and with Captain E. C. Callahan, our Commander, one of the best Machine Gun officers in the entire Army, we can, and are going to qualify 100 percent Experts.

Willie Felder, better known as "Kid Quong," went to the city Thursday night and lost his head, and he has been going back every night since trying to find it.

Henry T. Day, better known as "Sweet Papa Long Legs," is trying to change his name to "Dressing Kid." He is mad at Law because he can't get a suit with blue, yellow, green, white, gray, silver and red stripes in it. Keep a cool head, "Long Legs," Law will find that pretty suit for you.

Gee, what is the matter with "Boo Reese"? He hasn't been to the city in two months. Poor "Boo Reese!" We know you got stung the last time you were up there, but all the yellow jackets are gone now, so you can go back without getting stung.

POEM.

It was on a Sunday morning,
In a little village town,
Lived one Robert B. McAdams,
Who was old and bent in age.

He was somewhat over eighty,
But each Sunday at 9:00 A. M.,
You could see him, bent and trembling,
On his way to morning prayer.

From his cabin to the church house
It was three miles or more,
So he always started early,
To be there to join the choir.

But upon this Sunday morning
When he reached the church house door,
There he found the church was empty,
But a sign was on the door.

In large letters roughly printed,
Robert B. McAdams read,
Preacher Absent On Vacation,
Church Is Closed Till His Return.

While lingering there in wonder,
This sad vision crossed his mind,
If when he arrived in heaven
Would he find it written there—

CHRIST IS ABSENT ON VACATION,
HEAVEN CLOSED TILL HIS RETURN.

Then the old man, broken-hearted,
Re-read the sign upon the door:
PREACHER ABSENT ON VACATION,
CHURCH IS CLOSED TILL HIS RETURN.

By C. F. Goode, 1st Sergeant, Co. "H," 24th Infantry.

COMPANY "K."

Cpl. Jones (He Vamp) had a slight collision with a mirror a few Sundays ago, "just thru playing," and the only damages reported thus far was a broken mirror. That's alright, Johnny, she didn't mean to hurt you—"MUCH."

A certain brother came in last Sunday night all cold, muddy, and wet, and upon being asked what was the idea, replied: "Oh, boy!" (Deep stuff, deep stuff.) Nuff sed.

Sgt. Garrett (Tailor-Made) has passed in review again but what was the idea of sticking around the cop, after the review? "Afraid to go home in the dark?"

Sgt. McCauley (Happy Hooligan) was asked, "Who was responsible for the cadence of the Platoon?" replied, "The Platoon Commander." Atta boy, Mack.

COMPANY "L."

The members of Company "L" would like to know very much what has become of the Jolly Four since it was announced that the Williams Singers will appear at the Service Club on Saturday, February 10th, 1923.

Private Carter Smyers, of Company "L," bought his girl a pair of bedroom slippers for a Xmas present, and upon finding that same was too small, he has been seen wearing them himself.

RECRUITING OFFICE.

All canvassers are hustling these days trying to win one of the $20.00 prizes offered by the Infantry Journal and the Field Artillery Journal. Corporal Woods, in charge of the sub-station at Cordele, is in the lead.

Twenty-one enlistments were made during the past week.

The Star Recruiters' List published by the Fourth Corps Area contains the following names for January:

Corporal Woods, 15 enlistments.
Sergeant Catron, 14 enlistments.
Sergeant Winn, 11 enlistments.

Fort Benning ranked third among the ten stations in the Corps Area reporting enlistments for January.

History of 29th Infantry

Article 20.

1918.

The first four months of the year was spent by Co. "H" at Fort Randolph as support for the Coast Artillery.

Companies E, F, G and the M. G. Co. were on field service at Coco Solo and the North East area from Jan. 12 to 26.

The Regiment (less Co. H) participated in maneuvers, under command of Major E. H. Wagner, from Feb. 9 to 23 in the South West area Republic of Panama. Feb. 9 marched from Camp Gaillard, C. Z. to the "Frenchman's," R. P., 11 miles; Feb. 10 to Chorrera, 14 miles; left Chorrera Feb. 23 and marched to Camp Gaillard that day, 25 miles. On the night of the 22nd, "Taps" sounded at 7:30 and reveille at 1:30 a. m. of the 23rd. The Regiment was on the march as soon as breakfast was eaten and arrived in Empire just as the Camp was entering on the activities of the day. It was with difficulty that the men of the Fifth at Empire were convinced that the 29th had left Chorrera that morning.

The First Battalion left in two days for field service in the North East area. The Second and Third Battalions went on Lock Guard in March.

Brigadier General Blatchford inspected the Regiment on June 10.

Colonel John S. Mallory was relieved of assignment to the Regiment on March 25, to the great regret of the 29th. This loss was compensated for, however, in the promotion of Colonel Mallory to the grade of Brigadier General.

The Regiment was on lock guard again from June 12 to August 13, being relieved at that time to prepare for transfer to the United States.

In July all men (470 in number) having a year or more to serve were transferred to the 33rd Infantry and the 29th received from 33rd a like number of men with short period of service to complete. The same transfers were effected in the case of officers in respect to length of foreign service.

The 29th received from the 33rd: Major L. T. Byrne; Captains R. R. Long, W. B. Smith, O. L. Garrett, T. McHale, Geo. Harris, H. B. Miller, G. W. Teagarden and Lieutenants E. Black, Jno. Boggs, S. R. Morse, F. W. Winkles, W. B. Lindle and Chas. Palmer From the M. & P. Co., Lt. W. C. Bryant.

In addition to above named officers, the regiment had assigned to it while still in Panama the following:

Colonels Chas. B. Hagadorn and James A. Irons.

Lt. Col. Edwin J. Bracken. Col. Bracken died at Ancon on June 16.

Majors Frederick C. Test and James M. Churchill.

First Lieutenants Pierce Butler, Jr., Elbridge Colby, Hugo J. Enders and Elmer L. Mott.

Large Reduction of Civilian Employees

Since the beginning of the present administration the force of civilian employees of the War Department the district of Columbia has been reduced more than one-half. On March 3, 1921, this force numbered 9,548, and on this date the number is 4,609 This is a reduction of nearly 52 per cent. in less than two years. The pre-war strength in Washington was 2,911. When the armistice was signed the strength was 37,406.

During approximately the same period (March 3, 1921—December 31, 1922, the date of the latest report of the number of civilian employees in the field), the entire force of civilian employees of the War Department in Washington and elsewhere was reduced from 90,106 to 47,387. This is a reduction of 42,719 or over 47 per cent. The annual saving effected by these reductions amounts to more than $51,000,000.

The pre-war strength of civilian employees of the War Department, wherever employed, was 45,911; so that the total on December 31, 1922, was only 1,476 in excess of the pre-war strength. During the war, however, two new services were developed. These two services, Air and Chemical Warfare have today a total of 4,007 employees (Air, 3,331; Chemical, 676), which number should be deducted in making a comparison with the present and pre-war strength of War Department employees. Making this deduction, the total civilian strength of the War Department wherever employed in the District of Columbia or elsewhere is today less than it was before the war.

General Winans Arrives

WILL TAKE REFRESHER COURSE.

General Edwin B. Winans has arrived at Fort Benning to take the Refresher Course. He has taken quarters in block 21, occupying rooms 7 and 8 in Building 212513. His aid, 1st Lieut. Loren F. Parmley, is in room 15 of the same building.

LIEUT COL. M. C. MUMMA WILL HEAD RIFE MATCHES AT PERRY

(5th Corps News.)

Lieut. Col. Morton C. Mumma, cavalry, has been designated again by the Assistant Secretary of War as his executive officer at the National Rifle Matches to be held this coming September at Camp Perry, Ohio. It is anticipated that in addition to our own matches rifle shooters from all over the world will attend. The matches last year were considered the most successful of the matches ever held and the major part of the success was attributed to Colonel Mumma and the efficient staff which he appointed. It has been rumored that Colonel Mumma has been and is now being considered by the General Staff for promotion to the grade of brigadier general because of his efficient handling of the National Matches which he has headed for a number of years. It is felt in all arms that this promotion is justly earned and if finally made will be heralded with much rejoicing by the Navy and Marine Corps as well as the Army.

American Legion Upholds France

When the National Executive Committee of the American Legion held its January meeting in Indianapolis on January 23rd, 1923, they adopted a resolution upholding the French Invasion of the Ruhr Valley. After reciting those terms of the Peace Treaty which affected the situation the resolution continued:

Whereas, for the purpose of securing compliance with the terms of the Peace Treaty, France has now occupied certain territory in the Ruhr valley; therefor be it

Resolved by the National Executive Committee of The American Legion, in session in the City of Indianapolis, U. S. A., this 15th day of January, 1923, that the action of France in so occupying said terrtory was and is justified; that she is endeavoring by the only effective means to collect a debt which the majority of the nations of the earth have decreed she is justly and properly entitled to; that we approve her course in the premises and wish her success to the end that the wrongs endured and the damages suffered by her may to some extent be compensated, the fruits of victory enjoyed, and the war stay won.

Captains B. R. Legge and C. R. Huebner Decorated

BOTH RECEIVED DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL.

The News just recently learned that two officers, both students at the Infantry School, received the Distinguished Service Medal, Captain Barnwell (Bonnie) R. Legge and Captain Clarence R. Huebner.

Both of these officers left the United States in June, 1917, for France with the first forces that went overseas and both were a part of the First Division. Both Captain Huebner and Captain Legge remained with the First Division during all of its operations and fate decided that they both return to the United States at the same time, September, 1919. Upon their return to the States both came to the Infantry School and both were instructors at the School until May, 1922. Now both of the officers are student officers in the Field Officers' class.

Overseas both officers started as company commanders. Capt. Barnwell Legge was recommended for and received the rank of Major as a result of his actions in the Aisne-Marne Offensive, then as a result of his action in the Argonne-Meuse Offensive he was recommended and received the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

Captain Huebner received the rank of Major on July 3rd, 1918, and

The Corporal Who Didn't Mean It

Once there was a Corporal who answered "Here" when the First Sergeant called the name of Muggins at Revielle. He was full of snap and ginger and Energy, and wanted the Boys to consider him a Good Fellow. He was a kidder. He liked to Joke with the boys just to show them that he was not stuck up because he wore two stripes.

When the First Sergeant put him in charge of a Squad Room, Muggins was very careful to find a fitting Nickname for all the boys.

To keep them from ever imagining that there was anything Puffed up about him, whenever he gave any of them an order he would do it with a smile and a slap on the back.

As he was no larger than the smallest man in the room, he thought it a fine joke to threaten to beat up any man who hesitated to obey his order. Sometimes they obeyed it.

One morning First Call for Reveille broke into the Quiet Peacefulness of the night. Corporal Muggins bounded out of Bed into his clothes and in his customary Breezy manner announced to the world at large:

"Arise and shine. Up and at 'em Gang."

Now, the only man in the Squad who was smaller than Muggins was Private Kazamewski, who had spent the first eighteen years of his checkered young life not more than five minutes from Fifth Avenue, but a Thousand miles from it in Standards of Etiquette.

Kazamewski had shown the Boys the night before how the Africans play Dominos, and First Call failed to Register. It meant Nothing to Him.

Muggins, in his most Kittenish manner lifted Kazzy's bunk and dropped it with a Thud and announced to One and All that if he did not get up Toot Sweet then he, as Corporal, would have to Chastise him severely.

But it was much too soon after the Other Game for Kazzy to play a new one and he rolled over to sleep on his Other Ear.

In the very height of playfulness Muggins laced his Fingers in Kazzy's Hair and Kazzy came up Fighting.

When Muggins returned from the Hospital he was called as a Witness before a Court Martial where Kazamewski was being tried for Disobedience of Orders.

Private Muggins is now trying to find the Solution to a couple of Perplexing Questions.

Why is it that Corporal Kazamewski, who never smiles when he gives an Order, but Barks it Out as if he were the Captain, gets so much Work out of the Squad?

Why is it that in Spite of this, the Men seem to like him so well Off Duty?

Moral: If you don't mean it don't say it.—Infantry Journal.

ECCLESIASTICAL NOTICE

The NEWS regrets to announce that Pvt. Solomon was taken with acute neuritis in the ring finger this week and unable to assume that philosophical attitude so necessary to the writing of "Proverbs." (To those who demand a more prosaic and less painful explanation we'll admit that they got lost somewhere around the office and that we hope to find them in time for next week's NEWS.)

A CORRECTION.

Through an error the News last week printed that Sgt. and Mrs. Dale D. Parks had a brand new baby boy, when it should have read, Born to Sgt. and Mrs. D. W. Parks, a baby GIRL, Frances Willene.

While we are talking about Mrs. Parks and the baby, we might add that Sgt. Parks came into the office Wednesday afternoon and stated that Mrs. Parks was doing considerble entertaining as on Tuesday evening she had to feed that little girl two times and then the dog came in, and as he indicted that food was desirable he was served with a DELICIOUS COURSE consisting on bone, meat, potatoes with gravy, and bread in milk. The cat called during the period that refreshments were being served and as she was a little late lost out on the course consisting of bones, but she said that there was so much of everything else that she would be able to get along nicely.

An enjoyable time was had by all.

TWO RADIO BUGS

In the last issue of the Fort Benning News we noticed under the Motor Transport Corps notes that they gave an interesting radio program on Wednesday evening, January 24, 1923 and that thy got in touch with station AWUR, Sweeney Automobile School, Kansas, City, Mo. the writers of this article would like to know since when they changed from WHB to AWUR. Better get another radio receiving set or try it again and see if you can't get better results.

COLONEL AND MRS. PEYTON ENTERTAIN

On Friday evening, February 9th, Colonel and Mrs. E. G. Peyton at a dinner at the Officer's Club Mess in honor of Mrs. Eric Scales, wife of Adjutant General Scales of Mississippi, who is visiting Capt. and Mrs. Howard Scales.

The table, with covers laid for fifty-two was in the shape of a horseshoe adorned with a profusion of carnations and decorations appropriate to the Valentine season.

Covers were placed for:

Colonel Fassett, the Misses Fassett Colonel and Mrs. Smith, Colonel and Mrs. Browne, Colonel and Mrs. Goodale, Col. and Mrs. Hocker, Col. Van Dusen and Mrs. Hobbs, Col. and Mrs. Peyton, Mrs. Butler, wife of Colonel Butler, Maj. and Mrs. John Wheeler, Maj. and Mrs. Koehler, Col. and Mrs. Williams, Maj, and Mrs. W. Wheeler Maj. Blockenberry, Maj. and Mrs. Elliott, Maj. and Mrs. Musgrave, Maj. and Mrs. Greene, Maj, and Mrs. McMurray, Maj. and Mrs. Tobais, Capt. and Mrs. Hanna, Capt. and Mrs. Watson, Capt. Legge and Miss Legge Capt. and Mrs. Dinsmore, Capt. and Mrs. Scales, Mrs. Eric Scales, Capt. and Mrs. Wing, Capt. and Mrs. Hayne.

MRS. T. L. SMITH ENTERTAINS.

Last Saturday Mrs. T. L. Smith entertained at five tables of bridge at her home. The party was given in honor of Colonel and Mrs. F. Bloonhart, who left for the Philippine Islands last Wednesday.

Mrs. Hansell won the ladies' high prize and Capt. Turner won the men's high prize. Mrs. Dibrell won the consolation. Mrs. Bloonhart received a delightful guest prize.

Delicious lobster salad was served for refreshment.

Jonquils and violets were delightfully intermingled and formed the decorations.

SONGS OF THE PAST.

I remember, I remember, once I got a three-day pass,
I planned to stay in town awhile, but then I met a lass!
She was so good at spending coin that with the next day's sun,
I sneaked back to camp for breakfast with the pass two days to run.

I remember, I remember, my first shot in the arm,
The needle broke when half way in,
the doctor said, "No harm,
You'll find that needle's point quite beneficial to your wing
And iron injections, for the blood, are quite the latest thing."

I remember, I remember, the first pay day I met—
I stuck out both my hands at once that 30 beans to get.
The officer looked at the roll, he said, to my dismay,
"The clerk has spelled your last name wrong—you get no pay today!"

I remember, I remember, my first trip to the mill,
I feared myself at sunrise shot and lying cold and still!
A guard house lawyer staying there fixed up a likely tale—
I learned it and stuck to it and I soon was out of jail!

I remember, I remember, the first
pack that I rolled,
I asked the sergeant how 'twas done and did as I was told;
But when I at attention stood and dared not move a speck,
The shaving brush stuck out the top and tickled round my neck!

AN OYSTER ROAST.

Colonel W. O. Smith, Capt. J. Porter, Capt. G. Kraul and Lieut. J. W. Elkins received invitations from Rhodes Browne, President of the First National Bank, to attend an oyster roast that the Business Men's Club was putting on last Friday night

It is needless to say that they all accepted and attended, and from all reports a very enjoyable time was had, and as there were more oysters than they could possibly eat, everybody claimed that they were well filled up for once.

THE CATS!

The office cat entertained several of his friends last Friday night at an impromptu musicale on the roof of the Camp Theatre. During the evening several beautiful solos were rendered, etc., etc.

CAPTAIN JOHN CLAUSSEN ENTERTAINS

Captain John Claussen entertained at a four course dinner at the Muscogee Grill on last Tuesday evening.

All of the guests, thirteen in umbet were seated at one large table.

The table was decorated with a large bodl of pink rose buds, favors for each of the ladies were vanity boxes of face powder.

After the excellent dinner, dancing was indulged in.

TENNIS DANCE FEB. 21st.

In order to raise sufficient funds to defray the local expenses of visiting college tennis teams this spring the tennis committee will hold a sport dance on Wednesday evening, February 21st at 8:30 P. M. in the Officers Hop Room.

Tickets can be purchased from the Officers Club for fifty cents per ticket.

If sufficient funds are raised, the people of the post will witness matches between the best college players in the state and the local players and thereby make this year the banner tennis year for Fort Benning.

It is hoped that many will turn out for this dance and a good team is promised for all.

FOUND—Saturday morning on the roof of the Camp Theatre, two alarm clocks and 3 bootjacks.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Since the last issue of The Fort Benning News there has occurred the 114th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. The occasion has been generally observed by the press and people of all nations where free men dwell, and Americans in particular have dwelt with pride upon the countless commendable characteristics of his genius. Tho the date of that anniversary be now past it is no anti-climax that we refer to it now. It is well for one to reflect even more than once a year on such a man, who combined, as no other ever did, the manly attributes of power and benevolence, of courage and tenderness.

The recent anniversary focussed the attention of the world on that sublime memorial in Washington, which was built to express, as well as the outward works of man ever can express, the gratitude of this greatest nation. From those who had gone before him he received the stars and stripes unconquered, to those who came after him he bequeathed them unconquerable; to the patriotic man Lincoln has become more than an ideal—he has become religion. Those who designed the Lincoln Memorial had as their inspiration the grandeur of the man himself and thus it was that they did more than rear a monument—they builded a temple where all who love their fellow men might in spirit enter and be at peace.

"It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this." On the other hand not all the quarried marble of the world could render deathless the name of one who hath not within himself deserved immortality. We should realize that Lincoln himself first built the Lincoln Memorial —its foundations deep in the secret places of the heart where love of man for brother man exists—a monument more precious than marble and more enduring than bronze—a monument of great and kindly deeds. Just as long as men believe that caste is wrong, that privilege is wrong, that the outworn superstitions of feudalism are wrong, so long will the name of Lincoln live—an undying inspiration to the world's oppressed and an eternal reproach to the world's oppressors.

Agricultural Note.

A farmer down in Georgia
Doped out a brilliant scheme—
He put his cow in the ice house,
And thus he got ice cream!

FIVE O'CLOCK DEAFNESS

Comes now the Post Surgeon who deposes and says that, during the recent physical examination of officers at Fort Benning, he discovered in our commissioned personnel not the slightest indication of auricular defect or weakness. It would be high presumption for us to fly in the face of such a postive statement made by medical personnel of such rank and attainment, yet duty compels us to venture our observation of one sadly palpable fact. Some of the officers' no doubt those who nightly hear the faintest call of the cricket; yea, perchance those very ones who frightened the nurse by the startling promptness of their bellowing echo to her most softly sibilant 'Sixty-Six'—those very ones, we have noticed, are seemingly unable at 5 P. M. to hear three leather-lunged and lusty buglers blow "To The Colors."

This auditory failing, while not in itself important as it lasts by a short time, during which the hearing even then seems normal in its reaction to all other stimuli, has nevertheless one deplorable result. It gives onlookers the impression that officers so afflicted are lacking in proper respect to the flag they are sworn to defend and, be it here truly stated, the flag they would die to defend. Let us hope that a little reflection will cause them to see the error of their ways and also the flag at retreat—but deafness is our theme, let us then hope that in the future they may hear a little more distinctly at 5 P. M. We mean no disrespect at course when we feign deafness or even when startled we rush for shelter but let us "avoid all appearance of evil."

A LAME JOKE

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL CLUBS' ANNOUNCEMENT.

Preparations for the forthcoming production of "Make It Snappy," the musical comedy which is to be given under the auspices of the Dramatic and Musical Clubs of Fort Benning, for the benefit of the Army Relief Society, are now in full swing, and rehearsals are well under way.

On next Monday night, Feb. 19th, at eight o'clock in the Officers' Hop Room, a very important meeting will be held, at which it is expected that a professional director will take charge. All members of the cast should be present on this occasion, as it is the wish of the producers that the play be pushed on rapidly to a successful conclusion.

At 8:45 p. m. the meeting will adjourn to the Post Theatre, where the regular rehearsal will be held. All those who are in any way assisting in the production of "Make It Snappy" are urged to be present and punctual.

THE CRICKET

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

We wonder what's the matter with the Recruiting in Columbus as we are getting very few recruits, nowadays, since "Oil Can" Higginbotham has been relieved from recruiting service and placed on Special Duty with the Recruit Center to begin all over again with the other recruits.

One of our Master Sergeants was coming from work the other day with a friend and a newly made Corporal in the outfit happened to be following about ten paces in the rear, he overheard the conversation and as the Sgt. didn't happen to have any stripes on at the time, he halted him immediately, calling the Sgt. to attention and asking him if he didn't have any respect for a Non-Com. and also told him to wipe that smile off of his face, which the genial Sgt. did, all the while standing at attention while the Corporal with two whitewashed chevrons on raked him over the coals and ended up by telling him to report to the 1st Sgt. at once. To make a long story short the Corporal finally got next to himself and apologized to the Sgt. after finding out who he was.

By the time this is in print, the I. S. D. ball club will have had a weeks practice. A meeting was held last Wednesday, Feruary 7, and Sgt. Jones, (Casey) was elected manager. There were twenty-seven candidates assembled with about three missing. No. doubt there will be quite a few new faces in the line up to greet the fans this year. The boys feel quite optimistic over their chances this season. The team remains practically intact from last year, losing only two men, Domineck, our sterling third baseman who was discharged and Duncanson, the old reliable receiver has decided to retire from baseball. Collins, flashy outer gardener is undecided whether to take on again or not, you had better stick around "Chick" and help the boys grab another rag. There will be a few practice games with the Infantry School Team even if one or two of our men go out for the Officers'. All in all, everything looks bright for the I. S. D. and when the curtain rings down on the 1923 season, the fans will find the Champions on the top once more.

A very delightful banquet was held at Joe Brown's Tea Room on Sunday evening, February 11th, 1923, by the Checker Club of the Second Section, Department of Military Art. This was the second banquet held by this Club this season and many more are in store. The writer wishes it undestood that this Club is a part of the Cowboy Clan and not the Checker Club Tea Hounds. Among those present were Sergeants Valentine, Duff, Tinsley, Ellis, Wolf, Darcy, White, Heckert, Giron, Walker, Blades, Magoni, Courtwright, Pander, Johnson, Hoffman, Pettit, and Rawlings. The famous Quartet (Duff, Darcy, White and Wolf) rendered the beautiful ballad "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," Sergeant Darcy rendered several solos that were indeed enjoyed by the club including "Please Hit Me With An Ace." Sgt. Duff gave a very interesting lecture on "How to Catch Wild Cats, opossums and Coons." Sergeant Valentine was the toast-master of the evening and spoke of the possibilities of a series of games with the Checker players of Columbus. Tea and delightful tea cookies were served during the evening and games were played such as "Button, Button, whose got the button and a good time was had by all.

Who is the most important man in the detachment? Someone says Corporal Ferguson is very near, if not the most important one.

We wonder where our dashing young Corporal Steinrucker was on Saturday night and Sunday? We have a very good idea as to where he was but ge wouldn't dare mention the name of the place.

The writer has seen many "henpecked men," but the one that beats all so far, is McClosky.

Passed out, to purr forever on the celestial sofa, Thomas Whiskers, quondam office cat of the Fort Benning News. His untimely demise was accelerated by severe cerebral contusions received at the conclusion of a musicale at which he was the genial host, last Friday night. Bootjackitis was given as the proximate cause of his death. He leaves at Fort Benning 167 children and 1,234 grandchildren to mourn his absence from this temporal existence. The News extends its deepest condolence to these as well as to the 26 widows, and here records that Thomas died as he had lived, on the wings of song.

29th Infantry News Notes

SERVICE COMPANY 29th INF.

Hats off to the Service Company—it has solved a most intricate problem. A Service Company, as is already well known, is a most peculiar organization—especially in this regiment. With a total strength of 273 enlisted men—distributed among numerous subdivisions, it was a difficult task to be able to tell just what the status of the Company or any individual hereof, was on any one day. Captain O. W. Humphries 29th Infantry upon taking command of the Service Company evolved a plan and put it into effect which now answers the purpose precisely. The arrangement is simple enough—costs little or nothing, but its value as a "tickler" is inestimable. This device consists of a board 30x54 in. with space provided for each of the subdivisions of the Company, some of which are, the Motor Transportation Section, Horse Transportation Section, Company Headquarters Section, Personnel Section, Supply Section, Band Section and Polo Section, etc. As each space on the board represents a subdivision and as each subdivision is authorized a given number of personnel, a disc 1 1-2 inches in diameter with soldiers' name appearing thereon is suspended from a brass hook in the space provided for the subdivision of which he is a member. When a soldier's status is changed his disc is removed to the space corresponding to his new status. In addition to the subdivisions mentioned above, there is a space on this board (similarly operated) for Special Duty, Detached Service, Absent in confinement, Sick in hospital, absent sick, absent without leave, confinement in Post stockade, arrest in quarters, on furlough, etc. A space is also provided for the strength of the company, value of the ration and other essential information obtainable at a glance.

COMPANY "A" 29th INFANTRY

"A" Company now boasts the best orderly room in the regiment, viewed from the inside. If you are in doubt to our right to boast just drop around and give it the once over, but please come when we are thru with our paper work, say sometime between 11:00 P. M. and 5.15 A. M.

We are aiming high for percentage in qualification this year on the target range. Just keep your eyes on our trajectory and shot group.

Fort Benning effects different people in different ways. You can draw your own conclusions as to how it effects the writer from the following:

ROOKIES DELIGHT

The Recruit laid down on the firing line,
He was not in a hurry, he took his own time!
He sighted and fired and was scared at the roar,
The red flag came up; he yelled "I got a four."

The red flag was there and the Sergeant just raved,
He coughed and he spluttered and like a mad-man behaved,
"Give me that rifle, you poor long eared recruit,
And I'll show you the way a real soldier should shoot.

He adjusted the singhts and took two points for wind,
While the recruit realized just how deeply he'd sinned,
The Sergeant, all ready, took prone position,
Ah! To be like him the rookies ambition.

"Now, note my position, and watch trigger squeeze,
My mussels ar'nt strained, I am lying at ease,"
"Now watch me recruit, and at least look alive
He watched every point, holding breath, cant and creep,
The rookie almost thought he was asleep,
He aimed under the black, as a good shot must do,
Fired, waited three minutes and then yelled "Hark two!"
The rest of this story I need hardly to tell,
The Red Flag appeared and the Sergeant said "Aw H——."
Now just to publish this with the 'A' Company notes,
I must look at the Roster and pick out to "Goats."
You know, this never happened in real life at all,
But the Sergeant's name is Marrow and the recruits name it Wall.

COMPANY "B", 29th INFANTRY

Will someone tell us, who the Cul. out of Company "B" was who said to Chaplain Wood, in front of the 29th Inf. Theatre, "Hey, Buddy, are you spending cash. Let me sell you a ticket." How about it Hot Cakes.

COMPANY "C" 29th INFANTRY

Everything is going fine in the company at present, most of the time is being spent in instruction for rifle marksmanship.

Pvt. 1st Class, Sporer claims he is going to qualify this year or die in the attempt, Let's hope so, Al.

Corporal Carleton is getting to be a short times and he must be going up north from the looks of the heavy overcoat and uniforms he is having fixed up, the tailors had better watch their corners for Carleton says he's not going to hesitate as soon as he gets his finals.

Private Milner is some windjammer he can't tell the difference between Reveille and Church call. A man sure does get by on his looks nowadays. How about if Giff?

Pvt. Russell, R. L. has got the sleepy sickness, he went sound asleep while listening to instruction on marksmanship, the Instructor had him to stand up to keep him from having nightmares.

When Corporal Kumiski was ask what the squad would do if fired on he said take distance, that pretty good Cpl.

Private Duslock our noble Recreation room orderly sure hands out the growls, just ask him something and find out, but beware: He is from Chicago, you know "Tough Bird."

Speaking of tight wads, Cpl. Soders is the tightest one yet, a fellow that wouldn't devide a piece of cake with a hungry man, well he can be looked over for he will be getting discharged in a few weeks then he will know the sting of being hungry.

1st Sgt. Barton has always been a man of mystery, he is always hard boiled, but he let it leak out the other day when he said them hardflap jacks his wife cooked for breakfast caused indigestion. So the men in the company are talking about hiring a cook to see if that will change his disposition when he gets them out for any kind of formation.

Preliminary target practice has started and all of the men are confident of qualifying, as the slogan of the company is, "One hundred per with all the platoons that he can cent to the man."

The 1st Sergeant has wagered that he will beat any record that they may make, and believe me, he will have to beat his previous record as we have several experts in the company.

I wonder who has been kissing Sgt. Humphrey, he is battle scarred, thru some eventual past event—but why not use a gas mask?

It is with regret that we are lossing Sgt. Klein, he says he has had enough army life and that his intentions are that he is going back to Russia. Being he is a Russian Jew, he knows he will be a billionaire, (In rubles) as he has a few dollars in American money. Maybe you can live on goat milk, Sgt., we can't.

Sgt. Willingham, is it fair, especially, when you have a girl's trust and confidence, to mislead her and tell her of all the things you will do for her, but then maybe you told her you loved her.

COMPANY "D"

Under the direction of Captin G. C. Pilkington this organization is working hard for the regimental horse show on March 2nd. The famous thoroughbred "Sparkplug" will be entered.

Captain Pilkington will enter his own mount: "Major," Liuet. C. F. Hudscon 'Rose", and Lieut Jabez B. Madaris, "Allenby". The enlisted personnel will enter their favorite "Jacks", and a good time will be had by all.

Corporal Rollo Goldfeder was suffering from asphasia last Saturday. He started for Columbus without his pass and the disciples of Captain Teachout threw him out of Mr. Troup Howard's favorite busses. Nothing daunted Corporal Goldfeder came back and commissioned a taxicab for his journey. Again the M. P.'s intervened—and this time they rudely forced the "Moses" of Company "D", to walk back to his organization. Rollo Goldfeder is now a changed young man—and a reader of the proverbs of Pvt. Solomon.

Pvt. Percy Roeglin complained about the mess and was promptly corrected by the Captain. Thereafter Pvt. Roeglin was a model soldier in the mess hall.

"Sergeant," said the Captain, a few days later to the Mess Sergeant, "how is Pvt. Roeglin behaving?"

"Very good, sir," replied the pompous sergeant, "except for one remark that he makes every meal."

"What does he say?" inquired the Captain.

"Hebrews, thirteen, eight," answered the sergeant. "I'm a Baptist, sir, so I don't know what he means."

The Captain puzzled over the matter and finally decided to solve the quotation by reading the Bible. So he borrowed a Bible and found that the quotation read as follows:

"Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today, and forever."

Pvt. Roeglin now mumbles his criticisms of the mess in Chinese—for the company has a Bible.

HEADQUARTERS CO., 2nd BN.

Cpl. Hopkinson says he has learned something else: "When you forfeit part of your monthly pay, you don't get it back. It's not like the game of forfeits we used to play."

I think it was Pvt. Smolen who said that they should have included the words "Follow me" on the Infantry School shoulder-insignia. And Pvt. Conley (recently Specialist 5th Class) remarked that if he were allowed to use his own private insignia he'd beat Sergeant Winn's record for recruiting. We can picture what his insignia would be—bottle-shaped and corked, with the legend, "Follow me," or better still, "Opportunity uncorked—see me," on a background the color of corn, if there is a color to it.

Peering skyward at the "Big Dipper," who was it that made the Anti-Volstead suggestion last night?

Society Notes: Sgt. Powell is thinking of moving to South Carolina. Pvt. Guller is more anxiously awaiting his travelling orders to NYC, and will be discharged on the 16th of this month. Sergeant Harvey back from the hospital, while our Battalion Clerk and Pvt. 1cl Wood have just changed scenery to that of the hospital. This leaves Bn. Hq. without a clerk for about a week. I know somebody who is a combination Company Clerk, Bn. Clerk and Co. Reporter at present. We haven't had an AWOL for about two months, at least not until Pvt. McClain decided to celebrate last pay day. His sprees are far and wide between, but when we do, look out!

COMPANY "E."

We now have in our midst a man called Gentleman Jim, he stands retreat in long pants. Watch your step, Crawley, old boy.

Cpl. Nelson went to the Supply Room to draw his spurs so that he could take a bath. He remembers the last time he took a bath, when he fell and almost broke his neck.

Here he comes down the street. "That's me." Cpl. Carpenter. "Oh, I was relieved from the Orderly Room for hitting the same key too often." Our company hero, Cpl. Payne, is now in my place.

"Dad," what happened to the stove the other a. m.? Did the tent leak or did someone leave the door open?

The big man, at least he thinks so, is going to turn out for the tug of war. In our opinion he is large enough, he eats enough for two men and rations only 29 cents. Look out, Gingras.

We went without our rabbit Sunday, as our hunter, Sgt. Julius, left his club at home and took a shot gun instead.

Pvt. Smith, our star ball player, is some boy. Plays all kinds of games, but when the real thing comes off he is always in the side lines cheering. Never mind, he is as happy as if he had good sense.

Attention—Game played, Cribbage. Line-up, Whites: Julius, Longer; Blues: Singletary, New. Time: 45 minutes. Score: Dad threw the cards on the floor. (SKUNK)

We have a terrible man among us. Got a sore arm from playing ball. Told his Platoon Sergeant that he couldn't get down and squeeze the trigger, in the morning, but was seen in the afternoon wall scaling. What's the matter with the hospital, Bryant?

COMPANY "F."

Corp. Eddy rejoined the Company Monday after a vacation spent at Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C. We all welcome you back, "Abe."

This Company without a doubt will have a very good baseball team this season, one of our star players being Corp. Heller, who played good ball last season with Co. "K." Look after that old soup bone, "Roy," we will need you this season.

"Boliver," the Company "Chow Hound," has been running amuck lately. The reason—ask the boys over at Co. "G," they know???

Pvt. Moss recently tranferred to this company from Regimental Headquarters Co. We all of course welcome you to the Company but say, "Novie," you should not show up the boys so much at "Checkers."

Have you noticed a great many men of the Regiment attending the picture shows at the 29th Inf. theatre are carrying their own chairs? It is a pretty bad state of affairs when one has to take along his own chair in order to enjoy a movie show. Imagine in civil life, if the throngs that attend a picture show had to bring along their own seats, a pretty spectacle. Every night at the 29th theatre during the picture a number of chairs go ker-plunk, a few months ago there was enough chairs for everyone attending the show; at the present time the seating capacity is not sufficient, the reason being that the chairs broken since the theatre has been in force have not been replaced. In a few more weeks I guess we will have to sit on the floor and let our feet hang.

COMPANY "G."

Since a certain trio from Co. "F" has been advertised, a certain Sgt. Buckley would like to have a tryout with his beautiful balled entitled, "To Mahoney." Recitations are often heard in No. 27 tent entitled "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room." Sorry, Highsaw, those days have gone by, try Memories. Motorcycles repaired, apply Cook Stringham, Hill and Co. Since raids have been made on dogs and the motorcycle fever is in action, bring back those dogs and take the motorcycles. Morning drill call: Sgt. Davis. Cpl. Kjelstrom, all present. Mechanic Harkey wants to know where Pullen got those nice clothes; why Fink doesn't grow; why Steele left his tent; why Lemay goes to town so often; why his mustache didn't grow; and why he can't wait on the tables at mess time.

COMPANY "H."

Who received the invitation to glide along the Great White Way of Columbus in a big Studie? Better be careful, Buddie, we don't believe they leave the front seat or do they go farther than 4th or 5th St.

Oh, Boy! If we had known those spuds a fellow had in his locker were apples; gosh! we'd a had 'em long ago.

The Ninety Six Machine Gun Barrage that was put on last week was a huge success. It was the largest barrage ever put on in time of peace and larger than any used for training purposes during the war. Evey detail was correct. All targets were hit accurately. We believe it was the best piece of work ever executed in a barrage.

One of the men from one of the line companies attached to our company for the barrage, wanted to know if the "bolt handle" was the "filling cup." We'd like to know the answer he got.

COMPANY 'A."

Cpl. Twitty has just returned from Augusta, where he spent a 90-day furlough. He says he had a very nice and pleasant trip.

Pvt. 1cl Hill has just returned from Newcastle, Ala., where he had been spending his 90 days vacation. He says he had a very nice trip, but sorry he could not remain much longer.

Pvt. 1cl Churchill has a week to teach himself how to get up and be ready to make these calls. Excuses don't go with the top kicker, who says he is always ready and everybody in his company must be ready. Wake up, Church.

Sgt. Burley says the car wheel came off and he couldn't make it. Sorry, Burley. 1st Sgt. says he always makes it. If you think you can't make it don't try, because if you try and fail, the harder you will fall on the mat.

COMPANY "D."

"Kid Burley" has blood in his eyes because his best pal double crossed him. He and "Chubby" went to the city a few days ago and "Chubby" shanghaied him. Now "Chub" is trying to show him the bright lights.

"Grundy" has been strutting his onions again. He went to the city a few days ago, got all happy and sang a little song entitled "Everything is Peaches in Georgia."

"SMOKER."

On Thursday evening, February 8th, 1923, a Smoker was given at the Catholic Chapel under the auspices of the Holy Name Society and the Young Men's Hebrew Association, which was attended by several ladies and gentlemen of Columbus, a number of commissioned officers and a large number of enlisted men of the Post.

Private Sassi, of the 15th Tank Bn., who was the first number on the program of the evening, rendered two accordion solos. Lieutenant Fay, the orator of the evening, gave an extremely interesting lecture on the lives, customs and traditions of the Indians, emphasizing and illustrating the fact that a great majority of the population of this country are greatly misinformed regarding the habits, origin and etc., of the Indians. He also demonstrated a few points of the Indian sign language, which brought much laughter from the audience. Two of the best numbers on the program, in the opinion of the writer, were a duet by Mrs. Metcalf and Miss Cleveland, and a solo by Mrs. Metcalf, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Kaufman. Rabbi Rosenthal gave a short but very interesting talk. Major Leonard, Commanding Officer of the 15th Tank Bn., and Lieutenant Craig, Commanding Officer of Company "F," 1st Gas Regiment, gave short talks, both expressing their appreciation of the evening's splendid entertainment. Last, but not least by any means, came the delicious refreshments, served by the ladies present.

Chaplain Lennan made several comments during the evening and expressed a desire to see a greater attendance at these entertainments in the future, which are to be held once each month.

This occasion was one that could well be called enjoyable. The writer, who has been stationed at Benning somewhat over two years, has not spent a more enjoyable evening during his entire stay at the Post, and is of the opinion that anyone who was present will say that they enjoyed themselves very much.

Woodman Bazaar To Be Mammoth Event

Many Woodmen among the rank and file of Fort Benning and others of the command are interested in the announcement made by the Electric City Camp No. 833, Woodmen of the World, that a mammoth Bazaar, Automobile and industrial exhibition is to be given in Columbus at the big Webster Warehouse on lower Broad street, the week of February 24 to March 3rd.

Elaborate plans have been made by Director George S. Marr in charge of all arrangements for the week, for the entertainment of the great crowds sure to attend. Every form of amusement found in such a place of joy will be offered, including the famous Morales family of tight wire gymnasts, The Leslies, dancing act and "Jimmie" Fleming and his Georgia Jazz hounds, furnishing music for the dancing.

Tickets are now on sale and prizes are being offered for the largest number of pasteboards sold until the night of the opening of the show. The officers and enlisted men at Fort Benning may secure their tickets at the Post Exchange.

INFANTRY SCHOOL

The Company Officers experienced a revival of learning when Lt. Chamberlain announced in Transportation that they would be required to know something of the hundred and five parts of the escort wagon. C'est la guerre!

One of the Gyrenes says he is going to put in for an Air Service detail since he has completed his work on the ground and feels that he is ready for the pilot course.

Heard during equitation: "You are going east and your horse is going west, Captain. Let's get together."

FIRST NATIONAL BOOKLET ON OVERDRAFTS CREATES DISTURBANCE

The title of the usual monthly advertisement booklet this month for the bank has caused a great deal of talk in Benning this week.

The subject being of a rather touchous nature, and right to the point has resulted in a number of the officers thinking the bank was after them about their account. The booklet goes on to say that "request for an overdraft is a tacit demand on the banks to violate state and federal laws.

The bank officials are elated over the result as the publicity gained from the booklet has been great.

Turkey Massing Armies

RUSSIA ASSISTING.

Turkey is massing 35,000 troops in eastern Thrace and Russia has landed important munition stores, according to reliable reports received at Athens.

Since the Near East Peace Conference broke up without an agreement and the since Turkish attitude in ordering all foreign warships that exceed 1,000 tons out of Turkish waters, it is a rather interesting point to consider just what the Turks have in mind and just how much support that they are receiving from Russia.

Take A Look At This

TROUBLE FOR EVERYBODY DUE NEXT WEEK

Trouble is on its way here.

Every man, woman and child is due for a slice of it next week.

But the trouble if it is this trouble will not trouble them as other roubles do. They will welcome it, because this trouble is all in fun.

Jackie Coogan, the half pint size First National Star, will be the dispenser of this new brand of trouble at the War Department Theatre when his latest picture, "Trouble" shown on Tuesday, February 20.

This production, hearalded after a special showing in New York as the peer of "The Kid," is said to give the little fellow the greatest opportunity of his career, and because of his work in it the stage critics of the big town comparing this seven year old child with Charlie Chaplin, his screen godfather, as an artist.

BIG PICTURE; BIG CAST

Raymond Hitchcock Heads Players IN "The Beauty Shop."

A remarkable cast was chosen for the screen presentation of "The Beauty Shop," a well known stage play. It includes Raymond Hitchcock, who starred in the original comedy by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf, and who is the featured player, in the picture. He recreates the role of Dr. Arbutus Budd.

Billy B. Van, famous comedian and James J. Corbett, his stage partner anr former heavyweight boxing champion have important roles as have Louise Fazenda, comedienne, Dianna Allen, Former Zeigfield beauty, Montagu Love, well known for his work in "Forever." Medeline and Marion Fairbanks, the beautiful twins, who recently starred in the stage production, "Two Little Girls in Blue. and Laurance Wheat.

The picture which comes to the War Department Theatre next Thursday was directed by Edward Dillon for Cosmopolitan productions and released as a paramount picture. It is said to be well worth while.

WILLIAM DUNCAN MAKES REAL FILM THRILL

In making the big thrill for "When Danger Smiles," the William Duncan picture which will be shown at the War Department Theatre on February 17, the sar is dragged at the end of a rope attached to a speeding horse. He is carried several hundred yeards before a shot fired by the heroine severs the rope. In making this sequence William Duncan was severely bruised about the legs and arms, but presisted in continuing his work, and the next day just to show he was suffering no pains from his experience did a buck and wing dance in the set

William Duncan is an exceptionally good buck and wing dancer and in his younger days won an enviable reputation on the vaudeville stage in a dancing act.

GREAT CAST IN "THE OLD HOMESTEAD

Theodore Roberts and Geoge Fawcett Head Roster of All-Star Players.

The phrase "all star" has been much abused, but the cast of "The Old Homestead" which comes to the War Department theatre next Sunday, may truthfully be said to be of that calibre. Theodore Roberts, George Fawcett, T. Roy Barnes, Fritzi Ridgway, Harrison Ford, Kathleen O'Connor, James Mason, Ethel Wales and others make up a list that is hard to surpass.

This Paramount picture is based on Denman Thompsn's famous play in which that celebrated actor appeared for thirty-two years, but is far more extensive in character and presents a great drama with plenty of comedy and smashing climax.

The story is familiar—how the son of Uncle Josh is falsely accused of theft and goes away to meet with stirring adventure and finally to be restored to his home and sweetheart. But there's far more than that to the story. There is adventure, love, human character in abundance, humor pathos that is deep and convincing. Tears and laughter abound.

James Cruze directed with discretion and sympathy, this great story which was adapted by Perley Poore Sheehan and Frank E. Woods. scenarized by Julian Josephson and supervised by Walter Woods.

15th Tank Battalion News

The scribe has been requested to ask the Log Hut committee to reinforce their chairs in such a manner as to insure the safety of members who attend our entertainments. I understand that our dimunitive friend, Sgt. Kelly, while seated on one of those chairs, suddenly and with great humilitation found himself reclining on the hard floor. It is suggested that the chair reserved for General Gordon be reinforced with a few three-eighth inch bolts.

Cpl. Densmore's mother has recently undergone a serious operation but late reports show that she is doing very well. All members of the batallion wish her a speedy and permanent recovery.

BASKETBALL.

Playing their usual flashy brand of basket ball our team chalked up another victory by defeating the 83rd Field Artillery, 25 to 11 on February 7th. Every man gave an excellent account of himself to the last whistle The attendance was a little better, but still woefully small; in fact, it was a rotten showing for an outfit the size of ours. Next Thursday February 15th, we play the 2nd Battallion. Our team cannot be beat then without support, so we must come across with the support and rooting, everybody must be there so strong and in such number that when the team goes on the floor they'll think they are attending a national convention or centennial exposition. Remember that non-support has a demoralizing effect on the best of teams. Seaser is credited with that famous report of victory "Veni, vidi, vici." He had little to crow about. we are therefore satisfied in copping his stuff and changing the National Anthem to "We come, we see, we conquer." Everybody come and join in the chorus.

Here is a problem for the department of our matrimonial bureau. Bryan must attend the cinema alone because of the light regard of some fair one, and he is a lonesome boy, it is rumored.

A winner! A marvelous success! These and many more exclamations were heard from critics at the first rehearsal held Saturday morning. The men participating in the great show are the pick of the battalions talent. Professors Garvin and Dennis are more than pleased with the progress made so far, and claim that the play will outshine all the town productions of recent years in every way.

Frances has been complaining about his right arm. He says he will lose the use of it inside a year.

ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN AT THE GRAND THEATRE

In "One Week of Love," which comes to the Grand theatre on Monday, next, film patrons of this city are in for a hilarious time of it. The picture is quite the most exciting and impressive piece of work that has been threatening to explode upon us for weeks. Certainly Myron Selznick, who produced the picture, has never sent us anything quite so enthralling.

Here are the ingredients that make the picture one of unusual appeal: A twin-starring combination, Elaine Hammerstein and Conway Tearle, playing together for the first time; a story by Edward J. Montagne that one may call really "big" without blushing in embarrassment; direction by George Archinbaud that fulfills all former promises made by this imaginative Frenchman; and a supporting cast that is not dwarfed even by the full-power starring combination.

REX INGRAM'S "TRIFLING WOMEN" AT THE GRAND NEXT WEEK

In the vivid scene in "Trifling Women," Rex Ingram's latest production for Metro, at the Grand theatre, depicting the interior of a Paris dive in the Montmarte district, genuine Apache gangsters were used, exiled desperadoes from France who, attracted by the fame and glitter of Los Angeles had drifted west to California. Before shooting the scene, Rex Ingram turned them loose on the set and let them scrawl over the walls the ribald wit and queer humor of the Montmarte "rat." The result is lurid realism and a taste of the curious argot in which the low Frenchman speaks. "Trifling Women" is from Rex Ingram's own pen.

Paralysis is an awful thing once it sets in. Did you see him whipping the sandwiches down his throat the night of the entertainment? His arm did not show the slightest signs of being paralyzed, but I will venture to say he did not shine the captains shoes the next morning for I am sure he had a sore arm.

SAFETY FIRST.

The young son of a Ford owner was looking at a picture of the prophet Elijah ascending to heaven in a chariot of fire. When he saw the halo about Elijah's head, he cried, "Oh look mamma, he's carrying an extra tire."

COLUMBUS - BENNING ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION STARTS DRIVE.

The drive for funds for the Columbus-Benning Athletic Association is meeting with good results. At the time of writing the Elks are the leading team.

Judging from the good results the Infantry School should be able to put over some good athletic results next year.

TENNIS NOTES

With the approach of Spring Tennis Season, the tennis committee is busy considering this years schedule. Several challenges hace been received from nearby colleges.

In order to defray the local expenses incident to the visit of these College Teams the Tennis Committee has decided to have a sport dance on Wednesday evening, February 21st at 8:30 P. M., in the Officers Hop Room. Tickets are procurable at the Officers' Club at fifty cents per person.

It is hoped that the dance will be well attended and sufficient funds be obtained to guarantee to the visiting teams the small amounts requested them to help pay their local expenses.

A good time is promised to all. Come one, Come all. Let's go.

SPORTS

On last Saturday evening the First Battalion 29th Infantry and the Infantry School Detachment tangled in a game of bsketball that has been the best of the season so far. Both teams were evenly matched and each had had about the same amount of trining. The final scorse stood 18-16 with the 1st Bn. 29th Inf. in the lead.

29th INFANTRY WILL HAVE SOME DAY ON MARCH 2nd.

Plans were announced yesterday for the Twenty-ninth Infantry Organization Day field meet and horse show, which will be held on March 2 on the parade ground of the regiment at Fort Benning.

This year Colonel G. S. Goodale has planned to make the celebration of the natal day of his regiment an event to be favorably remembered at the post. Organization Day proper will be on March 3rd, but the athletic and horse show events will be on March 2nd. Elaborate social features, which include the annual regimental banquet and dance given to the entire post, are on the program.

At least 25 events are planned for the field day on Friday, March 2nd. his includes the horse show events for both enlisted personnel, the officers and their ladies.

The ladies of the regiment are particularly interested in the horse show event. Many of them are members of the Fort Benning equitation classes and spirited rivalry is anticipated among the ladies to obtain the coveted regimental blue ribbons.

The following officials will have charge of the athletic and horse show features: Lieut. Colonel Horace P. Hobbs, in charge of meet; Captain Robert A. McClure, Assistant; Captain Paul Revere Hudson, Judge, military events; Captain Leonard Sims, Judge, athletic events; Captain John S. Claussen, Judge, amusement events; Captain Edward C. Betts, Judge, mounted events.

Major J. C. Williams has been placed in charge of all the social features connected with the 29th Infantry Organization Day. Major Williams has detailed Captain J. S. Switzer to tke charge of the annual dinner and Captain J. S. Claussen, assisted by Lieut. Jefferson Davis Box and Lieut. R. W. Douglas to have charge of the dance.

Captain Claussen announces that a feature of the regimental dance will be cotillion.

The enlisted personnel of the regiment will have their dance following a championship basketball game on the night of March 2nd.

The morning of March 3rd will be given over to the presentation of prizes won in the meet the day previous and to the annual address of Colonel Goodale on the accomplishments of the regiment during the past year.

BREAKS GLIDER RECORD

Machine Is Kept in Air Eight Hours and Five Minutes.

Andre Maneyrol, French aviator, who last fall broke the world's glidin record at Ilford Hill, England, by flying three hours and twenty minutes, has succeeded in remaining in the air eight hours and five minutes at Vauville, near Cherbourg, France. This established a new world record and betters by one hour and two minutes the unofficial time made recently by Lieutenant Thoret in an airplane at Biskra.—5th Corps News.

Medical Department Notes

Sergeant William C. Cullifer, Medical Department, received his discharge on February 8th. "Toby," realizing that the Medical Department was a pretty good place, reenlisted the following day for another "Hitch."

Captain A. A. Roby, Detchment Commander, left Saturday, Feb. 10, on a fifteen-day leave of absence, the greater part of which will be spent in Florida.

Lieut. Colonel H. S. Hansell left on the 8th on a ten-day hunting and fishing leave to be spent in Florida.

Florida is a pretty good place to spend these cool, rainy days. The writer knows, as he spent last winter "Where Southern Breezes Blow."

Two of the Medical Detachment men should know the road from Atlanta to Columbus. Wanting to get home and being without the necessary funds, decided that they would try the open road. They made pretty good time, considering the condition of the road at this time of the year.

The Non-Commissioned Officers Club, Station Hospital, Fort Benning, Ga., will give a dance in the Detachment Mess Hall at 7:30 p. m., February 20th, 1923. All married Non-Commissioned Officers and their families are invited. Transportation will be furnished. It is requested that all desiring to attend notify Sergeant Heatherly, phone No. 126, or Sergeant Mager, phone No. 27, in order that transportation may be furnished.

At the regular meeting of the Non-Commissioned Officers Club Monday evening, Feb. 12th, the resignation of Sgt. Arthur N. Mager as Secretary-Treasurer was accepted. Sgt. J. A. Heathely was elected to the office. After a short business meeting the meeting adjourned to meet Friday noon at a special meeting to be held at that time.

"SMILE ALL THE WHILE."

Smile and the world will befriend you,
Frown and you fight all alone;
Smile and your bed's made of roses,
Frown and you sleep on a stone;
Smile, you're bedecked with bright jewels,
Frown and their brilliancy ends;
Smile and the world is an Eden,
Frown and a tempest descends;
Smile and long years will endow you,
Frown and you're aged in youth;
Smile and then all will be beauty,
But frown and all is uncouth;
Smile when temptations assail you,
And half of your fighting is done;
For smiles have won more great battles
Than Mars has ever yet won.

SGT. M. M. BEDENBAUGH,
Station Hospital.

MEDITATION.

In the life of every grafter
There are mingled tears and laughter
Of tales of luck that's good and luck that's hard.
There's a guy they say, who has been lucky,
But he's a guy who has just been plucky,
Who sticks until he picks the winning card.
Thru my mind old scenes are chasing
Of the days when I went racing
When I didn't know a race horse from a hen;
I had hayseeds in my hair,
And I wore a vacant stare;
'Gee," I wish I were a Boob just once again.

Now let the Wise Guy lose a dollar,
And he'll make a bigger holler
Than the Boob who drops a fortune in a mine;
When he goes to the Silver Moon for dinner
You'd think he was a winner.
But the Boob is at the Ralston, dining fine.
When the Wise Guy calls on his steady
And he finds she isn't ready
Chances are, there is a Boob who is making good;
As he stands out in the cold,
If the truth were only told,
He would like to be that Boob if he could.

Some so-called Sports, they hail
A taxi to spread their kale,
But the Boob he takes a bus to go to town.
Between short skirt Janes and liquor
The Sport makes himself much sicker
Than the poisoned pup, who gained so much renown.
The Sport imagines he's some lord
With his Flapper and hired Ford;
He breaks speed laws and lands himself in jail.
But the cold grey morning after
The day which was spent with booze and laughter,
It's the Boobs who make a collection to pay his bail.

I would rather be a Boob
Than be a Wise Guy;
I would rather be a good thing than a Sport.
The Boob may be a joke
But still he is never broke,
It's the one who knows it all who is always short.
Don't worry about the guy who picks the lemons
For he is bound to pick the peaches when they fall;
And the more of life I see,
The more it seems to me
That the Boob is the Wise Guy, after all.

EDWARD MOORE,
Corpl., Med. Dept.

Service ClubNo. 1 Notes

Last Thursday evening the Women's Club entertained their husbands with a wonderful cook-as-you-like-it dinner, using the cozy South room of the Service Club as their 'Comedore." One of the husbands was heard to remark, "Ain't it a grand and glorious feeling to be a husband!" Yes, we agree with you so long as eats are in view.

During a discussion by the Committee last Monday evening on the bus situation, Corporal Mann was asked for his opinion on the matter at issue, and he replied, very absentmindedly, after being brought to earth with a shock—"Which window shall I take you to?" George, no doubt, the writer could guess just what channels your mind were running in at that particular moment.

There were no particular functions at the Club on Friday or Saturday evenings. The men enjoyed games, music, and last but not least, the big open and home-like fireplace.

Sunday evening the men were treated to some very good music by Corporal Burgeon. Corporal Burgeon is a skilled pianist and never lags behind when his services are needed at the front. Corporal, come again; we all enjoy your music.

The writer understands that a certain Corporal in Company "E," 29th Infantry (no names mentioned, Carpenter) ordered himself a new hat from the supply sergeant and on that particular day the "Top Kick" kindly informed this said Corporal that he had been assigned to the arduous duties of Company Clerk. The Corporal goes to his tent with a smile hung on each ear as much as to say "Boy, howdy" and later reports to the orderly room to take up his new position. Upon trying on his new hat this said corporal finds that it does everything but fit, and upon investigation it was found that his head had swollen to such an extent over his new duties that now—well, it's a sad story, the corporal is just out the price of a hat.

The Service Club Committee held their weekly meeting last Monday evening at seven o'clock when a number of unfinished business items, carried over from last meeting, were disposed of. Many plans are being made for the men this summer and it is hoped that the Committee will receive the full co-operation of each and every one in making this one of the best Service Clubs in the United States Army. We can do so, only, by the fullest co-operation of the men.

The Soldiers' Glee Club met last Tuesday evening and laid plans for the election of officers in the near future. Let's all pull together with Miss Roe and make this a Glee Club worthy of any critic's praise.

Corp. Daniels—I make a motion that we serve soup for refrshments next Wednesday night.

Corp. Myers—Shut up or I'll make a motion and you won't be able to enjoy soup for several Wednesday nights.

The Committee wishes to bring to the attention of its dancing patrons that the dance held at the Service Club on Feb. 21st will be a program dance. Let's make it the biggest attendance of the season.

Finance Detachment Notes

Well, folks, here we are again, after an absence of a week. The men have been too busy working to think up anything to slander each other with, but at the present moment we are easing it up a bit, so here goes.

We certainly are sorry to lose our tried and trusted friend, Corporal Short, alias "Neo," self-styled Chief of Pay Rolls and Final Statement Section, even tho it be a temporary loss. He has gone to Washington to show the Chief of "Fenonce" that he is well able to take care of all them stripes because of his superior knowledge of Finance. By the time he gets thru the Big Fellows in Washington will get on their knees begging him to accept the nomination of Saachem—of the Secret Order of the Knights of Liquid Fire-Eaters. Leaving all "Spoofing" aside, he takes with him the sincerest wishes of every member of this detachment.

Miller—Jew, where's the War Warrant?

Frank—I've lost it.

We regret to say that due to the inclement weather we haven't had the pleasure of seeing the "Boobs" and "Booze-Hounds" in action again on the volley ball court.

Sergeant Bennett, Corporal White and Friedenthal were hungry visitors at the Social given at the Catholic Chapel last Thursday evening. All three reports wonderful eats and excellent music—might know there would be eats if those three were there.

The barracks sure is a lonely place now, with "Neo" away to school and our own "Ioda" Watson on furlough. It is as dead as Columbus on Sunday after 9:30 p. m. But the Pinochle Committee are the ones that miss them the most. Pinochle is taboo until at least one of them gets back.

"Steenth" wonder of the world—another hat in the Army to fit "AL" White.

Some of the boys are still wondering why Jim goes to town every Tuesday night. He says he goes to church socials but—well, we didn't know JIM had changed so much in such a short time.

"Cordwood" Barker—Stokes, you ready yet?

"Mary Garden Willie" (absent-mindedly)—No, I haven't powdered my rifle nor oiled my face yet.

Such is life among these great hunters, "Mary Garden" Stokes and "Hayseed" Barker. They went out hunting the other day and after using up two dollars worth of shells, without having any luck, started home, when "Hayseed" stumbled and dropped his gun. Upon retrieving the said weapon, he found that his gun had fallen upon a rabbit, killing it instantaneously (as the newspaper reporter would say).

Just to show what funny pranks Mother Nature can play on some people, I will disclose the fact for the many friends of Frankie Friedenthal (Tillerson, that includes you, too) that last Saturday brought him his 21st birthday—now what we want to know is how he could have possibly grown so ugly in such a short time — POSTUM — there's a reason.

The other evening one of our dashing young fellows met a girl at a party and was smitten deeply—for verily the young lady was passing fair (Shakespeare) but not having the courage to speak, let her puzzle over the following letter which was mailed to her next day. See if you can puzzle it out, the young lady herself would like to know what it is all about. Send your answer to "Clarice" Friedenthalheimer and win the prize which consists of a hand-painted paper-mache air rifle.

Our ex-Chief Clerk seems to be in training as he can be seen twice daily hiking to and from Torch Hill. It might be training but it appears to the writer that it is more a case of necessity than voluntary training. (We would swap that old boat for Canteen Checks, Bob, if we owned it.)

Wonder what caused all the commotion in the office Tuesday p. m.? It couldn't have been the Inspector who suddenly dropped in from "Nowhere" and departed for the same place after a few hours, could it? Well, anyway, Miller's knees haven't quit shaking yet.

Our smiling baby (OH! Previous) seems to have taken a new lease on himself in the past month. He has purchased himself a civilian outfit and has taken in the city of Columbus, after remaining a recluse for eight months in the fair domain of Benning, and not even daring to go forth and see what Miss Columbus has to offer in the way of amusement for young country boys who are only trying to get along in the world.

There's one thing that must be solved, "A plan by which we can eliminate a certain member of our detachment from going to the Textile Ball," and returning at 1:00 a. m. and affirming he can teach the detachment to dance between that hour and the breakfast hour.

Captain Kraul Wins Salvaged Waist Belt

PRIZE WAS AWARDED FOR EXCELLENCE IN VERSIFICATION.

So many were the competitors and so excellent appeared their literary efforts in the recent recollection' contest held under the auspices of the "News" that the judges, tho they sat up for three consecutive nights and days were unable to reach an agreement as to which was the most deserving. Fortunately, at this juncture the contribution of Capt. Kraul was received and instantly precluded all possibility of further argument, so out-standing was its superiority in all essential poetical attributes.

European Situation Growing Worse

France in the Ruhr is getting into a difficult situation in that the Germans are offering more and more resistance in an indirect way.

The "Reds" are working on the French Army and it was necessary to replace the French Regiment last week that had munitined. Also it appears that the communists were having the support of the German police in certain cities and it has been necessary to reduce this police force in some towns and in others it has been necessary to disband it as a whole. However the native inhabitants fear the activities as much as the French.

To date the French have taken over about 90 per cent. of the Ruhr Basin and with it all of the manufacturing and mining activities.

TURKEY

In the Near East things have been quite for the past week. The Turks have not carried out their threat to attack foreign warships in their waters as they stated.

Ismet Pasha the chief delegate of the Turks at the Laussanne Conference states that the conference was broken up on account of the unyielding attitude of the French on financial and economic parts of the proposed treaty that was sumittted at Lausanne.

THE BALTIC DISTRICT

Poland has invaded Lithuania and Russia states that she in going to the support of Lithuania and against Poland.

Poland and Lithuania are having a dispute concerning some territory that at present is under the jurisdiction of neither and that both desire to have.

THE BALKANS

The Balkan States look with extreme disfavor upon the successes of Turkey in her war wth Greece.

Work Starts on Field Officers Quarters

It is with pleasure that we note the rapidity that the contractors are starting the work on the new quarters for field officers.

There will be eighteen sets constructed sufficient to accomodate thirty-six families.

The basements have already been excavated for some of the buildings and a little cement has been run. These buildings are supposed to be completed by about September 1st.

These quarters will be located North of the Commandng General's Quarters or in that area where the Infantry School baseball and football field was.

Major Green Returns

HAD CHARGE OF RELIEF WORK IN FLORIDA.

Major Frank Green of the American Red Cross who recently had charge of relief work in the Moore Haven section of the Everglades has returned to Benning.

This section had a flood caused by the heaviest rainfall in their history which caused lake Okechobee to overflow and flood the surrounding country so that it was necessary to call the American Red Cross to their assistance and which Major Green answered.

Major Green was there about two months during which time several hundred people received food, clothing and medical assistance, and in addition to this the Red Cross assisted in the rehabiltation which consisted chiefly of the distribution of seeds for the replanting of the Spring Crop.

The Red Cross kept close watch of all people so as to prevent an epidemic which is to be expected in that kind of country, but due to the foresight shown and strict enforcement of sanitary regulations no epidemic of any kind was encountered. However, the Red Cross was ready so that if an epidemic had broken out

CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE PARTY.

Special to The Fort Benning News.—

Last Tuesday evening our genial fellow citizen, Mr. Jiggs, was host at a delightful corned beef and cabbage party at the popular dining hall of Dinty Moore's well known hostelry The guests arrived on foot, in the case of Mr. Jiggs himself, barefooted, as his charming wife, Maggie had hidden the host's shoes in anticipation of this so pleasant reunion of old friends. Music was furnished by Hennessy's Harmonica Band and intoxicating drinks were served thruout the evening. As the police did not arrive until nearly midnight a very enjoyable evening was spent by all.

BEAUTIFUL TEA DANCE AT OFFICERS CLUB.

At the Fort Benning Officers Hop Room on Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Benjamin P. Nicklin, wife of Colonel Nicklin and Mrs. George S. Clarke, wife of Captain Clarke, entertained at one of the most elaborate and beautiful tea dances given this season.

The honoree was Mrs. Wiley V. Carter, a recent bridbe, whose marriage to Lieutenant Carter was an interesting event several weeks ago and she was being welcomed into her husbands regiment, the Twenty-Fourth Infantry. The bride was Miss Muriel Dougherty, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Dougherty and it will be remembered the marriage took place at the home of Colonel and Mrs. Schoeffel during General Farnsworth's visit.

For the tea dance on Saturday the hall was profusely and effectively decorated in southern smilax and long leaf pine. All around the four sides small tables were placed, overlaid with pretty white covers and adorned with pretty baskets of daffodils, alternating with blue candles in crystal holders. Here the guests were seated for tea.

A large table at one sode of the oom was adorned withs low bowl of daffodils and a central candlabra with blue candles. The coffee and ea samovars were arranged at either end and the platters of salad were dishes of salted nuts, etc., also placed on the table. Mrs. Underwood assisted for the first hour and Mrs. W. O. Smth, Mrs. Fassett and Mrs. Hardenbergh for the second hour.

The Twenty-Fourth Infantry orhestra furnished the music for dancing between the hours of 4 and 6

There were approximately 200 guests.

NEW HOSPITAL FOR BENNING

The Senate and House Conferees have agreed to the $275,000.00 appropriation that the Senate added to the Army bill. It is not believed that the House will object to this measure, in fact it is understood that they will agree to it.

If there is any place in the country that a Hospital is needed it sure is Benning, for the present hospital is anything but satisfactory.

MRS. PRICKETT ENTERTAINS THE 83RD FIELD ARTILLERY BRIDGE CLUB.

On Tuesdlay afternoon Mrs. Rickett entertained the Bridge Club of the 83rd Field Artillery.

ATTENTION ARMY RELIEF

The Membership Committee of the Army Relief will please send in the membership names and dues within the coming week to Mrs. John Schoeffel, care of Colon Schoeffel, Fort Benning.

The Polo Club Paper Chase given yesterday afternoon at Fort Benning was a decided success. More than one hundred riders were led out by Capt. E. C. Betts on the trail of the "hares" Lieut. Fred Makinney and Lieut. R. W. Douglass.

These last were hotly pursued by Major Waite on "Sunshine" and Capt. Willis aboard "Steamboat" who finished in that order a bare dozen lengths behind the hares.

An enjoyable breakfast was served following the chase on the broad verandahs of the club.

29TH INFANTRY DANCE MARCH 3RD.

Fort its always fair weather when good fellows get together will be the slogan for the Twenty-Ninth Infantry annual Organization Day and Dance at the Officers Hop Room, Saturday night March 3rd. The committtee under the chairmanship of Major J. C. Williams has finally completed his plans and enthusiasm is inspiring the execution of the program.

Captain John S. Claussen, who controlled the purse strings announced that distinctive favors will be given each lady attending the cotillion. And from what has leaked out of the committee room the girls are in for a real treat.

Major Williams announces that the annual banquet which is under the active direction of Captain John W. Switzer will be held at the Officers Club Mess. The dinner will begin at 8:00 o'clock with the inimitable Lieut. Bennie Byrne officiating as toastmaster.

The guests for the dinner will be all 29th Infantry officers and their ladies, and all former 29th Infantry officers and their ladies. The Commanding General, the Assistant Commandant of the Infantry School, the Executive Officer of the Post, and the Commanding Officers of each unit on the Post.

The cotillion dance is programmed for 9:30 o'clock with music by the 29th Infantry orchestra. The cotillion will be led by Colonel G. S. Goodale and Lieut. Colonel Horance P. Hobbs. Everyone connected with the Infantry school either as student or instructor or on duty with troops on the post is cordially invited to the 29th Infantry dance.

To avoid having a conflicting dance Secretary John Hess of the Officers Club has called off the regular Officers Hop scheduled for Friday night and all the customers are requested to hold their terpsychorean energies in check until Saturday night. Major Williams announces that the 29th Infantry bachelor officers, the Columbus Country Club is out of bounds for next Saturday night.

An ambitious decorative program designed by Lieut. Bennie Bryne will greet the eyes of the dancers when they come to the Officers Hop Room. Lieut. Bryne has followed a scheme of khaki painted helmets with crossed bayonets and a distinctive display of infantry and auxiliary weapons.

Another distinctive feature about the 29th Infantry cotillion hop will be a favor dance for each organization stationed at Fort Benning. That is when Lieut. Robert W. Douglass, Jr., calls out a dance for the 24th Infantry it will mean that only 24th Infantry officers will be entitled to the floor with their ladies. On the encore however all eligible persons may break in.

The dance will break up whenever the hands of the clock reach 12 o'clock. But it is going to be a very slow clock.

THE GIRLS WE LEAVE BEHIND

There'll be a trail of broken hearts,
Along the ripping Rhine,
When we depart for Georgia State,
And leave our German Frauleins,
Oh, eyes of black and eyes of blue,
Will glisten with a tear,
And you will tell her you'll come back,
Perhaps within a year.
But there is no consoling thought,
She knows it isn't true.
For in a year a Yankee Girl,
Will have control of you.

Then Grechen and Marie wait along the Rhine in vain,
No wonder hearts are aching now and tears swell up like rain,
She'll wonder down along the Rhine,
Beneath some glittering star,
And think of days now past and gone,
And wonder where you are.
She'll have a feeling of regret;
For you stole her heart away.
Then left her, trying to forget,
Yes, left her heart so gay.

You'll see a girl with flaxen hair,
Beneath the Rhenish sky,
You'll oft recall those rugged hills,
And the river flowing by,
You'll see the M. P.'s standing there,
On the corner of the street,
Corraling all the fraulines,
That come across their beat.
Yes such as this will memory bring,
In the other years to come,
But now we're marching homeward,
To the music of the drum,
We're going back from whence we came,
To Molly, Kate and Nell,
And if the frauleins lost the game,
The're simply S. O. L.

A TRIBUTE

"For the enjoyment of much purer civil liberty and greater public happiness than has hitherto been the portion of mankind," These words of Washington epitomize all that which first he fought to gain from foreign enemies and all that which later he pleaded to preserve from the violence of domestic dissenters.

Only in proportion as he is truly unselfish is any man truly great. Washington was a partician, of that class of colonists most particularly favored by monarchial England. Nothing was his to gain by revolution; the tea tax and the Boston massacre were physically as far away, almost, as England itself and fragile indeed were any ties that in those days might have bound together two such widely separated commonwealth as Massachusetts and Virginia. Why, then did Washington take up the dubious battle, forsaking the ease of opulent estates for the crushing responsibility of leading an untrained army; despising to ally himself with the prestige of British nobility, nor considering how much indeed it might have taken him for his influence, preferring to struggle on thru eight interminable years of hardship and privation? Why after the last foreign troop ship had definitely departed, did he refuse the proffered crown and with more sincerity than ever was attributed to the first of the Ceasars? The answer to these questions as well to any other query concerning Washington lies in the one word, "Unselfish."

Let us come to think of him, then, not as a legendary hero, a graven figure on a pedestal, a portrait on the school house wall, but as a man, prudent, firm, sagacious, unwearied of patience, but still just a man, excelling us chiefly in that one attribute upon which all greatness ultimately depends—unselfishness. Of his altruism, we are the heirs. He fought that we might be at peace and he labored on the hills of hardship that we might reach the valley of rest. Words are insufficient to express the gratitude which this republic must ever feel toward Washington who, by infinite efforts, long ago, made possible for these United States "greater public happiness than has hitherto been the portion of mankind."

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

We noticed recently on the Fort Benning road a large sign unnecessarily stating "Road Closed!" This came as somewhat of a surprise to us as we had never heard of anyone who had been able to travel over that section of the highway before and we did not understand why any one should wish to attempt it now. In this connection it is rumored that representatives of friendly foreign governments have been granted permission to inspect the Fort Benning road with a view to determining its defensive possibilities. It is believed abroad that a fort protected by such a highway could never be reached by any enemy no matter how courageous or well equipped. Friends, of course, might still get thru, as they do here, for love is ever stronger than hate and more tenacious of its purposes.

DESERTION

What is to be gained by deserting the Army? This is a question that every man ought seriously to consider before he attempts to pull the stunts. Many at times, when things go wrong, thing of "going over the hill," but when they stop to consider it from every angle they fail to see any advantage to be gained in it and usually decide to stay. These are the wise guys. The fools act with out thinking and live to learn by bitter experience the folly of their act. The following points may help some to realize the truth of the above statement.

The deserter is and will be for the rest of his life a fugitive from justice He cannot go home. The police in his home town have been notified and will be looking for him. He cannot even write to his people at home. His letters may be intercepted in an effort to locate him. Above all he does not want his people to find out what he has done. No one who thinks anything of him would appreciate knowledge or information of this kind. There is just as much danger and hesitancy about his communicating with friends. He does not want them to know what he has done or where he is. He must remain constantly a "stranger in a strange land."

There are thousands of secret service men in every part of this country working under the Department of Justice. They have a line on every deserter from the Army and are constantly looking out for him. They study the face of every man they come in contact with, and the deserter never knows when he is talking to one of them. He is, however, conscious of the fact that he is being watched and he suspects every man he comes in contact with as being a secret service man. He is constantly running into people whom he has seen before, or he imagines he has seen. He moves from city to city, from place to place in an effort to escape being detected. He is usually without money, is seldom able to secure work, and is forced either to beg or steal. He feels safe when alone. After a time he is constantly alone, and his lonesomeness drives him almost to madness.

What eventually happens to such a man? A few are able to stand the train and continue in desertion. Some endeavor to enlist, but the finger print system, now in vogue, makes this a rather dangerous procedure. The vast majority are willing to turn themselves in. They may have been in trouble when they left; they evidently did find Army life rather unpleasant; they expect to be punished when they return; but anything is better than the miserable existence which they have endured as a fugitive from justice.

Army life may be hard; some find it very unpleasant; but all who have tried the trick tell you that there is nothing to be gained by attempting to escape it by desertion. Better to have the "top-kick" riding you here, han ten thousand hounding you for the rest of your mortal life.

T. J. L.

CAPTAIN KRAUL WINS SALVAGED WAIST BELT

for this contest was then presented to Captain Kraul who made a characteristically brief speech of acceptance 'It's a cinch," was all he said on beholding the prize and all present were visibly affected by such an inclusive and all embracing statement. The prize winning poem follows:

Songs of the Past

I remember, I remember, my first Army Transport ride,
Every time they scrubbed the decks we went below to hide,
They scrubbed all day and half the night until we were afraid
They'd get the gosh darn decks so thin we'd have to start to wade.

I remember, I remember, how they fed us while on board,
The only fellow who could get it down made a living swallowing swords.
The tables were always falling down and in the air was full of beans.
Thank goodness we don't always live like that—think of the poor Marines.

I remember, I remember, doing guard at the bakery door,
The place was filled with pies and cakes from ceiling to the floor,
My orders were to allow no one to steal pies of the shelf,
So in order to keep the rest out of trouble—I ate them all myself,

I remember, I remember, when the ship took on some coal
They took it in thru the side of the ship and shoveled it down the hold
It got into our ears and eyes and in our nose and hair,
And when we complained about it, they said 'C'est la guerre,"

I remember, I remember, when we stopped at Honlulu,
We all got ready to go ashore and see the Hula-Hula,
About that time the Sergeant put an order in the board,
"Troops will not be allowed to land —They might get left ashore.'

MAJOR GREENE RETURNS.

they would have been able to control it in a short time.

Major Green states that the popuace offered whole and freehearted co-operation and that the Standard Oil Company, The Gulf Refining Company and the Atlantic Coast Line Railway Company through generous donations supplimented the funds of the National Red Cross. No National Appeal was issued by the Red Cross.

However, while Major Green enjoyed the work with the people in the Everglades, nevertheless he was glad to get back to Benning and as proof that he has been in the Everglades he brought back with him a seven foot rattlesnake skin and a healthy tanned complexion.

AN ASBESTOS IDYL.

Priscilla Pumpkin, simple maid,
Who dwells in the countree,
Of kowes and porkers unafraid,
Of men is most sca-ree.

Of all mankind she loves but one,
A swain who subtlelee
Woos at her when the chores are done,
With rustic chivarlee,

This night he vowed his tide of love was deeper than the sea;
Priscilla, tho, thought not less of
A liar such as he.

Their joy forgot the mining stock,
Her father, foolishlee,
To buy, had put his farm in hock,
To villun, mortgagee.

Lo, Villun strides across the lawn,
Y-chuckling friendishlee,
And sez, "Priscilla dear, the dawn
Shall see thee wed to me!"

"And do ye come right spry along,
(I swear it truthfully)
I'll burn the mortgage for a song,
Your father shall go free!"

"But if, instead, you'd rather fool
With that young ass; sezee,
I'll set your father's heels to cool
In the penitentiaree!"

Our hero's face turns ashy pale,
And sore perturbed is he,
He gulps, "I think I'll get the mail,
If any mail there be!"

The road to town he hitteth hard,
And almost instantlee,
He brings Pricilla's Pa a card,
From the Mining Companee.

The old man doth the card behold,
And weeps with joy to see,
It written there, "We've just struck gold
Upon your propertee."

And Villun's teeth are gnashed with rage,
At such prosperitee—
He quickly quits the grassy stage,
Foiled most emphaticallee.

Pricilla's Pa then goes to bed
(This finishes Act Three)
The Fourth Act sees these lovers wed—
Lord, what damphooleree!

The Man of Upright Life.

The man of life upright,
Whose guiltless heart is free
From all dishonest deeds,
Or thought of vanity.

The man whose silent days
In harmless joy is spent,
Whose hope cannot delude,
Nor sorrow discontent.

That man needs neither towers,
Nor armor for defense,
Nor secret vaults to fly
From thunder's violence.

He only can behold,
With unaffrighted eyes,
The horrors of the deep
And terrors of the skies.

Thus, scorning all the cares
That fate or fortune brings,
He makes the heaven his book,
His wisdom heavenly things.

Good thoughts of his only friends,
His wealth a well-spent age,
The earth his sober inn
And quiet pilgrimage.

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

Chapter II

Four things insatiable; four things too hard to be known; intolerable; speedy; exceeding wise; exceeding stupid.

1. There are three things that are never satisfied, yea, four things that say not "It is enough."

2. A hungry soldier, a guard house a civilian concession and a bayonet instructor.

3. There are three things too wonderful for me, yea, four things which I know not.

4. The way of a shavetail at his first guard mount, the way of those marksman who prove that what they hit is what they aimed at, the way of a lieutenant who supporteth a wife and the way by which his insurance premium is never met.

5By three things the earth is disquieted, yea, four things it cannot bear.

6. A dentist who carrieth a sabre and an aviator who weareth long spurs, a chaplain who sigheth for the insignia of rank and a quartermaster which criticizeth Napoleon.

7. There are three things which go speedily, yea, four things which quick in their going.

8. An initial clothing allowance, an out-of-town girl to an officers 'hop', and S. O. S. officer to a veterans' ball and the quarterly allowance of hospital whiskey.

9. There are three things which be small upon earth but they are exceeding wise.

10. The office holding tailor who hath contrived that uniforms must go out of date but never be worn out, the striker who requireth that he be paid in advance, the enlisted man who lendeth his Ford to the Captain on the Sabbath day and whoever it was that devised the 96th Article of War.

11. There are three things which are exceedingly bewildered, yea, four things which know not what it is all about.

12. A recruit sentry when the Commanding Officer desireth admittance to the post at midnight, a company clerk who still readeth Special Regulations No. 57, a colored maidservant when her tent igniteth from sparks and any officer who seeketh information from rental allowance decisions.

13. There are three things uninterested, yea, four things which putteth not out.

14. A Finance officer who beholdeth the voucher of one whose mother is dependent, a supply sergeant who still waiteth for some one to return the axe lent without signature, a fatigue detail in charge of a 1st class private and the Captain who heareth of illness of the recruits parents.

THE PICTURE THEATRE HOG.

When I spend my good dough to take in a show
At the building that once was an ark
What I'd like to know, if including the show,
Do I also pay to listen to goofy remarks?
It matters not to me who the offender may be,
Be he cloud-buster, bo-hunk or Dutch,
Sayings that seem clever to these youths
Sound to me quite uncouth,
And just about as funny as an old worn-out crutch.
They are only children in manners and mind,
They surely must come from where the tall timbers grow;
The homes for feeble-minded are full of their kind.
They must have been dragged up, not brought up,
Judging by the manners they show.
There is only one way to handle these little dears,
While the picture is on if they whimper or shout,
Connect a good hickory stick with one of their ears,
Then call most anybody to help drag them out.
These small town comedians show disregard
For children, woman or man,
They actually have no respect for themselves,
They show this wherever they can.
They "oh" and they "ah" at each scene on the screen.
It's especially so, if some lady appears,
It matters not to them be she beggar or queen,
Be the scene one of gladness or sadness and tears.
So let's get together and put these rough-necks to rout,
It's up to the M. P.'s to bring order about;
For the sake of the ladies, get rid of these hogs,
Also clear the theatre of the four-legged dogs,
So the audience may look at a picture with ease
And not carry home a job lot of fleas.
Give us what we pay for, that is all that we ask;
If you are short of good bouncers.
We will all help with the task.

COMPANY "B"

Cook Freeman, better known as Old Sergt., was dreaming that he was with (G. B.) and when he awakened he was hugging a Red Hot Stove. Bad business old boy, a burnt child dreads the fire. Wake up.

Supply Sgt. Fitts was seen at a dance, and the next morning he was seen with a cut thumb, so we called him one round Bill. Wake up Bill you will lose four fingers next time.

Wm. Brown, better known as the Bull Whip, said he was going to stay ahead of the boys. I don't know what he means, but be got lucky and bought himself six (6) shorts so look out (Blocks.)

Cook Payton (The Fish) the Skin King has been in bad luck. He said he was going to stop singing the "Left All Alone Blues," But as soon as he was found with his crying the new ones, the lights went out. So we are singing, "I Wonder Where Was Fish When the Lights Went Out," Cheer up old boy we will have plenty of Candles to see by. You wont have to skin any more Jack Rabbits for you have left the Borders but "G" and little "a" you will get to see the Green Hills of the river.

George Brown, (Battle Ship Foots,) why don't you wake up and get in the game? You haven't shown any speed since you've been in Benning you are as slow as a turtle. Go out and see what's going on some time you need not be afraid, ask Bugler Hall for some instructions.

COMPANY "H"

O, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift-fleeting metor, a fast flying cloud,
A flash of lightning, a break of the wave
He passeth from life to his rest in the grave.

The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade,
Be scattered around and together be laid;
As the young and the old, the low and the high,
Shall crumble to dust and together shall die.

The head of the king, that the sceptre hath borne;
The brow of the priest, that the mitre hath worn;
The eye of the sage, and the heart of the brave,
Are hidden and lost in the depth of the grave.

So the multitude goes, like the flower or the weed,
That withers away to let others succeed;
So the multitude goes even those we behold,
To repeat every tale that has often been told,

Yea, hope and despondency, pleasure and pain,
Are mingled together in sunshine and rain;
And the smile and the tear, and the song and the dirge
Still follow each other like surge surge upon surge.

Tis the wink of an eye; tis the draught of a breath
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death,
To spirit's of mortal's death will pay it's certain call,
So give your life to your country, your soul to GOD.

COMPANY "A"

Cpl. Jackson, "Geech" has qualified as an instructor to teach other men how to hold their rifles in taking the different positions, so they may be able to make good shots. Cpl. Jackson, remember that to teach other men doesn't mean he should neglect himself. He must make expert this season, so we can know that he has practiced what he preached.

Sgt. Burley, "Old Trigger", has completed his week, he is loose again. Now trigger old boy watch your step and try and don't go on the mat any more. Things might be serious next time.

Sgt. Mann, "Lizzie", has gone to Charleston, S. C., to spend his vacation of sixty days. He says he arrived safe in the land of gators and rice. We know gators and rice don't grow north. Sgt. Mann is a northern man. He should stay away from the land where gators grow, if he don't mind before he gets back he will be a citizen of the land he is making fun of.

COMPANY 'M'

Pvt. Howard D. Jones is still holding onto the key to the cellar or so it seems from this distance; yea, t'is verily so for he was seen entering a certain Dug-Out in the Village of Columbus t'other day and there he remained a considerable while (or so it seemed from our distance perspective.)

Sergeant Arthar Hen-ley, or honorable Mess Destructor was very, very busy a few yesterdays ago, busy but not too busy; nay, not too busy to remark to the cooks a few instructions to the effect that left-over beans was to be a standard article of food for three meals a day.

Pvt. Dewitt Davis thinks that he was born unlucky but the boys seem to think that he is the luckiest gut in the world for the life-time contract with a certain lady he was about to sign days past, was abruptly delayed by her sudden departure on vacation, and the bride-to-have-been was kind enough to send him a telegram to that effect.

Pvt. James Cornish is studying for the practice of law. His first case was between the U. S. ve. Cornish in which he received a draw decision; that is he drew two and two-thirds in the company area with the usual complimentary six, eight, ten and twelve as a solace prize.

Some of us are wondering how a man's wife can be both absent and present at the same time. We have in this company a gentleman (we use this latter word advisedly) who tell some people his wife is out of town but his actions belie his words inasmuch as he is now more interested in going to town than in yesterdays. Selah!

It is not often that we inscribe the word FINIS behind the name of one of our comrades. The exit of the late Sergeant Williams, familiarly known as "Dinky," from the threshold of our company activities is, after all, a sad event in the annals of the organization and serves as a reminder of the fact that FINIS is the summary of our life work. Mrs. Williams has our sympathy in her bereavement. She left with his body Sunday morning for Emporia, Kan.

Accept this as a warning—members of this company who go to town and have to bum a taxi fare will have their names published in this column because we believe that this is a syndicate and should be broken up.

Pvt. James Holins, veteran light duty man because of a broken leg, does not find walking through the "blocks" every day and trying to shake a wicked hip at the Service Club dances "very heavy duty". Some men are born lucky but this guy, through a misfortune, has had luck thrust upon him. This same gentleman had a tooth pulled t'other day and remarked thereafter that he had a few more yet to be extracted but if he doesn't have them pulled before the next dance, a certain man's fist may save the dentist some work.

Who is the Beau Brummel—the handsomest man in our company? You may not find it very hard to decide. In fact, a certain gentleman whose name I would not divulge for anything in the world (his initials are H. W.) received a letter from a lady the night after he attended (The Shuffle Along" production, in which she had this to say—Bastante —"You looked so handsome last night," Caramba! Now I'm goin to pass this along to Miss Minehaha (she'll understand.) But my Dios, how such remarks does flambast one. He has been curling his mustache ever since. Caramba!

24th Infantry News Notes

Oliver Law, better known as "Law the Invisible," keeps everybody wondering what fort he is commanding. Watch your step, old boy, "Boo Reese" is on your track and if you don't mind he will trail you to your den.

COMPANY "I."

Lost, strayed or stolen, what? The thoughts of Poor-Boy Russell.

Yes, we are smiling, everybody is happy since the C. C. has purchased the little Willys-Knight. There is not a man on the restricted list.

Sergeant Seger's Staff has o go to town every afternoon to buy a garage since the old "Velie" was willed to the orderly room.

Pvts. Pete Strode and Sol Winn are now on special duty at the school of pickology and shoveology. Sgt. Steger is the instructor.

Will some kind person in Columbus please write Cpl. Reeves a letter or send a word of some kind of consolation; the poor boy has been vamped at last. Barnum was right.

Everybody is singing the song, "Where Was Moses When the Light Went Out?" No more letter writing after the day is over. You cannot read the letter until next morning. And you have to pull off your Buddie's clothing after Reveille on account of putting them on by mistake in the dark. Please let the sunshine in or give us a little more MOONSHINE.

Sgt. Atkins has to change his address because No. 5 is getting too small for him and Twilight Handy.

A new athlete has been discovered in the company in the person of Twilight Handy. We saw him down the company street walking on his hands. I can't remember whether his age is 17 or 71.

Since things have reached a progressive standard in the way of lights for the recreation tent, pork chops at every meal, parade every Wednesday, no restriction for missing Reveille and no details until 10 a. m. every morning, etc., the generals of the "Seekers Union" have decided to remain neutral for awhile.

COMPANY "K."

Sgt. Tolbert (Tom Duff) was seen on last Monday at 3:00 p. m., hurrying to Post with his Henry—'Great Guns," the colored troops were in action, and their wapons were the kind of instruments used around and in barber shops.

"WONDER WHY—"

A fellow has to get on furlough, visit Chattanooga, and the first thing to happen upon his return to pass in review? Ask Garrett, he knows.

Not that we are chronic kickers, but honest, "Belse," why take her hat as security for taxi fare?

We must admit that life is short, even after having had a hundred years of it, but why, oh, why, force all the romance and adventure of a certain brother, on the night of Feb. 4th in one little short life? (Well, you will never know.)

COMPANY "L."

K. P.—This knife is blunt and the steak is like leather.

Yes; do nicely for stropping the knife on.

"I'm sorry I can't let you have your barber check today," said Sergeant Foster to Private Jesse Hill, soothingly. "It is waiting with the rest of them for the Company Commander's signature, but he's laid up at home with the gout."

"Great heavens!" cried the persistent and enraged home. "But he doesn't have to sign 'em with his feet, does he?"

"Do you believe man is made from dust?" Pvt. Troup asked the Chaplain.

"Not at all," said Troup. "Dust always settles and I know some men who do not."

"Lieut. X, you look very pale this morning," said Captain Y.

"Yes, I was stung by an adder this afternoon."

'How did it happen?"

"Why I dropped in the bank this afternoon and the bookkeeper told me that my account was overdrawn."

Since Cpl. Kitchens has been writing poems he is anxious to know just what the public thinks of them, so he wrote his girl and asked her what she thought of his last poem. Her answer was: "I am glad to hear that it is your last poem."

Artillery Notes

The batallion will this week undergo an inspection by Major Maxwell Murray, from the office of the Chief of Field Artillery. Marches, field firing demonstrations, and special drills will be performed during his stay.

The basketball team lost this week, through discharge, the services of Sergeant Peiffer. "A Battery, one of the mainstays of its attack. The team lost to the team lost to the Tank Corps by a decisive score in a recently played game, and the victors were defeated by the I. S. D., which managed to nose out a very narrow victory from the cannoneers on a previous occasion in an extra period game. This probably indicates something or other, but what?

Samlavich and Cooper, of Headquarters, are out for the Post baseball team. Cooper is a veteran on the team and the cannoneers doubt whether any other candidate can come as close as he to covering second base and third at the same time.

Head Coach Peckinpaugh of the volleyball team took the varsity and scrubs over to the Tanks lot for light exercise Tuesday. His charges didn't get steadied down until after they had lost three games, but a few harsh words by the coach between halves corrected matters and the next two games were won.

When approached last night, Coach Peckinpaugh was reticent. "Our boys have a chance," he said. This was taken to mean that the artillery mentor favors the parallax method. "The net is too high," he continued, "and the ball too large. I would like to see the Rules Committee do something about this. If the net were an inch lower, or the ball an inch smaller, we would make many points we now lose."

The rooting section is being rehearsed in the following yell:

I am Volleyball!
I am the onrushing tide!
Strong men weep!
Yea, the men of muscle!
And little children run to their mothers.
Shrieking.
They think papa has gone crazy.
I am the demon at the net!
I am the spirit of strife
Bruised and Battered Bruised and beaten,
Are my devotees.
Are my followers.

I am Volleyball
I am the whatdecall it of the something or other.
Cast them into exterior darkness,
Burden their 201 files,
Who know me not.
I am Volleyball
(I get tired of repeating this)
I am the Spirit of Youth
Youth triumphant
Youth Courageous
I am the onrushing tide!
I am, in short,
The bunk.

Big Recruiting

A Big Recruiting Campaign in the Fourth Corps Area will start within the next few days. It is the intention of the Post Recruiting Officer to put Fort Benning on the map.

Have you ever been in the Army?

What is your Idea of the Army?

Do you know that the army can improve your physical, mental and moral character 100 per cent? If you don't ask the Sergeant in charge at your station or watch the newspapers for announcement as to when a recruiting party will pass through your town. Anyone of said party will be only too glad to tell you all about the army.

If you do, see the Sergeant anyway and let him sign you up for service right here in your own locality where you will be close to your folks.

What job in civil life can compare with this—no strikes, no hospital bills to pay if you are sick, and the best medical attention possible, no board bills, no clothing to buy, all kinds of sports, athletics, and amusements at your disposal without cost. And on pay day. Oh, Boy, that grand and glorious feeling, yours to do as you please with. You can save as much as $15.00 per month for 12 months and then get a thirty day vacation with pay and have a good time spending your money and know that when you get back on the job, you will have another months pay coming to you and wont find yourself out of a job either. In addition to all this, promotions are fast at Fort Benning, also there are a large variety of good trades that you may learn, for instance, automobile repairman, chauffeur, railroad engineer, musician, painter, stenographer typist, telegraph and radio, telephone repair, tractor mechanics and a variety of trades too numerous to mention.

You draw your full pay while learning, too, that is a point to think about. What school or college will pay you a salary while giving you instruction? What other job will take you up and pay you to work for them while you are learning a different trade?

Employers in civil life are all looking for experienced men and the Army gives the experience if you want it. Any man who holds an honorable discharge need never to be out of work long, employers jump at the chance to get a man with such a discharge, it shows that the bearer has been thru a period of training and fitted him to obey orders without question and to take charge of any work assigned to him, and to perform all dutes in a satisfactory manner.

Think this over seriously, remember, procrastination is the thief of time, and the time is now. Tomorrow may be too late.

A DECIDED IMPROVEMENT

The auto schedule as announced by the Howard Bus and Taxi Company last week is a great improvement and should prove very convenien t to ladies living on the Post who desire to go shopping. However to continue this good service the car must have a sufficient number of passengers to pay for the service, and as the charge is only one dollar for the round trip and gives you about three hours stay in town, it should be a very attractive proposition for you shoppers. Take a look at the ad of last week that announces this schedule and for the time that the auto will leave your quarters.

Co. F 1st Gas Regiment

Our former scribe has left the journalistic field and has entered the cornfield. (We all knew he was an old-time plow jockey.) After spending six months in a civilized country (Md.), he was ordered to Fort Benning, Ga., our present station. While in route to Benning he saw two mules draw a strange implement through a field. The The sight caused him to go into hysterics. (It took six men to re store him to his natural state.) Mac we realize the sight of a mule looks good to you, but it was not at all fair to disturb your fellow passengers with your overflow of emotion. We hope you have realized by this time, some people live in the city, on the other hand, some people live in Iowa.

Cpt. Lucky Miller the famous tea-hound, is very particular where he sits when attending a show in Columbut. He always makes it a point to secure a seat directly under the balcony where the peanuts fall quite numerously. A few of the falling gublers get away from him, but he does not miss many. Now we know why he does not patronize local restaurants while on pass.

Pvt. Smith our celebrated mule-skinner is now a composer of music, one of his latest songs entitled "Merry Lee Roll Along," seems to have made quite a hit with the lovers of the dusky harmonizers.

Cook Boardman is on the trail of the crook who stole the raisins from the pantry, while he was reading "Telling Tales." We don't know how they were disposed of, but we hope the chemist in question is not brewing explosives. In case he is,, we hope he will sample his concoction on the Experimental Range. Funny, Telling Tales did not tell Broadman who stole the raisins, Phil, try Detective Stories and if they should fail, our only hopes are, you will be able to secure an interview with our famous sleuth, "OH TIM."

Phil.—Q. Where did you get that bottle of beer you are drinking?

Bob—A. From the Jew in the orderly room.

Phil—Q. Where does he get it?

Bob—A. He brews it.

Pvt. Francis, onr champion heaver is back from his two months furlough and the bull hans't had a minute's rest since he set foot in the Company street. Go to it Francis, Leuze believes you.

Well boys we have a new composer this week. (Kid Frisco). The name of his latest song is "Let a little sunshine in." And belive me he did it. He never stopped to consider Cockelreas or the john. In fact he never stopped to consider Either john.

Last week a guard exposed a soldier of our company who believes in preparedness. When he was informed that his post would extend through a graveyard he took into consideration past experiences and carried a roll of—newspapers. What's Dat?

Well Spathe you weren't the only one that had to walk that post Salvator had it and he said "he was so close the graves he could hear the caskets coffin.

Cpl. Miller, (While playing the victrola. Say Smith, you ought to be a good dancer.

Smith—Lord no. I'm too awkward.

Cpl. Miller—Forget it boy. Bowen and I thought that to.

The question has arisen as to who is the dumbest man in the company We will have to bestow the honors upon the man that said "Base ball shoes if worn to bed will never tear the sheets."

Pvt. Hendricks insists that Pvt. Ottey is the ugliest member of the company. When asked why he has such belief he said. "Ottey is so ugly he has to sneak up to a cup to get a drink of water."

After watching Pvt. Dennis eat I am inclined to believe that he may have been born with a silver knife in his mouth.

Post Recruiting Office

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Sgt. Harris is back in the hospital again, after 45 days sick leave, (it is beginning to look as if our friend is looking for another sick leave), but we are hoping that you get well this time.

Another sight for sore eyes—Sgt. Howell trying to crank his Chariot on a cold morning after being shot in the arm the day before.

We thought the Post Office had put on an extra mail wagon last Monday but it was only Sgt. Howell's wagon on it's way to the post office with a load of publicity stuff going to the surrounding territory.

Speaking of publicity believe me, buddies before many more moons Fort Benning is going to be on the map in more ways than one. Our Field men have received instructions to go out into the unexplored regions of their sectons and advertise, get recruits and advertise some more. If there happens to be one among you who is gifted as to be really capable of thinking, kindly send a few hints, as to how it is done, to the publicity man in the recruiting office, he surely needs them.

Brethern, something has got to be did, that't all, just think—only thirty recruits this month, if we don't do better than that we'll have to disband the army.

Anyhow, all joking aside, how about some of you solders writing a few lines to some of your pals, or better yet, just write their names and addresses on a slip of paper and send same to Post Recruiting Office and we'll do the rest.

Question.—How many twenty-one jewel time pieces can be had for an old Ingersol and one buck? Ask Fairchilds.

Cpl. Jesse E. Stewart, one of our Star Recruiters is spending a few days in our midst. We really believe he is going to do it again. He believes in practicing what he preaches alright. The Cpl. reports conditions favorable around Albany.

Say "I saw your Ad. in The News."

"I understand, Pat," said an employer, interviewing an applicant for a situation, "that you have a big family dependent on you."

"Yes, sor; ten children, seven pigs and the ould ooman."

She—"Is t a fact that they have canned gravy in the army?"

Soldier—"Why of course they can gravy, they even can soldiers."

Inf. School Detachment [White] News.

Corporals Salazar and Follendore, our two famous bachelors whose place of abode is on the range, had been attacked by a "spook" for several nights when they decided to catch him. They set a rat trap and lo and behold they found a pole cat at one A. M. Wednesday, and when the Range Sergeant arrived the two Corporals were fumigating their clothes, bedding, etc., much to their discomfiture, as the perfume of the "spook" filled the air. The two Napoleons have come to the conclusion that a hundred "spooks" would never do the damage the pole cat did and they will never set another trap, "spooks" or no "spooks."

Our two twirlers, Kid McNutt, and Old Man Duff, the mainstays of our ball club of the hurling staff are out for the Camp Team. Here is hoping they make it, but we will be mighty glad when they are back with the old outfit for the I. S. D. would be out of luck if it were not for the old reliables.

The Detachment lost a mighty good man when Frankie Smit, our "Jawbone Clerk," was discharged on the 16th, by reason of purchase. The Detachment Office Force will miss his excellent and efficient work in the office. We hated to see him go, but the best wishes of the entire Detachemtn accompany him, and we all wish his success in civil life.

The Detachment gave its regular monthly dance a few night ago. This dance was by far the best of the season and was enjoyed by all present.

The I. S. D. Basketball quintet defeated the 15th Tank Bn. in a rough game on Tuesday night, February 20th, by a score of 21 to 13. The Tank quintet seemed to think they were playing the 1st Bn., 29th Infantry a game of football, instead of playing the I. S. D. a game of basketball. One of the Detachment players was serious injured due to the roughness of the Tank players.

Since when has a First Sergeant been authorized to wear pajamas to work? Our First Sergeant came strolling in very gayly the other afternoon with his pajamas and overcoat on.

Finance Department Notes

Mr. Harris at the C. of Ga.. office on eleventh street and get a copy of ther latest folder, read it and then mail it to your folks. It tells more in a few words than possibly you could tell by writing a magazine. If you don't go to town call at the Post Recruiting Office for one.

Here we are again after aweek of cold weatber, that made the detachment look s though it had been through the "mill. Compare A. E. F.'s.

Watson returned from a fifteen day furlough, spent in and around Atlanta, Georgia, with friends and relatives, last Saturday. Welcome to our City Cecil, we sure are glad to have you back with us again, now Watch Out Pinchole.

Has anybody noticed how nicely "Al" White's hair is coming out? Now to match that "Crop," he is also trying to raise——(no not a family) but a "hairsute fringe on his upper lip" (Whiz Bang.) Go to it Al, you will be a man some day.

Who s this fellow that we haven't met yet? Not mentioning any names but his initials are Verna T. Come on "Verona" and shake (?) with the detachment.

"The way of the transgressor is hard," the editor has forgotten who quoted that, but the following can testify to it: "Shamoy-Skin" Tillerson, "Beauty" Bennett, "H. A. F." Georgia R. R. It's good. Call on and "Irsh" Frienenthal. You had better get up in time, if you want any breakfast my boys.

Al Whlit's crony 'Galloping George' Collins never has walked a step in his life.

The Signor, he say, he no can leeve on heese pay, as eet ees to small. Cheer up Banda, you are getting the equivaletnt of three times the amount you would earn in Equador.

Sergeant Kenney, who has been occupying quarters on Torch Hill for sometime has now been assigned quarters in the Post. We are glad to have Bod so near us, as the boys need him to teach them how to play Pinochle.

Our "Galloping' Difference Sheet Clerk "Dutch Dobbie" says Ach du lieber Gott, I make it a gain for $20,000.00 by die difference sheets.

"WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER" GRAND NEXT WEEK

As we go to press we are reminded to say just a word for a picture which is sure to please every picture fan in Columbus next week. It is the Cosmopolitan Production "When Knighthood Was in Flower," starring Marion Davies.

This picture has passed every critic with flying colors and without a doubt is one of the most pretentious pictures ever shown to the American public.

I. S. D. CONING UP

When the Infantry School Detachment met the 15th Tanks last Tuesday night they proceeded to clean up on the 15th Tanks to the tune of 21 to 13.

The game was featured by its roughness and not by any scientific playing. The Tanks wish that the I. S. D. had a football team and the I. S. D. come back by saying that they wish that the Tanks would have a baseball team.

Well the end is not yet as soon as the baseball will start and then shortly after that is over with the football season will start so maybe one or the other can get satisfaction.

Captain Whittemore, referee.

SECOND BATTALION WOLLOP THE FIFTEENTH TANKS

In a very one sided game the 2nd Battalion 29th Infantry Machine defeated the 15th Tankers 52 to 6. It was a very clean game with only a couple of fouls. The Tankers say that the couldn't get started for some reason further they believe that if they could meet the 2nd Battalion again that the score would be considerable different from what it was at the first game. Go to it Tanks we like to see that stick-to-it spirit.

2ND BATTALION 29TH INFANTRY BASKET BALL TEAM RETURNS.

The Basket Ball team of the 2nd Battalion 29th Infantry took a couple of outsiders that reside in Alabama namely The Alabama State Normal nd Camp McClellan.

On Monday night the Soldiers' Basket Ball Team at Camp McClellan tried to take the scalps of the men of the Second Battalion 29th Infantry but in this they were defeated as the McClellan men soon found out that the 2nd Battalion had a team that could step out.

While Camp McClellan had a good team, practically the same team that Oglethorp had last year, still they did not have the speed that the locals had nor the team work.

Well anyway when the game was over with the score was 31 to 14 in favor of the locals.

On Tuesday nght the 2nd Battalion team tackled the Alabama State Normal. The Normals have a team that have not tasted defeat in four straight years and the fates decided that victory would still be on their side on last Tuesday night.

The 2nd Battalion Team state that without any hard feelings or ill-will nevertheless that they were not able to get started until the last ten minues of play and hen they got on their feet and made ten points but it was to late in the game to get the scalp of the Normals. The final score sood 31 to 16.

Franz was an outstanding star in the last game. He had his hand in and it was a joy to see him in action.

The locals feel highly elated though at the showing that they did make against the Normals.

The following men of the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry made the trip.

Kjerstrom, Burt Johhson, Davis, Brown, McOrr, Brady, Krueger and Lieut. Cooey who had charge of the team.

The team state that they had a fine trip and that the people of Alabama treated them royally.

ASSIGNMENTS OF OFFICERS TO FOREIGN SERVICE STATIONS

Officers on duty at Fort Benning who are expecting foreign service orders in the near future will be interested in the following communication received from the Washington Correspondent of the Fort Benning News. Mr. Porter was especially instructed to secure information as to the stations to which officers would be assigned in order that suitable uniforms, etc., could be secured before departure:

Washington, D. C.
The Editor, February 23, 1923
Fort Benning News.

In order to secure the information you requested I proceeded immediately to the Office of the Abjutant General, Personnel Section. The Officer in charge very courteously referred me to Mr. Tuowun, the chief clerk of the section who had just completed the list.

Upon inquiring for Mr. Tuowun, I was informed that he was enroute to New York for his annual vacation which he takes advantage of twice a year. His assistant informed me that the chief clerk had the list in his possession and intended to make a final check while enroute and return it by mail.

The method used in determining the assignments was rather unique and is given below:

In order to lose no time I called Tuowun's Apartment on the telephone but could not find out on which train he had left. I immediately secured my airplane and started to overtake him following each railroad line until I had overtaken all the trains which had left that morning.

At last I located him sitting on the observation platform of a train reading a paper which I am sure was the assignment list I was after. Unfortunately at this moment the train, for some reason entered a tunnel and my plane smashed against the mountain side.

Fortunately my great presence of mind enabled me to grasp the roots of a small bush which was growing on the mountain side and there I hung for several minutes deciding on my next move. As it was, the root gave away and it was unnecessary for me to explain further.

I rolled gracefully down the mountain side and landed with a slight shock on the top of a freight train entering the tunnel.

Making my way forward I reached the engine and upon explaining the situation to the engineer he immediately increased the speed of the train until the motormeter registered "Summer Average." Naturally it was but a very short time before the train I was following again appeared ahead of us.

I rushed to the front of the engine and, as the observation platform came nearer, I sprang, gazelle-like, across the intervening space and raced madly thru the train.

After frantic search I at last located Mr. Tuowun in the dining car figuring out how much he should tip the waiter without getting a nasty look as he went out. Sinking down breathlessly by his side I begged him to give me the information I so eagerly sought. He looked at me in great astonishment and taking me by the arm led me hurriedly to the vestibule where, after reconnoitering fo eavesdroppers, he whispered excitedly, "It will be published as soon as the Fort Bennng Road is paved."

R. E. PORTER

P. S.—The method of ascertaining the assignments to foreign service in individual cases is as follows so each officer may determine his own assignment:

(a) Each foreign service station is given a number which is in the nature of a code number.

(b) Multiply your promotion list number by your relative number and divide by your serial number.

(c) This answer, if a minus, is increased by the number of the pages of the Army register, 1922 on which your name appears.

(d) If the answer is a plus, it is reduced by the number of the page of the Army List and Directory, January 1923, on which your name appears.

(e) The result is then compared with the code of the stations and the nearest one to your answer is the station to which you would be assigned under this system.

Note: The Code numbers of the stations are confidential and cannot be published.

OVERDRAFTS OR ON THE PHAMPHLET SENT OUT BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

The phamphlets that are being sent out by the First National Bank are causng many comments in the Post but the Editor is in receipt of a letter from the President of the Bank and he wishes to assure the personnel of the Post that these phamphlets were not distributed with the view of causing personal embarrassment to anyone concerned.

We take pleasure in publishing the letter received:

Columbus, Ga.
February 17th, 1923

To The Editor of the Fort Benning News,
Fort Benning, Ga.
Dear Sir:

This Bank is undertaking to publish from time to time small pamphlets, for the information of its customers and others, containing explanations of the various phases of the banking business together with short disqussions of other pertinent subjects. It appears that the receipt of the last pamphlet by some of our friends on the subject of "Overdrafts" one of most troublesome features of the banking business to handle, has created an impression thoroughly different from that desired by us and apparently our motives have been misunderstood. There was nothing personal intended in sending the pamphlet to anyone and we regret that our action was so interpreted by some of those who received it. I am taking the liberty, therefore, of writing you this communication with the request that you will print it in your next edition in order to assure our patrons and friends at Fort Benning of the entirely impersonal character of the pamphlet.

Thanking you in advance for your favorable attention to this, I am,

Very cordially yours,
RHODES BROWNE
President

COMMISSARY DELIVERIES TO COLUMBUS

Effectve March first, 1923, only two deliveries per week of Subsistance Stires will be made to the city of Columbus, and outside of Benning proper. These deliveries will be made on Wednesday and Saturday of each week. No delivery will be made of an order amounting to less that $1.00. Patrons of the Commissiary should arrange to place their order at such date as will insure deliveries on these days.

SHORT METHOD OF FIGURING INCOME TAX FOR YEAR 1923

There need be but little trouble to figure out your income tax. in the first place it may be worked out by algebra, astronomy, trigonometry and syntax, and then your answer may be correct and it may not. If your incomes $2,400 a year, and you have a diamond ring and an automobile, and are married to a brunette girl 25 years old, you take the amount of your income and add your personal property, subtract your street tax, multiply by your wife's height and divide by your telephone number. If you have a child in the family, you subtract $200 from your income, add the amount to your personal property, multiply by your waist measure, subtract the size of your collar and your child's age, multiply by the amount you have given the church during the year, and divide by the number of your automobile license tag, If there is a second child deduct $400 from your income, add the weight and age of the child, divide by the date of your birth, multiply by the size of your hat, and subtract the weight of your mother-in-law. After you get it all figured out you won't have to pay taxes of any name or nature, for they will have you in the red house and strapped, with a card in front of your cell marked, "NUTT."

She—"Will you promise to keep me in clothes?"

He—"I will, but it is not the fashion."

SERVICE COMPANY TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY

These are busy days at the corral. Sgt. O'Leary, Pvt. Smith, et al are working overtime preparing for the Regimental Field Day. They are out for the scalp of Regimental Hdqrs. Company and their slogan is "Beat Jimmy Johnston at any cost." From the looks of the transportation and animals which make up the Service Company's entries, it would not be boasting to say that the prizes for three events are assured for us. There is great rivalry between this Company and Regimental Hq. Co., but it is of a most friendly nature and is proven by the following story (rumor) current at the corrals; Regimental Hq. Co., had exhausted their supply of paint, leaving their entry—an escort wagon, with but three of the wheels painted. Sgt. O'Leary's generosity was appealed to and now Regimental Hq. C., may enter and escort wagon with all four wheels painted.

COMPANY "A"

Common expressions of:

"I'm getting good and tired of it."

"So to speak,"

"After a fashion."

"No sir! I'm on S. D., I am."

"$$(( @ &"??—war set rifle? Beats me."

"Hit a lick,, Tom."

"How's this man's credit; all right for a suit?"

"Any body wan any candy?"

All of us—"Any canteen checks?" "Gimme a pass."

"Gimme a cigarrette!" "Are we going to Anniston?"

Due to the scarcity of electricity the purchase of electric stoves and ranges by individulas for tent heating purposes is prohibited.

The allowance of electricity has run out; the coal is very low; but due to the efficiency of the Quartermaster Corps the supply of air will be sufficient for the rest of the fiscal year, at least.

COMPANY "B"

The scenery around the Company is changing as the boys are putting forth their best efforts in, making a new fence and raking the straw off of the grass. Some seem to like it, for they say that Spring is coming and they must be prepared.

Sgt. Boston Mintz states that he is going to have his money, but I am of the opinion that it can't be done as long as there is a (Jawbone Payday.)

Sgt. Moen seems to be going to the city a great many times in the run of a week. Who can she be this time?

All of these Special Duty men have been relieved for the target season and there are a few who are enjoying themselves doing K. P. How about it Shroyer?

Information is requested as to where Cpl. Sutton got that jar of Chow-Chow which he brings into the Mess Hall every day at meal times. Also like to know what there is to his story of red which he says flows freely for him.

Pvt. Chimingo was heard to say the other day that he can earn $10.00 above expenses on the out side, Gee, fellows if that is true a normal man can earn a fortune in a very short while.

Sgt. Loeb Mintz is love sick again, and I can see where the Howard Bus line will be patronized again by the so said Sgt.

Information is requested and will be much appreciated as to where Sgt. Humphrey and his Ford spends the night as there is one that is interested in his personal welfare and would hate to see the above named man lose his heart to some one of these man Georgia Peaches, and the present symptoms seem to indicate that he is going to do the same. May ye, who are believers of Bachlorism answer in haste, so the we may save this young man.

COMPANY "B"

Sgt. Willingham is too busy drilling recruits this week to devote his time to this column—and therefore it falls upon (————). Oh, Willie what is the matter with your lady friend in the city—you never go to see her any more?

It's a noticeable fact that whenever Scheeler goes to town, he can be found on Broad St., and always with a bag of peanuts in his hand—he may be wise to the lay of the land as far as 6th Ave., on 12th St. and also the "Snuff Chewers Ball", but as the rest, he may explain.

Sgt. Klein has been discharged therfore it leaves a vacancy for one more sergeant—and there seems to be a few corporals bucking for the job—of course Robillard has it in mind—but then he is another short timer—he would re-enlist if he was sure of the three stripes, according to his statement he intends to erect a Radio set which will be unsurpassed in this part of the country. He has been hand shaking with the Radio operator over at Message Center—but as far as buying a set you may have a few dollars when you are discharged—we will know you.

The entire company is on range yes fatigue on the range and if we don't learn anything about the rifle it won't be our fault. We sure can handle a shovel.

Now if I was out riding 6.00 A. M. on a Sunday morning, do you think I would let any one know it—I noticed some one came in at that time, all chilled through and said he had been to Cusseta—it sounds reasonable as he had his reason with him which kept im out.

Cpl. Day as a lady friend in the city who keeps celling him up on the telephone and he always insists on her coming out to camp—she would gladly accept his invitation, but it requires 25c for transportation and she is at a loss as to how she will get out. I would recommend Cpl. that you borrow March's wheel barrow and go after her.

COMPANY "C"

Any body who wishes information regards to the Articles of War just ask ex-bugler Seonia he knows them all except the 137 and he wants to know that one.

Our friend Pvt. Coppock returned from the hills of Ala., last week he said the reason he came back was that the people quit making moon shine over there, but who would believe that? He looked pretty hungry.

What's going to happen? Cpl. Sutton was seen getting a load of wood last week, what's wrong John? must be getting pretty cold down in 43.

Corporal Peters is busy ordering clothes frim Montgomery War, wha't all this about Peat starting you a hope chest?

Our old friend Pop Keasak returned from a 60 day furlough this week, and reports a good time, but he seems very glad to be back and we are glad to have him back and hope these last two years will be his best years in the Army.

said his voice had been well cultivated well but Cpl. Carleton says one more would do it good.

Cpl. Corley claims he is a pug, but we all know better but he will make a good Duslack the 2nd.

1st Sergeant Barton had an afternoon off during the week he claims he was gardening but from the looks of the buttons he sewed on his blouse he is going to open up a tailor shop.

29th Infantry Publicity For Organization Day

Colonel George S. Goodale gave out yesterday the revised order of procedure for the field day and horse show events of the 29th Infantry annual Organization Day ceremonies which begin next Friday morning on the parade ground east of the regimental area.

Anticipating the great interest in the plans of the regiment the Adjutant, Captain Edward C. Betts compiled the approximate time when each event was scheduled to occur, and to whom the athletes were to report, and the name of the judges.

The mounted events will not begin until 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The grading of Officer's mounts in the horse show is scheduled 3:15 o'clock and the Ladies jumping events will occur at 3:45 o'clock. Ribbons will be awarded to the winners in the ladies riding event.

Following the field and horse show events next Friday there will be a regimental dance for the enlisted personnel at the Service Club that night.

On Saturday the formal ceremonie, of Organization will take place with the annual address of the achievements of the regiment by Colonel George S. Goodale. At noon each organization will serve a special dinner and the remainder of the day will be a holiday.

On Saturday night the officers of the regiment will hold their annual banquet and dance. The entire post is invited to the dance.

TheInfantry School has been very ill since the National Guard and Reserve Officers left.

Last week the doctors announced a slight improvement but things have taken a turn for the worse.

15th Tank Battalion News

SECOND BATTALION TANKS

The second Battalion had the better team last Thursday, that explains to all. The former champions have played in brilliant form all season and at the peak of that form last Thursday they proved conclusively that they have lost none of the stuff that has made them champions. Like good liquor, their team improves with age. Defeat was disappointing and heart-bearking but it was inevitable. We were lost in the shuffle when we stacked up against them and their ball. They won fairly and squarely. No alibis are given None to be expected. Our men fought all the way through and are deserving of a word of praise. If everybody won all the time where would we find the fun, the rivalry, the scrappy battles, the frenzied yet hopeless efforts of the trailers to pick up, in fact, everything that makes the game what it is. With a nothing to win, nothing to lose state of affars the camp gym, when it came to basket ball, would be a swell ice skating rink. We still have a wonderful little team. Defeat by the 2nd Battalion is no disgrace and we are far from down-hearted. We are good enough to cop the remaining games, and you can never tell, their foot might slip and we may get another battle with them. Perhaps a little Coueism would not be out of place. Try anything once with the exception of the 2nd Battalion. We'll not be satisfied nor convinced until we meet again. Let's go!

THE SHOW

Professor Gravin announces that the date will be early in March, and it will a red letter day in the history of the committee of the batalion if present indications count for anything. Every member of the committee is putting forth their best efforts; working overtime to make the affair one grand success. The show troupe have started rehearsals and they promise one of their best performances, which means a lot.

Sgt. Kelly as returned farmer before and after office hours. He had a large tract of land behind the married non-coms quarters assigned to him for a garden. He will furnish all officers and married men with farm produce at the same price that you pay at the Post Exchnge except that he will add on a hundred per cent. just because he knows you and likes your trade.

SAME OLD STUFF

Here we sit, and smoke, and think; the color of our teeth, is pink; our eyes, are sad; our cough, is bad; the darn machine—it needs a drink. Our knees are weak, our stomach worse, and pretty soon we'll need a nurse (or maybe a hearse;) and this because of lack of news, it's just enough to give one blues. Usually it comes in ones or twos but this week not a single item brews. Come on fellows, grab a pen; give your mind a chance and then write something down and tell us when we can ask you for some help again. We like the work—it's really fun; it's for the best little battalion under the sun, it seems our battle is ne'er won, we get so little help it's never begun. But Rome in a single day wasn't made; it took lots of work with a hoe and spade before even the cornerstone was laid. Write in to tell of a youth and his maid—be a worker, not a shirker, and join the crusade. Thanks.

The We Have It Store

The Post Exchange is up and coming right along and if you should happen to look at their ad you will agree with me.

It is very few Posts where the activities of a Post Exchange are as varied and cover such a large scope as here at Benning and it is exceedingly fortunate that this is the case, for with a road to town as we have that would be rather scant because the people living on the Post would rather do without certain things than make a special trip to town over the excellent (?) road to get them.

It was recently rumored that the grocery department would be closed. It is hoped however that this is unfounded and that the powers that be, see fit to continue.

Did you ever stop to think just what all you can buy at the Post Exchange? No. Well take a look at their ad.

THE TREAT YOU RIGHT STORE

The editor was down town this week and happened to see S. Z. Jordon of the Jordon Tire Co., and he was feeling fine. Well far be it from me to give a man the blues so to help things along I sold him a tire that had blown out and another one for twelve dollars. This being a good trade I returned the favor by buying two Firestone tires from him. He has just gotten the agency for these tires, well we know what the Firestone tire can do so why add to an already excellent tire. However when I tried to sell him an Empire he shied like a colored man does at a ghost and as from sad experience with these tires that is the Empire I could not blame him. However I can say that I have always found Mr. Jordan a fine man to deal with. Take a look at his ad.

THE BIG STORE

That day I was down town I happened to see Mr. Kirven and as he is another progressive business man that advertises in the News we can't help but feel kindly towards him.

Mr. Kirven says that he is glad that he is able to help give the enlisted men at this Post some amusement for Mr. Kirven realizes that the News is published not only for giving news to the Post but also to help athletics along.

We have always found Mr. Kirven's store a nice place to deal with and are glad to see their ad. Take a look at it.

ONE PRICE TO ALL

We also happened to see Mr. Pekor the Jewelry Store man and he said that he had only one price for all. Now we can say that we really believe that Mr. Pekor spoke the truth as we know from past experience that the price is always the same whether you are in uniform or civies. Then also Mr. Pekor is such a nice fellow that you can't help but like him. Did you see the ad last week? Well be sure and cut it out as it is still good.

(Continued next week. This column deals with the advertisers in the Fort Benning News. Help our advertisers by buying from them because the advertisers help us put over athletics at this Post. As no doubt the most of the people of the Post know that this Office is entirely self-supporting and receives no funds except such as we can raise by our own efforts.—Editor.)

Service Club No. 1 Notes

The Women's Club met last Thursday evening at 2 o'clock in their club room at the Service Club and plans were completed for the Cabaret to be given at the Service Club on Thursday evening, March 8th. This Cabaret will be one of the biggest events of the Service Club so it will be of interest to each and every one to Watch The News for further particulars. All ladies of the enlisted personnel are invited to join the Women's Club which meets in the South room of the Service Club each Thursday at 2:00 P. M.

Who said Marshmellow Roast—well just ask the men that happened to be at the club last Saturday evening and see what they think about the one that was held there.

These cold evenings makes one appreciate the nice warm fireplace at the Service Club more and more and with Miss Roe's and Mrs. Stevenson's smiles one forgets that the world is so cold and cruel after all.

The weekly meeting of the Serivce Club and Dance Committee was held last Monday evening at 7 o'clock when final plans were completed for The George Washington dance to be given Wednesday evening, February 21st. Owing to Thursday being a holiday the results of this dance will not appear until next week so be on the look-out for same.

A number of the Committeemen were invted to a dance given by the Med. Dept. N. C. O.'s Club last Tuesday evening, among those present were Sergeants Sigmond Bjernstol, Collins, Bennett, Giron; Corporals, Mann, Myers and Daniels. They all said that it was one of the best dances that they had attended this year and only regreted that it is not a weekly affair instead of monthly—but it would break the club if they had to furnish Ice Cream and Lemonade for Bjornstol and Sigmond and I wish to say right here that there were a few corporals that got away with quite a bit, (who said Mann and Myers?)

The Soldiers Glee Club met last Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock and plans are being made to put on a real affair in the near future. Any man who can carry a tune (even in a bag) is invited to join. Mrs. McCallum, the efficient pianist, is taking a great interest in the Glee Club and it is thought that when the men realize how much interest is being taken in their behalf there will be a grand rush for membership in the Club.

Woodmen Bazaar Is Open Today

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the mammoth Woodmen of the World Bazaar, Auto and Industrial Exposition will open with "101 Wonders" at the Webster Warehouse on the lower section of Broad Street, Columbus. The exposition will be held for an entire week.

There will be afternoon and night shows, with the afternoon performances at 2:30 o'clock and nights at 7:30 o'clock. Each afternoon and evening there will be four feature free acts by the Morales family, famous Mexican aerial gymnasts doing the "slides." These acts will be given in front of the building.

The old warehouse by gay decorations has been transformed into a "Night in Japan." Hundreds of dollars have been spent by the Woodmen to make this show the greatest of its kind the people of Columbus and Fort Benning have ever seen. There are many attractions and the giant dance floor will be one of the most popular spots in the entire house.

Tickets for the season are still on sale.

Motor Transport News

Second act of Pvt. J. P. Morgan's photoplay entitled "Revengeful Night." Private Seymour Williams (the hero) was returning from town when suddenly the cold, quiet night is broken by a woman's screams, and stopping to catch the sound waves from where the scream has been heard. Just then he heard a woman say, "You little brute, you will impose on a woman but you won't fight a man." Just then Pvt. Williams flies into a rage of anger when he hears a man's voice saying, "Bring the whole 24th Infantry re-inforced by the Motor Transport, flanked on the right by the Tank Corps and on the left by the 7th Engineers, with the 29th Infantry held in reserve, and I will make the whole outfit think that they had ran into a nest of hornets re-enforced by a cart load of bumblet bees and a gang of yellow jackets for raiding squads. Just then Pvt. Williams went to where the villan Pvt. Messenburg, was distributing the peace, smashes in the door, rushing inside and yells to the woman, "Fear not, little one, Napoleon to your rescue." Just then his right eye came in contact with Pvt. Massenburg's fist, who instead of being a little brute was a young Jombo Elephant. Pvt. Williams, seeing that he had made a mistake, tries to break out faster than he broke in. Again he runs into a gang of lightning jabs to the jaw which started him to dreamland. Just then in steps the Law —Private Jackson. Just then Pvt. Massenburg lounges forth, picks up the red hot stove to throw on him, when in steps the detective, Private Morgan, who had heard the row on his radio dictaphone, rushes to the scene and commands, "Drop that stove; hands up." The villian throwing up his hands and says, "Don't shoot or I will have you arrested."

Memorandum: To Private Mack S. Davis, Subject: Recipe to grow hair on a bald spot. Mix with a tablespoon of ground glass 1 pt. of 600-W oil and at night before retiring use enough graphite to moisten the scalp, then rub in gently with the finger tips, then apply your night cap. If you haven't one see if Sergeant Wallace has an old drop-stitched stocking top, and if so, Pvt. James Washington will show you how to use it.

The latest, marriage by radio. Although there might be a little confusion in the broad-casting of the marriage ritual, that is by listening in we might hear something like this: Private Charlie McCarthy, do you take this seal skin Alabama brown to be your lawful wedded wife?

I do as long as the Chattahooche flows.

Pvt. 1cl Charles Cross has returned for duty after spending a three months leave of absence visiting family and friends in the Capital City.

The Company Commander on last Saturdays Inspection ask a certain Corporal if he had every thing required, the Corporal replyed yes sir I have everything that a soldier is required to have, Well Corporal where is your rifle?

Private, Jossie Moffett tells a Columbus Miss last Sunday that she was beautiful, and her Mirrow tells he the opposite, so she believes him and bought a new mirrow.

New Quarters, Twenty Sets Ready

The ten new brick houses, sufficient to accomodate twenty families will be ready for occupancy by next week. Several sets are ready now and some officers says that they are moving Monday.

These quarters are a decided improvement over what has been constructed to date. The great advantage that these quarters have is that each apartment has its own heating plant so now it will be possible to regulate the heat in each set without getting a growl from someone else that it is too hot or too cold. What a blessing.

These buildings are a type that are supposed to be occupied by lieutenants but officers of field grade will probably occupy them, which is fair enough in that they are usually older men and also they are entitled to have first consideration.

A man comes into this world without his consent and leaves it against his will. During his stay on earth his time is spent in one continuous round of Contraries and Misunderstandings. In his infancy he is an "angel;" in his boyhood he is a "devil;" in his manhood he is everything from a lizard up; in his duties, he is a "damn fool." If he raises a family he is a chump; if he raises a check he is a "thief"—and then the law raises hell with him; if he is a poor man, he is a poor manager and has no sense; if he is rich he is dishonest, but is considered smart; if he is in politics he is a "grafter and a crook;" if he is out of politics you can't place him as he is an undesirable citizen; if he goes to church he is a "hypocrite;" if he stays away from church he is a "sinner;" if he donates for foreign missions "he does it for show;" if he doesn't he is "stingy" and a "tightwad;" when he comes into the world everybody wants to kiss him; before he goes out they want to kick him; if he dies young, there was a great future before him; if he lives to a ripe old age, he is in the way—only living to save funeral expenses.

SO LIFE IS A FUNNY PROPOSITION AFTER ALL.

History of 29th Infantry

HISTORY OF THE 29th INFANTRY

1918 (Continued

On August 25th, Headquarters Co, Machine Gun Co. and Supply Co. and Companies I. K. L. M and Ordinance Detachment left Camp Gaillard by train, arriving at Cristobal in the middle of the forenoon. This portion of the Regiment immediately boarded the U. S. A. T. "Kilpatrick" and sailed for the United States. As we travelled during the period of war great care was taken. At night we travelled without lights. Arrived at New Orleans, La., on August 31st, and at once entrained for Camp Beauregard arriving there very early on the morning of September 1st.

On Sept. 3, the first and second Battalions of the Regiment left Cristobal on the U. S. N. T. "Hancock" for the States. Arrived at New Orleans on Sepetmber 8, and at Camp Beauregard on the 9th.

The distance traveled by water in each case was 1700 miles.

Soon they arrived at Camp Beauregard the Seventeenth Division was organized with the thirty third and thirty fourth Brigades. It became necessary to form two new regiments of Infantry, so the 83rd and the 84th Infantries were formed from the Fifth and Twenty Ninth respectively. The Seventeenth Division was known as the Thunderbolt Division.

Very large numbers of men began to arrive at Camp to bring the Regiments up to strength. The Division was under orders to hasten the preparation. The epidemic of influenza late in September, however, struck camp Beauregard very hard. There were nearly 4000 cases. About one tenth were fatal. The Twenty Ninth and the Eighty Fourth (made up almost exclusively of the men from the Twenty Ninth) lost two officers and thirty eight enlisted men.

The draft was suspended until the epidemic passed. Late in October the situation cleared. Then followed the perior of convalescence and settling down to military duties again. Before we had fully recovered the Armistic was signed.

Officers assigned to the Regiment in 1918 after our arrivel in the United States were:

Colonel Frank D. Ely.
Lt. Col. Sydney H. Hopson.
Majors Charles E. Kerr, Clifford Bluemel and Robert W. Ralston,

NAUGHTY LIEUTENANT

"Lieutenant Jones was known all over the A. E. F, for a passionate devotion to laying bets. He would bet a man would go 'west' an collect on the war insurance, and his bookmaking was so successful that his regiment would be richer if Jones took his operations elsewhere.

"A transfer to another regiment Was arranged and Jones, Colonel wrote a note to the Colonel warning him about Jones' habits. Accordingly the incurable bettor was met by his new commanding officer in person. He warned him that he would have no chance to ply his vocation there.

"Very Good Sir', said Jones, 'but what is the blood on your chest?'

"'Blood?' said the Colonel, 'there's no blood there,"

"But Jones insisted there was an open wound on the Colonel's chest and offered to bet his $25 that he saw right. The Colonel saw a chance to take this young man down and accepted the bet. going into the tent with him and taking off his shirt to show that there was no wound. He of course won the $25, but his satisfaction dwindled when he received a letter from Jones' original commanding officer which read:

"It's all right for you to win the $25, Colonel, but Jones, before he left bet me $100 that he would make you take off your shirt the first day he met you!"—5th Corps News.

During one of Napoleon's battles a much beloved lieutenant-colonel was seriously wounded in the head. He was immediately rushed to the hospital in the rear and placed on the operating table.

Napoleon was very much worried as to the condition of his comrade-in-arms and sent an orderly to inquire how Colonel Dumbsquirt was progressing. Upon hearing of this unexpected promotion the wounded man felt much better.

A short time later Napoleon sent again and inquired how General Dumbsquirt was getting along. Upon receipt of this promotion the wounded man bounced joyfully off the table

"Sacre Pimento!" exclaimed the medico. "Lie, down, man. Half of your brains are still on the table."

"Ca na fait rein!" gaily replied the officer, "I am a general now and I don't need them."—Lieutenant Boatner, Fort Humphrey, Va.—5th Corps News.

Chubby has been playing Black Jack for matches all week. It looks as if he might do a little Police Duty around the camp on pay day.

At last we have found a K. P. who earns a twenty-one dollars a month. He hasn't said "there ain't no more." the whole week he has been there. Stick right with it Merry you might be a Mess-Sergeant by the time your discharged.

Bob Skyfire says ,"Ain't Columbus an AWFUL nice town," (Put emphasis on awful.) What's the matter Bob, you didn't expect to find a duplicate of the Grand Central Depot down here, did you?

Will some one get Sergeant Stewart to tell us when we are going to eat. Some of our stomachs seem to think our throats cut for the last few months. To bad Christmas [illegible]

Take A Look At This

FINE FEATURES OF BIG NEW PICTURE

Thrilling Scenes Abound in Action of "To Have and To Hold."

Pirates being thrown headlong from towering decks; sword-fights while cannon boom, and a thrilling swing for life 130 feet across and over the deck of a rakish corsair craft—such are the thrill features of George Fitzmaurice's new Paramount picture production of "To Have and To Hold," with Betty Compson and Bert Lyetll in the featured leads, aided by Theodore Kosloff and W. J. Ferguson in strong roles.

The pirate incidents were taken in the ocean off Balboa, Calif., aboard the old South Sea trading schooner, "Willim G. Irwin," specially rebuilt for pirate purposes. A hundred tough looking pirates with swords, pistols, bandannas and all the other ear-marks of their calling, form a vivid background against which the principals play out their thrilling parts.

Mr. Fitzmaurice devoted much time to the closing scenes in the luxurious banquet room of the court of King James I of England. This sequence, with its wealth of gorgeous seventeenth century costumes, particularly those worn by Miss Compson and Mr. Kosloff, is said to provide a strongly contrasting note to the color of the pirate scenes. In this banquet scene appear "in person" such notables at William Shakespeare Ben Johnson and the Duke of Buckingham.

Ouida Bergere adapted "To Have and To Hold," from the famous romantic novel by Mary Johnston which was a best seller some years ago. The picture will be presented at the War Department Theatre, next Sunday. It should prove a strong drawing card.

SENSATIONAL FIGHT IS SURE TO THRILL

Perchance there is no male screen player today who really relishes fight scenes in pictures more than David Butler, the popular star who brings his latest cinema offering, "Making the Grade," to the War Department Theatre, Tuesday, February 27.

David is an all-round athelete and if there are no "rough" episodes in his pictures, he is very much chagrined. Fortunately, however, the scenario writers have managed to inject ample scenes calling for physical action on the part of the young star and in "Making the Grade" David appears in several of the fastest fight scenes ever filmed.

Imagine yourself caught in a den of Bolsheviks—all ready to pounce upon you and crush the life from your body. This does not faze David Butler. No, siree! The faster they come the better he likes it. In "Making the Grade" David really did some remarkable fighting. The "Bolsheviks" were real native Russians who understood very little if any English When their interpreter yelled for "fight" they fought and fought in earnest. Naturally David Could no take time to remonstrate with them so he plunged into the fray full tilt giving the motion picture public one of the most realistic "movie fights" ever filmed.

"CLARENCE," FINE COMEDY PACKED WITH LAUGHTER

Wallace Reid, Agnes Ayres and May McAvoy Featured in Production.

A wholesome comedy of family life in America! A picture story that conveys a fine message without being a preachment! That is William de Mille's Paramount production of "Clarence," featuring Wallace Raid, Agnes Ayers and May McAvoy, three screen stars of unquestioned popularity. Manager Parks announces that "Clarence" will be the bill at the War Department theatre next Monday, and he asserts it is one of the most enjoyable pictures booked by him this season.

"Clarence" is the humorous story of an ex-soldier who drove mules without swearing and who became a good angle in the family of a millionaire whose happiness is being dashed upon the rocks because of their lack of harmony and constant bickering. Clarence found the task of reconciling this family nearly as difficult as driving mules without cussing, but he accomplishes the task with the aid of his saxophone, his genial temperament and general tact, so that happiness is the lost of all concerned.

"Clarence" is packed with laughs from beginning to end. In the title role Mr. Reid scores a conspicuous success while Agnes Ayres and May McAvoy have parts suited to their personalities. There is a supporting cast of rare excellence, and the screen version of Booth Tarkington's famous play is said to rank as one of the most enjoyable pictures of the year. Kathlyn Williams, Adolph Menjou, Edward Martindel, Bertie Johns, Robert Agnew, Dorothy Gordon and Maym Kelso are in the supporting cast.

PLENTY OF PUNCH IN "STEP ON IT"

New Gibson Film Lively

Mystery, romance, typically western action and the punch of a plot from the pen of Courtney Ryley Cooper are promised in the Universal special attraction, "Step on It," in which Hoot Gibson will be seen in a starring performance at the War Department theatre, next Wednesday

Jack Conway directed the filming of the Cooper story, which was adapted by Arthur Statter, now editor of the short reel and serial scenario department at Universal City.

Barbara Bedford, a charming and capable actress, will be seen in the feminine leading role opposite Gibson. Others in support are Joseph Girard, Vic Potel, L. C. Shumway, Edith Yorke, Frank Lanning and Gloria Davenport.

The story is laid in "The Land of the Lost," a section of unmapped, barren territory in the state of Colorado, a paradise for horse and cattle thieves. In this locale action of a mystery nature takes place.

An element of the wierd and uncanny is injected into the story through the disappearance of large hordes of cattle, driven to the edge of a deep sluiceway and absoluetly untraceable from there on.

Annual Address

—of—

COL. GEORGE S. GOODALE, 29th Infantry.

Speaking to the assembled troops at 9:30 this morning, Col. Goodale, in the presence of the Commandant and his staff made a most inspiring address which was most appreciatively received. The entire post is as proud as Col. Goodale of the 29th Infantry and his speech this morning which pledged its continued efforts for the advancement of the Infantry School was heartily applauded. Col. Goodale spoke, in part as follows:

General Gordon, Col. Fassett, Officers, and Soldiers:

Twenty two years ago The Twenty Ninth U. S. Infantry was organized, and pursuant to War Department policies, March 3rd was designated by Regimental General Orders No. 1, 1921, as Regimental Organization Day. Annually we assemble to do honor to ourselves by celebrating the birth of our Regiment and also its worthy past.

None of us here today were "present and participating" at Fort Sheridan, Ill., on that—for us—memorable March 3rd, 1901. It is well, lest we forget, that I sketch for you, on this occasion, briefly, the history of the Regiment, events during the past year and our hopes and ambitions for the new year.

During 1901 and 1902 the Regiment was stationed at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and Columbus Barracks, Ohio. From these stations in 1902 the Regiment departed for the Phillippines and was stationed on the Islands of Cebu, Panay, and Negros. On returning to the States in 1904 Whipple Barracks, Arizona, Forts Douglas and Duchene, Utah, were occupied.

In 1907, the Regiment again sailed from San Francisco for service in the Philippines, where it was stationed at the, then, new post, Fort William McKinley, Rizal Province, which is just out of Manila. Returning from the Islands in 1909 stations were taken up at Forts Jay, Porter, and Niagara, N. Y., from whence the Regiment departed in 1915 for duty in Panama with stations at Camp Gaillard, Culebra, Canal Zone, where, after the outbreak of the World War it guarded the Canal until August 25, 1918, when the departure of the Regiment for the States was begun. Arriving at Camp Beauregard, La., it was Brigaded with the 34th Infantry Brigade of the 17th Division.

The early termination of the War resulted in the demobilization of the 17th Division from which the Regiment was detached on February 4, 1919, for transfer to Camp Shelby, Miss., where it arrived March 8, 1919. At Camp Shelby it operated the demobilization center for the separation from the service of all drafted soldiers living within about 400 miles of that station, and all colored S. O. S. troops of the A. E. F.

On March 23, 1919, the 1st Battalion arrived at this station, where the remainder of the Regiment joined it on October 16, 1919.

So much for the history of the Regiment as made by those who proceded the most of us in its service.

Those of you here today, have by your service helped or hindered (I leave you to judge) during the past year, in making the splendid records to which I refer, with pride.

Commencing in March, units began

THE FORT BENNING BRIDGE CLUB

POLO TOURNAMENT BEGINS SUNDAY

The polo tournament for the championship of Fort Benning, starts on next Sunday and will run through every Sunday in March.

It is the intention that the All-Star Benning team will be selected following the tournament to accept an invitation to attend the tournament held yearly at Pinehurst, N. C. To do this, however, it is necessary to charge admission to the game to be held during the tournament. The east, south and west side of the field at the post has been reserved for members of the officer's club and enlisted men in uniform. The north side of the field has been staked off and parking space will be sold for $1 a game or $2.50 for the season.

Members of the officers club who desire parking space on the north side of the field may obtain reservations at the club.

The Yellows and Eighty-third field artillery "reds" are matched as per the drawings for the first encounter of the tourney, which is to be staged this coming Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The 29th infantry and the Blues will clash the following Sunday afternoon at the same hour.

The lineups for the next Sunday contest follow:

Yellow—Lieutenant Burnett, No. 1; Captain Eggers, No. 2; Major Waite, No. 3; Major Martin (captain) Back.

Artillery—Major Yeager and Lieutenant Gannon. No. 1; Lieutenant Biederlinden, No. 2; Lieutenant Bradbury, No. 3; Lieutenant McCarthy, back.

Annual Address of Col. George S. Goodale

firing on the range; and, we may well point with pride to the record established last year in Rifle Markmanship, with a general average of over 94 per cent. for the Regiment, and 100 per cent. qualifications in Company "E."

Demonstrations, which are witnessed by officers from the Infantry at large, have been of a high order and merit the reputation enjoyed by the Regiment throughout the army, as a Model Infantry Regiment.

All experiments with Infantry equipment and tests of Training and Infantry Drill Regulations are made here and the successes of any such experiments and tests are aided by the cooperation of the personnel of this command.

Repeated commendations are received from the School Staff and visiting officers, as to the splendid character of work done by this or that organization in the Regiment.

There is no stimilus to man as an individual, nor men as an organization, more impelling and invincible than a consciousness of a task well done, and that task the duty at hand. Do the job before you, the best you know how, and the future will take care of itself. It is this spirit of self conscious power, and cooperative effort which made it possible, during the past year, for the 1st Battalion to put on better demonstrations than could be witnessed anywhere else in America; for the 2nd Battalion to make the Fourth Corps Area Training Center at Camp McClellan in 1922 the best in the United States; and for the Special Units, Regimental Headquarters Co., Service Co., and Howitzer Co., to merge parts of themselves into the Battalions to which assigned and through splendid loyal work add to the successes of those Battalions, not to mention the well deserved commendations elicited by those units when demonstrating separately.

We, of the 29th Infantry, pledge to the Commandant our best efforts in the year to come and trust that by our loyalty and cooperation we may render less burdensome and more pleasant his duties and insure for the Infantry School greater and more successful results than in any preceding year.

Motor Transport Notes

Stop, Stop! Listen is that thunder, just then a flash of light, two figures seemingly going towards block 23 then another flash, and behold it was Sergeant Ross and Private Blackshear doing the midnight glide and trying to find their way back to the dispatcher's office.

Staff Sgt. George Williams: "Did you ever feel sleepy late at night? Do you play cards? Did you ever feel hungry after going without food for three days? Did you see strange lights before your eyes when you run into that 5th Ave. stokes motor?

Attention to all gas burners, Stop, look and listen a fast driver with the right of way, and another fast driver who was sure nobody would be using the main thoroughfare.

Private William Dunn (spare parts) "Why it is that you haven't been to the Bama in the past few days?"

"Well, I'll tell you Spike, its like this, the last time that I started to cross the 9th street bridge was at midnight Friday, Feb. 13th, and this being a rather dark night something appeared at a distance of about 20 yards from me that look rather spookey so you know there was no use of me going any further so, this is the reason that I haven't been to the Bama since.

Now we want to know who has the best go with a Miss (X) Private green Smith (Bama Kid) says that he had the best go, just then Private Homer P. Lott (The speed cop) hands Private Smith a note from this Miss (X) the contents read like this Green Smith my dear you have been here but are gone, so it appears that Private Dave Hawkins has the best go.

The field of Sports—

As the baseball season is fast approaching, remember last year we were the old cows tail, so now is the time for action and with the local talent of last year we can do much towards helping the situation.

Artillery Notes

"B" Battery is getting along fine except for Joe Brown's cow boys, who handle cattle so late at night that they can't meet the 1st Sgt. at Reveille.

The boys yell "Sweet Music" when they learn that the old reliable Mess Sergeant is going to reenlist, and if he feeds in the future as he has in the past year, "B" Battery will eat in pleasure three years longer.

We are looking Pvt. Alimondo this week, the boy who takes two years and two months to make a year. Take advice Runt and don't try to retire at that rate, for you will never make it.

Cpl. Morey who has spent two months up in the snow has returned, he reports a fine time. Well Pat we are glad to have you with us again, that means more targets to the credit of Battery "B."

The boys want to know why the Supply Sergeant doesn't growl any more when they ask him for candles, I have solved the puzzle, he visits Columbus four times a week. Who is she Sergeant?

Cpl. Crowson tells us that the new comer, Pvt. Isbell, is one of his old school Pals. Well Bill we hope he doesn't follow your records.

Medical Dept. Notes

First Lieutenant Maude Bowman, Army Nurse Corps, left the 1st of March on a fifteen day leave of absence to be spent in Florida

Second Lieutenant Rose Charvat, Army Nurse Corps, left the 1st of March on a fifteen day leave of absence to be spent in Florida.

Sergeant M. M. Bedenbaugh arrived back for duty Thursday morning, from a nine day furloguh. Sergeant Bedenbaugh is enjoying congratulations on his recent marriage to Miss Carrie Watkins of Hawkinsville, Georgia. Sergeant and Mrs. Bedenbaugh are to reside in Columbubs.

Sergeant V. E. Thompson received notice a few days ago that there was a package at the American Express Office for him. We understand that it is something that he left in Washington on his trip there with patients. The express charges are something over a dollar and we imagine he will remember next time to bring things back with him.

Inf. School Detachment Notes (White)

Just as the Detachment was getting chesty over its aristocracy, our only nobleman, Count von Steinrucken has been reported among the missing. It is rumored that he has gone South.

The ball team has been turning out with more or less regularity. The rainy weather has interfered some but with more sunshine all hands should be on the lot getting ready for another pennant winning season. It's up to the team to work as a team and with cooperation and team work the story of last year will be repeated.

Private Skirboll, our first recruit in some time, has joined the detachment.

The M. P. Company having been disbanded, all the members of that outfit have been transferred to the I. S. D. They will stay on their present duties and until quarters are available will remain in their present location. Lieut. Ziegler has been attached and will have charge of the Military Police Platoon.

The Checker Club of the Second Section, Department of Military Art, met at the Service Club on Sunday Evening, February 25th. The question of forming a Dramatic and Glee Club was put before the Club by its President, Sergeant Max Wolf. This was met with great enthusiasm by the checker club and plans were made to stage several plays in camp in the near future. The Club was very fortunate in securing as director, the Master of the Stage, (Sgt. McCloskey), well known for his wonderful work in the Elks and P. K. O. S. Minstrels. Sgt. McClosey will direct the plays and the camp will enjoy them with such wonderful talent as Sgts. Pander. Valentine, Fitzgerald, Lestcher, Duff, White, Darcy, Tinsley, Jansen, Pregowski, Ellis, Rawlings, Shepard, Walker, Magoni, Strickland, Seybold, Wolf, Courtright, Ward, Kreilick, Heckert, Johnson, (Chester Gray, Dolly), Duncanson and Hoffman. Sergeant Albert Cream, tho not a member of the Club has volunteered his services and will act as Andy Gump in one of the many plays that the Club will put on this season.

29th Infantry News Notes

Pvt. JAMES A. McCLURD,
Co. A. 29th Infantry.

Company "A" is filled with sorrow at the loss of Pvt. James A. McClurd of this organization, who died of disease at the Station Hospital at 10:55 P. M. February 25, 1923, after a very short illness.

Pvt. Fields K. McKinish, who is from the home town of Pvt. McClurd will accompany the remains to his home. The entire company extend their heart-felt sympathies to the bereaved family of Pvt. McClurd.

The funeral of Private McClurd was held at the Post Protestant Chapel on Thursday afternoon. Chaplain Wood officiated and the entire company attended. Full military honors were rendered the deceased.

Company "D"

A story of idealism was unfolded this week when it became known that former Private Lloyd R. Kinsey of this organization had finally reached his home in Iowa following his recent discharge.

On the evening of his separation from the service, Kinsey with hsi travel pay and other funds, started for Columbus. He was a simple trusting soul who felt the call of the soil and his one desire was to meander back to the old homestead. And he was wary of scheming females, jezebels and vampires. So he waited for his train for his natal hearth mumbling the lithany of Dr. Coue that he was getting better and better everyday when suddenly a vision of gaudiness and paint swaggered before him.

"What ho," thought Kinsey.

It is not on record what the lady thought except as deduced from her opening remark.

"Say Kid, where to, and what now?"

"Lady," humbly from Kinsey, "I am a discharged soldier going to my home. I am going back to the farm with my savings."

"Oh, daddywinks," cooed the lady, "oh, goody, goody, let me get right tonight."

"I do not understand your merriment," soberly from Kinsey.

"I am merry old dear," replied the painted witch, "because it is a heavenly night to love. Won't you come and kiss me, huh!"

"Woman," said Kinsey, "I cannot, I cannot, I have never kissed a girl in my life. Oh, I must not, I must not."

Company "E"

A friend of ours who is periodically overcome with great thought no wonders how those ancient Egyptians got along without Suspenders? Stop worrying about that Dadowick, they used ropes those days.

There is one advantage in the long skirts, Baby can now hang onto mother.

Kissing is dangerous and demoralizing says the U. S. Commissioner. That depends on the girl that you have, Eh, Russo.

Pvt. Kinney sure is getting popular these days for he received 41 letters in two days. You sure aught to get a good home out of all those candidates.

Intelligence is declining says Prof. Holstrom of Co. "E" He is supposed to have formed his opinion after a study of the prevailing Prohibition laws.

Hi. Waiter! The head waiter in the fashionable restaurant approached the loud party. Yes sir? Just bring us the best you have on the menu and make it snappy. We are in a hurry, see? Very good sir. The waiter was moving away when another of the party called out, and say waiter just hand us out a few bottles of Cherry-Cola with the food. Stand by and bring out the estables, we have a date over the river. This is Sgts. Mowery and Comeau talking, get that.

"Exactly, sir," replied the waiter. "I'll just warn the other guests."

Who was the criminal that gave Pvt. Evans the chewing-gum. He nearly killed himself when he came in last night.

Company "F"

Day by day in every way our Recreation Room is getting better and better, New ceiling put in lately.

Every afternoon the following remarks may be heard in the Recreation Room; Corp, Sikes: "What are the coordinates?"

Corp. Marcattili: "Did the Lieut. say a contour?"

Sgt. Cooper: "I would arrange my troops accordingly."

Corp. Madura: "Believe me this is deep stuff."

When the non-coms finish with the course in map reading, what they won't know about reading maps, won't be worth knowing.

Dana the tailor is doing a "Russian" business with the men of F. Co. making "Melton" uniforms, everyone a perfect 36.

Bugular Chesser is the "shortest" timer in the Co. he has a little over a week to do it in, don't give a, d— if he ever gets it in, for he is going to re-up once more aren't you Floyd?

Milliron was mistaken for one of the ridge runners recently, he did not know what the reason was. Someone tip him off maybe that saucer shaped hat of his had something to do with it.

Corp. Marcattili: "He say I think I squeeze you, he choke, Judge, vera much."

Sgt. Stephenson's latest remark: "What go North in this weather, not me I'm for the Sunny South, But tell me one thing, where has the sun been the last few morninfis? Very pleasant hitting the deck in the A. M.

Private First-Class Perry would like a litle advice on a very serious matter which is worrying him somewhat; Whether to re-up, or face the cruel world, I would suggest that you take on once more Francis, you know the majority of families have bull dogs in their back yards, so your chances would be very slender.

Graham is afraid he won't get enough to eat by sitting on the same table with Corp. Warner, I suppose that is the reason he (Graham) makes a grand dive for the chow before he gets his seat, which your step or you may grab the floor by mistake.

Company "H"

This company had the pleasure of putting on two demonstrations for General Winans last Tuesday. The three ring circus. Direct and indirect fire problems were the demonstration put on. They were credibly executed.

Two more received their warrants last week. They are Corpls. Brugeman and Biggerstaff. We hope there will be more men who will reach the goal.

This company is soon going on the range. The men now in the company are taking a refreshers course at the school, under Lt. McCoy, so as to be ready for any new men that come in. The Company Commander expects to qualify every one in the company sharpshooter or better.

The Gimme and Have You Got Club is holding a rception tonight. All members in good standing are asked to attend.

There is a man in the company who is very happy nowadays. He's always singing, "Ain't she beautiful, who is she?"

Hdqrs. Co. 2nd Bn.

These notes are submitted in compliance with existing regulations as published in written orders Post and Regimental, verbal orders Bn. C. O. and 1st Sergeant (weekly, the last), as amended by existing circumstances governing the actual existence of news, as controlled by mood and current state of the unreliable mind of the writer, as controlled by the eccentricities of our partially domesticated Remington, the beast of burden.

It might be mentioned as news, that we are preparing for the field meet, March 2nd, and our likely entries are working hard.

Yes, the world continues on its course—while Pvt. Joliff sleeps. Unlucky for the world if it were otherwise, for Joliff has a sticktoit habit.

It looks like Corporal Boyd is about to leave us. Nothing official to announce but he may be detailed on recruiting duty. Sure of one thing, he's a pretty good cobbler, even tho we might be inclined to doubt his possibilities as a recruiter.

Rumors are still keeping us guessing as to the trip Anniston this year. De we or do we not

But Private Krueger has gone ahead of time, with the 2nd Bn. Basketball Team, incidentally we hope to be able to say he was a press agent, and again supposing that he can be represented as such, we fervently hope that the dir troads between here and Camp McClellan are obliterated by May and that the railroads enjoy a better fate.

If Ex-Corporal Merry sees this, we want to let him know that if he's coming, to shake it up. Haven't heard anything about the transfer since we indorsed the application from this office, and if you have the info. spill it. Return and all will be forgiven, lovingly—M. W.

RIGHT HERE AND NOW.

"If happiness be not within and centered in the breast,

You may be good and wise and great, yet never can be blest."

It is a familiar saying in the army that there are two good posts—the one you left and the one to which you are going. Say it as often as you please, but believe it not! Rather realize that never again, this side of Jordan, will you be so young and so capable of the enjoyment of every passing minute as you are right here and now. So long as troops are stationed only in this world no army post will have the parade ground paved with gold or otherwise resemble the celestial abode any more closely than the rest of this mundane sphere does which isn't very much, we'll admit. It is mental suicide to wish one's life away in sighing for some future abode of O. D. bliss. There is no better place than the one which has fallen to your lot-and this applies to all stations beneath the sun.

"A contented spirit is a continual feast." It is more-character and reputation are the most precious posessions of military men and contentment is the foundation of both. No officer ever obtained an above average rating who had a below average liking for his work or the surroundings of his work.

We despise that boorish attitude which would say to the discontented, "If you didn't like it here, why don't you leave? If the army seems irksome, your resignation might be accepted," etc. thru all the varying phrases of malevolence. What we mean to say and what we do say is, 'If you don't like your station, the trouble is only with yourself. Get accustomed to thinking pleasanter thoughts and you soon will begin saying pleasanter things. You will be more contented than you ever were before and therefore you will know more popularity than you otherwise would ever enjoy. Just thank Heaven that your happiness does not depend on the location, equipment or regulations of any army post, to be enjoyed some other where at some other time, but is here, right here and now—"centered in the breast."

OUR ADVERTISERS.

In many lamentable respects, we realize that this sheet is less than a newspaper. In one fine regard, however it is much more. It is a visible manifestation of the sincere friendship which the business men of Columbus, Georgia, bear toward the personnel of Fort Benning. It is no sacrilege to say that, in ordinary secular matters, greater love hath no man than that he will spend his money for a friend. That is exactly what our advertisers are doing and that is the only means by which this paper could ever be published, "Without expense to the United States Government." Let us give credit (as well as get credit) where credit is due."

YOU LOSE IF YOU MISS THIS ONE.

Napoleon was crossing the desert. Evermore fiercely blazed the Egyptian sun and his soldiers were fainting from heat. For days they had had nothing at all to drink and had eaten nothing but mules' tongues which became fried the minute the mules would let them hang out of their months. Anxiously Napoleon scanned the map and then with a cry of joy rushed the bugler out to blow officers' call.

"What is it, Sire," asked Marshall Ney, ever the first to arrive.

"Announce to the troops, said the child of destiny, 'that the Fort Benning Road is only five miles away!"

"What comfort is that to my soldiers," said the bravest of the brave, 'they can't drink the road!"

"Numbskull' came the reply, 'some officers just drove to town and now springs are scattered all over it!"

HOW SLEEP THE BRAVE!

The truth is that we are all as lazy as we are to be but that some have more courage than others.

OUR IDEA OF NOTHING.

To Wear—A stock collar, as issued.
To Feel—The trigger squeeze on a bayonet.
To See—Moving pictures by daylight
To Worry About—The ventilation of a pup tent.
To Do—An assistant Morale Officer
To Eat—Canned Salmon.
To Notice—The cream on the P. X. Milk.
To Lose—The springs off a Ford
To Hear—A sardine saying its prayers.
To Sell—A set of old piston rings
To Tell—I made marksman.
To Buy—Electricity.
To Save—Last Year's auto license.
To Joke About—That guano factory.
To Hope For—The 29th Infantry.

A VOICE FROM THE 29th INF.

Says that pneumonia and the road to town are pretty hard to get over. It also whispers the following,

"More Truth Than Poetry"

When we're living in nice brick quarters and we drill but four hours a day,
And we ride in to town on an asphalt road. I'll be retired, old and gray!

An inquisitive urchin said why:
Can't I look in my ear with my eye?
I know I can do it,
If I put myyself to it
And you never can tell till you try!

WELL, YOU KNOW HOW THEY ARE.

The inspector had spent all morning going over the company fund. When the last voucher was handed him he gave it but one look, frowned, stamped his feet and tore out of the orderly room in a rage.

"What's the matter with it," yelled the anxious Captain.

"Nothing, darn it!" returned the inspector as he continued on his mournful way.

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

Chapter III.

On justice and righteousness, how to get tried, courts and other wonders.

1. Know then, my comrades, that I, Pvt. Solomon, was once a recruit and sinned grievously, yea, all manner of misdoing was mine and afflictions multiplied upon me.

2. Knowest thou of any who unto this day rolleth a joint of stovepipe in his pack that it might be a burden of less weight?

3. Pause not till he be warned that the eyes of a captain are sharp and suspicious altogether and at an unexpected field inspection each hidden thing is brought to light and the ways of wickedness are clearly revealed.

4. Woe to him then in that day when the inspection cometh!

5. He shall be even as I who was tried in my youth and under the 96 Article of War.

6. I was cast into prison and my comrades divided among themselves my raiment which was left in the barracks.

7. And the supply sergeant made all manner of entries on my 637 which I wot not of till much later when the time for my payment was come.

8. At that date it was discovered that the payroll required not my superscription and I was much cast down.

9. Yet not even then did I complain in my heart for the 96th Article of War is just and righteous altogether.

10. At my trial was great compassion showed me and many mercies. and an officer of two week's service was assigned to defend me.

11. Then my soul cried out within me, saying, "Would that my innocence were as great as his and that my heart were as free from knowledge of this sinful world!"

12. Then was I plied with questions by the court and constrained to answer many that were better left unanswered but help I had none.

13. Once indeed did I ope my mouth to speak and render less blameable my offence but my counsel forbad me, saying.

14. Hush, thou fool, for each moment after 4 P. M. that thou requirest the court to listen thou shalt serve an extra month beside that time which thou shalt get anyway!

15. And it was decreed that I would abide for a certain time in that inn of iniquity known of old as Hotel De Teachout.

16. There I bethought me of all the anxiety and woe my offense had brought upon me and I said in my heart.

17. "Verily, he who seeketh to beat the game in the army of Samuel is as one who drinketh that which is brewed in the mountain places by moonlight-his joy is excessive but, alas, endureth not long!"

NATIONAL ANTHEM OF SOMALILAND

(Where the fying fish are singing.)
O, Somaliland, where the palm trees stand
And cast their shade around;
O, in that shade, with a jungle maid,
I'm happy to be found.
Where the joyous native people and the gay orangoutangs
All join hands in one sweet band
And keep time with the tom-tom man
Where the flying fish are singing
As they float by on the breeze
And the rubber bands are playing
'Neath the rubber trees!
How I do love that sunny
Land of cocoanut milk and honey—
Dear old Somaliland!

THIS COULDN'T BE BETTER IF WE'D WRITTEN IT OURSELVES

My Old Ford.

Or my old Ford everybody makes fun,
They say it was born in nineteen one
Maybe it was but this I'll bet,
She's good for many a long mile yet,
The windshield's gone—and the radiator leaks,
The fan belt slips and the horsepower squeaks.
She shakes the screws and the nuts all loose.
But I get 40 miles on a gallon of juice.
When I can't get gas I burn kerosene
And I've driven home on Paris green.
She has a rattle in front and a grind in the rear,
And a Chineses puzzle for a steering gear,
Her coils are dead and her plugs won't fire,
And her piston rings are baling wire,
But in spite of this she pulls me thru,
And that's about all my car can do
With high-priced cars they give you tools,
Some extra parts and a book of rules,
Some wire stretchers and a pair of shears.
Are all I have carried in 15 years.
And if I live to see the day
She falls to pieces like the one horse shay,
If old Hank Ford stays in the game.
I'll buy another by the same durn name.—Pathfinder.

FORGIVE US, MR. KIPLING!

(This isn't the road to Mandalay, we're talking about, anyway.)
Past that spicy Guano Warehouse,
Heading eastward to the Fort,
Is a Howard motor chuggin'
And I know its got a "short."
See the bloomin' thing a 'stoppin'
Passengers all hold their nose
And the chaffeur dons his gas mask.
While the fragrance round him bolws
Refrain.
O, then aint no Eastern smells
From that Guano plant that swells
Blowing stronger every minute—
It aint myrrh nor asphodels!
It aint frankincense or nard,
But it's kinda like old lard,
That is seasoned with good garlic
And the bloomin' stuff dies hard!
Yes, it lingers on their clothes,
And it dynamites their nose,
The tears start to their eyelids
While they hope the bus soon goes—
O, why does it always stop
In that overwhelming spot
Till all are saturated.
With, "The reason cotton grows?"

There once was a Private, First-Class
Who went to his home town on pass,
His best girl loudly cried
When his chevron she spied,
Thank God, you're a Sergeant at last!

An admirer of K-K-K-Kate
Was granted a d-d-d-date,
He waited all night
And by dawn's early light
Said, "I guess she's l-l-l-late!

A very stout lady named Helen
Once purchased a large watermelon
In the crook of her arm,
To protect it from harm,
It looked like an olive, I'm tellin'.

One of Howard's chaffeurs named Sweet
Always would stand up to eat.
When his folks asked him why
He said, with a sigh,
I have corns but they're not on my feet

A bootlegger making some "rye"
With raisins the bottle filled high.
Later on in the week,
While just "taking a peek"
The stopper blew up in his eye!

A sergeant while drilling recruits,
Tore out all his hair by the roots,
He yelled "Squad Right" and "Left!"
Till of reason bereft.
By such awkward and clumsy galoots!

Once a Mess Sergeant had a good hunch
(There was nothing to serve up for lunch)
So he cleaned up the floor—
Scraped the paint off the door—
And thus made slum enough for the bunch!

There once was a company clerk,
Who all of his studies would shirk.
When a letter came in
He would say with a grin
"It's too bad the tpyewriter won't work."

GIVES LAWN PARTY.

(Special to the Fort Benning News)

Omar Khayyam, the well known manufacturer of pup tents who maintains extensive factories both at Naishapur and Babylon was the host of the Tank Battalion at a delightful lawn party given last Thursday evening in the grove adjoining the glue factory of Ahstoo Upolbhones. Loaves of tempting bread and jugs of refreshing wine were distributed among the guests and a feature of the evening was the reading from a book of verse, written by the host himself, which has been highly commended by the literary critics of Atlanta and LaGrange. M'amselle Shireen, star of the Babylonian Opera Comique, sang in most exquisite manner an original lyric in praise of Tanks and Tanking which was heartily applauded by all officers present.

HUNT BREAKFAST.

On Thursday morning, there was a Paper Chase, the hunters leaving the Polo club at eight o'clock and returning for a hunt breakfast.

Major Sumner Waite came in first among the men, and Miss Ruth Schoffel among the ladies. There were a few spills but no serious hurts.

About one hundred guests were present at the breakfast which was served on the inside of the club and on the porches.

MAJOR F. W. BRABSON HOST AT DINNER.

Major F. W. Brabson was the cordial host at one of the prettiest dinner parties given recently.

The affair took place last Friday evening at the Officer' club mess, preceding the hop.

The George Washington motif was carried out in the handsome decorations of the table. Red and white snapdragons filled low bowls, and were interspersed with candles shaded with George Washington shades. The place cards were little hatchets.

The invited guests were: General and Mrs. Gordon, General W. M. Fassett, Miss Fassett, Colonel and Mrs. Peyton, Major and Mrs. J. W. Rumbough, Major Maxwell Murray (office chief of field artillery, Washington), Major W. H. Jones, of Brackenburk, Ky., Major Arthur Underwood, Mrs. Underwood, Miss Underwood, Colonel and Mrs. George S. Goodale, Major and Mrs. Herdenbergh, Major and Mrs. Elliott, Major and Mrs. Musgrove, Major and Mrs. Crawford, Major and Mrs. MacMurray, Major and Mrs. Leroy Watson, Miss Gertrude Malone, Miss Ann Lumpkin, Miss Louise Garrard, Major and Mrs. M. C. Mitchell, Colonel M. C. Keth, Captain and Mrs. Whittemore, Lieut. Jeff Box, Lieut High Davis, Lieut. and Mrs. Raaen, Mrs. Helen Butler, Major and Mrs. McCormack, Lieut. an dMrs. James A. Lewis, and others.

MISS RUTH SCHOEFFEL'S BUFFET SUPPER

As a compliment to Lieut. and Mrs. Wiley V. Carter whose marriage was a recent event of interest, a delightful buffet supper was given on last Friday evening by Miss Ruth Schoeffel, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Schoffel.

The Wynnton home of the Schoffel's was prettily adorned with narcissi and a tempting supper was served, after which the guests went to the hop at Fort Benning.

Those present were Colonel and Mrs. Schoffel, Major and Mrs. Hall, Captain and Mrs. Wilburn, Lieut. and Mrs. Carter, Captain and Mrs. Martin, Captain and Mrs. Switzer, Captain and Mrs. Lyons, Lieut. and Mrs. Winn, Captain Ready, Lieut. Just before going on furlough Piotrowski said "I do" for three years. While on furlough he said "I do" for life. Explain it? Well fools there was, fools there are and fools there will always be. Congratulations Joe.

Boys let me draw your attention to Pvt. Shane. Just look at him. Since he has been Mail Orderly his face is washed and his hair is combed nearly all the time. Now this is hard to explain unless it is caused by perspiration.

Last Saturday's inspection proved that we had some real soldiers. Everybody was bucking, even Sergeant Brown had his collar ornaments on.

Pvt. Smith and Pvt. Everhart has resigned their positions on the manure wagon and have returned to straight duty. Smith said "what's the use, no matter where you go, you get it."

They say the mess fund is in the hole. The only explanation I can give for this, is that Wise has been seen at breakfast twice last month.

We are loosing our famous sleuth next month. Tim said "he wais going to his old position with the Scotland Yard in Bingville, Pa., owing to the fact that the police force died last week and Tim is going to take His place.

Pvt. Galvin (Vicent Astor's only rival) our noted spendthrift, was on the way to the bathhouse for his annual bath, it was noticed he carried enough toilet articles to start a young drug store. Galvin says "If rain makes everything beautiful, why don't it rain on me?" It does Galvin, but that Woolworth toilet water you use, is enough to discourage a tidal wave.

The other day Pvt. Hendricks was seen with his head in a G. I. can, shouting at the top of hi svoice "Cpl. Hendricks, Cpl. Hendricks, Cpl. Hendricks, when asked why he was doing this, he said, "I just wantel to know how it sounded."

History of 7th Engineers

War Department.
Washington, Feb. 14, 1919.
General Orders, No. 26.

Awards of Distinguished Service Cross.—By direction of the President, under provisions of the act of Congress, approved July 9, 1918 (Bul. No. 43, W. D., 1918), the distinguished-service cross was awarded by the Commanding General American Expeditionary Forces, for extraordinary heroism in action in France, to the following named officers and enlisted men of the American Expeditionary Forces:

Patrick P. Higgins, Company "B", 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Cunel, France, October 20, 1918. While making a reconnaissance within the enemy lines this soldier assisted in capturing an enemy machine gun nest which was harassing the party. Under heavy machine-gun fire he gave first aid treatment to a wounded soldier, and when the officer in charge of the detachment was wounded he bound up the latter's injuries and carried him 2 kilometers through heavy machine-gun and shell fire to an aid station.

War Department
Washington, March 11, 1919.
General Orders No. 37.

Awards of Distinguished Service Cross.—By direction of the President under the provisions of the act of Congress approved July 9, 1918. (Bul. No. 43, W. D., 1918), the distinguished-service cross was awarded byy the Commanding General, American Expeditionary Forces, for extraordinary heroism in actiion in Europe, to the following-named officers and enlisted men of the American Expeditionary Forces and of the Allied Forces:

Elmer W. Highley, sergeant. Medical Detachment, 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Nantillois, France, October 13, 1918. Although wounded, he remained on duty after his battalion had passed on and the other troops in the vicinity had been forced into dugouts, giving first aid and directing and evacuation of his wounded comrades on a heavily shelled road.

David A. Oliphant, sergeant, Company "A", 77th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action at Romagne, France, October 14, 1918. By his energy, initiative, and courage he located several machine-gun nests and captured nine prisoners and an anti-tank gun when sent out with three other soldiers to locate the enemy positions.

Eugene P. Walker, sergeant, Company "D", 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Vurdun, France, November 4, 1918. When three boats in a pontoon bridge across the Meuse River were destroyed by artillery fire, he volunteered and waded into the river under heavy shell fire and by holding up the deck until new boats were launched and placed in position, although under great physical strain, permitted the uninterrupted crossing of the infantry.

Robert E. Crawford, corporal, Company "D", 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Verdun, France, November 4, 1918. When three boats in a pontoon bridge across the Meuse River were destroyed by artillery fire he volunteered and waded into the river under heavy shell fire and, by holding up the deck until new boats were launched and placed in position, permitted the uniterrupted crossing of the infantry.

Walter S. Sevalia, corporal, Company "F", 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heorism in action near Brieulles, France, November 3, 1918. He swam the Meuse River with a cable for a pontoon bridge under direct machine-gun fire. Later he carried a cable for another bridge over the Est Canal, across an open field covered by enemy machine guns. Here he was wounded by a machine-gun bullet, but returned carrying a message of great importance.

Fred A. Crowe, private, Company "D," 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Cunel, France, October 14, 1918. He crawled forward under fire from machine guns and snipers and killed two Germans who were operating a machine gun in a tree.

ITS NEVER TOO LATE TO LEARN

As was the case with Danny Deever, they were hanging Rastus Johnson in the morning only it was for the murder of a mother-in-law. Rastus stood silent while the sheriff adjusted the trigger squeeze of the trap, blindfolded him and slipped the noose over his neck. Finally the sheriff said, Rastus, haven't you anything to say before you go?

"No, boss," said Rastus, "Ah ain't got nothing to say only Ah knows that this is sho gwine teach me a lesson."

15th Tank Battalion News

(Basketball)

It is better to give a kindly word, than a blow, and to know that we have by kind dealings stirred the I. S. D. Basketeers our opponets to exert themselves to the fullest capacity in order to come out victors by a small margin. It may cause a little wound to lose a hard fought game, but grit with us is meat, and this will heal the wound. The eagerness of the Tankers was the approximate cause of their defeat, as it was the referee deemed it fit to class our plays as boarding on rough nature and dealt us the usual penalties, and the points accumulating against us therefrom exceeded the difference between the final score. It is here for us to consider that several members of our team are new at the game, and we cannot but express in view of the above, our appreciation of the many victories credited to their earnest efforts. We are bound to meet obstacles, which for obvious reasos cannot be overcome. Our endeavors must be ever onward, slowly but surely, remembering that Rome was not built in a day.

Bledsoe has returned for duty and is hopping around on one foot, we suggest that the next time he loads his pistol while on camp guard that he kneel down so as to get his feet out of the way.

---

It has been suggested that we publish a "Who's Who" in the Battalion. So be it. With the hope that it will be accepted in the friendly spirit in which it shall be written we will give our conception of a battalion blue-book, we will take one man per week.

---

Rushing, Coy Cushing No. 6324967 —Corporal—a rip snorting, fire-eating, hot towel spreading, grab-your-dough son of a gun. A razor slinging clipper of the new school. Rushing, for reasons we are unable to explain is proprietor, custodian of funds and commander-in-chief of the butcher shop located in the south-east corner of "C" Company's dayroom, known as the barber shop, and noted for its extensively advertised slogan "One chair, no waiting." Rushing himself is motorman and operating surgeon in charge, to which most innocent and unsuspecting members of "C" company are directed in order to receive credit. We shall not linger upon what transpires while one is under the mystic spell of Rushings most slippery tongue and one way razor, and pass on to an appraisal of his value to the battalion, which he serves by operating what he is pleased to term a barber shop. It is the Corporals one ideal to help make "C" Company's street the worlds busiest thoroughfare, and it is reported he is quite willing to move if by so doing he will hurry along a realization of his dream.

"A" Company.

Well another country heard from, things are getting lively in the company science the 1st Sgt. has taken over the duties of company clerk for he is in a rage all the time. He says "Liberty for Ireland and down with the penpushers." He cleams that he came fresh from Ireland and has kissed the Blarney Stone three times, but we think he is full of bunk and hails from Comarls, Ala.

---

Pvt. Wright came in the other morning some time between the early hours of 4:30 A. M. and 5:00 A. M. he had a gash on his forehead, he gave us a long story about falling down and hitting his head against a stone, but along came the Jerusalem Jew "Shafer" and spilt the beans about him being kissed with an Ala. brick. Don't try and put anything over on us again like that Wright.

---

Young and Higgenbotten had a fight over in the mess the other morning, Higgenbotten eyes looked as if he had dobbed a shoe brush in them. He punched Young's stomach a couple of times, but it was too hard for he had been eatiing some of Buffington's buns.

---

Cpl. Chamble has returned from furlough. My, but he sure is skinny. You had better stay around for awhile and get a few square meals.

---

Pvt. Strickland wishes to announce that he will draw a full pay this month and will not call around to pay his respect to the guard house.

---

Red Linsey is still with us and will no doubt be for some time. The other night some one yelled, "Oh, look at the new moon," and of course Red raised up out of his bed and yelled, "hut up."

---

Company "B".

The 1923 baseball lid has been pried off in the Battalion, Co's A, B, C, and Hdqts. are all out tossing the old apple around, and it looks like there will be a many hard fought game this year.

---

The Bureau of war risk insurance, can sure pick quite a few applicants if they could send an agent around when the company team is at baseball practice.

---

Wonder what it was they fed in the light company's mess, that had them moving around so fast last night.

---

Our power plant has had a wreck or something. What's the reason Petite?

---

Say Hicks, did the kiss from that "Indian Squaw" taste anything like garlic?

---

The new rest room of the company is sure being well patronized, and, Oh Boy! the pool table is sure clicking off the dough, keep it up fellows, we need the money.

---

It has been noticed that since milk has been put on sale in the mess, that the coffee has been getting blacker and blacker.

---

Wonder where the "Top kick" is going to spend that re-enlistment furlough? Some where in God's country—Okllahoma.

---

Bugs you can have two if you re-up, and he took two, how about it Nap?

---

Foot print Conroy has lost his political job, and is once more seen shuffling around the tank park. You should hear his straight eight when he steps on it.

---

Little Eva's "Sweet Daddy" is now among the early risers of this company. His hour of bidding goodbye to the god Morpheus is in the neighborhood of five thirty.

---

Well "O'le Bill" has reformed. He has not been to church for about two weeks, tell us what's wrong Bill .

---

So long Mary. Take care of yourself or we'll lose another one of the best ends that ever stepped on a Benning football field.

Service Club No. 1 Notes

The program dance held at the Service Club last Wednesday evening Feb. 21st, was a decided success. The programs were beautifully decorated with George Washington's picture, and the words Fort Benning, on each folder. The programs will serve as a lasting souvenir of the first program dance held at the Srevice Club this season. The refreshments, consisting of Orangeade and Angel food, were thoroughly enjoyed by all present. There were a number of visitors present, among the mbeing General Gordon, Lieut. and Mrs. Brandhorst, Ser. and Mrs. Kenney, Mrs. Chandler and others.

The Women's Club met last Thursday at 2:00 P. M. in their club rooms at the Service Club when it was voted to change the name of the club to B. F. C.'s, the former name being considered too common for so great an organization, so in the future when you see B. F. C.'s in this column please be advised that it is the NEW Wowen's Club and not Bakers First-Class .

It has been noticed that a larger number of men are using the Service Club as a rendezvous in the evenings and we wonder whether it is the home like atmosphere of the club or the Hostesse's winsome smile that brings them there, it is thought to be both.

The Service Club Committee held their regular meeting last Monday evening at Seven o'clock with President Bjornstol in the chair. Ser. Bjornstol makes a good president if he would just keep Eats off his mind.

Attention One and All—The B. F. C.'s will hold their Cabaret Thursday evening, March 8th, at eight o'clock in the Service Club. Admission will be fifty cents which will include a place at a table, ice cream, cake and the intertaining. Children will be admitted at half-price and babies-in-arms free.

Those who miss this Cabaret will be missing a real treat so come and bring your friends.

The Soldier's Glee Club met last Tuesday evening at Seven o'clock with Mrs. Thomas at the piano.

On Friday evening, March 9th, a Checker Tournament will be held in the south room of the Service Club and any man who can move checkers, even with a stick, is requested to be on hand.

The regular weekly dance held Wednesday evening at the Service Club was enjoyed by all.

RESTRINGING TENNIS RACKETS.

The following is quoted for the information of the garrison from a bulletin issued by the Officer's club. As usual John Hess is on the job.

"We have arranged to render service to members of the Club on restringing tennis rackets. An expert in this line is now in Columbus and we have closed a contract with him to do this work. Rackets left at the Club on one day will be ready for delivery the second day thereafter. For example, a racket left at the Club on Monday before 4:00 P. M. will be ready for you on Wednesday morning. These prices will prevail:

|---|---|
| Armours Super Special Orange Cut | $6.00 |
| Armours Special Lamb Cut | $5.00 |
| Special Grade Cut | $3.75 |
| Good Quality Cut | $2.50 |

The club not only has arranged for the above but it has tennis balls, golf balls, baseballs, and other seasonable athletic equipment for sale at reduced prices."

ADVERTISERS' COLUMN

The Fishing Tackle Store.

The other day we went into Max Rosenberg's place and the first thing we saw was a goodly array of fishing tackle. There were minnows, spoons, bacon rin, reels, hooks, lines, rods, and everything else except grub worms. Leo met us with his usual smile, which always makes us feel good, by the way—and told us about the man they had secured at an enormous salary to restring tennis rackets. We did not believe we could get a tennis racket restrung within twenty-four hours but when Maurice assured us that he was stringing us we took his word for it. Rosenberg's is the only place nearer than Atlanta to get a racket strung and as the wor kis guaranteed and Rosenberg is a good advertiser it might be well to look into the matter. This is the only place in Columbus where a polo mallet can be bought. They carry the Meurisse line.

The Automobile Paint Store.

Now that Spring is about upon us we are seriously considering giving the old bus a new coat of paint and what we need in this line the Beach-Mosely Hardware Co. has. This concern carries everything from an artists' brush to a kalsomine brush and when you walk in the door they make you feel at home. Their line of varnishes and paints-which includes automobile enable—is a good one as we can vouch for from personal experience. Incidentally, of course, they have just about any kind of tool a fellow needs to keep the bus in shape over the Fort Benning road and if you haven't the cash (glory be) they'll charge it to your account. This is a good place to buy.

A Musical Store.

Beside going fishing and painting the bus another Spring is going to do to us is make us want some new victrola records. With this end in view we walked into Humes Music Company to find Wilkinson and see him about this weighty matter. As usual he advised that he had just what we were looking for and when we asked for something jazzy and wit hlots of pep he assumed a dreamy expression, put "Kiss me again," on the machine, and "Let 'er ride." Of course after this we had to buy this record together with several others he convinced we should have. Humes sells victrolas and does not lose interest in his patron after the sale. Incidentally this concern has supported the News ever since its foundation.

The New Tailor and Designer.

The ladies of the garrison are going to need new clothes before long and The Ladye is in position to furnish the latest styles. That such a store has been established in Columbus is proof positive that this city is growing. The Ladye claims something "different and exclusive" and the ladies of the garrison who have been depending on the Washington and New York designers now have to go no further than Columbus. Ladies are invited to call and inspect costumes whether they buy or not.

Recruiting News Notes

Our big recruiting drive is now under way and it is the intention of all concerned to gathed at least 100 recruits into the fold. Major Heidt has been busy all week coaching his men, and unless the writer is badly deceived we are going to get results, and boys we need'em. Our agent in town Sgt. Finney made a special effort yesterday sent out prospects but two of them got cold feet after they had talked with some of our buddies around the camp Now that is not the right spirit, if you have a grouch against the Army ketp it to yourself and let the men coming in find the disagreeable side, things out for themselves. We are appealing to all you buddies in camp to get behind us and push this Recruiting Drive over big.

1st Bn. Hg. Co.

Pvt. Vaughn seems to be worrying about his complexion of late. The other day, while washing dishes in the kitchen, he was heard to ask Pvt. McDonough whether he thought the steam would hurt his complexion. The writer having taken precautions to secure authentic information on this subject, wishes to reassure Pvt. Vaughn on this point, and sooth his mental strain. No, Pvt. Vaughn, the steam, according to our facial experts, is considered extremely beneficial to the complexion. We hope this information will be received in the same spirit it is given.

NOTES FROM CO. "B" 29th INF.

Corporal Curtis has gone out of business in the show ticket line since the night he tried to sell a few to the 29th Infantry Chaplain and his words are something like this, "Boys you know I felt so embarrassed." That is alright Flap-Jacks, there is no one that thinks much about it and I am sure that there is no one loosing any sleep.

There are several of the men who are cut for the prizes in the Regimental meet and there is good prospects of winning all but one trace and that one is the One Hundred yard dash, as they have Sgt. Willingham running it.

I see that Cpl. Sutton has another bottle of Chow-Chow, will someone enlighten our minds as to where it all comes from as it seems that he has all there is in Georgia.

Pvt. Short seems to be in love as there is not a moment in his life that there is not a smlie on his face and he is all the time mummering some name that sounds very much Femine. What about it Short.

Cpl. Close, known by most friends as Bunny, is going to illustrate and demonstrate to the world at large that there in more than Close to him if they don't stop calling him Bunny.

Pvt. Freeman had the pleasure of going to the kitchen and giving a part of his spare time to the duty of washing dishes and scrubbing the floor after the supper of the 26th, I would love to know what is wrong.

COMPANY "C" 29th INFANTRY.

Conditions are very good in the Company at present, Mechanic Parmigiani is ready for duty now, the other half of his finger has grown out again.

Cpls. Smithson and Rankin are struttin' around talking about the Recruits they are going to bring in, "But they will have to show us."

First it was a sore toe then a sore throat, What Next? ask Pvt. Moore.

Whose de Guy what gets discharged March the 6th. "Duslack, Duslack, Rah! Rah! Rah!

Pool Sgt. Brewton is now having his troubles, go ahead Brewt. you will make a good room Orderly.

A rabbit stew festival was held in the Co. Barber Shop last Sunday night Wonder who made the stew.

COMPANY "G" 29th INFANTRY

Company "G," 29th Infantry, is now mourning the absence of one of their best "All-around," athletes, Pvt. Morris, who sustained a lame back, while out practicing with the "Wall Scaling Squad." He is now in our Post Hospital.

Everybody is all set for the big Field Meet, which is to be held on the 2nd of March. Even our Honorable Mess Sergeant, Sgt. Johnson, is planning on giving us a surprise by giving us a real Feed, on that day. Good for you Sergeant.

Company "G," seems to be well represented on the Camp Varsity Baseball Team. We even have a good man out for a Hind Catcher, he seems to be a litlte awkward and his feet ape be a little awkward and his feet apwriting, but with the proper training and coaching, it is hoped he will make good.

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS AND HEADQUARTERS CO 29th Infantry.

Regimental Headquarters Company, is still alive and kicking stronger than ever, that is kicking for the best, altho we have neglected submitting our weekly information to fill our space alloted to us by the "Benning News" Pardons "Mr. Editor," but from now on we must have a larger space alloted to the "Brains of the Regiment."

Our competitors meaning the Service Company, 29th Inf. attention is invited to the old story of the "Golden Goose," and the well known slogan "Don't count your chickens before they hatch." for after prediction, some times regret and sorrow.

A few days ago a certain Stable Sergeant remarked to our Top Kick, "Jimmie have you got any black paint?"

Regimental Headquarters Co. does not claim to boast the best horses in the Post, but what few we have are going to do their best in the Regimental Field Meet, there is more truth than poetry in "Its not always the horse, but the Man that rides him," and we have some very exceptional riders.

The peanut growers have begun to sell peanuts by the dozen now, and we get approximately fifty peanuts for ten cents, "and now our twenty one dollar soldiers" can't afford to buy many peanuts.

Regimental Headquarters Co. and Howitzer Co. boasts the best Mess in the Regiment, and we have to hand it to our Mess Officer, Mess Sergeant, and Cooks, for they know how to handle our Mess.

Many of the men of the Company, have been very much worried, for a few days ago information was received that there was not a Bean in the Commissionary for the time being.

We have a man in the Company that make the one hundred yard dash in less than eleven seconds, and is doing better every day, maybe if Spike can keep up the good work he will be able to dash it in less than nothing.

And another thing the Company is well represented with a "Shot Putter," but his distance and ability is saved for the fans on the "Big Day."

SERVICE CO. 29th INFANTRY

The other day a clerk of the Regimental Personnel Section was stopped by a man from the corral and in addition to the customary greeting asked him (the clerk) what he was doing these days. Oh, nothing much replied the pencil pusher, except that I am taking part in the preparation of pay rolls, keeing the pay cards up to date —including the entering of pay data thereon, handling insurance and allotments, distributing officers pay vouchers, collecting for the laundry, preparing special orders, maintaining an up-to-date locator card system for enlisted men and officers of this Regiment, preparation of Morning Reports, submission of Reports of Changes, keeping records filed up to date, keeping a complete supply of all sorts of blank forms, checking of discharge papers, answering the 'Phone 50 times a day, handling corresponding pertaining to the personnel of the Regiment, keeping an up to date index on all orders, circulars, bulletins, etc., keeping a separate record on special duty men, promotions reductions and transfers of enlisted men and mailing and keeping a complete record of all records sent the A. G. O. I must go now, Old Timer, next time we meet I'll tell you what other duties the Personnel Section performs, preparing strength returns, figuring rations, etc.

History of 29th Infantry

After the Seventeenth Division had been dissolved the 29th remained at Camp Beauregard, La. until the Camp was closed and then, in March, 1919, moved, as per orders, to Camp Shelby, Miss. Within a few days the first Battalion was ordered to Camp Benning, Ga. The rest of the Regiment remained at Camp Shelby until the work of demobilizing the many thousands of troops from that part of the South was completed. Then, in October, 1919, this portion of the 29th proceeded to Camp Benning to become part of the Infantry School Troops.

The years that have followed at this station, now Fort Benning, have been full ones. The Regiment has taken a lead in all the work of the school. Its activities, accomplishments, successes as well as its trials and tribulations have been too numerous to mention but with it all has come the consciousness of work well done, success achieved, well earned and deserved plaudits showered upon it, leaders of men developed with in the Regiment and a tremendous contribution to the work of making leaders of men in the Infantry branch of the service.

Fort Benning is a healthy place. The Regiment has not suffered from sickness, to speak of. It is a good place to develop character. Something about the place that one is not aware of at the time of service here makes one feel after he has been away for a time that he wants to get back to Benning.

The Twenty Ninth always has been a happy outfit. It is happy today.

MEETING OF SOJOURNERS CLUB.

On Friday evening, March 9th, 1923, at the Officers' Mess, Biglerville, there will be an organization meeting of the Sojourners Club.

At this time there will be an address by General Fries, National President of the Sojourners Club and at this time the charter for the local club will also be presented.

The Sojourners Club is composed of Officers, and those who have held commissions in the past, in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, National Guard, O. R. C. and other branches of the military establishment who are Master Masons.

The meeting on March 9th will last from 8:00 to 10:00 P. M. It will be in the nature of a smoker and the personnel of the command coming under the classifications mentioned above are invited to be present.

PROTESTANT CHAPEL.

The addition to the Post Protestant Chapel was opened with appropriate services on Wednesday evening of last week at the close of the mid-week prayer and Lenten service. One large room to be used on Sundays for the Men's Bible Class, taught by Major McMurray, is open every night for the use of the men of the Post, for social entertainment. Reading, writing and game tables are provided, also victrola Here song services are frequently held by the Chaplain.

O, FOL DE ROL LOL!

Said the stork as he rushed to our station,
"That Fort Benning beats all creation,
The officers now
Raise more young ones, I vow,
Than the weevils, when 'twas a plantation."

Co. "D" 24th Infantry.

Co. "D" is making great progress in their instruction. Capt. E. C. Callahan, the best Machine Gun officer in Fort Benning, with the cooperation of his Non-commissioned Officers will bring Co. "M" up to the standard.

---

Pvt. Washington, the Company "joker" is forever trying to tease "Jello" by explaining the backward movement of the Bolt. That's alright "Jello" we know you have two diplomas and can explain all movements of the gun.

---

Pvt. Cotton, better known as "Curley" was seen going to the blocks a few nights ago, he says he has a new fort and is chief in Command. Watch your self old boy or someone will come in while you are away and relieve you of command.

---

Pvt. Law, the "Invisible" is forever trying to dodge to keep anybody from seeing where he goes. Never mind trying to cover your tracks anymore old top, "Boo Reese" has spied your hold card.

---

Co. "E" 24th Infantry.

Ex-Mess Sgt. Newitt Vanhook of Co. "E" 24th Inf., will serve the first lunch at the opening of the new 24th Inf. Officers' Club, Wednesday Night, Feb. 26, 1923. Vanhook has been serving for the officers for the last nine (9) years and is well experienced in the same.

He is preparing a cake that will be 2 1-2 ft. high. This cake will be decorated as only the capable Vanhook alone can decorate. This cake will be shown at the retirement party of Staff Sgt. James Davies Service Co. 24th Infantry.

Vanhook is well skilled in domestic science.

I wonder what is the matter with Private 1st Class Thomas (GOOG) Brown these days, seems to be all smiles. Well after about thirty hot years in the fight it would make anything feel good to know that those awful papers are about to leave here for the final returns.

---

Memorandum:

The hustlers will be glad to know that we have with us again Sgt. Frank L. (Jack) Francis, who has been on a furlough for the past three months He is at present performing the duties of steward at the 24th Infantry Officers Club. Stick around Jack for the time isn't long when you will be reporting to the topkick of the world for duty.

Sergt. Fisher (The Big Fish) was seen in the blocks a few days ago, Lookout Trooper, remember that you are not on the border now.

Sgt. Butler (Kid'O) Says that George Washington was the father of his country and an honest man, but they close all banks on his birthdays.

Look out Childs, the boys say you have drank so much "Chattahoochee Phosphate" until when you die they won't have to bury you, all they have to do is to pour you back in the jug.

---

Sgt. Handy (Twilight) has a civilian suit, he has to put the pants on with a pair of pliers.

---

Reserve this space for the critics, who can always suggest but never give us any news.

---

Co. "K" 24th Infantry.

1st Sgt. Benton was heard pleading to the boys of Co. "K" not to think that this would be the only pay day in the Army, for there is always one coming.

---

Sgt. Belser, (pa perkins) is planing to start a rumage sale, to dispose of the articles seized for taxi fare, such as, Hats, Caps, Stockings, Handkerchiefs, and Ties, (for either sex.)

---

Corporal Overstreet is well named. He is well oversize, and for some weeks past has been overlord of a certain detail. Watch your step and don't get over confident or it will be overalls for yours. The regiment is overstrength in corporals.

---

CO. "H" 24th INFANTRY.

Reporter's Note—Under this column last week appeared a poem for which the credit of composition is due 1st Sgt. Goode. Those who noted this omission will soon again be favored with a contribution.

It seemed hardly fair to give to 1st Sgt. Goode in 1923 credit for a poem written by Willaim Knox. We never knew why the spirit of mortal should seek to be so proud, anyway. Send us more than one joke next time.—Editor.

Co. "L" 24th Infantry.

Wake up Sgt. Scott, why so many Beef Hearts, every day is not Valentine.

---

Private Robert Stubbs alias (Fronia) has started to getting his old wing in action. You should hear the old joints crying for some oil. Look out pitchers.

---

Private 1-c Douglass King (Tender foot) was taking his first lesson on sighting. The instructer gave him a sighting bar and asked the participant what the same was called. He answered, "the same was a sight seer."

---

Private George Henry has been promoted from General Gold Bricker to President of the 24th Infantry's L. O. C. association.

Continue your good work boy, only one more promotion to get.

Private Tolbert Harris (Bugler of Company "L" 24th Inf.) awoke from his slumber to find himself on guard and sounded first call at 4:00 A. M. The Officer of the Day asked what was the idea. After Harris had found that he had no excuse, he stood gazing at the Officer of the Day still asleep.

The Officer of the Day told him to sound something that would put them back in bed. Harris then sounded Lie down—Lie down after which he was then decorated by the Company with shelayles of all descriptions.

Private Williams Troup was asked from whence did man come.

His answer was that he did not know but if some didn't walk straight it would be much easier to tell where they were going.

"TOUTE DE SUITE"
(Toot Sweet)

Everybody get out the glad rags or fatigue clothes and give a boost for the Charles S. Harrison Post No. 35, American Legion show to be pulled off in Columbus at the Springer Opera House Monday and Tuesday, March 5th and 6th.

We promise that you will have the time of your life and will laugh more than you have in ages. There will be 50 talented actors in this shebang of which will be the prettiest girls obtainable in Columbus.

Some of the best talent obtainable has been drafted and an expert in laugh making is here with us directing the whole works.

Tickets can be obtained from any member of the Legion or your orderly room. They only cost the small sum of $1.00 or $1.50 and when you have seen the works you will think that the Legion has been cheated.

If you will help us put across this show some of your old buddies will be helped in more ways than one. We have just started furnishing a club room where you can come and enjoy your evenings in town and all of your buddies who are not as lucky as you can come and get acquainted and get help. Remember that our motto is "Help the fellow that is down and out."

NEW BRITISH DEBT REFUNDING MEASURE.

Approved by Congress

When the British Debt Refunding Commission arrived in the United States at the beginning of the New Year they were able to convince the American Debt Commission that great Britain was unable to pay her debt to the United States within twenty-five years as was provided in the Act passed by Congress at the close of the World War.

The American and British Commissions got together and devised a plan whereby Great Britain could pay and forther agreed to pay. The sum and substance of which is that Great Britain will pay four per cent. of her debt plus the interest each year. This plan will cover a period of sixty-two years. This new plan was approved by Congress shortly before it adjourned.

The big thing about this plan is that not only have we a definite agreement with England on the Refunding plan but it is expected that this will pave the way so that agreements can be made with the other European Countries that are indebted to us.

CENTRAL AMERICA

(Form Another Five Power Treaty.)

Recently Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, and Costa Rica concluded a "Five Power Treaty" that will make the Central American Countries a very peaceable place now.

The treaty that these powers signed is in general as follows:

To maintain peace between themselves.

If a "Coup d'etat" takes place or a person is elected who des not possess the constitutional qualifications the new government will not be recognized by the other Countries.

Each nation agreese not to interfere in a civil war raging nor to interfere in the politics in one of the countries other than itself.

Not to permit the formation of a revolutionary movement within the

PRIZE CONTEST

Steam Heated Ear Muffs Will Be Given Clever Contributor.

Here's how it came about. At the last meeting of the Major's Mutual Protective Association, Major Sweatshop happened to mention that the day before he had bought a bag of potatoes in Columbus and had them placed in the back of his car. On arriving at camp, the Major stated, all the potatoes had black eyes and some were already mashed by the severe jolting period. Major Mossback did not doubt such an assertion but rose to remark that once he had purchased a bag of peanuts in town and after he had driven to the Ft. the bag was found to contain a very fine grade of peanut butter. He further maintained that his car was equipped with shock absorbers at the time.

A genera ldiscussion followed. An

EUROPE

France and Germany.

The German Reichstag has been assembled in a hurry by Premier Cuno of Germany. The cause of the assembling is that France is taking over more territory each day.

The French claim that this is necessary as they must have complete control of the Ruhr Basin.

In the meantime Germany "cannot understand why the world is not intervening in her behalf."

Russia.

Russia is exceedingly well pleased as the Ruhr Basin situation is developing and she believes that the bond between herself and Germany will be greatly strengthened.

Turkey.

Senator Jim Ham Lewis according to the Enquirer-Sun states that Turkey is preparing for a war against England. Turkey expects to get aid from Russia and Germany.

Poland and Liithuania.

Poland and Iithuania who have been having a dispute over Vilna have agreed to let the League of Nations settle the question.

Hungary and Rumania.

Hungary has been peaceable for some time from necessity but nevertheless she has a hostile feeling against Rumania and wants to get back some of the Territory that Rumania recieved fro hmer at the close of the World War.

Austria.

Austria is getting the war feeling again and as a result is looking forward to the day when she will be able to take Trieste from Italy and also regain some of the territory that is now a part of Czech-Slovakia.

Mess Hall Bouts

We have on this end of the table Private, John Massenburg (baby elephant) Wt. 200 lbs. and on the other end of the table Private Benjamin Jackson (Big Ben) Wt. 190 lbs. these men will fight (3) rounds under the rules of cook Wiseman Baker beef stew.

Many of us have been to New Orleans and eated the Gum Boe Stew, so Cook Walburg (Bill Dulley) is back on the job and giving us the Brunswick stew.

Lost on the road between the Post and city a yellow back note book containing figures amounting to approximately ($10.00) finder please get in touch with Pvt. C. C. Clark, M. T. Co. No. 100, G. M. C.

Its easy enough to be a writer I could be one myself if I had the time and if there was enough money in it, all you have to do is to get an idea and then write it up, I have lots of ideas and one is this, Pvt. Oliver Churchill was seen strolling last Sunday evening, we learn that Oliver was going to church.

Private Alexander Bates (Klondike) was discharged on the 1st and re-enlisted the 2nd, now he is having Corporal chevron put on everything from his night shirt to his rain coat.

Hello Clinkers! Hello Ashes! did you hear the news, know what the noise is about I hear that Pvt. Roy Lee had quite a time trying to explain to Miss (X) how the piece of fur off a ladies coat made its appearance in the Dodge roadster, why its taken Sergt. Wallace with a line of soft drinks and Pvt. Joe Wright with an arm full of graphone records to explain the reason why. Just then some one put on a record entitled, "Don't let no one soldier worry your mind, so the last reports received every thing was running smoothly along the Chattahoochee.

boundaries of one Country against any South American Republic.

Not to enter into secret treaties.

In addition to the treaty these Five Powers have also greed on an International Tribunial for Central American Countries which has the approval of Washington, D. C.

The most surprising about the whole conference was the agreement on the Limitation of Armament. If this agreement is carried out there will be a total of 16,400 men in their standing armies and their national guards.

COLONEL OWNSLEY COMING.

The National Commander of the American Legion Col. Ownsley will spend Tuesday, March the thirteenth at Fort Benning.

The Colonel has heard so much about Benning and as he is making a trip down through this part of the country he will spend all of Tuesday at this Post.

As a special honor to the National Commander of the American Legion a demonstration will be "pulled off" on that day.

At one o'clock Tuesday afternoon a special luncheon will be given at the Mess Hall of The Infantry School Detachment. All Legionaries are urged to be present and incidently be sure to bring a fifty cents with you so that you will be able to enjoy the "feed" that is promised.

15th Tank Battalion News

Slick said that Mr. Head went down to the Boulevard the other night, and tried to burn his (Slicks) home down. That was all right Slick he was getting revenge. That was a receipt for the four stitches he got last December, Nap, and Hook was backing him up so "beware Otto."

Bugs DeNapoli is learning his Indian Squaw part for the show real well, the show is to be staged the 20th, of this month, and by the 30th he will be an honest to goodness actor.

Well we got by another one, pay day came and went and not a man in jail, or over the hill.

Well 'O'le Bill broke his longest run; he went to church last Friday, and came back Sunday, and I wonder why he had to take Sugar Sweet along, better watch your step Sugar.

Sgt. Edwards held a meeting of the Sunday schools last Friday and Saturday, from all reports it was a very successful meeting.

Tin ear Massy, and Faces are pushing the little Fordson Tractors, around the post, atta boy Collier but you better watch the darn thing it may buck on you.

I wonder why I haven't heard the boys popping off about little "Eva" this month, (What is the matter, has she moved.)

Jim please don't take that job in the day room, Bachelor won't sleep for the remainder of his enlistment. Poor Petite.

Corpl. Huber is confined to the Post Hospital, where he was operated upon for appendicitis last Saturday morning Hubers condition was termed serious before the operation, which has been successful.

Corpl. Howard, and Pvt. Williams are going strong for radio. Any member of the Battalion wishing to get in touch with any point on the face of the globe, kindly communicate with these "Radio wonders."

PRIZE CONTEST

incident was related of Major Leswirk who brought out some kindling wood and on arriving here shoveled it out of his Ford in the shape of saw dust. Mrs. Grundy, wife of Major Grundy, addressed the chair and told how she had had a bottle of milk recently delivered to her home from Columbus and that all it contained on delivery was a few drops of buttermilk and a small cake of stamped butter.

Major Reekal however told a tale that brought tears to eyes of all present and caused a vote of condolence to be rendered him after which the meeting broke up as an expression of sympathy. He told of having put—— in his car one day while in Columbus and wept on recounting that when he got to camp all he found was——.

Note—Fill in the blank spaces or give Major Reekal' story in your own words send it to the Editor and the prize is yours if no one else competes. Think of it! Steam heated ear muffs!

Sanitary Notes

"The presence in Columbus of two cases of typhoid fever emphasizes that the 'season' for typhoid fever will soon be here." Now is the time, to take the precautions which may be relied upon to prevent the disease.

Of first importance is to drink only water of the post supply. Practically every spring on the reservation is polluted no matter how clear the water may be. On all trips to the woods, whether on duty, on a picnic or hunting, carry a canteen of the post water with you. Don't drink from springs or streams.

In the anti-typhoid vaccine we have a preventive measure of proven reliability. Young and old should take advantage of these "shots" and put themselves on the safe side.

"Recently practically every kitchen and garbage stand on the post has been placarded with instructions, calling attention to the absolute importance of separating ashes from the garbage and waste. There are reasons for doing this.

First the ashes if clean and not mixed with trash, can be very advantageously used for filling purposes. The Post needs walks badly. These can be built if enough clean ashes are available. This means the difference between muddy wet shoes, and clean dry ones.

Second, it is almost impossible to satisfactorily burn garbage and waste if mixed with ashes. The new incenerator is a burner of garbage and waste, not a burner of ashes.

Play the game and separate the ashes."

"Those who proose to have gardens this spring should long since have secured manure from the corral and worked it into the soil. With the warm weather, fly breeding will increase by leaps and bounds. Therefore if manure, the greatest of all fly breeders, is now hauled to your quarters for garden purposes you may expect to have your house filled with flies. The moral is to finish this part of your gardening operations promptly and set traps for the flies."

Private 1st Class Bell must have had a bad experience in the city, he has taken up his old haunt.

Pvt. 1st-Class Murphy is out of the hospital and is back at his old tricks again go slow spud.

Private Orange has had enough trying to keep his love separated, but it is a job that you has got to be very smoothe on, if you don't keep on the job love and love will surely meet, and then what, Orange will be a lost boy.

Company "C"

Sergt. Powell the candy Jim has quit the old trail leading to 23 block and now picked up a new one toward the city.

Corpl. George Barnett, and the late Mr. John Thornton were honorably entertained by the high society of Columbus. They were the only representatives of the company. They enjoyed the finest of dancing then the young ladies gave them a supper about 9 P. M. then about one hour later they were seen at the Post Restaurant eating a feed that would ration all of C, Company.

Company "I"

Old Pa. Simmons, decided that he would remain a nephew to Dear old Uncle Sam for three more years. He raised his right flopper and got'em last Monday.

Corpl. Reeves, (Noisy) Has lost what ever he had for a mind, since the young lady has arrived from Birmingham, He seems to think that she is hiding from him .

Goodbye Poor Boy Russell we are all sorry to see you leave, Hope you have good luck in "M" Company with Sergt. Hill and Pvt. Galamore.

LOST, Strayed or Stolen: A French poodle dog (white) about 2 years old. Named Buster and will follow you when called by that name. Return to Corporal W. M. Williams, Co. I, 24th Infantry, and receive Reward.

Company "K"

Corpl. Jones, (he vamp) has started out again, after keeping out of the City since last Christmas "Look Out Shacks"

Wonder what will become of our Romage Sale since Sergt. Belser, (Pa Perkins) has temporarily declined to make any more collections.

Pvt. Claude Thompson, of service company was heard singing about twelve o'clock "The restricted blues" as follows: "They may be alright to you, but they are a pain to me."

Company "L"

Sergt. Scott our noted Mess Sergeant must be very fond of Whist says a certain Private of this Company.

The question was asked why he thought so his Answer, because the Mess certainly believed in Beef Hearts.

Our noted Stew Cook Private 1st Class Walter Rogers has invented a new kind of stew called Slip up on the garbage, the kind if the troops dont eat it you have to slip up on the garbage can to through it out.

A certain Private of Company "L" known as Buck Shot who is so very fond of singing asked a Sergeant what was good to develop his voice, the Sergeant replied at once by saying any kind of acid that was Poison.

Private William Troup was last seen coming out of the woods with a small tree on his shoulder when asked what the idea was his answer was that he was just about to begin making his new Bat for this ball season.

Company "M"

Our honorable Mess Sergeant with the assistance of the Honorable Mr. Young has fairly well succeeded in perfecting a greaseless and tasteless biscuit; the same was submitted at a breakfast a few days ago for the delectation and entertainment of the company; every living soul who had the pleasure of getting one were unanimous in the opinion that for purposes of an offensive or defensive action they were just the "thing" but that as an article of diet they just a trifle "off limits."

M. George F. Lippman has returned to his home after having paid a short visit to friends and relatives in the company. (Note: "Friends" are those who owe him and "relatives" should be construed to mean those to whom he is indebted.)

Since Private Holland, has been attending the M. G. School, the explanation of the action of the recoil has became quite a nuisance in the company.

Joe White wash initiated with a brick-bat in the bottoms t'other day; he stated that it was not unexpected as he has been living in a glass house for sometime.

We haven't time in this issue to say all that comes to mind; nevertheless we drop this hint to H. W.—you're going to get yours before we past away If you are going to throw stones at me, I'm going to throw them at you and believe me, you'll have to dodge some to keep from getting blown up.

Service Club No. 1 Notes

Last Saturday evening a number of the committeemen enjoyed a dinner at the Cozy Tea Roo min Columbus, given for Sergeant Collins, who is soon to end his career in Fort Benning, as a soldier, later going to the Grand theater where "When Knighthood was in flower" was being shown. The committee's special table was beautifully decorated and a home-like atmosphere prevailed through out the dinner and it is needless to say that the evening was enjoyed by all present.

The Service Club Committee held its regular weekly meeting Monday evening at seven o'clock.

WANTED A PIANIST TO PLAY FOR THE SOLDIER'S GLEE CLUB which meets every Tuesday evening at seven o'clock in the South Room of the Service Club. Any lady desiring to perform this pleasant task please give your name to Miss Roe, the Hostess.

The weekly dance was held Wednesday evening with the hall filled to overflowing with gay dancers. It is noted that new faces appear every week which is a sure way we have knowing that more people are getting interested in our dances—why not, we have one of the best.

We wonder where Sergeant Bjonstoll was last Wednesday evening as his face was missed from among the dancers—that's alright Sergeant, the Bazaar doesn't come but once a year.

TheB. F. C.'s held their regular meeting last Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at which time new officers were elected for the next term of office, the new members being President, Mrs. J. E. Lanham, vice-president Mrs. H. E. Stotts, secretary, Mrs. M. D. O'Neal, Miss Roe was retained as Treasurer. This Club meets every Thursday evening at 2 o'clock in the south room of the Service Club and any lady of the Enlisted personnel is invited to join.

THE SACREDNESS OF AN OATH.

Should the day ever come, when the solemn oath calling upon God to witness the truth of what we say or promise, will be lightly regarded by the generality of men, it will be the day that sounds the death-knell of all human faith and trust. The oath is the highest tribunal of conscience—its court of last appeal. For the man who believes in a God—and most men do, it is something so awe-inspiring, something so supremely sacred that nothing short of duty or the direst need can justify his taking it.

When freely (even though reluctantly) taken, or justly exacted, an oath is strictly binding; and neither self-interest, nor friendship, nor sweet charity itself, can ever make it otherwise. If quibbling or equivocation is unpardonable in ordinary intercourse between man and man, it is still more inexcusable when confirmed by a solemn oath. The only conceivable explanation of a frivolous disregard of sworn statements or obligations, as frequently occurs, is thoughtlessness, or a failure to realize the nature of the act by which Almight God is called upon to witness the truth of what we say or do. Thoughtlessness, however, is no excuse. Looseness in dealing with a matter of such importance cannot be tolerated. The guilty must be severaly dealt with. The oath is the strongest and last surviving safeguard of human truth and justice, of human faith and trust; and if this last, strong bulwark ever fails us, then will surely come the deluge.

Cases of perjury are of too frequent occurence. To many an oath seems to mean nothing more than a mere matter of form, entailing no serious or real obligation; and were it not for the punishment attached to it, swearing to what is untrue or omitting to do what is promised under oath, would be of more frequent occurance. The punishment is severe and justly so. The matter is of too serious a nature to be passed over lightly. There can be no sympathy for one guilty of perjury. No confidence can be placed in a man, whose oath does not suffice to hold him to the truth, and he is rightly regarded as a criminal of the lowest and most degraded type.—T. J. L.

THE STAFF SERGEANT'S DREAM.

Sergeant Ben Adams, may his tribe increase!
With more demotions it will likely cease).
Saw lately on the foot board of his bed
An O. D. angel with an issued head!
Who scribbled with a finger nail of gold—
Exceeding bootch had made the Sergeant bold
And to the presence in the room he said,
"What writest thou?" The angel never fled
But whispered in the Sergeant's fuzzy ear,
"The names of who'll still sergeants be next year!"
"And is mine one?" said Adams. "Nay, not so."
Replied the angel. The sergeant murmured low,
"Chevroned or not, I'll be just as I am,
So write it down that I don't give a etc."
The angel wrote and vanished. The next night
It came in whistling and switched on the light
And showed the names of those whom luck would bless—
Lo, Sergeant Adams' name led all the rest!
(Moral to non-coms—Don't worry too much about it.—J. B. S.)

THOUGHTS OF A GRAY SQUIRREL

The day is done and the darkness,
Trails off the wings of night,
As an overcoat button dangleth,
Which never was sewed aright.

I see the lights of Fort Benning,
And reflect how the sadness comes
O'er the officers as they figure
How fast their meter runs!

Fast runs the electric meter,
And it hums to beat the deuce,
Lightening rooms (and also purses)
As it measures out the juice!

Let us read some regulations,
Or heavy bound "reports,"
Forsake all bridge and poker
These are better indoor sports!

Read from the grand old masters
Of the army in its prime,
Nor skip the wild-eyed "changes,"
Of this wise but weaker time!

For like strains of movie music,
Their mighty thoughts suggest,
They didn't have much work to do
And we too long for rest!

And the night shall be filled with sand fleas,
And the cares that infest the day,
Will be harder to find than a field clerk
On a busy office day!

"IT'S GOOD, ALL RIGHT, BUT I DASSENT PRINT IT"

When the last funny verse is indited
And the last song of joy has been sung;
When the last lamp of laughter is lighted
And the last bell of mirth has been rung—
I shall resign from the army,
To laugh then from morning till night
Not over what I have written
But at that which I never dared write.

THE ETERNAL FEMININE.

So she awoke, the little Egyptian Princess,
And peered about in the gloom,
Then, lightly tossing aside the silken grave-cloth,
She ran to the mouth of the tomb,
The awe-struck watchers, pale in the flickering torchlight,
Silently gave her room.

Laughed with glee the mighty Pharoah's daughter,
And perched on the tips of her toes,
She blew a kiss to the answering winds of the desert,
Blushing warm as a rose,
Then, drawing a shining mirror forth from her girdle,
Daintly powdered her nose,

But alas! the eyes of the little Egyptian Princess
Are darkened with sudden woe!
Ah! what does she seek? A sunny nook by the river.
Where lotus blossoms blow?
Or the whispering shade, where she kept a tryst with her lover,
Four thousand years ago

Back to her tomb she crept, the royal maiden,
The watchers standing there,
Marked how she drew the silken robe about her,
Bordered with jewels fair,
And the woman cry they heard was as old as Eden:
"I haven't a thing to wear!"
Vilda Sauvage Owens—N. Y. Times
(Gosh, we thought she'd be right in style—Ed.)

SONGS OF THE PAST.

I remember, I remember, how I went out on patrol,
I rolled from off a hillside steep and fell into a hole,
When I awoke that afternoon I heard this exclamation,
"A fine place for concealment but its poor for observation."

I remember, I remember, how the enemy was hidden,
O'er hills and valleys long I trudged where cavalry had ridden,
For hours I marched beneath a sun which browned me like a berry
And then I learned the enemy was just "imaginary"—G. E. K.

THOSE QUALIFICATION CARDS!

"Now," said the colonel, looking along the line of recruits, "I want a good, smart looking bugler."

At that, out stepped a dilapidated fellow with a thick stubble of black beard.

"What," said the colonel, eyeing him up and down, "are you a bugler?"

"Oh," he answered, "I thought you said burglar."—Atlanta Journal.

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

1. Woe unto him in the army of Samuel who complaineth of sickness! Verily tho he rend his garments and tear out his beard in much vouching of his affliction yet no man believeth and he is accounted a gold brick from that day.

2. Consider the case of Job, since transferred, and learn therefrom. A private first-class was he of upright life, who dodged not fatigue but was in all things well disposed except his health.

3. Boils afflicted him and beset him sore, yea, boils and carbuncles.

4. Then went he unto the first sergeant and accosted him humbly, saying, "O thou who holdeth in keep the canteen checks and within whose desk the morning report reposeth! See me as a man afflicted and weary of all life!

5. "Thou, the First Sergeant, art great and should be merciful, thy authority exceedeth a field clerk! Grant, then, that my name be enrolled in the book of the ailing."

6. "All power and glory is thine for naught but a shavetail commandeth the company. Thou sayest unto one, 'Go!' and he goeth, and unto another thou sayest, Come, and he cometh!

7. But the first sergeant was worthy in his heart for that the time for demotion was already at hand and he cried loudly,

8. "Not thou, but I, am the most miserable of men! Of late it happeneth continually that he unto whom I say, "Come" replieth "Lo, I am feeling sick" and he unto whom I say "Go" respondeth "Try elsewhere, I am marked quarters" and I weary of much goldbricking. Report to the kitchen with thy boils, perchance, 'twill hasten the dinner!"

9. Then was Job much abashed but he who was company clerk in those days pitied his plight and entered his name on the sick report when the first sergeant wot not what was doing.

10. Know ye there be some in the army of Samuel who be skilled in healing and an angle worm with wings adorneth their collars.

11. Possessing a liquid more potent than the waters of that pool which is in Jerusalem, by the fish market.

12. Whosoever is touched by this elixir or anointed therewith becometh at once officially whole and fit for duty.

13. Its name is called "Iodine" which in the language of our fathers signifieth "I am in a hurry" but as some interpret it "Thou wilt recover, anyway."

14. And the physicians poured this plentifully upon him and Job appeared thereafter spotted even as a bird dog and for three days shunned the sight of men, keeping within his tent.

15. And I who passed his abode at night heard issuing therefrom his oft lamentation,

16. "Verily a complaining soldier is as cheap inner tube which still holdeth air."

17. "It is joyously replaced when it faileth to function, and even when it performeth it receiveth no praise."

SELAH!

CONFIDENTIAL!

Did you ever back up against a bee?
Or sit on a mosquito's tail?
Did you ever shovel coal all night?
Or "swab the deck" of a jail?
Did you ever have a horse's hoof
Land flat across your back?
Were you ever hit by a railroad train?
Or a speeding taxi hack?
Did you ever fall down a mountain side
A mile and half or so?
Did you ever push your auto home
When the darn thing wouldn't go?
If all these things had happened to you
And happened all together—
You'd know how we felt the past two weeks
With the flu and this rotten weather.

PERSONAL MENTION—

Mr. Tutankhamen, our oldest subscriber, was seen out taking the air yesterday at Fort Benning. In a brief interview he stated that our post reminds him of Egypt more than does any other locality he has ever visited. He says the sand here gets fully as blistering as it ever does around Cairo and he called attention to the fact that the Upatoi overflows much more often than the Nile.

Some time ago a mortal illness so affected Mr. Tut that for the last 4,000 years he has remained close to his room and only recently, yielding to the importunities of visitors, has he consented to resume his old importance in the public eye.

BANQUET AND DANCE BY 29th INFANTRY BRILLIANT EVENT.

One of the most enjoyable and brilliant events ever given at Fort Benning was the banquet and dnace on last Saturday evening, the conclusion of a delightful program arranged for the organization of the 29th Infantry.

The banquet took place in the officers' mess, and was followed by the cotillion at the officers' hop room.

For the banquet the guests were seated at one large table and several smaller ones. Col. G. S. Goodale, in command of the 29th Infantry, presided at the large table which seated forty guests. At this table were seated General Gordon, commandant of the post; Gen. Winans, Col. Fassett, and others. The place of Mrs. George S. Goodale was marked by a basket filled with exquisite pink roses.

An elegant course dinner was served, after which the guests went to the hop room for the dance. The hop room was gaily decorated for the occasion in flags In the various figures, there were favors, confetti, etc., which added to the gaiety of the affair.

MRS. CHAS. VALVERDE ENTERTAINS NINTH INFAN. BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. Chas. Valverde was a most gracious hostess Tuesday when she entertained the Ninth Infantry Bridge club at a bridge-luncheon, the affair taking place in the parlors of the Ralston Hotel.

The consolation prize was a set of bridge table markers and pencils.

An elegant luncheon was served preceding the game, the table being centered with spring flowers.

The invitation was confined to the members of the club and one or two outside friends.

Those present were: Mrs. Owen Rhoades, Mrs. Jesse Lippencott, Mrs. Ellis Bates, Miss Helen Olmstead, Mrs. Norman Findley, Mrs. Roland Wilkins, Mrs. Hirchfelder, Mrs. R. B. Rogers, Mrs. Millard, Mrs. C. Harvey, Mrs. George Longstreta, Mrs. R. M. Caulkins, Mrs. Earl Crist, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Chas. Valverde.

DAVIS BARBEQUE A SUCCESS.

One night last week a representative of the News had the good fortune to receive a personal invitation from Mr. John T. Davis of Columbus to attend a barbeque and "get together" meeting of certain prominent business men of Columbus and a number of officers of the garrison.

Before the crowd was served, an act accomplished with efficiency and dispatch by a number of Columbus ladies, Mr. Davis made a short but interesting talk on the need of Columbus from a community standpoint. After the talk Judge Cozart was informally called upon for a few words and, in his characteristic manner, he kept the crowd laughing and thinking with a mixture of humor and common sense in connection with the subjects of a new tourist hotel, oil wells on the banks of the Chattahoochee, and a paved road to Fort Benning. Judge Cozart was followed by Judge Monroe who showed considerable "pep" notwithstanding the fact that he stated he had been holding court for the past few weeks and was tired out. "Bill" Rainey had a few words of wisdom to dispense and had gotten well started on oil wells until Mr. Davis advised him that he was not sponsoring oil wells. Mr. Rainey than shifted with grace and ease to a tourist hotel and paid his compliments to the advantage of paved roads in general.

Everybody spoke "right out in meeting" as the spirit moved him and among other things the matter of floating bonds for a paved road to Fort Benning was referred to frequently. One of the leading newspaper men of the city made a forcible talk wherein he stated, among other things, that a paved road between Columbus and Ft. Benning was going to be more of a benefit to the Columbus business people than to the Post. He supported this argument by stating that the people of Fort Benning were slowly becoming more and more independent of outside assistance in the matter of buying living necessities due to the fact that such articles were being handled on the reservation and that the theatre on the Post, together with the clubs and other amusement centers, made the garrison personnel content to remain on the Post rather than drive the nine miles to Columbus over the present roads.

Both the barbeque and the meeting was an unqualified success and the result was a clearing away of possible misunderstandings that may have existed before the civilian and military personnel especially in connection with the matter of the Fort Benning Road.

MUSICAL REVIEW.

The combined Musical and Dramatic clubs will give a cabaret immediately following Lent.

A large dinner will be served and singing and dancing will take place between courses and during intermissions of the dance. A dandy program is being worked up.

The play "Make It Snappy" which the above combined clubs attempted to work up has been discontinued due to the fact that there were insufficient persons to complete the personnel necessary for such a large play and as a result the above cabaret and entertainment will be given.

BUFFET SUPPER.

Colonel and Mrs. Schoffel were hosts at a most enjoyable buffet supper last Saturday evening before the Cotillion Narcissi and daffodils were artistically used as a table decoration.

Those present were:

Capt. and Mrs. Van Vliet, Major and Mrs. Sullivan, Col. nd Mrs. Hannah, Col. and Mrs. Peyton, Col. and Mrs. Heavey, Capt. and Mrs. Bresnahan, Major and Mrs. Hardenberg, Capt. and Mrs. Heubner, Col. Kerth, Major Marshburn, Major and Mrs. Wiley V. Carter, Miss Ruth Schoeffel.

83rd F. A. BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. R. H. Bacon entertained the 83rd Field Artillery Bridge Club at her home on last Tuesday.

Mrs. Beiderlinden won the first prize and Mrs. Peckinpaugh the second. Miss Woods drew the consolation.

There were three tables of players and Mrs. J. W. Rumbough wife of Maj. Rumbough and Mrs. Rombough sister of Mrs. J. W. Rumbough and several others were present for tea.

A delightful salad course was served for refreshments.

The next meeting will take place on March 20th at the home of Mrs. W. C. Reed.

MEDICAL DEPT. BRIDGE CLUB.

The Medical Department Bridge club meet at the home of Capt. and Mrs. A. A. Roby on Tuesday evening Feb. 27th.

Major Tobias, Major Smith and Major Moulton were the prize winners for the evening.

Delightful refreshments were served after the game.

Major and Mrs. Thomas Smith will entertain the Club at its next meeting which will be on Tuesday, March 13th.

CAPT. DALE WAS SURPRISED.

On Tuesday evening, Feb. 27th Major and Mrs. Rumbough entertained Capt. Dale at dinner and after the party adjourned to the Field Artillery Officers Club where all of the other Officers and their wives of the 83rd had assembled.

Needless to say that Capt. Dale was taken unaware (which by the way Capt. is an inexcusable crime) and during the few minutes that it took Captain Dale to recover he found that those present had "heaped" many useful and valuable gifts on him ranging all the way from a Toledo Sabre to a young steamship and all kinds of musical instruments.

The various guests present explained why some of the gifts were given. The Damascus Sabre was given for the purpose that the Captain may guard his noble self in case of another attack. The "steamship" was simply a precaution as Capt. Dale leaves in a short time for the Canal Zone in Panama and well you can't always tell there are many ships as "never arrived" The musical instruments are for the purpose of soothing the anger of any and all wild beasts, birds of men, who he may come in contact with.

Candy and Punch were served during the evening and all kinds of games from drop the handkerchief, button-button to bridge were indulged in.

Refreshments of brick ice-cream and cake were served later in the evening

The News extends heartiest congratulations to Capt. Dale that he is fortunate in going to Panama and wishes him an excellent journey and a pleasant tour. We will miss you Captain and sincerely hope that your successor will continue the hearty cooperation that this office has received from you.

CURRENTS EVENTS CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Current Events Club took place last Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. L. Smith.

Mrs. R. Turner gave a paper on recent Foreign Affairs, and Domestic Current Events wsa given by Mrs. Starr Moulton. Current topics were covered by Mrs. Hahn.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were derived after the program.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Starr Moulton on March 19th.

MRS. ELLIS BATES HOSTESS AT PRETTY BRIDGE PARTY.

A beautiful party of Monday, was the bridge at which Mrs. Ellis Bates entertained in the Ralston Hotel Palm Room.

A large table in one corner of the room was handsomely adorned with a silver basket of buttercups and daffodils. Snapdragons were also placed in available places.

Mrs. Alfred T. Wright won the high-score prize, a lavendar and gold Venetian vase.

Mrs. Pleas B. Rogers cut the consolation, a decorated satin powder box.

A tempting salad course and coffee were served after the game.

Those present were: Mesdames Lee Harvey, Pleas B. Rogers, Ralph Caulkins, David A. Bissett, Norman D. Finley, Frank C. Foley, Paul W. Mapes, Owen Rhodes, Miss Helen Olmstead, Mesdames J. R. Lippincott, Chas. Valverde, Rogers Hilsman, John Robinson, C. J. Hirschfelder, Jas. Sproule, Miss Daisy Sproule, Roberts, Alfred C. Wright, Wilkins, Owen Summers, Pickens, Kaiser, Moncure Pless, Ray Herbert, Chas. Miller, Mrs. Ellis Bates.

MEDICAL CORPS BRIDGE CLUB TO GIVE BRIDGE LUNCHEON.

The Medical Corps Bridge club have issued invitations to a bridge luncheon on Friday, March 16th, at the Officers mess, at one o'clock.

The hostess will be Mesdames Orville Brown, J. C. Smith, Reeve Turner, Tobias, Moulton, Arnet and Campbell.

THE U. S. A. T. LOGAN.

The floating school that we hear about that Osa Candler, Jr., of Atlanta has started is some school.

To the old timers in the Army it will be interesting to know that the Candler Floating School is none other than the good old army transport "LOGAN" that was on the P. I. Frisco run for many years.

Mr. Candler has started this school for the benefit of the poor sons of the rich who he claims do not know what work is and he is going to give them some of it in the way of "Concentrating on there studies while out at sea."

L. G. Tillerson, just a country "Plow Jockey" trying to get along, decided that he wanted to learn to dance so he finally found a young lady who was kind and patient enough to stand for his clumsiness, stumbling, etc., and he certainly is making progress alright and intends to take in all the dances at the Service Club. By his smile, sideburns and slick hair Ye Shall Know Him—in other words a regular Rudy Valentino.

Corporal Purvis is certainly stepping out these days after solitary confinement in the Post for several months (No, not in Hotel De Teachout). He can be seen most any evening stepping towards the Water Tanks—he says he does it for exercise but we wonder.

Zabe Ayers recently made a trip to Atlanta and upon his return has not been the same boy. He was heard to ask the question "How much do marriage license cost" that may be the cause for so much brooding.

Sergeant Muse is looking for Regulations covering "Appropriation Adjustments"—does anyone know where they can be found?

"Haystack" Barber and "Mama" Stokes have laid their game weapons away until next season and we know it was all for the best for there wouldn't have been anything left to hunt another season had they continued. "Haystack" says for real hunting go to the hills of North Carolina.

White says if it hadn't been for that Ace he caught when he went down for double, he would have been sitting on'em.

Medical Dept. Notes

The hospital area is beginning to improve in looks. The flower beds are being shaped. The front of the hospital is beginning to take on the aspect of a lawn. If the good work continues as at present the hospital should be one of the show places of the Post this summer.

Captain P. P. Green, M. C. is confined to the hospital. A complete and speedp recovery is our wish to the Captain.

Major H. W. Grady, M. C. spent the 3rd of March with his father at Roanoke. Ala.

Sergeant G. F. Orr returned Monday from a thirty day furlough, enjoyably spent in Massachusetts. We understand that George was glad to return because of th eextreme cold weather in the North.

If the number of married men living in town, increase, the C. of G. will have to put on an extra coach. We wish to extend congratulations to any one taking the step—But—be sure you look before you leap.

A certain Staff Sergeant had his mind all set for a transfer to Fitzsommons General Hospital, Denver, Colo., but the War Department has a different idea. He will soon leave for Foreign Service.

THE REAL MILITARY TAILOR.

We were taking a look around the City of Columbus last Saturday evening and as luck would have it we stepped into the tailor shop of S. Dana and he impressed upon my memory forever more that not only did he make uniforms and civies on the promises but also that they were made on the Premises.

Well, we finally got that settled and then he showed me some goods for a uniform all the way from imported serges and etc., to the domestic. Now let me tell you that Mr. Dana has some classy stuff. Also he is getting ready for a rush on white and khaki uniforms. He guarantees his work as well as the fit. Take a look at his ad.

EVERYTHING THAT YOU NEED.

After we left Dana's place, whose smiling countenance should we run into but Mr. McDonald of the firm of Maxwell Brothers and McDonald, the furniture firm.

When asked why the big smile, Mr. Mac said that he was tickled that they had a goodly supply of Ice Kings on hand. Well for the life of us we could not see why having Ice Kings on hand especially when we had cold recollections from the week before, so therefore, we asked him what about the Ice Kings and then he informed us that the Ice King was the best refrigerator in the World, and as the cold weather was a thing of the past for several months that these particular Ice Kings would soon be in demand. He also says that they give a verbal guarantee with each Ice Kink that when you once put ice in this King that there will be no more ice put into i tagain until you put it in.

But this is a wonderful regrigerator and is worth taking a look at and also take a look at his special ad.

CAN FIX THEM.

You know we had a funny experience the early part of this week. We had two phone calls, one from the Columbus Auto Repair Co. and the other one from Marchman's Garage, and they both informed us that they could repair that radiator that was frozen in the picture of "I remember, I remember." Also they said that very probably that that was not all that was frozen or out of order and as they were in a position to cure the ills of any machine and that one try would convince you. Now if you don't believe us just take a look at their ad.

POLO

The series of Polo games that were started last Sunday for the Dierk's Trophy will be continued each Sunday until the winner is determined.

The following is the schedule:

Sunday, March 11—29th Infantry Vs. Blues. 4 periods cont. from last Sunday. 83rd Field Art. Vs. Yellow, 4 periods cont. from last Sunday.

Sunday, March 18—Winner Vs. Winner (from previous games) 4 periods. Remaining 4 next Sunday. Losers Vs. Losers, (from previous games) 4 periods, remaining 4 next Sunday.

Sunday, March 25—Losers Vs. Losers 4 periods continued from last Sunday. Winners Vs. Winners, 4 periods continued from last Sunday.

The above schedule calls for one half of a game by each team on each Sunday weather permitting.

If weather will not permit the playing on one Sunday say on the 18th of March then the game scheduled for March the 18th will be played on the 25th and the game of the 25th the following Sunday.

Games called at 2:00 P. M.

CAGE SEASON ENDS.

(Lieut. A. F. Fugelberg.)

Last Saturday night the curtain was rung down on the final game of basketball for the Second Battalion, 29th Infantry, during this season. It was the second Bn. game from the start, having a far superior team to that of the First Batallion. Kjelstrom, as usual, was the star, tallying 30 out of the 50 points, which were made by the team.

The First Battalion was only able to tally a scant 11 points.

This leaves the Second Batallion the undefeated champions of the Post. This team certainly has shown the members of the Post what an enlisted man's team can do in the way of team work. It is a good team and deserves the championship. Just to show that the second team can play too, Coach Sims used them the last few minutes of play Saturday night. They prevented the First Bats from scoring and tallyed 7 points for themselves.

GOOD POLO GAMES LAST SUNDAY

Last Sunday the first games of the series of Polo games were started to determine who had the best team. Incidently to add zest to the game the prize is the Dierk's Trophy, which is presented by the Dierk's Jewelry Store

Two games were started and four periods were played of each games. The remaining four periods will be played on Sunday, March the 11th.

The Blues have won the Trophy each year so far, but the 29th are determined to win it this year.

The 29th Infantry defeated the Blues 6-4 and the 83rd Art. defeated the Yellows 4-0 in the four periods that were played.

LINE UP.

| 29th Inf. | Position | Blues |

P. E. FILLING STATION CHANGES MANAGERS.

Within the past few days the Post Exchange has acquired a new manager for the Service Station in the person of Mr. W. E. Austell.

Mr. Austell stated, when interviewed by a reporter of the News, that he had had a number of years experience in the automobile accessory business and that it was his aim to put the Post Exchange service station on par with the most modern stations of this kind.

Among other things the new manager promises a larger and more complete line of accessories and better tire repair service. He is also going to improve the gasoline and oil service to the extent that during the rush hours of Saturday when the garrison reports for its Sunday purchses of gas and oil the delay noticeable in the past in getting this gas and oil will be greatly lessened.

The Post Exchange filling station at Fort Benning does a large volume of business—probably larger than any three stations in Columbus—and the manager's job, if he holds it down properly, is going to keep him on his toes, baseballically speaking. Here's luck to him and may he make good.

STRATEGY?

From the musty pages, which have drifted through the ages,
(Translated and amended by the "Inquisition Board"
(At a dollar fifty net—fourteen twenty for the set—
(Published by the Author of the "Hand-book-Of-The-Sword")
We discover with dismay, that the battles of that day
Were commanded almost wholly by the "Angels of the Lord"—
And the field of Armageddon—Not the one that T. R. bled on,
Is as good an illustration as our histories record,
Of "ridiculous inaction" and the subsequent impaction
Of the Chariots-of-Iron, and the Moabitish Horde.

Their strategy was awful! In fact T'was most unlawful;
For they put a dozen chaplains in the very front and van Sending forth an ultimatum (just to harry'um and bait'um!
With the sanction of Jehovah, if they plunked a holy man.
But probably misdoubtin' the high priests set to shoutin',
Encompassing the temple and a drummin' on a pan
Till the commissary camels and the various other mamals
Stampeded and were scattered from Beer-She-Ba unto Dan.

In spite of much dispersion and their subsequent immerson,
Old Gideon crossed the Jordan and the King of Midians ran.

EQUITATION SECTION, GENERAL SUBJECTS.

In Hippology Class: Lt. Ducrot in sotto voice, "What do you know about that Calvary officer, telling those officers that the fetlock is down there on the foot instead of at the animal's poll! And none of them know any better."

Heard daily at Equitation, 1st Platoon, "Capt. Lambert, how do I look now? Are my legs all right?"

The officers are showing good form in jumping, going through the chutes. For instance, when Number Seventy-one went through like a house afire and then made a sharp turn to the left Mighty good over the jumps, though, Seventy-one!

We look for good weather this week; at least, Private Allen, Blake and Potter are hoping for the same, during their five days out on reconnaissance with Military Art Department.

Also, looking farther ahead, the men hope that they will have an independent outfit next year. They are all strong for a mounted detachment, such as was started last year and then suffered sudden death. Perhaps they have some ideas about the troop officers, too, if the Mtd. Dta. idea goes through.

Recruiting News Notes

Three cheers and a raspberry for the Recruiting Officer. Oh boy did you gove the frontespiece of the edition 2 weeks ago the "mean glim" or in plain American the double O. Wa'nt that the "Kittens Pajamas." That, dear reader was just a small spasm of an artistical smear by our new Recruiting Officer. Allah help us if he should happen to have another spasm anywhere near soon. But we will admit it was good even if we are bashful.

Brother Browns daily dozen "now the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party" etc. etc. with variations on the Underwood. He may be seen taking his daily exercise in the Post Recruiting office between the hours of 8 A. M. and 4 P. M. daily.

Our elongated orderly bought himself a supply of pipes and a couple of cigarette holders the other day, we are wondering who he is going to hold up to keep him supplied with the necessary material to keep them going.

Somebody must have exploded a bomb under our entire force, if you want to see a bunch P. O. well just take a peep thru the door of our office but don't speak loud or you might wake Fairchilds.

But Oh Boy watch that gang at noon, the way they all get away, when the noon whistle blows is surprising, Fairchilds in the lead.

Favorite saying around our office:

Sergt. there is some mail down at the office for you"

Sergt. have you got the scissors."

"Jones gimme a cigarette."

"Brown gimme a match."

It is with deep regret that we learn that our ersthile chief clerk Mr. Sgt. B. F. Harris will not be with us for many moons. He has been informed that as soon as he is able to make the trip, he is to be sent to Fitzsimmons General Hospital. Denver, Colo. for further treatment. The best wishes of our small force attend you Sergt. in your quest of that which is more valuable than riches and fine raiment "Perfect Health."

History of 29th Infantry

This article is reprinted this week owing to the fact that the demand for last week's issue of the "News" was so great, sufficient copies for mailing could not be secured.

(Article 22.—Being the last of this Series. 1919—1923.

After the Seventeenth Division had been dissolved the 29th remained at Camp Beauregard, La. until the Camp was closed and then, in March, 1919, moved, as per orders, to Camp Shelby, Miss. Within a few days the first Battalion was ordered to Camp Benning, Ga. The rest of the Regiment remained at Camp Shelby until the work of demobilizing the many thousands of troops from that part of the South was completed. Then, in October, 1919, this portion of the 29th proceeded to Camp Benning to become part of the Infantry School Troops.

The years that have followed at this station, now Fort Benning, have been full ones. The Regiment has taken a lead in all the work of the school. Its activities, accomplishments, successes as well as its trials and tribulations have been too numerous to mention but with it all has come the consciousness of work well done, success achieved, well earned and desirved plaudits showered upon it, leaders of and a tremendous contribution to the work of making leaders of men in the Infantry branch of the Service.

Fort Benning is a healthy place. The Regiment has not suffered from sickness, to speak of. It is a good place to develop character. Something about the place that one is not aware of at the time of service here makes one feel after he has been away for a time that he wants to get back to Benning.

The Twenty Ninth always has been a happy outfit. It is happy today.

Co. "F" 1st Gas Regt.

Well Sergt. Farrell is back for his summer vacation. Outside of the maneuver, target practice and the hike to McClellan he expects to have a very pleasant summer. There is one thing hat he surely developed while in Macon and that is a perfect boarding house reach.

We have been wondering who instructed Corpl. Miller in "The care of the rifle." He was told that a hat cord was an ideal thing to clean a rifle with but they forgot to tell him to take the hat off.

Hank says "Keyes is so stingy he is afraid to smoke out in the sunlight for fear his shadow might ask him for bits.

Some one wanted to know the difference between Wilson and Martin. Well Wilson never goes where he is looking and Martin never looks where he is going.

Pvt. Francis our celebrated song bird can be heard most any time singing a song that no one can understand owing to the fact that he sings in his native tongue. Hank says, "that lad should be with Caruso." We all agree with Hank.

29th Infantry News Notes

Service Company.

Paint from Montgomrey Ward, Varnish from Sears-Roebuck, several bottles Dye and Shine and a Refrigerator Car full of harness, grease liberally applied throughout the period of preparation for the 29th Infantry Field Meet, could not "cop" the blue ribbon. Ask "Jimmy." The Service Company had the blue ribbon cinched as far back as the day after last years events. Sgt. O'Leary and Sergt. Johnston waged a friendly war for quite a while and finally the day of judgment arrived. Smith of the Service Company trotted forth a couple of the finest mules and one of the best escort wagons that could be found anywhere. The judges came, carefully examined the entries and pinned the blue ribbon on the mules.

1st Battalion Hdqrs. Co.

Pvt. Ramsay entered the hospital last Thursday. We trust he will recover from his illness speedily.

We wonder if Corpl. Hacker is going to enter the drug business. Judging from his collection of toilet articles, curatives, etc. this seems highly probable.

Being asked how many cigarettes he smoked in a day, Sergt. Evans immediately replied, Oh, any given number. Many a true word, etc.

Company "A"

The writer claims no great length of service he can truthfully say that he has served the same regiment with the following distinguished gentlemen: Paul Revere Hudson, Jefferson Davis Box, Walter Scott Winn and Alexander Hamilton Perwein.

"A" Company feels that they did their full share to bring credit to the 1st Bat. in the late field meet. Altho we did not get 1st place as a Company, we do feel that we played the game for all there was in it and we wish to congratulate "B" Company on their splendid work.

Bugler Oexle has a brand new Overland car and it is all paid for, too.

We are all rearing to go on the range now for we feel sure we are going to knock'em cold this year.

Pvt. 1st-Class Boronat, went to the hospital about seven months ago with a broken leg after being injured in a base ball game. At last he is back with us for duty. We want to say that his leg is not the only thing "Game" about him, for he had complications set in while in the hospital and had his leg rebroken again and again and several operations performed to restore the complete use of his leg.

Company "B"

Short I know that you have a great desire to walk but I never thought that you loved it so well as to walk twelve miles on a lonely road—for Nothing.

Corpl. Romploskie is not going to return to the under ground savges as previously stated but is going to re-up, and play with the Infantry School next year. I am telling the world that he is going to show us something new in foot-ball this year.

We have some promising material for the coming foot-ball team this year and he has already demonstrated his ware in the athletic field by winning the 220 yard dash in the field meet in twenty four seconds flat.

Company "C"

Fifty-seven men from Co. "C" bought tickets for the Toot Sweet show, every body seemed to enjoy it except Pvt. Brenner, he would rather see an old Plantation.

Sergt. Keasak is busy instructing recruits, the recruits have the sympathy of all who know Pop.

Corpl. Peters is ready for some real duty now after playing foot ball and basket ball all winter.

Company "D"

Private Harvey Stiotts, the tonsorial artist of this organization is the proud owner of a Ford touring car. Pvt. Stotts is quite a financial genius and other than hitting the boys for Boncilla's when they least expect it, he can also throw an artful pair of jumping dominoes. But when he purchased a Ford he discovered his match in subtlety.

Company "E"

Our baseball team suffered defeat at the hands of the Service Co. last Sat. but watch our smoke in the future.

"E" Company sure showed some class in the field meet, taking first place in the Bat. and Second in the Reg. The prize event of the day was copped by Pvt. (Breezy) Powell the neatest soldier that has been seen in these parts in many days.

The Co.'s deposits increased by 21 per cent. this month. Watch your step "G" Co. because we are out to be the best in the Reg. "Every day in every way we are getting better and better."

We sure think the mess was fine last month and hope it continues to be for the better the chow the better the soldier.

We wish to announce that we have an animal trainer in the Co. All dogs trained to bark. 10c per head.

We have several aspirants for a commission in the Officers Reserve Corps, but the real reason that they are willing to do it is that they want to get a vacation for a while. How come Payne old boy?

If Seabury don't want a reserve bar or two I am badly mistaken.

Corpl. Brown was elected Captain of the baseball team and with Payne, Crane, Holstrom, Bryant and Myers in the infield he should have some aggregation. The outfield as we all can see are past msters at their profession.

"Everything comes to the person that hath patience" is a truth that we often hear: but Pring makes a fellow wait always and never gives him any clothes.

King has moved his roll from under the mattress since Tent 41 burned. Atta-boy King keep the old rubber tight.

The cribbage tournament is moving along nicely with the exception of New, who decided he had no chance when Dad made 31 for 14 on him. Hooch stepped in though and is doing very good for a recruit.

Company "F"

Chesser is not going to re-enlist at all just a rumor he is going back to Texas the land of Rattlers and Wild Cats.

Our Baseball Team did very well with their initial game of the season. A serious mishap befell Mechanic Phillip who sustained a broken ankle in the game, every one hopes for his speedy recovery as he is one of our best players.

Corpl. Price was the hero in the game he hit the pill for a single and getting a "Homer" due to the errors of "G" Co. it added a little pep to the game of course.

Sid, had to get mussed up again in the game, you seem to have a "Jinx" following you thru life Sid.

In that Bugler Floyd M. Chesser, Co. "F" 29th Inf. will at Fort Benning, Ga., on or about the 9th day of March, 1923 re-enlist for Co. "F" 29th Inf. and of course every member of the Co. wishes you luck Floyd.

Wonder what the editor did with our news last week, it was not published.

All one hears in the Co. now days is baseball according to the debating we will have some team. Corpl. Warner won't play unless he is pitcher, Graham won't play unless he has big league balls. Wonder where he came from the big leagues, more than likely came from the big sticks.

Corpl. Warner's pet ambition is to see the student cooks in our mess hall be made to eat every single "spud" which they put out to the Co. at chow time, especially the Spuds that are about to retire. Cheer up John, you were a "Guardsman" once yourself.

How many "Jerrys" are you going to get in your home town Arvil?

Corpl. Sutton is downhearted somewhat since he cannot get with the Recruiting Detachment, he is sore because he wasn't born in Georgia cheer up John why didn't you tell them you are from Wedowee, Ala.

Company "G"

The "Big Feed," on March 3rd, was enjoyed by every member of the Company. On Xmas Day, music was enjoyed by the Company, but on Orgnization Day, music was not necessary because Sergt. Johnson served soup.

I guess Fort Benning will soon be filled with Georgia Recruits, by sending ou tGeorgia Natives on Recruiting duty.

Better get busy Reese.

On last Saturday night the 2nd Bn. basketball team won a very one-sided fracas from the 1st Bn. Score being 52-11. Guess maybe the 1st Bn. will want another game soon. The Company baseball team has started off well, by winning their first game from Co. "F" 29th Inf. Both teams played a real good game.

29th Infantry News Notes

Company "H"

For a small Company, Co. "H" came off fairly well in the field meet last Friday. Following is a list of the winners:

Sergt. Slaght, 220 yard low hurdles, 2nd place; Corpl. Daniels, running broad jump, 3rd place; Pvt. Helms, mile run, 2nd place; Sergt. Slaght, 440 yard dash, 3rd place; Sergt. Parris, high jump, 2nd place; Corpl. Taylor, Machine Gun Cart, 2nd place; Pvt. Lunz, Mounted Orderly, 3rd place; Sergt. Godfrey, Enlisted men's jumping (mounted), 2nd place; Mounted tug of war team, 2nd place; Second battalion relay (Parris, Daniels, Slaght), 2nd place; Second battalion tug of war team (Masenheimer, Cobb, E. J.), 2nd place.

Exclusive of the relay race and tug of war, the Company gathered in 21 points for the entire meet. This was enough for 3rd place. Counting only the field events, we took 4th place. A little hard luck is all that kept us out of first place.

This company was 4th on the list for deposits in the Regiment last pay day. We expect to be near the top or at the top of the lis tthis pay-day.

The Demonstration Platoon on Special Duty at the Infantry School, will soon come back to the Company for duty. This platoon has done excellent work throughout the school term.

We received some new baseball equipment for our team. There is still some more gloves to come also bats and balls. We have some good men out trying for the team, and we expect to have the team in tip-top condition for Saturday's game with the Second Bn. Headquarters Company.

Hdqrs. Co. 2nd Battalion.

We issued canteen checks on the 15th of this month, as we always do, on the 15th. This is written on the 7th, and when this item is printed, we will be spending those checks. (Beat you this time.—Ed.)

If the ever-busy photographer of the Enquirer-Sun were to ever take a notion to take a picture of this Company Area, he'd wait for ever to get the finished product. Someday, we'll complete the improving of our appearance.

Yesterday the 1st Sergt. decided that our garden needed the rake, and the Supply Sergt. did some experimenting with paints, while today Conley is finishing a bad job of window-washing started three months ago. He broke two windows which will have to be replaced.

When we do get the old ship in condition, it'll will have to be a snappy camera-man to get her right, before she busts loose again.

If this interests anybody, the recruiter from this Company is at last officially appointed. You know it had to be a native son and Sgt. Powell ought to get results, whereas outsiders would be at a disadvantage in working this foreign territory properly. Reminds me of the time someone said something about the A. F. in G. (Georgia.)

In giving the names of acquaintances in your town for the benefit of the recruiting party, it is well to forget about those fellows who are bigger than you are.

Pvt. Smolen offers the following which he jotted down a couple of days ago, at about 2 A. M. He says he has the best interests of the Company in mind at all times but if dreams are reflections of subsconscious thought, we'd better look a little deeper into the matter. An expert in dream analysis wanted.

The vision he saw was a notice on the Company Bulletin Board:

Company Baseball Team.

|---|---|
| Leonardi | Catcher |
| Jolliff | Pitcher |
| Mutz | 1st Base |
| Laveroski | 2nd Base |
| Shaffer | 3rd Base |
| Sikora | Short Stop |
| Gajtka | L. Field |
| Smith, Carl | Centerfield |
| Castro | R. Field |
| Abramovich | Pitcher (sub) |
| RHOADES | MANAGER |

These men will turn out each day at 1 P. M. for practice, as they represent the Company Baseball team.

Adam says he was very much excited but he copied just as it appeared to him.

Artillery Notes

Kid Temples went around in a sweat and awfully excited for a few days when someone asked him what the trouble was, he then replied; "I am wondering whether the captain will give me a furlough, I just simply got to go to Macon that's all there is to it.

We have our ex-M. P. meaning Roberts, back with us again, when asked why he did not stay on M. P. duty he replied, "Well they handed me a rope and told me to go out and catch stray dogs."

LOST—One O. D. soldier, answers to the name of White, finder please return to Battery "A" 83rd Field Artillery, Fort Benning, Ga.

We sure would like to know where he is, someone said he is either in Girard or the wilds of Phenix City, he'll return to the fold (as soon as he loses his happy home) they all do.

Our star baseball pitcher, Drawdy, who hails from Starks, Fla., wherever that is, has started his spring training season between the barracks. We are all beginning to wonder whether he'll get up at three o'clock in the morning and put on his baseball shoes to break the min, like he did last year.

COMING "SKIN DEEP."

"Appearance Doesn't Always Show Real Character," Star Says.

"From now on I'm not going to assume that a man is a crook simply because he looks like one," said Florence Vidor following a final pre-view of "Skin Deep," in which she plays one of the feminine leads in this special photodrama of Thomas H. Ince's.

"The wonderful thing about this picture to me, other than its tremendously fascinating story that moves with a thrill, is that it presents what will be to most of us an entirely new idea on the question of crime and criminals. The beauty of it is that there is no attempt at preaching. The story is built upon life itself supported by new developments in plastic surgery. After living in the atmosphere of this picture for weeks, I know that physical handicaps and defects play an important part in making many of our criminals.

"This great picture demonstrates the truth of this theory in a manner that is irrestible. And yet it has some of the most melodramatic and powerful scenes that I have ever witnessed. The facts revealed in this picture were a revelation to me and I know they will be the same to the millions of people who see it on the screen."

NOTICE TO COMPANY REPORTERS

It is very important that you send in the items of interest in your outfit each week. Don't save them for three or four weeks and then send down so much that we can't handle it.

History of 7th Engineers

General Orders, No. 37.

Awards of Distinguished Service Cross—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved July 9, 1918 (Bul. No. 43, W. D., 1918), the distinguished-service cross was awarded by the Commanding General, American Expeditionary Forces, for extraordinary heroism in action in Europe, to the following named officers and enlisted men of the American Expeditionary Forces, and of the Allied Forces:

Elmer W. Highley, sergeant. Medical Detachment, 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Nantillois, France, Oct. 13, 1918. Although wounded he remained on duty after his battalion had passed on and the other troops in the vicinity had been forced into dugouts, giving first aid and directing the excavation of his wounded comrades on a heavily shelled road.

David S. Oliphant, sergeant, Company "A" 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action at Romagne, France, Oct. 14, 1918. By his energy, initiative, and courage he located several machine-gun nests and captured nine prisoners and an anti-tank gun when sent out with three other soldiers to locate the enemy positions.

NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS TO BE DEMOTED

Congress Failed to Pass The Bill

When the 67th Congress closed, it left considerable unfinised work and among some of this unfinished work was a bill to increase the per centage of non-commissioned officers. Mr. McKinzie tried his best to get the bill before the House (It passed the Senate several months ago) but there were several members present who objected to anything military so the Bill was never brought up for consideration. If the bill could have gotten on the floor of the House it would have passed as the votes were there.

In view of the fact that the War Department does not have sufficient funds to pay the surplus non-commissioned it is expected that the necessary reductions will have to take place March 31st. This will work a hardship not only on the Regular Army but also on the National Guard and the Reserves.

The following gives the totals of each grade to be affected as computed from data given in the Army and Navy Journal:

WELL, CARRY IT OVER TO BLOCK 40!

The gray squirrel grinned the day he found
A packing box that was lying around;
And he yelled out loud to his sons and daughters,
"This must be some LIEUTENANT'S quarters!"

THE ARMY EXONERATED.

Nothing substantial on which to base charges.

A Congressional Committee appointed to investigate the slanderous charges by the late Senator Watson has returned its findings and cleared the army officers of all charges that were preferred.

Senator Watson acted on the statements of disgruntled ex-soldiers and others that our soldiers were shot down in cold blood by our officers.

Any person familar with the Manual of Courts Martial and the Articles of War knew at the time that the charges were preferred that this sort of killing of our soldiers by our officers was impossible.

However there is one time that a soldier may be shot on the spot and that is in actual battle when a man shows a "yellow streak" and tries to run away. The action of one man's running away will cause others to follow him and if he is not stopped it can easily cause a hasty and disorderly retreat that will make excellent targets for the enemy and many more men would be killed then if they stayed. So therefore if one man shows a "white feather" there is only one thing to do. The first man that notices him is going to shoot him down not only for his own protection but for the others as well.

General Barnum and General Irwin Arrive

Will Take Refresher Course

General Malvern-Hill Barnum and General George LeRoy Irwin arrived at this Post this week to take a "Refresher Course" at the Infantry School.

General Barnum has taken quarters in building 212517, Rooms 7 and 8 and General Irwin has taken quarters in building 212515, Rooms 7 and 8.

Upon completion of the Refresher Course General Barnum will go to Fort Constitution, N. H. to command the 18th Brigade and General Irwin will return to Washington, D. C. from where it is thought that he will go to Fort Howard, Md. to command the 16th Brigade.

The News extends heartiest congratulations to General Barnum and General Irwin on their recent promotions.

GENERAL GORDON CONGRATULATES 29th

When the 29th Infantry held their field meet during the first part of March the Commanding General was right on the job and took in the different events and was well pleased with the interest shown not only by the athletes themselves but by the support that they received from the various companies.

The following is an extract of the letter received by Colonel Goodale from the Commanding General:

I wish to congratulate you, and through you, your regiment on the splendid success of your field day and organization day on March 2nd and 3rd respectively. Not only were the athletic events most interesting and creditable in themselves and the entertainments most enjoyable, but there were noticeable, evidences of loyalty

THE CHIEF OF INFANTRY SENDS COMMENDATIONS

To Chaplain Lennon goes the Credit

The News received an extract of a letter written by the Chief of Infantry to General Gordon in which the Chief expressed his satisfaction on an editorial in the News a few weeks ago entitled "Desertion." Chaplain Lennon wrote this article and we thought that it would make an excellent editorial. To Chaplain Lennon is also due the credit for the editorial "The Sacredness of an Oath" which appeared in last week's issue. The News believes that this last editorial to be an excellent piece of writing.

The following extract of the Chief of Infantry's letter is quoted:

"In the Fort Benning News, of February 23, I noted an excellent article on the subject of Desertion. Please express to the author if you can find out who it is, my appreciation of the article and my hope that he will give further thought to the matter and publish more articles.

I also noted in the Columbus Enquirer-Sun of February 19th a copy of which you sent me to call my attention to the cold weather there, an article or rather an appeal for recruits, written by Sergeant Clarence M. Finney, Company G, 29th Infntry. The article is short and to the point, I am hoping that Sergeant Finney will continue the good work. I do not very often see the Enquirer-Sun.

I also noted in the Ledger, of February 26th that Sergeant Finney has gotten six Columbus boys to enlist in organizations at Fort Benning. Following the notice is also a short, excellent note as to the advantages offered by the Army. Sergeant Finney is certainly doing good work."

The News forwarded the extract of the above letter to Chaplin Lennon with the following additional remarks:

The Commanding officer desires that his appreciation of the editorial be conveyed to you and he joins with the Chief of Infantry in the hope that further articles of a similar nature be atributed.

The News desires to express its appreciation of the spirit of co-operation shown by yourself in the past in the matter of contributing articles which have been of material assistance in making the News a better and more representative paper and we trust that we will receive more of them in the future.

GENERAL GORDON SENDS CONGRATULATIONS TO 29th INF.

and organization spirit of the highest order.

It is most gratifying to me as the Commandant of the Infantry School to find that our chief demonstration unit has not failed in reaching a high ited corps while at the same time meeting the great demands of the Infantry School for skilled demonstrations and the large needs of the post for administration and development.

With best wishes for the further success of the 29th Infantry, I am,

"OUTCAST" GREAT PICTURE.

Said to be even better than Elsie Ferguson's "Footlights"

Said to be even bigger than "Footlights," her notable screen success, is Elsie Ferguson's latest Paramount picture, "Outcast," It is difficult to believ ethat Miss Ferguson could ever excel her work in "Footlights," but it is said she has done so in "Outcast." The picture, adapted from a popular stage play of the same name, is one of the most powerful of dramas. Included in the action is a thrilling jump from a ship by Miss Ferguson and her rescue by a seaplane. David Powell is leading man and Mary MacLaren is a prominent member of the cast.

PRIVATE 1st CLASS, ARNOLD A. KILGORE

The entire post was saddened by the death of Private First Class Arnold Kilgore, Howitzer Co., 29th Infantry, Tuesday night at the post hospital. P cmc Kilgore had been wounded earlier in the day by the accidental explosion of a trench mortar shell and succumbed to the severe injuries thus occasioned.

The funeral was held at the Post Protestant Chapel on Thursday afternoon, Chaplain Wood officiating. The entire Howitzer Company including all commissioned personnel attended in a body and full military honors were rendered the deceased. The remains will be accompanied to the home of the deceased's sister, Mrs. Ethel Joyce Morton of Rossville, Ga., by Cpl. Thomas B. Morgan of the Infantry School Detachment.

NOTEWORTHY ACTION OF CHAPLAIN ROSENTHAL

Major Frank L. Rosenthal, Chaplain, O. R. C. furnishes this post and the public in general with a most commendable example of citizenship. He has been placed on duty at this station, by permission of the Commnading General, at his own expense and is contributing his time and efforts in perfecting himself in his military capacity besides working to our common end of making Fort Benning an ever better place to be stationed at. Chaplain Rosenthal receives no pay or allowances whatever from the government and this contribution of his services is much appreciated by the post in general. Such sacrifices of ones time without even the slightest recompense other than in the satisfaction of having done more than one's duty is not so usual as to be taken for granted. in these piping times of peace.

"HURRY along to see this one!
UNIQUE in real sea sensations.
RUSHING action fills eight whirlwind reels.
ROMANCE, drama, rocking to the roar of the sea.
ISLAND paradise to Frisco's underworld.
CREEPING smugglers—swift destroyers, aerial attackers.
ALLEN HOLUBAR surely makes thrills thrill!
NO stranger role has Dorothy Philips ever played.
EIGHT magnificent reels—and even then hardly enough!
'S GAL"

Service Club No. 1 Notes

Last Thursday evening a cabaret was given by the B. F. C's in the Service Club, this being the first of a number of intertainments planned for the coming season. The main attraction of the evening were the beautiful solos rendered by Miss Cleveland and Staff Sergeant Magoni, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Cooper. Both Miss Cleveland and Sgt. Magoni are noted singers and we are always glad to have them in our midst. No doubt the most interesting thing to the men were the eats which consisted of wonderful home made cake and other dainties.

Everyone enjoyed the evening and is looking forward to another in the very near future.

A checker tournament was held at the Service Club last Friday evening, the prize going to Private George Henderson, after a long fought battle with several other players.

The Service Club committee held their regular meeting last Monday eve- ag when a new member in the person of Staff Sergeant Carswell, Medical Department, was accepted. We are glad to have Sgt. Carswell on our committee and we feel sure that he will fill a long felt need.

WANTED—A pianist to play for the soldier's Glee Club. It seems as if all the piano players have deserted us just as a real Glee Club was beginning to materialize. It is hoped that some kind lady will come to our rescue next Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

The regular weekly dance was held Wednesday evening at the Service Club with the room packed to overflowing with gay swirling dancers. A number of strange faces were among those present and we hasten to assure them a hearty welcome to our dances at all times.

General Gordon and Lieut. Honnen were honorary guest at our dance last Wednesday evening. We are always glad to have the General with us and we feel that he has our welfare at heart at all times.

General Fries inspected the company Saturday and was very well pleased with everything in general. The company also had the honor of being host to three Generals something that very few compnies have had the honor to do.

Corpl. Miller says, "I am a man of few words." He vertifies that statement when he is asked to explain any paragraph in the I. D. R.

Pvt. Spathe the company vamp became very much enraged the other evening when he mislayed his powder-puff. While searching for the lost treasure he remarked to Pvt. Shane. "Its a good thing you don't loose my temper." Now that don't say much for Shane.

Hank—"Does your watch tell time?"
Gorney—"No you have to look at it."

Things that never happen:
Tim buying out of the army.
Miller with cigarettes.
Ottey spending a dime.
Keys transfering to the M. P.'s
McCullom eating with his fork.
Leuze taking a bath twice a month.
Smith doing a day's work.
Francis eating less than fifteen hot-cakes.
Robinson minding his own business.

"LORNA DOONE" AT THE RIALTO NEXT WEEK

"Lorna Doone" will be the attraction at the Rialto for three days starting on Tuesday.

In filming "Lorna Doone," Maurice Tourneur has succeeded in translating music to the screen.

The masterly transcription of the famous R. D. Blackmore novel can easily be likened to an orchestration, with the charming romance of Lorna and John Ridd the leit motif of the whole.

The melody carried throughout the sonata by the violins may easily be imagined in the gentle charm of lovely Madge Bellamy, her pathos and golden curls like a delicate thread upon which at times hangs the appeal of the entire orchestration.

The blaring of the trumpets, the beating of the drums and the clarinet calls to action, one fancies are reproduced in the stirring battle-scenes, when the outlaw Doones sweep down from their feudal home upon the defenseless villagers, pillaging and leaving a trail of blood and horror in their wake.

And so it goes on throughout the entire production—one who loves music can find the prototype of each orchestral instrument in various parts of the silent action upon the screen.

BIG DRAMATIC MOMENTS IN "THE WOMAN'S SIDE"

Few more dramatic moments have been pictured on the screen than the one sin which Katherine MacDonald's "mother" in "The Woman's Side." a First National attraction denounces her as a nameless waif.

For years the heroine had been taught to believe she were the only daughter of a prominent judge and his wife. In a moment she was made to realize that her entrance into the hame had wrecked it because the judge refused to tell even his own wife who the girl's mother was.

"The Woman's Side" is a strong story superbly acted, the suspense of which is heightened by a strong element of mystery.

A FINE THING.

The Packard car that the Howard Bus and Taxi Co. are sending around the Post every afternoon so that the ladies of this post may not be put to a serious disadvantage when they desire to go shopping in Columbus is certainly a big help. Now ladies if hubby wants the Car in the afternoon tell him to go to and simply take a look at the schedule and catch a Packard Car and go down town anyway.

Schedule: Leave Biglerville Hall at 10 A. M. the Big Oak at Block 23 at 10:05 A. M., intersection of 1st Division and Lumpkin roads at 10:10 A. M. and the intersection of Vibbert Ave. and Lumpkin road at 10:15 A. M. Then at 5 P. M. this Packard will leave the Bus Stand in Columbus for the Fort. So this gives you over two and a half hours in Columbus to do your shopping.

Mr. Crawford states that there are not so very many persons taking ading advantage of this accomodation and suggests that if the schedule is inconvenient to call and offer suggestions and he will try to arrange the schedule so that the most people will be accomadated.

THEY PUT BIG ONES INTO LITTLE ONES.

We happened to meet Mr. Miller and Mr. Taylor of Columbus at the Post Exchange the other day and passed a little of the time of day with them.

During our conversation we learned a few new things. Remember it is never to late to learn something new. We learned for one thing that they are now in a position to put a number six foot into a number four tripple A shoe. Also that after this is accomplished the wearer of these new shoes can go to a dance and dance all night in comfort or if you are a hiker you can hike all over the post with out the least bit of discomfort. No we wouldn't dare to tell you how they do it for that would not be exactly fair and we try to be fair. Now we know some of you won't believe this but if you doubt our word just take a look at Miller and Taylor's ad. They also have a branch at the Post Exchange.

GILBERT DOUBLES UP IN NEW FOX FILM

"Honor First," a William Fox feature with John Gilbert as star, has been called by certain reviewers one of the great pictures of the year—not only from an artistic standpoint but in the uniform excellence of the acting. Gilbert plays a dual role—twin brothers, both soldiers of France in the world war, but diametrically opposite in character and disposition. One is red-blooded, the other white livered.

Gilbert has been a star for only a short time. He has, however, made greater strides than any other player appearing on hte silver sheet. Although an actor of marked ability when first cast for a stellar role, his improvement, as witnessed in his present vehicle, is declared to be most remarkable.

WEST POINT OFFICERS BANQUET BRILLIANT AFFAIR AT COUNTRY CLUB.

The Country Club last Saturday evening was the scene of a beautiful banquet given by the West Point Officers of Fort Benning, members being present from the 1887 class of General Walter H. Gordon, the commanding general, down to officers of the present time.

It was a stag affair and about ninety graduates were seated at the long tables, which were handsomely decorated in the black, gold and grey of the militairy academy. The walls and posts of the club were also draped in black, gold and grey, and quantities of lovely cut flowers were used on the mantel and tables.

There was an elaborate dinner, during which Colonel E. G. Peyton presided as toastmaster. Besides a number of speeches, the corps yells were given, and a most enjoyable program, arranged by Major Ganoe, was carried out.

Among the speakers were General Fries, of the Chemical Warfare Service; General Gordon and Colonel Heavey.

The dinner took place downstairs and the program was given in the ball-room of the Country Club.

The star of the musical program was the wife of Major Camponole, whose concert name is Elizabeth Woods, and who is one of the foremost concert singers of the country. Quite recently she gave a concert at Eolian Hall, New York, and was accompanied by the famous Frank La Forge.

Elizabeth Woods was enthusiastically received by her hearers last evening, when she sang several beautiful and finished numbers. She was accompanied by Mrs. Huebner, wife of Captaini Huebner.

Mrs. Huebner is a pupil of Harold Bauer and her accompaniments were most pleasing and sympathetic.

A moving picture machine had been installed and the West Point Officers were entertained with movies of the Athletic Reviews, etc., of the academy.

Among the distinguished guests present was General Edward Winans, who is taking the Refresher course at Fort Benning.

MRS. CHAS. ELLIOTT AND MRS. THOMAS MUSGROVE JOINT HOSTESSES.

The officers club mess was the scene of one of the largest and most beautiful bridge parties ever given at the fort, when on Thursday afternoon Mrs. Chas. Elliott and Mrs. Thomas Musgrove were joint hostesses.

Most artistic were the decorations of yellow jessimine, southern smilax and daffodils.

The top score prize, a handsome bowl, was won by Mrs. Woodson Hocker; the second prize, a pair of crystal candlesticks, was won by Mrs. Dinsmore, and the consolation, a corsage bouquet, was won by Mrs. R. C. Crawford.

There were 10 tables of players, enjoying this hospitality.

STUDY CLUB MET WITH MRS. GOODALE.

On last Monday afternoon, the Benning Study Club met with Mrs. George H. Goodale, wife of Colonel Goodale, and a most interesting progrm was carried out, all membebrs being present except Mrs. Heyward Hansell and Mrs. Frank Schneider, who were absent on account of illness.

Mrs. Leroy Watson was joint hostess with Mrs. Goodale and assisted in doing the honors.

Mrs. Chamberlin read Mrs. Hansell's paper on Siberia.

Mrs. Legge gave a paper on Japan which was an instructive study of our problem of the West and the East.

ARMY BRIDGE CLUB.

At the Army Bridge Club on last Thursday afternoon, which met at the Muscogee Club grill, the prizes were won as follows:

First prize, Mrs. Bates.
Second pprize, Mrs. Bonham.
Third prize, Mrs. Crissey.

Delicious strawberry ice cream and cake were served after the game.

The hostesses for next Thursday will be Mesdames Wiley, J. P. Moore and Shaw.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR CAPTAIN P. J. DODD.

On last Friday evening about 20 friends in the neighborhood on Waverly Terrace made up a party and went in to surprise Captain P. J. Dodd, the occasion being his birthday.

A freezer of delicious ice cream and cakes, were carried along, and the party spent the evening having a most enjoyable time.

IN HONOR OF MISS GUSSIE GUILL OF POPLAR BLUFF, MO.

Capt. and Mrs. N. L. Soderholm entertained with eight tables of bridge Saturday evening at their home on Waverly Terrace in honor of Mrs. Soderholm's sister, Miss Gussie Guill, of Poplar Bluff, Mo.

The decorations were sprays of spring jonquils and bridal wreath placed in silver baskets.

Mrs. Soderholm wore a handsome evening gown of white sequins. Miss Guill wore orange shaded chiffon.

At the conclusion of the game a salad course and coffee were served.

The ladies' prize was won by Miss Louise Lyda, a set of four wicker serving trays. The gentleman's prize by Capt. Shepherd, a cigarette box. The boobie, Capt. Griffin, a set of good-edge cards.

NOW KEEP THE BALL ROLLING.

During the short time that the News has been in existence the editorial staff, and the command at large, have been, when least expected, refreshed by bits of "copy" sent in for publication by unknown friends.

Such matter is pounced upon by the News in a manner suggestive of the proverbial hen and June-bug. The "Stuff" is made all the better, possibly though it is only human to want to know who your friends are because of the fact that it is unsigned. Some of it is funny and the reading of it boosts one's morale; very occasionally a knock comes in and, while the condition for the use of the trustworthy hammer exists to such an extent as to be noticeable, the story has to be deleted because the News strives to help people to forget their troubles, real or imaginary, and the knocks merely bring them to mind.

The readers of this paper can assist materially in its mission by either mailing in something original with a kick in it or, if, like most of us, the faculty for writing funny things is lacking, just clip, out something that struck you as being particularly funny and thereby render assistance in passing it on t othe other fellow.

If you cannot write maybe you can draw a cartoon. The News has facilities for producing cartoons and these are ever welcome. Pick the right subject-something of interest to the entire garrison—make the drawing clear and funny and then forwardit to the News. A great many things can be said with a cartoon that would give offense if written.

The News is anxious to have every member of the garrison feel that he or she has a personal interest in the paper. This is the only Service paper in the vicinity representing the military personnel and it should not only represent but be representative.

The obstacles which have had to be overcome in the organization of the paper have been slowly removed. Our change in printers will it is believed tend to eliminate the typographical errors which have been legion in the past. Changing the system of delivery from motorcycle courier to U. S. Mail should insure a copy getting to everybody—if the latest directory is correct. Increasing advertising is enabling the News to afford a full twelve page paper thereby enabling a greater variety of reading matter. Faults which have been apparent to the readers than to the News are being remedied as they are brought to our attention.

The News can be made, a real paper if everybody boosts it. It is as much your paper as it is anybody's. "Lets Go!"

ST. PATRICK

Patrick, the Patron Saint and Apostle of Ireland, was born at Kilpatrick, near Dumbarton, in Scotland, in the year 387, and died at Saul, Downpatrick, Ireland, March 17, 493. The story of how he was captured by pirates and sold into slavery, of how he tended sheep as a slave in Ireland, escaped to the continent, was educated and sent to Ireland as Bishop about the year 432 are known to everybody interested in Ireland. So, too, is known the story of his conversion of the Island to Christianity. But few stop to think of the tremendous political changes effected in Ireland through the work and teachings of this one, great man.

At the end of the fourth century Ireland was pagan. Not only were the rulers and the people pagan, but the government, institutions, the philosophy, and the poetry were also pagan. The changes from paganism to Christanity was a radical one, and the remarkable thing about it was that this revolution in religion and the concomitant revolution in political thought was accomplished without the sacrifice of a single martyr, and by the efforts, and within the lifetime of a single man, St. Patrick. Though this, in itself, may seem extraordinary, yet upon consideration more extraordinary still seems the permanency of the changes so wrought.

Though St. Patrick was not an Irishman, in all matters, pertaining to Ireland and the Irish, he thought and acted as an Irishman. Nor was he passively Irish, but, on the contrary, actively and militantly so. In international affairs he exerted every effort to preserve Ireland intact from the raids, inroads, and piratical attacks of "foreign nations," whether Britons, Scots or Norsemen. In national affairs he actively interested himself in the domestic reforms of his time. He was a member of a committee of nine, appointed by King Iaeghaire, to revise and codify the Irish or Brehon law, and all the Brehon laws that conformed to Christanity we[illegible] and those that conflict[illegible] These none mer[illegible] work, brough[illegible]chus Mo[illegible]rish [illegible]as followed in Ireland until the time of Cromwell in the seventeenth century.

In all of his teachings, St. Patrick held before the Irish People the real sanction underlying and supporting the organization of human society and the state—God and religion, and thus he succeeded in instilling into the minds of his people a most profound regard for the law, for the rights and property of others. Sir John Davies, the great English jurist, commenting on this, once said:

"There is no nation of people under the sun that doth love equal and indifferent justice better than the Irish, or will rest better satisfied with the execution thereof, although it be against themselves, so as they may have the protection and benefit of the law when upon just cause they do desire it."

The result of St. Patrick's work are seen in the gradual tendency toward the establishment of a united Ireland manifested during the period from the sixth to the early eleventh century, and the intense national feeling of the Irish as manifested through the centuries of English occupation and attempted subjugation, so much so that it has frequently been said that Ireland, though invaded and overcome, as never conquered.

To St. Patrick, therefore, probably more than to any other single person, is due the great love of country of the Irish people, the great surge of patriotic feeling, the sincere respect for law and its institutions, the intense devotion to religion, the abiding hatred of tyranny and oppression, and the unfailing willingness to fight in any cause where justice and right are at stake.

(Where shall I say I've been tonight?)

Old top Sergeant John MacSwatt,
Had the henpecked husband's lot,
Around the house he wasn't sure,
If he owned his soul or not.
If he came home a little late
For him his wife would always wait,
And so before he'd touch the door
He'd stand and hesitate.
A friend came by and asked him why
He didn't go inside.
Mac's looks were tearful
His breath was beerful
As to him he replied.

CHORUS

O, where shall I say I've been tonight?
What shall I tell the wife?
Every time I come home late
I tremble for my life
You see this dimple on my chin?
She put it there with a rolling pin,
And when the flatirons fly they don't go by,
She throws like Matty can!
Please help me think up something quick—
A good stall is worth my life,
Without a good excuse to slip her
I'd just as soon meet Jack the Ripper!
On bended knees, I ask you ,please,
Where shall I say I've been tonight?

PRIZE CONTEST DRAGS ALONG.

But one contestant for the steam heated ear muffs has so far appeared, owing perhaps to the fact that it is warmer this week than has been the case hitherto. Private Bath, of the 7th Engineers, sends in the following paean of victory—

"Them ear muffs, steam heated is mine!" Major Reekal put some onions in his car in Columbus and when he got to camp he found nothing. They had been changed to onion syrup and had run out thru a hole in the floor of his car.

This is a likely contestant and if any one else cares to have the ear muffs, all we can say is he's got to go some to beat Private Bath, Co. "A," 7th Engineers.

THEIR HOPES AND FEARS.

29th Infantry—Steam heated barracks (hope).

24th Infantry—A forced issue of watermelon (prayer).

The Student Officers—One tenth of a point (obsession).

The Instructors—Straight duty (Horror).

The 7th Engineers—"Bridge floats down Upatoie!" (Nightmare).

SAYS THE SIBLEY STOVE.

"What tho you never fail,
Of coal to steal a pail
Or hunt around for wood nor green nor wet—
What tho ten times you rise
To rub your smoke filled eyes,
And add another chunk—I win the bet!"

"Grow cold along with me!
The worst is yet to be,
To last all night I never could be set,
Cut wood with blistered hands,
And e'en my chimney cram—
I'll chill by two A. M. and freeze you yet!"

SECOND THOUGHTS ARE BEST

Recruit doing his first tour of Guard duty. During challenging hours, he sees someone approaching his post.

Recruit, Halt; Who's there?

Answer to challenge, "Officer of the day."

Recruit, stuck, silent for about a minute.

O. D.—"Well, what are you going to do? Are you going to keep me standing here at attention all night?"

Recruit—"Rest."

HOW WE DO IT.

"How do you manage to fill up the paper"
Is a question not amiss.
When we run out of sense we just cut up a caper
And write some junk like this.

AND THE ECHO ANSWERS, "WHERE?"

We wonder where they ever got that name, "DOUGH" boy. Never saw an outfit that had less of it!

C'MON SEVEN!

A 24th Infantry bo'
At rolling the bones wasn't slow.
But Captain Clarke spied him
And Colonel N—— tried him
So now to the brig he must go!

HERE'S A GRIN AID!

A foolish recruit with a grin
Picked a hand grenade up by the pin.
When at last it slipped out
He was sent with a clout
To the place that all fools should be in!

"THE OLD ARMY."

The best joke we have heard lately is an old one. We are informed that it hung at the bottom of a picture in the Army and Navy Club in Washington. This picture portrayed an imploring officer and an Hibernian private, tears starting to the eyes of each.

"Why can't you learn to drink like an officer and a gentleman?", demands the officer.

"Hiven help me, if Oliver did, Soir," says Private Pat, "Oid be dead in a week!"

IN THE WRONG OUTFIT.

Rev. Snowball: "Brudder, come jine de Army of the Lord."

Rastus: "Reverend, I'se already a memba."

Rev. Snowball: "Whut yo' outfit?"

Rastus: "I'se a Baptist."

Rev. Snowball: "Man, you all don't belong to de Army, you belong to de Navy."—Recruiting News.

WISE LOOKING?

Recruit—"What's the meaning of those collar ornaments that the C W. S. wars? Looks like a couple of crossed meerschaums!

Old Timer—"Well, hasn't the C. W. S. got a pipe?"

A LONG, LONG TRAIL.

1st Mate on transport (To Bos'n)—"Do you realize we've been sailing for six weeks and haven't got anywhere yet?"

Bos'n—'We must have got caught in some of those military channels I've heard so much about."

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

Green Sentry—"Turn out the guard, Officer of the Day!"

O. D. salutes, indicating "As you were!"

Green Sentry—"Never mind the Officer of the Day!"

ON ITS LAST LEGS!

A simple announcement on the front page of the last issue of Hoof Prints, Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., says: "Owing to lack of funds at this time Hoof Prints is discontinued until further notice."

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

Chapter V.

On Meals and Mess Sergeants.

1. A poor meal is even as a ditch dug on a rainy day—all thank Heaven when it is finished.

2. Knowest thou a company which rejoiceth in its Mess Sergeant? Speed then thy transfer thereto for it is a place of utter pleasantness.

3. The waist belts of those who hunger and thirst are filled and without limit yet the dish of slumgullion is not passed and its name is not heard.

4. He who would be esteemed as worthy the name of Mess Sergeant must hold ever in his right hand the meat cleaver and in his left hand the keys to the ice box. He maketh oft count of its contents.

5. He bestirreth the cooks.

6. For they delight in yet more sleep and folding of the hands to rest even tho the hour for breakfast approacheth and the guard clamoreth for chow.

7. Yea, he regardeth the cooks with rigour and trusteth them not—they are artists and not prudent men.

8. He seeth that the coffee fainteth not from weakness nor yet that the butter rejoiceth overmuch in its strength.

9. He preserveth order at meal time and concerneth himself that the recruit from Dublin who sitteth even at the farthest end of the table receiveth even as much of the pink ice cream as doth the old timer seated near the kitchen to whom the K. P. oweth four bits.

10. He withholdeth from him whose hair is not combed but giveth liberally to such as have washed their hands before eating.

11. For from old time which was before this hath the Mess Sergeant been held responsible for the table manners of recruits.

12. He scanneth the garbage cans closely lest the silver ware be presented to the pigs and in this wise also doth he detect the roast which the cook hath burnt and would fain conceal 'neath large cabbage leaves.

13. He keepeth his eye ever peeled lest the sanitary inspector cometh and so agile is he that even if one entereth the kitchen and giveth no warning yet the dish-cloths are not seen for the Mess Sergeant hath quietly wadded them down his pants leg.

14. One trangression hath the good Mess Sergeant and one only. When any ask, "Scald ye the dishes after each meal?" he lieth glibly and respondeth, "O,yes sir" yet hath this scalding not really ever taken place from the first beginnings of the army of Samuel even unto this day.

15. Yet, by so prevaricating he saveth the captain the making of much indorsements and his own warrant also continueth longer in force.

16. The monthly account of him who runneth the commissary doth the Mess Sergeant examine with much scrutiny and close reading even as an M. P. scanneth the pass on which the date hath been changed.

17. So doth the rations record unheard of savings and the captain receiveth much praise for the work which no one but his Mess Sergeant hath done.

18. For the Mess Sergeant who is given all the credit which is due him existeth not any where and is as hard to find as a guard house without rats in the army of Samuel.

Corpl. Mays returned from a three months furlough on March 3rd, which was spent at his home in Louisville, Kentucky. He was accompanied by Mrs. Mays. They are now stopping with Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Mimms, 24th Infantry.

Sergt. Williams was noticed not to have given his weekly blow out to Vaudeville girls. What's the trouble Sergeant, have you another object in view?

Corpl. Barnett surely must have slept with a roll of adhesive tape under his pillow, as he seems to adhere to Columbus, all of a sudden.

Company "D"

Pvt. Finch, better known as "Last Chance" is so anxious to make the boys think that he is a shack wizard until he is writing letters to himself, and the guy he claimed delivered the message hasn't been to town since Ft. Benning was founded.

Pvt. Booker, the shoe butcher, was 2 days half-soling a pair of shoes. After the job was finished he discovered that he had put the soles on backward, and said "Every day in every way he is getting better and better."

"Kid Crip" and "Jell-o" is kind-O' worried about Corpl. Givens moving. They claim that they missed a month of Sunday dinners helping the Corpl. get lumber to build his mansion.

Company "E"

Corpl. Harvey Haywood, commonly known as Cat, seems to be awful busy each Wednesday night, powdering and primping to hold 1st place as the Regimental Wall Flower at the weekly dances.

Pvt. Winfred Brown has at last learned the way to town after remaining in camp for the past four months. I wonder who is the magnet.

It seems strange to everybody in the company why Cook VanHook writes so many letters. I suppose he intends to cross the great divide once more.

Sergt. Harrison Hogan, has made so many trips in the blocks that he will be forced to requisition for a new pair of feet soon. It must be cheaper to move than to pay rent with him. Keep it up.

Company "I"

Wedding bells rang at Bainbridge, Ga., once more. One of the most beautiful events of the season was the wedding of Miss Mabel G. White, to Sergeant Oliver E. Handy, of Co. I, 24th Infantry, at the home of the bride. Corpl. Wm. Williams was best man. Many friends of the happy couple wish them success.

Sgt. Campbell (Dude), was told to name the parts of the rifle. His answer was: "Three parts, wood, metal and leather."

Everybody is hoping that the Swimming Pool of the 24th Infantry, will be completed before Andrew Flukes retires. We can not go to the river because Capt. Teachout is afraid that we will get our feet or Throat wet.

Look out Company "K" our old pitcher Sgt. Butler was seen warming up yesterday afternoon. He has invented a new ball called the "Chattahoochee Glide."

Corpl. Reeves (Noisy) has regained his mind, he heard from Columbus, last Saturday.

Company "K"

Sergt. Jesse Tolbert has awarded Uncle Sam a contract for his services for another enlistment. Company "K" is fortunate to have the continued services of Sergt. Tolbert with all his appurtenances—his trusty lizzie, his efficient service as employment agent, and his loyalty to his organization.

The company library has recently been enlarged by a number of volumes secured by the C. C. on the history of the World War. Many viligant eyes will search through these volumes to find some reference to the part he played in the recent hostilities.

Should auld acquaintances be forgot! Never! Watch old man MacCauley and old man Russell take their jaunts with all the exuberance of youth he R. S. O. recently observing this pair together commented on the splendid example they made for the youngsters in the organization.

Company "L"

Members of Company "L"'s fast nine (9) are getting into shape fast. They are expecting to have the best team in the area.

To whom it may concern! There will be a club organized in Company "L" known as the heart breakers club. For membership apply to Corpl. John H. Kitchens & Troup.

We are proud to know that we have in this company a certain recruit Sergeant that thinks himself a spokesman. Keep it up Sergeant you are young yet. (Sergt. Shannon.)

Private Sam C. Jones, alias (H. M. Jones) is the only one in capacity that can eat peas out of a jug.

Company "M"

All is quiet along Bull Creek to a para-phrase a famous message and it is equally quiet in Company "M" as the 6-8-10-12 list is alarmingly short on personnel. S'matter men? or it is the "Top-kick" or the Cap'n? However this does not apply to T. M., who, being flush with moneda, this past payday.

We have with us tonight Corpl. W. J. (you see we assiduously avoid calling names) as other say: the most diabolically surreptitious devilkin who ever hambled through the blocks and who, by his devious caustic ways of destroying adversaries, makes him more to be feared that a cobra de capello; My buddy wants to know where we go a-nights; all we can say, recalling something about discretion being a part of valor, is—that that is a mystery to many and were it not so, we would not be going at all.

Thomas Claiborne, our new arrival from the Cavalry arm, has not yet drawn his bonus. We wish that he would consult us before spending it.

Service Company

We are as proud to have the 24th Infantry band as a part of the personnel of the Service Company as the commanding officer is to have it as part of the 24th Infantry. The band has just returned from a trip to Tuskegee Institute, where it rendered excellent music. Following the men of the band came a letter from the Officials of the Institute, commending the men on their soldierly appearance and gentlemanly conduct.

The uniforms mentioned in the last issue of the News, have been received and I must say that there is not a prouder Company than the Service Company. We have reasons to believe that our uniforms will be the best in Fort Benning.

At last we have a spooney Drum Major. 1st Sgt. Larkins makes a wonderful appearance and makes the band the best appearing outfit in the service today.

We are about to lose another faithful old timer, Staff Sgt. Davis retires about the end of the month. We certainly hate to lose him.

Company "B"

Pvt. Frager, known as nubby, has had bad luck—poor boy. The game is not hard and you are not barred, go to town and see what is going on.

Corpl. Robert T. the slow kid, you are picking up speed again. You have seen men in the air, riding, flying and falling elsewhere. You have seen them dive like submarines, but if you do not keep the real speed, there is something that your natural eye will not see.

BASEBALL—INF. SCHOOL WINS.

On last Friday afternoon the Infantry School met the Piedmont College at the post diamond and the result was that The Infantry School won the first game of the season by a score of 8 to 0.

The first time that the Infantry went to bat every man of the team batted and the result was five runs. During the remaining six innings the Infantry School ran in three more runs one in the second and two in the third. The last four were scoreless.

Piedmont was very unsettled in the beginning of the game but in the last half of the game they settled down and did some good work.

Hutchinson is Star.

Hutchinson, ex-University of Ga. star, was the pitching selection to start for the Infantry and "Hutch" came through with brilliant honors. He had the Piedmont batters eating out of the palm of his hand and gave up but two hits in the five innings worked. Fact of the matter only one visiting runner reached third in the entire setto.

If Hutchinson continues the performance of yesterday he will be a shining light in the Infantry front ranks this season. In the sixth frame he gave way to McNutt, submarine ball artist, who finished the battle. McNutt has world's of stuff and yielded but one hit in the two remaining innings. This lad is another who will be heard from in the big classics which are to follow.

Shrimp Milburn led the Infantry in slugging honors. The scrappy little backstop made four trips to the pan and each time smashed out a single. Fountaine and Honnen each claimed two safe raps and all came at timely moments. The three sluggers promise to prove arsenic for a few visiting slabsmen this season.

Both teams fielded well and the error column was scant for a first game. It was a reasonably fast game considering the fact that being an opener a number of tryouts were naturally made.

Batteries, Inf School—Hutchinson 5, McNutt 2 and Milburn catcher.

Piedmont—Swinney 4, Forester 1 1-3 Forester F. 4 2-3.

INFANTRY SCHOOL WINS 2nd GAME FROM PIEDMONT

When the Infantry School met the Piedmonters for the second game of the season at Driving Park the Doughboys wolloped them to the tune of 18 to 3.

The first four innings were a real game and was a battle between the pitchers Jack Finnessey and H. Forester. In the third Forester began to weaken and when the fifth frame started the Doughboys went wild and just started going around the bases which reached a climax in the sixth inning when the Infantry crossed the home plate for 11 runs.

The Piedmonters tried to change the slaughter in the sixth by putting Henderson in the box.

It was at the opening of the game that it looked dangerous for the doughboys for in the first frame when several of their players got a few good hits but by Finnessey's good pitching and faultless fielding the Pieds only got two runs.

Davis relieved Finnessey in the sixth and he finished the game and held the Pieds hitless.

TENNIS.

The Infantry School Tennis Team will play matches this year with Georgia Tech, Atlanta Athletic Club, Albany Tennis Club, Wofford College, Macon Country Club and others.

Seven matches have already been scheduled.

Seven season will start early in April.

All officers at Fort Benning are eligible to complete for places on the team.

Not more than eight student officers may be excused from 3:00-4:00 P. M. in order to practice tennis.

Officers wishing to try out should submit their names to the tennis committee at once.

The following officers are on the Tennis Committee: Major C. B. Elliott, 1st Sec. D. M. A.;Captain L. H. Watson, 1st Sec. D. M. A.; Captain T. D. Finley, 2nd Sec. D. M. A.; Captain R. C. VanVliet, Jr., 1st Sec. D. M. A.; Captain K. S. Whittmore, Co. "C", Company Officers' Calss; Captain J. S. Switzer, 29th Infantry.

POLO.

29th Inf. defeat the Blues.
83rd F. A. defeat the Yellows.

The two polo games started March 4th were ended last Sunday by the 29th Infantry defeating the Blues, score 10 to 7, and the 83rd Field Artillery defeating the Yellows 9 to 0.

The Blues started the game with a rush when they scored in the fifth and sixth. Putting them one point ahead of the 29th Inf. Legge made one of the points and French two. At the end of the sixth Douglas for the 29th made a point for the 29th Inf. so that at the end of the period the score stood 7 all.

In the seventh McClure made one tally and another in the eighth with Betts making a point in the last period while the Blues seemed to have gone blind as they were unable to ride the ball.

In the 2nd game which was played between the 83rd F. A. and the Yellows, the Artillery were determined to win and played fast and hard so that the Yellows were unable to put the ball across their goal line while the 83rd couldn't miss the goal line. The result was that Biderlinden scored four points himself. Roxbury made one in the seventh and McCarthy made a final score in the last period.

Next Sunday the 29th Inf. and the 83rd F. A. will tangle for four periods. The remaining four periods will be played the following Sunday. The winner of this game will be the winners of the Dierk's Cup which is presented to the winning team each year by the Dierk's Jewelry Store of Columbus.

This should be a tip top game and full of tense breath-holding moments.

Also the Blues and Yellows will tangle for a four period game this coming Sunday and the remaining four periods the following Sunday.

STRATEGY?

From the musty pages, which have drifted through the ages,
(Translated and amended by the "Inquisition Board"
(At a dollar fifty net—fourteen twenty for the set—
(Published by the Author of the "Handbook-Of-The-Sword")
We discover with dismay, that the battles of that day .
Were commanded almost wholly by the "Angels of the Lord"—
And the field of Armageddon—Not the one that T. R. bled on,
Is as good an illustration as our histories record.
Of "ridiculous inaction" and the subsequent impaction.
Of the Chariots-of-Iron, and the Moabitish Horde

Their strategy was awful! In fact T'was most unlawful:
For they put a dozen chaplains in the very front and van.
Sending forth an untimatium (just to hurry'um and bait'um!
With the sanction of Jehovah, if they plunked a holy man,
But probably misdoubtin' the high priests set to shoutin',
Encompassing the temple and a drummin' on a pan
Till the commissary camels and the various other animals
Stampeded and were scattered from Beer-She-Ba unto Dan.

In spite of much dispersion and their subsequent immersion,
Old Gideon crossed the Jordan and the King of Midians ran,

So if he is right, in part, in the Military Art,
The posted up solution may be just as god as mine.

Dept. of Gen. Subj. Equitation Sec.

In Hippology Class: Lt. Ducrot in sotto voice, "What do you know about that Calvary officer, telling those officers that the fetlock is down there on the foot instead of at the animal's poll! And none of them know any better."

Heard daily at Equitation, 1st Platoon, "Capt. Lambert, how do I look now? Are my legs all right?"

The officers are showing good form in jumping, going through the chutes. For instance, when Number Seventy-one went through like a house afire and then made a sharp turn to the left Mighty good over the jumps, though, Seventy-one!

We look for good weather this week; at least, Private Allen, Blake and Potter are hoping for the same, during their five days out on reconnaissance with Military Art Department.

Also, looking farther ahead, the men hope that they will have an independent outfit next year. They are all strong for a mounted detachment, usch as was started last year and then suffered sudden death. Perhaps they have some ideas about the troop officers, too, if the Mtd. Dta. idea goes through.

COMPANY "A," COMPANY OFFICERS' CLASS

The grand finale of the indoor baseball season was a bitterly fought contest between the 1st and 2nd platoons which the former won by a 14 to 4 score. The battery for the winners was Althaus and Bartow. For the team which finished in second place Doddridge and Peddie Carter officiated.

"Dad" Fowle and Curtis represented each platoon on the staff of umpires, spending the greater part of the time watching each other. The feature of the game was a home run by Tom Brand and "Lill" Bell's matterly cavorting about the left field.

Company "A" smoked Roi Tans last Monday at the expense of Capt. W. A. Dumas whose one day old daughter sent several boxes to the lecture hall. The gimme and gotta squadron, Ellis Bates commanding, made a successful daylight raid on the smoke.

---

During a musketry exercise Corp. Addington was presented by a slightly built member of his squad with the latest type of fire control instrument—one rock, jagged. David and Goliath tactics are now coming to the fore. Principles never change!

Recruiting News Notes

Our recruiting campaign is now in full blast and the prospects look good for a record showing, so far we have made 36 enlistments and the chances are good to go over the top with 100 recruits for the month.

We have a wide awake bunch of enthusiastic young soldiers in the field in addition to our regular force and they all seem intent on making their quota. Our regular canvassers are doing good work, too, more power to'em.

Some of you fellows know one or more men at home that you believe would make good soldiers and also are looking for the kind of a job that the Army has to offer to those men who are willing to Put Out a little bit.

If you will send in the names and addresses to the Recruiting Office we will see what can be done about getting them enlisted.

29th Infantry News Notes

SERVICE CO. 29TH INFANTRY

The Service Company Baseball team is stepping out in big league fashion. Our standing is perfect, played two, won two, nuf sed. Our first victim this year was Company E whom we decorated with a 13 to 7 defeat. The next victim to fall an easy prey for us was Regimental Headquarters Company, whom the veteran Sisco bewildered with his slants. Our next game is with the 2nd Bn. Hq. Co. and we have a hunch that they, like their predecessors, will also leav ethe diamond with the short end of the score. Frnk Hollaender, the veteran baseball manager is perfectly satisfied with our present lineup, to which he boastfully refers as impregnable. "Slick" Willis, the one pitcher who keeps 'em all guessing and Walter Sisco who is already well known in this regiment because of his great pitching ability are our star hurlers. With Carter and Ingle as additional pitchers, Shay as catcher, Ruggerior and Zigler first base, McCaslin and Rothfarb as short stops, Steele second base, Balderson and Archer 3rd Base, Hardesty Left Field, Lotz Center Field and McCullough Right Field, the prospects for the future are very bright. All of these men are veterans who have been tried on many a baseball diamond throughout the army and have made good. The Service Company is all set to receive the championship cup this yer as they did last year.

1st. BATTALION HDQRS. CO.

Pvt. Rudd while out during manoevers last week, helped to get wood to keep the fire going. This action on his part was so unusaul on his part that the writer deems it worthy of note. We hope that this undue exertion has no bad effect on hishealth.

Pvt. Bard of this company, our champion flapjack eater challenges all comers in this field. His record to date is 37 at one sitting. Those wishing to complete must furnish their own hot cakes.

Pvt. Ramsay is getting to be short timer, it won't be long now before he will be singing on the dotted line again for another three years.

Company "A"

This Company commenced Range practice this morning, March 14th, 1923, and we all hope that the Percentage of qualifications will be very high this season.

The man that we have out on Recruiting Duty is doing very well in getting recruits, as we have had a communication from him stating that he has already accepted two men in the short time that he has been out. At this rate in about six or seven months Sergt. Hall and Corpl. Justin will be about two-thirds of the company.

We know a lot but don't have time to tell it as we have to go out on the range and do our other work while we are resting.

Company "B"

It is with regret that we see the discharge of one Corporal Camille Robillard, from this organization, as he said that there would be no more army for him. But I am of the opinion that there will be, just as soon as the Final Statements run out. Take a soldiers' advice and re-enlist and save your money.

There is to be a News Box on the News Reporters Tent, and any one desiring to publish their little say so's, will drop same in the box and oblige yours truly.

Now don't blame me Sergt. Humphrey—a little bird told me—Did you know that Sergt. Humphrey is a good waiter. I have, at numerous times noticed him waiting outside the, "Snuff Chewers Ball," for a certain party. When the grand and hilarious ball is over the gallant Sergt. forms his squad in mass formation, makes a rush upon the fair maidens, as he has a bewitching eye, a most beautiful smile with a cute little dimple in each cheek, the personality of a man, they cannot resist this Knight of Preeminence. Of his avidity in absorbing all the ladies I am averse and believe he should introduce his friends and auspicate a good thing for us. Tell your friends you seen this in the Fort Benning News.

Company "C"

At last the time has come to go on the range, scarcely a man in the Company expects to make less than Sharp shooter.

We had a Chattahoochee river of our own Monday P. M. after the big rain, Sergt. Rudloff had his paddles ready to roe his tent if it started down the street.

"C" Company is 100 per cent. American Legioneers, every man, eligible is a member, and Sergt. Foster who is a member of this Co. is the oldest member in this Camp.

Our beloved friend Sergt. Egizi is re-enlisting, he says the only thing he dislikes is waisting time enlisting for three years he likes the seven year hitches better, he would be missed more than an other man in the Company, especially by his rom mate Rosie, she might go hungry some time but as Rosie is a pretty good puppy most any body would take care of her.

We are all well pleased with our new Mess Sergt. McKnight, the Company Commander has been trying ever since he took Command of the Company to make this the best feeding Co. in the Regiment, we are beginning to see the fruits of his efforts.

Headquarters Co., 2nd Bn.

Spring is here—all signs of it are apparent when one regards the activities of our gardeners around the Company Area. Our Supply Sergt. and First Sergt. are both doing their worst to show a superior knowledge and handiwork in the cultivation of green grass around the immediate vicinity of their places of business. Who's a farmer? The way the personages mentioned are digging in, kind of tells the tale. I'm willing to bet on the guy that comes from Rural Retreat.

The mystery of the oil stocks—Ask Pvt. Smolen.

A tragic incident of the Fort Benning Flood was revealed the other day. Pvt. Jenkins saved the life of one resident of this reservation and reserves some commendation. The rabbit was almost dead from exposure to the storm anyway, but the elements were cheated out of the victim when somebody accidentally stepped on him and finished the job.

Company "E"

We brought home the bacon last Saturday when we took "H" Company in to the tune of 9 to 4. Our star twirler registered fourteen strikeouts to his credit.

A Corpl. by the name of Graham is having a great time trying to get the boys out for fatigue, but when chow call goes you should see them turning out.

What with plenty of Corn and some old Sharks the only way to save your money is to ut it in the Quartermaster and let them hold it until you get discharged.

Company "G"

If you wonder why Co. "G" is so successful in everything it undertakes, just look up our deposit list and then read the old saying, "He who saves, succeeds."

Steele, Blankenship and Co., Motorcycle repairers, after taking their motorcycle apart and as they called it, repair it, now they have nineteen pieces which they left over and cannot find a place for them.

Corpl. Burt was out horseback riding on Saturday and the horse that he had has had it's neck in bandages and has been stiff since he was ridden by Burt. All the hair on both sides of his neck was worn off too.

Just a little tip, watch "G" Co.'s baseball team this season. We are after all the scalps around so better practice, better practice.

Company "H"

Our baseball team lost to "E" Company by a narrow margin last Saturday. The team lacked practice—not ability or spirit.

Sergt. Parris is making good on the Infantry team. He is playing like a veteran. We hope he continues the good work.

There were some magazines and newspapers ordered for the Company the other day. Most of the best magazines were on the list.

RECEICED TOO LATE FOR LAST WEEK.

Company "D"

Pvt. Finch, was the center of attraction at the dance Wednesday night, but when a certain lady asked him to dance with her, he couldn't move his feet.

Company "B".

Pvt. McGuire, has something happened to you since coming back from Americus, Ga. You used to get a letter in a pink envelope every day, and staying in camp on Sundays. Is something out of the question.

Company "B" was out drilling the other day with their rifles under the supervision of their Top Kick "Si" S. J. and he was explaining the different movements, and said at the command, forward march. I want to see each man throw his piece diagonally across his body chest and step off with both feet at the same time. Explain yourself "Si".

Company "E".

Capt. John F. Farnsworth now commanding Co. "E" has done much toward making the recreation of his command pleasant.

Sgt. Francis is now with his Co. after a brief leave.

1st Sgt. Hart has been worrying about who he is going to debate with when he retires as he will leave Sgt. Gunn here.

Say, by the way I met Old Hoss Ballard the other day but he did not have anything on his mind other than his hat. Seems strange a few years ago everything that went wrong in certain places, the slogan was: "Old Hoss and his gang." I wonder who it is now, as he is playing in the field.

Sgt. Hogan is still in the blocks. Also Big Tom has block ideas in his dome.

Company "F".

We are glad to say that Lt. Morgan E. Jones is again with us after an extended visit to Florida and elsewhere.

Since our arrival in Georgia, (Bugs) Taylor has picked many of the peaches.

Pvt. Clarence O'Neal is again ready for duty after spending about sixty days leave in Griffin, Ga.

We are glad to say that Co. "F" has the explainiest man in the 24th Inf. Ask Pvt. Knight of tent 38, he knows.

Motor Transport Notes

Spooky Stuff.

At a pop-corn party the other night, Pvt. Moffett was telling of his experience with residence of the other worlds, Pvt. Blackshear told of holding a conversion with a ghost. Pvt. Price said that he had shaken hands with a ghost, others followed suit until all had exhausted the list of possible activities with spirits, the remainder of the evening was spent dancing to harmonious strain of the graphonola, after which the guess departing for homes, Pvt. Blackshear who had to see to a Miss (X) getting to Wynnton, was a little late in making connection with the Bus line, so he started out, thniking that he may catch something coming to Post, just then he heard something coming up behind him, turning around to see what it was, and at the same time thinkink about holding a Conversion with a ghost so up the road he started, and when the last chance was reached he stopped to rest awihle, up steps the ghost, touch him on the shoulder, and says Soldier we sure was running. Pvt. Blackshear looked up and said yes and when I catch my breath we are going to run some more.

So much of Par. 5, Motor Transport News dated March 2, 1923, is revoke and to read, instead of Private David Hawkins having the best go with Miss (X) Private Green Smith will have the best go.

Artillery Notes

BATTERY "B"

The musical entertainment given by Cpl. Harrison last Sunday evening, was enjoyed very much, we will be glad to have you give us some more music Willie, but please wait until everybody is on the range.

Quite a number of the boys went down to see the "Battling Artillery" Polo team bring home the Bacon.

Pvt. Snider spent the week end with his parents at Buena Vista, Ga., and is very sick because he could not spend a week to help plant the March corn. Don't worry Snider we will let you plant the flowers around the Barracks.

We notice that Cpl. Piazza the Battery Athlete is getting his baseball players in trim for the coming season.

NOTICE TO COMPANY REPORTERS

It is very important that you send in the items of interest in your outfit each week. Don't save them for three or four weeks and then send down so much that we can't handle it.

24th INFANTRY LOSES CAPABLE FIRST SERGEANT.

An outstanding event of the week among 24th Infantry personnel was the regimental review tendered 1st Sergeant John Williams of Company "B" just prior to his retirement from active service. The review as ordered by Colonel Nicklin, commanding the 24th Infantry, took place on the regimental parade ground on Wednesday afternoon. At a supper given by the non-commissioned officers of the regiment Thursday night in honor of 1st Sgt. Williams, he was presented with an expensive gold watch and chain to remind him as time passes of the esteem in which his comrades held him. The order announcing his retirement appears below:

General Orders, No. 4.

1. The Regimental Commander desires to bring to the attention of the officers and enlisted men of the regiment the record of the long, honorable and faithful service of First Sergeant JOHN WILLIAMS, Company B, 29th Infantryy, who was placed on the retired list per paragraph 19, Special Orders No. 52, War Department, March 3, 1923. A Regimental Review will be tendered him on Wednesday, March 14, 1923.

First Sergeant WILLIAMS entered The United States Army October 18th, 1899. He has served 22 years, 4 months and 13 days in the 24th Inf- and was a non-commissioned officer over twelve years.

He participated in engagements against insurectors on Northern Luzon, Philippine Islands from January 1, 1900 to May 25, 1901, and fanatical Pulajanes on the Island of Leyto, Philippine Islands, 1906 and 1907.

During the World War he served as Second Lieut., 350th Machine Gun Battalion with the A. E. F. in France.

St. Die Sector, Vosges, from August 23, 1918 to September 30, 1918; Meuse Argonne Forest with 1st Army from September 26, 1918, to September 30, 1918; Marbacho Sector from October 9, 1918 to November 10-11, 1918. Operating and advancing in the front lines with the 2nd Army.

He took part in the Punitive Expedition in Mexico from March 28, 1916, to February 5, 1917.

In action against Villistas, Juarez, Mexico, June 15-16, 1919.

The very best wishes of all officers and enlisted men follow him into his well earned retirement from active service.

By order of Colonel Nicklin.

Chas. H. McNair, Adjutant.

Inf. School Detachment Notes

The detachment lost a good man last Saturday when Sgt. Chick Collins was discharged, "Chick" says he is going to try the outside for a while and the best wishes of the entire detachment accompany him.

Sgt. Kahler was seen around the dehment, looking better than lately. We were all worried, Sergeant, when you came so near kicking off and hope you are soon entirely well and out of the hospital.

Now that the qualification cards are all made out every one will have to remember what they told Lieut. Smith. Funny how a man will enlist wearing gumboot and a boxing glove and then put on his service record that he was locomotive engineer or expert accountant, drawing down sixty berries a week.

NOTICE TO COMPANY REPORTERS

It is very important that you send in the items of interest in your outfit each week. Don't save them for three or four weeks and then send down so much that we can't handle it.

Births

Born to Captain and Mrs. Donald M. Bartow on March the 9th a Recruit name Donald R. When Captain Bartow was interviewed by a News reporter he stated that Donald R. was an exceptional young son, also that Donald Jr. was going to be a heavy weight champion boxer of the world. A diplomat extraordinary a skillful general and as he has never seen any place but Fort Benning he complains very little which goes to indicate that he will be a modest man.

Born to Captain and Mrs. Walter A. Dumas a young suffraget Joy Lawson on March 12. Captain Dumas stated to Miss Joy that he has proclaimed to all of the World already that she is a believer in women's rights and her first official act was to order Capt. Dumas to present his class with cigars. Which the Capt. did with glee and the class said that the cigars were excellent and that if Miss Joy showed the same good taste for business that she did in selecting cigars that she would be a suffraget that all of the World will have to reckon with.

Born to Lieutenant and Mrs. Hoy on last Friday, March 9th at 10:10 A. M. and again at 10:25 A. M. James Francis and Thomas Henry. Lieut. Hoy stated that the stork had to make so many visits to Benning that he thought that by making a double load in one trip it would save a trip but alas he reckoned wrong as the stork had to make two trips for one family. Mrs. Hoy complained to Mr. Stork that she had made plans for only one but the stork said that since he had checked out two that it would be impossible for him to return one so therefore they would have to keep them both.

This is the first time in the history of Fort Benning that twins were born.

When Captains Bartow and Dumas heard that a mere Lieutenant had beat them they felt rather outdone but feeling joyful they admired the spunk of Lieut. and Mrs. Hoy.

When Lieut. Hoy heard what wonders Capt. Bartow's son was going to do he replied that was nothing. That since two heads were better than one the Hoys were bound to beat the Bartow.

Finance Detachment Notes

Here we are again with very little to say owing to the fact that the detachment has been too busy for the past week to submit any notes to the scribe.

For sale or otherwise, four perfectly good 18 carrot privates, to be deduced on the end of the current month. Some can be found at the Finance Office here this paragon is on display. Act quick, time is money and he who hesitates is verloren.

Corporal Previous wishes to announce that he has been hiking towards the east side of the reservation for exercise only, and has challenged anyone, who contradicts his statement, to a duel with that deadly weapon "Cherries" in front of Mr. Brown's Tea Room, in Columbus.

Demotion, Demotion, Demotion. If it doesn't hurry and come the non-coms of our detachment will have all their hair pulled out in a few more days and we who have not been so lucky as to have the chevrons on our manly sleeves are standing in readiness to escort the unlucky ones to a padded cell and to share with the ones who retain their rank—oh well! the boys must have something to "growl" about or it wouldn't be the army.

Medical Dept. Notes

The non-commissioned Officers Club, Station Hospital, will give a dance in the Detachment Mess Hall at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, March 27, 1923. All married non-commissioned officers and their families are invited. Transportation will be furnished. Those desiring transportation will please notify Sergeant Risley, phone No. 27 or Sergeant Heatherly, phone No. 126.

1st Lieut. Maude Bowman, and 2nd Lieut. Rose Charvat, Army, Nurse Corps, have returned from fifteen days leave of absence enjoyably spent in Florida.

HARDING SUPPORTS THE RESERVE ARMY

President Declares All Citizens Should Back the New Plan For Our National Defense

President Harding has come out flat-footed for an American military organization consisting of a stronger National Guard, the regular army, and an organized reserve—believing that such an organization is the correct solution of the defense problem of the United States.

The President's approval of the plan of army organization drawn up by Secretary of War Weeks and the General Staff was given in a letter to Captain L. R. Lohr, editor of the Military Engineer.

The support of all citizens should be given, Mr. Harding declared, to this plan of the War Department, pointing out at the same time that "preparedness does not mean militarism." The President added:

"We must realize, however, that true support means something more than expressions of approval and appropriation of funds. It means, in addition to these very necessary things, an active participation by those who are of the proper age and bodily vigor by enrollment in the National Guard and the organized reserve followed by hard and conscientious work to fit us for the responsibilities resulting from this enrollment.

"In this way by our example and our influence, we let our friends and neighbors know how important we believe it to be for the country that all understand the value and effect of even such moderate degrees of preparedness does not mean militarism."

NEW ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR.

Dwight F. Davis, of St. Louis, has been appointed Assistant Secretary of War to succeed J. Mayhew Wainwright who retired March 4, to become Representative from the 25th New York Congressional District.

Col. Davis is probably more widely known as the donor of the Davis Cup, a trophy that in the tennis world compares with the American Cup in international yachting. He is a graduate of Harvard and served a term as a member of the Board of Overseers of that institution. He had an enviable Army career during the war, rising from the rank of Captain of Infantry in the Missouri National Guard to that of Lieutenant Colonel and Assistant Chief of Staff, Second Army, American Expeditionary Forces in France.

24th Infantry Band Pays Tuskegee A Visit

We are in receipt of "The Staff" a magazine published by the Tuskegee Institute in which they pay high compliments to the Band of the 24th Infantry which we take great pleasure in reproducing:

The 24th Infantry Band, U. S. A.

Tuskegee Institute was honored with a most delicate compliment from Col. B. P. Nicklin, commanding officer at Fort Benning, Georgia, in the visit of the 24th Infantry Band to the Institute on Saturday, February 24th, for a series of concerts on Saturday and Sunday.

This organization is one of the famous bands of the service, attached as it is to one of the oldest regiments of the United States Army. The director of the band is Warrant Officer Joel P. Elazer who has had charge of the band for a number of years. Before coming to Fort Benning the band was stationed at Fort Furlong, New Mexico and came directly to its present post in Georgia. Mr. Elazer is a warm friend of Captain Frank L. Drye, Director of the Tuskegee Institute Band, the two having seen service together in the army. It was but natural, therefore, that when it was first proposed that the 24th Infantry should come to Fort Benning, Captain Drye and Mr. Elazer should think of the possibility of an exchange of visits between the two or-

Inf. School Detachment Notes

Last Saturday evening the Detachment gave a Smoker, it being St. Patricks Day; and also to honor two of our old timers who are soon to retire. Master Sergt. Mulqueeney and Sergt. Cream were each presented with a beautiful solid gold watch chain, approximately engraved, "from their comrades of the Infantry School Detachment." Our Commanding General, presented the watches and in a short address told how he had served with the recipients in the the "early days." He said that no higher honor could come to a man than to faithfully wear the uniform of his country until he had served long enough to retire.

Several first class boxing bouts were staged, much better than most of the ones we've had to pay to see elsewhere. Johnnie Hyland arranged the fights, made the announcements and also acted as referee. Tex Rickard will be grabbing this boy. A quartette from the 24th Infantry put out some real harmony and the crowd kept calling them back to do their stuff.

Sergt. Stewart was master of ceremonies, from providing the eats and music to introducing General Gordon.

Sergt. Bates is now a member of the Glee Club. Great things are in store from the boys from now on.

Bill Stewart is putting out the chow these days; day by day it gets better and better. Keep it up Bill and we will all re-enlist.

Motor Transport Notes

Pvt. Homer P. Iott (Speed Cop) is his national car overhaul, the following Mechanic are on the job, Private William Dunn (Spare Parts) Pvt. John Massenburg (Baby Jim) and Private Wm. Stewart (Butcher Boy) they guarantee when she rolls off the soap boxes it will be one of the fastest on the road.

Pvt. Charlie McCarthy has lost his pipe, it was last seen walking in the direction of M. T. Park, finder please don't pay any attention to it but let it walk.

So you have arrived I see, yes dear well I thought surely when I made this date for 8:00 o'clock that you would be exactly on time. Well its like this Moffett you have got another think coming.

PRIVATE AARON E. HARRELL

The entire post was saddened by the death of Private Aaron E. Harrell, 5th Service Company, Signal Corps, Monday night at the post Hospital.

Private Harrell enlisted in the Army May 2, 1920 and would have been discharged May 1, 1923. He was liked by all who knew him and will be missed by the Signal Corps and Finance Detachment alike.

Funeral services were held from the Post Protestant Chapel Wednesday P. M. at 1:30, Chaplain Wood officiating. The body was shipped to his father at Moultrie, Georgia, Corporal Jenkins, Signal Corps, acting as an escort.

The fullest sympathies of the detachment is extended to his bereaved loved ones.

29th Infantry News Notes

Service Company

Pvt. 1st class Spec. 4th class Lee R. Perkins of this Company, was recently sent to Walter Reed General Hospital for treatment as a result of a serious illness which suddenly befell him. Regimental Headquarters has lost one of its most officent clerks by his illness, which it is hoped is of a temporary nature. All look forward to his speedy recovery and return to duty.

Part of the Company is now on the range and from preliminary observations it appears that a good record will be made. Even clerks in the personnel section are running their scores into the forties.

1st. [illegible] Headquarters Co.

We notice that Pvt. Harper is doing a great deal of talking in his sleep lately. We advise Pvt. Harper to be careful, or the first thing he knows he will be saying something.

The bill in regard to the demotion of non-commissioned officers seems to be worrying our newly made Corporals, Pvt. Hall and Pvt. McDonough quite a bit. Don't be discouraged boys, its better to have been a corporal and lost, than never to have been a corporal at all.

Sergt. Evans, better known as Pop, has just signed up for another three years with our company. He claims there is no place like sunny Georgia and the 29th. However, we are glad to have him stay with our Co.

Company "A"

Sergt. Murphy has some chickens of a new kind. It is reported that Sergt. Justin purchased 2 dozen of fresh eggs from his and upon breaking the eggs found that they had an appearance very similar to those which have been kept in cold storage for a number of years.

A late members of Company "A" named Gurlanczick, was in town some time ago and an M. P. hearing him talking decided that he had been drinking. He accosted him, wanting to know his name. Gurianczick told him several times and spelled it out for him but the M. P. didn't seem able to understand, so finally Gurianczick said; "O, Darn it, John Smith." From then on he was known to the outfit as John Smith. Not long ago we got a recruit whose real name was john Smith and one of the officers in the Company had a report submitted to him with the recruits name on it. He thought that the clerk was trying to be funny and said "that man's name is not John Smith, its Gurianczick.

Company "C"

Since the firing on the range began everybody is too busy cleaning rifles and doing other odd jobs than to get very many notes for the Ft. Benning News.

In time of all our work Sergt. Egizi furnishes us a number of Solos on his Violin, never has he played so sweet as he does since his re-enlistment, he says he is happy now that he is sure of a home and job for the next three years.

Company "D"

Talk about your Romeo's this organization has one. Our latest entry into the Hall of Fame is a young and ambitious gentleman who due to his curious resemblage to the well known Rodolph Valentino is known thruout Columbus vicinity as the "Shiek" He is some heart-breaker and the fair sex just can't resist his charms.

Our "Shief" recently received a book from a certain young lady and on the fly leaf were the words "To My Shiek." As yet the "Shiek" has been unable to find out what the book is about due to the fact that it contained no pictures.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion

Wish somebody would get in trouble or get discharged or something, so I can give you something to read, in this column. If course I mean, if it isn't too much bother.

Talking about affairs of the heart, Corpl. Hopkinson seems to have reason also to regret the word, and in this case it is said to have been "yes."

Intoxicants will sometimes cause disaster, either in the form of death, or marriage. You are lucky it was rain and not wood, eh, Harold?

Company "E"

A man sure must like the army when he will volunteer for a Saturday afternoon demonstration. Names don't count, but the guilty parties win the corrugated wash board.

Canoes will be issued to all members of this organization on request. Per instructions contained in par 13-13 Special Order 9-9-q-z-y. War dept. 1947 due to the fact that the rainy season is on.

Company "F"

The next time Corp. Holland is awakened by the O. D. he (Holland) will stop to think first before he answers, trying to substitute for the charge of Quarters, Mose?

Talk about your "Sunny South" yeah Bo. I never thought there was such a thing as "Icicles" in Benning. Still it is nice to get up in the morning. But much more comfortable to lie in bed, eh what?

Company "G"

Noticing that everyone has been happy for the last few days and becoming curious, a certain Sergeant asked a Buck the meaning of all the happiness. He was somewhat set back by the reply, "Sergeant, I just found out that they don't have a Bean in the Commissary."

One gentleman stated that while going to Columbus over the Paved Highway he lost nine teeth, another stated that he lost all the works out of his watch, while still another stated that he didn't break anything but he did lose his religion while trying to hold to his seat.

Company "H"

Our baseball team lost to "G" Co. last week. The score was 11-10. A few costly errors on our part paved the way for "G" Co.'s victory.

Corpl. Joyce had a squad out last week trying out another style of Machine Gun Hand Cart. Two wheels were were broken inside of a few days on one of the carts. There is a new hand cart ready for experiment about every six months. So far every trial has been a failure.

LITTLE WISP O'BROWN HAIR

(By Brooke Leman)

Little wisp o'brown hair.
From your flowing tresses;
Fragment of your beauty,
Object of caresses.

How I love its fragrance,
Thoughts it brings of you;
Partner of your brown eyes,
With their love so true.

The times my hands would wander,
Thru its chestnut maze;
Pillowed on my shoulder,
In those hallowed days.

Strands which fanned my cheeks,
In the moonlight's glow;
Lingered on my coat sleeve,
How I loved them so!

Palling o'er your shoulder
In the silent night;
Sunset crowning ivory,
Purest gold and white!

Mornings I kissed its curls
Or ringlets tantalizing,
Sweetest dreams of love—
Kisses raphsodizing!

Hale of crowning glory,
Diadem of a queen;
Charm of heavenly beauty
Of sweetheart so serene!

Little part of you
To last me for a while—
Little messenger of love
To fill me with a smile.

Little wisp o'brown hair,
I love you beyond measure—
For you are of my first love,
Life's own dearest treasure.

AN ENIGMA

(By A. Poetaster)

Ballad mongers envy me my
Recrudescent verse
Of love, and prayer, and blueish tide,
Or wisps of hair and worse.
Know ye, scribes, I cannot help it,
Whimsicalities compel
Little odes and brief, coy sonnets
Euphustic, (meaning swell)
Maudlin, pompous, witty—well—
A versatility like mine
Needs express itself in rhyme.

HERE ARE YOUR EASTER WANTS

Mr. Hofflin and Greentree braved the storm the other day and took a ride out to Benning over the wonderful road just as they said to see what the road was like when it rained. Well they found out.

But after they sat in the office a short time and got warmed up they began to feel better and told us about the wonderful new suits that they had just received for their Easter sale.

They have the latest styles and any color that you desire in suits, shirts or hats or anything else in the clothing line that are made for children and grownups.

They also remind us that they have a dandy kids barber shop that can't be beat. Take a look at their ad.

AN ARIZONA COWBOY

On last Tuesday evening the 15th Tanks had another one of their get together good times when they put on the three act comedy entitled: "An Arizona Cowboy."

It is reported that a good time was enjoyed by all and that the actors carried off the parts that each had in a method that was a especial merit to each and every one of them.

Here is what the Tankers themselves have to say about the play:

We hear a great deal about the charms of illusion—that subtle essence that transforms the imaginary into the real. It was this essence, this quintessence that made the Arizona Cowboy at the Log Hut last Tuesday night more than a real "show" at which you laugh, and titter, and perhaps spear an occasional "thrill" but a genuine experience. By some magic we were carried back to the old days of the wild west, when the brave cowboy went over the dolorous trails, and with them we went through all their curious and adventurious experiences, their scant and pitful joys the comedys of life and the tragedy of death.

The characters impersonated by Hunt was a gem in its way, also that so grimly acted by Batzell and Gardner. The "hero" played by Hicks was such that he should be classed with our leading Shakespeareans, Strickland was as dainty and so appealing an heroine as could be. We could go on for hours writing about the characters they were all beyond improvement.

The only thing that brought us back to Broadway 1923 was the finale, when Faun Afraid gave up her life for the man she loved, and the hero and heroine with their heads united preparing to live happy ever afterwards.

The word was spread far and wide the log hut was packed to its utmost capacity, among some of our guest were: Gen. Gordon, Col, McCaskey, Maj. and Mrs. Sullivan, Maj. and Mrs. Sawkins, Maj. Mitchell and Lieut. Willis, all of whom were more than pleased with the performance.

JUST WHAT YOU WANT

We had to venture into Columbus the other day ourselves and as we were recently told that if you didn't have a tail light or only one headlight burning at night that you would probably receive an invitation to call on the Sergeant at the Police Station but not desiring such an invitation and also being in need of a tail light we stopped into that well known firm of Davis-Campbell and were able to get several lights and also found out that lights were not the only thing that they had for they have a most complete line of auto supplies and accessories.

We also found out that Davis-Campbell appreciate the fact that the Post is near Columbus for they make special inducements to the personnel of the Post. We know from actual experience that this special inducement is a fact and not just a statement to draw so you better take a look at their ad and keep it in mind.

CAPT. AND MRS. CHASE HOSTS AT DINNER.

Capt. and Mrs. John H. Chase gave an informal dinner party on last Saturday evening.

Jasmine and wild azulea made a lovely table decoration, and the covers were marked with St. Patrick cards.

Places were arranged for eight.

CAPT. AND MRS. METCALFE HOSTS AT BRIDGE-DINNER.

On last Saturday evening, Capt. and Mrs. Samuel L. Metcalfe entertained at a delightful dinner and bridge party.

The St. Patrick color note was carried out in the decorations and place cards.

High score prize for the ladies was a green taffeta coat hanger; for the gentlemen, three folding coat hangers in a leather case. The booby was a set of bridge score pads.

Dinner was served first after which the bridge game took place.

Covers were laid for: Major and Mrs. Hicks, Major and Mrs. Waddill, Major and Mrs. Paschal, Capt. and Mrs. Robert P. Bell, Capt. and Mrs. Allen Stewart, Capt. and Mrs. Metcalfe.

FORT BENNING BRIDGE CLUB.

The hostesses for the Fort Benning bridge club which met Thursday afternoon, were Mesdames Hunter, Lummas, White, Lenow and Hall.

The top score prize, a lovely Maderia centerpiece, was won by Mrs. Arnet.

Mrs. Waycross won the second prize, a bridge set in a leather case.

The consolation, a black flower bowl, filled with jonquils, was cut by Mrs. Frank Greene.

At the conclusion of the game, a salad course and hot tea were served.

MED. DEPT. BRIDGE CLUB.

One of the most beautiful parties of the spring season at Fort Benning was the bridge luncheon on Friday given by seven of the ladies of the Medical Department Bridge club.

The room was beautiful in its array of spring flowers and southern smilax, and the color scheme of green and white was carried out in the tally cards and place cards, which were adorned with shamrock.

Excellent music was furnished by an orchestra from the 29th infantry, which played throughout the meal. After the delightful luncheon, four frames of bridge were indulged in.

Mrs. Sam Metcalfe won top score, a pair of silver candlesticks. The second prize went to Mrs. Ed Wohlwender, a beautiful embossed silver conserve dish. Mrs. E. G. Peyton won third prize, three sets of silver salt and pepper shakers. The consolation, a deck of gilt edged cards in a leather case, was presented to Mrs. Matthews

The hostesses for this beautiful party were: Mrs Orville Brown, Mrs. Robt. Tobise, Mrs. Thomas Smith, Mrs. Sparr Moulton, Mrs. Richard Arnest, Mrs. Reeve Turner, Mrs. D. C. Campbell.

MRS. FRENCH ENTERTAINS

Mrs. M. O. French, wife of Major French, entertained two tables of bridge informally on last Friday afternoon at her apartment in Dimon Court.

MRS. MOORE ENTERTAINS 24TH INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. C. H. Moore wife of Capt. Moore was the charming hostess of the 24th Infantry Bridge Club on Tuesday afternoon at Fort Benning.

Mrs. W. A. Stetler won the top score prize; Mrs. J. A. Murphey won the second prize and Mrs. Whileside drew the cut prize.

There were three tables of players and five tea guests. After the game cake ice cream and coffee were served the guests.

LIEUT. AND MRS. BRINK.

Lieut. and Mrs. Brink entertained at an informal dinner last Wednesday evening, at the Ralston Hotel, honoring Mrs. Wm. S. Richardson, of Baltimore.

MRS. LEWIS B. ROCK ENTERTAINS FIRST SQUAD OF COMPANY C.

An enjoyable affair of Thursday afternoon was the bridge tea at which Mrs. Lewis B. Rock, wife of Capt. Rock, entertained the ladies of the first squad, Company C. Company Officer's Class.

St. Patrick's Day was suggested in the decorations and prizes.

There was a table prize a dainty green handkerchief for each table. These were won by Mesdames Shepherd and Yancey.

The ladies present were Mesdames Tavenner, Whittemoore, Thomson, Welch Sears, Sears, Jr., Yancy and Shepherd. The officers of the squad joined their wives for refreshments.

MRS. MALLORY IS SURPRISED.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Duvall and Mrs. Brandhorst gave Mrs. Frank Mallory a surprise party at the home of Mrs. Brandhorst.

Twenty of Mrs. Mallory's friends were present and when Mrs. Mallory received a phone call to step over a minute it goes without saying that she was some surprised.

Mrs. Mallory received many useful gifts each gift have an appropriate verse in connection there with.

Bridge was indulged in and Mrs. McKeon won the high score prize and Mrs. Peach the second. Mrs. Orr drew the boobie. Mrs. Mallory received a beautiful guest prize.

Brick ice cream, artistically decorated little cakes and coffee were served for refreshments.

Mrs. Mallory left on last Thursday for home in Michigan.

RECEPTION ON APRIL 2ND.

On Monday evening April 2nd at 9 o'clock at the Muscogee Club Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dismukes will hold a reception for their daughter and Captain Buracker whose marriage will take place on April the 3rd.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB.

The Current Events Club met on last Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Moulton.

Papers were given by Mrs. Fisk who told of the domestic current events during the past week and by Mrs. Brandhorst who told of the Foreign Current events during the past week.

Delightful refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and hot chocolate were served.

The next meeting will take place on April the second at the home of Mrs. Dibrell.

SOJOURNERS' CLUB.

Fort Benning Chapter No. 8, Sojourners' Club was organized at this Post on March the 9th. Brigadier General Amos A. Fries, National President of the Sojourners' Club delivered the Charter and gave a very interesting talk. Major Brackenbury was the temporary chairman.

After several other "talks" a big "feed" was indulged in for by 6 rounds of good fast boxing.

The next meeting will be held on April the 11th at which time the officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

AN ITALIAN DINNER.

One of the most unusual affairs was a genuine Italian Dinner given by Lieut. and Mrs. W. A. Stetler at their attractive bungalow.

Covers were laid for eight. After the delightful dinner, bridge was indulged in.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN T. DAVIS OF COLUMBUS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Fred L. Walker and Mrs. Frank Green entertained twenty guists at a delightful dinner party on last Sunday at Buena Vista in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Davis of Columbsu.

The beautiful table decorations of white iris, and narcissi wit hclusters of wild olives, the place cards and flowers, the green tapers all carried out the scheme and thought of St. Patrick's Day.

During a most delicious course dinner served under the personal supervision of the Misses Love of Buena Vista a silver cup was presented to Mr. Davis with the following inscription "Chief of the 'possum Hunter's Club of Fort Benning." On the reverse of the cup were the names of the charter members, Major and Mrs. F. L. Walker, Major and Mrs. L. H. Watson, Major and Mrs. T. L. Smith, Lieut. and Mrs. Peach and Major and Mrs. Frank Green of the Red Cross.

The cup commemorates many happy week end trips to Mr. Davis' Plantation where many never-to-be-forgotten barbecues, fish-fries, and 'possum hunts have been enjoyed.

Mr. Davis gave a most delightful response to the presentation speech of Major Green and another talk very opportune and witty was given by Lieut. Fay.

In addition to the Cup Members already mentioned the guests included Col. and Mrs. E. G. Peyton ,Major and Mrs. Starr Moulton, Mrs .Legge, Miss Benton, Lieut. Fay, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Davis and Master Thomas Davis.

DANCE AND CABARET

Don't forget about the big Dance and Cabaret that wil take place at Biglersville Hall on the evening of April the 6th when the Army Relief will stage this affair.

Solos will be renderd by persons of merit and some excellent dancing is promised. All in all several distinguished artists will be on hand to give some wonderful exhibitions.

Tickets are now for sale by the Miss Fassetts at 75c each.

Army ladies are asked to donate refreshments and a prize will be given for the best cake.

CHAPEL GUILD.

The regular meeting of the Chapel Guild was held on March 19th at the Protestant Chapel.

Mrs. Starr Moulton was appointed secretary and treasurer to succeed Mrs. Frank Green.

Beautiful alter draperies are being made and it is earnestly requested that all members meet with Mrs. Kent on March 29th at 1:30 P. M. to complete this work.

Mrs. Peyton and Mrs. Rumbough will have charge of the decorations for Easter. A special Musical Program is being prepared by Mrs. Cooper.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.

The News is in receipt of a special direct radio from Lieut. H. S. Kelly (HAM) who is at present in Honolulu. He stated that Mrs. Kelly and he wished to announce the birth of a daughter on March the 5th.

We were unable to get any details but it will be safe to say that if the little daughter is anything like "Ham" we can easily predict that she will be a great favorite. (We do not happen to know Mrs. Ham so cannot make any definte statement about that side of the family but knowing "Ham" the way that is our good fortune it would be easy to say that the other half must be just as good.) The News extends heartiest congratulations and sincerely hopes that all will be well with the little Miss from now until infinity.

NINTH INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED.

Mrs. John Robinson was the cordial hostess of the Ninth Infantry Bridge club on Monday, entertaining the twelve guests at luncheon, and later enjoying a game of bridge.

The floral decorations consisted of lillie of the valley, and the candies and mints were green and white, a spring-like appearance, adding the afternoon affair.

The club members were joined by Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Brisset for lunch.

PACIFISM VS. MILITARISM.

At the present time and as a matter of fact for the last two years we have read so much about pacifism that one begins to wonder if the American People are so strongly against the Military and actually believe that it can be legislated out of existance in the United States while other Nations keep a large force of trained troops. Why not do away with police forces in our cities and depend on volunteers to take their place?

At present our Regular Army is only 25,000 men stronger than Germany and Germany is supposed to be "broken" in so far as effective military strength is concerned.

Germany has her 100,000 men all together and in an area of about the size of Texas. The position of the United States is almost an exactly opposite situation in that out of 125,000 men we must maintain our overseas garrisons at war strength and in addition have our remaining strength scattered all over the United States proper. This leaves our effective fighting force within the continental United States about 65,000 men.

Now is this force sufficient to furnish instructors to the National Guard, the Organized Reserves and all other organizations that desire to learn a few of the rudements of war in time of peace and still protect our people especially when England is in a position to land 160,000 men in Canada in sixteen days, 200,000 in thirty days and 150,000 in every thirty days there after until she has 40 divisions or 800,000 men; Australia can land 100,000 every one hundred and twenty days until she has landed 650,000 troops; Canada 200,000 in thirty days and then 100,000 every thirty days until she has 500,000. Therefore England is in a position to have 2,050,000 troops in Canada at the end of six months.

If Japan can defeat our fleet especially if a part of our fleet be in the Atlantic or slip around them and this is not at all impossible because Japan has faster ships and larger guns than we have, she can land 360,000 troops in 90 days or 750,000 in six months with sufficient provisions to maintain them.

No this is not impossible. Both Japan and England have a large merchant marine and therefore have the vessels to transport their troops. Also did we not transport troops to Europe when the waters were infested with mines and submarines. Weren't France and England able to bring their colonial troops to Europe? Was Germany able to stop the troop movement? Also what about areoplanes and gas in the next war. Will our enemy be noble enough to wait until we are ready for him? Hardly.

Now one wonders where all of the propaganda and funds come from to carry on this peace at any price and no more war "stuff."

It has recently come to light that certain communist do the writing and that the funds for printing and other propaganda are raised by certain classes, namely would-be-soldiers who were dishonorably discharged during the war, "slackers and draft-evaders" and other organizations who are willing to take all of the benefits that this government can give them but who will not or are not willing to "put themselves out "to support the government. Who do not think enough of their homes and families to help drive out an enemy. These men are simply cowards and are trying to hide it under some cloak, or else they are misguided and do not realize that they are being used as a "tool" by some other person or organization.

Now do these people represent the majority of the American People? We are sure that they do not, but that the organized anti-militarist are in a position to bring pressure to bear in such a manner that our military forces are extremely small and that when the next war comes we will be in exactly the same position that we were in when the war of 1812, the Mexican war, the Spanish-American war and the World war, come namely unprepared.

What is the result of the World war! Nearly $25,000,000,000 of our National Treasure Expended and 50,000 of our young men killed in battle just because we were not prepared for war.

You say that is wrong. Well do you believe that Germany would have repeatedly insulted this Nation if we had been prepared for war? Hardly. Would it have cost us 25,000,000,000 of dollars and 50,000 killed if we had been prepared? Hardly. Especially when you realize that 25,000,000,000 dollars would keep a standing army of 250,000 officers and men and 500,000 national guardsmen for over thirty years with out any additional cost to this nation, but which we had to expend just because we were not prepared.

No, it can never be said that this Nation will ever undertake a war for conquest but unpreparedness has gotten us into every war that we have had with a foreign country. And still we say that unpreparedness prevents war! Read your histories and determine for yourself whether it was preparedness or unpreparedness that lead us into war. If you don't care to take the time I will tell you that history shows that all of our foreign wars show that we were unprepared when war came.

We do not claim that preparedness would have prevented all of the wars for to be right frank about the matter we have never been prepared for war when war came. Experience has proven that unpreparedness has not prevented war. On the other hand when at the close of the Civil War we were prepared for war it did not take the French very long to get out of Mexico when we said "get out you are violating the Monroe Doctrine." Also England was very prompt in paying for damage that was done by vessels that she had allowed the Confederate government to take. In both of these cases we were prepared for war and still we did not have a war. Also we did not undertake a war of conquest or attack another nation. Then to at the close of the World war we were in a position to have conquered much territory but did we take a single island or a single acre of ground? Not a bit.

ANOTHER CARTOONISTS ON THE NEWS STAFF

Private Wright of the 24th Infantry is the latest addition to our staff of highly paid cartoonists. His first contribution is a picture of the machine? Invented by the Department of Experiment which will be shown in the next issue. This is a work of art as the Fort Benning News understands art and we maintain that a thing of beauty is a joy forever.

This now gives us three cartoonists Captain Kraul and Lieutenant Hess are the other two who have been donating their good will and time for the pleasure of our readers and we will admit that the drawings to date have been excellent.

Keep the good work going, Selah!

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

Chapter 4.

That Which Dealeth with the Supply Sergeant.

When a supply sergeant and a mess sergeant be as brothers, it behoveth the company to make note thereof. For it meaneth that one bribeth the other. The mess sergeant desireth more and better clothing and equipage; the supply sergeant wanteth still another and better handout.

A good supply sergeant collecteth much property and keepeth it under close surveillance within his tent. For by so doing he maketh strict account thereof and receiveth the praise of his captain therefor.

When it cometh to pass that a supply sergeant getteth in a mood to give out a few articles concealeth within his tent, he calleth long and loud but verily that which the men receiveth be not wanted.

The wrath of the men then waxeth mighty for many there be who re-c....eiveth shoes size 9EE when they asketh for 5AAA or underwear of heavy wool when the days be hot and the night cooleth not.

Least thou forgetteth, keepest thou in mind that a prudent supply sergeant holdeth the new for himself and passeth out that which he hath worn.

Neither must thou expect that a supply sergeant stoopeth to drill like the ordinary soldier. His august rank prohibiteth such, or when he be so compelled by order of his captain he sayeth that he cannot then check the 637 or keep strict account of the property which he keepeth within his tent.

Neither must thou expect that a supply sergeant maketh a good marksman, for he be so indolent that he soon groweth fat and rotund. That when he lieth down to shoot he keepeth his head and his feet near the ground with difficulty but moveth up and down like unto a tetter-totter.

Neither be his eyesight keen for the checking of many records and such property be hard upon the eyes and they groweth dim, so that the black becometh invisible at two hundred yards. But lo—be there a man in the company who stealeth even one single button O. D. from the supply room, let him beware; for that same supply seeth it while yet it is a far off.

Now a good supply sergeant keepeth all manner of things in the storeroom, for the captain maketh many and varied demands. He calleth for issued lighting bugs, when the quartermaster furnisheth no light. Or he calleth for good sharp axes with good helves so that who sinneth may be choppers of wood for the kitchen form four in the morning until the hour of breakfast.

When cometh the day of salvage, a good supply sergeant lieth cheerfully; also he taketh one and maketh many there from and yet leaveth the original so that it deceiveth all who may look thereon for by so doing he turneth away the wrath of his captain and instead he winneth praise because the auditor findeth no shortage.

Then Lo— when cometh the day that the general inspector arriveth the supply sergeant proveth himself a true magacian, for he findeth all manner of thing. No matter where an article hath been lost or thrown or left he findeth it even though it be to the ends of the reservation, and that which he doth not find he replaceth. Selah!

FORT BENNING NEWS

The News believes that the following may be of special interest to members of the equitation classes and to those who take what is presented to them, in the matter of mounts, in a paper chase.

THE 'ORSES

(May Kipling Never See This)

I've taken the nags as I've found 'em,
  I've peeled an' I've 'ealed in my time,
I've 'ad my pickin' o' r mounts,
  An' four o' the lot was prime;
One was an 'arf-bred devil,
  One was an 'orse just in name,
One I 'alf-alted in Ogden,
  One fell in a ditch an' went lame.

I was a young un at Riley,
  Tender as 'ell to begin,
Aggie Austen she made me,
  An' Aggie was clever as sin;
Faster than lightnin' 'cross country,
  Very erratic she were;
Ran up to a jump, sat down on her rump—
  An' I drew some insurance on 'er.

Then I was given a monster,
  The highest I ever was on;
Throwed me up in a sapling,
  When I came down 'e was gone.
"Jumper" they classed 'im at Riley,
  Said 'e would go six foot nine;
'E went into reverse (but I 'ad a nice nurse)—
  Camels are not in my line.

Next day I was given a dray 'orse
  Schooled in the West Ridin' 'all,
Advertised as a splendid four-faiter
  (Walk, trot, stumble and fall).
'E wasn't so agile and supple,
  But yet he could manage somehow
To turn at the trot, in a four-acre lot,
  But now 'e is 'itched to a plow.

So I've applied tannic acid diluted
  To places not mentioned in print,
I've fumbled and fallen like you,
  I've worn all my limbs in a splint.
I've bought me a nice new remount,
  An' wonderful things 'e can do,
But because you're my friend, an' 'ave somethin' to spend,
I'd like to sell 'im to you.

—The Standard.

Dear Pa:

As I have a little time to myself tonight I think I will write and tell you about this place. The wind is howling around the cabin and the growling of the polar bears and hungry arctic wolves behind the nearby icebergs make it hard to write, besides my fur clothes hardly keep me warm even if the stove is red hot. The Northern lights are shining so bright I don't need a candle to write. I wish you were here, I bet you would be frozen stiff in two minutes, but us old-timers got experienced and by eating big pieces of sourdough and salmon belly keep in good shape.

He showed his "excellent" discharge to the proprietor of a butcher shop and asked for a job.

"Well," said the butcher, "I might be able to give you a job at ten dollars a week. But what can you do to make yourself useful around a butcher shop? Can you dress a chicken?"

"Nope," said our hero, "Not on ten dollars a week.

Infantry Wins One And Auburn The Other

The game baseball game scheduled for last Friday between Auburn and the Infantry School at Auburn was postponed due to a rain, with the result that on last Saturday a doubleheader was played with Auburn winning the first game 7 to 6 and the Infantry School won the second 7 to 2.

The following as written by Brooke Leman in the Enquirer-Sun tells the tale:

Both battles of the double bill were limited to seven frames but the end of the seventh in the opening game saw the score tied in a hard knot, 6-6 was the way the score sheet read. The Tigers went in for blood in the eighth and with one down, Knowles, husky first sacker, slid over the pan for the winning tally. The second game was called in the last of the seventh on account of darkness. The Infantry had slipped over another counter in this frame making the Blue total read eight runs but the game reverted back to the sixth inning making the accredited tally Infantry 7; Auburn 2.

Sheridan on Mound

Sheridan, one of the best bets of the Tiger slab staff, started to do the mound work for the Donahuemen in the first game and Hutchinson, ex-Georgia flinger held down firing honors for the Blue. Both flingers were touched fairly liberally by the sluggers of both clans, the Infantrymen clouting out eight safeties off Sheridan's slant while the Tigers found Hutchinson for a total of seven clouts.

Hutchinson gave way in the sixth to McNutt, submarine ball artist of the Infantry, who yielded three hits in the remainder of the game, while Doug Knight, ex-Columbus lad went on the rubber for Auburn in the fifth frame and held the hard swatting Infantrymen hitless for the remainder of the game.

Right here we must pause and opine that this lad Knight, from the realms of Columbus, is entitled to the credit and huge gobs of it at that, for the win which went to the Tigers. He hurled beautiful ball and went in at a crucial time. The Infantry were taking a particular fancy to Sheridan's' shoots but Young Mister Knight stepped into the breech and held the Infantry at bay while the Plainsmen crew slipped over two runs in the fifth which knotted the early lead of the Blue and again put over the winning tally in the 8th.

Hutchinson and McNutt flung a high grade brand of ball but the Tigers hit at opportune moments. The Infantrymen got away to a flying start slipping over two tallies in the first inning when singles by Olmstead, Fountain and McAlpine with a fielders choice to Honnen did the trick.

Tigers Come Back

The Tigers came back and tied the tally in their half of the first on clouts by Griffin, Knowles and Arnold but the Infantry ran wild in the second and piled up three more when Nelson, Hutchinson and Fountain singled and Heckert was hit. Some heady base running materially abetted the tally in this frame.

Another Blue leg crossed the rubber in the third when Yon doubled and came home on McAlpine's single, but the Tiger clan came back and ran across two themselves.

Allen singled and came home on Griffin's healthy triple, Griffin talled a moment later on Knowles' long fly. Matters rollicked along in this shape until the sixth when the Painsmen tied the tally. It was this same lad Griffin who turned the trick for he stepped to the pan and clouted a homer, the first of the season driving in Knight who had singled ahead of him.

The sixth and seventh innings passed without further tally but the Infantry missed a bright chance to cop the melee when two died on sacks in their part of the seventh. The Tigers went to bat in the eighth and Knowles dropped a double into right field. Stiz was out but Knowles advanced and came home when Arnold hit a wide one to McAlpine which the Infantry third sacker knocked down but threw wide to the plate.

With the first battle a matter of history the Infantrymen went into the second scrap with blood in their eyes. Moulton, Auburn's premier slabster was working against Hi Davis, Infantry drop ball artist.

The Blue swatters got their hickory into action and found Senor Moulton's offerings when hits meant runs and jumped into an early lea dwhich was never headed.

Davis Pitches Well

Davis pitched magnificent ball, yielding but four hits in the six frames and walking nary a Tiger. He had speed to burn and a dazzling curve which sizzled by the hard clouting Plainsmen. Moulton was effective at times and caused eight of the Infantry to whiff the ozone but on the other hand he yielded seven hits at costly moments in the five innings he worked. Hines, a Tiger recruit replaced Moulton in the sixth and the Blue batters found him for four safe swats and as many runs in this inning.

The Infantry scored one in the first frame on a base on balls to Olmstead, a stolen base, and Fountain's single. Three more of the Doughboys romped over the rubber in the second when McCarty singled and Kent Nelson, having found his batting eye, stepped to the pand and drove a peachy homer into deep left. Davis singled, advanced on an out and came home on Argo's muff of Fountain's long fly.

Auburn tallied twice in the fourth on a double by Arnold and singles by Harrison and Griffin and here the tallying ended until the sixth when four more Infantrymen raced home.

Davis was safe on a fielders choice, Olmstead singled and Fountain drove both home on his long triple to left center. Darkness was gathering but the Tigers went to bat in their half of the sixth and were retired without harm. The Infantry annexed another tally in their part of the seventh but Umpire Scott decided it was too dark to play ball any more, and he was quite right, and called the game at this junction.

Splendid Fielding

Both teams fielded splendidly and there were plenty of bright spots. Each team acquired but one error in the first game and while the Tigers added one miscue in the second battle the Infantry played errorless ball.

Auburn gathered eleven hits to eight while the Blue clouted out eleven safe swats to four for the Tigers in the second.

Batting honors went to Griffin, Allen and Knowles of the Tigers and to Fountain, McCarty, Nelson, Parris and McAlpine of the Infantry. Fountain led the Blue with four safe hits in seven times at bat during the dual bill.

Fielding honors were divided between Griffin, Allen and Knowles of the Plainsmen and Honnen, Fountain and Nelson of the Infantry. The Doughbay clan ran wild on bases, stealing a total of ten sacks in the two games by some mighty heady and classy base running. McCarty and Milburn were arsenic behind the pan for the Blue, holding the Tigers without a pilfered sack.

WATCH THE INFANTRY

The Uni. of Ga. wolloped us last year can they do it this year? From present indications and with the material that has turned out we don"t believe that Ga. can do it. However we won't be long in suspense as the Infantry plays the Univ. of Ga. today at Driving Park and then again Monday at the Post.

LETS WOLLOP GA. SELAH

For the benefit of the new officers that have arrived at this Post this year and for the other that may have forgotten the results of some of the games that were played last year we are reprinting the schedule as played last year with the results.

From present indications and with the material that has turned out the Infantry School should have some line-up this year.

POLO

The series of Polo Games now in progress for the Dierk's Cup was postponed last Sunday due to the rainy weather.

The series will be continued next Sunday weather permitting. The 29th Infantry and the 83rd Artillery will tangle for four periods and the Blue will have a sette with the Yellows for four periods.

24TH INFANTRY BAND PAYS TUSKEGEE A VISIT

ganizations when once they were near each other.

The invitation which brought the band to Tuskegee Institute was extended to the organizatiton through Col. Nicklin by Principal Moton at the conclusion of his recent "Good Will Tour of Georgia" which was staged at Columbus, near which Fort Benning is located. Among those who heard Dr. Moton on this occasion was Col. Nicklin, who then and there placed himself at Dr. Moton's command for any service he could possibly render to the cause. When Dr. Moton proposed a visit from the band it was promptly agreed to and culminated in the concert of Saturday night with the following program:

1. March—"The Guiding Star"—Strieberitz.
2. Overture—"Poet and Peasant"—Suppe.
3. Grand Opera—"Il Trovatore"—Verdi.
4. Waltz—"Italian Nights"—Tobani.
5. Descriptive Suite — "Atlantis"—Safraneck.

(a) "Nocturne and Morning Hymn of Praise."

Men had a chance to compare themselves with a veteran organization and many of our own thought the comparison was by no means discouraging. Mr. Elazer is to be complimented upon the thorough drilling which is manifest in the work of his organization. It is apparent that some of his men cannot have long been members of his band as indicated by their rage; but neverlheless they responded to the director's baton with a precision and a promptness that gave every evidence of careful musicianship. Besides, the visitors introduced to us some new music which we may expect to hear again from her own organization.

The visit of the 24th Infantry Band to Tuskegee carries with it the expectation of a visit from our own band to Fort Benning. Our boys are awaiting the chance with eager anticipation.

PLAYERS IN "PEG" KNOW ENGLISH LIFE

Not only have the British settings in the Metro picture version of "Peg O' My Heart" been presented with artistic authenticity but the cast was selected by the director. King Vidor, with a view to preserving the English atmosphere of the play. The picture will be shown at the Grand Theatre the last three days of this week.

Laurette Taylor, the star, who created the role on the speaking stage, and her husband, J. Hartley Manners, the author, are both familiar with English life. Mahlon Hamilton, although American born, spent years in England. Nigel Barrie, born in Calcutta, was educated in England. Lionel Belmore claims Wimbledon, Surrey, England, as his birthplace. Fred Huntley and D. R. O. Hatswell, late of His Majesty's navy, were born in London. Ethel Grey Terry, Vera Lewis and Russell Simpson are all American but have appeared in engagements on English stages. So the English manner should be adequately represented in Hollywood.

TWO BENNING OFFICERS GET SPECIAL DETAIL

Go To Springfield Armory

Word has just been received that the Chief of Ordance has selected Captain L. B. Glasgrow and Lieutenant H. C. Griswold, both of whom are instructors at the Infantry School, for a four month's detail at Springfield Armory in connection with the targeting of rifles. They will leave Springfield Armory about August 15th for Fort Niagara, N. Y., for duty with the Infantry Rifle Team.

Both of these officers are well known here at Benning and to the service in general especially in connection with rifle shooting as they are distinguished markmen and have been members of the Infantry Rifle Team several times.

THE FORT SILL GUIDON ARRIVES

We were fortunate this week in that we received a copy of the Fort Sill Guidon, a weekly paper just started at Fort Sill to fulfill the same need at that Station as the Fort Benning News does at this station.

The News extends heartiest congratulations to the Staff of the Guidon on its excellent first appearance and further hope that you will have the same good fortune as the News is enjoying.

There is not the slightest doubt but that personnel of Fort Sill will heartily support their paper and if they do it is sure to continue to be a success.

Greeting to the Fort Sill Guidon from the Fort Benning News. Selah!

15th Tank Battalion News

The good weather brings back the battalion's most active sport. "Handball" and so that we may get together to arrange our schedule with evenly matched teams, a meeting will be held Tuesday March 27th, at 4 p. m. in the log hut. This will afford sufficient time to get word to all interested and formulate your ideas regarding "mode of procedure."

TO D. L. CAMPBELL HDQRS. CO.

In these days of high rentals and prohibitive perambulator prices, when the average married man experiences difficulty in supplying butter with the bread he begs, borrows or steals for his wife and family, with shoes so high and strawberries almost unobtainable, you have taken unto yourself a wife. Believing that you have been endowed with the faculties bestowed upon the average mortal an dfeeling that you were in full possession of these faculties when making the fatal step above refered to, we are forced to consider your actions as an open and flagrant violation, premeditated and with malice aforethought, of all rules of modern civilization. Surely some one must have told you of the bills, the thrills and chills which come into the life of every married couple. Some one has warned you of the pitfalls you would find in your path and the trouble and discord would be your lot. But for all that you have let discretion fly to the wind, have scoffed at those who would advise you and threw yourself into the abyss of wedlock from which there is no saving hand, no returning and no possible retreat. And so it is Campbell that we endowed by our Creator with a saving grace, mournfully regret your passing from the subline and happy state of single blessedness into that maze of uncertainties, that network of responsibilities, the married state. But the deed is done old man and we should not spend our time in penning idle words of regret and shedding tears of sorrow. Personally and in the name of the battalion we extend our heartly congratulations to Mrs. Campbell and yourself. We hope that your married life shall be one long stretch of happiness, unbroken and unmarred and that continued health, success and prosperity be yours.

From the latest broadcasted reports we learn that our neighbors the 7th Engineers have joined the radio bugs, if you see any of them standing around the barracks with their new machine called the Little Radio Bug, pocket size, why this is to notify you that they are harmless as yet, as they have not reached the advance stage of this disease, as they are only in the mild form of meter waves.

Randolph what did the laundry man say about them?

Sgt. Mason claims that the stuff fermented across the Chattahoochee, but when he drank it, it kicked so hard that he woke up in the station hospital. He tells us that the bird had the brass to send him a bill for it.

Holding a consultation between difficult pool shots, improves my playing to a great extent announces our cue artists. Cols. Batzell and Edmunds. Making a four cushion play is something worth nothing, even in these days of the cork center baseball.

The zero hour is at hand. The members all looked for their column in the Benning News. They see and hear news that might be interesting to their fellow members, but they do not transmit to the scribe, and if the battalion has no notes they kick. (Last week I missed inserting a column due to politics for the first time. Apologies to no one.) If you want to criticize kindly forward your stuff and we will gladly insert it. We have had a couple of notes in the last six months.

CONSCIENCE MAKES COWARDS OF US ALL!

From some soldier at Fort Benning, white or black, Captain Thad. C. Knight, head of the Motor Transport Corps, received enclosed in an envelope with a small wrench that had been stolen, the following letter—offered here as a testimonial for the good of the Haggard Evangelistic meetings.

Dear Captain Knight:

My conscience hurts me for taking this wrench ever since I went to Mr. Haggard's Holiness meeting. I have worried because I took what did not belong to me. As the Bible says, "be sure your sins will find you out." I have taken other things but cannot return them to you as I lost them or had them stolen from me. With God's help and a few M. P's and also the 6 and 6 special court of the 24th Infantry, I hope others will unburden their bodies of sin and return any stolen property before it is too late.

REV HAGGARD TO SPEAK AT FORT BENNING

A rumor is current that a committee from the Majors' Mutual Protective Association, headed by Major Reekal, is about to wait upon the Commanding Officer with the suggestion that he invite Reverend Haggard, who figures so conspicuously in the preceding article, to make about 16 speeches at the rate of 4 a night for 4 consecutive nights to the assembled personnel of the Fort. Major Reekal said that if a sermon by this noted evangelist made in Columbus, nine miles from here, caused tools to be returned to the Motor Transport Officer, what would the harvest be of a series of sermons delivered in our very midst? It is not thought however that Reverend Haggard will be invited here on account of the difficulty of inventorying the surplus property which would thus be brought to light.

There is one place in Columbus that has over fifty years of service. If you happen to take a look at a large clock standing on the edge on the sidewalk you can read the name of the old and long-service firm.

They have anything that you need in the silver and gold and jewelry line and whats more they charge only a reasonable price for the same.

Mr. Schonburg says that he is glad to see the military personnel come into the store not for what they spend but that he enjoys talking with them. So take a look at C. Schonburg and Son"s ad and then drop into the store and take a look around and get acquainted.

Pvt. Burk who has been in the Hospital for the past few weeks is back for duty once more.

Would like to know who told the Battery Commander that Pvt. Ingram was using another man's shoes for inspection.

The talk given by Chaplain Lennan at noon March 20th was highly appreciated by all.

Pvt. Puckett and two of his friends from the 20th Infantry gave us a free musical concert Monday night, and it was enjoyed very much.

Machine Gun Co.

When the first and second battalions of the 24th Infantry at Camp Furlong, New Mexico, were ordered to Fort Benning, the best soldiers of the outfit were selected to make the trip.

Companies "D" and "H" arrived at this post with a contingent of expert Machine Gunners, the pick of the two excellent companies which chalked up a record of one hundred per cent. qualification last target season.

The men had just finished field firing season during which their enthusiasm, skill and the remarkable results obtained had raised their morale to the highest degree.

  Love my thoughts go back to you.
When the greasers stop their snipping and the sculking in the sand,
And the rider hide himself away
  beyond the Rio Grande,
And the—doth assemble to the old Red
  White and Blue,
When its morning on the borders;
  Love then I'll come back to you.

Company "C"

Open Challenge to all—No one barred.

Company "C" issues its annual ultimatum, as target season is on, and Company "C" 'utends to break all records this season in Marksmanship. The big open pot is now on. First Company "C" will have the highest score of any team of five men. Second Company "C" will have the highest ratio of experts. Third, Company "C" will have the highest score of any team of three men. Fourth, Company "C" will have 100 per cent. sharpshooters or better. Fifth, Company "C" will have the highest individual rifleman. Any who may be interested apply to Company "C" Rivalry Club.

Company "E"

Lest we should forget:

Sergt. F. L. Francis & Baird McD. Hart Company "E" will be very proud to see the evening sun go down this fall, owing to the fact that they will be on their last ga around after thirty years of honest and faithful service with the colors.

Company "E" as a whole is very proud that the baseball season is at last about to start. They are placing on the team for criticism or comment the following: Corpls. Haywood and Gilchrist, also Privt. 1st Class Bentley, a pitcher of great renown, who causes a baseball to resemble one of Carters Little Liver Pills when same reaches the plate.

Sergt. Fisher (Old Trooper) is at present running neutral, but around payday he will stay in high for at least ten days.

Company "I"

Thirty six men jumped into various uniforms last Friday afternoon, in preparation for their first workout on the regimental team. To eighteen of the number must be given credit of the 24th Infantry, in this section last season, and the other eighteen upheld the regiment at Columbus, N. M., with both forces combined our base ball lineup will be second to none. They reported to the same coach of last season, Captain R. M. Wilson, the silver tongued, task talking and soft speaking coach, who says that by April 1st he will be ready for any team. any place any where, "Nuff Sed."

Sergt. Ellis (Rim), has started a class of "Etiquette," not how to be gracious and charming, but to learn how to act at social functions. His aim is to give his class certain self-confidence and poise at kitchen police, use by the class is a table, at which the men take turns at playing 1st Sergts. and K. P's. Everyone make mistakes once, and to the kitchen you must go. So he has found out that it is courtesy that oils the wheels of every day life and makes it easy for everybody.

SOLDIER RETIRED AS PRIVATE RECEIVES EQUIVALENT TO INTEREST ON INVESTMENT OF $21,960.

It is a trait of human nature to fail to appreciate those blessings or benefits that come to one without effort or for which one does not dig down into his pocket and pay for out of his salary. A striking illustration of this occurred at Fort Slocum, New York, during the early days of the war. Large numbers of men were being enlisted and patriotic theatrical organizations were putting on splendid shows for the soldiers' amusement. The choicest acts and the very best stars from Broadway composed the bill at these entertainments, which were free to all soldiers. Many of them attended but they started to walk out after the first act and by the time the performance was half over these all-star shows were ruined by the exodus. Night after night this same thing happened, much to the discouragemnet of all who made these splendid entertainments possible. Many could not understand such lack of appreciation. It was purely and simply because these shows were free and had an admisson charge, however small, been made most of these men would have kept their seat sto the very last As one of them when questioned remarked "No free shows for. mine. When I want to see a show I'll pay for it."

Take the question of retired pay-few enlisted men who serve in a regiment for a number of years prior to retirement ever go on the reitred list as privates. Usually a vacancy is made in some appropriate non-commissioned officers' rank so that they can retire with that rank and this action is almost invariably taken with men who actually deserve the character "Excellent."

The monthly retired pay of enlisted men for each grade follows:

|---|---|
| 1st Grade-Master Sergt. | $133.87 |
| 2nd Grade-Technical Sergt. or 1st Sergt. | 94.50 |
| 3rd Grade-Staff Sergt. | 83.25 |
| 4th Grade-Sergt. | 66.37 |
| 5th Grade-Corporal | 55.12 |
| 6th Grade-Privates 1-Cl. | 43.87 |
| 7th Grade-Private | 35.44 |
| Average | $ 73.20 |

Presuming that an equal number are retired in each grade, the average retired pay amounts to $73.20 per month or $878.40 a year. As a matter of fact, very few men are ever retired as privates as has already been explained so that the average is probably actually more than the $878.40 per annum mentioned above. But to be conservative let us take this figure as the basis and what do we find it represents- As it is an assured income it may be considered as the yield from an investment. What investment equals in safety the guarantee of retired pay? A United States Government bond is the only one I know. It would take $21,960 worth of bonds paying 4 per cent. of the same amount of cash in a saving bank to yield the $878.40. If he were retired as a master sergt. as many worth soldiers are, his pay would represent a similar investment of $40,161; as a technical sergeant it would be $28,350 and so on down the list.

Every one is acquainted with some old soldier who has served a number of years in his regiment and has become in fact, an institution. Every one is willing at all times to help such a soldier by advice or aid in time of trouble.

Very few enlisted men realize the value of some of the allowance they receive without effort. A soldier is taken sick and goes to the hospital-his pay goes on just the same and he is not put to any additioanl expense for medical treatment, medicines or hospital service. In civil life a wage earner is "out of luck." In most cases if he is laid up for any length of time his earning power ceases and his expenses increases in leaps and bounds. Strikes do not effect the soldier's income-strike benefits never equal the pay envelope. So long as a soldier obeys orders and regulations and does his duty at all times, his pay comes to him from a man who has no interest in the actual amount received other that to assure himself that the same is authorized by law. Quite often the civilian employer fails to have this same feeling in regard to the pay envelope of the employee

A soldier pays no dental-bill—a civilian does and wonders why he has to pay so much to a man for hurting him. A soldier gets three meals a day and a place to sleep—a civilian does if he has the price in his jeans. A soldier walks down to the Post gymnasium and exercises; goes t othep ost library and gets a late book; goes to the movies and sees a popular picture; goes in to the company amusement room and plays billiards or shoots pool—finds newspapers and magazines, often writing material. All of these things he gets without cost or at a very small cost compared to what he would spend as a civilian.

He goes to the supply sergeant and puts in a request for a new uniform or other articles of clothing and it comes to him without cost. It is a different proposition for a civilian when he goes to buy a suit of clothes. The cost of insurance available to Army personnel is much cheaper and safer than any old line company can offer. There is no reason why a soldier should not save a few dollars each month and still enjoy life, and the Government provides a safe bank to keep his savings in at the same rate of interest as the soldier can get outside with a safe institution.

The value of saving a few dollars every month is not usually realized by the young man. Yet it is no uncommon thing to find many soldiers going out on retirement with large deposit—which enables them to buy a home and start their new life under comfortable circumstances.

The Army resents the enlisted man being called a "fifteen dollar man" or a "thirty dollar man" because these allowances that have been mentioned above amount to so much more than his actual pay, and come just as certainly as his pay to the good soldier.

Company "K"

The entire Company offers sympathy and condolence to Sergeant Powell in his loss and bereavement. Early on Tuesday morning his home caught afire and was completely destroyed with all his personal effects. His wife who had been sick in the house was caught in the flames and her clothing caught afire inflicting burns which later caused her death at the station hospital. Arrangements were made for burial at her home near Midway, Alabama.

Sergeant Powell for two years has been dispatcher at the Q. M. Corral, and in this capacity has made many friends in Fort Benning, who have all rallied to his aid in this emergency. Members of "K" Company have manifested their esteem and sympathy in a substantial manner, and the officers of the regiment have also taken a share in the friendly assistance which has come to the rescue of this soldier in his misfortune.

Signal Corps Notes

Here we are again after a delay of several weeks due to the fact that everyone has been too busy in telephone installations in the new Officers Quarters, New Target Range, etc., to submit any notes for publication.

No, it was not an earthquake that shook the barracks the other night—Avery was just reminded that Myers time for K. P. was up Sunday and he would be the next applicant for the position—thats alright Avery, we all get shaky in the knees at times.

While in and around the Signal Office the other day the following narrative was heard to take place between Captain Laytin and Private Heard.

Heard: (With an intelligent look on his face) Captain, if we cut a-2 Amplifier condenser into one side of the Tungar Rectifier, ground the other side of the rectifier to one side of the line relay on Sergeant Herman's line, what would the result be?

Captain Lattin (Thoughtfully) Well, if I understand Signal Corps Manuel No. 3 and Ohms Law thoroughly, and if the resistence is the same on both the condenser and the rectifier as it was on my Dodge Radiator cap before that "slick-finger" took it, the result would be a slight ground on the ring side of the 29th Infantry Radio Antanna—pick up the marbles Capt. you win.

INFANTRY SCHOOL TENNIS TEAM —1923—

The Infantry School has scheduled an ambitious program of tennis matches for this year. The season will start early in April. Matches have already been arranged with Georgia Tech, Atlanta Athletic Club, Macon Country Club. Others pending.

All officers on duty at Fort Benning may compete for places on the team. Names should be submitted at once to any member of the Tennis Committee. The Committee will prepare an initial relative ranking list of all candidates, based on their past performance and the results of tournaments last fall. A player may advance on this list by challenging and defeating the player next above him. The team to play any match will ordinarily be chosen from the players highest on the list. The ranking list will be posted on the Bulletin Board of the Officers Club and at the Tennis Courts.

The following officers are members of the Tennis Committee:

Major, C. B. Elliott, 1st Sec. D. M. A.; Capt. L. H. Watson, 1st Sec. D. M. A.; Capt. T. D. Finley, 2nd Sec. D. M. A., Capt. R. C. Van Vliet, Jr., 1st Sec. D. M. A., Capt. J. S. Switzer, Jr, 29th Infantry, Capt. K. S. Whittmore, Co. C, C. O. Class."

RANGE AND COOKING DEMONSTRATION.

Miss E. A. Purdy, range and cooking demonstrator for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., will be at Fort Benning on March 26, 27, and 28.

Miss Purdy will give individual inranges in thecmfwypicl sh sh sh shr structions in cooking on the new electric ranges in the Officer sHop Room on the mornings of March 27th and 28th. On the afternoons of these two days, she will give a class demonstration on the preparation of foods and care of electric ranges.

All ladies of the Post interested are cordially invited to be present.

Miss Purdy is not only an expert in the preparation of foods but is thoroughly versed in the use of the electric range. Miss Purdy's phone number will be Post 26 ring one, office of Constructing Quartermaster, during her stay on the post.

Births

Born to Lieut. and Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins a future financial ruler of Wall Street and an Alexander the Great on March the 8th.

Mr. Stephen B. Elkins delayed notifying the News of his arrival due to the stress of other duties, and as a consequence proper announcement was not made at the time.

When asked by a reporter of the News for his opinion with regards to the "Fort Benning Road" young Steve right then and there proved that he will be no mean diplomat for he would not commit himself giving as his reason that he had just arrived, hence he did not know what the attitude was as regards the Fort Benning News, giving as his reason that he had just arrived and wanted to get oriented before making a definate statement.

He did state, however, that the climate seemed to agree with him here and that he was feeling fine and dandy and also that he was gaining in weight daily.

ANNOUNCEMENT and CORRECTION

Elsewhere in this issue we stated that we had three cartoons with the News, but the article was written Thursday morning and as that is our busy day we wrote the article rather hurriedly and as a result we omitted the name of Lieut. Bernard A. Byrne who has and still is giving us some excellent drawings. We most sincerely beg your pardon Lieut. Byrne that we were so careless as to omit your name in the other article and sincerely hope that this will make up at least in part of our error. Selah!

FILM PLAYERS OF ABILITY IN "SINGED WINGS"

Another of those splendid casts that are characteristic of Paramount pictures, has been assembled for "Singed Wings," Penrhyn Stanlaws' new Paramount production in which Bebe Daniels and Conrad Nagel are featured, and which comes to the War Dept. theatres next Thursday. Miss Daniels has the role of Bonita della Guerda, a beautiful Spanish cafe dancer, while Mr. Nagel plays the leading masculine part, that of Peter Gordon. Mr. Nagel is regarded as one of the screen's best young actors and his role in "Singed Wings" gives him ample opportunity to display his talent to the best advantage

The heavy role is played by Adolphe Menjou, one of the best players of ballroom and polished villain roles. Don Jose della Guerda, grandfather of Bonita, is played by Robert Brower. An old man, hardly able to walk with the aid of his cane and teased to exasperation by Emilio, a simple minded clown, Mr. Brower has created a character of great strength.

Ernest Torrence nas the part of Emilio, one of the strongest characterizations in the picture. Emilio is a clown in the cafe at which Bonita dances. He is simple minded but cunning nevertheless. He loves Bonita, who treats him kindly and thereby provokes a tragedy. The remaining role, that of Eve Gordon, the neglected wife of Bliss Gordon, is played by Mabel Trunelle. Finding herselff losing the love of her husband, she faces death, and is killed, in an effort to regain that love.

BATTLES OF SEXES THEME OF PICTURE

The eternal battle of the sexes, raging from the very drawn of the human race, is the theme of Daniel Carson Goodman's powerfully dramatic and prophetic photoplay "What's Wrong With the Women," which will be shown at the War Department Theatres Friday March 30.

Woman, according to the view of Mr. Goodman, long noted as a writer and producer of plays for the stage and screen, has realized that if she is to hold her own in this, one of life's greatest battles—the battle of her own sex—she must borrow from the weapons of experience.

That is why, Mr. Goodman shows in bold and powerful strokes, she does not disdain the rouge pot, the powder puff, the pencil, the art of the manicurist and the subtlety of the dress-makers.

Mr. Goodman employs real characters of flesh and blood to tell his amazing story on the screen but he goes far beyond mere individuals. He treats the theme as a massive human canvas, as a world problem for the answer to which great men have been vainly groping for centuries.

"What's Wrong With the Women," is not unkind to womanhood. It is in no sense a sermon or propaganda in behalf of mere man. But it reveals the modern woman in all her strength and weaknesses and shows by means of a tremendously dramatic human story how woman, in the present high-powered era of jazz and bootleggers, can such serve society. In the cast are such noted players as Wilton Lackaye, Rod La Rocque, Barbara Castleton, Mantague Love, Huntley Gordon, Julia Swayne Gordon, Constane Bennett, Hedda Hopper and Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein. R. William Neil was the director and the picture was made for Equity.

Two Old Timers Are Retired

One man of the 24th, another of 83rd Complete 30 Years Service.

Sergeant Alphone J. Riegler, R-664,-251 Battery "C" 83rd Field Artillery, was tendered a battalion review Tuesday morning on the 29th Infantry parade ground, on the occasion of his retirement after nearly twenty-five years of continuous service, not counting double time. General Gordon, the commanding officer, received the review with Sergt. Riegler, and Major J. W. Rumbough, commanding the 1st Battalion of the 83rd Field Artillery was commander of troops. Through the courtesy of the 29th Infantry, the band of that regiment furnished appropriate music.

Sergt. Riegler's admirable record during his entire service, and the official recognition and appreciation of it, appear in the following orders:

1. The Commanding Officer desires

Captain Charles Speer Is Decorated

Receives The D. S. C.

On last Saturday morning Captain Charles E. Speer was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross in the presence of the School Division and the 29th Infantry.

General Gordon pinned the much desired Cross upon the breast of Capt. Speer and thereafter the 29th Infantry passed in review, the School Division at a rigid attention a short distance in the rear of Commandant of the Infantry School during the ceremony.

Captain Speer attended the first training camp held in this country, namely Plattsbury in 1915. After graduating at this Camp he joined the 5th Infantry of the Maryland National Guard. He answered the Call to the Colors in 1916 for the Mexican Border and in November 1916 was commissioned a provisional 2nd Lieutenant

83RD F. A. BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. C. W. Reed entertained the 83rd Field Artillery Bridge Club on Tuesday afternoon March 20th. There were four tables of players and four guests.

Mrs. Ellis received a lovely guest prize. Mrs. W. A. Boiderlinden received the high score prize and Mrs. C. Pickett the second.

Refreshments consisted of a delightful salad, beaten biscuits, cheese-straws and tea.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. E. J. Roxbury.

A FINE PICNIC LAST SATURDAY.

Lieutenant I. H. Joffee and Lieutenant L. W. Bassett were hosts to a large group of unmarried young people last Saturday when they gave a picnic at Jefferson Hole.

Mrs. Graham was the chaperone, but Colonel Graham was unable to be present due to a toothache.

Every one stated that they had an excellent time and that the delicious "eats" furnished by the hosts were enbeatable and that they are to be congratulated on the excellent selection.

To add merriment to the party every auto got stuck somewhere along the excellent (?) road either coming or going and to use the words of the party the road was "rotten."

Others who were present were: Miss Henry, Miss Malone, Miss Dinkle, Miss Mechling, Miss Kent, Miss Woods, Miss Neeland, Miss Turner, Lieutenants Henry, Gannon, Sanderson, McCarthy, Hendly, Williams, Adams and Zeigler and Masters Edward Mechling, Kirvin Malone and Harold Porter.

MRS. AND MISS HENRY ARRIVE

Mrs. Henry and Miss Henry sister and price of Mrs. Waddell, wife of Major Wadell arrived the latter part of last week. They expect to stay about ten days.

CAPT. AND MRS. HUNTER ENTERTAIN

Captain and Mrs. Rosser L. Hunter were the cordial hosts at a bridge party on Tuesday evening at their home out at Fort Benning.

Spring-time flowers, consisting of yellow jasmine, jonquils and peach blossoms were used to make the apartment more beautiful.

The first prize was a set of linen tea napkins and Mrs. Gilfillin was the lucky winner. The first prize for the gentlemen was a memorandum book, and Captain Engleman fell heir to that.

The ladies consolation was a bud vase and Mrs. Engleman cut it. The man's consolation was a box of candy which Captain Lester won.

Present were: Major and Mrs. Sawkins, Major and Mrs. Brownell, Major and Mrs. Stickney Captain and Mrs. Engleman, Captain and Mrs. Lester, Captain and Mrs. Gilfillin.

MRS. BURNETT ENTERTAINS.

On last Monday afternoon Mrs. Burnett entertained at two tables of bridge at her home.

Mrs. Gessford and Mrs. Hebert won the table prizes.

A delicious luncheon was served just before the entire party went to the baseball game which was played between the Infantry School and the University of Georgia.

MRS. HERBERT ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE

Mrs. Edmond Herbert gave a lovely bridge party at Dinglewood on Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. J. W. Crissy, who is the guest of Captain and Mrs. John R. Fountain.

Large bunches of pear, peach and plum blossoms, were banked in the corners and niches of this beautiful old home which made a picturesque setting for the tables where the ladies were seated.

Mrs. Pomerin made high score at the bridge game and was given a luncheon set, and sourvenir for the guest was a bridge set.

Twelve guests were included in this affair.

MRS. CRISSY LEAVES.

Mrs. Crissy who has been visiting Mrs. J. R. Fountain left last Tuesday for St. Louis enroute to her home at Fort Omaha.

OH JOY, JOY AND THEN MORE JOY, WE ARE GOING TO HAVE FUN, ARE YOU?

Yes sir and its going to happen on April 6th at 9 p. m. at the Biglerville Hall and all for the Army Relief. Yes sir its a benefit social and the most pretentous entertainment ever given at Fort Benning.

Mrs. Peyton who is in charge of the entertainment has discovered among the officers and ladies stationed here many of unusual musical and dramatic ability all of whom have gladly agreed to contribute their services to so worthy a cause. As Benning is the greatest Post in the Army it is hoped that its contribution to the Army Relief this year will be greater than at any other post.

It is indeed seldom that one can help an organization so deserving and at the same time be so delightfully entertained.

It is hoped that every officer will take advantage of this opportunity and bye at least two tickets.

Mrs. Schoeffel who is chairman of the refreshment committee is busy selecting food and those who are on the committee are reading cook books for especially good selections or palate teasers. Three competent judges have been arranged for and they will with most solomn dignity sample the various cakes that the ladies of the Post are going to donate and then they will award a prize to the lady who brought the best cake.

The orchestra is now rehearsing the best of jazz numbers that will be played between the acts.

Don't forget the entertainment begins promptly at 9 o'clock.

MISS DUNKLE TO BE ENTERTAINED.

On April 3rd Mrs. Burnett will entertain at luncheon in honor of Miss Dunkle who is the house guest of Col. and Mrs. McCaskey.

MRS. BURNETT ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE

On last Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Burnett entertained the Neighborhood Bridge Club at her quarters.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Mester.

Delightful refreshments were served after the game.

MISS GRAHAM ENTERTAINS

On last Friday evening preceding the Hop at the Officers' Club, Miss Kathleen Graham entertained at supper in honor of Miss Elizabeth Henry.

The table was artistically decorated with peach blossoms and white candles in silver holders.

Covers were placed for eighteen.

After the delicious supper the entire party repaired to the Hop Room and enjoyed the dance there.

RECENT ARRIVALS

Major Charles A. Dravo arrived in the Post this week from West Point where he has been an instructor. As the Major is on a leave status at present so his duty status is unknown at the present time.

Major Dravo was entertained informally at luncheon by Colonel and Mrs. McCaskey on last Monday.

Another recent arrival is Lieutenant D. E. Lowry Jr., Q. M. C. who has just returned from France and gay Paris at that.

TEA MUSICALE WAS EXCELLENT.

The Tea Musicale given by Mayor and Mrs. Dimon at their home on last Wednesday was an important and delightful event.

Mrs. Campanole, wife of Major Campanole gave the musical numbers, and her lovely program of songs was accompanied with fineness by Alice Beard Kierce, a well known local pianist.

Too much cannot be said of the exquisite quality of Mme. Campanole's lyric soprano voice.

Mrs. Campanole's program had the distinction of newness. Each was a gem, revealing the sweetness, flexibility and range of the singer's voice, Repeated encores betrayed the enthusiasm of the splendid audience which completely filled the Dimon home.

At the close of the entertainment, the guests were server tea, and had the opportunity of meeting Major and Mrs. Campanole, both of whom are charming socially and whom Columbus regrets to lose at a very early date.

Mrs. Dimon's home was brightened for the tea-musicle with quantities of flowering pear, dogwood, daffodils, tulips and hyacinths, and the tea table, arranged with its silver service, was presided over by Mrs. Cecil Neill and Mrs. Marshall Wellborn.

MR. AND MRS. V. A. COX ENTERTAIN.

On last Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Cox and their daughter Miss Vesta entertained at dinner in honor of Capt. and Mrs. Bazire.

The beautiful table decorations consisting of pink and white candle in silver holders, with plum and peach blossoms surrounding a potted plant with nests of Easter chickens artistically intermingled added a cheerful that made the dinner exceptionally delightful.

Covers were laid for twelve.

MRS. BURACKER HONORED WITH SURPRISE PARTY BY 24th INF.

On Tuesday evening the Officers and ladies of the 24th Infantry assembled at the officers club for a farewell party to be given Mrs. Buracker. mother of Lieut. S. L. Buracker who is soon to leave Fort Benning. Mrs. Buracher has been a member of the 24th Infantry circle during her stay at Fort Benning, and has won her place in the hearts of all who have come to know her.

The surprise was affected by the regimental officer of the day holding up Lieut. Buracher's car at the entrance of the 24th Infantry camp while out riding and demanding a search to be made for liquor. Mrs. Buracker was ushered into the Club close by while the embarrassing proceedure was carried out. Upon entering the side door, the lights were snapped on and the party deluged Mrs. Buracker with cries of Surprise!

The evening was spent in dancing, imptomptu bridge, music by the orchestra, a speech by all present which was the feature of the evening. Col. Nicklin was master of ceremonies and there wasn't a dull moment during the entire evening. Mrs. Buracker was presented with a guest prize and was showered with compliments and regrets from all present on the eve of her departure. Refreshments were sreved.

24th INF. BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED BY MRS. NICKLIN.

The 24th Infantry Bridge club were delightfully entertained by Mrs. B. P. Nicklin on Tuesday afternoon at her home, which was decorated in the seasons blossoms. Four tables were filled for play, and five tea guests later shared the warm hospitality and the honors.

First prize was awarded Mrs. Jas. Sproule, a handpainted basket filled with flowers; the second prize was won by Mrs. Buracker a set of bridge score cards; the cut rize was awarded Mrs. L. V. Jones, a set of linen tea napkins; and the honor guest prize was given Mrs. J. F. Farnsworth, a beautiful corsage.

MEDICAL DEPT. BRIDGE CLUB.

The Medical Department Bridge club met at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Reeve Turner.

Those winning prizes were Mrs. Arnest first, Major Tobias Second and Mrs. Smith drew the consolation.

After the game delicious refreshments were served.

Captain and Mrs. John N. White will entertain the club on April 10th.

CAPT. AND MRS. L. K. LEGGE ARE POST VISITORS

Capt. and Mrs. L. K. Legge, of Charleston, S. C., are visiting Capt. B. R. Legge and Mrs. Legge at Fort Benningg.

Capt. Legge was formerly a member of the famous "Wildcat" Division (81st) and went through the overseas campaign in the capacity of operations officer of the 324th Infantry. After the return of the "Wildcats" to the States Capt. Legge resumed the practice of law in Charleston.

Capt. and Mrs. Legge will be at Fort Benning for a number of days.

A DRAG HUNT BREAKFAST

On last Sunday morning Capt. George H. Weems entertained a party of friends at a drag hunt breakfast at the Officer's Club mess. Among those present were Capt. and Mrs. Wm. E. Lewis, Lieut. and Mrs. Bernard A. Byrne, Capt. Legge, Capt. Weems, Lieut. McKinney, Lieut. and Mrs. Lawrence, Lieut. and Mrs. Elkins.

CAPT. AND MRS. B. LEGGE ENTERTAIN

Last Sunday evening Capt. B. R. Legge and Mrs. Legge entertained a number of friends at a buffet supper to meet Mrs. Legge's son and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. L. K. Legge of Charleston, S. C. Among those present were Capt. and Mrs. Moore, Capt. and Mrs. Bruce, Capt. and Mrs. Switzer, Capt. and Mrs. Lewis, Lieut. and Mrs. French, Lieut. and Mrs. Elkins, Capt. Weems, Capt. Keiser.

A SEWING PARTY

On last Friday March 23rd Mrs. R. T. Arnest entertained at a sewing party at her home.

An enjoyable time was had and considerable work was accomplished.

A delightful frozen salad course with waffers, tea and mints were served as refreshments.

THE CURRENT EVENTS CLUB

The next meeting of the Current Events Club will be held on Monday April the second at the home of Mrs. Dibrell Quarters No. 20-H.

Mrs. Matthew J. Gunner will speak on personnal experiences in Armenia. The following members will have charge of the regular program, Mrs. T. L. Smith, Mrs. J. Elkins and Mrs. J. Rycroft.

MRS. M'NAIR ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE

Mrs. McNair, wife of Captain McNair entertained at bridge on Thursday afternoon March 22.

The first prize, a pair of hand-embroidered pillow cases, was won by Mrs. Buracker. The second prize, a chine cake set, was won by Mrs. Dunwoody and the consolation, two hand-embroidered tea towels, was cut by Mrs. Willis. After the game, a delicious salad course, coffee, nuts and mints were served.

THE DANSANT

The tea dance originally planned for Wednesday, April 4th, but postponed in order not to interfere with the Army Relief cabaret, will be given Wednesday afternoon, April 18.

This is the last of a series of parties given to raise funds for the furnishing of the Polo Club House. It is planned to procure these furnishings at once so that the members of the garrison who will leave in June may be permitted to see and enjoy, by their use of the club house, the results.

Because of limited floor space only a small number of tickets to the dance will be sold. Announcement with regard to the making of reservations will be made in a later issue.

SOME CABARET

The big Cabaret and dance that the Army Relief will give at Biglerville Hall on April the 6th is going to the Cat's Whiskers when it comes to having a good time.

If you enjoy eating, and dancing and singing and music you sure want to be there. Don't forget the date April 6, at 9 bells. Tickets six-bits, three-fourths of a dollar, at Wheat's Drug Store and by the Misses Fassetts.

29TH INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. K. Olson entertained the 29th Infantry Bridge Club at her quarters on last Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Raaen won the high score prize two lovely hand embroidered linen handkerchiefs and Mrs. Rickert won the cut prize which was the same as the high score prize except that it consisted of only one handkerchief.

A delicious salad course was served for refreshments.

The Nest regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. McKeon.

15th Tank Battalion News

CO. "C" 15TH TANK BATTALION

The company baseball league, will start next week, the date will be announced later, a meeting was recently held and the outlook is most encouraging. A large number of veterans will be on deck, with the addition of several promising recruits.

Well, well; Will wonders ever cease, last Monday an "A" Company tank came in under its own power from the range. As it passed the camp baseball diamond a long fly was hit to centerfield; the Georgia fielder so surprised when he saw the tank that he misjudged the ball and it went for a home run.

Cpl. Patterson must have had a good month at black-jack for we understand he has purchased Burton's old tin Lizzy.

The casualties of "C" Company were very heavy last week. Three of their best men were discharged, Sgt. Dean and Rollins and Pvt. Whitten.

29th Infantry News Notes

Company "A"

Pvt. 1st Class Joseph Kindur has just returned from his re-enlistment furlough and we are all glad to have him back once more. There is an old saying that too many cooks spoil the pie but we don't have pie so we should worry.

Our day room is taking on the appearance of a parlor now and we hope to have the pool tables ready for action inside of a few days. We need the money.

Don't it make a fellow feel queer to take a brace on himself, give his full military rank and title when answering the telephone and then to have a feminine voice ask if Corpl.—is in?

Company "B"

While writing about him I may as well finish up: One night last week Sgt. Humphrey was known to make a call on a certain lady in the city, after a moment of debate they decided to go to the carnival that was running in Alabama, after spending three or four hours at the cernival and also all the money taht the Sergt. happened to have, the fair damsel requested him to wait at the entrance for a few moments he waited "Yes" for three long hours Then friends told him that his girl was seen with some other fellow. Remember Sergt. that all is fair in love and war and also that revenge is sweet.

To all you men who are going out of the service and into the unknown of the civilian life. There is a letter in the orderly room of this Organization that was received from a Soldier that once belonged to the 29th Infantry, and from the tenor of that letter, Civilian life is all to hard for one who has spent Three years of leisure in the Army, for that is what it is and nothing more, so if you are about to be discharged, make a call and read the contents of this letter. P. S.—This man is re-enlisting for his old Organization.

Company "C"

Prospects are very good for a number of Expert Riflemen this season, Corpl. Corley thought 44 was to little for him out of 10 shots, but when he fired another 10 rounds he had to be satisfied with 39, Corley we all know you can argue but you can't get ahead of a bullet.

Both Officers and men would have had little respect for the narrow minded degenerate that shot the dog belonging to "C" Co. last week on the range, if he had been shooting at a target it would have been a miss.

Company "E"

About all you can hear in this neck of the woods is base-ball. I believe it has become more popular than cribbage, although the latter is running a close second. Dad and Mowry started a friendly game last night and it wound up by Dad locking the cards and board up. He said if he couldn't win a game there would not be any playing with his toys.

Hz. Co. thought they had fish in "E" Co.; probably they did but from the looks of Sunday's game, Howitzer is about the biggest Fish we know of.

The reporter wants to know what becomes of the Co.'s notes each week.

Company "F"

Well boys look over our consecutive victories on the diamond: 2nd Bn. Hdqrs. Co. 7-22 F. Co. 1st Bn. Hdqrs. Co. 6-19 F. C. Regtl. Hdqrs. Co. 0-9, F. Co.

When it come sto playing the "National Sport" F. Co. is well represented, even if we do say it ourselves. "Selah"

Private Szurkus received his "Rubber Rifle" from Sears Roebuck Co. you can "Wrap it around your knob" without any inconvenience Clem. quite a difference between your new one and your regular "Musket" eh?

Corporal Werner received a box from Pennyslvania and of course he destributed the contents freely, the eats were fine John we certainly wish that Easter would come once a week. "Selah!"

Company "H"

Our base ball team had an even break last week. They won one game and lost one. They defeated "F" Compayn 9 to 7. Vincent was on the mound and he pitched an excellent game. The other game was lost to the Service Company.

Our papers and magazines are arriving every day now for our Recreation Room. We will son have a good supply of reading material.

We put on a demonstration Monday which passed of excellent. It was complimented by Officers of the Field Officers' Class.

ARMY PEOPLE

What element or factor connected with life in the Army makes us stay in the Service notwithstanding disagreeable living conditions, loss of pay, demotions, and numerous petty annoyances which turn up from time to time? There are a number of us who could materially better our financial condition by expending the same amount of energy we now expend if we were in civilian life.

Living conditions would ordinarily be more satisfactory than at some of our Army posts while the cost of living would probably be considerably less. If we were in business for ourselves, as the expression goes, the probability of a decrease in income, after we had become established, would normally be so small as to be almost negligible while if we were on a salaried basis our salary, rather than be reduced, would be increased from time to time and if we were connected with a live and progressive business concern we would eventually become a member of the firm or retire on a pension when we became too old to be of further service. And in the meantime we would have probably acquired a certain amount of property of one kind or another and a home.

The answer to the above question is the people in the Army.

Army people have a tendency to form friendships which are lasting and the nature of their lives is such as to draw them closer together. And it is this friendshiip principal that keeps us here. Of course we have our little rows, but there are very few families who do not and an outsider stepping in quickly proves that they mean nothing. If we do happen to get engaged in a situation which would, in other walks of life, cause a permanent estrangement most of us bring the matter to a show-down by meeting the other party, or parties, in the case face to face and by personal contact eliminate misunderstanding—on which, incidentally, most rows are based—which might otherwise become so magnified in our own minds as to make us look on the other fellow as a vile wretch.

Did you ever take a leave with no place in particular to go and nothing in particular to do? Try it out once. For the first few days the going is good. Getting out of bed any old time in the morning and wearing any old kind of clothes have their appeal. People you have not seen for a number of years extend the hand of fellowship, get you to extol at length on the overseas campaign, and tell you to use their office as a loafing place. Maybe you go to a number of very nice parties. After a time however you find that the rest of the crowd does not speak your language and that they are very busy hustling along in their own particular grooves. Soon time begins to hang heavy on your hands and the first thing you know you begin to wonder what the crowd at your particular station is doing. Then your determination to get away from everything military for two months and do nothing but loaf begins to show signs of weakening and if it were not for the fact that the crowd on "the Post" would think you had not had a good time you would report back for duty. Finally you do start back, giving yourself several days time in case trains are missed or the car breaks down, and when you report in—five days ahead of time—you feel that you are "home again."

The women of the Army make the Service what it is from the standpoint of attractiveness. Our women are so versatile as to be able to make a home out of a shack and they are accustomed to inconveniences which a housewife in civilian life would not put up with. They can prepare a good meal on an oil heater and give a good party at almost no expense. Quick and frequent changes of station make them susceptible to speedy climatization and this, in turn, makes them readily adaptable to living in a cold shack in the winter or a hot house in the summer. They keep up the social end of Army life and make one dollar do the duty of two. They worry the property officer and make the quarters look like a real home. They wear old clothes and look good in them. In an emergency they can clean and press a uniform so that the wearer will look presentable at a social function.

"Here's how" to Army people—meaning the women!

CHANGE OF THE UNIFORM.

The News following the lead of the service papers would like to know what the attitude of the officers at this station is as regards the present uniform.

Are you interested in a change of the present collar? Do you want a change of color of the service uniform? Do you want a dress uniform? If you do or if you don't just fill out the following form and we will consolidate the list and send them to the Register and the Journal. Lets go don't delay, Selah.

BALLOT.

CIRCULAR NO. 20

War Department,
March 27, 1923.

Section

Policies governing geometrical propositions ..... I
Auditing of payrolls ..... II
Miscellaneous ..... III

I. Policies governing geometrical propositions.—So much of the 47th Proposition of Euclid, as amended by the Pythagorean Theory, as refers to the sum of the squares, is amended to read "is equal to the sum of the squares of the other two sides, when properly authenticated by the Personnel Adjutant." Attention is invited, in this regard, to the fact that the allowance of sides is three per triangle, unless otherwise authorized by the Commanding Officer.

II. Auditing of payrolls.—Increasing complaints from the office of the Auditor of the War Department that officers in the field responsible for the preparation of payrolls are apparently unfamiliar with the recent decision of the Comptroller General of the Treasury to the effect that officers and enlisted men on a leave status are not entitled to any benefits resulting from the Binomial Theorem, make it necessary to require that all officers make themselves familiar with these provisions. Commanding officers will be held responsible that each officer of their command certify that he has read all changes, and posted his copy of Wentworth's College Algebra up to date.

III. Miscellaneous. (1.) An eclipse of the moon, visible below the 40th parallel of latitude, previously scheduled for March 28, 1923, has been postponed until April 2, 1923, to permit of additional rehearsals.

(2) (Ohm's Law) Rescinded.

(3) Independent decisions, arrived at jointly by the Judge Advocate General, the Comptroller General, the Postmaster General, and the Board of Governors, with respect to questions submitted by this office, are announced as follows for the misinformation and misguidance of all concerned:

Question: "Is a private first class, specialist sixth class, present grade and rating June 30, 1922, entitled to pay, if any?"

Answer: "Although mention is not made in the question of any deductions, forfeitures, charges, stoppages, nor allotments, apartments, and deportments, it is the opinion of this office, after consultation of numerous authorities, that the officer is not entitled to rental allowance. Furthermore it was clearly not contemplated, in the passage of H. R. 41144, entitled: "An Act to amend an Act, which provided a proviso to an Act, whose features have, for the time being, eluded our joint and several minds," that service prior to date of entry into the service should be computed for longevity. Sherman, in his "Decisions I Have Won and Lost" (Doubleday, Page and Co. $1.50 net), states, specifically;" On the morning of the 5th of August, 1863, the advance Guard of Hooker's Brigade entered a field near Bibb City." It may be seen here that after two years of campaign, the forces were entering the field for the first time, which is a definition this office was fortunate to find. It is believed the officer referred to in the above question was not entitled to compensation for dependent relatives, and it is therefore, held; that he will reimburse the government, through a stoppage against his pay, for the torn tents referred to." (Gannon.)

LITERARY CRITICISMS

I have just finished reading "Special Regulations 57-A." To say that this is a remarkable book is to put the case mildly. The author has brought to its treatment an originality of expression, not untinged with conservatism, which furnishes a pleasant and refreshing contrast to the more advertised examples of present day fiction.

It is customary for a reviewer to say, when he wishes to emphasize his high opinion: "So fascinated was I with this work that, once well started upon it, I found myself unable to lay it down." I go further. I was able to lay this book down, not once, but many times. Indeed, if my memory serves me rightly, I have, upon occasion, thrown it down, so roused was I with the emotions its absorbing plot inspired.

The wealth of detail, the breath of vision, demanded by the story, were impossible to encompass within the narrow confines of its forty pages were it not for a novel mode of condensation utilized by the author, a method stern and terse, not without a certain poetic beauty, mind you, in its suggestion, in its elision of the obvious.

For instance, in the enthralling chapter whose heading might well be; "Three Soldiers," he says, on page 9: "Corp Caswell aptd. sgt. Sgt. Roth aptd. mess sgt. Corp Bruce rd. to pvt." Here is virtue rewarded and stark, staring tragedy, all in one short line. This example is but one of many. It would, perhaps, spoil one's enjoyment of this work to quote from it further. Besides, that is as far as I have been able to get. (Gannon.)

THE FORBENOLUMINGROLUSODRA BUS

Recently several letters were received which made complaints against the Brankins Bus Line, which is in competition with the Howard Bus Line and as the situation was serious the Department of Experiment was directed to get on the job and construct a machine that would be suitable for transportation purposes under present conditions.

With characterist promptness the Department of Experiment decided that this proposed machine would have to have the following characteristics:

1. A machine that would be adaptable to the Fort Benning Road which are,
   a. Ability to pass over this road without falling to pieces.
   b. Ability to pass over the road when under water.
   c. Ability to climb the mountains on the road bed when the road bed is rough.
   d. Ability to go through any depth of mud when it rains.
   e. Also it must be skid proof.
2. The following plan was decided upon and put into execution:
   a. This machine must be able to fly when the roads get to where they become impassable.
   b. It must be able to float when water covered the road.
   c. To go through the mud it would have to have a tractor tread this also would prevcnt skidding.
   d. By placing a railroad rail to serve as a bumper would save the radiator and engine when the front end of the machine would suddenly drop into a crevis in the road.

This plan was carried out with promptness with the result that you see in the cut. The News is absolutely sincere when it extends heartiest congratulations to The Department of Experiment in negotiating the difficulties that beset them and upon their success of the successful results obtained.

The result is as you see a machine the Forbenolumingrolusodra that will cover the above requirements and still withstand the terrible strain that present conditions put upon any machine.

The following letter was received after the Forbenolumingralusedra had made several trips to Columbus.

Board of County Commissioners
Office Road Commissioner,
Columbus, Georgia
March 27, 1923.

Dear General:

We are writing you regarding an apparatus that has been seen on the road between Columbus and the Fort This spectacle has been reported by farmers living along the road who state that it has caused their cattle to die of fright and for their chickens to take to water as a last resort.

We have endeavored to locate what the thing really was and have traced it down to a bus that is being operated by unknown persons, carrying passenger (s) from Wynnton to the Fort. The bus?? or whatever you might desire to term it was seen recently, the rear fenders, or where they should be, were streaming out behind like wings, the top, instead of being level like the majority of tops are, was cockeyed, one end raising considerably higher than the other. As for noise, that is the way we caught sight of it, we were sitting in the office in Columbus and heard what we thought was a tank flying through the air, we sent the motor cops out to find out what it was and just as they reached Bull Creek Bridge, they caught sight of it but the motorcycles would not go nearer, in fact they couldn't as the vibration had caused a short to occur in the machines and the bus got away.

Owing to the safety and rights of the citizens of the county, we demand that steps be taken to have this outlandish so called bus line, either prevented from running on our roads or else that you direct that proper steps be taken to have necessary repairs made to insure the farmers the rights they should be accorded.

Thanking you for your prompt attention to this matter, I am,

Yours very truly
JNO. SMITH.

It is believed by the News that this letter will be ignored as the The For-Ben-Olum-Ing-Olus-Odra Bus absolutely answers the purpose for which it has been designed and we do not believe that its use should be discontinued. It has been fully demonstrated that this machine can make regular trips over the Benning road without falling to pieces.

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

Chapter V.
That Which Dealeth With The First Sergeant.

A man serveth many years in the Army of Samuel before he attaineth the rank of First Sergeant and he who keepeth the rank "putteth out."

Beholdest thou an indolent first sergeant, make note thereof, for his company is like unto him.

Beholdest thou a first sergeant that bluffeth, make note thereof, for so will his company be like unto him.

Beholdest thou a good first sergeant maketh note thereof, for so will his company be liked unto him.

An indolent company accomplisheth nothing and hath no place in the Army of Samuel.

A company that bluffeth accomplisheth nothing and it likewise hath no place in the army of Samuel.

A good company needs not the word of mouth for by its action, appearance, and reputation is it known to the far ends of the world.

The first sergeant keepeth many and varied records so make ye note thereof and if thou be so weak as to sin, forgetteth not that it be writ into thine record and there it stayeth until the last day of thine enlistment. Blame thou not the first sergeant or thine captain if thy record containeth many unworthy entries, for they do that which they must.

A good first sergeant sayeth "Private Samuel go thou on K. P. this day." A poor first sergeant sayeth "Ah Samuel it paineth me greatly," but on this day thou art due for K. P. and if thou failest to go I shall report thee to they Captain.

A good first sergeant argueth not with his men, but a poor first sergeant must needs bother his captain exceedingly.

But lo! the first sergeant who ignoreth his captain and concealeth that which his captain shouldest know. soon bringeth much discontent to his company.

When the captain heareth the murmurings of the multitude he requireth the cause thereof and soon there appeareth a new first sergeant.

A first sergeant drilleth, worketh, thinketh aright and keeepth in an excellent condition, A soft, flabby, lazy and poor conditioned first sergeant hath no place in the Army of Samuel and soon falleth by the wayside.

A good first sergeant maketh friends with none within the ranks for by so doing he performeth his duty with no favorites and thereby keepeth the respect of all.

A first sergeant is usually a good shot and this is as it should be, for he doth thereby set a good example and the multitude then try to be like unto him.

A first sergeant holdeth himself ready for any emergency, as for when the Major or Colonel appeareth, and his captain be absent he greeteth them whole heartedly and if they maketh an inspection he showeth them only what is good and by all means, within the law or not. he keepeth them away from such places as be unworthy or shouldest they make questions he giveth truthful answers but still concealeth the whole truth, for by so doing the officers findeth nothing whereof to complain and the captain giveth much praise and sayeth, "I have a good first sergeant."

A first sergeant who maketh much loud talk and showeth much activity when the captain appeareth, probably doth nothing while the captain be away.

There be many men in the Army of Samuel who believeth that they wouldest make a good first sergeant but a good first sergeant be as hard to find as a needle lost in a large mound of straw; many receiveth the chance but only a few remaineth.

But glory to the first sergeant who be faithful, honest and accomplisheth his office justly for he be as rare as gold upon the highway and feareth not the displeasure of his captain for such a first sergeant soon receiveth still more and greater rank.

Selah!

Company "A"

Pvt. Lyons the company "Baseball Star Short Stop" is in the hospital. We know he will be missed on the Regimental team.

---

Corpl. Manuel was sleeping so soundly a few days ago he forgot he had to make Reveille, but the First Sergeant was wide awae and on time, You know what happened.

---

Before Pvt. Heath was granted permission to re-enlist, and you asked him a question, you had to place your ear to his mouth to hear his answer; now that he has re-enlisted and no probability of missing his three squares, and you ask him or tell him something you can hear his voice in Block 21. The Army sure makes some people improve.

Company "I"

We don't know whether the Tanks will win the much talked about championship of the Post or not, but, they should be crowned the nerviest or most sporting nine in post—Letting one pitcher stay in the box for nine innings last Sunday, when Troup was to bat in the 8th inning. You can't beat that.

---

Attention to your appearance is an absolute necessity if you expect to make the most out of life. Not only should you wish to appear as attractive as possible, for your own self-satisfaction, which alone is worth your efforts, but you will find the world in general judging you largely, if not wholly by your looks.. Therefore it pays you to look your best at all times.. Do you wear civilian clothing and government clothing together, they will not mix. If you dress in civilian clothing be sure they are all civilian, If you are in uniform please be a soldier. Permit no one to see you otherwise.

Company "K"

Heard in the Company Orderly room Sgt. Garrett — (Earnestly) "Well, Wood, I'm improving now, I'm reading a book entitled 'How to become a perfect gentleman.' "

Sgt. Wood — (Surprised) "That sounds good, who's the writer?"

Sgt. G.—(Smiling) Corporal Johnie W. Jones.

Sgt. W. — (Very dry) "Well the writer may be alright, but I don't like his books."

Sgt. G. — (Slowly) "Why what's wrong?"

Sgt. W.—(Smoothly) "Yes, alright, I was looking over some of them, and out of a set of ninty-six, ninty-five were entitled, 'The social standing of a Thug.' "

Dedicated to Sergt. Tolbert, who has just grabbed 3 more years:

"Uncle Sam, for three more years,
I pledge my life to Thee;
Uncle Sam, Dear Uncle Sam,
The world I want to see,
Uncle Sam, Sweet Uncle Sam,
I'll eat your beans and liver,
But Uncle Sam, O Uncle Sam,
Please let me keep my Flivver!"

CARD OF THANKS.

2nd Battalion Headquarters Company with the assistance of the personnel of the 2nd Battalion, contributes this paragraph for publication this week:

The following was received from the Howitzer Company in appreciation of tribute shown by the 2nd Battalion on the occasino of the death of Pvt., Kilgore of that organization:

Howitzer Company, Twenty-Ninth Inf.
Ft. Benning, Ga.,
March 23rd, 1923.

Subject: Card of Thanks.
To: 2nd Battaltio, 29th Inf. Field Officers Class, The Inf. School. 2nd Section Department of Military Art of the Infantry School.

1. As a result of your thoughtfulness after the death of Pvt. Arnold A. Kilgore, of this organization, the following appeared in the Columbus Ledger on March 21, 1923.

"I wish to thank the Howitzer Co., 29th Infantry, the 2nd Battalion of the 29th Infantry, the Infantry School the Field Officers' Class. Infantry School, for their sympathy for me, in the loss of my dearest brother, Pvt. Arnold A. Kilgore, and for the beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. Ethel Joyce Morton."

2. I have, also, received a letter from Mrs Morton, in which she informs me taht the troops at Fort Oglethorpe officiated in the burial ceremonies and that a truck was required to transport the floral offerings to the cemetery. She stated that she was much gratified to know that although Arnold Kilgore was a Pvt. Soldier he was held in such high esteem as to receive such manifestations of regard from all that knew him.

3. In behalf of the Howitzer Company and of myself, I wish to express to you our appreciation of your consideration.

John S. Claussen,
Captain, 29th Infantry.

I. S. D. RECEIVES THANKS

The News is in receipt of a letter from Captain O. T. McAbee, Salvation Army at Atlanta in which they sincerely appreciate the donations made by the Infantry School Detachment. His letter follows:

Columbus, Ga., March 23, 1923.
Fort Benning News:

Please allow me space in your paper to express my appreciation for the splendid donation of $35.12 from the Infantry School Detachment (white) received the early part of this week, The Salvation Army always stands ready to do its bit for the enlisted men and officers as well, and we are hoping in the near future to be better prepared to serve you when in the city. May God richly bless you is my prayer.

ATTENTION STUDENTS

Postpone any arrangements you have made or contemplate making toward the procurement of land luggage or trunks to make your get-a-way with in June. The Post Exchange has on the way, a complete line of hand bags, suitcases, trunks and over-night cases. In the trunks there will be the regulation trunk locker, the flat steamer trunk, the wardrobe steamer trunk, the regular wardrobe trunk, and the Special Built Officer's Wardrobe Trunk. In the over-night cases for the Mrs., there is a complete toilet set in either ivory or amber. All of this line will be priced in such a manner that we guarantee to save you 25 per cent on prices you would pay elsewhere. Let your last service in camp be as it should, "Service to the Post Exchange by patronizing it" as the Post Exchange has endeavored to render you service during your stay here. Announcement of the arrival of this line will be made thru the Daily Bulletin and Fort Benning News. Watch for it.

A NEW FRENCH SALAD DRESSING

Mistress Helen Butler, who has charge of the Officers Club Mess at Fort Benning has placed a very delicious salad dressing upon the market and may be obtained at the commissary called "Helene French Dressing"

Demonstration of its use will be given at the sales commissary on Aprl 2nd and 3rd (Monday and Tuesday) in the forenoons. This dressing will soon be on sale at the Post Exchange and in Columbus.

As this is the first French salad dressing has been put up in bottles in this part of the country, and as it is very highly praised by those who have frequented the mess, we feel that this is really an unusual dressing, that it is bound to become famous.

Births

Correction

Born to Lieutenant and Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins on March the 8th a future financial King of Wall Street, an Alexander the Great and the Tennis Champion of the World.

Mr. Stephens Jr. delayed notifying the "News" of his arrival due to the stress of other duties, and as a consequence proper announcement was not made at the proper time.

When Stephen Jr. was asked by a reporter of the "News" for his opinion of the Fort Benning Road, he right then and there showed that he would be a diplomat extraordinary for he did not know just what the attitude of the "News" was as regards this road and rather than offend us he simply stated that since he had only recently arrived that he had not formed an opinion of the same as yet.

He did state, however, that the climate seemed to agree with him here and that he was feeling fine and also that he was gaining weight daily.

Service Club No. 1 Notes

At the regular meeting of the B. F. C's on March 22nd, Mrs. H. B. Stevenson gave a most interesting talk on China, its habits and customs as seen by her during a prolonged stay in that country. Mrs. Stevenson's talks are not only interesting but educational as well and those who are fortunate enough to hear them will be all the wiser for it. Mrs. Stevenson has a fine collection of pictures, post cards, etc., which she shows during her talks which tend to make them more interesting.

Through error on the part of the scribe, the name of Sergeant Bates, I. S. D., was omitted from these notes in the issue of March 17th, as becoming a new member of the Service Club Committee—all apologies to you Sergeant Bates for such carelessness.

At the Service Club dance, Wednesday evening it was noticed, that a member of the medical detachment, displayed a great fondness for the babies present. (those in arms, we mean) Put us wise old top. Are you thinking of taking a post graduate course in wet nursing? Or is it your love for childen? You know the old saying? "A man who loves children loves the world." Our only wish is that, children may never "Tyre" you.

A story is told of this same fellow. One day while standing in front of a department store in Columbus. A lady asked him if he would hold her baby for a few minutes, while she did some shopping. He consented to do this. The lady returned in about a half hour, and to show her appreciation, insisted on him accepting a quarter, to buy himself a soft drink. He declined the reward in these words, "I thank you lady, but I am not dry."

A Casino tournament will be held at the Service Club March 30th in the South Room at 6:45 p. m., all Casino players are requested to be on hand and compete for the prize.

NOTICE

Mrs. H. B. Stevenson has consented to repeat her talk on China next Saturday evening tonight, at 6:45 for the benefit of those that did not have a chance to hear her last Thursday afternoon. It will be to your interest to come and hear about the strange doings of the queer people across the Pacific. The talk will be given before the open fire in the South Room. All invited.

WILLIS R. BENNETT,
Sergeant, Finance Dept.

A BIT OF IRISH HISTORY
(By A. Poetmaster.)

1. St. Patrick's Day is over and this stick is one week late, but the story is of interest no matter what the date, so, if you'll bear with me a moment I'll write this grass-like song, and I'll tell you everything I know. (It won't take very long.) Its the story of how Cork received its name, then, if I may, tell its bearing on the wearing of the green St. Patrick's Day.

THE STORY

When Ireland fell from out the skies it caused an awful splash,
Which made the ocean roll and toss to this day. Think of that!
And when the Angels saw it they were very much afraid
That the dear, old isle would sink because of the many tons it weighed,
They thought at length about it—they scratched their noble heads
And finally solved the problem. Their brief decision read:
"That the greater part of this grand isle to shamrock would devote,
While the other bit must be a means of keeping it afloat."
So they built a town of floatsam (a mighty good resort)
And when they had it finished why they simply called it Cork.

2. Its proud you are to wear the green which comes from o'er the sea but if Ireland hadn't got her cork where would your shamrock be? At the bottom of the ocean! What an awful stunt if the angels hadn't thought of cork and dear old Ireland would have sunk!

Co. "C" Company Officers' Class.

The members of Company "C" offer hearty congratulations to Captain Speer who has recently been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross.

Those members of the Company who have been selected for R. O. T. C. duty have been notified of their assignments.

It is rumored that Captain Reed is still carrying a rifle marksmanship pamphlet around in his brief case. What's the big idea George?

Captain Wheeler, the star athlete of the ninth squad is showing excellent form in gymnastics.

CAPTAIN CHARLES SPEAR IS DECORATED

of Infantry of the Regular Army.

He went to France with the 28th Infantry arriving there June 13th 1917. In September 1917 he was detailed as an instructor at the 1st Corps School. In February he was relieved from this detail and sent as an instructor to the 2nd Corps School until May 1918.

During a part of January 1918 he was attached as an observer to the 4th Canadian Mounted Rifles at Lees.

On May 18th he joined the 9th Infantry and remained with them until he was wounded at Chateau Thierry on June 13th. He rejoined the 9th Infantry again on July 13th but was again wounded on July 18th near Vierzy. It was the action of Captain Speer at this time that won him the D. S. C.

October 22nd 1918 he was released from the Hospital and returned to his Division. He was assigned to the 5th M. G. Bn. Nov. 15th 1918 and made the March to the Rhine with them. Feb. to May 1919 he was assigned to the 121st M. G. Battalion 32nd Division. May 1919 he joined the 4th Machine Gun Battalion 2nd division and came back to the States with them on August 18th, 1919.

At the present time Captain Speer is a student officer in the Company Officers' Class.

The News extends congratulations to Captain Speer in being fortunate to win the D. S. C.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS CITATION

Charles Edward Speer, captain, infantry, then captain, 1st Battalion, 9th Infantry, 2nd Division. For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July, 18, 1918. While commanding the 1st Battalion, 9th Infantry, which was held up in crossing a deep ravine by a heavy rifle and machine gun fire, Captain Speer, with utter disregard for his own safety, although previously wounded while capturing an enemy battery, made a reconnaissance along the front line, under heavy rifle, machine gun and shell fire, to the left flank where he led his men to the attack, gained the ridge across the ravine and made possible the advance of the entire line by enfilading the enemy's position. After gaining the assigned objective, he encouraged and reorganized his command, which had suffered heavy losses, and made a personnal reconnaissance, under heavy fire, in preparation for a further advance. While leading his battalion in the second attack he was severely wounded. Being unable to walk as a result of his wound, he ordered his men to push forward and remained alone as his men, inspired by his example, drove the enemy from their positions and continued to advance.

TWO OLD TIMERS ARE RETIRED

to bring to the attention of the officers and men of this battalion the record of long, faithful, and honorable service of Sergt. Alphonse J. Riegler, R-664,251, Battery "C" 83rd Field Artillery, who will be tendered a battalion review Tuesday, March 27, 1923, on the occasion of his retirement.

2. The record of Sergt. Riegler's service as shown on the original discharges given him, is as follows:

Co. "M", 6th Volunteers, August 6, 1898 to March 15, 1899.

Co. "L", 5th Infantry, April 13, 1899 t oApril 12, 1902.

Co. "L", 5th Infantry, April 19, 1902 to April 18, 1905.

Co. "C", 27th Infantry, April 21, 1906 to April 20, 1908.

118th Co., C. A. C., April 21, 1908 to April 20, 1911.

Hospital Corps, April 21, 1911 to April 20, 1914.

C. A. C. from April 21, 1914 to April 14, 1919.

Battery "C", 83rd F. A. April 15, 1919 to April 14, 1922.

Batery "C", 83rd F. A. April 14, 1922 to March 26, 1923.

3. The character given on all of Sergeant Riegler's discharges is: "Excellent." His active service includes participation in the Spanish-American War, August 6, 1898 to March 18, 1899; the Philippine Insurrection from October 6, 1900 to April 13, 1902, and service with the A. F. in G. from August 6, 1919 to December 28, 1921.

4. Sergt. Riegler has served continuously for 24 years, seven months and eleven days, and the double time for foreign service allowed to him amounts to five years, four months and nineteen days. During his entire service Sergt. Riegler has never lost a day from duty through unauthorized absence for any cause.

5. The above constitutes a record of which any soldier might feel justly proud, and the congratulations and best wishes of the officers and men of the 83rd Atrillery follow Sergt. Riegler into his well earned retirement.

REMARKABLE SERVICE

The other old "faithful" who recently retired was Staff Sergeant James Davis. He served over seventeen years in the 24th Infantry. We take great pleasure in quoting the following:

1. "The Regimental Commander desires to bring to the attention of the officers and enlisted men of the regiment the record of the long, honorable and faithful service of Staff Sergeant James Davies, Service Company, 24th Infantry, who was placed on the retired list per paragraph 13, Special Orders No. 60, War Department, March 13th, 1923. A Regimental Review will be tendered him on Wednesday, March 21, 1923.

2. Staff Sergeant Davies entered the United States Army, July 10th, 1899 and has served continously since that date. He has served 17 years, 7 months and 6 days in the 24th Infantry.

3. Staff Sergeant Davies participated in various engagements and skirmishes during the Philippine Insurrection on the Island of Luzon, Philippine Islands. He took part in the Punitive Expedition in Mexico from March 28, 1916 to February 5, 1917. In action against Villistas, Juarez, Mexico, June 15-16, 1919.

4. The very best wishes of all officers and nelisted men of the regiment follow him into his well earned retirement from active service."

Ga. Wins.

Well the Univ. of Ga. won the 1st game last Saturday, but it wasn't a landslide like that of a year ago and even if the Georgians did win they realized that they had hit a rock to, was considerably firmer than last year and the stick-to-itivness of the Doughboys in a face of 4 to 1 lead against them nearly got the Georgian's "goat" in the last inning when the Infantry Blues slipped two men over the homeplate, with another man on third just aching to come in and tie the score, but fate deemed otherwise.

Sale pitched for the Univ. of Ga. and he sure has the stuff and if properly supported by his team will make Ga. a strong contender for the championship in its conference.

Jones the Infantry standby for its third year opened the game by pitching for the Infantry and it sure did the Infantry Fans well for Jones sure worked out like he has never before been seen here. This is undoubtedly Jones' best pitched game. He stayed with the pill for four innings and then Whiteside took up the game.

Whiteside well h's little, but oh, my from the way that he put the pill across the plate it sure made the Athenians think that they had indulged in some of Ga. Moonshine for that ball just wasn't were they looked.

The way that it happened:

| | | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Ga. | 000 110 020 | 4 | 8 | 3 |
| Inf. | 000 010 002 | 3 | 10 | 3 |

POLO

Blues Defeat the Yellows 14-0; 29th Inf. Defeats the 83rd Art. 1-0

On last Sunday afternoon the series of polo games which have been interrupted due to the rain were again started.

The Blues and Yellows were the curtain raisers, playing four periods.

The Blues were in excellent form and appearantly could not miss the goal line for fourteen points did they put the ball across while the Yellows greatly handicapped by the loss of Major Waite were unable to make one tally.

Makenney put six points and French put five points across the line for the Blues. It was a lucky day for the 29th that they were not the opponents of the Blues on this day.

The main event was the contest between the 29th Infantry and the 83rd Field Artillery.

This was a close and exciting game. Three different times the Artillery almost made the goal and one time the ball actually hit one of the goal posts square and stopped dead, but before the Reds were able to start the ball rolling again the 29th had disloged it and started it down the field.

For three entire periods not a score was made by either side, and it was not until the last part of the fourth that the 29th were able to slip the ball over the goal.

Individually the 83rd outplayed the 29th but the 29th showed superior team work especially on the defense.

Infantry Wins the 2nd Game

On last Monday the Georgians and the Doughboys tangled for their second game and it was a good game from start to finish. The day was ideal and many a fan deserted his dest to help root for the Infantry.

The entire game was a pitching contest. "Hi" Davis for the Infantry pitched the entire nine frames and allowed only two hits. The first was made by the first man up and the last an infield bunt in the eighth. Davis had excellent support from his team and in the sixth inning "Hi" pitched just four balls and three men were out. This is the only inning where the Athenians were able to feel of the ball and then the high flies that never went outside of the infield.

Chambers for the University was determined to win and several times when the bases were full or a man was on third just aching to get in but so wonderfully did he pitch that not a score was made in the first half of the game.

The Georgians made their first run in the third inning and their second and last in the fifth. Up to this point in the game the Blues had not a single run. In the last half of the sixth the rooters had that feeling that this would be the inning that told the tale for they became restless and cheering broke out and the cries for a home run. Olmstead was walked and Fountain went to bat and he knocked a homer through center field. This now tied the score. In the eighth an aeroplane flew over the arena and several of the Georgians took a look at it and immediately there came from the bleechers the cry "there goes your ball game way up in the air." Olmstead stole second, Nelson made a safety and Olmstead came home making the score 3 to 2 and made Benning the winners.

How it looks:

| | | R. | H. | E. |

Finance Detachment Notes

The detachment has just about recovered from the effects of the demotion that is to take place March 31st. If another demotion comes off the finance men will be drawing less than the soldiers of the Russian Army—but why worry, we will never know the difference in a couple of years.

For some reason, financial or other, the Finance Detch. has been staying in camp this month, but just watch out when pay day comes around—White and "Till" have already leased the corner of Joe Brown's for two weeks after pay day.

Corporal Purvis is certain of the fact that with as many as two more years practice each night, he will be able to take the position as "Steno."

This office has a new member assigned to its personnel in the person of Warrant Officer Seaborn, recent arrival from the Panama Canal Zone. Mr. Seaborn is welcomed by the whole detachment.

The "renowned" hunters of the "Feenonce" detachment, viz., one "Hayseed" Barker and one "Mary Garden" Stokes, have carefully cleaned and oiled their weapons of "misery" and laid them away for the return of the hunting season. Stokes claims that he would have had to lay aside his gun anyway, even the hunting season was still open as the reduction took away all of his "Shell Money." What's your rating now Stokes.

Co. "F" 1st Gas Regt.

The crowds in the bleachers were just taking their usual seventh inning stretch when Pvt. Spaeth remarked: "I don't know the yell but I'll get up anyway."

Pvt. Adkison our company athlete is rapidly rounding into shape as a baseball star. He is now able to chuck a ball farther than any one in the outfit, and when it comes to saving a lick for his team mate we will take off our hats to him.

Recruit Jimmerson is some what worried over the service he has received since his arrival here. He was told by some one in the organization that if he would remain in bed that toast and tea would be served to him. But when the said chow failed to appear he grew some what vexed. After he could stand the suspense no longer he strolled into the mess hall and said to the cook: "Just give me a couple of eggs." Then he wondered why every one laughed.

Cook Boardman felt highly elated, when recruit Jimmerson called upon him and remarked as he basked in the warmth of the stove; fine fire you have here, you certainly do know how to keep up a good fire.

COLUMBUS SECURES CHARTER FOR A RIFLE CLUB

They have Indoor Ranges at The Armory and High Velocity ranges at Benning.

Officials of the New Rifle Club of Columbus recently received notice that their application for a charter had been approved by the State Secretary and the Adjutant General of Georgia.

This is something that should be more generally followed out by more of our sportsmen througout the country. Shooting has a call that every red-blooded American likes to head but there are a great number that hate to exert themselves to go to a proper place to shoot. Other say that target shooting does not have the thrill that you get out of game hunting. Well that is a difference of opinion but there is one cinch and that is you can't give as many excuses for missing the black in the target as when you miss the duck or other game.

We quote an extract of the statement V. J. Fabian, Secretary of Club as it appeared in the Enquirer-Sun:

"High velocity shooting for record will be done on the government ranges

OFFICERS GET ANOTHER CRACK

No Dental Treatment For Dependents.

Orders have recently been issued that the Dental personnel have been so reduced that it will be impossible to give dental treatment to dependents, except in an emergency or to relieve pain.

About the time that we get all set and think we know where we stand along comes something to take some more of your pay away from you. It seems as if all the fates are bound and determined to make an army officer spend every cent that he earns.

COLUMBUS ARMY BRIDGE CLUB.

On Thursday, March 29th the Columbus Army Bridge Club met at the Muscogee Grill. Mrs. Geo. Price and Mrs. J. R. Ralston were the delightful hostesses and served excellent refreshments.

There were three prizes, Mrs. Bates won the first and Mrs. Moran the second and Mrs. Legette the third.

COMPLIMENTS MISS B. DISMUKES.

On Friday, March 30th Miss Ann Lumpkin gave a delightful dinner in honor of Miss Bollong Dismukes.

A color motif of green and white was carried out in the pretty decorations. The centerpieces was an oblong basket filld with dogwood, the handle tied with green tulle, and green candles in silver holders were placed at intervals, while green and white candles filled the bonbon dishes. The place-cards were hand-painted with Egyptian deities with approximate epitahs for each guest, the whole suggestive of King Tut and his Tomb and causing great merriment among those present at finding themselves supposedly dead, their names being in the epitahs.

MRS. CHESLEY RAY MILLER ENTERTAINS.

Mrs. Chesley Ray Miller was the delightful Hostess when on Friday, March 30th she entertained six tables on bridge at her home in Columbus.

Delightful refreshments were served after the playing.

Easter decorations of lilies and spring violets were artistically used.

POLO TEA DANCE SCHEDULED. LAST ONE OF THE SEASON.

The last polo tea dance of the season will be held on April 18th at the new polo club house.

A numbr of these dances have been given in the past for the purpose of raising funds for the purchase of furnishings for the club house and it is believed that this dance will enable the ladies of the Post who have the affair in charge to make these purchases at once.

The polo club house derives its name from the fact that it was constructed by the Fort Benning Polo Association. This association desires it to be clearly understood, however, that the club house is not for polo affairs solely but that it is available for social functions by all other members of the command especially those ladies of the garrison who require but a limited amount of space for giving a private social function of some kind.

The polo tea dances in the past have proven very popular and it is expected that the demand for tickets for the dance on the 18th will be greater than the size of the club house will permit accomodations for. Reservations should be made promptly.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL DISMUKES GIVE RECEPTION AND BALL.

On last Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dismukes gave a delightful reception and ball at the Muscogee Grill in honor of their daughter Miss Bolling.

Handsome Easter decoration gave a festive note to the ball-room drawing-room, and grill room of the club, all of which were open to the guests.

Garlands of Southern smilax, clusters of Easter lilies, and sprays of dogwood, were used everywhere with artistic effect.

In the ball-room the ceiling was hung with a delicate tracery of smilax and the chandeliers had pretty fringes of green and white, gracefully, arranged. Wall pockets and flower baskets held lovely Easter lilies.

The same color motif was carried out in the grill, where supper was served, and the drawing room, where the guests were received by the hosts, the bridal party, and members of the family .

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dismukes, Mrs. W. S. Buracker, of Baltimore, the grooms mother; Miss Bolling Dismukes, Lieut. Buracker, Major and Mrs. Edward George McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dismukes, Miss Mildred Dismukes, Lieut. Tracy Davis, Miss Louise Garrard, Lieut. Fred Beattie, Miss Helena Dismukes, Lieut. George Honnen.

After the reception, dancing began in the ball room, to the music of Byrd's Orchestra, continuing till a late hour.

During the evening, the guests were served an elaborate plate supper, the tables being attractively adorned with Easter lilies in baskets.

Brigadier General Walter H. Gordon, commandant of Fort Benning, and other prominent army officials were among those present.

About three hundred guests enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Dismukes.

INFORMAL SUPPER AT BIG EDDY CLUB.

An informal supper was given at the Big Eddy Club on Sunday evening.

Several beautiful musical selections were rendered by Mrs. Campanole Major Ganoe, and a duet by Major and Mrs. Campanole.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Current Events Club was held at the home of Mrs. Dibrell on Last Monday Afternoon.

Mrs. Gunner wife of Major Gunner gave a very interesting and an educational talk on Armenia. which was greatly enjoyed by all present. On the regular program were Mrs. T. L. Smith who spoke on foreign events, Mrs. Rycroft who spoke on domestic events and Mrs. J. W. Elkins who spoke on current topics .

Delightful refreshments consisting of a delicious fruit salad with wafers and tea was serve dafter the entertaining program.

ANNOUNCEMENT FORT BENNING ARMY BRIDGE CLUB CHANGES DATES.

Dates for the meeting of the Post Bridge Club have had to be changed so the next meeting will be held on Thursday, April 19th.

The following meeting will be held on Thursday, May 3rd. The last meeting of the season will be held on the evening of May 12th and will be given in honor of the husbands of the members.

All meetings will be held at the Officers' Hop Room.

RETURN FROM A BOOSTER TOUR.

Captain Sandlin and Lieut. Dismukes recently accomplished the Columbus Boosters Club on a tour to Fiorlda. They were boosting Fort Benning, Columbus and the Florida Short Route.

They report having had a fine time and that the oranges and the grapefruits which they plucked were luscious and duly disposed of.

SOJOURNERS CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Sojourners Club will be held Tuesday, April the 10th at Officers' Club Hop Room.

A good time is promised to all and also all members are urged to be present as the election of officers and other business will take place.

MISS DISMUKES AND LIEUTENANT BURACKER MARRIED.

Exactly at noon on last Tuesday Miss Rolling Dismukes and Lieut. Samuel L. Buracker were united in marriage at the home of the Bride's parents. Chaplin Wood performed the impressive ring ceremony,

The spacious lower floor was thrown into one, and simply but handsomely decorated for the wedding with garlands of smilax, Easter lilies and ferns. In the living-room where the ceremony was performed, an alter was arranged before a mirrored mantel, wherein glowing white tapers interspersed with Easter lilies, were reflected. Sprays of beautiful white dogwood were placed with artistic effect.

Promptly on the hour, the wedding march began, and was played by Mrs. Walter Byrd at the piano with Mr. Henry Freeman on the violin.

The bridal party made their entry into the living room through the wide hallway and grouped themselves around the altar.

After the breakfast, the charming bride changed her wedding gown for a traveling suit of brown tweed with which she wore a becoming sand-colored straw hat trimmed with brown feathers. Her gloves and other accessories were also of brown.

The young couple left by automobile for a wedding journey to Asheville, N. C., where they will be at the Grove Park Inn, and later will go to Washington, Baltimore and other points. On their return, they will keep house at Fort Benning, where Lieut. Buracker is stationed.

MRS. McCASKEY HONORS MISS DUNKLE.

Mrs. W. B. McCaskey wife of Col. McCaskey gave a very unique party at the Officers Club Mess last evening in honor of her house guest Miss Mirian Dunkle.

All of the twenty guests wore waiters and waitress costumes the officers the former and the young ladies the latter.

After the twenty merry young folks had eaten to overflowing they were put to work up at Biglerville Hall so all of you folks who attended the Army Relief can now understand why you received such excellent service for it were these same young folks that we have to thank for the excellent service that we received there.

MR. AND MRS. LANE ARRIVE.

Births

The stork has sure been worked over time here and especially during the week end of last week.

Born on March 30th to Private and Mrs. Bell a future Hannibal and Caesar when a son Harry made his appearance at the Station Hospital.

Born March 31st to Lieutenant and Mrs. Broderick a son William Lewis. When interviewed William was right on the job and as he was slightly delayed he stated that the Stork was over burdened and that he was shipped overland but even at that he would have been on time if the Benning Road had been in better shape. We can safely predict that William is gonig to be a real he-man for as we can see from the above he doesn't hesitate to speak his mind. We sure need some more Alexanders the Great and Theodore Roosevelts in this country and believe that Mr. Bill will be fully qualified.

Born March 31st to Private and Mrs. Theodore Earnest Harris a son Alfred Fred. Now you can take it from us that when we took a look at Alfred he had his hand in exactly the same position a Napolian, now it is well known that coming events cast their shadows so here's to Napolian The American.

Born April 1st to Captain and Mrs. Kraul a daughter Dorothy Ann. Now we predict that not only will she be a Queen of Upatoi but that she is going to be an artist of renown, especially if she follows in the footsteps of her father for he shakes a wicked hand as the readers of the News can easily vouch for, and which have been sincerely appreciated but we are getting away from Dorothy Ann to whom this space is dedicated. As we entered the hospital to call on the little Miss we were instantly reminded of Madam Bernhardt and after a little conversation we discovered that she also showed unmistakable literary ability so here's to another Goethe and Shakespeare. Also in this day of women's rights and from the way that she already had the above youngsters going around in circles we further predict that when she begins to understand politics that she will see to it that the Army and the Navy will get their just rewards and that the following misguided organizations, National Council for the Prevention of War, Women's Committee for World Disarmament, American Union Against Militarism, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Women's Trade Union League, Association to Abolish War, and the Friends' Disarmament Council had better look out.

Bakers and Cooks School

Well, here we are. Finally managed to break into our column. Some of the readers may scratch their head, especially if bothered with dandruff. and say; they did not know that such a school existed in the Post, but the fact is, we hav ebeen working so hard that we have not taken time to become acquainted, except with the kitchen police, therefore it will be necessary first to introduce the members of our detachment to the readers.

We will select, first, those who have to their credit, the most notable accomplishments in their chosen field of works, and perform the introduction by giving a short outline of the individual's most prized accomplishment. It may be said here, that perhaps never before in the history of the army was there gathered into one organization such an array of talented personnel. No, you may doubt, but read on and become a believer, therefore it is meet to begin with the highest non-commissioned rank and descend.

Master Sergt. Moore is our capable class instructor, who finds that it is quite tiresome to stand before the class and lecture on the same variety of subjects day after day. He has therefore practically completed a series of lectures made on soft phonograph records and hardened. These records he places on the Victrola which operates automatically and will play record after record without readadjustment.

In the class room a radio set will be installed, he will also have a similar set in his quarters. At 9:00 A. M. or 1:30 P. M. the class assembles in the class room. Sergeant Moore in his quarters at the other side of the camp, if he is still in bed, rolls over, yawns luriously, reaches out to the radio set next to his bed, tunes in on the class room, and calls the roll.

The control on the automatic victrola being operated by radio also, he reduces to the wave length required to release the control and the Victrola places on a record entitled, say, "A lecture on Beans," their origin, how manufactured, how counted and segregated for sales, etc. Sergeant Moore then quizzes the class by radio, and dismisses them, then returning to sleep or arising to feed the chickens.

We may casually mention that, even now before his present appliance is completed, he is concentrating his energies on some sort of a radio contrivance which works similar to moving pictures. You see he has to arise some mornings about 3:00 A. M. and inspect a number of kitchens. He has an idea that if he can install some sort of a chemical screen which reacts to certain electrical influences, in each kitchen, and then have a projecting apparatus on his radio set in his quarters, he can tune in on sight as well as sound, and inspect kitchens while reclining in bed at 3:00 A. M., however we can not say anything authorative on the subject as he is not giving anything to publication at present.

Now that you are introduced to Sergeant Moore, it is certain that the readers are full of conjectures as to what sort of an efficiency organization this is.

Some hint darkly that we are a prominent band of scientists brought together by kindred impulses in giving aid to sufferin humanity; namely, as one sixth of whole lives is spent in eating, to reduce the necessity of eating to the lowest possible minimum. All of us wish that humane did not have to eat to live, and all of us fervently wish that many humans did not live to eat.

Next week, we will introduce one or more of the prominent members of the command by the unique method of detailing their most accomplishment. much like Mr. Ford, Edison, etc.

History of 7th Engineers

(Continuation of Gen. Order No. 37)

Eugene P. Walker, sergeant, Company "D" 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Verdun, France, November 4, 1918. When three boats in a pontoon bridge across the Meuse River were destroyed by artillery fire, he volunteered and waded into the river under heavy shell fire and by holding up the deck until new boats were launched and placed in position, although under great physical strain, permitted the uninterrupted crossing of the infantry.

Robert E. Crawford, corporal, Company "D" 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Verdun, France, November 4, 1918. When three boats in a pontoon bridge across the Meuse River were destroyed by artillery fire he volunteered and waded into the river under heavy shell fire and, by holding up the deck until new boats were launched and placed in position, permitted the uninterrupted crossing of the infantry.

Walter S. Sevalia, corporal Company "F" 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Brioulles, France, November 3, 1918. He swam the Meuse River with a cable for a pontoon bridge under direct machine gun fire. Later he carried a cable for another bridge over the Est. Canal, across an open field covered by enemy machine guns. Here he was wounded by a machine-gun bullet, but returned, carrying a message of great importance.

Fred A. Crowe, Private, Company "D" 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Cunel, France, October 14, 1918. He crawled forward under fire from machine-guns and snipers and killed two Germans who were operating a machine-gun in a tree.

Stanley T. Murnane, private, Company "D" 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Brieulles, France, November 4-5, 1918. When three boats supporting a pontoon bridge across the Meuse River were destroyed by artillery fire, he voluntarily waded into the stream under heavy artillery and machine-gun fire and held up the deck of the bridge until new boats were launched and placed into position.

William M. Hoge, major, 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Brioulles, France, November 4, 1918. After personally and voluntarily reconnoitering the site of a pontoon bridge over the Meuse, in daylight and under direct shell fire, Maj. Hoge commanded the movement of a train of heavy wagons, under enemy observation, to this location. He then supervised the construction of the bridge and the successful crossing of the train.

Wyman R. Swan, major, 7th Engineers. For extraordinary heroism in action near Brioulles, France, November 4-5, 1918. He demonstrated commendable judgment in locating the site of a pontoon bridge and personally supervising the construction of the bridge; although under constant shell fire, he remained in charge for 36 division east of the Meuse.

LETTER OF CONDOLENCE

Wherein the Great Father has seen fit to remove from our presence Bandmaster Joel P. Elazer, we, the members of the 24th Infantry Band take this means to extend to Mrs. Elazer and the bereaved relatives our deepest sympathy and most sincere commiseration. Mr. Elazer was an untiring worker in the interest of the Band, the Regiment and the entire Negro Race. His repeated statement was that he was working for the best band, not alone in the Army, but in the entire United States. During the ten months that he was with the Band he has improved wonderfully the intonation, technique and general ensemble of the band. He has brought a unity of spirit that has never existed before in this Band. He has always co-operated with the civilians and residents of the different communities in which he has been in charge of the Band to produce the greatest feeling or cordiality between the civilian population and the regiment. We feel that the community feels his loss as deeply as ourselves, and it will be long before we recover from such a blow.

We hope that Mrs. Elazer, though the loss is great, will find consolation in the thought that He who does all things well has done this also for the best, and that it is only a momentary separation and when one thinks of the long ages of bliss throughout eternity, when the loved ones are once more together, the present separation seems trivial.

Our sympathies go with her to the home of our beloved Bandleader, and also our hopes that the wound will soon heal.

Be it resolved that a copy of this letter be presented to the wife of the deceased.

"SONNY" HAS THEME OF WORLDWIDE APPEAL

World wide, the reciprocal sentiment of mother love and the longing of a full-grown man or what he has never known, furnishes the guilding impulse in "Sonny," the stirring drama of every day life which is being presented at the Post Theatres Wednesday, April 11th.

Richard Barthelmess is the star, the picture marking his third production for Associated First National Pictures, Inc. Unlike "Tol'able David" the present attraction finds its locale in the crowded quarters of the big city, but like its predecessor it tells a story of simple charm and intensely human drama.

Pauline Garon has the leading feminine role in support of the star and is exquisitely charming. The remainder of a capable cast includes Margaret Seddon, Lucy Fox, Herbert Grimwood, Patterson Dial, Fred Nicholls, James Terbell, Margaret Elizabeth Faulconer and Virginia Magee. Henry King directed.

"JAVA HEAD" A NOVEL PICTURE

How would you like to see how people lived three quarters of a century ago? You have your chance to do so in "Java Head," a Paramount picture directed by George Melford, which is to be shown at the Post Theatres next Tuesday. Life in old Salem, Mass., in the late Forties is "Jave Head's" attraction. The customs and costumes of that period have been faithfully reproduced, and most important of all, the story by Joseph Hergesheimer, which ran as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post, has been closely adhered to, so that in this respect none of the force or interest of the story has been lost. Leatrice Joy, Jacqueline Logan, Raymond Hatton, George Fawcett and Albert Roscoe portray the leading roles.

HIERS HAS FINE ROLE IN SPLENDID COMEDY

Romantic, adventurous—and a haberdashery clerk at twenty dollars a week! A rare combination, indeed, are the ingredients which go into the character portrayed by Walter Hiers in his first Paramount starring vehicle, "Mr. Billings Spends His Dime," which will be the feature at the Post Theatre Saturday, April 14.

Between dodging a love-struck girl, escaping the assaults of a gang of plotting uprisers in a foreign country and planning how he will win the hand of the girl he loves, Mr. Hiers has one of the fastest comedy-dramas roles of the photopla yyear.

Opening in New York City, the story becomes a rapid whirl of exciting situations. A generous portion of ocean scenes and a climax that takes place in Santo Dinero, a Latin-American country where the natives are in the throes of a revolution, furnish backgrounds of unusual variety.

It is through the efforts of Mr. Hiers, as Bellings, that th government is saved from the revoluntary gang who seek to establish a rule of their own. Billings faces dath several times an dalmost loses the girl of his heart before he manages to restore order in the country.

Jacqueline Logan, who is featured as leading woman, heads a strong supporting cast.

A story of the young and reckless West. Its central figure is Cherie Dubois, a tantalizing combination of charm and mystery. Admired by all men, she skillfully eludes them until there comes into her life Bruce McLeod, an honest man, almost broken by sorrow, and Fred Cullum, a gambler by profession, and a plausible scoundrel, usually irresistable with women. These two men change the entire current of Cherie's life, unconsciously aided by two little children and the malicious tongue of Mrs. Poultry, the town gossip. The girl's love for the helpless babies, her scorn for Cullum, her growing attraction for McLeod, culminate in one of the greatest fights ever seen upon the screen and in her lifelong happiness. This is the story of "Nine Points of the Law," which comes to the Post Theatres, on Friday, April 13.

YOUTH MUST HAVE LOVE SHIRLEY MASON'S NEXT

A drama of intrigue and mystery counterbalanced by a romance of adventure and love will be seen in Shirley Mason's next William Fox production, "Youth Must Have Love," which will be shown at the Post Theatre next Thursday.

A cast of exceptional screen artists, including Wallace McDonald, who plays opposite the star; Landers Stevens, the heavy; J .P. Lockney, an exceptional character actor and Cecil van Auker, who has played prominent parts in a number of recent productions, supports Miss Mason in "Youth Must Have Love."

The story is based on a youth, unjustly accused of the murder of an old miser and how a beautiful girl's faith and love and persistent efforts free him of the charge. How the real criminal is detected, when it appeared he had covered his tracks in such a manner as to prevent discovery, provides a mystery element to this play, which surpasses anything the youthful Fox star has been seen in in a long time.

PIGGLY WIGGLY SYSTEM AT THE COMMISSARY.

At posts the size of Benning and elsewhere, where there is such a great amount of personnel buying as here, why wouldn't it be a good idea to install a system similar to the Piggly Wiggly System. This system is carried out quite successfully by the Post Exchange Grocery.

There are several reasons for the installation of this system:

a. A customer could examine a particular item without requiring a clerk or several clerks to bring the entire shelf of goods to the counter for their inspection and incidentally delaying other customers as much as twenty or thirty minutes at a time.

b. Certain other customers just can't decide what they want and so hold up a line of customers while they decide.

c. Still other persons seem to believe that the "line up" of customers is a signal to pay all of their calls and seems to be especially insistant on talking to persons who are near the head of the line. The result is that the clerk is standing idle. while they finish their gossip and the other persons in the line up are delayed.

d. Most persons are courteous enough to take their place at the end of the line when they come in and work their way up to the head, but there are some few persons who pass up the end of the line and go prancing to the head of the line with the result that the clerk waits on the person at the head of the lineup. The person to whom this discourtesy has been extended rather than tell this individual where to get off at bears the discourtesy silently and gives thanks that most people are better mannered.

e. The adoption of such a system would not take greater personnel than at present and may possibly reduce the force.

f. There should be no greater loss than at present.

g. This would relieve several clerks from waiting on customers and they could be put to work writing up orders during the rush hour. After the rush hour several of these could be relieved to replenish the shelves and other routine work that is necessary.

We will admit right off hand that this system would not work at the meat and bread counters, we believe that it would work ideally for the rest of the commissary.

Why not try it out? Then the "talkers" and others could take as much time as they desired and not delay those who have something else to do.

CAST YOUR BALLOT.

Lets Find Out What We Want.

We are running the ballot, again this week as we have not received as many ballots as we really expected. At the present time the ratio is about as 4 is 2 1.2 for a roll collar and the ratio for the dress uniform is as 1 is to 4. Out of five hundred officers here we ought to get about 200 ballots to get a fair average. So fill out and send in the ballot. It only costs one cent if you mail your letter at the Post or if you happen to be near the Post A & R Office, just back of the Post Theatre just leave your ballot at the office. But the big thing is Send It in.

Do you favor a change of the present uniform?

Yes No

What change do you prefer?

Answer:

Do you favor an additional uniform for dress purpose?

Yes No

If yes what color would you prefer for the coat?

ASSISTANCE THAT IS GOING TO HELP US

It is with real pleasure that the News notes that it has began to receive assistance on its fight for a good road to Benning.

The Columbus Enquirer-Sun has started a "scrap" to improve the road conditions and it is with real pleasure that we note this for in the year and half that we have been here we have noticed that when the Enquirer-Sun started something it stayed with it until it had won. Go to it and here's hoping you luck.

The following is what the Enquirer-Sun had to say:

The Lumpkin Boulevard to Benning should be built. Communication between the city and the post should be as easy as possible; one practical reason being that as the post becomes more of a complete institution, with better housing, shopping, amusement and social facilities, the army-folk will spend more time there unless there is added inducement to come to town. All the traffic between town and camp should not be over one road.

The route down the river bank is shorter and also is much more picturesque. For a considerable distance along the high bluffs of the Chattahoochee river it is a natural, logical place for a road. The road could be built so as to come into the present camp road at Bull Creek, or it could merge into the old road at the Bass place or some distance below the Bass place.

The point has been made that this road would be under water in times of freshets. Three days in each ten years, according to the average, it is covered by water from river overflow; for the other 3,649 days it is passable.

In the meantime, Brown street, formerly a quiet, rather easy going street in Wynnton, has leaped into local fame and has become a busy thoroughfare, with much passing to and from the camp.

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

Chapter VI.

That Which Dealeth with the Company Clerk.

There are many positions in the Army of Samuel, but there be one that requireth an intelligent person and that be the office of Company Clerk.

A Company Clerk is one who is the Stenographer of the Captain, but worketh under the supervision of the sergeant.

To the company clerk is given the filing of records and important documents, so that if there be need of the same they may be found. But alas, if at a later date, the captain calleth for a certain document, the clerk findeth it not and sweareth by the moon and the stars that his eyes hath never beheld the same.

If the captain then demandeth the file the clerk looketh intelligent and goeth to the supply sergt. and sayeth "the capt. desireth a file" The sergt. sayeth that he doth not possess the file as it is kept in the orderly room. The clerk reporteth to the captain that the sergeant hath no file, whereupon the captain waxeth exceedingly angry and speaketh mighty words. The clerk leaveth hurriedly and wondereth how he hath offended his captain.

A brainless person often filleth the office of company clerk, but such a person who keepeth the office for long must be possessed of a "wooded" eye. The "wooded" eye be such expression as is supposed to make all ordinary soldiers feel as dirt under foot.

The wooded eye convinceth the multitude that the office of company clerk be one of great responsibility and further if the multitude shouldest know all the important secrets that the clerk knoweth, then alas the Army of Samuel would soon be ruined.

A company clerk keepeth himself exceedingly busy while the captain be near.

While the captain be away he doth nothing as a rule. He cleaneth not his desk nor typewriter. Neither doth he write the many letters that he shouldest. Doth it come to pass that he becometh ambitious and cleaneth his office he starteth with th captains desk which he cleaneth like upon the shining sun and of course throweth away many valuable papers. When the captain returneth and inquireth what hath become of these papers, the clerk sweareth that he hath never beheld them nor hath he ever laid fingers upon his captains desk, but insinuateth that per chance the room-orderly hath knowledge of that which is missing. For make ye careful note that a clerk never maketh a mistake, No Never.

If an order be issued and the captain or the first sergeant understandeth not the meaning thereof the company clerk always volunteereth a correct interpretation thereof, for by so doing he showeth his far superior intelligence.

When the room orderly be absent on other duties and the captain asketh the clerk to summon Private Samuel, the clerk goeth forth like upon a young capon and calleth long and loud as he goeth down the company street "Pvt. Samuel, Pvt. SAMUEL" the captain desireth speech with thee, and when it is accomplished the clerk feeleth mighty for he believeth that the company hath made note of his action and the multitude then knoweth that his office be exceedingly mighty.

A Company Clerk readeth many books and it is by this reason that he knoweth so much. Any clerk is an authority on "Snappy Stories," "The Wampus Cat," "Detective Tales," "Whiz Bang" and "Hot Dog."

IT'S STRANGE—THE EFFECT OF PROHIBITION.

Cleburne, Texas.—One cow exploded and another died as the result of gulping gasoline here Monday afternoon.

The cows lapped up a tub full of gasoline which stood before a local garage. It was necessary to take drastic measures if lives were to be saved.

Taking a long steel instrument the veterinary punctured the side of one of the animals. Gasoline started to trickle out. The medico turned aside for a moment and lit a cigarette. His patient exploded with a black cloud of smoke.

Strange to say the gasoline explosion did not kill the cow, which cavorted madly down the road with a jet of flame spurting from its side. The animal was caught and the blaze extinguished. It will live.

The other cow, which was not punctured, died.—New Orleans Times Picayune.

Private Jones was marching up and down on the parapet of the fort when a friend came along below.

"What are you walking up there for, Jones?" said the latter.

"Well, I'll tell you," said Jones." The general is coming in through this gate to inspect the command and the battery over there is going to fire a salute the minute he gets here, and I'm up on top to give them the signal the minute he steps inside."

"How are you going to do that?" inquired his friend.

"This way," said Jones, waving his cap.

Bang! went the salute. Jones fainted and the general, approaching a mile away, asked: "What's all the shooting about?"

POEM

"IF I KNEW YOU AND YOU KNEW ME."

If I knew you and you knew me,
'Tis seldom we would disagree;
But, never having yet clasped hands,
Both often fail to understand
That each intends to do what's right
And treat each other "Honor Bright."
How little to complain there'd be
If I knew you and you knew me.

When'er I'd anger you thru mistake,
Or in my letter some error make.
From irritation you'd be free,
If I knew you and you knew me.
Or when I'd fail to answer in time,
And you wouldn't write nary line,
I'd wait without anxiety you see
If I knew you and you knew me.

When my letters didn't please
You'd "Fire Back."
Or make a kick on this or that,
There'd be no broken hearts you see,
If I knew you and you knew me.
If our love were true and strong,
We'd wonder how the past went wrong
Sometimes your fault and sometimes mine—
Little girl, how lovely things would be,
If I knew you and you knew me.

Then let no doubting thoughts abide
Of firm good faith on either side;
Confidence to each other give,
Live yourself, let others live;
But if at any time I come that way,
You'll admit me I hope and pray;
Then face to face we each shall see
And I'll know you and you'll know me.

THINGS TO TRY ONCE.

1. Editing the "Fort Benning News"

2. Riding over the Fort Benning Road."

3. Shooting a gray squirrel for breakfast in front of the General's quarters.

4. Working all day and then put in eight hours more every night.

5. Buying what you want at the commissary without the clerks saying "we are out of that."

6. Rooting for the opposing team among a bunch of "Infantry School Rooters"

7. Bringing company home for dinner without telling the "misses"

8. Asking Captain Ellis why you weren't an R. O. T. C. Detail.

9. Asking a chief of department in the Infantry School for a "position as an instructor."

10. Aiding the Post A. & R. officer to get a competent clerk.

11. Asking an instructor at the Infantry School to raise your grade.

12. Asking an instructor at the Infantry School who is a good friend to give you a tip on the examination questions.

Ask the 1st Sergeant to do your K. P. for you.

Ask the employment office for a guaranteed servant.

Ask the Q. M. to hold your commissary bill over until next month.

Pass the General's Car when you are out for a ride.

Tell the dentist that he is rough.

Try to beat the grim reaper by drinking a batch of wood alcohol.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Infantry Rifle Team Make Further Donation.

As a further inducement to get the News readers to submit titles for last week's front page picture, the Infantry Rifle Team have given in addition to the Cat's Whiskers and a pair of Snake's Hips, a Frog's Beard, a Clam's Raincoat and the famous Fur-lined Cuspidor.

The person sending in the best title to last week's picture will get all of these valuable prizes.

Here is is a little verse that is so good that I want to pass it along:

I have to live with myself, and so
I want to be fit for myself to know.
I want to be able as days go by,
Always to look myself straight in the eye.
I don't want to stand with setting sun,
And hate myself for the things I've done.
I know what others may never know;
I never can feel myself, and we
Whatever happens, I want to be Self-respecting and conscience-free.

A WELL KNOWN FIRM

We have with us now a well known firm of uniform outfitters who will be glad to hear from any Benning person and will gladly answer any and all questions that you may ask along their line. Their specialty is a superior quality of officers' uniforms, caps and equipment and will gladly send you catalog and samples upon request. Take a look at "The Henderson-Ames Company's" ad. Their address is Kalamazoo, Michigan.

The Henderson Ames Company is known to an exceedingly large number of officers through the army and as they make a specialty of army officers' uniforms they are in a position to turn out just what you want and you get what you want to look just as you want it namely "snappy."

If you enjoy the News, remember it is the advertising alone that keeps it going as no subscriptions are taken. So buy from our advertisers.

"TRIFLING WOMEN," DRAMATIC PHOTOPLAY

Rex Ingram's claim to film immortality is justified again in his remarkable new production, "Trifling Women," which comes on April 8 to the Post Theatres. It is the latest achievement of the skilled director, whose name has become synonymous with the best in filmdom, and a guarantee of exceptional screen merit. It equals and, in some particulars, surpasses his earlier efforts, and should win a high place among the best of the season's photoplays.

The brilliant director of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and other big Metro pictures, is himself both author and adaptor of his latest success. This fact makes his triumph all the more complete, for the story and continuity are on a par with the production itself. In all, it is a distinctly worthwhile photodrama, and it is recommended to those who want the best in their motion picture fare.

The story is concerned with the fascination of Zareda, a crystal gazer, whose siren-like fascination attracts men into her net. How she attains wealth and power through a marriage with a wealthy Marquiis; how she arranges his death to marry her young lover, Ivan; how she meets a terrible end with her lover when her husband finds them together, makes a graphic and dramatic story.

In the cast are brilliant players. Lewis Stone is seen as the Marquis Ferroni; Barbara La Marr as Zareda; Ramon Novarro as Ivan, and Edward Connelly as Ivan's father, Baron de Maupin. Others in the cast are Pomeroy Cannon, Hughie Mack. The fine photography is the work of John F. Seitz.

WARRANT OFFICER, JOEL P. ELAZER, U. S. A. DIES

Was Band Leader of 24th Infantry. Regimental services honor his memory on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Joel P. Elazer, Warrant Officer U. S. A. and Band Leader of the 24th Infantry Band passed from the rolls of active service last Friday evening, March 30th, 1923. He was admitted to the post hospital late in the evening suffering with ambolism of the right lung from which he expired. His death was a great shock and a surprise to his friends.

Funeral services were held in the chapel on Saturday, March 31st in charge of Chaplain Alexander W. Thomas, with the entire 24th Infantry in attendance. The 24th Infantry Band was present and responded to the inspiration of its leader for the last time. The director's music stand was draped in mourning and stood in its regular place with Mr. Elazer's favorite baton resting quietly before the bier.

The following program comprised the service in the memory of this outstanding representative of the musical attainments of his people:

1. "The Rosary" played by the 24th Infantry Band.
2. "Some day the Silver cord will break." sung by Mrs. Jennings, wife of 1st Sergt. Jennings.
3. Ritual Service, read by Chaplain Thomas.
4. "I heard the voice of Jesus." sung by Mrs. Brown.
5. "The Holy City" sung by Mrs. Van Leer.
6. Selection, sung by Dr. M. L. Taylor of Columbus, Ga.
7. "The world is waiting for the Sunrise" played by 24th Infantry Band

A beautiful floral harp of lilies and roses was the token from the Band to its beloved leader. A large Pall mounted with a white dove was the gift of the Service Company to which Mr. Elazer belonged, and a large wreath represented the sentiment of the Women's club. Many other individual floral tributes crowded the altar space in the chapel.

Mr. Elazer had completed more than twenty years of service in the Army. This time was spent in the bands of the 25th Infantry, the 9th Cavalry, and as Warrant Officer since January, 1921. He has been with the 24th Infantry Band since May 26, 1922, and has held the standard of this organization well up where it has always been since the days of its medal winning performance in several world expositions where it competed with many military bands. Mr. Elazer was a clarinet soloist, and has a number of compositions to his credit. He made a number of adaptations of Filipino melodies and other folk songs.

After the services at Fort Benning, Ga. where the 24th Infantry is stationed, the remains were shipped to Webster Grove, Missouri, a suburb of St. Louis, where interment was made. Mrs. Elazer, who survives her husband accompanied the body. Mr. Elazer also leaves a brother and his mother.

NO OTHER FRIEND LIKE MOTHER

You may travel this wide world over
You may seek, but you never will find
Another Pal like your Mother
One as loving, tender, and kind.

What are money, pleasure and riches
Or anything money can buy
Compared with the love of a Mother
On whom we can always rely.

She is often filled with sorrow,
For the petty deeds we have done,
You may find a friend on the morrow
But like Mother? No, not one.

When you were a very little lad,
So helpless, wee, and small
You often wanted things so bad
And Mother gave you her all.

What a loving Pal is Mother,
She would even die for you,
And you will never find another
As loving, kind, and true.

So boys remember Mother,
When you are led astray,
Just stop, and think, how she loves you
And turn the other way.

All Co. notes must be in the office of the "News" by 4 p. m. on Tuesdays' of each week from now on.

On Friday, March 30, Mrs. H. B. Stevenson who is a sister of and visiting the hostess of the Service Club, Miss Roe, gave a very interesting, educational, and delightful talk on "Manners and Customs of China" to a large group of men at the Service Club.

On Saturday another of our Casino Tournaments took place. Carl Carroll and Carroll Riggs were the lucky prize winners.

On last Sunday a delightful Marshmallow roast took place before the large fire place. A good time was had and the jokes that were cracked were excellent.

The regular meeting of the Dance Committee was held last Monday.

The regular weekly dance last Wednesday was well attended. The music was excellent as were the refreshments.

Finance Detachment Notes

Private Hoyett Adams, of the Corps Area Finance Office, was a pleasant visitor to Private Bennett of this detachment last week end. Adams has many friends in Benning, having known them in Fort McPherson and McClellan.

A number of the detachment enjoyed a pleasant evening at Sergeant Kenneys last Tuesday. A wonderful course of chicken salad and ice tea being served by Mrs. Kenney, afterwards there were dancing and pinochle.

Wanted to know: Who is the senior non-com in the Finance Barracks.

Private Willis spent a couple of days with relatives in Gay, Georgia last week and reports a nice time.

NOTICE TO SOJOURNERS CLUB.

There will be a smoker and meeting of the Sojourners Club of Fort Benning Chapter No. 8 at 7:30 P. M. on Tuesday, April 10th at the Officers Club Hop Room.

It is important that all members be present at this meeting as there are a number of matters to be acted upon, among which are:

The election of officers.

The adoption of the Constitution and by-laws.

The election of delegates to the National Convention.

After the completion of the business meeting there will be a boxing bout.

All Master Masons who are elegible for membership and who have not already done so, should join before Tuesday night, or may join at this meeting on that night.

Every member and all prospective members are strongly urged to be present at this meeting.

AN OLD TIMER

There is one furniture house in Columbus that has supported the News ever since it was started and we have never had a complaint or kick from him in any way. It is a pleasure to do business with these kind of people so we dropped in the other day and had a nice little chat with him. He showed us around the store and say folks now take it from me they sure have some line here. Anything to fit your pocketbook or your bank account. It all depends on how much you want to spend. Also if its only a little thing that you want you will find the clerks just as courteous as if you had spent five hundred dollars. If by any chance that you are thinking of getting a double bed and no doubt some of you who are living in the new quarters are thinking of it or any other kind of furniture just take a look at the ad of H. Rothschild "The largest furniture house in Columbus" at 1228 Broad St. Support the advertisers of the News.

29th Infantry News Notes

NOTICE TO ORGANIZATION REPORTERS

All Co. notes must be in the office of the "News" by 4 p. m. on Tuesdays' of each week from now on.

Service Company

The Service Company is rejoicing in the news from the hospital that Capt. Ed C. Betts, the Regimental Adjutant is rapidly recovering from his injuries sustained in a Polo game last Sunday.

Private Freeman bought a Ford and took the Personnel Section out for a joy ride. When the bunch returned from the extended journey over the Cusseta road, they were minus everything they had in their pockets—the contents being scattered in the tonneau.

In the matter of Range practice, Private Calhoun takes the Brown Derby— he made exactly 240 jaw bone.

To prove that this Regiment is motorized and that the Service Company has full charge of our motor transportation, 1st Sergt. Huffenberger rides a bicycle. Well Huff, keep it up, you may yet qualify for the Olympic games.

Company "E"

A lot of hard luck and one or two bones caused us to lose a good ball game last Sunday. "G" Co. is one of the family so it was not like getting some outsider to put one over on us.

Dick thinks that Ty Cobb is no ball player because he did not get about three home runs, steal a few bases and play the infield while he was not spearing them out in the pasture.

Cribbage Tournament Finals.

All the boys had a good laugh the other night when the cribbage tournament broke up. Dad and New were playing for all the games that they had ever played and to decide who would be champ for all time. (Some stake if you have all the inside dope) New put a big skunk on Dad and made for the exit, with chairs, tables footlockers and stove wood following him. Mr. Brown cut his pillow and three blankets up and prayer for New to drop dead before daylight.

Company "F"

Private Hugh S. Wynne better known in the Co. as "Gertrude" was somewhat upset over the loss of his box of "Djer Kiss" perfume. Hugh, if you cannot find your "perfume" the Co. will gladly buy you some sandpaper.

Private Hayes' only regret is: To leave the Mess-Hall with so much chow on the table, why don't you carry a "Gunny-Sack" with you when you enter the Chow-Hall.

Company "G"

The company was very much pleased at the out come of the base ball game of the 1st. between Co. "E" and Co. "G." A miracle certainly must have happened when Co. "E" beat the Howitzer Company. Our company was beaten by the Howitzer company a short time ago by the tune of 1 to 0.

Company "G" is still leading in percentage of men depositing their money with the Quartermaster. This speaks well for the company. Keep it up fellows, that "saved up money," sure will come in handy some rainy day.

Say Bill, I hear the price of pies has raised, what's the matter, has the price of flour or acting lard, gone up? Keep it up, Bill, you won't have to re-up in July.

Sgt. Simmons, has had a slight increase in his famliy, for on Easter Sunday he was very much surprised to find four very noisy puppies in his supply room, squaking a Happy Easter to everyone.

Company "H"

Our scheduled baseball game was not played last Sunday.

Everybody is staying home this pay day.

Hudson wants to know what is the matter with the Detroit Team. Tell him Barnes.

The demonstrations what we've put on last Tuesday were excellent. They show what highly trained men can do. How did we stand on Deposits.

at Fort Benning, at the convenience of the Fort Benning authorities who have expressed themselves as willing to aid in taking care of all the shooters who qualify for high velocity work. This will be of the greatest value and convenience to the club members. The clubs private high velocity range will be worked out at the earliest possible date, and will be thrown open to practice to individual members and club teams as soon as arrangements are completed.

"All arms and ammunition used at the ranges will be inspected by the range officer before the shooter will be allowed to participate.

"It is pleasing to note the interest many of the ladies are taking in the club. It is hoped that it may be possible to form some crack teams from among their numbers. The girls club in Washington set a world record a few weeks ago scoring 1,998 bulls eyes out of a possible 2,000, and practically all had never shot in a match before. Thats some score and we take our hats off to the girls."

A NICE PLACE

"We just saw one ad so often that we dropped into the place and we were delightfully surprised," one lady recently told us and when we asked her what place she had in mind she said "that place to buy good things to eat." We said oh, sure that is a nice place, and thanked her for telling us about the ad. However when she had gone we looked over the News and found the place that she had in mind as a matter of fact we bought many of our eatables there until we moved into the Fort.

You can sure get good vegetables there and it is so neatly arranged that you feel like you want to buy everything that you see and what you see covers a wide range, fruits, fish, oysters and vegetables of all kind either in or out of season. If you don't want to take our word for it just drop around to 1027-1029 1st Ave. and you will find a market known as Frank D. Giglio Market. Take a look at his ad. Tell them that you saw it in The News.

Service Company.

Flashlight Boyd showed the boys some more of the clean fighting, for which he is noted, when he gained the decision over Crawford of Company "M," 24th Infantry in eight fast rounds at the Service Club.

Oh, History! where is thy sting?

Pvt. Daily E. Oliver has been made captain of the Service Company baseball team. He claims the rag already responses in the Company orderly room.

We were sorry to bid good-bye to Staff Sergt. Davies when he left us upon retiring after many years of faithful service. Goodluck in your new field, oildtimer.

Seven retirements for this year is the record of the Service Company. Try and beat it.

Company "A"

Private Heath, our new comrade, is making rapid success with the instruction Rifle marksmanship. If he shoots like he takes his instruction, Oh boy! what a shot he will be.

Sgt. Mann is expected here from his vacation this week. He will be able to tell us all about South Carolina, Oh I forgot, its New York.

Oh, Boy! you should watch our top kicker get into the prone position rapidly. I would like to see the one his age who can beat him getting down.

Company "A" 24th Infantry is going to beat any organization its size in Fort Benning, shooting this season.

Company "B"

It's the Sergt. blowing the whistle, You had better come and see, The company is issuing it's hardtack, bacon and tea.

I assemble you all men to tell you, that we are in reserve tonight. And if the bugler blows call to arms, you, had better be Johnny on the spot.

Go draw your ammunition, and ration for the field, make up all your blanket rolls, and every thing you need.

And so that night at one-fifteen, the call to arms was sounded, We ran so fast through the company street, They thought that we was mounted.

Fall in men and cover off, Report all absentees, Wake up Sergeant and don't be afraid, These are the trucks coming that you see.

We march out to the dear old Y. and waited there with passion. Now men if we go across the bridge, We will go right into action.

Company "C"

The seven (7) wonders of Company "C" this week:

1. 1st Sergt. Larkins not dropping Drum Major's Baton.
2. Cook Gregory Cooking three (3) stewless meals.
3. Corpl. Mays taking only three (3) dances Wednesday night.
4. Mexican Joe only spending $40 during his two hours in town several nights ago.
5. Sergt. Powell staying away from home just one evening.
6. A sweet little girl looking for Corpl. DeWitt.
7. Pvt. Smith Pudding saying he will make expert.

Company "D"

Company "D" better known as the Machine Gun "Jazz Babies" has composed a song entitled "The Machine Gun Blues." The said "Jazz Babies" will play these blues with the 30 Cal. Browning M. G., on the target range this season. The jazz that "D" Co. will put in the bullets will make a "Holy Roller" lose his roll.

That which occurs in the Dining Room

We goeth into the dining room to eat all that is edible. We take our best position at the table, so that all movable parts can function freely. The Mess Sergeant walketh up and down the isle until he decides to give the command "Mess," at the said command the feed lever (arm) moveth to various spots on the table to collect such food as he desireth, which sitteth thereon. After the food has been placed on the plate, the feed lever moveth rapidly to and from the receiver (mouth). The functioning of the feed lever causes the receiver to open automatically. The feed lever continues this movement until the food is exhausted, which, at that time the container should be well filled. Selah!

Company "I"

Too much cannot be said about the selection rendered by the band, at last Saturday's ball game. When the C. O. walked in the box to deliver the first ball across the dish. The band started to playing the blues entitled "Don't brake the Wonderful one hoss shay."

Everybody is talking in their sleep, you can't hear anything at night but target practice, "I got a five," Man don't drop that rifle," "Shut up, Capt. Noble says you do it this way," so all we can say is Look, Company "C."

Remember the man who holds down the ladder at the bottom, is sometimes of just as much service as the man at the top.

Company "L"

Sergt. Shannon giving commands to the Second Platoon:

Right shoulder arms .....you too
Forward March .....you too
About Face .....you too

A certain Corporal came up and asked "Say, Sergt. what is the idea of the, "you too" behind your command? Sergt. Shannon answered, "I know this gang, They are known as a hard bunch. Everytime I ask them to do something under their breath I know they are going to tell me to go to H—l, and I want to beat them to it.

Private Charlie Vaughn better known as (Buck shots), walked in the Post Exchange and called for a tooth brush. The clerk asked, "what kind do you want?" His answer, "give me a large one, there are five of us in a tent."

A certain Private came in with his jaw swollen, and was asked if Home Brew caused it. His answer, "No, home bruise, the wife soaked me."

Sergt. Scott was asked what he intended to make on the range. He answered, "Sharp shooter." The company is wondering if he means on the range or in the Kitchen.

A certain ball player was heard bragging about his hits last year, Loout out, Corporal you won't be able to hit the floor if you fall out of the bed this year.

Our young Babe Ruth is showing up in fine shape. Keep it up,, Troop, you are batting 100 per cent.

Company "K"

Well the baseball season is here let us have some real Regimental sport. How about the Company teams?

We notice that Corpl. Merchant (Little Chester Gump) is sticking to post and target practice, ata boy, Merch, heres hoping "Expert" for you.

Sergt. Garrett (Tailor-made) are keeping out of the city these Pre-pay-days, whats matter Bill, promised too much?

Well thats alright Tolbert, don't rub it too strong on poor Belser, (pa-perkins) while he is out at Hawks pond.

All is well that ends well, so sayeth the Philosopher, so well and good Corpl. Jones, (Speaking of the book in last weeks issue) Nuf Sed.

AUBURN GETS WALLOPED BY THE INFANTRY

Those who witnessed the ball game between Auburn and the Infantry last Tuesday saw the Blues in fine form. The minute that the Alabamaians got a man on base the Doughboys tightened up like into a saddle cincha, and man it sure was joy to watch them hold the raring Tigers down. Yeh we said raring Tigers because they licked us last Saturday to the tune of 1-0 and then last Monday they took on Yale and beat them 5-0 so when they stepped out again they were looking for easy work-out and a cinched victory but alas the daughanty Blues piled up a score against them in one game that tied the total runs that they had to their credit of the two previous games. We sure have got to hand it to the men from Auburn for they sure showed that they were clean sportsmen throughout the two games with the Infantry and what is sportsmanship if it is not displayed during a game.

Auburn was unable to get a man to the third bag and only twice did they get a man to second which was in the first and then the last inning.

Hi Davis pitched the pill for the Infantry and say he sure handles that ball just like it was a trained pill. For the entire game he held the mound and never once did he show signs of weakening.

Moulton took the mound for Auburn and for five innings pitched some ball but in the fatal sixth the Blues found him out and made three runs and then one run each inning that they went to bat after that.

Honnen, Fountain, Nelson and Kgelstrom starred in the field for the Infantry. Honnen had a busy day at short and handled a big assortment of hard chances. Nelson stacked up fifteen putout to his credit.

Fountain and Kgelstrom led in the Blue hitting, the former getting two safeties in four trips up and Kgelstrom delivering himself of the longest swat on the Benning diamond this season.

| Infantry | 001 003 11x | 6 | 5 | 3 |

Three base hits, Kgelstrom.

Two base hits, Griffin.

Struck out, by Davis, 2; Moulton, 9.

Sacrifice hits, by Milburn, McAlpine

Stolen base, Fountain, Milburn, Parris, Allen.

Earned runs: Infantry 2.

Double play: Fountain to Honen to Nelson.

AUBURN WINS 1st GAME OF DOUBLE HEADER

Benning Loses 1—0.

In a close and exciting game played last Saturday at Driving Park, Auburn won by the close margin of one point. The Infantry were unable to put a runner across the homeplate and tie the score so Auburn won. However don't get the idea that Auburn won that one point in a walk away for they were unable to send that lonesome runner across home plate until the 7th inning. On different occasions the Doughboys had men on bases or even all bases full but "fate" was against us on that date and would not help us one iota.

Hutchinson took the mound for the Infantry and stayed on it for eight straight innings. He was in excellent form and sure made the little pill behave beautifully. Heckert went in to bat for "Hutch" in the last half of the eighth but the Alabamian pitcher was leery for he let Heckert walk. McNutt took up "Hutch's" job in the ninth frame and held the oppenents scoreless.

The Tigers used three pitchers in the game. Sheridan started off and he sure fired that ball to the catcher and for five innings it was nip and tuck who would be the better pitcher but at the sixth he had to give up the ghost to Knight. Knight was in poor form but managed to hold the box in place for two innings. During the eighth Webb took hold of the pill and pulled victory away from the Doughboys by his wonderful pitching.

There was only one error during the game and that was by Arnall 3rd Baseman for the Donahuians.

How it looks:

| | | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Auburn | 000 000 100 | 1 | 6 | 1 |
| Infantry | 000 000 000 | 0 | 6 | 0 |

The summary:

Three base hits: Milburn.

Base on balls, off Sheridan 3; Knight 4; Webb 2; Hutchinson 1.

Innings pitched, by Hutchinson, 8; McNutt, 1; Sheridan, 5; Knight, 2; Webb, 2.

Struck out, by Hutchinson, 5; McNutt, 1; Sheridan, 4; Knight, 1.

POLO.

Last Sunday the 29th Infantry and the 83rd Field Artillery played two periods on the last leg of the series for the Dierk's Cup but the game was discontinued just in the beginning of the seventh period when Captain Betts of the 29th was injured.

The first two periods were fast and were featured by hard riding.

From the Sunday before the score stood 1-0 in favor of the 29th but in the first period of play last Sunday or the fifth period of the game the 83rd made a goal making the score 1-1 a tie. During the sixth period the 29th shot a goal at a distance of about 70 yards from the goal posts and an angle of about 40 degrees. It was a shot par excellent.

The Blues and the Yellows finished their leg of the series and the Blues were the winners with a twenty point lead. From the Sunday before the Blues scored fourteen points while the Yellows were blanked. Last Sunday the Yellows had no better luck each time that they thought that they had the ball over the goal line a Blue would suddenly appear and start the ball flying down the field toward the Blue goal posts. Douglas of the 29th assisted the Yellows and sure played an excellent game and did some very hard riding. It was probably Douglas' excellent playing that the Yellows were able to make the one point that they did make in the seventh period.

The Blues were in the same good form as of the week before and showed excellent team-work. The final score stood 21 to 1.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS ON 24th INFANTRY DIAMOND

On Saturday, March 31st, the 24th Infantry team entertained the Alabama State Normal School nine on the local diamond. The game that was announced for Friday afternoon could not be played on account of rain. A return ticket is scheduled in Montgomery for the 17th and 18th of May.

Col. Nicklin, of hereditary baseball fame, opened the season by throwing the first ball of the game. His appearance with his regulation Baseball Cap assured the spectators that an auspicious occasion was about to be ushered in. A perfect wind-up and a tremendous delivery started the ball—a rollin' down to the plate. Ball Won!! bawled the Ump. Kid seats then took the pill and retired the hand picked lead off man with three straights. He then handed three puffs of wind to the conventional bunter. The clean up man in the third batting order only cleaned up a pop fly which was gahered in by Thomas on first base.

The visitors opportunity then came to show their brand of ball. It started off by walking the first man up with four straight. The second man succeeded in getting his man down to second on a sacrifice bunt to the pitcher. The third man up slammed a three bagger into the jaws of a strong wind, incidentally scoring the first run when Thomas went home with the bacon. A second run was tallied in the first frame when Williams hit to short, who fumbled, and barely managed to peg him out at first. The next man up fanned.

The first inning indicated to the spectators what kind of entertainment was to be dished out for the afternoon, and everything was rather listless on the sidelines until the fifth inning.

Captain Wilson decided that Seats could have a rest, and sent Green to the mound. The visitors seemed to think that this was a sign of a chance in their luck. After losing the first two batters on a strike-out and a high foul ball to the first baseman, they sent in a real slugger who reaped a home run. This added new interest to the game, and presented a new problem to the new pitcher. Consequently he walked the next two men. Two more found him for clean hits and brought in the second and third tally for that inning.

In the sixth inning, Wilson's warriors came back with a counter attack and raised the visitors three. Just to show that they could beat them, they made six runs in the first of the sixth inning to be compared with the visitors three in the fifth. The game was called in the seventh on account of the high wind and the severe cold weather. The final score was 14 to 5.

Umpire: Lt. L. V. Jones. Referee: Capt. T. F. Brasnahn.

8th INFANTRY BRIGADE.

General Edwin B. Winans has been put in command of the recently organized Eighth Infantry Brigade (Reenforced) The 8th Brigade is composed of the 8th and 22nd Infantry Regiments, 1st Battalion of 2nd Artillery, Tank Platoon No. 4, 22nd Observation Squadron, 4th Photo Section and Headquarters and Headquarters Company.

General Winans is well known at this Station as he recently completed the Refresher Course at the Infantry School.

COST OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

Actual Costs Only 13.5 per cent of the Budget.

Much has been said about the cost of the upkeep of the National Defense but the following percentages taken from the budget report's chart show the following:

Interest on Public Debt ....25.2 per cent.
Military pensions, retirements, life insurance, etc. .....19.2 per cent.
National Defense .....13.5 per cent.
Retirement of the Public Debt ..... 9.1 per cent.

Total .....67.0 per cent.

The first and last items should not properly be considered items for the cost of the Nation's Defense even though causes by the reasons of war still it was not the cause of the National Defense that caused these wars now should item number two be considered as used wholly for the upkeep of the present personnel as most of these expenditures are caused by past wars.

So there it is and regardless of all of the propaganda, about what the National Defenses are costing, the budget chart proves that only 13.5 per cent. of the budget for the fiscal year 1924 is all that is needed from the entire appropriations made by Congress for our Defense.

The per capita cost of the military

INFANTRY ASSOCIATION STRONG HERE.

Every Infantry Officer A Member.

Fort Benning recently went over the top for the one hundred per cent. mark when every Infantry Officer of the Post joined the U. S. Infantry Association.

There are very few posts if any that can claim such a record.

The Infantry Association has done very valuable work in the past that has been of especial benefit to the Infantry Officers and deserves the support of all Infantry Officers.

When the chief of Infantry, General Farnsworth was here sometime ago he spoke to us on what this Association had accomplished and there is no doubt but what his talk did considerable to make the officers at this Station realize the value of the Association.

LAST POLO DANCE OF SEASON WEDNESDAY.

The polo tea dances which have proven so popular with the people of Fort Benning and Columbus will reach their finale next Wednesday afternoon when the last of the series of such dances will be given.

The Polo Club House, known as such because the building was constructed by members of the Fort Benning Polo Association, will be the scene of this last dance and the funds derived therefrom will be devoted to the purchase of necessary furnishings for this club building.

The ladies of Fort Benning, under the leadership of Mrs. J. M. Graham, pledged themselves several months ago to the furnishing of the building and the dance next Wednesday afternoon is expected to enable them to accomplish this mission.

The members of the Polo Association are deeply appreciative of the efforts of the Fort Benning ladies in this connection and because of this fact the club building has been made available to all the ladies of the garrison, both on the Post and in Columbus, for the purpose of giving small dances, teas, and similar social affairs.

The committee in charge of reservations advise that the limited dancing space permits of only a limited number of reservations being made. These reservations may be made at the office of the Officer's Club, Fort Benning.

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

Many delightful events took place at the Columbus Country Club during Easter Week which reached a climax last Saturday night when a dinner dance was given and about one hundred and twenty-five persons were present.

Among the Army folks were Major and Mrs. D. G. C. Garrison who entertained informally in honorr of Colonel McNab and Major and Mrs. S. C. Chamberlain.

Covers were placed for eighteen.

Major and Mrs. Sylvester were hosts to a party of thirteen.

At still another table a party of seventeen Fort Benning tennis players and friends were enjoying the evening.

MRS. HICKOX ENTERTAINS.

On last Friday Mrs. A. A. Hickox entertained at a bridge party.

Pink honeysuckles and dogwood formed attractive decorations.

Mrs. W. Yancey won the high score prize, a boudoir lamp and the second prize a tufted bed spread was won by Mrs. Waddill.

Strawberries, ice cream and cake were served after the game.

MRS. DRYSDALE AND ORTON ENTERTAIN.

On Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Drysdale, Mrs. Orton and Mrs. Drysdale entertained at a delightful bridge party.

The living room was decorated with dogwood, honeysuckle and jonquils while in the dining room, the table was centered with a large bowl of purple and white iris.

The high score prize, a pair of candlesticks, was won by Mrs. Noble Wiley and the second prize consisting of guest towels was won by Mrs. Hobbs, the third prize was won by Mrs. Hansell and consisted of a wicker basket and Mrs. F. Ross won the fourth prize an ice bag and mallet.

After the play a delightful salad course with tea, coffee and cakes were served.

FORT BENNING BRIDGE CLUB.

On Thursday afternoon the Fort Benning Bridge Club held its regular meeting at the Officers' Hop Room.

Mesdames Milburn, Lussier, Martin, Metcalfe and Lester were the charming hostesses.

The first prize, a set of Maderia Napkins, were won by Mrs. Rickart while Mrs. Lukert won the second prize a pair of silk hose. Mrs. Inman cut the consolation.

A frozen salad, coffee and iced tea were served after the game.

COLUMBUS ARMY BRIDGE CLUB.

On Thursday afternoon the Army Bridge Club of Columbus held their regular meeting at the Muscogee Grill.

Mesdames Longstreth, Ransom and Spann were charming hostesses.

Mrs. Gilbert won the high score prize and the second was won by Mrs. Kiser.

Sandwiches and iced tea were served after the game.

ARMY RELIEF CABARET DANCE WENT BIG

Biglerville Hall was packed to the doors when the Army Relief gave their annual benefit entertainment on last Friday night.

The Hall was beautifully decorated with dog wood and long leaf pine. Tables were arranged around three sides of the big hall at which the guests were treated to what ever their fancy demanded and to induce the guests to eat young ladies acted as waitresses and it was such a pleasure to have these ladies around that you ordered things to eat just to get a chance to have a word or a look with or at the young ladies.

Mrs. E. G. Peyton who was chairman of the entertainment committee sure arranged an excellent program, which consisted of singing, readings, dancing, etc. At times to vary the program the guests were invited to dance and then at the given signal all visitors would take seats and another number of the program would be given, etc.

Miss Alice Fassett, sister of Colonel Fassett, who has been acting president of the local chapter of the Army Relief during the illness of Mrs. Gordon, wife of General Gordon, and Mrs. Cooper, wife of Major Cooper played the excellent accompainments.

Mrs. John Schoeffel chairman of the refreshment committee was ably assisted by Mrs. James Heidt. If any person left with an empty feeling it certainly was not the fault of these ladies.

Miss Kathleen Graham was head waitress and was assisted by Misses Ruth Schoeffel, Martine Ellis, Constance Hedge, Beatrice Tydings, Arvilla Mechling, Millie Ainsa, Marion Dunkle and Geraldine Ward. These young ladies were most attractive in their black waitress costumes with ruffled caps and aprons.

Mrs. Starr Moulton had a splendid candy booth and was ably assisted by the Junior Girl Scouts of the Post. Generous contributions of candy were made by Wheat's Drug Store, City Drug Store, Joy Candy Shop and Silver's, and ladies of the Post.

A large number of beautiful cakes and other delicious edibles were contributed by the wives of the Army officers and a prize offered for the best cake was won by Mrs. Starr Moulton, who immediately endorsed the check back to the Army Relief.

The judges, (who had to taste every cake), were General Walter H. Gordon, General Malvern Hill Bynum, General Irwin and Mrs. Clifton Butler.

Chances were taken on many of the other cakes, by a charming group of young girls headed by Miss Susan

Hansell. The other girls were Misses Mamie Graham, Charlotte Peyton, Marguerite Williams, Emily Brown, Katherine Hobbs and Helen Hendrickson.

The 29th Infantry furnished the dance music and the enjoyable affair, which began at nine o'clock, was concluded at midnight, a goodly sum having been realized.

The number on the program, which perhaps made the biggest hit, was a monologue by Capt. Arthur Pickens, who, with an absurd monograph map of the Chattahoochee, described a battle, the terrain lying near Columbus, with Girard represented by a bottle, as a base of supplies. The old steamer Callahan, which was to have brought reinforcements up the river was shown sinking to her doom, and other local references were equally ludicrous and greatly enjoyed by the crowd.

The whole of the evening's program, interspersed with dancing, was very excellent and Mrs. Peyton is to be congratulated on having arranged for it.

Other numbers were as follows:

1. Chorus—Musical Club, under the direction of Mrs. W. G. Hannah.
2. Impersonation—Mrs. John A. Stewart.
3. Solo—Lieut. Custer.
4. Dance—Mrs. B. A .Byrne.
5. Reading—Mrs. Custer.
6. Jiu-Jitsu Demonstration—Capt. Strain and Lieut. Smith.
7. Solo—Miss Cleveland.
8. Novelty Chorus—Mrs. Metcalfe, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Ketchum, Mrs. Foley, Mrs. Pomerene, Mrs. Finley.
9. Recitation—Mrs. E. G. Peyton.
10. Solo—Lieut. Brewster.
11. Dance—Mrs. Lampert.
12. Monologue—Capt. Pickens.
13. Solo—Mrs. Duvall.
14. Tango—Miss Agnes Harrison and Lieut. Douglas.

CHAPEL GUILD.

Until further notice the meetings of the Chapel Guild will be held the first Monday of each Month at 10:30 A. M. at the Protestant Chapel.

The next meeting will be held on May 7th.

MRS. R. JENKINS HONORED.

In honor of Mrs. Reuben E. Jenkins, a charming recent bride, Mrs. Kenneth Olsen gave a miscellaneous shower and bridge at her home on Thursday afternoon, April 5th.

Spring flowers made an attractive setting for the young matrons and maids who assembled, bearing lovely gifts. Mrs. Olsen presented Mrs. Jenkins, and Miss Lula Hill, a set of three embroidered tea towels.

A game of bridge was enjoyed, and Mrs. Burroughs Stephens won the top-score prize, a pair of earrings.

At the conclusion of the afternoon's entertainment, a tempting salad course was served.

This party was to have been given several weeks ago, prior to the marriage of Miss Hill to Lieut. Jenkins but was postponed at that time on account of the illness of the bride with influenza.

After the game excellent refreshments consisting of ice cream in meringue holders with cake and coffee were served.

MISS MECHLING COMPLIMENTS MISS DUNKLE.

On Thursday, April the fifth Miss Arvilla Mechling entertained at dinner in honor of Miss Marion Dunkle, niece of Colonel and Mrs. McCaskey.

The table decorations consisted of red candles in silver holders and white lilies were artistically arranged about the table and quarters.

Covers were laid for ten.

MRS. DELAPLANE ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE LUNCHEON.

At 10 o'clock on last Tuesday afternoon 1 P. M. Mrs. Channing Delaplane gave a delightful bridge luncheon at her home in Columbus.

The artistic decorations carried out the color scheme of yellow and lavender with potted plants, apple blossems and dogwood intermingling.

There were six tables of players present.

Mrs. O. N. Thompson won the high score prize and Mrs. Chas. Mason the second prize. Mrs. Mac Lough drew the consolation.

29th INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. F. A. McKoon entertained the 29th Infantry Bridge Club at five tables of bridge.

Mrs. Scales won the high score prize a pair of silk hose while Mrs. Stevens won a beautiful corsage as the second prize.

Delightful refreshments consisting of chicken salad, bran muffins, olives, pickles, wafers and tea were served.

DR. AND MRS. BROWNELL VISITING HERE.

Dr. and Mrs. Brownell of New York are visiting their son Major G. S. Brownell and their daughter-in-law Mrs. G. S. Brownell.

MRS. L. S. ARNOLD ENTERTAINS.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. L. S. Arnold entertained at three tables of bridge.

Her quarters were beautifully decorated with spring flowers for the occasion.

Mrs. R. T. Arnest won the first prize and Mrs. W. R. Tomey won the second prize. Mrs. James A. Murphey received a delightful guest prize.

Delightful refreshments of ice cream and cake were served after the game.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB.

29th Infantry News Notes

Regimental Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co.

Just think the Annual Inspection is over, and we know we did well.

Dame fortune intervened, and the Co. baseball team went down in defeat before the roaring "E" Co. Team. Guess Sergt. Oudett (Burt) has been throwing too many rocks at the cats in the Wilds of the Ft. Benning reservation, "Don't worry Burt we will win lots yet."

Corporal Lawrence Mitzen, and Private 1st Class Willia mHarrison, have returned from Camp Alfred Vail, Va. from the Signal Corps school. (Wire communications where Second and Third Honors were given them for their splendid course) work. The entire company extends it's heartiest congratulations.

Sergeant Harry C. Dillard is about to leave us on an unlimited leave of absence, (in other words discharged), the rumor is he intends to work in the fair city of Columbus. Best wishes Harry and don't forget its only 9 miles from your destination to the best Company in the Regiment.

Sergeants Deavers and Herb, are still looking for the "Cat's Meow."

The Company has another "Old Timer" added to it, and he is a very small man too. (Don't worry Jimmie you are in a good Outfit).

Regimental Headquarters Company extends its best wishes to Master Sergeant David Nadeau, our former 1st Sergt. who is Retiring some time this week.

Service Company

The first group finished range practice for record with gratifying results. Fifteen expert riflemen, thirty sharpshooters and about twenty marksmen. We also hold the high score of the Regiment. Sergeant Duncan made a total of 316 points. The clerks in the Regimental Headquarters also showed up well, Master Sergeant Still and Sergeant Shewfelt making Expert Riflemen and Pvts. Freeman and Regoski qualified as marksmen. Watch the News for a real thriller when the results of the record practice of Sergeants Fink and Green are made known through these kolyums. Neither having qualified before in their life.

The Service Company won another ball game Sunday from 1st Bn. Hq. Co. via the forfeit route. Our percentage is still 1000. We might add that we consider ourselves lucky in this deal, for had 1st Bn. Hq. Co. showed up on the field, we would have had five substitutes for as many members of the regular players, who were on pass.

In view of the fact that a large number of enlisted men in the Service Co. own automobiles and many more would buy cars if storage facilities were available, we suggest that a shed, with separate stalls be built by the Service Co. west of Edwards St. Such a structure would be appreciated by the enlisted men of the Company. As it is now, it is the same old "you can't park here," "you can't park there."

First Lieut. H. H. Harris also fired the course and qualified as Expert Rifleman.

1st Battalion Hdqrrs. Co.

We are making son.e very good scores on the range and expect to qualify quite a number of experts and sharpshooters. Pvt. Ramsay made the highest score of the company firing preliminary.

Corporal Sexton returned to the Co. Monday, after doing some good recruiting work during last month. His score last month was six recruits, and he is to go out again in a few days. Good work Corporal, keep it up.

Company "A"

Due to the fact that the Company is on the range and the reporter is the only one left in from said range, we beg to be excused from a lengthy spiel this time, but wish to report Company "A" present or accounted for.

Company "B"

Short, I was given to understand that you are a lady killer, not the kind that wins them with a beautiful smile and an oily tongue, but by the old Cave-Man style.

Your attention for the time being is directed to Pvt. Shroyer, as he has requested to give him a write up in the News about himself. Well Shroyer, they may let a little news thru but if it was your picture, before I made the undertaking I would want to double my insurance.

There is a fine chance for all the men firing on the range to qualify this year and there seems to be quite a bit of rivalry between the men (Sgt. Mintz your cigars sure do smoke fine.)

Company "C"

Pvts. Milner and Kage are back for duty again after what they thought would be a vacation in the wire City.

Corpl. Rankin is back from Recruiting service and has 13 recruits to boast of, bring them in Corporal "C" Co. will give them a good time and plenty of work.

Several men deposited money with the Quartermaster this pay day, Sergt. Keasak for one made a good start on his re-enlistment with a deposit of $165.00.

4 men in this Company who passed the Red Cross life saving test last year have just been notified, Corpls. Whitmore, Rankin. Pvts. Beard and Morgan. It believed that Corpl. Whitmore's looks will cause more people to sink than his efforts will save.

Company "D"

Private Stotts' Garage?

It looked like anything but a garage in fact if it hadn't been for a few pine slabs it might of dated its birth from the middle ages, such was the orde rof the materials and the sequence of construction when the writer saw it. If it really is a garage it is certainly in an embryonic stage for only the architect could imagine it as such a thing. We have heard of men bringing order out of chaos but the builders of this structure must perform wonders and their names should go down in history as the greatest men of all times.

If the poet should see it he would certainly say "Destruction here is thy masterpiece."

But if we look into the matter more closely we find that more heads than one are in consultation over the construction of this great building so if there is anything in the adage "in a multitude of counsel there is safety" this project may be a success after all. A glance at the names of these men changes our opinion completely all doubt is removed and in its place is absolute certainty. Here are the names of the men; names that are familiar to all as outstanding in their respective professions:

Private Harvey E. Stotts, B. S. (Barber Shop '21) Chief Architect. Sgt. Terry, C. & B. S. (Cooks and Bakers School '22) Assistant Architect. Cpl. Harry L. Groves, M. C. C. (Master Co. Clerk) Consultation Eng. Pvt. James T. Roberts, M. S. (Master Slunburner '22) Asst. Const. Eng. Pvt. Donald G. Trecartin, M. A. (Master of Animals '22) Transportation and Mechanical Eng. Corpl. Irwin Goldfeder, M. A. M. S. (Maker of Alibis '22) Master of Salvage '23) Consulting Eng. Pvt. John Cybulski. B. S. (Bread Sergt. '23) Consulting Eng.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion

We missed last week, for the first time, and the last time. It really could not be avoided as the reporter was engaged in a crusade in search of the key to the parade ground. Have some more reasons, in case this sounds fishy.

Here is something that ought to sound fishy, coming as it does, from Private Throgmorton.

A party of fishermen from this Company caught forteen whales, last Sunday about so long. It was their intention to bring same in to place on exhibition on the pool table. They started back, Pvt. Mitchell toting the fourteen whales (?). But the fish had other business to attend to, and one by one dropped off the string, so that by the time our sportsmen reached home, the existence of the record catch was more in the imagination than actual possession.

Corporal Davis has been appointed Sergeant.

Company "H"

Our Company passed the General Inspection Monday in tip top condition. We stood well up on the list.

Parris is playing excellent baseball on the Infantry Team. He is batting 500 per cent. in the last two games and his fielding is first class.

Cpls. Joyce, McGee and Joyce have been appointed Sergeants, and Pvt. Lunz has been appointed Corporal.

Quartermaster Detachment Notes

Well folks, here we are again, with the spice of the week's doings in and around the Detachment. One more of our men took a vacation this week. His address will be care Hotel DeBack, Thirty-Strand Ave., Walled City.

Since the fall of our Non-coms, they have our sympathy. We know it will be hard for them to take care of their families on their new pay.

Pvt. Bracye, had a new Ford out last Saturday and he was heard to say: "I wonder how I am going to get it in my room where the I. G. will not see it."—Simple enough. Remove the tires and crank, slip it in the ash can by the Kitchen, and watch the I. G. smile as he sees the Corn Willie the G. M. eats.

Pat to 1st Sgt.: Give me a pass for the show.

First Sergeant: We have no passes for the show, you will have to see Toby.

There is a certain fellow in this Outfit who goes to every dance, but we never see him on the floor. Wonder what he goes for? One man says to show his nice Pompadour, another says he goes to teach the girls the correct way to eat Ice Cream—but I am in doubt.

We have a fur lined Pool Cue for the one that solves this one:

Fort Benning is Bounded on the north,
By the Upatoie Creek.
Bounded on the south,
By No Man's Land.
Bounded on the west,
By Georgia.
Bounded on the east,
By the Chatta(hooch)ee River.
If you can guess the Combination,
You may keep it.

Bakers and Cooks School

It is with extreme regret that we announce the completion of the course for Mess Officers on April 15th, as we lose Captain Bazire and Lieutenant Paterson.

In accordance with our announcement last week that we would introduce by way of discussion of their merits, each member of our distinguished detachment, we will call attention to the bread proposition. Since prohibition, bread is generally conceded to be the staff of life, which calls to our mind, Sergeant Weisenberger, our Post Baker, who turns out bread of most excellent quality. There is not another bakery in the Post that can favorably compare their bread to his.

Sergeant Weisenberger will in all probability soon be called upon to demonstrate to a great staff of prominent scientists the feasibility of a plan he has eveloped during his twenty years experience as a baker.

Briefly stated, the idea became planted and matured in the fertile soil of his brain through a very simple happening. One day, while making some sort of a test in an old beer bottle, he imprisoned some millions of yeast germs therein with malt as a yeast food. Shortly thereafter, to his great consternation the bottle exploded with great concussion, rocking the bakery to it's foundations (they are still busy repairing it.) The explosion made such a terrific noise that it was almost impossible to hear Sergt. Montague talking in the next office.

The thought flashed through his brain, "why let such power be expended uselessly? Why not imprison this force and let it work for me?"

The areation in bread, resulting in the cellular tissue apparent in the baked loaf is caused by the action of the tiny living plant life, generally called bacteria this particular species being called "yeast plant," which in the space of pin 'shead of profiting dough, are millions of these plants feeding on the malt and glucose in the dough, reproducing rapidly and emanting a carbonic gas, which being susceptile to heat, expands and rises causing tiny cells in the dough.

He has therefore perfected a cold motor operated solely by the pressure of carbonic gas on the cylinders, holding the gas in check much like steam is held in high pressure in the locomotive, regulating the reproduction of bacteria by fresh air valves, malt and sugar. To this motor he has attached the dough mixer, automatic moulders, a dynmo for the electric lights, attachments for the motor which will sweep the floors, scrub, fire the ovens, issue the bread keeping tally thereof, peel the bread from the ovens when baked, etc. Through his innovation, he has eliminated the necessity of having more than one man to operate the bakery, therefore through this achievement Sergeant Weisenberger is introduced to the public.

OUR POST THEATRE.

How would you theatre goers like to have a Post Theatre so that you wouldn't have to wear a raincoat in the building, when it rains to keep dry or an overcoat to keep warm? Also how many of you hesitate to go to the present Post Theatre when the wind is blowing for fear that the wind will blow the building down?

The motion pictures that are being shown at the present time are as good as those that you will find in the leading theatres in the large cities but the present building is deplorable.

A generation or two ago the present Post Theatre was a good building along its line for it was built for a cow-shed and it was never intended for a theatre. But even under the present rotten conditions for showing pictures this Post sent the United States Motion Pictures Service over $23,000.00 for the year 1922 and the nightly attendance was around five hundred for the yearly average. At the present time and for sometime in the past our attendance has been hugging close to eight hundred persons per night, and to date this Post has sent the above army activity over $9,600.00 already for the year of 1923.

It is now rumored that maybe a new roof will be put on the present Post Theatre. Well you have got to have foundation and side walls to hold a roof up in the air so why waste this thousand dollars that it would probably cost to reproof the present shed. Also will a new roof keep out the cold? or wind?

Now we have a new temporary theatre started why not take the above thousand dollars, add a few more thousand to it and complete the present building for all that it needs is to be covered, and a floor put in and the building could then be so fixed up that it would be possible to show pictures in it.

As a further suggestion why not build a permanent theatre here. The U. S. Army Motion Picture Service constructed a large theatre in nearly all of the camps during the War and it was a gamble if these buildings would ever pay for themselves. Now Benning is a permanent Post and so far the Picture Service has only expended sufficient funds to install a few motion picture machines and these have paid for themselves several times over. Why shouldn't it be reasonable to expect that since this Post has proven itself capable of maintaining a good nightly attendance that the Picture Service should construct a respectable theatre at this Station?

A new permanent theatre would only cost about $50,000.00 and the net profits even on last year's average attendance would pay for it in two years and with the present nightly attendance a little over a year will pay for it.

If a presentable building would be provided and placed nearer the center of activity its a dead cinch that our nightly attendance would jump upward and an attendance of 1500 persons a night could reasonably be expected. Also if a decent place is provided the people living at the Post would rather go to the Post Theatre than go to Columbus, nine miles away to see an inferior picture. Also the present shed dignified by the title of Post Theatre is too far from the center of activity to induce people to come.

Why can't the Motion Picture Service see fit to give us a decent theatre?

The Columbus Edition of The Industrial Index is a credit to the Editor, the City of Columbus, the printer, and the Southland.

A perusal of the new industrial activities going on indicate that this section of the country has entirely recovered from the period of depression common to the entire country for the past two years.

Of particular interest to the military personnel is the matter relating to Fort Benning and the Infantry School. Conditions on the reservation are graphically portrayed. It would be well worth the small expense involved for every member of the garrison to send a copy of the Index to his friends expecting to come to Benning next year and also to put a copy in the hands of his congressman as propaganda influencing appropriation legislation at the next Congress.

This number of the Index is profusely illustrated and the cuts show up well. Especially does the picture of the new theater at Fort Benning bring out in detailed clearness the ventilating system of this building.

Here's congratulations to the staff of the Index including the printer's "devil."

CAST YOUR BALLOT

If any more Officers intend to cast their ballot for or against a change of the uniform it is requested that you do so immediately. Cast your ballot don't wait to let the other fellow do it, for he may have different ideas that wouldn't please you and if he wins, you will "holler" that the organized minority always win. Cast your own ballot.

WANTED—Information as to how to rid my quarters in block 23 of water bugs. I have tried all kinds of insect powders without results. Annoyed.

Dear Annoyed—The following method of water bug extermination is absolutely guaranteed to give desired results. No poisons, drugs, etc., necessary. Secure two blocks of solid wood about 4"x4" and place one in sink near drain pipe. Place the other, right side up, about 12 in. to the right of and on prolongation or the line drain pipe and block number one. Without exerting under pressure, grasp one of the annoying bugs between the thumb and fore finger of the left hand and carefully place him in the center of the wood block near pipe. Next, take black number two in the right hand, wrist straight and elbow down. Bring block number one down upon block number two with sufficient force to crush the insect, being carfeul to keep edge of blocks flush with each other. Repeat until bug has been completely annihilated. The Editor.

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

Chapter VII. Part 1.

That Which Dealeth With The Recruit Instructor.

The Instructor looketh at the men just joined and calleth out loudly "Fall In." Not a man moveth but all looketh at the instructor as if he were weak of mind.

The instructor then explaineth just what he meaneth and the recruits maketh a neat circle about him for they understand not what a straight line meaneth, as yet.

But after much mighty persuasion he maketh all understand what is desired and the recruits conform after a fashion—for they know no better.

The instructor then explaineth the well known position of attention and demonstrateth the same. But when he asketh the recruits to do likewise, it giveth a sight sufficient to make an image of Saton smile.

Some men putteth not their heels together because of much inward bending of the knees, others maketh not their legs straight, because the knees bendeth to much outward.

Still other pusheth the belly well forward and thereby thinketh that they archeth the chest, and pulleth the shoulders well backward but pusheth the head forward like unto a question mark, but after much persuasion and mighty talk the instructor convinceth all that he is right and they are wrong.

The instructor then undertaketh to teach these embyro soldiers right from left, but alas, when he commandeth right face or left face there always be many who meet face to face.

When he teacheth them the "about face" the eye easily distinguisheth the man who hath tripped the light toe over the dance floor for he tangleth and untangleth his feet and legs gracefully. But he who hath not practiced the gentle art of dancing maketh himself into such a knot so that he turneth not at all.

When he commandeth "forward march," it giveth a sight to behold, some walketh as if the ground be exceedingly soft or as if each hath a spring in each of his heels for with each forward step each one bendeth the knee forward mightly, others keepeth the knee crooked all of the while, some take a very long step and other a very short step and each believeth that he doth exactly right.

But the instructor halteth them and collecteth them all together again and giveth right dress and lo and behold every eye taketh its position on the line, but the feet are in various and divers places and positions, but usually some distance behind the line so that the recruit leaneth forward and placeth his eye on the line much like unto a goose that looketh cautiously around a corner but exposeth not the rest of his body. Others getteth far ahead of the line, but he to placeth his eye on the line but to do so he leaneth backward so that he looketh like unto a person who hath been running rapidly and desireth to stop suddenly, for his head stoppeth but his feet keep in motion.

SALEH!

MINUTES OF THE POST EXCHANGE COUNCIL MEETING

The meeting, having been called to order by the presiding officer, was formally opened with silent prayer by the junior member. The choir then sang Hymn No. R-6, 334,582: "The Great White Father in Washington Moves in a Mysterious Way His Blunders to Perform."

The minutes of the last meeting were then burned by acclamation. Under the heading of new business, it was moved and seconded that the meeting adjourn. Vetoed.

Moved and seconded that all receipts, rentals and fixtures east of a given line drown from a point north of the locus of the flagpole be divided equally into thre parts, one half to be devoted to the upkeep of the regimental rum shop, First Red Infantry, and the remaining three fourths to provide a sinking fund for sudden and unexpected calls from the Comptroller of the Treasury.

Captain Dumbgard arose to a point of order, and demanded the definition of a locus. The chairman, who was under the impression that a locus was a night-blooming bird of a species which infests trees, ignored the interruption with the contempt it deserved. The motion was carried, and Lieut. Ducrot, J. A. G., was appointed by the chair, to draw up the necessary papers. It was pointed out by Major Plumbob, C. E., that assistance of a technical nature might be required in their preparation, inasmuch as the last annual crop report for this region showed an average precipitation of 3.2 inches, and it followed that the mean deviation of the flagpole would, be hazarded, be in the neighborhood of two, or perhaps three, microfarads, which would tend to throw out the appointment of territory for the appropriation as much as three, or at most, not more than five, parsasangs, on the Camp Futilities Map.

Exception was taken to this statement while the speaker was citing some figures from the Police Gazette in support of his contention, by Major Reekal, the police officer, who called the attention of the meeting to the fact that Major Plumbob was quoting from a periodical dated June, 1890, and he, Major Reekal, claimed that the figures had since been materially altered, whether due to windage, drift, or a Republican administration, he was not prepared to state.

Prolonged snores greeted this statement, and the speaker sat down amidst deafening silence.

The Exchange Officer then asked and received permission to do business for another month, and the meeting adjourned.

Mr. Goldberg, his wife and small son, Moses, found it necessary to wade across a creek. Papa Goldberg carried some of the family belongings. When they got half-way across, Papa Goldberg looked for Moses but not seeing any head above the water, said, "Becky, where is Mose?" "Oh, he's all right, I got 'im by de hand," she replied as she paraded across the creek.

BAREBACK RIDERS.

Four children were riding an old horse, and at the end of their joy ride, the youngest came scampering in to tell the mother. "We were all riding the horse." The mother said: "You did not ride him bareback, did you?" To which she replied. "Mamma, he wasn't bareback wif all us kins on him, was he?"

BRINGING UP MOTHER.

A lady visitor once observed a small son picking out the kernels from nuts for his mother. She asked him: "Why don't you let her pick them out for herself?" The little Chesterfield replied: "Why 'cause we never raised her that way."

HOW FAST IS ALACRITY?

Valerie, aged 6, was seated on the lawn beside her auntie. The child asked: "If a bee came close to you what would you do?" The aunt replied: "I'd move with alacrity." Valerie queried: "Can't a bee move faster than that."

PROMPT OBEDIENCE.

When Valerie was five years of age, she was playing marbles on the counterpane on her bed. Her mother told her to do something and she did not budge. Later her mother told her again and said: "Baby you must learn prompt obedience." She seemed to pay no attention, but when mamma's next orders came, she hopped down and did as bidden hastily. Then she asked: "Mamma did I prompt obedience that time?"

---

Evelyn wanted some cumquat marmalade, which was a new dessert to her. She forgot the name but remembered it sounded like a game she played called "Gimme, gimme squat." Marmalade was too big for her to manage so she asked for some of that "Gimme squat jelly."

---

Evelyn was watching the building of a birdhouse and noticing the little windows had no curtains to them such as she had in her own room, she asked: "Had you not better put something up to the windows? The birds will want some privacy, won't they?"

---

William's mamma was reading a book about the Brownies visiting the differrent countries in the world and left off reading for a time when the Brownies had reached Turkey. Later when she took up the story again she asked: "William, where did I leave off?" He puckered up his little brow a moment, then gleefully replied, "Brownies in Duck."

---

Edward was leaning down in the aisle in school and his teacher asked him what he was doing. He said: "Nothing." She said: "What are you leaning down in the aisle that way for?" Again he said: "Nothing." Then she said: "Are you tying your shoe?" He said: "No mam, I'm tying my string."

---

Ikey came near being drowned one afternoon but a young companion saved his life and took him home. After Mrs. Goldstein saw her boy was all right, she came over to the other boy, she said, "Is you de boy what saved my Ikey from drownin'?" "Yes," modestly answered the youthful hero. "Well, said Mrs. Goldstein, "What did you do wid his hat?"

Company "C" Company Commanders Course.

As explained by Capt. Pope a "TERRAIN EXERCISE" is a terrible lot of exertion (or exercise) put on paper and turned in to the instructor, to be all littered up with them red and blue pencil marks. It don't make no difference whether the terrain is all wet and et cetera, you must take your exercise anyhow.

This above explanation may not be absolutely clear to every one, so am going to give you a example of one where a squad is a point in a forward guard during a fight:

SITUATION 1:

We is broke (nothing out of the ordinary) through following a Major General Attack and our squad is a pint way up front, there is also another gang of soldiers following us, along this rode. You is the Corporal of our squad. (This situation painted by Von Lud. himself)

REQUIREMENT:

What formation is our squad in.

Captain Stewart's solution: Oh! I'de through out a couple of flankers and beat it right on down the road. (Cut No. 1.)

Captain Wheeler's solution: I would take a chaw of backer and think it over. (Cut No. 2.)

Captain O'Day's solution: You said they wus going down the rode. If that be the case I would let them go until I got fatigued. (Cut No. 3.)

Note: Due to the lack of time I will not be able to give any more solutions to this first requirement.

SITUATION 11.

At this point you see four of the enemy coming out of those woods in a patrol formation. (NOTE—the woods are about 200 yards away) Apparently they have not seen you.

REQUIREMENT: What do you as squad leader do?

Captain Patrick's solution: I don't know unless you was mistaken when you said "patrol formation" and meant "Patrol wagon." (Cut No. 4.)

Captain Rodgers: Fourth squad FALL IN. (Cut No. 5.)

Captain Speer: I would let the blind devils go, they will fall in a lake if it keeps raining and drown themselves. (Cut No. 6.)

Captain Ostrander's Solution: I would shoot and talk later. A dead enemy cannot carry tails. (Cut No. 7.)

Company "A"

Private Heath made his debut on the gallery range for the first time. At four positions 25 yards, he made a score 160. Not so bad for the 1st time. Heath, follow your instruction closely and practice your positions more, and your scores will greatly improve.

Pvt. Hill, your score was alright; but for an old shot you could have done better. Now wake up old timer, and get into the game. I know you haven't lost your shooting spirit.

Pvt. Murphy is trying to get in shape for the target season. He says he is not going to leave the range until he causes the government to lose $60.

Sergt. Mann is back from his vacation and has taken up his rifle, and is in line for target practice with the determination to hold the shooting standard of Company "A" on top.

Sergt. Burley, we hope you will be out of the hospital in time to help us make the highest percentage of any company in the Regiment.

Company "D"

Bugler Washington, better known as "Kid Crip" has got one of his patents to stick at last. He polished his Retsett Belt, and its' appearance was so much better than the unpolished ones until our Company Commander ordered all the company to polish their belts.

Sergt. Jones wore out his slippers a few days ago, and now he is on his feet again. He says if he wears out one more pair of slippers he can't be hit with a red apple.

Company "F"

Corpl. Hightower is representing the Company by being among the first to fire on the target range.

Pvt. Todd has held up his hand and said "I do." No not in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony, but for three brand new ones.

Colter, bteetr known as Kid Pistol, has at last succumber to the fair sex.

Company "M"

1st Soldier—"Who was the man lying down between "M" Co.'s mess hall and the aid station?"

2nd Soldier—"Gracious goodness man! can't you see any better than that, 'at was Sergt. Signor Green (on the track) running."

1st S—"Well what was he running for?"

2nd S—"Ask Sergt. Green."

There was a conversation over telephone between one of our distinguished soldiers and, a Damsel in the city of Columbus a few days ago which was as follows, fro mthis end of the line:

Soldier:

Hello, yes—

You seem to have an awful cold,

No he is not in town today.

No they di dnot tell me anything about it.

Well I declare.

Yes there will be one on Wednesday night,

No—But if you can't get out on Wednesday nights, I will have one given any time you might say you can get out.

Now it will be a grand affair, if you will ask Miss So and So in on that.

A certain Corpl. of "M" Co. tells of his thrilling experience with a hold up man in Columbus.

Tell how he made him (the holdup man) splash the water out of a ditch.

Well Corpl. there was no one there to tell us about it, so we don't know who splashed the water out.

POOR OLD ADAM'S RIB

It is said that the original "Adam's Rib" caused a lot of trouble in the "Garden of Eden." Well, whatever trouble Eve may have caused is more than atoned for by Matilda Ramsay, another product of "Adam's Rib" in a new Cecil B. De Mille production by that name, which will be shown at the Post Theatres next Sunday, and which features Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter, Theodore Kosloff, Anna Q. Nilsson, Pauline Garon and Julia Faye.

"Adam's Rib" is not a story of the Garden of Eden, although Mr. De Mille does include a few cave man scenes as a "vision," but one of everyday life and a humorous one at that. The production is massive and the supporting cast is of the highest De Mille standard.

NOTED PLAYERS IN "KICK IN."

Their greatest individual successes made as crooks, they are now for the first time joined together in a "crook" play. It was as "Rose," the little pickpocket of "The Miracle Man," that Betty Compson first rose to fame. Bert Lytell made his first hits as a star in crook roles of "The Lone Wolf" and "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

Now Betty is playing Molly and Bert, Chic in "Kick In," a new George Fitzmaurice Paramount picture which comes to the Post Theatres next Saturday, April 21. May McAvoy is also featured.

Infantry Defeats Gordon 6-3.

The Infantry met Gordon last Friday and placed the game on ice right in the first inning when they made four runs.

Finnessey took the mound for the Infantry and set a Blue record for season when he fanned ten of the Gordon clan.

Wilson held down the mound for the invaders and with the exception of the first inning he sure tossed the old apple across home plate and for the remaining eight frames the Infantry only made two more runs.

The Infantry team made a very poor showing at this game, they lacked ginger and pep and each player seemed to have the attitude that he was not going to put out any more than he just had to or else they had the Gordon bunch under rated, or it may have been the fact that they made four runs in the first inning that affected them. At any rate from the fans point of view it was a rather uninteresting game. At no time during the game did the Barnesville men seriously threaten to take the game away from the Doughboys.

After the first inning the Blues did not send another runner across home until the last of the sixth when two men completed the circuit. Gordon sent one man around the diamond in the third, another in the sixth and the last one in the seventh.

INFANTRY DEFEATS GA. MILITARY COLLEGE 7-6

In a close and suspense holding game the Infantry finally defeated Georgia Military College.

At no time was the game cinched by either side.

Hutchinson took the mound for the Blues and handled the old pill nicely until he stopped a hot batted ball with his leg and then stopped a still hotter ball at the next throw when the batter lammed it straight for his middle but at that he was nervy and stuck with the mound until the seventh inning when Finnessey took the mound and hurled the old apple with such wonderful control that the GMC'S were unable to find out at just what part of the base the apple crossed or else fate put holes in their bats at any rate they couldn't connect with it.

McMullin knocked a home run when he burried the ball across the railroad track but as fate would have it there was not a Blue man on base. McMullin also knocked a three bagger as did also H. Davis and Yon. Yon also put another pill out for two bases.

INFANTRY AND GORDON TIE IN THE SECOND GAME 9-9.

When the Blues and the Gordons tangled for their second game last Saturday they sure put on a score making game. Each team made nine runs and the umpire called the game in the ninth inning on account of darkness.

All in all it was a running game but we can't improve on what Brooke Leman says in the Columbus Enquirer-Sun so we quote the following extract:

The Infantry outhit Gordon by thirteen wallops to eleven and also swatted the pellet for more extra bases than did the Barnesville lads and this extra hitting percentage was what it took to pull the battle up out of the mud, after the Blue had almost hopelessly tossed it away by some erratic pitching and worse fielding in the first two frames.

It was one of those days when nothing seems to go right on either side and it was evident from the start that the battle would be one of the old time festivals for the Blue spotted the Gordonsters six runs in the two opening innings.

INFANTRY WINS 2nd GAME FROM GA. MIL. COLLEGE 6-3.

The following extract by Brooke Ieman in the Enquirer-Sun is quoted:

Mister Dickey Kerr Whitesides hurled the Infantry into a clean sweep of the Cadet series yesterday afternoon at the Driving Park stadium. Whitney fought out a pitching duel with Rainey, portside star for the Barnesville crew, and the Little Boy copped the honors.

For eight frames the Cadets found Whitesides for but three scattered hiis. Two more came in the ninth frame, after the ball game had been put in the cold storage vaults, and accounted for another G. M. C. talley, which, however, did not figure in the finale.

Don't interpret by this that it was a one-sided affair. Far from it! Rainey was wild in the first frame and walked three of the Blue. This costly performanence together with two timely singles raced over four Infantry tallies; enough to cinch practically any ball melee. Rainey steadied down after this and hurled a brilliant brand of ball. The Infantry found him but seven hits and these were doubled up only in two innings.

The battle was a pretty one to watch and was far from over until the last Cadet had been accounted for. Fact of the matter the hardest hitting rally of the visitors came in the final frame. Fans were kept on edge thruout and got their money's worth out of the battle.

Fielding honors for the day were shaded in favor of the Infantry, but there were bright occasions on both sides.

ARMY AIRPLANES MAKE REMARKABLE FLIGHT

and Porto Rico. The return trip was made over the same route to Jacksonville, Florida but from there they followed the Atlantic Coast Line to Bolling Green.

This trip demonstrated that it is really possible to get in touch with our Island possessions in case of need and which might prove of incalculable value in time of war.

COST OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

establishment is $2.34 so therefore if the Army and Navy were completely abolished there would be no appreciable reduction in the cost of government or the reductions of taxes.

The last photograph quoted from the Ary and Navy Register is well worth reading and keeping in mind:

Americans who are asked to subscribe to petitions or other communications to Congress for reductions in the appropriations for the nation's defensive services, on the plea that the "cost of militarism" is a direful burden on the American people, would do well to inform themselves of the facts and to examine into the character and patriotism of those who are promoting the pacifist campaign before taking a step tha tmay readily align them with the enemies o fthe republic.

Inf. School Detachment Notes

NOTICE TO ORGANIZATION REPORTERS

All Co. notes must be in the office of the "News" by 4 p. m. on Tuesdays' of each week from now on.

A man from this detachment who has just completed a course at the Back School of Pickology, claims to have discovered a new material that is the hardest substance in the world. He has named it Nicklinite.

Recently a certain young man who was A. W. O. L. in Atlanta, entered the dining room of a leading hotel. When the waiter came to take his order, he told him to bring a plate. Then he took a package from his pocket, unwrapped a sandwich and putting it on the plate calmly proceeded to eat it. The manager immediately came over and said, "Here, we can't allow a thing like that in here." "Who are you?" asked the Doughboy. "I'm the manager," said that dignitary. "Well, you're just the guy I'm looking for. Why the H—— ain't the orchestra playing?"

Our Detachment Commander finally decided to enlist in the Benedict's Brigrade. Here's wishing that he is made first class, is never put on K. P. and will finally retire for long and faithful service.

It only takes one man to give you your money, but four of them to take it away.

Pay day a man asked Mr. Hardin if he rode a horse. "No,' said the jawbone King, "Why?" "Well," said this private looking at the forty cents he had left, "Jesse James did."

The Ark kept Noah from drowning but an ex-Staff Sergeant says if he could get that arc on the bottom of his Sergeant's chevrons, it would keep his head above water.

A certain very prominent young staff Sergeant states that he is going downtown to a Wedding Rehearsal tomorrow night. We can't imagine why he is going to the rehearsal, unless he intends to get a few pointers on how to act, and we must say it looks very much like he intends to get hooked up in the near future. How about it, Magoni?

HOW ABOUT THAT RIDE.

All of you folks who are unfortunate enough to be without an auto at this time of the year can get your ride just as though you owned a machine by going to 1211 1st Ave. where the U-Driv-It Co. have their shingle and step into a car and go just where you want to. What is more refreshing than to take a nice ride on a warm Sunday afternoon or any ohter day for that matter? Tell you what you do, just try it once and get the thrill and besides have a pleasant afternoon or evening. Take a look at their ad. Patronize "News" Advertisers.

CORPORAL JOSEPH H. LAVOIE.

The entire post was saddened by the death of Corporal Joseph H. Lavoie, Infantry School Detachment, Friday night, March 30th, at the Station Hospital, death being caused from accidental gun-shot wound.

Corporal Lavoie re-enlisted in the Army on November 8th, 1920, and had served his country more than five years at date of death. He was well liked by all who knew him and will be missed by the entire Detachment.

Funeral services were held from the Post Catholic Chapel at 9 A. M. Monday, Chaplain Lennan officiating. The body, together with a beautiful floral offering from the members of the Detachment, was shipped to his mother at Nashua, New Hampshire, Corporal Spinelli, Infantry School Detachment, acting as an escort.

Private Alexander Bates and family returned from Louisville, Ky., and reports a very pleasant trip.

Private Jossie Moffett says its shame to feed corn to horses and chickens when they can make such good corn juice out of it.

Corporal Willie McCloud was seen reading a book the other day and some one asked him what are you reading Cpl. He ans, that he was trying to find out how to make prune juice kick.

Private Wiseman Baker was in town the other day and went into the call again lunch room and after seating himself, the waiter asked him what can I do for you? Baker, holding up one finger saws swich one. The waiter replied, I don't understand you—— I want pig tails dummie.

The older Private Mack S. Davis gets the younger he looks on top of his head.

TUSKEGEE LOSES TWO STRAIGHT TO THE 24th INFANTRY

The Baseball team of the 24th Inf. journeyed to Tuskegee Friday where two games were played with Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute. The first game resulted in a 12 to 2 victory for the soldiers and the second 3 to 2.

In the opening inning of the first game it looked as if Tuskegee would score, but a double play, Williams to Washington after a sensational catch in centre by the former cut short the Tuskegee hopes. The big inning for the 24th was in the third, when with three men on bases and none out Williams came to bat and cleared the bases with a triple. This was only a starter, for before the 24th was retired Seats drove out a homer and Washington a double, and a total of eleven runs were scored. Tuskegee's two scores were the result of slow fielding by the 24th.

The second game was played Saturday and the 24th Infantry started with a vengeance. Thomas, the first man up, got a three bagger and was brought in along with another 24th Infantryman before the Tuskegee team registered a single putout, and but for poor base running would have scored a couple more runs.

The soldiers cut short several chances of the Tuskegee boys scoring by fast fielding. Two double plays, Washington to Gilbert to Thomas, aided materially in keeping the score down. Gilbert had two sensational running catches to his credit.

Tuskegee scored in the fifth by a single, followed by a homer to left field. This ended the scoring by Tuskegee, and tied the score.

The 24th won the game in the 6th on a hit by Battles who stole second, took third on an error by short, and scored on a single by Knight. This ended the scoring for the day.

To date the 24th Infantry has played four games and won them all. The team bids fair to equal if not better the record of the 3rd Battalion team of last year that won 33 out of 39 games played.

Negotiations are now pending for games with Morehouse College April 20th and 21st. The Birmingham "Black Barons" April 22nd, and Talladega College, April 25th.

MAKING A WILD PITCH.

(By Rooke Le Mann.)

Benning's Bard Broke forth Beautiously in our recent Base Ball program.

BASEBALL IS A GAME of walks and strike-outs and the dope is ker-flu-ied for a parade of ash trays more often in the national diversion than in any other recreation. So you had better season your season's optimism with a pinch o' pessimism.

Daily Bulletin: Lost, near out-door gym, a pair of wrestling tights and a pair of white track trunks. Er,—ah—how did you get home, Ted?

There is to be a renaissance in football at Columbia under the regime of Sir Percy Houghton, late of Harvardshire, according to our esteemed Contemporary of PUTTING THE THIRD ONE OVER.

OUR OPINION is that this will be a good test to solve the old, old query, Does a team make a coach or a coach a team.

ONE OF COLUMBUS' OWN, one J. D. Thomason, of Georgia University, made a big name for himself when on his first attempt to pitch he held the slugging Dartmouth players to a tie. The next day Dartmouth jumped on Sale, Georgia's ace, and hammered him all over the lot.

THAT TENNIS contest between our own Van Vliet and Carleton Smith, of the Atlanta Athletic Club, was a dandy struggle, a fitting exhibition for Wimbleton or other scenes of tennis struggles of giants. One could use both 'hectic' and 'arsenic' in describing the battel.

FROM THE SHOWING of our tennis team in the first engagement it can be easily seen that some interesting contests are in store for folks at the post.

HOW DIFFERENT was the contest at the Driving Park, going on at the same time! That last game with Gordon reminds us of the old kiddie saying, When our baseball team's good, it is very, very good, and when it's bad, it's——(Neither 'arsenic' or 'hectic' will do here. How's a feller to say it?)——horried!

LET'S HOPE that our baseball team has got it all out of their systems and that they have better ground to play on from now to the end of the season.

Cobb and Sisler, Stars.

The St. Louis member of this calcium company is George Sisler. He and Ty Cobb, Georgia member, are the two most shining stars baseballdom has gazed upon in twenty years or more. It is a question if there were ever two greater stars in baseball at the same time. Their personalities would cast radiance over any community, no matter how radiant the combination.

Cobb, the writer thinks, takes precedence over Sisler because there is more swagger and go and knack of putting it over to his than to Sisler's work and ways. Cobb has more of a way with him. He has a hitting style, a free, confident, loose and powerful bearing and swing that reach right down into the seat of your feelings and make you sit up and take concentrated notice. He embodies power, speed, unconquerable youth.

"There's Cobb!" the fans exclaim. Everybody watches Cobb. A ball player in a thousand; one of the greatest, if not the very greatest, of all time; a batting prodigy; baseball fans at large are wrapped up in him—and well they might be!

TENNIS

A. A. C. Wins First Game of the Season.

The opening game of the tennis season was started for the Benning Tennis Net punchers when they met the Atlanta Athletic Club at Benning last Saturday afternoon.

The Benning Tennis Club has a good schedule for the season and all tennis fans can sure get some real thrill if they stick around the courts at the flagpole.

Last Saturdays game was not a walkaway especially when you consider the worthy opponents of the Blues.

The following by Brooke Leman gives the game in detail:

Carleton Smith, Southern singles champion, and the fast tennis team of the Atlanta Athletic Club won over the Infantry Blue in fast singles and split even in the doubles tourneys staged on the Blue clay courts Saturday afternoon. The A. A. C. netters won the four singles matches staged while the Infantry broke even in the doubles, winning one of the two frames played.

In the first singles match, Kennedy of the A. A. C. defeated Whittemore of the Infantry in straight sets, 6-2 and 7-5. Whittemore staged a savage come-back in the final set but could not stop the fast Gate City player.

Carter, of Atlanta, took two straight sets from Switer of the Blue team, 6-3 and 6-4. Superior stroking spelled the downfall of Switzer in these two fast sets.

Captain Finley, of the Infantry, lost his singles match to Hunt, of the A. A. C., 6-2 and 6-1. Hunt was perhaps the most spectacular of the visiting tennis sharks with the exception of Carleton Smith.

The real classic of the afternoon was the singles match between Van Vliet, of the Infantry and National American Legion champion, and Carleton Smith, of Atlanta, Dixie's single champ.

These two racket wielders fought out the two most, brilliant sets ever staged at Benning, or according to experts present, in the Southland. Smith won finally 9 to 7 and 8 to 6 and the two close sets are mute testimonials of the hard play. Superior ground strokes spelled the final advantage for the Atlanta champ.

But Van Vliet and his partner, Finley, of the Infantry and incidentally American Legion doubles champions, staged a Brodie and defeated Smith and Hunt of the Atlanta Athletic in straight double sets, 6-2 and 6-2. In the doubles affair Van Vliet and Finley uncorked their best tennis and their victory over the crack. A. A. C. doubles team was sensational. In the final doubles match Orr and Carter of Atlanta defeated Switer and Brand, 6-4 and 6-4.

NEW POST INCINERATOR.

Constructed by Major Starr A. Moulton.

At last this Post has an incinerator that is the real thing and when it is realized that there were no funds and no material available for its construction, except what Major Moulton was able to salvage, or find surplus on the Post, and when neither of these were available then throuh his own ingenuity make substitutes from materials on hands, it is really a remarkable achievement.

The new incinerator is located just north of the Corrals and it will be well worth anybody's time if they would

POLO TEA DANCE A SUCCESS.

The Tea Dance given by the Ladies of the Polo Club at the Polo Club was a huge success both from the point of finances and the good time had by all who attended.

This delightful affair took place last Wednesday afternoon from four to six. The tables were laden with all kinds of food, candies, cakes. Lunch was served during the entire period, all that you had to do was stop dancing go over and eat till you couldn't down anymore and then dance until you had room for more eats and then go over and fill up somemore and so on until you couldn't settle the food and simply had to stop eating.

Some wicker furniture is going to be purchased immediately and plans are under way to furnish the club as completely as possible.

THE MEDICAL DEPARTMENT BRIDGE CLUB.

On April 12th the members of the Medical Department Bridge Club met at the home of Captain and Mrs. John T. White for their regular meeting.

Captain Arnest, Mrs. Moulton and Major Moulton were the prize winners for the evening.

MADEMS MILBURN AND PASCHAL ENTERTAIN.

On Thursday, April 12 Mrs. Frank Milburn and Mrs. Paul Paschal entertained at a lovely bridge party of 45 ladies at the Officers' Mess.

The Mess Hall was beautifully decorated with spring flowers for the occasion.

Mrs. Lester Lampert won the high score prize, a bridge cover with four napkins and the second prize a pair of silk hose was won by Mrs. Reuben Jenkins. Mrs. Lyons drew the consolation, a bridge set.

After the playing delicious refreshments consisting of a frozenn salad, cheese straws and iced tea were served.

MRS. BUGEE HOSTESS

On Thursday 12 Mrs. Fred W. Bugbee was the charming hostess at a delightful luncheon given at her home in Columbus.

A lovely bunch of violets tied with a yellow ribbon formed the table decorations while the place cards were hand-painted Chinese balloons.

Covers were laid for nine.

MRS. HATTIE GIVES BRIDGE PARTY.

On Friday the 13th Mrs. Joseph C. Hatie entertained four tables of bridge at her apartments in the Dimon Court.

Decorations of jonquils and other spring flowers were artiscally used for decorations.

Mrs. Smith won the high score prize a rose silk pillow and Mrs. Prindle won the second a leather card case. The consolation a boudoir cap was won by Mrs. Chas. Mason.

After the play delightful refreshments consisting of ices, cakes, nuts and candy were served.

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

On last Saturday evening a most enjoyable dinner dance was given at the Country Club.

The Army people who enjoyed the evening were Captain and Mrs. L. L. Lampert with ten guests, Captain and Mrs. J. A. Stewart with thirteen guests Lieut. T. E. Davis with three guests, Lieut. and Mrs. Byrne with four guests and Captain L. W. Brown with ten guests.

MISS KENT ENTERTAINS AT DANCING.

On Thursday, April 13th Miss Kent complimented her guest Miss Julia Robson by entertaining about 85 persons at a dance given at the Officers Club Hop Room.

The Hop Room was artistically decorated with Dogwood and other wild flowers.

The 29th Infantry Orchestra furnished the excellent music.

Punch was served during the evening and ice cream with cake was served during the intermission.

Company "C"

Corporal Mays, being a well polished carpenter, has finished erecting his new home. He drawed up his own plans and prepared this foundation before building upon it. Of course he had his ups and downs, naturally more downs than ups. On the rocks he built the foundation, but after the rain he was unable to find it. The boards on the sides that so weakly rest upon one little nail are constantly trembling for they know not when they will drop to earth.

Each shot of the one pounders on the target range five miles away shakes a plank down, so he tried to insure it against possible danger but the insurance company could afford no chances. The agent said "Just look at the damage one drop of rain upon the roof would do. Why, a light breeze would rock it, while the passing of a Ford auto would shake all of the window panes out. For fire it is in constant danger the smoking of a camel cigarette in the house is sufficient to call all the fire departments in the state of Georgia out, and an ordinary wind would spread it's accessories to the four winds of the heaven. And to walk heavily across the floor when you should be on your tip toes would mean a well constructed (according to plans laid by architect Mays) cottage razed to terra firms. But regardless of all defects Corporal Mays nobly proved that you can take a tooth pick and build a lumber yard.

NEW POST INCINERATOR.

go over and take a look at it as the above cut does not do justice to the incinerator nor neither can you get a real idea of how large it is unless you actually look it over.

Major Moulton had a total of eight men at his disposal to collect the necessary material and do the construction so that about a year was consumed in the work.

To begin with, the bank of the gully had to be cut away so that it would be vertical and then this bank had to be re-enforced with a concrete wall about eighteen feet high.

The furnace was started at the lower edge of the wall and built up out of salvaged fire brick extends about five feet above the retaining wall and has six sets of shelves placed at different heights, the shelves were made from old rails and are so placed that when the garbage is fed in at the top the shelf is filled first and when it is full the surplus falls onto a lower shelf and so on down to the fire boxes. The grates will hold a total of five and one-half cubic yards of garbage. When the fires are started in the fireboxes, the flames will shoot from one grate to another so that in a very short time the whole furnace contents are a roaring, burning mass.

A cement dump was constructed where the wagons dump the garbage. On this dump everything of salable value is saved and the rest is burnt. Also animals that are condemned are killed here and then put in the furnace and burned up. Before this incinerator was constructed it was necessary to use about a cord of wood, a barrel of crude oil and the time of several men for several days to destroy an animal, but the incinerator does the job in a few hours and there is no additional cost as the burning garbage furnishes the fuel.

The salable articles are all stored in a large warehouse that was constructed for the purpose. The bottles and unbroken glass is first carefully washed in a large sink made for the purpose and which has running hot water entering it. As the water becomes dirty and greasy the sinks are drained into a series of large grease traps which are connected with the river. Copper wire is thrown into a fireplace and the covering burned off and and the copper is stored until sold. Old rags are saved and sold.

On one edge of the dump is a large wash rack so that wagons leave the incinerator clean.

The warehouse is twenty by fifty feet with an office and a large shower bath at one end, this later for the benefit of the men who are working there.

But as we said above to get the correct impression of this construction you have got to go and look at it yourself. It will not only surprise you but will be very interesting and instructive as well.

Major Moulton has received Commendations from the Chief of Infantry and The Surgeon General of the Army for this accomplishment and he is entitled to every bit of it. The News extends sincerest congratulations to Major Moulton on his achievement and the commendations received.

We quote the following letter received from the Office of the Surgeon General:

"Your report pertaining to the construction and operation of the incinerator at Fort Benning, Georgia, has been received in this office. This is an excellent piece of work. The office of the Chief of Infantry commended you for the constructive work accomplished and recommended that extracts from your report be filled with your efficiency record. This commendation has been forwarded to the Adjutant General recommending that it be made a part of your efficiency record on file in his office. Extracts from your report and the commendation of the Chief of Infantry have, of course, been made a part of your efficency record on file in this office.

The report is being forwarded to the Quartermaster General for his information. * * *

THE NEW GYMNASIUM COMPLETE

wide. The Maple floor is 200 feet long and the width of the building and large enough to accomodate three basket ball courts without crowding.

The foundation is of cement and the building is covered with corrugated iron.

The last forty feet at the rear is partitioned off so that a large dressing room is provided and also four smaller rooms. Of these the post A & R will have one the physical director of the School Division will have two, one for an office and the other for a storeroom. The fourth room can be used for a ticket booth, check-room or for whatever is needed.

Over these small rooms and the dressing room is a second floor divided into two room, one about fifteen feet square and the other room the size of the rest of the floor. The smaller room will be used by the Post Athletic and Recreation Officer as a record and filing room and the clerical men will have their desk here also. The other room will be used as a storeroom for A & R Property.

Captain C. G. Hammond had charge of erecting the building and certainly accomplished wonders with the material that he had work with. However due credit goes to our Commanding General, General Gordon, Colonel W. B. McCaskey, G-1, Lieut. J. W. Elkins, Post A & R Officer and Capt. G. V. Braun, physical director of the School Division for it was by their untiring effects, that the material and funds were slowly collected together until at last the building is ready for use.

FAMOUS VOLCANO FILMED

Kilauea in Hawaii Is Seen in Betty Compson's "The White Flower."

Manipulating motion picture cameras on the edge of the famous volcano Kilauea furnished plenty of excitement to the cast of "The White Flower," the new Betty Compson, Paramount picture, which was screened in the Hawaiian Islands, and which will be on view at the Post Theatres next Thursday. The company remained in Hawaii for several weeks, encompassing in that time beautiful backgrounds of Honolulu, exciting swimming scenes on the beach at Waikiki, scenes with a background of pineapple and sugar cane plantations and other views colorfully representative of the famous American possession. Miss Compson plays a half-caste Hawaiian girl, and is supported by Edmund Lowe, Edward Martindel, Arline Pretty Sylvia Ashton, Leon Barry and Lily Philips.

NOTICE TO ORGANIZATION REPORTERS

All Co. notes must be in the office of the "News" by 4 p. m. on Tuesdays' of each week from now on.

The Motor Transport Co. No. 100, Q. M. C. has lost another old timer, 1st Sergt. Richard Simmons who is retiring some time this week, Sergt. Simmons served in the 24th Infantry from Sept. 13, 1901 to Oct. 14, 1917, served Honorably as Commissioned Officer from Oct. 15, 1917 to Oct. 31, 1919, Quartermaster Corps from Nov. 1, 1919 to March 31, 1923, the Organization extends its best wishes to 1st Sergt. Simmons upon his retirement to Civil life.

The question was asked Private Jackson (Big Ben) was he in the Barber shop? Answer was, "No I am in the Butcher shop."

Miss (X) two months ago I was just wild about Sergeant Wallace now I can't see him at all—strange how changeable men are.

On Thursday night April 12th Corpl. and Mrs. Harry Parker gave a delightful house party for the benefit of the children of the M. T. C. and 24th Infantry the house was beautifully decorated with spring flowers for the occasion refreshments of Ice Cream and Cake were served after the dance.

Sergeant Dave Riggins has retired from the fishing game, until some one of the post fishman beat his record, Dave is the holder of the largest catch of last seasen.

Sergeant Taylor was seen a few days ago getting his fihsing lines in shape the Sergt. has been going fishing for the past Two years and haven't caught any thing yet.

Births

Born to Captain and Mrs. G. J. Braun, Infantry, On April 16 at the Station Hospital a future George Washington and Abe Lincoln with a special hobby of gymnastics inherited from his father.

When we interviewed Gus Jr. (yes he has the same name as his father), he immediately complained to us that there wasn't any gym equipment at the Ward and that he wanted some right away as he was going to have a busy life and that he didn't want to lose any time getting started.

A CORRECTION.

Two weeks ago in announcing the birth of Dorothy Ann a daughter of Captain and Mrs. Kraul, we stated that she would be a future queen of Upatoi, what we intended to say, was that she would be a future queen of Utopia. All hail the queen!

Finance Detachment Notes

Private Barker made a flying trip to Atlanta last Thursday evening, returning Friday night, and reports everything O. K. in the Capitol City.

Major Gralund is enjoying a month of well earned leave of absence, the greater part of which will be spent in Washington, and it is needless to say that he will be missed by the office force.

What the writer considers the best joke ever, is this: Friedenthal wanting a mask to wear to the masquerade ball—why the mask Friedy? It looks like a doughface now.

Bennett and Hinderlider were seen strolling towards the theater Monday evening just as nonchalant as if they had show fare in their pockets.

Sergeant Pool recently was subjected to an operation at the station hospital, in which he was relieved of a good sized stone quarry. Perhaps readers noticed an advertisement in the News for (50) husky laborers for work in a stone quarry. That was it. We are glad to be able to state that Sergeant Pool is recovering rapidly, and will soon be convalescent.

Sergeant Russey has kindly condescended to allow us to publish the following recipe for gaining first place in the kitchen sanitary inspection. First find out who the Sanitary inspector is. Discover his greatest hobby. If it is paint, paint the kitchen, garbage cans, tables and everything. If it is cockroaches, run over to Sergeant Math the night before and borrow one Heiferroach, and one cock-roach, and deposit in a corner. Next morning there will be thousands of them. If he likes pie, bake a nice pie the night before, and meet him at the door with a piece. In other words cater to his likes and dislikes. This, Sergeant Russey explains is not hand-shaking but is diplomacy. We are looking forward expectantly to the next inspection.

Sergeant Rommel, one of our scientests, is conducting experiments along the following lines, using the Student Officers Mess as an auxiliary to his plans. The relation of foods to each other. Their action and inter-action in the human body. He maintains however that there are but few subjects to experiment on at this mess.

Along about the first of the year, some officers suggested that the Student Officers Mess install dumb waiters for economy. Well this has been done, but still there are those who kick. This reminds us of the old saying that: We come into this world kicking, and kicking our way through life, finally kick off.

Sergeant Rommel is selling his Dodge Roadster, and will buy an aeroplane. We advise all Mess Sergeants to do this. It provides an excellent means of escape, should escape become necessary.

Ryan, our Special Investigator has just dropped in with the information that he has certain information about revolutionizing process being blueprinted and developed by Sergeant Glant, who is in charge of the Station Hospital Mess.

Ryan has been instructed to carry his investigations further and if he is successful, we can promise a "scoop" next week. Sergeant Glant is most reticient on the subject, but even the most secret plans cannot escape detection when Ryan is on the job.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Kalla Pasha of "Thirty Days," Screen Villain, Has Two Cognomens.

Here's a bit of the secret history of a couple of well-known and popular screen villians, if popularity can be subscribed to men who measure their fame by hisses rather than by handiclaps. The villains in question are Kalla Pasha, who plays with Wallace Reid in "Thirty Days" and Noah Beery, a well known Paramount player. Kalla's real anme is Joseph Richard while Noah pays his income tax under the cognomen of Noah Bierce. Kalla changed his because Joe Rickard doesn't sound tough enough while Beery is decidedly easier to remember than the Swiss handle of Bierce. Kalla Pasha provides much relishable comedy in the role of a Prison Warden in "Thirty Days," which comes to the Post Theatres next Tuesday. Wanda Hawley is the leading woman.

Medical Dept. Notes

A leave of absence for two (2) days has been granted 2nd Lieut. Dorothy Cleveland, Army Nurse Corps, for the purpose of visiting Atlanta, Georgia.

Barracks 5-B was honored one night last week by the presence of a certain Staff Sergeant, who stayed in for one night. How about it Brown.

Our little short Sergeant is now under careful consideration, withal the roads are bad, he is Columbus bound every night. Some of us think that he is contemplating making a future home in Columbus soon.

With the discharge of Private S. H. Proctor, Med. Dept., and the enlistment of Privates Cherry and Christmas, during the past week, it can be said that we are holding our own.

POWERFUL CAST.

Assembled by William de Mille for "The World's Applause."

A cast of exceptional excellence even for a de Mille production, was assembled by William de Mille for his latest Paramount picture production, "The World's Applause," featuring Bebe Daniels and Lewis Stone, which will be shown at the Post theatres next Saturday, April 28. This is a delightful picture with a timely theme, produced according to the highest de Mille standards.

Mr. de Mille considers the cast assembled for the picture one of the best in his successful career as a motion picture director.

The supporting roles are filled by such well-known players as Adolphe Menjou, Winter Hall, Brandon Hurst, Bernice Frank, Maym Kelso, George Kuwa and James Neil.

PREPARATION AS A PREVENTIVE OF ANOTHER WAR

It is to be hoped that the world will never see another war, small or great, and, certainly not such a conflagation as set Europe on fire in 1914. But wise men know that there is always danger of a small spark causing a great fire. The old saying, "watch as well as pray," may be paraphrased in a way into the saying, preparing as well as hope,"

The next war, if there shall unfortunately be another, will be unlike any other that has ever been fought. It will be as much unlike any other as the great world war was unlike any that had preceeded it. In the next war the air will more largely be the "battle-ground" than will be found anywhere else. This seems to be certain, if we may judge by preparations that are being made by the nations to equip themselves with airfighting craft of various kinds.

At present France leads overwhelmingly in air power, and this fact is causing considerable anxiety to England. England now has thirty-two air squadrons while France has two hundred. France, therefore, has a great advantage over England. It is pointed out by a well known writer that "England once ruled the waters. Now France rules the air waves, and ocean waves no longer count," Major Turner British military expert, in the London Telegraph, thus expresses England's concern:

"Before 1914 we were content with out small army, knowing that at the worst we should have time to create armies. That assurance has gone forever. For within a few hours of a rupture of peace our homes, workshops, transport and munition plants would be attacked."

And the attack would be from the air. No time, and very little use, to mobilize troops on the ground when a destroying squadron of airships is making an attack overhead, dropping deadly bombs and poisons from the air above. Land forces could not cope with those of the air, neither could the forces on the water.

With the air forces that France now has, within a few hours after a declaration of hostilities, she could ruin London, and London knows it. This accounts for the anxiety of the British air ministry.

The development of airships that will sail across the Atlantic is not far away. It will be but a short time when such machines will be constructed as will make the flight carrying sufficient cargo to do great damage to cities. Therefore, the United States should not be behind any other nation in the development of its air service. We are at peace now, and it is the hope of us all that we may continue so. But we were at peace with all the world until suddenly, in 1917, we were forced to make very great sacrifices in men and money in order to stop the war.—Columbus Enquirer-Sun.

THIRD CORPS AREA GAZETTE ARRIVES

The latest addition to our exchange list is the Third Corps Area Gazette, a monthly magazine.

The magazine is a credit to the Service and as we read it over we grow envious—because when we had just reached the place where we were beginning to strut around like a pouter pigeon and feel like we were doing ourselves "proud" to get out a 16 page paper here comes the Gazette along and knocks us into a cocked hat by publishing a 32 page paper. The cover is done in colors and, to cap the climax, has an article signed by General Pershing.

The Gazette is full of newsy Corps Area items, historical matter, book notes, and matters of general interest to the Service at large. We extend congratulations to the Editorial Staff who, with becoming modesty, withhold their name from the public good judgment, say we, speaking from sad past experience.

"Come along with your criticism. We must have it."
—Third Corps Area Gazette.
Don't worry, brother, you'll get it."

Chapter VI Part 2.

That Which Dealeth With The Recruit

The Recruit Instructor teacheth many things, some of these the recruit learneth by explanation, demonstration, and repetition, others he learneth only by word of mouth and he must give close heed that he remembereth the same.

The recruit heareth the Articles of War read to him and if he wouldest be a good soldier he giveth close attention, so that he transgresseth not the law.

If he be so weak of mind and heedeth not the laws or the meaning of them then alas he also learneth by experience.

If his punishment be easy he learneth that he receiveth extra labors such as kitchen police and other disagreeable work.

But if his punishment be severe he learneth where is located a place of evil commonly known as "The Stockade."

At this place he learneth that he worketh only, but drilleth not.

But that be not the end, for he soon learneth that he hath no liberty.

He also learneth that he receiveth no pay while he remaineth a member of the drilleth-not union and then still later he learneth that his actions have been carefully writ into the record of his service.

Further he learneth that when cometh the end of his enlistment he must still stay awhile to make up for all of that time which he hath lost from drill and duty.

When at last cometh the day of discharge he then findeth out that even his discharge telleth all the world that he hath not been a faithful soldier for his discharge containeth not the words "Character Very Good," or "Character Excellent," but instead one readeth, "Held in the Service X days under the 107 A. W."

So heed you all and keep thine records clean, for then it giveth thee pleasure and thine heart sayeth "well done good soldier" and then when cometh the end of thine enlistment it giveth a clean discharge and showeth a noble record.

But hast thou been an evil soldier so then will thine heart tell thee and thy record will show thee and when at last cometh the day of thy discharge thy mind and thy heart telleth the that thou hast not guarded thine oath carefully and thou feelest as if the men in thine company are exceedingly joyful that thou takest thy departure; and whoever thou meetest thou thinkest that he looketh downward at thee.

Further, shouldest thou try to reenlist so may thine black record cause thine rejection and this is not to the credit of any man.

Thou then feelest as if thou wouldest then seek new fields and bury thine evil record but alas who so ever seeth at the foot of thy discharge the words "Held in the Service X days under the 107 A. W." he knoweth that thou hast been an unfaithful soldier and trusteth thee not.

So thou leavest the new field for still another new field but alas forgeth thou not that old adage of "evil will out" so that soon thou feelest miserable in mind and heart and again seeketh new fields and then again new fields until thou becomest like unto a rolling stone which always moveth but never doeth good. Then thou learnest to thine everlasting sorrow that all new fields soon learn thine evil record and that thou be not welcome with them.

So what hath thou accomplished if in thy work thou had not done some good thing and further holdeth not one man whom thou canst speak of as a "friend?" Selah!

—P. C. W.

THE BENNING ROAD AS SHE IS ON A RAINY DAY AND GIVETH GREAT JOY TO ALL TRAVELERS, SELAH!

DO YOU KNOW—

THAT the Firs tRed Infantry has more blank files than any other unit in the army, with the sole exception of the magazine bniders in the Officers Club?

THAT the reason the 83rd Field Artillery has not put down a barrage on the Columbus Road is that the number of shells required to smooth it, if placed end to end, would reach from one place to another?

THAT Hannibal, who herded a swarm of elephants across the Alps in midwinter, without changing a tire, never carried enough spare parts to negotiate the distance between Fort Benning and Columbus?

THAT the amount of army paperwork prior to the war was neglible in comparison to what it is today, but that the Board to Reduce Paperwork has since made tremendous strides?

THAT Prof Einstein has established after exhaustive research, that a ray of light, traveling at its accustomed speed, 186,000 miles a second, if required to penetrate the intelligence of some person, would emerge so bent and distorted that it would make a dog's hind leg look like the shortest distance between two points?

THE GRAY SQUIRREL.

The Old Gray Squirrel, with his wife, son and daughters, is certainly due for exemption from slaughter. The "Tales of Tanlac" always tell of "some cures" but doctor squirrel sees, that he points out yours, in prose to his sons or in verse to his daughters, and if fair minded you feel you got just what a "you'd oughter" but even at that he springs such good stuff you hope he'll continue to be a bit rough. Hit the gink who drives by you at thirty per hour, splashes mud in your face, gives you cause for the sour and unhealthy look that appears on your face for Post Orders read fifteen and he wants to race. Yes, there's a plenty of good work for our friend the "gray squirrel" and I hope that he will keep up his regular whirl and not in a cage but out in the open. Thank the originator and here's hoping for another Post Order with wording "hog tight" that will stop the hog passing on left or right while you drive the limit, are in just as much of a hurry to get to your lunch and back to your worry as he is but you respect regulations, get his mud or his dust and mutter damnations. So "here' to you" old gray squirrel, and long may you wave, may you and your family for years cheat the grave.

THINGS TO TRY ONCE.

With Profit.

1. Giving the Post A & R Officer a little assistance.
2. Saluting the Flag when the Retreat Gun is fired.

With or Without Profit

1. Trying to get a package mailed at the Post Office in a hurry.
2. Driving past the bridge-guard without stopping.
3. Driving over the 29th Infantry parade ground with a motor vehicle.
4. Leaning on the Adjutant's Desk while conversing with him.
5. Ignoring a traffic cop.
6. Forgetting a dinner engagement.
7. Telling the School Secretary that you were late to formation because the baby didn't wake up.
8. Trying to make your superior officer believe that he misunderstood some remark of yours.
9. Walking into an office and use somebody's typewriter without permission.
10. Trying to kid an inspector when he finds something wrong.
11. Telling your colonel that the odor of hops on your breath is the result of eating frog-legs.
12. Telling the wife that she doesn't need a new dress.
13. Telling the bunch about your war experience in France when you never even saw the Atlantic.
14. Telling the bunch how it happened that you missed sharpshooter one point.
15. Signing notes for a person and expect him to repay you.
16. Loaning a friend a gallon of gasoline and expect to get it back.
17. Inviting yourself to a party.
18. Telling the people of Georgia that they have rotten roads.
19. Calling a submerged captain "mister."

The Jist of Life

(Pearl Lillian Truman.)

Watch the Old Man.

Little Johnnie was saying his prayers one evening and he asked reverently that God would bless Mamma and Sister and then he added as an afterthought—"It might be well for you to keep an eye on the old man, too."

Diplomatic.

"Teacher, said Willie, should a fellah get punished for something he did not do?" "No, Willie, that would be very unfair." "Well, teacher, I didn't do my rifmatic."

Extra Ordinary.

Fashion Note: The important announcement has just arrived that the frogs at LaGrange will wear one-piece bathing suits this spring.

Will Say You Can't

A young bride went into a drug store where the druggist was known to have a side line of canaries, and she asked: "Have you any canaries?" The druggist said "No, not at present. We have the birdseed only." "Can you raise them from seed? I didn't know that."

Ambition.

Two tramps were wadering along a lonely road when one of them spied a bottle on the ground. After partaking of some of its contents one of them said to the other, "I have decided to buy all the hotels and railroads in the United States." The other answered, "You might as well give up the idea for I have changed my mind about selling.

Not The First One.

The young husband had sent home a rabbit for supper but when he got home he found his bridge in tears and nothing ready for supper. "What is the trouble?" She replied thru her tears: "I've been picking this rabbit all afternoon and haven't got him halfpicked yet and I did not have time to do anything else."

"Yes" or "No."

A lawyer once was opposed to Abraham Lincoln in a cese in court and the lawyer insisted that his question should be answered either "Yes" or "No" without any explanation. The witness said he could not answer that question that way. The lawyer insisted that any question could be answered that way. Lincoln then said, "May I ask you a question that you will answer either "Yes" or "No" "Certainly" said the lawyer. Then Lincoln asked him, "Have you stopped beating your wife?"

Children Will Be Children.

Mr. Jacobstein said to his wife, "I think I vill git a buggy. It would be nice for me to go to work in. Mrs. Jacobstein said, "Yes," that would be nice," but she saw visions of pleasure drives. Just at this point the two children got to arguing about which one of them was to sit in front seat. They were just about to come to blows when Papa Jacobstein settled the whole matter by saying, "Ikey, you just git right down out of de buggy now."

Some Bait.

A minister was standing on a bridge talking to two very pretty girls, and they were watching a man fishing in the creek below them. A stranger came up to the group and by way of being friendly said to the minister, "Are you going fishing?" The ecclesiast drew himself up rather proudly and replied, "Why, sir, I would have you know I am a fisher of men." The stranger after a glance at the girls remarked, "I see you have the right kind of bait"

It has been calculated that an oyster five inches long consumes one-twelfth of a cubic inch of solid food daily, and to obtain it must filter eight or nine gallons of sea water. Who wants to work that hard?

Have You Heard This One?

"Do you think I shall live until I'm ninety, Doctor?"

"How old are you now?"

"Forty."

"Do you drink, gamble, smoke, or have you any vices of any kind?"

"No. I don't drink. I never gamble; I loath smoking; in fact, I haven't any vices."

"Well, good heavens, what do you want to live another fifty years for?"

A SIP O' TH' TIP.
O' TH' MORNIN'.

(By Ge Allevir.)

Oh, it's springtime in ol' Georgia,
An' like violins th' sound
O' th' mockin' bird in the orchard
Comes a-floatin' all around;
Ther's a kiss o' dew a-lingerin'
On the jasmine in the lane,
An' a blue jay's a screechin'
At the dawn with might and main.

There's a crow or two a-cawin',
And a pair o' circlin' hawks,
An A' a hen along a furro'
Findin' grubs, with little squawks;
There's a spot along an old fence,
With the violets a-peepin' up,
Just to sip th' tip o' the mornin'
With the yello' butter-cup.

There's the colored man a-hoein'
In a nearby cotton field,
An' the south wind's gently blowin',
Whisperin' prophecies o' the yield;
There's an April shower o'er yonder,
An' a zephyr from the south,
That's a bringin' growin'-weather,
An' no prediction o' a drouth.

Well, I s'pose it's kinda foolish,
Just a dreamin' here to be—
But a spring in dear ol' Georgia
Kinda gets the best o' me.

29th Infantry News Notes

Regimental Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co.

Accounts with the Post Laundry seem to cause lots of trouble, but we know what a shortage or average means. (Giving Sergt. Houghby much deserved credit for his efficiency in such lines.)

Sergt. Houghtby, the Company extends its heartfelt sympathy.

The Court martial Section of 29th Infantry is still trying very hard to help the 96th and 61st Articles of War Victims by wishing them well.

Private 1st Class Charles Baldwin, has been promoted to Sergeant.

Sergeants Herb and Deavers have located the "Cats Meow" and will carry it to Columbus, Ga.

A much deserved promotion has been given Private 1st Class Akers, one of the best horsemen in the Regiment "Look out Windy," Corpl. Akers will get you yet.

Service Company

All members of the 29th Infantry Band have completed range practice with the pistol and all records for unit firing have been shattered. Some members of the band making scores of 92 per cent. Everybody qualified and it all seemed so easy that if one isn't at least a sharpshooter, why, he is looked upon by the experts as just an ordinary "shot" Poor Marksmen—where do they come in?

The Service Company won another baseball game Wednesday afternoon (April 11th). This time Company B was the victim. We are still undefeated and what's more we don't contemplate losing any games this year. The Veteran Sisco worked like a top and our opponents just couldn't connect—he was striking 'em out right and left and with the excellent support of the remainder of the team, the result was never in doubt. Preliminary negotiations are now in progress with teams in and around Columbus for post season games.

Sergeants Fink, Zigler, Freeman, Willis, Bradley, went to the baseball game last Saturday afternoon and saw the Aggies go down in defeat. Incidentally, one of the party is about ready to sacrifice his "civies" for strictly military attire. Reason he was soaked one berry for three soft collars on a shopping tour the same afternoon.

Familiar sights: Galhoun twisting his mustache with one hand and filing a General Order on a Bulletin file with the other. Huffenberger, Guthrie, Washilik and McCaslin playing pinnocle with feverish enthusiasm. Snider, the brains of the corral arriving with his gang for dinner. Ruggerio, Hubbard, Taylor and Benson and others arriving in Ruggy's new (maybe) Ford.

1st Battalion Hdqrs. Co.

Pvt. Kruse is being discharged next week. We trust that he will decide to re-enlist in our company. Remember, Kruse, you are sure of your slum and beans here anyway.

Pvt. Fulkerson has bone homt on furlough. We were very sorry to hear of his mother's illness and trust that she may have a speedy recovery.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion.

Headquarters Co., 2nd Battalion took 4th Place among the organizations of the Post in deposits for the month of March and the other Companies of the 2nd Battalion occupied almost all the highest places on the list. This may explain why the Battalion Court Martial Clerk (Private Thorogmorton) has had, lately, such a great amount of nothing whatever to do.

For the past few days the Company has been thinking of having its picture taken. As this is the first time this Company has ever attempted to do such a thing we all look forward to it. But on account of fatigue and various other details we haven't been able to stick together long enough to visit the photographer intact. Of course we had to pass over Friday of last week, which was the 13th also, as we need to be careful in order to put it over just right. Today, now that we are at last ready, it rains, the weather turns against us, what will the camera do? The signs are bad, but we hope for the best.

Company "A"
The Truth

The following is a conversation which was heard during the time this Company was undergoing the Annual General Inspection:

Inspector to Pvt. Dahlstrom, whose shirt was unbuttoned at the collar: "Is that shirt too small for you?"

Pvt. Dahlstrom to the Ins.: "No, sir, my neck is too big for the shirt."

Heard in a Day.

"How did it happen Oexle?" (Anybody)

"Kin I have a baseball?" (Everybody)

"They can't get along on maneuvers without me." (Corpl Stevens).

Many true words can be spoken in a joke. Therefore the following: Trash to be separated into as many G. I. cans as there are different articles of trash and then dumped into one truck and taken to the Dump at one load. How do they do it?

Will some authority on baseball please come and tell us what is wrong with our team, besides the coaches.

The writer, though not accomplished in this line, has to make these notes this week or the sole purpose of keeping the public informed that there still exists a Company "A" 29th Iinfantry and also to keep the Editor of the News from hopping us.

The regular reporter left this morning for the front line on Fivet ridge, May the angels guide him.

Welcome is extended to: Privates Exum D. Phillips, Vick and Bryson, newly joined, and may their days on K. P. be few and far between.

Company "C"

With the Company firing on the range and going on demonstrations to, we have very little to report.

Corporal Peters is suffering with a broken arm received at the open air Gym last Sunday.

Just ask Sergeant Mansfield why he sticks around the Company so close for the last week.

Bob Moore had a unique experience while at the races last year. He was at Churchill Downs Derby Day but unfortunately the pari-mutels has sent him to the cleaners the day before. With Morvich as favorite Moore stood outside the track ruminating his unfortunate condition when his attention was attracted to three individuals whose aversion for pork is traditional. The three were planning to get into the track without paynig and having agreed on a plan executed it as follows:

The first started through the pass gate and was stopped by the guard.

"Hey, where's your badge?" questioned the guard.

"Don't bother me guard," hurriedly said the man. "I left my badge at the hotel and am in a hurry."

"Who are you?" asked the guard.

"Oh," the man cautiously replied. "I'm the owner of Morvich"

The guard immediately adopted a fawning attitude and said: "Excuse me, sir, pass right in."

The other two conspirators in turn worked the same scheme. The second one adopted the roll of trainer of Morvich and the third the jockey of Morvich. In both cases the guard was sufficiently impressed and the Isrealites went in.

Bob having witnessed all this biplay decided the stunt was good enough for him to work. He started through the gate and was promptly stopped. He explained in a hurried way leaving his badge at the hotel and went through all the rigamarole the other three had gone through with. Then the guard asked:

"And who are you?"

Moore looked at the guard in distain and said,

"Me, you ask who I am, why I'm Morvich."

Our Baseball team defeated Hdqrs. Co. 5 to 4. It was a hard game up to the last inning; with two men down and two men on base Payne gets a single and scored the two runners. Of course you know who won.

---

The Company started preliminary rifle instruction a few days back and every one is packing the old pep that put us on top of the list yast year.

---

Three of our baseball stars, Payne, Brown and Crane have gone out for the Regimental team. The rest of the Co. don't think the team will be a success unless these three men make it.

---

I guess we had better get these few nothings in before the first soldier goes on the war-path.

We were all intensely interested in a pathetic scene a very interesting picture at the theatre the other night when, what was apparently the screen began to move to and fro. The audience as usual, made wild protest to the operator. The operator in his confusion, flashed on the lights and stopped the machine. To our surprise he had been throwing the picture on, "Pop Rowan's" bald head and not on the screen as he intended. Keep out of the front row Pop, we don't like to wait so long to see the movie.

"THE CAVE GIRL" HAS GORGEOUS SCENIC EFFECTS

Wonderful scenic background, action of tense thrills, moments of heart breaking suspense and a girl of primitive charm are the ingredients of "The Cave Girl," produced by Inspiration Pictures, Inc., and released through the exchanges of Associated First National Pictures, Inc., which will be shown at the Post Theatres on April 25.

The title role is being played by Teddie Gerard, an American girl whose name is a byword in the stage circles of London and Paris, where she has appeared in a number of successes and where she has been during the last three years. Miss Gerard makes her debut in motion pictures in "The Cave Girl."

Another well known screen actor who appears in this picture is Charles Meredith who has the leading male role. He will be remembered from his parts in Ethel Clayton's pictures. The remainder of the cast includes Wilton Taylor, Eleanor Hancock, Lillian Tucker, Frank Coleman, Boris Karloff, Jake Abrahams and John Beck.

FILMED IN THREE COUNTRIES

The long heralded production of "Sherlock Holmes," with John Barrymore in the title role, comes to the Post theatres on Sunday April 22, with every promise of being one of the most interesting films unfolded so far this season. The production was directed by Albert Parker, director of Douglas Fairbanks' earlier successes, and several productions for Clara Kimball Young and Norma Talmadge.

The story is adapted from William Gilette's stage play and founded on Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's stories. The picture was made in three different countries—England, Switzerland and America, the entire company being transported for the purpose. Ingenious lighting, effects and special settings, several of which were designed by Barrymore himself, give the production a consistent atmosphere of mystery and suspense.

THE GREATEST THING FOR THE AMERICAN YOUTH TODAY

By Tom Bright Lankford

If I were asked what I consider the best way in which an American Youth, who comes in the age limits, could do for his summer vacation I would say, from experience, a course in the Citizen's Military Training Camps which are being conducted all over the country.

Last summer I was out of a job for several weeks and was looking around for something to do. I had heard of this new idea the United States Army was putting over and investigated and the first of July found me with 3,000 other young Americans signed up for what was to be offered at Camp McClellan, Ala. I didn't know whether a bunch of hard boiled Army Officers would get me down there from my North Carolina home and work me to death in the hot summer days or let me loaf and do as I pleased. At any rate I went, and now I consider the experience I had there as one of the finest of my life.

I was rather anxiuos to see what this camp would resemble. I had volunteered in the Winston-Salem, N. C. Home Guard during a race riot at one time and I wanted to see if my new adventure would be anything like the old one, or if it would be like the R. O. T. C., S. A. T. C. or what. To my surprise I found it altogether different from either.

On arriving at Camp McClellan I learned that the training camp group was made up of high school graduates and college men for the most part, wanting to get some good physical training without cost. It was a nice bunch of fellows and, generally speaking, we all liked each other from the start. At first we were a little confused, home sick and almost ready to wish we hadn't come, but after being assigned to regular companies and knowing each other better we began to find satisfaction in what we had decided to do, and our actual training really began the first day, although we were not aware of it. We were graduated according to height and placed in squads, marched to and from delightful meals.

On the second day we were taken to Drill Ground No. 2 where we watched the regulars go through the things we were to try to learn to do We were kept busy from then on and at the end of a week it would have been hard for anyone to recognize us as the boys who first hit camp.

Then came talk of the rifle range and many of the boys dreaded this because we had heard how the nine pound rifles kicked and cut up if not handled properly. But we had excellent instructors and most of us came through the rifle work without any trouble. It seemed rather remarkable that no one got hurt, but if every man's mother had been there to give warnings, things could have been done more carefully than under the direction of those Lieutenants, Captains, Majors and even the old regulars themselves.

Field day was a great day for my company as it carried off her part of the honors. I was among the largest men in the group and was selected Captain of the "Tug-of-War" team. With the aid of seven other men the regimental prize was captured and our company placed in every event it entered.

There wasn't a dry dull moment from the time we got down from the train until the camp closed. Dancing, boxing, wrestling, swimming, track, baseball, tennis, polo, and many other wholesome forms of exercise were offered. It proved a good place for the prep school or college athlete to keep in good shape.

And somehow, I feel as though something should be said about the officers in charge. I saw Captain Conner and the other members of his staff grow thin and pale under the strain of the work they were doing. They were always planning something new for the amusement of their men. Often, on guard duty. I noticed their lights burning far into the night as they worked on plans for their company. It was real work, a man's job and when we fellows would talk it over we would wonder ho they stood it at all. It seemed to us that they were the poorest paid men in the world for the amount of work they were doing.

Civilians often think they would not like to be trained under such strict and harsh rules as one meets in the army, even, in the C. M. T. C. branch, but to the man in uniform it is known that is the only way it can be made effective. I do not know that there will be another training camp but if there is I hope to go and enjoy the life once more, and to improve my physique. I believe that President Harding knew the good this kind of training might do the country when, on one occasion while reviewing a battallion of C. M. T. C. men, he said that he wished there might be a thousand for every hundred going through with it.

If the camps are to be conducted again this summer they will be fine places for American Youths to spend a part of their time for their own good and for the good of their country. They come away from the camps with broader shoulders, clearer eyes, and with broader visions. They meet men from all over the United States, all kinds of types and thus know more about the character of the people. They change from drug store, fair skinned lounge lizards type of fop to real men, bronzed, hardened and trained to think quick and fast and to act at once. If any one not willing to believe the Army publicity matter, should like to know about these camps, from a fellow who has attended one, I should be glad to tell them more. My address is Harmony, N. C. Care of the Harmony Banking and Trust Co.

Service Club No. 1 Notes

NOTICE TO ORGANIZATION REPORTERS

All Co. notes must be in the office of the "News" by 4 p. m. on Tuesdays' of each week from now on.

Here we are again with all apologies for our non-appearance last week.

The regular weekly dance was held on Wednesday night, April 11th with several new faces among the gay dancers.

The B. F. C.'s held their regular meeting last Thursday P. M. at 2:30, when plans were finally made for a Woman's Exchange (Whose advertisement will appear elsewhere in this issue) and it is hoped that any one interested in this kind of an organization will take advantage of the many bargains offered by it. All ladies of the enlisted personnel are invited to join the B. F. C.'s

A special call meeting was called by the Service Club Committee last Friday evening, April 13th, when final plans were made for the big dance to be held in the New Post Gym.

Well, who said winter had gone? Anyone who happened to be at the Club last Tuesday evening could readily see that it had not as was evidenced by the crowd gathered before the open hearth baking their shins before the big crackling fire.

Mrs. Stevenson who has been visiting her sister, Miss Roe, returned to New York last week taking in the most interesting points in Florida on her way, accompanied as far as Florida by Miss Roe. Mrs. Stevenson has spent several months in Fort Benning during which time she has made hundred of friends among both the enlisted and commissioned personnel. To see Mrs. Stevensons smiling face was like a visit to your own mother and it is hoped that ere this year has flown she will be among our midst again.

The dance held in the new Post Gymnasium last Wednesday evening was the biggest success so far this season. The dancers were all dressed in country costumes and wore masks until 9:00 at which time many new faces were revealed.

Among the many interesting events of the evening was a short address by General Gordon and a beautifully rendered concert by the 29th Infantry Band.

The refreshments, consisting of a variety of cakes and lemonade, were enjoyed by all present and the music which was furnished by the entire 29th Infantry Band, certainly deserves credit for the wonderful music rendered throughout the evening.

The hall was beautifully decorated with flags and a quaint little booth erected in the center of the room and prettily decorated, furnished a comfortable place for the band.

There were hundreds of pretty girls from Columbus, four buses having been furnished for their convenience, and it is hoped that this dance has left such an impression on them that they will not hesitate to come again.

The total attendance for the evening could well be estimated at about 1000.

Miss Roe, the post hostess, is to be especially congratulated on the way the whole affair was handled.

EXAMINATIONS FOR COMMISSIONS SOON

Appointment is to Grade of 2nd Lieut.

1. A final examination of candidates for appointment in the grade of second lieutenant, Regular Army, will be held during the week commencing June 25, 1923.

2. This examination is open to all classes of eligibles as indicated herein and will be held to fill approximately eighty-five (85) vacancies in the combatant branches, Quartermaster Corps, Ordinance Department, Chemical Warfare Service, and Finance Department. It will not be open to applicants for the Phillipine Scouts.

3. Each applicant desiring to compete in the examinations should submit his application to the Commanding General of the Corps Area in which he resides, or to the commanding officer of the military post or station nearest his place of residence. The application will be submitted on the prescribed form (No. 88, A. G. O.), copies of which can be obtained from The Adjutant General of the Army, Washington, or from Corps Area Commanders whose addresses are as follows:

Commanding General, First Corps Area, Army Base, Boston 9, Mass.

Commanding General, Second Corps Area, Governors Island, New York.

Commanding General, Third Corps Area, Standard Oil Building, Baltimore, Md.

Commanding General, Fourth Corps Area, Fort McPherson, Georgia.

Commanding General, Fifth Corps Area, Fort Hayes, Ohio.

Commanding General, Sixth Corps Area, 1819 W. Pershing Rd., Chicago, Ill.

Commanding General, Seventh Corps Area, Army Building, Omaha, Neb.

Commanding General, Eighth Corps Area, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Commanding General, Ninth Corps Area, Presidio of San Francisco, Calif.

Commanding General, District of Washington, Munitions Bldg., Washington, D. C.

4. The regulations governing the submission of applications and the conduct of the examination are published in Army Regulations, 605-5, copies of which may be obtained by applying to Corps Area Commanders or Commanding Officers of posts and stations. Full details concerning examinations are set forth in those regulations and prospective candidates should familiarize themselves with the provisions thereof. In connection with the eligibility of candidates special attention is called to the following provisions of the regulations:

(a) Eligibility for appointment is fixed by law and requests for exceptions cannot, therefore, receive consideration by the War Department The age at the time of appointment must be between 21 and 30 years, and and a candidate must be a citizen of the United States.

At the time of the final examinations each candidate must be in one of the following classes:

(b) A warrant officer or enlisted man of the Regular Army having had not less than two years' service as much.

(c) A Reserve Officer or a member of the Enlisted Reserve Corps.

(d) An officer, warrant officer, or enlisted man of the National Guard.

(e) A graduate of a technical institution approved by the Secretary of War.

(f) To be eligible for appointment in the Philippine Scouts candidates must be male citizens of the Philippine Islands. The requirements as to age and examinations are the same as required for other branches of the Regular Army.

(g) Any civilian of the required age who passes the preliminary examination may, for the purpose of establishing his eligibility, enlist in the Reserve Corps.

5. Preliminary examination may be conducted at any time under supervision of Corps Area Commanders. This examination consists of an inquiry into the physical, moral and mental qualifications of an applicant to determine whether or not he has the requisite qualifications to justify his proceeding with the final examination. Such a preliminary examination will avoid inconveniences and unnecessary expenses to both the applicant and the Government in many cases.

6. The final examination is held simultaneously throughout the country and is the same for all candidates. The scope of the mental examination is such as to insure the Army securing men of the requisite educational foundations to satisfactorily follow a career as an Army officer. The elementary part of this examination embraces the subjects of history, grammar, geography, arithmetic, algebra, geometry, trigonometry and physics. The advanced part of the examination consists of a large number of subjects including mathematics, advanced mechanics, surveying, languages, literature, electricity, chemistry, law and minor tactics. Examination is required in but three of the subjects of the advanced group to be selected by the candidate.

7. Candidates for appointment in the Air Service, Engineers, Signal Corps and Ordinance Department are required to satisfy certain technical requirements, either by examination or by having graduated from technical schools.

8. The regulations provide liberal exemptions from examinations in various subjects according to the education, training and experience that the candidate has had. The granting of exemptions has been placed entirely in the hands of the examining boards and requests for exemption, cannot, therefore, be considered by the War Department.

9. Each candidate is permitted to express his first and second choice of the branch of service in which he desires to be appointed. In making appointments, however, while the preference of candidates will be given due consideration, the War Department reservies the righ tto assign them to such branches of the servece as may be necessary.

10. Should a number of candidates, in excess of those for which the examination s held, receive a passing mark on examination, those making the lowest mark will not be selected for appointment nor will they be placed on an eligible list for future appointment, as the experience of the War Department has been that such eligible lists are unsatisfactory both to the Government and to the individual.

IMAGINE.

Imagine yourself in Graustark amid romantic settings of George Barr McCutcheon's exciting adventure tale, which forms a magnificent background for John Gilbert's portrayal of Truxton King, an American who worships at the altar of Lorraine's beauty. Imagine yourself with him in all his stirring experiences. Truxton King, won by a girl's charm, dares uncounted dangers. When they are captured by revolutionists, he learns of a plan to assassinate six-year-old Prince Robin and to seize the government. Freeing Lorraine, he dashes to the town and interposes his body between the Prince and the tomb thrower, who loses courage and is herself destroyed.

Imagine then, the defense of the beleagured castle. When Lorraine's finance fails in a crisis, Truxton King saves the situation. Breaking through the enemy line, he brings the loyal army to the castle and battles gloriously for his adopted cause. Can you imagine his reward?

But why imagine? This exceptionally entertaining production, will be shown at the Post Theatres on April 23. Ruth Clifford is the ravishingly beautiful girl.

THE INFANTRY BOARD

The Infantry Board stationed at the Infantry School, is an advisor to the Chief of Infantry and an agency of his office. It consists of the Commandant and assistant Commandant, Infantry School (ex-officio) and from three to five Infantry officers and one Ordnance Officer.

This Board renders reports direct to the Chief of Infantry on any question looking to the improvement of the Infantry Service, either received by the Board from outside sources or originated within the Board itself. Suggestions are encouraged and welcomed from any person (officer, enlisted man or civilian) interested in Infantry arms, equipment, training, tactics, personnel, administration or morale.

The Board is assisted in its studies and tests by the efficers and enlisted men on duty at Fort Benning, by the many specialists on duty as Instructors at the Infantry School, and by the Department of Experiment which is equipped with shops and ranges for testing devices of all kinds.

Subjects under consideration by the Infantry Board at present include:

Beaveralls, Bipods, Marmite Cans, Power Carts, Dispatch Cases, Waterproofed Clothing, Compasses, Cleaning Solutions, Cleaning Rods, Flashlights, Rubber Heels, Hobnails, Machine Gun, Cal. .50, First Aid Packets and Pouches Range Finders and Carrying Device, Pack Saddles, Gymnasium Shoes, Uskide Sole Shoes, Sights, Front, Rear, Receiver, Quadrant, Telescopic, Rifle Stocks, Targets, Fordson Tractors, Sub-Caliber Tubes for 37 M. Guns.

The following projects have been completed this month by the Infantry Board and forwarded with recommendations to the Chief of Infantry:

Gallery Rifles and Ammunition, Machine Gun Mounts and Tripods, Practice V. B. Grenades, Bayonet Scabbards, Larkide Sole Shoes, Chemical Warfare Service Material, Armor Piercing Ammunition, Hand Carts, Experimental Field Targets, Panels, Tables of Equipment, (Peace) Tables of Basic Allowances (War)

After consideration in the office of the Chief of Infantry and by other branches concerned, each project will be acted upon by the War Department.

From time to time the Fort Benning News will publish reports showing what progress the Infantry Board is making no others of the above projects and what new projects are being considered by the Infantry Board.

Training Regulations.

A current question among officers of the Infantry, and, in fact all branches of the service is, "What is the status of the new training regulations that are to be issued in accordance with the policy of the War Department?"

A brief statement as to their method of preparation and publishing might be of interest and, as the majority of all infantry training regulations are being written and prepared at the Infantry School, the Fort Benning News can, by giving an insight into the preparation of these regulations, answer this question to a certain extent.

The policy of the War Department in preparing these regulations was to have each branch of the service write such regulations as were particularly applicable to their branch. The general staff is to write, and prepare, such regulations that are applicable to all branches, such as Field Service Regulations, etc.

The regulations are being prepared to embody all instructions, the distribution will be to the enlisted men, the officer and organizations as it applies. The private will eventually have his file of regulations as will the officer, and in this way, this benefits of the regulations will be derived by every man in the service.

Each regulation is on a specific subject, where references are required, proper reference is made to other training regulations by number. The regulations are grouped under ewenty-seven principle headings which are given below. The number preceding the principle heading indicates the general subject and the number following the dash indicates the particular subject. For example the number assigned to the Infantry as particularly applicable to the Infantry is 420, and the Drill of the Rifle, squad, platoon and company will be stated as 420-50. The principle headings are as follows:

10—Doctrines, principles and methods. 15—Filed service Regulations. 25—Commissioned officers. 50—The soldier. 75—Specialists. 100—General training. 300—Equipment. 310—Instruments. 320—Weapons. 330 — Ammunition. 340—Supply. 360—Animals. 380 — Transportation. 400 — Quartermaster Corps. 405—Medical Department. 410—Ordnance. 420 — Infantry. 425—Cavalry. 430—Field Artillery. 435—Coast Artillery Crops. 440—Air Service. 445—Corps of Engineers. 450 — Signal Corps. 475—Combined Arms. 500—Field Training. 550—Staff Manual. 600—Rules and land warfare.

Of the above general subjects, the Infantry Board has been preparing and has already submitted a great number of the following regulations:

*50-15 The Soldier, instruction dismounted without arms.
*50-20 The Soldier, instruction, dismounted with arms.
50-25 The Soldier, instruction with bayonet.

In addition to the above list, the Tank Corps at Camp Meade, Maryland is preparing regulations relative to the drill, marksmanship, repairs and tactical employment of Tanks.

The routine that a training regulation prepared at the Infantry School follows is the direct cause for the time required to publish them. The subject of the regulation is assigned to an instructor at the Infantry School who is an expert on the matter. He writes the original regulations, submits it to the other instructors on the subject for remark and criticism. Such corrections as required are made and the revised copy, after approval of the Assistant Commandant, is submitted to the Infantry Board. The Infantry Board reveiws and forwards the regulation to the Chief of Infantry, who, in turn, sends duplicate copies to other interested branches for their information, co-ordination and remarks. With very few exceptions the original copy is returned with the remarks of the various branches to the Infantry Board for reconsideration. These remarks, corrections, etc., are acted upon and the regulation is returned. In order that the returned regulations may be properly coordinated and the same terminology used thruout, they first pass through the hands of an editing board that carefully reads them with the idea of coordination, seeing that the plates agree with the text, paragraphs are properly numbered and lettered, that obsolete terms are not used and also read them for grammatical structure and general clearness. They are then forwarded to the Chief of Infantry for his action, incorporating all suggested and approved changes.

From this routine, it can be readily seen that the process of publication is naturally slow. The work is progressing very rapidly and it is hoped to have the greater majority of the Infantry regulations in the hands of the Adjutant General by the end of May.

These regulations when published will be the authorized regulations of the service and will be supplied free, according to the authorized distribution, to officers and enlisted men of the service. Those who do not receive copies or who desire additional copies will be able to procure them from the Government Printing Office for a nominal sum. Infantry officers are advised to keep their file of training regulations complete and up-to-date as they contain the only official enn ciation of the principles and doctrines approved by the War Department. With these regulations in their possessions there will be little need for officers to invest their hard earned cash in costly private publications on the same subjects, many of which publications contain matter not in harmony with these official documents.

A THING TO TRY ONCE.

We have in our midst a store that is in operation for the convenience of the military personnel and it is up to these persons as to whether the margin of profit is small or large for the greater the trade the lower the margin of profit for the same overhead will take care of a considerable increase in trade.

But as you are not very much interested in the margin of profit but whether it is convient to you or not and in this case it happens to be for we have the Post Exchange in mind. A few of the lines carried are as follows: A complete grocery store and butcher shop. Fresh vegetables in season are on hand at all times as well as fresh fruit.

If it is bottled drinks, magazines, clothing to a certain extent, cigars, tobacco, novelties, thread, shoes for both the ladies and the gents or anything else try the Main Exchange and you will probably find it.

If you crave ice cream, soft drinks, milk, and cigars and cigarettes to a limited extent then go over to the South end of the Service Club and step right up to an up-to-date soda fountain and satisfy that feeling.

If it is auto accessories that you need go over to filling station and get just what you want. A complete line of Ford spare-parts has just been added to the already large stock. And tires why man they are so cheap here that they wear out the Benning road bring those tires in here so fast. If however, you don't crave spare-parts but only gas and oil they can fix you up with that too.

THIS CERTAINLY IS A THING TO TRY ONCE.

THAT SATISFIED FEELING IS GREAT.

It is on rare occasions that we get that satisfied feeling but we made a startling discovery shortly after we arrived in Columbus taht when you had a dandy dinner already and on the table all taht you then needed was some Real bread cake, cream-puffs, and all of those nice fixing that you can buy so reasonably at Everidge's Bakery. If you are giving a party and don't have the inclination to do the baking just step to your phone and call the bakery and they will take care of your wants. Or if on the other hand you want some nice butternut bread just tell them about it and presto you have it.

BASEBALL.

Infantry Wins 2nd Game from Aggies, 5-4 Inf. gets four point lead in 1st. Inning.

When the North Georgia Agricultural College met the Infantry for the second game last Monday they felt the sting of defeat again when the Infantry put a total number of five Blue across the Home plate to the Aggies four.

The Aggies were wild in the field and got rather careless with the onion in the first inning and as a result the Blues slipped in a total of four runs.

McNutt took the mound for the Doughboys and pitched good ball in the entire game while the Aggies put their southpaw, Humber into the box for their pill tosser and he sure had good stuff on the ball after he got warmed up.

The feature of the game however was a triple play pulled by the Aggies in the fifth inning. Honnen was holding the second bag in place and had just started a steal and Fountain was on the 1st bag with McCarthy holding the hickory. It was just at this time that the pitcher threw Mc's favorite and he lammed it for what should have been a cracker-jack hit but the Aggie shortshop grabbed that pill on the tip of his fingers and hurled it to second and from there the pill went flying to first. When this frakus started the Blues had no men out but when it ended the Blues let the Aggies dmonstrate their batting ability.

The box score:

| INFANTRY | AB | R | H | PO | A | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fountain, 2B | 2 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 5 | 0 |
| Honnen, SS | 2 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 2 | 1 |

The Summary:

Three-base hits, Kgelstrom, Nelson; Two-base hits, Parham; Base on balls, off Humber 3; Struck out, by McNutt 2, by Humber 4. Hit by pitcher Parham by McNutt; Time of Game 2:05; Umpires, tewart (plate) Parks (bases).

TENNIS

BLUE IS VICTORIOUS OVER TECH IN TENNIS.

By Brooke Leman.

The Infantry Blue waved triumphantly over the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech in fast singles and doubles tennis courts. The Doughboy net quartette won four out of five matches. The sixth was cancelled on account of darkness.

The Blue team won three out of four singles starts and Finley and Van Vliet, Infantry doubles aces, mopper up in the twin matches by decisive scores in straight ets. In the complete tournament out of eleven sets played the Blue racket sharks copped nine.

In the first singles match Van Vliet, Infantr ysingle champ, defeated McIvor, Tech's bright star, in two sets, 6-2. The Tornado player uncorked a hard, brilliant style, but was unable to successfully cope with Van Vliet's superior service and placements.

Finley, of the Infantry, followed with a win over Mathewson, of Tech, in straight sets, 6-1 and 6-3. It was a fast and interesting match but Finley showed a clear superiority from the start.

Murrah, of Tech, and incidentally a Columbus lad, carried Tech to victory in the next match, and this was the only success for the Tornado. Murrah defeated Switzer in the closest fought match of the afternoon. He took the first set, 10-8, after a round of play which brought the big gallery to its feet time and again. Switzer staged a hard rally in the second set and won, 6-4, but was unable to continue the pace and drpoped the third and concluding set, 6-1.

Whittemore, of the Infantry, won over Van Winkle, Tech, in straight sets, 6-3 and 7-5. The Tornado netmen came back in the second set with a determine spurt, but could not stave off defeat in a closely played match.

Van Vliet and Finley, National American Legion doubles title holders, won the only double bill of the afternoon. These two racket wielders smashed to a victory over Tech's crack pair, McIvor and Mathewson, in straight sets, 6-1.

In spite of the apparently one-sided tally, it was a very interesting and hard fought match. The Blue pair showed a better all round game but the Tornado artists forced them to extend all the way. Darkness prevented the concluding doubles go between Switzer and Whittemore, Infantry, and Murrah and Van Winkle, Tech.

BENNING DEFEATS WOFFORD TEAM ON FORT COURT

Infantry Makes Clean Sweep of Four Singles and Two Doubles Matches Wednesday Afternoon.

The lads from Wofford fresh from a victory Tuesday over Oglethorpe in Atlanta, met disaster at the hands of the fast tennis team representing Fort Benning on the latter's courts Wednesday afternoon. The doughboys made a clean sweep of the matches, winning all six, four singles matches and two doubles matches. It was not without effort that the Benning crew effected such a decisive victory. The Woffordites battled fast and furiously, but the age and experience of the Infatrymen stood them in good stead and they ran true to form.

The summary follows:

Singles.

1. Van Vliet defeated Lesesne, 6-3, 6-0.
2. Finley defeated Floyd, 6-1, 6-3.
3. Switzer defeated Childs, 7-5,6-3.
4. Whittemore defeated Dautzler, 6-4, 8-6.

Doubles.

1. Van Vliet and Finley defeated Childs and Lesesne, 6-1, 6-1.
2. Brand and Whittemore defeated Floyd and Dautzler, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2.

"ROBIN HOOD" COMING TO GRAND

Many fine horses were needed for the scores of bold knights appearing in Douglas Fairbanks' cinema version of "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood" ad the service of a recognized authority on "steedly points" was required. So one of the first things Mr. Fairbanks did upon deciding to screen this dramatic romance of the Twelfth Century was to summon the most generally recognized horsemen on the pacific coast. His name is Charlie Miller and with a lot of confidence in his ability Mr. Fairbanks turned him loose to assemble all the animals necessary for the production.

After Miller had accomplished his task and several scores of his selections were on the great tournament field in front of the riplica of King Richard's castle, ready to participate in the exciting jousting contest which is a feature of this picture, Fairbanks was rather disappointed over the fact that man yof the horses seemed unmanageable.

"Say, Charlie, are these the horses you picked out for us?" Fairbanks asked a little reprehensively.

"Yes, I picked the horses, but somebody else picked the riders," Charlie replied blandiy.

This was enough said to bring forth the famous Fairbanks smile.

"Robin Hood" will be the Grand offering for four days commencing May 9th.

CUTTING THE CORNERS.

(By Giggs.)

We still have a few KNOCKERS around yet but don't forget that the BIG BLUE just finished a couple of hard series with the Ga. Bull-Dog and the Auburn Tiger and it took a mighty sweet club to break even, so leave the hammer at home.

But at that it was a good game when one stops to think that the field was in awful shape and the players had to grab where they thought the ball would be.

Well I guess that our own Ty and his Detroit Tigers did not make any better showing on the same ground a week ago after their claws were all sharpened up for the Maple leafs.

Folks are still thinking about the show that we had at the Post Theatre last Sunday night with the class of picures hat are being shown and the Sunday night Vaudeville it looks as thou B. F. Keith would have to close up shop.

When the Golden Tornado from Ga. Tech arrives here for the net game next Saturday with her stars, McIver, Mathewson, Carnes and Murrah let it be said right now that Mr. Van Vliet and Finley are going to make the going hard this is about as sweet a pair as any one would like to see in action.

The old Grey Squirrel must have been away last Friday afternoon while the Infantry was defeating Gordon Institute for there were a few nuts out that would bust off when the Umpire would call a strike that the batter struck at and missed.

To bad that all the old has beens can't make the team this year but then you will have to admit that we have a mighty strong team in the field and it takes a ball player to make it and not what Y-O-U might have done years ago.

The hot stove league will start about December 1st so don't worry you will get a chance to HIT three hundred or better before 1924 rolls around.

In th old days you could hear people say that two heads were better than one well I guess that there is more truth than poetry in that when our own Hannah-Leman combination got together at the Driving Park last Saturday and took Catcher McCarty out and sent Milburn in to hit the little fellow came thru with a screamer to right field for three bases and saved the day for the Big Blue.

Pitcher McNutt is getting to be a regular La Cobb Claude got two singles and a double out of four times up and it was his hitting that kept defeat from our back door.

Lt. Fay Smith who has won fame on the various athletic teams in the Infantry School made his debut as an umpire last Saturday and the way that the little fellow handled the game was a treat to all, stay with it Lt. we are for you.

U. S. TO MAINTAIN STATUS OF OBSERVER AT LAUSANNE PARLEY

America's position at the forthcoming Lausanne Near East peace conference will be exactly what it was at the former conference—that of a friendly observer.

Richard Washburn Child, Rear Admiral Bristol and Joseph C. C. Grew, the observers who will represent this government, according to official announcement, were the American observers at the previous conference.

PINES.

The Philippine Islands are the only insular possessions of the United States where rubber may be grown, according to a recent memorandum from the Bureau of Insular Affairs. It further states that Major H. F. Cameron, Corps of Engineers, now stationed in Hawaii, is one of the best informed men on the production of rubber in the Philippines.

Major Cameron spent a number of years in studying the subject of raising rubber in the Islands. It is well known that the natives have long collected and sold wild rubber but the possibilities of growing and handling it commercially have only been learned since the advent of the American Army. The Philippines at present produce about 202,000 pounds a year, with the amount increasing constantly as new trees come into production.

KITCHEN POLICE BLUES

First we will go back a bit,
For a line on what started it.
'Tis claimed Bill had a notion
Just to start a war in motion.

Austria beat Serbia to a frazzle,
Over treaties Bill wouldn't haggle
He headedacross Belgium for France
For sometime he made them dance.

But Uncle Sam got in a hustle,
The Doughboys used their muscle.
Until Bill said Kamerad, I'll evacuate
The next train to Boorn Vill take

The call went all over the land
All stand to, and lend a hand
The people responded one and all
Big and little large and small.

They of whom we speak today.
Get no bugulers blast, no Hooray,
Just wait and you'll immediately see
Who skidded Bill, setting Belgium free.

He is not mentioned or cited
And is unknown in dispatches,
Don't show it if he feels slighted
Lots of rought stuff he catches.

Dishes and platters, Dishes and platters
In front flank and rear rattle and clatter.
A sea of them piled high, not a rift
All the bravest do is their best and shift.

It's do, tis and do that and on the run
Hoist hundreds of dishes as if one
Forever under a punk Sergeants wary eye.
No chance to pass anything on the sly.

No formations such as reveille and retreat,
If uniformed it sounds soft and sweet
Alas! a formality jam full of deceit
Of all men K. P. is most on his feet.

Were it ever proven who started the melee,
And even Kaiser Bill it proved to be
Perhaps justice, ministered full and free
Should yet give him some time doing K. P.

INFANTRY WOLLOPS GA. AGGIES

Hi Davis Gives Only One Hit.

The Infantry Men showed rare form when on last Saturday they greeted the North Georgia Agricultural College at Driving Park with two runs in the opening frame while the visitors were unable to hold the first bag in position.

Not once during the entire game did the Aggies show any serious intention of sending their men around the circuit. They were able to make only one hit and that was in the enghth inning when Clyatt got a single over first base.

Hi Davis took the pill in charge for the Doughboys and was in excellent form, he had complete control, speed and complete mastery of the situation at all times.

It seems as if our worthy opponents are trying to kill our pitchers as in this game as in the last the Blue pitcher was hit with two pitched balls. "Hi" stopped one batted ball with his head that knocked him goggy for a few seconds and then he stopped aonther with his legs. But the Doughboys claim that it is the stopping of the ball that counts and that any way it is done is alright, except that catching it in the hand is to be preferred.

McDonald held the mound for the Aggies. He is probably the best visitors mound hound that has appeared this season for he has the speed and the curves but he is wild and fate played against him as all of his unlucky breaks occured at more or less critical periods of the game. He was relieved in the eighth by Pound but he was pounded so badly that he held the mound for only one-third of an inning as he was wild. A south paw took his place by the name of Humber and pitched the last inning. He appeared to have good stuff.

Paris, Infantry right fielder got four hits out of four times up.

Shrimp, Milburn clouted three safeties in five times up, while Nelson rapped out a pair in four trips. Every man on the Infantry squad except two claimed at least one bingle and two of these were long distance drives. Kgelstrim dropped a triple against the left field fence ,while Honnen connected for a double.

Final score—Infantry, 7; Aggies, 0.

J. PLUV AND HERR HOODOO joined forces last Friday and both the Blues and the Reds—I mean, Aggies—had to withdraw in confusion. However, the Blues had been boned up of recent date on the 'Withdrawal' so the movement was made without much confusion.

MATHEWSON AND THE GIANTS—you couldn't dissociate the two any more than you could have a watch without a main-spring—Mathewson, tall, even tempered resourceful, supreme in his craft, masterful in his poise, no pose or mannerisms, no bluster, just the natural artist to his finger tips, reserved and even different off the field, was looked up to by players and fans alike.

THE PUBLIC IDOL ROLE sits best on those who are unaware of it. Eddie Collins, of Philadelphia Athletics days, like Mathewson, never seemed to care about basking in public approbation, yet each gripped the public. The style, the skill, the unstudied, boy-like agility of Collins are all his own. It always seemed to us that among his fellow players of the champion Athletics, a wonderful team, his was the best influential single figure.

OTHER CITIES HAVE THEIR IDOLS who are nationally known and will be remembered for ages. The player's skill of Cobb in Detroit and Speaker in Cleveland is too great to overlook. Cobb far and away is the most vivid and compelling personality in Detroit baseball. In those respects and in his ability, originality and daring he shines brilliantlly as a national figure. He could hardly be less than supreme as a local Detroit figure. Speaker and Lajorie outglow all the rest in Cleveland baseball, and Speaker, the equal in skill of Lajorie, outdoes him in usefulness. He brought Cleveland to the top and perhaps no other baseball leader ever won the genuine regard and civic backing and deep regard that are Speaker's in Clveland.

BROOKLYN AND CINCINNATI have had no really outstanding figures who have had great national influence. Wheat is more closely associated with Brooklyn than any other of its players. Roush, of Cincinnati, has more personality—color, if you prefer the word. He has been a great player in the climb from the ruck of Cincinnati teams and has shown cincinnatians the best outfielding they ever saw. He has brought more in the way of sheer class to Cincy than any other man there in twenty years, whatever may be his personal grip on the public through his annual 'holdout.' His natural ability earns him a place among the select.

WE KNEW nothing good could come of those attempts to establish a non-stop dancing record. Now see what happens—one man runs amuck, a lady partner falls asleep while dancing, a couple lose their heads and decide to dance together for life and then along comes the law and says thy've gotter quit such fool stunts.

NO WONDER that dancer ran amuck. Who wouldn't run amuck after listening to jazzamania rendered by the saxamaphone for forty circumnavigations o' the minute hand 'bout the face o' grandpa's clock?

WERE YOU AT THE AGGIE game Monday? If so, you heard the tons of advice handed out free by the would-be managers and coaches on the bleachers. This sure does test the religion of the managr on the bench; but ain't we got fun when we do it?

FROM SATURDAY'S PERFORMANCE we predict a higher place on the batting order for Parris. He shore did clout 'em; and can't that baby run? He is the fastest man on the team. If he could waitemount wouldn't he be a daisy for lead off man? Wonder if he ever led off.

WE HEARTILY AGREE with our contemporary of PUTTING THE THIRD ONE OVER about making this non-stop dancing a new branch of sport and formulating rules for governing it. We nominate her as the post representative at the first Fourth Corps Area contest.

INITIAL CONTEST ON ROAD IS LOST BY THE BLUE NINE

By Brooke Leman
(Special to The Enquirer-Sun.)

Lebannon, Tenn. — CUMBERLAND UNIVERSITY, 5; INFANTRY, 3.

A certain fickle goddess called Fate played peculiar turns today when the Cumberland Bull Dogs defeated the Infantry in the first game of the Blue road series. Fate and the children of Fate, called breaks in the vocabulary of sport smiled beningly on the ferocious Bull Dogs.

The breaks came when they meant a ball game. Perhaps the most startling fact is that four of the Infantry runners perished at the rubber plate; Some may give opinions that it was erratic base running on the part of the Blue but, regardless of long chances taken, it's a pretty smiling piece of luck when four base-trotters go out by scant inches at the home station.

83rd FIELD ARTILLERY GETS MENTION.

The 83rd Field Artillery is feeling fine these days and actually struting a little but you can't blame them for they just got a copy of the Annual Report of the Chief of Artillery.

The report says that the 83rd Field Artillery is doing excellent work at the Infantry School along demonstration lines and is also engaged in valuable experimental work with motorized light field artillery.

Keep it up you Eighty-ehtrders and accept the hearty congratulations of the News as you are certainly entitled to everything that you can get.

BENNING AGAIN AT THE TOP

Another 100 per cent. Mark

Major Rumbough, Commanding Officer of the 83rd Field Artillery is in receipt of a letter from the Secretary of the Field Artillery Association, congratulating him upon the one hundred per cent. membership of the officers of the 83rd Field Artillery in the Field Artillery Association.

This means that every artillery officer at Fort Benning is a member of this association. That is some record.

Now Benning is one hundred per cent. in both the Artillery and Infantry Association and that is some record. Can any Post beat this? Or even do as good?

Both of these Association have done excellent work for their respective branches and certainly deserve the full support of all officers of their branch.

GOING INTO KHAKI.

Orders have been issued that this command will wear khaki commencing Wednesday, May 2nd at Reveille..

Look over your stock and see what you need and then order your uniform or uniforms from some advertiser of the News.

LEATHER BELTS.

Five thousand leather belts were recently received and immediately issued to the enlisted men of the Post. They sure make a wonderful improvement in the appearance of the men if their uniform fits well. In case the uniform does not fit well the appearance is anything but pleasing.

RIFLE USED DURING WORLD WAR AT BENNING

Fired by Private Webster

When Private Swall of Company "C" 29th Infantry drew a new rifle No. 721245 last month it was all covered with the usual cosmoline so he had to clean it. During the cleaning process a small roll of paper was pushed out and his curiosity being aroused he took this piece of paper, carefully unfolded it and found that the rifle had been used during the World War by Franklin Webster of Monterey, Ky.

Private Swall who was wounded in the arm "overseas" began to have trouble with his arm, went to the station hospital and from there he was sent to Walter Reed so he did not get an opportunity to shoot the rifle so it was issued to another man who made sharpshooter with it this year so we can readily see that this is a "he-gun" and there is not the slightest doubt in the world but what this noble rifle gave a good account of itself during the Meuse Argonne Offensive when it was fired point blank at seven Germans and again when it fired one hundred fifteen rounds at Death Valley.

The following is the note that was found:

"This rifle was used by Private Franklin Webster (2010213) Co. "I" 125th Infantry.

I fired this point blank at seven Germans October 7, 1918 in an attack on the Kriemhilde Stelling Line in the Meuse Argonne Offensive.

On October 11, 1918, I fired with this rifle 115 rounds in the 3rd Bn. of the 125th Infantry. Gassed Death Valley near Gismes, France.

Who ever draws this rifle can know that it has done its bit."

(Signed) Franklin Webster.

A Scoop.
A new era proclaimed by Dr. Glant's Miraculas Discovery.

THE MODERN GLANT MIRACLE is herewith prematurely revealed to the public through the untiring efforts of one of our correspondents. Patented April 3, 1923, Foreign rights reserved. Prepared and tested and vouched for by Dr. James T. Glant Sr. Chemist of Food values, D. G. L.

Space will not allow but a short outline of a modern miracle of the utmost importance to every human being on earth resulting from exhaustive research by the above named Scientist, a member of our general staff who conducts his experiments exclusively in the Station Hospital Mess.

As the following statements of facts may appear somewhat unbelievable to the readers it is desired to state that Dr. Grant is working in colaboration with such distinguished scientific men as Dr.'s Jueng and Frued of Vienna. Dr. Sidis of New York, and Emil Coue of Nancy to bring the benefits of his discovery to the relief of suffering humanity.

We have had the Stone Age, The Iron Age, The Golden Age, and now it appears that we are to enter the "Mental Age."

In Dr. Glant's elegantly equipped laboratory, the following tests, conclusions, and practical applications were arrived at.

That, as man partakes of food both organic and inorganic, his body can therefore but be a machine made of earthly materials, and inhabited by a Spiritual Mind, which is intended to control the machine much as the bodily machine is composed of such earthly materials as lime, water, salt, sugar, etc., transformed into the required molecular portions of food required by the internal organs of the body and such foods being needed as a fuel to operate it, and as the man of today clogs his bodily engine with tons of useless food, much as a mixture of gas, oil, water, and dirt would clog the motor of a car, the life of the machine is restricted to a very small portion of it's alloted span.

Therefore it was resolved to proceed on the problem by inductive reasoning, and knowing that our universe is controlled and permeated by electrical impulses, the principle of which is "That like forces and poles repel each other" pure food values stripped of their vehicles were combined to furnish the proper energy required by the body for all it's purposes, and reduced by an intricate method, to the smallest known or conceived particle of matter, "The atom," and transmuted into electricity, and stored in a battery. We therefore have a food that we cannot hear, see, smell or taste, but a transformer is attached to the battery, and one end placed against any portion of the body. The current is released, and immediately there steals over the subject a pleasant invigorating and soothing sensation, and all hunger leaves him. Food values are being transferred into his body in electrical form, and spreading to all portions of the body and are immediately taken possession of by the tissues, which use and store the energy according to their requirements.

This method of feeding the body relieves the bodily organs from all duties, the stomach, liver, heart, etc., are through. There remains no bodily waste to be carried off, and our body becomes only an electrical machine, each tissue and cell being a living electric plant maintained by it's source.

Now the internal organs of the body, which will be relieved from duty, will in succeeding generations disappear, or be utilized for some other hither—to undreamed of function, and the mind of man, "The driver" of our machine, which has heretofore been divided into two parts, the subconcious and the reasoning, may now combine themselves and work together giving man greater mental capacity, wisdom, etc.

The tests of this discovery proved to be entirely successful, experiments were made on numerous occasions.

A patient was operated upon. His stomach was opened. His kidney was cut upon, a number of gall stones were removed, and as he was previously aged and infirm, little hope was held for his recovery. Dr. Glant secretly subjected him to the Glant Electrical food current for five minutes, during his period of unconsciousness, and two hours later Doctors and Nurses were astounded when he bounded out of bed, his incisions entirely healed, and full of the joy of living.

The electrical food was tried on a team of mules, however this test was in a way unsuccessful, in that it was found tha tthe food reacted violently upon animals. The mules dashed madly away, playfully wrecking a Ford Sedan, and continuing their flight. One hour later, word was received that they had arrived in Birmingham, Alabama, unfatigued and rid of their surplus energy.

A runner was dispached with a small pocket battery containing 50,000 calories of energy for hi suse, with a message to the Mayor of New York City. He left in the morning. That evening a radio was received from the Mayor telling of his arrival in good physical condition at New York.

It can be readily seen how an obscure little experiment on such a lowly subject as food, led to a discovery so great in it's immensity that it's possibilities would fill volume. It is the key that frees the human race from the slavery of their physical body, and proclaims the new age. All hail to Dr. Glant.

Medical science as such will cease to exist. The science of cookery will entirely disappear, and in their place will appear huge electrical plants to transform food from solid substances to electrical atoms. These electrical foods will be classified according to their action on our electrical engine.

Now a little word for the Mess Officers, Mess Sergeants, Cooks, and Kitchen police, who's days are indeed numbered as such. Let them think of the many times when they were despondent over the apparent meniality of their duties. Over the hardness of their lot in working day after day without surcease to satisfy the gulping, guzzling appetites of their brother humans, and oftimes received in return, not htanks, but abuse.

Let Dr. Glant's achievement teach such workers that all work, no matter how lowly it seems, if it be applied for the common good, contains unlimited possibilities of achievement. But one thing is necessary. Apply the proper principle. There is a principle of right, but none of error.

If, in your work, your body merely performs the physical functions of your work, "Your are only a machine," someone else is the operator.

If, in your work you apply your mind, to conceive and percieve, always looking forward to some sound ideal for common betterment, then you are driving your own car and it runs smoothly.

At last the lowly Mess Sergeant, Cook, and kitchen police come into their own.

HAROLD CLIMBS HEAVENWARD

"For a thousand dollars I'd climb to Heaven and hang by my heels from the Pearly Gates!"

And all for the love of a maid, because that is just about what Harold Lloyd does, only it's a twelve story department store he climbs in "Safety Last," his new seven-reel Pathe comedy which will be shown next week at the Grand Theatre. The maid in the story is Mildred Davis, of course, and the perils Harold fearlessly overcomes for her sake furnish more excitement and laughs than ave ever been registered before on th escreen.

THE YESTERDAY.

Sgt. Goode contributed this. He is best known for his recent poetical success, "Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud."

I.
heard yesterday talking, and it seemed to say to me:
"I'm what mankind has made me, not what I hoped to be.
I did not bring the failures, my hours were bright and new.
I was the time alloted—the work was mans to do.

II.
I am what others made me, I had no
will or choice,
Through all the days of trial I was not given a voice.
If victory came man earned in his
was the faith and power;
If sorrow came, God sent it—I furnished but the hour.

III.
I came here empty-handed, a day that was to be.
And what I am in passing mankind has made of me;
I am their petty failures, their glory,
their success.
I am their souls' advancement, their shame and happiness.

IV.
I was not born in evil nor governed by the stars,
I brought to none high honors, to others
ugly scars,
Only my hours was numbered, I was the time for toil,

V.
I am what man has made me, not what
I hoped to be,
And so shall be tomorrow which soon
shall follow me.
Our days are good or evil, as each man serves and strives,
For days are but the records on which men write their lives."

THE INFANTRY BOARD

Headspace Adjustment

The Infantry Board has this week made recommendations concerning the method of making headspace adjustment on Machine Guns.

Machine Gun Record Book

The Machine Gun Record Book not having proved entirely satisfactory, The Infantry School has forwarded, through the Infantry Board, details to be incorporated in a new form of Machine Gun Record Book to replace same.

Liaison Between Branches.

There has been started a movement to create better liaison between the experimental departments of various War Department branches in order that each of them may know what developments are being considered by all other branches and activities.

Training Regulations.

The following Training Regulations have been submitted to the Chief of Infantry during the past week:

150-35—Marksmanship Machine Gun.
420-160—Combat Principles, Infantry Battalion.
420-170—Combat Principles, Infantry Regiment.
240-15—Indirect Laying, Machine Gun.
240-10—Direct Laying, Machine Gun.
420-150—Combat Principles, Howitzer Company Platoon.

These Regulations have been revised and edited by the Editing Board. Information has been received that Training Regulations No. 420-85, extended order, Rifle Squad, Platoon and Company has been approved by the Chief of Infantry and submitted to The Adjutant General of the Army for publication.

There are approximately fifteen more Training Regulations to be submitted by The Infantry Board to the Chief of Infantry and every effort is being made to complete this work by June 1, 1923.

Signal Corps Notes

The traffic and maintenance departments of the Signal Corps unite in extending to the readers of the News their utmost apoligies for their inexcusable delinquency in submitting their notes. In fact, we feel that it will be impossible to face the seething multitudes, who weekly read the News, and say that we have done our duty. We haven't. Although we haven't and know we haven't, we can only seek admission into the good graces of the populace by showing an effort to right this great wrong we have done them. To allow the subscribers a qualitative analysis of the integrity of our desire to square up, we offer a solid gold what not to the reader of the News making the greatest number of sentences out of the word "it."

---

The Signal Corps, with all of it's faults and delinquences, makes an ardent effort to be prompt, progressive and accomodating and above all, polite. To tell the truth, we are polite twenty-four hours every day, three hundred sixty-five days every year. This is our opinion of the maximum of politeness. Incidentally, the personnel of the Signal corps is composed of Americans. And investigation and even experience discloses the fact that the American people as a whole, are the most impolite people on the civilized face of the globe. You know that, most everybody does.

---

Once, in New York, an old lady, a stranger in the city approached a pedestrian standing on a street corner with "Pardon me sir, but I'd like to go to the times building, "and got this reply, "Run right along this time little girl but don't ever ask me again."

---

Again, a lady riding on a street car asked the conductor which end of the car she should get off of. He answered that it made absolutely no difference, that both ends stopped.

---

But the politest man I ever knew of—not he wasn't a Signal Corps man—was a Norwegian. A tourist stopped this man once and asked the direction to a certain city. The native bowed low, saying that he was very sorry, that he did not know. The tourist had passed on for about a block when he turned to hear someone running up behind him. It was the native, who stopped, blew for a moment and said, Just after leaving you, sir, I met my rother-in-law and am sorry to say at he also does not know.

---

Last but not least, I'll say that the Signal Corps works harder and longer than any organization in the Fort—except one.

---

We have the best telephone system in the army, except one.

Among our ranks are the best cultivators, reapers and distributors of the grand old "everything" — except one.

Motor Transport Notes

Sergeant and Mrs. George Taylor entertained at their residence Sunday April 23, 1923, a number of visitors from the city were present. A delicious menu, consisting of chicken salad, saltines, brick cream and cake were served, the occasion was an enjoyable one.

---

Private R. R. Lee one of the membersof the —K-A-C-K Club seems a little down hearted since his New King Tut straw hat got caught in last evenings showers.

---

Who was it that asked the butcher if he had any dog meat and he wanted to know if he wanted to eat it here or take it with him—ask McCarthy.

---

Just received a letter from Private Mack S. Davis, which reads as follows I arrived in Miami, Fla. a few days ago and believe me I am having some real sport hunting alligators, and wish to be remembered to Cook John Margan. P. S.—I have just finished a dish of black eyed peas and rice.

---

Clarence Clark another one of our old timers, but a recruit 1st Sergeant is no wliving on easy street awaiting his retirement, which will be some time in June, 1923.

---

NOW IS THE TIME.

---

When spring time comes it is quite natural for all of us to turn our thoughts to the great outside, and also to think about a change of clothing that would be a little cooler so if you will just drop into Blanchard and Booth Co. and ask them to show you what they have we think that you can find just what you want for they have ready-to-wear dry goods and notions all in the latest styles and shades.

Just step in once and take a look-see and see what you want. Take a look at their ad and then buy from "News" Advertisers.

Inf. School Detachment Notes

Our Detachment Commander returned from his honeymoon and reported a very pleasant motor trip to Washington, Baltimore and other points.

---

Sergeant Otto Siebeneichen of P. K. O. S. fame, finally got his transfer to the Army Band and has gone to his new outfit in Washington.

---

Wanted: A bugler to go on the maneuvers next month.

---

Sergeant Stewart never has explained why there was no meat in the slum.

---

Babe got Andy Gump into trouble and it seems like Engle was troubled the same way.

Medical Dept. Notes

We are very sorry to report our dietitian, (Miss) Estelle Carnes, sick in hospital, all are looking forward to a speedy recovery.

---

About four members of this detachment have been gathering violets in and around Columbus, Ga. We wonder if this is some new sport of merely a way of passing the time. Brown, Lester and Orr are the founders of this enterprise.

---

Private 1st Class William A. Taylor, Med. Dept., left for Denver Col. April 24, 1923, as an escort for two patients being transferred to Fitz? patients being transferred to Fitzsimmons General Hospital.

---

The past week brought us a new pharmacist, whom we expect to make us a good man. (Lee Allen, Jr.)

"THE EDITORIAL"

Any publication that contains one or more editorials is in position to accomplish good or do much harm to its readers.

Those persons who take time in this busy day and a great many do, expect and have a right to expect that the contents of an editorial are based on some fact that can be proven or if not based on a fact then calling the attention of the readers to certain improvements that are of current interest and if carried out would probably benefit the community. It therefore behoves the editor that he spend sufficient time upon his editorials so that it will convey the same meaning to the readers that he himself had in mind.

An editorial that contains vague parts or worse yet insinuates certain things so as to give the reader misinformation or leads him to believe that certain things exist but which do not exist in reality is unfair to the reader and should not have a place in an editorial. Such "stuff" can be used elsewhere in the paper as fillers.

We admit that an editor has a great liberty in writing his editorial but nevertheless he should be careful that misinformation is avoided, so that his readers are not misguided.

THE ROUND TOWER.

It is always a pleasure to receive a new publication from another station and this week it was our good fortune to receive the "Round Tower" a classey little get up by the Third Infantry at Fort Snilling, Minn.

This is a neat little get up and should be an added morale builder to the men and officers with their ladies at that station and also it gives something to look forward to even if you know exactly what the "dope is" that each publication will have in it.

Go to it "Round Tower" and may you have the best of luck and meet with the best of success.

WHEN YOUTH TAKES UNTO ITSELF WINGS.

In this age of progress many strides forward are being made. The young of our species, especially those belonging to what in former years were of that gender known as the "gentler sex" can now, due no doubt to environment, training, and heredity, perform feats which within only a decade past would have led either to the old woodshed or the room upstairs, behind whose closed doors scenes, good for the soul but to painful to relate, were enacted.

The flappers are women in sophistication and the floppers are men in experience.

Even the very young are possessed with such remarkable increased judgment and sense, compared to the very young of a few years ago, that it is now no uncommon thing to see high powered automobiles roar past on highways with a youngster behind the wheel who, from his or her general appearance, can be not more than thirteen or fourteen years old, the age when we old foggies were allowed to drive the old horse only when the "old man" was sitting in the buggy with us. And in this manner does youth take unto itself wings.

Some states require drivers of motor vehicles to have a license. Others require a certain age, usually a minimum of sixteen eyars and it is generally conceded that a certain amount of mature judgment is required to operate with safety an automobile truck, or motorcycle. Yet so Advanced has the youth of this day become that even now "kids" are driving cars who "in the good old days" would have been classed as infants. Such a condition exists in Columbus and Fort Benning and, although there are city ordnances and military regulations fixing the minimum age limit, we cannot but feel—being an "old foggie"—that such practice is, to an extent, a menace.

Here's hoping nobody gets his or her neck cracked and, in these days of high repair charges, no carse smashed all because some parent thinks that his or her child is so much "brighter" than the average run of children.

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

Chapter VI. Part 3.

That Which Still Dealeth With The Recruit.

At last cometh the day when the Recruit receiveth orders to go and join his company.

This giveth the Recruit much joy for he now thinketh that he is a real soldier and that all blessing of a real soldier will be bestowed upon him but alas he still hath much to learn about the ways of the Army of Samuel.

When he arriveth at his company he thinketh that he wouldest go right in and shake hands with the captain but behold a first Sergeant and a Company clerk standeth in the way and asketh what is wanted and when the Recruit sayeth that he is a new soldier and desireth speech with his new leader the First Sergeant is gracious and bears such message to the captain, and the captain sayeth, "sendeth me this man and let mine eyes behold him and may be He who bestoweth all blessings see fit to send me a good soldier."

After the Captain and the Recruit have had conversation with each other the Recruit reporteth to the first sergeant and the first sergeant sendeth him to the supply sergeant who issueth the Recruit his equipment and the Recruit feeleth thankful to all persons and especially to the Captain, first sergeant, and the supply sergeant.

But the supply sergeant giveth the Recruit not three or four things but many and then more and then still more and all the while he maketh careful note of each ietm. But after a while the Recruit receiveth all and then there appearth another man who telleth the Recruit to follow him as he wouldest take him to his tent, the Recruit again feeleth thankful and believeth that the Army of Samuel is great.

When the Recruit starteth for his tent he discovereth that he cannot carry all those of which he hath received and sayeth that he desireth help.

Many men are cheerful in the Army of Samuel and so many hands take hold of that which the Recruit hath just received and again the Recruit sayeth that the Army of Samuel is great.

Alas, Alas when the Recruit arriveth at his tent with his load his eyes behold not one man or one hand that so cheerfully offereth to assist him move all of his equipment. Nor is that all, the Recruit seeth not nor doth he ever find any of this equipment which hath disappeared like unto dew in the morning sun.

It is by experience that the Recruit learneth, also he soon learneth that his days of learning are notyet over nor that he is as yet a real soldier.

When he desireth to go to town and asketh the first sergeant for a pass he learneth that he must know his "General Orders" fourteen in number and that until he knoweth these he receiveth not a pass.

That is not all that the Recruit learneth for he soon findeth out that if he be so careless as to go to mess with hair not kempt or dirty hands or fingers nails in mourning that his Corpl. will send him from his mess to make himself aright. When this is done then may the Recruit return and partake of the meal if there be any left.

He also learneth that he must keep his hair cut short and should he fail in this then so may willing hands, unseen, seize him and clip his hair for him. A Recruit that hath his head clipped looketh like unto an ape and that is not to the credit of any man. Another thing that he learneth is that he must put water and soap upon his body and wash it thoroughly and if he objecteth and sayeth that he youldest not do so, again many unseen hands seize him and there is much rejoicing as the Recruit is escorted to the bath house.

At the bath house it giveth many persons with many scrubbing brushes and much G. I. soap and the Recruit receiveth his bath and this is as it sould be for the regulation requireth all persons to bathe.

But it is by experience that the Recruit learneth unless he is wise and doeth what he is told and ask not many foolish questions of why this and why that.

Also the Recruit soon learneth that the older soldier send him upon many foolish errands such as three yards of skirmish line, or the key to the parade ground and other foolish things.

But soon the Recruit beginneth to learn and then he beginneth to "catch on" until soon he knoweth what the older men know. Then when cometh the day when still more new Recruits joineth the company he hath his sport with them and it giveth him much joy and merriment for it is so done in the Army of Samuel. Selah!

THINGS TO TRY ONCE.

When on Guard.

1. Forget to turn out the Guard when the officer of the Day comes over to the guardhouse.
2. Letting the O. D. walk between you and your prisoners.
3. Going to sleep on your post while the O. D. is inspecting the guard.
4. Letting a prisoner escape.

The Jist of Life

(Pearl Lillian Truman.)

A lady was crying one day when her litlte niece came to her and asked her what was the matter. She said, "Oh, I've got the blues." The little girl put her arms around her a moment then went away for a little while. Then she came back and looking at her auntie sympathetically, she said, "Auntie, is you still purple?"

An English bachelor nobleman was extremely averse to children and he objected to any of his tenant's children coming anywhere near him. He had a gate keeper, however, whose wife presented him with a young son. Upon hearing of the event, the nobleman dashed down to the gatekeeper's cottage and wrathfully exclaimed, "I put you here to open and shut the gate but not to propagate."

A dowager duchess was once riding in her coach with a few other passengers and when the coachman tried to make a sharp turn the coach turned over, burying the duchess and her companions under their luggage. Her Ladyship called out to the coachman, "John, John, pull me out. The black legs are mine."

Valerie, aged seven, is deeply interested in the wonders of the construction of her own small body and one morning was inquiring into what occurs when, in her rather athletic play, she gets bumps, bangs and bruises. Her mamma was trying to explain to her the structure of her skin and why a blue spot appears when she gets a bang and why a red spot comes when she knocks part of the upper skin off of her knees. After listening to the explanation she thought a moment and then said, "O yes, when I get skinned up, it is the epidermis skin what busts."

Some time ago there was a contest held in Louisville, Ky., and a prize was offered for the one who could give concisely the best way to keep a husband at home. The winner of the first prize gave this method: "Feed the Brute."

Pat worked as a gardener for a nobleman and during a hunting party, the nobleman and his friensd dashed across a part of the garden upon which Pat had worked particularly hard. However, this particular gentleman was a bit more considerate than many of his class and after seeing the damage he went to call on Pat to make amends. Pat sat gloomily upon a fence and refused to go to work. The nobleman said, "Pat I will pay for the damage. Go on with your work." Pat sullenly sat on the fence swinging his feet. "What's the matter, Pat, aren't you ever going to work any more I told you I would make amends." "No, sor," said Pat, "I'd ruther have me gravance."

An Irish immigrant got his first job carrying a hod of bricks up to the bricklayers who were building the second story of a house. When evening came, Pat regaled the other hod-carriers with a rare joke he had played on the boss, saying, "I shure fooled the boss today, I been carrying the same hod of brick up and down all day, and begorra the boss thinks I been workin' all the time."

Trustworthy.

Drink to the thought that where e'er a man roves
He's sure to find something that's blissful and dear,
And when he is far from the lips that he loves,
He will always make love to the lips that are near.

29th Infantry News Notes

Service Company.

Will O'Leary please tell Willis why he threw a perfectly good young rabbit out of the car on the Cusseta road about two weeks ago.

We won another base ball game last Sunday, defeating Company "C" 16 to 6. Hall twirled great ball. The support he received from his team mates was of course, excellent. Kod Hall had never prior to this game pitched in a regular scheduled game and the fans were delightfullq surprised to see him put such an excellent variety of stuff on the ball, which completely baffle dthe Company "C" players.

Private Modlinka, who temporarily is busy with a Chineses occupation, holds out great hopes for the future, asserting that O. D. shirts will, hereafter, shrink only one inch per week, instead of three as heretofore.

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion.

Sergeant Davis is showing some speed since his promotion. He is owner of a brand new Ford.

Now what? Famous sayings by: Corporal Bold—"When I get discharged I intend to live the life of a backwoodsman, in the sticks"—Army life at Fort Benning, two weeks after pay day, is a bit too exciting.

Corporal Weiss—"When I get discharged—well, ask me then."

Private Conley—"One more rubbed out, that leaves 3 months and 28 days."—Did you say "approximately or exactly?"

2nd Battalion Hdqrs. Co. (ensemble) "Deposits, up-the-pole, ten-day-maneuver, show-fare, pay day, civilian clothes, fatigue, short-timers, etc."

Company "E"

Mr. Brown will go on the range tomorrow and that means all the target force will have to start working early and late to keep enough bull's eyes and spotters for his use.

The Major gave us a nice little piece of advic this morning when he said "Keep your mouth shut and your ears open."

We all hate to see Seabury catch these long guards—but better him than us.

Sergeant Jones is getting to be some sport these days. Top kicker was seen playing golf down town Sunday afternoon. He shakes a mean stick, so they say.

Company "A"

The offensive against Elliott Hill last week was a grand success and with the exception of a few colds there were no casulties. Heaven help that imaginary enemy if the 29th ever catches up with him. There will be no quarter given or expected. We may land him this coming month as we go out in the hills after him the fifteenth and will fight it out with him for ten days.

My friend last week mentioned the fact that I was going into action at Revere Ridge and used the expression "May the Angels guide him." Well, there are angels and angels, and I know the kind that "guided" me. First I tripped over a stub in the woods and nearly broke my neck and then a little further on when the Co. Commanders Class was right where they could see us I made up my mind that I was going to show them how to hit the ground. I did—right on a nice bunch of cactus and I have sure got to apologize to that angel for the things

Battery "A"

While out on the range a while back, one of our drivers started up his machine intending to come back to camp, but when he came to the crest of the hill, which was rather steep, he threw it in reverse, now Butts who ever heard of going down a hill in reverse?

Mystery—Why is it Sergeant McCann dives into his foot locked after every formation?

Battery "B"

We are sorry to report that we are losing Privates Hall and Trent. Wish that I said. But then, the maneuvers are not so bad—that they couldn't be worse.

Company "C"

The Company is sprucing up in general with new flower beds, and even Rosie the Company Mascot is getting her baths regularly.

Up-to-date 88 men have fired the record course on the Range and only two men failed to qualify.

Our Recruit Special duty men are now learning the rudiments of firing a rifle. Even Private Lister has landed himself a special duty job.

Our old reliable Mechanic Bidzinski has left us to sail on the seas of Matrimony, rather funny what influence a woman can have over a man.

Corporal Walton is counting his days until he will he-up in the great outside.

Company "F"

Well, the 2nd Battalion is on the rifle range and by the look of the scores, so far, we, the members of the 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, are certain of capturing the Prizes, also making the 1st Battalion's Record Score looks mighty small. Remember the "Swell Feed" Boys, if ye put it over.

Well a fellow certainly does hear many "Alibies" on the target range, such as: "Now L was goin' to take a half point right." "There's sompin' wrong with this rifle I know." "What did ju make on this range, huh?" I made forty-four, etc.

Of course "F" Co. is going to produce quite a few "Experts" what I mean—"E" Co. had better watch their Loving Cup which they won last year. It is due to change hands this year. and Old "F" Co. will be on the receiving end.

Company "H"

We owe an apology to the Champion Casino Player of Bohemia. Last week we called him the Champion of Russia and got roasted for it. To top the error he overwhelmed the Italian Champion thus acquiring the European title.

There were some motor driven tractor carts tried out last week by the Company. One made the first test O. K. but the other one broke down. Both of the mule drawn carts came through.

you the best of luck, boys, when you get back on the farm.

We have found another use for Corporal Harrison; Besides his other trades he is an Automatic Pistol Mechanic .

The Gun sections defeated the Lip Stick Department (B. C. Section) in a game of Baseball 36 to 2.

Private 1st Class Braley and Wallace have been promoted to the grade of Sergeant.

Through the habitual clumsiness of our ambitious Battery Clerk (Corpl. Crowsen) on April 18th he fell and broke his right arm.

Battery "C"

The Battery started preliminary pistol practice several days ago. By the patience and enthusiasm shown by the men at practice we believe that the battery will have a high percentage of qualifications.

Private Thomas (Blackie) Erdos is leaving us. He says he can get too many fight's on the outside to think of re-enlisting. We wish you the best of luck, Blackie.

Sergeant France our famous lady killer doesn't go to town very often any more. Wonder why?

15th Tank Battalion News

A big crystal goblet will break into more pieces than a little brown jug, if it gets a fall and this was illustrated in the first game of the season between headquarters and "C" company. The final score being 9 to 8 in favor of company "C." Batzell pitched a brilliant game held headquarters to a few well scattered hits.

Last Friday "C" Company discovered another pitching ace "Barrick" who as our friend Lemon would say proved arsenic to Company "A" sluggers holding them to five hits. "C" Company winning 6 to 5.

Corporal Bryon who sprained his ankle in the headquarters game was on the side lines encouraging his team mates along.

Team standing April 24th, 1023.

| TEAMS | WON | LOST | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| "C" | 2 | 0 | 1000 |
| "B" | 1 | 0 | 1000 |
| Hdqrs. | 2 | 2 | 500 |
| "A" | 0 | 3 | 000 |

Corporal Huber who has been in the station hospital for the past two months sick, is now well on the road to recovery and can see visitors. Anyone passing in that vicinity drop in and pay him a visit.

After a siege of several weeks illness. Corporal Allen is around once more. Although the Corporal lost considerable weight he retains his hearty laugh and good nature.

Sergeant Bridges our congenial member of the beauty M. P. squad, is back in the saddle after the siege on the target range.

Company "A"

Sergeant Allen has been sent out on the target range to prepare himself for the try-out for a place on the team. We are satisfied that if there is place to be got Sergt. Allen will do his utmost in securing it for benefit it will give company "A" in percentage. If Sergt. don't make good, it won't be his fault, for try is his name.

---

Private Orange has made a record for himself by showing if you try, how much you can accomplish! He said he wanted a chance and he has got it, and we want to see that when you leave the range you will be second to none.

---

Company "B"

Sack Fuller, if you will stay out of the exhaust of the motorcycle you will not have so many weeks to stay in camp, I saw you crawl through the other day and before you could get in camp you had one week. Keep your eyes clear and look neat Fuller, for Wednesday is near.

Say Mr. Hall, if you go to the institution again you will lose all of your brains. Look out Pal something is going to happen and you will have to be the judge.

McGuire, you have become a settled man here of late. Take life easy and have no fear for November is a little ways off.

Company "C"

A certain member of the company got permission from 1st Sergeant to speak to the Company Commander. The First Sergeant heartily gave him the permission sought, so after going thru the usual form, he was asked what was wanted which was something like this:

Sergt. Sir, I would like permission to marry.

C. O. Sergt, Why, have you such in mind?

Sergeant—

There's no use to wait or tarry,
I've enough of living alone,
At last I think I shall marry,
And build a nice little home,

The Sergeant posing as Xerxes, with good indications of pep,
But his pose stole away,
When the Captain did say ,
Sergeant, have you fully considered such a step.

The Sergeant calmly wiped his smile away,
And nervously said, "Sir for the past ninety days."
I have fully considered and found, no cause for dismay,
And since I am anxious, why! should I delay.

As the Sergt. was twisting and turning about,
And perspiration was fast coming out
When the Captain said, "Yes Sergt. you have my permission.
The Sergeant quickly changed his uneasy position.

He may have been stern, but he looked broken hearted,
Made about face, and from the Office he parted.
And back to his tent he freely tottered
Where his matrimonial step, had so seriously started.

Well Sergt. we praise you, although you've caused a sensation,
But you have Company's "C" full congratulations,

Company "D"

Company "D" is of the opinion that it can qualify 80 per cent. of Company "M" this target season. Of course for "D" Co.'s part, it can qualify 100 per cent. the darkest night, and is not worried, but by qualifying Company "M" will prove that "D" Co. is as good in instructing as in shooting.

Booker, the company "Shoe Butcher" still has the wrong idea about repairing shoes. For the hundreth time he has been told that he couldn't repair shoes with Barber and Carpenter tools, but he is still cutting half soles with a hand saw, pulling tacks with tweezers, smoothing the edges of the sole with a vibrator, polishing the edges of the sole with hair tonic, tearing the old soles off with wrecking bars, using tar for cement, using roofing nails for tacks, and an adz for trimming heels.

Company "F"

Members of Company "F" 24th Infantry that Fort Bennnig cannot do without:

Sergeant Anderson, head bouncer at Service Club.

Corporal Porter, Ph. D., P. D. Chief politician and head of the Bureau of Politics in Tent 30.

Private B. F. Cloudy, head block setter, Fort Benning Lumber Company.

Privates Alexander and Taylor, head bus boys at Handy's lunch room.

---

Company "I"

Very sorry to say that Corporal Reeves hasn't a thing to say about the last four ball games on Regimental diamond. All he can say is he "split even."

Heard at the Hospital It is nothing my boy but a little boil on the back of your neck, but you had better keep an eye on it.

Sergeant Butler's weekly talk—When saluting be careful that your thumb is held tightly against the first finger, not tucked in, nor left flapping in the wind, or the thumb and nose are in a very touching postion, because some think you are robbing the salute of its proper meaning.

---

Company "K"

What's the matter Sergt. Garrett? We haven't had a "Review" in a long time. Well that's right keep to post and there won't be any.

Corporal Jones (he-vamp) was in the Sunday seeking new Territory to Conquer, Loouout shacks.

Corporal Leonard (the Shiek) appeared to take cramps while Pitching for the Outlaws last Sunday until a soft voice was heard saying "go on kid" the joke is on you Corporal that was one of the Boys.

Company "K"

We regret to report the Sad, and untimely death of our "Company Commander" Soldier, Officer, and Friend, Captain W. I. Cole. We have heard these words in passing, from different members of Co. "K" "He was as a Father to us."

And as we think of these remarks, and think how we could probably have made his burdens of life much lighter if we had bridged the gap of Rank that seperate us, and said a few of these things to him while he lived and could hear them.

Our sincere Condolence go to his wife in her bereavement.

"RESOLVED" that from now on we shall make it a point in life to try saying, and doing those things which make lighter the burden of life for those over us.

One day last fall during the time that skunks were somewhat annoying at the post a Fort Benning lady and her five year old son were out walking for exercise. A Colonel who had been doing his bit in the SOS thought he would visit the front line. He got himself a horse and rode until he came to negro camp of this regiment he ran across a artillery regiment. A little beyond the negro sentry who was lying down near the brow of a hill. The colonel, thinking the enemy was near, stopped his horse and asked the sentry "where are they?" and the man of color answered in a whisper "over dar." The colonel dismounted and tying his horse in some underbrush crawled and squirmed his way up past the sentry to the brow of the hill.

"How far away are they?" asked the Colonel.

"'Bout five kilometers, suh"

(Brain storm on the part of the Colonel for some five minutes—four minutes fifty-seven seconds to be exact)

When the storm was somewhat dissipated the colonel thundered, "What do you mean by whispering around here when the enemy is five kilometers away?"

"Suh, Ise god a bad code."

Sergeant Oleboi says, "Brand the word 'forward' on your brain. Always obey it. Go ahead and keep going. No soldier was ever decorated with shoulder straps for marking time. Not even Jefferson could make the Russian a Democrat."

BLUE NET TEAM DEFEATS AGGIES

Doubles and Singles Matches Won From Dahlonega Boys By Infantrymen Yesterday Afternoon at Fort.

Winning all the singles and the one doubles match, the trusty crew of Benning swamped the North Georgia Aggies on the local courts last Saturday.

It was a one-sided contest throughout, the Infantrymen winning all the matches hands down.

Once more Jupe Jluvius threatened to take charge of th eevent but Old Sol came to the rescue and by 3:30 the courts were in readiness for use.

The Doughboys played up to their usual form, thought the lack of competition made it an easier affair for them.

Not one of the local players had to exert himself to cop his match. The North Georgia Aggies only brought three players as a team, necessitating the playing of only one doubles match.

Finley, playing number one for the Blue boys, swept aside Brookshear to the tune of 6-1, 6-2.

Switzer, playing number two, had an easy go, taking his match from Neaders by a count of 6-4, 6-1. Neaders exhibited some neat tennis in the first set, but weakened in the second.

Brand, playing at number three, swept by Mague, 6-1,6-0. This was Long Tom's first appearance on the hard courts as second player. He's a southpaw, having a natural advantage over every opponent.

In the doubles, Van Vliet and Whittemoore for Benning, whitewashed Brookshear and Neaders by the score of 6-1, 6-2. This, too, was the first pairing of the two local players in a match game and they exhibited some very clever team work.

Summary:

| INFANTRY | | AGGIES |
|---|---|---|
| 1. Finley | defeated 6-1, 6-2 | Brookshear |
| 2. Switzer | defeated 6-4, 6-1 | Neaders |
| 3. Brand | defeated 6-1, 6-0 | Mogee |
| 4. Van Vliet Whittemore | defeated 6-1, 6-2 | Brookshear Neaders |

POLO TITLE IS WON BY 29th INFANTRY

Twenty-Ninth Wins Dierks Trophy—Blues Win the Consolation Cup.

Last Sunday afternoon the Dierks Polo trophy was won by the 29th Infantry when they defeated the 83rd Artillery 7-2.

The warm afternoon proved to be an added inducement for the military personnel and a large crowd of visitors from Columbus to witness the final act of the contest for the polo championship of the post, which was suspended in what might have been a tragic manner several weeks ago when Capt. Betts of the 29th Infantry team was injured during the fast game between the 29th Infantry and the 83rd Artillery.

The play began in the 7th period with the 29th Infantry getting a shot at the ball, the officials of the final game between the 29th Infantry and the 83rd Artillery having decided that the Cannoneers committed a foul. The final score was 7 to 2, the 29th Infantry having rung up five tallies while the Artillary outfit made one. The score at the end of the sixth chukker, when the back of the 29th Infantry team was injured, was 2 to 1 in favor of the Doughboys.

The Blue team, considered before the tournament to be the team to be feared in the tournament competition, played both the 29th Infantry team and the 83rd Artillery team for two chukkers each, after the Fort Benning polo championship had been decided. The Artillery outfit, who came first went down to defeat, the final score being 3 to 0. The Blue team then took on the Post polo champions for two periods and ran up a score of 4 to 1. This was the last game in which Lt. McKinney, the star of the Blue team was to play and he upheld his brilliant record by scoring two personal goals against the Artillery team and three goals against the Post champions.

The Blue team was presented with a beautiful loving cup as a consolation after the play last Sunday.

General Gordon presented the Dierk's Trophy to the 29th Infantry and the Consolation Cup to the Blue Team.

BETTER BE READY.

When the Grim Reaper calls, he insists that prompt obedience be given and many is the time when he calls suddenly and without warning. We had all better be ready so that when the call comes we will not leave of dependent ones pennyless and to do this all you have to do is step up to your phone and call City 459 and call for Mr. Charles W. Campbell and he will write you any kind of policy that you would care for, for any amount in "The Prudential Insurance Company of America." Better not delay, better do it now, better be ready. Dead persons cannot get insurance.

However if you are all fixed up on life insurance, have you your personnal belongings insured? Remember that one man can steal your auto, one fire destroy your property and maybe only one auto accident can cause you such a financial lost that you will be unable to enjoy the joys of life for sometime so to be on the safe side call up Phone No. 3 City for Mr. Chas. W. Woolfolk and get that insurance for fire or theft, or accident or all the bunch and be safe.

VANDERBILT WINS FIRST GAME SCORE, VANDY 5, INFANTRY 1

By BROOKE LEMAN
(In The Enquirer-Sun—Extracted.)

Nashville, Tenn., April 20.—Hi Davis and Slim Embry, aces of rival camps, fought for honors here today and while Davis, Infantry pride, outhurled Embry and copped hill top laurels, Embry won a ball game. Vandy topped the Blue in the first of a two-game series by a 5 to 1 margin.

Davis held the Vandy wrecking crew of four hundred hitters to eight safe clouts, while the Infantrymen lambasted Embry for nine screaming raps in seven frfames. It was the hardest hitting Embry has faced this year and it came fresh on the heels of his two hit game against the Auburn Tigers.

But while Davis pitched winning ball his team-mates had a sad day in the field and booted the pellet about the lot, meanwhile the commodores took full advantage of the miscues and registered up at the counting station. Two of the Vandy hits were possible fielding chances and both figured in the tally making. Six times did the blue lads boot the onion. All handles were removed as far as handling difficult chances were concerned for the Doughboys.

Infantry Threatens

The Infantry failed to threaten in the opener and the Commodores followed suit, but the Blue made matters hot in the second. Kgelstrom and Nelson singled. E. C. Davis popped out attempting to sacrifice but the runners advanced a base on Yon's scratch hit. The sacks were full. McMullin lined a sizzler out to center which Reece snatched and Kglestrom was tossed out at home on a beautiful peg.

THE WAY OUR TENNIS STARS went through the matches with Georgia Tech and Wofford College showed the real class of racket wielders which we have among us. We predict that were there to be another contest with the Atlanta Athletic Club there would be another story written from the one following our first engagement this season.

IT IS RARE that a five man team are on their game at the same time. Generally one man is somewhat off form. This was not the case last Wednesday afternoon when the Blues swept all six of the contests with Wofford.

THE RAMBLIN' BLUES lost their first game on the road trip to Cumberland. It appeared to be a case of the absence of that final punch to put over a winner, that little difference between a good team and a pennant winner.

OUR ACE, Tracy Davis, came forth in the new role of Pinch Hitter and made good big by syamming out a one bagger. Hi has an ambition, and that is to emulate one Babe Ruth—not Andy Gump's Babe—and change from a pitcher to a sluggin' fly shagger in the outfield. Hi could do it all right, but what would we do without our Ace?

AS A RACE, the Chinese are tea-totalers—sort of a Carrie Nation. Let that steep for a while, Brooke.

LITTLE DICKY KERR Whitesides pitched the Blue to a win on Thursday in the second game with Cumberland.

THERE IS A DISPUTE about the value of pitching, in baseball competition is PITCHING.

ED ROMMEL WITH THE SEVENTH PLACE Athletics last year won almost half of the sixty-five games won by his team.

WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE THIS BOY would do is he had the Yankee wrecking establishment behind him?

AND JUST THINK WHERE the Athletics would be without Rommel.

THE TEAMS OF BOTH BIG LEAGUES ARE OFF on the 168-game grind which will last into October. Much can happen in that time. For the sake of interest, it is hoped that the eight contestants in each league will remain fairly well bunched. At any rate, may the best teams win. Play ball!

THE WAY THEY ARE STARTING OUT there is going to be a great harvest of home runs this season. Wonder who will wear the crown this year!

AFTER TOURING AMONG THE WILDS of the Hinterland for about a week Col. Hannah and Lt. Leman returned to the subtly attractive red clay hills of Georgia with the Blues.

EVIDENTALLY VANDY gave our players a couple doses of ARSENIC, judging from the HECTIC struggles.

VANDERBILT BEATS INFANTRY IN LAST GAME ROAD SERIES

Played at Nashville, Score 6-1.

(By Brooke Leman.)
(In the Enquirer-Sun—Extracted.)

Nashville, Tenn., April 21.—The Vandy Commodores copped the last game of the Blue road series, when they won the fastest contest played on Curry Field this year. One hour and thirty-five minutes elapsed between the time Umpire Pique screamed "Play Ball," and the retiring of the final swatter in the last frame. Vandy won by a 6 to 1 score but it was a game full of more thrills than the box score will indicate.

Chief among these were the four rapid fire double plays which the Infantry inner circle pulled, thereby establishing a record for this dell of the woods. That little infield group of working like clockworking for the Honnen to Fountain to Nelson was Georgians. In the first five frames the stands were brought to their feet four times by swift doubling up on the Vandy men on the satchels.

Little Dickey Whitesides and Commodore Dicky Walker hulred the pellets for their respective crews. Both pitched excellent ball, but Vandy had a shade the better of the clouting, rapping the onion eight times to safe places in the daisy gardens, while the Infantryymen hit for six screaming wallops. Vandy's hitting was a bit more opportune and this was aided and abetted by four Infantry errors to such an extent that the Commodore got six tallies. Breaks of luck in the error column were peculiar for each team made four hoots but nary a Vandy error figured in the scoring while each of the Blue miscues made a tally possible.

No Oglethorpe Games.

The games with Oglethorpe University at Atlanta have been cancelled because of inability of the managements to secure Ponce de Leon park at Atlanta.

NOTABLE VISITORS ARRIVE.

Demonstrations this Afternoon.

United States Senator Harris, United States Senator George, United States Representative Wright and Governor-elect Clifford Walker all of Georgia arrived at the Post this morning as the guests of our Commanding Officer, General Gordon.

These Officials are paying a visit to Fort Benning to see for themselves just what the conditions are here and also to familiarize themselves as to what the Infantry School is doing and accomplishing so that at a later date they will have first hand information if it should be necessary.

General Gordon is entertaining these distinguished visitors at luncheon after which they will witness a demonstration of a battalion in defense.

This evening the citizens of Columbus are entertaining the visitors at a get-together dinner in Columbus.

24th INFANTRY PUTS ON BOXING CONTEST.

It Was a Great Night

The boxing contest held at the Post Gymnasium, April 30th was one of the best and fastest ever held at Fort Benning.

Bakers and Cooks School

Private Baker has started on a lone search for a typewriter with the letters "E," "T" and "H" badly worn.

He says tath he wants to form an acquaintance with the person who contributes the Proverbs of Solomon each week.

He has a deep admiration for the wisdom of Solomon, who became King of the Hebrews about 960 B. C. and showed his wisdom in forming an alliance with the then powerful king of Sidon. Solomon murdered (banished) his intefering brother who also wished to become king, and building a huge splendid temple for himself and a smaller one for Jehova, proceeded to recast the religion of his people. He lived in splendor from the taxes on his people, finally dying as his kingdom began to topple.

Private Crites who is to be discharged in the latter part of this year declares that he will not re-enlist. He apparently has begun to absorb some of the enterprising spirit permeating this organization. He announces his intention of purchasing a site of land midway between Fort Benning and Columbus and erecting a modern factory. He will place at intervals of two hundred yards along the road (error) huge signs reading:
WORN OUT, BLOWN OUT INNER TUBES AND CASINGS PURCHASED HERE. He estimates that within a few days he will have sufficient rubber on hand to begin manufacturing on a large scale. He will manufacture a new variety of non-skid chewing gum guaranteed to last throughout any ball game played at Fort Benning. Nothing wrong wit hthis idea.

Wanted—Information leading to the arrest of some person or persons who habitually steal, take, carry away, or eat the dog-meat placed in the Kitchen Ice Box for the private consumption of the School's four legged mascots.

Ryan says he seen Sergeant Math coming from the vicinity o fthe Ice Box wiping his mouth and loudly smacking his lips. Take that for what it is worth.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT NOTES

Second Lieutenants Alta Berninger, Bessie Jackson and Blanche Kingsley, Army Nurse Corps, spent two days of the past week in Atlanta, Georgia, where they attended Grand Opera.

The Hospital Area is beginning to look fine in general, with new flower beds and grass. The flowers receive their "daily baths" as Self is now on the job.

Our correspondence clerk, Sergeant Lowell D. White, woke up May 1st and found himself in a cotton uniform. On entering the office he tried to convince us that Tuesday was May 2nd, but as pay-day was May 1st he failed in that argument.

As the reporter was going to Headquarters the other day, two mosquitoes were heard quarreling, so after an inquiry the following conversation took place:

1st Mosquito: Corporal Moore has stopped chasing us.

2nd Mosquito: No, I was chased only the other day.

So after explaining to them that Corporal Moore had been relieved and that Private Slaughter had his place they flew away swearing they would watch for "Slaughter."

Have you noticed that the dry agents were unable to find Old King Tut's bier?

At ten, a child;
At twenty, wild.
At thirty, tame—if ever;
At forty, wise,
At fifty, rich
At sixty, good—or never.

The golden calf and the silk clad one are often the cause of trouble.

One morning a negress sauntered into an office in the Post and asked if she could use the telephone a minute. When told that she could do so she called up a number and after a few minutes' wait, said, "Is this Maj. Guffum's quarters? Well, I seen in de papeh whare you all wanted a good culled maid. Is yuh still wantin' one? Then the maid youse got is puffdectly satisfactory, and youse doesn't sonnemplate making' no change soon? All right, ma'am. Goodbye."

A colored soldier who happened to be nearby and who overheard the conversation said, "Howcum yoah tryin' to get a new job. Ah thought you all had a job all ready."

"Oh, dat's all right. Ise de maid what's got dat job, but Ise jest awantin' to check up."

Tut! Tut!

Willie, hunting for King Tut,

In the far sweet bye and bye,
His mummy will be valued high.

"Now," said the overtime instructor in Grenades, six minutes after the close of the period, "I shall take a little detonator—"

"Don't stop him, anyone" whispered the tired student, "I will explain to the coroner."

SPECIAL—Personal liberty is now quoted at $15.00 per quart.

There was once a man from Nantucket,
Who kept all his cash in a bucket.
But his daughter named Nan,
Ran away with a man,
And as for the bucket, Nantucket.
Dad followed the pair to Pawtucket
The man and the girl with the bucket
And he said to the man,
"You are welcome to Nan."
But as for the bucket, Pawtucket.

Sergeant Oliboi says:: Love and devotion to a cause in this land win, but it must be that devotion which sacrifices everything to the one love. The difference between art and a mere picture is that clothing is permitted in a mere picture.

Births

Born to Major and Mrs. Frank Green of the American Red Cross one son name Hampton Terrell, date April 24th, weight seven and three-fourths pounds.

When Mr. Hampton was interviewed on last Friday afternoon we noted with pleasure that he had a copy of the Fort Benning News so quite naturally we asked him what he thought of our paper. He said several things about it but what stuck in our minds was the reference that he made to Dr. Glants Meraculas Discovery which was contributed by the Bakers and Cooks School.

He stated that was a wonderful discovery and that it would enable him to do several wonderful things one of which was to graduate from the Military Academy and the Naval Academy at exactly the same time. He figured that he could do this by taking the day course at one institution and the night course at the other.

After he had graduated from these schools he thought that he would be able to assume the presidency of the railroad for by that time he figures that all of the railroads would be one large system.

From the Presidency he thinks that he will soon be qualified to hold the job of the President of the then international red cross and by a few years experience in that position he will be fully qualified to ably fill the office of President of the League of Nations for as long a period as he desires.

Some ambition but go to it "Hamp" and the "News" certainly hopes that you will be able to attain your goal.

83rd Field Artillery

Battery A, 83rd Field Artillery.

Taken from The Atlanta Journal, Friday, April 20, 1923. There happened to be a number of conventions in Atlanta on that day and the following result of being unable to locate the right kind of a doctor transpired.

JUDGE LEAVES BENCH LONG ENOUGH TO UNITE COUPLE IN WEDLOCK.

Romance was injected into the cold business of enforcing the law in the criminal division of municipal court Friday, when Judge T. O. Hathcock left the bench for a few minutes to join in wedlock First Sergeant William Brant, Battery A, 83rd F. A., and Miss Lucy Bush of Elmira, N. Y.

At the time Judge Hathcock was trying two cases involving assault and battery and assault with intent to murder recently brought by R. C. Durham and A. M. Futrelle, vocational training students at Georgia Tech, against R. C. Connally. The case was the result of a general fight in an apartment house at 245 West Peachtree street on the night of April 11, in which Durham was severely cut and bruised.

While the evidence was being taken, the court baliff whispered something in Judge Hathcock's ear and the Judge roused himself. Reporters, following him into his office, witnessed the ceremony, Sergeant Brandt told Judge Hathcock he was stationed at Fort Benning and had sent for Miss Bush, his sweetheart, to meet him in Atlanta when he got a leave of absence. She came and they were married.

"MOTHER"

Oh what a meaning is the word of "Mother" especially if your mother was one of that kind that gave all and asked nothing in return that is what we understand by "Mother" Of course there are a few mothers that try to keep control of their children after they are grown up and even married insisting that a mothers right take procedure over everything else, this unfortunate misconception however is the exception to the rule.

We wish to call the attention of our readers to the fact that on Sunday, May 13, is "Mother's Day." Since the most of us are far away from home and "Mother" it would be too late to send some token of remembrance to her if we waited until the next issue.

It is impossible for many of us in the Service to be home on that day so we can not get a thrill that home coming means to you and mother but we, each and everyone of us can send some flowers or have some flowers sent so that they will arrive at her home on "Mother's Day." If you have been a little wayward and have not kept in touch with home ties don't you believe that you would give your mother a great thrill of pride if in addition to sending her some flowers you should write her a few words and tell her where you are, and what you are doing and above all tell her that you are well and playing a man's game each day? You all know that it thrills a mother's heart to know that "Her Boy" is honorable, unright, and industrious and that he is a credit to himself, to his mother, to his father and to his nation so write to your mother so that these few words may reach her by "Mother's Day" and give her that thrill that she as so often desired but which you have neglected to do.

If we turn to the Bible we find the following "Honor thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise (Eph. 6,2). If you are a christian and every noble upright man is, then you will obey the commandment to honor thy father and mother and you will remember when Mother's Day arrives and try to lighten her burdens on that day.

So now remember May 13th is Mother's Day and be sure to send her that letter and those flowers and after you have done this then to show the rest of your fellows that you have remembered your mother, wear a white carnation or some other white flower if your mother is living for the white flower sigifies purity, charity, and motherly love.

If however your mother is not living that you can still do your duty by honoring the memory of your mother and show it by wearing a red carnation or rose.

We noted with pleasure that one of our recent editorials, "Pacifism vs. militarism" was used by the Boulder News-Herald of Boulder, Colo. as an editorial.

We certainly feel complimented and encouraged that things that appear in the News are reproduced.

A short time ago we also noted that another article of the "News" was reproduced in the 'Chilkoot Post' a paper published in Alaska.

Hiram and Sarah were attending a theatrical performance during which Hiram observed: "That actress' face looks the same now as it did in the last act and yet twenty years are supposed to have elapsed." "Yes, remarked Sarah, and she ain't washed her face in all that time."

A Tempting Tidbit.

Johnnie and his ma were traveling on a train and a man gave Johnnie a handful of peanuts, which he contentedly munched down to the last one, which unfortunately dropped on the floor. Johnnie's ma wanted her young hopeful to be nice—as all mothers do—and when she saw what had happened she told Johnnie not to eat the peanut that fell on the floor. Johnnie squirmed in his seat a while as a vision of one more passed before his mind's eye. Finally he could stand it no longer so he said, "Ma, if I cannot eat it, can I get down and look at the peanut?"

"Ma, kin I go over an' play with Mickey O'Hoolihan?" "Naw, Pat, ye know we don't have nothin' to do wid the O'Hoolihans." "Well, Ma, kin I go over an' lick de stuffins out of 'im, den?" "Yes, gwan."

Learning Bribery Early

On William's first day in school, he refused to stop talking when the teacher told him to. To teach the rudiments of school discipline, the teacher told William to stand in the corner. He dutifully walked forward and stood facing the corner. Later when the teacher came past him, he looked up at her with tears in his big round brown eyes and said—remembering a precious coin deposited in his savings bank that morning—"Teacher is it worf a nickle to det out of the torner?"

It was Sunday evening. The minister had arrived at "thirdly" and the hour was nine. Suddenly he noticed a man sleeping—and in the front pew.

"Will you please wake up that brother next to you?" he said in a low tone to a man sitting beside the sleeper. The latter replied loudly: "Wake him up yourself. You put him to sleep."

Something Coming.

Tommy had been playing truant from school and had spent a long beautiful day fishing. On his way back he met one of his young cronies, who asked, "Catch anything?"

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

CHAPTER VII

That Which Dealeth With the Shooting of the Bow-Gun.

There cometh a time during the year when regulations and ordinary work are forgotten or ignored and the speech of the men and the officers concerneth only one item and of this they sleepeth eateth and talketh until all concerned are in a feverish state but behold and condemn not these for know ye that the target season is at hand.

As the command moveth toward the range it giveth much singing and jesting and all in all the men feel exceedingly joyful.

But as they approach the range it growth quieter and quieter until at last only the sound of marching men is heard for the men now give a thought of earnestness.

The recruit wondereth if the gun kicketh much and of the older men each and every one wondereth if he can shoot as well as he did the year just past or maybe if fortunate luck favoreth him he may make a better qualification.

It is the ambition of every good soldier to be an excellent shot.

So it is for these reasoos that all groweth quite.

Soon after the arrival at the range all is put in readiness and the first order goeth up to fire. Those who fire not on the first order crowd eagerly forward and if it were not that all of the officers were exceedingly alert and ordereth these men back to a point of safety, there would be some few who wouldest try to get in front of the gun to see the bullet pass from within to without.

Soon there after it giveth a loud report and lo, a firer hath fired and the target season hath begun.

Some of the firers make a good shot the first time, others it giveth not so good but it is expected as the men know not their gun and so know not what adjustment of elevation or windage that they must make.

The reason for this strenuous period is for the purpose of teaching the men just what the zero of the gun is so that he knoweth just what adjustment is necessary for a given range.

After the first order hath fired they return and a new worder taketh their place and so on until all men have fired.

When a new man goeth up to fire he hath heard many stories, some of which he wisheth to believe and others that he doeth not desire to believe, but still he feareth that some of these undesirable stories may possibly be true.

So when he goeth to the point of firing he feeleth weak about the knees and giveth thanks that he can lay down to fire his first string.

He loadeth carefully and taketh exceedingly fine aim, but as he squeezeth the trigger slightly he wondereth if the gun kicketh mightly and while he thinketh he closeth the eyes snappily and jerketh the trigger heavily but he heareth only a sharp click and then feeleth the muzzel move upward slightly and that is all.

After a while he openeth the eyes cautiously and then sweareth mightly that he hath a misfire but at this time the keeper of the scores crieth out loudly so that all might hear "Private X a five" The recruit closeth his mouth so suddenly that he catches his tongue between his teeth but he mindeth not the pain for he has hit the center of the targe and also he now knoweh that the gun kicketh not and so, soon he learneth to shoot just as the other soldier before him.

SELAH!

29th Infantry News Notes

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion

Sergeant Powell reported in yesterday only to announce that he leaves soon for three more months recruiting in Tennessee. Six recruits this last trip is pretty good work as a starter, Sergeant.

---

The Battalion Commander has announced that cash prizes will be presented all men exceeding the record of 316 points made this year on the range. This company hasn't started range work yet, so we have a chance to see what the other fellow makes and will know just how much will beat him.

---

Company "H"

Everybody is getting in shape for the maneuver. We expect to be one of the best if not the best Company out there as we were on the hike to and from McClellan.

---

We now have a fine wood cutter in the Company. Anyone wishing his servcie will kindly send in their request early. He will not work for men. He is a lady's man.

---

Our baseball game with Reg. Hdqrs. Co. was postponed.

---

Parris has a berth on the Regtl. Baseball Team as well as on the Infantry Team.

---

Company "F"

Well the 2nd Battalion certainly did show what they can do when it comes to shooting for record. Stick to it boys remember the "War cry" boys, "CHOW" so put it over.

---

Private First Class Moss, sure did pull a deep one supposing you needed five (5) points on 600 Novie, you would been out of luck don't you think But don't let a small thing like that worry you old timer.

---

It is safe to say that every man in the Battalion will qualify.

---

Sergt. Stephenson is shooting expert again this year, consistent shooting isn't it "Steve?" 305 it is. Selah!

---

Remember Sid you want to make the high score in the Co. so stick to it.

---

Private Perry is shooting Expert also. Do you want to let the girl know about it Francis?

---

1st Bn. Hdqrs. Co.,

Lieut. Adams received a bill for $2.50 from a certain drug store in Columbus for flea powder the other day. He wrote them a letter in which he emphatically stated that he had never made any such purchase to which they replied that his wife had purchased and charged same to him. This is the first knowledge Lieut. Adams had of being married, and it undoubtedly came as a shock.

---

Private Fulkerson returned from his furlough a few days ago, and we were very glad to hear that his mother's health is improving.

---

Company "C"

Found an honest man in "C" Co. Boy page diogenese we have 'em in "C" Company.

---

High Fiance, How to pay $44.00 on the salary of $19.00 Saturday and Sunday K. P. one solution.

---

Logan Park will soon be completed a fe wmore twilight artist will complete the job.

---

In spite of the target practice just held our old Top Kick claims there is one bum shot in Camp, mabeys silencer is the cause.

---

Company "A"

Last week all the Post Chaplains wree around and gave an interesting talk on Church attendance. Some of the men that responded to the appeal, but the 1st Sergt. missed the services and atttended Summary Court as a witness at 1st Battalion Hdqrs. instead.

The same services will be held next Sunday and we wish to see the 1st Sergeant at Church services instead of Court.

---

Company "B"

There seems to be a Sergeant in the company that is crazy about the girls and I believe that he will be a single man no longer than two or three days (that is if he can find ayone taht will have him which is very doubtful) so Humphrey don't get so——Struck and you will look better.

---

Believe us, the men in the company are just crazy to go on the ten day demonstration for all the talk that one can hear is about the full field pack and the five minute rest in each hour.

---

I wonder what can be drawing the presence of Private Short in the city every night as there is some that is getting anxious for his own personal welfare for anyone that stays up until two and three in the morning each night and seven nights a week, Well there must be something wrong.

---

The Good Old U. S. A.

It makes no difference where you wander,
It makes no difference where you go.
If they ask you where you were born lad.
Speak right up and be proud to say
Its a land I love tha t is not above
But in the good old U. S. A.

---

Company "D"

Sergeant Pohl has a team made up of men from Company "D" 29th Infantry and while well aware of the fact that the lineup which Lieut. Medaris has is undoubtedly the coming champs of the Fort he, Sergt. Pohl wishes to challenge Company "D" team for a series of three games, his line up is as follows:

Manager Pohl wishes to call special attention to his catcher "Shiek" Willard, who is one of the best and fastest backstops in the business, also Pohl has the best pitchers that money can buy who are under the personal supervision of the two best coaches in the business Mingora and "Tony de" Jasper. His outfield is known as the million dollar outfield. Pohl request that for this series the following men be assigned to umpire the games. These men while young know the game thoroughly and would be able to handle the crowds which would come to see the games: Fluegel, Metcalf, Mack and Reed.

While not wishing to interfere with the Post A & R Officer, who I realize has sufficient to do without taking advice from me, I would like to offer a suggestion and that is, why not set aside certain nights in the week, at the 29th Infantry theatre, for monkeys and comedians, while I personally enjoy comedy, especially while viewing a picture, I would much rather hear these so called sophisticatel crevices, (Wise cracks) from the stage than from in back of me at the show.

Company "F"

Private Brown, David, reported to the Company Commander that he sent an O. D. Woolen Shirt to the Camp Laundry and only received an O. D. button back, the Company Commander replied that they must have washed the shirt in hot water and it shrinked.

The old Battery was well represented in the game with Talladega, by Rabbit Knight in short, keep it old horse your ball playing will some day keep the bear off you in civil life.

Mrs. Hugh Taylor, wife of Sergt. Taylor arrived recently from Dallas, Texts, we are glad to have her among us to help in our social functions.

Have you once thought of the "shooting F," we have 1 Officer and 22 enlisted men. 8 expert riflemen, 5 sharpshooters and 9 getting laundry money. Lieut. Jones, M. E., Oh, no! All will be experts in July.

Corpl. Hightower, (Gun sling Dave) drew a 10 inch bull eye in his sheet so he could practice shooting standing while sleep.

Company "I"

Sergeant Handy (Twilight) has been transferred to the Blind Asylum, to teach Pvt. Woods the difference between 2 and 5.

Sergt. Butler wants to know what would Solomon have done if all his wives had work shirt waists that had to be buttoned in the back.

Private Brown (Capt. Hammond's dispatcher) is leaving us. He says that he built the post gym, and they wanted him to build the round house, so he has departed for the land of cotton and corn. We wish you the best of luck Brownie.

All men that think they will make "Sharpshooters" are commanded to meet at Sergt. Handy's tent Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, May 6th, 1923 for the purpose of instruction as "Experts" Rueben Wood and Sergt. Walker are cordially invited to attend.

Company "L"

Private Chas. Vaughns (in music store) "I want a copy of The Stolen Rope."

Assistant—I'm afraid I don't know of such a song.

Private Chas. Vaughns—Why it goes Tum-tum-tumpety-tum.

Assistant—Oh you mean the lost cord.

Vaughns—Ah, that's it.

Corporal Burch—And what did you gevi your baby when it was christened?

Corpl. Bradwell—A silver spoon.

Corpl. Burch—Was it a good one.

Corpl. Bradwell—I'll say so it had Company "L" 24th Inf. on it.

Why don't you fellows line up when I blow the whistle for dinner (Sergt. Shannon)

(Member of the Company) "We didn't hear it."

Well, the next time you all don't hear it come and tell me.

It is said that while Private William Troup was on Furlough he was met with an opportunity to be present during a pacific oration, of which the orator was declaiming against war. Seeing Troup listening on the edge of the crowd, he roared out: "See that man! He is garbed in the uniform of war. But I belong to the army of Heaven." Then Troup, leisurely removing his cigar from his mouth dryly replied: "You're a'ell of a way from your barracks, then."

Being in the Army it was the first time this soldier had an occasion to ride in a taxi, and watching with growning alarm the driver continually putting his hand outside the car as a signal to the following traffic.

At last he became exasperated.

"Young man," he said, "You look after that car of yourn, and watch where you're going. I'll tell you when it starts raining." (Pvt. Cole Purvis.)

Wise men never borrow trouble when they can borrow money instead. (Pvt. John Bell).

Our friend Sergt. George Currence says there is only one time when two heads are better than one, that is when a man wakes up the morning after the night of payment.

The new teacher taking over his class of illeterates on the first night of school decided to find out how much or how little they knew, he asked Private Robert Agerson "Dou you know your A-B-C.'s-?"

"H—— no!" was the answer; I have only been here about five minutes, what do you think I am?"

Is long hair stylish? Yes you can prove that by Private Elbert Dorrah.

Company "M"

A certain distinguished Gentleman proceeded to Columbus, Ga., recently and endeavored to change a baker shop into a florial store by purchasing snapdraggins.

We now have invented a new dish, as follows: Sweet potatoes alagram, sweet potatoe pie, sweet potatoes baked, sweet potatoes stewed, sweet potatoes boiled, sweet potatoes fried, and sweet potatoes, all in on meal. Beware Sergt. you have sweet potatoes in a jug but you have not got the stopper in your hand. I woke up this morning, and some one was knocking on my door, it was sweet potatoes.

CLUB ROOMS IN COLUMBUS

The local post has spent considerable money in the furnishing of these new club rooms and it is hoped that all soldiers who are Legionaires, will make it their headquarters while in town. The club rooms will be equipped with telephone, stationery, and recreation hall for the convenience of its members.

It is believed that many of the soldiers who are eligible to belong to the legion will take out their membership when they see what is offered them for the small sum of three dollars a year. Full privilege of the club rooms together with 52 issues of the American Legion Weekly, comes all for $3.00.

The Fort Benning News strongly urges company and battery officers and first sergeants to interest their men who are eligible to the Legion, to be on hand at the opening of the local post club rooms next Tuesday.

One Company Commander of the 29th Infantry, whose War Veterans are 100 per cent. members of the American Legion stated yesterday that the Legion has done more to help the morale of his company than anything else so far.

The Chas. S. Harrison Post now has a membership of 730 members. Efforts are going to be made during the next three weeks to bring this up to 1000 in order to be able to send a strong delegation to the State Convention at Athens in July.

The only post in the State that is now larger than the Columbus Post is Atlanta with a membership of 1100.

24th INFANTRY PUTS ON BOXING CONTESTS

The contest opened by a three-round bout between Kid Dynamite and Kid Carbolic Acid two 60 pounder from Columbus who held the attention of the spectators during the three rounds.

St. Thomas and Page, of Fort Benning, staged a fast 4 rounds with Page the loser.

Battling Buckeye and Sloane William of Fort Benning fought 6 fast rounds to a draw.

The semi-final between Flashlight Bryd of Fort Benning and Tom Saunders was too fast and too short for the fans. Bryd floored his man in one minute and thirty-five seconds.

The main bout event between Billy Hooper the "wild cat" of Atlanta and Kid Moon of Birmingham was one of the fastest ever witnessed in this section of the country. These men fought 15 rounds, Moon getting the decision in the 15th round.

The attendance was about 450.

The Twenty-Fourth Athletic Club has slated some of the best colored boxers in the country who will box at the Post Gymnasium in the near future and guarantees clean sport for the boxing fans.

MAJOR GREEN OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS RETURNS

When Major Green arrived he found that the cyclone had covered a strip of about fifteen miles long and varying in width from a hundred yards to one half mile.

Committees were organized and the stricken people gave immediate and hearty support. Pyramidal tents were put over the wooden frames similar to block 21 and the necessary supplies put in which included everything from the knives and forks to the bedding and stoves.

Abaut seventy families were affected and of these about twenty four were left absolutely destitute.

Major Green says that he never before was in a stricken community where everybody wanted to do something and all that they wanted was that they be told what was wanted or what was to be done and it was accomplished.

Those who were fortunate enough to escape the cyclone gave freely of money and other necessaries to help the unfortunate ones. Another committee from Raleigh which included Mr. Daniels former Secretary of the Navy came to Major Green and offered money and assistance.

Captain John H. Gibson formerly of Benning but who is now detailed to North Carolina State College as an instructor in Military Science and Tactics gave valuable assistance as also did the Navy Recruiting there in the way of assistance and transportation. The American Legion came in for their share of work also, for they furnished assistance and manpower.

Major Green returned April 26th and says that while the work is not furnished it is progressing nicely.

The cyclone di dabout $250,000, of damage.

THINK OF THE UNSPEAKABLY UNKIND truant officer in New Jersey who stopped the four tots bent on establishing a marathon dancing record after they had been dancing only two hours just in order to send them to school!

THE WAY THEY ARE POPPING the old horsehide out for homers and such like in the big leagues has revived that talk about "lively pills."

SPEAKING OF SLUGGERS, How about our own Shrimp? It does our heart good to see old Shrimp come up with two on. He nearly always delivers.

THAT MARATHON DANCE AGAIN—a man in San Antonio, Texas, danced 112 hours and felt no ill effects. They sure do have real folks down in Texas. (Brooke's from Texas, youkno.)

NOW THAT JOHNSON has disposed of Fulton—a trial horse—he gets a chance at Willard, a truck horse.

THE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE for next fall is a mighty impressive one. Now, if we can just gather together a good bunch of candidates for the team! Practically the whole of last year's squad are due to leave the post for service elsewhere.

IT WAS EASILY DEMONSTRATED last Saturday afternoon that no college no matter how good a reputation its team may have acquired, can send a substitute team against our Blues and get away with it. Those Florida outfielders are still panting from the HECTIC time they had shaggin' the drives of the Blue batters.

GUNN, THE BIG SWAMP ANGEL flinger, was not such a gun after all. He lacked both steam and control. Although he stood six feet six holeproofs and looked 'most sixteen when he took the mound he failed to use his height in producing steam. He preferred to toss them from the underground, a la our own McNutt.

OUR OLD FRIEND, BULL YON, Blue centerfielder, who is a Florida graduate and has also been ordered to the University for R. O. T. C. duty, received quite a panning from the bleachers over the showing of the Florida players.

24th INF. DIVIDES HONORS WITH VISITORS

The 24th Infantry had a busy week with the string of games which they played on their home diamond last week. Morehouse College team were their guests on Thursday and Friday, April 19th and 20th. The first game was a splendid exhibition of baseball, resulting in a victory for the local boys. The second game proved a nightmare for the team coach, when apparently his entire team had an off day. The score seems to tell the tale but no words or statistics could portray the wierd developments and friek situations that were continually beeting down on the local nine. The score:

First Game.

| | | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 24th Inf. | 220 010 13x | 9 | 20 | 8 |
| Moorehouse | 020 100 100 | 4 | 14 | 5 |

One home run, 3 2-base hits.

Second Game.

| | | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 24th Inf. | 002 100 000 | 3 | 12 | 8 |
| Moorehouse | 322 203 900 | 21 | 31 | 2 |

One home run, 2 double plays, 3 3-base hits, 4 2-base hits.

On Saturday and Sunday the Birmingham Black Barons, a professional team, which stands in the first ranks among colored baseball teams in the country were guests of the Regulars. The two games played were divided and a fine schedule of entertainment was provided for the weekend. The scores:

First Game.

| | | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 24th Inf. | 100 103 00x | 5 | 13 | 2 |
| Birmingham | 001 011 010 | 4 | 16 | 6 |

Leonard pitched a water-tight game. A double play stopped a possible score in the 1st inning.

Second Game.

| | | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 24th Inf. | 000 220 000 | 4 | 12 | 8 |
| Birmingham | 021 002 211 | 9 | 20 | 2 |

One double play. One home run, 2 3-base hits, 2 2-base hits.

On Wednesday, April 25th, the team from Talladega College were again reminded that not all athletes are in college. Leonard started the twirling for the 24th Infantry, but he was relieved by Green in the 5th inning. The score shows what happened after that. Knight was given a try-out at short stop in this game and came througgh with real class, both with the stick and on the fast diamond as well. Williams favored his admires with a thrill in the eighth when he pulled a home run which tied the score and added one of the tallies that spelled victory. The score:

| | | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 24th Inf. | 112 020 23x | 11 | 21 | 2 |
| Talladega | 411 300 000 | 9 | 14 | 3 |

One triple play; 3 home runs, 2 2-base hits.

The 24th Infantry team will make a trip to Atlanta and play Morehouse College a return game on May 4th and 5th.

The next home games will be on May 11th and 12th, when the Central City College team from Macon, Ga., will play on the 24th Infantry diamond. No admission, and everybody is welcome.

CO. "D" 29th INFANTRY DEFEATS SERVICE CO. 29th.

One of the best ball games ever played around Fort Benning was the one between Company "D" 29th Inf. and the Service Co., Sunday afternoon It was a clean fast game and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd who attended said game. For the first four innings no man crossed the home plate in the last half of the fourth, the first man up was an easy victim for McGaha, McCaslin then knocked one way out left for a home run scoring the first run, Hall and Clark the next two were easy victims for McGaha who struck both of these boys out. In the sixth "D" Co. started, Bender the first man up knocked out a clean hit for one base, McPherson bunted forcing Bender out at second, McGaha, then came through with a clean hit advancing McPherson to third, Detwiller hit one back of short scoring McPherson and McGaha, but was put out at second. In the eight McGaha made a home run which cinched the game for Co. "D" Willis who pitched for the losers pitched wonderful ball and under ordinary conditions should have won the game but the Service Company couldn't touch McGaha. "Slick" Harkey, the veteran pitcher plugged the hole for "D" Co. at second and played a fast game.

Score by innings:

| | | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Co. "D" | 000 002 110 | 4 | 9 | 4 |
| Service Co. | 000 101 000 | 2 | 4 | 1 |

Batteries: McGaha and Johnson; Willis and Shay.

Umpires: Davis and Kyelstrom.

INFANTRY TRIMS FLORIDA.

Doughboys Take First Game by 10-2 And Then Take the Second to the Tune of 9-2.

By BROOKE LEMAN.

INFANTRY, 10; FLORIDA, 2.
INFANTRY, 9; FLORIDA, 5.

The Blue clad tribe of the Infantry romped into a double win over the visiting Swamp Angels from the Gator state yesterday afternoon. The Doughboys copped both ends of the twin engagement fought out at the Driving park and did so by healthy margins.

Whenever any ball club outfields and outhits another club they generally take the laurels. Add to this superior hurling by the Infantry moundsters, McNutt and Hutchinson, and you have the story of the Blue victory in a nutshell.

The Infantrymen won the first battle by the inflated and onesided score of 10 to 2. They took the second 9 to 5 and both games were put on ice early in the contest. Two innings filled with tallying by the Blue resulted in the ball game being stored away on the shelves for all time to come.

McNutt's Star Slab Work.

McNutt, underground slabster, went to the rubber for the Infantry in the opener and hurled brilliant ball. He let the onion aloose from off his shoe tops in a way that made the Gator swatters whiff at the empty zone. Out of the twenty-nine stickers to face him he retired ten by the windmill route. In the second and sixth frames he performed the unusual feat of whiffing all three enemy clouters. In the seven frames worked he yielded but four scant hits, at wide intervals, and was remarkably tight with men on the satchels.

So when the history of the first struggle is written the name of McNutt, submarine flinger; must be recorded on big type. But in passing it must be stated that the Blue lads behind this flinger hit the onion when hits were needed and this coupled with some exceedingly wierd fielding and worse pitching on the part of the Florida lads turned the first battle into an overwhelming Infantry victory.

Gunn Chased to Showers

A big six foot six Gator by the name of Gunn started to work for the visitors. He was the biggest of the visiting squad and from all visible performance had less on the ball. In the second frame he was fading fast, but the third found him a wilted lily. The Gator coach promptly chased him to the showers, meanwhile the Infantry had accumulated an even seven tallies, which coupled with three in the preceding game, put the battle on ice. Smith, ace of the Gainsville camp, took over the firing and finished in much better shape. He had some stuff behind the arm which loosed the pellet.

Florida cracked aloose in the opener at a whirlwind pace and shoved over a tally. Hitchcock walked, took second on McNutt's error of White's bunt and tallied when Beasley singled. But the second frame wrote another story for the Infantry shoved over three.

Three More Scored.

Kent Nelso doubled to left. Yon drew a free ticket while McMullin beat out an infield hit packing the stations. Up came McNutt and dropped a Texas leaguer in the center gardens while Nelson tallied. Gunn uncorked a wild pitch and Yon registered up. McMullin tallied when Fountain flew out to right.

The big doings for the Blue came in the next frame. McCarty was hit and limped to first. Kent Nelson drove out another hit for one bag. Yon connected for a screamer to center and McCarty stopped on third. The sacks were drunk.

McMullin connected with an ace between first and second and McCarty and Nelson tallied. McMullin was forced at second by McNutt, but in the toss to first Beasley threw wild. Yon tallied on this play. Olmstead walked. George Honnen was safe on Hitchcock's muss of his grass cutter while McNutt tallied. Fountain dropped a single over first and Olmstead and Honnen tallied. Rabbit Fountain then proceeded to get into a hot box between first and second and came home when Smith tossed the ball into the center field gardens.

This wild frame ended the ball game as far as any Gator hopes were concerned. The Floridans tallied one in the sixth when Beasley doubled and came home on McLendon's one timer. The rallyy was nipped in the bud and the last Gator chance passed. By agreement the game was called in the seventh.

The Second Game.

The slates being cleaned folks settled back to see another ball game. The Infantrymen turned it into a track meet in the first inning and raced five runs over the platter. These with three more in the second settled any argument as to where the second victory would rest. The Gators staged two rallies and shoved over two tallies in the third and three more in the eighth but these fell far short of overtaking the wide Blue margin.

Hutchinson went to the rubber for the Blue and outhurled Smith, who kept on the rubber for Florida. Hutch had things all his way save in the two frames mentioned and kept the Gators to eight bingles, fairlyy well dispersed. Hutch exhibited his best speed of the year.

The Infantrymen hammered Smith for a total of thirteen safe raps. Three of these were for extra stations. Hits came when hits were needed and this potent factor connected with some terribly wierd work in the field by the Gaters stacked up the big Infantry tally.

The First Inning.

The fireworks came in the first inning. Olmstead, first man up was safe on Bange's boot. Honnen made the initial sack when Beasley dropped the onion and Olmstead took third. Bange then proceeded to boot Fountain's drive as Olmstead tallied. Kgelstrom drove one over second and Honnen and Rabbit Fountain came home. Milburn was safe on an infield hit and Kgelstrom took third only to get out between home and third a few seconds later, on Nelson's hit to Smith. McMullin singled to center and Milburn and Nelson scored.

Three more Blue-legs flashed over the pan in the second. Honnen beat out an infield hit. Fountain sent him to third with a scorching bingle and Kgelstrom then proceeded to bring them home with his drive to center. Shrimp Milburn whanged one against the third-field stands for three bases and Kgelstrom tallied. Another Infantryman came home in the fourth when Kgelstrom doubled and came in on Milburn's neat drive for a pair of satchels.

Florida scored two in the third when Gunn doubled to left, advanced on an out and came home on White's single. Hitchcock drew a free pass and came home shortly afterwards on Milburn's toss to third through McMullin.

The Gators shoved over the final three in the eighth. White got a one-timer and scored when Bange doubled to left. Beasley tripled, scoring Bange and the former came in a minute later on McLendon's safe rap. The Gators staged their best stick rally of both games in this frame. But the threat ended here for they were retired one, two, three in the final sector.

Fielding Stars

Rabbit Fountain starred in the field for the Blue, making a sensational stop in the first frame of Owen's drive. The little corner—Honnen, McMullin to Fountain to Nelson—gave the Blue a pair of double plays in the second game, while McNutt figured in one himself to Fountain in the first battle.

Nelson, Yon, McMullin and McNutt each got a pair of safe raps in the first game, while Shrimp Milburn, Kgelstrom and Fountain shone in the second. Milburn got four hits in five times up, including a triple and double. Shrimp's batting eye was astigmatic yesterday. Kgelstrom delivered himself of a double and two timely singles, while Fountain got two one-time swats.

Beasley led in hitting for the Gators in the first melee with two safe raps, while White and Gunn took laurels in the second. The former got three raps, while Gunn contributed a double and single in four times up.

PANAMA CANAL TOLLS.

Canal Tolls Are Rapidly Increasing.

Traffic through the Panama Canal is growing by leaps and bounds as is indicated in the following amount of tolls collected.

The six months from November, 1921 to April, 1922 the total tolls received amounted to $5,550,663.57 while for the same months during 1922-1923 the amounts received as tolls amounted to $9,212,959.29.

During the month of last April there were 420 commercial vessels which includes 12 launches that passed through the canal and paid a total of $1,878,-994.45 in tolls.

THE INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM.

Training Has Started.

The tryouts for the Infantry Rifle Team for candidates to make the trip to Fort Niagara, New York started Tuesday afternoon and in spite of the fact a bad wind prevailed, excellent scores were made. The tryouts will continue throughout the week until today. There are 103 candidates trying out for the squad that is to be taken to Niagara and the competition is high. Among this number of candidates are

BASEBALL

Last Game of the Season.

The last baseball game of the season will be held at Driving Park tomorrow (Saturday) Let's go!

Even if every man on the team has been "shot in the arm" and vaccinated lets let Oglethorpe know that they have been through a ball game and that the Infantry had a big bunch of rooters out to support them. Selah!

GET OUT YOUR RIDING BOOTS.

Regulations To Be Changed.

We note in the Army and Navy Journal that Army Regulations will be changed in the near future.

This will be greeted with pleasure especially those who favor the boot for dress purpose and those who already have one or more pairs.

Following is the change:

28. Footgear.

c. Boots.

(1) Riding boots are authorized for wear at all times by officers who are required to be mounted, as specifically prescribed in Army Regulations. Riding boots are authorized for wear by all other officers, and by warrant officers at all times except when actually on duty at troop formations under arms.

(2) Field boots are authorized for wear by officers and warrant officers in inclement weather and in the field.

(3) Rubber boots may be worn on mine planters, cable ships and transports, and during inclement weather when not under arms.

THE INFANTRY BOARD

Projects.

BEAVERALLS: Beaveralls have recently been tested by the Department of Experiment and the Report has been forwarded this week by the Infantry Board to the Chief of Infantry. The Beaverall is a watertproof garment designed in the form of a unionall or overall to replace the raincoat for teamsters, chauffeurs, motorcycle couriers, truck drivers, etc.

GYMNASIUM SHOES: A new type of gymnasium shoe has been given a long thorough test in competition with the present issue gym shoe, and recommendations have been forwarded to the Chief of Infantry.

FOLLOWING BARRAGE: The Army Service Schools are attempting to determine by past experience and by experiments how close Infanrty may approach a line being shelled by their own 155's. The Infantry School has forwarded their ideas and the General Service Schools are giving the subject great attention.

ELEVATING BRACKET: A suggestion has made that steps be taken to have all right handed elevating brackets in position so as to permit insertion of pins from the left. The change could be made without difficulty at Post Ordnance Shops.

TABLES OF EQUIPMENT: The Infantry Board is making up for the Chief of Infantry complete tables of equipment for all Infantry organizations (Peace Strength) to include the Brigade.

Training Regulations.

The following training regulations have been submitted to the Chief of Infantry during the past week. T. R. No. 75-15, The Color Sergeant and Standard Bearer; T. R. No. 50-80, The Infantry Pack; T. R. No. 75-10, The Messenger and Agent; T. R. No. 420-50, Drill, The Rifle Squad, Platoon and Company.

Information has been received that T. R. No. 420-120, Combat Principles The Rifle Company and T. R. No. 420-160, Combat Principles, The Infantry Battalion have been submitted to the Adjutant General for publication.

There are twelve remaining regulations to be submitted from the Infantry School and every indication points to their being in the hands of the Chief of Infantry by May 25th.

Bakers and Cooks School

With the Month ending June 15th, 1923, this school will have trained approximately two hundred and thirty three enlisted students inc ooking since the opening of the School, which began active operation in training in September, 1922.

These students were sent here from various posts and camps throughout the Fourth Corps Area, and completing a course of four months, were returned to their proper post or station.

With approximately, only nine instructors active in operation of messes, bakery, and class instruction for his period, it is estimated that each instructor may take credit for the training of twenty five students each.

To the layman who fails to comprehend the various intricates of cookery this number may appear small.

The Student enters the school with no knowledge of cooking or baking. He begins in the A. B. C.'s of cookery, learning first, the names of dishes, the names of the ingredients used in cooking and the terms applied to different modes of cooking.

He must be made to grasp the system used in applying the Garrison, Field, Travel, Filipino, Reserve, and emergency station. He is made to figure the ration value from a current price list.

From the beginning of his course he works daily in a kitchen, under the instruction of an instructor, who leads the student step by step from pots and pans, to the storeroom, mixing, preparation of dishes, to the range and cookery, and in co-oporation with the student's classroom studies, he is made to do the practical work in the kitchen after being taught the principle in the class room.

As the finished education of an excellent cook or chef" as you please" would fill volumes, it is manifest that the purpose of a school of cookery is merely to instill the proper principles of Thrift, Sanitation, and blending of food substances to produce other foods.

There are practically no limits to the thousands of different palatable dishes which may be learned, in each country, staple foods vary. In America a large smattering of all foods and dishes are prepared and eaten, therefore the Chef in America is not specialized as is the French Chef, or the Chinese Chef who specializes solely on his Nationa ldishes.

The student who leaves this school as a graduate generally knows how to prepare approximately three or four hundred dishes. If he continues to cook, he learns on the average of one or more dishes or bledings of foods to produce a new flavor each day.

Student cooks canot be drilled or trained in companies or squads by one or two instructors as are troops drilled in military tactics. Their drill is more complicated and specialized, and therefore necessarily slower.

Qualifications considered necessary in a student cook for the making of a good cook may be shown as Intelligence, initiative, cleanliness, common school education, and attention.

NEW RAY FEATURE IS IN THE "SUPER" CLASS

Everything Done to Make "A Tailor Made Man" Most Significent Film Event.

Charley Ray left no stone unturned to make "A Tailor Made Man," first of his super-feature for United Artists and coming to the Post Theatres next Thursday one of the most important and significant film productions of the year.

In the supporting cast of twenty-eight players, there are many who have been stars in their own right, both on the stage and screen. It has been a long time since any one cast of characters boasted of such high talent as Ethel Grandin, Jacqueline Logan, Douglas Gerrard, Thomas Jefferson, Edyth Chapman, Victor Potel, Thomas Ricketts, Kate Lester, Eddie Gribbon, Frank Butler and Nellie Peck Saunders These artists compose a neucleus hard to surpass, and these names are selected at random; there are a dozen others in this photoplay who possess a measure of fame in the domains of historionism.

The technical staff is one that has served Charles Ray with most advantageous results for some time past. Its roster ranks with the best. With Joseph De Grasse as director, George Rizard and George Meehan as cinematographers, Robert Ellis as technical and art director, Edward Withers as designer of art titles, and Harry Decker as film editor, one is assured of high results in point of technique and finesse. Albert Ray, author of several successful original photoplays, adapted "A Tailor Made Man" to the screen from the highly successful and long popular stage play by Harry James Smith.

29th Infantry News Notes

Regimental Hdqrs. and Hdqrs. Co.

We are preparing for the "Big Ten Day War."

---

Why can't the 29th Infantry Theatre be made more comfortable, by opening a windows, and bringing peanuts back to the pre-war price.

---

Samuel J. Parvin (Windy) is absolutely" up the Pole" Why?

---

The Regimental Hdqrs. Co. Corral has a new addition, One Ford "Cut down," property of Pvts. Towns and St. John.

We are looking for it, wishing for it, asking for it, what is it, and where will it come from. (See next Week's News.)

---

Service Company.

The 2nd group of the Service Company completed record range practice last Friday. Of the 39 who fired the course, about 16 qualified as expert riflemen, 15 as sharpshoters and the remainder as marksmen. Among the high scores made were Sergts. Harry Storm 321, Junius Pope 319, H. L. Fink 315. There were other high scores which will be published in future editions of the News.

---

Some class to the Regimental Personnel Section. Of the six clerks employed therein, Sergts. Fink, Shewfelt and Brown are expert riflemen, while Privates Freeman and Regoski are Marksmen. One other clerk is now on the range and there is no doubt but that he will qualify.

---

1st. Battalion Hdqrs. Co.

The baseball team of this company is now playing in mid season form, and promise to give any organization in the past a good game. Last Saturday and Sunday this company played the 7th Engineers, defeating them by the overwhelming score of 24-4 and 21-8, the hitting of the entire team was the main feature of the game. The Engineers were forced to use no less than six pitchers in the first game and three in the second, but failed to check the heavy swatters of the doughboys. Home runs seemed to be in vogue for the first battalion. In fact, if a player didn't hit at least a two base hit everytime up he thought he was having an off day. However, the Engineers have a plucky team, and they played a hard game until the final curtain was drawn.

Last Tuesday our team defeated the Howitzer team seemed to think they were going to make a monkey out of our team, but before the end of the game they found that they had miscauculated just a trifle, for just the opposite took place.

Another recent game was between this Company and Co. "F" 1st Gas Regiment, which we annexed to our chain of victories by the score of 9-6. The Gas Co. has a good team, and we would welcome a return game.

Any organization desiring a game call No. 12 or 13, 29th Infantry, switchboard. Ask for Sergt. Groves or Pvt. Adcock, and we'll try and give you a good game.

---

Company "A"

Company "A" leaves in fifteen minutes for an all day hike. We like'em so well that we are not satisfied with the big one that comes off from the 13 to the 25th, so we are taking a little one by ourselves. Ganyway for shock troops.

---

Company "D"

Speaking of dumbells, our friend "Soap Box" Durban was having his daily argument with "Chiz" when "Chiz" turned around and said to him, listen you're so dumb you don't even know what the Saturday Evening Post it. "Soap Box" said, "Huh, who don't know, why down in Cincinnati where I come from you see them all over town, they are hitching posts for the farmers who come in from the country to tie their horses to.

---

Our weekly advice to the married men of this organization is to see the picture that is playing at one of the theatres in town this week, the name of said picture is "You Can't Fool your Wife."

---

Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Battalion.

One good thing about the maneuveres, it means a holiday for the Company Reporters. There will be no news as everything is planned before hand, and most of us know what it is all about, except—the person who usually is required to know it all—this particular Company Reporter, who for good reasons is in the dark in this instance, so that what it is going to happen will be news to him.

---

I did hear that we were to enjoy every condition of warfare, but instead of ball ammunition we will have blanks, instead of the Salvation Army, the Post Exchange Branch.

---

We do not envy the fellow who is at present singing the happy song, but it is six months before some of us can join in the chorus of, "Just one more month to do it in." But as for the leader when that time comes, we hope that the attractions of foreign service will still be bright enough to cause him to sing, in earnest, "Only two years and six months to do it in, and I don't give a darn if I never get it in."

---

Company "E"

The Company won another ball game Sunday Co. "C" furnished the opposition and gave us a good game but Bryant's curves and Cran's fast one was too much much for the 1st Battalion boys.

---

It looks like "E" Co. will win another cup on the range this year. Out of 68 men that have fired for record we had 100 per cent. to qualify.

---

Tea-drinking-teddy want to figure how he missed expert so far but of course the rifle was the cause of it all.

---

Wanted: A sure way to beat this ten day maneuver that hits us in the near future.

---

Al thinks Benny should be tried for wasting good ammunition. Nobody but an expert riflemen can pass the time of day with Al.

---

Company "F"

Well, the 2nd Battalion, has tied the 1st Battalion for the highest individual score on the rifle range for record. Co. "F" produced the individual who made the score, Corporal Peter E. Offerman who made 321 points out of a possible 350. I must say that is knocking the "Bull's Eyes" for a "Row of Suburban Bungalows." And let it be further known that the man of "F" Co. are ready at any time to back Corp. Offerman to the limit, we are very anxious that Service Co. produce their best shot and shoot the "Tie Off," and watch the "Line" win.

---

We are through on the Range until June at least, when we will make Expert's out of the few remaniing men who did not fire, Watch the 2nd Battalion's Record when all the men have a chance to fire.

---

Company "H"

Hey telephone orderly — "Mark Thirty Sneven."

---

Pvt. Johnson is going to Vadalia to get all the male members to enlist in the Army. Johnson has a good line so he ought to get quite a number of recruits.

---

Hey locomotive! You better cut the familiarity. Mike has been around, you know.

---

There seems to have been a real spaghetti bender visiting these little Stribling boys—and Oh! Johnnie Wilson! have a heart.

---

This old outfit is going to be in the pink of condition if Sergt. McGlarity continues his instruction in this here gun drill. Atta boy Irish.

AN APPRECIATION.

The News desires to take advantage of this opportunity to express the appreciation of the garrison of the work along athletic lines done by the coaches and the individual players of the various Infantry School teams during the past school year.

It is a characteristic of human nature to laud the winner and knock the loser. This is demonstrated at an athletic contest. If the home team is winning the grandstand is full of boosters. Let the team have a slump and what happens? Expressions concerning the "rottenness" of the players and the absolute lack of knowledge of even the fundamental principles of the game on the part of whoever happens to be the coach are forcibly expressed by the "gang" who has nothing else to do but sit on the sidelines or in the grandstand and watch developments.

Each year the teams put in the field to compete with the various colleges and universities for athletic honors are getting better at the Infantry School. The fact that these teams are improving is due to the unselfish efforts of the players and the unceasing work of the coaches.

Players on any varsity team have to put up with handicaps and theirs is not exactly a bed of roses. The rest of us, when our day's work is done, go home and interest ourselves in various things of a personal nature. We piddle around our yards, or read, or do something to occupy our time pleasantly. Not so the player on "the team." After he has done what ordinarily is considered a day's work he gets into his athletic togs and begins a two hour grind. He may have "points" to make up with his class but he feels that his duty lies with the rest of the garrison he is representing and accordingly he does his studying later in the evening. During the footall season he is out in the field getting bruises hitting the hard ground while the rest of us are taking life easy and then when he goes into the game we give him uncomplimentary remarks if he happens to "pull a boner."

The players on any team at the Infantry School have nothing to gain and frequently, a great deal to lose. The News goes on record herewith—and believes that its sentiments are the sentiment of the garrison—being of the opinion that the individual players and the coaches of the various athletic teams have shown, are showing, and will still show a most commendable spirit of unselfishness in the manner in which they have supported the Infantry School and the Infantry at large and our appreciation for this support is extended to the men who made up the athletic teams during the past school year.

THE SALUTE.

Saluting is a military institution. The right to salute belongs exclusively to the soldier, and is recognized by civilians the world over. No one but a soldier can salute in the proper manner. You will frequently see civilians passing each other on the street, bring their hand up to their head in an attempt to imitate the military salute. At best it is but a sorry attempt and has nothing of the snap or meaning that is conveyed when one soldier salutes another. The person who laughs at, or makes slighting remarks about a soldier who renders a snappy salute at once advertises that he recognizes and is jealous of the fast that the soldier enjoys a right and privilege that is denied himself. The soldier who has formed the mistaken idea that he belittles the spirit of his American freedom by saluting his officers, proclaims himself a man of small mind and unworthy to be called a soldier.

We should always keep before us the fact that the military salute is the mark and perogative of military men, and we should be proud of the privilege of using a form of salution that marks us as members of a profession, that numbers in its ranks such men as Napoleon, Wellington, Washington, Grant and many others of the greatest men the world has ever known Moreover, the right to salute belongs only to soldiers in good standing, a prisoner under guard is not allowed to salute. Never miss an opportunity to salute and make it SNAPPY—(5th Corps News)

EDITORIAL

After five years of peace, the passions and ambitions of man have again overthrown all those sentiments of good will and amity and concord with which humanitarian associations have imbued us, alas, in such small degree. At this critical juncture of our so-called progress it becomes us to meet the issues of the time not with despair of humankind, nor lack of faith in the ultimate success of all our dreams, but rather with that calm courage in calamity displayed in so marked a manner by that noted idealist, William H. Anderson.

Even as the terrafic struggles of the World War had their origin in the casual firing of a shot by Gavrilo Prinlip in the peaceful streets of Sarajovo on that fateful summer day in 1914, so may the evil consequences of today's conflicts be traced to a trivial incident.

The horrors of a civil war, however, transcend in importance the good, no matter in what quantity, the victory of a righteous cause may produce. That this quarrel should arise from a more heated conversation is incredible, but it is true.

The News congratulates itself that by its long advocacy of unpreparedness it has so influenced the forces that both will have the very dickens of a time. It expects that the shortage of paperwork forms will bring hostilities to an early close. It is certain that the shortage of gasoline will limit the monuments of both the Red and Blue armies. Spring rains will give the troops their choice of field or sea duty, however, and this is, in a measure, important to mobility. Whether victory will perch upon the motto of the 24th Infantry; "Semper Paralysis," upon the classis inscription of the 83rd Field Artillery; "Motor Moriturus," or upon that of the 29th Infantry, whose motto is still in the Message Center, and hence permanently unavailable, only the Department of Military Art knows, and it is uncertain. May the best man win!

THE BULLET.

We received another agreeable surprise this week when we received "The Bullet" a weekly publication by the 25th Infantry.

We can say right frankly that we did not believe it to be possible to get up a remarkable publication like The Bullet under such conditions as the 25th is under but as the old saying goes "were there's a will there's a way" and the 25th Surely found the way.

It is with pleasure that we place them on our "exchange list."

THE NEWS RECEIVES A LETTER OF GRATITUDE

The news is in receipt of a letter from Major Hill who recently received a couple of packages of the ant, waterbug, etc. killer that is being distributed by the News. His letter follows:

May 4th, 1923.

The Editor, Fort Benning News,
Fort Benning, Ga.

My Dear Sir:

Recently you were so kind as to give me a couple of packages of your cockroach and water bug exterminator. Previous to getting this exterminator I had tried everything without any great success.

The exterminator that you are distributing does everything claimed for it and, in compliance with your request this letter is to advise you in this connection. Mrs. Hill is enthusiastic about the efficacy of the exterminator. We are recommending it to our friends.

Cordially yours,
(Signed) ABRAHAM HILL,
Capt. Inf.

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

Chapter VII Part 2.

That Which Dealeth With The Shooting of the Great Bow Gun.

After it has given many days of shooting and when at last the men have learned the "zero" of their bow, cometh the day of record firing.

This is now the third and last period of this great and strenuous period and it giveth great joy to the officers and to the men for it groweth tiresome.

When then cometh the day of record firing the men note their rifle and score book more carefully for it has now come to the point where each shot telleth a tale and if one be so careless as to miss his target or hit another man's target then so can he count that shot lost and never to be regained. Also the men must from now and to the end know how to adjust their own great bow so that the arrow penetrateth the center or near center of the target.

Some few men depend on luck to qualify, or some others not having paid close heed as they should have done cast anxiously about them for means to overcome their neglect.

So during the shooting they practice all manner of things such as trying to bribe the pitmen to mark a higher value that they shot or the mighty keeper of the score but alas due precautions are taken against such a thing. So if he succeedeth not in this then mayhaps he tryeth to borrow the bowgun of another who hath made a good score or perchance he buyeth hits at five dollars apiece from a good shooter of the great bowgun.

But such a man is always "found" and he gaineth—a few days in the kitchen.

As all men fire the record course they try exceeding to make a good qualification and also all men have a secret ambition to be the best target puncher in the Army of Samuel, but this last is only for a very few.

But finally cometh the last range.

Some there are who have a very safe margin and need not worry, others have a close margin and must needs worry considerable and still others can not make the highest qualifications so need not worry on that score but need worry little or none or mightly on the next highest qualification, depending on how close they come to the absolute zone of that particular qualification, and so on down to the end. But even there we may find the lowest man a good marksman.

But if he is not a marksman or above then he belongeth to still another tribe, called by ordinary soldiers "bolomen" Know ye that such a soldier needest not carry the great bow gun for they knowest not the use thereof or the function thereof but he is henceforth traind as a boloman.

Now be ye advised that these men do a noble service in the Army of Samuel and save the bowgunmen many labors. These bolomen do all manner of things such as kitchen police, and extra fatigue, and when it giveth a battle, again have these bolomen a certain duty to perform for know ye that the great bow shooteth many arrows and that it require certain men to bring to the bowguns sufficient ammunition so that they needs not go hungry and for this the boloman filleth the place wonderfully.

Therefore condemn ye not these bolomen for as ye have read, they are a necessary evil and the Army of Samuel hath a noble place for them.

Also be ye advised that ye condemn not too hastily for mayhaps if thine last shot had been a "2" or a "3" instead of a "4" or a "5" ye thineself wouldest be a boloman.

But it giveth great pleasure when at last cometh the last shot and thou needest a "4" to qualify for a particular grade and thou desireth the extra pay exceedingly so that thou takest most careful aim and fireth and then after a long while the target at last goeth down and then after a still longer while the pitmen change about the dics and at last they mark a four or a five and thou hath qualified? Delighteth it thee not so that tellest all of thy friends and ladies.

But alas if that same marker giveth thee a three instead and thou failest by one point, then so sayest thou than thine eyesight is bad or thine gun of no worth. But speak so and console thine own soul but think not that the other men pay heed to thee for they had the same stories in mind if they should have failed or qualification. Selah!

Oh you ten days' maneuvers next week.

THINGS TO TRY ONCE.

Make a wise crack while the "Bluebird" or the "Gray Squirrel" are around.

Asking an instructor to be "easy" in correcting your paper because you misread one of the requirements.

Trying to get the telephone central when you are in a hurry.

Trying to make a colored maid understand you ocer a telephone.

Expecting a student officer to act dignified.

Trying to tell an instructor that he is wrong.

Telling the editor of the "News" that you would like to have his job.

Telling the A & R Officers that all of his property is expendable.

Swollowing water at the Post Swimming Pool.

Go into the Post Swimming Pool without a bathing suit.

Trying to make other people believe that your children are better than their.

Wearing a cap with a cotton O. D. uniform.

Wearing a new pair of shoes on a hike.

Trying to borrow somebody's mess kit on a hike.

Trying to beat classes at the Gym.

Trying to pass the bridge guard with a 1922 auto license.

Falling out on a hike without permission.

Being a good fellow and passing your canteen around to your squad.

Using your rifle for a tent pole on a rainy night.

Filling your canteen with Girard fire water.

Asking the Mess Sergeant when he is going to have ice cream for desert, while you are on hike.

Forgetting to ditch your tent and it happens to rain.

DRINKS OF DIFFERENT NATIONS

By "Jockey"

The Frenchman drinks his native wine
The German drinks his beer.
The English drink the "half and half"
Because it brings good cheer.
The Irish drink their whiskey straight
Because it brings on dizziness,
The American has no choice at all
So he drinks the whole darn business.

The Jist o' Life

(Pearl Lillian Truman.)

Mike who had but recently come over from a country district in Ireland. got a job on the railroad. They were working at a junction where trains came by and when the train came along, Mike's companions realizing he was "green" shouted to him, "Drop your pick and run." Mike dropped his pick and "heeled it" up the railroad track ahead of the train. The locomotive was rapidly gaining on him as he sped breathlessly up the track in front of it. The engineer slowed down and shouted to him "Run up the hill." "Run up the hill!" exclaimed Mike wrathfully. "What would be the sense of that? Tell me now. I could not beat the dum thing on the level."

Queen Victoria often invited some one child of the noble families to lunch with her at certain periods and she insisted that the child come along as the children were always different alone than when chaperoned. The luncheons were always informal. At one such luncheon one little girl, who had been exceptionally well trained in table manners saw the queen take a chicken bone in her fingers, and she promptly said, "O piggy, piggy."

A traveling man was on a dining car one day and when the waiter came to his table, the man offered the waiter some whiskey and the waiter after drinking it said, "That's jes' right, boss, jes right." The second time the waiter came by, the man did the same thing and the waiter again said "That's jes right, boss, jes right!" The third time brought the same remarks. Then the white man said, "Say, Sambo, why do you always say, "That's jes right, boss, jes right, every time I give you any of this whiskey?" "Well I tell yuh boss, it's dis way. Ef it wuz any better dan it am yuh wouldn't gibe it to a po' ole niggah, and ef it wuz any wuse, I couldn't drink it, so it's jes lak I says, it's jes right, boss, jes right."

Two Irishmen were exploiting a wonderful echo on one of the lakes in Ireland and they took an American tourist out on the lake to let him hear it. They rowed along quite a while and then began to call "Hello there" but Echo did not answer. Then one of the Irishmen lost an oar which made it necessary for him to swim back to the short for another. After he reached shore the other Irishman began again to say, "Hello there." "Hello there" came back the echo with a trifle more brogue than the original. But just here the American decided he would call to hear his own echo. So he said, "Hello there." "Hello there" came the echo with a decided roll on the "r." "Will you have a drink?" asked the American. "Begorra, I will" roared the echo.

Beating the Landlord.

"Mary, where do you live?" asked the lady. "Over there," answered Mary. "Do you mean you live in that apartment house? I didn't know they allowed anyone to move into that apartment house if they had children. How did you get in?" "I was borned in."

Certainly.

An urban bride was asked by her rural husband, "Do you know what a gasoline is?" "Why, of course," she replied, "It is a young duck."

Rural Entertainment.

A city girl returning after a vacation among the cows and chickens was asked about the time she had had. She said: "I had a wonderful time. It was all interesting to me, but what I liked best was to hear the farmers page the cows."

"AT EASE"

(By Ge Allevir)

Charles Chaplin has quit the knock-about-stuff, and has taken to straight comedy. Perhaps on account of the high cost of custard pies. Charlie always was a penurious sort of a cuss.

But it is really so,
Whenever England disputes with us,
It's about one Doc Monroe.

It is dancing endurance contests fasting endurance contests, air flight contests, walking endurance contests, and so many others that we wonder how much longer the public can endure such demfoolishness, Don't you?

Form Anti-Flirt Club.

About 125 Indiana University coeds have formed a new organization on the campus, to be known as the Anti-Flirt Club. Men of the university have retaliated by forming a Men's Mutual Welfare Association. It is said some of the girls who joined the club consider the matter a joke, while others say it is an honest-to-goodness organization that is opposed to all forms of flirting, both plain and fancy.

MYSTERIOUS "SEA HORSES" USED IN "THE HOTTENTOT"

Sea horses are used for the first time on the screen in Thomas H. Ince's new comedy drama special, "The Hottentot," which features Douglas MacLean and Madge Bellamy. The sea-beasts are one of the fifty-seven varieties that appear in this hilariously funny story of a horse-fearing yachtsman who mistakes an invitation to a fashionable steeplechase for a boat party and then finds it impossible to dodge all the horses around him. He ends up by riding the most dangerous horse of all in a spectacular racing sequence.

The sea-horses which appear in one comedy shot in the picture, which is an adaptation of Willie Collier's famout racing play, were secured with the greatest difficulty as sea-horses are almost as rare as shark's teeth.

Douglas MacLean plays the role of Sam Harrington, who gets so off a horse that he exclaims dismally, "That isn't a home, it's a stable." Madge Bellamy, recently starred in "Lorna Doone," plays the part of the adornable "Peggy Fairfax," for whose sake he finally overcomes his fear of the animals.

The picture will be shown at the Post Theatres, Sunday, May 13.

SIBERIAN WOLF IS FLAPPER-VAMP ON SCREEN

The flapper regarded as a development of twentieth century civilization is nothing new in the female of the species. Either that, or else wild animals have gone through the same psychological developments as have the humna race to evolve such specimens for a Siberian wolf in playing a part in motion pictures, has exhibited every wile that the flapper type of girl dotes in showing.

The wolf flapper vamps Strongheart the wonder dog star, in his latest Laurence Trimble-Jane Murfin production "Brawn of the North" a First National Attraction which will be shown Monday at the Post Theatres.

She was too wild to be directed in her performance in the same degree to which Strongheart is, so Mr. Trimble who directed the production, kept her separated from Strongheart until the sight of him and his aloofness had aroused a natural desire for admiration from him in her heart.

Then he turned the two of them loose and left it to the wolf as to how to attract his attention and affection.

The result is that the flapper type has been universally recognized.

Inf. School Detachment Notes

Our "Fashion Plate," Pvt. 1st Class Glean has departed on a short furlough. We all hope he returns single.

Mess Sergt. Bill Stewart has taken a furlough. Some one said he was composing a new set of Men's, here's power to you Sergeant.

Our "Old Timer" Sergeant Cream is in New York on furlough, we all hope he enjoys his well earned vacation.

Our office force has been increased by the addition of Corporals Walters and Green.

Jazz Magoni: "I'll be a millionaire by this time next week." We never did realize the value of Alabama real estate before.

Lt. Smith had visions of one of our deserters the other day, but he couldn't be found. We all hope you won't have to wear glasses Lieutenant.

Medical Dept. Notes

We wonder what can be drawing Sgt. Heatherly to the city every night since he went with Sergt. Thompson. Maybe he was too young or didn't know where the wonderful sights were until somebody showed him.

Several men are now counting their days, but what is the use, for they all are sure to re-enlist. Times are too hard on the outside to venture into civil life.

Service Club No. 1 Notes

The B. F. C.'s held their regular meeting on Thursday, May 3rd. All ladies of the enlisted personnel are invited to join this club.

Last Friday night a Casino Tournament was held in the South Room Private Jeffers and Privaet Rowe were the winners.

The regular meeting of the dance committee was held last Monday.

The regular weekly enlisted mens dance was given last Wednesday evening at the new post gym. An unusually large crowd was present and the music furnished by the civilian orchestra was good.

The regular dance for enlisted men will not be given on next Wednesday on account of the "Big Hike."

A group of singers will entertain all visitors and men at 2:00 p. m. at the Service Club on next Sunday (Mother's Day.)

A cribbage tournament will be held at the Club tonight (Friday.)

If enough men and enlisted men's ladies desire to start a dancing class a class will be started. Give your name to Miss Roe the Post Hostess.

Carter, former All-Star Southern champ, in a fast singles match, 7-5,2-6, and 6-2. Van Vliet was slow in getting started on the courts, but when he did finally get warmed up he outplayed Carter nearly all the way.

Hunt again had Finley's license number, and forced the Benning net man to repeated errors by a masterful chop stroke. He took two straight games by the scores of 6-1 and 6-2.

Switzer won over Kennedy, 2-6, 6-2 and 6-3. The Benning player made a bad start off and was only able to win two sets from the Atlantan. He staged a comeback in the next two sets and was easily the victor. Kennedy is former South Atlantic champion.

Caldwell, formerly of Princeton, easily eliminated Whittemore, in two straight sets by the scores of 6-3 and 6-3.

Smith and Carter, of the Atlanta Athletic Club, won the first double match from Van Vliet and Finley by the scores of 5-7, 6-4 and 6-3. It was a rapid fire battle until the third set, when the Clubmen outclassed the Benning team and clinched the first double match.

Grant and Thornton, old strategists and veterans of many tournaments, proved too much for Brand and Whittemore, and were victorious by the scores of 6-2, 5-7 and 6-8.

A large gallery witnessed the matches and ideal weather prevailed.

HOWARD AND INFANTRY TIE IN THE FIRST GAME

Score Stands Six to Six When Play Is Halted.

BY BROOKE LEMAN

INFANTRY 6; HOWARD 6.

On last Friday Old Jupe Pluvius acted as the high arbitrator for matters sporting, stepping in and took a hand at ending a hectic contest between the Infantry and Howard College. Hectic is the word hearties and hectic it was.

With the tally standing six to six in the fifth frame along came the elements which aided and abetted by the gathering darkness induced Umps Wheeler to call it a day. But many things had happened in those brief five frames.

Both teams had used two hurlers in an effort to head off enemy tallying and both gave rather weird exhibitions in cruciay moments in the field. It was a slow and listless battle. Someone explained the Infantry end of it by announcing that the Blue had been shot with some of the Army serum. It may have been the case. At any rate, the usual zip and pepper of Captain Fountain's crew was sadly lacking.

The Infantry proceeded to spot the Slagtown nine with three tallies in the opening frame when Whitesides was wild and ineffective and again three more of the collegians raced over the rubber in the third. Whitesides was replaced by McNutt who fared somewhat better although being touched up for two raps in the third stanza, one a triple by White which figured considerably in the scoring.

Stubbs started on the rubber for Howard and didn't have a great deal of stuff on the pellet. He was wild as a March hare and twice packed the stations with five free tickets to first. With two Infantrymen holding down the satchels he was replaced in the fourth by Baines who managed to pull out of this difficulty after the Blue had crossed the rubber twice.

But the fireworks were postponed only for one frame for the Infantrymen shoved over four runs and tied the tally in the fifth. Luck and goodly portions of erratic playing on the part of Howard were close allies of the Doughboys in this stanza.

Howard out hit the Blue in the abbrieviated contest claiming eight safeties to seven. Fielding honors were about even and it was a slow day both ways.

Game called account darkness.

The showing of our tennis team at Atlanta over the week-end was one to be proud of. It took the Atlanta Athletic Club, one of the best in these United States, to stop us. No other college or club in the South can do it.

We lost 4 to 2 to A. A. C. and at that they had to work every minute of the way. It is our opinion that our team was just a little bit fed up on tennis and was, therefore, not a their best game.

Have you noticed the huskies out every evening at Football practice? Looks pretty good for next year even though most of the old heads will be scattered to the four winds.

Our baseball team certainly had a couple of 'off' days when Howard College was here. When good, old steady Hi gets beaten you can just figure that it wasn't meant that we win the game, that's all.

Our prediction concerning the batting prolivity of Bull Yon is being carried out. Every day (in every way) he's hittin' 'em farther and farther.

Here's hopin' that Honnen and Nelson are in shape for the rest of the season. Get 'em feelin' good and they shore work purty in their positions.

Poor, old Walt Johnson won his 100th shut-out of his baseball career. He not only held the Yanks to three stingy little hits, but pounded out a three bagger of his own. He relied mostly on his 'smoke' ball as in his heyday. Reading the account of the game carried us back ten years.

Charles Paddock, California's Native Son, was the only American competitor, at the international intercollegiate games in Paris last week. France won first, Italy, second, and Szecho-Slovakia, third. During the four days of Paddock's participation he broke one world's sprinting record and equaled four other records, three of them his own. In addition to records broken or equaled during the last week on Sunday he equaled his own record in the 100 and 200 meter and 100 yard dashes. In addition to all this Paddock, by the mere participation in the games against the wishes and commands of the American Amateur Athletic Union, created almost an international situation in that all athletes who participated in the meet may be barred from the Olympic Games next year.

HOWARD IS VICTOR IN SECOND HECTIC BATTLE

Soldiers Tie Score in Eighth, But Slagtown Artists Come Back in Ninth and Score Three, Winning, 6 to 3.

By BROOKE LEMAN

HOWARD COLLEGE 6; INFANTRY 3

The grim invaders from the murky realms of Slagtown snatched a ball game out of the fire in the first half of the last frame last Saturday afternoon. In this aforesaid frame Howard shoved over three tallies which broke the knotted score and resulted in the ball game being crated back to the domains of the Yaller Hammer State.

Whenever any ball club can hammer Tracy Davis, Doughboy de luxe slabster, for fourteen safe raps, three being for extra satchels, that club is due to win a ball game. Howard did this trick yestetrday and in so doing piled up more safties than any team has this year against the Blue. Howard garnered almost twice as many safe raps off the slanting delivery of Hi Davis as did the husky Vandy Commodores.

This potent factor, together with better work in the fielding section, gave the lads from Birmingham a beautifully played and extraordinarily fast game. Up until the ninth inning it appeared to be anybody's affair, but in this fatal sector Howard clouted out four safe bingles, which connected with a very costly Infantry error gave the visitors three runs, which was, of course, enough to win the battle.

Davis Not In Form.

Davis lacked his usual stuff. His fast ball did not have the big hop and the control of other games was not present. Baines hurling for Howard had the Infantrymen guessing in the first half of the contest, but weakened in the latter stages and retired in favor of Stephens. It was this wise substitution on the part of the Howard mentor, as much as anything else, which gave the visitors the battle.

The Infantry failed to connect in crucial moments outside of the sixth and eight frames. Batting lamps were either untrimmed or else the offering of the Howard slabsmen had unusually baffling twists.

Howard shoved over one in the second frame when White doubled and came home on Grigg's one time rap. Another Birmingham lad crossed the rubber in the third when Lackey was safe on McMullin's bad toss of his bunt and scored when Barfield doubled. Dawson singled in the third, stole second and tallied on Alford's screamer for one sack.

The Infantry got men on the satchels in the second, third, fourth and fifth stanzas, but failed to deliver in the pinches. Two of the Blue were shoved over in the sixth.

Fountain walked and advanced on Milburn's single. Yon forced Fountain at third, but McMillin singled, tallying Milburn. Tracy Davis added his contribution to his own ball game with a single and Yon registered up.

Infantry Rallies.

Wit the score standing 3 to 2 the Infantry staged an eighth inning rally and tied matters up in a hard knot. Shrimp Milburn and Yon did the trick when both doubled and the former tallied.

But matters did not rest this way for long. Howard took the ball game home in their half of the ninth. With one down Stephens singled, Lackey poked out an ace and Shelton added a double bringing Stephens home. Barfield hit a garss cutter to Honnen, which the Blue shortstop booted, scoring Lackey and Shelton.

The 1923 rifle season has not yet begun, but a preliminary course of instruction has been conducted for those of the regiment who comprise the "overhead" or "home guard" personnel for about two hours daily. From this aggregation of first sergeants, mess sergeants, cooks and K. P.'s company clerks and other special duty men within the regiment there has been de-

WAR-DOGS' ARE LOOSE

Hostilities Opened Tuesday Morning.

After much controversy and debate diplomatic relations were suddenly broken off last Monday afternoon and orders issued for the troops to take the field.

So Tuesday Morning the troops were on the move and as they should be well within striking distance, a big battle will probably take place today, which may possibly last for a couple of days.

From the reports of our special correspondents. Lieut. Hess and Lieut. Leman both armies are well supplied with the munitions of war and also both armies have infantry, cavalry, artillery, tanks, aeroplanes and the necessary non-combatant branches to carry on thoroughly. They also report that the moral of both armies are excellent and that both are confident of victory.

All indications point that both nations were preparing for war at least a month in advance and this is borne out by the fact that it would be extraordinary for a nation or nations to put all of their troops in the field the day following the breaking of diplomatic relations if they were not prepared for war.

This is however an emphatic point to keep in mind for if one-side had not been ready they sure would have suffered a disastrous defeat right at the opening of the campaign which would have influenced the entire war.

Field Marshall John W. Heavy is the commander-in-chief of the Blue army, and Field Marshal James V. Heidt is the commander-in-chief of the Red army.

Both of the officers are well known at this station and for that reason it will be almost impossible for the inhabitants of this Post to remain neutral.

The News will try to remain absolutely neutral during this campaign and further we will try to give our readers unbiased facts of the campaign.

SPECIAL REPORT FROM LIEUT. MIKE, ONE OF THE CORRESPONDENTS OF THE NEWS.

Casualities Are Interviewed.

Somewhere in Georgia, May 17, 1923.—Special—Along the Bois de Bois-Bossois Bois Road at dusk tonight straggled a pitiful throng, the wounded—returning from the front, where even yet rumble the sullen guns, whose mighty, ceaseless crashes awoke the day to life early this morning when Blue met Red in the first meeting engagement of the forces.

Back crept the wounded and the refugees. Forward lumbered the supplies; tons of them, Morning Report forms, Reports of Changes, payrolls, indorsements, and memorandum receipts. How fast they are consumed! It seems incredible this battle should require such unheard of quantities of ammunition. Such, however, are the demands of modern warfare.

Barber, Mrs. Bernard Byrne, Mrs. Norris Wimberly, Mrs. Fred Wickham, and Mrs. Walter Southerland.

MRS. C. A. LEWIS HOSTESS AT BRIDGE

One of the prettiest parties of the week was the bridge given by Mrs. C. A. Lewis, who entertained Monday afternoon at her home on Seventeenth street.

Quanities of lovely spring flowers were used in decorating the rooms open to the guests, and when the salad course was served, there was a corsage of sweet peas for each guest.

The first and second prizes were Madeira centerpieces, won by Miss Elizabeth Underwood and Mrs. C. W. Campbell.

Mrs. Walter S. Drysdale won the booby, a fancy powder puff, and her mother, Mrs. McIlroy, who came in for tea was presented a dainty hand-made handkerchief.

MRS. CARROLL SCARBOROUGH ENTERTAINS FOR MISS SIMS

Mrs. Carroll Scarborough was the gracious hostess on Tuesday at a lovely spring party, the lower floor of her home on Third avenue being profusely adorned with quantities of garden flowers.

In the living room where the card tables were placed, vari-colored sweet peas were used. The dining room and hall were brightened with Dorothy Porkins roses.

Miss Sims, the attractive bride-elect who was guest of honor was presented a pretty gift of silver and the winners of high score and consolation were awarded Dorins.

After the game, salad, ices, and iced tea were served.

The invitation list was confined to a group of intimate friends of the honoree.

DELIGHTFUL SEWING PARTY.

Mrs. C. A. Lewis entertained informally on Tuesday afternoon, the ladies of Camp Devon.

The guests brought their sewing spending a very pleasant afternoon, at the conclusion of which a salad course and iced tea were served.

CARD PARTY AT OFFICER'S CLUB.

Mrs. John T. Dinsmore, Mrs. Henry W. Grady, and Mrs. Frank T. Chamberlin, were joint hostesses on Monday at a beautiful bridge party given at the Officer's Club.

A color motif in yellow and blue was attractively carried out with blue larkspurs and yellow daisies. Quantities of dainty huckleberry blossoms were also used.

Top-score prize, a Madeira luncheon set was won by Mrs. Per Ramee. The second prize, a buffet set of Maderia, was won by Mrs. Edward G. McCormick.

The third prize, a Maderia tray cover was won by Mrs. Benjamin C. Lockwood.

About ninety guests were present.

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

The regular dinner-dance was held ta the Country Club last Saturday and was one of the delightful week end events.

Among the Army people were Capt. N. E. Olmstead with a table for eight; Lieut. and Mrs. Shepherd, for fifteen, and Capt. and Mrs. Findley for five

COLONEL AND MRS. KENT ENTERTAIN.

On last Friday evening Colonel and Mrs. Kent were the delightful hosts at a pretty dinner party given at the Officers' Mess.

Mountain laurel was arranged in wall pockets and sweet peas centered the table making a very effective decoration.

Covers were laid for twenty seven.

After the delicious dinner, the party attended the dance given by the Officers' Club.

Mr. Dooley is a brother of Mrs. K. Olson.

While Mrs. Kenneth Olson is in Greer, S. C. Mrs. Olson and Miss June Olson who are house guests of Lieut. and Mrs. Olson will visit Savannah, Ga.

MAJOR CAMPANOLE'S JAPANESE DINNER.

Decidedly one of the most unique and delightful dinners given in Columbus in some time was Major Campanole's of Thursday evening, at his home on Fourth avenue.

Major Campanole has a Japanese cook that he brought with him from the Orient, and also many attractive Japanese ornaments and furnishings. On that occasion the table was decorated in the Japanese idea, and at each end a Japanese lantern was burning. In the center of the table was a glass reflector, and on it was one perfect pink rose. Sweet-peas and ferns mare a pretty mound around the reflector, and were scattered over the table.

A course dinner was served and every dish was prepared in Japanese fashion.

24th INFANTRY BRIDGE.

The regular meeting of the 24th Infantry Bridge Club was held at the home of Mrs. M. E. Jones.

Her quarters were prettily decorated with spring flowers.

Mrs. Geo. Clarke won the top score prize and the second prize was won by Mrs. J. E. Daugherty. Mrs. L. V. Jones drew the tea prize.

After the playing a delicious salad course was served.

MUSCOGEE CLUB DINNER DANCE.

The delightful dinner dance given at the Muscogee Club on Wednesday, May 9th was well attended.

These affairs are very popular with the army people and among those present were Capt. E. G. Chapman, Lt. Ritter, Captain Morrow, Lt. Snodgrass, Lt. Curren, Captain Reiner, Capt. Knight, Capt. Woodworth, Capt. Griffin, Capt. Thomas, Capt. Besse, Lt. Craig, Lt. Connor, Lt. Huntress, Capt. Pearson, Capt. Kennedy, Lt. Douglas, Lt. Nichols, Lt. Beatie, Lt. Davis, Lt. Howard, Lt. Honnen, Lt. Honnen, Capt. Vadala, Lt. Ziegler, Capt Scales, Capt. Dannison, Lt. Hendley.

A MOST DELIGHTFUL BRIDGE TEA.

Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Hahn were joint hostesses at a pretty party at the Polo Club on last Friday afternoon when they entertained one hundred and twenty guests at a bridge tea.

The Club was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a profusion of roses, sweet peas and wild flowers. The prizes which were hand-made linens were won by Mrs. Scales, Mrs. Dinsmore and Mrs. Tavenner.

LIEUT. AND MRS. J. W. ELKINS ENTERTAIN THE BLUE POLO TEAM.

On Sunday, May 6th Captain and Mrs. J. W. Elkins were the charming hosts for the Blue Polo Team.

Their quarters were very prettily decorated with primroses, mountain laurel and many other spring flowers.

The delicious supper was in the nature of a farewell to the Blue Team as several members of the team are leaving and so the Polo players have had to recognize the teams.

"AT HOME"

Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Haywood Hansell were "at home" on Sunday, May 13th to members of the Medical Corps.

"AT HOME."

Mrs. E. G. McCormick, wife of Major McCormick entertained at an "At Home" last Tuesday afternoon from four to six, to present her sister Mrs. Samuel Buracker.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Captain and Mrs. Reeve Turner announce the engagement of their daughter Mary Elizabeth, to Captain David Renwick Kerr.

29th INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. Winn and Mrs. Paquet entertained jointly for the 29th Infantry Bridge Club which met at the home of the latter, last Monday afternoon.

Spring flowers were artistically used for the decorations.

Mrs. Sims won the high score prize and received a beautiful powder vase. Mrs. Olson, mother of Lieut. Olson won the second prize, a sandwich tray. Miss June Olson drew the consolation a bridge score set.

Candy was served during the playing and after the playing ice cream and cake were served.

83rd FIELD ARTILLERY BRIDGE.

Mrs. John A. Chase entertained the 83rd Field Artillery Bridge Club at a bridge luncheon at her home in Columbus last Tuesday afternoon.

Her home was profusely decorated with roses and sweet peas, and California poppies.

After the delicious course luncheon bridge was enjoyed. Mrs. W. W. Webster won the high score prize and Mrs. Williams won the second. Mrs. Biderlinden drew the consolation.

The next meeting which will be next Tuesday afternoon will be with Mrs. Lewis.

THE MEDICAL DEPT. BRIDGE CLUB.

Major and Mrs. Starr Moulton entertained the Medical Department Bridge Club at their quarters last Tuesday evening.

After five frames of bridge delicious refreshments were served. The winners were Mrs. Thomas Smith, Mrs. Mary Turner and Mrs. Philip Green.

A delightful surprise of the evening came when Capt. Reeve Turner, M. C. announced the engagement of "Our Mary" to Captain David Kerr. The wedding to take place this fall.

24th INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. John Kneubel entertained the 24th Infantry Bridge Club at her quarters last Tuesday afternoon.

Her quarters were prettily decorated with flowers taken from her own garden.

Mrs. Bresanhan won the high score prize and received a hand-painted basket. Mrs. Daugherty won the second prize a bottle of perfume. Mrs. Nicklin drew the cut prize and won a set of ice tea spoons.

Punch was served during the playing and ice cream with cake were served after the game.

MRS. JOHN E. MORRIS GIVES DINNER PARTY.

As the husbands were all away at the Fort Benning War, Mrs. John E. Morris, wife of Lieut.-Col. Morris, entertained a number of her lady friends at a dinner Tuesday evening at five-thirty at the Cozy Tea Room. The guest of honor was Mrs. Chas. W. Mason, who is leaving at an early date.

Pink sweet peas and Dorothy Perkins roses with pink candles in silver holders and place-cards carrying out the same color note, made an attractive dinner table.

Those present were: Mesdames Morris, Anding, Mason, Hatie, Misses Davis, of Mobile, Mesdames Herbert, Hickox, Garrison, Wylie, Bugbee, Heidt, Carr, Bretz and Cook.

ENTERTAIN AT DINNER.

On Tuesday evening Major and Mrs. Goldthwaite entertained Colonel and Mrs. McCaskey informally at dinner.

SPENT THE WEEK-END HERE.

Miss Raffensburg of Atlanta spent the week-end at Fort Benning as the guest of Capt. and Mrs. J. H. Kneubel.

Service Co.

The band has just returned from a very enjoyable trip to Macon, Ga. The men were all smiles upon their return and have been hoping to return to that town again.

Flashlight Boyd is now in training for his coming fight with "Young Geo. Dixson" or any other 122 pound scrapper. The Featherweight Champion of the 4th Corps Area, preferred.

Private Scott Bradford, our representative on the try-out for the Infantry Rifle team is confident that he will make the team this season.

Company "A"

Corporal Adams, we admire your willingness to shoot and the place you hold on the team, but for strength—you need more. You know as well as I do you did not make the proper use of your sling. Neither did you hold and squeeze properly. Take this as a lesson and always keep yourself in physical condition for any test that may be put before you, and success will surely follow.

Company "H"

The company has a new Top Kicker. Sergt. Fields is now the Do Do. He takes the place of Fat Pops who is in the battle with the reds and blues.

Bugler Robertson seems to have bad luck with the fair sex. He has decided to become a member of the "Down and out Club" of Company "H" Tent 36 is under the direction of Bugler Smith.

We can hear Bugler Smith singing "Trouble, trouble, I have had it all my days." Don't sing any more old boy, it looks like you have landed the said Fort again.

There's no reason why the Top couldn't make himself popular if he only practices a few acts of courtesy—Such as personally putting on the tailor's leggins, Never insist on Platoon Leaders observing Reville. Never allow a private to do K. P. or never order a private but use tact and entreary.

Very sorry indeed, that Sergt. Campbell cannot take part in the Blue army he stepped on the cut-out and now he can not wear a 15 E. E. Shoe on that very 6 C. foot of his. Any excuse is better than none.

Corpl. Reeves says that you may laugh at the old maids, but it is strange that their money is always new and welcome.

Gentlemen; please treat your neighbor as you wish to be treated while he is out with the Blue and Red armies.

Company "K"

Well if anybody asks you who sung this song tell 'em its Co. "K" attached to "E" Co. that been here and gone. Gone but not forgotten to the hills on the big drive, but there is one good consolation, they will have nothing to worry about but their personal welfare, for the boys at home will take care of the fair sex in Columbus also the "blocks" during their absence.

Said Lt. "X" 29th Infantry to a bunch of skinners in the "Blue Forces"

"Now men, are there any questions?"

Pvt. Monroe Lewis, "Sir, Lt. I want to know what do you want me to do with these four mules when they turn on the gas?"

Private Miles, John of the Service Co. and Private Porter Clarence, and Cook Norman Pickett are all running a race. It seems hard to tell who will win, from here to Columbus, and we hear that it is a case of a man who has the most patience. Of course there is one certain brother in the crowd that I know from personal experience has the patience of Job. The regiment wishes you all well, and you have it's sympathy, but if I tell you that a "Faint heart never won a fair lady, you'd hear me."

Company "L"

While Sergt. Juilus Jennings, was on the range he fired 5 shots and received in reward the red flag five times. The range officer walked up and says Sergt. do you see the target? His reply was, "Yes, Sir," "Well Sergt, do you see the Bull's eye?" "Yes, Sir, I see three of them." "Nuff said Sergt."

Private Charlie Vaughns the shiek of Company "L" was seen putting shooting pads on a silk shirt. Vaughn you can't vamp those 30-30's into the Bull's eye.

Attention—Experts, Sharpshooters, and marksmen: There will be very heavy firing on the following ranges during the next ten days. 23—19—16—40 every one must shoot for record while the regular rangers are away.

One of our noted fellowmen is about to be discharged. The company is wondering if the Old ox cart and wagon is in good condition to meet him at the cross road. Do not worry Pleasant, they will be there if you wrote for them in time. (Two months is plenty of time.)

Medical Dept. Notes

The past week has brought us a new 1st Sergeant. Sergeant Lang assures us that he is going to care for the members of the detachment, even if he has to go to the expense of purchasing a motorcycle for rounding up his men.

Lucky for us Sergeant Saunders who received his warrant the past week will replace Sergeant Lang on the N. C. O. roster, so we still catch charge of quarters every eleven days.

Corporal Thomas Martin recently made a trip to his home in Griswoldville, Georgia. It is rumored that he took on a new life partner while away, and he certainly looks the part.

Discharged during the week Private Arthur J. Frisch, who will go to his home in Rochester, N. Y.

SCENE FROM "THE KENTUCKY DERBY" A UNIVERSAL JEWEL PICTURE STARRING REGINALD DENNY

ROMANCE AND THRILLS IN NEW FILM FEATURE

Here's a new Kentucky recipe—with a kick in it.

Take a hot-tempered old Kentucky Colonel, named Moncrief Gordon, for instance.

Take his son, Donald, a hot -heated independent chip off the old block.

Add Alice Rance, beautiful and sweet, but the orphaned daughter of a stableman.

Throw in a female vamp who wants to "catch" Donald, and her accomplice, a "false" Gordon.

Agitate with another hot-tempered Colonel, with money to back his racehorses against the Gordon thoroughbreds.

Sugar to taste, but do not crush the mint, suh, and you will have as delightful, a confection as ever was brewed in old Kentucky.

That's just what King Baggot has turned out for us in "The Kentucky Derby," a Universal-Jewel picture adapted from Charles T. Dazey's famous stage melodrama.

With Reginald Denny as Donald Gordon, Emmett King as Col. Gordon, Lillian Rich as Alice, Gertrude Astor, and Walter McGrail as the "vamp" and her accomplice, and with Lionel Belmore as the other Colonel, Universal has produced a thrilling story of the Blue Grass region. Besides its Kentucky and race track sequences it is said to contain thrilling scenes on the high seas and in foreign ports.

"The Kentucky Derby" is to be shown at the Post Theatres next Sunday. Much of it actually was filmed on the thorough-bred stock farms near Lexington and Louisville, Kentucky.

FOOTBALL.

This is not a particularly attractive subject these hot days. It is made less popular because of the fact that the great American game of baseball now occupies the center of the athletic stage.

However at this time the football coaches are beginning to cast about for next season's football material and this gets us right down to the idea we have in mind.

What kind of a football team are we going to have next year?

The outlook right now is not bright, to speak frankly. A reason exists for this. In the first place the classes next year will be composed of older men whose football days have passed. It is an exceptional case where a man is physically fit to play football after the age of Thirty. Most of the members of next years' classes will be over this age.

For several reasons it is "up to" organization and detachment commanders to interest the football personnel of their organizations and detachments in trying out for the Infantry School team. This is the Infantry School and the fact that it is—although located on an Army post called Fort Benning—behooves every Infantry officer to give his hearty support to the athletics of the School, just as he would give his support to any other phase of Infantry activities.

If the organization and detachment commanders influence their men to the point where the men will feel that they are doing their bit for the Infantry by playing on a team representing the Infantry School there will be a creditable football team next year.

In the past there has been criticism from certain quarters of the method in which members of the various athletic teams were chosen. One of the most popular forms of criticism was that the enlisted man stood no show of getting a place on the team if he was competing against an officer. Such a condition does not exist and has never existed. Every effort has been made in the past to get the enlisted personnel out for the various teams without any great degree of success. The reason for this lack of success was because the company commander, in most cases, was not in favor of his men playing on the Infantry School team. It "broke up" his own team—notwithstanding the fact that his man got the best coaching available and was available to play on the organization team when needed—or "We don't get anything out of Infantry School Athletics", so why should we help them out?

Both arguments are narrow. As a matter of fact, so far as the latter is concerned, a percentage of all gate receipts to games on the Post accrue to the local recreation fund which in turn is expended, solely, for the recreation of the enlisted personnel of this command.

Let's forget our petty jealousies, if they exist, and put a real foot-ball team in the field next year. Such as Rompolski, Swantic, Parrish and a few others will, when gotten together on one big team, make a record. Incidentally they are going to get the coaching that will make them more valuable to their battalion teams. The News hopes that company commanders will think this over a while.

AN APPRECIATION

The following letter has been received in connection with our editorial entitled "An Appreciation" of May 11, 1923. The letter is appreciated by the "News" and is published for the consideration of the entire garrison.

Fort Benning, Gt.,
May 14, 1923.

The Editor,
Fort Benning News,
Fort Benning, Georgia.

Dear Sir:

I wish to thank you for your fine editorial of May 11th regarding the sacrifice made by players of the different school teams.

Expressions of this type or even evidences of the sentiment prompting them are encouraging to players and help carry them through many discouraging situations of which the spectator is usually blissfully ignorant.

It is very easy to shout ones loyalty and support to a winning team but true loyalty and support is more clearly shown when the team may be losing.

This loyalty has been accorded the school teams by the majority of the post personnel and it was the realization of this that enabled the teams to "carry on" in the face of ennumerable handicaps and difficulties not encountered by any team played by us.

A college team personnel is usually younger than the players on our teams. They have more time to devote to practice. They are given rewards for performance not given our players. They have paid professional coaches who have their players usually for four years and can thus develop them individually and also perfect team play.

None of these conditions exist with us. Our personnel is a constantly changing one and there is no time for individual development. Coaches, like players, must devote the time used by all others in diversion, to practice. There is little incentive for this extra work by players. The courses are competive and the applause of the grand stand, when a good play is made hardly balances the inevitable loss of units through inability to prepare as thoroughly as non-playing students.

It is because of these conditions that your editorial, bringing them as it does to the attention of the non-participating members of the command is of special value to us.

I believe I am sufficiently familiar with the feelings of the players to warrant my stating that they join me in this as an expression of their appreciation as well as my own.

With best wishes for the continued success of the "Benning News," I am,

Very truly,
Jas. G. Hannah.

Proverbs of Pvt. Solomon

Chapter VIII.

That Which Dealeth With Maneuvers

There cometh a period during a soldier's enlistment when he leaveth the comforts of camp life and goeth into the field.

Some of these field exercises are real war and others are just practice, some be long and others short but even then too long for some soldiers.

When there giveth orders for a maneuver it giveth much excitement and worry. The ordinary soldiers are excited because it is probably their first maneuver and so the older soldiers tell the younger ones about varfous things some of which are good and some of which are mysterious.

Showeth thou me an old soldier who hath not seen a badger fight a dog or who hath never hunted snipe and then so will I show thee a soldier who hath never had much field duty.

Some soldier there are who are always losing something and say that it was stolen and they go right to the supply sergeant and demand that the lost be replaced and so seem to think that a supply sergeant is superhuman and when anything is needed all that the supply sergeant need do is reach into the air and pull it down and hand it to them. But alas when cometh the end of the month and so cometh pay day he finds that he be short a few gold pieces which were used to pay for "stolen" equipment or when cometh the end of the quarter and several more pieces of gold are missing from the pay, in payment of "stolen" clothes but such is life in the Army of Stmuel for when the maneuver starteth so must all soldiers have all clothing and equipment.

But finally cometh the hour of departure and all is in readiness. The bugle soundeth the forward and the column moveth off with a light step. But as the day groweth old the pack getteth heavier until at night that fifty yound pack feeleth like a hundred weight. So also at the time of departure many of the younger soldiers carried many unnecessary articles, but these are soon dispersed with for they soon learn to carry only what they must and leave the rest behind.

As they march along and the day getteth hotter and hotter so the young soldiers pull and pull their canteen oftener and oftener and some even try to be a good fellow by passing his canteen around so that soon only the old soldiers and the wise younger soldiers have a full canteen of water but the foolish have an empty canteen and desireth a drink mighty and say mighty words because the old soldier will not pass their water around but keep it for themselves. Nor heed you the wise and the old keep their water but the fool he giveth it away or drinketh exceedingly while the day is still young.

The first meal on the maneuver is usually a cold ration cooked before departure, eaten along the road without having to build a fire.

Shortly after the lunch the march is resumed and the long rest maketh the men feel better except those foolish ones again who are so endowed with worldly wisdom that they think that they can wear a new pair of shoes on a hike, until they try it and then their feet become sore, they sweareth mighty at the supply sergeant because the shoes do not fit.

But know ye that no soldier is at fault in the Army of Samuel, but it is always the other fellow who is to blame.

But soon the command arriveth at the camping place for the night and the tents are pitched and the men told to fix up their beds. This the older soldier and the wise younger ones do heartily, getting together dry grass, or the tender branches of the trees and so make a bed that would be fit for any king. But the foolish ones, oh well they are too tired to move about and besides they can't see the need of going to a lot of extra work, and also they are so tired that they could sleep on a rock and never know it.

Soon there raiseth a mighty shout and the men dance and feel gay for know ye that the rolling kitchens are arriving and that soon the evening mess will be ready. The men wait impatiently but after a while the bugle calleth out clear and loud "porky, porky without a streak of lean, soupy, soupy without a single bean, coffee, coffee without any cream" but nevertheless they run mightly and get their mess kits and line up.

But here again the younger soldiers soon learn that the non-commissioned officers head the line and they swear mightly but they must learn that it has always been so in the Army of Samuel and that they too must follow its traditions.

But now what meaneth that lone soldier that calleth out loudly? Alas he cannot find his mess kit and sweareth that some low down man hath stolen it but after he raved a while he cooleth down and then trieth to borrow a mess kit and alas when a man has only one he needeth it. Can'st thou imagine a doctor who was hurrying to a patient in his chariot and he meeteth another doctor who desireth to borrow his chariot so that he can make an urgent call on his patient? Thinkest thou that the first doctor wouldst give his chariot to the second doctor? So then canst thou expect one soldier wouldst give his mess kit to another?

But after the mess is finished then the soldiers have their fun. Some play with the "galloping dominos" and speak an unknown tongue except to a selected few. Others try many and divers ways to "break the dealer" Still others prefer to let the badger and the dog fight a round or two and those that feel fresh prefer to hunt snipe if they happen to be in a place favorable for such hunting. Still others get together and sing and tell tales. But it maketh no difference what they do or how late or how early they go to bed when that bulge speaketh out snappily in the morning air, "I can't get 'em up, I can't get 'em up, I can't get 'em up at all. A corporal is worse than a private, a sergeant is worse than a corporal, a lieutenant is worse than a sergeant, but the captain is the worse of them all. I can't get 'em up, I can't get 'em up, I can't get 'em up this morning." It giveth many groans and moans and some mighty words. But the older soldiers get out rapidly and get dressed and maketh ready for the march. But the younger soldiers idleth away his time and soon breakfast soundeth and he is not ready so he must needs make haste after breakfast, while the older soldier take a smoke and fill their canteen again.

But it is so in the Army of Samuel that there always be a few who are exceedingly wise and a word of advice falls on barren ground or is not appreciated until it is too late. But the foolish are with us always in the army or out. SELAH!

To proceed from the sublime to the ridiculous we quote the following for your information and guidance.

"A little wild eyed Irishman went into a cafe the other day and sat down at a table a few feet from where a Englishman was ordering his lunch and the following conversation was overheard:

Waiter: What will you have sir."

Englishman: Bah Jove, I want a pot of English breakfast coffee, tea, ah—l—steak, rah-ther medium don't cher know, and some English muffins."

Waiter, to Irishman:" What will you have sir?"

Irishman: "Oi want some Irish stew and some Irish potatoes and a pot of Green tea.

Waiter: "Anything else sir."

Irishman: Yes Oi wish that Englishman would say something.

Having got that load off our chest we feel much better.

FORT FABLES.

By George Ed.

The Fable of the Dumbell who made a Lucky Guess.

Once upon a time there was a young Promotion Lister who had been sent to The Infantry School thru no fault of his own.

Several Commanding Officers and many Adjutants had grown weary and exhausted their allowance of stationery in a hopeless attempt to keep him espirited. Up to the time of going to press no one had succeeded in bringing the Trivial fact to the attention of this Officer of the guard material that occasionally it was considered perfectly proper to Put Out.

He was a phonograph with a busted Main-Spring. He was so indifferent to the Minute that he could go to sleep at a Post Exchange Meeting. He was a well known character at all the eating houses in Columbus for his clever answers.

The time came when the Final War was fought on the plantation between the Students on one hand and the Instructors on both hands. The action took place just previous to the end of the course.

Our hero, having been Hot Stuff at the Friday Night struggle was not his usual self the next morning when someone assigned the tasks for the Ten Day wanderings in the wilderness. So it happened that before our Lieutenant could get Marked Quarters he was assigned to Command an outfit.

After wandering over the 97,000 diversified acres which comprises our playground he was doing nicely when he found that his company had foolishly become engaged with the opposing troops. Without stopping to give the Terrain the Double O or getting the necessary information as to whether the Commanding Officer of the Opposing Troops was his Senior. He shouted to his Second in Command to take the right flank! He then went back to sleep knowing that there must be a right flank somewhere.

The attack was very successful and he was highly complimented by all for his excellent leadership and the keen knowledge of tactics he had displayed. From that day on he became an authority on flank attacks and other things.

Moral: Always attack the right flank.

Poetry or Prose.

Teacher—The difference between poetry and prose is like this:
Jack and Jill went up the hill,
If they haven't stopped they are going still,

Now that is poetry; In prose one would say:
Jack and Jill went up the hill, if they haven't stopped they are still going. Do you understand?

Pupil—Yes'm.

Teacher—Let's hear you give an example.

Pupil:
Jack and Jill went down the well,
If they don't stop they'll go to—

Teacher do you want poetry of prose?

Heavens, Johnnie, make it prose!

S'ore Do.

Teacher—Sambo, do you know what delight means?

Sambo—Yass'um.

Teacher—Give a sentence with delight then.

Sambo—De las' one in de bed puts de light out.

When Jestures Proved Practical.

Two men, Mr. Rosenbaum and Mr. Grabgold, were passengers on the same steamer crossing the ocean. Mr. Rosenbaum said to his friend, "I can't swim, If there is any trouble, will you take me ashore?" "Certainly" On nearing an island, something did happen to the ship and the passengers had to swim ashore. Mr. Grabgold struck out for land, forgetting his friend and his promise.

A few minutes later he was surprised to see his friend beside him on the island.

"Why, how did you get in? I thought you could not swim." "I can't but there I was in the water and I did not know what else to do, so I talked and I talked and I talked and that's how I got in."

Two Kinds of War.

Teacher—"The soldiers fought the war to the bitter end. Now, children do you know what that means?"

Class—"Yess'um."

Teacher—"Well, Eddie ,give a sentence with 'bitter end' now so I will see that you get the sense of this."

Eddie—"The dog chased the cat under the house and bit her end."

Worth Killing.

Reggie and Charlie were standing talking to Henrietta and Dorothy. They were languidly discussing which is the worst pest sparrows or worms. Charlie said: "They brought over the sporrows from England to get rid of the worms, but now there are so many sparrows, they are about as bad as the worms. What do you think about it Reggie, deah? Reggie adjusted his monacle and gave his cane a fancy twirl. "Weally, Chollie, deah, I don't know. You see weally, I nevah had sparrows." Then they sprinkled some water over two fainting Paquin dresses.

IMPROVED METHOD OF CRYSTALLOMANCY DISCOVERED.

Crystallomancy of the past has been relegated to the fakirs and quacks by all sane-minded persons, although many such patronize these practioneers mainly for the "kick" they get out of it.

In our laboratory we have recently been carrying on experimental work in physco-analytical fields which has culuminated in a surprising discovery.

If applied properly, the discovery is apt to be of great importance to the world, however we have determined that it is extremely inadvisable to turn this discovery over to the general public for obvious reasons.

It has long been an established fact that the sub-concious portion of the mind under stress, certain, circumstances and surroundings can produce prescience commonly called "second sight," prescience of danger, or of great happiness.

This prescience of the future, if of sufficient strength off times projects into the reasoning mind a clear cut picture.

Such instances are common. "An engineer's wife has a vision of disaster befalling her husband and begs him not to go on his regular run. He laughs and goes. He is killed in a wreck."

Numberless instances can be cited of this power given to the sub-concious mind, and it is true that it most often manifests in the feminine sex because of their greater promises to emotion.

We have constructed a huge crystal globe with which the operator coaxes his reasoning mind to inactivity, or a semi-hynonatic state. We then attach to the operator's head a light hollow steel helmet containing a certain secret solution of radium-active substance which we cannot reveal here, however the function of this solution is to stimulate faculties until they acquire the degree of activity necessary to delve into the future.

The operator gazes fixedly into the crystal, concentrating on the question asked. Shortly there appears to his eyes only, the answer, perhaps in the form of a picture, or perhaps in the form of print from a future periodical, according to the question asked.

There is practically no limit to the distance into the future into which we may inquire. From fifty to a thousand, or ten thousand years, or beyond.

We do not presume to know exactly how the sub-concious ascertains such information of the future, but science has ably demonstrated that the words time and space as we use them are but empty words used to abridge that which we do not understand. Our sub-concious mind, however is part of the Universal or Cosmic mind, omnipotent, omniscient, and omnipresent, which renders us all powerful if we but function in accord with natural laws.

We can therefore ascertain the past, present and future at will, but as it would not do for John Doe to know that Mrs. Doe went riding with Bill Jackson last Saturday, nor for Mr. Jones to know taht he was going to die of heart failure next Tuesday at 2:00 P. M. we will undertake to render free service to those who desire it in generalities of the future, and topics of general interest.

This will be a labor of love, and should stimulate the scientific of this generation, and the undecided ones to fall in line and make themselves useful that the strides of the world toward perfection may be unfaltering.

Such questions will be answered of the future, as; What will be status of Nations to each other (800) years from today? What means of transportation? but inquiries of personel nature will go to the waste-basket unheeded.

Send questions to Dept. X, Ft Benning News.

24th INFANTRY MAKES GOOD SHOWING AT THE TRY-OUT

veloped a formidable representation to enter the official Infantry team try-out which has just closed at the Infantry school.

Where there is a will there will be found a way. This was the slogan of the regimental commander and the officers whom he placed in charge of the rifle instruction for the regiment. Preliminary instruction was begun and such men as could be found in kitchens, and other S. O. S. duty were gathered together for an hour each morning. Interest became aroused, and the K. P.'s were soon vieing with each other to get out for the rifle work at the earliest possible hour after breakfast. Through common consent, a schedule for a three hour period of instruction was arranged daily, and every available man relayed his turn through this course.

When the first installment finished the preliminary course, they turned out with shovels and other "peace-time weapons of warfare" and proceeded to build a gallery range in the back lot so that some preliminary firing with gallery rifles might add to the effectiveness of the instruction. This was soon completed and each man was fired through the gallery course of qualification.

The question of the regiment's quota of candidates for the Infantry try-out at Fort Niagara then bacame the live topic of interest. The presence of the Infantry team captain at the Infantry school and the fact that a try-out was to be held at Fort Benning under the supervision of Major Per Ramee opened the way for the 24th Infantry to qualify their representatives for the official try-out at Niagara. A certain number of selected men were reported for participation in the semi-finals held at the Infantry School, with the result that the 24th Infantry had three men in the first ten in this try-out, and three more in the first thirty. This try-out included the 29th Infantry, Student officers representing a great many regiments throughout the country, many old shots who were ordered here for the try-outs and other personnel entitled a representation on the Infantry squad.

Among the regiment's best are the ex-members of the Infantry squad Capt. C. M. Lyons participated in the try-out at Niagara in 1921 and also Corporal Harriston. Private Bradford was the sole representative of the 24th Infantry last year. The new material this year brings forth Lt. L. V. Jones and 1st Sergt. Larkins. All of these men chalked up scores that made the Team Captain offer congratulations to the 24th Infantry for their prospects for the Infantry team.

Most of the credit for the showing made by the regiment is due Captain John H. Kneubel, Infantry who is atached to the 24th Infantry. His name is well known in army circles as synonum for Infantry team or Marksmanshiu. He was placed in charge of the rifle instruction and all the officers of the regiment co-operated with him 100 per cent. for the best that could be accomplished from the limited opportunity offered for any instruction. In this connection it must be noted that the 24th Infantry enlisted personnel have become so absolutely indispensible that the Infantry School in all probability would cease to function if the "Details" from the 24th to unseen activities and other "institution" were called in for any such trifling diversion as a rifle season on the range. All of this being true, in spite of the fact that there is a small bonus for marksmanship for which every enlisted man is entitled to qualify once each year.

It is the secret hope of every member of the 24th Infantry, Commissioned and enlisted that when the Maneuver is over and the present school session is done, that we might be permitted to spend the jolly summer months shooting ourselves into the lime-light in a regular range riot.

SPECIAL REPORT FROM LT. MIKE

I halted one of the wounded. A high explosive reply-by-indorsement had entered his efficiency report. "It has been awful" he said. "All day long we crouched in the Foret de Fere, shuddering under the impact of the enemy's famous Six-Thirty-Sevens. At three this afternoon one of our detachments of the Judge Advocate General's Department made a charge under the 96th Article. A heroic, but futile attempt. The enemy repulsed it ruthlessly with a plea to the jurisdiction."

He Staggered on.

I passed a group of staff officers busy over their maps in a secluded nook beneath the stately ten foot pines that line the First Division Road. The twilight showed faces wan with worry and haggard from loss of sleep. The map disclosed, as it was explained to me, a bewildering situation. The enemy had been reported at Adams Hill. Strong covering forces had been despatched in that direction. Unfortunately they had been despatched from the despatcher's office, and were irrevocably lost. Unfortunately, too, as it was likewise explaied to me, Sheet One of the Post map has two Adams Hills, and the enemy having leisurely departed from the other one, was even now hammering at the gates of camp. It was known that he could never get in as he had been deprived of his pass.

A debate began between two officers of the Staff as to the pronunciation of Smith Hill. One called it Smythe, The debate promised to endure as there is one hill of each. I passed on. A group of tactical instructors lay resting by the roadside, cheerfully singing the song of their corps: "Needles and Pins, Needles and Pins, give us a map and your trouble begins."

I was shouted off the roadside by a mounted detachment of the Finance Corps. Forward they swung at a thrilling gallop. Behind them jounced and jangled a battery of the dreaded long range pay stoppages.

By now it was intensely dark, and seeking some place where I could read my notes, I turned my steps toward a dim glimmer in the heart of the 29th Infantry Woods. Here I found, sheltered beneath a wrapper indorsement, a radio receiving set, and beside it, a glum looking officer of the Adjutant General's Department. I asked a question.

"The eyes of the army are blinded," he told me. "Our only plane is, I fear, lost." The observer attempted to send a message reporting an enemy reconnaissance in force. He was unable to spell reconnaissance correctly, and inasmuch as the latest regulations prescribe that army correspondence must be conducted in accordance with correct English, he has been directed to remain aloft until the correct spelling occurs to him.

"He must be out of gas by now," I ventured.

"He is."

"Then how is he to come down?"

"That," responded the officer sternly, "is up to him. He must show results, not give excuses. Discipline must be maintained."

"I shall observe his future career with considerable interest," I told him, and returned to press headquarters.

On my way back I passed them, wagons loaded with blotters, camions weighted down with ink eradicators, rolling ink vats, and rapid fire Browning typewriters.

All night long they passed.

INFANTRY VICTOR OVER OGLETHORPE

Coach Hannah's Charges Annex Last Game of the 1923 Season by Trouncing the Petrels 12 to 6.

By BROOKE LEMAN

INFANTRY 12, OGLETHORPE 6.

The Blue legged tribe of the Infantry flashed into a one-sided win over the Oglethorpe Petrels out on the classic sod of Golden's Park yesterday afternoon. It was the final setto of the Blue season and they seemed to celebrate accordingly. The Infantrymen won over Frank Anderson's clan by the tune of 12 to 6 and thereby evened the series, as the Petrels had taken the opener.

It was one of those slugfests which come every once in a while. The Doughboys rapped the onion on the nose for more hits and at more timely moments than did the Atlanta lads and to this as well as anything else may the Infantry victory be attributed.

Both teams had ragged days in the field and chalked up an even break of six errors, but there were bright and scintilatting spots in the defense sector for five fast double plays were pulled. The Blue took three of these into their dugouts, while Anderson's charges garnered two fast ones.

Four Hurlers in Action.

Each team used two hurlers in an effort to bring home the bacon. It is to Messrs. Davis, McNutt and Company that the lads of Coach Jim Hannah may attribute their win and especially to the Underground Mister McNutt, who went into the coming tower for the Blue when Davis was being rapped hard and effectively.

McNutt stopped the Petrel batters with one scant hit in the last half of the game. His curves were loosed from the shoe tops and had the Pets popping them up all over the hemisphere. This one safe rap was a scratch which might have been snagged had not the boxing platform gracing the left field gardens gotten in the way of fielder Olmstead. In passing out the bouquets and valedictory speeches concerning the final contest McNutt must certainly come into his share.

Hi Davis had a bad day after he had hit Wall with the onion. The ball collided squarely, but unavoidably, with the Petrels' second sacker's dome and bounced off with a crack like a rifle shot. Wall was not severely hurt in spite of the hard lick and gave a great exhibition of gameness when he continued in the game. He was forced to retire a half inning later, being still dazed by the lick.

In the next frame Davis annexed a bad case of nerves and was rapped for five safeties, which resulted in Coach Hannah making the aforesaid wise selection of McNutt.

Peace Sent to Showers.

Lefty Peace, prize port side hurler of Oglethorpe, made the initial bow. He got along exceedingly well until the fourth frame, when the Infantry connected for four screamers, which, coupled with a base on balls and a Petrel miscue, gave the Blue five tallies. Coach Anderson sent his port-flinger to the showers in favor of Jake Morris.

The Infantry took exceeding liking to the speedy offering of Jake and rapped his most effectivel when men perched on the satchels. In the remaining four innings he was found for a total of nine safe clouts, which added to Petrels errors, allowed eight of the Blue crew to romp gleefully over the counting station.

The Petrels followed suit of yesterday and opened with a rush when they tallied in the first. Maurer tripled and came home on Parrish's rap. This was followed by another Oglethorpe score in the second when three Infantry errors and a balk by Davis gave them a score on a silver platter.

Five Runs in Fifth

The Blue settled down and matters remained in status quo until the fourth frame when the Infantry sent over five counters. Fountain singled and advanced when Shrimp Milburn one timed. Yon hit a bounder to Peace and Fountain and Shrimp tallied on his wild toss home. McCarty drew a pass and McMullin sent Yon home with his ace rap to center. Hi Davis rose to the occasion and tallied up both McCarty and McMullin with his single to deep right.

Oglethorpe tied matters into a knot in their sector of the fifth. Hafele singled and was followed by Parris with a double. Kemp one timed and both tallied. Davis and Collier then annexed safe raps and Kent trotted home.

It didn't last long for the Blue drove over three more in their section of the same frame. Kgelstrom doubled and was followed by Milburn with another two-time swat. Kgelstrom tallied. McCarty hit a grounder to Maurer which he mussed up and Milburn plugged the pan. McCarty took second and came home on McMullin's Texas Leaguer.

Oglethorpe got the last counter in the sixth when Maurer singled, advanced to third on Hafele's blow and came home on Parish's infield out.

Four in the Eighth.

Four of the Infantry registered in the eighth and put the game in the cold storage chambers. Honnen, Fountain, and Kgellstrom got singles in succession and packed the satchels. Milburn hit a hot one to Maurer which he missed and Honnen and Fountain scored. McCarty and McMullin singled sending home Kglestrom and Milburn.

McMullin led in hitting honors getting four safe raps in five appearances He found his hitting stride yesterday. Milburn and Kgelstrom each got two for the Blue, one being for an extra station, while Honnen and Fountain got two aces each.

Maurer led for Oglethorpe with a single and triple, while Parrish and Hafele each got a pair of hits.

Morehouse Wins Doubleheader May 5th

The 24th Infantry squad journeyed to Atlanta on May 5th and played a double header with Morehouse College. This was a return ticket. Honors were evenly divided in a recent contest with Morehouse on the local grounds, each team winning one game. The games played in Atlanta were strictly of professional caliber and both teams share alike the credit for boosting the respect of the spectators present for the great National game.

INFANTRY LOSES FIRST GAME.

Oglethorpe Romps on Blue Team by 10 to 3 Score, Putting Over Six Markers in the Last Two Innings.

(By Brooke Leman.)

OGLETHORPE 10; INFANTRY 3.

The Stormy Petrels and Infantry rollicked along for about seven frames in a diversion of the national pastime which resembled a ball game. But along came the eighth and ninth sectors during which the aforesaid Petrels turned the exhibition into a very one sided conclusion. In these two innings the charges of Frank Anderson fell upon the offering of Hutchinson and mauled the onion for six screaming raps three being for extra satchels. Meanwhile three of the Atlanta tribe had romped home in each inning putting the battle on ice as effectually as though it had been carted to the North Pole.

It was a slow listless game in which the hard clouting of the Petrels and the brilliant performance of Kgelstrom, substituting at the initial sack for Kent Nelson of the Blue, stood forth as redeemable features.

Hutchinson went on the mound for the Doughboys and the Petrels took a fancy to his slants. At times they leaned healthy and resounding willows against his underhand ball and these swats generally came when a Petrel runner stood on a station or so. Thirteen safeties did the Petrels pound out and four of these went into the long distance column.

Listless Exhibition.

But the performance of the Blue in the field did not help any. Hits went at times which shouldn't have been hits and most of the Infantry had the anchors flung into the mud The truth of the matter is both crews gave slow and listless exhibitions on the turf. The Petrels stacked up five boots while the Infantry miscued four times.

Humphries, one of Anderson's aces, took over firing honnrs for the Oglethorpe lads and had matters pretty much his own way. For eight frames he held the Blue to five tiny raps, two being scratches of the variest order. In the ninth the Infantry touched him up for three bingles but with the stations drunk Olmstead failed to deliver and the Petrel flinger came out of his hardest hole. Humphries tossed up a slow winding curve which had the Infantry popping them up all over the place. It takes hits to win ball games and the Doughboys had blinders on yesterday when it came to looking them over and meeting the pellet squarely. The Blue ran bases erratically and tossed away two possible runs by dumb work on the paths.

The Infantry set the tallying pace when they shoved over one in the first frame. Fountain walked and advanced on Olmstead's scratch hit to the infield. They pulled a neat double steal and Fountain came home when Kemp, Petrel left fielder, for some reason tossed the onion through Hafele after receiving Yon's fly. Olmstead went out at the plate on this play in an attempt to make it two.

Petrels Get Busy.

The Petrels got busy in the third With one down Humphries tapped one over Parris' head which the latter misjudged. Meanwhile, the Oglethorpe slabster reposed on third. Morris delivered himself of a screaming single and Humphries registered. Maurer and Hafele singled in succession and Morris tallied.

Two more Oglethorpe runners flashed over the pan in the fourth and on one scant hit. Collier rapped one to right and advanced on Wall's sacrifice. Bryant was safe on McCarty's wild toss to first, Collier taking third. David flew out to Yon and Collier scored in the play. Bryant scored from second when McCarty threw wild past third.

The Infantry retaliated with two in the fifth. McMullin and Honnen singled, advanced on an out and tallied on Humphries' wild pitch past Bryant.

With matters standing four and three the Petrels unslung heavy bats. The first onslaught came in the eighth. Maurer tripled and came home on Parrish's single. Collier singled and Bryant sent both home with his howling double to left center.

Three more Oglethorpe men tallied in the ninth. Morris and Maurer got one time raps and tallied on Parrish's beautiful double. It was the longest drive seen here in some moons. Parris scored a moment later on Collier's third safe rap.

The Infantry packed the stations with three hits in the ninth, the best Blue rally of the contest, but failed to deliver in this pinch and the curtain fell.

Maurer Hitting Star.

Maurer led the Petrel clouting with four hits in five appearances. One of these went for three sacks. Collier claimed second honors with three one-time raps in four times at the platter.

Honnen and Hutchinson led for the Infantry, each getting two safties. The remainder of the Infantrymen, particularly the swatting sector of the batting order, suffered from astigmatic eyes or else it was simply too much Curve-ball Humphries.

The Infantry performed with Honnen and Nelson out of the infield, but Kgelstrom, acting for Nelson at first, was the fielding sensation of the day. Kgelstrom got thirteen of the Blue putouts and covered the sack in a brilliant fashion.

The Petrels and Infantry play the concluding battle of the series today at the Driving Park. Play will be called at 3 p. m. "Hi" Davis will probably hurl for the Blue while Lefty Peace will do honors for Frank Anderson's husky charges.

On Saturday afternoon Miss Mary Gnosstelius was hostess for twenty-four of her lady friends at a delightful bridge luncheon at the Cozy Tea Room in honor of Miss Alice Sims bride-elect of Captain Hammond and Miss Jane Gayle the guest of Miss Louise Garard.

Dorothy Perkins roses and pink sweet peas were used for the decorating.

Miss Louise Garrard won the top score prize, a set of fancy curtain holders, and the souvenirs for the honorees were fancy powderpuffs and mirrors.

FORT BENNING BRIDGE CLUB.

The last meeting of the Fort Benning Bridge Club was held on May 12th at the Officers Club. On this occasion, the husbands of the members were invited, and a beautiful entertainment was given.

Mrs. McCaskey is acting president of the club during the illness of Mrs. Gordon, wife of the Commandant. Mrs. Anding is vice-president and Mrs. Walker secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Hocker was chairman of the committee on entertaining. Mrs. Peyton was chairman of the decorating committee, and Mrs. Butler was chairman of the refreshment committee.

The hall was beautifully decorated for this occasion in American flags and Southern smilax. A delicious salad course was served after the game.

There were sixteen prizes, and among the winners were Mrs. Arnest, Mrs. Peach, Mrs. Lockwood, Mrs. Lester, Mrs. O'Leary, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Griner, Lt. Garvin, Capt. Griner, Capt. Englemann, Major Dinsmore, Capt. Chamberlain, Lt. Brandhorst, and Capt. Reeve Turner.

There were about 250 guests present, and among them were General Gordon, Miss Gordon, a niece of General Gordon, Colonel Fassett and his sister, Miss Fassett. There were a few outside guests who were present, who were especially invited by some members whose husbands were not playing. The club had extended that priviledge.

As a coincidence Captain Arnest won the Men's high score prize last year. Thus making it that the high score prize has been won by one family in the last two years.

MRS. WALTER WHEELER'S BRIDGE.

On Thursday afternoon, May 17th Mrs. Walter R. Wheeler entertained at a most delightful bridge party of five tables and several tea guests.

Her apartments were prettily decorated with an aristic combination of various spring flowers.

Mrs. Van Slyck of Providence, R. I. won the high score prize and a guest prize Mrs. Paul Paschal won the second prize, a card case. The consolation a guest room bouquet was won by Mrs. Legge.

A delicious salad course and ices were served after the playing.

MRS. PRITCHETT'S BRIDGE.

On last Friday afternoon Mrs. Clifton Pritchett was the charming hostess for a pretty bridge party of five tables and four tea guests.

The living room was prettily decorated with larkspurs and yellow daisies.

Mrs. Stickney won the high score prize, a bottle of Coty's perfume and the consolation, a box of stationery was drawn by Mrs. Lawrence.

A delicious salad course and iced tea were served after the playing.

MRS. WILLIS' BRIDGE LUNCHEON.

On last Friday afternoon Mrs. H. A. Willis entertained at a delightful four course bridge luncheon in honor of Mrs. Thad Knight.

Her apartment was prettily decorated with California poppies and ferns.

After the delicious luncheon bridge was indulged in. Mrs. Herbert O'Leary won the highscore prize, a bath mat.

Bakers and Cooks School

P. G. L. asks: What will be the means of transportation (100) years from now?

Answer: Gazing into the crystal, the following paragraph from a future periodical appears—

Metropolitan World, May 26, 2023. In the recent race around the world, sponsored by the International Aerial Engines, Co. Inc., to test the endurance of their new radium engines, Mr. J. F. Quiggenback was announced the winner, driving an R. F. Special.

With fifty contestants leaving the Central Elevated landing station at Yonkers at 7:00 A. M. Tuesday, Quiggenback completed the circle of the globe, touching only at Ts Yen, China to replentish his food supply, and driving into the landing station at Yonkers at exactly 5:45 P. M. the following Thursday, in the best of condition. This establishes a new worlds record for around the World flights. The plane suffered only of the high friction developed by the high speed that hurled it through the air.

tI appears that we have yet to develop an alloy that will resist such friction. Mr. Quiggenback states that if the plane had been protected by such a friction resisting metal, he could have developed an unbelievable speed on his flight.

R. C. L. asks: What will be the chief means of communication (500) years from now?

Answer: Gazing into the crystal, we deduct the following—

It appears that since radio wonders have been developed to the 9th degree, and every person carries with him a small vest pocket radio sending and receiving device which enables him to communicate with any person he wishes at any distance, providing that he first tunes in on the right wave length. The Radio directory now somewhat resembles the old telephone directory. Instead of numbers, and a Central, each person is assigned a wave length in the decimal system. Directories are distributed without charge to all persons in all communities. Now a new maens of communi*cation is* gradually being brought into existence. With the passing years people are beginning to discover and make use of a latet power of their minds, called thought transference. This means of communication has long been known down through the ages, but has not been generally taught until the present time. Thought transference, it appears, is brought about by somewhat the same principle as tuning in with the radio.

The essential principle in thought transference is for the operator to concentrate intently on the thought he wishes to convey, and the person to whom he wishes to convey it, and to bring his mind into harmony with such person. This latter means of communication is a great advantage over radio, when mastered, as there is no ardous looking up of wave lengths, etc.

The healing of disease, it might be mentioned is brought about in somewhat the same fashion, however disease in this age is greatly dimished, as preventitatives are administered at birth, and all disease following birth are diseases of the mind sometimes reacting on the body.

IN APPRECIATION.

The Fire Department men showed that they appreciated a man who has served in the Army for thirty years.

Recently when Master Sergeant W. M. Leathers retired the firemen of Fort Benning presented him with a Knight Templar Charm and Chain.

Leave it to the firemen to be awake and on the job.

FIFTH ANNUAL REUNION—INDIAN HEAD—2nd DIVISION

New York City, June 7th, 8th and 9th, 1923.

The men who broke the Hindenburg Line and practically brought the World War to a close, namely, The Famous Second Division, now stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, will hold their greatest reunion at New York City, June 7th, 8th and 9th, 1923.

Unlike most of the past anniversaries celebrating the great victory of the Second Division at Blanc Mont this reunion, which is the fifth to be held, will be attended by all the former commanders.

Letters of acceptance already have been received from Major General James G. Harbord, Major General John A. Lejeune, Commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps and who was formerly in command of the Second Division, Major General E. M. Lewis, who formerly commanded the Third Brigade, composed of the 9th and 23rd Regiments of Infantry during the fighting in the Chateau-Thierry Sector during June, 1918—Major General Wendell C. Neville, President of the Second Division Association, Colonel Wm. W. Bessell, Adjutant General of the Second Division during the war, and still holding that position, and many others.

The history of the Second Division which received numerous citations, is too well known to take up space here; suffice to say that among the more important actions of the Division were those of the Meuse-Argonne—Belleau-Wood-Chateau-Thierry—Sossions and Blanc Mont.

A most diversified programme has been arranged for by the reunion committee of which Colonel John A. Hughes is chairman and whose headquarters is in room 802 at 40 Rectro Street, New York City, until it is transferred to the Hotel Pennsylvania with the opening of the reunion on June 7th next, Second Division Reunion.

Aside from trips to theatres, baseball games, tours of the city—the most important event will be that of a trip to Wes Point to review the cadets who in the fuutre may command a division that in the event of war might, but will find difficult to surpass, the record of the famous Second Division, the men who broke the Hindenburg Line. Railroads are making special rates. There are a large number of old Second Division (Indian Head) men at Fort Benning. Get together and meet your "Buddies" from all over the United States at the reunion of the famous "Indian Head" Division in New York June 7th, 8th and 9th.

SOME CLASSY PLACE.

Elsewhere in this edition Kyle Bros. announces the opening of their new Drive-In Station on the corner of 15th St. and 1st Ave. which will be known as "Kyle's Drive-In."

In the opening of this station Columbus will have the finest and most modern filling and service station in the South. Every department having the drive-in feature, there being over 4500 sq. ft. drive-in space.

When this station is opened the public can get gasoline, oil, Tire accessories, battery service, tire service, greasing, washing, motors steam cleaned all under one roof. There is a well fitted Ladies Rest Room in connection, this being the only station in Columbus with this feature.

The station in the day time is most attractive but the lighting effect makes the station at night very attractive.

The gasoline is displayed through four double visable containers which are filled by one master person from the inside by a lady operator, who also is the cashier.

To all purchasers of 5 gallons gasoline on the opening day Liberty Motor Oil will be given free, also $500.00 worth of valuable prizes to be given away.

The new station will feature road service in all departments.

Medical Dept. Notes

2nd Lieutenant Viola H. Swindell, Army Nurse Corps, has been relieved from further duty at this station and ordered to her home in Baltimore, Maryland, for discharge from the service at the expiration of all accrued leave due her.

Captain Chesser reports that his old He-sex car is giving faithful service and that some parts of it is now growing "Cat's-Whiskers."

The S. & W. office is having a telephone installed, which Private Hull says is for his personal use.

The maneuvers have gone quite tough with some of our men, for two, Sergeant Bedenbaugh and Private Davis had to send in for some more breeches as the enemy had made shoes strings out of thirs.

NEVER SAY YOU'RE WHIPPED

"My Boy, don't ever say you're whipped," was the advice given Frank by his father. Frank is "The Man Who Waited" in the Playgoers Western drama of gold and hearts showing Friday at the Post Theatres.

And good training it was for the youth who promised himself to track down and capture the men who had blown up his father's mine and caused his death. Before young Frank succeeds, however, these same bad men catch him in their net of evil, and he is saved only by the quick wit and actino of a girl.

Frank Braidwood, Inez MacDonald, Jay Morley, Don Maines and others interpret this thrilling story, written and directed by Edward I. Luddy.

15th Tank Battalion News

Sgt. Hicks, captain Co. "C" baseball team, steps up to the plate like Ty Cobb himself. He sure has wonderful form and he don't let the umpire get away with anything neither. Johnny Evers must be his ideal.

Ex. Sgt. Dean writes from California where he is now located and states that he is getting along fine and would be reasonably content if he could secure the Fort Benning News occasionally.

Well the men have been back four days now and all we hear is maneuver. we wonder how long that battle is going to be fought? From all accounts they had a wonderful time, every day was like Sunday on the farm.

The officers and men of the battalion extend our sympathy to Pvt. Winter of Co. "C" whose father pased away suddenly last week, and was buried at Hephzibah, Ga.

Lieut. Hanson, manager of the battalion baseball team, reports that his men are fast rounding into form. He can take care of many more ball flingers who are anxious for a tryout.

Pedestrians will have to be careful when crossing the battalion area, due to the fact that Lieut. Reed sent his old B&O back to the roundhouse and bought himself a Cadalic.

You may talk scientific discoveries, mathematical calculus, wonderful achievements. However, those would be considered tiny in comparsion to the rumbling thunder-like hammer blows and tinkling sounds emitted from behind closed doors of No. 9 stall in the battalion garage. Wishing to satisfy our curiosity, admission has been gained through strategy ,and behold before us stands in a resurrection from Pvt. Murphy's life ambition, his master piece a newly rison from olivion, the Special Ford nearing completion. Only a few more hundred bolts, springs and parts and a barrel full of patience are yet necessary to fit out the new ark for the trial spin. Like the days of old, a built-to-order buss. ### "JAZZMANIA" PLAY IN NOVEL SETTING

New Mae Murray Picture Laid in Remote Kingdom of Many Odd Contrasts

Mae Murray is taking her fans on a swing around the globe. So far, in her Tiffany productions presented and directed by Robert Z. Leonard and distributed by Metro, she has exhibited here talents in a brilliant Parisian setting in "Peacock Alely"; in an exotic, glamorful Spanish setting in "Fascination"; in a colorful modern American setting in "Broadway Rose."

And now Miss Murray's historis and terpschorean abilities are set in a different frame, even a different gallery; a country remote, charming, yet full of the oddest contrasts; where the river flows serenely by the palace, but where the inhabitants are not serene. Gayety is the face but intrigue is the heart of the situation.

"Jazzmania" is h title of the photoplay, written by Edmund Goulding which will be shown at the Post Theatres Sunday, May 27.

Robert Z. Leonard declares "Jazzmania" to be the finest Mae Murray picture ever made. It is the product of Tiffany Productions, Inc., of which M. H. Hoffman is vice-president and general manager.

Oliver T. Marsh photographed the actio nand Cedric Gibbos executed the sets.

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL GRADUATE.

By the time the next issue of the News comes out, many of you student officers will have left Benning, the most of you in the field officers' class will never return, the most of you in the company commanders class will probably return someday.

The great majority of you student officers have spent eight months of good hard work here and sincerely feel that the Infantry School has done you a world of good and also that you are exceedingly glad that you came.

While at the Infantry School you have made many acquaintances among officers that you probably would not have met for a long time and maybe never. Also the situation here is such that you have probably made the acquaintance of a large number of civilians and have formed strong bound of friendship with the people of Columbus.

No doubt, all of you have at one time or another "cussed" Benning, the Infantry School, the Benning Road, the commutor, the buses, and the town of Columbus itself. There is no doubt that you have undergone hardships while here but it is ever human nature to forget the unpleasant and remember only the pleasant. So after you have gone you will think of some of the pleasant things that have happened during the School year and when you meet another Benning Graduate you will immediately meet on common ground, whether it is in the States or in some foreign country, and you will get a "great kick" out of talking about Benning and the School and feel thankful that you have been able to be here.

All of you who are graduating now are still too close to your year's work to get a true prospective of it, but in a short time, that is after your mind get the different subjects in order, for you have covered a lot of subjects, you will then and not until then really realize and fully appreciate just what the Infantry School will mean to you in the future.

In closing let us call your attention to the slogan of the Infantry School "Follow Me." Exemplify that motto and remember that the Infantry School will watch you and be proud of your success.

THE NEWS.

The News, because of being published at The Infantry School, lays claims to represent the Infantry—although not yet having attained the sublime heights of being representative of the Infantry.

If the earning capacity of the News were such as to permit of it, the paper would be mailed to every Infantry Officer (as it is now going to every regimental and separate battalion commander in the Army) but funds are not available for such an extensive circulation.

However, the News believes it is going to be in such financial condition as will make it possible to send the paper to officers leaving here who make a specific request for it and with this end in view officers leaving this station who desire to keep in touch with things locally and, incidentally get a smile or two oscasionally out of reading it, are advised that the paper will follow them to such address as we are supplied with. There will be no charge made for this, but should the News ever happen to stop coming the reader can conclude it has "Gone Broke"—an event not anticipated at this time.

THE INFANTRY BOARD

CASES, DISPATCH AND RECORD: The Department of Experiment has concluded a test of available types of Dispatch and Record Cases during which a questionnaire was filled out by all student officers of the Advanced and Company Officers' Classes.

ACCURACY OF AUTOMATIC RIFLE AND MACHINE GUN BARRELS: Steps are being taken to provide a method for testing the accuracy of automatic rifle and machine gun barrels. Par. 259, Compilation of Orders gives a method for calibrating rifles, which would not be applicable for automatic guns. For the latter weapons, one suggestion has made that barrels be considered unserviceable when their print on paper at 1,000 inches is oval shaped with a diameter twice the caliber of the bullet or when they keyhole.

FLASH HIDERS: German flash hiders and a new Springfield Armory flash hider have been tested in an effort to improve upon our present types of flash hider.

WATERING TROUGH: A Cuban portable watering trough has been tested at the Infantry School and the results reported to the Chief of Infantry.

CHAPLAIN'S EQUIPMENT: In conection with the reduction of equipment, studies have been made of the war set equipment carried by Chaplains, which consists of a field desk, organ and 300 bulky song books.

TRAINING REGULATIONS

During the past week the following regulations have been prepared and sent forward to the Chief of Infantry—T. R. No. 150-30, Marksmanship, Automatic Rifle, T. R. No. 420-30, Technique 37 MM Gun Fire, T. R. No. 420-35, Techinque, 3" Trench Mortar Fire, T. R. No. 420-130 Combat Principles, Machine Gun Platoon, T. R. No. 150-40-45 Marksmanship, 37 MM Gun and 3" Trench Mortar.

There remains only about four regulations to be forwarded from the Infantry School and these will be completed by the first of June.

GENERAL LORD PREDICTS $60,000,000 SURPLUS

Brigadier Geenral H. M. Lord, Director of the Budget, predicts that the Treasury will finish the current calendar year with a surplus of $60,000,000, based upon the latest estimates of internal revenue and customs receipts.

The Director placed customs revenue at $540,000,000 for the year ended June 30 and internal revenue receipts at $2,515,000. There is no indication that there will be a falling off in the remaining months of 1923.

At the same time General Lord said he did not intend to allow the lid of Federal expenditures to be pried loose as a result of the better outlook. A comparison of the total estimated expenditures of the operating department of the Government for 1923 with the actual expenditure for 1922 shows a reduction of more than $200,000,000. But the Budget Director hopes to make the saving even greater.

The Jist o' Life
(Pearl Lillian Truman.)

Misplaced Sympathy.

"Mother, Mother!" shouted Tommie, "Gimme a nickel quick! There's a poor man crying in the street in front of our house."

"Crying?" said his mother, "What is he crying about?"

"He is crying 'Popcorn, 5c a bag."

Generous.

"Sister, 'taint fair for Mother to give you the biggest piece of cake. She's always giving you the biggest of everything."

"Never, mind, Sammie, she's going to put mustard plasters on us both tonight and I will let her give you the biggest this time."

A Different Kind.

Little Johnnie was reading in school and he said, "They rowed down the stream in their barque" but when he got to the last word he could not pronounce it. The teacher pronounced it it for him. Johnnie looked surprised, then mistaking the barque for bark, Johnnie said, "Bow wow!"

A La Topsy.

"When were you born, Mary?" asked the teacher.

"I wasn't born. I've got a stepmother.

Imagination?

A gentleman of the Christian Science faith passed the house of a neighbor and stopped to ask a small boy how his father was. The little fellow says, "He is sick." The gentleman said, "Oh, no, he is not sick, he just thinks he is." The little follew swallowed the information whole. The next day the father died and the Christian Scientist came again to make inquiry, saying, "Does your father still think he is sick?" "No," replied the child, "He thinks he is dead now."

Wise Mother.

A conjurer was up on the stage before an audience of children and he took sundry and various things out of a hat, such as yards of ribbon, rabbits, and lastly some eggs. He said to a small boy near him, "Your mother cannot get eggs without a hen, can she?" "Sure, she can," said the youngster. "She keeps ducks."

Logical.

Teacher—"What was the title of the ruler of Russia?"

Sally—"Czar."

Teacher—"What was the title of his wife?"

Sally—"Czarina."

Teacher—"Correct that is very good. Now what were the children called?"

Sally—"Czardines."

Conclusive Proof.

"Jimmie, did you wash your hands?" asked his mother.

"Yess'um" answered Jimmie.

"Sure you did? You were in the bathroom only a little while."

"Mamma, if you don't believe I did, you just look at the towel."

Which is Correct?

A tailor who needed to buy some irons for pressing clothes had to send the order by mail. He did not know whether to say geese or gooses and he needed a dozen of them. To conceal his ignoranc he wrote a letter to the manufacturer saying: "Plaese send me a tailor's goose." Then he signed his name and as a postcript added: "I wish you would make me eleven more like it."

PROVERBS OF PRIVATE SOLOMON

When the manuscript dealing with the Proverbs of Private Solomon, who was a soldier in the Army of Samuel, and who was serving in the 83rd year of his first enlistment at the time of the dictations was discovered by a delegaton from the 24th Infantry who were assisting in the construction of the new bridge over the Upatoie, they unrolled this precious document and thinking it of no worth started to tear it to pieces. A member of the Archaeological Department of the News happened to be present and realizing the importance of this parchment collected the fragments. These were carefully translated and published to the readers of the News. As you can see for yourself this chapter is incomplete because we are unable to find the rest of it. So what other advice and amusement Private Solomon had to offer we are unable to say unless at some future date another copy of this precious locument should be discovered.

PRIVATE SOLOMON DICTATING HIS PROVERBS

Chapter IX.

That Which Dealeth With Mimic Warfare.

After the Army hath hiked maybe only a few days, maybe several days at any rate after a certain period hath interviewed the "enemy" is encountered.

When this happens then giveth it much excitement and much talk. Many orders are issued and reconnaissance taketh place hurriedly and every one asketh the other what the situation is and many other foolish questions. But alas they learn nothing and what they are told they believe not.

But after a while all receive officials notice of the situation also just what is expected of each.

After a while each company and unit moveth out to take their position. When this happeneth the company commander soon learneth that he doth possess a company of exceptional men, for all are exceedingly brave and would willingly go to death so that his army may win, for they hesitate not for theirs is "to do or die." But alas death lurks not right around the corner. But woe to the one who is so foolish as to allow himself to be captured. If he allow this to take place then so must he work for his captors until the night cometh. Then when his enemy getteth ready to eat, they tell him that if he wouldst eat then so must be go to his own outfit and receive it.

The prisoner believeth this to be exceedingly unjust but there remaineth nothing for him to do but go and find his outfit. After a long time he findeth his own outfit again and seeketh the mess sergeant and demandeth food. But the mess sergeant hath no heart and sayeth that "chow" is over with and that he must wait until breakfast. So then he seeketh sympathy from his comrades but alas they only say, that one who is so foolish as to be captured should not receive food if he returneth late to his outfit.

If the mimic battle goeth against one side that side swearеth that the battle was "fixed" before hand while the side that winneth sayeth that they are the better fighters.

Then after the maneuver is over the battles are again fought and talked about but an agreement is never reached. But tis always so in the Army of Samuel.

If thou doth not believe then so mu——.

Service Co.

Look out Pistol Shots, our 1st Sergt. is peeping down a mean barrel, he made seven straight tens, you will see an awful score for record.

The Jazz hounds will leave for the Capitol City next Sunday to make a record for the famous two dozen. Look out Atlanta the band is full of vamps.

The famous shot among the enlisted men (Bradford, Scott) out of Service Co. of course, is now in the hospital, we are wishing him a speedy recovery so he can go away to Camp Perry to bring back the bacon.

Company "A"

Sergt Mann the veteran supply Sergt of Company "A" 24th Infantry is on the range he has been making scores that will make some of the young men of the regiment wonder, all you have to do is to hold and squeeze.

Private Murphy failed in the tryout on the target range, but don't be discouraged. It has been said by good authority that if you try and don't succeed you should try, try again—so follow the rule and you will be always on top.

Our Top Kicker has been trying out his eyes, on the target range. We know he can hold and squeeze, but we are afraid his eyes are not as good as they were last target season.

Company I.

Sgt. Handy (Twilight), has been spending 2 hours each day trying to tell Sgt. Butler that there is no such thing as possibles and Bull-eyes.

Corporal Williams (Jew Babby), was seen last Sunday taking lesson from Sgt. Gunn in Autology, when asked why he listened to such bunk, he replied that he was 100 per cent. for the Velie, and will wear no Garage man's collar.

SERGEANT HANDY'S DOOM.

He reports to his instructor (Rueben Wood), he is not far, Rueben puts him on the "sighting bar." Of course that is a very small trifle, but with it you learn to sight and aim the rifle. You look at it in every angle, then you try to make the short triangle. Rueben worried Sgt. Handy almost to death, telling him to hold his breath. Then it is up and down, for prone, sitting knees, but don't forget the trigger squeeze. He rapid fires until his bolt gets hot, Rueben yells why don't you call that shot. Then they call the whole class together, asking about the effect of light and weather. They will draw a picture and tell you to look, on every page in the old score book. Then you think you got everything to be had you have to get a shoulder pad. After you tried everything in creation, they give you your examination. Sgt. Handy thinks he has made a hit, but the poor blind man has to go to the pit.

A certain Sergeant (637) was seen down in Columbus asking about wedding rings. Look out Sgt., you can not turn the ladies in for salvage. They are issued for life.

Co. "K".

On last Tuesday morning as the boys of Co. "K" were about to take their departure for somewhere in Georgia, one of the boys told STACK-O-DOLLARS, "you keep away from my Shack."

A certain Cpl. Cleared Port real early last Sunday night. What was the idea, Johnny, a Blockade?

A certain brother upon being issued SIDE ARMS, replied, "you have not given me the right weapon, just slip me one of those articles that are used in barber shops."

Sgt. Woods, our distinguished inkspiller, has been attending the rehearsals with the Taylors Singers, looking forward to their trip to Atlanta. Now Woodie don't vamp all the fair sex of your old home-town.

Company "L".

Pvt. Charlie Vaughn (alias the Shiek) is having an awful time trying to solve the problem of re-enlisting as you can agree. See Jerry Tanner for the correct data. Enough said.

Pvt. Perry Chairs, better known as "Old Timer," has the record of being the best transmission mechanic ever produced for work on a White truck, and as a brake specialist he is there. Pvt. Chairs says that the first day he was over to the M. T. C. his transmission dropped out at the top of Wynnton Hill and the brake failed so he got out and put them back together before it was to the bottom of he hill. Fast work, old boy, Uncle wants your kind, but we can't understand what you were doing from 11:00 A. M. to midnight same date.

We are sure that Pvt. Bennie Perry is through with the Red and Blue Armies. Stuck in the mud up to the hood—walked twenty miles and drove twenty more in the dark while the stars were out of commission—returned to Co. "L" at 12:36 A. M., his heart black and the only two people who could please him were the O. D. and the head cook. Since that night the Mess Sgt. has lost his head trying to catch up.

There is but one good mechanic and that's 'KISIUM'. A man who really knows what to do when he mounts a White Gas Buggy. Nobody kicks on him. Be careful 'KISIUM' don't let'em get away from you.

The company is standing on their heads trying to figure whether the Mess Sergt. has gone insane, or if the cooks have bought a new set of brains, or the C. C. has lost the key to the Company Fund. Why, Sergt Scott! Co. "L's" best are always with you until you return to the 'hash, hash' state.

One victim gone (line shooting Troup). When the boys told Kid Troup he was transferred he didn't know whether he was transferred to Zale Whaler Jail or the Lamb Brook. Despite the fact that he is transferred he certainly knows the path that leads o the new mess hall.

Little things to try in Company "L,"
Have one wrinkle in your pillow.
Fail to turn your pass in at proper time.
Fail to catch requisition for clothing.
Have bad equipment for inspection.
Speak to the C. C. without permission from 1st Sergeant.
Try to show Sergt Jennings the point why you couldn't get there.
Fail to put your name on pass list when you want a pass.
Miss retreat.
Miss either of the four you choose 6, 8, 10 or 12.
And the last thing is—Miss that old War Call in the A. M. and try to put up an alibi.
This is to let you know that Co. "L" has the best system in the Post.

Doyle, T. W., Capt., 28 Inf., 848.

The possible score that could have been made was 950 for the nineteen ranges. During the firing the weather conditions were very bad, particularly with reference to the wind. This will account to a great extent for the low score.

Major Ramee, Team Captain, when interviewed by the News Representative stated "that in all his experience, he had never seen a more enthusiastic hard working and concientious group than those who turned out for the tryouts. The spirit of the candidates was great and their excellent showing indicated the result of hard work and application.

The tryout was a complete success, the competition was keen and the type of candidates was of the highest class. The cooperation of all the organizations in the Post especially the details of the officers and men of the 24th Infantry was greatly appreciated by the team officials.

Orders will be out in the near future for those who made the squad and as the further training does not start until June 10th there will be quite a layoff for the "rifle bugs." Reports of the work at Niagara will be carried weekly in these columns.

MASS MEETING AT POST THEATRE LAST WEDNESDAY

the student officers learned would be made after they had joined their organizations. That at this time officers would have to exercise care in their interpretations of matters taught at the Infantry School.

General Farnsworth then proceeded to a short critique covering the maneuvers and mentioned especially the noticeable lack of straggling, the good physical condition of officers and men and animals, and the good information service. In connection with the critique General Farnsworth drew applause from his audience when he stated that next year, instead of spending 80 per cent. of their time in marking papers and 20 per cent. in giving instructions which he had heard some student officer state was the case—the instructors would spend 95 per cent. of their time in preparing for and giving instruction and the other in marking papers. He spoke briefly upon the necessity for the strictest economy and warned those present to exercise great care in this respect.

The Chief of Infantry closed his address with a few optimistic remarks in effect that the Infantry today, in spite of demotions, eliminations and enforced economies is better than ever before both from the standpoint of morale and discipline. At the close of his talk General Farnsworth introduced Col. Waldron, the editor of the Infantry Journal and Secretary of the Infantry Association.

Colonel Waldron, in his opening remarks, gave a short synopsis of the history of the Infantry Association showing the difficulties, financial and otherwise, experienced in the early years of its organization. He stated that these difficulties coninued until the World War after which conditions changed and the association shortly thereafter became solvent and a going concern.

Colonel Waldron then gave a resume of interesting facts in connection with the present activities of the Infantry Association. In this connecion he stated that at times when other branches of the service did not have funds to advance the Infantry Association had spent money in connection with pending legislation effecting the entire Army.

The audience was urged to lend its individual co-operation in getting not less than 10,000 members for the Infantry Association in order that the work of the association may be carried on. Col. Waldron cited specific cases where infantry officers on duty with R. O. T. C. units, the National Guard, and the Reserve Corps had every member of the organizations coming under their supervision a member of the Infantry Association.

The different phases of the activities of the Infantry Association were then explained. The workings of the book department were taken up both with regard to the payment of royalties to authors and the willingness of the Infantry Journal to publish works of merit from officers in the service. The magazine subscription agency operated by the Infantry Journal was explained Organization commanders or individuals desiring club rates on the popular publications have only to state their needs to the Journal and the best possible rates will be secured for them In the event of subscription renewals the only action necessary is to notify the magazine agency of the Infantry Journal to make the renewal. The heraldry department of the Journal is in position to do the highest class of work for members of the military establishment. Calling cards and letterheads are given special attention.

One of the functions of the Infantry Association, personal service to members of the association, was set forth by Col. Waldron in an interesting and enlightening manner. The association was described as being on the job twenty-four hours each day for the purpose of getting information of a personal nature for its members. Several instances were cited where members of the association had been given advance information with regard to assignments as an example of the personal service rendered.

In closing his remarks Col. Waldron stated that the Infantry Association would soon have a home owned by itself and free of encumbrance, a fact which will tend to give to the association greater permanency.

UNIT SCHOOL 24th INFANTRY COMPLETES SUCCESSFUL TERM

The officers of the 24th Infantry have just completed the regimental Unit School course in technique and tactics of Infantry weapons.

The course was opened with the lectures by Colonel Nicklin on Customs of the Service. The rifle instruction was in charge of Capt. John H. Kneubel who gave lectures and conducted the preliminary course for the officers. For the other Infantry Weapons, the regimental commander secured the cooperation of the Infantry school from whom instructors were borrowed to cover the work in automatic rifle, grenades, bayonet, one-pounder, Stokes Mortar, pistol and machine guns. A course in sketching and map reading was begun but has not been completed due to the range season demanding the time of all available officers.

The hearty thanks of all officers of the twenty-fourth is extended to the Assistant Commandant, and especially to the Chief of the 2nd Section, Department of Military Art who furnished experts for the instruction of all the weapons taught.

New Pistol Range Built.

The preliminary season for the enlisted men who are armed with the pistol according to tables of organization for the Infantry regiment has begun. Satisfactory progress is being made with the instruction and in-between-times a new pistol range has been built within the regimental area. The able assistance of members of The Infantry Pistol team who have been at Fort Benning for the Infantry Rifle team try-out, has been graciously lent in giving the officers and men of the 24h the benefit of expert pistol marksmanship instruction.

SPORTING ACTIVITIES

TWO STRAIGHTS IN MACON FOR WILSON'S WILDCATS

It appears that the climate for first class baseball is about the same in Macon, the famous Central City of Georgia, as it is in the environs of Columbus, Ga. which has become famous through the proximity of Fort Benning, which is the centre of all Infantry activities. The 24th Infantry baseball team went to the aforesaid city of Macon on the 16th and 17th of May when they played a return ticket with the Central City Club nine, defeating them two straight games.

The scores:

24th Inf. .....621 000 033—15 21 1
C. C. Club .....000 020 000— 2 6 6
2 3-base hits, 4 2-base hits.

Batteries, 24th—Seats, Wallace, Lamar C. C. Club—Longrey, Cookey, Main, Hawkins. Struckout Seats 6, Hawkins 9.

Seats performed in his old style in this game, and gave his team-mates reassurance that he is far from the retired list. Hawkins came into action in the third inning for the Maconites in time to head off a marathon, but too late to save the old ball game.

Second Game Scores Four Victory for 24th Over the C. C. Club.

When the fourth game straight is won from a first rate Ball team it is time to look into the pedigree of the winning team. As a matter of fact the 24th Infantry has considerable pedigree when it comes to winning baseball teams. The archives of the regiment contain trophies won by the Band in world expositions in years gone by, and many athletic trophies have been won in the past as well as military competition drills, etc. There has never been opportunity afforded to cash in on the championship quality of the baseball teams turned out by the 24th Infantry in recnet years, more than the scores of continuous winnings.

The team of this season combines the talent of the regiment which accompanied the organization from New Mexico, and the talent which the 3rd Battalion developed at this station last season. Roger M. Wilson was the pilot of the baseball fortunes of the 3rd battalion last year, and he thought he had about the best that he needed to clean up the best colored teams that could be induced to cross bats with his warriors. His records show that he was not far wrong. However, the additional talent coming with the first and second battalions and his wise generalship has given him an aggregation of performers that would make any fan scramble for a rain check. The score:

24th Inf. .....240 000 3—9 12 2
C. C. Club .....000 000 1—1 6 4
2 3-base hits.

Batteries: 24th Inf.—Haywood and Thomas; C. C. Club—James and Mays. Struckout by Haywood 12, by Mays 5.

7th ENGINEERS CROSS THE CHATTAHOOCHEE WITH A PONTOON BRIDGE

and thirty doughboys to do the work at 11:15 A. M. the same date troops and animals were crossing the bridge. The Chattahoochee was little higher than normal and the current is fairly fast at all times.

Major General Hines, Chief of Staff, Major General Farnsworth, Chief of Infantry and Brigadier General Gordon, Commandant of the Infantry School, inspected the bridge after the troops had passed over it.

This was the first time that a pontoon bridge has been thrown across the Chattahoochee since Benning has been established.

On November 5, 1918, the same outfit that put the bridge across the Chattahoochee laid another pontoon bridge but on this ocassion the machine gun and artillery fire was not theoretical. Of its being actual no doubt has ever arisen. This was the time when the 7th Engineers made it possible, by laying a bridge across the Meuse River, France, for the rest of the 5th Division to cross and put the enemy forces to rout.

Of this crossing General Pershing said: "The feat of arms, however, which marks especially the Division's ability as a fighting unit, was the crossing of the Meuse River and the establishment of a bridgehead on the Eastern bank. This operation was one of the most brillian military feats in the history of the American Army in France."

The surroundings were similar on both occasions to the extent that there were a great many spectators present. The difference rests in the fact that whereas on last Tuesday the spectators were but interested observers on the date of November 5, 1918, the spectators, or a big majority of them, were doing all in their power to hinder and prevent the bridge laying. The 7th Engineers has merely repeated history.

364 Officers Got Diplomas Tuesday

General Pershing Sends Message. General Gordan Makes Speech and Presents Diplomas. Colonel Fassett Speaks. Lieut. Col. Herman Swift, O. R. C. Main Speaker.

At the fourth graduation exercises held at the Infantry School on last Tuesday morning, three hundred and sixty-four officers received their diplomas, of these eighty-six were members of the Field Officers' Class and two hundred and seventy-eight were of the Company Commander's Class.

The exercises were held in the grove East of General Gordon's Quarters. The General's porch was used as a rostrum.

Seated on the rostrum with Brigadier General Walter H. Gordon, commandant of the school, were Col. Wm. M. Fassett, assistant commandant and Lt. Col. H. H. Swift, judge advocate O. R. C. and main speaker of the exercises, J. Homer Dimon, Mayor of Columbus; W. E. Page, and A. Kunze of the camp activities committee; Colonels Graham, Hannah and Peyton, Major Mitchell and Lieut. George Honnen.

Many citizens of Columbus attended the exercises as well as all of the families of the student officers.

Memorial Day Fittingly Observed

Address Made By Lieut. H. H. Fay

Memorial Day was fittingly observed at the Infantry School on May 30th, when all of the troops were assembled on the parade south of the Service Club at 8 A. M.

Lieut. Henry H. Fay was the principal speaker of the morning. His speech while short was to the point. He emphasized the fact that This Day was the soldier's day on which they paid tribute to those who had gone before them. Further that we by observing This Day appreciated the supreme sacrifice that they had made and that we would carry on the burden from where they had to lay it down.

Lieut. Smith also traced the soldier from the days when he was only a part of an unorganized mob, thence down through the days of Greece, and Rome and then on down to the present day showing what wonderful progress the soldiers of a later date made over an earlier period. He concluded his speech by quoting from the Bible Each Man is his brother's keep.

The following program was carried out:

Order of Exercises—8:00 A. M.

Funeral March, "Pathetic".....29th Infantry Band
Invocation .....Chaplain Lennan
Reading Ninetieth Psalm .....Chaplain Wood
Address .....Lieut. Henry H. Fay
Roll of Our Dead .....
Read by Post Adjutant, Lt.-Col. Kent
"America" .....Sung by All
Benediction.
"Taps"
March, "Religioso" .....29th. Inf. Band

After the morning exercises the Chaplains will have charge of the decoration of soldier graves in our Cemeteries.

At 9:00 A. M. Chaplain Lennan will hold Requiem Mass at the Catholic Chapel.

At 12 M. the prescribed ceremonies will be held at the flagstaff.

83rd BRIDGE CLUB.

The regular meeting of the 83rd Field Artillery Bridge Club was held on last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. T. Adams.

Her quarters were prettily decorated with sweet peas.

There were four tables of players and two tea guests present. Mrs. Wm. Lewis won the top score prize, Mrs. Pickett won the second prize and Mrs. Dasher won the booby. Mrs. Lenow received the guest prize.

Delicious home-made candy was served during th eafternoon. After the playing ice cream and cake followed with nuts and iced tea were served.

BEAUTIFUL DANCE AT COUNTRY CLUB COMPLIMENTING ARMY OFFICERS.

One of the loveliest dances of the season was given at the Country Club last Monday to compliment the Army members who are going away.

The decorations of the club were most elaborate, being artistically done in quantities of gladiole, roses and other spring flowers.

The mantels were banked with magnolias. Small tables were placed on the porches, which were lighted effectively with Japanese lanterns.

The coffee table was very lovely in tall silver vases of gladioli and silver bowls of vari-colored sweet peas. Mrs. Marshall Morton and Mrs. Wm. H. Dismukes presided.

At the punch bowl, festooned with garlands of roses, Mrs. Walter Richards, Mrs. Frank Foley and Mrs. Julian Robinson, of Atlanta, did the honors.

General Gordon, commanding general of Fort Benning, was represented by Col. John W. Heavly. Colonel Fassett, assistant commandant, was another guest of honor.

Mr. Frederick B. Gordon, president of the club, and Mrs. GoGrdon, and a large assembly including many prominent army officials and civilians were present.

Byrd's orchestra furnished delightful dance music.

A number of charming young girls including the Misses Louise and Margaret Garrard, Jane Gayle, of Covington, Ky., Della Bize, Jeanneatte Williams, Clara Martin and others assisted in serving the delicious sandwiches, ices, cakes, etc.

Altogether the affair was most delightful, and further emphasized the friendly relations between the civilian and army contingents.

LIEUT. ROXBURY IS SURPRISED.

We of the Infantry are taught that to be surprised is an inexcusable crime and we naturally thought that the same would apply to the Artillery. At any rate we are not going to investigate the situation but the facts are that Lieut. Rozbury did on the night of the 24th of May allow himself to be caught unaware and thoroughly surprised when sixteen friends that Mrs. Roxbury had invited entered the home of the above officer and reminded him that it was his birthday.

Their quarters were beautifully decorated with spring flowers.

Bridge was indulged in during the evening with Mrs. Dunwoody winning the ladies' high score prize and Lieut. Williams winning the gentlemen's high prize. Lieut. Webster drew the consolation.

Delicious punch was served during the evening and after the playing a great birthday cake with candles and everything was produced which Lieut. Roxbury had to "carve" and serve with ice cream.

TWENTY-FOURTH INFANTRY CLUB ENTERTAINED

Mrs. T. E. Bresnahan, wife of Capt. Bresnahan, entertained the members of the 24th Infantry Bridge Club, at her quarters at Fort Benning on Tuesday afternoon, May 22nd.

The top score was made by Mrs. Geo. S. Clarke, who was awarded first prize; the second prize was won by Mrs. W. A. Stetler. Mrs. E. C. Callahan drew the prize for tea guests.

After the game delicious refreshments were served the guests, which numbered about sixteen.

MR. AND MRS. EARL DOOLY RETURNED LAST SUNDAY.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dooly are expected home this evening from their wedding journey, which was spent at the "Black Walnuts," the country home of his father, near Turnerville, Ga., and have taken an apartment at Dimon Court, which they will occupy.

The wedding of Miss Constance Davenport an dMr. Dooly was an interesting event of May, taking place at the Methodist church at Greer, S. C.

Mrs. K. Olson wife of Lieut. Olson is a sister of Mr. Dooly.

BRIDGE PARTY

Capt. and Mrs. W. K. Lyda, assisted by Miss Lyda, entertained at a bridge party Friday night, May 25, at their apartment on upper Third avenue. There were four tables of bridge. The guests were members of the 20th infantry contingent at Fort Benning. They included:

Capt. and Mrs. Cloud, Capt. and Mrs. Shepherd, Capt. and Mrs. MacLaughlin, Capt. and Mrs. Soderholm, Capt. and Mrs. Richmond, Capt. and Mrs. Griffin of the First Division.

The winning of the prizes was quite coincidental, in that Mrs. Cloud had top score of the ladies, while Capt. Cloud had low score of the men, and Capt. Richmond had top score of the men, while Mrs. Richmond had low score of the ladies.

A delightful salad course was served, finished with ice cream and cake. The decorations were sweet peas and ferns.

DEPARTURES—

Mrs. Fassett and the Misses Fassetts, left this week for North Burough, N. H. where they will spend the summer.

Major Starr Moulton left for Anniston on Friday morning and Mrs. Moulton will leave tomorrow morning for Boston, Mass.

Both Major and Mrs. Moulton expect to be back at Benning by the first of September.

MEDICAL DEPT. BRIDGE CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Medical Department Bridge Club was held on last Tuesday evening with Captain and Mrs. Green.

Their quarters were prettily decorated with a choice selection of spring flowers.

Those winning prizes were Capt. John White, Mrs. Moulton, and Lieut. Dunphy.

After four frames of playing delicious refreshments were served.

BEAUTIFUL SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT.

Mrs. Robert Tobias and Mrs. Frank Chamberlain were the charming joint hostesses on last Wednesday afternoon at the home of the former, when they honored Miss Mary Turner, bride-elect with a linen shower and tea.

The decorations were pink Dorothy Perkins Roses and a huge pink bell suspended from the ceiling concealed the numerous and beautiful gifts.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the ice cream and pink and white heart shaped cakes. also pink and white mints, salted almonds and punch were served.

Mrs. Thomas Smith and Mrs. Starr Moulton assisted the hostesses.

24th INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB.

The regular meeting of the 24th Infantry Bridge Club was held on last Tuesday afternon at the home of Mrs. E. C. Callahan.

Her quarters were artistically decorated with a delightful selection of spring flowers and carried out a color scheme of pink and white, which colors were carried through in the beautiful hand painted tallies and the refreshments which consisted of pink and white ice cream with cake, iced tea and pink and white mints.

Mrs. Stetler won the high score prize and Mrs. Carter won the second. Mrs. Bresnahan won the cut prize.

MRS. McCLURE'S BRIDGE LUNCHEON.

Mrs. Robert McClure was the charming hostess at a delightful bridge luncheon on last Tuesday afternoon at her quarters complimenting Mrs. Fred Bugbee, Mrs. Geo. Goodale and Mrs. Lewis B. Rock who are leaving the Post shortly for their new stations.

Covers were laid for thirteen guests.

After the delicious luncheon four frames of bridge were indulged in. Mrs. Starr Moulton was the prize winner for the afternoon.

DELIGHTFUL PICNIC.

Thursday evening, May 24th a picnic and party was given at Cascades by members of Leavell Union, B. Y. P. U. in honor of Capt. and Mrs. R. M. O'Day, Misses Ellie and Lois Matthews and Ethel Coan.

Capt. and Mrs. O'Day will leave early in June for Honolulu. The Misses Matthews and Ethel Coan are teachers in one of our local schools and will leave soon for their homes in Georgia.

Delicious sandwiches were served and all had an enjoyable evening in spite of the rain. ## UNIT SCHOOL 29th INFANTRY CLOSES

Presentation of Diplomas by Brig. Gen. W. H. Gordon. Closing address by Capt. R. C. Van Vliet, Jr., Senior Instructor.

The success of the School was due entirely to the untiring efforts of the instructors and the enthusiasm and interest displayed by the men.

It is hoped that a similar school will be held during the next school year.

monstration during the coming summer, which should make an important contribution to the prestige of the regular army in the mind of the citizens, soldiers and country at large. Many members of congress are expecting to visit this summer's camps and I am confident their observation of the instructional work of the Benning graduates will result in warm support of appropriations for our school system and for the development of the citizens army. The last, our great mission and while yet somewhat in the nature of a vision, its future is being rapidly assured by the highly efficient and tactful labor of the graduates of our service schools.

"PERSHING."

General Gordon's Speech.

General Gordon's address in full follows:

Gentlemen of the Graduating Classes: Ladies and Gentlemen:

In my three years of commandant of the Infantry School I have observed very carefully the graduating classes and as a result appreciate the anxiety which must be yours on this, your last day at the Infantry School. Knowing that there are train reservation to be made, trunks to pack, furniture to crate and a dozen odds and ends for you all of look after, I have decided to make my address intentionally short.

I wish that instead of speaking to you it would be possible for me to bid each of you individually a fond good-bye by means of a shake of the hand and a look into your faces. However, I have a few remarks which are close to my heart and which I cannot refrain from sharing with you this morning.

Today you graduate from the Infantry School. You have successfully completed an eight months course at this institution which has for its purpose the testing, unifying and furthering of Infantry doctrine. You are to be congratulated and envied too, upon receiving a diploma from Benning. We hear on all sides most gratifying reports of the splendid work of the graduates of the Infantry School. There is a general call from every corner for our graduates. Your predecessors have established enviable records. The organizations to which you are going will scrutinize you with a critical eye to see what this Benning man is like about whom they have heard so much. I have confidence that you will fulfill their every expectation, and carry on the valuable work former graduates have initiated in our service.

In addition to your fine work I feel that you are to be especially congratulated upon the splendid record of your classes in discipline. It has been uniformly excellent. In spite of your large number and the lack of extended military experience on the part of many of you, the special priviliges of the American Officer, extended to you on all sides, have not been abused. You have certainly played the game squarely with me and I appreciate immensely your cooperation. If you continue to be as loyal to your work and to your future commanding officers as you have been to the Infantry School and to me, the future of our Army is assured. Any enterprise, regardless of its nature, could not help but forge to the front with such high standards of duty and such exemplary conduct on the part of the individuals composing it.

I also feel a personal obligation to each and every one of you for your cheerful acceptance of the difficult and poor living conditions that have been yours the past year due to the necessity of many families having to live in town and to the complete state of the building program of this School. But above all, I want to thank the ladies. I would be ungrateful indeed if I did not avail myself of this opprtunity to express my deep sense of obligation to them. It was they that set the example and pointed the way. It was their determination to make the best of things that bucked up our morale and started the men to smiling.

Gentlemen, there is a great work in front of you. Unlike the Army of yore, you are rightly required to mingle and associate with the civilian population of our country, few of whom understand our policy of National Defense. Your duty is to assist in their understanding it. In fact, under this new policy of National Defense, which is predicted upon the principle that great wars are no longer carried on by organized and trained armies but by the entire citizenry of the nations involved therein; this is our most important field of duty. You are no longer confined to the narrow and circumscribed limits of a military garrison, but must enter the broad realms that lie beyond, into which you must penetrate prepared to carry the gospel of military preparedness in accordance with the tenents upon which our new military policy is founded. In time of peace we soldiers constitute our army—the nation's defense.

However, in the event of an emergency or great crisis our Army is largely a citizen Army, we professional soldiers constituting but a handful in its organization. The present national Defense policy endeavors in these quiet times to so organize the country's manhood that when clouds of war approach we will at least have a satisfactory framework of organization established, without suffering those huge expenditures of time and human energy which has always been our experience in the past. So I repeat that it is not only your job, but your patriotic duty to make known to our people the value and necessity of such a policy. It may be that a difficult task has fallen to your lot. Nevertheless someone must perform this duty and enlighten the people as to the dire necessity for preparedness and it is my belief that you as trained officers should point the way.

I feel no hesitancy in saying that this year has been a very profitable one to you professionally. I venture to say that many of you younger men, before coming here have worked and studied hard, but was your work and study directed along the right lines? Had you given enough time and attention to the fundamental of things military, without which it is impossible to carry on the advanced study of your profession? If you are fair to yourselves your answer to this question will be "no." It goes without saying that the Infantry School furnishes much needed foundation. If you are leaving today with it not firmly established in your minds, we, the commandant and faculty, have failed in our mission. Whether or not the Infantry School has succeeded depends upon the future work and accomplishments of its graduates. As for men, I do not feel the least hesitancy in entrusting its future success to your care. However, do not lose sight of the fact that this is but the foundation, and the building of a strong permanent structure thereon rests with you. There is a tendency in our profession as well as in others to give up study on graduation day: to feel that our professional training is complete and that further apolication is not necessary. If your course here has not corrected this tendency as well as created a thirst for additional military knawledge, then Benning has again failed in its mission. No profession on earth is so exacting, so comprehensive, so intensely interesting as our profession—the profession of Arms. It includes a general knowledge of all the learned professions and it behooves each one of us to become familiar with its many phases to the best of our ability. We owe this to our country, to ouselves, and most of all to the men who entrust themselves to our keeping and leadership in time of war.

When you leave here you bear the shield of the Infantry School with you. I feel no hesitancy in entrusting to you its safe keeping: Always prove worthy of it and the principles for which it stands. Accept our best wishes and carry them with you to our brother soldiers at your new station.

Now Gentlemen, I am about to have the pleasure to present the diplomas. I [illegible] that these diplomas will reach very far and their effects will be found reaching far beyoud the limits of the paths of your personalities.

By virtue of what you have learned here the influence of the Infantry School will be spread throughout the Army, the military establishment and throughout the entire nation.

Lieut. Col. Swift's Speech.

A wonderful impression was made upon every one of the students, officials of the institution and the civilians assembled by Hon. H. H. Swift, the principal speaker on the program. He received hearty applause from the large audience at the conclusion of one of the most impressive addresses ever delivered at an Infantry school commencement. He is the first civilian ever to make the principal adress to a Benning class upon graduation. The following is his speech:

General Gordon, Officers and Men of the Infantry School, Ladies and Gentlemen:—

It is an honored privilege to talk to this graduating class of the Infantry School of the United States army. In the line of duty members of the school have completed a course of study which will better fit them for their profession of patriotic service to our country. In peace, the school prepares for war. The army and navy are the life insurance of the nation. Your few thousands are a mighty force of protection against danger from within or without which may beset this nation of one hundred million people.

Your work at Benning has been exacting and arduous. How much so, the average civilian can never realize because one who has no acquaintance with the exhaustive methods of army schools can little appreciate the thoroughness and difficulty of the courses which you set for yourselves. My own experience is slight, but I can positively testify and with admiration, to some of the accomplishments which officers of the regular army possess.

In 1918 when all men were wearing or wanted to wear the uniform, I had the honor of serving under a modest and kindly gentleman and officer of the regular army, who to a great understanding, brought great ability, much wisdom and an unselfish patriotism. His was not a gallant nor a flashing part, but it was an immense contribution to the total of American success in the World War. I refer to General Enoch C. Crowder, who drafted and administered the law and regulations which quickly brought into the military service millions of young Americans fairly and equitably without discrimination as to class, creed or color. While I was in his office, I was sent to the Army War College with many other civilian officers for training in practical military affairs. At the War College, in a six weeks course, officers of the regular army tried to crowd into our poor civilian brains, some practical knowledge about military matters. For sixteen hours a day, we labored and were instructed. When it was all over, I was mentally resolved then and for all time to render ungrudgingly tribute to officers who could master a course of study prepared by the army.

I can and do sincerely and admiringly congratulate every man who has completed the course of study at Camp Benning. War is an inspiration to tremendous effort, but peace is dull. The man who can with enthusiasm and zeal carry on in an unremitting effort to become more scientific and proficient in his profession of arms during times of peace, should attain a satisfaction in his own inner commendation of his countrymen for his fidelity to duty.

Your distinguished commandant in extending me the invitation to address you at this time, also suggested as my subject, "The Relation Between the Army and Civilian from the Standpoint of the Civilian."

I am pleased to consider General Gordon's gracious suggestion as an order. If in the Execution of that duty, I may contribute in a degree to a recognition and elimination of the difficulties and causes which are ever present to prevent cordiality of understanding, then indeed shall I be delighted.

It is commonplace and axiomatic to emphasize the desirability and the necessity of the existence of an entente cordial between the vast bodies of our citizens engaged in civil pursuits and the army. The unwritten law which makes only a civilian eligible to be sec-

15th Tank Battalion News

On Sunday, June 3rd, the Tanks will meet the Infantry School Detachment, our old rivals, on the camp diamond at 3 P. M. That a spirited ball game will result with the meeting of our old rivals may be assured as both teams will be more than anxious to win and will battle until the last man is out. We want every member of the battalion who can possibly be present to assist out nine to make the "enemy" bite the dust.

EDUCATION AND THE NATIONAL DEFENSE.

We may not realize it right off hand but there is a close relationship between Education and The National Defense especially as regards funds for operations.

We as a nation are prone to economize in both of these important branches so that a mil may be saved today that causes us to spend dollars or hundreds of dollars tomorrow.

Just recently in Cleveland, S. C. a public school was burned down and 78 people burned to death, when a kerosene lamp exploded, setting fire to the building. Immediately there was a rush for the one and only exit with the result that the stairs gave way. Those that were still inside of the building were caught in a death trap and were burned to death.

How much would it have cost the tax payers to put in a fire escape so that escape from the second floor would be possible by some other means than one stair? Would not the cost of such a fire escape have paid for itself many times over even if only a few of the seventy eight had been able to escape?

But for some reason, we as a people don't seem to realize that a terrible disaster like the one above can really happen in "our" locality. School have burned down before with a needless loss of lives but still other communities equally situated read their papers and remarked "that's too bad, what a shame, etc." but still they seldom corrected any serious defect in any of their public buildings with the result that more people are burned to death in dangerous and uncalled fire traps.

It is easy to imagine that these people are saying "if we had only known it wouldn't have happened." But these people did know because other public building have burned down before, but they did not realize that any of their public building would ever burn down until it happened and then it was too late.

Now the question arises "what has this to do with the Army? Simply this after every war we as a nation have said that we are going to be prepared for the next war but still in a very short time a penny in the hand looks larger today than a dollar in the hand to-morrow and our national defenses are neglected under the plea of economy and also we always say there will be no more war for who are we going to fight with? But soon war does sweep over our nation again and the same efforts, the same waste and the same rush that we have experienced in every war is repeated.

We have to have supplies with a rush, we have to have equipment with a rush, we have to have material with a rush, and we have to collect our armies with a rush, and then we have to rush our untrained men into battle with a trained foe, and our losses are large.

After the war is over a "big howl" goes up over the nation that "our boys" were slaughtered anl led by untrained officers, you have all heard it so its no use to repeat it.

But after all who is to blame? The Army—No! because they have tried to make the nation realize the danger of unpreparedness just as all communities have been told repeatedly that two story public building with only one exit from the second floor are dangerous—but to no avail. Then is the Government to blame? No the officials that are elected try to represent their constitutents. Then who is to blame? It must be the people. Then do not insist that our National Defense be neither kept up to the minute or up to what is adequae.

Every war that we have had has been a repetion of the preceding war and past experiences have been naught. After every war we have followed the same insane quackery that there won't be any more wars.

Will there be any more public building burn down with a useless loss of lives? Then why say that there won't be any more wars?

34th INFANTRY AND ATHLETICS

The 34th Infantry has established a desirable precedent for the Army, and the Infantry in particular, by establishing a definite athletic policy for that organization.

Infantrymen are required ordinarily in campaign to go through hardships not required of the other branches of the Service. In order to perform his duties satisfactorily it is necessary that the Infantrymen be physically fit —not only fit, in the generally accepted sense of the word, but with muscles developed, and readily co-ordinated with the brain.

Athletic trainnig accomplishes this purpose.

The argument that the awarding of prizes to team and individuals effects the few while the masses are onlookers is not sound. The trophies are given, it is true, as a result of the personal efforts of the individual or team, but the winning of the prize is an incentive for every member of an organization to put forth his best efforts in order that he may qualify for a team or for participation in individual events. Mass athletics, as a fundamental, in conection with the awarding of prizes for teams and individuals, produce the desired result. The organization with winning teams is an organization with high morale.

If athletics produce better soldiers both from the standpoint of physical condition and morale every regiment should have a definite athletic holiday.

The 34th Infantry is to be congratulated.

MEMORIAL DAY—MAY 30th, 1923.

By Allen J. Butler.

Shall we weep for them, who are dead—Or shall we conserve our strength to work and pay the debt for their sacrifice?

And raise to the world that great building, 'Faith' whose corner stones they have died to save.

Their grief it was so great; tho, shall we give yet more, for their plans are not complete?

They are dead! But, we must live, work and pray, that we may make a safer place for all mankind.

TACTICAL STUDIES.

By Major Lettherbe Reekel, S. C. D.
(Lecture as yet undelivered before the Army War College, Washington Barracks, Washington, D. C.)

The Fort Benning maneuvers, recently completed, afford a fertile field for the display of afterthought as distinguished from forethought. The opinions expressed in this critique are not the result of such a display. They are the inevitable conclusions arrived expressions of opinion of those engaged at after a collation of all the data and in either side, undue emphasis being laid on no one incident or viewpoint, because of the fallacy of drawing upon the limited observation facilities of an individual engaged in a great action for a conclusive opinion.

For that reason a number of indicative episodes will be quoted, a short critique of each will be made.

The most important point developed during the maneuvers was the advantage accruing to that side which first attacked a flank. Whether it be the right flank or the left is not particularly important. The considerations influencing a choice are not to be compared with the expediency of prompt action. When in doubt—attack the nearest flank. The Blue forces reported this to be a favorite practice of the Red Technigurs, (translation unknown, but probably a corps similar to the German Jaegers.)

Major Ducrot, commanding the Tenth (and last) Red Infantry, at a meeting of his staff at about 5 P. M. on the eve of the meeting engagement, remarked that to redouble an opponent's no-trump invariably invited disaster—and then proceeded to disregard his own very sound conclusion, which is only comparable to the action of the commander of the Blue Artillery, who, occupying a stragetic position on the right of the dealer, failed to raise on two pair before the draw, and was beaten in four places.

Now for a commander to be cognizant of the laws of probability which human experience has developed as the Magna Charta of all other rulings, and then to run deliberately counter to them, is a striking proof of the wise provisions of Section 24 of the National Defense Act as (frequently) amended.

Another very interesting point developed during campaign was the utter futility of our antiquated topographic courses. The crude and innacurate methods of resection taught in our military schools could have no more blighting criticism than the experience of the V. and E. T. officer of the Fourth Red Cavalry, who, leading a raiding party on a moonless night thru the trackless wilds of Sheet Three of the Post Map, was unaware of his surroundings until he found himself seated at the first table near the door of the Inn conducted by nine host of the LaGrange Hotel, with his mount parked upstairs.

Had this officer been given a course in navigation, and equipped with a sextant, he could readily have located himself, either on the map, a railroad time table, or the promotion list.

It is true that the use of insruments of navigation necessitates the presence of a horizon, but it is admitted that a very fine horizon is available in this climate practically the year round. There is as much horizon here as anywhere, if not more, and the attention of the Chamber of Commerce should be invited to the fact.

A study of the role played by artillery in the conflict finds us, as at the conclusion of other wars, faced with new tactical principles to master as a result of the improvements in technique. To the two great divisions of artillery fire, Fire for Demolition, and Fire for Neutralization, must be added a third, Fire for Noise.

The most notable engagement of the campaign, from an artillery standpoint, occurred on the last day, when the A. and R. ofifcer of the Blue artillery broke throuhg the lines to borrow one hundred rounds of the Red ammunition, which has not yet been paid back. However, the artillery fighting during the maneuver was on a larger scale than any previously recorded.

During the Eelbeck Mill Action the artillery was struck wheel to wheel for a distance of a mile, and the consumption of ammunition was equal to that required by the retreats and reveilles of two years; a tour of inspection by a Japanese admiral, and a visit from the Prince of Wales.

Neither side used their calvary to the utmost. Although well supplied with spare parts, faulty construction of the mounts was responsible for frequent breakdowns, necessitating halts for repairs. It is understood the War Plans Division, General Staff, has in mind the possible substitution of poge sticks in the next engagement. The use of cavalry as a screen was valueless after the third day, when the meager diet of compressed forage had rendered the cavalry positively transparent. The only cavalry exploit worthy of note was the cutting of the umpire's telephone lines during a night foray. The advantage so gained was not followed up by the capture of their notebooks and pencils and was thus nullified.

The supply service did excellent work throughout. (See footnote.) Despite the fact that the red ice cream was delivered to the Blue forces, and the blue cream to the Red army, the confusion of coloring naturally rendering the food inedible to patriotic forces, this made very little difference to the unpires. The attention to duty of the truck drivers, who invariably stayed with their trucks during the heaviest rainfalls, instead of wandering away, is deserving of great praise.

I would like to close this talk with the concise summing up of the tactical principles involved made to me in the course of a conversation by the military observer from Greece, who was present throughout the action, but as I don't understand Greek, we must get along without it.

I cannot end, however, without paying a tribute to the air services of both the Red and Blue forces, whose faithful compliance with all the provisions of the law of gravity set a gratifying example to the entire command.

(Footnote—The Base Section, S. O. S. is preparing a list of statistics relative to the maneuver which will be published as an appendix to this article not later than noon of June 10.)

NOTICE.

After much time and much money we have secured the future well known characters of "Calculator" who gets his name from the fact that he puts down three and carries one and "the Great Dane" the largest dog on the Post.

Calculator and the Great Dane are going to discuss various things and we feel that they will soon be as popular as the Grey Squirrel and the Bluebird. Watch for them for we believe that they will give you many a good laugh.

A brief history of the above dogs would not be amiss. The Great Dane is the biggest pet and the greatest friend of all men. He has been at the Infantry School for some time and is a great favorite with all the children. Calculator on the other hand is just plain cur but as he has been at Benning since the foundation of the School he is probably better acquainted with the reservation and the town of Columbus than any other being at the Post. Cal rides the trains to Columbus or if he misses the train he hops into somebody's car and just goes along. Cal has no home for every place is his home, he is everybody's friend and everybody is his friend. You officers coming to school next year will soon know Calculator.

But here's to the Great Dane and Calculator!

Fritzie refused to "do his sums" in school and his father said, "When you grow up, you cannot transact business without knowing something of arithmetic. Why if you had fifty cows and wanted to sell them at $50.00 a piece, you would not know how much to charge for them." "Yes, I would," said Fritzie, "I would sell them to my customer one at a time."

Socialism in Practice.
A man of socialistic tendencies was expounding the great brotherhood principles to a neighbor. "Why," said he, "If I had a million dollars, I would divide with you and we would both have an abundance. I would not leave you poor. If I had a palatial home, I would share it with you and with the poor. I would not live to myself."

The neighbor took it all in patiently then he said quietly, "And if you had two goats, would you share them with me?"

"Aw, gwan, now," said the spieler. "You know I got two goats."

Sam and Lucy were going away after the wedding and it so happened that they were the only occupants of the car in which they were traveling. Taking advantage of the opportunity, Sam kissed his blushnig bride, but just then the "Butcher Boy" came thru the back entrance of the coach, bawling out: "Quincy Adams Sawyer" Sam looked up at him and said, "I don't care if he did. She is my wife."

Valerie will have a birthday anniversary in May and she has been waiting for the great event, with the accompanying pink ice cream, candles, birthday cake and good time generally, ever since the day after the last anniversary. When told recently that her big day would not be here for several weeks, she said, "O well some people are born in July, and they have to wait lots longer than I will have to."

Ain't It?
The young man had just finished a luncheon with his best girl at a leading hotel. Feeling that the world was treating him to her best bouquet, he said with a sigh of happiness.—"Ain't love just grand?"

His First Formal Call.
She was sixteen and he was seventeen and they had been playmates since childhood, and she had always been known to say what she thought without any great amount of study beforehand. He was not short either when it came to talking, but on this momentous occasion, he was calling on her for the first time in the parlor of her home as her sweetheart. He sat on the divan and she in a rocker. For a while nothing was heard to break the silence while each racked his or her brain to find something to talk about. After a long embarrassed silence, she happened to remember a circus which she had attended a short time previous. Grasping at the idea like a drowning man grasping at a straw, she dug her heels into the rug, then blurted out, "Elephants make big toe tracks."

364 OFFICERS GOT DIPLOMAS LAST TUESDAY

retary of war is a manifestation that there should be an official point of contact between the army and the thought of civilians directed to military affairs. Criticism has often been directed to the custom which requires that a civilian should be the administrative head of the war department, but the wisdom of such a practice has been too long exemplified to be seriously questioned.

The army will never achieve its highest mission and attain its greatest effectiveness, and the people will never have the supreme confidence in their army which the army is entitled to enjoy, if either hold aloof from the other, and unless the army understands the people and the people appreciate the army.

The military administration is subordinate to that of the civil. In war, you have a mandate of almost supreme authority from the people, but it is a mandate for a purpose and as a means to the end that the orderly pursuits of peace my be again restored and a civil administration resumed.

Two outstanding emergencies have confronted the war department in the life of this nation. In 1861, brother was arrayed against brother, in the maintenance of govenmental principles, for which each believing to be right, was willing to give much or to give all. The issues were decided. Union prevailed. Happily a reunited country exists today. A civilian, Stanton, by the record of history, a martinet of the first rank, directed the affairs of the war department from 1861 to triumphant conclusion in 1865. Again in the World War, another civilian, a peace loving man, I say it not offensively, was secretary of war. He happened to be a son of one of those fighting men in gray, over whom Stanton's triumphant armies rolled in 1865. Contemporary observation is not impartial, but I believe that in the recorded verdict of time Newton D. Baker will stand as one of the greatest secretaries of war, if not the greatest war secretary. Surely the army never had a truer friend than he. No American army and its commander in chief ever enjoyed the unqualified and continuously loyal support which the A. E. F. received from the war department with the civilian, Baker, pacificist if you choose, administering its affairs. The World War was the first war in which the army in the field was not confused and disorganized by repeated changes of commanders.

The two instances mentioned indicate how civilians have functioned successfully for the benefit of the army.

The credit account of the Army and its contribution to civil administration and to the life and thought of the nation in its civil affairs is and has been varied and abiding.

Having achieved the objective for which he was called to lead the Revolutionary Army, General Washington unostentatiously returned to private life and to the duties and vocation of a private citizen. Recalled from civil pursuits to guide the faltering steps of an infant nation, the impress of his wisdom and patriotism in the adminsitration of this government and its policies at home and abroad belongs to the ages. His chief adviser in assisting to put in practical operation the new government so that it would function effectively was Hamilton, who had been an officer in the Revolutionary Army, and who, with Jefferson, Madison and Marshall, constituted that wonderfully inspired quartet of wisdom and knowledge of governmental principles. The clash and contest and amalgamation of their ideas of the principles on which the new government should be founded, combined to produce the whole as revealed in the Constitution, an instrument termed by Gladstone, the most wonderful ever penned by the hand of man.

That Constitution, however, could be made or marred by the manner in which it was applied. It needed the vitality to be breathed into it of the national conception, which was the result of John Marshall's thought, genius and experience in the Revolutionary Army. Marshall endured the long winter of suffering at Valley Forge. The neglect of the Continental Army made a profound impression on Marshall's character. He had observed and experienced all the ills and weakness of an army composed of militia from the separate colonies, severally organized and put into the field with no common federal authority and source of power over all. He had even seen the militia of one colony when on the soil of another, although engaged in a cause against the common enemy not only denied sustenance, but treated as marauders and trespassers.

These were in part the experiences of Marshall which gave him that insight into the needs of the nation, and that resolution in conjunction with his genius which caused him to produce and write the opinions in the cases of Marbury v. Madison, Cohen v. Virginia, the Dartmouth College case and others, by which the Constitution was made the supreme organic law, a potential fact destined to endure if the American people will only remain true to the faith and not stray off after new isms and fads. It is an interesting coincidence that, of all the great men who have followed Marshall as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, no other has so approximated Marshall in his national conception of the functions of the Federal government as the lamented Edward Douglas White, himself a soldier, but a soldier in a cause that was lost and which if triumphant would have dissolved the Union.

Chief Justice White was always proud of his service in the Confederate army. Your humble speaker well remembers that during the World War, when he was admitted to practice in the supreme court of the United States along with others in uniform, the chief justice graciously remarked, "The Court is glad to welcome gentlemen to the bar of this court in uniform; the Court, himself wore a uniform from 1861 to 1865."

General Grant, the man of iron during the war, when he became president did much to heal the wounds of the conflict in which he was victorious. All of South remembered his words at Appomatox. "Let us have peace", and especially was he generous while president in his attitude toward his former comrades of the old army prior to 1861, who had cast their fortunes with the Confederacy. Andrew Jackson, Garfield, Hayes, the gentle McKinley, and Roosevelt, while never regulars in the military establishment, were soldiers who had fought side by side with regulars. Contact with the regular army surely left an impression on their characters, and influenced their acts and conduct in the highest executive office of the government.

Historical facts might be multiplied indefinitely of how the civil administration of the government has been touched by the influence of the army, and how civilians in official position have cooperated beneficially with the army. But I have illustrated sufficiently the point that I wanted to bring out — that each has casually and intermittently, without design, helped the other.

Now I approach with some diffidence another phase of my subject because it is not so pleasant to discuss. Issues, however, can not be evaded, and only by frank discussion of causes will remedies be found.

The truth is undeniable that there does not now exist and never has existed complete amity, co-operation and understanding between congress, the public at large and the regular army. The public, congress and the army are all parts of the complex organism composing the nation. Best results can not be obtained from a machine which functions with friction. Candidly, I think that the public and congress are far more responsible for the unfortunate situation than the army, but the army, itself, particularly in the past, has not been entirely free from contribution to the separation.

Some of the causes relate back to revolutionary days, and others go even farther back to ancient prejudices, inherited by generations of our people, against standing armies as tools of tyrants and engines of oppression, likely to be used against the freedom of citizens. To congress was conveyed the power to declare war, and to raise and support armies. Yet the limitation is emphatically written that no appropriation of money for the support of the army shall be for a longer term than two years. The framers of the constitution, and the largest part of our citizens, have always desired that the chief arm of defense should be the militia, or a citizen army. Hence, to congress is also committed the power to call out the militia for the purpose of executing the laws of the Union, suppressing insurrections and repelling invasions; and to provide for organizing the army and disciplingin the milita, and for governng such parts of them as may be employed in the service of the United States. Again, however, there is a limitation reserving to the states respectively the appointment of officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by congress. This power of permitting states to appoint the officers of the militia has frequently been the source of trouble because in calling forth militia, the war department could exercise no supervision to secure the appointment of capable officers.

The central thought in these organic powers conferred upon congress with reference to military affairs is the idea that a national army was essential, but and the states were jealous of the power granted to federal authority, and surrounded it with qualification. The further thought is pervasive that a military and a citizen army should constitute a reserve of defense for the nation, on which it would have to rely in time of war. You and I may not agree with these ideas, but the facts must be faced, because they are facts and not theories. The old opinion still persists to this day in a large majority of our people. When ways and means of allaying possible irritation and promoting a better understanding between the people, congress and the army are attempt these long standing opinions must be reckoned with.

A man cannot get very far in this world no matter how brilliant he be unless he understands human nature. The average American of today, despite many lessons has not yet eliminated a supreme egotism that the adaptability and versatality of Americans are such that without very much training or preparation an army which can defeat the world can be called into existence over-night by an act of congress, with a lavish appropriation of funds whenever the emergency arises. Of course, you know this is sheer nonsense, and this Infantry School represents the best thought and helplessness of the army in its earnest desire to mitigate the helplessness into which congress always lets the nation drift after the close of one war and before another comes.

Congress and the people work and think in a vicious cycle about like this. War is declared. Everybody gets excited. The crisis is on. Money is lavishly appropriated for hastily raising armies, and providing equipment. The president is granted unlimited wartime powers; and superhuman tasks are imposed upon him. Out of the confusion and enormous waste finally come order, much satisfaction and glorification results. Lamentation for the waste of expenditure, and criticism of all who labored while the house was afire gradually but surely ensues. The next step is steady destruction every two years by congress, of the great machine which has been built up. Finally the army becomes a mere ghost of its recent power and numbers until the next war opens. Then the cycle is repeated.

Every two years when an appropriation is made for the army, a struggle results with congress for funds. Real economy of governmental expenditures is always gratefully received by the over-burdened tax paver. False economy is extravagance. Yet economy prac-

24th Band journeys to Atlanta, Ga. to help enliven the Kiwani's state meet. When the Columbus Kiwanis delegation takes their place in line of parade in Atlanta, they will be played through by the crack twenty-fourth Infantry band. The ambitious members of the Columbus Club to make their delegation to Atlanta the best appearing, the largest turn-out and the most impressive will be assured success by the cooperation of the military band which they selected to accompany their delegation.

Colonel B. P. Nicklin, commanding officer of the 24th Infantry, and Captain George S. Clarke, commanding officer of the Service Company, 24th Infantry made the journey with the band and the official party of the Kiwanis.

Retirement of Staff Sergeant Thomas Brown.

The Regimental Commander desires to bring to the attention of the officers and enlisted men of the regiment the record of the long, honorable and faithful service of Staff Sergeant THOMAS BROWN, Service Company, 24th Infantry, who has been placed on the retirement list per paragraph 26. Special Orders No. 116, War Department, May 17, 1923, with over thirty-one years and five months service.

Staff Sergeant Brown entered the service as a member of Company C. 6th Virginia Volunteer Infantry and served with that organization until January 26, 1899. He reenlisted for the 24th Infantry March 1st, 1899 and his service has been continuous in this regiment to date. More than nineteen years having been served in Company L.

Staff Sergeant Brown participated in various engagements and skirmishes during the Phillippine Insurrection. Philippine Islands. He took part in the Punitive Expedition in Mexico from March 28, 1916 to February 5, 1917. In action against Villistas, Juarez, Mexico, June 15-16, 1919.

The very best wishes of all officers and enlisted men of the regiment follow Staff Sergeant Brown into his well earned retirement from active service. A Regimental Review will be tendered him on Wdnesday, May 23, 1923.

A farewell dinner for Staff Sergt. Brown was held in the Mess Hall of "M" Company on the evening of May 17th at which the officers and noncommissioned officers of the regiment joined in wishing Sergeant Brown a God-speed and a happy farewell. Addresses were made by Colonel Nicklin, Captain Farnsworth and Sergt. Brown. A farewell remembrance was given Sergeant Brown in the form of a gold watch, in the name of the Non-commissioned officers of the regiment.

Rifle Season About to Open.

We're off! When June 1st rools around the 24th rifle season will be ticketed for a vacation special. All details will actually be cut in half, and the personnel of the regiment will be given an opportunity to show their efficiency in matters military. The range is cleared, the instructor staff is all primed up, and the dusky Doughboys of San Juan "Block House" fame are raring to go. More news of what happens will be hot on the wires next week.

Baseball card for June 1st and 2nd.

The next home games to be played by the 24th baseball team will be on June 1st and 2nd when the team from Auburn, Alabama will be entertained by the locals. All who desire to witness these games are invited.

Company "A"

Private Orange came in from the range the afternoon before he shot for record with the team and told us that if anybody on the Team went to Niagara Falls. He was going to be one in the bunch, but since he shot for record and completed we can't hear about Niagara, what the trouble Orange the other boys must have made think Niagara Falls was a little too far to walk to.

Sergt. Mann is doing what a lot of the boys would like to do. He shooting the Automatic Pistol. Of course he is not having much success as yet but with a few days more practice he says he will make the best of them set back and watch him.

Company "K"

Well Sergt. Tolbert, what about all this passing in review, last Sunday night?

What's that? Asked Picket, he ought to know.

Sergt. Woods (Tom Duff) left for Atlanta, Ga. on the 28th, to appear in concert, as the silver voiced tenor, Baritone, and all around "Shiek" for the entertainment of the international "Kiwanis" go on boy you're in the old home town.

Private Latimore, (Stack-o-Dollars) was heard singing last night, "Overstreet" can rest much better, since he took to himself, Three more.

Company "L"

Speaking of some expert pistol shots "L" Co. ranks the list. The best shot in the company, (Pop) Jennings, made 4 misses at 15 yds. Only 3 hits out of 100 rounds ammunition. Moved to silleuette target 15 and 10 yds. shot 50 rounds ammunition and if the target had been a natural man the man could've taken a cord string and whipped Pop unmerciful. Make up your mind and say this, "if that was the enemy, I wouldn't been burned up shooting like that, (not burned up Pop but in a h——of a fix.

Bob Session would've made expert, but just as soon as the target was pulled to the center, he moves one pace ot the front, in order to get an equal balance and looked down, and saw his dogs (feet) resting on two rolls of first garde cotton, and shot over the butts, in the butts, thru the woods and in the Chattahoochee. Bob a question for you to answer, "if cotton hurts your hounds, would it be impossible for you to slepe in a feather bed?"

Mrs. Reinta Session (we know her better when you say mother) a dear, dear friend to all the boys, and especially to the members of Co. "L" we regret with sorrow dear mother you have but a few more days before you leave us behind, Yet we realize that Sergt. and Mrs. Session has been with Old Glory, for 29 years some months and a few days and the entire Company wishes you the best of luck and happiness in your new surroundings. Meantime at the date of Sergt. Sessions retirement, you both will be well remembered.

Attention, this applies to the NCO's of Company "L" There's no use to say on to much thread on your chevdons or waste to much time in sewing them on, take my advice and just tack them on, W. H. Y. Because we may call for them at any moment.

Private John Bell, was seen giving instruction, as to how to use Kodaks Wednesday afternoon. Wonder what's the big idea? Can any one tell us? Oh, yes, we know just the trouble, Some one said the old boy didn't have charge enough, to stop a chero-cola truck, so he decided to pass the time off by kodaking, look out Bell, if you expect to keep your ship you will have to keep a little change, now and then.

The best lecture made to Co. "L" was the one the C. C. gave the Co. before going to drill Wednesday evening. He said there are few men who have excellent hats and kahki breeches and there will be a requisition, going in for clothing about the 1st so you wont have to worry about drawing any clothing at all. Just wear the same old (untidy) uniform, thruout the season (and at the end) boys a distinguished medal will await your arrival, wake up boys and put in for your clothing and keep that lamb look behind the bars of 6.8.10.12 put in for your clothing, enough said.

Company "M"

We have just heard of new pistols qualifications by a certain Corporal of Company "M" who came in from the target range and said that he had made strong sharpshooter, We guess the next time he shoots, he will make weak expert or marksman medium.

The First Sergeant has returned recently from a trip and vacation of about 6 days to Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala. where at that time the commencement was in session, he states that he had a glorious time.

Bakers and Cooks School

IWG asks: What will be the general condition of the world (500) years from now.

Answer: That's a big question I. W. G. but the crystal says, relations of the humans will be greatly improved The entire world is being placed under scientific cultivation, machinery doing the labor. The trend of thought points to a world law rather than a National Law. Science has placed us in communication with several planets farther advanced than us who operate as a whole. Our children are observed at birth as to natural tendencies and given education accordingly. Each human has a niche, or duty to perform in the world, and is being taught to concentrate on his or her duty, rather than craming a smattering of general subjects into the persons head which avail him nothing.

Money once thought to be everything is now practically nothing, as with the whole world producing for common good, there is no cause for laying up treasure, The Economic situation apparent three or four centuries ago is gradually being brought into disuse, and it appears that the world might be compared to a large family, where all members participate in the gains or joys of the one. The Selfish spirit once easily evident in all humans seems to be gradually dying out for want of nourishment and everything points to the ultimate life of brotherly love on a higher plane than heretofore.

As the world advances from one plane to another, advancement gains momentum, as evidenced from a look at the world of 1770 to 1922, from 1922 to 2000, etc.

A NECESSARY CHANGE.

Recently it has been found necessary to make a slight change in the schedule of the Howard buses.

A committee consisting of certain officers at Post Headquarters and also the Committee on Camp Activities have made an investigation of the earning of the Howard Bus Line and as a result, the schedules have been modified so that buses will leave the Post at a greater interval than formerly.

Just take a look at the ad on the last page and then keep the time in mind.

Also these committees have consented to an increase of cash fares to Thirty-five (35) cents. However to avoid a hardship for soldiers the Post Exchange will handle bus ticket books in domination of $2.00 and $5.00 which will still make it possible for the soldiers to ride the buses for Twenty-five (25) cents as formerly.

This should work out to the advantage of the men as they can now take a trip to the city on tickets when formerly they had to have the cash and it won't cost them any more.

Some things to try in Co. "L" and I am sure you can have the best of luck.

364 OFFICERS GOT DIPLOMAS LAST TUESDAY

ticed at the expense of the army is popular in many communities of America today. So do not deceive yourselves that it is not popular.

Kipling's "Tommy Atkins" expressed more truth than poetry in the lines when he says:

"While it's Tommy this, and Tommy that, and Tommy, fall behind,
But its Please to Walk in front, sir,' when there's trouble in the wind."

At the present time, there are other powerful forces insidiously and persistently at work to restrain adequate appropriation for the maintenance of an army of reasonable size and effectiveness. These forces suspect that in case of riot and internal commotion brought on by the agitation of their baneful teachings, the army may be used to uphold the law of the land and to suppress insurrection.

Primarily with the army itself must rest the prodigious task of bringing on a better understanding with respect to itself by the public and Congress. More influence can be exerted on Congress indirectly through the people than by direct contact with the members of Congress. Except with those few men of independent thought and action who are leaders and not followers of public opinion, Congress will continue its attitude until they hear from the people back home.

If you do not know a man and his character, your ignorance may lead to unfounded opinion and prejudices. Nine times out of ten when you can get to know a person, you will find qualities which you will appreciate. If every American community could associate with the army as have the people of Columbus, Muscogee and Chattahoochee counties in the past five years with the splendid body of officers attending this school, there would be no army problem, so far as its popularity was concerned.

There are two principal channels through which public opinion of the methods, practices and personnel of the army is formed. One is through association of the officers and men of the army with civilians in business and social life. The second is the direct contact of civilians, who enlist in the service, and then drift back into civil life, and in this class must also be embraced the civilians who are suddenly drawn into service in case of war. Arbitrary and autocratics methods in dealing with men new in the ervice, especially if they are men inducted into the army in event of war, may react on the army for years to come. Americans grow up in an atmosphere most free from restraint. Suddenly subjecting them to rigorous discipline is a radical change from their previous environment. Discipline, of course, must be maintained at all hazards, but the wise officer need not resort to harsh methods. The officer who does employ such methods stores up trouble to plague the army for a generation when these civilians get back to their peaceful pursuits. May I say here to the credit of the army that while I have talked to many drafted men of the late national army, and have heard many complaints as to their treatment, these complaints are few indeed as to acts or conduct of the regular army. They arise in most instances from the foolish acts of reserve officers with little experience.

There is a widespread belief among people who do not know the army that the commissioned personnel holds itself aloof from the people, and as a class apart, and caste superior to their fellow citizens in the social status. Thoughtful officers can do much to efface any such idea of caste superiority by frowning upon the few of little brain, who may cherish any such notion. This does not mean that pride of service and respect for the uniform is undesirable but it does mean that the uniform cannot elevate where superior qualities of heart, mind and character are absent.

No doubt there is now only a faint trace of the old Prussianizing influence of Von Steuben. It worked incalculable harm while it lasted on account of the impressions of arrogance created in the minds of the public. If there is a trace or a taint of it left, its suppression should be prompt.

Officers of the regular army are under a solemn duty to refrain from indiscreet acts which might create a wrongful impression of the army as a whole. You have a straight and narrow path to walk. Only about 150,000 men are in the regular army. There are over 100,000,000 people. Consequently the army is the cynosure of all eyes. I admit that it is a harsh and unfair rule, but it is nevertheless true that the public judges the mass by the acts of the individual. The public is prone to consider as characteristic of the mass any evidence of arrogance or assumed superiority of caste. I am not attempting to preach to you, but I am merely stating facts. I am pleading with you to mingle with the people that they may know you. You are created by them for their good. You are neither above, nor below them. If you would have their apathy and indifference removed, you must go to them because the mountain is not coming to you. As the dignity and power of the United States Army is great, then just so great is the measure of your representation and your responsibiliity. As the public expects in you superqualities of nobility and character, your obligation for the good of the service is all the more serious to maintain that reputation which is expected of you. There are so few officers that when each of you comes in contact with the civilian populace, you must remember that the mass is being judged by your individual conduct. I knew of a great general officer of this present army who in making an address to officers of the World War, urged that they should keep their uniform as pure and as holy as a bishop does his robes. Then you will indeed be true to yourselves, to your country and to your God.

The regular army of the United States has always proved true to the faith. Tri daend never found wanting is a lofty encomium. Time and again you have shown that individually and collectively, you have that finest quality of the human soul—loyalty. The records of history are emblazoned with your glorious and gallant deeds. On many a blood-drenched field, the regular army has exhibited its devotion to duty and its willingness to make the supreme sacrifice. The little misunderstandings which I have mentioned are trivial in the light of the sum total of your accomplishments. But may I speak a word of warning. There is coming a time, I fear, when a crucial test indeed is to be met. There are thousands of people in this country whom we have generously received from oppressed and stricken lands. Some of these people have mistaken our liberty as a license to propagate doctrines incompatible with our institutions. Masquarading as apostles of the uplift and progress are fanatics and many men with wild and dangerous doctrines which they are circulating to destroy our institutions and to set up their socialistic or bolshevistic arrangements. I hope the day is far distant when any such crisis will have to be met, but if it does come, those who know the army and its history know that it will be ready to unswervingly meet the issue, that life, liberty and property shall be secure. The answer is not in doubt as to where the army will stand then, because it has never been necessary to commend to the army Cicero's immortal words—"Would you have praise and honor, would you have the esteem of the wise and good, value the Constitution under which youlive."

And when that issue is decided, we can still turn with confidence our faces to the rising sun to salute the stars and stripes radiant in its beauty with its white stripes breathing peace, its red stripes pulsing kindred, and the stars of the sisterhood of states set in an azure background speaking the providence which makes us and protects us in a nation that shall not perish from the earth.

Colonel Fassett The Last Speaker.

The Assistant Commandant spoke for only a very few minutes, saying that he wished to allow Col. Swift's speech to "soak in" and that he did not want to detract anything thereof. Col. Fassett then spoke of the work that the Infantry school had done and told the graduating class that what they did after leaving the institution would be reflected upon the instructors at the school. He urged the students, who had just completed their eight months of intensive work to make the best of their training at Benning and to do things after leaving to reflect credit upon the institution. The colonel expressed his confidence that they would not fail.

How About it?

The May number of the Third Corps Area Gazette carries an interesting article by James J .Corbett of the Third Corps Area welterweight and feitherweight champions, Private Eddie Burnbrook and Private Bob Garcia, respectively.

Jim Corbett's description of these two men leads to the belief that at some time in the futrre the Army may be represented in a clash for world championship pugilistic honors.

However, and without meaning to throw bouquets at ourselves, we hereby express the opinion that we would like to see Garcia, Third Corps Area featherweight champion, trade punches with DeRose, Fourth Corps Area champion in the same class.

We have never seen Garcia in action but Jim Corbett's remarks convinces us that he is a "comer." We have seen DeRose in action frequently and we have a healthy respect for his ability.

Of course it is quite true that our perspective is hazy on account of DeRose being from Fort Benning. This doesn't change the statement though that we would like to see the scrap between these two men.

DARCEY-STRIBLING.

It seems to be difficult to get the correct weight of a boxer as the real age of an old maid in the presence of a prospective husband. In most cases, the boxers are fighting at weight they have been known to make some time ago. Benny Leonard, for instance, doesn't make 135 lbs. at 3 o'clock more than once in a year and then against some top-notcher, like Leu Tendler, who is quite a drawing card, and can demand that the champion make weight. However, the wity Leonard, always stipulates that the opponent make weight, and most of them are so glad to get a whack at the championship, that they'd sign articles if Benny weighed a ton.

The Stribling-Darcy fight for instance, is generally billed as a middleweight contest. As a matter of fact neither will enter the ring at the middle weight limit, of 158 lbs. Neither are bona-fide middles, but are in truth might good light heavies never-the-less and the patrons of the fight game will have an opportunity to see one of the best cards ever arranged in a city the size of Columbus. This will be quite an expensive show and the American Legion, with Major J. Paul Jones, acting as matchmaker and promoter, certainly deserves a great deal of credit for this enterprise.

The pride of Macon, and all Dixie, for that matter, hooks up with one of the toughest boys in the fight game, in Jimmy Darcey, late of New York. Darcy has only been defeated twice by Jeff Smith, and once by Ham Greb, and in both of these bouts he acquitted himself nobly. Everyone knows that they don't come any better than Harry and Jeff, and any young fighter who can make a creditable showing with either of those two, can still hope for the championship. Darcy is tough and he is clever, and experienced, and neither has he given away any advantage in a matter of years, being comparatively young in the fight game.

Strib is a comer. There's no doubt of that. He is as fast as they make them and in all of his fights has shown a great deal of judgment and self control, especially notable in a high school boy. There's no doubt of it, as far as head work counts, Strib is championship calibre. His foot work compares with that of Greb and Jeff Smith, tho' a little different in style No one knows anything about his ability to take punishment, for he has never had to take any yet, and up to date is scarcely marked.

What will be the out come. Stribling has never really been defeated decisively. Darcy is one of the best at his weight, and a championship contender. Is this another case of the inexistable force and the immovable body? Summing it up, give Darcy the advantage of weight and strength, give Darcy the credit for the more powerful punch, give him a shade on ring experience, but give to Stribling the advantage of speed and probably condition, because of the heavy training in this climate for some time. It looks like an edge for Darcy, but as they are meeting in Columbus may turn out any way at all, as it's impossible to dope out such factors as luck and science until after you've seen them go.

At any rate this is the acid test for Stribling and if he can win decisively from Darcy, a few more years of careful managing will see him on the big time looping the loop with the champion. Its a good fight to see, but not to bet on.

COMMENDATION FOR DEMONSTRATION TROOPS

Again The Infantry School has left a good taste in the mouth of the officers that were student officers here last year. However the letter that we are taking great pleasure in quoting is of an unusual nature as it is the enlisted men that come in for the commendation this time. The advanced Officers' class appreciated the splendid demonstrations given by the officers and the men of the demonstration troops.

The letter follows:

The advanced Officers' Class desires

24th INFANTRY BAND MAKES FAVORABLE IMPRESSION

Atlanta Enjoyed Their Music During the Kiawanis Meet.

The 24th Infantry Band returned from Atlanta on May 31st. The entire regiment is justly proud of their record in that city where they played for the Columbus Club during the International Kiawanis convention. It was decidedly the best band at the convention and many favorable reports have been received concerning the music rendered by it. It played concerts in the lobbies of all the leading hotels, including the famous Georgian Terrace Hotel, in all the newspapers broadcasting stations, at the Auditorium Armory, at the State Capitol for the Governor, serenaded the Mayor of Atlanta, and last but not least it went out to the hospital for the wounded veterans of the World War where the music was immensely appreciated. The most spectacular incident of the trip was the playing of a concert by the band at Five Points, Atlanta's business center where the band was allowed to play for over a half hour blocking traffic on the five main streets of Atlanta for a distance of over a mile in every direction, a thing which only a very select few have been allowed to do in the past years.

The Band was accompanied by Colonel Nicklin, Commanding Officer of the Twenty-fourth Infantry and Capt. Geo. S. Clarke, Commanding Officer of the Service Company of which the Band is a part.

The following is what the Atlanta Journal has to say about this tour of the famous 24th Infantry Band:

COLORED MUSICIANS FROM CAMP BENNING FILL TWILIGHT HOUR

The famous Twenty-fourth infantry band and the Twenty-fourth infantry bugle corps from Camp Benning and the Columbus community chorus, numbering all told more than 100 colored musicians, were brought to Atlanta

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL

Has Graduated over 1,200 Officers

(Name of Writer Withheld By Request)

As a result of the experiences of the Great War, The Infantry School was established at Fort Benning, Georgia. It is essentially the outgrowth of the system of military schools which were found necessary for the instruction in the mechanical, technical and tactical training of the Infantry, the arm which constituted the greater part of the forces raised during the war. Here it is that Infantry officers from all the components of the Army (Regular Army, National Guard, Reserve Corps) assemble to receive the best instruction on the latest development in Infantry tactics, equipment, arms, etc., from picked, capable instructors.

In its short past this institution has graduated over 1,200 Infantry officers of all grades. That they have proven their value is attested by the fact that all activities are constantly demanding that they be sent Benning graduates.

The courses at The Infantry School for the present school year are as follows:

Refresher Course—extending over a period of six weeks.

Consists of General Officers.

Number of students, 6.

National Guard and Reserve Officers' Course—extending over a period of three months. It is composed of officers from the National Guard of the various states and officers of the Reserve Corps. This year's class contained 101 members.

Advanced Course—extending over a period of eight (8) months (October 1 June 1.)

Composed of officers of field grade of the Regular Army.

Company Officers' Course—extending over a period of eight (8) months (October 1—June 1). Composed of

MRS. GOODALE COMPLIMENTED

On Thursday afternoon May 31st Mrs. L. H. Sims and Mrs. F. H. A. McKoen were the charming hostesses at a bridge party at the Polo Club complimenting Mrs. Geo. Goodale who is leaving about July 1st for Boston, Mass., where Col. and Mrs. Goodale will be stationed.

The guests consisted only of members and former members of the 29th Infantry.

The Polo Club house was most beautifully decorated with various spring flowers but which carried out a color scheme of yellow and white.

Mrs. Scales won the high prize score and received a sterling silver bud vase. The cut prize was won by Mrs. Duvall and consisted of a silver lemon fork

Mrs. Goodale was presented with a silver ice cream knife.

Candies were served during the game which carried out the color scheme of yellow and white and orange sherbert with angel food cake also in the above color were served after the playing.

After the playing Mrs. Goodale was presented with a large box and upon opening it she found that each member present had contributed some token of remembrance.

MRS. CARTER'S BRIDGE LUNCHEON

On last Friday Mrs. Wiley V. Carter gave a most delightful bridge luncheon as a compliment to her sister Miss Dorothy Dougherty who is visiting here.

Miss Dougherty and Mrs. Carter are daughters of Col. and Mrs. H. A. Dougherty, who are now stationed in Arizona.

Nasturtiums, sweet peas and roses formed a lovely decoration and the guests were seated for luncheon before the bridge game began.

Mrs. Crump Garvin won the top-score prize, a boudoir pillow.

Mrs. W. O. Smith won second prize, a hand-painted basket.

The consolation was cut by Mrs. T. F. Bresnahan. It was a lovely clown tape measure.

There were thirty-two guests: Mesdames T. F. Bresnahan, W. A. Stetler, H. A. Willis, John D. Schoeffel, Mrs. Marion, Miss Ruth Schoeffel, Miss Marion Amso, Mrs. George Clark, Mrs. Richard Dougherty, Mrs. McNair, Mrs. M. E. Jones, Mrs. Robt. McClure, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Webster, Mrs. Roger Wilson, Mrs. Lukert, Mrs. W. B. McCaskey, Miss Margaret Kent, Mrs. E. G. McCormick, Mrs. Sam Buracker, Mrs. Wm. J. Davis, Mrs. Lockwood, Mrs. Dinsmore, Mrs. W. O. Smith, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Garvin, Mrs. E. C. Callahan, Mrs. Kraul, Miss Mechling.

MISS RUTH SCHOEFFEL ENTERRTAINS MISS DOUGHERRTY

On Saturday evening, Miss Ruth Schoeffel entertained at dinner at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. John D. Schoeffel, the guest of honor being Miss Dorothy Dougherty.

Covers were laid for Miss Dougherty Lieut. Honnen, Miss Kent, Lieut. Lowry, Lieut. and Mrs. Wiley V. Carter, Miss Ainsa, Lieut. Scott, Miss Graham, Lieut. Joffee, Lieut. Ziegler, Lieut. Sanderson.

After dinner the guests went to the Country Club dance.

24TH INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB

On last Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Chandler was the delightful hostess for the 24th Infantry Bridge club.

Dephiniums, nasturtiums and other garden flowers were artistically used in the decorations.

Mrs. Stetler won the high score prize a potted fern and Mrs. R. Jenkins won the second prize a bud vase. The cut prize a Japanese flower bowl was won by Mrs. Carter.

Hard candy and bon-bons were served during the playing. After the game an ice course was served.

MRS. SPROULE GIVING BRIDGE

As a compliment to Mrs. C. H. Sproule of New Orleans, mother of Capt. Sproule, Mrs. James Sproule is giving a bridge this afternoon at the Polo club.

DEPARTURES

Mrs. Jeffords, cousin of Mrs. Kent, who has been visiting at Fort Benning left for her home on last Wednesday.

Mrs. Muecke mother of Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Butler's daughter left for New York. Mrs. Butler will join them later.

Col. and Mrs. Bugbee left for Boulder, Colo., on last Monday where they will spend the summer at the home of his brother. They are stopping at several places en route. Their son has taken a position in Kansas City for the summer and in the fall he will enter the university.

Maj. and Mrs. Wiley have gone to Florida and after a short stay there will visit in Washington, Plattsburg and other places arriving at Fort Leavenworth for the school in the fall.

Capt. and Mrs. Milburn have gone on a motor trip to Indiana stopping en route at different place.

Mrs. Olson and Miss June Olson who have been visiting Lieut. and Mrs. Olson have returned to their home in Salt Lake City.

Mrs. R. C. Stickney and children left for her home at Boston last Tuesday where she will visit her parents. Maj. Stickney expects to join them there later in the summer.

ARRIVAL

Miss Helen Peyton daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Peyton is expected home from the University of Mississippi at Columbus, Miss., tomorrow evening. Miss Helen will be junior at the opening of the University next fall.

Mr. Hayward Hansell son of Colonel and Mrs. Hansell returned home for the summer from Georgia Tech. where he has been attending school.

83RD FIELD ARTILLERY

On last Tuesday Mrs. W. H. Barlow was the charming hostess for the 83rd Artillery Bridge club. Three tables of players and three tea guests were present.

Her apartments were prettily decorated with assorted flowers.

Mrs. R. T. Adams won the high score prize and Mrs. C. W. Reed won the second.

After the playing delicious refreshments were served.

DELIGHTFUL DANCE GIVEN

The weekly dance given the Officers' Club at the Polo club on last Friday evening was one of the most enjoyable dance held this year. This was the first dance given by the Officers' club at the Polo Club House and as this was so successful others will be held there during the summer.

Captain and Mrs. J. W. Elkins and family spent last Sunday in the woods and after a campers lunch they collected plums, blackberries and great quantities of nice little red bugs.

SPENDING SUNDAY IN WOODS

Col. and Mrs. McCaskey intend spending next Sunday in the woods.

LIEUT. GANNON GONE

Lieut. "Mike" Gannon who has from time to time given articles to the "News" for the entertainment of our readers left this week for Honolulu. Some of "Mike's" best remembered articles are the "Casualties are Interviewed" written during the maneuver and also his "Digest of Opinions" Tactical Studies and other equally as good. However Mike has promised to send us something from Honolulu and we know it is going to be good, especially if Mike gets seasick on the way over. Tell us about it Mike.

INFANTRY SCHOOL TRY-OUT FOR INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM.

The above group represents the enthusiasm and interest that marked the try-out for the candidates for the Infantry Rifle team who will be ordered to Fort Niagara for the official try-out there. The group includes representatives of the 29th Infantry, the 24th Infantry, and a great many regiments who were represented by certain officers who are student officers at the Infantry School. The results in this try-out proved to be very gratifying to the team officials, many of whom were present for the try-out.

Major Per Rameo, who is the captain for the 1923 team has been on duty as member of the Advanced class of the Infantry school. He was personally in charge of the Infantry School finals, as well as Captain Kneubel, who will be on duty with the team as coach. Many of the former team members who will be available for the team this year were present.

Information bulletin No. 3 shows the names of these former members at the head of the list at the close of the try-out, but the sand was flying to the finish, and many new names are found close to the top of the list. Members of regiments who have been on duty as student officers will stand on their scores made in the Infantry School try-out when the representatives from their own organizations are selected. On the other hand, there will be some selections made by the team captain at large from the list of high scores made in this try-out, irrespective of regimental connections.

24th INFANTRY BAND MAKES FAVORABLE IMPRESSION

Tuesday by United States army officers at Camp Benning and gave WSB's twilight audience a brand of harmony like none they ever heard before.

The celebrated colored institutions of Muscogee county, were brought to Atlanta as one of the biggest features of Kiwanis week, and they paraded the city's streets, giving impromptu concerts.

The Twenty-fourth infantry band is the largest band in the United States army, and is one of the oldest. The organization is under the command of Colonel Benjamin P. Nicklin and is directed by sergeant majors. Their program Tuesday afternoon was arranged by Chaplain Rosenthal.

The famous colored bugle corps, from the Twenty-fourth infantry, the oldest colored regiment of infantry in the army, is the only bugle corps using the French Crooke system of bungling, used by Moroccan and French troops. Their numbers represented a rare type of musical harmony. The bugle corps is under the command of Colonel Nicklin, aided by Captain George S. Clark.

The third section of the twilight musical aggregation presented the thirty-voice chorus of colored singers, from Columbus, Ga., known far and wide as Dr. Taylor's Community Singers. The entire convoy was brought to Atlanta, by the only colored motor transport unit in the army, under the command of Captain Thaddeus C. Knight, of Camp Benning.

The radio concert was made possible through the interest of Captain Mahoney, of Ft. McPherson.

Numbers by the Twenty-fourth infantry band, were: "March Guiding Star," "Dancing Fool," "Say It While Dancing," "Three A. M.," "Carolina in the Morning," "Carolina Home" and "All Over Nothing At All."

Numbers by the Twenty-fourth infantry bugle corps were: "Over There," "Camp McGraff," and "Mr. Elesier Rag," and the Community chorus blended in perfect harmony in "Steal Away." "Study War No More" and "Rocks and Mountains."

to express their appreciation to the officers and enlisted men at Fort Benning, who have, throughout the year given splendid practical demonstrations for the instruction of the class.

The spirit shown has been unusually excellent. Their morale during the maneuvers was exceptionally high and merits our commendation.

It is requested that the above, if it meets with the approval of the Commanding General, be announced to all concerned."

The Jist o' Life

(Pearl Lillian Truman.)

Tut Again.

Old King Tut was a merry old nut
And a merry old nut was he;
You can shake his bones,
You can rattle his pate,
But you can't put life in.
The poor old skate.

Tit For Tat.

An old "uncle" was burning off the top of the nut grass when a talkative stranger in these parts stopped to tell him: "Hey, you better stop burning that grass; if you don't it will be as black as you are."

"Never you mind, Mistah, jes you wait till next spring and dis grass will be jes as green as you is."

Mr. Givney's Brother.

A committee of public spirited citizens approached Mr. Skinflint on the subject of getting money to put up a fence around the town graveyard. Mr. Skinflint told them in his most austere manner, "There is no need of a fence around a graveyard. Those who are in cannot get out and those who are out do not want to get in." And so the committee hopelessly departed.

"T" Equals Tummy.

Evelyn was playing giving initials with the family one evening, the game being played a person gives an initial of something in sight and the rest of the group guess what word it stands for, such as "b" for box, etc. One evening Evelyn gave "t" and we guessed until we could not think of anything in the neighborhood, and finally had to give up. We asked her what word she was thinking of. She said, "T" stands for 'tummy!'"

Rapid Fire.

In Philadelphia a Frenchman once visited an American whose home was in the city of brotherly love. They had an enjoyable time and the American treated his guest to everything available. On leaving, the Frenchman invited the Philadelphia to visit him in Paris, which invitation was gladly accepted so a little later the Frenchman was entertaining the American at his home in gay Paree. One course in a dinner was snails. The Philadelphian ate them and was so pleased he had three helpings. The Frenchman was delighted to have found something which so pleased his guest. He said: "But tell me, do you have snails in Philadelphia?" "Oh, yes, we have them, but we can't catch them."

Which Do You Say?

Reggie: Is "pants" singular or plural?

Chollie: "Why, if a man wore them, I would say they were plural, but if he did not, I'd say it was-ah! deucedly singular, doncheknow.

Short skirts are now passe. Let's take up a collection to buy ruffle for Edna Wallace Hopper's skirt.

Lacked Preparedness.

During a storm at sea, a bunch of gamblers began to fear that their last hour had come and they felt themsilves badly prepared to meet the Judge. One said: "Let's sing a hymn." But none of them knew any. "Well let's pray." But none knew how to pray. In desperation, the leader exclaimed "Well, men we've got to do something religious."

"Let's take up a collection." And so they did.

SATISFIED

The honest opinions given by Student Officers are ordinarily unbiased. These opinions are ordinarily based on a comparison of existing conditions at this Station with conditions at their home Station or at Stations where they have been on duty in the past.

Since the close of the School year The Post Exchange at Fort Benning has been the recipient of a large number of letters, all of which have been highly commendatory, from former student officers. These officers and their wives, have shown their appreciation of the efforts of the personnel of The Post Exchange along the lines of service and efficiency by taking the time and trouble to write such letters during an interval when their time was taken up with the matter of packing and moving.

The fact that departing officers took this trouble is a certain indication that The Post Exchange at Fort Benning compares favorably with any Post Exchange in the Army.

At present the Post Exchange is slowly but surely getting to the place where the military personnel can purchase anything required by a family. If the Post Exchange does not happen to have the required article in stock it will get the article for its patrons. Considering the distance from Columbus and the difficulties existing in getting to the City the Post Exchange is one of the most valuable activities at Fort Benning.

Captain Moore, Lieut. Crawford, and their assistants have accomplished splendid results within the past six months and that their efforts are appreciated is shown by the numerous letters, mentioned in a foregoing paragraph, received recently.

BENNING ROAD FAILING

The Columbus Ledger of May 31st contained the following editorial which we are reproducing for the benefit of those who have not had the opportunity of reading the article before.

It sure hits the nail square on the head and with the constant construction of quarters that is going on at this station and also the constantly improving purchasing facilities on the Post we will soon be at the point that we will go to Columbus only when we absolutely have to or when the roads are passable. The following is the editorial:

"Continued rains are playing havoc with the roads of Muscogee county, particularly the highway to Fort Benning, where traffic is heavy. Conditions are intolerable.

Repair forces are doing the best they can, perhaps, under the circumstances. And this patch work is costing a lot of money, too, to be only temporary or "dry weather" road repairs.

What Muscogee county needs—and needs badly—is a system of paved highways similar to those that are advertising Macon, Atlanta, Augusta, Savannah and other progressive Georgia cities. And it ought to come. There is no good reason why Muscogee county should continue to lag behind, while the city of Columbus is making rapid strides forward.

First—and most important of all—the Benning road should be paved. As we have pointed out before, the fact that we have no modern highway to the Infantry School is a burning shame upon the community.

Suppose Fort Benning had been located nine—nineteen or twenty-nine—miles from Macon, or Atlanta. Wouldn't the military road have been paved years ago? Suppose our splendid Fort had been placed nine miles from Macon and nine from Columbus, with both cities rivals for the enormous trade. How long would we have hesitated, or argued the question of paving?

Columbus business interests have a gold mine in Benning, but they are not harvesting the crop because of a lack of picks. It is squarely up to Muscogee county to provide ways and means of reaching this gold through the establishment of a modern highway connecting the city with the camp, as we see it, and we trust that members of the county commission can see their way clear to act. We believe the people of both the city and county stand ready to back them up in approving of a bond issue to finance the needed project.

Columbus is suffering—has been suffering for three years—and local merchants and business folk, who went down in their own pockets for over $100,000 to secure and retain the Infantry School here, are entitled to some consideration. The present intolerable conditions will eventually divorce Columbus and Benning, unless definite action looking to improvement comes."

RRECREATING AT FORT BENNING

Recreational facilities at Fort Benning are not yet entirely adequate for a command of this size. The fact should be borne in mind, however, that this Post is a new one and that "Rome was not built in a day."

The interests of this station are kept in mind by The Adjutant General of the Army—who has supervision over Army recreation—as is indicated by a recapitualtion of the amount received for recreational purposes during the past three years.

The following amounts for the purposes shown have been received:

$80,951 for Service Clubs Nos. 1, 2 and 3, and the Post and 24th Infantry Swimming Pools.

$8,900 for the transportation of material for the new theatre and for the construction of the new theatre and gymnasium.

$3,207.50 for the new theatre.

These various amounts make a grand total of $93,058.50.

There is possibly not a better Service Club in the Army than Service Club No. 1 at Fort Benning. The new gymnasium will, when equipped, be one of the largest and best in the South while the Post Swimming Pool would be a credit to any city.

In time there will be funds sufficient to complete the new Post Theatre. When completed this station will have a theatre building exceeded, as far as can be determined, by but one theatre in the South. A theatre located in St. Petersburg, Florida.

The interest and the helpful attitude of The Adjutant General of the Army as shown by the funds furnished from those under his control is appreciated.

Judging from past experience other funds will be sent to this station for recreational purposes by The Adjutant General of the Army when available in the future.

Fort Benning will eventually be equipped with as complete recreational facilities as any station in the Army.

THE INFANTRY BOARD

Tent Peg Puller—The Infantry Board has considered a suggested tent peg puller designed with a view to preventing the breakage of tent pegs.

Stacking Swivel—A suggestion from a Sergeant in the Chief Infantry's office that the present stacking swivel are replaced by the French form has been considered by the Board.

Tables of Equipment—Tables of equipment for the Infantry Brigade have been compiled and forwarded to the Chief of Infantry.

Ammunition For Training—Suggestions have been forwarded concerning the minimum allowances of ammunition for small arms training to be adopted when our present war reserve has been used up or deteriorated. This reserve it is estimated will last about five years more.

Fordson Tractors—The Infantry Board considered a report on test of these tractors as to their suitability for adoption by the Service to replace animal transportation in posts, camps, garrisons and in the field.

Sub-Caliber Tubes For 37 MM Gun: The Board forwarded its recommendations as to a sub-caliber (caliber .22) tube for use in the 37-mm gun for instruction purposes.

Goumarre Tripod—The Board considered a model of this tripod which was submitted by an officer of the French Army.

Marmite Can—A model of a portable food container to be carried on the back of the soldier for transporting hot food in the field was considered and recommendations forwarded to the Chief of Infantry.

Experimental Quartermaster Flashlight—This flashlight was considered and recommendations were forwarded.

Improvements In Infantry Pack—The Board considered suggested improvements in the Infantry pack with reference to the carrying of the raincoat and intrenching tool.

Straightened And Unstraightened Rifle Barrels—From a report on test of these rifle barrels and information furnished by the Chief of Ordnance were considered by the Board and recommendation made.

Communications Equipment—Recommendations were forwarded by the Board for the dropping of certain articles of communications equipment from the Tables of Equipment.

Methods of Testing—Certain methods of testing students as adopted by the Signal School, with comments of various agencies of the Infantry School, were considered by the Board with a view to incorporating some of the methods in the Infantry School examinations and tests.

Badge of Honor, Rifle Team—The Board considered a scheme to stimulate interest in musketry work in the Infantry upon a suggestion of the Chief of Infantry that the regimental or battalion team making the highest score in musketry be designated as "The Chief of Infantry's Musketry Team."

Battery Charging Plants—The Board considered correspondence re-issuing of battery charging plants to various organizations.

Histories of Organizations—The Board considered recommendations of the Commanding Officer, 29th Infantry as to the method of compiling histories or organizations. The correspondence was forwarded to the Chief of Infantry again inviting attention to the views of the Infantry Board thereon as contained in letter Infantry Board to Chief of Infantry, July 5, 1921.

Title For Officer Charged With Signal Communications—The Board forwarded its recommendations regarding a suitable title or term for the designation of officers of all branches charged with signal communications.

11th INFANTRY IS HARD LUCK OUTFIT

Suffering From Esprit de Corps.

That the Eleventh Infantry is a hard luck outfit is evident from despatches received by the News within the past few days. This regiment seems to be able to do nothing competitive without winning. The case is difficult to diagnose but it is believed that this outfit is suffering from that rare disease commonly known as "Esprit de Corps."

As a concrete example of some of the things this regiment accomplishes in time of peace, during the past year the Eleventh Infantry has a record of 100 per cent qualification for machine gun firing; they bemoan their hard luck because the regimental general average for rifle marksmanship is but 96.02 per cent; they won the Fifth Corps Area polo championship; they won the greatest number of points in the corps area horse show; they won the corps area baseball championship and horsemanship trophy; they won the markmanship cup; they won the greatest number of points in the corps area field meet. If this regiment has won anything else it was not reported.

The Eleventh Infantry has as enviable a war record for all wars in which this country has been engaged since 1861 as it has a peace time record. The regiment was cited in orders overseas for capturing a difficult position known as the Bois de Rappes—after two other regiments had falied, and it took an active part in forcing the crossing of the Meuse River which feat was made the subject of a citation by General Pershing. This regiment was reported to have been the furthest advanced in enemy territory, geographically, of any unit in the A. E. F. on the day of the Armistice.

The Army needs more "hard luck" outfits.

29th Infantry News Notes

COMPANY "E" TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY

Co. "E" just about holds the record for Company Commanders. We made three changes in the last week. Lieut. Duvall was relieved and assigned to duty with the Infantry in the Hawaiian Islands. Capt. Jno. S. Moore was assigned to the Co. but went on a 45 day leave and Lieut Gailey is taking command until the Capt. returns. The Co. was very sorry to see Lieut. Duvall leave because he certainly was a good Company Commander.

The Regimental Baseball season is over and Co. "E" stands up close to the top. In the last seven games we have not been defeated. For the season we won 8 games and lost three. Everything the Regiment starts Co. "E" is either first or a darn good second.

It looks like the bolo squad is going to turn in 100 per cent qualification on the range. Everybody is getting in the old bull's eye except the Supply Sgt. and he claims that he made a good score once in the old country (England

Cpl. New decided to take on for three more so he could help Dad wear out his new cribbage board. Of course that suits Dad because if he can't beat New he will give the board to the cooks for fire wood.

STRIBLING WINS OVER DARCY

American Legion Stages Successful Bouts

Last Monday evening at the Driving Park in Columbus the American Legion staged one of the best boxing bouts ever held in this section of the country.

The main affair of the evening was between Young Stribling of Macon and Jimmy Darcy of Portland, Oregon, hailed as the champion middleweight of the Pacific coast.

Darcy, having met such men as Tom Gibbons, Jack Dempsey, and others of the best, in exhibition bouts and never having been knocked out by either of the men named, was touted as having an easy win over Stribling. The dope was upset. For the first time we had the opportunity locally of seeing Stribling meet a top notcher and the crowd was agreeably surprised to see the nineteen year old youngster not only hold up his end but carry the fighting to the other fellow. Stribling won on points, although he refused a decision on a foul in the eighth round.

Stribling is still a youngster but he showed last Monday night that he is a finished boxer. He has developed rapidly during the past two years and by the time he is twenty-one he will probably be a heavy weight. He will also have acquired the muscle necessary to put across a knock out. While the prediction is not going to be made at this time that he will eventually be in Jack Dempsey's class and take his crown away from him at the same time we hold to the opinion that at the proper time Stribling will give Dempsey an interesting session for a few rounds. If this scrap should be staged Stribling would stay the limit, unless he loses his speed, for the very good reason that Dempsey could not hit him.

With the exception of the Peck-Wallace go all the bouts were first rate. This affair ended too quickly. Peck put his man away by the k. o. route in one minute and five seconds. Peck's work during the short time he was in the ring showed a remarkable improvement after his temporary slump of last summer.

Sebukaty, Fourth Corps Area middleweight champion, who hails from Fort Benning, met Burman, a heavyweight from Cordele, Ga., in what was expected to prove a slugfest. It was, for one round, and at times during this round it looked like the twenty pound advantage held by the big blond fellow from Cordele was going to count against Sebukaty. In the second frame however, Sebukaty staggered his man with a body blow and followed this up with a right jab to the jaw. The button was touched and Burman went out for several minutes.

The opening bout for the evening probably proved almost as interesting to the crowd as the main go. In this go Boots Antley of Columbus met Jordan Shepherd of Macon. Antley flashed to fame a short time ago when he knocked out the hard hitting little M. P., Athens, from Fort Benning. Last Monday night he put up the fight of his career and gained the decision over Shepherd in ten rounds. At least on two occasions during this affair it looked like Antley had Shepherd in trouble but Antley failed to follow up his advantage and the affair went the limit. With proper handling Antley can correct his few faults and develope into a scrapper who will give most of the youngsters in his class a hectic time.

The local chapter of the American Legion is to be congratulated on its last card. Such affairs will put boxing on a firm status in this section.

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL

captains and lieutenants of the Regular Army.

Before the school work begins the students officers are organized into companies with their own company commander, platoon, section, squad leaders and guides. The discipline is necessarily very exacting and any infringements thereof are severely dealt with.

The school proper is organized into two departments—The Department of Military Art and The Department of General Subjects.

The Department of Military Art is divided into four distinct sections:

First Section—deals with Tactics.

Second Section—Musketry, Rifle Marksmanship. Pistol Marksmanship, Automatic Rifle Work, Bayonet, Grenades, and Sand Table Work.

Third Section—Machine Guns, One-pounder and Light Mortar.

Fourth Section—Map Reading, Sketching, Field Fortifications and Panoramic Sketching.

The Department of General Subjects is organized into three sections:

First Section—Military History.

Second Section—Equitation, Hippology and Care and Use of Means of Transportation.

Third Section—Athletics and Physical Training.

In addition to the school and of invaluable assistance thereto we have at Benning, the Infantry Board. The purpose of the Board is to consider such subjects pertaining to Infantry as may be referred to it, and to originate recommendations looking toward the improvement of the Infantry. The Infantry Board has as its practical section the Department of Experiment which furnished the Board with comprehensive data to aid it in making recommendations for the adoption, rejection, adaptation or development of equipment, weapons, etc., for Infantry use.

The Infantry School has many functions. It experiments with Infantry weapons and tactics, and tests innovations by actual demonstrations and by checking them against weapons and tactics of the past. No profession is more variable, requires more constant study, experimentation and research than the profession of arms has come to require, and of no branch of the service is this more true than of the Infantry. At The Infantry School the most recent developments in teaching, technique and tactics are perfected and are disseminated to the Service through the graduates of the Infantry School, who make the pilgrimage to Fort Benning.

These very activities and other natural advantages serve to make the Fort itself unusually attractive. At no other post are varying phases of military life so well portrayed and so completely represented as here. In former days a soldier could have spent his entire Army life from first enlistment to retirement without having realized so well as does the newest Benning recruit how interesting and diversified are the component parts of a modern army. It is impossible for monotony to enter the life of a soldier here, and no matter how long his assignment at this post he can never say, "It is the same stuff all over again," nor can he imagine that being a soldier consists of a daily and dreary repretition of "squads right and left." Whatever be the nature of the unit he joins, before long he learns the utmost of the combat variations prescribed for that branch of the Service. Even this is rarely possible at other posts on account of lack of sufficient personnel, space or equipment.

Not one but at least a dozen distinct branches of the Service have some of their most efficient and best equipped units stationed at the Infantry School, and a soldier by a peace-time enlistment in any one of these branches learns, by observation of the activities of others, more than was formerly possible even in time of war. The incentive for soldiers to learn and the tendency to reward those who do is in the very atmosphere of this post, founded as it was for the purpose of military instruction and the professional improvement of officers. At no smaller camp can an ambitious soldier find so wide a variety of congenial specialties in which to perfect himself, or such great facilities for instruction, or opportunities for advancement. Length of service is by no means a controlling factor in the promotion of capable men and some of the highest paid and most responsible positions which enlisted men could be called upon to fill are occupied at the Infantry School by soldiers of comparatively brief experience, who have been disposed to take advantage of this post's unparalled opportunities for selfimprovement.

Physically the Infantry School is approaching an appearance of completion and permanency. This factor means much in the social life of the soldier. The officers of various organizations vie with each other in the comforts and accommodations which the equipment of these organizations can afford to the men in their care. A well furnished recreation hall has a place in nearly every company area, and musical instruments, reading matter, billiard tables, etc., are the invariable appointments. All organizations maintain athletic teams, and prizes of enduring value are always awarded league winners in any sport. The Varsity team of the Infantry School, composed of officers and men most efficient in athletics, have established a reputation as good as any standard college.

Hunting, fishing, and swimming are available for those who prefer such diversions and the southern climate renders outdoor exercises practical all times of the year. "Snow-bound" was never written of Fort Benning. Polo now has a very important place in the athletic program. Most units at the Fort have their own teams, and one does not have to stretch his imagination to picture the existing friendly rivalry between them. Equitation is one of the most desired means of recreation due to the 97,000 acres of varied terrin which permits of innumerable rides. As a result of the excellent facilities for these pleasures, Benning is developing not only a few of the best polo players in the Army but some of the best riders (both male and female) in the country.

On February 12, we began the season of the National pastime, baseball. We are in the finest baseball community in this country. The Infantry School team is one of the best teams in the South and yearly arranges games with the big league clubs who train in this locality, as well as all the leading southern universities. The organization teams are almost on a par with the School team and their league leadership is always hotly contested. Everybody turns out to these games with much enthusiasm. Our Infantry School Detachment team is composed of the best soldier ball players in the land and every day some "would-be" ball player is trying to transfer or enlist in this outfit. Last year they went through the season's schedule without defeat although they were pressed on a few occasions with 16 and 18-inning engagements before proving their supremacy.

For the ball player Fort Benning is the most desirable post in the Army. We doubt whether we can squeeze in more players but we always guarantee to make room for more fans. Every afternoon of the week, Sundays included, there is a game and the admission to them all is your presence in uniform. Of course when you tire of watching the games, or "Ole Sol" is getting the best of you, there is the swimming pool, which, by the way, is one of the largest artificial pools in the country, to which one can go to cool off.

Fort Benning's pioneer days, when more or less discomfort was to be expected due to lack of those conveniences which only permanency can bring, are nearly over. A brick Service Club for enlisted men, permanent quarters for officers, an unexcelled commissary and post exchange, an efficient laundry and a modern ice plant are only a few of the many new appurtenances this favored post has recently received. Incidentally Fort Benning is one of the few Army stations on which Congress is still spending money for improvements. No young man desirous of Army life could indulge this desire amid more pleasant, inspiring surroundings than he will find at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. That this reputation is fast spreading is attested by the records of the Adjutant General's office where hundreds of requests are received from officers and men all over the Army for station in this attractive southern post.

Mr. Joe R. Walters,
Pekor Motor Car Co.,
City,

Dear Sir:

After having owned several makes of automobiles I take pleasure to inform you that I am more than pleased with my Durant, altho I have only driven it about 650 miles, (those miles over the Fort Benning Road, which is equal to many more miles over a good road) I am pleased with its action. A careful check on gasoline consumption has shown me that I am getting 20.3 miles per gallon, consumption of oil is exceedingly low, in fact so low that at on etime I was afraid the car wasn't using any.

The ease of handling is a very attractive feature of the Durant.

Will be glad to let you know how I make out on a trip from Columbus, Ga., to St. Louis, Mo., which I start on tomorrow.

Yours very truly,
W. L. MITCHELL,
Capt. Infantry.

CALCULATOR AND GREAT DANE.

"Calculator" said the Great Dane, "we are in trouble," "How come?" replied the wise one, (you know, like most wise ones Calculator was raised a Cracker, and he thinks "how come" is real language, and the Dane explained that they are being paid on enormous salary of bones for their weekly report of conferences, in which the affairs of men are discussed. He said: "we can choose our own subjects and there is the trouble, we can't talk about the Big Gs, because we don't know enough about them, and I don't think they appreciate dogs anyway. We can't talk about Columbus because we know too much about it and the road leading there to and besides, that is rough stuff to talk about. We can't talk about the Post because we have too many friends here and really we can't bite the hands that feed us, for that would be a dog's trick, we can't talk about our wives because we haven't any, and as for sweethearts," and the Dame wiped way a tear "the M. P.'s take them all to the Veterinarian for a humane end, and we can't talk after the end, can we?" and Calculator sadly admitted that the end is the end, that's all there is there isn't any more. And then he had a real thought, a dog's thought, "we will talk about automobiles, for they all need talking about occasionally," and as the Great Dane had taken a ride yesterday in his fliver with his friend Calculator he said to his Buddy, "we have some good rules for driving our fliver," and the Calculator said: "What are they?" "Listen oh wise one; on meeting another flivver, give half the road. The driver will appreciate it. Same applies to Overlands. On meeting Dodges, give two-thirds of the road, on meeting cars larger than Dodges, give three quarters of the road, on meeting Cadillacs, Lincolns, etc. Give all the road. Exceptions: On meeting any car driven by a woman or a Lieutenant, take to the ditch or climb a tree, safty first," and Calculator admitted they are good rules, "but you know they won't work out," and the Dane sadly said, "yes, oh Oracle that is so, most of the cars out here must be drive nby women and Lieutenants because we were in a ditch or up a tree most of the time." Further the wise one sayeth not.

LANIER HIGH SCHOOL COMES UP

Lanier High School located at Macon, Ga., has been doing some excellent work during the past year as regards the R. O. T. C. unit for we note that they have been announced as an "Honor High School" under provision of paragraph 87, Special Regulations No. 44, part I.

This indicates that not only the regular army officers details as professors of military science and tactics were doing hard work but that the student body gave their whole hearted support and co-operated with the officers so detailed. When this spirit of get-to-gether gets in the air something is bound to be accomplished and Lanier High sure did the trick th s year.

THE MARINE MIRACLE

The Marne Miracle, by Col. William K. Naylor, U. S. Army, Washington. The U. S. Infantry Association. Cloth, 12 Mo., 190 Pages. Price $1.50.

Col. William K. Naylor, the author of The Marne Miracle, is now Assistant Chief of Staff G-2 (Military Information), U. S. Army, and recognized as the foremost military strategist and student of Military History and its application to the principles of war.

During the war Col. Naylor served as Chief of Staff of a Division (33 National Guard Division from Illinois) and Chief of Staff of the 9th Army Corps. His present detail in the War Department is as one of the assistants to General Pershing.

Col. Naylor has made a most exhaustive study of the Marne Campaign of 1914, having at his disposal a mass of source records and from them has traced out the movements and operations of every unit of the contending forces engaged in the great campaign.

In every great military campaign there are points of controversy. The Marne Campaign was no exception to the rule. Col. Naylor discredits some popular legends; brings many mooted points to the light of day and clears up a number of disputes. Here are some of the points that are discussed in the book and the answers supplied:

1. Why do the French call the Battle of the Marne a miracle? Why do the Germans refer to it as a tragedy?
2. Was Germany. in all her boasted military efficiency, prepared for the World War? Wherein was she unprepared?
3. What was the German plan of Campaign? Was it that proposed by Von Schlieffen? Was it Von Moltke's? Was it a combination of the two?
4. What were France's plans for the war with Germany? Were they offensive or defensive at the outset?
5. Did the stand made by the Belgians at Liege save France?
6. Did Germany rush over defenseless Belgium in overwhelming numbers? Who were the stronger, the Germans or the Allies at this time?
7. What prevented the Battles of Mons and Charleroi from being complete German triumphs?
8. Were the British wiped out at Le Cateau? Did they stop Von Kluck?
9. Was Von Kluck responsible for the loss of the Battle of the Marne?
10. Why did the Germans fall back? Who is responsible for the order to retreat? Was it Foch's attack at Fere Champenoise?
11. Who was Von Hentsch? What part did he play in the orders for the German retreat?
12. Why did Germany lose?

All of these questions are discussed in a most interesting manner and the conclusions and answers supplied.

This wonderful book and many other you can get from the Infantry Association. Also they have a complete engraving plant that is a "humdinger" so you can send them your plate and get a first class job at a very reasonable price and also they will keep your plate on file there so that you don't have to worry about losing it or getting it scratched up.

Personnel Notes

In the past week the regiment has had opportunity to welcome a number of new officers assigned for duty. Incident to the close of the Infantry School term, several officers have joined the organization.

Among those assigned as of June 1st are Captain George I. Cross, Captain Edward E. Walker, Captain Orlen N. Thompson, Captain William C. Hanna, First Lt. Loyd Inman, First Lieut. Reuben E. Jenkins, First Lieut. Henry H. Fay, First Lieut. Robert Sanders and First Lieut. Ed P. Lukert.

---

Captain Irwin H. Engleman has reported to the regiment and has gone on leave. Captain Thomas F. Bresnahan and 1st Lieut Eddie Maling departed via motor for New England to spend a two months leave. They will rejoin their families at the end of their trip.

---

Captain John H. Knuebel, Captain C. McC Lyons, Captain John S. Schwab, and 1st Lieut. L. V. Jones have been placed on the unassigned list within the regiment and have departed for Fort Niagara, N. Y. to participate in the Infantry try-out for the Rifle team and the international matches to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio in September. Captain Knuebel goes as a team official, and the others as representatives of the 24th Infantry at the tryout.

---

The following new assignments to companies have been made: "A" Co., 1st Lieut. E. P. Lukert. "B" Co., 1st Lieut. W. A. Stetler. "C" Co., Captain G. I. Cross. "D" Co., Captain E. E. Walker. "H" Co., 1st Lieut. L. V. Carter. "K" Co., Captain O. N. Thompson. "L" Co., Captain William C. Hanna and 1st Lieut. Robert Sanders. "I" Company, 1st Lieut H. H. Fay. "M" Co., 1st Lieut. Loyd Inman. "Service" Co., 1st Lieut. R. E. Jenkins.

---

Service Co.

The band returned from Atlanta last Thursday where they made a great hit.

---

Our company clerk, "Flashlight" Boyd, who in addition to being a clerk is also quite a handy man with the gloves, had his picture appear in The Social Register of Montgomery, Ala., last week. We wonder where he got his pull to get his picture in the papers.

---

Lieut. Jenkins, recently of The Infantry School, joined the company June 1st, while Lieut. Carter who has been with the company for some time was transfered out to take command of Co. "H."

---

The entire company, less the many details we have to furnish is now undergoing instructions preliminary to going on the range. Some few men have completed their firing and from all indications the company will finish with a good record.

---

Company "A"

Company "A" 24th Infantry so far has qualified every man that has fired the record course, and balance of the men in Co. "A" are confident they can qualify.

---

Our first Sgt, fell down below his average. We know he can shoot but he just forgot to do the things that he preaches every day, take windage right or left when needed, raise or lower elevation, dull day raise elev. bright day lower elevation and several other points that make the score. We are sorry but its too late now. Practice what you preach is all I can tell you.

---

Cpl. Henderson "Abe Chappy" we hail you as our first expert. Now you know what is meant by holding and squeezing. Not long ago you said as long as you could qualify as M. M. you were satisfied, but I understand why you said that. It was because you had never applied the holding and steady squeeze system.

---

Company "I"

Company "I" has lost to Company "B" 1st Lieut., W. A. Stetler, who has been with us since August, 1922. We all regret to lose this efficient and genial officer. However we wish him much success and we congratulate "B" Company on its good fortune in having Lieut. Stetler assigned there. We also note that Lieut. Stetler has taken over the recruit center and we know that soon the recruits will execute marching's, facings and manual, etc., with precision and perfect cadence. For Lo' who can instill cadence like the "Cadence King"?

1st Lieut. Henry H. Fay, The Eloquent Orator of Fort Benning, comes to relieve 1st Lieut. Stetler. He is from the Infantry School and has been at Benning since 1920.

Sergeant Charles Butler, has gone on a 60 days furlough to get married, he says that every one must enjoy life in their early days.

SPORTING ACTIVITIES

24th INFANTRY CONTINUES THEIR CONSISTENT WINNING

Three straight games in the past week added two more victories to the long string of uninterrupted wins. On June 1st and 2nd, the Auburn, Ala., team played two games on the 24th Infantry diamond, resulting in a 17 to 4 score in the first game and a 15 to 2 defeat in the second. In both games the local nine played their usual superior type of baseball and won easily.

On June third the Birmingham team played a game that stood above the usual ball games in interest and entertainment for the spectators. The score board divided the steady gaze of all with the playing of both teams, for in the third inning the score was 4 to 3 in favor of the visitors. The next four innings were fruitless until the last half of the seventh when the 24th gathered together their combined strength and rushed five runs over the home plate. This gave a 100 per cent lead in the score of 8 to 4, and after the eight inning passed without scores by either team, the end of the game seemed to be a mere matter of the usual first half of the 9th. When the dust cleared after the third out the score board revealed the fact that four runs had tied the score.

A costly error at 2nd base and center field let two runs in and left one on third base. A pop fly, a passed ball and another hit produced two more perfectly good digits that formed a hangman's scafford for the unlucky soldiers. With this advantage, the visiting team clanked out enough hits and jammed in three runs in the tenth inning which were not matched when the 24th boys came to bat. Score 11 to 8.

The Memphis Red Sox will play the 24th Infantry on June 14th and 15th on the local diamond. All who enjoy seeing high grade baseball are cordially invited.

I. S. D. IS VICTOR OVER TANKS

Wins Initial Game In New League At Fort Benning—Wants Games With Teams In Ga. and Ala.

The Infantry School Detachment defeated the fast Tank Corps team Sunday afternoon in the first game of the season in the American League by the score of 8 to 1. Lindsey, of the Tanks, struck out the first three men to face him after the Tanks had been retired in order, while McNutt whiffed two in the first stanza. It looked as though it was going to be a pitchers battle and it was for the first four frames, then Lindsey's defense weakened and with bunched hits the I. S. D. soon put the game on cold storage. Lindsey struck out eleven while McNutt caused fourteen of the Tankers to get a drink of water.

McCarty, was the hitting star, garnering three safeties out of four trips, Bennett tripled while Wheeler, who, replaced Dausch in left field in the seventh hit a home run. Whenever the Tauks are able to play real ball in the field and with Lindsey in the box they will be a hard proposition for any team, for it is a cinch that "Old Red" cannot win a ball game by himself.

This is the 6th consecutive victory for Lt. Buracker's charges including five practice games with various teams at the Post. With a little more polishing the club will be ready for any first class team in the states of Georgia and Alabama. Clubs desiring games wire or write Sgt. J. M. Wheeler, I. S. D. Fort Benning, Ga. ## TOMMY MILTON WINS 500 MILE RACE

Durant Motor Cars Shows Up

Tommy Milton proved to the world that it is possible for one driver to win the International 500 mile classic more than once when he again and for the second time was the winner at Indianapolis.

The really remarkable thing about this race was that of the winners, five cars were Durant Specials. Of the twenty-three cars that were entered eight were Durant Specials. The winner was an H. C. Stutz Special, but there were two entered so on a percentage bases the Durant showed up better than the Stutz, as the 2nd Stutz was not among the 8 winners. There was only 1 Barber-Warneck entered and it won the fifth place. Other makes that were entered were Packard Specials-two; Bugatti-five; Mercedes-three; Miller Special-one; Dosenberg-one.

The following is a list of the winners with the name of the drivers and the make of cars:

1. Tommy Milton H. C. Stutz Special 5:28:06.27; average 91.44.
2. Harry Hartz—Durant Special 5:33:05.90; average 90.06.
3. Jimmy Murphy—Durant Special 5:40:36.64; average 88.08.
4. Earl Cooper—Durant Special 5:46:14.23; average 86.65.
5. L. L. Corum—Barber-Warnock 6.03:16.8; average 82.58.
6. Frank Elliott—Durant Special 6:04:52.87; average, 82.22.
7. Eddie Herne—Durant Special 6:05:06.30; average, 82.17.
8. Max Sailer—Mercedes Special 6:11:49.60; average, 80.68.

COMMUNICABLE DISEASE

"In view of the number of cases of whooping cough and measles in this vicinity, it is requested that all children who have colds, or cough or whose eyes or nose are running be kept away from the Post Theater and other places of assembly. Such children should be seen by a doctor at once. Until it can be definitely decided whether or not they are suffering from measles or whooping cough, it is only fair for the mothers to warn other children of the possible danger, and advise them to stay away from the suspects."

SUR. H. S. HANSELL,

WHAT MOST OF THE SOLDIERS HAVE ALREADY FORGOTTEN ABOUT THE MANEUVER

THE COST OF THE ARMY OF U. S. COMPARED TO OTHER NATIONS.

America Least Military Nation in The World.

The United States Army Recruiting News, has published an article on the cost of the Army as compared with other Nations that gives some facts that we believe that our readers would be glad to know. We are therefore reproducing the following article:

"The United States today is the least military nation of the world, as compared with the Army expenditures of other nations. In attempting to further reduce the cost of national defense the War Department has been waging a vigorous campaign, taking advantage of every discout and of any other saving possible.

While the cost of the American Army in dollars and cents looks somewhat formidable when put alongside expenditures of the Republic of France for the same purpose, such a comparison is misleading. If American enlisted men were paid, for example, at the same rate the French soldier is paid, the United States could have for the amount it now spends for the pay of the Army not 118,500 men but a standing Army of 2,547,700. If American soldiers were paid at the Italian rate, 1,910,800 and at the Japanese, 1,119,-100. Another misconception arises from the erroneous idea as to the value of the dollar in the United States and abroad. While the American "doughboy" on the Rhine, receiving one dollar a day, was the financial equal of the Mayor of Coblenz, in the United States he finds it impossible to support a wife on his pay.

The number of soldiers for the Regular Army, the money for its maintenance and the general policies for its operation are laid down in the laws enacted by Congress and at the present time the strength of the Regular Army of 115,500 men is larger only than that of Germany. Russia leads with an Army of 834,000 while France is second with 800,000, Great Britain third with 256,700, Italy fourth

SWIMMING INSTRUCTOR FOR POST POOL

Youngsfers Have Opportunity To Learn

For the first time since the Post Swimming Pool was opened over two years ago the children of the Post have an opportunity to get free swimming lessons.

Private H. A. Silvers, who at one time took the children into Columbus every morning on the bus, will be in charge of the instruction and he expects a large class.

Parents who desire to have their children take swimming lessons should notify the Post A. & R. Officer promptly so that the children may be assigned to classes. In order to provide for each youngster getting individual instruction it is not practical to have more than ten in each class. Classes will be arranged as registrations are made, the first classes being composed of the early registrants.

NEW POST GYMNASIUM

Installations of Equipment Being Made

During the past week a supply of gym equipment has been received and is about to be installed. Such equipment consists of paralled bars, gym horses, rowing machine, travelling rings, horizontal bar, and other gymnasium equipment.

Medicine balls, boxing gloves, and wrestling mats are kept on hand for the benefit of individuals using the gym. This offers a solution, incidentally to officers taking the required amount of exercise who do not ride or play tennis.

One of the newest installations at the Post Gymnasium is a floor polishing machine for the purpose of keeping the maple floor of the building in first class condition at all times for dancing and gymnasium work. The Post A. & R. Officer states that this machine will not be in use at all times

GENERAL GORDON'S DAUGHTER ARRIVES

On Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Frank J. Allen arrived at the Fort to visit her parents, General and Mrs. Walter H. Gordon, and is receiving a most cordial welcome from many old friends.

Mrs. Allen will be pleasantly remembered as Miss Ellen Gorodn, whose marriage to Capt. Frank Allen took place a year ago. Since that time, she has been stationed with her husband at the University of Norwich, Northfield, Vermont.

Capt. Allen will in all probability spend his vacation at Fort Benning after leaving Camp Bevens, near Boston, Mass. In the autumn, Capt. and Mrs. Allen will go to Fort Reilly.

MRS. SAWKINS' BRIDGE

On Thursday evening June 7th Mrs. A. E. Sawkins entertained at three tables of bridge complimenting Mrs. C. H. Sproule.

The gentlemen's high score prize was won by Lieut. Hoy and Mrs. D. C. Campbell won the ladies' high score prize. The ladies' consolation was won by Miss Sproule and Capt. Roby won the gentlemen's Consolation.

Mrs. C. H. Sproule was presented with a fountain pen on a ribbon.

A delicious frozen salad with meringue and punch were serve dafter the playing.

MRS. C. H. SPROULE ENTERTAINED THIS EVENING

Lieutenant and Mrs. Dunphy are entertaining this evening at their place, Bradley Farm in honor of Mrs. C. H. Sproule.

FORMAL FISH FRY AT BIG EDDY CLUB

On Friday evening, there was a fish fry at the Big Eddy Club, which was a most enjoyable, though informal, affair.

After supper the guests were entertained with music.

Those present were: Major and Mrs. Campanole, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dismukes, Mr. Jack Ellis, Mrs. Wm. de L. Warsley, Major Frank Schneider, Mr. Alfred Blackmar, Major Wm. A. Ganoe, Mr. Leighton Macpherson, Mr. Herman Swift.

PICNIC AT WARM SPRINGS

On Wednesday June 7th Miss Mechling, Miss Arnsa, Capt. Allen and Lieut. Adams took a picnic lunch to Warm Springs where they spent the day.

TAKING AN AUTO TOUR

Captain Mechling and family are leaving today by auto for Virginia, Washington, D. C., and Chicago on a two months leave.

83RD F. A. BRIDGE CLUB

The regular meeting of the 83rd Field Artillery Bridge Club was held at the home of Mrs. Reed on last Tuesday afternoon.

There were two tables of players present and Mrs. Dunwoody won the high score prize, a Maderia Tea Tray Cover.

A delicious ice and cake were served after the playing.

GIRL SCOUTS ARE HAVING A FINE TIME

The seven Girl Scouts of Fort Benning, who are Susan Hansell, Charlotte Peyton, Marie Clay, Camila Clay, Emily Brown, Margarette Williams and Helen Hendrickson with Mrs. Patterson of Columbus in charge are having the time of their lives at the Girl Scout Camp at Eelbeck's Mill where about two hundred girls are taking advantage of the training to be received.

The girls are comfortably housed in tent houses and a large mess hall furnishes the shelter during meal times against the elements.

MRS. BUTLER LEAVING

Mrs. Butler who has charge of the Officers' Club Mess expects to leave the early part of next week for New York where she will join her mother, daughter and sister.

Mrs. Butler has been extremely helpful to those persons of the garrison in arranging dinner and card parties who were unable to entertain in their homes.

The people of Fort Benning will be very glad to welcome Mrs. Butler's return this fall.

24th INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB

The regular meeting of the 24th Infantry Bridge Club was held at the home of Mrs. G. S. Clarke on last Tuesday afternoon.

Two tables of players and several tea guests were present.

Miss Arnsa won the high score prize and Mrs. W. A. Stetler won the second prize. Mrs. Morgan E. Jones drew the cut prize.

Delicious refreshments were served after the playing.

The next meeting will be held at the quarters of Mrs. J. E. Custer.

MRS. SPROULE'S BRIDGE

On last Friday afternoon Mrs. James Sproule gave a delightful bridge of six tables at the Polo Club complimenting Mrs. C. H. Sproule of New Orleans, mother of Capt. James Sproule.

Artistically assorted flowers with candles in silver holders formed the beautiful decorations.

Mrs. Lukert won the high score prize and received a china plate with six individual plates. The second prize a Maderia piece was won by Mrs. Lester, Mrs. Ellis drew the consolation and received a lovely bud vase.

Mrs. C. H. Sproule was presented with a beautiful piece of Maderia.

Punch was served during the afternoon and after the playing ice cream with cake was served.

On last Saturday evening Mrs. A. A. Roby entertained three tables of bridge, complimenting Mrs. C. H. Sproule, mother of Capt. James Sproule

Her quarters was artistically decorated with assorted flowers.

Mrs. Sawkins won the ladies' high score prize, a pair of silk hose and Colonel Hansell won the gentlemen's high score prize, two decks of cards. The consolation was won by Lieutenant Dunphy, who received a Japanese Lantern.

Mrs. Sproule was presented with a Maderia center piece.

Ice cream, cake, salted almonds and punch were served after the playing.

MRS. E. G. M'COMMICK'S PARTY

On Monday June 4th, Mrs. E. G. McCormick was hostess at a most enjoyable bridge party, as a compliment to Miss Frances Daniel, charming bride-elect.

Spring flowers adorned the rooms open to the guests and after the game, a salad course was served.

The honoree was presented a lovely luncheon cloth with napkins.

Those present were Miss Frances Daniel, Mrs. Nathan Dykes, Mrs. Sassnett Gardiner. Misses Della Bize and Clara Martin, Mrs. Randolph Palmer, Misses Dinah Roberts, Mildred Daniel, Evelyn Daniel, Mrs. Samuel Buracker.

McCLELLAN BOUND.

Captain and Mrs. O. M. Moore and family left for Camp McClellan, Ala. by auto yesterday morning.

MEDICAL DEPT. BRIDGE CLUB.

The last meeting of the year of the Medical Department Bridge Club was held at the home of Capt. and Mrs. D. C. Campbell on last Tuesday evening.

Assorted spring flowers formed the beautiful decorations.

Captain Green won the high score prize and Mrs. Dunphy won the second.

Lieutenant Dunphy drew the consolation.

Ice cream and cake were served after the playing.

Our last game of baseball must have been a success, because the tailor made boy shipped upon another hit.

Sgt. Jones told Nelson to take his singing hound dog to the Service Club as he got the buglers out of tune when they were trying to blow retreat.

Old Folks Darley and Bolo Wyman had a great scheme whereby they could make expert rifleman. They bought a dozen eggs and got the Mess Sgt. to have them cooked for breakfast on the day of record firing. Along comes Pring and when he finished with the straight ups there were only enough left to make Old Folks a good sharpshooter.

Sgt. Pring said he would like to have the job of keeping the President's callendar up to date. I'll bet he would give a growl on the first of each month because another leaf had to be torn off.

QUARTERMASTERS GIVING THINGS AWAY

Memorandum Receipts Not Even Required

The above headline will no doubt be greeted with raucous guffaws and appropriate remarks. However, just read what the "Quartermaster Review" says about it.

"The Quartermaster Review wants ideas and suggestions for all sorts of minor improvements in Army homes, or in civilian homes, for that matter; improvements that the Post Quartermaster can, within regulations and orders, make under his ordinary repairs-and-improvements allowance, or that the occupant can make for himself, at comparatively small expense. For instance, we want suggestions for labor-saving devices and arrangements that will lessen the labor of the housewife—how to put in a breakfast-nook to the best advantage; how to make a step-saving layout of sink and dressers; how to build a particularly convenient linen closet; and so on. But we also want helpful ideas for the man of the house—how to rig up a little study-den, etc., etc.

Note.—Attention is invited to the fact that the interior or exterior of government buildings cannot be altered without proper authority.

Here are the conditions:

1. The contest is open to active, retired, or honorably discharged officers and warrant officers and female army nurses, of the Regular Army, National Guard and Organized Reserves; also, to all members of the families of such officers and warrant officers. Civilian members of The Quartermaster Association, and their families, may enter; also civilian draftsmen, supervisors, etc., attached to the Army.

2. Each contestant may send not more than two ideas; but a complete kitchen-arrangement, for example, will be considered as one idea, regardless of the number of items of equipment, etc.

3. Each idea should be illustrated by a simple, rough sketch or plan, accompanied by a brief written or typewritten description, not over one page in length. Use only one side of the paper; put name and address on every sheet. It will add interest, if contestants will tell why they think (or have found) their particular idea to be desirable. Sketches and letters will not be returned.

4. The ideas need not necessarily be original; but they must be practical.

5. Sketches and letters must be enclosed in the same cover (flat, not rolled) and mailed not later than July 1, 1923. They must be addressed to: CONTEST EDITOR, The Quartermaster Review, 1624 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

6. All sketches and letters will be examined and judged by Major William Draper Brinckloe, Q. M. R. C. He is an architect, and has judged similar contests for The Ladies' Home Journal, and other magazines. To the idea which he considers the best, The Quartermaster Review will award a prize of fifty dollars ($25 in cash and $25 in books as explained below under, "explanatory"); to each of the five ideas which he considers next-best, a prize of five dollars. Not more than one prize will be awarded any one person. If two or more persons submit identically the same prize-idea, the award will be based on (a) clearness and interest of the letter; (b) priority of mailing date, as shown by postmark. The prize sketches will be re-drawn, and published in The Quartermaster Review at the earliest possible date. And we believe they will be very interesting and helpful to Quartermasters and other officers, civilians, and housewives, both in and out of the Army.

7. The Quartermaster Review reserves the right to publish any of the other ideas and letters, without compensation; but will, of course, give the names and addresses of the authors of such ideas.

Come, now—let's enter this contest! Don't say, "Oh, I can't draw—what's the use?" Major Brinckloe reports that in other contests many of the prizes were awarded to persons who hadn't the least skill in drawing. Let's try to forget about the prizes—let's consider that we are all assembled as a huge Service-board, ordered to recommend constructive, helpful changes in the homes of Servicefolk. Maybe we'll win a prize—maybe not; but at any rate, we will have done our bit.

Let's let all the Army—and his wife, know about this contest.

Now then: Let's go!

Explanatory

The winner of the first prize of $50, in addition to receiving $25 in cash, may select, through the Book Department of The Quartermaster Association, any combination of books, magazines (subscriptions), or other periodicals to the amount of $25. Whether the books or periodicals are published in this Country or abroad, in English or in some foreign language, it does not matter, as the Book Department of The Quartermaster Association can secure without delay any book, in any language, in any land.

As the Quartermaster Corps serves the whole Army of the United States—Regular Army, National Guard, and Organized Reserves—in regard to food, clothing,, shelter, and transportation, so does the Book Department of The Quartermaster Association offer to serve the entire Army as regards books (military and other), magazines, and periodicals of all kinds and description."

WEEKLY PRESS REVIEW

Military Intelligence Division, G-2 June 7, 1923

PREPAREDNESS AS A LIFE-SAVER

Major General George H. Harries stated with regard to the war that "no less than 50 per cent of those of ours who were killed in action or died of wounds were wastefully sacrificed because of inadequate training or no training at all."

A newspaper demanded his authority and he gave it as "countless conferences with combat officers of our own army and of the French and British forces, who commanded troops in action, and with other officers whose duty it was to observe." He cited one impressive example given by a regimental commander. The night before an advance in the Argonne this officer received 400 replacements to fill his ranks to 3,700 men. They were "unbaked newcomers." Two days of hard fighting ensued. Eighty-one per cent of the regiment's killed and wounded were among those untrained 400; only 19 per cent "occurred among the other 3,300 officers and men who had learned how to be successfully aggressive."

Unpreparedness does not save lives of Americans; it wastes them in that prodigal fashion. Any lives that it may save are those of the nation against which we fight. Preparedness does not waste money, but saves it. The cost of war begins to accummulate during the years of unpreparedness that precedes all our wars, during which no war seems in prospect and it swells enormously after war is declared, for then we have to do in haste what should have been done with deliberation, and we have to buy at war prices what should have been bought at peace prices. But the greatest waste of all is that of our own sons, which caused General Nathaniel Greene of the Revolutionary War to declare that a nation which sent its sons to battle without first training them in the use of arms was guilty of murder.

To save from this indictment from murder the government that will be in power when we begin our next war, our young men are going into training. All praise is due them.

—Portland Oregonian.

ARMY NOTIONAL DEFENSE PLANS

While there seems to be not the remotest chance that the United States will be called upon soon to defend itself against attack by any other nation, it cannot be otherwise than gratifying to the country to know that the army general staff has prepared plans for putting the country's fighting forces in the field at once in the event of such an emergency. The present army, of course, is small, but the general staff's plan goes far beyond the disposition of that diminutive force. It concerns as well the mobilization of the national guard, which is to include 375,000 men, and provides for the quick mobilization and training of the great civilian reserve army, the country's chief dependence in any prolonged struggle.

The general staff has done well to prepare a plan calculated to prevent those blunders. So large a country as the United States, having so small a standing army, should be prepared down to the last detail for assembling and training its reserve forces with the least possible delay. The wonder is that the country was ever without such a plan.—Chiacgo News.

A STRONG ARGUMENT

There is much satisfaction in being able to say "we won the war." However, although "we won the war," according to the latest tabulations available, casualties suffered by the Allies and their associates exceeded those inflicted upon the Central Powers by more than 33 per cent. To be specific, it is estimated that the Allies' casualty list totalled 22,090,000 while that of the Central Powers reached but 15,850,000. The toll on our side amounted to almost as much numerically as the enemy's full mobilization, which was 22,850,000. The Allied mobilization was 42,189,000. A war chart at Washington shows that for each 1,000 soldiers under arms the Central Powers inflicted 966 casualties, while the corresponding figure for their opponents was but 365 not quite three to one, but nearly.

To which army statisticians point as an argument for a comprehensive system of military training—not such a system as they had in Austria and Germany, but one that would assure an ample reserve of competent officers. France alone, on the side of the Allies, had given adequate attention to this angle of preparedness. The great majority of the Allies' forty-two million men were enlisted totally "green" while the great majority of those who fought with the Central Powers had been trained under compulsory system. We cannot close our eyes upon the comparative results. They have been written clearly in blood. Our army officers in citing these figures made a strong point in favor of the argument.

—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

WAR CRERDITS

Let us go back to the Mexican war. We are still paying pensions for it. We gained by that war Texas, California, Arizona and New Mexico. Are they not paying on the investment? If it had not been for that war they would today be struggling to adjust themselves to the late First Chief's last constitution. Is not their possession to be written on the credit side?

From before that war to thirty years ago there was a long, an interminable series of operations against the Indians during which the Army of the United States rendered the West safe for settlers and for the development of our time. Those operations cost money, they are still costing money. But if it had not been for them the great cities of the West would still be stockaded frontier posts. Is that not to be written on the credit side?

The Civil War and the Civil War alone prevented the division of these United States into two nations with watchful armies along Mason and Dixon's line. It is idle to deny this. If there were two nations where now one great one stands, long since in both of them hatred and the desire for vengeance would have become vested interests through which men gained office, vested interests holding power through propaganda of hate and vengeance as virulent as it has been in France and Germany alike for the past hundred years. Have we gained nothing there. We are still paying its cost.

Take the War with Spain in 1898. The possession of the Philippines may be a disputable blessing, it is quite possible that a majority of the people of Cuba consider our legalized interference in their domestic affairs as much of an unmitigated nuisance as we consider their recurring difficulties; but did we gain nothing by that war? We gained control over yellow fever. Even if it was a by-product of that war it was something which only that war and the military control which accompanied it made possible. One does not have to be very old to remember the interruptions of all traffic, the shotgun quarantines in the South at the rumor of an outbreak of yellow fever. Is the cessation of that interruption of traffic and communication worth nothing. Then the power of controlling yellow fever and it alone rendered the construction of the Panama Canal possible. Is there then not something on account of the Spanish-American War to be written on the credit side?—Boston Transcript.

The Jist o' Life

(Pearl Lillian Truman.)

Irony of Fate.

While the "gold fever" was in progress, men slaved, suffered, fought and killed for possession of it and made great plans on what they would do with it when they had enough. One delegation of these men, who had really made many thousands, set sail on a ship for home, bring with them the gold for which they had sacrificed all else. But on the way home the ship passed thru a great typhoon and the men scattered their gold on the floor of the vessel which went down with all on board.

Not Worth It.

I see by the bill posters that the movie people by dint of much Industry have succeeded in photographing Kaiser Wilhelm. I would not go to see old "Wild Bill" himself if they paid me, much less go to see his "mug" in the movie shows, and pay out my hard earned thirty cents to boot.

Some Shriek!

A negro man once frightened a negro woman and the woman said to him when she found out who it was: "Don't you nebbah do dat no mo' kaze ef you does, I'll let loose such a shriek, it 'll rip a hole in de atmosphere and take all de kink out ob yo' niggah wool."

Wonderful Potatoes.

When a peddler went to get his stock one morning at the market, he found he could not get his usual supply of vegetables, but a man had brought in a whole wagon load of cocoanuts, which he offered to sell the peddler at a reasonable figure. The peddler made the purchase, but aftr he had gone down the street and the other man had gone on his way, the peddler forgot what the man had called the things he had sold him, so he began to call out: "Potatoes as big as your head with hair on them."

The Young Idea.

Mamma was teaching her little three-year-old Bible stories and one evening the story was that of Lot entertaining the angels unawares. When she finished the story, she asked, "Now do you know what "unawares means?"

"Yeth, it's the last fing you takes off 'fore you puts on your nightie."

Some Dishes.

A lady belonging to the Jewish Church went down town one day and purchased a lot of dishes. When she returned home, she showed them to her husband, and he said approvingly, "Your buying is judicious." "Yes," replied the lady, "they are Jew dishes, now."

Electrical Conversation.

Fred, (2:30 A. M.)—Wire you insulate?

Ned—Couldn't get ohm sooner.

Fred—Watt?

Ned—I was out sparking in the park.

Fred—I can guess switch girl, Madza?

Ned—See here,fuse get personal, I'll socket to you!

A Paying Job.

A signal corps officer tells of overhearing the following:

Inquisitive visitor—How much do you boys receive?

Bright Buck—Thirty dollars a day, once a month, ma'am.

Buying a Comb.

Clerk—Do you want a narrow man's comb?

Girl—No, I want a comb for a stout man with rubber teeth.

CALCULATOR AND THE GREAT DANE.

By Al.

"I have been told, Oh Calculator that you are wise," said the Great Dane.

"Wise as a Sphinx, but not always so silent," replied the Calculator.

"Then use your wisdom on this one, thou, Oh Sphinx of Bennnig" said the Great Dane.

"You know the Greek Sphinx of Thebes had a most distressing habit of proposing a riddle to passers and upon their failure to guess it to destroy them."

"Dog of a Dog" replied Calculator, "Like some other dogs, I'll bite once, what was the riddle?"

The Dane, educated at the Infantry School, replied: "What creature walks in the morning upon four feet, at noon upon two and in the evening upon three?"

"Dead easy, any second lieutenant could guess that one," said the descendant of all the sphinxes, "Man, for as a baby he walks upon his hands and knees, later, on his feet and in old age with a staff.

"Old stuff," quoth the Dane," the answer is a Fort Benning Automobile.

"How come?" inquired Calculator, who is a Georgia Cracker at heart and frequently shows it in his speech.

Whereupon the worthy son of a long line of illustrations Danes answered and said: "It starts proudly to Columbus on four wheels, enroute it takes the bumps on two, and creeps home in the cool of the evening a decrepit wreck on three."

The child of the sphinxes gasped once and subsided for a week.

SKETCH OF EIGHTY-THIRD FIELD ARTILLERY HISTORY

Stationed At The Infantry School

On June 4th, 1917 the War Department created the 25th Cavalry under command of Colonel Francis J. Koester, at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, out of a third of the peace strength of the old 1st Cavalry and volunteer recruits to the Regular Army. On August 1st, 1917, the regiment was turned into the 83rd Provisional Field Artillery and on November 4th was made a permanent artillery unit and assigned to the 8th Field Artillery Brigade of the 8th Regular Army Division.

In February, 1918, the regiment left Fort Russell for Camp Freemont, California, where it joined the remainder of its brigade, the 2nd and 81st Field Artillery.

On July 1st, 1918, the regiment left Camp Fremont for Fort Sill, Oklahoma, arriving there on the 6th of July where it took up a vigorous course of instruction and maneuvers in final preparation for its long desired debut upon the battle front in Europe.

It received its embarkation orders at last, arriving in Camp Mills and Hoboken, N. Y. on October 24th.

The regiment sailed for France, aboard the U. S. S. "Mongolia," on October 28th, arriving in France just two days before the armistice. It left Brest for Ploermel, Department of Morbihan, Brittany, on November 16th and remained there until December 9th when it returned to Brest in time to be Body Guard for President Wilson during his stay in Brest.

On January 4th it sailed for the States aboard the U. S. S. "President Grant;" reviewing the Statue of Liberty once more on January 18th, 1919. Three days at Camp Mills, and then Baltimore, Cincinnati, and Louisville had a glimpse of its blue chevrons enroute to Camp Knox, Kentucky, where it arrived on January 23rd.

In November, 1919 the War Department ordered the regiment converted into a Light Motorized Field Artillery Regiment, equipped with 5-ton Tractors.

On September 15th, 1920, the First Battalion was detached from the regiment and proceeded by marching, to Camp Benning, Georgia for permanent station.

The Second Battalion marched to Fort Bragg, N. C., and was placed on the inactive list in January, 1922.

Bakers and Cooks School

Looking through a Girard court reporter's note book found on the Georgia side of the bridge the other day we found the following dialogue dating back some months past and referring to one of our personnel. It is reproduced herewith on account of its humurous side, because it all came out all right in the end.

Maloney, Vs. City of Girard.

Judge—Old man, you are charged with being sober and orderly on the streets of this city. How do you plead?

Maloney—Not guilty your honor.

Judge—Any evidence to substantiate your plea?

Maloney—Yes, your honor. I licked three policemen. Broke a plate-glass window, and held up a falling telephone post until twelve cops came along to relieve me.

Judge—Ah! that was Georgia lightening. I pronounce you guilty. You are fined thirty dollars.

Maloney—Your honor, I'm dead broke. Completely down and out.

Judge—(Peering over his glasses) Huh, You may be broke, and you may be down, but you are not out for thirty days. "Next Case."

It is with extreme regret that we are forced an announce the departure of Technical Sergeant Richard Montague who will proceed overland to his recently acquired summer home in the sunny hills of Camp McClellan Ala.

As this is to be his initial sojurn in that territory, we have given his letters of introduction and credit of the most of the leading bootleggers and lesser citizens in and around that part of the country where community standing and office holding is governed more or less by the size of your still.

The School office thanks him for the inevitable help he has contributed in the form of personnel work.

Sergeant Duncan with whom he has visited the past few months thanks him for the tal lgrass which immediately sprouted on Sergeant Montague's arrival.

All of our personnel are sorry that Sergeant Montague's services cannot be retained with the school, but as the Quartermaster at Camp McClellan insists that he cannot see his way clear to ull off this Summer Training Camp proposition without Montague's able assistance, We will just bear our loss and grin, hoping that again in the future we may have him with us.

News has just leaked out that the important plans of which we spoke sometime ago, the Discovery by Dr. Glant on Electrical food, has been stolen, and all paraphenelia wrecked by thieves, who blew the door off the huge steel vault in which Dr. Glant keeps his scientific equipment.

U. S. Secret Service Agents are in a great furore over the theft, which assumes international importance of the greatest magnitude when consideration is given to the purposes to which it may be put.

It is believed in official circles that Certain Foreign Diplomatic Agents representing the Red faction of Russia have committed the theft. Dr. Glant, is stricken by the blow which means the loss of the fruits of forty years labor and research, and leaves him without initiative to begin anew.

Our agents are hot on the trail, and important news is expected at any moment.

ELECTRICITY AS A WEAPON

A recent press dispatch informs us of the handling of 2,000,000 volts of electricity, with perfect control and without danger to himself, by one man.

The force contained in this volume of electricity is enormous—too great, in fact, to be comprehended by the human mind. It is estimated to be about one tenth the force contained in a bolt of lighting but even the knowledge of this fact to the layman does not enable us to appreciate the enormous energy represented by the 2,000,000 volts.

The report states that the current was handled with ease by the use of a small electric switch and that it was directed at various points by the operator. Certain buildings which had been constructed for the purpose of the test were instantly demolished upon the electric bolt coming in contact with them. A large piece of walnut wood was destroyed to the extent that even no ashes or other residue were left.

Battles and wars are won by force.

Each succeeding year shows the nations of the earth striving to gain an advantage over each other by the development of some powerful energy, mechanical, electrical, or otherwise, which will be a material aid to their military forces in time of war.

The question which arises in the mind of a military man after reading the account of the test made with the 2,000,000 volts of electricity is whether or not it is possible to adapt this electrical energy as a war time weapon.

By giving his imagination loose rein the military man sees wonderful possibilities in this connection. He finds himself occupying a defensive position. A large force of enemy troops is advancing in attack against his position. In order to give the idea a "kick," he sees himself confronted with a numerically superior force. At the proper time he releases the electrical energy under his control and by directing this force at the hostile troops he destroys entire battalions at one stroke.

Again the military man imaginse himself in an airplane over enemy territory. An enemy anti-aircraft gun flashes. By the use of wireless control he directs his bolt at the enemy gun with disastrous results. Proceeding further over enemy territory the flier locates enemy arsenals, magazines, dumps, and depots. He directs the force under his control on these objects and they are demolished. A squadron of enemy planes take the air to prevent his reconnaisance. These are quickly dispatched earthward in flames.

The flier proceeds further over enemy territory without resistence leaving destruction of buildings and material and demoralization of troops in his wake. He returns to his own headquarters, furnishes his commander with valuable information, and the Infantry then proceeds to occupy enemy territory with but slight opposition.

The practicability of the use of electrical energy as a destructive force during a period of hostilities appears to depend on the facility with which such energy may be generated in such volume as to make it destructive. The matter of its control has been tested with satisfactory results. Doubtless the problem of generation will be solved by the engineering experts of America in time. In the mean time, the results of the recent test provide considerable food for thought.

WEEKLY PRESS REVIEW.

Peace with Justice and Safety— May 29: But Mr. Coolidge, as a sagacious student of history, knows that the maintenance of popular government and civic liberty is not always an affair of the cooing of doves. Among other things, he said, at the observance of Bridgeport to which we have referred:

We want no more war. You men and women who have seen it or have been engaged in it want war least of all. We want peace with justice and honor. But this does not justify the government in disregarding history, in leaving the people undefended against national peril at home or abroad. Security lies in the realization that a nation has a known force and spirit. To leave a nation unprotected is to be guilty of a crime against the world.

And he went on to remark, quite pointedly, in his characteristically compact manner:

The record of past history is the record, not of the success of republics but of their failures. Those now in existence have escaped from overthrow time and time again by an exceedingly narrow margin. A government of the people is not easy to maintain; it is the most difficult of all governments to maintain. Some forget that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

It is even so. An unprotected, undefended Amreica would be the greatest possible menace to the peace of the world. The fact that America, in 1914, was ridiculously unprepared for war contributed in vast and terrible measure to confirm the Germans in their determination to attack the world's peace. And incidentally it conducted our republic, and our liberties with it, to the verge of ruin. If we trust men like Calvin Coolidge, we shall never drift into that dangerous pass again.

—Boston Transcript.

THE INFANTRY.

We note that the Quartermaster Corps are going to celebrate their 148th Anniversary on June the 16th.

Why shouldn't we have an Infantry Birthday which should date from April 19th, 1775.

THE FLOYD RIFLES.

The Floyd Rifleman just arrived as we were going to press and we noted that on May 1st they celebrated their birthday which incidentally was the 82nd as they were organized May 1st, 1841. This is a remarkable record as it is very few National Guard Organization that stay in the service that long under the same name or that don't have one or more periods of inactivity.

Go to it "Floyd Rifles" and may your record continue to be always so bright and promising as it has been and still is today.

For those who are not acquainted with the above name we can add that they are designated as Co. "C" 122nd Infantry, Georgia National Guard with station at Macon, Ga. But you can take it from us that they are a live outfit.

BATTERY "A" 83rd F. A.

We were certainly disappointed this week when the A & R Officer received a letter from the above organization. We sure expectd to find some news of interest concerning this organization and what they are accomplishing at Camp McClellan but alas the letter said enclosed find five dollars to pay for USAMP Book. We were glad enough to get the money but we would also like to get a few news items.

ANOTHER FOREIGN PORT HEARD FROM.

The "News" goes to every post where there are U. S. Troops and as a result the Post Exchange is in receipt of a letter from the Panama Canal Zone requesting information regarding certain items that the Post Exchange has advertised.

Who says it don't pay to advertise in the "News?"

THAT CHIPLEY BEAST.

We note in the Columbus Ledger and the Columbus Enquirer-Sun that Chipley and vicinity is greatly agitated about some "Wild Beastly Brute" who is getting on the nerves of people there and on the outside of the dogs.

If this "Beast" only knew it, he could come to Fort Benning and live in absolute peace and plentitude for some time and what is more he wouldn't have to hunt until the late hours of the morning and then get shot at.

THE MARNE MIRACLE.

The Marne Miracle, by Col. William K. Naylor, U. S. Army, Washington: The U. S. Infantry Association. Cloth, 12 Mo., 190 Pages. Price $1.50.

Col. William K. Naylor, the author of The Marne Miracle, is now Assistant Chief of Staff G-2 (Military Information), U. S. Army, and recognized as the foremost military strategist and student of Military History and its application to the principles of war.

During the war Col. Naylor served as Chief of Staff of a Division (33 National Guard Division from Illinois) and Chief of Staff of the 9th Army Corps. His present detail in the War Department is as one of the assistants to General Pershing.

Col. Naylor has made a most exhaustive study of the Marne Campaign of 1914, having at his disposal a mass of source records and from them has traced out the movements and operations of every unit of the contending forces engaged in the great campaign.

In every great military campaign there are points of controversy. The Marne Campaign was no exception to the rule. Col. Naylor discredits some popular legends; brings many mooted points to the light of day and clears up a number of disputes. Here are some of the points that are discussed in the book and the answers supplied:

1. Why do the French call the Battle of the Marne a miracle? Why do the Germans refer to it as a tragedy?
2. Was Germany, in all her boasted military efficiency, prepared for the World War? Wherein was she unprepared?
3. What was the German plan of Campaign? Was it that proposed by Von Schlieffen? Was it Von Moltke's? Was it a combination of the two?
4. What were France's plans for the war with Germany? Were they offensive or defensive at the outset?
5. Did the stand made by the Belgians at Liege save France?
6. Did Germany rush over defenseless Belgium in overwhelming numbers? Who were the stronger, the Germans or the Allies at this time?
7. What prevented the Battles of Mons and Charleroi from being complete German triumphs?
8. Were the British wiped out at Le Cateau? Did they stop Von Kluck?
9. Was Von Kluck responsible for the loss of the Battle of the Marne?
10. Why did the Germans fall back? Who is responsible for the order to retreat? Was it Foch's attack at Fere Champenoise?
11. Who was Von Hentsch? What part did he play in the orders for the German retreat?
12. Why did Germany lose?

All of these questions are discussed in a most interesting manner and the conclusions and answers supplied.

This wonderful book and many other you can get from the Infantry Association. Also they have a complete engraving plant that is a "humdinger" so you can send them your plate and get a first class job at a very reasonable price and also they will keep your plate on file there so that you don't have to worry about losing it or getting it scratched up.

WILL MOVIE STARS CHARGE FOR GENERATING HEAT?

Some day there will be written an interesting yarn concerning news stories about Technology which take hold upon the public imagination. This observation is brought forth by the recent wide publicity afforded to the Institute and Prof. Edward F. Miller, '86, by Professor Miller's declaration that when a thriller is shown in a movie house, the spectators are so well able to keep themselves warm by the operation of their own emotions that canny exhibitors bank their furnace fires and let Theda Bara do the rest. By now, this news has swept the country from coast to coast, has elbowed many less picturesque events from off a good many front pages. We quote, for example, this item from the New York World of February 24:

"Coal-burning theatre managers on Broadway were interested yesterday in the news from Boston about Professor Miller. It seems Prof. Edward F. Miller of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has discovered that the average person, when calm, gives off 425 heat units, but when emotionally excited the heat units jumps to—oh, thousands and thousands and thousands.

"Professor Miller found it out by observing audiences in theatres. He found that the added heat generated by the audience at the plays' crucial moments raised the temperature of the theatre several degrees.

"Naturally, th coal-burning managers were interested. Al H. Wood was gleeful.

"'I wondered,' he exclaimed, 'what was keeping my coal bills down.'

"It was estimated on figures gathered from the Professor's idea, that the Misses Florence Reed, Violet Heming, Ina Claire, Pola Negri, Theda Bara and Lenore Ulric save the Messrs. David Belasco, Arthur Hopkins, Mack Sennett and Charles B. Dillingham upward of $547,687 yearly in anthracite coal bills alone, not including the bituminous

"In fact, it was said at the Lamb's Club last night that these young ladies had received a petition from the starving miners in Pennsylvania, requesting them to act cold during the remainder of the winter.

"The report also went that Mrs. Leslie Carter plans to file suit for a rebate on 465,876 tons of coal she is alleged to have saved David Belasco in 'Du Barry' and 'The Heart of Maryland.'

"'A kiss by John Barrymore saves a theatre a ton of chestnut or a ton and a half of egg coal,' was the opinion of one prominent actor, standing at Broadway and 42nd Street yesterday.

"The Professor's discovery has created quite a stir on Broadway. Hereafter, actors and actresses who have reputations as warm babies, may demand a coal-saving clause in their contracts."

Nothing so good has happened since the historic day three years ago when Louis Derr weighed the world.—The Technology Review, Mass., Inst. of Technology.

Field Officers Report to the 24th For Duty

Majors Charles K. Nulsen, and Sheppard B. Philpot, Infantry have reported for duty with the 24th Infantry in the past week. Major Nulsen was assigned on February 2nd, 1923, and has just returned from leave which he took upon his return from the A. F. in G. Major Philpot has been on special duty as provost marshall at El Paso, Texas, and returns to the regiment.

1st Lieut. John F. Pahlke, 24th Infantry has returned for duty since graduating from the Infantry School in May. He resumes his former post as personnel adjutant, and president of the Bachelors union.

Bachelor Barracks Completed

The 24th Infantry is still in their construction era, begun when the regiment arrived from New Mexico, and to continue until we are in brick barracks. The newest addition is a Bachelor Officers barracks building. The regimental construction and supply officer, Captain James Sproule has announced that the new "shelter" palace will be ready for occupacy on Sunday, June 17th. And lo! this is the month of brides.

The new building will accommodate eight bachelor officers with single room suites, or a smaller number with combination suites. Toilet furnishings have been provided and a heating plant will be installed.

100 PER CENT QUALIFICATION

The first group to be fired through the record course on the rifle range qualified every man. The first large group which has been under the preliminary course of instruction will fire on the range this week the regular instruction practice course. Keen interest marks the work done by the entire regiment and very satisfactory results have been attained to date.

The Machine gun companies have begun firing on the range, and they will soon have some report of their record firing. Along with this work is being carried on the pistol qualification work also on the regimental range.

Captain Albert L. Tuttle has been assigned to the duties of Plans and Training officer and has relieved Captain John H. Knuebel who has departed for Fort Niagara with the Infantry Rifle team candidates. Captain E. E. Walker is in charge of the pistol instruction, and Captain E. C. Callahan has been in charge of Machine Gun instruction.

Pot Lucas can be heard singing, "Baby wont You Please Come Home." It is funny old boy, that you will not miss one of these old 6, 8, 10, 12. So please dont put that rough stuff over on the B. B. A. Club.

The old Battery has a new N. C. O. corpl. Mase—known as hogshead. He is now in the Execution of his office. Last Monday he was instructing a squad in machine gunnery, and said to the squad, "If I don't qualify you all with this Gun I will qualify you all with the 96th article of regulations.

Bugler Smith is the most intelligent bugler in the army since he has returned to the said Fort again. A conversation was overheard of him and Bugler Robertson, saying "cheese, if you will only promise the fair sex that you take on (3) more years you will do just as well. Fine dope, old boy.

Company "I"

Not long ago Corporal Willis came around and bid us all good bye forever. He said he was through with the army life and from then on his slogan was to be "Back to the Cotton Patch." We mingled our best wishes with our tender farewells and watched the ex-corporal's huge form fade in the distance. Fifteen days later as we were beginning to recover from our sorrow, we saw a cloud of dust down the road and when it came near we saw to our astonishment the gaunt and hungry form of our ex-corporal emerge from the cloud, and he said to us: "Man show me the dotted line, I want to sign. And tell the cooks to put my name in the pot." After signing him up he told us that he had changed his slogan to "Back from the Farm" cause he couldn't raise anything outside the Army, not even cotton. He further states that he is going to stay in the Army this time until he is twice as old as Corporal Newman and as ugly as Sgt. Joe Anderson.

Some recruiting officer ought to get hold of the Corporal for if he talked to people outside like he talked to us they would come in droves.

Sgt. Goode, told Private Childs the preacher, to never come on the pistol range again unless he deprive himself of his beautiful mustache, because they were so heavy that they kept him from looking a "Bull's-eye" in the face."

Prt. Ford (Skinner), seems to be very popular since he has been promoted to chauffeur of the Horseless carraige. Ford you look mighty fine but your mules breeches need pressing.

Corpl. Reeves (Nisy), got himself in a mighty hard hole by carrying around letters in his pockets. A certain lady received a letter and it wasn't by Corporal Reeves. Look out rag man they are on your trail.

Company "K"

Sgt. Garrett favored the troops with a real old honest-to-goodness "Review" a few nights ago. Atta boy, Bill, the boys get awful lonesome with out it once in a while.

But Earl, Jesse, broke all speed records in getting off the scratch, and the Cops are looking puzzled yet, as to what passed them, whether it was a car or just a streak. Some speed eh: "You Tell 'Em."

Not that we are curious, but why use a fellows head to break stove-wood on? Ask Howard Stanley, he knows.

This from a certain Sgt. of Co, "I" The West Indian "Hair Dye Is Cpl. Reaves Special." Steady old man, the dye will wash off and leave your locks still grey, if the age is there. You can't beat father time, for he is a foxy old cuss.

"Company "M"

Our 1st Sgt. is doing great shooting with the machine gun:

Say Sarge, what is the zero of your gun?

Cpl. Jennings has been working very hard for the last few days, with so many men to make discharges for.

Accept our sympathies Cpl.

QUALIFICATION

The whole of Co. "M" will and must qualify at least 100 per cent. That's what "M" Co. says.

Sgt. Wheeler (Vamping Kid) is not using the telephone very much nowadays. What's matter with you Sarge? Have they had the telephone taken out.

ALASKAN DWELLINGS.

Going north from Prince William Sound, the natives, more peacefully inclined than their neighbors, the chlingets, varied the "bara bara." Their houses range in type from the ones almost all underground to those only slightly sunken. Some of these are floored and lined, and some enclose mud-holes in which the debris and food fall, mingling in an odoriferous mess that would shortly kill a white man.

However low the "barabara," tho', the "kuggats," or storehouses, are always raised well above the ground to prevent the dogs from eating the skin boats or other gear. These kuggats are little houses two or three feet high, on raised platforms, upon which the food and hunting gear is kept. The Eskimos of this region do not know how to build igloos.

Where the houses are found above the ground, there is always an underground sleeping apartment for the cold winter nights, to which access is obtained by means of a tunnel from the living room.

The Athabascars of the interior live mostly in one-family log huts, through the large cracks of which the winter winds blow at 60 degrees below, but the mortality is no more than among the tightly housed Eskimos.

In the extreme north the Eskimos live mostly underground. While traveling in the winter they construct square igloos of ice, but these are considered only temporary structures, unlike those of the Eskimos of the Atlantic coast.

The inhabitants of King Island utilize the cavities in the rocks, which they enclose with log structures, covered with skins.

Man's dwellings have always been from the immorial, structures found adapted by him to the particular locality that he inhabited. That is no less true of the habitations that the natives of Alaska have builded. Although we may not agree with them as to the mode of life that they lead we must admit that the place they called home were adapted to the life that they lead.

Among the Thlingit and Haida Indians the permanent structure was a large log house some times as such as ninety feet in length and over half the length in breath. The size of these houses was such that no one family could hope to raise one unassisted. In consequence the whole clan took part and the supervision of the undertaking was intrusted to some one of the chief men. The materials were gathered the years before the erection of the framwork began. When the material had been gathered the clan felt compelled to gather wealth for the attendant ceremony of the potlatch.

When at last the material was ready, the hoarded wealth sufficient to make a great show, and the participants were assembled the shamal or medicine man began his inhabitations. When the corner post of the new fort-home were ready slaves were sacrificed and buried under them much the same as we leave bibles and current newspapers in our corner-stones. However, the thrifty householder did not sacrifice his choice slave, but usually took those that were old or diseased and who were really of very little loss to him.

Among the Haida the house was ornamented with craving representing the totem, or coat-or-arms, of the occupants or incidents in their family history. The sides and roof were covered with bark, except over the center of the room, which was left open for the excape of smoke.

Around three sides of this large room ran a platform about three feet from the floor. Under this were the sleeping cubby-holes and the possessions of the others were piled on top. Many families lived in these large houses and cooked over the communal fires in the center of the room.

These tribes erected temporary shelters of salvage boards for the fishing season near the streams where they fished. There were part tent and part house, according to how much timber there was predent.

To the Westward the common type of dwelling is the "Barbara." The native wishing to build a home first excavates a pit in the shape of the proposed house from three to four feet deep. Into this pit is put a framework of heavy logs and across the top are laid low pitched rafters. This rude structure is then entirely enclosed inside with the exception of the smoke hole which can be closed on necessity by a piece of seal gut through which the only light of the house i sobtained. On the advent of the whites the natives often purchased log huts from the traders and took them to their own settlements where they were re-erected. This was the source of much pride to the occupant, but when cold weather came they were usually found out in the old barbara.

On the shores of Cook Inlet, on which some of the Athapascan tribes live, the two compartment log houses is used. In the outer compartment all the rough work and cooking is done and is the inner is the sleeping and living compartment. This is floored and ceiled, and can be almost hermetically sealed by means of panels of seal gut so as to form a very warm sleeping place even in the coldest weather. This inner compartment is only four or five feet high.

Some of the houses in this region are builded close together and open into each other so as to form a common work-room.

In the vicinity of Prince William Sound the natives, being more peaceful than their neighbors the Thlingit, selected isolated positions that were easily defended to which they took their women and possessions in event the enemy warred upon them. These spots of refuge were called "Kekurs."

83rd F. A. HAD A GREAT DAY

At 8 a. m. June 4th, 1923 a convoy of Reconnaissance cars, F. W. D. trucks and G. M. C.'s loaded with officers and enlisted men of the battalion with their families left the 83rd F. A. area bound for a days outing at Jefferson's Hole, a locally famous picnic ground. The festive occasion was due to the Regiment celebrating its Organization Day. Immediately after arriving the rolling kitchen of "B" Battery unlimbered, prepared for action, and opened fire with characteristic alacrity.

The morning was quickly spent in the swimming pool. Captain Pickett our efficient chaperon, also self appointed beach inspector, was greatly relieved when he saw that all the bathers were in proper costumes. Several men went fishing and reported a few nibbles, with the usual fishermans alibi's.

Shortly after noon Acting Mess Sergeant Winnerling reported the kitchen had just finished firing for effect and that all was ready for the men to gather the spoils. "B" Battery is always on the job and can be expected to fill in a pinch. The Battery was the host to the Battalion. The food was excellent and spoke for itself. The Battery not only carries good food but the proper utensils to facilitate its consumption. There were salad, steak, rolls, butter, peas, tea (to the ladies delight) and gobs of ice cream with cake. The call came for "seconds" and none answered—they were too full for words. There was the usual after dinner cigarette passed and the men lolled in the shade for an hour waiting for the athletic classics which were to close the program for the picnic.

Time grew short which made it necessary to cancel some of the events. Lieut. Adams in the guise of Announcer kept things moving. Much interest was created and the competition was keen.

About 3:15 p. m. the column was formed and headed for Fort Benning. Later the column moved into the Artillery area in good march order.

A dance was given in the "C" Battery Mess Hall for the enlisted men in the evening. A number of the Columbus young ladies were invited and transported to the Fort via White buses arriving with spirits undampened by a thunder storm through which they passed. The Hall was tastefully decorated with spring flowers and green foliage. The 24th Infantry orchestra furnished the peppy jazz music. After the opening dance the victors of the field events were announced and the prizes given out. Private Glascott, "B" Battery was high man 22.3 points 1st prize $5, Corp. McKay, "B" Battery, 13 points, second prize $3, Sgt. Donnelly, "C" Battery 10.3 points third prize $2, Pvt. Matthews, "C" Battery, fourth prize, a carton of Camels. He said he had rather have the cigarettes any way.

About 10 o'clock the refreshments were served. At 11:30 the dance broke up and ended and the guests departed. Thus ended the Sixth Anniversary of Organization Day for the 83rd Field Artillery.

American Legion Notes
From American Legion News Service

LEGION RESTORES NEGLECTED GRAVES IN THE ARLINGTON CEMETERY

"Washington.—Because of the neglected condition of the graves of World War veterans buried in the Arlinton National Cemetery, last resting place of the unknown soldier, members of the American Legion from the District of Columbia put on their olive drab uniforms and wrapped leggings, and with borrowed lawnmowers, scythes, shears and rakes, marched to the cemetery in making it presentable for Memorial Day exercises.

The rank growth of grass which covered headstones of the nation's heroes was not due to neglect on the part of the War Department, but resulted from insufficient appropriation having been made by congress to conduct the work. Arlington is probably the most widely known national cemetery, and contains the graves of thousands of the country's most celebrated heroes."

POLITICAL PRISONERS

Indianapolis—The recent appeal to President Harding for the release of the so-called political prisoners made by a number of prominent educators and others has been declared "distinctly unpathriotic" by Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the American Legion in a statement to the public.

"These so-called political prisoners sought in many ways to block the government in the crisis of its international reputation," said Mr. Bolles. "They attempted to turn aside our youths from the cause of the nation when it called for aid. They evaded wartime laws and aimed to create a disregard of these laws by the country's soldiery.

"These men have received considerate treatment according to old and new standards. Had they been treated as they would have by old world despots, or by the so-called newest advanced theory of government—sovietism— they would have been lined up and executed."

The American Legion at all national conventions has declared itself opposed to the release of those who attempted to create wartime sedition."

John Grey Remembered.

"Caldwell, Ohio, June—Gathered at a forlorn, and for a long time abandoned cemetery near Caldwell, members of the American Legion paid tribute to the last resting place of John Gray, of revolutionary forces of the colonies to die in this country.

Gray was born in Mt. Vernon, Va., in 1764 and engaged with the revolutionary army at the age of sixteen. He participated in the surrender at Yorktown, and following the war was a field laborer on the Washington estate. He died at the age of 104 years, 2 months, and 23 days. The Legion men paid homage to the grave of Gray, in accord with their annual custom of decorating the graves of soldiers of all wars."

with 250,000 and Japan fifth with 246,000.

Approaching the matter from the viewpoint of the number of soldiers per 1,000 of population, the United States is last, with 1.33, while France is first with 17.60, Italy second with 6.80, Russia 6.72, United Kingdom 5.43, Japan 4.40.

The $318,439,556 which the United States spends for her Army is only 7.75 per cent. of her total revenue, while France, with an army bill of 5,000,000,000 francs, spends 18.66 per cent. of her tax collections. Russia spends 33.74 per cent. of her income on the Red army, Japan 16.19 per cent. Italy 14.90 per cent. United Kingdom 9.52 per cent. and Germany 3.02 per cent.

If the United States maintained soldiers in the same ratio to national wealth as do other great powers, we would have in he case of France, not 115,500 soldiers, but 2,265,000; in the case of Italy, 2,916,000; in that of Japan, 3,444,000; and in that of the United Kingdom, 749,000 men. If we maintained soldiers in the same ratio to population, we would have not 115,500 men, but, in the case of France 2,104,000; in that of Italy, 748,000; in that of Japan, 484,000, and in that of the United Kingdom, 597,000.

The American Army costs each man, woman and child in the United States $2.99 annually, the report shows, which compares with $30.70 spent for every Russian, $20.60 for every Frenchman, $13.69 for every Italian, $11.90 for every Briton, $11.11 for every German, and $2.24 for every Japanese.

If the National wealth of the United States is $2,468,000,000 there is in this country $2,468,143 for every soldier in the Army, which compares with $467,471 in the United Kingdom, $144,927 in France, $120,000 in Italy, and $101,626 in Japan.

In the expenditure of the money allotted for the Army the War Department is doing everything in its power to economize and the success of its policy is attested by the following letter received by the Secretary of War from the Director of the Budget:

"My Dear Mr. Secretary:

'I have just received a copy of Bulletin of Information No. 24, issued by the Chief of Finance, United States Army, April 1, 1923, which shows that during the month of February, 1923, the War Department took advantage of the 2 per cent. discount offered on bills paid within ten days in 99.51 per cent. of all of the bills. From the bulletin it appears that the total of the 2 per cent. discounts obtained during the month of February, 1923, amounted to $13,158.07, and that the total discounts lost amounted to only $64.45, This shows that the total of all bills offering the discount of 2 per cent. if paid within ten days amounted in round figures to $661,000.00 and that 99.51 per cent. of these bills were actually paid within ten days.

'This is certainly a remarkable record and I doubt if it has ever been equalled by any private business concern. I congratulate you on the showing. Aside from the actual saving in dollars and cents, which is considerable, I realize that there is probably a much greater saving resulting from the increased number of bids or competition in bidding which would naturally obtain in the business of a department which made such prompt settlement of its bills.

'Sincerely yours,
'(Signed) H. M. Lord,
Director.'

The Chief of Finance, Brigadier General Kenzie W. Walker, has reported to the Secretary that $141,019.22 have already been saved in discounts during the present fiscal year. This has been effected by paying within ten days after due of 98.06 per cent. of all bills offering discounts. During the last four fiscal years a total saving of $1,141,602.20 has been effected in this manner.

In a memorandum to the Secretary of War, dated April 17th, General Walker made the following statement:

'The percentage of loss per month is being continually reduced the months of November and December, 1922, and January and February, 1923, showing a percentage of loss of discount as 2.15 per cent, .95 per cent, .72 per cent and .49 per cent respectively. In explanation of even this small percentage of loss the records show that in a large number of cases the discount was offered from date of invoice but due to delay in delivery by the railroad the supplies did not come into possession of the Government within the discount period and payment, therefore, could not be made.

'The prompt payment of accounts is not alone reflected in items where discounts are involved, but the War Department since the establishment of a centralized finance has a record of expenditious payments of other classes of accounts. The Chief of Finance maintains a record of payment of bills and such record shows that in January, 1923, there were on hand throughout the whole Army only two hundred and fifty (250) unpaid bills over thirty days old. The causes for non-payment of these bills are that the supplies have not yet come into possession of the Government or similar reasons over which the department has no control.

'The amount of money represented above as having been taken in discounts although quite a factor in itself has an associated advantage to the Government, the encouragement of contractors to seek War Department business, giving it a greater field of competition and better prices, an intangible asset that can not be expressed in dollars and cents.'"

I. S. D. IS VICTOR IN WEIRD GAME

Artillery Loses 15 to 7 in Battle Featured By Errors. Muddy Field Makes Good Play Impossible.

By SGT. J. M. WHEELER

In a weird exhibition of the national pastime the I. S. D. yesterday defeated the artillery by the one-sided score of 15 to 7. The game was halted temporarily in the second inning, with the I. S. D. leading, 3 to 0, by a thunder storm. Play was resumed on a muddy field, making real baseball difficult, thus the many errors. It was the worst game ever played at Fort Benning, bar none, and the champions looked like a bunch of "dumb bells" for awhile, although this makes their seventh straight win for the season.

Fred Merkle and Zimmerman never had anything on the I. S. D. for pure, unadulterated bone-headedness, it may have been the poor opposition that caused them to pull so many peculiar plays or just an off day for the boys. There were no features, Shepard had to leave the game on account of a sore finger and McNutt took up the burden and had the opposition eating out of his hand the remainder of the game.

The least said about the farce, the better.

I. S. D. IS VICTOR IN GREAT GAME

Tanks Holds Champs Scoreless for Seven Innings But the Break Comes In the Eights. Final Count 5 to 0.

BY SGT. J. M. WHEELER.

In one of the greatest pitcher's battle, if not the greatest ever staged at Fort Benning, the I. S. D. Wednesday triumphed over the fast traveling Tank Corps by the score of 5 and 0. For seven innings it was three up and three down and McNutt and "Red" Lindsey were hurling the games of their lives. Each twirler had allowed only two hits a piece up to the beginning of the fatal eighth for the tanks; neither team had been able to get a man across the plate for seven heartbreaking frames and it looked to the 400 raving fans as if the two clubs would fight on forever, but the break came in the first half of the eighth.

With the I. S. D. up, Lindsey's defense weakened again and after one was gone, Goodwin got a life on Bitzell's wild heave to first, Hyland followed with his first hit of the year with a screaming single through short, Goodwin taking second, Wheeler singled over third and Goodwin crossed the rubber when the left fielder juggled the ball, Wheeler took second and Hyland third on the peg home, Dausch came through with a single to left, scoring Hyland and Wheeler. That ended the scoring for that inning.

The Tanks got a man on first with two men down in the eighth and "Red" Lindsey poled a screamer to deep left labeled a home run if there was anything ever labeled such, but Waller made a great running catch, retiring the side. This seemed to take the heart out of the Tanks although they never gave up. In the ninth the I. S. D. scored two more after two were down on Suby's double to right, Goodwin's triple to deep left and Hyland's single. The Tanks went out in order in their half, McNutt fanning the first two men and Suby ended the battle by taking Hitchcock's grounded and tagging first.

There were quite a few features, chiefly McNutt's and Lindsey's hurling, McNutt getting the best of it, pitching his second two hit game against the Tanks. Goodwin and Hyland were the hitting stars, each claiming two bingles. With Goodwin the advantage lies for both his blows were for extra bases. Dausch's hit was timely. In fact both clubs played bang up ball. The losers looked good even in defeat and it is a pleasure to play with real sports. The tanks bear watching, for "Red" Lindsey is going to win a game some day by himself. He tried hard but Waller's great catch stopped him Wednesday. The box score follows:

PANAMA CANAL TRAFFIC FOR MAY SETS NEW HIGH RECORD

The following item appeared in a radiogram dated June 1st, 1923, received today from the Governor of The Panama Canal:

"May 419 commercial transits $1,-972,220.84 also 10 launches $42.15 May 25 record day 25 commercial transits tolls $136,604.77."

The traffic for May again forms a new high record.

The following table gives the number of commercial vessels transiting the Canal during the past six months

THE INFANTRY TEAM.

With few exceptions the ninety-five candidates for the Infantry Rifle team are now in training at Fort Niagara, New York. Actual training started Tuesday, June 12th. Monday being spent in the organization and getting settled. The team this year is being quartered in tents surrounding the old Hostess House and by the addition of running water along the team street, electric lights in each tent, board floors, everyone is quite comfortable and the consensus of opinion is that being so located is better than being in the old building previously used. The mess is located in the old Hostess House and being operated by a civilian concern.

Considerable consternation has been introduced into the team by the new ruling of offhand being fired without the use of the sling and rapid fire at 200 and 300 yards being fired at the "A" target instead of the old rapid fire D target. While this new ruling is tentative, it is practically assured that it will be final and all training is proceeding with that end in view.

Thirty regiments besides the Infantry School and others at large are represented and from every indication, the competition this year will be the strongest of many years past. Approximately one third of the men are new, by that is meant, men who have never been at the tryouts or attended the training at Fort Benning. A great number of the older shots are back and as usual there was the renewal of many old friendships that were started back in years gone by. Among the older shots that fired on previous teams are Lindroth, Hinds. Velenage. Kothlarzak, Rothrock, Silvester, Wessels, Price, Loerger, Stadic, Whitaker, Miller, Kneuble, Tupper and Fenton.

By the end of the week the team personnel will be completed and by the first of next week the hard, steady grind will start. The balance of this

C. M. T. C. DEFINED

In speaking of the Citizens Military Training Camp and its purpose, the Commanding General the of Fifth Corps Area, Major General J. H. McRae, has said:

"The main purpose of the Citizens' Military Training Camps are to teach young men Americanism, to improve them physically, mentally and morally and bring them to a realization of their obligations to their country.

"There are numerous other benefits obtained from these camps by both the individual attending them and the community from which he comes. Each man goes home greatly benefited physically from thirty days of strenuous outdoor life, and carries with him the satisfaction of knowing himself a better man as a result of his training and of his association with other men imbued with a keen sense of their responsibility as citizens of this great country.

"The community has its men return from these camps better disciplined, and with a broader and more detailed knowledge of what are their duties to the state and their fellow citizens.

"I am firmly convinced that the Citizens' Military Training Camps are one of the most potent agencies of this Government for teaching the people the highest American ideals and how these ideals may be maintained.—(Fifth Corps News.)

TELEPHONE AT POST HEADQUARTERS

Orders have recently been issued that all telephones at Post Headquarters except the pay station, will not be used for calls to Columbus after business hours unless by an officer who is regularly on duty in the buildng or by the M. P. on duty and then for official use only.

So take heed all of you who have been using these phones for the operators have instructions not to make connections.

29th INFANTRY COMPLETES RIFLE FIRING

Regiment Averages 95.67 Per Cent.

Under such difficult circumstances that it is believed that there is not another regiment in the Army that had to overcome such obstucles, the 29th Infantry have at last completed rifle firing.

The work is such at the Infantry School as to make it next to impossible for any of the organizations to have all of their men present for continuous training, it is really remarkable that the Regiment made the percentage that they did. Usually when an organization goes on the range, most if not all of their men on special duty are relieved, but this was not the case with the 29th as they still had to supply all of their detaills and at the same time carry on with the rifle work.

The 2nd Battalion was especially hard hit in that they had to discontinue their shooting when they were about half through on the range to attend the ten day maneuver staged here about the middle of May. But they finished firing this week with a very good record.

Competition was especially keen between the two Battalions and each was determined to best the other but as it was impossible for both to be winners one simply had to beat the other.

While the Second Battalion finally proved that they were the superior marksmen, when they made a Battalion average of 95.71 per cent., nevertheless the First Battalion were not a bunch that laid down as their average was 95.59 per cent.

There is not the slightest doubt but what if the 29th had been able to have all of their men present for continuous training they would have made still a higher record.

Call 146 Post or Mrs. Henry W. Brandhorst, 360 Post.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

On last Monday Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kneeland of Battle Creek, Michigan announced the engagement of their daughter Dorothy to Lieutenant Arthur N. Ziegler U. S. Army.

The wedding will take place next August.

A JOYOUS HOUSE PARTY.

One of the most joyous house party of the past week was the one given by Master Woodson Hocker Jr. Six guests enjoyed his hospitality from Wednesday, June 13 to Friday, June 15th. One of the features was the swimming party given at the Post Swimming Pool on the evening of the thirteenth.

MISS KENT GONE.

Miss Kent the daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Kent is spending this week in Macon, Ga., as the guest of Miss Kinnett.

COLONEL HANNAH SURPRISED!

It is with sincere regret that we must announce that Colonel Hannah violated a very important principal of Infantry Tactics when on last Friday evening he allowed himself to be surprised and captured by a party of twenty-two guests that Mrs. Hannah had invited to assist him to celebrate his birthday. However we must admit that the Colonel did not lose his head, but made an immediate and hasty "estimate of the situation" and attacked with such skill and determination that the "Enemy" was soon calling for quarters after which he invited his new friends into the dining room where Mrs. Hannah had a very tempting dinner already. The table was beautifully decorated with nasturminums, roses and other flowers.

After the delightful dinner the entire party attended the hop given by the Officers' Club at the Polo Club House.

THE DESERTED VILLAGE.

Biglerville Hall and vicinity has "Passed out" according to recent word. We understand that the jazz quartetts no longer harmonize at ten P. M. nor do the phonographs send out their mournful tones at four o'clock in the morning. In fact its so quite that the dogs won't stay there any more and this probably accounts for the fact that Calculator has been seen roaming around in Block 23. However there is one thing that does liven up Block 21 and that there is a perfume artist that is now making nightly visits to this place and leaves an aroma around that is not at all pleasing to those who must still reside there. Since Dr. Guy S. Murrah, Deputy Sheriff Murl Lamb and A. G. Reese have been able to capture one wild beast they may probably be able to catch this one. Here is hoping that they try it, not for our particular benefit but for the benefit of Block 21 and vicinity.

DEPARTURES.

Mrs. Butler left last Monday for New York. Before her departure many of her friends had her in to dinner.

Major and Mrs. M. S. Lough left for Camp Custer. The Major secured a ten days leave of absence and they are driving through in their car.

Major and Mrs. Lewis have gone North on a leave of absence. However he may have to go to Camp Custer in connection with the Summer Training there.

Mrs. W. O. Smith was called home suddenly by the illness of her father at Nashville, Tenn.

Major and Mrs. Middleton are packing up preparatory to leaving on a leave. Major Middleton will go to Fort Leavenworth this Fall to attend the school.

REACH LOS ANGELES O. K.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Kersh and family who are enroute to Hawaii via Los Angeles arrived at the latter place last week and spent their spare time taking in the sights and renewing acquaintances.

LIKES CAMP McCLELLAN.

Captain and Mrs. O. M. Moore and family who motored to Camp McClellan last week arrived there O. K. and are delighted with the place, and are looking forward to a pleasant summer among the mountains of Alabama.

COMPLIMENTING MRS. BUTLER.

On last Sunday evening Major and Mrs. Geo. Koehler were the delightful guests at an informal dinner party in honor of Mrs. Butler.

Among those present were Colonel and Mrs. Hansell, Mr. Wilson, father of Mrs. Hansell, Major and Mrs. Dinsmore and Mrs. Butler.

FOR MAJOR AND MRS. CAMPONOLE.

On last Saturday evening Major and Mrs. Camponole were delightfully entertained at an informal dinner by Colonel and Mrs. McCaskey.

MRS. ROBY'S BRIDGE.

On Thursday, June 14th, Mrs. A. A. Roby entertained at two tables of bridge.

Zinnias and other spring flowers formed the beautiful decorations.

Mrs. Geo. Goodale won the high score prize and Mrs. Lukert won the second. Mrs. Sproule drew the consolation.

Ice Cream and cake were served after the playing.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MRS. PHILIP GALLAGHER

As a farewell to her cousin, Mrs. Philip Gallagher, who is leaving soon for China, a pretty bridge party was given Friday afternoon by Mrs. Elliott Waddell at her home on 2nd Avenue.

Garden flowers placed in bowls and vases lent a bright note of color to the living-room and dining-room.

Mrs. Sam Buracker won the top-score prize, a dainty embroidered handkerchief.

Mrs. Gallagher was presented two decks of gilt-edged cards.

After the game, a frozen salad course was served.

Those present were: Mrs. Chas. Campbell, Mrs. Carter Scott Jones, Mrs. Abbott Turner, Mrs. Dudley Spain Mrs. Philip Gallagher, Miss Agnes Harrison, Mrs. Theo Golden, Mrs. Burnside Huffman, Mrs. Will McKee, Mrs. Sam Buracker, Mrs. Herbert Groover, Mrs. Robt. McNulty.

The tea guests were Mrs. Brown, of Tuscaloosa, Mrs. W. B. Slade, Mrs. Laura McNulty, Mrs. John Speed, Mrs. R. P. Spencer.

WEDDING OF MISS SIMS AND CAPT. HAMMOND.

The wedding plans of Miss Alice Sims, only daughter of Mrs. Edwin Huson Sims, to Capt. Claud Green Hammond are of more than usual interest to Columbus society.

Miss Sims is a debutante of this season and is a very charming and beautiful girl.

Capt. Hammond is a South Carolinian by birth, his home having been in Sumter, S. C. He graduated from the Citadel, Charleston, S. C.

The marriage will take place Monday evening, June 25, at Trinity Episcopal Church at seven-thirty o'clock. Rev. S. Alston Wragg will perform the ceremony.

The bridesmaids are to be Misses Mildred Daniel, Nathalie Guthrie of New Orleans, and Elizabeth Mizell.

Miss Margaret Flemister of Gainesville, Ga., will be maid of honor.

Mr. Edwin Sims, the elder brother of the bride will give her away.

Mr. Jack Hammond, of New Orleans, brother of the groom, will be his best man.

The groomsmen are to be Capt. Little, Capt. Chesser and Lieut. Honnen.

SWIMMING PARTY.

Capt. and Mrs. Chas. S. Hendrickson entertained at a swimming party and picnic supper on June 18, the occasion being Captain Hendrickson's birthday. Places were laid for 50 guests who enjoyed the novel idea of supper on the slope of the "Old Swimming Hole," at Fort Benning. Invited guests were: Col. Wm. M. Fassett, Col. M. C. Kerth, Lt.-Col. and Mrs. H. S. Hansell, Miss Susan Hensell, Mr. Wilson, Major and Mrs. Manton Mitchell, Master Carol Mitchell, Master Robert Newnan, Major and Mrs. R. B. Tobias, Major and Mrs. Fred Walker, Master Buster Walker, Master Charles Walker, Major and Mrs. Frank Green, Capt. and Mrs. J. D. Hahn, Capt. and Mrs. J. Lattin, Miss Gennette Lattin, Capt. and Mrs. John R. Sands, Miss Katherine Sands, Master John Sands, Capt. John Farnsworth, Lt. and Mrs. E. W. Peach, Mrs. Isaac Gill, Jr., Lt. and Mrs. Ranald T. Adams, Lt. and Mrs. Richard Lussier, Lt. and Mrs. Wm. A. Smith, Capt. O. W. Humphries, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kunze, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kunze, Master John Kunze, Miss Helen Hendrickson, Master Stephen Hendrickson, Capt and Mrs. C. S. Hendrickson.

MRS. FRANK GREEN'S BRIDGE SUPPER.

On Thursday evening, June 14th Mrs. Frank Green wife of Maj. Green, American Red Cross gave a delightful bridge-supper complimenting Mrs. Fred Walker and Mrs. Joheph D. Hahn who will soon be leaving.

Shasta daisies and zinnias were artistically arranged on the tables.

A most appetizing supper was served at seven o'clock after which bridge was indulged in.

Each honoree was presented a bottle of Coty's sachet.

The ladies' high-score prize, an attractive beaded hot-dish pad, was won by Mrs. Henderickson.

The gentlemen's prize, a bill-folder, was won by Capt. Hahn.

Major Walker drew the consolation and received as a result a reminder "of the good old days."

Those present were: Col. and Mrs. McCaskey, Col. and Mrs. Peyton, Major and Mrs. Walker, Major and Mrs. Koehler, Capt. and Mrs. Hahn, Capt. and Mrs. Lattin, Capt. and Mrs. Switzer, Major and Mrs. Green, Capt. and Mrs. Elkins, Capt. and Mrs. Lester, Capt. and Mrs. Dibrell, Capt. and Mrs. Campbell, Lieut. and Mrs. Brotherson, Lieut. and Mrs. Rycroft, Capt. and Mrs. Henderickson, Lieut. and Mrs. Peach, Capt. and Mrs. Brownell, Mrs. Gill, Lieut. and Mrs. Brandhorst.

24th INFANTRY BRIDGE CLUB.

The last meeting of the 24th Infantry Bridge Club was held last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. D. Daugherty.

Nasturtiums were artistically used for the decorations.

Mrs. Hannah won the high score prize and won a mahogany tray while Mrs. Wilson won the second a thermos bottle. Mrs. M. E. Jones drew the cut prize and received a set of iridescent candle sticks.

There were three tables of players present.

A delicious frozen salad and punch were served after the playing.

MISS GRAHAM TOURING.

Miss Kathleen Graham daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Graham left last Friday for Chicago where she joined Major and Mrs. E. C. Waddill and will accompany them on their auto trip to California. Major Waddill is going to his new station which is the University of California.

Miss Graham will visit Mrs. Graham's mother, Mrs. D. M. Kent, for the summer and will return to Fort Benning this Fall.

A MISTAKE.

We had this space reserved for a dinner party that we heard that Lieut. and Mrs. Buracker had. But when we called we found that we had made a mistake as Mrs. Buracker says that I had been misinformed. But as we had this space reserved we thought that we had better fill it up some way. So this is the way that we did it.

ADDRESS OF GEN. PERSHING TO THE CONFERENCE ON RELIGIOUS AND MORAL TRAINING FOR SOLDIERS

General John J. Pershing addressed the Conference on Reliigous and Moral Training for Soldiers at the National Museum, June 6th, as follows:

More than eight years ago it was my pleasure to call together the chaplains of the Eighth Brigade, then serving in the vicinity of El Paso, Texas, the purpose being "To consider ways and means through which the chaplains may co-operate in the entertainment, improvement and moral uplife of the command." That was the first Chaplains' Conference of which the War Department has record.

During the World War, the need of the services of chaplains overseas was early recognized and the numbers of chaplains for duty with troops was materially increased. Their usefulness in the maintenance of morale through religious counsel and example has now become a matter of history and can be accepted as having demonstrated, if need be, the wisdom of the religious appeal to the soldier.

As a consequence the efficiency program of the Army has taken the religious element more deeply into account, and the force of spiritual uplift has been given larger consideration. In this endeavor, the Army recalls the admonition of its first Commander-in-Chief, than whom none was ever in better position to give counsel, to "indulge with caution the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion."

While recognizing that all forms of military training have in them certain elements of moral instruction, religion contains the secret of and impetus toward clean living. Therefore a steady effort is made to put the hearts of men into right relation to God.

Soldiers readily see the difference between that effort which is religion pure and undefiled and that which merely seeks sectarian advantage. They are quick to recognize a positive and practical appeal to those in need of spiritual guidance, and they have little time or sympathy for those who indulge in unbrotherly denunciation of others who seek the same God through different forms of faith, expression and relationship.

The definite responsibility for matters of a religious and moral nature within a command develops upon the commanding officers as completely as do strictly military matters. The chaplain is a religious specialist on the staff of the commanding officer and is charged with the details of this work. He must minister, so far as practicable, to the needs of the entire personnel of the command to which he is assigned, either through his own personal services or through the co-operative effort of others. He is enjoined to enlist the active aid and co-operation of such military and civilian assistants, both lay and clerical, as the needs of the command may require.

The position of chaplain is unique. He is rightfully a commissioned officer, yet without command. On this score no question of authority brings him into rivalry with any other officer. He may be welcomed alike by general, second lieutenant or private without any seeming inconsistency of association, if only he has the power of making himself personally or socially agreeable or useful. He can be among the enlisted men in a confidential relationship, as one entirely in sympathy with them, without any thought on the part of either that he is stepping out of his sphere. In this a chaplain has a position unlike that of any other person in the Army. A position of marvelous possibilities and opportunities. It is his own fault if he does not avail himself of it and improve its advantage.

On the theory that unsupervised operatives are never effective, chaplains are now under professional supervision through the office of the chief of chaplains. They have a head to whom they may look for suggestion and stimulation in their work.

In keeping with all other branches of the military service a Chaplains' School has been established where training is given in those subjects which are not presented in any curriculum in previous schooling. It is essential to military service and adaptability that chaplains have a thorough knowledge of army customs and courtesies, army regulations, approved methods for practical work in field and garrison, equitation and topography applied to graves registration work.

Following a well considered plan of the War Department the Chief of Chaplains has made visitations to camps, posts and stations for the purpose of strengthening local programs and has held conferences with line officers, chaplains and civilians with a view to increasing interest in the spiritual life of the commands. Good results have followed:

"Add a step to your sword," was the advice of the Spartan mother whose soldier son came to her complaining that his work would not reach the enemy. In the Army we are exceedingly anxious to keep pace with that great wave of sentiment which calls for a more practical application of the fundamentals of religion to all of the affairs of men. We may not see eye to eye the details of such work but we are united on a common task.

We need expert counsellors and you are looked upon as such in your particular fields. This conference has been called with the hope and expectation that you leaders in the churches and welfare organizations will aid us in devising and carrying forward, an intensified program for the Army along moral and religious lines. A program the whole purpose of which shall be to keep soldiers true and strong and steady.

I am profoundly grateful to you gentlemen for responding to the call of the Secretary of War. From the wisdom and experience of this group there will come such suggestions as shall strengthen the cause of righteousness within the Army. With this done there must be a healthy reaction among those with whom our military personnel has contact.

May you be divinely guided as you counsel together and formulate plans for this the most important phase of the life and training of soldiers.

MENUS ARRANGED FOR R. O. T. C. ARE FIT FOR AKING

(By The Mess Officer Camp McClellan)

The messing of trainees for the Summer Camp of 1923 has been placed in the hands of Lieutenant-Colonel L. O. Mathews, Q. M. C., Camp Mess Officer, assisted by First Lieutenant P. S. Huber, Q. M. C. Lieutenant Huber is the Senior Instructor in the Cooks' and Bakers' School at Fort Benning, Georgia.

General Shanks, Corps Area Commander, in speaking of the feeding of students emphasized the importance of this department and summed up his advice to the C. M. O. by saying: "The only way to satisfy the appetites of these growing youngsters, is to fill their stomachs 'til their eyes bulge out, and then put a sweet taste in their mouths and turn them loose."

These instructions will be carried out strictly, and, while it is hoped that we will not develop an army of pot-bellied Napoleons running around camp licking their chops, it is hoped that we can keep a smile on their faces and a sweet taste in their mouths.

PROGRAM OF MILITARY TOURNAMENT

Third Corps Area, U. S. Army at Baltimore Stadium

The News is in receipt of a copy of the Third Corps Area military tournament which was held in the Baltimore Stadium recently.

The program is an elaborate 52 page affair, very attractive and a creditable publication. The advertising in the program indicates that the business men of Baltimore were heartily in sympathy with the tournament. The program contains very clear photographic cuts of President Harding, Mr. Weeks, Mr. Davis, Mr. Richie, the Governor of Maryland, General Pershing, General Hines, General Muir, and other military and civilian personages.

The program of events follows:

HINTS TO RIFLEMEN

1. Don't stay up after taps.
2. Don't smoke to excess during the target season, and refrain from drinking anything intoxicating.
3. Don't crab when you think that you have been sent to the pits too often.
4. Don't fail to keep a neat scorebook; it helps on your record.
5. Don't produce an alibi for every shot that fails to reach the bull's eye. If you pull off, or flinch, admit it, and correct it the next time.
6. Don't fail to "squeeze" the trigger.
7. Do your best—every shot.
8. Do your crabbing to yourself—show the world a smile.
9. Center your very existence about the old rifle. Talk, eat, sleep and think it.
10. Do all the hard practice you can behind the firing line. Especially practice the trigger squeeze standing and kneeling.
11. Do everything you have been instructed to do. Make every shot count. It takes position, correct aim, correct holding of the breath, and a real trigger squeeze, every shot—to make the white disk come up.
12. Do your part for the regiment by qualifying yourself.—(The Chilkoot Post.)

NEXT YEAR'S FOOTBALL TEAM.

Pesismistic followers of the great American game of football at the Infantry School put on a long face when the word "football" is mentioned and say, "Well, it's not much use to try to do anything next year because we have no material." These brethren who see nothing but the hole in the doughnut are honest in their convictions but they are not thoroughly familiar with the local football situation.

As a matter of fact the Infantry School has football material far above the average. Certain individual football stars who have been members of unit football teams during the last season furnish the nucleus for a strong aggressive team. All that is required is proper coaching and team-work, both of which are available.

Take a look at the following names of seasoned players and then try to be pessimistic, Swantic, Romploski, Donelly, Ellis, Lindsey, Parrish, Davis, Baltzell, Sharpe, Parker, Brown Lee, Smith, Daniels, Swall, and a number of others whose names do not come to mind right at present. A good football story could be written about most of these players whose qualifications are that they are not only strong individual players but they had two or more seasons of football.

They come from the Tanks, the Infantry, the Artillery, and the I. S. D. therebygiving everybody representation. No doubt there are other strong players, or prospective players, of whom we know nothing as yet but the following line-up looks good to the Sports Editor:

R. E.—Baltzell, 15th Tanks.
R. T.—Lee, 15th Tanks.
R. G.—Davis, 29th Infantry.
C.—Lindsey, 15th Tanks.
L. G.—Donnelly, 83rd Artillery.
L. T.—Ellis, I. S. D.
L. E.—Brown, 29th Infantry.
Q.—Romploski, 29th Infantry.
R. H.—Sharpe, 15th Tanks.
L. H.—Parrish, 29th Infantry.
F. B.—Swantic, 15th Tanks.
Sub.—Daniels, 29th Infantry (Back)
Sub.—Swall, 29th Infantry, (Line)
Sub.—Smith, 15th Tanks, (Tanks)
Sub.—Parker, 29th Infantry (Line)

THE LAST ONE.

It is with a mixed feeling of regret and joy that I take the old typewriter in hand for the last time as Editor of the "NEWS."

It has been a great pleasure to work with the "NEWS" and see it grow and judging from what others have said, to see it improving. The knowledge also that there will be no more night work of three and four nights a week is a great relief.

In most duties when you have completed with a certain piece of work you know it is finished and you can have satisfaction of knowing wheather you have completed a satisfactory task or not. But with the "News" you can not get that satisfaction due to the fact that you are never finished with the task. You may think that when an issue is completed that you are through but this is not the case for you will try to keep up to a certain standard and if in one issue you are able to raise the standard than this is your new goal for the succeeding issues so the result is that when you have one issue on the press you are hustling around trying to find suitable material for the next issue so it simply amounts to the fact that you are traveling around in a circle and at the same time looking for a break or an end of this circle.

To those who think that the "News" has expanded to its limit, it would not be out of place here to inform you that if present plans can be carried through, the "News" is still in its infancy. It all goes well within a very short time every infantry officer of the army will receive a copy of the "News" each week and this as at now, without cost to the reader. This looks like a large program and it is but with a little more co-operation it will be possible.

Several persons have asked why the name of the "News" has recently been changed. The preceding paragraph will probably explain to you the reason for it is expected that in addition to the sporting and social news of the Infantry School that these items will also be carried from other posts so that student officers here will be able to keep in touch with their previous station and also that one post will know what is going on at those stations as well as at the "Infantry School."

However the duties of the editor can be greatly lighted if the readers would give just a little help. Contrary to general belief, the duties of the edito rare in addition to his other duties and so it is absolutely impossible for the editor to scout around the Post and pick up all of the news of interest so if the readers would call the editor and give a little of this "dope" the "News" would materially improve.

So in closing let me again ask that the readers give the editor your full support and help him wherever you can, and also that it is the advertisers of the "News" that make this paper possible and they only, from the financial point of view for if we did not have the advertisers the "News" would have to discontinue so you can help materially by buying only from our advertisers.

It would not be amiss here to extend my heartiest thanks to Captain Kraul and Private P. C. Wright, 24th Infantry for the continuous flow of cartoons and drawing that they have submitted, also to Lieutenant Hess, Lieutenant Bryne and Colonel Norton for the drawings that they submitted. They have all been appreciated and if there are any other persons who have the ability to draw lets see some of your work.

Sincerely hoping that the New Editor Lieut. John W. Elkins, can carry out his present program of the "News" and hoping that the "News" will be permanent institution of the "Infantry School" I leave it with the feeling that the "News" is accomplishing what it started out to do and sincerely hope for the future success and well being of the "News" and also that my successor who was also my predecessor and incidently the originator and founder of the "News" will carry on with a deep interest.

We note that progress is being made on the hard-surfacing of the Columbus-Cussetta road. However the Fort Benning-Columbus road hasn't improved with use.

"THE CROSSED CANNONS"

This week we received "The Crossed Cannon" a "nifty" get up of the Coast Artillery School at Fort Monroe, Va. They are very liberal in the use of cuts and the paper carries a goodly amount of advertising and in additions good selections in reading matter. Also we note that this is not a new paper as it is now in its third volume and has gone twenty-five issues toward the fourth.

CAMP McCLELLAN MESSENGER MAKES APPEARANCE

The "News" is in receipt of "The Camp McClellan Messenger" the first issue of which was distributed on June 14.

The paper is newsy, the editorials are well prepared, the printing is good and last—but by far not the least factor to be considered, the "Messenger" carries a godly supply of advertising.

"The Messenger" is distributed free to all components of the Army of the United States on duty or undergoing training at Camp McClellan as well as all R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. trainees.

The Messenger's a creditable Service paper and, besides welcoming the paper to the fold, the "News" tenders congratulations to the "Messenger" on the things contained in the paper which go to make up a good newspaper.

Kajolery Kolyum

The "News" realizes that a large number of officers who have been ordered away desire to sell their cars. The "News" is interested in seeing officers get as good a price as possible for their cars.

CALCULATOR AND THE GREAT DANE.

The little Calculator looked up with a crooked snarl, temporarily forgetting his weeks salary of commissary beef, and growled, "Dane, I am tired of this diet of mine. If it doesn't improve the News can get some one else to talk. Tough meat. The more I eat the tougher I get." The Great Dane smiled a benevolent smile. (All really great folks smile benevolent smiles.) "Poor little Calculator" he said "With all your wisdom tell me, do you know what a real tough individual is?" The wise one made another hopeless effort with his meat and replied, "Sure I do." The Billeting officer is a tough one, for if you haven't enough rank to hold the place you are living in he will sure help you out." The Dane gulped in sympathy and opined "That isn't a tough individual, that's only tough luck and a most venerable custom of the service. However, I know a really tough man, a doctor, who always sprinkles quinine on his grape fruit instead of sugar. Even then he sometimes complains that it is too sweet for him." "Gee, that guy sure is tough. He don't skip it none. But what can you expect of a doctor? I bit one once, my lower jaw skidded and I have had trouble with my commissary meat ever since" and the Wise One worked on.

AUTOMOBILES.

The Jist o' Life
(Pearl Lillian Truman.)

Poor Pat.

Pat after having been in the trenches was wounded and returned home. One day he met Mike who accosted him cheerfully, "Well, Pat, I see you're back from the front." Pat replied: "Begorra, I know 'twas thin I was, but I didn't know I was that thin."

So What's The Use?

You may urge me to buy a nice comb
And tell me to take it right home
But what good would it do?
For it's perfectly true,
That I haven't a hair on my domb!

Grand Larceny.

He—If I stole a kiss, would it be petty larceny?

She—No, I think it would be grand.

And Terrafic.

Teacher—How many kinds of poetry are there?

Pupil—Three.

Teacher—What are they?

Pupil—Lyric, dramatic and epidemic.

Some Singer.

Valerie's mamma was trilling a tra la la in imitation of Tetrazzini and Valerie remembered "The Echo" as sung by the famous song bird, but she inquired, "Mamma isn't that one of Hygiene's songs?

Some Judging.

A giant Scotchman was quarreling with an Englishman of small stature over the man standard in the two countries and the Scotchman looking down somewhat contemptuously from his superior height said, "England never produced such men as Scotland has." The Englishman replied, "You, Scotch, judge a man from his chin down. We English, judge a man from his chin up."

Teacher—What is the meaning of false doctrine?

Johnny—That's when the doctor gives the wrong stuff to people who are sick.

Broke Both Ways.

"Well," said a saloon keeper to an old friend, "I see you've been up to the Tabernacle and given the Evangelist your last nickel, now you'll have to walk home.

"Yes," replied the man, with a satisfied air, "and many a time I have given you my last nickel and couldn't walk home."

A Good Excuse.

Clergyman—Do you mean to say that your wife goes to church every Sunday without you?

Stray Sheep—It isn't my fault. I can't persuade her to stay at home.

Passing The Buck.

Lady of the House—Didn't I tell you never to come here again?

Tramp—I beg pardon, madam, it's the fault of my secretary. I told him to strike your name from my visiting list.

Oh You Hypocrits.

Billy Sunday says: Going to church doesn't make a man a Christian any more than going into a garage makes him an automobile.

It Depends.

Lady of the House—I don't mind giving you a meal, but I shall require a return.

Hobo—Well, mum, if I like your cookin' I'll return as often as you want.

"THIS, TOO, SHALL PASS AWAY."

A mighty monarch in the days of old
Made offer of high honor, wealth and gold,
To one who would produce in form concise,
A motto for his guidance, terse yet wise—
A precept soothing in his hours forlorn,
Yet one that in his prosperous days would warn,
Many the maxims sent the King, men say;
The one he chose—"This, too, shall pass away."
Oh, jewel sentence from the mine of truth!
What riches it contains from age and youth!
No stately epic, measured and sublime.
So comforts or counsels for all time
As these few words. Go write them on your heart,
And make them of your daily life a part.
Has some misfortune fallen to your lot?
"This, too, shall pass away," absorb the thought
And wait, your waiting will not be in vain,
Time guilds with gold,
The iron links of pain.
The dark today, leads into light tomorrow;
There is no endless joy, no endless sorrow,
Are you upon earth's heights, no cloud in view,
Go read your motto once again, "This too,
Shall pass away." Fame, glory, peace and power,
They are but little baubles of the hour,
Flung by the ruthless years down in the dust.
Take warning, and be worthy of God's trust.
Use well your prowess while it lasts; leave bloom,
Not blight, to mark your footprints to the tomb,
The truest greatness lies in being kind
The truest wisdom in a happy mind.
He who desponds, his Maker's judgment mocks;
The gloomy Christian is a paradox,
Only the sunny soul respects its God;
Since life is short, we need to make it broad;
Since life is brief, we need to make it bright;
Then keep the old king's motto well in sight,
And let its meaning permeate each day,
Whatever comes, "This, too, shall pass away."

ANNOUNCEMENT

In the near future we will have about one-half of a column entitled: "What Not to do in Etiquete" in each issue.

JUST INFORMATION.

Recent dispatches advise that the residents of Fort Benning have an opportunity to buy at reduced prices such things as fresh eggs, for eating or hatching, two pound milk fed friers, baby chicks, flowers, fresh butter, fig preserves, and other things desirable and necessary for the table and yard.

These articles are for sale at Clover Heights, Waverly Hall, and as this community is within automobile driving distance of Fort Benning the people here might find it worth while to take the trip some Sunday.

29th Infantry News Notes

Company "F"

1. What was the matter at 500 yards rapid fire, Gerty? Did the nasty old sweat get in your eyes? Where was your "Talc?" Why didn't you throw rocks at the target you would have made more than 8 points. You should be transferred to the Russian Navy.

2. Sid expects to have his "Will-It-Run, ready in a few more days, I know the Buss will not get to town ahead of us now, will it "erb?.

3. What is the attraction in town Patsy? Why don't you marry the girl and save all the extra expense?

4. The chow hounds of F. Co., did not eat any dinner on Thursday, saving space for the big feed at the banquet, when it comes to putting the feed-bag on, we're there.

5. Are you trying to see how much oil you can spread over your self Wayne? Why not save some of it and use it on your "Flintlock"?

6. I wonder whether the management of the 29th Inf. Theatre knows their is such a thing as artificial AIR, which comes in the shape of FANS, wouldn't be a bad idea to try a few some night.

Headquarters Co., 2nd Bn.

Here it is at least a month since we last appeared on this printed page, and as yet, nobody has squeaked about it. We'd been expecting a growl or two, and a notice to snap out of it so you can't blame us for wondering if somebody isn't just grateful for our absence or whether it is our busy career since we ventured forth into the late war that has excused our non-presence.

Well, we have been busy and now have recovered from the effects of that novel experience.

Though our rcord on the rifle range this year is well worth publishing, we didn't do as well as was expected—(one man did not qualify) and it would take too much space to give the list of qualifications. The name of the Company Reporter heads the list for record scores made—if you read said list backwards.

To narrate and describe all the elements that helped to produce our busy-ness of dizzi-ness would entail almost enough work to revert us back to the state through which we have just passed. At any rate, let us ask a few of the survivors their opinions.

Corporal Hopkinson says that neither his hands nor his nerves had any rest during the battle against "chiggers," and ants. His nightly prayer (he'd remembered that there was such a thing in time of need) began—"Now I lay me down to scratch."

Corporal Weiss adds that this is his last summer in the land of prickly heat.

By the number of applications for furlough put in recently it seems that everybody is in need of a rest after such harrowing annoyances as windage, elevation, and stray dogs and goats obstructing the sights.

Our deposits this pay day were as large as before—2nd place on the list—which proves that we are still on the job in that respect.

THE MARNE MIRACLE.

The Marne Miracle, by Col. William K. Naylor, U. S. Army, Washington. The U. S. Infantry Association. Cloth, 12 Mo., 190 Pages. Price $1.50.

Col. William K. Naylor, the author of The Marne Miracle, is now Assistant Chief of Staff G-2 (Military Information), U. S. Army, and recognized as the foremost military strategist and student of Military History and its application to the principles of war.

During the war Col. Naylor served as Chief of Staff of a Division (33 National Guard Division from Illinois) and Chief of Staff of the 9th Army Corps. His present detail in the War Department is as one of the assistants to General Pershing.

Col. Naylor has made a most exhaustive study of the Marne Campaign of 1914, having at his disposal a mass of source records and from them has traced out the movements and operations of every unit of the contending forces engaged in the great campaign.

In every great military campaign there are points of controversy, The Marne Campaign was no exception to the rule. Col. Naylor discredits some popular legends; brings many mooted points to the light of day and clears up a number of disputes. Here are some of the points that are discussed in the book and the answers supplied:

1. Why do the French call the Battle of the Marne a miracle? Why do the Germans refer to it as a tragedy?
2. Was Germany in all her boasted military efficiency, prepared for the World War? Wherein was she unprepared?
3. What was the German plan of Campaign? Was it that proposed by Von Schlieffen? Was it Von Moltke's? Was it a combination of the two?
4. What were France's plans for the war with Germany? Were they offensive or defensive at the outset?
5. Did the stand made by the Belgians at Liege save France?
6. Did Germany rush over defenseless Belgium in overwhelming numbers? Who were the stronger, the Germans or the Allies at this time?
7. What prevented the Battles of Mons and Charleroi from being complete German triumphs?
8. Were the British wiped out at Le Cateau? Did they stop Von Kluck?
9. Was Von Kluck responsible for the loss of the Battle of the Marne?
10. Why did the Germans fall back? Who is responsible for the order to retreat? Was it Foch's attack at Fere Champenoise?
11. Who was Von Hentsch? What part did he play in the orders for the German retreat?
12. Why did Germany lose?

All of these questions are discussed in a most interesting manner and the conclusions and answers supplied.

This wonderful book and many other you can get from the Infantry Association. Also they have a complete engraving plant that is a "humdinger" so you can send them your plate and get a first class job at a very reasonable price and also they will keep your plate on file there so that you don't have to worry about losing it or getting it scratched up.

The Infantry Association helps you so you help the Infantry Association.

"Why did'nt you slow up when I put my hand out?" asked the girl angrily as the young man attempted to apologize for running into the rear of her car.

"I didn't see your hand," replied the young man, meekly.

"If I had stuck my foot out you would have seen it," replied the girl.

Company "A" 24th Inf.

Company "A" is still holding a beacon light for all companies of her size. So far we have qualified three experts, four sharpshooters and one marksman with the rifle, and by the end of the target season we don't expect to have a man unqualified. If there is one who is unqualified left among us the raking up the back he is going to get from the boys will serve to make him qualify next target season

Cpl. Jackson, when a friend dies you can go to his funeral if you want to, send flowers if you so desire, but when you shoot on another man's target, how are the emotions expressed. You would have been a sharpshooter today had you not shot on target two instead of target three. You gave as your alibi that the weeds in front of target three kept you from seeing the lower part of the figure. But alibies of that kind don't go for record. I really think though you wanted to be charitable, but this is one time that charity caused you to be minus of the coveted SS after your name. Jack, charity commences at home. Never give away that which you need for yourself. The four points you threw away would have made your pay a dollar more, so take care next time and look where you shoot.

Service Co. 24th Infantry

The company is still working hard on the range for that 100 per cent qualifications. All the men who have completed the record firing have, so far, "bought home the bacon." From all indications by those now firing their preliminary course they will also deliver the goods. Lets go service company and show the rest of the post that a Service Company can shoot, as well as skin mules, do paper work, and put out better music than anyone else in camp.

"Flashlight" Boyd our company clerk with pugilistic asperations annexed another title Friday evening the 15th by knocking out Young George Dixon, the feather champion of the south. Great credit is due Boyd for winning this fight; first, because Dixon is a fighter of the first water, a hard hitter and a fighter with a lot of backing and at the time of the fight was in the very best of condition; second, because Boyd is little knon as a fighter in these parts except by members of the 24th Infantry and does not have or did not have, on the day of the fight, the support of the followers of the sport seen in the squared circle with the exception of those few who have seen him in action in the southwest, and further Boyd went into this fight after a month of illness and consequently was in no sort of condition to put out the brand of fighting he usually renders to the spectators. Boyd went well for the first two rounds and was then taken ill with the cramps. He kept his misery well to himself for if Dixon had only suspicioned that he was sick he could have Koyoed Boyd in the third round but Dixon remembered the first two rounds too well to try and get real rough with the dancing bunch of arms and legs. Between each round until the fifth Boyd vomited a bit but Vontress, his manager, managed to keep this fact hidden from the opposite corner and Boyd hung on with nothing else but plain nerve commonly called guts. In the fifth round Boyd again regained some of his strength and went after his man like a wild cat. Dixon was a bit surprised by this sudden show of speed for Boyd had not been so rough with him for the second two rounds and he had evidently decided to take his time and let Boyd kiss the canvas a little later in the game, thereby giving the spectators their moneys worth in fighting and not in early knockouts. But not so with Boyd for just before the gong rang for the sixth round Boyd was seen to brace himself and those who knew him realized what was coming. The gong rang, as quick as a flash (his nick-name being Flashlight) Boyd was up and into the enemy's corner, two light punches to the jaw sent Dixon's head back, just a little, but enough for Boyd's purpose. The entire house saw these two punches but no one saw the blow that sent Dixon to slumberland. It was too fast for the eye to follow, even Dixon does not know how it was done, he admits it. Anyway, Dixon slept thru ten full counts and then some, Dixon received quite a shock as well as a surprise and the bunch of spectators with most of the money on Dixon were even more surprised than their favorite. The south had a new colored Feather Weight Champion, and Boyd gained a large circle of followers from the boxing fans.

The music rendered by the band and drum and bugle corps in Atlanta a couple of weeks ago is being well remembered by that city. They have been asked to go and play a return engagement—one concert being asked for by First Congregationalist Church. It has not been deifnitely decided yet whether or not the band will go, but when it is taken up officially it is hoped that the trip will be looked upon with favor by those in authority. Columbus also appreciates good music when it hears it, for the band was asked to play a concert on the commons for the benefit of the playgrounds for colored children on Sunday, June 17th. The Community Singers, headed by Dr. Taylor, are making every effort to raise funds for fencing off these playgrounds and we sincerely hope that they complete their task in the next few days.

The son of 1st Sergt. Miller, who has been attending school at Tuskegee, Ala. has returned to school for the summer course after finishing the Spring term at the head of his class with an average of 98 per cent. for the year.

The nephew of Sergt. Majors, our band leader, is spending the summer here after successfully completing the Sophomore class in the colored university of Topeka, Kans. He expects to return to Topeka in September.

Privates 1st Class Ruffin and Wade who were discharged the past week have decide dto stay in a good outfit and have signed up for another three year stretch.

Private 1st Class Ben Glover has filed an application with the adjutant General of the Army for the examination for appointment to grade of Warrant Officer, (Band Leader). He is considered the best musician in the company and the entire company hopes that he will be successful.

QUARTERMASTERS CELEBRATE 148TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BIRTH OF THE QUARTERMASTER CORPS.

In celebration of the event that took place in Carpenter's Hall, Philadelphia, June 16, 1775, the day that the Continental Congress enacted legislation creating "The Military Stores Department" which has become the Quartermaster Corps of today, the Quartermaster Association of Fort Benning celebrated this 148th Anniversary at the Big Eddy Club, Columbus.

The officers of the association Lt. Col. Wm. O. Smith, president, Major J. Paul Jones, vice-president and Lt. J. W. Huntress, secretary prepared an interesting program.

Col. Smith presided and after giving a talk on the achievements of the Quartermaster Corps and its accomplishments during the World War, called upon Mr. Lighton MacPherson, who introduced the toastmaster, Mr. William Hart.

Among the speakers of the evening were Mr. Rhodes Brown, Mr. L. M. Houser, Mr. R. H. Barnes, Mr. W. B. Beach, Mr. Frank U. Garrard, Capt. Gralund, and Capt. Porter.

Greetings were exchanged with chapters in all parts of the world and interesting telegrams were read from associations, also celebrating in Paris, San Francisco, New York and many other cities throughout the world.

The Quartermaster General William H. Hart sent an interesting message on the history of the Corps.

A fine chicken dinner and catfish fry with fresh fish from the Chattahoochee was prepared under the direction of Lt. Guth by four Army cooks. The dinner will be long remembered for it was the most successful one ever held by the local chapter.

There were sixty present.

About half of those present are either members of the Quartermaster Corps Reserves or citizens interested in scientific problems incident to war mobilization pertaining to the Quartermaster Corps; the remainder were Quartermaster Corps Officers or officers who were in during the war.

Births

Born to Lieutenant and Mrs. Harry W. French on Thursday morning June 14, the first lady president of these United States of North America.

When Miss Priscella Jane French was interviewed she said that she hadn't been fed since she had arrived at this Post and that while she was hungry nevertheless she thought that she would like this part of the country fine provided that a few good roads could be encountered.

However she absolutely refused to answer any question regarding prohibition, showing that she will be cautious and will not make rash statements. In fact she was so retiring that it was with difficulty that we were not able to get much information and those questions that she did answer, she answered only after giving each subject due consideration but after she had decided she answered with a decisiveness that left no doubt in our mind just what she meant.

NO CHANGE IN THE UNIFORM

The Army and Navy Register of last week states that The Chief of Staff of the Army decided last week that no change of the uniform will take place for " at least two years."

The Secretary of War left the final findings entirely with General Pershing.

The following communication from the Adjutant General of the Army is reproduced from the Army and Navy Register:

1. After careful consideration of suggested changes in the uniform, it has been decided that no change will be made for the present, nor for at least two years. The following are some of the principal reasons why this decision was made:

(a) The necessity for economy in Government expenditures renders it impracticable to alter the large stock of uniforms now on hand or to supply additional articles, such as shirts, collars, and ties, that would be necessary to wear with roll-collar coat or to provide a dress uniform.

(b) The authorization of a roll-collar coat for dress wear, while at the same time utilizing the present stock of olive-drab uniforms for wear on duty, would result in an additional uniform. This would not serve the purpose of a dress uniform and would therefore merely create an additional uniform.

(c) The additional cost to the commissioned officers would constitute a real hardship in many cases, especially during this period of high prices, not only to officers of the Regular Army, but also to officers of the National Guard and reserve officers.

(d) There is no overwhelming sentiment existing at present for any change in the uniform.

2. The wearing of civilian evening dress—that is, full dress or Tuxedo at posts, camps, and garrisons—is authorized.

BULLET-PROOF PROPHET AND 52 MOROS ARE KILLED

Akbara, "bullet-proof" prophet of the Moros, and 52 of his followers were killed in a battle with the Filipino constabulary on the Island of Pata, hotbed of Mohammedan uprisings, according to a telegram received by General Leonard Wood. Thirty of the fanatical Moros were also killed in a battle May 19. The death of Akbara is expected to end religious uprisings which have menanced the islands for three years.

QUARTERMASTER CORPS DETACHMENT

Celebrated June 16, 1923.

The Quartermaster Corps Detachment celebrated the 148th anniversary of the Quartermaster Corps at a special holiday dinner given at the detachment mess hall.

It was a real chicken dinner with all the fixings.

The married men and their wives were present and the occasion was a delightful one for all.

A few speeches were delivered and the Quartermaster General's message was read.

Their Commanding Officer, Capt. T. C. Knight was with them for the last time, as he has been transferred to Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburg, Pa. Mrs. Knight was presented with a silver fruit bowl. Chaplain Lennan delivered the presentation speech.

I. S. D. TEAM WINS NINTH STRAIGHT

Defeats Artillerymen 17 to 4. Only Three Hits Garnered From I. S. D. Twirlers—Seventeen Hits for the Winners.

By SGT. J. M. WHEELER

In an old fashioned slugging match, which was mostly on the I. S. D.'s part, the Infantry School Detachment Wednesday won its ninth straight game of the season by the one-sided score of 17 to 4 from the Artillery. Bennett worked in the box for six innings and let the Artillery down with one measly roller that should have been fielded but for a bad hop.

The diminutive twirler had the boys from the 83rd eating out of his hands and would have scored a shutout for six innings, but for erratic fielding on the part of his team mates. Duff, the old veteran, took up the burden in the seventh and the opposition got to him for three runs, through his inability to locate the plate and an error or two. He retired in favor of McNutt in the ninth. This was the Old Man's first workout since the accident while on maneuvers and it won't be long until he is ready to go the route.

Hodges and Shephard were the hitting stars, with Hodges having the edge, he garnering five out of five while Shepard got three out of six. Next Saturday the I. S. D. will tackle the fast Jordan City bunch at Jordan City. The game was rained out last Saturday, but with clear skies this week, the fans of Columbus and Benning are assured of some real baseball with McNutt on the firing line for the soldiers and Monte Moore throwing them for the boys from the North End.

24th INFANTRY STAGE GOOD BOUTS.

The Boxing bouts staged by the 24th Infantry Athletic Club on last Friday night were the best ever held at this Post.

We quote the following from the Columbus Ledger:

"One clean knockout, one technical kayo, a decision and a draw featured a fistic card of thirty-five rounds staged Friday night before a well filled house at the post gymnasium at Fort Benning. The card was a mixed affair with two white and two negro bouts.

The main attraction of the evening was a scheduled 15 round go between Young George Dixon, Savannah, and Flashlight Boyd of the 24th Infantry. Both are negro leather-pushers. Dixon was extremely fast and was going fine, having carried every previous round, until the eighth round, when Boyd landed a right on the chin and dropped the Savannah black like a load of salt.

The knockout was clean. Boyd appeared to have the best punch of his career Friday night. He was about up to standard of the black from the seaport city and many fans believe it was nothing but luck that enabled him to land so solidly. There was no argument about the blow. It was clean and landed on what is known in fistic parlance as "the button."

Boots Antley, of Columbus, and Al DeRose, featherweight champion of the fourth army corps area were the boys seen in action in the semi-finale. The contest was about even all through and the judges called the mill a draw. There were some, however, who thought Antley had the better of the soldier and should have been given the decision. Antley showed much improvement over his other recent contests and deserves better support, and higher class matches than he has received in the past.

Red Keenan and Kid Brown played around with each other in the second preliminary card, but Red proved the aggressor and was given the decision. The curtain raiser was a go between two black boys and young Brickeley forced Kid Crawley to quit at the end of the third. Brickeley was given a technical knockout."

THE INFANTRY TEAM

week will be used in form training, targeting in and completing the organization.

The famous characters of the team of 1922 are back, the champion off-hand shot, O'Omohundro, the alibi artist, Ted Wessels, the Jazz King, Hinds and the best fisherman of the team, Andrews are all in their glory keeping up the usual line that keeps the team in the best of spirits. Tom Watson is busy arranging for baseball, the horseshoe throwers are in evidence, champions being accalimed daily and as the fishing is excellent, some good results in that line is being exhibited daily.

Weekly letters from the team will be published by the News, thereby furnishing those at the Infantry School that are interested, the latest about what the team is doing. A roster showing name and organization of the candidates will be published in the coming weeks' issue.

TANKS DEFEAT ARTILLERY IN DOUBLEHEADER

Score 9 to 1 Both Contests. Baltzell Twirls One Hit Game—Running Catch by Morey a Feature.

By SGT. J. M. WHEELER.

The Tank Corps easily defeated the Artillery Sunday afternoon in two listless games by the same score of 9 to 1. The first game went the route while the second game was called at the end of the fifth to give the players a chance to get a bite to eat.

Swantic, who smashed out two home runs in the first game and Grantham, who connected with three out of four, were the hitting stars while Dennis' beautiful running catch of Morey's line drive in the 8th inning were the features of the first game.

Baltzell was the outstanding star in the second setto, letting down the Artillery with one bingle and whiffing six. An odd feature of the second game was that Smith, the receiver and Swantic, the first baseman of the Tanks accounted for all fifteen of the putouts.

The Artillery club is somewhat weakened by the absence of two of its stellar players, Samolvich and McGuff, the battery, and when these two men return, the club will be greatly strengthened.

2nd CORPS AREA ACTIVE HOLD CORPS AREA CHAMPIONSHIP MEET

Reports covering the Second Corps Area's recent track and field championships held at Pershing Field, Jersey City, have been received and, judging from the list of entries in the numerous events, the meet was a very elaborate affair.

The first event of the occasion was a big military arade of which Brigadier General Frederick Gilkyson, Adjutant General of New Jersey, was the Grand Marshal. The Chief of Staff was Col. William J. Glasgow, General

THE FLAG

"Under it rode Washington and his armies; before it Burgoyne laid down his arms. It waved on the highlands at West Point; it floated over old Fort Montgomery. When Arnold would have surrendered these valuable fortresses and precious legacies, his night was turned into day, and his treachery was driven away by the beams of light from this starry banner. It cheered our army, driven from New York, in their solitary pilgrimage through New Jersey. It streamed in light over Valley Forge and Morristown. It crossed the waters rolling with ice at Trenton; and when its stars gleamed in the cold morning with victory, a new day of hope dawned on the despondency of the nation. And when, at length, the long years of war were drawing to a close, underneath the folds of this immortal banner sat Washington while Yorktown surrendered its hosts and our Revolutionary struggles ended with victory."

"Let us, then, twine each thread of the glorious tissue of our country's flag about our heartstrings; and looking upon our homes and catching the spirit that breathes upon us from the battle-fields of our fathers, let us resolve, come weal or woe, we will, in life and in death, now and forever, stand by the Stars and Stripes. They have been unfurled from the snows of Canada to the plains of New Orleans, in the halls of the Montezumas and amid the solitude of every sea; and everywhere, as the luminous symbol of resistless and beneficient power, they have led the brave to victory and to glory. They have floated over our cradles; let it be our prayer and our struggle that they shall float over our grave."—The Rifleman.

ASSIGNMENT OF OFFICERS QUARTERS

Some May Have To Move

or the benefit of incoming student officers and the permanent personnel the following is what is going to happen with regard to quarters next year. Number of student officers to live on the Post, 30. Grade of student officers, Field. Promotion number of lowest student officer entitled to quarters 809.

These officers will be assigned quarters in Blocks 19 and 23. The News has not worked out the problem of the number of quarters in Block 19 which will be filled nor the number of sets of quarters required for the overflow in Block 23. Quarters will be assigned both student officers and permanent personnel by rank. In other words the thirty field officers who will live on the post will be assigned quarters in Block 19 and Block 23 according to rank. Quarters in the same block, however, are to be considered as equally desirable.

In case of "ranking out" by a senior only the junior officer in the block can be ranked. This means that he can go to another block and rank the junior out there. An unusual amount of reference to the Army directory is exected in this connection.

There are now on the Post 242 sets of quarters with 36 sets, of brick, now under construction. The new brick quarters will considerably relieve the congestion when completed and will add materially to the general appearance of the garrison. Student appearance of the garrison.

Student officers will not find the situation entirely desirable. It is an inconvenience to live in the city and have to drive about nine miles over a very

WONDERFUL SHOOTING RECORD

34th Infantry Ends Brilliant Marksmanship Season.

Regiment Averages 97.07 per cent. 5 Companies Make 100 per cent.

The 34th Infantry now stationed at Camp Meade, Md., for the summer training camp has just completed their target season making the remarkable average of 97.07 per cent. for the entire regiment. Five out of the eight companies firing made a perfect record of 100 per cent. qualification.

This record is considered excellent by the Regimental Commander, Colonel H. S. Wagner, due to the various difficulties met with during the preliminary season. Fatigue calls made upon the Regiment during the early Spring months were so heavy that it was practically an impossibility to get more than two or three squads per company out to drill. At least once a week for each Battalion, due to guard and fatigue, there were as few as twenty or thirty men available for drill from the entire battalion! For these reasons the Battalion and Company Commanders are to be heartily congratulated for the percentage made.

The First Battalion commanded by Major C. S. Little and the Second Battalion commanded by Major J. W. F. Allen each qualified 98.6 per cent. Two companies in each battalion each qualified a 100 per cent. In the First Battalion Company A, commanded by Captain L. C. Wheat, and Company B, comamnded by Captain W. H. McCutcheon, Jr., each made 100 per cent. In the Second Battalion, Company E commanded by Captain Alfred Millard (now Regimental Adjutant) and Company G, commanded by Captain E. H. Malone, each made 100 per cent. Headquarters Company commanded

INFANTRY TEAM GOING STRONG

Special Reports Just Received

The personnel of the Infantry Rifle Team is now complete down to and including the mascot "Wooz." The daily routine training has been started and with the squad turning out each morning at 6:30 for physical drill and ending the afternoon conference at 4 the day is well taken up. The material for the 1923 squad is excellent, the new men are showing up splendidly, the spirits of the entire team is fine and taking everything together, every indication points to a fine period of training and a hard fought competition.

The daily firing at present includes standing offhand 10 shots a score at rapid fire, either 200 or 300 yards and twenty shots at 1000. The new regulations regarding firing offhand without the use of the sling and the firing rapid fire at 200 and 300 yards at the "A" target have been poor road twice a day, or else ride the "Seminole Limited" between Columbus and Fort Benning. However, the people who lived here three years ago had to put up with much worse and the course at the Infantry School is worth the trouble. Lack of money prevents the construction of a sufficient number of officer's quarters at present but in time these will be built. With the exception of a few rainy weeks the climate is good and, after all, a fellow can put up with a great deal if it is only for a short time. The course lasts but eight months and housing conditions with the officers' regiment will then be apreciated. Just as you now laugh at the machine gunner who made you "dust it" overseas—although it was no cause for amusement then—there will be many things to laugh over when the course is a thing of completion. Anyhow, the first hundred years are the hardest.

INFANTRY TEAM IS GOING STRONG

introduced and while at first some had little difficulty in getting started, the scores now being turned in differ slightly from those of the old positions and targets.

A baseball league has been started composed of three teams, the Giants, Manager Capt. Tom Watson; the Tigers, manager John Schwab and the Bisons, Manager F. J. Pearson, The schedule calls for each team to play the other five games and up to the present each team stands with one won and one lost. The fishermen are in their glory, reports of strings of 200 perch and herring are made but the puzzling thing is where they go to after being caught. Prominent among the fishermen are Rothrock, Spann, Privett, Ransom, Schwab, and Broderick. The team is going to make a sightseeing trip next Saturday in a body to visit the big Hydro-Electric Plant a Niagara Falls, and on the following Saturdays will take in other large industrial plants in the vicinity. Candidates from the Infantry School are showing up fine, in the total for the day's firing on Tuesday, eleven out of the first twenty are men from Benning and all in fact are shooting well above the average.

The weather is quite hot and many pounds are being lost as the result but those from Benning are standing the weather conditions in fine shape as they are use to the heat. The Infantry School News is being received and read with great interest by the team and the recent cartoon of the departure of the Infantry Rifle Team, the driver being Major Per Ramee, the Team Captain, caused many laughs. This looks like an Infantry Year and this paper will endeavor to give the latest dope right from team headquarters where we have our special correspondent.

The team roster is as follows:

SECOND BATTALION, 29th INFANTRY, GIVES SMOKER

On Thursday of last week the Second Battalion, Major Alfred E. Sawkins, commanding, gave a smoker in the Post Gymnasium.

The evening was full of entertainment of various forms chief of which were boxing bouts and vaudeville. Impromptu vaudeville was furnished by members of the battalion while a colored vaudeville troupe of four people helped to round out the evening.

There were plenty of smokes and plenty of edibles. Firm Roberts, of Columbus, was the caterer for the occasion.

The smoker was given complimentary to Major Sawkins who has been ordered away.

29TH INFANTRY GIVES FAREWELL PARTY

One of the most attractive parties of the season was given last Friday evening by the officers and ladies of the 29th Infantry in honor of Col. and Mrs. Goodale who are leaving that regiment.

The party consisted of a dinner followed by a dance. The dinner was given by the bachelor officers of the regiment to the married officers and was a complete success. The dance was given by all the 29th Infantry officers.

The polo club house, which was the scene of festivities, was attractively decorated in greens and blue and white streamers, the Infantry colors. The 29th Infantry colors, accompanied by the color guard, were present. Music was furnished by the regimental band of the 29th Infantry.

After the dinner a large quantity of paper hats, confetti and streamers were distributed and from then on the lace was the scene of merriment.

Among the guests resent, beside Col. and Mrs. Goodale, were General Gordan and Col. Kerth, the latter being now assigned to the 29th Infantry.

On last Wednesday afternoon Mrs. R. T. Arnest and Mrs. D. C. Campbell entertained at bridge in honor of Mrs. A. E. Sawkins, wife of Major Sawkins who has been ordered away.

The bridge, consisting of five tables was given in the quarters of Mrs. Arnest and about twenty ladies were present.

The guest prize was a beautiful piece of silk lingerie. The first prize, a pair of Italian silk hose, was won by Mrs. Goodale, the second prize, a bottle of perfume, was won by Mrs. Inman, the consolation, a beaded mat, went to Mrs. Sproule.

After the play refreshments, a frozen salad course and punch, were served.

Among those present were: Mrs. Sawkins, Mrs. Stetler, Mrs. P. P. Green, Mrs. W. V. Carter, Mrs. McNair, Mrs. Custer, Mrs. Lukert, Mrs. Shepard, Mrs. Sproule, Mrs. Sands, Mrs. Dunphy, Mrs. Hansell, Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Goodale, Miss Critz, Mrs. Elkins, Mrs. Hoy, and Mrs. Inman.

BACK FROM ATLANTA.

Lieut. and Mrs. Charles M. Chamberlain, Jr., have just returned from a five day leave in Atlanta. The trip was made by motor. Lieut. Chamberlain is reported to have distinguished himself by the maner in which he handled his car in the Atlanta traffic.

MRS. PHILIP GREEN'S BRIDGE

A very pleasant social event of the dull season was the bridge given by Mrs. Philip P. Green at her quarters in Block 15 last week.

The quarters were very attractively decorated with nasturtiums and other garden flowers and the prizes were very attractive.

The first prize, a linen table cloth, was won by Mrs. Arnest; the second prize, a set of decorated card table numbers, was won by Mrs. Dunphy; the consolation, an attractive handmade handkerchief, was cut by Mrs. Lukert. There were several tea guests.

Among those present were Mrs. Goodale, Miss Critz, Mrs. Turner, Sr., Mrs. Reede Turner, Mrs. Lukert, Mrs. Arnest, Mrs. Dunphy, Mrs. Hansell, Mrs. J. P. Dinsmore, Mrs. Sproule, Mrs. Roby, Miss Sproule, Mrs. Tobias, Mrs. Sands, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Sawkins, Mrs. Chamberlain, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Frank Green.

GENERAL AND MRS. MALONE GRANDPARENTS

News has been received of the birth of a son to Capt. and Mrs. Orryl S. Robles. His name is Francis Paul. Mrs. Robles will be remembered as Miss Mildred Malone, daughter of General and Mrs. Paul B. Malone. Young Francis Paul arrived on June 12, 1923, and reports by wireless that he is well pleased with conditions on this terrestrail sphere.

SIMS-HAMMOND WEDDING.

On last Monday evening at Trinity Church Miss Alice Sims of Columbus was married to Capt. Claud G. Hammond, formerly of Fort Benning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. Alston Wragg, the Rector.

The church was handsomely decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers interspersed with candles in seven-branched altar candlesticks. White perennial phlex, magnolias, white hydrangeas, and asparagus ferns helped to make the decorations. The wedding marches were played by Mrs. S. Alston Wragg.

The ushers were Messrs. Madden Hatcher, Owen McNulty, Pope Cole, Elliot Sims, and Lieut. Douglas. The brides maids were Miss Mildred Daniel, Miss Natalie Guthrie, of New Orleans, and Miss Elizabeth Mizell. The groomsmen were Capt. Little, Capt. Chesser, and Lieut. Honnen, all of Fort Benning.

Mrs. Hammond is the daughter of the late Dr. Edwin H. Sims and Mrs. Sims of Columbus. The groom is a member of the South Carolina Hammonds and was originally from Sumter S. C.

Capt. and Mrs. Hammond are now away on their honeymoon which includes New York and various points in Maine and Canada. After their return they will be stationed at Kinston, Rhode Island where Capt. Hammond has been detailed as an instructor at the State College.

American Legion Notes

From American Legion News Service

An automobile caravan to the American Legion national convention in San Francisco is being formed by American Legion members of Kansas. It is the plan to have the cars congregate at four points in the State and from there proceed to a central meeting place, where the party would form for the long journey. Many legion men who do not own automobiles will combine resources and buy an inexpensive car that can be sold at a small sacrifice when the party returns from the convention.

Georgia continues to lead all other departments of the American Legion in increase over memership for last year, according to latest reports of the legion's national treasurer. With a total of 8,573 members, the Georgia department has a percentage of 1,808 in comparison with last year. Other leading states, in relative order, are Arizona, Idaho, Utah, South Carolina, New Jersey, New York, Arkansas, South Dakota and New Hampshire.

---

Eighty-five out of a possible 95 eligible veterans are members of the American Legion post at Nappanee, Ind. The post has raised money for the establishment of a city park and for the installation of playground equipment for the benefit of the community.

---

A bet made in the last days of the Argonne, was paid off in Salem, Ore., recently when Walter H. Lilley, a Sacramento, Calif., business man, formerly a sergeant in the 148th, Oregon Artillery, called on George A. White, adjutant general of Oregon and one of the founders of the American Legion.

Oregon gunners were firing on the town of Moussey when General White, then a lieutenant colonel, told them they would be through fighting within ten days. Lilley doubted it and the two wagered the best dinner in Oregon when they should return home. White won the bet.

---

Nebraska and Iowa American Legion members have proposed that press associations and newspapers be requested to omit the words, "Grover Cleveland" in carrying news of Bergoll, the draft evader, and use only his initials, "G. C."

---

Members of the metropolitan police force of New York City, who died in the World War have been commemorated by the unveiling of a bronze tablet. A special ceremony was conducted by the General Lafayette post of the American Legion, which is composed entirely of police.

Des Moines, June—More than fifty thousand Iowa veterans of the World War have received their state bonus money, totaling more than $10,000,000 according to information obtained by the American Legion. Iowa will pay her 110,000 ex-service men a bonus of 50 cents a day for each day of service with $350 as the maximum for any individual. The bonus law was written by the legislative committee of the Iowa legion.

Co. "E"

From all reports the smoker given by the Second Battalion 29th Infantry, was a big success. We had a well, balanced program, plenty of local talent with a few selections from the well known colored quartet of Columbus. Each Co. was well represented in the special selections, and every man did his share to make the smoker a big hit.

The Co. finished firing last week and although we failed to qualify one man we are still leading the Regiment in per cent qualified.

The one man that failed to qualify made a record that has not been equaled in the 29th Inf. He needed eleven on his last five shots and made five straight duces. I would like to see Sgt. Storm or Sgt. Duncan beat the "E" Co. bolo for 2's.

Cpl. Myers must be getting pointers from Dinkey on how the alley apple is used in a boxing glove. Carrasco and Tea Hound make a fine pair. Carrasco weilding the gloves and the latter telling him how.

Cpl. Bryant, just returned from a furlough in Fla., says that the gaitors are having a big year.

ATLANTA KIWANIANS GRATEFUL

Adopt Resolutions Covering Entertainment.

Of interest to the members of the 24th Infantry is the following resolutions recently adopted by the Kiwanis Club of Atlanta in connection with the part played by that regiment at the Kiwanis International Convention which was held in Atlanta:

"Greetings:

"By hearty and unanimous vote of the Kiwanis club of Atlanta, it is recognized that a very large part of the pleasure of visitors to the recent convention of Kiwanis International, held in this city, is due to the wonderfully generous and thoughtful helpfulness of a sister Kiwanis club.

"We are thus deprived of the privilege of taking all the honor to ourselves, but it brings to us the greater satisfaction that we share in the brotherhood of other splendid Kiwanis clubs, who in generous well doing, count it a joy to lend a helping hand

"Amongst the most outstanding and delightful features of the recent international convention were the splendid entertainments furnished by the colored band, the drum and bugle corps and the trained singers, all of whom added so materially to the success of Plantation night, through the courtesy of the Kiwanis club of Columbus.

"Words cannot adequately express our deep gratitude to your splendid organization, and we assure you that the Kiwanis club of Atlanta will welcome any opportunity which will enable us to give practical expression to our gratitude and esteem.

"Unanimously and enthusiastically adopted by the Kiwanis club of Atlanta, June 12, 1923.

"SHERRARD KENNEDY,
President.
"FRANK T. REYNOLDS,
"Secretary."

NEW POLO FIELD ABOUT COMPLETED

Old Field Near 24th Infantry Abandoned.

The new polo field near Block 23 on which construction began a short time ago is rapidly nearing completion and should be ready for play by the 1st of July.

Due to the fact that the 24th Infantry has had to expand its area because of additional troops being sent to the regiment from Columbus, New Mexico, it became necessary to abandon the polo field in the vicinity of that regiment's area. Considerable time and money had been put into the field by the polo association and the polo players of the post were somewhat non-plussed when they learned that the 24th Infantry would require the old polo field for drill purposes and the construction of barracks or erection of tents. An effort was at once made to find a suitable place for the construction of a new field and the area in which the new field now lies was assigned for this purpose. Developments have proven that this is far the most desirable site of any at this station for a polo field, not excepting the field near the polo club house on which a turf is being developed.

To the enlisted personnel of the post is due a great deal of the credit for getting the new field in shape so quickly. Members of the polo association who would have ordinarily had direct supervision over the work were on the range with their organizations and as a result the field was constructed, the tea house moved from the old field, and other work done entirely by the enlisted personnel. The work has been done very creditably and with the exception of installing the side boards and some rolling the field is ready for play.

The prospects for good polo at the Infantry School next year are good. There will probably be six teams on the post. It looks at this time as if the 29th Infantry team will have the "edge" on the other teams. The Blue team is in a disorganized condition due to transfer of its players to other stations. French, the Blue team's No. 2, has been assigned to the 29th Infantry thereby boosting that already strong team. Of the Artillery team but one players, Beiderlinden, remains here. The Yellow team practically disbanded before last season was over due to injuries to one player and the inability of the team as a whole to practice. But one player remains of the Blue team. However, it is being rumored that the 15th Tank Battalion will put a team in the field next year. The Artillery will no doubt gain players of experience, the 29th Infantry team will be practically intact, and the Blue team expects to be bolstered by student officers who have had considerable experience with their regiments.

THE MARNE MIRACLE.

The Marne Miracle, by Col. William K. Naylor, U. S. Army, Washington. The U. S. Infantry Association. Cloth, 12 Mo., 190 Pages. Price $1.50.

Col. William K. Naylor, the author of The Marne Miracle, is now Assistant Chief of Staff G-2 (Military Information), U. S. Army, and recognized as the foremost military strategist and student of Military History and its application to the principles of war.

During the war Col. Naylor served as Chief of Staff of a Division (33 National Guard Division from Illinois) and Chief of Staff of the 9th Army Corps. His present detail in the War Department is as one of the assistants to General Pershing.

Col. Naylor has made a most exhaustive study of the Marne Campaign of 1914, having at his disposal a mass of source records and from them has traced out the movements and operations of every unit of the contending forces engaged in the great campaign.

In every great military campaign there are points of controversy. The Marne Campaign was no exception to the rule. Col. Naylor discredits some popular legends; brings many mooted points to the light of day and clears up a number of disputes. Here are some of the points that are discussed in the book and the answers supplied:

1. Why do the French call the Battle of the Marne a miracle? Why do the Germans refer to it as a tragedy?
2. Was Germany. in all her boasted military efficiency, prepared for the World War? Wherein was she unprepared?
3. What was the German plan of Campaign? Was it that proposed by Von Schlieffen? Was it Von Moltke's? Was it a combination of the two?
4. What were France's plans for the war with Germany? Were they offensive or defensive at the outset?
5. Did the stand made by the Belgians at Liege save France?
6. Did Germany rush over defenseless Belgium in overwhelming numbers? Who were the stronger, the Germans or the Allies at this time?
7. What prevented the Battles of Mons and Charleroi from being complete German triumphs?
8. Were the British wiped out at Le Cateau? Did they stop Von Kluck?
9. Was Von Kluck responsible for the loss of the Battle of the Marne?
10. Why did the Germans fall back? Who is responsible for the order to retreat? Was it Foch's attack at Fere Champenoise?
11. Who was Von Hentsch? What part did he play in the orders for the German retreat?
12. Why did Germany lose?

All of these questions are discussed in a most interesting manner and the conclusions and answers supplied.

This wonderful book and many other you can get from the Infantry Association. Also they have a complete engraving plant that is a "humdinger" so you can send them your plate and get a first class job at a very reasonable price and also they will keep your plate on file there so that you don't have to worry about losing it or getting it scratched up.

Soldiers, Read This and Think About It

By saving and carefully investing some of your income with successful men in money-making industries, you will have very valuable holdings to your credit within the next two or three years.

You know that Mr. W. C. Durant is the leading automobile manufacturer in the world of standard part cars. He created the Buick, Chevrolet, Cadillac, General Motors. These companies paid enormous profits to original stock-holders. During the last two years he organized Durant Motors, Star Motors, whose products are already among the leaders in the automobile market, and very recently the Flint Motor Company manufacturing the "Flint Six," the latest sensation in motor cars, selling for $1195. f. o. b. Flint, Michigan.

The necessity of saving oftimes means a sacrifice of some of the alleged pleasures of life, but when the individual has actually saved a part of his income, he unconsciously develops a habit of thrift, which leads to independence.

Have you ever thought over the fact that the man who receives an income from money invested, multipiles his earning power?

Here is your chance—Remember Buick, Chevrolet, and General Motors were quickly subscribed by comparatively very few big investors —You and I had no chance in them.

Today the big manufacturers invite the little fellow into his undertaking on small monthly payments—It pays by the advertising he obtains from many thousands of stockholders.

And in the form of dividends, the manufacturers are willing to pay handsomely for this advertising.

WE ARE OFFERING YOU 5 TO 50 SHARES OF FLINT MOTOR COMPANY COMMON STOCK AT $15 PER SHARE

Payable $2 per share with subscription, then $2 per share monthly until paid in full.

NO MORE THAN 50 SHARES TO ANYONE!

No cash payments—monthly installments only.

Capital 1,000,000 shares, no par value, non-assessable

Mr. Durant is President. The plant is completed in Flint, Mich., with a capacity of 90,000 cars per year.

This should make big money in due time—Follow a successful man—Many risks are eliminated.

Infantry Regiments Take Notice.

It is with pleasure that the News prints in another column of this issue an account of the record made at rifle practice by the 34th Infantry this year.

Somebody has said that it is the small things that count. The record made by any Infantry regiment is not a small thing, provided this record is creditable, and the News is anxious to have these records, together with records of other events going on with the various Infantry regiments. An account of a social gathering or athletic event is a small thing but the other fellow likes to read it.

As the publication representing the Infantry School the News believes that every regimental commander in the Infantry is interested in the publication to the extent that he is given a line of communication with the school. The same aplies in so far as getting advanced information in connection with the activities of the Infantry Board is concerned. Such interest leads the regimental commander to read the paper, which is mailed to him each week, and the best method of putting the activities of his regiment before other regimental commanders is by using the columns of the News which are always open.

The News is distributed gratitously and consequently has no income other than that derived from its advertising. Because of this fact it is not possible for the News to pay for news stories or employ correspondents. At the Infantry School everybody who has an idea that might appeal goes to considerable trouble sometimes to get this idea into the hands of the News. A spirit of co-operation exists locally in this respect. The same spirit is requested of the Infantry regiments. A story about the regiment "telling the world" what kind of an outfit it is will be accepted. Social notes advising student officers of what is going on in the regiments are particularly desirable. Results of polo tournaments, horse shows, field meets, and other athletic events will be given space.

Everybody connected with the News is doing the work "in addition to his other duties." The News has an S. O. S. signal as big as a garrison flag hanging out of the office window. A little assistance, please, Infantrymen.

Junk the Army?

Recently a well known American business man with political ambitions was credited with making a remark appropos of using the military forces of the United States, namely, the Army and Navy, to enforce the Volstead Act. No doubt this gentleman believed that he was suggesting a practicable scheme for reducing governmental operating expenses and at the same time, to his mind, removing the temptation of having the idle brains of the military personnel of the United States become the "Devil's work-shop." A little piece of reformation, so to speak.

If the legal mission of the Army and the Navy was the enforcement of the Volstead Act this piece of legislation would be enforced and even Mr. Bryan would have no grounds for criticism regarding the "wet" condition of the country. However, such tasks are not the mission of the Army and Navy.

Most members of any city fire department have very little to do the majority of the time. Some of them have sunk so low that they have been known to do intricate pieces of embroidery and the like to pass the time away. The inhabitants of a city, however, would not only hesitate but they would forcibly oppose any city ordinance requiring firemen to operate garbage wagons or do city police work in addition to being firemen. Why? Because when a fireman is needed he is, like the Texan's gun, needed quick and needed badly.

As the fireman of a city fire department is an assurance to the people that their property and lives are being safeguarded against destruction by fire so are the military forces of the United States an assurance to the people of this country that their lives and property will be protected. And, unlike the fireman who has to knit to pass the time away, the Army and Navy is always busy in time of peace either perfecting themselves and others in the art of making this country safe from invasion or in assisting when called upon as a lost resort to uphold the majesty of the law.

The military forces of the United States believe that they should be extended the privilege of "hoeing their own row."

We are not so particular; we hear "bull" fights almost every day.

Brother Woodall in his "Good Morning" kolyum ought to be ashamed of himself for printing the fish stories he is handling—and him a good Methodist, too.

"The Infantry School News is very much of interest to this command and we appreciate your including us on your mailing list." Extract from letter.

The News, being endowed with its full share of vanity, prints the above to keep the old morale boosted.

The Infantry team seems to be having a large time up at Niagara. By the way, isn't this just across from the Canadian border? Some of the fish stories drifting in would seem to indicate that more than "fish" might be caught in the vicinity.

CALCULATOR AND THE GREAT DANE

Calculator had just hopped out of a big Studebaker after a trip to town when he spied the Dane coming forlornly down the road. "Well, well," said Calculator, as he came within hearing distance, "you look as if you had just been put on Sunday K. P. Why all the deep thought?"

"Well," said the Great Dane, leaning up against the right side of the sign "Keep to The Right" in front of the Post Office building, knowing no one would drive that way, "I've just been thinking about the roads. You see, there is so much to growl about here if one looks for it, and it is so easy to growl about everything, that I thought it would be a good thing to growl so every one could hear it. But I'm all wrong. I was going to complain about our poor roads in the Post but when I looked into it—(here he looked even more downhearted)—I found that I had not looked at the other fellow's side before now. I find that appropriations are short and all we can get are needed for quarters so I decided not to mention it because it can't be helped. We can get along a while longer with bumpy roads but we do need some sort of a place to live in."

Calculator extended his forepaw in congratulations and remarked, "That's the way I've wanted you to look at things ever since you started growling."

So, after wading through the small lake alongside the Post Office, they ambled off to the commissary to see if the fat butcher hadn't thrown away some particularly attractive bones by mistake.

"Well I am the gentleman who to introduce you."

We were informed that the gentleman who makes the announcements at the Chatauqua is a Cornell graduate but we noticed that he asked the people, "Now, please do not Set in the aisles. There is a law against it." We did not go to Cornell but we wonder if that is the way they teach up there. (It reminds me of some of the monographs with battalion spelled with one "t" and two "Is" and Britannica spelled with two "ts' and one "n" which the military folks slip up on sometimes. I like to write monographs, however.)

Well the lecture was enjoyable and the writer will go again this evening.

Ignorance Is Bliss.

Charlie—Married yet, old man?

Edward—No, but I'm engaged, and that's as good as married.

Charlie—It's better, if you only knew it.

Angels?

A lady was entertaining her friends in the parlor and she left them to take her small daughter upstairs to bed. When she left the little girl, she said, "Darling, do not be afraid. The angels will stay with you up here. I must go down to my company."

A little later the child came down stairs and said in a loud whisper. "Mamma, those angels you said would stay with me sure do bite."

Thoughtful Farmer.

Elaine, was making her first inspection of the farm and after expressing her opinion on the various features of rural life, said, stopping before the great windmill, "Farmer Brown, everything is very nice on your place, but I think you are very kind to put up that nice big fan to keep your cows cool."

Mamma Should Not Be Inquisitive

Valerie came home from school one day and said: "Mamma I got 100 in spelling yesterday." Mamma answered: "Did you? That's fine. What did you get today?" "Oh! I missed today."

Evelyn, aged seven, ventured out alone one evening into the back hall and saw two roaches wandering in from the back porch. She "heeled it" at top speed back to the bedroom, crying, "Mamma, come quick, there's mice. Two little bitsy ones and they are black."

Speed Limit Broken

A colored brother went to a funeral. The following morning he was telling his employer all about the big affair. "Dat wuz de finest funeral I eber did see. Flowahs eve' ywhar and all sich fine things and we wuz all settin' 'roun' enjoyin' de wake, nen all ob a sudden de co'ps sat up."

"Well, what happened then?"

"How could I know?"

LIST YOUR TELEPHONE.

Help Your Friends Find You.

A number of officers, for the most part new arrivals on the post, are not listed in the telephone directory together with other officers who have been here for some time but who have moved from one set of quarters to another.

The only method of finding these officers at times is for the person wanting them to know what set of quarters they moved into and knowing also who last occupied these quarters. The Information Operator at the telephone exchange does not know always how to find an individual by telephone and as a consequence the connection cannot be made.

While it is quite true that having ones whereabouts unknown is often desirable at the same time there may be a chance of missing a dinner party or something else of the kind on account of not receiving a telephone message. (Also the Editor of the News cannot get reports of social affairs unless he knows the number)

A recent daily bulletin requests that everybody who has had a change of phone numbers since May 15, 1923, register their new phone giving the name, rank, branch of service, changes in duty status, old and new office phones and old and new residence phones. The News will also be glad to print such information for the benefit of your friends.

24th INFANTRY TO CELEBRATE GLORIOUS FOURTH

Big Schedule of Events Shown

THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD

(By Sam Walter Foss)

"He was a friend to me, and lived in a house by the side of the road." Homer.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the peace of their self-content;
There are souls like stars, that dwell apart
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never rain;
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by—
The men who are good and the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat
Or hurl the cynic's ban;
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with their ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife.
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears—
Both parts of an infinite plan;
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead
And mountains of wearisome height,
That the road passes on through the long afternoon
And stretches away to the night.
But still I rejoice when the travelers rejoice
And weep with the strangers that moan,
Nor live in my house by the side of the road
Like a man who dwells alone.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by—
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong
Wise, foolish—so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

FOURTH TO BE CELEBRATED

Patriotic Exercises, Athletics, and Fireworks

That the Glorious Fourth will be celebrated at Fort Benning in an appropriate manner is evidenced by the program of events for the day which is shown below.

Colonel B. P. Nicklin, 24th Infantry, will make the address at the exercises scheduled for the Post Swimming Pool and the Declaration of Independence will be read by Chaplain F. L. Rosenthal. Band selections will intersperse the talks.

The program of events for the day follows:

6:30 a. m. Parade of all bands.
8:00 a. m. Patriotic exercises at Post Swimming Pool.
9:00 a. m. Swimming Meet, Post Swimming Pool.
12:00 Noon, National Salute.
2:30 p. m. Baseball at Post Athletic Field.
(Probably between I. S. D. and 167th Infantry Alabama National Guard.)
8:00 p. m. Pyrotechnic display on parade ground.

ANNOUNCEMENT

In the near future we will have about one-half of a column entitled: "What Not to do in Etiquete" in each issue.

THE USUAL COURTESY

"Brokesley," said the grocery keeper to the dead beat who was planning to move out of the community. "I don't believe you will eve rpay me what you owe me. It isn't worth while to sue for it, and you have nothing I care to attach. I will simply give you a receipt and call it paid."

"Fine of you," said Brokesley.

A few moments after, seeing that Brokesley still lingered about, the merchant said:

"Was there something you wished to speak to me about?"

"Not especially, but ain't it customary to give a fellow a cigar when his account is settled?"

OF ANCIENT VINTAGE

One of the pleasant things about the 29th Infantry Officers Mess is the atmosphere—and the rare after dinner stories.

One of the juniors who for the past several months had been listening with much amazement to the various tales of personal prowess and Don Juan adventures originating at the captain's table began taking notes on the elapsing of time of each story.

After much calculations, checking and re-checking this officer now announces that on the basis of his figures the age of the following named officers estimated from their own versions of their personal experiences is:

Captain George W. Pilkington, 217 years old.

Captain John A. Claussen, 168 years old.

Captain Howard N. Scales, Six years old.

Service Company

All Ye'gas hack,' Lizzy, and automobile owners of this company take notice. Ye are forbidden to take any soldiers out of camp with you unless you have a regular taxi cab license, under penalty of losing the privilege of using your car for one month, and spending many uncomfortable evenings at 8-10-and-12.

The company recently gained a man, Pvt. Morris, from the 10th Cav. by reenlistment. Welcome to the company, Pvt. Morris.

Young George Dixon seems to have a hunch that Flashlight Boyd did not fully earn his knockout Friday the 15th. Anyway he asked for a return match and Boyd took him up. The date is set for July 15th. Lookout Dixon! Boyd will be in better shape next time you meet him and the bets are that you will not last even seven (7) rounds this time.

Sgt. Goodwin, who is spending his time these days making soldiers of recruits, in addition to teaching them "squads east," is teaching them the doctrine of "Uphold the traditions of the 24th Infantry! If you do'nt, God Help you." Go to it Goodwin, a deep chest and a strong 'right' makes soldiers faster than soft words, pajamas, and pink tea.

Half of the company's pistol group have completed their record firing and as many have qualified. We expect 100 per cent qualifications this year with the .45.

The company lost two valuable men this week by discharge, Pvts. J. Handy and Fred Smith. They are expected to re-up however, within the next few days.

Co. "A"

Company "A" is still leading the companies her size. Of the 20 men to fire, 16 have fired and have qualiifed as follows: Experts 7, Sharpshooters 5, Marksmen 4, and four men have not completed firing. We are on top and are going to stay on top. "A" company has a record that has never been beaten by any Company in the Regiment, an dif a man from this Company goes to the range and does not qualify he has a hard time staying with the men that did qualify, so every man goes out to do his best.

Pvt. Davis won for himself the distinction of being an Expert rifleman. Every soldier should work like Private Davis worked. His ambition always bene to become a good shot. He has made the goal, and like Pvt. Davis every soldier should make up his mind as to what he wants and work to that end.

Here is something that very few old or young soldiers can have said about them. Pvt. Murphy, this organization, will be discharged July 1st 1923. This soldier came to us when the 3rd Battalion was disbanded Sept. 1921. He has a record that is equaled, by few. He completed 5 years, 6 months and 26 days and has never been confined in the guard house. He has had company punishment but once. He never missed a call, always on time when duty called him. This soldier is one of exceptional quality, very obedient to his superiors and never shrinks from any duty that he is called upon to perform. When asked was he going to re-enlist he said, I don't see anything to go out for, I could as well stay here." So you see if you are good you have nothing to fear, because you know how to keep out of trouble and there will be no cause for worry.

Company "I"

We are very glad to know that our Sgt. Handy has been promoted to the Bolo Squad. Look out Sergeant Handy, Sgt. Joe Anderson says he got to find somebody some where that can miss a target as many times as he can.

Private Woods and Golden have been matched for a three round bout. Pvt. Woods rang up last Sunday and found that Private Golden was in camp, so Woods tried to open Golden's mail. Woods want to fight in the company street where some one will part them, Old GolGden wants Wood in the kitchen.

Ex-Cook Turpin talked his way into the kitchen as cook; did fine, we are now using his steaks that he cooked for shoulder pads on the range, and his desert for target paste. He is now busy explaining to Gilbert where you can not get along with Golden.

Private Robert Childs has made expert on the range, "Pulling Targets." Poor boy has gone color blind he can't tell a 4 from a five.

Sergeant Ellis, (Slum), should go in the Quartermaster department as a camouflage artist. He takes a fatigue hat and make it look like steak any time he takes a notion.

Look out 1st platoon, Shorty Washington says there is not a soldier in the 1st Platoon can look any better than him and Robert Branch on inspection any day in the week.

Company "K"

The enlisted men of Co. "K" are all smiles since the arrival of Capt. Rustemeyer, formerly commanding Co., "B," I. S. D. Col.: Now Co. "K" 24th, Inf.

The members of company "K" are doing some good shooting these days, Say Iron-jaw, where are all those 49s and possibles? must have gone away, eh.

Company "L"

When the big Bugle of Zion City begins to sing a little song, entitled: "Wake Up Boys and Put Some Bulls Eye Oil in Your Gun," "L" Company stands at the head of the list.

Stop, Look and Listen! It was said some time ago that a calvaryman couldn't shoot, but when the truth is to be told, stop by and take a hot look at the calvary expert in Co. "L." The tale will be told when the season is all over.

Pvt. Tolbert Harris—Sunday is your last day to decide whether you are going to leave Grandpa, Sam, here struggling, trying to raise his boys. Stay here and help the old man. We can look at you with a field glass and tell you that you are going to stay here.

Sgt. JeJnnings, (Pop) made expert both ways, pistol and rifle, going some Pop, you had all the boys fooled anyway, you had some 76 stuff up your sleeve that you didn't care to put out until you saw your oats was getting away from you, carry on Pop you hav ethe rest of the Co. to follow in your footsteps.

We would like to know whether the C. C. has lost th ekey to the Co. fund or the mess Sgt. has gone insane over the funds that he has, (Keep 'Em, going Sgt. Scott you have been doing excellent, but be sure to keep the lock on that H. A. S. H. train. When she moves off from the station we ask of you to please have a DERAIL on the track.

Sgt. Session (Shaddy Rest) is on furlough for 30 days, and the Co. wishes him a nice time while he is away. We hope that he has plenty of good news for the boys when he comes off the target range at 12:30 today. Bob, was your furlough disapproved? Oh; I know that.

Pvt. Stubbs can you give any member of the Co. information as to how you made export? It is alright when you began pumping preliminary, but, boy when you have to peep for your oats it is (.....H).

Company "M"

Some things to try to find:
Spl. Jennings awake.
Sgt. Green without a smile.
Sgt. Wheeler not talking over the telephone.
Cpl. Newman running.
Sgt. Coleman when you want him.
Pvt. Crawford not sparring.
Pvt. Ruffins looking lively.
Pvt. Henderson not writing a letter.
Pvt. Raspberry feeling well.
Pvt. Turner not singing, or talking.
Sgt. Russell's Puttees wraped neat.
Pvt. Hunt not baldheaded.
Pvt. Liddell not shooting dice.
Spl. Jones not hanging the dice.
Pvt. Bullard not snatching money in the game.

RECRUITING RESULTS EXCELLENT AT FT. BENNING.

Excellent results are being obtained in local recruiting according to reports form the Post Recruiting Officer, Capt. G. E. Kraul, Infantry D. O. L. Recruiting sub-stations are maintained at the following places:

Columbus, Ga., Sergt. C. M. Finney Co. G, 29th Infantry.

Macon, Ga., Sergt. Howard S. Catron, DEML (RS)

Albany, Ga., Sergt. Aaron M. Winn, DEML (RS)

Cordele, Ga., Corp. Grover C. Woods, DEML (RS)

Waycross, Ga., Pvt. Oscar H. Hood, DEML (RS)

Valdosta, Ga., Pvt. S. E. Hatfield, DEML (RS)

Dublin, Ga., Pvt. Graham Allen, DEML (RS)

The excellent work being done by the above canvassers has been commended upon very highly by the Commanding General and the records of the highest men published by the Fourth Corps Area Headquarters. Sergts. Winn, Catron and Finney were star recruiters for May, 1923 and every month one or more of the local canvassers stand among the highest in this Corps Area.

Fort Benning has led the Corps Area for the last two months in the number of enlistments and re-enlistments secured and it is expected we will lead again this month.

In addition to the local efforts a party of four canvassers, consisting of 2nd Lieut. J. D. Box, 29th Inf. (in charge); Corp. Arvil McK. Lance, Co. F, 29th Inf.; Sergt. Willie O. Powell, Hdqrs. Co., 2nd Bn., 29th Inf.; Pvt. James G. Strickland, Co. A, 15th Tank Bn.; Corp. Cordie Joiner, Bat. C, 83rd F. A. is on duty in the vicinity of Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and are sending in approximately 100 recruits a month.

A party of four canvassers consisting of Corp. Abe R. Daniels, Co. A, 29th Inf.; Corp. Willie J. Rankin, Co. C, 29th Inf.; Pvt. 1st Cl. Wm. B. Fairchild, I. S. D.; Pvt. George A. Johnston, Bat. A, 83rd F. A. is operating in Louisiana and Mississippi and the canvassers are getting excellent results sending in a detachment of recruts every few days via Fort Barrancas, Fla.

Re-enlistments have been greater the last few months than at any other period in the last three years. This is a very satisfactory indication of the high morale and contentment existing in the organizations stationed at Fort Benning.

In order to give young men in other parts of the United States an opportunity to serve at The Infantry School, the Adjutant General of the Army has authorized the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 5th and 6th Corps Areas to enlist a small quota each, for Fort Benning and approximately 600 recruits are to arrive from these Corps Area about August 1st, 1923.

Plans for the fall and winter recruiting in the surrounding towns are now being formulated by the Post Recruiting Officer and already many requests have been received from young men in Southern Georgia for enlistment for The Infantry School as soon as the farming season is over.

Members of this command who have had previous experience as recruiting canvassers and who are interested in recruiting during the fall and winter months should make application to the local Recruiting Officer. Noncommissioned officers of long service will be given preference, if they possess the necessary qualifications and experience.

2nd CORPS AREA ACTIVE HOLD CORPS AREA CHAMPIONSHIP MEET

Staff, U. S. A., with Maj. Livingston Watrous, A. G. D., U. S. A., as Adjutant of the parade. The aides were Lieut. Col. John M. Rogers, N. J. N. G., Major Arthur G. Hixson, Cav. Capt. Herbert C. Holdridge, Cav., 1st Lieut. John P. Neu, Q. M. C., 1st Lieut. Joseph M. Glasgow, Cav., all U. S. Army.

The following was the order of march for the parade:

1. Grand Marshal and staff.
2. 16th Infantry Band.
3. Massed colors of all organizations parading.
4. Battalion of 16th Infantry, Major Joseph H. Davidson commanding.
5. Comany U. S. Marines, 1st Lieut. John Halla, U. S. Marines, commanding.
6. 62nd Artillery Anti-Aircraft, Capt. Wm. M. Cravens commanding.
7. Band, 62nd Artillery Anti-Aircraft.
8. 165th Infantry Battalion, N. Y. N. G., Major Edw. J. Conrad commanding.
9. 9th Coast Defense Battalion N. Y. N. G., Major Leon A. Keyes commanding.
10. Brigadier General Quincy Gilmore and staff.
11. 113th Infantry Band, N. J. N. G.
12. 113th Infantry Battalion, N. J. N. G., Major Wm. A. Higgins commanding.
13. 104th Engineers Battalion N. J. N. G., Colonel E. Firth commanding.
14. 44th Divisional Signal Company, N. J. N. G., Captain Joseph B. Leimer commanding.
15. 112th Field Artillery, N. J. N. G., Major Richard P. Hardegen commanding.
16. Squadron 102nd Cavalry, N. J. N. G., Major Hardy J. Bush commanding.
17. Band and Battalion R. O. T. C., Clason Point Military Academy, Captain Holmes E. Dager commanding.
18. B. F. Keith Boys' Band.
19. Regiment of Columbus Cadets, Colonel John Mosier commanding.

There were thirty-one events in the meet in which were entrants from both the Army, National Guard of New Jersey, and R. O. T. C. units. Of especial interest was event No. 17 which consisted of a joint demonstration by units of Infantry, Tanks, Chemical Warfare Service, Air Service and Engineers. The Infantry unit was a battalion from the 16th Infantry and the general plan of the activity was a demonstration of the battalion in attack. An aerial circus was put on by two flight squadrons of airplanes from Mitchel Field.

Of special significance is the fact that this meet was participated in by all components of the Army of the United States and, regardless of who won the various events, the effect will be to draw more closely together.

I. S. D. DEFEATS TANKS GAME WENT TEN INNINGS

(By SGT. J. M. WHEELER)

The I. S. D. defeated the Tanks in a thrilling ten inning game by the score of 3 to 2. It was a great pitchers battle between "Red" Lindsey and Johnny Hyland with Hyland the victor after "Red" had held the I. S. D. scoreless for seven innings.

The Tanks were leading up to the last half of the eighth by the score of 2 to 0, when Heckert scored Shepard with a walloping three base drive to right center. With Heckert on third and Suby on second and two down, Hodges hit to deep short while Heckert scored and got Suby coming from second after Heckert had crossed the plate.

Then the argument started, the Tanks claiming the score didn't count while the rule book showed that it did as it was not a force out at third and the batter was not retired at first. Therefore, the game was played under protest by Sgt. Dennis of the Tanks, with the score standing two all.

In the first half of the tenth the Tanks failed to score while the I. S. D. put the old game on ice after Suby had gotten a life at first on an error, stole second and third and scored on Waller's triple to deep left, ending a great battle. It seemed for awhile that the I. S. D. were doomed to defeat after losing it's first game of the season to Jordan City Saturday, but the boys rallied gamely and pulled one out of the fire. Heckert and Shepard were the hitting stars, while Evan's running catch off Waller in the sixth inning brought the fans to their feet.

Next Saturday at 3:30 p. m. the I. S. D. will endeavor to wipe out the defeat sustained by Jordan City on their grounds and with air tight, playing and an even break in the game the I. S. D. expect to emerge victorious. The box score follows:

TANKS VICTORS OVER ARTILLERY

Coat of Whitewash Spread by Winners, Who Garned Ten Runs for Their Share—Two Hits for the Losers.

By SGT. J. M. WHEELER

The Tanks easily defeated the Artillery yesterday afternoon by the score of 10 to 0, Lindsey and Swantic letting the Artillery down with two hits, both of which was garnered off Lindsey, who retired in the fifth, giving way to Bill, who whiffed seven and didn't allow the sign of a hit. The feature of the game was Swantic's steal of home in the eighth.

Walker, the first baseman of the Artillery will bear watching, for he is young and is one of the best players on his club, if not the best. Dickson, the new outfielder, looks like a ball player and he takes a healthy cut at the ball.

Bruno, the little hurler of the Artillery, would have gotten away better than he did, if his team mates had supported him, although his two errors proved costly.

PENSACOLA GIANTS RETURN TO CANE BOTTOMS VANQUISHED

24th Infantry Wins 4-3, 14-2

The Pensacola Giants were entertained by the 24th Infantry baseball team on Saturday and Sunday last, June 23rd and 24th and while here learned some of the fine points of baseball. For instance they learned how to take the old game out of the discard in the ninth after having it given to them on a string of errors by their opponents. The 24th played a rather loose game, draped about a limp figure three errors satcked up in the first inning. The game totaled nine errors by the 24th, and netted three runs for the visitors. The regulars gathered up three runs during the game, tying the score in the seventh. In the ninth inning a winning tally was produced which saved the game but recorded an off-days' work.

The creditable aspect of the score and other features of the game was vouchsafed by pitcher Leonard, who held the batting down to the minimum, which proved very desirable in view of the rheumatic condition of the fielders, and in the seventh he himself plugged out a homer which tied the score. In the ninth inning Knight came up and got a single. He stole second, and then Gree ncame to bat and got around to the third station on a healthy wallop to center field. Knight easily scored. The game was called.

The second game was more like the usual form and results. The soldiers came out of their stuper and turned out a 14-2 victory. The scores follow:

DEMPSEY Vs. GIBBONS

Within a few days another "Battle of the Century" will be staged at Shelby, Montana, between Jack Dempsey the present heavyweight champion of the world, and Tommy Gibbons, aspirant for the heavyweight championship.

This Sports Editor is of the opinion that Dempsey will win.

Naturally the newspapers have been full of "dope" furnished by experienced press agents for the purpose of working up interest in the affair, thereby increasing the gate receipts. The general tendency of most of this "dope" has been to attempt to show how the present Champion has been knocked around the ring like an amateur by his sparring partners and an attempt has been made to get the average man to underestimate Dempsey and over-rate Gibbons.

There is no doubt of Gibbons' ability. He is an experienced fighter with a punch. There seems to be no doubt that he can get a decision over any heavyweight now in the ring—except Dempsey. He cannot get a decision over Dempsey, unless Dempsey fouls him, for the reason that there is not as much ordinary "mule power" tied up under his skin as there is under Dempsey's skin.

The reports that Dempsey is not taking his training seriously because of over-confidence should be accepted with caution. Dempsey has too much at stake and his manager is too astute to take any chances. When Dempsey enters the ring on July 4th he will be in the pink of condition—and he may let Gibbons stay 6 rounds.

WARFARE REVOLUTIONIZED—NEW FLASHLESS POWDER DEVELOPED

The Army Ordance Department has developed a powder that is flashless, smokeless and non-hygroscopic. The new powder may be exposed indefinitely to any atmosphere saturated with moisture without effect on its properties. During tests it has been completely submerged in water without any absorbed moisture being found.

The present type of service powder, because of its tendency to absorb

PREPAREDNESS

WHILE I believe in peace," said Maj.-Gen. Charles H. Muir, U. S. A., commanding the Third Corps Area, in an address to the Reading (Pa.) Sector of the Association of the Army of the United States, "I believe that the nations of the world still reflect the human weakness in us. No one but a fool believes that war is ended while nations of Europe still look at us with envious eyes.

"Therefore, I am a firm believer in the best Army and Navy that America can produce. I believe that no matter how much we do for the nations of the world in a philanthropic sense; no matter what advances we make towards peace; while the conditions of the human soul should remain human, wars will continue. I therefore hope for the best Navy and Army that we can produce.

"I want the flag never to be in jeopardy, and I believe that the only way to protect it is to inculcate that spirit in our Army that has kept it at its high sandard in he past."

C. M. T.'s WILL BE FED—QUARTERMASTER GEN. PREPARES MENU

The Army will feed each of the 30,000 young men who attend the Citizens' Military Training Camps this summer at a cost of 70 cents a day for three meals.

The office of the Quartermaster Gen. has prepared a basic model menu composed entirely of staple articles, for which 45 cents of the daily allowance for each man will be used. Twenty-five cents will be expended on special food, not included in this menu, which the young men are accustomed to eating, and for such additional expense as may be necessary for cooking and serving in the event that sufficient Regular Army personnel is not available.

In computing the basic C. M. T. C. ration, the Quartermaster Corps has provided larger meals than for the soldiers of the Regular Army. All of the young men attending these training camps will be from 17 to 24 years of age—or in that period of life when they are completing their development and require normally more nourishment than mature men. An allowance of fresh fruit and cereal for breakfast, a salad of some raw vegetables, such as sliced tomatoes, cucumbers, onions, lettuce or cabbage slaw, or a combination of these for dinner—and a pint of fresh milk or buttermilk for each person has been added to the Army ration.

None of the food for the Citizens' Military Training Camps will be furnished from Army supplies, but will be purchased on the open market in the vicinity of the camps.

The menu for one week prepared in the office of the Quartermaster Gen. will be furnished to the mess officers of the various camps as a guide as to what should constitute a balanced ration for young men under training conditions.

It is not intended that the prepared

FIRST INFANTRY MAKES GOOD RECORD

Qualifies 98 per cent. of Men Firing

That the 1st Infantry, the oldest organization in the military service of the United States, upholds its regimental traditions in peace as well as war is evidenced by the fact that during the recent rifle practice season 98 per cent of the men firing were qualified. Complete data is not available at this time to present a compilation of figures but the record as it stands is remarkable.

Many noted Americans have at one time or another served as officers in the 1st Infantry. Among the most noted of these were President Harrison, at one time a captain in the 1st Infantry; Capt. Meriwether Lewis, with twenty enlisted men of the First, guided the Lewis and Clark Expedition to the Pacific Northwest; Lieut. Zebulum Pike led the expedition into the Rocky Mountains; President Zachary Taylor once served with the 1st Infantry; Jefferson Davis, who later became President of the Southern Confederacy, was an officer in that organization.

The First Infantry has seen service in all wars since the War of 1812 and was especially active in the Indian Wars, the Civil War, and the Spanish-American War. The difficult task of training replacements for overseas regiments was assiged the First Infantry during the World War.

During the floods at San Antonio in September, 1921, the First Infantry was active in rescue work and in assisting the civil authorities to preserve order in that city.

LIEUT.-COL. AND MRS. H. P. HOBBS LEAVE

Lieut-Colonel and Mrs. Horace P. Hobbs with their children left Fort Benning on July first motoring to Washington, D. C. where they will visit relatives for about a week. From Washington they will motor to Lake Winnepesaukee, New Hampshire where they will spend about a month, returning to Fort Benning about September first. Katherine will spend a month with her friend Agatha Chandler, daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Chandler at Warner, New Hampshire.

PEACHES ARE NOW RIPE

Shipments Are Being Made Ready

About two miles beyond Buena Vista lives a Mr. T. N. Williams who owns and operates a large peach orchard. Members of the garrison who have visited this orchard report that the peaches are delicious and reasonable in price. This might be a good time to send a crate to relatives living some distance away from here and as the distance can easily be covered in an automobile in an afternoon the information is passed on.

Another trip to take, this time for the scenery and in search of a cool spot, is Goat Rock dam which is about fifteen miles north of Columbus. At this place is located the power plant of the Columbus Electric and Power Company and visitors are allowed both in the plant and vicinity. Of special interest is the tunnel leading from the Georgia side of the river to the Alabama side. Youngsters find this of especial interest and and the walk thru gives an opportunity to cool off. In order to reach Goat Rock dam leave Columbus by the Hamilton Road turning to the left a short distance beyond the end of the Hamilton Ave. street car line. Another turn to the left about ten miles out gets you on the Goat Rock dam road.

LT. AND MRS. BRANDHORST ON LEAVE.

Lieut. and Mrs. Henry W. Brandhorst left last Sunday morning for a two months' leave. Their first stop will be at Newton, Kansas, where they will visit the sister and brother-in-law of Lt. Brandhorst, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Hennig.

On about July 10th they will leave Newton, accompanied by Mrs. Hennig, for Colorado where the remainder of the leave will be spent between Boulder and Denver. Mrs. Brandhorst's parents live in Denver and Lieut. Brandhorst's live in Boulder.

A NEW PLACE TO SPEND SUNDAY

Looks Like It Is Worth Trying

A lady of the Post recently handed us the following invitation whfch is printed for the benefit of other members of the garrison. It "listens" good and is vouched for by the donor:

"You are invited to Pine Knot Springs for fresh air, pure Spring Water and a good chicken dinner. Just phone me, call Cusseta, Ga., operator, or mail the enclosed post card and tell me how many to prepare for and when you arrive everything will be ready.

Pine Knot is on the Buena Vista Road, turn to left at 20 mile post—good roads and charming scenery, only about 45 minutes from Broad Street.

The service will be $1.25 per person.

Necessarily this invitation is limited to a selected list and may I keep your name on my list as later on I expect to vary the Menu according to season, serving Country Ham, Sausage and other products for which Pine Knot is famous.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Berta Carnes Rushin.

LT. AND MRS. RANALD ADAMS ENTERTAIN.

Misses Celeste Horne and Kitty Birdsey, of Macon, Ga., were guests of Lt. and Mrs. R. T. Adams during the past week. Lt. Adams reports that he had to sleep on the front porch.

NEW OFFICERS JOIN 83rd ARTILLERY.

During the past week the following officers have joined the 83rd Field Artillery: Lt. L. J. Stewart, Lt. G. H. Olmstead, Lt. G. C. Carpenter, Lt. J. F. Uncles, Lt. H. Albert, Lt. D. J. Crawford.

MAJ. KOEHLER TAKES TRIP.

Major and Mrs. George R. Koehler and family and Mrs. Hardeman, mother of Mrs. Koehler spent last Sunday at Warm Springs. The trip was made by motor and the day is reported as having been very pleasantly spent.

COL. WALTON VISITS POST.

Colonel Edward S. Walton, Construction Quartermaster in the office of the Quartermaster General visited The Infantry School during the early part of the week. During Col. Walton's stay he was entertained by Col. and Mrs. William O. Smith.

On last Wednesday, the 4th, Capt. and Mrs. George E. Kraul and Lt. and Mrs. Harold A. Willis motored to Andersonville Cemetery, of Civil War fame, about sixty-five miles from here. It was formerly at Andersonville that the Andersonville prison, Southern Confederacy, was located.

29th INFANTRY GIVES SMOKER.

The First Battalion, 29th Infantry staged a farewell smoker in the Post Gymnasium last Thursday night with Major Floyd Hatfield, the departing battalion commander as guest of honor. Over 600 men of the battalion attended and among the distinguished guests were Brigadier-General Walter H. Gordon, his aide Lieut. George Honnen and Colonel George S. Goodale, the commanding officer of the 29th Infantry and Major J. C. Williams.

While throughout the entertainment there was much rollicking laughter—there was also the strain of parting. The men knew they were losing their battalion commander, and also their colonel. And when both of these officers made their farewell addresses the cheers that marked the close of each talk were loud; and there was much stamping of feet and shuffling, as men will act when they are touched to the heart, but instinctively masked their real feelings. But both the Major and the Colonel had lumps in their throats when they finished.

The smoker started promptly at 7:30 o'clock and continued without the slightest abatement until 11:50 o'clock. And the last boxing bout stirred the men to a high pitch of enthusiasm. They had not been satiated—and were anxious for more.

The program was mixed. First came three boxing bouts of much interest. A clean knockout by "Kid" Pacioni proved the feature of the early bouts. And interprising all of the boxing, speaking and musical comedy entertainment the 29th Infantry Band under the leadership of Mr. Dixon provided haunting melodies and singable tunes.

Following the sensational "one-handed battle royal," the "chow call" was sounded at 9:30 o'clock and Mr. Firm Roberts, of Columbus, the noted stomach disturber supplied a flock of nightmare inspirers which were washed down with cold beer of the kind authorized by Mr. Andrew Volstead.

The final part of the entertainment was provided by the colored artists supplied by Mr. Jack Love, the impressario of the Dream Theater of Columbus. Three excellent acts enlivened the good feelings already aroused by the snappy bouts.

The close of the entertainment brought from the men of the First Battalion the loudly voiced desire that their officers staged these smokers at least once a month. They liked them.

CAPT. TAYLOR TO MARRY.

Mrs. Lula King Miller announces the marriage of her daughter Easter to Captain James Taylor, U. S. Army, at St. Luke's Church, Columbus, Georgia, August eighth. The bride-elect is a popular member of the Columbus set and Capt. Taylor is on duty with the 15th Tank Battalion at Fort Benning.

WARFARE REVOLUTIONIZED—NEW FLASHLESS POWDER DEVELOPED

The Army Ordance Department has developed a powder that is flashless, smokeless and non-hygroscopic. The new powder may be exposed indefinitely to any atmosphere saturated with moisture without effect on its properties. During tests it has been completely submerged in water without any absorbed moisture being found.

The present type of service powder, because of its tendency to absorb

PREPAREDNESS

WHILE I believe in peace," said Maj.-Gen. Charles H. Muir, U. S. A., commanding the Third Corps Area, in an address to the Reading (Pa.) Sector of the Association of the Army of the United States, "I believe that the nations of the world still reflect the human weakness in us. No one but a fool believes that war is ended while nations of Europe still look at us with envious eyes.

"Therefore, I am a firm believer in the best Army and Navy that America can produce. I believe that no matter how much we do for the nations of the world in a philanthropic sense; no matter what advances we make towards peace; while the conditions of the human soul should remain human, wars will continue. I therefore hope for the best Navy and Army that we can produce.

"I want the flag never to be in jeopardy, and I believe that the only way to protect it is to inculcate that spirit in our Army that has kept it at its high sandard in he past."

C. M. T.'s WILL BE FED—QUARTERMASTER GEN. PREPARES MENU

The Army will feed each of the 30,000 young men who attend the Citizens' Military Training Camps this summer at a cost of 70 cents a day for three meals.

The office of the Quartermaster Gen. has prepared a basic model menu composed entirely of staple articles, for which 45 cents of the daily allowance for each man will be used. Twenty-five cents will be expended on special food, not included in this menu, which the young men are accustomed to eating, and for such additional expense as may be necessary for cooking and serving in the event that sufficient Regular Army personnel is not available.

In computing the basic C. M. T. C. ration, the Quartermaster Corps has provided larger meals than for the soldiers of the Regular Army. All of the young men attending these training camps will be from 17 to 24 years of age—or in that period of life when they are completing their development and require normally more nourishment than mature men. An allowance of fresh fruit and cereal for breakfast, a salad of some raw vegetables, such as sliced tomatoes, cucumbers, onions, lettuce or cabbage slaw, or a combination of these for dinner—and a pint of fresh milk or buttermilk for each person has been added to the Army ration.

None of the food for the Citizens' Military Training Camps will be furnished from Army supplies, but will be purchased on the open market in the vicinity of the camps.

The menu for one week prepared in the office of the Quartermaster Gen. will be furnished to the mess officers of the various camps as a guide as to what should constitute a balanced ration for young men under training conditions.

It is not intended that the prepared

FIRST INFANTRY MAKES GOOD RECORD

Qualifies 98 per cent. of Men Firing

That the 1st Infantry, the oldest organization in the military service of the United States, upholds its regimental traditions in peace as well as war is evidenced by the fact that during the recent rifle practice season 98 per cent of the men firing were qualified. Complete data is not available at this time to present a compilation of figures but the record as it stands is remarkable.

Many noted Americans have at one time or another served as officers in the 1st Infantry. Among the most noted of these were President Harrison, at one time a captain in the 1st Infantry; Capt. Meriwether Lewis, with twenty enlisted men of the First, guided the Lewis and Clark Expedition to the Pacific Northwest; Lieut. Zebulum Pike led the expedition into the Rocky Mountains; President Zachary Taylor once served with the 1st Infantry; Jefferson Davis, who later became President of the Southern Confederacy, was an officer in that organization.

The First Infantry has seen service in all wars since the War of 1812 and was especially active in the Indian Wars, the Civil War, and the Spanish-American War. The difficult task of training replacements for overseas regiments was assiged the First Infantry during the World War.

During the floods at San Antonio in September, 1921, the First Infantry was active in rescue work and in assisting the civil authorities to preserve order in that city.

LIEUT.-COL. AND MRS. H. P. HOBBS LEAVE

Lieut-Colonel and Mrs. Horace P. Hobbs with their children left Fort Benning on July first motoring to Washington, D. C. where they will visit relatives for about a week. From Washington they will motor to Lake Winnepesaukee, New Hampshire where they will spend about a month, returning to Fort Benning about September first. Katherine will spend a month with her friend Agatha Chandler, daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Chandler at Warner, New Hampshire.

PEACHES ARE NOW RIPE

Shipments Are Being Made Ready

About two miles beyond Buena Vista lives a Mr. T. N. Williams who owns and operates a large peach orchard. Members of the garrison who have visited this orchard report that the peaches are delicious and reasonable in price. This might be a good time to send a crate to relatives living some distance away from here and as the distance can easily be covered in an automobile in an afternoon the information is passed on.

Another trip to take, this time for the scenery and in search of a cool spot, is Goat Rock dam which is about fifteen miles north of Columbus. At this place is located the power plant of the Columbus Electric and Power Company and visitors are allowed both in the plant and vicinity. Of special interest is the tunnel leading from the Georgia side of the river to the Alabama side. Youngsters find this of especial interest and and the walk thru gives an opportunity to cool off. In order to reach Goat Rock dam leave Columbus by the Hamilton Road turning to the left a short distance beyond the end of the Hamilton Ave. street car line. Another turn to the left about ten miles out gets you on the Goat Rock dam road.

LT. AND MRS. BRANDHORST ON LEAVE.

Lieut. and Mrs. Henry W. Brandhorst left last Sunday morning for a two months' leave. Their first stop will be at Newton, Kansas, where they will visit the sister and brother-in-law of Lt. Brandhorst, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Hennig.

On about July 10th they will leave Newton, accompanied by Mrs. Hennig, for Colorado where the remainder of the leave will be spent between Boulder and Denver. Mrs. Brandhorst's parents live in Denver and Lieut. Brandhorst's live in Boulder.

A NEW PLACE TO SPEND SUNDAY

Looks Like It Is Worth Trying

A lady of the Post recently handed us the following invitation which is printed for the benefit of other members of the garrison. It "listens" good and is vouched for by the donor:

"You are invited to Pine Knot Springs for fresh air, pure Spring Water and a good chicken dinner. Just phone me, call Cusseta, Ga., operator, or mail the enclosed post card and tell me how many to prepare for and when you arrive everything will be ready.

Pine Knot is on the Buena Vista Road, turn to left at 20 mile post—good roads and charming scenery, only about 45 minutes from Broad Street.

The service will be $1.25 per person.

Necessarily this invitation is limited to a selected list and may I keep your name on my list as later on I expect to vary the Menu according to season, serving Country Ham, Sausage and other products for which Pine Knot is famous.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Berta Carnes Rushin.

LT. AND MRS. RANALD ADAMS ENTERTAIN.

Misses Celeste Horne and Kitty Birdsey, of Macon, Ga., were guests of Lt. and Mrs. R. T. Adams during the past week. Lt. Adams reports that he had to sleep on the front porch.

NEW OFFICERS JOIN 83rd ARTILLERY.

During the past week the following officers have joined the 83rd Field Artillery: Lt. L. J. Stewart, Lt. G. H. Olmstead, Lt. G. C. Carpenter, Lt. J. F. Uncles, Lt. H. Albert, Lt. D. J. Crawford.

MAJ. KOEHLER TAKES TRIP.

Major and Mrs. George R. Koehler and family and Mrs. Hardeman, mother of Mrs. Koehler spent last Sunday at Warm Springs. The trip was made by motor and the day is reported as having been very pleasantly spent.

COL. WALTON VISITS POST.

Colonel Edward S. Walton, Construction Quartermaster in the office of the Quartermaster General visited The Infantry School during the early part of the week. During Col. Walton's stay he was entertained by Col. and Mrs. William O. Smith.

On last Wednesday, the 4th, Capt. and Mrs. George E. Kraul and Lt. and Mrs. Harold A. Willis motored to Andersonville Cemetery, of Civil War fame, about sixty-five miles from here. It was formerly at Andersonville that the Andersonville prison, Southern Confederacy, was located.

29th INFANTRY GIVES SMOKER.

The First Battalion, 29th Infantry staged a farewell smoker in the Post Gymnasium last Thursday night with Major Floyd Hatfield, the departing battalion commander as guest of honor. Over 600 men of the battalion attended and among the distinguished guests were Brigadier-General Walter H. Gordon, his aide Lieut. George Honnen and Colonel George S. Goodale, the commanding officer of the 29th Infantry and Major J. C. Williams.

While throughout the entertainment there was much rollicking laughter—there was also the strain of parting. The men knew they were losing their battalion commander, and also their colonel. And when both of these officers made their farewell addresses the cheers that marked the close of each talk were loud; and there was much stamping of feet and shuffling, as men will act when they are touched to the heart, but instinctively masked their real feelings. But both the Major and the Colonel had lumps in their throats when they finished.

The smoker started promptly at 7:30 o'clock and continued without the slightest abatement until 11:50 o'clock. And the last boxing bout stirred the men to a high pitch of enthusiasm. They had not been satiated—and were anxious for more.

The program was mixed. First came three boxing bouts of much interest. A clean knockout by "Kid" Pacioni proved the feature of the early bouts. And interprising all of the boxing, speaking and musical comedy entertainment the 29th Infantry Band under the leadership of Mr. Dixon provided haunting melodies and singable tunes.

Following the sensational "one-handed battle royal," the "chow call" was sounded at 9:30 o'clock and Mr. Firm Roberts, of Columbus, the noted stomach disturber supplied a flock of nightmare inspirers which were washed down with cold beer of the kind authorized by Mr. Andrew Volstead.

The final part of the entertainment was provided by the colored artists supplied by Mr. Jack Love, the impressario of the Dream Theater of Columbus. Three excellent acts enlivened the good feelings already aroused by the snappy bouts.

The close of the entertainment brought from the men of the First Battalion the loudly voiced desire that their officers staged these smokers at least once a month. They liked them.

CAPT. TAYLOR TO MARRY.

Mrs. Lula King Miller announces the marriage of her daughter Easter to Captain James Taylor, U. S. Army, at St. Luke's Church, Columbus, Georgia, August eighth. The bride-elect is a popular member of the Columbus set and Capt. Taylor is on duty with the 15th Tank Battalion at Fort Benning.

General Gordon and Colonel Hocker motored to the American Legion Convention in Athens last Tuesday returning to the Post on Friday.

MISS HARRIS ARRIVES ON POST
Interviewed by News Reporter.

Miss Virginia Arline Harris, the daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Herbert Harris arrived at Fort Benning last Sunday. Her first stop was at the Station Hospital where she had her weight taken. The scales balanced at nine pounds and Miss Harris seemed gratified over this fact.

Miss Harris seemed quite well pleased with conditions at Fort Benning and she has decided to make this station her home for the present.

Major X. V. Blauvelt and his family are enjoying the pleasure of a new sport model Lincoln car.

Major Lloyd R. Fredendall, who is to be the assistant executive officer, and who will be remembered by some of the older members of the garrison as having been an instructor at the Infantry School in 1920 and 1921 arrived last Wednesday. Quarters had not been assigned Major Fredendall and his family at the time of going to press.

Col. and Mrs. Alfonte with their two attractive young daughters, Helen and Catherine, were entertained at dinner by Col. and Mrs. McCaskey on the "Fourth." Col. Alfonte has been assigned temporary quarters in Block 23.

Col. Pendleton and his daughter, Miss Mary Pendleton have arrived on the Post. Col. Pendleton is the guest of Col. and Mrs. W. B. McCaskey while Miss Pendleton is the guest of General and Mrs. Gordon. Mrs. Pendleton and her mother are expected to arrive Saturday the 7th.

Colonel and Mrs. Kent entertained at a picnic lunch at the U. S. Fish Hatchery near Warm Springs on the Fourth. The party included Misses Peggy and Emily Kent and Lieuts. Albert, Bassett, and Carpenter of the 83rd Artillery. The lunch was prepared by Mrs. Kent and Miss Peggy Kent. The party visited Warm Springs on the return trip home.

Captain Ellis, the genial Post Personnel Adjutant, had an exciting Fourth checking over efficiency reports.

The News acknowledges the receipt of "The Postex" a by-weekly publication of the Post Exchange. The Postex is published for the benefit of the commissioned and enlisted personnel of Fort Benning and will carry prices and description of articles on sale. The publication should be of value to everybody on the Post.

NEW WOMEN'S STORE TO BE OPENED—WILL BE COMPLETE IN EVERY DETAIL

According to press reports about August 15th a new women's wear store will be opened up in Columbus at 1109 Broad street. The firm is to be known as Kayser-Lilienthal, Inc., and they will handle a complete line of wearing apparel and "fixtures" that go to make up the attractive appearance of milady.

No doubt such a store will be welcomed with opened arms by the female contingent of this garrison. An investigation by the News reporter reveals that the male members of the various families are non-committal in their remarks.

"TREAT-EM-ROUGH" OUTFIT WINS

Service Club No. 1 Notes

A casion tournament was held at Service Club No. 1 on the evening of June 26th. After a two hour contest the prize was won by Private Dewey Elliott of Battery "B" 83rd Artillery. and Private A. Wright, same organization.

"Mrs. and Mr. Polly Tick"—a riot of fun and laughter.

On last Saturday night an informal square dance was held in the Service Club the music being provided by a violin, a guitar, and a banjo. Everybody enjoyed a frolic and laugh. After Mrs. and Mr. Polly Tick" have left on the 28th another square dance even will be held.

Wives, bring your husbands to see "Mrs. and Mr. Polly Tick" and you will never again hear them say: "Where is that dollar I gave you last week?"

The Hostess is rejoicing in a beautiful leather cribbage board made for her by Corporal Busch. Any man permitted to use it must almost give his bond to insure its safe return.

The chorus, do you say? Well, when it comes to honest-to-godness charm and downright goodlookingness, this chorus can make the Follies of 1923 look like a Ladies' Aid Society on a hot Augusta afternoon.

Miss Carolina Roe, the Post Hostess, will be at Fort Benning another year regardless of whether or not government appropriations for this purpose are available—which they are not. The authorities at Fort Benning value Miss Roe's services to such an extent that they have decided to provide funds for her salary out of local sources. The enlisted personnel are congratulating themselves on Miss Roe's retention—Editorial Note.

You've heard the old saying, "Laugh and the world laughs with you," haven't you? Well, you'll certainly have the world with you if you attend "Mrs. and Mr. Polly Tick." It's a knock-out from start to finish.

CHILKOOTIES DABBLING IN POLITICS.

Entertain American Solons.

Being stationed in Alaska probably appeals to most of the crowd at Fort Benning, Panama, and other foreign service stations this hot weather but right at present the "Chilkooties," as our friends in Chilkoot Barracks, Alaska, call themselves, are just recovering from a visit by a Congressional party and have just returned to earth.

Here is what the Chilkoot Post had to say, among other things, about the visit:

"CONGRESSMEN ENTERTAINED AT DINNER BY ENLISTED MEN:

One of the most pleasing incidents of the Congressional visit to the Post was the dinners given by Cos. "E" and "F" on Monday evening. Pleasant and palatable was that meal, for the Congressmen enlivened the dinner with witty speech-making, and the company cooks had outdone themselves for their distinguished guests. The dinner was greatly enjoyed by the Congressional party, and it was a source of gratification and pride to the soldiers to entertain their noted guests."

Such things help the Army and congratulations are extended to that small Alaskan Army Post.

29th Infantry News Notes

1. Sgt. Stephenson the Co. pen pusher is forever pulling wise cracks here is one of Steve's latest: Teacher sent little black Rastus home from school one day with a note to his father which read like this: Mr. Brown your boy smells give him a bath. Mr. Brown was quite peeved, here was his answer to the teacher: Teacher my boy Rastus is not a rose. Don't smell him, teach him. Har! har!

2. Has any one noticed Corp Egelnick take his post at the big oak tree every night? I wonder what he does since the student officers have left the post? Have to jar loose now don't you Samuel? Plenty of free rides when the school starts again.

3. Corp. Metzinger was seen in the chow line three times at the battalion entertainment. You were out of luck Corp, their wasn't any seconds or thirds.

4. What did you want with the four-bits at the Blowout Corp. Madura? Did you suddenly become hungry, why don't you try and control that appetite of yours Paul?

5. Battling Otalvaro certainly did make a Rep for himself last week. That "Napper" of yours would scare any human. But it did not seem to scare "Young" Cooley you had better cool off a little, you are not as good as you think.

6. Why are you going to town three times a week Corp. Wilson? It must be getting serious, isn't it? Corp. Marcattili would like to be in on it, better take him into your confidence, you know he can "Gum-shoe" somewhat.

STAND TOGETHER, MEN! LET'S KEEP OUR TROUSERS

Though Clothiers Report Sartorial Invasion by Women, Men Still Have Rights

What Julius Caesar really meant when he uttered that immortal line, "Two can live as cheaply as one," was that in 1975 both husband and wife could wear the same clothes, and despite the daughter of his short-visioned auditors, the red-headed emperor seems to have been right.

The sign on the door, "Gent's Furnishings," doesn't mean anything any more, for women are buying all kinds of men's clothing for themselves. They are buying knickers, they are wearing felt hats, men's shirts and soft collars and string ties. The only thing they aren't wearing is men's trousers, and it may soon come to that. On the other hand, messiers, regard the fashionable gent of this spring as Fashion says he shall appear:

A top coat of brilliant plaid splashed with all the colors of the rainbow.

A beaver Fedora with that careless flare and a neat bow of ribbon where the band used to be.

Shirts will be highly colored with raglan shoulders and intricately pleated.

A soft frill about the neck with ruffles around the hands and feet.

Earrings, pearl-button spats and lace-trimmed handkerchief complete the picture.

I say, men, let's stand together. The women have become so bold that they may even try to take our trousers away from us. This will not, can not, must not be. Again I say, let's stand together on this mighty issue.

WITH.. THE.. EXCHANGES — EXTRACTS FROM EDITORIALS ON PREPAREDNESS

Church For Preparedness

The churches of America are working earnestly to promote world peace and they would be the last to approve an appeal to arms except as a final resort for the defense of national honor against foreign aggression. It does not follow that churchmen necessarily are pacifists, favoring a do-nothing policy which would leave the richest nation in the world unprotected from the greed of others, another China unable to defend itself and compelled to submit its fate to the hands of possible friends. A ringing announcement of patriotic determination to maintain the republic by a reasonable degree of preparedness has come from the churches following a conference of religious and welfare workers called by Secretary Weeks to consider the religious and moral training of soldiers.—Indianapolis Star.

Against A "False Pacifism"

Preparedness has other advocates than professional soldiers and laymen who have taken to heart the lessons of history. No more effective plea for a rational scheme of national defence has been delivered within the past few years than that contained in the findings of the conference of social and religious workers called by Secretary Weeks to meet in Washington to make recommendations on the subject of the religious and moral training of soldiers. The membership of the conference included more than sixty men who had gained eminence as educators, clergymen and leaders of welfare organizations, and twenty-five chaplains who had rendered conspicuous service in the war. Protestant, Jew and Roman Catholic sat side by side, and there was no thought of creed in the discussions. The committee's findings deserve to be read and studied by all Americans who believe that the ideals and the institutions of America are worth fighting for. They provide an answer to the meddlesome pacifists who "under the cloak of religion" are seeking to scrap the land and sea defences of the United States. And they prove that among the stanchest friends of the cause of preparedness are to be found th espiritual leaders of every denomination in this land of many faiths.—Boston Transcript.

What History Teaches

The history of the world is proof that the friend of one generation may become the implacable enemy of the suceeding generation. And it takes time to develop armies and navies. They cannot suddenly be whipped into fighting shape to meet the emergencies which arise. Adequqate military preparation against such emergencies does not constitute militarism unless the militaristic purpose is plainly fostered. You may have a standing army of a million men without the slightest trace or hint of militaristic purposes. Or, on the other hand, you may maintain a standing army of less than a hundred thousand men and still have it a veritable militaristic machine. It all depends upon the spirit and training fostered and promoted. This is th eerror into which all pacifists generally fall. Militarism depends not upon numbers but primarily upon motives. When so many mistaken religious leaders are decrying the firm attitude taken by Secretary Weeks in the cause of national defense, it is refreshing to see a group of religious leaders which includes such men as Bishop McDowell of the Methodist Church, President Thomas of Pennsylvania State College, Bishop Perry of the Episcopal Church and Rev. John J. Burke, General Secretary of the National Catholis Welfare Council, not to mention numerous others who attended the conference called by Secretary Weeks in Washington come out so wholeheartedly in endorsement of the Secretary's attitude in matters of national preparedness. — Manchester Union.

HARDBOILED

"He Didn't Mean Nuttin' By It."

Here's one that Colonel Blank tells on himself.

Several years ago the Colonel was in command of a motor convoy down on the Border. He was riding ahead of the convoy in a car and was familiar with the route. A stream was reached, one place across which looked almost impassable—but was not—and another which looked good but had a soft bottom.

The first truck of the convoy arrived and Colonel Blank directed the driver which crossing to take and then turned away momentarily to attend to something else. The driver of the truck, a colored soldier, took one look at the place he was directed to cross, decided that his truck was not going to get stuck in a place like that and, incidentally, that nobody could tell him anything about driving, and took what appeared to be the better crossing. Colonel Blank stopped him before he got too far in and then proceeded to hand out an artistic piece of cussing which left no doubt in the driver's mind with regard to his worthlessness and general cussedness.

That evening the Colonel overheard a conversation between his colored striker, who had been with him a number of years, and the driver of the truck. It went something like this:

Driver—"Boy, I sho caught h—— today from dat cunnel ob yose. He cussed me foh eveythin" he could think ob an' den added a lot mo.' He called me names I nebber hearn befo.' I tells yuh, dat cunnel sho' am a hard-boiled man."

Striker — "Boy, whut yuh tawkin about? Dat cunnel ain' hard-boiled. He soun' dat way but he ain't. Dats jus' his way. He doan mean nuthin' by his tawk."

Driver—"Yuh say he aint hard-boiled? If yuh had bin there today you would uv sed he wuz hard-boiled. I been in the Army seven years and I aint never heared a man be so hard-boiled befo'."

Striker—"Lissen to me. I done tole yuh dat cunnel aint hard-boiled. I bin wid him now eber since he wuz a cap'n. One day he had his comp'ny lined up and a big ginrel came along and dis ginrel didn't like the looks ob de company so he stopped and said, like he was mad, 'Who is in comman' ob dis company?' real mad an snappy, jus lak dat. Den de cap'n, who was lookin at de rear rank about sumpin step out in fron tob his comp'ny an' talk right out jus' lak de ginrel did, only mo' so, 'I is, Blankety, Blank, Blank it, kaint yuh see me?' Now de cunnel ack hard-boiled dat time but he didn't mean nuttin' by it."

Army Activities In Peace Time

Just what does the Army do in the time of peace to warrant the expenditure of 2 1-2 cents of each dollar of taxes for its upkeep?

The average citizen who pays taxes is too busy in the pursuit of "health, wealth, and happiness" to find time to investigate this matter and for his benefit a few Army activities in time of peace are set forth. These facts have been stated before by the Secretary of War in various addresses. The fact should be borne in mind, incidentally, that this work is being done with an Army that stands 46th on the list of Armies of the World—an Army of 118,000 men or just 18,000 more than Germany's standing army.

Every Summer the attention of the Regular Army is engaged with instructing members of the Reserve Officers Training Corps and the Civilian Military Training Camps in 27 camps scattered throughout the territorial limits of the United States and Porto Rico who will defend the Country in time of War. The large number of officers and non-commissioned officers required for this work tends to seriously handicap performance of the routine duties necessary for the upkeep and efficiency of any organization, military or civil, of any size but notwithstanding this the Regular Army "carries on."

A number of years ago some of the more progressive citizens of Los Angeles, California, conceived of the idea of constructing a harbor for that city. The idea was amusing to some because of the apparent impossibility of developing a comparatively small, shallow river for this purpose. Army Engineers got on the job, worked out plans, and supervised the work and as a result Los Angeles now has a real harbor. The Army is a pioneer in the construction and operation of railroads. Concrete examples are the oriignal construction of such railroads as the Baltimore and Ohio, the Erie Railroad, the New York, New Haven and Hartford and others. When the Czar of Russia wanted a road built from St. Petersburg to Moscow a U. S. Army Officer did the work.

The Panama Canal was built by an Army Officer and the adverse sanitary conditions which prevented other nations from existing in that zone were eliminated by an Army Officer. Most of the navigable waterways in this country have been made navigable or are kept in that condition by Army Officers.

Over building construction the Army has had supervision in Washington. The Washington Monument and Lincoln Memorial are concrete examples of monumental construction. The dome and wing of the Capitol are Army products as are the Municipal building, the Congressional Library, the Government Printing Office, and other public buildings.

The Army has made discoveries of value for use in the business activities of the Nation. Last year in one of our seaport towns a number of men were killed by gas while fumigating a ship. An appeal was made to the War Department for suggestions, and as a result the Army developed a gas safe to use in such work. The improved gas masks now so commonly used in mines is an Army invention; tear gasses used in banks as protection against burglars and by the civil police in quelling riots, is an Army product; the loops which have largely superceded the antennae of wireless stations is an Army development; the new radio alphabet which permits the transmittal of messages more than twice as fast as the Morse Code, is an Army product.

The Army is standardizing the trucks and tractors of the country and raising the standard of horses and mules bred in the United States. These animals were greatly depleted in numbers by the World War.

In addition to the foregoing the Army is ever ready to answer calls in relief work of which examples exists in the cases of the Galveston Flood, the Mt. Pelee Disaster, the Texas flood, and the Ohio River flood of about 1912. During the West Virginian mine troubles when the coal supply of the nation was threatened by a dispute arising the Army took the situation in hand and in a friendly manner induced the parties to the dispute to adjust their differences. The space is not available to go into further details regarding the activities of the Army in time of peace but the foregoing gives a general idea of what to expect from the United States Army.

The Army is always in readiness for fight, frolic, new discoveries and inventions. It is very good National Insurance.

AN AID TO CONCEALMENT

The development of a new smokeless and flashless powder for use in both the high charges and small arms will lend a degree of safety to our troops in time of war never before experienced.

Those of us who were machine gunners, especially, during the overseas campaign remember the difficulty we experienced in so placing our guns as to hide the smoke during the day and the flag at night. Such placement required considerable ingenuity at times and was frequently the cause of casualties and demolishment of the gun when the work was carelessly done.

Especially will the new development embarass enemy fliers in locating batteries. The fliers can not resort to sound, as do the artillerymen, but must be guided largely by sight. With no flash at night and no smoke during the day the fliers will have their difficulties.

This recent invention by the Ordanance Department gives us, at least temporarily, a decided advantage over such enemies, actual or constructive, as we may. The individual or individuals responsible deserve suitable recognition.

"Mr. A. was born in Augusta in 1866 and came to Atlanta with his parents in 1820." News dispatch from Atlanta, Ga.

Just let any Georgia town claim anything and Atlanta tries to go her one better.

ANOTHER COMMENT

If the News succeeds in being the means of a bit of recreation it believes that its mission has, at least partly, been accomplished. Here is a remark from the recreation officer at Chilkoot Barracks, Alaska, to be considered by the reader of these lines in the manner in which his or her conscience guides him, or her.

"The chaplain receives the "News" as an exchange for his "Chilkoot Post." He allows us to place it in the library after he has read it. I read it regularly and find it mighty god."

THE ANSWER—

"Where does the revenue or the money that is spent in Columbus, Ga. come from?" What Sources?—The Columbus Star.

Part of it from Fort Benning; about $20,000,000.00 annually, it is estimated.

A sudden influx of news was received Thursday morning just before going to press. In order to have the News ready for delivery on Friday some of the type had to be set hurriedly. The readers forbearance in the matter of typographical errors is requested this week.

CALCULATOR AND THE GREAT DANE.

Calculator and the Dane stopped at the Hospital the other day with a bone for a sick friend. The friend had taken the trip over the road from town and of course he was sick. The foolish dogs thought their friend was hungry so they brought a bone instead of flowers. They didn't know how well patients are really fed nor how many bones they already have. And they spelled out a sign in front of the Hospital. "No Parking." "Wonder what that means" said Calculator. The Dane looked wise, scratched his ear and suggested "Perhaps it means please do not park cars here." "Can't be" replied the little Wisenheimer Don't you see there are three cars parked within a few feet of the sign and surely a soldier wouldn't ignore a sign like that."

The Jist o' Life

(Pearl Lillian Truman.)

Name Changes.

Evelyn, aged two, had a little Indian doll whose name was Minnehaha. She told us one day. "When dolly is good her name Minnehaha, when she bad, she Minneboohoo."

Safety First

Auto Salesman (demonstrating new car to a lady.) You had better not touch that spark plug. It will shock you."

Lady: "Then I guess you had better put shock absorbers on my car."

His Hard Luck

Lucindy carried a whole boiled ham, still steaming, through the room where her husband lay very ill. He smelled it and said: "'Cindy, dat ham sho do smell mighty good. Gimme piece ob it."

But 'Cindy marched on, saying, "Go on wid yo' dyin' niggah, dis am fur de wake."

Pat's wife had just died and he was wailing aloud bemoaning his widower's fate, when a kindly neighbor came over to him and said, "Now Pat, have patience, have patience." Whereat Patrick replied, "Hum, I dunno that Patience will have me or not."

A woman at a dinner party sat next to a lawyer, whom she mistook for a doctor. She loved to discuss hygienic theories, so she asked him, "Please tell me if you think one ought to lie on the right side?" Lawyer (blandly) "If one is on the right side, madam, it should not be really necessary to lie at all.

Neighbor to Edwin, aged six: If you don't hurry up, Morris will get ahead of you. He is six, too."

Edwin: Oh, no, he won't we go to the same school and I am going to sit on the seat in front of him."

Did You?

Mamma—"How are you getting along in school, Johnny?"

Johnny—"Fine, mamma we are learning the dums table and have lots of gozinta examples?"

Mamma—"What on earth are they teaching you?"

Johnny—"Well, teacher says, 'two dums two is four and three dums two is six and we have strings of 'xamples like that then we have four gozinta eight twice and four gozinta twelve three times. Didn't you have that when you went to school?"

An Ingersoll Might!

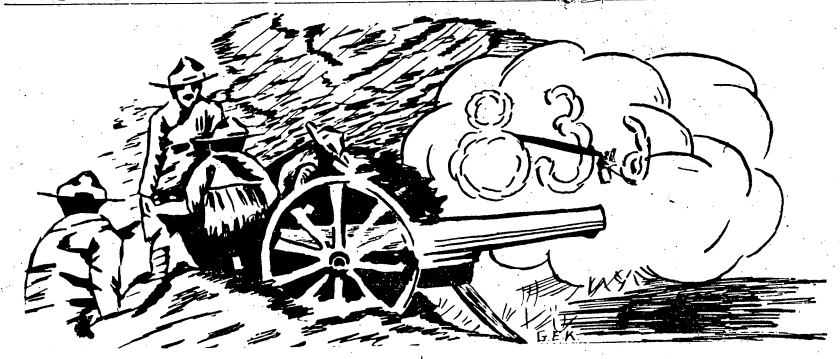
"Did your watch stop when it dropped on the floor?" asked a man of his friend.

"Sure," was the answer. "Did you think it would go through it?"



The Artillery has nothing to say this week. "A" Battery is having a hot time over in Camp McClellan, and wants to know who chased all the cooling breezes out of Alabama. We feel very sorry for said Battery, and wish we could do something, but we have a time stretching our little breezes over twenty-four hours. It is suggested that they go up on the Maine Coast for their vacation next Summer and not be as tight with their car fare. Anyway freight cars still have the same rods under them.

Somebody said Kemp looks more like "Abe Martin" than "Abe" does himself. Another guy said Kemp posed for the picture but the cartoonist was too true to life.

Sgt. Hall said he is never going to ride a horse twenty miles without considerable previous training again; also is going to steer clear of break bone fever. He knows what it feels like after that ride.

Corp Copak, our feature, daredevil, motorcycle rider has gone on a vacation.

Some N. G. Colonel said that long haired men are the nonenities of manhood, minus red blood corpuscles. It is both unsanitary and effeminate to have hair over an inch and a half long. We agree with him, and advise all the long haired ducks to get a clipping before some supply Sergeant issues them a few teddy bears and curling irons by mistake.

"HAMLET'S SOLILOQUY, 1920

(With apologies to Shakespeare
To reenlist, or not to reenlist
That's the question
Whether 'tis better to rub up against
A cold, unfriendly and forgetful public in search of job which is not—
Or don the uniform once more
And by reenlisting place myself in a Position where I may request all
To go to the devil with their fair
Promises of a warm welcome and my old
Billet back upon my return when they bade
Me a tearful adieu, as I went forth to Help make the world safe for democracy-that
Their business might flourish and their Bellies wax fat from profiteering while
Our beloved country was in the throes of war,
To be a soldier once again by heck—
'Tis a consummation devoutly to be wished—
As I gaze upon the leaden skies of an Approaching winter, the "situation that confronts"
Me is appaling; The prospects of
Howling blizzards filtering through my B. V. D.'s Reinforced only by a flimsy fabric of Hand-me-down Palm Beach pantaloons;
My heart grows faint within me and I
Pine for the flesh pots of my old company
Mess the oroma of roast beef
Assails my nostrils—and I long for the pie
In which I once did revel.
This good right hand which once did my Trusty rifle grip on battle fields
Of France is becoming palsied and
My knuckles calloused from knocking
Upon back doors in peaceful, panhandling
Pursuits which avail me naught.
My once well fatted form is Wasting away because I have not
The wherewith to purchase chow;
The shoes upon my mine feet are grasping
Plutocrats, they have no soles.
Bismillah! Old glory looks good
To me, I'm on my way.

Company "A"

Pvt. Lyons, Freddie was discharged July 5, 1923. This soldier has served continuously with this organization. Completed 5 yrs. 8 mos. and 25 days. His quality as a soldier is exceptional. He has never been courtmartialed. He has been on the Mat once in this enlistment. He is a pistol sharpshooter and a rifle marksman. He is obedient and very prompt when it comes to doing his duty. He was never absent from any formation. It is a pleasure to be in an organization where there are men like Pvt. Lyons. If you attempt wrong they will give you such a jacking up that you will always say it's no use of me trying to do wrong and every one else in the company is doing right. Again it is a credit to an organization to have men like this one re-enlist, it shows that the man himself has taken interest in what he has chosen for his livelihood.

Now Sgt. Mann, it is high time you begin to show some pep with the 45 you have been taking to the pistol range. If I am not mistaken nearly six months, and you have not qualified yet. Everybody seems to be leaving you behind, wake up get in the game, "A" company is way ahead with the rifle shooting and we want to get ahead with the pistol. So do your bit and don't be the drone.

Pvt. Murphy re-enlisted for this organizatiton July 2, 1923, Bully for Spud. They can't fool you.

Company "B"

Hello! What? You don't say—Yes—Another one—When? On Monday did you say? They have. How much? What! 322? Why what's the matter with the stinging "B"? Two highest in the regiment? Well that's no more than I was looking for. Yes that's something for the rest to shoot at. I know that, McGuire 322, and Bryson 316? Hurrah for "B" Company, always "B". B first, B highest and B the most.

Well "B" Company has passed one crisis, now that Private Nickens has qualified and there is only one more chasm to be crossed, and it looms up in the form of one Sergeant Pitts, who prior to last year was a noted member of the Blind Mens' Club. But since he has qualified with the pistol we doubt whether we will take out another membership this year in the Blind Mens' Organization. Alright Willie, we are counting on you to help make the stinging "B" 100 per cent this year, so let's start punching the bull in the eye from the start.

An even exchange is no robbery, so the old adage goes, but we are wondering whether it was an even exchange or not. "B" Company swapped Private Murray to "C" company for Private Thornton, and since Company "B" is first in everything it is a lead pipe cinch they got the best of the bargain. Just the same we will ask "C" company what they have to say about it. How about it Company "C"?

Company "K"

"We are off" for the Regimental Field Meet, to be held on the Regt'l, Athletic field, 24th Infantry, July 4th, and company "K" will have won all 1st prizes, 'ere this is published.

The boys of company "K" are all up in the air over the company Baseball team, and from present indications looks like the trophy for our company.

Sgt. Woods, (Tom Duff) our athletic Sgt. was seen weeping on last Monday morning, over the error in picking a winner for the 220, yd. dash, and upon being asked what was the idea of the gloom, replied "I could have put pa Bel's on and made a cleaning if he showed one tenth the speed shown the other night."

Company "L"

Corporal Reeves, Noisy, has done it at last. He raised his right Flopper and begged his uncle with tears in his eyes to try him one more time. Instead of getting a three months furlough, he got three more tables in the moss hall.

A very sad accident happened in the company the past week, it was very painful for Sergeant Handy, to lose poor old Woods (Mike Valet), out of the Bolo squad.

We all are very sorry "to tell you frankly my boy" that we hate to lose our old Company Commander, Captain Chas. H. McNair, 24th Infantry. Because he has been with the most of the boys for about three years. The Boys all very gladly donated the Captain a beautiful Walrus hide hand-bag, so he would not forget us while he was enjoying himself on his leave.

Look out Reuben Wilkerson, you can't get the 6 bits until you re-up, so don't go to town and do like a certain Corporal. He married one hour and she couldn't use him never no more.

We are very proud of our new Company Commander, Captain A. L. Tuttle, the Bull Eye expert. Outside of his company duties h eis trying to keep Sgt. Handy from running off the firing line.

COCA-COLA COMPANY HAS SOMETHING NEW

On another page of this issue there appears an advertisement of the Coca-Cola Co., in connection with the new six-bottle cartoon now being put on the market by that enterprising corporation.

For the family who requires but a small number of bottles of Coca-Cola at one time, and for picnics and fishing trips, the new six-bottle carton will fill a long-felt need. The Coca-Cola company is to be congratulated.

MARRIAGE VS. WAR

We have often been asked why we refer to marriage in the same sense as war. There is often no difference at all. A fellow meets a girl and decides that she FALLS IN. You talk it over and decide to BATTLE through life with; he PRESENTS ARMS and you SIGN UP. A minister SWEARS YOU IN. There are only a few SKIRMISHES during the courtship. The real fighting starts after the marriage. That's when the man thinks he is only a poor NUT. In the home as well as on the battle field they use HAND GRENADES, such as flat-irons, rolling pins, etc. The wife is usually a RIFLE EXPERT as she rifles his pockets for loose change every night. She takes all your money and CONFINES YOU TO QUARTERS. Whether you have done anything or not, she invariably has you on MESS DETAIL, washing the dirty dishes. She makes her COUNTER ATTACK in the department store and she certainly knows how to CHARGE. She is your COMMANDING OFFICER and you are her SUPPLY OFFICER. In the trenches, the fight does let up once in a while, but in the house fiercest fighting is yet to come—wait until the INFANTRY arrives. Instead of SHOULDERING ARMS, you shoulder the baby. On the field shells schreach and scream but they haven't a thing on the kid. You get your WALKING PAPERS every night and that is the only HIKE you take. In the War you only sign up for three years. There is no clause like that on your marriage certificate. You can get exempt from war on account of marriage, but you can't get exempt from marriage on account of war.—5th Corps News.

SIGNAL CORPS GETS FIGHT RETURNS.

Radio Broadcasted and Fort Benning Tunes In

Fort Benning received the Shelby fight returns last Thursday from two sources. The Columbus Ledger very enterprisingly furnished the results by telephone to the Post Gymnasium where they were announced to an interested audience while the local radio station received the returns and also announced the results by telephone at the Post Gym.

The work of making these returns possible was done by the detachment of the Signal Corps at Fort Benning under the personal supervision of Capt. Jay D. B. Lattin, Post Signal Officer. Telephone connections were made direct with the radio station and a magnovox was installed with the Ledger connection. All installations at Fort Benning were made by the Signal Corps.

The returns were very satisfactorily received from both the Ledger and the radio station. The thanks of the garrison are extended to both the Ledger for furnishing their service and to the Signal Corps for its good work.

C. W. S. REPRESENTATIVES ATTEND SERVICES EN ROUTE TO McCLELLAN

The Messenger is pleased to pass on a little story about the delegation from the 1st Gas Regiment, recently arrived in camp. It seems that when this group, commanded by 1st Lieut. P. F. Craig, C. W. S., arrived in Roanoke, Alabama, one Saturday night, after an all-day hike, they were met by a delegation of citizens among whom was the minister of the local Methodist church. The latter extended a cordial invitation to Lt. Craig to attend services in his church the following morning. The officer accepted, and Sunday morning found this crack organization occupying front seats in that quaint little country church. A letter received by one of the R. O. T. C. students from a relative in Roanoke states that every man was dressed as spick and span as if he were to be inspected by the President of the United States, and that the impression made upon the citizens of the town was excellent.

Congratulations, Lieutenatn! It is such little acts as this that are gradually "selling the Army" to our civilian friends. "Thugs in khaki" is a term that never did apply to our men, and as time goes on the citizenry of our country will see us as we actually are.—Camp McClellan Messenger.

Again the traditions of the Army have been upheld.

THE STARS AND STRIPES

They are yours!

Do you give them the proper respect? Do you doff your hat when Old Glory passes, civilian? Do you stand at attention, Soldier and Sailor and Marine? You have seen your buddies die for this old flag; your own body has suffered in the poppied field of Flanders for this banner, and yet when it passes you don't thrill as you should, do you?

You have seen in our daily papers the editorials and the write-ups about our own beloved home-folks not saluting the flag! Reflect a moment, and see how you stand on this question. Do you think it is right? Do you feel a delicacy in not giving Old Glory her due? You needn't, buddie, the old flag really doesn't need nor want the respect of the shriveled soul who is too proud to salute her Stars and Stripes. The poor little guys who stands on the street corners and calls you a "tin soldier" hasn't guts enough to protect himself as is the glory of every soldier, and the next time you see one who doesn't give Old Glory her due, you can count on him as being the guy who had nine millions of exemptions when you were "Over There" without any exemptions save your old tin helmet and a mudhole.

Give Old Glory her due."—The Rifleman.

Hints on Etiquette

(By Imer Lyer)

The Engagement—While it was once quite proper to get the consent of the parents before asking the hand of their daughter in marriage at this time it is only necessary to use a little judgment along this line. When you call the second time on the young lady watch closely your reception by the other members of the family. If, as you enter the gate, the dog is not "sicked" on you proceed with confidence to the door. If the door is open throw your hat in and if it stays follow it. It is not necessary to ring under these conditions but several very loud raps with some heavy object like a stone may tend to impress the inmates of the home with your importance and, incidentally, let them know that you know what's what along social lines.

Having gotten the girl in your possession go right to the point without stammering or confusion. Tell her you think that she is about the finest piece of feminity you ever saw wrapped up in one hide. Always try to pick the middle of the day for this important piece of business. Impress on the girl the bargain she is getting and don't belittle yourself. If she has a sneaking fondness for you she may believe what you say. Do not let her kid you into thinking she will not let you kiss her at this time. She will, usually, as she did several times before you ever proposed.

If the girl accepts you it is better to say nothing about the matter to her parents right then. They may ask inquisitive questions about your income, etc., and besides it's none of their business. They will find out in plenty of time. However, if you feel that you must let them into the plot get hold of the "old man" first and try to get a line on his attitude toward making you a small loan. If he falls for this you are assured that he is a good scout and can then go the limit with the information you have in hand.

A ring is not necessary but to let people know that you are free with your money you might get one on the installment plan from a number of good houses—so their advertisements say—and surprise the girl at the last moment by giving her this ring. If she tries beforehand to tell you what kind of a ring she wants stall her off. She may not know the size of your roll and she may be inclined to be extravagant.

Just as soon as you feel that you are safely engaged write the editor of your local paper a long letter about it. Tell him what kind of a girl you have and describe her personal habits. To lend color to the story give a detailed history of events leading up to engagement including where you first met the girl, what she said, what you said, what she replied, and so on. If the parents of the girl try to get meddlesome in this matter and want to announce the affair themselves just tell them politely but very firmly where to head in. Let them know that you are running the show, that you are the one expecting to marry the girl, and that you are competent to handle the whole affair. The "old man," especially, may want to tell the gang about it. He has several reasons for wanting to do this chief of which is that his household expenses are going to be greatly reduced. Don't let him get away with it. It is bad form and may cause you embarrassment.

Right now is a good time to go around to all your friends and tell them how much your personal expenses are going to be increased. If you can not work them for an engagement present in this way touch them up for a loan. If you are successful in the latter, it will come in handy helping to pay for the girl's trousseau. Remember that loans of this nature are looked upon as gifts by the loaner.

Next week I will tell you something about the wedding.

ANOTHER LETTER.

As the News has stated, this paper is endowed with its usual share of ordinary newspaper vanity. The News is for the Infantry School, also. For both reasons the following letter is published:

Camp McClellan, Ala.
June 29, 1923

To the New Editor,
The Infantry School News
Sir:

I wish to thank you for the copies of the News you so kindly sent us. They went like the proverbial "hot cakes." Immediately upon their receipt they were distributed to the officers and great interest was manifested by everyone, the uninitiated had to have an explanation as to just who Calculator is, his conection with the School, etc.

I assure you that future editions of the paper will find a large number of interested readers among the past, present and future Benning officers here at this Post.

One of the outstanding features at this Summer Camp is the great number of Benning officers one sees and it is gratifying to see the manner in which they take hold of things. They have the admiration of everyone and the oficers who have not been to the Infantry School express a keen desire to go. I have had volleys of questions fired at me, covering every possible angle of the School, by those who have yet to come down there.

The R. O. T. C. Camp is functioning splendidly—no confusion — everyone has a job and he is tending to it religiously—these students are receiving training of the highest order under an excellent administration.

The student body is composed of young men of culture and refinement, sturdy young Southerners and are excellent oficer material. The only thing that leads me tobelieve that they will not make soldiers is the fact that I have no heard a "growl" from any of them.

Athletics receive a great deal of attention during the regular daily program and the swimming pool is an attractive and well patronized place these moonlight evenings. During the day and well on into the night the Alabama hills echo and re-echo with spirited College yells when the Student Body gathers at the Amphitheatre or at other points on the reservation to witness programs, band concerts or other forms of entertainments which are constantly being staged for them.

It is a novel sight to see the bodies of men from rival colleges marching together, singing the same songs and all boosting the same events, however individual College spirit is not lacking and one is forcibly informed of the merits of each institution by the wording of the respective "yells."

These Summer Camps are an immense success and thanks to the assistance of Bennings ofifcers they are developing a selected body of young Americans into real Reserve officer material.

Again thanking you for copies of the Infantry News and wishing you Success as editor of that important publication, I am,

Yours sincerely,
W. A. Cunningham.
Recreation Officer.

During the week two new Company commanders have been welcomed into the regiment. Captain J. H. Rustemeyer returns to Fort Benning from R. O. T. C. Duty at the A. & M. College of Oklahoma, Stillwater, Okla. and is assigned to the 24th Infantry. He has been assigned to "K" Co. which he formerly commanded when the personnel was known as Co. "B" of the Infantry School Detachment, (Colored)

Captain Benjamin F. Caffey, Jr. Infantry has joined the regiment from leave. Captain Caffey comes from the 2nd Corps Area Headquarters D. O. L. and has been assigned to "C" Company. Company "I" has been the recipient of a new Company commander in the person of Captain A. L. Tuttle, 24th Infantry. Captain Tuttle has been performing the duties of plans and training officer for the regiment, and has been kept busy with the very difficult task of firing the regiment through a target season which has had setbacks almost daily since it's beginning. Captain Tuttle will continue the Rifle instruction in additon to the duties of company commander.

Within the past week twelve officers of the regiment departed for a tour of special duty at Camp McClellan, Ala. as instructors in the summer training camps of the 4th Corps Area. Captain R. M. Wilson left with the 24th Infantry baseball team for a series of games with the Black Barons of Birmingham, and the Colored giants of Memphis.

almost forgotten dinner set additions. A moustache contest would not be out of order in camp judging from the hairy upper lips displayed by the cadets.

A. H. Davis, from Georgia Tech has asked, to be allowed to throw stones at the pistol target, as he feels that his previous experience in target work gives him an unfair advantage over his mates.

D. E. Allen, of Company "G," caled on Captain Wysor, Assistant Adjutant, and inquired where he could find the key to the parade ground. Captain Wysor handed him the key to the office safe.

Foot Polo, a game not unlike Polo, (except that horses are eliminated) is the latest addition to the already heavy athletic schedule. Mr. A. L. Carroll, who has the distinction of having written the first book of rules on this game, is building what he terms a championship team from the splendid material in the camp. He asks us to announce that there are still two or three vacancies on his first and second teams.

Last evening was "College Stunt Night" at the R. O. T. C. Camp. With individual stars from the Emory University Glee Club in attendance, the various college delegations attempted to outdo each other in their efforts to demonstrate the spirit of their schools. College songs were sung with a vigor unbelievable. The 22nd Infantry Band provided its highly pleasing offering of a medley of all the college airs.

Editor's Note—It is the opinion of the News that those youngsters are being led a "dog's life."

C. M. T.'s WILL BE FED

menu will be strictly followed for each meal.

The quantities will be varied with the appetites of the members of the mess and the local market. In some instances a liberal allowance of milk and sugar has been provided over and above what would be used for the particular meal, but as a rule a pint of milk per person a day has been provided for use in some form. The same may be said of fruits, cereals and fresh vegetables.

The following menu for one day gives an idea of the variety of food to be served. The menus are changed daily.

Breakfast—Fresh fruit, cantaloupe or berries, cereal, corn flakes and oatmeal, fried bacon and scrambled eggs, hot biscuits, coffee, sugar and milk for fruit, cereals and coffee.

Dinner—Fresh vegetables, soup, chicken a la creole, fresh string beans, creamed new potatoes, young onions, sliced cucumbers, bread, jelly roll, lemonade.

Supper (cold)—Potato salad, sliced summer sausage, green apple sauce, bread and butter, iced tea and fresh whole milk.

moisture, must be packed in waterproof containers. If these containers are in any way defective, deterioriation is almost certain to result.

The new type of powder was first developed for the 75 mm. gun and has now been modified to include charges for heavier artillery. It will, also, be adapted to small arms, such as the rifle and machine gun, and will eventually replace entirely for all arms the type of powder now in use.

I. S. D. WINS TWO FROM ATLANTIANS

Soldiers Take Double Bill from the Ramblers, First Game Being the Best of the Season on Benning Field.

By Sergt. J. M. Wheeler.

The Atlanta Ramblers proved to be one of the hardest teams the I. S. D. has played this season. The first game proves this, while the second one was also good. In a grett pitcher's battle in the first setto, between McNutt and Manos, Kid Suby shone forth as the greatest star of all when in the last half of the ninth he hit the longest home run ever made at Benning, winning the old ball game by the Score of 1 to 0.

Heckert's sensational one-handed pick-up off Clark's near hit in the fourth inning, and the retiring of him at first, will live long in the memory of the fans who witnessed the game. It was the greatest game of the season bar none, and the fans were thrilled time after time by the sensational playing of both clubs.

The two hurlers never worked better in their lives and, though Manos lost, he was glorious in defeat for he came near winning his own game with a slashing drive to deep right in the eighth inning, but was left stranded at third by his teammates.

Swantic, of the Tanks, worker in the second game and he held the Ramblers at bay with the exception of one bad inning, when they scored five runs. The game ended 6 and 5, with the soldiers on the long end. The box score follows:

THE I. S. D. TEAM BEATS JORDAN CITY

The I. S. D. evened up the series with Jordan City last Saturday afternoon on the latters lot, winning easily by the score of 11 to 4, sending Monte Moore to the showers in the 6th stanza. McNutt, kept the hits well scattered and never was in danger, he gave way to Duff, the veteran, in the seventh, who looked good in the three frames he worked tho he is not in the best of shape as yet as he has not fully recuperated from the effects of the injury he received while on Maneuver. McCarthy's hitting and Hinton's fielding were the features of the game while Albrecht scored three of his team mates runs. This makes eleven wins for the soldiers and one lost, later on in the season the I. S. D. will play Jordan City the odd game and from the exhibition put up Saturday, the boys from Benning should cop the deciding game.

The box score follows:

LEGION BOUTS GOOD

Good Crowd At Driving Park.

Last Thursday the American Legion staged another successful boxing bout. The affair was held at the open air arena at the Driving Park and was well attended. A number of conflicting attractions tended to reduce the size of the crowd somewhat.

The first preliminary was between Yelmoni of Fort Benning and Pomerantz of Fort Benning. The men were middle weights. Yelomni was knocked out in the second round. This bout was followed by another four round preliminary between Kent and Hubbard, both of Columbus. Hubbard knocked his man out in one minute and forty seconds of fast fighting. Kent seemed to have the edge until the k. o. Keenan, Fourth Corps Area bantam weight champion, got a decision over Ray of Columbus in six rounds. Keenan did not show his usual form. Pacioni, of Benning, substituting for Grantham, of Benning who had an injured arm, kept on his feet for ten rounds against Eugene Poyner. Poyner had everything his own way. Pacioni challenged Poyner to a return bout giving as his reason that he had had but one day's notice in which to get ready for the bout. Antley of Columbus and Billy Knox of Missouri battled a ten round duel with Antley getting the decision. Knox either badly sprained or broke his right hand in the second round. He challenged Antley for a return go Athens who was recently kayoed by Antley, challenged for a return bout.

The main go of the evening was between Peck of Columbus and Tenner of Charleston, S. C., for the mythcal featherweight championship of the South. The decision was a draw although the crowd was about divided in its opinion.

During the bouts the Gibbons-Dempsey returns were announced.

The Infantry Team Creed

I AM an Infantryman. Being an Infantryman I realize the value of team work. I am a prospective team member. In the furtherance of my aim to make the team I will not think of myself as an individual but a component of the team. What knowledge I gain in my work that I consider of value, that will help my brother competitor, I will not hold to myself but will pass on to others that the team may benefit. Being an Infantryman my aim is to make the Infantry first and I realize that only by a conscientious effort on my part, on the part of every individual, can the desired result be attained. I will enter into all work with the spirit to make it a success. I will comply cheerfully with all regulations and make the best of existing conditions and in so doing realize I am giving the team my support and keeping up the proper team spirit. Whether successful in making the team or not I consider I am not a loser. An Infantryman never loses. I will do all in my power to maintain contentment in the team. I am a prespective team member. I am an Infantryman.

83rd ARTILLERY POLO TEAM.

Will Be Strong This Year.

The polo team of the 83rd F. A. has had a serious reverse on account of the departure of Lieut. Gannon, Lieut. McCarthy and Major Yeager. The poor outlook caused gloom to settle down on the Artillery camp for a short time. Gannon, the team Captain has been active in polo since the initiation of the "Sport of the Princess" at the post, and his loss to the team will be greatly felt. McCarthy, "Stellar Back," is exceedingly hard to replace because it is seldom that a No. Four is developed with the aggressive and dependable playing such as he was capable of.

Recently Lieuts. Carpenter, Alberts, Olmsted, Uncles and Crawford have joined the Battalion. All of them are Polo enthusiasts, Olmsted played the four position on the 12th F. A. team at Fort Sam Houston. It is expected he will fill this place. The polo team has been reinforced considerably by the assignment of Major Anderson and Captain Shugg to this Post. It is understood that they are veteran players of long standing according to advance information. These two officers will join about September the first, Lieut. Beiderlinden whose wrist was injured during the tournament in March due to his horse falling, reports that he expects to be in the game at an early date. Roxbury is only temporarily absent from the organization and according to rumor is getting quite a little practice while playing with the "All Stars" at Camp McClellan, Ala.

The present polo activity is primarily training new horses. The pride of the Artillery, "Sister" was injured in some unknown way while in the pasture and probably will never play polo again. However it is hoped that some recruits will join the Artillery picket line in the near fuutre and will be in the line up when the ball is bowled for the opening of the 1923-24 Polo season.

A QUALIFICATION HARD TO BEAT

26th Infantry Qualifies 97.8 Per Cent.

On June 7, 1923, the Twenty Sixth Infantry, stationed at Plattsburg Barracks, New York, completed its season's rifle firing with a record which is an enviable one for any Regiment of Infantry in the Army.

The results can best be described by the following order:

Headquarters Twenty-Sixth Infantry,
Plattsburg Barracks, New York,

match regulations applied to the match, rapid fire being fired at the "A" target at 200 and 300 yards and the offhand position was fired without the sling. The ranges fired were 10 shots, 200 yards offhand, 200 and 300 rapid fire and 10 shots at 600 yards. A composite team representing the Tanks finished second, one point behind the winners and a provisional team from the 3rd Infantry finished third. Where regiments were not represented by three men, unassigned men were drawn for by lot and were assigned to complete a team of three men.

On Wednesday, July 11th, weather permitting, the final tryouts for the Infantry team squad will start and will continue until July 24th. The period proceeding the starting of the tryouts is being devoted to firing at ranges where most needed. Weather conditions have been exceptionally fine since the arrival of the team and during the first month of training only one afternoon period has been called off on account of rain.

The baseball season ended on July 5th when the Giants, captained by Lieut. Watson won from the Bisions, captained by Capt. Pearson in the third game of a two out of three series. Great interest was taken in the series and a great deal of good sport was enjoyed by all. Saturday, July 7th the team is making another sight seeing tour through the Niagara Wall Paper Company's plant at Niagara Falls. Last Saturday the trip was made to the Niagara Power Company plant where the squad saw the wonderful development of hydro electric power from the Falls. Trips are being planned for the coming Saturdays and it is hoped that before leaving Fort Niagara all the principal plants of interest will have been visited.

A number of officers families have joined the team colony during the past week, among them being Mrs. Bisset, Mrs. Tomey and Mrs. Barrick.

Daily bulletins will be sent organizations of the daily results of the tryouts. The shooting this year has been excellent and a strong competition is expected. Among the new men are some excellent shots and those of previous teams and experience will be forced to go to the limit to win.

The pistol squad is firing daily and turning in fine scores. Captain W. A. Hedden, member of last year's pistol team is in charge of the work of the pistol squad. A number of the riflemen are trying out with the pistol in addition to their work with the rifle.

The final result of the tryouts will be published in these columns and also weekly articles will be published from our correspondent.

Tried for team competition to stimulate interest. Regimental team shoot believed most valuable, but so far none have been authorized.

Rapid Fire done on target "A" with regular time allowance for 200 and 300 yards rapid fire.

Where regiments did not have sufficient men to make one team, men from other organizations were attached.

Ties were decided by lowest score made by any member of team at 600 yards, slow fire, 300 yards, rapid fire, and so on.

Shooting conditions: Good, except for fish-tail wind at 600 yards which required close watching and careful wnd corrections.

MRS. LYONS AWAY.

Mrs. C. M. Lyons, wife of Captain Lyons, 24th Infantry, is visiting friends in Springfield, Missouri. Captain Lyons is now at Camp Perry with the Infantry Rifle Team. Mrs. Lyons expects to join him about August 1st.

CAPT. BETTS RETURNS.

Captain E. C. Betts has returned from a sixty day sick leave, which was spent at Daytona Beach, Fla. The friends of Captain Betts, and especially the polo player of the Post, will be gratified to learn that Captain Betts has fully recovered from the injuries sustained by Capt. Betts during the last polo tournament. Captain Betts reports that while on leave he saw Colonel J. W. Barnes, retired, who was at one time G-3 at Fort Benning. Colonel Barnes sent his best wishes to members of the Command.

LT. LAVIN ON LEAVE.

Lieut. R. P. Lavin, Assistant Post Adjutant, will go on leave on about the 16th of this month. His whereabouts while on leave are surrounded by mystery.

CAPT. McNAIR ON LEAVE.

Captain Chas. H. McNair, accompanied by Mrs. McNair has gone on a sixty day leave. The leave will be spent in Philadelphia.

COL. AND MRS. KENT HAVE 25th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

On last Sunday Col. and Mrs. W. A. Knet motored to Pine Knot Springs and entertained a small party. This was the 25th wedding anniversary of Col. and Mrs. Kent. Dinner was had at Mrs. Rushin's. Included in the party were Col. and Mrs. W. B. McCackey, Miss Peggy Kent, and Lieut. R. P. Lavin.

MRS. PENDLETON ARRIVES.

On last Saturday Mrs. Pendleton, wife of Colonel Harris Pendleton, Jr., arrived on the Post accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Sono. Col. Pendleton has been assigned quarters in Block 15.

OFFICERS OF POST ENTERTAINED.

On last Wednesday afternoon the officers of the Post were entertained by Mr. Ralph O. Howard and Mr. R. M. Hall, local representatives of the First National Bank of Columbus, at an old fashioned barbecue at the Big Eddy Club. General Gordon and his aid, Lieut. Honnen, were among those present. Officers who were in attendance expressed themselves in a very complimentary manner with regard to the barbecue and appreciated the hospitable motive which prompted Mr. Howard and Mr. Hall in giving the party.

LIEUT. GAILEY ENTERTAINS.

Mr. and Mrs. Callaway of Millstead, Ga., visited their cousin Lt. C. K. Gailey at Fort Benning on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. Lieut. Gailey favored the Callaways with dinner parties on both evenings.

Service Club No. 1 Notes

On July the 4th a rather unusual record was made in the matrimonial race when a certath member of the Print Shop rode to Columbus acquired a wife and returned to camp all in the brief space of one and one-half hours. Corporal Harry Willis, I. S. D., and Miss Verna Wills of Chattanooga, Tenn., are the happy ones. Miss Wills sister of Private Peter Wills, Headquarters, Company, has been staying at the Service Club for the past four weeks and in that short time has made many friends in Fort Benning.

Corporal and Mrs. Willis are spending their honey-moon among the hills of Tennessee. We wish for them many happy years of weded life.

The masquerade ball on July 3rd at the Post Gymnasium was a great success—everyone looked so cool and the music was never better. Many fancy costumes were in evidence, among them being: The family Queen, Mrs. Pool; the Marine Corporal, Mrs. Brown; the two Brigands, Corporals Bennett and Kilpatrick; the Western Cow Boy, Sammie Brigs; the "lady" in blue, Lonymeyer; the bashful fairies, Misses Leigh and Jones; the Bandit, Corporal White, and many others whose names are known to the scribe.

July 4th was rather a busy day for the Service Club, men, women and children packed the house all day—but why not, it is the coolest place in Fort Benning. Games of cards, checkers, chess, pool, etc., were enjoyed thruout the day. The piano and victrola did their part in contributing entertainment for the day and both were ready to declare a strike when the day was over.

Anyone finding any Victrola records marked "Service Club" in any recreation room, or elsewhere, please return same to the Service Club, also packs of cards marked "C. M. Roe" on the face of each card.

The Hostess had rather a pleasant surprise the other day when a certain Major dropped from "the skies" and handed her an armful of Piano Rolls, for which all the Service Club habitues join in thanking him for the thoughtful donation.

The President of the Service Club committee has taken to the woods—no, it was not caused by a disappoint in love affairs—the reason is far more prosiac, the measles is his champion.

COMING! COMING! COMING! Watch for the date of an informal country dance to be given in the Service Club soon.

COMMUNITY SINGERS ENTERTAIN

Gave Concert Last Sunday Afternoon.

On last Sunday afternoon Dr. Taylor's Community Singers gave a concert to an interested audience on the lawn of the Commanding Officer's quarters. The concert was well received and the type of music was varied. Several selection of sacred music were rendered and the old colored religious music brought forth enthusiastic applause from the audience.

Among the selections were "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," "Golden Slippers," "Old Time Religion," and other songs familiar to past generations.

Last Sunday's concert was not the first given by the Community Singers and those members of the audience in attendance hope that it will not be the last. The popularity of this band of singers is evidenced by the number of times they have met with a warm reception at Fort Benning. They inject real harmony and the pathos of their race in their singing especially in the rendition of the old melodies.

RENTAL LEASES SLIGHTLY CHANGED

Beneficial To Student Officers

All rental contracts or leases that are signed up hereafter will be for from September to September instead of from October to October, as is now the case, according to an announcement yesterday by F. W. Armour, secretary and treasurer of the Columbus Real Estate board.

It was pointed out that as the contracts now stand they are an inconvenience to the student officers who come to the Infantry school every year, as it causes them to have to find lodging in private homes or hotels until they can get into their homes in October, as they arrive here in the first part of September.

This change in the renting and leasing of houses was proposed by the board of real estate men of the city some months ago, and it is stated, will be adhered to by all local realtors in general, as practically all the local real estate men belong to this board.—Enquirer-Sun.

83rd Field Artillery

"B" Battery

This is a young man's age, for survey of the men holding big positions reveals the fact that gray hairs are few. In the same way, "B" Battery is a young man's peppy Battery. Our Top-Kick is a youngster, as tops go: the Mess Sergeant is young and full of pep; our cleck is a baby and even our officers are little fellows. This young spirit keeps things moving around here.

Two of our men moved over the hill, but their reason for going is a dark secret to us, any way, we all know that a dark cloud always comes before a storm. Sergt. Green took a walk but the supply-room is still here. The Battery is sorry to lose a good man.

We are trying to make our place more of a "Home Sweet Home." Drop around and see our new wicker rockers our phonograph operated by human springs. The artillery extends an invitation to all branches, come and pay us a visit. There's always somebody home.

Yep a Columbus Hambone got a deserter.

"C" Battery

The battery garage is the scene of beaucoup labor. Sections being scraped and painted, tool room being repaired, etc.

We hope that Sergeant John will "re-up!" think it over, John.

Our battery commander, having been ordered to Ft. Sill expects to leave the outfit about August 1st.

Sergeant John, how about re-enlisting?

All together, "C" Battery, "Say John, don't go away from your boys."

Lieut. Beiderlinden, and Lieut. Carpenter have raised the average for the Battery—Height we mean.

It is now considered improper, if not downright indecent, for a gentleman, calling himself a gentleman, to be seen without his permanent wave and his dollar hair-cut. The growing tendency toward elaborate head-dress for men seems to indicate that soon the "part" will run cross-wise, ending in fish-hook curls about the ears.

American Legion Notes
From American Legion News Service

Parkersburg, W. Va—Following an offer of a reward of $100 from the West Virginia department of the American Legion for the arrest and conviction of persons who unlawfully and publicly mutilated an American flag which they took from in front of the post office building at Mineral Wells, W. Va., three men have been arrested at Parkersburg and have been charged with the offense.

Indianapolis—Georgia continues to lead all other departments of the American Legion in membership gain over 1922, according to latest reports from legion national headquarters. Other leading states, in relative order, are Arizona, Idaho, Utah and South Carolina. In total membership, the five leading states are New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Ohio.

Washington—The American Legion's long fight to obtain the removal of disabled war veterans from contract hospitals and institutions where conditions oftentimes have been determined to their recovery is on its way to success, according to information received by Joe Sparks( chairman of the legion's national rehabilitation committee.

In a recent letter from Director Frank T. Hines of the United States Veterns' Bureau, Sparks was informed that "it is the policy of the Bureau to evacuate all its beneficiaries from contract institutions during the coming year, transferring them to hospitals under the jurisdiction of the Bureau."

Because of lack of hospitals, the Veterans' Bureau has sent many sick and wounded former service men to private institutions, paying a fixed sum for their maintenance. In a number of instances, this practice has resulted in neglect and ill treatment of the war fighters, according to the legion men, who state that there has been no efficient check to determine whether the disabled were receiving all that the government was paying for their support in the contract institutions.

Bloomington, Ill.—A message of Americanism will be heard by every school child in the state of Illinois each week during the school year, according to details of a plan just announced by Commander Charles W. Schick, of the American Legion in Illinois.

Under the plan offered by Commander Schick, a member of the American Legion will be detailed to each room of city schools, and to country schools each week during the school year to discuss some phase of Americanization.

Commander Schick has announced that all posts of the organization will take an intimate part in naturalization of aliens. He hopes to work out a plan in co-operation with churches of all denominations, whereby the prospective ictizens will receive a course of instruction in American hstory and nstitutions, before fnal papers are awarded.

"The Legion is really a great American organization," declared Commander Schick." It embraces all creeds, all races, and almost all colors. It is the great melting-pot in which are fused America's mighty forces. It should be the legion's task to perform some constructive work. This work, I believe, should be along the lines of maintaining the ideals of America."

San Francisco—California is preparing to demonstrate her advantages to the 150,000 world war fighters expected to attend the American Legion's national convention in San Francisco next October. Citizens from outlying cities and towns, industrial and commercial centers, farming regions and the ranch country will assemble in the convention city to welcome the visitors.

California's products and her assets of wealth are to be displayed effectively in a large electrical parade to be hel don one of the evenings during convention week. Every county in the State will be represnted by floats bearing typical exhibits, enhanced by groups of pretty girls and ornamented by electrical effects. One hundred bands, representing cities and towns, many of them from legion posts, will march in the procession. Visiting legionnaires, who will have marched in the customary military parade on one of the convention mornings, will be permitted to sit on the side-lines to watch the California boosters demonstrate their state pride.

Chambers of Commerce and legion posts throughout the State are preparing to spend a quarter of a million dollars on floats for the night parade.

Indianapolis—Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, has received a letter from Sir Douglas Haig, commander of the British forces during the world war, thanking him for a message to the recent convention of the British Legion from the American organization, delivered by Hanford MacNider, of Mason City, Ia.

"It seemed to me that your splendid words found an echo in the hearts of every one present," the letter stated, in part. "To your wish, 'Let us be comrades in peace,' I hasten to assure you that that is the sincere wish of every member of the British Legion. The aims of our respective legions seem to be identical for all practical purposes, and I hope that by some means we English-speaking ex-service men may become more closely affiliated. Please convey to your colleagues of the American Legion the heart-felt thanks of the British Legion for your assurance of fellowship which we cordially reciprocate."

The legion was represented at the convention of British veterans by Mr. MacNider and Milton J. Foreman, of Chicago, past national commanders.

Father Time stated that baseball was played even in Bible days. He says:
Eve stole first and Adam stole second.
Saint Peter umpired the game,
Rebecca went to the well with a pitcher,
While Ruth in the field won fame;
Goliath was struck out by David,
A base hit made on Able by Cain,
The Prodigal Son made one home run,
Brother Noah gave out checks for rain.

The Price of Peace

The offer of $100,000 for the best plan to obtain permanent world peace has created a stir in journalistic circles. Mr. Bok will no doubt receive a great many well prepared papers on the subject.

Municipalities preserve order among their inhabitants by having an efficient police force. Certain city ordinances are drafted along lines which will prevent confusion and disorder and these ordinances are then enforced by men whose only duty is their enforcement. The municipality in this manner preserves peace.

The principles which apply to the preservation of peace in a city appear to be valid in the preservation of peace between nations. Switzerland is an example of how a nation prepared for war at all times may still remain at peace with hostile adjoining nations. True, the natural terrain of this little country has something to do with this but in addition to the terrain there are about 500,000 reasons why other nations make no attempt at invading her—and every one of these reasons is armed with a rifle.

World peace may be insured by establishing certain laws covering the matter of one nation declaring war upon another and then having sufficient force behind these laws to enforce them. Establish the laws and have no force behind them and they become "a scrap of paper." If the United States wants world peace she must do her share toward supplying the force necessary to enforce such laws as exist or may be enacted toward this end.

For A Better Infantry.

In a recent issue of the News an editorial under the caption "An Aid To Concealment" discussed the possibilities of the new flashless and smokeless powder recently developed by the Ordinance Department. Now we have information of a new semi-automatic rifle capable of firing sixty shots per minute.

The equipping of Infantrymen with this new rifle and a plentiful supply of ammunition charged with the new powder will be a decided advantage over the present equipment. From the reports received the new rifle is about the same weight as the present Springfield rifle and this fact will not tend to increase the weight of the present Infantry pack. The rifle is accurate and simple in construction thereby eliminating jams and accidents.

One of the first tactical principles being that an advance with small loss of life is possible only after fire superiority has been gained the means to this end seems to have been now made available. The smokeless and flashless powder will tend to aid in the concealment of troops while the terrific volume of fire of which a full company is capable with the new rifle can not fail to gain fire superiority. After which the bayonet, or the threat of the bayonet, will complete the action.

Things seem to be "breaking for" the Infantry right at present.

Speaking of the Fort Benning road, it is a difficult thing to transport $20,000,000 over it in a year's time without losing some of this cash. Too many shell holes. If the road could be smoothed over a little more of this money might reach Columbus safely.

---

The Columbus-Cusseta Road does not seem to be thriving so much these warm July days. As for the Columbus-Fort Benning Road—well, this is a respectable newspaper which is read by ladies and as a consequence the subject must be dropped right here.

---

If a bond issue should be floated we believe we know where to locate a number of prospective subscribers. Everybody is interested in floating something over the Fort Benning road. Airplanes will do it now but they are somewhat expensive

CALCULATOR AND THE GREAT DANE

Calculator and the Great Dane were watching the daily struggle at the post commissary. Said the Great Dane. "This here Dempsey-Gibbons fight has set me thinking, Calculator, and there is a splendid idea comes into my mind." "How is that," said the other, "you being an army dog, shouldn't talk of fighting—you'll offend some one as we are supposed to be a peace army now."

"That may be, said the Great Dane," but here is the point. Whenever I listen in on the conversations at the different gathering places I find that there is a lot of discussion going on about this officer or that family and what they did or some one said they did. It doesn't seem to be any one's business except the party concerned, but still the others talk about it as if it was a family affair. So the thought came to my mind what a fine thing it would be if I could turn into you the names of the people who talk about the others and don't like their style and so forth and you would order them to appear at the post gymnasium on certain days and fight it out in the ring with the padded gloves. The loser to apologize for his or her bad manners in gossipping or doing things which made gossip possible."

"A great scheme," replied Calculator," and I would suggest that during each bout the reason for the fight be announced in a loud voice to the audience."

"It ought to do some good," laughed the Great Dane. "I am getting tired of hearing so many unkind remarks about the other fellow. I always investigate those htings and the remarks are never justified—least of all by folks who don't know what they are talking about."

"You express my sentiments exactly," said Calculator, "I have a notebook full of names of people on the post who putt in 49 hours out of 48 at that kind of work and I am figuring on publishing it some day in the same style as the doughboy of 1921 will their picture and the particular brand of remarks they make as took underneath."

At this moment a car came by headed for town so Calculator hopped aboard to see how the paving of the Benning road was getting along, while the Great Dane started over to see the Grey Squirrel and the Blue bird.

LEDGER FURNISHES FIGHT RETURNS.

On last Thursday evening the Columbus Ledger furnished the returns of the Willard-Firpo fight to the personnel of Fort Benning.

The system of getting the returns was the same as the one followed when the returns were furnished by the Ledger of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight on July 4th.

The courtesy of the Ledger in furnishing this service is appreciated by the entire command.

FLAG ETIQUETTE

1. The proper time for raising or putting out a flag is sunrise or after, never before.

2. The flag should always be lowered at sunset, although the War Department sanctions the flying of the flag over civilian property at night, provided it is not so flown for advertising purposes.

3. A flag should never be allowed to trail or lie on the ground and should always be taken in during stormy weather.

4. When the flag is raised at ceremonies, everyone present should stand, face the flag and if covered, uncover, holding the head-dress opposite the left shoulder with the right hand. Men in military or naval uniform will render the hand salute.

5. When the flag passes in parade, the same courtesy should be rendered as in No. 4.

6. When any other flag is displayed with our National colors. Old Glory must always be on the right or above.

7. As a sign of mourning the flag should first be smartly hoisted to the "truck," as the peak of the staff is called, for a moment and then slowly lowered to and left at half mast. At sunset the flag should first be smartly hoisted to the truck before lowering to the ground.

8. The flag should never be used for a cover or in any position where other objects are placed on it.

9. Flags should always be treated with reverence and carefully put away when not in use.

10. In draping the flag against the side of a room or building, the blue field should always be towards the North or towards the East.

11. When the "Star Spangled Banner," recognized as our National Anthem, is played or sung, all should rise and stand until the song is finished. Men and boys should uncover. It is proper to face the musicians or those singing during this ceremony except when the flag is being lowered, when all should face the flag.

12. When red, white and blue bunting is used for decorating, the blue, representing the union, should be at the top, the honor point, the white in the middle, and the red below.

13. It is against the law to put any printing or advertising of any kind on the United States flag.

14. A common misuse showing lack of respect and dignity is the embroidering of the flag on cushions and handkerchiefs, and the printing of the flag on paper napkins. These practices, while they are not strictly in violation of any present Federal law, should be discouraged.

24th INFANTRY QUALIFIES 100 PER CENT.

In Machine Gunnery, Second Season With Perfect Score.

The Machine Gun companies of the 24th Infantry have this week finished their target season with the following gratifying result:

Company "D," with forty men firing, qualified twenty Experts, nineteen Sharpshooters and one Marksman; H. Company, with forty men, qualified eight Experts, thirty-one Sharpshooters and one Marksman, while Company M with forty-one men, qualified eleven Experts, twenty-eight Sharpshooters and two Marksmen.

These companies were enabled to produce the one hundred per cent. qualification shown above only thru the untiring efforts of every one concerned. The members of companies D and H who came to Fort Benning last October with a record of 100 per cent. qualification for the 1922 target season have labored unceasingly as coaches for the untrained Machine Gunners who were attached to those companies and to Company M, while the interest an denthusiasm of the new men aided materially in putting across this record of which we are all so proud.

Capt. E. C. Callahan was in charge of firing, and was ably assisted in the work by Lts. W. V. Carter, H. D. Schas, Lloyd Inman and H. P. Henry.

The Jist o' Life

(Pearl Lillian Truman.)

He Knew Johnny

Teacher: "Now, Willie, if Johnny Stone (a classmate) should tell you that he killed three rabbits yesterday and five the day before, how many rabbits would he have killed in both days?

Willie: "Oh, about one or two."

Teacher: "One or two? Why Willie, three and five make eight."

Willie: "Yesm, but I know Johnny's habits."

Then the Fun Began

A dignified statesman some time ago, while traveling in a thirdclass railway carriage in the north of England, sat down hurriedly next to a little girl in shawl and clogs. Happening to glance at her a moment or two afterward, he saw that she was regarding him with no great favor. It dawned upon him that he was sitting on her newspaper. "Here, my dear, he said, pulling the paper from under him and handing it to her. "I'm sorry."

The little girl did not look quite satisfied, but she said nothing until a few minutes later, the train drew up at a station. "Please sir, she then inquired weakly, "May I have my Limburger cheese. It was in the paper."

A Timely Tale

Two rookies of the A. E. F. met in Queenstown, Ireland. Just as they had interchanged a mutual "Howdy, Buddy," a "Henry" passed, closely followed by another.

Said one: "What time of day is it when one Ford chases another Ford?"

"Give it up! What's the answer?"

"Tin after tin."

A Handicap Both Ways

Two Irishmen were philosophizing. Said Pat to Mike, "Did yes iver shtop to think that wan-half the world don't know how the ither half gits along?"

"You're right," said Mike; "and neither does the other half."

Accountant Needed

Valerie, aged 7, is the baby in a family of six, and naturally the family bathroom is a very busy place. Her mamma asked her if she had taken a baththat morning, or if she needed one the evening of this particular occasion. Valerie bawled out to her auntie several rooms distant—"Auntie, was it me that had a bath this morning?"

Really Happened.

A child in the Public school was trying to answer the examination questions in geography in her final examination and this is one of the answers she wrote:

"The Mississippi River has its source in the Red Sea, flows thru Hudson Bay and empties into Cape Horn."

Mixed.

A lady went away from home and just before leaving she told her four year old nephew that she would not return for a long time. But after a few weeks absence she found it necessary to make a trip home. She came upon the little fellow suddenly and the shock of seeing her when he was not expecting her proved so great, his ideas got twisted and he said:

"I know who you is but I don't know who youse name are."

Hints on Etiquette
By Ima Lyer

THE WEDDING—Your falling for the same old story ought to be told the world.

"Not more than four months before nor less than fifteen days after, wedding invitations should be sent to those who are to be present at the ceremony" In chosing the guests descrimination should be used. In these days of the h. c. o. l. it is no longer considered bad form to ask only those people from whom you may reasonably expect an expensive wedding gift. Some authorities on etiquette even sponsor the initials 'P. B. P.' on the invitation which of course, is a gentle hint to the person receiving same.

"Formal invitations may be either printed or engraved, If time is a factor it may be necessary to have a printer run off several hundred invitations. The use of a typewriter in sending out formal invitations is very infrequently resorted to. In the event that a typewriter is used great care should be taken to see that the stenographer uses the correct form and punctuation. The following is an effective invitation form:

(of the firm of Jackson and Adams) requests that you
be at his marriage to Miss Cecilia Baumgartner
the daughter
of
Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Baumgartner
(Green Grocers) on the Evening
of
P. B. P. July 13, 1923 P. B. P. at the home of Mr. Jackson's parents.

The above form of invitation tells all at a glance and, especially if the groom be a young man just starting out in business, it calls attention to him in this conection. He should never talk business at the wedding, however.

"It is necessary that the young man and young lady make out a list to whom invitations are to be sent." A recent directory showing the names of all bank officials is always available and contains a large assortment of names to choose from. Care should be taken, however, that the wedding either takes place in a building large enough to accomodate all guests or else in some town other than the one in which live the invitees.

"The bride and groom deside upon the clergyman whom they wish to officiate" As far as making it stick is concerned most clergymen, regardless of denomination or creed, are very efficient in this respect. There is not much choice in the matter and, as a courtesy to the bride, the groom usually accepts her decision.

"The church should be decorated for the occasion. Multi-colored streamers of tissue or crepe paper lend color to the occasion and relieve the usual funeral atmosphere. The old custom of throwing rice and old shoes is no longer considered good form but in order that there may be something to throw a supply of confetti should be supplied. The pews indicating the intimate friends of the bride and groom should be marked with black crepe.

"The only choice among the days of the week is that which arises from the grooms convenience or desire. Naturally, any day will do but grooms customarily pick either the seventh or the eleventh of the month which custom, has been established due to the sporting element involved in the undertaking.

"It is customary for a widow to remove the engagement ring and wedding ring of her first husband during the marriage to her second." There are many reasono for this. Two wedding rings and two engagement rings take up too much space on the finger and besides the groom usually demands it." It is but natural that the groom has a cretain amount of feeling in the matter and in order to have the ceremony pass off smoothly good taste prescribes that reference, either verbally or by implication, to the first husband not be made. If however, the groom with business acumen borrows the first pair of rings they may then be used to make the second wedding. While there is nothing in the conventions prohibiting it at the same time it is generally considered bad form for the groom to mention where he got the rings under the above circumstances.

HOT WEATHER HINTS

The heated season is at hand. In fact, we already have had a taste of the discomfort attendant upon a high temperature and a relatively high humidity.

Here are some suggestions whi h may be of value in helping you to get through the summer season without having a case of sunstroke or heat prostration, or requiring the services of your doctor. Look 'em over and see what you think of them:

Eat moderately.
Drink buttermilk instead of either coffee or tea.
Take the shady side of the street.
Don't hurry, worry, fret or fume over trifles.
Take a bath every day.
Keep your bowels open.
Live in the open air as much as possible.
Dress lightly.
Be regular in your habits.
Keep your temper.
Don't watch the thermometer; it doesn't help any to know just how hot it is.

And finally, anathematize the fellow who asks, "Is this hot enough for you!" —Bulletin Chicago School of Sanitary Instruction.

HERE'S A HOT ONE.

Editor, Infantry School News,
Fort Benning, Ga.,
Sir:

Bluebird, The Gray Squirrel, The Great Dane and Calculator want to know why a plea to "patronize our advertisers" is placed next to the advertisement of a funeral director.

Is it a vailed suggestion on the part of the Editor for his reader to "go to———Someplace?

Edi'or's Note—This paper is shocked at such base insinuation. This was done in the last issue to see if anybody read the ads. and would take a crack at the compositor. The plea for the advertisers is directed, however, at the "dead ones."

7th ENGINEERS HAS MEASLES.

Loud Wails Issuing From Their Camp

Lo! How the mighty have fallen. Yea, even those who swam the Meuse and bridged the Chattahoochee. For, behold, they have that kid's disease known as Measles.

In other word the 7th Engineers, will stay at home for a time and think over their sins—if they have any, and no doubt they have—while the Rest of The World Rolls On."

The first we heard of it was when a certain member of the Service Club Dance Committee tried to get out of quarantine on account of feeling duty bound to attend the dance last Wednesday night. Being an important member of this committee this member tried in every way to find a legitimate reason for not being quarantined. The "Powers that Be" acted real hard-boiled about the matter, however, and the rest of that dance committee will have to swing the load without the able assistance of this particular member.

A reporter from our evening contemporary in Columbus reports that the accomodating editor, business manager, and others of that progressive newspaper are helping the unfortunate 7th engineers to pass the time away by getting the paper to them each evening. This is going to help the outfit some and it is suggested that after reading the paper from front to back they start over and read it from back to front, Chinese fashion, in order to make the news last until the next paper arrives. Not meaning to insinuate, of course, that that paper contains no news but making the suggestion with the realization all good things must sooner or later come to an end.

The News hopes that its 7th Engineers friends will soon become convalescent.

OLD-TIMER LEAVING BENNING

Here Since April 1919

On or about the 15th Mr. Frank W. Salfingere, who is now assistant to the Construction Quartermaster, will probably leave Fort Benning on a fifteen day leave before accepting a position with A. Bentley & Son, Contractors, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Mr. Salfingere first came to Fort Benning as a captain of infantry on April 2, 1919. He was assigned to duty as adjutant of the Machine Gun School. Shortly after this he was put on special duty with the engineers. After being discharged from the Army Mr. Salfingere accepted the position which he now holds.

It is doubtful if there is anybody else now at this station who has been at Fort Benning as long as Mr. Salfingere. Best wishes follow him to his new field of endeavor.

With Our Advertisers

THE LADIES STORE

Recently, in our devious perambulations about town, we dropped into that up-to-date woman's "fixin's" establishment known as Kirvens. Being a mere man we soon realized that we were hopelessly at sea. On every side we saw unknown articles of feminine wearing apparel and we were too bashful to ask a clerk what they were for fear we might be considered "fresh"—only lady clerks being in sight.

Upon investigation we found that anything from a down comfort to table linen and from hair pins to shoe laces can be purchased at Kirvens. Not only do they handle milady's articles but almost any kind of cloth—including the kind used for automobile tops—imaginable can be purchased there and if they do not happen to have what you want in stock they will get it for you if it is made.

Yea, a veritable store is Kirvens and, having no female reporter the News cannot do the subject justice. An inkling can be obtained, however, by reading the weekly advertising carried in the News.

THE MEN'S STORE

And now we are in our element. When we walked into Chancellor's recently we had no embarassing fears. On all sides we saw nobby hats, snappy ties, spiffy sox, good looking uniforms and "cits." Prices are in conformity with the grade of article sold. Being toward the end of the month—the first end after pay day—we felt financially influential and invested several iron men in a "Pershing" cap. The cap met with approval upon our return home.

The fact that the News has beeen carrying Chancellor's advertising since almost from the first issue speaks well for this firm. The News is descriminating in the class of advertising carried.

Chancellor's handles boots, riding crops, caps, campaign hats, and, in fact, all kinds of military equipments. Besides these there is a wide variety of civilian clothing to chose from.

Conway Tearle in the Paramount Picture "The Rustle of Silk"

NEITHER KISS NOR WEDDING AT END OF NEW FILM

Unique Though Happy Finish Marks Picture, "The Rustle of Silk."

A happy motion picture story ending that doesn't include a marriage or an embrace!

That is one of the unique distinctions claimed for "The Rustle of Silk," Herbert Brenon's Paramount picture featuring Betty Compson and Conway Tearle, which will be the feature of the bill at the Post Theatres Saturday July 14.

The story, adapted from Cosmo Hamilton's novel by Sada Cowan and Ouida Bergere, centers about a humble English girl who falls in love with a great British statesman who is already married. The girl, serving the statesman's wife, adores the husband from afar.

By accident the man learns of the girl's love. Unhappy with his wife and hisheartened by the course of political events, he offers to get a divorce and marry the girl.

But a crisis in the affars of state requires all of his attention. If he resigns, chaos threatens to engulf the government. The girl, because she loves him, sacrifices her love and sends him back to fight his cause against overwhelming odds. Her compensation is found in the fact that the man who loves her faces his duty because he loved her. He wins his fight, but for the time being, at least, he fails to win the girl who spurred him on to victory.

Unlike so many screen plays of the day, "The Rustle of Silk" does not introduce an episode five or ten years later showing the principals happily married. It ends as real life stories so often end—in happiness achieved through sacrifice, but with promise of happiness to both in the future.

HOVERING HEAT HINTS.

By D. Phool, Hawse Doctor

1. It's hot.
2. Keep cool.
3. Diet.
4. Eat chicken.
5. Eat more chicken.
6. Eat watermelon.
7. Eat more watermelon.
8. Company commanders should furnish their men with umbrellas for shade; electric fans should be installed in every tent.
9. Keep in the shade.
10. Sentries should keep their prisoners under trees.
11. Prisoners should not be allowed to work too hard—if at all.
12. Don't get "all het up" over the Fort Benning Road.
13. Wear few clothes. Post Exchange sells bathing suits.
14. "Keep your shirt on."
15. Keep your eyes off your motometer.
16. It's hot.
17. Keep cool.

MORE HOT WEATHER HINTS.

By transfering to the detachment in charge of the North Pole the heat will be entirely avoided.

During the hot weather pass by all of your friends without speaking to them. This will get you a cold look.

Try to borrow money from somebody at Fort Benning about the 20th of the month. You will get the cold shoulder.

By carrying a small tree with you at all times it will be possible to always be in a shady spot.

An excellent uniform for cool weather can be made of unbleached cheese cloth.

Do not wear an overcoat during the noon hour.

Punch a Columbus cop in the nose; you'll get knocked cold.

ARMY OFFICERS INTERESTED IN LOCAL AFFAIRS

John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, was agreeably impressed during his recent transcontinental trip by the popularity enjoytd in their local communities by commanding officers of the army At almost every post they rank as leading citizens. They are in demand for every sort of public function and called upon to make speeches on an endless variety of subjects. They invariably measure up to the task, Mr. Weeks claims, and the army as an institution is the beneficiary.—Christian Science Monitor.

INFANTRY REGIMENTS, TAKE NOTE!

Following the recently announced plans of the NEWS a short story of some Infantry regiment is appearing each week. During the past week stories were received from three regiments. These stories will appear in the near future and will be published in the order in which received. The News desires here to express its appreciation of the co-operation shown by the various regimental commanders in the furnishing of the requested data.

Company "A"

Private 1st Class Jessie Cooper, Co. "A" 24th Infantry, is making preparation to go out and face the cold world. Now my friend, do you think you can better your condition? Of course you ought to exactly know what you want to do. If you are not going to stay gone when you go you had better stay and save yourself the trouble of looking up a Recruiting Officer when your mess kit gets empty and your place of lodging gets uncomfortable on account of low funds, and at nights after toiling all day no place where you can rest; then you will realize your mistake. Sitting in the park and patting your foot is not like sleeping in a Government tent. Beware! Winter is coming.

Company "B"

Seen on one Sunday morning not long ago, a certain young man from Company "B" in a certain restaurant, buying a certain amount of something, which was not very appropriate for a Sunday breakfast. He didn't have time to eat it there—or was there some other reason? Just the same all of you who desires to know what this gentlemen bought ask Pvt. Nickens. He will probably tell you another. Then again he might tell you what he later did with it.

---

Oh! Ye darling boys of nineteen and twenty three,
Who are being discharged and the world you are afraid to see,
Three years is a glorious thing—not to have on hand,
For how on earth are you to see the world's fair in Portland?
You know it is some 3000 miles from here and walking is very hard,
So if you wish to reach there on time, start now and you won't be so tired.

Now this applies to some "B" company men, who are day by day,
Talking about Cincy, Chi, Pittsy and Philly, yet in they stay.
When you get your three, and the stew comes regular and fast,
Don't try to take Mamie Smith's place but think of when you were discharged last.
For Brother dear listen hear, you have your chance every 3 years,
And when I think of what we are going to do to oou it nearly brings me to tears.

A berth will always be available for this service man in the ranks of this organizaton.

This organization has just completed its second consecutive machine gun practice season with a "100 per cent. Qualfication." It is the result of untiring labor and applicaton on the part o fthe enlsted personnel of the officers concerned, and I do feel that it is needless to express our deep and sincere appreciation thru thse columns as they have doubtless seen our thanks expressed thru every means available.

Company "K"

Timely, interesting, and practical, was the address of Captain J. H. Rustemeyer, C. O. Co. "K" to the company and its guests on July 4th, while at mess, "You can in most instances, judge a man's real worth by his consideration of others," and we are not throwing bouquets.

---

Sergt. Garrett (Tailor-made) is sticking close to ost these days, say Bill, what's the secret, ("Promises are easier made than kept.")

---

Bang, Bang, Biff, Biff, Umph, Wow Who was the Lord that had to pass in review. I say who was it? There, there. Ask N. T. L.

---

Company "M"

Sergt. Russell known as (Billy Bob Russell) is now on the Target Range: Well, Billy if you do as good shooting as you do preaching you will sure miss the target.

---

A certain Sergt. seems to think that singing the ballard entitled "Stumbing is not enough" so he tried to demonstrate it on one of the oppisite six and, that person hasn't been able to walk since. Of course she bumped him on his nose.

Be Careful Sergt. Signes Green acting is not as easy as seeing it.

The fourth has past and gone but it will linger in the memory of the Co. Team. For it is believed to be one of the Company's most stimulates but pleasant days on which they scored in the Tract meet as follows 1st places 5, 2nd places 1, 3rd places 1.

We don't mean to swell up or say things that we can't back up but, we are justified in saying that we have a team that we are proud of and, not only the Company Team but, the Company at large for the backing and support it has given its Team.

We know it does not shine as a star but nevertheless we are proud of it and it believed that it will get farther in the footlights as a First Class Team, and it is further believed that it will hold a better record in the future that it has in the past. So come on Company and lets make it one of the best in the Post. Yes one that will be looked at with an envious eye.

I. S. D. BUYS BUS TRUCK

No Government Transportation For That Outfit.

One day last week a handsome motor vehicle drove up to the office of the News and parked. Not recognizing this vehicle as a Government affair the office dog went out to take a look. His exclamations attracted the rest of the office force and an investigation proved that the Infantry school detachment had recently purchased a Reo Speed wagon.

This combination bus and truck seats fourteen passengers comfortably and is adaptible for either hauling heavy articles or passengers. The name of the detachment has been painted on in a very attractive manner and the whole thing is a credit to that enterprising organization.

Among other things the I. S. D. baseball team, last year's Post Champions, which makes frequent trips for the purposes of showing baseball teams in the vicinity how the national pasttime should be played, will no longer be handicapped by being unable to get transportation. Also the estimable and efficient mess sergeant of that organization—who is said to have the best mess at Fort Benning—will be no longer handicapped by lack of transportation. He has thrown his wheelbarrow away—or turned it in to Salvage,and now rides in pomp.

The Post A. & R. Officer when interviewed stated that he hoped to borrow the bus some time for various purposes.

SINCE WOMEN HAVE BROKEN INTO POLITICS

Say, folks, we know that you have heard politics cussed and discussed for a long time, but did you ever see Old Man Politic on the stage? And did you know that he has a wife and a whole bunch of Little Tickets? And did you know that the old fellow is even more henpecked than Jiggs? No? Well, all we've got to say is that you have a lot to learn about him. Now, keep this under your hat, and don't talk about it unless you're by yourself or with somebody—if you want to catch a glimpse of the whole Polly Tickk family, be in the Post Theater on the night of July 28th. We don't know whether they are democrats or republicans, but we have heard it rumored that Mrs. Tickk has gotten the upper hand and is planning to start a Woman's Party with the avowed intention of taking the trousers away from the men and making them wear dresses while their wives strut around with the captured breeches! On their arm? Of course not! They're going to wear them. Can you imagine Mrs. So-and-So coming prancing down the street with her hubby's Sundayy trousers on? Well, that's just what we understand the women are planning to do. They are to start their campaign pronto. We undrestand they are to have a very distinguished speaker from Oklahoma who will address a political meeting that night and explain why the men should not wear the breeches.

But if Madam Rumor does not play us false, they will meet with some very stiff opposition on the part of the men. We also understand they have banded themselves together and are planning some very desperate steps in order to protect their inalienable right to wear pants. Just what their plan sare and how successful they will be, remains to be seen. It promises to be a very exciting meeting and as the women are very anxious to present their arguments to as large a crowd as possible, they have required us to urge everybody to attend. If you are not there you will regret it. Remember the date.

SERVICE AND SACRIFICE. THE CHURCH AND THE ARMY

There recently occurred a tragic incident at one of the bathing beaches of a Southern Army Post that forcibly presents a true illustration of the attitude of the Service man toard the lives of civilians, when sudden danger and sure death seems to stare them in the face.

Do not hesitate to sacrifice themselves to save a civilian, whether they are on duty or off duty? The answer is decidedly no!

It makes no difference whether it be a member of the Army or the Navy, or any other branch of the Public Service; and little difference whether engaged in what may be termed a strictly military or naval duty, under orders, or on their own.

In this case it happened to be a sailor, who was off duty, and at the beach, a beach by the way which is usually safe enough, and usually a boat near at hand.

Some children and women were splashing about full of glee and good spirits, when one little girl slipped too far out. Before the others could get to her in her struggle, she was caught by an under-tow.

The sailor who saw her made a run, plunged into the surf, and being one of the strongest swimmers on the coast, all expected a rather ordinary rescue to occur.

But the tide was turned just enough to make the added weight of the innocent child on his shoulders too much for his strength. Before a boat could reach him, before a line could be thrown far enough out, both sailor and girl were swept away.

Sad was the realization, when the spectators realized that the tragedy was done.

It is not this pathetic incident in itself that causes me to write this article. Bu tit may serve as a focus on which to concentrate the attention of Good Church people to the fact that both in his professional and private life the Army and Navy man takes for granted those supreme sacrifices which the layman calls heroism.

Had this man been on guard duty as a life-saver, the result would have been the same. Under either circumstance, his personal love for the child of another, (in fact a strange child in this case who was visiting at the Post from the city nearby) and his duty as a public servant in uniform, would have been identical in action.

It is this true spirit of national as well as personal service makes a nation. We find the same spirit in young men who are in the Training Camps this year.

In fact, an Areoplane accident occurred within the same week, or not long after, the incident cited above. Army men and college boys went to the rescue with one purpose. The result was that what would have been a triple tragedy was reduced to a small margin. Yet that margin was another sacrifice of one service man.

It is true that the church sends Missionaries all over the world to work and serve; and modern civilization requires the best efforts of all men to prosper.

The dangers of the trades cannot be minimized, when compared with Military Service; and the dangerous occupations attest the readiness of men for sacrifice.

But the thought we wish to leave with the church member is this: "Greater love hath no man than this, that he shall lay down his life for his friend." St. John.

Human nature is prone to weakness, and life is sweet to soldier or civilian; but it has been proven beyond all doubt that the well trained Army or Navy man, whether he listens to the Gospel or not, is living the command of the Master.

This is psychology and truth, and furnishes the national reason for training of all branches of the Army and Navy; that training men sacrifice the minimum, to attain the national aim, while untrained service men lose at least one half more men to the same end. The well-trained Missionary is an asset to any church.

We will never have our own national ideals either of the church or the state spread over the world without an American Military and Naval police, or marines, to defend right and justice, in every corner of the earth where we wish to travel.

We can only become citizens of the world, when these units are all over the world, ready and willing to serve or sacrifice for the national welfare.

NEW POLO FIELD TO BE DEDICATED

Game Next Sunday: Composite Teams

The New polo field which has just been completed will be formally opened up next Sunday by a game between two composite teams of the Post. Just who will constitute the personnel of the two teams has not been announced but it appears probable that all the polo players now on the Post will have an opportunity to play in at least one chukker.

The new field is very desirably located and the nature of the area is such as to permit of quick drainage after a rain. As is the case all new field this field is at present a little soft but no worse than the sandy condition which ordinarily existed at the old polo field near the 24th Infantry area in dry weather. The handicap cause by dust at the old field will not be so noticeable on the new field.

The side boards are now in place and the tea house, band stand, and bell booth has been moved. Nothing remains but a good, fast game of polo to make it a real polo field and this will be played Sunday. As usual the public is invited to the game. The game will probably start about 3:00 P. M.

TANKS BEAT ARTILLERY

(From Columbus Ledger)

The master pitching and hitting ability of Lindsey, moundsman for the Tanks corps, enabled that aggregation to swamp the Eighty-third field artillery diamond aggregation in the American league at Fort Benning Sunday afternoon by the score of 14 to 1.

Lindsey slammed out a homer and two singles out of four trips to the platter, besides striking out twelve of the artillerymen during the course of the struggle. Two fast double plays by the Tank infield also spelled much trouble for the cassion crew. Fielding, with two out of four, was the willow star for th edefeated team.

STRIBLING POINTING TOWARD DEMPSEY

"Pa" Stribling Sees Vision of Son in Ring with the Heavyweight Champion Two Years From Now.

"Pa" Stribling's Mind is wandering way ahead of time—two years hence, the year of 1925,—when his boxing son, William Lawrence, of 18 years, and at present with only two years experience in the game and defending the southern middle-weight belt, climbs o'er the decorated ropes amid the cheers of a great throng of fans stretching so far the back row appears to be a line of dots, as a challenger for the world's heavyweight title against Jack Dempsey—if he holds the title that long.

Says "Pa" in regard to his son meeting the heavyweight champ in two years:

"Just two years from now—then he will be ready. Trained to the minute, with youth and stamina on his side, and every person in the South and thousands in the East and West lending him encouragement, the kid will enter the ring with Dempsey or whoever may be champion, prepared to wrest away the title and bring the first world's heavyweight title honors to Dixie.

Shribling, yet a youth but a man sized boxer, is taking on flesh and growing, changing from one class to anther each year, and by 1925 he will be weighty enough to meet the champion.

Started Career Two Years Ago.

Stribling started his career as a professional in Atlanta, Ga., two years ago, fighting in the bantamweight class. He advanced to the featherweight division later, on July 4th of that year, tipping the scales at 128 pounds. July 4th, 1922, Strib fought in Macon for welterweight championship of the South, defeating Jake Abel. He weighed 146 pounds. He has gained about 45 pounds of meat in the last two years. At that rate of speed Stribling will no doubt weigh about 190 pounds in the next two years.

Strib Lacks a Punch

Stribling might have the weight and size, and without a doubt, the brain and science to fight the champion in 1925—but will he have the punch. Its clearly seen that a boxer can't be a champ without a knockout punch. That's something Stribling doesn't carry yet.

He has two solid years to develop a knockout blow. Can he bring about a sleep sock in that length of time? If so, he would be the choice as a challenger for the crown.

He has pounded away every boy from the bantam to the middleweight class in the South. He is now out of the game for a while due to both arms being fractured.

Let us hope that Strib, son of Ga. and Dixie, our idol and the only one below the Macon Dixon line that has any prospects of becoming a world's champ, develops a terrific blow—that's all he needs—and win the crown and bring the honors to the South.—Enquirer-Sun.

In this connection attention is invited to a prediction made along this line in a recent issue of the News. 2000 years ago a high official of the Roman government asked, "Can any good come out of Nazareth?" Young Stribling's nativity does not handicap his ability. With proper care he will go far.

Join the Motor Club. Support the Good Road Movement.

WILLARD Vs. FIRPO

After This Dempsey Vs. (?)

Having made a bum guess on the outcome of the Dempsey-Gibbons financial fiasco by saying that Dempsey would put Gibbons out in the sixth or seventh round and being now in an agreeable good humor because Gibbons stayed the limit we proceed to make another prognostication.

This time we will not say just what round it will happen in but we believe Mr. Firpo, from the South of here, is going to hand Jess a little trimming. Jess has shown a wonderful comeback. For this he deserves credit and certain rumors current just after the Toledo affair between himself and Dempsey, if true, makes us have a desire to see Willard knock Dempsey for a row of Algerian mustache cups. Besides this we don't particularly like the way Mr. Dempsey fought the war.

However, to go back to Willard and Firpo, the former has never done anything wonderful in the ring except get a decision over Jack Johnson and the gossip shortly after this fight led a great many to believe that there was "something rotten in Denmark." Johnson did not train for this scrap as he should—so the tale went he was getting old, comparatively, and his purse was considerably more than the amount originally agreed upon, all of which latter is rumor too. After this Willard met Dempsey together with his Waterloo. Willard is too big to be active while that young Firpo is a bundle of greased lightening who does not realize his own power. Willard is not fast enough to get out of his way and not strong enough to withstand Firpo's mule-kick punches. Consequently we believe Firpo will win. Then Dempsey will meet Firpo.

At this meeting there will be something doing. It is possible that Dempsey has lost some of his slugging steam but even at that he is still a wonderful fighting machine. He knows a great deal more about the fight game than does Firpo but he can stand no more punishment nor is he any faster. Firpo can probably but the harder of the two. It will then probably develop that Firpo will take Dempsey's punishment in order to mix things with him and if a general pugilistic roughhouse ever occurs friend Dempsey is going to get the licking of his life. Incidentally Firpo realizes that it is to his advantage to mix thngs up wth Dempsey. This fight will be a real, honest-to-goodness scrap.

NEW POLO FIELD NAMED

In Honor of Lt. Col. Pike, M. of H.

The new polo field near Block 21 which has just been completed has been named in honor of Lieut. Colonel Emory J. Pike, Infantry, who was an enthusiastic polo player and who was killed in action in September 1918 near Pont-a-Mousson, France.

Colonel Pike was at this time Machine Gun officer of the 82nd division. For heroic conduct in action the Medal of Honor, the highest decoration awarded by the United States Government, was posthumously awarded in 1919.

As stated in another column of the News play on the new fields will begin Sunday afternoon, July 15th.

A SUMMARY COURT AT FORT BENNING

CHIEF OF INFANTRY'S OFFICE REORGANIZED

New Organization Was Effective July 1st.

The office of the Chief of Infantry has been reorganized, following the plan of organization effective with the War Department General Staff.

The new organization calls for five sections as follows:

1st Section, Personnel; 2nd Section, Military Intelligence; 3rd Section, Military Training; 4th Section, Equipment and Finance; 5th Section, War Plans.

The 1st Section will handle matters pertaining to personnel which will include such items as assignments and orders and classifications, and matters relating to the National Guard, the Organized Reserve and the R. O. T. C. This section will also make recommendation with regard to transfers, detail of officers as students at the Service Schools or other institutions, appointments, retirements, and similar matters.

The 2nd Section will maintain a general information bureau for the Chief of Infantry's office. In addition to this the section will conduct the correspondence schools for officers of the Reserve Corps and have supervision over the publication of the Infantry Journal.

The 3rd Section is responsible for training at the Infantry School and the Tank School and also is charged with the training activities of the Infantry of all components of the Army of the United States.

The 4th Section prepares tables of basic allowances of Infantry equipment and keeps in touch with G-4, General Staff, in connections with matters pertaining to finance, equipment, construction, (animals). It is

BRIEF HISTORY SEVENTH INFANTRY

"Volens et Potens"

The Seventh United States Infantry was organized under an act of Congress in July, 1790. The First engagement was at Tippecanoe, near the present town of Lafayette, Ind., where the Indians were routed with great slaughter.

The next engagement was fought at Fort Harrison, O., now Terre Haute, Ind., in September, 1812. Here the Indians attacked and set fire to the block houses held by the 7th and commanded by Captain Zachary Taylor, later President of the United States. This engagement was followed by one at Villere's Plantation, La., with the British, in December, 1814. Here the regiment was conspicious for its bravery and highly complimented for its conduct under fire.

The battle of New Orleans, La., was fought in January, 1815, and was the decisive land victory for the Americans in the War of 1812. The British army was composed of veteran regiments which had fought under the Duke of Wellington. It was here that the 7th Infantry was compelled to use bales of cotton for intrenchments, and was the only regular army regiment in action.

In 1815 the regiment was ordered to Georgia and then to Fort Gibson, Ark., where it remained until the Florida War, then being fiercely waged by Chief Oseola of the Seminole Indians. The important battles fought here were at Fort King, Fort Drane, Martin's Point, Point Hammock and Wahoo Sump, all in 1840.

In 1846 difficulties with the republic of Mexico found the 7th Infantry ordered to Corpus Christi, Tex., In March of the same year it was moved to the Rio Grande opposite Matanorns, Mexico. Here Fort Brown was established and became the object of terrific bombardment by the Mexicans which was gallantly and successfully defended by the regiment. Immediately after this siege the regiment proceeded to Monterey and participated in the Battle of Monterey, Mex. in September, 1846. Leaving Monterey the regiment arrived in Tempico, Mex., and embarked in February, 1847, for Vera Cruz, where it joined in the siege of the city and Castle of San Juan.

The 7th Infantry then took up the line of march toward the interior and arrived in April, 1847, at Cerro Gordo where the Mexicans were found to be strongly intrenched. The regiment was ordered to storm the heights of Cerro Gordo, which feat was performed with brilliant success. A Sergeant of the 7th Infantry, with his own hands, hauled down the national standard of Mexico from the fort. After this vicinity the regiment continued to Jalata and went into camp. In August, 1847, the regiment captured Contreras and Churabusco. In September of this same year the regiment attacked the works of Chapultopec and on the 14th of the month with colors proudly flying it marched into the City of Mexico where it remained until February, 1848.

Returning to Florida until June, 1850, the regiment was ordered to Jefferson Barracks, Mo., thence to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., returning to Jefferson Barracks, in 1850, which was the rendevous for service in Utah against the Normona. In April, 1860, it took station in New Mexico, arriving at Santa Fe in August of that year.

Ordered to Mobolize.

In 1861, the war having commenced between the North and South, the 7th Infantry was ordered to concentrate at Fort Fillmore, New Mexico, while at the same time the Confederate were concentrating at Fort Bliss, Tex. A part of the regiment while proceeding to Mesilla was defeated and captured by the Confederates. The remainder of the regiment concentrated at Fort Craig and in February, 1862, gallantly survived the severe battle of Valverde, New Mexico.

In October, 1862, the regiment joined a regular division known as "Sykes Regulars" in the Army of the Potomac and December of that year fought the bloody battle of Fredericksburg. In December, 1862, the battle of Murfreesborough, Tenn.

The regiment participated in the battle of Chancellorsville where a corporal was awarded the Medal of Honor for his gallantry in jerking up and carrying the colors after the color bearer had been shot down. Then the battle of Hoover's Gap, Tenn., was added to the colors. The next battle was fought at Gettysburg in May, 1863 where the regiment lost over 50 per cent.

In September of 1863 the battle of Chicamauga, Ga., was fought, and following that the siege of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Missionary Ridge, Tenn., efforts of the regiment.

In May, 1864, the battles of Ressea, Ga., and New Hope Church, Ga., were fought and during the remainder of the year the engagements at Kenesaw Mountain, Ga., Neal Dora Station, Ga., the operations about Atlanta, Ga., and actions at Utoy Creek, Peach Tree Creek, and Jonesboro, Ga., brought to a close the active war service of the regiment and it was ordered to New York City to assist in quelling the draft riots, where it remained until May, 1865, when ordered to Florida. The following spring the regiment went to Fort Shaw, Mont., where it remained for a number of years operating against the hostile Indians. While in this locality the 7th assisted General Custer. In July, 1877, near Fort Hiscoula, Mont., a large party of hostile Nos Force Indians under Chief Joseph were active in the Lolo Trail.

Fight Indians.

The 7th was ordered to attack and at Big Hole Basin took the Indians by surprise in a night attack. Hemming in Montana until September, 1878, the regiment took station at Fort Snelling, Minn., and in October, 1889 to Fort Logan, Colo. The regiment participated in the Sioux Campaign, 1890-91. In April, 1893, the war department began the concentration of the army for the war with Spain. On April 20th the regiment left Fort Logan and proceeded to Chicamauga Park, Ga., and then to Tampa, Fla., at which place it arrixed on May 14th.

As a part of the 5th Corps formed of the 3rd Brigade, 2nd Division, commanded by Generals Chaffee and Lawton, the 7th sailed for Cuba and arrived at Santiago, June 20th, landing at Daiquiri. On July 1, 1898, the Battle of El Caney was fought. The 7th led the attack against the deadly Spanish fire and with the assistance of the artillery drove the enemy from the fort. Leaving El Caney on the morning of July 3, the regiment took position on the right of General Wheeler's division on San Juan Heights where the 7th took part in the formal ceremony of the surrender of the Spanish Army.

The war with Spain practically over, the 7th sailed for the U. S. landing at Montauk Point, Long Island, on August 27, 1898. The regiment was then scattered throughout the United States, occupying vacated posts. In 1899 to 1900 various detachments from the regiment saw service in Alaska. In 1901 four companies were sent to Northern Luzon, Phillipine Islands, and later to the Island of Sumar. In 1902 the entire regiment assembled at the depot of recruit instruction at Presidio of San Francisco, Cal., and on October 1, 1903, sailed for the Phillipine Islands on the transport Sherman, arriving at Manila on October 23. While here the regiment was scattered over the Caville Province for field duty against the Ladrones. On November 15, 1905, the regiment sailed from Marivales for the United States on the transport Thomas arriving at San Francisco, December 13.

The regiment took station with the 1st Battalion at Fort Assiniboine, the 2nd Battalion at Fort Missoula and Headquarters and 3rd Battalion at Fort William H. Harrison. In october 1906, the stations of the regiment were changed to Fort Wayne and Fort Brady, Mich. On May 5, 1909, the regiment sailed from San Francisco for the Philippine Islands, arriving at Manila on June 4.

During this tour the regiment was stationed in Manila, Fort McKinley, Rizal and Camp Eldridge, Laguna. The regiment returned to the United States in January, 1912, and took station at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Prepare For Mexico.

With the prospects for another Mexican campaign the 7th found itself ordered to Galveston, Tex., in February, 1913, where the regiment embarked for Vera Cruz in April. An active part was taken in patrol and outpost in and around Vera Cruz until November, 1914, when the regiment returned to the United States via Galveston and El Paso, Tex., during the next year, border trouble held the 7th at Douglas, Ariz., and Nogales, Ariz., and back to El Paso in December, 1915.

In June, 1917, soon after the opening of the World War, the 7th was ordered to Gettysburg, Pa., where the regiment had fought years before, but this time they were there for a different purpose, i. e., to recruit and prepare for service in France.

November, 1917, found the 7th in Camp Greene, Charlotte, N. C., where with other units it became part of the 3rd United States Division. After a winter which can be remembered only as a nightmare the 7th got fitted out and ready for overseas duty. Embarking at Hoboken, N. J., the 6th of April, 1918, the regiment arrived in Brest, France, on the 15th. Participating in the three major offensives and many defensives of the World War, namely the Ainse Defensive, Chateau Thierry sector, Champagne-Marne defensive, the Aisne-Marne Offensive and the Meuse-Argonne, the 7th upheld the old traditions of the regular army. After serving in the American Army of Occupation in Germany the 7th Infantry, in August, 1919, returned to the United States via Camp Merritt and took station at Camp Pike, Ark.

The reorganization of the army in August, 1921, sent the 7th Infantry to Camp Lewis, where it remained about a year, changing station in September, 1922, to Vancouver Barracks, Washington.

The 7th is now commanded by Colonel T. M. Anderson, who has had 16 years service with the regiment, from subaltern to commander. Leading the regiment in action in France, Colonel Anderson realized the ambition of every soldier—to command his own regiment on the field of battle.

Distinguished Officers of the Seventh Infantry.

Captain Zachary Taylor, 7th Infantry, President of the United States 1849-1850.

Captain Charles S. Farnsworth, 7th Infantry, present Major General, Chief of Infantry.

Lieutenant Robert Alexander, 7th Infantry, now Brigadier General, 3rd Field Artillery Brigade, was Major General, Commanding 77th division in World War.

THE BOOK SHOP

had for its location the upper floor of the School Library. During the first year of existence, the bulk of the Book Shop business consisted in the sale of Army Correspondence Course material, one of its raison's d'etre.

Its mission then as today, however, was the dissemination of Infantry School doctrine to members of the Army of the United States. This task is accomplished by means of the Paid Mailing List, consisting of selected instructional matter, the Free Distribution List, consisting of all instructional matter in mimeographed form and distributed to certain organizations and individuals by direction of the Chief of Infantry, and the Army Correspondence Courses.

The growth of the business in the past two years made reorganization necessary. In 1922 the Book Shop moved to its present palatial home in the rear of the Catholic Chapel. During the same year it was removed from the Department of Research and placed directly under the Assistant Commandant. It is rapidly becoming a Department itself, the Extension Department of the school.

Incidental to carrying out its mission as the School extension department the Book Shop has during the past year specialized in the sale of Student Supplies (anything from a lunch box to a lead pencil) and standard military works by well-known authors. The small stock is carefully selected. Indeed only the elite are entitled to places on its shelves but be it said here and now with consistrable emphasis, the Book Shop will procure for its patrons any book in print—Zane Grey, Sinclair Lewis—or the pyschoanalytic horror of any other writer, one or all the Book Shop will order upon request. The Book Shop exists to serve the Infantry School and the Infantry.

Call 146 Post

A few days ago six gilt-edged Second Lieutenants breezed into the Artillery Headquarters, and reported for duty. All of them snappy young fellows and the cream of their class at West Point for the Artillery. The acme of their ambition is to show the Doughboy Officers who will attend the future sessions of the Infantry School, during their sojourn at Fort Benning, how the Artillerymen go to war and use their weapons.

It is with open arms that we welcome them to Fort Benning and hope that their stay here will be both a pleasure to themselves and of some benefit.

VISIT ATLANTA.

Last Saturday Colonel and Mrs. W. B. McCaskey motored to Atlanta. The trip through the country was without event and the visit in the city was pleasant. A picnic lunch was carried both on the trip from here and returning, a fact which made the journey the more enjoyable.

83rd ARTILLERY STAGES PARTY

The 83rd Field Artillery had a get-together and get-acquainted last Tuesday night for the Artillery Officers and friends visting them. The affair was given by the new battery officers and consisted of a Buffet Supper, Dancing and Midnight Swimming. The party was staged in the bachelor officer's quarters after which the party repaired to the Post Swimming Pool.

MRS. RYCROFT ENTERTAINS.

Recently Mrs. Rycroft, wife of Lieut. Jack Rycroft, entertained a number of guests at a "Neighborhood Bridge" in her home in Block 40. Among those resent for play were Mrs. Dibrell, Mrs. Brothers, Mrs. Peach, Mrs. Francis Green, Mrs. Hahn, Mrs. Lattin, and Mrs. Fisk. The tea guests consisted of Mrs. C. A. Smith, Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. Guth, and Mrs. J. B. Smith.

LT. ADAMS ON LEAVE.

Lieut. Ranald T. Adams, accompanied by Mrs. Adams, is on leave, Macon, Ga., the home of Mrs. Adams, will be among the places visited during the leave.

CAPT. AND MRS. KAUL ENTERTAIN.

On last Wednesday evening Captain and Mrs. G. E. Kraul entertained Lieut. and Mrs. Crump Garvin informally at bridge in Capt. Kraul's quarters in Block 23.

LT. HOY ON LEAVE.

Lieut. Thomas A. Hoy, accompanied by Mrs. Hoy and the twins, are away on leave.

LT. LISTON ASSISTANT ADJUTANT.

Lieut. Howard J. Liston, 38th Infantry, has been appointed acting assistant Post Adjutant during the absence on leave of Lieut. Lavin. Lieut. Liston was a student at the Infantry School last year and will be remembered as having been a member of the 'varsity football squad.

Service Club No. 1 Notes

The Dance Wednesday Night.

Last Wednesday night's dance was the usual enjoyable affair. On account of the fact that part of the 29th Infantry Orchestra was in Atlanta this phase of the evening's entertainment was not quite up to standard, but those musicians who were present supplied the best possible music under adverse conditions. The new transportation arrangements have not quite settled themselves but efforts are being made to remedy the defects and the present system rounded out so as to be entirely satisfactory to everybody concerned.

No Dances During August.

Because of the excessive heat here during August and on the recommendation of the Dance Committee, which has gotten the opinion of the usual attendants at the regular Wednesday evening dances, the weekly dances will be discontinued for the month of August. This means that the last dance for July will be held on the 25th of this month after which the next dance will be given September 5th. Everybody who dances is requested to attend the dance next Wednesday night.

Visitor At Service Club.

Staying at the Service Club is a very charming bride of a week. Mr. E. E. Thiele is the fortunate owner of same. The wedding was hastened on account of the fact that the groom was obliged to undergo a serious operation. Both "ordeals" have been successfully consummated.

Service Club A Cool Place.

All electric fans installed in the Service Club have been thoroughly overhauled and put in a good state of repairs. As a result the Service Club is now "one breezy spot."

Coach for "Mrs. and Mr. Polly Tick" Arrives.

On last Thursday evening the coach for the comedy, "Mrs. and Mr. Polly Tick," which will be presented by the personnel of the Post, their wives and sweethearts, met the prospective players and discussed matters pertaining to the play. Miss Virginia Street, who will coach the players, is now at the Service Club.

Service Club Flower Bed.

Has anybody noticed the beautiful zinnias in the Service Club flower garden lately? They are worth looking at but are not to be picked without the consent of the hostess, Miss Roe.

Pool Table Kept Going.

The pool tables at the Service Club are kept going these days. All tables have been put in first class condition and the nominal charge provides funds for their being kept in good shape. No material decrease in the number of players has been noted on account of the small charge and some close games are going on nightly.

Miss Street at Club.

Miss Virginia Street arrived at the Service Club last Wednesday and will be there until after the play "Mrs. and Mr. Polly Tick" has been presented. The indications are that, though the able assistance of Miss Street and the able efforts of the players, this play is going to be a howling success. Reserve Saturday night, July 28th, for this play. It will be given without admission charge after the motion pictures at the Post Theater. If you have not laughed in a long time you will this time. The company putting on the play expects to put on a number more from time to time.

NEWS OF INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM

The tryouts for the Infantry Rifle Team squad started at 8:00 A. M., Wednesday, July 11th. The tryouts will consist of firing the National Match course over seven times at the rate of forty shots per day. The first day's firing consisted of 10 shots 200 yards, offhand, 10 shots rapid fire at 200 yards, 10 shots rapid fire at 300 yards and 10 shots at 600 yards. The scores turned in were excellent and the entire squad with few exceptions are closely bunched. As an indication of the standing of the first fifty, 10 points separate the first ten and eight points the 10th and 50th man. There are 98 men actually firing. The firing for the week was completed Friday noon when the course had been fired over twice.

The weather conditions have been excellent although it is getting warmer every day.

Last Saturday a number of the enlisted men of the squad fired the regular qualification course, there were nineteen men firing and the high man, Sergt. Stanley Smith made a score of 338 and the average of the entire squad was 329. This gives an indication of the calibre of the men attending the tryouts this year. This score was made in spite of the fact the weather conditions were not ideal.

The team made a visit to the Niagara Wall Paper Company's plant last Saturday and were shown the very interesting process of paper manufacturing. This Saturday the team will visit the famous Shredded Wheat Plant and the following Saturday will take in the Carborundum Company. These trips are proving of great interest and add a great deal to the entertainment of the team.

A very interesting discovery was made during the past week when upon obtaining data of former National Guardsmen, it was found that there were thirty seven on the squad representing twenty eight different states. Of this number thirty four were officers and three enlisted men. This speaks very well for the training of the National Guard.

On Monday afternoon, General Gourand of the French Army paid the post a visit and met the members of the team. After the reception he made a very interesting talk to the team stressing the great impartance of the rifle in battle. In the evening a party consisting of Major Ramee Major Bowen, Captain Kneuble, Captain Pearson and Lieut. Hinds attended the dinner given General Gourand by the Army and Navy Club of Buffalo. After the dinner the party was taken through the splendid 17th Infantry Armory in Buffalo.

A snapshooters Team has been organized and the trophy this year instead of the fur lined cuspidor has been made a rubber barrelled rifle with a hair trigger. The team Captain, Major P. E. Bowen was elected and with only two day's firing there are a number of strong contestants for the prize. Daily Bulletins are published showing the standing of various competitors and also acting as a means of telling the team of local events, both serious and otherwise.

Weather permitting, the tryouts start again on Monday and will last according to the present indications until the 24th. Daily bulletins are being sent all organizations in the service and this paper will endeavor to keep their readers posted on the results as soon as obtained.

GOOD RECORD OF ENGINEERS.

Qualify 98.61 Pe rCent. of Company.

Company "A" 7th Engineers finished record practice 1922 with a percentage of 96.4 per cent qualified and a fixed determination on the part of every member of the command to do even better the next year. Due to the nature of the work required of this organization it was found necessary to fire in three groups. This system proved helpful in allowing a greater amount of personal instruction on the part of the company officers and noncommissioned officers.

On the 26th of February, 1923, the 1st group began preliminary practice. Record firing was completed on the 15th of March. This group qualified every man with 10 experts, 7 sharpshooters and 2 marksmen.

A week later the second group began its preliminary practice and on the 23rd of April it emulated the example of the first group by qualifying 100 per cent. This group qualified 4 experts, 11 sharpshooters and 14 marksmen. A fishtail wind made the first day's firing very difficult.

Due to the maneuvers the firing of the 3rd group was postponed till the 18th of June. Preliminary and record practice was completed on July 7th, 1923, with a qualification of 96.96 per cent. This group furnished 5 experts, 6 sharpshooters and 12 marksmen.

As a summary the company qualified 98.61 per cent with 19 experts, 24 sharpshooters and 28 marksmen. Out of 72 men that fired only one did not qualify. The average score per man was 280. The excellent and thorough going instruction provided in 1922 proved of great assistance throughout the season.

ANOTHER PLACE TO SPEND THE WEEK-END

About 35 miles from here is a small town called Warm Srings. At Warm Springs is a hotel and swimming pool. The hotel caters to Army folk and offers the advantages of the average Summer Resort.

During these hot days a visit to the Warm Springs Hotel is worth while. The country is high—the hotel is on a small mountain, in fact—and therefore cooler than the lower altitudes.

In order to reach Warm Springs go out Hamilton Avenue from Columbus and follow the Hamilton Road. It is understood that the road from Durand, Ga., is good now, although inquiry on the way may develop a better route.

GOOD DRESSMAKER LOCATED

Within the last week several ladies of the Post have been very much pleased with the quality of sewing being done by Mrs. H. G. Roberts of Columbus.

Of course the News feels that there may be other dressmakers in Columbus as capable as Mrs. Roberts but she is the one we have had recommended and the message is passed on to News readers.

Mrs. Roberts lives at 1427, 19th St. and her telephone number is 1158-L 3.

EXPERIMENTAL RANGE.

To avoid accident occuring on the area now known as the Experimental Range and at the same time to permit members of the command to visit the range for operation purposes, the experimental department are constructing a barbed wire fence around that area in which most of the experimental firing is done.

The only entrance to this area will be over the dam at the head of the reservoir. A gate will be placed over this dam and people will be permitted to enter this area only when this gate is open.

It is contemplated to keep this gate closed only during such time as actual firing is taking place.

PREPARATIONS FOR FLIGHT AROUND WORLD

U. S. Army Fliers to Make Attempt

First Lieutenants Clifford Nutt and Clarence E. Crumrine, of the Army Air Service, have been selected to proceed on a "Path-finding Trip" for the purpose of gathering data in conection with a proposed flight around the world. Both of these officers are experienced cross-country pilots and both were members of the flying expedition from New York to Nome, Alaska, and return, in the year 1920, headed by Captain St. Clair Street

The itinerary of Lieut. Crumrine, who is now stationed at the Air Service Engineering Division at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, is as follows:

From the United States to the British Isles, thence to Greenland, thence to the British Isles, thence to Ireland, thence to the British Isles, thence to the Faroe Islands and return to the British Isles, thence to France, Italy and return, through France and the British Isles to Canada, thence to the United States.

Lieut. Nutt, who is now serving a tour of duty in the Philippine Islands will proceed from there to Japan, thence to the Kurile Islands, to the Aloutian Islands, to Alaska, returning over the same route.

These two officers will gather data for a report on landing facilities, weather conditions, and other pertinent data in the various countries visited. It is believed that the path-finding trip will not be completed until the end of the summer, after which consideration will be given to definite plans for the proposed flight around the world.

INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM NOTES

All Aspirants Working Hard

The Infantry Rifle Team has entered on the fourth week of training with a complete personnel and with a determination to surpass the excellent records turned in for the first three weeks. On July 3rd there will be a regimental team match for the purpose of putting a spirit of competition into the work and also as a kind of a field day prior to the Fourth. There are thirty-one teams entered of three men each, this includes one unofficial team composed of the team coaches, Captain Kneuble and Captain Tupper with Sergeant Stanley Smith making the third member. It would be a very difficult matter to determine the winner as the teams are very evenly matched. Results of the match will be published in the coming week's issue of the paper.

On Saturday the team were the guests of the Niagara Power Company and were shown through the big hydraulic power plant located at Niagara Falls. The trip was enjoyed by about forty members of the squad and it is planned on making a trip of this nature every Saturday morning.

The actual tryouts for the team start on July 11th and will last until the 24th, weather permitting. Every indication points to a very close competition and as the training period is drawing to a close all are anxious for the tryouts to start. Team Headquarters will furnish all organizations that are represented with a daily bulletin showing the standing of the various candidates and in this way, interest will be kept up throughout the service. As soon as the tryouts are over, the team squad as selected by the result of the tryout will be published in these columns for the information of our readers.

Hints on Etiquette
By Ima Lyer

WEDDINGS—(Continued from last week.)

"The girl or woman who is about to be married can always get helpful advice from her friends who have been married." Quite right. While from a moral standpoint it is desirable to adhere closely to the line of veracity at the same time when giving advice about weddings and marriage it is the custom—based on ancient tradition, no doubt—to paint things in rosy tints. In this instance it is better taste not to be too moral. If the donor of matrimonial advice it is good form to cover up all the shortcomings of the donors' matrimonial venture just as a second-hand automobile dealer calls attention to the good paint when the derned motor will not run. Even though the donor of this advice be a divorced lady or gentleman a ready reason, such as incompatibility, finances, brutality, or similar trifling things, should be ready for the bridge-to-be when she comes around begging for advice—as they all do.

The following wedding anniversaries should be fittingly observed:

First Anniversary, the paper wedding. If the bride of a year smokes a dainty gift would be a package of cigarette papers. One's photograph on such papers is always appreciated. Enough wall paper to cover the boudior is appropriate especially if this paper contain a frieze showing kewpies, Dutch kiddies, storks and other birds. Paper drinking cups, paper dishes, paper carving knives and paper dolls are all appropriate. Something recently adopted by the socially elect is to chew up a large supply of spit balls made out of blotting paper to throw at the bride's other half.

Fifth Anniversary, the wooden wedding. No such anniversary is complete without a rolling pin. There is probably no implement so readily adapted to household use. It may be used for any purpose from rolling out noodles to "mopping up" the house of male inhabitants. Brooms may also be used for this purpose and are appropriate gifts for the fifth anniversary. Among other suitable presents are wooden shoes, wooden stockings, wooden dresses, and similar articles made of wood.

Tenth Anniversary, the tin wedding. There is a greater variety of articles to choose from for this anniversary. By this time all the bride's Havelin china has been broken, either legitimately or in combat, and she will appreciate tin plates, tin forks, tin screw drivers, younsters shoes half-soled with tin, tinned goods in cans, tin lizzies, and in fact everything made of tin that goes to make up kitchen and household equipment. If you know her quite well, or even casually, you will make no mistake in presenting her with a goodly check representing "tin."

Twelfth Anniversary, the leather wedding. By this time things have quited down somewhat and any present made out of leather is proper. Saddles, bridles, boots, leather aprons, chair seats, leather tooth picks, and similar articles are always acceptible.

Fifteenth Anniversary, the Crystal wedding. Again we must conform to the spirit of the occasion by the presentation of appropriate gifts. Crystalized fruit, snow crystals, glass crystals, iodine and other medical crystals, and in fact anything which may be considered crystal is appropriate.

Twentieth Anniversary, the china wedding. Twenty years is considered a long time for two people to live together and for this reason the gifts of china for this anniversary should be of such type as to denote stabilitty. The fragile and dainty china with which young married couple start, in their inexperience, their married career is replaced at the twentieth anniversary with heavy, non-breakable articles similar to those seen in Greek restaurants and similar places. Such gifts serve more than one purpose and are considered good form.

Twenty-fifth Anniversary, the silver wedding. Everything pertaining to this anniversary conforms to the general color scheme of silver. Even the invitations should be printed in siver and the decorations in the home should be silver. Some families go so far as to have the automobile painted silver and the couple who are financially influential enough to give their home a coat of silver paint for the occasion are well within the customs of good taste. Such gifts as silver dollars, silver rings, Community Silver, table jewelry, and the like are appropriate. The bride should always be complimented on the silver condition of her hair as this has a tendency to make her feel at ease.

Thirtieth Anniversary, the ivory wedding. As gifts for this anniversary each guest should present the bride and groom with a cake of Ivory Soap. Such an anniversary is considered to be a home-like affair and the gift carries out the idea. In contrast to the remark made to the bride at the Silver Wedding at the Ivory Wedding it is the groom to whom an appropriate remark should be made apropos of the remarkable resemblance to ivory of his dome. Such remarks are especially appropriate at this anniversary if the groom is posessed of a halo of hair surmounted by a white, gleaming expanse of bare cuticle.

The Fortieth Anniversary, the woolen wedding. Just why the wedding gifts should be of less value at this anniversary than at the twenty-fifth or thirtieth anniversary tradition does not explain. However, the condition exists and must be made the most of by persons contemplating celebrating their woolen wedding. The woolen idea should predominate at such anniversaries. Guests should wear woolen clothing throughout down to and to include the shoes and socks—or stockings. The bride is ordinarily complimented by gifts of woolen blankets while the gifts for the groom are never complte without a suit of red woolen underwear. Such a personal gift is not considered bad form at this stage of the matrimonial game.

Forty-fifth Anniversary, the silk wedding. As good silk never splits the presentation of silk gifts emphasizes the fact that the bride and groom of the silk wedding have lived together for forty-five years without a split. Such articles a silk pin-cushion for the bride and a silk hat for the groom are appropriate. Silk vests and silk ties of vivacious tint are the proper things for the groom, also. The bride will appreciate sheer silk hose, silk dancing slippers, silk evening dresses and the like.

Fiftieth Anniversary, the golden wedding. There is something romantic and sentimental in the celebration of the Golden Wedding. For two people whose faces are now turned to the West of Life and who have been of mutual support to each other for a span of fifty years, a period of time longer than the average life of Man, the Golden Wedding is the crowning event of two lives so closely interwoven during this long period of sorrows, joys and hopes, as to become but one life and for two people to become truly the "One" pronounced them to be by the clergymen a half century before.

The recompense of the celebration of the Golden Wedding lies in the mutual enjoyment of the greatest gift life has had to offer and for such reason the gifts to the bride and groom are symbolic, being of solid gold.

Whether or not the two who have achieved the crowning event of their lives by the celebration of their Golden Wedding have attained wealth and power, fame and fortune, they have attained the most sought-after and evasive thing, happiness, and, realizing that but a short extension of time remains to them over the allowance of "three score years and ten," the sentiment in the minds of both is—

In the Sunset of Life ,when our faces turn West,
If we leave Earth together we will be thrice blessed,
And I'll stand in The Presence and make known my plea,
In behalf of the Person that Thou gavest me.

PEOPLE WE ADMIRE

The bird who stops in front of your house and honks for you to come out.

The guy who chews hard candy at a bridge party.

The gink who punctuates his conversation by pawing you.

The gazabo who knows his talk is boring you but who gets a firm hold of your coat or Sam Browne belt and swings on.

The road hog who passes you at fifty per and then stays just in front of you.

The individual who believes his business to be more important than your own and butts in while you are engaged in the transaction of a piece of business with a third party.

The lounge lizard who breaks in at a dance just after you have broken in with the girl you have been trying to get a dance with all evening.

The fellow who tells you, gratis, how to run your business.

The middle-aged woman who tries to dress and act like a flapper.

The fat woman who indulges in baby talk.

The individuals who bootlick their superiors and patronize their inferiors

The witty devil who tries to be funny at a picture show.

The wise guy who points out to you the weak points of your private mount.

The male automobile guest who sits in the car and asks you how you are getting along while you are changing a tire on a hot day.

The man who ranks you out of your quarters just after you have then fixed up like you want them. Also the man who ranks you out of your mount. In fact, any kind of "ranker-out."

The fellow who tells you what a pull he has "higher up."

The man who crooks your mallet in a polo game.

The bird who takes credit when things break right and passes the buck in a crisis.

The fellow who knocks the other officers in his regiment especially his battalion commander and the regimental adjutant.

The female newcomer into the service who knows everything about the customs thereof and puts them into effect.

The fellow who puts down four aces when you have two kings and a pair of jacks.

The oldtimer who always dwells on the glories of the "Old Army."

The bridge partner who trumps your trick. Also the one who tells you how your hand should have been played. Also the one who hands you a growl if you don't play your hand to suit her.

Garage owners when they present a repair bill.

The man who knocks the make of car you own.

The smoker who borrows your matches and puts them in his pocket.

The fellow who hands you a panning for something for which you are not responsible and thinks your explanation an alibi.

The fellow who has caught you pulling a boner and tells you about it with the explanation as to how it could have been avoided.

JULY 20, 1923.

THE MOTION PICTURE SERVICE

A large number of the theater patrons at this Post were disappointed last Friday evening when they arrived at the various theaters and found that the picture "The Rustle of Silk," was exhibited instead of "The Ne'er Do Well," featuring Thomas Meighan.

The unannounced change of program came about in this manner. "The Ne'er Do Well" failed to arrive on Friday afternoon but "The Rustle of Silk," which was scheduled for Saturday night did arrive and consequently, in order to have a show, the latter picture was exhibited with the hope that the Friday night's picture could be exhibited Saturday night. Unfortunately the picture did not arrive and another disappointment took place Saturday night when the theatres were closed.

Such occurances will sometime happen to the best organized system. In this case it is probably that the film, "The Ne'er Do Well," was ordered shipped to Columbus on a certain date. The distributor failed to comply with his shipping instructions in this instance with the foregoing results.

The theaters at this station are considered of primary importance for a number of reasons. One of the most important reason is that they are the means of furnishing recreation to all members of the command at a nominal price. Another reason is that this station participates, in a small way, in the profits of the theaters thereby procuring funds which may be used for general recreational purposes. Such funds are necessary since the discontinuance of appropriations for this purpose.

So much importance is placed on the showing of good pictures every night that an effort was made by the officer in charge of the three theaters to get an airplane last Saturday afternon for the purpose of going to Atlanta and getting a suitable film to fill in during the emergency. Unfortunately a plane was not available and the picture could not be secured. This fact is cited to show the members of the garrison that their interests in this connection are kept in mind.

ANOTHER COUNTRY HEARD FROM

The following letter is printed more or less for the benefit of our advertisers than anybody else but other readers of the News are not barred from reading it:

Oahu, Hawii.

Editor Fort Benning News,
Fort Benning, Ga.
Sir:

Unless you have some orders prohibiting the "broadcasting" of your very interesting little paper, I would appreciate receiving the "News" during my stay in the islands. I will mail check covering subscription upon receipt of bill. Please print the attached ad twice and mail me bill for same. Thank you.

In view of the fact that the writer of the above letter did not give us permission to use his name we have left it off. Just the same, it is a bona fide letter and we can prove it. Appropriate remarks by these of our admirers relative to our value as a news and advertising medium, which remarks we, being possessed of an innate modesty which we can not overcome, cannot make, are in order. Advertisers will please note that the above advertiser uses the word "broadcast" which proves that our circulation is abroad.

A great deal could be written about how this advertiser entrusted his advertising message to the News instead of the Saturday Evening Post or some other good paper but we believe our friends should say this for us.

---

Last week we had to put new king bolt bushings in our old bus. We read proof at our printer's place of business every Wednesday afternoon and on Thursdays. Wonder what part we will have to replace in the old hack this week!

Now that the kids have begun making Gray Squirrel rimes it might be a good thing to put on a contest, with permission for the News to use the best ones.

CALCULATOR AND THE GREAT DANE

The Great Dane was weeping. He had a grievance and wanted to tell it to a friend. "Calculator," he quivered, "I am a law abiding Dane, I try to obey all laws of man and the Commanding Officer, but I seem to get the worst of it." Calculator, the Wise One picked up a hospital bath towel, (hospital bath towels are found almost anywhere on the post, and off of it too, so you must believe this. Ed.) and wiped the tears and grime from the his friend's face. "Now tell me all about it, and make it snappy," he said. The Danish dog gulped and finally said, "Tell me, Old Dot and Carry One, i fthe post speed regulation is fifteen miles per hour and I am riding over the Velvet Kind of roads this post has and Major Sweatshop's second cousin passes me at twenty-five miles, splashes me and my boy's flivver with mud, and laughs at me for driving slow, and (GRRRRRR) then I look at her, (SNIF and GULP) is it discourteous? (OWOOOOOO) You see it is and I did and she did and I did and she said, "The Ugly Brute" and I was only trying to observe Post Regulations and keep out of the mud. (ORUUUUUU) "Wuff," said Calculator the Sympathetic Cuss, "Don't feel so bad. She isn't so beautiful herself. And anyway there is no real reason why you should turn out to let her go by, for if you do you are aiding and abetting and compounding a felony and everything like that, and besides, if you let her by she may be picked up for speeding." And they made another unsuccessful and useless trip to visit the fat butcher who was never known to give any poor dog a bone.

ANOTHER CORRECTION.

If We Do Pull Bones We Correct Them

In a recent issue of the News the statement was made that quarters at The Infantry Schol would be assigned to student officers according to rank and that about thirty field officers would be able to get quarters on the Post.

The statement was also made that the lowest ranking major to be assigned quarters had the promotion number of 809.

Within a few days here came a letter from an interested officer in Washington, D. C., who wanted to know, in substance, how in the deuce anybody could tell anything about the matter when the promotion list was changing daily. The News reckoned that it had been caught with the goods so the source of the original information was sought with the plea to please set things right. This informant advised that any bonehead ought to know that the number he meant was the RELATIVE number and not the PROMOTION number and we told him we thought he meant what he said and that he could be depended on for the straight "dope," etc., etc., and then he told us to get out, with appropriate remarks, and we did and that's all to that.

SEMI-AUTOMATIC RIFLE DEVELOPED

Fires A Shot Per Second

John Garand, an employee at the Springfield Armory, has invented a rifle capable of firing sixty shots per minute.

The rifle has been tested at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds and has demonstrated that it is a vastly superior weapon to anything similar now in use.

Past tests with the rifle with which the U. S. Army has been equipped indicate that a maximum of but twenty-five shots per minute was possible. Infantrymen, if equipped with the new weapon, will be enabled to largely supplement the machine gun fire both for defensive and offensive combat.

The Garand rifle is reported to be about the weight of the rifle with which the Infantry is now equipped and fully as powerful and accurate.

Then the Fun Began.

A dignified statesman some time ago, while traveling in the north of England, sat down hurriedly next to a little girl in shawl and clogs. Happening to glance at her a moment or two afterward, he saw that she was regarding him with no great favor. It dawned upon him that he was sitting on her newspaper. "Here, my dear, he said, pulling the paper from under him and handing it to her. "I'm sorry."

The little girl did not look quite satisfied, but she said nothing until a few minutes later, the train drew up at a station. "Please sir, she then inquired weakly, "May I have my Limburger cheese. It was in the paper."

Service Company.

Out of the group of 62 men of the 24th Infantry firing the Rifle Marksmanship course Tuesday, July 17, 1923, 9 of them belonged to the Service Co., all qualifying as Marksman or better. Pvt. Oliver, Service Co., lead the group for points scoring 303. The Service Co. is doing all that there is in it to make every man a qualified shot. A detailed report of the target season will be made as soon as the season is over and the correct data obtained.

Flash-Light Boyd, the cream of the 24th Infantry when it comes to pugilism, showed remarkable ability as a fighter when he went the limit in a 15 round bout with Young George Dixon of Savannah, Ga., on the 16th of July, 1923, after having his right wrist badly sprained in the 7th round. Boyd and Dixon met once before on the 15th of June last, and Boyd K. O'd Dixon in the 6th round, and every one that witnessed the affair of the 16th inst. have just cause to believe that Boyd would have been the victor had he not injured his right hand. Dixon got the judges decision over Boyd.

---

If Cpl. Jones had concentrated his fire on target No. 8, instead of distributing it up and down the range, he would have qualified as Expert where he made Ss. Cpl., we like your spirit of charity, but the Range Officer will disqualify the other man's score when there are too many hits on his target.

Sgt. Manlove, the Acting Top Kicker, set such a pace for his Pal, T. G. on the range until poor Tom forgot which way Manlove went.

Company "A"

Pvt. Davis, Company "A", 24th Inf. will be discharged early next month. This soldier came to Co. "K", 24th Inf., 9th August, 1920. Since that time he has equipt himself as a man and a soldier. He has never been reprimanded, never missed a call, never gave insubordinance to anyone who was set in authority over him, no matter how things went, hard or soft, he never grumbled. Now fellow soldiers, you know to grumble is second nature to the soldier, but this is one soldier I can say who has served three years without a murmer. He is very apt, takes any task set before him seriously, goes at it with vim, never drags around when the command "fall in" is given. You never had to tell Pvt. Davis twice. This soldier will complete his first enlistment without a mark of any sort against him, he will re-enlist, but if he goes out he can always be proud of the record he left behind, and to go out he would be a good soldier that had foolishly thrown away time that will count greatly at some later date.

---

Enlisted strength of Company "A" is 20 men, of these 19 have fired and qualified as follows: Experts, 8; Sharpshooters, 6; Marksman, 5. We are still holding our own, and when the firing is completed we expect to be second to none.

Well we are not going to worry about him, for he won't be gone long. You know it takes two to make a couple and with the chaueffer throwed in it won't be long before he will be back after the old 75 and then. Then what? Them red hot three years of course.

Lost, on Saturday, June 14th, between 11 and 12 o'clock, at the Post Finance office, one Pvt. by the name of Myral Davis. Not much credit to the mess Serg. of Co. "L" and the old Army of the USA. No not much I'll say.

Well here we are again after quite an absence. And the reason is that we didn't have time to let the outside world know that we were still a part of the Army; but you can bet all that you are worth the Treasury Department will, when they commence paying for qualification in small arms firing. Also ask any member of Company "A" they know we lead the First Battalion, our summary will appear in this column next week.

| 2nd Class Gunners | 1 |
| Total Firing | 40 |

The company admits that the above is very poor results, but due to the fact that 18 of the men firing were from Company "M," which no doubt had never seen a Machine Gun heretofore, thereby making it impossible to qualify a greater number of Experts, with such meager training.

Inf. School Detachment Notes

After picking up the News for July 12, 1923, and not seeing anything regarding the intimate life at the Infantry School Detachment (Which is supposed to be the root of the entire camp) I felt that it was time for some one to take up the burden of letting the rest of the camp know that we really do exist, so I am going to attempt to write a few unexplanatory things which may (or may not) be of interest.

Well! we see our old friend Staff Sergeant Cream still trying to beautify the surroundings, and from what has been accomplished, the grounds surrounding the detachment are the prettiest in the camp (barring the home of our most esteemed Master Sergeant Kindervater whose home scenery cannot be beat) and if anyone thinks we are prevaricating, just let him try and trample on a few of our most abundant (2) flowers.

Sergeant Kaylor goes to town every evening in civilian clothes, and we are wondering as to what the attraction is. Better keep out of the restricted area as the Military Police Platoon (Corporal Jimmie O'Hara) will be on the lookout for you.

We don't hear from Jimmie any more. Must be he is fully occupied with his duties as he has no use for civilian life. We hope he drops around once in a while and calls on the many friends that he has in the outfit.

Corporal Crowson has moved his possessions (begging the pardon of the Supply Sergeant) and belongings to the incinerator. No, we do not mean that he has got rid of them. He simply has moved over there as he claims that the atmosphere is more homey than around the barracks. We wonder how his bedding smells after he has put it out for its weekly (!!!) airing We sure do miss our old chubby.

We wonder whether our Commanding Officer will allow us to put our feet on the floor when we go into our recreation room. It is about the best room in the United States Army, at home and abroad. If any Company, Battalion, Detachment or Regimental Commander wishes to fix up a recreation room that will be liked by the enlisted men under their command they can call on our most efficient Detachment Commander for the necessary information. One look at our "Grand and Glorious" Recreation Room will convince them that the best thing they can do is to copy and be satisfied with a job one-half as good. Here's thanking the enlisted men who helped make this room what it is. Visitors are more than welcome.

Well lets hope this is the beginning of a new era and keep the good work up.

Here's hoping taht he doesn't push us out of the chow line before next pay day.

At last, at last, Sergeant Handy has whipped poor robin clean, he started last Monday and fairly made the Target cry for mercy. He says from this on out Sergt. Joe Anderson will have to clean his rifle.

Look out Company "L" somebody will drop a baseball in the company street and then you will tell people that you all can play ball, nuff sed.

Wel the time is here, Sergt. Steger has changedhis diet. Instead of greens he has started on cucumbers. Always look in his pocket; you will see one or more.

Look out! Noisy, you are pulling off Ruff Stuff, taking so many week end passes.

Company "K"

"Eternal hammering is the price of success" Whoever wrote that phrase must have been thinking about target season, and we don't mean maybe, What say, Sergt. Belser?

Not that we are curious, but who was it that passed in Review on last Sunday night? asked J. W. J. (He Vamp.)

Private Wheeler, claims to have the only rifle in captivity that has an elevation of 250 yards at 500 yard range, and to think he tried to prove it by Bob-cat, an old timer.

Company "L"

Ha! Ha! Private Stubbs (Fronia) We are very sorry you had hard luck. Two days and one night. It looks to the Company as if you won't give full details of your absence, but Oh! Fronia, The New Company Commander will investigate your case from front to rear. Be careful and watch your step.

When you talk about going down from high standing with the Company, Private Douglas, Private George Gorley (Sergt.) and other members of Company had a hard down fall from beds being proped high to beds being proped L O W. Just ask those boys what the word "L O W" means.

Sergeant Sessions (Shady Rest) made a flying trip in South Georgia, where he and wife visited relatives and had a swell time.

Corporal Decatur the high sharpshooter was discharged few days ago. Hope he will return in time to catch the three year limited. Don't rush old boy, more room in than out.

Corporal Hal D. Green, we ask of you to explain to us as to why you check the Company every night a 12 o'clock nearly two weeks. No alibis are considered Corporal.

Attention men! We have a new Company Clerk, and to make less work for him cut your bills, such as taxi tickets, canteen books, Ringside Boxing tickets. Bet a nickel it will be appreciated both by Company Commander and Company Clerk.

Attention to other Companies! About two marksmen, the rest Experts and Sharpshooter, look out 100 per cent. Company "L" will gobble you right up.

Look! Stop and Listen! An expert Rifleman was made a Non-commissioned Officer. Watch your step boys, show him regulations or we will have to chain this Non-commissioned officer down and cut his hair where it should be. Look out newly made Corporal (E. D.) you are sitting on the top of our front sight.

Company "M"

Private Bob Betts wish to find out how letters addressed to Fort Benning, Ga., work their way to Columbus, Ga. We know that they must either go by Junction, Fla., Halifax or San Francisco and, we have the same pardonable curiosity as to wheither they travel the Eastern or Western route.

Private Lommie Jones can stand on his head. If you don't believe it ask (200) Jolly good fellows who saw him do it when he tried to do the black bottom at a dance a few days past.

Sergt. Hill is noted for his famous reveille sermon, His text for the morning past was, "Never let no one girl give you a pain, because when you think you have her all by yourself you are just a monkey man."

Private Collins W. Slaton aplied for three (3) more years and, succeeded in getting his application filled. He is now making great progress as 1st Class Pot Washer.

Private Eliga Lewis (Slick Hair Daddy) Hold up all hands and feet and, the penalty received for same was three (3) years. He has been promoted to Buckboard Driver.

He says, the only difference between the Old Pre-Army job and the new is that the plow is missing.

STARTED SOMETHING.

Editor of the Infantry School News:

We noticed in the last issue of the News, an article entitled "Old Timer Leaving," which had to deal with departing from Fort Benning of Mr. Frank Salfinger, who has been a permanent fixture on the reservation since 1919. While we are content to give to Mr. Salfinger the credit for his long period of service at Fort Benning, and willingly admit him to the ranks of the Old Timers, yet however, there are in the Infantry School Detachment some twelve or fifteen of us who have Mr. Salfinger's services as an old timer topped. We have the distinction of being among those who pulled the cotton and pitched the first tents in the temporary camp in Wynnton in October 1918. Some of us have been members of the Infantry School Detachment and the Infantry School since its reorganization at Fort Sill Oklahoma in 1915. Among the ranks of us who were the first to blaze the trail to Fort Benning, Sergts. Kindervater, Grinstead, and Stewart who are still plugging away at the old stand came here as commissioned officers, Capt. Kindervater being in command of the Detachment with Lieut. Stewart as his assistant, while Lieut. Grinstead was Range Officer.

Edward P. Lamb.

A MAN-TRAP, ALL BAITED UP

Being caught in Columbus away from our base of supplies, gastronomically speaking, we entered The Cricket intent on parting with some loose change in exchange for something to fill the inner man. Our ambition was gratified and we received a most palatabie meal at a moderate price. We were first cajoled into a pleasant frame of mind by an orchestra which appealed to our finer sensibilities, if a reporter for this kind of a paper has any, and the pleasant manner of the attractive young lady who appeared on the scene for our order did not tend to lessen our enjoyment of the occasion. After she had left, foodward bound, a closer survey of the situation indicated that we were not the only one so fortunate as to have an attractive young lady bring us food as there were other who were being similarly served by similar individuals. The young lady at our table returned promptly with what we had ordered and we proceeded to thank her and then advanced in force against the array of food before us. We won a signal victory and, after paying our bill—this fact must be emphasized—we left the Cricket with the intention of returning again.

"Quality and Service" Shoes.

It frequently happens, quite frequently, in fact, that the head of a family with growing youngsters of about eight or nine years has to make a search for a shoe that will stand the test of time and hard knocks. While on one such quest we visited Foley & Cargill on Broad Street. We asked the salesman who approached us if he had any shoes half-soled with iron. He advised that he did not carry such a shoe in stock but would order it for me. However, he did say that he had something that would wear almost as long. We took a look at the shoe he had in mind, were convinced that he spoke the truth, and purchased a pair. These stood the test so well that we later bought another pair.

Any kind of shoe, from the baby's bootees to dancing slippers for the Missus, is available at Foley & Cargill and their prices ore not exorbitant. They appreciate the patronage of Army folk.

MAHOMMET AND GENERAL GOETHELS

Mahommet said to the mountain: "Come to me." The mountain refused, so after a bit of oriental thinking, Mahomet went to the mountain and fulfilled his command in that way.

General Goethals said to the mountain, "Get out of my way." The mountain in its scornful majesty refused. Then said Colonel Goethals, "We will make you!" And with doctors, dynamite, engineers and laborers faithful to their task despite every handicap—the united brain of American toilers under the direction of General Goethels removed the mountain that stood in the way and the ships now sail where the mountain stood.

General Goethals seemed a laughably small pigmy beside the towering mountain, but he thought, he toiled, he conquered and civilization has received the benefit. How different, too, was such conquest from those of Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon.

True, many of these industrial soldiers gave their lives in this Herculean task, but not merely to gratify the whim and personal vanity of a leader—they died to serve humanity.

Pearl Lillian Truman.

Pertinent Editorials Effecting Army.

OUR POWER FOR PEACE—Seattle Post Intelligencer—A conference of religious and welfare workers has protested to the secretary of war against any policy of pacifism and unpreparedness in the United States. A defenseless nation is without influence among the nations of the world today. To make America's power for peace felt abroad, America must be upright, sovereign and ready to defend her uprightness and sovereignty. That is the line of argument suggested by the religious and welfare workers in their communications to the secretary. It is no idealistic presentation. It is real, practical and undeniable. The whole course of world politics as it passes before our eyes today confirms it. It is the power to prevent disorder in a city or nation that preserves domestic peace. It is the power to win a war in this humisphere that has saved the United States from many a war in the Americas. It has the power of the battleship fleet that the president of the United States sent around the world years ago that maintained the peace between this country and Japan. Today it is the lack of power in Germany that is responsible for the war on peace that is waging, along the Rhine. These are a few vagrant examples. Every country provides others to fortify the argument. Even Russia teaches a lesson. She would have no peace today if her power did not prevent other nations from again invading her. The surest way to destroy this country's power for peace in the councils of the nations, the surest way to tempt the suggestions of some envious or militaristic rival, is a policy of simple trust in the peaceful intentions of the world when those intentions do not exist, a policy of weakness, defenselessness, unpreparedness and non-resistance on the part of the United States. That truth is written in letters of fire across the whole face of history. Not only for the safety of ourselves, but for the good of the world, it has got to be recognized by this nation, or the United States, and with it the rest of the nations, will suffer the very thing that we all seek most urgently to avoid. Only by maintaining an adequate army and navy can the United States be a power for peace among the nations. A century hence it may be different, but not in the lifetime of living man.—Seattle Post Intelligencer.

They'll All Boast But Pershing

The General (General Gouraud) was especially interested in the Woolworth Building, and amazed to learn that the outstanding structure of Manhattan was built by nickels an ddimes. As he journeys about the country, local guides will make a point of demonstrating the big scale on which we run things over here. Then he'll go to Washington and hear still more nickel-and-dime talk. Pershing will tell him how the cheeseparers of Congress, after authorizing a piddling force of 290,000 troops, have so cut army budgets that another year will leave less than 100,000 regulars to command. Secretary Weeks, for all his canvassing, can't sell the Capitol a national life insurance policy. Later, though, we'll buy it at a permium that shall again stagger history.—Washington Times.

Desire For Peace Should Not Blind Us To What Other Countries Are Doing

It is interesting to contrast the solicitious attitude of the British statesmen toward their country's defenses with the attitude of our own statesmen toward defensive forces of the United States. We reiterate, we don't want war, but a national desire for peace and good will does not justify us in putting our country at the mercy of other powers which may not have such a horror of war.—San Francisco Chronicle.

On the Altar of Mars

More recently we have learned of a new American invention, a gun, a rapid-firing weapon capable of firing one and one quarter-pound shells at the rate of one hundred and twenty a minute. From the air above us, from the earth beneath us, from the surface and from the depths of the seas, from the vials, retorts the tubes of the laboratories are to come the horrid agents of destruction and death in the coming great war. Human genius pays lowly obeisance to the altars of Mars! Cincinnati Enquirer.

A New Army Rifle

Automatic riflemen from a part of every infantry company under the present army organization. Their arm is clumsy and heavy compared with the standard shoulder rifle for infantry use. Adoption of the Garand rifle as the infantry arm would do away with the necessity for special automatic rifles. It would make every rifle bearing member of an infantry company an automatic rifleman, and at the same time his weapon would compare favorably in accuracy and portability with the Springfield. Everything that pertains to the infantryman in army field equipment is of the utmost importance, from his shoes to his head covering. Every detail of that equipment repays the most painstaking attention. Ill fitting packs, bad shoes, clumsy cartridge carriers, taken in bulk are just as important as an error in plans made at general headquarters. And so the matter of selecting a new rifle for the infantry, which remains the backbone of every army, is one which demands the most serious consideration by those in authority.—New York Herald.

The Menace of Militarism

The subordination of the military to the civil in our Government is hailed by all thoughtful Americans as one of the dearest principles that are traditionally American. It was high time for the country to hear this warning from Secretary Weeks. A fanatical minority liberally advertised and highly organized is now clamoring for the use of the Army and the Navy to enforce the Volstead law. Their clamor is a militaristic threat. Such action, short of the complete exhaustiton of every reasonable effort by the civil police power to enforce this law, would confront free America with the menace of militarism in its most obnoxious form. And the astounding fact appears to be that this militaristic demand emanates not only from an organized minority of Christian laymen. It is echoed by pacifists of the pulpit who are seemingly entirely content that our Army and our Navy shall be rendered impotent to protect the lives and property of our nationals, maintain our national rights and safeguard our national honor only that our armed forces may be utilized to enforce a domestic law in violation of the fundamental principle involved in the superiority of the civil to the military in our form of government.—Boston Transcrpt.

SPORTING ACTIVITIES

BOXING TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD; PLANS NOW UNDER WAY

Within the past week the Post A & R Officer has received a number of suggestions relative to the desirability of holding an amateur boxing tournament during the latter part of August or the early part of September.

Such a tournament would be of interest and, incidentally, would begin laying the foundations for a boxing team to represent this station in Corps tournaments.

For the past two years this station has won the 4th Corps boxing and wrestling tournament. This fact in the past has been comparatively easy. Next year, however, or some time this fall, there are at least two stations in the Corps area who will make a special effort to win the tournament and Fort Benning because if her past record, is going to have the combined force of these stations directed against her. The competition will be friendly and sportsmanlike but nevertheless vigorius. In other words Fort Bragg and Fort Screven are out after Corps Area puglistic honors and it is up to us to defeat these two stations in this nefarious purpose.

The best way for an organization or station to get enlistments is through its athletic record, Notwithstanding the fact that Fort Benning has won every Corps tournament, except polo, held in the past two years in this Corps area, Fort Benning has the reputation of being a hard station at which to serve. The winning of the Corps tournament this year will help to dispel this impression an ! the one sure way to win the tournament is to begin preparing for it now. All of which leads up to the local boxing tournamnet now being planned.

The plans are to have each Battalion and Detachment enter a boxing team to consist of one man, each, in the various weights. Contestants must be amateurs, which means men who have never received a purse for a boxing contest. Records of both teams and individual contestants will be kept and the team winning the highest number of points will be given a suitable trophy to be contested for each year by other teams but which will become the permanent property of any organization whose team wins it three years successively.

At the time of organization of the Post Boxing Team the individual winners in the coming tournament have the privilege of challenging the members of last years' boxing team who are Post Champions in their respective weights at this time.

The assistance of all Unit and Detachment Commanders is being solicited toward the end of making the coming tournament a success.

NO POLO GAME LAST SUNDAY

"News" Passes Buck Herewith.

The following was published to the command in bulletin form last Saturday:

"Announcement in the Fort Benning News of the polo game July 15th should be July 22, at which time the 29th Infantry will meet the 83rd Field Artillery for the opening game of the summer season."

In the issue of the News of July 13th the following announcement of a Polo game to be played Sunday, July 15th appeared:

"The new polo field which has just been completed will be formally opened up next Sunday, July 15th, by a game between two composite teams of the Post."

The News reporter responsible for the above received his infirmation from tht oficer at that time acting as Post Polo Representative and for this reason the story was believed to be authentic. The News apologizes to its readers for having published the above misinformation but such action was followed in good faith.

The News does not ask that its readers believe everything they see in the paper because such faith might lead the individual to be placed in an embarassing situation. In its feeble attempts to be funny the News at times prints matter which the reader has to accept with a cerain amount of mental reservation. In matters pertaining to happenings, data, etc., however, the News makes every effort to remain within the bounds of strict accuracy and it is for this reason that the News makes the foregoing explanation.

MEMPHIS RED SOX DIVIDE HONORS

In Two Game Series iWth 24th Inf.

Last Wednesday and Thursday the 24th Infantry team played the Memphis Red Sox on the local diamond, defeating them in the second game after losing the first on an error in the last of the ninth.

A review of the results of numerous games played with member teams of the Colored Southern League shows the 24th Infantry nine to have a high standing in that "League." While the soldiers in no sense aspire to professionalism, they have been matched with several teams of the Southern League and have beaten them all at least as often as they were bested. Among the league teams are Memphis, Nashville, Birmingham, New Orleans, Chattanooga and Hot Springs. The 24th Infantry has played the three former clubs.

First Game.

This game showed that the best mettle of both teams was on tap thruout the game. No game is won until the last man is out, but a high regard is always held for the team which has a game won but slips on a stray banana peel in the ninth. A costly error made at a critical time makes heroes of contestants that otherwise have failed to produce winning ball-playing. The score:

| | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|
| Memphis .....000 102 005 | 8 | 9 | 1 |
| 24th Inf. .....011 000 040 | 6 | 10 | 7 |

Batteries: Memphis, Glass, Brown; 24th Inf. Haywood, Gilchrist.

3 home runs, 1-3 base hit, 1-2 base hit; Struck out by Brown 13, by Haywood 5.

Second Game.

The second game was played under pressure of time and only five innings were completed. In this time there was opportunity for a full fledged ball game to be made into history. A surprise attack netted five runs for the soldiers in the first inning, and it was not until the last inning when the score was tied, but with fateful last half of the inning remaining for the soldiers to stage a counter attack which was successfully launchtd. The score:

| | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|
| Memphis .....000 32 | 5 | 11 | 1 |
| 24th Inf. .....500 02 | 7 | 9 | 2 |

Batteries: Memphis, Moore, Brown. 24th Inf. Leonard, Gilchrist.

1 home run, 1 double play, 2-3 base hits, 2-2 base hits, Struck out by Moore 3, by Leonard 0.

THE BOUTS LAST MONDAY NIGHT

24th Infantry Stages Some More.

The fights held in the Post Gymnaisum last Monday night by the 24th Infantry were a success financially and from the standpoint of interest to the crowd. The curtain raiser was between the two stand-bys, Kid Dynamite and Young Carbolic Acid. In the confusion of the crowd after this go there was a doubt as to who won. Both of these youthful gladiators, who weighed in at 85 pounds, were in fine shape. Carbolic Acid had it on the other fellow by wearing red, white and blue tights, but Dynamite came back strong after the first gong and both of them mixed things up for four rounds. We think this was a draw but are not sure. Both fellows claimed the fight in the dressing room after the battle and the efforts of several men were required to keep them apart.

The first preliminary was a six round go between Akers of the 29th Infantry and Pomerantz of the Veterinary Detachment. Both men mixed things from the sound of the gong and the crowd was kept on its feet. The men were middleweights and certain spectators were ready to take oath that they saw sparks fly when the men hit each other, which was frequently, although Akers had an edge on Pomerantz, who was wild. The judges decision in favor of Akers met with the approval of the crowd.

The second preliminary was a slow affair between Branner of the I. S. D. and Langmier of the 29th Inf. The referee had to warn the men to mix things repeatedly and in one round the crowd hissed the fighters for stalling. This fight slowly drew to an end with Langmier getting the decision.

The semi-final was between "Tiger" Moore of Savannah and Saunders of the 24th Infantry. The scrap was full of pep from start to finish. Saunders seemed to be the better boxer of the two while Moore had more steam in his punches. Moore floored Saunders eight time during the bout but he came up for more before the referee could begin the count. The bout was declared a draw with the crowd divided in its opinion.

Both men put up a stirring slugfest and kept the crowd yelling.

The last frame of the evening was between "Flashlight" Boyd, the 24th Infantry featherweight and Young Dixon who claimed the Southern championship title in this class. Boyd and Dixon met once before and Boyd knocked Dixon out in the eighth round. In the fight last Monday night both men put up a good fight but Dixon seemed to have the edge on the other fellow and after fifteen rounds of hard fighting the referee held up Dixon's hand.

Throughout this bout Dixon led the fighting. Boyd put up a splendid defensive fight but lacked the punch to put Dixon away by the kayo route. One of the features of the fight, and something which got the crowd behind Dixon, was in the eleventh round when Dixon knocked Boyd almost through the ropes and prevented him from falling to the floor by grasping both his arms around the waist. Most of the fight was boxing with an occasional strong punch mixed in for good measure with the exception of the fourth and seventh rounds which developed into slugging matches. In this game Dixon seemed to have more steam than Boyd.

The card last Monday evening was one of the best which has been put on the 24th Infantry.

INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM NEWS.

The second week of the tryouts have just been completed and the scores turned in have been excellent. Lieut. M. L. Broderick started the first time over in first place and has never been headed although Lieut. S. R. Hinds is pushing him closely. Up to today, Friday July 20th, the National Match course has been fired over five times, the first three times the scores standing as made and the 4th and 5th times the scores made were multiplied by one and a half, thus giving the candidates that got off to a bad start, a chance to come back.

THE 17th U. S. INFANTRY.

Short Synopsis of Regiment Since Date of Organization.

During the second war with England from January 11, 1812 to May 17, 1815, the 17th Infantry had a brief but honorable existence.

Early in the Civil War, May 4, 1861, by direction of the President the regiment was again constituted to remain until the present day.

In all the period above referred to, the personnel of the regiment feels a pardonable pride. The exigencies of the service have often held these doughboys to patient plodding service in camp and on guard when they would have preferred to be at the front, nevertheless they can face their record without shame.

Upon the Regimental Colors today there are streamers of loyal service at Bull Run, Gettsburg, Fredericksburg, Yorktown, The Wilderness and ma y others. Every one of these streamers call to mind some scene of daring and fortitude. The stone wall at Fredericksburg is emplazoned on the present regimental crest to represent the stolid tenacity with which the men remained before that wall thru-out an entire day.

The period of reconstruction began at the close of the Civil War and these duties led the regiment from the northern Atlantic Seaboard thru many states of the east and south, as far west as Texas.

From 1870 to 1886 the regiment was engaged in building up the great west and north-west of our republic. The present generation little realize the debt owed to these men and their comrades in arms. Practically all the transcontinental railroads and the

Columbus-Cusseta-Benning Road To Be Paved.

In the Enquirer-Sun's issue of Tuesday morning, July 24th, tidings of great joy were disseminated at Fort Benning by the following headlines:

"BENNING ROAD TO BE PAVED TO THE FORT"

Reading further it was learned that Federal aid would be forthcoming in the future for the purpose of connecting Columbus and Fort Benning with a passible thoroughfare, the necessary funds coming from either the 1923 or 1924 appropriations. Although the route to be followed in the paving project increases the distance between Columbus and Fort Benning, such route being necessary on account of existing local laws on the subject, this is a minor detail and is considerably offset by the increased time saving made possible by the new highway.

The Enquirer-Sun says:

With the assistance of federal aid totaling approximately $150,000, the paving of the Fort Benning road, will be made a continuous project, and the road will be paved to the bridge at the entrance of Fort Benning, was the information given out by R. H. Barnes, clerk to the county commissioners, after a called meeting of the county officials late yesterday afternoon.

This brings to a successful termination the efforts of the county commissioners over a period of two years to pave the road to Fort Benning with as little expense to the tax payers as possible, according to the statement of Mr. Barnes.

When C. M. Woolfolk, chairman of

THE INFANTRY SCHOOL LIBRARY

"Every addition to true knowledge is an addition to human power." Horace Mann, lectures and reports on Education.

Some time ago an officer asked, "Where is the School Library?" This remark leads to the following article on the School Library and its mission of service to the School and the Post.

The Library building at present is located directly in rear of the Assistant Commandant's Office. The lower floor is devoted to the Book collection and the upper floor to a reading and writing room for those who care to take advantage of the privilege. One antique typewriter, Model of 1776, is provided for those desiring to practice the touch system (on the typewriter only.) In the reading room will be found military journals and publications as well as the latest copies of the New York Times.

The growth of the School Library has been little short of phenomenal. It's origin dates from the establishment of the School when a room was set apart in the Department of Experiment and designated the School Library. Here, at this time, were gathered the few volumes which then made up the book collection. From that date to the present it has grown. New books have been acquired by purchase, while other valuable works have been donated by officers interested in the institution. At present the Library contains approximately nine thousand (9000) volumes on technical and professional subjects. This number is only about three thousand (3000) short of the total number of books in the Columbus Public Library established long before the Infantry School was thought or dreamed of.

Naturally, the greater portion of the books in the Library relate to military subjects but other technical and scientific fields are well covered. There are books of pyschology, biology, chemistry, medicine and kindred sugjects on the shelves. There are also many interesting volumes on travel and biography.

No description of the library would be complete without reference to the library's collection of rare and valuable books which should be of special interest to the student of early United States history. In this catergory are such volumes as "Stedman's History of the American War" (London 1794), "Gordon's American War" (New York 1789), "Steuben's Exercises (the first U. S. Drill Reg. 1779), "Burgoynes Narrative of the Expedition from Canada" (London 1780), Narrative of Sir William Howe (London 1781) and Forces American Archives (Washington 1844). Few libraries in the South can claim a better list of American than that represented by the foregoing items.

Recently the Doughboy of the Classes of 1922-23 has added one hundred and forty five valuable books to the library's collection.

A library is the depository of knowledge and knowledge, if not power as Bacon claimed, is certainly the stable foundation of Wisdom which is power. Furthermore the knowledge of the officer of today must consist of something more than mere professional learning if he is to fulfill adequately the duties expected of him under the new system of National Defense. Any book that stimuates thought (not idle dreaming) is of value to the military student for accurate thinking stands for success. Keep On Learning—Utilize the knowledge waiting for you in the library. If the reference book you desire is not on the shelves inform the librarian or Assistant Librarian in order that they may recommend its purchase. The mission of the library is to meet your needs in the way of information or bibliographical service.

THE 17th U. S. INFANTRY

national trails owe their existence to these hardy men who worked with their muskets at their sides or guarded others while the work went on. It was in such historical incidents as Coxie's Army, The Raids of Texas Cattlemen, The Yellowstone Expeditions, The Black Hills and others that the regiment participated with credit to itself and to the service.

The Spanish-American from the opening gun until long after its close commanded the most heroic service of the 17th Infantry. It was among the first to get into Cuba and was twice stationed in the Philippines during this period. In fact of the entire sixty-five years of the regiment's existence, forty-two years have been spent in active service against the enemies of the Republic, in actual warfare, Indian and frontier troubles and in quelling civil disturbances.

The question, "Who won the War" is often asked. During the World War the 17th Infantry was assigned the task of guarding German Prisoners, Shipyards, Munion Plants, etc. The first record of commendation in the earliest days of the regiment's history was for "Obedience to Orders."

Nearly all the officers and experienced enlisted men were transferred at different times to act as a nucleus for new outfits which were sent overseas, yet the few old men who remained and the new recruits who came in were imbued with the spirit of the first duty of the soldier, "To obey strictly," etc.

The regiment is now stationed at Forts Omaha and Crook, Nebraska, staitons about 20 miles apart.

During the past winter the National Rifle Association conducted their Annual Military Company Championship Match, in which the Regimental Team of the 17th Infantry won first place and three company teams won the first three honors. In addition to the above the regiment has a large number of trophies, both Regimental, Company and individual, which have been won by superior services.

NEW POST EXCHANGE OFFICER APPOINTED

Will Take Charge After July 31st

Orders are out announcing the appointment of Major Charles K. Nulsen, 24th Infantry, as Post Exchange Officer, vice Capt. Charles H. Moore, Jr., relieved.

Major Nulsen takes over the duties of Post Exchange Officer on July 31st with Lieut. Rudolph Broedlaw as his assistant.

A News reporter interviewed Capt. Moore for the purpose of finding out why he was quitting. Capt. Moore intimated that with the Bluebird and the News cartoonist making wise cracks about the shell holes in front of the Post Exchange he did not feel that his efforts were properly appreciated and that he did not care to be mixed up in anything of this nature. For these reasons he considered it best to dispose of his interest in the Post Exchange and go back to soldiering, a line of work for which he felt he was better equipped.

Since taking over the Post Exchange Capt. Moore has made a host of friends in Columbus and Fort Benning. The Post Exchange has materially prospered and become a money-making investment under the able management of Capt. Moore and the members of the garrison hope for him such success in other duties to which he may be assigned.

Formal application for federal aid was made at once by Clerk Barnes thru the regular channels.

CAPT. LEGGE AND MRS. LEGGE LEAVE.

On last Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Legge, the mother of Capt. B. R. Legge, left for her home in Charleston, S. C., where she will remain for a short time before joining Captain Legge who left Thursday for Paris, France, by way of Baltimore and New York City.

The many friends of Captain and Mrs. Legge regret to see them leave Fort Benning. The Blue Polo Team, especially, is the heaviest loser, Mrs. Legge having acted for so long as mentor and sponsor for that outfit.

Captain "Barney" reported to the News just before leaving that he was broke" but happy. He explained that his happiness was due to the fact that soon he would be in "Gay Paree" and that while he regretted leaving his Fort Benning friends he could not help but feel that his new station was a little more desirable.

Capt. Legge sails from New York on August 4th. The good wishes of the garrison follow both Mrs. Legge and himself. Capt. Legge will be at the Ecole de Guerre, the French Military Academy, for the next two years after which time he expects to be returned to the Infantry School as an instructor.

COL. AND MRS. SCHOEFFEL ENTERTAIN.

On last Saturday evening at the Country Club in Columbus Colonel and Mrs. Schoffel entertained at dinner. Among those present were:

Miss Peggy Kent. Miss Helen Peyton, Miss Ansure, sister of Mrs. Callahan of Fort Benning, Miss Helen Schoeffel, Miss Ruth Schoeffel, and Mrs. Carter. The gentlemen were Maj. Marsburn, Lieut. Carter, Lieut. Foelsing, Lieut. Zeigler, Lieut. Honnen, and Lieut. Pahlke.

NEW ATHLETIC DIRECTOR ARRIVES.

On last Sunday the new assistant to the Post A & R Officer arrived on the Post. To determine whether or not he was in proper trim he had his weight taken at the Station Hospital. This was found to be eight and three quarter pounds. The new director, whose name is John William Elkins, Third, gave briefly to a News reporter an outline of the work he expected to carry on during the coming school year. Among other things he stated that he attributed his past success to plenty of bunk fatigue and wholesome food. Mr. Elkins refused to discuss the Fort Benning road and other political questions but stated that he was pleased with local conditions on the Post.

Miss Jessie Crichton, the Postmistress, is expecting to leave August 11th for a vacation of two weeks at Atlantic Beach Hotel, Atlantic Beach, Fla. During her absence the stamp and parcel post window which she serves until Six P. M. will be closed at the usual closing time which is 4:30 P. M. Mr. Albert S. Norris, the Registry Clerk will be in charge until her return.

WENT PICNICING LAST SUNDAY.

On last Sunday the 20 Mile Post on the Buena Vista Road was the scene of an enjoyable little picnic party consisting of Col. and Mrs. W. B. McCaskey, Capt. and Mrs. W. A. Ellis, and Capt. and Mrs. G. E. Kraul.

In the procession going out it is reported that there were a Buick, a Dodge, and a Ford. The mechanical action of the first two named cars was perfect but the last named didn't do so well. Either something or other was not connected up right or else there was an attack of temperament on the part of Liz—at any rate it is reported tha the situation called for serious thought.

When Liz did run, however, the party arrived at their destination and were immediately attacked by ants who appeared to be also having a picnic and resented the invasion by foreign forces. This attack was a failure and the defenders were repulsed with heavy losses.

The picnic party when engaged in a simultaneus attack on a huge, iced watermelon with satisfying results to the members of the party but disastrous results to the melon.

The picnic was a decided success and the party returned home "in the cool of the afternoon.".

BIG SOCIAL EVENTS EXPECTED

The entire command is looking forward with much pleasurable anticipation to next Wednesday, August 1st, and the attendant festivities during the ensuing week. A number of brilliant although exceedingly informal events have already been planned, although owing to the necessity of excluding a certain very undesirable class of the Fort Benning personnel, who are usually conspicuous by black brassards with crimson lettering, the plans have not as yet been fully matured but all the guests will receive notice in ample time as to the dates and places and it is believed that the coming monh will rar eclipse in gayety any of the summer months up to this time, due in a large measure to the number of men who are expected to return from furlough with from two to three months pay. Out of deference to the wishes of those who will probably act as hosts on these occasions, it is announced that no guest is expected to bring his own cards. In fact such a procedure is considered, in the best circles, as a distinct breach of etiquette, and any guest so offending will be looked upon with an eye of suspicion, and may suffer some loss of popularity in consequence. A novel feature of these events is the fact that no one knows just who the guest of honor is until after they have each "departed for their respective homes" and have compared notes with each other. It may howver be considered a safe rule that those who have been so honored are usually the first to draw canteen checks, and can in this manner be easily identified.

PEOPLE WE ADMIRE

The bird who asks you for a ride to town and then wipes his feet all over the back of the front seat.

The Gink who asks you to call him up on his phone.

The fellow who takes on gas at the filling station and then holds up the line while he cleans his spark plugs.

The champ who tells you something confidentially after he has told the same thing to a dozen other people.

The dumbell who tries to be funny at a party by being sarcastic to his wife.

The man who parks his car so close to yours that he dents your fender getting out.

The bird who tells you how much he paid for everything.

The fellow who tells you how important he was at his last station.

The bird who ask you where you stand on the promotion list.

The fellow who is afraid he'll salute a Junior first.

The wise guy who disagrees with everything you say just for the sake of argument.

Inf. School Detachment Notes

Well, here we are back on the job again, since the editor was so generous in giving us so much space in the last issue.

No doubt all the members of the detachment have read the new orders on the Bulletin Board this last week, and the one in particular, which caused so much comment, dealt with the reduction of three non-commissioned officers and a private first-class, specialist first-class to the grade of private at nineteen-twenty-five ($19.-25) per. It is truly sad that men work hard to accomplish such fine ratings and then thru their own misconduct lose that which they have rightfully earned. We hope that this will not only be a lesson to those concerned but to all the members of the detachment who are so apt to imbibe too freely in that non-colored liquid impersonification of the devil, termed "Kawn". Question! Why Take A Chance?

Again the detachment baseball team has copped the old bunting with a clean slate of all victorys and defeats. Now comes the little worlds series between the 29th Infantry and our own undefeated champions. Let's all get out and root for our boys. If you don't know how to root, drop into our mess hall and see Sabo, who can give you all the information on shouting without getting a "colt" or a little "horse."

We have been wondering if our mess sergeant received an inspiration from the new song hit that we have on the victrola, viz, (Yes, we have no banana for the following two mornings our eyes beheld that elongated fruit with the yellow wrapper which is not known in Georgia as an enlisted man. Well, keep it up old timer and the boys will all re-up.

No doubt some of the old timers will recollect an old friend who has been strolling around the camp the last few days and talking over old times. This was none other than Billy Watts, and those who haven't seen him will be glad to know that he looks like a retired bootlegger.

Wonder when Bennefield is going to get hitched up? He has been after "Hot Papa" for quite a while trying to make him change bunks with him. It is an old saying that anyone sleeping alongside the side door on the left hand side going in will not be left when it comes to getting into the double harness. Benny, you had better hurry up or some "Aalbama Sam" will be copping her before you make up your mind, or does she live in Atlanta.

Wonder why the K. P.'s go on a strike just at the time the hard-working boys from Headquarters sit down to devour their beans. What do you say Sergeant Stewart? How about a little real army service at the tables instead of the usual civilian restaurant service which all the men try to get away from by enlisting in the army.

Another good man gone wrong, we have just learned that Private Engle, our hustling K. P. has taken onto himself a blushing bride. Well we wish U Luck.

AMERICAN LEGION HEAD COMING

Big Meeting That Night At Club.

State Commander Edgar B. Dunlap and State Adjutant H. C. Hosch, of the American Legion, with headquarters at Gainesville, will be guests of the Charles S. Harrison post Saturday, a telegram last night definitely advising the local Legion officials of the visit.

A big meeting of the members will be held at the American Legion club, 117 Twelfth street, at 7:30 o'clock sharp and will come to a close before 9:30 o'clock, at which hour the state commander and adjutant, together with Commander M. S. Eddy, state executive committeeman, and the adjutant, who is district executive committeeman, will leave for Macon where a state executive committee meeting will be held the next day.

Evry member of the post is urged to be present at the meeting. In addition to inspiring addresses by the state commander and adjutant, Mayor J. Homer Dimon and H. R. McClatchey, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will deliver addresses which will add greatly to the occasion.

Music will be provided and immediately after the meeting refreshments will be served. A first class orchestra will furnish the music.

The two state officials will arrive a tthe noon hour and will confer with the post officials and the executive committee on Legion matters. The visit of the officials is an important one and is a distinct honor to the local post, being the first visit to a post by the officials of the administration elected at the state convenion in Athens last month.

In addiion to the large number of local Legionaires who will greet the officials, several veterans from Meriwether county ,a post being reorganized at Greenville last Friday night, will be present at the meeting.

29th Infantry News Notes

Company "D"

With the exception of the expert test, Company "D" 29th Infantry, U. S. A., Captain George C. Pilkington, commanding, completed its record practice June 5th, 1923. The rifleman of the organization completed their record practice June 1st, 1923, and the Pistol record practice was completed April 7th, 1923. The results attained were fair considering that all of the record practice took place during numerous Infantry School demonstrations and the annual maneuver.

Thruout the Infantry School season Company "D" is used as a machine gun unit for demonstration purposes.

Results With Machine Guns: Total fired, 107, Qualified 100 per cent. Qualified Sharpshooters: 87 per cent. High score, 693.

Results with Rifle: Total fired, 25. Total Authorized to fire Machine Gun Company 27. Qualified, 100 per cent. Experts 3, Sharpshooters 8, Marksmen 15.

Results With Pistol: Total fired 122 Qualified 73.7 per cent. Experts 13, Sharpshooters 30, Marksmen 47, Unqualified 32.

Company "D" fired Pistol, Rifle and Machine Gun practice whenever the opportunity offered between demonstrations and inclement weather. There were few consecutive days on the range. The officers of the organization are: Captain G. C. Pilkington, 1st Lieut. Charles F. Hudson, 1st Lieut. Richard F. Lussier, and Second Lieut. John B. Medaris.

WHAT CAN BE DONE

An interesting article, written from the Recruiting Officer's standpoint, by an officer of the 20th Infantry, showing the possibilities of a young man enlisting in the Army, making it his life professon, and by the time he retires from the service having a snug little fortune, has been made public through the headquarters of the 20th.

Taking as its hero Mr. Average (Young) Mann, the story shows that he joined the army at the age of 18. His pay was $21 a month, which as he was furnished all of his living, made his income equivalent to $140 to $150 a month. He found he could save actually half of his pay.

Working hard, he was promoted to Private 1st Class at the end of the first 6 months, and was able to put away $15 of his $30 every month. Faithful service was rewarded at the end of the 2nd year by his promotion to Corporal at $42 a month. Already he had managed to save $333.00. He now managed to get $21 a month into his savings.

At the end of his first three-year enlistment, he took a three months' vacation at full pay, and re-enlisted for another three years. At the end of his 4th year, now a seasoned veteran, Mann was made a Sergeant, at $54 a month, and got his first raise of 5 per cent. in pay for length of service. This lifted him from the "job" class, and placed him in the position class, with an income equal to $175 to $200 a month in civil life.

Early in his 5th year A. Y. Mann found that his saving, together with the 4 per cent. interest it had drawn in the hands of the regimental finance officer had given him a bank account of $1,000,000. With this much ready money he found opportunity for investment in his home town real estate which gave him returns of from 10 per cent. to 20 per cent. annually. He now was a man of consequence in his home town, his company, and his regiment.

Thereafter his promotions came more slowly, but at the end of his 8th year he was made 1st Sergeant at $88.20 a month, which soon increased to $92.40 a month, and his savings jumped to $554.40 a year. Gradual increases brought his pay as 1st Sergeant up to $105 a month. When the time came for his retirement a generous army custom gave him a final boost to Master Sergeant for purposes of retirement, with a monthly income of $133.88 for the rest of his life.

Figuring up his assests, Sergt. Mann was amazed to find that his savings and investments has accumulated to $65,350.00. His retired pay, he found, was equivalent to the income from $26,776.00 at 6 per cent. Thus he found himself enjoying the income from $92,125.00.

More than that, his 30 years of active service had taken him all over the United States, to Alaska, he had helped guard the Panama Canal, assisted in pacifying the Philippines, freeing Cuba, fortifying the Hawaiian Islands, and in winning the greatest war the world had ever known—and he had enjoyed it all. At the age of 48 he was a rich man, and had seen the world, all in the pay of the United States Government.

This statement of fact, while based upon the experience of no particular individual, has a numbre of parallels in the service—it was said at Headquarters of the 20th. Not long ago a sergeant was retired from that regiment with between $35,000 and $40,000.00 in cash in his possession. Instances where men have accumulated more than $60,000.00 are not rare, while the number retiring with $10,000.00 or more is large.—"San Antonio Express."

WITH THE EXCHANGES

Army And Navy In Prohibition

Public sentiment must be reckoned with in such matters. The popularity of the army and navy would not be enhanced by the employment advocated in circles fanatically committed to Volsteadism. Besides, there are other and simpler steps yet to be taken if congress is sincere in its desire to give the country what the president calls universal and complete prohibition.—Chicago News.

New Infantry Rifle

The adoption of the weapon would have a profound influence on military tactics, for the infantry is the backbone of the army. The equipment of the individual soldier with a machine gun would permit the delivery of approximately three times its present maximum volume of fire and would eliminate the necessity of special companies carrying the automatics now in use. Regardless of the new weapon's performance, it is likely to encounter a certain degree of objection from army experts, who frown on the rapid firer on the ground that it encourages inaccurate, haphazard firing with a tremendous waste of ammunition. This increases the difficulty of maintaining the ammunition supply in the front lines. The advantage of the new type rifle would be most pronounced in an emergency where the additional volume of fire would be a prominent factor in determining the result. The majority of experts agree that the light automatic rifle is the coming weapon for the world's infantry.—Indianapolis Star.

Not a Military Job

In his address at the War College commencement, Secretary Weeks laid stress on the American principle of subordination of the military to the civil power. The army would be miscast if mobilized against liquor smugglers and bootleggers. That is not a branch of government service for which military science is adapted or in which military aptitudes are needed. New York Tribune.

$100,000 For A Peace Plan

The development and progress of the contest for Mr. Bok's prize will be watched with the greatest interest, not only in the United States, but throughout the world. It will at least help to stimulate thought and discussion upon a subject which already ought to engage the best intellectural efforts of every man having the welfare of the human race at heart. We hope that it will result in something more than academic success. But it is apparent that unless the successful contestant carries his project beyond the sphere of mere intellectual discussion into that of practical politics, nothing at all will come of it. And he may be very sure indeed that the practical politician in the hostile camp is already waiting to deal to what ever proposition he may put forth a stagge ing blow.—Christian Science Moniter.

The French Challenge In the Air

The British have at last recognized the necessity of extending their national defense to the air. Whether they can compete with the French in building planes designed solely for military use we do not know, but it is recognized the United States cannot. A peace time armament on the French scale would not stand a show in congress. But the commercial development of aviation in such a way as to be available for military use when needed ought to enlist the government's interest. If there is to be a race for air supremacy America is concerned both from a commercial and defensive point of view and should not lag.—Kansas City Times.

Economy In Feeding the Army

Soldiers of the United States were well fed last year for 27 cents a day. That same sum would buy us civilians a ham sandwich and a cup o fcoffee. The soldier is better fed than before the war, yet his daily ration costs only 3.7 cents more. There is much justifiable criticism of government wastefulness, but somehow it doesn't apply to the cost of feeding the army. It is only to be regretted the same authorities who get the soldiers their three good meals a day can't do the same for the rest of us.—El Paso Herald.

The Bok Prize.

Mr. Bok's offer of a prize of $100,000 for the best plan offered by an American for American co-operation in the maintenance of world peace will be an incentive to deeper thought on the subject. Our policy was entangled in a Gordian knot by what happened in 1919 and 1920. Shall that knot be unraveled, or shall it be cut. How can America best contribute to a permanent peace concert! This is a problem not for statesmen alone but for all those who long for world security and for world progress untroubled by the clash of arms.—New York Tribune.

MR. BOK AND THE PLAN FOR MAINTAINING THE WORLD'S PEACE.

"A Severe War Lurks Under the Shadow of Peace."—Claudianus.

Now comes Mr. Bok of Lady's Home Journal fame with his offer of one hundred thousand dollars for the citizen of the U. S. who shall devise the most practical plan for the U. S. acting in co-operation with other nations to maintain World Peace." There is nothing new about the apparent desire back of Mr. Bok's offer. The longing for universal peace goes back into antiquity, The only novelty to Mr. Bok's offer is to be found in its dressing. One hundred thousand dollars even in this age of large figures, is still a lot of money. For this sum many ideas should sprout even as the green bay tree, but—will they be prcatical and possible of achievement? Our guess is that they will not.

Some three thousand years ago Aknaton, King of the Upper and Lower Lands, Pharoh of all Egypt, abolished by edict the ancient gods of his land, substituting in their stead the worship of one God. As a theological thinker he was far in advance of his times but as a ruler he was a hopeless failure. Lost in the Pacific mysteries of his religion he allowed province after province of his empire to revolt or be conquered. He nearly ruined the empire and he destroyed his dynasty. Thre is a time for peace but alas there is also a time for War. Aknaton is the first pacifist of history; as a practical man he is one of its first failures.

Doubtless, the "Lion and the Lamb" shall some day lie down together and peace supernal shall reign upon earth. But the day is not yet. To the skeptically inclined, blassed with some knowledge of history and human nature War is an evil that must be endured for many years to come. Indeed, the same skeptic, must believe that if the frisky herbivora mentioned above ever does lie down with the same large feline, the resting place of the former is quite likely to be the stomach of the latter. Yes, and there is doubt if the digestive processes of the lion will be distributed by any qualms of conscious over his criminal act.

A plan to abolish War, to maintain World peace must be practical and how can practicability be obtained, to borrow from Herbert Spencer, while human nature remains human nature for in that quality itself lies the fruitful source of all conflict.

Wars have been fought over questions of politics, of religious creed, of race, and a multitude of other trivial pretexts. But back of every war, somewhere there was the desire to fight for whose final adjustment armed force was necessary. How, are we going to keep men or nations from differing in opinion (a condition far from desirable if progress is to continue? If the disagreement be deep enough and the conflict of interest sufficiently fundamental the supreme law of nature must be appealed to. And that law, all system of ethics to the contrary, is Force. It may be the force of public opinion, it may be the force of armed might but in the last analysis in an animal world physical force will prove a necessity. War is not, as certain erudite Germans, late of the Great General Staff, were prone to maintain a biological necessity but it is a biological fact, taking biology to include all the varied phenomena which go to make up life. As such a fact, taken in consideration with other biological factors, its continued existence seems probable; its abolition by legislation, treaty, or propaganda against, improbable.

Possible some day scientist will create a serum which will destroy the combative instinct and make all men think alike on the vital things of life, (although we must confess that such a state of affairs does not seem too desirable if the progress of the race is to continue.)

But until that day arrives, we hold with Washington that "To be prepared for War is one of the most effective means of preserving Peace."
—J. H. G.

TO OUR UNKNOWN FRIEND

When we returned to our sanctum sanitorium Wednesday morning we found on our desk an unsigned manuscropt entitle "Mind Your Business." This contribution was unusually good and the only reason it is not being published in this issue is because it sounds good enough to come from the versatile pen—or typewriter—of our friend Walt Mason, Walt, on account of being forced to make his living in this way, is jealous of having his efforts published without due credit being given him and such is his mercenary spirit that this credit must be in the form of a scrap of paper having printed on its face the words "Pay To The Order Of." The News does not want to give the impression that it believes "Mind Your Business" to be the child of Walt Mason's brain and in order that this literary effort may be published the author is requested to give the News his name—which will be held in confidence, of course—so that the News will be properly protected.

WHEN A FELLOW NEEDS A FRIEND

It being the 20th of the month and we being in our usual state of financial decrepitude at this time of the month, we drifted into the First National Bank for the purpose of determining the attitude of this institution toward making us a small loan. We approached the proper official with our knees shaking and holding a deposit book in our hand—this being a bluff—where it could be readily seen. After asking this gentlemen his state of health and that of his family and taking on other irrelevant subjects we managed to stammer out our needs. He reached in a drawer, took therefrom and filled in a note for the desired amount, said "Sign here," and sent us on our way rejoicing, just like that.

The "White Bank" keeps your few dollars safely for you and if you get in a "tight" they help you out. They do not refuse large deposits either.

We like those fellows.

THE ANNUAL MONOGRAPH

We did not do this ourselves but we know the officer who did. He had to write a monograph and he did not have time to pick it out on a typewriter. Consequently he wrote his notes out, paid a little visit to Mrs. Pearl Truman at the Ralston Hotel, dictated his monograph to her, received it the next day and as a result of its neat appearance and the correction of grammatical errors by Mrs. Truman he got 97.943 per cent.

Mrs. Truman, incidentally, is the congenial author of our "Jist of Life" Kolyum and her efforts are cordially received by News readers.

CALCALATOR AND THE GREAT DANE.

Calculator lay panting in the shade in front of the Officers Club when along came the Dane with his head drooping wearily toward the ground. "What Ho" said Calculator, "You seem to feel the heat."

"You bet your bum leg I do" exclaimed the Dane, as he sank down alongside of the little fellow, "this is hard weather on everyone, especially if a person has the usual amount of nerves. But the point I was thinking of was this here closing up proposition at the Post Exchange soda fountain. The other night some of us had been to the 7:30 show which lets out about 9:30 P. M. and decided we would go get a cool drink. It was a good idea and we had the checks already but when we got to the soda fountain in the Service Club the fellow with the apron on had just closed the door and we went home without our "Coke."

"Tis too bad" said Calculator "because so many of the boys would stop in if they would keep open until 10 o'clock, but I suppose those soda poppers have to get some rest."

"That's all true enough," replied the Dane, "but it's an accomodation and some arrangements should be made to keep us from going home 'Cokeless' from the show."

"Right you are Roger" broke in Calculator, "however lets go over to the 'News' office and see how many buckets they use to catch the water that leaks through the Gymnasium roof when it rains.

I also want to ask the Editor what has become of the social news Column they used to run sometime ago.

THAT "NE'ER DO WELL"

The following letter has been received from the manager of the agency responsible for supplying this station with motion picture film service and is published because of the fact that it bears out the prognostication made in last week's issue of the News that the fault of the non-receipt of this film lay with no government agency.

"I have received your letter of July 16th relative to a miss out of "Ne'er Do Well." We had investigated this matter in response to your wire and found that this picture was routed to you from Orangeburg, S. C. The Famous Players Lasky Corporation are unable to determine why the picture was not received by you in time in trying to secure other films and has for showing.

"This office appreciates your efforts also taken steps to remedy the situation that you complain of in the matter of cuts and advertising."

THE JIST OF LIFE.

A Timely Tale.

Two rookies of the A. E. F. met in Queenstown, Ireland. Just as they had interchanged a mutual "Howdy, Buddy," A Ford passed closely followed by another.

Said one: "What time of day if it when one Ford chases another Ford?"

"Give it up! what's the answer?"

"Tin after tin."

'Lasses.

When George came home from school, he joined his brethren at dinner in the old cabin on the plantation. Near the end of the meal. Rastus, a pickaninny of about eight years, said: "Daddy gimme some 'lasses." Gearge said reprovingly, "Rastus, why don't you learn to speak more correctly? You should say 'molasses."

"But, I ain't had none yit," remonstrated Rastus.

Liberality?

Mamma: "Did you do as you were told, Louis and give your little brother the best part of the apple?"

Louis: "Yess'm, I gave him the seeds and he can plant 'm and have a whole orchard for himself."

Grammatical.

A modern teacher was instructing a class of southern negroes in grammar and she painstakingly explained the conjugation of verbs.

She said, "Now class, the form of these verbs changes in this way: 'I am not going, you are not going, he is not going, we are not going, you are not going, they are not going.' Now do you understand?"

"Yess'um, responded a bright faced urchin."

"Well, let's hear you say it."

"Nobuddy ain't gwine," responded the pupil.

And to Transformer.

Mutt—"Say, Nut, can you tell me why a woman is like a street car?"

Nut—"Give up."

Mutt—"Because it takes a man to controller."

Up to the Minute.

Lou—"Perhaps, but it won't last long."

Jack—"How so?"

Lou—"Why I can tell from the face of it that its hours are numbered!"

FAST EXHIBITION WON BY 29th INF.—SCORE 3-2

Big Crowd Witnesses Hard Fought Game at Fort Benning — Burns Pitches in Great Style.

By SERGT. EDW. P. LAMB.

In the presence of one of the largest crowds of baseball enthusiasts ever gathered on the post athletic field this year, the seating capacity being entirely taken up and many softly nestling on Mother Earth, the Twenty-ninth Infantry baseball team, under the piloting of Lieut. Hussing, took the champions of the American league (the Infantry School Detachment) into camp and copped the first game of the post season with the score of three to two.

The game was one of the hardest fought and prettiest played games one could ask to see, and even the backers of the I. S. D.. some of whom are a few dollars poorer than they were before the game was played, have no fault to find. It was simply a case of where the best team on this occasion won. It was easily seen from the beginning of the game that with Bolo Burns, Lieut. Hussing's mound artist, pitching superb ball, and all the breaks of the game coming the Twenty-ninth's way, that nothing short of a miracle could save the I. S. D. from defeat. Aside from winning the opener of the annual series to this said Mr. Burns goes the credit of being the first soldier pitcher to administer defeat to the I. S. D. this season.

Superb Pitching

While Burns was pitching masterful ball, the brand which the big leaguers hand out, he was also receiving iron-clad support from his teammates. McNutt, the underhand artist, selected by Lieut. Buracher to carry the burden for the I. S. D., also pitched his usual good brand of ball, and like Burns, his team mates were piling up iron-clad support behind him, although it appeared to the official scorer that the left fielder of the I. S. D. had overrated the Twenty-ninth sluggers and was playing his position too deep. McNutt had one bad inning in which all the damage was done that cost the I. S. D. the game, when he allowed three hits in succession and hit the next succeeding batter, all of which netted two runs. After the fifth inning McNutt settled down and held his opponents hitless and runless. Probably what was the most boneheaded play of the entire game was when Kgelstrom hit a pretty single and in his anxiety to make it count for all it was worth endeavored to stretch it into a three-bagger, and when he arrived at the third sack he found Goodwin with McCarthy's peg in his hand, waiting for him, and Kelly's running was over. The Twenty-ninth Infantry rooters went wild when Kgelstrom came to bat in the third inning and sent a smashing drive out to left field for the circuit. The I. S. D. drew the first blood when Suby, who had reached first on a single and sacrificed to second by McCarthy and taken third on a fielder's choice came tearing home on Payne's passed ball.

Caught at Plate

Never again did an I. S. D. runner cross the platter until the ninth inning when McCarthy scored when Franz played Wheeler at first. On the other hand, however, two I. S. D. runners were caught at the plate. The wonderful work of Johnson, the left gardner, of the Twenty-ninth, and Heckert, the second sacker, and Hylan the short gardner of the I. S. D., was excellent and received the favorable comments of many fans. In their workout prior to the game, Payne, the backstop of the Twenty-ninth, had some difficulty of getting his pegs to second. The I. S. D. evidently chose to take advantage of this and played the stealing base game and many runners were caught in the attempt. All in all this was a Twenty-ninth Infantry day. The entire regiment of the Twenty-ninth marched to the ball grounds behind their band. At promptly three o'clock the post season series was ushered in when General Gordan, the Post Commander, tossed the first ball over the back stop onto the grounds. The second game of the series will be played at the Post Athletic Field Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. No admission is charged and a cordial invitation is extended to all to the baseball fans of Columbus to attend the game. The Twenty-ninth is coming back with the intention of repeating, while the I. S. D. are determined that this is the only game Lieut. Hussing's men will have to their credit.

We Do Not Vouch For This—

Here's one on General Castner, clipped from the Washington Times:

Brig. Gen. J. C. Castner, U. S. A., and well known in this city, having been at one time assigned by the War Department as Adjutant General of the District of Columbia Militia, appeared in Paris one day after a trip from the front with the Fifth Division.

The General has had wide experience in the army, having received many difficult and trying assignments, some of them in the wilds of Alaska, and he is noted for his frankness.

Shortly after he arrived in the French capital, wearing the bright sliver star of a brigadier general on his shoulder, he met General Pershing, Commander of the American Expeditionary Forces. After heart greetings General Pershing said to General Castner, looking with surprise at his stars:

"Whoever had the nerve to recommend you to be a brigadier general Castner."

"Oh, I don't know," responded Castner, in his straight-from-the-shoulder manner. "I suppose some old foss who didn't know what he was doing.

That ended it for the time, and the two laughingly parted. But when the war was over and General Castner returned to Washington he found that he had been made a brigadier general on the highest recommendation of General Pershing himself—Red Diamond.

AMATEUR BOXING TOURNAMENT

The Boxing fever has taken hold of the post in the past few weeks. Every day the Gymnasium is crowded with amatuer aspirants to boxing fame. The tournament to be held some time in September will bring out some very fine young talent and from the looks of things some of the Corps Area Champions will have to look to their laurels when the winners in the various classes of the Amateur Tournament are announced. Their training stunts are all on the lines of the old professional boxer and their enthusiasm is of the highest order. The temperature at the Gymnasium is just right for men training with the view of taking off weight and conditioning themselves for a hard struggle and these amateurs work with a will that can only bring success. It is hoped that this tournament will bring out the necessary material to enable Fort Benning to again reign supreme in the Corps Area but the struggle to hold our Boxing Championship this year will meet with greater competition from the other Posts in the Area, than it has in the past few years. It is up to our amateurs to work hard to be able, when the Gong sounds for the Corps Area Boxing Champsionship, to bring the Championship again back to Fort Benning. With this end in view let us get behind these men who are eager and willing to train for their respective bouts, encourage them and help them to train faithfully; then we will have the satisfaction of feeling that if we are beaten we at least made the other Posts fight and fight hard to gain even one Championship from Benning.

Service Company.

Private Robert Thaddieus after serving three years in the 9th Cavalry, and Private Eugene Jackson after serving three years at the West Point Military Academy, have just returned to the 24th Infantry, and have been assigned to Service Company. These men are good men and valuable soldiers. They were both formerly of the 24th Infantry and are as proud of their return as we are to have them return.

Company "A"

Say; have you heard the news? "A" Company has completed shooting for this year, and just as we expected, not a man unqualified. Our poorest shot made 241 as a score. This is how we stand 9 er, 6 ss, 5 mm with the Service Rifle, with the "Automatic Pistol," 4ss with the last named weapon we are proud to know that we have past the mark we heretofore made. With the season of next year we expect to do far better than we have done this year. Every man in Co. "A" likes to shoot, and besides he knows he has got to shoot to keep the ones that can shoot from crawling on his neck for not shooting and following the instruction as given him. Thanks to good instruction!

Private Cooper left Monday for the world. He stole away. I wonder is he going to steal back here. Of course if he thinks he can better his condition he is right for leaving, but if he just went to make his word true while his heart and soul is in the Army, he is foolish. He left a Private 1st Class. I am telling you if he returns one hour after the time he should have re-enlisted, he will be a "Buck Private" Then he will see what foolishness does for a wise man who don't think off his nose.

Company "C"

Attention! "C" Company, Stop! Look and take particular notice that we have a new Shiek, in our midst. If you don't believe it ask the Shebas. Say Mays old dear, what have you that lures them? It is a puzzle to us, but you certainly showed plenty of speed Sunday.

Private first class Washington, was discharged Saturday, July 21st with character "Excellent" and we can truthfully say that he was well deserving of the character given. Mr. Washington, expects to make his future home at Harrisburg, Penn.

Pudding, you certainly are in hard luck; but perhaps it will change by September. Watch your step old boy.

Company "D"

Sergt. N. G. Jones, known as "Grundy" should be one of the Army's best pistol shots, due to the fact that he has been on the Pistol Range since May 1st. In adding his total score made from May 1st to date we find that he has about 40 per cent. He has worn out two pair of service shoes walking from the supply room to the pistol range, which is about 250 yards. Cheer up "Grundy" we notice that you are getting better, for the last string you fired at 50 yds. you were getting good dust at 25 yards.

Corporal Murrell and Brookshire were discharged on the 15th inst., reenlisted on the 16th and are very happy with their new three-years. Three cheers for "Pap" and "Pea Head," this is proving that the kind policy of our Company Commander (Capt. E. E. Walker) is very much appreciated.

"Chubby" one of the company's oldest veterans has put the company in grief by talking of re-enlisting for Company "H" after serving in this company since 1914. Cheer up, "Chubby" old boy, we know that you were unfortunate and had a terrible fall, but be a Man, cover the ground upon which you stand, face your difficulties with a smile and you will find that the C. O. will always make two steps toward you, your chance is always bright in "D" Co.

Company "E"

Sergeant Fisher is so interested in the shooting of the new Soldiers that he goes to sleep. He will be telling them in his sleep that it is good for you have the right elevation. Carry it on, trooper.

Majors, has been promoted from Machine. I am sure you are glad. Stand up for the troops, "Funny Paper."

Private 1st Class Vanhook, is in favor of shooting Corporal Eb. Dawson off the target this season. If he does we will give him a prize for the first time. Don't worry Neiwtt he is arar-ing.

Company "G"

We've heard it said!

That the annual target season will be completed on or before July 31, 1923. All men that have fired the record course in rifle marksmanship have qualified. At present we have ten men who are to finish the record course by July 31st, including 1st Lt. James A. Murphey, our present company commander, who is leading the way for the above ten men. We feel sure that when the last bark from the old famous 30-30 has been heard, the last target pulled, the value of the shot registered, "G" Company will be classed 100 per cent.

That the "Medical Staff" will be greatly increased before the next monthly physical inspection of this command.

That the new quarters for the 24th Infantry will soon be under way of construction. That the baseball season will soon be over. That football season will take its place. That the helment used in last year's football games will be discarded. The new type which they have on the market and are expected to use is the suction-type.

That the Regimental Pool Hall, under the supervision of its efficient managers are coining a nice sum for the Regimental Fund each month.

That machinery for a National Negro Political Organization was set in motion today at a meeting of negro leaders from eighteen states. More than two hundred delegates met at Fitzgerald Auditorium to draw up a platform demanding equal political equality within the Republican Party.

That 2,410,906 visitors visited the Bronx Zoo in the past year. That the 37th annual report of the New York Zoological Society disclosed the fact that visitors to the zoo during the past year totaled 2,410,906, while the Aquarium numbered 2,121,996, both institutions reported as being in a prosperous condition.

Company "H"

Corporal Earl Clowers was discharged Saturday. He was so anxious to return to the service that he made a call upon the Recruiting Officer (by appointment) on Sunday, notwithstanding the fact that heretofore, it has often been considered that contracts entered into on Sunday were considered void. However, it seems that Uncle Sam will go the limit for the right kind of man, and to show that our Dear Old Uncle meant to be within the law this man was required to report on Monday afternoon for completion of his enlistment.

Private 1st Class Joe C. McCloud was discharged on Sunday and re-enlisted on Monday. Nevertheless, he has regularly attended our mess formation. Well, old boy, there's no reason why you should use money which comes but every three years to purchase what is prepared and given you just for being there to get it. We do know that you were able to make private purchases had you desired to do so.

Well, boys, we intend to serve you cordially for the next three years, so don't call it a long time. A move not only would give us a nice little soldierly railway trip and change of scenery, but transportation upon our next separation from the service.

Company "I"

SERGEANT STEGER'S DREAM

Tent No. 8 was sleeping—even the flies on the mosquito netting over Doc Williams water-melon had all but droned themselves to sleep. Cook Collin's youngest mocking bird, the runt, was stuffing himself to sleep. Poor old Mike (Reuben's dog) lay asleep outside tent No. 8. The oldest Mocking bird had slipped out of his cage and was lying with one foot and wing stretched lazily in the shade. Collins himself slept, his chair tilted against the wall. His gray mustache was streaked with "terbacker" juice around the edges, and was dust coated. His fat paunch billowing and falling with the same breath that escaped in whistling, wheezeing, tank-like snores.

Into this sleeping, sweltering tent, slouched the giant, loose-hinged Maltese Cat of Liff Johnson, with a clown like face. He started investigations. First one saucer of water for Collin's pets, which cause a movement of his tongue on dusty lips. The noise waked the mocking bird and Mike, but Collins was sleeping the sleep of 4 o'clock Reveille and did not awaken. Sweet Peaches! The bird in his fluttering attracted the cat's attention. Naturally Mike got interested. The bird flew for his cage, the cat jumped for the bird, Mike ran for the cat, and Private Rueben Woods right after Mike and in doing so his left foot struck the back leg of Collin's chair. The chair jerked forward—a siren whistle, a chocking wheeze, a final bellow and Collins sat upright, rubbing his head, blinking red watery eyes at the destruc-

Hints on Etiquette
By Ima Lyer

Outfitting The Bride:

Having gone through the various wedding anniversaries from the fifth to the fifteenth we remembered that we overlooked mentioning the bride's trousseau in our anxiety to get her safely married and celebrating her anniversaries.

The groom-elect should see that his bride-to-be is fittingly equipped for both her wedding and for a period of at least one year afterward. Such custom arises from the fact that after a year the bride finds it increasingly difficult to even get a new hat and she has learned through the ages to get things while the getting is good. Who does the equipping is a matter ordinarily requiring arbitration. If the groom feels that his future bride may run up bills for him to pay after the wedding he ordinarily takes things in hand himself and makes such purchases as he sees fit and believes to be required.

To attempt to list in this limited space the articles required by a bride would be futile. In the first place the articles are too personal in their nature and, in the second place, different people have different tastes and what might be considered the proper thing by this writer might meet with disapproval by other people. In the interest of pacifism a complete list will not be made but such things as aprons, dust caps, manicure sets, shaving mugs, and the like should always be included.

The bridal veil should be long and voluminous so large, in fact, as to almost wholly conceal the bride. Again we have an old tradition establishing this custom coming down from the days of our illustrations forefather, Adam, who got his bride while he was asleep, didn't know what he was getting, and the daughters of Eve ever since have kept the man in doubt. Consequently the veil for concealment.

The bride's bouquet is of primary importance because of the fact that it must be thrown at somebody. The custom of throwing articles at the bride and groom is said to be based on the fact that the party who is hit by the bouquet of the bride craves vengeance and, gathering his or her loyal supporters, things suitable for throwing purposes are gathered together and heaved brideward. To get back to the bouquet itself, this should be of almost any attractive flower. Roses, only, are about the only flower excepted. Bearing as they do such close relation to funerals they should not be used for the bouquet even though certain cynics-usually men who have been married a long time or bachelors—express certain opinions relative to the sameness of marriages and funerals. Such remarks are, of course facetious.

In the next issue important advice will be given with regard to funerals.

A young Italian, accredited with a mythical fortune, was perpetually being pestered with greetings from a Black Hand Society. To these he turned a disinterested ear. Much angered by this disregard these Angels of Mercy sent the young Italian this note:

"5,000 under the rock on the bridge, or we kidnap your wife."

A day later this is the reply they received:

"No gotta da mon, but I lika da propozish."—The Hatchet.

Now that Sgt. Powell has been placed in charge of the Company baseball team, we are going to clean up all of the other teams of the Regt.

---

Sgt. Garrett (Tailor-made) erstwhile expert ink-spilled, field clerk, official dopester of Company "K" completed 3 more years service and sworn to do 3 years more is back on the job again.

---

Cpl. Overstreet (Slim Jim) after completing 3 years enlistment, one big night, and a little white dog, has taken on 3more. "ALL IS WELL THAT ENDS WELL."

---

Look out Mearchant and Green. Watch your steps, or somebody will loud talk you when some one comes back home.

---

Last Tuesday "K" Company received back one of her lost sheep. No, he wasn't "hungry" or "ragged" for he could only stay away from his beans about two weeks. He confidentially informed the Top Kick that "they ain't much work in the section where I went to." Well Claude, you din't make a wrong landing if it is work—and chow you are looking for. You are now an old soldier with an "R" in front of your serial number.

Private Robert Davis (Small Fish) says he cleaned his rifle and (Pop) Sergeant Jennings looked it over and found a small thread at the heel of his rifle. Davis says he did, Pop says he didn't. They both got justice when the Company Commander got his eyes on things. Real, honest to Jerry Justice too. Be careful small fish and have everything in tip top shape.

---

The said Company Commander told the said Private that it looked to him he hadn't dug a ditch in so long he figured he had better dig one before long, and let it extend from front to rear. Who could that have been Pvt. W. A. Bennett.

---

Company "M"

Pvt. Alsea Dawson is all in now since he received a letter from some one up in Ohio. We know it is one of the best letters a soldier ever received, but we are in doubt to know whether it was a Final Statement or those Seventy-five squids, anyway it was a card of thanks.

---

We had our first chance to see a miracle Saturday, last, when "I" and "M" Companies played ball. The other team gave us a shut out after boiling up all the way. It was a miracle how the team kept off the restricted list.

---

Pvt. Laster Thomas, the Co. Barber is back on the job now after spending three week's furlough on the target range. It seems that he is trying to go from sharpshooter on the range to expert in the shop. He succeeded in producing a bald head with one hair out.

CAMP KNOX ESTABLISHES RECORD

Many High Ranking Officers Make Visit

Either there is something wrong at Camp Knox or it is one of the most popular stations in the Army at this time. The News is of the opinion that the latter is the case.

Within the past week Camp Knox has been visited by general officers in large numbers as is shown by the following list:

General Pershing, Major General McRae, Major General Tyndall, 38th Division, Brigadier General Denhardt, 75th Infantry Brigade, Brigadier Ellerbe Carter, 76th Artillery Brigade, Brigadier General Harold W. Bush, 62nd Ohio Artillery Brigade, Brigadier General L. R. Gignilliat, Culver Military Academy, Brigadier General H. J. Reilly, O. R. C., General Jackson Morris, Adjutant General of Kentucky, General C. R. Charnock, Adjutant General of West Virginia.

Brigadier General Dwight E. Aultman is in command at Camp Knox, a total of eleven general officers of the Regular Army, National Guard, and Officers Reserve Corps present at the station during the week.

BIG POLO TOURNAMENT TO BE PLAYED.

British Polo Team To Play Army.

Representative polo teams of the British and American Armies will meet at the Meadow Brook Club, Long Island, N. Y., the first week in September in the first of an annual series of polo championship matches, marking a departure in international polo events. The Polo Association of New York was instrumental in arranging the event. The match will be decided by the best two out of three games.

Acceptance by the British Army of the Association's invitation was due principally to General Pershing, who communicated to General, the Earl of Cavan, Chief of the General Staff of the British Army, the hope that such events would lead not only to the development of polo in the respective armies, but would tend to foster and extend the pleasant relations between nations.

A remarkable growth of enthuisiasm for polo in the American Army, coupled with the success of its team in winning the junior polo cup last year, led it to arrange the international contest which will be played alternately in England and the United States.

The Army has acquired a number of fine polo mounts for use of its more than 1,000 players and it is probable that a preliminary tourney will be held by the Army some time in August to determine the personnel of the American team—Recruiting News.

I. S. D. WINS ANOTHER ONE

Cannoneers Are Victims This Time. By Sergt. J. M. Wheeler

The I. S. D. playing like champions, defeated the Artillery in the last game of the American League by the one-sided score of 9 to 1. It was more of a practice game than anything else, as Lt. Buracker used Bennett, Lindsey and Swantic in the box. All three of the hurlers looked good.

The Artillery was held scoreless until the ninth, when Samolvich took second on a wild heave by Bill, went to third on a sacrifice and scored a moment later on a wild pitch.

The hitting stars were Johnny Hyland, who connected with a home run and a single, while Dickson got three singles out of four trips.

This was the last game of the Detachment until the series Wednesday with the 29th. This afternoon they will go through with a light workout, which will consist mostyl of batting practice. The score by innings of yesterday's game follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| I. S. D. | 110 002 | 23—9 | 13 4 |
| Artillery | 000 000 001—1 | | 5 4 |

Bennett, Lindsey, Swantic and McCarthy; Bruno and Wycoff.

Umpires, Big Jim and Red Austin.

INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM

Weather conditions have been ideal. The firing has started daily at 8:00 A. M. without fail. Exceptional scores are being made at 200 yards offhand under the new conditions of firing without the sling but the rapid fire at 200 and 300 yards at the "A" target is proving quite a stumbing block for many. The standing of the first fifty men indicates that in the next two times over, in which scores will be doubled, every man has a chance to finish among the first nineteen, the number composing the final infantry team squad.

In addition to the excellent work with the rifle, Captain Hedden, coach of the pistol team reports splendid scores. Candidates for the pistol squad fire the National Match Course over several times each afternoon. Among those who are showing exceptional ability in work with the pistol are Major Newgarden, Captain Hedden, Lieut. Hinds, Lieut. Vermette and Sgt. Velenage. About thirty candidates are out for the pistol squad. Under supervision of Captain Hedden the pistol range has been reconstructed and placed in excellent shape. Upon completion of the rifle tryouts, the pistol tryouts will be held the results of which will be published in these columns.

Last Saturday the team visited the Shredded Wheat Company in Niagara Falls and had a very interesting trip. This Saturday a party of about forty will visit the Carborundum Company where the famous Carborundum stones are made. These trips have been very successful and have given those who attended a splendid idea of the manufacturing section that is near Fort Niagara. In addition to the trips the squad enjoy the band concerts of the 28th Infantry band and as the bathing season is open quite a number visit the nearby beach for a plunge.

The morale of the team is excellent. Considering the strain of competition, the steady hard grind of daily firing, the team officals are highly pleased with the spirit that is being shown by every man on the squad. Splendid team spirit is in evidence thruout the squad, the low men pulling for those who are making a strong fight to win out and the high men hoping the low ones will pull up. The daily routine has not changed during the tryout, the morning being started off with the setting up exercises at 6:30 The afernoon periods are allowed for and the firing starts promptly at 8:00. Relaxation consists of checking up equipment or individual dummy drill by those who desire it.

Lieut. L. J. Harrant, captain of the 1922 pistol team has received the silver medal awarded by the National Rifle Association as winner of the 50 yard small bore pistol championship.

The candidates for the fur lined cuspidor and rubber barreled rifle trophy are increasing daily. Captain W. A. Hedden has succeeded Major Hicks, editor of the 1922 Snapshooters Bulletin, as editor of the 1923 edition and is proving a worthy successor. Another addition to the publication of the squad is a daily bulletin which contains not only frivolous facts but more or less serious matter that is of interest to the squad. Through the mediums of the daily bulletin and the snapshooters bulletin, great fun is had at the expense of those who are unfortunate to derive such publicity.

Record Tryout.

The following scores for the first five candidates for the Infantry Rifle Team were made on July 16th and 17th, 1923, the third time over the course. Target "A" user for all rapid fire with regular time allowance.

| No. | Name, Rank and Organization | S.F. 200 | R.F. 200 | R.F. 300 | S.F. 600 | S.F. 1000 | Prior Total | Aggregate Total | gate |

COPY OF 11th INFANTRY COAT-OF-ARMS RECEIVED

The News is in receipt of a copy of the 11th Infantry Coat-of-Arms. The design is very attractive. The following description of the Coat-of-Arms is taken from orders issued on the subject by that regiment:

"The present Eleventh Infantry was organized in 1869 by the consolidation of the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-ninth regiments. The Twenty-fourth Infantry was originally the Second Battalion, Fifteenth Infantry, being organized in 1861, and during the greater part of the Civil War was in the First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, which had a red acorn as the badge. The Twenty-ninth Infantry was originally the Third Battalion, Eleventh Infantry, also organized in 1861 and serving in the Second Division, Fifth Army Corps, with a white maltese cross as the badge. In the World War the regiment was in the Fifth Division with a red lozenge as the badge. The combination of these three badges forms the crest.

"The shield is blue, the Infantry color, and carrying (1) the castle from the arms of Spain for the Spanish War. (2) Satanta's "arrow" to show Indian Wars. The most important Indian campaign of this regiment was against the Kiowas, Comanches and Cheyenne in 1874. Santanta was a noted Kiowa chief who died just previous to this campaign. His "arrow" was really a spear with feathers on the end and a handle. (3) Crossed kampilan and bolo to show engagements against the Moros of Mindanao and the Filipinos of the Visayas respectively. (4) A chief of honorable augmentation to commemorate the World War, bearing the cross of the ancient Lords of Dun, to commemorate the crossing of the Heuse at Dun, the great achievement of the Fifth Division in that War. (5) The embattled partition represents the siege of a fortified place, in this case, the siege of Chattanooga in 1863, the first engagement of this regiment (Second Battalion,) Fifteenth Infantry"

ATTENTION POLO PLAYERS.

The Blue Polo Team, an aggregation heretofore composed of bolsheviks, freebooters, growlers, and everybody but bootleggers needs players from next year's classes. Only one pleyer is left at Fort Benning from last year's Blue Team. He's weakening. The Blue team has certain traditions to uphold. The chief of these is the virtue of hard riding, sportsmanlike playing, and being good losers.' ### FIFTH INFANTRY RANGE SEASON

Makes Good Record Under Difficulties

The Fifth Infantry moved from its permanent station at Portland Harbor, Maine, on May 7 and the same week all of the rifle companies of the regiment went into Camp at the Cranberry Pond Rifle Range, three miles from the center of Camp Devens, Mass., with the exception of "I" and "K" Companies. These companies remained on the range for one month or until June 8, when they returned to Camp Devens and "I" and "K" Companies, together with those men of Headquarters and Service Companies armed with the rifle, moved to the camp. The latter organizations completed record on June 30.

On account of climatic conditions at Portland Harbor, practically all preliminary instruction was carried on indoors; the rifles throughout the regiment were very old and had seen excessive use in Germany in demonstrations and maneuvers; the ammunition, of the 1918 model, was distrusted by many and, altogether, the outlook for a successful record seemed doubtful, to say the least. To add to the difficulties already enumerated, much time was lost on the range by reason of smoke from forest fires in Maine and Canada, it being impossible at times to fire the longer ranges on account of it.

To offset these unfavorable conditions there was, throughout the regiment, the spirit of determination to make a creditable showing for the target season. The entire personnel of the regiment, from the Commanding Officer to the youngest recruit, of which the regiment has some two hundred, was imbued with a determination to do his part and more, if possible, to maintain the high standard of the regiment.

When the last target was marked

BIG CONTROVERSY STARTED

Fat Butcher Denies Statement of Great Dane

In a recent issue of the News the Great Dane, in an argument with Calculator, stated that the Fat Butcher at the Sales Commissary was never known to give a hungry dawg a bone. During the conversation Calc seemed non-committal having misgivings, no doubt, about the internal capacity of the Great Dane and realizing that a little dawg did not stand much of a show against a big dawg when it came to the matter of bones.

Now comes the Fat Butcher at the Sales Commissary who says, "I am putting out nice bones daily to Calculator. Old Calc shops like anyone else and gives me a growl occasionally. The Great Dane is A. W. O. L. from the Commissary. No doubt this fact accounts for his recent complaint to Calculator about never receiving any bones."

As soon as the above statement arrived at the News office the Office Dawg was dispatched to find both Calculator and the Great Dane for the purpose of investigating the matter of the stinginess of the Fat Butcher and, if the allegation of the Fat Butcher that the Great Dane was A. W. O. L. was a fact, to have the Great Dane make amends or qualify his former statement. The Office Dawg reached Calc just as he was getting aboard the afternoon train for Columbus. As soon as old Calc found what the News Office Dawg wanted he remarked that he was not going to spoil a good thing and that further than this he cared to make no other statement. He did say, however, that the Fat Butcher was not as bad as he was painted and that while the bones under discussion were sometimes rather bare of meat at the same time "bones are bones" and the Fat Butcher sometimes does come across if a fellow gives him the

SCHOOL LIBRARY.

Synoptic Reviews of Important New Books

'The Life and Times of Akhnaton, Pharaoh of Egypt," by Arthur E. P. Weigall, G. P. Putnam's Sons. New York, 1923.

For those interested in the recent discoveries of the Tomb of Tut Ankh-Amen, this reprint of Mr. Weigall's book, "The Life and Times of Akhnaton" will be timely. The former was the son-in-law of the latter Pharaoh, who is, in many respects, one of the most unique figures in all ancient history.

From 1375 B. C. to 1358 B. C., Akhnaton ruled the Upper and Lower lands as Pharaoh of all Egypt. During that time, "all things he did not well" as subsequent events were to prove; but he followed the dictates of his conscience and hewed according to the fine principles which were his. But, alas, fine principles, to be of lasting good, must be acceptable principles, also, above and beyond all else, they must be practical principles. For, reformers, and idealists to the contrary, life is a practical thing, largely occupied with the business of eating, sleeping, and reproducing one's kind.

From the beginning of his brief reign Akhnaton exhibited a strong religious tendency. Probably his physical condition largely influenced his outlook upon life, and his conceptions of what life should be, here and hereafter, for "his skull was misshapen, and he must have been subject to occasional epileptic fits." (a derangement sometimes accompanying genius —vide Caesar) "One might imagine, continues his biographer, "the Pharaoh as a pale, sickly youth whose eyes were eloquent of dreams."

These dreams of religious significance early engaged the major portion of the boy ruler's time. They led to a revolution of religious thought and the establishment of a beautiful monotheistic system of religion quite out of keeping with the somber beliefs in vogue. But custom is hard to conquer, and Akhnaton's religion was doomed to perish with its founder.

The age was one of mental restlessness, and speculation was rife. Three conquering Pharoahs had preceded Akhnaton, and Egypt still felt the influences of their wars. If ever a practical man was needed to guide the destines of the empire, this was the time. Religious injunctions may do well in stirring up a war, but they are ill indeed for quelling a revolution, turning back an invastion. This, Akhnaton, like all dreamers of his kind, soon discovered. "Akhnaton's Policy in Syria," says his biographer. "when considered from the point of view of an ordinary man, was of the weakest. Ideals cannot govern an empire won by the sword (How else are they won? Blood and iron had much to do with the building of the United States) and those, who would apply the doctrine of 'peace and good will' to turbulent races, endanger the very principles they would teach. While the young Pharaoh was chanting his psalms to the Aton in his growing capital, the princes of Syria were singing the revolutionary songs which were presently to ring in the ears of the isolated Egyptian garrisons.

Is there not a lesson for a portion of our citizens today in the foregoing? Surely we must avoid making "dreams our masters" or the turbulent peoples of the present will serve us as Akhnaton was served over three thousand years ago. Here, certainly, is an argument for the man opposed to a too hasty fulfillment of the scriptural injunction which consigns the tools of a soldier to the uses of the farm. The time for beating our swords into plowshares is not yet.

BIG CONTRORVERSY STARTED

right line of talk and acts decent about the matter.

The train started about this time so th[illegible]ice Dawg, not having a ticket an[illegible] Calculator's "pull," got off to find the Great Dane. He found him making a social call in Block 20 and broached the subject of his being A. W. O. L. from the Sales Commissary. The Great Dane stated that while he had been absent for several days it was unavoidable due to the stress of official duties but that he still maintained that the Fat Butcher held out on him on several occasions when he was around. The Office Dawg then quoted Calculator in connection with the Fat Butcher being a good fellow if he was handled right which seemed to get the Great Dane riled up. He stated in part. "That little three legged cuss always gets what's coming to him and usually the biggest part of what is due somebody else. If he wants to go to town all he has to do is stand in the road and some fine automobile will stop for him. If he gets in town he can go down to the Howard Bus Station or stand in the street at the corner of 11th and Broad and he always gets a ride back to Benning. If he decides to ride the train either way all he has to do is get on and the conductor does the rest. If he decides to go out with a class over the narrow-gage the whole train will stop for him. If he goes to somebody's front door he is received with open arms and taken to the kitchen and fed a good meal and then if he decides to spend the night a nice, soft pillow is put on the davenport for him and he takes life easy. I don't see how he gets away with it and I'm here to tell the world I don't think it is fair."

The Office Dawg returned to the News office and reported his two conversations. He gave as his opinion that Calc had a wonderful gift of gab and could work people for what he wanted while the Great Dane, being of a more aggressive nature, was inclined to bring force to bear on people for what he wanted and that this fact sometime led to his failure to accomplish his mission.

At any rate it seems as if the Fat Butcher has been avenged.

Got There Just the Same.

American troops in France received a more careful and prolonged training than could possibly be given most of the regiments hurriedly raised during the Civil War. General Pershing tells the story of a volunteer battalion of rough backwoodmen that once joined General Grant. He admired their fine physique, but distrusted the capacity of their uncouth commander to handle troops promptly and efficiently in the field, so he said:

"Colonel, I want to see your men at work; call them to attention, and order them to march with shouldered arms in close column to the left flank."

Without a moment's hesitation the colonel yelled to his fellow ruffians: "Boys, look wild thar! Make ready to thicken and go left endways! Tote yer guns! Git!"

The maneuver proved a brilliant success and the self-elected colonel was forthwith officially commissioned.

and the last score totaled up it was found that out of 593 men firing 558 had qualified as marksman or better, or 94.1 per cent. 121 qualified as experts, 161 as sharpshooter and 276 as marksmen. "C" Co., with 61 firing, had a perfect score; several companies had only one man fail. The figures include officers.

From the standpoint of percentage on paper this is far from being a record, but from the standpoint of successful achievement under adverse conditions it is a record of which the regiment is justly proud.

FUTURE MAJOR GENERAL ARRIVES.

On Thursday, July 26th, a future Major General of the United States Army, by name George L. Potter, Jr., arrived at Fort Benning.

General Potter consented to an interview and stated in the course of his remarks that he was very glad that Federal aid had been secured for the paving of the Fort Benning road. This embryonic officer, who is the son of Lieut. and Mrs. George L. Potter, states that his health has never been better than it has since his arrival here and that he finds the sleeping most salubrious. He expects to make an inspection of the Post at an early date.

SWIMMING PARTY

On Thursday of last week Lieut. L. W. Bassett and Lieut. I. H. Joffee entertained about eighty guests at a swimming party at the Post Swimming Pool.

The moon was full and the music was good. The guests reported that the water felt fine. In addition to this hot dogs and iced watermelon was served all of which combined to make the evening a pleasant one.

These moon-lit swimming parties are becoming more and more popular at Fort Benning and the party Thursday night was one of the most pleasant yet given.

DELIGHTFUL PICNIC LUNCH

One of the most pleasant and novel affairs given on the Post recently was the picnic lunch given at the Polo Club house last Sunday by Col. and Mrs. W. B. McCaskey. The original plans were to have had the lunch in the woods but the threatening weather during the early part of the day made it appear advisable to go to the Polo Club instead.

Table cloths were spread on the floor of the broad north porch and the guests assembled to do justice to the ample spread, picnic style. The guests were seated on the floor on blankets, cushions and such other things as happened to be available at hand and the entire lack of formality gave to the affair the picnic atmosphere.

Among those present were Col. and Mrs. Hocker, Col. and Mrs. Peyton, Col. and Mrs. Kent, Col. and Mrs. Schoeffel, Major and Mrs. Hall, Major and Mrs. Elliott, Col. and Mrs. Arthur S. Pendleton, Major and Mrs. Dinsmore, Major and Mrs. Grady, Col. and Mrs. Alfonte, Major and Mrs. Goldthwaite, Col. and Mrs. Hansell, Capt. and Mrs. Roby, Major and Mrs. Green, American Red Cross, Major and Mrs. Cooper, Col. and Mrs. Harry Pendleton, Lieut. J. W. Elkins, the host and hostess.

COLONEL FASSETT RETURNS

Colonel Fassett, the Assistant Commandant, has returned to the Post after having spent a month's leave in Peterboro, N. H.

ENTERTAINED AT LUNCHEON

On last Tuesday Col. Fassett, Major Sutherland, Major Stokely, and Major Waite were entertained at luncheon by Col. and Mrs. W. B. McCaskey.

QUARTERED IN BLOCK 15

Major S. J. Sutherland, who recently arrived at Fort Benning and who has been staying with Major X. F. Blauvelt, is now quartered in Block 15 in the quarters originally occupied by Capt. Roger Wilson.

Mrs. Sutherland is expected to arrive about October 1st. Major Stokey, who has just arrived, is staying with Major Sutherland at present.

ASSISTANT CASHIER ARRIVED RECENTLY

Miss Ouida Marie Hughes, the petite daughter of Private and Mrs. Lem B. Hughes, arrived at Fort Benning on July 14th. She stated in an interview that her father, who is Cashier of the 29th Infantry Theater, had expressed himself as being overworked around pay day when the crowd rushed into the theater to see the pictures and that on account of this it was her intention of acting as his assistant during these rush hours. She also stated that, on account of her weight of four and one half pounds she was not handicapped with an excess burden and as a consequence she believed she could move quickly enough to relieve the situation considerably. Miss Hughes is now visiting relatives away from Fort Benning.

LIEUT. COL. AND MRS. PENDLETON ARRIVE

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Arthur S. Pendleton arrived at Fort Benning last week having come from Fitsimmons General Hospital. Prior to receiving treatment at Fitsimmons Hospital Col. Pendleton was stationed in the Phillipine Department. Col. Pendleton has been a signed temporary quarters in Block 19.

FUTURE DEBUTANTE ARRIVES

On January 25th at Hendersonville, N. C., where Lieut. and Mrs. William R. Brewster are visiting Miss Mildred Lucile Brewster arrived on this mortal sphere and immediately assumed the responsibilities of living. Due to the distance between Hendersonville and Fort Benning it was impossible for a News reporter to interview Miss Brewster but her message implied that she intended going in for athletics in view of the fact that her weight upon arrival was eight pounds and she was physically fit. Fort Benning awaits the arrival of Miss Brewster with interest and she will be accorded a welcome into the fold of the younger set.

BORN

THE LADIES; GOD BLESS 'EM

Memorial To Women of World War

There are few men in the Army today who are not influenced by some woman. During the World War the same condition existed. In order to erect a permanent memorial to "The sacrifices and services of the women of the United States of America and the World War" funds are required. During the last session of the Congress a bill was unanimously passed authorizing the appropriation of $150,000 for this purpose provided the American Red Cross raise by public subscription $150,000 more. Due to tardiness in engrossing the bill could not be signed by the President but will no doubt be passed again this year and become an act.

The cost of the memorial has been estimated to be $500,000 making the amount of $350,000 to be raised by contribution. The public at large will contribute to this fund but as it has been suggested that the Regular Army be represented in the raising of the funds an opportunity is being offered to members of the Army to contribute, officers in the amount of ten cents each and enlisted men five cents each.

The Army as a whole and Fort Benning in particular can not let this opportunity pass without taking advantage of it to show its appreciation of the part played by the women of the country—with stress eon the wome nof the Army—during the World War. This station should qualify 100 per cent in the matter of contributions.

John—"Is your family tree very large?"

Tom—"No, but it is very shady."

"MIND YOUR BUSINESS"

In days of old, the doughty knight, bedight in boiler plate went rambling o'er the country side upon a piebald skate. His snickersnee upon his thigh, his head within a pot, he sought miscreants busily, and smote them fierce, God wot! He'd travel thru his bailiwick searching for a scrap and when he found a tough guy, he'd punch him in the map. Betimes some luckless maid would tell the name of her deceiver—he'd gaily round the varlet up and stroke him with his cleaver. O, nothing pleased this fighting fool quite like a foeman's clutch; the while he joyously exclaimed: "Gadzooks," "Odsfish" and such.

Now, tho this gent was full of pep, and vim and high endeavor, he spent his time in arguing, so really was not clever. And while he spent his days and nights in sundry kinds of strife, the neighbors, whom he left at home, were flirting with his wife. And while he roamed the country-side, slaying giants and dragons, they spent their time in merriment a'draining of his flagons—they drank his mead and Burgundy and guzzled down his ale—they ate his fatted calf each day, and borrowed all his kale, and argued much among themselves that nothing but a sap would spend his time in fighting and chasing o'er the map. And so they spent his substance, and didn't give a hoot—'twas simple justice, so they said, to such a brainless coot.

Now when the miscreants all had flown and there were none to strafe, the knight, full weary, said: "By heck, Democracy is safe! I'll hie me homeward once again, and lead the simple life. I'll spend my time homebrewing, and I'll have no more of strife." The knight was battered hip and thigh, and he had wounds galore, he had warts and corns and bunions, and chilblains by the score. And so for all his scrapping, he had gathered naught but pain, and had nothing but his bruises as he started home again. "But tho," he said, "I have no coin, I've honor, sure, and fame—the populace will loudly cheer if they but hear my name, and after all my venturing I'll gladly take mine ease—my wife with joy will welcome me—home cooking sure will please." But when he reached his home again, alas, slack-a-day! he found his daughter toddling in a down town cabaret. His son was playing put and take, his wife was shooting craps, and spent her time cavorting with a bunch of useless yaps. His coffers, they were empty—his bank account was nil, and he hadn't any jitney with which to pay a bill. Flopping in his cushioned chair, his feet on top a shelf, he gave himself to musings on the loss of all his pelf. And loading up his corn cob pipe, between the puffs he'd grunt: "'Tis better far to stay at home, not leave to trouble hunt, twere better had I staid at home and kept the fires bright than rambled thru the bally land to others' battles fight."

She Didn't Oblige

He was a professional conjuror.

"Now ladies and gentlemen," he said, with a wave of the hand, "this is a magic cabinet. I invite any lady in the audience to enter this cabinet. I will then close the door, and when it is opened again the lady will have disappeared."

There was an impressive silence until an under-sized man in the second row turned to an enormous woman who sat beside him and breathed eagerly:

"Marie, dear. won't you oblige the gentleman?"

SERVICE COMPANY GIVES SMOKER

Big Time Last Monday Evening

On last Monday evening at the Post Gymnasium the Service Company, 29th Infantry held a get-together meeting and smoker. The evening was started by a short talk by General Gordan during which he briefly described the Service Company as an organization that gave service. He stressed the importance of the bringing of the personnel together on occasion due to the nature of the duties of this personnel being such as to require that they be ordinarily separated. General Gordan's talk was followed by a short talk by the Commanding Officer, 29th Infantry, in the course of which he made reference to compliments paid the Service Company by student officers during the last manouvers. Colonel Kerth mentioned the fact that without the Service Company the combat companies would be helpless in action due to lack of ammunition and supplies. The 29th infantry baseball team, which was a guest of the Service Company for the evening, was referred to by Colonel Kerth as having "delivered the goods" during the recent championship series and he stated that the 29th Infantry, including especially the Service Company. would continue to deliver the goods.

The following program was then followed out:

1. Selection by 29th Infantry Band.
2. 4 round bout; Giddens Vs. Mashbern, result, draw.
3. Band selection.
4. Selections by Peerless Quartette 24th Infantry.
5. Band Selection.
6. 6 round bout; Otalvaro Vs. Langmier; result, Otalvaro kayoed in 6th round.
7. Band selection.
8. Mess Call, Firm Roberts, caterer; seconds and thirds served.
9. Band selection.
10. Bout; Batholomew Vs. Baldwin Batholomew kayoed in 2nd round.
11. Selection by Peerless Quartette 24th Infantry.
12. Bout; Santiago Vs. Shoemaker; result, Santiago won decision.
13. Band selection.
14. Vaudeville act by colored troupe from Columbus.
15. Band selection.
16. Bout; "Kid" Roberts, 24th Inf. Vs. "Battling" Hicks, 24th Inf. result; Roberts tried to fake kayoe three times, was saved by bell each time, and finally took off gloves. Referee announced "No contract."
17. Vaudeville.

LETTER FROM STUDENT OFFICER

They Must Be Reading The News

The following extract from a letter received a few days ago shows that, from an advertising standpoint, the News is of value to Columbus business people. It may be stated here, parenthetically, that the News is now going to all officers ordered to the Infantry School next year for whom orders have been received at this station. In a number of cases these officers change their address for a short period of time before reporting to the school, either because they are on leave or else probably on duty with the summer R. O. T. C. camps.

Th eextracts follow:

"Please send my copy of the News to the address below.

I certainly enjoy your paper very much.

I am learning a great deal about the Post and also the city of Columbus from each copy."

Columbus, Ga.
July 29, 1923.

The other evening, when Valerie was getting her afternoon scrubbing, she said: Don't forget to wash my little cows." It took a bit of time to figure out that the child meant her calves.

Valerie, after a long stay in the South in towns where no street cars are in service and where transportation is practically limited to automobiles, went on a visit to Louisville, Kentucky. She thought it quite stylish to get into the great long city car, especially as she observed her mamma deposit money to pay for the ride. She then took a seat in the front of the car and when the car turned at a corner, she looked up and said: "Mamma shall I signal?"

She is now eight years of age and recently when in a car driven by her auntie, she reached over and pulled the collapsible seat into position because, she informed those present, "it interfers with the emergency." All being duly set, her auntie vainly tried to start the car. Then she asked, "Is your ignition on?" It was not, and her auntie duly "squelched." turned it on before again attempting to get the car to go. At this rate should she not manufacture a tin-lizzie by the time she is ten?

"Just of Life" Editor Has Trouble too.

I wanted to go from the Ralston to Broad street in a hurry so I went in a Buick. My first stunt was to bang into the back of a Ford and smash my fender. When I got into a traffic jam on Broad street, the horn would not toot, so I had to go up to Fifteenth street instead of down to Eleventh where I sarted to go. When I finally got the horn to tooting, after doing everything imaginable except kicking it, I proceeded majestically down Broad street only to find the stores closed and I wanted to make a purchase at the ten cen tstore. I went to a garage and it cost me a dollar to get the fender pounded back into position, and then I did not want to tell on myself that I had had a smash-up, but the man who fixed the fender left his pesky mallet on the fender of the car, so of course it was a dead give-away. A few days later I had to drive back to the garage to return the mallet because the men who worked at the garage did not want to come to the Ralston without geting pretty first as they wear their overalls when at work. The man who owned the Buick was chauffeur this time and when I got back to the garage and told them my troubles, they all laughed at me.

Incidentally after stopping at a store, I attempted to start the car without unlocking it. I am some chauffeur!

SLUMPIN' MORALE

It's amusin' to one who has thought on it much,
This slumpin' morale in the Army,
But there is a reason, though speakin' o' such
Will do it no good or real harm, eh?

Those youngsters who served with the Line quite a spell,
Ere World War, when morale was highest,
Received some stiff jolts when their heads seemed to swell,
So they held deep respect for their nighest.

Today there is many a kid in some job
Requirin' of judgment the keenest,
Who ever commanded a combatant mob
Where duty was irksome and meanest.

This bein' the case, 'tis quite natural then,
For a youth who's assigned to some duty
Which carries control over much older men
To conceive he's the pure tutti-frutti.

Of course, the old fellows whose judgment is square
Enjoy this control by staff youthful,
There's never occasion when seniors need swear,
Oh, never, but is this quite truthful?
Morale is a thing wherein Justice holds sway.
It blooms 'neath the hand o' fair
dealin',
But, God, how it withers and fades
plumb away
When Injustice's rough hand it is feelin'.

VAUDEVILLE BOOKINGS FOR BENNING?

Listens Good If It Materializes

The following news item was carried in the Army and Navy Journal of July 28th:

"Plans will soon be completed for a vaudeville circuit taking in the Army posts exclusively. Thomas H. Martell, director of bookings for the War Department theaters and attached to The Adjutant General's office, Washington, D. C., has announced that it would be only a short time until the men in camp would be enabled to see the best Broadway attractions. It is planned to reach at least twenty-five posts and camps, and the circuit will be permanent, bookings being so arranged that one show will be given at least once a week in the smaller posts with two or more in the larger ones. The clearing house for all shows and pictures is in the U. S. Army Building in Whitehall street, New York.

If such a program is adopted it will fill a long felt need at this station. No doubt the shows will be well patronized.

THE BIRTHDAY NUMBER

On August 31st the News will celebrate its first birthday anniversary. A special number will be published at this time which will consist of about twenty four pages.

Since the date of organization the News has had its trials, troubles, and tribulations just as any other new concern. Interesting reading matter has at times been hard to get; advertising was at first hard to get and required the constant efforts of everybody concerned; changes in personnel created a certain amount of confusion. At this time, however, the News is beginning to "see the light of day." Advertising patrons are beginning to realize the value of the paper as an advertising medium. Prospective advertisers are calling up over telephone and requesting that a representative to the News call for an advertising contract. The paper is being read and more or less being commented upon by other stations which latter fact increases the advertising value of the publication.

The most important thing now beginning to be in evidence is the matter of contributions being made by readers. Every week some reader sends in a contribution—usually something funny—which makes good reading matter. Also very helpful suggestions are being received with regard to the printing of certain types of reading matter that will be of interest to other readers. All of this is helping to make the way of the News staff, both editorial and business, easier and at the same time improving the value of the paper. All of this leads up to the matter of the Birthday Number. Because of the fact that the News goes to every Army station, both at home and abroad, to all regimental commanders, and to the various chiefs of branches and heads of departments in Washington we can not afford to let the Birthday Number be anything but a representative issue. In other words, the thing must be put across with a bang. For this reason the News is very anxious to get contributions for this issue. These contributions may be a piece of verse, a snappy cartoon—the News cartoonist does not object to this—a funny story, or any other similar contribution which will give the paper more "pep."

The interest of everybody who reads the paper is invited toward the end of making the Birthday Number the best issue published yet. Judging from past experience the editor expects to receive a considerable supply of good reading matter.

GETS D. S. C.

Rastus, ever since coming back from the war, was proudest of the proud because of the empty O. D. sleeve that hung limply at his side. To all who asked and to some who didn't he explained that he had lost his arm charging a "sheen gun nest."

"How cum yo' so disregardless of yo' health yo' chahge dat sheen gun nest?" inquired an envious friend.

"Humph!" grunted Rastus. "Dey pointed volunters an' I wuz one of dem."—Fifth Corps News.

INCONSISTENCY

Speaking of the inconsistency of woman, have you met the dame who paints her mug till it's as red as a barn and powders her nose till it's as white as a sheet and then pretends that poor old Mother Nature is responsible for the whole job?

Proof of the Pudding

Irate Diner: "Look here, waitress—there's not a particle of turtle in this turtle soup."

Waitress: "Well, what of it? We have Cabinet pudding, but you wouldn't expect to find Hoover in it, would you?"—Judge.

THE A. & R. TRUCK

A. & R. Officer: "Corporal, this truck seems to have almost twice as much speed as it had when we got it."

Driver: "Yes, sir, it has. The motor was holding it back so I took it out."

Correct!

There are meters of voice
And meters of tone;
But the best of all meters
Is meet 'er alone!

Electrician's Wife (to incoming spouse): "Watt's the meter? Wire you insulate?"

Electrician: "Sh! Couple 'a camperes, m'dear."—Wag Jag.

CALCULATOR AND THE GREAT DANE

The Grey Dane sat on the Service Club steps wiping his reading glasses with the end of his tail. As he wiped he sighed and as he sighed he wiped. And so as he sighed and wiped he attracted the attention of Calculator who was coming out of the soda stand wiping the remnants of an ice cream cone from his mouth. Calculator is very fond of ice cream cones. He sat himself down by the side of his big chum and for several minutes they wiped in silence. Finally the deep sighs which came rumbling up from the depths of the Dane attracted the attention of Calculator and he begged his friend to unburden himself.

"It's a shame," began the Dane," and I have been silent for a long time. But now on this rainy day I must speak of it because I had looked forward to spending an injoyable afternoon reading some good books in the library. So I started at the "A's" and went to the end of each shelf, from top to bottom, back and forward but, alas, I was unable to find anything that had been published since the war. The old famous library books were these of course but good adventure and mystery stories there were none. Now this is a soldier's library and while the reference books may be pawed over now and then what we need is some late books, lots of them—full of adventure and pep—the kind you won't put down until the last page is finished and then grumble because there is no more. These old musty love stories where the ardent lover doesn't even dare to tell her he loves her are all right for the old ladies' home but not the kind for a bunch of hard riding soldiers full of pep and jazz. So I gave it up and came out here to wipe my glasses and put them away as I never will use them."

"You spoke a parable that time," replied Calculator," and something should be done about it. The librarian told me the Fourth Corps our traveling library comes here once a month and stays for a week or so bringing a dozen or more pretty fair books but that only makes the others seem worse than ever. Oh! my! what to do eh? It looks like we could get some help some place. Let's go and see if the quartermaster has any appropriations left over that we can use?"

They found the Q. M. office filled with records and clerks. But at the first mention of "appropriation" they were seized bodily by the entire office force and thrown out near the ash cans where a passing truck picked them up and dropped them at the salvage warehouse for repairs.

The Musical Bank—

Have you ever visited the bank with the big clock in front of it which musically chimes the time at frequent intervals? If not you ought to. The depositary we have in mind is the THIRD NATIONAL BANK the Fort Benning representative of which is at present Mr. George C. Bates but the local business of which has grown so much that it has become necessary to open an additional branch in the Officers Club building. This branch is going to be handled, we are informed, by a nice looking young man who knows his business and who, we are further informed, has been instructed to "do the right thing" for his customers insofar as good banking principles—and "Pratts Digest" permit. We recommend this bank.

The "No Mans Land" Store—

Not that they do not treat a mere man with due courtesy and consideration but because of the fact that if he goes there with a feminine member of his family he is liable to get into financial trouble and if he goes unaccompanied he may be embarrassed—being such a shrinking, blushing creature.

We went into one lady's store once for the purpose of giving it the "once-over" and telling the world about it. We became hopelessly involved when it came to the matter of description so when we decided that BLANCHARD and BOOTH should come next on our list of advertisers to be written up in this manner we went into consultation with one of the female members of the family. She advises that this is a good place to shop, that she has always received every courtesy, that the quality of the goods is high, that prices are reasonable, and that they carry an extensive assortment of articles of wearing and household furnishings. What more could the heart desire?

A Big Ache.

We were out driving recently and Evelyn was looking at the moon. There were two dark shadows across the middle of the moon and she called our attention to them by saying: "O look, the moon's got the stomach ache." She thought the "man" was holding his "tummy."

Preparedness.

Little Raymond, aged five, had formed the habit of sleeping almost o nthe rail of his bed. His mother told him he would be much more comfortable if he would sleep in the middle of it. He said: "Well, I may as well get used to it. I'll have to sleep on the side when I'm married."

Fairy Information Bureau.

A little fairy who says she is "most five" came bounding in with the glad tidings that Mrs. Miller next door had a new baby and she had it for a boy. "How wonderful!" said her mother. "When was he born?" The fairy replied, "I din't think he's been born yet. He only came last night."

Mrs. Richleigh—"Why is it, doctor, that the weather has a more depressing effect upon me than on most people?"

Doctor—"Because, madam, you have more time to think about it."

Giddap.

A Chink by the name of Ching Ling,
Fell of a street-car, bing-bing,
The con turned his head, to a passenger said,
"The car's lost a washer," ding ding!

She—Forgive me for walking on your feet."

He—"Oh, don't mention it! I walk on them myself, you know."

Anatonically Important.

Lawyer—"Madam you lost your thumb in the trolley accident; but how can you prove it was worth $3,000 which you have sued the company for?

Lady Plaintiff—"It was the thumb I kept my husband under."

THOSE SPECIAL DUTY MEN

Dutch Rehor is the top kick
Of Combat Train, 3rd F. A.
He fell them in for roll call—
It was here the other day.

He called the roll and faced about
And reported to the B. C.—
This is all that's left, sir,
Three N. C. O's and me.

Where are allthe men. sergeant,
The B. C. asked with a grin?
It seems that we should have at least eight,
Or, maybe, nine or ten.

The sergeant said "Here's the list,
And you can plainly see,
That all the men are on duty,
Except these three and me.

I can't see, said the B. C.
Where all the men have gone;
Explain to me, sergeant,
Just what duty they are on.

Well, there's Lackey at the golf links
Working on the greens,
McGuire's at the stables
Taking care of the teams.

O'Mare is Provost Sergeant—
He is working down the line;
If he is not dragging roads
He is putting up more signs.

LeShelle is Supply Sergeant,
And is issuing out the jung,
Palko is a dog robber,
And is lying on his bunk.

Gibson, he is Mess Sergeant,
And figures day and night,
To try and make the grub curve,
Come out exactly right.

There are five men on post fatigue,
What they do I sur edon't know
But they say the work is very hard
And they are alwyas on the go.

Lone is in charge of quarters.
Giving out the mail,
Bosdyk is room orderly
And Lane has gone to jail.

Private Woller is another striker;
I don't know where he goes,
McKay is in the hospital
Minus a couple of toes.

Vandegrift is at the Radio,
Listening at some other nut,
Southam is in the basement
Eating fruit and nuts.

Matney's at the cook's school
Trying to learn a trade.
Peter's is going to shave himself
If he can bum a razor blade.

There is Robinson and Sibbits
Just back from a little trip.
Sibbits has a big black eye—
He said his foot just slipped.

Brown is in the office;
His hair is getting gray.
Trying to figure (Man Hours)
In his simple little way.

There is Page on special duty.
Ruana is in the shop.
Zdrojewski is in the dining room
Helping Dubey mop.

Now that is how we stand, sir.
As you can plainly see,
And I don't know what to do.
With just three men and me.

The B. C. said, "Well Sergeant,
I'll tell you what we'll do
We'll find a job for every man
Excepting me and you.

Put one man at the stable work
And one man with a broom,
To sweep out all thequarters
And the recreation room.

So all the men are working.

American Legion Notes

From American Legion News Service

Madison, Wis.—Governor John J. Blaine of Wisconsin, backed by the American Legion, is endeavoring to start an investigation into the mental and physical condition of veterans of the world war in all federal and state penitentiaries, following the recent investigation of the physical condition of 290 former service men in three Wisconsin state penal institutions.

Sixty per cent. of the ex-soldier inmates of Wisconsin prisons were mentally abnormal, of which number more than twenty per cent. were suffering from disabilities traceable to their military service. Experts who conducted the investigaton recommended that ex-service men found suffering frim mental diseases should be transferred to suitable institutions for treatment, that those having curable ailments should be given immediate treatment, and that efforts should be made to give vocational training commensurate with the mental ability. The American Legion commended the survey and urged similar action in all state and federal institutions at the last meeting of its executive committee in Indianapolis.

Manila, P. I.—A resolution indorsing the administration of Governor General Leonard Wood of the Philippines was passed recently by the Manila post of the American Legion. The resolution was in answer to a recent attack on the governor general by Congressman James A. Frear of Wisconsin.

---

Indianapolis—Federal recognitition in rank has been extended to Robert H. Tyndall, national treasurer of the American Legion, who holds the grade of major general in command of the 38th, division of the national guard. During the world war General Tyndall commanded the 150th Field Artillery of the 42nd division.

---

Casper, Wyo.—Chiles P. Plumer, national vice commander of the American Legion, has offered a cup to be awarded to the Wyoming post that makes the greatest membership gain between state conventions of the legion.

---

Indianapolis—In seventeen states and territories of the U. S. and in six foreign countries, contributions to the American Legion Overseas Graves Endowment Fund have exceeded the amount set by national officers, according to reports of Robert H. Tyndall, national treasurer.

The states and territories are Rhode Island, Delaware, West Virginia, Maryland, Vermont, New Mexico, Connecticut, South Carolina, District of Columbia, Wyoming, Arizona, Washington, New Jersey, Georgia, Arkansas, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands. The foreign countries are Japan, Canada, Mexico, Argentine, Brazil, and Cuba. These figures are based on amounts set on per capita membership in the legion.

Approximately five-eights of the fund necessary for decoration in perpetuity of graves of American world war dead has been subscribed thru the legion. Pennsylvania leads in the total amount collected, though Ohio is second by but a few hundreds of dollars. Subscriptions to the fund will be held open until reports are complete from all departments of the organization.

---

Let's hope they don't break their backs
And you an dI now, Sergtant,
Will figure our income tax,
JAME E. LACKEY,
1st Sergt., 3rd F. A.

Service Company.

The Target season is over, and the Service Company has 13 Experts and quite a few sharpshooters and one Expert Bolo-man (Who is he?) lookout Stf. W. W. Sept. will sure get you.

Staff Sergeant Harris we sure admired your Photo in the Social Register.

Who is the Toddling Top? Look out Spud. What is the matter Silk Shirt Guess? You seem to be hanging around the Company here of late. Oh, Ho! T. G.

"Bap" has a Motorcycle now and it takes all of his time trying to learn to stop it with the breaks instead of dragging his feet on the ground. Wake up Pap and learn a little about Mechanics.

The Service Co. defeated Co. "I" in the Ball game on the 28th, score 9-6, I guess we can have a little peace now, Co. "I."

Company "A"

Private 1st Class George Bell will be discharged some time soon. He says that he is through with the Army. Of course Private Bell must know what he is talking about and he should know what he wants to do. It is all right to go out and face that cold cruel world with your mind made up and a pocket full of money and a head full of nonsense. But in my estimation it is essential that you first look before you leap. It appears to you while you are here and listening to what other fellows say that you are losing something and that the outside is flourishing with easy pickings, but you are wrong. Watch the men who go, how long do they stay? If they don't come back here they go to the 25th or some other detachment.

I know that some things don't go as you or I think they should, but when you look at it in the right light, we are duty bound. Remember after you have been gone about a week or two, that longing for the Bugle you now hate to call you to "Chow" will be very frequent. Of course there will be no 1st Sergeant to make you hit the line for Reveille and therefore you will miss your "Chow." You seem to think you are working hard but ask the fellow that says he makes $40 or $45 a week. What kind of work is he doing? Nine out of ten will tell you at the steel works. Take it from me if you are not a skilled laborer your end is a whole lot smaller out there than it is here. It is with us second nature to grumble and that is because we know nothing else to do and we have got to say something knowif we don't mean it. If you go I know you're coming back, so while you are here a Private 1st Class you had better stay. It will save you from coming back a "Buck Private" and Oh, Boy! ain't winter hard on loafers.

Company "B"

Oh! Mighty and powerful Shiek, please have us beheaded if it be thy wish. We thought those ancient days of Shiekdom had passed, but, had any one outside of myself been on the trail of Shiek Ben Frager and followed him to his mighty castle in the desert, they would have turned green with envy, for those are the very words that were being said. Now thats the way with the Shieks, always wanting to get rid of the fair damsels after tiring of them, instead of giving them to some of us poor lonely ones who are not able to be shieks. Wake up Ben and get on the job, its day time but you're asleep.

Privates Hall and Brown are to be discharged soon, and are thinking of trying the world out for a while. They say there is nothing to keep them from making it out there as they have a black cats bone and there is no way for them to come back to Uncle Sam, but let me give you a little advice. Your black cats bone is a waste of time. What you need is a whole cat—and then some, for when that bear out there gets after you it's a hard propostion to keep from running to Old Uncle for protection.

Yield not to temptation, for yielding is sinning. This applies to you alone, Private Freeman. You were not satisfied with twos and threes, you thought you would like to try a nice "miss" once. Well you did, didn't you? Well I guess you see where it got you. Now the best thing for you to do is yield again, that is if you see a cow or pony or bicycle or anything that moves, yield once more and buy it and supplementary season seem so long about getting over.

Company "C"

Sergeant Jackson is suffering from a nervous breakdown, Private Pudding after diagnosing the case states his condition may prove serious. Well Jack, old boy you shouldn't worry because you know the hand of destiny rules supreme.

Our Supply Sergeant keeps our Mechanic quite busy now-a-days counting out cleaning patches for members of the company to clean their rifles with. We wonder if our supply sergeant is aware of the fact, that what the Government issues for use in the public service is for that purpose.

Do you know that:
Nothing hurts a duck but his bill.
Everybody's business is nobody's business.
To crush the weak shows that you are not very strong yourself.
There is such a thing as being to exact.

"A" Company is still trying to find 500 yards of firing line so as to catch up with "C" Company in qualifying expert riflemen.

Company "D"

Here is this 100 per cent. Company again, about to put something over on you. This time we are qualifying 100 per cent. in Pistol Marksmanship. 99 per cent. qualified, one man on the range, he is as good as qualified and that smashes the Army's record. Beginning next issue this writer will have a little "Pistol Dope" in this column, it may help you next season.

Private Finch lead the Range with 84.87 per cent. and "Hard Luck McGaffey" made 79.99 per cent.

The only thing that's wrong with the men of this company, is that the "Peep" in their eyes are too small. While men in other companies can see all of the target, "D" Co. can see only the "Bulls Eye."

Company "E"

Sergeant Francis, F. L. one of the oldest veterans of Co. "E" 24th Inf. papers for retirement has returned and the Company wishes him a great success in civilian life.

Co. "E" fired 19 men and qualified 100 per cent.:

Experts—1st Sergt. Hart, Sergt. Rollins, Corporal Haywood, Corporal Harris, Private 1st Class H. Brown, Private 1st Class J. G. Majors, Private S. Jackson, Private H. Hogan.

Sharpshooters—Sergt. C. Fisher, Private 1st Class J. Harrison, Private F. D. Jackson, Private T. Baugh, Corpl. N. Gilchrist, Bentley C. Cook.

Marksmen—Sergt. F. L. Francis, Sergt. H. E. Thomas, Corpl. Eb Dawson, Private D. Clemons, Private R. Brice.

Vanhook, where, where were you? Tell the truth and stay in church. Vanhook, that great day of "Raft" is coming.

The boys from the cactus bush are still on time. We are now looking for the four leaf clover, dear old big "G" and the little "A" which stands "Georgia."

Company "F"

The old battery has three on the range to fire for record to make the total number of experts 14. Don't fool us Coulter, Knight and Fletcher.

We are thinking of Corporal Alexander, the poor boy will soon have three new years, in civil life it takes twelve men to give you three years but on the 28th of July he is going to let one man give him three.

Well all men in the company can rest at night, Why? Because Sergt. Anderson, made marksman.

Company "G"

During the month ending July 31, 1923, the following named enlisted men were discharged—Private 1st Class Arthur Connor, King Davis, Fred C. Wright. Privates Davis and Wright have re-enlisted to fill their own vacancies. Private Connor, taken his discharge leaving this organization for San Antonio, Texas, where he contemplates re-enlisting for the 25th Infantry.

Mrs. Sand Jones, wife or 1st Sergt. Walter Jones was called to the bedside of her sick mother who resides in Oakland, Calif. Mrs. Jones arrived last Monday.

We hear it said:
You can't always tell by their faces
How people are feeling within,
For pain doesn't always leave traces
Nor joys always show a grin.
You find that each life has its leaven.
Of things that go ill or go well
We each have our own little heaven
We each have our own little hell.

If every man told you his story
His inmost secrets and hopes
His moments of uttermost glory,

Company "H"

Now that the regular target practice season is at an end and everything is fast settling to "normalcy," it is feared that the instruction and effort required to meet with the commendable record accomplished in he high percentage of qualification will be relegated to the usual scrap heap, only to be polished and renovated at the next regular period (1924). It is the hope of all concerned that such will not be the case, but that everyone often ponder over this subject in order that it be fresh in the memory when it becomes necessary for reference.

The company feels a deep regret at the loss of Sergeant Frank L. Francis, Company E, whose well earned retirement after 30 years deprives the regiment of a noncommissioned officer who has the deep respect and high regard of every member thereof. However, it is only a just reward after long and faithful service. It is felt that we are losing a very desirable comrade, but in losing him the world at large is gaining a noble and good citizen. Therefore, considering the latter we are very pleased to see him go, and bid him Good Bye.

Company "I"

Sgt. Steger, (hard-boiled), halted outside the orderly room, within you could hear Cpl. Reeves (Noisy), speaking over the phone:

"My Gal Sal, can you forget, you gave me your heart, I am all alone, I ain't got nobody, some sunny day, yes, tomorrow, my honey's loving arms, save a little dram for me, it ain't nobody's business if I do, sleep baby sleep." Sgt. Steger came in saying "oh I got your name, that phone was put there for the purpose of government, not for love making, I shall put your name on the Captain's desk," Corpl. Reeves, said, "just tell him Sgt. I was only ordering a few records for the victrola."

Can you imagine Sgt. Seger, not eating any greens. Corpl. Williams not bragging about his Velie, Sgt. Walker not having anything to say, Sgt. Handy not talking about being expert, Sgt. Moore not charging you twice for the twice, Cook Collins not having a chew of terbaccer in his mouth, Sgt. Butler not talking about retirement, Woods not eating up Mike's chow, Thomas Charley not visiting people when they are not at home. Liff Johnson not nursing his cats, Hill Owen not clowning, Willie Campbell not going on pass. George Lawson ot poroing his hair.

Private Woods, says that Burchett never will be able to buy any more cigarettes now as he has to supply Columbus, Ga., with sandwiches

Well Dog Days are here. The only way we can tell we see a certain fellow that is staying around camp for fear he will go mad.

Company "K"

Now that the target season is over, experts' gang around. Sharpshooters' get together. Marksmen go hide.

Look out J. W. I heard the butchers talking, a few days ago, so watch your steps.

To those that failed to go for record; that's alright, your time will come as the saying is, "every dog has his day."

Say N. T. L.: What about all those 47s-48s-49s and possibles! I know you made expert.

Who can drive a car as straight as the crow flies while looking back? ask the Kaiser.

Company "L"

1. The Mess Sergeant gave his boys a big surprise last Sunday when he gave the command to put chains and Yale locks on the spoons when we had excellent ice cream for desert. We had to lose most of our desert by using forks. Be careful Company L. you will lose your cream next time.

2. If there be any alibis for the men who shot record Monday and Tuesday from Company L, the Captain will pay strict attention to your story, while Pvt. King (Rism) will drive you and your alibis to the salvage dump with a Liberty Truck.

3. Pvt. Bishop Hill (Baby) what became of those possibles you made preliminary record? You told the gang you had two (2) possibles in reserve. Looked liked you had 'bout twenty from the way you were scuffling for marksmen.

4. Corporal Rogers (Bolt Manipulator) we would like to know which of the three you choose, Expert preliminary, Sharpshooter or marksman, well! well. If you choose Expert, what in the Sam Hill you doing with a marksman score? nuff sed.

5. Pvt. Perry Chairs is his name now, but, we can't say at the present time what his name will be or what he will even look like after the Company Commander gets through with him for bringing him 240. Look out Old Timer be sure you don't miss Pvt. King with that load of alibis.

6. Company attention! At ease. The following named enlisted men will report to the O. D. for 6 months, 6, 8, 10 and 12 because of misdemeanor and failure to obey War Department Order No. 2, Q. Z. M.: Pvt. Chairs, Perry (Old Timer) Pvt. Sam C. Jones (Big Lips) and (Sodt Head) Pvt. Haward Fountain (Dirt Dobber) Pvt. John Boltoh (Boob). The War Department says you must qualify and the above men failed to comply with the order. Please inform these men. There will be a Kangaroo court held in tent No. 14 for the purpose of qualifying all unqualified soldiers "Enough Said."

7. Private Carter Smyre (3 Year Now) had a flying trip to Macon for the purpose of making the first payment on his new shanty for Bride and Groom. Steady Kid don't you think you had better take the second thought.

Company "M"

Pvt. Archie Liddell says he is the greatest sport in Fort Benning, of course alley Golf will make any one a sport when those little golf balls throw a series of three's and twelve's.

Pvt. Claiborne known as the famous kitchen mechanic and stew expert served oat meal the other day and we had to let it set for a few hours to see whether it was Goodyear Rubber or Portland Cement.

Pvt. Atkins known as the P. H. D. D. L. D. said there are three follies of men. The first is climbing a tree to shake the fruit down, when if they would wait the fruit would fall off it's own weight.

The second is going to War to kill each other, when if they would only wait they would die na urally.

The third is what they run after women when if they would only sustain from it, the women are sure to run after them.

Pvt. Sylvester Thurman known as the ladies' administrator have succeeded in breaking the world's speed record. Some one gave him a tip that Pvt. James White was journeying to the city in a Hudson Speedster to see his little honey and knowing that it was the only way to get there before J. W. was to run like——and he did it.

It was recommended to Sgt. Russel that an instant relief for his sore feet was to walk on his hands.

Yes, Earl C. Crawford the most reliable letter is "E," for it was the beginning and the last of Eve, the beginning of Eternity, the end of time, and space the beginning of every End and will always stick to Loraine, Marie, Florence to a finish. It is also the most unpopular letter for it is never in Cash, always in Debt, everlasting in misery never out of Danger and always in Rent—ell. and Near Beer.

WE APOLOGIZE

Last week the News mentioned the fact that a contribution, "Mind Your Business," had been received and a plea was made for the name of the author. Here is the reply to our plea. Thanks, kind sir.

DEAR EDITOR.
YOU honor me.
FAR beyond my just deserts.
AND I bow to you.
MOST gratefully.
IN humble acknowledgement of
YOUR kindly words of praise.
BUT still me thinks.
THRU all your courteous words.
THERE runs.
AN undercurrent of doubt and satire.
AND a princely strain.
OF egotism.
FOR surely.
IT is taking.
A great deal for granted.
TO presume.
THAT your paper should ever.
SAVE by merest chance.
COME to Walt's attention.
EVEN your ever growing list.
OF interested readers.
COULD hardly warrant that.
AND while I understand.
MOST thoroly.
YOUR point of view.
AND realize.
YOUR need for self protection.
I sent that stuff.
WHICH you referred to.
THRU your regular correspondent.
WHO is a commissioned officer.
AND therefore.
UDOUBTEDLY.
KNOWS right from wrong.
AND I did not sign my name.
BECAUSE I sought no advertising.
OR fame or glory.
THRO the medium of
THE FORT BENNING NEWS.
BUT!
I will say this.
BY way of explanation.
WHEN I was younger.
AND life still seemed to be.
AN irridescent rainbow.
WHICH I might chase to its shimmering end.
AND then.
STRETCH forth my hand.
AND pluck from its hiding place.
THE fabulous pot of gold.
I suffered much.
FROM the joys of youth.
AND all of youth's illusions.
AND one thing in particular.
WHICH I have since suppressed most zealously.
WAS frequent attacks.
OF alleged poesy.
WHEREIN I attempted to set forth.
MY views on life.
AND things in general.
IN so called rhyme.
AND such.
AND a short time ago.
I was smitten with a recurrent.
THO very mild.
ATTACK.
OF this same ailment.
FROM which I suffered frequently.
IN the halcyon days.
OF my dear.
AND long departed.
YOUTH.
AND so.
TO fill in an empty hour.
I dashed off a few lines.
OF bunk.
OF purest ray serene.
AND then.
FORGOT it.
BUT finally I dug it up.
AND sent it in.
AS I said before.
AND so.
THAT'S all there is to that.
I THANK YOU.

STANDARD PHYSICAL EFFICIENCY TESTS

High Record Made By Militray Academy.

In connection with the physical efficiency tests, recommended to the War Department by the National Amateur Athletic Federation of America and adopted for Army use in Bulletin No. 3, War Department, March 17, 1923, the first two reports of the conduct of these tests to reach the War Department came from he High Schools of Beatrice, Nebraska, and from the United States Military Academy.

As was to be expected, the records made by the Corps of Cadets may be termed as "remarkable" and serve as a wonderful example of what may be accomplished by systematized and supervised participation in athletics. The cadets, of course, are all of approximately college age and might reasonably be expected to obtain at least a college standard of "Fair." As a matter of fact, with about eleven hundred men competing from a total enrollment of 1,200 a grand average of 81 7-10 per cent for all four events was reached. This gives the entire student body at the Military Academy a rating of "College" standard "Excellent." It is interesting to note that the grand average for the entire student body for the four events was 326 or seven points higher than the grand average of the fourth class, which, of course, had the advantage of but one year's training under the intramural system of athletics carried on at West Point. The cadets from Idaho all achieved the enviable standard under the tests, of the "Varsity Athlete," and naturally with a percentage of over 90 stand at the head of all the States. Connecticut, with a percentage of only 70, is at the other end of the line. In general, the States along the northern border of the country had reached a higher percentage than was reached by representatives from southern localities.

Turning from the results accomplished at the United States Military Academy, we find equally interesting data supplied by the statement of the High Schools at Beatrice, Neb. The tests for these units were carried out by Lieut. William L. Hughes, Officers' Reserve Corps, Athletic Director and Coach for the schools in question. Every boy in the Junior and Senior High Schools who was pronounced as "physically fit" as a result of a medical examination, was required to take the tests. The grade reached by the Junior High School students was only 44 per cent. slightly above "Fair," while the Senior High School students all reached the "Senior High School" standard, with a rating almost "Excellent," 69 3-10 per cent. A very interesting study is furnished by the data from the Beatrice High Schools wherein systematized athletic training is required of all members of the Senior High School, but is not required for students in the Junior High School. An examination of the figures showed that between the seventh and eighth grades in the Junior High School, there was a difference in results obtained of but about two per cent. whereas between the results accomplished by the eighth grade in the Junior High School and the freshman grade in the Senior High School, thert is a difference of about twenty per cent. which speaks for itself as to the value of only one year's work under systematized participation in athletics.

The reports from the two schools in question have been forwarded to the American Physical Education Association, which organization is carrying on during the present year for the National Amateur Athletic Federation of America, studies to the end that the physical efficiency tests for 1924 may be amended in line of the experience gained in the conduct of the tests during the present year.

SIDE LIGHTS ON THE FORT BENNING SERIES

(By Sergt. Edw. P. Lamb)

The Twenty Ninth Infantry has accomplished the wonderful feat of tramping on the I. S. D. four straight.

The lineup of the I. S. D. of Sunday was their best of the entire series.

The work of Willis on the Twenty Ninth second sack was the best seen in a long time. The way he handled himself and made play after play (some of which looked impossible) made him look like a big leaguer. Next to Johnson was the star of the series.

General Gordon was an interested spectator of Friday's game which was played in the rain. The General remained all through the rain until the final curtain was drawn.

Bell the backstop of the Columbus Manufacturing Company team of the Industrial League, formerly backstop of the Twenty Ninth Infantry was present to witness Sunday's game at which he was cordially greeted by his former teammates, and was given a seat of honor on the Twenty Ninth bench.

A seat on the Twenty Ninth bench had been reserved for Williams also of the Columbus Manufacturing Company and a former member of the Twenty Ninth Pitching staff, but Williams failed to arrive.

McCarthy, the I. S. D. backstop performed wonderful work behind the the bat, while his pegs to second were perfect. Mc is surely one of the most valuable members of the I. S. D. squad.

Hedgecock of the I. S. D. who hit like a house a fire in last year's series playing his first game Sunday in this year's series failed to obtain a safe bingle.

We having scored some of the games near the Twenty Ninth bench we could not but admire the work of Lieut. Hussing as pilot of the doughboys. John McGraw could not have handled his men with any more precision then was this team handled. He made it plain to his men that he was the pilot and not them. When any of the players started growling among themselves over some misplay the Lieutenant immediately informed them that he would do all the growling, that they were out there to play ball, and play ball they did.

Hyland of the I. S. D. is the leading hitter of the series, while Brown received the most number of hits.

Kgelstrom and Harrison of the Twenty Ninth Infantry secured the most runs in the series three each.

Duff of the I. S. D. and Harkey of the 29th, allowed the least number of hits, each following but four bingles.

To those who have gained the impression that Old Man Duff's days a ball tosser were over and that he should join the ranks of the "Has Beens" changed their mind after Sunday's game.

McGaha of the Twenty Ninth was the luckiest man in the entire series in reaching first base. In the one game in which he participated he was five times at the bat out of which he received one single, walked twice and got on twice through errors; if this record has been equaled in Fort Benning or Columbus this season we have not heard of it.

STRIBLING VS. M'AULIFF

And now comes the news that on Labor Day the city of Columbus will be once more favored, this time with a bout for the light heavy-weight championship of the world. Incidentally, a former Columbus youngster, one "Young" Stribling, will meet the present champion and if the challenger does nothing else he will learn something.

This affair is something of a "home" affair, as far as Fort Benning and Columbus are concerned, to the extent that in this affair, as in similar affairs of the past, Fort Benning personnel has co-operated closely with the officials of the American Legion to make the occasion a success. Of course the Legion could have managed to worry along somehow without the assistance rendered by members of the garrison but at the same time the fact that both parties co-operated with each other draws them closer together and for this reason alone because we are interested in Columbus affairs—this sports scribe makes the following suggestion:

For the Stribling-McAuliff bout have two judges officiating both of whom are thoroughly familiar with every phase of the boxing game.

As we said before, being as how this is a family affair, this scribe is going to "speak right out in meeting" and say that in the past the judging of fistic encounters in Columbus has at times been somewhat open to criticism not because the judges were biased in their decisions but because of a lack of the thorough understanding of boxing principles. This is especially noticeable in the judging of "in-fighting" than which there is nothing on which any judge can more easily be led astray in his decisions. Too boxers who are well versed in this phase of the game can land blows which the layman, unless he is familiar with the various punches, misses. The demand is for the slugging, mixing kind of bout and it is quite true that such bouts are exhilarating from the standpoint of the spectator. But the writer of this article can assure any one who does not know—this assurance being based on personal experience—that an experienced "in-fighter" can do more damage in fifteen seconds at close range than the slugger can do in an entire round.

The fisticuff on Labor Day is going to be a national affair. Columbus and Fort Benning cannot afford to take any chances on the rest of the country thinking an outside fighter cannot get a "square deal" in Columbus. Experienced officials are essential for this scrap.

How about the fight itself? We had just about overlooked that phase of the matter in our concern over the fair names of Columbus and Fort Benning being besmirched before the rest of the world but as we picked the winners in the Dempsey-Gibbons and Firpo-Willard bouts we hereby take a chance on the Stribling-McAuliff go. The bout will go the limit with McAuliff getting the decision. We make this statement in cold blood with the hope that our reputation as a picker will be shot to pieces and that Stribling knocks the tar out of his opponent.

29th INFANTRY WINS RAG FIRST TIME I. S. D. HAS LOST SERIES

(By Sergt. Edw. P. Lamb)

For the first time since the establishment of Fort Benning, the Post Championship has passed from the Infantry School Detachment to the Twenty-Ninth Infantry. The Orderly room of the Infantry School has been adorned year after year with trophies won as champions of the different sports in which they have participated. All have been justly won because every fan on the post as well as those in a number of surrounding cities who have seen defeat administered to their clubs by this I. S. D. bunch have been compelled to admit that this ball clu one which was hard to defeat. year however the Twenty Ninth fantry set out early in the season pruning a team with the sole purpose in view of bringing the post championship to their corner of the reservation, and in this purpose they have been successful. Four of the prettiest and hard fought games which one could desire have been staged in this serits, and with the season closed there is no fault to be found all have done their best, and we of the I. S. D. can only say that we were this year from the first game of the series hopelessly outclassed, we doubt if there is a club for miles around which could administer defeat to this Twenty Ninth bunch. They have for weeks and months been working out under an efficient coach and all the fine points of the game have been impressed upon them and they have put them into effect and have won. There is no doubt but what this Twenty Ninth club of 1923 under the coaching of Lieut. Hussing is the greatest ball team which has been seen on Fort Benning in many a day. When a team can come in their part of the ninth inning with two men and after having been held to a one to nothing whitewash all through the game and then come through with enough runs to win the game who can hope to defeat a team of this class. But nevertheless all have enjoyed themselves and everyone is content that the best team has won and the I. S. D. backers are only anxious for the next season to arrive when they will once again back their team to bring the Old banner back to its former place in the Infantry School Detachment. While without a double many new faces wil lbe seen in the next year's line-ups however another great series will be anticipated as the Twenty Ninth will do all the power to D. just as determined to again bring it hold the championship with the I. S. back home. With the Fort Benning series over we are now in hopes that a series will be arranged between the Fort Bnning Champions and the Champions of the Industrial League of Columbus.

GEN. GOURAUD IN COLUMBUS

Gen. Gouraud stopped his train to greet the people of Columbus, and to say a few words in praise of Georgia's sons. General Gordon went aboard to pay his respects. A picked platoon of the 29th under the command of Lieut. Perwein, acted as guard of honor to the one-armed French general. As the train pulled in, the guard smacked a smart 'Present Arms.' The city of Columbus showed its appreciation of this visit by turning out 1500 strong to greet the general. Our distinguished visitor was visibly touched

26TH INFANTRY HOLDS NOVEL TEAM SHOOT

Celebrates Regimental Organization Day

The 26th Infantry, Col. C. D. Roberts, Commanding, recently held a novel rifle, pistol, and machine gun contest as part of that regiment's Organization Day exercises.

The following rules governed the contest. The rifle and machine gun teams consisted of one squad of rifleman from each rifle company, including Headquarters and Service companies, and one squad of machine gunners from each machine gun company. Pistol teams consisted of three men, each, from every company in the regiment.

Event No. 1—Rifle Firing.

(a) All company rifle teams will be reported to the Range Officer at the 500 yard firing line by the non-commissioned officer in charge of the team.

(b) Only one team will fire at a time. The position to be taken will be prone without sand bag with 5 pace intervals between men.

(c) The Range Officer will instruct teams when he is ready to have them take their positions on the firing line.

(d) After teams are given twenty rounds of ammunition per man, each man will take the prone position, and the command for loading will be given by the Range Officer.

(e) The program for firing will consist of two classes of firing as follows:

First, 5 "B" targets will appear for 30 seconds at various points in the pit during which time any man diring may fire at any target. At the end of 30 seconds, the first set of targets will disappear, and immediately after-

Instructors Mobilizing For Student Officers.

Instructors in the Department of Military Art assembled in force last week to discuss plans covering next year's courses, to refresh themselves in existing plans covering the best methods of making student officers "put out" and to advise schemes of mental torture not yet tried out.

With expressions of grim determination on their faces these instructors gave the impression of being ready to deal out quick and complete annihilation to the student who so far forgets himself as to fail to prepare for the day's task on the night before.

All of which foregoing remarks are intended to convey the idea that the refresher course for instructors is under way.

On account of the next year's student body not being in position to mobilize against the instructors the latter now have the advantage. Whether the disadvantage of the student body can be overcome by the in-coming classes is problematical and a matter involving serious thought. In the past experience has taught that no student officer, nor body of student officers, has yet gained a decisive victory over an instructor and until some Napoleonic genius appears at the Infantry School it is doubtful if such will ever happen.

There is a reason for this. Instructors "know the stuff" and, what's more, they know that they know it. Student officers, some of them, having "fit, bled, and died" overseas have ingrowing ideas about certain things but it sometimes happens that these ideas cover but one phase of a situaward a set of 5 Silhouette targets will appear, which will move in view across the range for 30 seconds.

(f) At the end of the 30 seconds, the silhouette targets will go down and after all targets are marked, pasted and disked, the number and value of hits will be telephoned to the firing point, where a record will be posted on a black-board for the information of teams and spectators.

(g) The value of hits on the targets will be:

(1) For each "B" target struck.....5 points

(2) For each hole in "B" target.....The value awarded in Record Target Practice.

(3) For each silhouette hit.....10 points

(4) For each individual hit on silhouette.....5 points

(h) In case of jams or malfunctions of the gun, firers will be compelled to corect the fault and resume firing if possible, without leaving the firing line. In case the trouble cannot be corrected, the firer cannot use any other gun, his score is necessarily ended where he left off. The team securing the greatest number of points will rceive a cash prize of $3.00 per man.

(i) Ammunition will be furnished at the range.

Event No. II.—Pistol Firing.

(a) Immediately after the completion of the rifle firing, all Company Pistol Teams will report to the Pistol Range.

(b) Only one team will fire at a time; the 25 yard firing point is selected as the firing line.

(c) The Range Officer will direct teams then to go on the firing line, when to load, and issue ammunition to them.

(d) Teams will receive 14 rounds of ammunition per man and after loading, two targets will appear in the rear of the Pistol Butts. Any man can fire at either target. The first two targes will be exposed for 20 seconds, ten seconds will be allowed for reloading, and at the end of the 10 seconds two silhouette targets will appear, which will move in view across the range for 20 seconds.

(e) The value of hits on targets will be:

(1) For each silhoutte target hit.....5 points

(2) For each hole in silhoutte target.....1 point

(f) In case of jams, or malfunctions

(2) For each hole in silhouette target, 1 point.

(f) In case of jams, or malfunctions of the pistols, firers will be compelled to correct the fault and resume firing if possible, without leaving the firing line. In case the trouble cannot be corrected, the firer cannot fire any remaining rounds with another pistol; his score is necessarily ended where he left off. The team scoring the greatest number of points will receive a cash prize of $3 per man.

(g) Ammunition will be furnished at the range.

Event No. III—Machine Gun Firing

Contestants—One squad from each of Companies "D," "H" and "M," composed of 1 corporal and six privates.

Equipment—Men: Light packs, pistol belts, magazine pockets, pistol holster.

Gun: One gun cart (only) for each squad, equipment will be packed on carts with paulin folded over top of ammunition and water boxes. All straps will be properly buckled with ends of straps in keepers; gun boxes will be closed and latched, gun covers not to be carried.

Ammunition—Each squad will bring to the range three hundred (300) rounds of ammunition loaded in belts; tracer ammunition in proportion of one in five (1-5) may be used if desired. Belts can be loaded either in one belt of two hundred and fifty, (250) and one of fifty (50), or in three (3) belts of one hundred (100) each according to the desire of the gunner.

Conditions of Competition

Targets—Targets will represent:

(a) Squad column consisting of eight (8) figures placed directly in rear of each other.

(b) Lineof skirmishers consisting of eight (8) figures at one yard interval.

(c) Two (2) figures to represent a machine gun nest, placed at one yard interval.

A full set of each of the above (a)-(b)-(c), will appear for each squad. These targets will be exposed in any way the officer in charge of firing decides, not necessarily in order as named above.

Arrangement — Firing will begin promptly when ordered at the 1,000 yard firing line. Prior to that time corporals will draw lots for choice of position. When positions are drawn, each squad will be posted 50 yards in rear of its emplacement, and faced so that men and animals are turned away from the target butts; the corporals will then place themselves in observation on or at their squad emplacement, and as soon as the first target is exposed, they will give the command "action;" the squads will then go into action off carts, mounting their guns on their respective places and open fire on the target.

Ranges of Targets—The ranges at which the targets appear, will not be announced, nor will the squads be allowed to receive any assistance from any person not a member of the squad in the determination of the rang.e. It squad leader will give his gunner the is a part of the competition that each range he thinks the target is, and the gunner so correct his initial strike as to bring the burst on the target.

Any method of range determination known to the squad leader, can be used; any method of range correction known to the gunner can also be used by him.

Appearance of Targets—(a) The first target will be exposed as soon as the squads are properly placed by the corporals and the latter have taken their positions at their alloted emplacements. It will remain exposed for three minutes, during this time the guns must be taken from the carts, mounted on the emplacement, laid and fire delivered on the target.

(b) The second target will be exposed three minutes after the first target has gone up, and will remain exposed for two minutes after its appearance. Upon its exposure, the corporal will cause the fire of his gun to be switched to the second target.

(c) The third target will appear two minutes after the exposure of the second target, and will remain exposed for two minutes, after which it will be withdrawn. Upon exposure of the third target, the corporal will cause his gun to be switched from the second target to the third.

(d) Upon the third disappearing, all machine gun fire will cease, guns will be unloaded and taken from their emplacements.

Counting of Hits—Each figure hit shall count as follows:

(a) Machine gun nest.....3 points.
(b) Skirmish line..... 2 points.
(c) Squad column ..... 1 point.

(d) Where there is more than one hit on any figure, each additional hit shall count one point, without regard to the group upon which the hit was obtained.

(e) Not more than 50 hits will be allowed on any squad target of each group.

(f) Fire must be delivered by each squad on its three targets in succession during the time each is exposed.

(g) A deliberate attempt on the part of any squad to with-hold fire when its target is exposed, will cause the elimination of that squad from the competition.

(h) No time out will be allowed in case of stoppage.

CAPT. TAYLOR MARRIED

On last Wednesday afternoon at St. Luke Methodist Church in Columbus Miss Easter Miller, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Miller of Columbus, was married to Capt. James Taylor, 15th Tank Battalion.

Proceeding the ceremony Mrs. Walter Drane, accompanied by Mrs. Jake Burrus at the organ, sang the selection "Beloved, It Is Dawn." Lohengrins Wedding March was played for the bridal party.

The groomsmen were officers of the Post and consisted of Capt. Roscius H. Back, Capt. Ernest A. Higgins, Lieut. Lawrence C. Jaynes, Lieut. Harry E. Reed, Lieut. Peter Tarringa, Lieut. Gaylord L. Phipps.

Lieut. Harry F. Hanson, 15th Tank Battalion, was best man.

Immediately after the ceremony Capt. and Mrs. Taylor left on their honeymoon for New York City and other Eastern points. Fort Benning society will welcome Mrs. Taylor upon her return to the Post.

---

General Gordon is at Washington on a 15-day leave. He is one of nine men who have been appointed by State Commander Edgar B. Dunlap to represent the American Legion at the funeral services to be held for President Harding.

Colonel Fassett is in command during the general's absence.

Major and Mrs. Watson returned last week from a two month's leave in New York. The trip was made by automobile.

---

A farewell supper party was given in honor of Colonel and Mrs. Graham. The hosts were Major and Mrs. Watson. Those present were: Col. and Mrs. Graham, Col. and Mrs. Peyton, Col. and Mrs. Fassett, Majors Sutherland and Stokely. We are sorry to say farewell to Col. and Mrs. Graham.

---

Mrs. Kraul, wife of Captain George E. Kraul, left early Sunday morning for San Francisco where her father is seriously ill. Dorothy Ann accompanied here on the trip. They expect to be away several months.

---

Service Club No. 1 Notes

Last Friday night the final dress rehearsal of the famous "Mr. & Mrs. Polly Tickk" was held at the Post Gym and it was a tired bunch of boys and girls that crept to their trundle beds just before Father Sun announced the birth of a new day, but all feel well compensated for their efforts to please the personnel of Fort Benning, by the number of men and women that was gathered together to witness the initial performance of the Fort Benning Musical Comedy Company Saturday night. The play was well put over and extra good, especially the prologue and chorus (composed mostly of blushing young boys)

Mr. & Mrs. Polly Tickk should be considered an eye-opener as it gave the young men in the audience an in-sight of what to expect in the future, say about 1975.

The children taking part in the play deserves much praise for the efficient way they carried out their part.

Miss Virginia Street, the directress has worked very hard with the caste and it was only through her untiring efforts and full cooperation of the entire post that the personnel of Fort Benning was able to witness such a splendid performance as they did last Saturday night.

---

Private Nelson, who for the past six or eights months has been on special duty at the Service Club, has just returned from a thirty days furlough spent in Winston-Salem, N. C. among friends and relatives. Nelson, when interviewed by the scribe, intimated that a very charming young lady of Winston-Salem had just changed her name for the more oppropriate one of Nelson—the Service Club extends its heartiest congratulations and may your future married life be as happy as your past singe blessedness has been.

---

Miss Roe, the hostess, spent Tuesday afternoon in Columbus.

---

All the boys that remember Mrs. Stevenson, Miss Roe's sister, will be glad to know that a letter has just been received from her and she has fully recovered from a case of Flue that she has been suffering with for some time, and wishes to be remembered to all the boys of the post.

---

A letter has just been received from Corporal Mann, who will be remembered as an active member of the Service Club Committee, and he states that Camp McClellan is an ideal place for a—Hermit to live. After all Fort Benning is not so bad.

---

An informal country dance will soon be held at the Service Club—scan the News closely for the announcement.

Major King Arrived.

For the past three months the helm of the First Battalion, 83rd Field Artillery, has been entrusted to a number of hands. Although the rudder was well under control, varying winds have caused, at times, a slightly wandering course. But now our much looked for Commander has at last arrived ending all feverish anticipation. We welcome Major King to Fort Benning and with the same breath, pledge our hearty support and cooperation.

In hailing the newcomers with the gladsome hand, it is very often necessary to waive someone else a regretful farewell. Such is the case with the 83rd F. A. at this time. We feel the loss of Major Rumbough keenly. Having been with the organization four years he gradually became known by us as he should be known. From the beginning of the march from Camp Knox, Ky., until he left this Post, he was the zealous guardian of the best interests of the organization, and brought it from the chaos of arriving in a new and incomplete camp—to the present high standard. It is the hope of the Battalion that good fortune will continue to follow him in the future.

Battery "B"

The greatest thinkers tell us that the secret of happiness is to keep busy—work, for then the mind does not bother about growls. The Field Artillery knows this secret: therefore we are happy, See!

But "all work and no play, makes Jack a dull boy." So we play and play hard.

---

Ask Private Kelly what is the best way for a little fat man to reduce. Corporal Piazza's team won the medicine ball race of the battery. Hurrah for Italy!

---

So long, the battery swims this afternoon.

---

With the coming of the cold fall months, things will become hot for the Artillery. Well, doughboys—we're both in the same boat.

---

Misery loves company.

---

Congratulations 29th, You deserved to win.

---

Private Isbell is gone. He should have taken the sick-book as a souvenir.

---

Master Sergt. Stevens has taken a well-earned furlough. We hope we will thoroughly enjoy his vacation, and that the auto trip will be a pleasant one.

---

Et Tu, Brute.

Crossing the parade ground, after guard mount, the second lieutenant happened to meet the colonel, who was evidently not in the best of humor.

"Is that the proper way to salute?" snapped the colonel.

The second lieutenant apologized and went on. A little further on he met the major.

"Lieutenant your uniform is a disgrace. Don't appear before me in that condition again," shouted the major.

Shortly afterwards he met his captain.

"Brace up," roared the captain, "and try to maintain a soldierly appearance."

A dirty little fox terrier came trotting down the street. When he saw the lieutenant he stopped, showed his teeth, and growled.

The lieutenant, turning around slowly, drawled out: "Well, how did YOU know I was a second lieutenant?"

---

Heroes of The Air.

It has been said in criticism that army and navy aviation has been of late terribly costly in human life, while the postal flyers proceed in safety. The departmental reply would be that postal aviators are merely applying known devices on familiar coursse, while the war services must experiment, must develop, must test the new. In any event, those precious young lives are not wholly wasted that set to their contemporaries high examples of devotion to duty and courage in the face of death.—New York World (Independent Democrat.)

Beats Walking

One evening recently we found ourselves in Columbus afoot. The Fort Benning Road had been of material aid in putting our old car in the hospital for near-defunct automobiles. The question as to how to get back to Fort Benning arose in our minds. We decided that we could follow one of three plans, to wit, hire a taxi for $3.50, ride on the Howard Bus Line, or walk. Not having the $3.50 the two plans left to consider were the bus ride, for the sum of 35 cents, and walking. The height of the mercury in the thermometer decided in favor of the bus so we got aboard.

We were surprised to find that the bumps on the Fort Benning road were hardly as rough as when riding in a light car and we found the personnel operating the bus very courteous and accommodating. As an example of the latter a little girl got on at the bus station. She had a large bundle and a doll. The genleman who collected the fares saw that she was comfortably seated on the bus before starting and he kept her amused during the trip at such times as he was not busy collecting fares.

Riding out the thought occurred to us that we had no other method of transportation between Columbus than taxis, the morning train, and the Howard Bus Line. The taxi charge is prohibitive, the morning train does not run regularly enough, and it's a long walk. I talso occurred to us that the Howard Bus Line is the only concern who to date have been willing to run a regular schedule between the two points. We have been informed that many trips are made at a loss but the bus still runs. We became convinced that the Howard Bus Line was doing a piece of real work for Fort Benning and that they should have the support of everybody on the reservation.

NICE PEOPLE TO DO BUSINESS WITH

We walked in a hardware store and asked to see some Hygeia bottles. We were advised that while such an article was a little out of the regular line of articles carried by hardware stores but that they would get me one. Sure enough in just a few minutes here came a messenger boy in the front door with the required article. It was sold to us at no increase in price. We asked how this concern could afford to do business in this manner. The reply was that the Hubbard Hardware Company operated in the principle that the mere selling of dependable goods was not the object of the concern; that they constantly endeavored to give their customers a service in return for the customer's good will.

Shortly after this incident we had occasion to purchase a machine which could not be secured nearer than Cincinnati. We made known our trouble to the Hubbard folks and we got the machine at the exact cost they paid for it, plus freight and drayage. We saw the original invoice, being from Missouri, so to speak, and we decided we would do more business at the same place. We had occasion to buy a comparatively large quantity of athletic equipment and as Hubbard sells this too we bought from him. Prices were right and the goods—the Rawlings line—are durable. We recommend Hubbards.

American Legion Notes

From American Legion News Service

Topeka, Kan.—The average amount of state bonus claimed by the first ten thousand Kansas veterans of the World War is $408.60, according to information received by the American Legion. A staff of more than fifty persons is busily engaged in the house of representative where bonus headquarters have been established, checking over the claims and getting everything in readiness for the actual beginning of payments.

Washington—Pledging their support to the ideals of the American Legion, representatives of a number of religious and fraternal organizations at a recent meeting in Washington adopted a resolution approving the preamble to the legion's constitution in which the purpose sof the veteran's organization are outline.

The conference was called by Father William P. O'Connor, of Cincinnati legion national chaplain, to unify action of the various denominations and creeds toward a common goal of patriotism and higher citizenship. It was addressed by Alvin Owsley, legion national commander.

The resolution was presented by Conrad V. Dykeman, of Brooklyn, imperial potentate of the Nobles of the Mystec Shrine. It was adopted by representatives of the Knights of Columbus, Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, Salvation Army, American Red Cross; National Catholic Welfare Council and Young Men's Christian Association.

The preamble to the legion's constitution is as follows:

"For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes:

"To uphold and defend the Constituiton of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent. Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

A Tribute

On this day of national mourning the Nation is saddened by the fact that the former President of the United States, Warren G. Harding, is being laid to rest at Marion, Ohio.

The Army is observing in a befitting manner the death of its former commander-in-chief.

President Harding's period of service to his country was one filled with happenings of importance to the Naton. One of his greatest acts was the bringing togther of representatives of the leading governments of the world in a conference the object of which was the limitation of armaments. Whether or not this conference will have the effect of eventually leading to a basis for the establishment of world peace remains to be seen. Even though no such results take place the fact will go down in history that President Harding was instrumental in bringing before the eyes of the world the necessity for the discontinuance of the international competition in the matter of armaments—a competition which has almost invariably resulted in wars in the past.

It has been said that had President Harding not been forced to put forth almost superhuman efforts in order that the affairs of the Nation might not be neglected it is probable that he would have resisted successfully his last illness. This being true, he just as surely gave his life for his country as has any soldier on the field of battle. For this we salute him.

Military men are not prone to express their feelings in speech or writing. For this reason it is not possible to write an appropriate eulogy. The Army regrets the loss of a friend and extends its sympathy to the one who most closely supported our dead Commander-in-Chief in all of his activities, the wife of the President, Mrs. Harding.

BUMPY POST ROADS

To destroy or tear down, is savagery
To construct or build up, is civilization.

By the same token, destructive criticism is undesirable, unless accompanied by a constructive remedy.

True, the roads in camp are bad; true too, that the life of a car is shortened when traveling on bumpy roads. Here is a remedy.

It is axiomatic that with every privilege there comes a corresponding responsibility. The civilian who owns a car, pays for the pleasure of driving it by paying for the upkeep of the roads. Why not the officer?

We need—money. An easy solution, you say, if you can get it? Few of us realize that approximately one thousand cars were owned and operated on the post last school year.

Poor post roads damage my car to a far greater extent than one dollar per month.

Suppose then, that each car owner turned in to a Fort Benning Auto Association one dollar per month to be used under the direction of the Quartermaster for the upkeep of the roads. None of us would be hurt by the dollar and all of us would feel we could growl because we were paying.

With one thousand dollars per month—or even half that, the Q. M. could do wonders with the present roads. Tractors could be operated, gas, oil, upkeep and repair, road implements, scrapers, rollers repaired and kept in good order; and volunteer labor details after bad weather could be paid extra.

Think this over and tell us what you think.

THOSE NEW SHIRTS

They tell us that in Columbus at 1517 First Avenue there lives a lady who is an expert at making well fitting shirts. This lady is Mrs. Stella Paschal. A number have recommended her. This information is passed on to those who may be contemplating having "tailor-made" shirts in the near future.

Editorial Note—In the last issue of the News the name "McAuliff" appeared in several instances in the prognostication of the outcome of the bout between Stribling and McTigue on labor day. Just how this name slipped in instead of the name McTigue still remains a mystery—but the rest of the story stands "as is."

CALCULATOR AND THE GREAT DANE.

Calculator arose as the reveille gun boomed out over the parade ground lake and shook the heavy beads of dew from his hairy coat. Having missed his usual invitation to sleep in some kind person's quarters he had stretched out on the grassy lot between the Service Club and the school block. He had gone to sleep with the star-spattered sky as his covering. He felt rather tough upon awakening and hoped painfully down to the new Recruit Center for his breakfast, alas he remarked later to the Dane, he should have known better.

Later in the morning as he and the Dane were talking it over the Gray one asked why there were not more people using the new park. "You can't see them," replied Calculator, "because they have to lie around on the grass." If some kind hearted person would walk thru there in the evening he couldn't help but realize that by putting a dozen or more benches here and there in that nice grassy park it would help out these warm nights about as much as anything.

"Sure enough," growled the Great Dane, "but with the chaplains gone no one will ever know about it and we might as well give it up and go down and demand an apology from the Fat Butcher at the Commissary."

"Yes, I guess so," said Calculator. "If there had been a bench there last night I wouldn't have had to sleep on the ground and get my pants all out of shape. I can hardly draw a decent breath without feeling baggy all over. I feel mean enough to sue that Fat Butcher for libel and—" (Here they started down the road and the remainder of their remarks were not reported as the Office Dawg had to get his copy in before noon.)

To the Editor:

Have you ever heard of the 'Parade of the Wooden Soldiers?' The parade between the Club and the Service Club answers the purpose.

Have you ever been around the Service Club these hot nights? The little grass in the post is centered here and on the parade in front thereof. Dozens of soldiers with no place to go, are lounging around here on the grass. Couldn't that nice green parade be arranged with convenient walks—park effect — with benches where your buddy and mine might chat with you and me in pleasant surroundings, or where they might sit on the grass without being arrested for violation of orders or arrested in another vicinity by sand burrs?

Our daily life in tents contains lots that is drab and murky—let us have a little of the sweet and clean. Remember we haven't the city parks here in Benning that most posts adjacent to cities have.

Thank you.

DOG OWNERS TAKE NOTICE

Let The Veterinarian Give The Dog A Shot

Orders are out requiring that all dogs on the Post be given the immunization treatment against rabies by the Post Veterinarian.

Due to the fact that a case of rabies has recently developed on the Post it is essential that every precaution be taken to prevent an epidemic. The immunization treatment against rabies will produce the desired effect.

The cost of the treatment varies according to the size of the dog, the price ranging from $2.00 to $7.00. The method of proceedure is as follows:

1. Take your dog to the Veterinarian and have him "shot."
2. Get a certificate from the Veterinarian.
3. Present the certificate to the Provost Marshal.
4. Get a dog tag from the Provost Marshal.
5. Put the tag on the dog.
6. Watch the dog to see that he does not lose or give away his tag.

All tags which have been previously issued by the Provost Marshal must be turned at once but the dog owners who present certificates showing that their dog has been immunized within a year will have a new tag issued to them in exchange for the old one.

Most people think enough of their pets to want to safeguard their health by having the anti-rabies treatment given the dog. There are, unfortunately, a number who do not think as much of their dog and as a consequence this class of dog owner must be protected against his carelessness—in addition to protecting the rest of the garrison. For this reason something is going to happen to dogs caught without tags. This "something" involves the impoundage of the dog and his destruction after forty-eight hours if not called for before then. Before the dog is released he will be immunized and his owner reported to headquarters. The owner will be charged twenty-five cents a day to cover the cost of feeding the dog and the Lord only knows what headquarters will do to him.

After thinking the matter over it appears the part of wisdom to have the "ol' houn'" immunized at once and then forget about it. The Veterinary Hospital is located at the extreme West end of the Post near the quartermaster corrals.

The Naval Arms Treaty.

Washington professes to be greatly pleased at the fact that the French Chamber of Deputies has ratified the naval armament limitation treaty adopted with such eclat at the much heralded conference for he limitation of naval armament. But the belief that there was anything of substantial value in the agreement reached at that conference has long since been abandoned in many minds. —Raleigh News & Observer (Dem.)

YE OLDE KNAPSACK

A story of romance of "the olden days."

An old copy of Orders has been found in the files of the 24th Infantry is reproduced for the readers of the News which reminds us that there was a time when romance and adventure was to be expected in line of duty with the Colors most everywhere.

Hdqrs. 24th Infantry,
Ft. Bayard, New Mexico,
November 12, 1889.

Orders No. 56.

It is with great pleasure that the Colonel Commanding publishes to the Regiment the following extract from the report of Major J. W. Wham, Paymaster U. S. Army, upon the fight between his escort and robbers, near Cedar Springs, Ariz. on May 11, 1889.

Tucson, Ariz.
August 29, 1889.

To The Secretary of War,
Washington, D. C.,

(Through Headquarters Dept. of Ariz., Los Angeles, Cal.)

Sir:

Referring to the fact that while enroute from Fort Grant to Fort Thomas May 11th last, making payment on the April muster, my party was amuushed and fired into by a number of armed brigands, since estimated by U. S. Marshal Meads at from twelve to fifteen, but to myself and entire escort, two non-commissioned officers and nine privates, from fifteen to twenty.

A large boulder weighing several tons and apparently, as is often the case, rolled into the road and stopped. My ambulance had almost reached this boulder when it slowly came to a halt, and to my question "What's the matter, Sergeant?" came the immediate response from the box, "a boulder in the road, sir." The Sergeant and escort, which was in a wagon in rear were almost before the vehicles stopped, passing armed down the gorge to the front to clear the way, they were nearly all at the boulder when a signal shot was fired from the ledge of rocks about fifty feet above to the right, which was instantly followed by a volley, believed by myself and entire party to be fifteen or twenty shots.

A sharp, short fight lasting something over htirty minutes ensued, during which time the following non-commissioned officers and privates eight of whom were wounded, two being shot twice, behaved in the most courageous and heroic manner.

Benjamin Brown, Sergeant Co. "C," 24th Infantry.

Isaiah Mays, Corporal Co. "B" 24th Infantry.

George Arrington, Private Co. "C," 24th Infantry.

Benjamin Burge, Private Co. "E," 24th Infantry.

Julius Harrison, Private Co. "B," 24th Infantry.

Squire Williams, Private Co. "K," 24th Infantry.

James Young, Private Co. "K," 24th Infantry.

Hamilton Lewis, Private Co. "B," 24th Infantry.

Inviting attention to the following statement, I have the honor to recommend him to the President for the honors provided by paragraphs 175 and 176, Army Regulations.

Sergeant Brown, though shot through the abdomen, did not quit the field until again wounded, this time through the arm.

Private Burge, who was to my immediate right, received a bad wound in the hand, but gallantly held his post, resting his rifle on his forearm and continuing to fire with much coolness, until shot through the thigh and twice through the hat.

Private Arrington was shot through the shoulder while fighting from this same position.

Privates x x and Harrison were also wounded to my immediate left, while bravely doing their duty under a murderous cross fire.

Private Williams was shot through the leg near my ambulance, at the first volley, but crawling to cover, continued to fire.

Private Lewis, my ambulance driver, was shot through the stomach, but the noble fellow was undaunted, and while the blood gushed from his terrible wound, he insisted that my clerk, W. T. Gibbon, should allow him to take wounded Wheeler's gun instead of using it himself, and buckling on a belt, heroically continued to fight until all present were wounded except myself and Corporal Mays, then without my knowledge walked and crawled two miles to Cottonwood Ranch, and gave the alarm to Barney Norton, who at that distance had distinctly heard the firing, and estimated the first volley at from fifeen to twenty shots.

The brigands fought from six well constructed stone forts, * * * while my men were forced to fight from such poor cover as could be instantly found. The Sergeant, who in the melee, became detached with privates Young and Short, made his entire fight from open ground; however, the position which I occupied with the main party was but little better, being enfiladed by both the robber flanks, but it was the only unoccupied cover. Yet with all this against us, the men behaved as previously stated.

The lowest estimate placed on the number of brigands by the U. S. Marshal is twelve. A cartridge belt worn by one of the robbers and from which there was apparently forty rounds fired, brings the probable number of shots from the robbers position to 480.

I was a soldier in Grant's old regiment during the entire war; it was justly proud of its record of sixteen battles, and of the reflected glory of it's old Colonel, "The Great Commander," but I never witnessed greater courage nor better fighting than shown by these colored soldiers on May 11th 1889, as the bullet marks on the robbers position today abundantly attests.

I am, sir,
Very respectfully,
(Signed) JOS. W. WHAM.
Paymaster, U. S. A.

The Colonel commanding desires to express to the above named men of the twenty-fourth Infantry, comprising the escort of Major Wham, (all of whom except Corporal Mays and private Young were wounded, Sergeant Brown and Private Burge being each shot twice,) his high appreciation of their gallant conduct, and to inform them that he has requested that a Medal of Honor, or Certificate of Merit for extraordinary gallantry in the presence of the enemy be awarded to each of them.

By order of Colonel Bliss:
(Signed) J. J. BRERETON,
1st Lieut. and Adjutant
24th Infantry.

SERVICE COMPANY

The Service Co. finished its Target Practice on July 31 with credit to its self and the Regiment. Out of 56 men firing the Record course 53 qualified, which is about 94.64 per cent. The 24th Inf. Band, which is of the Serv. Co. qualified 33 men out of 34, firing the pistol qualifications of the men are as follows:

Expert riflemen 14, sharpshooters 18 and marksmen 21. Unqualified 3.

Pistol Qualification

Expert 3, sharpshooters 9, marksmen 21 and unqualified.

Service Co. base ball team still stands 1000. in the regimental League, and promises to stay there, if you don't believe it, just watch how we trim the 1st and 2nd Bn. team Wed. the 8th.

Company "A"

Now that we have completed our target practice with an excellent percentage, we are having the misfortune of having all our best shots discharged during this month. Of course, Pvt. Davis will be discharged on the 10th he has decided to re-enlist.

Pvt. Bell has a staunch mind to go back to civil life, his forethought has failed him and he has lost all presence of mind, but if he does go, we hope when he comes back he will be as good a man and a soldier as when he left us.

Pvt. Carr will be discharged in the near future. He states he is not going to re-enlist. Sorry he too has such a feeling, and fails to see the chance he has before him as a young man in Company "A." The idea of going out to come back is just a waste of time, it should always be remembered that it is written, that a rolling stone gathers no moss, so don't be a rolling stone.

Company "C"

Pvt. Worsham, has taken on three more years with the colors. It is certainly pleasing to have the old members of the company remain with us.

Sgt. Williams is visiting relatives and friends at Savannah, Ga. We hope he has an enjoyable time.

Do you know that:

It isn't what you know that gets you anywhere in life, but its who you know.

It's best to realize at this day and time you cannot jump at conclusions and be successful.

To be considerate shows the other fellow you are interested in his welfare.

Company "E"

Look out Vanhook, September is coming and I am sure you don't want to see the 15th of September so soon because you haven't rested up long enough, but we are still in favor of you being one of the best in the company as we know that you're the best cook in the regiment.

Bugler Jackson is still looking for a cactus bush in the red hills of Georgia but it can't be found, so beware unto the cactus and find you a hill near by and just imagine that is the twin peak New Mexico looking over in Old Mexico at the "Paloma Lake."

Pvt. Johnson has rejoined his company after taking a furlough a few years ago. Now he is back to stay with us until he retires. The company is glad to have you back.

Company "F"

The target range work is over and we all are glad to the work of the company. We qualified twelve (12) experts, six (6) sharpshooters and five (5) marksmen out of one (1) officer and twenty-two (22) enlisted men firing.

Every one in the company was sorry to see Pvt. Elbert Coulter leave the company and enter civil life. We all hope he will make good in civil life, as he was an excellent soldier and men liked him are missed in the service.

Pvt. George Todd, is back home again from his short vacation in camp. He says, "never again."

We are all sorry to know of Pvt. David Brown, being in the hospital, he is a good soldier and an expert rifle and pistol shot. We are looking for his early return to duty.

Company "G"

The reception given in honor of Sergeant Jack L. Francis, Company "E" 24th Infantry, in the dining room of Company "M" was an enjoyable affair. A regimental Review was tendered Sergeant Francis, the day before in honor of his long and faithful service of more than thirty years in the service of hi scompany. Sergeant Francis, was well known throughout the service; diligent in the performance of duty and loyal to his superiors since entering the service in 1899.

The reception was largely attended by the Officers, non-commissioned officers and families of the regiment. Refreshments of various kinds were served all of which was enjoyed by those present.

Sergeant James Gill, since the completion of target practice, is engaged in the instruction of the new recruits joining the regiment. Sergeant Gill is an excellent instructor and is capable of putting a recruit on his first legs upon entering the service.

On August 4th, 9:30 a. m. all officers and enlisted men of the regiment marched and assembled on the Post Parade Ground with all other troops of the post to hear the reading of the order announcing the death of our late President Warren G. Harding, President of the United States, and Commander in chief of the United States Army and Navy. The ceremonies were brief, music for the occasion was rendered by the 24th Infantry band.

Then builds more ships 'till his navy is full.
"I stand for peace" says war-ridden France,
"But I'll keep a big army and not take a chance,

"But I'd best keep prepared for my own safety,"

Public notice is hereby given that a special meeting of the Bull-Slingers Club will be held at its office (Service club steps). at 5:30 p. m. the 13th day of August, at which time there will be submitted for the consideration of the stock holders the following proposition; That Staff Sergeant W. Washington be donated a Silver Cup, the said Sgt. Washington being so free hearted as to get on a firing point and donated so many shots to other targets that he forgot his own. Report to Sgts. Joe Anderson and Rim Ellis.

Dave Howard (War Dept.) has made the sporting portion of the recreation tent look like the swimming pool of the 24th Infantry. They now teem with interesting news, careful reviews, and thoughtful and frank criticisms on men that get week-end passes.

Hill Owen (Slim), says he is going out in the cruel world to see how old that hog is everybody been talking about, he says if he can't find out in one day he'll never know, because he will be back just as soon as the recruiting office open the next morning.

Company "K"

To the members of company "K"; R'member what the Company Commander said after the parade last Wednesday? "Lets Go."

Alright, Stack-O-$, you've had your Disch, Finals, and a big nite, now for the (Nuff Sed.)

Just for the sake of future reference, we wish that somebody who is versed in zoology to tell us what is it that Sgt. Carrett has. We are not sure, bu tit has the car-marks of an automobile.

One of the new additions to the staff of Co. "K" is Sgt. Russell, (poor boy) welcome to our city "BOB" but remember, "No Breaks."

Company "M"

Pvt. Willie Gallamore was in tough luck the other day contracted for a Flivver by agreeing to hand the owner $250 belogs on the arrival of his final statements, but was surprised to find that the finals barely escaped ($179) belogs tough luck old boy never count your chickens before they are hatched.

There was a Head Versus Coca Cola Bottle and Gallamore defeated the Head. We don't know who introduced the battle, but twelve dingling bottles were rushed up on his bean and we rushed out just in time to find that they were all destroyed at the landing place.

Why does Cpl. Jones prefer strong cigars?

Because any other kind would break in his pocket.

Sgt. Hill (King) left the Company the other day on a five days pass, he was asked by some of the boys, "where are you going, King? His answer was, "to the queen."

The next day King was the first man to be seen in the Company Street, he looked as if he was in a world of trouble. We all were very much surprised to see the King in such an attitude as that. The boys began to ask what is the trouble with King? His answer was "When a King takes a queen he needs a lots of jack to support her." What are you holding.

HE'S JUST an ordinary cur.
OF MORE than doubtful antecedants.
HIS MOTHER evidently was not.
ALL SHE should have been.
AND HIS father much given to associating.
WITH LOOSE characters.
A TRAIT which he also most strongly shows.
HE HAS no pride of ancestry.
AND DOESN'T seem to care a hoot.
FOR HIS posterity.
AND FOR all practical purposes.
HE IS absolutely.
NULL AND void.
HE HAS neither the nose or the speed of the hound.
THE ARISTOCRATIC beauty of the Collie.
OR THE pep and go of the Airedale.
IN FACT he isn't worth a dam.
AND I can't think of one redeeming virtue.
TO OFFSET his utter worthlessness.
BUT AT night when call to quarters blows.
AND ALL the lights are out.
HE GOES to one or the other of the squad rooms.
AND GOES to sleep.
LIKE ANY other soldier.
AND HE gets up at First Call.
BUT IN a quiet and gentlemanly way.
BEFITTING ONE of his length of service.
AND NOT like the mutton browed recruit.
WHO GREETS the morn witb many bleatings.
AND MUCH disturbance of his mates.
HE ANSWERS Reveille and chow call.
AND-DRILL and fatigue call too.
HE KNOWS the clatter of the Artillery tractors.
AND THE hum of the Artillery trucks.
AND HE'S always faithful.
AND ON the job.
AND INTO it all he puts the proper spirit of a soldier.
FOR HE goes forth with much joyous barking.
AND RETURNS sedately with proudly wagging tail.
AND A consciousness of duty well performed.
AND HE looks at you out of his big brown eyes.
WITH A spirit of comradeship.
AND AS man should look at man.
AND HIS sympathies are all with the enlisted men.
FOR HE oft\ times barks at those who wear boots and spurs.
AND FOR these things and many others.
THE MEN all love him.
AND WOE betide the man who should so far forget himself as to kick.
THIS CUR of low degree.
BUT I have noticed that of late.
HE DOES not present "that well groomed appearance."
HIS SKIN is not one that you would love to touch.
AND SO I'm going down and wash him.
AND I know that the wagging of his tail.
AND THE straightforward friendliness of his gaze.
WILL MORE than repay me for my trouble.
I THANK YOU.

AMERICAN LEGIONNARIES VISIT STOCKADE

The Post Stockade was visited last Sunday afternoon by a delegation of prominent members of the American Legion. Among them was the State Chaplain of the Legion, the Reverend Edward McKinley of Washington, Ga.

Chaplain McKinley has been visiting and inspecting jails, penitentiaries and prisons in many parts of the state. His duties with hte Legion have taken him through practically every section of Georgia and he is well qualified to express an opinion on the sanitation and administration of penal institutions.

The Legionaries were shown every part of the Post Stockade and were interested spectators in all they saw. At the conclusion of heir visit, they expressed themselves in most enthusiastic terms regarding the perfect discipline of the prisoners, the excellent sanitation and police of the grounds, barracks and mess, and the efficient administration of the stockade. Chaplain McKinley was particularly well pleased. He stated that, after having seen hundreds of such institutions, he reguarded the Fort Benning Stockade as a model establishment of its kind, worthy of emulation by jails and prisons throughout the state.

Among the legionaries of the delegation were all the members of the Georgia State Publicity Committee of the American Legion. The legion of the state is engaged in collecting material for the publication of a pamphlet advertising the cities, towns, activities and advantages of Georgia.

Each Disrict Committeeman obtains from the cities and towns of his district the information about them which the pamphlet is to contain. Columbus and Fort Benning are well represened by the chairman of the publicity committee, Legionaire Fitzpatrick of the Columbus Enquirer-Sun. Mr. Fitzpatrick a journalist by profession, is a publicity expert and is assuring himself that all essential information about this Post and our neighboring city will appear in the pamphlet.

The committee consists of chairman Fitzpatrick of Columbus and Legionaires Cobb of Atlanta, Pueter of Savannah, McDonald of Macon and West of Albany.

The delegation was escorted to the Post and through the Stockade by Captain Manton S. Eddy, Inf., the Commander of Charles S. Harrison Post of Columbus and John Paul Jones, formerly Major, U. S. A. and Constructing quartermaster, of Fort Benning, now a citizen of Columbus and a member of Charles S. Harrison Post.

A correspondent of the News had the pleasure of accompanying the delegation on their visit and assures every member of the command that he can feel keenly and justly proud of being a member of a garrison that, in spite of heavy handicaps and serious difficulties, has produced an institution that can command such praise as our stockade has received.

3000 C. M. T. C. TRAINEES ARRIVE AT McCLELLAN

Big Athletic Program Being Planned

Captain E. M. Yon and his corps of assistants are planning a big athletic program for the men of the C. M. T. C. The Athletic Staff will be assisted by Battalion and Company athletic officers.

Compulsory athletics will be indulged in each Wednesday afternoon from 1 to 3 p. m. All students may elect what form of sport they wish to take up during this compulsory period, with the exception of swimming which will be elected only by those who cannot swim. One of the big purposes of the Athletic Staff is to make every trainee a swimmer before the close of the camp. Men who make no selection will be given games designated by the athletic officers.

In addition to the above there will be a mass of free time sports such as swimming, boxing, tennis, track and field, and baseball. A heavy baseball schedule is being arranged and much good talent is expected to be uncovered among the various C. M. T. C. organizations.

Suitable awards will be made for competitions to be announced later in the following:

Track and field; Swimming; Individual Drill and Soldierly Qualities; Tennis; Boxing; Rifle and Pistol Marksmanshp; Machine Gun Marksmanship; Efficiency Test.

The date for the big C. M. T. C. Track and Field meet has been set for August 28th, and it is expected will be a gala event.—Camp McClellan Messenger.

The Future In The Air.

France announces that it is now and will remain supreme in the air, and appropriates $50,000,000 to back its boast. Great Britain replies with announcement of plans to add thirty-four air squadrons to its military air force, at a cost of $26,000,000. At the same time a French official refers with more or less justified contempt to America's lack of progress in this feature of warfare. The latter charge is too true for comfort.—Chicago Tribune.

Hints on Etiquette
By Ima Lyer

Servants:

The Butler.

This gentleman is ordinarily the boss of the entire works. He has the knack of making the newly rich feel like dirt beneath the feet while in some of the best families there is a standing reward for the person who can make the butler relax into a smile. The principle duties of all good butlers are to greet unknown visitors with a stony stare and make christians out of the rest of the hired help. The dress of the butler should include a stiff shirt, high collar, black bow tie, "open face" coat, black pants, and mutton chop whiskers. In order that the butler may at all times be properly attired the most efficient ones sleep in this garb using a silver clad tray for a pillow. Because of the Sphinx like expression of most good butlers they easily adapt themselves to the great American indoor sport commonly known as "Stud." Among one of the things to try once is shaking hands with the butler and calling him "Old Top" when he meets you at the door.

The Chaffeur.

The chauffeur and the garage man are ordinarily in the same class as the highwayman. All of them hold you up. Most chauffeurs are experts in the matter of getting out of work and eloping with their employer's daughter. Motors very conveniently refuse to run at times and many a worthy automobile manufacturer's product has been condemned to perdition by the chaffeur. Ordinarily, the chaffeur and some garage man belong to the same secret society and work together in the same brotherly spirit of extracting simoleons from the full jeans of the chaffeurs employer in the matter of repair bills. Verily these bills was large while the two split "fifty-fifty." Well dressed chaffeurs are always distinguished by their waxed mustaches and leather leggins.

The Valet.

One of the principle duties of the valet is to wear his master's clothes in the absence of the latter. Incidental to this he ordinarily flirts with the lady's maid. Valets have a better chance for graft than butlers because of the former's close proximity at all times with the master's right hand trousers pockets. It is a generally accepted rule that what remains in the pockets is the valet's by right of discovery. In the old days when the master came home "loaded" both with regard to pockets and otherwise, valets prospered and grew greatly. In the present time of clear heads and economical living the valet is oftimes hard put to own his car.

Lady's Maid.

"Full many a flower is born to blush unseen,
And waste its fragrance on the desert air."

And many an otherwise piece of poor material for feminine beauty owes its prestige to the efficient hands of a lady's maid. Many a female descendent of some ancestor who took passage in the steerage of the Mayflower now occupies a high seat in the circle of the socially elect because of the pleasing illusion created by the deft hands of her maid. Beside caring for the wardrobe of her mistress, drawing her bath, sewing. dressing her hair, fastening up the buttons-or-hooks in the back, manicuring her nails, massaging her face, and giving her lessons in etiquette, the ladys maid is ordinarily expected to do no more. A good lady's maid may hold the destiny of her mistriss at her finger tips, so to speak.

The Cook.

Here is the lady who takes no back talk from anybody if she knows her business. She is the most sought after of individuals. She never has to hunt a job as there are always many jobs seeking her. He realm is the kitchen into which even the mistress of the house goes with fear without invitation. The cook may decide to take a vacation at any time and get by with it. Often she gets her vacation with full pay. The master, the mistress, the butler, the chauffeur, everybody, makes way for the cook. For her to go on strike or quit means mealless days and full well does she realize her powers. A good cook has many friends, she has great power, and many seek for her service. Verily her price is above rubies.

DRESS UP!

Officers Urged To Present Military Appearance

Within the past week a letter has been addressed to all officers on duty at Fort Benning bearing on the desirability of all officers at the Infantry School presenting a military appearance at all times, something to be accomplished largely by the manner in which the officer dresses.

Among the items mentioned in the letter are:

1. The possession of a "Pershing" cap. The commisisoned personnel must supply themselves with one of these caps not later than October 1st, 1923. The grommet will be worn with the cap.

2. Each officer will own at least two good hats. The issue hat is "verboten." The hat will be worn with the leather strip.

3. Hooks for supporting the Sam Browne belt will be installed on all blouses except the cotton and the white coat. Woolen coats will have the collar ornaments sewed on.

4. Officers will own two belts as near the same color of the footwear as possibile. Belts and brasses will be polished daily.

5. Tailored shirts are considered a desirable item of the officer's personal equipment.

6. The wearing of well fitting "ice cream" breeches is encouraged.

7. Leggins and shoes must be of the same color and kept in the same condition of police as the belt.

8. The wearing of well fitting tailor made boots is encouraged.

A certain amount of carelessness in the matter of wearing the uniform has been noticeable at the Infantry School in the past. This is due to the fact that student officers who attend the school become busily engaged in the various courses, are roughing it in the open a great deal of the time, and as a consequence do not dress as carefully as when with troops. The permanent personnel catches the disease from the student personnel and as a result the general impression gained by a visitor of the personal appearance of officers stationed here is not always of the best.

The Infantry School is representative of the Infantry. No officer stationed here can afford to let his personal appearance cast a reflection on the Infantry branch. Consequently, [illegible] heading to this little story.

SPORTING ACTIVITIES

AND NOW THE DAYS OF THE PIG SKIN DRAW NIGH

Infantry School Will Have A Strong Team Again

Higher authority has stated that the Infantry School will receive no students next year whose primary purpose in attending the school is the playing of the great national game where certain individuals take great pleasure in rubbing certain other individuals' noses in the dirt, trampling upon their prostrate bodies, and otherwise treating them rough. And this is as it should be. The Infantry School goes into every athletic contest with the intention of winning but when engaged with amateurs who have to develop the material at hand for their various athletic teams it is not a matter of good sportmanship, possibly, to hand-pick players from the Army at large.

The Infantry School has the material at hand for a football team which would fill the average college coach with joy. Incidentally the coaches are on hand to whip this material into shape.

Has anybody ever noticed the way Donnelly, of the Cannoneers, stands "like a stone wall" when his opponents try to rush him off his feet? Has anybody in this vicinity ever noticed Swantic, of the "Treat-'Em-Rough" outfit, hit a line and go on through for a good gain? How about Romploski, of the Doughboy outfit, when it comes to calling signals and handling his team? There are many more such as Baltzell, Lee, Davis, Lindsey, Elils, Brown, Sharpe, Parrish, Daniels, Swall, Smith and Parker, who because of their past experience will help to form the nucleus of a football team which will give any of the colleges in this section an exciting time.

All of the men who have played on their organization teams can play on the Infantry School team and at the same time hold down their berths on their organization team. The advantage which they will gain by the training in the hands of the experienced coaches who will develop them can not but strengthen them individually and as an attendant result strengthen their organizaion team.

Anoher advantage to be gained by the organization football player getting the advantage of the Infantry School team coaching is the lessening of the work of the organization coach in getting his men whipped into shape. His players who are members of the Infantry School squad will be in position to give him material assistance in coaching ends, backs, and the line by merely applying what they have been taught by the Infantry School team coaches.

It is now time for the individual players who expect to try out for the 'varsity team to get into physical condition. The college players are beginning to do this and it is essential that we do the same if we expect to make any kind of a showing next Fall. The facilities for proper training are available on the Post. Almost daily the new Post Gymnasium has quite a number of men "working out" in order that they may be physically fit. Some of them are boxers, some of them are men who are training for no particular contest but who realize that it is to their own interests to keep in good physical trim. The gymnasium is kept open practically during all of the daylight hours and there are no restrictions against its being used by members of the command at night when it is not being used by some organization for a social function, smoker, or similar entertainment.

The 'varsity coach advises that the first practice will be called about September 3rd. The football fever is getting in the air. Let's go!

BIG BOXING TOURNAMENT IN FALL

Organization Teams Busy Getting Into Shape.

The boxing tournament mentioned in one of the recent issues of the News has been decided upon and will be held some time during the latter part of September or the early part of October.

At a recent meeting of the various unit athletic officers of the Post it was decided that eams would be entered on the basis of the battalion. For the purpose of entering a team the detachments would be considered as a battalion and be entitled to enter one team consisting of not less than four men in any four of he boxing weights.

As a result of this meeting it seems that there will be six teams entered. The 29th Infantry will enter three, the 83rd Artillery will enter one, and one each will be entered from the Infantry School Detachment and the 15th Tank Battalion.

Post and Corps Area champions are barred from participation in the tournament. Such action was decided upon in order that the various teams might contest on a more equal footing. After the tournament has been completed, however, the individuals winning the highest number of points may challenge any Post champion at Fort Benning and the latter will have to defend his title.

Individual trophies will be awarded and a silk banner, similar to the ones now held by organization for baseball, football, and basket ball, will be awarded the team having the highest number of points. It is planned that this banner will be contested for each year until it has been won three years in succession by some organization at which time it becomes the permanent property of that organization.

A great deal of interest is being taken in the coming tournament. Contestants for places on the various boxing teams are training daily in the Post Gymnasium. One battalion—the name of which must be withheld for the present—is having the members of its team take the detailed training necessary for boxers and unless the other battalions expecting to enter teams get busy the battalion in question will have such an advantage in the tournament that the other teams entered will give this team only slight opposition rather than a stiff competition.

Fort Benning has the reputation throughout the Fourth Corps Area of being a boxing center. This is because of the fact that Fort Benning has won more points in the corps area boxing tournaments in the past than any other two stations in the corps area combined. We have all the belts at Fort Benning except the Light Heavyweight and the Welter Weight. Fort Benning will never be satisfied until these two belts are added to our list for at least one year. During the last tournament held at Fort McPherson we were accused of sending professional boxers to compete. The boxers from Fort Benning had just finished a month of clean living and hard training. They were within the required weight and in first class physical condition. The tournament this year is the first step toward participation in the Fourth Corps Area Tournament. The present champions at Fort Benning will have to train to hold their titles when they are challenged by the winners of the coming Post tournament. The contestants in the Post tournament will be trained. When the Post Boxing Team is organized to represent Fort Benning in the corps tournament every man will be trained to the minute and nothing will remain to be done but put on the finishing touches.

THE FOOTBALL "SOIXANTE-QUINZE

Comparing the difference in temperatures, it would seem to be a far cry from the blistering days of August to the drizzly idea of November, yet cometh the day apace when the whistle of the Referee shall be heard in the land, and the plunging fullback shall arise in all his might and smite the opposing linesman upon his occiput. The circling back shall run afar, and then be brought to earth with much eclat by some fleet and vigilant end who shall tread upon his supine form with joy and disrespect.

In these piping days of peace and perspiration it severely pains the imagination to even contemplate the exertion necessary to the winning of a football game. Nevertheless, the coaches are beginning to take stock of their huskies, and to speculate upon possible plays and combinations to the deteriment and undoing of opposing teams. Light practice, with a view to obtaining a line on possible new material, will, no doubt commence in each organization at an early date. The Artillery coach, with this end in view, will probably have his charges out cavorting over the greensward about August Fifteen, and with the addition of several likely looking recruits, it is believed that this year we can put a real team upon the field. There seems to be, at this early date, as usual, a shortage of back-field material in the ranks of the wagon soldiers. We have, as yet, discovered no back who combines the power of an Artillery tractor with the speed of a flying "seventy-five," but still we dare to hope. If the Gods would only favor us with one experienced back, we would venture the prophecy here and now that the winner of the Post championship would have to take the measure of the Artillery team before lighting any bonfires. In this connection we would like to call attention to one very remarkable fact which, perhaps, is not generally known, and that fact is this: There has not been a first down scored through the line, exclusive of off tackle plays against the artillery team in four consecutive seasons—laugh that off, you tanks and dough-boys, and we suggest that you check up on this statement by starting some of your plays over Zuskoritz, Steelman or Donnelly, either one of whom will immediately cause you to realize that you have wasted your sweetness on the desert air.

However, getting back to the jolly old statistics, it is well known that as a line coach, Lieutenant Peckinpaugh of the Artillery, has no superior, if indeed, an equal in the Post. He, unfortunately, will not be with us this season, but like the widely known John Brown, his soul goes marching on, and in addition to the lessons which he has impressed upon the linesmen by his sweet and lovely disposition, and his kind and gentle words, we are fortunate in having secured as coaches a group of earnest and efficient young gentlemen who helped to make football history for several seasons at West Point, and who know their stuff.

To sum up the prospects on both the debit and credit sides, it amounts to this: we have the remnants of a good line, no back-field worth mentioning, but some promising material, and a coaching staff second to none. We have speed, brains and guts, which after all, in football, as in every other thing, are the essentials for winning—the only problem is to properly coordinate the three—and lastly, we have as the German put it: The will to victory.

POLO.

A word about polo for the information of the command and incoming students.

Facilities:

Pike Field—Near Block 21, is the practice field ready for use.

Shannon Field—Near block 23, is to be used for tournament and match games only. As this is a sod field it will be used not more than once a week to prevent grass from being cut too badly.

Teams:

29th Infantry, Post Champions.

83rd Field Artillery, Runners up.

Blues (Permanent staff personnel students.)

Yellows (Students and permanent personnel)

24th Infantry (prospective)

Games:

Every Sunday. Flag on pole in front of Hospital on Post and one in front of M. P. Hdqrs. in Columbus denotes whether games will be played—

Blue flag—Game will be played.

Red flag—No game.

Watch the flags. All games will be evenly matched, with and without handicaps.

Spectators:

Ample facilities for parking about 400 cars and setting a large number of spectators on benches, have been provided. Officers, enlisted men and civilians are encouraged and cordially invited to attend. Unless especially announced and advertised no admission will be charged.

---

Polo is the coming Infantry sport. It combines the best of all other sports and is essentially a military game, 50 per cent. of the organizations of an Infantry Regiment have amounts. All officers and a large numbre of enlisted men should be accomplished riders. Polo is conductive to good horsemanship, leadership, team-work, daring, pep, tactics, all of which are enlisted to a soldier.

If you do not play the game, watch it. Be able to talk intelligently on Polo. Know a good horse when you see one. You cannot help enthusing—it's a great sport. At the games any player will be glad to explain, to anyone desiring the information, the details of the play.

Next Game:

Sunday, August 12th 83rd Field Artillery with their new and strong lineup will meet the 29th Infantry with their revised lineup for six periods. Captain Betts will referee.

POLO TOURNAMENT HERE (?)

Infantry School's Time To Entertain

Within the past week a movement has started to hold the next Corps Area Polo Tournament at Fort Benning. Last year the tournament was held at Fort Oglethorpe, the home of the 6th Cavalry. The year before Fort Bragg, the Artillery School entertained.

The Infantry School, being representative of the Infantry branch of the Service, can not afford to accept entertainment for its polo team from the other branches of the Service and not return the courtesy.

The playing of a polo series at any station involves considerable expenses. There is the entertainment of the players while here, the matter of freight on animals, care of animals after arrival, all of which is in addition to the usual expense of getting fields in shape for a tournament. However, the prorata expense to be borne by each officer at the Infantry School, if no other method of financing the tournament is considered practicable, should amount to not more than $5 per officer and this amount is exceedingly small to the individual. Incidentally, if every officer at the Infantry School donates this amount the school will realize sufficient funds to entertain the visiting teams in a manner befitting the dignity of the Infantry School.

The polo tournament will probably be held some time in November and it appears that teams will be entered from Fort Bragg, Fort Oglethorpe, the 8th Infantry, possibly the 22rd Infantry, and the Infantry School. The holding of the tournament here will be of decided value to the Infantry School and the Infantry as a branch.

at this reception; and delivered an address from the rear platform of his private car. He was all smiles and appreciation when, as a fitting close, the Daughters of American Revolution presented him with a bouquet of flowers. As the train started on its way, the guard of honor snapped out another salute which impressed the general. He stiffened to attention, saluted and the train moved off with General Gonraud still waving and smiling.

At the same time the French senate took this action, so gratifying to the United States, there was circulated in the French chamber of deputies a report of the army commission for reorganization of the land forces of France. ## INFANTRY RIFLE TEAM NEWS

Received Too Late For Publication Last Week.

The tryouts for the Infantry Rifle Team Squad were completed on Wednesday, July 25th, with 1st Sergt. P. F. Mollerstrom, 17th Inf., high man with a score of 2816 out of a possible 3000. Lieut. M. L. Broderick, 11th Inf., was second with a score of 2807 and Lieut. S. R. Hinds 3rd Inf., was third with a score of 2805. The final tryouts indicated that in addition to the above mentioned men the following would compose the squad that is to represent the Infantry at the National Matches to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, during September, the following are in order of scores:

Lieut. W. H. O'Mohundro, 25th Inf. 2801; 1st Sergt. J. Velenage, 13th Inf. 2796; Capt. J. L. Tupper, 7th Inf., 2789; Capt. J. W. McCormick, 4th Inf. 278 ; Capt. D. M. Bartow, Inf. 2787; Capt. S. S. MacLaughlin, Inf. 2786; Sgt. A. Kotlarczyk, 23rd Inf. 2785; Lieut. F. LaRue, 30th Inf. 2782; Lieut. W. C. Conover, 13th Inf. 2779; Lieut. H. B. Sheets, 17th Inf. 2775; Lieut. A. K. Robinson, 1st Inf. 2775; Lieut. L. V. Jones, 24th Inf. 2774; Warrant Officer H. Whitaker, 2773; Major G. W. Price, Inf. 2772; Lieut. H. W. Barrick, 15th Tank Bn. 2770; Sgt. W. F. Lay, 19th Inf. 2768; Capt. P. W. Mapes, 9th Inf. 2768.

The competition was very keen up to the last range as a comparison of the standing of the above mentioned men indicates. With few exceptions those who started off in the lead held their position and made it difficult for those lower down to displace them. Weather conditions, except for the last two days, were ideal and as the result the tryouts were completed on time. The remainden of the week was given the entire squad as a holiday and to enable all to enjoy a complete rest before starting in on the intensive training of the team.

Starting Monday the pistol tryouts will begin, the first two days will be devoted to preliminary instruction followed by record firing. As a result of this firing the personnel composing the pistol team will be selected. A record score was turned in by Lieut. Barrick on Friday when he made a score of 283 out of a possible score of 300, Warrant Officer Stardie ran him a close second with a 280. The pistol work is being handled by Capt. W. A. Hedden and under his supervision excellent scores are being submitted. There are forty six candidates out for the pistol squad which is composed of five members so there should be strong competition for these places.

The tryouts for the International Team will be held for this district at Fort Niagara, starting August 11 and ending the 15. Capt. E. G. Lindroth has been designated acting Executive Officer and will have charge of the tryouts. Quite a number of candidates who did not make the rifle squad are entered and there will also be entries from Buffalo and nearby cities. All arrangements have been completed stands built and the outcome of these matches will be published in these columns.

Major Ramee, Team Captain stated that in his entire experience with rifle teams, both as offifcial and member, he has never seen a tryout that was run off as smoothly and with less confusion as the past one. The work of the 28th Infantry in operating the targets, telephones and all details on the range was excellent and thru their efficient service there was not one delay during the entire tryouts. The splendid spirit of sportsmanship was evident to the very last day, the low men were fighting for places up to the last and when they lost out were the first to congratulate he winners.

Lieut. H. B. Sheets one of the successful candidates that made the squad suffered a broken ankle on Sunday which may prevent his accompanying the squad to Perry but all are hoping that he will be up and around in time.

28TH REGULAR INFANTRY OBSERVES MONDAY NEXT AS "ORGANIZATION DAY"

Noted Outfit that Has Battalion at Fort Niagara Credited with Being First Combat Outfit of American Forces to Arrive in France During World War—Record Fine.

Commemorating the first organized offensive by the American Army in the World War the Twenty-Eighth Regular Infantry will on May 28th celebrate "Organization Day" at Forts Porter, Niagara and Ontario, the three battalion posts and regimental headquarters of the regiment. On May 28, 1918, the 28th Infantry, attacked and captured Cantigny, France, this being the first large scale battle of the American Expeditionary forces. From the entire AEF the Commander in Chief selected the 28th Infantry, which had been in France since June 26, 1917, to conduct the first big American offensive of the War. There are with the regiment today several officers and many enlisted men who fought in this first big battle by the American Army in the World War. Among them is Captain John L. Dunn, of Co. "B," who was the first American combat officer to land in France.

The 28th Infantry has the honor of being the first American combat regiment in the World War whose members landed on foreign soil, "K" Company being the first unit to disembark in France, on June 26, 1917. To this regiment also falls the honor of being the first American regiment to make the first American offensive the taking of Cantigny, on May 27-28, 1918, and the further honor of being the first American unit to conduct a laid against the enemy in which prisoners were taken, the raid being conducted on the night of March 28-29, 1918, on a German outpost in the Toul sector, four German prisoners being taken. For its successes at the battles of Cantigny and Soissons the 28th Infantry was decorated by the French government with the Fourragere in the colors of the Croix de Guerre, and today every member of the 28th Infantry, the first of the First, wears the coveted shoulder cord.

The total casualties of his regiment during the World War were 157 officers and 4,721 enlisted men, 39 of the officers being killed and 188 wounded, while of the enlisted personnel 895 were killed and 3,753 wounded, with 83 carried as "missing." At St. Mihiel, where the first American army made world history, it was the scout platoon of the 28th Infantry that effected the junction of the First Division with the troops from the opposite side of the salient and at the Meuse-Argonne the 26th Infantry gained a reputation for hard fighting in spite of opposition that would have meant disaster for less trained, less hardy, less spirited troops than veterans of the first class—Regulars.

HOMES FOR STUDENT OFFICERS

List Furnished For Their Advanced Information

Last year considerable difficulty was experienced on the part of officers arriving late in getting suitable homes in Columbus. The housing accommodations in the city were hardly adequate to meet the demand. This year, on account of the reduction in the number of officers ordered to the Infantry School and the construction of additional quarters on the Post, it does not appear that incoming officers will have difficulty in getting quickly located in Columbus.

Of the number of officers ordered to the Infantry School it appears that about thirty field officers will get quarters on the Post while the rest will have to live in Columbus. All captains, of course, should be interested in the following list of Columbus homes. Because of the number involved it was not possible for a representative of the News to visit the houses and apartments listed and the description has been furnished by the owners. The News has been assisted in getting the data for the following list by the Enquirer-Sun and the Columbus Ledger.

Five room, unfurnished bungalow; fully screened, tile bath, Arcola heating system, instantaneous hot water. Price, 12 months lease $57.50; 10 months lease $65. Myron S. Greentree, Columbus, Ga.

Three room apartment; bedroom, dining room, kitchenette, hot and cold water; free garage; private entrance to apartment; in new bungalow. Furnished or partly furnished. $40 per month completely furnished. J. B. Ingram, Jr., 124 Munro Ave., Wynnton. (Note: Wynnton is a suburb of Columbus and part of the city.)

Two rooms and sleeping porch. Can be arranged for cooking. Furnished except for linen, etc. Grate and furnace heat. $60 per month. Jas. B. Huff, 215 15th St.

Two rooms, large kitchen, tiled bath, sleeping porch, partially furnished. Price $70. No children. Miss Philips, 1400 3rd Ave.

Two rooms, upstairs, private bath; suitable for two couples; table board available; no price listed. Mrs. D. I. Blascow. 619 Broad St.

Upstairs apartment; three large furnished rooms; bath room, hall and garage; desires military lease (9 mo.) Price $65, with garage; $60 without garage. Mrs. L. B. McKee, 1413 4th Ave.

Six apartments; eight rooms, two baths, garage. Rent, 12 months, $65; 9 months, $80. Also one seven room house. Rent, 12 months $60; 9 months,

ARMY CHAMPIONS

In its July issue the Third Corps Area Gazette carried a very nice sketch of two football players, one being labeled "Army" and the other "Marines" Both players stand in front of an entrance marked "Championship Entrance." Old Gray Squirrel was heard to remark when looking at the picture, "How come the 3rd Corps Area football team represents the Army when they haven't mixed things with the Infantry School 'varsity?"

Social Notes

Miss Peggy Kent, Editor Call 20

LOST—TWO BACHELORS!

On June 30, six smartly dressed young Artillery bachelors breezed into the post. On August 10, two of the six breezed out amidst congratulations and good wishes.

Get out your caissons, ye of the 83rd! Polish them up! For soon they will be need to welcome home our boys who have left behind their days of single blessedness.

But a brighter day is dawning. May God illuminate the way of the new road for them. Happy days, "Jake!" Good luck, "D. J.!"

ZIEGLER-KNEELAND.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Kneeland announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Belle, to Lieut. Arthur Nicholas Ziegler on Wednesday, the eighth of August, nineteen-hundred and twenty-three at Battle Creek, Michigan. Lieut. and Mrs. Ziegler are spending their honeymoon in northern Michigan, and will return to Fort Benning about October 1.

MRS. HOCKER LEAVES BENNING.

Mrs. Woodson Hocker and her daughter, Theodosia, left on August 1 for Kansas City, Missouri, where they are visiting Col. Hocker's parents. Col. Hocker leaves about the first to join them for a month, when they will proceed to their new station.

VISITING ON THE POST

Miss Gladys Dasher, of Albany, Ga., spent last week-end with her brother, Capt. A. L. Dasher.

Misses Gladys Tennant, and Lera Grady who have been visiting Major and Mrs. H. W. Grady, returned to their home in Roanoke, Ala. last Tuesday.

Mr. Sidney Dasher is the guest of his brother, Capt. A. L. Dasher.

Mrs. S. M. Bowman of Louisville, Ky. is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Barlow.

Lt. Peckinpaugh came from Camp McClellan to say good-bye to the 83rd F. A. with which he has been since 1919. He leaves for Fort Sill on September 28th. The best wishes of the officers and men of the battalion go with him.

MRS. ORR RETURNS.

Mrs. Raymond Orr has returned to Ft. Benning after spending the summer with her parents, Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Palmer, at Ft. Bliss, Tex.

CAPT. AND MRS. PORTER ENTERTAIN.

Capt. and Mrs. J. A. Porter entertained Capt. Mechling and his mother at dinner last Sunday.

MRS. COOPER ENTERTAINS.

Mrs. A. T. Cooper entertained last Saturday night with a lawn party under the tree at the side of her quarters. Japanese lanterns were strung between th houses, and the guests were seated at small tables under the tree. Those present wer Lt.-Col. and Mmes. McCaskey, Harris Pendleton, A. S. Pendleton and Hansell; Major and Mmes. Grady, Koehler, Tobias, Dinsmore, Goldthwaite and Cooper; Capts. and Mmes. Brownell, Clark, Sproul, Roby, P. P. Green, Sands, Lester, Turner, Arnest and Campbell, Lt. and Mrs. Dunphy and Lt. Joffee.

BIRTHS.

Born on August 14, 1923, at Ft. McPherson, Ga. to Capt. and Mrs. Floyd Hatfield, a son.

RETURNED FROM LEAVE.

Lieut. and Mrs. Edward C. Maling and their two children have returned from leave.

Capt. E. A. Mechling has returned from two months leave in Washington and Chicago. His mother accompanied him, and his father expects to join him later. Miss Arvilla Mechling has been ill in Walter Reed Hospital during the summer, but is rapidly improving and hopes to return to Benning about the first of September.

Lieut. and Mrs. R. A. Adams have returned from a delightful motor trip thru the north.

Service Club No. 1 Notes

A number of the members of the Ft. Benning Musical Comedy Company gathered together last Sunday afternoon and evening for the purpose of again being with their much loved coach, Miss Virginia Street.

Miss Street is an excellent entertainer and sang and played games with the men all the evening.

Miss Street has promised to stop over for a few days on her return from Augusta, Ga., where she is putting over a play this week, and plans are being made by members of the Company to entertain her with a house-picnic.

A few days ago some kind officer dropped into the Service Club just long enough to leave an armful of piano rolls, which is very much appreciated by the hostess and men as well. If this kind officer will drop around by the Club some evening he will have the pleasure of seeing just how much the records are enjoyed.

A facinating little Angora kitten is the latest arrival among the guest now stopping at the Service Clbu, accompanied by its mistress, a lady who has attained fame by reason of that very fact.

Any evening this little ball of yellow fluff can be seen happily enjoying itself under the largest of the Sunflowers in the garden.

Mrs. Soto of Fort McPherson, Ga., is visiting her husband, Private Louis Soto of the Medical Detachment, and is stopping at the Service Club. Mrs. Soto is a close friend of Miss Roe, she having known her before her marriage o Private Soto.

The president of the Service Club Committee has at last been permitted to leave the wild and wooly realms of the quarantine camp, along with the rest of the 7th Engineers, and to mingle with civilization once more.

No doubt the Sergt. is a little lonely without the musical buzz of the friendly mosquitoes and gnats.

Pinochle players! Oh Pinochle players! Where art thou? Come forth and stand up for thy rights. There are a number of players at the Club who have the idea that they can clean-up on any other players in camp—come over and show them up.

Half of the post is learning to play Cribbage these days in order to be able to challenge one player whose name begins with "Y"—who has most extraordinary luck, not skill, of course.

Private Ziel, who has been on Special Duty at the Club for sometime, is away on a thirty days furnough.

THE INFANTRY BOARD

No notice of Infantry Board activities has appeared in the News for the past five weeks. During this period the Board has completed its consideration and recommendations with regard to thirty projects and questions affecting the Infantry. Of these the following may deserve mention as being of general interest to the Infantry Service.

Receiver Sights

Receiver sights for service rifle. Test by Department of Experiment including the Lyman 48, Modified Lyman, Nash, Enfield Lock, Marine Corps, Hatchers, Harkom, Barrett and McDougal sights in comparison with the sight now issued. In this test more than 25,000 rounds were fired at different ranges and under varying conditions. The present Service sight gave very satisfactory results during this test. The substitution of a large aperture peep for the present battle sight is being considered.

Telescopic Sights

A very thorough study and report of test of telescopic sights for Model 1903 Rifle has been made by the Department of Experiment and considered by the Board. It should prove of great value in developing the best possible type of telescopic sight for sniping or other special purposes.

Transmitter For Gas Mask

A telescopic transmitter attachment for use in the gas mask has been developed by the Signal Corps and successfully met its test by the Department of Experiment. If this is adopted it will no longer be necessary to remove the gas mask for telephone conversations.

Sub-caliber Tubes For 37 MM

The subject of sub-caliber tubes for 37 mm guns has been gone into thoroughly by the Board. The Ordnance Department has developed two types—one of 11 mm and one of .22 caliber. The .22 caliber tube due to its low power and limited range is more suited for indoor work than the 11 mm tube. Reports of test have been forwarded to the Chief of Infantry.

Fordson Tractor

Test of Fordson Tractor with tracklaying and special wheel adapters of various types to improve performance on soft or rough ground. Six types of adapters were tested. Results indicated that the tractor can be made the equal of the old reliable four mule team in its ability to pull loaded escort wagons through deep sand and mud, up steep slopes and over rough trails. In economy of operation the advantage lies with the tractor and further tests is recommended to determine durability with a view to partially replacing the mule for both garrison and field service.

The Board has considered the development of a combination hand and rifle grenade and an improved discharger suitable for firing this grenade and pyrotechnics as well.

Pack of Infantryman

Some revision has been made in the tables of equipment previously submitted by the Infantry Board with a view to substantial reduction of the weight now carried by the Infantry soldier in the field.

Revision and Co-ordination of Training Regulations.

(a) Instruction with Hand Grenade and Rifle Grenade.

(b) Instruction with Bayonet.

(c) Marksmanship, Pistol, Dismounted-Cavalry.

(d) Browning Machine Gun, Cal. .30 Ordnance.

---

A detail of distinguished marksmen (enlisted) to Fort Benning has been recommended so that they may be available for tests of small arms.

Finance Detachment Notes

Here we are again wish the request that our names be removed from the delinquent list.

Things are humming in the Finance Office these days getting everything in tip-top shape to render prompt and efficient service to the new student personnel when it arrives next month.

Private Willis is spending a 15 day furlough with friends and relatives in Macon and Gay, Ga.

Captain Gralund spent a very pleasant week end in and around Anniston, Ala., last week. While in Anniston Captain Gralund called at the Finance Office in Camp McClellan and found everyone very busy there. From what can be learned from the Captain, that office is certainly putting out some excellent work—but why not! the majority of its personnel hail from Fort Benning.

Private Banda is enjoying a much earned furlough with his brother in Washington, D. C. Letters received from Banda indicate that he is having the time of his life with no desire to return to Fort Benning.

A recent letter from Corporal Short, who is undergoing treatment at Walter Read General Hospital for Chorioretinitis. indicate that he will soon be back with the detachmnet for duty.

29th Infantry News Notes

Regimental Headquarters Company

The flies are getting scarce around the Company since the pioneer platoon under the skilled supervision of Sergeant Baldwin have bent their energy to building fly traps. Sergeant Baldwin and his platoon are death on flies.

Our Company is well represented on the champion Base Ball team of the Post, Sergeant Harrison the star first baseman of that team has helped win the pennant. Good Work, Joe.

The Company has lost a good radio bug since Private Bennett transferred to the Signal Corps. We wish him the best of success.

The Communication platoon is studying the deep and mysterious thing Electricity." Judging from what we hear they have made a success of it.

Our new recreation room has had new electrical fixtures installed and someone passed a remark that it looked like a Chinese tea garden. We boast the best in the Regiment.

Private Harrison is in the Communication Supply Room now, and he said that he wouldn't trade jobs with the 1st Sergeant because he don't have to stand reveille.

Service Company

We hereby notice that any organization that thinks we are dead, are sadly mistaken, for we believe ourselves to be as lively a company as the U. S. A. has ever turned out.

Lt. R. L. Williamson is now in full swing of the company, and although he has been with us for a short time, a notable change can be seen. The men in the company are rapidly progressing in the art of handling a rifle, and using their heads for other purposes than hat-racks. From 7:30 until 9:00 o'clock each morning, instruction is given in the manual of arms, squad drill and, above all, in personal appearance.

There is no reason why the Service Company, although considered by some the labor company of the regiment, can not be the best in the Regiment in all things; and if the men will come halfway the company commander will have it so in a short time. Let's all do our utmost.

Capt. Humphries left the Company a short time ago and gave a brief talk before departing, urging the men to give the new Company Commander the same loyal support that they had given him.

Privates Schumacher and Gucfa were discharged recently and left for their homes. The best wishes of their buddies in this company go with them.

Sgt. Bradley the company Supply Sgt. is on a one month furlough in Columbus, Ga.

Pvt. William Ziegler being confined to the Hospital, Pvt. Lotz is now in charge of the Company Laundry and Mail.

Pvt. Lester Frazier returned last week from a two months furlough spent in Dixie.

Pvt. Hubbard has been granted a furlough and will visit relatives and Friends in Alabama.

Sgt. Harry Storm returned recently from a months furlough spent in Georgia.

Improvements are being made in the Company Recreation room.

Headquarters Company

We've got a formidable quartet of K. O. Kings in training for the boxing tournament: Kid Gajtka, the Battling Turk; Strangler Lewis; Wildcat (Alabama) Wood; and Vander Meyden, the Flyin' Dutchman.

It wouldn't be right now to say that the orchestra of the 29th Infantry Theatre doesn't know any other pieces besides those they have played every night since the show first opened. They played "Yes, we have no bananas" once, the other evening.

Lots of things happened yesterday, the 13th Pvt. Lindsay transferred to Service Co. Pvt. Grant assigned to take his place. Abernathy rated Spec. 4 cl., Lesset and Powell rated spec. 5 cl., and Penland, Spec. 6 cl., Cpl. Quinley recommended for Sergeant, Pvt. Sterling, for Corporal, both these men being due for a pleasant surprise on return from furlough.

The month of August has seen the separation of five members of the Company from the service. Corporal Wadford re'd up, and it is expected that Sergeant Powell will repeat also.

Scenes from "The Flirt" at P ost Theaters Sunday Night.

Company "E"

Co. "E" has the Demonstration Platoon again this year, We hope we can have the luck we had last year.

We are proud of our new Mess Sgt. Keep up the good feeding Towle; the short timers are talking of re-enlisting already.

Red Matthews thought he had a snap when they promoted him from K. P. to cook, but listen to him Squak when he has to go out and Drill.

What's the matter Spud-going Mad? Watch yourself Carpenter. Here comes another Dog.

Pvt. Kelly quit a job that was paying him $1.50 a day and up. (Up all night trying to make it.)

Men, before getting discharged, see Pvt. Napier in tent No. 35. He has opened a new recruiting Station.

Boots Anthony says he's got a terrible hay-maker waiting for you, Derose.

Company "F"

Stick to it Derbyshire, you are doing fine with the chow. Haven't heard a single "kick" as yet.

Recently Sergeant Stephenson was mistaken for the Mayor of Girard, Ala. Someone said it was the check suit and the nose pinchers.

Sgts. Clarke and Werner are planning an auto trip to Palm Beach, Fla., at Xmas time. Clarke said it is going to cost $150 for the chow, some ration hounds I must say.

Private Perry has decided to go in the Taxi business on his next enlistment. what make car are you going to buy Francis.

This company has just completed its record practice with Machine Gun and Pistol. The company made an enviable record, qualifying one hundred per cent. all but one man making Sharpshooter, the other man making Marksman. One man made the highest score in the Army. We also have the three highest scores in the Regiment. We hope to qualify all of the Sharpshooters as Experts.

We have some new Non-commissioned officers in the Company now. Privates Ryles and Coop having been made Corporals and Corporal Cody a Sergeant. They have all worked hard, and deserve their promotion.

Someone in the company has brought one of those ten dollar automobiles around. We'd like to know who he is; if it happens to fall apart at any time we'll know who will have to pick up the junk.

THE SIREN

When I was a child quite young and credulous,
I read fairy stories in a manner sedulous.
The brothers Grimm, and Anderson were once my chief delight,
And I believed the tales I read of wizards and their might—
I read of castles grim and dark and ladies wondrous fair,
Who were enslaved by giants and kept imprisoned there—
Of sorcerers and dragons, and the Princess that they harried,
Until Prince Charming slew them all, and then the Princess married.
And naught could shake my childish faith or cause me unbelief,
And when years brought the facts to light, they also brought me grief.
So later on when I reached my twentieth birthday,
I had become quite cynical and exceedingly blase.
Till I met a little siren, and she told a wondrous tale,
('Tho I know of folks who said far less, and then were placed in jail.)
She made me fall for all she said—she played me like a flute,
But all the time was kidding me and didn't care a hoot.
And so at twenty-one I was a disillusioned man,
Proclaiming loud to all the world: "Deceive me if you can!"
But recruiting posters met my eyes, most marvelous to see,
As they showed the joys of a soldier's life by land and on the sea—
I listened to the sergeant talk, and listened in surprise,
As he described in glowing words the Army Paradise.
So now I'm swabbing cosmolene, a sad and wiser man,
And, sure the greatest sucker since e'er the world began,
And I'm waiting for my discharge, some three years hence, or so,
And never again believe man or maid, unless by Heck I know!

Aeroplanes In War.

Following the announcements regarding the completion of the greatest aeroplane in America it is noticed that Great Britain has quite recently launched the greatest submarine that ever sailed on or under the seas. Other nations are doing something in the way of preparation for the next war—but it does seem that a great many nations are also trying to avoid further tests of strength by physical combat.—Florida Times-Union.

People We Admire

The fellow who tells you that it can be done, but that he for one can't do it.

The man who knows not, and knows not that he knows not—pity him.

The bird who takes up your time gassing when you have so much work to do that twenty-four hour days are not long enough.

The gink who borrows your lead pencil and then sticks it in his pocket.

Buck passers.

The gazabo who rests on the laurels of his great, great granddaddy.

The bird who pulls his rank at a social function.

The perpetuallyy bored type of feminine humanity.

The fellow who drops the matter under discussion with you to take up a new matter with a newcomer.

People who posses our own weaknesses.

The bird who throws dust in our face when our bus is running wide open.

Soup inhalers.

INFANTRY.

"Mon Capitan, mes enfants—both of these terms represent the degree of intimacy existing between officer and his men in the French army. The French army officer calls his men, his boys, his children, and they occupy the same position in his heart. As a result of this mutual love between officer and men, the French soldier will go thru fire for his leader. Witness the fiery zeal of the French "Blue Devils" Can anyone point to a single instance of French cowardice? No, the ties are too strong; for the officer is ready to die for his boys, and they in turn went to die for him.

And thus, we have the origin of the word, Infantry, coming directly from 'mes enfants'. In the Infantry, as in no other branch of the Service, are the innate qualities of leadership in the officer called into greater play. The relations of the Infantry officer are closer to his men, for the 'man with the bayonet' is his only and chief concern. We have adopted the French name for this arm of our Service; but we have also incorporated the French spirit of the love of officers for his men. The Army is, then, a team, bound together by ties much stronger than any that money can buy. That's why we are here.

TO ARMY WOMEN.

"God took the joyous gaiety of the sunbeams, the softness of the parrot's bosom, the sweetness of honey, the warmth of the fire, the cooing of the dove, the fidelity of the chakrowaka, and compounding all of these He made woman and gave her to man." He gave her to man to help him fight his battles; but in her own sweet, quiet way, woman is the braver creation. It is the spirit of Army women that the American army worships both in war and peace. In war, she is his bulwark and strength; in peace, his homemaker and consolation. Unselfishly, and yet how bravely, have our Army women sent their loved ones off to fight for right. The Revolution saw these partings as did the last war. And they, dear souls—remain at home, the silent leaders, courageously trusting in faith, in spite of deep anxiety. And then in peace, she makes the soldier's home. Home! What would that word mean to him without the tender sweetness of a woman to grace it. She is his ideal, his reason for living. Bravely she carries on, whatever the circumsances be—fixing up one nest; tearing it down and making another. Onwards thru life she goes, spreading sunshine and contentment—lending the tenderness of a mother's love to the rigors of Army life. Dear Army women—we salute you.

The Office Dawg awakens to remark that he has a strong hunch that the author of the foregoing remarks was not only a graduate of the Infantry School but that he has had an extensive experience in these parts.

LOST—ONE HORSE.

Lost one horse, Gelding; bay; 15 hands, weight 1000 lbs.; age 7 years; hoof No. 97; also one training saddle and bridle with barrel snaffle bit. Horse and equipment were being used by personnel of Summer Training Camp. If found notify Captain Dosher, 18th Field Artillery.—Fort Sill Guidon.

"What became of the rider?"

CALCULATOR AND THE GREAT DANE.

"Standing in the need of prayer,
Standing in the need of prayer."

These words, accompaneid by doleful howls struck the ears of the Great Dane as he came around the corner of the laundry on a cool morning's wanderings. "Strange" he muttered to himself, "Tis evidently some one in deep despair. How fortunate that I should pass by on my way to the boneyard." As he proceeded, in the directions from which the sounds came, they increased in sadness, affecting the poor Dane to such an extent that he put on an extra burst of speed and skidded gracefully into a pile of empty laundry baskets scattering them here and there and exposing to view our little friend Calculator, leaning against the building pouring forth his sorrowing sorrow to the accomplishment of heart-rendering sobs.

"Come, come, my dear comrade," pleaded the Dane, "Enough of this sadness—for every ill there is a remedy and together we'll find one for you" "Ow-oooh" replied Calculator, "Read this kind comforter, and help me out of this terrible situation if you can."

Whereupon he handed the Dane a copy of Circular 71. Headquarters Ft. Benning, August 2, 1923, entitled "Immunization of Dogs Against Rabies" which he had been officially presented with earlier in the day. The Dane read it over rapidly, then less rapidly and finally without any rapidness at all the completion of which he sank down thoughtfully beside Calculator.

"Indeed, It's a situation well worthy of thought," he mused, "Your very life is in danger. Now if the students were here it would be an easy matter, for they would buy you a dozen immunizations. But here it is August the 17th already and you are still alive. Evidently they intend to give you a chance to get your friends together. Now first you need a collar because you can't hang a tag on your ears or your tail. Then we must proceed to get a donation from each of your officer friends. Let's designate the A. & R. Officer to hold the stakes. We will see the Veterinarian who is a good scout, tho' he does get under one's skin, now and then. He can tell us what it will cost to save your career from being cut short in its prime—"Here he was interrupted by Calc who, amidst liquid gurgles, sobbed out that never more would he ride the "Seminole" to Columbus nor bark to his friends from the back of some kind person's automobile. "OWo-o-o-h!"

"Never mind," sympathized the Great Dane, "we'll have you shot tomorrow morning. Then we can talk the Provost Marshall out of a resignation tag and you'll be free from danger again."

So together they started for the A. & R. Office, Calculator leaning heavily on the shoulder of the Great Dane, stricken with grief that all his many friends none had voluntarily offered to pay for his innoculation. "It's enough to make me mad," he sobbed. At this the Great Dane increased his pace and they were soon pouring out their hearts to the Office Dawg who told the editor and that's how this came to be written.

WITH OUR ADVERTISERS.

Having decided that we required some insurance we began to consider the matter of where it might be obtained. After looking thru the pages of the News we decided that the proper place to make a further investigation into this matter was in the office of HILL & HILL in the Third National Bank building.

Accordingly we visited that office and we were received very courteously even before we had made our wants known. We found many kinds of insurance covering almost anything a person might think of. We also found that this was the place to get a fidelity bond and as we required one of these a trade was made on the spot.

HILL & HILL have been constant advertisers in the News for a long time and they will be glad to discuss insurance matters with Army folks.

WANTED—Players for a polo team. Must be student officer or permanent personnel not assigned to any organization. Bolsheviks preferred. Mounts of this team in fairly good condition. Orderly dues $3.00 per month per member. Players are requested to list their names with the Infantry School News.

J. P. MORGAN has well said that "the basis of all credit in business is character." Therefore, let us give the people with character the business.

We took the Battery out for swimming; but, alas, only half of the men had bathing suits. We then inquired as to the reasons for so few suits, and found that the prices were too steep for good ones. So we hiked down town and stepped into ROSENBERG'S telling him the whole story. Rosenberg then gave the men suits at $2.00 and $2.50. Overjoyed at the bargain we had obtained, out of curiosity we hunted up the wholesale price; and found that Rosenberg was selling at cost; not counting the freight charges. This spirit of accomodation we appreciate in Columbus merchants. More power to you! You have always been straight-from-the-shoulder and square with us. Expect a fifty-fifty break.

Did You?

Mamma—"How are you getting along in school, Johnny?"

Johnny — "Fine, mamma we are learning the dums table and have lots of gozinta examples?"

Mamma—"What on earth are they teaching you?"

Johnny—"Well, teacher says, 'two dums two is four and three dums two is six and we have strings of 'xamples like that then we have four gozinta eight twice and four gozinta twelve three times. Didn't you have that when you went to school?"

EXTRACTS OF ADDRESS MADE BY MAJ. S. B. PHILPOT, 24TH INF. IN HONOR OF PRES. HARDING

"It is with the greatest reluctance and timidity that I approach this subject, the passing of our Commander-in-Chief, The President of the United States.

"It so happens that Ohio is my native State and that my home which is not far from Marion, Ohio gave me the great opportunity to know Warren G. Harding, first as Lieut. Gov. of Ohio and then as United States Senator from Ohio.

"He was a man's man, a lover of his fellow-man. Big, clean and majestic in his friendship. A lover of sports, a lover of dogs. A man any could approach before America made him its president and built about him that barrier America erects about its presidents.

"It is impossible for me to believe that today his eternity of rest begins. That today will mark the beginning of that sleep that will last forever and forever.

"Any one listening to him would have thought those ringing tones could never be hushed, that vigorous mind never be stilled.

"It appalls and mystifies me, America in its greatness sets a man upon the presidency and clothes him with a power so sublime that it feels that none can remove him but the people, so that when death's icy hand suddenly ignores them and clutches him away they stand appalled.

"This nation reached down and made him its servant and he served so well and so ardously that the nation he loved and which, loved him demanded of him his life before they knew what they were doing.

"Drommond, tells us that the greatest thing in the world is love. The greatest example that you and I know of love is the love that a mother bears her babe. Warren Harding loved this country as a mother loves her babe.

You and I must have the same love of our hills and our mountains; of our swamps and our deserts; of our woods and our plains and everything that's America's—just like the mother loves her babe or God help America.

"America, selected Warren G. Harding as her servant to you and I of the military profession he was our commander-in-chief. So it was as it should have been that—men of our profession gave him his guard of honor across the continent—men of our profession gave him his bearers—men of our profession manned his funeral caisson—men of our profession played his dirge, men of our profession will sound his taps and men of our profession will sentry his grave.

120 SHOTS PER MINUTE

The invention of a rapid-firing automatic cannon capable of shooting one and one-quarter pound shells at the rate of 120 a minute, has been perfected by John M. Browning, inventor of firearms. The cannon is designed for use in airplanes, as well as on land or sea, according to announcement made by Edward Browning, brother of the inventor. The barrel measures one and one-half inches in diameter weight 160 pounds when mounted on a tripod. The range is seven miles.—Third Corps Area Gazette.

BRIG.-GEN. —. W. JOYES TO BE ASSISTANT CHIEF OF ORDNANCE

Brig.-Gen. J. W. Joyes has been appointed Assistant Chief of Ordnance, succeeding to the vacancy created by the death of the late Brig.-Gen. William S. Peirce.

With the Exchanges

That Gen. Pershing, in his recent address at Bear Mountain, N. Y., to the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, should have expressed opposition to the introduction of military training in the movement may be to some quite a surprise. His argument is really unanswerable, though it is simpliicty itself: "You are teaching boys to be good citizens, and any man who is a good citizen will make a good solder in time of peril."—Christian Science Monitor.

What The World War Proved

Apprehension is expressed in some quarters because of the very serious program of airship construction undertaken by France. There are again men who are predicting that "the next war will be in the air. Strategy and invention, schemes, treachery, wealth and the weather have participated in campaigns and the victory has come to the greatest army. It is the soldier or sailor, or both, to whom the credit is due for winning a war. The arts and sciences take a hand but the individuals comprising the active forces win.—Florida Times-Union.

Citizenship With Reservations

Aliens who seek American citizenship but are unwilling to fight for America will remain aliens, if all Federal judges are of the same mind as John M. Killits, holding court in Toledo. He has turned down applicants for naturalization who claimed exemption from service in the American Army during the World War on the ground of conscientious objections.—New York Tribune.

A War Every 1 1-2 Years, U. S. Has Fought 164 Conflicts

We are far from being as mild and unwarlike as the pacifists make us out to be. The United States fights when she has to—and there is evidence enough that under the pressure of circumstances the nation has not lacked the aggressiveness to take the fight where the chances for being damaged are thickest.—Kansas City Star.

Money For The Navy

We have been more or less niggardly with both our army and our navy in times of peace and over-generous to the point of wastefulness in time of war, there seems to be no good reason why, if we are to have a navy, we should not keep it fit.—San Antonio Light.

An Army of the People

Under the new national defense act, this country is now undertaking to build up a citizen army, similar in many respects to that proposed by Washington. In large measure, Gen. Pershing declares, it is succeeding, because the people, actuated by a new public sentiment, born of the experience of the World War, have accepted the principle that the country cannot afford to go unprepared, and also because military service and training carry with them an awakened appreciation of civic obligations.—Rochester Herald.

Poor Old Army

The army is a favorite target for congressional money-savers. Madden forgets the past very quickly.—Times-Picayune.

"Prepare"

No one can fairly dispute the logic of the war's lesson—"prepare against unprovoked aggression."—Washington Star.

A Little More Preparedness

Congress has left of the United States army but a skeleton. The more men who are trained in camps the more bones there will be in this skeleton on which to build a flesh-and-blood army if we ever are so unfortunate as to need one.—New York Tribune.

France's New Army

Militarism, but a quite understandable determination to enjoy the blessings of peace, lies at the basis of French military plans. Had France been as ready to deal the first blow in 1914 as she is today, how many of her million and a half sons now dead, would never have been cut off in the full strength of young manhood!—Boston Transcript.

Keeping An Army Employed

There, now, isn't that wonderful! At last golf courses are to be of some use other than affording recreation for invalids and keeping the "idle rich" from worrying about having nothing to do but spend money and keep down their avoirdupois by exercise that is not work. This newly-discovered use for golf courses is more than propitious. It will keep an army from going to seed! And, this is even more important—golf courses will be saved from destruction, provided the army "birds" get up early enough to catch the worms that are destroying a national asset.—Florida Times-Union.

PIG TAILS WERE REGULATION IN 1800

(By Col. Laurence A. Curtis, U. S. A.)

"At the close of the revolution we find the regiment of infantry and two companies of artillery retained in the service, clothed in the accepted continental costume of dark blue coats, white small clothes, and cocked hats. The Infantry facings were white, the artillery scarlet. Two years later the Infantry wore scarlet facings.

In 1800 President Adams put the cavalry into green coats with white facings. Musicians had scarlet coats, which they continued to wear as late as 1857. The Marine Band turned out in red coats until 1917, and Marine field musicians wore red dress coats until the dress coat was discontinued a few years ago. Probably scarlet was associated with the blare of trumpets.

In 1800 a uniform order carrying sweeping changes met with much the same reception that uniform orders have received ever since, and was never carried out. An early example of reluctance to depart frfom the old order of things is shown in the accomplishment of the change from the queue to the cropped hair. It was urged that all men be turned out for parade with hair well greased and neatly braided, and through this end a given quantity of tallow and flour was issued for each hundred men, for dressing the hair. It was urged, also that all men be cleanly shaven. One aggressive commander ordered that soldiers appearing unshaven should be dry-shaven on parade. In 1822 orders issued from the War Department to the effect that long hair was unsightly and unsanitary, and that all hair would henceforth be cropped. This order was carried out with great unwillingness, and generally characterized as a French fad. One Lieut. Col. refused to cut his hair. He was finally brought before a Gen. court-martial, and sentenced to reprimand. He still continued to wear his queue, and a year later was to be court-martialed again, but was gathered to his fathers, and buried in his queue.

In 1810 the continental garb gave way to the single-breasted swallow-tailed coat and long trousers. The head dress was at first the bell-crowned plug hat of the time, replaced in 1812 by the tar bucket still woren for full dress by the corps of cadets. The West Point full dress, with its white cross belts and white trousers, is practically the uniform of this period. High collars were now in vogue, the collar reaching the tip of the ear.

Dark blue was the prescribed color except for the rifle regiments, which were in grey. As a matter of fact, owing to the embargo of 1807, the commercial non-intercourse Act of 1810, and the subsequent blockade, dark blue cloth was very scarce, and the army was mostly in grey. In honor of Lundy's Lane and other victories won by regiments in grey, the corps of cadets was put into grey in 1819. The voltiguer regiments in the Mexican War wore grey. At the outbreak of the Civil War, several northernstates sent out their troops in grey. After the Civil War grey was quite generally worn by National Guard organizations until the state troops went into the army uniform in the eighties."

TWO NEW BRIGADERS TO BE DESIGNATED

The War Department announced that the two following Colonels in the regular army have been designated for promotion to the grade of Brigadier-General: Colonel John W. Jenkins, Cavalry, vice Brigadier-General Edmund Wittenmeyer, who retires August 9, 1923.

Colonel Thomas H. Slavens, Infantry, vice Brigadier-General Ira A. Haynes, who retires September 10, 1923.

ARMY TESTS HEAVY RAPID FIRE GUN

Army ordnance experts are at work on a repeating gun for use in aircraft defense and against tanks. Experiments are being carried on at Watervleit Arsenal near Albany, N. Y.

The gun has a caliber of 37 millimeters, thus following the standard one-pounder infantry piece used during the World War. It is capable of firing high explosive or armor-piercing shells in bursts of five.—Third Corps Area Gazette.

ONE WORLD PEACE PLAN

Plan calls for the preparation, printing, and free distribution to every member of the United States Senate, for as long a time as may be necessary, of a pocket-size leaflet history of the years 1917-18 in the United States —New York Post.

SCRAPPING THE WARSHIPS

Great Britain has been making a clean sweep of vessels of all types that were not modern enough.—New York Times.

Heavy, (Sergt. Pride) has learned the way to Columbus at last and now you can't find him any more unless he is on some duty.

Hdqrs. Company.

The Old Battery, is once again under the Command of Capt. C. H. Moore, Jr., after a long stay on Special Duty as Camp Exchange Officer.

Lieut. S. E. Whitesides, Jr., who has been in command of the Company during Capt. Moore's absence is now relieved. The Company is sorry to loose the Lieut, but glad to see the Capt. come back to the Company.

Private Gilbert, the Star ball player is discharged today and he will leave for his home in Kansas.

Company "A"

Private Davis has reenlisted, and we are very glad to have this soldier return to us.

Private Carr I believe has changed his mind about going out, now that his best friend has reenlisted.

Company "C"

Corporal Barnett stays rather close to his bunk. We wonder why? Cheer up Mex, all sickness isn't death.

Corporal DeWitt hopes to soon be among the foot hills of the Catskills, The Corporal needs a little rest, so is therefore planning a furlough.

Company "D"

Corporal Andrews, our Company Clerk, is still undecided as to whether or not he will reenlist. Cheer up old boy, get your head together, the members of the company would love to see you stay, but if you must go we wish you the best of luck.

Company "L"

Private Robert Stubbs (Hot Stuff) we are looking forward to the 21st of this month. Remember there are lots of vacancies in the Company for all good soldiers—think it over. I imagine I see you in the 400 the first of the cool, kind September.

Three cheers for our new Corporal. Is everybody acquainted with Corp'l Lloyd?

Private Bolton you had better hold on pretty tight. If you don't, something like a small article of War will smite you across your forehead and stare you in the face, and Corporal Lloyd will be delighted to pilot you safely up yonder road.

Private Christopher Green is really enjoying himself since he has right dressed on 3 years. Don't pull'em too often (Issue), you are a long, long timer.

Company "M"

Sergt. Hill (King) was bound and tied by the ties and bindings of Holy matrimony August 13. Say King what is the Number of your residence.

Nevertheless, accept the Company's check for a thousand congratulations and we hope all your troubles be little ones.

Tanda's Army on the Move

Not long since, a great upheaval occurred in the territory occupied by Tanda's army, causing them to look about and consider ways and means of obtaining a new base. So he and his cohorts moved all equipment and horses without a single protesting 'neigh' to the Post Corral by forced marches. There they intrenched. Then it became necessary to obtain quarters for the man-power. After much scouting and many sallies, two rows of old tents were discovered. Four of these were secured and dragged by tractors to site close to the stables.

Last reports from correspondents indicate that Tanda's minature, the valient forces, are now safely and comfortably quartered, and the commander has no fears of his men suffering in any way from the rigors of a South-Georgia winter. Information has also leaked out that the morale of the men has mounted to the highest on account of the new move.

Yip-Yip-Hurray, "A" Battery, 83rd F.A.

The famous wandering Artillery four-gun crew are about to return to the fold, from which they so unceremoniously departed. On the twenty-eighth of August they will begin the long and tedious march from Camp McClellan, Ala., to their home station at Fort Benning. It is whispered that the prodigal son is glad to return at an early date to the home of his kindred. Yeah we shall welcome them with open arms, and shall prepare a feast of fatted calves for them.

"B" Battery

If you want to see esprit, come to "B" Battery. Ricard feeds the boys and then those peppy Lieutenants take it all out of us in the morning exercise. They're making a bunch of "pugs" of us. We should worry—there's a good dinner waiting.

If you're up against a bruiser,
And you're getting knocked about—
Grin—
If you're feeling pretty groggy,
And you think you're down and out—
Grin—

That's the only way to take this boxing stuff. But some smart Aleck is always on deck to take the joy out of life. He will make a left lead for the stomach, switching to a left hook to the jaw, followed by a straight right to the solar plexus before we know what its all about. Now, grin—Mr. Poet! Anyhow, there is no use getting sore—we're all friends.

Lukowski is some scrapper; but he found a job on his hands when he got up Dougherty's Irish.

There is no dead line in our area for Doughboys, Tankers, or anybody.

Come around and be sociable. We'll shoot you a game of pool.

Strictly Personal

Once upon a time the Rankin Mann of the 83rd Field Artillery, who wore his hair quite low about the Temples and looked something like a butler, but was nevertheless a Goodman in his line, while driving his Carr along the Shore, met a Little lady who was the Ward of a Barron, and wore a Crown-over her curly locks. She was attired in a Green dress, White stockings, and wore a magnificent Gehm upon her breast. She had eyes of Gray, and Cole Black hair in which she wore many jewelled Combs.

As soon as our hero saw her he became Keen to Joiner Quick, but he was Owen all his money and did not have the Price to Driver to the soda fount. However, he was a Hardy soul and rather Sharpe; so removing his Brown derby, he Tucker by the hand, and said: "Hunn, I'm Wilder than a Roebuck over you and would like to see Moore of you, so we'll take a Vogt; and if you say all Wright, we'll Turner round, Ferry across the Creek, and take a stroll through the Marsh, where we can Hunt the best straw-Berry that you Everett, or else we will Rakestraw together in the Meadows, and I will let you fly my Kyte." Now the young lady knew many Sailors with whom she used to Crews about and she knew her stuff, so she indignantly replied: "Well, Hartley! Do you think I have no Fielding! How dare you speak to me as if I were a Servant girl? Your line is not the Key to my heart. I would have you know that I live in a Rockcastle with a Hightower in a very Richburg; and the man I am to marry owns several Mines, and is as strong as Sampson, so now be-Gawn!

Unfortunately, at this juncture, the King appeared upon the scene at the end of a long Chase, and mistaking the young man for a Workman, he chased him across the Heath and into the next Parrish, where he met a Shepherd girl upon a Hill with whom he lived happily ever after.

Grateful acknowledgements are hereby offered Mrs. Beiderlinden on behalf of the Artillery Polo Team for the beautiful cerise colored jackets she made for them. The Doughboys knew that the Artillery was coming when they saw the red; it meant danger.

INFORMATION FOR STUDENT OFFICERS.

Make Your Whereabouts Known.

Post Regulations require that officers living out of the Post will furnish the Post Personnel Adjutant their addresses and telephone numbers as soon as possible after getting located. This information is, of course, furnished by officers when making a change of address.

The News is anxious for every officer on duty at the Infantry School to get a copy of the paper each week. This is being accomplished at the present time by distributing the paper by courier on the Post and mailing it each week to those officers who have been ordered to the Infantry School next year—that is, by mailing it to the last known address of these officers.

During the period between the time when the incoming student officer leaves his present station and the time when he reports for duty at the Infantry School he may miss an issue or two of the News but on the date the two classes have been ordreed to report, the News will be addressed to the incoming officer at the Infantry School pending his furnishing the News with his city address should be he forced to live in the city.

In view of the fact that this paper desires to be of service to student officers by furnishing them with information during their stay of matters of interest to themselves, the News requests that officers now receiving the paper notify the Post A. & R. Officer, either by telephone or other method, just as soon as their Columbus address has been determined in order that the Message Center of the Infantry School may not be burdened unnecessarily with papers addressed to officers who have no Post Office box.

28th REGULAR INFANTRY WILL OBSERVE "ORGANIZATION DAY"

Regimental History

The history of the 28th Infantry, regular army, is considered by military men as representative of the combatant part the United States played in the World War, and for that reason its celebration of "Organization Day" this year, when we are wont to forget the glory of our arms, its history is of particular importance. The 28th Infantry marks the earliest troop movement to France, the first American combat offensive of the war, and the continued success of the American arms up to the signing of the Armistice. From the plains of Texas to the submarine-infested Atlantic, in the early days of 1917, to the mud of southern France, a strange country to most of the soldiers through the rain, snow bitter cold of that winter of 1917 in France, through the battles of Cantigny, Scissons, St. Mihiel, the Argonne, to the gates of that historic city, Sedan, then as part of the army of victory to and across the Rhine, to Coblence, and thence to the outer most limits of the American bridgehead area, the 28th Infantry carried America's glory, thrilled our Allies showed them that Americans could fight and win, and proved to the world this nation of ours was a great factor in the war.

Steadied Allies

As it encouraged our Allies, it discouraged the common enemy, Major General Charles P. Summerall, telling of the glory of the 28th Infantry, says: "The reputation of the regiment was such, that on one occasion a French General who was offered an American regiment in a great emergency, asked for one of two regiments, and he named the 28th Infantry as his first choice.

"If I were asked," he continued, "why the First Division was First, I should say that one of the principal reasons was the 28th Infantry. This regiment contains distinctive achievements that had a marked influence upon the career of the Division and upon the reputation of American troops."

Referring to the selection of the 28th Infantry as the first American unit to make the first offensive of the World War, Major General H. E. Ely says: "The 28th Infantry has an exceedingly high morale, an excellent esprit de corps, and very superior discipline. It is probable that on this account it was selected, after careful consideration, as the regiment in all the American Expeditionary Forces to make the first American offensive, the capture of Cantigny. It captured Cantigny May 28, 1918, a most brilliant action, highly praised not only by our own superior officers but by the French under whom we were then acting. In this action the regiment lost over one-half its officers in killed and wounded, and over one-third of its men, those actually participating in the action. It never gave up an inch of territory it had gained. The result of this American offensive showed our French and English Allies as well as our own people, the high class of the American soldier."

They Sailed Away

Under secret orders the 28th Infantry left McAllen, Texas, on June 3, 1917, en route for France. The regiment sailed from Hoboken, N. J., on June 14, 1917, on the transports Antilles, Pastores, Tenadores and Luckenback. On June 22 the transports were attacked by a German submarine but the ships did not suffer any damages. On June 25, 1917, the Port of St. Nazaire, France, welcomed the first American unit, and the morning of the 28th of June "K" Company, 28th Infantry, went ashore the first American combat unit to place foot on European soil. Two battalions of "Blue Devils" were assigned by the French to train the Americans. On September 4, 1917, in the Gondrescourt area at Treversay, a German airplane bombed the town and the unit had the war brought closer to it. Two days laer President Poincare, of France, reviewed the regiment, then Marshall Jeffre and General Pershing reviewed the Division later, the 28th participating. On October 21, 1917, while millions in America were answering the call in arms, the 28th Infantry had gone into the lines at Ansurville, a sub-sector, and the winter was spent in the lines.

In the action at Cantigny the 28th Infantry advanced on a front of 2,200 yards to a depth of from 300 to 1.600 yards and captured 500 officers, 220 men, 16 machine guns, two trench mortars, and approximately 500 rifles. The enemy's lorres were estimated at 600 killed and 400 wounded, besides the casualties caused by artillery fire at points of concentration. The 28th Infantry had not won this success without paying a price. The blood of many of its best soldiers dyed the streets of that little village and gave the fields an even deeper redness than the popies blooming there. When the regiment was relieved on that night of May 30-31 by the 16th Infantry, over one-half of the officers and one-third of the men who had gone into the attack were missing from the ranks.

29th INFANTRY RECEIVES "RAG"

Championship Pennant Awarded Last Sunday.

On last Sunday afternoon the white baseball championship pennant of the Fort Benning was awarded the 29th Infantry just prior to the starting of the game between the 29th Infantry and the Jordan City baseball aggregation.

The presentation was made by Lt.-Col. Gideon H. Williams, who represented the Commanding Officer, Ft. Benning, with a few short congratulatory remarks. The pennant was received by the Captain of the 29th Infantry Team.

This pennant, which was first awarded two seasons ago to the Infantry School Detachment, is competed annually. In the event that any organization team wins the pennant for three consecutive seasons it becomes organization property and becomes a permanent organization trophy. The Infantry School Detachment won the pennant for two years only to have their hopes of having it become their permanent property dashed by the 29th Infantry very nonchanantly winning four straight games this year on the championship series.

BRAINEST MEN PLAY GOLF, WHY?

Golf is a science, a study of a lifetime, in which you may exhaust yourself, but never your subject. It is a contest, a duel or a melee, calling for courage, skill, strategy and self-control. It is a test of temper, a trial of honor, a revealer of character. It affords a chance to play the man and act the gentleman. It means going into God's out-of-doors, getting close to nature, fresh air exercise, a sweeping away of mental cobwebs, genuine recreation of the tired tissues. It is a cure for care, an antidote to worry. It includes companionship with friends, social intercourse, opportunities for courtesy, kindliness and generosity to an opponent. It promotes not only physical health but moral force.—Third Corps Area Gazette.

ARMY WINS POLO GAME.

Concedes Point Judith Five Goals and Triumphs, 13 to 7

Providence, R. I.—The Army first team emerged victor over Point Judith in a special polo match at the Point Judith Club this afternoon. The Army permitted their opponents to score but twice, winning, 13 to 7, after conceding a five-point handicap.

Point Judith's goals came on pretty shots by Gerald Dempsey and A. L. Smith. Both on offense and defense the Army team played brilliantly.

Two minutes had been played in the fifth chukker when the pony ridden by Morris L. Dixon collapsed suddenly, to die a few minutes later. It is believed the death of the mount was due to some internal injury or to a heat stroke.

29th 6, 83rd 5.

The Artillery lost to the 29th in a well fought game by a score of 6 to 5. The contest was close, furnishing all the thrills of an evenly matched battle. While the Doughboys maybe accused of too much individual playing, at the expense of team work, the Artillery was equally guilty of bunching in its plays. Both teams went ball crazy at times, resulting in a tangle of horses and polo mallets. The remedy is obvious. A wholesome sportsmanlike spirit prevailed thruout the game, exciting as it was. All players show excellent promise as material for a Corps Area team. The Artillery Team is gradually creeping up on its rival; and spirited matches may be expected in the future.

POLO.

The American Army Team is whipping itself into shape for its coming international contest with the British Army Polo Team at Meadowbrook.

Following is a list of the line-up:

No. 1—Major A. H. Wilson, Cav.

No. 2—Major J. K. Herr, Cav.

No. 3—Lt.-Col. Lewis Brown, Jr., Cav.

No. 4—Major L. A. Beard, Q. M. C.

Substitute—Major W. W. Erwin, F. A.

On account of an unavoidable delay in the shipment of the British ponies from England, the British-American Army matches at Meadow Brook will probably be postponed for one week, the dates as tentatively assigned being Saturday, September 8, Wednesday, September 12, and, if a third match is necessary, Saturday, September 15.

The condition of Major V. P. Erwin F. A. is slightly improved.

Velenage, 13th Inf., Sgt. A. Kothlarczyk, 23rd Inf., 1st Sgt. W. F. Lay, 19th Inf., Sgt. E. M. Johnson, 4th Inf., and Corp. J. R. P. Hill, 23rd Inf. Major Newgarden is listed as being on the squad but has been appointed to a responsible position as an official at Camp Perry and will be on that detail until the matches when he will fire on the pistol team.

The international squad is working ou under the supervision of Capt. E. G. Lindroth. Some excellent material is out from the infantry team and in addition there will be civilians from the nearby cities competeting during the final tryouts to be held August 13th, 16th.

The training of the rifle squad was resumed on Monday, the Perry squad being divided into two teams and the remaining candidates into other teams, the purpose of which is to keep up the spirit of competition and to get the squad accustomed to team firing. There is some possibility of the squad going to Sea Girt for the New Jersey State matches, the trip if made will be voa auto at the expense of the individual. The period between now and the time of departure from Niagara will be devoted to intensive training of both rifle and pistol squads. The exact date of departure from Niagara has not yet been announced but it is expected the squad will leave about the 20th of August.

The latest reports from Lieut. Sheets who broke his ankle last week is to the effect he is on the road to recovery and will be able to be up and about on crutches within a few days.

THE THIRD INFANTRY

"The Old Guard of the Army"

Nothing so disheartens a good actor more than to see a play staged and himself left out of the cast. So, the regiment whose colors carry streamers certifying to active participation in more than one hundred and twenty-four battles and skirmishes, grew restless while it performed important and necessary duties along the Mexican border in 1917-18 and dreamed of the time when the opportunity to prove its worth in the fields of France might present itself. The armistice, unexpected and uninvited, so far as the Third Infantry was concerned, dampened its spirit, but did not break it, for such is the esprit de corps of the Third Infantry, a living vital thing, that it cannot and will not be downed. Again, change the action from his usual leading part as hero

Colonel A. W. Bjornstad, Commanding 3rd Infantry

to a less important function, from his point of view—that's also disheartening. The change of the Third Infantry from a combat regiment to a training center organization—that was the second trying situation for the officers and enlisted men thoroughly imbued with the fighting spirit of the old regiment. They, each and every one of them buckled down to the job, however, and the reward came the following year, 1922, when another transformation of the regiment gave it back its original form—a combat organization.

Oldest Regiment in the Army

Having had service under every president of the United States, from Washington to Coolidge, the Third Infantry has well earned its title of the "Old Guard of the Army," the oldest regiment in the service of the

COL. AND MRS. GRAHAM ON LEAVE

Col. and Mrs. J. M. Graham and Miss Maynie Graham left last Sunday for two months leave, at the termination of which they will proceed to Col. Graham's new station at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y. Their leave will be spent at Col. Graham's home in New Hampshire. Miss Kathleen Graham is spending the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. Kent, at San Francisco, California, and will join her family at Plattsburg.

LT. LUSSIER LEAVES BENNING

Lt. Lussier leaves Saturday for Camp Alfred Vail where he will be a student at the Signal School. He has been at Benning 3 years.

Lt. and Mrs. Lussier and their daughter Frances, will tour New England on a short leave.

MRS. REED ENTERTAINS

Mrs. C. W. Reed entertained at a bridge luncheon on Tuesday honoring Mrs. W. C. Lattimore, who is visiting Mrs. G. A. Pollin. Those present were Mmes. Lattimore, Pollin, Ellis, Dasher, Webster, Dunwoody, Beiderlinden, and Miss Peggy Kent. Mrs. Webster received the first prize, a pair of pearl earrings, and Mrs. Dunwoody the consolation prize, a pair of curtain fasteners. The guest prize was a unique powder puff.

MRS. WATSON HOSTESS

Mrs. LeRoy Watson was hostess at a delightful dinner party and bridge last Monday night. Those present were Cols. Fassett and Hocker; Majs. Stokeley, Sutherland and Musgrave; Maj. and Mrs. Elliott, Maj. and Mrs. Hall, and Mrs. Tom Martin. Mrs. Martin received the ladies prize, a jewelled hair ornament, and Maj. Stokeley the gentleman's prize, a key ring.

MRS. GRAHAM GUEST OF HONOR

Mrs. J. M. Graham was the guest of honor at a bridge party given by Mrs. Charles Elliott last Wednesday night. There were five tables, those present being: Cols. and Mmes. Graham, Peyton, Hansell and Smith; Majs. and Mmes. Wheeler, Dravo, Watson and Hall and Maj. Musgrave. Mrs. Graham received a beautiful pair of silk hose as the guest prize. The first prize for the ladies was a piece of Madeira, won by Mrs. Dravo. The gentleman's first prize was two decks of cards, won by Col. Hansell. Col. Graham won the consolation, a jar of candy.

CAPT. AND MRS. PEARSON RETURNED

Capt. and Mrs. Frank J. Pearson, and small daughter, Mary, returned last Thursday from Atlanta where Mrs. Pearson has been spending the summer with Capt. Pearson's parents. Capt. Pearson has been at Ft. Niagara with the rifle team. They will be located temporarily in the quarters formerly occupied by Col. Hannah, at 19-17-15.

VISITING ON THE POST

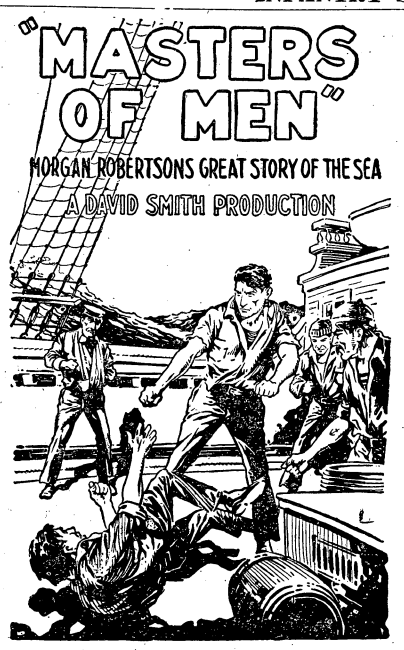
Mrs. W. C. Lattimore, wife of Capt. W. C. Lattimore, and small daughter, Betty, are the guests of Mrs. G. A. Pollin.

Mrs. Dasher's mother, Mrs. Wright, is visiting her daughter, and will remain until Capt. and Mrs. Dasher leave for Fort Sill.

Major Jack Kutz of Washington, D. C., is spending a few days at Fort Benning. During his visit he will be the guest of Lieut. and Mrs. Harold A. Willis.



"Masters of Men," Morgan Robertson's great sea novel, adapted for the screen by C. Graham Baker, which will be shown at the Post Theatre next Sunday is a real American story, written by Americans for Americans.

The hero, Dick Halpin, is the sort of a boy every American admires, sensitive to hurts, rebellious against snobbery, quick to fight and big enough to carry a secret wrong to save the girl he loves from humiliation. Dick is falsely accused of theft and runs away from home. He joins the United States Navy and there he learns how to be a man. While on shore leave he and his superior are shanghaied on board a four master and sent before the mast. They endure the brutality of captain and mate and the fifth in which they are compelled to live until they manage their escape just as the United States declares war on Spain. The boys rejoin their ships and take an active part in the battle of Santiago when Cervera's fleet was destroyed as it came out to sea.

The naval battle is thrillingly presented and through courtesy of the United States Navy Department at Washington is authentically reproduced, the Navy permitting Vitagraph, the producers, to take real shots on board men of war when stripped for action and indulging in gun fire.

The cast is an exceptionally strong one of fan favorites. Earle Williams plays Lieutenant Breen, and Cullen Landis Dick Halpin, the two young Americans. Alice Calhoun and Wanda Hawley play the old-fashioned sweethearts of the two days. The love interest is strong and there is abundant comedy running through the story.

NEW ARRIVALS

Col. James B. Gowen and two daughters, Betty and Kathleen, arrived Wednesday. They will be the guests of Col. Kerth until their quarters, 14-405, are in readiness. Mrs. Gowen and two children are visiting her sister at Ft. Moultrie, and will join Col. Gowen later. Two daughters will remain in Baltimore until time to enter college.

Col. Gowen will be director of the Infantry Board. On his arrival at Benning, the Col. and his two daughters were entertained at lunch by Col. and Mrs. McCaskey. They were entertained at dinner by Col. and Mrs. Kent.

Col. Paul S. Halloran, M. C., and his sister have arrived and are located in the quarters formerly occupied by Col. Graham, at 15-350.

CAPT. DASHER ON LEAVE

Cpt. A. L. Dasher and his brother, Mr. Sidney Dasher, left Wednesday for Albany, Ga., where Capt. Dasher is visiting his mother for a few days.

BIRTHS

Born at the Children's Hospital at Buffalo, N. Y., to Capt. Jay D. S. Lattin, S. C., and Mrs. Lattin, a girl.

Lt. and Mrs W. D. Williams of the Artillery are receiving congratulations on the birth of a 7 lb. girl.

THE REASON WHY.

As I was strolling down the street one bright sunshiny day,
I met a recruiting Sergeant, so blithesome and so gay,
"O, where away, my hearty lad, O, where away?" said he.
"I'm off to roam the wide, wide world, and sail the bounding sea."
"O, say not so, my hearty lad! You cause me much alarm.
I greatly fear that such a life will bring you naught but harm,
You should not sail the deep blue sea, it's very full of water;
And sailors, I regret to say, do things they shouldn't orter.
They are a most unpolished lot; to take them as a rule,
They never wash behind their ears or go to Sunday school.
Their ways are very vulgar and their language something vile,
Behavior most improper; their hearts quite full of guile,
At swabbing and deck scrubbing the Bo'sun keeps them busy.
By no means intellectual—in fact they are quite dizzy,
So, should you go, my hearty lad, to plough the raging main,
I'm sure the life, so filled with strife, would cause you grievous pain,
So list to me, my hearty lad, for I'm a truthful man,
And if you want to see the world, I'll now unfold a plan—
A simple plan and wondrous plain—as plain as plain can be,
The way to see the world is in the Field Artilleriee.
The doughboys were a useful bunch, much used to strafe the Huns,
But force behind their punch was the bellow of the guns.
The Engineers are handy men to make a road or map—
Without the help of gunnery quite useless in a scrap.
The Chemical Warfare uses gas that smells most awfully vile,
The gunner finds the distant trench, and shells it mile by mile.
The I. S. D. are haughty, and much given to complaint,
But when it comes to dirty work, (excuse me while I faint!)
The Cavalry are soldiers since e'er the world began—
The gunner is a care-free cuss, and first rate fighting man,
They always try to do their bit, no matter where it be—
And where there's work that should be done, there's Field Artilleriee,
They may not be so lady-like, and quite undignified,
And tho their efforts oft may fail, you'll know they always tried.
And when he knows that somewhere there are enemies to strafe,
The Chief calls the Artilleree to make the home-folks safe.
They ever roam the wide, wide world, by land and on the sea—
Rambling, rollicking, scrapping bunch, the Field Artilleree."

* * *

I listened to the sergeant talk, and could not but agree,
I've taken on for three years in the Field Artilleree.

Master Sergt. Stevens has returned from furlough which he spent motoring among the mountains of southern Florida. He reports that he and his family had a fine trip, and states that the scenery along the western coast of Maine is among the most beautiful that he has ever seen.

Well, the pay roll is about ready, boys!

It is with regret that we note the departure of Sergt. Keen, who has been transformed from Battery "B" to the I. S. D. Sergt Keen's long and excellent record, and his exceptional qualifications will make him a valuable man in any organization, and the best wshes of the entire Battery go with him.

It is with much pleasure that we welcome Sergeant Shores again. "Crab," for some time, was undecided as to where he would re-enlist; but after looking over other stations, he decided that the 83rd could not be beaten, and was so strongly convinced of this that he induced former Q. M. Sergeant Kaegi, of Fort Barrancas, to "re-up" for the 83rd, whom we also gladly welcome—and we are sure that after a nice long furlough, they will both be glad to get back in harness again.

Battery "A"
Canoneers Beat 22nd

The 22nd Infantry and 83rd Field Artillery Polo Fours fought a brilliant battle yesterday afternoon in the opening clash of the Post Polo Tourney. The Cannoneers emerged victorious after an extra period by the narrow margin of 4 goals to 3. The play of Roxbury was the feature of the hectic scrap.

Battery "B"

We're all right. Thank you.

Gosh, had boxing again! About half of the battery all of a sudden developed headaches, sore fingers, sprained wrists and every imaginable ailment—all because they had to put on the gloves. And then we laugh at the Frenchman when he uses his feet in a scrap.

But they didn't get away with it; for they all, cripples included, had to produce at least one round's worth. Everybody smiled but Duncan—he was hit on the nose.

A casual observer ambled into the library and found Kelly deeply immersed in "Seven Leagues Under the Sea" by Jules Verne. Now we do not wonder why Kelly is at sea so many times.

One of our best cooks was there, studying up new menues to treat the boys right.

The Battery is going to have a party next Wednesday, beer, pretzels and everything.

Battery "C"

Here we are back again after a prolonged absence with a tale of woe that is truthful if not original: The Battery is crying for the gunners examinaton.

Privates Tucker, Johnston and Mayfield have been appointed Corporals and now boys watch their smoke and excuse their dust.

Specialist Hill has been made Mess Sergt. to replace Sergt. Workman who has taken charge of the 5th Section. Sergt. Hill has started. Well let's hope he keeps it up.

Ten of our best men are under quarantine and we notice they have four bats for company.

THE INFANTRY BOARD

Radio Set For Infantry

During the past week the Infantry Board has been working on the formulation of a suitable program of radio development with a view to adoption of a single standard set for Infantry use. This would facilitate manufacture, supply and the training of personnel.

Major Sawyer and Lieut. Edwards of the Signal Corps are conferring with the Infantry Board with this program. They have also brought from the Signal Corps Research Laboratories at Camp Vail new radio sets SCR-143 and SCR-136 which are being tested for use in tanks and planes.

Among other matters under consideration by the Infantry Board are the following:

(a) Experimental Bipods for Browning Automatic Rifle.

(b) New type of quadrant for Machine Guns.

(c) Reduction in number of rounds of small arms ammunition habitually carried by the Infantry Soldier on the march.

(d) Functioning board for instructional purposes to show in detail the mechanical operation of the Browning Machine Gun Caliber .30 are recommended so that they may be available for tests of small arms.

The Combination Grenade

The Board has considered the development of a combination hand and rifle grenade and an improved discharger suitable for firing this grenade and Pyrotechnics as well.

THE MUSICAL STORE

We passed down the West side of Broad Street and upon arriving in front of a certain store with the white terrior cocking his head to one side we heard strains of music issuing therefrom (we mean the store). One selecton being played on a Victrola attracted our attention and we went in to make a further investigation.

We were quickly detected in our entrance and a very courteous gentlemen asked us what he could do for us. We stated that we merely wanted to hear some of the latest music. That we were in our usual state of financial embarrassmnet and could buy nothing. We were led into a small room, the gentleman left us for a few moments to cogitate—and read the lists of new music hanging on the walls—but he was back again and had the Victrola going a long time before we became lonesome.

A number of records were played and after each one appropriate remarks were made by the gentleman in charge. As a final result, when we left the store we had under our arm several records of the latest musical selections which we carried home and enjoyed frequently.

The store we have referenc to is, as you have guessed, Humes Music Co. We have always found this concern, and the individuals connected therewith, very obligating and courteous. We have observed persons from the rural districts go into the store and have a large number of selections played for them without buying and the person who supervised the operation of the Victrolas seemed to take just as much interest in the matter as he would have had he been entertaining a prospective customer who had the word "Buy" written all over his face. Humes Music Co. sell anything musical from a baby grand piano to a whistle. They handle good goods and their prices are reasonable. Besides this they make you "feel at home."

A SENSE OF HUMOR.

An optimist is one who saves all the "lemons" that are handed during the week; and when Sunday comes, makes lemonade with them.

If this provokes a smile, you have a sense of humor; if it does not, something is wrong with you.

It has been an impression amongst many civilians that the soldier who is considered military, is so to the exclusion of all else—even of a sense of humor. And this reputation, if we may call it such, has taken such root that in a great many instances a smile is at a premium. Some have even entirely forgotten how to smile, due to continued lack of practice.

One who possesses a sense of humor is twice blessed—he makes himself happier and radiates joy to those about him. He who knows how to smile is therefore an asset to the world and to himself.

If you have on a grouch, find yourself a corner somewhere, alone, and let it wear off.

Faces have never been known to crack due to smiling.

Look about now, and see how many chronic grouches you notice. When you see one, just remember that there is something radically wrong.

WOULD CHANGE THE PROMOTION LIST

Many Officers Said to Favor Old System Rather Than the Single List

There are indications of a growing discontent in the army with the present system of promotion, which provides that all officers, except the chaplains and those of the medical department, shall be arranged on a single list for promotion. Members of the air service have been seeking to have the law amended to provide for a separate promotion list for aviators, and it will not be surprising if a vigorous attack on the prevailing system comes from other branches.

However, there is nothing at present upon which to base the expectation that the War epartment will include in its recommendations for new army legislation to be taken up by the Sixty-eighth Congress any project relating to promotion.

Recommendations of the chief of the air service as to procurement, promotion and retirement of officers of his branch are before the general staff, and ultimately they will receive the consideration of the Secretary of War. Whether those recommendations receive the approval of the War Department or not, they are destined to reach Congress. If they are not sent to the Capitol with departmental approval, they will get there in another way.

Many officers of the army believe that not only should the air service be given its own promotion list, but also that there should be return by all branches to the former system of promotion on lineal lists in the staff corps and line arms of the military establishment, and the general project for attainment of that result undoubtedly will be discussed in Congress.

Those that want to go back to the old system of separate promotion in the several branches believe that it would restore specialization by retaining officers in their respective arms or staff corps. It would do away with the constant transfer among branches to equalize the numbers of officers in various grades in the several branches, and it would avoid the condition that exists now with a deficiency of colonels and lieutenant colonels in the field artillery and too many in the cavalry, to cite only one example. Three regiments of field artillery now are commanded by colonels from other arms—two detailed and one permanently transferred—and none of them possessing the requisite amount of experience with that branch of the service.—Fifth Corps News.

INVITATION TO PLAY TENNIS

The City of Columbus wants the Army to come closer to its people. They have been very cordial; and advantage should be taken of their kindness. Following is a copy of an invitation:

"The Columbus Young Men's Christion Association is proposing to foster a city-wide tennis tournament beginning on Labor day. The Committee is very desirous that the tennis players of Fort Benning be included in this tournament, therefore I am writing you announcing the event.

In some way, I wish you would give publicity to this matter so that your players will know of the tournament, and if they desire can arrange for entrance. The registration fee of entrance will be 50c, and this should be paid at the Y. M. C. A. in Columbus.

Both singles and doubles will be included in the tournament and appropriate prizes will be given to the successful contestants. We shall hope that Fort Benning will be well represented in this tournament."

CALCULATOR AND THE GREAT DANE

Loud, staccato barks of pleasure and relief greeted the Great Dane as he rambled Sales Commissaryward to renew his enmity with the Fat Butcher. He stopped abruptly in his leisurely jaunt and listened and sniffed to locate from whence came the joyful sounds. Then he struck a lope and rounded the corner at the Department of General Subjects running on two legs.

"Say," he growled as he met Calculator, "why don't you cut that out? First thing you know the Coach will be after you with that Rusty at his heels and then you'll have to pull your freight for help."

"Boy," barked Calc, "don't worry me. I guess I'm about the happiest dawg on this here Post."

"How come," said Great Dane.

"Well, you see it's like this. Last week I thought I was going to die because I might go mad. The Office Dawg of the News heard about it and spread the story around the Post and finally it got to the ears of that fine man, Lieut. Post Veterinarian. He said he had been thinking about me ever since he read that order about rabies and that he was waiting to give me a shot. I might have been wise to what a shot was, having heard my student officer friends cuss about it so last year when they couldn't produce the necessary certificates but I couldn't think about anything but an unsympathetic man at the other end of a Colt's 45. Well I began to dodge everybody who looked like a veterinarian and I even got suspicious of my old friends. One major at headquarters who gave me a nice meal one night made a grab for me when he thought I wasn't looking and it was only by the skin of my teeth that I got away. Another major jumped out of his car on Lumpkin road and tried to chase me but I got away from him. Truly I was living a dog's life and it looked like everybody was against me. I longed for the happy days of Winter when I could flag the narrow gauge train and hop on and get away from my troubles. But, alas, Winter was far away and they were after me. One day, feeling myself in need of nourishment, I approached a back door, not in the cocky manner with which I once went to front doors and imperiously barked for admission but with misgivings in my heart and my tail hanging low. The cook came to the door and I sneaked in. Far different from former times, no plate of nice food was placed before me but instead the doors to the kitchen were closed on me and I was a captive. In about an hour I heard masculine footsteps approaching and a former student officer friend opened the door. He greeted me kindly and I began to feel better. Soon he took me in his arms and carried me out to his car. We finally landed in front of a small building located in a corral. We went in and I knew I was in the presence of the Post Veterinarian. Instead of approaching me with a gun he had a small looking instrument in his hand about as large as a chicken bone. I felt a slight prick in my skin about like the prick made by one of these pesky fleas. Then I was put down and the veterinarian said, 'Well, Calc, old boy, you can go on your way rejoicing now.' Well, I didn't even wait for a ride but I beat it down to the Fat Butcher to tell him about it and he gave me a big bone. Now I'm going to tell Gray Squirrel. Just take it from me, bo, things have certainly brightened for me."

Thus saying he went hopping off while the Great Dane remarked, "The lucky little devil."

No news for the 29th and 24th Infantry have been printed this week. The copy has been set in type; but due to the long list of matter published for the benefit of student officers, it was found that not sufficient room was left for both Infantry Regiments.

Both stories will be saved by the editor and placed in the Special Infantry Anniversary number which follows this issue.

YOU ARMY OFFICERS!

One day, we felt tired and blue and hungry; so we started roaming about town to cheer up. Soft strains of music floated faintly towards our ears; and to the source we directed our steps. The strains grew sweeter as they became more audible—and then the Ralston Hotel loomed up into view. A comfortable easy chair was our next resort; and into it we sank, drinking in the soothing song, at peace with the world.

The music ceased; and since we were newcomers to Columbus, that lonesome feeling got us again. We started to cast around in search of someone with whom we had something in common—when, lo and behold, there in the lobby were Army Officers galore! We met several old acquaintances and sat ourselves down to supper and reminisced.

Music was in the air again; and while listening to the song, our minds traversed the years to the jolly times we had together. By this time, we felt refreshed; that tired and blue feeling entirely disappeared; and our hunger most delightfully satiated by the choice Frenchy dishes. Without the least compunction, we registered at the Ralston—the Army Hotel.

Since the beginning of the Infantry School, the Ralston has been the rendezvous for Army Officers and their families. The management caters to the Army. We highly recommend it for its pleasantness of atmosphere, good food, reasonable prices, courteous service and its neatness and up-to-dateness.

Incoming officers will find the special Ralston Hotel bus meeting every train. Just call for Ralston and "Jerry" will 'smash your baggage' and make sure to collect his tip.

THE THIRD INFANTRY

Ice-Hockey, as played outdoors by the 3rd Infantry at Fort Snelling, Minnesota.

United States. The Third Infantry was organized in 1784, seven years prior to the formation of any other Infantry regiment, under a resolve of Congress, June 3, 1784. In 1789, it was designated as the regiment of Infantry; as the First Infantry upon the organization of another regiment in 1791; as the Infantry of the First Sub-Legion in 1792; and again as the First Infantry in 1796. In 1815 it was consolidated with the Fifth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth, and Twenty-eighth regiments and its designation was changed to the Third Infantry and has so remained until the present time.

On September 11, 1792, Major General Anthony Wayne, Commander-in-Chief, gave each sub-legion a distinctive mark, that of the present Third Infantry being: "Yellow bindings to their caps, yellow plumes and black hair." The regimental colors today are buff and black, and the regiment's distinctive insignia is known as the "Buff Strap," which consists of a black strap, one half inch in width, with one fourth inch buff strap interwoven. The insignia is worn with the service coat and overcoat by passing it under the strap on the shoulder of the coat and around the sleeve, following the junction of the sleeve and the body of the coat, where it is fastened.

The regiment served with distinction in every war, except the World War, and was one of the pioneers in subdueing the Indians and opening up the great west. In 1794, under "Mad" Anthony Wayne, the Third campaigned against the Indians on the Northwest frontier, and participated in the battle of Fort Recovery, Ohio, June 30, 1794.

During the war of 1812 the headquarters of the regiment was at New Orleans in the 7th Military District It later took active part in the campaign against the Creek Indians, beginning with the massacre of Fort Mims, August 30, 1813, and ending with the bloody battle of Horse Shoe Bend, March 25, 1814, where General Jackson proved his worth as a military leader and at the same time broke the power of the Creeks.

The next 12 years saw the Third Infantry garrisoning posts along the frontier. Later, it participated in the Indian wars in Florida, and many of its officers were brevetted for gallant service. The Third constructed two of our present army posts, Jefferson Barracks in 1826 and Fort Leavenworth in 1827. The Indian Territory was the scene of the regiment's activity from 1831 to 1841, where they were kept busy in overcoming the Choctaw Indians.

Sept. 21st is Organization Day

The Third Infantry engaged with the Mexicans on May 8 and 9, 1846, at the battles of Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma, and later added the following battles to its growing list: Vera Cruz, Monterey, Cerro Gordo, Plan del Rio, San Antonio, Contreras. Churubusco. Chapultepec and Mexico City. In the battle of Monterey, September 21, 1846, it was the Third Infantry that penetrated the city by piercing the walls of buildings. Because of this exploit, September 21 has become the "Organization Day" of the regiment.

In the battle leading up to the capture of Mexico City, General Twigg's division, of which the Third Infantry formed a part, was given the task of capturing the citadel; and in the assault upon this position the gallant "Buff Stocks" a name by which the regiment was universally known on account of its clean, soldierly appearance at all times, gained additional fame. General Scott's own words tell the best story of the assault: "Finally, twenty minutes after the tete de pont had been carried by Worth and Pillow, and at the end of a desperate conflict of two hours and a half, the church or convent—the citadel of the strong line of defense along the rivulet of Churubusco, yielded to Twigg's division and threw out on all sides signals of surrender. The white flags, however, were not exhibited until the moment when the Third Infantry, under Captain Alexander, had cleared the way by fire and bayonet, and had entered the works. Captains J. M. Smith and O. L. Shepherd, both of that regiment, with their companies, had the glory of leading the assault. The former received the surrender, and Captain Alexander instantly hung out from the balcony the colors of the gallant Third."

The Mexican officer in command at this point in his report states: "The first to present himself upon the parapet was the valiant Captain J. M. Smith, of the Third Infantry, who gave an example of valor to many following him; and no less magnanimous than daring, for scarcely had he ascertained that now, on our part, no resistance was made, than he showed a white flag."

Hats off to "The Old Guard."

Because of her gallant part in the capture of Mexico City, the Third Infantry was assigned by General Scott to head the triumphant army as it entered Mexico City on the morning of September 14, 1847; and as the regiment passed in review, General Scott turned to his staff and said: "Gentlemen, take off your hats to the Old Guard of the Army."

And also, because of a special commendation for brilliant work with the bayonet, the regiment today always marches in review with bayonets fixed.

There is now in possession of the regiment, a Drum Major's baton, presented to it by its old brigade commander, General Persifer F. Smith, following the capture of Mexico City. The wooden part of the baton is the upper part of the flag staff of the capitol, or national palace, of Mexico, and the metal portion is made of Mexican silver. It bears an appropriate inscription in which is recorded the story of the Third Infantry's historical entry into Mexico City.

The baton, known to the regiment as the "Buff Stick," is a much coveted prize in the Third Infantry and the competition between companies for its possession is keen at all times. It is awarded monthly to the company which, during the preceding month, "has maintained the highest standard in formations, ceremonies, equipment, uniform and personal appearance, and military bearing of its members."

The first sergeant of the companies which has possession of the "Buff Stock" carries it at all ceremonies which the company attends, and the company is placed on the right of the line. The bearer of the "Buff Stock" marches one pace to the left of the company commander.

"An Incomparable Body of Infantry"

The Third Infantry was in action thruout the Civil War, participating in the battle of Bull Run, Gains Mill, Malvern Hill, the second Bull Run, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, and Appomatox Court House. After the battle of Bull Run, General Porter commended the Third Infantry as follows: "This small but incomparable body of Infantry by its gallant conduct in this first great battle of the war, its unflinching steadfastness and perfect order in covering the flight of the panic stricken army, saved the Union Army and was but a presage of that which was to distinguish it thruout the war."

Following the battle of Bull Run the Third Infantry was reviewed in Washington by President Lincoln and General McDowell. As they rode down the line, General McDowell drew rein in front of the colors and said: "Mr. President, these are the men who saved your army at Bull Run." The President, looking up and down the line, replied: "Yes, I have heard of them."

In the Spanish-American War the Third Infantry participated in the battle of El Caney and the final siege and capture of Santiago. During the Philippine Insurrection which followed the Third Infantry added 50 engagements to its list.

In 1917 the Machine Gun Company and one troop of Cavalry crossed the Rio Grande in pursuit of bandits who had raided the Indio Ranch, 18 miles below Earle Pass, Texas. They engaged the bandits 20 miles south of the border, in Mexico, and killed 36, without any casualties to themselves.

Back at Fort Snelling.

The Third Infantry returned to Ft. Snelling, Minn. its present and home station, in 1921, absorbed a dozen officers and 150 men of the 49th Infantry and began building, under the guiding hand of Colonel A. W. Bjornstad, the present highly efficient organization which has passed the inspections of high ranking officers with colors flying. Said General W. A. Holbrook, Chief of Cavalry, in 1922: "It (The Third Infantry) isn't a fair sample; it's a top-notcher." The many inspections of the Third Infantry during 1922 and 1923, by War Department and Corps Area officials, and the Corps Area Commander, have resulted in something never heretofore witnessed in our army. It is this: each of these inspectors and they total about 12) has stated officially, concerning the Third Infantry and Ft. Snelling: "It is the best I have seen during my service," or words of exactly that purport.

So the Third Infantry is a "top-notcher" and yet it strives constantly to be better. With its creditable history behind it, a brief resume of which has already been given, the personnel, has a well defined goal. The regiment reached full strength shortly after restored to its place as a combat regiment. Regiments are obtained for the Third Infantry, not by picturing an easy, idle life for the soldier, but by telling them that they will have to work and work hard, but that in so doing, their rewards are the greater.

The Training Program, designed and perfected by Colonel Bjornstad, leaves no loop hole for inefficiency in any subject which the soldier should know. Requirements for officers, sergeants, corporals, and privates are proportionate. A certain standard is required of each member of the regiment. That standard is often exceeded, but nothing less will do. Frequent and regularly scheduled training inspections take care of all details and insure the standard.

Sports, both summer and winter, are divided into two classes, compulsory and voluntary. Every man must select one sport during each season, which then becomes compulsory for him, while he may engage in as many voluntary games as time permits. Baseball, track, hand ball, and trap ball occupy the summer period with a fullness; while the winter season insures all the thrills of winter sports. Ice hockey, skiing, curling, skating and basketball, with company teams competing for valuable cups, keep the interest of every man thoroughly alive.

Winter Training Activities.

No does the training of the regiment lag because the snow flies. The regiment is completely equipped with snow shoes and skiis. One Pounders, Stokes Mortars and machine guns are mounted on sleds and the training continues at the same pace as when the snow is gone. The Commanding Officer's conception of a regiment stationed in this section of the country is that it should be able to maneuver and fight at any season of the year. The Third Infantry can and does maneuver. The regiment can, without doubt, move faster over the snow covered surface of the state than any other body of men in Minnesota.

The spirit de corps of the Third Infantry is par excellence. It is a spirit which has been 140 years in the making. Every man in the regiment, from the Commanding Officer to the newest recruit, is imbued with it; it can't be escaped. It is manifested thru the personal appearance of the men, in and out of ranks, by their snap and precision at drill and parades and by their avidity for schoaling. It is a tailor-made regiment, with its own uniform factory and leather factory. It finds its living embodiment in the present Commanding Officer, Colonel Bjornstad, who represents to the Officers and men of the regiment the highest example of soldier appearance, smartness, and square dealing. What Colonel Bjornstad desires done, is done, not as a result of his orders, but because no officer or enlisted man would violate the spirit of the Third Infantry.

Its spirit is as fine today as it was in April, 1861, when the Third Infantry, in evacuating Texas, passed by way of San Antonio. As the mighty war clouds were gathering and gradually lowering, there was apprehension among some officers of the army that there might be trouble in marching through San Antonio, some advising that the regiment go around the town. "However, the old regiment was not in the habit of sneaking around by the by-ways when the main road was open." A council of the ofifcers was called and without a dissenting voice, it was determined "that all the trucks and boxes should be opened, and full dress uniforms gotten out and put on, band instruments unpacked, and the regimental flags removed from their cases." It is recounted in the regimental history that the leeward side of each wagon became an extemporized dressing room. Later the regiment entered and passed through the town with "colors flying, band playing, drum major nearly turning himself inside out with the baton, and every man and officer as fine as brass and bullion could make him."

That same spirit pervades the Third Infantry today.

ARMY REMOUNT SERVICE PRESENTED WITH THIRTY-SIX THOROUGHBRED HORSES

M. Baldwin, owner of the Santa Anita ranch, in southern California, and daughter of the late "Lucky" Baldwin, has presented thirty-six thoroughbred horses to the Army. This is in addition to a gift of thirteen thoroughbred stallions and mares last spring.

These animals consist of one thoroughbred stallion, eleven thoroughbred mares; three thoroughbred fillies; eleven thoroughbred yearlings; and ten thoroughbred weanling colts. All of them are now on the way to the Quartermaster Branch Intermediate Depot, at Fort Reno, Oklahoma; where they will prove a valuable addition to the stock which is being bred with the idea of improving the quality of light horses as used by farmers and breeders thruout the United States.

The Office of the Quartermaster General has expressed itself as being highly pleased at this new indication of the increasing interest of stock raisers in the horse-breeding activities of the Army.

INTERNATIONAL POLO

Announcement that Major General Robert Lee Bullard would act as manager of the United States Army polo team in its matches with the British Army polo team definitely establishes the first international military polo matches ever held and a sporting event of first magnitude.

That the British attach equal importance to this sporting venture is attested by the fact that they have designated a lieutenant general of the British army to come over as manager of their polo team. He is no less a distinguished person than Sir Beauvoir de Lisle, K. C. B., K. C. M. G., D. S. O., who is the senior British army officer enrolled in the Hurlingham Polo club.

In the correspondence arranging the matches, between General Pershing and the General, The Earl of Cavan, Chief of Staff of the British Army, the desire to sacrifice every other consideration, if need be, for pure sportsmanship was particularly emphasized. In accepting General Pershing's invitation to send over a team Lord Cavan said in part: "I am anxious that this matter should set an example to all the world for clean sportmanship. I therefore, strongly advocate (1) that the teams be strictly confined to officers on the active list of our regular forces, and (2) that the ponies should be the bona fide property of the officer on the active list of the Regular Army, or the actual property of the War Department. This I think should preclude any borrowing or temporary acquiring of international ponies by either side. What we both want I am sure is a fair and square match between our respective Army officers with their own resources. We all very deeply appreciate the generosity of your offer, and keenly welcome such an opportunity of inaugurating under your lead a competition that should tend to make our respective soldiers even more friendly and intimate than they are already."

A great deal besides the outcome of a polo match will be in the minds of the players and spectators when the British and American Army teams fight it out for the military championship of the world at Meadowbrook next September. This match, the first international Army polo tournament ever played in the United States, is hoped by American enthusiasts to be the first of an annual series. Such a match each year would become as classic as any sporting event in the world.

Each team wants to win and will put forth its best efforts to do so but the winning of the match and the title that goes with it is but incidental. No matter which colors are victorious, an exhibiton of clean sportsmanship and of keen and friendly competition between soldiers playing a real warriors' game will have taken place that will go far towards increasing the mutual respect, admiration and intimate friendship which exists between the two forces.—U. S. Army Recruiting News.

ARMY FOUR DEFEATS BRYN MAWR BY 8-2

Naragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 13.—In a second round match at the Point Judith Country Club this afternoon for the twelve-goal championship the Junior United States Army team defeated Bryn Mawr by 8 to 2.

The Army team gained an advance almost at the start when four minutes after the beginning of play in the first period Lieutenant Donaldson scored, getting the ball on the throw. In another flash of brilliant play later in the period he scored again.

The Army four scored in every period thereafter except in the fourth, when Bryn Mawr showed its best defensive play of the match. The only tallies for Bryn Mawr were scored by Charles Leonard and J. W. Converse.

In an accident toward the end of the game, W. P. Hurlburt's mount broke a leg. It was the second pony he has lost this season.

The line-up:

|---|---|
| U. S. Army (8) | |
| Lt. T. Q. Donaldson | 1 |
| Lt. C. C. Jadwin | 2 |
| Maj. T. Allen | 3 |
| Maj. R. E. D. Hoyle | Back |
| Bryan Mawr (2) | |
| Julian B. Huff | 1 |
| C. R. Leonard | 2 |
| J. W. Converse | 3 |
| W. P. Hurlburt | Back |

Goals earned—By Army 8, by handicap 0; total 8. By Bryn Mawr 2, by handicap 0; total 2.

Individual goals—Donaldson (4), Jadwin (3), Allen, Leonard, Converse.

Referee—Gerald D. Moppey.

PENLLYN QUARTET WINS POLO TITLE

Defeats Army Second Team In Twelve Goal Event At Narragansett

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 16.—The Penllyn polo team won the twelve goal championship tournament here today when the Philadelphia quartet defeated the Army second team in a lively contest, 8 goals to 6. In the junior tourney the Army's first junior team triumphed over the Orange County four, 13 goals to 7.

For a time it appeared that the Army might triumph, but so clever was the team play of Penllyn, so good was the stick work and so strong the rallying power that although the score was even a half time and again later in the game the Quakers were the stronger finishers and were entitled to victory.

In the junior event the Army with its new formation accomplished their goal in that the soldiers put the pressure on their foemen from the sound of the first gong, piled up the score and in some cases overmatched the Orange County mounts.

It was plain that the men from Arden were a little short of work and shy of the necessary combination play. The individual brilliance to make a close fight of it was in evidence from time to time and toward the close the soldiers were not riding as hard or hitting as clearly as in the early stages, but the finding of positions was not lacking and it was on this rock that the wave of the Orange attack and defense broke. These two critical battles drew the largest crowd of the season.

The lineups:

Penllyn vs. Army

A BADGE FOR NATIONAL SERVICE

The War Department desires to obtain a design of a button, badge or suitable device for wear with civilian clothing to be a symbol of attainment of three distinct grades of progress in training undergone in the military forces, namely—Private, Non-commissioned officer, Officer.

The specifications for grades will be published later.

Buttons may be different for each grade or all of the same design and distinguished by being bronze, silver and gold, or otherwise.

The design may be a face, figure, or a symbol, allegorical or direct. The design should be of a civic rather than a militaristic significance.

The War Department desires to secure designs from persons of talent in such matters. Suitable reimbursement will be made for the design adopted.

SEBUKATY LOSES AT FT. BRAGG

Puts Up Good Fight; Highly Commended.

The following extracts from the Fayetteville (N. C.) Observer describe the fight last Friday, the 17th, between Sebukaty, middleweight champion of the Fourth Corps Area and Numbers, the Fort Bragg crack middleweight:

"King Numorovich!

"The days of King Tut have about passed and a new potentate arises to demand the full blast of the spotlight. At least, insofar as Fort Bragg is concerned this may be true. If this community were suddenly to establish a monarchy, Numorovich, or Kid Numbers to make it easier, would certainly be crowned king. Last night he was "crowned" any number of times by Kid Subby, middleweight champion of the Fourth Corps Area, and idol of the Doughboy fans at Fort Benning, Ga. Seven hundred wild-eyed fans exhorted the faithful Numbers to stay with the fighting infantry school champion for the full eight rounds, nobody seeming to have the temerity of asking for a victory. Nobody but a superman could seemingly have withstood those left hand blows landed at most at will by the husky Subby in the first four rounds. Numbers absorbed everything Subby had and kept peppering away with a left jab, ignoring his right completely.

After the fourth round, Numbers responded to the appeal of his seconds and started to use a wicked right cross. It could be seen that Subby was feeling the effects of the practice. The Benning scrapper coaxed the 17th Field Artilleryman into close quarters time and again and rocked him with a left and right barrage that seemed destined to speedily put the local man away. Beginning with the fifth round the tide turned and Numbers' chances began to improve. The eighth and last round was the most exciting event ever seen on the local stage, to be conservative. With the fight safely won on points by a tremendous margin, Kid Subby refused to dance the three minutes away and went after Numbers with the apparent determination of putting him out of the way. Numbers kept as cool as a cucumber and gave back as much and more. With a minute to go he socked that right cross to Subby's jaw and sent him groggy to the ropes. Three times in the next few seconds Subby flopped to the door. If he could only stand on his feet for 20 seconds more the fight would be his. Numbers, sensing the situation followed up and for the fourth time dropped Subby. This time the stocky champion failed to arise at the count of 10 and had to be carried from the ring. The bout was over with but five seconds to go before the final bell. Numbers is a hero today and is mighty proud of a cauliflower ear, his first.

We can not blame Fort Bragg for being elated over the outcome of this bout. Last year in the Fourth Corps Area tournament their man did not put up much of a showing against Sebukaty and the Bragg boxing team as a whole carried off few honors. We congratulate Fort Bragg on the splendid showing made by Numbers in his fight with Sebukaty and we predict that when these two men meet again in the Fourth Corps Area Tournament this year that there will be a real fight.

Notwithstanding the fact that Sebukaty lost his bout last Friday night his reputaion as a clean figher who plays the game and gives the fans their due share of excitement has not been hurt. In this connection extracts from a letter from the Recreation Officer, Fort Bragg, are printed herewith.

"Sgt. Sebukaty is to be commended for the splendid impression made here. I feel safe in declaring that his general attitude and deportment was a boost for the Infantry. He made a number of friends before the bout and about 500 more during the match. What kept our hero Kid Numbers (Formerly Pvt. John Numorovich) on his feet the first five rounds is more than one can tell. We are still talking about those smashing lefts. As Sgt. Sebukaty told me afterward, his artillery opponent is a greatly improved boxer. We think we have a good chance in the tournament this year, but regret to hear that our Benning friends of 1922 will not be in the race."

COLUMBUS OFFERS PRIVILEGES OF PUBLIC LIBRARY

Officers And Enlisted Men And Families Invited To Make Visit

As further evidence of the cordial relations existing between the civilian and military personnel of this vicinity an invitation has been issued by the Superintendent of Public Schools of Columbus to the officers and enlisted men of this command, with their families, to make use of the Public Library in Columbus.

The following notice to this effect has been received by the News:

"The Officers and Enlisted men of Fort Benning, and the wives and children of these, are invited to share with the citizens of Columbus all of the privileges which the Public Library has to offer. The book collection of this library, built up for the pleasure and profit of the general reader, very often meets satisfactorily the need of the student of special subjects as well.

The library is open every day from 9 a. m. until 7 p. m. except on Sunday, when the hours are 3 p. m. to 6 p. m. Only on December 25th is this institution closed all day to the public.

The children's room is an unusually beautiful one and particular attention is given the reading of young people."

ENROLLMENT OF APPLICANTS FOR CITIZENS' MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

Congress appropriated $2,000,000 for the purpose of training camps this year. Based upon the estimated cost of the training per individual it was calculated that the above amount would provide training for slightly over 28,000. However, in view of the importance of, and the demand for this training, the War Department has undertaken by means of enforced economy to stretch the above figure to 30,000.

Up to the close of business on Saturday last, the accepted applicants totaled 34,500.

The demand among the youth of the country for this training appears to have been greatest in the Fourth, Fifth and Second Corps Areas. The Fourth Corps Area includes those states south of Virginia and Kentucky, and east of the Mississippi, and in addition thereto, the State of Louisiana. The Fifth Corps Area comprises Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, and Kentucky, while the Second Corps Area is made up of New York, New Jersey and Delaware. The applicants in those three Corps Areas alone total 15,000 or approximately 50 per cent of the total number for which Congress made appropriation.

The demand for training was smallest in the First Corps Area, which is made up of the New England States.

Finance Detachment Notes

Things are still humming in the Finance Office which is ample proof that we are still on the job.

Mr. Robert Casper, formerly of Ft. Benning, Ga., was a pleasant visitor to the Detachment Sunday afternoon.

We wonder why Tillerson insists on touring Columbus with a U-drive-it every time he goes to town. Watson says it is for the sole purpose of showing his bald head.

Mrs. Robert Kenney, wife of our 'Top-Hick,' is improving after several days of illness. The detachment wishes her a speedy recovery.

The best stunt in the office for some time was pulled by Barker last week when he became endowed with the idea of giving 132 miles from Camp Benning to Ft. Benning in figuring the final pay of a soldier. We always knew George had a warm spot in his heart for the enlisted men.

"Al" White of this office was the glad recipient of an invitation out to dinner last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Porters of Columbus, Ga. After dinner "Al" had the pleasure of showing the Camp to Mrs. Porter as seen by lamp-light.

Who is the happiest man in the detachment? Stokes with his dog Garlic. Stokes can be seen any evening, with his dawg Garlic, strolling around the reservation in happy anticipation of the time when he can once more get out his trusty rifle and hunt for the birds that he never finds.

LETTER FROM GEN. GOURAUD

Conveys Expressions of Gratitude to Commanding Officer and Other Officers

The following letter from General Gouraud, French Army, has been received by General Gordon and is published herewith:

American Car and Foundry Co.
165 Broadway, New York.

On Board General Gouraud's Private Car "Berwick" Enroute, Aug. 5, 1923.

Brig. Gen. Gordon,
Commanding Officer, Inf. School,
Fort Benning, Ga.

My dear Gen. Gordon—I wish to take the first opportunity of thanking you for your courtesy in calling on me while my train was passing through Columbus, Georgia. This thoughtful attention was appreciated deeply by me.

Will you also convey my expression of gratitude to the officers who accompanied you—Maj. Dinsmore, Capt. Allen and Lieut. Honnen.

Please accept my appreciation for the 1923 Year Book of Fort Benning, which I look forward to reading with much interest.

I hope to have the pleasure of seeing you some time in the future.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) GOURAUD.
